Hail, and Winds Batter Coastline of South Florida

Damage Is $200,000;
Fort Lauderdale Area
Hard Hit by Storm

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Homeowners and public utility crews cleaned up today in the wake of a violent hailstorm that thrashed along 125 miles of the southeast Florida Coast and caused damage estimated at more than $200,000.

The storm struck Fort Pierce about noon yesterday and swept southward to hammer Fort Lauderdale and Miami Beach with hailstones and furious winds.

Hurricane force winds 75 miles per hour were reported at Broward International Airport here and gusts in the city were estimated as high as 140 miles an hour.

The storm smacked Fort Lauderdale with hailstones as big as hen's eggs. Many windows and greenhouses were smashed, roofs damaged, trees and shrubbery stripped of foliage and power and telephone lines flattened. Streets were flooded.

"There isn't a grapefruit, orange, avocado or mango left in the area where the hail fell," said Orville Revelle of the Fort Lauderdale Daily News after a tour of the city, where 1.47 inches of rain fell.

Damage at Miami Beach was confined to beach umbrellas, canopies and awnings.

DENVER (AP) — Dust blowing off the Western plains clouded the sky over parts of seven states today, and high winds were expected to continue through tomorrow in some areas.

Forecasters said the worst dust areas were eastern Colorado, western Kansas and western Nebraska. Some of the powdery silt was wafted into the Dakotas. It was being settled by showers southward in the Oklahoma and Texas Panhandles. Local patches of blowing dust also were predicted across the Rockies in Utah.

In Colorado the wind abated somewhat this morning from velocities which sent dust as high as 17,500 feet yesterday, with gusts up to 68 miles an hour yesterday at Lander.

One Limit Catch!

Pontiac Man Stays Home for His Catch; North State Offers Fine Sport, Weather

Lure of the north country's scenic trout waters always attracts most of the area's dyed-in-the-wool addicts of the dry fly, and the bait fishermen, too, on opening day. But one of those who elected to stay around the home confines did all right, today, too.

Earliest limit take of trout in this area reported today was that of Floyd Schell, 509 First avenue, Pontiac. Schell took 10 nice brookies from a stream that crosses Greenfield and Kerr roads near M24 and the Bald Mountain Recreation area. (Paint Creek). They average between 7 and 12 inches, Schell reported.

7-Year-Old Boy Saves Girl From Death in Lake

A slim 7-year-old boy heroically held a 3-year-old girl above six feet of water for 10 minutes in Lake Orion late yesterday until other rescuers arrived.

"That's all I could do. I just couldn't let go of her and let her drown," said Howard Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Johnson of 132 S. Bellevue.

From a dock near his home, he reached pretty, blonde-haired Debra Elaine Schrah, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schrah of 146 S. Bellevue while he yelled for help 10 minutes.

Mrs. Dwain Hall of 129 Highland heard the boy's yells and ran to his aid. She pulled the little girl, who weighs nearly as much as Howard, from the water and rushed her home.

Schrah, 27, the girl's father, saved two young brothers from drowning last winter when he plunged into Lake Orion's icy waters and pushed the two boys out, nearly losing his own life.

City Manager Missed A-Test

William A. Back Home
With Only Tan; Atom
Shot Postponed

Looking tanned and not the least bit weary although he hadn't been to bed since Monday night, City Manager Walter K. Willman returned to his desk yesterday afternoon from Nevada.

An atomic bomb was slated to go off in a civil defense exercise at Yucca Flat at 5 a.m. Tuesday. Between briefing sessions and the bus rides, he didn't have much time left for sleeping in his Las Vegas hotel room.

Expressing disappointment, Willman said he had come within eight minutes of seeing the bomb go off on Thursday morning.

"The announcer counted, 'minus 15... minus 10... minus 9... minus 8... Then he added, 'The buses are coming up the hill to take you back to Las Vegas.' The winds weren't just right."

At Survival City, the model town built at the bomb site for civil defense test purposes, the crowd was rapidly dwindling.

Civil defense workers and invited observers had dropped from Tuesday's peak of 1,500 to about 600, and military participants were down from 2,800 to 1,800.

The postponements have been caused by weather conditions, which must be just right to insure that no radioactive fallout will be deposited on towns or cities.

Cherry Blossoms Already Open on Traverse Bay

TRAVERSE CITY (AP) — Sweet cherry trees at Old Mission on Traverse Bay popped their first buds under Friday's warm sunshine, sending cherry producers scurrying to complete preparations for an early harvest.

The blossoms are about two weeks earlier than normal. Tart red cherries, which develop later than the sweet variety, are expected to open in about a week.

District Horticultural Agent Clarence Mullett said the next 3 or 4 days probably will tell whether or not there is going to be a good cherry crop.

The buds should be out of danger if killing frost does not hit before the middle of next week, he said.

Secret Now Out: Prosecutor Ziem Has an Alias

Oakland County Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem thought he was to be the speaker at a Hazel Park Service club meeting yesterday. After the introduction he wasn't so sure.

The attorney doing the honors went over a background fitting Ziem to a "T." But concluded by saying, "Now in his second terms as prosecuting attorney, I give you my good friend Fred Nicholson."

An embarrassed silence fell over the gathering. Finally a George Gobelish voice somewhere in the rear drawled,

"So there you are."

No Paralytic Polio Found in Vaccinated Group Here

Not one of the children who received all three shots of the Salk polio vaccine in last year's field tests in Oakland County contracted paralytic polio.

This was revealed today by Dr. John D. Monroe, county health director, whose staff has finished compiling local information contained in the massive report on the vaccine trials issued April 12 at Ann Arbor.

All first, second and third graders in Oakland County — 35,987 children in all, were included in the study group. Of this number, 8,243 received the three-shot series of vaccinations, 8,291 got dummy shots, 19,044 received no shots at all, and 409 received only one or two shots.

Eight children in the study group contracted paralytic polio last summer. Four were in the group which got dummy shots, and the other four had no shots at all.

Of three non-paralytic polio cases, two were children who did not get shots, and one had received the vaccine. The Salk shots are not designed to combat this variation of the disease, which produces no crippling effects.

Eight cases, originally reported as polio, were later diagnosed as other diseases. One child who had been vaccinated and was believed to have polio turned out to be suffering from measles.

The tests in Oakland County produced no major reactions to the shots, and only a few children complained of minor ill effects, such as soreness of the arm for a few days or headaches.

In Washington, Dr. Salk was working with other medical experts today on a case-by-case study among the 29 children afflicted officially in California today pending a final decision by U. S. Public Health authorities and virus experts as to the safety of the injection materials being used.

Bao Dai Fired by Viet Nameese

Provisional Assembly
Backing Premier Diem
Ousts Ex-Emperor

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — An especially summoned Provisional Assembly fired Bao Dai today as South Viet Nam's Chief of State.

The Assembly, dubbed "the Revolutionary Democratic Forces of the Nation," also ordered Premier Ngo Dinh Diem's Cabinet dissolved, but called on him to form a new one.

The Assembly, which had Cabinet backing, met in Saigon's City Hall and tore down Bao Dai's photograph from the wall and trampled on it.

This apparently was Diem's answer to the ex-Emperor's attempt to overthrow him. Bao Dai, now on the French Riviera, has not been in Viet Nam for a year.

Thursday he summoned Premier Diem to the Riviera for consultations but Diem refused to go. His Cabinet felt the trip would mean Diem would be dismissed as Premier.

In Cannes, France, Viet Nam's chief of state, ex-Premier Bao Dai, sent the state's defiant Premier a "second and last" order today to come to Cannes for a conference.

The message apparently was dispatched before news reached Bao Dai from Saigon that a Revolutionary Assembly there had deposed him.

New Proposal Scraps Bigger Ike Program

Sen. Gore Says Bill
Will Pass; Hike in Gas
Tax Included

WASHINGTON (INS) — Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) predicted today that the Senate will approve a 21 billion dollar, five-year "first installment" on a highway construction program.

The Senate Roads subcommittee, which Gore heads, recommended yesterday that the parent Public Works Committee, and ultimately the Senate, adopt the program.

In doing so, the subcommittee scrapped the Eisenhower administration's proposed 10-year, 101 billion dollar blueprint to improve the nation's highways.

Although administration supporters are expected to line up behind that plan, Gore was confident that he would have enough votes to push his own measure through. The subcommittee vote was 6-3.

Gore stressed that the legislation would be merely "the first five-year installment" and that there would be future steps taken afterward "to bring all categories of highways and roads to adequate standards."

The full committee will vote on the measure Thursday, Gore said, and he hopes to take it to the Senate the following week.

The bill calls for an outlay of 10 billion 334 million dollars on interstate highways in the five years beginning July 1, 1956.

Under a 75-25 per cent matching ratio, the federal government would supply seven billion 750 million dollars and the states would put up the rest.

An additional 11 billion dollars would be provided for the same period for primary, secondary and urban roads. This would be divided equally between the states and federal government.

Thus, the federal government would spend an average of one and one-half billion dollars each year for interstate roads, plus one billion 100 million annually for the other categories.

Current federal expenditures for all types of roads total less than a billion dollars a year.

The Gore bill provides for direct appropriation of the added sums for interstate highways. However, it recommends that the federal tax on motor fuels be increased one cent a gallon. Such action would have to originate in the House.

The financing arrangement is a sharp departure from the administration's proposal to set up a special government corporation to float 30-year bonds to finance a 10-year, 27-billion dollar federal interstate highway program.

Gore said that a one-cent increase in fuels tax—the levy is now two cents—would bring in 600 to 750 million dollars a year in added revenue.

She's Been There 11 Years

Dinner Guest Moves In

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Mrs. Fuller W. Fooshe invited Mrs. Eleanor Elaine Lee Harris to dinner 11 years ago. Now she wishes Mrs. Harris would go home. Mrs. Fooshe wants to sell her house.

The female version of the famous play "The Man Who Came to Dinner" came to attention yesterday as Magistrate P. Donald Fisher issued an eviction order against Mrs. Harris.

She didn't appear in court, but told newsmen later it was all a misunderstanding—she thought Mrs. Fooshe planned to continue living here. She said she would move in with friends in suburban Clayton.

But William W. Sleater III, Mrs. Fooshe's attorney, gave Magistrate Fisher this version:

Mrs. Harris went to the Fooshe home in August 1944 for dinner. Mrs. Fooshe asked Mrs. Harris, who had just arrived in town, to spend the night rather than go to a hotel. Mrs. Harris accepted. One night led to another.

Fooshe didn't like the guest too well, so he left. He hasn't been back.

Last August Mrs. Fooshe moved to Milwaukee. Still Mrs. Harris stayed.

Sleater said Mrs. Fooshe wants to sell the house, but Mrs. Harris won't let real estate agents or prospective buyers inside.

Mrs. Harris is the widow of Beverly D. Harris, former president of Monsanto Chemical Co. and once a vice president of National City Bank in New York.

Harris died in 1948. He and his wife were estranged several years before his death.

Police Seek Man After Stabbing

2 Injured in Scuffle Early Today; One in Critical Condition

Royal Oak Township Police are searching today for Jerome Shell, 21, of 20785 Westview, Royal Oak Township, in the stabbing this morning of two men, one of whom is expected to die.

Ernest R. Smith, 25, of 640 Palmer, Detroit, is in critical condition with stab wounds of the lung in Mt. Carmel Mercy Hospital, Detroit.

James Smith, 21, of 21637 Glenfield Ct., Royal Oak Township, was released from the hospital after treatment for stab wounds of his hand.

Royal Oak Township Det. Samuel J. Whitfield gave this account of the affray:

The two Smiths, who are not related, were in a restaurant on Eight Mile road, about 4 a.m. this morning when Shell came in and reportedly pulled a knife.

Shell cut the younger Smith slightly, then all three went across Eight Mile to another restaurant where the older Smith was stabbed in a scuffle.

An unidentified patron called police, who arrived at 4:15 a.m. to find both Smiths on the sidewalk.

Farmer Granted Final Request at His Burial

A retired farmer who died in Hazel Park April 20 was buried three days later at Bad Axe dressed in overalls, a jacket and with his beloved corn cob pipe as he requested in a will filed in Oakland County Probate Court.

Frederick Brown, 69, left his 120-acre farm near Bad Axe in Huron County four years ago and moved to Hazel Park with his daughter, Mrs. George Thomann, of 1426 E. Muir.

He wrote his will in long hand. It read: "The last request is that I be buried in an overall and jacket and a corn cob pipe."

"Dad always loved the outdoors and hated dress-up clothes," Mrs. Thomann explained.

"His father always said that when the resurrection came if dad were lying in peace in his working clothes with his pipe by his side, the Lord would recognize him," she added.

Ticket in Pontiac; Crashes at Cadillac

CADILLAC (UP) — A Detroit woman who apparently traveled 170 miles in about two and one-half hours was critically injured when she crashed into a street light and tree here today.

Cadillac police said Mrs. Charlotte Tierney, about 25, apparently lost control of her car on M55 at the Southwest edge of the city about 4:30 a.m.

A speeding ticket issued at Pontiac at 2 a.m. was found on her at the hospital, police said. It's 170 miles from here to Pontiac.

Sinatra-Sullivan Squabble Brings Bitter Backblasts

NEW YORK (INS) — A three-week-old feud between Frank Sinatra and TV master of ceremonies Ed Sullivan rolled out so merrily along today with both sides getting in their licks and no one giving any ground.

Crooner Frankie charged Sullivan wants people, including him, to appear for free on his "Toast of the Town" TV variety show.

Not so, insisted Sullivan. He pays and pays handsomely.

The two have been conducting their feud through paid ads in the trade press.

Moscow Ready for May Day

Position of Portraits Shows Malenkov Low Man on Totem Pole

MOSCOW (UP) — Moscow blossomed today with May Day decorations showing the Soviet Union's top leaders in a new order of rank. Communist Party Chief Nikita S. Khrushchev was first and ousted Premier Georgi Malenkov was last.

Premier Nikolai Bulganin ranked second to Khrushchev.

It was the first public display of the nine leaders since Malenkov stepped down as Premier in February and became minister of electric power plants.

Khrushchev, first secretary of the Soviet Communist Party, ranked next to V. I. Lenin and Josef Stalin in the big portraits installed in preparation for tomorrow's world-wide Communist holiday.

After the party chief came Bulganin, Malenkov's successor as Premier, and then President Kliment Voroshilov. Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov was fourth.

This was the lineup of portraits mounted on the Lenin Library building here in the Russian right-to-left order of precedence: Khrushchev, Bulganin, Voroshilov, Molotov, First Deputy Premier Lazar Kaganovich, Anastas Mikoyan, M. G. Pervukhin, M. S. Saburov, and finally, Malenkov.

It was announced meanwhile that the Soviet defense minister, Marshal Georgi Zhukov, will review massed troops in the traditional May Day parade starting at 10 a.m. Sunday (3 a.m. EST.).

There was no indication the annual celebration would depart from its usual program of parades and parties.

Strike Paralyzes Traffic in Harbor at Singapore

SINGAPORE, Saturday (UP) — Some 1,300 clerks and overseers employed by the Singapore Harbor Board went on strike at midnight paralyzing maritime traffic in this great Eastern port.

The strike came as 22 ships jammed the wharves without normal facilities for loading or unloading.

Employees are demanding overtime, fixed working hours, pension and bonus benefits.

can say is I have paid up to $15,000 for talent doing a single shot on Toast of the Town, and never approached Sinatra asking him to appear free," said Ed.

Sinatra has charged Sullivan wanted him to appear "cuff" (for free). The crooner placed an ad in two Hollywood trade papers reading:

"Dear Ed: You are sick. (Signed) Frankie P.S. Sick! Sick! Sick!"

Walter Pidgeon, president of the Screen Actor's Guild, publicly spanked Sinatra for "sounding off" in a letter to Sullivan yesterday.

The Sinatra-Sullivan rhubarb started three weeks ago when Frankie refused to go on the "Toast of the Town" scheduled production of the movie he's now making, "Guys and Dolls," unless he was paid.

Marion Brando, Jean Simmons and other members of the movie cast were "set" to appear according to CBS or producer Sam Goldwyn's contention that "Toast" came "under the heading of a publicity appearance the type stars are obligated to do under terms of their contracts."

Variety then quoted Sinatra as adding:

"I told Goldwyn I'd work on the show if Sullivan paid the money to charity or his sponsors paid something like $100,000 to an actors fund."

Whereupon Sullivan took a full page ad in Variety last Wednesday to "answer" Frankie, whom he has admittedly "not spoken to for a number of years."

"I resent Sinatra's reckless charge that we do not pay performers," Sullivan said in Variety in the form of a letter to Pidgeon.

