Troy Board Accused

'School Funds Misused'

By NED ADAMSON

The state attorney general's office has accused the Troy Board of Education of improperly spending $105,414 out of a 1965 bond issue appropriation.

No recommendations were made for prosecution in a report released today.

The attorney general's office said that $105,414 was improperly used to purchase office supplies and equipment. Money for this purpose, the report said, should have come out of the school district's general operating fund.

Original charges filed by board trustee and current treasurer Harold Janes had alleged that $857,000 was misspent in land acquisition and building site funds.

The allegations were made against certain members of the board of education and the administration.

The attorney general's report said there was no evidence substantiating Janes' other principal allegation that architect's gifts to board members were influencing board policy decisions concerning bond issue funds.

The attorney general's office findings cap a probe that began in February 1968 when Janes announced that he had conferred with state officials on a "possible misuse of funds."

Janes' contention was followed in October by a report from State Treasury Department auditors who alleged that improper spending by the board from the 1965 and 1966 building and site funds totaled $858,000.

RESULTED IN RESIGNATION

The mismanagement allegations along with a factionalized board of education and controversy over modular scheduling culminated in the resignation of Supt. of Schools Rex B. Smith, effective May 23.

George Young, director of the educational division for the attorney general's office, said his office's investigation concluded that the Troy School District did not violate statutory duties regarding the purchase of school sites.

He added that the Troy district's business practices and judgments are a matter of policy rather than of law.

Young advised the Troy board to take necessary steps to transfer the $105,414 from operating funds or other appropriated district funds into the 1965 bond fund proceeds fund.

REACHED BY PHONE

Dr. Smith, reached by phone in Miami Beach, Fla., where he is job-hunting, said:

★ ★ ★

"I never did think there was anything very much wrong or improper in our business dealing, and this report bears out my opinion.

"The board should have no difficulty in making the transfer of funds. They have some $62,000 in the 1959 building and site fund and they have more than $100,000 worth of surplus properties from years back that can be sold to take care of the balance," Smith said.

★ ★ ★

"I hope that this report will clear all the people that were unfairly accused, the former school board members and the administrators," he said.

Senate Revives a More Lenient Abortion Bill

LANSING (UPI) — The State Senate changed its mind today and agreed to consider passage of a bill permitting legal abortions in Michigan for any reason—including family planning.

The vote on a reconsideration motion was 20-11—the exact number needed to take the proposal out of the floor deep-freeze where it had been cooling for five weeks.

Only yesterday the senators, by a one-vote margin, had refused to debate the bill, though they did give new life to a less-liberal companion measure permitting abortions under certain prescribed conditions.

Legislative Roundups, Pages A-5, A-8

The latest action means the Senate will now consider both approaches to changing the abortion statutes, which have remained unchanged in Michigan for 115 years.

WIDE-OPEN BILL

The more lenient abortion bill is sponsored by Sen. John McCauley, Wyandotte Democrat.

Ann Arbor Republican Gilbert E. Bursley is the author of the proposal to permit abortions when the pregnancy threatens either the life or health of the mother; when the infant might be born with a disabling physical deformity or mental deficiency, or if conception results from rape or incest.

★ ★ ★

The Roman Catholic Church is spearheading opposition to the proposals.

Presently, Michigan and most other states permit abortion under the law only when the life of the mother is in definite danger. Critics say this is too restrictive.

Chance of Rain Tomorrow Is Seen

Skies will be overcast tonight, and there's a chance of light showers through tomorrow.

Temperatures dropping into the low 50s will reach 68 to 74 tomorrow.

The outlook for Friday is partly cloudy and cooler.

HEARTY WELCOME — After introducing F. James McDonald (left) general manager of Pontiac Motor Division, at a luncheon yesterday, Harold A. Fitzgerald, chairman of the board of The Pontiac Press, presented him with a key to the city on behalf of Mayor William H. Taylor Jr.

McDonald Sees Tie of City and Business

By DIANNE DUROCHER

Business and industry must be active and aggressive in helping their local community solve social problems brought on by an era of change, F. James McDonald, general manager of Pontiac Motor Division, said yesterday.

At a luncheon for about 500 Pontiac area businessmen at the Elks Temple, McDonald discussed the progress of Pontiac Motor as a division of General Motors and as an "industrial neighbor." He was introduced by Harold A. Fitzgerald, chairman of the board of directors of The Pontiac Press.

★ ★ ★

McDonald explained some of the programs Pontiac Motor developed to help "mold better citizens and as a result a better community," beginning with Operation Opportunity.

Basically, Operation Opportunity is designed for hiring of those people who had previously been eliminated from employment consideration, he said.

534 ON THE JOB

"To date, we have placed 534 men and women on meaningful jobs," he said. "Our greatest challenge has been assisting these new employes make a smooth transition to the working environment."

To help these employes adjust to taking orders and working at a job for eight hours, two full-time counselors were hired to act as liaison between the personnel department, plan supervisers and the individual concerned, he said.

★ ★ ★

The retention rate of Operation Opportunity employes increased from 40 to 47 per cent in the 12-month period ended in April, McDonald said.

"Although this is slightly less than the 52 per cent retention of other employes hired last year, it is good when one remembers that they were considered unemployable prior to 1967," he added.

"In short, what we have done with Operation Opportunity is to take a goodly number of men off the city's relief roll and put them on the payroll."

Last week, he said, the division inaugurated three separate educational

Pullout Decision Near?

NEW YORK (AP) — Preparations are under way for President Nixon and Nguyen Van Thieu, the South Vietnamese president, to announce the first unilateral reduction of American forces in Vietnam, the New York Times says.

However available Washington officials said later today they knew of no decision on a specific date for withdrawal of American forces.

Navy Abandons Search for 73 Missing Sailors

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) — The Navy has called off its search for 73 seamen missing from a U.S. destroyer cut in half by an Australian carrier during SEATO maneuvers.

"We have absolute confidence that we have picked up all survivors" said a Navy spokesman in announcing the end of search operations by 10 ships from three nations.

★ ★ ★

Most of those given up for lost—nearly a third of the destroyer Evans' crew — were presumed sleeping in their bunks in the forward part of the ship when it was hit by the carrier Melbourne, flagship of the Australian Navy, in predawn hours about 650 miles southwest of Manila in the Philippines yesterday. The forward section quickly sank in 5,400 feet of water.

Adm. John J. Hyland, Pacific Fleet commander, ordered a court of inquiry similar to the Navy's probe into the seizure of the intelligence ship Pueblo.

STERN BEING TOWED

The still-floating stern section of the Evans was being towed to the Philippines by a fleet tug late yesterday when the Pentagon began releasing names of the casualties.

★ ★ ★

Among the lost were the three Sage brothers of Niobrara, Neb. — Boatswain's Mate 2.C. Gary, 22, Radarman 3.C. Gregory, 21, and Seaman Appren. Kelly, 19.

★ ★ ★

Fireman Lawrence J. Reilly Jr. of Costa Mesa, Calif., perished, but his father, Senior Chief Gunner's Mate Lawrence J. Reilly Sr., was a survivor.

★ ★ ★

Navy headquarters listed 199 Evans survivors and one dead in addition to the 73 missing. The Melbourne had no casualties.

COLLISION DETAILS

In Sydney, officials said the collision occurred when the destroyer was moving from a position foward of the Melbourne to one astern.

★ ★ ★

U.S. naval officials refused to speculate on the cause.

County Unit Mulling Still Another Airport

By JEAN SAILE

A third county-owned airport?

Maybe.

Members of the County Board of Supervisors Aviation and Transportation Committee yesterday asked the board of auditors to do a feasibility study on acquiring the 200-acre Wixom Airport.

The motion was made by George Grba, D-Pontiac, who pointed out that the Wixom-Novi area is one of the fastest-growing communities in the county.

He said terrain at the site, located on Pontiac Trail, is conducive to good airport development.

Mahlon Benson, R-Waterford Township, supported the motion but stated he felt the county might have to condemn the property in order to acquire it.

The airport, owned for the last 25 years by Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Spencer, is under option till the end of year to an unidentified company.

Mrs. Spencer said it was her understanding that the prospective purchasers have hired Peckham Engineering, airport consulting engineers of East Lansing, to draw up plans and to seek Federal Aviation Administration approval of air space for development at the site. She refused to disclose the purchase price under option, but said it was "a lot of money."

Supervisor Delos Hamlin, R-Farmington Township, pointed out that the Wixom Airport was pinpointed as a third county site in the same report that selected Oakland-Orion Airport as a site for future air development.

'LAND PRICES RISING'

Frank Richardson, R-Waterford Township, in supporting the motion, claimed that land prices are rising, and even though development remains to be accomplished at the Orion site, it might be too expensive later to purchase land in the fast developing southwest area.

Niles Olson, D-Orion Township, suggested that it might become feasible to switch development priorities to the Wixom site. He has long been opposed to airport development in his own township.

★ ★ ★

The Wixom Airport lies adjacent to the Ford Motor Co. in Wixom and is near the I-96 expressway.

Public Housing Step Is Taken

The City Commission took the first step toward more public housing units in Pontiac last night.

The commission unanimously approved applying to the office of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) for an allocation of 250 units. The proposal is being prepared by the city's Housing Commission. It may take as long as two years before approval is granted. The proposal is to be considered in 1970 HUD allocations.

★ ★ ★

The commission action was the first since a city ordinance forbidding more public housing in the city was repealed three years ago.

The public housing issue has a stormy history in the city since the completion of the existing units under city jurisdiction —the 400-unit Lakeside Homes project in the southwest part of town.

Though intended as integrated housing it has been almost completely inhabitated by Negroes. Criticism of the project has grown over the years, centered around the design of the project which left out recreation areas and adequate parking.

Prior City Commissions forbade further construction.

The present commission, in its discussions, has been insisting any new project follow federal guidelines as to spacing the units in small groups around the city.

The housing commission has announced its intention is to locate them in such a manner as to promote both racial and social integration — mixing the housing units as to race and income bracket.

Sex-Class Guidelines Asked

From Our News Wires

LANSING — Controversy over sex education spilled into the Legislature today as a Republican lawmaker called on school districts to halt such courses until the State Education Department sets guidelines.

Rep. William Hampton, R-Bloomfield Hills, House minority floor leader, introduced a resolution urging school districts to "refrain from actively engaging in the teaching of sex education."

The measure would have the effect of designating a "cooling-off" period on what has become a hot issue in Michigan and elsewhere.

The resolution was referred to the House Policy Committee for study. It needs approval by both houses of the Legislature to go into effect, and even then it would not have the force of law.

LAW ENACTED IN '68

Hampton noted a law enacted by the Legislature last year requires the education department to provide leadership in sex education by establishing specific guidelines. He said the law has not been implemented.

Hampton, father of a baby girl, cited a recent flurry of criticism leveled at the state superintendent of public instruction by James F. O'Neil of Livonia, a Republican member of the State Board of Education.

O'Neil said a sex education bibliography, put together by the department with director Ira Polley's authorization, used "barnyard standards as a comparison to human sexuality and love."

He charged Polley "usurped" board power by approving publication of the bibliography without board review.

"We have never submitted instructional materials or bulletins for formal approval during the years I've been in the department," replied Leon Waskin, deputy associate superintendent, bureau of educational services.

Kelley Briefs Milliken on Probe

JOHN IRWIN

LANSING (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley and members of his staff and State Police met for two hours today with Gov. William Milliken for what Kelley called a briefing on an investigation of allegations of bribes and payoffs to public officials made by a Mafia informer.

★ ★ ★

The attorney general said the investigation might wind up "as early as next week." He would not say at this time whether any recommendations for indictments might result.

Meanwhile, Sen. George Kuhn, R-West Bloomfield Township, has written U. S. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell asking a probe by the Justice Department.

★ ★ ★

Kuhn has been critical of handling of the investigation of allegations made by Mafia informer Peter Lazaros of 2410 Dulesford, Troy, currently being handled by Kelley and State Police.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Leon Cohan immediately responded that the Justice Department had been part of the investigation from the beginning.

SEEKS SENATE PROBE

Kuhn said he also would introduce a resolution in the State Senate asking for a Senate probe and might ask for a one-man grand jury investigation.

The senator said he had learned from "Mafia sources" that there were charges of payoffs to members of the Internal Revenue Service in Detroit.

"There have been many allegations that the Mafia infiltration into legitimate business enterprises has been very active," Kuhn said.

★ ★ ★

Kuhn previously had complained to Milliken about the length of time the investigation was taking.

Milliken replied his office was satisfied with the progress of the investigation.

School Budget Pared of Items After Vote Loss

BIRMINGHAM — The board of education has eliminated all items in its 1969-70 budget that would have been covered by a 3.5-millage increase proposal defeated in the March 24 election.

The paring amounted to $1,405,000 and reduced the proposed budget to $17,519,000. Another $232,000 was cut from next year's by removing a home and family life program, the annual school census, the purchase of new buses, administrative positions and several workshops and curriculum studies.

The proposed budget for 1969-70 now stands at $17,287,000, which is $577,000 more than the present 1968-69 budget of $16,710,000. The difference usually represents added enrollment and rising costs due to inflation.

★ ★ ★

Approval of the 7.5 renewal millage at the upcoming June 9 election will maintain the current tax rate in the district, according to school officials.

ADDITIONAL $1.5 MILLION

Recent reassessments of property by local governmental units will give the schools an additional $1.5 million in 1969-70 on its total levy if the millage is renewed.

★ ★ ★

An anticipated enrollment increase of about 450 students will cause an additional $425,000 expense, and inflation will take another $100,000, leaving $175,000. This amount, added to the $232,000 cut from the 1969-70 budget plus a hoped-for $100,000 unexpended balance, will provide an estimated $507,000 for negotiated salary settlement with the school district's 1,500 employes, according to the superintendent's office.

★ ★ ★

Dr. John Blachall Smith, superintendent of schools, said if salary and fringe benefit settlements exceed the $507,000 available, further budget reductions will be required to make up the difference.

'Respect' Is Key, Says Candidate in School Race

John K. Irwin, a Pontiac attorney and candidate for a seat on the Pontiac Board of Education in Monday's school vote says he feels that "respect" is the key word in his school board campaign.

"It is the obligation of the board to make policy for conduct of meetings, to make decisions and stay with them, to set policy for student conduct and to back up teachers in the educational process," he said.

These things all represent respect, Irwin said.

Irwin, who is concerned about the conduct of school board meetings, said "The citizens and students of the district have a right to express any grievance, but their complaints must be made in an orderly fashion, and in accordance with the rules of procedure which have been set up."

'BUSING WRONG'

On integration, Irwin said he feels that busing to achieve racial balance is wrong, that the main goal of schools is not to integrate, but to educate.

Neighborhood schools are right and unfortunately Pontiac's neighborhoods are not integrated, he said.

★ ★ ★

He said he feels that the goal of the Pontiac School District under the State Constitution, a "better education for all," has become secondary.

Irwin said he would like to see that each school program would have to justify its value against the standard of a better education for all students.

4 IN SCHOOL

Irwin, 45, of 2369 St. Joseph, West Bloomfield Township, has been practicing law in Pontiac since 1952. He and his wife, Barbara, have four children attending school in the Pontiac Schools.

He has been active in Pontiac Lions Club, Elks Club, United Fund and YMCA.

Key School Decision Near

The Pontiac State Hospital site for a new super high school? An alternative site? Other building plans? Reconstruction of Pontiac Central High School?

These questions which the Pontiac Board of Education and the community have been asking for the last three months will be answered tomorrow night at the board meeting, at 7:30 at the board offices, 350 E. Wide Track.

The board is scheduled to make its decision on a site and building plans for a west side high school tomorrow night, following a 90-day reevaluation period approved by the board March 20, in the wake of community dissent over the board's original decision to build a new high school on state hospital property.

The board has narrowed site alternatives to one — that now occupied by Crofoot Elementary, adjacent to Central High School — and alternate building plans to two — one a seven-story high-rise for 3,300 students, the other a three-story structure for 2,300 students. Both building plans call for expansions at Northern. Both are estimated to cost about $20 million.

★ ★ ★

Other items on tomorrow night's agenda include:

- A plan for a Human Relations Institute, 1969-70.
- Report on the schools' testing programs
- Lincoln Elementary School boundaries.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Graham are life members of the Chancellor's Club, an organization of large donors to the university, and both have served as trustees of the Oakland University Foundation. The new $660,000 health center has a 22-bed capacity.

Board Hopeful Sees Need for Firm Answers

"Basically, I feel we have a very good school system here in Pontiac," said Mrs. Dorothy M. Furgerson, one of seven candidates running for two four-year seats on the Pontiac Board of Education. The election is next Monday.

There are some problems to be ironed out, though, she said.

"One thing is that the people in the district who ask questions of the board need definite answers," Mrs. Furgerson said.

"The people don't want speculation, or 'wait until the next meeting,' they want definite answers. We also need a better communication between the schools and the community. Perhaps this could be worked out by local liaison people," she said.

BUDGET BREAKDOWN

Mrs. Furgerson said that she would like to see the budget broken down to the amount of money spent yearly per student and per school.

This way, she said, it will be easier to see if the all the students in the district are getting an equal education.

"The schools are to educate, equally. There is no reason for one school to give a better quality education than another in the same school district," she said.

Mrs. Furgerson has been conducting a private mail survey within the school district to learn the current thinking of voters on a broad spectrum of educational ideas. This is one way in which she hopes to create a constructive interest on the part of the people of Pontiac in their school system.

ATTACK ON PROBLEMS

She says: "Problems must be attacked at inception and not allowed to become major crises. Where programs have failed or show little or no promise, they must be dropped."

Needed change must take place, but facts must be used as a basis for change and decision making, particularly where there appears to be ambiguity," she said.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Furgerson and her husband, Grant, live at 358 W. Iroquois, and have a daughter in the Pontiac schools. A housewife, she has served as a canvass board member for the city since 1963, is a room mother at Webster School and a member of the YWCA.

Police Reported on Vice Payrolls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials have charged that gamblers in Columbus, Ohio, have "had almost every member of the city's vice squad on their payroll."

★ ★ ★

Asst. Atty. Gen. Will R. Wilson in testimony yesterday before the Senate subcommittee on criminal laws and procedures spoke only of a "major midwestern city" when he said that "low-level officers were reported receiving $250 per month and their superiors as much as $500" from local numbers operators.

★ ★ ★

But other federal officials later confirmed Wilson had been talking about Columbus.

Wilson said "the involvement of the police went so far as to include pressure by the chief of the squad put on a dissident gambler to bring him in line with his fellow numbers operators."

PROPOSED LAW

Wilson appeared before the subcommittee on behalf of President Nixon's proposal to make it a federal crime to conspire to obstruct enforcement of local and state criminal laws in order to promote an illegal gambling business.

★ ★ ★

He said there is a need for such a statute on grounds of widespread police corruption in several major urban areas.

★ ★ ★

Specifically, he named a "major southern city" — the Nashville Tennessean quoted him as referring to Nashville — that has had "an open history of police corruption over the past 18 years."

Views Outlined by Waterford School Aspirant

"Waterford, along with many other school districts, is facing a bleak future; half-day sessions are a certainty and many other drastic cuts have been necessary due to lack of operating funds," declares Mrs. M. Virginia Ross, a candidate for the Waterford Township School Board.

Mrs. Ross, 48, of 6101 Adamson is an incumbent who has served on the board since 1965.

She said, "We have been working with our legislators in an effort to find a more equitable means of financing our schools through the state."

★ ★ ★

"I will not endorse deficit spending, as this is not only illegal, but is certainly no solution to our financial problems," Mrs. Ross continued.

'RISKING CHAOS'

"We would be risking utter chaos if we took this route," she added.

★ ★ ★

"My past four years as an active board member should be a great help in facing the many vital decisions that are certain to arise in the near future and I should like to continue being a part of this decision-making group," she said.

Mrs. Ross is a former substitute teacher in the Waterford system and was a PTA president at two elementary schools.

★ ★ ★

She is married and has one daughter, and is active in Red Cross work and the annual Pontiac Area United Fund campaign.

'Schools Need Deficit Budget in Waterford'

"Currently in Waterford, deficit spending is necessary. I don't like it, but until a solution to the financial problems of our schools can be reached we have to live with it."

★ ★ ★

This is the position of Michael G. Patterson, candidate in Monday's Waterford School Board election and a former board member.

He continued, "I am definitely in favor of the fairshare program — to increase the state income tax and eliminate the property taxes for the operation of schools."

★ ★ ★

"We have to be cognizant of what's going on in all educational areas," he said.

'STUDENTS FIRST'

"It seems that in the past 15 years the trend in education has been to give priority to administrators and teachers and then the students, and I would like to see the order reversed, putting students first," Patterson said.

★ ★ ★

Patterson, 32, of 4768 Parview, Independence Township, is a management consultant and accountant at the Waterford Business Service and a former president of the Waterford Jaycees.

★ ★ ★

"We are dealing with a $12 million-a-year business in Waterford's school system," he said. "I feel my business and financial experience will be a benefit to me as a board member."

VC Papers Admit Battlefield Losses

SAIGON (AP) — Piles of captured documents show the Communist high command in Vietnam is acknowledging grave battlefield reverses, but insisting its forces still occupy "the most advantageous position."

Plans have been drawn for a series of summer and fall campaigns which the Reds hope will drive that latter point home to the United States and to the world.

Documents indicate the prime fear of Hanoi's war strategists is that a strong government may emerge in Saigon behind a shield of American guns.

"Of course we can make our best contribution to the community by continuing to be a strong, competitive well-managed business operation. This is our first responsibility," the personable auto executive said, turning to the subject of Pontiacs and progress.

6TH SALES RECORD

"In 1968 we chalked up our sixth consecutive model year sales record — 866,000 cars. It also marked the seventh consecutive year in which deliveries have exceeded those of the previous year," he said.

He continued, "Then, too, 1968 was the eighth consecutive year Pontiac's share of total industry registrations, including foreign cars, has exceeded the share secured in the previous year. We have come from 5.9 per cent of the industry in 1960 to 9.9 per cent last year."

* * *

In other words, on out of every 10 cars sold in the country bears a Pontiac nameplate, McDonald explained. "Well, we are real proud to be a strong third in this highly competitive industry," he added.

McDonald said, it is always a reassuring sign to drive by the Pontiac Motor Division foundry almost any hour of the day or night and find some smoke coming from the smoke stacks.

'A GOOD INDICATOR'

"It is a good indicator that we're busy pouring iron which will soon be made into engine blocks which in turn will soon be put into a new Pontiac," he said.

However, he added, if you lived anywhere near the foundry, you wouldn't be pleased about the smoke coming from it.

* * *

"But we're doing something about it by building a series of electric furnaces which, we feel, will eventually eliminate all air pollution emanating from the foundry."

SOME OBSERVATIONS

The entire project is expected to be completed by the mid-1970's, he said.

McDonald made a few observations of the city.

"You have many positive improvement projects on the drawing board — a downtown development plan and Harambee — let's get behind these and make them a reality."

* * *

He concluded, "We at Pontiac Motor view the future with confidence and . . . look forward to continuing the fine relationships that have existed through the years between Pontiac and the people of this fine community — relationships that have been of unquestioned mutual benefit."

Old Landfill Set to Close

The City of Pontiac will close its landfill on West Kennett, east of Oakland, at 2 p.m. on June 15.

The city's new landfill will open the next day. It's located on Collier, between Baldwin and Joslyn.

* * *

Use is limited to city residents and those townships and cities having contracts with the city.

The old site will be turned over to the Parks and Recreation Department for conversion to recreation uses.

One-third of New Hampshire is over 2,000 feet above sea level.

OEO Probing Link to N.C. Strife

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal poverty agency is investigating reports that staff members of a foundation granted nearly $1 million under President Nixon's black capitalism project were involved in violence at a North Carolina college last month.

* * *

Charles Collins, an inspector in the Office of Economic Opportunity, was sent to North Carolina earlier this week to check on complaints that employes of the Foundation for Community Development were linked to the May 21 gun battle at North Carolina A&T at Greensboro in which one student was killed.

* * *

The foundation was given $900,000, funded under OEO's Special Impact program, to develop black capitalism projects in Durham, N.C. It also received $60,000 from the Commerce Department's Economic Development Administration.

The Durham program is the Nixon administration's first big pilot project in minority business enterprise and represents the first of $10 million in OEO grants to be allocated before the end of the month to businesses owned by minority groups.

MORE MONEY

The OEO has already released $40,000 of the grant to the foundation and agency officials say more money might be allotted in the next two weeks, depending on the investigation of the program.

But many of Durham's white leaders have protested to the OEO not to release money through the 15-month-old foundation, an outgrowth of the North Carolina Fund.

Jim Holshouser, chairman of the North Carolina Republican party, has urged that federal funds "not be used to feed the fires of unrest which cross North Carolina today."

Holshouser's chief objection was to the alleged involvement of some foundation staff workers in various campus disorders, including North Carolina A&T.

Greensboro police also are investigating to determine if the staff members were involved at North Carolina A&T where one student was killed and eight policemen and National Guardsmen were wounded.

Land Rezoned for Apartments in Farmington

FARMINGTON — The City Council has rezoned 14 acres of commercial land to allow for a new luxury apartment development to be worth from 8 to 10 per cent of the city's assessed valuation.

The development, to be called Georgetowne Place, will have 90 luxury apartments surrounding Mystic Lake on 36 acres with a nearby shopping center on six acres.

The area off Drake and Grand River previously included a 20-acre commercial site and a 20-acre residential area.

Property owned by the Huron River Hunting and Fishing Club was also rezoned by the council this week to allow the building of a new clubhouse.

The private dining club at Freedom and Farmington roads was built in 1934 prior to the zoned board's inception. The surrounding land was later zoned residential.

The proposed 12,000-square-foot club building will be placed just north of the existing clubhouse.

Supervisor Says County Under Austerity Allocation

"We have an austerity program staring us in the face. We are living under an austerity allocation."

This was the comment of County Supervisor Christian F. Powell, R-West Bloomfield, in his attempt to summarize recent Oakland County Tax Allocation Board decisions which have cut 0.12 mill from the county's current 5.28-mill allocation.

The cut's effect on the 1970 budget was discussed by the Supervisors' finance committee yesterday. Carl O'Brien, D-Pontiac, said new personnel and pay raises — other than those under union negotiation — likely would receive the biggest cutback.

A meeting of the finance committee with the chairmen of other supervisors' committees had been called for 1 p.m. June 17 for discussion of the building priorities program for the county. It also will serve as a warning to chairmen that they must look for budget cuts in their own areas, Powell said.

Members also made plans to proceed with public hearings on the budget June 19 from 1:30 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. at the County Courthouse. Board Chairman Charles B. Edwards Jr., Powell and Finance Committee Chairman George Grba, D-Pontiac, were named to establish rules for the hearing.

Grba had refused to attend the committee meeting, saying he had attempted to call it off the preceding day when it appeared there was not enough business to transact. It was chaired by Vice Chairman Thomas O'Donoghue, D-Ferndale, while Grba sat in the committee clerk's office.

★ ★ ★

Members chose to go on with the meeting since cancellation orders had not gone out five days in advance. Meetings have been called on the five-day notice plan, but no administrative rules have been drafted yet by the board to govern such proceedings.

Carl O'Brien, D-Pontiac, criticized the committee on committees for its failure to draft the rules. "It's now June," O'Brien pointed out.

MOVE CRITICIZED

The move by the allocation board to seek a fixed tax at the 18-mill rate, three more than county residents now pay, was criticized by some supervisors.

"If the county government gets a 6-mill flat rate (in fiscal 1970) it will bring in about $3.25 million more a year," said Daniel T. Murphy, chairman of the county board of auditors. That would be 0.84 mill higher than the budget figure.

★ ★ ★

Murphy, also a member of the tax allocation board, said he felt that success of a vote on the increased millage would depend on school reaction.

★ ★ ★

"If school superintendents and school boards and the Parent-Teacher Associations support it, it will pass. If not, it's a lost cause," the auditor said.

Almont OKs Antidrug Law Paralleling Federal Code

ALMONT — Drugs and Almont are in the news again, this time legally.

The Village Council last night adopted an antidrug ordinance paralleling the federal law but providing a reduced penalty.

Almont's ordinance outlaws possessing, selling, dispensing or fraudulently purchasing dangerous drugs. Federal penalty calls for an automatic jail sentence while the Almont ordinance violation is punishable by a fine of $500 and-or 90 days in jail.

Thomas Sadler, editor of the local Almont weekly newspaper, was in attendance at the Village Council meeting but did not comment on the council's action. Several weeks ago Sadler devoted the entire front page of his paper to terming his community a "dope capital."

The council also reviewed several complaints of cats running at-large throughout the village and received a petition signed by 25 residents of the northwest section of the village protesting the cat situation.

Village Manager Eugene King explained that the problem seems to be that some homeowners are providing open feed areas for cats. Subsequently, upwards of 20 felines queue up for chow at one location.

King found only one city in the state that had an existing antical ordinance, Ferndale. The Ferndale law provides a $100 and-or 90 days in jail penalty for persons guilty of causing cat congregations. Further, the ordinance provides that one home may have no more than three adult cats in residence.

The council rejected adoption of the Ferndale ordinance in Almont, instead directing King to draft an amendment to the existing village nuisance ordinance to cover all household pets.

Avondale Voices Will Be Used as Typical of Region

The voices of Stone School fourth-graders in the Avondale School District will be used in an education workshop in Washington, D.C., as typical of the speech patterns of southern Michigan.

A team of University of Nebraska researchers headed by Dr. E. Hugh Rudorf, director of the university's oral language and reading department, recorded the students' voices during their recent visit.

Three Stone School teachers — Mrs. Doris Chase, Miss Signe Hagedon and Mrs. Phyllis Page — were selected to take part in the workshop this summer. The trip will join teachers from across the United States for the four-week Institute in Oral Language and Reading, being conducted by Dr. Rudorf and his staff, sponsored by the University of Nebraska and funded by the National Defense Education Act.

Day Proclaimed to Honor 2 West Bloomfield Men

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Monday has been proclaimed DeConick-Whitmer Day by the township to honor two men who have been active in community affairs.

Both J. Leo DeConick and Claude J. Whitmer have served the township in many capacities, but are being honored primarily for their service as members of the zoning board and planning commission.

They were given plaques at a recent recognition dinner inscribed, "Dedicated to preserving order amid change and to preserving change amid order."

Since the inception of the zoning board in 1941, DeConick and Whitmer have been active in planning the growth of the township.

★ ★ ★

Both men were appointed to the first board charged with drafting the original ordinance. DeConick, who became chairman, and Whitmer, the first secretary, and the other two board members researched and studied ordinances for many days before completing the one adopted on June 9, 1942.

The new ordinance, adopted by the Township Board after a public hearing, permitted the township to control future land use.

Under a 1950 amendment, the original zoning board was boosted from four to seven members. Whitmer was elected chairman and served in that post until 1960.

Both men continued to serve on the planning commission, which replaced the zoning board by a special citizen's vote in 1960. This group began the studies and research that culminated in the "Master Plan for Future Land Use," adopted in 1966. A new zoning ordinance embodying many of the master plan features was also adopted by the Township Board that year.

DeConick, who resides with his wife, Evelyn, at 5788 W. Maple, operates an orchard and business established by the DeConick family.

★ ★ ★

Whitmer and his wife reside at 2196 Walnut Lake. He is involved with the general operation of the Whitmer family business which includes insurance and property management.

★ ★ ★

Supt. John Doherty said, "The 27 years of continuous devoted effort on the part of Mr. Whitmer and Mr. DeConick for the orderly growth of the township has resulted in the preservation of the natural beauty of the area and the creation of a most desirable community."

Gary Blasts Probed

GARY, Ind. (AP) — Investigators sifted debris in a South Side suburb today, hunting clues to what caused a series of explosions that injured nine persons and left scores homeless.

★ ★ ★

An estimated six explosions ripped through a 10-squareblock area of the Glen Park suburb in about 15 minutes Tuesday. Officials said six homes were demolished and concussion and fire triggered by the blasts damaged 19 other residences.

Damage was estimated at $340,000 by Gary Fire Chief Alfonse Holliday.

Supervisors Banding Together

Supervisors from Oakland County's 24 townships were to organize an Oakland County chapter of the Michigan Township Association today.

The organization is designed to give the officials a more powerful and efficient voice concerning township problems, needs and activities at the county and state government levels, according to Duane Hursfall, Independence supervisor and past president of the state association.

★ ★ ★

There are now 43 chapters of the township association in the state, with 12 more being planned. In addition to serving as a sounding board and communications arm for township supervisors, an association objective is to retain the township form of government.

The state association maintains a three-man lobbying force in Lansing to present township problems and needs to the legislators.

'NOT PRESSURE GROUP'

"I don't think we should be labeled as a pressure group as such. There has always been a move in the State Legislature to eliminate the township form of government. It seems only logical that supervisors should have some sort of an organization to state and present their case.

We also feel that as a group we stand a much better opportunity to communicate with state legislators and the County Board of Supervisors on a more expedient level.

★ ★ ★

Instead of several supervisors in the county going to Lansing, we can now send a representative of the entire group," Hursfall said.

Hursfall said preliminary plans would call for about four meetings annually at which times legislators would be invited in to discuss local issues and problems.

PRINCIPAL PROBLEM

He said one of the principal problems the supervisors would continue to work on would be establish the need for more revenue for townships.

"We feel we can prove that the township form of government can operate less expensively that the city form of government and on a lot smaller budget. The townships have very limited revenues and the only route to new facilities and improvements is through additional voted millage if the people are willing to support it," Hursfall explained.

A key goal of the local chapter of the township supervisors association will be to campaign to acquire revenue created from increases at the state level on gas and weight taxes.

"The townships usually get none of that additional revenue for their roads — and we feel we should get at least a certain percentage of the additional revenues so we can have matching fund money available to finance road improvement projects." Hursfall noted.

Ordinance Gets Walled Lake OK

WALLED LAKE — An ordinance concerning tap-in fees for the planned sanitary sewer system was passed by the City Council last night.

Construction of the $9-million system is scheduled to begin next month. The system, being constructed jointly with Novi, goes into operation in the fall of 1970.

There will be no tap-in fee for customers who have buildings existing prior to July 1, 1970. Service laterals to the individual buildings will also be installed at no cost prior to that date.

Anyone tapping into the system after July 1, 1970, will have to pay a capital equalization charge totaling $180 for each year. That charge, however, may never exceed 10 years of payment or $1,800.

Mill Will Benefit From Flea Market

ORTONVILLE—The Ortonville Community Historical Society will sponsor a flea market in conjunction with the community's annual carnival days June 12, 13 and 14.

Proceeds from the sale to be held in the grist mill on Mill Street from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. will be used in the community's mill restoration project.

★ ★ ★

The mill, donated to the community by Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Hamilton, who operated it for 20 years, will be used as a community center, boutique and museum.

Lawyer-Licensing Effort Given Up

LANSING (UPI) — The Legislature's most outspoken critic of lawyers and judges yesterday gave up on efforts to get bills through the Michigan House that would require state licensing and policing of lawyers.

Rep. Thomas G. Sharpe, R-Howell, decided against trying to get together three-fifths of the 110 House votes in order to release the bills from the judiciary committee, where they have been shelved.

Sharpe said he has received "several encouraging signs" that the State Bar Association is taking steps to improve its policing powers over lawyers. These steps include opening grievance hearings to the public, he said.

Defendant Testifies He Felt Sick After Shooting at Algiers Motel

MASON (AP)—A suspended white policeman told in his own words Tuesday how he struggled over a shotgun, pulled the trigger and killed a Negro youth during Detroit's 1967 racial riot.

"I felt sick," Ronald August, 30, told an all-white jury of 13 women and one man.

★ ★ ★

August was on the witness stand for nearly four hours to give his version of what happened on the night of July 26, 1967, at the Algiers Motel, where three black youths were slain by close-range shotgun blasts.

August is on trial for first-degree murder in the death of 19-year-old Aubrey Pollard.

BODIES LEFT BEHIND

The bodies of Pollard, Fred Temple, 18, and Carl Cooper, 17, were left behind at the motel by police and national guardsmen who had raided the building in a search for reported snipers.

A packed courtroom heard August testify that he took Pollard into a motel room after being advised that the youth wanted to talk to a police officer.

Pollard and several other motel occupants, including two white girls, had been lined up against the wall and questioned about the identity of the alleged snipers.

August confirmed previous testimony that those against the wall were beaten during the questioning. Several were taken into rooms individually and shots fired into the ceiling to frighten the others into talking.

YOUTH AFRAID

After he went into the room with Pollard, August recalled, the youth asked whether he intended to shoot him. August said he told Pollard he had no intention of shooting anyone.

Pollard pushed the shotgun away and said "Don't point that gun at me," August testified, adding that he warned the youth not to touch the weapon.

After he aimed the gun back at Pollard, August said, the teen-ager grabbed it by the barrel and pulled. Both fell onto the bed, August added, with Pollard on top.

He pushed Pollard away but the youth lunged at him again, August testified, recalling that he pulled the trigger but the safety was on.

"He ducked and came back again—and the gun went off," August said, his voice choking. "Pollard fell to the floor. I bent down and looked at the man, and he was dead. I was sick.

"I walked....outside and leaned again a tree. I was weak, and I wanted to vomit."

★ ★ ★

August said he intended to make a report to homicide that night but was advised by a fellow officer to wait until the next day when he felt better.

He didn't file a report the next day, he said, because he was "scared for my family and myself" and feared he would be blamed for all three deaths at the motel since no one else had filed a report.

STATEMENTS LATER

It was five days later, August conceded under cross-examination, when he made two statements about the motel incident.

★ ★ ★

In the first, he denied that he fired a gun inside the building. But he changed his story an hour or so later, admitting that he killed Pollard.

The suspended policeman was asked why he took Pollard out of the line in the motel.

★ ★ ★

August replied that he wanted to ask him about the hiding place of possible sniper guns, and added:

"And I was afraid he would be beaten more—I don't like to see people beaten."

'DID NOTHING'

August said he did not take part in any of the beatings, but conceded that he did nothing to stop them.

"Isn't it true that you took this man into that room with a shotgun....to terrorize him or to get even for the riot?" asked assistant Wayne County Prosecutor Avery Weiswasser.

★ ★ ★

"Nossir," August replied.

Weiswasser was warned twice by the judge to slow down his rapid-fire questioning, after August complained that he was being confused.

August was the sole witness testifying yesterday, and the judge recessed the trial until tomorrow after telling the jury that the remaining defense witnesses were expected to testify for not more than 90 minutes.

House Passes a 'Sock It to 'em' Antidrug Bill Aimed at Mafia

LANSING (UPI) — A "sock it to 'em" narcotics bill aimed at clamping down on Mafia-type dope pushers has passed the Michigan House.

Members voted 88-11 yesterday in favor of a bill that raises from $5,000 to $50,000 the fine for persons convicted more than twice for manufacturing or selling narcotics, and revises a mandatory 20-year jail term provision.

★ ★ ★

"Five thousand dollars is a drop in the bucket as far as the Mafia is concerned," said Rep. Joseph P. Swallow, an Alpena Republican. "We've got to sock it to 'em. We're not talking about the kid down the street."

The bill also replaces the mandatory jail sentence for pushers with a 20-year discretionary term, leaving the time of sentence up to the court.

'ALMOST USELESS'

Rep. Dale Warner, R-Eaton Rapids, the bill's chief sponsor, said the mandatory sentence was "almost useless" in deterring dope peddling because judges were reluctant to hand out the stiff term.

★ ★ ★

Only about a dozen sellers have ever been convicted in Michigan, he added.

★ ★ ★

"Times have changed, there is a tremendous increase in the sale of narcotics and the laws we once thought were good actually hinder," said Warner, who headed a special drug study committee last year.

★ ★ ★

The measure, one of three which Warner says will help combat the growing use of drugs among young persons, was based on hearings the committee held.

LATER DEBATE

The other two bills, scheduled for debate later in the session, would allow the State Department of Education to help schools set up antidrug programs and create a drug-abuse and dependence program within the Department of Public Health to aid parents and local communities in fighting drug abuse.

★ ★ ★

In related action yesterday, House members approved, 97-0, a bill to require grade schools to teach the effects of narcotics and other drugs. Both drug bills were sent to the Senate for action.

★ ★ ★

Other bills passed during the long, 10-hour session would:

- Add the crimes of larceny, breaking and entering, extortion and kidnaping to the state's first-degree murder statues.
- Exempt persons receiving benefits from a public retirement system from paying state income tax on the money.
- Prohibit judges from administering estates in probate courts.

★ ★ ★

- Raise from 32 to 35 hours a week a father of welfare child may be allowed to work and still collect welfare payments.
- Require motorcycle license applicants to pass a written and road examination.

★ ★ ★

A resolution was introduced which would push back the legislative schedule another two weeks, allowing the House and Senate to work on their own bills until June 20 instead of this Friday as originally scheduled.

State-Capitol News in Brief

By the Associated Press

THE GOVERNOR

Spent the afternoon and much of the evening going over "strategy" for his recently named Education Reform Commission, charged with recommending overhaul of Michigan's school system.

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Continued his running feud with two senators critical of his handling of a probe of allegations of corruptin made by a Mafia informer.

THE STATE AGRICULTURE DEPARTMENT

Set a new June 18 hearing date, at Sault Ste. Marie, for a proposed ban on the sale of DDT in Michigan.

THE SENATE

Defeated:

SB101, Stamm. A House Senate compromise bill calling for school aid expenditures of $847.4 million for coming school year.

Passed:

HB2431, Sheridan. Declare first degree murder to include all felony murders.

HB3180, O'Neill. Prohibit judges from being executors of estates.

HB3019, Copper. Allow district court judges to sit on Detroit Common Pleas or Recorder's Court.

HB3079, Young. Allow common pleas court judges to perform marriages for fees not to exceed $10.

HB3075, Davis. Increase motor vehicle title registration fee to $2.

HB2850, Sheridan. Require elementary school courses in effects of narcotics, tobacco and alcohol.

HB2350, Warner. Reduce maximum and minimum prison terms for sale and possession of narcotics.

HB2728, Farnsworth. Increase hours that fathers of children receiving welfare aid may be employed.

HB2743, Farnsworth. Determine the crime of fraud in social welfare claims by the amount wrongfully received.

HB2156, Cooper. Require clerks to certify election petitions based on the number of valid signatures.

HB2312, Ford. Permit the Legislature to set compensation for city planning commissions.

HB2800, Clark. Set criteria for state aid to libraries and powers of governing boards.

Con Stays In; Learning Job

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Winston H. Scott, 20, believes he will be better off staying in prison a while longer and has withdrawn his petition for a review of his conviction.

"At the present time, I am engaged in a bricklaying-training program," he wrote the prosecutor. "Soon, I will be placed on work-release and, with the help of the state, I now elect to withdraw my petition from your office."

Scott was sentenced in 1967 to eight years for burglary.

We Salute the Stewards

A middle-aged Rochester couple who had reaped the benefits of life in the United States felt impelled to exert themselves on behalf of the disadvantaged and impoverished of another land.

STEWART

MRS. STEWART

Thereupon, Mr. and Mrs. CHARLES STEWART took leave from highly remunerative occupations, enrolled in a Peace Corps training program, and set out for Bolivia to spread the gospel of American institutions and to inspire the natives to seek higher cultural and economic levels.

Winding up their two-year mission, the Stewarts carried the torch of humanitarianism to Chicago to recruit Peace Corps volunteers among college students and to persuade trade schools and colleges to structure educational programs around Peace Corps standards.

★ ★ ★

At no time in history has there been greater need for international comradeship, and Mr. and Mrs. STEWART stand out as selfless embodiments of its spirit. The inner satisfaction and reward they have gained from their experience is living confirmation of the timeless precept that you serve yourself by serving others.

Neighbor's Taxes Zoom

If you're toying with the idea of fleeing the country to escape taxation with representation, don't head north.

So far this year, five of the 10 Canadian provinces have passed a spate of tax increases, reports Commerce Clearing House.

