

U.S. Jets Hit Near Hanoi Heart

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Navy bombers raided an electric power plant near the heart of Hanoi today, and two pilots reported shooting down a supersonic MIG just south of the Communist capital.

Fliers from the carrier Oriskany bombed the power plant 1.1 miles north of the center of Hanoi, continuing for a third straight day intensified U.S. raids on bridges, rail yards and MIG air bases around Hanoi and Haiphong.

The U.S. command said results of the latest Hanoi raid were not yet available. But it announced earlier that 10 more MIGs were destroyed or damaged on the ground during strikes yesterday on the Phuc Yen air base 18 miles northwest of the Communist capital.

Hanoi's official Vietnam News Agency declared 12 American planes were shot down today, 10 over Hanoi. It said in a broadcast dispatch some pilots bailed out and were captured.

The Soviet news agency Tass, in an earlier report that five planes had been shot down, said the Americans bombed and strafed the center of the city.

The dispatch said five U.S. planes were shot down and several American fliers bailed out.

The U.S. Command made no announcement of any plane losses today but said three U.S. fighter-bombers were shot down yesterday in the raids on Phuc Yen and on Hanoi's mile-long Paul Doumer Bridge. All three pilots are missing.

The stepped-up air war in the North again overshadowed ground fighting in the South, but South Korean infantrymen and South Vietnamese militiamen reported they had 300 to 350 enemy soldiers trapped in three pockets near the South China Sea Coast 200 miles northeast of Saigon.

Incomplete reports said 33 of the enemy had been killed so far, while Korean and Vietnamese casualties were light.

In the intensified U.S. air drive against North Vietnam, American fighter-bombers flew 125 missions yesterday and attacked the previously hit Hoa Lac airfield in addition to the raids on Phuc Yen and the Doumer Bridge.

Pilots reported damaging one MIG on the ground at Hoa Lac, 20 miles west of Hanoi.

With nine MIGs reported destroyed or damaged on the ground during the first raid on Phuc Yen Tuesday, another shot down in a dogfight that day and another probable kill claimed, a total of 23 Communist jet interceptors have been reported put out of action this week.

Pro-Viet Group Boasts Ike, HST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate critics of U.S. policies in Vietnam show no inclination to tangle with a newly formed, blue-ribbon committee supporting those policies.

The organization includes former Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and Harry S. Truman and other prominent names in both parties.

Senators opposing the administration on Vietnam said variously they weren't the type of dissenters the committee was aiming at, that they share its concern for U.S. fighting men in Vietnam or that they did not want to discuss publicly the new organization's goals.

Formation of the Citizens Committee was announced yesterday at a news conference by five-star Gen. Omar N. Bradley and former Democratic Sen. Paul H. Douglas of Illinois.

A policy declaration of the new committee said: "We strongly support our commitment in Vietnam and the policy of noncompromising, although limited, resistance to aggression."

SETS OBJECTIVES

The organization set its objective as making sure "Peking and Hanoi will not mistake the strident voices of some dissenters for American discouragement."

Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., who was a GOP national chairman under Eisenhower and opposes President Johnson's war policies, said the committee was referring to recent antiwar demonstrations marked by violence and he also condemned such activities.

Insecticide Kills 7 Children

ARCADIA, Fla. (AP) — The last of an itinerant farm couple's seven children died today in a hospital from poison authorities said was traced to an agricultural insecticide.

Dianne Richardson, 3, died at 5:30 a.m., about 12 hours after her brothers and sisters died one-by-one.

Pathologist Millard White of Sarasota, who performed autopsies on six of the dead children, said, "They definitely died of parathion or malathion poisoning." The chemicals are used in the control of insects in agriculture.

Desoto County Sheriff Frank Cline said the parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Richardson, were working at a citrus packing plant when the children — ranging in age from 2 to 8 — were stricken. Four of the children had been at school during the morning, but the younger ones were left unattended when a baby sitter failed to show up, Cline said.

Cline said nothing had been found to indicate how the children received the poison.

METHOD OF INTAKE

"We don't know if they got down and rolled in it or swallowed it. We just don't know what the means of intake was," he said.

Mrs. Richardson had prepared a lunch of beans, rice and grits Tuesday night, Cline said, and left it in the kitchen for the children. He said the lunch had been eaten.

Cline and Asst. State Atty. John Treble III searched the Richardsons' section of the two-story, two-family home last night, and then locked it pending further investigation.

Several kitchen utensils were sent to a Sarasota laboratory for examination, Cline said, but no trace of the insecticides was found. The Richardsons planned to move in with neighbors.

CHILDREN IDENTIFIED

The dead children were identified as Alice, 7; Doreen, 5; Vanessa, 4; Dianne, 3; and James Richardson Jr., 2, and Betty Bryant, 8, and Susie Bryant, 6. Cline said the Bryant children were Mrs. Richardson's by a former marriage.

'Phony as a $3 Bill'

Faith Healer Denounced

By ED BLUNDEN

Antonio (Dr. Tony) Agpaoa of the Philippines, the alleged faith healer, has been denounced as a "complete fraud" by an Oakland County resident who went to see him for a cure along with 110 persons early this month.

Stanley Babiuk of 1385 N. Livernois, Avon Township, said, "He's as phony as a three-dollar bill. The tragic thing is that another group is forming to make the trip. I want to stop them if I can," Babiuk said.

Dr. Tony is said to be able to operate on people without using surgical equipment. He supposedly thrusts his hands into human bodies and extracts diseased tissues.

A movie allegedly showing these operations has been shown in Oakland County and the Detroit metropolitan area.

In Bloomfield Hills last Friday about 115 persons saw a film and heard talks by three county residents as to the alleged benefits of going to the Philippines and having the operations.

TWO CLERGYMEN

Giving the presentation were Mrs. Stanton Barr of 3555 Shallow Brook, Bloomfield Hills, and two men who identified themselves as Birmingham clergymen, Rev. Russell Smith of the Unity Center and Dr. Cushing Smith of the Church of Divine Science.

At the meeting it was pointed out that Dr. Tony does not do all the operations. It was said he had nine assistants who did operations. Babiuk said there were 27 on his staff, and this number was confirmed by Mrs. Doris Chandonnet of Gibraltar, who also made the trip and labeled Dr. Tony "a fraud."

In relating his experiences, Babiuk said he had been in intense pain and disabled due to a spinal disc injury seven years ago. He was working as a broadcast engineer for a Detroit radio station at the time.

Babiuk said he had surgery three times in an attempt to fix the vertebrae. He proved allergic to the necessary anesthetic, however, and couldn't continue with surgery.

LEARNED OF HEALER

He became acquainted with Joe Ruffner of Detroit, a man who was testifying to the healing powers of Dr. Tony and showing movies.

1st Snow Hits in U.P.

By the Associated-Press

One of the earliest big snowstorms in memory left hundreds of Upper Peninsula residents still wielding shovels and waiting for restoration of electric power today.

At Herman, a hamlet so small it is a flag stop on the Soo Line Railroad in northwestern Upper Michigan, residents went into their second day without electric power.

They were digging out from under 15 inches of snow. Herman's total snowfall of 26 inches this season pushed the town on an early season start toward the 283.5 inches of snowfall for last winter.

The Upper Peninsula record is 294.5 inches at Delaware in Keweenaw County in 1964-65.

Some 50,000 residents of four Upper Michigan counties, including the cities of Hancock and Houghton, went without electricity for periods ranging from eight to more than 24 hours yesterday.

32-33 DEGREES

The temperature hovered around 32 or 33 degrees.

'Suburbia Must Aid Negroes'

White suburbia must lend a helping hand if the problems of the inner city Negro are to be solved.

This was the essence of a message delivered last night in Birmingham by Joseph L. Hudson Jr., chairman of the New Detroit Committee.

"The New Detroit Committee, formed after last summer's riots, recognizes that the problems and solutions are metropolitan in scope and not just concerned with inner city areas in Pontiac and Detroit," said Hudson.

About 300 persons filled the Birmingham Community House to listen to the 37-year-old department store executive who at 29 took over as head of the J. L. Hudson Co.

"A big part of solving the problems of the inner city Negro in our society has to come from the suburbs through help and exchange programs from their present organizations and clubs. There is still a latent prejudice and backlash in the white community and this must be overcome," he said.

'UNWARRANTED FEAR'

"The suburbs like Birmingham here have an unwarranted fear that if open housing legislation — which we support — passes statewide or locally that there will be a mass exodus of Negroes to the suburbs. This is definitely unfounded."

He explained that the inner city Negro doesn't want to live in a particular place like Birmingham, but he doesn't want to feel that he is denied living there. In reality most couldn't afford to live in exclusive suburbs anyway.

He outlined the goals of the committee.

• Reorganization of the Detroit police and fire departments with efforts toward recruitment and advancement of more Negroes and developing an image of public service rather than enforcement.

Ford Is Stalled by Local Issues

From Our Wire Services

DETROIT — Bargaining deadlocks on local issues kept Ford Motor Co.'s 95 plants idle today despite overwhelming approval of a record new national contract by rank-and-file United Auto Workers members.

A Ford spokesman said the company had failed to reach agreement with 31 UAW locals, prolonging strikes at a long list of key factories including nine of Ford's 17 assembly plants, three of its four engine plants and four of its five stamping plants.

"The unsettled plants make it impossible to resume production," the spokesman said.

The local deadlocks dragged Ford's production stoppage into its 50th day despite ratification of the new three-year national pact by Ford's 160,000 UAW members.

Ford said a few thousand maintenance workers were called back today to prepare machinery for production. But the spokesman said no cars would be produced until the local disputes are settled.

"We're putting the squeeze on for local-level settlements," said one UAW official. "We hope Ford's assembly lines get rolling as soon as possible."

The union struck Ford at midnight Sept. 6 in search of a pattern-setting contract it will now take to General Motors and Chrysler, where UAW members have continued working without a contract.

Reuther said he will be calling on one or the other company shortly, but declined to say which one.

Gov. Romney Says He Can Win Vote of Independents, Dems

STURGIS, S.D. (AP)—Michigan Gov. George Romney portrayed himself Wednesday night as a Republican who can capture the vote of independents and dissatisfied Democrats.

The former president of American Motors Corp. told a gathering of Western South Dakota Republicans that the GOP cannot win the presidency in 1968 "just because the opposition has lost favor with the people. We have to put forth our best candidates."

Romney leaves today for a speaking engagement in Phoenix, Ariz., on an eight-day tour of 10 states.

Romney said a recent Gallup Poll showed only 27 per cent of the voters identified themselves as Republicans and added: "Even if every Republican supports our candidates in 1968, we can still lose by the biggest margin in history unless we win the support of independent and dissident Democrats."

'COST-PRICE FREEZE'

Turning to agriculture problems, Romney said farmers and ranchers are caught in a "cost-price squeeze" because big business and big labor have more economic and political power.

"The price the rancher gets for his labor is badly out of balance with the wages paid to factory workers who produce the things he has to buy," the Michigan governor said.

"This fundamental imbalance is caused by an over-concentration of economic and political power on the part of employers and unions," he added.

An unopposed candidate for the GOP nomination for president in 1968, Romney said President Johnson made "false promises" of full parity of income and opportunity for farmers and ranchers.

Net farm income for the first half of this year is down 11 per cent from last year, Romney said. The farm parity ratio is "almost identical to where it stood in 1934 at the depth of the depression."

Ranchers, he said, "are increasingly caught in the cost-price squeeze. Over all, consumer prices have risen at an annual rate of 4.4 per cent in the last three months. But the five items of farm cost that rise most sharply year after year are taxes, farm wages, motor vehicles, interest and farm machinery."

He was picked up Tuesday by Stoney Park rangers who said they spotted all three stripping the stolen car. McClary is still at large, said police.

Troopers Louis Orlich and William LaRue of the Romeo post are investigating the case.

A White Lake Township man, Pfc. Robert D. Cain, 21, was killed in action in the Demilitarized Zone in Vietnam. His wife, Carla, currently lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Funk at 765 Ranvee.

Cain was a member of Battalion C, the second battalion of the 320th Artillery in the 101st Airborne Division. He enlisted in the Army in December 1966.

A graduate of Milford High School, Cain played on the varsity football team and was a member of the school choir.

Lodge Charge Is Answered by Romney

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney yesterday defended himself against charges leveled by State Sen. L. Harvey Lodge of Waterford Township that he ignored problems of crime and riot prevention in setting up the special session of the Legislature.

He termed "unfair, incorrect and false" what he felt were implications by Lodge, R-17th District, that he is not dedicated to upholding law and order in Michigan.

Lodge, in a letter to Romney earlier this month, told the governor he was disappointed that he had failed to include stiff anti-riot bills on the special legislative agenda.

He warned that Romney faced a "complete revolt of the Legislature" unless he asked for anti-crime laws to go with his open housing proposal.

Lodge said open housing was "now so feared by the people in rural and suburban areas" that their representatives won't vote for it unless Romney assures them people will be safe in the homes and on the streets.

"This administration, by its legislative programs and by its executive actions, has constantly sought to improve law and order in our state and to have our laws applied firmly, effectively, and without fear or favor," Romney wrote.

He said a prime example was the city of Pontiac, in Lodge's district, where the "prompt commitment of our State Police helped quell" a possible riot last July.

Job Center's Problems Cited

High Costs, Waste Are Revealed in Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—A secret government report circulating on Capitol Hill presents a devastating picture of high costs, waste and disciplinary problems at a Job Corps center in California.

It shows that after two years of operation the estimated cost of the center had jumped from $12.8 million to $25.5 million, the dropout rate was 55 per cent and only 8 per cent of the enrollees were placed in jobs related to their training. The report also discloses that within a 60-day period, dismissal was recommended for 93 enrollees on disciplinary grounds ranging from assault, robbery and extortion to use of marijuana and sex perversion.

The report is a preliminary study of the Parks Job Corps Center at Pleasanton, Calif., by the General Accounting Office.

It was released on a "strictly confidential" basis to members of Congress to help them draft anti-poverty legislation.

The Senate has already passed a bill extending the anti-poverty program for two years and the House is due to act on a similar measure soon.

NO REPLY

The GAO said it also sent a copy of the report last March to the Office of Economic Opportunity, which directs the anti-poverty program, asking for its comments. It said it received no reply.

The center is operated by Litton Systems, Inc., on a deactivated military base about 40 miles southeast of San Francisco. It has a capacity of 2,200 men.

The GAO review covers the center in early 1965 through December. Since then, it notes, there have been some improvements in procedures and other changes are under consideration by the contractor.

Much of the report is devoted to the costs of the program, designed to provide youths between 16 and 21, most of them school dropouts from impoverished backgrounds, with job training and basic education.

The contract was originally negotiated at an estimated cost of $12.8 million and a fixed fee for Litton of $600,000, says the GAO. But by November 1966, the total cost was up to $25.6 million including a fixed fee of $683,079.

Antismoking Clinic Will Begin Nov. 5

A "no charge" clinic to help smokers who want to kick the habit will begin at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 5 in the auditorium at the Oakland County Service Center.

The five-day clinic, sponsored by the Riverside Seventh-day Adventist Church, 156 University, is offered in cooperation with the American Cancer Foundation and the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

This is the second antismoking program held in the Pontiac area in the past two months.

The program, which features group therapy led by a physician counselor team, is being offered again because of the public demand, according to Rev. Elmer Malcolm, church pastor.

The Suburbs Must Share Slum Woes---Cavanagh

BIRMINGHAM — Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh last night told residents here that they must share in the problems of Detroit's inner city.

"We must all recognize that the slums of Detroit's inner city are equally the slums of Birmingham, Bloomfield and the Grosse Pointes, that the slums of Detroit's inner city can be found down in Harlem," Cavanagh said.

Cavanagh spoke to about 200 members of the Birmingham Junior League and their husbands at Birmingham Seaborn High School.

The mayor reiterated his position that both the state and federal government have not done enough to solve the problems of America's cities.

But, he added, "I would be remiss if I did not acknowledge that there has been more aid to American cities, both large and small, under President Johnson's leadership than under any previous administration."

AID FORTHCOMING

"Also, let me say, that as a result of the Detroit riot and riots in other Michigan cities, there is hope, I think, that at long last additional assistance will be forthcoming from the State Legislature."

During a question and answer period, Cavanagh was asked what a proposed open occupancy law would contribute towards solving the problem of Detroit's Negroes.

The mayor said the immediate affect of an open housing law would be "psychological."

Cavanagh said such a law would be "difficult to enforce," but that it would show "commitment to a moral principle."

LESS PRACTICAL

He added, "Open occupancy has greater psychological implications than it may have a practical implication."

Lake Orion School Board Approves a Deficit Budget

LAKE ORION — A deficit budget to be covered this year by a surplus over last June has been adopted by the board of education.

Expenses are pegged at $2,445,416 while projected income is less at $2,354,062.

"We can get by this year," said Schools Supt. Lewis F. Mundy, "by using the balance left over in June."

"Obviously we are going to have to make some decisions about future years," he said.

He refused to speculate on the possibility of an increase in operational millage at this time. "We don't know what the state will be doing next year," Mundy said.

STATE AID

Much of the district's income is made up in state aid.

Unless other pending state legislation is passed to allow teachers with temporary certificates to continue working, the district will have to replace 16 teachers next January.

Informed by the state of penalties, existing under the law for employing such teachers, the board took no action last night.

"We have 16 teachers with 90-day certificates now employed on a full-time basis," said Mundy. "They will be affected unless the proposed legislation is passed."

SUBSTITUTE TEACHERS

"We also have several substitutes who have 60-day certificates, but since they are only substitutes they will not be affected," he said.

A report from the architectural firm of Tarapata-MacMahon in regard to the district's proposed construction of new classrooms was discussed. The date of a bonding election has not yet been set.

New JC Unit Sells 2 Tons of Pumpkins in First Major Project

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — A newly chartered Jaycee group here has sold nearly two tons of pumpkins as its first major project.

The sale netted about $90 which will provide Thanksgiving turkeys and perhaps Christmas shopping trips for the needy in the area, said charter president James Knapp, 1450 Rosedale.

He said the group had been organized under the auspices of the Waterford Township Jaycees.

Other officers are Wayne Young, internal vice president; Richard Ulasick, external vice president; John Schuman, secretary; Ralph Harper, treasurer; and Ronald Joyner and Roy Monzo, directors.

Pilots Elect Detroit

WASHINGTON — The National Pilots' Association said yesterday Allen F. Edwards of Detroit has been elected president.

PROJECTS PLANNED

With $10,000 to $12,000 in additional revenue to be added, he said, a new larger filtration plant is planned to replace the old one, some new water mains are scheduled and a new well is needed to replace one that isn't producing up to capacity.

Herrington said, "The cost for everything has gone up, and we need to expand our facilities to serve the residents of Holly better."

HOPEFUL

With $10,000 to $12,000 in additional revenue to be added, he said, a new larger filtration plant is planned to replace the old one, some new water mains are scheduled and a new well is needed to replace one that isn't producing up to capacity.

"We should start these projects within a year," he added.

Cityhood Hearing for Avon Is Tonight

AVON TOWNSHIP — A public hearing on incorporation of the township as the city of Avon will be conducted at 7:30 tonight at the Rochester Senior High School, sponsored by the boundaries committee of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

An election to incorporate has been scheduled for Jan. 15. People seeking election as charter commissioners, should the vote pass, have until Nov. 7 to file petitions.

For Water, Sewers

Holly Hikes Rates

HOLLY — The Village Council has approved the first hike in the water and sewer rates since 1956.

The new quarterly water rate was hiked from $4 to $5 for a maximum use of 10,000 gallons with 20 cents extra for every 1,000 gallons over that amount, said Village Supt. Jim Herrington.

Sewer rates will also increase since they are based on 120 per cent of the water rate, he said. This would set the minimum sewer rate at $6, up from $4.80.

Holly has its own water system served by four wells and one filtration plant.

Policemen Get Salary Boost in Shelby Twp.

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — The Township Board has granted raises to the policemen including the chief, retroactive to July 1, 1967.

Police Chief Robert Smith was granted a salary of $11,200 — a $1,200 raise. His hike was the same as received by Fire Chief Clyde Schmidt earlier this month. Both had asked for $12,000.

In both cases, Chief Supervisor Kirby Holmes was the only dissenter on the Board. He voted with the board on the other raises.

The new pay scales will not go into effect until March 1, 1968, when revenues from the township's 2.5-mill police operating fund begin coming in.

Patrolmen were given a flat $1,000 hike from $7,000 to $8,000; detective pay was increased from $7,225 to $8,400; the sergeant's salary went from $7,700 to $8,900; and the lieutenant's pay from $7,450 to $8,440.

OVERTIME REJECTED

The Board turned down a request for overtime pay for time spent in court but compromised on issues of paid holidays and uniform allowances.

Paid holidays were increased from three to five — eight were asked. Officers uniform allowance was upped from $100 to $150 with $200 asked.

The allowance for the chief and detective were hiked from $150 to $200 with $250 being asked.

The estimated police budget for February 1968 through March 1969 was given as $170,973 by Chief Smith.

FUTURE HOPES

Smith said he wasn't happy with the complete package offered by the board, but hopes for future improvements.

Firemen were granted similar raises as a result of a $900,000 1.5-mill tax increase for the fire department passed Aug. 7.

Home of Oxford Government

Center Has Colonial Warmth

By JEAN SAILLE

OXFORD — The colonial warmth of another era has been retained in the town's new Civic Center at 22 W. Burdick.

Built in a tri-part design, the building now houses township, village and police offices and will house the public library once the interior of the center section is complete.

Located on the site of two former frame homes which once housed the township and village facilities separately, the new brick structure was erected at a cost of better than $200,000.

The village's share of the new center has been financed with a $70,000 bond issue approved by voters in March of 1966. The township has used money from a building fund and has an agreement with contractors to pay the balance over a period of years.

The library board, recipient of a federal grant, is using that plus donations and money to be received from disposal of the present facility on Mechanic Street to pay for its new facilities.

OLDEST HOME

A move is currently under way in the village to save the old McKenzie home, where the library is currently situated. The home is believed to be the oldest in the village.

The center is the first completely new governmental office to serve the community in the memory of most of its residents.

Village offices, previous to their location in the frame home on the present site, were situated in the present fire hall at 50 S. Washington. The police station was both downstairs and upstairs there. At one time it boasted two cells capable of holding four prisoners, Chief Albert Roberts recalls.

Having served 26 years as chief, Roberts remembers the time one of the jail's more regular customers effected a break by smashing through a wooden frame door which confined him.

ONE CELL FOR TWO

able of holding two prisoners overnight.

Former township clerk, Herbert Rahm who served for 42 years, remembers when township meetings were conducted in the basement of his Oxford Electric Co. store located where the present Masonic Temple is on Washington Street.

He recalls meetings previous to that in the fire hall and even before that when the board met in Trustee Warren Robinson's Barber Shop.

