

Overhaul Tax Structure or Else—Romney

OK Standards for New School

Educational specifications for a new high school were adopted last night by the Pontiac Board of Education, which also passed a bond resolution to cover purchase of an east side site for the facility.

The board will ask the State Municipal Finance Commission for authority to sell up to $620,000 worth of bonds for a 122-acre parcel on the southwest corner of Opdyke and Featherstone.

The bonds will be sold only if the board decides to exercise its option to purchase the property.

Pontiac School District property owners would pay 50 cents per $1,000 of state equalized valuation toward retirement of the bonds in 1967-68 and 1 mill in 1968-69.

The bond sale would take the total district levy for bond retirement to 3 mills in 1967-68 and 2 mills the following year, according to Vernon L. Schiller, district business manager.

Now being considered by the board is a junior-senior high school for the east side of the city, where the district's population is expected to grow in the future.

FUTURE EYED

Steps also were taken last night to determine whether a new high school should be built on the west side and what the future holds for Pontiac Central High.

The educational specifications approved last night were prepared by PCH staff members and reviewed by central administrators.

'LSD Profits at 'M' Going to Stop War'

ANN ARBOR (AP)—A psychiatrist says that "LSD peddled on the University of Michigan campus is made in New York and profits from it go to stop the war and ban the bomb."

Dr. John C. Pollard, a psychiatrist at the university's Mental Health Research Institute, made the claim Tuesday night before the Washtenaw (Ann Arbor) County Medical Society.

The controversial hallucinatory drug is "sold on the black market in Ann Arbor" for $5 a capsule, he said. The capsules contain about three and a half times the LSD dosage used in scientific studies, he added.

"I think an enormous amount of marijuana may be used by students on this campus, and I was surprised to learn hashish is being used," he said.

Marijuana is made from hemp into cigarettes and smoked for their intoxicating effect. Hashish is a narcotic derivative of hemp which can be smoked, chewed or drunk.

STUDENT CONTACTS

When pressed for details, Dr. Pollard said his information was based on contacts with students.

Asked for specific incidences or figures on campus drug sales the New York source of LSD, and the number of students using drugs, he said:

"I wish I could give you figures but I can't." He did not elaborate.

Dr. Pollard said that buying from a source saying profits were going "to stop the war in Vietnam and ban the bomb" likely would have a stronger appeal for some students than a boast that profits were going to the Mafia.

State of State Talk Directed at Fiscal Need

Reform Moves Taken

LANSING (P)—Gov. George Romney today told the Michigan Legislature he would spend no money for the next fiscal year unless the Legislature first considers his proposals for tax reform.

In a State of the State message, the Republican governor told the 74th session of the Legislature that tax action is the "No. 1 job of this legislative session."

Michigan's greatest problem, Romney outlined recommendations ranging from taxes to time standards.

Romney's political career could ride on the success or failure of his programs in a Legislature where Republicans hold a slim edge.

While he has denied he is a candidate for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination, Romney has said he is exploring the possibility.

BOUT WITH FLU

Wearing a dark blue suit, Romney looked well despite a two-day battle with intestinal flu which kept him at his home Tuesday and yesterday.

He received a standing ovation from the 148 members of the House and Senate before delivering his 2,500-word message to the lawmakers and the packed galleries.

He told the legislators that the 1967-68 budget would require about $100 million in new revenue "merely to continue the programs now under way—merely to stand still—without making a single improvement in present programs or adding a single new one."

Romney was interrupted by applause 12 times during his speech.

He said at least two thirds of last July's estimated $167 million state surplus is committed to meeting this year's obligations, adding that the surplus will have shrunk to $50 million by next July.

Dem's Aid Gives Control of Michigan House to GOP

LANSING (P)—Republican Rep. Robert Waldron, aided by a Democrat who didn't vote, was elected speaker of the House of Representatives yesterday on a 55-54 party-line vote.

One Democrat said, however, he would try to oust Waldron the first time more Republicans than Democrats are absent from the House.

Democratic Rep. E. D. O'Brien of Detroit permitted Waldron's election as speaker of the equally divided House as he voted with the GOP on procedural questions, then abstained as Waldron beat Rep. William A. Ryan, D-Detroit.

Fellow Democrats, in floor debate, termed O'Brien a "Judas" and a "turncoat." Off the floor, some called him worse things than that.

Angry Democrats today discussed expelling O'Brien from their caucus, but delayed a decision at least until this afternoon.

The Democrats also decided not to attempt to elect one of their number as speaker pro tempore of the House or as associate speaker pro tem. Rep. Martin Butth, R-Comstock Park, was considered certain to be elected speaker pro tem.

Car of Suspect Found in Ohio

Lead in Farmington
Twp. Killing Reported

A car reportedly driven by John Merlo, wanted in the murder of his wife in Farmington Township, has been found abandoned in Cleveland, according to township Police Chief Irving H. Yakes.

Yakes said the car, a 1966 Plymouth, was found yesterday by Cleveland police.

So far it is the only lead police have to the whereabouts of Merlo, a 25-year-old factory worker who is wanted in the shooting of his 18-year-old estranged wife, Sharon.

She was fatally shot while working in a township beauty salon last Friday.

Yakes said a federal flight warrant has been issued on Merlo.

Merlo is described as about 5 foot 11, weighing 165 to 170 pounds, dark brown hair, wearing black-rim glasses and has a small birthmark by his left eye.

Friday's Weather to Be Like Today's

More of the same — brief snow flurries, partly cloudy with no important temperature changes — is the forecast for tomorrow and Saturday.

Temperatures will fall into the mid-20s tonight and register a high of 35 to 40 tomorrow.

Twenty-five was the low thermometer reading in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. today. The mercury climbed to 35 by 2 p.m.

... Dear Old Golden Rule Days ...

By PAT McCARTY

It's Jan. 12 — and that thunderous noise you hear is the sound of thousands of New Year's resolutions crumbling.

How many of those good intentions have been able to survive the brutal first days of 1967?

How many of us have had to admit, once again, that nobody's perfect?

Attempting to adhere to this traditional method of self-improvement, a classroom of youngsters at Emerson Elementary School is learning some important lessons about human nature.

Like, you can't win 'em all.

The 28 fifth and sixth graders in Jerry L. Johns' class started the year with individual lists of habits they were determined to correct.

This week they divulged the progress they've made in their efforts, the first experience any of them have had with this resolution business.

First, it must be reported that not one of them has been 100 per cent successful even to this date.

INTO HOMES

All made resolutions involving schoolwork, and some carried their enthusiasm for the project into their homes, where relationships with brothers and sisters seem to require the most attention.

"I've got a little brother, and I just can't be nice to him all the time," admitted Paula Jordan, a sixth grader. "He's (Continued on Page A-2, Col. 5)

Ky Escapes Injury as Mortar Misfires on Visit to Aussies

NUI DAT, South Vietnam (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky narrowly escaped injury today when an Australian mortar misfired, spurning flame near him.

Ky's bodyguards pulled the premier from the mortar pit and threw themselves on top of him. He was unscathed and the malfunctioning round caused no injuries.

Ky later joked with newsmen during the visit to Australian and New Zealand units 30 miles east of Saigon.

"I didn't realize what happened," Ky said. "Then I saw everybody on the ground. Then I acted like other people."

pace and provisions to serve a wide range of community needs.

The specifications are to serve as a planning document for all new senior high schools and as a standard against which the present PCH can be evaluated.

Schools Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer plans to recommend at the board's Jan. 25 meeting an architect to study the PCH building.

Attending last night's meeting were some PCH teachers and students.

Teachers commented on present conditions at the school which they consider to be health and safety hazards.

With a "reasonable capacity" for 1,875 students, the 52-year-old building has an enrollment of 2,141.

'The Strangler' Faces Victims

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A 35-year-old mental patient who claims to be the Boston strangler has been identified by three women as the man who invaded their homes in suburban Boston two years ago and molested them sexually.

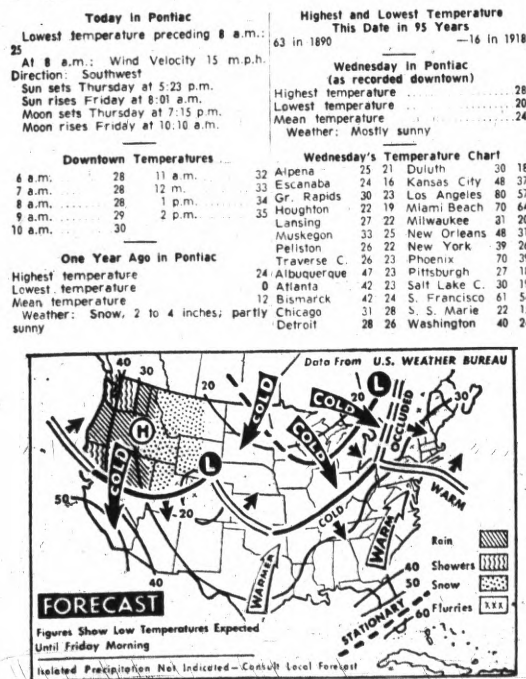

Albert DeSalvo, a former house painter and laborer from nearby Malden, is on trial in Middlesex County Superior Court on charges of breaking and entering, armed robbery, assault and sex offenses.

None of the charges is related to the series of stranglings which took the lives of 11 eastern Massachusetts women between June 1962 and January 1964.

U.S., Euromart Major Tax Overhaul Stressed by Romney

Grain Stabilization Is Purpose of Pact

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The United States and the European Common Market are moving toward a wide agreement on the sharing of man's basic food — grain.

Some progress may be made today at a meeting of cabinet ministers from the six Euromart countries: France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg. The main battle will be fought in Geneva.

If an accord is reached, it will cover the whole non-Communist world and form an essential part of the Kennedy round agreements on trade. It will cover not only the grains that humans eat, such as wheat and rye, but the feed grains needed for raising poultry, beef, pigs and other meat animals. The deadline for the Kennedy round is June 30.

The idea of the agreement is to stabilize prices, production and markets. The United States also would like to make it a system for supplying aid to underdeveloped countries, especially India.

INDIA'S NEEDS

India's needs have absorbed a large proportion of the U.S. grain surplus, which has about disappeared. The United States wants other affluent countries to share the burden.

The Common Market opposes putting aid arrangements in the grain agreement. The agreement, it says, should be about trade — not aid. It wants aid to be considered a different matter and handled elsewhere.

Romney told lawmakers the central issue facing Michigan is whether needed new revenue should come from increased rates on current taxes, coupled with a variety of new nuisance taxes, or from an overhaul of the present tax structure.

FIX INEQUITIES

"In my judgment, new revenues should be obtained in such a manner as to correct inequities, rather than increase them," Romney said.

Tax action is necessary by April 1, he has said, so that a tax reform program can be implemented by July 1 when the fiscal year begins.

Any delay would force higher tax rates or cutbacks in public services, he said.

He said he does not intend to sign any appropriation bills for next year "until I can see where the money is coming from—until I can see sufficient revenue to meet the costs of government."

TALKS HELD

Romney has met with Republican and Democratic legislative leaders to outline essentially the same tax matters included in his state of the state message.

The governor also touched on several favorite subjects, recommending stimulation of individual citizens action and public-private partnership in meeting state problems, and the strengthening of state and local government.

He also slapped at the federal government, warning that "if the state and local governments fail in their responsibilities, the vacuum will be filled—more ex-

Wixom Sewer Bonds Get OK Yanks Seize Cong HQ in Iron Triangle

The Oakland County Department of Public Works Board yesterday approved sale of bonds amounting to $4.6 million for the Wixom sewer system.

Birmingham Bloomfield Bank, agent for Bank of the Commonwealth and Associates, was low bidder with a proposal of 4.04297 per cent in net interest over the 30-year bonding period.

Five other financial firms submitted bids on the bonds. The highest proposal was 4.235 in interest.

Construction on the sewer system will start immediately, according to R. J. Alexander, director of the County DPW. A groundbreaking ceremony is scheduled for 11 a.m. Monday.

The Holloway Construction Co. of Wixom was awarded contracts on the sewer installation a month ago.

TREATMENT CONTRACT

Awarded the contract for a $460,000 treatment plant for the system was Gay Brothers Co. of Pontiac.

The City of Wixom applied for a $1.5-million federal grant to help finance the sewer system but the grant was never approved due to the city's tax base potential.

General obligation bonds will finance the entire project.

The earliest authentic accounts of China are those of Marco Polo, who visited the country in the 13th century.

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. forces sweeping through the Iron Triangle above Saigon today captured what appeared to be one of the main headquarters complexes for Vietcong guerrillas operating in the Saigon area, a military spokesman disclosed.

Troops of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division, spearheading the biggest operation of the war, over-ran a series of newly constructed bunkers that contained a command center, three mess halls and a about 30 individual barracks bunkers.

The Vietcong themselves had fled.

The Iron Triangle, a thick jungle area 30 miles northeast of Saigon, has been dominated by the Communists for more than two decades and is believed to be the main staging area for the guerrillas who have terrorized Saigon and its outlying areas.

The drive had been stalled earlier today by Communist snipers hiding in the trees and opening heavy fire on U.S. armored columns inching through the jungle.

But a flight of U.S. Air Force Supersabre jets screamed in at tree-top level and knocked out the snipers in some of the many missions flown in support of the operation.

More Study of Zoning Asked

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — A recommendation to rezone property along Woodward to allow "cluster homes" has been sent back to the Planning Commission for study.

The planners had recommended an ordinance change to allow 2.5 homes per acre in small areas and lowering the minimum dwelling size.

Opposition to the rezoning was voiced to the City Commission, which decided more study was needed.

The recommendation included dropping the dwelling size from a 25,000 cubic feet total to 20,000 cubic feet in the areas to be rezoned.

The City Commission has also been notified fees for use of Baldwin Public Library will be increased by $517 to $6,517 on the basis of increased usage.

Dr. Thompson and his wife, Florence, have taken up residence in the all-electric Thomas Alva Edison House on the campus.

While in residence, Dr. Thompson will lecture and hold seminars for students at nearby universities.

UFOs Reported Over Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Another report of unidentified flying objects (UFO) came Wednesday, this time over Detroit—and once again with photographs.

Mark Osterman, 31, a dealer sales representative for Cities Service Oil Co., said he saw the objects Jan. 3 while photographing a service station on Detroit's West Side.

He produced a small, color Polaroid photo showing two light yellow oblong objects in the sky above the station. The objects appear to be ringed by halos of light.

The Air Force, meanwhile, continued to investigate a report by two brothers of a UFO over Lake St. Clair near Selfridge Air Force Base.

Air-Sea Hunt Continues for Four on Plane

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Coast Guard continued an air and sea search today for four men aboard a converted World War II troop plane.

The twin-engine, silver-white and blue craft left Fort Lauderdale for Bimini Wednesday and bits of fuselage and landing gear were sighted later in the Atlantic west of Bimini, 60 miles off the Florida coast.

There was no sight of the four occupants, Charles Robert Lundgren, 44, of Paradise, Pa., the pilot; William Suiter of Fort Lauderdale, copilot; Larry Waplehorst, Hollywood motel owner, and Eugene Lamire, an Eastern Air Lines pilot from Miami.

only 3, but when he hits me, I tell Mom or I hit him back."

Jean Gammy, another sixth grader, is determined "not to argue or yell at my brother."

This may well die for lack of support, for Jean's brother Dean, a classmate, claims, "I like to argue and yell at her."

TAKES THE CAKE

Dean's list of six resolutions was topped off by one "to try to obey my resolutions."

Another two-way-street resolution involves fifth graders Elaine Powell and Sharon Kardell, who are "best friends" and sit next to each other.

"I said at the beginning I wouldn't act stupid with her," said Elaine. "But I do it anyway."

Sharon has made no such deal.

'FIRST IN LINE'

"Mine is to be first or almost first in line," said Sharon.

"I'm trying to concentrate more on my work when Mr. Johns is working with the fifth graders," said upperclassman Charlene Austin. "I get interested in what they're doing when he talks about math. I also want to control my temper so I don't get mad at my little brother."

Sixth grader Russell Broadwater has something going for him in the sibling department.

"I resolved not to fight with my brother—because he's bigger than me," said Russell. "I'm keeping it pretty good."

"To keep a neat desk and to obey all school and class rules," were sixth grader Merrilee Clancey's promises to herself. "I didn't make any at home, but I should have because I'm always picking on my sister," she added.

"I have one I don't think anyone can keep," said Mark Wyzgoski, also a sixth grader. "That's to keep quiet."

Mark has another one — "To help my mother, who's been in the hospital. But she won't let me."

"My mother makes resolutions for me to keep, like doing the dishes," said fifth grader Jodie Roberts.

NOT FAIR

Her classmates disclosed this aspect of resolution-making and agreed it's not fair for someone else to do the resolving for you.

Jodie said she's having better luck with her own ideas: "To get almost straight A's and to read more at home and school."

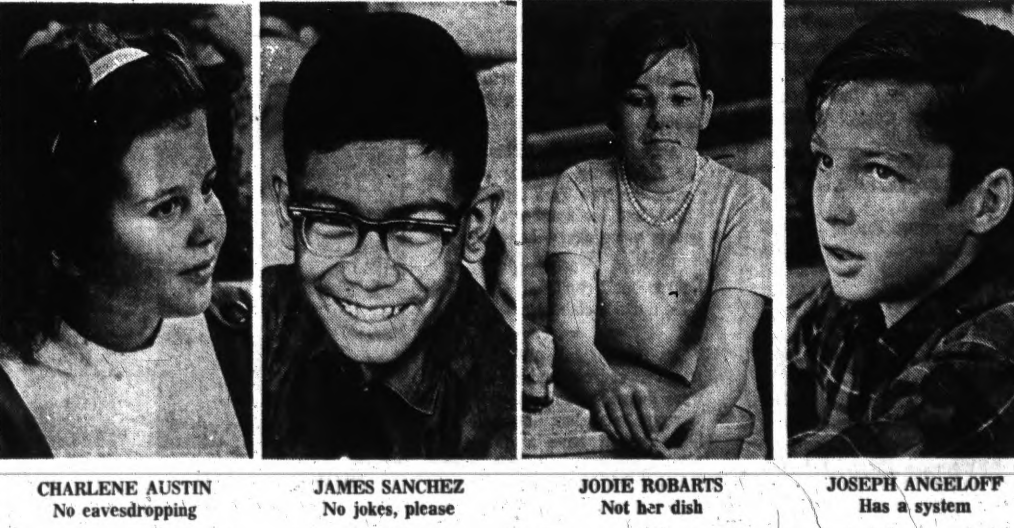

Sixth grader James Sanchez has taken another tack, "just to be different."

"I won't laugh at jokes," James said, "smiling" loudly.

Joseph Angeloff, a sixth grader, explained the resolution-keeping system.

"We have a chart we mark every day for good, bad or 'really needs to be taken care of,'" said Joseph. "It's all right as long as someone keeps bugging me to keep them."

"Otherwise, I forget." Ah, yes.

Memory Makes the March of Time Meaningful

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—The worst thing that can happen to life is death.

The second worst thing that can happen in life is the retreat of memory.

What a salvation, a glory and a citadel memory is to mankind: How meaningful it makes the march of existence. In the midst of present wonders, it reminds us of the wonders before.

But, of course, memory isn't just the prisoner of the elderly. The first fierceness of a child's groping is to find something worth remembering and coming back to.

BOYLE

In your own heart if you can look back and remember when: Houses were built so that everybody kissed each other good night on the ground floor and then they went to bed upstairs.

No one could pretend they were older or younger than they were because their birth date was written down in the family Bible, the big book with the dust on it.

The only people who came into the house through the front door were encyclopedia salesmen or insurance collectors. At that time, for 10 cents a week, you could buy enough insurance to bury a child but not to educate him.

INDIANS

Irish people from Philadelphia visiting Irish relatives in Kansas City, Mo., expected that on arrival they would have to grope their way through dangerous Indians.

In any big town in America you could give a nickel to the streetcar conductor and get anywhere that was worth going to.

The height of sophistication was to see a vaudeville comedian a year after the first time you saw him, so that you could chuckle at the start of his familiar joke.

Old men, after the labor of their manhood was done, would sometimes turn their restless fingers to the intricate making of quilts—anything to do that kept them busy and proud.

Most arguments in America were about the interpretation of the Bible and what the weather would be next.

A child wondered if a seed was put in the ground upside down whether it would grow up or not. Could it possibly grow clear through the earth and come out in China?

As a child, everything you didn't want on your plate was exactly what every child in China was supposed to want most on his plate. And your sure opinion was, "Let him have it."

You could always be a local intellectual if you spread the rumor around that you were taking a correspondence course in any subject. If you got a lot of mail, even the mailman had a higher opinion of you.

One of the ways a homely girl got attention was to tell fortunes through hand-reading. So often her heart was embalmied in her judgment of the outstretched male palm.

In every block in America there was a mentally unbalanced person, by birth or later circumstance, but everybody else in the block knew he was, and that was part of life, and it was better to keep him at home where he was known than to send him away to where he wasn't known. He belonged to the neighborhood.

The greatest family fun was to sit thoughtful before the fireplace and hear mother play the piano while sister sang a lovely old song, such as "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming."

SAVOR THE FLAVOR

And you probably have the flavor of many dear memories

University Ills Are Reviewed

Center's Publication Suggests Some Cures

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) — Higher education in America — its major ills and some suggested cures — was reviewed in a publication released yesterday by the Center for the Advanced Study of Democratic Institutions here.

The center, a nonprofit, independent educational institution, published "The University in America" to help initiate the process of reappraising and clarifying the main issues confronting the university.

Five college administrators reached general agreement on what constitutes the major ailments of the American university.

However, there was wide disagreement on the ranking of the ailments in order of gravity and their most appropriate remedies.

Contributors to the publication included: Clark Kerr, president of the University of California; Robert M. Hutchins, president of the center and former chancellor of the University of Chicago; Rosemary Park, president of Barnard College; Jacques Barzun, dean of faculties and provost of Columbia University; and Sir Eric Ashby, master of Clare College, Cambridge University, England.

GENERALLY AGREED

They generally agreed on massive size, impersonalism, undue emphasis on research, diminished quality of undergraduate teaching and loss of the sense of community and purpose as the main evils of the university.

Hutchins criticized the "service station" concept of universities.

As a matter of course, he said, it is assumed university functions include "everything anybody wants by way of educational experience beyond high school" as well as "solving practical problems, collecting data, investigating the universe or cleaning up the landscape."

LBJ's Message Skims the Surface

President JOHNSON's State of the Union message will hardly be recorded as a state paper of major significance.

The wide-ranging look at the Nation consumed 70 minutes, one of the longest addresses of the kind on record, and presumably made up in length what it lacked in depth.

JOHNSON

No disclosures were made that had not been pretty well discounted, although a proposal for a 6 per cent surtax on corporate and personal income taxes ended speculation on that issue that had been rife for the past year. The tax increase is needed, the President said, to support the war in Vietnam.

Considering that the increase figures to raise an annual $4.5 billion and outgo for the 1967 fiscal year is estimated at $126.7 billion, many will wonder why so relatively small an amount could not have been realized by cuts in spending on the domestic front and curtailment of foreign aid outlays.

As of now, the budget for fiscal 1967 is expected to wind up with a $8.1 billion deficit, to rise to one of $9.7 billion for fiscal 1968 based on a record-breaking spending program of $135 billion.

In the face of the year-long decline in the national economy, it is a fair assumption that the deficits for both years will well exceed the Administration's projections.

JOHNSON's address touched all sectors of the population, with generalized promises of social betterment and economic gain. He plans to push the War on Poverty to the fullest and to launch a national program to combat crime. Only in the area of Social Security was he specific as he called for an average 20 per cent increase in pension payments.

Leaving to the last the question upmost in the minds of Americans — U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia — the President indicated no hope of an early cessation of hostilities there nor specific plans to achieve our objectives in that part of the world.

In sum, President Johnson's report to his countrymen was more a low-keyed exercise in verbiage than a program of hard-hitting, explicit measures to meet the challenges of the times.

Long-Time Press 'Newsboy' Calls It a Day

While we can't say with certainty that 84-year-old Mrs. WILLARD WALLS is the holder of a world's record, the one she racked up as Pontiac Press "newspaperboy" for 29 years gives her All-American standing in our book.

The lady, who attributes her good health and ebullient spirits to the daily delivery of papers to 63 Davisburg subscribers, relinquished her route the other day because she wasn't feeling so well—nothing serious, you understand, just a persistent cold.

Mrs. Walls inherited her route from her two sons, taking over, temporarily she thought, when they graduated from high school. She disdained anything so sissy as a carrier bag, choosing rather to snug the papers under her arm.

The PRESS warmly salutes this indomitable octogenarian whose devotion to duty, in good weather and bad, can well serve as an example not only to her contemporaries but to countrymen many decades her junior.

You Mean Girls Have to Be Taught This?

There's a school in London which for a mere 85 pounds ($238) teaches girls how to marry their bosses.

During the varied three-month course, says Quinto Lingo magazine, the young hopefuls are schooled in make-up and hair styling, cooking, etiquette, flower arranging, dancing, walking gracefully, interior decorating, antique furniture, art appreciation and public relations.

With a shortage of secretaries and stenographers in Britain, the graduates of the finishing school have little trouble finding jobs. As for landing the boss, LESLIE CLAYTON, director of the school, all but guarantees the effectiveness of the curriculum. She speaks with authority, since she married her own boss.

Evidently, the modern British executive would agree with an earlier countryman who said that a thing of beauty is a joy forever. Especially if she can type.

LBJ Still Full of Energy, Ideas

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — President Johnson, bouncing back from months of comparative silence, is as full of energy and ideas as ever, which would seem to wash out any guessing that he won't try for a second term in 1968.

There was a time, earlier in his presidency, when Johnson kept himself almost constantly in the public eye with speeches or pronouncements.

He did an almost complete about-face on that in the last months of 1966.

But his State of the Union message Tuesday night, delivered to Congress in person and taking up almost one hour and 10 minutes of national television and radio time, was like his three previous messages, starting in 1964.

It dripped with proposals and programs and promises

DOMESTIC AFFAIRS

In domestic affairs alone, the President dipped into at least 21 different fields with recommendations made then or to be made.

Yet, there was a difference between Tuesday night's talk and the previous State of the Union Messages, both in what he said and the way he said it.

Gone was the excessive use of facial expressions as he explored the problems and made his points. He was straight-faced as he addressed Congress.

And, full of ideas as Tuesday's message was, it still was less controversial than some of its predecessors.