In Ontario, the sales tax was doubled to 10 per cent on liquor, wine and beer and all meals costing $2.50 or more. Ontario residents also saw their cigarette tax boosted by 25 per cent.

Taxpayers in New Brunswick were socked with a 10 per cent surcharge on personal income and higher rates on gasoline, tobacco, liquor and retail sales. The latter was not only hiked from 6 to 8 per cent but broadened to include services such as laundry and dry cleaning.

Nova Scotia upped its sales tax from 5 to 7 per cent and also ended the exemption for automobiles and parts, electricity and local telephone calls. The tax on liquor was raised by 10 per cent and that on cigarettes quadrupled.

★ ★ ★

In Alberta, the personal income tax jumped from 28 to 33 per cent and tobacco is now being taxed for the first time — as much as 20 per cent.

Owners of minerals in nonproducing areas of Saskatchewan now must pay a tax of 10 cents per acre—instead of 3 per cent.

Tax prospects in the other provinces don't look very promising, either, says the CCH.

All of which merely emphasizes that running from the tax collector is usually an exercise in frustration.

Actors' Nudity 'Covered'

This may be "the dawning of the Age of Aquarius," as a certain hippie musical proclaims, but it's beginning to look more like a return to the age of Bacchus.

Consider the new rules that Actors Equity Assocation has found it necessary to publish to govern the hiring of actors, singers and dancers appearing in Broadway or off-Broadway productions.

★ ★ ★

In a statement of policy, the union has declared that:

• Its members must be given prior notice if their roles call for nudity and/or suggestive sex acts on stage.

• Producers must indemnify a performer in case of arrest and furnish bail, fines and legal counsel.

• No performer may be required to disrobe until he has been auditioned, and nudity will be permissible at auditions only when an Equity official is present.

Buffalo Evening News

Most early responses to President Nixon's call for urgent draft reforms have been favorable in general, but some have differed on details or asked Congress to go beyond his proposals in some major areas.

In long-run terms, we would agree that more should be done than he has asked for.

Such comment, however, ignores one key point in his message: The President is not here asking Congress to legislate a whole new draft law. He is asking it simply to "return to the President the power which he had prior to June 30, 1967, to modify call-up procedures."

All the rest is essentially a description of how he proposes to change the draft rules. If Congress will but grant him the same authority that his predecessors had until Congress took it away and froze the rules in the draft-extension law two years ago.

So while the legislators can take all the time they need for any more sweeping draft revisions they can be persuaded to make, they should act first, and without other distractions, on the President's straightforward and well-documented request for authority to modify the call-up procedures.

As soon as he gets that, he can move very quickly to reduce the period of "prime draft vulnerability" to one year, and to choose by lot who gets drafted during that year.

And this in itself, we think, can probably do more than any other one change—short of abolishing the draft — to minimize the period of uncertainty that makes the draft so poisonously unpopular and such a feeder of rebellion among today's youths.

Gambling . . .

The Milwaukee Journal

Somebody, says Thomas O'Neill of the Baltimore Sun, ought to introduce federal authorities who plan a drive to wipe out gambling to those state officials who argue that gambling could ease the tax load.

The federal government equates gambling and the Mafia. It thinks that one road to law and order is to get rid of both.

On the other hand, a half dozen state legislatures this year seriously considered authorizing state lotteries. New Jersey is going to hold a referendum on a state lottery in November.

★ ★ ★

New York and New Hampshire have state lotteries that are proving failures as big money raisers. New Hampshire hoped to raise $4 million a year and is taking in less than 50 per cent of that. New York talked about $300 million to $400 million a year in state revenues. It took in $25 million a year to start with and now that is shrinking.

Big time gambling and big time crime go together. Experience has proved that. States that think there is a bonanza in lotteries or other types of gambling will find it not only poor business but an invitation for Mafia types to move in.

Salesmen We Can Do Without!

David Lawrence Says:

High Court Ruling Significant

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court of the United States, by a 7-1 vote, has just rendered a significant decision.

LAWRENCE

While the objective of the decision — to prevent racial discrimination — is a worthy one, the grounds on which the high court based its ruling are bound to be viewed as an intrusion into the personal relationships of individuals.

The case at issue arose because, in an isolated area of Arkansas, a private recreation center was established, and the owners felt they had a right to select their members or visitors.

★ ★ ★

Under the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Congress prohibited discrimination or segregation at places of public accommodation whose operations "affect commerce." Included in these are "any motion picture house, theater, concert hall, sports arena, stadium or other place of exhibition or entertainment."

The question was whether the Lake Nixon Club in Arkansas was a public place of entertainment or a private club exempt under the act.

MAJORITY OPINION

The majority opinion of the court declared that the power of Congress to "regulate commerce" means that any facility can be regulated if it serves food that comes from other states and if any interstate travelers request the premises.

The fact that the club in Arkansas sold food and leased boats which may have come from outside the state, and that some visitors might have crossed state lines, was enough to bolster the court's contention that the club was actually subject to the congressional power to "regulate" interstate commerce.

★ ★ ★

Justice Hugo Black, the lone dissenter, indicated clearly his belief that the commerce clause cannot be "stretched" to cover everything that happens in "interstate commerce." For if it can be, then Congress can use it to rearrange the whole pattern not only of business life but individual recreation.

It could even be argued that the operations of certain companies, however local in character, affect "interstate commerce" and that they must hire individuals on a quota basis.

MERE SUSPICION

The mere suspicion that discrimination might have motivated the choice of their employes would appear, according to this latest decision, to be adequate to make such requirements.

If the crusade against discrimination by reason of race, religion or color is to be carried to the point of including every business or home which purchases something from outside the state, then restrictions can be imposed not only to regulate the sale of private property but also to govern all private clubs or organizations which directly or indirectly use any goods manufactured in other states.

★ ★ ★

The "stretching" of the Constitution in the latest case can be remedied by Congress.

Bob Considine Says:

So We've Spent a Lot! Look at the Other Side

NEW YORK — There is another side to the current wail of "How much we've spent!" It is this: "How far we've come!"

CONSIDINE

Critical commentaries to the effect that we haven't the money or the know-how to go beyond the moon after expending $24 billion on Apollo alone tend to dismiss with a shrug the fact that only a relatively few years ago we couldn't get something the size of a grapefruit off the pad at Cape Canaveral.

There's an investigation being readied to find out why the huge C5 is going to cost more than was estimated when the deal was closed some years ago.

TO IGNORE FACT

The investigators are almost certain to ignore the simple fact that everything else now costs more than it did when the C5 contract was given to Lockheed after much stiff competition from Boeing and Douglas.

The investigators are also likely to report that the C5, as it turned out, is a much better cargo-lifter than its fondest designers believed it would be.

★ ★ ★

One of these years the C5 will come out of its military cocoon, as Boeing's C135 SAC tanker became the great 707 that is used by the airlines of the world.

The C5 could be an airliner with 848 seats, and with prices lower than today's bus fares. It could be stretched into the world's first one-million pound flying machine, big enough to ship new cars and freight that now must go by sea.

WEEPING AND GNASHING

So it costs more. The wonder is that it doesn't cost more than that.

If the Russians get to the moon between now and Apollo 11's flight, scheduled for July, there will be weeping and gnashing of American teeth.

It will be charged that we didn't spend enough money, didn't have sense enough to let Stafford, Cernan and Young go the distance when they were so close, goofed off real good.

But when we do make it, and win a dramatic race which the Russians no longer like to think of as a contest, somebody is bound to get up on his hind legs in Congress and say, "Stop spending all those millions for such a ridiculous project!"

GATHERING DUST

Same with America's entry in the supersonic airliner race. It is gathering so much dust that some of it rose and scattered the other day when the British-French Concorde roared over Paris at the opening of the great Air Show.

Soon, the Concordes will go on sale to the airlines of the world for upwards of $20 million each, and this country — which gave birth to the whole industry — will be caught with our plans down.

Voice of the People:

'See Need to Encourage Wearing of Safety Belts'

We lose 50,000 people in traffic accidents each year, with little hope of curbing this in the near future. Statistics show that if everyone wore seat belts and shoulder harnesses we could lower our fatalities by 80 per cent, or 40,000 people a year. Yet, the great bulk of people do not use either, and the government cannot force them to because it is unconstitutional.

★ ★ ★

Legislature should pass a law making the driver at fault in an accident not responsible for personal injuries to any person involved who did not have in use both seat belts and shoulder harnesses at the time of the accident. It would not be long before everyone wore them. We all deserve this added protection.

'Commend Efficiency of Waterford Police'

As a member of Cass Lake Highlands Improvement Association and a resident of Cass Lake Highlands, I express appreciation to the Waterford Township police for their excellent work over the holiday weekend in keeping Parkway and other streets near Cass Dodge Park as clear of congestion as possible. These officers worked many long and hard hours under most trying conditions and somehow managed to remain polite and firm while the recipients of muttered oaths and sarcasm for doing their job. These men presented to the people the image of good, polite, efficient police officers.

Question and Answer

Blackbirds swoop down on my small poodle when I put him out on a chain. Why do they do this and how can I stop it? Is it legal to shoot the birds? The dog likes to be out, but I'm afraid he'll be injured.

S.S.

REPLY

Michigan Conservation Game Biologist Green says it's the birds' way of protecting their young. Blackbirds aren't protected by conservation laws, but it's against the law to shoot anything in city limits. However, Mr. Green says the attacks are only to scare him, and the birds rarely come close enough to peck him. It's highly unlikely he'll be hurt.

Question and Answer

How early, and how late, in the day are tanning rays effective? What are the best sun bathing months in Michigan?

Mrs. J. C.
Waterford

REPLY

Effect of ultra-violet (tanning) rays depends on sensitivity of your skin. They're effective as long as the sun is shining, with highest intensity during noon hours. Tanning rays can even penetrate clouds, and those windburns you get on cloudy days are really sunburn. You can get a tan all year if you don't mind the cold. June 21 is the longest day of the year, so work your way toward and away from that date for a schedule of proportionately long days of sunbathing.

Puerto Rico Statehood Sentiment Gains

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico — Castroite rebels who are trying to stir an anti-American revolutionary spirit among Puerto Rico's three million people are wasting their time. The push for independence in this Island commonwealth has less steam behind it than ever.

BIOSSAT

The sporadic though now-diminished flurry of supermarket and department store fire-bombings in San Juan is the work of hard-core Castrites led by Juan Mari Bras. Roughly a dozen of this small band are now in jail.

These revolutionaries could make no pretense at having wide popular support on the island. Their clear purpose is to frighten potential outside investors, since Puerto Rico's continuing economic growth is the rebels' worst stumbling block.

In the 1968 elections, candidates of the independence movement polled in the range of 3 per cent of the total vote — about the same as in the most recent previous elections.

Newly elected Gov. Luis Ferre believes that the true strength of the independence movement may be closer to 10 per cent, since there is an assumption that many supporters of the formerly dominant Popular Democratic party favor independence at some future date, if not now.

Not surprisingly, too, it is estimated that perhaps 50 per cent of the University of Puerto Rico's faculty lines up for independence. Their influence on island politics, however, has proved somewhat less than crucial.

The net of it, then, is that independence is not gaining. Rebel violence is a fiery show designed to conceal desperation and futility.

What is gaining is sentiment for statehood.

Ferre estimates that today perhaps 60 per cent of the island's voting population would opt for full union with the United States, though not too many elections ago the percentage would have been closer to 30. As recently as the 1967 plebiscite on the island's status, well below half the voters were for statehood while some 60 per cent favored "commonwealth," the present position suspended curiously between statehood, independence and the total bondage of territorial dependence.

In two extended interviews, the new governor made plain that he will hold to his 1968 campaign promise not to press for statehood during his current four-year term of office. But he did not commit himself to remain utterly silent on the subject.

★ ★ ★

He believes that the U.S. Congress, which must approve a statehood enabling act, will not be properly impressed until island voters exhibit sentiment for statehood ranging above 70 per cent to perhaps 80 or more. Voters in Alaska and Hawaii provided such overwhelming demonstrations of support for union before they were admitted.

Promises 'Business as Usual'

Negro Heads Compton, Calif.

COMPTON, Calif. (AP) — Douglas Dollarhide is this city's first Negro mayor today, but as far as he is concerned, it's "business as usual."

"I don't think being a Negro is very important. I think what's important is what a man does—not what he looks like," Dollarhide said.

* * *

Only a week ago voters in Los Angeles—12 freeway miles away—returned Mayor Sam Yorty to office against Negro City Councilman Thomas Bradley after a bitter campaign.

* * *

The "business" Dollarhide plans to pursue is the development of this 78,000-population city as "a good place to live and work," he said.

TO CONSOLIDATE WORK

"I don't expect to see anything really new," Dollarhide said, "what I expect to do is consolidate the work we've accomplished since I was elected to the city council six years ago."

Dollarhide, 46, was also the city's first Negro city councilman. The new mayor won Tuesday over his opponent, Dr. Walter Tucker, also a Negro, by 5,711 votes to 4,079.

Prior to the election, the outgoing white mayor—who didn't seek reelection —, had labeled Dollarhide a "conservative." But the new mayor denies this vigorously.

* * *

"As far as I'm concerned, I'm a liberal. I'm concerned about change and development and bettering people's lives—that doesn't sound very conservative to me," he said.

Dollarhide said the priorities of his administration will be "people — oriented." "What we want," he said, "is housing for people who need it, before anything else."

Dollarhide joins Richard Hatcher of Gary, Ind., and Carl Stokes of Cleveland, Ohio, as a Negro mayor of a large city.

Hearing Is Set on Blue Cross Rate Hike Plea

LANSING (AP) — The State Insurance Commission will conduct a hearing June 24 at Lansing on a rate increase asked by Michigan Blue Cross.

Russell Van Hooser, state insurance commissioner, said Blue Cross reported the proposed rate hike would amount to 5.36 per cent for the average subscriber. Senior citizen contracts would not be affected.

* * *

The rate hike would affect almost one-third of Blue Cross' 4.9 million members.

No rate change has been asked at this time by Michigan Blue Shield, which provides medical coverage.

945 Reds Killed in Dak To Area

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese troops and heavy American air and artillery strikes have killed 945 North Vietnamese in three weeks of fighting around Dak To, in the Central Highlands, military spokesmen reported today.

The South Vietnamese and their American advisers also suffered heavy losses. More than 700 casualties were reported, including 157 government troops and 13 Americans killed, 455 South Vietnamese and 32 Americans wounded; 71 government soldiers and two Americans missing.

* * *

The operation, named People's Rights, is providing a test of U.S. plans to turn over more and more of the war to South Vietnamese forces so American forces can begin withdrawing from Vietnam.

* * *

"It is an entire ARVN (Army of the Republic of Vietnam) show with the exception of such American combat support as artillery, tactical air strikes, gunships and medical evacuation helicopters," one U.S. spokesman said.

'U. S. KILLS HALF'

Other spokesmen said that American support had accounted for roughly half of the North Vietnamese killed. Hundreds of U.S. B52 bombers and smaller fighter-bombers have pounded the enemy with more than 10,000 tons of bombs. Thirty B52s flew five more missions over the area Tuesday night and early today, dropping 900 tons of bombs.

* * *

Hanoi claimed more than 3,000 government soldiers had been killed or wounded, wiping out one South Vietnamese battalion and crippling or decimating six others.

* * *

"The new victory of the liberation forces has further proved that for all the efforts of the U.S. to help the puppet army get back on its feet, the latter is irrevocably doomed to complete disintegration," said the Hanoi newspaper Quan Doi Nhan Dan.

* * *

It also claimed that U.S. commanders ordered the Saigon government to throw a major force into the Dak To area "after all three brigades of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division, the trump card of the United States on the Central Vietnam high plateau, had been beaten hollow."

SCENE OF EPIC BATTLE

The Dak To area was the scene of one of the war's epic battles, for hill 875, in November 1967. American paratroopers captured the hill after two weeks of hard fighting in which 287 Americans were killed, 1,000 were wounded and 1,600 North Vietnamese dead were claimed by the Americans.

* * *

Since then U.S. 4th Division troops had roamed the hills around Dak To. But in the past three months, the bulk of them moved south in the highlands, leaving the South Vietnamese only artillery and engineering support.

Busy Michigan Senate Acts on 60 Bills as Deadline Nears

LANSING (AP) — Some 60 bills were acted on by the business-minded State Senate yesterday in a seven-hour meeting aimed at cleaning up a long calendar before the Friday deadline for passing legislation in the house of origin.

But on the big issue — state aid to public schools — the wary maneuvering of the last five months continued, with the Senate rejecting for a second time a $847-million compromise plan for the academic year starting July 1.

TO MEET AGAIN

House and senate conferees will meet again this week to reconsider the measure and try to come up with a plan acceptable to both the Legislature and Gov. William G. Milliken.

"I don't know what to think," said Sen. Anthony Stamm, R-Kalamazoo, the bill's floor manager and conference committee chairman. "You can't solve everybody's problems with patchwork here and there."

★ ★ ★

The main objection to the bill was lack of a provision to help the bankrupt Nankin-Mills School District in Suburban Detroit get out of financial hot water. Minority Democrats, with an important assist from three Republican defectors, said the problem was too important to be left unresolved.

In another major decision, the senate agreed to consider passage of a controversial bill to relax Michigan's long-time ban on theraputic abortions.

BRIGHTEST HOPE

The vote was 21-9, reversing an earlier action and giving abortion reform forces their brightest hope yet.

The bill would permit an abortion when the pregnancy threatens the life or health of the mother; the infant might be born with a disabling physical deformity or mental deficiency, or conception results from rape or incest.

Passed and sent to the House without a vote to spare were major bills to revise the grand jury law by increasing contempt penalties, extending immunity to reluctant witnesses and providing for a secret report to the governor on jury findings.

Democrat Sen. Joseph S. Mack's bill to reconvene the new state officers' compensation commission to correct what he claims is an "inequity" in the expense allowance system for lawmakers relating to mileage was passed 25-7.

MISDEMEANOR

The firearms-control measure, approved after preliminary floor debate on a voice vote, would make it a misdemeanor for anyone to sell a gun more than 30 inches long to persons under 18. A related bill to provide for reciprocal purchasing rights on rifles and shotguns in contiguous states passed on a 36-0 vote.

★ ★ ★

Republicans successfully pushed through the first stage a bill to limit filing of job-connected injury claims under the Workmen's Compensation Act to three years after the accident, but Democrats served notice they would put up a stiff fight when the proposal comes up for final passage.

★ ★ ★

The bill is strongly opposed by the labor unions.

Michigan and Vermont are the only states that do not impose a statute of limitations on workmen's compensation claims.

Viet Air Losses Prompt U.S. to Upgrade Its Arsenal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Faster-firing, harder-hitting guns are being planned for U.S. jet fighters because of dramatic progress made by North Vietnamese pilots against American planes.

Air Force work on developing the gun will start in the coming fiscal year, and the weapon will be installed in the F15, a jet fighter designed to provide clear U.S. superiority over any Russian-built jets in the 1970s.

★ ★ ★

Dr. John S. Foster, the Pentagon's research chief, disclosed recently that North Vietnam's fighter pilots were battling U.S. warplanes on almost even terms in the latter stages of the air war.

Foster told Congress:

"During air operations over North Vietnam in 1967 we commanded a five-to-one aircraft kill ratio in air-to-air engagements. In fiscal 1968, the North Vietnamese cut our advantage by destroying 23 U.S. aircraft while losing 31 of their own.

PLANS OUTLINED

"Fiscal year 1970 plans include engineering development of gun systems optimized for air-to-air combat and a family of improved 20mm rounds characterized by increased mass, size and impact energy."

Asked about this, the Air Force credited North Vietnamese dogfight gains to improved tactics, far better use of ground radar control, and "very selective" choice of combat by North Vietnamese pilots.

"They stopped 'mixing it up' and instead made carefully controlled missile firing passes only when conditions were extremely advantageous to them," the Air Force spokesman said.

Furthermore, North Vietnamese pilots used their best planes—the MIG21—almost exclusively for challenging U.S raiders, the Air Force said, and sent up older model MIGs only as decoys.

'NOT GEAR'S FAULT'

The Air Force denied that any deficiencies in U.S. weapons were responsible for the loss of the earlier U.S. combat advantage in 1968.

At the same time, there were reports that a secret study of the performance of U.S. planes and pilots over North Vietnam pointed out deficiencies in certain equipment.

These reported deficiencies, it was learned, will lead to improvements in F15 gear, including better equipment for telling friend from foe at long distances.

The Journal of the Armed Forces said the "Red Baron study" disclosed that in about 25 per cent of the aerial engagements, enemy pilots were able to swing their planes behind U.S. aircraft before being detected.

This gave the surprised U.S. pilots little chance to evade before being attacked.

The report, prepared by the Pentagon's Weapons Systems Evaluation Group, also was said to have found that in about half the cases examined, U.S. pilots were unaware of the enemy's presence until North Vietnamese planes came within two miles.

RADAR TECHNOLOGY

Thus, the F15 will incorporate advances in long range airborne radar technology.

The Air Force said aircraft guns now in its inventory were built according to technology developed in the 1945-1950 period.

Bonavena Scrap in Berlin Delayed

BERLIN (AP) — The Oscar Bonavena-Wilhelm von Homburg Friday night fight has been postponed until at least next week, the West Berlin promoter said today.

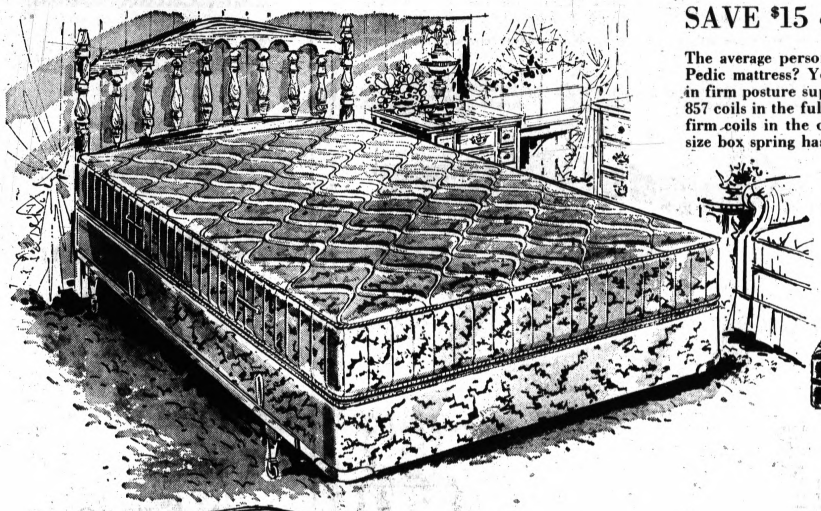

★ ★ ★

Willy Zeller told newsmen Bonavena had suffered a slight tonsil infection and wanted to make up the training time lost in the last three days.

Amber is the hardest resin known. It comes from the fossils of extinct pine trees that once grew on the shores of the Baltic Sea.

Three Brothers Die on Destroyer Sliced in Half

By The Associated Press

Boatswain's Mate 2.C Gary Sage worried about serving with his two brothers on the Navy destroyer USS Evans.

* * *

"He said if anything happened, the family could lose all three," recalled Mrs. Cheryl Hargens in rural Niobrara, Neb., where she was a classmate of Gary's two younger brothers.

* * *

Gary's worst fear became grim reality Tuesday when the Pentagon informed Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Sage that three of their sons had died when the Australian carrier Melbourne sliced through the Evans in the South China Sea.

The tragedy took the lives of 73 U.S. seamen and was felt in homes scattered across the country. One California woman lost a son, but her husband was among the survivors of the predawn collision.

BOY, 7, SURVIVES

The three Sage brothers lost in the accident were Gary, 22, Radarman 3.C Gregory, 21, and Seaman Appren. Kelly, 19. The Sage's surviving child is Douglas, 7, who was playing in the farmyard Tuesday.

He watched excitedly at a bustling neighbor bearing a cake entered the house. The cars of friends filled the normally quiet farmyard in northeast Nebraska.

* * *

Relatives, many who lived nearby, busied themselves feeding the livestock and handling the other routine chores. In Niobrara, a town of 750, residents gathered in the business district were shocked by the blow.

* * *

"I was an Army man during World War II, and I told them I thought maybe they'd have life a little better in the Navy," said Ernest Sage, 52. "It seemed like good advice then . . ."

UNCLE GRIEVES

An uncle, Lawrence Sage of Niobrara, said it was "a bad mistake on the part of the Navy to let them all serve together. It's bad enough to lose one boy. But no one should have to lose three."

But Navy officials indicated that when feasible, requests from members of the same family to serve together are honored. And the brothers asked to be assigned together said Capt. Ivan C. Griswold of the Naval Personnel and Training Center at Omaha.

* * *

In Costa Mesa, Calif., Mrs. Lawrence J. Reilly Sr. lost a son but her husband was coming home. She said her husband had requested duty on the Evans "because of Larry Junior. He was worried about the boy."

* * *

"I can't believe it," Mrs. Lawrence J. Reilly Jr., 19, told her mother-in-law. "I got a letter from Larry just the other day. He was so happy that his enlistment was almost ended. He was coming home in September . . ."

HOW TO EXPLAIN

"What will I ever tell the baby?" the young widow asked. "How will I explain to him how his father died when I don't really understand it myself? Why . . .?"

Another victim was Leon L. Deal, 19, of San Francisco who enlisted in February. His sister, Marilyn said, "The only reason he went in the Navy was because he knew they were going to draft him."

Electronics technician 3.C James F. Bradley of Syracuse, N.Y. was making his first cruise on a ship his father helped build 25 years ago. James R. Bradley, a former shipfitter, said he worked on the construction of the Evans at the Bethlehem shipyards on Staten Island.

Tuesday was to have been the 19th birthday of Seaman Appren. Ray Grisson Jr. of Covina, Calif. His grandfather said, "It's a very sad day for us."

* * *

James Wilburn Davis, a radar technician from Springfield, Mo., would have been 23 Tuesday. "It's very sad—especially on his birthday," said his sister, Mrs. Neldean Hawkins.

3 State Men Among Dead in Evans Crew

DETROIT (AP) — "I'm a Navy man myself....I told him it was a great life, he'd like it," recalled the father of a Michigan man missing in the crash of a U.S. destroyer and an Australian aircraft carrier near Vietnam.

His son, Timothy Miller of Lansing, was one of three Michigan men who have been given up for dead by the Navy as a result of the collision in the South China Sea.

The others are Melvin Harris Brown, son of Mrs. Geraldine Brown of Detroit, and Douglas Roy Meister, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Meister, of Redford.

Donald Miller, whose son was a seaman apprentice aboard the USS Frank E. Evans, said he heard of his son's death Tuesday. The notifying officer "said he was missing in action and they were searching extensively," Miller said. "I said, 'I'm a Navy man myself. Don't kid me.'"

"That's just the polite way they put it," he said.

CRITICAL OF WAR

Miller was critical of the war that he thinks was responsible for his son being on the destroyer. "I think the whole deal could have been avoided with the proper leadership. It's wrong. That's where he was heading—for Vietnam," he said.

"I assume Nixon wanted his election to pan out proper," he added, "It seems to me two presidents could have done something."

* * *

His son had only been gone since February. "He said he liked it aboard ship, but he was learning to hate it. It's monotonous. He talked of home, us, fishing," Miller said.

"I'll hold my head high and be proud, at least," Miller added."

Air Travel Firm Faces $300,000 in Complaints

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An air travel company accused of stranding hundreds of tourists abroad faces at least $300,000 in formal complaints police Sgt. Warren G. Hambly says.

International Tour Inc. closed the doors of its Los Angeles agency May 20. In Hawaii and Mexico, tourists said they were left stranded without a way home after paying the company for round trips.

Hambly said Tuesday police were looking for the president of the company for questioning. Auditors of the district attorney's office have been examining the books.

Airlines returned many of the travelers home without cost.

ORDINANCE NO. 63

AN ORDINANCE TO CONTROL THE POSSESSION, USE, SALE AND TRANSPORTATION OF FIREWORKS AND OTHER EXPLOSIVE OR INFLAMMABLE COMPOUNDS AND CHEMICALS AND DEVICES USED IN CONNECTION THEREWITH.

THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF WATERFORD ORDAINS:

Section 1.01 Except as otherwise provided by law, no person, firm, copartnership or corporation shall offer for sale, expose for sale, sell at retail, keep with intent to sell at retail, possess, give, furnish, transport, use, explode or cause to explode any of the following:

(a) Any blank cartridge, blank cartridge pistol, toy cannon, toy cane or toy gun in which explosives are used.

(b) A balloon which requires fire underneath to propel it.

(c) Firecrackers, torpedoes, skyrockets, roman candles, daygo bombs or other fireworks of like construction.

(d) Any fireworks containing any explosive or inflammable compound or any tablets or other device commonly used and sold as fireworks containing nitrates, chlorates, oxalates, sulphides of lead, barium, antimony, arsenic, mercury, nitroglycerin, phosphorus, or any compound containing any of these or other modern explosives.

Section 1.02 A permit is not required for any of the following:

(a) Flat paper caps containing not more than .25 of a grain of explosive content per cap, in packages labeled to indicate the maximum explosive content per cap.

(b) Toy pistols, toy cannons, toy canes and toy guns of a type approved by the director of the department of state police in which paper caps as described in subdivision (a) are used and which are so constructed that the hand cannot come in contact with the cap when in place for the explosion and which are not designed to break apart or be separated so as to form a missile by the explosion.

(c) Sparklers containing not more than .0125 pounds of burning portion per sparkler.

(d) Flitter sparklers in paper tubes not exceeding ¼ inch in diameter.

(e) Toy snakes not containing mercury. If packed in cardboard boxes with not more than 12 pieces per box for retail sale and the manufacturer's name and quantity contained in each box are printed thereon.

(f) Possession, transportation, sale or use of signal flares of a type approved by the director of state police, blank cartridges or blank cartridge pistols specifically for a show or theater, for the training or exhibiting of dogs, for signal purposes in athletic sports, for the use by military organizations, and all items in Section 1.01 used by railroads, trucks or vehicles for emergency signal purposes.

(g) The sale of any kind of fireworks provided they are to be shipped directly out of state in accordance with regulations of the United States interstate commerce commission covering the transportation of explosives and other dangerous articles by motor, rail and water.

Section 2.01 The Township Board, upon application in writing, on application forms provided by the director of the department of state police, may grant a permit for the use of fireworks otherwise prohibited by Section 1.01 within the township, manufactured for outdoor pest control or agricultural purposes, or for public display by municipalities, fair associations, amusement parks, or other organizations or groups of individuals approved by the Township Board, if the applicable provisions of this act are complied with. The permits shall be on forms provided by the director of the department of state police. After a permit has been granted, sales, possession or transportation of fireworks for such purposes only may be made. No permit shall be transferable, nor shall a permit be issued to any person under the age of twenty-one (21) years.

Section 2.02 The Township Board, upon application in writing, may grant a permit, on forms provided by the director of the department of state police, to any resident wholesale dealer or jobber to have in his possession within the political jurisdiction fireworks otherwise prohibited by Section 1.01 for sale only to holders of permits as provided for in Section 2.01. No permit is transferable, nor shall a permit be issued to any person under the age of twenty-one (21) years.

Section 2.03 Before any permit for a pyrotechnic display is issued, the person, firm or corporation making application therefor shall furnish proof of financial responsibility by a bond or insurance in an amount deemed necessary by the Township Board, to satisfy claims for damages to property or personal injuries arising out of any act or omission on the part of such person, firm or corporation or any agent or employee thereof, in such amount, character and form as the Township Board determines to be necessary for the protection of the public.

Section 2.04 No permit shall be issued under the provisions of this act to a nonresident person, firm or corporation for conduct of a pyrotechnic display in this state until such person, firm or corporation shall have appointed in writing a member of the bar of this state and residing therein or in a resident agent to be his legal representative upon whom all process in any action or proceeding against him may be served.

Section 2.05 The Township Board shall rule on the competency and qualifications of operators of pyrotechnic displays, as the operator has furnished in his application form and on the time, place and safety aspects of the displays before granting permits.

Section 3.01 Transportation of fireworks intrastate shall be made only with the permits provided for in this act and as follows:

(a) In accordance with interstate commerce commission regulations for transportation of explosives and other dangerous articles by motor, rail and water, including specifications for shipping containers.

(b) In nonpassenger carrying vehicles, in charge of a competent driver at least twenty-one (21) years of age, vehicles equipped with a 15 pound carbon dioxide, or a 10 pound dry chemical fire extinguisher, and in or near which smoking shall be prohibited while loading, unloading and transporting fireworks.

Section 4.01 Storage of fireworks at the sites of wholesalers, dealers and jobbers shall be as follows:

(a) In one-story, without basement, noncombustible or fire resistive building; weather resistant; well ventilated and equipped with a strong door kept securely locked except when open for business.

(b) The location of the storage building shall be approved by the Township Board and in any case shall be located in relation to inhabited buildings, passenger railroads and public highways, no less than distances specified in the standard table of distances for explosives in the Michigan administrative code regulations for storage and handling of explosives.

(c) Smoking, matches, open flames, spark producing devices and firearms shall be prohibited inside of or within fifty (50) feet of any warehouse used for the storage of fireworks. Combustible materials shall not be stored within fifty (50) feet of warehouses used for the storage of fireworks.

(d) The interior of warehouses used for the storage of fireworks shall be kept clean and free from debris and empty containers. Warehouses shall not be used for the storage of any metal tools nor any commodity other than fireworks.

(e) Warehouses shall not be provided with heat or lights, except that if lights are necessary an electric safety flashlight or safety lantern shall be used.

(f) Warehouses shall bear lettering on each side and top in letters not less than 4 inches high, the words "explosives — keep fire away."

(g) Every warehouse used for the storage of fireworks shall be under the supervision of a competent person who shall be not less than twenty-one (21) years of age.

Section 5.01 Any person, firm, copartnership or corporation, who violates any of the provisions of Sections 1.01 to 4.01 or who violates the terms of a permit issued thereunder, is guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of not less than $15.00 nor more than $100.00 or by imprisonment for not more than ninety (90) days or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Section 6.01 Article 13 of Ordinance No. 40, relating to fireworks, is hereby repealed in its entirety.

Section 7.01 This Ordinance shall take effect and be enforced upon publication thereof.

By order of the Waterford Township Board.

Actions Taken Concerning Streets, Parking

City Affairs

Several actions concerning streets and parking were taken by the City Commission at last night's meeting.

Some anger and frustration was expressed by six persons at a public hearing on a curb, gutter, paving and sidewalk project for Pearsall between Motor and Bagley.

★ ★ ★

The project is to cost $24,550, with residents being assessed $15,040. Speakers complained the street's residents have been requesting the paving for over 12 years.

Those at the hearing said the residents have always been ready and willing to pay the costs involved but that the city delayed the job because funds for the city's participation were not available.

RESIDENT SPEAKS OUT

One resident observed that he had seen many other projects proceeding on the north side of town during the period.

The project was approved and a hearing on the assessment roll set for 8 p.m. June 24. The project will have to wait until the 1970 funding year, however, residents,

★ ★ ★

In other projects:

● Final approval was given a parking lot to serve the Tel-Huron shopping center at Telegraph and West Huron. The lot is to cost the store owners $45,168 and the city's share is $9,863, mostly connected with planning and administrating the project.

● A public hearing was set for June 10 for an assessment roll on a $124,500 curb, gutter, paving and sidewalk project on Cameron from Featherstone to University. Residents are to pay about half.

At the hearing on intention to construct, residents urged quick action due to flooding on the street. The project has been set for the 1970 construction year.

★ ★ ★

● A contract for providing 115,000 square yards of nonskid sealcoat on various local streets at a cost of $28,060 was awarded low project bidder Ward and Van Nuck Inc.

★ ★ ★

In other business the commission:

● Resolved to support other governmental units in the county in urging the development of M59 west of the city. A letter is to be sent to the County Board of Supervisors, County Road Commission and State Highway Commission detailing the city's support.

★ ★ ★

● Was notified that the Michigan Public Service Commission will hold hearings starting at 10 a.m. June 16 in Lansing on a rate increase request by Michigan Bell Telephone.

District 4 Commissioner F. Jack Douglas urged residents to write protest to the service commission in protest. He said all the state utilities have been asking increases that will cost $150 million a year to users, despite a profit rate as high as 14 per cent yearly.

★ ★ ★

● Rezoned two properties: two lots on the northeast corner of North Paddock and Mckinley from residential to parking; and three lots on the southeast corner of Perry and Seneca from residential to commercial office.

● Approved sale of 12 acres of city land south of Columbia and east of the railroad to Charles Langs Inc. for $43,753. The purchase offer was made last September and was the only one received. The property is adjacent to a rent-supplement housing project under construction by the Langs firm.

★ ★ ★

● Sent to the planning commission a request by Sam Toby that Irene street west of Bagley to the Clinton River be vacated.

Positions Filled by Commission

Several major appointments and reappointments were made by the City Commission at last night's meeting.

District 7 Commissioner James H. Marshall was named as the city's representative on the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity (OCCEO).

★ ★ ★

This will be the first direct representation of the city on the OCCEO, which is undergoing a reorganization in accordance with federal regulations which require higher representation by elected officials.

A new city board was created, the Income Tax Board of Review.

TO HEAR PROTESTS

The city income tax first went into effect in January 1968 and first tax returns were required as of April 30 this year.

The review board will hear any individual protests to the levy.

★ ★ ★

Named to the board for the following terms are Ralph Affolder of 344 Baldwin, one year; Leo H. Snoddy of 262 Earlmoor, two years; and Frank Fortino of 190 Liberty, three years.

★ ★ ★

Three reappointments were made for four-year terms on the Pontiac General Hospital Board of Trustees: Alex Capsalis of 221 Ottawa, Victor Woods of 289 Sanderson and Isaac Smoot of 246 S. Johnson.

SIX REAPPOINTED

Six members were reappointed to the Human Relations Commission. Other new appointments are to be made to bring the body up to 24 members. Various agencies are being requested to make nominations.

★ ★ ★

Reappointed to three-year terms are active members Rabbi Philip Berkowitz of 59 S. Genesee, Samuel J. Whiters of 391 Orchard Lake, Lee E. Baker of 41 N. Marshall, Andrew Gulascik of 113 Mohawk, Melvin Boersma of 1286 Locke and Floyd Miles Sr. of 160 W. Columbia.

Nothing to Crow About

"Can you raise chickens in the City of Pontiac?" was the question posed by City District 6 Commissioner Wesley Wood at last night's commission meeting.

City Attorney Sherwin Birnkrant said, in his opinion, the ordinances would forbid it.

★ ★ ★

Wood explained a resident of his district, which includes the central portion of the east side, has been complaining that he hears a rooster crowing each morning.

This was not proof in Birnkrant's opinion. "You can't raise chickens with just a rooster," he commented.

Magic Name Is No Help to Negro GOP Leader

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Both major political parties in Michigan have Negro second vice chairmen. In the second part of a four-part series on the Negro vote in Michigan, veteran Capitol reporter Jane Denison profiles Republican Vice Chairman Earl Kennedy.)

By JANE DENISON

DETROIT (UPI) — Though Earl Kennedy is blessed with a magic political name, it hasn't been exactly a magic wand. He lost both times he ran for the Michigan Legislature.

But then, this Kennedy is different. He is a Nagro and he is a Republican.

* * *

For all his dedication to party and principle, the only recognition the soft-spoken Kennedy has won is within the GOP power structure where Negroes are few and Detroit Republicans scarce.

* * *

Kennedy, 52, has been the second vice chairman of the Michigan Republican party since 1968 — a job, ironically which his race helped him get.

TACIT UNDERSTANDING

When the Michigan Legislature created the second vice chairman's job in both major parties four years ago, it was with the tacit understanding it would be filled by Negroes.

But through the years, other avenues have been closed to the graying travel agent — not so much because of his skin, but because of his politics.

* * *

Born in Jersey, educated in Detroit, graduated from Morehouse College in Atlanta, and an Army Air Force officer in World War II, Kennedy proudly claims to have been a Republican "practically all of my life."

And it has cost him dearly, he says, both in dollars and in personal dignity.

'MANY ABUSE'

"I've had many abuses and insults — physical in some instances," he says. "I've felt social ostracism, epithets, insults of all kinds, even damage to my car, even to the extent of business threats."

In the past, some people who came to his real estate office and later to his travel agency abruptly quit doing business with him when they found out about his politics.

* * *

Today, there's less of that. But his travel agency office not too far beyond the inner city is dingy. There are bare wood floors, a broom propped up against a wall, a dusty fake palm tree and piles of travel folders stacked on the floor.

One bright poster for the Bahamas shows a white couple in evening dress dining on a terrace with a Negro waiter hovering over them.

SUCCESSFUL

But Kennedy, apparently, is successful. His clothes are expensive but tasteful.

He's involved in land development in the Bahamas, where most of his family lives, and is thinking of plunging into real estate development here "with the resurgence now of housing development."

* * *

His wife, the former Jessie Carter, is a regional superintendent for the Detroit school system. They have no children. Kennedy talks articulately, intelligently and without bitterness about what being a black Republican has meant.

LOOKED TO BUSINESS

He joined the party when he was 22 and is frank about why.

"I felt business was an area that black people should go into," Kennedy says. "I felt the business aspect (of the Republican party) was more enlightened and would afford me the opportunity to advance in business."

* * *

Over the years, Kennedy has modified his views. He still thinks the GOP offers the most to "minority entrepreneurs."

He admits acceptance of the GOP among black voters has been slow and says it is hampered because of fears of social reprisal and "the general overall fear that they (the GOP) don't want us."

'PARTY OF WEALTHY'

"The Democratic leadership has harped that the Republican party is a party of wealthy people, and eventually these people will believe it," he says.

Kennedy's active participation in party affairs, which began about 15 years ago, culminated last year when he was named a GOP National Convention delegate and then picked to head the national Black Americans for Nixon-Agnew organization.

* * *

He was also a committee cochairman for President Nixon's inauguration.

In those years, Kennedy has held virtually every state party post from precinct delegate to State Central Committee membership.

IN WOMEN'S GROUP

He also was one of the founders of the Wolverine State GOP Organization, a Negro group, and is one of the few male members of the GOP Women's Organization.

"I have never been a crowd follower," he says. "I think black people should not just go with the crowd. If they don't have to seek out the Democratic party for bread and butter, they should come to the GOP where leadership and talent are needed."

Kennedy says he is deeply committed to improving the black man's place in society and thinks it can be improved through existing institutions — including the two-party system.

He doesn't like to see Negroes becoming Democrats just because most of their families and friends are.

"I always felt the two-party system should prevail. Even in the 1920s, I felt it was impractical for all black people to go Democratic," he says.

He credits former six-term Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams for cementing Negroes into the Democratic party from 1949-61.

"To crack his armor was a terrific challenge because he set a pace with unprecedented patronage," Kennedy says.

"He groomed 90 per cent of the black leadership in the Democratic party today. He was difficult to get around."

'BEGAN TO CHANGE'

He also says reprisals by fellow Negroes against him were "worst during the Williams era." Once Republican George Romney became governor, Kennedy says, things began to change.

Romney began siphoning off Negro votes and left a nucleus of Negro support statewide when he left to join the Nixon Cabinet.

* * *

He also left a determination in the GOP to concentrate organizational activities in the urban areas, particularly in Detroit.

"I think the Democratic party is very much alert to the fact the Republican party is making an all-out effort and is aware that I'm whittling away," Kennedy says.

BIG SPENDERS

He admits the GOP is spending $6 to every $1 the Democrats shell out for organization.

"There's no use having the money unless you spend it for good use," he grins.

* * *

But Kennedy knows the Democrats are out to regain the ground lost in the Romney era. And he sees a "watchful pause" in the black community to evaluate how Gov. William G. Milliken handles minority problems.

Tax-Collection Savings Seen

EAST LANSING (UPI) — The 11 Michigan cities levying income taxes could save thousands of dollars next year if they would implement a new law providing for state collection of the taxes.