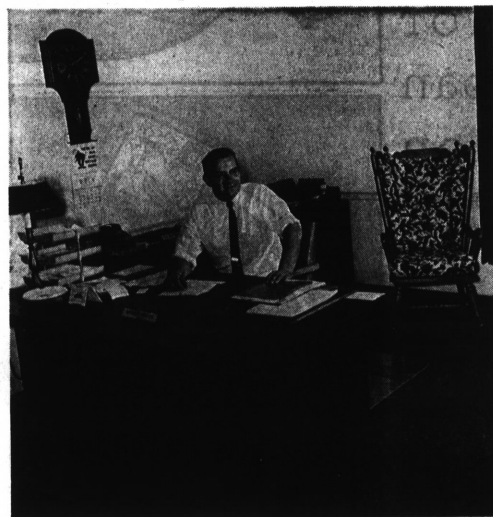

Spacious meeting rooms on the main floor of the new Civic Center will accommodate the township body and another in the basement of the village office will accommodate the village council sessions.

COLONIAL FEATURES

A white and gold color scheme has been carried out in the village section of the center. Brightened with warm colonial colors and wood, it features offices and a conference room on the main floor.

Pastels and colonial decor have been chosen for the township offices.

Landscaping with evergreens has been started in the spacious front courtyard, and a parking lot at the rear of the building is being prepared for eventual paving.

CONFERENCE ROOM — Warm red set off the rich colonial furniture in the village conference room in Oxford's new Civic Center. A warmth of decoration gives the room the feeling of a private dining room. Such warmth characterizes the entire Civic Center.

Orion Twp. to Ease Restrictions

Horse Owners May Plan

ORION TOWNSHIP—Protests by horse owners regarding restrictions on the family pets have won a modification in the proposed Orion Township Zoning Ordinance and Map.

Most of the crowd of 125 present at last night's public hearing on the ordinance were there to state objections to the land requirements for keeping horses.

A crowd, including a good number of children, objected to the proposed four-acre restriction and to the fact that a barn should be located 100 feet from the lot line.

The township had heretofore allowed a horse on three acres of ground and a barn 75 feet from the lot line.

Planning Commission Chairman Richard Beer said the ordinance would be reworked and a second public hearing conducted.

Owners of property along M24 and Baldwin objected to their land's removal from a commercial classification.

Beer said anyone wishing further changes would have until the end of November to submit such requests in writing to the planning commission. He also announced that printed books on the ordinance and map could be ordered from the Township Hall at a cost of $3.50 each.

The township had 25 such books printed, but due to the cost involved had not intended to purchase any others, Beer said. Audience members said they would like to buy the books for their personal use.

There are still some books available at the township hall, but they are not to be removed from the office, Beer said.

Union Lake Scouts Observe 25th Year

Union Lake Boy Scout Troop 67 will celebrate its 25th anniversary with a dinner and program Saturday evening at Four Towns Methodist Church, 6451 Cooley Lake.

A dinner featuring Wyoming wild game is still being planned for 5 to 7 p.m. The game was contributed by assistant scoutmaster, Fred Henry.

The program will feature a Court of Honor, a troop charter presentation and camp fire ceremony. Silver bars will be presented to members of the first troop, chartered in 1942.

Rates for Water Are Increased in Farmington Twp.

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — Water rates are up from $2.25 to $2.45 per 1,000 cubic feet.

The minimum quarterly bill has been increased from $2.50 to $2.70 by action of the Township Board.

The increases are in response to higher wholesale water prices by the Detroit Water Board, which supplies water, explained Township Supervisor Cecil Hall.

The board also approved recently the final plat for the 19 acres of Country Corners Subdivision. The parcel, west of Middle Belt between 10 and 11 Mile roads, is being developed by Edward Rose and Theodore Wolf, Detroit.

The board has approved the purchase of seven 1968 Dodge police cars for $14,454 with six trade-ins. The police department now has 11 cars.

Harold Rowe, township realtor, was appointed by the board to the Township Board of Review for a three-year term.

Osteopathic College Nears Reality

A message of cheer for Pontiac area residents rides on the announcement of the Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine (MCOM) of its intention to begin early construction of the first unit of the osteopathic college complex on the eastern outskirts of the City.

Many of the time-consuming problems inherent in moving a project of such magnitude from concept to physical reality have been resolved, and the time for action is now close.

The construction planned, estimated to cost $2 million, will provide a science building and classroom facilities for a class of 64 students scheduled for admittance in the fall of 1969.

This section will become part of the initial $4.5 million phase of the college development that is envisioned expanding into a $60 million institution employing 1,200 workers with an annual payroll of $12 million.

Since the 164-acre site of the college design was donated by public subscription, the community has more than passing interest in its progress and the significant economic and cultural benefits foreseen for the locality.

We are gratified along with many others that the Osteopathic College is becoming a reality and that construction will start soon.

Rusk's Asian 'Protectorate' Not Realistic

Usually we are impressed by the logic of Secretary of State Dean Rusk's conclusions and his facility in expressing them.

But his logic score suffered when he recently raised the specter of the "Yellow Peril" — meaning Communist China — as justification for our Vietnam adventure and sought to buttress it by attributing similar concern to the free nations of Asia over the Red threat.

If there is any such concern in that quarter, it has not appeared above the surface. With the exception of three small "captive" states (Thailand, South Korea, South Vietnam) nearly all Asian mainland nations disagree with U.S. policy, both as it relates to the war and our three-alarm assessment of future Chinese intentions.

This is significantly true of the nations that border on China: India, Pakistan, Nepal, Russia, Burma, Laos, North Vietnam. They would be the most vulnerable to Chinese aggression, but their leaders are not "expressing" themselves in "similar" terms to Rusk. Quite the contrary.

A State Department spokesman has been busy trying to inject some logic into the illogic of Rusk's press conference statement. It seems to us that the most logical explanation is that the secretary, in his zeal to defend our Vietnam campaign, let subjectivity get the better of his objectivity.

Green Light Seen for Speedier Rail Travel

"Speed in locomotion should be a function of human purpose," Lewis Mumford observed in The City of History. Speed in locomotion between Washington and New York — and eventually among other major cities — is coming, but not as fast as had been planned.

The Congressional trains of the Pennsylvania Railroad between the two cities will push maximum speed to 100 miles per hour — from 80 — starting Sunday. Running times will be cut to 3 hours — 35 minutes less than the present schedule.

Eventually the Pennsy expects to make the run in under three hours. That service, which was to have been started this month, has been delayed until early 1968 by late delivery of 50 new self-propelled cars. Alan S.

Boyd, U.S. Secretary of Transportation, told a railroad industry group on Oct. 10 that North-east Corridor train service "will be comparable in most ways with the Tokaido in Japan, except in name and cost."

Our trains will run at a 120 m.p.h. speed. Boyd suggested that the Northeast Corridor experiment, if successful, could be extended with profit to the roads in other corridors throughout the country. The Pennsy is spending $44 million in the experimental project, and the Government is contributing $11 million. Tests are being made regularly on 21 miles of specially-designed track in New Jersey.

Wouldn't it be peachy if Congress would speed up its legislative pace commensurably with the trains that bear its designation?

LBJ's Political Genius Misplaced

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON — President Johnson is getting his lumps for a reason that took time to reveal itself.

MARLOW

He is not the same master politician in dealing with the nation that he once was with Congress.

In American history there probably has never been a Democratic majority leader in the Senate in the same class with Johnson while he was leader there from 1955 through 1960.

That was the climax of 24 years of his life in Congress where he became a specialist in getting things done. And the way he got them done required not only approval for what he wanted but personal handling.

But he can't deal with a whole nation the way he did with individual senators whom he tackled in several ways.

He didn't seek total victories. He was willing to yield a point to gain a vote for a whole bill.

He also was a manipulator. He made it his business to know everything he could about his fellow senators. Their strengths, weaknesses, interests, needs, desires and political obligations.

With all that in his head, when he asked for a senator's vote, he was in a good position to try to help the helper some other way. The result was that a lot of senators felt obliged to him, and friendly.

To put it another way, Johnson was a marvelous behind-the-scenes operator.

But since he can't call the whole nation on the phone, or into his office or into the cloakroom for the head-to-head stuff, he must depend on winning public approval through speeches, statements and performance.

But even in the Senate Johnson was not a distinguished speaker. He's not a good one. He's awkward at it. It's not his field. Making people see things his way, by dealing with them personally, is.

He is self-conscious about his speech-making and realizes some time ago he was not at his best on television.

RIOT FRUSTRATION
The national frustration over the rash of racial riots in the past few years rubs off on Johnson if only because he has done nothing notable to solve them.

But it's the Vietnamese war which has damaged him most for several reasons: It has dragged out, victory is not in sight, the longer it lasts the more American lives are lost, and Johnson's detailed explanations to the nation have been few.

That leaves a vacuum in public thinking about the war. Since Johnson isn't doing much to fill the vacuum with explanations, his critics are. The war, taking up more and more of his time, has meant less time for him to try his old magic with Congress, which put on one of its greatest performances in 1965, when the Vietnamese war was just building up, but nothing like it since.

The result: Johnson has lost control of Congress where a great performance, produced by his manipulation, might do much to offset the criticism he gets on the war.

Counting Our Blessings!

David Lawrence Says:

Statistics Point Up Cost Spiral

WASHINGTON — Many people do not seem to know the true meaning of the word "inflation." But they are certainly feeling the effects of it.

LAWRENCE

The latest figures released by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics tell a story that has a far-reaching significance.

The "average city family of four," for instance, now needs an income of at least $9,191 a year to maintain a moderate standard of living.

The figure varies in the 39 metropolitan areas surveyed. Thus, in New York City, the sum necessary for a family of four is $10,293 a year, while in Austin, Tex., it amounts to $8,088.

The study accentuates the fact that family expenses in general have gone up 40 per cent since 1951 and approximately 16 per cent since 1959 as a result of price increases alone.

The rising cost of living extends not only to costs of food, housing, transportation, clothing and personal care but to other items in the budget of a family of four.

On the whole, the national economy has been pressed on all sides for several years now. The cost of living has steadily risen, as wages and prices have broken previous records.

MANY CHANGES
The depreciation in the purchasing power of the dollar has produced many changes in the wage scales.

Auto workers today, as well as steel workers, are getting around $10,000 a year, including fringe benefits paid by employers.

While this has been regarded heretofore as a high wage, the new government study indicates that it is not as much out of line as many people have believed.

In the unorganized fields of employment, wage rates have not been increased to any such extent, and this is where the hardship is heaviest. Retired groups, too, feel the pinch of inflation.

NO SURPRISE

The latest figures on the cost of living of a "family of four" will not come as a surprise to the many millions in that category or to people generally.

The big question is whether the situation can be remedied, particularly by governmental action.

It is politically unpopular to enact wage and price-control laws, but in previous war periods this method has finally become necessary.

Sooner or later, the facts about the family budget may cause both houses of Congress to see that the only way to avoid a serious recession is to pass wage- and price-control laws to stabilize the economy. This might well have been done two years ago.

Bob Considine Says:

LBJ Tops All Comers in Poll of New York State

NEW YORK — It has become standard fare to read polls showing the decline in popularity and acceptance of President Johnson.

CONSIDINE

But here's one, taken last month by the political surveys and analyses company of Princeton, which could be a straw to the winds that are expected to blow next year.

It was confined to New York State and, in effect, pitted LBJ separately against Richard Nixon, Charles Percy, Ronald Reagan and George Romney.

The emphatic manner in which Gov. Nelson Rockefeller has ruled out his being drafted for the GOP nomination apparently precluded his being considered in the poll.

The question asked of 741 adults went like this:

"Suppose the presidential election were being held today. If Richard Nixon (Percy, Reagan, Romney) was the Republican candidate and Lyndon Johnson the Democratic candidate which would you like to see win?"

LBJ TOPS ALL

Can't get much more basic than that.

In the Johnson-Nixon returns, the President took 53 per cent, Nixon 31 and the rest was undecided.

The incumbent beat Percy 51 to 28, with the rest confused; then beat Reagan 56 to 29, and the rest were strays, and overcame Romney 52 to 30, plus the bewildered.

Fragmented, the Johnson-Nixon poll went like this: The President won easily in New York City—60 to 23—but only Nixon picked up strength in upstate and lost by 47 to 38.

DIVIDED BY INCOME

Voters with incomes of more than $7,000 a year liked LBJ 49 to 35, those with incomes under $7,000 were in favor of Johnson by 57 to 27.

There was only microscopic variations in the age groups. Johnson polled about 54 per cent.

Independents liked Johnson over Nixon, 42 to 34 per cent. Republicans preferred Nixon by 61 to 25, and Democrats put LBJ out in front with a whopping 76-to-12 margin.

Men liked the President 48 to 33, women 60 to 26. Protestants preferred him by 52 to 34, Catholics 47 to 36 and Jews 81 to seven. Whites voted him 51 per cent to 33, non-whites 71 to 14.

Protest March Had Little Effect

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA) The protest march on the Pentagon wasn't very convincing.

A goodly chunk of those who came to Washington seemed more interested in sightseeing than in protesting anything. Some of the girls seemed more concerned with meeting boys than in marching.

Some of those who came to Washington were men and women whose acts and talks indicated they were sincerely protesting for reasons they believed in.

But these men and women seemed outnumbered by those who dressed like hippies, those whose principal aim seemed to be to mouth obscenities or to taunt GIs, the "tourists," the gawkers and the showoffs who did silly things to get their pictures taken.

There were groups with signs backing the war too: "Support Our Troops; They're Dying for You;" "God Bless 'Records Reveal Facts on Ricky Thorne Case'

In a letter discussing Ricky Thorne, Mrs. Imogene Taylor asked: "What is wrong with our courts?" Oakland County Probate Court records show that Judge Arthur E. Moore did hear the case, did sign an order committing Ricky to the Lapeer Training School, and that he was actually admitted there. The court was later informed that he was discharged from the school at the insistence of his parents.

JUDGE ADAMS

The role of the Probate Court is set out by statute spelling out the procedure for obtaining an order for commitment. The serious bottleneck is the delay in admission after commitment. Since 1960 there has been only once that the list waiting admission in Oakland County has been under 100 names and in point of time this has generally meant a delay of three years or more. The Court is as distressed as any parent that this picture still exists — particularly since the parents come to court only after the home situation is desperate. Our judges and staff are earnestly working to help correct this waiting list problem and much is being accomplished.

Forward strides are being made in the entire mental health field through governmental and voluntary agencies, citizens and parents. Here in Oakland County the Community Health Services Board has initiated several projects to serve the retarded and interested parents. Programs for the education of the exceptional child are increasing. Research is assisting in the prevention and cure. Public understanding and support will help speed the answers to this most difficult and distressing social problem.

'Let's Make Trick or Treat Time Earlier'

I agree the hours immediately after school are better for "Trick or Treat" time. I have no small children but know that some rough treatment of little ones has taken place in other years. Please change the hours. If this must be done by the City Commission, won't they please see to it?

Reader Discusses Open Housing Ordinance

If some provisions in open housing ordinances are made in ordinances for this city, it would take away all individual freedom of choice of Negroes as well as whites, and they will find themselves in a bad situation where they would have no choice in selling or renting or associations even with derelicts or criminals. Our present civil rights laws seem adequate.

Whew! SIMMS Finally Got All Moved Into Their New Warehouse & Downtown Store!

As all you followers of Simms adventures know, last week we started the move from our old warehouse into the new warehouse. And, instead of paying movers the huge sum to move, the boss decided to bring the old warehouse goods to the downtown store. So instead of paying the movers, we invited our customers to help us get rid of this merchandise by the old honored method of cutting low prices even lower. And this is what happened — last week our customers (who are real smart) helped us 'move' a lot of goods by buying at our ridiculous prices. And this is the last adv. on warehouse moving sale — so you all come and save, too.

Notebook: Student's Most Important Tool

By The Reading Laboratory
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The notebook is the most important piece of equipment you need as a student. This might sound a little elementary, but too many students get into course difficulty because they don't keep the right kind of notebooks or don't keep them in the right way—or don't keep notebooks at all.

Get yourself a notebook for each course, preferably the kind with the coiled wire binding; they lie flat for easy reading and writing and the pages are easily removable.

Above all, keep the notebook clean. When you take notes in class, take them quickly but take them as neatly as possible—unless you plan to re-copy them. There's no more pitiable sight than the student who had notes only to find that when it comes time to study he can't read them.

If you're a doodler (and who isn't?), get into the habit of carrying a doodle book with you.

Just get an extra notebook, dictionary. And after you look them up, use them. You'll impress all of your friends—and teachers—if you use new words properly. If you want really to impress a teacher you'll have to do some extra work. A good plan is to read one nonrequired book a week you can look up all of the week's new words in the dictionary. This is about 15 minutes extra reading a day. Finally, if you're in a spending mood, a set of 3x5 flash cards can be great help for learning foreign language vocabulary. Write down the new word on one side of the card, its English equivalent on the other.

Filipino Faith Healer Called 'Phony'

"I saw the films three times. I had doubts, but was still very curious. I figured I had nothing to lose and wanted to see the Philippines, anyway, so I went along on the trip," Babluk related.

The 11,000-mile trip cost him $658, and he stayed eight days starting Oct. 5. He said the hotel he stayed in was a "dump" with lizards and mice everywhere. "We were packed into our rooms, seven in mine," he said.

His eight-day hotel bill was $83. He said Dr. Tony made no charge as such, but gave each person an envelope and asked them to donate "from the bottom of their heart."

Babluk said he knows one man put in $500.

'SLEIGHT OF HAND'

After observing several operations, Babluk said he was certain it was all "sleight-of-hand. Any good magician could do the same thing," he said.

He said the operators "pretended" to pull membranes or "stringy" substances out of people's bodies and blood was spilled, "animal blood of some kind," Babluk insists.

The only persons to seem to get any benefit out of the trip were "psychosomatic cases," he said. Most "tragic" he said, were the multiple sclerosis victims, terminal cancer patients and those with retarded children.

"They all came back just as sick as when they left," Babluk maintains. He labels the claim that it will take two or three months for Dr. Tony's cures to take effect as just "a gimmick."

EVENTUAL REALIZATION

He said he felt sorry for the parents of retarded children whose brains were "operated on" by the alleged healers. The children enjoyed the trip, but I'm afraid their parents will eventually realize they have to face the problem and that nothing has been done."

Babluk testifies to the veracity of George Allen of Detroit who had blood on his clothing from a Dr. Tony operation announced after he returned as "an cured blood," and not his own.

At the Bloomfield Hills meeting last Friday, it was sarcastically inferred that Allen was

"maybe a chicken thief," to account for the "chicken blood."

Babluk said, "Why Allen's only a kid, besides he can't move, so how could he be stealing chickens?"

FAITH CONFIRMED

Both Babluk and Mrs. Chandonet confirmed their basic belief in "healing by faith" but insisted that Dr. Tony did not have this power.

Babluk concluded, "Sure, I could just sit back and say 'hell with it' and let this thing cost me two-tenths of 1 per cent in September, the smallest won't let me. I've got to speak out and try to stop this thing."

"If anyone wants the real truth about Dr. Tony they can call on me. I'm here all day long. I'm not going anywhere," he said.

Living Costs Rise Slightly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs rose two-tenths of 1 per cent in September, the smallest increase in six months, but a government spokesman said today that price hikes are accelerating and "corroborate the need for a tax increase."

Grocery prices dropped nine-tenths of 1 per cent in September, but higher costs of housing, clothing, transportation and medical care added up to the over-all boost in living costs, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

"If grocery prices had not declined, the consumer price index would have gone up four-tenths of 1 per cent," said Commissioner Arthur M. Ross.

U.S. Viet Toll Up Last Week

SAIGON (AP) — American military casualties rose slightly last week and were more than double those of the South Vietnamese forces, the U.S. Command reported today.

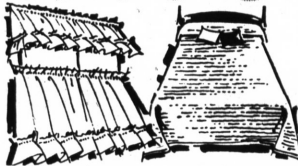

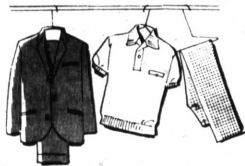

Spokesmen said 193 Americans were killed in action, 949 wounded and seven were missing. The South Vietnamese reported 81 killed, 355 wounded and two missing.

The weekly report also showed a temporary drop in U.S. manpower last week, down to 461,000 from 464,000 the previous week. Such drops despite the continuing manpower buildup have taken place before and are usually attributed to military statistical methods plus irregularities in the flow of men to and from the United States.

The previous week the United States lost 171 dead and the South Vietnamese 163.

Piano Program of MSU Trio Launches Music Guild's Season

By SIGNE KARLSTROM

People are talking about the excellent program of the Michigan State University Piano Trio. It was presented as Cranbrook Music Guild's first concert of the season in Cranbrook House on Tuesday evening.

Edmund W. Pratt and Mrs. Pratt were there. Others were Mrs. Richard English who never misses a concert if she is in town; Mrs. Vernon L. Vennman with her daughter, Mrs. Robert Swift who has recently moved to our community from Santa Barbara, Calif.

Others were Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Booth, the David G. Booths, Terry Yamasaki, Mr. and Mrs. Whiting W. Raymond, the Carl O. Bartons and Mrs. Angus McCloy.

Plans are being made for the second concert on Nov. 14 which will take place at the Kingswood School auditorium with the Berliner Camerata Musicale making its appearance here on their first American concert tour.

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Mitchell returned home from Europe, having attended the London and Paris auto shows.

Robert W. Richards of San Diego, Calif. has been visiting his mother, Mrs. C. Clement Richard of Lane Pine Road.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ostheimier of Honolulu are visiting daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Colbert.

Among those who will be attending the New England shore dinner at Bloomfield Hills Country Club tomorrow are Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Colbert, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Strickland, Mr. and Mrs. Glen A. Carlson, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Burke and Mrs. M. M. Burgess.

Vernor Branch Joins WNFGA at Fall Council

The new Vernor branch was welcomed into membership in the Michigan Division, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, at the fall council meeting held in Oakland Hills Country Club, Wednesday.

Cranbrook branch, WNFGA, was host branch for the occasion which included study groups and luncheon.

Mrs. Norman Fry served as chairman-of-the-day, assisted by Mrs. Edson Ivey, Mrs. Dale Douglas and Mrs. Henry Botsford.

Heritage branch was in charge of decorations, under leadership of its president Mrs. R. H. Peping.

FORUM HELD

Mrs. F. Gordon Davis presided over a round robin-style forum on civic improvement, conservation, crafts, legislation and 'rural-urban.'

Another study group on education, flower show, horticulture, horticulture-therapy and graduate judges was moderated by Mrs. Jack F. Ehlinger of Port Huron.

A third group discussed photography, program, speakers, ways and means, and publicity under direction of Mrs. R. Lee Gilbert of Saginaw.

Dr. Robert Iglehart, professor of art and chairman of the art department at the University of Michigan, addressed the gathering following luncheon.

His topic was "The World as a Garden."

Other officers of the Vernor branch are Mesdames John Simmers, vice-president; William Mahoney, treasurer; Donald Harper and James Haggerty, secretaries. The branch draws its 40 members from Vernor Estates subdivision in Bloomfield Hills.

