Dixie Gas-Leak Threat Diminishes

GLENDORA, Miss. (UPI) — Thousands of persons began returning to their homes in the Mississippi Delta today when winds dissipated most of the deadly phosgene gas that leaked from a derailed chemical tank cars last night.

At the height of the crisis, 30,000 persons were routed from their homes, but by morning all but about 5,000 had returned.

A triangular area from Glendora to Ruleville to Schlater, and back to Glendora was still under "restriction," but Leflore County Civil Defense Director Otis Allen said he expected an all-clear to be issued for that section, too, later in the day.

The chemical tankers were among 12 cars of a mile-long Illinois Central freight train that jumped the rails yesterday afternoon. A spark from a broken lower line apparently ignited the cars and sent a huge cloud of black smoke billowing into the air.

Several of the tankers contained vinyl chloride, a chemical used in making resins and plastics. Under heat this substance produces phosgene gas, a lethal gas used in World War I.

The federal government, which came under fire recently for shipping phosgene gas by rail, took pains to point out that the vinyl chloride was a commercial shipment.

The vinyl chloride was being shipped by Borden Chemical Co. from Gelsmer, La., to Uniroal at Painesville, Ohio, in 11 tankers. The train derailed when engineers applied brakes to avoid hitting an elderly man on the tracks.

When it appeared the black smoke clouds might be carrying the deadly gas into population centers, Gov. John Bell Williams ordered 600 National Guardsmen to aid in the evacuation of towns in the northwestern Mississippi counties of Sunflower, Leflore and Talahatchie.

ROUTED FROM SLEEP

Many residents were routed from their sleep by sirens, loudspeakers and police pounding on house doors.

One of the towns involved was the community of Doddsville, where Sen. James O. Eastland has a large cotton plantation.

The wreckage was near a smashed utility pole, and as work crews sought to repair broken lines, a spark apparently touched off an explosion around five hours after the 3:30 p.m. derailment.

A crewman was burned, apparently not seriously, and about four tenant houses destroyed by fire following the explosion.

Jews to Begin Observance of the New Year

One of the world's most ancient New Year's observances begins at sundown today when the solemn sound of the shofar (ram's horn) ushers in the year 5730 for Jews throughout the world.

The occasion will be celebrated with public prayer in every synagogue and temple. The New Year known as the Rosh Hashanah holiday begins a period of meditation and self-examination leading to acts of repentance and charity.

The blowing of the horn is to stir the conscience of Jews and remind them of the trust God placed in the hands of Abraham.

Blowing the shofar demands skill and usually is performed by an expert called a "baalekiah." He must produce three short, abrupt blasts, a long resonant blast, and a series of nine staccato notes.

PROCLAIMED CORONATION

The coronation of the kings of ancient Israel was proclaimed by the blasts of the shofar. On Rosh Hashanah, God's sovereignty and kingship is annually reaffirmed. His praises are sung, and His omnipotence and glory celebrated.

The days between Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, are called the Ten Days of Penitence.

These are very holy days, for the rabbi taught that these were 10 days of grace during which time, by penitence, prayer and charity, an unfavorable judgment in the Book of Life might be changed for the better.

Yom Kippur is a solemn day of fasting from sunset to sunset. At the end of this day the Book of Life is definitely sealed.

Over the centuries many colorful customs have become part of Rosh Hashanah.

Worshippers greet each other, and their families with the blessing "L'shanah Tovah Tiklatyvu" (may you be inscribed for a good year). During the month prior to the holiday, New Year's greeting cards with this or a similar blessing are exchanged.

On Rosh Hashanah, Jews partake of bread and honey, symbolic of the coming year in which everyone will have enough to eat and some sweetness to spare.

The bread of the holiday, "challah," is baked in round loaves to represent the coming of a "well-rounded year."

DIRKSEN'S BODY ARRIVES FOR BURIAL—Servicemen carry the casket bearing the body of Sen. Everett M. Dirksen from the presidential jet, Air Force One, after the plane arrived yesterday at Peoria, Ill., Airport. The Republican Senate leader was buried in nearby Pekin with a host of dignitaries in attendance.

PAPC Stays Out of School Tiff

The Pontiac Area Planning Council (PAPC) made two attempts to have its feelings known on the situation in Pontiac schools at last night's meeting, but both aborted.

The first proposal, put forth by William Clark, director of the Pontiac Area Urban League, was to recommend to the school board that it hire yet another assistant superintendent to deal with race relations. This motion lost, 20-6.

The other failure came over a long statement on the school situation made up shortly before the meeting by the PAPC executive committee.

Members were concerned about a boycott Wednesday which drew about one-third of the teachers and students from class and saw hundreds of pickets around the board of education offices.

The protest was against the Pontiac School Board's 4-3 decision Sept. 4 to hire a Virginia man for a newly created position of assistant superintendent in preference to a present school official. Dr. William Edmonds, director of Virginia State College's graduate school, was chosen over John Perdue, director of community-school and human relations for the Pontiac District.

Both men are black, and a black man for the post was designated by school advisers and agreed to by the board. However, since the decision, protests have arisen over advisability of hiring a man unknown to the community over one well-known.

The statement would have expressed the PAPC's concern with the situation and would have urged the board and its opponents to get together.

After debate and criticism of the wording, the motion was tabled.

Charles Tucker Jr., acting chairman, criticized his fellow PAPC members for failure to take some stand and predicted the body would dissolve in six months when funding ran out.

He said in two years of organization, the council had done little but sit around and talk.

Another critic of the PAPC was fellow member John K. Irwin Jr., vice president of the school board. He said it was not the business of the PAPC to make a recommendation on appointment of a school official.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Tucker said, "There's not a black person in a meaningful position (in government) in the city."

The PAPC was formed in October 1967 by joint resolution of the City Commission and board of education after civil disturbances in Detroit and Pontiac. The PAPC membership was composed of members of the "power structure"—bankers, business executives, union and church leaders—plus leaders of minority groups.

It has a hired director, David Doherty, who gets $20,000 a year. The entire budget for the year is $32,000.

It was recommended last night by the Public Information Task Force that Pontiac create an office of community information and hire a director.

Experts Voice Fears on Polio

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government health experts, warning against a resurgence of polio if the nation lets down in vaccination guard, say potential pockets of the dread disease already exist in every metropolitan area of the country.

Public Health Service doctors cautioned against any undue complacency from the fact that so far this year only 10 cases of paralytic polio—the lowest rate in history—have been reported. There were 49 such cases last year.

In the years before 1955 when vaccines first became available, there were up to 20,000 cases annually of deadly or crippling polio.

But the government doctors said that even now on a nationwide basis approximately 30 per cent of the children in the most highly susceptible 1 to 4 year age group remain without vaccine.

MOSTLY IN GHETTOS

Most of these are in ghettos or other low socioeconomic sectors.

The possibility of outbreaks in these communities worry doctors such as F. Robert Freckleton, chief of the immunization branch of the Public Health Service's Communicable Disease Center at Atlanta, Ga.

"If we lose any of our present momentum in the vaccination program—and we already have problems there—these pockets of unvaccinated or incompletely vaccinated children may increase in number and size," he said.

The Bloomfield Art Association will begin its third year of gallery tours Oct. 21 with a trip to Willesdett Art Gallery in Windsor, Ont., to view a still-life collection from the 17th through 20th centuries entitled "Things."

The tour party will lunch in Windsor and spend the afternoon viewing Mary Jane Bigler's sabbatical showing at Wayne State University and the Michigan State University Art Faculty show at Detroit Artists Market.

Miss Bigler is a member of the art faculty at Wayne State. Her showing includes watercolors painted during a one-year sabbatical leave in Europe in 1968-69.

The gallery tours will include nine trips from October through June. Tours are made to museums for special showings, commercial galleries, private collections and studios of working professional artists and craftsmen.

The annual Puppet-A-Month programs will begin in the lower level of the Bloomfield Township Library next Thursday at 4:30 p.m.

During these programs children from the third through eighth grades learn how to make puppets and give "on-the-spot" shows.

Michael Deller, program director of the library and a member of the Detroit Puppeteers Guild, will teach the making of push puppets, shadow puppets, rod puppets, spoon puppets, bag puppets, hand and finger puppets and marionettes at 10 monthly sessions.

For younger children, ages 3-5, who are not in nursery school or kindergarten, preschool story hours start Sept. 30, for eight morning sessions from 10:30-11:15 a.m. or Oct. 2, for eight afternoon sessions from 2:30-3:45 p.m. Registration, in person at the library Youth Room, should be made Sept. 22-27.

Reuther Raps GM Price Hikes

KALAMAZOO (U) — Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, says price increases announced yesterday by General Motors for its 1970 automobiles are "unjustified."

"The auto industry has been and is highly profitable, showing a 20 per cent return on investment, which is about double an ordinary investment," Reuther said in an interview.

"Labor has traditionally taken a position," Reuther continued, "that wage and fringe benefit increases should come out of savings brought about by increased productivity and new technology, rather than increased costs passed on to the consumer."

GM blamed payroll increases, higher prices for metals and increases in state and local taxes for price increases averaging approximately $125 per car for 1970 models.

Reuther was in Kalamazoo to address the kickoff of a Community Chest drive.

Finch Opposes House on School Bias

WASHINGTON (AP) — Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch under attack in and out of the government for his civil rights stand, has put the Nixon administration on record against a controversial House-passed "freedom of choice" school desegregation measure. In announcing opposition to the amendment proposed by Rep. Jamie Whitten, D-Miss., Finch also said Thursday his Health, Education and Welfare Department was preparing a report that would vindicate its civil rights efforts over the past eight months.

Whitten's proposal, an amendment to the HEW appropriations bill, passed the House two months ago and is now before the Senate. It would prohibit the government from using the leverage of federal aid to require a student to attend a school against his wishes. This would restore the free-choice school attendance plans proposed in many southern states but ruled unconstitutional by the Supreme Court except where the result is speedy desegregation.

CUMMAXES FIGHT By putting the administration flatly against the Whitten amendment, Finch climaxed a fight sources indicate was under way on the eve of the House vote on the measure. At that time, sources said, the welfare secretary was prepared to issue a strong public condemnation of the amendment. But Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell reportedly quashed the statement and urged House Republican leaders in a private meeting to assume a hands-off stance. Finch in his statement Thursday said he "reiterated his opposition" to the Whitten amendment. Concerning the civil rights report he said his department will issue shortly, Finch said he is confident it "will show that remarkable progress has been made. AIMED AT CRITICS His statement apparently was aimed at countering recent public criticism of administration policy and a near-revolt by Justice Department civil rights lawyers. The Justice lawyers objected to Finch's move to give 30 Mississippi school districts additional time to implement court-ordered desegregation plans. The NAACP Legal Defense Fund Tuesday called the administration's civil rights stance a "policy of deliberate confusion."

School Board in California Slaps at SDS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — California school officials have been told by the state board of education that the Students for a Democratic Society is an unfit group for junior and senior high schools.

The board voted 8-2 Thursday to declare the SDS unsuitable for public schools. State Supt. of Public Instruction Max Rafferty, who urged the resolution, said he had a statement of a top SDS leader saying the group is "an enemy of the state."

The resolution only advises school districts and is not mandatory.

Barbara Marshment, 16, the first student representative on the board and a junior at the Roman Catholic Carondelet High School in Concord, said, "Perhaps it would be better to come up with a positive program that would go along with this resolution."

State Gets Grant

LANSING (AP) — Michigan has received a $40,000 grant for use in studying pesticides in the Great Lakes. The grant from the U.S. Department of the Interior answers a request for $200,000 for the Great Lakes basin. Gov. William Milliken is chairman of the five-state governor's conference on pesticides which made the request.

Avon Vote Tuesday on New Charter Unit

AVON TOWNSHIP — Voters here will again go to the polls to select nine charter commissioners to write a new charter for the proposed City of Rochester Hills. This time, the election is Tuesday.

The required 300 citizens in the township petitioned for the new commission vote within 10 days after the defeat of the same charter vote last March. Residents voted to seek incorporation as a city in January 1968.

Of the township's 9,500 registered voters, 4,401 voted in the last charter election. Only 1,639 voted yes on the charter, while 2,522 voted against incorporation.

The former charter commission chose to ask for a new charter commission rather than set a new election on the proposed charter.

16 CANDIDATES

The nine members chosen, from the 16

running for the commission, must prepare and file a new charter within 90 days at the township clerk's office, though no date need be set at that time for a charter election.

Before an election can be held, the governor must approve the charter.

James A. Arnett, 1101 Cripple Creek; Ronald V. Baker, 488 Douglas, West G. Bell, 1576 Oakstone; Louis W. Bercklich, 2400 S. Livernois; Lloyd J. Brown, 881 Cobblestone; Harry G. Collins, 3940 Crooks; David L. Harden, 3505 Bendlow; Theodore A. Jacob Jr., 1679 Oakstone; and Edward J. Janoschka, 2240 S. Rochester.

OTHERS IN RACE

Also filed are: Herman F. Lamb, 3783 Mildred; Donald S. MacInnis, 80 Michelson; C.

David Ogg, 656 Lynndale Court; Arlene L. Ransom, 865 Castleside; Robert D. Thor, 3238 Donley; Philip K. Trimble, 195 Windsor; and Charles W. Vigor, 761 Ironstone.

Voting booths at all 10 precincts in the township will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesday. All absentee ballot requests must be filed with the clerk's office by 2 p.m. tomorrow.

Polling places in the following precincts have been designated at: (1) 276 W. Auburn; (2) North Hill Elementary School, 1385 Mahaffey; (4) 2137 Auburn (4) Avon Township Library, Pine at W. University, Rochester; (5) 1551 E. Auburn at Emmont; (6) 2137 Auburn; (7) Meadow Brook School, Castleside at Munster; (8) Rochester Municipal Park, 816 Ludlow; (9) Avon Township Hall, 302 W. Fourth, Rochester; and (10) Rochester Municipal Park, 816 Ludlow, Rochester.

Barn Is Hit by Fire

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Fire broke out yesterday in an abandoned barn apparently being stripped, according to the township fire department. The call came in shortly after 10 p.m. for the fire on 14 Mile near Drake Road.

PONIES, ANYONE? — Irwin Sheldon has two restless young ponies he would like to see returned to their owner. Sheldon found the two pets running loose yesterday near his property at 3455 York, Avon Township. He has provided a temporary home for the friendly beasts, but would like to hear from anyone who is missing a couple of ponies.

For Pontiac Twp. Fire Victims

'Home Raising' Planned

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — What could be more neighborly than to give a boost to someone down on his luck? As in an old-fashioned "barn raising," residents of Bessie Street are going to give a hand to Ralph and Pearl Wagie and hold a "building bee" to replace their home that was destroyed by fire last week.

The entire neighborhood has already helped clear away the debris and rubble left of the Wagie home, 3024 Bessie. The neighbors also brought food and clothes to the Wagies, who were left with only the clothes on their back.

"This is the best neighborhood anywhere," said Mrs. Wagie. "The relatives have been so faithful and everyone in the neighborhood has been just wonderful. I can hardly believe there are so many good people around."

BEGINNING OF TRAGEDY

The Wagies' misfortune began the morning of Sept. 4. Mrs. Wagie had just stepped out of the bathtub and slipped into a housecoat and slippers. Her 81-year-old mother, who lives with the family, is a deaf-mute. She was sitting in the living room. Mr. Wagie had taken the garbage out and was standing by the garage.

Suddenly, Mrs. Wagie heard a boom, followed by a gust of fire. She yelled to her husband and ran to push her mother out the front door. More booms — and the fire was right behind her.

... Soon They Hope To Have The Insurance Money To Begin Building Anew. Many Neighbors Say They'll Be Out There With Their Hammers And Saws—It's The Only Neighborly Thing To Do

Mr. Wagie tried to enter the house through the back door. The blaze forced him back, burning his right arm. Within minutes the house was consumed by the flames.

It was a total loss — including the new furniture, rug and duct work. The family's miniature poodle was killed.

24 YEARS LOST

"How can anyone put a money estimate on everything?" said Mrs. Wagie. "You build something for 24 years and within 10 minutes it's all gone."

Pontiac Township Fire Chief Carl Schingeeck said the fire probably was started by a faulty gas stove connection. He said the gas must have been building up under the floor for "quite some time."

Mrs. Wagie said that would explain the booms she heard. But she doesn't understand why they didn't smell the gas before the explosion.

Right now, the family of three is staying with relatives next door. Mr. and Mrs. David Perkins. "I just hope we can find a home before winter sets in," said Mr. Wagie.

ON SICK LEAVE

Wagie, 56, has been on sick leave from General Motors Truck and Coach Division since February. He has cataracts and sugar diabetes.

Mrs. Wagie said the help hasn't just come from relatives and friends. Her 18-year-old grandson, Robert Brown, brought some of his friends over to help clean up. They worked all weekend before going back to Pontiac Northern High on Monday.

"They can say all the negative things they want about teen-agers," Mrs. Wagie said, "but these boys really gave of themselves. They were regular working fools."

Only the foundation is left to their home now, but soon they hope to have the insurance money to begin building anew. Many neighbors say they'll be out there with their hammers and saws — it's the only neighborly thing to do.

Will Start Court Proceedings on Division

Novi to Take Action on Assets

NOVI — Irate city councilmen have voted to immediately begin court proceedings for division of assets between the city and township.

Novi voters approved incorporation in May 1968, and a city charter was approved last February. The incorporation includes 96 per cent of the township, leaving a remaining 67 township residents divided into eight small and separate islands around the new city.

A settlement is necessary before the city can assume responsibility for the assets which it once claimed the former township officials were still using.

At this week's City Council meeting, trustees voted, 5-1, to start court proceedings forthwith. Mayor Joseph Crupi cast the only dissenting vote, explaining that he thought the matter could be settled soon — out of court.

The request for court action was inaugurated last month but was delayed upon request by Crupi.

Crupi has been working as a committee of one with township officials in an attempt to conclude negotiations for assets which have been carried on for seven months.

The township officers, elected in June, had asked for a delay at that time claiming that they were new and didn't want to rush any decisions.

The newly elected officers were chosen at a June 9 meeting in compliance with an attorney general's opinion stating that certain laws authorize holding of a special township meeting — including where there is no quorum.

ONE TRUSTEE REMAINS

When the city was incorporated, only one trustee out of the five elected township officials still remained in the township. Originally, the other four officials kept on with their duties as township officers, apparently acting under the stated belief that the incorporation was invalid.

The township fought city incorporation for several years in court unsuccessfully. Their last appeal to the State Supreme Court was denied in May.

At that time, Emery Jacques, attorney for the township, said that the State Boundary Commission was asked to determine whether the township could exist by itself or whether the residents should join the city.

Imlay Police Disarm Man Who Held 20 at Gunpoint

IMLAY CITY — An armed, truck driver held 20 persons at bay early this morning at the Pure Oil Restaurant at M21 and Van Dyke, police report.

With guns leveled at each other, Imlay City Patrolman Larry Tully stared down Ernest Gazaway, 19, and forced him to drop his gun, police said.

Gazaway, who gave his last address as Oakwood, Ga., reportedly was looking for a "truck stripper" (one who steals parts from parked trucks) named "Johnson." Gazaway told police he was going to kill the stripper.

Clean-Water Plan Put in Application

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — A water pollution control plan adopted by the Township Board will become part of an application for state and federal monies that could amount to $1.5 million for installing sewer systems and interception lines in the township. The plan is a result of a $13,000 water and sewer study.

Although there is no guarantee how much money will be granted, Supervisor Roy Wahl said that the township is "probably eligible for the top grant." The requests will be judged on the individual community's need and the state-equalized valuation of real property. Having the pollution control plan is necessary for submitting the grant request.

Police received the call at 5 a.m. and responded within 10 minutes.

SOME TENSE MOMENTS

Officer Tully and Chief Larry Dougherty arrived at the restaurant to confront Gazaway's 25-caliber revolver, cocked and aimed at the policemen, the two officers reported.

Tolly, not wanting to provoke shooting in the restaurant filled with customers, persuaded Gazaway to drop his gun after some tense moments, police recorded. No one was injured.

Gazaway was to be arraigned this afternoon on charges of felonious assault. He is being held in the Lapeer County Jail.

$1,500 Home Fire Blamed on Smoker

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP — Careless smoking apparently caused a fire in the home of Mrs. Orle Eykelra of 330 Glangary yesterday. An estimated $1,500 in damage was done to the house and contents, according to the Commerce Township Fire Department.

The living room and part of the kitchen were destroyed in the fire which was reported at 1:12 p.m. There was no one in the one-story house at the time.

Village Reins Animal Crisis

FRANKLIN — This little village may have become an animal farm if it wasn't for some swift action by the town fathers this week.