INCREASE TAXES

Except for his suggestion to increase taxes to help pay for the war in Vietnam, there was very little to stir his listeners on racial, economic or other grounds.

Such hot issues of the past, like Medicare or federal aid to education, were missing. Johnson's stress was on a better life for everybody in this country.

His suggestion for improvement ranged from fighting poverty to building up better police forces to fight crime and giving the states ever more federal aid and cooperation.

The recommendations he made covered such a broad field of American life—backed up by his promise to send Congress special messages on a number of them—will keep him busy and in the public mind for months.

AGGRESSIVE ACTION

In short, the whole thrust of his talk on domestic problems was one of aggressive action by him although, by repetition, he made it plain he wouldn't be high-handed but would seek the advice and consent and approval of Congress.

He was far less specific and inclusive in the foreign field. But the one place where he was very specific and emphatic was Vietnam. He didn't budge an inch on American participation in the war there.

David Lawrence Says:

LBJ Erred in Handling of Talk

WASHINGTON — President Johnson made a big mistake in the handling of his message to Congress on the "State of the Union." He kept advance copies away from the press until just about an hour before he started speaking.

The document missed early editions throughout the country, and lots of newspapers were unable, because of the shortness of time, to arrange to include the full text.

For years, presidential messages have been given to the press several hours in advance so that careful summaries could be prepared, as well as space allocated in all editions.

The theory now evidently is that everybody listens to television or radio anyway. But a speech that is 70 minutes long is not easy for the public to grasp merely by listening.

The President, of course, put too much in one speech.

SUMMING UP

The reaction of members of Congress will be gradually revealed. This correspondent's analysis may be summed up as follows:

• The increase in taxes. Nobody likes such a proposal, but the majority opinion is that something has to be done to increase revenues. The "surcharge" formula is the least painful at this time.

• The Vietnam war. The President rightly stated America's firm determination to continue the fight until the enemy recognizes the necessity for a peace agreement. The war has been unduly prolonged already by the pacifist and other groups which are openly advocating surrender by America.

• Improvement in Social Security payments. This will be welcomed by many people who realize that, as the purchasing power of the dollar has declined, it is necessary to help the recipients of Social Security by giving them substantial increases.

• Civil rights. The President devoted only 44 words out of his 7,000-word message to this subject, and did not explain how "fair housing" could be obtained by legislation.

• Crime. The President talked forcefully about the importance of combating crime, but he passed the main responsibility on to the states and cities. This is in contrast to his advocacy of a new "partnership" between local governments and the federal government in other matters.

• Foreign policy. The President merely reiterated what his predecessors have said about international cooperation in Africa and Asia, particularly through foreign-aid programs. He repeated that the United States is in Vietnam as a consequence of the Southeast Asia treaty. He held out the olive branch to the Soviet Union and, in effect, urged that trade concessions be made in the hope the Soviets would alter their adamant stand on disarmament and other questions.

Bob Considine Says:

Jamaican Golf Tourney Gets to Root of the Game

MONTEGO BAY, Jamaica — There is a small mountain of fancy, fat golf bags stuffed with clubs rising in the cool and luxurious lobby of the Half Moon Hotel.

My friend John Derr's fourth Jamaica Jamboree Golf Tournament is about to get under way at two of the hemisphere's most glamorous courses, the 7,130-yard Rosehall Half Moon layout carved by Robert Trent Jones out of a former coconut and sugar plantation and the striking and rolling Tryall Golf Club, shorter but if possible more breathtaking.

This is a golf championship that digs a little deeper into the hide of the game than any other in my experience. This one is a confrontation involving teaching pros from dozens of courses all over the world and selected amateurs of each of those clubs. It is club vs. club.

Primarily it may lack a Palmer or a Nicklaus, but it is more representative of golf as a game and competitive sport than any tournament that involves only the annointed cream of the cream. Pursues are modest silver cups, somewhat less high than an elephant's eye. But if there is indeed a camaraderie to be achieved through sport this one utilizes the daffy and wonderful game of golf to the fullest.

SO GENTLEMANLY

This is Everyman's tournament.

It will be all so gentlemanly and symbolic of a seemingly beautiful and mysterious island once knew.

Somewhere up in the soaring hills of Jamaica in land few men have ever ventured into, the descendants of "giant" African slaves turned loose by the Spaniards before the British ran them out of here in 1655 may look down somberly on gentlemen poking at the little white golf balls.

The Maroons, as they are called, are a proud people not quite ready to forgive the palefaces who hunted them with dogs and all but exterminated their species.

DISLIKED GENERAL

They still don't like Gen. Walpole whose 62nd Foot and 17th Dragoons with dogs exacted a hard peace negotiation we wouldn't dare enforce in Vietnam.

It's first paragraph read: "The Maroons will on their knees ask his majesty's pardon." Fore!

Japan Must Know Our Purposes

TOKYO (NEA) — Action must be taken now to prevent serious trouble in 1970 over renewal of the U.S.-Japan security treaty which guarantees Japan's defense and provides the United States with key Far East bases.

Without this treaty, which gives Japan a nuclear umbrella, Tokyo could swing sharply neutralist or go into nuclear warhead production itself.

Neither prospect is inviting. The party in power is split with dissensions and rivalries, torn by the corruption of officeholders and weakened by the growth of a small, vociferous, highly nationalistic Buddhist party, ultraright-wing at home and isolationist abroad.

The downfall of the Liberal party, weak as it is, would bring chaos. The left-wing opposition is even weaker in leadership and just as susceptible to corruption. It is opposed to U.S. policy in Asia.

The strength of the Liberal Democrat party is in the countryside, but Japanese are moving into the cities in increasing numbers.

The cost of living has shot up in Japan. The govern-

Voice of the People:

Law Enforcement System Needs Our Full Support

We have a good law enforcement system and it would reduce crime by 50 per cent if given the solid support of all law-abiding citizens. Every honest citizen should write his congressman and senators (state and national) and ask them to work for changes in the laws to prevent hampering of our enforcement system by rabble-rousers not elected by the voters.

We have a proven good and capable sheriff who has been re-elected by the voters. Give him a free hand if you expect him to do a good job. Anyone who does not like the conditions in the jail has the privilege of behaving himself and not going there.

Why should we provide a palace with a diet of sirloin steak with pie a la mode for our criminals, to be paid for by our law-abiding citizens who are lucky to get hamburger at home?

Discusses Proposed Sanitary Land Fill

With all the planning and programming to beautify Michigan, how many are aware that the proposed sanitary land fill, to be located off Maceday Lake Road, is a glorified title for a garbage dump? If approved by the Waterford Township board on January 30, it will be operated by a private enterprise and for a nominal fee Oakland County and any outlying district will have at their disposal fifty acres of land to dump their garbage and trash.

It will sit in the middle of the Pontiac Lake Recreation Area, surrounded on three sides by State land, 1,900 feet from Maceday Lake, and Pontiac Lake and beach will be but a stone's throw away. For six years this community fought to stop the dumping of a private sanitation company on open land that seeped into streams leading to Maceday Lake.

What guarantee do we have that our roads in this area, with an estimated fifty or more garbage trucks daily entering this sanitary land fill, will not be littered with trash? What will keep the flies, mosquitoes and rodents from becoming a health hazard?

Reader Is Grateful for Honesty of Others

I am most grateful for two recent incidents where people were honest. While shopping in a Drayton store, my keys were found in the trunk keyhole but were kindly presented to me. A few days ago my wallet fell out of my purse by the jail and a man took it to the desk in the jail.

Question and Answer

My son attends the special education class at Willis School. It is 2½ miles from our home and I have no transportation for him to get home from school. I can't afford cabs every day, but unless I get bus service, he will have to be taken out of class. He is unable to go into an ordinary class. Can anyone help?

REPLY

Apparently arrangements were being made for your son at the time you wrote, because Carol Walters at the Special Education office tells me he is now being taken home from school.

Businesses Enlarge Role in Education

By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist

It has often been said in this column that education is one of the major factors in our society. It is constantly gaining in importance. Business and industry are in the process of establishing a major role in the educational business.

Many of the larger corporations are spending extensive sums of money developing new materials and methods for instructional purposes.

Most of them have set up separate educational departments. They are willing to invest many dollars in research and development with the anticipation that they can obtain a profitable share of the nearly $50-billion educational expenditure.

This expenditure is rising rapidly. In the 1956-57 school year, the expenditure was only $21.8 billion. This means that it has more than doubled in 10 years. At this rate, education is the second largest business, ranking just behind defense.

We are in the infancy of a new kind of education. The many kinds of materials and equipment being developed will surely have a major affect upon the teaching process.

LIMITED BY COST

At present, the use of these new devices is often limited by high cost and also because they are not fully developed. They are similar to the airplane in the early 1900s. The future is unlimited.

In what ways are some of these corporations entering the field? General Telephone and Electronics has developed a "blackboard by wire."

Through the use of this device a single instructor can talk and write on an electronic blackboard in classrooms hundreds of miles away.

The device is being produced and used by both education and industry for instructional purposes.

WIDELY USED

International Business Machines, through its subsidiary Science Research Associates, produces a wide variety of tests and instructional materials which are widely used in the schools.

Board Okays Procedural Change on U.S. Funds

The Pontiac School District Citizens Committee on Human Relations will get a look at future applications for federal funds before they are submitted by the school board.

The procedure sought by the committee was adopted by the school board last night with one condition.

"In fairness to the committee members, they should be told the board may not always be able to wait for their consideration," said Trustee James Howlett.

Other board members concurred that the time element involved in making federal applications should be stressed.

The board also authorized staff studies to determine the cost of implementing two other human relations committee recommendations.

IN-SERVICE TRAINING

The committee is seeking in-service training programs for teachers and administrators on the contributions of minority groups to American history.

Also recommended is the purchase of "considerably more films on American Negro history and Latin American culture for the materials center."

In other action, the board gave tentative backing to the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, a voluntary organization proposed by the Committee of One Hundred.

The resolution adopted by the board, declaring its intent to join the council if it is established, involves no financial outlay.

The council of municipalities, counties and school districts would be aimed at providing a means of coordinating regional planning.

If enough interest is indicated, a meeting will be held on establishment of the council this spring. Schools Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer said 50 other governing bodies had passed resolutions like that adopted by the Pontiac board last night.

A report was presented to the board on investigation of on-the-job apprenticeship programs for high school seniors.

Assistant Schools Supt. William J. Lacy noted such a plan would involve placing 12th graders at on-the-job stations with the understanding the students would enter apprenticeship programs when they graduate from high school.

The U.S. Bureau of Apprenticeship would count the training as part of the time required for an apprenticeship program if the employer agrees to such an arrangement, Lacy said.

He noted the program would require an additional staff member and said further studies will be made on procedures and costs.

Lacy also reported that a pre-apprenticeship program had been discussed with the district's apprenticeship curriculum committee, composed of representatives of Pontiac Motor Division, GMC Truck and Coach Division and Fisher Body plant.

"They indicated there is no interested right now, but they shortage of applicants for apprenticeship programs at this time," Lacy said. "They are not did not close the door."

MEA Seeks Income Tax, Extra Funds for Schools

LANSING (UP) — The Michigan Education Association urged the Legislature today to pass a state income tax and pump at least $160 million extra into the state's public schools next year.

The MEA, which represents a large portion of Michigan's public school teachers, also said the school year should be lengthened five days and more teachers should be hired to reduce pupil-teacher ratios.

E. Dale Kennedy, MEA executive secretary, said tax reform was the Legislature's most important goal.

He called for "any reasonable combination of a personal and corporate income tax, property tax relief by means of a per cent credit of the total tax bill, uniform assessing practices through a system of qualified state assessors, adjustment in the business activities tax and exemption of food and prescription drugs from the sales tax."

Kennedy said it would take at least $160 million more than the state spent on education last year to start "the most basic improvements in Michigan public schools."

He said $91,655,000 more than half the $160 million proposed, should be used to increase the state's basic aid formula, most of which goes for teacher salaries.

Senior Citizens Get Several Tax Breaks

By RAY DE CRANE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Senior citizens — anyone who reached his 65th birthday by Dec. 31, 1966 — receive several important advantages on their annual income tax return.

Instead of the normal $600 personal exemption accorded all under-65 taxpayers, senior citizens receive two $600 exemptions.

If husband and wife are each 65 or older they receive a total of four exemption credits.

Full deduction for all their medical expenses, including all their drug bills, is allowed.

This is the last year for this special privilege. (Beginning on 1967 returns—filed a year from now—those over 65 will be treated like all other taxpayers. Then, only medical expenses exceeding 3 per cent of adjusted gross income will be deductible and drug expenses will be considered only after exceeding 1 per cent of gross income.)

SALE OF HOME

Profit is tax-free when they sell their home for $20,000 or less, regardless of how much profit was made on the sale.

Even when the selling price exceeds $20,000, there is a major tax saving.

This is a once-in-a-lifetime election. (Details of this feature were explained in an earlier chapter.)

A joint retirement income credit is allowed which could exempt, in effect, an additional $2,286 in income from tax at a 15 per cent rate if husband and wife are each 65 and they file a joint return.

ANOTHER OPTION

In another option, each one can compute separate credits beginning with $1,524.

And here's a $600 tip for some lucky senior citizens.

Your age is determined on the day before your birthday. So if you celebrated your birthday on Jan. 1, 1967, you are considered to have been 65 on Dec. 31, 1966.

Proposed Cabinet Merger Faces Rocky Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's proposal to combine the Labor and Commerce Departments into a single Cabinet agency appears headed for a stormy ride on Capitol Hill.

Key members of the House subcommittee that will consider the proposal indicated in interviews today the outlook is dim for the proposed department of business and labor unveiled by the President Tuesday night in his State of the Union message.

“I doubt it will have much of a chance,” said Rep. John N. Erlenborn of Illinois, senior Republican member of the Executive and Legislative Reorganization subcommittee.

He said that he personally has an open mind on the proposal but that he expects public reaction, especially from labor and business, to be opposed to the merger. “Each will be afraid the other would dominate,” he said.

STEP BACKWARD?

Rep. Clarence W. Brown Jr.,

R-Ohio, promised to give the proposal “scrupulous attention.” But he said his first reaction was to question whether the plan is not “a step backward.”

The two departments were combined when first established in 1903 but were separated 10 years later. Many of the Commerce Department's functions were removed last year and placed in the new Department of Transportation.

Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., said he recognizes that the Commerce Department “doesn't have much to do” but he anticipates “objections from the representatives of both the labor and business communities.”

Whether it makes sense to combine the department with the Labor Department or distribute its agencies among several existing departments.”

Facts in Bugging Feud Viewed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Are J. Edgar Hoover and Robert Kennedy both telling the truth in the controversy over the FBI's use of bugging devices? The evidence seems to indicate this may be the case.

The latest blowup in what appears to be a running feud between the two men involves the use of electronic bugging devices by the FBI in its investigation of various cases prior to 1965.

Hoover, the 72-year-old FBI director, claims he never planted a bug anywhere without the authorization of the attorney general.

More specifically, he says that when Kennedy was attorney general, Kennedy authorized all eavesdropping.

Kennedy says he had no knowledge of certain specific instances of bugging, although he knew the FBI used such devices.

Bugging should not be confused with wiretapping, which has been regulated since 1934. Bugging involves such things as hidden microphones, miniaturized transmitters and even laser beams which can pick up conversations thousands of feet away.

Under the executive order signed by President Johnson on June 30, 1965, bugging is restricted to investigations involving national security or organized crime.

In addition, like wiretaps, bugging devices may be used in emergency cases such as kidnapping where human lives may be in danger.

Congress Again Cool to Sex---Equality

By DICK WEST

United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — For many years it was traditional at the start of a new session of Congress for someone to introduce a constitutional amendment guaranteeing sexual equality in America.

And for equally as many years it was traditional for Congress to ignore the whole thing. The reason the amendment languished is obvious. It was customarily referred to as an "equal rights for women" measure, which made it difficult to line up bisexual support. Then, a year ago, at the opening of the 89th Congress, a new champion of women's rights appeared on the scene. He is Rep. Theodore R. Kupferman, R-N.Y., who was then a freshman House member.

Kupferman had a brilliant idea. Rather than describe the amendment as assuring equal rights for women, he proclaimed it a guarantee of "equal rights for men, as well as women."

"In addition to granting women their full legal rights on an equal basis with men, it also grants men equal rights in circumstances where they are discriminated against," Kupferman pointed out.

DIFFERENT LIGHT

This, of course, put the amendment in a different light. As a result, Congress again ignored the whole thing.

Now another session is getting under way, and Kupferman is giving it another go. But without, I regret to say, fresh inspiration.

He is still using the "equal rights for men, as well as women" pitch. So I am not bullish about the amendment's chances. The majority seems to feel there are advantages to being a man or woman which are even more desirable than equality.

It is apparent that if the measure is ever to get anywhere, something else must be done to (ahem) broaden its appeal.

Since sponsors of the amendment are rapidly running out of sexes with which to gain new supporters, they probably will have to turn to other fields.

"Equal rights for men, as well as women, not to mention innocent bystanders" is one possible selling point. Congress has always been favorably disposed toward the protection of innocent bystanders.

If that doesn't work, they might try referring to the amendment as "equal rights for men, women and candidates for public office," which would give the lawmakers a sense of personal involvement.

Auto Engineers Seek Ways to Improve Truck Seating

DETROIT (AP) — The once lowly truck driver came in for a lot of attention this week, as some of the nation's top automotive engineers tried to figure out how to make his lot — and seat — in life easier.

Four technical papers dealing with the truck driver's need for safer and softer truck seats were presented at the Society of Automotive Engineers.

The language in some cases, was pretty complicated.

One report, for example, said in part:

Reaction Light Overseas to LBJ Speech

By United Press International
Immediate overseas reaction to President Johnson's State of the Union message was light but almost predictable — nations backing the U.S. Vietnam war effort cheered it, those against the conflict were harsh in their comments.

The Kyodo news agency said Japanese Foreign Ministry officials saw a "get tough" attitude in South Vietnam but a general feeling of amity for the rest of the world.

It said the foreign office was impressed by the "clear expression" that the United States desired to end the cold war as well as the shooting war. Ministry officials withheld official comment.

In Berlin, the East German news service (ADN) said the message showed "The United States is not ready to end its barbaric war against the Vietnamese people."

'AGGRESSION'

It reported that Johnson demanded more funds for the "ever-increasing aggression."

The address came too late for any official or editorial reaction in Britain's morning newspapers. The tax increase made headlines in most editions.

"U.S. puts on 6 per cent war tax," said the Times.

In Moscow, the Soviet news agency Tass carried a brief, straightforward account of the highlights of the message. It made no editorial comment.

In Manila, Philippines' Foreign Secretary Narciso Ramos said, "we are associated with the United States to see peace in Vietnam but not peace at any price."

Exile on Bond in Invasion Case

MIAMI (UPI) — Cuban exile leader Rolando Masferrer, who helped plan an abortive invasion at Haiti, is free on $10,000 bond today after spending a week in jail.

Masferrer is restricted to either Dade County or New York State and cannot travel between the areas without consent of federal authorities.

He is charged with violating U.S. neutrality laws.

"A truck driver's chair should be related to the physiological lot of attention this week, as parameters that govern seating comfort while, at the same time, providing a way of isolating the driver from vibrations inherent in an operating vehicle."

ISOLATE THE BUMPS

Basically that meant the truck seat had come a long way from the days when it was just a bench seat which transmitted every bump to the driver.

An SAE panel was told by Elmer Herder of Rockwell-Standard Co. and William LeFever, an engineer, that with most attention focused on the question of better car seats, the truck driver in some respects had been short-changed on this item.

"The goal in designing truck seats is not only a matter of providing better riding comfort but also one that will contribute towards improved safety by reducing muscular and nervous tensions and physical fatigue," the Herder-LeFever report said.

James C. Gilkey of the Post Office Department and Robert A. Rogers of the General Motors proving ground staff, devoted their report to the problems of mail truck drivers.

Only about five per cent of the postal trucks have conventional bench seats and brake and accelerator pedals positioned as in your passenger car.

They said that a study of the safety features of postal trucks, including the seat or driving arrangements, had been underway since 1962 on a joint project by the government and General Motors Corp.

More than 100 simulated crashes and three actual smash-ups of postal trucks were run off in the intervening years. The project continued with a goal of making certain that, while the mail gets through, the postal driver stays in the vehicle in event of a crash.

SAE was told that one of the main problems was that truck drivers, including post office workers, in many cases used the restraint systems while they were on long drives; but that they did not use them on the short, side-street, house-to-house type of deliveries.

Herder reported much work remained to be done on determining the best height, slope and weight distribution in truck driver seats.

Out of Court

GM Settles 47 Corvair Suits

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. announced yesterday an out-of-court settlement of 47 suits seeking $25 million damages in connection with the design of Corvair automobiles in 1960-63.

The settlement was reached with David M. Harney, a Los Angeles attorney handling the suits for the 92 plaintiffs.

No payment was made in one-third of the cases, GM said. A total of about $350,000 will be paid on the other cases.

GM said its attorneys and Harney agreed that some of the cases should be dismissed outright in exchange for waiver of costs.

Others, the firm said, would be settled "for pure nuisance value" with "nominal amounts" being paid on the remaining cases "recognizing the expenses involved in lengthy trials and the possible emotional impact on juries of the injuries of some plaintiffs."

Most of the suits alleged that automobile accidents — and injuries — resulted from defects in the design of the Corvairs.

Harney brought four suits to trial, GM said, with these results:

— A jury found in favor of GM.

— A jury found against GM, but the judge threw the verdict out, saying it was not supported by the evidence.

— A jury, deliberating five days, failed to reach a verdict.

A fifth case resulted in another ruling favoring GM, the firm said.

More than 71 per cent of unemployed persons enrolling in manpower and development training courses complete the courses.

Engine Firings Key Apollo Tests

America's new Apollo moon ship has a rocket engine of its own that is mightier than the top stages of most of the nation's satellite launchers.

One of the major objectives of the upcoming flight of Apollo 1 astronauts Virgil (Gus) Grissom, Edward White and Roger Chaffee is to see how the 20,000-pound thrust power plant behaves in space.

The engine is a key to the Project Apollo Men-to-the-Moon venture expected by 1969. It must serve as a brake to get an Apollo into orbit around the moon and it must provide the push to get the lunar explorer home. And it must make course changes both ways.

The engine to date has had about two hours of exposure to space on two unmanned Apollo flights. If all goes well, the Apollo 1 voyage — now set to start Feb. 21 — will keep it in orbit for almost 14 days.

Eight firings of the powerful engine are planned, if the mission proceeds without serious problems, and they should provide most of the activity during the initial manned orbital test of the moonship.

Junior Editors Quiz on TEXAS

QUESTION: How did Texas get its name?

ANSWER: Texas is a huge state; you would have to put Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin and Michigan together to equal it. Actually, at one time Texas was an independent nation, with a national flag of its own showing one star.

After Texas joined the union in 1845, it kept this as its state flag, which is why it is called The Lone Star State.

There is an interesting relation between the Texans and the name of the state. Tejas was a word of the Caddo Indian tribe living in northwest Texas when the Spaniards arrived. This word meant friends. The Spanish pronounced this so that it sounded like Texas and so the area got its name.

Texans are truly friendly people as strangers who travel through their area find out. Our artist has tried to catch an impression of a big friendly rawboned rancher in this picture.

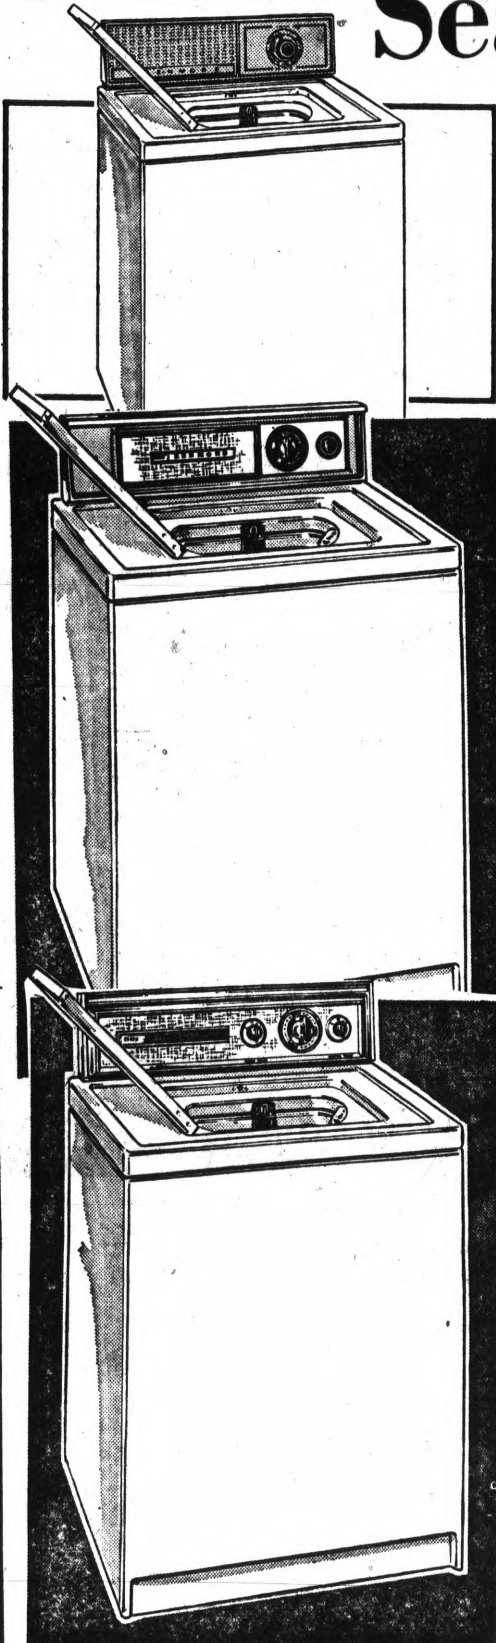

The Texas prairies are among the best areas in the United States for raising cattle but Texas also produces an immense amount of oil — more than any other state. It also holds first rank among the states in mining.

FOR YOU TO DO: You all have heard of Davy Crockett. Find out how his story relates to that of the state of Texas.

All Kinds of Fashions Are Needed to Please Women

Nowadays the bride may dispose of her wedding dress as well as toss away her wedding bouquet. The model is wearing a paper bridal outfit, including paper lace panties. Outfit was designed by Elisa Dags from fireproof Kaycel pulp fiber to sell under $10. Dress was a sensation at the bridal fashion show in New York recently.

