12 Are Killed as Oregon Bus Skids off Road

30 Injured as Vehicle Hits Ice and Plunges Down Embankment

ROUGE RIVER, Ore. (UPI) — Twelve people were killed and an estimated 30 were hurt early today when a Greyhound bus skidded off icy Interstate Highway 5 and plunged down an embankment.

Nine were killed outright and three persons died later in a hospital. The Portland to San Francisco bus was traveling southbound through a cold rain when it left the road between Rouge River and Medford in southern Oregon shortly after midnight. It wound up 50 feet from the road upside down.

When police arrived on the scene, they found nine bodies, including the corpse of one woman pinned beneath the vehicle.

Ambulance companies from Grants Pass, Medford and Ashland took the injured to hospitals in surrounding communities. Private cars and taxis helped out.

A spokesman at the Rogue Valley Memorial Hospital reported that "18 to 20" injured had arrived from the crash. The Sacred Heart Hospital in Medford and the Josephine General at Grants Pass reported 11 more injured.

DRIVER HURT

Among the injured at Sacred Heart was driver Joseph Bailey of Battleground, Wash. The extent of his injuries were not revealed, pending X-rays.

Police said the accident was the worst of a chain of mishaps that occurred on the "black ice," created when rain falls and partially freezes on the highway.

State patrol officer Charles Conway said when he arrived shortly before 1 a.m., "injured were lying in the bus, outside the bus and on the highway. Ambulances were taking them away as fast as they could."

"The civil defense had set up a spotlight and the beam cut through the rain. This was really a nasty one — the worst traffic accident I ever saw. In fact, it looked more like a plane crash."

Killed in Viet Combat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department reported yesterday that, as of late Monday, a total of 1,546 Americans had been killed in combat in the Vietnamese war.

Jesus Accepted His 'Yoke' to Serve

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A divine mandate rested on the child born in Bethlehem, and when the hour came, he shouldered it. The following relies primarily on his own statements about it, made later in his life. This is the last of a five-part Christmas series about the hidden years of Jesus.)

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

There is no way of determining when he came to know it, or how. There is no way of finding out whether the knowledge came to him instantaneously or gradually, or what particular circumstances or event may have disclosed it.

But it imbued the young man of Nazareth. "...there is another who bears witness to me."

"The details of that realization are deeply inaccessible. But at some point, he recognized it. There came a day, and He was certain. Sometime before Jesus reached his finished manhood, He knew."

"The Father is in me and I am in the Father. ...I came not of my own accord, but He sent me."

It was a stunningly awesome fate to confront.

CANCELED SELF

"My yoke," he would call it. It was as if He had been made both sovereign and servant at the same time, both everything and nothing. He cancelled out himself. "I seek not my own will, but the will of Him who sent me."

Every youth, as he matures, passes through the strained turmoil of discovering his own individuality, of peering hard at himself with that new, critical faculty, as if observed from outside himself, judging his own person.

The sounder the man, the more he begins to know what and who he is and where he is going, even if only dimly. Normally, even the best version remains partial.

But in one case it was complete — in the complete man. That did not make the going easy, only sure. The prospect, considering the character of men about Him, was plainly excruciating.

"The Son of Man will suffer at their hands."

In Christian belief, Jesus is considered fully human, subject to the conditions of finite existence, sharing men's nature, needs, delights and pain, but also a perfect projection of God — the divine functioning flawlessly in the flesh.

"I and the Father are one."

At some point before Jesus took up his predestined vocation, the man who had reared Him as an earthly father died. Old Joseph didn't live to see the lightning impact of the life of the young one whom he had guarded so fiercely.

Legend says Joseph lived to 111, and describes the deathbed scene at the family's meager abode in Nazareth. Mary sat at his feet and Jesus at his head.

LAST REQUEST

"The old carpenter clutched the youth's hand. 'I requested thee, O my beloved son, to be quiet in all things.' He apologized for once pulling Jesus' ear in shushing him. Jesus wept. Mary stroked her husband's feet and legs, which grew cold."

After washing and anointing the body, they buried him there in the hills of Galilee, it is related. Jesus, who had tolled with him there in the troops of the U.S. Army 1st Division.

Crowds Pack Saigon Streets

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A Christmas Eve truce declared by both the allied armed forces and the insurgent Communist Viet Cong appeared tonight to have stilled the guns, the terror and the slaughter that has tortured South Viet Nam for years.

The American-South Vietnamese decision to stop all offensive action for 30 hours went into effect at 6 p.m. and the Viet Cong seemed to have been faithful to their announced promise of a 12-hour truce as of 7 p.m.

The cease-fire in the embattled country turned at least some of it back to the little people.

Most noticeable was the reaction in Saigon, the capital. The streets were a mass of humanity.

People who had not been on these streets perhaps for months were out in force with their children.

The three million population of Saigon strode out in confidence as though all of them had heard directly about the truce.

The thousands of Americans in Saigon were, on the other hand, confined to their billets until dawn Christmas Day under a curfew imposed Dec. 18.

The curfew will be lifted at 6 a.m. Saturday.

RELIEVED ATMOSPHERE

The atmosphere was electric, but loaded with a sense of relief.

From the jungles and the outposts, reports filtering into Saigon indicated that the cease-fire was just that.

From An Khe, where the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airborne, Division is deployed, Associated Press correspondent Bob Poos reported "All's quiet."

From Da Nang on the northern coast where the Marines are based in strength, the word was of holiday feasting—turkey or baked Virginia ham after shrimp cocktails and winding up with mince or pumpkin pie.

The truce orders went to infantrymen in the jungles, to Air Force units that had been striking in both North and South Viet Nam and to 7th Fleet carriers plying the South China Sea in support of the ballooning war effort.

Forecaster's Gift to Area: Snow on Way

Santa better be wearing snowshoes with his traditional apparel when he arrives in the Pontiac area late tonight.

The weatherman predicts precipitation conducive to rapid transit from the North Pole, Santa-style.

It will be a white Christmas, with 1 to 3 inches of snow predicted in the Pontiac area tonight and early Saturday. The less tonight will be in the 30s and it will be windy.

Heavy snow warnings were issued at noon today for the Upper Peninsula and northern half of the Lower Peninsula, where 3 to 7 inches is expected by morning.

Tomorrow will be windy and colder in the Pontiac area. The high will be in the 20s.

Clearing weather is forecast for Sunday with colder temperatures predicted.

Winds this morning were southerly to southwesterly at 20 to 40 miles an hour. Becoming southeasterly to easterly this afternoon, they will be northerly to northeasterly tonight and to morrow.

The low mercury reading this morning was 43. At 2 p.m. it was a balmy 45 in downtown Pontiac.

Two Flint Men Killed on Dixie

Car Rips Into Utility Pole in Holly Twp.

Two Flint men were killed last night when their car hurtled out of control on Dixie Highway near Tripp, in Holly Township, and ripped into a utility pole in front of Mt. Holly Ski Lodge.

Dead are Kenneth D. Hodges, 23, driver of the car, and Dale J. Huneccutt, 24.

Oakland County Sheriff's deputies said the car skidded and rolled 435 feet after leaving the road at an estimated 90 miles an hour.

Both men were thrown from the car. Hodges suffered a skull fracture and Huneccutt, internal injuries.

They were dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital shortly after 10 p.m.

Born and raised in the Federal Steel Corp., 9615 Dixie Highway, Springfield Township, and were apparently on their way home, according to deputies.

A witness told deputies the Hodges car had passed him at a high rate of speed shortly before going out of control.

Expect Injury, Accident Totals to Set New State Record in '65

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan's fourth straight year's 1965 traffic death toll and were 11.8 per cent won't set a record, but the 1965 above last year's 284,446.

Injury and accident totals will hit a new high, State Police predicted Thursday.

In a year-end report, Col. Frederick Davids, State Police director, said an estimated 2,100 persons will have died on Michigan highways in 1965—fourth worst record in 33 years of record keeping.

The number of injuries will reach 137,000 and the number of accidents 118,000, and the year's combined casualties—deaths and injuries—will set a record, Davids said.

He said there still is a chance that, when all reports are in, deaths will have surpassed last year's 2,120 total.

WORSE YEARS

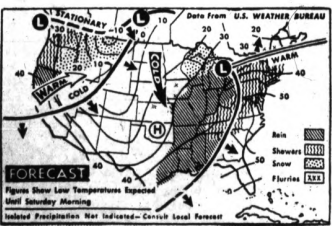

Worst year ever was 1937, with 2,175 deaths, and 1941 had 2,133.

Injuries in Michigan rose for the seventh straight year. Last year's 8.6 per cent above last year's 144,623. Accidents in-

Christmas Truce Stalls Viet Guns

The allied cease-fire started, until 7 a.m. Saturday, 17 hours before the U.S.-South Vietnamese truce period ends.

The Viet Cong had offered their 12-hour truce in a broadcast Dec. 7. The Americans and the South Vietnamese countered with their longer cease-fire order earlier this week.

It remained to be seen if the truce will work. But around the world there were expressions of hope that it would be extended after Christmas and would pave the way to peace negotiations.

ON THE ALERT

All American and allied units were on the alert and had orders to react sharply in self defense.

The American cease-fire was confined only to a piece of the front line against the North Vietnamese offensive actions.

Disengagements from conflict or defense against any obvious threat were clearly within the discretion of field commanders obliged to protect and preserve their men.

All branches of the allied forces were kept up, however, to observe what happens at the end of the Viet Cong moratorium while the American truce still was to be in effect for another 17 hours.

QUICK DECISIONS

Officials conceded this might call for some split-second hairline decisions.

As of midnight Christmas, however, the U.S. forces will be free to resume "normal operations," a senior Army spokesman said.

"We shall resume normal operations at 2400 hours Dec. 25 unless we are forced to do so before that," the officer said.

While the Communists repeated their announcement of a 12-hour truce, neither North Viet Nam's Hanoi radio nor the Viet Cong radio made any mention of the longer period proclaimed by the other side.

EXPECT OBSERVANCE

U.S. officials in Washington expected the truce to hold for the first 12 hours. They hoped the Communists would prolong it until Christmas midnight. But they believed the war would resume in full violence after that.

Officials said the 24 hours leading up to the truce hour was as bloody as ever.

U.S. B52s from Guam dropped their bombloads at Saigon, continuing the softening up of suspected Viet Cong hideouts.

Communists guerrillas launched a heavy mortar attack during the night against Laos, about 30 miles south of Da Nang, and overran two of its outlying posts. They inflicted heavy casualties on the defenders, but the main post held out.

South Vietnamese officers reported 100 Viet Cong bodies in the area after artillery and planes came to the aid of the post. The Viet Cong were reported withdrawing at daybreak.

Crash Hospitalizes Pontiac Woman

A 57-year-old Pontiac woman reported in fair condition at Pontiac General Hospital with injuries suffered in a three-car, rear-end collision yesterday on Cooley Lake Road.

Mrs. Lloyd G. Acord of 721 Emerson was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, reported 100 Viet Cong bodies in the area after artillery and planes came to the aid of the post. The Viet Cong were reported withdrawing at daybreak.

Teen Listed 'Fair' After Commerce Auto Accident

Richard E. Sharp, 18, of Detroit was hospitalized yesterday after receiving internal injuries in an accident on Gilegory in Commerce Township.

He is reported in fair condition at Pontiac General Hospital.

Oakland County sheriff's deputies said Sharp's car went out of control on a curve one mile east of Witom Road.

Two passengers in the car received minor injuries.

RIVER RIPS OUT BRIDGE — The swollen Rillito River left only a piece of railing and a cable where a bridge had stood after sweeping past Tucson yesterday. After several days of rain and snow, rivers in Arizona left roads and farmlands flooded and filled reservoirs to capacity. The residents of several communities were forced to take emergency measures.

woodworking lean-to, now faced His own calling.

Aware of the pattern of his growing up, He later — in talking to the apostle Peter — cited the curious changing outlook of that progression into responsible manhood:

"...when you were young you guided yourself and walked where you would; but when you are old, you will stretch out your hand, and another will guide you and carry you where you do not wish to go."

FULFILLED DUTY

After Joseph's death, Jesus still had to provide for His mother, a duty He fulfilled until His own death. When He turned the task over to an apostle and a man, John, but He also had to set His own course.

Jesus, as He entered manhood, spent much time alone in prayer, apart from the fractious rabble. It may have been in this, in part, that caused Nazareth neighbors to start looking on this once-favored youth as an odd, disturbing

Also, in the practicing Jewish tradition, in which He was raised, young men were supposed to marry by about 18. Not to do so was considered peculiar. "Cursed the man who, at 20 was not married," the saying went.

But He grew older, 24, and was up to Him, as man, to marry. Although women ultimately proved to be among His most loyal, unflinching friends in crisis, He went His solitary way bearing that primordial, prodigious call: "Before Abraham was, I am."

LOVELY PATH

It was as if He were totally at home in this world, loving its beauty and feeling its agonies yet also bearing a universal embrace. It was a lonely path. "No one knows the Son except the Father, and no one knows the Father except the Son."

Yet, no matter how harsh the rejections and blindness, "He who has sent Me is with Me. He has not left Me alone."

It was up to Him, as man, to manifest in natural terms which man understood the supernatural concern they did not understand.

"I will make it known, that the love with which Thou hast loved Me may be in them, and in I am." That passion glorified, yet effaced Him. "Not my will, but Thine."

Strangely, in receiving "all authority," He gave up all of Himself. "He who believes in Me believes not in me, but in Him who sent Me... My teaching is not mine, but His..."

PRIDE SPURNED

More than any descriptive words, however, it was His behavior that distinguished Him. He spurned pride, the will-to-power. This singular difference was dramatized in His temptations by the Devil before His ministry began.

An entire Indian community of 150 persons was evacuated.

Heavy sandbag dikes were in place at both towns, reducing damage.

A new crest of the Gila River at its highest since 1941, was a mile wide as it flowed from western New Mexico. An earlier crest, more than four feet above the flood stage, passed by the towns of Clifton and Safford before receding.

Some of the sewage flowed into the Gila River. Health officials, warning it would seep into wells, urged families along the river to boil their drinking water.

The Rillito cut away two miles of the Tucson sewer system, pouring an estimated five million gallons of sewage into the river in 24 hours.

IS ANNOYED

"The Spirit of the Lord is upon me," He said, "because He has anointed me to preach good news to the poor... to proclaim release to the captives... to set at liberty those who are oppressed, to proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord."

They ran Him out of town. So began the public life of the babe of Bethlehem — the true man, the "man for others."

The Christmas spirit brought relief to some prisoners in several countries including France, South Korea and Venezuela where sentences were commuted or reduced.

Fire officials said none of the more than 40 persons who lived in the three buildings would be able to return home today because of fire, smoke, or water damage.

Johnsons' Holiday Traditional

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson, still ploughing through accumulated papers, was ready to open Christmas gifts with his family tonight.

Traditionally, the Johnsons set aside Christmas Eve to open gifts exchanged within the family. None of the gifts was announced in advance.

The President, his wife and two daughters actually got off to a running start on the holiday, driving Thursday night to his renovated boyhood home here, 15 miles east of the LBJ ranch, to hear Christmas carols sung by the combined choirs of the town's three churches—First Christian, Methodist and Baptist.

Except for the chief executive, the family did better than last year. Wife Lady Bird sang heartily throughout the occasion as she sat beside her husband on a wicker porch swing at the 19th-century dwelling and daughters Lynda, 21, and Luci, 18, joined the choirs before the serenade was over.

WARMS TO OCCASION

Johnson, dressed very conservatively and looking a bit down upon arrival, warmed at the sight of his neighbors—more than 30 strong—assembled to greet him with traditional Christmas tunes.

Complaints on Trucks Result in Traffic Survey

BIRMINGHAM — A survey of traffic on Maple and Southfield has been authorized by the City Commission with an eye to the wards an ordinance establishing controls over the vehicles.

Area residents have complained for some time that trucks traveling the routes disturb their sleep and that vibrations have caused damage to homes in a few instances.

Some data on the problem already has been compiled on the request of the city administration by the Michigan Trucking Association.

Sound tests and radar checks on Maple revealed that large oil tankers create the most noise due to their size and the power required in their operation.

It was also discovered that one of the factors adding to the noise problem was the thumping of metal against metal on large gravel trucks.

SPEED NOT FACTOR

The average speed of trucks was approximately 38 miles per hour and while the posted speed is 35 MPH the speeds were not unreasonable, according to Police Chief Ralph W. Moxley.

One Troy trucking firm approached by the city has already directed its drivers to reduce their speed to a maximum 25 m.p.h. when traveling empty through Birmingham and to bypass Birmingham when returning with full loads of gravel.

According to traffic consultants, the city's traffic study will be completed within 30 days at a cost of $325.

In the quiet hills of the Holy Land, 15,000 Christians were expected to visit Bethlehem, where Christ was born.

Two major bridges and several mobile homes were washed away at Tucson. Volunteers worked to prevent further damage in the area where five acres of ground had been swept off by the muddy water.

Record-breaking runoff into the chain of reservoirs which serve the Phoenix area brought a threat of flood into Arizona's most populous areas.

After several weeks of mountain snows and rain at lower elevations, the runoff rate of 150,000 cubic feet per second broke a 194 record for Roosevelt Lake. Water threatened to splash over the spillways of several protection dams.

Fire officials said the fire started in an enclosed stairwell on the second floor and then went up to the third floor. All eight bodies were found in the fire-carried third floor.

While firemen were still battling the blaze, the second and third fires were reported on Camden Street, eight blocks away.

The second fire, at 304 Camden, started at the rear and burned part of a garage and the back apartments of the three-story frame building. The third fire broke down doors, destroyed the fourth floor and badly damaged the third floor of a four-story building and damaged several apartments next door.

Mrs. Johnson rose from the porch swing and, clapping her hands, said "Oh, we thank you. That was so lovely."

Within minutes, Mrs. Johnson announced that hot chocolate and cookies would be served to everyone. Luci began pouring the chocolate and the First Lady made her way through the group with cookie trays.

Lynda passed a holiday-decorated wicker basket filled with candies.

Varied Noel for U.S. Notables

NEW YORK (AP) — Notable Americans will spend Christmas this year everywhere from their family hearth-sides to Viet Nam and Korea.

People such as presidents, ex-presidents, and would-be presidents tended to plan quiet at-homes with their families.

Other well-known figures, including Cardinal Francis Spellman, comedian Bob Hope and actress Helen Hayes, were off to the Far East to cheer up U.S. servicemen thousands of miles from their loved ones.

President and Mrs. Johnson were all set for the usual old-fashioned family celebration at the LBJ Ranch in Texas. Daughters Lynda and Luci decorated the tree—a pino, or Mexican pine—and there was even a red-satin reindeer of sorts, actually a hatrack deerhead with a scarlet cloth on its schnoz. Four red-satin socks were hung from the living room mantle.

FAMILY CUSTOM

The Johnsons customarily open their gifts on Christmas Eve and have the holiday dinner Christmas night.

Ex-President Harry S. Truman and his wife traveled to New York from their home in Missouri to spend Christmas with their daughter Margaret, son-in-law Clifton Daniel, managing editor of the New York Times, and three grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Truman, staying at a hotel a block from the Daniel residence, will go there Christmas morning to open presents under a tree Daniel said was "as tall as the ceiling will allow." Later the family will sit down to a traditional Christmas meal.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, recuperating from a heart attack suffered last month, plans to spend Christmas at his Gettysburg Pa. farm.

FAMILY VISITORS

Eisenhower and his wife, Ma, will be hosts to their son, John, and his family over the holidays, a spokesman said.

Barry Goldwater, the Republican nominee in the last presidential election, will hold a big family gathering at his hilltop home in Phoenix, Ariz. Goldwater announced he would play "Silent Night" on a trombone he received for Christmas some years ago and has been struggling with intermittently ever since.

Another stay-at-home was Secretary of State Dean Rusk. Due to his Washington residence to help him and Mrs. Rusk celebrate were their son David and his wife and son Gregory, 2, son Richard, a student at Cornell University, and daughter Peggy, a high school senior.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and his wife booked accommodations as usual at the winter resort of Aspen, Colo., where he planned some Christmas skiing with his son and two daughters.

KENNEDY CLAN

Sun Valley, Idaho, another western resort, braced for an invasion of Kennedys. Already on hand were Sen. and Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy and most of their eight children. Mrs. John F. Kennedy planned to spend Christmas in her New York apartment with her two children and head for Sun Valley the following day.

Probe Arrest by Dixie Pair in North City

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—State Atty. Gen. Walter E. Alessandrini said today he has ordered an investigation into the removal of a Negro youth from his Pennsylvania home to Alabama by two Mobile bail bond agents.

"I have ordered special agents to get all the facts in this case," Alessandrini said. "If they are as they were reported, at least by the youth's mother, I think it is so shocking that it is hard to believe."

"We are looking into it and after further investigation, we will take whatever action is appropriate."

Rep. Richard S. Schweiger, R-Pa., charged in Washington yesterday that Tryone Collins, 18, was handcuffed in his Norristown, Pa., home at gunpoint by Alabama authorities and forced to return to Alabama without an arrest warrant.

Schweiger demanded that the FBI investigate the incident, which he described as "a grotesque and unwarranted abuse of power, smacking of police state tactics . . . a throwback to the days of the bounty hunters."

JUMPED BAIL

Frederick R. Anderson, an employee of a Mobile, Ala., bonding firm, said he and a partner, Stonie Stewart, returned the youth to Mobile because he had jumped a $500 bond.

Anderson said under the law anyone who signs a suspect's bond is empowered to return him to the city where it was signed if the suspect fails to appear for his trial.

He said he notified Norristown police before going to Collins' home and that Collins telephoned his mother during the trip to Alabama to tell her the journey was "like a vacation."

But, Schweiger said the Norristown police had not sanctioned the removal, and that when Collins' mother reported it the police had put out an arrest alarm for Anderson and Stewart.

A Fourth Is Hospitalized

3 Captive Yanks Face Another Dreary Yule in China Prison

HONG KONG (AP) — For espionage charges 15 years ago, three Americans spending their 14th and 15th Christmases in Communist China's prison cells, Saturday will be just another cold and dreary day.

A fourth American, the Most Rev. James E. Walsh of Cumberland, Md., will be spending his third Christmas in a prison hospital.

Six years ago, the Roman Catholic bishop was sentenced to a 20-year prison term on vague espionage charges. He is now 74.

Hugh F. Redmond Jr., 46, of Yonkers, N.Y., a former business- men's man in China, was sentenced to a life term on similar by the Chinese.

Pecteau may be the loneliest of the four. He has had no visits since his imprisonment. But Pecteau is likely to come out of Red China first. He has five years left to serve.

The last American to visit her imprisoned son in Communist China was Mary Downey of New Britain, Conn., who made her trip in November 1963.

She said later in Hong Kong this could be her last trip to China because of her age and financial condition.

British Red Cross officials here said Christmas parcels for these American prisoners were sent to China early this month.

Each parcel included one small Christmas pudding — the only reminder of Christmas for these lonely American prisoners.

It is impossible to get a full firsthand picture of the life of the American prisoners in Red China but sketchy reports brought out by visitors shed some light on the subject.

Christmas means nothing to the Chinese Communists. Aside from a few Christmas cards received from families and morning close friends and tiny puddings sent by the Red Cross, there is no touch of Christmas for the four Americans.

On Christmas Day, they follow the dreary daily routine they have followed hundreds of other days.

Visitors to some of the prisoners said the four Americans were given adequate food. In addition, each prisoner receives a 22-pound food parcel from their families every month. Several American turncoats of the Korean War who came out of Communist China reported that foreigners, in jail or out, were better fed than ordinary Chinese.

Traffic Safety Hints:

No. 5. — Following too closely, commonly called "tailgating", is one of the most hazardous driver actions. It is also a traffic violation. The driver behind is usually responsible for rear-end collisions. Remember to increase the distance between your car and the one ahead when speed is increased or streets are slick. Looking at the whole traffic pattern may save the driver from a rear-end collision.

Cure Reported for Fatal Illness

BOSTON (UPI) — Researchers at Children's Hospital medical center believe they have found the cause and a possible cure of a fatal form of kidney disease.

They have reported that the drug thioguanine, used in the treatment of cancer and leukemia, has maintained the lives of two otherwise doomed children, one of them for more than a year.

The disease is a form of progressive nephrosis, which strikes seven of every 10,000 children.

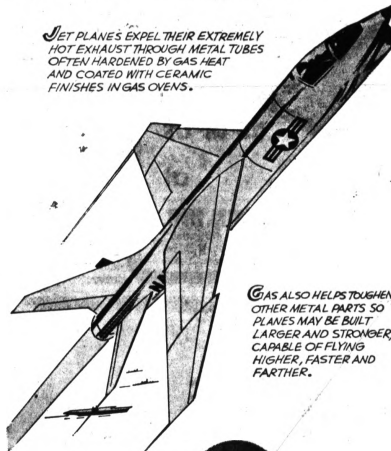

Victims exhibit severe swelling due to scanty urine output, fat retention, loss of blood proteins, chronic kidney damage and high susceptibility to infection.

Fifteen years ago, the disease was fatal in almost all its forms. Today, antibiotics can save 75 per cent of those stricken.

Got Transplant for Yule

Kidney Patient Grateful

DETROIT (AP) — "This is the finest present I've ever received", says James Fitch, 7, of suburban Plymouth, who waited eight months for a donor to give him a healthy kidney. Fitch, 27, of Delta, Ohio, has been hospitalized at nearby Wayne County General Hospital.