Many of village's 3,300 inhabitants have a thing for animals. But now due to council action, there will be a limit of two pets per house.

The animal crisis all started when herds of horses, reportedly as many as six at a time, were running loose through village streets.

Mothers were afraid that children might be trampled. A little anti-ants-on-the grass protest by the mothers stirred the council into action.

PET ORDINANCE

"The first section of the pet ordinance requires human caregivers for all animals strolling beyond their owner's property."

The new law also forbids keeping animals for breeding or commercial purposes.

Horses must be permanently quartered. There also will be no further construction of public stables in the village.

Another section of the ordinance states that if a dog or cat has offspring, residents will have 60 days to unload the extra animals. If residents don't comply, they face a possible $100 fine or 90 day jail sentence.

For Independence Twp.

Water-Line Work Due

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP — Construction of a temporary water line to serve waterless residences in the Clinton-Lakeview Street area on the north side of Woodhull Lake was expected to begin today.

It is estimated that there are 30 to 40 residences in this area without water with a possibility of 20 more homes likely to be affected within a few days.

The temporary line is not expected to be operational until Tuesday or Wednesday of next week, according to Mrs. Harold Smith of 4574 Lakeview, co-chairman of a citizen action group which has been working to obtain relief for the houses affected by the dry well dilemma.

The Oakland County Department of Public Works has supplied a water truck all week to residents of the Clinton-Lakeview area and also in Waterford Township as a stopgap relief measure.

RECOVERY TIME UNCERTAIN

Independence Township Clerk Howard Altman, however, decided to go ahead with the temporary line project since it is uncertain just how long it will take the dry wells to recover the normal water table.

The water table was drawn below normal levels by the pumping of ground water near Woodhull Lake in Waterford Township to create dry excavation sites for the $28-million Clinton-Oakland Interceptor sewer.

Solon Feels Pulses

A mail poll recently conducted by Sen. CHARLES H. PERCY, R-Ill., revealed some decided opinions on current issues on the part of the 12,000 constituents who replied. The number reflected an unusually high rate of response.

Elimination of Farm Subsidies was favored by 85 per cent of respondents with a Code of Ethics for Federal Officials, Seriousness of Drug Use by Young People and Tax Rebates to States trailing with percentages of 77, 72 and 71 respectively.

PERCY

Fifty-six per cent of the replies favored the guarantee of a job for every person able to work, while 43 per cent would improve the present welfare system. Fifty-one per cent liked the idea of electing the President and Vice President by direct popular vote.

In the military area, 58 per cent plumped for a gradual withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam, with an increase in American effort there and unilateral withdrawal of all U.S. troops from the area polling 21 per cent each.

The transcendent ABM issue found 45 per cent for immediate deployment of the protective system, the same percentage advocating continued research and testing but no scheduled deployment, and 10 per cent uncommitted.

With the national scene in a state of flux embracing many disparate areas, it behooves the elected representatives of the people to maintain close relations with their constituents that they may serve well the body politic.

Opinion polls conducted by those in public office are an effective way of achieving such rapport. We commend Sen. Percy on the excellence of his survey.

Neighbor Lights 100 Candles

This is a big week for our neighborhood on the east. Rochester is celebrating the 100th anniversary of its incorporation.

The program of events which began last Sunday with Heritage Day at the churches moved progressively through Governor's and Pioneer's Day; Ladies Day, highlighted by a Historical Pageant; Commerce and Industry Day, depicting Rochester's growth; Agriculture Day; Veterans, Armed Forces and Fraternal Day; Youth Day and the Centennial Ball; and a Parade of Progress windup on Sunday.

A prodigious amount of planning and coordination of effort has gone into the week-long celebration, and the excellence of exhibits, precision of pageantry and authenticity of historical presentations bear evidence to their effectiveness.

The Press warmly congratulates Rochester on its significant milestone and commends the citizens involved in its observance on a job well done.

Gals Firmly in Driver's Seat

The hand that rocks the steering wheel commands an important segment of the economy and, increasingly, the hand is feminine.

Of the 103 million licensed drivers in the United States today, 41 per cent are women, a larger percentage than ever before.

The U.S. Bureau of Public Roads estimates the actual figures at 60 million men and 43 million women. In 1950, there were 47 million male drivers and only 15 million female. In those 19 years, the female group has increased 184 per cent while the number of male licenses has risen only 28 per cent.

Various surveys have reported the growing importance of women as customers for gasoline and automobile products and services. One study found that even in one-car households nearly one-third of the women interviewed buy all or most of the gasoline for the family.

The statistics will not be lost on the sellers of motoring products. Don't be surprised if advertising someday begins making a pitch like:

"Ladies, for a really clean engine, try all-new Super Blast gasoline with enzyme action."

Shocks Abound for Over-30 Generation

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

For the "over-30" generation, the years through the late 1950s to the present have been a series of shocks.

A generation brought up in reasonably simple terms of black and white, of readily detectable good and bad guys and of wars that are won or lost, suddenly finds itself faced with situations not so readily solved, of good guys and bad guys not so easily recognized and of wars that are neither won nor lost.

It also finds itself faced with a refinement of techniques for unsettling the routine of day-to-day events for which so far no solution has been found.

It was an act designed to get the utmost publicity for the young terrorists, and it subjected the Brazilian government to the humiliation of being forced to release 15 political prisoners held in Brazil jails to obtain Elbrick's release.

It made use of a technique against which there is no adequate means of defense.

President John F. Kennedy, only hours before his own assassination, said there was no adequate way to protect an American president's life against a determined enemy. The State Department has said that special security measures have been taken at American missions around the world. Many diplomats resist these measures as cutting them off from the people they are supposed to reach.

NOT NEW
The kidnap technique for political purpose is not new, although Elbrick may be its highest-ranking diplomatic victim.

Terrorists last year kidnaped the Archbishop of Guatemala, Mario Casa Riego, in Guatemala City. Venezuelan guerrillas seized U.S. Air Force Col. James K. Chesnut in 1963. Fidel Castro kidnaped nearly 50 Americans in 1968.

As dramatic as the kidnappings has been the rash of hijackings of passenger airlines.

An early victim of this was Moïse Tshombe, former premier of the Congo who died this year in an Algerian jail.

50 THIS YEAR

Of about 90 hijackings since the beginning of 1968, nearly 50 have occurred so far this year.

These also have defied a solution. Most of these are not the work of ignorant peasants who decided to shoulder a gun to redress real or fancied wrongs committed by society.

Many are carried out by college graduates trained in the professions, capable of planning and carrying out their plans with timeliness and accuracy. Latin America abounds with examples.

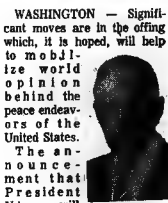

A further example is the Arab Fatah and its commando campaign against Israel. Educated, trained and dedicated men are included in its organization and, for it, Israel has not been able to find the solution.

LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Significant moves are in the offing which, it is hoped, will help to mobilize world opinion behind the peace endeavors of the United States. The announcement that President Nixon will speak to the United Nations General Assembly next week comes at a time when the United States has pleaded in vain for the Soviet Union to help bring an end to the Vietnam war.

Unfortunately, Soviet Premier Kosygin, on his recent visit to North Vietnam, gave fresh assurances of all-out Soviet support, with complete backing for whatever line the Hanoi delegates choose to pursue at the Paris peace conference.

Despite the friction between Red China and the Soviet Union, Premier Kosygin, it is revealed also, stopped off in Peking and met with Chou en-lai, the premier of China.

This report was hard for many people to believe after the dispatches telling of the threats of war between Red China and the Soviet Union due to border incidents.

But the Soviet news agency, in reporting the meeting, declared that the two Communist leaders explained their respective positions and "held a conversation useful for both sides."

LITTLE POSSIBILITY

As long as the Communist countries keep on supplying munitions and military equipment to North Vietnam, there is little possibility that the Vietnam war is going to be ended on terms acceptable to the United States.

President Nixon really has no better course open to him than to tell the peoples of the world the facts about Vietnam and the grave dangers that lie ahead.

Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson have appeared before the U.N. General Assembly in recent years, and the Department of State for several weeks has been working on an address which was to be delivered by Secretary of State Rogers at the U.N. session on Sept. 18. But now President Nixon himself will make the speech, and Secretary Rogers will hold talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko, who is expected to arrive from Moscow in time for the opening of the General Assembly in New York City on Sept. 16.

PRESSURE RISING

Pressure is rising inside and outside of Congress for more positive policies with respect to the world situation. There can be no question but that American public opinion favors an ending of the Vietnam war. But there is no evidence of a willingness by the President to pull out of Vietnam and out of Asia.

The time has come to ask the United Nations to assume the responsibilities imposed by the U.N. charter to help maintain peace.

Hopely many nations would join in a collective defense plan if the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and West Germany indicated their hearty support for a worldwide alliance to maintain peace.

Bob Considine Says:

Lawyers Talk Kennedy Into OK of Inquest Delay

NEW YORK — People ...

A long-time Kennedy loyalist, fresh from a visit to the star-crossed family's compound at Hyannis Port, reports:

"Ted didn't call for that delay in the inquest. He wanted it held. He kept saying, 'Jack would have gone ahead with it, and Bobby would have, too.' But his lawyers talked him out of it. And they were right. It would have been a circus, at Ted's expense, if it was held on schedule."

P.S. The head of the diminished clan, at least poor, is Steve Smith, Ted's bright, energetic brother-in-law.

Beat this for a life:

Eddie Doherty started his newspaper career with the Chicago Tribune. His education had been abruptly severed when he dropped out of a Wisconsin monastery in which he was studying to be a priest. So he went to Col. R. R. McCormick, Tribune owner, and asked permission to approach Northwestern University with a view to having it set up free courses for working newspapermen — for the benefit of the men and their papers.

Out of that grew the distinguished Medill School of Journalism.

Eddie moved on to Hollywood as the Trib's first film city correspondent, switched to the N.Y. Daily News, then to the Mirror, later the N.Y. American and still later the now defunct Liberty magazine.

LINDBERGH NICKNAME

year layoff because rightwing "radio priests" Father Coughlin would not give him an interview unless he did. (Eddie wrote a piece for Liberty about that one and called it, "I Sold My Soul to Father Coughlin.")

Eddie's first wife died during the flu epidemic of 1918. His second wife, also a reporter, was killed in an accident in 1939. His third, Russian Baroness Catherine de Hueck, swung him to her chief interest — the foundation and support of Friendship Houses for the urban poor, and Madonna House — Ontario based — which supplies social workers to 11 countries.

In 1940, after the couple took vows of poverty, chastity and obedience, Eddie was ordained a deacon. Last May in Israel, in connection with Madonna House work, he was the guest of Archbishop Joseph M. Raya of Galilee.

Raya is a leader in the Melkite Rite of the Catholic Church. It admits married men to full priesthood. (The Melkites have a Byzantine rite much like that of Constantinople. Their head, after the Pope, is called patriarch of Antioch.)

Last month, Eddie Doherty, thrice married and once a hard-living reporter of "The Front Page" school of Chicago journalism, took his priestly vows.

Exercise in Futility

San Diego Union

The demonstration by anti-war protesters at the Western White House could best be described as an exercise in futility.

For one thing, President Nixon needs no reminder that the American people are eager to see an end to the bloodshed in Vietnam.

Such demonstrations are also futile because they contribute nothing to the realistic and practical search for peace which should be the concern of every American. Such slogans as "Stop Nixon War" and "Bring Them All Home Now" reflect nothing but blind emotionalism.

Voice of the People:

'Taxpayers Are Fed Up With Teachers Striking'

The people of Michigan have just about had it with the teachers who every year, just before schools are supposed to reopen, go on strike because they are dissatisfied with their new contract. The children are all anxious to return to school but the teachers are not. Unions are a fine thing as long as their power is not misused, but this is becoming ridiculous.

It is time the state or federal government passed a law whereby all union contracts would have to be for three years or more. I'm quite sure that if one of the largest unions, the U.A.W., can have three year contracts, so can all the others. At least this would give us a few years of peace and stabilize our economy. If they really want to stop inflation, this is the place to start.

'Oppose Millage for Schools Teaching Sex'

Each year the school systems of Michigan cry for more money. They state they need this money to run full day classes, yet they push sex education on children against the will of the parents. If the schools teach the subjects they were meant to teach, such as reading, writing and arithmetic, instead of all this off-the-wall stuff, they wouldn't need all the extra money. As long as a school system tries to teach sex education, I think the people should vote against any millage for the schools.

'Programs May Produce Nation of Robots'

The cost of throwing off the shackles of tyranny in favor of individual liberty and individual responsibility came high to those great and brave men who gave us a Constitutional Republic.

The cost of relinquishing individuality to the will of the group also came high to those Pontiac taxpayers who shelled out the bargain price of $10,000 for the emotionally-charged three-day Human Relations Institute mandatory for all administrative and teaching personnel in the Pontiac school district.

When the children of our nation have been taught not only to "show and tell" but to "touch and feel," to share their most intimate thoughts with the group and allow criticism by the group, and ultimately bend to the will of the group, then we will have succeeded in producing a nation of robots.

Parents can file on you as a wayward minor until you're 19, but we suggest you call Juvenile Court, FE 8-4157, and ask for an intake worker, who can answer all your questions. That way you can get some good advice without involving yourself.

Question and Answer

Where can I get a list of marriage laws for all the states?

INTERESTED

REPLY

Age of consent, blood test requirements, etc., for all states are listed in world almanacs, which are on sale at newsstands, magazine counters, etc., for about $2. They are also available at public libraries.

They are blind to the fact that it is the continued aggressive demand of North Vietnam to impose Communist rule on the South Vietnamese that protracts the war — this and nothing else. They are blind to the fact that an honorable commitment to the cause of peace, worldwide, and to the people of South Vietnam is what keeps our armed forces engaged.

And they are blind to the fact that it was not President Nixon who made the lamentable decision to halt the bombing of North Vietnam at a critical point in the course toward victory, thus allowing the enemy to rebuild, rearm and reorganize his forces — and prolong the war.

China Not Equipped for War, British Study Says

LONDON (AP) — Red China's armed forces are not equipped for modern war and its nuclear arms program seems to be lagging badly, an authoritative defense research institute said today.

"China's conventional arms industry would be in no position to produce weapons on a scale needed for war; neither could Chinese-produced nuclear arms be a substitute for them," the Institute for Strategic Studies said in its annual survey of world military strength.

When a newsman commented that the report appeared to downgrade China's military strength, the director of the institute, Alastair Buchan, replied:

"Does that surprise you when you compare China's gross national product and industrial fabric with that of the Soviet Union or the United States?"

MUCH POORER

China's armed forces, he added, "are in a much poorer state in regard to equipment" than the Soviet Union's, but he refused to speculate on the future.

"Chinese stocks of fissionable material might be sufficient for about 100 atomic bombs of nominal (20-kiloton) yield or a smaller amalgam of both hydrogen and atomic varieties," the report said. "Some of the fusion

(H-bomb) weapons could be of several megatons."

"The lengthening gap that has been noted between nuclear tests may mean, however, that fissionable material is not being produced in the quantities forecast in the West."

"Likewise, the Chinese missile program has apparently not progressed as fast as expected... It is possible that the advanced weapons program faltered in 1965-68 due to political harassment of the small scientific community engaged on the program, but efforts to restore the momentum must now be in progress."

ESTIMATES OF STRENGTH

The institute's estimates of the strengths of the Soviet Union and China lined up this way: Gross national product: U.S.S.R. $430 billion, China $48.7 billion.

Military expenditure in 1968: U.S.S.R. $3 billion, China $4.7 billion.

Army: U.S.S.R. 2 million men, China 2.5 million.

Soviet army in Asia within close reach of the Chinese frontier: 55 divisions, 10 at full combat strength. Eight of the 55 divisions are tank divisions. China has 100 infantry divisions and five armored, three cavalry and two airborne divisions. Four are stationed in Sinkiang, on China's northwest border. Four are in Inner Mongolia, and 26 are between Peking and China's northeast border.

MADE BY SOVIETS

The bulk of China's tanks were made or designed by the Soviets. The survey said China has a shortage of heavy artillery and a big lack of more sophisticated equipment.

The institute reported that the Soviet Navy has 120 submarines in Far Eastern waters, many of them armed with nuclear weapons. It said China has 33 submarines, and only one has tubes for ballistic missiles.

Turning to the comparative strength of the United States and the Soviet Union, the report said the Russians within the next four months will have more intercontinental and medium range nuclear weapons than the United States. But it said this threat and that of the numerically superior Communist forces in Europe are offset by the Chinese threat to the Russians.

The survey said the Soviets had 1,650 intercontinental ballistic missiles with nuclear warheads in July and are expected to have 1,150 by the end of the year. The United States has had 1,054 ICBMs since 1967 and is not building any new ones.

The Soviets have 700 intermediate and medium-range missiles, while the United States has none. However, the United States has 656 nuclear missiles to be launched from submarines, while the Russians have 160.

Evans' Officer: Sentence Fair

Seniority Reduced for Ship Collision Figure

SUBIC BAY, Philippines (UPI) — Lt. (j.g.) Ronald C. Ramsey today described as "very fair" the reprimand and reduction in seniority he received for his role in the collision of the U.S. destroyer Frank E. Evans and the Australian carrier Melbourne.

Navy sources said Ramsey's mild sentence raised the possibility charges of negligence and dereliction of duty may be dropped against Cmdr. Albert S. McLemore, the Evans' captain, who was asleep when his ship was sliced in two.

Ramsey, 24, of Long Beach, Calif., was senior officer on the Evans' bridge during the June 3 accident in the South China Sea which killed 74 U.S. sailors.

In a one-day court-martial, he pleaded guilty yesterday to reduced charges of dereliction of duty and negligence.

WOULD RETURN TO SEA

The slender Purdue University graduate said at his first news conference since the collision that the sentence was "very fair." Asked whether he planned to return to sea, Ramsey replied:

"I don't have any reservations. I'd like to go back."

Ramsey said he did not believe the court-martial ordered loss of 1,000 points in his standing on the list for promotion was a serious obstacle to his naval career.

The Navy sources said Ramsey's guilty plea to charges of failing to obey McLemore's orders to awaken him if a change of station was ordered could lead to the charges against the skipper being dropped.

NOT AWAKE

One of the charges against the 48-year-old commander at Vallejo, Calif., is that he was not awake when the Evans was ordered to change course 1,000 yards astern of the Melbourne, shortly before the collision.

The sources also pointed out that the Navy had decided to drop four of the seven charges against Ramsey and suggested this pattern would be followed at McLemore's trial, set for Monday.

Some 2.5 million apartments and houses were built in Russia last year, barely keeping up with urban growth.

Crabgrass Kaput! Treat Your Family to a Lovely Fall

From autumn to early spring better lawns of Kentucky bluegrass, fine fescues and Highland bentgrass spread and thicken, notes the Lawn Institute. Crabgrass ends its life with frost, and now seed won't sprout until late spring. By then the good grass can be comparatively invulnerable.

The fall season on your property, and in your home, can be as lovely as spring and early summer.

Fall has a quality all its own, from foliage brilliance in the North and mountain areas to a wealth of flowering plants ranging from roses to poinsettias and Azalea plants at Christmas time, either indoors or outdoors.

Fall is the time to improve your lawn

If you're less than proud of your lawn, right now is the naturally right time to do something about it. Days are growing shorter, nights cooler, and the weather pattern is right for grass. So follow Nature's lead and fix up your lawn now — while all the odds are in your favor.

Chrysanthemums are typical of fall beauty outdoors. Today the blooms are more profuse and better than ever, with greater variety of colors from which to choose.

Most people are familiar with the yellow, orange and red leaves of the birches, maples, oaks, dogwoods and the purples of Liquidambar. Hydrangeas are colorful in the fall as are the red fruits of holly, dogwood, colanester, winterberry and other trees. Franklinia even flowers in September and October.

WEALTH OF FLOWERS

Of course in southern California and Florida particularly, as well as other late-frost or no-frost areas there is a wealth of flowers in the fall, from the many different shrubs like Hibiscus and Oleander, to trees and annuals.

Roses will bloom in practically all climates right up to heavy frost in the northern areas. Roses are most satisfactory for bloom from spring to heavy frost.

Camellia japonica may bloom from October to April. The aristocratic, lovely camellia, exemplar of the South, is grown far too little indoors in the North. Azaleas are forced for indoor color in the colder climates.

Many fall plants can be purchased already in bloom in containers, for immediate outdoor use. As all-year color on your property.

ALL YEAR COLOR

Ask your nurseryman how you can enjoy fall color, as well as all-year color on your property.

Fall: Seed Lawn, Rake Well

Now is the ideal lawn planting time wherever the northern-type or cool-season grasses like the bluegrasses, bentis and fescues are grown.