To date he has paid over $5,000,000 in salaries and my negotiations with Mr. Goldwyn calling for me to pay $32,000 covered technical costs for a 30-minute preview of "Guys and Dolls."

Dem Says Blunders to Catch Up With Ike

SALISBURY, Md. (UP) — "Blunders in recent weeks for which (President) Eisenhower could not escape responsibility" will lead to his defeat if he runs again, Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) said last night.

The Democratic vice presidential candidate in 1952 gave as examples the Edward Corsi case and the manner in which the Yalta papers were made public.

Sparkman said the Eisenhower administration one of "broken promises, phony claims and phony performances" in a speech before 500 Eastern Shore Democrats at a Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner.

The Republicans, he said, have spent more money than in any single period former President Truman was in office.

Two Churchill Paintings in Royal Academy Show

LONDON (UP) — The stately Royal Academy of Arts has opened its 187th summer exhibition and includes two paintings by Sir Winston Churchill.

One is called "Sunset at Roehampton, 1913," and the other is a picture of whiskey, brandy and wine bottles, three cigar boxes and seven glasses.

The former Prime Minister, no doubt with a twinkle in his eye, shipped the latter painting to the Academy under the title, "Bottle-escape." And that's the name under which it's hung.

PHS Students on Program for State Convention

Some 60 Pontiac High School students from the publications staffs, attended the state interscholastic press association convention at the University of Michigan yesterday.

About 1,500 high school boys and girls from all areas of the state attended.

Six members of the PHS Tomahawk Staff presented a panel discussion at both morning and afternoon sessions of the convention, illustrating staff and editing problems as handled on the local school paper. On the panel were Patricia Zielke, Vicky Micu, Mary Sorros, Marilee Minesinger, Tomahawk Editor for next year, and Karen Hoff and David Tarr, present coeditors of the paper.

Presiding at the convention session was Robert F. Beauchamp, PHS faculty member, who has been president of MIPA during the past year. Lawrence Niblett, publications advisor at Coolidge High School in Detroit, was elected to succeed Beauchamp.

In addition to the general sessions, students attended workshop meetings on various phases of high school publication work.

Directors of the MIPA voted to reactivate a journalism scholarship, which is in recognition of the years of service given by Prof. John Brumm, for years as chairman of the department at the university.

ers" as they're also known may wake up one fine day to find they've missed some of the year's opportunities.

As early as noon yesterday favorite hot spots like the Mio dam area were filling up with trailers and cars loaded with sportsmen eager to be in a proper spot when midnight rolled around.

There is more sentiment than science in this type of fishing and many, many more fishermen than fish. But maybe the really important part of the whole business is being within casting distance of real trout water when the whistle blows and plague take the refinements.

They do have a good time, these people who elect to have it out with their quarry while locked arm and arm with their neighbors. And every now and then they catch a fish.

As we have done for the past few years, we chose to go through the opening motions on an alder-thicket trout stream.

While some of the niceties of fly fishing must be temporarily shoved aside the hungry brookies are responsive as always and it is really a very satisfactory way to put in one's time.

One regret in this respect is that we did not complete the construction of a three-foot fly rod for this very purpose. It will be ready soon, though, and a full report should be forthcoming shortly.

Tomorrow, if conditions stay the same we plan to go over for some real dry fly work on the Au Sable's North Branch whose hard-fished 10-inch limit waters provide as good a medium as we know for separating the men from the boys.

Adopts Policy of Land Reform

INDIA'S SIND PROVINCE Cancels Feudal Grants, Plans Redistribution

KARACHI (UP) — The province of Sind, a century behind western land reforms, recently announced cancellation of certain feudal land grants and reallocation to peasant cultivators.

Sind government officials said no compensation would be paid to the present 124 land holders (called Jagirdars) because their rights did not involve title to the lands but merely authority to collect land revenue from the grants made to them which otherwise would have been paid to the government.

Nor will the present land-owners be entitled to file claims for title to the land after depositions unless they can prove rightful title existed for ownership as well as for collection of revenues.

Provision has been made, however, to compensate land-holders and their families who prove they have no other means of livelihood.

Sind officials, who described the action as "historical," said that over one million acres of land (about one-tenth of the total cultivable land in the province) would be repossessed, with a corresponding increase of government land revenue of approximately $900,000 per year.

According to these officials, about one million peasants live on and cultivate these lands for the Jagirdars, with less rights than tenant farmers.

The 124 Jagirdars' holdings vary in size from 500 acres to more than 200,000 acres, but large or small, the Jagirdars pay no land revenue or income tax on the lands over which they have virtual feudalistic control.

In some areas, it is claimed, medieval conditions prevail, and the Jagirdars are the law of the land.

Under Sind government, plans for re-allotment of the lands, 2,500,000 landless peasants will be provided homesteads.

63 Aboard Plane Unhurt as Nose Wheel Buckles

NEW YORK (UP) — Sixty-three persons escaped injury yesterday when the nose wheel of an American Airlines plane buckled after the ship landed at La Guardia Airport.

The DC6, carrying 58 passengers and a crew of 5, skidded some 50 feet before coming to a halt in front of a hangar. The plane remained upright.

Airport officials estimated damage to the plane at $60,000.

GI Training in Sight for Most Young Men

ASHLAND, Va. (UP) — Secretary of Defense Wilson said today some military service will be required from practically all young American men as long as the conflict with communism exists.

In an address prepared for the Alumni Society of Randolph-Macon College, Wilson said world conditions make this military service essential.

The nation must "always be alert in defending the principles on which it was founded," he said, "lest they be supplanted by foreign ideologies that may seem attractive at first but on careful examination will be found to be old tyrannies dressed up in new clothes."

Wilson said the attainments of the United States cannot be explained on the grounds of greater natural resources nor upon any racial superiority.

The answer to the nation's achievements, he said, "lies in the simple fact that by accepting the challenge of individual competition we have done a better job of applying our human energy and individual initiative to the improvement of the welfare of all. That makes the difference between our country and most others."

New Boat Will Make Niagara Falls Runs

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (UP) — One new boat will be bought to replace the two Maid of the Mist steam boats damaged by fire last week.

The Maid Steamboat Co. said it hoped to have a modern, steel vessel on the Niagara River sometime in June, to run tourists to the base of Niagara Falls. If the tourists like it, the company will buy another, it said.

A plan to rebuild the old boats was scrapped. They were in dry dock when fire broke out on one and spread to the other.

School Suggestions for Ike Mapped at Area Meeting

Four hundred education-interested citizens from Oakland and Macomb counties prepared a message for Washington, D. C., Friday at the first regional meeting for this area of the Michigan White House Conference on Education.

Held in the Royal Oak High School, these two counties are participants in a state-wide program to draft specific recommendations on the educational needs of boys and girls in Michigan. These will be taken to Washington this fall to be presented at President Eisenhower's nationwide White House Conference.

Among their recommendations the local region asks for "federal aid to help provide a well-rounded educational program for all boys and girls regardless of the local district's ability to pay."

Commending the Oakland County Special education program which is unique in that it is the only county unit in the nation locally financing and controlling its education for the handicapped program, the conference said it would ask for this program to be adopted state and nation wide.

Problem of the brilliant and retarded student will be incorporated in the local message to Washington; high school drop outs, lack of maximum participation by all students in recreational programs, need for more citizen committees following work of area study groups, shortage of well qualified teachers, the need for more community colleges to make possible higher education for more deserving students — all of these and many more specific areas of education concerned will be assembled at Lansing with other regional reports and sent to Washington.

Condemn Land for Birmingham

Court Decision Over School Site Values Parcels at $60,049

An Oakland County Circuit Court jury yesterday found in favor of Birmingham School District's condemning 30 acres in Southfield Township for a building site and set a $60,049 price on the land.

The area, containing nine parcels, is at Lahser and Fourteen Mile Rds.

Only two parcels were in dispute, with previous price agreements reached on seven, according to John E. Martz, attorney for the district.

One five-acre parcel in contention was valued at $10,000 by the district and $30,000 by the owner. The jury allowed $12,300. Two smaller pieces, considered worth $6,000 by the board, were priced at $4,500 by the jurors.

Attorney for one owner arguing value, Harold Bludsoe of Detroit, said he would appeal the decision and is allowed 20 days to do so. If the appeal is not taken in that time span, said Martz, the board will complete the purchase.

Both elementary and junior high schools are planned on the site. Judge George B. Hartrick presided.

The Day in Birmingham

Student 'Office Holders' Will Rule City Monday

BIRMINGHAM — Seniors from Birmingham High assume — at least in title — the jobs of city officials Monday in the annual Civic Control Day.

The day is scheduled to start with students working in municipal offices to which they were elected, with experienced officials standing by to help them gain better understanding of procedures.

Activities of the day will be reported to a "city commission" of students by each teenage office holder. The meeting will precede the general meeting of the Birmingham City Commission.

Students were selected for their various posts during the day by "elected" city commissioners Ed Peters, Tom Beck, Don Fraser, Jim Mosby and Jim Johnson, who earlier were selected by the student senate.

The commissioners chose Sue Spencer as city manager; Megan Butler as assessor; Jim Gillen as treasurer; Bob Miller as city engineer; Noel Stookey as dog catcher; Betty Quillian, assistant city manager; Bennett Wright, police chief, and Palmer Bollinger, fire chief.

The assessed valuation of property in the Birmingham-Bloomfield Hills-Bloomfield Township area has increased by some ten million dollars over 1954.

Valuation for this year totaled $86,344,460, which is $18,113,045 more than a year ago.

A detailed rundown shows assessed values in Birmingham at $53,249,460, up $4,442,200 over last year; Bloomfield Hills, $7,385,000 this year, up $1,338,600; Bloomfield Township $25,710,000, an increase of $4,432,265 over 1954.

Golf enthusiasts swarmed at least two clubs in the area today as forecasts from the weather bureau indicated sunny, fair and cloudless skies were here to stay.

Pros at the Birmingham Country Club and the Springdale course were preparing, meanwhile, for even larger turnouts.

Deadline for entries in the men's league at Springdale is Monday. And at the country club women are preparing for a luncheon Thursday at which time they will draw for partners for tournament play. Play in the women's tourney is scheduled to start at the country club a week from next Thursday.

Bob Fauteck, Springdale pro, said a women's league of 20 teams — two players to each team — and a men's league with as many players began league competition at the municipal course May 10.

A fee of 75 cents from the men and 50 cents from the women will be collected at the opening of each match. The money will go toward weekly prizes to the medalist and low team scores.

The Springdale course already has been the scene of a "hole-in-one." Fauteck said. Warren Summer III added the 120-yard sixth hole recently using a 7 iron. Warren, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren S. Summer, 990 Fairfax, won the junior championship at Springdale last year. He is a ninth grade student at Cathedral Central high school in Detroit.

Geogework for a monthly Cub Scout program will be laid Tuesday night. Mrs. Ruth Silbar and two dens of Cub Pack B-8 will present ideas for such a program at a round-table gathering at Birmingham high school that night.

The West Bloomfield League of Women Voters has re-elected Mrs. Jack Couzens president. Also re-elected was Mrs. R. E. Driver as vice-president.

Saxony Legislators Support Adenauer

HANNOVER, Germany (UP) — Control of Lower Saxony's government passed to the hands of a coalition supporting Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's national government tonight. The state has had a Socialist government since the end of the war.

In last Sunday's election, the Socialist candidates polled the highest vote, but the party won only 59 of the State Parliament's 161 seats.

The minor parties—the right-wing German party, the Free Democrats and the Refugee party — joined Adenauer's Christian Democrats in a coalition controlling 93 seats.

The move assures Adenauer of a two-third majority in the Federal Bundestag (upper house) which he needs for passage of rearmament legislation opposed by Socialists. The Lower Saxony State Parliament elects five senators to the Bundestag.

Report Rudolf Hess on Hunger Strike

BERLIN (UP) — Rudolf Hess, former deputy fuhrer of the Nazi Reich who reportedly tried to commit suicide recently was said today to be on a hunger strike in Spandau war crimes prison.

Lt. Col. H. W. Earle, American commandant of the four-power jail, refused to confirm or deny the report.

The U. S. High Commission did not deny the story.

The unofficial reports said that Hess started his hunger strike last Tuesday, his 61st birthday.

Informant also said he had recently swallowed insecticide in an effort to end his life.

Reflections

MUSIC CHARMS

Kenneth Waigle, a soldier in India, was lonesome, homesick for the little church he had attended, the friends he had known, the songs he had sung. Natives smiled as he passed, if they spoke he couldn't understand them nor could they understand him. One morning on outpost duty, riding an elephant, he heard a song he had sung in his little church at home. The words were unintelligible but the music was a language he understood. He dismounted, went into that tiny mission, joined in the songs. Music is a universal tongue.

Einstein Leaves $65,000 in Will

Relatives, Secretary Get Bequests; Violin Goes to Grandson

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—World-famed scientist Albert Einstein, who died April 18 at 76 years of age, left $65,000 in bequests to his two sons, a stepdaughter, and his long-time secretary.

Details of Einstein's will were revealed yesterday by the executor of his estate, Dr. Otto Nathan, a New York University professor formerly of Princeton University.

These were the bequests by Einstein, Nathan said:

Eduard Einstein, 45, a son living in Switzerland, $15,000.

Dr. Hans Albert Einstein, a son who is professor of mechanical engineering at the University of California, $10,000.

Margot Einstein, 55, a stepdaughter, $20,000 plus the household furniture and any residual money in the estate.

Miss Helen Dukas, his secretary-housekeeper about 20 years, also named co-trustee for literary property with Nathan, $20,000.

Einstein willed $10,000 to a sister who died since the will was written, making the provision in active and void.

His famous violin which he played as a hobby went to Hans' son, Bernhard C. Einstein, now studying in Switzerland.

Literary property and rights, including copyrights, will pass to the Hebrew University in Israel after the deaths of Einstein's daughter Margot and Miss Dukas.

Nathan said the will would be filed for probate in a New Jersey court in a few days.

Pathologists are starting a study of the brain tissue of Einstein. A report on results of the study are to be published only in a scientific journal, if at all, Nathan said.

Two Kidnapers Get Reduced Sentences

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Two men who kidnaped a California real estate man for $500,000 ransom that was never paid both will get life sentences by order of the State Supreme Court.

The high court reversed a superior court judge in ordering the penalties for Harold Jackson, who had been sentenced to death, and Joseph Lear, who had been given a life sentence without possibility of parole.

A 4-3 decision by the Supreme Court held there was no evidence of bodily harm to the victim, Leonard Moskowitz, within the meaning of California's little Lindbergh law.

A jury decreed the death penalty for both Jackson and Lear. Superior Judge Twain Michelsen later reduced Lear's sentence, but allowed Jackson's death sentence to stand.

A TRIP TO THE CIRCUS—The Clown Band

"And now, boys and girls, the final attraction at the Junior Editor's circus. The funny clowns and their wonderful band. Listen as they bang and toodle away for you. They may be making funny noises now, but they really know how to play the instruments.

"They are all wonderful Joeys, too. The clowns are all ages and some of them have been with the circus for 20 or 30 years. They're here because they love children and love to make them laugh.

"Some clowns are 'white face,' others are 'comics' and each one has some special act or trick of his own.

"Music plays a great part in any circus. This band is just for fun, but we have a fine, large band which plays special music for each act.

"And now the circus is over. Come back to see us again." The circus is over, but if you color this drawing, you can have your own story to keep and remember.

To Hike Funds for Delinquency

U. S. Children's Bureau Plans to Boost Funds to States, Communities

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Children's Bureau plans to offer more help to states and communities next year in fighting juvenile delinquency.

Social Security Commissioner Charles I. Schottland told a Senate Appropriations subcommittee today:

"The need for this type of program is highlighted by the fact that between 1948 and 1953 the number of children brought to the attention of juvenile courts increased 45 per cent. The increase in 1953 over 1952 was 13 per cent.

"We propose to give major emphasis in 1956 to rounding out our program of technical assistance in this field so as to meet more adequately the needs of the states and local communities."

The Children's Bureau, a part of the Health, Education and Welfare Department, gives assistance to states and communities in the care and treatment of juvenile delinquents and also makes special studies in juvenile delinquency control.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Hill (D-Ala.), is conducting hearings on the department's appropriations request.

Nation's Population Nears 164,000,000 Mark

If there still are people who fear our industrial capacity is outstripping our population growth, they should be of good cheer.

According to the Census Bureau, our 48 free and sovereign States are continuing to grow at a rate that would not have been believed 15 years ago. In fact since the last Federal census in 1950 the population of the United States has soared 14,000,000 and now nears 164,000,000.