Both of Fitch's kidneys were removed last April because they were damaged. He has remained hospitalized since. An artificial kidney machine removed his body wastes twice a week. His weight dropped from 150 to 100 pounds.

Doctors at Wayne County General said it would be several weeks before they could tell if the operation was a success. There is a possibility Fitch's body will reject the transplant, they said.

Ford Is Probing Fatal Explosion

DEARBORN (AP) — An explosion that took the lives of two men and seriously injured two others at Ford Motor Co.'s huge Rouge complex was under investigation today by company officials.

Ronald Dybalski, 28, of Allen Park and Fred Wilson 51, of Dearborn Heights were killed Thursday in the accident. Dybalski, a pipefitter, had been with Ford eight years. Wilson a boilermaker, was a 29-year veteran of the auto firm.

William H. Bunce Jr., 28, of Dearborn and John Hensley, 36, of Garden City were hospitalized. Officials at Ford hospital in Detroit described their condition as "serious."

A Ford spokesman said the men were repairing a liquid vaporizer unit at the oxygen plant when a weld broke on an oxygen line. There was no fire and no damage to the plant, the spokesman said.

He said the oxygen plant makes oxygen for steel-making and foundry operations throughout the Rouge plant.

Significance of Christmas Offers Hope to All People

(EDITOR'S NOTE: In keeping with our policy of running guest editorials from time to time, our Christmas message has been written by Rev. Roy F. Lambert, pastor of the Lakeland United Presbyterian Church, Waterford.)

By REV. ROY F. LAMBERT

In the fourth verse of his famous Christmas poem "I Heard the Bells on Christmas Day," HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW expresses this sentiment which is certainly appropriate to the days in which we are living:

"Then pealed the bells more loud and deep,
God is not dead, nor doth He sleep,
The wrong shall fail, the right prevail,
With peace on earth, good will to men."

From every side it seems we are being pressed with the confused and confusing notions that God and faith are irrelevant to our lives today. Some are saying that a "new" religion without God is our need. A "new" morality without standards is being called "freedom."

Science is presented as our "Savior," the "Messiah" of a new age which reaches for the moon, while here on earth the acquisition of material possession is encouraged as the chief end of man in the annual "Christmas A Go Go." Add to this the prevalence in large areas of the world of war, famine, disease, and international distrust and the picture is truly a dark one.

But thank God this is not the whole picture. "God is not dead, nor doth He sleep," God has spoken as the Scriptures reveal: "When the time had fully come, God sent forth his Son . . . to redeem those who were under the law . . ." Galatians 4:4, 5; "The Word became flesh and dwelt among us . . ." John 1:14.

As a little child the eternal Son of God took upon himself our nature and being and was made in the likeness of men that in the midst of darkness there might be light.

But even here the story is not complete, for "Peace on earth, good will to men" are pious platitudes if this is all. We must never forget that the Christmas Child grew up. He lived among us. He suffered as one of us. He died for us, and He lives again in this dark world of sin and suffering there might be a joy unspeakable, a "peace that passeth all understanding," a peace anticipatory of God's eternal presence.

The implications of such a concept for nations, races, and families are yet to be fully worked out, but we believe that the "Living" God is at work in his universe and that in His good time and manner "the wrong shall fail, the right prevail, with peace on earth, good will to men."

Meanwhile, let those of us who believe so live as to demonstrate in every area and aspect of life the significance of Christmas, for "God was in Christ reconciling the world unto himself . . . entrusting to us the message of reconciliation." (II Corinthians 5:19)

This is the message which alone offers hope for the healing of divided lives, divided peoples, and divided nations by bringing men into a living relationship of love and peace with God and neighbor through Him who is "The Prince of Peace."

Noisy Liberal
Now Sir Echo

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — Hubert H. Humphrey is the busiest vice president in history — unless Lyndon B. Johnson was — but in a very unusual way.

This is a switch from those days 16 years ago when Humphrey first arrived in the Senate, a noisy, controversial liberal who talked too much and antagonized the old-timers.

He's still a liberal but over the years he learned how to do business in the Capitol, got along with the old-timers, worked smoothly with Johnson when Johnson was Senate majority leader.

And now he is a Sir Echo of all Johnson wants and stands for. His liberalism hasn't diminished but as he says: "I did not become vice president with President Johnson to cause him trouble."

It's an impressive sight to go through a newspaper library folder on Humphrey and look at the pile of stories which show how he has been hopping around.

Just in the early part of this month alone, on one day he spoke in Washington on New Year's and on the same day in New Hampshire talking on disarmament; on another day he talked in New York about closing the science gap between nations and on the same day in Massachusetts about propaganda.

This was after returning from a western speaking tour in which he denounced antiwar demonstrators as irresponsible, indecent and unprincipled.

In between speeches this year, he has been mixed up in the Peace Corps, voting rights, school drop-outs, anti-poverty, talked with mayors, dashed to Paris with Gemini astronauts, presided at a carnival.

If it seems strange all this activity has not stuck in the mind, and it hasn't, it's because Humphrey is carrying out the role assigned him by Johnson, a busy one but secondary.

SAME POSITION
This is exactly the position Johnson was in when he was vice president. Kennedy and Johnson seemed to have had an identical view of vice presidents:

They should be seen, but not in critical situations; heard, but in a minor key; and they should always be on deck to run errands, patch up various kinds of bruises, and play handyman on a moment's notice.

Now after Christmas, Johnson is sending Humphrey to Japan, Korea, Formosa, and the Philippines on a goodwill mission, which makes him the highest U.S. official to visit the Far East since Kennedy sent Johnson there in 1961.

But the reality of political life finally is forcing the Kremlin to seek some sort of accommodation, however hypocritical, with religion.

Since 1917, Lenin's successors have been striving to eliminate belief in God from the lives of Russia's more than 200 million Christians, Jews, Moslems and Buddhists.

However, their pressure on believers fluctuated with the Kremlin's domestic and international situation.

They relaxed their atheistic propaganda whenever, faced with a critical domestic or international situation, they needed the support of the people.

Before World War II Stalin had practically driven underground all religious organizations in Russia. But after Hitler's attack, to assure the wartime loyalty of the people, he was forced to relax anti-religious pressure.

The Enduring Message Of Hope

Soviets Turn Realists on Religion

By LEON DENNEN

Foreign News Analyst

NEW YORK (NEA) — For the first time in nearly half a century Russians will celebrate Christmas this year in an atmosphere relatively free from fear.

To be sure, the Marxist-Leninist doctrine still sees religion as "opium" invented by capitalism to enslave the working class.

But the reality of political life finally is forcing the Kremlin to seek some sort of accommodation, however hypocritical, with religion.

Since 1917, Lenin's successors have been striving to eliminate belief in God from the lives of Russia's more than 200 million Christians, Jews, Moslems and Buddhists.

However, their pressure on believers fluctuated with the Kremlin's domestic and international situation.

They relaxed their atheistic propaganda whenever, faced with a critical domestic or international situation, they needed the support of the people.

Before World War II Stalin had practically driven underground all religious organizations in Russia. But after Hitler's attack, to assure the wartime loyalty of the people, he was forced to relax anti-religious pressure.

Most religious groups were permitted to reorganize with such recognized rights as limited autonomy and still more limited privileges of publishing Bibles and prayer books.

FAITHFUL COMMUNIST
This lasted until Nikita Khrushchev came to power.

Khrushchev, who regarded himself as a faithful Marxist-Leninist, apparently decided that the task of exterminating religious faith was to be pushed to completion.

He resorted to a violence comparable only to the darkest year under Stalin.

The Kremlin's latest "liberal" policy on religion — in the view of specialists on communism — is due primarily to the uncertain political position of the faceless men who now rule Russia and to the disarray in the Red world that has resulted from Moscow's conflict with China.

ANOTHER ISSUE
Religion, in fact, has become another important issue that divides Marxist-Leninists behind the Iron Curtain and wherever they seek adherents to their cause in non-Communist countries.

Shortly before he died a year ago, Palmiro Togliatti, Italy's Communist leader, warned that "the old atheist propaganda is no longer of any use to communism."

He drew a dividing line between Communists who believe that coexistence with religion is possible and necessary and those "who still cling to the old atheist propaganda."

Togliatti's "liberal" partisans in Europe, especially for some time now, have been attempting to convince Christians that religion and communism can live together and even cooperate.

Of course this idea is not shared by all Communists and even less by all Christians. But it seems possible that this time the Marxist-Leninist strategy born of expediency will have some lasting and significant effects.

The Communists' new peace overtures to religion cannot be divorced from other changes taking place in their collectivized, materialist society.

New political and cultural winds are blowing behind the Iron Curtain from which religion is also likely to benefit.

The Red rulers seemingly have come to the belated realization that all forms of pressure, atheist propaganda and violence against believers, have not smothered religion in their world.

Bob Considine Says:

Space Rendezvous Lets Taxpayer Breathe Easier

NEW YORK — Proof positive that rendezvous in space is possible, even "easy," as Wally Schirra said, as a relief to the American taxpayer.

Tons of his money have been spent on the premise and the promise that one of these fine days we'd attend to the 10,001 details and put two manned objects together Out There.

Project Apollo, the man-to-the-moon-and-back program, has advanced too far to stop.

It has been costing $10 million a day for several years, and the price tag on it will be about $25 billion by the time we pull off that proposed one-day initial visit to the big dead ball that has been doing things to poets and lovers since man walked on all fours.

Yet not until last week, when Schirra, Stafford, Borman and Lovell staged their tet-a-tet, 185 miles up and at speeds just beyond 17,500 m.p.h., could we be absolutely sure that Apollo could be pulled off. It depends entirely on mastery of rendezvous technique.

HARD TO BELIEVE
Apollo's "hardware" is hard to believe, its costs stupefying.

The Saturn V rockets which will be the launching vehicles will be assembled in a building that must be seen to be comprehended, and even then it isn't believable.

It is a sophisticated box that stands 325 feet 10 inches tall. It could hold six football fields. The U. N. Secretariat Building could slide in and out of its doors. It is the tallest building south of the Washington Monument.

The assembled Saturns must be moved a few miles from this building to the launching pad. The 36-story-tall rockets, each costing about $100 million, will make the little journey in up-right position — without supporting wires.

This will be done by placing the Saturn aboard a crawler-transporter that looks like something the Green Giant would buy his kids for Christmas.

It is a pad 131 feet long and 114 feet wide. Propulsion (at a maximum speed of one mile an hour) is supplied by four huge tanklike monsters mounted under each corner of the platform.

Each of these crawlers has two separate treads. The crawler-transporter weighs 5.5 million pounds, was built to carry a load weighing 12 million pounds.

There is a slight grade running up from the assembly building to the pad from which our lunatics will take off.

The mover is equipped with computers that figure out exactly how much its platform's posture must be altered to keep it level while climbing the gentle hill. If they don't work, the rocket falls over.

The commodity that can be classified as a bargain, in the space business, is the space man himself.

Say 'No'

The Holland Evening Sentinel

Everyday, hundreds of speeches are made before assorted groups around the country. But very few get wide coverage, even though they may seem profound enough. Recently, Roger Fleming, secretary treasurer of the American Farm Bureau Federation, made a speech that was rather simple in content, but it said something so basic, it had to be heard.

Mr. Fleming told Congress it had to learn to say "no" if it expected to survive. This is the very heart of the problem in our highest legislative body. Hundreds of pressure groups are constantly urging the Congress to act on this or that bit of legislation, and threatening dire consequences if the vote isn't delivered.

It takes a strong man to say "no" to that kind of pressure. But if it isn't done, the duties of the legislators will have shifted to another branch of the government in as real

Voice of the People:

Veteran Says Our Nation Is Greatest in the World

My father is a World War I veteran and I am a veteran of World War II. I have been reading opinions and hearing complaints until it makes me sick. We have the greatest country in the world and the best qualified people running it because we chose them. To those who have never seen the homeless, the hungry, or the blood of a war-torn country, let's be glad our leaders can keep it over there because if they can't it will be our homes as well as our sons.

I have two sons who will be of draft age all too soon. I hope by this time the Communists, the civil rights situation, etc. are all back to God-fearing levels instead of people-fearing. If they aren't, I will have to tell my boys the same thing my father told me, "Son, I hate to see you go but you must. If you ever go over the hill, don't come home because this land is worth the price." To those who can only complain, it's a wide, wide world and there are ships and planes leaving every day.

DISGUSTED

This talk of draft dodging and tearing up of draft cards should make some people real proud of their sons. I'm a mother of two Marine sons and I'm very proud of them for being men and Americans who saw their duty.

How about you fellows who think it is easier to play on campus than enlist and be Americans or even support them? Why didn't you go to Viet Nam and let our sons come home for Christmas? My son hasn't been home since 1961. He's helping keep you safe? How honest do you feel? You should be thankful you live in a country where you can sit by and watch others do your share. Some countries don't allow you to make a choice. If you aren't physically able to go yourself, at least be men and be of help to the ones who do go, and keep America on its toes for peace.

A MARINE'S MOTHER

The Viet Cong destroyed a village in South Viet Nam, killing women and children. Another time the V.C. purposely cut off a small girl's fingers because she was on a school bus against the Viet Cong's orders.

They have killed and wounded a lot of our GIs in their attempt to bring communism from the north. Just maybe one of those GIs was GI Martin's buddy. I would feel the same way in wanting to hunt the V.C. Nothing but mad animals would do what the V.C. have done.

Millions more Americans are proud of the step towards assuring the freedom our men in Viet Nam are taking. These demonstrators against American policy should all go live in the villages of South Viet Nam.

'Citizens Not to Blame for Deer Shortage'

If the Conservation Department representatives continue to make irresponsible statements such as "There is no law that says does have to be shot. If hunters don't want antlerless deer taken, then they should quit shooting them," they will lose any respect the people of Michigan might have had for their sincerity in trying to maintain a reasonable and healthy deer herd in our State.

Did the department advocate shooting a lot of does and fawns by issuing thousands of permits, or just to sell a lot of extra licenses? I hold the department responsible. They are paid to know how the herd stands and the permits they issue should be in line. Let's not blame the citizens who shoot legal does or fawns.

istic a way as if they had been handed over.

In every session there are a number of bills that have been labeled "must" and, for lack of time, these are carried over into the very session. Somehow or other the country seems to carry on without them, and on a number of occasions, the interest has fallen with the passage of time.

We know only too well that the legislation coming before Congress continues to increase, and also becomes more technical and involved. This gives to those close to the legislation an aura of authority, and Congress often bows to this authority. Congress will have to have its own specialists to aid it in saying "no."

There is little doubt that no representative body can endure if it doesn't maintain its independence. This is what makes Mr. Fleming's speech so important. It recognizes that the deterioration sets in when you can't say "no."

AAA Motor News

Highway Safety has been helped again, this time by General Motors. The world's largest auto maker has announced it will increase the allowance to dealers loaning passenger cars for high school students up to $100 a vehicle. The Driver Training Car Dealer Alliance Program, pioneered by GM in 1955, provides for sharing between the dealer and manufacturer the cost of loaning vehicles to high schools.

We commend GM for its public-spirited effort to help young drivers gain the experience they need. Certainly the driver education program, in which Auto Club has pioneered for Michigan, deserves the utmost support.

Yule Rules Irrefutable

Code Covers Christmas Calamities

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ever since the adjournment of Congress, I have been diligently at work on a compilation of the self-evident law of man and nature.

The purpose of the project was to encourage lay citizens to write their own laws during this period so WEST that the nation would be left in a legislative void. Thus far, it has come along swimmingly. The collection recently was enriched by the addition of Hill's Laws, I and II, propounded by Boyd Hill of Honolulu. They read as follows:

• "Whatever is done, somebody bitches about it."

• "Complications increase as the square of the number of people involved."

I fear, however, that the holiday season will produce a lull in do-it-yourself law-making. In order to avoid that, I have undertaken to Europe Air Defense Chief Is Appointed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maj. Gen. George V. Underwood, who has been chief of Army information for five years, will become commander of all U.S. Army air defense units in Europe, the Pentagon announced yesterday.

He will report to headquarters in Kaiserslautern, West Germany, about Feb. 14. Underwood currently is on an inspection trip to Viet Nam with the Army chief of staff, Gen. Harold K. Johnson.

There was no immediate announcement on a replacement in the information post.

codify some of the laws that govern the yuletide.

They are called "The Nine Laws of Christmas" and, barring unexpected complications, should be enough to keep the project going until Congress returns in January.

1. The number of batteries that can be found in a house is always one less than the number required to activate a battery-operated toy.

2. When "X" represents the number of guests invited to a Christmas party, and "Y" represents the amount of eggnog the host has prepared, the equation "X equals Y" becomes mathematically impossible.

3. Law No. 1 is only valid after all of the neighborhood stores have closed.

4. The point of diminishing returns is reached when the value of the wrapping exceeds the value of the gift.

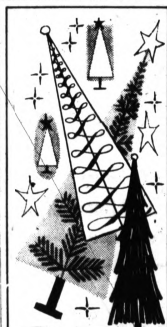

5. When laws Nos. 1 and 3 are in effect, the nearest open store is at least 25 miles away.

6. The hour at which children awake on Christmas morning varies in inverse ratio to the hour their father went to bed.

7. The disadvantage of driving 25 miles to buy batteries is exceeded only by the disadvantage of not driving 25 miles to buy batteries.

8. The complexity of new bicycle assemblage bears no relation to the simplicity of the instruction sheet.

9. The length of a 25-mile drive is determined by the intensity of a hangover.

Drug Helps Learning, Memory

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — New hope for mentally retarded children and persons approaching senility may come with development of a new drug to stimulate learning and memory, the San Francisco Chronicle reported yesterday.

A group of Chicago researchers has found that by injecting a mild stimulant, magnesium penicilline, into the nervous system of rats, they learn much faster to avoid electric shocks and remember the lesson longer.

First experimental trials with human beings are under way, the Chronicle said.

The drug does not alter the basic nature of the brain, but rather stimulates the production of ribonucleic acid (RNA), which has been found to increase in brain cells as animals increase their knowledge.

The researchers found that the stimulation provided by magnesium penicilline increases the amount of RNA in brain cells, and they hope that this added RNA will make learning come easier and memories last longer.

RAT EXPERIMENT

In the rat experiment, Dr. Nicholas Plotnikoff, a pharmacologist for Abbott Laboratories in Chicago, attached a buzzer to a cage and sounded it just before running an electric current through the floor of the cage.

He found that some rats, learned to jump to avoid the shock faster than others, so he took the slower learners and injected them with magnesium penicilline. Further tests showed they learned to jump four-to-five times faster than before.

Dr. Alvin J. Glasky, a biochemist for Abbott, warned however that the drug, given the trade name Cylert by Abbott, would be no shortcut to wisdom. Rather, it has possibilities of making mentally retarded children more amenable to training and education, and might strengthen the memories of older persons approaching senility, he said.

Two Dixie Marches Set Today

NATCHEZ, Miss. (AP) — On the Eve of Christmas, Negroes plan new marches in two Mississippi strongholds of the Ku Klux Klan to dramatize their "Black Christmas" protest.

The marches coincide with Christmas-buying boycotts in Natchez and Fayette, 25 miles to the north.

Even as Charles Evers exhorted crowds Thursday night, the Grand Dragon of the United Klans of America swore out an affidavit charging Natchez Police Chief J. T. Robinson with willful neglect of duty.

The segregationist maneuver came after civil rights chieftains ordered a renewed boycott against merchants in Natchez—accusing them of violating a three-week-old treaty on racial differences.

SIMILAR BOYCOTT

Evers, field director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, scheduled the Christmas Eve march in Fayette to dramatize a boycott similar to one which shackled the economy of Natchez, until it ended Dec. 3.

Sixty state troopers were ordered into the tense rural town to keep order during the demonstration—which Evers said would include 2,000 marchers.

Evers told his followers they must go on the streets of Natchez later in the day unless two policemen involved in a racial flareup Wednesday were jilted.

"Don't carry guns, knives or sticks," he said.

OFFICIAL CHARGED

The affidavit by Klan Dragon E. L. McDaniel charged Robinson with refusal to arrest persons violating state laws. The specifics of the charges were not learned.

Natchez had been calm since the Dec. 3 agreement until the fist fight Wednesday resulted in charges ranging from assault and battery to disturbing the peace.

Evers claimed two officers beat Negroes unnecessarily with their clubs. Officers said Evers complained that Negro policemen hired by the city followed the same practices which led them to accuse white officers of brutality.

AT BOTH PONTIAC YANKEE STORES

It was the night before Christmas
When all through the house
Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse
The stockings were hung by the chimney with care
In hopes that St. Nicholas soon would be there,

The children were nestled all snug in their beds,
While visions of sugar-plums danced in their heads,
And mamma in her 'kerchief, and I in my cap,
Had just settled our brains for a long winter's nap.

When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter,
I sprang from the bed to see what was the matter.
Away to the window I flew like a flash,
Tore open the shutters and threw up the sash.

The moon on the breast of the new-fallen snow,
Gave the lustre of mid-day to objects below,
When, what to my wondering eyes should appear,
But a miniature sleigh, and eight tiny reindeer,

With a little old driver, so lively and quick,
I knew in a moment it must be St. Nick.
More rapid than eagles his coursers they came,
And he whistled, and shouted, and called them by name

Now, Dasher! now, Dancer! now, Prancer and Vixen!
On! Comet, on! Cupid, on! Dunder and Blitzen!
To the top of the porch! to the top of the wall!
Now dash away! dash away! dash away all!

As dry leaves that before the wild hurricane fly,
When they meet with an obstacle, mount to the sky,
So up to the house-top the coursers they flew,
With the sleigh full of toys, and St. Nicholas too.

And then, in a twinkling, I heard on the roof
The prancing and pawing of each little hoof.
As I drew in my head, and was turning around,
Down the chimney St. Nicholas came with a bound.

He was dressed all in fur, from his head to his foot,
And his clothes were all tarnished with ashes and soot,
A bundle of toys he had flung on his back,
And he looked like a peddler just opening his pack.

His eyes how they twinkled! his dimples how merry!
His cheeks were like roses, his nose like a cherry!
His droll little mouth was drawn up like a bow,
And the beard of his chin was as white as the snow.

The stump of a pipe he held tight in his teeth,
And the smoke it encircled his head like a wreath,
He had a broad face and a little round belly,
That shook when he laughed, like a bowlful of jelly.

He was chubby and plump, a right jolly old elf,
And I laughed when I saw him, in spite of myself,
A wink of his eye and a twist of his head,
Soon gave me to know I had nothing to dread.

He spoke not a word, but went straight to his work,
And filled all the stockings; then turned with a jerk,
And laying his finger aside of his nose,
And giving a nod, up the chimney he rose.

He sprang to his sleigh, to his team gave a whistle,
And away they all flew like the down of a thistle.
But I heard him exclaim, ere he drove out of sight,
MERRY CHRISTMAS to all and to all a good night!

MERRY Christmas
In this merry season, we are pleased to greet and thank all our loyal customers.

Romney Adds Word to Drivers

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney issued Christmas greetings to Michigan citizens Thursday, and included a message of caution for motorists.

The governor's message: "The birth of Christ is a time when people throughout the world, of many faiths, pause to reflect on the blessings of life. It is a time to emphasize the great spiritual and moral values."

"Christmas time is also a period for family and friends. And in this year when once again many families are separated by the necessity of defending the principles of freedom in far off places, Christmas will bring memories of the past and hopes for a better future and gratitude for this great nation."

"I join each of you in prayers that the next year may bring forth the realization of a lasting peace that will unite men of good will everywhere."

SAFE DRIVING
"Your full observance of this holiday weekend requires safe driving and avoidance of traffic accidents that will dim the bright spirit of the Christmas season for so many Michigan families. Last Christmas Eve 22 people were killed on Michigan highways."

"To many Michigan motorists continue to mix alcohol and automobiles. Special efforts will be made to insure that those who drink and drive do not ruin the joys and blessings of the weekend ahead for others."

"I urge Michigan motorists to drive with their headlights on during the entire holiday weekend, including daylight hours, to serve as a constant reminder to others of the need for safe driving."

"The greatest sources of accidents in Michigan are excessive speed, driving and drinking, traffic law violations, inattention and fatigue. By avoiding these problems we can ensure a Merry Christmas for everybody."

"The spirit of Christmas is to give of ourselves. Thank those who have given of themselves this year. The progress of Michigan is an added reason for gratitude this year. Mrs. Romney and I wish all of you a very Merry Christmas and a most prosperous and happy New Year."

She Stole the Stuff; Store Bought It Back

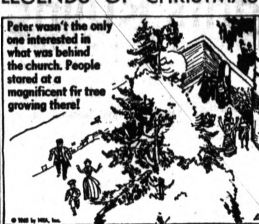

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — Authorities say Faye Ellen Panetti, 31, of rural Silver Bay not only shoplifted merchandise this week but returned the stolen goods for a $41 refund a few hours later and then went back again to do some more shoplifting.

Store employees recognized her, however. She pleaded guilty in municipal court to a theft charge and was fined $80 by Judge Donald E. Anderson.

'Profiles' for Germany

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — The American television series based on President Kennedy's book, "Profiles in Courage," will be shown on West German television beginning next month. Sound will be dubbed in German.

LEGENDS OF CHRISTMAS

Peter wasn't the only one interested in what was behind the church. People stored of a magnificent fir tree growing there!

At the top, snow had collected on the branches like a crown!

Peter stored at the tree in the spot where he had planted, with love, the cast-off tree.

Mother asked him if he felt all right. "Yes," he told her. "I feel WONDERFUL!"

