New-Car Cost Expected to Be Same in 1964

Chrysler to Hold Line on Price for 5th Year; Others May Follow

From Our News Wires

DETROIT — The cost of new cars probably will remain steady during the 1964 model year.

Chrysler Corp. yesterday announced it would generally hold the price line on its new models for the fifth straight year. Other auto firms were expected to follow the lead of Chrysler, which was the first to announce prices for the second straight year.

Ford, General Motors, American Motors and Studebaker will announce their prices within the next two weeks, probably within hours of introduction at dealers' showrooms.

The last general price increase in the industry came in the 1959 model year when they rose $50-$100 per car.

The first of the auto industry to reveal new model prices, Dodge and Plymouth announced a few increases yesterday which were balanced by about as many similar price cuts.

Plymouth prices were up $2 to $6 for some models, down $2 and $3 in others. Still others were unchanged. Valiant announced a $16 price cut on a station wagon and a $14 increase on the Signet 200 hardtop.

Dodge announced reductions from $6 to $29 on some models, increases of $2 to $16 on others.

HIKE SPECULATED

In recent months there has been speculation there might be an industrywide price hike because of the increase in some steel prices and higher supplier costs.

The industry also has been faced with higher labor costs because of contractual wage increases and cost of living raises.

Despite the increased costs in labor and production, the four major auto producers have been heading toward record profits during the year. By the first half, the big three reported combined profits of more than $1.2 billion.

Chrysler also announced that the firm's five-year 50,000 mile engine and drive train warranty has been strengthened by the inclusion of the water pump and intake manifold.

Mercury to Range Above Normal for Next Few Days

Temperatures for the next five days will average two to four degrees above the normal high of 72 and low of 53.

Cooler weather will begin about Saturday. Precipitation will total one-quarter to one-half inch in showers Friday and again Sunday or Monday.

Fifty-six was the low temperature reading preceding 8 a.m. today in downtown Pontiac. By 2 p.m., the area had warmed to 83.

28 Mexicans Die in Crash

Train Smashes Truck at California Crossing

SALINAS, Calif. (AP) — A speeding freight train shattered a makeshift bus jammed with Mexican field workers yesterday, killing 28 and injuring 35 in the worst vehicle accident in California history.

At least six of the injured were reported in critical condition today. The 28th victim died at Monterey County Hospital.

★ ★ ★

Bodies were strewn for half a mile along both sides of the track after the crash at a farm road crossing near the town of Chualar, eight miles south of Salinas.

★ ★ ★

Twenty-two died by the tracks. Others died as 15 ambulances rushed them to three Salinas Hospitals.

The workers were returning from a celery field to the Earl Meyers, Co. labor camp near Salinas, 100 miles south of San Francisco.

RODE ON BENCHES

They rode on four board benches running lengthwise on the flat-bed truck.

Francisco Gonzales Espinosa, 34, of Salinas, the driver, said he stopped at the crossing and looked to his right.

Highway Patrol Capt. Francis Simmons said Espinosa declared he did not hear or see the train until the front wheels were on the track.

Engineer Robert E. Cripe of San Luis Obispo said he blasted the Southern Pacific locomotive's whistle when he saw the bus stopped at the crossing.

Action on Jaycee Petitions Delayed by Henry Objection

Pontiac Area Junior Chamber of Commerce charter amendment petitions were officially certified by City Clerk Olga Barkeley at last night's City Commission meeting.

Mrs. Barkeley, whose job it is to determine if petitions qualify as valid under state law, was satisfied but Commissioner Milton R. Henry wasn't.

So, over objections from both Mrs. Barkeley and City Attorney William A. Ewart, action on a resolution ordering Ewart to prepare ballots for a special election was deferred one week. Henry had wanted the resolution tabled.

The petitions requested that a special election be held on the Jaycees' proposal to change voting procedures in the April municipal election of city commissioners.

Under the proposed charter amendment, commissioners would still be nominated by district, but voters at the April election would vote for seven candidates (one from each district), instead of one.

Mrs. Barkeley said the petitions had been checked and contained "in excess of the necessary number of valid signatures required for calling an election."

She said that "in compliance with state law, the calling of a special election would be necessary between the dates of Jan. 8 and 18, 1964."

The clerk then read a resolution stating the necessity for a special election under state law and ordering Ewart to prepare the ballot forms.

RESOLUTION OFFERED

The resolution was offered by Commissioner William H. Taylor Jr. and seconded by Charles H. Harmon.

Henry objected and offered a motion to table the resolution so commissioners could check the petitions. Mayor Pro Tem Winford E. Bottom seconded Henry's motion.

Henry questioned the validity of signatures and said he could see "a patent defect" on a petition furnished him "that under the law of the state makes that petition no good."

He wouldn't say what the defect was. Mrs. Barkeley said she had a petition that had been disqualified because it contained signatures affixed to it on a Sunday.

Commissioner Dick M. Kirby asked if any names signed on Sunday were legal.

Mrs. Barkeley said 7,380 valid signatures were necessary to qualify the petitions for certification.

MANY FILED

Jaycees said their count showed 605 petitions containing 11,543 signatures were filed.

"We checked petitions until we had 7,440 valid signatures and then stopped," she explained. "During checking there were 27 petitions set aside because one or more signatures were affixed on a Sunday.

"This was done so there would be no question whatsoever about the valid signatures. The 7,440

U. N. Unit Asks Assembly to Review Buddhist Issue

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The powerful U.N. Steering Committee recommended today that the question of treatment of Buddhists in South Viet Nam be placed before the current session of the General Assembly.

The 21-nation committee took the action after hearing Ceylonese and Indonesian delegates declare that the situation in South Viet Nam has become a matter of international concern.

Before it acted, the committee got bogged down in a procedural argument over whether it should hear the delegate from South Viet Nam, which has only observer status.

Assembly President Carlos Sosa-Rodriguez, after listening various views, decided that the consensus was against granting the floor to the Viet Nam representative.

SOUTH AFFRICA

The committee approved placing South Africa's racial segregation policies on the agenda despite an objection from that country.

Before the assembly is a request from a special committee that the assembly and the Security Council consider without delay expulsion of South Africa from the United Nations because of its refusal to abandon its racial policies.

It also called on U.N. members to carry out penalties against South Africa suggested by the assembly last year. These include an arms embargo, a petroleum embargo and an end to foreign investment in South Africa.

ROBERT A. STIERER

Decree Fails to Ruffle Him

Stierer Shows No Emotion at Ouster

A quiet man sat in the front row at City Hall last night and listened as five men fired him.

★ ★ ★

City Manager Robert A. Stierer accepted his fate without comment or show of emotion.

★ ★ ★

"We probably will appeal the decision in Circuit Court," Stierer said today.

★ ★ ★

He said he would announce definite plans "within two or three days."

"I would like to return as city manager if possible. I have had two job offers in the city but am not, presently, looking for another job as city manager outside Pontiac."

His attorney, Howard I. Bond, said the decision was up to Stierer.

"If we take further action, it would be in the form of a special petition asking the court to rule on several points of procedure," he said last night.

Bond said such points might include "whether the hearing was held in accordance with the city charter, if members of the commission should have been disqualified from voting by absence or because they entered testimony."

Stierer, however, was still able to manage a spark of humor.

★ ★ ★

When asked by a reporter how old he was, Stierer smiled and replied, "Why, do I look older than when this all began?"

State Road Toll 1,214

Move Climaxes Weeks Spent in Testimony

Grand Jury Inquiry Asked in Pontiac on Vice and Elections

By DICK SAUNDERS

The City Commission last night fired City Manager Robert A. Stierer by a vote of 5 to 2.

The move came after four weeks of hearings into charges of incompetence, irresponsibility and insubordination filed against Stierer Aug. 5.

After the meeting, Stierer indicated he may "fight to keep his job" through further court action.

Commissioners William H. Taylor Jr. and Charles H. Harmon voted against firing Stierer. Taylor had been the only commissioner who opposed Stierer's suspension Aug. 5.

Voting in favor of firing Stierer were Mayor Robert A. Landry, Mayor Pro Tem Winford E. Bottom and Commissioners Milton R. Henry, Loy L. Ledford and Dick M. Kirby.

Following the decision, Howard I. Bond, Stierer's attorney, condemned the manner in which hearings were conducted.

"If this hearing is what is meant by 'fair and impartial,' then God help us all," Bond said.

Moments after the final vote, Commissioner Loy L. Ledford called for a grand jury investigation into "campaign expenses of all candidates in the 1962 City Commission election and into vice conditions in Pontiac."

PREPARED

He asked City Attorney William A. Ewart to prepare a resolution for action next week "asking the State Attorney General to request a grand jury investigation" into those areas.

There was no comment, nor objection from the commission table. The resolution was ordered.

Seven reasons for his removal were outlined in the seven-page resolution calling for his dismissal.

The reasons for removal "were developed at the hearing" according to the resolution.

The reasons stated in the resolution were as follows.

1) The Manager dictated mat-

President, Negroes Set for Confab

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — President Kennedy today arranged a meeting in Washington tomorrow with seven Negro leaders to discuss the tense racial situation in Birmingham following the bombing of a church which killed four girls.

The White House announced that the conference, requested by Negro leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. of Atlanta, would be held at 3 p.m. CST (4 p.m. Pontiac time).

Hundreds of saddened Negroes gather this afternoon for the funeral of three of the girls. King was to be the main speaker.

★ ★ ★

Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association of the Advancement of Colored People, was among the Negro leaders planning to attend the mass funeral.

Wilkins told a news conference at National Airport near Washington prior to departing for Birmingham that Kennedy should cut off "every nickel" of federal funds sent to Alabama.

Wilkins said as a first step the President should close Maxwell Air Force Base at Montgomery, Ala.

FIGHT HARDER

Wilkins also urged that the President fight harder for the passage of a strong civil rights bill.

He said solace might be found if the bombing tragedy "shocks" Congress and the administration into acting promptly and courageously in this crisis."

King had asked Kennedy Monday for the conference and also called on the President to send federal troops into Birmingham to put down the violence that broke out following the bombing.

★ ★ ★

There have been hundreds of incidents of rock throwings nightly, several suspected cases of arson in fires at Negro business firms and two Negro youths were shot to death on the streets following the explosion.

★ ★ ★

White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said the President had not received any formal plea by King or his Birmingham associates asking that regular federal troops be sent to Birmingham.

OBJECTION — Harold Brown of 80 Marquette stood up and told five commissioners "you ought to be ashamed" for voting to fire Robert A. Stierer.

ers of policy under the control of the Commission.

2) He induced for political purposes the publication of irresponsible and malicious public statements by the prosecuting attorney that members of the commission would continue to be under investigation for election expenses when no basis for such investigation existed.

3) He was insubordinate. He refused to follow commission recommendations when given by resolution and by direction at informal meetings.

4) He withheld important information on the city's serious financial position.

5) He failed to give direct and forthright answers to questions asked by members of the City Commission on matters of substance pertaining to the reasons for removal.

6) He interpreted the city charter so that he was deciding commission policies.

7) He has exhibited a defiant and noncooperative attitude toward the majority of the commission on commission recommendations contrary to the so called city manager plan of government set forth in the city charter.

The resolution also pointed to portions of the city charter which stated the manager's responsibility to the commission and that the commission could fire him "for any reason . . . at any time."

Bond said the decision "was no surprise."

"You have finally thrown in what I call the kitchen sink (by) including charges here that were not in the original charges filed," Bond said.

"I think Mr. Stierer has vindicated himself . . . in the eyes of everyone but five commissioners.

"This resolution is as asinine as some of the charges filed against Mr. Stierer.

"Never in my 35 years as an attorney, have I seen a more partial or unfair hearing as I have just witnessed in this meeting chamber."

He was applauded by the crowd.

HADN'T READ

Taylor and Harmon said they hadn't seen the resolution yet.

Harmon objected on grounds that it was "unfair to act without first talking to Mr. Stierer."

Landry answered, "There's been enough talking already."

Taylor charged he had been handed the lengthy resolution just before the meeting and didn't have time to read it.

★ ★ ★

"The city attorney, who prepared this, is responsible to the commission, not just a majority of the commission.

"This brings up some brand new charges that are just some ideas picked up (by Ewart) in the hearings."

Only one opinion was voiced by the audience. Harold Brown of 80 Marquette, rose and said: "You five commissioners and Mr. Ewart ought to be ashamed of what you've done here tonight.

"The people of Pontiac will show you how much strength they have when they cast ballots next April."

Brown brought a burst of applause from the capacity crowd.

After the meeting, Ledford said he had evidence of conspiracy to violate election laws on the part of candidates opposing commissioners elected in 1962.

VICE EVIDENCE

He also said he had turned "some vice evidence" over to the FBI. Ledford refused to elaborate but said that "grounds for a jury investigation will be included in next week's resolution."

He added that he wanted the investiagtion "to clear the air."

Investigations centering around campaign expenses of certain commissioners, of whom Ledford was one, were a factor in the charges filed against Stierer.

During the meeting and after the vote on Stierer, Taylor again attacked Ewart, asking where a resolution was "I asked for last week to curb speeding and hot-rodding."

Henry came to Ewart's defense, and he and Taylor engaged in a brief, but heated exchange.

Then Ewart went to his office and got the resolution requesting Pontiac's municipal judges "to continue their good work in administering the city's traffic ordinance."

The resolution urged full cooperation of judges in an effort to stem the problem. No vote was taken, but it was passed for lack of objection.

Henry had argued the commission couldn't tell judges what fines to administer.

signatures were contained in 400 of the 605 petitions."

Mayor Robert A. Landry called for a vote on Henry's motion but Mrs. Barkeley, obviously surprised, interrupted.

"But I have certified the petitions," she said.

Ewart warned that "when a petition comes in, you have no alternative but to act on it under law. Under the right of initiative and referendum the law is very careful that . . . we have no control over what the people put in (the petition) and we must put it up to a vote.

STATE LAW

"That is the law of this state. Even if the state attorney general doesn't approve it by form, it still has to be voted on by the people."

"We have no objection to that," Henry said, adding that the law also stated that petitions would be disqualified if commissioners found signatures to be erroneous.

"Once she (the clerk) checks and certifies the petitions," Ewart argued, "that's an administerial act and . . . it follows automatically that you bring in the ballot."

Henry said, "We don't mean to table this indefinitely . . . just long enough to check the petitions. We don't say we won't set an election date. We have 90 days to do so."

Harmoin said, "If we can't take the clerk's word, how can we tell if they're legal or not? I'm certainly not going down to her office to check them."

Taylor suggested Mrs. Barkeley bring the petitions up to the commission table so Henry could check them before the meeting was adjourned. Henry said he'd like more time.

DEFER ACTION

Harmon said it would be better to defer action, not table the issue. Henry agreed to deferring it one week.

No vote was taken. Landry asked for any further objections. There were none.

When they filed, Jaycees said they had received petitions containing some 11,743 signatures in all, but had disqualified about 200 signatures before filing on the basis of checks they themselves ran as signed petitions were returned.

U.S. Heiress Sues Husband for Divorce

ZURICH, Switzerland (UPI)—Romanian playboy Andrei Porumbeanu flew here from New York today to try to persuade his American heiress wife, the former Gamble Benedict, to drop her suit for divorce on the grounds of marital misconduct.

The announcement of the divorce action by Mrs. Porumbeanu's attorney here yesterday apparently came as a surprise to the one-time hairdresser, chauffeur and butler.

The runaway romance of the debutante heiress to typewriter millions and the then-married Porumbeanu captured headlines on two continents for months.

But the fairy-tale story of the American princess and the handsome pauper came to an unhappy ending with Curtin's announcement that Mrs. Porumbeanu had "filed a claim for divorce against her husband based on the ground of misconduct . . . and has revoked all powers of attorney to her husband."

Vet's Hospital Bed Bill Voted Okay by House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has passed and sent to the Senate a bill to provide 2,000 additional government nursing home beds for disabled veterans.

The measure, approved on a changes laws dealing with the voice vote yesterday, also changes laws dealing with the care of veterans. Among these would be an increase in aid to state veteran homes and provisions for limited care in a private nursing home for certain patients of the Veterans Administration.

At Waterford Meeting

Noncity Areas to Be Eyed

Four areas within the boundaries of Waterford Township but excluded in the proposed incorporation of the township as a city will be outlined in a panel discussion at 8 p.m. today at the Community Activities Inc., building.

★ ★ ★

EXCLUDED AREAS

The four excluded areas, all on the eastern boundary of the township, include Lake Angelus Village; the county service center near the state police post, Pioneer Highlands, just north of the City of Sylvan Lake; and the City of Sylvan Lake.

Also slated for panel discussion is a small parcel of land near Dodge Park No. 4 deeded over to the township by West Bloomfield Township.

Panelists, all members of a group that prepared an incorporation study last year, also will answer any questions on incorporation at the meeting.

In addition to voting on the question of cityhood, township residents also will elect nine charter commission members in the special election.

If the incorporation proposal passes, the commission will begin drafting a charter. If it fails, the charter commission will be voided.

Birmingham Area News

School Superintendent Concerned With Quality

BIRMINGHAM — New Superintendent of Schools Dr. John B. Smith, a New Englander with a broad background in education, said he moved to the Midwest for "growing room."

Birmingham appears to be a community that will stay with traditional concepts which have proven themselves and yet be willing to take a good, hard look at itself and make changes if necessary for progress, Smith said.

At an introductory news conference yesterday, Smith commented on suburban school systems in general. He compared Birmingham to Greenwich, the Connecticut community he left last week to come here.

"They are concerned with quality education and see the importance of good schools," he noted.

Another feature is that suburbanites emphasize preparation for college.

"The parents are college-educated or in jobs where they can see the value of college," Smith said.

ONLY THING

"After all, about the only thing you really give to your children is education," he continued. "I feel it is the greatest thing to give to a youngster."

However, he noted that college preparation could be stressed to the detriment of students preparing for other vocations.

"What America needs is excellence in everything. Industrial arts, home economics and commercial aspects are important," Smith said.

The new superintendent said that after his first contact with the Birmingham Board of Education he was very impressed with its apparent desire to have the very best schools possible within the resources of the community.

He also commented on the board's communication with residents of the district making it possible for the people to visualize a continuing program.

Regarding his own work, Smith said he is an educator first and then an administrator.

He stressed the importance of developing each individual to the best of his ability.

The superintendent, a pioneer in several educational innovations, said he has no pet proposal to try out in Birmingham schools.

However, he added: "I'm convinced that no matter how good they are they probably can be better."

Clyde C. Bennett Jr., 1274 Westwood, was named yesterday to the new State Council for the Arts.

The 16-member council, created to encourage the advancement of fine arts among Michigan citizens, replaces the former Michigan Cultural Commission.

Bennett is a Young and Rubicam account executive.

22 File for Posts in Waterford

A total of 22 persons, including five of the seven Waterford Township Board members, filed petitions for charter commissioner in Waterford Township.

Election of a nine-member charter commission and the question of incorporating the township as a city both will be decided at the polls in a special election Nov. 5.

Seeterlin, Mrs. Olson and Fangboner are the township's supervisor, treasurer and clerk respectively. Anderson and Coleman are trustees on the township board.

Daly and McGrath are the township's two justices of the peace.

If voters approve cityhood, the charter commission would begin drafting a city charter. The commission would be voided if the incorporation question is defeated.

Tiny Railroad Is in Texas

Quint Mom Due Home

ABERDEEN, S.D. (AP) — Mrs. Andrew Fischer, red-haired mother of quintuplets, looked forward today to returning home from the hospital as her tiny infants steadily gained in strength.

★ ★ ★

The four girls and a boy, born two months prematurely last Saturday, were at last report continuing active and healthy with the outlook good that all five would survive. The infants were expected to remain in the hospital for at least two months.

The infants are being handled as little as possible in order to conserve their strength. They are being fed about a teaspoonful of artificial milk formula and water every two hours.

"I told them upstairs that I would rather go into the delivery room than come down here," the 30-year-old mother told a battery of newsmen and photographers Tuesday night at her first news conference since the quints were born.

Mrs. Fischer said she has not been told when she may leave St. Luke's Hospital, but Berbos indicated it would be late this week.

Visibly nervous and speaking barely above a whisper, Mrs. Fischer said she was concerned about her other five children at home—also four girls and a boy—as she was about her famous new brood.

"It's like a dream," she said when asked how she felt about becoming world famous overnight. "But I am very happy."

Adoptable Babies Often Illegitimate

(Editor's Note—This is the last in a three-part series on adoption procedures in Michigan. The series deals with the current picture in numbers, procedure by parents, and sources of children.

By LOIS BLACKBURN

LANCING (UPI)—Most of the children available for adoption in Michigan are infants derived from referral of unwed mothers to the various social agencies.

Elmer Arnesen, executive secretary of the Lansing area Children's Aid Society, said referrals of unwed mothers come primarily from doctors, lawyers, hospitals, courts or clergymen.

Statistics indicate there are 7,000 illegitimate births recorded in Michigan annually, and an untold number of babies are born in facilities other than hospitals which are not recorded.

The Children's Aid Society, just one of several agencies in the state, conferred with some 1,200 unwed mothers last year about the possibility of placing their children for adoption.

KEEP BABIES

Arnesen said there is approximately a 50 per cent rate of attrition in final arrangements as compared to initial contacts by Children's Aid. The 50 per cent of women never heard from again apparently make a decision to keep their babies, or make other arrangements for their care.

The other half go through a series of steps with Children's Aid or other agencies. The basis of this action is the signing of a legal release of the child. The mother relinquishes all rights to her child, either at birth if the paper is signed before this, or effective when the release is signed.

The child is then placed in a foster home designated by the agency. A pediatrician examines the child thoroughly as frequently as necessary until its health is good enough for placement in an adoptive home.

Most of the illegitimate children available for adoption are infants, for whom the release is signed before birth, Arnesen said. Less than 100 of the 541 children placed by the agency last year were over a year old.

Ages of the women seeking assistance from Children's Aid Society fall in a small group primarily. Arnesen said statewide in recent years, the agency has dealt with as many women under 20 years old as over this age. Many are girls in their teens.

The rest of the children available for adoption come from two other sources: Married couples and court referrals.

Most of the children of married couples are "released" before birth, but court referrals involve children primarily in the six week to three month age group. These are the result of neglect and dependency cases for the most part, Arnesen said.

Children's Aid Society was responsible for the care of an estimated 1,800 children in foster homes last year, the Lansing spokesman said. Each of these is checked monthly by an agency representative to assure proper health and general care.

NEVER MEET

Adoption procedures involve confidences closely parallel to that of a doctor-patient, lawyer-client relationship, Arnesen said. The natural mother or parents of a child placed for adoption never meet the adoptive parents.

"Good adoption practice prohibits this," said Arnesen. "The natural parents of the child entrust the agency to find a good home for it."

Each adoption costs between $500 and $700 to the community, Arnesen said, and most of this is paid with Community Chest funds.

★ ★ ★

There is no charge to a family placing a child for adoption, but adoptive parents are asked to pay a portion of the cost. This portion ranges usually from $250 to $300, based on the parents' ability to pay, Arnesen said.

TRIPLED SERVICE

"It is our feeling that those who benefit should pay," he said. "This practice has enabled us to triple our service since 1957, when the payment idea was instituted."

Contrary to general ideas, Arnesen said, hospital costs of an illegitimate child "released" for adoption are not paid by the agency.

"We give counsel and help plan for the child and limited amounts of money are available to the mother in an emergency. Usually, however, we attempt to get the women in contact with other social service agencies which can help financially if necessary."

Canvassers Increased to 4

The number of Oakland County election canvassers was increased to four Monday with the appointment of Mrs. Verne C. Siegfried of Royal Oak by the County Board of Supervisors.

Her appointment balances the number of Democrats and Republicans on the bipartisan board of canvassers.

The supervisors also reappointed canvassers Carlos Richardson, Democrat, Hope Gorman and Sally Dixon, Republicans.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Siegfried of 301 N. Stephenson Highway is an active member of the Democratic party in the county. Her term on the board of canvassers is for two years.

'Good Teacher' Panel Topic

AREA NEWS

"Helping to Get and Keep Good Teachers" is the subject to be discussed by a panel of experts when PTA members from the Avondale, Clawson, Lake Orion, Troy and Oxford school districts meet for dinner Sept. 25 in Lake Orion.

The 6:30 p.m. meal will be followed at 7:30 by the program. Both will be held at Lake Orion Community High School.

The program's subject coincides with the statewide project of the Michigan Congress of Parents in cooperation with the Michigan Education Association — "Recruiting Teachers."

* * *

Dr. Gordon Fielder, associate professor of education at Eastern Michigan University, will moderate the panel and present the project.

Others on the panel will be the superintendents of the five participating school districts. They are: George Shackleford, Avondale; Eugene Spencer, Clawson; A. A. Reed, Lake Orion; Dr. Rex Smith, Troy; and Roger Oberg, Oxford.

PARTICULAR PROBLEMS

Panel members will discuss particular problems of their respective districts, and how they feel the PTA can help solve them.

The program is open to the public.

The regular workshops for PTA officers and committee chairmen will follow the panel discussion and question-answer period.

Following is a list of the workshops and their respective leaders:

● Presidents and vice presidents — Mrs. Leonard Fry, director of District No. 7, Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers (MCPT).

● Council delegates — Mrs. William U. Porter, director of district services, (MCPT).

● Program chairmen — Mrs. Richard Morgan, past president of the Oakland County PTA Council.

LOG-SAWIN' TIME! — With only a few days to go before the annual St. Andrew Pit Barbecue Beef Dinner in Rochester, preparations are already under way. Here, Joseph Kowaleski, pit technician, holds a log for his helper Jim Ferguson, while Father Edward Baumgartner (left) and Father Thomas Sauter watch. Fifteen cords of wood are needed to barbecue the 2,300 pounds of beef.

Schools Slate Health Check

Children in Avondale Tested by Technician

A two-way health testing program is in progress this week for students in the Avondale School District.

Until next Wednesday, Mrs. Martha Mann, technician from the Oakland County Health Department, will be giving vision tests to pupils at the junior high.

All students in grades one, three, five, seven, nine and eleven are scheduled for the testing. Students from the other grades may be checked if referred to Mrs. Mann by their teacher.

Vision testing will be conducted at other Avondale schools through Oct. 18. Pupils at the Sacred Heart School will be tested from Oct. 18 through Oct. 21.

Beginning Sept. 30, all students in grades one, five and nine will have the opportunity to receive a tuberculin skin test.

Prior to testing, parental permission requests will be sent home with the students.

St. Andrew Prepares Pit Barbecue Dinner

ROCHESTER — It takes a lot of people to eat 2,300 pounds of beef, 450 pies, 30 bushels of vegetables and more, all served at one meal.

But those working on this year's St. Andrew Church Pit Barbecue Beef Dinner are hoping for a lot of people to flock to Rochester Sunday for the event—even more than the 2,400 who attended last year.

Although serving begins at 11:30 a. m., the select prime beef rounds will be placed in two ovens 30 feet long, three feet wide and four feet deep late Saturday night.

* * *

Fifteen cords of specially seasoned hickory, burning in the earthen oven, provide heat for the meat. The hickory will flame until two feet of red-hot embers remain at the pit bottom.

SAND SPRINKLED

Sand will be sprinkled over the coals and the encased beef will be lowered. Steel sheets will then form a top for the oven, which is sealed by covering it with earth.

Robert Dean, professor of animal husbandry at Michigan State University, will again supervise the meat preparation.

* * *

When the beef is offered Sunday, it will be complemented with vast amounts of other foods, including 21 gallons of olives, 96 gallons of sweet peas and hundreds of potatoes.

* * *

Two halls will be in operation serving the meals. St. Andrew Hall on Walnut will offer seated dining, and the Elks Temple across the road is available for those desiring carry-out service.

Proceeds from the dinner will be used to help furnish the newly erected St. Andrew convent, adjacent to the school and to the site of the barbecue, on Inglewood.

* * *

Many are expected to observe the pit preparation Saturday afternoon and evening.

* * *

Chairman of this year's barbecue is Dick Brandt, who will be assisted by cochairman Alvin Rossman and Norbert Brinkman.

WED 50 YEARS — Mr. and Mrs. Richard Roggow Sr. of 303 Woodward, Rochester, will observe their golden wedding anniversary Saturday with an open house from 2 to 5 p.m. at Avon Park Pavilion. Hosts and hostesses for the occasion will be their three sons and their wives, the Elmer Roggows of Pontiac and the Richard and Norman Roggows of Rochester. The senior Roggows also have three grandchildren.

Rochester School District to Have White Warehouse

ROCHESTER — The school district here is going to have one of the most attractive, well-landscaped white frame warehouses in the area.

* * *

At its regular meeting Monday the school board agreed to use the former administration building, on the lawn of the new high school, as a storage facility.

* * *

Stoney Creek Elementary School, where school supplies were formerly housed, is now being used for morning and afternoon kindergarten classes.

The school superintendent's office and other administrative offices which were in the converted residence are now in the more roomy Harrison School on West University.

* * *

After discussion of the board's policy on bid acceptance, it was decided to continue the practice of opening bids to all and accepting the lowest.

The board had considered accepting local bids even if they were not low, but decided against the policy change.

* * *

In other action the board agreed to borrow $220,000 in anticipation of state aid from Rochester branch of the National Bank of Detroit. The rate of interest will be 1.92 per cent.

* * *

At the request of member John Patterson, the board decided upon a communications policy.

* * *

Patterson wanted assurance that all board members would relate to the board as a whole any communications they received from citizens. The board agreed to comply with his request.

Southfield Man Sues Officials

A citizen's suit has been filed in Oakland County Circuit Court charging seven officials and one former official of Southfield with illegally spending $3,400 for travel expenses to conventions and for private luncheon meetings.

James E. Wells, a Detroit businessman who lives in Southfield, demanded a court order for repayment of the money. He was an unsuccessful candidate for City Council last April.

Named as defendants were Councilmen C. Hugh Dohany, Clarence A. Durbin, O. David Edwards, Alexander Perinoff, Thomas C. Rowley, Philip B. Peterson; City Administrator Donald V. Smith and former Councilman John J. Hollywood.

Earlier this year Wells unsuccessfully sought a grand jury investigation of city government.

Study the Teacher, Too

By The READING LABORATORY Written for Newspaper Enterprise Association

So far, we've been discussing the ways in which you should accommodate yourself to your courses — how to develop a constructive attitude toward school and how to pinpoint the purposes behind each course.

But for every course you take, you also take a teacher, and until teaching machines take over the classroom, it's important to study your teacher.

The old cliche says, "If you can't fight 'em, join 'em," and since there's no point in working at cross-purposes with your teacher (he marks you), learn how to work with him.

Working with a teacher is not the same as apple-polishing. You have to work with people all your life; start making a science of it.

★ ★ ★

Here are the major things to look for when studying a teacher.

● What part of the course does he like best? What part does he like least? Watch out for small points that your teacher spends a lot of time on — he likes those points. They may be on a test.

UNIMPORTANT

If you catch your teacher supplying a lot of seemingly unimportant background material make sure you learn that "seemingly unimportant" material.

If you can give it back on a test, your mark may soar.

● Does he like argument in the classroom? (Not fights, of course, but intelligent discussion of both sides of a problem).

Some teachers don't — usually because they're pressed for time. But try yours out. Bring up a question that contradicts one of his own statements.

If he likes it, do it again. If he doesn't, it may be best to keep quiet when you disagree. There's no point in irritating him.

● Does he mark for class participation, or does he just count tests?

This will usually depend on the size of his class; the best way to find out is to ask your teacher.

If he marks for class participation, whenever you feel you have something to say, say it!

POP QUIZZES

● Does he like to give pop quizzes? If he does you'll have to prepare for class every day. Whenever possible, check for this with older students who have already had your teacher.

● What kind of tests does he give? Essay questions? True-False? Multiple choice?