* * *

That's the conclusion of Michigan State University economics Prof. Milton C. Taylor following a comprehensive study of tax collection costs at the local level.

A law giving the cities the option of letting the state collect local income taxes for a 2 per cent fee takes effect Jan. 1. Taylor said he expects few communities to take advantage of the measure.

* * *

Under the present system, he said, collection expenses range from a low of 2 per cent in Flint to a high of 16 per cent in Hamtramck. He said the state collects its income tax for one-half of 1 per cent.

Drivers Ticketed on Bypass, but Eye Court Cutoff

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — Chatham County commissioners had told the public that a newly constructed bypass would be open to traffic June 1.

* * *

About 100 motorists took them at their word—and were given traffic tickets Sunday and Monday for driving around barricades at each end of the road.

Commmissioner P. E. Clifton later relented, saying, "A promise is a promise."

* * *

He said the county has stopped issuing tickets, and Police Court Judge David Elmore has taken under advisement a request that all such tickets issued Sunday and Monday be voided.

Thieu Cool to Rushing Into Elections

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu is prepared to be flexible at his Midway Island conference with President Nixon, aides say, but he sees no need to be rushed into elections to establish the nation's future political regime.

As seen from Saigon, one of the burning issues of the summit meeting Sunday will be Nixon's call for elections. Nixon proposed in his May 14 speech that elections should be held as a key procedure toward evolving an eight-point peace plan.

★ ★ ★

Thieu, back in Saigon after visits to South Korea and Formosa, will spend the remainder of the week preparing for the summit conference. He sought the meeting after Nixon laid down his first detailed program for peace in Vietnam.

Initial reaction to the Nixon plan was generally positive, but after closer examination, concern arose about what Nixon meant in his election proposal.

REPORT ON THINKING

Sources in a position to know Thieu's thinking give this account:

Although Nixon mentioned no timetable for elections, there is an impression here that he feels they should be held before the next national voting scheduled under the South Vietnamese constitution. Partial Senate elections are set for late 1970. House and presidential elections are scheduled for 1971.

★ ★ ★

Any revision of this schedule would probably require constitutional amendment, and Thieu has said he is not prepared to take this step.

Behind this expressed attitude is the fear that Thieu's regime couldn't win a confrontation with the Communists at the polls. Thieu has virtually no political base of his own, and the country's political parties are splintered. The Communists are closely disciplined and could be expected to vote as a bloc larger than any of the progovernment factions can command.

LAUNCHES FRONT

In an attempt to remedy this potentially dangerous situation, Thieu launched May 25 his "National Social Democrat Front," which he hopes to build into an effective party. But the front is only in the spadework stage.

Thieu also is dubious about Nixon's proposal that an "international body" supervise the elections he called for. The proposal requires more precision before the Thieu government can buy it, aides said.

★ ★ ★

While foot-dragging by Thieu on elections may develop at Midway, he is pictured as fully aware of the pressures on Nixon to sustain movement on a Vietnam peace program.

Without being specific, sources close to Thieu said: "We are prepared to be flexible. We have a number of formulas for this which so far have not been talked about."

Minibike Headache Relieved

By JACK STROUD

Excedrin headache No. 7001, minibikes in state parks, has been relieved if not cured.

STROUD

The din and dust has been dampened by the state Natural Resources Department Director Robert Dodge who has said they will be barred from nearly all state parks in Michigan.

Aimed at what he termed "preventing helter-skelter hot-rodding in our parks," he went a step further and included dune buggies.

A recent vacation stopover in a park near Baldwin brought the unfamiliar problem clearly in focus. An adult camper with three teen-agers stopped off for an overnight stay, complete with a pair of minibikes.

NOISE ANNOYS

In short order a quiet, pleasant spring afternoon turned into a mini Indy 500 without benefit of a dust-saving paved track. Oldsters quietly meditating in the shade, fishermen grabbing a catnap as well as picnickers eating a peaceful snack, all fell prey. The only thing mini is their size.

The uproar went on as long as light prevailed. Even those who had not planned to go fishing got as far back in the woods as stamina would permit. Everyone blessed the dark. Kind words were even uttered for slow time.

★ ★ ★

Then came the dawn, the teens and the minis. Thank goodness the vacation outlasted the weekend.

★ ★ ★

The new state directive allows for dune buggies in one special area of Silver Lake State Park in Oceana County. Minibikes will not be allowed on some southern game-area trails.

★ ★ ★

Other possibilities are old logging roads and fire lanes in northern state forests. To be safe, take along the Excedrin or whatever you use in times of stress—it's not over yet.

The World Health Organization regards kwashiorkor as the world's most widespread dietary disease. Children who do not get enough protein develop this body-stunting disease.

WAIT REWARDED — Anticipating a final detail, photojournalist Alfred Eisenstaedt focused on this Athens scene . . . and waited. Eventually, the horsedrawn cart came along. He clicked the shutter and the picture was made. Helpful ideas about taking pictures are described in Eisenstaedt's new book, "The Eye of Eisenstaedt."

Camera Angles

Philosophy Unchanged

BY IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Photography has undergone epochal changes in equipment, technology and materials in the 40 years since Alfred Eisenstaedt, venerable photojournalist, started his photo-reportage career in Germany.

Compare the handling of a modern reflex camera with high-speed film and automatic exposure control with the procedure Eisenstaedt employed then.

A typical assignment is described in his new book, "The Eye of Eisenstaedt" as told to Arthur Goldsmith (Viking Press, N.Y., $6.95).

Subject: a general attending a ball. Though the illumination was considered good, a tripod was a necessity for time exposures for the new "in" technique: available light photography.

PIONEER

Eisenstaedt was one of the pioneers in this first step toward modern photojournalism.

"You approach the general, seated at a table with camera and tripod," he recalls. "You ask permission, get it, set up the equipment.

"First, you must focus through the ground-glass back, using a small pocket magnifier. Then put in the metal plate holder with its glass plate — a supply of which has been assembled in advance and remove the slide.

* * *

"Next, watching very closely, you call: 'Look this way, general!' You must be careful not to catch him while he is moving. Replace the slide; remove the plate holder. You have ONE picture. Want another? Repeat the whole procedure. Needless to say, we didn't overshoot in those days."

PHILOSOPHY REMAINS

What hasn't changed, however, is the philosophy of getting meaningful pictures, the idea of searching for the right kind of light, action or expression to convey story-telling mood, atmosphere or emtion.

Eisenstaedt, spelling out his thoughts on this aspect of photography, charts a helpful course for camera fans. Here are some observations:

A photographer can develop a feeling for light. It's much more than the basic energy that produces an image on film . . . it's often what makes the picture and gives it impact.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Tension May Be a Factor in This Disease

BRANDSTADT

Raynaud's disease is characterized by a temporary blanching of the fingers of both hands followed by a bluish tinge, then, with a return of the circulation, redness.

Because a primary and secondary type of this disease are recognized, it is important that a doctor determine which type a victim has.

* * *

Primary Raynaud's disease occurs more frequently in women than in men.

The onset may occur at any age but is usually in the 20s or 30s.

SPASMS IN ARTERIES

The disease is caused by spasms in the smaller arteries of the fingers, followed by dilation.

The underlying cause is not known but nervous tension may be a contributing factor.

* * *

There is no direct evidence that smoking is a cause but excessive smoking is often a sign of extreme tension and, since nicotine does cause constriction of the arteries, the victim should give up smoking.

Exposure of the hands or the whole body to cold will usually precipitate an attack.

The primary type usually responds well to treatment and the victim may outgrow the disease in her late 30s or early 40s.

Several new drugs that dilate the arteries have been used but a nitroglycerin tablet (1/200 grain or 0.3 milligram) placed under the tongue is still the best.

* * *

It is advisable to use one of these tablets 10 minutes before going outside in cold weather.

The most important part of the treatment, however, is avoidance of undue tension and protection of the hands.

DRESS WARMLY

Before going outside in winter, put on an overcoat, scarf, hat, ear muffs and gloves.

If you must use your car, start the motor, turn on the heater, open the garage door, then go indoors until the engine is warm before driving off.

Always wear gloves to remove anything from the refrigerator.

Massage your hands three or four times a day with Polysorb Hydrate Lotion, especially just before retiring at night.

Raynaud's disease that is secondary to scleroderma, multiple myeloma or lupus erythematosus is more serious and may lead to gangrene.

In victims of this type, the treatment is aimed at the underlying disease.

Drunkenness in Eskimo Village Is Staggering

By TOM TIEDE

PILOT STATION, Alaska (NEA) — The natives of this dinky Eskimo village say there are only three things to do here: work, sleep or get drunk.

Some of the people concentrate on the first two. But the majority, it seems, are particularly accomplished at the third.

★ ★ ★

Drink is a major scandal at Pilot Station. There are only 308 residents — mostly children at that — in the entire settlement, but the place is notoriously known as "Boozeburg" up and down the Yukon River.

Unfortunately, the nickname fits perfectly. Hardly an evening, (or an afternoon) passes without boisterous belligerence from a dozen or more drunks. Inside houses, outside houses, anywhere at all.

THEY'RE SOUSED

They are not just feeling gay, either. They are soused. Eyewitnesses have seen individuals finish full quarts in an hour. Then they stagger about — often injuring either themselves or others.

Last year one drunk walked off into the snows vowing to commit suicide. He took along a 30.06 rifle. Fortunately, his aim was as steady as his mind. He succeeded only in blowing his arm off at the shoulder.

★ ★ ★

Another time, the parents of an infant child began a drunken argument in the middle of the morning. The child wakened and began to poke around. Not seeing him, the father fell on the baby and broke the tyke's arm.

The examples of alcoholic abuse are endless. According to regular village visitors, such conditions seem to be getting worse.

ANOTHER WORLD

"This place is collapsing," says a charter pilot who brings the mail here. "Half the people are drunk all of the time and all of the people are drunk half of the time. Landing here is like coming to another world — everybody with red noses and hiccupping."

The pilot's remarks, though exaggerated, are not malicious. He says he likes the people here and even admires some of them. But he says it's a simple fact, "This is the drunkenest village in Alaska."

★ ★ ★

That statement, certainly, takes in a lot of territory — and if Alaska's social researchers are correct, a lot of drunken villages, too.

Studies indicate "problem drinking" thrives among natives everywhere. Nobody has any idea how many are seriously hooked to the bottle, but state police guess more than half of all Eskimo arrests are due to liquor.

NO CONCLUSIONS

As yet, researchers have come to no startling conclusions as to why the problem is so prevalent among the natives. They mention frustration, poverty, the need to forget troubles, etc.

Better reasons are given by the drinkers themselves.

"There's nothing to do here," says a slightly sobered resident of Pilot Station. "I got a lot of time, but there ain't a damn thing to do with it."

His point is well made. Most of the year, Pilot Station is frozen into paralysis. In the summer, there is some fishing on the Yukon; in the winter there is a bit of trapping and hunting. But other than that — it's deadly dull.

AND NO TV

There are only a half-dozen regular jobs in the village. The nearest town is $65 (by air) away. Television and radio are nonexistent.

Thus, villagers turn to the bottle for excitement.

★ ★ ★

Besides, the natives see nothing wrong with drinking. They feel it a social necessity—in lieu of taverns or nightclubs. In some cases, individuals are actually pressured into heavy indulgence.

There is no lack of the booze itself. Bootleg whisky is routinely flown in with the mail. And for those who can't afford that, there is always home brew; the latter is poisonous, maybe, but potent.

In many areas of Alaska today the combination of strong spirits and weak tolerance has led to stiff crackdowns on abusive drinking. Some villages have passed laws against "public drunkenness"; still others have gone even further to forbid the taking of any kind of alcohol at any time.

Pilot Station, however, trails the more progressive areas by a few centuries. There is a regulation against public intoxication here, but it is overlooked by village officials — some of whom are violators themselves.

And so the village stain remains. Tonight there is some rowdiness. Tomorrow night there may be a brawl. Two old men are scuffling outside the Catholic church. Parents are quarreling, children hiding. The town, as usual, is drunk.

Nixon's Arrival Triggers Howls from 2 Babies

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Not everyone was happy when President Nixon arrived here Tuesday evening for a commencement address at the Air Force Academy today.

Two babies started crying as the President and his wife, Pat, approached while shaking hands along a restraining rope at the airport.

★ ★ ★

"He won't hurt you," said Mrs. Dean Richardson, mother of one of them, 14-months-old David.

"You tell him later what happened," said Nixon. Mrs. Richardson, whose husband is stationed at nearby Ft. Carson, assured a reporter indeed she would.

Farm Plans Furrowing Brows

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin parries many questions about Nixon administration farm plans with a refrain such as:

"We're considering numerous alternatives and hope to reach some kind of consensus later on this year."

★ ★ ★

Hardin believes he has time. Existing farm programs do not expire until the end of 1970.

But impatience is growing in some quarters. And there are rumbles that Congress may take the lead and begin hearings on a farm program for the 1970s long before the administration is ready to move.

HE'LL BE AVAILABLE

If so, Hardin shrugs, he will be available to the congressional committees.

★ ★ ★

In the meantime, he is committed to a thorough study and review of all possible avenues. Massive land retirement? Possibly, Hardin says. But there are many problems to consider . . .

★ ★ ★

The administration says it senses considerable dissatisfaction among leading farm organizations and congressional power centers over the inability of federal programs the past 36 years to solve the problems.

★ ★ ★

Therefore, the Nixon farm team says, some middle route must be found through which huge surpluses can be avoided and farm income boosted if possible.

PROPOSALS UNKNOWN

What specific proposals ultimately will be unveiled are not clear at this point. But there is a growing expression of doubt among Nixon farm officials that the nation can forever be wedded to what some consider highly restrictive and expensive farm subsidy and production control programs.

★ ★ ★

This doubt is not new nor has it been confined to the Nixon administration. It was summed up last week in Kansas City by Assistant Secretary Clarence D. Palmby at a meeting of the American Feed Manufacturers Association.

★ ★ ★

"It is time," Palmby said, "to deliver farm policy out of the gross partisanship and ideology that have made it so difficult in the past to view farm problems realistically. And I believe we have a rare opportunity to realign the farm programs in the years immediately ahead."

★ ★ ★

Palmby mentioned inflation, lagging exports, a continuing surplus problem and the price support structure as examples of farm obstacles.

NO LONGER VALID

"The price-support program no longer benefits low-income farmers to any decisive extent," Palmby said.

Also, he said, the price support structure has impaired the marketing system.

★ ★ ★

"Whenever price supports are unrealistically high, they tend for some commodities to discourage utilization," Palmby said. "This has happened, at times, in the past."

The balance of supply with effective demand is the crux of most farm problems. This elusive balance and the role of government programs also has been debated long before Palmby make his talk.

Here are the words of some past secretaries of agriculture:

● Orville L. Freeman, Nov. 18, 1967, speaking of farm bargaining power: "We've gone about as far as we can under existing programs. Further progress toward parity of income for farmers will depend primarily on what they can do for themselves through group action—on their ability to maintain supply-demand balance—and on their ability to show some economic muscle at the bargaining table."

● Ezra Taft Benson, Feb. 6, 1958: "We in the department want to help, but we all know that government cannot assume and solve all our farm problems. Farms have to be run, decisions have to be made, and responsibilities have to be born, by the families on the farm."

★ ★ ★

● Henry A. Wallace, Dec. 15, 1933: "What we need is not less science in production, but more science in distribution, and this means distribution of wealth as well as of the physical products."

Mate Innocent in Death Case

A Pontiac woman has been acquitted of second-degree murder in the knife slaying of her husband last December.

An Oakland County Circuit Court jury returned the innocent verdict for Mrs. Mary Thomas, 49, late Monday.

★ ★ ★

Her attorney, Christopher Brown, had argued that Mrs. Thomas had killed her husband Gus, 53, in self-defense during an argument in their home at 543 California on Dec. 12.

Mrs. Thomas told police at the time that her husband had attacked her and, during the fight, she had grabbed the knife.

Thomas was stabbed twice, in the arm and near his collarbone.

SUSPECT PLANT — Detectives Fred Pender (left) and Harry Jones and Undersheriff Leo Hazen of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department examine some of the alleged drugs, including plants believed to be marijuana, confiscated at an Orion Township home last night. Four persons are being held for investigation of possessing illegal drugs and stolen property.

New Guide Out for Tests on Humans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government has quietly put out new guidelines for medical experiments on humans, but an official concedes the chief result may be to "foster a lot of paper garbage."

Despite debate over greater protection for organ-transplant patients, the new guidelines are almost exactly the same as ones published in 1966, a year and a half before the world's first heart transplant.

★ ★ ★

They were mailed last month to institutions sharing some $300 million a year for research involving human beings.

A spokesman for the National Institute of Health said a deliberate effort was made to avoid public announcement.

'RAGING DEBATE'

"As you know there was a raging public debate and we didn't see any need to become more involved in the controversy," an NIH official said.

The guidelines, dated May 1, were sent out just as the debate over heart transplants flared anew with accusations that Dr. Denton A. Cooley had used an artificial heart developed under a federally funded program without permission of the program's director.

★ ★ ★

Cooley implanted the device at Baylor University medical school in a patient who later died. He first said the device was not developed under the federal program, but a university investigation later disclosed that it was.

A university promise to tighten compliance with federal guidelines apparently satisfied the National Heart Institute and no action was taken to cut off federal funds, which is the only penalty provided under the 1966 rules and the new ones.

Poles' Discovery Is Smoked Out

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Polish scientists say they have invented an "essence of smoke" for artificially smoking meat.

The scientists claimed that the essence, if added to fodder, can stimulate the growth of animals and give their meat a built-in smoky tang.

4 Held in Raid on Area Cottage

Four persons were arrested and a large amount of alleged narcotics, drugs and stolen goods siezed in a raid on an Orion Township cottage by four police departments and the County Prosecutor's office last night.

Among the items found at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Meyers, 1397 Beach, were some 30 flower pots suspected of containing growing marijuana, according to authorities.

Arrested by three officers from Oakland County Sheriff's Department, two from the Redford post of the Michigan State Police, two from Troy and one from Birmingham were: Meyers, 24, and his wife, Mary Ellen, 23, and Thomas J. Lumbardo, 24, all of 1397 Beach, and Jerome Shaw, 24, of 209 E. Jackson, Lake Orion.

SPRANG FROM PROBE

The Oakland County assistant prosecutors went along on the raid, which stemmed from investigations by Troy and Birmingham police, Undersheriff Leo Hazen said.

Officers entering the two-story frame cottage on Tommy's Lake at about 8 p.m. reported marijuana was being smoked, according to Hazen.

★ ★ ★

Among items taken as evidence by the sheriff's department was what police say was marijuana in various forms — cut plants, half-ground and fine-ground leaves and sticks — and three water pipes and a couple thousand pills.

The pills, suspected to be LSD and other drugs, are to be analyzed for a positive identification.

FOUR IN JAIL

Hazen said the four are being held in jail for investigation of possession of drugs and stolen property. Warrants for their arrests on those charges will be sought today.

Suspected stolen goods taken from the home include a photo enlarger, camera, tape deck, a television set, a stereo tuner and a microscope.

★ ★ ★

Myers is an Oakland County social worker, his wife a research assistant for the University of Michigan Institute of Human Adjustment and Lumbardo a college student and part-time teacher in the Lake Orion area, according to police.

2 Senators Want Another Just(ice) Like Burger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two ranking senators, enthusiastic about the appointment of Warren E. Burger to be chief justice, say they want a man just like him named to the remaining Supreme Court vacancy.

Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., and Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., voiced the recommendation Tuesday as the Senate Judiciary Committee unanimously approved Burger's nomination.

★ ★ ★

Both Dirksen and Eastland said they hope when President Nixon chooses a successor to Abe Fortas, it will be a man with a background and record similar to that of Burger.

Dirksen said he hopes for a nominee in the law and order image of the chief justice-designate.

REMAINING VACANCY

The remaining court vacancy was created by Fortas' resignation under fire, which led to Senate forecasts that any new nominees would undergo searching examination before confirmation.

In Burger's case, that meant one hour and 45 minutes before the Judiciary Committee, followed by immediate approval.

★ ★ ★

"I think it was as searching as it had to be," said Dirksen, senior Republican on the committee.

He said Burger's 13-year record as a federal appeals court judge supplied all the record needed. "You don't have to probe very deeply," he said.

Eastland agreed.

ADVANCE INVESTIGATED

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, who had said extensive investigation of appointees was likely after the Fortas affair, found the committee hearing adequate. He said advance investigation of nominees is the important thing.

"It's what they looked into before he was called to testify," Mansfield said in an interview.

★ ★ ★

Eastland said he had done some advance checking of his own. He said there was no inquiry by the Judiciary Committee staff . . . .

"I've known the man for 15 years," he said. "He's a very able judge."

CHECK BY FBI

There was a standard, advance check by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Under committee procedures, only Eastland saw the report on that inquiry.

★ ★ ★

Dirksen said President Nixon told him to send Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell the names of any men he wants considered for the Fortas vacancy.

★ ★ ★

The GOP leader said initial screening of potential nominees for the spot will be at the Justice Department.

The Judiciary Committee will advise the Senate formally Thursday that it has approved Burger's appointment, and the nomination may be confirmed by the Senate next Monday.

★ ★ ★

Mansfield said he knows of no opposition to Burger. But he said that would provide time in case anyone does want to raise an objection.

★ ★ ★

"I don't think we ought to rush it too much," he said.

Burger is to succeed retiring Chief Justice Earl Warren at the end of the current court term later this month.

Youth Given 15-40 Years in Rape Case

A Pontiac Central high school senior convicted last month of raping a 23-year-old woman in her home in November was sentenced yesterday to 15 to 40 years in the state prison at Jackson.

Oakland County Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem imposed the sentence on J. C. Lewis Jr., 19, of 220 Judson.

★ ★ ★

Ziem had found Lewis guilty of rape and gross indecency following a nonjury trial on May 2. For the gross indecency offense Lewis was sentenced to four to five years. The terms are to run concurrently.

★ ★ ★

The woman was terrorized for four hours after Lewis entered her home in the southeast section of the city through an unlocked bedroom window, according to police.

★ ★ ★

The victim was hospitalized for a week following the Nov. 25 incident. She told police that she was struck in the head with a night stick that Lewis carried.

Lewis has been in the Oakland County Jail since his arrest Dec. 11.

$50,000 County Hospital Survey Receives Impetus

A $50,000 survey to determine whether Oakland County should remain in the hospital business received impetus yesterday at a special joint meeting of the board of supervisors human resources committee and the county board of institutions.

Members agreed to have specifications for such a survey prepared, and to seek funding help from the 16 private hospitals located in the county.

* * *

Action followed a long discussion of past and pending surveys which have bearing on the health field, and the comprehensive health study now being undertaken by the Southeastern Council of Governments (SEMCOG) came in for some criticism.

Dr. Bernard Berman, Oakland County health director, said the areawide study would throw no light on Oakland County hospital needs, but that it probably would prevent the county from sharing in federal money to fund its own survey. SEMCOG reportedly has all the federal funds available to this area for health planning tied up in its own study.

'RICH IN WORDS'

County Planner, George Skrubb, tagged the areawide study as one likely to be "rich in words." He implied that it would serve little real benefit.

Human Resources Committee Chairman Robert Patnales, R-Royal Oak, agreed. "The SEMCOG survey has drawbacks. It can retard needed growth in this county."

* *

"What we need is a qualified outside source to come into Oakland County, using the resource material at hand, and tell us just what the needs are. Maybe we should be out of the hospital business," said Mrs. Hope Lewis of the board of institutions.

The county's present hospital facility, housing both tubercular and chronic care patients, could be ruled obsolete by state standards within the next five years, according to Hospital Director Tony Wodek.

REDUCTION CONSIDERED

Officials also noted that the State Department of Social Services is currently considering a 50 per cent reduction in its reimbursement rate to the hospital for medicare and medicaid patients treated there.

* * *

Berman has in the past spoken of the need for treatment facilities for alcoholic, drug abuse, mental health and hard-to-care-for cases.

Whether they should be a county responsibility or one for private hospitals to consider was debated.

Supervisor Harry Horton, R-Royal Oak, siad, "I think we should stay as far out of the hospital business as we possibly can, with the exception of caring for the elderly indigent people who have no place else to go."

Police Just After the Bare Facts

CRUITIBA, Brazil (UPI) — Police picked up five nude men walking along a main highway. The men said they had been picked up earlier by other police and questioned about a robbery.

When they failed to confess, they said, the police dropped them along the highway without their clothes.

Monarchists Rebel in Spain

Battling France Over Expulsion of 'King'

MADRID (UPI) — Across the road at the edge of the town, a troop of Civil Guards stood with their triangular black hats glinting in the sunlight and with stubby submachine guns clenched in their hands.

Squared off in front of them were scores of taunting youths wearing the scarlet berets of Spain's fanatically monarchist Carlists. The young men shouted insults at the olive-clad guards, against chief of state Francisco Franco and against his government. Some carried placards with abusive slogans.

* * *

The guards moved into action, cracking one of the demonstrators over the head as the others ran, then marched into town to end the Carlist occupation of Estella in the northern province of Navarre.

For three hours, thousands of Carlists had held the town in one of the ugliest and biggest demonstrations to date against the Franco regime.

PART OF REGIME

Yet the Carlists are part of the regime. They supplied Franco with some of his best troops in the civil war.

* * *

But late last year the government expelled the man the Carlists call king — the French-born Prince Javier of Bourbon Parme — and his son, Prince Carlos Hugo, the husband of Princess Irene of Holland.

* * *

Javier is an indirect descendant of the Prince Carlos who gave his name to the movement. The prince's attempt to usurp the throne from the Bourbon family represented by his sister-in-law in the last century led to two civil wars in which the Carlists fought fierce guerrilla campaigns to overthrow liberalism in Spain and bring back the Inquisition.

* * *

There has been talk that Franco will put Prince Juan Carlos, a direct descendant of the Bourbon line the Carlists fought so bitterly in the past, on Spain's vacant throne.

'TO MAKE WAY'

The Carlists believe that Javier, his wife, son and two daughters were expelled to make way for the rival prince.

* * *

The government said it kicked out the family because it allegedly had been engaging in political activity. Carlos Hugo had made speeches in which he attacked the government and Juan Carlos.

Ambush Constantly on Mind of GIs on Viet Supply Convoys

TAY NIN, Vietnam (UPI) — "What gets me is that the people along the route know damn well when there's going to be an ambush, but none of them — young or old — will come out and tell us. I guess they are afraid of the VC . . . but still, we are supposed to be here to help them."

The sentiments were those of Pfc. Jerry W. Moore of Pulaski, Va., a member of a daily resupply convoy from Cu Chi to Tay Ninh, which usually averages about 75 vehicles and 40 miles.

★ ★ ★

"You are always subject to ambushes on these convoys. It might be just harassing sniper fire, or Charlie might really try what you have to worry about the most," Moore said.

According to Moore, the men pull different duties on the convoys each day. One day he might be a driver on the trail unit, which is responsible for repairing any vehicles which break down during the trip, and the next he might be behind the wheel of a 10-ton truck.

MACHINE GUNNER

This day he was the machine gunner in a V100, which is similar to an armored personnel carrier.

The convoy is composed of four or five "march units," which usually consist of 12 to 15 vehicles. It carries food, beer and soda, fuel, ammunition and any other supplies needed at U.S. base camps and fire support base.

★ ★ ★

Moore has good reason to be wary of ambushes as a veteran just as he bent down inside the armored personnel carrier he was riding in to pick something up, a machine gun bullet struck the latch where he was standing.

"I was pretty shaky for awhile after that. I don't always think of it now, but it's always in the back of your mind."

PULLED OUT

The convoy pulled out of Cu Chi at 8:30 a.m., the headlights of its vehicles shining brightly. The diesel engines roared loudly and black smoke poured from the stacks.

For the first leg of the trip the roads were good and they averaged 20 miles per hour.

RICE PADDIES

Once outside Cu Chi, the countryside opened into dried rice paddies and dikes with scattered trees and undergrowth, the kind of terrain experienced for well over the first half of the trip.

★ ★ ★

The trucks moved smoothly over the paved road, and along the way brown-skinned children played in muddy streams. A few of them gestured obscenely, but the majority ran alongside the vehicles waving and flashing the victory sign with their fingers.

Other children led huge water buffalo along the road and into the fields by nothing more than lengths of string through the animal's nose. The buffalo followed the children obediently, sometimes hauling oxcarts filed with vegetables.

★ ★ ★

Time passes rapidly on a convoy, and despite the dust and the danger of attack, most of the men seem to enjoy it.

'I LIKE THE JOB'

"I like the job," said Sgt. Mitchell Etti, 23, of Water Valley, Miss. "The time goes real fast and you get to travel around and see the country. Each day you usually have a different job and a different vehicle."

Taking a drink from his canteen, Etti grinned and wiped a smudge of red dirt on his cheek.

★ ★ ★

"Usually the dust isn't too bad. The vehicles stay far enough apart so it doesn't get back at you. But if the wind is just right it can be real bad."

Pfc. Al Parolini, 22, of Lemoore, Calif., has been on roughly 200 convoys. He was behind the wheel of the V100, showing above the protective armor.

LIKE A JEEP

"It's really similar to driving a jeep," Parolini said. "It handles well, although it gets to be a bit bumpy. When the convoy is hit we try to keep it moving while returning the fire and keep Charlie pinned down.

★ ★ ★

"He's got about five minutes, and then everything in the world comes down on him: artillery, gunships and air strikes, plus everything we are throwing back."

★ ★ ★

Soon the convoy rolled into Trang Bang, one of the largest towns it passed through. It was quiet at midmorning. Children waved from doorways and as the vehicles rounded a muddy corner they passed a tin-roofed casket shop.

★ ★ ★

On the other side of the street were oxcarts unloading a variety of vegetables. Women squatted on the ground arranging them on woven trays and baskets, oblivious to the dust which hung in the air in clouds.

BUMPY ROAD

As they moved out of the town the road became bumpy as the pavement gave way to dusty, unpaved road.

At 11 a.m., the road entered the stumps; there were a few the central district. This city, filed into the food shack for

Top Soviet WW II General Praises Stalin in Memoirs

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Russia's top general of World War II, twice humiliated by the Kremlin, appears now to have lent his prestige to the rehabilitation of Joseph Stalin as an authentic hero of the Soviet Union.

Marshal Georgi Konstantinovich Zhukov is 72, and the retirement forced on him 12 years ago is now permanent. Obviously he has never forgiven Nikita S. Khrushchev for that. But his memoirs published this weekend will serve well what has been a steady effort by the present leaders to repolish Stalin's tarnished image.

★ ★ ★

Zhukov's "Memories and Reflections" is being circulated in the Soviet Union in hundreds of thousands of copies, at a time when the political leadership clearly is trying to brake the de-Stalinization begun by Khrushchev in 1956. Some aspects of revived Stalinism are easily distinguishable in the internal and external policies of the present ruling Politburo as it struggles with problems of dissidence.

Zhukov, despite his mistreatment at the hands of Stalin and later by the Communist party politicians, seems to be proving himself at last a Communist in the true tradition of many before him who put the party and its dictatorial authority above all else. The result of the thick book of memoirs is likely to be to stain the heroic picture of Zhukov in many eyes.

SOVIET EDITION

"Memories and Reflections" is the Soviet edition of the memoirs. Excerpts from the book are being published in the United States now under the title "Marshal Zhukov's Greatest Battles."

The book, produced by Harper & Row, with an introduction and commentary by Harrison E. Salisbury, runs to less than 300 pages and concerns only the battles. The Soviet edition is more than 750 pages. The apparent reglorification of Stalin comes through most clearly in the original.

★ ★ ★

In the battle memoirs, the two main characters are Zhukov and Stalin. Accounts of the engagements are sprinkled with tributes to the Communist party. There is little hint of Zhukov's onetime stubborn opposition, as a professional military man, to interference by party "political commissars" in the command authority of the officers.

Frequently he downgrades the contributions of other general officers. Clearly he had the knife out for Khrushchev, several times contradicting Khrushchev's version of World War II history. As for Stalin, by attributing some errors to him, Zhukov succeeds in making the old dictator appear more human.

SERIALIZED FORM

In sections of the memoirs being published from time to time in serialized form in Czechoslovakia, Zhukov does most to help rehabilitate Stalin. Smena, a Bratislava newspaper which is publishing excerpts, says the memoirs "may play a certain role in a new, and in this case considerably more positive, assessment of Stalin, especially since they are being backed by the name and authority of the outstanding Soviet military leader of World War II."

Smena says Zhukov "corrects our impression of Stalin, both as the leading figure of the Soviet Union and as commander in World War II; he does this by stressing the importance of Stalin's personality and his positive role, and by rejecting many charges leveled against Stalin."

★ ★ ★

Zhukov extols Stalin as "a worthy commander-in-chief." He is called a man who "won over the people he was talking to by the uncomplicted manner in which he communicated; the free manner in which he conversed, his aptitude for clearly formulating ideas, his naturally analytical mind, great erudition and exceptional memory."

There is a great deal in this vein to paint Stalin, as Zhukov puts it, as "an all-around and talented person" whose "worth was in his correct acceptance of advice given by our outstanding military experts."

LED TO DISASTERS

That contradicted Zhukov himself. In his account of the battle for Moscow early in the war, it is clear Stalin's arbitrary decisions, forced on the commanders, led to disasters. Zhukov noted then that "events demonstrated the error of Stalin's decision" calling for a general offensive in January 1942.

Yet in the same chapter of the U.S. edition, Zhukov says Stalin "was very attentive to advice," though he sometimes took "decisions not in accordance with the situaton."

Blast Shatters Mao Showcase

NAIROBI (AP) — Four blasts blew a huge hole in a wall at the Chinese Embassy here Tuesday. No one was hurt, but a showcase with pictures of Chairman Mao Tse-tung and his book of thought was shattered.

It was the third explosion at the embassy in Kenya in less than two years.

Project Encourages Student Bilingualism

St. AGATHA, Maine (AP) — A new project to capitalize on the French-speaking background of students in the "French belt" of northern Maine's St. John River Valley is being undertaken at Wisdom High School here.

★ ★ ★

With 85 to 90 per cent of the 400 students from French-speaking homes, for the first time they are being encouraged to converse in that language instead of being scolded when caught speaking French.

The federally funded Program for the Advancement of Creative Education seeks to turn out bilingual students who are at home in two tongues and cultures.

At a workshop held at the school, teachers agreed that bilingual students, if trained properly, will perform better on standardized achievement and intelligence tests than those familiar with only one language.

★ ★ ★

The teachers also contended that favorable attitudes must be developed toward both French and English.

★ ★ ★

Some students, because they were forced to learn English, have developed either hostility toward that language or feelings of inadequacy toward their native tongue, the teachers noted.

Professor Helps Students to Think Clearly About Violence

By PETER J. GOLDSTONE, Ph. D.
Written for NEA

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Dr. Goldstone, 30, isan assistant professor of philsosphy at the University of Maryland. One of the courses he teaches is called "The Philosophy of Violence," which he discusses below.)

COLLEGE PARK, MD. — When I first proposed a course on "The Philosophy of Violence," faculty committee eyebrows went up and thumbs went down.

It seemed my intentions were suspect. My colleagues feared that I planned (1) to circulate instructions on how to make Molotov cocktails or (2) to incite guerrilla warfare. I planned neither. Actually, ROTC classes and radical publications are much better at that sort of thing.

I wanted, rather, to help my students think clearly about violence: its causes and effects, what is being said about it and, finally, what is violence.

With my colleagues' anxieties relieved, the course was sanctioned.

VALID QUESTION

Now 15 undergraduates take the course for credit and several former students also take part.

But the question remains valid: Why a course on violence?

* * *

The answer is twofold. First, there is the academic approach. Violence, whether depicted in assassinations or riots or Vietnam or student militancy or police brutality or crime in the streets, is indisputably an important problem in our society.

Therefore, our schools have an obligation to consider this social and political dilemma, just as schools must seek to understand other problems of life.

PERSONAL ASPECT

Second, there is the personal aspect. Most of my students — as well as myself—are bothered by the question: "Should I be out there in the streets, too?" Others want to know whether there is justification for being drafted to fight in Vietnam.

These questions are sticky and must, of course, be solved individually.

The students are concerned with what, actually, is violence. To answer, it must first be determined who is committing what kind of action against whom.

It is often said that institutions in our society, from corporations to government agencies, impose a quiet violence against underprivileged minorities.

OBVIOUS REACTION

Spelled out, this is the assertion that economic exploitation, dehumanizing and irrelevant education, and unequal opportunity either are or should be regarded as violence.

An obvious reaction is that this is mere calptrap, that everyone knows the difference between knocking a man down and keeping him down.

The first, it is said, is violence. The second, though admittedly unjust, is not violence.

But an counterargument is that economic exploitation misguided education and so forth should be regarded as violence. Breaking a man's spirit incapacitates him as fully as breaking his arm.

John Locke, whose ideas Thomas Jefferson relied upon to draft the Declaration of Independence, said that it is wrong to commit violence because it prevents a man from his inalienable rights to live his life as he sees it, as long as he harms no one.

Locke went on to say that a man who commits violence sets himself against reason. And reason is what distinguishes man from anything else in nature.

* * *

When a man commits violence he gives up his humanity. He becomes, then, an animal.

It is why Americans are so appalled at the upheavals in the schools. Yet they do not often consider the catalyst for physical violence, which is the subtle one imposed by the institutions themselves.

Issues of this kind are discussed in class. No student has yet constructed a Molotov cocktail (at least to my knowledge). But many, hopefully, are constructing balanced views on violence in today's society.

Circus at Mall --in Miniature

The Cole Brothers Circus — in miniature — will be displayed at the Pontiac Mall beginning tomorrow and continuing through next week.

The hand-carved and painted wooden replica of an old-fashioned circus is the work of Gene LeRoy, who began the project about 25 years ago. The show is built to scale complete with a circus train and parade.

There are over 60,000 separate pieces of equipment, animals, wagons and figures in the display.

LeRoy named his creation after the original Cole Brothers Circus. He and his brother Charles traveled with the original circus as a clown team.

CLYDE BEATTY

One of the feature attractions of the Cole Brothers Circus was Clyde Beatty, who became a world-famous lion tamer.

LeRoy has recreated every intriguing facet of the circus during the time it was a flourishing form of entertainment.

There is the midway, with it's side shows, ticket wagons and "greese joints" — hot dog and hamburger stands; the menagerie and the "big top" three ring circus including animated acts of every description.

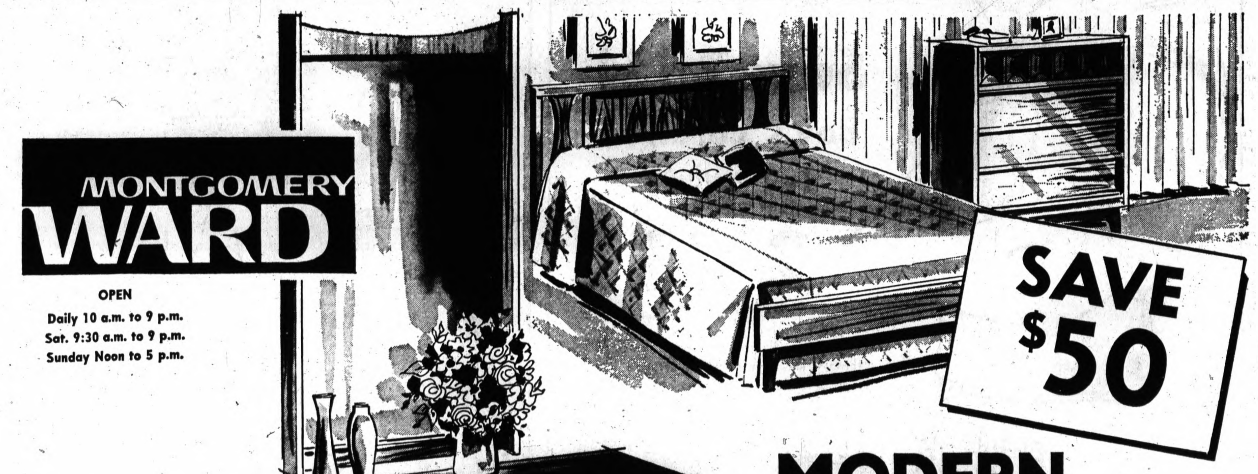

Gaming Revenue Down in Nevada

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — State revenue from gambling was down more than $2 million for the first three months of this year.

The drop "was caused primarily by the most severe winter in years blocking main routes into Nevada," Chairman Edward Bowers of the Nevada Gaming Commission said Tuesday.

College Rebel-Author Deplores Violence, Finds It Necessary

By JOY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — The Boston accent, the soft cultured voice, the articulate discourse, are in strange contrast to the faded blue jeans, the old gray shirt with its National Park Department insignia, the young face framed in sideburns and a mass of untamed crimped-wire hair.

But then the entire character of James Simon Kunen, Columbia University student who participated in last spring's campus uprisings, was jailed and at 19 wrote a book about his experiences, is a paradox.

★ ★ ★

Born in Boston, son of a lawyer and educated at private boys' schools and Phillips Academy Andover, he finds his own affluence "absurd" in the face of poverty he sees all around him.

The political science junior, author of the recently published "The Strawberry Statement: Notes of a College Revolutionary" (Random House), deplores violence while insisting that it is sometimes necessary.

'IMPRACTICAL'

"I'm not only morally against violence," he declares, "but I also think it's relatively impractical.

"But if you want to talk about violence," he offers, his eyes intense behind round steel-rimmed glasses, "look at the expansion program at Columbia — tossing people out of their homes, pitching furniture out into the street, destroying an integrated community. Theirs was violence and ours was counterviolence."

★ ★ ★

Looking back on the events of April 1968 Kunen, now 20, says, "There came a time at Columbia where everything came to a head and you had to choose whether to sit back or take a side.

"I took a side and have been involved ever since because Columbia is so massively implicated in the things we hate the most — military research, the war, racism."

SUPPORTS SDS

Though not a member of Students for a Democratic Society mostly, he says, a matter of not having time, he supports the organization's principles.

"People call us anarchists." His eyes flash angrily. "If anarchy is a total lack of rational order, there's anarchy all around us.

★ ★ ★

"In any society there is a ruling class that controls things and doesn't want changes. It's only with violence or the threat of violence that things begin to happen."

Kunen admits that his parents aren't in sympathy with his views. "They're liberals," he explains.

"The great gulf is between liberals and radicals rather than between radicals and conservatives. The liberal is totally committed to rational discussion, words. Radicals are losing faith in words and turning to action."

An avowed radical, Kunen nevertheless has turned to words, though "The Book" as he calls it, was more or less thrust upon him.

A friend on the Harvard Crimson asked him to write an article about the Columbia protests and he did, in diary form. New York Magazine bought it and suggested that he continue to keep a diary, which eventually became "The Book."

"I'm not a big violence freako, but I'm for a very, very radical change in the social structure of the United States," he says, ticking off on his fingers some of his demands.

EDUCATION CHANGES

"We need an educational system that doesn't steer the non-white or poor to a lower track that leads not to an academic diploma, but a general diploma, a worthless scrap of paper that won't get you in college or anything else.

"We must channel our production away from mouthwashes and antiperspirants into clothing and housing. We must have total reallocation of the wealth of the country."

★ ★ ★

Admitting that he has no detailed plan for achieving such reforms, he adds, "I would keep a sufficient threat of violence so people on top would get scared enough to act. I want them to throw down crumbs and crumbs and crumbs until we get the whole cake."

Kunen calls the U.S. Army "a horrendous machine that is really hurting the world" and maintains that he has no intention of obeying the draft law.

"I don't do it lightly," he

Young Authors in the Spotlight

Kindergartners through sixth graders at Bethune School have been working for weeks writing stories and poems for the school's Young Author's Conference on Friday.

All of the pupils participating in the conference will submit their contributions in book form, and will read and discuss their manuscripts in small groups during the day.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Thomas Edwards, educational consultant for Science Research Associates, will be the young authors consultant for the day and will speak to the youngsters on writing.