There are now 95 WNFGA branches in Michigan.

Doesn't Make 'Best Dressed' List but Has Nothing to Do With This

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a carpenter-builder who specializes in re-modeling homes. He is a fine craftsman and takes pride in his work, having learned his trade from his father who was a builder. The problem is this: When my husband calls on a prospective customer, he feels it is all right to go directly from off a job in his old dirty work clothes.

He says people know he is a working man and they might even have more confidence in him seeing him that way.

I admit there are times when it is more convenient for him to call on folks to estimate a job on his way home from work, but I say he should take clean clothes with him in his truck and clean up before calling on these people.

My theory being that if people see him dirty and sloppy they might think his work is sloppy, too.

My husband insists that his appearing in old dirty work clothes has no adverse effect on his customers, but I think he is just making up excuses so he won't have to clean up.

He reads your column, so if you, or any of your readers have any ideas about this, I'd appreciate hearing an outsider's opinion.

DEAR WIFE: Personally, if I were interested in a remodeling job, I would hire the man with a reputation for quality work and fair prices. If he came straight off a job in his old work clothes, I wouldn't object as long as he didn't track up my carpets.

DEAR ABBY: An old gentleman (?), one whom I have befriended on several occasions, recently betrayed my trust in him by stealing some rare coins from my collection, a valuable unset diamond, a revolver from my gun collection, as well as several old keepsake antiques, which I had intended to donate to the local museum at a later date. He accomplished this during a couple of social visits he paid me in my home.

Upon discovering my loss, I paid him a return visit, and while there I complained bitterly about the theft of these items. I didn't accuse him openly, but strongly hinted that he was under suspicion.

The next day he called on me, and had occasion to visit the bathroom. On his departure I found a few of the missing coins on the wash basin. However, the most valuable coins, the unset diamond and revolver are still unreturned.

The man in question is a very well-to-do and respected citizen in this community. (So am I.)

What is the best way to regain my stolen possessions? I am positive this man is the thief, but wish to avoid publicity if possible.

VICTIMIZED IN OREGON

DEAR VICTIMIZED: In order to protect yourself, and regain your stolen possessions, I advise you to discuss this with your lawyer. (Clip this letter and reply from your local newspaper and mail it to the man in a plain white envelope — minus, of course, this parenthetical addition.)

DEAR ABBY: What, in your opinion, makes for true happiness?

DEAR PHILOSOPHER: It's hard to say. So far, both poverty and wealth have failed.

Confidential to "Warried Sick" in Cleveland: Don't Worry. Your letter has only one chance in 12,000 to be published in this column. And if it were, I would not use your right name without your permission.

Problems? Write to Abby, care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P. O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich., 48056. For a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Safety Tips for Goblins

"Who-hoo, who-hoo!" The night of goblins and ghosts is almost upon us. Owl-like eyes will cluster repeatedly 'round every opening door.

Banshees scamper madly across lawns at speeds which mingle eager calls for treats with hastily shouted "thank-yous."

It's also the night when mommas and poppas and motorists worry about elves and fairies and even about superman and the Green Hornet.

Hallowe'en is one of the most dangerous nights of the year for children, says the National Safety Council.

Three reasons are cited by a Council spokesman. "The children are excited; they are out after dark; they are usually wearing cumbersome clothing."

To these could be added the hazards of face-masks, candle-lighted pumpkins, lawn furniture, etcetera.

Putting a number of heads together, here are a few suggestions for reducing danger to a minimum:

- Tots should be accompanied by Mom or Pop.
- Older children should travel in groups. Never allow a child to forage alone.
- Caution them against trying to pet strange animals.
- Remove your lawn furniture to a safe location to avoid skinned shins or other injuries to children who might not see it in the dark.
- Substitute painted faces for the old sight-blurring masks.

• Place jack-o-lanterns where trailing costumes will not be likely to come in contact with the flame.

• Do not allow children to carry a candle-burning jack-o-lantern on their forays.

• Costumes should be kept to ankle-length to avoid tripping.

• Light colors or reflectorized tape or a combination of both may help insure the cost jester will be seen in the headlights, even if his bells may not be heard.

• Costumes should be nonflammable.

The fire retarding process can be accomplished at home by this means, described by Sara Miles, National Safety Council home safety consultant:

Soak garments in a gallon of warm water, nine ounces of borax and four ounces of boric acid.

Arts Ball Parties Are Planned in Homes and Club

Making "an evening of it" at pre-ball festivities (that's the spectacular Cranbrook Academy of Arts Ball on Nov. 4) are many area socialites.

The William L. Mitchells have planned a party in their home.

On the guest list are Mr. and Mrs. James M. Roche, the George Russells, Dr. and Mrs. Hilbert Delawater, the Graham John Grahams, the James Carmels, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hoyt of New York City, the J. W. Shenefields and Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Wilson Jr.

BHCC GROUPS

Another gathering place for a gala is Bloomfield Hills Country Club.

Joining groups there will be Dr. and Mrs. Howard B. Barker, the Harold A. Fitzgeralds, Dr. and Mrs. Luther Leader, Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Wellock with guests, Capt. and Mrs. Richard Cockey of Honolulu.

More are the Kenneth G. Manuels, the Frank Egans, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dean, Mrs. Mary Ellen Mead and James D. Hicks.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Jamison Williams will host a number of guests in their home.

Among the guests of the Donald H. Parsons will be the Henry Hugans, Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Emery, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Letts Jr., the Robert S. Swansons, Mr. and Mrs. Basil Briggs and the Thomas Wagners.

Another BHCC grouping will include hosts, Mr. and Mrs. J. Robert F. Swanson, the Harold Sponbergs of Ypsilanti, Dr. and Mrs. Edgar L. Harden and Mr. and Mrs. Adrian H. Langius, all of East Lansing.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ballman will arrive from Midland and hometown guests will be the Ernest A. Joneses and the Alfred C. Girards.

Ballgoers will think they're somewhere in space as horizontal Styrofoam panels, suspended from the ceilings of the Galleries, produce a floating effect.

Mrs. J. R. F. Swanson along with Howard Brown and John Peterson are the lighting and decoration geniuses.

Alcohol Good for This

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — I am answering the reader who wanted to know how to shine a stainless steel sink. A nurse told me that they use rubbing alcohol for polishing chrome, stainless steel and so on in the hospital. It is great, is inexpensive and is something almost everyone has on hand.

Dampen a clean cloth with the alcohol and go to it until you have a happy glow. — NAN

GIRLS — With this, as with any other suggested polishers for stainless steel, it must be rubbed until thoroughly dry or there will be smears. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I always had trouble covering buttons. They would pucker up and it was really hard to have them neat-looking until I started sewing around the edge of the cut-out circle of fabric, set the button top down in the indentation and then pulled the thread up tight around it.

Push the tiny prongs on the back of the button top into the fabric as usual, then push the back on and you will really have a neat-looking button. — A READER

DEAR POLLY — When I wash curtains of the "wash-and-hang" type I put my wash-water quickly made at home and is clothesline. I wash one curtain at a time by sloshing it in and out of the suds and then hang on the line dripping with suds. To rinse thoroughly and easily, and without wrinkles, I turn the hose on each sudsy curtain as it is put on the line.

By the time I get all of them washed and rinsed and put away the tub, hose and so on, the curtains are dry, smooth, crisp and ready to hang. — HELEN

DEAR POLLY — I do enjoy the column but I wish more people would send in Pointers for helping invalids, as well as the homemaking ideas. I am an arthritic with deformed hands and I take a shower instead of a tub bath. Someone turns on the water for me and I use an infant's washcloth or a soft sponge as they are lighter in weight, easier to hold and to wring out.

When reading a book I use a bobby pin to mark the page where I stop and find it holds nicely. Not only do we who are disabled like to learn to do things for ourselves but we like to know different ways to occupy our time. I read a lot, watch television, embroider (mainly cross-stitch as it is easier to do) but am always watching for something new. — MISS E. L.

Just Keep Trying to Operate on Budget

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

"Oh, we've tried living on a budget," the young bride explained airily. "But we gave it up. It just didn't work." Her conclusion was that there's obviously something wrong with budgets.

Well, to some extent she's right. There's often something wrong with budgets—first budgets, that is, set up before the couple actually start living on the new family income.

But to conclude that planning expenditures in relation to income—or to use the vulgar word "budgeting"—is for the birds, is like maintaining that a floor plan is a perfectly ridiculous thing to refer to before buying furniture.

Usually it's the third try at setting up a budget that works. The other two attempts go into the wastebasket. Take the experience of a young couple in Canton, O., who were married right after college. He had a job, she worked part-time at a hospital.

Even before the wedding, they decided they were going to live on a budget in order to make the most of their combined earnings. He set up an itemized list of estimated expenditures: and church and still live in the town where they were married.

lowed for payments on a new car. Hers began with a $125 a month rental for a two-bedroom apartment.

Since a sizable rental payment and a new car payment couldn't be covered by their joint income in any month unless they ate rice off the floor, they came to a decision.

They threw out both budgets and set up a compromise. He settled for a used car and she trimmed $50 off the estimated rent.

Compromise isn't an instinctive trait in the young. But today's young-marrieds usually have several years of part-time earnings behind them before they get to the altar. They've already learned that if you spend a $1 for this, you have to give up a $1 for that.

Also, this age group, vitally affected by a world that seems continually at war, has been heard to paraphrase the old "Keeping up with the Joneses" bit—terming it regrettable "conspicuous consumption."

So the big question the young couple must decide even before marriage is "What do we want for our money?" In the last analysis, this answer determines their real take-home pay. It's too bad, it seems to me, to go on the theory that take-home-pay is simply what's left after taxes have been deducted. Properly, take-home pay should be figured as what's also left after a planned savings program.

It's not necessarily how much is set aside for savings, but how regularly it's taken off the top of the paycheck that's the real issue. Savings, of course, includes the breadwinner's life insurance program. The total take-away can logically range from 5 to 15 per cent of income after taxes.

It's smarter to start off modestly, rather than risk breaking your financial back before you've first tried supporting that exciting venture—the cost of living. Two, alas, do not live as cheaply as one.

So I recommend patience to all you young couples who believe that a plan for spending makes more sense than no plan at all—and who will keep it at until you evolve one that really works.

Shares Music With Others

LINCOLN, Ill. (AP)—Mrs. John Schaeetz has been giving piano lessons for 48 years—at the same price—25 cents a lesson. And if a pupil plays well, he gets a 5-cent refund. If parents can't even afford that modest fee, Mrs. Schaeetz teaches their children for nothing.

She has also played for more than 500 funerals and as many weddings—all without pay. "I love music and I want to share it with as many people as I can," Mrs. Schaeetz explains.

Lace Accents a Gown for Recent Bride

A crown of Chantilly lace frosted with seed pearls secured the elbow length veil worn by Brenda Kay McDole as she became the bride of Richard J. Smith Jr. Friday in St. William's Church.

Her gown, peau de soie in Empire style, featured a matching lace bodice. A floor length train fastened at the waist.

The bride's bouquet was made up of white roses, carnations and Stephanotis.

Donna Hazen was maid of honor, with bridesmaids Nancy Philp, Mrs. Dennis Ferguson and Sandra Stoa. Pamela McDole was flower girl.

Ushers were Danny McDole, James Smith, and Donald Dixon.

Following the nuptial mass, the bride and groom and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McDole Jr., of Walled Lake and the Richard J. Smiths of Golfside Drive, Commerce Township, greeted guests at Roma Hall in Livonia.

The newlyweds are honeymooning in the Poconos.

SEW SIMPLE
By Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice Farmer,

The "fake furs" are so attractive today that I can't resist any longer. I want to make a jacket but am not sure about interfacing and general information about this type of fabric. Any help will be appreciated.

Mrs. J. E. L.

Dear Mrs. J. E. L.:

Fake furs are seen everywhere and they are truly a fun fabric. I saw a darling tunic with trousers out of white fake broadtail. I've seen walking shorts and jackets as well as coats, hostess pajamas and skirts.

Since you are making a jacket, I would suggest underlining the jacket with a light weight canvas hair cloth. This will give the fur fabric the weight you would usually find in an actual fur jacket.

Select a pattern with as few lines, seams, darts, as possible. Be sure to check the nap of the fabric, most fur fabrics do have a nap and must be cut and assembled in one direction. The nap should be smooth as you stroke it from top to bottom.

If there is any kind of pattern or shadings in the fur cloth, you might have to consider this when laying out the pattern. Use a slightly longer machine stitch and a medium needle. You might try lining your coats or jackets with wool knit jersey for extra warmth without a lot of extra bulk.

After your seams have been stitched, pull the hairs of the fur that have been caught in the seam out with the point of your needle. Never press on the right side of your fabric, but press lightly from the wrong side. Darts are usually slashed open and slip stitched flat to avoid extra bulk.

This fabric isn't too expensive and is worlds of fun to play with. You might also use it as a very high fashion lining for winter suits or coats. Make a hat to match and you've really got something.

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Mrs. Robert Webster, Titusville, Fla. is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her following suggestion.

"If you find you have rounded out a little during the summer and your dress is a little too snug, here's my way of adding inches where there weren't any."

Slit the dress right down the center front and add a strip of grosgrain ribbon in one of the new stripes, or French embroidered ribbon for a beautiful new look, no one will be the wiser.

"If you need a little extra ease in the back, remove the back zipper. Face the edges with seam tape and replace the zipper keeping the two edges touching at the center back."

Accessories Dress Up Wool Knits

To the accessory-born are inged, metal-belted and you the double-knit wool dresses name it.

The "truck" in "truck" farming derives from a French verb that means to exchange or barter. This type of farming dates back to colonial America when farmers traded food they grew for goods they could not produce themselves, says the United States Department of Agriculture.

'Easy Does It' Attitude Is Always Best

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: When I introduce my five-year-old boy to someone, I tell him to say, "I am glad to meet you," but he will not do it. My husband blames me for this stubbornness. We often have to entertain executives from his firm's home office and he says he is ashamed of David's poor manners.

This week he phoned to tell me to have the child in bed before he brought a coworker home for dinner. If you know how I can improve David's manners...

ANSWER: Next time you entertain a stranger, greet your guest first yourself by saying, "How nice to meet you" or whatever other form of welcome you use. Then add, "This is our son David who may also tell you it's nice to meet you after a little while."

Restore control of his own friendliness toward guests to David and he'll offer it to them. He won't do it the first time you show him this courtesy because he won't trust it. You've humiliated him too often before strangers for him to be able to trust it.

But if you persist in this politeness toward him, I promise you that in his turn he will deliver it to your guests. He will suddenly announce to the visiting stranger, "I am glad to meet you!" He may make this announcement in the middle of dinner, before or after it. And so pleased will he be with his ability to make it that he will be happy to listen to your later suggestion that he time his welcomes of guests to your welcomes of them.

Me. I resent parents who introduce me to little children by commanding them to say, "How do you do, Mrs. Lawrence?" I resent their interposing the issue of the child's submission to them before me, a stranger to him.

I resent their treating him like a dummy in my presence, knowing as I do that I'm going to have to work hard to win any happy friendliness from that shamed and patronized small children recoil from strangers. Before we ask him to pat the new dog on the block, we have to demonstrate first its harmlessness by patting it ourselves. It's like that with new people, too.

The little child needs some experience of the new person's harmlessness before he's ready to make his offer of friendliness.

We forget, you see, that little

Fragrance of Flower Folks Examined

By BETTY CANARY

Although a minority, the hippies seem to get more than their share of publicity.

We should distinguish here the real hippie from the pitiful runaway children who have wandered into San Francisco's Haight Ashbury district, and the pseudo or summer hippie, the latter making the scene for a few months before rejoining society.

To answer many letters I have received, I must say NO, I do not agree with those who write off the hippies as filthy or immoral or dope addicts. It isn't that simple. I also must say I do not agree with those eulogizing them as the beautiful children and flower people. Most are 17, 18, 19, confused and frightened and insecure.

I also think the public is gazing over the hippie love chant. After all, peace and love and brotherhood are hardly new ideas.

To my mind, withdrawing from society and blasting out of my mind with drugs is not "love." Love is not a defensive action but a pouring forth of self and energy and ideas. Positive, not negative.

Young people I know who know the real definition of love, peace and brotherhood would include my niece Peg and her husband Bruce who are in the Peace Corps and sharing their lives with people in a jungle.

Too, there is a 24-year-old friend, now in the U.S. Army, who spent six months in Mississippi teaching adults to read and write. Real flower girls were some Girl Scouts I knew at camp this summer — two healthy girls seeing that two mentally retarded girls had a happy time.

I know students who have marched for open housing and civil rights and I am fortunate in calling friends two brothers who, after college graduation, are now in the Appalachia area where they gather in children to teach, and yes, to love.

This generation has not been handed Utopia on a silver platter, but, after all, neither was my generation or any other. A list of things wrong with this world would wrap at least three times around the equator. While listing about it will not shorten the list.

The people who really love and care do not sit and mope words and contemplate roses somebody else planted. They DO something.

Brunch Fetes Volunteers

Thirty-six Menscola Guild members were honored at a brunch Wednesday at Lourdes Nursing Home on Watkins Lake Road for having contributed 50 hours or more of volunteer work during the past 12 months.

Each received a volunteer cap as a token of appreciation.

Mrs. William Sproull, chairman of Red Cross volunteer services in Oakland County, addressed the group on the topic "Rewards of Volunteer Work."

Guild membership is open to any interested woman.

Cards, Fashions on Unit's Agenda

Beta Omega chapter of Lambda Chi Omega discussed final plans for the annual card party and fashion show to be held Nov. 14.

New rushees will be pledged in December.

Guests were Mrs. Charles Heathcott, Mrs. Lee Williams, Mrs. W. Reaume and Mrs. E. Finn.

Hair styling will be by the Colony House on Williams Lake Road. Fashions will be furnished by Lisbeth of Birmingham.

State convention delegates' reports were received.

Mrs. Ronald Milburn opened her East Iroquois Road home for the Tuesday meeting.

Colored Slides Used to Illustrate This Talk

Colored slides showing highlights of a trailer caravan tour illustrated Mrs. Richard Paschke's talk before the Soroptimist Club of Pontiac. The group met Monday in the Elks Temple.

The speaker's husband is the recent Midwestern Region president of the Wally Byam Caravan Club International. An antelope rally in Wyoming and a meeting of 4,000 trailers at the national gathering in California were shown.

Her talk was entitled "Where My Caravan Has Rested."

Toy Trains Put Couples 'On Track'

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Doctors are using toy trains to help "incompatible" couples find out what's causing their marital problems. The Interpersonal Behavior Game-Test, played with model trains, is measuring how people interact and how they resolve conflicts.

Dr. Robert A. Ravich, director of Family Therapy Service at Beth Israel Medical Center in New York City, describes the game.

Spouses are given a model engine and one set of tracks on which to complete 20 "trips" for imaginary money. Neither can see the other's manipulation of his train, but can see each other and communicate if they wish.

Exhibiting his "game" at a general practice meeting, he noted: "What they decide to do and how they communicate determines the outcome — mutual profit (determined by the seconds necessary to complete each 'trip') or a gain for one, loss for the other."

He adds that the game quickly pinpoints the couple's present, unsuccessful method of solving marital problems, so alternatives can be taught.

'Go-Go' to 'Stop'

Uncle Sam to Check on New Veterans

By JERRY T. BAULCH
Associated Press Newsfeatures

WASHINGTON — Every man leaving military service is supposed to get a visit or telephone call within a month, inquiring what his plans are and whether Uncle Sam can help him find a job or get him into school.

And if you're an employer you'll probably be notified when one of your men is returning from military service and be reminded of his reemployment rights.

At the same time, the government will urge you to hire other men just out of service.

It's a new program ordered by President Johnson because so many veterans haven't taken the trouble to discover what help is available to get them back into productive civilian life.

Each man leaving service is required to fill out form OVR-2—Reemployment Rights and Employment Data. This goes to the Labor Department, which writes the veteran telling what help is offered. It's the Labor Department that also writes each man's civilian employer.

The OVR-2 form then goes to the nearest of the 1,000 Public Employment Service offices. The veteran's representative there is under orders to get in touch personally with each veteran to see if he has a job, is looking for one, or plans to go to school or follow some other path.

Vocational Shape-Up

Something new shaping up for Vietnam veterans is on-the-job apprenticeship and farm cooperative training.

State officials are working with the VA to establish standards for these programs. If you're interested, contact your nearest VA office to see what has been approved in your area and how you can participate.

Veterans with no dependents who enroll in full-time apprenticeship or on-the-job training receive $80 a month for the first six months. Veterans with one dependent receive $90, those with two or more $100. After the first six months, you can continue with smaller payments for another half year.

Under the farm cooperative program, a veteran must attend an approved school for at least 12 hours weekly in courses related to farm work in which he is engaged. Payments range from $105 a month for veterans without dependents to $145 for those with two dependents and $7 for each additional dependent.

Bargain Bus Fares Out

Quietly the bus companies have notified the Interstate Commerce Commission they have with a few exceptions, discontinued cut-rate furlough fares for servicemen.

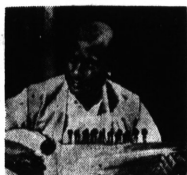

The national bus groups decided at a July meeting to do this, they said, because the cut-rate fares are little used and cost the companies money. Men on furlough prefer to fly.

Incidentally, the military services are still having trouble getting servicemen to fill out DD form 1580. This they must do in advance to get the half-fare airline furlough rate.

REUNITED AFTER 36 YEARS — Mrs. Lola Pall of Brazil gets a kiss from her half-brother, Henry Charles Young of Santa Monica, Calif., at the airport in Los Angeles yesterday as they are reunited after a separation of 36 years. Mrs. Pall last saw her half-brother in 1931 when he returned to the U.S. from Romania. Mrs. Pall left Romania for Brazil four years ago. Mrs. Young is at right.

House Unit Hears LA Official

'Riots Started Accidentally'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dist. Atty. Evelle J. Younger of Los Angeles says Communist or extremist groups that take credit for recent city riots "are only bragging."

"All of the recent riots have started accidentally, triggered by some explainable incident," Younger told the House Committee on Un-American Activities Wednesday, adding it would be a mistake to assume Communists instigated the 1965 Watts riots just because they passed out pamphlets, there.

"It would be a nice thing if we could blame all the riots on the Communists, or the Black Panthers, and go out and round them up, but it's just not that easy," he testified.

The committee's hearings on the role of subversive groups in planning, instigating or taking advantage of city rioting, looting and burning resume today and are expected to continue two days a week for the next three weeks.

'INFLAMMATORY'

Younger said rumors spread from incidents, which have usually involved a confrontation between Negro civilians and white police, have proved more inflammatory than the actual incidents.

The two key ways to prevent riots, he suggested, are to insist that laws be obeyed and to "free the slaves."

"We have been afraid to let the Negro come all the way up," he said, adding: "Let's spend money on true job skill training and placement and on projects like Head Start and compensatory education programs that help speed the day when the Negro has equal educational opportunities" instead of merely handing money to Negroes.