But Sandman Comes Early

Waiting for Santa Is Child's Big Game

BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Waiting up for Santa Claus is childhood's greatest game. Every child at one time or another has the ambition to become the first kid in his block to greet the jolly old saint on his nocturnal mission of good-will.

And no wise parent tries too hard to frustrate this desire. The child, dressed in his sleep suit, takes up his vigil in a chair by the fireplace, and announces firmly:

"I'm going to stay up and see Santa."

DECORATING TREE

The parents, who are busy decorating the Christmas tree, exchange significant glances. "Didn't you see him at the department store?" says mother tactfully.

"Yep."

"Then why do you want to see him tonight? You know he'll be very busy."

"I want to give him a present."

FIRE TRUCK

"Yes, that fire truck he brought me last year."

"But it's broken."

"I know that. But Santa Claus won't mind. He has got a lot of little elves that can fix it."

"All right, Mama."

The warm milk begins to take effect. The small head nods, and stays there longer.

"Mama?" says a drowsy voice.

"Yes, dear."

SURPRISED

"Won't Santa be surprised when he sees me here waiting up for him?"

"Yes, dear."

"Maybe he'll let me ride in his sled from the top of our house to the top of the next house."

"Maybe, dear."

NOT AFRAID

"I wouldn't be afraid. Maybe he'd even let me hold the reins."

"Maybe, dear."

He starts another question. "Mama, maybe—" Then there is silence. Mr. Sandman has come and gone.

The little ambassador has been outwitted on his first diplomatic assignment. The small soldier slumps asleep on guard duty.

His father picks him up and carries him to bed. And when the child wakes up, morning light is streaming through the window.

WRAPPED GIFTS

He races into the living room. Brightly wrapped presents are stacked under the Christmas tree. Santa Claus has come and gone.

The child is both glad and regretful. Looking up the chimney he says apologetically:

"I'm sorry, Santa. I guess I just got too sleepy. Next year I'll stay up and see you for sure."

And maybe he will.

Two Quintets Advance in Recreation Tourney

The Roy White Unbeatables and College All-Star quintets advanced to the championship finals of White's Invitational Recreation Basketball Tournament Thursday night with wins.

The All-Stars beat a team of Detroit Northern High School alumni, 103-84, as Alvin Keel hit 36 points for the winners.

The Unbeatables nipped the Amigo's Club, 85-83. The finals will be 8:30 p.m. Thursday at Jefferson JHS, preceded by a 7 o'clock consolation contest.

It is estimated that some 40 million people participated in recreational boating this year.

Hart Asks Draft Rights Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., Thursday asked Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach to rule whether the Selective Service may cancel draft deferments of students who demonstrate against the Viet Nam war.

In a letter, Hart said he did not agree with the view of student demonstrators. He added: "I do feel that the rights of dissenters in a democracy have to be very carefully protected."

Hart last week disputed the contention of Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, National Selective Service director, who said reclassification and speeded-up induction of what he termed draft delinquents were practices followed through the years with the approval of the Justice Department.

The issue arose over reclassification of 10 University of Michigan students convicted of trespassing after they staged a demonstration inside an Ann Arbor Selective Service office.

APPARENT DANGER

Hart added in his letter: "No court has ruled that the Selective Service Act was violated... only Gen. Hershey. The danger here is apparent: Should a federal official be allowed to decide when a law is broken and then proceed to punish those he has branded as law-breakers?"

Last week Hart called on local draft boards to ignore Hershey's policy and refuse to reclassify the draft board demonstrators as delinquents. Such a classification makes them eligible for immediate induction.

The Builder That Makes A House A Home!

Current Books

RICH MAN, POOR MAN, FREUD AND FRUIT. By Alexander King. Simon & Schuster. $4.50.

The late Alexander King's ultracynical book, addressed to "Amorous Ladies," is full of practical advice on snaring hapless males, and coincidentally is a pretty devastating critique of his own sex.

Chapter after chapter he evaluates all the flukes and weaknesses of the various types of males, attached or unattached.

King seems to favor artists and bookish men as prizes; or teachers, for less ambitious females. He warns against alliances with musicians (too self-centered), athletes (improvident and soon out of the money), politicians (too conservative and compromising), publicity men (too phony) and various gamblers, alcoholics and addicts.

This may or may not be a guidebook for the girls; one suspects most of them are far ahead of the author.

This is a modern comedy of the war between the sexes — an ancient war.

THE UNFINISHED EXPERIMENT. By Juan Bosch (Praeger $5.95): "Without a democratic revolution in Latin America, there is no way out," says Bosch, deposed president of the Dominican Republic.

The unfinished experiment was the attempt to bring democracy to his country after the overthrow of the Trujillo tyranny.

"The Latin American revolution which is inevitable," continues Bosch, "even if it takes 15, 20 or 25 years, should not be Communist, but the fear of the democratic revolution will make it sooner or later fall into the pattern of a Communist revolution."

The fear of communism was responsible for his own downfall only nine months after his election, Bosch admits.

With considerable bitterness, Bosch continues: "Anyone who does not demonstrate in a satisfactory manner that he respects and will continue to respect the established order in Latin America, that he will not touch a single hair of the vested interests, and that, on the contrary, he will dedicate himself to defending them with body and soul, day and night, is transmitted into and suspected of being a secret Communist."

THE PETER FREUCHEN READER. Selected by Dagmar Freuchen. Julian Messner. $9.95.

This anthology contains some of the most ruggedly heroic adventures of a wild personality. Freuchen was a Dane who many years ago went native among the Eskimos; a professional explorer who combined the talents of sociology and journalism; a man of dash and upmanship who appreciated the reverse boasting (deprecation) of the natives.

There are two selections, "The Eskimo Way of Life" and "Love and Marriage," which no doubt will remain classics in the interpretation of Eskimo customs and psychology.

For sheer terror, in the way of grim bravery at the point of death and survival, few essays can equal Freuchen's story of a rescue expedition which he led across Melville Bay to bring out some lost whalers.

The whole collection is an amazing record of an individual's exotic combat against nature and man.

Will Leave $55,000 for Care of Animals

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Miss Lillian Knoedler, 77, who died Dec. 2 as she tried to save her pets from a fire, has left a $55,000 estate to animal care institutions.

Miss Knoedler's will provided that the estate be divided up equally between the Baltimore and the Maryland Antivivisection Societies and the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to animals.

He put his ear to the door and listened. He heard the Voodoo man hopping back down the corridor.

VOICE DISGUISED

When the Voodoo man was outside the door Mr. D. disguised his voice and said, "See, my power is greater than his. I even kept him from casting a spell over this room!"

Then Mr. D. remembered the crocodile and the donkey and the Fabulous Dunklebum they had left in Santa Land.

He told the princess how the crocodile yearned for beauty and the donkey yearned for sense.

"The princess smiled and said, 'I cannot make the crocodile beautiful but the Fabulous Dunklebum will think her so, and that is the same thing. And I cannot give the donkey sense but I will give him sensibility, which is a better thing.'"

Now Santa said to Mr. D., "If the Zabbazara-Santa Land bus driver is ready we had best be on our way. It's Christmas Eve, and if we hurry we'll make it just in time!"

"Always ready!" replied Mr. D. grandly.

SAILING HIGH

They went to the beach. The princess gave them balloons to carry them to the bus. In a few minutes Santa and Mr. D. were sailing high above the sea.

The little boy who was now a prince waved and shouted, "Merry Christmas!"

Santa and Mr. D. waved back. Santa and Mr. D. cried, "Merry Christmas! Merry Christmas to all!"

State to Spend $6 Million to Beautify Its Highways

LANSING (AP) — The State Highway Department, announced plans Thursday to spend $6 million in the next 18 months for highway beautification plantings and improvement of roadside rest areas.

Howard Hill, state highway director, said the proposed program has been submitted to the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads for funding.

Projects totaling $2,992,500 would be paid by highway beautification funds authorized by Congress in its recent session. Most of them would be on major noninterstate highways.

Projects totaling $3,090,500 along interstate routes and requiring 10 per cent state participation also are proposed, Hill said.

REST AREAS

The plan includes $4.05 million for installation of modern toilet facilities at a total of 36 roadside rest areas, including 16 new rest areas.

Roadside planting projects include three previously announced — on I-496 near Lansing, I-96 near Lansing and I-94 in Battle Creek — and eight new projects.

These are on U.S. 23 near Ann Arbor, U.S. 31 near Muskegon, U.S. 31 in Muskegon, U.S. 131 in Kalamazoo and at four interchanges — U.S. 23

2 Dogs Take Ride in Auto; Rip Up Town

BARTON, VI. (AP) — This village was serene as usual yesterday until a dog named Porky drove through town.

Yes, indeed, through town — across the bank stairs and over the street sign and into the electric appliance store.

Porky, a terrier, and Gibby, a cocker, were driven into town by their mistress, Miss Dorothy Hastings.

Miss Hastings had business at the post office. She left the dogs in the car. She also left the engine running.

ANSWER BARK

It seems a boisterous dog began barking at Porky and Gibby.

They barked right back. And they jumped around a lot inside the car.

Porky bounced too much, and shoved the gear shift lever of the automatic transmission into drive.

The car rolled across the steps of the Howard National Bank, knocking down an iron railing and snapping off the intake pipe of the bank's oil tank.

RUN SIGN

The car ran over a street sign then through the big plate glass window of an appliance store and into the kitchen section of the showroom, hit a range and demolished some cabinets.

Total damage: about $3,000.

3-2-1 COUNTDOWN

For A Safe Holiday

Easy As 3-2-1 At Cape Kennedy they won't dream of launching a rocket without a countdown. Why? If there's trouble they want to spot it before lift-off, not afterwards. We think Yuletide would be a safer and happier time for motorists if they would take a tip from the folks at the Cape. Make sure things are A-OK before launching the car onto the street or highway.

Here is a "Driver's Countdown for Safety" developed by Auto Industries Highway Safety Committee to help you do just that. We're pleased to pass it along with our hearty best wishes for safe motoring this Christmas season ... and all year long.

- 5 Car in safety shape—especially brakes, lights, steering, tires?
- 4 Enough time allowed to make the trip without rushing?
- 3 Driver set for possible weather and traffic conditions ahead?
- 2 Rest breaks mapped out along the way, if trip is long?
- 1 Seat belts fastened—snugly?
- 0 Take a deep breath; relax, and drive for safety.

'65 Loot List Shows Variety

NEW YORK (NEA) — There was no kitchen sink stolen in 1965 but some of the other purloined items made up for the difference.

Thieves in Whittier, Calif., stole a new lawn while neighbors watched, thinking the men were working for the owner.

And the entire front porch was stolen from a house in Norfolk, Va.

In Auburn, N.Y., an ambitious thief stole a 3,500-pound steamroller. Valued at more than $3,000, the vehicle has a top speed of only five miles per hour.

Blackouts seem all the rage, for in Ithaca, N.Y., seven 27-foot-long light poles were stolen and an entire section of an English-Scottish railroad was blacked out for a distance of seven miles when thieves stole all the signal and telephone cable.

STEAL ANYTHING
Some thieves will steal anything. An Ovid, N.Y., farmer had 10 bags of beans weighing many hundreds of pounds stolen and in Beirut, Lebanon, someone stole one-half of the city's telephone booths. They had only two.

A tree was stolen in Ballston Spa, N.Y., and was found by police standing in a tub of water in the thief's home. And three live oak trees were stolen from a home in Atlanta.

Some robbers may have been planning a party in Syracuse, N.Y., for they took 40 cartons of cigarettes, three gallons of ice cream, 12 cans of instant coffee, 10 cartons of soft drinks, 30 packages of pastry and a transistor radio.

Police are looking for a well-known burglar in St. Joseph, Mo. He made off with 500 pounds of roll sausage, 120 pounds of meat patties, 72 pounds of bacon, 50 pounds of ribs, 100 pounds of lard and 60 pounds of chili. Enough for quite a barbecue.

LACK DELICATE TOUCH

Some robbers just don't seem to have that delicate touch. In San Pablo, Calif., one set off a burglar alarm, another fell off the store roof and another got stuck in a ventilator shaft.

And, in Waycross, Ga., police answered cries for help and found a housebreaker stuck in the chimney.

Some just don't check before lifting. In Trenton, N.J., a thief stole $1 million worth of securities, all of them either cancelled checks or nonnegotiable.

Thefts continue to climb. A police chief estimates that a million automobiles will be stolen in 1970 if the present rate continues.

EVERY 32 MINUTES
The FBI reports that a burglary is committed once every 32 minutes, and New York City police last year received a total of 45,693 burglary reports.

Police came in for some hard raps in the larceny field. In Nagpur, India, a police payroll of $1,670 was stolen from the police station.

In Wichita, Kan., a department store security officer, after a hard day watching for shoplifters, discovered that all the gas had been siphoned from his car's tank. The thieves also took the gas cap.

Another thief in Klamath Falls, Ore., blamed police for leaving keys in the paddy wagon. "I took it because you left the keys in it," he told police when caught.

SUSPECT HASKEYS

And speaking of keys, police were really startled when they found a suspect with keys to the front door of the new city hall and police station in Ashtabula, Ohio. The building was so new that even the police didn't have keys.

And in Austin, Tex., burglars looked several coin-operated vending machines in the police station.

Nothing is safe. In New Orleans, the wig snatch racket is really booming. One thief carried off hair pieces valued at $22.69. A Kansas City, Mo., thief snatched the wig off a woman's head while she was dining in a restaurant.

Robbers use all kinds of tools. In Syracuse they used a cannon to blast a hole in a vault. Another thief left a bank 70 cents more than it had when he left his own money on the counter in Twickenham, England.

SWINGING BATS

Six masked bandits swinging baseball bats, with only one armed with a gun, held up a bank in South Woodford, England.

The only thing that a Schemmactady, N.Y., burglar took after breaking into a home was a bath.

A home's burglar alarm was stolen in Los Angeles. A London store lost a bunch of phonograph records. All the recordings were the same selection: "Thou Shalt Not Steal."

Some prisoners are honest. In La Spezia, Italy, an inmate found a valuable diamond and turned it over to the warden. He got a reward.

HOSPITALIZED

Another robber broke into a hospital in Baton Rouge, La., jumped from a window when discovered and was admitted to the hospital as a patient.

"What d'ya want?" a voice shouted as two burglars broke into a store in Atlanta. They left in a hurry. The voice belonged to a mynah bird, pet of the store owner.

Sometimes it doesn't pay to be too observant. A supermarket manager, after phoning the police to report a forged check, returned to find his waiting customer long since departed with the cash register's contents of $835. The check was for $48.27.

Some victims defend themselves. Accosted on a London street by two thugs, the intended victim grabbed the lid off a garbage can and hurled it at the pair. They fled.

GRANDMA NAILS HIM

A 70-year-old California woman saw a thief stealing hubcaps from her grandson's car. She took after him, caught him after a chase of several blocks, made a citizen's arrest, and then held him until the police arrived.

Two women slammed the lid on a man's crime career in Dallas. Spotting a man kneeling inside their car trunk, they closed the lid and drove the man to police headquarters.

Thieves also have complaints. A note left in a La Porte, Ind., home read: "You people sure are poor; a good burglar can't make an honest living."

The first daily weather-bul-an 1870-72 winter expedition on Mt. Washington. Hitchcock was States was originated by a geologist from Massachusetts Charles Henry Hitchcock during and led this expedition.

Another War-Yule for Our Boys

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — "Sleep in heavenly peace, sleep in heavenly peace."

Tonight under the timeless stars, in hundreds of sanding chapels under the rubber trees, in lonely special forces camps deep in Viet Cong country, in countless jungle clearings around the makeshift altars on the hood of a jeep, the sweet silver of high-pitched Vietnamese voices will unite with sturdy, rough American harmonies in the beauty of "Silent Night."

But for the American fighting man away from home in time of war, Christmas has seldom been a silent night or a holy night.

For the soldiers in his foxhole peering across a darkened perimeter and listening for the rattle of sniper fire, "peace on earth" is a pleasant fantasy printed on a pretty postcard from home.

LAST CHRISTMAS

At 6 p.m. last Christmas Eve, as last-minute shoppers hurried along Saigon's gaily decorated streets, a thunderous explosion shattered windows within a five-block radius. Two hundred pounds of plastic, planted in a Jeep by Viet Cong terrorists, rocked the seven-story Brink officers' quarters, an American billet for majors and colonels located within a block of the main shopping section. Two persons were killed and 107 wounded, 65 of them Americans.

The same silent stars that looked down from the streets of Bethlehem looked down on streets littered with dozens of American servicemen and dozens more Vietnamese women and children, maimed and bleeding amid a rubble of shattered glass and twisted metal.

The peace of Christmas had vanished in a bursting bomb.

Deep In Viet Jungle, Thoughts Are Far Away

Thus was it ever for the fighting man at Christmastide. Down through the years in America's wars, the same silent stars have echoed the mournful wail of artillery in a snow-heavy sky, the tramp of marching feet along lonely roads, the dying notes of a distant bugle echoing across scenes of similar havoc.

Christmas night, 1776. Soft in the bitter cold night, oars muffled, lamps out, the boats move out from McKonkey's Ferry into the ice-choked Delaware River. A snow-laden northwest wind, howling down from Bowman's Hill, molds the great tunic around the shoulders of Gen. George Washington, still looking for his first major victory after taking over the battered Continental Army.

"The game is almost up," he had written his half-brother, Lawrence, a few days before. This, the surprise attack on the Hessian garrison at Trenton, N.J., is to be his final thrust.

ON JERSEY SHORE

By 3 a.m., the last boat has made it to the New Jersey side of the river. By 8 a.m., Lt. James Monroe, later to become the fifth president of the new United States, is taking the lead company of a Virginia Regiment down King Street. Victory without a shot being fired.

Christmas Day, 1861.

Abraham Lincoln, drawn and gaunt, paces the uncarpeted corridor outside the Green Room, where a congressional committee on the conduct of the war is meeting to decide whether his wife, the tormented Mary Todd Lincoln, is a security risk.

A Kentuckian, she has brother and three half-brothers in gray. A favorite sister is married to a Confederate brigadier general. Upstairs in a tiny bedroom, Willie Lincoln, 10, the grave, scholarly child too much loved by his parents, is dying of a fever. In less than two months, he will be dead in the Green Room, and Mrs. Lincoln will never enter it again.

The snow falling outside all but blots out the tents of the Army of the Potomac, which has yet to take on the enemy after the disaster at Bull Run. Its commander, George B. McClellan, sticks to his tent, stricken with typhoid fever.

Seventy miles west, in the Shenandoah Valley, Gen. Thomas Jonathan Jackson is writing a letter to his wife at a small table in an upstairs bedroom of a farmhouse in Winchester, Va. The general, whose 1st Virginia Brigade stood like a stone wall at Manassas, tells her that despite the early Southern victories and despite what others are saying, the war will be a long one and his heart goes out to her at Christmas.

Before the Christmas of 1863 comes around, Stonewall Jackson will be in another tiny bedroom, at Chandler House, Guinea Station, uttering his last words:

"Let us cross over the river and rest under the shade of the trees."

Christmas Day, 1917.

Four battalions of the 1st Infantry Division, predecessors of the same Big Red 1 now in Viet Nam, are a thin line along the frozen Marine-Rhine Canal between Lunenburg and Nancy.

HOLIDAY DINNER

Late in the day, after a Christmas dinner of bully beef and stale bread, two companies tramp down the snowy road to rig up a Christmas tree in the little town of Gondrecourt and distribute candy to sad-eyed French orphans. Coming home in the gathering dusk, German artillery hisses out of a dun-colored sky and the American Doughboy contributes casualties to the war to end all wars. The mayor of Gondrecourt sends his regrets and the heartfelt thanks of the nuns at the orphanage.

Christmas Day, 1944.

For the first time in a week, the skies clear over the small snow-blanketed village of Bastogne, Belgium, and the Luftwaffe drops some lethal Christmas presents on the besieged paratroopers of the 101st Airborne Division. Forefathers of the same "Screaming Eagles" now in the jungles of Viet Nam, the 10,000 "Battered Bastards of Bastogne" have held out against three German divisions, numbering 45,000 troops and equipped with mighty Tiger tanks. Their stubborn defense is frustrating Field Marshal Karl Gerd von Rundstedt's brilliant plan to hurl 30 divisions through the Ardennes Forest in a last-ditch effort to cross the Meuse River and turn north in a surprise strike at Antwerp. Already the American lines have been severed, one division is destroyed, two are in full flight, but Bastogne refuses to surrender.

FAMOUS REPLY

"Nuts," Brig Gen. Anthony McAuliffe has said to the German offer of surrender three days before, and now out of a clear Christmas sky, enemy planes are pouring down the payment for his impertinence. But already Gen. George Patton's tanks are clanking to the rescue along the icy roads. Soon the Battle of the Bulge will go down in history as a memorial to American doggedness, a memorial built on the frozen bodies of 8,600 GIs lying in the Ardennes snow.

Christmas Day, 1950.

A Navy recon plane from the carrier Princeton looks down on the long line of ships inching out into the Sea of Japan, nose to tail like a long line of elephants, from the smoldering port city of Hungnam. The railroad tracks are twisted and the cars scattered, like the toys of a tired child at Christmas, and a black cloud of smoke rises from what had been the gas works. "Merry Christmas," the pilot messages the final American destroyer going in for the parting shots against the abandoned city.

FINEST PRESENT

And half a world away, President Harry S. Truman acknowledges the "finest Christmas present I ever received."

The U.S. 7th Fleet, now deployed off Viet Nam in the South China Sea, had pulled off one of the great rescue missions in the history of war, evacuating 105,000 United Nations troops and 91,000 Korean refugees from the jaws of the advancing Red Chinese.

This was the famous Christmas that Gen. Douglas MacArthur had hoped the Americans in Korea might be home for.

They had reached the northern border of North Korea on Nov. 21, and the war seemed over. But on the day after Thanksgiving, with blaring bugles, clanging cymbals, shrieking whistles, 200,000 Red Chinese "volunteers" came pouring in at night with convoy lights on despite the constant air war. The Chinese onslaught quickly recaptured the North Korean capital of Pyongyang.

LAYOUT IN TRAP

Falling back from the Koto Ri Plateau, the 1st Marine Division fought out of a trap in the Chosin Reservoir in weather as bleak as any since Valley Forge.

Frozen Chosin, a sheet of blue ice crimsoned with the blood of 7,500 Americans.

But thanks to fierce Marine fighting on the long retreat down the bitter road and the effective blocking by the 1st Cavalry Division, the Chinese were unable to move in for the kill. And so the world turns over in its time, and the stars look down on another war and another Christmas — Christmas in Viet Nam, 1965.

Trying to Carry Out
Husband's Wishes

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — It was the last letter. "If something should happen," he had written, "try to give the kids a good life, a good education. And try not to be sad."

Spec. S. Carl Thomas Baal, a native of Lebanon, Pa., wrote the letter to his wife, Sonja, last November from a battlefield in Viet Nam. He was killed in the fighting a few days later.

Sonja Baal, an attractive dark-haired woman, is trying to carry out her husband's wishes. She wants the six children to have a nice Christmas.

A silver tree sparkles in the television room. And outside near the front door a six-foot spruce glimmers with Christmas lights.

NICE CHRISTMAS

"My husband always wanted us to have a nice Christmas," Mrs. Baal said softly. "It is most important that my children have a real nice Christmas. It wouldn't be fair to let them suffer because of my feelings."

This Christmas Eve, the mother and children planned a quiet trip to the post cemetery at nearby Ft. Benning where Baal was stationed. His company, 147th Ordnance, shipped out in August, shortly before the 1st Cavalry, Airmobile Division was sent to Viet Nam. Baal was one of about 100 Columbus soldiers killed in the war during the past three years.

"It's pretty rough once in a while," Mrs. Baal said. "But when you think you can't go on, you get the strength somehow. I believe in God and He will give me the strength I need. I believe He will. That's what keeps me going."

She said the family would have turkey and the trimmings for dinner, then listen to Christmas records and sing carols.

TO HANG STOCKINGS

"The children will hang up stocks — you know the excitement."

Patti, 8; Linda, 7, and Carolina, 6, all want dolls, book satchels and tea sets and assorted little-girl gifts. Lucy, 14, wants a guitar. Tommy, 4, is hoping for a bicycle, cowboy outfit and, naturally, "a whole bunch of toys."

The baby, Steven, 16 months, has caught the excitement. He builds houses with tree ornaments and joyously smashes them in the process.

Mrs. Baal said she has made many friends in Columbus. Two of the children were born here and Baal planned to retire in this west Georgia city which is half-surrounded by sprawling Ft. Benning, the Army's infantry training center.

Baal had 19½ years in the Army.

MANY MEMORIES

"There are so many memories here," Sonja Baal said. "We'll stay here. It's home to me."

Slowly the children are beginning to understand that their father will not be coming home. Lucy spoke of her feeling in simple, poignant words.

"It feels kinda lonely without him around."

N-Mine Issue Faces Erhard

Report Preparations
Made Along Border

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's government is trying to figure out how to get Germans used to the idea that it might permit nuclear mines to be exploded under their own soil if the Soviets tried a massive assault.

The greatest part of the Iron Curtain runs along West Germany's eastern border. Erhard's government seeks to defend the country as close to that border as possible.

Well-informed sources say preparations have been made to lay nuclear mines near it. The mines have not been planted. That would only be done if the danger of war were acute.

One reason for this is that U.S. law requires nuclear explosives be kept in the hands of U.S. troops. They have to be stocked in advance depots until there is a high-level alert.