What kind of answers does he like? Good understanding of main idea? Tiny details? You'll have to adjust your studying to his tests; it can save you a lot of unnecessary work. You can check this out with older students.

● See if he has "good days" and "bad days." Don't go out of your way to give your teacher a hard time on his bad days.

★ ★ ★

● Make a private appointment with your teacher. It can be helpful to both of you. He'll be glad to see you, but be sure you have something specific that you want to talk over; he may not have time for just small talk.

(Next: How to disagree with your teacher and still get good marks.)

U.S. Fears Spacecraft Has Sunk

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The first American space payload with wings rocketed down the Atlantic missile range today, but after several hours recovery vessels failed to find it and officials feared it may have sunk.

★ ★ ★

The shot was the first in Project Asset, which is testing techniques for developing manned spacecraft with wings.

The sleek, stub-winged craft rode a Thor rocket more than 35 miles high and then streaked back through the atmosphere to a splashdown in the Atlantic about 1,000 miles southeast of Cape Canaveral. Tracking devices followed the vehicle throughout the 20-minute flight.

HITS PLANNED ZONE

The Air Force reported the craft hit in the planned landing zone.

Several hours after the 5:40 a.m. launching, the payload had not been sighted. Recovery was important so that officials could determine how well the vehicle survived the jarring journey.

★ ★ ★

An early indication of possible trouble came when search vessles failed to receive signals from a radio beacon on the payload. The beacon was to have activated on landing to aid recovery forces.

There was no report whether a parachute landing system worked.

March OK'd in New Orleans

6 Negro Groups Get 'Conditional' Permit

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Six Negro groups, planning a march on City Hall to demand "total desegregation in New Orleans," today had Mayor Victor Schiro's conditional approval for an orderly parade but not for a "racial demonstration."

Schiro announced yesterday the civil rights group would get the parade permit they sought to stage the Sept. 30 march on condition they complied with city ordinances regulating parades.

"A parade is something under control," Schiro explained. "A demonstration often becomes unruly" He urged New Orleanians to shun demonstrations.

Negro leaders said at a rally Monday night they would march "permit or no permit." They have accused Schiro of falling short of keeping desegregation promises he made them.

"We're going to march to, around and in City Hall," the Rev. Avery Alexander, president of one of the six organizations, told the rally. "We want thousands of Negroes to participate."

Meanwhile in Thibodaux, La., about 50 miles southwest of New Orleans, Francis J. Nicolls State College had Negroes attending classes today for the first time in its history.

The world's main tobacco-producing countries are the United States, Red China, India, and the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

REDONDO BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — City Councilman David K. Hayward was in with a request today for an ordinance requiring cats to wear bells as a warning to birds in the area.

Chevrolet already builds four lines of cars - now why is it building a fifth?

The reason—and we never had a better one—is you. Or people very much like you.

Each year, in case you haven't noticed, you've been growing a bit harder to please. A bit more demanding and selective in your tastes.

And that's fine by us. If we didn't believe in change for the better—if we weren't a bit restless and hard to please ourselves—we wouldn't be in the business of making cars.

So for '64 we're building the Chevelle—a totally new line of cars that offers a combination of advantages nobody else has got around to coming up with yet. Chevelle's comfort and conveniences, for example, are in the same league with many of today's bigger cars. Yet it has the handling ease and agility you'd expect only in a smaller car. And that's only part of the story.

To get the full picture you'll have to see and drive this one yourself. Clean, brash lines backed up by the kind of engineering—a choice of 14 power teams, no less—that allows for plenty of brashness in the way it behaves.

Chevelle may be your kind of car—and then again it may not. (Which is the reason we're building our other four for '64: the new Jet-smooth luxury Chevrolet; the thrifty new Chevy II with a choice of new V8 power; the sporty new Corvair with a more powerful rear engine; and the refined new Corvette, America's only pure-bred sports car.)

But whether you decide the Chevelle is for you or not, we think you'll agree it's for people very much like you—people who take choosing a car personally and are rather proud of being hard to please.

Your Chevrolet dealer—with five kinds of '64 cars to choose from—is expecting to meet a lot of people like you come announcement day. Chevrolet Division of General Motors, Detroit, Mich.

It's Constitution Week — Meditate Blessings

The one hundred and seventy-sixth anniversary of the signing of the Constitution should give pause to all Americans for a few minutes' meditation.

★ ★ ★

In this day of widespread despotic government and hunger and semi-slavery for billions of the world's inhabitants, we as a nation and a people might well meditate on the heritage of manifold blessings born of the inspired document.

Several years ago, Congress authorized annual proclamation of this week as Constitution Week.

Particularly timely is the keynote of the significant commemoration: "To strengthen a nation dedicated to liberty and justice — a nation in which its citizens may live an abundant life, developing to the fullest their individual opportunities for success and rendering a corresponding service to their country."

★ ★ ★

Recognized and honored at this time are the young Americans who have become of age and the aliens admitted to citizenship.

The Press salutes our new citizens on their attainment of full status and commends their patriotic countrymen who have worked in consecration of our constitutional birthright.

Will New Razor Blade Shave Production?

With two leading razor blade manufacturers hitting the market with long-playing blades, interesting conjecture is not amiss.

Will blades in time become so enduring that a household will possess but one only lifetime blade, to be handed down from one generation to the next—much as were the old-fashioned straight-edge razors of grandpop's day?

Will this single blade stand up under the misuse suffered when the distaff member of the establishment appropriates it to shave her shins?

What will be the effect on the razor-blade-disposal industry when there are no longer blades to be disposed of?

★ ★ ★

But since those directly involved seem to be giving little or no thought to what to us are pretty serious social and economic uncertainties, we see no reason to get ourselves all in a lather.

Time U.S. Examines Southeast Asian Policy

Our adventures in big brotherhood in Southeast Asia demonstrated that another nation's culture cannot be judged in terms of our own.

★ ★ ★

Maybe that's what we are trying to do in South Viet Nam. Maybe our experience there—with our $1.5 million a day in aid—indicates that we ought to get out.

The government of South Viet Nam is not a democracy. It is a patriarchy — or still better, a proprietorship. The owners are President Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother and sister-in-law, the Ngo Dinh Nhus.

This family is causing great anguish to our Administration's diplomatic department.

★ ★ ★

It has been asserted, for instance, that the Ngo threesome has been persecuting the Buddhist monks because the family was Roman Catholic. This is an oversimplification, and speculation. The main reason why the family is hostile to the monks is probably because they represent opposition to the will of the Ngos.

★ ★ ★

But even if we come to conclusions such as these — or to conclusions similar to our government's, or to our news reporters in South Viet Nam — we are speculating.

We can't hope to look at the situation as a Buddhist, as a South Vietnamese or as a Southeast Asian.

There is one thing we can do. We can—as a nation—realize that we lost Laos. We can realize that we are pouring billions into areas that Red China could take when she is ready —and wants them.

Why are we in South Viet Nam? Are we doing any good? And if we are, what is the cost? And if the cost is great, but the end seems Communistic anyway, why do we stay?

This is the time for a cold, calculating and down-to-earth review and examination of our entire Southeast Asian policy.

KICK-OFF

Deadline Is Near for Grid Contest

Only Two Days Left to Be in the Running

A newspaper axiom is that there is nothing deader than news once printed.

And just as dead is a contest entry NOT sent in.

Which is to remind you that time is running out for the 1963 annual Press Football Contest.

Remindful of forthcoming snow (br-r-r), entries have been drifting in and piling high.

★ ★ ★

But in case yours isn't among them, there's time to invoke the gridiron muse for the answers that could make you sole owner and proprietor of a $500 U.S. Savings Bond.

The rules are so simple they'd make a Washington bureaucrat commit hari-kari. Here they are:

1. Check your choice of winner for each of the 15 games indicated. If you see a tie, don't check either team.
2. You may send in entries on the family plan—one entry for each member.
3. Press employes and immediate family members are ineligible.
4. Entries submitted on form or duplication may be pasted on cards or enclosed in envelopes and mailed or deposited in The Press' Huron Street drop box—or delivered by pony express. Directed to the newspaper's FOOTBALL CONTEST, entries must be received (not just postmarked) by Friday noon, Sept. 20.
5. Decisions of the contest judges will be final on all questions concerning the contest.

If We Didn't See It With Our Own Eyes . . .

David Lawrence Says:

Tax Plan Can Bankrupt U. S.

WASHINGTON — If any large corporation announced that it was going to borrow several billion dollars to give its customers a big reduction in prices, though the business itself had been running in the red for several years, most people would consider such a financial operation a certain forerunner of bankruptcy.

LAWRENCE

But the United States government is about to borrow $11 billion to give the people a tax reduction at a time when the Treasury is running deeply in the red and there's no prospect of deficits being removed for several years.

A bill providing such a tax reduction over the next two years has just been reported to the House of Representatives by the Democratic majority of the Ways and Means Committee

The Republican minority on the committee, however, has issued a lengthy statement contending that prosperity cannot be bought by borrowed money

President Kennedy made arrangements to present over national television and radio facilities this week his argument for the passage of the tax bill. The minority, on the other hand, have no such opportunity to give their viewpoint to the same audiences.

★ ★ ★

The argument on the Democratic side is that the reduction in taxes will stimulate business. The Republicans' answer is that this cannot be done if the deficits continue indefinitely and if the dollar is reduced in purchasing power by inflation.

Several fiscal experts, including a former chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers and a former director of the budget, have testified that inflation is a certainty if the deficits keep up.

MINORITY REPORT

The House Ways and Means Committee minority report says: "As of June 30, 1963, the Kennedy administration had already added $19.8 billion to the public debt, and now proposes a program of tax reduction coupled with increased expenditures which will add at least another $50 billion to the debt, and with no plans of reducing or paying off these additions to the debt at any time.

"Not only is this morally wrong, most of our states have laws making it a crime for an individual to incur bills which he does not intend to pay. It is a fraud.

"By continuing to spend and borrow, and through tax reduction to avoid our responsibility to pay our bills, we will pass on to our children an unbearable burden of public debt.

"Repudiation may be the only course open to them. The ever-increasing public debt places in jeopardy the savings of the American people, their life insurance, and their expectations for pensions and old-age security. That is also why this tax-cut program is morally wrong."

The minority report says, moreover, that, regardless of whether $50 billion, $75 billion, $100 billion or $150 billion is the deficit incurred, it is "indisputable that the bill increases the need for additional deficit financing at the very time when the financing of existing deficits presents a major problem."

The minority report of the House committee asserts that the tax burden is excessive and that steeply progressive rates should be reduced, but argues that "tax reduction should be accompanied by a reduction, and not an increase, in the level of government expenditures."

The report adds: "In contrast with the fiscal policy of the Republican's tax reduction programs, the Kennedy administration proposes tax reduction of $11 billion in the face of a $9-billion deficit, and planned increases in expenditures of at least $3 billion, and more likely $5 billion per year thereafter."

Bob Considine Says:

'Flying Down to Rio' Quite a Chore in 1930s

NEW YORK — My friend Dick Joseph, the only travel writer I know who is entitled — yea, urged — to put "Esquire" after his name, reminded me today that the 30th anniversary of the Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers "Flying Down to Rio" movie is coming up any minute.

CONSIDINE

It all may look a bit passe on the late, late show. But, listen kids, that was a movie that really snook us in the mauve decade of the talkies, dancies and long-range flight.

★ ★ ★

Some of the great tunes from it are still around today, minced and diced and clobbered into the music by which the younger generation dances — if that's what they're doing. But the flying boat is in museumville.

The vehicle, or prop, was one of the more thrilling aspects of the picture. It was a fine crate for that era, but one into which both Fred and Ginger would hesitate to step today.

Pan-Am was understandably proud of it. After all, this Consolidated Commodore Clipper had two Wright Whirlwind engines, carried 20 passengers as well as a captain, first officer, radio officer (!), and steward, and offered to carry a passenger's baggage for free if he went the distance, provided it weighed no more than 55 pounds.

★ ★ ★

The Commodore tooled along at 100 m.p.h., and the price of a ticket from Miami to Rio was a mere $417, or $834 roundtrip, minus 10 per cent.

NO NIGHT FLYING

It took a week. There was no night flying. If Fred and Ginger were flying it today they'd fly at less cost in a 120-passenger jet, pressurized, and at about 600 m.p.h., 10½ hours, nonstop.

When a person flew to Rio 30 years ago, he started at Miami, not New York. He flew to Nuevitas, Cuba, and Port au-Prince that first day, slept over, and plunged on the next day to San Pedro in the Dominican Republic, San Juan, St. Thomas, Virgin Islands and St. Johns, Antigua.

The third day saw him journey up and down to Port Castries, St. Lucia, Port of Spain, Trinidad, and Georgetown, British Guiana. The fourth day of adventure took him from Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana, all the way to Belem, Brazil, via Cayenne, French Guiana.

★ ★ ★

Brazil itself was something of a problem for the Commodore. It took off breathlessly and landed, out of wind and nearly of gas, from Sao Luiz to Amarracao to Comocim and then to Fortaleza for the night.

Then on the next day to Arela Branca, Natal, Recife, Maceio, Aracaju and Sao Salvador. And, finally, on the seventh day to Ilheros, Caravellas, Victoria and (let's have a roll of drums, professor) Rio!

Articles on 'Drag Racing' Stir Reader Comment

Teen-agers who use the highways as "drag strips" deserve to be censured and punished, but don't condemn all the teens. There are many of us who use our cars properly and exhibit the very same Christian attitudes behind the wheel as we do in church. I wish to defend the many good kids who are suffering from the criticism deserved only by the misguided few.

I pray daily that these immature kids will come to their senses and make constructive use of their time before this drag racing leads to injury and possible death for innocent parties.

Concerned Clarkston Youth

I won't congratulate Mr. Thorne on his article for I don't think it is all teen-agers on Woodward. If you drive there you will see married men and women. I have seen men racing as young as 65.

I'm with the one who said give the ones who like to race a drag strip. That should solve everything.

485 Amberwood — Mrs. Elvis McConnaughhay

I congratulate Mr. Thorne for his articles about dragging on Woodward. It's time the public was awakened to these facts. But what is going to be done?

The public should start a petition for a drag strip in Waterford or Pontiac. That will cut down the racing on Woodward.

A few years ago the Waterford Police tried to get a petition for a drag strip, but it was voted down.

Drayton Plains — John McConnell

'Some Commissioners Put on Quite a Show'

One cannot help being dismayed by the implications of the adolescence displayed by several city commissioners in the charges against the manager.

★ ★ ★

I'm sorry the proceedings are over. The farcical performance was the best in many a day. Besides, it was free. I could kick myself for having voted for one of these commissioners.

★ ★ ★

I strongly recommend that the commissioners who displayed such unsuspected comic talent organize a troupe and put their show on the road. It should be a smash hit. It would also keep the comedians out of town.

Organization's Leader Defends Picketing

In reply to "Taxpayer" (aren't we all?) on the disgraceful display of pickets at PNH, I'm not aware of where he obtained his information. I suggest that he do more research. We are not the highest paid nonteaching employes.

Since when is peaceful picketing a disgrace? It is the Constitutional right of all citizens to picket. Many organizations have experienced pickets from time to time—even the U.S. Government. And when you can picket the U. S. Government, you can picket any organization.

Officials Surrender

The Rockford Register-Star

State Department and U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service officers displayed a shocking lack of firmness in dealing with the 50 Americans returning from a Castro - financed junket to Cuba by not invalidating their passports.

★ ★ ★

The travelers staged a sit-down demonstration at New York's Idlewild Airport and lasted 2 hours and 40 minutes until federal officials agreed no stamp would be placed on the passports. Instead, 45 of the group, a number of them students, were given letters from the State Department informing them their passport privileges had been "tentatively withheld."

Is this country surrendering to juvenile tantrums? Does the United States intend to let all questions be resolved by sit-down demonstrations? The public should protest against this type of dictation from irresponsible malcontents. The travelers were warned before they left the U.S. about travel restrictions to Communist Cuba. They went ahead. Even the President said they faced government sanctions when they returned. Violation of the travel ban could result in penalties of as much as five years in prison and $5,000 fine.

Citizens now can only feel that government agencies involved are not fulfilling their duty. It is one thing for the students to flout U. S. policy. It is something entirely else for federal officials to meekly surrender to such defiance. Congress should determine why disciplinary measures have not been invoked.

"Local and state police and National Guard troops were used to curb the destructive revelers who set gasoline fires on a highway, smashed windows in business places, and hurled beer bottles."

★ ★ ★

The above appeared as the lead on a story in a metropolitan newspaper. The story went on to tell of disturbances from coast to coast in which hundreds were arrested and scores injured. This was not a new experience in this country which we like to feel has the most advanced civilization in the world. Such outbreaks have been occurring with increasing frequency.

★ ★ ★

We have read of student-led riots in other countries and have passed them off with vague references to "backward nations" and "lack of democracy." Now the infection has reached our own shores and it is high time that strong methods were used before we experience death and bloodshed.

★ ★ ★

These are not normal young men and women. They are not typical of the large body of sensible American youngsters. They are hoodlums, bums and troublemakers. They are the worst of us.

Let's stop making excuses. Let's stop this vicious foolishness before it spreads further.

There is only one way; only one language this disreputable lot understands . . . toughness.

A $10 fine for disorderly conduct won't do the job. A few 30-day jail sentences might help. And if they don't, let's try 60 days or 90 days or six months.

Modern Day Robin Hood

The Chicago Daily News

A British magazine says that if Robin Hood, the outlaw who robbed the rich and gave to the poor, were alive today he would be jailed as a hoodlum.

★ ★ ★

We doubt it. More likely, he would have written a book titled "A General Theory on the Distribution of Wealth," been elected to Parliament, and be a fair prospect for the next Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Many Factors Blamed in Hotel-Restaurant Business Dip

BACKGROUND OF THE NEWS — AP SPECIAL REPORT

NEW YORK (AP)—Hotel and restaurant business fell drastically over much of the country during the first half of this year and many in the industry place much of the blame on Uncle Sam's tightened expense account tax deduction rules.

Others said the new rules were just one of several factors responsible for the slide.

* * *

Other factors cited:

Confusion over the new regulations rather than the rules themselves.

Overbuilding.

Stricter rules imposed by private businessmen glad for an excuse to crack down on their own employes.

CRIME PUBLICITY

Wide publicity on crime in some tourist centers, notably Washington, which discouraged some would-be visitors.

In general the government now demands that businessmen show a closer tie between the expense involved and business activity, and that there be no lavish entertainment of customers or business associates.

* * *

In New York City, expense account capital of the world, a spokesman for the hotel association said the rate of occupancy for the first seven months of 1963 was 65 per cent as against 70 per cent for the same period last year.

FOOD SALES DIP

The spokesman said total food sales in hotel-operated restaurants was down 11 per cent and banquet sales down 13.6 per cent from last year.

* * *

He said the drop couldn't be ascribed to any particular source although the confusion and complexity of rules and the record-keeping requirements of the new regulations contributed to the decline.

New York City has 400 hotels doing $350 million to $375 million worth of business annually and a payroll of $150 million.

A spokesman for the 3,500-member New York State Restaurant Association said operators felt that the "very scare of the (expense account) regulations has brought an absolute ax to the restaurant business."

In Washington, William Thomas Power, National Restaurant Association spokesman, said the restaurant business had improved slightly since the big drop in January and February, but is still substantially below normal.

* * *

Power said business will be off 10 per cent for the year and that this will mean a loss of $700 million to $1 billion in business.

"The main deterrent at the moment," he added, "is confusion over the new rules."

* * *

A Washington association of 36 hotels and motels said total business was off 7.6 per cent in June and off 6.2 per cent for six months.

HITS 'OVERBUILDING'

Bourbon Dawes of the Hotel Association of Washington said the main reason for the decline was "overbuilding." Seven hotels were added in the area in the past year. Total business was about the same as last year, he added, but the new places cut into receipts at the old.

* * *

The Commerce Department has no figures on how the large, luxury-type hotels and restaurants are doing. The department sometimes uses figures of Horwath & Horwath of New York City, a private firm, in making predictions but does not publish the figures as its own.

These figures show total hotel rooms occupied in the United States down 3.2 per cent in the first six months of this year, hotel restaurant sales down 3.4 per cent, and all eating and drinking places — including hamburger stands and coffee shops—up 5.4 per cent.

WON'T SHOW UP

The National Restaurant Association said decreased sales resulting from the expense account rules changes would not show up in Commerce Department figures since only a very few "expense account" restaurants are included. The Commerce Department disputes this, contending any decrease would show up to some extent.

* * *

Executive Secretary Dave Arpin of the Florida Hotel and Motel Association said the new rules had a substantial effect on business in the first half of this year.

The industry's indicators show a 10 to 15 per cent drop in the business in Florida attributable to the changes, Arpin declared.

"Conventions are tremendously important to Florida hotels," Arpin added, "and a decline of 10 to 15 per cent in business can mean the difference between a profit and a loss for any business."

$76 MILLION SPENT

The Florida Development Commission estimated visitors spent $76 million in the state during the past year.

Arpin said many companies had tightened expense accounts, and small businessmen who didn't keep extensive records before must do so now.

* * *

"The effects have been every bit as bad as business feared when the regulations were first revealed," he said.

Fred Abood of Jacksonville, head of the Florida Restaurant Association, likewise blamed the new regulations for a business decline he estimated would vary from 5 to 40 per cent, depending on the area and the type of clientele.

PIN-WORMS
A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms...ugly parasites that medical experts say infest 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . small, easy-to-take tablets . . . special sizes for children and adults.

Ousted Priest Is Reinstated

MARYKNOLL, N.Y. (AP) — The Rev. Felix McGowan, suspended from a Roman Catholic missionary society for making a trip to Communist China, has been reinstated.

The priest, 39, returned yesterday to this retreat where the society, the Maryknoll Fathers, has its headquarters.

A Maryknoll spokesman said Father McGowan's superiors "will plan his future assignment." The spokesman added that Father McGowan "has declared his willingness to follow the instructions of his superiors" in the future.

* * *

The priest violated an order of his bishop when he made the trip to Cuba this summer. He went there alone, but later joined more than 50 American students who defied a State Department ban on travel to Cuba.

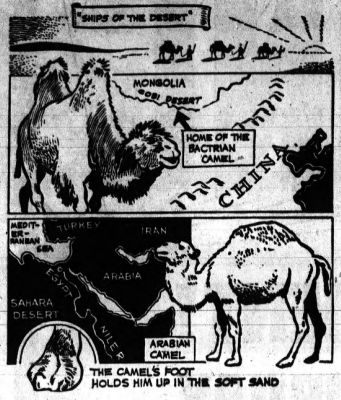
Junior Editors Quiz on CAMELS



QUESTION: Why does the camel have a hump upon his back?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Camels, even if they are ugly, awkward looking beasts, have worked for man longer than any other animal, and have been of inestimable value to him.

Without them, men could not have lived in the dry desert country of the Near East — and it was here, remember, that the first civilizations started.

Camels have the ability to go without water, and also without food, for considerable lengths of time. They can survive severe desert conditions which would destroy other creatures.

Many people believe that the camel carries a reserve of water in his hump. But this is not true.

The camel has reserves of fat stored in his hump, and this acts as nourishment when he can't get anything to eat.

It is true camels can get along without water for long periods. This is because, unlike most animals, the camel does not have to sweat to keep his body cool.

Camels will drink a great deal of water when they have a chance, but since they don't sweat, their water supply lasts them a long time.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Ask a friend if he knows where camels live and he'll probably say Arabia and the Near East. He'll be right about one kind of camel; but you can then tell him about the Bactrian camel, which lives in north central Asia in such places as the Gobi Desert. This is the kind of camel with two humps.

Against Russ in Europe

Paris, Bonn Reach Accord

PARIS (UPI) — France and West Germany appeared today to have reached agreement on blocking any East-West pact that would confirm Soviet territorial conquests in Central and Eastern Europe.

Observers said this was the result of yesterday's five-hour discussion between French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville and West German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder.

Both French and German sources appeared elated by the results of the talks, but small "technical" differences of viewpoint were believed to remain.

★ ★ ★

Schroeder was understood to have pressed for continuing negotiations with the Soviet Union, in line with current United States policy.

SKEPTICAL

Couve de Murville was reported skeptical about the wisdom of pursuing any far-reaching talks with Russia now.

Further developments in the French-German alliance may come when West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, scheduled to retire next month, meets French President Charles de Gaulle during the weekend at Rambouillet, west of Paris.

After yesterday's conference, a French government spokesman said there was "full agreement" on all major East-West problems, "especially that everything must be done to prevent a policy which would result in the worsening of the situation in Central Europe and Berlin."

Schroeder said before flying back to Bonn last night that he and Couve de Murville were favorable to the East-West partial nuclear test-ban treaty "as long as it does nothing to preserve the status quo.

"No detente is worth anything in our eyes unless it gets to the root of the East-West tension, for example the partition of Germany."

Ambassador to Russia Confers With Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Foy D. Kohler, U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union who is home for consultations, conferred with President Kennedy Tuesday.

No Clues Yet on Two Boys

Foul Play Suspected by Escanaba Police

From Our News Wires

ESCANABA — Police said today they have begun an investigation of possible foul play in the case of two missing youths who disappeared Sunday.

The investigation was the only alternative since a massive three - day search has turned up no trace of Charles Kobasic, 7, the son of a local grocer, and John Jensen, 9, son of a city police sergeant.

A search party of 300 police officers and civilian volunteers planned to return to wooded areas around Escanaba today for a third all-day effort to locate the two boys.

★ ★ ★

Delta County Sheriff's men said they still were without any clues to the pair's whereabouts.

Some 700 persons tramped through a heavily wooded area about 15 miles southwest of Escanaba Tuesday, while three planes and a helicopter flew low over Delta County, nearby Bay de Noc and the Lake Michigan shoreline.

By yesterday afternoon the city was almost at a standstill.

WORKERS JOIN

Local businesses and factories had turned out their employes to take part in the hunt. Both high schools closed early so students could help search.

No stone was left unturned. Skin divers searched and researched the harbor area in Green Bay. Yesterday four separate 500-man search parties went over the local terrain again because of the possibility some clue to the boys' whereabouts had been overlooked. But the boys disappearance remained unsolved.

Israeli Youths Charged in Riot at Church Schools

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Ten Jewish religious students were officially charged with rioting today in connection with a demonstration Sept. 10 at a school run by the Church of Scotland in Jaffa.

Their attorneys were granted time to study the charges before entering pleas for the youths, and the cases were postponed until Oct. 11.

Nine other students were arraigned in Haifa on charges of trespassing and unruly behavior.

★ ★ ★

All pleaded innocent to demonstrating at Christian mission schools in Haifa.

Police Can Moonshiner

ATLANTA (AP)—A policeman's knowledge that the canning season had passed its peak in this area led to the discovery of $14,000 to $17,000 worth of illegal alcohol.

Noticing a truck loaded with fruit jars as it passed him Tuesday, officer P.E. Johnson decided to investigate.

The driver fled on foot when Johnson stopped the truck, which turned out to be loaded with 1,258 gallons of illegal whisky. A similar truck, parked nearby, contained jars with 1,071 gallons of moonshine.

Red China Building Macao Border Wall

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) —A Berlin-type wall is being built by the Chinese Communists along part of China's border with the Portuguese colony of Macao, the official Chinese National Central News Agency reported today.

The agency quoted unidentified persons who arrived in Macao from the south China province of Kwangtung as saying several thousand persons are working on the wall, apparently designed to stop Chinese from fleeing to Macao.

Cuban Antiaircraft Guns Fire on Mystery Plane

HAVANA (AP) — Antiaircraft guns fired for five minutes Tuesday night at an unidentified plane along the coast near Havana.

Witnesses said the twin-engine plane flew out to sea as soon as the batteries opened up and there was no indication it was hit.

What Is a Viet Cong? Captured Red Soldier Tells His Story

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —What is a Viet Cong?

They captured one near Quang Ngai the other day and this is his story.

★ ★ ★

A machine gun bullet knocked his arm loose from his shoulder so the arm had to be amputated. This made him a pretty sick young man. He still was arrogant and full of spite, though, even while he was kept alive by intravenous feeding.

FACES RED DOOM

He said his name was Chahn but nobody believed him. He is doomed for worse than what already has happened if the Communists get him again. Viet Cong aren't supposed to be captured.

But start at the beginning.

Nine years ago when officials set up a truce dividing this country by the same recipe as Korea —one part Communist and one part Western —Sgt. Chahn of the 803rd Viet Cong Regiment went north with the Reds.

★ ★ ★

He really didn't like army life but Viet Nam having been fought over for 2,000 years left little choice for Sgt. Chahn. He had to soldier in somebody's army so he picked the Viet Cong.

★ ★ ★

The 803rd Regiment offered a good life because Chahn was an artilleryman. The Viet Cong had stolen so many weapons left by the French, who'd gotten most of them from the United States, that it was pretty easy cleaning up that old 57mm recoilless rifle every day, firing it on the range now and then, and going downtown at night to meet some girls.

NEW INTERESTS

Chahn went on to new interests, however. By 1960 the recoilless rifle was no longer his greatest concern. He had settled down in North Viet Nam, left the artillery and joined a production team.

You can stay closer to home that way — working on roads, marching to work in the fields, wearing your smart white uniform and singing Communist songs as you parade in formation with other members of the team.

★ ★ ★

Last February, Chahn said, he "prepared to infiltrate into South Viet Nam."

He didn't give the reason, and U.S. Maj. Dave Lermin didn't push him on this point.

It can be assumed the sergeant was homesick, lost his girl, or was drafted by the Communists to return to his home and fight for its "liberation from American imperialists."

Anyway, Chahn went into training at Xuan Mai in the Na-Dong Province of North Viet Nam. In March a little brown-skinned guy about 5 feet tall came down the mountain trail in Quang Ngai Province where the trees tower more than 100 feet and rice paddies dot the valleys.

RETURNED WITH WORKERS

Chahn said he returned with a work battalion.

The 25,000 professional Viet Cong soldiers and their 25,000 guerrilla-type helpers inside Viet Nam have political advisers, production teams and a communications system just like their opponents — the United States — advised army of the Republic of Viet Nam.

★ ★ ★

One day this month, an air strike ripped into a Viet Cong nest 300 miles north of Saigon. Next day about 60 Viet Cong were knocked off in a fire fight south of Saigon.

Somewhere since spring the 95th Viet Cong Battalion near Quang Ngai became the possessor of two 57mm recoilless rifles. They had to find someone who chould shoot them and Sgt. Chahn wound up leading a squad.

SPOTS ARMOR VEHICLE

Twenty miles south of Quang Ngai, Chahn saw what looked like a tank approach down the tree-lined road.

It really was an American armored personnel carrier. The personnel inside were Viet Nam soldiers hunting down the Viet Cong.

"Fire," somebody ordered Chahn.

★ ★ ★

The first salvo was indirect and whistled off into the bush. Chahn admitted later that he was surprised the personnel carrier did not blow up.

Instead it wheeled around, unlimbered its 50-caliber machine gun and killed everybody in Chahn's squad except him.

Somehow he struggled out of the area and was found walking down the road, his right arm in shreds and his strength gone.

SURGERY SAVES LIFE

Col. Robert Byrne, of Sacramento, Calif., who is senior adviser to the Viet Nam 25th Division, suggested Chahn be hospitalized immediately. In a hospital operated by Medico at Quang Ngai, Dr. Stanley Froelich, of Toronto, amputated Chahn's arm to save his life.

★ ★ ★

Froelich is watching over Chahn just as he watches over other patients in his 15-bed hospital. He is confident the Viet Cong soldier is going to live.

They have to keep him shackled to the bed and feed him intravenously through the one arm he has left.

"He is going to prove valuable to us," Byrne said.

They'll Be Paid for Stories

Money Is A-OK With U.S. Astronauts

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

A—OK: The astronauts who are to pioneer a path to the moon have struck gold on earth.