★ ★ ★

"Our belief is that good writers become better readers. This planned activity should also do much for the self-concept of our youngsters, as well as help to prepare them for many of the educational hazards they are to meet in later life," said James Hawkins, principal at Bethune.

Cities Hit Hardest, Says Mrs. Milliken

By JUNE ELERT

The First Lady of Michigan, Mrs. William Milliken, made her first appearance in our immediate area Tuesday, when she appeared as guest speaker at the 13th annual Conservation Conference of the Michigan Division, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association.

Speaking in the crowded drawing room at Haven Hill, Highland Recreation Area, Mrs. Milliken pressed the need for measures to improve "The Quality of Our Environment."

★ ★ ★

Touching on the ravages of air and water pollution, as well as other forms of decay, Mrs. Milliken said, "Worst of all is in our cities, where whole neighborhoods have been allowed to decline to the point of being uninhabitable."

Mrs. Milliken called upon each of us to strive to "develop a sensitive awareness of the fragility of our natural environment."

CLEAR SLUMS

Our first obligation, she said, "is to make our 'prison' cities livable for this generation as well as for those to follow. The shame of our ghettos should receive our first priority. Slums must be cleared away. They must be replaced by good, attractive, varied housing for the poor."

During her speech, she announced that the Governor will be calling a series of conferences on this subject in the near future.

Theme of the conference was environmental education.

Also during the morning session, a 25-minute film, "We're On Our Way," depicting community conservation in action, was shown. Produced by the Jam Handy Organization in Michigan for the WNFGA who donated it to the State Department of Natural Resources, it is to be added to the catalog of available educational materials for showing before school and club groups.

Other speakers were Merrill Petoskey of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources; Dr. William B. Stapp of the University of Michigan and James Swan, conservation consultant for the Ann Arbor Public Schools.

★ ★ ★

The conference was opened by Mrs. J. Phillip Wernette of Ann Arbor, president of the Michigan Division, and closed by Mrs. W. Arthur Cox of Milford, conservation and conference chairman.

Area Woman's Civic Work Merits Award

By SHIRELY GRAY

Mrs. Maurice Barnett of Bloomfield Hills is back in town, after three trips since New Year's to the couple's favorite spot, Mountain Shadows in Scottsdale, Ariz. The trips were getting to be so frequent that Marianne confesses she was beginning to feel like a commuter.

Marianne has gained a distinction few of us can boast of — a life membership in the Birmingham-Bloomfield Chamber of Commerce, a small enough reward for her hard work on so many community projects.

★ ★ ★

The C. Allen Harlans of Bloomfield Hills have out-of-town guests this week — Harlan's brother, Porter, and his wife, plus Mrs. Peter Saunders and Mrs. A. A. Pettie, all of Nashville, Tenn.

Over the weekend, the Harlans combined the Memorial day observance with a birthday party at home for "Father Harlan."

★ ★ ★

The whole gang was there — son John and daughter-in-law Beth of Bloomfield Hills, daughter Joyce and her husband, John Scott, son James and his wife Susan, of Birmingham, and son Scott, home from Ann Arbor.

★ ★ ★

Also there were the Louis Redstones of Detroit, old family friends, and Floyd Bunt of the Cranbrook School faculty, with his wife and their son, Terry. The Bunts are the parents-in-law of James Harlan.

BRIDGE PLAYERS

The ladies of Gamma Phi Beta, after a few months of some hard bridge-playing, will relax and pass out prizes at their annual bridge tournament luncheon Thursday at Bloomfield Open Hunt.

Mrs. Derwood Allen of Birmingham and Mrs. Donald Mitchell of Southfield make up the second place duo.

Two Birminghamites, Mrs. John Washburne and Mrs. Russell Power, took third.

After cocktails and lunch, the gals will while away the afternoon with some non-competitive bridge.

Food Budget Is in Red With Dad's Eating Habits

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I don't know how many wives get bawled out every week for spending too much money on groceries, but I am one of them.

I spend about $40 a week on groceries. Is that a lot? There are four of us. My husband, two children ages 4 and 5, and myself. My husband takes home about $150 a week, and we are only $300 in debt.

Now, here is why I have to spend so much for groceries. My husband has to have meat, potatoes, and gravy every night of the week. He won't eat leftovers, and he doesn't like casseroles. The only vegetable he'll eat is corn. He has to have REAL butter on everything. He demands a milkshake with EVERY meal! This means he consumes nearly two gallons of ice cream all by himself every week.

★ ★ ★

He insists on cake or pie and candy and cookies in every lunch, in addition to two sandwiches. In case you think he's a big man, he's not. He's 5 ft. 9 inches and weighs 160 pounds. Don't tell me to tell him to do the marketing. He won't go inside a store. He says that's MY job.

What would you do, if you were me?

PENNY PINCHER

DEAR PENNY PINCHER: Tune him out when he complains. Then invite a sharp life insurance agent over to sell your man a policy that will provide handsomely for you and the children after he has eaten himself into the grave. From what you say, it won't be long now.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: How can I possibly tell my pastor to please develop a firmer handshake? He is a wonderful man, but when he shakes your hand you feel as though you have been holding an old dishrag.

ANNIE

Joan Fontaine, noted actress, will replace Birmingham Town Hall's first speaker, Bess Myerson on Oct. 17 and 18 in the Birmingham Theater. Besides being a successful actress, Miss Fontaine is an ardent traveler, golfer, and fisherman. Season tickets are available at the Town Hall office. There is an earlier starting time this season at 10:30 a.m.

DEAR ANNNIE: It may not be necessary to TELL him if you show him. Next time YOU give HIS hand a good firm grip. Many men are reluctant to give a lady as firm a handshake as they'd give a man. (It's a mistake. I don't recommend a bone-crusher, but a firm handshake is the only meaningful kind.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are presently house-hunting in a fashionable suburb in Connecticut. Friends who have lived there have told us that there's a real swinging crowd of socialites living there.

They said that one of their neighbors used to throw wild parties and one of their favorite games was the "key" party. All the women would toss their housekeys into a hat, and a man would pick out a key and go home and spend the night with the lady whose key he got. Can this be true?

HOUSE HUNTING

DEAR HUNTING: I doubt it. A real swinger wouldn't take a chance on getting his own wife.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Today I laid my little 4-month-old baby down on the front seat of our car, and in a matter of seconds his little head was badly burned.

★ ★ ★

You see, the new cars all come with seat belts, which I am not used to. The car had been parked in the sun for a few hours and the metal clasps on the seat belt got red hot.

Abby, please warn other mothers of this hazard. I wish someone had warned me.

HEAVY-HEARTED

★ ★ ★

EARA ABBY: A very good friend of mine has asked me if she could ask my boyfriend to escort her to a debutante ball. She is being "presented." She can not take her own boyfriend as he has long hair, and that is not permitted.

I am sure she has no personal interest in my boyfriend. In fact she has never met him, but she has heard much about him and knows that he is presentable. What is your advice?

QUESTION MARK

DEAR QUESTION: Since when is a boyfriend "transferable" — like a ticket to a matinee? Assuming you say, "Go ahead, ask him," what makes her (or you) so sure he'd accept? After all, they don't know each other. It seems to me that a girl who is about to be "presented" should know at least one young man whose hair is the right length to escort her.

Why not leave it up to your short-haired boyfriend? Maybe he's long on brains.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: This is for the mother who complained about her daughter putting a picture of her father in the laundry room on top of the water tank:

I have a framed photograph of my husband in his army uniform on the shelf in my laundry room. It seems I spend more time there than anywhere else as we have four small children — two years old, a year old, and twins who are two months old.

My husband was killed recently in Vietnam and during the day when I am snowed under doing diapers I like to look at his picture and remember the love that created these tiny wonders of ours.

Sincerely, CHRISTINE

Winner Tells Little Secrets for Birthdays

By Elizabeth L. Post
Of The Emily Post Institute

This excellent letter, which has been chosen as the prize-winning one for this week, contains many helpful ideas and an intelligent attitude about birthday presents for the very young.

Dear Mrs. Post: Children under school age may be celebrating any birthday from the first to the fifth. A four-year-old is twice the age of a two-year-old and quite a different character. A party for two-year-olds is going to have some squabbles if there are gifts, and it's a good idea to be firm about "no presents" when you are arranging sociability for that age.

As for three, four, and five-year-olds (who are not toddlers unless physically handicapped, though the manufacturers of children's clothes and dimple-kneed dolls like to think so) they love to give and receive presents but will give with more pleasure if it's something they already have and like themselves.

Up-staged brothers or sisters of the birthday child may cause unpleasantness, and it's worth a little thought to find a present just right for the birthday child but unlikely to appeal to the next older or younger—or give a pre-school game which must be played by more than one or not at all.

★ ★ ★

If you know the party is going to be large or of mixed ages or is going to include a hysterical or destructive child or an upstaged sibling, special pains can be taken to choose a tough present or one that is likely to be put away until later.

Presents have been a real pleasure at most of the pre-school parties I have had a chance to observe.—Cecily Hancock

New Contract Ratified by Detroit Symphony

DETROIT (AP) — Members of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra ratified a new contract by a 61-29 vote Tuesday night, ending a strike that began April 30.

The pact calls for raises that will total $30 in three years and bring the top minimum to $235.

It also includes additional vacation benefits which were not part of a contract offer the orchestra members rejected Monday.

★ ★ ★

The symphony announced it will resume its concert series June 12-22, and at Belle Isle Park June 24-29.

The orchestra will also appear July 3-Aug. 24 at the Meadow Brook Music Festival, return to Belle Isle for one week, before taking off a week prior to the opening of the 1969 -70 concert season.

The main benefits call for a $10 a week raise each year of the contract, and guaranteed seasons of 46 weeks per year between now and next May and then 49 weeks in each of the last two years of the contract period.

PAID VACATIONS

This includes paid vacations of two weeks in the first year and three weeks in each of the last two years.

Other aspects of the contract call for an improvement in pensions and in hospital-medical insurance, and more pay for overtime, extra rehearsals, or concerts and touring per diem allowance.

★ ★ ★

A symphony spokesman said the contract represents an added cost of $500,000 over the three years of the contract.

The symphony's total operating expense for last season was $2.17 million. It ended its fiscal year April 30 with a $100,000 deficit.

Robert B. Semple, president of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra Inc., said: "While our costs will be appreciably higher, I feel the budget can be met by the dint of hard work and through the generous support of the trustees and many others who are devoted to the orchestra and recognize the contribution that it makes to the quality of our great city."

Merle Alvey, president of the Detroit Federation of Musicians, said the economic package was far short of expectations, but the musicians would assist in cooperative moneyraising so the orchestra "can continue as a major symphony."

Student Theatre Slates 'Barefoot in the Park'

"Barefoot in the Park," by Neil Simon, will be given four performances by the Student Enterprise Theatre of Oakland University. Dates are June 6, 7, 13 and 14. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. in the Barn Theatre on campus.

The comedy details the dream-versus-reality quality of life for a pair of newlyweds in a fifth floor New York walk-up apartment.

Ticket information may be obtained by calling the University or by writing the Student Enterprise Theatre, Oakland University, Rochester, 48063.

Southern Belle Sounds Note of Fine Music

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The Philadelphia Orchestra played Miss Lily Peter's concert Tuesday night, and she figures it was worth the $60,000 she paid for it.

"It was worth every penny," Miss Lily, as her friends know her, said after the performance in Robinson Auditorium, jammed with 3,000 persons for the event.

"I know a good many adjectives, but none would fulfill this occasion."

★ ★ ★

The orchestra, which is to play tonight to a second sellout, premiered Pulitzer prize-winning Norman Dello Joio's "Homage to Daydn," a three-movement suite commissioned for $8,000 by Miss Lily.

Miss Lily mortgaged 4,000 acres of her plantation in the rich delta plain of eastern Arkansas to commission the work and to bring the orchestra here as part of the observance of Arkansas' 150th anniversary as a territory.

FOR SCHOLARSHIPS

She will receive none of the money from the ticket sales. It is to go for music scholarships at Arkansas State University and the University of Arkansas.

Miss Lily, who admits to being past 70 "but not quite 100 yet," shared the spotlight Tuesday night with works from Wagner, Debussy and Brahms.

At intermission, she received a standing ovation when Mayor Haco Boyd called her to the stage to present her with a bouquet of roses. Lt. Gov. Maurice Britt then told her that Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller had designated Tuesday as "a day to honor Miss Lily."

★ ★ ★

Miss Lily, a sometime poet and photographer and fulltime farmer who sometimes clambers aboard one of her tractors, says she wanted the people of Arkansas to be exposed to good music.

"Miss Peter is a new lady in my life, but very close to my heart already," said Orchestra conductor Eugene Ormandy.

Miss Lily Peter, who mortgaged 4,000 acres of her plantation in Eastern Arkansas to bring the Philadelphia Orchestra to Little Rock, blows kisses to a capacity crowd of 3,000 Tuesday night after being honored at intermission. Miss Lily says the orchestra, a suite she had had written and tickets cost her about $60,000, but that "it was worth every penny."

Mr. and Mrs. Antonio E. Morales of Russell Street announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Ann, to Dario E. Lopez of Scottwood Street. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Palemon O. Lopez of Mexico City, Mexico. The couple will wed Oct. 18.

An Oct. 4 wedding is being planned by Denise Ann Mansfield and Sheldon Thornton. The bride-elect is the daughter of the David A. Mansfields of Whitlow Street, Commerce Township. Her fiance is the son of Mrs. Erwin M. Johnson of Elkins Street, Commerce Township and the late E. S. Thornton.

Area Couples Married in Local Churches

MRS. DAVID J. HUNT

gown, Michele Kay Dimon was escorted to the altar of Orchard Lake Community Church Friday where she married Jack Merle Hancock.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Dimon held a bouquet of white carnations and yellow roses.

Mrs. David Quinn was matron of honor with Bob Rathka as best man and Sean and Michael Dimon as ushers.

* * *

The son of Mrs. Jack Hancock of Reese Road, Independence Township and the late Mr. Hancock, and his bride were feted at her parent's Wyman Drive home.

They are honeymooning in Ohio.

Hunt - Saddler

First Free Methodist Church was the setting Saturday for the wedding of Pamela Kaye Saddler and David John Hunt.

Attended by Judith McCully, the bride wore a lace gown. Her bouquet was made up of daisies and carnations.

A reception feted the newlyweds in the church parlors.

The daughter of the Richard Saddlers of South Anderson Street and the son of the Gordon Hunts of Boyne City will make their home in Charlotte.

SEW SIMPLE
By Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice Farmer,

Ever since you wrote in your column about making a beautiful cotton coat and wearing it as an all-purpose coat, I have been looking at them in our better stores and must admit that I was shocked to find some of them selling for $200 and more.

I automatically think of the words "cotton" and "washing" at the same time. Do people actually wash these cotton coats?

* * *

I want to thank you for keeping us on our toes so that the clothes we make will be in the latest styles that are created for the costume rooms. This has certainly made my sewing more exciting and I feel I am much better dressed than I could ever afford to be if I had to buy all of my clothes ready-made.

Mrs. R. W. E.

Dear Mrs. R. W. E.:

Cotton has become the top fashion fabric today for its versatility as well as its practicability. We must consider the purpose of the cotton garment you are making. If it's for a dress or jacket that will be worn for everyday, then select a cotton that will be easily washed and needs very little pressing.

If you are making a cotton coat or cocktail suit or dress that would have cost hundreds of dollars and you are actually spending close to $10 per yard for this great look, I don't believe you would wash the garment. Treat it as you would any other fine garment and send it to your very best dry cleaners. The coats can be waterproofed for a very nominal fee and will not soil as quickly after being treated.

* * *

Today cotton coats can be worn practically all year round, depending on your own locality, as well as any part of the world. This summer especially, cotton is the most high-fashion fabric that you could use.

When purchasing your fabric you must be prepared to spend almost the amount of money that you would spend if you purchased silk or wool. I have always found that a rule of thumb to follow when purchasing fabric is that if you spend the same amount of money on your fabric that you would spend to buy a moderate-priced garment, you'll end up with a type of garment you would find in your costume room, and what a thrill is in store for you when you learn to work with beautiful quality fabrics.

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Mrs. Harold Sadenwater, Grand Rapids, Mich. is this week's winner of the Tailor Trix pressing board for her following suggestion.

"I have a way of ripping seams (when they have to be changed) that may help others as well. Carefully clip every third or fourth stitch of the area to be ripped by using the sharp point of your clipping scissors. Then turn to the other side and you'll find that you can pull out this thread in one long piece. The short ends of the thread can be easily rubbed out of the material with your fingers or if they are unusualy stubborn, use a pair of tweezers (an item that is great for picking tailor tacking out of seams)."

Dear Eunice Farmer,

The "new look" seems to be shirtwaist dresses and every time I try one on I look and feel like a sack with a rope tied around the middle. I don't think they do anything at all for my figure and yet I want to look fashionable. Any ideas for those of us who don't have a tiny waistline?

Mrs. J. E.

Dear Mrs. J. E.:

You described the figure type perfectly when you mentioned a tiny waistline. Most women simply don't look well in a full-gathered skirt unless their waist is small, as well as the rest of their figure, however there are variations that can be used for the "new look."

* * *

If the dress is made without a waistline seam, be sure it isn't too full through the middle of the dress. You may consider making darts under the bust of the dress ending them at the waistline. This can be done at the back also, and by doing this you will have a smoother look just above your belt and yet have the extra fullness below the waistline, placed in front and back, and not at the sides which always adds width to the figure.

In a pattern with a waistline seam, I have always found a more slenderizing effect is obtained if the bodice is fitted slightly and the fullness in the skirt is modified by using an inverted pleat at the center front and back rather than gathers. If you decide on a blouson bodice, eliminate the fullness in the skirt and use an A-line style instead. In other words, for a slim look use your fullness in the bodice or the skirt but not in both places.

* * *

In "Your Pattern and You," Mrs. Farmer tells you how to fit your pattern for the most flattering effect for your figure. For this booklet, send 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Eunice Farmer in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056.

MRS. DENNIS SMITH

Wed in Detroit

Temple Israel, Detroit, was the setting Sunday evening for vows uniting Judith Sharon Nosanchuk and Dennis Garland Smith.

Attended by Mrs. David Olen, matron of honor, and flower girl Bari Suber, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Nosanchuk of Cherokee Road wore an empire waisted rose point lace gown. Her bouquet was made up of yellow roses and Stephanotis.

* * *

Joseph G. Smith was best man with Ronald Suber as ring bearer.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Smith of Highmoor Road, Bloomfield Township and his bride are honeymooning at Lake Geneva, Wis.

Shower Given for Bride-Elect

Bride-elect Mary Retzlaff was honored recently with a shower of miscellaneous gifts. Hostesses were Marie Rath, Mrs. Terry Bruns and Linda La Marbe. The shower was given in the home of Miss Rath's parents, the Frank Bakers of Gilchrist Court.

Miss Retzlaff is the daughter of the Earl Retzlaff's of Graham Street. Her fiance is Sgt. David Caspers, USAF, stationed at Dover, Del. air force base. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Caspers of Arlington Street.

The wedding will take place July 12 in St. Perpetua Catholic Church.

Butter can lose some of its fine flavor if it's left at room temperature for too long or exposed for too long a time to light. That's why you should remember to keep it in a covered dish in the refrigerator between meals.

New Vacuum Adjusts to Rug

A new upright vacuum, engineered to adjust suction automatically no matter how high or low the carpet nap, works in conjunction with a dial enabling you to set the sweeper to accommodate carpet thickness.

* * *

The manufacturer says the sweeper with its automatic suction monitoring system makes it possible to vacuum the trouble-free way — high shag rugs, sculptured carpet, traditional nap, flat surface outdoor-indoor carpet, and bare floors. Proper settings for the dial are imprinted on the back of the cleaner.

Variety of Styles for Young Men

For young gentlemen, spring '69 is slanted to the 'dandy' look. The Nehru seems to have about run its course, and little boys this spring will be dressed in cotton suits and coats with Edwardian styling — fitted and flared.

The classic Eton suit, with short pants and collarless jacket, is still very stylish for small boys. Favorite fabrics are the washables: cotton knit, cotton duck and spring-weight corduroy.

Student Art to Be Shown at Cranbrook

The Annual Student Summer Show of Cranbrook Academy of Art which opens on Saturday, will remain up through mid-September in the Art Academy Galleries.

Works by students in all eight departments — architecture, printmaking, ceramics, metalsmithing, fabric design and decoration, painting, design and sculpture — will be presented, as is the custom.

* * *

This year's show, however, will offer a far more selective showing of works by the entire student body, most of whom will have received their Bachelor of Fine Arts, Master of Fine Arts or Master of Architecture degrees.

The entire upper gallery will be devoted to this show while pieces from the Galleries' collection may be viewed in the lower gallery.

* * *

Opening the same day in the Young People's Art Center Gallery is a review showing of the best of the year's work by students of this center, ages seven through 19.

Cranbrook Academy of Art Galleries are open Tuesdays through Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m., except for major holidays. There is an admission.

MRS. RAYMOND HARROD JR.

Bahamas Trip Is Honeymoon for R. P. Harrods

Newlyweds, the junior Raymond P. Harrods (nee Phyllis Janette Lovell) are honeymooning in the Bahamas.

The daughter of the O. K. Lovells of Williams Street and the son of the senior R. P. Harrods of Mahtomedi, Minn., repeated vows Saturday in Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church.

For the afternoon rite, the bride wore a satin and silk gown with lace trim. Roses and carnations made up her bouquet.

Shirley Lovell and William Harrod were honor attendants.

A reception was held at the Bemis-Olsen Amvets Hall, Post 113.

Variety Offered in Cotton Knits

Lacy open weaves and thick nubby textures are both popular in cotton knits. Knitted fashions in heavy but soft cotton yarns are showing up with a "knit-by-hand" look. Some patterns include open diamond dots running between broad ribs, and twists of thick cotton worked through fragile-looking backgrounds.

Day Care Center to Stress Learning

By YOLANDA BENAVIDES

Where there is poverty, there is isolation as well, according to Norman Shiffman, day care coordinator for the Oakland County Commission of Economic Opportunity.

For the ADC mother, who lacks vocational skills that will land her a good paying job and money to provide supervised care of her preschoolers while she works, isolation is a way of life.

* * *

In answer to this growing social ill, local planners are devising their own medication. This will be implemented this month with ground-breaking ceremonies for the Lakeside Day Care Center.

The proposed center in the Lakeside Home area is being constructed with federal funds under the joint cooperation of the Pontiac Board of Education and the Pontiac Housing Commission.

Theoretically, the program is so structured to serve the needs of the entire family with the day care center serving as the hub for interaction between a spectrum of welfare agencies and family members.

LEARNING TOO

Thus, rather than functioning as a baby sitting service for family heads who are holding down or seeking training for full-time skilled jobs, the center is a two-forked shot in the arm to improve a child's learning capacity as well as the environment he is a part of.

The Lakeside Center is scheduled to open in January 1970.

In each classroom there is to be one teacher per five children. Two aides, preferably parent volunteers, will assist the teacher in each classroom.

* * *

In addition to these instructors, there will be a parent program coordinator and two case aides. A full time cook, cook's aide, nurse custodian and bus driver will also be provided.

Like many of today's nurseries, the day care center is organized around the 'learning through play' concept. Health, personal hygiene, and nutrition, as well as introducing the child to classroom experiences, will be stressed.

* * *

However, the big difference here, says Shiffman is that the program includes family and community in the process of teaching the child.

"If we can provide a motive for change, make the needy want a better way of life by showing them how it can be done, then there will be a desire and reason for change," says Shiffman.

Women's Group to Fete Fathers

A Father's Day social, planned for June 15, will wind up the year for the Ladies' Philoptohos Society of St. George Greek Orthodox Church of Bloomfield Hills.

At the annual spring luncheon, held recently, announcement of Oct. 22 as the tentative date for "Dining in Athens," was made.

MRS. GARY L. NEMRAVA

Loretta Beck Is Married

First Missionary Church was the setting Saturday for the marriage of Loretta Ann Beck and Daniel E. Halliday.

Attended by her sister, Mrs. Rodney McCarty, the bride held a bouquet of carnations, daisies and roses. She wore a traditionally fashioned wedding ensemble.

* * *

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Everett Stangland and Barbara Wardrope with Charles Beck and David Oliseck as ushers.

Richard Hodge was best man for the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Halliday of Benton, Ill.

* * *

Following a reception at Waltz Hall, the bridegroom and bride, daughter of the Robert W. Becks of East Howard Street, departed for a honeymoon trip through the South.

Nemrava-Fredal

May Wedding for Couple

A reception Thursday at the Bloomfield Centre Hall feted Pfc. Gary Lee Nemrava, USA, and his bride (nee Mary Catherine Fredal).

The daughter of the George G. Fredals of Crescent Pointe Street and the son of the Robert J. Nemravas of Battle Creek were married in a double ring exchange in St. Perpetua's Catholic Church.

* * *

Attended by her sister, Margaret, the bride wore a candlelight gown of English net over peau de soie. Alencon lace highlighted her attire and she held Amazon lillies and Potkus leaves.

Rober L. Nemrava was best man.

The newlyweds will make their home in Maryland where he is stationed at Ft. Mead.

GREAT LAKES LOG

THE STEAMER ALABAMA WAS DESIGNED FOR YEAR-ROUND PASSENGER AND PACKAGE FREIGHT SERVICE ON LAKE MICHIGAN. THIS BEAUTIFUL STEEL VESSEL COULD CARRY 2,000 PASSENGERS, WITH SLEEPING QUARTERS FOR 300, AND 2,500 TONS OF PACKAGE FREIGHT AT A CRUISING SPEED OF 15 MPH. A ONE INCH STEEL PLATE WAS PLACED OVER HER REINFORCED BOW, MAKING THE ALABAMA A VIRTUAL ICE-BREAKER.

AS FLAGSHIP OF THE GOODRICH LINE, ALABAMA SAILED MANY YEARS ON THE MUSKEGON, GRAND HAVEN, CHICAGO RUN. BECAUSE OF HER MANY DARING RESCUES THROUGH THICK WINTER ICE AND HEAVY SEAS, ALABAMA BECAME ONE OF THE MOST POPULAR SHIPS ON THE LAKES.

THE ALABAMA SAILED ON LAKE MICHIGAN UNTIL THE 1950's—THEN A SUCCESSION OF NEW OWNERS SENT HER ON EXCURSION RUNS TO LAKES SUPERIOR, HURON AND ERIE.

IN 1966 SHE WAS RETIRED FROM ACTIVE SERVICE AND IN 1968 WAS CUT DOWN AND CONVERTED TO A CONSTRUCTION BARGE; THE ALABAMA OF BAY CITY.

CONTRIBUTION—Pontiac Motor Division recently contributed 25 auto parts, service manuals and charts to the child psychiatry department of Pontiac State Hospital. Dennis M. Vincent (right), supervisor of service training of the auto firm's service department, presented the parts to Dr. John W. Johnson (left), medical director of the children's unit at the hospital, and Donald B. Olson, a vocational instructor. The parts, including carburetors, generators, steering wheels and transmissions, were donated to assist the hospital's vocational training program.

OCC Sets Spring Enrollment Mark

Oakland Community College's spring enrollment is 6,027 students, a record high for spring, according to S. James Manilla, OCC director of educational services.

This figure represents an increase of 63 per cent over last spring's 3,814.

★ ★ ★

In addition to the enrollment of 616 in extension centers and 1,067 in apprentice technology programs, the enrollment by campus is Auburn Hills, in Pontiac Township 965; Highland Lakes in Waterford Township, 586; and Orchard Ridge in Farmington Township, 2,523.

★ ★ ★

Male students outnumber females 4,044 to 1,983. While 5,089 students live in the college district, 919 are from Michigan outside of the college district, seven live out of state and 12 are foreign students.

Soviet Scientists Fight Rigidity of Bureaucracy

By DIETRICK E. THOMSEN
Science Service Writer

WASHINGTON — The propagandists of Marxism-Leninism have assured us that rational planning under a Socialist regime would provide an efficient, well-integrated economy that would get to Utopia without wasted effort.

If the management of science in the Soviet Union is any criterion, what it has produced is an efficient well-integrated central bureaucracy, whose immediate reaction to any sign of innovation is to stifle it.

The general problem faced by Soviet science, as a report on science policy in the U.S.S.R. published by the Western Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development indicates, is how to get some of the cast iron out of the system to encourage innovation in pure and applied science and bring the benefits of innovation to industry.

Some of the methods that the Russians are beginning to use to dissolve bureaucratic rigidity, besides direct opposition and evasion, have been familiar for a long time in the West.

TWO EXAMPLES

Funding research by contract or grant to make its administration more flexible and establishing competition among industrial enterprises to encourage innovation are two examples.

Central planning is an old story in Russia. One organization the Bolsheviks inherited from the czars was the Imperial Academy of Sciences, now known as the U.S.S.R. Academy of Sciences.

Nearly all the pure research and much of the applied research is done in institutes managed by the U.S.S.R. Academy or by the academies of the constituent republics, which are supervised by the U.S.S.R. Academy.

While it fights interference from outside, the U.S.S.R. Academy has established within its ranks a control so rigid as to provoke loud complaints.

But if a Soviet scientist has enough prestige and personal clout, he can fight back. Such a one is Dr. Gersh Istkovich Budkerk, director of the Institute of Nuclear Physics at Novosibirsk, who builds large particle accelerators without asking permission.

Referring to one such project, he says: "Our chiefs at the Academy of Sciences did not know about this accelerator until we had built the tunnel."

He found the money by juggling other items in the budget.

Scare Bombs Out

ROCKFORD (AP)—An anonymous telephone call from someone with "a young female voice" caused a search of Rockford High School for a bomb Tuesday. Rockford and State Police turned up nothing in their search.

A Junior Editors Quiz About DUCK'S BILL

QUESTION: Why is a duck's bill shaped the way it is?

* * *

ANSWER: Birds' beaks are amazingly well adapted to the jobs they have to do. (See top of picture.) Like these others, a duck's beak is specialized. It can perform its own job extremely well.

There are many kinds of food a bird can find in the still waters of ponds and marshes: small frogs, tadpoles, little fish and fish fry, snails, insects, as well as juicy edible roots of water plants. The bird's problem is to separate these bits of food from the ooze and mud in which they live.

Here is where the duck's bill fits in. It is broad and wide so that the bird can grab a big mouthful of swampy ooze or mud. As he closes his bill (bottom of picture), the mud and water are forced out from openings on the side where the upper and lower bills don't quite touch.

This leaves the edible goodies inside to be swallowed. There are often little bristles to prevent them from escaping.

Many ducks feed in shallow water, "tipping" down from the surface to reach the mud. Others dive in deeper water, often catching small fish.

(You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

Wilson Is Suckered in Bet With Boy Star of 'Oliver'

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—The little blond 10-year-old English boy who portrayed "Oliver" looked up from the toy electric auto he was playing with at a table in Rumpelmayer's, and said, "I'll bet you a dollar I can tell you where you got your shoes."

WILSON

I was wearing my new Guccis. They have familiar gold-colored ornaments. I figured that the tousle-haired kid, Mark Lester, being very bright, had noticed. But I would go for the buck to humor him. We shook hands on the bet.

"I'll tell you where you got your shoes!" he shreiked. "On your feet!"

So I paid up. Mark pocketed the dollar happily. He's made 11 movies, ("Run Wild, Run Free" is coming up) and is a big money-maker, and he gets 60 cents a week allowance from his father, Mike Lester, a model . . . and he thinks that's adequate.

* * *

"In my piggy bank at home, I've got about $2.50," he thought. "I left my wallet back at the hotel. It's got about $20 in it. I don't know anything about how much I make. My parents put it in trust for me so when I'm 30, I can take it out."

"You got a girl?" we asked.

"No—too young."

"What do you think of girls?"

Mark, 4-feet-nine, dressed in a blue blazer, light blue trousers and a red, white and blue shirt, shrugged. "They're O.K., I suppose.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Joan Baez—insisting that nobody pay more than $2 a seat, because she wants low income people to hear her—has turned down a big fee for a small fee to appear for Sid Bernstein at Madison Square Garden Aug. 8. Going along with her wishes, Bernstein says he'll barely be able to break even, but he'll make a lot of fans happy. All seats will be reserved, and all will be $2, first come, first served, Bernstein says.

Tom Jones fans are lining up at 3 p.m. on 60th St. to catch him at the Copacabana's 8 p.m. show. Due to his ABC TV show, records, the prom season, and females who want to pull his clothes off, he's a bigger smash than ANY star who's ever appeared there.

* * *

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: John J. Plomp of Detroit defines a Persian rug: "That, naturally, is what a bald Persian wears."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: A youngster came home from Sunday school and announced he'd learned one of the Commandments: "Humor thy father and mother."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "When a woman dresses in a hurry, somehow she always looks it." —Ed Howe.

EARL'S PEARLS: Jim Woelm of Minneapolis writes that he took a speed-reading course: "And it worked—I notice that I become confused must faster now."

Al Hirt saw the astronauts' pictures of the mooon, with all those holes, and said, "Nothing unusual—looks like any Manhattan street." . . . That's earl, brother.

India Monuments Eyed as Tourist Lure

NEW DELHI (AP) — India has initiated a program with the collaboration of a United Nations agency to make centuries-old monuments magnets of tourism.

The United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) has loaned the services of Dr. P. R. Allchin of Cambridge University to advice the Indian government on exploiting the tourist potential of selected monuments.

★ ★ ★

Allchin, an archaeologist, has visited India many times before and will undertake a 12-week tour of important centers.

He will advise on the production of attractive publicity material, maintenance of monuments and protection from corrosion, erosion, weather and even from tourists, and development of lodging and boarding facilities.

He will also advise on the production of attractive souvenirs of monuments like the Taj Mahal in Agra, the Qutb Minar in Delhi and the temples of South India.

Red-Light Plea Stops the Judge

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Joe Henderson pleaded innocent in City Court Tuesday to a charge of running a red light.

★ ★ ★

"There's no light there," Henderson told Judge Ray Churchill. The judge checked, agreed and dismissed the charge.

State Board of Education Allocates Funds

LANSING (UPI) — The State Board of Education has approved distribution of $600,000 in federal grants for state libraries and college and university research projects.

★ ★ ★

Largest recipient of the 19 libraries involved was the Wayne County system.

The grant was for $50,000 to expand service to Royal Oak Township in Oakland County and Sumpter Township in Wayne County.

The 11 higher education grants are for work on police-community relations, reduction of poverty, and civil rights.

Michigan State University won approval for four projects totaling $122,889. Wayne State University in Detroit will get $37,986 and the University of Detroit will receive $23,000.

Colleges involved are Lake Superior at Sault Ste. Marie, Kalamazoo, $20,815; Oakland Community $15,200; and Flint Community, $19,148.

His Career Accidentally Permanent

NEW YORK (AP) — James Salvador retired recently from the architecture department of Rockefeller Center after 46 years as a draftsman, a career he stumbled on "by accident."

Following jobs as a private secretary and a wireman, he was employed in the mailroom of a building management firm here and almost immediately was transferred to the office of the chief architect.

"It was all an accident," Salvador recalls. "I just happened to be there at the right time, so he asked me to join his department. However, drafting was a natural with me. I had no trouble learning it."

His first work on what are now Rockefeller Center buildings came in 1931 when he took a job with one of the center's original architectural firms and since then he has worked on 13 of the buildings.

He's Candidate, Forgets to Vote

SEA BRIGHT, N.J. (AP) — "You know, it just dawned on me. I forgot to vote myself today."

So spoke John Hennessey, a tavern owner running for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. "At least I should have voted this time. I'm running," he said Tuesday. He lost.

Alcoholism-Smoking-Lung Ill Link Eyed

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Study by Melbourne University and Melbourne's St. Vincent's Hospital suggests a link between alcoholism, smoking and lung disease.

A study team found that chronic obstructive lung disease was a characteristic illness of the alcoholic, particularly those who smoke.

The report, published in the latest issue of the Medical Journal of Australia, also found that alcoholics were twice as likely to be smokers as nonalcoholics.

"The results have shown that chronic obstructive lung disease is the characteristic pulmonary illness of the alcoholic," the Journal report said, "as with the nonalcoholic, it is related to smoking habits and social class.

* * *

"The higher frequency of chronic bronchitis in alcoholics than in nonalcoholics can be explained by alcoholics being twice as likely to be smokers as the nonalcoholics.

Unfortunately, despite their high risk of chronic bronchitis, alcoholics appear less able than nonalcoholics to stop smoking."

Packagers Turn to Movies

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This is the age of the packager in show business, and the two astute practitioners of this new art are Bob Booker and George Foster.

THOMAS

Packagers are the Fellows who promote, persuade and produce an entertainment commodity. Booker and Foster put together the fastest-selling record album in history, "The First Family."

* * *

They followed with lesser comedy albums such as "When You're in Love the Whole World Is Jewish" and "Beware of Greeks Bearing Gifts," about a pair of famous newlyweds.

* * *

It seemed only natural that Booker-Foster would turn their talents to the freewheeling world of movies. They sold Warner Brothers-Seven Arts on a brazen scheme which may turn out to be the ultimate in packaging.

They describe the inception of the plan:

Booker—"Suddenly the thought came to us: Wouldn't it be funny if the Beatles turned out to be British intelligence agents?"

* * *

Foster—"The Beatles wouldn't need passports."

Booker—"So why couldn't they go to Russia on a spy mission?"

SCRIPT EMERGES

Out of their brainstorming came a script called "The Phynx," in which an American rock team is sent to Albania to help rescue kidnaped U.S. celebrities of the past. Besides providing an offbeat movie, the deal offered numerous fringe benefits.

* * *

"We needed a big corporation like Warners-Seven Arts to take care of the side issues such as records and music publishing," explained Booker. "This kind of an enterprise requires a gigantic worldwide setup."

* * *

The idea was to create instant stars, four members of a rock combo who could be counted on to earn millions through the film, records, sheet music, comic books, sweat shirts, etc.

Such a manufactured craze has been attempted before with the Monkees, who enjoyed huge success as a result of their television series. But the vogue vanished almost as quickly as it began.

WARY OF PITFALLS

Booker-Foster hope to avoid the Monkee pitfalls.

"For one thing, all our boys play their own instruments and do their own singing," said Foster. "All have had experience with rock groups and have had some college background. They're fine young men."

* * *

These are the Phynx: Dennis Larden, 20, New York-born folk singer and guitarist; Ray Chippeway, 23, a full-blooded American Indian born in San Antonio and reared in Tucson, a singer and bassist in discotheques; Lony Stevens, 24, from Detroit, a Negro actor and director; A. Michael Miller, 22, a surfer from Burbank, Calif., and a guitarist-songwriter.

* * *

They are enjoying their freedom now but if the Booker-Foster strategy works its wonders, the quartet will be mobbed everywhere they go after "The Phynx" is released.

* * *

"But we're aiming for a more mature audience," said Booker. "In fact, I think 'The Phynx' is likely to get an M (for mature) rating instead of G (for general audiences)."

Qualifiers Have a Foreign Look

By FLETCHER SPEARS

A couple of veterans accustomed to the rigors of tournament golf shook off the effects of a chilly wind to take honors in the U.S. Open sectional qualifying at Oakland Hills yesterday.

* * *

Burly Mike Souchak, 41, head pro at Oakland Hills, and 45-year-old Al Balding of Canada checked in with 145s for the 36-hole route to set the pace and earn for themselves a trip to Houston, Tex., for the 69th U.S. Open, June 12-15.

OTHERS GOING

Also making the trip will be another Canadian, George Knudson (150), along with Roy Beattie (150) of Sylvania, O, former assistant pro at Plum Hollow in Southfield, and long-hitting Bob Panasiuk (152) of Knollwood Country Club in Birmingham

* * *

The rolling, 6,974-yard Oakland Hills is tough enough in ideal weather, and the chilly breeze along with temperatures in the high 40's much of the day added to the difficulty for the field of 33. No one broke par and overall, there were 36 scores in the 70's and 30 in the 80's.

WEATHER A FACTOR?

"But I'll tell you about the weather," offered Pontiac's Gene Bone, who was out of the running with a 155. "It depends on how you're playing. If you are hitting well, you pay no attention to the cold or wind. Miss a putt, however, and the cold becomes noticeable," said Bone, who carded an 80 in the afternoon following a 75 in the morning.

* * *

For most of the field, birdies were about as rare as snowballs in July, with only Balding and Souchak carding the only par rounds (71). Souchak managed six birdies while Balding stroked in three birdie putts.

TRICKY GREENS

"These are the trickiest greens I've seen," said Balding with a smile. "The greens at Houston are bigger than these, and if I don't putt better than I did today, well . . ."

* * *

Balding had his 71 in the morning, while Souchak carded his in the afternoon. "I could easily have been in the 60's, said Balding of the first round. "I missed several close birdie putts."

AMATEUR PASSING

Amateur R. Hunter McDonald had a qualifying spot locked up with a 150, but he's passing up the Open to play in the British Amateur. That left the door open for Panasiuk with his 152.

* * *

Serving as alternates, in the event any of the five qualifiers cannot make the trip, are Bill Bisdorf of Grosse Ile and Ron Fox of Detroit.

GAMBLE FAILS

For Bisdorf, who carded a 79-74, it was a case of a gamble that failed. On the par-5, 473-yard 18th, Bisdorf hit a tee shot over the trees on the right of the dogleg hole in a bid to reach the green in two. He wound up in a tree however and had to punch it out. His third shot hit a low-hanging limb and dropped. A fourth landed 20 feet from the cup and he two-putted for a bogey.

* * *

Michigan Open champion John Molenda of Knollwood, who shared the low score in the local qualifying a week ago with Panasiuk, soared to an 82 on his first round but came back with a hot 74 in the afternoon.

Pontiac Press Photo

NEAR MISS — Mike Souchak comes up with that empty feeling after this putt failed to drop on the 11th hole during the U.S. Open sectional qualifying at Oakland Hills yesterday. Souchak, head pro at Oakland, carded a 145 for the 36 holes to share medalist honors with Canadian Al Balding.

Palmer Passes Qualifying Test

By The Associated Press

Arnold Palmer has qualified for this year's U.S. Open and in the process won $300.

"Did I win $300?" the golfing great asked Tuesday. "I'd have choked up if I knew I was going to win $300."

* * *

To the game's first millionaire, of course, the money meant nothing. What counted was that he had made it through to the Open in Houston June 12-15.

* * *

It was the first time Palmer had to qualify for the tournament that he has won once and finished second four times. And he did it with the lowest score among the 64 golfers who played their way to Houston on various courses around the country Tuesday.

ARMY ON HAND

Palmer, playing at Youghiogheny Country Club in McKeesport, Pa., fired a 70-68—138 as a crowd of 4,500 cheered him on. Andy Borkovich of Tarentum, Pa., finished one stroke back.

* * *

In three other sections, golfers turned in 139s—Bobby Cole of South Africa in Chicago, Scotty McBeath of San Jose, Calif., and Bob Stone of Independence, Mo., in St. Louis.

* * *

Leading qualifiers elsewhere were Deane Beman of Bethesda, Md., at Bethesda, 141; Wayne Yates of Atlanta at Atlanta, 151; and Terry Wilcox of Bronxville, N.Y., at Purchase, N.Y., 143.

COMEBACK — Jim Funston of Detroit hits his third shot to the 11th green at Oakland Hills during the U.S. Open sectional qualifying round yesterday after his approach shot sailed off line and landed on the No. 8 green. Funston got a free drop, pitched within four feet of the cup but missed the putt and settled for a bogey. He wound up with an 85-81—166 for the 36 holes.

Wild California Hurler Keeps Tiger Bats Quiet

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — Dazzled by a wild California Angels' pitcher who had not won a game since last Sept. 15, Detroit Tiger batters spent their second night in a row unable to make the long brown stick meet the little white spheroid.

The Angels bopped the Tigers, 4-2, and dropped the world champions 8½ games behind the leading Baltimore Orioles in American League East.