Tell Son and Friends to Code Their Telephone Conversation

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband, Ralph, is the world's biggest tease but he doesn't know when enough is enough.

He sounds exactly like Buddy, our 19-year-old son, on the telephone. Even I can't tell the difference.

ABBY

When Buddy's friends call here for Buddy and Ralph answers the phone, he has the time of his life until the kids find out who they're talking to. Ralph thinks it's a big joke, but Buddy gets angry when he finds out his father has led some of his girlfriends on until they tell him lots of stuff they should not have.

Is there some way we can put a stop to my husband's childishness? It has gone beyond a joke.

IN THE MIDDLE

DEAR IN: Suggest that Buddy and his friends make up some password or identifying phrase that only they know. For instance, when one of Buddy's friends telephones, he could say, "I've got the yo yo." And only Buddy would know to reply, "I've got the string."

DEAR ABBY: "B" and I have been going steady for two years and intend to marry as soon as my divorce becomes final. We are both in our thirties. The problem's "B" doesn't think he should give me a ring because I'm not divorced yet, only going through the process.

I don't agree with his reasoning. His family knows all about us and so does mine. I think it would look a lot better if I had a ring—that way when my divorce becomes final I can say we had been engaged a few months before I married him. Thank you.

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: You ARE confused. It is highly improper to become officially engaged until one is entirely free from prior legal commitments. You don't have to "say" anything.

If you and "B" have been "going steady" for two years, it's no secret. And under the circumstances, I doubt if anyone cares if you were engaged for a few months or a few minutes.

DEAR ABBY: In answering someone who wanted to know if "clothes" made the woman, you said (quoting your friend Edith Head), "All women look alike in the bath tub." To that I say, "Oh boy, have I got news for you!"

Schoenbrun Calls Plays on National Situation

By BEA SWORDS

In the wake of President Johnson's State of the Union Address Tuesday evening, the lecture given Pontiac-Oakland Town Hall by David Schoenbrun, international correspondent, was even more pertinent than it might have been.

David Schoenbrun has not only lived the happenings in national news, but he has a remarkable memory for facts and figures that makes him difficult to challenge said Oscar Frenette who made the lecture introduction.

Schoenbrun's topic for yesterday's audience was, "As America Goes." He told us first just what America's position in the world today is and then told us why.

FORGET PROGRESS

He said that Americans tend to underrate their influence and ability. We forget important milestones like the Russians removing their missiles from Cuba and the Russian backdown in Iran. He also refreshed our memories with a little hindsight on just what kind of a man Harry Truman was.

"We will discover as history goes on that Truman was not given full credit for the work that he did. His Marshall plan, contrived with the aid of the top men of the day in Washington, is unique among all other foreign policies. It was the very first time a nation offered aid that would help others help themselves.

"Because of that plan Europe is back on its feet today. Sometimes on its feet too well, and that is a thing to be proud of; it is independent enough to oppose us."

He told us of Harlem, just one mile from his high rise apartment in the East Sixties of New York City. His vivid word picture left us thinking of a Harlem seething with unrest and mistrust.

He pointed out that this exemplified our real major problem. "We must learn to live with one another — we must find a way to coexist."

His views on Vietnam are drawn from a lifetime of reporting and studying the trends of history. He thinks the war is a mistake and has been saying so for a long while.

At Devon Gables, previous to the Celebrity luncheon, I asked how he would recommend we manage leaving Vietnam.

LOSE FACE?

"It's always easier to get into a mess than out of one," he said. "There are those who say if we leave we will lose face. Well, we are losing men, money and frustrating our young people."

"Just what are we gaining. We can't lose more. Face? Well," he reflected, "de Gaulle didn't lose face when France pulled out of Algeria and neither did the Russians when they left Cuba."

"Listen," he said, "the first major figure who does what Eisenhower did — who says 'elect me and I will end the war' has himself an election. There doesn't have to be a plan; it's better if everyone doesn't know the plan, just that somebody has one."

"If Romney would only say, 'I will bring this country peace,' he could win the election."

Former Resident Slates Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Hittman of West Chicago, Ill. announce the engagement of their daughter, Dawn Suzanne, to 2nd Lieut. Richard Luxon.

He is the son of former Watkins Lake residents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Luxon Jr. of Jackson, and grandson of the senior Harry Luxons of Murphy Street.

The April bride-elect is a junior at Carthage College, Kenosha, Wis. where her fiancé received his degree.

Style Extravaganza

'Fashionscope' Slated

Mrs. John L. Denman of Birmingham is this year's general chairman of the annual "Fashionscope," style show extravaganza sponsored each year by the Women's Association for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

The show, which runs on March 7 and 8, will again this year be presented by the J. L. Hudson Company in its 12th floor auditorium. Curtain time is 2:30 p.m.

At a kickoff tea today in the Grosse Pointe home of Mrs. Troy Maschmeyer, Mrs. Denman will present committee chairmen.

Those from this area include Mrs. Roy H. Edwards, Mrs. James T. Howell, Mrs. Phillip R. Flanders and Mrs. Judge Bearden.

Last year's general chairman, Mrs. Charles T. Grisom is serving in an advisory capacity for the event which benefits the maintenance fund of the Symphony.

Remove Stains From Fingers

Fingernails need not look messy and dirty even if you work with such artists' tools as charcoal, ink, and colored chalk.

To remove these dark stains from under the nails, first clean the tips with a cotton swab dipped in cuticle remover. Then follow up by brush-scrubbing with plenty of soapsuds.

Set Classes in Nursing

American Red Cross Home Nursing Classes will be offered on two days of the week with instruction by Mrs. Robert DuShaw, Red Cross volunteer and registered nurse.

The classes, which run for six weeks, are free of charge and will take place in the Community Services Building.

Tuesday classes will run from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. and Thursday sessions from 7 to 9 p.m.

For further information and registration, contact the Oakland Regional office of the American Red Cross.

The engagement of Peggy L. Cox to Alan Zsolzai, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Zsolzai of Hemingway Street, Orion Township, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Cox of East Walton Boulevard.

When May Gifts Be Exchanged?

By ELIZABETH L. POST

The following letter has been chosen as the most interesting one for this week. A copy of Emily Post's Etiquette has been sent to Mrs. Sydney Katz of Elmsford, N.Y.

Dear Mrs. Post: Many times when gifts are given, the giver has offered to return or exchange the gifts if it's not quite the right thing. I always feel that people just say this, but actually expect you to accept their good taste and judgment.

Except in the case of duplicate gifts or an incorrect size, I have never returned a gift. What I would like to know is this: Is it proper to return a gift because it just isn't the kind of item the receiver could use? And how would one word a thank-you note on a returned gift?

Dear Mrs. Katz: No, a gift should not be returned or exchanged just because it doesn't happen to be exactly what you wanted. You are absolutely correct in exchanging something the wrong size, or a duplicate.

In the latter case it would be thoughtful to call the giver and say, "Mary, I happen to have received three carriage robes. Would you mind terribly if . . ." Then in your "thank-you note" tell Mary how much you are enjoying what you got as a replacement. An exchange for reasons of size need not even be mentioned.

SIGNATURES

Dear Mrs. Post: In the case of a joint checking account of a married couple, what is the proper signature for the wife? For instance: John Smith and "Mrs. Smith" or "Mary Smith". I sign my name in the latter fashion. Is there a preference on this, or is it flexible?

—Martha
Dear Martha: Yes, there is a preference. The proper signature is your correct legal one—Mary B. Smith.

Newlyweds Will Reside in California

At home in Berkeley, Calif. after a honeymoon at Aspen, Colo., are Clive Hodgson of Berkeley and his bride, the former Susan Maude Little of Oakland, Calif.

The Birmingham home of the Sheldon G. Littles was the setting for their daughter's marriage to the son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Hodgson of Selby-Yorkshire, England. A buffet supper followed the family ceremony.

FLOOR LENGTH

With her floor-length A-line gown of white Saki cloth designed with square neckline and tiered back, the bride wore a silk circlet with shoulder-length illusion veil.

While repeating vows to Dr. Robert Swanson, president of Alma College, where the bride received her degree, she held a bouquet of white orchids and ivy.

Mary Beth Little attended her sister and S. M. Rajan of Seattle, Wash. was best man.

The bridegroom was graduated from the University of Birmingham, England, and earned his doctorate in chemistry at the University of Toronto.

It's a Fact! Food Prices Have Jumped

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

One way to make Mrs. America good and sore is to tell her she's a lucky girl because she's spending only 18.2 per cent of her income for food these days, whereas she spent 20 cent of income on food in 1960.

She can come right back at you with the news that she's actually spending 22.5 per cent for food today, with a family of four on an income of $675 a month, or $8,100 a year. Her neighbor, same size family, income $7,000 a year, can show you she's now spending 16.5 per cent for food.

These figures are based on what the U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates as necessary to buy nutritious well-balanced meals at present market prices.

Recent statistics pointed out that only 18.2 per cent of the average family's income is being spent for food, which is said to be less than in past years. But this "average" is arrived at by lumping all families with income of less than $3,000 a year with those with incomes of $10,000 to $15,000, and coming out with a certain figure.

The trouble is, a lot of these families have not had pay increases to compensate for the rising prices of goods and services. Families living on the same income they had last year, and the year before, and maybe even the year before that, don't have much to cheer about. Teachers, civil servants and other professional workers, and many other white-collar workers, aren't covered by automatic cost-of-living increases.

They know all too well that the percentage of pay spent for food today is increasing, not decreasing.

REGION IS FACTOR

Wage earners and groups covered by collective bargaining agreements tend to fare better than their salaried counterparts, since they have had some income adjustments to relate to the Consumer Price Index.

As income goes up, a smaller percentage is spent for food. When income is low, a larger percentage is required for food. So when both income levels are tossed into the pot and a national average is quoted, the figure is meaningless to the individual family.

Another factor in figuring food prices is the variance in geographical regions. For example, the U.S.D.A. cites these possible weekly estimates for a family of four with children of school age: Northeast, $29;

North Central U.S., $29; South $23; West, $28.

The fact that children grow more expensive each year can influence the individual family food budget, too. A moderate cost plan for feeding a 9-year-old child well-balanced meals could be $7.40 a week. But at 10 years of age, the child's food cost can (and statistically does) jump to $8.50. Not so much, true — but $1.10 more, which is enough to increase the food costs close to $5 a month or actually $57.20 a year.

EVALUATE PURCHASES

A family of four — with two children under 12 — who spent $31 a week for food in 1961, now spends $34.50 for the same food. This is about an 11 per cent increase. Based on the latest figures, food costs in the past five years have gone up 13.5 per cent.

Figures also show that "estimated disposable" personal income for the same period of time has gone up about 24 per cent. Well, in your own particular case, maybe it has and maybe it hasn't.

National averages are merely what they're said to be — averages. If they don't fit you, there's no use tearing your hair out. You never thought you had an "average" family, anyway. You know whether you're having to spend more for food today — percentage-wise and dollar-wise — than you did in recent years. So the best you can do is shop as smartly as you know how, and thoughtfully evaluate every purchase.

Are you paying too much for fancy containers, convenience, impulse-buying, out-of-season foodstuffs? Think about it, and resolve all over again that this time around in the supermarket, you're going to get your dollar's worth.

'M' Birthday Is Disputed

University, Paper Split Over Founding Date

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — Birth records can be confusing things if you don't check the addition. The University of Michigan is celebrating its 150th anniversary this year because school officials say the school was founded in 1817.

Not so, said the Michigan Daily, the campus newspaper, Tuesday and quoted historians to back up its contention the university actually was founded in 1837.

"Celebrating the university's 150th anniversary in 1967 doesn't quite square up with the fact that the 100th anniversary was celebrated in 1937 and the 50th in 1887," the Daily said.

The newspaper said the University of Michigan was using 1817 as the founding date because that was the year of the establishment of Catholipisteniad (meaning college or university of Michigan) in Detroit.

This school, which was disbanded in 1835, had no relation with the present University of Michigan, the newspaper contended.

OWN SURVEY

The university's own encyclopedic survey, the Daily said, listed the two institutions as separate with the present university being established in Ann Arbor in 1837.

Official university reaction to the founding date controversy was a terse "1817 is the accepted date of the founding of the university."

This date was selected in 1929 after an alumni campaign got the university to switch the date back from 1837 to 1817.

Having celebrated the centennial in 1937, this year's celebration makes the intervening 50 years at the University of Michigan a bit short.

The first post office west of the Allegheny Mountains was established in 1792 at Danville, Ky. The original building still is standing.

Wheeler: Vietcong Hope Gone

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Gen. Earle C. Wheeler, the chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, said today that U.S. strategy in Vietnam for 1967 is a dynamic one of "keeping the pressure on the enemy and maintaining the initiative we seized a year ago."

"We've taken the initiative away from the enemy," Wheeler said. "He's taken some heavy blows and he is going to get more. Any hope that the Vietcong and the North Vietnamese had of achieving a military victory is gone."

Speaking at a news conference near the end of a five-day visit to Vietnam, Wheeler also:

- Predicted an increase in U.S. operations in the Mekong Delta but refused to go into details.
- Opposed calling off U.S. air raids against North Vietnam.
- Said it is impossible to say whether the present internal turmoil in Red China will affect China's support of the North Vietnamese.
- Praised American airmen for a "magnificent job" and described the U.S. soldier in Vietnam as the best he has seen in three wars.

COULD COPE
Wheeler also said he felt allied forces could cope with the infiltration of North Vietnamese troops, currently estimated at 8,000 a month.

"I am confident," Wheeler said, "that we have the forces to take care of any military effort the enemy cares to mount."

Wheeler declined to go into details of further increases in the number of American troops in Vietnam but said: "We are going to provide Gen. (William C.) Westmoreland with the forces that he needs to face up to the problems posed by the enemy."

Wheeler said allied strategy is based on taking away the enemy bases and supplies and added: "I think they can be crushed. I think they will be crushed."

Children's Village School Adds Volunteer Teachers

The number of volunteer teachers at Oakland County Children's Village School has quadrupled since Dec. 23, when an article listing the school's needs appeared in The Pontiac Press.

With the addition of six persons, the school's volunteer corps now numbers eight.

The school's staff held a reception for the new volunteers yesterday afternoon. An orientation program, consisting of a series of five sessions, is now under way.

James Marshall, principal of the school for court wards, said five of the six new volunteers have college degrees. The sixth is presently working toward a degree. All are women.

Said Marshall: "I think I can safely say we have an accumulative teaching experience of 180 years from these six volunteers."

BE ACQUAINTED

In the orientation program, the volunteers will be acquainted with a general description of the school and its problems, remedial techniques and the teaching of reading.

Then they will be assigned to certain duties, such as assisting the paid staff and working individually with some of the school's pupils.

Marshall's goal is to recruit 20 volunteer teachers to provide the individual attention the children need. Virtually all of the students at Children's Village School experience severe learning difficulties.

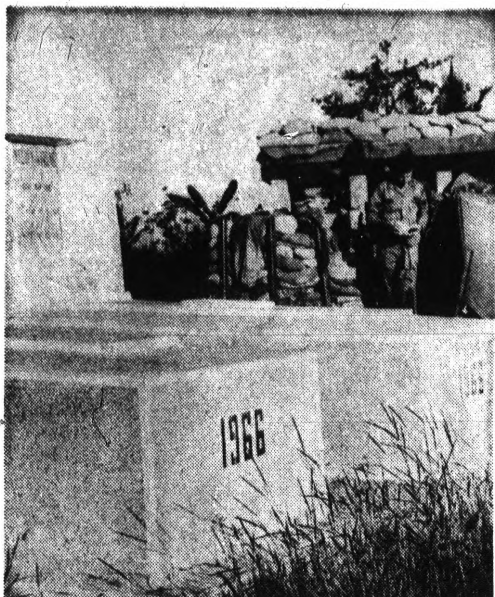

Since the article was published, noted Marshall, results have been good.

RESPONSE GOOD

"We're getting good response from throughout the county," he said.

Located at 1075 N. Telegraph, Waterford Township, the school is funded by the county and administered by the Waterford Township School District.

Passage of the Federal Road the volunteers will be acquainted with a general description of the school and its problems, remedial techniques and the teaching of reading.

TOMBSTONE TERRITORY — An American trooper of the 25th Infantry Division stands by a sandbagged bunker in a Vietnamese burial ground near Ben Luc, on the fringe of the Mekong Delta south of Saigon.

His Life a Medical Mark

DE QUINCY, La. (AP) — Marvin Wayne (Bud) Bryant makes medical history every day he lives.

In his 21 years of life, he has received more than 700 pints of blood. He needs it to live.

Bud suffers from Cooley's anemia — a disease in which the red blood cell production is severely curtailed. Victims rarely reach puberty. A brother and a sister of Bud's died of the disease at the age of 4 months.

He has one brother and three sisters who do not have the illness.

7 MONTHS OLD

The disease was discovered when Bud was only 7 months old.

"Since that time, my doctor has provided me with every hospital and medical need," Bud said.

Bud works at the hospital laboratory and assists in office routine.

Bud receives blood from inmates at the Louisiana Correctional and Industrial School, a penal institution near De Quincy.

They have more or less adopted Bud, and to date he has received 370 pints of blood from them.

Prior to the opening of this school, Bud got blood from donors who were found with the aid of civic organizations in the area.

His father donated the first 125 pints of blood but his health began to fail and he was forced to stop. Bud knows the tell-tale signs that indicate he needs blood. "I get cranky and hard to get along with," he said. Ordinarily, he is very congenial, the hospital staff said.

'Open Arms' Plan Luring Cong Defectors

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — A twin-engine American plane dived low over the Mekong River Delta just before dawn. It dropped no bombs or napalm. Instead, Buddhist funeral music blared from a loudspeaker mounted in the fuselage, followed by the wailing of a baby and the weeping of a woman.

"Is this your child? Is this your wife? What are you doing, fighting this war?" asked an amplified voice.

Loyal Vietcong in the jungle below beat on pots and pans and shout Communist slogans to blot out such voices from above.

RALLY TO CAUSE

This is the Saigon government's attempt to persuade Communist guerrillas to "rally to the national cause."

Despite serious flaws, the Chieu Hoi program has worried the Vietcong enough to draw retaliation.

Noisemaking to blot out the loudspeaker is part of it. More important are the assassination teams who seek out those who defect. Vietcong terrorists each month kill or abduct from five to 10 Vietnamese who surrender to the government.

Chieu Hoi is a key part of the effort to erode the Vietcong infrastructure.

The broad aims of the program are to convert Vietcong, gain intelligence, weaken the Communist cause and spread dissension.

Defectors are promised cash rewards, medical treatment, food, housing and jobs.

They get a bonus for each weapon they bring with them. A pistol earns 800 Vietnamese piasters — about $6.90. Turning in a recoilless rifle brings about $169.

Tight Money Line in U.S. Slackening

WASHINGTON (AP) — Money remains tight in many parts of the nation but signs of easier credit are mounting.

The first chink in the 6 per cent prime interest rate that banks charge their favored customers for loans came Wednesday when a relatively small Minnesota institution reduced its rate from 6 per cent to 5.75 per cent.

Isolated action by the National City Bank of Minneapolis surprised many bankers but it was hailed by the Treasury Department.

"The Treasury is heartened and pleased at this early movement in the direction of lower interest rates that the President advocated in the State of the Union message," the department said in response to an inquiry.

President Johnson, in proposing a 6 per cent surcharge on income and corporation taxes Tuesday night in his message to Congress, said it was partly designed to keep the economy growing without new inflationary strain and to move toward easier credit and lower interest rates.

The Minneapolis bank's action, although unique, was not the only sign of an easing Wednesday.

First National City Bank, New

York's largest, announced a cut in the interest rate it will pay on some long-term certificates of deposit.

The rate since last spring has been 5.5 per cent on certificates maturing in 30 days or more. First National City cut the rate on maturities of nine months and longer to 5 1/2 per cent.

ATTRACTION

Banks raised their interest rates on deposits last year in an attempt to attract new savings.

In an unrelated action, the Provident Savings Bank in Baltimore announced a 10 per cent cut in the down payment required on a new home in order to obtain a mortgage, and a 5 per cent cut on the down payment for an older home.

Provident also said it is encouraging home buyers to apply for loans. Lack of money last year forced many institutions to reject loan applications.

Action by Provident followed within hours an announcement by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board that it is making $1 billion available to mutual savings banks, and savings and loan associations for residential mortgages.

BETTER POSITION

The board said the money became available because of the currently better financial position of the thrift institutions.

The prime rate is a charge for loans to a bank's most credit-worthy customers, usually large corporations, but other interest rates are scaled upward from it. The prime rate was increased three times last year, finally to 6 per cent in August.

Walter W. Heller, former chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, who suggested last month a surtax similar to the one proposed by President Johnson, is a director of the Minneapolis bank and recommended the lower rates in a year-end report.

There was little indication elsewhere in the nation, however, that the Minneapolis lead would be followed.

WILL EVALUATE

The Bank of America in San Francisco, the nation's largest, said the whole interest rate question will require "considerable evaluation in the weeks ahead."

Jack Glenn, assistant to the president of Georgia's largest bank, the Citizens and Southern National Bank, Atlanta, said "credit is still very tight here." This was echoed by a Los Angeles banker.

First National Bank of Chicago said no change in its prime rate was in sight. Banks in other major cities also reported no immediate plans to change their rates.

Cow Ailment Revisits Man

LONDON (AP) — Bob Brewis, 34, a farmhand who two months ago became the first human known to catch foot and mouth disease in Britain, is sick again.

A Conservative member of Parliament immediately demanded a government inquiry into why Brewis had been allowed to mix freely with other people.

Brewis was infected in November at his brother's farm in Northumberland, a county in northern England that lost $2.8 million worth of animals to the disease last year.

Brewis was hospitalized for a week and officials said tests unmistakably revealed foot and mouth disease.

Brewis was pronounced cured and allowed to go back to work — in a garage, by his choice. Later he moved to another farm and there he apparently suffered a relapse or contracted the disease a second time.

Romney Set to Disprove Illness Report

LANSING (UPI) — Gov. George Romney was expected to return to work today, disproving a televised report that he had been stricken with ptomaine poisoning.

Spokesmen for the governor early today denied the report carried over a Jackson television station last night.

Two members of Romney's staff who worked with the governor at his home late yesterday, Press Secretary Charles Harmon and administrative assistant Albert Applegate, said Romney had only "a flu bug" and would deliver his annual "State of the State" message to the Legislature today.

A spokesman for the television station said a reliable source had told one of the station newsmen that Romney had taken ill with ptomaine poisoning.

Romney's office reported earlier yesterday the governor was suffering from a cold and was spending the day at home.

Here Is Text of Romney's State of State Message

LANSING (AP)—Text of Gov. George Romney's State of the State message to the 74th Michigan Legislature:

Lt. Gov. Milliken, members of the Michigan Legislature, distinguished state officials and fellow citizens:

Thank you for this opportunity. To each of you I extend my warm personal greetings and best wishes for the New Year.

The people of Michigan are looking to each of us to continue and accelerate the progress which has raised Michigan to a new position of leadership. Within the last five years, Michigan has distinguished itself as a progressive, problem-solving state.

The modernization and strengthening of state and local government; a vastly improved state economy with fair treatment of workers and employers alike; an unprecedented level of quality public services; greater recognition of the rights of each individual citizen; and increased reliance on personal responsibility and the potential of voluntary associations, private institutions and economic organizations for problem-solving—these are hallmarks of our recent progress.

WHAT WE DO

What we do in 1967 could determine whether Michigan thrusts forward into a new generation of progress or stumbles backward.

For tomorrow's problems will be met; either we will tackle them boldly, or someone else will. If state and local governments fail in their responsibilities, the vacuum will be filled—more expensively, more rigidly, more remotely and often less productively.

The price of responsive and responsible state and local government is not cheap. Yet it is one of the greatest bargains ever offered, contrasted to the ultimate price of weak and ineffective government.

Our greatest single challenge is to secure the financial future of state and local government in Michigan.

Tax action must be the number-one job of this legislative session.

TIME FOR ACTION

The inequities and weaknesses of Michigan's tax structure have been documented time and again. Corrective action has been sought, year after year.

The time has come for action. The stark fact is that the cost of state services demanded by the public is outrunning the revenues produced by present taxes.

Some will ask why new taxes are required at all. It is not because of state governmental waste, costly frills, duplication or inefficiency.

As governor, I have done everything in my power to give Michigan a lean, vigorous, smoothly functioning state government.

REORGANIZATION

Under our new constitution, the executive branch has been reorganized into 19 departments for greater efficiency and service.

The efforts of top management experts during the past four years are saving the taxpayers millions of dollars every year.

Management improvement councils are at work in every principal department.

And we are moving forward with new tools—constantly seeking fresh ways to improve the efficiency of government without sacrificing services.

NEW PROGRAM

Expanding on the work done by management experts for four years, I am asking a small group of eminent citizens with imagination, and management and research skills to stimulate a new program of total research on improved management—"T. R. I. M.," and that spells "TRIM." Their job will be to identify test new and more efficient methods in all fields of public service. Improved basic methods must be developed if governmental costs are to be kept within reasonable limits.

A capital expenditures committee should survey essentially, recommend priorities for Michigan's long-range investment needs in major public service areas, including recommendations for the most economical methods of financing.

The citizens commission on urban problems should propose and stimulate new measures for improved economy and efficiency in local government.

Nor will we be content with governmental action alone to hold the mounting costs of public

VOLUNTARY EFFORTS

This administration will continue to push and pull and prod—yes, even preach—the merits and unique potentiality of private, voluntary effort.

For the direct action of the people themselves—individually and through their voluntary associations and economic organizations—can play a vital part in meeting public needs, often more effectively and less expensively than governmental programs can.

Thus we have held countless governor's conferences to stimulate citizen action; established a State Human Resources Council to foster a public-private partnership; stimulated the creation of independent private groups, such as the new traffic safety council for Michigan; and encouraged the use of volunteers to perform important public services—in mental health, corrections, juvenile rehabilitation, conservation and guidance for disadvantaged children.

This kind of citizen effort lies at the heart of our hope for a new generation of progress in Michigan.

NEED WILL PERSIST

But even our most successful efforts to eliminate governmental waste and encourage private problem-solving in the public interest will not remove the need for substantially increased state programs.

Tax-supported services, particularly education, are serving a sky-rocketing population. Michigan has over 200,000 more schoolchildren than just four years ago, and over 100,000 more college students.