Among the reasons for this, of course, is immigration. But a far more important factor is our birth rate—one every eight seconds compared to one death every 21 seconds.

As a result it now is estimated that by 1960 our population will be above 177,000,000. The Census Bureau considers this upward trend to be a result of continued prosperity, nearly full employment and high income.

Certainly it points to greater demand for food, clothing and shelter and constantly expanding job opportunities.

Supervisor Bill in House

A measure of special interest to Pontiac and Oakland County, reapportioning of supervisors, has been approved by the State Senate and sent to the House.

Aim of the sponsors is to amend existing legislation so it won't reduce by 60 per cent cities' representation on Oakland's governing board as soon as the number reaches 75.

Areas planning to incorporate this year are expected to swell the urban bloc to that size. Present representation of the cities totals 64 including 10 from Pontiac.

As approved by the Senate the bill provides that Pontiac would retain seven members on the board instead of three as existing law would require. It also is provided that total representation of the cities would be cut only to 43.

The formula in this bill was worked out by a joint committee of city and township supervisors and fixes representations for cities in the various population groups. The House should follow the Senate's example and approve the measure.

Eel Fund Cut a Mistake

Michigan's Sen. POTTER has common sense on his side when he argues that the Senate should restore $200,000 cut by the House from the Federal fund to fight lamprey eels.

It is the Cheboygan lawmaker's contention that it is a mistake to slash the $350,000 appropriation at a time when the war on lampreys is just beginning to show results.

Congress so far has spent $2,000,000 in fighting this scourge. To cut the next fiscal year's appropriation to $150,000, the Senator argues, would mean that the money already spent virtually would be wasted.

The grim truth is that there should be no relaxation in the war on the pests threatening destruction of our economically important Great Lakes fish, especially white fish and lake trout. Even if all the lake States joined in the fight, the help of the United States and Canadian Governments still is needed.

The Senate should restore the fund and the House should approve that action.

The true art of memory is the art of attention.

Salary for Ex-Presidents

A sensible suggestion has come from the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

It not only proposes but backs up with sound argument Legislation to provide ex-presidents of the United States with an annual retirement salary of $22,500 and other benefits.

One aim of the plan's sponsors is to relieve Presidents of financial worries about the future while in office. Another is to help them maintain the dignity of that office after they have left it.

We believe the committee is right in saying the American people expect the President to dedicate himself with singleness of purpose to the work of his great office. The committee's report also says that the country should do all it can to relieve the President's mind over future financial worry.

This plan strikes us not only as sensible but long overdue. Certainly the world's richest Nation can't afford to allow a single ex-President to spend post White House years on a plane out of harmony with the high office of the Presidency.

We hope this proposal reaches Congress in required form and that it will receive sympathetic consideration.

The People's Business GOP Not Dead

State Republicans Looking for New Leadership

LANSING—There is a hopeful and healthy ferment in the Michigan Republican Party which may lead to disunity but certainly does not mean the party is dead.

Republicans of all factions are questioning their party's programs, or lack of programs, its leaders or lack of leaders, its policies and its future.

One has only to recall the attitude and condition of Michigan's Democratic Party before the advent of Gov. Williams to notice the difference. The Democrats in those days were a leaderless coalition of factions each more interested in defeating its party rivals than in defeating the Republicans. It could almost have been called a party of soreheads because it seemed like everyone was mad at everyone else.

There are plenty of bad tempers in the Michigan Republican Party these days. There still are men who apparently would rather see the party lose than lose their own minute place in the hierarchy.

But observers interested in a strong two party system in Michigan see hopeful signs in the fact that many Republicans are seriously and sincerely questioning and arguing and debating the future of their party.

Granting that some of the ferment has produced more air than dough, granting that many screwball things will be said and done in the next year or so—still there is hope as long as party leaders do not stifle debate and ideas.

There are even healthy signs in the Legislature, believe it or not.

The so-called "young Turks" in the House have had and are having an impressive effect on party thinking in that chamber—an effect which may not be so noticeable in day to day maneuvers but which already has tempered the party's legislative conservatism and stimulated at least a more receptive attitude to new ideas.

The "young Turks" seem to have been more able and more adroitly led this year by such men as Reps. Richard G. Smith of Bay City, Thomas M. Burns of Saginaw and John J. McCune of East Lansing.

In the Senate, despite the shakiness of their control, such young leaders as Sens. Creighton R. Coleman of Battle Creek and Edward Hutchinson of Fennville—while more to the right than the House youngsters—have shown increasing awareness that their party must assert a positive program.

The belligerent decision of Rep. Leonard E. Wood of Detroit to take a walk from the Republican Party probably isn't significant—but it may represent some of the impatience that many of the younger Republicans feel in attempting to win a voice in party affairs.

Young Republicans from many sections of the state still report difficulty in breaking into the old guard's closed shop, but there are indications that the old walls are cracking.

It is known that many of the sugar-daddies of the state Republican Party find themselves at odds with the new trend, disillusioned by defeat, or have fallen to fighting among themselves.

Certainly this group feels now that it is more blessed to receive than to give and is not exerting the positive control it once did. Some Republicans believe that there is a chance for new leadership to flow into the vacuum—if it can be found.

Thoughtful Republicans think that there will be no sudden upsurge in Republican strength—barring a repetition of the 1952 Eisenhower crusade which does not seem likely.

So they look for a period of trial and error, of trying new men and new plans and of the eventual emergence of a new leadership.

In short, they think the Republican Party in Michigan is sick—but will recover with time and care.

The Greatest Highway of Life

Days of All Faiths May Day Festivals Began in Pre-Christian Religions

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER
If you will get out early in the morning and wash your face in dew, you will have rosy cheeks from now until next May. Just in case you can't get out that early, you might like to know what May Day is all about.

The Christian aspects of May Day, and of the whole happy month of May, are—to be perfectly honest—a sort of afterthought. All the pre-Christian religions, with their worship of nature, made May the time of their prayers for a good growing season.

The Druids used to have a great May festival in honor of the god Bel, which is the same as the Baal in the Bible, the fertility god who sometimes lured the Israelites away from their devotion to Jehovah.

There are still places in the British Isles where May Day is celebrated with bonfires on the hills-tops, recalling the time when the Druids built fires on which they laid human sacrifices to Bel, in the hope that he would give them good crops during the coming summer.

The Romans, not usually a gentle people, were certainly milder in the way they welcomed the month of May. They dedicated the month to Flora, their (and the Greeks') goddess of flowers, and they spent the first day of May gathering flowers as offerings to her. It is from the Romans and their festival called Floralia that we get our Maypole, our Maybaskets, and the little-known custom of the Maydole.

In ancient times Roman children made little images of the goddess Flora and decorated them with flowers on this day. Later, as Christianity began to take over the pagan festivals, these Maydolls were turned into crude childish likenesses of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

Much of this is foreign to Americans, who know about May Day mostly through their knowledge of European literature. The reason the day never really took hold in this country is that much of the tone of our national life was set by the Puritans, who would have nothing to do with any such pagan foolishness.

In the Roman Catholic Church the month of May has since the late 18th Century been set apart as the Month of Mary, and special devotions have been offered to the Blessed Virgin all through the month.

The ultimate background of this may be the early Church's clever switch from Flora to Mary, but the more immediate reason is that a Father Latona, a Jesuit in Rome 200 years ago, promoted the emphasis on the Blessed Virgin in order to set up a discipline and counteract a looseness of living among his students at the Jesuit College.

The idea of May as the Month of Mary has since spread throughout the Roman Church.

In many Protestant Churches May 1 to 8 is National Family Week, a week devoted to the improvement of the spiritual quality of the American home. The week, sponsored by the National Council of Churches, has as this year's theme "Open Your Home to God."

The Council is suggesting that Christian families stop and take stock this week, by going to church together, by having a family outing together, and by setting aside one evening during the week when the entire family may spend some time as a unit.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
Case 0-318: Clem L., aged 24, is a theological student who handles a little church over the weekends to help defray his expenses.

"Dr. Crane, I get discouraged at the selfishness of people," Clem confessed.

"And they seem to be looking for affronts to their pride. For example, last month I alienated an old gentleman who has been the mainstay of my church for 50 years."

"He hasn't come back during the intervening four weeks, and has canceled his contribution to the church even though I have apologized and tried to make amends."

"His pride is hurt and he now carries a grudge against me. And it all happened innocently on my part."

"Our denomination publishes a weekly magazine. Each local church is supposed to encourage subscriptions."

"That first Sunday I had this notice from my bishop asking me to urge my parishioners to subscribe to the magazine."

"So I read it aloud from the pulpit and then, realizing that somebody should be responsible for handling the subscriptions, I quickly picked on the woman who is president of our missionary society."

"I told my members to see her at the end of the service if they wished to subscribe."

"Well, that's where I went wrong. For this old gentleman had been handling those subscriptions for nearly 40 years."

"And he got incensed because

Ann Francis objects to animal experimenting. I would like to ask her if she has ever watched her mother die of cancer at 46, leaving three young children at home.

Ann Francis, do you have children? Have you ever watched your two-year-old daughter nearly die of brain fever? I thank God on bended knees that some animal may have helped in producing the medicine, which helped to save her.

I recently saw an 18-month-old boy at General Hospital with his tiny face torn open. A tetanus shot received there probably saved his life.

I like animals. I've had a pet of some kind since I was a child. The dog we have now would give his life for us in fire or flood. Yes, and in experiments, too. I imagine you are against rabies vaccination for pets. Animals had to be used to obtain the serum.

If you are a Christian, Ann Francis, have a talk with your minister. Maybe he can set you straight. Use some of your furor to protect the animals owned by the more human group. They need it.

Carl T. Sundquist Says Taxes Could Be Higher

I see where Mrs. Crain is warning people against building in the city of Pontiac on account of high taxes. Actually we are only paying 10 mills city tax compared to Waterford and Avon Township paying 50 mills.

If you think you are only going to pay $4000 in taxes in the next ten years, I think you are greatly mistaken. I'm sure your taxes will double in that time. I don't think $378 a year is high. After all, the policemen and firemen have to be paid and the upkeep of the city must be paid. Maybe you should have your home in Bloomfield if you think your taxes are high here.

'Dog Lovers Should Keep Pets Home, Comfortable'

If you love your dog, you will keep him at home where you know he will not be a nuisance to your neighbor or be hurt by some car.

If you love him, you will see to it that he is comfortable. He will not be lying out in the sun. Why not take him in the house with you during the heat of the day? After all, all he wants is your companionship and love.

If you love him, you will see to it that he is well fed. And not out of your neighbor's garbage can. He will have fresh water to drink at all times from his own dish, and not out of some creek or mud hole.

If you love your dog, you treat him as you would like to be treated if you were in his place.

I Love My Furry Friends

Far Eastern Program Seems to Be Emerging

By The Associated Press
Out of the confusion which has surrounded United States policy toward Far Eastern problems for several months there now seems to be emerging a program.

On the one hand, the administration seems to be recognizing that risking a general war to defend Quemoy and Matsu Islands is unpopular in the United States as well as among the country's Allies. On the other, it may be moving toward extricating itself from such a situation without appearing to retreat from a position which was never firmly taken anyway.

The idea now being considered involves two fields of action. One is to go ahead and start some sort of negotiations with the Chinese Reds looking toward a cease-fire, leaving claims to ownership of Formosa to a later political settlement. This is essentially the procedure used to obtain a cease-fire in Korea.

In this process, it is possible that possession of Quemoy and Matsu would be yielded, while the Nationalists scream just as the South Koreans screamed over stopping their war without retaking North Korea.

Secondly the United States would be working for a far more secure Formosa than exists at present by establishing a permanent military base of her own there. Such information as has been published about prospects for a base has not mentioned one of its most important effects. Proponents say it would be a symbol of determination offsetting the loss of face if Quemoy and Matsu were not defended, and would compensate the Nationalists for any cease-fire which would put their hoped-for but unlikely invasion of the mainland on ice.

From an even more practical standpoint, however, a formal American base on Formosa would put the Chinese Reds in the same position that American troops in Germany have kept Russia in for the last 10 years. It would make a Red attack on Formosa an attack on the United States.

Just as the presence of the 7th Fleet creates that situation regarding an attack by water, so would an American air base and American troops—the Marines are expected to get the call—create an important deterrent against air attack.

The possibility that the Reds would resort to bombing raids to emphasize their claims has been in the forefront of the situation ever since their hurried construction of nearby mainland air bases was revealed. They know they can't stage an invasion through the 7th Fleet.

Baering Down

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
(International News Service)

That twelfth atomic blast of the 1955 series was a test for effect on Army supplies. It did not include evacuees, Army beans or weekend passes.

The effect in Las Vegas was to light up pinball machines. But the fall-out had no direct effect on seniority, influence or sealed orders.

We're trying to decipher what an atomic attack will do to a supply center on an average busy day. So 25,000 foot-tons of fissionated and carbonated doom were touched off at the lobby level.

Below the mushroomed experiment was a million-dollar park of military equipment. Outside the wax mummy zone of Yucca Flats were 27 high ranking officers and Army contractors.

They were wearing blinkers, synchronized windshield wipers on smoked glasses, and had lead-lined underwear. That's nothing new in the Army.

The test of the C.O.D. blast resulted in a million-dollar loss of Army material. A good commissary department can do the same thing counter-signing requisitions in triplicate.

Indicating there will have to be at least 45,000-ton touch-offs to approximate our headquarters paperwork.

The 27 guests of the management weren't much impressed by the mushroomed mismanagement. They have logistics of their own.

This test was a combination Hiroshima - Nagasaki reinforced with Univas. You can add another million-dollars worth of government issue shoes. All lefts.

Clouds of homeless buttons flew over Nevada headed for the East Coast bingo games. The air was loaded with hash-strips and demerits.

The next atomic tests will be over the Pentagon. An experiment will be made to jam the adding machines.

Gelatin Lacking in Two of Meat's Amino-Acids

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.
THE MAIL BOX

Does gelatin contain all the essential nutrients found in meat? Can't get my always controlled, undernourished, thin, to supply the essential complete proteins in other foods. (Mrs. S.S.E.)

Gelatin
Answer—No. It lacks two amino-acids and contains considerable amounts of three others. If your husband eats cheese and eggs and drinks 1 1/2 pints (three glasses) of milk daily he will get all the complete proteins he needs, even though he eats no meat. Nuts, plain wheat, wheat germ, soy beans, peanuts, peas and beans are good sources of protein.

Aluminum Chloride Solution
For fifteen years I have used with great satisfaction the 2% aluminum chloride solution you recommend in the pamphlet on Excessive Sweating. It has always controlled my underarm perspiration, but all of a sudden now it doesn't work. (Mrs. J. R.)

Answer—Perhaps some error in preparing the solution. The strength of the solution I recommend in my pamphlet on Excessive Sweating—for which send stamped, self-addressed envelope—is approximately 15 per cent, or say a level tablespoonful aluminum chloride dissolved in 6 tablespoonfuls of rain water, melted snow or distilled water. Mop the affected skin surface and let it dry before dressing, say three times a week.

That Ghost of Mine
I attended a lecture on health given by you in Duluth at the turn of the century. Recently had trouble with my ears. Asked my dentist, he said I gave you Dr. Brady's ear drops, which are very good. And so they proved. (F. E. H.)

Answer—You have caught me with my sheet off. But turn of the century? That gives me quite a turn. It was in 1936. Instructions for preparation and use of the drops for chronic running ear available on request if you provide stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Convenient Touch
I am 44. A touch of neuralgia has kept me awake a good deal in recent years. Six months ago I began taking sleeping pills. I'd like to give them up. Should I consult a physician or just stop taking the pills? (H. M.)

Answer—If you can just stop taking the dope by all means do so, whether you consult a physician or not. But it would seem that any one only 44 who so recklessly resorts to the use of such dangerous drugs needs medical care.

All Right, They're Forward Rolls
We are disappointed. For more than ten years four members of our family have been doing six somersaults every morning... but now if you are backsliding down... (R. D. A.)

Answer—Never mind what I call 'em—keep on rolling six first thing every morning. I just mentioned that young Bill's physical instructor in college said they're forward rolls. Personally, I still do six somersaults first thing every morning. For illustrated pamphlet telling how and why everybody who is not crippled should do 'em, send stamped, self-addressed envelope. It is titled Invitation to the Somersaultauqua.

Pruritus
Husband driven wild with pruritus (presumably from what the doctor called a cystitis), and he got little relief from many remedies prescribed... sent for your Pruritus pamphlet... grateful for the wonderful relief he obtained from the use of carbon tetrachloride and zinc oxide as suggested in the pamphlet. He is seldom bothered any more... (Mrs. H. P. R.)