They have signed to tell their private stories in a million-dollar deal with Life magazine and Field Enterprises Educational Corp.

The 16 astronauts already in the Gemini and Apollo program signed contracts that will bring each $65,000 over the next four years — a total payment of $1,040,000.

Ten to 15 new astronauts to be added to the program within three weeks will receive the same offer. If 15 are added, the payments to all 31 would be $2,015,000 over the four years.

UNDER RULES

Marshal Field Jr., head of Field Enterprises, Inc., said the contracts abide fully by ground rules established by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration which provides for public release of all official information but recognizes the astronauts' right to sell their personal stories.

COLD WAR: West Germany's foreign minister, Gerhard Schroeder, will not turn a cold shoulder to possible new U.S.-Soviet efforts aimed at easing cold war strains when he visits Washington this week, German sources report.

★ ★ ★

But he will, they said, repeat Bonn's view that the Western allies should not give away anything without getting something in return.

SCHOOL: Establishment of a college to teach trial judges "the most modern and effective techniques of trial procedure" has been announced by Supreme Court Justice Tom C. Clark.

BEGINNING

"Ascending the bench is the beginning rather than the end of one's professional striving," Clark said.

The college developed from seminars for state trial judges held over the last two years by the National Conference of State Trial Judges and the Joint Committee for Effective Administration of Justice.

★ ★ ★

The first session—a four-week course for about 200 judges—will be held at the University of Colorado Law School next summer.

ASTROGIRLS: The U.S. space agency has no plans to follow the Soviet lead in sending a woman into space.

"Russians hurt their program by flying a girl," Robert R. Gilruth, director of the Space Flight Center told the National Rocket Club in a question-and-answer session. "This represented a diversion of their program, just as it would be a diversion from ours."

NIXON: Sen. Barry Goldwater says he regards former Vice President Richard M. Nixon as a possible Republican presidential nominee next year.

★ ★ ★

The Arizona Republican, himself considered to be one of the leading candidates for the nomination, said in an interview that "Nixon would be president now had the votes been accurately counted in Cook County (Chicago) and south Texas last time."

Nixon, who lost to President Kennedy in 1960, said he would not again seek elective office after he was defeated in the 1962 California gubernatorial election.

Tito Uses U.S. Aid to Undermine West

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON — Yugoslav President Tito arrives for his first White House visit next month at approximately the time Congress expects to vote on President Kennedy's request that Communist Yugoslavia be restored to a "most favored nation" tariff position.

RUTH MONTGOMERY

The timing of the Red dictator's visit on Oct. 17 is interesting in two other respects: He has just signed an agreement with Moscow to build nine oil tankers and five dry cargo ships to augment the Soviet supply line to Fidel Castro's Cuba; and he will be winding up official visits to Bolivia, Chile, Brazil and Mexico.

A top authority on Latin American communism says it is "more than coincidence" that Tito is concentrating on the four republics which have been the chief centers of pro-Castro sentiment within the Organization of American States.

Father Joseph F. Thorning, admiringly called "the padre of the Americas" by Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield and other solons, was the first expert publicly to brand Fidel Castro a Communist, while officials of the Central Intelligence Agency were still adamantly insisting that Castro was not Red.

Dr. Thorning now says of the Tito visit: "It is meaningful that the Communist dictator will be visiting four key nations who all have presidential elections next year.

"U. S. taxpayers, through the foreign aid program, are promoting and financing that visit while Tito works to undermine us."

For nineteen consecutive years, Father Thorning has been invited by House speakers of both parties to offer the prayer in the House on Pan American Day.

Author of numerous books, and holder of fourteen national decorations from Latin governments, he says of our upcoming Red visitor: "Tito openly supports every major plank in Nikita Khrushchev's foreign policy platform. This ranges from open support for Castro, to United Nations recognition of East Germany and Red China."

AID TO TITO

Father Thorning said he has been informed by a member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff that although "all the money does not show in public accountings," the U. S. government has contributed more than $3 billion to Communist Yugoslavia since the war. Official figures top the $2.5 billion mark.

Of the four Latin American nations on Tito's travel agenda, Father Thorning says:

● Bolivia has nationalized its principal resources, including tin, and its left-wing officials are doing such a prize job of mismanagement that from a third to a half of Bolivia's entire national budget is being supported by U. S. taxpayers. Vice President Juan Lechin is an admitted Marxist.

● It is an undisputed fact that Brazil's highest echelon of government and armed forces is heavily infiltrated with Marxist-Leninism agents.

The U. S. could halt the unfavorable balance of gold outflow simply by cutting off aid to Brazil and Bolivia.

● Although Chile now has a good president, he cannot succeed himself, and a strong contender next year will be Socialist candidate Salvador Allende, "a traveling salesman for Marxist-Leninism" who came within 50,000 votes of winning election last time.

● Mexico has had "a one-party government for all intents and purposes" since 1917, and has almost invariably voted against us in the OAS, while giving aid and comfort to Castro-Cuba.

Tito will try to lay the groundwork there for next year's presidential elections.

U. S. PRESTIGE

Frankly disturbed that President Kennedy is providing Tito with the prestige of a White House forum at the close of his Latin American tour, Dr. Thorning declared:

"At Cuba's recent 10th anniversary celebration of Castro's July 26th movement, Tito sent an official delegation.

Two of the delegates — Nikola Sekulic and Nasim Albahari — while parading as officials of the Yugoslav government, were actually members of Tito's secret police, and active participants in an international Communist conspiracy."

Portugal Covers Up War, Tension

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

LISBON, Portugal — With 40,000 troops in Angola and another 20,000 in other African possessions, Portugal today is the only European nation engaged in armed struggle.

Yet metropolitan Portugal, and especially this ancient capital, scarcely bears the look of war or tension.

Citizens and tourists stroll the sun-swept boulevards or sip aperitifs at sidewalk cafes.

* * *

In the Bar Galito across from the casino in Estoril there are nightly song fests to the accompaniment of mandolin and guitar.

Oporto, traditional center of unrest, is quiet. So are Lisbon University students.

MODERNIZATION PRESSED

Portugal continues to press its modernization program despite the heavy financial burden imposed by Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar's determination to hold on to Portugal's African territories.

Across the broad River Tagus a new $80-million bridge is taking form, and eventually will be a counter-part to San Francisco's Golden Gate Bridge.

The Ford and General Motors companies are building assembly plants to participate in Portugals industrialization program.

"You wouldn't believe that this was a country at war," remarked a Portugese friend.

REVOLT INEFFECTIVE

The picture is in sharp contrast to only a little more than a year ago when revolt flared inside the army and demonstrators demanded an end to the war in Angola. The revolt was crushed but it was the first in the more than 30 years of Salazar's rule.

Salazar's efective security police quickly crushed the 1962 manifestations and a wave of arrests discouraged other would-be agitators, including the country's estimated 7,000 to 9,000 Communists.

"What has happened now," explained one American in Lisbon, "is that the country realizes it is in for a long pull, and even Salazar's opposition feels that the nation's very identity is at stake.

* * *

"International pressures actually have strengthened the regime."

Whatever the popular feeling, there scarcely is a family in this small country of approximately 10 million that does not have a son or relative in the armed services in Africa.

COST OF LIVING

Figures are hard to come by in Portugal but undeniably the cost of living also has gone up as result of the struggle in Angola.

New taxes have been imposed, although by United States standards they are comparatively small, the highest on large incomes going to about 40 per cent.

Aside from support from the military, one of the secrets of Salazar's success has been his determination to protect the little man, peasants and workers, from high food costs. So there remain strict controls over essential food prices, such as for milk, meat and bread.

A 20 per cent sales tax has been imposed on such luxury items as expensive radios, jewelry, furs and special beauty parlor services. A 15 per cent sales tax is collected on other items such as fountain pens and electric fans.

But railway, telephone and taxi services still are cheap.

Choose Favorite Meat for Loaf

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Do you suppose anyone ever counted the number of meat loaf recipes in cookbooks? We're about to add three more to whatever collection you may have.

Although we have been unable to sell meat loaf to the teen-ager in our house, we still think it a good dish and serve it occasionally. You can make a pound or two of ground meat go a long way if you make it into a loaf, adding, of course, other ingredients.

The binding ingredient may be bread crumbs, cracker or cereal crumbs, oatmeal or even instant mashed potato flakes. Changing the liquid changes the flavor too.

First we have a traditional beef meat loaf made with oatmeal and dry mushroom soup mix.

Meat Loaf

1½ lb. ground beef
¾ cup oats quick or old fashioned, uncooked
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup chopped onion
One 1¾-oz. can cream of mushroom dry soup mix
1 egg, beaten
¾ cup milk

Combine all ingredients thoroughly. Pack firmly into an 8¼x4½x2½-inch loaf pan. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) about one hour and 15 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes before slicing. Makes 8 servings.

How about a lamb loaf? Lamb is in good supply now and your butcher will be happy to grind a couple of pounds for you. This loaf has a special sauce.

Baked Lamb Loaf with Olive Sauce

2 pounds ground lamb
1 cup milk
1 egg, unbeaten
1 cup cracker crumbs
2 tablespoons parsley, chopped
2 tablespoons onion, minced
salt and pepper to season

Mix all ingredients thoroughly and pack into a ring mold. Bake at 300 degrees for 1½ hours. Serve with olive sauce.

Melt 4 tablespoons drippings, add 4 tablespoons flour; blend. Add 2 cups milk gradually, stirring constantly. Bring to boil; boil briskly 3-5 minutes. Add 6 tablespoons sliced stuffed olives and season to taste. Makes 8 servings.

A ham loaf is a flavorful dish; this one has a touch of ginger for seasoning.

Savory Ham Loaf

1 lb. chopped raw ham
1 lb. chopped raw pork
2 eggs, slightly beaten
¾ cup milk
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon ginger
¼ cup finely diced green pepper
1 teaspoon Kitchen Bouquet
2 tablespoons soft fat

Place ham, pork, eggs and milk in bowl. Add crumbs, seasonings and green pepper. Mix well with hands or kitchen fork. Pack into greased baking pan, 6" x 10" x 2".

Blend together the Kitchen Bouquet and fat and brush over the top of the loaf. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, until done, about 1 hour. Remove to serving platter and serve cut into 6 or 8 oblongs. Makes 6 or 8 servings.

JELLIED DRESSING — Pottery "shapes," used for puddings in colonial days, make handsome molds for jellied salad dressing to serve with shredded western iceberg lettuce.

French Dressing, Pickle Relish Are Jellied Salad Ingredients

Here's a brand new idea for a salad — cool, sparkling, quick — jellied dressing on shredded western iceberg lettuce. To make, just combine ½ cup of your favorite bottled French dressing with a package of lemon-flavored gelatin. Add a little pickle relish for extra zip. Chill in a fancy mold and turn out on a bed of crisp lettuce. It's the perfect perk-up for a family meal, or a conversation piece for a pot-luck supper.

Another version, which is delicious with cold green beans and shredded iceberg lettuce, can be made by blending gelatin into mayonnaise and sour cream. Horseradish adds the zip to this one.

Jellied Dressing on Shredded Lettuce

1 medium head western iceberg lettuce
1 package (6 ounces) lemon gelatin
2 cups boiling water
1 cup cold water
⅔ cup bottled French dressing
½ cup undrained sweet pickle relish
1 package (10 ounces) frozen cut green beans, cooked and drained, or 1 can (1 pound) drained
1 small onion, thinly sliced
1 tablespoon olive or salad oil
1 tablespoon wine vinegar
Salt
Dash pepper

Core lettuce; wash in cold water and drain well. Place in plastic bag or transparent film; refrigerate. Dissolve gelatin in boiling water; stir in cold water and French dressing. Chill until slightly thickened. Mix well and fold in relish. Pour into a 1-quart mold; chill until firm.

Line large plate with outer lettuce leaves; cover with remaining lettuce, shredded. Place wet plate over jellied dressing, invert, then slide onto lettuce. Makes 8 servings.

Molded Horseradish Dressing

1 medium head western iceberg lettuce
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¼ cup sugar
1½ cups water
¼ cup lemon juice
½ cup dairy sour cream
½ cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon prepared horseradish
2 teaspoons chopped chives or ¼ teaspoon onion juice
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
2 medium tomatoes, sliced
1 medium cucumber, sliced
1 pound cold cuts

Core lettuce; rinse in cold water; drain well. Place in plastic bag or transparent film. Refrigerate.

Toss green beans and onion with oil, vinegar, 1 teaspoon salt and pepper. Chill. Mix gelatin, sugar and ¼ teaspoon salt in saucepan; stir in water. Heat and stir until gelatin dissolves. Add lemon juice; chill until slightly thickened. Blend sour cream with mayonnaise, horseradish, chives and mustard; fold into gelatin mixture.

Pour into 6 molds or custard cups (5-ounce size). Chill until firm. Line platter with outer lettuce leaves; top with remaining lettuce, shredded. Turn molds out onto lettuce; surround with marinated beans, tomatoes, cucumber and cold cuts. Makes 6 servings.

Next time you make chicken salad, try tossing in tiny cubes of chilled cranberry sauce for sparkling touches of color.

Egg Salad Pie Deserves Prize

Egg salad, made with salad dressing and thickened with unflavored gelatin, is turned into a pie shell and comes to the table as a cool, delectable main dish.

Deviled Egg Salad Pie

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1 cup cold water
1 cup milk
1 cup salad dressing
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
3 tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon Tabasco
1 teaspoon instant minced onion
½ cup chopped pimiento stuffed olives
½ cup diced celery
6 hard cooked eggs, diced
9-inch baked pastry shell

Sprinkle gelatin on water in a 2½ quart saucepan to soften. Place over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until gelatin is dissolved, about 3 minutes.

Remove from heat; stir in milk, salad dressing, prepared mustard, Worcestershire sauce, lemon juice, salt, Tabasco and instant minced onion. Beat until smooth.

Chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture mounds when dropped from a spoon. Add chopped olives celery and eggs. Turn into prepared shell. Chill until firm. To serve, garnish with olive slices. Yield: 6 servings.

These Correspondents Real Pen Pals

This Mail Rates Big Stamp of Approval

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Fragments from letters people would like to get—but rarely do:

"For some reason, Dad, ever since I married the dean's daughter all my professors are giving me better grades, and it now looks like I'll make Phi Beta Kappa for sure. The dean also managed to wangle me a $3,000 scholarship, so you can discontinue sending me my allowance, as I really don't need it any more."

BOYLE

"I bowl in the all-girl league that plays just before your league does. Last week I stayed and watched you bowl—and I never saw such grace, such form, such style in a middle-aged man. If I stay late next week, would you like to buy me a drink? Everybody says I'm the prettiest girl in our league, and I'm not an expensive date. I simply dote on beer."

GOOD-HEARTED DENTIST

"It's a mystery to me why my secretary sent you a bill for $513 for your new dental plate. Actually, she got the figures backward. The amount should be $315, but I feel so embarrassed over the error, I'm going to knock off another $100 and make it a flat $215. But there's no rush. Send me your check whenever it's convenient."

★ ★ ★

"You don't know me, but I'm Rudolf Bing, and I manage the Metropolitan Opera. While out for a stroll the other evening I passed beneath your apartment, and couldn't help overhearing the bawling out your wife was giving you. We haven't had a dramatic soprano voice like hers in our company for years. If your wife would care to audition for us, I'm sure we could reach contract terms agreeable to all concerned."

VOICE FROM THE PAST

"The years have done poorly by me since our high school mates picked you as class dunce and voted me the boy most likely to succeed. But the post as custodian at City Hall is going to open up soon, and I know I can get it with a little pull. The next time you play golf with the mayor would you mind putting in a good word for me — for old times' sake?"

★ ★ ★

"Although you say you merely raised your hand to stifle a yawn, our auctioneer took it as a signal you were bidding $35,000 for Von Rumpsprungle's famous landscape, and closed the sale. This morning a noted collector came to us and offered $50,000 for the painting. Would you care to part with it for this amount, minus our commission, of course?"

Involves More Black, White Bias?

JUNEAU, Alaska (UPI) — Racial discrimination isn't always a matter of black and white.

A part Chippewa Indian pleaded guilty here yesterday to a charge of violating Alaska's civil rights statutes by refusing to cut a Negro's hair in a barber shop owned by a Filipino. The Negro wound up being convicted of assault and battery.

It happened like this:

Allan Wilson, a Negro construction worker, entered the barber shop.

★ ★ ★

The barber, Henry Larance, said in court that he told Wilson, "I don't know if the boss serves colored people in here, and he's gone right now."

★ ★ ★

About the same time, an announcer on the barber shop radio broke in with a bulletin from President Kennedy's recent press conference on civil rights.

JUMPED TO FEET

Larance said Wilson sat down and after listening to the newscast, jumped to his feet and began beating Larance with his fists and shouting, "You're one of those kind of guys."

Wilson was convicted of assault and battery and sentenced to 30 days, suspended, and fined $100.

Larance received the same sentence for violating the civil rights statues.

★ ★ ★

'Red Split May Speed Chiang Plan'

SEATTLE (UPI) — Gen. Chiang Ching-kuo, oldest son of President Chiang Kai-shek of the Republic of China, yesterday said the current squabble between the Soviet Union and Red China may speed the day when the republic goes back to the mainland.

The general was in Seattle for a one-day visit before he left on a direct flight to Tokyo via Northwest Orient Airlines last night on his way 'home to Taipei, Formosa. He was originally scheduled to return home via Honolulu and Manila.

He arrived in Seattle yesterday after a flight from San Francisco. It was his last stop during an 11-day stay in the United States.

★ ★ ★

He toured Boeing Co. facilities, had tea at the Chong Wa Benevolent Association hall and held a news conference there.

MADE STATEMENT

It was during the news conference that he made his statement about the Sino-Russian squabble being of benefit to the Republic of China's aspirations of returning to the mainland.

The general tenor of his comments during the conference was that the republic has no intention of giving up plans of eventually overthrowing the Communist regime and returning to power on the mainland.

Speaking through an interpreter, he said many Republican agents are doing undercover work on the mainland in an effort to hasten a revolt by the people.

★ ★ ★

He also pointed out that the economic situation on the mainland was "today at its worst since the Communists took control in 1949 and 1950."

Red Guerrillas Tell New Viet Victories

TOKYO (AP) — Communist guerrillas have claimed new victories in skirmishes with the South Vietnamese government troops in early September, the New China News Agency said today.

Quoting the Communist Viet Cong's liberation radio, the agency said in a broadcast from Peking the guerrillas demolished a large number of strategic hamlets and wiped out or put out of action more than 660 men, including 5 Americans, between Sept. 2 and Sept. 9.

Court Says Can't Force Attendance

NEW YORK (AP) — A state court has upheld the right of white parents to keep their children out of a Brooklyn school that is predominantly Negro and Puerto Rican.

The school is in Brownsville, a neighborhood heavily populated by Negroes and Puerto Ricans. The City Board of Education, acting under orders of the state education commissioner, started to bring in white pupils from outside the neighborhood.

Parents of the white pupils, who wanted them to attend their neighborhood school in predominantly white East Flatbush, sued to prevent transfers. They contended that the board's transfer order was discrimination against whites.

Supreme Court Justice Edward G. Baker agreed, ruling the transfer violated a state law which prohibits racial discrimination.

CONTEMPT

The board appealed, and sought to register 51 white pupils at the Brownsville school until the appeal could be heard. The white parents' then got an order from Baker, threatening the board with contempt.

The board then let the white pupils register at their neighborhood school.

An appellate division of State Supreme Court threw out the board's application to temporarily stay Baker's order.

The appeals judges said "it would now be unfair and a hardship to the children to again dislocate and disrupt them"—by removing them to the predominantly Negro-Puerto Rican institution, Junior High School 275 in Brownsville. The judges added, "We do not pass upon any other question."

Other aspects of Baker's decision will be argued later.

In Middle of Road, Both Sides 'Right'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—County Commission Chairman Henry A. Koontz has a reputation for making middle-of-the-road decisions.

Commissioners Glenn L. Myers and William M. Hicks, still unable to reach an accord on a procedural matter after some discussion, asked Koontz for his opinion. Replied the chairman: "I agree with both of you."

The basic information for anyone interested in the stock market and investments will unfold in a six-week Tuesday night adult education course opening Oct. 1 at Pontiac Public Library.

Mac Discusses Scandal Report

Confers With Home on Decisions to Follow

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan conferred privately today with Foreign Secretary Lord Home, one of the most influential members of the ruling Conservative party, on key decisions to follow the Denning sex and security report.

Reports said the two men started work early at Macmillan's country residence, Chequers, after a study of the report handed in by Lord Denning. Macmillan designated Denning to investigate the scandals set off by the resignation of War Minister John Profumo.

The prime minister must decide quickly whether Denning's findings should be published in full or in part, how they should be published and whether any action should be taken.

A full cabinet meeting and a confrontation between Macmillan and Labor party leader Harold Wilson are scheduled for tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

Tory party circles were said to be feeling slightly optimistic because no resignations followed Macmillan's study of Denning's 200-page summation of testimony by politicians, prostitutes and playboys.

LINKED IN AFFAIRS

Persistent reports have linked two, and possibly three, ministers in affairs allegedly similar to Profumo's relationship with call girl Christine Keeler.

The Daily Herald said Macmillan and his senior ministers may now be considering whether the report vindicates the government enough to allow a general election in the autumn.

Without naming any source, it said top ministers do not rule out the possibility an election may be called Nov. 7.

However political observers said the 69-year-old prime minister is not the type to move hastily no matter what the problem.

Jews Tonight Mark 1st of High Holidays

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

At sundown today, the sonorous wailing of a ram's horn in thousands of synagogues around the world will summon Jews to observance of the High Holy Days, most sacred period of the year.

Observed continually since the time of Moses, the High Holy Days are ten days of self-examination and penitence, which mark the beginning of a new year on the Jewish calendar.

This will be the year 5724.

★ ★ ★

The High Holy Days open with Rosh Hashanah, a Hebrew phrase meaning "head of the year." Tradition holds it is the anniversary of the first day of creation. Orthodox and conservative Jews commemorate Rosh Hashanah for two days; most reformed Jews for one.

FAMILY RITUAL

Unlike the great spring festival of the Passover, which centers around a family ritual celebrated at home, Rosh Hashanah is primarily a synagogue service.

Some Jews who don't attend a synagogue at any other time of the year show up for Rosh Hashanah (just as some Christians appear at churches only at Christmas and Easter).

The sounding of the Ram's horn, called the "shofar," is a call to conscience. It bids the worshiper to reflect on his past deeds and think ahead to the coming year.

There is an ancient belief among devout Jews that God judges each of his human creatures on Rosh Hashanah, and determines their fate for the coming year.

YOM KIPPUR

The ten days of penitence culminate with Yom Kippur, the "day of atonement," which begins this year at sundown Friday, Sept. 27.

This is the holiest day of the year for religious Jews. It is observed with prayer, fasting and synagogue services that continue around the clock, from sundown through the night and day until the following sundown.

Memorial services for the dead are a traditional feature of Yom Kippur services. The ancient liturgy also includes a chanted hymn called the Kol Nidre, which is actually a prayer of repentance.

The interval between Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur is supposed to be spent in prayer, rest, and solemn festivities. It is regarded as a most important time for Jewish families to be together.

TASTE OF HONEY

At meals, it is customary to pass around a bowl of honey into which each member of the family may dip a piece of bread or a slice of apple, to symbolize a wish for a sweet new year.

It is perfectly appropriate for gentiles to wish their Jewish friends a "happy new year" on Rosh Hashanah. But it is the grossest breach of manners to wish anyone a "happy" Yom Kippur, since it is a day of affliction and atonement.

A traditional Jewish greeting for Yom Kippur is:

"May you be inscribed for a good year."

★ ★ ★

This is an allusion to the belief that each man's fate for the coming year is inscribed in the book of life during the High Holy Days.

A-Shelter Plan Goes to Senate

Civil Defense Officials Cautiously Optimistic

WASHINGTON (AP)—The $190-million program of federal aid and government construction to provide fallout shelters for 11 million Americans heads today for the Senate, with civil defense officials voicing cautious optimism about its chances there.

★ ★ ★

The Kennedy administration measure won House approval Tuesday with surprising ease. Its staunchest supporters had forecast an uphill struggle to get the bill through the House.

Administration officials said the Senate in the past has been more sympathetic to civil defense measures than has the House.

NUCLEUS OF SUPPORT

"We've got a nucleus of support there," one official said.

Before it passed the bill on a voice vote, the House turned down a bid by Republicans to erase a section offering $175 million worth of federal aid for shelter construction in public and nonprofit institutions.

★ ★ ★

That, sponsored by Rep. Edgar F. Foreman, R-Tex., was turned down on a 172-67 standing vote.

Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., took the floor to tell the House "in my conscience I could not vote against this bill. This bill is aimed at saving American lives in case there is a general attack."

'SENSIBLE STEP'

Chairman Carl Vinson, D-Ga., of the House Armed Services committee, called the administration plan a sensible, economical step to guard americans.

Nuclear physicist Edward Teller added his voice to the debate in a last-minute telegram read to the house by Rep. Oliver Bolton, R-Ohio.

★ ★ ★

"Civil defense," said the man known as the father of the hydrogen bomb, "could mean the difference between the survival of the United States and the end of the United States as a nation and as an idea."

Foreman, at 29 junior member of the House, said Congress should "let the taxpayers keep their money to build their own shelters."

80th Senator Backs Treaty

Iowa's Miller Accepts; Vote Likely in Week

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, declared his support today for the limited nuclear test-ban treaty, becoming the 80th senator to indicate approval.

Ratification of the agreement to prohibit all tests except underground will require a two-thirds majority in the Senate—67 if all 100 senators vote.

An Associated Press survey shows 13 senators opposed to ratification and seven uncommitted.

The final vote on the treaty, which Republican and Democratic leaders had hoped would come by this weekend, seems likely to be delayed until next week.

DIDN'T SAY

Miller had been among the uncommitted until his announcement today which bristled with criticism but concluded that the military risks are "acceptable."

"Within reasonable limitations, we have a moral obligation to keep trying for better relations with the Soviet Union in our efforts to secure a just and lasting peace," he said in a speech prepared for delivery before the Senate.

One of those opposed, Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., assailed the treaty today in a speech prepared for the so-called "Great Debate."

"A missile-atomic age has moved our country into the front line of a possible war," said Curtis. "A treaty that weakens our missile defense endangers the security of our military defenses, our cities and our homes."

Miller's removal from the doubtful list followed announcements of support Tuesday from Sens. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., and Alan Bible, D-Nev.

FLOOR FIGHT

The prospect of a floor fight over a proposal by Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., seemed to be fading. Russell had proposed that the resolution of ratification include a provision insuring that any future amendments to the treaty also be submitted to the Senate for ratification.

High Mormon Dies in Sleep

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Henry D. Moyle, high official of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, died in his sleep early today at a Church-operated ranch at nearby Deer Park.

The 74-year-old first counselor to the president of the church had been in Florida since Sunday on business in connection with Deseret Farms of Florida, Inc., a 310,000-acre ranch in Orange and Osceola counties.

The Church had offered 2,500 acres as a site for a university to be built in central Florida and Moyle planned to accompany members of a selection committee today on an inspection tour of the land.

Elephant Was Mascot

The first elephant seen in Christian Rome was owned by the 16th-century pope, Leo X. "Nanno" became a mascot of the people and was featured in many public processions. When the animal died, Leo ordered the great Rapheal to paint a likeness above its tomb.

Convict Freed From Theft Trial

Charges Dropped Due to Witness' Death

A convicted robber who won a new trial from the Michigan Supreme Court has won even more now—no trial at all.

The Oakland County prosecutor's office has dropped charges against Rudolph Castelli concerning a 1960 theft of $6,000 from a woman on a Hazel Park street. A witness who never testified is now deceased.

Failure of the witness to testify at Castelli's 1961 trial was the key factor in the State Supreme Court's May decision.

The high court ruled unanimously that the late Oakland County Circuit Court Judge H. Russel Holland erred in failing to have the witness, one of four at the scene of the robbery, take the stand.

★ ★ ★

Because the identity of the thief was a major issue, "the testimony of every witness who could describe him was of utmost importance," the high court said.

Castelli was identified by the victim while he was in Wayne County Jail on a narcotics charge.

He was serving a five-year prison term on the narcotics charges when the robbery trial was held.

The witness not called was an elderly woman.

Glacier Graveyard for Grasshoppers

COOKE CITY, Mont. (AP)—One of the most interesting of Montana's many glaciers is the "Grasshopper Glacier" in the south-central part of the state near the Silver Gate entrance to Yellowstone National Park.

It takes its name from the fact that millions of grasshoppers are buried in its ice.

Scientists estimate that years ago the insects, migrating over the high mountain ranges, were caught in a severe storm and deposited in the forming glacier.

★ ★ ★

Until recent years, they were frozen solidly and visitors often dug perfectly-preserved specimens from the ice.

Warmer weather in the last few years has exposed hundreds of the grasshoppers to air, where they have decomposed.

India Flies Tri-Color

WASHINGTON — India is a charter member of the United Nations. On its tricolor flag, a saffron band symbolizes courage and sacrifice; a white one, peace and truth; the green, faith and chivalry. A spoked wheel centered on the white stripe represents India's ancient culture.

Castro Rebel Prieto Is Killed

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—Roberto Gonzalez Prieto, who boasted he was organizing peasants as Castro-type guerrillas, has been killed in his mountain hideout.

Prieto and another member of his gang were shot to death by troops Monday in west-central Colombia, where he has been operating since returning from Cuba. Two other gangsters were captured. Troops were led to the hideout by informers.

★ ★ ★

The government said a pro-Communist kidnap gang was smashed the same day in north central Colombia by army anti-guerrilla units. Eight bandits, including the leader, Federico Arango Fonnegra, were killed.

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Results of Iran's long-delayed parliamentary election were proclaimed today as an endorsement of the shah's land and other reform policies.

First returns in Tuesday's nationwide balloting pointed to victory by government-supported candidates for 230 seats in Parliament.

WOMEN VOTE

Among reforms sponsored by shah was granting the right to vote to women. The shah dissolved Parliament after the last election, in 1961, contending that voting was rigged.

PARIS (AP) — In a protest against the South Viet Nam regime, a Buddhist sliced himself with a dagger Tuesday and with his own blood wrote a letter to the United Nations denouncing the Ngo Dinh Diem government.

Nguyen Thang That, who identified himself as secretary-general of the International Buddhist Federation, ceremoniously cut himself before a crowd of 300 in a Paris park inflicting a one-inch gash in his chest. An aide collected the blood in a cup.

LONDON (AP)—The Birmingham church bombing has damaged the United States image in Africa, but there is sympathy for the Kennedy administration's civil rights efforts, says Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall.

Returning from an 11-day tour of Uganda, Kenya and Tanganyika, Udall said Tuesday leaders in these East African countries expressed understanding of what the administration was trying to do in civil rights.

ALGIERS (AP)—President Ahmed Ben Bella has taken his first step in his promised policy of nationalization by ordering the takeover of the three remaining privately owned newspapers in Algeria. The papers were all owned by Frenchmen.

Ben Bella also told a meeting of the National Liberation Front that "privilege will be destroyed in Algeria" by 1964. He said millions of dollars in foreign bank accounts will be taken by the government and distributed to the poor.

★

Seven Is Lucky for Citrus Growers

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The right or wrong side of "7" has nothing to do with dice as far as the citrus grower is concerned.

That figure is the dividing line between the acidity and alkalinity of juices.

When tested with the latest measuring devices the pH factor of the liquid — acid below 7 and alkaline above — is determined.

WOMEN'S SECTION

Today's bedrooms are being furnished for living as well as sleeping. A studio couch, which doubles as a bed, will provide a sitting room appearance and also may afford extra space for a table or desk. Constructed of cotton cushioning and innersprings, it will provide the best resiliency and proper support needed for both sitting and sleeping.