In addition, the public demands that government do more to deal with crime, mental illness, water and air pollution, hospital and medical care, recreational needs, juvenile delinquency and rehabilitation, poor housing, racial tension and traffic safety. All of these cost money.

And, government must contend with the built-in rising costs which affect any household or business: food and equipment costs are up, building costs are up, and wages are up.

STATE SURPLUS

Last July, our state surplus reached a crest of $167 million. At least two-thirds of it is now committed to meeting this year's obligations, and by next July our surplus will have been reduced to approximately $50 million.

The 1967-68 budget now being prepared will require about $110 million in new revenue merely to continue the programs now under way—merely to stand still without making a single improvement in present programs or adding a single new one.

But I do not intend to present a standstill budget for the coming fiscal year. New programs are urgently needed in the public interest. And new sources of revenue will be required to pay for them.

The central issue before this Legislature and the people of Michigan is whether these new revenues should come from increased rates on present taxes, coupled with a variety of new nuisance taxes, or from an overhaul of the present tax structure.

MORE PATCHES

The first method would merely slap more patches on an already overpatched tax system. The second method would remove many of the widely recognized injustices of the present tax structure.

In my judgment, new revenues should be obtained in such a manner as to correct inequities, rather than increase them. It is no easy task which we confront. Enacting an adequate and equitable tax program is a tough job.

TOP PRIORITY

But I say to you today that Michigan must have tax reform, and tax action must come before spending action.

The time for action is short. A tax reform program must be enacted by April 1 if it is to be implemented by July 1. Delay beyond that date would result in higher tax rates or force cut-backs in public services.

I repeat what I have said many times before: As governor I do not intend to sign any appropriation bills for next year until I can see where the money is coming from—until I can see sufficient revenue to meet the costs of government.

We will not spend more next year than we are willing to pay for in taxes.

DETAILED SUGGESTIONS

My detailed suggestions to you in this entire area will be presented later this month.

Strengthening State and Local Government

In my inaugural address, I pointed out that state and local government have a "second chance" to prove their worth as the levels of government most responsive to the people's needs.

The people are once again looking to state and local government for creative and flexible answers.

An important test of state leadership is to provide new instruments of cooperation, coordination and assistance so that local governments can do a better job of meeting today's urban challenges.

NEW OFFICE

Therefore, I renew my recommendation for an office of local and urban affairs in the executive office as a focal point of contact between state and local government.

To strengthen our long-range planning effort, the state resource planning program will be transferred from the Department of Commerce to the executive office.

The Department of Social Services will establish a bureau of housing to service the new state housing authority and assist in family relocation problems.

Amendments necessary to implement housing relocation legislation passed in the last session will also be recommended.

TRANSPORTATION BUREAU

A bureau of transportation will be located in the department of Commerce to assist in developing a coordinated state transportation policy.

I again urge the enactment of boundary commission legislation, as well as passage of a plat act to regulate the planning of new real estate and residential developments.

In addition, we must enable local governments to engage in the kind of cooperation envisioned by our modern State Constitution. Specifically, we need an urban cooperation act permitting local governments to make agreements based on a joint exercise of powers; a metropolitan areas act specifically permitting the establishment of voluntary regional associations of local governmental officials; and legislation permitting establishment of metropolitan transportation authorities.

We should initiate modest state grant programs to assist local governments in local and regional planning, housing relocation, civil rights, mass transit studies and recreation.

URBAN COMMISSION

I am also requesting an immediate appropriation to support the recently created citizens' commission on urban problems, which has a sweeping mandate to arrive at long-range programs for the improvements of urban life.

In my budget message I will recommend selective increases to support program improvements which have top priority.

Education

Our system of public education from kindergarten through university is our largest single financial obligation. Because of its fundamental importance to the well-being of our state, education will receive the major share of the increase to be recommended in my forthcoming budget.

Mental Health

Support for our mental health programs should also be increased. Although many deficiencies have been corrected by new and accelerated programs, we need further support of community services as well as continued improvements in our state hospitals.

Civil Rights

In the field of civil rights, Michigan has advanced rapidly and now has one of the nation's outstanding programs. I will recommend a substantial budget increase to strengthen the state Civil Rights Commission, recognizing however that stepped up action by local governments is also essential to continued progress.

To encourage such action, a state matching grant program to stimulate the creation and staffing of local human rights agencies will be recommended in my budget.

Law Enforcement

One of our most alarming problems is crime. An outstanding commission on crime, delinquency and criminal administration is now reviewing the entire problem and should produce long-range recommendations this year.

However, these immediate legislative actions are needed:

1. Increased support for the State Police and the attorney general to step up the war on organized crime.

2. Legislation to revise the concealed weapons statute, grant subpoena powers to prosecuting attorneys and the attorney general under judicial safeguards and revise the criminal assault statutes.

In another area of law enforcement, legislation enacting a system of local courts is needed prior to the 1968 elections under the provisions of the 1963 constitution. A joint committee will soon submit a report on local court reorganization, and work should begin immediately on this complex problem.

I again urge that a constitutional amendment be placed on the ballot to permit the filling of judicial vacancies by the governor.

Labor

Michigan's Labor Department celebrated its first birthday a few days ago. In its first year, much has been accomplished; much still remains to be done.

The department should be given authority to enact codes, rules and regulations on industrial safety.

The Agricultural Labor Commission should be made statutory within the department.

Michigan's minimum wage applies to many types of workers not presently covered by the federal program. With due consideration to this difference, further increases in our state minimum wage should be established.

NOT PENALIZED

The M.E.S.C. (Michigan Employment and Securities Commission) Advisory Council will submit its recommendations for changes in the present waiting week requirement, so those who are laid off but will be recalled by their employer are not penalized.

Review of the state's so-called "protective labor" legislation is also under way, and if such laws actually work to the detriment of Michigan's thousands of working women, they should be repealed or revised.

The Special Commission on Public Employment is preparing recommendations to improve existing statutes dealing with the vital and sensitive problem of collective action by public employees. Legislative action may be necessary in this session.

Traffic Safety

I believe the people of Michigan feel decisive legislative action in the field of traffic safety is essential, and they expect a positive response from this Legislature.

I urge prompt enactment of:

1. Legislation which will qualify Michigan under the Federal Highway Safety Act including authority to the governor for coordination of the program and allocation of funds for local traffic safety programs;

2. Mandatory motor vehicle inspection, which must be in operation in 1968 to meet federal grant-in-aid requirements;

3. Implied consent for chemical tests of drinking drivers;

4. Strengthened and centralized driver licensing and examination.

I again urge the Legislature to remove the local government veto power over interstate freeway construction routes as has been done in all but one other state.

Veterans

A sound veterans' homestead tax exemption is long overdue. We need legislation to eliminate the injustice and deficiencies in the present law, particularly for those with the greatest disability.

Health

My recommendations on Medicaid will be covered in my budget message.

State hospital licensing should be extended to all hospitals.

We should continue to work with the Department of Mental Health in updating our mental health statutes.

Water Management and Pollution

Michigan has assumed a leadership position in the crucial areas of sound water management and pollution abatement. Tax exemptions for industrial waste treatment have been granted, and a pioneer program for the construction of municipal waste treatment plants is well under way.

New legislation must be enacted and substantial appropriations approved if our state and local governments are to make an adequate attack on water pollution on a statewide basis. We also need improved water management statutes.

Military Establishment Reorganization

Michigan's military establishment cannot be made an efficient and up-to-date administrative structure with clear lines of responsibility and centralized control of funds under present laws.

I again urge prompt legislative action to permit its essential reorganization.

Agriculture

Enactment of the food section of the uniform food, drug and cosmetic law is needed to update our laws and provide for more accurate and descriptive labeling.

The milk pasteurization law should be amended to require the pasteurization of milk before it is processed for nonfat dry milk powder.

We should establish a small foreign trade section in the Department of Agriculture to take full advantage of our agricultural variety and competitive location on the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Upper Peninsula

Michigan's Upper Peninsula is now moving forward as a result of vigorous efforts in recent years by all levels of government in cooperation with private groups. Our state departments are working closely with the newly established Upper Great Lakes Economic Development Commission in order to develop further approaches to the improvement of transportation and economic growth.

Removing the tolls on the Mackinac Bridge would contribute more than any single governmental step to the U.P.'s continued resurgence.

Doing this through the Upper Great Lakes Economic Development Commission is one possibility; the other is state refinancing when interest rates are again reasonable. One way or another the present stifling tolls must be removed.

Uniform Time

As a result of federal action, Michigan's time schedule will be changed from year-around Eastern Standard Time in both peninsulas.

I urge you to take the necessary action to keep our time scheduled from being changed.

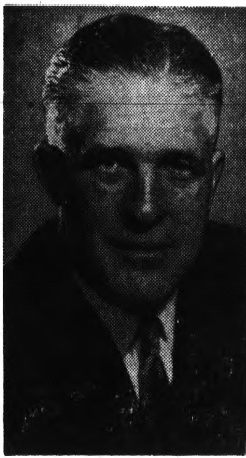

Conclusion

These, then, are some of the decisions we face in the weeks ahead.

Yours is not an easy task. But representative government was not designed as the easy road. It requires the best of men and women as they act in the service of others.

The path to Michigan's tomorrow demands cooperation and responsibility—of individuals, of voluntary associations, of private organizations and of public officials.

Working together, we can lead Michigan into a new generation of progress.

GOV. ROMNEY

Income Tax Plan Will Be Hard to Sell

By GENE SCHROEDER

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney, who used to sell automobiles, is about to become a salesman once more.

But all the governor's persuasive powers may not be enough to sell the 1967 model of a product the Legislature is not exactly eager to buy—a state income tax.

As persistent as he is consistent on the subject, Romney once again proposed in his State of the State message today an overhaul of Michigan's tax structure.

Although Romney failed to use the politically painful words "income tax," the former American Motors president made it clear that's what he's trying to sell.

When the governor comes up with his budget proposals a couple of weeks hence, he's expected by many observers to recommend a personal income tax of 3 per cent and a corporate income tax of about 5 per cent.

As in the past, the income tax proposal will be coupled with a recommendation that other levies be eliminated or reduced—such as the sales tax on food and drugs along with the business activities tax, which both Republicans and Democrats have agreed should be dropped.

Executive office sources say the whole package will come as standard equipment, however, and will not be offered in a stripped-down model. Only a few optional items may be suggested to the Legislature.

These may include such features as a choice between eliminating city income taxes or allowing them to ride piggy-back on the state levy as a percentage of the state income tax.

Under one such system, the state would collect a higher tax—probably 4 per cent on personal income and 6 per cent on business—and return part of the revenue to local communities.

Underlining his determination to get fiscal reform this time, Romney said in his message:

"Our greatest single challenge is to secure the financial future of state and local government in Michigan. Tax action must be the No. 1 job of this legislative session."

Romney has painful memories of his first attempt to get tax reform.

It was 1963. Republicans controlled the Senate and the House. When the showdown vote came, a bloc of GOP conservatives joined with a number of Democrats to send tax reform down the drain.

TO BITTER END

Most of the hard-line conservatives have left the Capitol scene, either through retirement or at the demand of voters. But those few still around are expected to fight an income tax to the bitter end.

They are likely to argue that Romney is crying wolf in saying that the state is about to plunge into debt.

In his first year in office, Romney warned in 1963 that "within two years under the present tax structure with relatively good yield and with only present program levels (we will) once more be in a deficit position."

Yet, the treasury surplus was $57 million in 1964, $136 million in 1965 and $167 million in 1966—without tax reform.

MOMENT OF TRUTH

It appears to most financial experts, however, that the moment of truth is fast approaching. Because of a decline in auto sales, and the resulting slump in sales tax revenues, the surplus probably will fall to $50 million next June.

"The 1967-68 budget now being prepared will require about $110 million in new revenue merely to continue the programs now under way—merely to stand still," Romney warns, adding:

"But I do not intend to present a standstill budget for the coming fiscal year. New programs are urgently needed in the public interest. And new sources of revenue will be required to pay for them."

Democrats and Republicans have mixed feelings about the subject.

Accomplishing fiscal reform for Michigan—something two Democratic governors failed to do—would be a feather in Romney's camp and might enhance his national image as a potential 1968 GOP presidential candidate.

DEMS UNHAPPY

This would make Democrats unhappy.

But blame for adopting an unpopular state income tax would fall hardest on those in control of the Legislature, especially House members up for reelection in 1968.

And this would make Republicans unhappy.

Milliken: Tax Reform Biggest Single Issue

LANSING (AP)—State senators, beginning their first four-year terms Wednesday, heard a warning from Lt. Gov. William Milliken that tax reform "is the biggest single issue before us."

"The challenge to provide for Michigan a tax base that is both adequate and equitable is not a Republican problem or a Democratic problem," Milliken told the senators.

"If tax reform fails, then we will have failed and the people of Michigan will have every right to hold us responsible for that failure," he added, "because if tax reform fails, then we have no alternative but to call a halt to Michigan progress."

Milliken's remarks echoed earlier statements by Gov. George Romney, who has called on the Legislature to take action on tax reform by April.

SWORN IN

The senators, first in Michigan's history to be elected to four-year terms, were sworn in at colorful ceremonies Wednesday morning.

They adjourned after a 1½ hour session with many of them crossing over to watch Rep. Robert Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe, win a battle for the speaker's chair in the evenly divided House.

The Senate approved a concurrent resolution which would allow it, with House approval, to adjourn today and return Jan. 23.

The move was taken to allow the Senate Appropriations Committee to take a fact-finding trip to Northern Michigan and to permit the judiciary committee to hold hearings on lower court reorganization.

SESSION SCHEDULE

The Senate also approved a concurrent resolution setting up a tentative schedule for the legislative session calling for adjournment June 14.

The schedule would set Feb. 23 as the final day for introduction of bills except for tax and appropriation measures; March 23 as final day for committees to report all bills in the house of origin; April 6 for passage of all bills in house of origin and May 8 as the deadline for passage of all bills originating in the other house.

The senators also adopted several resolutions dealing with housekeeping chores and approved last session's Senate and joint Senate-House rules with minor changes.

Governor Hits Big Mac Tolls

LANSING (AP)—Removing tolls on the Mackinac Bridge "would contribute more than any single governmental step to the Upper Peninsula's continued resurgence," Gov. George Romney said today.

In his State of the State message to the Legislature, Romney repeated his often-made assertion that "one way or another, the present stifling tolls must be removed."

The Legislature passed a bridge refinancing bill last session, but the governor called it meaningless.

The bill permitted the state to issue general obligation bonds and use the funds collected to buy up the higher-interest revenue bonds which financed construction of the span.

INTEREST LIMITED

But the measure limited interest on the proposed new bonds to 3.25 per cent. It was considered unlikely buyers could be found at that rate in the current tight-money, high-interest situation.

In the section of his speech dealing with the U.P., Romney added:

"Michigan's Upper Peninsula is now moving forward as a result of vigorous efforts in recent years by all levels of government in cooperation with private groups.

Highlights of Message

Law Enforcement

Recommended: Subpoena powers for prosecutors and the attorney general under judicial safeguards; revision of statutes on concealed weapons and criminal assault; lower court reorganization; a constitutional amendment permitting the governor to fill vacant judgeships.

Finance

We need fiscal reform and increased revenue. The 1967-68 budget will require $110 million more just to stand still—and Michigan can't stand still. Governmental costs will be increasingly studied with a view to reducing them, but this alone cannot solve the problems.

Local Government

Recommended: An office of local and urban affairs; laws governing planning of real estate developments; acts permitting association and cooperation among local governments.

A bureau of housing and a bureau of transportation will be established; the Commerce Department's state resource planning program will be transferred to the executive office.

Civil Rights

Recommended: More money for State Civil Rights Commission; state aid to local civil rights agencies.

Labor

Recommended: Increases in the state minimum wage; empower State Labor Department to set industrial safety rules; legislative action, if necessary, on collective action by public employees.

Traffic Safety

Recommended: Mandatory motor vehicle inspection; implied consent; strengthened and centralized driver licensing; laws to qualify Michigan under the Federal Highway Safety Act; removal of local government power to veto freeway routes.

Uniform Time

Recommended: Legislative action to prevent changes in Michigan's traditional year-around standard time.

Many Facets to Bombing Row

N. Viet Raids: Success or Failure?

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Has the bombing of North Vietnam been the world's most judicious application of air power or an incredible expensive attempt to hurt an enemy without defeating him? Should it be stopped or intensified? An AP writer who regularly covers the Pentagon examines the many facets of a complicated dispute.)

By BOB HORTON

WASHINGTON (AP) — For 22 frustrating months, U.S. planes have bombed and strafed North Vietnam's roads, highways, bridges, railroads, secondary power plants, truck convoys, boats, barges and fuel storage facilities.

Almost as quickly as the targets are hit, they are patched up, replaced, bypassed, plugged up, restocked, overhauled or discarded.

Unlike World War II, when the allied goal was to crush the Germans and Japanese, the objective of the current campaign is to stop, or at least curtail, the flow of troops and equipment into South Vietnam, convince the Hanoi government that a military victory is beyond its reach, and thus impel the Communists to accept repeated invitations to negotiate peace terms.

To that end, the United States has expended 455 aircraft at a cost of more than half a billion dollars, spent air munitions at the rate of $2,000 a minute around the clock, and lost 200 to 300 airmen.

LARGER OBJECTIVE

There is some evidence that delivery of supplies and weapons to Communist forces in the field has been reduced by the bombing, but in their larger objective the raids have failed.

• Infiltration of troops into South Vietnam has increased; in fact, the rate actually has almost doubled, to 8,800 a month.

• The North Vietnamese government has rejected all overtures to negotiate, and shows little, if any, indication of changing its mind.

However, some U.S. officials think a statement made this week by North Vietnam's premier, Pham Van Dong, in an interview with Harrison E. Salisbury of the New York Times, represented a softening of the Communist position. The premier said his country's four-point, all-or-nothing demands were a "basis of settlement of the Vietnam problem," and not necessarily conditions for peace talks.

• The raids have generated worldwide criticism of the United States on a steadily ascending scale, fueled by North Vietnamese charges that planes have deliberately bombed civilian areas—an accusation vehemently denied by the Defense Department.

DESTRUCTION REPORTED

The Times' Salisbury reported widespread destruction of some civilian sections around Hanoi, the capital. The Pentagon said some bombs invariably go astray, and that this is particularly true in North Vietnam where military installations almost always adjoin civilian areas. It reiterated that no civilian areas had been selected for targets.

What the raids have achieved in hampering enemy operations is pure guesswork. But military men, and many congressional leaders, believe strikes aimed at disrupting supply and transportation facilities have reduced by 50 per cent the amount of war materials delivered to Communist forces in South Vietnam. Military men believe a supply shortage is the main reason for the declining scale of enemy unit actions. The Communists have not launched a big offensive since 1965.

Interrogation of captured Vietcong guerrillas and North Vietnamese regulars also shows the Communists fear sudden bombing more than any other U.S. tactic. Air attacks are regarded as the most effective weapon for sapping enemy morale.

Lack of clear-cut success, however, has created deep-seated uneasiness among congressmen and some military men.

DEBATES

This anxiety has spawned two debates within the government.

One matches President Johnson's administration and congressional proponents of bombing against those who advocate that the raids be abandoned. The administration and its supporters believe the raids are imperative if the United States is to attain its political objectives: and a negotiated settlement. Those who want the bombing stopped, notably Chairman J. William Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, fear the raids eventually will draw Red China into the fighting and trap the United States in a major Asian land war.

The other dispute is a sort of family squabble between the administration and supporters of the air raids. At issue is Johnson's policy of limiting the bombing targets.

A group of influential congressmen and military men is demanding that the raids be extended to primary targets, especially North Vietnam's major port, Haiphong. Until this is done, argues Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., of the House Armed Services Committee, "these people will think we are kidding." The chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., agrees.

50,000 TONS MONTHLY

U.S. planes are unleashing bombs, rockets, missiles and bullets at the rate of 50,000 tons a month, almost matching the country's airborne firepower of World War II, and triple its rate in the Korean War.

Congressional and military critics contend this formidable expenditure of munitions is being wasted on "cheap" targets, and that American pilots and planes are being sacrificed to an exercise in futility.

They want the bombers to destroy Haiphong's harbor facilities and Hanoi's factories and major power plants, all now exempt from a list of targets whose major items must have the approval of President Johnson.

Ironically, both the administration and its critics cite the same evidence to support their arguments. That is an official U.S. government assessment of the role strategic bombing played in winning World War II.

'DECISIVE FACTOR'

The survey concluded that air power was a decisive factor. Among its major findings were that a "first-class power" cannot survive sustained, full-scale bombing and that the people's morale deteriorates under heavy air attack.

But examination of German aircraft plants and records also showed that an attempt to knock out a single industry with air power is a formidable undertaking requiring sustained raids.

There is no meaningful comparison between World War II and air operations against North Vietnam. Objectives differ.

DIFFERENT GOALS

The unrestricted Allied bombing of Germany and Japan was aimed at destroying their industrial capacity to produce munitions, at leveling entire cities, and at breaking the peoples' will to fight.

The goal was total military victory. And the political considerations of that time bear no relation to those involved in a limited war.

Aside from the matter of different objectives, North Vietnam is not a "first-class power." It is, in fact, an industrial midget which imports the bulk of its war materiel, from Red China and the Soviet Union.

There is a better, though not identical, comparison to be made between Vietnam and Korea.

In 1951, the United States directed its aircraft against North Korea's railroads "to interfere with and disrupt the enemy's lines of communications to such an extent that he will be unable to contain a determined offensive by friendly forces or be unable to mount a sustained major offensive himself."

AF REPORT

A once-secret Air Force report shows that the Korean interdiction campaign was capable of only hindering the enemy in sustaining a major offensive. It could delay the movement of troops and equipment, but could not prevent the Communist from eventually building up enough supplies to mount an attack, and to maintain it for as much as two or three weeks.

The report, released in 1962, said that while the interdiction bombings destroyed rails, bridges and transportation facilities, they were not "particularly destructive to the enemy's military potential and will to wage war."

"By the spring of 1952, the Communist peasants who repaired the rail lines and rebuilt the bridges were fairly successful in negating the work of air power," the report said.

That Oriental mass manpower could overcome the obstacle of Western technology no doubt gave some proud moments to the Communist hierarchy in North Korea.

The policy of limited bombing was the subject of an intense debate between Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., a former Air Force secretary and usually a supporter of McNamara.

DECISION WEIGHED

The occasion was a closed meeting of McNamara and senators last January when the administration was weighing a decision to end what became a 37-day interval in the raids.

Excerpts from the minutes delineate the opposing positions:

Symington: "Our World War II experience clearly demonstrates that the quickest and cheapest way to rob an enemy of his weapons is to wreck his factories, blast his warehouses and supply dumps and block his harbors."

"Despite the clear lessons from the last war of the decisive results, we are now hearing again and again that bombing is ineffective. Our enemy is attempting by propaganda, and some of it very insidious, to induce us to stop the method of warfare which he fears the most."

"Bombing will not be effective in Vietnam until it is used correctly. If we don't eliminate this target limitation, it isn't right to send these men out to risk their lives in an expensive airplane to bomb just an empty barracks or bus."

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY

McNamara: "When we talk of striking the military targets, one must recognize that this is an agricultural society. Its military power does not depend upon industrial resources. It depends primarily on their manpower and war materiel provided to them by other Communist countries."

"They can carry the equipment and supplies on their backs, and I mean that literally. They can use bicycles which the Chinese and Koreans did in the case of the Korean War."

"There is every likelihood that we could take out all of their power system, all of their oil, all of their harbors, destroy their dams, and they could still carry on the infiltration of the men and equipment necessary to support some level of operations in the south."

Symington was not satisfied. He replied:

"I have just reread the summaries of both Germany and Japan of the strategic bombing survey. You turn loose the naval air and Air Force air of this country against the North Vietnamese and you are going to have a changing situation in South Vietnam."

LEARNS LESSONS

"North Vietnam obviously has learned some lessons from Korea."

Officials say U.S. planes have knocked out 5,000 bridges, but most were repaired within two or three weeks, or bypassed quickly.

Bombed-out rail lines seldom are out of service more than three or four hours. Truck convoys often merely drive around bomb craters in highways.

Fuel supplies are so dispersed along roads that incessant bombing amounts to a pecking operation.

Until last June's raids on the big oil storage facilities near Hanoi and Haiphong, months of air strikes had destroyed only 15 per cent of North Vietnam's petroleum resources, according to U.S. estimates. The Hanoi-Haiphong fuel dump raids, long recommended by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, took out two-thirds of North Vietnam's fuel storage capacity in a matter of hours.

DECISIVE FACTOR

McNamara, privately, remains convinced that ground operations, not bombing, will be the decisive factor in this war.

Still, officials say, the administration has little alternative but to continue, lest it yield to the north a bargaining item in any negotiations.

There also remains the question of how strong the Communists would become if there were no raids on their supply lines.

Committee Will Eye Committees

Sen. Glen S. Smith, president pro tem, says a committee will be formed to determine if there are too many committees.

Lodge Sees U.S. War Toll Ratio Drop

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge is about to return to his post in Saigon. In this exclusive interview, he gives his views on the outlook for 1967, the impact of the bombing of North Vietnamese targets, the results of the American military action in terms of world peace.)

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge predicted today a downturn in the percentage of American casualties in Vietnam this year. "The war would be pretty nearly over," Lodge added, once success is achieved in wiping out the threat from hardcore terrorists to Vietnamese villagers. But he gave no date on when he thought this slower, pacification task might be completed.

Lodge spoke in an interview with the Associated Press prior to his departure for Saigon Saturday after a month in the United States on home leave and consultation.

He met Wednesday with President Johnson. Afterward, he told reporters U.S. forces may win military victory over organized Red troops this year but this would not automatically end the war.

4 KINDS OF WAR

As Lodge outlined it in his interview, there are actually four kinds of war being fought in South Vietnam — the conventional military operation against large units, weeding out terrorists, development of a constitutional political system which is under way and the economic battle in which inflation has been successfully "staved off" at this point.

U.S. troops have been searching out Vietcong and North Vietnamese army units. The American forces now total around 400,000 and they have been suffering about 100 killed a week.

"I believe the purely military part of the war — which is what the Americans are engaged in — will make tremendous progress in 1967 and that the percentage of American casualties will start declining," Lodge said.

"The weeding out of the terrorists, however, takes longer," he added. "It is almost wholly a job for the Vietnamese."

CANNOT STAND ALONE

"Until this is done and until local political institutions are constructed under which a police program and an economic and social program can be conducted, Vietnam cannot stand by itself and will continue to require help."