PREPARED CHAMBERS

Apparently the mines could be quickly placed in prepared chambers, deep enough to minimize the dangers of radiation. If they had to be exploded, efforts would be made to get the local population out.

It would not do for the U.S. troops to bury the mines and then go away with the secret of how to set them off. An informed source says the mines are small enough for a man to carry.

None of this has been widely explained in West Germany. A year ago the first reports of "nuclear mine belts" caused indignation in the border areas. Many people got the idea that the mines were already in the ground.

During the fall election campaign a member of the Socialist opposition in Parliament claimed to have seen demolition chambers. A government spokesman told a news conference that the member had made the statement "against his own better knowledge."

INCREASE N-ARMS

Last week, Robert S. McNamara, U.S. secretary of defense, said the United States was increasing by 20 per cent its 5,000 nuclear weapons in Western Europe. This did not specify whether some of the increase would be in the form of improved mines.

Der Spiegel, a popular news weekly, carried a picture of what it called a demolition hole, with the caption:

"Are 10 million Germans in danger?"

There was no comment on this from official sources.

Restaurant Is Sued for Burning a Duck

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — It was a regular birthday party until the roast duck flared. The result: four court suits, asking damages totaling $243,500.

It happened last April, but the suits were not filed until this week. The defendant is Tangier, Inc., operator of the Louisville restaurant where the party was being held. The plaintiffs claim they are due the damages for injuries received when a brandy-treated roast duck fired during the party.

It will be a family day on Christmas at Judge and Mrs. Cecil McCallum's home on Cherokee Road.

Coming for dinner will be the Edward M. Greens of Taylor with Heather, Erin and Kevin. Mrs. William McCallum of Birmingham will be on hand along with Mrs. Morris J. Green of Lansing.

The McCallums' son, C. Leland McCallum and his wife and children, Brian, Bruce, Lori and Craig will round out the family picture.

Dr. and Mrs. Cyrenus G. Darling Jr. of Bloomfield Hills will have with them for Christmas their son David who lives in San Francisco.

They will also welcome a grandson, Timothy James born Dec. 16 to Mr. and Mrs. Cyrenus G. Darling III (Carolyn Howarth) of Beverly Hills, who are also parents of four-year-old Christopher.

The Richard M. Pattersons and son Tom of Birmingham will be hosts at family dinner on Christmas Day to the Stuart Austins, Mrs. Harry Austin, the John Austins of Lake Orion, and the Richard A. Pattersons of Detroit.

MANY GUESTS

Dinner guests of the Robert J. Altons of West Iroquois Road and son Rodney (home from Ferris State College), will be the H. G. Nicholite and Donald Nicholite families, Mr. and Mrs. William Rogers and the R. S. Castells, all of Pontiac; also the Roger Smiths of Hartford, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Fitzgerald of Lake Crescent Drive, and children Janet and Richard, will be hosts Christmas Day to his parents, the Harold A. Fitzgeralds.

Dr. and Mrs. Paul L. Connolly and children, Elizabeth and James, and Mrs. Richard Fitzgerald's parents Mr. and Mrs. George Strickling of Cleveland, Ohio, will also gather around the festive board.

Dr. Dorothea Wyatt of Flint, will be coming for the Christmas weekend to be the house guest of the Edmund Princes of Lake Angelus.

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS

Plan Festivities

Dr. and Mrs. Clifford T. Ekelund of Ottawa Drive, are looking forward to entertaining their family Christmas Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce H. Smith and children David, Michael and Gregory, will arrive early from Birmingham and daughter Mary Sue will be here from Detroit.

Other guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Newton Skillman Jr. and children, Christopher, Amy, Tony, Stephen and Timmy of Lake Angelus.

Coming from Garden City will be a niece and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Hoeft with children, William Jr., DeeDee and a new baby.

The Collis Scotts of Cherokee Road are looking forward to the arrival of their daughter and son-in-law, the William Clarks of Port Huron for the Christmas weekend.

Seated around the holiday table will also be the A. W. Dickinsons of Lake Angelus, the Osborn A. Campbells of Birmingham, the William G. Dickinsons and Mrs. Talbot Bowers of Dayton, Ohio.

On Christmas morning the Scotts and the Clarks will go to the Arthur H. Scotts II on Menominee Road to be with Shelley (age 1½) when she opens her presents. The other set of proud grandparents, the William W. Donaldsons, will also be there.

Christmas festivities for the Donald Murphys of Union Lake begin early. First comes breakfast with guests, Mrs. Howard W. Casey, Mrs. Daniel Murphy Sr. and the Walter Harrods.

Others will include the Daniel T. Murphys with children Jerry, Gwen, Kevin and Lori; and the Thomas Murphys of Royal Oak and the Gene R. Cudenys of Lansing with Mark, and David.

WILL SPEND DAY

Except for the Harrods, the whole group will stay through the day and join in a buffet supper later along with their host and hostess and their children, Sharon, Michael, Timothy, Patricia and Barbara.

Family dinner and the tree will be enjoyed Christmas Eve in the West Walton Boulevard home of Circuit Judge and Mrs. Clark J. Adams.

Their guests will include Mrs. Adams' mother Mrs. M. M. Clark, Highland Park; the couple's son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Vernon C. Burris, with children Roger and Janet; and Judge Adams' brother and sister-in-law, Probate Judge and Mrs. Donald E. Adams with son David.

Friends of the family, Mr. and Mrs. Everett K. Garrison, also will be present.

Harcourt Patterson Jr. is home for Christmas vacation from Culver Military Academy in Indiana with his parents, the senior Pattersons of Hammond Lake.

A Christmas Day dinner at the Pattersons will include Mrs. Patterson's mother, Mrs. E. L. Page and her sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Wixam of Grand Rapids.

He is the son of Mrs. A. B. McDonald of Bryn Mawr, Pa. and the late Mr. McDonald.

The couple arrived here recently following their nuptials in St. Jerome's Cathedral, Los Angeles.

The honeymooners will spend Christmas with her parents along with Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Jerome Jr. who are here from Indianapolis, Ind.

Rounding out the family picture on the holiday will be the Jeromes' other son, Tim.

Abby Sends Her Greetings

'Merry Christmas, Men'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Dear Readers: The Pacific Stars and Stripes, a semi-official daily newspaper, under authority of the Department of Defense, has a readership of some 200,000 servicemen in the Far East, including Japan, Korea, Taiwan, Okinawa, the Philippines, Guam and Viet Nam.

James H. Shaw, their assistant feature editor, asked me to write a special Christmas letter to the "guys" who read my column in their paper. I did.

And I want to share it with all my readers, since I know I reflect your sentiments as well as my own. Here it is:

Dear Guys: How does one say "Seasons Greetings" to men in action where seasons are scarcely noted and the surroundings are nothing like home.

The Yuletide in your American homeland won't be quite the same without you. And I know that millions of Americans would like to send you personal greetings with gratitude were it possible.

I have no official right to speak for anyone else to convey a holiday message of love and kisses, and of a deeply-felt prayer for your success and safety.

But I can feel the pulse of your country, boys, and I say it is steady and strong and in rhythm with your efforts. So, strange as it may sound, in a place where merriest is a memory and happiness a stranger, Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to the American armed and special forces across the seas!

We love you and want you back when the job you are doing for all of us is done. God bless you, kids.

Sincerely yours, Abby

By SIGNE KARLSTROM

Around the Christmas table at the home of Mrs. M. M. Burgess there will be 22.

Her daughter and son-in-law Dr. and Mrs. T. S. Torgerson and their three children; Dr. Torgerson's mother Mrs. Thom Torgerson and the Albert J. Markkeys and their son with family.

From Charlottesville, Va., will come Mrs. John S. Kingdon and Mr. Kingdon and from Philadelphia, Mrs. Kingdon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stewart.

The Richard Jamison Williams will be surrounded by their entire family including the senior Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Williams' parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Culp.

After Christmas Day they will head for their home on Torch Lake and ski at Otsego Ski Club.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Pew will have with them their two sons and families Mr. and Mrs.

Stephen Pew with sons Scott and Stephen and Mr. and Mrs. David Pew.

At the Fred Sanders' home will be daughter and son-in-law, Mrs. and Mrs. William Chickering and their children; Mrs. Sanders' sister Mrs. H. H. Hartman.

As in former years, Jane Runyon, executive secretary of the Bradford College Alumnae will come. On December 27 Dorothy Bell, president of Bradford Jr. College, will visit for a few days.

Mrs. Don Dasher of Colonial Court will be with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Waters and their sons, Don and Jack on Beacon Hill.

Mrs. L. A. Denman of Capertill, Tenn. arrived Wednesday to spend the holidays with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Denman. Sons Jim and Troy will be home from Michigan State University for the holidays.

Guests Come From Afar for Yuletide

Patricia Hopkins of Dighton, Mass., is a houseguest at the Cherokee Road home of the Addison Oakleys; she came from Albion College with Jim Oakley. Jan, Jim's sister, is on vacation from Michigan State University.

Dr. and Mrs. Roy Schaeffer of Lorain, Ohio, are joining the Oakleys for Christmas, bringing their children, John, Bill, Tane and Narda.

The Harry J. Woodmans of South Telegraph Road have daughter Stephanie home for the holidays from Central Michigan University.

Mrs. Earl Montgomery of Northville will be joining the Woodmans for Christmas day dinner in their new apartment.

Home for the holidays from Bennett College, Millbrook, N. Y. is Susan Fitzgerald, daughter of the John W. Fitzgeralds of Bloomfield Hills.

Susan and sister Julie will enjoy Christmas dinner at home with their parents.

The Arthur Seldens of Sylvan Lake will greet week-end guests, the David Seldens of Highland Park, Ill., on Christmas morning. Son John will be traveling with his parents.

The Edward Malers of Illinois Avenue are expecting two of their daughters, and families on Christmas day for a buffet. Those coming include the Michael J. Ashleys with children, Mike, Eddy, Sally, Ann and Amy and the William Bonners.

The day after Christmas will be bringing the other Maler daughter, Mrs. Henry S. Willard with her husband and children, Henry, Nancy and Simon of Wellston, Ohio.

Newlyweds in Chicago After Rite

The newlywed Richard Lee Serwins (Harlynn Mae Izner) will honeymoon briefly in Chicago before resuming senior studies at the University of Michigan and the U. of M. Medical School, respectively.

A reception in the Grand Ballroom of the Hotel Sheraton-Cadillac in Detroit followed the candlelight ceremony performed by Rabbi Leon Fram Wednesday in the Crystal Ballroom.

Parents of the couple are Dr. and Mrs. Sanford M. Izner of Detroit and the Harry P. Serwins of Oak Park, formerly of Pontiac.

The bride's sleeveless Empire gown and chapel train of gardenia silk satin was designed with overdress and front panel of rose point lace.

A crownless cap of silk held her lace-appliqued shoulder length veil. Her bouquet was white gardenias.

Lauren Izner attended her sister as honor maid, along with bridesmaids, Sarajane Serwin, Maryann Dunitz, Victoria Lasser and Mrs. Bruce Serwin.

With Bruce Serwin, his brother's best man, were the ushers, Donald S. Beser, Michael Nosanuch, David J. Olen Michael D. Surowitz and Barry N. Tilds. Bradley Serwin carried the rings.

MRS. RICHARD LEE SERWIN

Harlynn Mae Izner, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Sanford M. Izner of Detroit, and Richard Lee Serwin, son of the Harry P. Serwins of Oak Park, formerly of Pontiac, were married Wednesday in the Hotel Sheraton-Cadillac, Detroit.

May the infinite blessings of the first Christmas be yours to cherish now and always.

Her Reply's Same to All

SAINT JAMES, Ark. — Arc welder Merle June Dehls has built enough curious art objects for her front yard to get tourists to stop and ask "What is it?"

She admits that's a part of her aim, for she enjoys creating things that arouse tourists' curiosity.

Visitors are particularly drawn to a large "bird" which could resemble an ostrich or a large fowl of prehistoric days. It is made from automobile parts, 61 plow shovels as feathers and other odd scrap metal.

Her stock answer to a visitor's "What is it?" is "It's whatever you want it to be."

School Colors Go to Feet

(UPI) Left blue and right gold shoes — or other color combinations — glittering all over the campuses shortly.

Forty coeds at Hofstra University came up with the idea of shoes in their school colors and the result was a rush to shoe stores in Garden City, N.Y.

The idea of wearing school's colors afoot came from Delta Chi Delta sorority. Evelyn Kalenscher, sorority president, said this is one way to show school pride.

Solons From Michigan Enjoy Yule's Vacation

WASHINGTON SIDELIGHTS
Esther Van Wageningen Tully
The older men in the Michigan congressional delegation tend to have Christmas "back home," but the members with young children stay in Washington.

Typical is the family of Congressman and Mrs. Charles Chamberlain, of East Lansing. It just isn't practical to drive to Michigan when the two younger children, Christine and "Chip," did not get out of school until Thursday.

The elder daughter, Ellen, came home the same day from Newton College, Mass.

Besides all the neighborhood children would be unhappy on Christmas Eve if the Congressman wasn't here to make a snowy pile of pop-corn balls, a treat he started back in East Lansing a long time ago.

Special guests this year are old friends from East Lansing, Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Harper, who now live in Charlottesville, Va.

Christmas "in Washington" will be enjoyed also by two other families with school-age children: the William Broomfields of Royal Oak and the James Harveys of Saginaw.

GO SKIING

An exception is the Gerald Ford. Every year "no matter what" including being House Republican leader, the Grand Rapids Congressman and his wife take Mike, Jack, Steve and Susan on a skiing holiday at Boyne Mount Lodge in Boyne Falls, Mich.

Another exception is the John C. Mackies of Flint.

Having missed out on an Easter vacation the Congressman and Mrs. Mackie and their three daughters, Anne (at Vassar) and the younger Margaret and Lora, are going to combine Christmas with a Florida vacation in Marathon Shores.

Senator and Mrs. Philip Hart and their eight children will have a country Christmas down on the farm... not in Michigan, but in nearby Warrenton, Va.

Congressman and Mrs. Billie S. Farnum and son Ronald, 16, will spend Christmas in Lansing, where the two older sons, Eugene (Secretary of State Senate) and Norman live with their families.

CHRISTMAS EVE

Mrs. Thomas C. Fitzpatrick of Mary Day Avenue is planning a "family open house" this evening, along with daughter Judy who is home from Eastern Michigan University.

Christmas morning, Mrs. Fitzpatrick will be at the old Orchard Drive home of her daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Douglas C. Treas and their six children.

Dinner will be at the Waldo Street home of her son and daughter-in-law the Richard C. Fitzpatricks.

Arriving from Los Angeles on Christmas Eve will be Janet Fleming, daughter of the Ernest R. Flemings of North Pine Center, West Bloomfield Township.

Christmas dinner for the family group and a houseguest, Allen Rucker of Dayton, Ohio, will be at the Royal Oak home of the William Breitmosers, Janet's aunt and uncle.

Janet formerly attended Oakland University and is presently a junior at the University of Southern California.

Christmas day will find the Leonard Sundahls of West Iroquois Road hosting dinner for her parents, the J. W. Bakers. Joining Steve and Joan Sundahl in welcoming their grandparents will be Linda, home from Olivet College.

The J. Julian Bakers with daughters, Brenda and Marcia, will be guests in the evening.

August vows are planned by Mary R. McCallister, Findlay College senior, and Daniel J. Lehman, Auburn Heights, son of the Paul Lehmans of Celina, Ohio. Her parents are Mrs. William McCallister of Findlay and the late Mr. McCallister. Mr. Lehman is a Findlay College alumnus.

Why Grow Old?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

There seems to be great confusion in the mind of many readers concerning the difference between perfume, toilet water and cologne; and also between cold cream and lubricating cream.

Perfume is made of oils from flowers, fruits, spices or gums, alcohol and a preservative. It is more expensive and has a much stronger fragrance than either toilet water or cologne.

ALCOHOLIC CONTENT
Toilet water is made with a large amount of alcohol. Its scent is much lighter than perfume. Actually toilet water and cologne are much the same, the main difference being that cologne usually depends on citrus and floral bases.

Toilet water and cologne can be used much more lavishly than perfume because of their lighter scent. The larger amount of alcohol also makes these refreshing to the skin, especially in warm weather.

Many women use toilet water and cologne generously on the body after their baths.

CREAMS
Cold cream is a more general term than lubricating cream. It is used mostly as a cleansing agent and is a water and oil emulsion. Cold cream is not usually left on the face and neck for as long as lubricating cream. The latter should remain on all night when feasible or at least for several hours when possible.

A lubricating cream's main purpose is to soften the skin and relieve dryness. It contains a lubricant. Many also have a moisture-attracting ingredient. The skin should be cleansed first with soap and water or a cold cream or cleansing cream. After the dirt and dead cells have been removed the lubricating cream can do its best work.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Reconditioning at Home" (recipes for masks, creams and bleaches) send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Lady Architect Can Fit Family Into Her Plans

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. D. M. Barnhart believes that her vocation is ideal for a wife and mother.

As a free-lance architect, she works from her home and finds that she can fit hours at her drawing board into the demands of her home and family.

Her husband is a photographer, who has his studio in one wing of the big Colonial house designed by his wife. During his busy season, Mrs. Barnhart cuts her work to a minimum.

Being at home makes it possible for her to keep her eye on her daughters, Barbara, 11, and Laura, 9.

Her older daughter Linda, is a sophomore at Texas Technological College this year — and has decided to follow her mother into the architectural field.

It's Easy to Pull Rabbit Out of the Hat

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley:
My husband rushed in with the paper to show me your column, and said: "Look here! Mary Feeley writes about this woman who has five children to care for, and lives on $40 a week!"

MARY FEELEY

He gives me $50 a week, and we have no children. But I honestly don't think my husband is making a fair comparison, and I want to know whether you think I'm being extravagant.

I pay everything including newspapers, washing which goes out to wet wash, groceries, rent, gas and electric, telephone, doctor bills resulting from a very bad accident, transportation, church contributions—around $1 every Sunday—tickets for charity things, and now will have to pay for new glasses.

My husband will not eat leftovers, so it is hard to save on the grocery bill. He wants a nice slab of meat and potato, and perhaps a nice slice of pie, at each meal. Meat comes high these days.

Do you think I'm being overpaid — as my husband seems to think?
Mrs. S. F., Gloversville, N.Y.

The Clarence Wiggins of Rosedale Avenue, West Bloomfield Township, announce the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Lou Arnold, to Donald B. Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Harris of Wolverine Lake. A March 19 altar date is set.

Stays Young in Spirits

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Mrs. Emma Rebenack keeps up with the latest books and news and can rattle off batting averages and pitching statistics on the Cardinals baseball team, but she admits she's slowing up a little.

She just got her first hearing aid, she recently had to start wearing bifocal glasses and she has had to walk with a cane since she broke her hip.

However, Mrs. Rebenack was still peppy enough to entertain the stream of friends and relatives who came to celebrate her 106th birthday at the apartment she shares with her daughter, Mrs. Lillian Mueller, 86.

Clock Needs a Clean Face

Even a clock needs a clean face!

If the clock is electric, disconnect the cord as a safety measure. Move the hands to 12 o'clock to expose maximum surface, then wipe the face, hands — and any glass door — with a sponge or cloth wrung out of dense soap or detergent suds.

If soil is encrusted around raised numerals, scrape the grooves with well-lathered cotton wrapped around a toothpick or orange stick. Rinse-wipe and dry all surfaces before resetting the clock.

Personals

The Harold Muldownys of Birmingham are expecting son, Michael from San Francisco, Calif. for the holidays.

Seated around the family dinner table for Christmas will also be the Stanley Blakes of Detroit and Mrs. William Lynch of Milwaukee, Wis.

Dr. and Mrs. George S. Ross of Westlawn Street are expecting the arrival of her daughter, Mary Grace Heiserman from Northern Michigan University for the holidays.

The Ardel L. Pierces of Shore View Drive are expecting daughter, Ann, home from St. Lawrence Hospital, Lansing where she is a student.

Then on Christmas Day the Pierces will be entertaining Mrs. Helen Teitgen, Mrs. Jean Page and Mrs. Carrie McDougal for dinner.

Christmas Day at the Lakewood Lane home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack C. Brannack will find daughter Barbara home from the University of Michigan.

Joining the family for the holiday will be Mrs. Brannack's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Don Noggle of Harbor Springs, with children Richard and Julie.

Christmas houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. William Belaney of Chippewa Road include her mother, Mrs. K. T. Ruddock of Columbus, Ohio and also Patricia Belaney of Mayfield Heights, Ohio.

to You

F. N. TAKIS

and the KINGSLEY INN STAFF

Dear Mrs. F.:

When I get through laughing merrily, I will suggest this: tell your husband to go find that copy of the paper and reread that column. The $40 per week that woman spent for her family, including five children, was only for food. This figure does not include all the other non-edibles we're buying in the supermarkets today.

An annual survey of food stores for 1964 shows that non-edibles amount to 25 per cent of all food store sales. Added to the basic major items of soaps, detergents, household supplies, pet foods, are health and beauty aids, greeting cards, magazines, housewares, toys.

Now let's see how you're doing. Let's assume that your weekly expenses could figure up like this:

$20 for rent; $3 for church; $21 for food plus $5 for non-edibles; $1 for charitable obligations in your community; $1 for newspapers; $2 for laundry, and dry cleaning; $3 to $4 for utilities. That's already about $56 a week. We still haven't allowed anything for your doctor bills or transportation. Getting to and from the doctor's office, whether by bus or taxi, must cost a fair sum each week.

You probably forgot to mention the cost of cosmetics, and if they're only the basics they will still cost something.

Of course, I don't actually know what you're paying for rent. But these estimates I mention are actually on the conservative side. I think you're doing a commendable job to cover all of these expenses on just $50 a week.

I have found from long experience in discussing household money problems with wives of all ages that there is one sure way of quieting a complaining husband: suggest he take care of the bills for a couple of weeks including the weeks' grocery shopping, so he'll see how well you are doing.

Genie Burns Honored

Kettering Names DAR Award Winner

By JAMIE SCHUTT
Senior Genie Burns was recently informed by the Waterford Kettering staff that she was the recipient of the Daughters of the American Revolution Good Citizenship Award.

Winners of the award are chosen on the basis of dependability, patriotism, service, loyalty and leadership.

Genie, a cheerleader for four years, is a member of both the National Honor Society and the Student Council.

She was president of the junior class last year.

With eight other girls from area schools, Genie was honored at a tea by the General Richardson chapter of the DAR.

DAR SCHOLARSHIP
She is now qualified to apply for a special DAR scholarship by composing a theme on a selected subject.

Ralph Windeler is a semi-finalist in the Michigan Mathematics Prize Competition.

Girl's Athletic Association completed their Christmas project this week. They sewed colorful Christmas stockings, and filled them with tangerines, candy canes, nuts and other holiday candies.

Members took the stockings to the Children's Center on Telegraph Road.

GET CLUB CARDS
Ski Club and ski team members received club cards this week.

MERRY CHRISTMAS — The holiday season will be a happy one for needy families adopted by Waterford Township High School homerooms. Pictured filling the last of the Christmas boxes which were delivered yesterday are Student Council officers Julie Appel of 70 S. Avery, recording secretary, and Michael McIntyre of 272 Highgate, president. Both are Waterford Township residents.

School Council Conducts Three-Week Campaign

By JEAN PRIESTLEY
Waterford Township High School Student Council representatives finished delivering Christmas baskets yesterday after a three-week campaign to aid needy families.

Every homeroom "adopted" one or more families to provide them with a Christmas dinner, toys for the children and money to purchase clothing.

The baskets were taken to the homes by the council member of each homeroom.

One class, Mrs. Arden Newell's eleventh graders, collected two boxes and one large bag of gifts.

The drive is an annual project, but this is the first year homerooms have worked to aid a particular family.

PROJECT'S COORDINATOR
Chairman and coordinator of the project was senior Carol Petar, Student Council vice president.

Lou Best, a senior, was named first-place area winner of the local Voice of Democracy speech contest Thursday by unanimous decision of the judges.

Students from Waterford Kettering and Our Lady of the Lakes high schools also entered the competition with original three- to five-minute taped speeches.

The speech topic was "Democracy — What It Means to Me." It was chosen by the sponsoring National Association of Broadcasters and the local Veterans of Foreign Wars post.

OTHER CONTESTS
Louis is now eligible to enter the district, state and national competition in January and February.

Five WTHS graduates were recently honored at a dinner given by Michigan State University for enrolled students who achieved All-A academic records during the spring and summer terms.

The five were Kathryn Jones and Sandra McKimney in the university college, Laulani Marshall in veterinary medicine and David Smith and Richard Toles in social science.

Also featured will be a trio performance given by Lynn Henderstein, Kathy Kendrick and Mary Jo Myers.

Four Dolphin members recently took part in a swim clinic held at Eastern Michigan University. They learned new and improved methods of synchronized swimming.

Each school entered contributed one routine. Central's was a flapper routine with background music of the 1920's.

Officers for the coming year are Susan Ninotti, president; Nancy Hsu, vice president; and Peggy O'Neill, secretary.

Other officers are Mary Jo Myers, treasurer; Sonya Hutchinson, historian; and Cynthia Howlett, social director. Mrs. Arthur Chantler is the Dolphin instructor.

Clarkston Students on Yule Vacation
By CATHY RICHARDSON
Today is the first day of Christmas vacation for Clarkston High students.

Yesterday school ended with a Christmas assembly, the joint product of Student Government, vocal music department, and the senior band.