* * *

Pitcher Andy Messersmith gave up six hits while fanning nine Tigers to break his own five-game losing streak. Messersmith's wildness caused some trouble early in the game and again in the seventh inning.

The 23-year-old pitcher helped put Detroit on the scoreboard in the fourth when he walked Norm Cash, then threw wildly to second when Willie Horton hit a comebacker for an error. Bill Freehan singled to center to score Cash.

In the seventh, Messersmith threw a wildness fit by walking leadoff batter Freehan, then advancing him to third on a pair of wild pitches. Pinchhitter Gates Brown supplied a sacrifice fly for Detroit's second and last score.

Loser John Hiller (1-2) was touched for home runs by Aurelio Rodriguez and Jim Hicks. Rodriguez's second homer of the year came in the fourth and broke a 1-1 tie. Hicks' came with one out in the sixth after Rodriguez was safe on second baseman Dick McAuliffe's error.

* * *

California's first run came in the third with Messersmith singled and advanced to third after two outs and Jim Fregosi's scramble to beat out an infield roller. Rick Reichardt singled over shortstop to score the hurdler.

For the rejuvenated Angels, it was their fifth victory in seven games since Lefty Phillips became manager.

Erratic Joe Sparma (3-1) takes the mound tonight for the Tigers in the third game of the series. Sparma will be pitching for Mickey Lolich, who is back in Detroit having his pitching arm treated for a bruise caused by a line drive in a game against Oakland.

Sparma pitched a wild one-hitter against Seattle Saturday when he replaced Lolich there.

Al Kaline was kept out of Tuesday's game but trainer Bill Behm said the rightfielder's injured leg is just about cleared up.

Hope Athlete Honored

HOLLAND (UPI) — Gary Frens, a Hope College senior from Fremont, Monday was presented the Dr. Otto Vander Velde All-Campus Award for outstanding contributions in athletics, scholarship and student activities. Frens was the captain of both the Hope football and baseball squads this year.

This past spring he set a new MIAA record for the most pitching victories and also led the conference in batting with a .385 average.

CANADIAN SHARP — Canada's Al Balding came up with a sharp display of golf yesterday to share medalist honors with host pro Mike Souchak in the 36-hole U.S. Open sectional qualifying round at Oakland Hills. Slender Al, hitting near-perfect iron shots during the first 18 holes, carded a 71 in the morning and a 74 in the afternoon over the long Oakland Hills layout. "Trickiest greens I've ever seen," offered Balding, who, like Souchak, earned a trip to Houston, Tex., for the Open tournament June 12-15. Balding carded a 297 in the Open last year.

Semifinals Tonight

Suspense Builds in Prep Event

Will it be Pontiac Northern vs. Waterford, Rochester vs. Milford, PNH vs. Milford or Rochester vs. WTHS for the championship of the eighth annual Pontiac Invitational High School baseball Tournament tomorrow evening at Jaycee Park?

More than 1,000 spectators are anticipating learning the answer tonight at the conclusion of the semifinals.

Postponed by uncomfortable weather and unsatisfactory playing conditions yesterday, Northern meets the Rochester Falcons at 5 p.m. today and WTHS' Skippers challenge Milford in the 7:30 p.m. nightcap.

The lure of three league championship teams and the PNH's defendig tourney champs paired with a combined won-lost record of 72-12 plus the prospect of warm temperatures and sunshine could threatened the all-time tournament record of 1500 paid admissions.

That was set two years ago when Clarkston and Kettering dueled in a quarter-final contest.

Tonight's two survivors advance to the title round for a 6:30 p.m. Thursday encounter that will be followed by an awards banquet for both finalists and the tournament officials.

The cosponsoring Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department and The Press revealed yesterday that Pontiac's Jaycee Park will also be the site of a Tournament of Champions Saturday afternoon and evening.

The champions of the Pontiac, Macomb County area, Livonia and Wyandotte tourneys are slated to vie in three games to crown the best suburban prep baseball squad in Southeast Michigan.

RECORD PERFORMANCE

The Pontiac Invitational this spring has seen one new record. Milford's Mark Giegler had seven hits in a row, and equalled the one game record with four (three for extra bases) in the Redskins' 7-0 romp over Clawson Memorial Day. He needs one more safety to Ted Simmon's four-game mark of eight for Southfield in 1966.

Also tying a record was Oak Park who rapped 15 hits against Kettering in a 15-7 win that same day.

* * *

Some other imposing tournament records include the 18 strikeouts (six in a row) by Tom Burkert of Southfield in 1967, Pontiac Central' 21 runs—five each by Jerry Murphy and Paul Roberts—against Walled Lake in 1966 and Rick Farms' seven RBI's for the Chiefs in that same game.

* * *

Dick Micell of Kettering is the only player ever to hit two home runs in one game, doing it in 1966; the Captains' Jack McCloud has the only no-hitter in tourney history, coming in 1967 against Madison; and the 16-inning 8-5 victory by Southfield over WKHS in 1966 is the longest game.

Southfield's Simmons is the only player ever to win the most valuable player award.

Baltimore Batters Feast on Oakland Relief Hurler

Two Homers in 11th Inning Yield 3-1 Win

Frank Robinson, Boog Powell Connect After A's Odom Departs

OAKLAND (AP) — Frank Robinson and Boog Powell greeted relief pitcher Lew Krausse with consecutive 11th-inning home runs that carried the Baltimore Orioles to a 3-1 victory over Oakland Tuesday night.

Krausse, 0-3, replaced John "Blue Moon" Odom, who held the slugging Orioles to five hits in 10 innings before leaving for a pinch hitter. Robinson promptly slammed his 13th homer into the left field bleachers and Powell followed with his ninth over the center field fence.

* * *

Oakland's Reggie Jackson sent the game into extra innings when he led off the last of the seventh with a 435-foot home run off Mike Cuellar. It was Jackson's 17th of the season, tying him for the major league lead with Rico Petrocelli of Boston and Willie McCovey of San Francisco, who also hit their 17th Tuesday night.

* * *

Cuellar allowed six hits in nine innings. The victory was credited to Eddie Watt, who worked the final two innings.

* * *

The Orioles, winning for the 14th time in their last 17 games, pried a run off Odom in the first inning. Don Buford drew a lead-off walk, raced to third on Odom's wild pickoff attempt and scored on Powell's sacrifice fly.

Cardinals Obtain Mudcat Grant From Montreal

St. Louis (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals, looking for bullpen help, traded relief pitcher Gary Waslewski to the Montreal Expos Tuesday for hurler Jim "Mudcat" Grant. Both are right-handers.

* * *

Waslewski, 28, was 0-2 this year and had a 3.86 earned run average with the Cards. He has been used exclusively in relief.

* * *

A club spokesman said it was felt Grant, with the possibility of being both a starter and a reliever, "might be more helpful to us."

* * *

Grant, 33, had a 1-6 record and a 4.78 earned run average with the Expos. Grant will join the team at Houston Thursday or Friday.

Indians Showing Signs of Life

SEATTLE (AP) — A reason why the Cleveland Indians are the losingest team in the American League may be in the process of solution, according to Manager Alvin Dark. The Tribe posted a 3-1 victory over the Seattle Pilots Tuesday night.

* * *

Dark said his winning pitcher, Luis Tiant, seems to be rounding into the form that produced a 21-9 record for the Indians last year.

Tiant lost his first seven decisions this season, but has won his last two outings.

* * *

"He pitched a fine ball game," said Dark, after Tiant worked eight innings and allowed the Pilots only four hits and one run while striking out eight and walking three.

"This is the way we expected Tiant to be from opening day. But here it is, three months after we opened spring training, and he's just starting to throw right," said Dark.

* * *

Tiant says his poor start is due to having not pitched in a winter league in the off-season. "I'll tell you one thing—I'll never go another winter without playing ball. I played for nine years until this last winter.

"They (the Indians) gave me money not to play—but I would rather have a good arm than the extra money," the Cuban right-hander said.

Another Indian headache, Ken Harrelson's prolonged batting slump, also appears to be on the mend—as "The Hawk" predicted it would, before the Tribe opened their stand here.

Harrelson clubbed a triple Tuesday night after a Monday effort that gained him a homer and single.

Lou Klimchock gave the Indians a second-inning lead of 1-0 Tuesday night when he slammed his first homer of the year.

Duke Sims made it 2-0 Cleveland in the fourth with his seventh home run, like Klimchock's a solo, and also had a single in three trips before a recurring back injury forced him from the game in the eighth.

Pilot shortstop Ray Oyler pounded one of the longest homers of the season here—a drive of about 400 feet—his fifth of the campaign, which equaled his best season production in five years in the majors.

Marty Pattin of Seattle was tabbed with his fourth loss against five victories. He worked seven innings and gave up five hits.

LIFE OF LEISURE — This is Citation, the last winner of thoroughbred racing's Triple Crown — the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and the Belmont Stakes. Citation accomplished that feat in 1948. Now 24, he leads a life of leisure at scenic Calumet Farm, a few miles west of Lexington. Majestic Prince has a shot at joining Citation and seven other wearers of the Triple Crown when he tries for the Belmont Stakes title Saturday.

'Majestic Prince Won't Win'

Jockey Likes Dike in Belmont

NEW YORK (AP) — Take it from Eddie Belmonte, Majestic Prince won't sweep racing's Triple Crown by winning the Belmont Stakes at Belmont Park Saturday.

Arts and Letters won't win the Belmont, either, in the opinion of Belmonte who has come to the fore in the past year as a leading jockey.

* * *

The winner of the Belmont will be Dike, Belmonte said Tuesday after working out the Caliborne Farm colt.

* * *

"He won't be beat Saturday," Belmonte said without ifs or buts after dismounting. Dike, who finished third in the Kentucky Derby to Majestic Prince and Arts and Letters after winning the Wood Memorial, had worked a fast seven furlongs in 1:23 3-5 and galloped out 1½ miles in 1:53 1-5.

* * *

"He went smooth as anything you could ask and finished real strong," Belmonte enthused. He repeated "He won't be beat Saturday."

* * *

Johnny Longden, trainer of Majestic Prince, grinned when he heard of Belmonte's remark about Dike.

* * *

"Well, he's been beat before," Longden said.

LOOKING BETTER

Longden, who rode the unbeaten Majestic Prince in a 1:51 4-5 for 1⅛ miles in a Sunday workout, merely galloped a mile oval Tuesday and declared The Prince "is looking better and better every day."

Arts and Letters, who won the Metropolitan Mile Handicap at Aqueduct last Friday, also galloped the 1½ miles. "He's coming up to the race very well," said trainer Elliott Burch.

As of today a field of six is probable for the Belmont. In addition to Majestic Prince, Arts and Letters and Dike, Prime Fool, Rooney's Shield and Distray are expected to be entered.

* * *

Meantime, Longden said, "I don't pay any attention to such things." He referred to a statement by the Humane Society of The United States in Washington, D.C., that he should resign as trainer of Majestic Prince if owner Frank McMahon ran the colt in the Belmont against Longden's wishes.

* * *

"Mr. McMahon and I agreed not to run the horse in the Belmont if he wasn't in good shape," Longden said. "Well, the horse is doing fine."

Harness Driver Dies After Win

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — Veteran harness driver Leonard O'Meara died of a heart seizure Monday night after driving his pacer to victory in a race at Saratoga Raceway.

Ryun Set for Mile

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jim Ryun, who holds the world mile record of 3:51.1, said Tuesday he plans to run the mile in Saturday night's Compton-Coliseum track meet.

Yaz, Petrocelli Lead Red Sox in 8-2 Victory

Righthander Lonborg Breezes to 5th Win; Schofield Shines

BOSTON (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski drove in four runs with a homer, single and triple and Reggie Smith and Rico Petrocelli contributed solo homers in leading Boston to an 8-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox Tuesday night.

Yastrzemski drilled his 13th homer of the season and third in four games into the screen in left center with two men on in the first innings.

* * *

Smith followed with a tremendous blast a dozen rows up in the center field bleachers for his seventh homer, giving Jim Lonborg a 4-0 cushion. The veteran right-hander, botnered b shoulder trouble most of the spring, then breezed to his fifth victory without defeat.

* * *

Petrocelli, a slick fielding shortstop who has never hit more than 18 homers in a season, continued his red-hot slugging by lining his 17th home run and third in three games leading off the fifth. He also tripled home Yastrzemski, who opened the sixth with a three-bagger.

Dick Schofield, filling in for injured second baseman Mike Andrews, reached base five times—on a triple, two singles, a walk and an error.

Red Sox third baseman George Scott was hit on the helmet by a pitch from Cisco Carlos in the fifth inning but escaped with a slight concussion.

Royals' Hurler Breaks Slump

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Wally Bunker hurled his first complete game victory since last August and Joe Foy and Lou Piniella struck key blows in a four-run Kansas City rally as the Royals snapped a six-game losing streak with a 5-3 triumph over Washington Tuesday night.

Bunker, who evened his record at 2-2, limited the Senators to five hits, but Washington bunched three of them in the third inning for a 2-0 lead.

* * *

Ed Kirkpatrick's third home run cut the lead to 2-1 in the fourth and the Royals chased Jim Hannan, 2-4, with four runs in the fifth.

Maury Wills Seeks Retirement Status

MONTREAL (AP) — Maury Wills has finally decided that even he can't steal first base.

The 36-year-old shortstop, one of the great base stealers in baseball history, asked the Montreal Expos Tuesday night to place him on the voluntary retired list.

* * *

Bogged down with a .198 batting average, Wills informed the Expos of his decision to end his career after a decade in which he stole 514 bases, including a modern major league mark of 104 in 1962. He had 12 steals this season, fourth best in the National league.

Wills was not available for comment, but Jim Fanning, general manager of the Expos, said he found a "simple typewritten letter" in his office in which Wills asked to be placed on the voluntary retired list.

SUBMIT SETTER

Fanning said he would submit the letter to the baseball commissioner's office today.

Wills brought his flying feet to the Los Angeles Dogers midway through the 1959 campaign and helped them win the pennant that year and again in 1963, 1965 and 1966.

* * *

He holds the National League record of most consecutive seasons leading in stolen bases, six from 1960-65, and was the league's most valuable player in 1962.

Traded to Pittsburgh after the 1966 season, Wills stole 29 bases and hit .302 in 1967 and swiped 52 bases with a .278 batting average a year ago. Going into this season his lifetime mark was .287.

Yankees Find Twins Stingy

Minnesota Pitchers Allow Four Hits

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Dave Boswell and Ron Perranoski stopped New York on four hits and Harmon Killebrew and Tony Oliva cracked home runs as the Minnesota Twins blanked the Yankees 4-0 Tuesday night.

Boswell retired the first 14 men he faced and was coatsting until John Ellis, who got New York's first hit in the fifth-inning, doubled to lead off the eighth.

* * *

After Boswell, 6-6, gave up a walk, he left with a blister on his pitching hand. Perranoski came in to force Gene Michael to hit into a double play and get pinch-hitter Bobby Murcer on a weak bouncer to the mound.

Killebrew put the Twins ahead 2-0 in the first with his 12th homer after Leo Cardenas singled.

Oliva tripled to score Killebrew in the fourth and then lined his seventh homer off loser Fritz Peterson, 7-6, in the sixth inning.

8 American Girls Advance in Net Play

MANCHESTER, England (AP) — Mary Ann Curtis easily turned back Lesley Wellerman of Great Britiain 6-2, 6-2, to lead a field of eight American girls into today's quarterfinals of the tournament.

Joining Mrs. Curtis, a recent bride of British Davis Cupper Peter Curtis, were:

Stephanie Grant of Beverly Hills, Calif., who stopped Val Schofield of England 6-1, 6-1; Tory Anne Fretz of Los Angeles, a 6-0, 6-4 conqueror of Penny Moore of England; Patti Hogan of La Jolla, Calif., who defeated Anne Marie Studer of Switzerland 4-6, 7-5, 6-2.

* * *

Also Val Ziegenfuss of San Diego, a 6-3, 6-3 winner over Linda Tuero of New Orleans; Kristy Pigeon of San Francisco, who stopped Judy Dixon of South Orange, N.J., 6-2, 6-2; Denise Carter of Los Angeles, who defeated Judy Walker of England, 6-1, 6-1, and Mari Christenson of Los Angeles, who won by forfeit.

In the men's opening singles, Clarke Graebner of New York City defeated Manchester pro Charlie Applewhite 6-1, 6-3.

Senators' Catcher Files Bankruptcy

BALTIMORE (AP) — Catcher Paul Casanova of the Washington Senators filed bankruptcy schedules Monday for debts listed at $20,150 and assets of $896.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By John Carter

How about this one . . . Did you know that a bird once lost a game for a baseball team? . . . In the minor leagues, a player once hit what looked like a sure home run . . . But before the ball went over the fence, it hit a bird in flight . . . The ball dropped inside the field instead of going over the fence; the batter got only a double instead of a home run; his team failed to score any runs that inning and was forced into extra innings where they eventually lost the game—all because of a bird!

* * *

Do you realize what a jinx New York has been to Baltimore in sports this year? . . . The New York Jets upset the heavily-favored Baltimore Colts in the Super Bowl football game in January and the New York Knicks knocked the first-place Baltimore Bullets right out of the National Basketball Association playoffs, sweeping 4 straight games!

* * *

Can you imagine a team finishing as far as 80 games out of first place! . . . It happened once in major league baseball . . . In 1899 Cleveland won 20 games all year and lost 134 . . . Meanwhile, the first place team that year won 88 games and lost 42, and if you figure that out you'll find that Cleveland was 66 games behind first!

I bet you didn't know . . . that the ability of a tire to stop your car under difficult conditions seldom the reason you buy, but often it can be the reason you live. Talk to one of our Pros.

HAGEN HITS — Senior outfielder Jim Hagen rapped two singles to drive in Birmingham Seaholm's final two runs Tuesday in a 6-1 conquest of rival Groves, the Maples' fourth straight win over the Falcons in two years.

Seaholm Dumps Falcons Again

Groves Ends Season at Thurston Today

Oak Park's hopes for a share of the Northwest Suburban loop baseball title suffered a jolt yesterday when Birmingham Groves used ace hurler Don Ward in an unsuccessful attempt to stem rival Seaholm's diamond domination of the past two seasons.

John Bratton of the Maples outpitched Ward, 6-1, as the Seaholm squad made it four in a row over Groves during the past two seasons.

The Falcons today visit Detroit Thurston who has a half game edge on Oak Park for the NWSA crown with only this one makeup tilt remaining. A win by Thurston clinches the crown.

Oak Park has a slim hope that it's protest of a forfeit loss to Groves will be overruled in time, if at all, to replay the game before school is out.

BIG INNING

Yesterday, Seaholm broke loose for five runs in the second inning after the Falcons (10-7) took a 1-0 lead on Dan Schreck's two-bagger.

A bases-loaded walk forced in the tying marker, then Rick Bowman drilled a two-out, two-run single off the second baseman's glove to break the tie.

Dudley Lehman and Jim Hagen followed the run-scoring safeties. Hagen also singled in the final marker in the fourth. Bratton allowed on a sixth-inning single by Ward among the final 12 batters he faced in closing the Maples' season with a 6-7 log.

They defeated Groves earlier, 12-8.

Friction With GM Spurs Split

Former Red Wing Kelly Parts Ways With LA's Kings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Red Kelly is happy he is no longer coach of the Los Angeles Kings of the National Hockey League even though he feels the Kings might be contenders for the NHL championship next season.

Kelly and the Kings parted company—by mutual agreement—Tuesday. It was no surprise, however, since rumors started flying six months ago that dissension was rife between Kelly and General Manager Larry Regan.

* * *

Kelly was hired to coach the expansion Kings in 1967-68 after a successful career of 20 years in the NHL with Detroit and Toronto.

In his first season, he directed the team to a second-place finish in the West Division, one point away from a title. But last season, with a 24-42-10 record, the club was 30 points behind St. Louis.

"No man can do everything himself," Regan said of Kelly. "If he wants to run a club, he'll have to buy his own."

HEADING FOR CANADA

Kelly, his wife, and three children left Los Angeles by car Monday and headed for Ontario.

"We're happy to be going back to Canada," Kelly said in an interview with the Toronto Globe and Mail.

"The kids are singing just thinking about it."

He said he plans to relax and think about two coaching offers, one from Hockey Canada and the other from an NHL club which he would not identify.

* * *

Kelly was excited about the possibility of coaching Canada's national team.

* * *

"In fact, it would be like getting back into the fire . . . By hang, it's time our team got back on top . . . However, I'm not going to do anything hasty. I'm going to take my time."

Kelly refused to comment on reports of friction between himself and Kings' owner Jack Kent Cooke or himself and Regan.

"I don't want to really get involved with that," Kelly said.

* * *

"I wasn't completely happy last season. I prefer to leave it at that.

"I was very happy with the team and the whole operation the first year. I wasn't so happy the second year," he said.

* * *

A successor for Kelly is to be named Friday at a 10 a.m., news conference.

Reportedly, the new man will be either Punch Imlach, fired recently as coach of the Toronto Maple Leafs; Hal Laycoe, coach of Portland's team in the Western Hockey League, or Johnny Wilson, coach of Springfield, Mass., the king's farm team in the American League.

Young Outfielder Joining Atlanta

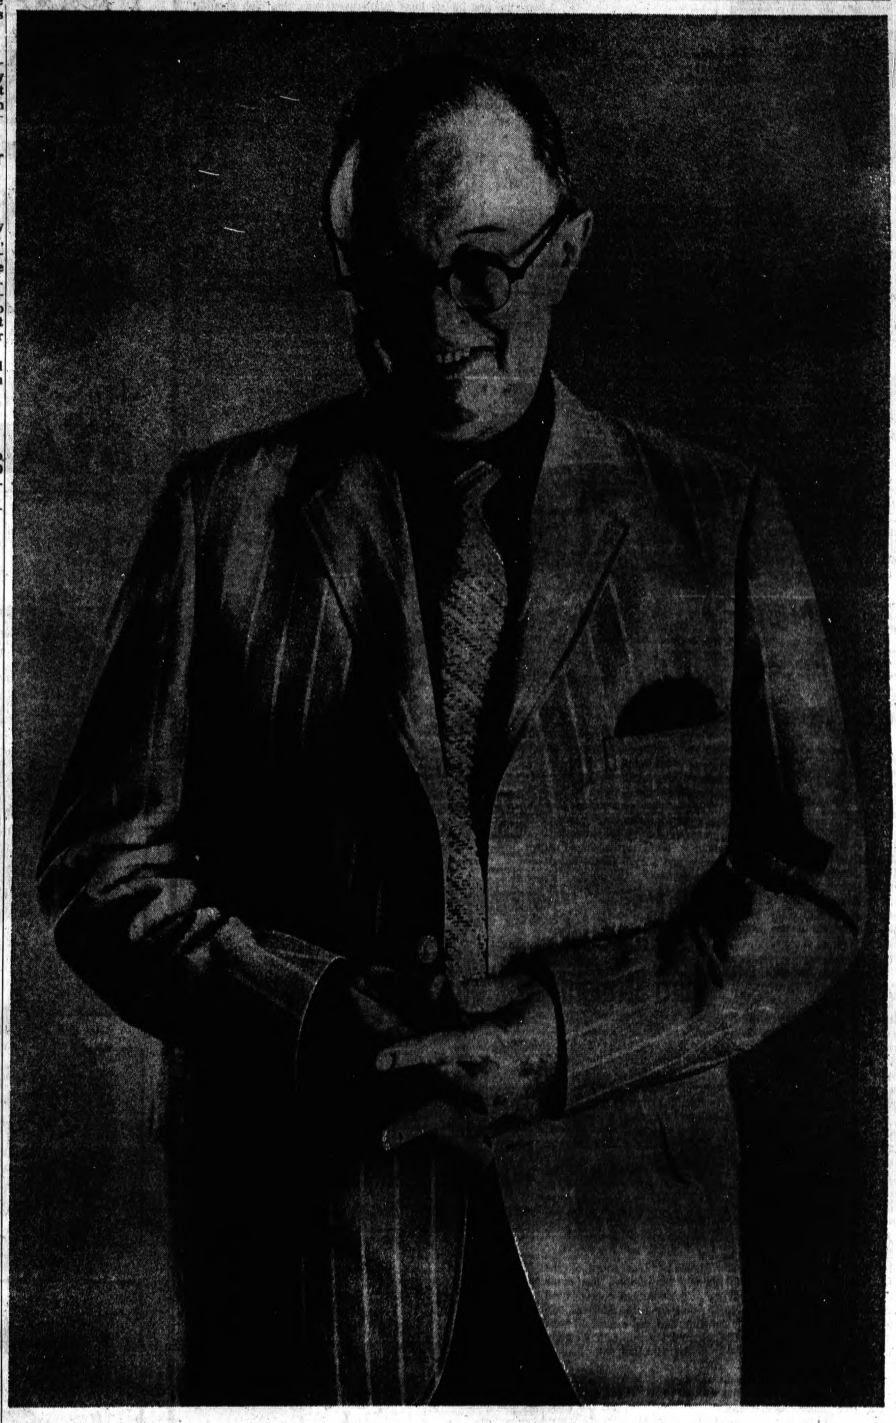

ATLANTA (AP) — Dusty Baker, a 19-year-old outfielder, has been called up from Shreveport by Atlanta to bolster the Braves' depleted outfield corps.

Felipe Alou suffered an injured hand Monday night, Tito Francona is on the disabled list and Rico Carty has a shoulder ailment.

Baker had six home runs and a .266 average for Shreveport in the Class AA Texas League.

Mets Still Winning; Expos Keep Losing

By The Associated Press

Gil Hodges feels good and hopes to feel better. Gene Mauch has felt better and knows what it's like to feel worse.

Therein lies the tale of two expansion clubs—the New York Mets playing like no Met team has every played before and the Montreal Expos playing like only one Met team has ever played before.

* * *

It all came about Tuesday night when the Mets trounced Los Angeles 5-2 and went over the .500 mark after the first week of the season for the first time in their eight-year existence.

The Expos, meanwhile, were bombed by San Francisco 9-3. It was their 17th straight loss, equalling the major league record for expansion teams set by the never-to-be-forgotten fledgling Mets of 1962.

Elsewhere in the National League, St. Louis stopped Atlanta 5-2, Cincinnati shelled Pittsburgh 7-3 and San Diego shaded Philadelphia 6-5. The Chicago Cubs tripped Houston 4-2 in the only afternoon action.

GOOD FEELING

"Being over .500 feels good," said Met Manager Hodges after their sixth straight triumph boosted the New Yorkers into second place in the National League East with a 24-23 record, one percentage point ahead of Pittsburgh. "Being two games over will feel even better."

* * *

Mauch isn't concerned with the .500 mark. He'd just like to win a game, something the Expos haven't done since May 10.

* * *

"I've felt better and I've felt worse," he said. "I feel like we're too good for this to be happening."

Six more losses and the Expos will have tied the modern major league losing record of 23 by the 1961 Phillies—managed by none other than Gene Mauch.

"I've won 500 games since the thing in Philadelphia," Mauch remembered. "I've forgotten about it. We'll win a couple of games and they'll forget about this one, too."

Ed Kranepool hit two home runs and Tom Seaver hurled eight strong innings to pace the Mets past the Dodgers. Kranepool's leadoff homer in the fifth was the first hit off loser Alan Foster. An inning later Wayne Garrett singled and scored when Andy Kosco and Willie Davis ran together under Cleon Jones' fly ball and it fell for a triple. Kranepool followed with his second homer. Kosco hit a two-run shot for the Dodgers in the eighth.

"When you take advantage of your breaks you always look good," Hodges said. "I see no reason why this club shouldn't be improving. Six in a row, that's close to their capabilities."

* * *

San Francisco gave Montreal the Willies. Willie McCovey knocked in three runs with a double and his 17th homer and Willie Mays hit the 593rd circuit of his career.

The Giants blasted no-hit Bill Stoneman for runs in the third, wiping out a 1-0 Montreal lead, and added three more an inning later as Mays and McCovey cracked successive homers.

Vada Pinson and Joe Torre each drove in two runs and Steve Carlton hurled a five-hitter as St. Louis turned back Atlanta. It was only the seventh victory in 24 home games for the Cardinals. The only runs off Carlton were solo homers by Orlando Cepeda and Hank Aaron.

Dutch Netter Eyes Record for Earnings

PARIS (AP) — Tom Okker, the Dutch tennis star who never stops running, has topped $20,000 in prize money in four months.

The 25-year-old passed that figure Tuesday night when he defeated John Newcombe in a five-set thriller to reach the semifinals of the French Open Championships—and there could be more to come before the tournament at the Roland Garros Stadium is over.

Okker made sure of $1,800 as a semifinalist. He can make $7,000 by winning the title.

With Wimbledon and Forest Hills, N.Y., to come, and the prizes on offer on the promoter-controlled professional circuit Okker could break all money-making records in his first year as a pro.

Okker defeated Newcombe 5-7, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2 in the best tennis match seen here since the tournament started. A crowd of 2,000, shivering in overcoats around the center court in a chill evening, were kept on edge right up to the last stroke—an ace service by the Dutchman.

FACES LAUER

The French fans will see next whether Okker's speed and machine-like backhand are enough to topple Rod Laver, 30-year-old Australian, who last won this title in 1962.

Laver defeated Andres Gimeno of Spain 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3, Tuesday.

Okker and Laver are scheduled to meet in one semifinal while two more Australians, Ken Rosewall and Tony Roche, are paired in the other. Rosewall, 34, is the defending titleholder.

No men's singles matches were scheduled for today. But the two American woman professionals, Mrs. Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., and Rosemary Casals of San Francisco had tough quarter-finals matches in the women's event.

Mrs. King, who has never done particularly well on the slow clay courts of the Roland Garros Stadium, faced Australia's Mrs. Lesley Bowrey, champion here in 1963 and 1965.

Miss Casals had to play Mrs. Ann Jones of Britain, who won the French title in 1961 and 1966.

Defending champion Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex., reached the semifinals Tuesday by defeating Julie Heldman of New York City 6-3 9-7. In another quarter-final, Mrs. Margaret Court of Australia, also a previous French titleholder, downed Kerry Melville of Australia 9-7 6-1.

Nicklaus Seeks Third Straight

MIDLOTHIAN, Ill. (AP) — Big Jack Nicklaus seeks a record third consecutive title in one of this country's oldest golf tournaments, the Western Open, beginning Thursday with Arnold Palmer the only major name missing among the challengers.

Palmer, the game's all-time leading money winner, took the week off to (1) qualify for the U.S. Open in sectional tests at McKeesport, Pa., and (2) work on his spotty game for the national championship next week at Houston.

* * *

Nicklaus, like most of the game's top names, has made only periodic appearances on the tour since the Masters, two months ago, but almost all have gathered for this 66th Western, a tournament that dates back to 1901.

That first tournament, incidentally, was played on the site of this year's event, the 6,654-yard, par 71 Midlothian Country Club course, and this marks its first return.

Palmer Makes Grade in Open

Qualifying Over; Field Set for 72-Hole Event

While Palmer and other know names were making it to Houston, others were not. Included in this group were two former Open champs, Ed Furgol, who won it in 1954, and Tommy Bolt, the 1958 winner.

TOO COLD

Furgol finished 10 strokes behind the 12th and last qualifier at Purchase while Bolt was hampered by cold weather in Chicago and withdrew after the first 18 holes. Charlie Sifford, top Negro among the pros, withdrew for the same reason.

Dudley Wysong failed to qualify at Purchase, and Bob Goalby, the 1968 Masters champion, missed by one stroke at St. Louis when he bogeyed the final hole.

* *

Among those who did qualify are Tony Jacklin of Sea Island, Ga.; Bob Rosburg of St. Louis, Canadian George Knudson, Dave Ragan of Orlando, Fla., Al Besselink of Grossinger, N.Y., Lee Elder of Washington, D.C., Skee Riegel of Jamison, Pa., LeBron Harris Jr. of Stillwater, Okla., Peter Townsend of England, Dean Refram of Boca Raton, Fla., and Bunky Henry, former Georgia Tech football player.

Jaycees Plan Golf Tourney for Juniors

A shot at a state championship awaits local golfers in the annual Jaycee tournament.

Pontiac Jaycees have scheduled their tourney for June 16 at Pontiac Municipal. Competition is in three classes — 13 and under, 14 and 15-year-olds and 16 and 17, and no player may enter who'll be 18 on or before Sept. 1.

* * *

Heading the 18-hole event this season are Jerry Hoopfer, director, and Dick Conlon, who'll serve as chairman.

Entry blanks will be available at high schools in Pontiac, at Pontiac Municipal Golf Course and at Forest Lake and Pine Lake country clubs.

* * *

Winners of the Pontiac event will advance to regional play at a site to be determined. Hoopfer said he was hopeful that Pontiac would host the regional. The state meet is July 21 in Frankenmuth.

Further information concerning the tournament may be obtained from Hoopfer or Conlon at 628-2548.

Granatelli Makes Plans for Steam-Powered Car

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Flushed with victory after 23 years of trying in the Indianapolis 500, car builder Andy Granatelli has his eye on changing the life of the passenger car driver — with steam.

"We can build an effic one in a year," Granatelli said of a steam engine for passenger autos. "Mass production would come later."

* * *

These new vehicles wouldn't be for the race track.

Granatelli and a dozen others have applied for a government loan to develop a car to reduce the nation's smog problem. And he'll continue his work with racing cars.

* * *

"I never said I could win the 500," the rotund industrialist said Tuesday. "But I do say I can build a steam car, and I can do it."

Granatelli, at a news conference celebrating Mario Andretti's 500 victory in an STP racer, said he doesn't think the publicized steam car concept of another industrialist, William P. Lear, will work.

PERFUME FUEL

Asked the difference between the two designs, Granatelli replied, "the difference is that mine will run and his won't."

He said a steam car, with combustion of fuels which could range from coal to perfume, should emit just 15 per cent the exhaust of present autos.

Asked if such a car could go 70 or 80 miles and hour, for instance, Granatelli declared, "It could go 1!"

* * *

"The steam car would be one for the public and a car for public health," he asserted, adding it should be known within two weeks which firm gains a development grant from the federal government.

Having made it clear that Andretti won't be driving steam cars, Granatelli said the Italian-born pilot's aim will be to win the national championship, which has evaded him the past two years.

* * *

Mario finished runner up on the final day of each season.

Andretti, still showing red marks on his face as the result of burns two weeks ago, declared, "I'll drive in every United States Automobile Club championship race. I want to win that title."

Scott Favored to Win Senior Golf Tourney

RYE, N.Y. — Bill Scott Jr., a 59-year-old mechanical contractor from San Francisco, was favored to win the U.S. Senior Golf Championship today.

He went into the final 18 holes of the 36-hole tourney with a two-stroke lead on the strength of his three-under-par 69 in the first round Tuesday.

* * *

Scott, shooting for his first title in his fifth attempt in this tourney, got an eagle 3 on the 526-yard 17th hole on the 6,104-yard Westchester Country Club South course.

* * *

The club champion at Cypress Point in Pebble Beach, Calif., Scott went out in 36 and came back in 33 to gain his lead over Tommy Tailer of Manhasset, N.Y., and Joel Shepherd of Kalamazoo, Mich. Tailer and Shepherd each posted 71s.

* * *

Also in a challenging position were Floyd James, Burlington, Vt., Warren Ingersoll, Spring House, Pa., and Dave Goldman, Dallas, tied at 72.

Exhibition Slated by Hills' Gymnasts

The Bloomfield Hills Acronauts will give a benefit gymnastic exhibition 7 p.m. Thursday in the Andover High School gymnasium.

Members of the group, both youngsters and adults, will show their talents in tumbling, plus will perform on the parallel bars, the trampoline and the uneven bars.

* * *

Admission is 50 cents per person and will help pay for a spotter belt, a training device needed by the Acronauts.

Texas '9' Takes JC Tournament

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (AP) —Panola, Tex., scored six runs in the fourth inning Tuesday night and survived a fifth-inning rally by Mesa, Ariz., to win the National Junior College Baseball Championship, 8-6.

Mesa beat Panola Monday night to force the double-elimination tournament in a second championship game.

Kathy Increases Golf Lead

CINCINNATI (AP) — Kathy Whitworth finished onthird in the O'Sullivan Open Ladies Professional Golf Association Tournament Monday but still increased her lead in money winnings on the 1969 LPGA tour.

LPGA headquarters reported today the $1,450 Miss Whitworth won at Wincester, Va., boosted her winnings to $18,075.

Second money winner Carol Mann, picked up $565 with a four-way tie for seventh and now has won $14,812.

Murle Lindstrom won the Winchester event but remained in sixth place in the standings with $10,905.

Shirley Englehorn, finishing second at Winchester, advanced from fourth to third with a total of $12,781 and Mickey Wright moved from fifth to fourth with $11,779.

Those changes dropped Sandra Haynie from third to fifth with $11,682.

Hundley in Iron Man Role

Catching Cub's Problem---Who's No. 2

CHICAGO (AP) — Because of Randy Hundley, nobody knows who the No. 2 catcher is for the Chicago Cubs.

Knowing Randy Hundley, that's the way it's going to remain and that's one of the reasons the Cubs are making the National League's Eastern Division their own thing.

* * *

Hundley caught 461 games for the Cubs in his first three seasons, including a record 160 last year. Now his goal is to go the "Iron Man" distance of all 162 games in 1969.

Because he caught 160 games last year, Hundley worked out all winter to get himself into condition to catch 162 games.

"Nobody will ever know how hard I worked to strengthen my body and add weight so that I can catch every day," said Hundley Tuesday after he had singled home the winning run in a 4-2 victory over Houston as the Cubs stretched their current streak to five straight.

Hundley also boosted his average to .311, tops on the club.

BATING SUFFERS

Warned that it would be physically impossible to hit .300 and catch the entire season, Randy smiled and drawled, "That's not the object. The object is to win ball games.

"Maybe you shouldn't write this because it might not sound right," said Hundley "but it makes me nervous when I see somebody else behind the plate. They don't get much chance to play and I know how tough it is getting adjusted to the pitchers.

* * *

"I've experienced not playing regularly and believe me it's tough," he continued. "In fact, it takes me a few innings to get in the grove even after we've had only one day off."

During the first week of the season Hundley sprained an ankle trying to avert a tag. Manager Leo Durocher wanted him to stay off of it for a few days so that it could heal quicker. Hundley would have no part of it. He played for the next three weeks all taped up.

"There's nothing I can do about it," said Durocher. "He came to play. I put him on the bench a couple of times last year and he drove me crazy. I want no more of that.

"The only way he'll not play is if they carry him off the field on a stretcher or if he comes up to me and says he wants to rest and there's no chance of that."

* * *

Hundley sloughs off talk that he might be hindering or even shortening his career by playing every day.

"It's the only way I know how to play," he said: "I simply have to give it all I got. The main thing is now. Maybe I won't hit .300 because I'll tire near the end of the season but the main thing is to win."

NEW FACILITY — The Holly recreation area's headquarters complex on Buckell Lake Road which included World War II vintage quonset huts (above) has been moved to a recently completed building (left) on Grange Hall Road just east of Dixie Highway. Although their covering is tattered and torn with age, the huts were used for equipment storage until the move was completed late last week. The new building contains offices, three-bay garage, storage areas and workshop.

New Building Feels Plush

The surroundings are plush compared to the former office.

But the daily work routines and problem solving remain the same for parks personnel of the Holly recreation area.

Manager John Reagan and his staff moved into the new headquarters building on Grange Hall Road, a quarter mile east of Dixie (M-54), late last week. The Holly phone number is the same.

★ ★ ★

The cottage, garage and two quonset huts that comprise the old headquarters on Buckell Lake Road will be used by the Department of Natural Resources game division.

The weather-beaten huts are expected to be removed.

Pontiac Press Photos

FORMER HEADQUARTERS — Partially shielded by a large lilac bush and pine tree is the former headquarters cottage of the Holly recreation area. A space heater divided the building into two offices. The Department of Natural Resources' game habitat biologist will continue to use the offices he once shared with park personnel.

Spurred by Bass Opener

Anglers Get Down to Business

By DON VOGEL

Dedicated fishermen got down to serious business last weekend.

Trout anglers rejoiced because now they have the streams pretty much to themselves. The novices and early season boys have moved to the lakes.

★ ★ ★

The opening of the black bass season on Memorial Day is the signal to start fishing for most people. Although the bass has a large following, the bluegill and perch still rule supreme — depending on what part of Michigan is fished.

During the holiday weekend the bass was the target No. 1. However, many anglers were easily sidetracked by big bluegills over the spawning beds.

MORE INTEREST

More fishermen were out than a year ago, mainly because weather conditions were favorable. Results were generally good.

Entries in The Pontiac Press Fish Contest indicate that this could be a better than average year for large fish. Entries in the bass division have been running slightly heavier than a year ago at this time.

★ ★ ★

The current leader is a 5¾-pound largemouth caught Sunday at Lake Orion.

It was taken on a Rapala by Charles Wedge, 296 Sandy Oaks, Lake Orion. Also taken the same day from the same lake was a 5½-pounder by Robert Ochoa, 2881 Pontiac Road. He was using a nightcrawler harness.

★ ★ ★

Among the earlier entries were a 4-pounder by Jerry Gdula, 6860 Dixie, Independence Township, from Middle (Cemetery) Lake; Gary Goebele' 3¾-pounder from Watkins Lake, caught in front of the Goebel home; and Calvin Queen's nearly five-pounder that took opening day honors. Queen lives near Maceday Lake, but fished Pontiac.

★ ★ ★

The pike division also was active. Allan E. Orvis, 921 University, entered a northern weighing 8 pounds, 9 ounces caught at Davis Lake with a minnow.

PIKE ENTRIES

His fish lost the division lead, however, to a 9-pounder taken by Frank Losey, 66 Newberry, at Oxbow Lake. Losey also was using a minnow for bait.

★ ★ ★

A $50 savings bond is awarded to the angler with the heaviest entry in each division. Only residents of Oakland County are eligible and the fish must be caught in Oakland waters.

★ ★ ★

Large and smallmouth bass compete in the same division. Muskies and walleyes are eligible for the pike division.

Entries must be brought to The Press sports department between 7 a.m. and 2 p.m. Monday through Saturday for weighing. The building is closed Sunday. The contest closes Sept. 2.

Rain and cold the last couple of days has dampened enthusiasm for fishing. The outlook is good for the remainder of the month.

★ ★ ★

By then the big bluegills will be moving into deep water along with bass and pike will be going into their summer doldrums.

★ ★ ★

The more skillful will catch fish while others will lose interest and turn to different recreational pursuits.

★ ★ ★

Perch and pike fishing has been so good at Saginaw Bay the last week that hardly anyone is bothering with salmon. Some fishermen are catching coho up in the Sand Point area, but the opening of bass season has lured many anglers to the rocky areas and reefs.

CONTEST LEADERS—Charles Wedge (top), 296 Shady Oaks, Lake Orion, holds the five-pound, 12-ounce largemouth black bass he caught Sunday that is leading the bass division of The Pontiac Press Fish Contest. In the photo below, Frank Losey, 66 Newberry, shows off the nine-pound northern that is pacing the pike class. He caught the fish at Oxbow Lake.

LARGER SURROUNDINGS — "Girl Friday" Jacqueline Syzmanski of Holly and her now silent owl friend are shown in the larger offices of the new headquarters. A counter probably will be added at a later date. The owl will oversee operations from atop the filing cabinet in the background.

Alewife Relief Holds for Lake Michigan

Lake Michigan's die-off of alewives this summer is not expected to approach the costly, stench-ridden disaster of 1967, according to an authority for the U. S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries in Ann Arbor.

★ ★ ★

A. L. McLain, investigations chief for the BCF's Lake Michigan-Lake Huron Program, reports that an assessment study made last fall indicates that adult alewife numbers south from Ludington along the eash shore of Lake Michigan are at — or perhaps slightly below — the level they were in 1967 following that year's massice losses of the nuisance fish.

★ ★ ★

That die-off knocked the lake's fall ppulation of adult alewives 65 per cent below 1966.

★ ★ ★

Largely as a result of this, there were no "conspicuous" losses of alewives in Lake Michigan last summer.