Both Younger and Clarence Mitchell, Washington director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, criticized newspapers and television stations on grounds of overplaying comments of some extremists and failing to check facts.

FORMER CHAMP

Three Negro witnesses, Mitchell, insurance executive Asa T. Spaulding and former light-heavyweight boxing champion Archie Moore, all criticized law-breaking and rioting.

And while Chairman William M. Tuck, D-Va., said the investigation would center on subversive activities rather than social problems, Moore testified under questioning by Rep. John C. Culver, D-Iowa, that lack of jobs, housing and education are behind much of the rioting.

"There has been so much by-passing the Negro that he has to cry out," Moore said, agreeing with Culver that Negroes don't need subversives or Communists to tell them they need jobs, housing or schools.

Mitchell said he thinks "Communists have never made any great headway in recruiting colored followers and they do not have any following at this point."

Spaulding, president of the North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Co., Durham, N.C., said it's debatable whether riots will help the cause of Negroes over the short run.

"I would observe, however," he added, "that that which is taken by force must be held and-or maintained by force unless and until the hearts and minds of these involved are changed."

AF Adds Third Crewman at N-Missile Launch Sites

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a deputy and an alternate commander ranking from lieutenant colonel down to lieutenant.

The Minuteman II, the Air Force found, requires three men to alternate at resting and carrying on the hour-by-hour checkouts of the missile's readiness, and other activities.

The Air Force, in response to questions, officially attributed the need for the additional officer to the greater sophistication of the 6,300-mile range intercontinental ballistic missile.

As the Air Force explained it, the Minuteman II, with preset directions to hit installations in the Soviet Union and China, "has more sophisticated computer and console equipment which requires more consistent monitoring by members of the missile combat crew."

FIRING SILOS

There are 200 Minuteman II missiles stationed in hardened firing silos throughout the middle and northwest United States, along with 800 other Minuteman I launch sites each controlled by two officers.

The three-man crews spend 24-hour shifts in the missile hole, one sleeping while two work. The team consists of a missile combat crew commander, poor attitude, reprimands, over-indulgence in alcohol, negligence or delinquency in performance, or even excessive personal debts or family troubles.

The second Minuteman missile has a greater range than the first, special penetration aids to help it get through enemy defenses and a warhead of just under one megaton. The Minuteman I has a single warhead packing slightly less explosive power.

Soon to enter the missile fleet is the Minuteman III which will have three nuclear warheads.

The Air Force told the Associated Press at Cape Kennedy, Fla., Wednesday the Minuteman III will undergo flight testing late next year.

State Wants Funds Returned

Detroit Library Grant Probed

LANSING (UPI) — The chairman of the State Senate Appropriations Committee yesterday promised to find out how the Detroit Public Library received $300,000 in state funds that it wasn't supposed to get.

Sen. Frank D. Beale, R-St. Clair, promised his Senate colleagues that he would "get all the information."

The State Department of Education contends that former State Librarian Genevieve Casey authorized the allocation of $300,000 to the Detroit library for studying a proposal to create a six-county research center.

Miss Casey, who left the state post to join the Wayne State University faculty, says she merely recommended the allocation, which was authorized through proper — and higher — channels.

Norman Berkowitz, assistant superintendent of public instruction, says that unless Detroit pays back the money, there will be no funds available for special projects for any other public library.

Ralph A. Ulveling, director of the Detroit library, said the money earmarked. He indicated that if the state tries to reclaim the funds it will be in for a fight.

"Wouldn't you think that when they issue a check for $300,000 they would know what they are doing? It's ludicrous," he said.

'Dead' Youth Returns, Tells of Blackout

PARSIPPANY, N.J. (AP) — "This is unbelievable. It's like returning from the dead," said 19-year-old Bruce Burkan.

Burkan, missing and presumed dead for two months, walked into his home and told his mother that he had no idea of what happened or where he had been.

"He looked very confused and had several cuts on his face," said Mrs. Theodore Burkan, who was Mrs. New Jersey of 1966.

Her son had been missing since Aug. 22, when he left his fiancée, Valerie Schenker, 19, on an Asbury Park beach to put a coin in a parking meter.

Burkan said Wednesday he remembers being in Asbury Park and leaving the beach. The next thing he remembers, he said, was being in a bus terminal Tuesday in Newark.

Mrs. Burkan said she was upstairs on the phone Tuesday when Bruce walked in. She stood in complete shock for a few minutes and then "flew" down to him.

She said similar scenes took place as his three brothers, Barry, 13, Lee, 9, and Wayne, 15, came home from school.

Mrs. Burkan showed Bruce a remembrance book she kept showing pictures and stories of memorial services conducted for him. More than 200 area residents attended.

"I never dreamed so many people cared about me," the youth said.

"No one even knows how much he will be mourned at his funeral. I've had the golden opportunity of returning."

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Two maiden sisters employed by a multimillionaire art collector acquired nearly 100 paintings while traveling about Europe with their boss in the 1920s and 1930s.

Most reportedly were gifts from their employer. The rest were purchased for small sums —directly from the unknown artists who have since become known as "old masters"—men like Pierre Auguste Renoir, Paul Cezanne, Henri Matisse, Maurice Utrillo, Chaim Soutine, Edgar Degas and the Americans Charles and Maurice Prendergast.

Dealers say the canvases when originally acquired probably cost less than $25,000. Today they are estimated to be worth around $1 million.

Seventy-five of the more important paintings will be sold at auction Nov. 15 in what is called "the most important and biggest art sale in Philadelphia history." It could bring in $1-mil-

Included in the sale are eight oils by Renoir, most of them small, expected to bring $350,000.

Mary joined the Barnes pharmaceutical firm as head of its publicity department around 1905 and later conducted classes for employees in philosophy and art appreciation until the firm went out of business in 1929. After the sale, she received more than $30,000.

Other Renoirs in the collection and values: "Cagnes" $60,000; "Girl in Field" $50,000; "Bust of Woman," "Head of Girl," "Landscape with Two Heads," "China Pitcher," each $35,000, and "Two Apples" $25,000.

PRACTICE SESSION — Boy Scouts take turns bandaging each other up to practice techniques which could be needed in an emergency. The Boy Scouts of America, a United Fund Agency, offers a character-building, citizenship training program to boys from 8 years of age through high school. In once-a-week meetings, the boys learn how to handle outdoor living and are taught an appreciation of country, family and community, in addition to having a good time.

Waterford Planners Back 3 Out of 6 Rezoning Bids

Action on six rezoning requests will be taken at a future meeting of the Waterford Township Board.

Following recent public hearings on the proposals, the Township Planning Commission recommended three of the requests for approval and submitted negative recommendations on the other three.

Recommended for approval were:

- A request to rezone from single-family residential (R1A) to multiple dwelling (R2) property on M59 near Whittier for apartments.

- A request to rezone from R1A and general business (C2) to R2 property on the southwestern corner of Pontiac Lake Road and Crescent Lake Road for 44 apartment units in four buildings.

- A request to rezone from R1A and local business (C1) to C2 and R2 property on Cass Elizabeth at Cass Lake Road for a shopping center and apartments.

Recommended for denial was:

- A request to rezone from C2 to extensive business (C3) property on Pontiac Lake Road just east of M59 to construct and operate a candy processing, distribution and retail business. The planning commission indicated that the operation would require light industrial (M1) zoning and that C3 zoning would be too permissive for the area. The applicant is Ross Fine Candies, Inc.

- A request to rezone from property on Hatchery Road near Waterford Kettering High School to allow a sand and gravel mining operation.

- A request to rezone from R1A to M1 and R2 property on the southwest corner of Pontiac Lake Road and M59 for light industrial use and apartments.

Several residents lodged protests against the proposed zoning changes for the Pontiac Lake-M59 property.

In other recent business, the planning commission granted a special approval request to allow a dental and medical building to be located on C2 zoned property on Hatfield at Dixie Highway.

MEA Backs Housing Law

EAST LANSING (UPI) — The Michigan Education Association (MEA), representing 65,000 teachers throughout the state, has urged legislative leaders of both parties to enact an open housing law.

In a telegram sent to key leaders in each House, Dr. E. Dale Kennedy, executive secretary of the MEA, said his organization has sought such laws for some time to help children live better lives.

"We urge the Michigan Legislature to provide forward-looking legislation which will assure each citizen an equal opportunity to reside in a neighborhood of his choice," Kennedy said.

"The Michigan Education Association believes that fair housing practices will do much to alleviate environment conditions detrimental to the education of our youth," he said.

Painter Dies in Fall From SF Bridge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Lee Patrick, 48, of San Anselmo, a painter on the Golden Gate Bridge, fell to his death Wednesday. Fellow workers said a safety line snapped on his safety belt when he slipped off a scaffold on the south tower. Patrick had been a member of the bridge-painting crew for 20 years. His death was the crew's first fatality on the job since the bridge opened in 1937. Painting the Golden Gate is a full-time year-round job since fresh paint is required for protection against the gate's salty fogs.

New Mumps Vaccine to Be Available Soon

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new vaccine against mumps—a relatively mild disease of childhood but one that can cause sterility when it strikes non-immune adult males—will become available within a few months, it was announced Wednesday.

The news came out at the annual meeting of the American Academy of Pediatrics simultaneously with suggestions on how the vaccine should be used.

The suggestions include giving the vaccine to all male children approaching puberty—and to all male adults who have no clinical history of having had the disease in childhood.

The new vaccine is made of living but attenuated virus, as distinguished from a killed-virus vaccine already available.

NEW MEASURES

At the same meeting, a committee announced new precautionary measures concerning use of vaccines against common measles.

The group recommended that use of measles vaccine containing killed virus—as distinguished from the newer vaccine made of living but toned-down virus—be eliminated from vaccination schedules of doctors.

Dr. Philip A. Brunell, assistant professor of pediatrics, New York University School of Medicine, announced the advisory suggestions about the use of the forthcoming mumps vaccine.

Suggestions also include giving it to:

1. Male children who are going off to summer camps where they might be especially exposed.
2. Adults who may have had a history of mumps but who may be exposed again.

After Brunell had outlined the suggestions, Dr. Samuel Katz of Harvard Medical School, chairman of the session, interjected to say that a group within the academy had drawn up the suggestions "so we would be ready with them before the vaccine is licensed—not afterwards."

"It's not licensed now," he said, "but it will be licensed within a few months."

U.S. Lists 24 Killed Fighting in Viet War

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon has released a Vietnam list containing the names of 24 servicemen killed in action. They included:

Law Aimed at Dropout 'Extortion'

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI)—City Attorney Steven Dykema said today he was preparing an ordinance that would end the "extortion and beating" of school children by dropouts.

Dykema said the extortion and beatings have been reported even at the elementary schools.

"Our most serious problem is when a dropout comes up to a student and says 'I want to borrow a certain item. Actually that's extortion. The child doesn't want to borrow it at all, he wants to extort it,'" Dykema said.

"And if the child refuses to give him the item, usually money, there's a good chance he will be beaten. We've had some very serious fights with some very serious injuries to the students."

Dykema said most of the "extorting" was done by school dropouts.

new apple crop... ...new apple recipes

ALL the favorite cooking apples, the best loved varieties of American orchards, are in our markets again. The apple harvest brings fragrance and good eating into our kitchens with the family's traditional apple pie, the big pans of baked apples, the strudel, cobbler, and dumplings.

Now add to them these new recipes, so right for family meals, parties, the teen-age get-togethers. Easy to double when you have a really large dinner. Or make them up in quantity for school parties, club get-togethers, and other community happenings.

The delicious Waldorf Salad Mold serves eight; the recipe for Apple Meringue Kisses makes three dozen crisp little pastries. The recipe for scrumptious Brown Sugar Dumplings serves six.

The best of the eating apples — dessert apples — are at the markets, too. They belong in a bowl on the dining table, or the coffee table, and beside the TV lounge chairs. Choose your favorites for the lunch boxes and for after-school snacks.

Apple Meringue Kisses

- | | |
|-------------------|---------------------------------------|
| 2 egg whites | 1/2 cup finely chopped apple |
| 1 1/2 cups sugar | 1/4 cup finely chopped glacé cherries |
| 1/4 teaspoon salt | 1/2 teaspoon almond extract |

Beat egg whites stiff but not dry. Combine sugar and salt; add slowly to egg whites while continuing to beat. Fold in fruits and flavoring. Drop by teaspoons, well apart, on greased baking sheet. Bake at 325° for 15 minutes. Makes 3 dozen.

Creamy Waldorf Salad Mold

- | | |
|---------------------------------------|--------------------------|
| 1 package (3 oz.) lime flavor gelatin | 1/4 cup diced celery |
| 6 to 8 thin unpeeled red apple slices | 1 cup chopped walnuts |
| 1 cup diced unpeeled red apples | 2 tablespoons mayonnaise |
| | 1/2 cup whipping cream |

Prepare gelatin according to package directions. Arrange a few apple slices in a pattern in bottom of 6-cup mold. Spoon in enough gelatin to "anchor" apple slices; chill until set. Add more gelatin to a depth of about 1 inch. Chill until almost set. Meanwhile, chill remaining gelatin until consistency of unbeaten egg white. Combine diced apples, celery, walnuts and mayonnaise. Whip cream; fold into apple mixture. Fold chilled gelatin into apple mixture. Spoon into mold on top of clear gelatin layer. Chill until set. Unmold. Surround with crisp salad greens. Makes 8 servings.

Brown Sugar Apple Dumplings

- | | |
|-----------------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| 6 medium baking apples | 1 teaspoon cinnamon |
| 2 packages pie crust mix | 1/4 teaspoon allspice |
| 1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar | Few grains salt |
| | 6 tablespoons butter or margarine |

Pare and core apples. Prepare pie crust mix as directed on package. Roll out 1/4-inch thick. Cut into six 7-inch circles. Place an apple in the center of each circle. Combine brown sugar, cinnamon, allspice and salt. Fill centers of apples with sugar mixture; sprinkle remainder over apples. Dot apples with butter. Bring pastry up and around apples, keeping pastry close to apples and as smooth as possible. Snip off any excess pastry; seal edges with a little milk. Cut pastry "leaves" and "stems" from remaining scraps of pastry using a sharp knife. Arrange on top of apples to cover seal. Beat egg yolk slightly; add 1 tablespoon cold water; brush over surface of dumplings. Place on baking sheet. Bake at 375° for 40 minutes, or until apples are tender. Makes 6 servings.

SOME tea parties just happen: you open a package of cookies and make the tea. But for the best tea parties, a really handsome pastry is baked ahead of time, something new to please the guests and satisfy that late afternoon hunger. For instance this new Apple Date Pastry to salute the harvest crop of fine apples. It makes 8 to 10 servings. For a really big tea affair or a big buffet supper better bake two or three.

Apple Date Pastry

|--------------------------|
| 1/2 cup apple juice |
| 1 tablespoon lemon juice |
| 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon |
| 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg |
| 1/4 teaspoon ginger |
| Dash of salt |

Combine all ingredients except pastry and butter or margarine. Bring to boil; cover; lower heat; cook for 5 minutes. Remove cover, cook slowly, stirring frequently, 5 minutes longer, or until thickened. Remove from heat. Cool. Roll 1/2 the pastry into an oblong about 9 x 13 inches. Spoon filling down center of pastry strip; dot with butter or margarine. Bring pastry up and over filling; seal overlapping edge of pastry with a small amount of milk. Bring narrow ends up and over; seal with a small amount of milk. Turn pastry strip over so that sealed edges are underneath and smooth pastry on top. Roll out remaining pastry. With a small, sharp knife, cut tree trunk, branches and small circles for apples. Using a small pastry brush and food coloring, paint the tree as desired. Arrange cutouts on pastry strip. Lift pastry strip to cookie sheet, using 2 flat spatulas. Bake at 425° for 25 to 30 minutes. Let cool. Decorate with whipped cream. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

OCCEO Urges State, Area Open Housing

The State Legislature and all communities in Oakland County were urged to pass open occupancy legislation by the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity (OCCEO) at its monthly meeting yesterday.

The commission, meeting at Birmingham Unitarian Church, included in its resolution support for the North Advisory Council of Pontiac.

The council, a Pontiac area area OCCEO group, presented a resolution earlier this month urging the Pontiac City Commission to adopt an open housing ordinance which has been under consideration.

Charles Tucker, representing the NAACP, urged the county group to take a stronger stand on the proposed Pontiac ordinance.

He said, "It's time to stand up and be counted," and pointed out most of the persons needing the ordinance live in the city.

COMMISSION'S SCOPE
Carl F. Ingraham, OCCEO chairman, explained no action had been taken specifically on the Pontiac situation because the commission was basically a countywide organization.

A stronger statement of the OCCEO position on Pontiac may be made later, however, and the executive committee and others were directed to draft a different resolution stating the OCCEO commitment to open housing laws.

In Pontiac Tuesday night in preliminary draft of a proposed open housing ordinance was presented to commissioners. The proposed ordinance is scheduled to be considered by the commissioners on Nov. 6 and the result printed for study by citizens.

Tucker also attacked the proposed Pontiac Area Planning Council. He charged it appeared to be an "establishment" organization without "grass roots" representation.

'POOR NOT REPRESENTED'
It was indicated that two persons from the OCCEO would participate. But Tucker claimed "staff persons do not represent the poor... the poor are not in the real decision making."

The proposed council would act in an advisory capacity for activities or schools, renewals projects, etc., that involve federal funds.

FERVOR OF CELEBRATIONS

Iran, which has been transformed into the fastest developing and most stable nation in the Middle East by the shah's revolution, erupted in a fervor of celebrations.

By donning the Pahlevi crown with its 3,755 jewels and the pearl-embroidered coronation cape, the son of a semiliterate Cossack officer named himself heir to Cyrus the Great, the Persian emperor who ruled the civilized world 25 centuries ago before the Roman Empire was born.

The Pahlevi dynasty dates back only to 1925, when the shah's father—an officer in the Persian Army, led a military coup, seized the throne and crowned himself Reza Shah the Great.

Reza Shah's son came to power in 1941 when British and Russian troops occupied the country and deposed the father for allegedly being pro-German. But the son refused to be crowned for more than two decades because "There is no pride in being the king of a poor people" and also because his first two wives failed to give him an heir.

SIGNS OF WEALTH
Today the 6-year-old son of the shah and Empress Farah stood at their side, Crown Prince Reza and Crown Princess Farah, and the country were new signs of wealth from the royal revolution which has ended Iran's feudal system of landholding and poured much of its oil wealth back into modernization of the country.

Francis shouting crowds lined the 11-mile route along which eight white Hungarian horses pulled the $78,000 blue and gold bulletproof coach in which the shah and his empress rode from their Marble Palace to the Golestan Palace. The crown prince rode behind them in a coach pulled by four black horses.

More than 7,500 soldiers plus police and gendarmes kept the cheering, flag-waving crowd behind barricades along the route through the brightly decorated capital. Two squadrons of imperial lancers and a battalion of infantry escorted the procession.

Led by the commander of the imperial guards and an escort with swords aloft, the little crown prince looked solemn in a gold embroidered replica of his father's uniform, as he walked through the blazing hall of mirrors to the throne room.

CROWD IN COURTYARD
The coronation chamber, 50 yards long, glittered like a giant diamond beneath five

Egyptian Oil Refinery Fires Under Control

By The Associated Press

Fire fighters brought the oil fires in Egypt's Suez refineries under control Wednesday night some 40 hours after Israeli shells set them blazing in a duel with Egyptian gunners across the Suez Canal.

The U.N. Security Council reacted to the artillery duel—which each side accused the other of starting—by condemning all violations of the cease-fire which ended the June Arab-Israeli war. Because it did not censure Israel as the Russians demanded, the resolution constituted a diplomatic victory for the United States.

Reports by U.N. cease-fire observers did not pinpoint responsibility for the artillery duel Tuesday.

U.N. Secretary General U Thant asked the Security Council to increase the number of truce observers from 43 to 90 and requested four patrol boats and four small helicopters for them.

MAJOR SUPPLY

The semi-official Cairo newspaper Al Ahran reported the fires under control at the Nasr and Suez refinery complexes, which filled nearly three-fourths of Egypt's domestic petroleum needs. But the flames were not expected to be out until some time today. Egyptian officials reported eight civilians and eight military men killed in the shelling and 60 civilians and 32 military men wounded.

Al Ahran said 17 storage tanks were set on fire but gave no further details on damage. It said no shortages were anticipated in the supply of such vital commodities as kerosene, benzene and bottle gas, but measures were being prepared to "organize distribution" should the need arise.

Gov. Hamid Mahmoud of Suez told visiting newsmen the damage was extensive.

"The enemy completely destroyed an asphalt factory, benzene and solar tanks and a whole pipeline," the newspaper said. "Only crude oil tanks in the southern region survived this savage blow."

Mahmoud also said some shells hit houses, schools and factories.

REPARATIONS ASKED

At the United Nations, the Soviet Union had asked for a resolution condemning Israel and demanding reparations for damage caused by its guns. A U.S. resolution condemned all violations of the cease-fire and insisted on observance of the truce.

The 10 nonpermanent members of the 15-nation Security Council worked out a compromise, condemning cease-fire violations and expressing regret over casualties and property damage. It was approved unanimously.

The resolution appealed to both Israel and the Arab states to "cease immediately all prohibited military activities in the area and to cooperate fully and promptly" with U.N. peace observers.

The compromise sidestepped any action that might be construed as a move toward a permanent settlement, such as authorizing Thant to name a special representative to seek a peaceful solution of the issues left by the June war.

BASIC PRINCIPALS

Council members have been trying for weeks to find a permanent solution. They have concentrated on a statement of basic principles, such as Israeli withdrawal from captured Arab soil and an end to the Arab state of belligerency toward Israel.

If these principles are ever agreed on, the sponsors would propose sending a special representative to the Middle East to try to see that they are carried out.

There Are Many Good Ways to Fix Economical Chicken

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Food Editor

You've probably noticed how large the supply of chicken is right now. It is listed as a plentiful food this month.

While in Chicago, I heard an interesting comment about the broiler-fryer industry. My informant said that chicken processors have over-extended themselves and are producing more chickens than we eat. He insists they're losing money.

If that is true, it behooves us to buy heavily so that producers don't cut back their supply and thus force prices up next year.

Chicken helps balance the food budget. It can be successfully frozen. And it's good eating. That's why we frequently offer new recipes.

There are many recipes for stuffing and many methods of roasting chicken, but here is a new, easy and foolproof way of producing a beautiful golden brown bird with a moist and flavorful stuffing.

The secret is in the bag—a brown paper bag in which the bird is sealed and baked for 2½ hours.

BAKED CHICKEN IN A BAG

- 1 cup mashed potato flakes
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
- 2 teaspoons instant minced onion
- 1 teaspoon parsley flakes
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon poultry seasoning
- Roasting chicken (about 5 lbs.)

Combine potato flakes, celery, butter, and seasonings in bowl, mixing thoroughly. Spoon stuffing loosely into body cavity of chicken. (Chicken should be at room temperature.)