Answer—Thank you, Ma'am. Characteristic. Any reader who suffers from itching without apparent cause may have the pamphlet on Pruritus if he or she provides stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Signed letters, not more than one page or the words long, pertaining to personal health topics, not to be considered, except on request, will be answered by Dr. William Brady if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to the Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Mich.

PTA members in each district will assist with registration, serve refreshments to the children and their mothers, and care for the children during the program.

The Rev. Marshall Saunders was master of ceremonies, and the address was by Edward H. Leland, executive secretary of the council.

Remarks also were made by Ralph Bennett, council president; Marlin Hillman, president of the local Business Men's Club, that sponsored the event, and others.

Confident Living

Return to the Almighty--and You Will Be Built Up

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

I spend all too high a proportion of my time on trains and not too long ago I was on a Pullman going from New York to Chicago. The car was warm and I had the door to my bedroom open. I was working on some papers and both the table and the long seat were covered with them.

I could not help noticing a man walking up and down the corridor who would stop as he passed my door and peer in at me, as if I were an animal on display at the zoo. Finally, he put his head in the door and asked if I was who he thought I was. I told him who I was and then he asked if he could talk to me.

I invited him in and noticed immediately that he was badly intoxicated. There's no point in talking to anyone in that condition because they are not in a rational state of mind, so under the circumstances I could see no point in our talking and managed to terminate the conversation.

I did not wish to seem inhospitable, but was glad I had all those papers over the seat because he hadn't been able to sit down. And, fortunately, at this point his wife came along, tugged at his sleeve and got him away.

He came back two or three times that night, and finally I said to him, "I'll talk with you in the morning if you want to come to me then."

"When?" he asked.
"Well," I said, "we get to Chicago about eighty-thirty. Come in at seven or seven-thirty."

"Make it seven," he suggested and I agreed, although I really didn't expect him to remember. But the next morning there he was, bright and early.

"I'm glad to see you looking so well this morning," I told him. "I didn't feel I could talk to you last night because my mind was too tired and not up to it."

"That's a gracious way of putting it," was his answer. "I know whose mind wasn't up to it. But I'm all right now. Do you know why I got the way I was last night? I am so disgusted with myself that I just have to get away from myself for a few hours."

"Did you get any relief?" I asked.
"No," he said. "I'm restless, dissatisfied, unhappy. Do you know what my trouble is?" he asked. "It's that I can't seem to release my deepest desires."

This surprising insight interested me and I asked what was his deepest desire. He told me that it was the one fundamental desire every human being has—to have a sense of worth.

He was right, and William James, the famed psychologist, pointed this out long before this man was born. When a man does not feel he is useful and making a contribution to the world, he begins to lose the precious sense of worthwhileness.

I gave my early morning visitor a Bible text that is packed with creative power. It is from the book of Job: "If thou return to the Almighty, thou shalt be built up. . . . And I told him that if he would try to work this out in his own life, he would find that it was true. He has since told me, "I am working on that text, and already it has done wonders for me. I have a long way to go, but with that text I'll get there."

It seems to me that if we repeat that sentence until its fullest meaning sinks into our consciousness, it can do tremendous things with us. A Viennese psychologist, Dr. Paul Dubois, described this as "the therapy of creative words," the use of words to stimulate the mind and spirit to action.

If you have not fulfilled your deepest desires, try that wise advice from Job, "If thou return to the Almighty, thou shalt be built up." Connect yourself with God's beneficent forces and bring to life within you the joyous feeling that your life is worthwhile.

BUT CAN IT BE FOUND IN THE BIBLE?

People often indignantly demand that Catholics prove their teaching from the Bible.

The Bible is their "rule of faith".... and they argue that every man has the right and ability to discover for himself, by his interpretation of the Bible, what he must believe and do in order to be saved.

We do not question the sincerity of these people and we applaud all who strive earnestly to understand and observe the Scriptures. But—are they right in calling the Bible, privately interpreted, the sole source of Christian teaching?

"Hold the teachings that you have learned," wrote St. Paul, "whether by word or by letter of ours" (2 Thess. II:15). He refers to Christian teachings, some oral, some written.... and demands that all be received.

Christianity did not begin with the Bible. It began with the coming of Christ. The Lord instructed His Apostles to "go forth.... teach all nations"—and to insure that His truths would always be maintained, Christ established His Church, "... the pillar and mainstay of the truth" (1 Timothy III:15).

The last part of the Bible... written by St. John... was not completed until 60 years after the Crucifixion of Christ. There was no Bible in anything resembling its present form until nearly 400 years after Jesus had died on the Cross. And the widespread distribution of the Bible as we know it today was impossible until the invention of printing, some 1400 years after the Savior's death.

By what "rule of faith" did the

Yet today we have nearly 300 different religious denominations in the United States, all calling themselves Christian... all professing the Bible as their rule of faith... and all differing to some extent or another in their understanding of what the Bible means. Could "Christ have left a 'rule of faith' that would permit such confusion? Would He have left the interpretation of His Word to the fallible and changing judgments of men—when our very souls depend on a correct understanding and observance of the things Christ has taught us?

Because this question is all important... because it certainly does matter what a man believes... we invite you to examine the rule of faith of the first Christians—a rule that is still maintained by the Catholic Church. Because the Bible is God's Word, and because He gave it to us for a purpose, we invite you to see what this purpose is. We have an interesting pamphlet on the correct use of the Bible, and we offer it for the inspection of all who are sincerely interested in following the teaching of Christianity as Christ revealed it. Ask for Pamphlet No. 13—KC.

The Old Center Table

By DON D. TULLIS

As we look forward a week to Mother's Day our thoughts return to the old farm home, far removed from town or village, and to the time when the family was a unit and not a fringe of scattered fragments.

One thing stands out in memory,—the big center table, with its floor-length cover. This table was the core of the family circle,—the hub of our universe. Here mother sat with her knitting, father with his weekly paper and the children with their school books. Here all discussions were held and all decisions made.

This table was the family altar on which stood the sacred vessels. Here was the big Bible, with its silver clasp and its pictures of the Flood, the fall of Jericho and Daniel in the lion's den,—together with the family births and deaths, making it impossible for sister to lie about her age.

Here also was the red plush album, a gorgeous creation to be opened only on Sundays or when folks "came a visitin'." It contained a tintype of father and mother on their wedding day, father holding a book and mother with her hand on his shoulder, and a picture of the children all combed and washed, to "have their pictures tuck."

Near by was the stereoscope, germ seed of the stereopticon and cinema, with the slides showing Niagara Falls, Yosemite Valley and the Philadelphia Centennial. Here too were some family souvenirs, a fancy dish, a feather fan, a china cat and a pensive-looking puppy.

The children were especially interested in this table because of the space beneath, which furnished them a hiding place for hearing the neighborhood gossip and, when they were disobedient, an escape from parental wrath.

One day Uncle Billy Hale, a Quaker, came to visit us. Mother warned us that Quakers disliked music, so we crawled under this table and, as he entered began singing lustily "O when shall I sweep through the gates." Mother swept us through in a hurry, but Uncle Billy laughed heartily and said, "Bring them back, Ann, and let them finish their sweeping."

There is a vacant spot in the modern living room. Why not bring back the old center table, with its sacred vessels that held us in awe and its full-coverage cloth that gave us a listening post for current scandals and a hiding place from many a storm?

Christ Church Offers RecitalsNeighborhood Groups Meet in Parishioners' Homes for Bible Study

The annual Spring Series of Carillon Recitals at Christ Church Cranbrook will begin tomorrow at 4 p.m. and continue each week through the first Sunday in June. There will be others but these six constitute the regular series when some guest Carillonneurs will be heard on the bells.

Maurice Garabrant, organist and carillonneur of Christ Church will play Sunday. The Rev. Robert L. DeWitt, rector, said: "Many people have never heard the bells in recital. We hope you will come and sit in your car to hear some of these recitals."

Tuesday, the Women's Auxiliary will have the Rev. Robert H. Whitaker as the luncheon speaker. His topic will be "Athlete of God: the Story of Bishop Ogilby in the Philippines."

The Rev. Perry Williams will begin the study group class on Tuesday morning at 10:45. The course will run for six weeks. The subject next week will be "High Church—Low Church."

Throughout the parish neighborhood groups are gathering in parishioners' homes to think and talk together about an important question in each of their lives—their relationship to God.

Each group has chosen the written material which serves as a starting point for the discussions: Bishop Church's Lenten talks, the current Church School Lectures or particular Bible passages with the host serving as chairman of the evening. More than 35 neighborhoods have come together for the deepening of their faith and Bible study.

Public Relations Director Speaks at Two Services

The Rev. Wayne Fagerstrom, director of public relations for Central Bible Institute, Springfield, Mo., will be guest speaker at the First Assembly of God, 210 N. Perry St. Saturday evening at 7:30 and at the Sunday morning service at 10:45.

The Rev. Mr. Fagerstrom received his training at Central Bible Institute and Drury College, both in Springfield, and the Christian Writer's Institute in Chicago.

In the services, he will tell of the beginning of the Institute in 1922 in the basement of a church with 50 students enrolled. Today there is a 50 acre campus with 50 modern buildings. More than 4,000 young people have been graduated as ministers, missionaries, teachers, musicians and writers.

At the close of the worship hour, the Rev. Mr. Fagerstrom will answer questions about the Institute. The Rev. W. C. Wibley is pastor of the church.

The concerts are scheduled for Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings.

Girls Naturally Become Boy Crazy

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

Being mad about boys is perfectly natural for most girls. The younger they are, the more mysterious and wonderful boys are. What boys think, what they like, and whom they like are all a matter of conjecture and quiet talk among the girls.

This same being on the outside and watching from the sidelines continues even after girls start regular dating. But general adoration of mankind continues.

Frankly, I subscribe to the theory that men are deliciously attractive. I like the way they look, the way they think, the way they talk.

I can understand only too easily how other girls might follow suit. I don't worry too much when I get a frantic letter from a mother that says like this:

"Dear Miss Woodward: Have you some advice for an 11-year-old girl who is boy crazy? She seems to think of nothing but boys!"

I think it's perfectly natural for a girl to think of nothing but boys. There comes a moment when such girls wake up to the fact that boys are unaccountable, unexplainable, utterly delectable, mysterious and romantic.

Of course, the more such girls see of boys the less glamorous they become. The great unknown suddenly turns out to have feet of clay—to be perfectly understandable—to be just more of the human race. Time and experience takes care of that.

The mother of a girl who's going through the first throes of thinking all men divine suffers tortures. Her daughter's fetish drives her crazy, to use the word loosely. But there's nothing to do but wait and see it through.

A mother can subtly and gently deflect daughter's energies and

DIANE RHODES

Mrs. Herbert Montgomery of North Marshall street and Lyman Rhodes of Eureka, Ill., are revealing the betrothal of their daughter, Diane, to Robert Cervenka. The bride-elect's fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cervenka of North Marshall street. The couple is planning a June 25 wedding.

attention into other channels. She can help her organize outings and fun with her girl friends.

She can be her confidante so that she can know which way the wind blows at all times and exert a bit of pressure in the right direction from time to time.

Being utterly boy crazy is a phase. In time, other activities will occupy her emotions and her drive. It doesn't really hurt to realize that boys serve another purpose in life beside being third basemen on a ball team!

There comes a time, however, when you have to decide among men. You can't be crazy about them all. Which is the situation this girl finds herself in.

"Dear Miss Woodward: I thought I was in love with him when he went into the Army nearly two years ago. Since then I've fallen in love and become engaged to one of his best friends.

"During our engagement I continued to write to the first boy; I even sent him a wire for Christmas.

"And now he's back, and it's causing no end of conflict because I feel that I'm in love with both of them. What should I do?"

You should take yourself by the scruff of the neck and ask yourself honestly why you got yourself engaged? Was it simply because the guy was handy, attractive and interested in you? Or were you utterly sure that he is the guy you want to spend the rest of your life with?

Story Tellers Plan Dinner on May 26

Floyd Starr, who attends the annual parties, was presented with a check for $3,000 from the proceeds. The funds will refurbish a cottage that houses 10 boys at the Albion school. In the picture above, Mrs. Starr is shown chatting with Mrs. Milo J. Cross of Ogema road and Mrs. A. R. Young of Shore View drive (left and right).

Clare Ann Slick Weds Frank Jacomino

A gown of candlelight satin and Chantilly lace was worn by Clare Ann Slick when she exchanged her nuptial vows this morning at ten o'clock with 1st Lt. Frank Raymond Jacomino.

The Rev. Thomas F. McNamara performed the ceremony in St. Peter the Apostle Catholic Church of Houston, Texas.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Slick Sr. of Houston, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Edna Jacomino of Auburn avenue and Frank L. Jacomino of North Paddock street.

The sculptured bodice of the bride's gown was designed with an illusion yoke and deep portrait neckline enhanced by applied hand-clipped lace. The shirred satin skirt featured four wide panels of lace and extended into a cathedral length train.

A coronet of heirloom Chantilly lace encrusted with seed pearls secured her finger tip veil of silk illusion, and she carried a bouquet of baby calla lilies. The bride also carried a gold rosary which belonged to her grandmother.

Mrs. William T. Slick Jr. of Winters, Texas, attended her sister-in-law as matron of honor, and Mary Carrio of Dallas was maid of honor.

Sharon Talbot of Pontiac, cousin of the bridegroom, and Tillie Mutina of Houston were bridesmaids. Susan Slick, niece of the bride, was a flower girl.

They wore gowns of green and yellow embroidered crystallette, featuring wide cowl necklines and waltz length skirts. They carried green and yellow cymbidium orchids in contrast to their gowns.

The flower girl's dress was fashioned after the other attendant's gowns in a shade of green. She carried a small basket of yellow daisies.

2nd Lt. Jack E. Kellmann of Bartow, Fla., was best man. Seating the guests were William T. Slick Jr. and Robert C. Slick, brothers of the bride, and Jack G. Stone of Houston.

The bride's mother wore a gown of rose Chantilly lace and a white orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother chose a light blue lace gown with white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Following a reception held at the Junior League in Houston the couple left on a wedding trip through Ohio and Michigan. For traveling the bride chose a navy and white silk suit with navy accessories.

They will make their home in Spokane, Wash., where the bridegroom will be stationed at Fairchild Air Force Base.

Sixth Grade Takes Trip to Canada

The special event was enjoyed by students who will enroll in Wever Junior High School next September.

They were entertained with a program on Windsor, its industries and the Jack Miner Bird Sanctuary.

It was a real education for the students to pass through customs on the return trip over the bridge. Dorothy Weaver and Mrs. F. J. Dennis accompanied the group.

Designer Puts Stress on Costumes

Sheath and Jacket Teamed for Wear Around the Clock

Vera Maxwell is one of our most enthusiastic supporters of the costume as the smart way to dress, a theory that becomes self-evident when presented as a sleeveless sheath with an abbreviated jacket.

A smart combination that will see you through from 9 in the morning till the milkman's matinee, it was shown originally in black linen, its jacket lined with brilliant color, and trimmed with bright contrasting braid.

The sheath, with its important new high, square neckline, is wonderful for evenings dressed up with jewelry, filmy scarves or stoles. Worn with a big brimmed hat and elbow-length gloves, it is perfect for luncheon in town, thanks to the built-up back.

In addition to linen, Mrs. Maxwell suggests pique, shantung and novelty fabrics. Even a lightweight worsted is good since the sheath is lined to the waist.

This pattern is cut to designer measurements, not standard pattern measurements.

Size 12 requires 4 1/4 yards of 36-inch material for dress and jacket, 1 1/4 yards of 36-inch material for contrast and 1 1/4 yards of 36-inch material for lining and interfacing.

To order Pattern 1176, address Spadea Syndicate, Inc., P. O. Box 335, G. P. O., Dept. P-4, New York 1, N. Y. State size. Send $1. Airmail handling 25 cents extra.

American Designer's Pattern Booklet 11 is available for 25 cents. If paying by check or money order, make it payable to Spadea Syndicate, Inc., and add four cents for handling.

Advertising Woman Is Fine Example

By ANNE HEYWOOD

When lazy and shiftless people see an accomplishment made by people who are not lazy and shiftless, they never say: "Boy, isn't she smart!" or "Gee, she really did a good job!" No, they usually sigh and say, "Gosh, isn't she lucky!"

But my experience has been that behind every single so-called piece of luck, there is a good-sized hunk of hard work and brains and determination.

Take Charlotte Montgomery, for example.