Better Beds Aid Slumber

Nothing new under the sun? Not even king-sized beds and bedding.

* * *

Years ago, plantation homes in the Old South had extra large beds in which three or four girls slept during house parties. These beds were more than 7 feet wide and had massive, ornately carved headboards.

* * *

Today's focus is on "people-sized" beds and bedding. And people today are much bigger than they were in the past — over 2 inches taller, on the average, than at the turn of the century.

* * *

Established over 100 years ago, the dimensions of the standard double bed, 54 by 74 inches, are no longer right for all individuals. Experts suggest that a person needs at least 39 inches of space and a bed 6-10 inches longer than he is.

HABIT PLAYS PART

Habit plays a large part in determining the kind of mattress you'll like best. Hard, medium or soft; you have your choice. There is no one right mattress for all people. Buy the best quality in whichever one you choose; it will pay in the long run.

* * *

Don't give children hand-me-down mattresses. If you can't afford a new one, having the old one remade will improve it.

* * *

Both cotton and foam rubber mattresses have their advantages. There's no denying that foam rubber is easier to handle. Cotton is a little cooler. People with allergies love foam rubber.

NO GUARANTEE

A comfortable bed properly sized for you doesn't always guarantee a good night's sleep.

* * *

Although nobody knows exactly what sleep is, scientists do know that all sorts of changes occur in the body during sleep, and that it is absolutely essential for all animals and humans.

* * *

Going to sleep, authorities contend, is a purely mental problem.

* * *

The best way to prepare oneself for sleeping is to establish a routine that will permit the mind and body to relax, ease up and forget the activities, tensions and problems of daily living.

* * *

How this relaxation comes about is up to each individual. The room itself plays a part.

* * *

Bedrooms lend themselves to more personal decorating ideas than the rest of the house. They should be rooms where one can relax during the daytime, too. Strong colors and lively patterns should be used with restraint.

FURNITURE ARRANGEMENT

Since the bed is the largest single item and focal point in most bedrooms, your other furniture should be arranged around it.

If possible, place your bed away from spots where drafts, early morning sunshine or glaring street lights are apt to be disturbing influences.

You will try to select your furniture according to the size of the room. If you like to read in bed, don't forget a good lamp.

Today's homes aren't apt to have guest rooms. But modern families make the most of limited space with dual purpose furniture in entertaining overnight guests.

Dual purpose pieces have been around for a long time, but there are some changes.

Smartly styled designs have replaced the former heavy, cumbersome pieces. Many of them conceal the fact that they are dual purpose.

* * *

Dual purpose furniture basically falls into five groups: convertible sofas; jack-knife sofa beds; studio couches; single sleepers; and chair beds.

How's the sleeping situation in your home? Perhaps it needs checking and a bit of change.

One of the easiest ways to fit a roomy bed in a compact bedroom is to use a latex foam mattress on a platform base. The one pictured above (by Herman Miller) provides ample sleeping space for a teen-ager and doubles as a daytime sofa as well. Sleep experts say for the maximum rest, a mattress should be at least 39 inches wide and be 6 to 10 inches longer than the person using it. Teen-agers often "outgrow" their beds without parents realizing it. Available locally.

Better Bow Out

You're in Wrong Game!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I met a man at work and liked him right away.

I knew that he was married, but we saw each other anyway because he said his wife didn't care if he went around with other women.

ABBY

I guess it must be true because he never has to rush home, and he can get away to see me as much as he wants to.

I am divorced. I don't want any trouble, Abby, so I told him. I wasn't going to go on seeing him unless he brought me a note from his wife saying she didn't care.

If she will do this, I'll go on seeing him — otherwise, I won't. He says he'll put her on the phone, but he won't ask her to sign anything.

What do you think, Abby? I am 44 years old and I don't want a shot in the head.

CAREFUL

DEAR CAREFUL: Note or no note, you're in the wrong game, with the wrong guy, at the wrong time. You've admitted it — now act on your confession.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I wanted to will our bodies to a medical college. When we wrote telling them about it, they wrote back and told us we would have to pay the shipping charges.

We wrote back asking them how much it would cost. They wrote and said they didn't know, but when the time came they'd take it out of our estates.

Wouldn't you think if they wanted our bodies they would be glad to pay the shipping charges? Or at least tell us how much it will cost?

MRS. C.

DEAR MRS. C.: More information is needed here. Send me your full name and address (it will be confidential) and the name of the medical college to which you wrote.

DEAR ABBY: I have been invited to a number of weddings this summer, and my problem is I never know what to say when I go through the receiving line.

I have a friend who always says something funny when he shakes hands with the parents of the bride, like "Well, you aren't LOSING a daughter, you're GAINING a bathroom!"

Is this appropriate or shouldn't something a little more serious be said?

STUMPED FOR WORDS

DEAR STUMPED: The parents of the bride and groom, and the groom, should be congratulated — never the bride.

She is wished a lifetime of happiness, and the jokes are saved for later.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO MAX'S WIFE: You are mountain-climbing over molehills. Be grateful that you still have a husband who always leaves his shoes in the living room.

* * *

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, care of The Pontiac Press.

Better Idea Is to Give a Tea Party

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: My son is engaged to a young woman who has recently come here from England.

She doesn't know many people and my son would like me to give a bridal shower for her so that she can meet some of my friends.

Will you please tell me if such a party would be proper?

* * *

A: I'm sorry, but it would not be proper for you to give a shower for your son's fiancee, but you can give a tea, a cocktail party or any other type of party you choose for her and invite your friends to come in to meet her.

Q: I have several friends who never come to visit me without bringing a present.

It is very nice of them to do this and I do appreciate their thoughtfulness, but it is becoming embarrassing and I wish they wouldn't do it.

Will you please tell me how I can tactfully discourage this practice?

* * *

A: Simply say, "You are wonderfully generous to give me such lovely presents, but please don't do it any more."

Then, if they continue to bring you presents, accept them with the pleasure they are intended to bring.

The Emily Post Institute offers readers booklets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like the booklet, entitled, "The Bride's Trousseau," send 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Emily Post Institute, in care of The Pontiac Press.

Practical Prof Saluted

Try Quiz on Newspaper

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE Q446: Carl R. Turner is the type of practical professor whom I like to salute.

For he is a brilliant attorney who specializes in handling estates.

But he also teaches sophomore economics at Urbana College in Ohio.

DR. CRANE

And Carl uses the Columbus Citizen - Journal as collateral reading for his students.

This classroom use of the daily newspaper is becoming very widespread throughout the United States.

Indeed, you parents should conduct a dinner table quiz each night over the contents of your daily newspaper.

For it contains current history on page one. And the editorial page offers editorials on political science.

Other columns, such as this one, deal with psychology, medicine, finance and even Hollywood chit chat.

FOLLOW DEPARTMENTS

If you will analyze the major fields of interest covered by the daily newspaper, you will find that they follow the most popular departments in the average college or university.

The sports pages, too, compare with the "athletics department of the usual college.

Meanwhile, the comics entertain and SHOULD attract young children into the habit of reading the newspaper instead of relying solely on TV.

* * *

Actually, the comic page should serve as the home "reading laboratory" for youngsters just learning how to read at school.

So follow Carl Turner's admirable plan and utilize the newspaper for whetting the wits of your family.

For example, you can quickly develop a 10-point quiz each day to encourage wider perusal of this newspaper.

At present, children may stop with 2 or 3 minutes on the comic page.

High schoolers may add the sports page and society column and thus spend 10 minutes with the newspaper.

Cultured adults should devote 30 to 45 minutes before they lay down their newspaper.

To help children learn to utilize the newspaper's educational advantages more fully, pick one quiz item from each of 10 pages.

COMPILE QUIZ

For instance, compile a true-false quiz like this:

T F (1) The weatherman predicts a high tomorrow of 62 degrees.

T F (2) The front page auto accident case showed 3 people were killed.

T F (3) Dr. Crane's column today dealt with how to carry on interesting conversation.

T F (4) The medical column discussed gall bladder disease.

T F (5) The price of IBM stock dropped today.

Use this method but expand it to at least 10 quiz items. If you wish, you can include 15 or 20 statements.

That is especially true if different members of the family take turns compiling the daily quiz.

And as a reward, you can pay your child one cent or even 5 cents for each item he gets right.

Write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long, 8 cent stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.

Miss Ratliff Married in Candlelight

MRS. H. THOMPSON

The Macedonia Baptist Church was the setting for the recent vows of Velma Ruth Ratliff to Horace Thompson, followed by reception in the church annex.

★ ★ ★

Rev. L. R. Miner performed the candlelight ceremony before some 250 guests.

Daughter of the Willie Ratliffs of Ditmar Avenue, the bride wore white Chantilly lace over taffeta, styled with tulip neckline and floor-length tiered skirt.

A crystal tiara securing her illusion veil and a cascade of white carnations completed her ensemble.

Glenda Ratliff attended her sister as maid of honor wearing pink satin. Irma Stovall, Doris Coleman, Ethel Simon and Sandra McCants, who served as bridesmaids, appeared in bell-shaped blue satin dresses.

★ ★ ★

Willie Ratliff, the bride's brother was best man for the bridegroom, the son of the Oliver Thompsons of Crystal Lake Drive.

After a honeymoon in Canada, the couple will reside on Osmun Street.

Communications Inspire Model

The "hot line" between Washington and Moscow has inspired a toy manufacturer to commemorate another famous chapter in world communications. The maker has created a model of the famed Great Eastern, largest sailing ship of its day, which laid the Atlantic cable between Newfoundland and Ireland in 1866. The model carries cable - laying equipment and cable-marking buoys.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

"Dear Eunice:

"In a recent column, you told us that it wasn't possible to fringe a straight piece of fabric that has been cut at an angle on the ends. Isn't it possible to fringe the ends of a bias tie?"

Mrs. C. E. S.

Dear Mrs. C.E.S.:

Yes, it is possible to fringe the ends of a tie or scarf that has been cut on the bias, provided you cut the ends on the exact straight grain of the fabric.

This will still leave an angle on the ends of the tie, however, since the cut edge will either be the lengthwise or crosswise grain you should have no difficulty fringing it.

You are very astute for having noticed this, many thanks!

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Mrs. Claude Brooms of Monroe, N.C., is this week's winner of a Tailor Trix pressing board for the following suggestion.

"In working with cotton knits, I have found that the use of single fold cotton bias tape used on hems of sleeves, overblouses and skirt hems etc., is really ideal. The bias tape allows the knit hems to give and yet controls the shape after many machine washings. This tape comes in many colors and can be machine stitched to your garment and then hemmed by hand."

"Dear Eunice Farmer:

"When making raglan sleeves without a gusset, how can I prevent the underarm seam from ripping?

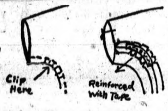
"I have clipped the seams according to pattern instructions, but the clippings seems to be causing the ripping."

Mrs. W. E. S.

Dear Mrs. W. E. S.:

The correct way to finish the curved underarm seam where there is no gusset is as follows: 1. Stitch the underarm area of about 4 inches twice for reinforcement.

2. Clip the underarm curve about every half inch, the clips must be made to within a thread or two of the stitching line.



3. Place this seam on the edge of a pressing board and press the seam open. The clipping, if properly done, will allow the seam to lie flat.

Baste a small piece of hem tape over the clipped seam. Last, turn the garment to the right side and machine stitch each side of the seam line, as close as possible to the seam.

This area is directly at the underarm and will not show unless the arms are raised very high, and will almost prevent any tearing and still give you the benefit of the added ease achieved by clipping your seam.

★ ★ ★

"Dear Eunice:

"I am making a wool A-line skirt and wonder if you advise lining the back to keep it from stretching."

Kathy K.

Dear Kathy:

I would line the skirt because of the A-line, and not because of stretching.

You should use taffeta, firm interfacing, or any fabric with a little body so the skirt will have the proper hang.

Baste this lining to your skirt fabric and treat the two layers as if they were one.

Rebecca (11 years old) says: Do not use cable cord when making a rope belt because it will cause twisting.

YOUR SEWING GLOSSARY: Two-faced fabrics: Two outer fabrics are bonded together (usually by invisible stitches). This type of fabric is found in reversible garments. Some fabrics are two-faced by having the outer fabric and the lining bonded together (these cannot be separated).

Tuition Plan — Save Now, Pay Later

Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley: Our daughter will be ready for college or nurse's training in seven years, our son ready for college in 10 years.

We want to save $40 to $50 a month, starting now, toward their educations. We intend to increase this amount each year.

MARY FEELEY

Can you tell me what we could expect from a savings account, government bonds, and insurance? Also, do you know what nurses' training costs are now?

Mrs. J. R., Streator, Ill.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. R.: Let's figure your regular monthly savings at $50, even though you hope to increase this amount.

Here's how the picture will look at the end of six years:

In a savings account offering 4 per cent interest compounded semi-annually, you will have approximately $4,070. At 4½ per cent, approximately $4,120.

The same amount invested in savings bonds will total a cash value of around $4,050.

AVOID INSURANCE

Since insurance is primarily designed for protection rather than for savings, and would only pay interest at 2¾ to 3 per cent depending on the type of policy, I would suggest you concentrate on a savings account or savings bonds, the slight edge in favor of the savings account.

As you continue your savings plan while you daughter is completing her education, you will be building up your son's college fund at the same time.

You and your husband are taking a very realistic approach. It's much smarter to establish a sum you know you can set aside regularly than to hope for a major windfall in the always dubious future.

While it's back-breaking these days to accumulate enough money to completely cover two college educations in one family, you will at least save up enough to launch your children. It's always possible they may be able to contribute their own earnings later on.

★ ★ ★

You have every reason to be optimistic about this program you're now setting up.

Now for your question about nurse's training costs. You'll find they vary astonishingly, depending on where and how long your daughter plans to train.

Some training courses charge no tuition. Some can run as high as $4,500. About 80 per cent of the training today is given on the premises at hospitals.

"Even where there is no tuition to pay, your daughter would still have certain living expenses.

DECIDE NOW

I suggest that the best thing to do is to decide now, as accurately as you can, where your daughter will want to receive her training.

Why not write to The National League for Nursing, 10 Columbus Circle, New York 19, N.Y. for a list of nursing schools, as well as scholarship programs available. This should guide you in estimating the amount of money she will need.

Dear Miss Feeley: You have made the point several times in your columns that one can really save on the food budget by taking advantage of food "specials" at the market.

I'm wondering—since my family never seems to want the specials when they're offered! If it's chicken, they want beef, or vice versa.

★ ★ ★

Does this kind of food shopping really prove economical in the long run?

I recall an aunt of mine always saying: "Food you don't enjoy doesn't nourish you."

Mrs. L. Y., New York City

Dear Mrs. Y.: If you want to argue it out with the Department of Agriculture, you're braver than I am!

The department says in plain words — based on consumer marketing research — that you can trim 10 per cent off your grocery bill by taking advantage of "specials" at the food market.

★ ★ ★

However — and this is important—you have to be able to use them once you've bought them. And these "specials" must account for a fourth of your purchases.

As for your aunt's remark, I have one I'll stack up against it: Food you can't afford doesn't nourish you, either — for very long!

(Mary Feeley will welcome your questions. Write her in care of The Pontiac Press. She will answer in her column letters of greatest interest.)

Bathing Suits Need Washing

Any swim suit will retain its new look and last longer if rinsed after each wearing and washed frequently. Otherwise, pool water, chemicals, sea water, and sand will take their toll of the fabric.

★ ★ ★

Use the automatic washer for the job. A cold water rinse with slow agitation and a normal spin is recommended. If your washer has the extra rinse cycle, this is ideal when only rinsing is required. To wash, use warm water and slow agitation. Dry on delicate heat. Many of the newer swim suits are made of Spandex and these launder beautifully; however, never use a chlorine bleach.

Linen Look Is Strong for Autumn

The "linen look" is big in coats, suits and dresses. The newest trend is texture . . . often seen but not felt. Styles will feature plain surfaced linens, linen printed with bold stripes and designs and linen embroidered with beautiful, elaborate designs.

Linen knits are designed in soft, late-day clothes for travel and sportswear. Some knits are made of cotton, flax, acetate, and rayon in a cable stitch; others combine rayon, cotton, and flax for a shantung effect; rayon, flax and silk are woven into a fish-net fabric.

★ ★ ★

Many linen-weave fabrics made of rayon are available in a variety of colors, prints, textures and weights.

But the big news in linens comes from foreign markets. Foreign fabric manufacturers are exploring linen blends of flax and Terylene polyester.

The big hurdle is price. A blend of linen and Terylene costs more than a 100 per cent linen fabric. But they say the Terylene gives the fabric wrinkle-resistance that cannot be duplicated even in a linen with a crease-resistant finish.

★ ★ ★

Similar blends have already been used by a few men's wear houses. In the past these blends were used only for knits, and manufacturers had difficulty making anything but neutral beige-like colors.

They don't have this problem with the woven blends.

★ ★ ★

The National Institute of Drycleaning points out that the "tired look" some dark colored linens get can be overcome with a special finish the cleaner adds after the garment is drycleaned.

This finish makes the original color come alive.

Jailed Rights Picketers to Go on Hunger Strike

By The Associated Press

Five civil rights demonstrators in Ann Arbor — jailed by their choice — vowed a hunger strike, while hundreds in Detroit and Saginaw planned prayer meetings and parades today.

The five in Ann Arbor elected jail when they were arraigned with 46 other demonstrators on loitering charges stemming from a sit-in at City Hall Monday night. All await trial.

A spokesman for the city's chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality said the five vowed to go on the hunger strike in their cells.

The sit-in was a protest over the City Council's adoption of an antidiscrimination housing ordinance which demonstrators felt was inadequate.

WON'T POST BOND

Jailed at Ann Arbor were one Negro and four whites who decided not to post a $25 bond.

The sit-in began after the Ann Arbor council, in a 7-4 vote passed the first ordinance in Michigan to prohibit discrimination in the sale or rental of multiple housing of five or more units.

★ ★ ★

Today's demonstration in Detroit will be a scheduled mass prayer service and silent march preceding a city council hearing on a proposed antidiscrimination housing ordinance for Detroit.

★ ★ ★

At Saginaw, clergymen planned to carry a 14-foot wooden cross in silence through city streets to demonstrate their sorrow for the death of four children in a church bombing at Birmingham, Ala.

OTHER DEVELOPMENTS

In other developments:

● A 15-year-old white boy in Detroit told police more than a dozen Negro youths attacked him yesterday and stabbed him in the left arm. Oleg Harhusha said he was walking near a school when one of the Negroes said, "get that white boy."

★ ★ ★

● Dearborn citizens appealed for a second time to the City Council to prevent repetition of incidents such as a Labor Day rock throwing demonstration touched off by a false report that Negroes were moving into a house.

Two Women Knifed in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Two women were found stabbed to death in a blood-drenched room in a home here last night. Police sounded a 13-state alarm for the husband of one of the victims.

The nude bodies of the women were found by the parents of Mrs. Eleanor Butler, 27, who was killed along with Mrs. Joan Finn, 27, of Petersburg, Va., a visitor to the Butlers.

Both victims had been stabbed in the throat and chest. Three blood-stained butcher knives were found in different rooms of the two-story house.

The walls of three downstairs rooms, the stairway and a second floor bedroom were splattered with blood.

Police sought Charles Butler, 31, a mechanic for American Airlines at Idlewild Airport, New York, for questioning. Butler was seen pounding on the front door of the house Monday night.

A police medical examiner said the women were killed Monday night or early yesterday.

BOY MISSING

Butler was believed to have the couple's son, Charles Jr. 9, with him.

Investigators said they found a note to Mrs. Butler in an upstairs bedroom. They said the message "indicated" an accusation of infidelity and was signed with Butler's initials.

LOSING CUSTOMERS — This is the airport at Willow Run, once the scene of bustling activity as an airport for B24 "Liberator" bombers and later as a commercial airport. Operated since 1946 as a commercial airport by the University of Michigan, Willow Run is losing its commercial airline customers to Detroit's Metropolitan airport. The university bought the property from the government for $1.

What Is Willow Run's Future?

YPSILANTI (AP) — Remember back in 1946 when an operating 1,986-acre airport, with buildings included, cost only $1?

This was an unusual deal. But that's what the University of Michigan paid the federal government for nearby Willow Run Airport—$1.

The government built the airport in record time in 1941 as a test field for B24 "Liberator" bombers.

In 1946, it no longer needed the airport and—after the City of Detroit turned down the offer—U of M snatched up the bargain government surplus field.

There was one condition: U of M had to keep Willow Run operating as a public airport, which could be taken over by the government in the event of another war or comparable national emergency.

* * *

After 17 years of operation as one of the nation's safest, busiest and most economical commercial airports, Willow Run has a problem now living up to that condition. Its main customers are moving out.

Willow Run once was Detroit's commercial airport. But by Jan. 1, 1966, all airlines serving Detroit are to be operating from Wayne County-owned Detroit Metropolitan Airport—eight air miles away.

NEW TERMINAL

It costs more to operate from Detroit Metro, but airlines were lured there by a new $8.5-million terminal built in 1958, a location 15 miles closer to downtown Detroit by freeway and longer runways for jets.

Another new terminal and other improvements costing more than $30 million are scheduled for construction in the next two years.

Willow Run, however, is able to handle jets safely now as the result of engineering advancements and experience since jetliners were introduced five years ago.

* * *

With landings and take-offs at a rate of one every three minutes, Willow Run was at its peak as a commercial airport in 1958, just before four major airlines moved to Detroit Metro.

$11 MILLION PAYROLL

More than 66,000 landings and carriers in a single year. The Willow Run payroll for 2,500 employes approached $11 million.

The U of M's Willow Run research laboratories on the east side of the airfield quietly grew into one of the country's largest research installations, doing a volume of business announced as $7 million to $9 million yearly.

The U of M didn't run the airport directly. The airlines serving Detroit formed the Airlines National Terminal Service Co. (ANTSCO) and the U of M contracted with ANTSCO to run the airport.

The university has received nearly $400,000 from ANTSCO under a lease agreement calling for $15,000 rental plus 10 per cent of gross nonairline revenues above $250,000 yearly.

BACK TO MAINTENANCE

It put most of that money back into airport maintenance, and hasn't spent any of its own funds on the airport except for the $1 purchase price.

The commercial peak is past for Willow Run, though. In July 1958, there were 16,063 landings and take-offs — 13,468 of them by commercial airlines.

But last July operations had dropped to 10,319 — with only 5,145 by commercial airlines. Civil operations accounted for the other half.

What will happen to Willow Run when all its commercial airline customers are gone?

TAKE UP SLACK

Airport officials are hoping airline fleets operated by business and industry will take up some of the slack.

U of M officials are looking for more tenants like the air transport service of General Motors Corp., which rents a third of a large hangar as the base of its big fleet of corporate aircraft.

The Hoover Ball Bearing Co. of Ann Arbor and Saline recently constructed a building on the airfield and moved its airplane to Willow Run from Ann Arbor Municipal Airport.

Ocean currents may carry young lobsters hundreds of miles from their spawning place.

The median age of the United States population at the time of the 1960 census was 29.5 years.

Private investment by the U. S. in Pakistan from 1957 to 1960 was 31.8 million rupees ($6.7 million) or less than 10 per cent of total foreign investment.

Pakistan, India Get Protection From Each

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has assured both Pakistan and India that it will protect either one of them from an attack by the other.

Phillips Talbot, assistant secretary of state for near Eastern and South Asian affairs, said yesterday both nations had been assured that in the "highly unlikely event that either country should attack the other, there would be an American response."

One-fourth of Argentina's population is in the Buenos Aires area.

Cheese Valuable Protein Food Useful for Any Time

Cheese is one of our most important protein foods in the American diet. In 1962, per capita consumption reached an all-time high of 9.1 pounds — excluding cottage cheese. With so many varieties from which to choose, the cheese counter has become a popular shopping center as more and more people discover uses for each type.

Cheese is a concentrated and convenient form of milk. Approximately 5 quarts of milk are needed to produce one pound of Cheddar cheese. A one ounce-piece of Cheddar cheese equals about two-thirds of a glass of milk in calcium and protein.

Cheese should be wrapped in either the original wrapper, wax paper, foil or plastic wrap to keep the air from it. Stored in this manner, it will keep well in the refrigerator for several weeks. There are also many covered containers especially designed for cheese storage.

Cheese takes on a mellowness and an enhanced flavor at room temperature. To serve it at the peak of perfection, remove it from the refrigerator 30 to 60 minutes before using. The exception, of course, is cottage cheese which is more perishable.

Assorted fruits and cheeses make an excellent dessert. Try some of the following recipes for other ways to serve a favorite American food.

Crusty Cheese Loaf

1 1-pound loaf unsliced whole wheat bread
1 cup shredded American cheese (¼ pound)
¼ cup finely chopped green olives
2 tablespoons minced onion
½ cup soft butter (1 stick)
2 teaspoons prepared mustard

Cut loaf of unsliced whole wheat bread lengthwise. Cut each half loaf almost through to the bottom crust, into 6 slices. Combine shredded American cheese, finely chopped olives, minced onion, soft butter and prepared mustard. Spread cheese mixture between the slices of bread.

Place on cookie sheet and heat in hot oven, 400 degrees, for 12 minutes or until piping hot and crusty. Makes 12 servings.

★ ★ ★

Miniature Pizzas

1 dozen brown and serve round dinner rolls
¼ cup olive oil
1 cup tomato sauce
1 teaspoon oregano
½ teaspoon salt
½ pound pizza cheese (Mozzarella or Scarmoze)
¼ pound Italian salami (optional)

Slice rolls into ¼ inch thick slices (about 4 slices per roll); place on cooky sheet. Brush each with olive oil. Season tomato sauce with oregano and salt and spread on roll rounds. Slice cheese and cut to fit rounds; place on top of tomato sauce. If salami is used, chop coarsely and sprinkle on top of cheese.

Brown pizzas in a hot oven, 450 degrees, for about 8 to 10 minutes. Serve at once. Makes 4 dozen pizzas.

Gourmet Macaroni

1 7-ounce package macaroni
¼ cup butter (½ stick)
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2½ cups milk
¾ cup blue cheese (4 oz.)
1 cup shredded American cheese (¼ lb.)
1 tablespoon parsley flakes
¼ cup diced pimiento
¼ pound (½ cup) mushrooms, sliced
¼ cup buttered dry bread crumbs

Cook macaroni according to package directions; drain and pour into 1½ quart casserole. Melt butter over low heat; blend in flour and seasonings. Add milk, stirring constantly, and cook until sauce is smooth and thickened. Add cheeses and stir until melted. Add parsley, pimiento and mushrooms.

Pour sauce over macaroni, stirring with a fork to blend thoroughly. Top with buttered crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 30 to 45 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Detroit Woman's Casserole Wins $25,000 Bake-Off Prize

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—A Detroit housewife won $25,000 in a baking contest Tuesday with this plain fare: A hamburger and bean casserole.

Mrs. Roman Walilko, wife of an engineer and mother of five children between ages 9 and 20, made her concoction so tasty, however, that she won out over 99 other contestants.

She calls her prize-winning dish in the Pillsbury Grand National Bake-Off a "Hungry Boys' Casserole." She serves it for buffets or picnics because "it is simple and quick to make, economical and attractive to look at."

Mrs. Walilko baked her original recipe Monday in competition on 100 ranges set up at the Beverly Hilton Hotel and results of the judges' tasting were announced at a luncheon.

Here is Mrs. Walilko's prize winning recipe:

HUNGRY BOYS' CASSEROLE

1 pound ground beef
1 cup sliced celery
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped green pepper
1 clove garlic minced
1¼ cups water
¾ cup tomato paste
¾ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon monosodium glutamate
1 can pork and beans, undrained
1 can garbanzos or lima beans, undrained

Saute in large skillet ground beef, celery, onion, green pepper and garlic until vegetables are tender; drain. Add water, tomato paste, salt, paprika and monosodium glutamate. Simmer 5 minutes.

Reserve 1 cup for biscuits; add beans and peas. Turn into 12x8 or 13x9-inch baking dish.

Biscuit Ingredients:

1½ cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup shortening
1 egg
milk
1 tablespoon cooking oil
½ cup pimiento-stuffed olives
¼ cup blanched slivered almonds
½ teaspoon paprika

Sift flour with baking powder and salt into mixing bowl. Cut in shortening until particles are fine. Combine egg and enough milk to measure ½ cup. Add to flour mixture. Stir until dough clings together.

Knead lightly on floured surface 12 times. Roll out on lightly floured waxed paper to make a 12x9-inch rectangle. Brush with oil.

Combine olives, almonds, paprika and the reserved meat mixture. Spread over dough. Roll up, starting with 12-inch side; seal edge. Cut into 1-inch pieces. Place on meat mixture. If desired, dot with butter and sprinkle with paprika.

Bake at 425 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes until golden brown.

Soften Them

Chef's trick: after taking baked potatoes from the oven, roll them gently to loosen the skin from the pulp. Be sure to protect your hand with a kitchen "mitt."

4 Vegetables for Dinner

Corn, squash and tomatoes are all-American vegetable treasures found by the early explorers in their attempts to reach the black pepper markets of the far East. Appropriately, black pepper is the seasoning secret of this recipe for Fresh Corn with Summer Squash, Mexican Style. It is used to enhance the delicate sweetness of the corn and squash.

To prepare this excellent summer-time dish, melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in a skillet. Add ⅓ cup onion rings and cook until limp and transparent, about 5 minutes.

Add 4 ears of fresh corn, cut from cob; 3 cups diced fresh tomatoes; 2 cups (¾ pound) sliced summer squash; 2 teaspoons salt and ¼ teaspoon ground black pepper. Cook 10 to 15 minutes. Yield: 6 servings.

Turkey Corn Salad

Combine corn cut from the cob, cubed cooked turkey, and chopped red and green peppers. Season with chili powder, salt and pepper. Add enough mayonnaise to hold the ingredients together and serve atop crisp, fresh salad greens.

Glaze Fresh Fruit Pie for Luxury Look

Add pure vanilla extract to the glaze over uncooked fruit tarts or pies: It's delicious!

★ ★ ★

To make a glaze, combine ½ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch and a dash of salt in a 2-cup saucepan. Add 1 cup water. Stir and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thicken and bubbles. Remove from heat and add ¾ teaspoon pure vanilla extract and 2 teaspoons lemon juice. Arrange whole fruit in baked pie or tart shells. Spoon glaze over the top. Refrigerate to set glaze.

Pontiac City Affairs

$333,767 in Contracts Awarded for Community Rec Center

The City Commission last night awarded contracts totaling $333,767 for construction of a community recreation center on the old water works site near Wessen and Walnut.

Low bids totaled some $16,517 more than original estimates for work covered by the contracts.

The general construction contract went to Carl W. Luoma, builder of Southfield, who bid $241,528. Luoma was lowest of four bids submitted.

The plumbing and heating contract was awarded to Eames & Brown, of Pontiac. Their bid of $66,528 was the lowest of six submitted for that contract.

ELECTRIC CONTRACT

Moote Electric, Inc., of Pontiac, was awarded the electrical contract. The firm bid $25,711. Their bid was lowest of three for the electrical contract.

Harry M. Denyes Jr., Associates, Inc., architects for the project, had recommended that contracts be awarded to the low bidders.

Construction is scheduled to begin immediately and the city hopes to have most of the center completed by next spring.

* * *

Original cost estimates totaled $337,728. The architects estimate included about $20,278 for landscaping.

LANDSCAPE LATER

The $333,767 in contracts awarded last night doesn't include landscaping, which will have to be done at a later date.

Denyes said that contractors "will attempt to save money on equipment costs in an effort to get the landscaping done within the original cost estimate."