POOR SURVIVAL

The relief should carry through this year and probably again in 1970 because adult stocks of the fish were unable to build up last fall.

★ ★ ★

Part of the reason is traced to poor survival from their hatches in 1965 and 1966, notes McLain.

★ ★ ★

McLain says neither year class appears strong enough to trigger a substantial recovery of adult alewife stocks in Lake Michigan.

★ ★ ★

It also looks as though the 1967 year class of the lake's alewives is weaker than those during the earlier explosion of the nuisance fish.

Seek Approval for New Park

Macomb County Site Eyed by State DNR

The Natural Resources Commission will be asked at its monthly meeting Friday to approve the project boundaries for a new state park in Macomb County.

As proposed by the DNR's parks division, the park would be located between 24 and 28-Mile Roads and be traversed by the East Branch of the Clinton River. It would eventually encompass 913 acres.

The commission will meet at Blaney Park in the Upper Peninsula. Informal discussions will get under way at 10 a.m. and action on agenda items at 2 p.m.

Approval to legalize the keeping of foul-hooked salmon is being asked. This was presented to the commission at its May meeting.

RESTRICTIONS SET

Maximum hook size and sinker weight restrictions for inland waters are included in the provision.

Commercial fishing regulations, land matters and timber sales are also on the agenda.

Family Planning Lays Egg

She Just Sits There---Brooding

Would you believe one duck blissfully incubating 37 eggs?

That's what game habitat biologist Dick Elden of the Department of Natural Resources found while checking wood duck nesting houses erected last winter by members of the Oakland Duck Hunters Club.

"It's what we call a dump nest," said Elden who works out of the Holly recreation area. "A hen will drop in, lay some eggs and move on. Any woodie nest we find with over 12 or 13 eggs is considered a dump nest."

One hen usually takes up permanent residence, said the biologist. Sometimes two will occupy the same box.

RAINING DUCKS

"If all 37 eggs hatched," said Howard Greene, district game supervisor in the Pontiac Lake office," the air would be raining ducklings when they hopped out of that box."

However, Greene and Elden don't expect this to happen. "We have no way of knowing how many will hatch," said Greene.

The nesting boxes are the first project undertaken by the duck hunters' club to improve nesting conditions for waterfowl. Members constructed the boxes last winter and placed 90 in the Highland, Pontiac Lake, Holly and Bald Mountain recreation areas.

They appear to have scored a direct hit with the project.

Elden reported that highest use is in the Holly and Bald Mountain areas.

CORRELATION NOTED

"This is where wood duck habitat is the best and correlates with previous findings that show a higher percentage of woodies nest where conditions are more to their liking."

He said that several boxes were being used for dump nests and in one eight-acre pond in the Bald Mountain area, all of the 10 boxes erected last winter are occupied.

"There are nine wood duck nests," Elden reported, "and a hooded merganser is using the other one.

"It isn't unusual for a hooded merganser to be found in these boxes. We've even found mergansers and woodies nesting under the same roof."

Wood ducks prefer to nest in hollow trees or other cavities above the water. This is why the special nest houses are so successful. The boxes are nothing more than oversize bird houses. However, they are made of much heavier material and usually are equipped with a metal predator shields near below the bases.

The Oakland Ducks Hunters are affiliated with the Oakland County Sportmen's Club and meet monthly at the OCSC clubhouse.

Hunters Take 50 Tom Turkeys

Fifty tom wild turkeys were taken during the two weekend seasons last month in Northern Michigan, according to the Department of Natural Resources.

The tally shows 30 taken in the Baldwin district and 20 from the Mio area. The gobblers ranged in weight from 15-22 pounds. The DNR issued 3,200 permits for the spring hunt.

Price of Item 'Towers' Above Buyers

If you interests go "high" enough, there's a chance to buy a collector's item through the purchasing division for the State Department Administration in Lansing.

★ ★ ★

Through 3:30 p.m., June 23, that division is accepting bid offers of $100 and up for each of 20 surplus fire towers which have been phased out of use by the Department of Natural Resources.

★ ★ ★

All of the steel structures, ranging from 75 to 115 feet tall, are located in backwoods areas of the Upper Peninsula, except for two standing in Iosco and Antrim counties.

★ ★ ★

People buying these obsolete outposts of the DNR's old fire detection program must dismantle and remove them within 90 days after their offers are approved. They must also clean up grounds where the towers now stand.

★ ★ ★

Bid forms and additional information on the towers may be obtained by writing to: Michigan Department of Administration, Purchasing Division, Lansing, Michigan 48913.

Campers Return to Paradise for Holiday

Groveland-Oaks Facility Part of County System

After being cooped up all Winter — there really wasn't much of a Spring — the families were ready for the return to Paradise.

Camping, swimming, fishing sunbathing or loafing; that's the fare at Groveland-Oaks County Park. Before readers become too confused, it should be pointed out that there's been a name change.

* * *

Groveland-Oaks was known as Paradise Beach until the county purchased the facility centered by Stewart Lake at Grange Hall and Dixie Highway in Groveland Township.

* * *

It will be some time before people quit thinking of the park as Paradise. The same holds for the Davisburg golf club now under the monicker of Springfield-Oaks and Tudor Hills which will be known as Addison-Oaks.

ACTIVITIES BUILDING

The recreation building next to the Oakland County Parks and Recreation office on Watkins Lake Road is called Waterford-Oaks Activities Building and the Crooked Lake property has a tag of Independence-Oaks.

All of the lands and buildings except Springfield-Oaks were purchased with specially voted millage monies and federal matching funds. The golf layout already was owned by the county.

Paradise Beach was a successful private recreation park when purchased by the county last year.

* * *

"We bought it one day and were operating it the next," said County Parks Director Ken Van Natta. "We were fortunate that Arnold Johnston agreed to stay as manager."

* * *

The Independence property is raw real estate that will take extensive developing There are several buildings, trap and skeet ranges at Addison which was formerly a shooting preserve.

Back to Paradise, er, Groveland where 1,200 camp units dropped in for the Memorial Day weekend. Pictures on this page tell the story.

Slow-Pitch Bats Boom in City Tilts

A couple of teams went on a hitting rampage last night in Pontiac slow-pitch softball.

Pontiac Police rapped out 18 hits and played errorless ball in a 19-4 decision over Grubb's Kennels, while Peterson's Beauty Salon came up with 22 hits and pounded First Christian Church, 27-4.

In other games, Reliable Transmission downed Pontiac Pistons, 7-2, Eagles No. 1230 whipped Bob & Ken's, 11-7, and Local No. 653 edged Pontiac Press No. 2, 5-3.

SPARK POLICEMEN

Walt Patton, Harry Kunkell, Dennis Kline and Gary Lambert belted three hits apiece to spark the policemen to victory. Herb Atkins clouted a solo homer for Grubb's.

Ron Coleman banged out four hits and drove in three runs while Jerry Saling collected four hits, one a home run, to pace the Peterson attack.

CLOUTS HOMER

Wink Wright picked up three singles and Gary Hayward clouted a homer and added a single to lead Reliable to victory. Down 2-1 after three innings, Reliable scored twice in the fourth, once in the fifth and wrapped it up with three in the top of the seventh.

* * *

The Eagles pushed across seven runs in the first two innings to start their win over Bob & Ken's. Loren Kay set the pace with four straight singles, while Jim Jones and Chuck Huggins drove in three runs apiece. Mel Nuss had three safeties for the losers.

Local 653 cracked a 3-3 tie with two runs in the bottom of the sixth in downing Pontiac Press. Dean Wellman set the pace for the unionmen with four singles.

READING, Pa. (AP) — Robert H. Wilkey, 31, of Boyertown, Pa., a midget auto car racer who crashed in his first run at the Reading Fair Grounds, died Tuesday of injuries suffered in the crash last Thursday.

NFL Owners Tackle Trade Problem

NEW YORK (AP) — The 26 pro football club owners met jointly today, tackling rules and procedures that will be involved in inter-league trading in 1970—which could help solve the O. J. Simpson cases of the future.

Simpson, of course, is the Heisman Trophy winning running back who has been drafted by the Buffalo Bills and been unable to reach satisfactory contract terms with the American Football League club.

* * *

The impasse revolves around Simpson's demands for a $650,000 contract and the Bills' offer of $50,000 per year for five years. Simpson recently asked to have his rights traded to another team and Buffalo owner Ralph Wilson said he would consider it.

However, both parties are handicapped in any trade efforts by terms of the merger agreement between the AFL and National Football League, which prohibits inter-league trading until 1970. That means Simpson can only be traded among the other nine AFL clubs.

In 1970, when the ban on inter-league trading is lifted, a team involved in a contract dispute with a player of Simpson's caliber who wished to trade him, will be able to talk trade with all 25 other teams in pro football.

CERTAIN PERIOD

The owners must reach a decision on whether to permit inter-league trading for the entire year or to restrict it to a certain period during the year. They appear to be leaning to a plan that would restrict inter-league trading to a certain number of weeks following the end of each season.

While the owners pushed ahead with joint business there also were some informal talks between NFL owners still trying to seek a solution to their realignment problem after 31½ hours of inconclusive debate.

* * *

The NFL owners failed again Tuesday to reach accord on breaking the 13 teams down into three divisions for the 1970 season and Commissioner Pete Rozelle said it was doubtful they would be able to come up with a decision this week.

The main stumbling block appeared to be the unanimous vote required before realignment can be accomplished. Rozelle said the owners had had 11-2 votes on several plans but were unable to advance further.

In realigning, only two teams are set — Los Anglese and San Francisco must be in one division. That leaves the juggling to be done among Atlanta, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Green Bay, Minnesota, New Orleans, New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Washington.

Trading Fairly Active

Market Musters Small Gain

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market mustered a small gain in fairly active trading early this afternoon on rekindled hopes of a start on withdrawal of U.S. troops from South Vietnam.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon had edged up 0.19 to 930.97 after showing a gain of 1.48 an hour earlier.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was ahead .8 with industrials up .8, rails up .8 and utilities up .2.

Advances of individual issues led declines by 125 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers expressed the opinion that the market was showing a mild reaction to a published report that the meeting of President Nixon and South Vietnam President Thieu on Midway Island Sunday may produce an announcement of the first unilateral reduction of U.S. troops in South Vietnam.

★ ★ ★

But they said anxiety over the tight money situation still was hanging over the market.

★ ★ ★

Steels, aircrafts, electronics, rails, airlines and tobaccos were mostly higher. Oils, which have been strong recently, were generally lower.

Canadian Breweries, unchanged at 13¾, topped the Big Board's most active list, mainly because a block of 100,000 shares changed hands.

Canadian Export led the most active list on the American exchange, where prices were generally mixed. It gained ¾ to 10⅝. Other oils were actively traded with Continental advancing ⅜ to 35⅝ and Great Basin Petroleum adding ● at 13¼. Parvin-Dohrmann, which has been volatile, spurted 8½ to 114½.

Kresge Store Reopening Set

The recently remodeled downtown Kresge store will hold a grand reopening tomorrow.

The extensive upgrading of the store shows continued faith in a strong customer acceptance in Pontiac, said store manager Douglas Scott.

★ ★ ★

Noting some of the improvements, Scott said the store was converted to the more popular check-out, self-serve type which will accelerate customer service.

Another improvement is the new counters which were installed on the first floor in order to completely display merchandise on one floor, Scott said.

Beginning tomorrow the store will operate regular Sunday hours from noon to 5 p.m.

Memories of Fine Wines Root of Tasters' Grapevine

PARIS (AP) — Some people go all glassy-eyed when asked about the finest wine they ever tasted.

Such was the case at a recent tasting session for rare old wines, at the Paris branch of Christie's, the London auction house.

★ ★ ★

"They are the clarets of 1858-74," said Richard Walter, a young, bearded Christie's man.

"That was their golden age. Everything conspired to make them, well you cannot call them immortal, but certainly the finest of any living memory.

IT IS LIKE . . .

"When you sip one, it is like . . ." His voice trailed off and his gaze fixed afar.

If there were any over-all impressions to be gained from that tasting session, they were these:

● Taste is largely a question of imagination and is a highly individual matter. Some people have cultivated their tastes and some have not.

★ ★ ★

But even the professionals differ on how taste should be translated into dollars and cents. And the rarest and oldest are never automatically the best.

● The vintage wine people make mistakes like everyone else. Vintages are sometimes allowed to age right on past their peak and grow worse, perhaps by 10 or 20 years.

★ ★ ★

Some are rediscovered and sold after being forgotten for years in obscure cellars.

★ ★ ★

To help American wine buyers, who are increasing foreign purchases 15 per cent a year, Christie's certified wine taster, Michael Broadbent, explained that not all wines are vintage wines, the ones which improve with age of 10, 20 or 50 years.

★ ★ ★

The majority, in fact, are for current consumption — no matter how good — and risk turning bad in a very few years.

★ ★ ★

Surprisingly, the winemaker knows when he has the makings of a vintage wine on his hands. He judges it by pedigree, soil, moisture, sunshine.

'66 A GOOD YEAR

The combination was good "across the board in 1966 for Burgundies and Bordeaux," said Alexander McNally, an American importer.

★ ★ ★

The blends of various wines must be exact — yes, said McNally, they are blended, although only the dominating variety is listed on the label.

★ ★ ★

The winemaker watches closely during two years in barrels.

He picks his "laying down" wines — alcohol is important because it is the preservative — and uses the highest possible quality corks, storing the bottles tilted to keep the corks moist.

A good winemaker, said Broadbent, won't go back for another taste for 10 years. But the corks are constantly inspected because the slightest oxygen is murder.

French negotiator Raoul Johnston said oxygen will spoil the bouquet of some wines within a half hour after opening, especially if in small bottles where they mature faster.

ONE LAST WORD

One last word of advice: A wine tasting of old vintages is a poor place for heaving drinking. After two full hours of tasting by 30 persons, the 20 bottles were missing only a cupful on the average.

Victims Beef but Crime Is Boys' Meat

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Speedy steak robbers, armed with slingshots and steel darts, are snatching food from under the customer's nose at several restaurants in downtown Rio.

The robbers are boys of 11-18. Shouting and jumping, they rush into restaurants at mealtimes, grab newly served or half-eaten slabs of ham, steak, chicken breasts and bolt out the door. Customers and restaurant proprietors are thrown into confusion by a rain of painful steel darts.

★ ★ ★

The robbers, often barefoot, have an advantage in being skinny. They slip in and around tables with amazing agility while more portly adults trip over chairs and flounder amidst tablecloths attempting to save their steaks.

Sometimes as many as 20 youngsters swoop down on a restaurant at one time.

STEAL SWEETS

Later in the day the boys descend on candy and cake shops and steal any sweets displayed on counter tops.

Proprietors have formed vigilante groups to guard store fronts. Many shop owners are putting all cakes and candies behind glass counters.

★ ★ ★

The businessmen dare not punish a boy even if he is caught — for fear that the rest of the band will return later and take revenge by pillaging or setting fire to a store.

"These are true gangsters," commented one restaurant owner. "Any reaction by us will provoke a cruel revenge. The solution is to wait for the police who one day will appear."

Now 18 Can Stay in Tarheel Schools

WAYNESVILLE, N.C. (AP) — The opening of I-40 near Mount Sterling will enable 18 Haywood County pupils to enroll in North Carolina schools instead of attending Tennessee schools as tuition-subsidized pupils.

For the last two years, the state has been paying $7,000 yearly for them. They began attending the Tennessee schools when the one-teacher school at Mount Sterling was closed.

★ ★ ★

They couldn't attend other Haywood County schools because the roads in the area were too hazardous for bus travel.

Card of Thanks 1

WE WISH to thank the First Christian Church and all friends and relatives of Howard Jr. and Randy Mullaniz.
Sincerely, Mrs. Howard Mullaniz and Family.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY of my wife, Beatrice Mae Lehmann who passed away June 3, 1968!
The love we had, day and night
Until the Lord took you away
But in my heart, you're here to stay
Until we meet again, someday.
Sadly missed by her devoted husband.

People in the News

By the Associated Press

Astronaut Russell Schweickart of Apollo 9 met a crowd of his relatives yesterday in the Alsatian village of Lembach, France, which was the original home of his grandfather, Jacques.

Schweickart and his wife met two of his granduncles, two grandaunts and about 50 cousins.

Mayor Charles Klein named Mr. and Mrs. Schweickart honorary citizens of the village.

U. S. Red Party Head Leaves for Moscow Confab

HALL

Gus Hall, general secretary of the American Communist party, has left for Moscow to head the U.S. delegation to the international conference of Communist parties beginning tomorrow.

Announcing this yesterday, party headquarters in New York said Chairman Henry Winston and James Jackson, international affairs secretary, already were in the Soviet capital.

Paratrooper Rowing to Scotland Reported Safe

Thomas McClean, a 26-year-old British army paratrooper, who left St. John's, Nfld., May 17 to row across the Atlantic, has been reported safe and well 220 miles east of Newfoundland.

★ ★ ★

Two Portuguese trawlers, the Rio Alsus Queiro and Comandante Tenreiro, reported by radio to St. John's yesterday that McClean had pulled his 20-foot dory alongside them to ask for an exact position.

★ ★ ★

McClean left here hoping to row to Scotland in 80 days.

Sister of Late Filipino Chief Accuses Firemen

A sister of the late Philippines President Ramon Magsaysay has accused a number of firemen of attempting to extort money from her in exchange for saving her home at the height of a big fire here last week.

★ ★ ★

Mercedes Magsaysay's charges were contained in a letter yesterday to a police official, as a joint city hall-police investigation of complaints from fire victims continued.

★ ★ ★

Miss Magsaysay said three apartment buildings she owned were destroyed and her residence was partially damaged by the $2.5-million dollar fire, which razed a large commercial and residential district here.

★ ★ ★

Witnesses who testified at a hearing yesterday included a Catholic priest, who said that firemen stood by while his church burned because he disregarded their hints of extortion money.

'Bowery Boy' Is Dead at 52

Began Film Career in '37 in Bogart Picture

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — From the day he began acting as one of the original Dead End Kids" Leo Gorcey was typecast.

It was 1935 and he was 18 when the stage play opened. It was about a gang of tough New York slum kids on a street dead-ending at the aEst River. Leo was the leader, "Spit."

★ ★ ★

Until his death at 52 Monday in an Oakland hospital after a long illness, he continued to play a tough-talking wise guy.

Samuel Goldwyn put the Kids in the movies in 1937 in a film starring Humphrey Bogart. Warner Brothers next signed them for gangster films starring Bogart and Edward G. Robinson. In their "Angels With Dirty Faces" the stars were James Cagney and Pat O'Brien.

'BOWREY BOYS'

In the "Bowery Boys" series made later by Monogram Studio, the kids include Gorcey, Billy Halop, Bobby Jordan and Huntz Hall.

Hall and another Dead End Kid, Gabriel Dell, eventually formed a nightclub act.

★ ★ ★

Gorcey's brother, David also became a stage and movie actor. Their father, Bernard, had created the Isaac Cohen role in "Abie's Irish Rose," on the New York stage.

Gorcey is survived by his fifth wife, the former Mary E. Gannon, 26, whom he married last year, and his son, Army Pfc. Leo B. Gorcey Jr.

★ ★ ★

The funeral will be at 10:30 a.m. Friday in a mortuary chapel at Red Bluff followed by burial in Los Molinos Cemetery. Gorcey had lived on a ranch in north central California since 1956.

Widow of Dulles Leaves Estate of Over $1 Million

NEW YORK (AP) — Janet Avery Dulles, widow of former Secretary of State Johnson Foster Dulles, has left an estate of "more than $1 million."

Mrs. Dulles' will was filed for probate Tuesday in Manhattan Surrogate Court. She died in Washington, D.C., at the age of 77 May 14.

The bulk of the estate is bequeathed to a son, John of Austin, Tex., and a daughter, Mrs. Lillian Dulles Hinshaw of New York City.

A Look at TV

Sirhan View Confusing

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK — The American public had its first real close-up look at Sirhan Sirhan, convicted assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, in an interview with NBC news correspondent Jack Perkins, portions of which were broadcast on the network's "First Tuesday" program.

CYNTHIA

The slight, dark man, speaking with some accent, responded volubly, almost eagerly, to the newsman's questions—up to the point when he was asked about the events immediately surrounding the shootingof the senator a year ago. Most of the time a half-smile played on his features.

★ ★ ★

Perkins reminded Sirhan of testimony that he had been drinking and looked around the Ambassador Hotel for some coffee. Sirhan agreed.

★ ★ ★

"I don't remember much that happened after that . . . " he said.

MUCH CONFUSING

Much of his talk was confusing since Sirhan repeatedly voiced his affection for Kennedy, his sorrow about his death and his inability to realize the man died at his hand.

The excerpts included in the two-hour news show were introduced by host Sander Vanocur who said the interview was conducted the day after Sirhan had been sentenced to death, had been arranged through the prisoner's counsel "for a fee." Since the whole interview lasted some two hours and only about 18 minutes of it was shown, perhaps the continuity suffered from editing.

★ ★ ★

NBC's monthly two-hour show competes, during its second half, with CBS's weekly news hour. Since the Sirhan interview was the high point of the program, NBC shrewdly held it for that last portion.

The first hour was filled with features that seemed long and drawn-out. There was an inspection of some high school and college students interested in witchcraft and the occult, including one stagy-looking sequence showing some teen-age girls holding a seance during a slumber party.

WITH PALMS?

It was followed by a segment showing the less-than-affluent life on a small tropic island in Micronesia, followed by some material on Guam — "Grand Rapids with palms," Vanocur called it—where, in spite of neon signs and other beauties of civilization, honeymooning Japanese couples find a romantic paradise.

★ ★ ★

There was also a long feature on a smoking clinic, long on exhortation on the evils of cigarettes and testimonials by the participants but no help to any viewers who wanted to quit. There was a short and interesting bit, later in the program on a fairly successful voluntary sterilization program in overpopulated India.

★ ★ ★

There may be some complaints from California after Arthur Miller, the playwright, read a "collage" of thoughts assembled during a tour of the state. Most of his impressions, illustrated as he spoke, were dryly cynical.

Some samples:

"California is Christianity plus all the conveniences" (illustrated by services at a drive-in church).

THAT'S TRAGEDY

"Tragedy is when you lose your boat."

"Society is when people listen to classical music."

★ ★ ★

"Progress is anything that turns itself on and off."

The total impression was so rough that Vanocur appeared with a postscript stating that Miller had said that his observations were not meant to apply to California exclusively.

Pay TV to Be Halted if It Hurts, Says FCC

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pay-television will be yanked off the air in any area where it begins putting free TV out of business, says Rosel H. Hyde, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission.

Hyde said in an interview, however, that fears the proposed authorization of pay-TV would spell the end of free programs are unjustified.

★ ★ ★

In two months, the FCC has received about 150 letters from TV fans who believe—as opposition advertising suggests—that free TV is in danger.

Last Dec. 13, the FCC issued general rules for permitting pay-TV service, in which a broadcast signal is transmitted in a scrambled form that can only be unscrambled on the home TV set by use of a rented decoder.

IN EFFECT JUNE 12

The rules take effect June 12, but this does not mean an immediate start on pay-TV.

★ ★ ★

An appeal by the National Association of Theater Owners and Joint Committee Against Toll TV is under consideration by the District of Columbia Circuit Court of Appeals, and the FCC has agreed not to authorize any pay-TV operations for 60 days after the court decision.

★ ★ ★

The National Association of Broadcasters (NAB) also has expressed fears that pay-TV could eventually force free TV off the air.

But the FCC says its rules are designed to prevent pay-TV from "siphoning" programs away from free TV.

★ ★ ★

They will permit one pay-TV station each in areas which already have at least four free commercial TV signals available, not counting educational TV.

FOUR OTHER SIGNALS

Asked whether pay-TV, once established, could continue if an area no longer had the required four other signals, Hyde said the loss of a fourth commercial station in any area would be an "automatic disqualification" of continued pay-TV in that market.

★ ★ ★

"We could even put them on a one-year license if we wished, to provide more frequent review of circumstances," he speculated, "but I'm not sure that would be necessary. Three years (the normal life of a broadcast license) might be enough."

★ ★ ★

This didn't satisfy a spokesman for the NAB who said "The rules won't work. The FCC will either alter them or abandon them. Either we stick with the present system or we'll wind up with all-pay television."

★ ★ ★

Hyde bridled at the thought.

He agreed the FCC might tighten up rules if loopholes were found but added, "The suggestion we might modify the rules to conduce siphoning off (programs from free TV) is repugnant to what was always our policy."

★ ★ ★

Hyde said the concerned parties will have to have confidence that the FCC will do the decent thing.

Policemen Lament: No Time for Lunch

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Increased crime has swallowed up their lunch hours, policemen contend in a $500,000 claim against the city.

"Our policemen are deprived of lunch periods because of the tremendously heavy work schedule caused by the ever-increasing crime rate" a spokesman for the Los Angeles Fire and Police Protective League said Tuesday after the claim was filed with the city clerk on behalf of the 5,500 policemen who belong to the league.

★ ★ ★

If the claim for $500,000 isn't met by the city, he said, a civil suit will be filed in court.

Sweet Gem Qualities as Cake, Muffin

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Nowadays many mothers are nutrition-conscious in practical ways. They don't keep telling their youngsters to eat such-and-such because it's full of vitamins and minerals; they just add nutritious ingredients to everyday dishes and make those dishes taste good.

One of the nutrient - rich ingredients they're likely to use is wheat germ, and they use it in ingenious ways — from working it into a meat-loaf mixture to sprinkling it over pancake batter.

★ ★ ★

A wheat-germ recipe we tried recently is going into our extra-good file. It's for Walnut Gems — a cross between a muffin and a cupcake. The gems are delicious served warm from the oven or reheated.

WALNUT GEMS—They're made with nutritious wheat germ and are a cross between a muffin and a cupcake.

WALNUT GEMS

1¾ cups unsifted flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup wheat germ
⅜ pound (1½ sticks) butter or margarine
½ cup sugar
2 eggs
1¼ cups milk
1 cup chopped (medium-fine) walnuts

On wax paper thoroughly sift together the flour, baking powder and salt; stir in wheat germ.

In a medium-size mixing bowl cream butter and sugar; beat in eggs.

Add flour mixture to creamed mixture alternately with milk. Stir in walnuts.

★ ★ ★

Fill well-greased muffin-pan cups ⅔ full (or use paper baking cups in pans).

Bake in preheated 375-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — 20 to 25 minutes. Serve warm, or reheat — with or without butter.

Makes 1½ dozen large or 2 dozen medium gems.

Chocolate Milk Base of Punch

Almond Mocha Punch is both nutritious and mighty good tasting: Combine ¼ teaspoon almond extract, 2 quarts cold chocolate milk or chocolate dairy drink, and 1 quart coffee ice cream. Stir until ice cream is almost melted.

★ ★ ★

Pour into punch bowl and float 1 quart coffee ice cream by spoonfuls on top of punch. Serve at once. Makes about 4 quarts, or 32 punch-cup servings.

Dress up butter pats by dipping a fork in hot water and moving the tongs across the pat from corner to corner. A sprig of parsley adds a colorful note.

Noodle Cheese Dish Is Satisfying and Hearty

Why do both nutritionists and consumers find cottage cheese an important part of menu planning? For the nutritionist, it is a concern for essential nutrients, including vitamins and minerals. Since cottage cheese is made from milk, she would naturally find it nutritionally beneficial — A food to be often included in the diet.

For the consumer, cottage cheese is versatile. It may be served any time, alone or in combination with fruits, vegetables and meats. Cottage cheese is at home in both formal and informal settings — or even may be taken to the office for lunch.

● For mother and her teen-age daughter, cottage cheese represents a low calorie food that often is the focal point of a luncheon menu.

● To the men of the family, both dad and boy, cottage cheese is a high protein food that provides extra energy.

● For both baby and the elderly, cottage cheese is easily eaten and digested. Also cottage cheese means ease in service and availability. Perhaps most important of all, cottage cheese tastes great!

Cottage cheese is a versatile, nutritious product. It may play an important role in good nutrition for your family. Plan to keep a carton or two in the refrigerator all the time.

Nutritious cottage cheese is a flavorful ingredient in casseroles as well as salads.

NOODLE CASSEROLE SMETANE

1 pkg. (6 or 6½ oz.) wide noodles
⅓ cup butter, divided
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 cups milk
½ cup shredded Parmesan cheese, divided
¼ cup sliced green onion
1 cup dairy sour cream
1 cup large curd cottage cheese
¼ cup corn flake crumbs

Cook noodles as directed on package; drain. Melt 3 tablespoons butter in saucepan. Blend in flour, salt and pepper. Blend in milk. Cook and stir until sauce is smooth and thickened.

Blend in ¼ cup cheese, green onion, sour cream, cottage cheese and noodles. Pour into 2-quart casserole. Melt remaining butter, add corn flake crumbs and remaining ¼ cup cheese; mix.

Spoon crumbs around edge of casserole. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees 50 to 60 minutes or until thoroughly heated. Garnish with a dollop of sour cream if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Vegetables, Nuts Join Macaroni

Nuggets of toasted California walnuts add flavor and color-contrast to any salad but are particularly welcome in a macaroni-vegetable salad.

Combine two cups cooked macaroni with ½ cup mixed yellow and green beans, plus ¼ cup each diced pimiento and toasted walnuts. Serve in lettuce cups with a dressing of mayonnaise spiked with prepared mustard and vinegar.

STRAWBERRY THICKSHAKES — Reserve a few berries for garnish and puree the remainder of one quart of strawberries in blender. Strain through double thickness of cheesecloth to remove seeds. Blend puree and one quart vanilla ice cream, softened, in blender until smooth. Place blender container in freezer for about one hour. Blend a few seconds before serving, until smooth. Spoon into tall glasses and serve immediately with long spoons. Garnish with whole strawberries.

Mushroom Dishes Mean Pleasant Dieting

The mini-skirt is on its way out, according to the latest fashion news, and is being replaced by the full-length pants suit for the ladies. Pants will, in fact, be worn throughout the day and evening, some as restrained as a banker's, others, for cocktail wear, of stuff as frivolous as gold lace.

Obviously, this new look will demand the trimmest hips and a flat midriff. Since millions of American women are just a bit over-weight, a few weeks of shaping up had better precede the shopping spree.

★ ★ ★

Many perfectly delicious foods are low calorie. One of the best of them is mushrooms, fresh, canned or frozen. A pound of mushrooms containes about 90 calories in contrast with some 1200 calories for a pound of hamburger. Because of their "meaty" texture they are high in satiety value, giving a sense of having eaten well.

NUTRITIOUS TOO

The nutrition-conscious will be glad to know that mushrooms are a relatively good source of protein, phosphorus, iron, thiamine, riboflavin and niacin. Moreover, they are low in sodium which makes them suitable in the restricted diets for those with heart or kidney diseases or hypertension.

Raw mushrooms make intriguing nibbling, just as they are. For the weight-watcher, mushrooms may be simmered in broth, herbed or spiced water or a seasoned vegetable juice.

To solve the problem of what to eat, home economists of the American Mushroom Institute give us this low calorie casserole dish with the flavorful crunch of mushrooms.

LOW CALORIE MUSHROOM-BEEF ROULADE

¾ pound fresh mushroom or 1 can (8 oz.) mushroom stems and pieces and 1 can (3 to 4 oz.) sliced mushrooms and pieces and 1 can (3 to 4 oz.) sliced mushrooms
½ cup finely chopped onion
½ cup finely chopped celery
⅓ cup grated carrot
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 tablesooon lemon juice
½ teaspoon poultry seasoning
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
2½ pounds (8 individual) lean minute steaks
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce

Finely chop ½ pound of the fresh mushrooms (makes 2¾ cups) or drain 8 oz. can of mushrooms; place in a skillet. Slice remaining fresh mushrooms or drain can of sliced mushrooms; set aside.

★ ★ ★

Add to mushrooms in skillet onion, celery, carrot, parsley, lemon juice, poultry seasoning, ½ teaspoon of the salt and ⅜ teaspoon of the black pepper. Cover tightly and cook over medium heat, stirring occasionally, until vegetables are tender, about 10 minutes.

FILL AND ROLL

Sprinkle steaks with remaining 1 teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon black pepper. Place heaping tablespoon of cooked mushroom mixture on each steak. Roll up and fasten with toothpick or tie with string. Place under preheated broiler and broil, turning to brown on all sides; arrange in casserole.

Pour juice from broiler pan and tomato sauce over meat. Stir in reserved ¼ pound sliced fresh mushrooms or canned sliced mushrooms. Cover casserole and bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 F.) 1½ to 2 hours or until meat is tender. Yield: 8 portions.

Mix Cheese, Ham

Try this Cheese and Ham Spread. Use as a filling for sandwiches or spread on bread and broil until cheese melts. In a bowl combine 1 cup (4 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese, ½ cup finely chopped cooked ham, ¼ cup pickle relish, and ¾ cup light cream or half and half.

Beat jellied cranberry sauce with orange marmalade or applesauce for a spread for toast.

MUSHROOM BEEF ROULADE — It's not hard to stick to a calorie-watching diet when main dishes are as delicious, though low in fats, as this mushroom beef roulade.

CHEESE FRUIT SALAD — Cottage cheese and fruits are natural go-togethers. The creamy mild flavor of nutritious cottage cheese blends deliciously with assorted seasonal fruits.

Salad Mold Is Rich in Dairy Products

Warmer weather and cool gelatin salads — can you think of a more delightful duo? An all-time salad favorite, cottage cheese, is blended into this creamy fruit flavored mold. Crushed canned pineapple is added to a milk-made gelatin base, while a wide assortment of fruits surround the mold at serving time.

Cottage Cheese Fruit Salad is a nutritious way to warm weather menus. Because the salad is made with quality dairy foods, both whole milk and cottage cheese, you may be assured that it is extra nutritious.

* * *

This molded beauty is a mighty tasty way to help your family to a well-balanced diet that includes foods from the milk group, the meat group, the vegetables and fruits group, and the breads and cereals group.

CHEESE FRUIT SALAD

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
½ cup sugar
Dash salt
2 cups milk, divided
1 cup (½ point) creamed cottage cheese
¾ cup salad dressing
1 can (1 lb. 4 oz.) crushed pineapple, undrained

Combine gelatin, sugar and salt. Stir in ½ cup cold milk; allow to soften 5 minutes. Heat remaining milk; add to gelatin mixture and stir until dissolved. Cool until mixture becomes thick and syrupy.

Blend in cottage cheese, salad dressing and crushed pineapple. Pour into 5½ cup oiled mold. Chill until firm. Unmold; garnish with greens and fresh fruits. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Safe in Heat

Artificial refrigeration in ancient times was unknown. The canning process was centuries away. And so, sausage makers in warm Italy, sunny Greece and southern France developed dry sausage products.

Cook rice in half water, half orange juice; top the cooked rice with grated orange rind and serve with roast duck.

Different Ways With Butter

Butter can be served in a number of attractive ways to add eye appeal and taste appeal to the meals you serve. Try these tips:

Butter Pats: Dip fork in hot water and draw across square of butter from corner to corner. Garnish with single sprig of parsley.

Butter Balls; chill a pair of wooden butter paddles. Measure butter by teaspoonfuls for uniformity. Roll lightly between paddles to form ball. To shape rolls, flatten balls into cylinders between paddles. Drop butter balls or rolls onto chilled plate, cracked ice, or into ice water.

* * *

Butter Curls: Use butter curler. Dip into hot water each time. Beginning at far side of pound print of butter, draw curler lightly and rapidly toward you, making a thin shaving which curls up.

To cut: Cover knife blade with fold of waxed paper to make a clean cut in butter.

Cereals Are OK in Most Diets

The average serving of cereals has about 104 calories. Cereals are not fattening and are included in most special diets as well as normal diets. A leading national health organization recommends that at an early age less cholesterol-rich foods should be eaten and this should be made a sound eating habit for the whole family throughout life.

Cereals are very low in fat and contain no cholesterol. Cereals are good for you and your family's health.

Pork, Peaches

Brown pork chops and remove to baking dish. Spoon dairy sour cream over the meat and bake in 350-degree (moderate) oven 30 minutes. Top each chop with a golden canned cling peach half, stuck with whole cloves, and bake 10 minutes longer.

SEAFARER'S SPAGHETTI — Cook 1 medium onion, chopped, with 1 clove minced garlic in 3 tablespoons vegetable oil until tender. Add 2 cans (8 oz. each) tomato sauce with cheese, 1 cup water, ¼ cup chopped parsley, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon oregano and ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Add 1 can (6-7 oz.) tuna or 1 can (7½ oz.) minced clams, drained. Simmer 5 minutes more. Serve over hot cooked spaghetti. Makes 4 servings.

PICNIC FRANKS

Consider Mom in Making Picnic Plans

Pack a picnic cooler for a lazy lunch that the entire family can enjoy, most especially Mom. She likes to take it easy, too. The modern insulated bag, hamper, and refrigerated box or chest all keep cold food cold on the way to the picnic.

For a help-yourself kind of picnic, plan to pack plenty of franks, a variety of cheeses and spreads, pickles and some prepared vegetables.

The franks, cheese and pickles go from the grocery bag right into the picnic carrier with no preparation stop in the kitchen. All are in tightly sealed wrappers, sanitary and neat.

* * *

Into a plastic bag or container go sliced cucumbers, radish roses, and carrot and celery sticks for finger salads. The chilled beverages can go into another cooler or the same cooler, if it isn't getting crowded or too heavy to carry with ease.

* * *

Left in the brown paper bag for carrying may be the buns, corn chips and the closed jars of spreads.

HOT OR COLD

As the menu is planned, keep in mind that energy-rich franks are plumper, juicy, and fully cooked so can be made into sandwiches without heating.

Or if some like the franks hot, take along a small thermos of very hot water. Drop the franks into the water and in a few minutes they are hot.

Here are the suggested combinations and groceries needed for a cook picnic:

- Franks in buns with mustard-mayonnaise and sliced sweet pickles.
- Franks in buns with sliced cheese and mustard, relishes.
- Franks in buns with 1000 Island Dressing, shredded Cheddar cheese and sweet gherkins.
- Corn or potato chips add a crunchy touch to all.

The first book of music to be published by an American composer was "Seven Songs" by Francis Hopkinson.

CANADIAN BACON-CHEESE STRATA

Meat, Eggs, Cheese in Sandwich

Feature a Canadian Bacon-Cheese Strata for dinner, lunch or supper soon. It's a handsome, light-as-a-cloud, completely satisfying main dish for any time of the day.

★ ★ ★

The flavor combination of smoked meats, eggs and cheese has always been a popular one. But when Canadian-style bacon and cheese sandwiches are baked in a delicately seasoned custard until billowy and golden brown — mmm-m-m, these homey sandwiches turn into a magnificent main dish.

CANADIAN BACON-CHEESE STRATA

1 pound thinly sliced Canadian-style bacon, boiled ham or smoked boneless pork shoulder roll
½ cup finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons shortening
12 slices day-old (or firm) white bread
1 package (8 ounce) sliced, pasteurized process American cheese
4 eggs
2½ cups milk
1 teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon salt

★ ★ ★

Reserve 6 slices of Canadian-style bacon, ham or smoked shoulder roll for top of casserole. Cut remaining meat into ½ inch squares. Brown meat and onion in 1 tablespoon shortening over moderate heat.

★ ★ ★

Trim crusts from bread slices. Arrange 6 bread slices over bottom of 2-quart shallow oblong casserole. Sprinkle meat and onion pieces over bread; top each bread slice with 1½ slices of cheese. Cover with remaining bread slices.

Combine eggs, milk, paprika, mustard and salt; beat slightly. Spoon egg mixture over bread slices. Bake in slow oven (325 degrees) until mixture sets, about 45 minutes.

Cut reserved meat slices in half, crosswise, and pan-fry until lightly browned in remaining 1 tablespoon shortening. Top each sandwich with 2 overlapping meat slices 5 minutes before end of baking time. Finish baking; serve at once. Yield: 6 servings.

ROMAN BLEACH, the cleanser bleach gets out dirt suds can't get out. Makes white whiter.

Opening lead—♣7

By OSWALD & JAMES JACOBY

In an expert tennis game you see plenty of errors. The same applies to bridge. The experts take chances in order to keep pressure on their opponents instead of playing safe. Today's hand is rather well known and occurred in an all-expert bridge game in the '30s.

At that time the bonus for a vulnerable grand slam was 2,250 points and worth going after.

North's one-diamond opening was normal. It pays to bid that way with a good hand. North wanted his partner to know he held more diamonds than spades.

★ ★ ★

East had many choices with his fine hand but decided to jam the bidding by jumping to four hearts.

South was not going to be shut out. He had one superstition which was, when dealt a spade suit, you should bid it.

West's five-heart bid was competitive. He had no ideas as to who could make what but he was not vulnerable and was going to keep the flag flying.

★

Now it was up to North to act. He wanted that grand slam bonus and decided somehow or other he would get there. Surely his partner held the diamond king and maybe his partner was void of hearts. Or maybe he could coax a club lead. One way would be to make a false cue bid of six hearts. Would that work?

"No," decided North. If he cue bid hearts and then went to seven West would realize what was going on. Then what could North do?"

★ ★ ★

North figured out his best chance and simply bid seven spades. West finally decided that South had to be void of hearts to make that bid. He opened a club!

South ruffed it in dummy, drew trumps, discarded his losing hearts on the diamonds and made the grand slam.

CARD Sense

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
	1♥	Pass	3♦
Pass	3♥	Pass	4♣
Pass	5♦	Pass	?

You, South, hold:
♠AK54 ♦AK885 ♣KQJ2
What do you do now?

A—Just bid six diamonds. It is too much to expect your partner to hold good diamonds and the ace of clubs.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding five diamonds over your four clubs your partner has jumped to six clubs. What do you do now?

Today is Wednesday, June 4, the 155th day of 1969 with 210 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

★ ★ ★

On this day in history:

In 1800 the finishing touches were put on the White House.

★ ★ ★

In 1896 Henry Ford wheeled his first car from a brick shed in Detroit and drove it around the darkened streets for a trial run.

★ ★ ★

In 1942 the Battle of Midway began, an encounter in which the Japanese fleet suffered its first decisive defeat of World War II.

In 1967 war broken out between Israel and Egypt. It lasted five days and Israel got much Arab territory.

Uses for Oaks Long in History

The Pilgrims came to New England in an oak ship — the Mayflower.

★ ★ ★

And early American homes commonly were floored with hand-hewn oak planks.

★

Today, through machine-manufacturing techniques, oak plank flooring is available that emulates the look of floors in Colonial times.

Good Food Goes to Potluck Luncheon

By JANET ODELL
Food Editor, Pontiac Press

During frontier days, strangers riding the lonely trails to the west often stopped at a log cabin asking for food and shelter. They took potluck with the family.

★ ★ ★

Today, when we speak of potluck, we refer to a cooperative meal. Some places it is called a covered dish meal. In Indiana, we learned recently, it is known as a "pitch-in" meal.

Whatever its name, this type of meal brings out all sorts of interesting food.

★ ★ ★

Some groups plan their potlucks with great care, being sure that there will be a complete meal. Others, more venturesome, just tell the participants to bring a dish serving a certain number. It's amazing how well this usually turns out.

CLOSING LUNCHEON

Take the Orchard Lake Garden Club, for instance. For the third consecutive year, some 20 members have gotten together for a potluck luncheon late in May. We attended the one they had last week at the Long Lake Shore Drive home of Mrs. Walter Rydzon.

★ ★ ★

You all know how beautiful the weather was last week. It was perfect for a meal on the lawn overlooking the lake. This early in the season, there weren't even any bugs.

Casseroles, salads and desserts were spread in fine array on a table near the house. There were no repeats and the variety was interesting.

★ ★ ★

All the women had brought recipes for their contributions. Thanks to Sally Gerhart, we were able to collect a number of these recipes. We're printing some of the more unusual ones here. You try them at your potlucks. And send us your contributions too—anytime.