This is true whether one is faced merely with the thickening up of a thin lawn or the sowing of a completely new area.

First, of course, the soil must be prepared. If it is a new area, the soil should be thoroughly spaded over and raked smooth.

At this time, too, at least a 2-inch layer of compost, peatmoss or other humus, should be thoroughly mixed into the soil along with about 5 pounds of some good, balanced complete lawn food available in your area per 100 square feet.

Next, select the right mixture of seed for your area and your purposes, whether a deluxe lawn, an average-usage lawn or a play area — and whether in sun or shade.

The important thing to remember is to buy the best possible mixture for your purposes. In lawn seeds especially, the price indicates the quality.

Rake the seed in with a light steel rake without disturbing what grass is present. Here again work in the fertilizer.

COVER AREA

You can save a lot of work, however, if you cover the area with a soil net or spread over it a mulch of straw.

When the seedlings are up you can remove the covering but continue to water frequently. For this is the most strategic time in the life of the grass. They tiny roots are very shallow and they can easily dry up in a dry soil.

When the grass has reached a height of 3 inches, commence mowing with a very sharp mower. Otherwise, you might pull the tender seedling out.

Mail Obscene? It's Up to You

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — If an advertisement for a sack of potatoes looks obscene to you, then it's obscene. And you can stop the mailman from leaving it at your door.

Obscenity, according to the law, rests squarely in the eyes of the beholder.

Using that principle as his weapon, an Ann Arbor man has found the way to stop the flow of junk mail to his mailbox.

Tired of the barrage of advertising circulars, Roger Staples complained that the food and department store advertising he received was obscene.

SENT STUFF BACK

He sent the stuff back to his post office and demanded that no more of it be delivered to his house.

Richard Schneeberger, assistant postmaster at Ann Arbor, sent the mail back to Staples.

"The department store and food ads for which you signed cannot be considered as pandering in nature," he wrote.

Not so, said Staples.

"I consider the advertisements for beds, sheets, pillows, girdles, intimate feminine articles and other such materials offensive."

'PROVOCATIVE POSE'

"A picture of a lingerie model in a provocative pose is just as obscene as any thing I ever saw from so-called panderers."

He pointed out that the law makes the recipient sole judge of the obscenity of an advertisement he receives.

On this basis, Staples demanded the junk mail be stopped. He sent copies of his letter to Schneeberger to his congressman and senators.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., sent the complaint on to the Post Office Department.

CAN'T BE QUESTIONED

Its general counsel, David A. Nelson, delivered the judgment. "Mr. Staples is correct in the assertion that his determination of the erotically arousing or sexually provocative nature of an advertisement may not be questioned."

Now, if the advertisers don't stop mailing their alluring drawings of potato sacks to Staples, they can be taken to court.

Wilber F. Lawrence, assistant general counsel, summed it all up.

"Most people gripe about junk mail but don't do anything about it," he said. "But under the law, they can declare that an ad for a sack of potatoes looks sexy to them. And if they do, we're obliged to take action."

Earthlike Mars Life Unlikely

WASHINGTON (AP) — If life reveal any evidence of nitrogen, were to exist on Mars, it would, the scientists said.

"If additional intensive analysis substantiates this conclusion, it is a very key chemical compound missing from the Martian environment," their report said.

Space agency scientists said the spacecraft when they flew past the planet July 30 and Aug. 4 shows the Martian atmosphere "generally hostile to any earth-style life forms."

In a briefing on the results of the Mariner flybys, scientists reported ultraviolet measurements showed atomic hydrogen and atomic oxygen in Mars' upper atmosphere. Carbon dioxide and carbon monoxide also were present as expected. But the initial study failed to spots on Mars are warmer than the light areas.

The spectrometer also produced indications of ice.

Mariner 7 data at first indicated the presence of gaseous methane and ammonia, suggesting part of the planet's polar cap was composed of water ice.

Further analysis is required before a conclusion can be made, the scientists said. Temperature measurements showed Martian temperatures at noon as high as 60 degrees, falling at night below 100 degrees below zero.

The scientists said Mariner 7 measurements provided very strong circumstantial evidence that the polar caps of Mars are made primarily of carbon dioxide rather than of water ice.

HEAVILY CRATERED
In general, the scientists said, the measurements so far show Mars to be heavily cratered, bleak, cold, dry, almost airless and "generally hostile to any earth-style life forms."

Is this any way to run a bank?

You bet it is.

These men make the decisions that guide Oakland County's largest bank. They take their responsibilities seriously. And they don't believe in making decisions by locking themselves away in a fancy boardroom with charts and figures.

Banking is people and service. That's why part of a recent CNB Board of Directors meeting took place on this bus. It visited six of our newest offices.

This is how we've done business ever since 1933—person to person.

Isn't that one more good reason to bank at Community? Most people do.

Results Amaze Teachers as Students Study What They Like

By United Press International
"Wouldn't it be great," the student council said, "if we could stop all regular classes for a couple of weeks and just study things we want to learn?"

The suggestion hit a responsive chord with the administration and faculty of the Hamilton-Wenham Regional High School in Hamilton, Mass. It already was concerned that possible student unrest, or worse, general apathy would cancel out efforts to improve teaching.

So, in May 1968, the Massachusetts high school dropped regular classes for seniors for two weeks and instituted a series of minicourses requested and planned by the students themselves.

Writing in the current issue of Today's Education, the journal of the National Education Association, Robert R. Hayward, an English teacher at Hamilton-Wenham, said the program "still is generating waves of change."

A young English teacher taught a short course in film making. Another taught the major plays of Eugene O'Neill.

Girls studied home mechanics and boys cooking.

Sex education, requested by a majority of the seniors, was taught by two biology teachers.

An Ingmar Bergman film festival was scheduled along with the minicourses.

Positive results were immediately observable.

"Freedom from the stigma of homogeneous grouping, many of our not-bound-for-college seniors elected the more intellectual minicourses," Hayward said.

"We were amazed by their sophisticated handling of difficult subjects in mixed discussion groups."

Teachers were stimulated, too. As one put it: "This is the first time I've ever taught kids who wanted to be in my subject. It's wonderful."

Subsequent two-week minicourses were planned by and for the sophomore class between semesters last year and the senior class last May with equally exciting results.

Hayward reports these examples of positive, non-disruptive examples of change resulting from the student-planned courses:

• Revised curriculum: The education minicourse methods and materials are part of the biology study program. The music department now offers a semester elective in theory. History and English departments are developing selective courses. One history of minicourses had a chance to experiment with the "pass-fail" system, rather than letter grading.

• Teaching: Teacher morale is higher. Even the most conservative teachers are now favoring flexible scheduling. The school committee board of education has purchased a video tape teaching system like one borrowed from another district for one minicourse.

• Communication: "All along the line, people are listening; teachers are listening to students; the administration is paying more attention to teachers' ideas. Certainly more of the community is tuned into the school."

And the students? "Minicourses represent for them a clear example of change brought about by democratic, nonviolent means. The students directly involved in the planning of minicourses had a chance to see why education cannot always make sweeping changes overnight," Hayward said. He quoted from one student's evaluation of the minicourses:

"Being allowed to learn instead of being made to learn changes everyone's attitude. This is how all education should be structured."

Hideki Tojo, the general who, as premier, led Japan into World War II with the United States, was convicted as a war criminal after Japan's surrender, and was hanged.

Dirksen Buried in Illinois

PEKIN, Ill. (AP) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen was buried with military honors Thursday in this central Illinois town where he was born.

Among the 3,000 persons who ringed the cemetery were Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, more than 40 senators and several Cabinet members.

The 10-minute service led by the Rev. Edward L. R. Elson, Senate chaplain, brought to a close four days of tribute to the Senate Republican leader who died Sunday.

Dirksen's widow, Louella, daughter Danice, and son-in-law, Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., sat in front row as the Rev. Mr. Elson delivered the eulogy.

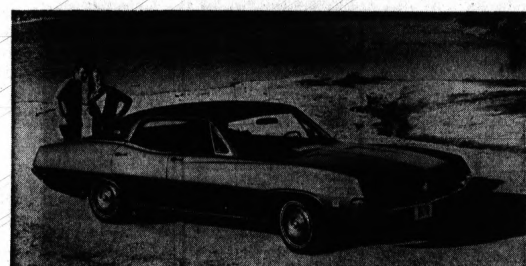

"The last march has ended, a mighty man now answers roll call. His battles are fought, his victories are won."

• VOLLEY SALUTE

Dirksen, an artillery observer in World War I, received a three-volley salute from a seven-member rifle team before "Taps" was sounded. A hot sun beat down on the flag-draped coffin.

The flag was folded by an honor guard and presented to Mrs. Dirksen. A military band played "America the Beautiful."

Great Lakes to Continue Assault on Shoreline in '70

DETROIT (AP) — With damages mounting and levels already near or surpassing high-water records for this century, the Great Lakes are expected to wreak more havoc along their 10,000 miles of shoreline in 1970.

Waves eating away embankments, particularly the high bluffs along eastern shores of lower Lake Michigan, are threatening to topple scores of homes and vacation cottages, whose front or back yards have already vanished.

Once high and dry private docks now are awash, waiting for a storm to carry them away. Where sandy beaches once stretched outward there now is water. Nearby low-lying areas once above water level now are marshes.

Some cruiser owners have found themselves unable to get their pleasure craft out of boat-houses—rising water having shortened door-top clearance.

too much. Still others have found themselves cut off from the lakes, unable to get under canal bridges because higher water has given them no clearance.

DAMAGE FIGURES

No figures are available for 1969 damages, but the Lakes Survey District of the Army's Corps of Engineers estimated somewhat similar high waters did $61.2 million damages in the springs of 1951 and 1952.

And the three lakes over which man has virtually no control—Michigan, Huron and Erie—are expected to start their annual spring rises next year at levels considerably higher than they did this year.

Experts attribute the high waters to above-normal precipitation in all of the five lake basins this year and last.

Speaking before the Great Lakes Commission, made up of representatives from the eight states bordering the lakes, Adm. Gen. Frank Kelley of Michigan said last month that "today's damages could be much higher (than those of 1951-52) because of increased development along the shorelines."

'SOLUTION A MUST'

Pointing to serious problems occasioned by low water in the early 1960s, Kelley said that "methods must be found to keep our lake levels within reasonable bounds."

Lake Erie's average July level was the highest for any July since the Lakes Survey District began keeping tabs on the inland seas in 1860. It was only 2 1/2 inches below the one-month record set in May 1952.

Last month, Michigan, Huron and Superior were less than an inch and a half below their high-water levels for this century.

The key to the problem is, of course, precipitation.

In the first six months of this year, the Lake Superior basin received 16.67 inches, against an average of 16.08 inches. In Michigan's basin it measured 21.33 this year, against an average of 17.72. The 1968 precipitation against the average for Huron was 19.51-17.56; Erie 23.17-19.57; Ontario, 19.71-19.63.

MANY FACTORS

Many things figure into just how much rainfall went into the lakes: Whether the rainfall was on frozen ground and ran off quickly; whether it fell on dry or already wet grounds; whether it was in the fall or spring when trees, plants and other vegetation were absorbing large amounts; whether the weather was hot and evaporation high; whether lake-feeding streams were high or low, etc.

The Great Lakes are tremendous bodies of water. If the continuous 48 states were level and had a rim around them and all the water in the Great Lakes were dumped over them, it would form a lake 9 feet deep from the Atlantic to Pacific and Gulf of Mexico to Canada, according to Lakes Survey engineers.

Lake Superior is 350 miles long, 160 miles at its widest point and ranges up to 1,333 feet deep. Lake Ontario, smallest of the five, is 193 miles long and 53 miles wide.

High water is not unwelcome by all who use the lakes. It means money to ship operators. For each inch of water above the so-called low-water datum line (or guaranteed channel depth a freighter can take on an additional 100 tons of cargo. Last month, the lakes ranged up to 47 inches above the low-water datum line, and all were above both their average levels for the last 10 years and for the 1860-1968 period.

And the Lakes Survey forecasts all except Ontario will exceed their 10-year and long-term average levels for the next six months. Ontario is expected to dip below in December but turn upward in January.

Was It All Worth a 25-Year Wait?

BRUNSVILLE, Va. (UPI) — For 25 years, John H. Folks, 69, waited for this remote Allegheny Mountain Community to establish telephone service. When the Williamsville Mountain Grove Telephone Co. made the final hookup, Folks was one of the first to have his phone installed.

After two weeks of waiting, the phone finally rang. It was a wrong number.

The Michigan Highway Department has announced plans to build a 3,000-foot seawall at a cost of $1 million to protect a section of the Interstate-94 business route through St. Joseph.

The Corps of Engineers can partly control the outflow of Superior and Ontario by dams with gates. But there's no control anywhere else.

Some have suggested widening of the Detroit and St. Clair rivers and possibly some control works on Lake St. Clair would provide the answer. It might, engineers agree, but it would be too costly to undertake, with the river having to be pushed several blocks into downtown Detroit and into Windsor, Ont., on the other side.

'Hawaiians'—a Hit for Heston?

By BOB THOMAS
LIHUE, Hawaii (AP) — That's my granddaddy hang-ling over the fireplace," remarked Charlton Heston, pointing at the oil portrait. "It's supposed to be Richard Harris, but I seem to detect a slight resemblance to Darryl F. Zanuck." Heston was showing a Holly-wood visitor about the Ikenburg house, a remarkable throwback to the sugar plantation era of the island of Kauai. This is the manor of Whip Hoxworth, whom Heston portrays in "The Hawaiians," a sequel—oops—continuation of the James Michener saga of "Hawaii."

The Mirisch people, who are producing "The Hawaiians," bristle at any mention of a sequel, arguing that the new film is part of the continuing story that was first filmed with Julie Andrews, Max Von Sydow and Richard Harris as stars. "Hawaii" depicted the advent of the missionaries; "The Hawaiians" covers the Chinese immigration.

Thus Heston is portraying the grandson of the great captain Roderick Hoxworth, who was Harris in the first film (the portrait resembles to THOMAS Zanuck is inexplicable). The Ikenburg house was a happy find for the Hoxworth headquarters; it was literally headed out of the jungle.

"UNBELIEVABLY RICH" "The family that owned it was unbelievably rich," said Heston. "They discarded houses the way some of us throw away old suits. Come see this." He showed the visitors a chimney covered with gnarled vine stems. The whole house was so covered, and it had been forgotten by almost everyone but a covey of hippies, who had set up housekeeping in it.

The vines and hippies were expelled, and set decorators installed 30 tons of furnishings imported from Hollywood. After four weeks on Maui, the Mirisch company moved to Kauai to film the major portion of the movie. Included is the burning of the Honolulu Chinatown, for which a $300,000 reproduction has been built.

"The filming has been going quite smoothly, and that's good," expounded epic veteran Heston. He explained that he was intensely interested in the efficiency of big-budget productions, and not merely because he is president of the Screen Actors Guild.

"It's important for an actor not to be associated with big losses," he said. "When you're in a picture that is budgeted at $7½-million and comes in at $9 or 10, that means a helluva lot of difference in what you have to bring in at the box office. To pay off a $7½-million picture requires a $15-million gross, and I can tell you there are damn few pictures that draw $15 million."

AVOIDING ERRORS

"And if you are the star of a picture that lays a big bomb, that's when your collar gets tight. The bankers start saying, 'Oh, yes, he's the guy in the picture that lost all that money.'"

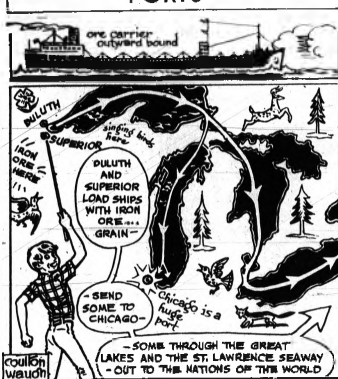

It appears that "The Hawaiians" is avoiding the errors and excesses that pushed "Hawaii" far over budget and threatened to wreck the Mirisch investment. In the end, the vast popularity of the Michener novel and of Miss Andrews gave "Hawaii" a $25-million gross, despite critical panning. Hence the sequel—continuation.

Directing the new film is tough-minded, outspoken TV veteran Tom Fries, who previously directed Heston in "Will Penny," and "Number One." Bare-chested with shaved head, he was overseeing a scene in the rear of the Hoxworth home with Chinese beauty Tia Chiew and Japanese actor Mako. Oscar nominee for "The Sand Pebbles." They portray the founders of a financial dynasty of Chinese Hawaiians.

Gries was asked about the film's progress.

"Fine," he replied. "We're only behind five days in five weeks of shooting—we lose about a day a week. But that's only natural. The weather has been typically Hawaiian: rain one minute, sunshine the next. That makes it tough to film. And we had a lot of tough stuff on Maui—shipboard scenes—beach work, that sort of thing."

Junior Editors Quiz on PORTS

QUESTION: What is the importance of freshwater ports?

ANSWER: A port is a city or town whose chief business is connected with the ships which go in and come out. There are fishing ports and there were whaling ports. But the greatest ports are those concerned with trade and the transfer of goods.

Whether such a port is a seaport close to the ocean, or a freshwater port situated on a river or lake, is not so important.

We are apt to think of seaports as the most important kinds, but it is interesting to know that inland freshwater ports include such places as London, Montreal, New Orleans and Bordeaux, France.

These are great ports because they are situated where there is an immense flow of goods coming in and out. In America, there is a spectacular group of such inland ports strung around through that vast inland waterway, the Great Lakes. Take the twin ports of Duluth, Minn., and Superior, Wis. Iron ore from the Mesabi Range, grain from the Northwest, are close at hand; steamers load these at the twin ports and carry them for great distances.

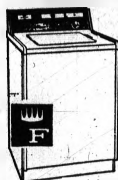

Some steamers travel to Chicago, an immense port by itself. Others go all the way through the Great Lakes and up the Saint Lawrence Seaway to the sea. Here it is possible for ships to head for any port in the world.

Malnutrition in Poor Infants Attributed to Advertising

WASHINGTON (AP) — The hard-sell, status-oriented advertising used by some baby food manufacturers is contributing to infant malnutrition among poor families due to big city life, two food specialists charged today.

Derrick B. Jelliffe and E. F. Patrice Jelliffe pointed a finger at the baby food manufacturers during the fifth International Congress of Nutrition.

"The unsophisticated new townsman, striving for the jet age and with no experience of budgeting and home management, is an easy prey to the deceitful half-truths and skillful manipulation of the commercial persuaders," the Jelliffes said in a prepared statement.

"This is especially so in relation to the high-priced, competitively advertised canned milks, proprietary (brand name) infant foods and the so-inappropriately named tonic foods."

The Jelliffes, nutritionists for the Caribbean Food and Nutrition Institute in Kingston, Jamaica, said poor health in infants is the latest documented problem of urbanization.

ETHICAL?

"Is it justifiable," they asked, "or even ethical to use ruthless modern advertising campaigns to sell inherently good quality but highly expensive milks and infant foods in communities where there is no chance at all of their being purchased in adequate quantities?"

"The pediatric nutritionist in many urbanizing parts of the world," they stated, "is left increasingly frustrated by the well-financed, slogan-roller, modern status-oriented marketing techniques employed by the food industry."

Mothers coming from the country into the big city are made to feel they should copy the "with-it" people and abandon breast feeding of infants, substituting the "status" way of mixing formulas and bottle feeding, the Jelliffes said.

The mothers thus forego guaranteeing their infants the most nutritious kind of milk known during the crucial first six months of life, the Jelliffes declared.

By turning processed milk, which is often so expensive they can't afford to buy enough, mothers are feeding the infant so little that starvation or malnutrition inevitably results, the nutritionists said.

The nutritionists advised hospitals to quit pushing the messages of baby food manufacturers.

Don't put up commercial posters or pass out free samples of brand-name food or hand new mothers "how-to" pamphlets bearing a manufacturer's name, they said.

Hospitals should start more positive programs for the low-income patients, they said, including stress on breast feeding.

If mothers still choose to bottle-feed infants, then "promote the most economical locally available full-cream powdered milk with due attention to vitamin A," the Jelliffes said.

Delay Answer Until Policies Are Confirmed

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of The Emily Post Institute

The following letter has been chosen as the prize-winning one for this week. A copy of Emily Post's Etiquette has been sent to the writer.

Dear Mrs. Post: As a matter of principle, I prefer not to go into a private club which bars admission to some races or religions. Unfortunately, such clubs are not uncommon. Occasionally, I am invited to a club which I suspect of such a policy.

I shall appreciate your advice on how to handle the situation. To ask a potential host about the club's policies would, I imagine, be rude; and to be a guest at a club which so discriminates would, I believe, be wrong. To refuse some of these invitations would, at times, be detrimental to my career.—L. G.