Charlotte Montgomery is this year's advertising woman of the year. She's nearly 50, looks nearer 30, is happily married with two grown children, and is one of the country's leading experts on women as consumers.

She writes a column for a trade magazine in the advertising field, lectures to all kinds of groups, and does management consulting with some of the country's biggest firms.

She has a lot of fun and makes a lot of money, and all her friends no doubt think: "Isn't she lucky!"

But here is the story. Mrs. Montgomery had been in advertising before she married. After she married, she settled down to running her house and having her babies.

She kept her hand in a little here and there, writing about the subjects she knew best—babies, and then school-agers and then teenagers. She wrote about house-keeping tips, and entertainment ideas, and she sold her pieces to the magazines.

When her husband went off to the second World War, and the children were in high school, Mrs. Montgomery went back into advertising.

But when her husband came back, he wanted his wife at home again, and Mrs. Montgomery wished to oblige. But she still felt the need for a part-time job.

One day, she was browsing through a lot of magazines. "I noticed a funny thing," she told me. "All those boys were devoting their time to merchandising to the housewife; launching campaigns for baby food and detergents and refrigerators and stoves, but there was not a single word in the magazines from women themselves."

Use Two Diapers

When Baby starts to sleep the whole night through, you find that his diaper is drenched in the morning and perhaps his undershirt and nightie are wet, too. Put two diapers on him when you put him to bed, for greater absorbency.

"Not a single word from a housewife who had actually used baby foods and detergents and refrigerators and stoves."

"So I sat down and wrote a letter, about how wrong I thought it was, and said that the woman's point of view ought to be represented."

And Mrs. Montgomery got one of those "lucky" jobs! Copyright 1955

Sgt. O'Reilly Hated Japs, Married One

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — Sgt. Hugh O'Reilly, a one-time "Jap-hater" who ended up marrying a Japanese girl and adopting an Osaka orphanage, has just been through the experience of watching his own life being filmed.

How did it feel?

"Kind of strange," said the tall, rugged sergeant from New York City. "I didn't think it would affect me, but I found myself bawling as I watched some of the scenes."

O'Reilly's story was recently filmed by Columbia in Japan under the title of "Gentle Wolf-hound." That's the name of the proud regiment with which he fought in Korea. Now the studio may rename the film "Sergeant O'Reilly." The sarge doesn't cotton to the idea.

"Sure, it's a compliment to me," he said, "and I'd be a liar if I didn't say so. But I think the credit should go to the regiment. The men in it contribute $2,000 a month for the support of the orphanage."

O'Reilly can easily wax enthusiastic about the Gentle Wolf-hounds. "It was formed in Texas 50 years ago," he said, "then went overseas in the Spanish-American War. It hasn't been back in the States since."

The regiment is stationed in Hawaii and O'Reilly hopes to be reassigned there this summer. He has lately been at West Point and was off duty to give technical advice on the picture.

His story, which Aldo Ray enacts on the screen, is a dramatic one. An Army-man before the war, he enlisted in the Marines after Pearl Harbor, since he feared the Army would pigeon-hole him to train troops.

He served four years, then tried civilian life for three. He went back to the Army, hoping to get service in Germany. He was sent to Japan.

"I'll admit I went over there with a chip on my shoulder," he

Bill Would Commission Male Nurses in Service

PHILADELPHIA — An Ohio Republican representative says she has the backing of the Defense Department for her bill to commission men nurses in the armed services.

Frances P. Bolton said last night she introduced legislation to give commission to men nurses because "I found it difficult to understand why they were not given the same recognition as women."

Mrs. Bolton, author of the act which created the Cadet Nurse Corps during World War II, made the statements before the graduating class at the Pennsylvania Hospital School of Nursing for Men.

Reward Is Offered for Dog Poisoner

Five dogs on Pontiac's south side have been killed with strychnine poison, according to officials at the Oakland County Animal Welfare Society.

Four of the dogs known dead were terriers. A cocker spaniel was believed to have died near Faddock St. The other deaths were limited to the Wall St.-Oakman St. area.

A $50 reward is being posted by the Animal Society for information leading to the arrest of the person responsible for giving strychnine to the animals.

The first dog's death was reported last Thursday, four others were poisoned since then.

An Animal Society spokesman said the poison was given in small amounts and the dogs' deaths were not instantaneous.

The ringtail, whose head is shaped like a fox but who really is a member of the raccoon family, has a tail so long it measures at least half its total length.

Wisconsin Bill Would Ban Union Political Money

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—A measure chocking off union financial support of political campaigns, passed by the State Senate after a 24 hour Democratic talk attack, rested today before Wisconsin's Republican governor.

Gov. Kohler, after the bill passed the Republican controlled House yesterday, said only that he would study the measure and act in the "best interests of the people of Wisconsin."

The bill cleared the upper House after the Senate's eight Democrats, facing certain defeat, had talked against it in a filibuster that began 24 hours earlier. The measure would prohibit labor unions from making financial contributions to political parties, candidates, or organizations. It would not affect the political rights of individual union members.

The bill cleared the Senate by a 19-14 vote, with six GOP members joining the Democrats. It previously was approved in the Assembly, on a 50-40 vote, where it was introduced by Republican Speaker Mark Catlin Jr.

Assembly Democrats talked against the bill six hours. The Senate talk marathon, the longest meeting in the memory of state law-makers, was choked when Republicans used their strength to force a final vote.

Federal Employment Rises by 1,902 in March

WASHINGTON (AP)—Civilian employment in the federal government increased 1,902 during March to a total 2,355,810, the Senate-House Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures reported today.

The increase was the second in two months, but only the fifth since July 1952.

The increase came "almost exclusively" in the Department of Agriculture, the committee, headed by Sen. Byrd (D-Va.), reported.

Canada Constructing New Atomic Reactor

CHALK RIVER, Ont. (AP)—A huge brick and steel structure nearing completion on the banks of the Ottawa River will house a new atomic energy reactor.

The 145-foot-high research center will dwarf most of the other 150 buildings on the project operated by Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., a government company. The building and reactor—a 40 million dollar undertaking—are being put together with all the accuracy that goes into construction of a battleship.

Essentially a research tool, the new reactor is called NRU. It will be more powerful and modern than Canada's NRX reactor, which has been in operation here since 1947. When NRU goes to work in June, 1956, Canada's facilities for atomic energy research will be among the finest in the world.

NRU will enable scientists to conduct new research into methods of using atomic energy for peaceful purposes, especially in the field of industrial power.

Bucky Strings With Youngsters to Top League

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit Tigers today stood all alone at the top of the American League standings, thanks to a six-game winning streak and an unexpectedly strong showing by the Kansas City Athletics.

Victory string, longest for the Tigers since 1950, was stretched to six yesterday as Detroit edged Washington 3-2.

Kansas City, paced by the three-hit pitching of Bobby Shantz, shut out the New York Yankees 6-0 last night and shoved the Yankees down to 3rd place, half a game behind the Tigers. White Sox, also half a game out, claimed 2nd place, 15 percentage points ahead of the Yankees.

The surprising Tigers can lay much of their success on manager Bucky Harris' confidence in youngsters Frank Lary and Billy Hoelt.

When the two young hurlers failed in their last starting assignments this season, there was some question whether they would get a second chance right away.

But Harris' confidence in them was unshaken. "I'll start 'em against as soon as possible," he said.

Lary and Hoelt didn't let their manager down. They each won their next two starts, pitching strong and sometimes brilliant ball. They've been the backbone of the Tigers' winning streak—longest since the team won seven in a row May 30 to June 6 in 1950. Lary gave up eight hits and was effective in the pinches yesterday in beating Washington.

Another young hurler, Duke Maas of Utica, Mich., was named to make his first big league start for the Tigers today as they closed out the three-game series with the Senators.

Lary, a 24-year-old right-hander, was impressive with runners on base against the Senators. With the Tigers holding a 3-2 lead, Washington's Jim Busby opened the 7th with a triple to center. But he never moved off the bag as Lary retired three straight pinch hitters, fanning two of them.

Only batter Lary had trouble with was Mickey Vernon, but then most pitchers have trouble with the veteran 1st baseman. Vernon knocked in both Washington runs with a single and his 3rd home run.

Vernon's batting gave the Senators a 2-0 lead but the Tigers scored three times in the 6th to wrap up the game. Ray Boone led off with his 4th homer, a drive over the left field screen. Then the Tigers got a break.

With two away and Bill Tuttle on 1st, Lary hit a fly ball to left centerfield. Leftfielder Roy Sievers and shortstop Tony Rolg collided and Rolg dropped the ball, permitting Tuttle to score with the tying run.

Lary wound up on 2nd with a double and scored moments later on Harvey Kuenn's single to right.

Harbert, Cooper Share 2nd Spot in Vegas Event

County Pros Trail Gene Littler, With 143s, 3 Back of Leader

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The third-round bugaboo confronted California's Gene Littler today as he led the field of 20 professional golfers into the three-quarter stage of the $37,500 Tournament of Champions.

The 25-year-old sophomore in the pro ranks from Palm Springs held a three-stroke lead over his nearest rivals after putting together rounds of 69-71 for a 36-hole total of 140.

Tied at 143 were PGA champion Chick Harbert, who added a 74 to his first-round 69, and Pete Cooper, a longshot from Birmingham, Mich., with 70-73.

Littler, a former National Amateur champion, qualified for the Las Vegas tournament by winning not only the Los Angeles Open but also the Phoenix Open last winter.

Littler has had third-round jinxes, however. He led after two rounds in the U.S. Open last year and fell back with a 76 in the third round. He had a good chance to take the lead here in the third round in 1954 but another 76 set him out of the running.

Wind that ranged from 15 to 25 miles an hour swept over the Desert Inn Country Club course yesterday, and more of the same was predicted today.

If it bothered Littler, he didn't show it as he negotiated the 7,102-yard, par 36-36-72 in 34-37-71 strokes.

Whether the gusts could be blamed for others is debatable. But the fact remains that Mike Souchak, after a threatening first-round 71, broke the tournament single-round record with a 42-42-84 that sent him to the bottom of the line with a 155 score. Ed (Porkchops) Oliver held the dubious honor before, an 82 last year, but it should be added that he came back the next day with a sparkling 69.

Sam Snead, with 74-73-147, was no better or worse, but National Open king Ed Furgol, who had tied with Littler and Harbert in the first round, consumed 78 blows to get around.

Another former National Amateur champion, Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex., made news. After a first-day 77, Billy came in with a 67 for the day's lowest score and a total of 144. Tied with him was Bob Toski, last year's big money winner, who shot a 74.

Tom Cross Sets Pace With 80, in Chiefs' Win

Sparked by Tom Cross' steady shooting, Pontiac High School's golf team scored a 123 victory over Bay City Central Friday afternoon on Pontiac's Municipal links. Triumph was the Chiefs' 11th SVC win and their 2nd in five matches.

Cross fired 42-38-80 for medalist honors while downing Gerry Adleman, 3-0. Tom Jacobson's 82 defeated Shelby Houston, 2-1; Dick Singleton posted an 89 to beat John Bronfield, 3-0; and Walt Larson's 88 shut out John DeGolla, 3-0. Pontiac's only casualty was Bill Martin, whose 83 lost to Edwin Rosenbury's 82, 2-1.

Chiefs' win helped atone for Thursday's 8-7 defeat by Flint Northern at the Flint Country Club. Only consolation in that match was Tom Cross' fine 77, as medalist.

Family Matters Take Caroline From School

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (INS)—University of Illinois athletes have revealed that star halfback J. C. Caroline has withdrawn temporarily from school, following the death of his grandfather and the serious illness of his mother.

College officials said last night that Caroline, captain-elect of the 1955 football squad, intends to re-enroll in June when the summer term opens.

Crane Thincads Win

Cranbrook's mile relay team marked up a new school record in the event as the Cranes routed Kennedy Collegiate of Windsor, 72-1-3 to 45-2-3, for their 15th straight victory. The time turned in by the Cranbrook quartet was 3 minutes, 39.9 seconds.

Shantz Blanks Yanks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Pull up a chair and get yourself comfortable, pal. What looked like the same old three-team race in the American League may get to be quite a brawl what with Bobby Shantz back at last and the Detroit Tigers on the prowl again for the first time since 1950.

Shantz, the little fella who's had his arm in hock for two years, checked in again last night with Kansas City Athletics, knocking the New York Yankees for a loop with a dandy three-hitter 6-0.

Cleveland's defending champion Indians discovered it was a brand new season as their pitching again went out the window and Baltimore grabbed its very first victory at Municipal Stadium 5-2.

Chicago was the only touted pennant contender to win yesterday, taking second place as rookie Dick Donovan four-hit Boston 7-0.

In the National only two games were played. Philadelphia joined Milwaukee in second place 4½ games behind the Braves by clubbing the Braves 13-4. Cincinnati clipped Pittsburgh 5-0.

Rain postponed Chicago at Brooklyn and St. Louis at New York.

There were 33,471 fans in the stands — a Kansas City record — as Shantz stood the Yanks on their ears. The 5-6½ southpaw granted the Bombers just three singles in pitching his first shutout since Sept. 19, 1952 when he blanked the Yankees 2-0.

It was the first complete game since July 26, 1953 for Shantz, who sat out 1954 when his arm went dead in the season opener. He's 1-3 for the season.

Donovan, a 24-year-old right-hander picked up his first major league victory against the Red Sox. He fanned six and walked but one while Chicago tagged four Boston hurriers for 11 hits.

Four runs in the ninth won for Baltimore, shelling Mike Garcia out of the game and into his third defeat against one triumph.

Bluejays' Win Cuts IL's Knot

The 3-way tie for 1st place in the Inter-Lakes Conference was cut to 2 Friday as Waterford fell by the wayside after a 1-0 loss to Southfield. The victory for the Bluejays kept them in a tie for the top with Berkeley, which downed Walled Lake, 9-2.

In the other league contest, Van Dyke drubbed Farmington, 11-3.

Ray Filar out-dueled Steve Keblor to give Southfield its nod. He yielded only 2 hits to the Skippers, while the Jays made 3 off Keblor. The game's lone run came in the 4th inning.

Steve Klamik drew Keblor's only walk. He gained 2nd when an error ensued off an attempted pick-off. After Keblor wild-pitched him to 3rd, he scored on an infield out.

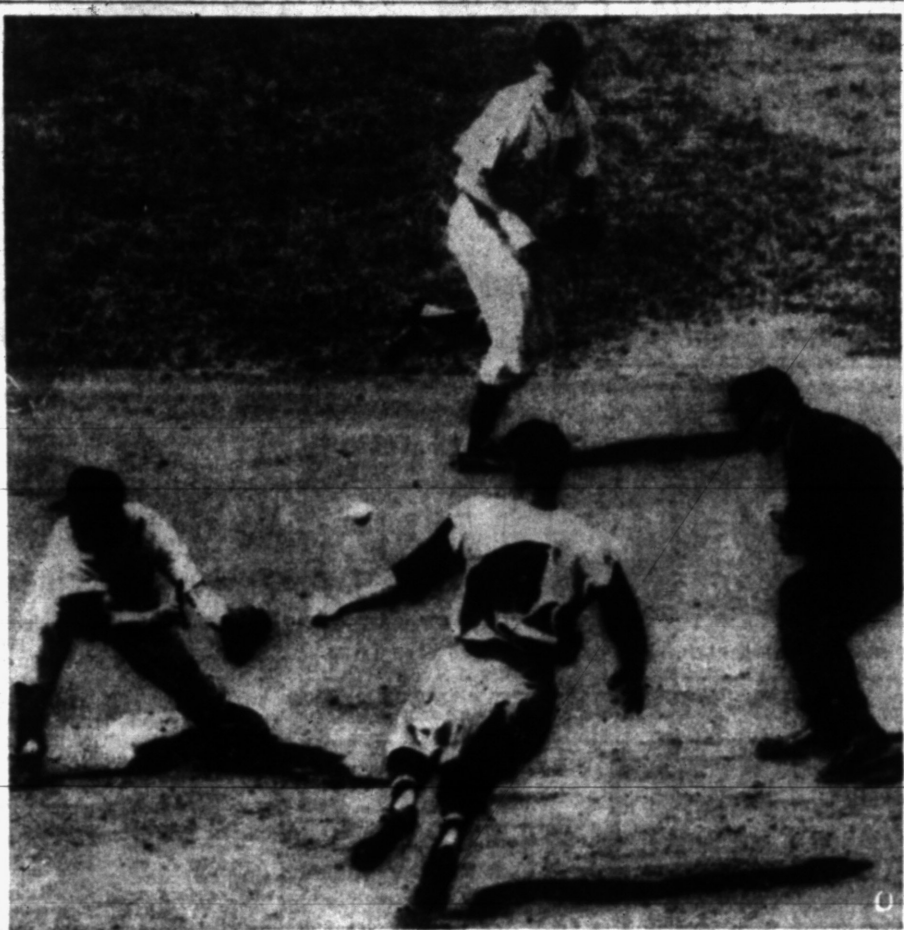

Herb Duncan, who teams with Bob Blackwell as Berkeley's 1-2 mound punch, tossed a one-hitter at Walled Lake, registering 14 strikeouts. Dion's single in the 3rd was the Vikings' lone hit. Jerry Costello belted a 3-run homer for Berkeley in the 3rd.