One of the most attractive and coolest looking salads was a cucumber ring that Mrs. Harold Laing had brought.

CUCUMBER RING

1½ teaspoons unflavored gelatin
1 tablespoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup boiling water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
thin slices unpared cucumber

Mix gelatin, sugar and salt. Pour in boiling water and stir to dissolve. Add lemon juice.

★ ★ ★

Overlap cucumber slices in bottom of 6½-cup ring mold. Pour gelatin mixture over them and chill until firm.

1 package unflavored gelatin
2 tablespoons sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup boiling water
4 tablespoons lemon juice
6 medium cucumbers peeled
1 package (8 oz.) cream cheese
1 cup mayonnaise
¼ cup minced onion
¼ cup minced parsley

★ ★ ★

Mix gelatin, sugar and salt. Pour in boiling water and stir to dissolve. Add lemon juice.

Halve cucumbers and scrape out seeds. Grind in food chopper, using fine blade. Makes 2 cups drained cucumber.

★ ★ ★

Soften cream cheese, add cucumber, mayonnaise, onion and parsley. Stir in gelatin mixture. Pour over firm layer in mold and chill until firm. Makes 6-8 servings.

MORE TO COME

There were a couple of different main dishes. It is impossible to give recipes for everything, so we'll just sample here and save some of the other recipes for later publishing.

Mrs. Dean Neill brought a delicious seafood casserole.

GINPIE

½ teaspoon chopped parsley
½ cup chooped celery
½ cup chopped green pepper
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon catsup
1 can shrimp
1 can lobster

Mix all ingredients together and put in greased casserole. Cover with bread crumbs. Bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees. Makes 4-5 servings.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. L. W. Johnson's scalloped chicken looked as if it had a souffle top. She says this freezes well.

SCALLOPED CHICKEN

4-5 lb. stewing chicken, cut up salt and pepper
½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup flour
2 cups chicken broth
1½ cups milk
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 cups fresh soft bread crumbs
2 egg yolks, beaten
½ cup chicken broth
2 egg whites stiffly beaten
2 cups broth for gravy

Cook chicken the day before. Remove meat from bones and refrigerate with broth.

Arrange cut chicken in greased 9x13x2-inch baking dish. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Start heating oven to 325 degrees.

MAKE SAUCE

In saucepan, melt butter, stir in flour, 2 cups broth and milk. Cook until thickened. Remove from heat. Stir in seasonings, crumbs, egg yolks and ½ cup chicken broth. Fold in egg whites. Pour over chicken.

Bake one hour. Meanwhile, make chicken gravy with 2 remaining cups chicken broth. Serve with baked dish. Makes 8-10 servings.

★ ★ ★

Oh, those desserts. They represented thousands of calories. One of the most delicious was a chocolate pie made by Mrs. John Hamill.

FRENCH CHOCOLATE MINT PIE

1 cup confectioners sugar
2 eggs
¾ teaspoon peppermint flavor
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
¼ pound butter
9-inch graham cracker crust
Slivered almonds

★ ★ ★

Melt chocolate over hot, not boiling water. Cool. Beat sugar and butter together until very smooth. Add unbeaten eggs, one at a time. Beat well. Add cooled chocolate, then flavoring.

Spread in graham cracker crust. Chill several hours. Sprinkle with slivered almonds. Makes one pie.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Fred Trickey, president of the Orchard Lake group, brought her favorite summer cake. It's easy to make, good to eat. No frosting needed.

VANILLA WAFER CAKE

2 sticks margarine or butter
2 cups sugar
5 eggs
1 box (12 oz.) vanilla wafers, crushed
1 cup coconut
1 cup chopped nuts

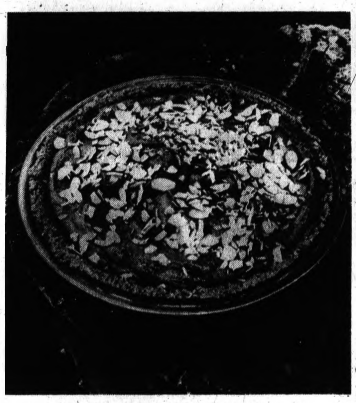

★ ★ ★

Cream margarine or butter and sugar. Beat in eggs well. Mix cookie crumbs, coconut and nuts and add to first mixture. Bake in greased 10-inch tube pan or 9x9x2 cake pan at 350 degrees for 1 hour.

READY AND WAITING—Guests waiting in the background — a table full of delicious food. Time stands still for a moment while the photographer captures the scene. It was the annual May luncheon of the Orchard Lake Garden Club at the Long Lake Shore home of Mrs. Walter Rydzon. Picture of a perfect potluck.

FRENCH CHOCOLATE MINT PIE

CUCUMBER RING

Try Creamy Sandwich

Six ingredients make six sandwiches in a hurry! This one is different, too, because it uses dried beef from a jar or package with canned soup, cheese and buns.

DRIED BEEF-CHEESE TOASTWICHES

1 jar or package (4 to 5 ounces) dried beef
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed cream of mushroom soup
½ clove garlic, minced
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¾ pound Cheddar cheese, grated
3 buns, split and toasted
Butter or margarine

Shred dried beef. Heat soup with garlic and add pepper, cheese and dried beef. Cook slowly until cheese is melted. Serve on toasted bun halves which have been spread with butter or margarine. 6 servings.

If the meringue topping on your pie seems to shrink from the crust, it's because it was not sealed properly before being put in the oven. Make sure that the meringue touches the edge of the pie crust.

FOR THIS AND THAT—Never underestimate the value of small food savings. They can add up to big budget dollars! New 8-ounce Freezette Jar by Republic Molding Corporation, Chicago, provides an easy answer to storage problems. Air-tight twist-lock lid makes it ideal for use in freezer, refrigerator, pantry, and even lunchboxes. New boilable plastic jar measures 4 inches in diameter, 1¾ inches high. In housewares sections of department and hardware stores.

Moral Re-Armament Uses Troupes to Spread Ideals

MACKINAC ISLAND (AP) — The Moral Re-Armament (MRA) movement in the United States now is operating as "Up With People Inc."

It now has three troupes of young singers touring Europe and attempting to spread by song and association an ideology long advcated by MRA, which views communism as its and the world's mortal enemy.

★ ★ ★

MRA proposes an ideology in which all mankind would practice: "Absolute honesty, absolute purity, absolute unselfishness and absolute love."

It said this could bring about world brotherhood, and an advocate says "nothing has changed in the philosophy" with the coming of Up With People.

The movement grew from the Oxford Group started in England in 1921 by the late Dr. Frank N.D. Buchman, a Lutheran minister who headed MRA's worldwide operations until his death.

J. Blanton Belk, son of a Virginia Presbyterian minister, became head of the MRA movement in the United States when its worldwide operations fragmented upon the death of Buchman's successor, English journalist Peter Howard. Belk also is chief of Up With People Inc., with headquarters in Tucson, Ariz.

★ ★ ★

Up With People has taken over a satellite headquarters in Los Angeles, where it publishes a magazine, "Pace," patterned after Life magazine's format and advocating practice of MRA ideology.

MRA still exists as a corporate but nonoperating structure, according to Michigan sources closely associated with the movement. Executives at both Tucson and Los Angeles were reported from those points to be currently in Europe and unavailable.

DEEDED TO COLLEGE

MRA's American headquarters once were located on this Michigan resort island in the Straits of Mackinac, between Lakes Michigan and Huron. But in 1965 it deeded its $6.5 million complex of buildings and 21-acre grounds to the then forming Mackinac College.

★ ★ ★

Dr. S. Douglas Cornell, president, reports the college is "in deep financial trouble" and without "a great deal of hope" for operating beyond next year.

★ ★ ★

Mackinac College lost between 60 and 90 of the 300 students it started the school year with, earlier this year when it was announced henceforth all would spend six months on campus and the next six months on tour with "Up With People."

Dr. Cornell said the plan later was abandoned, not primarily because of the exodus its announcement generated, but because of the college's ailing financial situation.

30-YEAR MORTGAGE

While MRA donated some of the property here to the college, Dr. Cornell said about a third of it was purchased under a 30 - year mortage from MRA.

When MRA's headquarters were located here the movement's operating format included World Assemblies, with plenary and open sessions, which world leaders were solicited to attend and where some often appeared as speakers.

★ ★ ★

Others, including premiers and potentates, often sent messages praising MRA and its ideals and these were read before assemblies, which Belk described as designed "to get movement into people, not people into a movement."

★ ★ ★

"None of MRA's hierarchy drew salaries and Belk said expenses were financed "like (George) Washington's revolution, by people who believe in it."

MRA has an international headquarters at Caux, Switzerland.

★ ★ ★

MRA's last big international gathering here took place in 1965. It was called "Demonstration for Modernizing America," and was aimed at "mobilizing a force of young men and women capable of providing a cure to corruption, a focus for unity and an alternative to totalitarianism or anarchy."

★ ★ ★

A recruiting campaign was carried to college campuses across the country and elsewhere. Some came from Japan and there were many from Europe, most of them on $200 scholarships for which they had earned the money or from donors.

A major entertainment feature was concerts by "Sing Out '65," by a group of young people, singing such songs as "Up With People" and "What Color is God's Skin?" Other "Sing Out" groups sprouted from this one, and finally "Up With People."

★ ★ ★

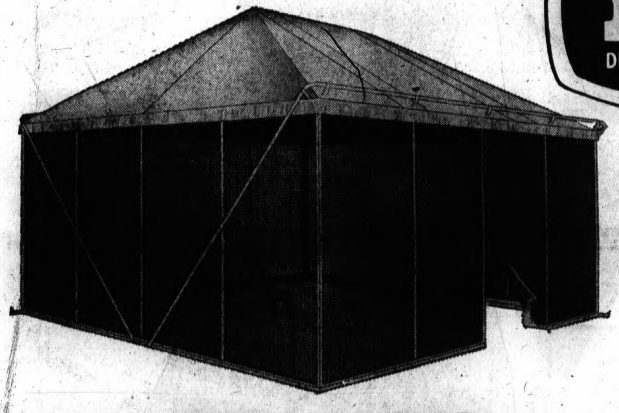

In its tours, "Up With People" has organized local "Sing Out" groups in communities its troupes have visited. There are at least two in Michigan.

Pecans may soon become a major crop in New Mexico. Some 12 million pounds of the nuts are expected from trees presently planted there this year.

County Likely to Receive Bids on Service Building on July 2

The county probably will receive bids at 2 p.m. July 2 for construction of a service building to house the department of public works, the drain commission and the department of facilities and operations.

★ ★ ★

The building will be located near the road commission on Watkins Lake Road.

Recommendation will be made to the board of supervisors Thursday that the county move ahead on plans for the building, estimated to cost $2 million.

★ ★ ★

The planning, zoning and building committee, which approved final plans yesterday, also heard that application for a federal grant to build a mental retardation facility has been cleared.

Ted Dziurman of facilities and operations said the county could receive as much as $637,087 in federal funds on the building's first phase. The county share of the project would then amont to $785,913, Dziurman said.

★ ★ ★

The facility, to be located north of the Service Center Drive on the east side of Telegraph would include a diagnostic center and training institute for retarded people, not now serviced by regular school programs.

★ ★ ★

Money for both projects was set aside by the old board of supervisors last year.

Plan Properly to Wreck Your Vacation

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Planning a family vacation:

How often I, the world's greatest family vacation planner, had people come to me with the same sad tale of woe. Their vacation had been ruined because they had failed to plan it properly.

They simply decided they wanted to go somewhere, threw a few things in the back of the car and departed. They had a pleasant trip, enjoyed their stay at the vacation spot and returned home relaxed and refreshed.

Only then did they begin to realize their mistake.

LIKE CHINESE FOOD

That kind of a vacation, they discovered, is like Chinese food. It is good while it lasts, but it doesn't stay with you. In a few weeks, you feel like going somewhere again.

With proper planning, however, a single vacation can be enough to last you a lifetime. You can return home feeling that you never want to take a vacation again.

A good rule of thumb is to spend a month of planning for every week of vacation time you have.

The first stage of planning is to ask the other members of the family where they would like to go. If you have a family of four, you will receive 75 or 80 dandy suggestions.

Then call the family together and announce you are taking them back to the place where you have spent every vacation since 1951. That puts everyone in the proper frame of mind for a memorable trip.

Next, get out the road maps. You have been over the route 34 times already, but seeing you studying the road maps builds up confidence in the rest of the family and raises false hopes that you won't get lost this time.

★ ★ ★

At least four weeks before the scheduled departure, begin assembling the things you want to take with you and surreptitiously putting them in the car trunk.

There is never enough room in a car trunk for all of the things that everyone wants to take on vacation. If your things are already in the trunk, you stand a better chance of winning the arguments over what gets left behind.

★ ★

Always determine in advance where you are going to stop each night and make a motel reservation. That way you can be sure of stopping the first day at noon, the second day at midnight, etc.

These are but a few of the advantages that flow from proper vacation planning. If you can't think of the rest of them yourself, you don't deserve a vacation.

Men in Blue Singing Blues Over Music

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Police radio channels in Fort Lauderdale have the sound of music, but the men in blue don't like it one bit.

Some clown has found our frequency and plays us music about once a week," one harassed officer explained. "We've got the FCC Federal Communications Commission checking, but we don't have a fix on him yet."

The police have more power and can get throught the unwelcome music or switch to another channel for emergencies. But the serenade is jangling police nerves.

Auto Club Seeks Reevaluation

Drunk Driver Changes Urged

DETROIT (UPI) — Even before the assessment of the Memorial Day weekend traffic toll is in, the Automobile Club of Michigan is urging the Michigan Legislature to reevaluate what makes a driver drunk and what doesn't.

The club also urged that Michigan conform to federal safety standards requiring blood tests to check alcohol levels in drivers and pedestrians involved in traffic fatalities."

★ ★ ★

Auto Club General Manager Fred Rehm is urging legislators to make Michigan's definition of drunken driving conform with the federal standards by lowering the allowable blood alcohol level from .15 per cent to .10 per cent.

"Twelve of the first 20 fatal accidents on the holiday weekend involved drivers who ran off the road or hit an object or pedestrian," Rehm said. "It is reasonable to assume alcohol was involved in most of these. But nobody will ever know."

★ ★ ★

Rehm said studies have shown that in Wayne County, 63 per cent of those who die in traffic are drunk.

★ ★ ★

The Auto Club said it would investigate all of the weekend's 26 fatal accidents that killed 31 persons "with particular attention to personal characteristics of those with bad driving records and alcoholic involvement."

She Marches to the Rear

From Our News Wires

CHARLESTON, S.C.—A sharp-eyed instructor detected something decidedly unmilitary about the cadet who marched a little too gracefully in the Citadel's graduation parade.

Upon closer inspection, he found Miss Janet Roggemann, the fiancee of one of the graduating cadets, inside the gray-and-white uniform.

* * *

Miss Roggemann, decked out in a red sash and sword and a pair of trousers a bit too baggy in the seat, was the first of her sex to march with the cadets in the 127-year history of the military academy.

She was slipped into the long, gray line by her fiance, Cadet Peter A. Brause of Port Washington, N.Y.

* * *

Brause and another cadet who provided the uniform for Miss Roggemann were prohibited from participating in the commencement exercise and will receive their diplomas later.

The cadet commander of the company which the Hackensack, N.J., girl infiltrated was demoted to private for not checking the ranks more closely.

Julie, David Join President on Trip

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Julie and David Eisenhower have moved into the White House for the summer, taking up living quarters on the third floor.

Both are joining the President and other members of the First Family today on a trip to two college campuses, a couple of days at Nixon's new West Coast home at San Clemente, Calif., and to Honolulu Saturday.

* * *

Mrs. Nixon, Julie and the Nixons' oldest daughter Tricia, plan to rest in the sun and surf in Honolulu while waiting for the President and David to return Sunday night to Hawaii from his conference on Midway Island with Nguyen Van Thieu, South Vietnamese president.

Nearing Papal Visit Causing Concern in Geneva

GENEVA (AP) — This city once known as the Protestant Rome is preparing to welcome spirit of ecumenism, but there are some misgivings about the Pope Paul VI Tuesday in the ecclesiastical trappings that go with a papal visit.

* * *

Highlights of the Pope's 11-hour stay include an address to the 50th anniversary conference of the International Labor Organization and a meeting with leaders of the World Council of Churches to emphasize efforts toward Christian unity.

* * *

But the biggest public event will be an outdoor pontifical Mass, attended by four cardinals and about 15 bishops, at which 50,000 persons are expected.

Some Protestants express concern at this Roman Catholic display in a center of the Reformation, the city that was home to John Calvin.

'DOES NOT AGREE'

The Journal de Geneva commented: "The splendor surrounding the brief stay of the Pope on our soil and above all the open-air Mass does not agree, in our view, with the social and ecumenical significance of his visit."

A letter from a reader published in one newspaper called on the city's government to prevent the Mass by invoking a 1875 law that forbids religious ceremonies "on public roads."

* * *

The militant Union for the Defense of Protestantism, in a telegram to Swiss President Ludwig Von Moos, charged that the Pope was coming to Geneva to "destroy the freedom of those who prefer the authority of Christ to that of Rome."

Students of Geneva's reformist Calvin College staged a little noticed protest march through the city carrying banners which called for a "halt to the Pope, halt to obscurantism."

DEMONSTRATION SLATED

Another small group, the Evangelical Alliance, plans a demonstration Sunday before the big Reformation Monument. Organizers said it was not directed against the papal visit but was to emphasize the role of Geneva as a cradle of the Reformation.

"The Protestants dispersed abroad and the suppressed minorities would not understand if we did not do anything to affirm our faith," the organizers said in a statement.

* * *

The National Protestant Church, which comprises the majority of the Protestant community, hailed the visit in a statement but added that "at the eve of this visit it seems essential to us to affirm our desire to be faithful to the Gospel in the line traced by the Reformers."

"We are aware that different trends are apparent inside the Catholic Church as they are in all other Christian churches," the statement continued. "It remains valid today that, as in the 16th century, we cannot accept the official doctrine of the Roman Church regarding Mass, the adoration of the Virgin, the saints and the relics, the indulgences, the papacy and an equivocalness which makes Paul VI a head of state at the same time as a head of Church."

* * *

Swiss officials are trying to insure that the visit is not marred by any radical manifestations. Their work is complicated by the fact that Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia and former Premier David Ben-Gurion of Israel also will be here.

Examination of skeletons from several hundred Indians indicate that most adults had arthritis in the bones of their lower backs, hips or waist even in prehistoric times.

Preparation for Apollo 11 Launch No Routine Job

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — It has been done five times before, but preparing a Saturn 5 rocket for flight is far from routine — particularly when it's carrying the first spacecraft set to land men on the moon.

★ ★ ★

The 363-foot Apollo 11 space machine now is scheduled to take off on the initial landing mission at 10:32 a.m. EDT July 16 with Neil A. Armstrong, Michael Collins and Edwin E. Aldrin aboard.

That date could change if schedule is delayed, or if a study of the results of the flight of Apollo 10 create unexpected obstacles.

As far as Apollo launch director Rocco A. Petrone is concerned, the Apollo 11 rocket and spacecraft should be ready to go on schedule.

"We feel we've got a very good processing schedule," Petrone said. "This will be the third (manned) one and we feel we know the work out there.

"As we look at the July moon coming around, we feel we have sufficient time to meet the first part of the window."

Apollo 11's checkout schedule is nearly identical to the one that got Apollo 10 off on schedule May 18. And the long list of tests and flight preparations is not too much different from those used to launch the first unmanned Saturn 5 in 1967.

Petrone said the massive Saturn, its Apollo spacecraft modules and the highly-automated ground checkout systems are so complex, "it'll never be routine.

"It's one of the things we keep foremost in our minds — we must not relax our controls and disciplines because it's been done before."

Petrone said the accidental loss of several thousand gallons of kerosene fuel from the first stage of the Apollo 10 rocket in the early morning hours of April 27 was an example of how a relatively simple error could have serious consequences.

In that case, engineers stopped the flow of nitrogen gas to the booster to repair a leak in ground equipment without realizing that the rocket was rigged at the time so that such a pressure drop would open fuel valves.

The sudden loss of fuel created a sudden drop of pressure inside the fuel tank, and that sucked in the tank's aluminum dome. When pressure was reapplied to the rocket, the skin popped back and no significant damage occurred. But it could have.

"It only takes the wrong knob being turned at any time and you're in trouble," he said. "Around the clock you have things going on that, in themselves, are a potential hazard."

Petrone said little problems almost always turn up in preparing a rocket as complicated as a Saturn 5 for launch. And he said they are helpful.

"You know, we've built such a complex system, not only the part that flies, but on the ground, that if you don't have some difficulties you'll never learn your system. And we learn every day.

"I'm most happy to get a problem we can manage. I don't want them so big they get out of hand. But people come to understand their hardware and software one hell of a lot better once they're faced with a problem.

"To be able to catch it before it becomes catastrophic puts a real demand on the management and the people doing the job. So I feel fortunate that we've been able to keep the incidents to the level we have."

Home Delivery Accomplished in Flood Situation

HONOLULU (AP) — Fredenalda Akima will have an unusual story to tell when she grows up. She was born in a flood.

The 5-pound, 8-ounce Fredenalda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Akima, was born Feb. 1 while her family was stranded in their home by flood waters, without a car, telephone or electricity.

Mrs. Joseph Akima, her aunt, said, "It was a wonderful experience, but I wouldn't want to go through it again." Fredenalda was delivered by candlelight.

"Thank God there were no complications. Everything went fine," said the aunt.

Both mother and baby were carried out of the flood-surrounded home by firemen.

Conscience Cleared

Spoon Rejoins the Army

FT. SILL, Okla. (AP) — It took 18 cents postage to return a 14-cent spoon to the Army, but someone in Sioux Center, Iowa, feels better now.

A letter addressed simply to Ft. Sill Mess Hall, Oklahoma, eventually found its way to CWO Wesley S. McKinzey, Ft. Sill food service adviser.

When he opened the lumpy invelope, McKinzey found, wrapped in cotton, a pitted, scarred spoon, clearly printed "U.S."

There's no question about it being an Army spoon," McKinzey said. "That belongs to us."

★ ★ ★

McKinzey believes some young trooper assigned to Ft. Sill took the spoon home with him and finally decided to send it back.

"You know when you're young, your conscience isn't nearly what it is when you get older," he smiled.

The spoon will go back to a post mess hall.

Price Curbs Stir Soviet Farmer Boycott

MOSCOW (AP) — Moscow's open-air markets — usually colorful, bustling places — have been transformed into hornets' nests of angry housewives by a new crackdown on free enterprises.

Strict price controls, unheard of in the postwar years, have infuriated private fruit and vegetable growers. They started a boycot that has cut Moscow's food supply drastically.

* * *

In the West, it would be called a strike.

In Moscow, it has no name because it isn't supposed to happen.

The crackdown has hit one of the few remaining traces of legal free enterprise here — the hard-working farmers from the southern provinces.

These men and women fly to Moscow daily with suitcases and cardboard boxes bursting with ripe tomatoes, juicy pears, black cherries and a variety of other scarce goodies.

NO REIN ON PRICES

They sell them at prices high enough to pay the $100 roundtrip fare and usually turn a handsome profit as well.

They have always been free to charge whatever the traffic would bear, and that is considerable in Moscow. Tomatoes at about $5 a pound, for instance.

The new price controls, imposed this week by the Moscow city council, limit the free market price on fruits and vegetables to double that of the official government prices, observed only in the poorly stocked state stores.

Only a few southern farmers are willing to make the trip to Moscow for such a small profit margin.

STAYING HOME

One onion farmer, still in a rage over the new regulations, told a reporter at the central market that all his friends are staying home in Azerbaijan in protest.

"They are saying 'let them starve in Moscow,' " he said, shaking his big, browned fist at no one in particular. "But I must come and earn what I can."

* * *

He was selling parsley for about 45 cents a small bunch.

But there were no tomatoes, no pears, no cherries, no potatoes, no lettuce and no cabbage because of the southern farmers' boycott.

FEATURED ITEMS

The featured items Friday were cucumbers $2 a pound, badly bruised apples $1.50 a pound, strawberries $3 a pound and carrots 30 cents a pound.

These prices are legal and considered reasonable in Moscow. Such fruits and vegetables are grown by farmers in the Moscow area.

His Newsstand Makes News

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Ed (Ace) Huddy, who's been selling newspapers at the same corner for more than 30 years, has a new stand.

It's eight feet high by six feet square, has four round windows in the roof, a picture window in the back and several compartments for papers.

* * *

"The only thing I don't have is a shower to cool me off," said Ace.

* * *

The stand was designed and built by students at Carnegie-Mellon University, who were doing a project for their architectural design class.

Detective Lives by Motto

He Follows Money to Crooks

LONDON (UPI) — His motto is "follow the money and you will find the villain."

To Francis Lea, Britain's $7.3-million great train robbery was peanuts.

* * *

As head of Scotland Yard's fraud squad for London's financial district during the last 15 years, Lea estimates he has thwarted frauds involving more than $240 million.

* * *

Lea, 60, is one of the world's most famous fraud investigators. He is white-haired and stands 6-feet-2. His bowler hat, striped trousers and furled umbrella blend him with thousands of London financiers.

GIVES HOMILY

"I give this little homily to my men from time to time," the soft-spoken Lea told newsmen in announcing his retirement planned for June 13:

* * *

"Follow the money and you will find the villain."

* * *

He said "sometimes they will pick up a few minnows on the way, but when they come face to face with that large and expensive oak door they will have discovered the real man they are looking for."

* * *

Although a frequent mixer with Britain's biggest tycoons, Lea said, "I never forget that first and foremost I am a policeman. The old adage that a good policeman would nick (arrest) his grandmother is still true in my case."

Calm at Holy Cross Lures Record Class

WORCHESTER, Mass. (AP) — Holy Cross College was aiming for a fall freshman class of 650, but sent acceptance letters to a larger number to allow for those expected to decline admission. But 780 of those accepted met the deadline for submitting $100 deposits to assure admissions.

College officials say a "quiet campus as far as student unrest and takeovers go" was one of the reasons given when they sought to analyze why a higher than normal percentage of accepted students chose the college.

Holy Cross recently has taken a number of steps to give students a greater voice in college affairs.

Minstrel Show a Top Attraction in London

LONDON (UPI) — The world's longest-running musical closed in London the other night. The odds are a hundred to one you never heard of it.

It chalked up twice as many performances as the longest run of "Oklahoma!", thousands more than "South Pacific," incredibly more than "West Side Story."

★ ★ ★

Its main feature was singers in blackface doing the Al Jolson "Mammy" bit. It presented such smash hit tunes as "Moonlight and Roses," "Louise," "Daisy, daisy" and "The Bells Are Ringing."

It ran for seven years — two performances a night, 4,354 performances in all, paid attendance of more than 5.5 million. And that was just the first installment. The show will be back in November under a new title.

The old title was "The Black and White Minstrel Show," and it was without question the most popular public entertainment in London, with the possible exception of reading about royalty.

The millions who couldn't buy seats — and thousands, at least, were thwarted by "house full" signs — could catch the regular television show of the same name.

★ ★ ★

In all likelihood this will be back, too, with the same magicians, the same standup comedians, the same homely philosophy "What are rich people anyway? Only poor people with money," as before. And the same blackface singers.

★ ★ ★

Everyone connected with the "Black and White Minstrels" scoffs at the idea it might have serious — and unintended — racial overtones.

NARY A COMPLAINT

"A tremendous lot of colored people have seen the show," said Robert Luff, the producer. He claimed there had never been a complaint, either by letter or at the box office.

But there have been critics who saw in its success a good deal more than a heartwarming trip "down memory lane," as one of its main numbers actually was called.

"What confusions of racial attitudes give such popularity . . . to an entertainment built around white men made up as black men singing songs written about black men by white men some 40 years ago?" asked Richard Boston in the Guardian. He didn't answer his own question.

But he noted that the minstrels looked backward "to the old days when race was not an issue, before Martin Luther King and Malcolm X and Stokely Carmichael came along and made things so complicated."

STILL NOT COMPLICATED

For Tony Mercer, however, things are not that complicated even now.

★ ★ ★

Mercer was in the cast on the Ministrels' opening night May 25, 1962, and was in it still on the closing night May 24, 1969. He'll remain for the summer season at a seaside resort. But before the November opening of "The Magic of the Minstrels," Mercer is quitting. For just one reason: "I'm in a rut," he said.

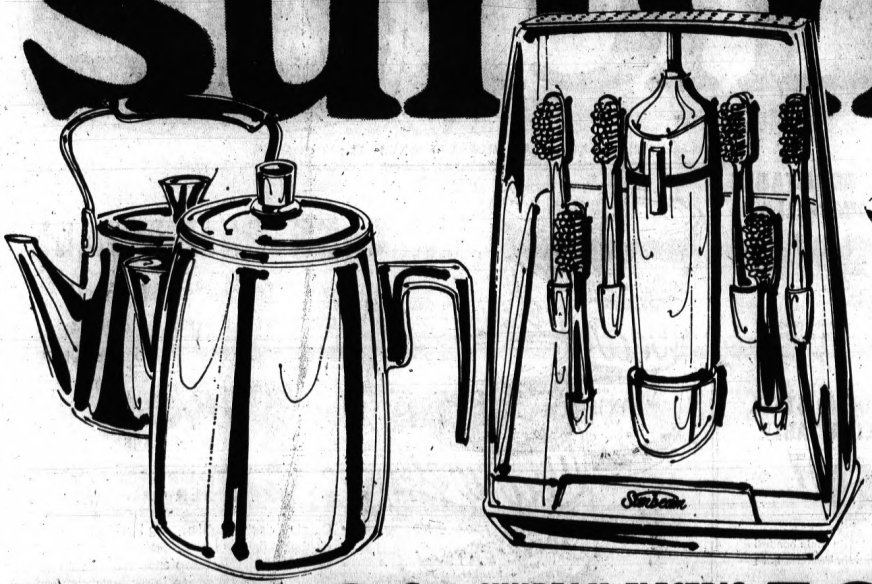

Merchants Bare Outdated Law

NEW YORK (AP) — The Coney Island Chamber of Commerce has stumbled on an old local ordinance and announced Saturday that it was taking steps to get it revised.

According to the chamber, a woman in a bikini could be subject to legal action if a policeman decided to enforce an 1888 law that says bathers' costumes must "consist of twilled flannel, made of one piece, with pantaloons and a coat over body garment, which should fit loose, but buttoned and not tied and have no unecessary appendage."

As of April 1, 1968, there were 20.7 million Canadians, an increase of 366,000 in a year.

Here's Legislative Status of Major Issues in Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Status of major legislation:

TAXES — President Nixon asks repeal of 7 per cent business investment tax credit, coupled with extension to Jan. 1 of 10 per cent tax surcharge. House Ways and Means Committee has agreed tentatively to close some loopholes under which some millionaires have escaped all taxation. Still to decide about surtax extension.

ABM — Nixon has proposed antiballistic missile system to protect offensive missile sites. Hearings under way in House and Senate.

PAY — Congress raised pay of president from $100,000 to $200,000 a year, plus expenses. Allowed to go in effect March 1 a 41 per cent pay boost for its own members, from $30,000 to $42,500 a year. Federal judges, Cabinet members and top executive branch officials also got big increases. Separate bill to raise speaker and vice president from $43,000 to $62,500 and House and Senate leaders to $55,000, passed House, but was rejected by Senate.

RIOTING — House Education subcommittee holding hearings on college riots and federal aid to students involved. House Internal Security Committee investigating "revolutionary violence" in cities and on campus with hearings opened hearings starting today. Senate special investigating committee has CRIME — Nixon asked extended wiretapping authority to get at corruption of local officials by gamblers. Senate Judiciary subcommittee holding hearings.

SMOKING — House Commerce Committee approved bill to strengthen health warning on cigarette packs and continue for six years current ban on government action to bar or regulate tobacco advertising. Current ban expires July 1 and key committee members hope to block extension.

POSTAL — Nixon proposed government corporation to operate mail system. Asked rate increases in first-, second- and third-class mail, including penny boost in first class. House hearings scheduled.

ELECTORAL — To avert possible deadlocks, administration wants to abolish presidential electors and assign to each candidate his proportionate share of each state's electoral vote. House Judiciary Committee approved direct election of president by popular vote. Senate: Judiciary subcommittee has completed hearings.

POLLUTION — administration has endorsed House-passed bill to tighten federal regulations on oil drilling and require well and vessel operators to pay cost of cleanup in oil leaks. Senate: Public works subcommittee hearings are continuing.

SCHOOLS — House passed two-year extension of major aid programs for poverty area grade high schools. No Senate action.

POVERTY — Administration has asked one-year extension of antipoverty program with Job Corps and Head Start shifted to Labor Department and Health, Education and Welfare, respectively. House: Education and Labor subcommittee hearings under way. Senate: Hearing under way.

HUNGER — Nixon proposed expanded antihunger program to cost $2.5 billion by fiscal 1971, with expanded food stamp program. Special Senate committee has held hearings into extent of malnutrition and hunger. Senate Agriculture subcommittee holding hearings on food stamp measure. House passed appropriation bill to give 100 per cent funding — about $1.5 billion — to existing antihunger programs.

SPENDING — House voted to impose $192.9-billion ceiling on money administration may spend during fiscal year starting July 1. Senate has not acted.

NUCLEAR — Senate affirmed nuclear nonproliferation treaty. Nuclear powers who sign will agree not to give weapons to others; nonnuclear signatories will agree not to build them.

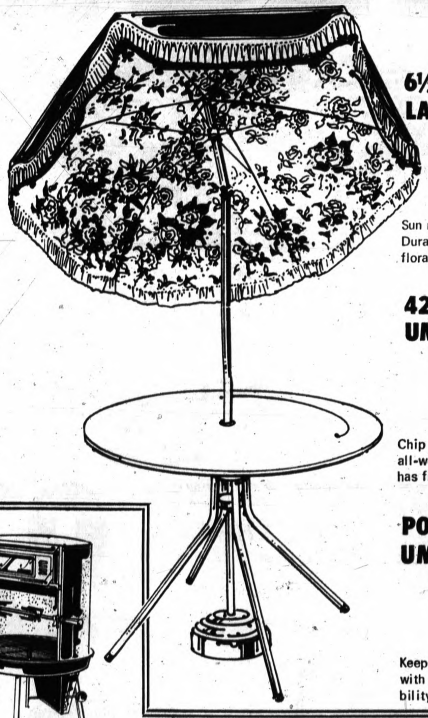

DRAFT — President has asked Congress to replace present method of selection with a lotterylike system. No hearings scheduled.

DEBT — Nixon proposed to redefine national debt so as not to include money government borrows from Social Security fund, and to raise borrowing authority by $17 billion. Congress passed bill limiting increase to $12 billion.

Iraq-Iran Dispute May Be Start of Struggle for Persian Gulf

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — A dispute between Iraq and Iran over the Shatt al Arb, a waterway separating the two nations may be the opening round of a long struggle to control the oil-rich Persian Gulf.

Kuwait, Saudi Arabia, and the smaller states along the gulf are watching with interest and anxiety, for more than a muddy, 120-mile-long estuary is at stake.

★ ★ ★

Presdient Ahmed Hassan al Bakr of Iraq and his regime are revolutionary and Baathist, the nationalist Arab version of socialism.

Iran, led by the Shah, is a monarchy pledged to economic development and gradual progress toward democracy — too gradual for the likes of liberal elements.

WANT TO BE DOMINANT

Both countries want to become the dominant influence in the gulf after Britain withdraws its forces from the area by the end of 1971.

★ ★ ★

Britain has about 6,000 troops, backed by planes and warships, based in the gulf island of Bahrein and in the Trucial State sheikhdom of Sharja.

★ ★ ★

Iran has made no effort to disuade the British from pulling out but once are gone they should not try to return "by the back door." While Iran's warning is addressed to Britain it is meant more seriously for Soviet ears.

★ ★ ★

Cooperating economically with the Russians, politically the shah has kept them at arm's distance. The Communist Tudeh party is banned and 14 of its members recently were jailed for plotting to overthrow the government.

SHAH, FAISAL WORRIED

Both the shah and King Faisal of Saudi Arabia were worried by the recent courtesy visit to the gulf by Soviet warships.

★ ★ ★

They were disturbed, too, by the April tour of gulf states by the Iraqi Defense Minister, Lt. Gen. Hardan Takriti and by his invitation to the ruler of Bahrein to visit Baghdad.

★ ★ ★

Iran has maintained an ancient claim to Bahrein even through it has not ruled the island off the western shores of the gulf since 1783, when the present ruling family came to power and established ties with the British.

★ ★ ★

Iran objects to Bahrein's membership in a projected federation of nine small states presently under British protection.

MAY FEAR PLEBISCITE

The shah has declared he is ready to abide by the wishes of the Island's people. No national election has ever been held in Bahrein, however. Its ruler, Sheikh Isa, may fear a plebiscite may whet his people's appetite for democratic government.

★ ★ ★

The shiekh has no sympathy for Baghdad's brand of socialism but in view of Iran's claim, his island may prove fruitful ground for Iraqi subversion.

★ ★ ★

So also may the seven little Trucial States along the southern shore of the gulf unless stability can be attained through a federation being energetically urged by the British.

During a visit to Saudi Arabia last November the shah reportedly reached agreement with Faisal to oppose revolutionary infiltration into the gulf.

EARLY SIGNS

Already there have been early signs of it in Kuwait and hundreds of jobless from Aden, many with a leftist allegiance, are seeking jobs in gulf oil fields.

The Iranian government has attempted to get the Central Treaty Organization, linking it with Britain, Turkey and Pakistan and backed by the United States, to deal with the threat posed by Iraq.

Neither the United States nor Britain is willing to get involved in the problem at this stage. They have expressed the hope that the disputes in the region would be settled peacefully and equitably.

★ ★ ★

The Shatt al Arab conflict blew up nearly two months ago and both Iraq and Iran have concentrated troops in the area.

FORMS BOUNDARY

The waterway, estuary of the rivers Tigris and Euphrates, forms the boundary between Iraq and Iran for 40 miles. A 1937 treaty set the frontier at the water's edge on the Iranian side. Iran maintains it should lie in mid-stream.

The treaty also provides for all ships sailing up the waterway to take on Iraqi pilots and pay dues to Iraqi port authorities.

★ ★ ★

Iran abrogated the treaty last month following Iraqi demands that its ships should lower their flags.

The shah ordered his navy to escort Iranian merchantmen to the estuary ports of Abadan and Khorramshahr and sent Phantom jets over the waterway.

Any attempt by Iraq to retaliate against Iran's huge and vulnerable oil refinery at Abadan "would lead to the total destruction of Iraq's land, air and naval forces as well as its oil fields in Mousel and Kirkuk," the Tehran evening paper Kayhan warned recently.

So far, Iran appears to have won the day. Its success likely will be a telling prestige booster in the gulf as a whole.

First Timers on the Moon Made in U. S.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The first watch movements to reach the moon are American-made tuning-fork movements used by the timers incorporated in the photographic subsystems of the five Lunar Orbiters now impacted on the Moon.

★ ★ ★

The Orbiters, launched from Cape Kennedy in 1966 and 1967, photographically surveyed the moon from different lunar orbits to determine possible manned-landings sites for U.S. Apollo astronauts.

★ ★ ★

Aboard the Lunar Orbiters, the tuning-fork timers "pulsed" the photographs that have since been used to produce the first complete maps of the Moon's surface, according to experts at Bulova Watch Company, manufacturer of the timers for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Troy Board Accused

'School Funds Misused'

By NED ADAMSON

The state attorney general's office has accused the Troy Board of Education of improperly spending $105,414 out of a 1965 bond issue appropriation.

No recommendations were made for prosecution in a report released today.

★ ★ ★

The attorney general's office said that $105,414 was improperly used to purchase office supplies and equipment. Money for this purpose, the report said, should have come out of the school district's general operating fund.

Original charges filed by board Trustee and current Treasurer Harold Janes had alleged that $857,000 was misspent in land acquisition and building site funds.

The allegations were made against certain members of the board of education and the administration.

The attorney general's report said there was no evidence substantiating Janes' other principal allegation that architect's gifts to board members was influencing board policy decisions concerning bond issue funds.

★ ★ ★

The attorney general's office findings caps a probe that began in February 1968 when Janes announced that he had conferred with state officials on a "possible misuse of funds."

Janes' contention was followed in October by a report from State Treasury Department auditors who alleged that improper spending by the board from the 1965 and 1966 building and site funds totaled $858,000.

RESULTED IN RESIGNATION

The mismanagement allegations along with a factionalized board of education and controversy over modular scheduling culminated in the resignation of Supt. of schools Rex B. Smith effective May 23.

★ ★ ★

George Young, director of the educational division for the attorney general's office, said his office's investigation concluded that the Troy School District did not violate statuatory duties regarding the purchase of school sites.

★ ★ ★

He added that the Troy district's business practices and judgements are a matter of policy rather than of law.

Young advised the Troy board to take necessary steps to transfer the $105,414 from operating funds or other appropriated district funds into the 1965 bond fund proceeds fund.

REACHED BY PHONE

Dr. Smith, reached by phone in Miami Beach, Fla., where he is job-hunting, said:

★ ★ ★

"I never did think there was anything very much wrong or improper in our business dealing, and this report bears out my opinion.

★ ★ ★

"The board should have no difficulty in making the transfer of funds. They have some $62,000 in the 1959 building and site fund and they have more than -100,000 worth of surplus properties from years back that can be sold to take care of the balance," Smith said.

★ ★ ★

"I hope that this report will clear all the people that were unfairly accused, the former school board members and the administrators," he said.

President Calls for Resurgence of U.S. Idealism

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — President Nixon told graduates of the Air Force Academy today that the nation needs "a resugence of American idealism" to counter new isolationists who have declared "open season on the armed forces."

In an address prepared for the academy's commencement exercises, the President said the critics are for a return to isolationism and that their appeal, with such slogans as "Let's first solve our own problems and then we can deal with the problems of the world," should never be underestimated.

★ ★ ★

He said they offer a simple formula, that "touches a responsive chord with many an overburned taxpayer." But he said that adoption of their views would be disastrous for the nation.

While some see the nation's commitments around the world as a form of militarism, he said abandonment of them would be "to have America turn away from greatness."

RESPONSIBLE CRITICS'

The President said his remarks about new isolationists did not refer to "those responsible critics who reveal waste and inefficiency in our defense establishment, who demand clear answers on procurement policies, who want to make sure a new weapons system will truly add to our defense."

Nixon said he is charged with making a judgment on how much defense is necessary but that he did not regard his recommendations as infallible.

★ ★ ★

The chief executive said the new isolationists assert that the United States blocks the road to peace with its military forces and that if these would only be reduced, tensions would vanish and peace prospects brighten.

"We must rule out unilateral disarmament," he said. "In the real world, that simply will not work. If we pursue arms control as an end in itself, we will not achieve our end."

★ ★ ★

He said the United States "must revitalize our alliances, not abandon them."

Aggressors, he said, "are not going to give the United States a period of grace in which to put our domestic house in order . . ."

HEARTY WELCOME — After introducing F. James McDonald (left) general manager of Pontiac Motor Division, at a luncheon yesterday, Harold A. Fitzgerald, chairman of the board of The Pontiac Press, presented him with a key to the city on behalf of Mayor William H. Taylor Jr.

McDonald Sees Tie of City and Business

By DIANNE Durocher

Business and industry must be active and aggressive in helping their local community solve social problems brought on by an era of change, F. James McDonald, general manager of Pontiac Motor Division, said yesterday.

At a luncheon for about 500 Pontiac area businessmen at the Elks Temple, McDonald discussed the progress of Pontiac Motor as a division of General Motors and as an "industrial neighbor." He was introduced by Harold A. Fitzgerald, chairman of the board of directors of The Pontiac Press.

★ ★ ★

McDonald explained some of the programs Pontiac Motor developed to help "mold better citizens and as a result a better community," beginning with Operation Opportunity.