Dear Mr. G.: Congratulations to you for having the courage of your convictions! So many of us give lip service to certain beliefs in public but in private tolerate actions directly contrary to those beliefs.

However, you can "undo this own self be true," and still avoid hurting others or promoting unpleasant incidents. As you suggest, you cannot, without seeming rude, question a prospective host's club policies.

You can tell him you will let him know in a day or two whether you can accept his invitation, and investigate the policies in the meantime through other channels. You are then free to refuse if you find the club discriminates.

It is only courteous to give some explanation when you refuse, but it is not necessary indirectly to insult your host by telling him your personal feelings. You may simply beg off because of a "previous engagement," or other vague excuse.

First prize for her antique homespun coverlet was won by Mrs. A. Harold Pearsall at the Rochester Centennial Quilt Show Thursday. About 100 years old, the coverlet has a white linen background with the design in bright red. Mrs. Pearsall lives on Kemp Street.

"It took seven years to make," says Mrs. Howard Wilson of Rochester, beaming with pride at her prize-winning afghan. She found the pattern for this Victorian beauty in a book of her mother's. Colors are light and dark blue with flowers in various shades of rose.

To Mother-of-Bride 'Don't Borrow Trouble'

By AMIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is being married at a fairly large church ceremony here in Portland, Ore. Her grandfather (my father) lives in Seattle, and my problem is what to do about Lottie, his third wife. Lottie is a coarse and vulgar woman, who doesn't need champagne to tell dirty jokes.

You can tell that I'd rather not have her, but an invitation went out to "Mr. and Mrs. L." so there is a good chance that my father will bring Lottie.

I am having nightmares, Abby. What courtesies must we extend to her if she comes? She's never met the bride and I don't feel that she should be treated as a "grandmother."

The other grandmother (my husband's mother) is also from Seattle, and she doesn't speak to Lottie there, so I doubt if things will be any different in Portland.

I don't want this occasion spoiled for my daughter or anyone else, but I want to do the right thing.

Naturally, my father is not aware of what is so obvious to the rest of us.

DEAR STUMPED: If you father brings his wife, she should be accorded all the courtesies of a "grandmother." If the other grandmother doesn't speak to Lottie, it's their affair. Relax, and don't preoccupy yourself with the anticipated misconduct of any one guest.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 35-year-old widow with two children, ages 12 and seven. I've been a widow for three years. I had a wonderful husband and all the 10 years we were married I never looked at another man. I was a good wife and I am still a good mother.

My children and I live alone and I have not spent one night away from them since my husband's death.

Six months ago I met a man I'll call Bill. He is divorced. I care a lot for Bill and he says he cares for me and my children. He's in the service now, stationed in Thailand. He is getting a few days leave this summer and has asked me to meet him in Hawaii.

I want to, but my parents are old fashioned, and they say no respectable woman would go to Hawaii to meet a man. Abby, we are not going to LIVE together. I am sure there is more than one hotel in Hawaii.

My sister has agreed to keep my children. Do you think it would be improper for me to meet Bill in Hawaii? He has offered to pay my expenses. If I go, should I let him? I can afford to pay my own way without much strain. Thank you.

DEAR DIXIE: I vote "GO." But since you aren't officially engaged and can pay your own expenses without much strain, do so. Have a wonderful time and aloha!

DEAR ABBY: I can really sympathize with that woman who was afraid of birds. When I was young, I attended a huge family gathering, and several chickens were decapitated in preparation for the dinner. One of the older boys picked up a headless chicken and chased me with it. I became so frightened I fainted.

Later on in my life, even a feather's touch made me ill. My husband found this out and he used to think it was great fun to try to tickle me with a feather. I finally ended up in a hospital with a nervous breakdown.

After a recovery (and a divorce from this cruel man) I was finally cured of my fear by a psychiatrist, but it was a long and expensive process. Unresolved fears are nightmares that can last a lifetime.

DEAR ABBY: This letter is in response to "WAITING," regarding her status as a widow or wife.

In some states if the wife does not hear from her husband (or if his body is not recovered) within five years, she may acquire from the court a declaration of presumptive death. In the meantime, she is still a wife.

DEAR ABBY: When my girl and I started making plans for our wedding, she said her uncle had a terrific voice and she wanted him to sing at our wedding. I said okay.

Well, this uncle was in town last week and I heard him sing. Abby, I don't claim to be a musician, but this guy can't call hogs. He stands like a prize fighter with his fists all doubled up like he's going to slug somebody. He sings off key, bellows like a bull and when he forgets the words he goes, "Ba ba ba booooo."

He is a swell guy, but I sure don't want him singing at our wedding. How can I get my girl to cancel this uncle?

DELAWARE

DEAR DELAWARE: Tell her (nicely) that you agreed to having her uncle sing before you heard him. And now that you've heard him you think he'd make a better guest than vocalist. Of course if she has already asked him and he accepted, you're sunk.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the party who said it bugged her to hear married couples call each other "MOM" and "DAD":

They could call each other worse names. You should hear what the couple next door to us call each other!

"STAR READER, IN GEORGETOWN"

Governor Is Specific

Details Tasks for Women's Commission

By JUNE ELERT

"You are here," Gov. William G. Milliken told members of the first statutory Michigan Women's Commission, "to talk about something that is of concern to all of us: The maximum use of human resources in this state."

And that," he continued, "is what this Commission is all about."

Gov. Milliken's brief address opened the first meeting of the new Commission Thursday in the Jack Tar Hotel in Lansing.

"We are determined," he said, "to come up with a program for basic education reform which will enable every young person to obtain the kind of education he needs... whether he may live in an outstate area or in the inner city."

"I am absolutely determined to present to the legislature in October a program which will represent in a very fundamental sense, a reform of the structure, financing and goals of public education in this state."

The 15 women on the Commission, chaired by Mrs. John E. Finegan of Birmingham, are charged with responsibilities in fields of particular interest to women, including education, social services, labor laws, health, legal rights, family relations, volunteer services, etc.

ADD VOCATIONAL

Following the Governor's departure, the Commission passed a motion that a resolution be submitted to him urging that, in the proposed restructuring of Michigan's educational system, particular attention be given to the inclusion and/or upgrading of vocational counseling, beginning with the elementary grades.

Ex officio members, heads of State departments or their representatives, attended the organizational meeting. Much of the time was devoted to setting up committees, thrashing out procedures and deciding what the principal areas of concern shall be.

It was decided to include an allowance for public participation in the agenda of all future meetings, in order to establish a means by which women may address themselves to the Commission.

A discussion of the need for day care centers for children of working mothers brought out the fact that existing laws governing operation of such centers are concerned with preschoolers from age 2½ up.

"In other words," as one member put it, "the State would permit anyone off the street to come in and take care of younger children."

ANTIQUATED LAW

Vice chairman Mrs. Neil E. Warren of Birmingham pointed out that in the field of public accommodation, Michigan operates under an 1885 statute which prohibits discrimination on the basis of color, race and creed, and that the 1964 federal law prohibiting discrimination by sex applies to employment only.

She also suggested that the domestic worker has almost no protection whatsoever, and is long overdue for some attention.

Mrs. Raymond Walker was appointed secretary; Mrs. Zola Woodford Schroeder, parliamentarian; Mrs. Walker is Assistant Director, Agency Services Division, Michigan Department of Civil Service. Mrs. Schroeder is a Detroit attorney.

Mary Manning, Midwest Regional Director of the Women's Bureau, United States Department of Labor, Chicago, a guest, outlined advances made by women over the past year in the field of employment opportunity and progress toward elimination of discrimination by sex.

Yves Saint Laurent, Paris dress designer, poses outside his London boutique with two friends who are wearing his new ensembles. Betty Catroux (left) and Louise De La Falaise wear St. Laurent's "bush style" clothes, as does St. Laurent himself. The clothes are made of khaki.

Mrs. Joyce Allen of California Street pushes Colleen Carpenter of Willard Street right into the fall swing of fashion. Colleen, 10, will be one of the models at Sunday's show of Wendy Ward styles being sponsored by the Southeast Teen Club and the Macedonia Church Youth Department. The event, open to the public, take place at 4 p.m. in Hayes Jones Community Center.

Circle Tax Date on Calendar

By ANNE TAYLOR
AP News Feature

For most Americans, Uncle Sam included, the pace of living quickens in September.

Vacations are over, schools open, business picks up, shopping accelerates and it's a brand new season for clubs, charity drives, theaters and just about everything else.

Here's one more date to circle on your calendar if you haven't already done so. It's Sept. 15. That's the date for the next quarterly payment of your income tax — if you are one of many who must file in this manner.

IRS FORMS

Anybody who filed quarterly declarations of income before should now possess an estimated tax package, compliments of the Internal Revenue Service. This package includes quarterly forms that the taxpayer fills out and mails by the stated quarterly payment date — with a check if one is due.

The IRS didn't forget those who failed to file quarterly reports in the past but who should file them in the future. My source at the IRS says that, thanks to computers, taxpayers should have been mailed the proper forms.

If you have been forgotten, however, you aren't necessarily excused from quarterly filings.

In fact, if a quarterly payment is due and not paid on time you could find yourself subject to 6 per cent interest from the due date.

Until this year the IRS sent quarterly bills that served as reminders. No longer. The bills have been discontinued and it's entirely possible that the reminders might also be dropped sometime in the future.

WHO MUST FILE

Even if you have never filed quarterly declarations you should determine whether or not you're supposed to do so. A telephone call to your nearest IRS office may be all that is needed.

If you have income of more than $200 on which no tax has been withheld, such as dividends, interest or money from a part-time job, you should make quarterly declarations — and payments if taxes are due.

Also, if your salary subject to withholding taxes is $10,000 or more ($5,000 or more if you are single or if husband and wife file separately), then to be on the safe side you should consider filing quarterly.

An exception: If the estimated tax due for the entire year is reliably estimated to be less than $40, you can dispense with the quarterly filings.

Don't overlook stock dividends, interest or cash gifts that you may have received. Payments for services, such as an author's royalties, may fall into the same category.

Remember too that the 10 per cent surtax is still in effect and, of course, applies to quarterly as well as to annual payments.

Don't hesitate to seek the help of a professional accountant or a tax expert. In many instances they can save you far more than they charge. What for you than $200 on which no tax has been withheld, such as dividends, interest or money from a part-time job, you should make quarterly declarations — and payments if taxes are due.

NOTE OF CHEER

Filing your income tax isn't exhilarating to be sure, but you could derive some small satisfaction on Sept. 15. You will, in effect, have turned a financial corner for you will have paid three-quarters of your 1968 taxes.

As for 1970 — worry about that when you come to it. Remember, that surtax could possibly come off in another year.

Youngsters model furs for children, a new market being aimed at by fashion designers. From left is a natural Persian lamb coat topped with a Cossack hat of the same fur. Center is a coat of blue, dyed mole in the maxi length with white mink collar and cuffs. At right is a young lady in a dyed rabbit fur coat. All are by designer Jacques Kaplan and were exhibited in New York.

Rewarding Activity

Read Aloud to Children

Today's parents are spectators and it's about time they became participants.

That's the opinion of Dr. it is a shared experience which draws people closer together.

Lloyd Melis, chairman of the education department of Carthage College, Kenosha, Wis., who feels that today's young parents have been brought up on a diet of television, night clubs, and athletic contests in which all they have done is sit back and be entertained.

"It's about time parents began entertaining themselves as well as their children. Instead of sitting by and having the professional amuse, or enlighten them, they should get into the act, make contact with new ideas, and exercise imaginations as well as their bodies," he said.

Dr. Melis pleads for more oral reading, among other activities in which the whole family can participate.

"It is a friendly, quiet and thoroughly refreshing thing to do," he said. "More than that, it is a shared experience which draws people closer together."

Dr. Melis believes it is especially important for parents to devote time to reading to their pre-school children who cannot yet read themselves.

HAPPY LISTENING

"Happy listening is bound to stimulate a child's eagerness to gain skill in reading," said Dr. Melis. "As you unfold for him the fun and interest that reside in books, he'll look forward to the reading pleasure that lies ahead."

He noted too, that hearing stories exposes children to language patterns they may never hear in ordinary conversation. This may be helpful in improving the child's own knowledge of language and improve his vocabulary.

Dr. Melis noted that, as parents continue to read to their children, they will be keeping alive the pleasure to be found in books, which children then will carry through into their adolescent and adult years.

BOH Setting for Meeting

A breakfast meeting of Xi chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma sorority is scheduled for 9 a.m. Saturday. Work for the entire year will be planned at the session at the Bloomfield Open Hunt.

Hostesses for the meeting are Mrs. Edward Ranney, chairman, with Mrs. John Beck, Elizabeth McDonald, Gertrude Overton and Joyce Sweet.

Returns Home

Mrs. Bartlett Wager of Monroe Street has been in Washington, D. C. this week attending the fifth International Congress of Dietetics and the 52nd annual meeting of the American Dietetic Association.

Meetings of the Congress are held at four-year intervals. Mrs. Wager attended the meetings in Stockholm-Sweden four years ago.

Even Bird Dog Makes Friends With Pet Crow

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) — The Arthur Pearson family has something to crow about — a pet crow they adopted when he fell out of a nest.

Jekyll, as the crow is called, adjusted easily to growing up with the Pearsons. He flies home on command from any of the Pearsons, or when they ring a bell. He has also proved to be a reliable alarm clock. "He gets up on the roof about 6 and makes sure we get up," says Pearson. Jekyll is also adept at untying shoe laces, a habit less appreciated by his owners.

The family Labrador retriever, Sam, although supposedly a bird dog, seems to have made friends with Jekyll and they occasionally take a snooze together on the front porch. Sam's only complaint, according to the Pearsons, is that Jekyll has developed a liking for his dog food.

Helps Distressed

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) — Merle Smith, 20, of Vancouver is putting her own crisis to work. Miss Smith, paralyzed since a fall in 1966, is a member of the recently opened Crisis Intervention and Suicide Prevention Center here, where distressed persons may telephone for help.

Cotton corduroy now comes in ribless versions.

Wedding Vows Next Summer

Wedding vows next summer are being planned by Carolyn Louise Rudloff and Edmond R. Gunny III. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Rudloff of Brookdale Boulevard and Mr. and Mrs. Edmond R. Gunny Jr. of Los Angeles, Calif.

The bride-elect is in her senior year at Michigan State University, her fiancé's alma mater. The prospective bridegroom is presently at Barry, attending the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque.

Med Assistants Set Workshop

Officers and committee chairmen of Medical Assistants Societies throughout the state will convene at Kingsley Inn Saturday and Sunday for their annual workshop. Mrs. Tila Lenz is chairman of the event.

Local speakers at the two-day program include attorneys Paul Merideth and Jerome Barry, and Pontiac Press women's editor, Mrs. Janet Odell.

Dawn Pepita Hall Simmons of Charleston, S.C., a British author who underwent surgery to have a sex change to female and married her Negro butler, claims she is going to bear a child the first of November. Mrs. Simmons, wearing a maternity dress, waits for her husband, John Paul at the wharf where he works as a shrimp. A spokesman at John Hopkins Hospital where the operations were performed said it is "definitely impossible" for Mrs. Simmons to become pregnant.

Market Aimed at Small Fry

Youngsters Can Wear Fur, Too

NEW YORK (AP) — Fashion designers who last year wrapped Joe Namath in mink and sold men on furs are aiming at a new market. This year it's furs for children.

Until recently, women were the primary target of fur designers. Then men started sharing the market, urged on by football star Namath modeling his mink.

Now Jacques Kaplan, the off-beat fur designer, offers coats for children in Persian lamb, printed rabbit, Guano and turtleneck mink. The coats range from $185 for the rabbit to $895 for the mink topper and are available for children 2 years and up.

Kaplan doesn't expect to sell many of the coats, a spokesman said, and he really doesn't approve of furs for children anyway, designing them primarily for publicity. The coats, said the spokesman, "are the sort of things that grandmothers would buy for their grandchildren."

Rabbit seems to be the most popular for children, because it is relatively inexpensive, an important factor when the coat is likely to be too small within a year and because of its softness.

A New York department store, noted for its line-for-line copies of European fashions and its quick adoption of clothing fads, offers a selection of real rabbit coats in sizes 3 to 6 and 7 to 14 priced from $58 to $89.

Many readers are asking what kind of styling may I have?

Here are some answers from Nancy Mace. I recently had the fun of talking with her at her New York salon.

Q. Can hairweaving have a deleterious effect on my own hair?

A. According to dermatologists — and many clients consult their dermatologists before they consult with me — the hairweave does not harm your own hair. My own experience with clients is that it has not had a harmful effect on their own hair, but to reassure them, when the whole weave is taken off once a year and redone, apply the weave to a different section of the hair to be certain or not in any way weakening it.

Q. Is a weave apt to create a bad scalp condition?

A. The hair that is added to your own has nothing to do with your scalp. If you are for your hair and weave properly with regular shampooing, your scalp will remain as healthy as it would without a weave.

Q. If you give me a weave, what kind of styling may I have?

A. You may have any style that you wish: long, short, wavy or straight, bouffant or flat. Sometimes, the amount and location of your own hair determines styling to a degree, but not seriously. There are numerous, endless hairstyles with the application of any kind of hairweave.

Q. Is the styling decided on before or after the hairweave?

A. Generally, it is decided upon before in some of its aspects. Specifically, it is decided later. Length of hair, texture, color, placement of a part or no part: these are decided upon beforehand. After the weave, we shampoo, style, set, dry and comb out your weave and your own hair just as you would with regular hair.

Gov. Milliken Says Women Still Being Discriminated Against valuable asset that our country cannot overlook" — still are being discriminated against in some areas of endeavor.

"There is no doubt that women have reached equal status in many fields," Milliken said. "In the field of politics, women are being offered challenging opportunities and are assuming these responsibilities with great success.

"Yet when all fields of endeavor are considered," the governor added, "women are still discriminated against."

Milliken's comments were included in a speech prepared for delivery to the Michigan Women's Commission, charged with reviewing the status of women in the state and recommending any changes in legislation to the governor.

"Economically, women still do not fare as well as their male associates," the governor said. "When men and women are compared nationwide, the statistics show that women average almost $3,000 less in pay than the average for the pay of men."

Milliken cited "extensive shortages of professionals in all kinds of jobs."

"The requirements of our highly urbanized technological society demand that we take advantage of all our resources," he said.

"I believe removal of discriminating barriers to women will open up vast new possibilities in solving these problems."

Supervisor Public Works Unit in County Pay Battle

The County Board of Supervisors Public Works Committee has entered the battle on county salaries.

A difference of opinion regarding salary increases between the finance and personnel practices committees has already threatened to delay approval of the county's 1970 budget.

Though they admit salary scheduling is out of their jurisdiction, public works members recommended what would amount to a $3,300 pay increase for Daniel Barry, drain commissioner. Barry, like all other elected officials with the exception of Prosecutor Thomas Plunkett, is scheduled for a $1,500 increase. He now makes $19,500 a year salary plus $1,200 a year as administrator of the South Oakland County Sewage Disposal District.

In a letter to supervisors, Barry allowed that he'd like to make $27,500 next year, a sum equivalent to that suggested for appointee R. J. Alexander who directs the Department of Public Works.

In recommending a boost to Barry's salary, the committee suggested that $2,000 come from the county's general fund for work done by Barry on the plat board and that the 14 south Oakland communities make up the remaining $1,300 from the sewage disposal district.

The committee commended

the Oakland County Road Commission for its success in recent negotiating of landfill rights in Pontiac Township.

The committee was informed that landfill use prices now being considered are $4 a ton or

$1 a cubic yard to commercial users. No scale has been worked out for private users, according to Leory McEntee, road commission attorney.

This world's largest army is that of China with a total strength of 2,250,000 in 1966.

Few Ticketed in County

Cyclists Abide by Helmet Law

Motorcyclists in Oakland County apparently are a law-abiding bunch.

Area police have been alerted to issue tickets without warnings to cyclists riding without helmets, but only a handful of tickets have been issued since the new requirement was made law.

"Our men have been instructed to ticket without warning," Oakland County Undersheriff Leo Hazen said yesterday.

RNA Head Arrives at Detroit Airport, Is Nabbed by FBI

DETROIT (UPI) — Robert F. Williams, the black revolutionary leader who fled the United States eight years ago to avoid trial on kidnapping charges, landed on American soil today and stepped into the hands of the FBI.

FBI agents stepped onto the special Trans World Airlines jet and brought out Williams, wanted in the United States on a federal fugitive warrant.

Williams had spent a week in an English jail prior to his direct flight from London to Detroit.

Williams, who laid "down much of the groundwork in the black power movement's philosophy of meeting violence with violence, shook hands with his stewards and custom officials on his way out of the plane. The jet carried only him and a crew of eight, two security guards, and his attorney, Milton Henry of 318 Orchard Lake, Pontiac.