Lodge figured that a few thousand "hard-core terrorists" command some 150,000 "rank and file terrorists" and that the hard-core leaders are responsible for forcing young villagers into service with the Vietcong and the North Vietnamese units.

"If, therefore, we are successful at ferreting out and eliminating the hard-core terrorists and establishing the villagers' confidence in their government's ability to assure their security," he said, "impressment of young males would cease and the war would be pretty nearly over."

SOME OF ANSWERS

Here are some of the questions asked Lodge, along with his answers:

Q. What does the bombing of the North accomplish? Does it harm civilians more than the military?

A. The bombing of the North very severely harasses the Vietcong line of communication whereby it supports its forces which are combatting aggression against South Vietnam. Were this bombing to stop, the Vietcong would be more aggressive and this would result in killing and wounding many more American troops.

Some civilians are always killed in war. Regrettably some civilians are killed accidentally in North Vietnam. That is tragic. But I believe special mention should be made of civilians who are killed in South Vietnam, not by accident but by deliberate Vietcong policy. This goes on week after week.

Q. Is there a "credibility gap" concerning administration statements on Vietnam and if so, who is to blame?

A. I think the statements of the United States government

Abortion Law Change Urged

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — The New-Mexico Medical Society said last night it would sponsor a legislative bill providing a sweeping change in the state's abortion law.

The proposal would allow abortions in certain circumstances in which they are not now permitted. Court approval for an abortion in these cases would be required.

If passed, the law would be the broadest in the nation. It would allow abortions in cases in which:

- The child probably would be born with grave mental or physical defects.
- The pregnancy would greatly impair the mental health of the mother.
- The pregnancy resulted from rape or incest.

Forty-four states now permit abortion only when the life of the mother is in danger. The other six states, including New Mexico, permit it also when the mother's health is in serious danger. Court approval is not now required.

A woman seeking an abortion would be required to petition district court and two doctors would be required to testify on her behalf.

The medical society's House of Delegates has approved the proposal in principle.

Q. There have been periodic reports that you plan to resign soon. What are your personal plans?

A. These are inaccurate. I serve at the pleasure of the President as does every presidential appointee.

in terms of world peace of our activity in Vietnam?

A. Outside of Vietnam, that whole great area of islands and peninsulas known as East Asia is denied to the expansionism of Peking. To be sure, the current situation is dangerous because the world is dangerous, but if we had been pushed out of Vietnam or if we had abandoned Vietnam, the tide would have turned towards Peking and we would be facing a catastrophe of global dimensions.

Sailor Calls Morrell 'Seaworthy' in 1965

OGDENSBURG, N.Y. (UPI) — A veteran Great Lakes sailor testified yesterday that the ill-fated Daniel J. Morrell was seaworthy at the close of the 1965 navigation season.

Frank D. Brian, testifying at a Coast Guard inquiry into the Nov. 29 sinking of the Morrell in Lake Huron, said he had crawled the side and double-bottomed tanks of the vessel and saw nothing out of the ordinary. The vessel broke in two during a storm, with the loss of 28 of her 29 crewmen.

"I did not see any deteriorated rivets, metals, brackets, frames or distorted metal of any kind," Brian said. "I would have remembered this distinctly."

Another former crewman, Harvey Hays, had told the inquiry board in a session at Erie, Pa., Tuesday the Morrell had 250 to 500 leaky rivets when he sailed aboard her in 1965.

Asked if he knew Hays, Brian at first said he did not but after Hays was described to him said, "I faintly remember him." He had asked the hearing officers if Hays was "the school teacher, a small man."

Brian, a lakes sailor for 38 years, said he did not remember ever being sent into the tanks of the Morrell with a brush and flashlight to mark bad rivets. In fact, he said, "I do not remember seeing any marked rivets while I was on the Morrell."

Brian, employed by Bethlehem Steel Corp., owner of the Morrell, also was asked if Capt. Arthur Crawley would have gone out without sufficient ballast and he replied "No."

He served with Crawley aboard the Lebanon for a short time last year before the captain switched to the Morrell and perished in the lake mishap.

On another point — whether he had seen an accumulation of mud in tanks of the Morrell — Brian said, "Yes, of course, but it was always rinsed out."

Cmdr. R. P. Chrisside and Lt. R. J. Akridge, who questioned Brian, said the board of inquiry would reconvene in Cleveland at a time to be announced. Bethlehem Steel counsel had no question for Brian.

Chiefs Tuning for Flint Five

As Pontiac Central prepares to play host to streaky Flint Northern tomorrow night two factors are evident — one to the statisticians and one to coach Fred Zittel.

The youthful mentor firmly believes that as the Chiefs practice so do they perform during a game.

"We were pretty bad working out during the holidays," Zittel reported; and the team gave one of its worst exhibitions in city series history while losing to Pontiac Northern.

Apparently, the junior-dominated PCH roster learned its lesson. Last Friday's effort at Midland was a marked improvement as the Chiefs gained a big overtime victory.

The win kept them in the Saginaw Valley Conference basketball race, one game behind unbeaten Saginaw.

KEY PLAYERS

The other factor is PCH's dependence on letterwinners Alton Wilson and Prentice Hill. In Central's four wins, the two sharpshooters haven't combined for less than 35 points and the team total wasn't less than 60.

In the two defeats, their total hasn't exceeded 27. The team had 45 and 53 points. Obviously, PCH's offense is clicking when both have their shooting eyes.

In past seasons, when the attack sputtered the Central defense often was sharp enough to protect the victory; but the Chiefs' inexperience is showing in that phase of play this winter.

Flint Northern will enter the game with a 1-3 record. The team lacks a big scorer though any one of five players could hit twin figures for the Vikings.

Coach Jack Marlette prefers to substitute freely, keeping fresh players on the court. The Vikings have shown a tendency for playing well in streaks.

They weren't highly regarded in the preseason forecasts of the SVC coaches. They lost by 9 points in their opener at Midland. Saginaw handed Northern its biggest loss, 61-44, last week.

The game tomorrow will be Central's first at home since it lost to Saginaw Arthur Hill prior to Christmas.

Defensive Ace Begins Calling Lion Signals

All Assistants Out, but Brettschneider Certain of Berth

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press
Joe Schmidt isn't planning to go out and buy himself a flute because he said, "I don't even pretend to be a piper," and he realizes that as new head coach of the Detroit Lions it won't be easy to just whisk away the troubles of the team.

Schmidt received a 5-year contract yesterday from owner Bill Ford and the former all-pro linebacker now has the task of restoring the team pride and harmony which he felt was a big factor during the great championship years of the 1950s.

With Schmidt's hiring also came the firing of the entire staff of assistants. However, the new Lion coach, now youngest in the NFL at the age of 35, is almost certain to rehired one and maybe two of the aides.

Carl Brettschneider, ex-teams mate and also a former linebacker, is sure to be back. Another possibility is John North.

Schmidt said he "wouldn't rush into the task of filling the assistant positions."

Many names have popped up, however, including ex-teams mates Terry Barr, Dick Stanfel and Doak Walker. One person who may possibly be offered an assistant's job is the former head coach of the Washington Redskins, Bill McPeak.

McPeak, a teammate of Schmidt's at Pitt, is now in radio broadcasting during the football season. He was relieved of the head coaching job at Washington after the 1965 season when Otto Graham was given the job.

"I definitely feel we have to make some trades," Schmidt said after the contract signing yesterday. "Naturally I'll confer with general manager Russ Thomas and owner Bill Ford before I do anything."

Another big item facing Schmidt and personnel director of the Lions, whomsoever he may be since Thomas was moved into the position of general manager, is the pro draft which is coming up at the end of the month.

In giving Schmidt the contract which is said to be around $50,000 a year, Ford said, "We are glad Joe has been able to work out private business matters and has accepted the job."

"We expect progress from this year's record and five years is a reasonable time to get the job done," Ford added. Schmidt was optimistic in his association with the players, which was one of Harry Gilmer's downfalls.

"I know a player likes to be treated fair and honest. I feel the players will be 100 percent behind me, and I hope any problems of criticisms between players and coaches won't come up," he said.

Academic Rule Stirs Discussion in NCAA

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The new president of the National Collegiate Athletic Association said today he felt the NCAA and Eastern objects to the 1.6 minimum academic rule could reach an understanding.

The large collegiate body rebuffed Eastern college efforts Wednesday to eliminate the one-year-old rule which requires a student-athlete to maintain at least a 1.6 minimum on a 4.0 grading scale to be eligible for athletic participation. A 1.6 is the equivalent to a D-plus average.

Dr. Marcus L. Plant of the University of Michigan said after his election as president of the 582-member organization that the NCAA is strong internally and with "no deep fissures."

"We are not without our problems," he said. "We never have been and we never will be."

Although the Eastern College Athletic Conference, comprising 146 NCAA members, got late convention support from the Southwest Conference and the Atlantic Coast Conference, it was unsuccessful in securing approval of any of six amendments designed to alter the present 1.6 regulation.

The objecting schools contend the rule violates Institutional autonomy and is not applicable in their case because they do not have student-athletes.

John Wilkin of Colby College, in presenting the ECAC case, said the academic rule "tries to equate factors that are not equatable." At the request of a delegate to have a public statement on how the NCAA Council stood on the 1.6 issue, Everett D. Barnes of Colgate University, retiring NCAA president, said it was for retention of the present rule.

"The general conviction on the part of the majority is to give the 1.6 rule a chance to function another year," Plant said. He added that coming from the Big Ten Conference, which has a higher minimum standard, he favors it.

Plant said that by letting the rule go unchanged for another year the NCAA can "get a full appraisal of how it is working."

Asa Bushnell, commissioner of the Eastern College Athletic Conference, said he saw no revolt on the part of the ECAC membership.

The 1968 convention will be in New York City Jan. 8-10.

Tigers' Owner Expects Bengals to Have Bite

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers are growing more teeth, said John E. Fetzer, owner of the American League baseball club.

Fetzer told the Detroit chapter of the Baseball Writers of America Wednesday night, "With the new crew at the managerial level we have assembled, we have the most dedicated group of men at the top that I have ever seen in baseball."

"I didn't come into the Tiger situation to preside over a toothless tiger. I think we're developing a pretty good set of teeth," he added.

Fetzer spoke as the writers honored Denny McLain as the Tiger of the Year for 1966. McLain, with a 20-14 record was the first man to win 20 games for the Tigers in five years.

Mayo Smith, the new Tiger manager signed last fall, said there are two keys to being a good manager. "Managing 25 different men is No. 1. No. 2 is getting the relief pitcher in, without being too quick or too slow," Smith said.

"This ball club does have fine potential," he said. "There are a few pieces to put together. I think we need help in the bullpen. That's one of the main problems that we have today."

McHale Joins Staff of Czar

NEW YORK (UPI) — John McHale led the Braves' successful invasion of Atlanta and for his efforts was made an aide de camp to a general.

McHale is the new administrator of baseball, or as members of the trade put it, "the right hand" of Commissioner William Eckert, retired Air Force general.

The 45-year-old McHale succeeds another knowledgeable baseball man in a sound-alike switch — Lee MacPhail, who resigned to become general manager of the New York Yankees.

McHale's venture into the high echelon of the sport is just the reverse of MacPhail's job positions.

McHale was president and general manager of the Braves before deciding to accept the three-year $40,000 contract offered by Eckert to retain the status of "an expert" in the commissioner's office.

Hapless Wings Walloped, 6-1

The loss extended the Wings' record of road game losses to 18.

Sweetan, Wife Okay Divorce Settlement

MOUNT CLEMENS (UPI) — Karl Sweetan, quarterback for the Detroit Lions, and his petite wife Jo Ann reached a settlement in divorce proceedings in circuit court Wednesday.

The settlement, in which 21-year-old Mrs. Sweetan won custody of the couple's children, Karl Jr., 4, and Christia, 3, came after two days of court sessions.

The settlement, which Sweetan called "fair," decrees that Mrs. Sweetan reside in Michigan and not hold a job until the children are in school.

In addition, Sweetan is to pay $125 a week for the support of Mrs. Sweetan and the children and agreed to buy his wife a second hand car. He will keep all the property other than Mrs. Sweetan's clothing and personal items.

Sweetan said he had no objections to leaving the children in his wife's custody "just so she stays in Michigan."

Green Bay Defenders Impress KC's Dawson

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Kansas City quarterback Len Dawson took apart the Green Bay defense today without throwing a pass—and found that in Sunday's Super Bowl game he'll be firing against the equivalent of Boston's front four, Buffalo's linebackers and Oakland's secondary.

Ticking off attributes and personality of Green Bay's defensive forces, Dawson drew a comparison with the units of three American Football League teams.

"The Packers front four are extremely quick, like Boston's," Dawson said, "and like Boston they're a veteran group which plays extremely well together."

"The Green Bay linebackers are like Buffalo's," Dawson went on, "big, strong, fast, and they tackle very well. The ball carrier doesn't fake them out. They're tough, they hit, they jam the tight end."

The rift in the Saginaw Valley between the northern members (Saginaw, Bay City and Midland) and the southern teams from Flint and Pontiac may come to a head before the next school year arrives.

The Pontiac Board of Education was notified last night that the Flint schools have invited two members and the superintendent from each of the Saginaw Valley Conference school districts to attend a meeting Jan. 31 in Flint.

Dr. Dana Whitmer, Pontiac superintendent of schools, Monroe Osmun and William Anderson from the board are the three from Pontiac who will attend the meeting.

The rift began two years ago in the SVC when the nine-member conference refused the admission of Flint Northwestern.

The voting has been on divisional lines with two Saginaw, two Bay City and one Midland schools holding the edge for the northern sector, while the three Flint and one Pontiac members have been voting together in league matters.

Flint schools have threatened withdrawal from the league. The northern cities seek the admission of Alpena.

Cardinals to Visit Almont

Dryden '5' Bidding to End Losing Streak

Dryden will have an opportunity to regain some of its Southern Thumb League prestige Friday night when it visits arch-rival Almont for a key cage contest.

The Cardinals (0-5) were the loop basketball power the preceding two seasons but have fallen on thin times this winter. They have lost four straight since a nonleague victory.

Almont, meanwhile, is 4-1, and a definite contender for the title. The Raiders are hoping Armada (also 4-1) will ambush Capac's unbeaten league leaders in their meeting Friday.

Three teams could be sharing the top spot after tomorrow's games or Capac's Chiefs could take charge of the race with another triumph and help from Dryden.

New Haven (3-2) will attempt to stay in the chase on its trip to New Baltimore Anchor Bay (1-4). Memphis (1-4) will invade Brown City (2-3) to round out the loop slate.

Offense has been a problem for Dryden but the Cardinals' attack reached a season high Tuesday while losing at Armada, 89-70.

Almont, meanwhile, has shown a good defense but an inconsistent offense. The Raiders have a two-game winning streak. Armada lost its opening game at Almont and has since posted five straight decisions. The Tigers have a potent offense but Capac can also score and has an edge defensively.

Lions' Lebeau Captures NFL Golfing Crown

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Dick Lebeau, defensive halfback for the Detroit Lions, won the golf tournament for National Football League players Wednesday with an adjusted score of 144.

He picked up gross scores of 74 and 79 for a 153 for the two days of the tournament at the Hollywood Beach Country Club. King Hill, quarterback for the Philadelphia Eagles, shot the low gross with rounds of 78 and 73 for 151. Hill had an adjusted score of 145, leaving him tied with two others.

They were John Hilton, a tackle for the Pittsburgh Steelers, and Jess Jordan, a defensive back for the Minnesota Vikings.

Full W-O, Oakland A Slates

Top Cage Guns Meet

The top basketball guns in the Wayne-Oakland League will have a showdown at the Clarkston corral tomorrow night.

Already established as top draw in the league is Clarkston's Dan Fife who carries a 30.8 average for seven games. Milford will send its ace, Don Hill, into the fray with a six-game mark of 26.2.

The Wolves appear to have stronger firepower in support of Fife, however, and are favored to chalk up win No. 6 in league play.

Northville, once-beaten in W-O play and a game behind front-running Clarkston, invades West Bloomfield. Bloomfield Hills goes to Brighton and Holly is at Clarenceville.

Rochester opens the second round of Oakland A play at Madison while Avondale is at Lake Orion. Cousino plays at Troy and Fitzgerald entertains Clawson.

Dave Torrance, in his first season as head coach at Milford, was counting on Hill, Paul Skinner and Jim Kaspar to get the Redskins into the win column more frequently than last season when they posted a 2-15 record.

Skinner, the top scorer last season, hasn't played a game because of a back injury. Hill and sophomore Mark Giegler are currently carrying the scoring load with some help from Bob McFarland.

BIG GAME

Hill is a 6-2 senior who got off to a fast start last season only to the miss the second half with injuries. His highest point production came last week in the 96-92 win over Brighton when the senior forward pumped in 32 markers in less than three quarters.

Giegler has been coming on strong and currently carries a 13.3 mark while McFarland is at 8.8.

Milford has equaled last season's victory total in six games and the outlook is for more wins before the season ends.

Although Clarkston has won six of seven games over-all, Coach Bud McGrath is still looking for a consistent performance at one forward post.

Rick Bass and Mark Erickson have been dividing the job, but Erickson seems to perform better when inserted after the game starts.

Guard Randy Nicoson has been in double figures the last three games for the Wolves and has a 12-point average. Tom Allen is at 9-4 and Mark Richard, the 6-5 rebounder, appears ready to help in the scoring department.

But all eyes will be on Hill (6-2) and Fife (6-2). Coaches who have seen both play, and this includes McGrath, comment that Hill and Fife have similar styles. Both are good drivers and can hit from outside. They are top rebounders.

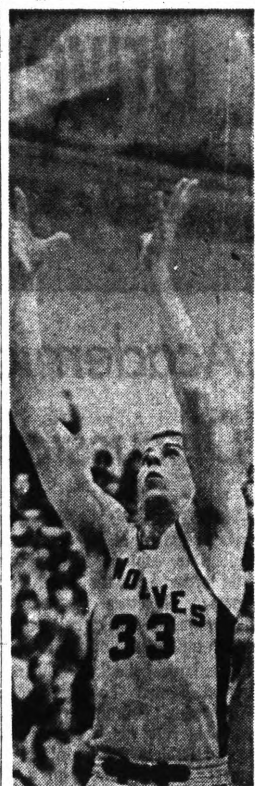

Fife is rated the better defensive player. One of Avondale's two victories was posted at home over Lake Orion, 61-41, in the second game of the season. But the Dragons are a much improved team.

Big reason for Orion's better appearance is the play of 6-4 center Bill Foss who is scoring in double figures and doing some strong rebounding.

However, the Dragons only win was over Madison.

Rochester has been an in-and-out team. The Falcons lose to the teams they are expected to beat such as Avondale and then top a heavily favored foe like Cousino. Rochester won at home over Madison, 70-51.

Southern Illinois Downs Louisville

Small College Quintet Gains Prestige Among Major Powers

By the Associated Press

Southern Illinois is not considered a major college basketball power. Convince Texas Western and Louisville.

The Salukis from Carbondale Ill., 59-54 conquerors of Texas Western, the defending major college champion, upended previously unbeaten Louisville 53-50 Wednesday night.

Southern Illinois has a higher national ranking than either Texas Western or Louisville, but there is a difference — the Salukis top The Associated Press small college rankings while Louisville is No. 2 and Texas Western sixth among the major schools.

As for rankings, Coach Jack Hartman of Southern Illinois said after the latest victory, "They don't put anything on the scoreboard."

Well, they do put the score on

North Carolina, and the Tar Heels came from eight points behind in the second half to nip North Carolina State 79-78 for their 12th victory in 13 games.

Bob Lewis led North Carolina with 25 points, and Rusty Clark and Larry Miller chipped in with 20 and 16, respectively. Dick Braucher's 24 led State.

A brief fight broke out just after the final buzzer at Chapel Hill when a fan exchanged blows with State's Robert McLean. Order was restored quickly.

At Philadelphia, St. John's of New York tore apart the usually effective St. Joseph's one press and trounced the hometown Hawks 98-85.

The winners got 24 points and backboard control from 6-foot-8 Sonny Dove. Cliff Anderson of St. Joseph's led all scorers with 32.

In the first game, Temple built a 13-point lead early in the second half and then held on to edge Penn State 63-59.

There were some shady doings at Memphis, Tenn., where Memphis State beat Southern Mississippi 65-52. Lights at one end of the coliseum failed and officials and coaches decided to continue in the half light.

The teams took turns shooting at the darkened goals in five-minute stretches until the lights came on again five minutes before halftime.

In home court triumphs, Georgetown, D.C., pasted Navy 97-68, St. Francis, N.Y., topped NYU 95-90, South Carolina trounced Virginia 81-67, William & Mary drubbed Hampden-Sydney 100-78, Notre Dame whipped King's, Pa., 93-54 and Colorado State U. turned back Denver 56-52.

Western Michigan upset Chicago Loyola 76-68. All were road victories.

Story Revealed on Griese, Teammate

Trip West Ends in Near Tragedy for Purdue Stars

CHICAGO (AP) — The near drowning of two Purdue football stars, quarterback Bob Griese and defensive back George Catavolos, off a Hawaii beach was related Wednesday by Boilermaker Coach Jack Mollenkopf.

Mollenkopf, during narration of Rose Bowl films before the Executives Club of Chicago told this story of the near tragedy which happened between the Rose Bowl game Jan. 2 and the Hula Bowl game Jan. 6.

"Griese and Satavolos rented a jeep for sight-seeing in Hawaii the Wednesday after we arrived for the Hula Bowl game.

STOP FOR SWIM

"They stopped at an inviting beach somewhere and went swimming, not realizing the strong undertow in the Pacific Ocean at that point.

"Catavolos got in trouble and Griese went to his aid. Both got tired trying to struggle back to shore and were in real trouble when somebody — natives, I guess — had to pull them from the water.

"They both nearly drowned. What a tragedy that would have been."

Griese keyed Purdue's 14-13 Rose Bowl victory over Southern California in which Catavolos made a game-deciding interception on the Trojan try for a two-point conversion which would have meant a 15-14 USC win.

Mollenkopf said the episode happened on Wednesday, Jan. 4, two days before the North team he helped coach scored a 28-27 victory over the South in the Hula Bowl with Griese in a starring role.

Griese threw three touchdown passes and kicked a field goal and extra point to pace the North's triumph.

Mollenkopf told the Executive Club that Griese did a better job than heralded Steve Spurrier of Florida, who quarterbacked the South in the Hula Bowl.

GRIESE QUICKER

"Griese was quicker off the line and better than Spurrier," said Mollenkopf, adding: "A pro coach told me last night Tuesday that Griese was the greatest third-down quarterback he had ever seen."

Spurrier is said to be coveted more than Griese by the pros and is tabbed the first pick of the New York Giants, who reportedly get first call in the National and American Football Leagues.

Broncos Upset Loyola Cagers

Western Michigan 5
Topple Chicagoans

CHICAGO (AP)—Led by Clarence Harville's 23 points, Western Michigan upset Loyola 73-68 in basketball Wednesday night.

The Broncos, trailing 36-35 at the half, came on strong to take a five-point lead in the second half. But Loyola regained the advantage at 64-63 with a little more than four minutes to play. Eugene Ford, however, hit a pair of free throws and put Western ahead to stay 65-64.

Corky Bell twice pulled Loyola within one point of the lead but the Broncos retained their poise and connected on four straight free throws in the closing minute to clinch their sixth victory against four losses.

Ron Kidney had 17 points for Western and Reggie Laceyfield added 15. Jim Tillman paced Loyola with 23.

The loss left Loyola with a 7-5 record, discounting a victory over Windsor of Canada.

Alumnus Hired by Miss. State

STAVILLE, Miss. (AP)—Hoping to revive its sagging football fortunes, Mississippi State has chosen alumnus Charles Shira as its new head coach and athletic director.

Shira, 40, moves over from the University of Texas, where for years the sweet smell of success has hung over the stadium like a fog. He was top assistant to Texas coach Darrell Royal.

Browns Putting Brown's No. 32 in Retirement

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Jersey No. 32, worn by Cleveland Browns fullback Jim Brown for nine seasons is being retired permanently.

Browns' owner Art Modell will present the jersey to Brown at the Jim Brown Farewell Day activities Jan. 29. The event is sponsored by the Negro Industrial and Economic Union of which Brown is the national chairman.

Brown's former number is the third to be retired in the 21-year history of the club. The first was Otto Graham's No. 14. The second was Don Fleming's No. 46 after Fleming was killed in an industrial accident in Florida in 1963.

In other games, Bob's Five (1-1) trimmed Genesee Welding and Supply (1-1), 73-67, and Spencer Floor (1-1) broke an 81-all tie with three minutes left and scored nine straight points to down Powell Trucking (1-1), 90-81.

Darrell Lovell scored 23 points, seven in the fourth quarter, and teammate Ken McClintock collected 26 in pacing the Bob's Five attack. Howard McCray 14 for Genesee.

John Keller flipped in 30 points and John Herrington contributed 29 in Spencer's first win. Dave Dodd (20) and Jim Nyberg (19) led the losers.

PONTIAC ACTION

In Pontiac men's National League play, the Amigos Club had a scare before slipping past the Packers, 59-56, and Acker Construction dropped Local 653, 81-69.

The Packers led the Amigos, 46-38, entering the last quarter but Vern Ellis' four field goals led a 21-point outburst that kept the clubmen unbeaten.

Acker's also trailed at half-time, but Jim McDonald's 23 points led it to victory and also tied the game-high effort of Local 653's Dale Craft.

Billy Casper Tourney Pick

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Defending champion Billy Casper, golf's biggest money-winner last year, led a field of 144 pros into the first round of the $66,000 San Diego Open today—initial event on the golden tour of the Professional Golfers Association for 1967.

Casper, a hometown product, was rated a favorite to repeat but there were plenty of other golfers with their eye on first prize money of $13,200 including Gay Brewer, Doug Sanders, Phil Rodgers, Frank Beard, Al Geiberger, Bobby Nichols, R. H. Sikes, Miller Barber, Wes Ellis, Tommy Jacobs and Gene Littler.

Scene of the 15th annual 72-hole San Diego event which ends Sunday is the Stardust Country Club—a par 35-36—71, 6,725-yard layout in Mission Valley.

Royals Paced by Robertson

By the Associated Press
When the Cincinnati Royals add one in the victory column, it's usually because of the Big O.