Close body cavity with skewers and string, tying drumsticks to tail.

Place in a brown paper bag which is large enough so the chicken breast is not touching the bag. Bake in 325 degree oven 2½ hours without peeking. 6 servings.

POACHED CHICKEN

- 1 fricassee chicken, about 5 to 6 pounds
- Salt and pepper
- ½ pound bulk pork sausage
- ¼ cup barley
- 2 quarts (8 cups) chicken broth
- 1 can (1 pound) jellied cranberry sauce
- 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind

1½ cups finely chopped celery
1½ cups finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
6 carrots, cut into 1-inch pieces

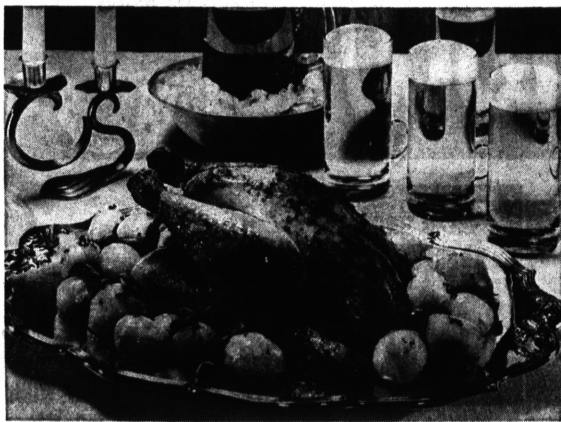

6 small whole onions
12 small new potatoes, peeled
12 small mushrooms
Sprinkle chicken inside and out with salt and pepper. Fry sausage until brown. Drain excess drippings and reserve.

Add barley and 2 cups of the chicken broth to sausage. Cover and simmer until barley is tender. Add ½ cup of cranberry sauce, lemon rind, ½ cup of the celery and ½ cup of the onion. Use mixture to stuff chicken. Sew or skewer opening.

Pour reserved sausage drippings into Dutch oven; brown chicken on all sides. Drain excess drippings. Add remaining onion, celery, cranberry sauce, chicken broth and vinegar.

Cover and simmer 1½ hours or until chicken is almost tender. Add vegetables and simmer until vegetables are tender.

Cook Chicken Mexican Style

If you haven't entertained with a Mexican-inspired menu, try this one built around Chicken Mexicali.

Reminiscent of several Mexican specialties, the casserole is simply chicken parts sautéed till golden, then baked in a lively sauce concocted from canned tomato sauce with cheese, green pepper, onion, chicken broth and chili powder.

CHICKEN MEXICALI

- 2 broiler-fryers, cut in serving pieces.
- ½ cup flour
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ cup pure vegetable oil
- 2 medium onions, chopped
- 2 medium green peppers, chopped

2 cans (8 ounces each) tomato sauce with cheese
1 cup chicken broth
2 teaspoons chili powder
½ cup sliced almonds, toasted
Coat chicken with mixture of flour, sugar, salt and pepper. Brown in hot oil in deep heavy skillet or Dutch oven; remove chicken.

In drippings cook onion and green pepper until tender; add tomato sauce with cheese, chicken broth, chili powder and chicken. Cover and simmer 40 minutes or until chicken is tender.

Arrange in serving dish; sprinkle with almonds. Makes 8 servings.

Strips of Ham Go in Fall Soup

Supper in a soup bowl! It's good tasting, quick to fix, and family pleasing. Serve this savory Ham and Vegetable Soup with a crisp green salad, thick slices of Italian bread, and fruit and cheese for dessert.

In a saucepan, brown 2 slices (1 ounce) prosciutto ham, cut in 1-inch strips, and cook ¼ cup sliced celery and ¼ teaspoon oregano in 1 tablespoon butter or margarine until tender. Add 1 can (10½ ounces) condensed vegetarian vegetable soup and 1 soup can water. Heat; stir now and then. Garnish with grated Parmesan cheese. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

CHICKEN MEXICALI

Here is a recipe which combines two favorites — plentiful, inexpensive chicken, and nutritious bran flakes — Chicken Curry Atop Buttered Bran Flakes. The flavor and texture of the crisp bran flakes are a perfect complement to the flavor and texture of the curried chicken.

Curry flavor is rapidly gaining popularity with the American public. It adds that zip which turns an ordinary dish into something special. Breakfast cereals add interest, variety, and different textures when used as an ingredient, plus improving the nutritional value of recipes by the addition of protein, important B vitamins, essential minerals, and food energy.

Chicken Curry

- ¾ cup butter or margarine
- 3 cups raisin bran flakes or 3 cups bran flakes and ½ cup seedless raisins
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 2 tablespoons flour
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ½ to 1 teaspoon curry powder, or as desired
- 2 cups half and half (milk and cream)
- 2 tablespoons drained chopped chutney, optional
- 2 tablespoons flaked coconut
- 2½ cups cooked, boned, bite-size chicken pieces

Melt ¾ cup butter or margarine in large skillet; add raisin bran flakes or bran flakes and raisins, and 1 teaspoon salt; mix well and warm.

Melt remaining ¾ cup butter or margarine in saucepan over low heat. Blend in flour, remaining 1 teaspoon salt, pepper, and curry powder, as desired. Stir in half and half; cook slowly, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Fold in chutney, coconut, and chicken; heat thoroughly.

Serve atop hot raisin bran flakes or bran flakes and raisins. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

ORANGE PECAN YAMS — Orange sections and chopped pecans mingle with the smooth, velvet-like pulp of baked yams. Pile the mixture high in the shells and pop the yams into the oven for a last minute heating.

Top Stuffed Yams With Fruit, Nuts

The sweet potatoes voted most likely to succeed in fall and winter menus are Louisiana yams. Homemakers everywhere choose them because of their fine baking qualities. If Louisiana yams have escaped your menus put them on your next grocery list. Look for yams that are plump in the middle with tapered ends. They'll have a burnt orange skin and flesh . . . denoting large quantities of vitamin A . . . and they'll be moist and stringless after baking.

These two qualities, plus their sweet, mellow flavor, make them ideal for mashing with other ingredients, stuffing the mixture back into the shells and popping them into the oven for a quick heating.

Orange Pecan Stuffed Yams
4 medium Louisiana yams
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 tablespoon grated orange peel
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ cup toasted chopped pecans

4 orange sections
4 pecan halves
Bake yams in 400 degree (hot) oven 15 minutes; reduce temperature to 375 degrees (moderate) and continue baking 45 minutes or until tender.

Scoop out yams, reserving ½-inch shells. Mash yams with butter, orange peel, salt and nutmeg. Fold in pecans. Fill yam shells.

Top each with orange section and pecan half. Bake 10 to 15 minutes longer.

Crisp Raw Salads an Aid to Dental Health

The greatest single cause of dental problems from early childhood to about 35 years of age is neglected tooth decay. After 35, disease of the gums and supporting structure becomes the greater dental problem.

The dental decay of a young person's teeth is primarily from too much fermentable carbohydrate foods — especially sticky, sugary foods.

These foods are particularly damaging to the tooth enamel, because they pact between the teeth and cling to the gum line. While the sweet, sticky foods are lodged there, the bacteria in the mouth and sugar combine into a destructive acid.

Infection and inflammation from the bacteria action affects the gum line and roots of the teeth for adults.

Regardless of one's age, the most important need for good dental health is a good diet. A daily diet should include milk, meat, vegetables, fruits, bread and cereal.

The form of the food is important for cleansing and muscle actions. Foods that are crisp like raw celery, carrots, cabbage and lettuce need to be chewed.

While these fresh vegetables are being ground to swallowing size, they are cleansing the teeth and massaging the gum line. These actions assist in keeping a healthy condition around the teeth.

Dressing Will Be Right on Lettuce

Your favorite head lettuce salad will be especially delicious when you serve with it this Sour Cream Thousand Dressing.

In a bowl blend together 1-3 cup chili sauce, 3 tablespoons chopped green pepper, 3 tablespoons chopped pimiento-stuffed olives, 2 teaspoons grated onion and ½ teaspoon salt; fold in 1 cup dairy sour cream or yogurt.

Cover and chill.

JUMBO SIZE — New 6-quart Teflon-coated corn popper by West Bend, largest automatic popper on the market, is just the answer for parties or big family get-togethers. Without stirring or shaking, the party-size popper produces about 25 average portions of fluffy white popped corn in only 10 minutes and turns itself automatically off when the popping is done. Lined with non-stick Teflon, lightweight aluminum popper is easily cleaned in seconds with warm sudsy water.

Sour Cream Frosts Bars

For kids six to 60, Brownie Sour Cream Delight is a sure winner dessert!

Prepare 1 package brownie mix according to package directions. Spread batter in 10-inch buttered pie plate. Bake recommended time. Remove from oven.

Spread 1 cup dairy sour cream over baked brownie. Dribble a stream of chocolate syrup lightly over cream or garnish with shaved semi-sweet chocolate. Return to pre-heated 350 degree oven for 5 minutes. Cool.

Cut into pie-shaped pieces. It's best when served the same day as prepared.

Carrot Delight Salad

4 cups grated carrots
¼ cup lemon juice
1 cup miniature marshmallows
1 cup green or red grapes
2-3 tablespoons honey
1 cup sour cream
Iceberg lettuce

Wash and grate the carrots. Add lemon juice to the grated carrots. Let stand in refrigerator for half hour. Add marshmallows and grapes.

Combine honey with sour cream. Toss together dressing and carrot mixture. Put in lettuce-lined salad bowl. Makes 8 servings.

Crisp shredded cabbage that

Cabbage and Avocado Slaw
1 cup sour cream
2 tablespoons crumbled bleu cheese
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
Pepper to taste
1 small head cabbage, shredded
¾ cup celery, diagonally sliced
1 avocado, cubed, or persimmon

Combine sour cream, bleu cheese, lemon juice, salt and pepper. Pour over cabbage, celery and avocado. Toss gently, chill and serve on iceberg lettuce leaves. Makes 6 servings.

Blabbermouth Needed Now and Then

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Of all the legends and folk tales that have been handed down through the years, none illustrates a universal truth so well as the story of "The Emperor's New Clothes."

To refresh your memory, this is a story about an emperor who liked to appear before his subjects naked. Only he was a few centuries ahead of his time.

In those days, public nudity was not as socially acceptable as it is now. So the emperor consulted one of his wise men about the problem.

"I've got a great idea, your majesty, sir," the wise man said. "We'll use a cover story.

When you go out in the afternoon, we'll tell your subjects that you are showing off your new pinstripe suit."

The monarch did as the wise men advised, and sure enough his subjects followed him into the credibility gap. All except one blabbermouth little kid.

SENSE OF SECURITY

Now in case you don't recognize it, the universal truth at work here is that people have a deep psychological need to feel that their leaders are smarter than they are. It gives them a sense of security.

So they subconsciously suppress their inner doubts, and cling to the illusion that somebody in charge will be able to cope with the situation.

I'll never forget the shock I got when I first moved to Washington and met some of the congressmen who were making vital decisions on matters of life, death and taxes.

I found to my horror, alarm and dismay that most of them didn't seem to have much more sense than I did. I've been suffering from a severe anxiety complex ever since.

NATIONAL PANIC

But I never mentioned this discovery to anyone for fear it might create a national panic.

Then recently, like that kid in "The Emperor's New Clothes," a freshman lawmaker, Rep. Sam Steiger, R-Ariz., blurted out the naked truth.

In a television interview, he said, "I think there are members of Congress that you would not hire to wheel a wheelbarrow."

Although Steiger was reportedly rebuked by his peers, it was too late to undo the damage. An illusion, once shattered, can seldom be pieced together again.

But perhaps you will sleep a little better at night knowing there also are some congressmen whom you would hire to wheel a wheelbarrow. And the sooner the better.

Thick Blood Stroke Clue

By Science Service
SAN FRANCISCO — A rich supply of blood cells is a warning that a person may be a candidate for a stroke, according to a report presented to the American Heart Association here.

The report is one of the first results of a massive, 20-year study being conducted on 5,000 persons in Framingham, Mass., in an effort to determine whether doctors can recognize a pattern which is likely to lead to heart disease and stroke.

Fourteen years of following patients with various habits has indicated that people with thick blood are about twice as likely to become heart victims as those with a less richly endowed blood supply, according to Dr. W. A. Kannel, director of the study.

Dr. Kannel said he doubts that the correlation is due to the fact that the heart must labor harder to push thick blood through the arterial system. "The body has a dozen ways to compensate for that," he said.

There isn't much one can do for himself to reduce the richness of his blood, he added, "except to make frequent contributions to his blood bank."

Particularly dangerous, according to the researcher, is a combination of thick blood, hypertension, poor carbohydrate tolerance and a tendency toward diabetes.

Man Acquitted in Slaying: 'Insanity Caused by LSD'

NEW YORK (AP) — A jury has found Stephen Kessler not guilty by reason of insanity in the LSD slaying of his mother-in-law — believed one of the first homicide cases to involve the hallucinogenic drug.

Three times the State Supreme Court jury of 11 men and a woman had reported itself hopelessly deadlocked, and each time the court directed the panel to try again. The verdict came at 6:20 p.m. Wednesday.

Justice Edward Thompson ordered the 32-year-old former medical student, who has admitted taking marijuana and LSD, placed in the custody of the State Mental Hygiene Authority. With the announcement of acquittal after 12 hours of deliberation, the Harvard-educated Kessler burst into tears. Throwing his glasses on the defense table, he buried his face in his hands and sobbed: "I still say I don't know what happened. I had no reason to kill her. I loved her."

MOTHER PRESENT

The lone spectator in the courtroom when the verdict arrived was his mother, Mrs. Henrietta Kessler, a tall, gray-haired woman who was a faithful attendant during her son's four-week trial. She also wept.

Kessler could gain his freedom by proving that his insanity was temporary and that he is now of sound mind.

The lanky, stoop-shouldered Kessler went on trial Sept. 26 charged with the first-degree murder April 11, 1966, of Florence Cooper, 57, his mother-in-law. She was stabbed 106 times in her Brooklyn apartment.

At no time during the trial did defense attorney Maurice Edelbaum dispute the murder charge. The issue was Kessler's

No One Hurt in Gas Blast at D.C. Dorm

WASHINGTON (AP) — A gas explosion ripped a gaping hole in the third floor ceiling of a Georgetown University dormitory early today, forcing the evacuation of some 450 students.

University officials said no one was injured.

The blast shattered windows in the 4-story brick building and knocked out laths and plaster in a 25-by-25-square-foot section of the ceiling.

A university spokesman said a student, returning to his room, opened the door and was knocked off his feet by the force of the explosion.

TURNED OFF GAS

"We won't let any student back in the building until we are convinced it is safe," he said.

Firemen said they had turned off gas mains, but that a small flame continued to burn between the walls.

Four Unhurt as Jet Crashes in Swamp

MUSKEGON (UPI) — A privately owned Lear jet crashed in a marshy swamp on the shores of Mona Lake here yesterday afternoon. Authorities said none of the four passengers aboard the plane were seriously injured.

Authorities said the plane, owned by the Continental Motors Corp. of Muskegon, crashed after one engine went out and the other exploded.

Police said the pilot, J. R. Badzik of Detroit, ditched the plane in the swamp after the engines went out. Then, police said, the pilot and the other three men aboard swam to the Mona Shores school administration building and requested police and an ambulance be called.

The other three men aboard the plane were identified as Kenneth Hertling, the copilot, of Westerfield, Ohio, and passengers Robert D. Murray of Detroit and Robert Hasper of North Muskegon.

Crash Kills Youth

RIVER ROUGE (AP) — Lee Turner Johnson Jr., 15, of Ecorse was killed Wednesday when a motorcycle driven by his father, Lee Turner Johnson Sr., crashed head-on into a car in River Rouge. The boy was listed as dead on arrival at Outer Drive Hospital. His father was admitted in serious condition.

"The chair began to bleed," Kessler was quoted as saying. "It turned to wax and the wax began to drip as though it were melting. My feet were 10 feet from my head."

The defense argued that the climax to a three-day LSD trip left Kessler in a state of amnesia such that he could not be held responsible for Mrs. Cooper's death.

The state held Kessler took the LSD to provide the amnesia defense in the event he was accused of the killing.

Cavanagh, Wife Agree on Child Custody

DETROIT (UPI) — Mayor Jerome Cavanagh yesterday reached a custody settlement with his estranged wife on the couple's eight children.

Under the agreement Cavanagh will keep seven of the children every weekend at his home, an official river-front residence.

The rest of the week, Mrs. Mary Helen Cavanagh, who charged the mayor with "extreme cruelty" when she sued him for separate maintenance, will keep the children.

In addition, Cavanagh agreed to pay his wife $150 a week in support payments and to provide clothes and medical expenses for the children.

An eighth child is away at a prep school and was not affected by the settlement.

In another development facing Cavanagh, a member of the Common Council said her campaign to recall the mayor from office has collected almost enough signatures to put the matter up to a public vote.

Miss Mary V. Beck said she lacked only 12,319 signatures before she reaches the 125,000 mark on petitions that have been in circulation for several months.

Hollywood No Longer Center

Jet Age Spurs Actor Exodus

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — The report that James Coburn was shopping for a house, in Tangier caused no stir in Hollywood, which has grown accustomed to stars who live in far-off places.

Once upon a time, all the screen luminaries lived here. Most owned homes in Beverly Hills or Brentwood, but few rustics lived in the outlying reaches of the San Fernando Valley.

The jet age changed that. Today an actor can breakfast in London and be on a Hollywood set that afternoon. The fact that movies are made all over the globe makes it no longer necessary for star to live within freeway distance of MGM, Warner Bros., etc.

The trend toward decentralization of stars' residences makes life tougher for at least four categories of people:

1. Real estate dealers, who must find other buyers for their properties.
2. Tour bus drivers, who have fewer stars' homes to point out to the rubbernecks.

3. Gossip columnists, who have to scrounge for personalities to write about.

4. Hollywood hostesses, who never know which names will be in town to decorate their parties.

ON THE DESERT

The biggest colony of film personalities is on the desert, where stars can enjoy the quiet life, play golf and tennis in the smogless warmth and return to the studios in a half-hour via air. More and more stars are following the lead of Red Skelton, who comes to Hollywood only for his television show.

Among those who spend a large part of their lives in Palm Springs and its environs: David Jansen, Jack Benny, Bob Hope, Desi Arnaz, Frank Sinatra, William Demarest, Chuck Connors, Phil Harris and Alice Faye. The desert is also a haven for such retired performers as William Powell, Lily Pons, William of Connecticut.

Boyd — Hopalong Cassidy — Charles Farrell.

Northern California has also attracted stars as a permanent home. Bing Crosby gave up the Hollywood life to rear his second family in Hillsborough. Kim Novak, Jean Arthur and Alfred Hitchcock favor the Monterey Peninsula. John Wayne, Buddy Ebsen and others prefer the nautical life of Balboa Bay, 50 miles south of Hollywood.

New York City has long held fascination for film actors, especially those who also perform in the theater. Among those who make Manhattan their home: Joan Crawford, Sandy Dennis, Joan Fontaine, Shelley Winters, Lauren Bacall and Jason Robards, Gloria Swanson, Myrna Loy, Lillian Gish, Tony Randall, Sidney Poitier.

RURAL LIFE

The Paul Newmans — Joanne Woodward — and a d. Frederic Marches — Florence Eldridge — prefer the more rural life of Connecticut.

HUMAN TORCH FOR $700 — Movie stunt man Ronnie Rondell climbs into an aluminum-coated asbestos suit (left) for a Hollywood film scene in which he's splashed with napalm and set afire (right). He also wears a parka and breathing apparatus for the dangerous scene in the film "Ice Station Zebra." Firemen extinguish the flame 12 seconds after he was ignited. Rondell had estimated the safe period to be 25 seconds. He got $700 for the job.

Schools Value Lenore, Godfrey to Visit Psychologists

Use by Educators, Parents Increasing

By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist

Attitudes toward school psychologists have changed substantially over the years. Parents and educators are making increasing use of the psychologist's services. The psychologist has become a valuable consultant to the school staff and parents.

All schools do not have the services of a psychologist but the number is growing rapidly.

A student with emotional problems has an unfair burden interfering with his academic success. A teacher's approach to a student with adjustment problems is most important.

The school psychologist is a necessary assistant, who can often make suggestions which will improve the classroom situation and consequently provide more successful learning.

The psychologist can help diagnose the problem and plan a corrective program for parents and school personnel. Naturally, in many cases individual therapy is needed.

Although the school psychologist may not be in a position to perform the therapy, he can direct the parent to the proper agency.

The parent as well as the school should take the responsibility in initiating a referral. All too often, seemingly minor problems are overlooked with the thought that they will correct themselves as the child grows older.

Unfortunately, they very often get worse. Does this mean that all problems should be referred to the school psychologist? This would be impractical.

Many times, a child's problems are short-lived. The parent who is aware of the difficulty can often help the child work out a solution with only a minimum of direction. Do not impose your ideas on the child, but help him come to his own conclusion.

Mental health has a close relationship to an individual's feelings about himself. Self respect and security are basic needs. If you can help your child develop independent thinking and self discipline, you will be helping him go a long way toward good social adjustment. Social adjustment does not just happen. It takes proper guidance and direction.

When does one need the assistance of a psychologist? This is a matter of judgment. However, when a problem is long enduring or recurrent periodically, it is wise to look for further advice.

Consider a referral when your child is not performing up to his ability, does not get along well with other children, is tense and nervous, is constantly unhappy, has to be forced to attend school, is too intense about his work, or generally does not appear to be solving his problems without undue strain.

The school psychologist is not only useful in extreme cases, but can be helpful in preventing development of extreme problems. The psychologist can often correct a situation, through a conference, by merely giving advice to parents and teachers.

The familiar "Seems Like Old Times" theme of Arthur Godfrey will take on meaning next week when he renews his acquaintance with Mrs. Lenore Romney, wife of the governor.

The radio-TV personality will join the first lady at Detroit's Fisher Theater next Thursday to revive memories of the days when Mrs. Romney hosted a radio show and Godfrey was her announcer.

"It was before he became famous," said Mrs. Romney.

It was 1936 that Mrs. Romney starred on her own show in Washington, D.C., reading poetry from a script she and her husband wrote.

The 15-minute show which was beamed locally was known as "Poetical Hitchhiking."

OPEN TO PUBLIC

"It started out as a public service program, said Mrs. Romney," but later we had a laundry for a sponsor."

The Fisher Theater party from 11 a.m. to noon is open to the public without charge, and has been planned by friends to celebrate Mrs. Romney's birthday.

A fund-raising luncheon will be Somewhere between 300,000 to 4.5 million Americans smoke marijuana, it is estimated.

By OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

As in any competitive game, the best bridge players take chances in order to force their opponents to guess.

In a recent team match both West players opened with one spade and each East jumped right to game.

JACOBY At the first table South, deciding that he was not going to be shut out, bid five hearts. West's first thought was to bid five spades and take a small loss.