Student Government members acted out a skit "Twas the Night Before Christmas."

Vocal and instrumental groups presented various selections.

Earlier in the week members of the Student Government sold raffle tickets for a Christmas present.

Another WTHS senior, Gaylene Mansfield, was crowned Waterford's Junior Miss in the contest sponsored by Waterford Jaycees last weekend.

OTHER REQUIREMENTS
More than a beauty contest, the Junior Miss competition required talent (Gaylene did modern dance), poise and speaking ability from the winner.

She is an honorary member of Student Council and the daughter of the Arthur Mansfield of Durham Drive, Waterford Township.

Art Club is responsible for some of the holiday decorations that appeared in the school last week.

A diorama picturing a cozy parlor decorated for the holidays was designed for one showcase in the front entrance and three six-foot wide men in black and gold stood in the north stairwell.

Student Council decorated the Christmas tree in the lobby.

Art Classes Decorate PCH Halls
By HELEN COLLIAS
To decorate the halls for this festive season, various art classes at Pontiac Central High School made huge and colorful Christmas cards. They were displayed in several doorway windows throughout the building.

Gaily trimmed bells and posters were displayed in the auditorium for the annual Christmas assembly. Mrs. Charles Smith is the head of the art department.

Central's all-girl synchronized swim team, the Dolphins, has chosen a "monopoly board" theme for their annual presentation. Soloist this year is Constantine Deterling.

Two duets will be performed by Marcia Luther and Susan Ninotti and Cynthia Howlett and Nancy Hsu, respectively.

Holly Spending a Quiet Week

By LINDA LONGSTRETH
Holly High School is spending a quiet week during Christmas vacation.

Activities will start up Jan. 3, when school resumes.

A Christmas assembly for the student body was held yesterday.

Seniors received their graduation pictures last Friday.

The Tell-Tale yearbook staff met their first deadline Saturday with the first 32 pages.

Holly High School's Future Teachers Club is planning a tea for teachers and prospective cadette teachers in the near future.

2 Yule Assemblies Presented at PNH

By ALICE TURNER
Two Christmas assemblies, featuring the music department, helped get Pontiac Northern students into the Christmas spirit this week.

Christmas favorites were presented to the student body by the various choirs and ensembles in the first and second hour class period.

The choirs were under the direction of Judith Davis and John Tousey.

Highlighting the assembly was the modern dance interpretation of "The Night Before Christmas" presented by PNH's cheerleaders, under the direction of Madeline Thomas.

VARIOUS CLUBS
A Christmas stocking was presented to PNH's exchange student from Germany by the International Club.

Donations from the various clubs and organizations about the school provided the funds for Monika's Christmas.

PNH students are still anxiously awaiting the arrival of the two exchange students from Argentina.

It was announced this week that one of the two would arrive Sunday. The other is scheduled to arrive Jan. 8.

The senior class sponsored an all-school dance Wednesday in the cafeteria. The theme was "Christmas Carnival."

Homeroom B-47 received first place in the door decoration contest. Students were served ice cream and received a letter of commendation.

Honorable mentions were awarded homerooms B-45, A-21, B-46, B-32 and B-10.

Christmas vacation began with the dismissal of school Wednesday.

Emmanuel Drive

Team Effort Helps Orphans

By LINDA WRIGHT
The true spirit of giving was put into practice last few weeks by the students of Emmanuel Christian School.

The junior high and high school undertook the task of getting together articles of clothing and toys for Christmas boxes to send to orphanages in Mexico.

Frank Gonzales told of these orphans earlier in the year when he visited our school.

Gonzales is president of one home and his concern for the youngsters became ours.

The plan originated in the junior class, but it was not long before everyone wanted to have a part.

GRATIFYING
To those of Emmanuel who helped, this should prove a gratifying Christmas.

To those less fortunate youngsters who receive the gifts, it will be a happier one.

Wednesday afternoon, the PCH Club presented a Christmas play for the entire student body.

Lady of Lakes

By CECILIA PARKER
Seniors at Our Lady of the Lakes High School, in preparation for graduation, recently selected class symbols.

Chosen were dark green and ivory, class colors; yellow tea rose, class flower; "Ebb Tide" (instrumental version), class song; and St. Michael, class patron.

The selected class motto is "Not the dusk, but the dawn; not the end, but the beginning."

Wednesday is the date reserved for the last dance of the year, "65 A-Gone-Gone."

It will be presented by the seniors in the school gym from 8 to 11:30 p.m.

Featured will be the "Chosen Few," formerly known as "The Manchesters."

Dress will be informal.

Rochester
By KATHY MORGAN
Richard Goldsworthy, instrumental music instructor, led the Rochester High School band in several selections at its Christmas assembly yesterday.

Joining voices, the treble and concert choirs performed the "Hallelujah Chorus."

The Madrigal Singers, a group of five boys and five girls, presented one song.

Eloise Tallent, speech teacher, directed her classes in skits and pantomimes.

Santa Claus presented the school's "spirit jug" to the class contributing the most food in the student council canned food drive.

PACKED FOOD
The Goodfellows of Rochester packed and distributed the food.

Foreign language classes went Christmas caroling this week.

Milford
By RICHARD WIXOM
Milford High School's Drama Club recently cast its first play of the year, "Harvey."

The play, a three-act comedy by Mary Chase, is tentatively scheduled for production in February.

One part, that of Duane Wilson, a sanitarian attendant, remains unfilled.

Grace Leppala, English teacher, will direct the production with William Gray as student director.

On Christmas morning, Lisbeth and her family go to church in a sleigh drawn by horses. They carry torches to light the road and keep warm. Their small white church is decorated with candles and a Christmas tree on each side of the altar.

Three Exchange Students Recall Yule in Homeland

By RON MOOREHEAD
Three exchange students at Walled Lake High School recently told of Christmas celebrations in their homelands.

Sylvia Trunitt, from Germany, said the Christmas season starts four Sundays before the 25th and is called "Adventsontage."

Wreaths are made with four candles on them and, each Sunday, a candle is lighted.

There is no Santa Claus as we know him.

Instead, the people have Nikolaus, who dresses like Santa but brings no toys.

FRUIT COOKIES
If the children have been good, they receive fruit and cookies.

If they've been bad, "you'd better vanish," says Sylvia, "because he carries a long stick!"

Marjatta Turunen, from Finland, revealed that, on Christmas Eve, they go to the Helsinki War Cemetery where the people light candles on the graves.

After this, they return home for Christmas dinner topped by a rice porridge with a "lucky almond" in it for dessert.

ALMOND TREAT
Whoever gets the almond is supposed to get married or engaged during the coming year.

Lisbeth Winqvist, from Sweden, related that, on Christmas Eve, the closest relatives come to dinner and then await the arrival of Jultomten, the Swedish Santa.

He is usually a member of the family and, in Lisbeth's case, her grandfather.

On Christmas morning, Lisbeth and her family go to church in a sleigh drawn by horses. They carry torches to light the road and keep warm. Their small white church is decorated with candles and a Christmas tree on each side of the altar.

West Bloomfield Clubs Holding Sales for Funds
By MARGIT MISANGYI
Various clubs and organizations at West Bloomfield High School are holding sales campaigns to benefit the individual clubs' treasury and assure each of a financially happy new year.

The American Field Service Club is selling Christmas note paper.

Future Homemakers of America are offering W. B. pennants and the junior class is selling candy.

Individual competition was held in the junior class.

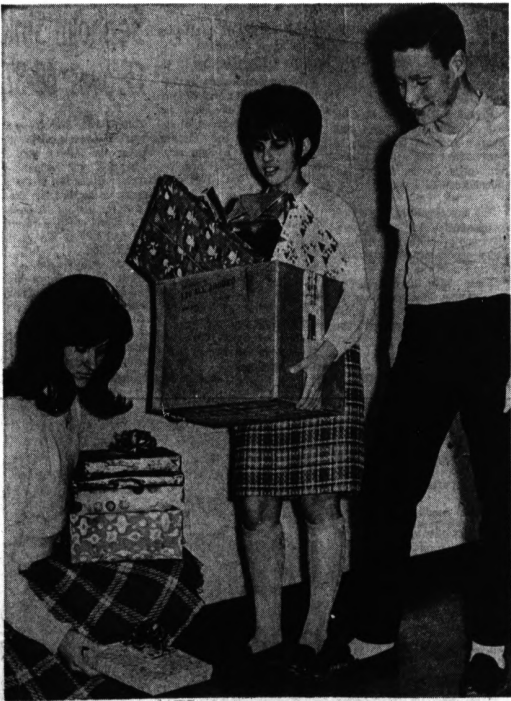

Among the top sellers were Michael Williams, Diane Parker and Browney Mascoe, class president.

FROM THE SPORTS DEPARTMENT

DEC. 24, 1965
DEAR SANTA:

We know you left the North Pole several days ago.

Our Gemini fliers reported your take off from the Arctic Pancake House where they spotted red-nosed Rudolph locking racks with Blitzen, Dasher and Dancer.

We hope your internal deer problems are solved before you reach our great sports kingdom with all your gifts for our Tigers, Lions, Wings, Pistons, Spartans, Wolverines, Titans, Tartars, Chips, Broncos and the rest of our menagerie of athletes tonight.

As you cross the warm Pacific Eastward, be sure to stop at Pasadena to watch the roses for DUFFY DAUGHERTY and the Spartans and bring back an everlooming variety for BUMP ELLIOTT and the Wolverines at Ann Arbor.

Leave our local lad STEVE JUDAY with a 65 per cent completion record for his date with UCLA next week so that the pros will swamp him with offers.

When you arrive in the Pontiac-Detroit area leave a couple of highway steeds for HARRY GILMER, a defensive coach-of-the-year award for CARL BRETTSCHEIDER, and a this-is-your-life date as the NFL's greatest linebacker for retiring JOE SCHMIDT.

Stop at EDWIN ANDERSON and find that lucky yellow shirt he had when the Lions used to win, and tighten the strings in BILL FORD's racket so he can be in shape to swat again.

RUSS THOMAS wants a couple sleeper draft choices, FRIDAY MACKLEM wants bigger locker rooms, trainer MILLARD KELLEY wants people to put the "E" back into his name when they spell it.

For our associates on the Lions' beat, GEORGE PUSCAS and BEN DUNN, leave a LOONEY LESS winter, and for the Lions in general leave a rifle-armed quarterback.

TIGER STADIUM

While at Tiger Stadium, don't forget the home tenants the Tigers, a book on bunts for CHARLEY DRESSEN, some .300 bats for AL KA-

LINE, BILL FREEHAN and NORM CASH and 50 victories between HANK AGUIRRE and DENNIS MCLEAN.

Nearby at Cobo Hall the Pistons are desperately in need of a 7-foot Silt and a rookie in the line of BILL RUSSELL.

It's only a short jaunt over to Olympia where SID ABEL and the Red Wings want another season title and a Stanley Cup playoff crown to go with it.

A few more 600-goal HOWE-type players would be appreciated and you might throw in a couple LINDSAYS, BELIVEAUS and HALLS.

For basketball coach DAVE STRACK at Michigan leave a ball control device to fight off the late court press and a couple CAZZIES to get back the No. 1 spot.

For JOHN BENNINGTON at Michigan State change the St. Louis Blues to the East Lansing Green & White capped with a couple transfer cagers.

BOB CALIHAN and the U. of D. quint need Mandrake's wand to pull out the big win and JOEL MASON at Wayne wants a another team of the Primas-Wagner-Kline era.

Don't forget a lot of headlines and winning sports news for all the drumbeaters, FRED ETTNER at MSU, LES MIDDLESMITH of the Tigers; LYALL SMITH, the Lions; RON CANTERA, the Wings; GEORGE MASKIN, the Pistons; PAUL PENTECOST and DICK WILSON with the local tracks and all the other fine public relations men in sports who measure success in victories and ink.

Be especially kind to our golfers and golf pros, with an anti-slice ball and hole-in-one club for everyone.

COACH OF YEAR — Michigan State's Duffy Daugherty was a strong choice in the Football Writers Assn. voting as national college Coach-of-the-Year. Duffy polled 457 per cent of the votes cast by 627 members.

Socializing Over

MSU Starts Grid Drill

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — "next week," announced Coach The honeymoon of socializing. Duffy Daugherty. As of Friday, Daugherty is late hours and outside distractions will end abruptly for the Michigan State football team during the Christmas holidays. Preparations for the Rose Bowl may. We want complete concentration on game preparation.

The only late date allowed the MSU footballers next week will be the Big Ten dinner on Wednesday night.

MAV MOVE

Daugherty also is thinking of moving from the Brookside Park practice field, adjacent to the Rose Bowl, to the East Los Angeles junior college field. He started kicking around the idea of the transfer Thursday after spectators along jammed the field sidelines and ringed the fence.

"It looks like we have more people here today than we had for our open house (Wednesday)." Daugherty observed. But it would take 50 state troopers to keep them all away.

"I'm not so much interested in the security angle as in concentration. Anytime you have people along the sidelines it interferes with the concentration."

"These distractions might have served a useful purpose this week. I didn't want them ready to play this Saturday."

Wing Victory Cheers Abel

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Red Wings Manager Coach Sid Abel got an early double Christmas present Thursday night — the return of three starters and a 4-2 victory over the New York Rangers.

It was the only National Hockey League game played.

Defenseman Bill Gadsby, sidelined for three weeks because of a knee operation; forward Ron Murphy, who has played but two of the last 18 games because of assorted injuries; and forward Floyd Smith, out for three games because of a shoulder injury, returned to action.

All three figured in the scoring as the Red Wings moved into sole possession of third place, thanks to a pair of third period goals by Paul Henderson.

QUICK GOALS

The 22-year-old right winger, who was criticized by Abel recently for lackadaisical play, scored twice in a 45-second span to lock up the victory.

Garry Peters put the Rangers in front with the only goal of the first period, but the Red Wings bounced back and fired 21 shots

CHUCK DAVEY wants a revival of good boxing in Michigan; MORT GRADDIS, FRED MOLITOR, JOE KOSIK and the other ski area operators want snow, snow, snow; water skiers and fishermen on county lakes need a peace pact without unfair boat laws and the city needs a sports center and auditorium to inject life into the recreational and athletic needs of the citizenry.

National and world championships for Blufffield Hills ice skater TIM WOOD, and ditto in roller skating for the BERT ANSELMINI proteges at the Rolladium are also requested.

Emmanuel Christian needs a bigger male enrollment to allow scrimmages; PAUL DELLERBA wants another football year at FCH as the past season, except a few more extra points which cost the Bay City loss.

JOHN MOFFATT at Waterford needs more backs, JIM LARKIN at Kettering bigger linemen and Clarkson needs more DAN PIPES as PNH needs more HAYWARD boys.

RAMMED OUT — Head coach Harland Sware was fired today as head coach of the Los Angeles Rams of the NFL. Sware, 35, replaced Bob Waterfield who remains in the 1962 season. His record with the Rams was 14-31-3.

Wayne Hillman of the Rangers tied the score again early in the third period and things seemed destined to remain that way until Henderson's flurry which started at 15:37.

"I was going to pass the puck over to Jimmy Peters and thought Val Fonteyne knocked the puck in," said Henderson, who has eight goals — the same number he had in 70 games last year.

The puck on Henderson's first goal hit a New York defenseman and went through Simmons' legs.

TWO IN NETS

Simmons kept the Rangers in the game almost single-handedly as he finished with 36 saves to 23 for Detroit's combo of Roger Crozier and Hank Basciano.

Crozier was hit a glancing blow on the cheek by the puck early in the first period and sat out about five minutes. The only damage done was a chipped tooth.

The loss kept the Rangers nine points in back of fourth-place Toronto. New York has won but one game and tied two others in eight starts since Emile Francis took over in the dual capacity of manager and coach.

4 All-Star Elevens in Action Saturday

By the Associated Press

A couple of all-star games, showcases for some of the nation's top individual collegiate football talent, serve as appetizers Saturday, Christmas Eve.

Six All-Americans will be in action, three on each side, when the North plays the South in Miami. The other is the Blue-Gray, matching seniors from above and below the Mason-Dixon line, in Montgomery, Ala. Both games are Christmas afternoon.

Each is scheduled for national television, ABC will handle the North-South, with kickoff set for 4:30 p.m. EST. CBS has the Blue-Gray game, with kickoff at 4 p.m. EST.

Baseball Schedules

Free Agent Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — The major leagues' winter free agent draft will be held in New York on Saturday, Jan. 29, William Eckert, the baseball commissioner, announced Thursday.

Eligible for selection in this semi-annual draft are high school graduates who have passed their 17th birthday and collegians either past 21 or going into their second year.

The January draft is expected to be comparatively light. Baseball people estimate no more than 50 players will be picked.

Bruins Win 'Meal' War

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The UCLA football team got credit for outwitting Michigan State but the Bruins needed help from the Rose-Bowl Queen and her court to do it.

The Bruins and their guests—including Queen Carole Cota and her six princesses—consumed 21 pounds of prime ribs of beef Thursday night.

That was nine more pounds than was served to the 44-man Spartan team and its guests the night before.

"I think they're eating too much," commented UCLA Coach Tommy Prothro, observing the feed.

Basketball Scores

The first draft of high school and college players was held last June when the 20 major league clubs and their minor league affiliates selected 414 free agents, of which 421 have signed professional contracts. Later, another dozen American Legion graduates were selected. The January draft is expected to be comparatively light. Baseball people estimate no more than 50 players will be picked.

Hornung Is Money Player

Pistons Make Trade for Two From Hawks

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Pistons announced the acquisition today of guard Charles Vaughn and forward John Tresvant from the St. Louis Hawks in exchange for guard Rod Thorn, and the farming out of former Michigan All-American Bill Buntin.

Vaughn, who is 6-foot-3, is in his fourth season in the National Basketball Association. Tresvant, 6'7, has been used sparingly during the past two seasons by the Hawks.

"We had to do something," said Player-Coach Dave DeBusschere in Los Angeles. The Pistons have won only nine of their first 31 games.

The latest setback was to the Los Angeles Lakers, 122-112, last night.

Buntin, the team's No. 1 draft pick, will be listed as the team's 12th man.

LITTLE SERVICE
He averaged 8.8 points and had 194 rebounds in 29 games with the Pistons. He has seen little service in recent weeks.

"Maybe this will shake up Buntin," said DeBusschere. "He was overweight when he reported (three weeks) late and he hasn't lost many pounds since."

Tresvant and Vaughn will report to the Pistons in Los Angeles Saturday. Thorn, who played at West Virginia and was hitting at a 14-point clip, will join the Hawks in New York the same night.

HONOLULU (UPI) — The Makaha International surfing championships, postponed Thursday because of spotty wave action, were to resume today with the senior and junior men's finals.

Packers Await Playoff Game

Lombardi Pondering

Colts' QB Strategy

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Vince Lombardi says Paul Hornung has no peer when the pressure is on, and the erratic gaudy boy likely can smell the championship dollars that will emanate from a victory over Baltimore in the National Football League's Western Division playoff Sunday.

Right now, however, foremost in Lombardi's mind is what kind of a pressure player makeshift Colt quarterback Tom Matte is.

"The trouble with playing for this game is that we don't know if Matte will use roll-outs or drop-back passes," the Packers coach said.

Matte, a halfback who had his first taste at pro quarterbacking the past two weeks, will take over for the injured Johnny Unitas and Garry Cuzzo.

Matte was a quarterback at Ohio State under Woody Hayes' "three yards and a cloud of dust" philosophy, and did a lot more running than passing. Hornung, who had one of his greatest days in pro football against Baltimore two weeks ago when he scored five touchdowns, injured his ribs in the San Francisco game.

HE WILL START

However, he has been running well this week and Lombardi says "if the game were today, I'd start Hornung."

Matte goes into the crucial test against the Packers with crib sheets.

Matte has had to learn plays, audibles, pass patterns and most important, enemy defenses.

Since it takes most pro quarterbacks years to master their plays, Matte is being "helped" along by the use of crib sheets, plays written with red ink on a plastic band on his wrist.

Buffalo Bills' Kemp Picked

Most Valuable

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Quarterback John Hadl of the San Diego Chargers has a special reason to try to impress Buffalo quarterback Jack Kemp when the two meet in the American Football League championship game Sunday.

Kemp, the league's No. 4 passer, made the all pro team and was voted the league's most valuable player by an AP panel. Hadl was merely the league's No. 1 passer.

He completed 174 passes out of 347 attempts for a 50.1 percentage, 2,798 yards and 20 touchdowns.

The Chargers were one touchdown favorites to win the championship from the Bills as San Diego coach Sid Gillman announced that rookie Gene Foster will replace injured Keith Lincoln as starting fullback.

San Diego beat Buffalo 34-2 in their first encounter of the season. The second game ended in a 20-20 tie.

Christmas trees come and are soon gone; but the good, sturdy stands that support them are valued possessions that last for years.

The Pontiac Women's Bowling Association had such a dependable foundation for its daily requirements for 19 years; now the nearly 12,000-member administrative organ must draw its strength from a new secretary.

"Peggy" Bender, secretary for the PWBA since 1945 stepped down last summer. Gen. Bradley relinquished her duties as a very capable president (for 11 years) and was elected as the replacement.

"Madame PWBA" was practically ailing since 1945 stepped down last summer. Even now, she is still active.

PEGGY BENDER

while she is able to bowl or visit many leagues, she is close to the sport.

She is the only honorary member of the PWBA executive board and serves as an adviser when able to make the meetings. There are 26 elected members, plus Mrs. Bender.

"Peggy" moved to Pontiac in 1933 with husband Jack and joined the Pioneer League which is still active.

She became active in the association and after its incorporation in 1941, was elected president in 1943. This position she had to resign when her husband was transferred back to Cleveland, but they returned here in 1945.

Then began her seven-term tenure as PWBA secretary. "Peggy" also was the local delegate to 15 Women's International Bowling Congress Conventions.

While never a headline-grabbing bowler she still can point proudly to a 155 average one year and a trophy as a member of the Elks Ladies National championship team.

The job of being secretary for the plus 300 local women's bowling leagues is now a full-time assignment that even requires some assistants occasionally.

"I didn't realize there was that much to do," new secretary Gen. Bradley admitted recently. She, more than anyone else, can appreciate what Peggy Bender did for women's bowling here.

Many many more remember her during the current season for cheery holiday wishes.

Year-End Splurge of Films Annoys Critics, Audiences

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — Notes while waiting for the fat man with the whiskers: Such madness, this last minute crush of movie releases to hit the Christmas trade and make the Oscar deadline. Critics are irritated by the onrush of films and can't give fair evaluations. Academy voters are confused. The public is at a New York banquet. This is like Scrooge than Tiny Tim. As long as we're grumbling, let's take on the newsworld. Remember when they used to be packed with news and entertainment? They gave you everything from summit meetings to water skiing, a must, to Layla's nonsense. "Monkeys is de coziest people."

What do you get in newsworld now? Commercial.

RECENT REEL
I caught two in a recent reel. A blatant ad for a luggage concern in which a "packing consultant" supposedly was showing pro footballers how to pack for traveling; also a puff for the MGM president who was feteled at a New York banquet. This is Most feted Britisher since Princess Margaret is Michael Caine, the mid-looking sleuth of "The Ipcress File." Universal, which sponsored the film and has him in "Gambit" with Shirley MacLaine, gave him a party at the Other Place, the new private discotheque that offers billiards as well as Watutsi. Miss MacLaine acted as hostess.

TAKEN IN STRIDE
Then Paramount, which also has Caine under contract for films, tossed an elegant dinner for him at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel. The mild-mannered Caine took it all in stride, displaying little animation until he danced the rug with Shirley.

The old order passes. Donna Reed did her last television show of her series this week. So did Vincent Edwards of Ben Casey. Dick Van Dyke reports he has only 15 days to go.

William Holden, still recovering from his recent illness, finished "Alvarez Kelly." He stays on for Christmas with his family, then plans to spend four months at the Mt. Kenya Safari club he owns with oilman Ray Ryan.

Lighting up the local social scene is Gloria Swanson, who never fails to stagger party guests with her ageless beauty. "No, woe this trip," she reports. "I'm just here for Christmas with my mother, children and grandchildren."

And a Merry Christmas to all.

French Units to Stay Abroad

PARIS (AP) — France plans to maintain military units in 1966 in nine of her former colonies south of the Sahara, official sources said today.

The units, the sizes of which were not given, have been kept in the now independent states under accords made with France.

The main units will be based at Dakar, Senegal; Lamy, Chad; and at the Diego Suarez-Invato complex on Madagascar. Other units will remain based in Niger and Gabon and military airfields will be maintained at Port Bouet, Ivory Coast; Douala, Cameroon; Atar, Mauritania; and Bangui, Central African Republic.

Under accords signed with the countries when they became independent, France aids in their defense, either with units based in Africa or in France.

Most Gas Stations to Close Tomorrow

DETROIT (AP) — About 90 per cent of Michigan's gas stations will be closed on Saturday, Christmas Day, the Automobile Club of Michigan warned today.

"Sufficient gas stations will be open along freeways to prevent motorists from becoming stranded," said Jerry E. Fisher, Auto Club touring manager.

"However, long-distance drivers are advised to stop for gas whenever an opportunity presents itself after driving between 100 and 150 miles."

Mountaineer Postman Has Hard Haul

HINDMAN, Ky. (AP) — "I've gone through these mountains over time. Arthritis of the spine had knocked me out of the mines when I couldn't do much farming, either," he recalled.

"I've seen it so cold my feet froze in the stirrups and I had to reach down and break 'em loose."