WL Thincads Make Comeback, Beat Howell

Don Smith's Walled Lake High School track team rebounded from its one-point loss to Cranbrook earlier in the week to take a 67 2/3 to 41 1/3 victory over Howell on the latter's track Friday.

The Vikings won 9 events, with John Reid taking the 100-yard dash and high jump, in addition to turning a leg on the victorious half-mile relay team. Don Pounds set a Howell track record in the 440 in 33.5 seconds, which is only one-tenth of a second of the WL varsity mark.

Jerry Avery cut his mile time to 4:53 and Virgil Barnett won the shot put with a good toss of 45 feet, 5½ inches.

Drake Relays Feature Track Fast, Competition Good, Santee Renews Quest for Four-Minute Mile

DES MOINES (AP)—A record-dotted Drake Relays wound up its two-day stand today with Wes Santee again seeking the elusive 4-minute mile in the top feature.

The speedy Kansas, only a half-second from his goal once this spring, hoped to achieve it with the lash of hot competition from five able opponents upon a fast track.

The special invitational mile was set for 4:45 p.m. (EST). In it as Santee's expected top challenger was Fred Dwyer, formerly of Villanova and a winner over Wes indoors last winter.

Sharing the spotlight with the mile was a 16-event program in which several more records appeared certain to be made to go with the four established yesterday.

The university section was dominated by the fleet Oklahoma Aggies who were out to surpass Illinois' feat of winning five relays in 1943 for a Drake high.

The Aggies got off to a fast start yesterday with two triumphs. One was a record performance of 3:20.4 in the sprint medley in a tight duel with Michigan State. The other was an easy conquest in the 4-mile relay. The time was 17:21.6 made without a worthy challenge.

There were two other records in the running events. Miami of Ohio was timed in 10:13.7 in the college distance medley and Abilene Christian did 41.4 in the preliminaries of the 440-yard college relay.

Big Carl Vereen of Georgia Tech, yesterday to represent the Southern school in the relays, cracked the discus record with a mighty toss of 172 feet, 11 inches. He made it on his last effort to beat the mark of 170-3 set by Bryl Thompson of Minnesota in 1949.

Bobby Hunt of UCLA won the 2-mile run in 9:12.5; Kim Ellis of Oklahoma A&M took the broad jump at 24 feet, 1½ inches and Bob Gerdeman of Omaha University was the winner in the 440-yard hurdles in :53.7.

Campbell, Floridan, in North-South's Finale
PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—Bill Campbell, Walker Cup team captain from Huntington, W.Va., who only four months ago wondered if he'd ever again play championship golf following an accident that left his hands badly burned, today met 20-year-old Don Bispinghoff of Orlando, Fla., for the North and South Amateur Golf Championship.

Cooper Makes Good Showing at Las Vegas

The newest addition to Oakland County's professional golf contingent, Pete Cooper, is making a strong showing in the rich Las Vegas tournament of champions. Cooper matched the 2-round total of PGA champion Chick Harbert of Meadowbrook with a 70-73-143 to sit 5 strokes back of leader Gene Littler going into today's 3rd round.

The 39-year-old Cooper, a native of Florida, is taking over a Knollwood Country Club this season, replacing Herm Fiebig. An 8-year veteran of the pro tourney circuit, Cooper was the victor in last year's Virginia Beach Open, but did not defend his title this spring.

Boston Dogs Favored for 11th Straight Win

NEW YORK (AP)—Tough little Boston Dogs, the colts who've never been defeated, will be the odds-on favorite to hang up his 11th straight victory in the $20,000-added Swift Stakes at Belmont Park.

Nine 3-year-olds were nominated for the Swift Stakes, and the pride of Boston will be seen on television for the first time in the 7-furlongs dash. The race will be on ABC television and radio, 3:15-3:30 p.m., EST.

Sunday Drill Set

A Sunday afternoon workout has been arranged for members of the Pontiac CIO No. 594 baseball team. Manager Arthur Hearn announced this morning. It will be held on Washington Junior High field at 2:30 o'clock, and candidates for places should report promptly.

Weather's Fine, Anyway! Fishing Pressure Heavy but Creels Are Light

With perfect weather, clear and normal streams in the Oakland County area, Pontiac and county trout enthusiasts were out in near-record force today at the start of the Michigan trout season.

While the conditions were excellent, the fishermen's luck wasn't so good, according to spot checks made early today with boat livery operators and conservation officers. The turnout was unusually heavy, officers reported.

At Gregg's boat station on Union Lake, Russ Hosmer of Cooley Lake road, was one who had good luck. Russ landed three nice rainbows in the early hours, but few reports were heard of the fishermen's luck. Strong winds did not appear to hamper the boat fishermen.

Conservation officer Howard Johnson reported a heavy turnout of hopeful anglers at Oxbow Lake, and on the Huron and Clinton rivers. He had few reports of success, however.

Fishermen testing Pontiac streams and lakes today were estimated at several thousands, including a heavy invasion from the metropolitan Detroit area.

More than 250,000 legal trout have been planted in state streams in advance of this date. An estimated 150,000 trout were expected on the move today on all the state's fine fishing waters.

Not all activity was confined to lakes and streams. More than 10,000 persons were on hand yesterday when Biggie Munn, Michigan State College athletic director, was crowned king of the National Trout Festival.

Munn in turn crowned Ella Shute, attractive 18-year-old Boyne City brunette, queen of the festival and gave her a big kiss.

Munn, an avid angler, tried his luck today for rainbows on the Log river. Fishing with Munn were Art Rouse, Boyne City, member of the state board of agriculture; Fred Stables, MSC sports publicity director, and Eric Sleder, Traverse City Chamber of Commerce member.

Wolverines Trip Illini While Spartans Batter Gophers

CHICAGO (AP)—Michigan took over undisputed possession of 1st place in the Big Ten baseball race yesterday with a lopsided victory over Illinois while Minnesota and Indiana suffered their 1st conference setbacks.

Undeclared Wolverines pounded out 18 hits for a 13-3 decision over Illinois. Marv Winiowski fanned 13 Illinois batters and slammed out a two-run homer. Danny Cline and Gene Snider also homered for Michigan.

Iowa won its 1st game of the year and Minnesota lost its initial game as the Hawkeyes rallied late in the game for a 7-3 triumph. Ken Meeks' bases-loaded double in the 7th backed Bill School's five-hit pitching for the triumph.

Northwestern sophomore Dale Pienta held Indiana to five hits and picked up a 5-1 victory to give the Wildcats their 2nd win against two losses. Dick Ranicle led Northwestern's 11-hit attack with three hits in four trips.

Michigan State's defending champions moved into a 2nd place tie with Minnesota by hammering Purdue, 22-8. The Spartans pounded out 17 hits but were heavily aided by eight Purdue errors.

Purdue led 8-6 after six innings but MSC erupted for 16 runs in the last three innings getting seven in the 7th. Alan Luce had a grand slam home run in the big 7th. John Enrietto hit a home run with two on in the 3rd to tie the score at 5-5.

Ohio State pitcher Hal Northrop accounted for six runs in a one-sided 14-5 triumph over Wisconsin. It was Wisconsin's 4th straight loss.

Northrop knocked in three runs and scored three as he held the Badgers to seven hits.

Games today: Michigan State at Illinois (2); Indiana at Wisconsin (2); Minnesota at Iowa (2); Michigan at Purdue (2); Ohio State at Northwestern (2).

THE HADLEY HOLLY HOME—When the Maurice Hadleys of Holly decided to build a house—they chose a soft contemporary with an exterior of horizontal redwood and used the maximum of wood paneling for interior wall finishes. Wide overhangs painted in an apple green control the entrance of sun for the nine-room, two bathroom home. Note the slightly-slanted posts supporting the front overhang. A planter in red brick across this section which is the long living room

Your Neighbor's House

Holly Hadleys Design 9-Room Redwood Contemporary

By HAZEL A. TRUMBLE
A redwood contemporary — long, low and the ultimate in comfort and convenience—nestles on a double city lot at 700 Baird St., Holly. This is the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Hadley and their two children, Tommy and Janie.

The one-story, nine-room and two bathroom house is designed so that both sides and ends look like house fronts. This is achieved with different porches and patios and trim notes which are traditionally saved for the front of the house.

Designed by Hadley, who is a Holly lumber dealer and a former architectural student, the exterior is done in horizontal redwood with the wide overhang supported with slightly-slanted vertical posts in the green color of the trim hue.

The only two walls in the entire house which are papered or painted are in the dining room and the laundry room. The other rooms are fully paneled in beautifully treated oak, driftwood, cedar, and birch. This, points out Mrs. Hadley, minimizes annual upkeep and although the initial cost is higher, pro-rated over several years, there is a substantial savings with paneled walls.

Hadley planned the traffic lanes of the home so that the bedroom wing is accessible from the kitchen, the front hallway and a side entrance. This frees the living room from everyday traffic.

A wide hallway divides the living room and the dining room. This unit has one wall in a combination planter and cabinet with its upper section in frosted and fluted glass. Otherwise a dark area, the glass admits light from the dining room for the hallway.

The living room, completely paneled in rubbed oak, has a soffit running along the front and side wall in which is installed recessed overhead lighting. A large picture window centers the front wall with built-in oak bookcases at each end.

The Hadleys have achieved a lovely color scheme for this room which highlights the paneling with the use of turquoise for a sofa, gold wool tweed for occasional chairs and draperies in large leaf patterns in chartreuse, cafe au lait and beige.

End windows in the living room are California contemporary in

Landscaping Ups Home Values, Joy of Living

Careful landscaping around a home raises its value hundreds of dollars and makes it a much more pleasant place in which to live. Choose a home plot where tall, strong trees have been left standing; not where you must go to the expense of planting your own trees.

Check the soil for growing grass and shrubs. Not all soils are suitable. You may have to pay heavily for new topsoil.

Has your builder planned for the possible addition of an outdoor terrace?

Has he placed the home so the terrace would have a good view and be rationally related to the rest of the house? If you buy a home with a terrace, be sure it's constructed of a weatherproof material such as quarry tile which withstands rain, snow, freezing cold and the hot sun of summer.

The terrace will cost you more, but its value for happy outdoor living for the entire family will make it more than worthwhile.

Terrace Barbecue Can Be Attractive

A barbecue pit will add new interest to your outdoor terrace, and it can be built at little cost.

It can be made attractive, too, and different by surfacing it with decorative tile, which is not only fireproof but also easy to keep clean. All food stains come right off with just a damp cloth.

height allowing for maximum use of wall areas.

Brass and crystal lamps, tables and desks in waxed maple and another pair of chairs in beige and brown tweed complement this large room.

The dining room, with one wall papered in a green and white abstract print, has built-in china cabinets.

Mrs. Hadley's kitchen is family-sized. "By choice we wanted a kitchen where the entire family could eat and still have room for meal preparation," she explained.

One end wall is done in driftwood. The cupboards are in green with yellow counter tops matching the color of the soffit paper in a small print. Scatter linoleum with a beige background is used for the floor.

The long hallway which connects the bedrooms is walled in stained driftwood and holds a multitude of doors for storage area. Wrought iron hardware is used for these units.

For bedrooms, the Hadleys selected birch panels for their room, Korona for daughter Janie's room and driftwood for Tommy's room.

The master bedroom has a green ceiling to highlight the birch walls with bedspreads in a lighter shade of the same color. Twin built-in closet doors open to reveal slide-out shelves. This type of facility dispenses with the necessity of bureaus and chests.

Janie's room has Scotch plaid curtains with a full-wall sliding door closet. There are pegged floors in this room and in the other bedrooms and hallways.

Tommy's room has a wall of built-in shelves for books and his typical boy's collection items.

The bathroom, complete with built-in tub and separate stall shower with frosted glass door, is done in gray tile. One wall holds a built-in dressing table with chartreuse for trim notes.

The most-lived-in-room in the house, the family den, has a red brick fireplace with walls paneled in cedar. Dropped soffits with recessed lighting are used for this room, too. The floor is covered in rubber tile with shades of terra cotta, blue, green on a beige background. Red leather chairs provide furnishings for the room and both sides of the fireplace are flanked with bookcases.

Green and yellow colors the laundry room with its washer and dryer and long walls of cupboards for storage.

A screened-in porch with brick floor connects the family den with the fenced-in backyard. Attached to the house is a two-car garage.

shows the dropped oak soffit in the living room with its recessed lighting. Twin bookcase cabinets are built in of the same wood at each end of the large picture window.

"Mr. and Mrs. Martin..." Strictly for the Birds...

By STEVE ELLINGSON
Everybody should protect the birds. After all, the dove brings peace and the stork brings tax exemptions. And in this day and age, what is more important?

People can learn a lot from birds. They're cheerful, good housekeepers and wise parents. When the young birds are old enough to fly, the old one's push them out of the nest. They seem to know that if the young ones are pampered, they'll never develop wings or anything else.

Lots of times parents are reluctant to release their children to the world. They want to continue to look after them even after they have grown and matured. But like birds, we are put into the world to make our own way. If someone provides for us, then we slump and never learn how to take care of ourselves.

That's a good reason why parents should never struggle to make things easy for their children, because actually all that does is to make life harder for them later on. Birds love their offspring just as much as people, but even so, they don't waste any time teaching them to shift for themselves. That's probably why they're always happy. Even on cloudy days, birds have a cheerful chirp.

Yes, people can learn a lot from birds. And since they are such competent teachers, we should encourage them to be around us, where we can watch them. Maybe even build a few bird houses, say like the one pictured here with NBC's television actress Denise DeLacey.

This is a Martin house and constructed just the way Mr. and Mrs. Martin like it. It seems these birds go for the apartment type of dwelling. The one pictured here will hold fourteen families. If you want it larger, all you do is to add more floors, some people have six or seven stories to these little houses. The pattern tells how.

Martins are very clean birds, so when they come back each year they like to have a clean house. Therefore this one is designed so that it can be taken apart and the old nests thrown out each spring. Martins prefer to have their house standing on a pole, so when you have finished building it, that's probably where you will place it.

Of course, building this house is very easy. Since young boys like bird house projects, we have kept the pattern very, very simple. They will have no difficulty understanding it. All that's necessary for them to do is trace the pattern on wood, then saw it out and finally put it together. Simple hand tools are all they will need.

When boys get started on this project, be like the birds. Let them figure things out for themselves, don't help them too much. That's where they develop ingenuity and self reliance. About the only materials they will need are a few scraps of wood. The cost is practically nothing. And that isn't all, when the boy has made the house himself, you can depend on it, he'll study the feathered family, just as soon as it moves in.

To obtain the full size martin bird house pattern No. 143 pictured here send 50 cents in coin to Steve Ellingson, The Pontiac Press, Van Nuys, Calif.

About 30 per cent of college-age people in Utah are in college, but the percentage in Michigan is 17, and in the Carolinas, 10.

Heat Will Soften Window Pane Putty

To replace window panes, it is necessary to remove every trace of old putty so the new putty will stick. Sometimes this is difficult without damaging the wood surface.

One way to do it is to heat the old putty to soften it. New tank type propane blow torches, throwing a fine pencil flame, are handy for this job.

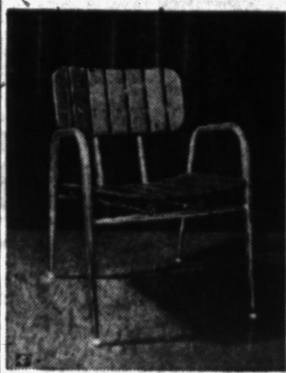

Gently heat the putty until it is pliable. Move the flame slowly and steadily. Do not hold it too long in one spot.

Use a putty knife or scraper to remove the heated putty as you progress with the flame. Then apply a heavy coat of linseed oil to the bare wood to keep it from soaking oil out of the new putty.

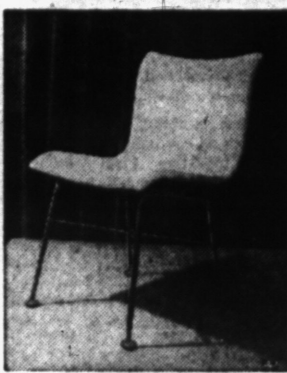

It is possible to grind eyeglass lenses in 11,132,544 different combinations of curvature.