His next thought was to pass and leave things to his partner. Finally, West took a third course of action and doubled.

Then he led his singleton diamond. South won and led a low heart toward dummy, but West had planned his campaign to get a ruff. He went right up with his ace and played a low spade. East got in with the queen and returned a diamond to set the contract.

East and West weren't too happy with their result. They were afraid that other Easts and Wests would make four, maybe five spades, but their fears turned out to be groundless.

At the other table, North and South were playing all purpose doubles. South doubled East's four spade bid primarily for takeout, but North decided to try to beat that contract.

He opened his singleton club. South took his ace and West falsecarded with the seven spot. This left South with some doubt as to the location of the deuce, but he had no reason to shift and returned the three.

West played his eight and North ruffed. This left North with a real problem. He wanted to put South in. Should he lead a diamond or a heart? If West had played the club deuce, North would have known that his partner had played lowest club as a diamond preference signal—but where was that deuce? Eventually, North did decide on the diamond play and got his second ruff.

Viet Critics Up Sharply, Poll Claims

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The number of citizens who consider United States involvement in Vietnam a mistake has nearly doubled in the past two years, according to the Gallup Poll.

The American Institute of Public Opinion, Gallup's poll organization, said a poll of 1,585 persons in 326 separate localities showed 46 per cent thought American involvement a mistake.

A similar poll in August 1965 showed only 24 per cent pessimistic about American action in Vietnam.

CROSS SECTION

The latest poll, published Wednesday, was taken among a cross section of the nation's population, George Gallup said.

The question asked in the latest survey and in eight others since August 1965 was: "In view of the developments since we entered the fighting in Vietnam, do you think the United States made a mistake sending troops to fight in Vietnam?"

In the latest survey, 46 per cent of those questioned said yes, 44 per cent said no, and 10 per cent had no opinion.

In February, 32 per cent said yes, 52 said no, and 16 per cent had no opinion.

In the poll taken during August 1965, 24 per cent answered yes, 61 per cent said no and 15 per cent gave no opinion.

Bonds Rejected

TRENTON (AP) — Voters in Trenton School District have rejected 1,674,311 a $6 million bond issue, its second defeat in 10 months. The proposal was to finance enlarging the high school, modernizing existing elementary schools and purchasing more school sites.

Soldiers Packing Biggest Soviet City Near Chinese Border

KHABAROVSK, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Khabarovsk, the biggest Soviet city near the Chinese border, is full of soldiers. "Our people know the border is well protected and because of that they are not concerned," said Boris M. Minevich, president of the planning commission for this region.

Minevich told foreign reporters that although armed Chinese and Soviet guards are facing one another there have not been any "significant" incidents.

The border is about 35 miles west of this city of 400,000 on the Amur River. Another local man commented that the Chinese occasionally wave their books of Mao Tse-tung quotations and shout and gesture from the other side. But he said no clashes had taken place and no blood had been spilled.

The reporters were taken to the Ussuri Sanatorium, located about 10 miles from Chinese territory, to see for themselves that life was going on normally.

Nothing was in sight there to indicate tension. The staff and 500 patients behaved as if they were undisturbed by the proximity of the Chinese.

But along the way and in Khabarovsk itself the military was more in evidence than anywhere else visitors have been allowed to visit in this country.

The Kremlin's basic strategy apparently is to mass such strength along the border that the Chinese will not dare try anything.

Squads of border guards and regular troops march through the city. Small groups of uniformed men were encountered again and again. They were off duty but their prevalence indicated big concentrations. The border zone is off limits and information about weapons and troop displacements is a military secret.

SAILORS SPOTTED
Around the city sailors and naval officers also were spotted frequently.

The Amur River forms the Chinese-Soviet border along part of its course and there has been trouble about movement of the two nations' ships. A joint commission set up to regulate navigation broke off its meetings.

"The Chinese raised questions about the frontier," Minevich said, adding that they tried to claim islands considered Soviet territory. Soviet ships, according to this official, are continuing to use old routes.

These are along the half of the river nearest this country's shore. The Chinese use the other half. Due to increased mechanization of plantations, the number of Negro pickers in the Mississippi Delta region declined from 60,000 in 1959 to 2,000 in 1966.

Junior Editors Quiz on BAMBOO

QUESTION: Why is bamboo called giant grass?

ANSWER: A bamboo grove, commonly found in tropical Asia and in certain places in North America, is a strange place. Tall, thin, jointed trunks grow straight upward, with clusters of leaves overhead. These do not look like regular tree trunks.

Indeed, the bamboo is not a tree. It belongs to the great grass family, although it is in a subfamily of its own, Bambusoideae. Bamboo grasses are larger than others, with woody stems, or culms.

Look for some tall stems of grasses which have gone to seed; you will find they are miniature bamboos with jointed stems, usually hollow inside.

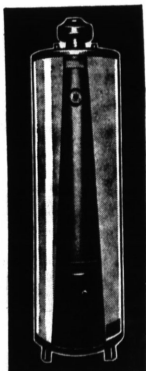

The bamboo plant has tremendous value. It gives us the familiar fishing rod and is also made into simple wind instruments. In the East, bamboo is a popular building material.

Eastern artists, for a long time, have painted the bamboo theme. The ancient Chinese venerated the bamboo because, they believed, it symbolized the perfect gentlemen, humble, simple, yet also upright and strong.

JOYFUL JOYAL — Former Detroit Red Wing Ed Joyal (left) raises his arms and stick after flipping the puck past sprawling Toronto goalie Bruce Gamble last night at Maple Leaf Gardens. Teammate Real Lemieux (9) passed the puck to Joyal who then scored Los Angeles' second goal in a 4-2 loss to the Maple Leafs. Bob Pulford (20) couldn't prevent the goal and Tim Horton failed to check Lemieux in time.

NHL 'Kings' Are Knocked From Unbeaten Perch

By The Associated Press

Basic hockey — that was the name of the game for the Los Angeles Kings and New York's Jean Ratelle.

The Kings, one of National Hockey League's expansion teams, lost their first game of the season Wednesday night, 4-2 to Toronto.

"They're playing basic hockey — the stuff you teach kids," said Toronto defenseman Marcel Pronovost. "But they're playing it well."

Ratelle drew three Chicago defenders away from the net, setting up Vic Hadfield's tying goal as New York battled the Black Hawks to a 2-2 deadlock.

"I just shot the puck," said Ratelle, explaining what had seemed to be an impossible pass. "You can't score if you don't shoot," he continued, "that's basic."

Red Wings Face California Seals

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Red Wings will get their first look tonight at another new expansion team of the National Hockey League.

The California Seals will bring their 2-3 record to Olympia Stadium for their first chance at the Wings, who have a 3-2 mark.

The Wings already have faced one Western Division team — the St. Louis Blues — and while they barely won the match, 1-0, the victory was a costly one.

Center North Ullman was injured in the game and will be sitting it out tonight, nursing a slight shoulder separation.

Minnesota nipped St. Louis 3-2 and Pittsburgh stopped California 4-1.

The Maple Leafs opened a 2-0 lead against ex-teammate Red Kelly's Kings. But Los Angeles came back to tie it before Bob Pulford's second period goal put the Leafs on top to stay.

The Maple Leafs beat another ex-teammate, goalie Terry Sawchuk, ending Los Angeles' unbeaten string at six games. The victory also halted a three-game Toronto losing streak.

Bobby Hull's seventh goal of the season — a 50-foot sizzler — had just given Chicago a 2-1 lead against the Rangers but Ratelle's picture play got New York even 46 seconds later.

Ratelle carried to the Black Hawks' goal mouth, drew out goalie Denis DeJordy and, with two other players draped around him, got the puck to Hadfield, who had an open net to shoot at.

Ab McDonald scored twice as Pittsburgh bested California.

Ray Cullen cruised in all alone for Minnesota's winning goal against St. Louis. Defenseman Bob Woytowich had stolen the puck and fed Cullen, who went in by himself against Glenn Hall with just over two minutes left to play.

3 Obstacles Face Kettering

Firebirds Get Look From Big Leagues

Don't look now, but the Pontiac Firebirds and a couple of other teams in the Midwest Football League are drawing the attention of some big league scouts.

The reason, as one of the league officials notes, is the possibility of finding a sleeper ball player or for placing players out of the reach of rival clubs.

At least two clubs, it is known, will have scouts in the Pontiac area, probably to watch the Firebirds-Flint Wildcats game Saturday night at Wisner Stadium.

Atlanta, Cleveland and Green Bay scouts have all made inquiry as to franchise locations and players in the league.

The Pontiac Football Company, along with several other minor league teams, are looking toward affiliation with an AFL or NFL team.

Captains Have Tough Schedule in Final Games

Kettering's Captains now have squandered their record with consecutive triumphs after a 1-3 start this fall, but the path ahead is blocked by Wildcats, Huskies and those always threatening Skippers.

This hasn't been an easy season for coach Jim Larkin.

After last year's unbeaten, Tri-County League championship campaign the WKHS mentor was faced with a dearth of experienced performers, no league alignment, and then lost several key regulars when he trimmed the roster for disciplinary reasons.

Now the adjustments have been made and the team hopefully will finish strong. But Roseville's Wildcats are the first obstacle. Pontiac Northern and Waterford will follow.

Mississippi State Handed Penalty

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association Council, governing body of the NCAA, has issued new rulings affecting several schools — including Nebraska, Mississippi State, Michigan State, Purdue and Bradley.

The council at its meeting Wednesday barred the Mississippi State basketball team from postseason championship competition through 1969 for recruiting and financial violations.

Nebraska was given a reprimand and censure for being involved in payment of $600 for repairs to an auto of a prospective student-athlete.

The council said the youth was given the money by his employers, who are identified as having Nebraska athletic interests.

The penalty is the mildest possible. Nebraska is not barred from any kind of competition.

The council restored Michigan State, Purdue and Bradley to good standing. They had been on probation for infractions.

Michigan State had been put on probation in November 1964 for improper recruiting practices.

Purdue has been on probation since October 1966 for recruiting irregularities, and Bradley since last year for giving improper financial aid.

MSU Alumnus Recalls Start of Irish Series

ELKTON (AP) — Shorty Snider sits on the front porch of the white frame house in Michigan's thumb area and remembers how much of this Michigan State-Notre Dame business began.

It was 50 autumns ago that Snider went off to play football at Michigan Agricultural College in East Lansing. That's what they called MSU then.

He's almost 70 now, but he remembers when clipping was legal. He remembers when there were no hash marks on the field. If the ball went out of bounds you played it from there, and the center became an end when the ball was snapped.

And Snider remembers when the Irish were the Irish. When they were No. 1. When Knute Rockne was coach.

Mississippi State, of the Southeastern Conference, was criticized by the SEC last August for what it called "the gross negligence or laxity on the part of Mississippi State basketball coaches."

The council said Mississippi State provided two high school athletes, who were on campus to take entrance exams, free air transportation from Starkville, Miss., to the site of an all-star high school basketball game in which the two were to play.

It said Mississippi State also was guilty of permitting two prospective recruits to participate in a basketball workout, and did not provide a student-athlete with a written statement detailing the amount, duration, conditions and terms of an athletic scholarship.

The council noted that Mississippi State has holding its athletic department and revised its administrative procedures. It added that excellent cooperation had been given the NCAA and the infractions committee.

Skins Place Looney on 'Loose' in NFL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Redskins, despite a lack of running backs, placed fullback Joe Don Looney on waivers Wednesday.

The controversial Looney, now in his fourth year in professional football, had trouble with New York, Baltimore and Detroit before joining Washington last season but has been on good behavior here.

Coach Otto Graham has not kept it a secret, however, that he was not pleased with Looney's attitude, especially when he was not playing in a game.

Apparently, it also did not help matters when Looney did not sign a contract this season and decided to play out his option.

Rain prohibited any play Wednesday and will require the final round to be played Friday, rather than Thursday as originally scheduled.

Major Hoople Uses Subs for This Week

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE

With an assist from Alvin and Leander

Egad, friends, all my life I have been a believer in letting young people have their say.

And today, to show my support for the youth movement, which is sweeping our country, I've turned this week's forecasting assignment over to my nephews, Alvin and Leander.

The boys, in-kaff-kaff-true Hoople tradition, have some surprising predictions for you! Since Leander is Alvin's senior by some 12 months, we'll deal with his selections first.

Here is what he has to say:

"Okay, Uncle Bulgy—er—I mean Amos, in the big one in the east match! those unbeaten Ivy birds, Harvard and Dartmouth, I predict the Crimson guys will win by three whiskers, 21-18.

"And how about this one? Arizona, the club that bopped Ohio State a couple weeks ago, will make it two in a row against the Big Ten by shadin' undefeated Indiana, 17-15. Ha! There, dear readers, you have Leander's top picks—and some mighty good ones, too, I might add. Now we'll hear from Alvin."

"Gee, Uncle Amos, there's some tough games there, but me and my algebra teacher checked everything out, using the new math (that's the one you don't understand) and I got 'em all figured out perfectly!"

"The biggest game of the day in my book is Tennessee and LSU at Knoxville. Both have been beaten once, but this Saturday for LSU it's gonna be Number Two. I like Tennessee by three, 17-14.

Now on with the forecast:

Ex-Golf Great Rivalries Grid Features Recuperating in Important Loop Races

Chick Evans Resting After Illness

CHICAGO (AP) — Chick Evans, 77, one of golf's all-time amateur greats, said Wednesday he was resting "dormie" after long treatment for a broken blood clot in his leg.

On Sept. 1 he was stricken by the clot which broke and went to a lung. He was confined to a hospital five weeks, and left his home for the first time Wednesday.

Evans, who swept the U.S. Open and U.S. Amateur titles in 1916, said his convalescence marked the longest time he didn't have a golf club in his hands since he was eight years old.

"This is the slowest golf match of my life," said Evans. "I'm not losing, but don't seem to be gaining. It's like being dormie."

He last was on a course when he won his age flight in the World Senior tourney at Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug. 28. Since then, he has had to scratch from senior golf competition, including the USGA's senior in Long Island, N.Y., North-South Senior at Pinehurst, N.C.

Evans, for whom the Western Golf Association has named its caddy scholarship program, was runnerup in the 1914 U.S. Open and also took the U.S. Amateur in 1920. He was runnerup in the National Amateur in 1912, 1922 and 1927 and a semifinalist seven other years.

The Huskies will invade Livonia Stevenson for the first time and be the perhaps victimized guests at the Spartans' 2 p.m. Homecoming game.

Central will travel to Flint Central for a 7:30 p.m. Saginaw Valley Conference test at Atwood Stadium.

Very few stadium lights will be on in the Pontiac vicinity Friday night, Walled Lake will visit Waterford for a key Inter-Lakes League battle.

The only nearby Wayne-Oakland League outing has Clarkson going to West Bloomfield Bloomfield Hills Andover will be at Brighton.

This Photographer Is 'Fast Moving'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Marti Cole, a blonde 35-year-old free lance photographer, said she ran 30.1 miles on the Los Angeles Athletic Club track Wednesday and was hardly winded.

"I felt like going, and going," Miss Cole said afterward. "I finished 321 laps at 7 p.m. She stopped occasionally for juice."

The distance was 10 miles farther than she had run before. Since taking up track four in 1912, 1922 and 1927 and a months ago, she said, she usually runs four miles a day.

Avondale will visit Rochester and Clawson will be at Troy in the Oakland A's top engagements. Lake Orion will be home to meet Utica.

The lone Northwest Suburban Friday game has North Farmington at Birmingham Groves. The Raiders must take home a victory or fall from contention in the league race.

Should they win, the North Farmington followers will likely flock to Livonia Bentley Saturday morning where Wayne John Glenn (who leads the Raiders by one game) will risk his outright tie hopes against the Patriots who also are one game back.

Another Homecoming contest this week has Farmington entertaining Mount Clemens at 3:30 p.m. Friday.

Key Game With New Haven

Dryden in Big Step to Title Bid

Dryden's Cardinals, plagued with Richmond the only squad by a tie and a loss in their first three Southern Thumbs starts, have their chance to win out most of that frustration Friday night.

They will entertain New Haven under the lights at Almont with the winner taking a giant stride in the title race. The visiting Rockets will enter the contest with a 4-1 league mark.

Dryden has a 3-1-1 log and is tied with Richmond for second place, just a half game in front of Armada's Tigers who are 2-1-2.

The Cardinals left themselves an uphill fight with their early setbacks, and they have the roughest road to follow of all the contenders. After the New Haven encounter, Dryden will play arch rival Almont (3-2-1) in the final next week.

But victories in both outings will assure the Cardinals of at least half of the championship.

Tony Odean, last year playing in Pontiac, now in Mt. Clemens, is also a highly regarded prospect.

The Firebirds will be after their fifth straight victory and the hope of staying in the MFL title chase against Flint Saturday at Wisner.

The Wildcats have former All-Stater Tiny Lassiter from Flint Central at quarterback, and coach Tom Tracy has warned the Firebirds that Flint has twice in the past upset Pontiac during a run for the title and should not be taken for granted.

After Flint, only Detroit Downriver remains on the home schedule next week and then the Firebirds go on the road for their last three games, the big game at Ypsilanti in the final week, Nov. 25.

A bus trip is being planned for the Ypsi game and interested fans should contact the Firebirds office at FE 2-9254. The cost is $6 for fare and ticket.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Carl Eller, defensive end on the Minnesota Vikings' NFL team, was acquitted Wednesday of driving after his license had been suspended.

"It is quite clear to the court that the defendant did not have notice of the suspension," said Judge David R. Leslie of Hennepin County municipal court.

3 Deadlocked in Statistics for Point Lead

NEW YORK (AP) — O. J. Simpson of Southern California, Gary Babin of UCLA and Rick Eber of Tulsa were tied for the individual scoring lead among the nation's major-league football players today.

All three scored two touchdowns last weekend, giving each 54 points, according to statistics compiled by National Collegiate Sports Services.

Eber is the sole leader in passing. He has 43 receptions, one more than Ace Hendricks of New Mexico.

Ken Juskowich of West Virginia has scored the most points by kicking, 45, on 11 field goals and 12 conversions.

Western Michigan Needs Win to Tie

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Defending champion Western Michigan, in a three-way tie for the Mid-American Conference lead, must take both of its remaining conference games to win at least a piece of the league crown.

The Broncos' 35-9 loss to Toledo last week sent them into a 3-1 conference record and a tie with Miami and Toledo.

Western's season record is 3-3. The Broncos hope to rebound Saturday against winless Marshall in a conference tilt at Kalamazoo. After that comes Ohio University.

New Leaders in Touch Loop

Red Raiders on Top in Waterford

The Red Raiders took over first place Tuesday at the Drayton Plains lighted field with a 22-0 Waterford Township Men's Touch Football victory over the Cougars.

The Eagle Boosters won their first game, 18-6, over the Stage Coach Bandits in a battle between winless squads.

Bob Castelan ran 15 yards and passed 20 yards to Dave Struble for touchdowns, and Gary Heaton recovered a fumble for the other six-pointer by the Raiders, who have only allowed eight points in their four (3-0-1) outings.

The Cougars slipped to 2-1-0. The Eagle Boosters romped to an 18-0 lead before the Bandits could tally on a Charles Huggins-Larry Black 20-yard pass.

Tom Rasper scooted 20 and 35 yards for touchdowns, and Skip Drumheller passed to Barry Barrington 45 yards for a touchdown.

Date for Little Gridders

The Little League football game between the Lancers and Bobcats of the Waterford League will be played as a preliminary to the Firebirds game Saturday, Nov. 4 and not to tomorrow night as mentioned in The Press sports page this week.

MAPLE SCORER — Birmingham Seaholm potent offense this fall has been sparked by 60, 170-pound senior halfback Gar Thomas, a two-way performer who has notched 12 touchdowns (reportedly a school record for one season).

Billiard Matches Start

MARSEILLE, France (AP) — Jose Galvez of Spain beat Henk Scholtz of Holland 300-154 in 16 innings Wednesday in an opening match of the World Billiard Championships.

Seaholm Back Takes County Scoring Lead

A slender, quick-stepping half-back from Birmingham Seaholm used a three-touchdown performance (his second of the season) last Friday night to assume the leadership in the county scoring race.

Gar Thomas, a 170-pound senior, upped his unconfirmed

Birmingham one-season school record to 12 six-pointers in the upset win over Southfield.

This gives him a four-point lead, 72-68, over Millford's Bob McFarland who had led the race for several weeks.

Thomas and McFarland are the only two preps who have more than 10 touchdowns; but Pankner has crossed the goal-line the most.

The hard - charging fullback has 57 points to rank third in the race. His 17 trips over the payoff stripe include eight six-pointers and nine conversions.

A two-man duel for scoring honors among those preps just outside the county boundaries has New Haven's Gary Mack and Mount Clemens' Sherwin Munn tied with 54 points, each tallying nine touchdowns.

U. S. Swimmers Start Off Winning

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The United States got off to a good start on the first day of swimming at the Pre-Olympics, but U.S. coaches believe few records will fall this year or next in Mexico City.

U.S. swimmers captured three of the five events Wednesday night and added four silver medals and two bronze, but no records were threatened by this group that was lowering marks every time they stepped in the water earlier this year.

"We were very pleased to day," Don Gambrell, men's team coach from Long Beach State College said. "But as far as records go, I don't think any of our swimmers are in top condition."

Lynn Vidali of Santa Clara, Calif., was a good three seconds off the world mark in winning the women's 100-meter breaststroke in 1:10.3. Don Schollander, Saratoga, Calif., won the 100-meter free-style in 54.5, but that was 1.9 seconds off the world record. And Debbie Meyer of Sacramento, Calif., whose 9:48.0 took a gold in the 800 meter freestyle, was 25.1 seconds off her own world mark.

CAME CLOSE

Gold medalist Ada Kok of Holland came closest in the 100-meter butterfly with 1:06.7. She holds the record at 1:04.5. The other gold went to Andrey Dunaev of Russia for his 5:00.7 in the 400-meter individual med-

Other golds of the day went to the Soviet Union in the 4,000 meter team pursuit bike race, to Belgium in tandem cycling, to Romania in rapid fire pistol, to Switzerland for high power rifle shooting, and to Russia in epee fencing.

But swimming will be the competition which brings the largest harvest of medals — 29 golds in all.

Despite the conditioning factor, Gambrell and a women's coach Sherman Chavoor of Sacramento, Calif., expect to win their share.

"The kids have had a long season, and most of them haven't had a meet since August," Gambrell said. "Besides, we've only been here four days, compared with the Russians, who have had five weeks at this altitude, and the East Germans, who have had four."

TWO CHAMPS

"We didn't come earlier because most of our swimmers are in school, and we brought only two national champions to the men's competition, Schollander and Peter Williams," Williams of Pittsburgh won a silver in the individual medley.

"The girls are younger, and it's not so hard to get them out of high school, but many of the boys are in college, and you lose a lot when you're out a week," Gambrell said.