The center plans call for a 5,225-square-foot swimming pool, bathhouse, concrete shuffleboard courts, horseshoe courts, parking area, bike racks, concession area, bleachers, landscaping of adjacent Rotary Park and remodeling of an existing building for indoor recreation and meeting rooms.

* * *

About half the cost is being paid by a Federal Public Works Acceleration Act grant with the rest coming from capital improvement funds.

LIFE INSURANCE

Also approved last night was a revised group life insurance plan for city employes, including policemen and firemen.

The new plan generally increases coverage available to employes in all wage categories and was asked for by various employe groups.

Both the old and new plans were underwritten by Aetna Life Insurance Co. The city will still pay 69 per cent of the cost of premiums, with 31 per cent deducted from employe paychecks as in the old plan.

* * *

However, the improved plan will cost the city $15,724 more annually. The city's share was $17,651 under the former, more limited plan. It will be $33,376.20 under the revised plan.

EMPLOYES FAVOR

City employes recently voted 594 to 163 in favor of the revised plan which officially became effective Sept. 1 with last night's commission approval.

Commissioners also approved the form for a lease agreement on present Pontiac School District Administrative offices in 40 Patterson St. The lease is for a term ending Oct. 1, 1964, with a six-month extension optional.

Execution of the agreement will be approved at a later date. Presently, the city is buying the Patterson property as part of the R44 urban renewal project.

* * *

The school district will then rent the building until its new building in the civic center is ready to be occupied. Rent is tentatively proposed at about $180 per month.

RESCIND SALE

An agreement approved several weeks ago to sell land in the civic center for a new Pontiac Municipal Employes Credit Union Building, was rescinded by resolution last night.

The resolution also authorized re-execution of the original agreement with "some minor changes in . . . form rather than substance." The technical changes were recommended by urban renewal officers in Chicago. The sales agreement had been signed by commissioners before approval from federal officials.

City Attorney William A. Ewart reported that the purchase of 12 parcels of land had been completed for a proposed employe parking lot at Pontiac General Hospital.

The deeds were accepted by commissioners and City Clerk Olga Barkeley was authorized to advertise for bids on a demolition contract to clear homes on the 12 parcels.

Bids will be opened at 2 p.m. Sept. 30.

The property lies south of and adjacent to the hospital's present public parking lot between Johnson and Seminole.

Eight of the homes must be demolished and four can be moved if owners so desire, according to the city engineer.

Commissioners accepted a low bid of $3,100 by H. H. Stanton Plumbing & Heating Co., of Pontiac, for installation of water service lines in a neighborhood park under development in the R20 urban renewal area.

* * *

Stanton was lowest of three bidders. The engineer's cost estimate for the job was $3,500. The contract will be formally awarded at a future meeting.

STREET PROJECT

A resolution was also passed approving a contract with the Michigan State Highway Department for widening and resurfacing Oakland Avenue from the west city limits southeasterly for 133 feet.

* * *

The city's share of the total estimated cost would be about $580. Most of the project is outside the city. It involves re-channeling traffic at the Telegraph Road - Dixie Highway intersection.

An ordinance to combine voting precincts 3 and 38 in District 1 was introduced and adopted as an emergency ordinance.

* * *

The area now covered by both precincts thus becomes Precinct No. 3, and the "38" is dropped. The change was initiated on recommendation of the city clerk who felt the area contained too few voters to warrant the cost of two separate precinct election staffs.

* * *

Commissioners accepted a resolution from the County Buildings and Grounds Committee and Ways and Means Committee whereby the county will deed a small, triangular parcel on Lafayette Street to the city for widening Lafayette and Wayne as parts of an interior loop road.

Commissioners also accepted "with regrets" the resignation of Stuart Austin from the Fire Civil Service Commission. Austin, a veteran member, is leaving the commission for health reasons.

Final approval was granted a transfer of ownership of a Class C liquor licensed establishment at 505 S. East Boulevard from Harold Wolgast to Martin Jensen and Norman D. VanKuren.

* * *

Also given final approval was a transfer of ownership of an SDM licensed establishment at 588 Franklin Road from Evelyn Mina to Simon and Marie Repovsh.

DANCE PERMITS

Tentative approval was given requests for dance permits in connection with a Class B hotel license at the Waldron Hotel lounge and a Tavern and SDM license at 417 Auburn Ave.

Public hearings were slated for Oct. 1 on the city's plans to construct curb, gutter, grade and gravel on part of Seward, and curbs, gutters and blacktop on West Iroquois and Linda Vista.

Cost estimates for each job, presented last night, are as follows.

* * *

Seward, Osmun to Murphy Park: Assessed cost, $4,586; city share, $3,036.10; sewer stubs, $286; total cost, $7,910.10.

* * *

West Iroquois, Algonquin to Cherokee: Assessed cost, $1,753.28; city share, $2,715.20; total cost, $4,468.48.

* * *

Linda Vista, Carr to existing pavement: Assessed cost, $555.24; city share, $2,471.96; total cost, $3,027.20.

Purge Urged of 'Leftists' in California

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Charles H. Wilson, D - Calif., believes the California Young Democrats have been captured by the "radical left," while the state's Young Republicans are captive to the "radical right."

In a speech before the House yesterday, Wilson called on California Democratic Party officials to oust the "unscrupulous radicals" who have won control of the Young Democrats.

He said he was not responsible for what happened to the Young Republicans but was concerned over his own party's youth group.

Serve With Fruit

Brown Cooked Cereal Slices

It's back to school time and nation - wide studies show that one out of every five children is going off to school without an adequate breakfast.

Johnnie gets up late, dresses, and dashes downstairs with only minutes to school bus time. Mother may not have had time to fix an appetizing breakfast so Johnny gulps some juice and a doughnut and is off on a run.

But here's a tasty and nutritious breakfast that Mom can have on the table in a matter of minutes . . . cream of wheat pancakes. The cereal is cooked and poured into cans the day before. Apricots can be pitted and wrapped in bacon. Come breakfast time, all she has to do is pop the bacon wrapped in apricots in the oven, unmold the cereal, and slice and fry it as each child appears.

As an alternative to the apricots try wrapping links of sausage in slices of bacon and baking in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes.

Cream of Wheat Pancakes

2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
3 cups milk
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup quick cream of wheat cereal
1 (1-pound 13-ounce) can whole apricots, well drained and pitted
5 bacon slices, halved
¼ cup butter or margarine
Syrup

Lightly grease one 8-ounce and one 4-ounce can. Combine sugar and cinnamon and sprinkle over inside of can. Cook cream of wheat according to package directions, pour into cans and chill overnight. Pit apricots and wrap each in a half of bacon slice. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 25 to 30 minutes.

Meanwhile, remove cereal from cans, cut into ½-inch slices and fry quickly in butter or margarine until lightly browned. Allow 2 to 3 slices and 2 bacon wrapped apricots per serving. Serve with syrup. Makes 5 servings.

Champagne and Sherry Mix in Punch

An impromptu party punch simplifies spur-of-the-moment entertaining. This rather inexpensive version has a Sherry-fruit juice base that can be made up and kept in the refrigerator for any party-type emergency. The nutty California Sherry — so extra complementary to fruit flavors — sparkles elegantly when a bottle of Champagne is added just before serving.

It's especially easy for open house affairs because all you need do is have several recipes of base waiting in the refrigerator. When the punch bowl needs refilling, just pour in a recipe of base, a bottle of California Champagne and a bottle of sparkling water. No last-minute measuring and mixing for the host or hostess!

Fruited Sherry Punch

2 (4-5 qt.) bottles sherry
3 cups strained orange juice
2 cups canned pineapple juice
Thinly cut rind of 1 lemon (in one piece)
1 (4-5 qt.) bottle champagne
1 quart bottle sparkling water

Combine sherry, orange and pineapple juices and lemon rind. Cover and chill several hours or overnight. Pour over ice in punch bowl. Add chilled champagne and sparkling water just before serving. Makes 5 quarts.

Convenience Food Quickens Cooking

Jigtime Green Peas and Dried Beef

1 package (8-ounces) frozen green peas with cream sauce
¾ cup milk
½ to 1 teaspoon curry powder, if desired.
1 jar (about 4-ounces) dried beef
1 or 2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Place contents of package of peas in a saucepan with the milk. Cover and over medium heat bring just to a boil. Remove from heat and stir until sauce is smooth. Add curry powder, if used, and stir until blended with sauce.

Meanwhile rinse dried beef with hot water; drain well. Heat butter in a 9- or 10-inch skillet; add beef and cook quickly, turning, until slightly crisp. Serve peas with beef. Makes 3 servings.

Add Corn to Salad

You can stretch a tossed green salad, and make it especially interesting to men, by adding whole-kernel corn. Cut the kernels from leftover cooked corn on the cob, or use canned corn; in the latter case, drain it thoroughly.

Sweeten Beverage With Corn Syrup

Here's a refreshing beverage that's bound to appeal to guests of all ages.

Summer Punch

1½ cups light corn syrup
½ cup strongly brewed tea
½ cup lemon juice
¾ cup orange juice
1 cup pineapple juice
1 quart cold water
1 bottle (4 ounces) maraschino cherries, if desired.
1 pint gingerale, chilled

Mix together corn syrup, tea, lemon juice, orange juice, pineapple juice, water and, if used, the cherries. Chill. Add gingerale just before serving. Serve as is or over ice cubes.

Note: If cherries are not used; punch may be tinted a delicate pink by adding a few drops of red food coloring.

Serving Ideas on Cantaloupe

Cantaloupe is a natural for bite-size appetizers. Wrap cubes of cantaloupe with prosciutto, boiled ham, salami or chipped beef and spear on picks. Skewer cantaloupe balls and cubes of cream cheese or cantaloupe chunks and cocktail sausages.

For soup-and-salad days, serve your favorite soup with a platter of cooling cantaloupe wedges. Pass a do-it-yourself assortment from the spice shelf such as curry powder, dill weed, lemon thyme and mint leaves in addition to salt and pepper to sprinkle on the melon.

★ ★ ★

East meets West in "Cantaloupe Orientale" by sprinkling chopped crystallized ginger over the traditional combination of vanilla ice cream in cantaloupe halves.

Jelly Tints Meringues to Serve on Custard

Beat 1 egg white until it stands in soft stiff peaks. Gradually beat in 2 tablespoons currant jelly and ¼ teaspoon pure vanilla extract. (If a deeper pink is desired, add 1 drop pink food coloring. Drop on hot water and bake in slow oven (325 degrees) for 15 or 20 minutes, until lightly browned. Serve on soft custards.

DEVILED STEAK — The taste and tenderness of Deviled Steak is enhanced by marinating several hours in bottled lemon juice and other ingredients.

With Lemon Juice

Tenderize Chuck Steak

The most tempting and flavorful meats need not be the most expensive. The taste and tenderness of an inexpensive cut may be enhanced by marinating for several hours in a combination of bottled lemon juice, spices and other ingredients.

Deviled Steak is a chuck or round steak, which has been marinated four hours in bottled lemon juice, catsup, oil, Worcestershire sauce, soy sauce, rosemary, dry mustard and garlic.

The marinade gives a spicy tang to the meat, which is further enhanced if it is broiled over charcoal.

You may add a gourmet side dish by sauteeing mushrooms in butter and stirring in a little of the marinade for seasoning.

Deviled Steak

4 pounds chuck or round steak, 1 inch thick
½ cup bottled lemon juice
¼ cup catsup
¼ cup oil
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 teaspoon rosemary, crushed
½ teaspon dry mustard
2-3 cloves garlic, minced

Place steak in single layer in shallow pan. Combine remaining ingredients; pour over steaks. Marinate meat 4 hours, turning several times. Broil steak on grill over hot coals. Cook steak to doneness you like turning once. Baste with marinade during broiling. Yield: 8 servings.

Bananas Good As Snack Food

Nutrition historians of the future may well label the 1960's the Snack Age, for according to recent surveys more Americans prefer to nibble than to sit down to an honest-to-goodness breakfast, lunch or dinner. This sounds like bad news for dieters.

Not so, claim nutritionists. Providing you snack moderately and on the right kind of fare, you can stay in the swim of things and still stay slim. As a matter of fact, snacks are often recommended as a means of dulling appetites for the main meals of the day.

★ ★ ★

High on the list of approved snacks is fruit. Not only is it light in calories, it satisfies the sweet tooth craving for off-limit foods. And for ease of eating, convenience in carrying and nutritional content . . . nothing beats a banana.

You can peel it easily, no knife needed, and eat it on the move. And there's no stickiness left to wash off. It travels neatly to work for those mid-morning pick-me-ups.

Just one banana and you'll be recharged with a fresh supply of energy for it contains carbohydrates that are easily digested, plus vitamins and minerals.

In calories, however, all you get is 85. Another nice thing about the banana from the weight watcher's point of view is this: since it leaves you with a well-filled feeling, you won't have the urge to reach for another something-or-other an hour or two later.

Consequently, when you join your friends at coffee breaks or look for an evening snack when watching television, treat yourself to a banana . . . an all-American favorite.

Rice Sandwich, Salad

A little cooked rice leftover? Add it to mixed cooked and raw shredded vegetables, dress with French dressing and use as a sandwich filling. This medley also makes a good salad. Use crisp greens with both sandwich and salad.

Grated Carrots Put Zip Into Meat Loaf

This meat loaf, using fine dry breadcrumbs and grated carrot, has good flavor and texture.

Carrot Meat Loaf

1 egg
¾ cup milk
½ cup fine dry (sifted) breadcrumbs
1 pound ground chuck beef
3 tablespoons finely grated onion (pulp and juice)
¼ cup minced parsley
½ cup finely grated carrot
1¼ to 1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

In a medium mixing bowl beat egg just enough to combine yolk and white; add milk and beat to combine. Add crumbs, beef, onion, parsley, carrot, salt and pepper; use mixing fork or hands to mix together thoroughly. Pack into oven-glass loaf dish (about 8½ by 4½ by 2¾ inches).

Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven 50 minutes. Allow to stand in oven (with heat turned off and door open) or in a warm place for about 10 minutes so meat will re-absorb juices. Loaf may be sliced and served from dish. Makes 6 servings.

Heap Poor Boy With Shrimp

Pity the poor boy who's never had a Poor Boy! Some call this popular sandwich a Hero — but whatever you call it, you'll be the heroine of the family when you serve it. Delicious any time of the year, the Poor Boy makes satisfying supper fare for summer. This one is filled with breaded shrimp.

Since shrimp is loaded with precious nutrients, you can be sure this dish will provide a well-balanced meal. Tomato slices — extra special now that they're in season, and crisp lettuce are added — served with a tempting tartar sauce.

BREADED SHRIMP "POOR BOY"

Split a loaf of French or Italian bread lengthwise. (Frankfurter rolls or hard rolls may also be used.) Spread both split surfaces with butter. On bottom half, arrange lettuce leaves and skinned tomato slices. Top with breaded shrimp that have had tails removed, and then have been heated according to directions on package. (Use about 2 packages.)

Liberally dot shrimp with Tangy Tartar Sauce, below. Top with upper half of bread and garnish if desired with a few reserved shrimp. Makes 2 to 3 "poor boys."

Tangy Tartar Sauce

1 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
1 small onion, grated
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
¼ teaspoon horseradish
1 large dill pickle, coarsely grated

Combine all ingredients; mix well. Serve garnished with additional coarsely grated dill pickle. Makes about 1 cup.

Much Meat Available at Lower Prices

Shoppers will find most pork cuts, beef roasts, lamb, and poultry at special prices in many stores this week. Supplies of most vegetables will remain large until heavy frost. Apples, pears, plums, and grapes are fruits in generous supply.

Liberal receipts of hogs in the 12 major markets and slightly lower wholesale prices are being reflected at retail reports the Consumer Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer. Loin roasts, steaks, country style ribs, and ham are some of the better pork values this week.

A hindquarter of U. S. Choice or comparable grade will yield about 104 pounds of retail cuts. This would include approximately 31 pounds of round steaks or roasts; 19 pounds of porterhouse and T-bone steaks; 17 pounds each of hamburger and sirloin steaks or roasts; 10 pounds of stewing beef; 6 pounds of rump roasts; and 2 pounds of flank steak.

Broiler production is about 7 per cent larger than last year at this time. Shoppers will find that broilers, Tom turkeys and roasters are receiving special emphasis in some stores.

Both lamb and veal prices remain about as they were a week ago, however, some stores are featuring lamb cuts at less than usual costs. Barbecued breast or neck slices braised and served with buttered noodles are two lamb dishes to ease the meat budget . . . yet bring the compliments.

Did you know that tuna surpasses all other canned fish and seafood packs? Choose from solid packs of fillets; chunk-style broken into bite-size pieces; or grated or flaked tuna in small bits. Tuna may be packed in vegetable oil, olive oil, or water.

Most vegetables will be in abundance until severe frost occurs. Buyers report that broccoli, cabbage, carrots, celery, tomatoes, head lettuce, squash of all varieties, and peppers are in heavy supply.

If there are still plans to can tomatoes, do so before the end of the month. Volume supplies are expected for about two more weeks.

Prospects now indicate that Michigan's apple crop will be 11.5 million bushels. The forecast is 88 per cent of last year and 96 per cent of average. A smaller crop is expected for all varieties except Northern Spies, with Red Delicious down the sharpest (42 per cent).

Supplies of Michigan blueberries, cantaloupes, and peaches grow smaller.

There are plenty of pears from Michigan and western states. Don't let russeting (browning on the skin) influence purchase as this does not affect eating quality.

Among the many processed foods offered at special prices this week are: peas, corn, beans, tomato juice, applesauce, and waffles.

The first presidential address telecast from the White House was delivered by President Truman on Oct. 5, 1947.

Say Dispatches From Saigon

'JFK Loses Grip on Viet Nam Policy'

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press International

The word from Saigon is that President Kennedy has lost control of both U. S. policy and personnel in South Viet Nam and that he has ordered Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge to help him regain control.

This is discouraging word. It came over the weekend in dispatches from Saigon. These dispatches evidently were based on a closed-door briefing of U. S. correspondents in Saigon, including UPI's Neil Sheehan and the New York Times' David Halberstam.

Both Sheehan and Halberstam attributed their statements about the South Viet Nam situation to informed sources. The evidence indicates that the informed source probably was Ambassador Lodge or someone speaking for him.

* * *

Both correspondents reported a state of policy chaos among Americans in Saigon. The United States has become a five-headed monstrosity in Viet Nam. Nobody knows who's keeping store.

FIGHT EACH OTHER

The five policy agencies, apparently now engaged mostly in fighting each other or among themselves, are the:

—U. S. Embassy.

—Military Assistance Command.

—Central Intelligence Agency (CIA).

—Agency for International Development (AID).

—United States Information Agency.

These agencies are disputing whether the United States should continue to support the incredible Ngo Dinh Diem family administration of Viet Nam. Underlying this row is serious disagreement between military and civilian officials over whether the war is going well in Viet Nam or so badly that the Communists are likely to win in the end.

The military claims the war has been going well. The optimistic reports of the military from Saigon largely have determined Kennedy administration policy.

U. S. foreign policy has been blotted with such spectacular administrative debacles many times before this. Some of them led to loss of China to the Reds; misplays at Yalta; division of Germany to leave Berlin surrounded by Communists; U. S. aid to Castro in taking over Cuba.

MORE COSTLY

These were costly. A Communist triumph in Viet Nam and extending through Southeast Asia could be even more so. How could it be then that the supposedly experienced and able Americans assigned in Viet Nam to the various U. S. agencies came in time to act like a clutch of pouty teenagers.

* * *

And how long will that continue? And what were the State and Defense departments doing when U. S. actions in Viet Nam began to become self-defeating?

Search for Reds a 'JFK' Pursuit

CARACAS (UPI) — The Justice Ministry announced today that the escape of nine Castro-Communists from a prison in Trujillo is being "investigated with vigor."

The fugitives are believed to have taken to the rugged mountains of Western Venezuela, perhaps with the idea of joining up with Red guerrillas in Falcon State, north of Trujillo.

The ministry said two of the fugitives who had not previously been identified are Octavio Acosta Bellow and Francisco Uzcategui Reven, civilians involved in the abortive Carupano revolt of May 1962.

* * *

The other fugitives included four ex-officers dishonorably discharged from the armed forces for taking part in the Carupano uprising and three guerrilla leaders.

NEW LOOK—Indicative of styling refinements in all 1964 Buick series is the Wildcat, which carries a redesigned grille and side molding. Side ventiports are placed one above the other. Unseen are Buick's numerous changes to transmission and engine, which give the buyer a wide variety of performance or economy options. Buicks go before the public Oct. 4.

Some Style Alterations

Buick Changes Mechanically

The spotlight is on mechanical changes for the 1964 Buicks, with new features to be found in body and frame structures, engines and transmissions.

But stylists have also been at work on the LeSabre, Wildcat and Electra series, and the Buick Special is an entirely new line with almost a foot added length.

The six Buick models go on display Oct. 4 at Homer Hight Motors, Inc., 160 S. Washington, Oxford; Al Hanoute, Inc., 209 N. Park, Lake Orion; Oliver Motor Sales; Inc., 210 Orchard Lake; Shelton Pontiac-Buick, Inc., 223 Main, Rochester, and Fischer Buick, Inc., 515 S. Woodward, Birmingham.

NEW TRANSMISSION

Buick's new super Turbine transmissions are described by Edward D. Rollett, general manager, as the most important single development since the torque-converter.

The new three-element converter is said to be smoother in operation and lighter in weight.

Backing up the transmission are aluminum V8s with 300 cubic inches, and a V6 with an increased displacement of 225 inches. Use of aluminum parts, dual exhaust and carburetor setups are various options.

Among styling changes are a wider, lower appearance for the LeSabre; new grill and trim for the Wildcat; integral tail lights on the Electra 225.

The Riviera Sports coupe retains its distinctive looks, but has engineering improvements.

INCREASED SPACE — Lincoln Continental for 1964 offers increased interior space and luggage capacity while retaining its general styling. The new Lincoln will be three inches longer over-all, with a 5.4-inch-wider roof. A new grille enriches the longer profile. Lincoln Continental, which also offers a four-door convertible, continues as Ford Motor Company's top-of-the-line car, with many luxury items as standard equipment or extra-cost options.

In New Lincoln

Pledged to continue a "classic styling theme," the Lincoln Continental for 1964 has a host of engineering improvements that have not greatly altered its basic appearance.

But the new model year marks the first change in the Continental's dimensions since the current series was introduced in 1961, said Ben D. Mills, Ford Motor Co. vice president and general manager of Lincoln-Mercury Division.

The Lincoln Continental will be introduced to the public Oct. 2 at Lloyd Motors, Inc., 232 S. Saginaw, and at Bob Borst Lincoln-Mercury, Inc., 479 S. Woodward, Birmingham.

Car length, wheelbase and rear-door width have been increased three inches, while the roof is 5.4 inches wider. The change provides greater headroom inside, a longer profile outside.

NEW GRILLE

A new grille will make its appearance, with revamped exterior ornamentation. Floor sides and underbody reinforcements are new.

Air conditioner outlets are now an integral part of the instrument panel, while the ignition switch has been moved right of the steering wheel.

Extra-cost options are power seats, power steering, power brakes and power windows. Standard items are an AM radio, heater-defroster, whitewall tires and rear-seat/radio speaker.

Lincoln Continental has the only four-door U.S. made convertible. Its roof has a new contour and a soil-resistant vinyl coating.

CUSTOM 880—The entire Dodge 880 and Custom 880 series look new for 1964, with changed grille and a rear-end treatment that features wide tail lights. Styling is crisp, with ornamentation held to a single side molding the length of the car. Options available for the Custom 880 models, include tilting steering wheel and four-speed, floor-mounted transmission.

Design Changes in Series

Dodge Luxury Models Priced Moderately

The '64 Dodge 880 and Custom 880, which go on display Friday, are aimed at the buyer "who wants big-car luxury at a moderate price."

★ ★ ★

Top of Chrysler Corp.'s Dodge line, the 880's have undergone styling changes, and offer also optional tilt steering wheel and four-speed manual floor shift transmission.

The six models of the deluxe Custom 880 series and three of the lower-priced Dodge 880 models can be seen at Spartan Dodge, Inc., 211 S. Saginaw.

Styling changes include a concave grille with a pattern of linked rectangles, crossed by a slender bar. Side ornamentation is a thin, single molding extending the length of the car.

★ ★ ★

Bold, horizontal tail lights dominate the rear. A larger rear window extends into the roof. Interiors reflect the luxury of soft vinyls, fine fabrics and subdued colors.

V8 ENGINE

Under the hood is a 361-cubic-inch V8 that operates on regular gas, while a high performance option is a 383-cubic-incher with two-barrel carburetor.

★ ★ ★

All 880 cars are 17 feet, 10.8 inches long, station wagons an inch and one-half longer. Among 13 exterior colors offered is "Anniversary Gold" in honor of Dodge's 50th year.

Actress Hope Lange Will Marry Producer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Hope Lange said Tuesday she will marry movie producer Alan J. Pakula.

It will be the first marriage for Pakula, 35, the second for the 28-year-old actress. She divorced actor Don Murray in 1961. They have two children, Christopher, now 9, and Patricia, 7.

An estimate by the Department of Agriculture, based on cost per person as compared with a family of four, shows how food costs vary in relation to the size of the family: 20 per cent more for an individual; 10 per cent more for a couple; 5 per cent more for three; 5 per cent less for five; and 10 per cent less for a family of six or more.

Gibbs Begins New Career

Ex-GOP Executive Helped State Victory

By JIM DYGERT

Although his six-year career as a full-time Republican party professional is over, John A. (Jack) Gibbs does not plan to abandon altogether his favorite field — politics.

Gibbs, 31, of Royal Oak this week began a new job as an account representative for a Detroit advertising agency after resigning as executive assistant to the GOP state chairman.

The party's loss of a talented organization man, however, may turn up later as the GOP's gain of a candidate.

Gibbs hopes, "possibly in a few years," to get his political life back on a full-steam basis.

But then it will more likely be as a candidate for public office than as a paid party staff member, despite his flair for for political organization.

"I hope to run for office," Gibbs says, without naming a specific one.

NOT CONGRESS

But not for Congress in 1964 as has been speculated.

"That's too soon," says Gibbs, who left his full-time party job in order to build a "financial and career base" for himself.

Gibbs' one campaign experience — for the GOP state chairmanship in February — is behind his thoughts of turning from party organization to candidacy for public office in the future.

★ ★ ★

Though unsuccessful and disappointing, that one election contest — in which his former boss in the Oakland County GOP, Arthur G. Elliott Jr., beat him — whetted his appetite for the excitement of the race.

It gave him a taste of how the other half of political circles revolve, and he liked it, even though the loss applied the clincher to his decision to quit full-time politics for now.

He had said before the contest that he would seek a job in private business if he lost. He stayed on as Elliott's assistant while looking for that job.

ENTERED RACE

Then assistant to former state GOP Chairman George Van Puersem, Gibbs entered the state chairmanship race in February at the urging of supporters in Oakland County who thought Elliott would be more valuable to the GOP in Gov. George Romney's office where he then held a temporary post.

Van Puersem had announced he would not seek re-election and Gibbs encouraged by Romney's statement that he had no preference for the post despite his naming of Elliott, his campaign manager last fall, as a "qualified candidate."

But Gibbs withdrew on the eve of the state convention when he learned that the majority of delegates, including those from Oakland County, were backing Elliott as Romney's unspoken but well understood choice.

He had worked only briefly in private business — as a technical writer for Pontiac Motor Division — after graduating from Ohio State University and General Motors Institute and before becoming Elliott's full-time assistant in 1957 when Elliott was Oakland County GOP chairman.

Gibbs moved up to the state level as Van Puersem's assistant after heading the GOP's southwestern branch office in Detroit for a while beginning in mid-1961, about the same time Elliott stepped down as county Republican chairman.

Gibbs helped Elliott build the county GOP into one of the state's most powerful Republican organizations. Republicans today differ over which of them deserves the most credit for that success.

COORDINATOR

Gibbs was campaign coordinator for the state GOP last fall and for the April 1 election in which the Republican - backed new state constitution eked out a narrow victory.

He also is credited with drawing the blueprint for the Detroit's branch office which many observers said was a greater factor in Romney's victory last fall than ex-Gov. John B. Swainson's veto of the controversial Bowman Bill to stop Detroit's taxation of suburbanites.

Action in Area Communities Awaited for Dequindre Sewer

By DICK HANSON

While the Detroit Water Commission has agreed to extend the Dequindre interceptor sewer 9½ miles in order to serve much of North Oakland County, the next step is up to local communities that would benefit, County Public Works Director R. J. Alexander declared today.

"Before Detroit will go ahead with the $4-million extension, Waterford, Independence, West Bloomfield, Avon and Pontiac Township must agree to finance construction of generally east-west interceptor sewers that would tie in at Dequindre Road," he said.

Alexander estimated that the total cost to the four communities for the east-west interceptors would be between $11- and $12 million.

"So far, Waterford Township is the only one ready to go ahead," he said, "but it can't proceed until the other townships between it and Dequindre Road are in agreement."

★ ★ ★

He pointed out that the interceptor sewers are needed to open North Oakland County to new construction and resultant population growth of the county.

POPULATION HIKE

According to Alexander, the population in the areas concerned is expected to increase from 103,549 to 141, 000 by 1985 if the sewers are put in.

He said the population boom otherwise is assured by the completion of I-75, which cuts the travel time between North Oakland County and Detroit to less than an hour, and also by the existence of Oakland University.

"Based on our population projections, a 20-year bond issue to finance the east-west construction could be paid off through a connection charge to users of about $330 to $375 plus approximately $14 a year debt retirement charge," said Alexander.

★ ★ ★

The present population in these communities is served by septic tanks, which limits new construction because of the health factor involved.

DETROIT TREATMENT

The new sewers would carry sewage into Detroit for treatment via the Dequindre interceptor sewer, which is now under construction from 14 Mile Road south into Detroit.

This $8-million project is scheduled for completion sometime next year.

Cost of extending the Dequindre sewer north to Avon Road would be retired by a special charge of 55 cents per 1,000 cubic feet of water.

This rate would be in addition to Detroit's regular sewage disposal charge of $1.19 per 1,000 cubic feet of water, said Alexander.

★ ★ ★

He said the townships would have to build between 20 and 30 additional miles of interceptor sewers to benefit from the proposed Dequindre extension.

Then it would be mostly up to new land developers to provide lateral systems for new subdivisions, he added.

TO START TALKS

Alexander, who first proposed the extension to the Detroit Water Commission, said his department would now begin negotiations with the townships.

He said the $11- to $12-million costs could be apportioned out to the townships about as follows:

Avon paying 25.2 per cent; Pontiac 9.3 per cent; Waterford 45.7 per cent; West Bloomfield (only a small northern portion of the entire township), 4.1 per cent; and Independence, 15.7 per cent.

★ ★ ★

He said the proposed construction of new sewers could be completed in about two years, barring any local problems.

Animal Drug Rules Opposed by HEW

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Animals and human beings both would face increased risk under legislation to establish special regulations for veterinary drugs, according to the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

★ ★ ★

The department told a congressional subcommittee yesterday it was opposed to the measure because it was "against the public interest." The bill would amend the federal food, drug and cosmetic act to assure "the safety and effectiveness of new animal drugs."

Quints Bitter Toward Parents

Surviving Dionnes Reveal Painful Life

NEW YORK (UPI) — The four surviving Dionne quintuplets disclosed today that their childhood was painfully unhappy and blamed their parents for failing to treat them as separate identities and expose them to ordinary experiences.

* * *

In a bitter autobiography appearing in the current issue of McCall's Magazine — less than a week after the birth of the Fischer quintuplets in South Dakota — the Dionnes said their childhood was ridden with a sense of guilt inflicted by their parents.

They said their parental home in Corbell, Ont., was "the saddest home we ever knew."