"And there have been times that my horse or mule would get so covered with ice that I'll bet its tail weighed 75 pounds. Oh, Lord, I've been through snow, down to zero temperatures and below zero."

At 62, Irvin Pratt figures he's made about 1,500 trips through the surrounding hills on his three-week horseback mail route. He missed only one trip "and that was back some years when I had pneumonia."

BEEN A SPELL
But now he isn't so sure he wants to continue. It's been a while since the Post Office Department raised his salary and, with pensions, he would live comfortably without it.

"I asked for a raise and they asked me if they gave me one would I keep on," he said. "I told 'em I might, I'm not sure."

Pratt, a tall, thin mountain man, concedes that his age isn't making the 22-mile daily trip any easier. And he points out that he must furnish his own transportation.

10-YEAR VETERAN
Pratt has used up two horses and three mules in his 10 years on the job.
Flora Honeycutt, postmistress at nearby Pine Top where Pratt picks up his mail, said she doesn't believe she could find a suitable replacement if he quits.

"It would be hard to find anybody — and especially someone who would make the trip and could be depended on," she said.

Pratt, a father of two and grandfather three times, farmed and "did a lot of mining — I guess I put in 20 years in the mines" before he took over carrying mail by horseback.

The training, according to the broadcast monitored here, specialized in traffic problems, practice police work, criminology, socialist law, gymnastics, and army infantry tactics.

Ford Raps Draft as Punishment

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican Leader Gerald L. Ford said yesterday the draft call "should not be used for punitive purposes."

Ford's statement, made public by his office here, gave a bipartisan flavor to protests raised in Congress and in some legal quarters about the reclassifying of a number of Michigan students as 1A. The students thus put into the prime draftable group had staged sit-ins at a draft board office in Ann Arbor, Mich., as an antiwar protest.

Ford said Selective Service should be used only to supply the required number of men for the armed forces. Any violation of law, he added, should be punished under regular statutes, not by means of the draft.

In another development, a group of prominent law professors sent a letter to President Johnson, urging him to say that "the draft will not and legally cannot be used as a weapon to stifle criticism of administration policies, or to impose conformity on issues which vitally affect the American people."

LETTER SENT
In Austin, Tex., Joseph Laitin, assistant White House press secretary, said the professors' letter had been referred to the Justice Department. He had no further comment on it.

The letter, signed by 103 professors from many leading law schools, criticized Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of the draft, for saying that students who took part in "unlawful" demonstrations would be reclassified 1A. The letter said there were "serious doubts" about the legality of this procedure.

Hershey defended the action Wednesday in a letter to Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee and a congressional critic of the draft actions.

Hershey said "any deliberate, illegal obstruction of the administration of the law by a registrant cannot be tolerated."

GIVEN CHANCE
Hershey added "it has always been my view that, whenever possible, a young man who violates the Selective Service law should be given an opportunity to enter the armed forces rather than to be prosecuted for his violation of the law, and that prosecution should come only if he refuses to be inducted. This practice has been followed through the years."

Hershey said to his knowledge no one has been declared delinquent or subjected to a draft speedup "because of participation in legal demonstrations of political views."

In the Ann Arbor cases, some of the students were charged with trespassing for sitting in at the draft board office.

Celler said: "They were fined. That is punishment. That should have ended the matter. Instead they were sought out and branded by the local draft board as malefactors and reclassified as 1A."

HIGH RESPECT
"Despite my high respect for Gen. Hershey, I emphatically disagree with his point of view," Celler said. "He is demeaning the draft act. The draft should not be used as an instrument to punish or to stamp adherence to any political view."

PROBLEM: The cloudy tea, NEEDED: Refrigerator, stove and tea.
DO THIS: Place the tea in the refrigerator. You will notice that after a while it will begin to look cloudy. Remove the tea, heat it on the stove and it will become clear again. (This does not change the taste.)
HERE'S WHY: This result is probably due to the formation of supercolloidal particles which together produce a cloudy effect. Heating seems to disperse them into invisible true solution-size particles which are invisible.

Court Denies CMU Appeal; Request Late

LANSING (AP)—The Court of Appeals, saving Central Michigan University waited too long to object to a Senate investigation of the school, denied CMU's request Thursday for an order to stop the senators.
The investigation is over and the question therefore is moot, the court said.
Thus it sidestepped issues of how much independence the university has, how much investigative power the legislature has, and how much power the court has over the legislature.
A special Senate committee, headed by Sen. Edward Robinson, D-Deerborn, held a series of hearings on faculty-administration relations at CMU.
CMU trustees filed a complaint with the court on the last day of hearings. They sought an order blocking the senators from issuing a report on their investigation.
The trustees contended the committee had been delving into areas which, under the State Constitution, were exclusively under the trustees' control.
The court replied: "If abuses of the legislative investigative power have taken place the proper remedy would have been timely objection and a rightful refusal to answer where such bounds of power have been exceeded or the questions were not pertinent to the matter under inquiry."
It said timely objections were not made.

Parties, Clash at Meeting on Districting

LANSING (AP)—The Legislative Apportionment Commission got down to what some Republican members consider the press tacks of legislative disapproval Thursday.
But Democrats refused to be nailed down.
The eight-member bipartisan commission, which broke for the Christmas holiday, experienced what might have been its first frank political confrontation, except that Democrats declined to discuss politics.
The commission, which has scheduled three working days next week preceding its New Year's Eve midnight deadline, received two new plans Thursday and defeated one of them.

Do you see the line of play at his disposal?
It would be absurd in rubber bridge but was essential in duplicate. At trick two, South led a heart towards dummy's jack. Should East show up with the queen of hearts it would have been curtains for South, but West held that card and played it. Now South was able to make 11 tricks at no-trump.

This play gave him a score of 11½ out of a possible 12 match points. Apparently someone else found the same line of play. Settling for four no-trump would have given him only one point. One rash pair had reached a spade slam.

Q—The bidding has been:

Makes Payment on Commuter Line

NEW YORK (AP)—New York State has made a down payment of $10 million on the Long Island Railroad, which it is buying from the Pennsylvania Railroad for $65 million.
The rest of the money will be paid Jan. 20, completing the purchase of the railroad, the nation's busiest commuter line, by the Metropolitan Commuter Transportation Authority.

Holdup Nets $3,000

DETROIT (AP)—A bank-robber with an estimated $3,000 netted from the Detroit & Northern Savings and Loan Association branch on McNichols Rd. in Detroit Thursday. Witnesses described the gunman as a heavy-set man, six feet and about 65.

MAN IN SPACE — A nervy motorcyclist nearly takes to flight as he tops one of the dirt hills that dot the landscape near Auburn and Odyke. The informal scrambling grounds — a crisscrossing series of trails peppered with hills and ditches — will in the near future give way to an osteopathic college. Meantime, a leap like this provides a test of nerves, skill and, of course luck.

Repeating Strategy of 12 Years Ago

Reds Hope for 'Dien Bien Phu' in Viet

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The activities of Ho Chi Minh and his North Vietnamese regime suggest that the Communists, by repeating their Communist tactics of a dozen years ago, hope to produce a situation which might force the United States to leave South Viet Nam.

The Vietminh leadership of that day seized upon public pressure in France for an end to the fighting which was taking a painful toll of French troops and money.

In 1965, Ho has made it clear that he read manifestations in the United States to mean wariness with the cost of the Viet Nam war in lives and money. He has hailed demonstrations — although by every available yardstick these elicited a small minority of Americans — as an expression of the bulk of the U.S. people, whom he professed to admire, as he had professed to admire the French.

PEACE FEELERS

And in 1965, Ho gave interviews to visiting journalists and others in which vague hints were dropped. These were seized upon in some quarters as authentic "peace feelers."

Once again, as a dozen years ago, the Russians appear to have an active interest in bringing about negotiations.

A combination of Soviet and British activity led to a Geneva conference in April 1954. Actually, that was two conferences in one: on Korea and on Indochina.

On the day the first full session was convened in Geneva on the question of Indochina, May 8, 1954, the besieged French fortress at Dien Bien Phu fell to the Vietminh. For the weary French, it was just about all over.

SIMILARITIES

The Americans are in a much stronger military position in Viet Nam today than the French were in 1954, but there are similarities, too. The French held cities, towns and lines of communication, but they had virtually no control elsewhere in the country. The Vietminh — like the Viet Cong today — held much of the countryside in South Viet Nam.

The Communists were the French out. They had become involved in outright war in November 1946, and it went on 7½ years. The fall of mainland China to the Communists turned the tide. It permitted direct help to Ho's forces from Peking and transformed what had been a poorly armed, furtive guerrilla army into a formidable military organization.

The United States has been involved for a long time, too. The involvement goes all the way back to President Harry S. Truman's administration, although the U.S. military buildup has been fairly recent.

In May 1950, the United States decided to give economic aid to what were then the Associated States of Indochina — Laos, Cambodia and Viet Nam. That December the United States agreed with France and the Associated States on defense and mutual assistance. The North Atlantic Treaty Council affirmed support of French policy in Indochina.

U.S. involvement was modest.

Then the Americans inherited a bigger problem when the French fell and were expelled by the 1954 conference. That left a vacuum which could be filled by the Communists and, in some official U.S. eyes, menace the rest of Southeast Asia.

Neither the United States nor the government of emperor Bao Dai, which then held sway in Saigon, signed the 1954 Geneva agreements. But U.S. involvement remained relatively small until after December 1960. It was then that the Viet Cong's political arm, the National Liberation Front, proclaimed its right to represent all the South Vietnamese.

Perhaps Ho Chi Minh and his Communists suspect that the Americans, like the French before them, are finding continuation of the expensive war close to intolerable. Perhaps Hanoi has a hunch it might bring about negotiations on virtually its own terms.

Perhaps Ho Chi Minh and his Communists suspect that the Americans, like the French before them, are finding continuation of the expensive war close to intolerable. Perhaps Hanoi has a hunch it might bring about negotiations on virtually its own terms.

But then the monk started shinning up some scaffolding on the office block. Girls typing on the upper floors suddenly found the face of Santa Claus peering in at the window — with a difference.

TRAFFIC STOPPED

Crowds had spread across Holborn, one of London's busiest Christmas shopping streets. Police tried desperately to clear a path for traffic.

"Will you please get that animal down!" said a red-faced policeman to the organ-grinder.

But that wasn't so easy. The organ-grinder, trying to tempt the monkey with a biscuit. It looked at the bait and swung up to the next floor. Someone held up a bottle of beer. That was more inviting. The monkey reached down for the bottle, took two swallows and sent it spinning into the crowd.

HOOR OF FUN

After an hour more of fun and games by the chimp, firmer took up the hunt and clambered over the scaffolding with nets and ropes.

A crowd of 2,000, blocking traffic, screamed and yelled as the chimpanzee dodged his pursuers.

Finally, after 90 minutes, he was cornered. As the monkey perched on the end of a plank peering up at the firmer above, a policeman threw a rope around him from behind and so ended London's most unexpected Christmas frolic.

Conservation-minded "Teddy" Roosevelt was against cutting down trees even for Christmas, but his teenage son, Archie, once snaked a little into the White House and although reprimanded he was allowed to keep it. (It was Archie, you remember, who once put a horse in the White House elevator.)

Later President Roosevelt relented when restoration plans made planned-cutting of trees desirable.

The "other Roosevelt" (as Teddy's equally naughty daughter, Alice, used to call "FDR") insisted on reading Dickens' Christmas Carol each Christmas and sometimes the grandchildren fell asleep because Grandpa would read every word.

The same grandchildren had trouble also with Grandma Eleanor Roosevelt, who encouraged cleanliness by putting in their stockings toothpaste, combs, nail clippers, and soap.

VOVS REPEATED

During Christmas week, on Dec. 30, 1877, President Rutherford Hayes and his wife repeating their marriage vows in the Blue Room at their 25th wedding anniversary.

The first Christmas Herbert Hoover spent in the White House was almost tragic for a fire burst out in the West Wing.

Despite President Johnson's well-publicized demand for turning off the electric lights in the White House, he makes an exception during the holidays and the mansion is aglow in every window.

Across the South Lawn can be seen the nation's Christmas tree in gleaming green and white, which the President lighted in the annual peace ceremony.

STANDS TALL

The tree stands tall at the end of an avenue of smaller red and white lighted trees with the entrance marked as "Pageant of Peace."

As always, Washington has few VIPs staying here during the holidays because they, too, like to be home for Christmas and that's commonplace else.

And this is the only time of the year when the modern, international capital seems to revert to being the lazy Southern town it used to be. This is pleasing to the "real" Washingtonians, yet they resent when the First Family deserts the White House for Christmas.

The Trumans back in 1945 worried the Secret Service by flying back to Independence, Missouri in bad weather. The Eisenhower spent six of their eight White House years in Washington and remembered as the attractive red Christmas, Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower wore every year.

This year, the Johnsons are spending the holidays down on the LBJ ranch in Texas.

Some twenty members of Congress with names beginning with "F" received Christmas cards from the President minus his famous signature due to some error.

This included the two Fordes from Michigan: Democrat William D. Ford of Detroit and Republican House Leader Gerald R. Ford of Grand Rapids.

At first, Democrat Ford thought the President's second two cards was "showing his respect for my liberal voting record." Republican Ford was too polite to voice the idea that the signature was intentionally omitted from the first card.

Later both received a second card with engraved signatures of the President and the First Lady.

SHIPPING CRATE

Jesse W. Bennett Sr. of Shelby Township, a member of the Macomb County Humane Society, volunteered to build a shipping crate for Charlie and Bob DeWolfe, a Humane Society law enforcement officer, saw Charlie off at Detroit Metropolitan Airport Wednesday.

Hours later the Jennings family was reunited with Charlie.

Jennings said yesterday that although he will be transferred to Hawaii after the holidays while his family remains in Louisiana, Charlie's return has made this the merriest Christmas ever for the Jennings family.

2 Blasts Rock Santo Domingo

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI) — Two thunderous explosions rocked Santo Domingo early today, shortly after Archbishop Octavio A. Berras declared a Christmas appeal in this city where 34 persons were reported killed this week.

One explosion destroyed a hardware store owned by the Diego brothers who are described as among the principal financiers of the Dominican revolution which has plunged the nation into months of violence.

Another destroyed a cement factory.

Both explosions touched off fires which were not brought under control until dawn.

The sound of sporadic gunfire sounded through the night.

OUTBREAKS OF SHOOTING

There have been outbreaks of shooting, machine-gunning and the explosion of bombs nightly since lighting flared last Sunday in Santiago.

A government announcement said 34 persons have been killed in political disputes within the last five days, 28 of them in the Santiago clash between former rebel leaders and the Dominican air force.

Unofficial reports put the death toll as high as 40.

Court Says Trailer at Residence Legal

An Oakland County Circuit Court ruling handed down yesterday will prevent Bloomfield Township from ticketing a township resident for parking a trailer on his property.

Judge Frederick C. Ziem enjoined the township from enforcing its antitrailer ordinance against John Alda of 2915 Courville.

Alda had filed an appeal in Circuit Court asking that the ordinance be declared unconstitutional.

Alda said the trailer was used by his family for recreational purposes and has been parked at the rear of his home.

Dues Are Forgotten for Lengthy Service

NEW HOLLAND, Ill. (AP) — Two hundred meetings and 50 years after she became a member of the Order of Eastern Star, Minnie Delass was honored by her chapter.

She received a 50-year emblem and a half-century recognition card, embossed in gold.

Mrs. Delass, a retired teacher, also was excused from paying dues the rest of her life.

W, Holy Night

It is our hope that this holiday will have greater significance for the fine people of this community than ever before.

May the New Year ahead be a prosperous and meaningful one for all.

We again want to express our appreciation for the confidence that has been placed in our organization this past year.

President Garfield worked on a farm as a youngster to help support his widowed mother. He attended school three months a year during winters.

YEARLY FIGURE

Traffic accidents in the first 10 months this year killed 39,760 persons, an average of more than 120 a day and two per cent higher than the 10-month period in 1964.

The Associated Press, for comparative purposes, made a survey of highway fatalities during a nonholiday period of the same three-day time span as the Christmas weekend — from 6 p.m. Thursday Dec. 9 to midnight Dec. 12. The death toll was 428.

Traffic deaths during last year's three-day Christmas holiday totaled 578. The record for a three-day Christmas period is 609 set in 1955. The highest toll for any Christmas, or any holiday, was 706 in a four-day yuletide period.

FOUND CAT

The Hutchinsons went to the barn, confirmed that the cat was Charlie but was unable to locate him. He coaxed him out. They saw he was very thin and was quite wild from being left to his own devices for almost a year.

Return of Cat Cheers Family

Every night they went to the barn and left food for Charlie until last Thursday the tom cat followed them home.

Elated by their victory in winning Charlie back to civilization, the Hutchinsons called the Humane Society which contacted the Jennings in Louisiana to determine whether the family still wanted him. They did.

Next the Hutchinsons contacted Dr. Erwin Bortman, a veterinarian in Utica, who volunteered to give Charlie a checkup. He found the cat to be in good general health despite his thinness and some scars from fights.

Lost Leg, but Feels Yule Cheer

VAN NUYS, Calif. (AP) — Ronnie Baker wasn't making any plans last Christmas. This year he is.

Last December doctors told Ronnie he'd die if they didn't amputate his cancerous left leg. Rather than face the operation, Ronnie, 16, ran away from home.

He got as far as Flagstaff, Ariz., changed his mind, came home, and, last New Year's Eve, underwent the operation. It was a success, Ronnie, fitted with a prosthetic leg, can walk, climb stairs, drive a car, and hold a part-time job as a painter. He has gained 30 pounds since his operation.

CANCER GONE

Doctors feel sure they eradicated all the cancer when they amputated Ronnie's leg above the knee, although they say it'll be years before they're positive. Ronnie undergoes periodic checks at a clinic.

THINGS LOOKING UP — Bonnie Baker, 17, of Van Nuys, Calif., faced a bleak Christmas a year ago. Doctors wanted to amputate his cancerous leg and Ronnie ran away. He came back, though, and wearing a wooden leg, Ronnie helped decorate the tree this year. He gets around well and plans to start college soon.

Crash in Rainstorm Kills 6 in Ontario

FORT ERIE, Ont. (AP) — A Buffalo, N.Y., family of five and a Long Island, N.Y., woman were killed Thursday night when their automobiles collided on the Queen Elizabeth way during a rainstorm.

Police identified the victims as the Rev. Herman Terry, pastor of the First Church of God, Buffalo; his wife, Shirley, 33; and their three children, Michael, 9; Timothy, 7; and Stephen, 2. The Long Island woman was Jessie C. Mitchell, 52, of Malverne, N.Y.

'Go Away and Die'

MORTSEL, Belgium (UPI) — Please, said the letter to townfolk from municipal authorities, stop dying.

Authorities, taking note that the local cemetery has no more room for fresh graves, addressed a circular letter to its citizens.

"Please," it said, "As far as possible do not overtax the local services until a new burial ground is available."

As he helped his mother and two half-sisters decorate their Christmas tree Thursday, Ronnie laid plans.

"This year, mother," he told Mrs. Lois Eisenberg, 52, "I'm going to go out for New Year's Eve."

He and some friends from Monroe High School are planning a New Year's Eve party.

At school he's studying horticulture, and hopes to attend Pierce Junior College in nearby Canoga Park.

LOOKING UP

"Things look a lot better, now," said Ronnie, who turned 17 last Jan. 28.

"Things are just so much brighter, now," echoed his mother. "This time we'll have a real Christmas."

United Nations Harried by U.N.C.L.E. Volunteers

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—American television viewers are flooding the U.N. with inquiries about U.N.C.L.E. They think it's the espionage arm of the United Nations, and they want to enlist.

In recent months, the U.N.'s General Services Division has been deluged with letters and telephone calls from fans of the popular NBC program "The Man From U.N.C.L.E."

"It's the U.N. in the title that gets them," said Maurice Liu, director of the division. "And when they hear that bit of humor that the show would not have been possible without the help of U.N.C.L.E., they are sure we are tied up with it."

Napoleon Solo and Ilya Kuriakin work for the U.N. Command for Law and Enforcement, but the U.N. stands for United Network, not United Nations.

TEEN-AGERS WRITE
"Most of the applications come from teen-agers," said Liu, "but there are some adults, too, and they are the hardest to convince that we are not running a spy ring."

"One guy was so intent on becoming a secret agent that we finally suggested that he get in touch with Interpol," the international police organization. "I don't know what they told him."

The queries come from all over the country.

One youthful applicant from Silver City, N.C., asked if he could join the spy ranks before he was 21. He wanted to know the location of the U.N.C.L.E. branch nearest his hometown.

SEEKS TRAINING

A New England teenager, claiming an I.Q. of 150 "or thereabouts," said he did not want to waste time going to college. He asked for the name of a good spy school that would teach him some of the finer points every U.N.C.L.E. agent should know.

An enterprising youth from Brooklyn, N.Y., wrote directly to U. Thant asking whether the secretary-general minded if he started his own U.N.C.L.E. branch. He assured Thant that he was not trying to undercut the organization, but would "take orders from the head."

"We get phone calls also," said Miss Alice V. R. Smith, chief of the public inquiries unit. "Most of them sound like youngsters, but occasionally a voice comes through that is unmistakably adult."

Liu and Miss Smith, working on the assumption that the applicants are sincere, send a courteous reply expressing regret that the United Nations is not acquainted with the activities of U.N.C.L.E. They usually add a discreet suggestion that the inquirer pursue the matter with NBC.

Several days ago the General Services Division got a Christmas card from a female admirer

Pair Charged With Murder

Deputy Killed, Second Hurt in Bank Holdup

ST. JOSEPH (AP)—Two Chicago men were arraigned on first-degree murder charges Thursday in the fatal shooting of a law officer during a bank holdup.

Noti Perez, 41, entered a plea of guilty in Berrien County Circuit Court. Sentencing was set for next week. Roy Bowen, 43, stood mute. He was returned to jail to await trial. No date was set.

The men were charged in connection with the death of Elton Stover, 55, a Berrien County sheriff's deputy. Stover was shot during a Dec. 3 robbery of the suburban Fairlane Plaza branch of the Farmers and Merchants National Bank. He died of his wounds a week later. Another deputy, Gary Mitchell, 27, also was shot but has recovered.

The Chicago men also face charges of armed robbery and bank robbery and possible arrest by a federal grand jury.

CAUGHT QUICK

Perez and Bowen were arrested 90 minutes after the holdup by Indiana police at Rolling Prairie, Ind.

Mitchell and Stover entered the bank separately, each responding to radio alarms of the holdup.

Stover was shot the first time in the thigh and the second time in the right arm. The second shot pierced his chest and abdomen.

Wife of Double Agent Said Living in Ireland

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)—Eleanor Philby, American-born wife of double agent Harold (Kim) Philby, has left Moscow and for some weeks has been living in Ireland, informant sources said yesterday.

Mrs. Philby, a native of Seattle, Wash., retained British citizenship after she joined her husband in Moscow. The sources said she is not considered a security risk and is therefore free to live in Ireland like any other British citizen.

'Ghosts' Are Freed

BARCELONA, Spain (UPI)—Neighbors called the police after they heard screams coming from the Sarría cemetery. Firemen and a locksmith rushed to free five persons who had been accidentally locked in several hours earlier.

Junior Editors Quiz on HAIR

QUESTION: How does hair grow?

ANSWER: Hair is a useful covering for many animals, keeping them warm in cold weather. Animals are frequently equipped with small skin muscles which can be used to make the hair stand out, so it keeps them warmer still. Even if we humans have so little hair, we do have the same skin muscles.

When our skin is cold, they may contract in little lumps, which are often called "goose pimples" or "goose bumps."

At the upper left, we show the important part under the skin which causes a hair to grow. The follicle is a kind of sack inside of which a hair grows. An artery provides nourishment at the bottom and the hair grows by new cells forming at this root.

As these die, they form a rod or shaft which is pushed upward by new cells forming underneath. Fat glands supply an oil called "sebum," which keeps hair soft and in good shape. A human hair may grow about six inches a year.

This keeps up from two to six years, but after that nourishment will stop coming to the root and the hair will fall out. Then it will be replaced by a new one.

As new cells form at the root of a hair, they are given color by the addition of the pigment "melanin." As a person becomes older, this pigment is no longer added and the hair turns gray.

FOR YOU TO DO: Hester, in the picture, is taking care of her hair by giving it a good daily brushing. This removes dirt and adds luster. Her cat has the same idea. Try this out for yourself.

Schizophrenics Said Adjusting

Success in Therapy Announced by British

By Science Service
LONDON—Success in rehabilitating mental patients (schizophrenics) so that they can earn their own living has been announced in London.

This is believed to be the first report in Britain on the outcome of purely family or environmental therapy for schizophrenia, the most common form of mental disease.

Dr. A. Esterson and R. D. Laing of the Tavistock Institute of Human Relations, London, and Dr. G. G. Cooper of St. Paul's Hospital, St. Mary, Heris, reports the study in the British Medical Journal.

Forty-two male and female patients ranging from 15 years to 35 years of age were selected in two mental hospitals in the Greater London Area. All had been diagnosed as schizophrenic by at least two senior psychiatrists not members of the therapeutic team.

Members of the group were not of low intelligence, and none had been subjected to brain surgery of any kind. None had any organic problem such as epilepsy or brain injury that could have affected the disturbed state.

ELECTRIC SHOCKS

None had received more than 50 electric shocks in the year before the present treatment began, or 150 electric shocks in all.