The bearded Williams, 44, wore a blue Mao Tse-tung suit and a Red Chinese style cap as he stepped into the sunlight.

A heavy security guard of Wayne County sheriff's deputies and plainclothes policemen was waiting. There were also about 50 gaily dressed members of the Republic of New Africa, the black nationalist paper nation of which Williams is "president."

Williams was taken immediately for a hearing before a U.S. commissioner on the fugitive warrant, issued following kidnapping charges during racial disturbances in Monroe, N.C., in 1961.

Williams had planned to return to Detroit last weekend, but TWA refused to carry him. He was then detained in a British prison as an undesirable alien until a hurried conference of British and American officials and Williams' lawyers arranged for the special flight.

Three Classes of ROTC at 'M' Disrupted

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — Radical war protesters, who burst into three ROTC classes at the University of Michigan here yesterday, vowed today to continue the disruptions until ROTC was banned from the campus.

The disruptions, planned for the last two weeks, were conducted by some 40 protesters at three separate classes.

Col. H. K. Reynolds, head of U-M's Military Science Department, said he would ask the university to take preventive measures.

"We can't carry on our classes in this kind of atmosphere," he said. "I expect action will be taken to permit us to carry on our classes. This can't go on."

The night before, U-M President Robbin W. Fleming had issued a statement saying, "There are clear rules against disruption of classes."

Fleming has indicated he is reluctant to call police to the campus. His statement implied university actions would take the form of university punishments.

All the disruptions were peaceful.

Since the law took effect Sept. 1, only "about a dozen" riders have been cited for violations by sheriff's deputies.

A law requiring that motorcyclists wear helmets was first passed in 1967, but it was ruled unconstitutional by the Michigan Court of Appeals. This year, the Legislature again made the requirement law, and their decision has not yet been contested in court.

"We haven't found it to be much of a problem in Oakland County," Hazen said. "Most riders have the helmets on their heads. I think more of them are realizing the helmet's importance to safety," he added.

In Pontiac, officers also have been instructed to issue tickets, but police officials say the number of violators has been negligible.

"Motorcyclists without helmets are not a problem in the city," said Police Chief William K. Hanger. An official count of violators was unavailable, but the number was termed "very small."

We keep a thief in our aging houses.

It's not the regular kind, of course. Our thief is a long tube. We use it to see how our Jim Beam Bourbon is aging from year to year in our special charred, white oak barrels. These barrels breathe, just like your skin. And as they breathe, they let some elements in and keep some out. In time, this helps make that wonderful, light and warm Jim Beam taste that's been a Beam family art for nearly 175 years. So when we tell you there's a thief in our aging house, it doesn't mean we end up with less Bourbon.

All it means is we end up with the best Bourbon. "World's finest Bourbon since 1795."

Preps Kick Off Gridiron Season Today

Captains Entertain Mott

"It's going to be a pretty darn good game . . . an early-season Army-Navy game," vows coach George Perry of Waterford Mott, meeting Kettering for the first time.

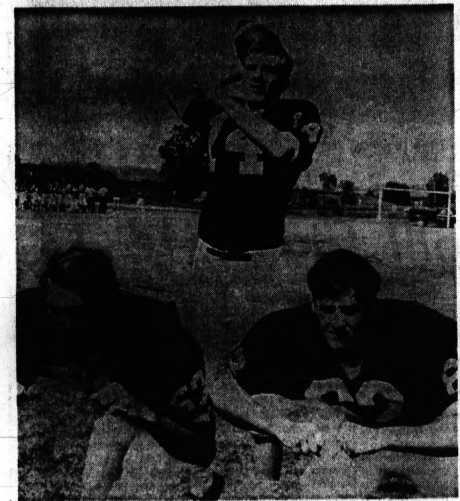

The game is on the Kettering field at 8 p.m.

"Most of the kids know each other," continued Perry, "and they'll be straining to get at each other. They've been talking about it all summer. A tossup I'd say."

Starting assignments for the opener will go to Bob Schuppach and Terry Ruffatto at ends, Steve Crumb and Neil Summers at tackles, John Cudnoulusky and Ron Seiber at guards, John Burgess at center, Bill Ziem at quarterback along with backs Randy Cooper, Bob Zywicki and Bruce Clifton.

Kettering is expected to start Jim Myers and Warren Bunce at the end slots; Rick Colonna and Dennis Darling at tackle; Grady Campbell and Gary James at guard and Kevin Dyer, the largest player on the line, a junior at 235, at center.

Paul Curry a 170 pound senior will call the signals and with him in the backfield are two juniors, Bob Gratz and Dan Pillow, along with senior Tom Setter at fullback. "I expect a very close game. The kids practiced against each other all last year and they should be keyed up on both sides," said Larkin.

CORSAIR BOMBER — Mott quarterback Bill Ziem will be aiming his passes at holes in the Kettering secondary tonight when the Corsairs clash with the Captains for the first time. Blocking are Eric Ernst (left) and Ron Seiber. The game will be at Kettering at 8 p.m.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1969 C-1

State College Start Pits Chips, Broncos

KALAMAZOO (AP)—Western Michigan's football team knows its new triple option offense works in practice, but its first real test comes Saturday against a veteran Central Michigan squad.

The Broncos throw an offense which rolled up nearly 600 yards in their spring game against a Chippewa team which has a solid front four, anchored by a pair of burly tackles, and a stout secondary.

At the same time, Central's veteran quarterback Bob Miles should provide a challenge for Western's inexperienced defensive unit. Miles hit on 43 of 120 passes for 918 yards and five touchdowns as the Chippewas built a 7-2 record last year.

Sixteen of Central's starters on offense and defense are expected to be seniors. The few underclassmen are likely to appear in the offensive line which was hit hard by graduation.

BIG VS. SMALL

Saturday's clash matches Western, a major college team, against small-college opposition but the Broncos are trying to rebound from a 3-6 record last season, with 17 of last year's lettermen gone.

Besides its new offense, Western will preview a new defense. The Broncos have dropped the middle guard in favor of a third linebacker and Coach Bill Doollittle expects the change to help in protecting against passes.

Junior Gene Rademacher, a defensive back last year, is Western's starting quarterback and the rest of the backfield is composed of sophomores and non-lettermen.

The offensive line has eight veterans and appears to be one of the Broncos' strengths.

However, the defensive unit offers only Mike Siewek, a 250-pound tackle, and defensive back Edd Snyder with solid experience.

GAIN TRANSFER

Central picked up Notre Dame transfer Tony Falsetta, a 235-pound defensive tackle, during the winter. He teams with Ralph Burde to provide real strength for the Chippewas' defense. Bob Markey at safety is another highly rated player. Coach Roy Kramer has turned in a 14-4 record in his two years at Central.

Skippers, Lakers Anxious

"We're anxious to get it under way," — coach John Moffat of Waterford.

"We're not going to show up!" — West Bloomfield coach Art Paddy. Paddy's kidding. Injuries have stolen some of the talent from the Lakers, but both he and Moffat are ready to renew their rivalry. Waterford won last year, 26-20, and leads the series, 5-2.

'MUST STAY HEALTHY'

"If we stay healthy," Paddy says over and over. "Our guys have to go both ways . . . we just have to stay healthy."

Paddy will go with Glen VanGorder and Ken Watkins at one end and Jim Hull at the other; Charles Morris and Bob Walosin at tackles; Ed Warken and Ron VanGorder at guards; Mike Hlanzy at center; Bill Bullock at quarterback along with backs Randy BeVier, Kim Woodruff and Dave Carry.

'ENJOY GAME'

"They (Skippers) enjoy playing West Bloomfield" said Moffat. "They really look forward to it. I think after last year, he (Paddy) really wants us."

Saints March Into

Schmidt's Crew After 5th Win in Pre-Season

The Saints come marching in tonight at Tiger Stadium and the Detroit Lions will be hoping to march out the exhibition season with their best record since 1962.

Remember that year . . . 1962? The Lions won four straight exhibition games and then moved into the season as the top challengers to the Green Bay Packers.

It happened in Green Bay where the Lions lost a 9-7 verdict on an eventful pass by Milt Plum intended for Terry Barr. It was intercepted by Herb Adgerly and with seconds to play Paul Hornung booted a field goal to win it.

BIG FACTOR

Later in the season on Thanksgiving Day, the Lions demolished the Packers but the loss in Green Bay stood out as the big factor for losing the championship that year.

It was the last big threat the Lions made in the Western Conference.

A victory tonight would give the Lions a 5-1 exhibition start and what Joe Schmidt feels would be a confidence booster with the season opener next week in Pittsburgh.

The Steelers drubbed the Saints, 34-24, in current exhibition play.

VETERAN CASTOFFS

New Orleans has a predominately veteran roster of castoffs, many of whom had outstanding years with other NFL teams.

Of course Lions' fans will remember Jim Ninowski and Joe Don Looney. Ninowski, the former Parsippany High quarterback, was the player the Lions gave to Cleveland to obtain Plum prior to the 1962 season.

Looney was the No. 1 draft choice of the New York Giants who became more noted for his temperment. He was a celebrity of the riot squad at a pancake house on Woodward Ave., in Royal Oak and later told coach Harry Glimmer to "go find another messenger boy" when Glimmer told him to carry plays into the game.

But, Looney is now a Saint in the true sense of the word, according to the reports from New Orleans, and he may get a starting nod tonight after playing just occasionally due to a leg injury since his discharge from the Army.

Top runner for the Saints is Andy Livingston, once with the Bears, and top pass receivers are Dan Abramowicz and Dave Parks. Parks was once a thorn for the Lions when he played with the 49ers.

FORMER TITAN

Among some of the more prominent names on the Saints' roster are Doug Atkins, defensive end who was once the pride of the Bears' defense; Steve Stonebreaker, a linebacker from Ulica who played at U. of D. and later with Baltimore; Dave Whitesell, a defensive back who played with the Lions and the Bears; and Tony Lorick, former running back with Baltimore.

Bill Kilmer, former UCLA quarterback who was with San Francisco is expected to start, with Ninowski and rookie Edd Hargett of Texas A&M as backup signal callers.

A crowd of 25,000 is expected for the 8:00 p.m. kickoff.

Celtics Wait for Answer

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Celtics, still waiting Bill Russell's decision about performing as a player-coach for the 1969-70 National Basketball Association season, reported Thursday that Mal Graham was placed on the disabled list because of a recurring gland infection.

Clarkston Visits Oxford

"We're ready to hit somebody else," says new coach Paul Rakow of Clarkston. "Look out," says Oxford coach Gerry Neidlinger. "No, don't say that." Kickoff is 8 p.m. on Oxford's new field.

FOUR STRAIGHT

Clarkston's Wolves have won this football opener for the past four years, taking the '68 contest by a 16-12 count. And in their last 12 outings, Clarkston owns a 9-3 edge.

"We gave them all they could handle last year," continued Neidlinger. "We've had good practices . . . our attitude is decent. We're small, we don't have an abundance of speed but I wouldn't say we're slow . . . it'll just depend on execution."

'WE'RE SMALLER'

"They're probably a little bigger," says Rakow. "But we have a lot of spirit and I think that's the thing that will carry us." The practice sessions have been good, Rakow said, "but they're tired of hitting themselves."

Clarkston is expected to go with Mark Walter and Rocky Jennings at ends, Don Brown and Scott Robins at tackles, Bill Logan and Dan Garrett at guards, George Bennett at center, Mark Swanson at quarterback with Doug Beadie, Rick Prasio and Tom Gates filling in the other spots in the backfield. Oxford is going with John Callahan and Bob Sinicola at ends, Dennis Moore and Mike Bergman at tackles, Bryce Bromley and Pete Holmes at guard, Fred Bowman at center, Bill Biebuyck at quarterback, along with backs Rick Ranstad, Clarence Millen and Dave Kastelic.

Lions' Den Tonight

Firebirds, Dayton Battle of Giants

When two immovable forces meet something has to give, and this is what has to happen Saturday night when the bruising lines of the Pontiac Firebirds and the Dayton Colts tangle at Wisner Stadium.

The Firebirds, tied for the Central Division lead of the MFL, and the Colts, challenging for the Lakes Division lead with the Lackawanna Lancers, will field two of the biggest lines in the MFL against each other.

On the defensive front four, the Firebirds will start ends Joe Carter, 6-5 and 290 and Dan LaRose, 6-5 and 260; # tackles it will be 6-9 Jerry Thick at 300 and Ed Gillespie, 6-4 and 280.

Willie Washington, at 6-7 and 265 and Bill Powell, a 6-3 and 260 are the swing men on defense.

Dayton will counter with Bernard Jones, 6-2 and 290, John Terrell, 6-3 and 280; Willie Ellis, 6-2 and 285, Larry Johnson, 6-4 and 250 and Larry Corbin, 6-1 and 250.

Dayton has two of the best pass receivers in the league in Chuck McElligott and Keith Smith.

McElligott has been an all-league player for five years, and the most valuable player of the MFL in 1968. Smith is a 6-4 jumping jack who has made some of his finest catches at Wisner.

Dayton also has two of the best defensive backs in the league in 6-4 Al Thornton and 6-foot Roy Kraschbacker.

Merle Zody, once a kicker with the Dallas Cowboys, does the booting for Dayton and is one of the better kickers in the league.

Last week in losing 14-13 to Lansing, Dick Kenney kicked the two big extra points. Dayton, in an effort to win, did not call on Zody to kick the tying point and instead went for the two point conversion.

A pass attempt was batted away and the Colts, who could have settled for a tie, lost their second straight game. Game time is 7:30 p.m. tomorrow and the Firebirds are hopeful of a crowd of 5,000 or more. Advance ticket sales have been brisk, and they can be obtained until 4:00 p.m. Saturday at Ommen's, Griffith, Bob-Ken's, VFW Post 1370 and Firebird Lounge at Huron Bowl.

Ticket windows at Wisner Stadium will open at 6:15 p.m.

Services Slated for MSU Coach

EAST LANSING (AP)—Funeral services will be held Saturday in East Lansing for John Benington, head coach of the Michigan State University basketball team.

Benington, 47, died of a heart attack Wednesday night in the coaches' locker room at Jensen Gymnasium on the campus. It was his second heart attack in five months, and he had been hoping to resume fulltime duties as basketball coach.

Benington's teams in his four years at MSU compiled won-lost records of 55-30 overall and 33-24 in the Big Ten Conference. His 1966-67 team shared the conference title.

Earlier, Benington coached for seven years at St. Louis University and two years at Drake University.

Survivors include his widow, Barbara, and nine children.

Services were scheduled for 10 a.m. Saturday at St. Thomas Aquinas Church in East Lansing, with burial in Findlay, Ohio, the town of his birth.

The Rebounders Club of Michigan State University announced Thursday it is establishing a memorial scholarship fund for Benington's children, five boys and four girls ranging in age from 7 to 19.

Cubs Buy Outfielder

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Chicago Cubs purchased outfielder Jimmie Hall from the New York Yankees Thursday for an unannounced amount. Minor league pitcher Terry Bongiovanni, a Cub bonus player, was acquired by New York in the deal and assigned to Syracuse of the International League.

LOONEY RETURNS — Joe Don Looney, who was once a controversial player with the Detroit Lions, returns to Tiger Stadium tonight to play with the New Orleans Saints in the final exhibition game of the season.

BIG BEEF—When the Firebirds face the Dayton Colts Saturday night at Wisner Stadium, the two biggest players on the field will be on the same side of the F Bird line. Joe Carter at 290 pounds and Jerry Thick at 300 pounds, at end and tackle respectively. The other side will be a "small" total of 520 pounds with Ed Gillespie and Dan LaRose.

McLain Suffers Through Hectic Day of Setbacks

CLEVELAND (AP) — Thursday was a bad day for Tiger pitching ace Denny McLain.

Last season's 31-game winner arrived in Cleveland just in time to warm up for a start against the Cleveland Indians. He had spent the day with his wife, Sharyn, who suffered a miscarriage Thursday.

Once he took the mound, things did not go much better and McLain, who had won seven straight prior to Thursday's game, was thwarted in his bid for his 33rd victory of the season as the Indians won 5-2.

The Tigers move on to Washington today, where Earl Wilson, 12-5, will start against Barry Moore, 8-7, in a night contest.

The Tiger lost saved Cleveland starter Louis Tiant from the questionable distinction of becoming the first modern Cleveland player to lose 19 games in one season. The victory stretched Tiant's record to 9-18 for the year. He won 21 games last year.

ERAS AGO

The last Indian to lose 19es in a year was Earle Moore, who finished the 1902 season with a 17-19 mark. In 1901, Peter Durling lost 22 games for the Tribe.

McLain's troubles started early when he walked Ken Harrelson in the second inning. Larry Brown followed with a hit-and-run single, Vern Fuller batted in two runs with a triple and then scored himself on a single by Tiant.

Detroit came back with one in the third on a pair of doubles by Mickey Stanley and Tom Tresh.

But in their half of the third, the Indians scored once more when Frank Baker, Duke Sims and Tony Horton started off the inning with consecutive singles and Baker scored on a double play fielder's choice.

Detroit's only other run came in the sixth off a triple by Norm Cash and a sacrifice fly by Willie Horton.

INSURANCE RUN

The Indians added an insurance run in the eighth when Jose Cardenal made it to first on a bouncing single and then scored on a sacrifice and two wild pitches by reliever Tom Timmerman. McLain pitched a total of six innings and gave up six hits and a walk while striking out three. All four runs scored. (Continued on Page C-2, Col. 7)

WORKING OUT — Getting in shape for the upcoming football campaign is North Farmington speedster Mike Gow, a 5-11, 160-pound junior.

PNH Eleven Facing Tough North Farmington

Pontiac Catholic Dueling Benedictine in '69 Debut

A collision of two of the area's prep giants is on tap tomorrow and the get-together finds the Huskies of Pontiac Northern visiting North Farmington.

The Raiders of North Farmington look to have one of their finest squads in their eight-year history of head-knocking, while coach Dave Schmidt is extremely optimistic when he views Pontiac Northern's chances.

THIRD MEETING

The 2 p.m. kickoff will send the two powers crashing head-on for the third time, with PNH holding a 1-0-1 edge for the previous two games. Last year's contest resulted in a 13-13 standoff after PNH won their initial game the preceding year, 19-13.

Both possess those ingredients for winning football games—size, speed, and, to be sure, talent.

Defensively, along the line at least, PNH may command an edge, but the Huskies could be vulnerable in the defensive secondary.

That game is one of a handful on the Saturday high school level.

TITANS OPENING

Another of the promising local squads kicking off the grid wars tomorrow is Pontiac Catholic, which has a 2-30 tilt on tap at Detroit, Benedictine.

A cruel pre-season blow to the Titans of Pontiac Catholic in a scrimmage last Saturday when halfback Tim Boyer was carried off the field with a broken leg. The slender speedster was the most productive runner the past two seasons for the Titans and he fits into the All-State material category.

TAKES UP SLACK

While Boyer's loss will certainly hurt, coach Mel Larsen has a lot of talent on the '69 squad that's certain to take up the slack.

Still another of the Detroit Catholic League powerhouses opening tomorrow is Brother Rice, which takes the home field against Redford St. Mary under new coach Al Fraccasca. The mentor moved to head the Warriors after a successful stay at Royal Oak Shrine.

LAKERS TRAVEL

Waterford Our Lady of Lakes, under new coach Joe Sharpe, opens Saturday night against Detroit St. Rita, and the Lakers are one of the favorites in the Northwest Catholic lineup.

BIG BOOT — Senior Terry Lee Toboy gets a boot into the ball during practice. He's expected to handle the punting chores for Rochester's Falcons this fall.

AIRBORNE GIANTS—New York Giants' tacklers (white jerseys) are airborne in an effort to grab Don McCall (25) of the Pittsburgh Steelers as he breaks through the line for a long gain in their exhibition game in Montreal last night.

The Steelers came from behind to win the game, 17-13, before a slim crowd of 12,000 in the Canadian city's second game of the exhibition season.

UCLA Bruins to Show Grid 'Cure'

By the Associated Press — A season last year. But Cureton, who was with his explosive speed, will three seasons there, the 5-9, 180-pound junior scored 474 touchdowns and rang up 474 points. He was the most sought-after player by colleges in California.

Dick Shiner

Tosses 2 TDs in Exhibition

By the Associated Press — Dick Shiner's arm is alive and well in Montreal. And there's nothing wrong with Gene Mingo's foot, either.

Shiner, plagued with a sore arm recently, uncorked two touchdowns passes and Mingo kicked a 25-yard field goal as the Pittsburgh Steelers spilled the New York Giants 17-13 in a National Football League exhibition game in Montreal Thursday night.