It was that way again Thursday night in the National Basketball Association, when the Royals eked out a 106-102 triumph over the Bulls at Chicago as Robertson scored 36 points and contributed 21 assists.

The Big O, held to just one field goal in the first quarter, hit on seven of nine attempts in the second to lift the Royals to a 49-48 halftime lead. Then after Chicago fought back from a 16-point deficit to trail by just two points at 100-98, Robertson's shooting and ball handling enabled the Royals to hold on.

In the only other game, the Lakers turned back San Francisco 141-126 at Los Angeles. It was the Lakers' first victory over the Warriors in six outings this season.

Officials Hike Ducat Prices for Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Fewer spectators and higher prices will be the rule for the prestige-laden Masters Golf Tournament in 1967.

The Augusta National Golf Club says the number of admission credentials will be cut sharply and that series badges, good for the four rounds in the 72-hole event on April 6-9, will be limited to patrons — persons on the club's mailing list.

Chairman Clifford Roberts of the Masters Tournament Committee said the price of series badges will be raised from $15 to $20. He said the badges will not cover practice rounds.

No tickets will be available to the general public for the tournament, the club said, unless patrons fail to fill the spectator quota, which was not disclosed. The possibility that patrons will fail to exhaust the supply is unlikely. Augusta National reported that 90 per cent of the patrons requested series badges last year and closed out the supply a month before the tournament began.

Roberts said if the quota is not filled a certain number of daily admission tickets will be sold to the general public.

Hockey Gains in County

Preps Taking to Ice

BY JERE CRAIG

Ice Hockey is gaining a foothold as a high school sport among county prep teams despite the uncertainty inherent in Michigan winter weather.

Cranbrook long has been the bastion of prep hockey within the county, performing regularly by the International Prep League mostly against Detroit teams.

The Cranes suffered their first league loss Wednesday, losing 6-2 to Detroit Cathedral.

Bloomfield Hills, who handed Cranbrook its initial loss last Saturday, 3-2; dropped a 9-4 verdict to Ecorse yesterday.

The Barons are now 3-4-1. Leading scorer Doug Brinkman, Bill Scott, Jeff Kezlarian and Don Healy tallied the goals for Hills against Ecorse.

FIRST SEASON

Hills just began its organized interscholastic competition this winter after interest was developed through the recreation program at the school. Nearly 50 boys turned out for the team's tryouts this season.

High school counselor Neil Celkey coaches the Baron's sextet, and rotates 20-25 boys on the roster.

Ice hockey isn't a varsity sport at the school so the boys must have their own equipment, although the athletic department does provide the players' uniforms.

Brother Rice and Country Day, two Birmingham schools, also sponsor hockey squads and are on the Cranbrook and Hill's schedules. Madison dropped the sport.

The big drawback to its development among the high schools is the lack of practice facilities. Only Cranbrook has its own rink, and it is in big demand.

Country Day's sextet, in fact, practices there daily at 7 a.m. Hills has converted its tennis courts into a practice site, but is dependent upon the weather and still is in the process of building goals and boards.

Ice hockey is a sport for hardy athletes, and at the high school level it takes perseverance to even have a team.

Ski Triumph for Southfield

Blue Jays Conquer Catholic Central

Southfield had a good time on the Mount Holly slalom course Wednesday afternoon, sweeping past Catholic Central's boys' team in a prep ski league meet.

The Blue Jays won the first four places in compiling a 2:49.9 team total to the Detroiters' 4:16.9. Gary Sayers led the victors with 37.1 seconds for his two runs. Teammate Dave Brackett had 41.2.

Catholic Central's Greg Hawthorne was fifth with 51.4. In addition, Southfield gained two points from its meeting with Berkley the preceding week when a ruling change discarded what had been ruled as ties in both the boys' and girls' competition.

Also Wednesday, Ferndale's girls' squad edged past Lakeview, 3:08.8-3:19.3, despite losing first and second place. Linda Wernst and Karen Trinkauf were one-two for Lakeview with 54.1 and 55.6, while Ferndale's Maja Seiler had 55.8.

Ski Slopes Maintain Excellent Snow Cover

By The Associated Press

Most Michigan ski resorts reported excellent conditions for weekend skiing Wednesday.

The U.S. Weather Bureau at Detroit said light snow flurries are predicted for the entire state through the weekend.

Big Powderhorn at Bessemer in Upper Michigan reported 22 to 30 inches of new snowfall and 14 inches was recorded this week at Wakefield's Indianhead Mountain and Porcupine Mountain near Ontonagon.

Conditions were just about as good in West Michigan with two to eight inches of new snow reported at most areas.

LA Introduces Its Zoo

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

LOS ANGELES — What's new? The Los Angeles Zoo. Angelenos are being introduced to a $10-million zoo, located on 110 acres of sprawling Griffin Park and housing 3,575 animals representing 589 species. Future population: 5,000.

It is Los Angeles' first big zoo, and it is drawing an enthusiastic reaction from citizens and animals alike.

"We're going great guns," the zoo director, Dr. Wesley A. Young, reported. "On one recent Sunday we had 26,000 visitors, which is much more than we ever expected. The parking lot was built for 3,200 cars, and we thought that would be plenty. But now we have to enlarge it."

Young said most visitors seem pleased, and they're staying longer than anticipated. Some animals appear to be delighted with the crowds.

"Especially the cow elephants," said Young. "Nobody asked them to, but they're putting on a show all day for the spectators. The three of them, as if by signal, walk into the pool and submerge themselves completely. Then they get out and toss dirt all over themselves."

As an old zoo reviewer, I found the place not as diverse and imaginative as the San Diego Zoo nor possessing the intimate charm of the Berlin Zoo. The traffic pattern seems confused, and little legwork is saved by riding the trams that circle the zoo.

But as the landscaping grows and the collection becomes more distinguished, the Los Angeles Zoo should rank among the best.

First Kiesinger-De Gaulle Meeting Tomorrow

BONN, Germany (AP) — Kurt Georg Kiesinger, West Germany's new chancellor, meets French President Charles de Gaulle on Friday for the first time in a new effort for Western European unity — this time along lines de Gaulle may find acceptable.

DeGaulle is known to want a loosely bound "Europe of the fatherlands," with each nation strictly keeping its own identity. It would be — certainly in the beginning — little more than a series of regularly scheduled meeting of top officials, who would try to coordinate policies. Probably it would be limited at the start to the nations of the Common Market: France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

De Gaulle is not enthusiastic about British participation. Ludwig Erhard, Kiesinger's predecessor as chancellor, wanted Britain in the market. He had in mind a more integrated organization that de Gaulle favors. It never got anywhere.

But Kiesinger and his coalition government are expected to establish a better rapport with de Gaulle. Kiesinger was born near France, speaks its language well.

In foreign affairs, Erhard's overriding concern was to keep on good terms with the United States. At home, his main concern was economics — a subject that does not much interest de Gaulle.

The Kiesinger - de Gaulle meeting is one of the semi-annual series between the two countries' leaders set up in the treaty that ex-Chancellor Konrad Adenauer signed in 1963.

Kiesinger should get some help from Foreign Minister Willy Brandt, who is going with him to Paris. Brandt belongs to the Social Democratic party, which is participating for the first time in a West German government. It wants to move more boldly toward conciliation with the East.

France has traditional cultural and diplomatic ties with the nations of Eastern Europe. West Germany has more goods to sell of the kind that the Communist countries want badly.

French influence, it is hoped, could help overcome the mistrust many East Europeans feel for Germany because of World War II.

By scanning with a laser beam a subject in complete darkness can be made to appear on a television screen as if in full daylight.

VOLCANO ERUPTS — Thick clouds of sulfurous ashes and smoke pour from the volcano Chaparrastique in El Salvador, also known as the volcano of San Miguel, spreading ashes over a wide area over the province

Draft Law Reform Is Up to Congress

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This may be the year Congress steps into the great debate on the draft. Some sources believe a change is in the air. This article, the second of a two-part series, outlines what could happen.)

By SEYMOUR M. HERSH

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department, President Johnson's Commission on Selective Service and millions of young Americans and their parents are convinced it's time to change the nation's draft laws. They may get their way this year.

The burden falls to Congress, which must decide by June 30 whether to extend key provisions of the Selective Service law. The issue will get its most thorough hearing since the current law was passed in 1951.

Sometime in the next two months President Johnson, his commission's report in hand, is expected to issue a clear, loud challenge to the legislators and demand, at the least, a revamping of the present system to establish national standards and cut into the autonomy of local draft boards.

Nobody, not even the most enthusiastic advocates of most drastic measures, is willing to predict Congress will do much more than that.

20 MEMBER COMMISSION

Johnson already has made it clear he believes the law needs changing. He established the 20-member commission last summer and ordered it to study exhaustively the problem and come up with some recommendations. One fact is indisputable: the present Selective Service system is unfair.

Even its most ardent supporter, Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national draft director, agrees. At the heart of the problem—and the discontent—is the present system of local autonomy for the more than 4,000 draft boards across the nation, many of them headed by veterans of World War I.

INTERPRETATIONS VARY

The varying interpretations of these boards have given to the guidelines supplied by national and state draft headquarters have led to the inconsistent pattern of student and occupational deferments that now is under heavy attack.

The pattern has existed since the end of World War II but the outcry has mushroomed only in the past two years—along with the sharply increased U.S. commitment in South Vietnam.

More than 600,000 youths have been drafted since late 1964, but much of the attention has focused on those youths who haven't been drafted. The debate has produced a new breed of protester—the draft-card burner; strained the present Selective Service System for handling draft appeals; and led to a series of high-court battles over the constitutional rights of conscientious objectors.

ELIGIBLE FOR POOL

Barring congressional action, the disparity between those who go and those who are deferred will grow sharper in the next few days. An estimated total of 1.8 million 18-year-olds will become eligible for the draft pool this year—the largest number in history. By the early 1970s that total is expected to grow to two million yearly.

But draft calls are expected to drop by a third this year. Last week the Pentagon announced a March draft call of only 11,900, more than 50 per cent below the 1966 monthly average.

Adding to the disparity this year will be the Pentagon's new policy of lowering mental and physical standards to permit an estimated total of 100,000 marginally qualified men to enter the armed services.

NOW ACCEPTABLE

The military's educational standards have been eased in the past few months to the point at which men with fifth-grade or equivalent educations are considered acceptable.

Critics have charged that this amounts to increasing the chances for lesser-educated youths to get drafted without boosting the chances of the more privileged.

Recent Defense Department statistics show that about 30 per cent of the youths who drop out of grammar school and about 27 per cent of those who go on to graduate school eventually get drafted. Roughly, 70 per cent of all others also end up in the Army.

4 ALTERNATIVES

Many experts believe no workable solution is possible within the framework of the present system.

As one means of solving the present draft dilemma, four major alternatives to the draft have emerged from the various conferences and other discussions in the past year.

These are: 1. The all-volunteer military. Advocates of this program, who acknowledge it does not have much popular support, envision large, military pay increases and improved living conditions that would attract enough young men to meet all military requirements. At a recent draft conference, it was estimated this could be accomplished for $4 billion yearly.

Detractors point out that Pentagon estimates have put the cost of an all-volunteer Army at as much as $17 billion yearly and add that there is no way of predicting what makes a young man choose a career. Few expect this suggestion to get serious attention from Congress, but a resolution calling for further studies may gain approval.

UNIVERSAL TRAINING

2. Universal military training. This suggestion, although recently endorsed by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, also has little popular support, with many attacking it as unnecessary and wasteful in this day of relatively small guerrilla wars. The Defense Department also has estimated it would cost more than $6 billion to provide six months of training for the 1.8 million youths who would theoretically be eligible for the training this year.

Hershey is a strong advocate of the program.

3. Compulsory national service. Advocates of this program include Peace Corps Director Jack H. Vaughn, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz and Sargent Shriver, head of the antipoverty program. Under it, youths would be given a chance at the age of 18 to volunteer for either military or nonmilitary national service.

Critics argue that compulsory national service would just provide another form of coercion for a society that already is struggling with the draft. To expose all youths to possible federal control at the age of 18 is repugnant to many citizens.

4. The lottery. Insiders say this is the alternative program with the best chance of gaining some kind of congressional sanctions this year. Its backers include Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.; his brother, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

Under the Kennedy proposal, all men would be examined by their local draft boards at age 18, and those found fit would be assigned a lottery number. Drafts would then be selected by a national drawing determined, in part, by the needs of the nation.

Under the Pentagon version, only those 19-year-olds who had not been deferred—that is, those men classified 1A—would be eligible for the lottery. Those who had been deferred would enter the 1A pool when their deferments ran out.

BOARDING PARTY — A Coast Guard boarding party goes aboard a lobster boat involved in a gun battle yesterday with two other lobster boats in the rich fishing territory off Cuba. One crewman was killed, and a captain was wounded. Three fishermen are being held.

Lobster War Flares off Cuba; One Dead

MARATHON, Fla. (AP) — Federal agents held three lobster fishermen for questioning today after a gun battle on the high seas over rich lobster territory off Cuba.

A crewman was killed and a captain was injured in the battle in the Atlantic Wednesday. The three men were whisked away by federal agents after a Coast Guard cutter brought them ashore.

They were identified as Raymond C. Vanyo of Key West, skipper of the Trojan, and two crewmen of the Trojan, Nevin Robert Fitz and George Broome. No charges were placed against them.

The incident, which occurred in the area of Dog Rocks near Cay Sal off the Cuba coast, was the latest outbreak among Florida's lobstermen who guard their traps carefully.

The dead crewman was identified by friends as Vernon Austin of Marathon, the father of six.

Wounded was William A. Branthoover, 33, skipper of the 39-foot Bahama Mama, Branthoover was reported in fair condition in a Miami hospital. He said the shooting among the fishermen lasted about an hour. Austin was on board the Billy J., sister boat of the Bahama Mama. Also aboard the Billy J. was John Miller, Branthoover's father-in-law.

NOT UNCOMMON

Feuds among lobster fishermen are not uncommon in Florida — mainly because the traps are easy prey to passing boats. Even weekend sailors can lift the traps and collect dozens of lobster in a few hours.

A good fisherman can make $15,000 to $20,000 a year in Florida's $12-million lobster business.

Big operators have been complaining to authorities that their traps are being attacked by what they call "cheepies" who secure license for a small legitimate operation but later clean out other traps.

Griffin Joins Assignment Committee

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Michigan Sen. Robert P. Griffin yesterday was named to the Committee on Committees, the Senate body which makes recommendations.

Griffin, Michigan's junior senator, was named to the body by the Republican Senate Conference.

He was a unanimous choice to join the 10-member committee, conference chairman Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, said.

Griffin said that before any committee assignment recommendations for committee members can be made, Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and Minority Leader Sen. Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., will have to decide Republican-Democratic ratios in light of last November's gains by the GOP.

Griffin is presently a member of the Labor and Public Welfare Committee and the Public Works Committee. He said he was studying other possible committee assignments such as the Government Operations Committee and the Aeronautical and Space Sciences Committee.

House GOP Seeking More Committee Seats

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican leaders carry to their Democratic counterparts today a demand for more seats on House committees to reflect GOP gains in the 1966 elections.

They probably will get what they ask for, or close to it.

Speaker John W. McCormack, said he expects no serious difficulty in reaching an agreement with the Republicans, although it means giving up some Democratic committee posts.

Tuesday's organization session of the House indicated that the Democrats won't go out of their way to antagonize the GOP, which demonstrated that with 187 votes and some help from conservative Southern Democrats it can prevail over the numerical Democratic majority.

With the exception of three major committees, the Republicans will insist that they get 43 per cent of the positions on House committees. They apparently are willing to settle for 40 per cent on ways and means and appropriations committees and one-third of the 15 seats on rules committee, traditionally a 2-1 setup in favor of the majority party.

The final decision is up to McCormack and his top aides and traditionally is not made by the entire House membership.

Blind Training Averts Tragedy

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — All children at St. Joseph's School for the Blind are physically handicapped. But all the youngsters are taught to move about the six-story building and some even to find their way to neighborhood stores.

This training paid off handsomely Wednesday when 38 children walked from the building in less than a minute after a fire broke out in the auditorium.

Most of the youngsters, ranging in age from 5 to 17, walked to exits and guided themselves down stairs by holding on to handrails.

A few of the more handicapped were led to safety by the five nuns, six housemothers and three aides who were on duty.

NO INJURIES

There were no injuries and no panic.

The children were taken to St. Joseph's Home for the Blind just around the corner.

The two-alarm fire was brought under control in about 30 minutes.

Lawyer to See 'Der Stern' on Serialization

NEW YORK (AP) — Attorney William Vanden Heuvel plans to fly to Germany today to represent Mrs. John F. Kennedy in talks with the magazine Der Stern over its serialization of "The Death of a President."

Vanden Heuvel said Wednesday night he had undertaken the task as a family friend "in an effort to get Der Stern to conform to their contract with Look magazine."

Der Stern, which purchased serialization rights from Look, has refused to delete certain portions of the text which Mrs. Kennedy regards as too personal. It has already published a first installment.

Look is running a 60,000-word serialization of William Manchester's book on the assassination of President Kennedy after having made modifications.

TIED UP

Vanden Heuvel said he was asked to represent the Kennedys because their regular lawyers are tied up in negotiations with Harper & Row over its planned April publication of the hard-cover Manchester book.

Mrs. Kennedy has sued to prevent publication of the 300,000-word book unless Harper & Row makes changes satisfactory to her. Efforts are being made to settle the case out of court.

SCARCE ITEM

The issue of Look containing the first installment of the serialization has become a scarce item.

News dealers around the nation report they quickly sold out their stocks and are unable to order extras to meet their customers' demands.

Approximately 974,000 copies of the magazine were available for newsstand sale, or 500,000 more than usual.

Copter Fails to Halt Antelope Damage

FARMINGTON, N.M. (AP) — A herd of 30 antelope has been causing damage to wheat fields and orchards in the Farmington area.

The New Mexico Department of Game and Fish decided last week to use a helicopter to frighten the antelope into pens so they could be transported further east.

The fleet-footed antelope largely ignored the helicopter and still are on the range. The reason: their present range is close to the Farmington airport and they are used to low-flying aircraft, game officials explained.

Bandits Make Run on Bank

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Wednesday was a bad day for the U.S. National Bank in the Lennox District of Los Angeles.

Police said a gunman made off with $1,795 during a holdup shortly before noon. Three hours later, another gunman made off with $12,030.

VP Predicts Relaxing of Trade Curbs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey says President Johnson believes the cold war is over. Humphrey predicts Congress will respond by lowering East-West trade barriers.

Although there is strong opposition in Congress to relaxing restrictions with countries which oppose the American course in Vietnam, Humphrey said in an interview he believes members are in a mood to "face up to changing world conditions."

"Internationally, the President is cutting some new ground with his call for passage of an East-West trade bill and his request for ratification of the consular convention with the Soviets," Humphrey said. "I believe that both of these should and will be approved."

"I know that, as far as he is concerned, the cold war is over and he is looking ahead to an era of international cooperation which could lead to a lasting peace."

BEEN APPROVED

The consular convention, by which the Soviet Union and the United States would establish additional diplomatic stations on each other's territory, already has been approved by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. But it was put in cold storage after FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover criticized it as being likely to offer the Soviets increased opportunities for espionage.

Humphrey said that in his State of the Union message Johnson was "offering the truth" to the American people that the Vietnam war is likely to be long, difficult and costly and that "no one can predict when victory will come."

Criticizing those he said think there can be any "instant peace," Humphrey said that there is none in sight.

"But the people can be sure the President will pursue every avenue of peace," he said.

Girl's Sneezes Now Lessened

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A high school girl whose once-constant sneezing brought counsel from all over the country is now feeling fine, she said today.

Brown-haired June Clark, 18, still sneezes and doctors still don't know why. However, she said she kerchoos only once every half hour or so and does it lightly.

Her present condition is in happy contrast to a siege of more than 150 days, about a year ago, when the girl's 128-pound body was wracked about every four minutes in waking hours by a sneeze.

Her head and chest ached, breathing and eating were difficult and she suffered nausea and muscle spasms. More than once she was hospitalized. Scores of remedies were tried and many more considered.

SHOCK TREATMENT

Then a psychologist rigged up an apparatus that gave June a mild but unpleasant electric shock each time she sneezed. The shocks apparently inhibited nerves which were triggering the sneezes, and the girl's sneezing rates dropped dramatically.

"I still take a treatment once a week," the Carol City High School junior said, "but now the treatment only involves a couple of shocks."

Barnes Will Attend Washington Talks

Clarence E. Barnes, executive director of the Pontiac Area Urban League, will be one of 76 Urban League officials attending a national conference in Washington, D. C., next week.

Chief topics of the meeting, according to Barnes, will be health, housing, labor, welfare and education as those issues concern the league.

Barnes is scheduled to leave for the conference Sunday.

Findings and statements resulting from the meeting will be relayed by Barnes to local league officials upon his return.

CHOCOLATE CHIFFON PIE—Sounds intricate, but the preparation for Chocolate Chiffon Pie is simple. High, light and handsome fillings are easy when the whip is of evaporated milk. And the taste is extra delicious when the flavor is made chocolate-y good with cocoa.

One Whole Can of Milk Enriches Chiffon Pie

The mystery of chiffon pie is dispelled with a simple-to-follow recipe. Chocolate Chiffon Pie, a favorite for flavor and for elegance, is a cinch to prepare and inexpensive with our favorite recipe procedure. It features cocoa for true chocolate flavor and evaporated milk for extra-creamy consistency.

A little gelatin is a magic ingredient for making the base of a chiffon pie. It is "softened" first in cold water, then cooked for about five minutes with cocoa and sugar and salt for seasoning.

One whole cup of evaporated milk is stirred in and then the mixture is chilled. To insure the creamiest of chiffon fillings, even more evaporated milk is whipped into the thickened chocolate base.

With evaporated milk, the whole milk concentrate, nearly a quart of milk value is in this family-sized pie. It makes the dessert not just good to eat but absolutely good for you.

Chocolate Chiffon Pie
9-inch crumb or baked pastry crust
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
½ cup sugar
¼ cup cocoa
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cups evaporated milk (1 tall can)
1 tablespoon vanilla
Have crumb or baked pastry crust ready.

Soften in a 1-quart saucepan gelatin in water. Stir in sugar, cocoa and salt. Stir over medium heat until gelatin dissolves completely, about 5 minutes. Take off heat.

Stir in 1 cup evaporated milk. Chill in small bowl of electric mixer (or 1½-quart bowl) until firm. Beat with electric mixer at low speed until mixture is broken up.

Beat in ¾ cup evaporated milk and vanilla. Beat at high speed until mixture fills bowl. Let stand a few minutes, or until mixture mounds when dropped from a spoon. Heap in to crust.

Top with shaved chocolate. Chill until firm, about 1 hour.

Ground Fish Is Part of Baked Creamy Mold

A delicate fish dish from the Scandinavian cuisine is baked in a mold.

Hot Fish Mold

Prepared Fish (see below)
5 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon white pepper
2 eggs, separated
1 pint light cream
¼ cup fine dry bread crumbs
Mix the Prepared Fish with the flour, salt and pepper. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon color; stir into fish mixture; gradually beat in cream. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold in.

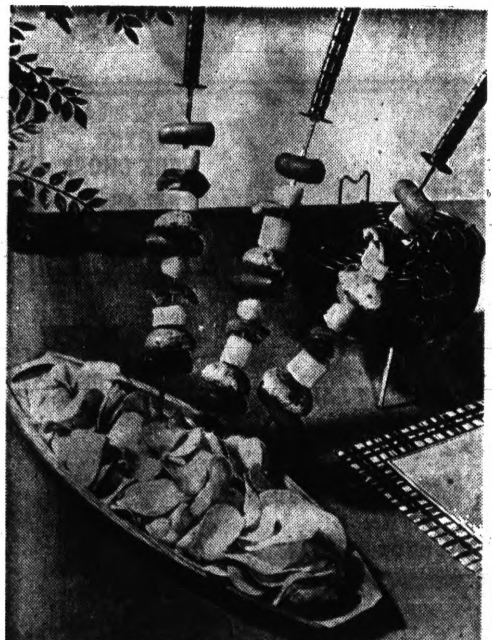

Turn into a 5-cup fish-shape ceramic mold that has been buttered and sprinkled with the crumbs; cover tightly with foil. Bake in a pan of hot water (coming ¾ way up mold) in a moderate (350 degrees) oven for 1 hour or until silver knife inserted in center comes out clean.

Let stand about 5 minutes; turn out. Makes 6 servings.

Prepared Fish: Coarsely grind 1 pound fish fillets twice; then finely grind twice, putting ¼ cup butter through with fish the last time.

Good on Egg Salad

Add minced chives, sweet gherkins, pimiento and parsley to oil-and-vinegar dressing; serve over halves of hard-cooked eggs and lettuce for a luncheon salad.

COCKTAIL TIDBITS—Home entertaining comes into full swing with the beginning of fall. A popular trend the last few years has been "partying" around the charcoal grill. Deliciously grilled tidbits or kabobs score big at cocktail parties. They are easily prepared on a hibachi that is placed in a well ventilated area. Allow one skewer per guest for simple and neat serving. Thread onto the skewers repeatedly a small cocktail frank, mushroom, banana slice, green pepper wedge and pineapple chunk. Then roast them to perfection over wood charcoal briquets until the flavors blend. Served with potato chips and refreshments, they are certain to win thoughtful hostesses the first toast.

Canned or Fresh Pears Aid Winter Menus

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor
We just aren't eating enough canned pears to satisfy the pear growers. They think American cooks don't properly appreciate their product.

Canned pears with perhaps a cookie make an acceptable dessert. But if you want one that's a little fancier, try this one.

There's a surprise ingredient in the sauce.

Angostura Pears and Ice Cream
1 teaspoon cornstarch
Grated rind of 1/2 orange
1/2 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
1/2 cup orange juice
2 tablespoons butter
2 teaspoons Angostura aromatic bitters
8 canned pear halves, drained
1 1/2 pints vanilla ice cream

Combine cornstarch, orange rind, brown sugar, ginger, orange juice, butter and Angostura. Simmer until butter melts. Add pear halves and turn them in syrup until they are hot and well coated.

Spoon warm sauce and pear halves over scoops of ice cream. Yield: 4 servings.

GRAPE PEAR TREAT
Pastry
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup sugar
1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour, unsifted
Dash salt
1 egg, beaten
3/4 teaspoon grated lemon rind
Topping
1 cup Concord grape jelly
3 large pears, poached* or 6 canned pear halves
Whipped cream

Cream butter and sugar. Add flour and salt, mixing with fork until stiff dough forms.