Annette, Marie and Cecile are now married and have a total of nine children, and Yvonne is a nun. They are 29.

* * *

The famous sisters, who entitled their biography "We Grew Up in Trouble," said their mother was convinced she had been singled out by God for a "miracle" but feared the world would think of her and her husband as animals because of the multiple birth.

Mrs. Dionne told them the first thing she said to her husband after their birth was, "They will say we are pigs."

The sisters said their parents "behaved toward each other as though they had been partners in some unspoken crime by bringing us into the world" and "drummed into us that the discord in which the family lived much of the time was our doing."

* * *

"Dad" and "Mom" Dionne treated their older children as one family, the quints as a separate category.

ONE ENTITY

"We were treated as five who really amounted to one, five of a kind so close and alike that we could not possibly have separate identities or desires," they wrote.

"We were drenched with a sense of having sinned from the hour of our birth . . . we did not know any boys to be friends with . . . we had no training whatever for any kind of career."

The Dionnes said their happiest years were those early ones spent separated from their family in the nursery built for them in Corbell.

* * *

The long, determined struggle of their father, Oliva Dionne, to wrest control of his daughters from Dr. A. R. Dafoe, who delivered them, and their sister Emilie's epileptic seizures darkened the latter years lived with their family.

'SHAMEFUL THING'

"The family considered her (Emilie's) illness a shameful thing," they said. "From what doctors say these days, it is unlikely that she could have been cured; but they say modern care can keep the seizures in check. Emilie had no such care."

The surviving quints wrote that they learned to treat Emilie themselves and always watched her during seizures to make sure she did not suffocate.

They said her death by suffocation in a convent several years ago probably resulted from "being alone with no one at her side to take care of her."

The sisters said that after a pampered babyhood in the nursery, they were forced to clean bathrooms in their parents' home, feed hired hands, milk cows and make scrapbooks of holy pictures until they were sent away to a Catholic college.

Their father allowed them only $2 a month each spending money at college, they said.

"We could not make out what the mother superior meant when she said: 'You are rich enough to buy the whole college if you cared to'," they wrote. They said they later learned they were worth more than $1 million.

JFK Airs Tax Cut on TV Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy goes before the nation tonight to try to stir up a strong tide of support for his $11-billion tax reduction program.

* * *

The bill is awaiting a vote in the House. But the Senate is expected to provide the toughest hazard, with opposition running strong and a possibility the bill could be lost in a filibuster over civil rights legislation.

* * *

In advance of Kennedy's 6 p.m. EST speech over all the national radio and television networks, Republicans in Congress demanded a dollars-and-cents pledge of spending control.

* * *

"We are tired of listening to these generalities," said Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, the chief Republican tax spokesman.

ACTION PLOTTED

Although the House is not expected to vote on the tax cut until a week from today, preliminary parliamentary maneuverings were under way as Republicans and some Democrats sought an opening to tie a spending limitation to the bill.

* * *

The House Rules Committee called a meeting to decide under what procedures the measure will be brought to the floor next Tuesday.

* * *

Kennedy is expected to renew the argument his administration has been making—that spending will be rigidly controlled and is in fact leveling off, and that next year's budget deficit will be smaller than this year's.

* * *

The administration position is that the proposed tax cut, which would be effective in two stages —Jan. 1 and a year later—will stimulate business, thus increasing tax revenues and eventually balancing the budget.

EXPECT RECOGNITION

Many congressional observers also expect the President specifically to recognize a declaration written into the bill calling for economy and use of additional revenues to reduce the public debt.

* * *

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee, who drafted that section, has said it is intended to mean a choice of tax reduction, and not big government spending, as a means of building the U.S. economy—"And we want it understood that we do not intend to try to go along both roads at the same time."

* * *

Republicans contended such expressions of sentiment by the executive or the Democratic majority were not enough.

* * *

Complaining that administration economy pledges "are never anything you can hold them to," Byrnes said, "We want a limitation in figures. We want to tie the second portion of this tax cut to a requirement that spending next year, at least, not go beyond the $96 billion called for in this year's administrative budget.

"The President has not abandoned the plan to spend $4 billion more."

* * *

As for Mills' statement, Byrnes said, "I've heard too many of those made, and seen them forgotten the next day."

June Allyson Back to Work: Judy Garland Is the Reason

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — "It was Judy who made me go back to work," said June Allyson, her old-time vivacity again in evidence.

Except for a brief television drama last spring, she had been inactive since the death of her husband, Dick Powell, Jan. 3. She spent much of her time grieving.

THOMAS

Then one night Judy Garland spotted her at a restaurant.

"She came over to my table and started to bawl me out," June recalled. "She told me, 'You look terrible. You don't even look like a movie star. Your eyes are all red. Have you been spending all your time crying in the back room?'

"NEEDED"

"I had to admit that I had." 'All right,' she said. 'You're going to work on my show. I need you and you're going to help me out.' "

That's the way it happened, and I found June rehearsing for the Garland show at CBS, her hair in curlers and a new note of enthusiasm in her voice.

* * *

"I didn't think I could do it," she said, "I've had two throat operations and I didn't know if I could still sing. I haven't done anything musical in 10 years."

She reminisced about the old days when she and Judy starred at MGM.

USED BY STUDIO

"We didn't find out about it until later, but the studio used to work us against each other," she said. "They'd say to Judy, 'Now don't you get out of line, because we've got this new girl Allyson ready to take over for you if you do.'

* * *

"Then they'd say to me, 'Don't start thinking you're great, because Judy is the big star around here.' The reason we're both so short is that they kept beating us down. We never got to be really good friends until after we left Metro."

* * *

June lost her gaiety when asked about her plans to marry Glen Maxwell, owner of Newport Beach barber shops. "I don't want to talk about it," she said, and then she did.

"Where is the engagement ring I'm supposed to have?" she asked, pointing to the wedding band and solitaire from her marriage to Powell. "And how could I find anyone good enough to marry after Richard?"

Even St. Louis Has Few Doubts Now in NL Race

Dodgers Whip Cardinal Nine Behind Koufax

Ace Lefty Handcuffs Losers on 4 Hits; Lead at 3 Games

ST. LOUIS (AP) — There was little doubt today — even in St. Louis — which National League team would meet the New York Yankees in the World Series.

It should be the Los Angeles Dodgers, who whipped the Cardinals for the second straight night, 4-0 Tuesday, to widen their first-place lead to three games over St. Louis.

* * *

This is a different Dodger team than the one that blew the pennant last year. Different because it has a healthy Sandy Koufax instead of just another sorefingered left-hander as Sandy was in the latter part of last year.

The 27-year-old southpaw made only 87 pitches, only 21 of which were called balls. He did not give up a hit until Musial singled to open the Cards' seventh.

He did not issue a pass and he came close to being scored upon in only one inning. And it was not because he had trouble with the Cardinal hitters but with his own fielding.

After hitting catcher Tim McCarver with a pitch, he flung pitcher Curt Simmons sacrifice bunt past first base putting Redbirds on second and third with one out.

* * *

Then, reaching back for that little extra, Sandy who has been beaten only five times this year, induced Julian Javier to hit a ground ball to Maury Wills who threw out McCarver at the plate. Dick Groat's tap back to the box ended the Cards' chief threat.

FOUR STRIKEOUTS

The handsome black-haired bachelor from Brooklyn who now makes his home in Los Angeles, struck out only four, well below his normal gait, but that increased his season total to 288, bettering his own national league record.

He also leads in victories, shutouts, complete games and innings pitched.

Not since Grover Cleveland Alexander hurled 16 shutouts for Philadelphia in 1916 has a major league pitcher turned in more.

"My fast ball and curve were my best pitches," said Koufax. "I had good control, too."

Koufax' brilliance overshadowed the fine pitching of Curt Simmons who, except for the first and eighth innings kept the Dodgers from scoring.

* * *

At one stretch, the Cards' veteran southpaw retired seven consecutive batters and trailed only by 1-0 until Frank Howard followed a two-out single by Tommy Davis with a home run, his 27th of the season, hitting a two-strike, no-ball pitch.

It was the big outfielder's first hit in 19 times at bat against St. Louis pitching at Busch Stadium.

"It was a curve ball that sailed outside," Simmons explained. "He just reached out and overpowered it."

* * *

In addition to his fine fielding at short, the fleet-footed Wills also starred at bat. He opened the game with a single, stole second, continued to third when Simmons made a wild pitch and scored on Jim Gilliam's double.

TWO TOO MUCH — There were two too many Los Angeles Dodgers at Busch Stadium in St. Louis last night. The first place visitors whipped the Cardinals, 4-0, and put the losers' backs to wall in the once hot National League pennant race. Instrumental in the important win was Frank Howard (left) who smashed a two-run homer in the eighth inning to give pitcher Sandy Koufax (right) breathing room. Koufax didn't need much room as he held the home team to four hits and set a major league record for shutouts in one season (11) by a left-handed hurler. The ace of the Dodgers staff gained his 24th win of the year. By striking out four Cardinals, Koufax boosted his total to 288 for the season.

'Good Pitching' Key to Success

* * * * * *

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"Good pitching will always beat good hitting," Johnny Keane said sadly but wisely after Sandy Koufax of Los Angeles overpowered his hard-hitting St. Louis club in perhaps the key game of the National League season.

"The Dodgers' pitching has been great and that's the story of this series so far," the Cardinal manager said after Koufax's four-hit 4-0 shutout victory Tuesday night. Johnny Podres and Ron Perranoski stopped the Cards on three hits, 3-1 Monday after they had won 19 of 20.

Walter Alston, Los Angeles manager, had high praise for the big left-hander whose 11th shutout of the season was a major league record for lefties.

"Koufax was great — he's the greatest pitcher in the game," Alston said. "You don't shut out the Cards very often."

Stan Musial, perhaps the greatest player of his generation, had this to say about Koufax:

"He's held that club together, he's the reason they're up there in first place.

"It's tough to compare him with other guys in their greatest years, like (Don) Newcombe when he won about 27 games and (Ewell) Blackwell. But they were right handers . . . "

Asked whether he could recall a lefty in his best season better than Koufax this year, the 42-year-old Musial thought long and hard and couldn't come up with a name.

* * *

Ken Boyer, Cardinal right-handed slugger, had this to say about Koufax:

"His fast ball rides up on you very good. A lot of people don't realize it, but he's got a helluva curve, too, and he keeps it down.

"You have to give him one of the two pitches when you go up there, and try to hit the other one. You might as well decide it before you go up.

* * *

"And you have to go after the first pitch," the Redbird strongboy went on. "I believe he throws every pitch for the strike zone. He doesn't waste any. You can't afford to get behind him."

Koufax was amazed when told he had made only 87 pitches, 21 of which were balls. He struck out only four, well below his average, and didn't walk a man in running his record to 24-5.

* * *

"I don't believe I've ever pitched a game when I made under 100 pitches," said the 27-year-old Dodger ace.

The jubilant Dodgers had other heroes, although Koufax was the center of attention. Frank Howard their giant-sized outfielder, clubbed a two-out, two-strike, two-run homer to the pavilion roof in right for a 3-0 lead. Maury Wills, their shortstop of many talents, ruined the Cards only real chance with a good stop and throw which nipped Tim McCarver at home in the third inning.

GOOD GAMBLE

"I gambled and won," Wills said. "And (John) Roseboro made it possible. It was on the first base side but he made the play in one motion."

Wills also singled, stole second and scored on Junior Gilliam's bloop double in the first for a 1-0 lead. His left ankle heavily taped, the oft-injured Wills vowed "it feels better and if I get on I'm going to run until I drop."

* * *

Both Alston and Keane had words of praise for losing pitcher Curt Simmons, a crafty veteran who held the Dodgers at bay, 1-0, until Howard's eighth inning blow.

"Simmons wasn't bad, either," Alston said. "In fact he was mighty tough."

Keane said Simmons "pitched a beautiful game. He was right along with Koufax except for that one bad pitch to Howard, a curve which sailed. Howard went with him, first time I've ever seen him do it."

THREE-WAY RACE — The feet proved faster than either the human arm or a flying hat in last night's Dodger-Cardinals game at St. Louis. LA's Willie Davis (3) slides safely into second with a stolen base in the ninth inning. Catcher Tim McCarver's throw to Dick Groat covering the bag was too late to catch the runner but did beat the helmet's descent to the ground.

Tigers' Fox Not So Foxy

Dearborn Bowler Rolls 24 Consecutive Strikes

DEARBORN (UPI) — Don Paschke came within five strikes of a world record Tuesday at Oxford Lanes when he bowled 24 consecutive strikes, including a 300 game, in the West Side Bowling Proprietors' Traveling League.

The world record for consecutive strikes by an individual, as recognized by the American Bowling Congress, is 29.

Paschke's performance put him fourth on the ABC's all-time list for consecutive strikes.

Paschke, 32, ended his first game with six straight bullseyes to start the string, rolled the third 300 game of his career, and then started the third game by reeling off six more strikes before missing the headpin on his 25th ball.

His other two games were 259 and 258 for an 817 series, only 21 pins shy of the Detroit City League mark of 838.

Paschke, who has been bowling for 16 years and carries a 188 average this season, rolled his last 300 in February, 1962. His first perfect game came the year before.

USGA Approves New Rules; May Shorten Playing Time

NEW YORK (AP)—How many seconds are a few seconds?

The question may arise under a new code of golf rules adopted for use next year and announced Tuesday by the United States Golf Association.

Some of the changes should save some strokes, and one is designed to save time. It's a rule about how long a golfer may wait for a putt to drop that is hanging on the lip.

* * *

The current rule allows a "momentary delay" in hopes the ball will drop. The new rules allows a "few seconds."

The Royal and Ancient Golf Club, which runs the game in Britain and many other parts of the world, rejected a couple of the rule changes.

Thus, there will be differences in the rules between Britain and the United States next year for the first time. Previously the two nations had differed only on the size of the ball, which is larger here.

A joint American-British committee met last May in an effort to get complete agreement. They agreed on the lip of the cup rule, a milder penalty for carrying more than 14 clubs, and simplified and clarified 21 of the 41 rules of golf.

EFFECTIVE DATE

However, the British rejected these changes, which go into effect in the U.S. on Jan. 1:

1. A ball striking an unattended flagstick from within 20 yards of the hole will entail a two stroke penalty, or loss of hole in match play.

2. An unplayable ball may be dropped within two club lengths with the penalty reduced from two strokes to one.

3. A provisional ball may be played only for a ball which may be lost or out of bounds, not one that may be in the water or unplayable.

* * *

An R and A spokesman said the differences in the rules "are regretted, but they arise from the different playing conditions in the two countries.

"Every effort has been made to keep these differences to a minimum so that if the opportunity of a completely common code should arise in the future it may be made as easily as possible."

Horton Hits, Reliefer Loses

Minnesota Home Runs Defeat Bengals, 3-1

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (UPI) — It looked like Charlie Dressen really had something going in this Willie Horton-Terry Fox combination.

But the latter half of the combo failed last night and the Detroit Tigers suffered a 3-1 setback at the hands of the Minnesota Twins.

The defeat left the Tigers five full games back of the fourth place Baltimore Orioles and left the Tigers a little worried that they might drop back into sixth place. Detroit is only two games ahead of the sixth place Boston Red Sox.

Last Saturday, Horton, a $50,000 bonus baby off the Detroit Northwestern High campus, slammed a two-run pinch-hit homer off Robin Roberts in the last of the eighth inning to give the Tigers a 2-2 tie.

Fox then came out of the bullpen to blank the Orioles until Gus Triandos slammed the winning homer in the last of the 10th.

Horton, who's only 20 but looks like one of the most promising Tigers of the future, came through again.

Dressen sent him up to pinch-hit with a man on second base and two out in the top half of the eighth with the Twins leading, 1-0.

Horton promptly slammed a single off Twin rookie pitcher Dwight Siebler to tie the contest, 1-1.

Horton now has batted four times in the major leagues — all in pinch-hitting roles — and connected for three hits.

But this time, Fox didn't perform like he did last Saturday. Earl Battey tagged him for a two-run homer in the last of the eighth and that decided the game.

Southpaw Wins World Flyweight Championship

TOKYO (UPI) — Japanese southpaw Hiroyuki Ebihara took the world flyweight crown tonight with a first round knockout over champion Pone Kingpetch of Thailand.

The heavily favored 23-year-old Ebihara decked Kingpetch with a left to the jaw and then put him down for keeps a second time with another left to the button.

The knockout came after 2:07 of the first stanza and created pandemonium in the capacity crowd of 12,000 at the Tokyo metropolitan gymnasium.

Pro's Playing-Manager to Quit Tennis Circuit

LONDON (AP)—Tony Trabert, the new head man of the pro tennis traveling show, announced his retirement today, both as a player and a front office man.

Trabert, who lost 6-2, 6-3 to Ken Rosewall in the Wembley pro tournament Tuesday night, said he will travel with the tour through South Africa next month and then quit.

To Airlift Racehorses

LONDON (AP) — A British transport company said today it will airlift 30 racehorses from Britain to Singapore, Sept. 23, to beat the West-East bloodstock traffic caused by the Africa horse disease three years ago.

The movement, the largest single flight of horses in aviation history, was planned by Malayan Runme Shaw.

Champ Flying Home to Ailing Daughter

LONDON (AP) — Sonny Liston broke off a triumphant exhibition tour of Britain today to fly to the bedside of his ailing 12-year-old daughter, Eleanor, in the United States.

The world heavyweight champion booked out for Denver, Colo., but promised to return the first chance he gets.

* * *

His advisor, Jack Nilon, said: "Sonny is worried. I do not know what is wrong with the child and only heard of the problem at 2 o'clock this morning. We have been treated very kindly here and we hope to come back to clear up our remaining three engagements in Blackpool, Birmingham and a television show. We also want to come back and fight Brian London here before the end of the year."

Walled Lake, Milford Post Cross County Wins

Walled Lake and Milford racked up impressive cross country victories Tuesday afternoon.

Walled Lake's Vikings defeated Waterford Kettering, 20-36, and Milford runners grabbed the first seven places in trimming Clarenceville, 15-50.

The Vikings' Don Balkwell covered the two-mile course in 10:55, winning the race with a 25-yard margin over Waterford's Mark Pankner.

Balkwell's time was just 35 seconds off the school record of 10:20, set by Don Pounds in 1953.

Coach Don Smith said Balkwell has a good chance of cracking the record. "He's as close as anyone we've had in the past 10 years," Smith said.

The Vikings captured five of the first seven positions. Mark Karell was third, Charles Gross fourth, John Lundquist fifth and Jim Jenks sixth. Waterford's Bruce Bodner came in sixth.

The victory was the second in succession for the Vikings. They opened last week with a 21-36 victory over Berkley. The Vikings will match their speed against Pontiac Northern Thursday on the Walled Lake course.

Walled Lake's reserve team came out on top also, 18-41. Gary Sparks and David Stafford paced the win.

FOUR-WAY TIE

Milford's victory over Clarenceville ended in an unusual manner, with four members of the squad sharing first place with a time of 10:49.

Sharing the top spot were Bill Nelson, Ron Hardy, John Gromes and Harold Faught. Don Boyd, fifth, Tom Needham, sixth, and Ferril McCarthy, seventh, rounded out the scoring.

Waterford, in squaring its record at 2-2 for three meets (one triangular), captured seven of the first eight places in defeating Clarkston, 18-45.

Scoring for the Skippers were George Ballingall, John Meyer, Ron Carpenter, Ron Potter and Chuck Wheeler. Only Mike Turek of Clarkston was able to crack the top six positions, taking third.

Ballingall led with a time of 11:46, a record for the new two-mile course just opened at WTHS. Meyer trailed in second place by 16 seconds.

Neal Stalker was the next Clarkston scorer, finishing ninth.

Capac vs. New Haven in Top Thumb Battle

Two of the perennial powerhouses in the Southern Thumb League, Capac and New Haven, will clash Friday night in the league's top football attraction.

Teams in the South Central League will tackle nonconference foes this Friday.

The four teams opened last week against nonconference opposition and the result was three losses and one tie. Deckerville, a newcomer to the league, salvaged a 13-13 deadlock with Unionville.

A full slate of league games is on the Southern Thumb schedule with Memphis entertaining Armada, Brown City playing host to Dryden, Anchor Bay at Almont and Capac at New Haven.

New Haven and Capac shared the 1962 Southern Thumb grid crown with Armada with 6-1 records.

New Haven turned in an impressive victory last week with a 44-7 romp over Yale, while Capac's Chiefs were taking a drubbing by Mayville, 24-0.

The Chiefs' biggest problems are Dwight Lee and John Mack, New Haven's big halfbacks, who rambled for a combined total of 432 years against Yale last Friday. Mack scored three touchdowns and Lee added a pair in the easy victory.

TIGERS TRAVEL

Armada, a 19-12 winner over Clintondale, travels to Memphis to meet the Yellowjackets, who squeaked by Richmond St. Augustine, 7-6, Saturday night. Armada displayed a strong defense in the win over Clintondale, and one of the Tigers' touchdowns came on a pass interception by defensive tackle Dave Schluentz.

Brown City and Dryden showed defensive strength in games last week.

Brown City downed Peck, 6-0, while Dryden was held to a 0-0 tie by Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes. Dryden's offense sputtered all day, losing the ball three times on fumbles and twice on interceptions.

★ ★ ★

One of the most exciting plays of the game was a 40-yard field goal attempt by Dryden's Dennis Hilliker on the last play of the game. The ball sailed toward the goal post but fell five yards short.

★ ★ ★

Almont and Anchor Bay tangle in the final game on the Southern Thumb slate. Almont played New Baltimore St. Mary to a 6-6 tie in the opening game. Anchor Bay turned in a 20-0 win over Chippewa Valley.

Imlay City, smarting from a 25-6 loss to Marine City, moves to Flint this Friday to meet powerful Holy Redeemer, a 12-12 victim of Bad Axe, rated the No. 1 Class B team in the state.

North Branch's Broncos, second in the South Central League with a 2-1 record last year, lost a 40-6 decision to Marlette last week.

Coldwater Top Baseball Team

BATTLE CREEK, (AP)—Coldwater exploded for four runs in the first inning Tuesday night and went on to crush Seattle 11-1 for the championship of the American Amateur Baseball Congress.

The Coldwater victory broke the Pacific Northwest's three-year hold on the AABC championship and also marked the first tournament triumph for a local Battle Creek league team since 1953.

★ ★ ★

Seattle won the AABC title in 1960 and Portland, Ore., took it the following two years.

The big gun for Coldwater was first baseman Larry Garman who batted in three runs with a triple in the sixth inning. Tom Schmidt picked up the victory, hurling no-hit ball for four innings after relieving starter Joe Schmidt in the fourth.

Broncos Seek 'Major' Foes on Gridiron

Hope for Good Show vs. Big Ten Champ in Opener Saturday

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Western Michigan proudly wears the label of football major — something hardly designed to prevent gridiron murder.

But coach Merle Schlosser isn't outfitting his Broncos in bullet-proof vests. And he's not calling the cops or asking anyone to send flowers.

★ ★ ★

Saturday the Broncos open their second season in major classification — and play Wisconsin at Madison.

It's an ambitious way to open a season for even the most assured of status seekers, playing a Big Ten championship team that's favored to repeat.

"I refuse to assume a defeatist's attitude," said Schlosser. "We'll do everything to get our squad in the proper physical and mental condition for this game. We'll play it and do our very best."

If the Broncos can somehow make the final result respectable, they'll achieve their purpose in risking themselves as cannon fodder for Wisconsin.

It'd mean that in the future other Big Ten teams — possibly Michigan or Michigan State — will be agreeable to playing Western.

★ ★ ★

Schlosser does have a large squad with considerable experience. He has enough players so that the school issued a four-deep roster, not the normal three deep coming out of other places, including Wisconsin.

APPEARS STRONGER

Western's backfield appears stronger than last year when the Broncos had a 5-4 record.

Newcomer Troy Allen has taken the No. 1 quarterback post away from returnee Ken Barnhill. And sophomore Al Wing has stepped in at left halfback ahead of Alan Gibbs, who was the Broncos' second-best runner last year.

George Ihler, a junior right half, and George Archer, a senior fullback, round out the backfield expected to start at Wisconsin.

Schlosser has had a pass-conscious offense the last couple of years. This season his quarterbacks — Allen, Barnhill and Bob Radlinski — can combine their passing with running ability.

SPEECHLESS — Pitcher Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves wipes his eye as he listens to applause after his introduction to 33,676 fans at County Stadium, on hand for the "Warren Spahn Night" Tuesday night. A special scholarship fund in his name and a few small gifts were part of the tribute to Spahn. But the San Francisco Giants were not in a generous mood. They defeated Spahn and the Braves, 11-3.

Halas Lauds Defense in Win Over Packers

NEW YORK (AP) — George Halas claims the Chicago Bears' defensive effort against Green Bay last Sunday was a better job than their famous 73-0 playoff victory over Washington in 1940.

No wonder the Bears lead the National Football League in team defense. They were so effective in the opener that the Packers wound up 14th and last in team offense with only 150 yards, 77 running and 73 passing.

When the Bears thumped the Redskins in that playoff game long ago, Washington made only three yards rushing but got 229 passing.

"I mean it when I say the Bears played a better defensive game against Green Bay than they did in 1940," said Halas, the coach-general manager. "The defensive plays that beat the Redskins were all clutch plays. Against the Packers we had complete team effort, an all-out pressure that kept the clutch situation from arising."

Surprisingly enough, the Los Angeles Rams were second to the Bears in team defense, giving up only 210 yards to the Detroit Lions.

Tigers Eyeing Cepeda in Future Trade Talks

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Wouldn't the Detroit Tiger infield look a lot more menacing next year with Orlando Cepeda playing first base?

It's still a long shot but the slugging San Francisco first baseman could be with the Detroit Tigers next season.

★ ★ ★

With many National League moguls gathered here for the key Cardinal-Dodger series, the trade rumors were flying all over the place. It was just like World Series time when the groundwork is laid for most major trades.

★ ★ ★

The Tigers are expected to be one team which will do a lot of trading this winter since the club was in ninth place for much of the season after being picked by most experts to give New York a good run for the pennant.

According to some sources, San Francisco plans to offer Cepeda to the Tigers next season for pitcher Jim Bunning and another player.

Cepeda and the Giants have been on the outs this season according to some reports and Bunning, who has had an off year with the Tigers, is reported to be on the block in Detroit.

If the Cepeda trade should come off, it would also mean that the Tigers would probably swap first baseman Norm Cash to a National League club for some pitching. Cincinnati might be interested in such a deal.

NEW LOOK

If both Bunning and Cash are swapped, it'll mean there will be a new look to the Tigers next season because leftfielder Rocky Colavito is a cinch to be traded regardless of the outcome of the other deals.

★ ★ ★

There's a chance that Colavito could go back to Cleveland where he was such an idol before being traded to the Tigers for Harvey Kuenn in 1960. Cleveland is suffering from attendance problems and could use Colavito as a gate attraction.

But Tribe general manager Gabe Paul has to offer more than he did in negotiations at the beginning of last season to keep Colavito from being traded to a National League club.

Paul hasn't agreed to giving up some of his good young players like third baseman Max Alvis in the talks so far. However, with the Indians sagging at the gate he may change his mind.

★ ★ ★

With general manager Jim Campbell planning to enter the trading mart this winter, there are only two positions certain to be in the Tiger lineup next spring.

Al Kaline will be in rightfield and Bill Freehan will be catching. After that, it's all a question mark.

Should the world's greatest gin unexcelled in a martini . . . be lavished in a Tom Collins?

YES!

To make the world's tangiest Tom Collins, you need the world's dryest, best-tasting gin.

This gin is taken through a costly extra step to remove sweetness and perfumery. A step that imparts a smoothness and crackling dryness not found in other gins.

So, when you think of a Tom Collins, think of Seagram's. The gin worthy of the words "Extra Dry."

FALL SHOW — This is the mating season for Michigan's elk herd. Bulls have started fighting for the attention of cows. The Pigeon River state forest is one of the best places to see elk now as they have started coming into open spaces near roads.

'Haste Makes Waste' in Survey of Rivers

By DON VOGEL

The old saying that "haste makes waste" is being classically illustrated by the Departments of Agriculture and Interior.

The two departments announced last month that 64 rivers had been selected for study by a federal team "appointed to investigate the nation's need to protect recreation values of a share of the remaining natural and free flowing rivers."

Included in this "wild river" survey was Michigan's Manistee. The uproar triggered by naming this river can still be heard all the way to Washington. A few backed the nomination, but the majority quickly rattled off a half dozen streams that would easily qualify as being more "wild" than the Manistee.

Questions starting flowing in the direction of the Interior and Agriculture Departments. And the answers, in my estimation, indicate that a lot of money is being poured down the drain because someone is in a hurry.

The Manistee has been surveyed. This means the money has already been spent. If the river is rejected, which will probably happen, it means that more suitable rivers in Michigan will have to be studied. More money will have to be spent.

In a news story from Washington, Stanford Young, recreation planner with the Interior Department's Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, admits that "the 64 are not necessarily the best ones. They are the one's we had more favorable comment on."

He also said there "may have been a dozen or so as good or better than the Manistee" in Michigan.

STATES NOT ASKED

"The states, regretably, didn't have a chance to participate in the selection," Young pointed out. "We acted on the best information that was available at the time. There was only a small amount of time to select the rivers. We had to draw on the advise of different federal agencies as well as some private individuals that had wide knowledge."

The only answer he would give as to why speed was necessary:

"The Secretaries (Interior and Agriculture) said they wanted to have a report by the end of the year. That was the basis for our having to act so fast."

According to Young, the primary purpose was to develop a way to evaluate rivers for recreation and related uses, and that this might lead to legislative or executive recommendations."

The above admissions by Young indicates that a lot of money is being spent needlessly. It doesn't appear to me that such haste is necessary unless the federal departments are hatching something they don't want the states involved to know about until it's too late to make possible counter moves.

A more practical way would have been to contact the conservation departments in states the federal bureaus felt contained possible "wild rivers." These departments should have been asked for their recommendations.

This way, the number of rivers would be narrowed and those listed would have been, in the estimation of pepole in the individual states, the best suitable. A lot of federal tax money would have been saved.

Even Young said contacting the states "would have been the systematic and desirable way to do it . . . we had to make a selection fast, and had to act on the best advice at the time."

The Conservation Commission upheld department director Gerald E. Eddy's contention that the North Branch of the Au Sable River should continue as "flies only" water. The department's fish division recommended otherwise.

In other action, the Commission ended the 18-year-old experiment keeping Pontiac Lake open to bass fishermen year-around. The season will close on the lake Dec. 31, the same as other inland waters.

Group Sets Benefit Horse Show

The Northwest Oakland County Activities Association (CAA) will hold its Horse Show Saturday at Davisburg, Mich.

The show is slated to get underway at 9 a.m. at the corner of Davisburg and Ormond Roads across from the Davisburg School.

The CAA has lined up 20 competitive events which are open to both children and adults. Entry fee is $1 for each event.

Serving as judge for the show will be Leona Hull. Bob Buck will act as ringmaster and Claude Cranston will announce the action.

★ ★ ★

Admission to the show is $1 for adults. Children under 12 years of age will be admitted free. Officials of the show said that an admission ticket may be used for one free entry in one of the 20 events.

Proceeds from the show will be used by CAA in sponsoring activities for children in the northwest Oakland County area. Plans call for the Horse show to become an annual affair in the project.

Instructors Bested by Pupils in Show

Harry and Nan Klentner may look a bit closer to their laurels Sunday at their annual Fall Horse Show in Union Lake.

The Klentner Riding Academy has three students plus the two teachers at Bridgeway Farm Horse Show recently in Utica, and the youngsters all outdid the instructors.

Pam Hodges and Priscilla Yuchartz both brought home blue ribbons for first places, while Nancy Greenleaf had two seconds. Both of the Klentners could do no better than thirds.