Claudia Kolb of Santa Clara placed second and Patty Carletto of Whittier, Calif., third in the 800-meters with clockings of 10:02.3 and 10:03.4, respectively. Ten minutes earlier, Claudia won a bronze with her 1:07.6 in the 100-meter butterfly, trailing Eleanor Daniel of Elkins Park, Pa., 1:06.6.

Vegas Oddsmakers Put 'Long Odds' on Palmer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The burning issue was not whether Arnold Palmer would win the $100,000 Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament but whether he would fade out of the scene early with 36 holes yet to be played after today.

Las Vegas and one of its prominent apostles, Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder, went so far as to bet intimate friends that Palmer was no better than 300-1 to win the thing and 2-1 to qualify for the two rounds remaining after today's second round.

Massive George Bayer, with an opening round 66, five shots under par for the Paradise Valley Country Club's 36-35-71, led the way into the second round.

Six players were just one stroke off the high George's neck, but if Bayer's position was perilous, consider the famous Mr. Palmer's problem. He was not only 10 strokes back of Bayer with a 76 Wednesday, but there were almost as many people as Arnie's Arnie crowded in between the leaders and Mr. P.

Palmer, however, is a man of considerable magic. A year ago he had a first-round 71 and scotched to an 80 the next afternoon. Yet he charged back with a 67 and his 285 gave him a tie for second place.

Jack Nicklaus, with 71-77-68-66-292, won the 1966 tourney and Jack is in better shape with his initial 68 this time around.

Bayer shot seven birdies and two bogeys for 34-32-66 and did it with a swollen left little finger, recently injured in an accident, and no tournament action since the Greensboro Open last April. He led off with seven straight fours, followed by five successive threes.

Clark Drives Stocks

Scot Racer 'Confused'

ROCKINGHAM, N. C. (AP) — Put a world champion Formula One race driver in a hot stock car and what do you get?

Scotsman Jimmy Clark found out and was heard to say, "I can't find the bloody brake pedal when I go into the turns."

It didn't seem to bother Clark too much though as he practiced on the one-mile North Carolina Speedway Wednesday for Sunday's American 500, which will be his first race in stock cars. Clock watchers keeping tabs on the Scotman's 15 turns around the high banked oval said Clark was going strong, fast enough to have qualified although he saved that effort for today.

As for the brake pedal he had trouble finding, it happens to be on the left in his favored Grand Prix machines.

Clark is driving a Holman and Moody Ford.

Dragons Prance Past Avondale

Charles Hopper (11:39) and Dave Koebbe finished 1-2 yesterday to lead Lake Orion's 20-37 cross country victory over Avondale.

Gary Walker of Avondale was third. Orion's Dave Stenquist fourth and Avondale's Ken Haney fifth in the meet at Lake Orion. It was the seventh win against five losses for the Dragons.

Fords took six of the eight positions determined in Wednesday qualifying runs with the pole winner, David Pearson, setting a new one-mile record for four laps on a one-mile track. His average speed was 117.120 miles per hour.

The next three positions also went to 1967 Fords. Jack Bowney fifth in the meet at Lake Orion. It was the seventh win against five losses for the Dragons.

MSU-Irish Series Is Recalled

Snider was on the first MAC team that ever licked Rockne. That was 1918 and the Aggies from East Lansing set down Our Lady's lads 13-7.

It was one of those mudbowl affairs.

"I do remember it rained a little that day," grinned Snider. "But I'll never forget how shocked Rockne was after the game."

"I guess he wasn't used to losing. I remember he stayed in the fieldhouse for about an hour and a half after the game. He was arguing . . . ah, well, having a discussion with our coach, George Galthier, and it took George all that time to get Rockne into a cab."

"Rockne just couldn't believe it."

STAR PLAYERS

This Notre Dame team was staffed with people like Hank Anderson at center, Eddie Anderson at right end, Curly Lambeau at fullback and the legendary George Gipp at halfback.

But MAC had whipped them and with only one substitution according to the official score sheet.

What Snider remembers best is the 1919 game when Rockne extracted his revenge in South Bend.

"We didn't think we had much of a chance, but the night before the game, our coach came into the lobby of the Oliver Hotel and said to us, 'Men, I think we've got a chance,'" recalls Snider.

"It seems that Notre Dame had played Army in New York City the previous week and Gipp and Hank Anderson forgot to return to South Bend with the team."

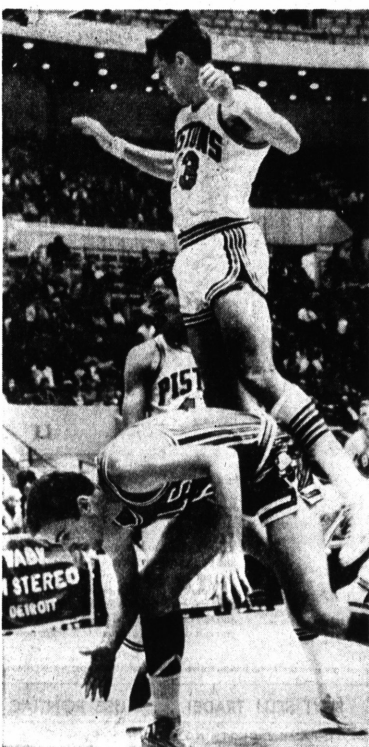

"Our coach told us that Rockne was going to punish them and when we came out for the kickoff, there was Gipp and Anderson in their civilian clothes."

"But it was a tough game right from the start, with men falling all over the field, and by the time the first quarter ended, Gipp and Anderson were in uniform and out on the field."

The score was Notre Dame 23, MAC 0.

"The score was Notre Dame's lean, graying sweetheart," snorted Snider. "I don't care about 1919. What team in eight-man football about 1967? How could they possibly make Notre Dame No. 1?"

And so it goes.

Handicaps No Obstacle to Two Grid Cousins

GROVER, Colo. — There's centerfield on the Pawnee base quite a bit that's unusual about ball team.

Pawnee High School's center-fielder, Ron Bivens, is tying for the first place in the state in the 100-yard dash, and by the time the first quarter ended, Gipp and Anderson were in uniform and out on the field."

The 17-year-old quarterback, Ron Bivens, has only one hand. His cousin, center Al Timm, 15, has only one eye.

Despite these handicaps, both "Harrumph," snorted Snider. "I don't care about 1919. What team in eight-man football about 1967? How could they possibly make Notre Dame No. 1?"

And so it goes.

Pistons Top Chicago '5' With Rally

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Pistons jumped off to a five-point first-quarter deficit Wednesday night and saw the Chicago Bulls double the gap with only six minutes remaining in the game.

Then Dave Bing and his mates got hot and with less than four minutes left fired in 19 points to hand the winless Bulls their sixth straight defeat.

The Pistons won, 107-99. Bing, who got nine of the final 19 for Detroit and paced the club with 31, ignited the drive with a three-point play. Following were two-pointers from rookie center George Patterson, Dave DeBusschere and another by Bing to tie at 98-all.

A free throw by Tom Van Arsdale put the Pistons ahead for the first time since early in the game and two more fast baskets from Bing put Detroit ahead 103-98.

BULLED AHEAD

Led by Bob Boozer, with 26 points, the Bulls went ahead 30-25 after the first period, held a 49-44 edge at the half and went into the final quarter with a 76-70 margin.

The Pistons never got organized until Bing took charge in the closing minutes. Detroit hit only 15 of 47 first-half shots and was out-rebounded 38-31.

Terry Dischinger got 17, and DeBusschere, Van Arsdale and Patterson 12 each.

The Pistons are now 2-2 and in fifth place in the NBA's eastern division, 2½ games off the pace.

Detroit meets Boston at Cobo Arena Friday.

In other NBA games, Hal Greer dropped in 33 points, his third 30-plus night in a row, to lead the Philadelphia 76ers to a 117-114 victory over the New York Knicks.

The Boston Celtics stopped a seven-game 'st. Louis winning streak, beating the Hawks, 118-104. Boston's player-coach Bill Russell grabbed 25 rebounds and was the big factor in the victory.

A 37-point third period from Los Angeles enabled the Lakers to turn back the Cincinnati Royals, 132-116. Elgin Baylor of the Lakers and Oscar Robertson of the Royals shared scoring honors with 33 points each.

The Baltimore Bullets, paced by 27 points each from Ray Scott and rookie Earl Monroe, stopped San Diego, 125-109.

In the only American League game, the New Jersey Americans took their first ABA victory, 118-100 over Minnesota.

Projections Point Up Need for High School, Junior High

By DICK ROBINSON

Projected school enrollments show that Pontiac will definitely need to plan a new senior high and junior high school as soon as possible.

"Conservative" estimates released last night at the Pontiac Board of Education meeting indicate that the city's two senior high schools will be at least 24 classrooms short of handling an estimated enrollment of 4,310 students next fall.

"Based on a 23-pupils-to-1 teacher ratio, projected enrollments for 1968-69 exceed reasonable capacity by 659 students at the two senior high schools," Asst. Supt. Richard C. Fell told the board.

Central High has a "reasonable" capacity of 1,874 students and Northern High, 1,777.

According to this year's figures, both schools are over capacity by a total of 551, an excess of 305 at Central and 246 at Northern.

NEXT 5 YEARS

"Further growth is reflected in the estimated high school enrollments for 1972-73 (4,738 students), which would indicate that the school district would have an excess of 1,087 students in the next five years," Fell revealed.

Four out of the six junior high schools present immediate problems, according to Fell.

Eastern, Kennedy, Lincoln and Madison are now 100 students beyond reasonable capacity and next year are expected to be 122 over the limit.

"Additions at Madison and rehabilitation of unused spaces at Eastern have eased the overcrowdedness for 1968," Fell advised.

"However, junior high pro-

Pontiac School Affairs

jections for 1972-73, (5,664 students), using a 25-to-1 ratio, indicate that the junior highs will be 937 over capacity in five years."

Elementary schools which are expected to be hard pressed next year on a maximum 30-to-1 ratio are Crofoot, Wisner, Twain, Alcott and Wever, figures showed.

"Using this ratio, the school district could house all of the elementary pupils by taking some temporary measures for 1968-69 until the new elementary school is completed at Lincoln," the assistant superintendent concluded.

All average class sizes are currently smaller than the 30-1 maximum, which means the district may have to fall back to larger classes next fall in order to take those "temporary measures."

SIZE REDUCED

In a drive to reduce all classes to a 25-to-1 ratio by 1972, the district reduced its average size kindergarten class from 27.6 pupils last year to 25.7 this year.

Average sizes for first through sixth grades and secondary levels remained about the same as last year at 28.5 and 29, respectively, Fell said.

"Using a 25-to-1 ratio in kindergarten through sixth grade indicates that the school district would need a minimum of three additional elementary schools in the next five years," remarked Fell.

With a predicted total enrollment of 24,976 in five years, figures show the present school facilities would be about 3,800 students beyond capacity. Some 156 additional classrooms would be needed.

LACKING FUNDS

"If the board decided to fully implement what we are presently trying to do but lack funds for — using a 25-to-1 ratio in kindergarten through second grade and 30-to-1 for grades three through six, we would experience a shortage of classrooms (25) next year even after completion of the new elementary school until the first phase of the Human Resources Center was completed," Fell said.

Fell presented these summaries of three plans of elementary and secondary school capacities and estimated enrollments to the board for consideration of classroom needs:

• Using 30-1 ratios for elementary and junior high levels and 29-1 for senior high, total enrollments next year would be 995 under capacity but 24 senior classrooms would be needed.

• Using a 25-1 ratio for all levels, enrollments in five years would exceed capacity by 3,817 or 156 additional classrooms would be needed.

School officials have already given their okay to build one elementary school at Lincoln Junior High and a new senior and junior high school and Human Resources Center to replace elementary schools that are now under consideration.

TWICE AS FAST

Estimated fall enrollments for the next three years show junior high figures will increase twice as fast as elementary and senior high totals.

The present junior high figure of 4,988 will increase 454 pupils by 1970, K through 6 total of 14,191 may increase 290 and senior high figure of 4,143 is expected to rise 213.

Fell cautioned that the projections do not take into consideration the possibility of tremendous growth in Pontiac Township or the construction of multiple dwellings in Pontiac.

A school census shows the number of preschool children up to 4 years of age (9,910) is on a steady decrease in the district while ages 5 through 19 (28,032) is rising steadily.

Fell concluded the district "may experience increases from a total of 23,729 now to 24,886 in 1970) in total enrollment for several years."

Borne Out by Current Figures

Racial Isolation Seen Here

In the eyes of many desegregationists, this is not good.

Recently, State Supt. of Schools Ira Polley said Negroes in such situations as in Pontiac are not getting a "quality education."

Figures released last night by Asst. Supt. William J. Lacy at the board of education meeting showed that:

• Some 4,008 Negro children go to predominantly Negro schools, considered more than 60 per cent Negro. Seven out of Pontiac's 36 schools are predominantly Negro.

• Some 1,923 Negroes, or 30 per cent, go to racially balanced schools, between 25 and 60 per cent Negro. Pontiac has five such schools.

• And 771 or 9 per cent of the Negro enrollments attend predominantly white schools, over 80 per cent white. There are 24 predominantly white schools in Pontiac.

"Racial isolation in the schools persists and presents a serious barrier to quality education," the state superintendent of public instruction has said.

NOT ALONE

Pontiac is not alone in this situation since the state's first public school racial census showed that almost three-fourths of all Negro pupils in Michigan attend predominantly Negro schools.

Statewide, almost 60 per cent of all white pupils attend schools where no Negro pupils are present, the survey showed.

Pontiac figures revealed that about 25 per cent of the district's 17,033 white pupils attend schools—there are eight of them—where no Negro pupils are present.

Students in schools with high percentages of Negroes have less academic ability and lower motivation than students in predominantly white schools, teachers say.

AIM FOR DESEGREGATION Lacy indicated that studies are being made here aimed at the desegregation of the district's schools but that it won't happen overnight.

Local educators would like to see a racial mix of 2 white children to 1 Negro in the city schools, but they do not feel using is advisable to achieve this result.

Analysis of the local report also shows:

• Six or 20 per cent of Pontiac's 28 elementary schools are more than 80 per cent Negro.

• Sixteen or more than half of the elementary schools include fewer than 2 per cent Negro pupils.

• The percentage of non-white schoolchildren has steadily increased from 23.9 (5,272) in 1963 to 28.2 (6,696) this year.

• The percentage of white students has thus decreased from 76.1 (16,769) four years ago to 71.8 (17,033) today.

• Of the district's 23,729 pupils, 16,075 or 67.7 per cent are white, 6,696 or 28.2 per cent are Negro and 958 or 4 per cent are Spanish American.

• Schools with the highest ethnic concentrations are: Irving, 100 per cent white; Whittier, 99 per cent Negro and Bailey, 12.2 per cent Spanish American.

• Negroes are moving to the east and north within the school district, Lacy said.

• Percentage of nonwhite students has gone significantly up from 1963 to the present at the following schools:

Central High—28 to 40 per cent

Eastern Junior High—34 to 57 per cent

Frost Elementary—32 to 51 per cent

Longfellow Elementary—4 to 14 per cent

Herrington Elementary—7 to 21 per cent

Twain Elementary—16 to 45 per cent

Other figures show that individuals enrolled in the school district programs include: elementary, 14,443; junior high, 5,084; senior high, 4,202; high school credit evening program, 2,128; apprenticeship - related training, 101; and basic education for high school diploma, 210; for a total of 26,168.

The district will receive $4.6 million in state aid based on official fourth Friday individual enrollments prorated at $194.17 per pupil.

District Urged to Increase Substitute Teachers' Pay

Substitute teachers' salaries in Pontiac will have to go up if the district is to remain competitive with surrounding school areas, an administrator told the school board last night.

In addition, Lewis A. Crew, instructional personnel director, reported that the district needs double the number of elementary substitutes it has and triple the number at the secondary levels.

Pontiac is lagging as much as $7 a day in pay behind other districts for subs, but Crew did not have any formal proposals for new salaries at this time.

Substitute teachers in the Pontiac School District now receive:

• $18 a day for nondegree teachers who have had three years of college.

• $20 a day for teachers with a college degree but no teaching training via courses.

• $22 a day for those with a degree and teaching certificates.

$25 A DAY

Waterford Township pay $25 a day for all substitutes as does Birmingham. Bloomfield Hills also pays in the same neighborhood.

Present Pontiac substitutes — 75 elementary and 24 secondary—are not enough, Crew said. He said he is investigating using students training to be teachers at Wayne State University.

"People interested in teaching know that they may have to teach at any school in Pontiac, including the economically disadvantaged ones," Crew said, pointing up another local problem.

He tossed out an unofficial proposal for salary increases upon some coaxing which would cost the district an additional $16,000, based on substitute usage last year.

WOULD WAIT

It would bring the degree and certified teachers up to $25 a day and nondegree to $20.

The personnel director, however, said he would wait until a final school budget is set to see how much money would be available for his proposal.

In other business, John Rogers, head of the board's Equality of Educational Opportunity Committee, said its report would be forthcoming sometime early next year with the added help from the University of Michigan Bureau of School Services.

U. S. Jets Hit Power Plant Near the Heart of Hanoi

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Navy bombers raided an electric power plant near the heart of Hanoi today, and two pilots reported shooting down a supersonic MIG just south of the Communist capital.

Fliers from the carrier Oriskany bombed the power plant 1.1 miles north of the center of Hanoi, continuing for a third straight day intensified U.S. raids on bridges, rail yards and MIG air bases around Hanoi and Haiphong.

The U.S. command said results of the latest Hanoi raid were not yet available. But it announced earlier that 10 more MIGs were destroyed or damaged on the ground during strikes yesterday on the Phuc Yen air base 18 miles northwest of the Communist capital.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, in a dispatch from Hanoi said American planes bombed and strafed the center of the city.

The dispatch said five U.S. planes were shot down and several American fliers killed.

The U.S. Command made no announcement of any plane losses today but said three U.S. fighter-bombers were shot down yesterday in the raids on Phuc Yen and on Hanoi's mile-long Paul Doumer Bridge. All three pilots are missing.

The stepped-up air war in the North again overshadowed ground fighting in the South, but South Korean infantrymen and South Vietnamese militiamen reported they had 300 to 350 enemy soldiers trapped in three pockets near the South China Sea Coast 200 miles northeast of Saigon.

Incomplete reports said 33 of the enemy had been killed so far, while Korean and Vietnamese casualties were light.

In the intensified U.S. air drive against North Vietnam, American fighter-bombers flew 125 missions yesterday and attacked the previously hit Hoa Lac airfield in addition to the raids on Phuc Yen and the Doumer Bridge.

Pilots reported damaging one MIG on the ground at Hoa Lac, 20 miles west of Hanoi.

With nine MIGs reported destroyed or damaged on the ground during the first raid on Phuc Yen Tuesday, another shot down in a dogfight that day and another probable kill claimed, a total of 23 Communist jet interceptors have been reported put out of action this week.

Insecticide Kills 7 Children

ARCADIA, Fla. (AP) — The last of an itinerant farm couple's seven children died today in a hospital from poison authorities said was traced to an agricultural insecticide.

Dianne Richardson, 3, died at 5:30 a.m., about 12 hours after her brothers and sisters died one-by-one.

Pathologist Millard White of Sarasota, who performed autopsies on six of the dead children, said, "They definitely died of parathion or malathion poison."

UAW Ratifies New Ford Pact

DETROIT (AP) — Ford workers, after voting overwhelming approval of a new three-year national contract, termed "the largest economic package" in United Auto Workers history, began streaming back to their plants today.

The ratification ends the union's 49-day strike against Ford, pending approval of local at-plant agreements to supplement the national contract.

The results of voting at locals in the 25 states where Ford has facilities was announced last night from UAW international headquarters in Detroit.

In a joint statement, UAW President Walter Reuther and Ken Bannon, head of the union's Ford department, said 90 per cent of Ford production workers and 70 per cent of skilled tradesmen had voted for approval of the contract.

They instructed local unions having unresolved local issues "to devote full time to reaching agreement" and "has pledged its fullest cooperation" in assisting them.

PUTTING SQUEEZE ON
"We're putting the squeeze on for local-level settlements," said one UAW official. "We hope Ford's assembly lines get rolling as soon as possible."

The union struck Ford at midnight Sept. 6 in search of a pattern-setting contract it will now take to General Motors and Chrysler, where UAW members have continued working without a contract.

Reuther said he will be calling on one or the other company shortly, but declined to say which one.

ing." The chemicals are used in the control of insects in agriculture.

Desoto County Sheriff Frank Cline said the parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Richardson, were working at a citrus packing plant when the children — ranging in age from 2 to 8 — were stricken. Four of the children had been at school during the morning, but the younger ones were left unattended when a baby sitter failed to show up, Cline said.

Cline said nothing had been found to indicate how the children received the poison.

METHOD OF INTAKE

"We don't know if they got down and rolled in it or swallowed it. We just don't know what the means of intake was," he said.

Mrs. Richardson had prepared a lunch of beans, rice and grits Tuesday night, Cline said, and left it in the kitchen for the children. He said the lunch had been eaten.

Cline and Asst. State Atty. John Treble III searched the Richardsons' section of the two-story, two-family home last night, and then locked it pending further investigation.

Several kitchen utensils were sent to a Sarasota laboratory for examination, Cline said, but no trace of the insecticides was found. The Richardsons planned to move in with neighbors.

CHILDREN IDENTIFIED

The dead children were identified as Alice, 7; Doreen, 5; Vanessa, 4; Dianne, 3; and James Richardson Jr., 2, and Betty Bryant, 8, and Susie Bryant, 6. Cline said the Bryant children were Mrs. Richardson's by a former marriage.

Pro-Viet Group Boasts Ike, HST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate critics of U.S. policies in Vietnam show no inclination to tangle with a newly formed, blue-ribbon committee supporting those policies.

The organization includes former Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and Harry S. Truman and other prominent names in both parties.

Senators opposing the administration on Vietnam said variously they weren't the type of dissenters the committee was aiming at, that they share its concern for U.S. fighting men in Vietnam or that they did not want to discuss publicly the new organization's goals.

Formation of the Citizens Committee was announced yesterday at a news conference by five-star Gen. Omar N. Bradley and former Democratic Sen. Paul H. Douglas of Illinois.

A policy declaration of the new committee said: "We strongly support our commitment in Vietnam and the policy of noncompromising, although limited, resistance to aggression."

SETS OBJECTIVES

The organization set its objective as making sure "Peking and Hanoi will not mistake the strident voices of some dissenters for American discouragement."