Press into an 8-inch flan pan or spring form pan. Build short ridge around sides to hold filling.

Bake in 375 degree oven for 15 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from oven and place on plate, ridged side up.

Spread Concord grape jelly over pastry to edge of built-in cream and fold into the slaw.

down, on filling. Chill. Decorate with whipped cream, using decorating tube. Serves: 8.

Directions for Poaching Pears: Peel and halve 3 large pears. Sprinkle with lemon juice. In skillet combine 1 cup of sugar, 1 cup of water and the lemon rind of a half lemon. Bring mixture to boiling point. Arrange pear halves, cut side down, in syrup; cover and simmer for 20 minutes or until pears are tender.

Marinated pears make a delicious accompaniment for turkey, chicken or ham.

PEAR GARNISH
1 (1-lb., 13-oz.) can Bartlett pear halves
1/2 cup vinegar
1/4 cup sugar
1 tablespoon pickling spices

Sour Cream Gives Tender Texture

Everyone will want to get up for these biscuits.

Puffy Biscuits
2 cups unsifted regular flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon each baking soda and salt
1/2 cup wheat germ
6 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 large eggs, beaten until thick and ivory color
3/4 cup commercial sour cream

In a mixing bowl, thoroughly stir together the flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt; stir in wheat germ.

With a pastry blender, cut in butter until particles are fine. Beat thickly-beaten eggs with sour cream to blend; add to flour mixture; with a fork, stir until dry ingredients are moistened.

Drop into muffin pans — 1/2-cup capacity — filling almost to top. Bake in a very hot (450 degrees) oven until lightly browned — about 20 minutes. Serve hot. Makes 12.

Better Cole Slaw

For an absolutely delicious cole slaw, season the shredded cabbage with sugar, lemon juice, salt, pepper and a suspension of mustard; then whip cream and fold into the slaw.

1/2 cup dairy sour cream
1 tablespoon capers
2 tablespoons diced pimiento
2 tablespoons snipped chives
Drain pear halves, placing syrup in saucepan. Add vinegar, sugar and pickling spices to pear syrup and simmer 5 minutes. Add pear halves and simmer 5 minutes longer. Chill pears in pickling syrup.

To serve, drain pears and place cut side up on serving platter. Combine sour cream, capers and 1 tablespoon pickling syrup. Spoon sour cream into center of pear halves and sprinkle with pimiento and chives. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

The original of the following salad recipe calls for fresh pears. It can be made as well with canned ones. Fresh or canned, pears are a delightful fruit all year.

PEAR ROQUEFORT SALAD
4 fresh pears or 8 canned pear halves
Lemon juice
1/2 pound grapes
1/4 cup crumbled Roquefort cheese
Crisp salad greens

Halve and core pears. Sprinkle cut sides with lemon juice. Arrange with grapes on crisp salad greens on 4 individual salad plates. Fill centers of pear halves with crumbled Roquefort cheese. Serve with ginger cream dressing. Makes 4 servings.

Shred Carrots for Loaf Cake That's Different

Some cooks want a small version of popular carrot cake.

Carrot Loaf
1 1/2 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon each baking powder, baking soda and cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup raisins
1/4 cup coarsely chopped pecans
1 cup sugar
2 1/2 cup corn oil
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs
1 1/2 cups finely shredded (about 3 medium) raw carrots

On wax paper, sift together the flour, baking powder, baking soda, cinnamon and salt. On another piece of wax paper, toss the raisins and pecans with 2 tablespoons of the sifted ingredients.

Mix sugar and corn oil; thoroughly beat in eggs, one at a time. Add sifted ingredients alternately with carrots, about one-third at a time, blending just until smooth after each addition. Stir in raisin-pecan mixture.

Turn into greased loaf pan (8 1/2 by 4 1/2 by 2 1/2 inches). Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven 60 to 70 minutes or until cake tests done. Cool in pan for 10 minutes before turning out on wire rack.

Cinnamon Is Favorite Baking Spice

Of all the sugar-'n'-spice that's nice, cinnamon must surely be the very nicest because it's the most popular among sweet baking spices.

Most kaffee klatsch goodies are fragrant with cinnamon: coffee cake, cinnamon buns, doughnuts dusted with sugar and cinnamon, spice cake, etc.

Cinnamomum Cassia, known in the spice trade merely as "cassia," is the bark most commonly sold in this country as cinnamon. It has been growing, for thousands of years, in China, Indo-China and Indonesia and may well have been the first spice used by man.

Cinnamon is harvested by stripping the bark from young trees. The cinnamon tree, incidentally, is related to the laurel. Once the bark's been stripped from the trees it is rolled into quills — the trade name for cinnamon sticks — to make it more resistant to breakage, easier to ship.

Broken quills are sold as "chips" and are usually ground or find their way into mixed pickling spices.

Cinnamon Roll, anybody? Or, a slice of buttered Cinnamon Yeast Loaf? Or, a light-as-air Cinnamon Doughnut with a second cup of coffee? Delicious, each and every one, the recipes were perfected by the test kitchens of the American Spice Trade Association.

Cinnamon Yeast Loaf

1 1/4-ounce package yeast roll mix
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon

Make yeast dough according to directions on package. Roll dough 1/2-inch thick in a 9x14-inch rectangle. Brush with melted butter or margarine.

Combine sugar and cinnamon and sprinkle over the top. Roll up in jelly-roll fashion, starting at the long side (14-inch side) of dough. Place in a greased 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Brush top with melted butter or margarine.

Cover and let rise in a warm place (80 to 85 degrees) until double in size. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (375 degrees) 40 minutes. Yield: One 9-inch loaf.

Quick Cinnamon Rolls: Roll the above dough 1/2-inch thick on a lightly floured board. Brush with 3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine. Mix 1/4 cup sugar with 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon and sprinkle over the top. Roll up dough in jelly-roll fashion.

Cut into slices 1/2-inch thick. Place on baking sheet and bake as directed on the package. Yield: 20 rolls.

Cinnamon Coffee Ring

Yams, Apples Into Casserole

Homemakers often ask if Louisiana yams should be pared before boiling. The answer is no. Not only do you save time, but all of the nutrients and rich natural sugars are found beneath the skin of the yam.

These sugars give Louisiana yams a flavor unlike any other sweet potatoes. And they are especially mellow and sweet after curing . . . a process whereby the yams are kept in kilns under controlled temperatures to develop them to perfection.

During Louisiana Yam Supper Season . . . January, February and March . . . when fresh cured yams are in the markets, how about making up some new yam-ham dishes?

Of course, if you're in a hurry some night you can broil a ham steak and whip up some instant yam flakes to accompany it.

Or, pop a package of frozen candied yams into the oven to serve with cold sliced ham. Both products are descendants of the fresh yam and have the same fine qualities.

Louisiana Yams and Apple Scallop

6 medium yams, cooked, peeled and sliced
4 tart apples, cored and sliced
1/4 cup soft butter or margarine
1/2 teaspoon grated orange peel
1/4 teaspoon allspice
1/2 cup apple juice

Arrange yams and apples in greased, shallow 1-quart casserole. Mix together butter and orange peel; dot yams and apples with butter mixture. Stir allspice into apple juice; pour over yams and apples.

Cover and bake in 350 degree (moderate) oven 30 minutes. Uncover and bake 15 minutes longer, basting occasionally.

YAM-APPLE SCALLOP — Scalloped Louisiana yams with apples, orange peel and spice are an excellent accompaniment to ham. Add a salad of greens tossed with a simple vinegar-oil dressing, and a wonderful meal is yours.

Long Skinny Sandwich Feast for Hungry Skiers

Canned California ripe olives for the apres ski crowd come by the foot in sandwiches that look like skis. Find the longest, skinniest loaf of French bread; slice it in half lengthwise and scoop out the insides.

The hearty filling is a combination of ripe olives, chopped pastrami and cream cheese with a bit of horseradish for pizzazz. Put a racing stripe down each "ski" with a row of shiny ripe olive halves.

Guests serve themselves by slicing off an inch, or foot as the case may be. The good filling is an easy one to multiply if you want to make sandwiches by the yard.

Big beautiful ripe olives in a chafing dish make hot nibbles for cold snow bunnies. Just combine undrained ripe olives with a little olive oil and a dash of garlic powder. Then light up the chafing dish and watch them disappear.

Ripe Olive Apres Ski Sandwich

1 (8-oz.) package cream cheese
1/4 cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon prepared horseradish
1 (No. 1) tall can pitted ripe olives
1/4 pound pastrami
1 (15-oz.) loaf French bread
Butter

Blend softened cheese with mayonnaise and horseradish. Mix in ripe olives cut into pieces and chopped pastrami. Cut French bread in half lengthwise. Pull out part of soft center. Spread hollowed out surfaces with butter; fill with ripe olive mixture. Garnish as desired with ripe

Sauteed Apples

Slice unpared apples directly into a skillet with 2 tablespoons melted butter. Saute until browned. Turn once, cover slices with a little honey and 4 tablespoons Sherry; cook until done and — yum!

OLIVE SKI SANDWICH — Park your skis, hang up your sweater and dig into this elongated sandwich. Cream cheese, pastrami and ripe olives make it something special.

Now Breakfast at School

Hot school lunches are known to many. Now many schools will be serving breakfasts, too. It's part of the Child Nutrition Act of 1966 recently signed by President Johnson.

While lunch at school is available to almost three-fourths of all children enrolled in elementary and secondary schools, some major gaps remain. This new act is designed to help close them.

The major feature of the Act will be the provision of breakfast for children who arrive at school hungry. Cooperative Extension Service nutritionists say.

The Act will also help finance basic food service equipment for schools which presently can't afford it. In the past, states have borne the full costs of such programs. Now administrative funds will be provided.

Many pre-school children are enrolled in school-related activities. However, they have not been able to take part in the National School Lunch Program. Under the new act, assistance will be provided for them, too.

The Special Milk Program, which expires next June 30, will also continue another three years under the Child Nutrition Act of 1966.

2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/4 cup diced glace fruit or raisins
Make yeast dough according to recipe on the package. Roll dough 1/4-inch thick in an 8x8-inch rectangle. Spread surface with melted butter or margarine.

Combine sugar and cinnamon and sprinkle over the top within 1/2-inch of the edges, over which sprinkle with glace fruit or raisins. Roll up in jelly-roll fashion, starting at the long side (18-inch side) of dough.

Place in a greased 9-inch ring mold, pinching ends together. Let rise in a warm place (80 to 85 degrees) until double in size.

Bake in a preheated moderate oven (375 degrees) 35 minutes or until done. If desired, brush top with melted butter or margarine and sprinkle with additional diced mixed glace fruit. Yield: One 9-inch ring.

Cinnamon Biscuit Coffee Ring
2 packages unbaked biscuit
1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted
1/2 cup sugar

1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
Dip each unbaked biscuit in melted butter or margarine and then into the sugar mixed with cinnamon. Stand up in a well-buttered 8-inch ring mold until mold is filled. Bake in a preheated hot oven (400 degrees) 30 minutes or until brown. Yield: One 8-inch ring.

Cinnamon Clover Leaf Biscuit: Roll each unbaked biscuit into a ball. Dip in melted butter or margarine and then into cinnamon-sugar. Place 3 in each buttered cup cake pan. Bake in a preheated hot oven (425 degrees) 15 minutes or until browned.

Cinnamon Doughnuts: Roll baked doughnuts in melted butter or margarine and then into cinnamon sugar, using 1/4 cup sugar to 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon.

Here is a hand from the "Ace of Spies" which shows how declarer can make a defender's trick disappear into thin air.

JACOBY

No! My hand doesn't rate that much action but for all I know I might be preempting my opponents out of a good save.

"It looks like four losers off the top and it would have been if West had opened a club but West led a heart. East cashed his ace and king and led a third heart. Edna ruffed with the ace of trumps and played two rounds of trumps to wind up in dummy."

"Then she led a low diamond from dummy. This was cuter than a litter of Great Danes. East was gaffed and he knew it. He happened to be one of our big name players but that didn't help him any. He squinted and counted but he couldn't wriggle off the hook. You see it, of course. If Edna had taken a premature discard on the jack of hearts before leading that diamond, East could have handled the situation with surgical precision and Edna would have been down one."

"But this way — if he hopped up with the diamond ace it would establish the diamond queen for an eventual home for dummy's losing club. East finally decided to take his fixing the other way and played a low diamond. Edna won with the queen, reentered dummy with a trump, discarded a diamond on the heart jack and called for the king of diamonds.

"East took his ace and sadly returned his cards to the board. He'd have to give her a ruff-sluff or a free finesse in clubs — a triumph for the placid in spirit; but it was also a little monument to those of us who maintain that bridge can be taught."

Rural Highway Upkeep Listed

LANSING (UP) — The State Highway Commission reported yesterday that it spent $20.2 million last year on upkeep of state highways in rural areas.

The per mile cost averaged $1,720, which was $140 per mile less than it cost to maintain Michigan's rural highways in 1965.

The total expenditure in 1966 was $600,000 less than in 1965.

The major reason for the decrease in maintenance costs was the reduction in the amount of money spent for snow removal, said State Highway Director Howard E. Hill.

Hill said the department spent $5.4 million for snow and ice removal, the most expensive single program in the rural highway maintenance program.

An additional $2.3 million was shelled out for upkeep of state highways that pass through incorporated cities and villages.

Bill Would Give Equal Rights to Shoot Paramours

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Rep. Bob Bass says he will introduce a bill in the Texas Legislature giving a wife the right to shoot her husband's paramours if caught in adultery.

Husbands in Texas have the right to shoot in a comparable situation.

"The women wanted to repeal the paramour law altogether, but I want to leave a man the right to protect his home," Bass said.

"This just gives them equal shooting rights, that's all."

Orion Overrules Planners, OKs Apartment Zoning Bid

ORION TOWNSHIP — The way was cleared for the construction of apartments immediately east of Lake Orion Senior High School by the Township Board last night.

In a split vote the board overruled the recommendation of its planning commission that the apartments be denied.

The apartments are planned for the Markwood property on 36.79 acres on Scripps Road. The land abuts on its easterly edge some 115 acres on which the State of Michigan holds an option.

The purchase is reportedly contemplated as an addition to the Bald Mountain Recreational Area.

The common use of apartments as buffers between industrial and residential zoning came in for some comment by board members and by Richard Beer, planning commission chairman.

Beer, who advised against the zoning, nevertheless stated, "Our multiple concepts are bound to change. Where we use them almost wholly on 'transitional' property now, the time will come when apartments will be intermingled with homes on the best residential property.

"Multiples are a new way of living, and if all our population studies are correct, we will have to drastically change our concepts in planning. Land will be at a premium in the next 10 years," he said.

Arguing against the apartments were Trustee Scherly Green, who in the absence of Supervisor John Lessiter presided at the meeting, and Trustee Dale Spear.

Both said that overriding the planning commission — and the intended master zoning plan it has prepared — could set a bad precedent for future zoning. Mention of increased traffic at the M24-Scripps intersection was also made.

Those in favor of the zoning said the apartments would provide a buffer between the school and the future park land — or whatever would go in there should the state drop its option.

OTHER BUSINESS

The way was cleared for a gas station on Baldwin at I-75; approval was given for the commercial operation of Keatington Subdivision's "Antique Village" on some 15 acres on Joslyn; and the board affirmed its denial of trailer courts.

In other business the board discussed regulations for a heating and plumbing ordinance which would require the examination and licensing of contractors.

The board okayed the $66 jump in prices for payment of two Oakland County Sheriff's deputies to patrol the township. The bill now runs $1,166 per month.

An okay was also given for the repair and redecoration of areas in the township hall.

Kenneth Parsons was named to the township Board of Review replacing James Haddrill.

for one year. Haddrill said he would be in Peru while the board met.

APPOINTED

Earl Koontz of Perry Acres was announced by Beer as the new member of the township's zoning board of appeals.

Tabled for further study was the recommendation of the planning group to raise rezoning application fees from $20 to $300.

The contemplated raise in fees, Beer said, would put the commission on more of a self-paying basis, but board members feared it would constrict individual property owners.

Troy School Crisis

Committee to Tackle Deficit

TROY — A citizens' committee will be asked to help the board of education solve a financial crisis that is expected to put the schools deeply in the red by the end of the fiscal year, June 30.

Schools Supt. Dr. Rex B. Smith said the deficit could reach more than $300,000 by that time. He was empowered by the board of education at Monday's meeting to seek membership for the committee.

Dr. Smith said he will send letters to community groups asking for volunteers to form the committee.

He said he will go to parent-teacher organizations, churches, civic groups, etc., and ask them to send representatives. A membership of 25 to 30 interested persons is desired.

The committee will be asked to study the following:

- Enrollment projections.
- Next phase of the five-year construction program.
- Placement of ninth-grade classes.
- Finances.

Teacher Named to Art Group

ROCHESTER — Mrs. Dorothy Whipple, head of the elementary art department of the Rochester Community Schools, has been named to serve a year on the Michigan Art Education Association.

The committee, known as MAEA — DCT Creative Art Workshop, will direct its efforts and interest toward helping classroom teachers in systems where little or no professional art help is offered.

Milford Twp. Okays Study

MILFORD TOWNSHIP — A land use study of S. Milford Road will soon be undertaken as the result of Township Board action Tuesday night.

The board approved the recommendation of its planning commission that the township underwrite the cost of the study while its application for a state and federal planning grant is pending.

Parkins, Rogers and Associates will study the area around S. Milford Road from the village limits to the township limits as it approaches New Hudson.

The board has applied for a two-year federal grant of $11,200 under the Urban Planning Assistance Program.

PTA Meeting Features Panel

ROCHESTER — A panel led by Ronald Kevern, principal, is expected to promote teacher-parent understanding at the McGregor PTA meeting at 8 p.m. Monday (Jan. 16).

Appearing on the panel will be Jean Lilly, Mrs. Ruth Putnam, Mrs. Lois Thompson, Mrs. Charles Edie and Donald Fairchild.

Refreshments will be served.

Teen Planners at Work on Avon Twp. Activities

AVON TOWNSHIP — A program of action to provide varied teen activities got a boost last night with selection of two Rochester Senior High School students to head off the planning phase.

Selected as chairmen were Christine Corbin, 622 S. Fieldstone, and Allen Chamberlin, 1801 N. Rochester.

The two planned to institute a question box at the school in the next week to learn students' reactions to a proposed program.

Contemplated is a room where students can tutor other students, an activities' room, and a program that will include such items as swim parties, barbecues and bike hikes as well as dances.

Deadline set by the group for institution of the teen center is summer.

Teen Club Opens Soon

'Limberlost' Near in Addison Twp.

By JEAN SAILE
ADDISON TOWNSHIP — The name "Limberlost" had a poignant appeal for the mothers of the present younger generation — and if expectations come true it's going to have quite an impact on their daughters.

Only now it's a swinging, plush teen-type nightclub set among the tall pines and maples at 130 Army, Addison Township.

"And what was the 'Limberlost'?" the present generation of teenyboppers might ask.

It was the tall woods setting for a book called "Girl of the Limberlost" by Gene Stratton Porter, and today's grownups used to sit and wipe a surreptitious tear from the eye as they read.

Today's kids are going to have a much more active time of it in the "Limberlost."

PRECAUTIONS

But from the looks of plans and precautions taken by Ernest D. Cotter, the owner, chances are they'll be every bit as safe.

Cotter's idea — now almost complete and only awaiting final advisement from the Oakland County Coordinating Zoning and Planning Committee — is to give kids 16-20 years of age the kind of setting that appeals to adults.

A businessman first of all, Cotter is president of River Electric Co. in Detroit — a wholesale electrical supply house.

He was hunting for land to build a warehouse when first attracted to Addison Township and eventually wound up buying two pieces of property — neither of which yet holds a warehouse.

OLD BARN

One of the pieces, however, had a huge old barn which intrigued Cotter from the first.

He reported he thought of it in terms of apartments and many other uses, despite the fact that at the time he acquired it, it quite evidently had been the home of chickens, cows and assorted animals.

A trip to Prudenville to the youth club there decided Cotter, and since that time he and River Electric Co. are some $60,000 lighter in negotiable funds.

and the results are spectacular.

Cotter is a proud and happy man as he shows guests through the "briefing room" (where drinkers will be discovered and turned away) — on into the commodious lounge and restaurant area — past a check room, a full time stainless steel kitchen — and up the wide stairway to a danceloft spectacular in its proportions.

It's the kind of place that could bring back the big name bands.

The vaulted ceiling rises high over a bandstand and a disc jockey perch above that. A professional turntable already installed will spin records when bands aren't beating out their own versions of today's classic sounds.

The dance floor is 100 feet long by 30 feet wide. It's lined with wooden high-back benches and features a balcony patio with a tremendous view of the surrounding country.

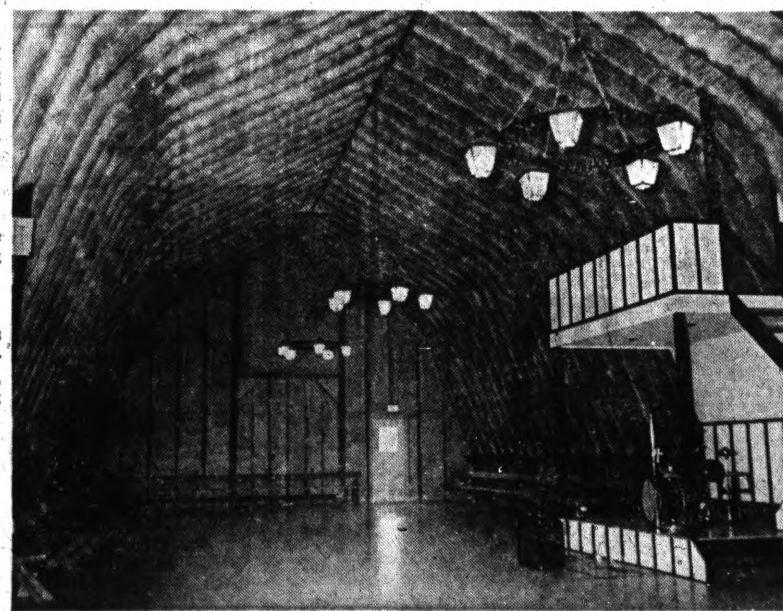

SKATING RINK

At this time of year it looks down over an outdoor skating rink about 170x80 feet and over parking area which will soon be able to accommodate up to 400 cars.

Cotter says he's going to charge a membership to the club — $1.50 a year — and all proceeds will go to the Florence Cotter scholarship fund — a memorial to his late first wife.

It's Cotter's intention that the club be used by service clubs, churches and various other groups during the week. There are meeting rooms for that purpose.

What he really hopes is that the "Limberlost" will become an integral part of the community, and that it will be looked on as an asset to today's young generation.

'Limberlost' Dance Floor Is A Big One

Ruling Upheld on Trailer Park

Decision Affirmed on Oxford Twp. Vote

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — There'll be no third trailer park in the township for a while at least, township trustees learned last night.

They were informed that the Michigan Court of Appeals has upheld a decision by Circuit Court Judge Arthur E. Moore regarding the legality of a referendum to deny such zoning.

The case in question involves 55 acres west of Oxford on Mitchum Lake. The land was purchased by Pontiac attorney Anthony Renne some two years ago.

Renne applied to the Township Board for rezoning for a trailer park and received approval 3-2. The people then petitioned for a referendum and voted not to allow the trailers by a margin of about 10-1.

Renne contended in his court pursuit of an altered decision that the election was unconstitutional according to the State Constitution.

NO BASIS

Moore found no basis for the contention and now the appellate court has upheld his decision.

The Township Board was informed last night that dredging operations in the Davis-Park-Tan Lakes area have been vetoed by the State Conservation Department; and that Park Lake Development Co. and Davis Lake Highlands has been so informed.

The two subdivisions had proposed to dredge lagoons to make lake lots out of now landlocked parcels.

Petitions are now being circulated in the Davis Lake Highlands Subdivision for the purpose of annexing to the Village of Oxford.

The board decided to conduct a special meeting within the next few days to cast a decision on the dump problem.

FEE INCREASE

Bushman Disposal Co. which picks up the township trash informed the board that as a result of higher dump standards required by new state legislation, the fee will be raised from $1,800 to $4,800 a year.

The money would include some $400 a month for the privilege of individual use of the dump.

The board decided costs were too high to consider paving of a half mile of Pontiac Road in front of the Oxford Senior High School.

The county's estimate on the job was $46,000, according to Supervisor Lee Valentine, of which the township would be expected to pay half.

For Wolverine Lake

Administrator Named

WOLVERINE LAKE — For the first time since its incorporation in 1954, the village has a chief administrative officer.

Clifford Cottrell, who has been associated with the village government from the beginning, was named to the new position.

Cottrell, 52, of 1030 Wakito,

has served as road commissioner and building inspector for the past year and a half.

He was the first village president in 1954-55 and served as councilman from 1954 to 1958.

"I feel the council has made a great stride forward in naming an administrator," said Cottrell, explaining that the charter made provisions for such a position when it was needed.

POSITION 'NECESSARY'

In his new position, which he says is "strictly free gratis," Cottrell will oversee all departments, much as a village manager.

He explained that the new position was deemed necessary because the village is getting to the size where it needed someone to coordinate activities.

Extensive building is either going on or being contemplated including a new 14-building apartment development, the largest in the village, approved by the council Tuesday night.

The new development, which will include a shopping center and a recreation area, will be located at Benstein and Glen-gary.

OTHER ACTION

In other action Tuesday night, the village council members voted to pay themselves for council meeting duty.

The charter amendment, which will take effect April 10, grants $12.50 for each attended meeting.

Members presently receive $1 a year.

The council also decided to rent two voting machines from Commerce Township to help avoid confusion at election time.

They will be used for the first time at the April election. In the past village residents have voted by paper ballot.

Educator Questions Vocational Needs

WALLED LAKE — Several school officials will attend an Oakland County School Boards Association meeting in Clawson tonight with reservations about the topic to be discussed.

The purpose of the meeting is to review the work and recommendations of the various vocational education committees that have been preparing reports on areawide vocational high schools in Oakland County.

Schools Supt. George Garver expressed doubts about carrying through with the proposed project without first resolving a lot of problems.

"Vocational education is a good idea," he said, "but there are many problems connected with this and many things we need to know."

He said he was "hard pressed" to find where an areawide vocational high school had been a success.

SEEN EXPENSIVE

He also said vocational educational schools are expensive to operate and might be a drain financially.