A Good Season If . . .

DORVALLIS, Ore. (AP) — Oregon State football coach Tommy Prothro said Tuesday that if his players will continue to make the effort "we're going to have a good season."

Grouse, Woodcock Outlook Still Good

Michigan's ruffed grouse and woodcock hunters can look ahead to next month with high hopes of having another good season.

Although summer brood counts indicate that grouse may be just starting on the way down in their cyclic pattern of highs and lows, hunters are expected to take about 500,000 "pats" this fall.

Last season's kill approached 550,000, highest since 1953.

A harvest of some 200,000 birds is forecast for the Upper Peninsula. Brightest prospects are in the region's central counties where brood counts are well above a year ago.

Hunters in the northern Lower Peninsula will bag an estimated 190,000 birds. Their 1962 ruffed grouse take was 239,000.

Ruffed grouse kill has tripled in this part of the state since 1958.

This fall's "pat" harvest may reach 110,000 birds in the southern Lower Peninsula where a steady increase in favorable grouse habitat has led to a higher kill during each of the last seven seasons.

Michigan hunters could well top their 1962 harvest of 118,500 woodcock which set a nation-wide record. Spring surveys pointed to a 15-per cent jump from last year in the state's woodcock population.

The small, long-billed birds showed their biggest gains in the southern lower peninsula. Last season, hunters took 48,830 woodcock in this part of the state.

Conservation department men reported moderate increases among these birds in the Upper Peninsula where kill totaled 16,450 woodcock last year, and in the northern lower peninsula which yielded a harvest of some 53,300 "timber doodles" during the 1962 season.

Bloomfield Hills' Canine Class Set

Southern Michigan Obedience Training Club has scheduled a demonstration at Bloomfield Hills High School Monday at 8 p.m.

Another demonstration is planned tomorrow at Woodward School in Rochester with the same starting time.

Club members will direct dogs through various training routines at the demonstrations. Actual classes will start a week later and those attending the demonstrations are requested to keep their dogs home.

An afternoon dog obedience class is planned for the Waterford CAI building this fall—if enough interest in generated—according to SMOTC officals.

Additional information can be obtained by phoning the Bloomfield Hills or Rochester boards of education and the Waterford recreation department.

U.S. Directors Planning Meet on '64 Olympics

CHICAGO (AP) — Having accepted Japan's formal invitation to participate in the 1964 Olympic Games in Tokyo, the United States Olympic Committee's board of directors will close a two-day meeting today.

★ ★ ★

The board will devote much of its time to planning for a full U.S. Olympic Committee meeting in Washington Nov. 10-11 at which time programs will be launched to determine the U.S. squad for the 1964 Games.

Japanese Consul-General Shiro Shimizu of Chicago presented a leather-bound bid to Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee. In accepting the presentation, Wilson lauded Japan's preparations for the Olympic Games and predicted they would be the most successful in history.

Field Officers' Test Scheduled

College Science Work Needed by Applicants

An open-competitive examination will be held Nov. 9 for men 22-29 years old interested in careers as conservation officers, the Michigan Civil Service Commission announced this week.

The commission set Oct. 7, as the closing date for receiving applications at its Lansing office.

The Conseravtion Department plans to add 12 men to its shrinking field force of conservation officers which will number 154 by the time successful candidates are ready to assume their new duties next year.

At the request of the department officials, the educational requirement for applicants has been upgraded from possession of a high school diploma to a college degree in one of the natural sciences, such as fish or game biology or forestry.

Young Trees Available From State Department

Some 10 million young trees are now on sale through the Conservation Department as planting stock for future timber production, erosion controls and farm windbreaks on private lands.

Stock may be ordered for delivery this fall or in the spring of 1964 under a system introduced last year to help landowners plan ahead with their reforestation projects.

Official stock price lists and order blanks are available from the Department's forestry division in Lansing, or at offices of district foresters and county extension agents.

No Matter How Bright the Child

Simple Writing Skill Is Key to Learning

By DR. LESLIE J. NASON

Many a so-called "gifted" youngster is just laying up trouble for himself.

He seems to understand the principles of arithmetic before they are explained. He is always up first with the answers.

DR. NASON

Mental solutions are so easy for him that he doesn't bother to work out problems on paper, step by step. In the lower grades this works fine. But eventually the more complex problems baffle him.

* * *

Such a student doesn't know how to write things down and tackle one element at a time. Often he feels that the teacher is wrong in urging him to write out his work.

Failure of a student to use paper and pencil efficiently can, of course, be detected by anyone who takes the trouble to look for it.

At the very start of school, parents and teachers must encourage practice, and more practice, until children are able to write with ease. A youngster who resists writing is apt to jot down only the answers to arithmetic problems, leaving out progression steps.

He talks readily but avoids doing written assignments and resists the changeover from printing to longhand writing.

* * *

When this changeover is scheduled at the third grade level, parents must insist that their children master longhand writing. And they must see to it that arithmetic papers are written neatly, and that they contain all the steps.

At high school or college levels, the once-gifted boy is apt to stare at a complex fraction problem in algebra and say "I can't work it."

His work generally is plagued by careless errors. He understands the principles but his grades often suffer because of slips in simple arithmetic, spelling, word endings and punctuation.

When forced to write a theme he stalls as long as possible and then does it in one sitting. He is dismayed when the teacher feels it lacks organization and polish.

CUTTING IT DOWN

Faced with that algebra problem, he should write it down carefully, then search it carefully for some operation, however small, that he can do, then rewrite the problem and search again. That will whittle it down to his size.

To organize themes, a student should jot down thoughts concerning the topic as they come to mind. He can then choose the ones he wishes to discuss, and the order in which to take them up.

With his mind relieved of carrying all the details, he can turn his full attention to one idea at a time. He can use the same system in answering essay-type questions in tests, and in solving other complex problems.

(You can write Professor Nason in care of The Pontiac Press. He will answer questions of widest interest in his column.)

By OSWALD JACOBY

Take a look at the North hand only. Your partner opens one no-trump. If you play no conventions at all in response to a no-trump your best bet is to pass. You will only get into trouble if you bid.

JACOBY

Two hearts figures to be a better spot than one no-trump and ordinary Stayman players can get there by simply bidding two hearts. Two spades will be even better if your partner holds four spades and Jacoby-Stayman makes it possible for you to have your cake and eat it too.

You respond with two clubs. Your partner may only rebid to two in a suit. If his rebid is two diamonds you bid two hearts and he will pass. This gets you right where you would have been if you had responded two hearts directly. Actually he bids two spades and you have found the right spot.

You will make two spades even if you get the best defense, a spade opening and a spade return. You win the second spade in your hand, cash the ace and king of hearts and ruff a heart. Now you lead your last spade to dummy's queen and give West a heart trick. In order to hold you to two West must lead a diamond to his partner, who must return a club, whereupon they get two club tricks plus the spade heart and diamond already in their possession.

You'll learn how to make things happen with your copy of "Win at Bridge With Oswald Jacoby." Just send your name, address, and 50 cents to: Oswald Jacoby Reader Service, c/o The Pontiac Press, P.O. Box 489, Dept. A, Radio City Station, New York 19, N. Y.

A—Bid six spades only. Your partner is still allowed to bid seven if he happens to hold the king of spades and queen of clubs in addition to his three aces.

Instead of bidding four spades your partner has bid three hearts over your three-club bid. What do you do in this case?

Trading Fairly Active

Stocks Upward Move Uneven

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued to move unevenly near its record high in fairly active trading early this afternoon.

Heavy profit taking in Studebaker, continued strength in Chrysler, weakness in airlines and a scrambled performance by the high-flying speculative issues characterized trading.

Wall Street showed a degree of caution over what President Kennedy might say in his address to the nation tonight. The general news background remained fairly encouraging but there was no big development to spur the market one way or another.

Tobaccos recovered moderately from recent losses. Steels and aerospace issues were generally lower. Oils and rails were mixed.

AVERAGE UP

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .3 at 280.7 with industrials up .9, rails unchanged and utilities off .2.

Studebaker, which has behind it an astonishing rally, ran into some sharp profit taking as sell orders accumulated and the stock was delayed in opening. Its initial transactions found the stock down ¾ to 8—a big percentage loss—on successive trades of 5,000, 34,500 and 23,100 shares. It trimmed the loss slightly in later dealings.

Chrysler kept the better part of a 1-point gain while General Motors eased.

Xerox rebounded 3. Polaroid and U. S. Smelting lost more than a point each. IBM and High Voltage Engineering were down major fractions.

Northwest Airlines dropped about 2, United Airlines a point, Pan American and American fractions.

* * *

Small gains were posted for Reynolds Tobacco, Lorillard and American Tobacco while Liggett & Myers dipped slightly.

Heart Patient Aid: 'Get Back to Work'

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—America's "Physician of the Year" says a heart attack is devastating but rarely crippling, and only permanently damaging if the patient fails to resume near normal work within 120 days.

"After four months the chances of a patient getting back to work at all definitely goes down," says Dr. David Gelfand, internationally famous cardiologist who heads heart departments at Philadelphia General Hospital and Kensington Hospital.

"Some people accept a heart attack as fate, as part of life, recover and go back to work," Gelfand says. "Others take it as a disabling illness and say let someone else support me. You can't ever forget that heart disease is an emotional ailment."

Gelfand, 54, father of two daughters (one married), a chain pipe smoker and an every-chance-I-get golfer, recently was named No. 1 physician by the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped, the 11th to be so honored.

He'll get the award formally on Sept. 26 in San Francisco at the American Medical Association's annual congress on occupational health.

Gelfand believes the worst kind of treatment a heart patient can get—"there are always exceptions"—is too much bed rest, too much sitting down and doing nothing, just too much restriction.

The attack victim's doctor frequently is his worst enemy, says Gelfand, "prescribing three months in bed, six weeks walking about slowly upstairs only, and then six more weeks climbing the stairs just once a day."

Studies by Gelfand and his associates, he says, indicates that more activity—as early as possible — and the fastest return to normal and to working is the best medicine.

"This is not easy to get across," he says.

'BIG BLOW'

Gelfand's team, in an eight-year period, examined 665 patients, and recommended that 92 per cent return to work full or part-time.

"A heart attack is a tremendous blow to the ego of younger Americans," says Gelfand, "and they tend to tell friends their doctor is wrong. And then to prove their point they go out deliberately and kill themselves by failing to take proper precautions."

The princesses remained calm throughout.

The driver of the car, Phillip M. Bishop, 26, of 262 Clayburn, Waterford Township, was hospitalized for injuries suffered when he struck a tree after swerving to avoid hitting the boy.

Bishop, who received lacerations, was expected to be released from the hospital today. Police said they would make no charges against the driver.

The accident occurred on Walton just east of Livernois, Avon Township, about a quarter-mile from the youngster's home.

★ ★ ★

Bishop told sheriff's deputies that he was traveling east on Walton at 35 m.p.h. when the boy darted from between moving cars headed in the opposite direction.

160 FEET

The boy was knocked or carried by the car 160 feet from the point of impact, police said.

The youngster is survived by two brothers, Gary and Harry, and a sister, Sharon.

His body is at the William R. Potere Funeral Home, Rochester.

Musicians Authorize Walkout

NEW YORK (AP)—Union musicians have authorized a strike which could close all stage productions on Broadway, where the new season officially opens tonight.

The executive committee of Local 802 of the AFL-CIO American Federation of Musicians meets today to decide what day this week the strike will begin.

Only 9 of the 12 shows now on Broadway employ musicians but the New York Times today quoted an unidentified producer as saying, "If one show is struck, we'll all shut down."

REJECT CONTRACT

A meeting of musicians, by a 10-vote margin, rejected a contract offer Tuesday night. Al Manuti, Local 802 president, had told the musicians a "no" vote would "carry with it a recommendation to strike." The vote was 166 to 156.

★ ★ ★

Manuti said afterward the local's 13-member executive board would decide today "what our next step will be." He added, "there will be a strike some time this week."

A union spokesman said musicians working for Broadway-bound musicals still in production also would be called out.

SEASON OPENS

The Broadway season opens with "The Irregular Verb to Love," a comedy at the Barrymore Theater. Claudette Colbert and Cyril Ritchard are the stars.

Notices that the theaters might close were posted backstage in the nine shows that have music.

The League of New York Theaters proposed a $10 weekly wage increase in a three-year contract. Manuti said the local had asked for a $10 increase the first year, $5 the second and $5 the third, plus medical benefits and eight days annual sick leave.

He said the union's executive board had recommended acceptance of the contract "on the basis that it was the league's final offer."

Infants Killed, Crippled

Mystery Epidemic Struck U.S.

By JOHN BARBOUR
Associated Press Science Writer

WASHINGTON — There is evidence that a mysterious epidemic killer and crippler of newborn infants struck at least two areas of the United States last year.

★ ★ ★

The latest report is from Vermont—but doctors, left with the job of caring for the stricken infants who survived, are still without clues as to the cause.

The Vermont episode may be another expression of the epidemic of the brutal birth defect that struck Atlanta, Ga., last fall — and may have hit elsewhere.

3 BORN

From a one-block area in Montpelier, Vt., in just six weeks last summer, came three babies born with the rare defect. Six months later, from the same city block, came a fourth case.

All of the babies in this tragic cluster suffered from spina bifida—a congenital separation in the spine which allows spinal cord nerve tissue to balloon out from the body.

★ ★ ★

It can leave a baby vulnerable to death through infection. Or it may leave a child paralyzed from the waist down and incontinent for life. Frequently, there are complications, sometimes brain damage.

The cluster of cases from Montpelier stirred a medical investigation.

SAD COINCIDENCE

For one doctor, it was a sad coincidence. He had delivered all of the four Montpelier babies. Normally, a doctor might go through a lifetime without ever delivering a child with this defect.

An investigating team under Dr. Jerold F. Lucey, University of Vermont pediatrician, surveyed birth and death certificates on babies, combed the records of the university's two hospitals—where 23 per cent of the state's births occur—and checked the only three neurosurgeons in Vermont, all of them in Burlington.

★ ★ ★

The investigators wrote to every one of the state's 432 doctors outside of Burlington, getting responses from 90 per cent of them.

Putting their data together from all these sources, the doctors found 21 cases in all—of which only 10 survived in 1962.

HIGH RATE

Although the normal rate for Vermont would predict 99 cases in 100,000 live births, in 1962 the rate was 232 cases per 100,000 live births.

Meanwhile U.S. Public Health Service researchers in Atlanta, Ga., were looking into an outbreak there.

★ ★ ★

They discovered 16 cases between August and October of 1962. Only two babies survived. The rate was six times normal for the Atlanta population.

They interviewed mothers of the stricken babies, looking for some common clue. Was there something in diet, drugs or infectious disease—anything that may have caused the defect?

In Vermont, similar interviews were conducted.

★ ★ ★

There were no clear-cut answers —no common agent was found. In both cases, the epidemic passed. So far 1963 has been normal. In Vermont's neighbors — New Hampshire and upper New York State—there was either no increase or a decline in the birth defect rate in 1962.

League Forms New Group for Studies on Home Rule

Formation of a new county home rule study committee was announced today by William H. McGaughey, president of the Oakland Citizens League.

Known as the "Citizens Government Study Council — County Home Rule," it replaces an earlier committee established by the league, said McGaughey.

He said Homer Case, Bloomfield Township supervisor, was elected chairman of the new group at the last meeting of the league's now defunct county home rule committee.

Case said the new study council is now entirely independent of the league and is being enlarged by members who do not belong to the league.

Funds to carry on research on the application of the state constitution's county home rule provision will be sought immediately, said Case.

He said he is contacting political leaders of both major parties, service clubs, chambers of commerce, the Michigan Municipal League, labor unions and other groups for new committee members.

A 24-year-old woman who crashed her car head-on with another while leading Holly police on a high-speed chase was sentenced to 60 days in the county jail yesterday and ordered to pay a $100 fine and $25 court costs.

Mrs. Joan S. Malis, 421 Harden, Holly, pleaded guilty to a charge of drunk driving when she appeared before Justice George DeLand. Her driver's license will automatically be suspended by the state for 90 days.

She was arrested shortly after 11 p.m. Monday when she smashed into a car driven by Paul J. Gazétti, 34, of 1011 Marion, Holly.

FORMER POLICE CHIEF

Gazetti, a former chief of police in Holly, was on his way from work in Flint, where he is a plant guard, when the accident occurred on North Holly Road, just south of Quick.

★ ★ ★

Gazetti was taken to St. Joseph Hospital in Flint where he is listed in good condition. Mrs. Malis suffered minor injuries but was not hospitalized.

Patrolman Edward Stout, who was in pursuit of Mrs. Malis, reached speeds up to 85 miles per hour during the three-mile chase that began in downtown Holly.

Rocky Blasts Foreign Policy

Charges JFK Weakens the Western Alliance

GLEN FALLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, speaking to a crowd in a campaign spirit, charged last night that the Kennedy administration had weakened the Western alliance through unilateral negotiations with the Soviet Union.

Rockefeller, who has promised to announce by the end of the year if he will seek the 1964 Republican presidential nomination, also renewed his attack on President Kennedy's fiscal policies.

The governor said that in the Eisenhower administration the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles made sure that the United States' position represented that of its allies before engaging in talks with Russia.

"Now we are negotiating and signing treaties," he said. "They are asking our allies afterward, without consultation, and publicly shaming them into a position that if they don't sign the whole world is looking at them and turning against them."

It was the second straight night that Rockefeller had criticized Kennedy's foreign policy, without mentioning the recently signed nuclear test-ban treaty.

Last night, in Accord, N.Y., he said failure to consult the Western allies in talks with Russia had "eroded" their will to resist communism.

In his talks here, Rockefeller said the administration had failed to spur national economic growth and curb unemployment sufficiently.

Members of the group which greeted Rockefeller carried pictures of the governor and signs reading: "Rocky and Happy in 1964." He was accompanied by his wife, Margaretta (Happy) Rockefeller.

SHE'S A WHIZ — Carol Woodward, who will be 10 this month, rides a bicycle and plays like a normal child, despite having lost her arms when struck by a train at the age of 2. She has plastic arms fitted with steel clips.

Child Beats Tragedy

(EDITORS—What has happened to the little girl whose arms were cut off by train wheels eight years ago at Ticonderoga? This Associated Press follow-up depicts Carol today.)

SCHROON LAKE, N.Y. (AP) — Carol Woodard is a sparkling little girl who rides a bicycle and, she says, "can draw real good" —even though she lost her arms at the age of 2.

Carol will be 10 Sept. 25 and now is in the third grade despite setbacks resulting from the train accident that maimed her. She wears plastic arms with steel clips for fingers.

She has been following with interest the news stories about another third-grader, Debbie Marcuccilli of Waterloo, N.Y., who lost her legs last winter as the result of a school bus accident.

Debbie, equipped with artificial legs and crutches, also is back in school, bravely facing her problem as Carol has learned to do.

In 1955, two days after her second birthday, Carol crept out of bed at her home in Ticonderoga and toddled along the nearby railroad tracks toward a neighbor's house. Her arms were crushed under the wheels of a freight train.

BECOMES ADJUSTED

Now, living at a foster home in this Adirondack resort, she has become so adjusted that she was the first to reach a foster brother who fell off his bicycle the other day. She lifted the bike off the boy, 10-year-old Dennis Ford, made sure he had not been injured, then wheeled the bike to the house.

For those who ask how her hands work, she flashes a pixie smile and explains that the clips move like snap clothespins and are driven by her shoulder movements.

She dresses herself, ties her own shoelaces and plays with other children in normal fashion. Among the children is Dennis, one of two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ford. Mrs. Ford is "Ma" to Carol since troubles in the Woodard family led to the new home.

★ ★ ★

The Fords take Carol periodically to the Sunnyview Rehabilitation Center in Schenectady for manual instruction.

"They say she is adapting well," Mrs. Ford told a reporter. "Of course, her new limbs must be readjusted to fit her as she grows."

Carol is full of ideas about her future. She'd like to "work at the post office sorting letters and canceling stamps." Or maybe she'll be a teacher or a nurse.

"I want to live in a nice house, have a nice car, nice furniture and a nice bedroom."

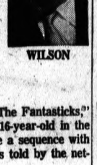
The Delaware & Hudson Railroad has established a $100,000 trust fund for Carol. Part of the money is being used for medical treatment. The balance will be hers when she is 21.

Sinatra, Vallee, Scotch Becoming 'History'?

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Comedian Joe E. Lewis, whose topical gags make him one of the great contemporary historians, has returned to the Copacabana for the 23rd year . . . and in saluting opening night guest Rudy Valley, he said, "He's the fastest guy with a dime that ever lived."

In years to come, the history-writers will snip out things like these for footnotes: What people were talking about in the "Stoned Age," perhaps . . . Q: Do you think teachers should get a raise? . . . A: Scotch is expensive enough now! . . . Q: What about Adam Clayton Powell? . . . A: He's done a great job for his constituents in his district: Paris, France . . . Q: And Frank Sinatra? . . . A: He's generous. He heard about a peg-leg singer being in trouble. He gave him money to get back on his foot.



WILSON

The Midnight Earl . . .

Fernando Lamas'll do a stock production of "The Fantasticks," and his honey, Esther Williams, wants to play a 16-year-old in the show . . . Ed Sullivan will fly to London to TV-tape a sequence with Sonny Liston . . . A prominent TV personality was told by the network to "get rid of ten pounds of lard."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Home is the place were ungrateful men are treated best and grumble most."

EARL'S PEARLS: The ideal of some men is to marry a rich girl who's too proud to have her husband work.

One sign you're getting older is when your kids tell you what they're studying in history — and you remember when you studied it in Current Events . . . That's earl, brother.

Reverend Tells Parish Hard Facts of Life

NORTH STAFFORD, England (UPI) — The Rev. William Smith told his parishioners today that, unfortunately, honesty was not always the best policy.

"It is well known in business that the honest man does not get on," he wrote in a magazine article.

3 Attempt Plunge From Golden Gate

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Three men who had never met, were from different cities and held dissimilar jobs, tried yesterday to jump off the Golden Gate Bridge.

★ ★ ★

They were prevented from making the 225-foot plunge by highway patrolmen and military police. They blamed marital or other domestic problems.

Since it was built 25 years ago, the graceful, orange-painted span linking San Francisco with Marin County has been the method chosen by at least 252 persons known to have committed suicide.

An undetermined number of others have dropped into the water, never to be found. And 183 persons — including the three yesterday — have been thwarted in attempts to jump.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Jerome Motto, assistant professor of psychiatry at the Langley Porter Neuropsychiatric Institute here, said the bridge is popular with would-be suicides "because it's simple, it's cheap, and it has a certain glamour."

SCREEN HELP?

Would it help prevent suicides if a screen was erected?

★ ★ ★

"It would keep them from jumping off the bridge, but they might then jump from a building," Motto said. "If a person is determined to commit suicide, I don't think a screen would help.

★ ★ ★

"However, there are a number of persons who are not quite determined to kill themselves. They might go ahead only if it is quite easy. In their case, a screen might help."

Motto, who has conducted a number of studies of suicide, said San Francisco leads the nation in this field with 30 per 100,000 population per year.

He Just Couldn't See

LONDON (UPI) — The Marquis of Allesbury has rejected a bid by a firm to drill for oil in his forest at Marlborough, it was reported today.

"I suppose I might have become disgustingly rich. But frankly I don't want oil wells in my forest. I pefer trees," the 59-year-old aristocrat was quoted by the Daily Express.

Banquet to Fete Retired Officer

A testimonial banquet honoring Allen D. Noble, retired Pontiac police detective, for his community activities will be held Saturday at Jefferson Junior High School, 600 Motor.

The 6:30 p.m. program is being given by the South East Community Improvement Association.

Noble, now an Oakland County Circuit Court officer, is a member of the board of directors of the Pontiac Area Urban League and is on the executive board of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

He joined the police department in 1937 and held the rank of detective sergeant when he retired this past spring.

Husband "too tired" for good times?

If your husband keeps coming home too "beat" to be gay and stimulating, too worn out to take you out, remember—the hectic "rat race" of today's business requires men to perform like human dynamos day after day, which builds up churning tensions that rob literally millions of husbands of energy and vigor they might otherwise enjoy!

• What can you do to help counteract this tension-caused loss of vitality?

• Many doctors recommend augmenting the daily diet with nature's remarkable "bounce-back" food, famous Kretschmer Wheat Germ. Made from the germinating heart of the kernel, wheat germ has been established by official U. S. Dept. of Agriculture studies to be the most healthful food known!

• Kretschmer Wheat Germ actually supplies a whopping 30 nutrients important to good health, vigor and stamina!

• Serve your husband this remarkable food every day and see how much more pep and vitality he has! Use these delicious, tiny toasted flakes as a cereal, on cereal, or add to pancakes, waffles, scrambled eggs, etc.

• Thrifty, tasty Kretschmer Wheat Germ is great for the entire family, so be sure to get some. Look for it in vacuum-sealed glass jars in the cereal section of your food store. Choose either regular or Sugar 'N Honey.

• GUARANTEE—(1) Kretschmer Wheat Germ is the most healthful food known; (2) Your family will like its nut-like flavor. If you are not satisfied, just write your name, address, and price paid on back of label and mail to Kretschmer, Carrollton, Michigan, for full refund.

New-Car Cost Expected to Be Same in 1964

Chrysler to Hold Line on Price for 5th Year; Others May Follow

From Our News Wires

DETROIT — The cost of new cars probably will remain steady during the 1964 model year.

Chrysler Corp. yesterday announced it would generally hold the price line on its new models for the fifth straight year. Other auto firms were expected to follow the lead of Chrysler, which was the first to announce prices for the second straight year.

Ford, General Motors, American Motors and Studebaker will announce their prices within the next two weeks, probably within hours of introduction at dealers' showrooms.

The last general price increase in the industry came in the 1959 model year when they rose $50-$100 per car.

The first of the auto industry to reveal new model prices, Dodge and Plymouth announced a few increases yesterday which were balanced by about as many similar price cuts.

★ ★ ★

Plymouth prices were up $2 to $6 for some models, down $2 and $3 in others. Still others were unchanged. Valiant announced a $16 price cut on a station wagon and a $14 increase on the Signet 200 hardtop.

Dodge announced reductions from $6 to $29 on some models, increases of $2 to $16 on others.

HIKE SPECULATED

In recent months there has been speculation there might be an industrywide price hike because of the increase in some steel prices and higher supplier costs.

The industry also has been faced with higher labor costs because of contractual wage increases and cost of living raises.

Mercury to Range Above Normal for Next Few Days

Temperatures for the next five days will average two to four degrees above the normal high of 72 and low of 53.

Cooler weather will begin about Saturday. Precipitation will total one-quarter to one-half inch in showers Friday and again Sunday or Monday.

Fifty-six was the low temperature reading preceding 8 a.m. today in downtown Pontiac. By 1 p.m., the area had warmed to 79.

The Pontiac City Commission On A Night Of Decision

28 Mexicans Killed as Train Rams Truck

SALINAS, Calif. (AP)—A speeding freight train shattered a makeshift bus jammed with Mexican field workers yesterday, killing 28 and injuring 35 in the worst vehicle accident in California history.

At least six of the injured were reported in critical condition today. The 28th victim died at Monterey County Hospital.

★ ★ ★

Bodies were strewn for half a mile along both sides of the track after the crash at a farm road crossing near the town of Chualar, eight miles south of Salinas.

★ ★ ★

Twenty-two died by the tracks. Others died as 15 ambulances rushed them to three Salinas Hospitals.

The workers were returning from a celery field to the Earl Meyers, Co. labor camp near Salinas, 100 miles south of San Francisco.

RODE ON BENCHES

They rode on four board benches running lengthwise on the flat-bed truck.

Francisco Gonzales Espinosa, 34, of Salinas, the driver, said he stopped at the crossing and looked to his right.

Highway Patrol Capt. Francis Simmons said Espinosa declared he did not hear or see the train until the front wheels were on the track.

★ ★ ★

Engineer Robert E. Cripe of San Luis Obispo said he blasted the Southern Pacific locomotive's whistle when he saw the bus stopped at the crossing.

Funeral Today for Negro Girls

Memorial Services Planned for Victims

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy will talk tomorrow with the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., and six other Negro leaders on the racial situation in Birmingham, Ala.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — They hold the funeral today for three victims of a church bomber—and already memorial services for the four Negro girls killed by the explosion are being organized over the country.

The funeral for one of the girls Carole Rosamond Robertson, 14, was held yesterday with hundreds of persons, some white, paying silent tribute before she was buried in the red clay beneath cedar trees.

National Negro leaders, including Roy Wilkins of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, were en route to join in tribute to Denise McNair, 11, and Addie Mae Collins and Cynthia Wesley, both 14.

★ ★ ★

In Congress, a resolution asked President Kennedy to set aside next Sunday — the 101st anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation announcement—as a day of mourning for the four girls.

ASK MOURNING

The Congress of Racial Equality in New York asked 100 of its chapters to observe mourning Sunday, and the 10 chairmen of last month's march on Washington asked all Americans to do the same.

Wilkins, NAACP executive secretary, was to be joined at the afternoon funeral by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. of Atlanta, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; Bayard Rustin, deputy director of the Washington march; Fred L. Shuttlesworth, president of the Alabama Christian Movement for Human Rights, and others prominent in the integration fight.

★ ★ ★

In Washington, assistant Senate majority leader Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and other senators asked the President to proclaim Sunday "a day of national observance in memory of these children and a day of rededication in this nation to the principles of law, equality and tolerance."

Special Committee Hits Apartheid

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —A special United Nations committee asked the General Assembly and the Security Council today to consider expelling South Africa at once from the world organization for its policy of rigid racial segregation.

It also called on U.N. members to carry out penalties against South Africa suggested by the assembly last year. These include an arms embargo, a petroleum embargo and an end to foreign investment in South Africa.

The 11-nation special committee of Asian, African and Latin American nations was established last year to review South Africa's racial policies. Its report was submitted to the assembly shortly before the U.N.'s steering committee met to draw up an agenda for the 18th General Assembly session. African racial quarrels took top billing, along with the Buddhist conflict in South Viet Nam and the question of Red Chinese admission to U.N. membership.

★ ★ ★

The powerful 21-nation steering committee had an agenda of more than 80 items. It was expected to approve all controversial questions for debate during the session.

The assembly opened Tuesday on a spark of hope generated by the limited nuclear test-ban treaty. But the first meeting was full of surprises.

Action Delayed Week on Jaycee Petitions

Pontiac Area Junior Chamber of Commerce charter amendment petitions were officially certified by City Clerk Olga Barkeley at last night's City Commission meeting.

Mrs. Barkeley, whose job it is to determine if petitions qualify as valid under state law, was satisfied but Commissioner Milton R. Henry wasn't.

So, over objections from both Mrs. Barkeley and City Attorney William A. Ewart, action on a resolution ordering Ewart to prepare ballots for a special election was deferred one week. Henry had wanted the resolution tabled.

The petitions requested that a special election be held on the Jaycees' proposal to change voting procedures in the April municipal election of city commissioners.

Under the proposed charter amendment, commissioners would still be nominated by district, but voters at the April election would vote for seven candidates (one from each district), instead of one.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Barkeley said the petitions had been checked and contained "in excess of the necessary number of valid signatures required for calling an election."

She said that "in compliance with state law, the calling of a special election would be necessary between the dates of Jan. 8 and 18, 1964."

The clerk then read a resolution stating the necessity for a special election under state law and ordering Ewart to prepare the ballot forms.

RESOLUTION OFFERED

The resolution was offered by Commissioner William H. Taylor Jr. and seconded by Charles H. Harmon.

Henry objected and offered a motion to table the resolution so commissioners could check the petitions. Mayor Pro-tem Winford E. Bottom seconded Henry's motion.