New Chair Designs Will Bring the Indoors Outdoors

THE TERRACE will look more like a living room than the living room will look like the patio this year. New outdoor furnishings are built on that premise. And although materials used—redwood, wrought iron, canvas, sailor cord—are said to be weather resistant they are designed to be perfectly at home indoors, providing fancy streamlined furniture.

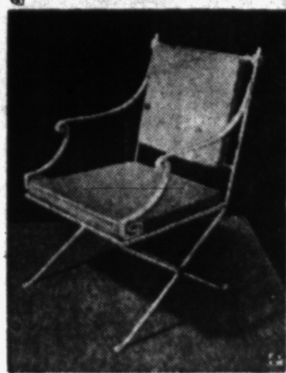

Redwood back and seat give a new look to that wood, especially for indoor use. Gold anodized aluminum legs are capped with plastic feet. May be used outdoors without worry.

Strictly nautical is this wrought iron chair designed for outdoor use. Back and seat are of knotted nautical cotton cord. It is weather-resistant, still smart enough for the living room.

Natural canvas seat and back go to this chair with arms and legs of redwood. It was designed for a different look outdoors without sacrificing beauty for its indoor role.

Wrought iron in the season's big shade of pink gives a lithe appearance to this smart chair reminiscent of Pompeian styles. Cushions are foam rubber in contrasting aqua.

Overscouring Bath Fixtures Spoils Enamel

Don't scour your plumbing fixtures if you want them to keep their new and lustrous appearance.

This is the advice of experts, who point out that all household cleansers are mildly abrasive. If used in moderation with plenty of water, most cleansers are harmless. But hard scouring, with too much cleanser and not enough water, will scratch the finish of fixtures.

The enamel of a bathtub also can be scratched if you stand in the tub with your shoes on. Shoe soles carry gritty particles. Dropping tools, or scraping fixtures with kitchen utensils and scrub pails also will make the finish more susceptible to stains.

Amateur photographers are warned not to use a bathroom for a darkroom. Plumbing fixtures can become stained from even a brief contact of film developer.

Stains also can be caused by raw vegetables or fruits allowed to stand in a sink for long periods.

Other acid stains have been caused by storing soiled diapers in a bathroom or lavatory.

Keeps Floors Clean

The smoother the floor, the easier it is to clean. This applies to any type of flooring. Buffing with steel wool of flooring. Buffing with steel wool with an electric polisher is usually the best method. In many places power buffers can be rented, or professional floor polishers can be hired to come in about once a month. Buffing simplifies the care of hardwood floors as well as asphalt and rubber tile floors.

Mud Can Make Snug Home

ALBUQUERQUE — Mud homes are getting to be quite the thing again in the southwest.

Dr. Sherman Smith, director of student affairs at the University of New Mexico, is one of the latest to move into one at Albuquerque. "We like it," he says. "We like its looks, for its quiet, for its insulation."

His mud home is newly built of adobe—clay mud mixed with straw, cut into blocks and dried in the sun.

Does it look good? The state administration thinks so. The university's buildings all hold to the plain, clean lines of the traditional architecture of this land of the Pueblo Indians.

And there is a rule that homes built by the faculty members on land they lease from the university also must be built in Pueblo style.

Dr. Smith went all the way. homes on his many visits out He'd seen lots of older adobe North Carolina where he used to teach chemistry.

He learned of Bob Koehner, who was stationed here in 1941, "fell in love with the place" and came back after World War II to live. This modern adobe construction is a reawakening to the value of an ancient building material, and Bob is one of the very few on the ground floor as a builder.

Bob was in photography in Chicago before the war and came out here with an eye for art. After the war he married Mela Sedillo, from a widely-known and ancient New Mexico family, in 1946. Mela was teaching art at the university when Bob met her.

He and Mela moved into an old adobe home on Guadalupe Trail north of Albuquerque. Bob remodeled it, then bought the "old ruin" next door and remodeled that. Then he began working for a conventional home builder. "He saw my work in our home," Bob said, "and got interested in adobe construction. We were planning to go into business together, but he died. A lawyer, Dave Gallagher, now of Colorado Springs, saw my work and like it and I built him a big home—my first one. Since then I've built about a dozen and remodeled a lot of old ones."

These new homes Bob builds of 'dobes made by Albuquerque craftsman Lolo Leyba run from $20,000 to $30,000.

"You don't build them fast," Bob explains. "It's more a hand job than a conventional home."

As for the old places that could be fixed up. "They're getting scarce," Bob says. "The choices men have been bought and repaired. What's left usually is beyond repair."

Bob has just moved into one of the "choice" old ones he was repairing. It's on El Camino de la Adena—the Road of the Foot-ills, long ago changed by the invading "Anglos" to Highland Road. Balbino Martinez, Bob's chief carpenter and a member of a family here since the days of the Spanish Conquistadores, Colorado, says the house is "at least 250 years old."

Bob builds his homes in the traditional manner but with modern improvements that make them more substantial. For instance, the walls of the old homes had no foundation. Mela says, "The old places have grown into the earth."

The new ones stand on solid concrete foundations and have

Air Conditioning Costs Much Less in Insulated Bldg.

Insulation of your home—or lack of it—has a lot to do with the initial cost of the air-conditioning equipment you may be buying. And it means even more in terms of lower operating cost.

Tests conducted by the University of Illinois on a 4½-room house showed that 6-ton air-conditioning equipment would be needed in a house that is not insulated. But with a minimum of 3 inches of mineral wool insulation in walls and 4 inches between the ceiling joists, 2-ton equipment would do the job.

The cost of insulating the house with mineral wool was estimated to be less than $240, and this would result in reducing the initial cost of air-conditioning equipment by $640. The expense of operating the equipment also would be reduced more than half year after year.

hard plaster inside and out to protect the mud blocks.

They have the traditional six-inch thick earth roofs, but on top of that they have guaranteed modern tar-paper, asphalt and gravel surfaces. The traditional heavy decorative beams support the ceilings. On top of those are laid naturally-finished planks, straight or laid like herringbone. Above that is the earth roof.

The inside walls are the traditional white. The ancients adopted that color because it was the color of the plaster they made from gypsum deposits like the huge dunes of White Sands National Monument.

The windows are deep-set with wide sills as in the old homes.

Says Dr. Smith: "We live on a very busy street, but inside this house it's as quiet as can be. It's because the walls are a foot thick, and although we live under the approach to buy Kirtland Field, the thick earth roof keeps out the drone of propellers and the shriek of jets."

And Mela says: "In hot weather you don't know there's a summer outside, and winter storms never show a hint inside."

Does the mud hold up?

Scattered over New Mexico, Colorado, Texas, Arizona, Utah and California are buildings set up in the time of the Spanish conquest hundreds of years ago. Those that have been kept in repair still are substantial.

Carpet Beating Days Gone - We Hope

The time was when someone in the home, and it usually was Mother, pulled up myriads of carpet tacks and tussled with bulky carpets finally getting them out into the yard and on lines where they were beaten hard and thoroughly once or twice a year.

The rest of the time they were swept with a broom which not only meant hard work but raised lots of dust to settle onto everything in the house, part of it again.

Today's vacuum cleaners have freed homemakers from such drudgery. A good vacuum cleaner removes the dust and dirt from rugs and carpets and safely retains it. Methodically used, it obviates the necessity for having ever to take the carpet up and outside for a beating.

The inviting warmth and elegance of the cork look is used to fullest advantage in this charming modern living room. The modern corner fireplace and adjoining window-seat wall are painted a soft, sunny yellow, with the other walls finished in stark white. Window draperies, window-seat cushions and slab-type couch upholstery are in deep russet colors. The functional black iron and brass fireplace accessories and the distinctive Chinese screen, floral arrangements and decorative wall prints, underline the richness of the Corkstone asphalt tile floor laid in a random square and oblong pattern that shades from soft beige to deep random natural cork tones.

Home Owner Be Individual

Color Selection Points
Way for Making House
Different

"There used to be two main ways of color-styling a house, and they're both on the way out," says color consultant Frederic H. Rahr. "The first approach was to paint the whole house white, except the shutters, which were usually green. The alternate method was to buy six or eight vivid colors and turn the house into a rainbow."

"Color selection today is color coordination. It beats the old ways because it allows the homeowner to express his individuality without being afraid he's violating any rules of good taste."

Color coordination, Rahr explains, means picking an attractive roof color, then selecting colors for siding and trim to harmonize with the roofing.

"And to make coordination simpler," he adds, "more and more manufacturers of paints, asphalt roofing, asbestos siding, and other building materials are coloring their products in related tones."

Thus, Rahr says, the homeowner has a virtually unlimited choice of colorful building material with which to style his house.

For example, the householder who plans to build or remodel with a roof of blue-green asphalt shingles may select powder blue for the siding, charcoal for the eaves and window trim, and coral for the accent.

"Accent" refers to a vivid contrast color applied to a limited area, usually to the front door, and sometimes to window boxes or other details. The accent color acts as a focal point for the observer's eye.

If the roof is to be pastel green asphalt shingles, related combinations include pale green siding, dark green trim, and bright yellow accent, or cream siding, pastel green trim, and yellow-green accent.

"Today," Rahr concludes, "many building materials are being made with 'built-in,' long-lasting colors, colors that satisfy the fustiest appetite."

Workshop Patterns

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

This cupola is 27 1/2 inches high without the weathervane, and is 16 1/2 inches wide at the bottom. It is made in three sections. The base is joined to the roof with angle irons and the birdhouse and roof sections are then added to it. The sides of the birdhouse are hinged for easy cleaning. The pattern gives actual-size cutting guides for the rafters and roofing. The weathervane which is on a separate pattern may be cut out of wood or metal. The cupola pattern shows just how to saw angles to fit any roof and to attach securely without any roof alterations. Please order patterns by number; 407 for the cupola and 241 for the weathervane. These patterns are 25 cents each.

Cobwebs Bow to Vacuum

The vacuum cleaner is truly a versatile piece of equipment. An unsightly spider web which appears suddenly in a corner, the dust on the tops of window and door frames, all can be whisked away easily by the helpful vac. Rough plaster walls, the dust around stair posts are gathered up in short order. Wherever dust accumulates it yields to the "persuasion" of your versatile vac.

Folding Cots Take on Eye Appeal With New Designs

NEW YORK — The growing conviction in American living that even utilitarian items should have eye appeal is nowhere more evident than in the work-a-day camp cot. With new innovations in styling, as well as portability, the one-time hidden-away adjunct to "away from it all" trips now offers the "unexpected guest" an inviting couch for a sound night's sleep.

A new folding cot, features four shaped metal legs, easily inserted in slots in the cot's wooden frame. The user derives more comfort, the manufacturer explains, from sleeping on the fastly-drawn canvas. When the supporting metal legs are removed, the cot folds, for easy storage, into a unit only 15 inches by 38 inches. The low construction of the legs makes more "headroom" in tents, while its lightness provides easy portability.

Members of the National Association of Summer Furniture Manufacturers are developing new items that serve both as camp cots and as sun beds. One such item has a frame of heavy aluminum tubing, with covering in either saron or canvas. The bed, quickly folded for carrying or storage, fits into a space 36 inches long, 27 inches wide and four inches deep when not in use.

Another folding sun cot, in aluminum, weighs only 9 1/2 pounds. A canvas "bed" is laced with plastic cording to the frame for resiliency and comfort when sleeping. When folded, the cot requires no more storage room than an average outdoor chair.

Triple purpose—for use as cot.

New York Has Tile for 77,000 Bathrooms

How would you keep them clean? Engineers for New York City underground tunnels, which are lined with enough tile to surface some 77,000 bathrooms, answer the challenge by having the arteries lined with ceramic tile, which comes beautifully clean with almost no effort.

Water trucks simply spray the tiles regularly and dust, grime from millions of auto exhausts, and the toughest grit vanish from tile's impervious, rugged surface.

With tile's different colors and decorative design, the material makes ideal surfacing for modern bathrooms. It insures a sanitary bath and a handsome one, too.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

Streamline for Summertime

Mother Can Plan Home to Release Her Time for Children

Vacation time for the kids won't be vacation time for Mother unless the house is streamlined for summer activities and as many short cuts as possible worked out for house cleaning chores.

Wear and tear on floors and rugs is always a major summer problem, with the youngsters and their friends in and out of the house all day. In this day of small area rugs rather than large carpets probably the best solution to summer upkeep problems is to remove the rugs and enjoy the clean, cool look of bare floors, which are wonderful summer work savers.

The new type of floorings which are found in so many modern homes require only simple care in the summer if one gives them the proper attention at the time of spring house cleaning. These floorings, the vinyl plastics, linoleums, asphalt and rubber tiles all can be treated with the same type of self-polishing wax.

The floors should be treated with a good cleaner and then rinsed thoroughly with clear, warm water and allowed to dry before the wax is applied. If any cleaner is left on the surface the wax may water spot. Thereafter, the floors can be dusted daily with a dry mop and occasionally be damp mopped. Heavy traffic areas should be re-waxed as the shine wears away.

The wax will maintain gloss on the vinyl plastic floors, protect the surface of the floors and reduce soiling, all points to remember during the summer when traffic will be heavy.

Winter drapes will, of course,

MODERN VENTILATION—Interior kitchen is practicable in this unusual plan suitable for different exterior treatments. This can be a contemporary house with butterfly roof, or a more conventional ranch style. Three bedrooms and two bathrooms are completely segregated from living quarters, which include an informal activity room. This is Plan 216 by Paul T. Haagen, 380 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago 1, Ill.

Today's Kitchen Relies on Tile for Color, Pattern

Friendly colors and decorative design enhance the efficiency of kitchens in new homes today.

Producers of quality materials for the kitchen are now bringing out their products in a wide variety of work-inspiring colors and designs. There are some 200 different colors to choose from in tile, for instance, and a great range of shapes, patterns and textures.

Practical not only for floors and walls because of its durability, decorative tile is also being used in finer homes for splashbacks behind the range and sink.

Work counters, too, are surfaced with the stainproof and waterproof material. Indeed, one of the latest trends in kitchen design is the all-tile work "island" conveniently located in the center of the room.

Painting Saves Window Frames

Coordinate Colors for Overall Looks of House

Windows need the warmth of good color as much as any other part of the house. Windows are eyes to a home, and the paint selected should harmonize with the roof, siding, and trim colors. If the windows are wood they can be readily redecorated to suit a change in the overall color scheme.

Painting windows is simple, but keep these pointers in mind:

Paint new windows before installation, not after, especially in newly built houses. Modern wood window units are precisely manufactured millwork and must be protected from moisture and plaster spatter during building operations if they are to give best service. Factory-built units of ponderosa pine are already protected with a water-repellent preservative treatment against warping, swelling, shrinking, and rotting.

A prime and one additional coat of paint or other finish, both inside and out, will prevent putty failure and afford protection during construction. The prime coat should be relatively thin paint, for ready absorption by the wood, and fast drying.

When painting the outside, lap paint or varnish onto the glass slightly and cover the putty thoroughly. On the inside, paint or varnish up to the glass.

Keep the paint off weatherstripping. If paint gets on the weatherstrip, wipe it off immediately. Use solvent and steel wool if necessary. Otherwise the windows will stick.

Time will be saved in the long run if operating handles are removed during painting. Protect other hardware with some kind of covering.

If the window is a casement or awning type, don't close the sash until the paint is dry. This will prevent fouling the weatherstrip with paint, and will keep the sash from sticking in the frame.

If it is a double-hung window, paint and dry the sash before placing them in the frame.

Room Divider for Plants

Decorative tile surfacing for your room divider combines practicality with appearance. The ceramic material is really durable and retains its colorful, decorative appearance forever. If you have potted plants or flowers in the room divider, the waterproof, stainproof tile is eminently practical.

The Cullinan diamond weighed 1.3 pounds when it was found in South Africa in 1905.

Streamline for Summertime

Mother Can Plan Home to Release Her Time for Children

Winter drapes will, of course, be taken down. If you do not like bare windows during the summer it is a wise idea to use only the thinnest of nylon curtains which will not obstruct the breeze and require no ironing after laundering.

In a home where there are children, slip covers should be sturdy and should not be too light in color. Small ornaments that require frequent dusting and are easily broken should be put away.

If each child in the family is given certain daily chores the children themselves will benefit by good training in homemaking and mother's summer will be much more enjoyable.