Community colleges were set up to provide vocational education, he said, and an area school, such as that which is proposed, might imply that they are not doing their job.

"I want to be thoroughly set on where we're going financially," he said. "We don't have enough information yet to go to the people and ask for additional millage."

The tentative proposal includes establishment of four voational schools in widely separated parts of the county.

OWNERSHIP

The facilities would be owned by Oakland Schools, but operated by the district in which they are located.

State legislation is being sought which would permit the intermediate district to operate vocational schools as it does special education programs.

A county millage, such as that for special education, is proposed.

The vocational program would include vocational, pretechnical and technical curricula.

SHARED-TIME

Classes would be conducted on a shared-time basis with a student's own school district which would provide his general educational courses, student personnel services and extracurricular services.

In other business Monday night, the board tabled action on a resolution to become a member of the Committee of One Hundred.

Local governments in southeastern Michigan are being asked to approve a proposal for a voluntary council of governments which would "foster cooperation in resolving problems, policies and plans that are common and regional."

Reception Is Today

DAVISBURG — A reception for Mrs. Lee Walz, president of the Oakland County Association, will be held beginning 5:30 p.m. today by the Austin Chapter No. 396, OES.

Avon Players 'Never Too Late'

AVON TOWNSHIP — A smash Broadway play comes to life in Rochester when the Avon Players present their latest production, "Never Too Late."

Slated for Jan. 19-22 and 26-28, the play provides a side-splitting portrait of a married man in his 50's who finds difficulty in realizing he is to become a father again.

His heretofore meek wife puts her foot down and demands a nursery, new plumbing, and her own checking account.

Carole Holderness is the pampered 20-year-old daughter who teaches her mother a few tricks learned from her own marriage to Jim Newell.

COST

Others in the cast are Jarvis Lamb, Skip McCully, Irma Palmgren, Al Szeszesny and Jim McCarthy.

Perry Marlette, a newcomer to Players last seen in "Stalag 17," will direct the comedy. Marilyn Flanagan is producer and Rosemary Jackson, assistant director.

The Players Box Office at 100 E. University will be open from 10-12 a.m. and 3-5 p.m. every Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Students may purchase tickets at the door for the Thursday night performance at special reduced rates.

Meeting Set in Pool Drive

MILFORD — A meeting for Huron Valley School District citizens interested in working on a campaign to promote a swimming pool at Milford High School will be held at 8 p.m. Monday at the school.

Residents are being asked to help inform the public about the bond issue for the pool slated for a vote on Feb. 25.

A $650,000 bond issue for a pool was turned down by voters 1,357 to 1,173 last June.

School officials felt that because the vote failed by a narrow margin it should be resubmitted to the electorate.

Approval of the issue would not increase taxes, according to authorities.

The pool would be available for use by the entire community.

Shelby Official Eyed for Post

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — Supervisor Morin Evans is almost assured of a job when his term of office expires next April 1.

Following the resignation of Macomb County Federal Aid Coordinator Daniel Cosmecco this week, the Macomb County Board of Supervisors legislative committee immediately named Evans to the post.

His appointment must still be confirmed by the whole board.

THREE TERMS

While also serving as a member of the county legislative committee, Evans is a past vice chairman of the board of supervisors and was president of the county Township Supervisors' Association.

He served three terms as Shelby supervisor.

Cosmecco, a Mount Clemens attorney, said he was resigning due to "personal reasons."

The resignation came allegedly as a surprise to the committee. Cosmecco had held the job only a year since its creation by the county board.

Ortonville Pair at Farm Confab

ORTONVILLE — Mr. and Mrs. James Vantine of 490 Hadley were among 100 farm families to attend the Young Farmer's Conference in Lansing last week.

The group studied legislation and marketing and took tours at the three-day meeting sponsored by the Michigan Farm Bureau.

NATHAN E. CHATMON

Pontiac Man War Casualty

Spec. 4 Nathan E. Chatmon of Pontiac was killed Monday, while on a goodwill mission near Saigon in Vietnam. Chatmon, 22, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Chatmon of 215 Rapid.

He was hit by a mine fragment and small arms fire while in a road clearing, according to his mother.

Chatmon was with the 18th Infantry. He had been in Vietnam for more than five months.

A Pontiac Central High School graduate, Chatmon was also an employee of GMC Truck and Coach Division before joining the Army.

Routine Case of 'Narco Cop' Is Nightmare

NEW YORK (UPI) — The biggest single purchaser of illegal drugs in New York City is the Narcotics Bureau of the Police Department.

Much of its yearly budget is allocated to buy heroin from pushers in dark alleys and dimly lighted hallways.

Usually the process is routine. A plainclothes agent makes a contact, purchases the heroin, makes the arrest.

It's the best way to obtain a conviction, and just about the only way to get through the pusher, usually an addict himself, to the big man, the distributor.

Usually it's routine. Edward Codelia has done it many times.

ALMOST FATAL
Wednesday night it almost cost his life.

Codelia purchased three decks of heroin from a pusher in a dingy tenement hallway in Spanish Harlem. He pocketed the heroin and the pusher pocketed the money, the signal for the arrest.

Suddenly, four armed thugs appeared from the darkness of the hallway and jumped Codelia.

One held a pistol to the detective's head, one thrust a knife to his stomach, the other two, also armed with knives, rifled his pockets and grabbed his billfold.

BECAME ENRAGED
"Narco cops" don't carry much money. They don't travel in the best circles. When the would-be robbers found just $10, they became enraged, Codelia said.

They kicked and pummeled him to the floor.

When Codelia screamed for help, the gunman took aim at his head and shouted, "This is for you, baby."

By this time Codelia had yanked his service revolver from under his clothing. He fired one shot. It traveled through the eye of the gunman, James Jennings, 40, and lodged in his brain, killing him instantly.

SECOND SHOT
Codelia fired a second shot at the closets knife-wielder. It struck Allen Speed, 27 in the heart and killed him.

The other two fled. Codelia fired a third time. The bullet struck Thomas Montague, 33, in the back, injuring him critically.

The last thug raced from the hall. Codelia followed him to the door and emptied his revolver into the night.

The man, believed wounded, was not immediately found.

Lani Bird 2 in Good Orbit for Transfer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Communications Satellite Corp. said today its newest spacecraft, Lani Bird 2, appears to be in a satisfactory transfer orbit.

The earth every 11 hours may place it in the proper position to be propelled into a synchronous orbit 22,300 miles above the earth at the equator.

At the proper time late Friday or Saturday the small apogee motor aboard the spacecraft will be fired to kick Lani into a velocity matching the rotational speed of the earth.

If this and other maneuvers succeed, Lani Bird will provide a communications link between North America and the Far East.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration launched the drum-shaped, 192-pound satellite, known officially as Intelsat II, from Cape Kennedy, Fla., early Wednesday.

'Eye Strike Laws'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Labor Committee's ranking Republican, Jacob Javits, N. Y. and Democrat, Wayne Morse, Ore., today called for a crash study of existing emergency strike laws and recommendations for improvement.

Trial Set in 8-Death Crash

WINDSOR, Ont. (UPI) — Marcel Le Francois, 32, will stand trial Feb. 15 in City Police Court on a charge of dangerous driving resulting from a tragic accident Dec. 21 in which eight schoolchildren died when his truck trailer toppled on their bus.

Le Francois was arraigned on the charge yesterday in Windsor Magistrate's Court on the charge, equivalent to reckless driving in the U.S.

Eight children died and 20 were injured on Windsor's outskirts when Le Francois' truck careened around a corner and dumped tons of sand on their school bus.

AIR LINK-UP — Members of the British Royal Air Force parachute team called the Falcons are about to complete a link of six during a free fall over North Africa recently. They're shown while falling at 120 miles per hour at a height between 12,000 and 8,000 feet. The six men, by completing the link-up, established a new British record. This picture was taken by a seventh free-fall parachutist.

Burttons Get Royal Welcome in Dahomey

COTONOU, Dahomey (AP) — Hoping to make a million dollars, the little West African Republic of Dahomey has made available the president's car and a presidential villa to Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor.

The Burttons, Sir Alec Guinness and Lillian Gish Wednesday began filming "The Comedians," Graham Greene's novel about contemporary Haiti under Dictator Francois Duvalier.

President Christophe Soglo took the four actors on a tour of his gaudy presidential palace and supplied his new black American car for Burton and his wife to ride about the capital. He also supplied the Burttons a luxurious, two-story villa built near the sea for visits of the president of the neighboring Ivory Coast.

The Burttons' retinue, with almost two tons of luggage, includes two hairdressers, two makeup men, a personal photographer and publicity woman, a majordomo named Gaston and two Pekinese dogs named Ofe and Enso.

Miss Taylor appeared at the villa Wednesday in tight white slacks with bell bottoms, a colorful African print belt and a blouse with an embroidered scoop neckline.

'Wild Duck' Play Sympathetic, Subdued

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Critic

NEW YORK (AP) — The case of the nose do-gooder, better known as "The Wild Duck," is examined anew in sympathetic, subdued style as the Broadway season's fourth exhibit by the Association of Producing Artists.

Lacking in the presentation which premiered Wednesday night at the Lyceum Theater, however, is that ultimate flash which can transform worthy endeavor into an exciting event.

The "crazy fancies" which drove Henrik Ibsen to his writing desk in 1884 have recurred so often since in the works of everyone from O'Neill to Pinter that vitality is thin even in Eva Le Gallienne's updating translation.

Clayton Corzatte and Donald Moffat, two APA mainstays, appear in the central roles of the puritanical reformer who insists upon truth in human relations at any price, and the fatuous dreamer whose amiable inertia is — at least temporarily — destroyed.

MARITAL DUPLICITY

Other main participants in this Norwegian saga of marital duplicity, parental hypocrisy and errant interference are Betty Miller, the wife who counters buffets with endless fortitude; Jennifer Harmon, a beguiling, gentle adolescent who ends the tragicomedy with a pistol shot; and Joseph Bird, whose mission is "fostering the basic lie that makes life possible."

Stephen Porter's direction is unobtrusively effective, and the James Tilton settings evoke the uncouth, gaslit salon splendor and chilly attic austerity where the coiled melodrama transpires.

In its dedication to revivals of such literary treasures as "The School for Scandal," "Right You Are" and now "The Wild Duck," the APA is showing admirable artistry. The company and public can soon forget "We, Comrades Three," a mischance soon to be dropped from the repertory display.

A refreshing change of pace, however, would be to have such a troupe come to grips with matters of wider, later variety than thus far dared.

OTHER CRITICS

What other press critics said: Walter Kerr, Times: "I wish I could tell you that the APA's production, as the production now stands, fully lived up to the canny preparation of its beginnings. It doesn't. Indeed, it is somewhat nervous about the complexities that follow, approaching the play's satirical hiss as though it were a very hot teakettle that had best be kept at a discreet distance."

Norman Nadel, World Journal Tribune: "Considering the difficulties of the drama — especially the ease with which it could become maudlin or melodramatic — the APA's achievement in staging it in a manner so straightforward and reasonable deserves special praise. This is Ibsen as it should be done."

John Chapman, Daily News: "(The Wild Duck) doesn't seem so wild for these times. It is indeed pretty much of a bore. (The) work has been respectfully staged but is now a dramatic curio."

Richard Watts Jr., Post: "Although it is rarely done, 'The Wild Duck' is an Ibsen masterpiece, and it is being presented with appreciative understanding and skill."

Couple Robbed

DETROIT (AP) — Benjamin Dotson, 42, manager of a Detroit apartment building, told police Wednesday two gunmen took between $500 and $600 from him in the apartment house earlier in the day after tying him and his wife, Barbara, 43,

Red China Film Pictures Mao as Infirm, Slow

BERLIN (AP) — Mao Tse-tung appeared infirm and slow in his movements in a five-month-old Communist Chinese film called "The Red Guards" which was shown at West Berlin's Free University Wednesday night.

The 45-minute color film of a rally in Peking last August was obtained from the Red Chinese Embassy in East Berlin. High points included speeches by Marshal Lin Biao, the defense minister and Mao's heir apparent, Premier Chou En-lai and some surprisingly candid close-ups of Mao.

Mao had good coloring but he appeared to be infirm. Often he was held by the arms as he walked up and down stairs.

Lin Biao looked fit as he read his speech, but Chou had a harried expression.

Students 'Rescue' Effigy of Reagan

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's effigy, instead of being hanged by his enemies, was torn limb from limb by his friends Wednesday.

A group of Sacramento State College students, bent on protest of possible tuition at state colleges, were fixing to string up the dummy.

Instead, a pro-Reagan student faction swooped down and kidnapped the thing and tore it apart. Reagan's effigy was hanged last week — same issue — on the Fresno State College campus.

ELEVATOR PEOPLE

Any working-day, in any city's large office building, people are busily intent in the pursuit of their own daily activities. The lobby of a skyscraper has an almost endless flow of employees—from secretaries to company presidents, as well as outside salesmen and other visitors. The steady processional, the ebb and flow—like life itself—sometimes appears perpetual and endless. Especially at the elevators.

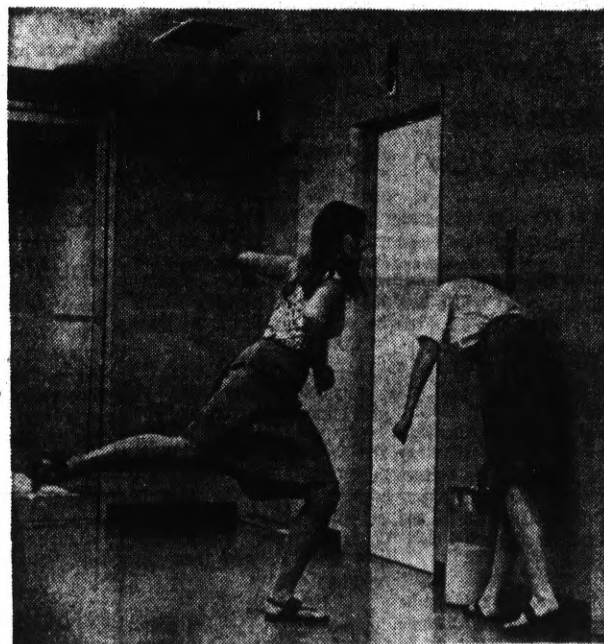

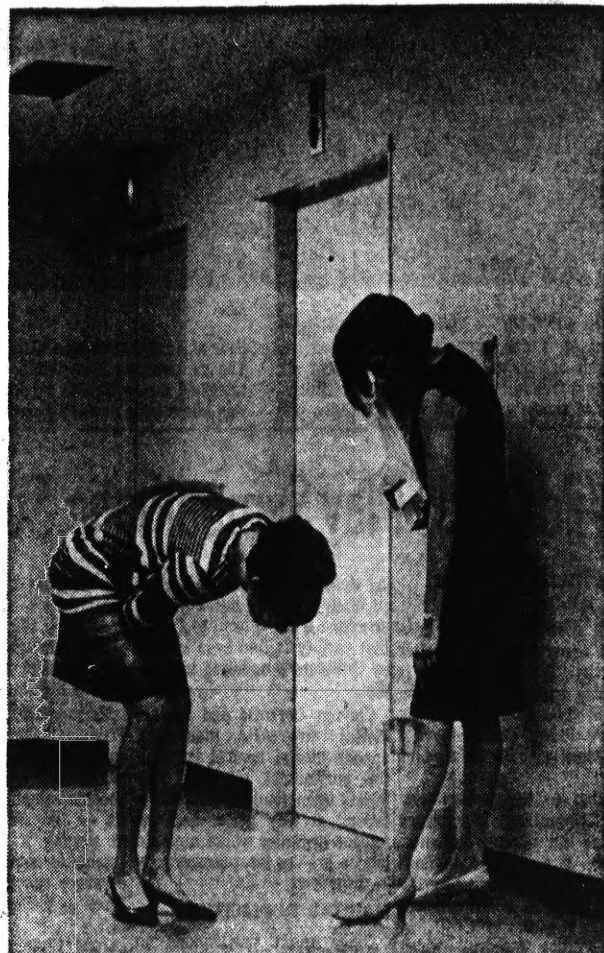

A photographer was interested in quietly observing the passing parade. Marcia Kay Keegan recently stationed herself in a corner of the lobby of an office building in New York City, and unobtrusively recorded her observations.

Most of the "subjects" didn't notice the camera, and were caught with their thoughts showing. Some, like the shoe-shine entrepreneur, is too weary to care. As for the messenger boy juggling all-too-many parcels, his precarious balancing act keeps him too busy to worry about pictures. And the workman proudly displaying his potted-plant assignment appears only to be thinking of going-home time. The seam-straightener is, of course, as normal as nylons (with seams).

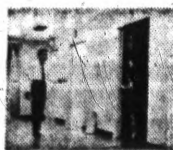

Some noticed they were being photographed, and showed-off their actions, as well as their thought-responses to the camera. Like the playful female "place-kicker". Or the surprise of the gal greeted by her own Irish Setter. Or the intentness of the shoe-inspector.

Waiting for an elevator can be a moment for animated conversation, or a moment for quiet contemplation. For others: the time to meet and greet friends; to "rehearse" for an anticipated interview (or asking for a Saturday-night-date); or organizing one's thoughts...

Watching people can really be fun. And, often, watching the watcher is fun.

New Taxes Aim at Romania's Decline in Births

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Communist Romania has introduced additional income taxes for childless couples and all those over 25 who are unmarried, the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug reported from Bucharest.

The agency said the decree of the state council went into force Jan. 1. It follows another in October which made divorces difficult to obtain and which banned abortions.

Families with more than three children have special allowances.

All these measures followed an alarming decrease in births in Romania, the agency said. According to statistics, in the past 10 years births decreased from 14 to 6 per 1,000.

Soviets Playing for Time on Test Ban Extension

LONDON (UPI) — Russia has cooled toward extending the nuclear test ban to underground explosions so it can have time to perfect an antimissile defense system, top diplomatic sources said today.

The sources said Russia, which until recently had pushed for a complete nuclear test ban, now appears to have dropped the idea — at least for the present — and is giving top priority to the move toward a nuclear nonproliferation pact with the United States and Britain.

Although there has been no firm official Soviet policy declaration, authoritative diplo-

Later, Hinds County Court struck down Father Jones' conviction and officials decided not to press charges against the three others.

Supreme Court to Decide Novel Civil Rights Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — Before the end of the term the Supreme Court will decide a novel question of paramount importance to civil rights marchers and administrators of justice.

It is: May judges and policemen be sued for damages under an 1871 civil rights law?

If they are ruled immune from such suits, civil rights demonstrators will be barred from using the Reconstruction statute to sue for false arrest and conviction.

But if they are not immune, the door could swing wide open for such suits — a prospect which appeared to deeply concern at least three of the nine Supreme Court justices who heard arguments on the matter Wednesday.

MINISTERS INVOLVED
The case at hand involves four Episcopal ministers, one of them a former son-in-law of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, who were arrested in a Jackson, Miss., bus depot in September 1961.

The ministers were part of a racially mixed group of Episcopal clergymen on a civil rights "prayer pilgrimage" from New Orleans to Detroit. Three are white and the fourth Negro.

Their trip up the Mississippi Valley was cut short when they tried to eat in a coffee shop in the depot.

According to their attorney, Carl Rachlin of New York City, they entered the depot peacefully and were arrested to enforce segregation. The station outside the depot, Rachlin said, read: "Whites only, by order of police."

BROADCAST FACT
But according to attorney Elizabeth Watkins Hulien Grayson of Jackson — representing the three arresting police officers and the local police justice, the ministers "broadcast the fact they came to be arrested." They attracted a crowd of 30 to 40 persons, Mrs. Grayson said, some of whom muttered, made violent gestures and "had angry expressions" on their face.

Local Police Justice James L. Spencer found the four — the Rev. Robert L. Pierson, then married to Rockefeller's daughter Ann, the Rev. John B. Morris, the Rev. James G. Jones Jr. and the Rev. James P. Breeden, a Negro, guilty of violating Mississippi's breach-of-peace law and sent them off to jail.

Later, Hinds County Court struck down Father Jones' conviction and officials decided not to press charges against the three others.

The law makes "every person" who acts "under color" of state law to deprive a citizen of his rights "liable to the party injured." Punishment under the law is up to 10 years in prison, $5,000 fine or both.

County Officers to Attend Parley of Supervisors

A delegation of 41 Oakland County officials will journey to Lansing for the three-day 68th annual convention of the Michigan State Association of Supervisors beginning Tuesday.

Delos Hamlin, chairman of the County Board of Supervisors, has been the State Association of Supervisors' first vice president the past year.

He is expected to be named president during the convention at the Jack Tar Hotel.

A Monday meeting of the association's board of directors will precede the opening of the convention whose theme is "Michigan 1970."

Twins Receive Death Sentence

MANILA (UPI) — The death sentence was decreed yesterday for twin brothers who killed 13 persons two years ago during a stabbing rampage on a crowded passenger train.

A Manila court ordered the execution of Antonio and Jose Toling after convicting them of murder and rejecting their plea of self-defense.

1st Negro Officer

THREE RIVERS (AP) — John Turner, 24, Three Rivers' first Negro police officer, spent his first day on the job Wednesday undergoing an orientation program. He is graduate of Three Rivers High School, an Army veteran and attended Kellogg Community College in Battle Creek.

The longest recorded reign of a monarch is that of Pepi II of the 6th Egyptian Dynasty, who ascended the throne about 2566 B. C. at the age of six and ruled for 91 years.

TV Features

'Sex in the Sixties'

"HISTORY OF THE NEGRO, 8:00 p.m. (56) "The Southern Way of Life."

BEWITCHED, 8:30 p.m. (7) This series moves to a new time. Endora's magic makes it easy for Tabatha to win prizes on a TV show which is sponsored by Darrin's client.

DRAGNET, 9:30 p.m. (4) Jack Webb resumes his role as Sgt. Friday in a story which deals with teen-agers and drugs. The star also wrote, produced and directed this first offering in a new color series. Harry Morgan and Art Ballinger are featured.

ABC STAGE 67, 10:00 p.m. (7) "Sex in the Sixties" is described by its scriptwriter as "an inquiry into what many consider an upsurge in public sexual expression, and an attempt to analyze the meaning of this trend." Among those interviewed: Dr. Mary Calderone of the Sex Information and Education Council of the United States; Dr. William Masters and Mrs. Virginia Johnson, authors of "Human Sexual Response"; Hugh Hefner of Playboy magazine; designer Rudy Gernreich; and the Rev. Howard Moody of New York's Judson Memorial Church.

State Cherry, Bean Crops Lead Nation

LANSING (UPI) — Michigan was the nation's leading producer of dry beans and cherries last year despite weather conditions that worked to the disadvantage of both crops.

B. Dale Ball, director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, said Tuesday dry bean production of 811 million pounds in Michigan comprised 40 per cent of the national crop.

The 1966 dry bean harvest was 31 per cent larger than the 1965 harvest. Michigan's navy pea bean harvest totaled 99 per cent of the nation's harvest.

Nevertheless, Michigan bean production per acre in 1966 was down slightly from the five-year average because of dry weather, Ball said.

Michigan cherry growers harvested 109 million pounds of tart cherries for 61 per cent of the nation's crop. Pennsylvania was second with a 17-million pound crop.

SWEET CHERRIES

With unusually heavy spring frosts lowering sweet cherry production, Ball said, Michigan produced 34 million pounds of sweets to rank behind Oregon, California and Washington. But in total cherry production, Michigan outstripped all other states.

Gas Firm Seeking to Expand Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Northern Natural Gas Co., Omaha, has applied for authority to expand its pipeline system and initiate natural gas service to 51 communities, the Power Commission announced Wednesday.

The proposed construction in Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan and Nebraska would cost about $6.7 million. The announcement did not list the 51 communities.

Dems Oppose Tax-Sharing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Democratic senators from some of the nation's less populous states are making plans to oppose any federal tax-sharing plans. They feel their states are doing just fine the way things are now.

Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, called the lawmakers and their aides together for a strategy session yesterday. He conceded that many smaller states received more in federal benefits than they paid in taxes.

Among the states represented at the meeting were Alaska, Montana, Hawaii, New Hampshire, Wyoming, and South Dakota. Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, showed up afterward and said he, too, was sympathetic.

Earl, Covering the World, Frets About French Knees

By EARL WILSON

I Cover the World . . . NEW YORK — Paris was very cold and those mini skirts on the Champs-Elysee must have been shivery up above the knees.

London for once was sunny, with Tippi Hedrin and Liza Minnelli the sunniest girls in it . . .

Here in New York it was friendly and warm at Dinah Shore's Waldorf Empire Room opening . . . especially friendly and warm was the way Gordon MacRae and ex-Mrs. Henry Ford, Anne, looked at and held each other when they danced.

Wouldn't that be quite a story if handsome, slim, talented Gordie and Anne Ford ever got to the Merge Verge? Anyway, it's getting to be a "thang," as they say in Texas.

Dynamite Dinah brought out all the show biz celebs—Mrs. Ford for example asked Marty Allen for an autographed pic for her son Edsel . . . Dick Shawn told Red Buttons and Julie Wilson some phony's calling girls using his name and how can he warn girls not to believe the faker?

Frank Sinatra, soon after the 65th birthday party he's giving for Joe E. in Miami Beach, goes to Hong Kong to film "Hong Kong" by Jay Richard Kennedy with Spencer Tracy & Yul Brynner, then spends most of the summer here filming "The Detective."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Is CBS raiding NBC to get Andy Williams with a record lure? . . . Secret Stuff: A top film star went wild over Claudia Cardinale at a Hollywood party and his wife hasn't let him forget it. . . . Guests wondered why Jane Fonda walked out in the middle of her film, "The Game Is Over" — well, she was Mystery Guest on "What's My Line?"

Duo at Luchow's: June Havoc and Julie Harris (en route to the theater) . . . Joe DiMaggio has seat 1, row 1, section 1 for the Clay-Terrell fight at the Astrodome . . . Ingrid Thulin, who's played so many unclad charmers in Swedish films, arrived here (for "Of Love Remembered") with three mink coats.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: An executive told at Roseland about his bumbling secretary: "I've gotten her an electric typewriter . . . now I'm gonna get her a chair to match!"

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Rodney Dangerfield, the Copa's hit comic claims there's nothing wrong with gray hair: "Ask any guy who's bald."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Unfortunately, fault-finding is less taxing than fact-finding."

EARL'S PEARLS: It's easy to cheat on a diet . . . but you'll have a fat chance of getting away with it.—Shelby Friedman, Dallas.