As for the family, at least one parent was alive and available for interview. Patients, however, could be sent to their own "diggings" alone. They could be with or without brothers or sisters, married or single, with or without children.

When members of the group were selected, the researchers organized wards so that relationships would be congenial. Each patient was assured of a relationship of at least one other person significant to him.

Social therapists were trained, some of them from the patient group, so that a consistent relationship of trust would be possible.

All the group could be sent home within a year, but with the understanding that individuals and families could consult with the researchers in any crisis.

New Jersey School Submits First Budget

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—The New Jersey School of Medicine and Dentistry has submitted a state budget request of $1,475,000 in its first full year after the college was purchased from Seton Hall University.

The state bought the school for $4 million last summer and allocated $700,000 in operating expenses after the take-over. The bulk of the proposed increase would be for salary adjustments.

Hope Troupe in Saigon for TV Production

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Bob Hope and a troupe of 70 arrived in Saigon this afternoon on his umpteenth Christmas visit to entertain American troops in combat zones.

Hope had a dozen singing and dancing stars with him, Les Brown's band of 15 musicians, and a big crew of production men who will turn out a television show here.

The 63-year-old comedian brought his gang in from Thailand, where he tore two ligaments in his left ankle Wednesday when someone inadvertently brushed him off the stage at an air base.

"I'll do anything for a laugh," said Hope.

'ON TOP OF BED'

Reminded at a news conference that a year ago he arrived 10 minutes after the Viet Cong blew up a U.S. officers' billet in Saigon, Hope was asked if he was not a little nervous. He replied:

"Well, that was a very bad thing, but I'm not scared. I may even sleep on top of the bed this time."

Actress Carroll Baker, dazzling in a white leather skirt and white leather boots, told the newsmen:

"I said I was a little scared, and Bob told me to just follow him because he's the biggest chicken in the world."

Cemetery Hit by 2 Big Suits

DETROIT (AP)—Two suits totaling $7.8 million were filed against Brookdale Cemetery Thursday by two women who have relatives buried at the cemetery.

Both suits, filed in Wayne County Circuit Court, charged negligence, breach of contract, misrepresentation and fraud.

At the same time, Circuit Judge Joseph G. Rashid scheduled a hearing for next Thursday to review three bids submitted by prospective buyers of the graveyard.

Mrs. Virginia Davis filed a $4.8 million suit on behalf of herself and her six children. She said the body of her husband was buried in Brookdale Nov. 16, 1964, but when the grave where he was believed to have been buried was opened, another body was found.

A similar $3 million suit was filed by Mrs. Angela Perdikis, buried in Brookdale Dec. 21, 1964, could not be found, she said.

Crash Fatal to Man

TRAVERSE CITY (AP)—Milton Zahnow, 44, of Traverse City was killed Thursday when his car left a rural road in Grand Traverse County and struck a tree.

Christmas Eve Truce Stills Guns in Viet Nam

12 Are Killed as Oregon Bus Skids off Road

30 Injured as Vehicle Hits Ice and Plunges Down Embankment

ROUGE RIVER, Ore. (UPI) — Twelve people were killed and an estimated 30 were hurt early today when a Greyhound bus skidded off icy Interstate Highway 5 and plunged down an embankment.

Nine were killed outright and three persons died later in a hospital.

The Portland to San Francisco bus was traveling southbound through a cold rain when it left the road between Rouge River and Medford in southern Oregon shortly after midnight. It wound up 50 feet from the road upside down.

When police arrived on the scene, they found nine bodies, including the corpse of one woman pinned beneath the vehicle.

Ambulance companies from Grants Pass, Medford and Ashland took the injured to hospitals in surrounding communities. Private cars and taxis helped out.

A spokesman at the Rogue Valley Memorial Hospital reported that "18 to 20" injured had arrived from the crash. The Sacred Heart Hospital in Medford and the Josephine General at Grants Pass reported 11 more injured.

DRIVER HURT

Among the injured at Sacred Heart was driver Joseph Bailey of Battleground, Wash. The extent of his injuries were not revealed, pending X-rays.

Police said the accident was the worst of a chain of mishaps that occurred on the "black ice" created when rain falls and partially freezes on the highway.

State patrol officer Charles Conway said when he arrived shortly before 1 a.m., "injured were lying in the bus, outside the bus and on the highway. Ambulances were taking them away as fast as they could."

"The civil defense had set up a spotlight and the beam cut through the rain. This was really a nasty one — the worst traffic accident I ever saw. In fact, it looked more like a plane crash."

Killed in Viet Combat

WASHINGTON, AP — The Defense Department reported yesterday that, as of late Monday, a total of 1,546 Americans had been killed in combat in the Vietnamese war.

Jesus Accepted His 'Yoke' to Serve

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Adipine mandate rested on the child born in Bethlehem, and when the hour came, he shouldered it. The following relies primarily on his own statements about it, made later in his life. This is the last of a five-part Christmas series about the hidden years of Jesus.)

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

There is no way of determining when he came to know it, or how. There is no way of finding out whether the knowledge came to him instantaneously or gradually, or what particular circumstances or event may have disclosed it.

But it imbued the young man of Nazareth. "...there is another who bears witness to me..."

The details of that realization are deeply inaccessible. But at some point, he recognized it. There came a day, and he was certain. Sometime before Jesus reached his finished manhood, he knew.

"The Father is in me and I am in the Father. I came not of my own accord, but He sent me."

It was a stunningly awesome fate to confront.

CANCELED SELF

"My yoke," he would call it. It was as if He had been made both sovereign and servant at the same time, both everything and nothing. He cancelled out Himself. "I seek not my own will, but the will of Him who sent me."

On Him, had "God the Father set his seal."

Every youth, as he matures, passes through the strained turmoil of discovering his own individuality, of peering hard at himself with that new, critical faculty, as if observed from outside himself, judging his own person. The sounder the man, the more he begins to know what and who he is and where he is going, even if only dimly. Normally, even the best version remains partial. But in one case it was complete — in the complete man. That did not make the going easy, only sure. The prospect, considering the character of men about Him, was plainly excruciating.

"The Son of Man will suffer at their hands."

In Christian belief, Jesus is considered fully human, subject to the conditions of finite existence, sharing men's nature, needs, delights and travail, but also a perfect projection of God — the divine functioning flawlessly in the flesh.

"I and the Father are one." At some point before Jesus took up his predestined vocation, the man who had reared Him as an earthly father died. Old Joseph didn't live to see the lightning impact of the life of the young one whom he had guarded so fiercely.

Legend says Joseph lived to 111, and describes the deathbed scene at the family's meager abode in Nazareth. Mary sat at his feet and Jesus at his head.

LAST REQUEST

The old carpenter clutched the youth's hand. "I requested thee, O my beloved son, to be quiet in all things." He apologized for once pulling Jesus' ear in shaming him. Jesus wept. Mary stroked her husband's feet and legs, which grew cold.

After washing and anointing the body, they buried him there in the hills of Galilee. It is related, Jesus, who had told with him there in the woodworking lean-to, now faced His own calling.

Aware of the pattern of his growing up. He later — in talking to the apostle Peter — called the curious changing outlook of that progression into responsible manhood:

"...when you were young, you girded yourself and walked where you would; but when you (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Crowds Pack Saigon Streets

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A Christmas Eve truce declared by both the allied armed forces and the insurgent Communist Viet Cong appeared tonight to have stilled the guns, the terror and the slaughter that has tortured South Viet Nam for years.

The American-South Vietnamese decision to stop all offensive action for 30 hours went into effect at 6 p.m. and the Viet Cong seemed to have been faithful to their announced promise of a 12-hour truce as of 7 p.m.

The cease-fire in the embattled country turned at least some of it back to the little people.

Most noticeable was the reaction in Saigon, the capital. The streets were a mass of humanity.

People who have not been on these streets perhaps for months were out in force with their children.

The three million population of Saigon strode out in confidence as though all of them had heard directly about the truce.

The thousands of Americans in Saigon were, on the other hand, confined to their billets until dawn Christmas Day under a curfew imposed Dec. 18. The curfew will be lifted at 6 a.m. Saturday.

RELIEVED ATMOSPHERE

The atmosphere was electric, but loaded with a sense of relief.

From the jungles and the outposts, reports filtering into Saigon indicated that the cease-fire was just that.

From An Khe, where the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile Division is deployed, Associated Press correspondent Bob Poos reported "All's quiet."

From Da Nang on the northern coast where the Marines are based in strength, the word was of holiday feasting—turkey or baked Virginia ham after shrimp cocktails and winding up with mince or pumpkin pie.

Santa to Need a Raincoat for Visit to Area

Santa better be wearing a raincoat over his traditional apparel when he arrives in the Pontiac area late tonight.

The weatherman will be a day late with precipitation conducive to rapid transit from the North Pole, Santa-style.

For the second successive year, we'll have rain on Christmas Eve. Showers and high winds are predicted with a low of 35 to 40.

Tomorrow will be windy, too, with steady or slowly falling temperatures changing the showers into snow flurries. The high will be from 35 to 40 under overcast skies.

Clearing weather is forecast for Sunday with colder temperatures predicted.

Winds this morning were southerly to southwesterly at 20 to 40 miles an hour. Becoming southeasterly to easterly this afternoon, they will be northerly to northeasterly tonight and tomorrow.

The low mercury reading this morning was 43. At 1 p.m. it was a balmy 48 in downtown Pontiac.

No Paper Tomorrow

The Pontiac Press will not publish tomorrow so that Press employees may spend Christmas Day with their families. Publication will resume with Monday's paper.

Two Flint Men Killed on Dixie

Car Rips Into Utility Pole in Holly Twp.

Two Flint men were killed last night when their car hurtled out of control on Dixie Highway near Tripp, in Holly Township, and ripped into a utility pole in front of Mt. Holly Ski Lodge.

Dead are Kenneth D. Hodges, 23, driver of the car, and Dale R. Huneycutt, 24.

Oakland County Sheriff's deputies said the car skidded and rolled 435 feet after leaving the road at an estimated 90 miles an hour.

Both men were thrown from the car. Hodges suffered a skull fracture and Huneycutt, internal injuries.

They were dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital shortly after 10 p.m.

Both worked at the Federal Steel Corp., 9615 Dixie Highway, Springfield Township, and were apparently on their way home, according to deputies.

A witness told deputies the Hodges car had passed him at a high rate of speed shortly before going out of control.

MRS. A. J. ECKHART

Woman Wins Driving Award

A West Bloomfield Township woman is $25 richer as this week's winner of a safe-driving award.

Mrs. A. J. Eckhart, 3333 Pine, will receive a $25 U.S. savings bond as her prize in the awards program sponsored jointly by the Pontiac Exchange Club, the Pontiac area committee of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce and the Pontiac Police Department.

The bond, one of four being awarded during December, was donated by the Pontiac Exchange Club.

Mrs. Eckhart was cited by Pontiac police for stopping traffic on Perry to permit an elderly couple to cross the street.

The couple had reached the middle island, but busy traffic prevented them from crossing until Mrs. Eckhart stopped her car.

The safety program has Pontiac policemen on the lookout for good drivers during their regular patrol for bad drivers.

Christmas Truce Stalls Viet Guns

fantymen in the jungles, to Air Force units that had been striking in both North and South Viet Nam and to 7th Fleet carriers plying the South China Sea in support of the ballooning war effort.

The Communist Viet Cong announced three times on their radio today that they would undertake no offensive action or acts of terrorism from Christmas Eve, one hour after the allied cease-fire started, until 7 a.m. Saturday, 17 hours before the U.S.-South Vietnamese truce period ends.

The Viet Cong had offered their 12-hour truce in a broadcast Dec. 7. The Americans and the South Vietnamese countered with their longer, cease-fire offer earlier this week.

It remained to be seen if the truce will work. But around the world there were expressions of hope that it would be extended after Christmas and would pave the way to peace negotiations.

ON THE ALERT

All American and allied units were on the alert and had orders to react sharply in self defense.

The American cease-fire was confined only to a prohibition against initiating any new offensive actions.

Disengagements from conflict or defense against any obvious threat were clearly within the discretion of field commanders obliged to protect and preserve their men.

All branches of the allied forces were keyed up, however, to observe what happens at the end of the Viet Cong moratorium while the American truce still was in effect for another 17 hours.

Officials conceded this might call for some split-second hair-line decisions.

As of midnight Christmas, however, the U.S. forces will be free to resume "normal operations," a senior Army spokesman said.

"We shall resume normal operations at 2400 hours Dec. 25 unless we are forced to do so before that by the enemy," he said. While the Communists repeated their announcement of a 12-hour truce, neither North Viet Nam's Hanoi radio nor the Viet Cong radio made any mention of the longer period proclaimed by the other side.

EXPECT OBSERVANCE

U.S. officials in Washington expected the truce to hold for the first 12 hours. They hoped the Communists would prolong it until Christmas midnight. But they believed the war would resume in full violence after that.

Officials said the 24 hours leading up to the truce hour were as bloody as ever.

U.S. B52s from Guam dropped their bombs at dawn today 80 miles south of Saigon, continuing the softening up of suspected Viet Cong hideouts.

RIVER RIPS OUT BRIDGE — The swollen Rillito River left only a piece of railing and a cable where a bridge had stood after sweeping past Tucson yesterday. After several days of rain and snow, rivers in Arizona left roads and farmlands flooded and reservoirs to capacity. The residents of several communities were forced to take emergency measures.

Arizona Braces for More

Hundreds Are Forced to Flee Flooding

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — As torrents of water roared down normally dry washes and rivers, Arizona braced for possible new flooding today from the east.

Hundreds were forced to flee their homes to higher ground. An entire Indian community of 150 persons was evacuated.

The swollen streams, fed by heavy snows and rain, raced through a mining area of eastern Arizona, isolating the town of Kivlin.

A new crest of the Gila River, at its highest since 1941, was a mile wide as it flowed from western New Mexico. An earlier crest, more than four feet above the flood stage, passed by the towns of Clifton and Safford before receding.

Heavy sandbag dikes were in place at both towns, reducing damage.

In southern Arizona, the rampaging Santa Cruz and Rillito rivers overflowed across wide desert areas.

The Rillito cut away two miles of the Tucson sewer system, pouring an estimated five million gallons of sewage into the river in 24 hours.

Some of the sewage flowed into the Gila River. Health officials, warning it would seep into wells, urged families along the river to boil their drinking water.

SWEPT ACROSS — A Papago Indian village was evacuated when water three feet deep swept across the flatlands between Tucson and Phoenix.

Two major bridges and several mobile homes were washed away at Tucson. Volunteers worked to prevent further damage in the area where five acres of ground had been swept off by the muddy water.

Record-breaking runoff into the chain of reservoirs which serve the Phoenix area brought a threat of flood into Arizona's most populous areas.

After several weeks of mountain snows and rain at lower elevations, the runoff rate of 150,000 cubic feet per second broke a 1941 record for Roosevelt Lake. Water threatened to splash over the spillways of several protection dams.

Officials released some water to relieve the pressure, sending water across some roads in the Phoenix area.

The flooding inundated thousands of acres of farmland along the Gila, San Pedro and Santa Cruz rivers. Many farm animals were carried to safety, but damage was reported generally as light.

The Christmas spirit brought relief to some prisoners in several countries including France, South Korea and Venezuela where sentences were commuted or reduced.

Fire officials said none of the more than 40 persons who lived in the three buildings would be able to return home today because of fire, smoke, or water damage.

It was as if he were totally at home in this world, loving its beauty and feeling its agonies. He was also hearing a universal embrace. It was a lonely path. "No one knows the Son except the Father, and no one knows the Father except the Son."

Yet, no matter how harsh the rejections and blindness, "He who has sent Me is with Me; He has not left Me alone." It was up to Him, as man, to manifest in natural terms which man understood the supernatural concern they did not understand.

"I will make it known, that the love with which Thou hast loved Me may be in them, and I in them." That passion glorified, yet effaced Him. "Not my will, but Thine."

Strangely, in receiving "all authority," He gave up all of Himself. "He who believes in me believes not in me, but in Him who sent me..." His teaching is not mine, but His...

PRIDE SPURNED — More than any descriptive words, however, it was His behavior that distinguished Him. He spurned pride, the will-to-power. This singular difference was dramatized in His temptations by the Devil before His ministry began.

In those subtly revealing passages, Jesus is tempted to turn stone into bread, to make a sensational leap to draw acclaim and a huge following, to assume governing power—none of these things evil in themselves — yet each appeal

Complaints on Trucks Result in Traffic Survey

BIRMINGHAM — A survey of traffic on Maple and Southfield highways has been authorized by the City Commission with an eye to the wards an ordinance establishing controls over the vehicles.

Area residents have complained for some time that trucks traveling the routes disturb their sleep and that vibrations have caused damage to homes in a few instances.

Some data on the problem already has been compiled on the request of the city administration by the Michigan Trucking Association.

Sound tests and radar checks on Maple revealed that large oil tankers create the most noise due to their size and the power required in their operation.

It was also discovered that one of the factors adding to the noise problem was the thumping of metal against metal on large gravel trucks.

SPEED NOT FACTOR — The average speed of trucks was approximately 38 miles per hour and while the posted speed is 35 MPH the speeds were not unreasonable, according to Police Chief Ralph W. Moxley.

One Troy trucking firm approached by the city has already directed its drivers to reduce their speed to a maximum 25 m.p.h. when traveling empty through Birmingham and to bypass Birmingham when returning with full loads of gravel.

According to traffic consultant John J. Dobek, the traffic study will be completed within 30 days at a cost of $325.

World Unrest Mars Yuletide Celebration

Christmas message expressing "respect and gratefulness" for the sacrifices of the U.S., Australian, New Zealand and other forces that have joined the fight against the Viet Cong.

In the quiet hills of the Holy Land, 15,000 Christians were expected to visit Bethlehem, where Christ was born.

BERLIN WALL — In Berlin, thousands of West Berliners passed through the Communist wall to bring Christmas cheer and gifts to relatives in East Berlin.

On the island of Cyprus, still smoldering from sporadic violence, Canadian troops of the U.N. peace-keeping force in Kyrenia put the final touches on an armed patrol car they have converted into Santa's sleigh. It will bring Santa, gifts and candy to 31 youngsters at a Red Cross hospital for crippled children.

The second fire, at 304 Camden, started at the rear and burned part of a garage and the back apartments of the three-story frame building. The third fire three floors down, destroyed the fourth floor and badly damaged the third floor of a four-story building and damaged several apartments next door.

The first fire, at 197 16th Ave., reported about 2 a.m., took the lives of six members of one family and killed a woman and her brother in an adjacent third-floor apartment.

Fire officials said the fire started in an enclosed stairwell on the second floor and then went up to the third floor. All eight bodies were found in the fire-charred third floor.

While firemen were still battling the blaze, the second and third fires were reported on Camden Street, eight blocks away.

The second fire, at 304 Camden, started at the rear and burned part of a garage and the back apartments of the three-story frame building. The third fire three floors down, destroyed the fourth floor and badly damaged the third floor of a four-story building and damaged several apartments next door.

Many GREETERS — Nearly one in every six inhabitants of Johnson City—population 611—was on hand for the occasion.

When the singers had completed their concert, the Johnsons heard the Rev. Mr. Taylor sing Christmas carols.

"Merry Christmas to the presidential family from all of us in Johnson City."

Johnson rose from the porch swing and, clapping her hands, said: "Oh, we thank you. That was so lovely."

REFRESHMENTS — Within minutes, Mrs. Johnson announced that hot chocolate and cookies would be served to everyone. Lucie began pouring the chocolate and the First Lady began her way through the group with cookie trays.

Lynda passed a holiday-decorated wicker basket filled with candies.

Expect Injury, Accident Totals to Set New State Record in '65

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan's 1965 traffic death toll year and were 11.8 per cent won't set a record, but the 1965 above last year's 284,446. Injury and accident totals will hit a new high, State Police predicted Thursday.

In a year-end report, Col. Frederick Davids, State Police director, said an estimated 2,100 persons will have died on Michigan highways in 1965—fourth worst record in 33 years of record keeping.

The number of injuries will reach 157,000 and the number of accidents 310,000, and the year's combined casualties—deaths and injuries—will set a record, Davids said.

He said there still is a chance that, when all reports are in, deaths will have surpassed last year's 2,120 total.

WORSE YEARS — Worst year ever was 1937, with 2,175 deaths, and 1941 had 2,133.

Injuries in Michigan rose for the seventh straight year over the 1964 total. Last year's 144,623. Accidents in-mint.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: In keeping with our policy of presenting guest editorials from time to time, our Christmas message has been written by Rev. Roy F. Lambert, pastor of the Lakeland United Presbyterian Church, Waterford.)

By REV. ROY F. LAMBERT

In the fourth verse of his famous Christmas poem "I Heard the Bells on Christmas Day," HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW expresses this sentiment which is certainly appropriate to the days in which we are living:

"Then pealed the bells more loud and deep,
God is not dead, nor doth He sleep.
The wrong shall fail, the right prevail,
With peace on earth, good will to men."

From every side it seems we are being pressed with the confused and confusing notions that God and faith are irrelevant to our lives today. Some are saying that a "new" religion without God is our need. A "new" morality without standards is being called "freedom."

Science is presented as our "Savior," the "Messiah" of a new age which reaches for the moon, while here on earth the acquisition of material possession is encouraged as the chief end of man in the annual "Christmas A Go Go." Add to this the prevalence in large areas of the world of war, famine, disease, and international distrust and the picture is truly a dark one.

But thank God this is not the whole picture. "God is not dead, nor doth He sleep." God has spoken as the Scriptures reveal: "When the time had fully come, God sent forth his Son... to redeem those who were under the law..." Galatians 4:4, 5; "The Word became flesh and dwelt among us..." John 1:14.

As a little child the eternal Son of God took upon himself our nature and being and was made in the likeness of men that in the midst of darkness there might be light.

But even here the story is not complete, for "Peace on earth, good will to men" are pious platitudes if this is all. We must never forget that the Christmas Child grew up. He lived among us. He suffered as one of us. He died for us, and He lives again that in this dark world of sin and suffering there might be a joy unspeakable, a "peace that passeth all understanding," a peace anticipatory of God's eternal presence.

The implications of such a concept for nations, races, and families are yet to be fully worked out, but we believe that the "Living" God is at work in his universe and that in His good time and manner "the wrong shall fail, the right prevail, with peace on earth, good will to men."

Meanwhile, let those of us who believe so live as to demonstrate in every area and aspect of life the significance of Christmas, for "God was in Christ reconciling the world unto himself... entrusting to us the message of reconciliation." (II Corinthians 5:19)

This is the message which alone offers hope for the healing of divided lives, divided peoples, and divided nations by bringing men into a living relationship of love and peace with God and neighbor through Him who is "The Prince of Peace."

Noisy Liberal Now Sir Echo

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON — Hubert H. Humphrey is the busiest vice president in history — unless Lyndon B. Johnson was — but in a very unusual way.

This is a switch from those days 15 years ago when Humphrey first arrived in the Senate, a noisy, controversial liberal who talked too much and antagonized the old-timers.

He's still a liberal but over the years he learned how to do business in the Capitol, got along with the old-timers, worked smoothly with Johnson when Johnson was Senate majority leader.

And now he is a Sir Echo of all Johnson wants and stands for. His liberalism hasn't diminished but as he says: "I did not become vice president with President Johnson to cause him trouble."

Soviets Turn Realists on Religion

By LEON DENNEN
Foreign News Analyst
NEW YORK (NEA) — For the first time in nearly half a century Russians will celebrate Christmas this year in an atmosphere relatively free from fear.

To be sure, the Marxist-Leninist doctrine still sees religion as "opium" invented by capitalism to enslave the working class.

But the reality of political life finally is forcing the Kremlin to seek some sort of accommodation, however hypocritical, with religion.

Since 1917, Lenin's successors have been striving to eliminate belief in God from the lives of Russia's more than 200 million Christians, Jews, Moslems and Buddhists.

However, their pressure on believers fluctuated with the Kremlin's domestic and international situation.

When the Soviet leaders felt strong they intensified their drive against God.

They relaxed their atheistic propaganda whenever, faced with a critical domestic or international situation, they needed the support of the people.

Before World War II Stalin had practically driven underground all religious organizations in Russia. But after Hitler's attack, to assure the wartime loyalty of the people, he was forced to relax anti-religious pressure.

Most religious groups were permitted to reorganize with such recognized rights as limited autonomy and still more limited privileges of publishing Bibles and prayer books.

FAITHFUL COMMUNIST
This lasted until Nikita Khrushchev came to power.

Khrushchev, who regarded himself as a faithful Marxist-Leninist, apparently decided that the lack of exterminating religious faith was to be pushed to completion.

He resorted to a violence comparable only to the darkest year under Stalin.

The Kremlin's latest "liberal" policy on religion — in the view of specialists on communism — is due primarily to the uncertain political position of the faceless men who now rule Russia and to the disarray in the Red world that has resulted from Moscow's conflict with China.

ANOTHER ISSUE

Religion, in fact, has become another important issue that divides Marxist-Leninists behind the Iron Curtain and wherever they seek adherents to their cause in non-Communist countries.

Shortly before he died a year ago, Palmiro Togliatti, Italy's Communist leader, warned that "the atheist propaganda is no longer of any use to communism."

He drew a dividing line between Communists who believe that coexistence with religion is possible and necessary and those "who still cling to the old atheist propaganda."

Togliatti's "liberal" partisans in Europe especially, for some time now, have been attempting to convince Christians that religion and communism can live together and even cooperate.