"We started out slow in the first half, but that first touchdown we got in the third quarter started us off," said winning coach Chuck Noll, referring to Shiner's five-yard strike to Earl Gros.

The Steelers were trailing 6-0, but Shiner's touchdown loss got the Steelers a 7-6 advantage. After another New York touchdown pass, Shiner clicked with a 38-yard pass to John Hilton for a 14-13 lead, then Mingo booted the clincher in the fourth period.

Noll praised his defense for the victory, the Steelers' second in five preseason games. The Giants now are 0-5 in tuneup games.

FIELD GOALS
Pete Gogolak booted a pair of first half field goals to give the New York Giants a 6-0 lead, but that was wiped out with Shiner's first touchdown pass. John Fuqua smashed in for a four-yard touchdown run to give the Giants a short-lived 13-6 lead.

Then Shiner and Mingo got busy and put the game out of the Giants' reach.

Two games are on tap tonight. St. Louis plays at Chicago and New Orleans is at Detroit in two NFL battles. On Saturday, Green Bay plays Atlanta at Canton, Ohio; Cleveland meets Minnesota at Akron, Ohio, and Los Angeles tackles San Francisco, all NFL tilts.

The exhibition season winds up Sunday with two NFL games—Washington at Philadelphia and Baltimore at Dallas.

Meanwhile, St. Louis signed 11-year veteran Kling Hill, backup quarterback and punter with Philadelphia and Minnesota. He'll be doing the same thing with the Cardinals.

For 1970-71, a completely balanced schedule of 78 games in which all 16 member clubs will play each other three times at home and three away will be drawn up.

The same season the playoff format will be changed. Currently, playoff competition is on an intra-divisional basis until each division produces a winner and the two divisional champions meet in the Stanley Cup finals.

Under the new playoff format, the four top teams in each division will play the opening round in their own divisions, but in the next semifinal round, the two winners in one division will play the two winners in the other division, with the two survivors meeting in the Stanley Cup final.

MR. MET—Manager Gil Hodges of the New York Mets talks on the phone from the locker room at Shea Stadium after the Mets extended their lead to two games over the Cubs by defeating the Montreal Expos, 4-0, while the Cubs were losing again to Philadelphia.

Braves' Fans Cheer 'Lum'

By the Associated Press — The only Chinese-Hawaiian in the majors and a pitcher just up from the minors played key roles Thursday night in an amazing National League division races.

The first would be Mike Lum, No. 5 in the Braves' outfield but No. 1 in all Atlanta today after a pinch single that beat San Francisco 5-3.

The other is Jeff James, a right-hander making his first NL appearance of 1969, who tamed Chicago 4-3 with last-out help from Grant Jackson as Philadelphia sent the Cubs plummeting to their eighth consecutive defeat.

Elsewhere, the New York Mets blanked Montreal 4-0, Cincinnati held off San Diego 6-4, Los Angeles nipped Houston 1-0 and Pittsburgh edged St. Louis 3-2.

TWO UP
The standings in the East find the Mets two games ahead of the Cubs, with Pittsburgh eight out and St. Louis 8½ back. In the West, it's Cincinnati back on top by one percentage point over Atlanta. San Francisco is one-half game out, Los Angeles 1½ back and Houston 2½ out.

Lum came to bat in the eighth inning of a 3-3 game with two out and the bases loaded after the Giants issued an intentional walk to Sonny Jackson. His single to center off Frank Lary scored Oscar Brown, running for Rico Carty, and Orlando Cepeda. Carty and Cepeda opened the inning with singles.

Willie McCovey slammed two homers for the Giants, his third and fourth of the season, while Hank Aaron hammered No. 41 for the Braves.

Lum's pinch hit gave the victory to Ron Reed, 8-6. Hoyt Wilhelm, the 46-year-old knuckler recently acquired from the Cubs, made his first NL appearance since 1957 and worked a scoreless ninth inning.

WHIFF MARK
Bobby Bonds of the Giants struck out for the 16th time this season, a league record.

The Cubs and Phillies were tied 1-1 in the eighth when Ernie Banks homered for Chicago, No. 22. But the Phils came right back to tie the score on consecutive doubles by Tony Taylor and Johnny Briggs and Richie Allen followed with his 30th homer.

That gave James a 4-2 lead. Willie Smith hit a pinch homer for the Cubs with one out in the ninth and with two away Glenn Beckert singled. Jackson came on and retired Billy Williams on a pop fly.

3 'M' Starters Sit Out Final Full Contact

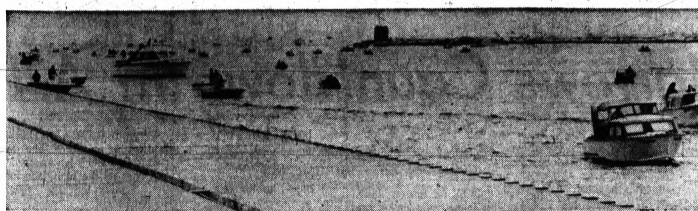

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Four players, including three starters will be out of action Saturday when the University of Michigan football team stages its final scrimmage of the practice season.

Only one of the injured players, guard Richard McCoy, is expected to be in shape for the season-opening contest Sept. 20 against Vanderbilt at Michigan Stadium.

The other three disabled Wolverines are Phil Seymour, defensive end; Peter Serantos, offensive center, and Bill Taylor, second-string quarterback.

The Wolverines avoided contact in their practice Thursday.

Coaches experimented with the school's new artificial turf, wetting down half the field and keeping the remainder dry to determine whether longer cleats would be needed in rainy weather. The coaches, backed by player complaints that short-cleated shoes slipped on the wet turf, decided the Wolverines will adopt longer cleats when the field is wet.

CHANNEL TRAFFIC — This is just a small portion of the thousands of boats that jammed the Muskegon Channel early this morning going out for coho and chinook salmon.

Some 1,500 boats filled channel in return Wednesday night with most catching their limit of five fish, which have been averaging 20 pounds and upwards.

34-Pounder New Record

Chinook Salmon Run
Now Under Way

MUSKEGON (AP)—Hundreds of boats have been drawn to the Muskegon channel for the past few days as a result of a Chinook and Coho salmon run, and many anglers had little difficulty catching their limit of five.

Dr. G. J. Applegarth of Muskegon came in with a 29-pound Chinook Wednesday to briefly hold the state title. Then Thursday the State Department of Natural Resources reported a record catch of a 34-pound, 13-ounce Chinook. It was caught Wednesday by John Whitkowski off the breakwater at his home town of Manistee.

He was trolling a silver flatfish on a 15-pound test monofilament line in 60 feet of water.

More boats are expected off the Muskegon piers through the end of October. Camping facilities, as well as launching ramps, have been jammed to capacity.

Baseball's World Series has been a best-of-seven format since 1922.

Big Season to Start

'A' Teams After Elite Spots

By The Associated Press
Take a nostalgic trip back through the past five years, and you'll find 33 different schools recognized in the season-ending Class A top ten prep football polls formulated by the Associated Press.

Only 10 of them have been awarded a place of honor among the elite more than once in that time.

Just one has been voted, a spot in the top ten each year, the Battle Creek Central, pride of the Six-A League. That should tell you something about the Bearcats — and it should also tell you something about the '69 Class A season.

Barring disaster — and at Battle Creek that can be defined as any loss — the Bearcats will be in the top ten somewhere. But to make it, they must negotiate the nastiest schedule undertaken by a state title contender in quite a few years.

Battle Creek starts with two Saginaw Valley League foes of the first rank, engaging Flint Northern tonight and Bay City Central next Friday, both in Battle Creek. Then, among others, the Bearcats will have to get by three strong Six-A contenders, Ann Arbor Pioneer, Lansing Sexton and Kalamazoo Central.

LOOKS TOUGH

The latter is the only team to beat Battle Creek in 36 games, and is talking of its best team ever, built around all-state halfback Bill Stovall. In case you don't remember, Stovall had a fair-to-middling season in '68, scoring 22 touchdowns.

If there's one game on the Bearcats' schedule or one in the state for that matter, that really looks like fun, it's the Sept. 19 collision with Bay City Central. In three of the last five years, such a meeting would have decided the state title.

It very easily could have a great bearing on the outcome of the championship derby this fall.

Bay City's "most wanted" list is equally long, and defending poll champ Midland has to rank at the top of it. The champion has been wounded, but not mortally, by the opening of the new Dow high school.

Couch Bob Stoppert still has 17 lettermen and a particularly experienced offense led by speedster Tom Drake, all-valley guard Duane Burch and power running Dave Piegels.

Two Flint schools also figure as Saginaw Valley powers, resurgent Central and veteran Northwestern. The league has split into two five-team divisions, and Central has the long way to come to duplicate its 9-0 performance of a year ago. Just three lettermen are available to coach Frank Joranko.

HUNTING GROUND

In Detroit, that happy hunting ground for college football's talent scouts, the status seems likely to remain quo where the public schools are concerned. Denby, a top team for the last four years, is deep and tough. Redford Union and Southeastern fall into the same category.

Looking into the suburbs for an outstanding team or two is a risky business at best. They're there, as always, but only time

Harrier Meet at Marshbank

W. Bloomfield Hosts
A-B-C Squads

Three area cross country teams warmed up for the West Bloomfield Invitational tomorrow by posting impressive victories Thursday.

Kevin Reabe's 10:51 paced Kettering to a 23-32 win over Northville. Dave Meyerhofer was second and Dave Perkins fifth for the Captains.

Pontiac's Northern took the measure of Southfield Lathrup, 24-31 with Jack Barnes, Tom Barnes and Tom McClain placing second through fourth behind winner Steve Wilmoth of Lathrup.

Farmington's Jim McGlothlin won in 10:08 followed by teammates Dave Donahoe, Bill Hillebrand and Dale Woniak in a 17-46 win over Walled Lake Central.

The West Bloomfield meet will open at 10 a.m. at Marshbank Park with Class B and C runners. Class A harriers will start at 10:15 and AA at 10:30.

Top team contenders will be defending champion Brother Rice and Adrian. Other outside visitors in the 20-team A field will be Jackson, Kalamazoo, Flint Kearsley, and the two Ann Arbor high schools.

Oxford and Detroit St. Anthony are favored in B and C.

Spartans Have Last Scrimmage Before Opener

EAST LANSING (AP) — Two starters are expected to remain out of action Saturday when Michigan State's Spartans hold their last scrimmage before they meet the University of Washington Sept. 20 in the season opener.

Tommy Love, junior halfback from Sylva, N.C., will be out with a bruised knee. Gordon Bowdell, senior split end from Allen Park, has a right shoulder injury.

Two other Michigan State starters, Craig Wycinsky, senior offensive tackle from Detroit, and Don Baird, senior guard from Tecumseh, have complained of bruised shoulders but are expected to participate in the last scrimmage.

Magic Number 3 for Baltimore

Orioles' McNally Narrows Countdown in A. L. Race

By the Associated Press
They, guess what? Dave McNally won a ball game.
That wouldn't have been much news a couple of months ago when the big left-hander was winning along with a phonetic 17-game victory string.

But, McNally's four-hit in Baltimore's 4-2 victory over Boston Thursday night was only the second triumph in eight decisions for Dave since his two more in the fourth, and the only damage off McNally, he'd get only one pitch over, and that wouldn't be consistently.

The only hit off Bunker, 10-10, was Jay Johnson's leadoff single in the seventh. Ed Kirkpatrick, a former Angel, backed Bunker with solo homers in the fourth and sixth, while Jerry Adair had an RBI single in the ninth.
Streak ends
Sal Bando hit his 24th homer of the season and a single, driving in three runs, in helping Oakland break a five-game losing streak.

Any combination of three Oriole victories or losses by Detroit with mathematically ends the race. In fact, the Orioles could clinch a share of the title tonight by beating Cleveland, if Detroit loses at Washington.
In other A.L. games, Kansas City blanked California 3-0 on Wally Bunker's one-hitter, Washington beat the New York Yankees 7-3, Chicago tripped Minnesota's West Division leaders 4-0 and Oakland stopped Seattle 6-3.

McNally, 18-6, who won his first 15 games this year, helped himself out by doubling home the Orioles' first run as Baltimore picked up its 10th victory in 12 games.
Dave Johnson, Andy Etchebarren and Mark Belanger lashed consecutive doublers for Aussie Still in

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Ken Rosewall, the last survivor among five Australian cricketers, defeated Dutch Buchholz of St. Louis 6-3, 6-4 to win the $25,000 Planters Professional Tennis Tournament Thursday.

The 35-year-old Aussie, who won the $5,000 first prize, wasted little time in winning the straight set victory. His brogue service took to roll up a 3-0 lead in the first set before Buchholz rallied to win three games in a row.

Buchholz then won the ninth game without losing a point, but Rosewall won his own service in the 10th game to end the match.

Rosewall gained the finals with a smashing 7-1 pro set victory over Pierre Barthes of

Border Guards' Quarrel Is Cue

Freedom Dash Nearly Failed

BERLIN (UPI) — A quarrel between two border guards in a watchtower, permission to enter the forbidden wall area to work, and a border guard's bad aim all contributed to Eberhard Gryzb's successful flight to West Berlin.

The thought of fleeing came to Gryzb on the spur of the moment Sept. 3.

"I looked up at the watchtower," he said. "The two border guards manning it were quarreling and their attention was distracted. I said to myself 'it's now or never.'"

The first barrier between him and West Berlin was a five-foot-high fence that at the slightest touch sets off alarms to warn guards an escape is in progress.

CEMENT MIXER

"Luckily there was one of our cement mixers just before the alarm fence," he said. "About an hour before my own escape I heard an officer in one of the border guard posts demand it be moved, but it wasn't."

"I grabbed a ladder, took off my shoes to run faster, climbed up on the cement mixer and jumped over the alarm fence."

Once over the fence he still had about 50 yards to go through antitank traps and over a cleared space, the so-called death strip, where there is no cover from guard fire.

"Bullets whizzed past me," he said. "For a moment I thought 'It's all over,' but I kept on. I had to make it."

'ALMOST GOT ME'

"At the wall they almost got me again. The ladder I grabbed had a rung missing and I fell to the ground. I think that saved me because they stopped shooting then. They apparently thought I had been hit."

"But I got up again, climbed the ladder and was over the wall on the Western side."

Gryzb said his flight had no political motives. He said he had been fed up with life in the East and heard he could earn more money in the West.

He left behind in East Berlin his wife, a 5-year-old son and 3-year-old daughter.

CANT JOIN HIM

West Berlin officials said the East Germans would not give them permission to come to West Berlin to join Gryzb.

"They never do in such cases," an official Gryzb.

Gryzb, who erected scaffolds on construction projects, said he planned to get work in the West and send money to his family in the East.

Candice, Candid on Nudity, Tells Earl Some Bare Facts

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — For the first time, I hear nudity being blamed for the failure of some movies and the economic decline of some giant film companies.

Maybe nudity isn't at fault. But it may wind up taking the rap.

And, curiously, there will be some film actresses who will be glad if nudity does get a setback. Because all Hollywood actresses don't like to go naked.

Candice Bergen is one. After reading an interview with her in The Hollywood Reporter calling some nude pictures "garbage," I pursued it — and she told me that Raquel Welch and Natalie Wood balked at nudity as angrily as she does.

"I'm not against nudity itself," she said. "But I don't want to be in it. Let's face it, people are not clamoring to see my body as much as they want to see some others. I think there's more to pictures than the size of a bra cup. And I'm against 'The Vixens' and 'I Am Curious (Yellow)' and some of those other films that seem to be pioneering in public areas."

When she said Natalie Wood wouldn't go nude, I mentioned we heard she had been naked in "Bob and Carol and Ted and Alice." And that some nasty stage hand had remarked that he'd expected to see more of Natalie in the upper regions than he did.

"No, she didn't go nude. She had something on in front!" Candice retorted.

"You men tend to talk a lot," she said. "You're pretty harsh to your opinions. But a girl opens herself up to it when she does those pictures."

Candice, now filming "Getting Straight" in Hollywood, said that in one picture "they stuck in a nude double for me without telling me. Then they cut the scene so it was ridiculous and I couldn't do anything about it."

Well, they won't do it any more because she now protects herself in her contracts.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Someone defined a baby-sitter: "Someone who feeds the baby at 10, 12 and 2 — and herself at 9, 11 and 1."

EARL'S PEARLS: This is the week when mothers hear those three little words that thrill them: "Back to school." A scientist examined toy guns and missiles that'll be gifts for the kids this Christmas and announced, "Well, they're still ahead of the Pentagon, but a little behind the Russians."

UAW Might Push '30 and Out' Plan

DETROIT (AP) — A movement is taking shape to make retirement after 30 years of service regardless of age, a major goal in 1970 contract negotiations of the United Auto Workers Union.

Among leaders of the movement is Jack Wagner, president of Buick Local 599 of Flint who claims endorsement of the so-called "30 and Out" plan by 1,200 local union officials over the country.

Wagner said advocates hope to arrange a meeting to precede a UAW national convention at Detroit Nov. 8-9, called to fix a scale of higher benefits for any of the union's 1.7 million members on strike.

Aim of his meeting, Wagner said, would be "to get the ball rolling" for next April's constitutional convention of the UAW in Atlantic City, where new contract demands will be decided upon.

MAIN ISSUE

"Early retirement," Wagner said, "is going to be a main issue next year. We want to get together and make 30 years the maximum anyone has to work before being eligible to retire on a full pension. Age wouldn't have anything to do with it."

UAW President Walter P. Reuther has scored some notable firsts in negotiating industrial contracts: a guaranteed annual income, a cost-of-living escalator and a $400 monthly pension at age 60 among them.

But whether he would go along with a hard-and-fast demand for a "30 and Out" plan remains to be seen. A lot would depend upon how much rank and file pressure Wagner and his associates could generate.

In the past, Reuther has fought against conventions tying his hands in advance on specific issues, urging that negotiators be allowed flexibility.

There was mild backing for a "30 and Out" demand raised at

Brazil Junta Cracks Down on Terrorists

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — Brazil's military government has declared war on terrorists who rob banks, kill soldiers and policemen, start fires and explode bombs in the nation's major cities.

The country's ruling military junta this week instituted the death penalty for subversion and revolutionary war. Except for cases involving foreign wars, capital punishment has been outlawed in Brazil for more than 75 years.

Terrorism in this nation of 200 million was exemplified by the kidnapping last week of U.S. Ambassador C. Burke Elbrick in Rio de Janeiro.

Terrorists threatened to kill Elbrick unless Brazil released 15 political prisoners. The government complied, freeing 14 men and one woman throughout the country and flying them to Mexico. Elbrick was returned safe.

NOT SURPRISING

The Elbrick case caused shock in other countries, but many Brazilians were not surprised. Terrorism had become routine in Rio and in Sao Paulo, the nation's biggest city.

Bank robberies, arms thefts, bombings—even the murder of soldiers and policemen—increased during the early months of this year. Poorly trained local police seemed unable to stop the attacks.

Finally, with President Arthur da Costa e Silva's illness and the rise to power of the military junta—made up of the top commanders of the army, navy and air force—the armed forces assumed total control.

Even though Costa e Silva, a retired army marshal, had ruled by decree since last December, there was still some semblance of democracy in the national government while he was in office.

CONSTITUTION IGNORED

Now this semblance is hazy. The military junta ignored the 1967 constitution—approved by the military in the first place—that provided for the vice president to take over in case of presidential illness. The three chiefs refused to let Vice President Pedro Aleixo, a civilian, assume office. They simply re-wrote part of the constitution.

There has long been pressure within the Brazilian military, particularly from younger officers, to get tough on leftist anti-government activity. With Costa e Silva sidelined, and with Ambassador Elbrick's kidnapping, this is happening.

The "manifesto" written by Elbrick's kidnappers left no doubt that the terrorists are determined to overthrow the government.

The revolutionaries work in nebulous groups such as MR-8 (the 8 stands for Oct. 8, 1967, the date on which Bolivian soldiers killed Che Guevara), National Liberation Action, and National Liberation Front. They do not say what they would do if they did gain power.

All they say is that the military regime must go. Now the military regime is taking drastic measures to stop them.

$9-Million U-M Hospital for Children Set to Open

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — The new $9.5-million children's hospital at the University of Michigan Medical Center will be as much a classroom and playground as a hospital.

Conceived with a $9.5-million grant from the C. S. Mott Foundation of Flint and under construction for the past 3½ years, the C. S. Mott Children's Hospital will formally open Sunday with a public open house.

TV Star Does 'Homework'

Leslie Nielsen Busy Modernizing House

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD — Leslie Nielsen, costar in "The Bad News Bears," moved from a 28-room Beverly Hills mansion recently because he needed less floor space.

The former home, a great old Spanish casa, contained 9,000 square feet. His current quarters are a piddling 4,500 square feet.