ALL-ELECTRIC HOME AT GREEN LAKE — Sunday is the grand opening date set for the new "designed for modern living" tri-level house at 2738 Bay Drive, West Bloomfield Township. Three bedrooms, two bathrooms, a multi-purpose (or recreation) room, a living room and dining area, laundry and garage are included in the plan. The lowest level provides a large workshop, the heating plant, laundry and the two-car garage space. On the intermediate level is the living area with its large expanses of glass opening towards the lake. The bedrooms are on the top floor. Vertical wood siding and brick form the exterior walls of this modern home. Constructed by Kuschell Builders in Green Bay Subdivision, sales will be handled exclusively by Kuschell Realty Corporation with offices in the Fox and Hounds Bldg., Bloomfield Hills. Completely furnished, this family home has the ultimate in electrical equipment and facilities.

Modern Kitchen Equipment Offers the Ultimate in Contemporary Plan

WASHINGTON, D.C. — "The American kitchen, today, is more than ever in the world's spotlight," according to Joseph F. Battley, president of the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association. "It's because the best brains in the fields of engineering, chemistry and interior decoration are devoting so much attention to the room that plays such an important role in the American household," Battley points out.

"Because of this great interest,"

Battley reports, "home makers welcome more information on the durable and decorative new quality finishes used to revolutionize modern kitchen equipment. These new finishes with so many remarkable qualities are the products of years of research by thousands of chemists in the paint, varnish and lacquer industry. The flexibility as well as the toughness of today's coatings make them far superior to the old brittle and 'chip-plagued' unpaintable coatings which were formerly used on ranges, refrigerators and other such items. All too often, these old-fashioned coatings chipped or cracked at the drop of a hat—or a mishandled pot. It's actually a wonder they are still being applied to some high-priced appliances."

In recent years, according to the association executive, manufacturers in all fields have closely watched the rise of an elite group of laboratory-developed materials which are spearheading an entirely new concept in protective and decorative finishes.

While these are known as synthetic resins, the word "synthetic" is really a misleading term when applied to these wonder-workers. The word should not be used to identify an artificial substance or a substitute for the "real thing," Battley believes.

In the case of the modern laboratory-created resins nothing could be farther from the truth. "Synthetic," today — especially in the paint, varnish and lacquer industry — simply means that chemical and technical progress has, in some instances, produced materials far better than those obtainable from nature. The phenolics, vinyls, epoxies and alkyds are but a few of this select "synthetic" company. These names, incidentally, have become household words among those who demand the utmost in quality, durability and beauty.

When these resins are incorporated into a finish used on the surface of kitchen equipment, the resulting coating has a life expectancy exceeding that of the appliance itself.

The finishes for appliances are at their best when shrugging off the effects of heat, hot grease, food acids, strong soaps and detergents—or a child's toy hammer, for that matter. He points out that the secret of such a performance, is, of course, flexibility, toughness and the ability to absorb punishment and "roll with the punch," so to speak. He also emphasizes the ease with which such finishes are cleaned and kept clean.

"The full story of these new coatings is not only to be found in their better wearing qualities and beauty but in the new colors which are being used for kitchen equipment," says Battley.

"When the full-time hired cook virtually disappeared from the American kitchen, our housewives stepped in and demanded that their 'shop equipment' receive the benefits of interior decoration.

"Because color does wonders for the morale, new kitchen equipment is coming out in a variety of eye-appealing hues not available in the out-moded and old-fashioned brittle coatings. White is getting keen competition from such pleasing colors as light green and golden yellow."

MILLIONS OF UNITS SOLD DURING 1954

IN 1954 1.2 MILLION
TONS OF STEEL WENT TO PRODUCERS OF HOUSEHOLD APPLIANCES.

MAKING LIFE EASIER—Science is making housework easier for more and more of the nation's women, as 1954 appliance sales indicate. Factory sales of clothes washers reached 3.65 million units. Freezers, which were in comparatively few American homes ten years ago, reached the .98 million mark in sales. Data on sales from "Electrical Merchandizing" and Vacuum Cleaner Manufacturers' association.

Neighborhoods Important, Too

Surroundings as Well as House Should Decide
Factors in Moving

Here's a story about home, may be yours. It's a moving story but it has a very happy ending. Chances are one in five that this year your family will be living in a different house. Quite probably it will be in the suburbs.

Your reasons for moving are something like this: First, your young growing family needs more space, an extra bedroom, another bathroom, more living and play area. Second, you're tired of apartment living and want a permanent home. Third, it's now time for putting down roots in a neighborhood community.

That's the general scheme of your "home story" if your family is at all in line with the trends that national statistics indicate. The happy ending depends on the home you select.

Luckily, modern-minded architects and builders are now on the scene to help you. Quality homes with 300 to 500 extra square feet of living space area readily available at reasonable prices. Today's homes are made for comfort and permanence. Life-lasting materials like tile, for instance, are popularly used in modern bathrooms and kitchens, the two rooms that keynote a home's value.

You may expect one and one-half to two bathrooms; at least three bedrooms; built-in features in the kitchen; an attached garage; about one-quarter acre plot, landscaped with shade trees; extra-large living room space; the house oriented to take advantage of the weather and natural light. For a little more you can have terrace or weather-proof quarry tile for outdoor living.

Next to starting a family, moving it is probably the biggest step you'll take in life. Go cautiously; choose the community as carefully as the house. For moving, after all, should be just another word for growing.

Family Portraits
Find Place on Peg-board

The place for portraits is on the wall, not hidden in a drawer!

Many homemakers are displaying portraits more freely nowadays, having found a handy way to hang them without marring their walls. They have prevailed on husbands to put up a "working wall" of Masonite "Peg-Board," which furnishes hundreds of holes from which the portraits are suspended on hidden fixtures.

A wall in any room devoted to the display of pictures is a center of interest. With this perforated Masonite, there is no year-after-year arrangement of pictures to cause monotony. Arrangements may be altered by moving the fixtures to a new location.

The panels are brought away from the wall with thin strips of lumber, attached vertically at intervals of 16 inches, so there will be room for the insertion and removal of the fixtures.

With this useful material, which is both functional and decorative, every room may have its quota of pictures. "Peg-Board" may be painted like other hardboard.

Tile Easy to Clean

Popularity of tile in modern homes is due in good part to the little maintenance it requires. Just a swipe with a damp cloth and it comes clean. Its colors never fade and household stains cannot blemish its surface. Fireproof and waterproof, tile makes an installation that will last the lifetime of the home.

Lo, the Husband
Invades Kitchen

The average American male is efficiency-minded, everyone tells us.

Well, if that's so, just let him loose in the kitchen and see what his ideas are about improving its workability.

Two out of three husbands participate seriously in domestic chores, so they know from experience what the kitchen needs.

Decorators say the man is behind the trend to ceramic tiled work surfaces in the kitchen, for instance. Tile is easy to clean, never fades, and lasts virtually forever.

Male influence has also backed new built-in features—ovens, refrigerators set right in the wall to save space, things like that.

When It's Tile,
It's Clay Tile

What is tile? According to the Federal Trade Commission, use of the terms "tile floor," "tile wall," or just "tile," means clay tile. Any other material carries an adjective, such as "asphalt tile," "acoustical ceiling tile," and so on.

Sweden's population is about equal to that of Norway and Denmark combined.

840 Pints of Blood

Ionia Woman Requires Transfusions Every Day

IONIA, Mich. (U)—An unrelenting battle for blood is the lot of kindly, gray-haired Mrs. Ethel Kurnat.

For 17 of her 61 years Mrs. Kurnat has had to depend on others for her blood supply. She laughingly says, "I guess I don't own a pint of my own blood now."

She has received 840 pints of whole blood—the equivalent of 105 gallons—through transfusion. It is the only weapon doctors have against an incurable disease that constantly ruptures the small blood vessels throughout the gastro-intestinal tract.

Known as familial hemorrhagic telangiectasia, it daily threatens Mrs. Kurnat's blood life-line by severe nose and mouth bleeding, and loss of blood through other portions of the body, including beneath fingernails.

Her physician, Dr. John G. Tannhemier, says it is an "extremely rare disease, but as long as we can provide necessary blood replacement, it is not fatal."

Mrs. Kurnat first observed the disease in 1938 when she was stricken by sudden blind spells. Last year she received 140 transfusions and since January this year she has been given more than 40 pints of blood.

Because her blood reproducing machinery cannot make up for the loss, Mrs. Kurnat spends about five months of the year in hospital beds.

There she receives the life-giving transfusions while recovering from the severe head pains, fainting spells and temporary blackouts that characterize the disease.

"Sure, I get discouraged," Mrs. Kurnat said, "but I have to accept it. There's no use knocking my head against a blank wall. "At the hospital I can see patients much worse off, and I don't feel more than just a little bit sick."

She says she literally couldn't live without the American Red Cross Blood Bank Program, which supplies her constant need.

About 560 of her 840 pints of blood have come from the Red Cross. Before the Blood Bank was set up, Mrs. Kurnat relied on inmate donors from the Michigan Reformatory at Ionia and friends.

However, because her case is considered an emergency, the Red Cross blood supplies are available to her without charge.

The mother of four grown children, Mrs. Kurnat still keeps busy at home between hospital stays by sewing for her 13 grandchildren. Her husband, Charles, 67, works as a maintenance mechanic at an Ionia packing company.

Urges Checkups for Vacationers

Heart Specialist Says June, July May Be Big Danger Months

JACKSON (UPI)—A former president of the Michigan Heart Association advised Michigan residents today to have physical check-ups before they go on vacation.

Dr. Frank Van Schoick, who headed the Association until last March 12, said many persons make the mistake of embarking on rip-roaring vacations after sitting behind desks during most of the year.

"It's best that people know what they can do before they start to over-do," he said.

"The man who sits behind a desk all year and then runs off on a hectic vacation is just inviting trouble," Van Schoick said. "It's best to have that physical examination first to determine whether your heart can stand up under the strain of a busy vacation."

He said snow shovellers and deer hunters, along with summer vacationers, were the most susceptible groups as far as heart conditions were concerned.

Heart Association statistics backed him up. Figures showed that one out of every three persons who dies in Michigan dies of a heart condition. They added that one out of every 16 Michigan residents has some kind of a heart affliction.

The statistics further showed that the deadliest times of the year in terms of fatal heart attacks are the December - January - February snow shovelling period and the June-July vacation season.

"Heart attacks hit their peak in the winter months," an Association spokesman said in Detroit.

"Then there's a general tapering off," he said. There's a slight rise in early spring, about the time a lot of people start working in the garden. That is followed by another lull, which is followed by a marked increase in heart attacks during the summer vacation season. Then comes another tapering off period, followed by another big spurt as soon as the snow starts falling."

The spokesman said September was the "safest" month of the year.

The Association blames over-exertion as the most frequent cause of heart attacks. Then come over-weight, infections and worry.

People normally have three miles of blood vessels per pound of body tissue. That means if a person is 30 pounds overweight, his heart will have to pump blood an extra 90 miles.

Snow shovellers should have a heart check-up before winter and vacationers should have them before going on vacation," Van Schoick said. "The trouble with a lot of people is that they think they're a lot younger than they really are."

TWO WAYS to Spend Your Home Building Dollars

And One of Them IS WRONG!

THE FIRST WAY is to submit to the high-pressure tactics of unknown operators from out-of-town. Some irresponsible individuals, here today and gone tomorrow, have sought exorbitant profits, and have made false and misleading promises to home owners.

THE SECOND WAY is the easy, safe and right way to get full value for every dollar you spend on your home. Go to your local, well-established LUMBER or BUILDING SUPPLY DEALER!!

Your local dealers have built their business on satisfied customers. They are a permanent part of your community. They can give you sound advice about building and remodeling. They are well acquainted with local contractors who have solid reputations for honest workmanship. They can help you select a plan for monthly payments—there are many sound ones, including the liberal provisions of FHA insured Title I loans.

FOR YOUR OWN PROTECTION, DEAL LOCALLY! NEVER SIGN A BUILDING OR REMODELING CONTRACT IF THE DEALER IS NOT WELL-KNOWN IN YOUR OWN COMMUNITY!

U. S. May Have Space Satellite

Magazine Hears That Platform Hurries Along
at 16,000 M. P. H.

CHICAGO (INS)—A magazine suggests the United States has launched an artificial satellite which is now hurtling through space at the rate of 16,000 miles an hour.

The magazine stated the man-made satellite may be an experimental "space platform" circling the earth on its own momentum some 800 miles out in space.

Popular Science, in its May issue, declared "reports have reached (us) persistently from independent sources that the event took place months ago, possibly at the Banana River Rocket Range in Florida.

At the rate of speed estimated in the magazine, the satellite would be spiraling around the earth 13 times a day, or once every one hour and 51 minutes.

The magazine offered these points in making its case:

1—The late Secretary of Defense James Forrestal announced the United States was conducting satellite rocket tests in 1948.

2—Experts say "a manned satellite could be launched into space within 10 years, a rocket to the moon in a not much longer time."

3—A rocket "on the loose" today would be the final stage of a "multiple-step rocket fired experimentally—the implication is that this was an experiment that worked too well."

The magazine also suggested that an atomic warhead missile could be put on an orbit circling the earth under control of coded radio signals which would pinpoint it at a given time on a given target.

The article concluded: "The nation that has atomic bombs on ice in the sky under control would have a fantastic military advantage."

ROK Warns Japan Against Red Trade

PHILADELPHIA (U)—The South Korean ambassador says his government will place a "rigid embargo" on all trade to and from Japan the instant the Japanese government enters into any relations with Communist North Korea.

Dr. You Chan Yang said last night South Korea would regard any move by the Japanese government to open negotiations with North Korea "as a preliminary to recognition and an open affront to our nation."

Dr. Yang was a guest here for a benefit for Welcome House, a Bucks County orphanage for Asiatic-American children.

Husband Wins Divorce; Tired of Going Barefoot

DENVER (U)—In five years of marriage, complained William A. Coslett, his wife never permitted him to enter their home without first taking off his shoes.

This, said Coslett, constitutes extreme and repeated cruelty. Judge Joseph E. Cook agreed. He granted Coslett a divorce.

Nab Two Teenagers in Death of Man, 29

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (U)—A man who tried to intervene in a fight between two teenagers was beaten to death last night.

County Patrolmen said they picked up Raymond Lloyd, 17, and Donald Patrick Bolena, 18, for investigation.

The dead man was identified as Albert King, 29.

The patrolmen said witnesses told them Lloyd and Bolena were fighting over a girl on a street corner. King came along and tried to separate them, and that one of the youths picked up a chair and struck him with it.

Officers said they also picked up for investigation Bolena's brother,

John Earl Bolena, 19. Deputy Joe Frigo said John Bolena was reported to have kicked King after he was down.

The sheriff's office said no charges had been filed against any of the youths.

Promise 'Simple, Gay' May Day in Tokyo

TOKYO (U)—May Day in Tokyo, which erupted in a bloody riot three years ago, will be "simple and gay" tomorrow, sponsors of the rally promised today.

Marchers have promised to avoid the Imperial Palace grounds where the riot three years ago injured scores of people and killed one.

The newspaper Asahi said 1,655,000 people will attend rallies throughout Japan.

12 Vets of Elbe Get Passports

Oak Park Man Among Group Going to Russia for Celebration

CHICAGO (U)—Passports for 12 American veterans of the Elbe River meeting of U.S. and Russian troops have been cleared by the State Department for a reunion in Moscow, a spokesman for the group, said yesterday.

A State Department official in Washington confirmed the announcement made by the spokesman, Joseph Polowsky, 37, of Chicago. He made no further comment.

Polowsky is secretary of the American Veterans of the Elbe River link-up. They held a 10th anniversary reunion in Washington, April 25.

He said the group plans to be in Moscow for the 10th anniversary celebration of the Russian V-Day, May 9. Ten years ago he was Pvt. Polowsky, member of the patrol led by Lt. Albert L. Kotzebue, which crossed the Elbe at Stehla, Germany, to make the first contact of combat men between the two armies.

Polowsky's group will fly to Russia at the invitation of the Soviet Veterans of the Elbe River link-up.

Polowsky said these men will accompany him on the trip:

John B. Adams Jr., Rockingham, N.C.; Charles C. Forrester, Greer, S.C.; Robert Haag, Indianapolis; Edwin A. Jeary, Oak Park, Mich.; Fred W. Johnston, Bradford, Pa.; Robert Legal, Milwaukee; Claude W. Moore, Newbern, Tenn.; Elijah R. Sams Jr., Pinnacle, N.C.; Murray Schulman, Queen's Village, N.Y.; B. L. Shiver, Lakeland, Fla.; and William Weisel, Chicago.