Henry questioned the validity of signatures and said he could see "a patent defect" on a petition furnished him "that under

Indonesians Burn Embassy

Rioters Attack Homes of British Personnel

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Indonesian demonstrators protesting creation of anti-Communist Malaysia looted and set fire to the British Embassy and attacked homes of embassy personnel today. The three-story embassy was left a burned-out shell.

Indonesian troops were reported moving to quell the rioting, the most savage in a three-day outburst of mob violence directed against the new federation, created Monday, with Britain's backing, from four former British colonies.

U.S. Ambassador Howard P. Jones said he received official word that the Jakarta garrison had been instructed by the government to take over responsibility for quelling the outbreak. Jones said he had heard that the troops were ordered to points throughout the city.

★ ★ ★

Jones spoke by telephone with the British ambassador and reported the envoy was safe at police headquarters, along with members of his staff.

HOMES SACKED

Diplomatic informants said the homes of a number of the British Embassy personnel had been sacked and possibly burned. The British Cricket Club, in a fashionable residential section, had been set on fire.

Informants said confusion stemmed from lack of official information, and the fact that some cars and belongings had been burned in front of British homes.

More than a score of rioters were injured, mostly through their own actions. A hard core of several hundred, which moved on the embassy in trucks, quickly swelled. Thousands of others flocked to the fringes to watch.

★ ★ ★

It was mob pressure of a type that formed a prelude to the political-military campaign by which Indonesia won West New Guinea from the Netherlands under an agreement signed Aug. 15, 1962.

In Kuala Lumpur, capital of Malaysia, the government announced it was putting the country in "a state of preparedness" because of hostility from Indonesia and the Philippines.

Move Climaxes Weeks Spent in Testimony

Grand Jury Inquiry Asked in Pontiac on Vice and Elections

The City Commission last night fired City Manager Robert A. Stierer by a vote of 5 to 2.

The move came after four weeks of hearings into charges of incompetence, irresponsibility and insubordination filed against Stierer Aug. 5.

Stierer accepted the verdict without comment or show of emotion. After the meeting, he indicated he may "fight to keep my job" through further court action.

Commissioners William H. Taylor Jr. and Charles H. Harmon voted against firing Stierer. Taylor had been the only commissioner who opposed Stierer's suspension Aug. 5.

Voting in favor of firing Stierer were Mayor Robert A. Landry, Mayor Pro-Tem Winford E. Bottom and Commissioners Milton R. Henry, Loy L. Ledford and Dick M. Kirby.

★ ★ ★

Following the decision, Howard I. Bond, Stierer's attorney, condemned the manner in which hearings were conducted.

"If this hearing is what is meant by 'fair and impartial,' then God help us all," Bond said.

Moments after the final vote, Commissioner Loy L. Ledford called for a grand jury investigation into "campaign expenses of all candidates in the 1962 city commission election and into vice conditions in Pontiac."

PREPARED

He asked City Attorney William A. Ewart to prepare a resolution for action next week "asking the State Attorney General to request a grand jury investigation" into those areas.

There was no comment, nor objection from the commission table. The resolution was ordered.

Seven reasons for his removal were outlined in the seven-page resolution calling for his dismissal.

★ ★ ★

The reasons for removal "were developed at the hearing" according to the resolution.

Some of the reasons stated in the resolution were as follows.

1) The Manager dictated matters of policy under the control of the Commission.

2) He induced for political purposes the publication of irresponsible and malicious pub-

ROBERT A. STIERER

Quiet Man Unemotional at Decree

A quiet man sat in the front row at City Hall last night and listened as five men fired him.

★ ★ ★

City Manager Robert A. Stierer accepted his fate without comment or show of emotion.

★ ★ ★

After the meeting, he said he would announce future plans "within two or three days."

"I would like to return as city manager if possible. I have had two job offers in the city but am not, presently, looking for another job as city manager outside Pontiac."

Stierer indicated there was some possibility he might file a suit in Circuit Court challenging the manner in which he was fired and conduct of commissioners through the hearings.

★ ★ ★

His attorney, Howard I. Bond, said the decision was up to Stierer.

"If we take further action, it would be in the form of a special petition asking the court to rule on several points of procedure."

Bond said such points might include "whether the hearing was held in accordance with the city charter, if members of the commission should have been disqualified from voting by absence or because they entered testimony."

★ ★ ★

Stierer, however, was still able to manage a spark of humor.

★ ★ ★

When asked by a reporter how old he was, Stierer smiled and replied, "Why, do I look older than when this all began?"

House Unit Shapes Tough Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—A tough civil rights bill is taking shape in the House Civil Rights subcommittee although several key decisions are still to be made.

After months of hearings and weeks of closed discussions, the subcommittee has put together a bill that is even stronger in some respects than the seven - part measure requested by President Kennedy.

★ ★ ★

The big question, however, is what the subcommittee will do about the administration's proposal for a ban on racial discrimination in places of public accommodation, regarded by many Negro leaders as the heart of the bill.

The proposal, which faces heavy opposition, was put aside while the subcommittee worked on the other sections, but Tuesday it ran out of other sections.

WORK FOR WEEKS

Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., and Justice Department representatives have been working for weeks with Rep. William M. McCulloch, R-Ohio, ranking Republican on the subcommittee, to find a formula for the public accommodations section to which he can agree.

McCulloch, who has remained noncommittal about his position, is regarded as the key to winning enough votes for the bill to offset the loss of Southern Democrats.

Another big decision that may be made today is whether to add a fair employment practices provision to the bill. Kennedy did not ask for it but a separate bill has been readied and it will be offered as an amendment to the bill.

In its present form the bill would go beyond what the administration asked in several areas, including extending stronger new voting rights legislation to state as well as federal elections.

It also would make the Civil Rights Commission a permanent agency.

It would add a provision banning racial discrimination in publicly owned facilities catering to the public, such as parks, playgrounds and bathing beaches.

City Action Delayed on JC Petitions

the law of the state makes that petition no good."

★ ★ ★

He wouldn't say what the defect was. Mrs. Barkeley said she had a petition that had been disqualified because it contained signatures affixed to it on a Sunday.

Commissioner Dick M. Kirby asked if any names signed on Sunday were legal.

Mrs. Barkeley said 7,380 valid signatures were necessary to qualify the petitions for certification.

MANY FILED

Jaycees said their count showed 605 petitions containing 11,543 signatures were filed.

"We checked petitions until we had 7,440 valid signatures and then stopped," she explained. "During checking there were 27 petitions set aside because one or more signatures were affixed on a Sunday.

"This was done so there would be no question whatsoever about the valid signatures. The 7,440 signatures were contained in 400 of the 605 petitions."

Mayor Robert A. Landry called for a vote on Henry's motion but Mrs. Barkeley, obviously surprised, interrupted.

"But I have certified the petitions," she said.

Ewart warned that "when a petition comes in, you have no alternative but to act on it under law. Under the right of initiative and referendum the law is very careful that . . . we have no control over what the people put in (the petition) and we must put it up to a vote.

STATE LAW

"That is the law of this state. Even if the state attorney general doesn't approve it by form, it still has to be voted on by the people."

"We have no objection to that," Henry said, adding that the law also stated that petitions would be disqualified if commissioners found signatures to be erroneous.

"Once she (the clerk) checks and certifies the petitions," Evart argued, "that's an administerial act and . . . it follows automatically that you bring in the ballot."

Henry said, "We don't mean to table this indefinitely . . . just long enough to check the petitions. We don't say we won't set an election date. We have 90 days to do so."

Harmon asserted, "If we can't take the clerk's word, how can we tell if they're legal or not? I'm certainly not going down to her office to check them."

Taylor suggested Mrs. Barkeley bring the petitions up to the commission table so Henry could check them before the meeting was adjourned. Henry said he'd like more time.

DEFER ACTION

Harmon said it would be better to defer action, not table the issue. Henry agreed to deferring it one week.

No vote was taken. Landry asked for any further objections. There were none.

When they filed, Jaycees said they had received petitions containing some 11,743 signatures in all, but had disqualified about 200 signatures before filing on the basis of checks they themselves ran as signed petitions were returned.

The measure, approved on a changes laws dealing with the voice vote yesterday, also changes laws dealing with the care of veterans. lic statements by the Prosecuting Attorney that members of the Commission would continue to be under investigation for election expenses when no basis for such investigation existed.

3) He was insubordinate. He refused to follow Commission recommendations when given by Resolution and by direction at informal meetings.

4) He withheld important information on the City's serious financial position.

5) He failed to give direct and forthright answers to questions asked by members of the City Commission on matters of substance pertaining to the reasons for removal.

6) He interpreted the City Charter so that he was deciding Commission policies.

7) He has exhibited a defiant and non-cooperative attitude toward the majority of the Commission on Commission recommendations contrary to the so called City Manager Plan of government set forth in the City Charter.

The resolution also pointed to portions of the City Charter which stated the manager's responsibility to the commission and that the commission could fire him "for any reason . . . at any time."

Bond said the decision "was no surprise."

"You have finally thrown in what I call the kitchen sink (by) including charges here that were not in the original charges filed," Bond said.

"I think Mr. Stierer has vindicated himself . . . in the eyes of everyone but five commissioners. "This resolution is as asinine as some of the charges filed against Mr. Stierer.

"Never in my 35 years as an attorney, have I seen a more partial or unfair hearing as I have just witnessed in this meeting chamber."

He was applauded by the crowd.

HADN'T READ

Taylor and Harmon said they hadn't seen the resolution yet and objected on grounds that it was "unfair to act without first talking to Mr. Stierer."

Landry answered, "There's been enough talking already."

Only one opinion was voiced by the audience. Harold Brown of 80 Marquette, rose and said: "You five commissioners and Mr. Ewart ought to be ashamed of what you've done here tonight."

★ ★ ★

"The people of Pontiac will show you how much strength they have when they cast ballots next April."

Brown brought a burst of applause from the capacity crowd.

After the meeting, Ledford said he had evidence of conspiracy to violate election laws on the part of candidates opposing commissioners elected in 1962.

VICE EVIDENCE

He also said he had turned "some vice evidence" over to the FBI. Ledford refused to elaborate but said that "grounds for a jury investigation will be included in next week's resolution."

INCORPORATION BOOSTERS — A Junior Citizens' Action Committee (JCAC) is being formed in Waterford Township to assist a citizens' group in promoting incorporation of the township as a city. JCAC members Virginia Watson (left) and Pam Bomsta will be among those handing out literature at today's 8 p.m. open meeting at the Community Activities, Inc., building.

At Waterford Meeting

Noncity Areas to Be Eyed

Four areas within the boundaries of Waterford Township but excluded in the proposed incorporation of the township as a city will be outlined in a panel discussion at 8 p.m. today at the Community Activities Inc., building.

★ ★ ★

EXCLUDED AREAS

The four excluded areas, all on the eastern boundary of the township, include Lake Angelus Village; the county service center near the state police post, of the City of Sylvan Lake; and the City of Sylvan Lake.

Also slated for panel discussion is a small parcel of land near Dodge Park No. 4 deeded over to the township by West Bloomfield Township.

Panelists, all members of a group that prepared an incorporation study last year, also will answer any questions on incorporation at the meeting.

In addition to voting on the question of cityhood, township residents also will elect nine charter commission members in the special election.

If the incorporation proposal passes, the commission will begin drafting a charter. If it fails, the charter commission will be voided.

Birmingham Area News

School Superintendent Concerned With Quality

BIRMINGHAM — New Superintendent of Schools Dr. John B. Smith, a New Englander with a broad background in education, said he moved to the Midwest for "growing room."

Birmingham appears to be a community that will stay with traditional concepts which have proven themselves and yet be willing to take a good, hard look at itself and make changes if necessary for progress, Smith said.

At an introductory news conference yesterday, Smith commented on suburban school systems in general. He compared Birmingham to Greenwich, the Connecticut community he left last week to come here.

★ ★ ★

"They are concerned with quality education and see the importance of good schools," he noted.

Another feature is that suburbanites emphasize preparation for college.

"The parents are college-educated or in jobs where they can see the value of college," Smith said.

ONLY THING

"After all, about the only thing you really give to your children is education," he continued. "I feel it is the greatest thing to give to a youngster."

However, he noted that college preparation could be stressed to the detriment of students preparing for other vocations.

"What America needs is excellence in everything. Industrial arts, home economics and commercial aspects are important," Smith said.

★ ★ ★

The new superintendent said that after his first contact with the Birmingham Board of Education he was very impressed with its apparent desire to have the very best schools possible within the resources of the community.

He also commented on the board's communication with residents of the district making it possible for the people to visualize a continuing program.

Regarding his own work, Smith said he is an educator first and then an administrator.

He stressed the importance of developing each individual to the best of his ability.

The superintendent, a pioneer in several educational innovations, said he has no pet proposal to try out in Birmingham schools.

However, he added: "I'm convinced that no matter how good they are they probably can be better."

Quint Mom Due Home

ABERDEEN, S.D. (AP) — Mrs. Andrew Fischer, red-haired mother of quintuplets, looked forward today to returning home from the hospital as her tiny infants steadily gained in strength.

The four girls and a boy, born two months prematurely last Saturday, were at last report continuing active and healthy with the outlook good that all five would survive. The infants were expected to remain in the hospital for at least two months.

Dr. James Berbos, the family physician who delivered the quints, said he might weigh them today.

The infants are being handled as little as possible in order to conserve their strength. They are being fed about a teaspoonful of artificial milk formula and water every two hours.

"I told them upstairs that I would rather go into the delivery room than come down here," the 30-year-old mother told a battery of newsmen and photographers Tuesday night at her first news conference since the quints were born.

She had been kept in seclusion by her doctor and attorneys to give her time to recover.

Mrs. Fischer said she has not been told when she may leave St. Luke's Hospital, but Berbos indicated it would be late this week.

Visibly nervous and speaking barely above a whisper, Mrs. Fischer said she was concerned about her other five children at home—also four girls and a boy—as she was about her famous new brood.

"It's like a dream," she said when asked how she felt about becoming world famous overnight. "But I am very happy."

Gains, Losses Fractional

Mart Stronger in Mixed Trade

NEW YORK (AP)—Strength in selected issues highlighted a mixed stock market early today. Trading was fairly active.

Gains and losses of most key stocks were fractional, some going to a point or so.

Chrysler, yesterday's standout market leader, continued strong, rising another point. Ford gained a fraction. General Motors eased.

Some of the "glamour" stocks rebounded in routine swings — Control Data up 2 and IBM up 1. Polaroid continued soft, losing about a point. Xerox snapped back more than a point.

Steels gave ground narrowly, Republic, Jones & Laughlin and U.S. Steel yielding fractions. Rails were very narrowly mixed, with a number of the leaders unchanged.

★ ★ ★

Reading was firm following yesterday's large percentage jump of ⅝.

AVERAGE UP

Yesterday the Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained .1 at 280.4.

★ ★ ★

Prices were irregularly higher on the American Stock Exchange. Syntex rose about 2. Fractional gainers included Occidental Petroleum, Aerojet-General, Raytette and Tampa Electric. Among losers were Data-Control Systems, Creole Petroleum and Ogden Corp.

Corporate bonds were generally firm.

Cindy Stalled Over Texas

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — Dying Hurricane Cindy, stalled over this southeast Texas industrial area, set off cloudbursts that measured almost 2 feet today.

Widespread flooding sent hundreds of persons fleeing their homes to higher ground, many of them rescued by trucks and boats.

Cindy struck the Texas coast with winds up to 80 miles an hour yesterday but almost immediately lost its force and failed to sweep northward as rapidly as most hurricanes do.

★ ★ ★

It was centered north of Houston today, retaining no damaging winds but dumping massive rainfall.

22 INCHES

Deweyville, Tex., north of Orange, reported 22.76 inches of rain by late morning.

Latest reports showed Orange with 18 inches and Beaumont with 15.

Civil defense authorities declared a state of emergency in Jefferson County, which includes both Beaumont and Port Arthur and many smaller cities which cluster around industrial plants.

Torrents also poured down on the southwest corner of Louisiana, tapering into steady, soaking rains.

★ ★ ★

"Cindy is decaying slowly due to a large portion of the circulation still over the Gulf of Mexico," said a weather bureau advisory. The bureau predicted the hurricane—now reduced to the status of a tropical storm—would ease northward at 5 m.p.h. or less.

All Beaumont schools opened to house flood refugees.

Water lapped into many Beaumont stores and homes, and each passing rescue truck set up waves which caused more water damage.

Heart Patient Aid: 'Get Back to Work'

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—America's "Physician of the Year" says a heart attack is devastating but rarely crippling, and only permanently damaging if the patient fails to resume near normal work within 120 days.

"After four months the chances of a patient getting back to work at all definitely goes down," says Dr. David Gelfand, internationally famous cardiologist who heads heart departments at Philadelphia General Hospital and Kensington Hospital.

"Some people accept a heart attack as fate, as part of life, recover and go back to work," Gelfand says. "Others take it as a disabling illness and say let someone else support me. You can't ever forget that heart disease is an emotional ailment."

Gelfand, 54, father of two daughters (one married), a chain pipe smoker and an every-chance-I-get golfer, recently was named No. 1 physician by the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped, the 11th to be so honored.

He'll get the award formally on Sept. 26 in San Francisco at the American Medical Association's annual congress on occupational health.

Gelfand believes the worst kind of treatment a heart patient can get—"there are always exceptions"—is too much bed rest, too much sitting down and doing nothing, just too much restriction.

The attack victim's doctor frequently is his worst enemy, says Gelfand, "prescribing three months in bed, six weeks walking about slowly upstairs only, and then six more weeks climbing the stairs just once a day."

Studies by Gelfand and his associates, he says, indicates that more activity—as early as possible — and the fastest return to normal and to working is the best medicine.

"This is not easy to get across," he says.

'BIG BLOW'

Gelfand's team, in an eight-year period, examined 665 patients, and recommended that 92 per cent return to work full or part-time.

"A heart attack is a tremendous blow to the ego of younger Americans," says Gelfand, "and they tend to tell friends their doctor is wrong. And then to prove their point they go out deliberately and kill themselves by failing to take proper precautions."

The driver of the car, Phillip M. Bishop, 26, of 262 Clayburn, Waterford Township, was hospitalized for injuries suffered when he struck a tree after swerving to avoid hitting the boy.

Bishop, who received lacerations, was expected to be released from the hospital today. Police said they would make no charges against the driver.

The accident occurred on Walton just east of Livernois, Avon Township, about a quarter-mile from the youngster's home.

★ ★ ★

Bishop told sheriff's deputies that he was traveling east on Walton at 35 m.p.h. when the boy darted from between moving cars headed in the opposite direction.

160 FEET

The boy was knocked or carried by the car 160 feet from the point of impact, police said.

The youngster is survived by two brothers, Gary and Harry, and a sister, Sharon.

His body is at the William R. Potere Funeral Home, Rochester.

Musicians Authorize Walkout

NEW YORK (AP)—Union musicians have authorized a strike which could close all stage productions on Broadway, where the new season officially opens tonight.

The executive committee of Local 802 of the AFL-CIO American Federation of Musicians meets today to decide what day this week the strike will begin.

Only 9 of the 12 shows now on Broadway employ musicians but the New York Times today quoted an unidentified producer as saying, "If one show is struck, we'll all shut down."

REJECT CONTRACT

A meeting of musicians, by a 10-vote margin, rejected a contract offer Tuesday night. Al Manuti, Local 802 president, had told the musicians a "no" vote would "carry with it a recommendation to strike." The vote was 166 to 156.

★ ★ ★

Manuti said afterward the local's 13-member executive board would decide today "what our next step will be." He added, "there will be a strike some time this week."

A union spokesman said musicians working for Broadway-bound musicals still in production also would be called out.

SEASON OPENS

The Broadway season opens with "The Irregular Verb to Love," a comedy at the Barrymore Theater. Claudette Colbert and Cyril Ritchard are the stars.

Notices that the theaters might close were posted backstage in the nine shows that have music.

The League of New York Theaters proposed a $10 weekly wage increase in a three-year contract. Manuti said the local had asked for a $10 increase the first year, $5 the second and $5 the third, plus medical benefits and eight days annual sick leave.

He said the union's executive board had recommended acceptance of the contract "on the basis that it was the league's final offer."

Infants Killed, Crippled

Mystery Epidemic Struck U.S.

By JOHN BARBOUR
Associated Press Science Writer

WASHINGTON — There is evidence that a mysterious epidemic killer and crippler of newborn infants struck at least two areas of the United States last year.

★ ★ ★

The latest report is from Vermont—but doctors, left with the job of caring for the stricken infants who survived, are still without clues as to the cause.

The Vermont episode may be another expression of the epidemic of the brutal birth defect that struck Atlanta, Ga., last fall — and may have hit elsewhere.

3 BORN

From a one-block area in Montpelier, Vt., in just six weeks last summer, came three babies born with the rare defect. Six months later, from the same city block, came a fourth case.

All of the babies in this tragic cluster suffered from spina bifida—a congenital separation in the spine which allows spinal cord nerve tissue to balloon out from the body.

★ ★ ★

It can leave a baby vulnerable to death through infection. Or it may leave a child paralyzed from the waist down and incontinent for life. Frequently, there are complications, sometimes brain damage.

The cluster of cases from Montpelier stirred a medical investigation.

SAD COINCIDENCE

For one doctor, it was a sad coincidence. He had delivered all of the four Montpelier babies. Normally, a doctor might go through a lifetime without ever delivering a child with this defect.

An investigating team under Dr. Jerold F. Lucey, University of Vermont pediatrician, surveyed birth and death certificates on babies, combed the records of the university's two hospitals—where 23 per cent of the state's births occur—and checked the only three neurosurgeons in Vermont, all of them in Burlington.

★ ★ ★

The investigators wrote to every one of the state's 432 doctors outside of Burlington, getting responses from 90 per cent of them.

Putting their data together from all these sources, the doctors found 21 cases in all—of which only 10 survived in 1962.

HIGH RATE

Although the normal rate for Vermont would predict 99 cases in 100,000 live births, in 1962 the rate was 232 cases per 100,000 live births.

Meanwhile U.S. Public Health Service researchers in Atlanta, Ga., were looking into an outbreak there.

★ ★ ★

They discovered 16 cases between August and October of 1962. Only two babies survived. The rate was six times normal for the Atlanta population.

They interviewed mothers of the stricken babies, looking for some common clue. Was there something in diet, drugs or infectious disease—anything that may have caused the defect?

In Vermont, similar interviews were conducted.

★ ★ ★

There were no clear-cut answers —no common agent was found. In both cases, the epidemic passed. So far 1963 has been normal. In Vermont's neighbors — New Hampshire and upper New York State—there was either no increase or a decline in the birth defect rate in 1962.

League Forms New Group for Studies on Home Rule

Formation of a new county home rule study committee was announced today by William H. McGaughey, president of the Oakland Citizens League.

Known as the "Citizens Government Study Council — County Home Rule," it replaces an earlier committee established by the league, said McGaughey.

He said Homer Case, Bloomfield Township supervisor, was elected chairman of the new group at the last meeting of the league's now defunct county home rule committee.

Case said the new study council is now entirely independent of the league and is being enlarged by members who do not belong to the league.

Funds to carry on research on the application of the state constitution's county home rule provision will be sought immediately, said Case.

He said he is contacting political leaders of both major parties, service clubs, chambers of commerce, the Michigan Municipal League, labor unions and other groups for new committee members.

SECRETARY

Mrs. Doris Mosher of 551 Mohegan, Bloomfield Township, was elected council secretary. She is a leader of the American Association of University Women.

Other members include Mrs. Harriett Phillips of 2510 W. Raycourt, Huntington Woods, a former county supervisor and leading Democrat; Mrs. John D. Rumsey of 5950 Wing Lake, Bloomfield Township, representing the League of Women Voters; Frederick C. Nash, 130 Endicott Road, Bloomfield Hills, who served as general counsel of the U.S. Department of Commerce under the past administration.

Also, Bloomfield Hills Commissioner Henry Woolfenden, a leader in the recent state constitutional convention; Huntington Woods Mayor David Calhoun; Probate Judge Norman Barnard and White Lake Township Supervisor Edward Cheyz.

Police Chase Ends in Jail for Woman

A 24-year-old woman who crashed her car head-on with another while leading Holly police on a high-speed chase was sentenced to 60 days in the county jail yesterday and ordered to pay a $100 fine and $25 court costs.

Mrs. Joan S. Malis, 421 Harden, Holly, pleaded guilty to a charge of drunk driving when she appeared before Justice George DeLand. Her driver's license will automatically be suspended by the state for 90 days.

She was arrested shortly after 11 p.m. Monday when she smashed into a car driven by Paul J. Gazetti, 34, of 1011 Marion, Holly.

FORMER POLICE CHIEF

Gazetti, a former chief of police in Holly, was on his way from work in Flint, where he is a plant guard, when the accident occurred on North Holly Road, just south of Quick.

★ ★ ★

Gazetti was taken to St. Joseph Hospital in Flint where he is listed in good condition. Mrs. Malis suffered minor injuries but was not hospitalized.

Patrolman Edward Stout, who was in pursuit of Mrs. Malis, reached speeds up to 85 miles per hour during the three-mile chase that began in downtown Holly.

Rocky Blasts Foreign Policy

Charges JFK Weakens the Western Alliance

GLEN FALLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, speaking to a crowd in a campaign spirit, charged last night that the Kennedy administration had weakened the Western alliance through unilateral negotiations with the Soviet Union.

Rockefeller, who has promised to announce by the end of the year if he will seek the 1964 Republican presidential nomination, also renewed his attack on President Kennedy's fiscal policies.

The governor said that in the Eisenhower administration the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles made sure that the United States' position represented that of its allies before engaging in talks with Russia.

"Now we are negotiating and signing treaties," he said. "They are asking our allies afterward, without consultation, and publicly shaming them into a position that if they don't sign the whole world is looking at them and turning against them."

It was the second straight night that Rockefeller had criticized Kennedy's foreign policy, without meritioning the recently signed nuclear test-ban treaty.

Last night, in Accord, N.Y., he said failure to consult the Western allies in talks with Russia had "eroded" their will to resist communism.

In his talks here, Rockefeller said the administration had failed to spur national economic growth and curb unemployment sufficiently.

Members of the group which greeted Rockefeller carried pictures of the governor and signs reading: "Rocky and Happy in 1964." He was accompanied by his wife, Margaretta (Happy) Rockefeller.

★ ★ ★

Corcoran had invited Nixon, loser to President Kennedy in 1960, and several other prominent Republicans, including Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York to enter the primary. No commitment has been received from Goldwater or Rockefeller.

SHE'S A WHIZ — Carol Woodward, who will be 10 this month, rides a bicycle and plays like a normal child, despite having lost her arms when struck by a train at the age of 2. She has plastic arms fitted with steel clips.

Child Beats Tragedy

(EDITORS—What has happened to the little girl whose arms were cut off by train wheels eight years ago at Ticonderoga? This Associated Press follow-up depicts Carol today.)

SCHROON LAKE, N.Y. (AP) — Carol Woodard is a sparkling little girl who rides a bicycle and, she says, "can draw real good" —even though she lost her arms at the age of 2.

Carol will be 10 Sept. 25 and now is in the third grade despite setbacks resulting from the train accident that maimed her. She wears plastic arms with steel clips for fingers.

She has been following with interest the news stories about another third-grader, Debbie Marcuccilli of Waterloo, N.Y., who lost her legs last winter as the result of a school bus accident. Debbie, equipped with artificial legs and crutches, also is back in school, bravely facing her problem as Carol has learned to do.

In 1955, two days after her second birthday, Carol crept out of bed at her home in Ticonderoga and toddled along the nearby railroad tracks toward a neighbor's house. Her arms were crushed under the wheels of a freight train.

BECOMES ADJUSTED

Now, living at a foster home in this Adirondack resort, she has become so adjusted that she was the first to reach a foster brother who fell off his bicycle the other day. She lifted the bike off the boy, 10-year-old Dennis Ford, made sure he had not been injured, then wheeled the bike to the house.

For those who ask how her hands work, she flashes a pixie smile and explains that the clips move like snap clothespins and are driven by her shoulder movements.

She dresses herself, ties her own shoelaces and plays with other children in normal fashion. Among the children is Dennis, one of two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ford. Mrs. Ford is "Ma" to Carol since troubles in the Woodard family led to the new home.

* * *

The Fords take Carol periodically to the Sunnyview Rehabilitation Center in Schenectady for manual instruction.

"They say she is adapting well," Mrs. Ford told a reporter. "Of course, her new limbs must be readjusted to fit her as she grows."

Carol is full of ideas about her future. She'd like to "work at the post office sorting letters and canceling stamps." Or maybe she'll be a teacher or a nurse.

"I want to live in a nice house, have a nice car, nice furniture and a nice bedroom."

The Delaware & Hudson Railroad has established a $100,000 trust fund for Carol. Part of the money is being used for medical treatment. The balance will be hers when she is 21.

Sinatra, Vallee, Scotch Becoming 'History'?

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Comedian Joe E. Lewis, whose topical gags make him one of the great contemporary historians, has returned to the Copacabana for the 23rd year . . . and in saluting opening night guest Rudy Valley, he said, "He's the fastest guy with a dime that ever lived."

WILSON

In years to come, the history-writers will snip out things like these for footnotes: What people were talking about in the "Stoned Age," perhaps . . . Q: Do you think teachers should get a raise? . . . A: Scotch is expensive enough now! . . . Q: What about Adam Clayton Powell? . . . A: He's done a great job for his constituents in his district: Paris, France . . . Q: And Frank Sinatra? . . . A: He's generous. He heard about a peg-leg singer being in trouble. He gave him money to get back on his foot.

The Midnight Earl . . .

Fernando Lamas'll do a stock production of "The Fantasticks," and his honey, Esther Williams, wants to play a 16-year-old in the show . . . Ed Sullivan will fly to London to TV-tape a sequence with Sonny Liston . . . A prominent TV personality was told by the network to "get rid of ten pounds of lard."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Home is the place were ungrateful men are treated best and grumble most."

EARL'S PEARLS: The ideal of some men is to marry a rich girl who's too proud to have her husband work.

One sign you're getting older is when your kids tell you what they're studying in history — and you remember when you studied it in Current Events . . . That's earl, brother.

Reverend Tells Parish Hard Facts of Life

NORTH STAFFORD, England (UPI) — The Rev. William Smith told his parishioners today that, unfortunately, honesty was not always the best policy.

"It is well known in business that the honest man does not get on," he wrote in a magazine article.

3 Attempt Plunge From Golden Gate

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Three men who had never met, were from different cities and held dissimilar jobs, tried yesterday to jump off the Golden Gate Bridge.

* * *

They were prevented from making the 225-foot plunge by highway patrolmen and military police. They blamed marital or other domestic problems.

Since it was built 25 years ago, the graceful, orange-painted span linking San Francisco with Marin County has been the method chosen by at least 252 persons known to have committed suicide.

An undetermined number of others have dropped into the water, never to be found. And 183 persons — including the three yesterday — have been thwarted in attempts to jump.

* * *

Dr. Jerome Motto, assistant professor of psychiatry at the Langley Porter Neuropsychiatric Institute here, said the bridge is popular with would-be suicides "because it's simple, it's cheap, and it has a certain glamour."

SCREEN HELP?

Would it help prevent suicides if a screen was erected?

* * *

"It would keep them from jumping off the bridge, but they might then jump from a building," Motto said. "If a person is determined to commit suicide, I don't think a screen would help.

* * *

"However, there are a number of persons who are not quite determined to kill themselves. They might go ahead only if it is quite easy. In their case, a screen might help."

Motto, who has conducted a number of studies of suicide, said San Francisco leads the nation in this field with 30 per 100,000 population per year.

Toledo Newsman Dead

* * *

He joined the police department in 1937 and held the rank of detective sergeant when he retired this past spring.