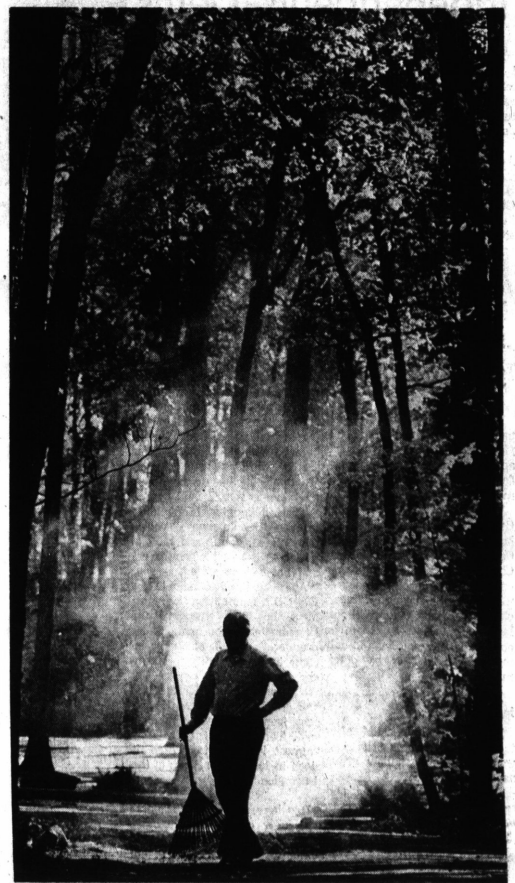

Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., who was a GOP national chairman under Eisenhower and opposes President Johnson's war policies, said the committee was referring to recent antiwar demonstrations marked by violence and he also condemned such activities.

FALL CHORE—It's not such a hard job, raking up the fall leaves. There's the brisk air, the fading but still warm sun and lovely colors everywhere. The raking is easy, with the light crisp leaves collecting in piles even as more fall from above. Then there's the smoke with the smell that tells—like no other message—it's autumn. Taking part in this fall scene is William J. Eggenberger of 5099 Tootmoor, Bloomfield Township.

1st Snow Hits in U.P.

HOUGHTON (UPI) — The first major snowstorm of the fall struck parts of Upper Michigan yesterday, downing power lines and stranding traffic.

The State Highway Commission, in its first road condition report of the season, said five to six inches of heavy, wet snow fell in the Iron Mountain and Crystal Falls area.

More than three inches of snow coated the Keweenaw Peninsula area. Houghton County was particularly hard hit.

The Upper Peninsula Power Co. said "scores" of lines were felled. Some areas were without power up to two hours. The utility sent helicopters out to search for the downed cables.

Traffic was slowed on many roads by the surprise storm.

TV SERVICE CUT

Michigan Bell Telephone Co. said the telephone office in Houghton was operating on batteries, and that radio and television service had been cut off in the area.

Amasa, a tiny community some 45 miles south of Houghton, had been blacked out from long distance telephone communication, the company said.

'Phony as a $3 Bill'

Faith Healer Denounced

By ED BLUNDEN

Tony Agpaon of the Philippines, the alleged faith healer, has been denounced as a "complete fraud" by an Oakland County resident who went to see him for a cure along with 110 persons early this month.

Stanley Babluk of 1385 N. Livernois, Avon Township, said, "He's as phony as a three-dollar bill. The tragic thing is that another group is forming to make the trip. I want to stop them if I can," Babluk said.

Dr. Tony is said to be able to operate on people without using surgical equipment. He supposedly thrusts his hands into human bodies and extracts diseased tissues.

A movie allegedly showing these operations has been shown in Oakland County and the Detroit metropolitan area.

In Bloomfield Hills last Friday about 115 persons saw a film and heard talks by three county residents as to the alleged benefits of going to the Philippines and having the operations.

TWO CLERGYMEN

Giving the presentation were Mrs. Stanton Barr of 3555 Shallow Brook, Bloomfield Hills, and two men who identified themselves as Birmingham clergymen, Rev. Russell Smith of the Unity Center and Dr. Cushing Smith of the Church of Divine Science.

At the meeting it was pointed out that Dr. Tony does not do all the operations. It was said he had nine assistants who did operations. Babluk said there were 27 on his staff, and this number was confirmed by Mrs. Doris Chandonnet of Gibraltar, who also made the trip and labeled Dr. Tony "a fraud."

In relating his experiences, Babluk said he had been in intense pain and disabled due to a spinal disc injury seven years ago. He was working as a broadcast engineer for a Detroit radio station at the time.

Babluk said he had surgery three times in an attempt to fuse the vertebrae. He proved allergic to the necessary anesthetic, however, and couldn't continue with surgery.

LEARNED OF HEALER

He became acquainted with Joe Ruffner of Detroit, a man who was testifying to the healing powers of Dr. Tony and showing movies.

'Suburbia Must Aid Negroes'

White suburbia must lend a helping hand if the problems of the inner city Negro are to be solved.

JOSEPH L. HUDSON JR.

This was the essence of a message delivered last night in Birmingham by Joseph L. Hudson Jr., chairman of the New Detroit Committee.

"The New Detroit Committee, formed after last summer's riots, recognizes that the problems and solutions are metropolitan in scope and not just concerned with inner city areas in Pontiac and Detroit," said Hudson.

About 300 persons filled the Birmingham Community House to listen to the 37-year-old department store executive who at 29 took over as head of the J. L. Hudson Co.

"A big part of solving the problems of the inner city Negro in our society has to come from the suburbs through help and exchange programs from their present organizations and clubs. There is still a latent prejudice and backlash in the white community and this must be overcome," he said.

'UNWARRANTED FEAR'

"The suburbs like Birmingham here have an unwarranted fear that if open housing legislation — which we support — passes statewide or locally that there will be a mass exodus of Negroes to the suburbs. This is definitely unfounded."

He explained that the inner city Negro doesn't want to live in a particular place like Birmingham, but he doesn't want to feel that he is denied living there. In reality most couldn't afford to live in exclusive suburbs anyway.

He outlined the goals of the committee.

• Reorganization of the Detroit police and fire departments with efforts toward recruitment and advancement of more Negroes and developing an image of public service rather than enforcement.

Gov. Romney Says He Can Win Vote of Independents, Dems

STURGIS, S.D. (AP)—Michigan Gov. George Romney portrayed himself Wednesday night as a Republican who can capture the vote of independents and dissatisfied Democrats.

The former president of American Motors Corp. told a gathering of Western South Dakota Republicans that the GOP cannot win the presidency in 1968 "just because the opposition has lost favor with the people. We have to put forth our best candidates."

Romney leaves today for a speaking engagement in Phoenix, Ariz., on an eight-day tour of 10 states.

Romney said a recent Gallup Poll showed only 27 per cent of the voters identified themselves as Republicans and added:

"Even if every Republican supports our candidates in 1968, we can still lose by the biggest margin in history unless we win the support of independent and dissident Democrats."

'COST-PRICE FREEZE'

Turning to agriculture problems, Romney said farmers and ranchers are caught in a "cost-price squeeze" because big business and big labor have more economic and political power.

"The price the rancher gets for his labors is badly out of balance with the wages paid to factory workers who produce the things he has to buy," the Michigan governor said.

"This fundamental imbalance is caused by an over-concentration of economic and political power on the part of employers and unions," he added.

An undeclared candidate for the GOP nomination for president in 1968, Romney said President Johnson made "false promises" of full parity of income and opportunity for farmers and ranchers.

Net farm income for the first half of this year is down 11 per cent from last year, Romney said. The farm parity ratio is "almost identical to where it stood in 1934 at the depth of the depression."

Sentencing in Murder of State Girl Set

ALLEGAN (UPI)—A house painter charged with killing two young Western Michigan girls accepted a plea of guilty yesterday to a charge of first-degree murder in one of the slayings.

Theodore Williams, 27, of the Grand Rapids suburb of Wyoming, appeared before Allegan County Circuit Court Judge Chester A. Ray to formally accept the charge of first-degree murder in the slaying of 7-year-old Sonya Santa Cruz. Williams last week pleaded guilty to an open charge of murder and only the degree had to be determined.

Ray set Nov. 20 for sentencing.

Williams was arrested after the body of the Santa Cruz child was found in a shallow grave near here.

She had been strangled and raped after disappearing as she was going home to get a book she needed for school.

SEPARATE CHARGE

Williams also is charged by Newaygo County authorities in the death of Laura Jo Sutcliffe, 13, of Sparta, who vanished more than 15 months ago.

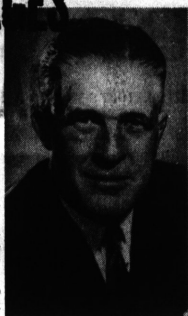

Williams led police to a grave containing the body of the Sutcliffe girl.

Williams was being held in the Allegan County Jail to wait sentencing.

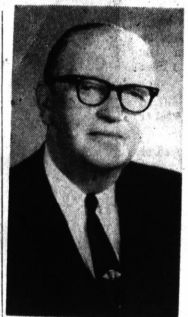

State Socialist Labor Party Files

LANSING (UPI)—The Socialist Labor Party (SLP), a political party dedicated to peaceful take-over of the economy by workers, has filed petitions to qualify for a place on the 1968 Michigan ballot.

Chairman Ralph W. Muncy of Ann Arbor said there were 20,255 signatures on the petitions filed with the state election director, 7,000 more than needed.

GOV. ROMNEY

SEN. LODGE

Lodge Charge Is Answered by Romney

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney yesterday defended himself against charges leveled by State Sen. L. Harvey Lodge of Waterford Township that he ignored problems of crime and riot prevention in setting up the special session of the Legislature.

He termed "unfair, incorrect and false" what he felt were implications by Lodge, R-17th District, that he is not dedicated to upholding law and order in Michigan.

Lodge, in a letter to Romney earlier this month, told the governor he was disappointed that he had failed to include stiff anti-crime bills on the special legislative agenda.

He warned that Romney faced a "complete revolt of the Legislature" unless he asked for anti-crime laws to go with his opening proposal.

Lodge said open housing was "now so feared by the people in rural and suburban areas that their representatives won't vote for it unless Romney assures them people will be safe in the homes and on the streets."

"This administration, by its legislative programs and by its executive actions, has constantly sought to improve law and order in our state and to have our laws applied firmly, effectively, and without fear or favor," Romney wrote.

He said a prime example was the city of Pontiac, in Lodge's district, where the "prompt commitment of our State Police helped quell" a possible riot last July.

Job Center's Problems Cited

High Costs, Waste Are Revealed in Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—A secret government report circulating on Capitol Hill presents a devastating picture of high costs, waste and disciplinary problems at a Job Corps center in California.

It shows that after two years of operation the estimated cost of the center had jumped from $12.8 million to $25.5 million, the dropout rate was 55 per cent and only 8 per cent of the enrollees were placed in jobs related to their training. The report also discloses that within a 60-day period, dismissal was recommended for 93 enrollees on disciplinary grounds ranging from assault, robbery and extortion to use of marijuana and sex perversion.

The report is a preliminary study of the Parks Job Corps Center at Pleasanton, Calif., by the General Accounting Office.

It was released on a "strictly confidential" basis to members of Congress to help them draft antipoverty legislation.

The Senate has already passed a bill extending the anti-poverty program for two years and the House is due to act on a similar measure soon.

NO REPLY

The GAO said it also sent a copy of the report last March to the Office of Economic Opportunity, which directs the anti-poverty program, asking for its comments. It said it received no reply.

The center is operated by Litton Systems, Inc., on a deactivated military base about 40 miles southeast of San Francisco. It has a capacity of 2,200 men.

The GAO review covers the period from the opening of the center in early 1965 through last December. Since then, it notes, there have been some improvements in procedures and other changes are under consideration by the contractor.

Much of the report is devoted to the costs of the program, designed to provide youths between 16 and 21, most of them school dropouts from impoverished backgrounds, with job training and basic education.

The contract was originally negotiated at an estimated cost of $12.8 million and a fixed fee for Litton of $600,000, says the GAO. But by November 1966, the total cost was up to $25.5 million including a fixed fee of $683,079.

Antismoking Clinic Will Begin Nov. 5

A "no charge" clinic to help smokers who want to kick the habit will begin at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 5 in the auditorium at the Oakland County Service Center.

The five-day clinic, sponsored by the Riverside Seventh-day Adventist Church, 156 University, is offered in cooperation with the American Cancer Foundation and the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

This is the second antismoking program held in the Pontiac area in the past two months.

The program, which features group therapy led by a physician counselor team, is being offered again because of the public demand, according to Rev. Elmer Malcolm, church pastor.

Halloween Prizes

'Mystery Treat' Again Offered

"Mystery Treat" will once again be part of Halloween in Pontiac.

Sponsored by the Department of parks and recreation, the Pontiac Board of Education and the Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce, the contest will take place Tuesday night.

Prizes, supplied by the Jaycees, will be given to senior high school, junior high school and grade school students who are at home at designated times to receive phone calls.

It's part of a program to keep active youngsters out of pranks and trouble.

Birmingham Area News

The Suburbs Must Share Slum Woes—Cavanagh

BIRMINGHAM — Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh last night told residents here that they must share in the problems of Detroit's inner city.

"We must all recognize that the slums of Detroit's inner city are equally the slums of Birmingham, Bloomfield and the Gross Pointes, that the slums of Westchester County, N.Y., can be found down in Harlem," Cavanagh said.

Cavanagh spoke to about 200 members of the Birmingham Junior League and their husbands at Birmingham Seaborn High School.

The mayor reiterated his position that both the state and federal government have not done enough to solve the problems of America's cities.

But, he added, "I would be remiss if I did not acknowledge that there has been more aid to American cities, both large and small, under President Johnson's leadership than under any previous administration."

AID FORTHCOMING

"Also, let me say, that as a result of the Detroit riot and riots in other Michigan cities, there is hope, I think, that at long last additional assistance will be forthcoming from the State Legislature."

During a question and answer period, Cavanagh was asked what a proposed open occupancy law would contribute towards solving the problem of Detroit's Negroes.

The mayor said the immediate affect of an open housing law would be "psychological."

Cavanagh said such a law would be "difficult to enforce," but that it would show "commitment to a moral principal."

LESS PRACTICAL

He added, "Open occupancy has greater psychological implications than it may have a practical implication."

'Suburbia Must Aid City Negro'

• Open housing legislation — Recommended statewide and locally with provisions for adequate enforcement and encouraging Negro ownership.

• Employment — Strive toward Negro employment in the smaller industries and entrance into craft unions.

• Education — A community college for the hard core area is being pushed.

RIOTS CAN RECUR

He warned that the riots can happen again since the Negro is not going to relax his demands for attention.

"We must put prejudice aside and listen and involve ourselves with the 'grassroots' Negro and his problems in a white society. We must make him feel a part of our society and instill the desire to improve it."

MAKE OVER PAGES Up Need for High School, Junior High Projections

By DICK ROBINSON
Projected school enrollments show that Pontiac will definitely need to plan a new senior high and junior high school as soon as possible.

"Conservative" estimates released last night at the Pontiac Board of Education meeting indicate that the city's two senior high schools will be at least 24 classrooms short of handling an estimated enrollment of 4,310 students next fall.

"Based on a 23-pupils-to-1-teacher ratio, projected enrollments for 1968-69 exceed reasonable capacity by 659 students at the two senior high schools," Asst. Supt. Richard C. Fell told the board.

Central High has a "reasonable" capacity of 1,874 students and Northern High, 1,777.

According to this year's figures, both schools are over capacity by a total of 551, an excess of 305 at Central and 246 at Northern.

"Further growth is reflected in the estimated high school enrollments for 1972-73 (4,738 students), which would indicate that the school district would have an excess of 1,087 students in the next five years," Fell revealed.

Four out of the six junior high schools present immediate problems, according to Fell.

Eastern, Kennedy, Lincoln and Madison are now 100 students beyond reasonable capacity and next year are expected to be 122 over the limit.

"Additions at Madison and rehabilitation of unused spaces at Eastern have eased the overcrowdedness for 1968," Fell advised.

"However, junior high pro-

Pontiac School Affairs

jections for 1972-73, (5,664 students), using a 25-to-1 ratio, indicate that the junior highs will be 937 over capacity in five years."

Elementary schools which are expected to be hard pressed next year on a maximum 30-to-1 ratio are Crofoot, Winsor, Twain, Alcott and Wever, figures showed.

"Using this ratio, the school district could house all of the elementary pupils by taking some temporary measures for 1968-69 until the new elementary school is completed at Lincoln," the assistant superintendent concluded.

All average class sizes are currently smaller than the 30-1 maximum, which means the district may have to fall back to larger classes next fall in order to take those "temporary measures."

In a drive to reduce all classes to a 25-to-1 ratio by 1972, the district reduced its average size kindergarten class from 27.6 pupils last year to 25.7 this year.

Average sizes for first through sixth grades and secondary levels remained about the same as last year at 28.5 and 29, respectively, Fell said.

"Using a 25-to-1 ratio in kindergarten through sixth grade indicates that the school district would need a minimum of three additional elementary schools in the next five years," remarked Fell.

With a predicted total enrollment of 24,976 in five years, figures show the present school facilities would be about 3,800 students beyond capacity. Some 156 additional classrooms would be needed.

LACKING FUNDS
"If the board decided to fully implement what we are presently trying to do but lack funds for — using a 25-to-1 ratio in kindergarten through second grade and 30-to-1 for grades three through six, we would experience a shortage of classrooms (25) next year even after completion of the new elementary school until the first phase of the Human Resources Center was completed," Fell said.

Fell presented these summaries of three plans of elementary and secondary school capacities and estimated enrollments to the board for consideration of classroom needs:

• Using 30-1 ratios for elementary and junior high levels and 29-1 for senior high, total enrollments next year would be 995 under capacity but 24 senior classrooms would be needed.

• Using a 25-1 ratio for all levels, enrollments in five years would exceed capacity by 3,817 or 156 additional classrooms would be needed.

School officials have already given their okay to build one elementary school at Lincoln Junior High and a new senior and junior high school and Human Resources Center to replace elementary schools that are now under consideration.

Estimated fall enrollments for the next three years show junior high figures will increase twice as fast as elementary and senior high totals.

The present junior high figure of 4,988 will increase 454 pupils by 1970, K through 6 total of 14,191 may increase 290 and senior high figure of 4,143 is expected to rise 213.

Fell cautioned that the projections do not take into consideration the possibility of tremendous growth in Pontiac Township or the construction of multiple dwellings in Pontiac.

A school census shows the number of preschool children up to 4 years of age (9,910) is on a steady decrease in the district while ages 5 through 19 (28,032) is rising steadily.

Fell concluded the district may experience increases to 4 years of age (9,910) now to 23,729 in 1970, 24,686 in 1970 in total enrollment for several years."

Borne Out by Current Figures

Racial Isolation Seen Here

Sixty-one per cent of Pontiac's 6,696 Negro students attend predominantly Negro schools.

In the eyes of many desegregationists, this is not good.

Recently, State Supt. of Schools Ira Polley said Negroes in such situations as in Pontiac are not getting a "quality education."

Figures released last night by Asst. Supt. William J. Lacy at the board of education meeting showed that:

• Some 4,008 Negro children go to predominantly Negro schools, considered more than 60 per cent Negro. Seven out of Pontiac's 36 schools are predominantly Negro.

• Some 1,923 Negroes, or 30 per cent, go to racially balanced schools, between 25 and 60 per cent Negro. Pontiac has five such schools.

• And 771 or 9 per cent of the Negro enrollments attend predominantly white schools, over 80 per cent white. There are 24 predominantly white schools in Pontiac.

"Racial isolation in the schools persists and presents a serious barrier to quality education," the state superintendent of public instruction has said.

NOT ALONE
Pontiac is not alone in this situation since the state's first public school racial census showed that almost three-fourths of all Negro pupils in Michigan attend predominantly Negro schools.

Statewide, almost 60 per cent of all white pupils attend schools where no Negro pupils are present, the survey showed.

Pontiac figures revealed that about 25 per cent of the district's 17,033 white pupils attend schools—there are eight of them—where no Negro pupils are present.

Students in schools with high percentages of Negroes have less academic ability and lower motivation than students in predominantly white schools, teachers say.

AIM FOR DESEGREGATION
Lacy indicated that studies are being made here aimed at desegregation of the district's schools but that it won't happen overnight.

Local educators would like to see a racial mix of 2 white children to 1 Negro in the city schools, but they do not feel busing is advisable to achieve this result.

Analysis of the local report also shows:

• Six or 20 per cent of Pontiac's 28 elementary schools are more than 80 per cent Negro.

• Sixteen or more than half of the elementary schools include fewer than 2 per cent Negro pupils.

• The percentage of non-white schoolchildren has steadily increased from 23.9 (5,272) in 1963 to 28.2 (6,696) this year.

• The percentage of white students has thus decreased from 76.1 (16,789) four years ago to 71.8 (17,033) today.

• Of the district's 23,729 pupils, 16,075 or 67.7 per cent are white, 6,696 or 28.2 per cent are Negro and 958 or 4 per cent are Spanish American.

• Schools with the highest ethnic concentrations are: Irving, 100 per cent white; Whittier, 99 per cent Negro and Bailey, 12.2 per cent Spanish American.

• Negroes are moving to the east and north within the school district, Lacy said.

• Percentage of nonwhite students has gone significantly up from 1963 to the present at the following schools:

Central High—28 to 40 per cent

Eastern Junior High—34 to 57 per cent

Frost Elementary—32 to 51 per cent

Longfellow Elementary—4 to 14 per cent

Herrington Elementary—7 to 21 per cent

Twain Elementary—16 to 45 per cent

Other figures show that individuals enrolled in the school district programs include: elementary, 14,443; junior high, 5,084; senior high, 4,202; high school credit evening program, 2,128; apprenticeship - related training, 101; and basic education for high school diploma, 210; for a total of 26,168.

The district will receive $4.6 million in state aid based on official fourth Friday individual enrollments prorated at $194.17 per pupil.

District Urged to Increase Substitute Teachers' Pay

Substitute teachers' salaries in Pontiac will have to go up if the district is to remain competitive with surrounding school areas, an administrator told the school board last night.

In addition, Lewis A. Crew, instructional personnel director, reported that the district needs double the number of elementary substitutes it has and triple the number at the secondary levels.

Pontiac is lagging as much as $7 a day in pay behind other districts for subs, but Crew did not have any formal proposals for new salaries at this time.

Substitute teachers in the Pontiac School District now receive:

- $18 a day for nondegree teachers who have had three years of college.
- $20 a day for teachers with a college degree but no teaching training via courses.
- $22 a day for those with a degree and teaching certificates.

$25 A DAY
Waterford Township pay $25 a day for all substitutes as does Birmingham. Bloomfield Hills also pays in the same neighborhood.

Present Pontiac substitutes — 75 elementary and 24 secondary—are not enough, Crew said. He said he is investigating using students training to be teachers at Wayne State University.

"People interested in teaching know that they may have to teach at any school in Pontiac, including the economically disadvantaged ones," Crew said, pointing up another local problem.

He tossed out an unofficial proposal for salary increases upon some coaxing, which would cost the district an additional $16,000, based on substitute usage last year.

WOULD WAIT
It would bring the degree and certified teachers up to $25 a day and nondegree to $20.

The personnel director, however, said he would wait until a final school budget is set to see how much money would be available for his proposal.

In other business, John Rogers, head of the board's Equality of Educational Opportunity Committee, said its report would be forthcoming sometime early next year with the added help from the University of Michigan Bureau of School Services.