Nielsen's new home is 50 years old and of the Swiss chalet variety.

He is in the process of changing the place into a contemporary house with a modern facade. It is a consuming pastime. The actor is his own contractor and oversees the workmen who also are adding a room.

CANADIAN NATIVE

A native of Canada, Nielsen is married to Ailsa, a Pennsylvania girl, and they are the parents of two daughters, Thea, 8, and Maura, 6.

The 6-foot, 2-inch, 185 pound actor once starred in another television series, "The New Breed," in which he played a sympathetic cop. His new NBC series casts him again as a member of the constabulary—this time as a deputy police chief.

Nielsen is personable, and while he takes his acting seriously, he doesn't hold forth on its importance to the world as does say, Rod Steiger.

He works at Universal studios from 7:30 in the morning until 7:15 p.m., driving the 15-minute route in a beautifully kept 1965 Bentley.

TIME FOR DIP

Exhausted though he may be, Nielsen finds time for a dip in the pool with his daughters and friends, most of whom are in the construction trades and whom he has grown to know well while working with them on remodeling the new house.

All the female Niensens enjoy horseback riding, so Leslie keeps horses at two Southern California locations where the family goes for weekend outings.

Battle for Dirksen Post Due to Heat Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans with party leadership ambitions may soon take the camouflage off their politicking—which hasn't been very well concealed anyhow.

During four days of memorial observances for Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, the minority leader who died Sunday, the likely candidates avoided public campaigning.

But Dirksen was buried Thursday at Pekin, on his native Illinois prairie, and now the struggle to succeed him is likely to become more open.

To a man, the undeclared candidates claimed they had refrained from campaigning during the Dirksen observances.

When they did talk, it was off the record.

But during those four days the alliances were forming, in cloakroom sessions, telephone canvasses—even one talk in Dirksen's old office.

Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, the GOP whip now serving as acting leader, refused to discuss his plans on grounds it would be improper so soon after Dirksen's death.

But he was clearly a candidate. His supporters met to discuss the situation and count votes.

'EXTREMELY CLOSE'
Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York summed up the tally: "Extremely close."

Two potential conservative contenders, Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado and Sen. Roman L. Hruska of Nebraska, said in separate interviews they had not decided whether to run for the leadership.

Other GOP sources said Allott and Hruska were trying to assess their chances before venturing openly into the race.

Hruska lost the deputy leadership to Scott, 23 to 20, at the beginning of the current session, and one Republican said the Nebraska senator would not enter the new contest unless he is convinced he can win.

One of them, presumably, will have to take steps, to avoid dividing the conservative vote.

Hruska and Allott already have met privately for a general discussion of the leadership situation.

A key factor in the outlook: Sen. Howard Baker Jr. of Tennessee, Dirksen's son-in-law. He is the favorite of some younger senators—and also some more senior members who had been considered certain to back the conservative entry.

Javits, however, said support for Baker would wane. He said senior senators are certain to have misgivings about putting first-term member in the leader's chair.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, chairman of the Republican conference, indicated she would decide during the next few days on a timetable for the party decision. It will be made at a conference of Republican senators, now numbering 42.

Most GOP senators expect the leadership vote within the next two weeks.

Debate on Over-All Bill Winding Up

Vote Today on N-Carrier Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is heading into the home stretch of its long debate on the defense budget with critics of Pentagon spending still pressing their uphill fight for cuts.

A vote was scheduled today on the amendment of Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., to defer $377.1 million for the CVAN69 nuclear aircraft carrier pending a study of the need and cost.

Backers of the amendment hoped to do better than earlier in the week when a move to delay the next batch of CVA super-carriage plans failed, 64-23. But foes of the CVAN69 project conceded privately only massive absenteeism could give them a victory.

Debate on the $20-billion military procurement authorization bill started July 7.

COOPER AMENDMENT

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield had suggested earlier that the Senate might meet Saturday to speed the measure but the decision to vote on the Mondale amendment was seen as likely to erase the Saturday session.

Among remaining amendments, the one with the best chance of approval appears to be a proposal by Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., to restrict U.S. military aid to Laos and Thailand to "equipment, material, supplies and maintenance thereof."

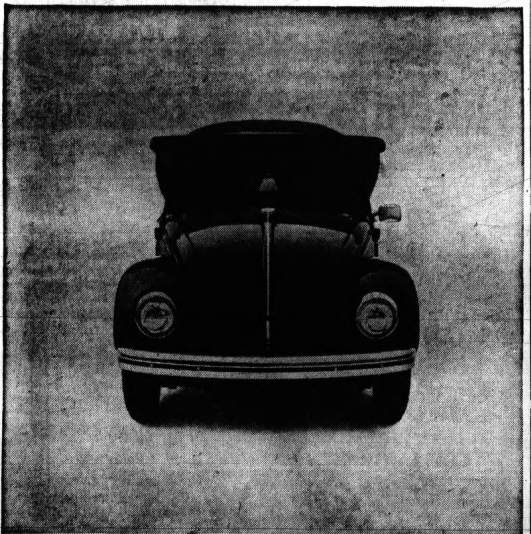

Other amendments include proposals to cut $80 million and limit research on the Advanced Manned Strategic Aircraft to $20 million; to require reduction of U.S. armed forces by the number of servicemen pulled out of Vietnam to require a continuing study of profits made by those getting defense contracts; to pay only for what is specified in the contract; and to require the Pentagon to supply Congress with reports made with government funds.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, chairman of the Republican conference, indicated she would decide during the next few days on a timetable for the party decision. It will be made at a conference of Republican senators, now numbering 42.

Most GOP senators expect the leadership vote within the next two weeks.

Our car the movie star.

Incredible as it sounds, you are looking at the romantic lead of a big new Hollywood picture.

The picture is Walt Disney's Studio's "The Love Bug." And our VW appears in all its real life splendor as Herbie, the main character.

Why not?
Signing one up for a lifetime costs only $2,035.67*. That's less than they have to pay other movie stars in a single day.

Once signed up, the bug won't suddenly start making crazy demands. (A gallon of gas for every 27 miles or so is all.)

No studio could ask for a less temperamental star. (It'll work any time, anywhere and in any weather.)

Or one with fewer bad habits. (It doesn't even drink water.)

Or one that ages so gracefully.

And of course, there isn't a performer around that's better known to the public.

Who else makes three million personal appearances on the road every day?

Our car can be seen in Walt Disney's Production of "The Love Bug."

Your "Love Bug" button and sticker are waiting for you.

Rare Blood Flown In for Petoskey Surgery

PETOSKEY (UPI) — After a nationwide search, three pints of an extremely rare blood type have been flown to a hospital in this northern Michigan town to be used if necessary today in an operation on a 79-year-old Indian woman.

John Rasmussen, administrator of Little Traverse Hospital here, said the blood may be used during an operation to pin and put a plate on the thigh bone Mrs. Mary Petoskey shattered in a fall.

Mrs. Petoskey's blood type—A Rh positive — also contains a rare anti-Gerbich antibody. Gerbich, the blood found in almost every person, can be fatal when combined with the rare anti-body.

A full-blooded Indian, Mrs. Petoskey was married to the late Peter Petoskey, grandson of Chief Ignatius Petoskey, who gave his name to this resort town of 6,000.

MATCHING TROUBLE

Hospital authorities told the Michigan Community Blood center in Detroit that they were unable to match Mrs. Petoskey's blood type.

"We cross-matched 200 different units of blood," said Mrs. Grace Neitzer, technical coordinator of the center. "All were incompatible."

She said workers at the center then checked in a rare blood reference room and found that Mrs. Petoskey's blood matched a sample drawn from Mrs. Jean Schmidt of Utica.

Mrs. Schmidt donated one pint. A further check through the American Association of Blood Banks discovered two more donors — one from Lake Charles, La., and the other in Pittsburgh.

Health Experts Fear Resurgence of Polio

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government health experts, warning against a resurgence of polio if the nation lets down in vaccination guard, say potential pockets of the dread disease already exist in every metropolitan area of the country.

Public Health Service doctors cautioned against any undue complacency from the fact that so far this year only 10 cases of paralytic polio—the lowest rate in history—have been reported. There were 48 such cases last year.

In the years before 1955 when vaccines first became available, there were up to 20,000 cases annually of deadly or crippling polio.

But the government doctors said that even now on a nationwide basis approximately 30 per cent of the children in the most highly susceptible 1 to 4 year age group remain without vaccine.

MOSTLY IN GHETTOS

Most of these are in ghettos or other low socioeconomic sectors.

Pleasant Weekend Forecast for Area

It looks like the Pontiac area will be blessed with a dry and pleasant weekend.

The U.S. Weather Bureau's official forecast:

TONIGHT — Fair with a low of 50 to 55.

TOMORROW — Mostly sunny and warmer with a high near 60.

SUNDAY — Partly cloudy and warm.

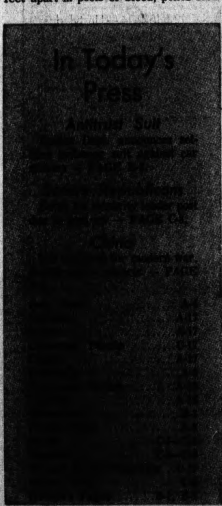

Fifty-six was the low thermometer reading before 8 a.m. The mercury stood at 72 at 12:30 p.m.

IN DETROIT HOSPITAL

Her husband was transferred from Pontiac General Hospital to Grace Hospital in Detroit for neurosurgery.

Police said it appeared no one else was involved because police had to break into the trilevel residence.

The wife had called a telephone operator, who notified police. Both husband and wife were found on a lower level of the house, lying semiconscious 15 feet apart in pools of blood, police said.

NOSE-COUNTER — The new director of the U.S. Bureau of Census, George H. Brown (left) of Bloomfield Hills displays his presidential certificate of appointment following his swearing-in recently. With him is Congressman Jack H. McDonald, R-19th District, who was the director of the 1960 census in Wayne County and who is presently a leader in the fight for "census reform." Brown, 38, has been director of marketing for the Ford Motor Co.

Peace Overture to Ho's Successor

Viet Raids by B52s Halted

SAIGON (AP) — Acting on orders from Washington, the U.S. Command canceled B52 bombing raids scheduled for South Vietnam last night and today in a peace overture to Ho Chi Minh's successors, military sources said.

There was no immediate indication when the big bombers would go into action again over South Vietnam.

Some sources speculated the suspension might last as long as 36 hours, which would carry it past President Nixon's conference in Washington today with his top diplomatic and military advisers on Vietnam.

Meanwhile B52 attacks continued on the Ho Chi Minh trail through eastern Laos, the main North Vietnamese infiltration and supply corridor to South Vietnam. B52 raids also continued there during the three-day cease-fire this week for Ho's funeral although they were suspended over South Vietnam.

PEACE MOVES EXPECTED

There was speculation that the new suspension was accompanied by diplomatic peace moves elsewhere.

A South Vietnamese source said there "will be some peace moves soon."

Military sources said B52 missions scheduled for last night were suddenly canceled without explanation.

"Part of the schedule was canceled on orders from Washington," said one source. "We had missions scheduled for the 1st and 3rd Corps."

The South Vietnamese government had no immediate comment.

Sources also reported that the weekly average of sorties the U.S. Air Force's fighter-bombers had dropped 38 per cent since the beginning of the year because there is "less ground action and less call for support."

There was no indication how long the B52 suspension would remain in effect. There was speculation that the raids would be put on an on-and-off basis geared to the intensity of the enemy's activity.

"It is a gesture of de-escalation, a political move," one source said. "There is a new leadership in Hanoi."

COMPARED TO LBJ MOVE

Another military source compared the suspension to the halt in the bombing of North Vietnam on Dec. 24, 1965, which President Lyndon B. Johnson ordered as part of a "peace offensive." Johnson sent the bombers back into action on Jan. 31, 1966, after 37 days, because he didn't get the response he wanted from Hanoi.

The U.S. Command refused to make any comment on the reported suspension. This was taken as an indication that the command wished to keep its hands free to resume the strikes at any time.

The command reported only that there had been no B52 strikes in Vietnam since at least 2 p.m. Saigon time yesterday despite an increase in ground fighting and more than 30 enemy rocket and mortar attacks Thursday night and early today.

"I don't know how permanent it will be," said one source. "Things are moving fast. I don't know what to expect."

President Nixon has called a meeting in Washington today of his top advisers

Nixon, Advisers Weigh Strategy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A serious-faced group of diplomatic and military advisers met with President Nixon in the White House Cabinet room today for a broad-scale conference on Vietnam strategy.

The meeting, which was called several days ago, took on added significance in the light of reports that the U.S. Command in a move to de-escalate the fighting, had halted B52 bombing raids across South Vietnam.

Word of the bombing suspension followed suggestions by some influential officials here that the United States take new peace initiatives aimed at the new leadership in North Vietnam.

How the current Hanoi leaders, who succeeded the late Ho Chi Minh, respond to the latest U.S. de-escalation could have a strong effect on any further American troop cutbacks, another topic certain for discussion at today's White House meeting.

ON THE OFFENSIVE

Until the latest bombing halt was reported, administration analysts saw this picture of the war:

The North Vietnamese resumed offensive actions after their proclaimed three-day cease-fire following the death of Ho Chi Minh with prospects likely that Hanoi's new rulers would want to show no letup in the wake of the death of their past leader.

While Ho's successors were not expected to make any immediate change in North Vietnam's war policy — aimed at keeping pressure on American forces in an effort to promote war-weariness in the United States — some variance was bound to come as Hanoi faced new decisions.

Now the bombing halt ordered by the United States could give the North Vietnamese the chance to make such a new decision.

Ford Puts Hopes on Team of 3

DETROIT (AP) — Unsuccessful in his efforts to find the right man to run the company he's been in charge of since he was 28, Henry Ford II was playing a closer role today in the firm's operations and putting his money on a three-man team.

Ford, who was pulled out of the Navy during World War II to save the financially troubled company founded by his grandfather, fired Ford President Semon Knudsen yesterday and named a three-man team to take over most of Knudsen's duties.

The three team members are residents of the Pontiac area.

POST ELIMINATED

With the firing of Knudsen, Ford eliminated the post of Ford president. He apparently has been dissatisfied with the man in the position since Robert McNamara left to become Secretary of Defense under President John F. Kennedy.

Knudsen, 56, said his dismissal was a complete surprise to him. He said the company had prospered under his direction and Ford agreed with the evaluation.

However a Ford Motor Co. executive said Knudsen's failure at the firm was in the area of administration. The executive, who asked that his name not be used, said a primary goal when Knudsen — an outsider — was brought in to head the firm, was to "develop a cohesiveness so the company would function as a single unit."

"As president he was supposed to bring a lot of factions together," said the executive. Knudsen had the credentials with years of executive experience at General Motors, and he was not hamstrung with involvement in petty feuds within the Ford organization, it was thought.

DIVISION HEADS

The three Ford executives named to replace Knudsen as heads of operational divisions were: Robert J. Hampton, 32, 2650 Woodlawn, Franklin, president of Philco-Ford and Tractor Operations; Robert Stevenson, 55, 740 Krumbeck, Bloomfield Hills, president of Ford International Automotive Operations; and Lee Iacocca, 45, 571 Edgemere, Bloomfield Hills, president of Ford North American Automotive Operations.

Industry sources regarded Iacocca as the No. 2 man in the new executive lineup.

Powell Investigated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., is reportedly being investigated by the Internal Revenue Service, but House officials say they are unaware of the nature of the investigation.

The IRS wants to review evidence developed in a grand jury investigation of Powell last year. Assistant Gen. Will Wilson said in a letter to House Speaker John W. McCormack.

Cities Restive Over Aid Freeze

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 300 mayors and their allies in Congress are growing angry with the Nixon administration's four-month freeze on all applications for stepped-up urban renewal assistance.

Officials of the Department of Housing and Urban Development maintain they are working feverishly to lift the freeze and save the Neighborhood Development Program — NDP. But they have yet to develop a spending formula that satisfies the President's inflation-conscious Budget Bureau, which imposed the freeze April 30.

As a result, by one congressional count, some 47 applicant cities and counties stand to lose renewal credit this month for $24 million in improvements already made.

Hundreds of others are losing construction time awaiting a decision from the administration.

PONTIAC NOT AFFECTED

The freeze does not affect any present urban renewal projects in Pontiac, according to James Bates, city director of planning and urban development.

However, if the freeze is not lifted soon, Bates said, Pontiac would be affected regarding an application to be submitted in a few weeks for neighborhood development programs on the near east and southwest sections of the city.

Lawrence M. Cox, assistant HUD secretary for renewal and housing assistance, said in an interview "it is most likely" that less than $300 million will be available for NDP.

This average is less than $1 million for each of the applicants or accepted communities and would be meaningless, congressional critics complain.

VOTE IN HOUSE

The House Housing Committee voted yesterday to require the administration to spend at least $400 million for neighborhood development.

However, even if the Congress approves this measure, the administration can't be forced to spend the money.

Some critics say Nixon officials want to ditch the renewal program. But Cox said the administration is determined to "preserve the concept of NDP."

"Projects are going to have to be slowed down," he warned. "We must get this runaway situation in harness."

Dixie Gas-Leak Threat Diminishes

GLENDORA, Mass. (UPI) — Thousands of persons began returning to their homes in the Mississippi Delta today when winds dissipated most of the deadly phosgene gas that leaked from a four-car derailed chemical tank car last night.

At the height of the crisis, 30,000 persons were routed from their homes, but by morning all but about 5,000 had returned.

A triangular area from Glendora to Ruleville to Schlater, and back to Glendora was still under "restriction," but Leflore County Civil Defense Director Otis Allen said he expected an all-clear to be issued for that section, too, later in the day.

The chemical tankers were among 12 cars of a mile-long Illinois Central freight train that jumped the rails yesterday afternoon. A spark from a broken lower line apparently ignited the cars and sent a huge cloud of black smoke billowing into the air.

Several of the tankers contained vinyl chloride, a chemical used in making resins and plastics. Under heat this substance produces phosgene gas, a lethal gas used in World War I.

The federal government, which came under fire recently for shipping phosgene gas by rail, took pains to point out that the vinyl chloride was a commercial shipment.

The vinyl chloride was being shipped by Borden Chemical Co. from Geismar, La., to Uniroyal at Painesville, Ohio, in 11 tankers. The train derailed when engineers applied brakes to avoid hitting an elderly man on the tracks.

When it appeared the black smoke clouds might be carrying the deadly gas into population centers, Gov. John Bell Williams ordered 600 National Guardsmen to aid in the evacuation of towns in the northwestern Mississippi counties of Sunflower, Leflore and Talahatchie.

ROUTED FROM SLEEP

Many residents were routed from their sleep by sirens, loudspeakers and police pounding on house doors.

One of the towns involved was the community of Daddsboro, where Sen. James O. Eastland has a large cotton plantation.

The wreckage was near a smashed utility pole, and as work crews sought to repair broken lines, a spark apparently touched off an explosion around five hours after the 3:30 p.m. derailment.

A crewman was burned, apparently not seriously, and about four tenant houses destroyed by fire following the explosion.

Jews to Begin Observance of the New Year

One of the world's most ancient New Year's observances begins at sundown today when the solemn sound of the shofar (ram's horn) ushers in the year 5730 for Jews throughout the world.

The occasion will be celebrated with public prayer in every synagogue and temple. The New Year known as the Rosh Hashanah holiday begins a period of meditation and self-examination leading to acts of repentance and charity.

The blowing of the horn is to stir the conscience of Jews and remind them of the trust God placed in the hands of Abraham.

Blowing the shofar demands skill and usually is performed by an expert called a "baalekiah." He must produce three short, abrupt blasts, a long resonant blast, and a series of nine staccato notes.

PROCLAIMED CORONATION

The coronation of the kings of ancient Israel was proclaimed by the blasts of the shofar. On Rosh Hashanah, God's sovereignty and kingship is annually reaffirmed. His praises are sung, and His omnipotence and glory celebrated.

The days between Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, are called the Ten Days of Penitence.

These are very holy days, for the rabbis taught that these were 10 days of grace during which time, by penitence, prayer and charity, an unfavorable judgment in the Book of Life might be changed for the better.

Yom Kippur is a solemn day of fasting from sunset to sunset. At the end of this day the Book of Life is definitely sealed.

Over the centuries many colorful customs have become part of Rosh Hashanah.

Worshippers greet each other, and their families with the blessing "L'shanah Tovah Tikativu" (may you be inscribed for a good year). During the month prior to the holiday, New Year's greeting cards with this or a similar blessing are exchanged.

On Rosh Hashanah, Jews partake of bread and honey, symbolic of the coming year in which everyone will have enough to eat and some sweetness to spare.