Of course this idea is not shared by all Communists and even less by all Christians. But it seems possible that this time the Marxist-Leninist strategy born of expediency will have some lasting and significant effects.

The Communists' new peace overtures to religion cannot be divorced from other changes taking place in their collective, materialist society.

New political and cultural winds are blowing behind the Iron Curtain from which religion is also likely to benefit.

The Red rulers seemingly have come to the belated realization that all forms of pressure, atheist propaganda and violence against believers, have not smothered religion in their world.

Bob Considine Says:

Space Rendezvous Lets Taxpayer Breathe Easier

NEW YORK — Proof positive that rendezvous in space is possible, even "easy," as Wally Schirra said, should come as a relief to the American taxpayer.

Tons of his money have been spent on the premise and the promise that one of these fine days we'd attend to the 10,000 details and put two manned objects together Out There.

Project Apollo, the man-to-the-moon-and-back program, has advanced too far to stop.

It has been costing $10 million a day for several years, and the price tag on it will be about $25 billion by the time we pull off that proposed one-day initial visit to the big dead ball that has been doing things to poets and lovers since man walked on all fours.

Yet not until last week, when Schirra, Stafford, Borman and Lovell staged their tet-a-tete, 165 miles up and at speeds just beyond 17,500 m.p.h.; could we be absolutely sure that Apollo could be pulled off. It depends entirely on mastery of rendezvous technique.

HARD TO BELIEVE

Apollo's "hardware" is hard to believe, its costs stupefying. The Saturn V rockets which will be the launching vehicles will be assembled in a building that must be seen to be comprehended, and even then it isn't believable.

It is a sophisticated box that stands 325 feet 10 inches tall. It could hold six football fields. The U. N. Secretariat Building could slide in and out of its doors. It is the tallest building south of the Washington Monument.

The assembled Saturns must be moved a few miles from this building to the launching pad. The 36-story-tall rockets, each costing about $100 million, will make the little journey in upright position — without supporting wires!

This will be done by placing the Saturn aboard a crawler-transporter that looks like something the Green Giant would buy his kids for Christmas.

It is a pad 131 feet long and 114 feet wide. Propulsion (at a maximum speed of one mile an hour) is supplied by four huge tanklike monsters mounted under each corner of the platform.

Each of these crawlers has two separate treads. The crawler-transporter weighs 5.5-million pounds, was built to carry a load weighing 12 million pounds.

There is a slight grade running up to the pad from which our lunamans will take off.

The mover is equipped with computers that figure out exactly how much its platform's posture must be altered to keep it level while climbing the gentle hill. If they don't work, the rocket falls over.

The only commodity that can be classified as a bargain, in the space business, is the space man himself.

Say 'No'

The Holland Evening Sentinel

Everyday, hundreds of speeches are made before assorted groups around the country. But very few get wide coverage, even though they may seem profound enough. Recently, Roger Fleming, secretary treasurer of the American Farm Bureau Federation, made a speech that was rather simple in content, but it said something so basic, it had to be heard.

Mr. Fleming told Congress he had to learn to say "no" if he expected to survive. This is the very heart of the problem in our highest legislative body.

Hundreds of pressure groups are constantly urging the Congress to act on this or that bill of legislation, and threatening dire consequences if the vote isn't delivered.

It takes a strong man to say "no" to that kind of pressure. But if it isn't done, the duties of the legislators will have shifted to another branch of the government in as real-

Voice of the People:

Veteran Says Our Nation Is Greatest in the World

My father is a World War I veteran and I am a veteran of World War II. I have been reading opinions and hearing complaints until it makes me sick. We have the greatest country in the world and the best qualified people running it because we chose them. To those who have never seen the homeless, the hungry, or the blood of a war-torn country, let's be glad our leaders can keep it over there because if they can't it will be our homes as well as our sons.

I have two sons who will be of draft age all too soon. I hope by this time the Communists, the civil rights situation, etc. are all back to God-fearing levels instead of people-fearing. If they aren't, I will have to tell my boys the same thing my father told me, "Son, I hate to see you go but you must. If you ever go over the hill, don't come home because this land is worth the price." To those who can only complain, it's a wide, wide world and there are ships and planes leaving every day.

DISGUSTED

This talk of draft dodging and tearing up of draft cards should make some people real proud of their sons. I'm a mother of two Marine sons and I'm very proud of them for being men and Americans who saw their duty.

How about you fellows who think it is easier to play on campus than enlist and be Americans or even support them? Why didn't you go to Viet Nam and let our sons come home for Christmas? My son hasn't been home since 1961. He's helping keep you safe? How honest do you feel? You should be thankful you live in a country where you can try and win which others do not. Some countries don't allow you to make a choice. If you aren't physically able to go yourself, at least be men and be of help to the ones who do go, and keep America on its toes for peace.

A MARINE'S MOTHER

The Viet Cong destroyed a village in South Viet Nam, killing women and children. Another time the V.C. purposely cut off a small girl's fingers because she was on a school bus against the Viet Cong's orders.

They have killed and wounded a lot of our GIs in their attempt to bring communism from the north. Just maybe one of those GIs was GI Martin's buddy. I would feel the same way in wanting to hunt down the V.C. Nothing but mad animals would do what the V.C. have done.

Millions more Americans are proud of the step towards assuring the freedom our men in Viet Nam are taking. These demonstrators against American policy should all go live in the villages of South Viet Nam.

'Citizens Not to Blame for Deer Shortage'

If the Conservation Department representatives continue to make irresponsible statements such as "There is no law that says does have to be shot. If hunters don't want antlerless deer taken, then they should quit shooting them," they will lose any respect the people of Michigan might have had for their sincerity in trying to maintain a reasonable and healthy deer herd in our State.

Did the department advocate shooting a lot of does and fawns by issuing thousands of permits, or just to sell a lot of extra licenses? I hold the department responsible. They are paid to know how the herd stands and the permits they issue should be in line. Let's not blame the citizens who shoot legal does or fawns.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., Thursday asked Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach to rule whether the Selective Service may cancel draft deferments of students who demonstrate against the Viet Nam war.

In a letter, Hart said he did not agree with the view of student demonstrators. He added: "I do feel that the rights of dissenters in a democracy have to be very carefully protected.

Hart last week disputed the contention of Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, National Selective Service director, who said reclassification and speeded-up induction of what he termed draft delinquents were practices followed through the years with the approval of the Justice Department.

The issue arose over reclassification of 10 University of Michigan students convicted of trespassing after they staged a demonstration inside an Ann Arbor Selective Service office.

APPARENT DANGER

Hart added in his letter: "No court has ruled that the Selective Service Act was violated... only Gen. Hershey. The danger here is apparent: Should

RICH MAN, POOR MAN, FREUD AND FRUIT. By Alexander King. Simon & Schuster. $5.50.

The late Alexander King's ultracyclical book, addressed to "Amorous Ladies," is full of practical advice on snaring hapless males, and coincidentally is a pretty devastating critique of his own sex.

Chapter after chapter he evaluates all the flukes and weaknesses of the various types of males, attached or unattached.

King seems to favor artists and bookish men as prizes; or teachers, for less ambitious females. He warns against alliances with musicians (too self-centered), athletes (improvident and soon out of the money), politicians (too conservative and compromising), publicity men (too phony) and various gamblers, alcoholics and addicts.

This may or may not be a guidebook for the girls; one suspects most of them are far ahead of the author.

This is a modern comedy of the war between the sexes — an ancient war.

'65 Loot List Shows Variety

NEW YORK (NEA) — There was no kitchen sink stolen in 1965 but some of the other purloined items made up for the difference.

Thieves in Whittier, Calif., stole a new lawn while neighbors watched, thinking the men were working for the owner.

And the entire front porch was stolen from a house in Norfolk, Va.

In Auburn, N.Y., an ambitious thief stole a 3,500-pound steamroller. Valued at more than $3,000, the vehicle has a top speed of only five miles per hour.

Blackouts seem all the rage, for in Ithaca, N.Y., seven 27-foot-long light poles were stolen and an entire section of an English-Scottish railroad was blacked out for a distance of seven miles when thieves stole all the signal and telephone cable.

Some thieves will steal anything. An Ovid, N.Y., farmer had 10 bags of beans weighing many hundreds of pounds stolen and in Beirut, Lebanon, someone stole one-half of the city's telephone booths. They had only two.

A tree was stolen in Ballston Spa, N.Y., and was found by police standing in a tub of water in the thief's home. And three live oak trees were stolen from a home in Atlanta.

Some robbers may have been planning a party in Syracuse, N.Y., for they took 40 cartons of cigarettes, three gallons of ice cream, 12 cans of instant coffee, 10 cartons of soft drinks, 30 packages of pastry and a transistor radio.

Police are looking for a well-fed burglar in St. Joseph, Mo. He made off with 500 pounds of roll sausage, 120 pounds of meat patties, 72 pounds of bacon, 50 pounds of ribs, 100 pounds of lamb and 60 pounds of chili. Enough for quite a barbecue.

LACK DELICATE TOUCH
Some robbers just don't seem to have that delicate touch. In San Pablo, Calif., one set off a burglar alarm, another fell off the store roof and another got stuck in a ventilator shaft.

And, in Waycross, Ga., police answered cries for help and found a housebreaker stuck in the chimney.

Some just don't check before lifting. In Trenton, N.J., a thief stole $1 million worth of securities, all of them either cancelled checks or nonnegotiable.

Thieves continue to climb. A police chief estimates that a million automobiles will be stolen in 1970 if the present rate continues.

EVERY 32 MINUTES
The FBI reports that a burglary is committed once every 32 minutes, and New York City police last year received a total of 45,683 burglary reports.

Police came in for some hard raps in the larceny field. In Nagpur, India, a police payroll of $1,570 was stolen from the police station.

In Wichita, Kan., a department store security officer, after a hard day watching for shoplifters, discovered that all the gas had been siphoned from his car's tank. The thieves also took the gas cap.

Another thief in Klamath Falls, Ore., blamed police for leaving keys in the paddy wagon. "I took it because you left the keys in it," he told police when caught.

SUSPECT HASKEYS
And speaking of keys, police were really startled when they found a suspect with keys to the front door of the new city hall and police station in Ashtabula, Ohio. The building was so new that even the police didn't have keys.

And in Austin, Tex., burglars looted several coin-operated vending machines in the police station.

Nothing is safe. In New Orleans, the wig snatch racket is really booming. One thief carried off hair pieces valued at $22,000. A Kansas City, Mo., thief snatched the wig off a woman's head while she was dining in a restaurant.

Robbers use all kinds of tools. In Syracuse they used a cannon to blast a hole in a vault. Another thief left a bank 70 cents more than it had when he left his own money on the counter in Twickenham, England.

SWINGING BATS
Six masked bandits swinging baseball bats, with only one armed with a gun, departed with the cash register's contents of $835. The check was for $48.27.

The only thing that a Schenectady, N.Y., burglar took after breaking into a home was a bath.

A home's burglar alarm was stolen in Los Angeles. A London store lost a bunch of phonograph records. All the recordings were the same selection: "Thou Shalt Not Steal."

Some prisoners are honest. In La Spezia, Italy, an inmate found a valuable diamond and turned it over to the warden. He got a reward.

HOSPITALIZED
Another robber broke into a hospital in Baton Rouge, La., jumped from a window when discovered and was admitted to the hospital as a patient.

"What d'ya want?" a voice shouted as two burglars broke into a store in Atlanta. They left in a hurry. The voice belonged to a mynah bird, pet of the store owner.

Sometimes it doesn't pay to be too observant. A supermarket manager, after phoning the police to report a forged check, returned to find his waiting customer long since departed with the cash register's contents of $835. The check was for $48.27.

Some victims defend themselves. Accosted on a London street by two thugs, the intended victim grabbed the lid off a garbage can and hurled it at the pair. They fled.

GRANDMA NAILS HIM

A 70-year-old California woman saw a thief stealing hubcaps from her grandson's car. She took after him, caught him after a chase of several blocks, made a citizen's arrest, and then held him until the police arrived.

Two women slammed the lid on a man's crime career in Dallas. Spotting a man kneeling inside their car trunk, they closed the lid and drove the man to police headquarters.

Thieves also have complaints. A note left in a La Porte, Ind., home read: "You people sure are poor; a good burglar can't make an honest living."

The first daily weather-bul on a 1870-72 winter expedition on Mt. Washington. Hitchcock was the only geologist from Massachusetts Charles Henry Hitchcock during and led this expedition.

James H. Shaw, their assistant feature editor, I asked me to write a special Christmas letter to the "guys" who read my column in their paper. I did.

And I want to share it with all my readers, since I know I reflect your sentiments as well as my own. Here it is:

Dear Guys:

How does one say "Seasons Greetings" to men in action where seasons are scarcely noted and the surroundings are nothing like home.

The Yuletide in your American homeland won't be quite the same without you. And I know that millions of Americans would like to send you personal greetings (with gratitude were it possible).

I have no official right to speak for anyone else to convey a holiday message of love and kisses, and of a deeply felt prayer for your success and safety.

But I can feel the pulse of your country, boys, and I say it is steady and strong and in rhythm with your efforts. So, strange as it may sound, in a place where merriness is a memory and happiness a stranger, Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to the American armed and special forces across the seas!

We love you and want you back when the job you are doing for all of us is done. God bless you, kids.

Sincerely yours, Abby

Newlyweds in Chicago After Rite

The newlywed Richard Lee Servins (Harlynn Mae Izner) will honeymoon briefly in Chicago before resuming senior studies at the University of Michigan and the U. of M. Medical School, respectively.

A reception in the Grand Ballroom of the Hotel Sheraton-Cadillac in Detroit followed the candlelight ceremony performed by Rabbi Leon Fram Wednesday in the Crystal Ballroom.

Parents of the couple are Dr. and Mrs. Sanford M. Izner of Detroit and the Harry P. Servins of Oak Park, formerly of Pontiac.

The bride's sleeveless Empire gown and chapel train of gardenia silk satin was designed with overdress and front panel of rose point lace.

A crownless cap of silk held her lace-appliqued shoulder length veil. Her bouquet was white gardenias.

Lauren Izner attended her sister as honor maid, along with bridesmaids, Sarajane Servin, Maryann Dunitz, Victoria Lasser and Mrs. Bruce Servin.

With Bruce Servin, his brother's best man, were the ushers, Donald S. Besser, Michael Nosanchuk, David J. Olen Michael D. Surowitz and Barry N. Tilds. Bradley Servin carried the rings.

Plan Festivities

Dr. and Mrs. Clifford T. Ekelund of Ottawa Drive, are looking forward to entertaining their family Christmas Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce H. Smith and children David, Michael and Gregory, will arrive early from Birmingham and daughter Mary Sue will be here from Detroit.

Other guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Newton Skillman Jr. and children, Christopher, Amy, Tony, Stephan and Timmy of Lake Angelus.

Coming from Garden City will be a niece and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Hoeft with children, William Jr., DeeDee and a new baby.

The Collis Scotts of Cherokee Road are looking forward to the arrival of their daughter and son-in-law, the William Clarks of Port Huron for the Christmas weekend.

Seated around the holiday table will also be the A. W. Dickinsons of Lake Angelus, the Osborn A. Campbells of Birmingham, the William G. Dickinsons and Mrs. Talbot Bowers of Dayton, Ohio.

On Christmas morning the Scotts and the Clarks will go to the Arthur H. Scotts II on Menominee Road to be with Shelley (age 1½) when she opens her presents. The other set of proud grandparents, the William W. Donaldsons, will also be there.

Christmas festivities for the Donald Murphys of Union Lake begin early. First comes breakfast with guests, Mrs. Howard W. Casey, Mrs. Daniel Murphy Sr. and the Walter Harrods.

Others will include the Daniel T. Murphys with children Jerry, Gwen, Kevin and Lori; and the Thomas Murphys of Royal Oak and the Gene R. Cudeyns of Lansing with Mark, and David.

WILL SPEND DAY

Except for the Harrods, the whole group will stay through the day and join in a buffet supper later along with their host and hostess and their children, Sharon, Michael, Timothy, Patricia and Barbara.

Family dinner and the tree will be enjoyed Christmas Eve in the West Walton Boulevard home of Circuit Judge and Mrs. Clark J. Adams.

Their guests will include Mrs. Adams' mother Mrs. M. M. Clark, Highland Park; the couple's son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Vernon C. Burris, with children Roger and Janet; and Judge Adams' brother and sister-in-law, Probate Judge and Mrs. Donald E. Adams with son David.

Friends of the family, Mr. and Mrs. Everett K. Garrison, also will be present.

Harcourt Patterson Jr. is home for Christmas vacation from Culver Military Academy in Indiana with his parents, the senior Pattersons of Hammond Lake.

A Christmas Day dinner at the Pattersons' will include Mrs. Patterson's mother, Mrs. E. L. Page and her sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Wisam of Grand Rapids.

Mayor and Mrs. William H. Taylor Jr. of Ottawa Drive and two of their daughters, Janet (home from Western Michigan University) and Laurie, will be hosting Christmas Day dinner for several guests.

Expected are the N. P. Warreners, Mrs. William H. Taylor Sr., and the Robert Shoreys with Lori, Chris and Joan.

Then there will be the Joe Carters with Lynn and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Carter Jr. and Mrs. Frank Shorey of Royal Oak.

Coming from Berkley will be the Paul Jollys with son David; Alvin Warner will also be present.

On Sunday the Gerald Warreners with their Son Gary will

Party to Fete Couple Sunday at Local Club

A party at Orchard Lake Country Club, Sunday, will honor the newlywed John L. McDonalds of Los Angeles, Calif.

She is the former Katherine Adams Jerome, daughter of the Arnold K. Jeromes of West Iroquois Road.

He is the son of Mr. A. B. McDonald of Bryn Mawr, Pa. and the late Mr. McDonald.

The couple arrived here recently following their nuptials in St. Jerome's Cathedral, Los Angeles.

The honeymooners will spend Christmas with her parents along with Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Jerome Jr., who are here from Indianapolis, Ind.

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD—Notes while waiting for the fat man with the whiskers:
Such madness, this last minute crush of movie releases to hit the Christmas trade and make the Oscar deadline. Critics are irritated by the onrush of films and can't give fair evaluations. Academy voters are confused. The public is renumbed.
Seems to me a more orderly release of hopeful blockbusters through the year would be easier on all and make a more sensible Oscar race out of it.
Now that I'm feeling more Detroit.

like Scrooge than Tiny Tim. let's take on the newswires. Remember when they used to be packed with news and entertainment? They gave you everything from summit meetings to water skiing, a must, to Lew Lehr's nonsense: "Monkeys are de ewazest people!"
What do you get in newswires now? Commercial.
RECENT REEL
I caught two in a recent reel. A blatant ad for a luggage concern in which a "packing consultant" supposedly was showing pro footballers how to pack for traveling; also a puff for the MGM president who was feted at a New York banquet. This is new?
Another failing of the new news reel is devoting space to the premieres of movies. I saw one in a Universal reel to the opening of "War Lord" in Detroit.
As long as we're grumbling, how about those ads on billboards around town that proclaim: "Merry Christmas to all except for the folks, and you know who you are—(signed) Daisy Clover!" How nice of Warner Bros. to help spread the spirit of Christmas.
Most feted Britisher since Princess Margaret is Michael Caine, the mild-looking sleuth of "The Ipcress File." Universal, which sponsored the film and has him in "Gambit" with Shirley MacLaine, gave him a party at the Other Place, the new private discotheque that offers billiards as well as Watul. Miss MacLaine acted as hostess.
TAKEN IN STRIDE
Then Paramount, which also has Caine under contract for films, tossed an elegant dinner for him at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel. The mild-mannered Caine took it all in stride, displaying little animation until he danced the frug with Shirley.
The old order passes. Donna Reed did her last television show of her series this week. So did Vincent Edwards of Ben Casey. Dick Van Dyke reports he has only 15 more to go.
William Holden, still recovering from his recent illness, finished "Alvarez Kelly." He stays on for Christmas with his family; then plans to spend four months at the Mt. Kenya Safari club he owns with oilman Ray Ryan.
Lighting up the local social scene is Gloria Swanson, who never fails to stagger party guests with her ageless beauty. "No work this trip," she reports. "I'm just here for Christmas with my mother, children and grandchildren."
And a Merry Christmas to all.

There were less than 10 miles of paved roads in the nation in 1890 for an estimated 8,000 vehicles.

French Units to Stay Abroad

PARIS (AP)—France plans to maintain military units in nine of her former colonies south of the Sahara, officials sources said today.
The units, the sizes of which were not given, have been kept in the now independent states under accord made with France.
The main units will be based at Dakar, Senegal; Lamy, Chad; and at the Diego Suarez-Inyato complex on Madagascar. Other units will remain based in Niger and Gabon and military airfields will be maintained at Port Bouet, Ivory Coast; Douala, Cameroon; Alar, Mauritania; and Bangui, Central African Republic.
Under accords signed with the countries when they became independent, France, south in their defense, either with units based in Africa or in France.

Most Gas Stations to Close Tomorrow

DETROIT (AP)—About 90 per cent of Michigan's gas stations will be closed on Saturday, Christmas Day, the Automobile Club of Michigan warned today.
"Sufficient gas stations will be open along freeways to prevent motorists from becoming stranded," said Jerry E. Fisher, Auto Club touring manager. "However, long-distance drivers are advised to stop for gas whenever an opportunity presents itself after driving between 100 and 150 miles."

Bullish Influence Pulls Up Prices in Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP)—Influence in the grain futures market was somewhat more bullish than last week and prices of nearly all commodities recovered modestly from the rather broad declines of the previous week.

Soybeans finished with the week's gains based on the expectation that wheat will over a cent on all deliveries. Oats and rye posted fractional gains, corn eased.

There were some mildly bullish factors in government reports of the week. The export business, the bearish influence which government selling had on wheat was fairly well offset by the end of the week with prices back almost at their highs of the season.

Stock Market Climbs Despite Viet News

The closing was a bit of a surprise, but it was a good one. The market was up 1.34 points, or 1.34 percent, to 357.75. The AP average advanced 1.5 on the week, closing at 357.7.

Selective gains by blue chips accounted for the rise in these averages.

Of the 1,557 issues traded this week, however, losers outnumbered gainers by 814 to 576.

The five most active issues this week on the New York Stock Exchange were:

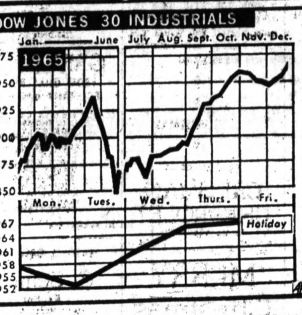

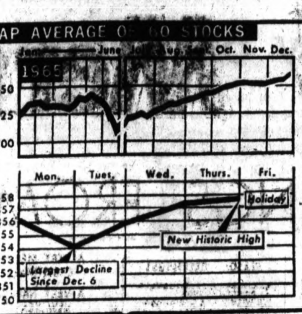

- American Motors, up 1 1/4 at 48.00; shares.
- Sperry Rand, up 1 1/4 at 21 1/4.
- American Telephone, up 1/4 at 62 1/4.
- Chrysler, up 1/4 at 55 1/4.
- Pan American World Airways, off 1/4 at 50 1/4.

But de Gaulle himself was reported to have told U.S. Senate Majority Leader Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., when Mansfield called on him a few weeks ago, that he would welcome a meeting with Johnson.

Johnson Sends Word, Willing to Visit De Gaulle

PARIS (UPI)—President Johnson has sent informal word to French President Charles de Gaulle that he would be happy to meet with him if he comes to Europe next spring, French government sources said today.

No formal invitation has been sent out or received and the possibility of such a meeting never has been discussed officially, the sources said.

Treasury Bond Prices Stronger

Viet Peace Rumors Are Behind Showing

NEW YORK (AP)—U.S. Treasury bond prices showed a little strength during the past week on peace rumors out of Viet Nam. Corporate and municipal bond prices were mixed.

The peace rumor developed last weekend. Though quickly squelched by Hanoi, the rumor of possible armistice negotiations sent bond prices up.

Transactions on This Week's Markets

Deny Tax Hike Plan to Pay Viet Buildup

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson today said that no such decision has been made even tentatively.

Other administration officials said their private judgment was that President Johnson is unlikely to ask for higher taxes and that Congress—in an election year—would be even less likely to enact them.

None of the sources would be quoted by name, since the question is strictly up to the President. But at least one of the sources could have an advisory voice in the decision.

This source said published reports on the likelihood of a tax increase are "definitely premature." The White House itself also used the "premature" label when similar forecasts were made a few weeks ago; a spokesman said no serious study was being given the proposal.

France to End Euromart Snub

PARIS (AP)—France is ready to end its boycott of the European Common Market and attend a meeting of the council of ministers.

The French have proposed that the foreign ministers of the six countries in the European Economic Community—its Common Market partners—West Germany, Belgium, Italy, Holland, Luxembourg, and France, meet in Luxembourg Jan. 17-18.

The French proposed Luxembourg as the site to demonstrate their disapproval of attempts by the community's executive commission, which is based in Brussels, Belgium, and other members of the community to give the commission supranational powers.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q "Could you advise a person of 45 how to invest $5,000 that was left to him recently and for which he has no need? This person intends to retire at 60."

J.B.

A) You should first determine an investment objective—and then stick to it with no slightest deviation. In your position, I suggest that your goal be strong growth stocks, which should enhance your capital over the years ahead. Since such issues have generally gained in value for many years at a rate faster than the dollar has depreciated, they also offer you inflation protection to a large extent.