The bread of the holiday, "challah," is baked in round loaves to represent the coming of a "well-rounded year."

DIRKSEN'S BODY ARRIVES FOR BURIAL—Servicemen carry the casket bearing the body of Sen. Everett M. Dirksen from the presidential jet, Air Force One, after the plane arrived yesterday at Peoria, Ill., Airport. The Republican Senate leader was buried in nearby Pekin with a host of dignitaries in attendance.

Virginia State College's graduate school, was chosen over John Perdue, director of community-school and human relations for the Pontiac District.

Both men are black, and a black man for the post was designated by school advisers and agreed to by the board. However, since the decision, protests have arisen over advisability of hiring a man unknown to the community over one well-known.

The statement would have expressed the PAPC's concern with the situation and would have urged the board and its opponents to get together.

After debate and criticism of the wording, the motion was tabled.

Charles Tucker Jr., acting chairman, criticized his fellow PAPC members for failure to take some stand and predicted the body would dissolve in six months when funding ran out.

He said in two years of organization, the council had done little but sit around and talk.

Another critic of the PAPC was fellow member John K. Irwin Jr., vice president of the school board. He said it was not the business of the PAPC to make a recommendation on appointment of a school official.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Tucker said, "There's not a black person in a meaningful position (in government) in the city."

The PAPC was formed in October 1967 by joint resolution of the City Commission and board of education after civil disturbances in Detroit and Pontiac. The PAPC membership was composed of members the "power structure"—bankers, business executives, union and church leaders—plus leaders of minority groups.

It has a hired director, David Doherty, who gets $20,000 a year. The entire budget for the year is $32,000.

It was recommended last night by the Public Information Task Force that Pontiac create an office of community information and hire a director.

PAPC Stays Out of School Tiff

The Pontiac Area Planning Council (PAPC) made two attempts to have its William Clark, director of the Pontiac schools at last night's meeting, but both aborted.

The first proposal, put forth by William Clark, director of the Pontiac Area Urban League, was to recommend to the school board that it hire yet another assistant superintendent to deal with race relations. This motion lost, 20-6.

The other failure came over a long statement on the school situation made up shortly before the meeting by the PAPC executive committee.

Members were concerned about a boycott Wednesday which drew about one-third of the teachers and students from class and saw hundreds of pickets around the board of education offices.

The protest was against the Pontiac School Board's 4-3 decision Sept. 4 to hire a Virginia man for a newly created position of assistant superintendent in preference to a present school official.

Dr. William Edmonds, director of Virginia State College's graduate school, was chosen over John Perdue, director of community-school and human relations for the Pontiac District.

Both men are black, and a black man for the post was designated by school advisers and agreed to by the board. However, since the decision, protests have arisen over advisability of hiring a man unknown to the community over one well-known.

The statement would have expressed the PAPC's concern with the situation and would have urged the board and its opponents to get together.

After debate and criticism of the wording, the motion was tabled.

Charles Tucker Jr., acting chairman, criticized his fellow PAPC members for failure to take some stand and predicted the body would dissolve in six months when funding ran out.

He said in two years of organization, the council had done little but sit around and talk.

Soviets: China Meeting Useful

MOSCOW (AP) — The Russians said Premier Alexei Kosygin's surprise meeting with Chinese Premier Chou En-lai in Peking yesterday was "useful," but they gave no indication if anything was achieved.

After the first top-level conference between the two Communist giants in 4 1/2 years, the Soviet news agency Tass said in a 150-word announcement: "The two sides openly explained their positions and held a conversation useful for both sides."

Peking's New China News Agency

issued a 62-word statement in Tokyo saying the two premiers had "a frank conversation," but it also gave no further details.

It was assumed that Kosygin and Chou discussed the battles along their long Asian border, but the words "frank" and "useful" in Communist communiques usually indicate disagreement. "The two sides openly explained their positions and held a conversation useful for both sides" to the North Vietnamese and the Vietcong.

But the deep-seated differences between the Kremlin and the Chinese appear too great to be talked away. Their struggle for leadership of the world Communist movement has provoked a split that seems destined to remain. It has been accompanied by exchanges of abuse and condemnation that made even meeting at the same table difficult.

Shortly after the New China News Agency announced the meeting, it issued a report in Tokyo in which it said the Soviet Union's wooing of Japan was an indication that the Moscow leadership is "ridden with innumerable crises and is at the end of its rope."

Detroit Judge Will Address GOP Women

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Judge Peter B. Spivak of Common Pleas Court in Detroit will speak at a session of the Bloomfield Republican Women's Club 1 p.m. Monday at the home of Mrs. Frederick Owens, 25074 Glynholm.

Judge Spivak's talk will focus on how poor people do not receive the full benefit of the law because of a lack of sufficient funds and proper knowledge of legal procedures.

The Bloomfield Art Association will begin its third year of gallery tours Oct. 21 with a trip to Wilkes-Barre Art Gallery in Windsor, Ont., to view a still-life collection from the 17th through 20th centuries entitled "Things."

The tour party will lunch in Windsor and spend the afternoon viewing Mary Jane Bigler's sabbatical showing at Wayne State University and the Michigan State University Art Faculty show at Detroit Artists Market.

Miss Bigler is a member of the art faculty at Wayne State. Her showing includes watercolors painted during a one-year sabbatical leave in Europe in 1968-69.

The gallery tours will include nine trips from October through June. Tours are made to museums for special showings, commercial galleries, private collections and studios of working professional artists and craftsmen.

The annual Puppet-A-Month programs will begin in the lower level of the Bloomfield Township Library next Thursday at 4:30 p.m.

During these programs children from the third through eighth grades learn how to make puppets and give "on-the-spot" shows.

Michael Deller, program director of the library and a member of the Detroit Puppeteers Guild, will teach the making of push puppets, shadow puppets, rod puppets, spoon puppets, bag puppets, hand and finger puppets and marionettes at 10 monthly sessions.

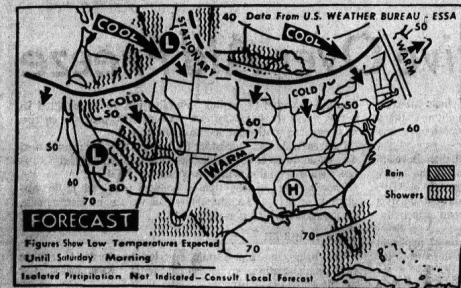

For younger children, ages 3-5, who are not in nursery school or kindergarten, preschool story hours start Sept. 30, for eight morning sessions from 10:30-11:15 a.m. or Oct. 2, for eight afternoon sessions from 2:45-3:15 p.m. Registration, in person at the library Youth Room, should be made Sept. 22-27.

Reuther Raps GM Price Hikes

KALAMAZOO (U) — Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, says price increases announced yesterday by General Motors for its 1970 automobiles are "unjustified."

"The auto industry has been and is highly profitable, showing a 20 per cent return on investment, which is about double an ordinary investment," Reuther said in an interview.

"Labor has traditionally taken a position," Reuther continued, "that wage and fringe benefit increases should come out of savings brought about by increased productivity and new technology, rather than increased costs passed on to the consumer."

GM blamed payroll increases, higher prices for metals and increases in state and local taxes for price increases averaging approximately $125 per car for 1970 models.

Reuther was in Kalamazoo to address the kickoff of a Community Chest drive.

It's Up to You Mail Obscene?

ANN ARBOR (AP) — If an advertisement for a sack of potatoes looks obscene to you, then it's obscene. And you can stop the mailman from leaving it at your door.

Obscenity, according to the law, rests squarely in the eyes of the beholder.

Using that principle as his weapon, an Ann Arbor man has found the way to stop the flow of junk mail to his mailbox.

Tired of the barrage of advertising circulars, Roger Staples complained that the food and department store advertising he received was obscene.

SENT STUFF BACK

He sent the stuff back to his post office and demanded that no more of it be delivered to his house.

Richard Schneberger, assistant postmaster at Ann Arbor, sent the mail back to Staples.

"The department store and food ads for which you signed cannot be considered as pandering in nature," he wrote.

Not so, said Staples.

He considered the advertisements for beds, sheets, pillows, girdles, intimate feminine articles and other such materials offensive.

"PROVOCATIVE POSE"

"A picture of a lingerie model in a provocative pose is just as obscene as any thing I ever saw from so-called panders."

He pointed out that the law makes the recipient sole judge of the obscenity of an advertisement he receives.

On this basis, Staples demanded the junk mail be stopped. He sent copies of his letter to Schneberger to his congressman and senators.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., sent the complaint on to the Post Office Department.

CAN'T BE QUESTIONED

Its general counsel, David A. Nelson, delivered the judgment. "Mr. Staples is correct in the assertion that his determination of the erotically arousing or sexually provocative nature of an advertisement may not be questioned."

Now, if the advertisers don't stop mailing their alluring drawings of potato sacks to Staples, they can be taken to court.

Wilber F. Lawrence, assistant general counsel, summed it all up.

"Most people gripe about junk mail but don't do anything about it," he said. "But under the law, they can declare that an ad for a sack of potatoes looks sexy to them. And if they do, we're obliged to take action."

Earthlike Mars Life Unlikely

WASHINGTON (AP) — If life were to exist on Mars, it would be greatly different from that on earth, a preliminary examination of Mariner 6 and 7 data indicates.

Space agency scientists said today evidence sent to earth by the spacecraft when they flew past the planet July 30 and Aug. 4 shows the Martian atmosphere "generally hostile to any earth-style life forms."

In a briefing on the results of the Mariner flybys, scientists reported ultraviolet measurements showed atomic hydrogen and atomic oxygen in Mars' upper atmosphere. Carbon dioxide and carbon monoxide also were present as expected.

But the initial study failed to reveal any evidence of nitrogen, were to exist on Mars, it would be greatly different from that on earth, a preliminary examination of Mariner 6 and 7 data indicates.

"If additional intensive analysis substantiates this conclusion, a very key chemical compound is missing from the Martian environment," their report said.

"If this is true, any life chemistry on Mars will have to be very much different than we know on earth."

Measurements with an infrared spectrometer aboard Mariner 6 showed temperature variations of as much as 75 degrees within a 60-by-60-mile area.

The data also shows there was local reflectivity of solar light, and makes clear the darker spots on Mars are warmer than the light areas.

The spectrometer also produced indications of ice.

Mariner 7 data at first indicated the presence of gaseous methane and ammonia, suggesting part of the planet's polar cap was composed of water ice.

Further analysis is required before a conclusion can be made, the scientists said. Temperature measurements showed Martian temperatures at noon as high as 60 degrees, falling at night below 100 degrees below zero.

The scientists said Mariner 7 measurements provided very strong circumstantial evidence that the polar caps of Mars are made primarily of carbon dioxide rather than of water ice.

HEAVILY CRATERED

In general, the scientists said, the measurements so far show Mars to be heavily cratered, bleak, cold, dry, almost airless and "generally hostile to any earth-style life forms."

Governor Sketches School-Reform Plan

LANSING (UPI) — The Governor's Educational Reform Commission will advise the Legislature to lower property taxes and raise other taxes to support Michigan schools when lawmakers return for the fall session in October.

The plans were disclosed yesterday by Gov. William G. Milliken's office following the final meeting of the commission.

"If the plan will include at least one constitutional amendment, probably two, some property tax relief and a shifting of the tax burden, a new management system designed to get results, and carve out for the state a strengthened role — a role commensurate with state responsibility spelled out in the State Constitution," Milliken said in a prepared statement.

Presumably one amendment would call for a hike in the state personal income tax from the current 2.6 per cent level to offset the property tax reduction.

APART ON PAROCHIAL

A spokesman for Milliken said the commission had not reached agreement on the issue of state support to nonpublic schools, although a portion of the reform package would deal with Parochial.

"This has not been completely resolved yet, but it (parochial) is not a major hang-up," he said.

The official said members would probably be polled by telephone on the final drafting of the plan.

Milliken's office declined to expand on the rough outline of the plan, but said the reform package would be detailed within two weeks.

GREATHER ROLE

The spokesman said the state would assume a greater role in education but "nothing like a statewide civil service system for teachers" was in the plan. A statewide salary schedule was also not included.

The official declined to comment on the "new management system" other than to say it could include a revamping of the State Board of Education.

The commission has received many requests to change the board to a nonpartisan committee. The commission, appointed by Milliken last spring, has studied education in Michigan throughout the summer.

Navy to Trim 76,000 Men

100 Ships Will Be Mothballed—Chafee

BOSTON (UPI) — Navy Secretary John H. Chafee says the U.S. Navy will have to trim its forces by over 76,000 men and mothball 100 ships in order to meet a $3-billion budget cut imposed by the Nixon administration.

Chafee told a Sigma Delta Chi journalism society banquet last night the Navy has 8% months to make its cost reductions.

"We will have to make base reductions and some base closings," he said. "There is no point in kidding anybody."

However, he added, "No decision has been made" on which bases are to be shut down.

He said personnel cuts would involve a halt in recruitment and early release for some Navy men with junior officers and lower grade enlisted men.

Some civilian employees also would be released, he said.

Chafee, former governor of Rhode Island, said the names of 76 of the 100 ships to be mothballed had already been announced. The reduction will bring the fleet to 76 ships, he said.

Chafee defended the Nixon defense budget on grounds it consumes a smaller percentage of the total budget than the federal income tax.

He said defense took 65 per cent of the 1965 budget at the end of the Korean War 47 per cent in 1963 and 43 per cent this year, again in wartime.

He said the federal government was now expected to cope with problems "which weren't considered federal problems until recently" — mass transit, medicare, higher education, and air and water pollution.

"The cost of freedom and of peace has always been high and is not going to get any lower," Chafee said.

Supervisor Public Works Unit in County Pay Battle

The County Board of Supervisors Public Works Committee has entered the battle on county salaries.

A difference of opinion regarding salary increases between the finance and personnel practices committees has already threatened to delay approval of the county's 1970 budget.

Though they admit salary scheduling is out of their jurisdiction, public works members recommended what would amount to a $3,300 pay increase for Daniel Barry, drain commissioner. Barry, like all other elected officials with the exception of Prosecutor Thomas Plunkett, is scheduled for a $1,500 increase. He now makes $19,500 a year salary plus $1,200 a year as administrator of the South Oakland County Sewage Disposal District.

In a letter to supervisors, Barry allowed that he'd like to make $27,500 next year, a sum equivalent to that suggested for appointee R. J. Alexander who directs the Department of Public Works.

In recommending a boost to Barry's salary, the committee suggested that $2,000 come from the county's general fund for work done by Barry on the plat board and that the 14 south Oakland communities make up the remaining $1,300 from the sewage disposal district.

The committee commended

the Oakland County Road Commission for its success in recent negotiating of landfill rights in Pontiac Township.

The committee was informed that landfill use prices now being considered are $4 a ton or

$1 a cubic yard to commercial users. No scale has been worked out for private users, according to Leory McEntee, road commission attorney.

This world's largest army is that of China with a total strength of 2,250,000 in 1966.

Cyclists Abide by Helmet Law

Motorcyclists in Oakland County apparently are a law-abiding bunch.

Area police have been alerted to issue tickets without warnings to cyclists riding without helmets, but only a handful of tickets have been issued since the new requirement was made law.

"Our men have been instructed to ticket without warning," Oakland County Undersheriff Leo Hazen said yesterday.

Since the law took effect Sept. 1, only "about a dozen" riders have been cited for violations by sheriff's deputies.

A law requiring that motorcyclists wear helmets was first passed in 1967, but it was ruled unconstitutional by the Michigan Court of Appeals. This year, the Legislature again made the requirement law, and their decision has not yet been contested in court.

"We haven't found it to be much of a problem in Oakland County," Hazen said. "Most riders have the helmets on their heads. I think more of them are realizing the helmet's importance to safety," he added.

In Pontiac, officers also have been instructed to issue tickets, but police officials say the number of violators has been negligible.

"Motorcyclists without helmets are not a problem in the city," said Police Chief William K. Hanger. An official count of violators was unavailable, but the number was termed "very very small."

RNA Head Aboard Flight From London

LONDON (UPI) — Accused kidnaper Robert F. Williams gave a clenched-fist salute in his Mao Tse-tung suit today and left for the United States aboard a 130-seat airliner that carried only him, his lawyer, a security guard and a crew of eight.

The Trans World Airlines Boeing 707 left for Detroit 95 minutes ahead of schedule, with the black separatist leader being whisked aboard after spending the night in an underground detention cell in London's Heathrow airport.

The plane was scheduled to reach Detroit at 11:45 p.m. Detroit time.

The hurried departure followed a conference among Williams' lawyers, airline officials and British immigration officials. Williams fled America eight years ago after being indicted on the kidnapping charge.

BLACK POWER SALUTE
Williams marched up to the door of the plane. Wearing the type of semimilitary suit favored by Chinese Communist leader Mao, Williams turned and raised his fist in the black-power salute.

Williams' lawyer, Milton Henry of Pontiac gave the same salute. Then as pilot Gordon Grainer cleared for the takeoff, aided by a first officer and a flight engineer, the two pursers and two hostesses escorted Williams, Henry and the airline security man into first-class seats.

Police, who in automobiles and on motorbikes had escorted Williams to the plane, watched the takeoff and turned and left. Williams had been held here since arriving from Cairo. The U.S. airline at first refused to fly him on to America.

Henry, who has offices at 518 Orchard Lake, is an official of Williams' Republic of New Africa Movement. He issued a departure statement thanking London supporters.

"I want to thank all the many black persons in the London area who over the past week have so steadfastly carried on and supported the struggle of Mr. Williams for liberation from detention . . . It was a herculean effort against at least two powerful governments and a powerful United States corporation . . . we have all won a magnificent victory," the statement said.

Williams, 44, fled the United States eight years ago under indictment for kidnapping a white couple during a racial disturbance in Wingate, N.C. He has lived in Cuba, Communist China and Tanzania since then.

Williams has told newsmen through spokesmen in London the kidnapping indictment handed down by an all-white panel has been declared invalid and that he wants to return home to clear his name.

TWA, which had earlier refused to carry Williams, said he would be accompanied by two unarmed security guards on the special flight.

PLANE SHORTAGE
Airline officials said they would have shipped Williams home earlier, but there had been a shortage of planes. One was brought in specially from Paris.

Williams, who arrived from Cairo last Friday on a United Arab Airlines flight, has been held as an undesirable alien.

We keep a thief in our aging houses.

It's not the regular kind, of course. Our thief is a long tube. We use it to see how our Jim Beam Bourbon is aging from year to year in our special charred, white oak barrels. These barrels breathe, just like your skin. And as they breathe, they let some elements in and keep some out. In time, this helps make that wonderful, light and warm Jim Beam taste that's been a Beam family art for nearly 175 years. So when we tell you there's a thief in our aging house, it doesn't mean we end up with less Bourbon. All it means is we end up with the best Bourbon. "World's finest Bourbon since 1795."

Three Classes of ROTC at 'M' Disrupted

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — Radical law protesters, who burst into three ROTC classes at the University of Michigan here yesterday, vowed today to continue the disruptions until ROTC was banned from the campus.

The disruptions, planned for the last two weeks, were conducted by some 40 protesters at three separate classes.

Col. H. K. Reynolds, head of U-M's Military Science Department, said he would ask the university to take preventive measures.

"We can't carry on our classes in this kind of atmosphere," he said. "I expect action will be taken to permit us to carry on our classes. This can't go on."

"RULES ARE CLEAR"

The night before, U-M President Robbin W. Fleming had issued a statement saying, "There are clear rules against disruption of classes."

Fleming has indicated he is reluctant to call police to the campus. His statement implied university actions would take the form of university punishments.

All the disruptions were peaceful.

Government for 'Help' in Fishing

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) The worms were plentiful, the fishing was great and the state Highway Department has $1 it plans to place in its conscience fund.

The $1 check, a spokesman said today, came from Mary Joan Maurer of Pileville, who along with a note explaining how she, her husband and four children got a sudden urge to go fishing at 1:30 a.m. one day last summer.

They had their fishing gear but no bait, Mrs. Maurer wrote, and the only place they could find to dig for night crawlers was the lawn of the department maintenance building at Tones in Forest County.

They fished in the Allegheny River "and believe me, we had a wonderful time," she said, adding that the check was to pay for the worms.

Items Are Missing From Inquest Site

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (AP) — The 24-foot wooden drum used for drawing jurors' names is missing from the clerk's desk at the Dukes County court house. So is a pen and pencil set belonging to District Court Judge James A. Boyle; and various rubber stamps used by his clerk, Thomas A. Teller, to issue legal papers.

The court room was the scene of the inquest into the death of Mary Jo, 28, said she suspects her husband made off with some of the items.

She said during the inquest, her husband told her that he had taken the items to a friend's house.

There, she said, she saw the items and recognized them as belonging to her husband.