Basically, Operation Opportunity is designed for hiring of those people who had previously been eliminated from employment consideration, he said.

534 ON THEJOB

"To date, we have placed 534 men and women on meaningful jobs," he said. "Our greatest challenge has been assisting these new employes make a smooth transition to the working environment."

To help these employes adjust to taking orders and working at a job for eight hours, two full-time counselors were hired to act as liaison between the personnel department, plan supervisers and the individual concerned, he said.

★ ★ ★

The retention rate of Operation Opportunity employes increased from 40 to 47 per cent in the 12-month period ended in April, McDonald siad.

"Although this is slightly less than the 52 per cent retention of other employes hired last year, it is good when one remembers that they were considered unemployable prior to 1967," he added.

"In short, what we have done with Operation Opportunity is to take a goodly number of men off the city's relief roll and put them on the payroll."

Last week, he said, the division inaugurated three separate educational

Pullout Decision Near?

NEW YORK (AP) — Preparations are under way for President Nixon and Nguyen Van Thieu, the South Vietnamese president, to announce the first unilateral reduction of American forces in Vietnam, the New York Times says.

However available Washington officials said later today they knew of no decision on a specific date for withdrawal of American forces.

Navy Abandons Search for 73 Missing Sailors

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) — The Navy has called off its search for 73 seamen missing from a U.S. destroyer cut in half by an Australian carrier during SEATO maneuvers.

"We have absolute confidence that we have picked up all survivors" said a Navy spokesman in announcing the end of search operations by 10 ships from three nations.

★ ★ ★

Most of those given up for lost—nearly a third of the destroyer Evans' crew — were presumed sleeping in their bunks in the forward part of the ship when it was hit by the carrier Melbourne, flagship of the Australian Navy, in predawn hours about 650 miles southwest of Manila in the Philippines yesterday. The forward section quickly sank in 5,400 feet of water.

Adm. John J. Hyland, Pacific Fleet commander, ordered a court of inquiry similar to the Navy's probe into the seizure of the intelligence ship Pueblo.

STERN BEING TOWED

The still-floating stern section of the Evans was being towed to the Philippines by a fleet tug late yesterday when the Pentagon began releasing names of the casualties.

★ ★ ★

Among the lost were the three Sage brothers of Niobrara, Neb. — Boatswain's Mate 2.C. Gary, 22, Radarman 3.C. Gregory, 21, and Seaman Appren. Kelly, 19.

★ ★ ★

Fireman Lawrence J. Reilly Jr. of Costa Mesa, Calif., perished, but his father, Senior Chief Gunner's Mate Lawrence J. Reilly Sr., was a survivor.

★ ★ ★

Navy headquarters listed 199 Evans survivors and one dead in addition to the 73 missing. The Melbourne had no casualties.

COLLISION DETAILS

In Sydney, officials said the collision occurred when the destroyer was moving from a position foward of the Melbourne to one astern.

U.S. naval officials refused to speculate on the cause.

County Unit Mulling Still Another Airport

By JEAN SAILE

A third county-owned airport?

Maybe.

Members of the County Board of Supervisors Aviation and Transportation Committee yesterday asked the board of auditors to do a feasibility study on acquiring the 200-acre Wixom Airport.

The motion was made by George Grba, D-Pontiac, who pointed out that the Wixom-Novi area is one of the fastest-growing communities in the county.

He said terrain at the site, located on Pontiac Trail, is conducive to good airport development.

Mahlon Benson, R-Waterford Township, supported the motion but stated he felt the county might have to condemn the property in order to acquire it.

The airport, owned for the last 25 years by Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Spencer, is currently under option till the end of year to an unidentified company.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Spencer said it was her understanding that the prospective purchasers have hired Peckham Engineering, airport consulting engineers of East Lansing, to draw up plans and to seek Federal Aviation Administration approval of air space for development at the site. She refused to disclose the purchase price under option, but said it was "a lot of money."

Supervisor Delos Hamlin, R-Farmington Township, pointed out that the Wixom Airport was pinpointed as a third county site in the same report that selected Oakland-Orion Airport as a site for future air development.

'LAND PRICES RISING'

Frank Richardson, R-Waterford Township, in supporting the motion, claimed that land prices are rising, and even though development remains to be accomplished at the Orion site, it might be too expensive later to purchase land in the fast developing southwest area.

Niles Olson, D-Orion Township, suggested that it might become feasible to switch development priorities to the Wixom site. He has long been opposed to airport development in his own township.

★ ★ ★

The Wixom Airport lies adjacent to the Ford Motor Co. in Wixom and is near the I-96 expressway.

Public Housing Step Is Taken

The City Commission took the first step toward more public housing units in Pontiac last night.

The commission unanimously approved applying to the office of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) for an allocation of 250 units. The proposal is being prepared by the city's Housing Commission. It may take as long as two years before approval is granted. The proposal is to be considered in 1970 HUD allocations.

★ ★ ★

The commission action was the first since a city ordinance forbidding more public housing in the city was repealed three years ago.

The public housing issue has a stormy history in the city since the completion of the existing units under city jurisdiction —the 400-unit Lakeside Homes project in the southwest part of town.

Though intended as integrated housing it has been almost completely inhabitated by Negroes. Criticism of the project has grown over the years, centered around the design of the project which left out recreation areas and adequate parking.

Prior City Commissions forbade further construction.

The present commission, in its discussions, has been insisting any new project follow federal guidelines as to spacing the units in small groups around the city.

The housing commission has announced its intention is to locate them in such a manner as to promote both racial and social integration — mixing the housing units as to race and income bracket.

Sex-Class Guidelines Asked

From Our News Wires

LANSING — Controversy over sex education spilled into the Legislature today as a Republican lawmaker called on school districts to halt such courses until the State Education Department sets guidelines.

Rep. William Hampton, R-Bloomfield Hills, House minority floor leader, introduced a resolution urging school districts to "refrain from actively engaging in the teaching of sex education."

The measure would have the effect of designating a "cooling-off" period on what has become a hot issue in Michigan and elsewhere.

The resolution was referred to the House Policy Committee for study. It needs approval by both houses of the Legislature to go into effect, and even then it would not have the force of law.

LAW ENACTED IN '68

Hampton noted a law enacted by the Legislature last year requires the education department to provide leadership in sex education by establishing specific guidelines. He said the law has not been implemented.

Hampton, father of a baby girl, cited a recent flurry of criticism leveled at the state superintendent of public instruction by James F. O'Neil of Livonia, a Republican member of the State Board of Education.

O'Neil said a sex education bibliography, put together by the department with director Ira Polley's authorization, used "barnyard standards as a comparison to human sexuality and love."

He charged Polley "usurped" board power by approving publication of the bibliography without board review.

"We have never submitted instructional materials or bulletins for formal approval during the years I've been in the department," replied Leon Waskin, deputy associate superintendent, bureau of educational services.

Kuhn Calls for a Federal Probe

JOHN IRWIN

A state senator from Oakland County has asked the U.S. attorney general to take over an investigation of allegations of bribes and payoffs to public officials made by a Mafia informer.

* * *

Sen. George Kuhn, R-West Bloomfield Township, wrote U.S. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell asking a probe by the Justice Department.

* * *

Kuhn has been critical of handling of the investigation of allegations made by Mafia informer Peter Lazaros, of 2410 Dulesford, Troy, currently being handled by Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley and State Police.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Leon Cohan immediately responded that the Justice Department had been part of the investigation from the beginning.

SEEKS SENATE PROBE

Kuhn said he also would introduce a resolution in the State Senate asking for a Senate probe and might ask for a one-man grand jury investigation.

The senator said he had learned from "Mafia sources" that there were charges of payoffs to members of the Internal Revenue Service in Detroit.

* * *

"In spite of public charges made as early as last October 1968 by one Peter Lazaros, a well-known member of the Mafia, Michigan authorities have been acting less than anxious to vigorously prosecute the case," Kuhn wrote Mitchell.

* * *

"There have been many allegations that the Mafia infiltration into legitimate business enterprises has been very active," Kuhn said.

* * *

Kuhn previously had complained to Gov. William Milliken about the length of time the investigation was taking.

Milliken replied his office was satisifed with the progress of the investigation.

School Budget Pared of Items After Vote Loss

BIRMINGHAM — The board of education has eliminated all items in its 1969-70 budget that would have been covered by a 3.5-millage increase proposal defeated in the March 24 election.

* * *

The paring amounted to $1,405,000 and reduced the proposed budget to $17,519,000. Another $232,000 was cut from next year's by removing a home and family life program, the annual school census, the purchase of new buses, administrative positions and several workshops and curriculum studies.

The proposed budget for 1969-70 now stands at $17,287,000, which is $577,000 more than the present 1968-69 budget of $16,710,000. The difference usually represents added enrollment and rising costs due to inflation.

* * *

Approval of the 7.5 renewal millage at the upcoming June 9 election will maintain the current tax rate in the district, according to school officials.

ADDITIONAL $1.5 MILLION

Recent reassessments of property by local governmental units will give the schools an additional $1.5 million in 1969-70 on its total levy if the millage is renewed.

* * *

An anticipated enrollment increase of about 450 students will cause an additional $425,000 expense, and inflation will take another $100,000, leaving $175,000. This amount, added to the $232,000 cut from the 1969-70 budget plus a hoped-for -100,000 unexpended balance, will provide an estimated $507,000 for negotiated salary settlement with the school district's 1,500 employes, according to the superintendent's office.

* * *

Dr. John Blachall Smith, superintendent of schools, said if salary and fringe benefit settlements exceed the $507,000 available, further budget reductions will be required to make up the difference.

'Respect' Is Key, Says Candidate in School Race

John K. Irwin, a Pontiac attorney and candidate for a seat on the Pontiac Board of Education in Monday's school vote says he feels that "respect" is the key word in his school board campaign.

"It is the obligation of the board to make policy for conduct of meetings, to make decisions and stay with them, to set policy for student conduct and to back up teachers in the educational process," he said.

* * *

These things all represent respect, Irwin said.

Irwin, who is concerned about the conduct of school board meetings, said "The citizens and students of the district have a right to express any grievance, but their complaints must be made in an orderly fashion, and in accordance with the rules of procedure which have been set up."

'BUSING WRONG'

On integration, Irwin said he feels that busing to achieve racial balance is wrong, that the main goal of schools is not to integrate, but to educate.

Neighborhood schools are right and unfortunately Pontiac's neighborhoods are not integrated, he said.

* * *

He said he feels that the goal of the Pontiac School District under the State Constitution, a "better education for all," has become secondary.

Irwin said he would like to see that each school program would have to justify its value against the standard of a better education for all students.

4 IN SCHOOL

Irwin, 45, of 2369 St. Joseph, West Bloomfield Township, has been practicing law in Pontiac since 1952. He and his wife, Barbara, have four children attending school in the Pontiac Schools.

He has been active in Pontiac Lions Club, Elks Club, United Fund and YMCA.

Key School Decision Near

The Pontiac State Hospital site for a new super high school? An alternative site? Other building plans? Reconstruction of Pontiac Central High School?

These questions which the Pontiac Board of Education and the community have been asking for the last three months will be answered tomorrow night at the board meeting, at 7:30 at the board offices, 350 E. Wide Track.

* * *

The board is scheduled to make its decision on a site and building plans for a west side high school tomorrow night, following a 90-day reevaluation period approved by the board March 20, in the wake of community dissent over the board's original decision to build a new high school on state hospital property.

The board has narrowed site alternatives to one — that now occupied by Crofoot Elementary, adjacent to Central High School — and alternate building plans to two — one a seven-story high-rise for 3,300 students, the other a three-story structure for 2,300 students. Both building plans call for expansions at Northern. Both are estimated to cost about $20 million.

* * *

Other items on tomorrow night's agenda include:

- A plan for a Human Relations Institute, 1969-70.
- Report on the schools' testing programs
- Lincoln Elementary School Boundaries.

Fall Kills Stowaway

DEDICATION CEREMONIES — Oakland University Chancellor Durward B. Varner (right) unveiled a plaque last night at the university's new Graham Health Center, named in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Graham J. Graham (at left and center) of 2101 N. Woodward, Bloomfield Hills. Both Mr. and Mrs. Graham are life members of the Chancellor's Club, an organization of large donors to the university, and both have served as trustees of the Oakland University Foundation. The new $660,000 health center has a 22-bed capacity.

Board Hopeful Sees Need for Firm Answers

"Basically, I feel we have a very good school system here in Pontiac," said Mrs. Dorothy M. Furgerson, one of seven candidates running for two four-year seats on the Pontiac Board of Education. The election is next Monday.

There are some problems to be ironed out, though, she said.

* *

"One thing is that the people in the district who ask questions of the board need definite answers," Mrs. Furgerson said.

"The people don't want speculation, or 'wait until the next meeting,' they want definite answers. We also need a better communication between the schools and the community. Perhaps this could be worked out by local liaison people," she said.

BUDGET BREAKDOWN

Mrs. Furgerson said that she would like to see the budget broken down to the amount of money spent yearly per student and per school.

This way, she said, it will be easier to see if the all the students in the district are getting an equal education.

"The schools are to educate, equally. There is no reason for one school to give a better quality education than another in the same school district," she said.

Mrs. Furgerson has been conducting a private mail survey within the school district to learn the current thinking of voters on a broad spectrum of educational ideas. This is one way in which she hopes to create a constructive interest on the part of the people of Pontiac in their school system.

ATTACK ON PROBLEMS

She says: "Problems must be attacked at inception and not allowed to become major crises. Where programs have failed or show little or no promise, they must be dropped."

Needed change must take place, but facts must be used as a basis for change and decision making, particularly where there appears to be ambiguity," she said.

* * *

Mrs. Furgerson and her husband, Grant, live at 358 W. Iroquois, and have a daughter in the Pontiac schools. A housewife, she has served as a canvass board member for the city since 1963, is a room mother at Webster School and a member of the YWCA.

Police Reported on Vice Payrolls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials have charged that gamblers in Columbus, Ohio, have "had almost every member of the city's vice squad on their payroll."

* * *

Asst. Atty. Gen. Will R. Wilson in testimony yesterday before the Senate subcommittee on criminal laws and procedures spoke only of a "major midwestern city" when he said that "low-level officers were reported receiving $250 per month and their superiors as much as $500" from local numbers operators.

* * *

But other federal officials later confirmed Wilson had been talking about Columbus.

Wilson said "the involvement of the police went so far as to include pressure by the chief of the squad put on a dissident gambler to bring him in line with his fellow numbers operators."

PROPOSED LAW

Wilson appeared before the subcommittee on behalf of President Nixon's proposal to make it a federal crime to conspire to obstruct enforcement of local and state criminal laws in order to promote an illegal gambling business.

* * *

He said there is a need for such a statute on grounds of widespread police corruption in several major urban areas.

* * *

Specifically, he named a "major southern city" — the Nashville Tennessean quoted him as referring to Nashville — that has had "an open history of police corruption over the past 18 years."

Views Outlined by Waterford School Aspirant

"Waterford, along with many other school districts, is facing a bleak future; half-day sessions are a certainty and many other drastic cuts have been necessary due to lack of operating funds," declares Mrs. M. Virginia Ross, a candidate for the Waterford Township School Board.

* * *

Mrs. Ross, 48, of 6101 Adamson is an incumbent who has served on the board since 1965.

She said, "We have been working with our legislators in an effort to find a more equitable means of financing our schools through the state."

* * *

"I will not endorse deficit spending, as this is not only illegal, but is certainly no solution to our financial problems," Mrs. Ross contined.

'RISKING CHAOS'

"We would be risking utter chaos if we took this route," she added.

* * *

"My past four years as an active board member should be a great help in facing the many vital decisions that are certain to arise in the near future and I should like to continue being a part of this decision-making group," she said.

Mrs. Ross is a former substitute teacher in the Waterford system and was a PTA president at two elementary schools.

* * *

She is married and has one daughter, and is active in Red Cross work and the annual Pontiac Area United Fund campaign.

'Schools Need Deficit Budget in Waterford'

"Currently in Waterford, deficit spending is necessary. I don't like it, but until a solution to the financial problems of our schools can be reached we have to live with it."

* * *

This is the position of Michael G. Patterson, candidate in Monday's Waterford School Board election and a former board member.

He continued, "I am definitely in favor of the fairshare program — to increase the state income tax and eliminate the property taxes for the operation of schools."

* * *

"We have to be cognizant of what's going on in all educational areas," he said.

'STUDENTS FIRST'

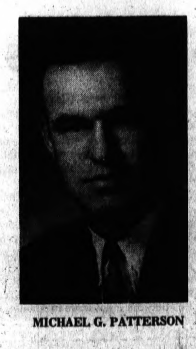

"It seems that in the past 15 years the trend in education has been to give priority to administrators and teachers and then the students, and I would like to see the order reversed, putting students first," Patterson said.

* * *

Patterson, 32, of 4768 Parview, Independence Township, is a management consultant and accountant at the Waterford Business Service and a former president of the Waterford Jaycees.

* * *

"We are dealing with a $12 million-a-year business in Waterford's school system," he said. "I feel my business and financial experience will be a benefit to me as a board member."

VC Papers Admit Battlefield Losses

SAIGON (AP) — Piles of captured documents show the Communist high command in Vietnam is acknowledging grave battlefield reverses, but insisting its forces still occupy "the most advantageous position."

Plans have been drawn for a series of summer and fall campaigns which the Reds hope will drive that latter point home to the United States and to the world.

Documents indicate the prime fear of Hanoi's war strategists is that a strong government may emerge in Saigon behind a shield of American guns.

Mate Innocent in Death Case

A Pontiac woman has been acquitted of second-degree murder in the knife slaying of her husband last December.

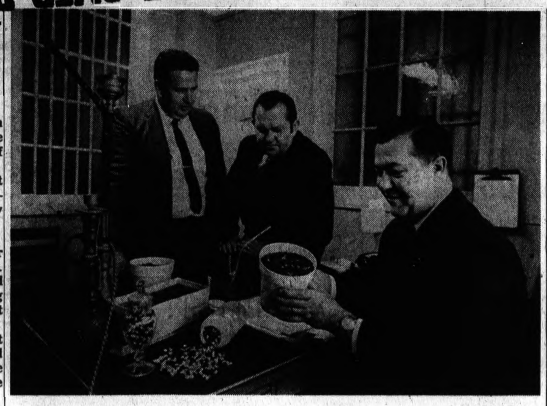

An Oakland County Circuit Court Jury returned the innocent verdict for Mrs. Mary Thomas, 49, late Monday.

* * *

Her attorney, Christopher Brown, had argued that Mrs. Thomas had killed her husband Gus, 53, in self-defense during an argument in their home at 543 California on Dec. 12.

Mrs. Thomas told police at the time that her husband had attacked her and, during the fight, she had grabbed the knife.

Thomas was stabbed twice, in the arm and near his collarbone.

SUSPECT PLANT — Detectives Fred Pender (left) and Harry Jones and Undersheriff Leo Hazen of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department examine some of the alleged drugs, including plants believed to be marijuana, confiscated at an Orion Township home last night. Four persons are being held for investigation of possessing illegal drugs and stolen property.

New Guide Out for Tests on Humans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government has quietly put out new guidelines for medical experiments on humans, but an official concedes the chief result may be to "foster a lot of paper garbage."

Despite debate over greater protection for organ-transplant patients, the new guidelines are almost exactly the same as ones published in 1966, a year and a half before the world's first heart transplant.

* * *

They were mailed last month to institutions sharing some $300 million a year for research involving human beings.

A spokesman for the National Institute of Health said a deliberate effort was made to avoid public announcement.

'RAGING DEBATE'

"As you know there was a raging public debate and we didn't see any need to become more involved in the controversy," an NIH official said.

The guidelines, dated May 1, were sent out just as the debate over heart transplants flared anew with accusations that Dr. Denton A. Cooley had used an artificial heart developed under a federally funded program without permission of the program's director.

* * *

Cooley implanted the device at Baylor University medical school in a patient who later died. He first said the device was not developed under the federal program, but a university investigation later disclosed that it was.

A university promise to tighten compliance with federal guidelines apparently satisfied the National Heart Institute and no action was taken to cut off federal funds, which is the only penalty provided under the 1966 rules and the new ones.

Poles' Discovery Is Smoked Out

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Polish scientists say they have invented an "essence of smoke" for artificially smoking meat.

The scientists claimed that the essence, if added to fodder, can stimulate the growth of animals and give their meat a built-in smoky tang.

4 Held in Raid on Area Cottage

Four persons were arrested and a large amount of alleged narcotics, drugs and stolen goods siezed in a raid on an Orion Township cottage by four police departments and the County Prosecutor's office last night.

Among the items found at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Meyers, 1397 Beach, were some 30 flower pots suspected of containing growing marijuana, according to authorities.

Arrested by three officers from Oakland County Sheriff's Department, two from the Redford post of the Michigan State Police, two from Troy and one from Birmingham were: Meyers, 24, and his wife, Mary Ellen, 23, and Thomas J. Lumbardo, 24, all of 1397 Beach, and Jerome Shaw, 24, of 209 E. Jackson, Lake Orion.

SPRANG FROM PROBE

The Oakland County assistant prosecutors went along on the raid, which stemmed from investigations by Troy and Birmingham police, Undersheriff Leo Hazen said.

Officers entering the two-story frame cottage on Tommy's Lake at about 8 p.m. reported marijuana was being smoked, according to Hazen.

* * *

Among items taken as evidence by the sheriff's department was what police say was marijuana in various forms — cut plants, half-ground and fine-ground leaves and sticks — and three water pipes and a couple thousand pills.

The pills, suspected to be LSD and other drugs, are to be analyzed for a positive identification.

FOUR IN JAIL

Hazen said the four are being held in jail for investigation of possession of drugs and stolen property. Warrants for their arrests on those charges will be sought today.

Suspected stolen goods taken from the home include a photo enlarger, camera, tape deck, a television set, a stereo tuner and a microscope.

* * *

Myers is an Oakland County social worker, his wife a research assistant for the University of Michigan Institute of Human Adjustment and Lumbardo a college student and part-time teacher in the Lake Orion area, according to police.

2 Senators Want Another Just(ice) Like Burger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two ranking senators, enthusiastic about the appointment of Warren E. Burger to be chief justice, say they want a man just like him named to the remaining Supreme Court vacancy.

Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., and Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., voiced the recommendation Tuesday as the Senate Judiciary Committee unanimously approved Burger's nomination.

* * *

Both Dirksen and Eastland said they hope when President Nixon chooses a successor to Abe Fortas, it will be a man with a background and record similar to that of Burger.

Dirksen said he hopes for a nominee in the law and order image of the chief justice-designate.

REMAINING VACANCY

The remaining court vacancy was created by Fortas' resignation under fire, which led to Senate forecasts that any new nominees would undergo searching examination before confirmation.

In Burger's case, that meant one hour and 45 minutes before the Judiciary Committee, followed by immediate approval.

* * *

"I think it was as searching as it had to be," said Dirksen, senior Republican on the committee.

He said Burger's 13-year record as a federal appeals court judge supplied all the record needed. "You don't have to probe very deeply," he said.

Eastland agreed.

ADVANCE INVESTIGATED

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, who had said extensive investigation of appointees was likely after the Fortas affair, found the committee hearing adequate. He said advance investigation of nominees is the important thing.

"It's what they looked into before he was called to testify," Mansfield said in an interview.

* * *

Eastland said he had done some advance checking of his own. He said there was no inquiry by the Judiciary Committee staff . . . .

"I've known the man for 15 years," he said. "He's a very able judge."

CHECK BY FBI

There was a standard, advance check by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Under committee procedures, only Eastland saw the report on that inquiry.

* * *

Dirksen said President Nixon told him to send Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell the names of any men he wants considered for the Fortas vacancy.

* * *

The GOP leader said initial screening of potential nominees for the spot will be at the Justice Department.

The Judiciary Committee will advise the Senate formally Thursday that it has approved Burger's appointment, and the nomination may be confirmed by the Senate next Monday.

* * *

Mansfield said he knows of no opposition to Burger. But he said that would provide time in case anyone does want to raise an objection.

* * *

"I don't think we ought to rush it too much," he said.

Burger is to succeed retiring Chief Justice Earl Warren at the end of the current court term later this month.

DECADE OF PROGRESS — Harold A. Fitzgerald (left), chairman of the board of The Pontiac Press, announced last night that he is stepping down as chairman of the Oakland University Foundation, a position he has held for 10 years. Fitzgerald, Troy Crowder (center), assistant to the chancellor, and University Chancellor Durward B. Varner study photographs of the university as it is today and as it was in 1959. The photographs were presented to Fitzgerald. Elected as new foundation chairman was L. C. Goad, of Bloomfield Hills, a retired General Motors executive who has been a foundation trustee for three years. New trustees elected at the annual foundation meeting yesterday were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Averill of Bloomfield Hills and Mrs. Clement Jensen of Birmingham.

Youth Given 15-40 Years in Rape Case

A Pontiac Central high school senior convicted last month of raping a 23-year-old woman in her home in November was sentenced yesterday to 15 to 40 years in the state prison at Jackson.

Oakland County Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem imposed the sentence on J. C. Lewis Jr., 19, of 220 Judson.

* * *

Ziem had found Lewis guilty of rape and gross indecency following a nonjury trial on May 2. For the gross indecency offense Lewis was sentenced to four to five years. The terms are to run concurrently.

* * *

The woman was terrorized for four hours after Lewis entered her home in the southeast section of the city through an unlocked bedroom window, according to police.

* * *

The victim was hospitalized for a week following the Nov. 25 incident. She told police that she was struck in the head with a night stick that Lewis carried.

Lewis has been in the Oakland County Jail since his arrest Dec. 11.

College Rebel-Author Deplores Violence, Finds It Necessary

By JOY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — The Boston accent, the soft cultured voice, the articulate discourse, are in strange contrast to the faded blue jeans, the old gray shirt with its National Park Department insignia, the young face framed in sideburns and a mass of untamed crimped-wire hair.

But then the entire character of James Simon Kunen, Columbia University student who participated in last spring's campus uprisings, was jailed and at 19 wrote a book about his experiences, is a paradox.

★ ★ ★

Born in Boston, son of a lawyer and educated at private boys' schools and Phillips Academy Andover, he finds his own affluence "absurd" in the face of poverty he sees all around him.

The political science junior, author of the recently published "The Strawberry Statement: Notes of a College Revolutionary" (Random House), deplores violence while insisting that it is sometimes necessary.

'IMPRACTICAL'

"I'm not only morally against violence," he declares, "but I also think it's relatively impractical.

"But if you want to talk about violence," he offers, his eyes intense behind round steel-rimmed glasses, "look at the expansion program at Columbia — tossing people out of their homes, pitching furniture out into the street, destroying an integrated community. Theirs was violence and ours was counterviolence."

★ ★ ★

Looking back on the events of April 1968 Kunen, now 20, says, "There came a time at Columbia where everything came to a head and you had to choose whether to sit back or take a side.

"I took a side and have been involved ever since because Columbia is so massively implicated in the things we hate the most — military research, the war, racism."

SUPPORTS SDS

Though not a member of Students for a Democratic Society mostly, he says, a matter of not having time, he supports the organization's principles.

"People call us anarchists." His eyes flash angrily. "If anarchy is a total lack of rational order, there's anarchy all around us.

★ ★ ★

"In any society there is a ruling class that controls things and doesn't want changes. It's only with violence or the threat of violence that things begin to happen."

Kunen admits that his parents aren't in sympathy with his views. "They're liberals," he explains.

"The great gulf is between liberals and radicals rather than between radicals and conservatives. The liberal is totally committed to rational discussion, words. Radicals are losing faith in words and turning to action."

An avowed radical, Kunen nevertheless has turned to words, though "The Book" as he calls it, was more or less thrust upon him.

A friend on the Harvard Crimson asked him to write an article about the Columbia protests and he did, in diary form. New York Magazine bought it and suggested that he continue to keep a diary, which eventually became "The Book."

"I'm not a big violence freako, but I'm for a very, very radical change in the social structure of the United States," he says, ticking off on his fingers some of his demands.

EDUCATION CHANGES

"We need an educational system that doesn't steer the non-white or poor to a lower track that leads not to an academic diploma, but a general diploma, a worthless scrap of paper that won't get you in college or anything else.

"We must channel our production away from mouthwashes and antiperspirants into clothing and housing. We must have total reallocation of the wealth of the country."

★ ★ ★

Admitting that he has no detailed plan for achieving such reforms, he adds, "I would keep a sufficient threat of violence so people on top would get scared enough to act. I want them to throw down crumbs and crumbs and crumbs until we get the whole cake."

Kunen calls the U.S. Army "a horrendous machine that is really hurting the world" and maintains that he has no intention of obeying the draft law.

"I don't do it lightly," he

Young Authors in the Spotlight

Kindergartners through sixth graders at Bethune School have been working for weeks writing stories and poems for the school's Young Author's Conference on Friday.

All of the pupils participating in the conference will submit their contributions in book form, and will read and discuss their manuscripts in small groups during the day.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Thomas Edwards, educational consultant for Science Research Associates, will be the young authors consultant for the day and will speak to the youngsters on writing.

★ ★ ★

"Our belief is that good writers become better readers. This planned activity should also do much for the self-concept of our youngsters, as well as help to prepare them for many of the educational hazards they are to meet in later life," said James Hawkins, principal at Bethune.

New Vacuum Adjusts to Rug

A new upright vacuum, engineered to adjust suction automatically no matter how high or low the carpet nap, works in conjunction with a dial enabling you to set the sweeper to accommodate carpet thickness.

★ ★ ★

The manufacturer says the sweeper with its automatic suction monitoring system makes it possible to vacuum the trouble-free way — high shag rugs, sculptured carpet, traditional nap, flat surface outdoor-indoor carpet, and bare floors. Proper settings for the dial are imprinted on the back of the cleaner.

Variety of Styles for Young Men

For young gentlemen, spring '69 is slanted to the 'dandy' look. The Nehru seems to have about run its course, and little boys this spring will be dressed in cotton suits and coats with Edwardian styling — fitted and flared.

The classic Eton suit, with short pants and collarless jacket, is still very stylish for small boys. Favorite fabrics are the washables: cotton knit, cotton duck and spring-weight corduroy.

Student Art to Be Shown at Cranbrook

The Annual Student Summer Show of Cranbrook Academy of Art which opens on Saturday, will remain up through mid-September in the Art Academy Galleries.

Works by students in all eight departments — architecture, printmaking, ceramics, metalsmithing, fabric design and decoration, painting, design and sculpture — will be presented, as is the custom.

★ ★ ★

This year's show, however, will offer a far more selective showing of works by the entire student body, most of whom will have received their Bachelor of Fine Arts, Master of Fine Arts or Master of Architecture degrees.

The entire upper gallery will be devoted to this show while pieces from the Galleries' collection may be viewed in the lower gallery.

★ ★ ★

Opening the same day in the Young People's Art Center Gallery is a review showing of the best of the year's work by students of this center, ages seven through 19.

Cranbrook Academy of Art Galleries are open Tuesdays through Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m., except for major holidays. There is an admission.

MRS. RAYMOND HARROD JR.

Bahamas Trip Is Honeymoon for R. P. Harrods

Newlyweds, the junior Raymond P. Harrods (nee Phyllis Janette Lovell) are honeymooning in the Bahamas.

The daughter of the O. K. Lovells of Williams Street and the son of the senior R. P. Harrods of Mahtomedi, Minn., repeated vows Saturday in Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church.

For the afternoon rite, the bride wore a satin and silk gown with lace trim. Roses and carnations made up her bouquet.

Shirley Lovell and William Harrod were honor attendants.

A reception was held at the Bemis-Olsen Amvets Hall, Post 113.

Variety Offered in Cotton Knits

Lacy open weaves and thick nubby textures are both popular in cotton knits. Knitted fashions in heavy but soft cotton yarns are showing up with a "knit-by-hand" look. Some patterns include open diamond dots running between broad ribs, and twists of thick cotton worked through fragile-looking backgrounds.

Day Care Center to Stress Learning

By YOLANDA BENAVIDES

Where there is poverty, there is isolation as well, according to Norman Shiffman, day care coordinator for the Oakland County Commission of Economic Opportunity.

For the ADC mother, who lacks vocational skills that will land her a good paying job and money to provide supervised care of her preschoolers while she works, isolation is a way of life.

★ ★ ★

In answer to this growing social ill, local planners are devising their own medication. This will be implemented this month with ground-breaking ceremonies for the Lakeside Day Care Center.

The proposed center in the Lakeside Home area is being constructed with federal funds under the joint cooperation of the Pontiac Board of Education and the Pontiac Housing Commission.

Theoretically, the program is so structured to serve the needs of the entire family with the day care center serving as the hub for interaction between a spectrum of welfare agencies and family members.

LEARNING TOO

Thus, rather than functioning as a baby sitting service for family heads who are holding down or seeking training for full-time skilled jobs, the center is a two-forked shot in the arm to improve a child's learning capacity as well as the environment he is a part of.

The Lakeside Center is scheduled to open in January 1970.

In each classroom there is to be one teacher per five children. Two aides, preferably parent volunteers, will assist the teacher in each classroom.

★ ★ ★

In addition to these instructors, there will be a parent program coordinator and two case aides. A full time cook, cook's aide, nurse custodian and bus driver will also be provided.

Like many of today's nurseries, the day care center is organized around the 'learning through play' concept. Health, personal hygiene, and nutrition, as well as introducing the child to classroom experiences, will be stressed.

★ ★ ★

However, the big difference here, says Shiffman is that the program includes family and community in the process of teaching the child.

"If we can provide a motive for change, make the needy want a better way of life by showing them how it can be done, then there will be a desire and reason for change," says Shiffman.

Women's Group to Fete Fathers

A Father's Day social, planned for June 15, will wind up the year for the Ladies' Philoptohos Society of St. George Greek Orthodox Church of Bloomfield Hills.

At the annual spring luncheon, held recently, announcement of Oct. 22 as the tentative date for "Dining in Athens," was made.

Loretta Beck Is Married

First Missionary Church was the setting Saturday for the marriage of Loretta Ann Beck and Daniel E. Halliday.

Attended by her sister, Mrs. Rodney McCarty, the bride held a bouquet of carnations, daisies and roses. She wore a traditionally fashioned wedding ensemble.

★ ★ ★

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Everett Stangland and Barbara Wardrope with Charles Beck and David Oliseck as ushers.

Richard Hodge was best man for the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Halliday of Benton, Ill.

★ ★ ★

Following a reception at Waltz Hall, the bridegroom and bride, daughter of the Robert W. Becks of East Howard Street, departed for a honeymoon trip through the South.

May Wedding for Couple

Nemrava-Fredal

A reception Thursday at the Bloomfield Centre Hall feted Pfc. Gary Lee Nemrava, USA, and his bride (nee Mary Catherine Fredal).

The daughter of the George G. Fredals of Crescent Pointe Street and the son of the Robert J. Nemravas of Battle Creek were married in a double ring exchange in St. Perpetua's Catholic Church.

★ ★ ★

Attended by her sister, Margaret, the bride wore a candlelight gown of English net over peau de soie. Alencon lace highlighted her attire and she held Amazon lillies and Pothus leaves.

Rober L. Nemrava was best man.

The newlyweds will make their home in Maryland where he is stationed at Ft. Mead.

HAGEN HITS— Senior outfielder Jim Hagen rapped two singles to drive in Birmingham Seaholm's final two runs Tuesday in a 6-1 conquest of rival Groves, the Maples' fourth straight win over the Falcons in two years.

Seaholm Dumps Falcons Again

Groves Ends Season at Thurston Today

Oak Park's hopes for a share of the Northwest Suburban loop baseball title suffered a jolt yesterday when Birmingham Groves used ace hurler Don Ward in an unsuccessful attempt to stem rival Seaholm's diamond domination of the past two seasons.

John Bratton of the Maples outpitched Ward, 6-1, as the Seaholm squad made it four in a row over Groves during the past two seasons.

The Falcons today visit Detroit Thurston who has a half game edge on Oak Park for the NWSA crown with only this one makeup tilt remaining. A win by Thurston clinches the crown.

Oak Park has a slim hope that it's protest of a forfeit loss to Groves will be overruled in time, if at all, to replay the game before school is out.

BIG INNING

Yesterday, Seaholm broke loose for five runs in the second inning after the Falcons (10-7) took a 1-0 lead on Dan Schreck's two-bagger.

A bases-loaded walk forced in the tying marker, then Rick Bowman drilled a two-out, two-run single off the second baseman's glove to break the tie.

Dudley Lehman and Jim Hagen followed the run-scoring safeties. Hagen also singled in the final marker in the fourth. Bratton allowed on a sixth-inning single by Ward among the final 12 batters he faced in closing the Maples' season with a 6-7 log.

They defeated Groves earlier, 12-8.

Friction With GM Spurs Split

Former Red Wing Kelly Parts Ways With LA's Kings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Red Kelly is happy he is no longer coach of the Los Angeles Kings of the National Hockey League even though he feels the Kings might be contenders for the NHL championship next season.

Kelly and the Kings parted company—by mutual agreement—Tuesday. It was no surprise, however, since rumors started flying six months ago that dissension was rife between Kelly and General Manager Larry Regan.

* * *

Kelly was hired to coach the expansion Kings in 1967-68 after a successful career of 20 years in the NHL with Detroit and Toronto.

In his first season, he directed the team to a second-place finish in the West Division, one point away from a title. But last season, with a 24-42-10 record, the club was 30 points behind St. Louis.

"No man can do everything himself," Regan said of Kelly. "If he wants to run a club, he'll have to buy his own."

HEADING FOR CANADA

Kelly, his wife, and three children left Los Angeles by car Monday and headed for Ontario.

"We're happy to be going back to Canada," Kelly said in an interview with the Toronto Globe and Mail.

"The kids are singing just thinking about it."

He said he plans to relax and think about two coaching offers, one from Hockey Canada and the other from an NHL club which he would not identify.

* * *

Kelly was excited about the possibility of coaching Canada's national team.

* * *

"In fact, it would be like getting back into the fire . . . By hang, it's time our team got back on top . . . However, I'm not going to do anything hasty. I'm going to take my time."

Kelly refused to comment on reports of friction between himself and Kings' owner Jack Kent Cooke or himself and Regan.

"I don't want to really get involved with that," Kelly said.

* * *

"I wasn't completely happy last season. I prefer to leave it at that.

"I was very happy with the team and the whole operation the first year. I wasn't so happy the second year," he said.

* * *

A successor for Kelly is to be named Friday at a 10 a.m., news conference.

Reportedly, the new man will be either Punch Imlach, fired recently as coach of the Toronto Maple Leafs; Hal Laycoe, coach of Portland's team in the Western Hockey League, or Johnny Wilson, coach of Springfield, Mass., the king's farm team in the American League.

Young Outfielder Joining Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — Dusty Baker, a 19-year-old outfielder, has been called up from Shreveport by Atlanta to bolster the Braves' depleted outfield corps.

Felipe Alou suffered an injured hand Monday night, Tito Francona is on the disabled list and Rico Carty has a shoulder ailment.

Baker had six home runs and a .266 average for Shreveport in the Class AA Texas League.

England Halts Mexico

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (AP) — England rolled to a 4-0 victory over Mexico in their soccer match Tuesday night.

Bonds No Bargain in Face of Inflation

Trading Fairly Active

Stock Market Edges Ahead

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market edged ahead in fairly active trading early today.

At 10:30 a.m. the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials showed a gain of 0.52 to 931.30.

★ ★ ★

On the New York Stock Exchange advances by individual issues exceeded declines by nearly 100.

In the opening flurry of trading the Big Board's ticker tape fell two minutes behind in reporting floor transactions but quickly caught up.

Brokers said the market might respond favorably to a published report that preparations were being made for announcement of the first unilateral reductions of U.S. forces in South Vietnam when President Nixon and South Vietnam President Thieu meet on Midway Island Sunday.

Otherwise, investors continued to be apprehensive about effects of the tight money situation.

★ ★ ★

Lockheed rose ¼ to 31½ on a block of 10,000 shares and Warnaco declined ½ to 33½ on a block of 23,400 shares.

Opening prices included Comsat, up ⅝ at 51¼; Southern Pacific, up ⅝ at 39¾; Honeywell, up 1⅛ at 132; Amerada, off ¼ at 121; United Aircraft, up ⅜ at 67⅞, and U.S. Steel, up ¼ at 45⅜.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange. Asamera declined 1g to 40 and International Stretch fell 1⅜ to 13c. Data Processing and Interphoto were off fractionally. Aerojet and Gale Industries made small gains.

Here's News at a Glance

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Charging that Michigan Blue Cross-Blue Shield has "discriminated against us," a Ferndale chiropractor yesterday won support from the Michigan State Chiropractic Association for his lawsuit against the insurance combine.

Dr. Richard Klinder told some 500 chiropracters at the association's convention in Grand Rapids, that his suit, filed in Wayne County Circuit Court, demands the right of a patient to seek medical treatment of his choice and to have his insurance pay for that treatment.

Convention delegates passed a resolution supporting the suit.

Accord at GM Plant

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. and United Auto Workers bargainers reached a tentative agreement yesterday on a work standards dispute which has idled some 2,700 workers at its St. Louis, Mo., Fisher Body plant since April 10.

The settlement still left GM with three of its assembly plants, with 13,050 workers, still closed because of local disputes.

Detroit School Tax Up

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Board of Education yesterday raised the tax rate 0.36 mills for the coming fiscal year — about $3 for the average homeowner — the maximum increase the board has legal authority to approve.

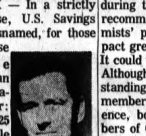

Schools officials expect the local property taxes to bring in about $11.8 million for schools during the coming fiscal year.

Roofers' Strike Ended

KALAMAZOO (UPI) — A strike by some 150 roofers that has interrupted construction work in Western Michigan for the past five weeks ended yesterday with agreement on a new contract that will boost their pay by $2 per hour over the two-year pact.

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK — In a strictly financial sense, U.S. Savings Bonds are misnamed, for those who purchase them lose rather than save. The reason is clear: Bonds pay 4.25 per cent, while inflation takes away 5 per cent.

CUNNIFF

Even that 4.25 per cent is misleading, for nobody earns it unless they retain their bonds to maturity. On Series E bonds no interest at all is earned in the first six months, and only in the fifth year is 4 per cent earned.

★ ★ ★

Better investments than bonds include savings and loan association shares at 4.75 per cent to 5.25 per cent, blue chip stocks that might rise in value as well as pay dividends, mutual funds and real estate.

The arithmetic of the situation is not overlooked by the American public, which has reduced the per cent of total savings going into bonds from 26 per cent at the beginning of the 1960s to just 12 per cent last year.

MORE CASHED IN

In addition, redemptions have been catching up with sales. In some months, in fact, more bonds have been cashed than purchased. In all 1968 the purchase balance was only $67 million—on sales of $4.97 billion.

There is some question if even this small balance could be attained without the payroll savings plans, under which bonds are deducted from pay checks automatically.

★ ★ ★

And the reasons for the success of the payroll deduction plan have been questioned. Accusations of coercion have been made from time to time by employes of federal agencies and especially by members of the military.

So why not raise the interest rate? That's just what a panel of 67 of the nation's leading economists suggest that Congress do, for it is Congress which must act to change the 51-year-old rate ceiling on government bonds.

Suggestions for lifting this ceiling have been numerous during the past two years, but recommendations of the economists' panel may have an impact greater than all the others. It could very well lead to action. Although they have no official standing in government, panel members do have much influence, both directly with members of Congress and the Nixon administration and indirectly by the weight of their reputations.

★ ★ ★

Included among them are Henry C. Wallich, an adviser to the present administration, Walter Heller and Raymond Saulnier, former chairmen of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, and Murray Weidenbaum, who has been nominated for the job of assistant Treasury secretary.

The panel is concerned not only with the contrast between government bonds returns and other rates, and the resulting damage to the savings bond program, but for more complicated reasons also.

NOT COMPETITIVE

For example, the inability of the U.S. Treasury to borrow money for long terms—because the ceiling prevents it from offering competitive rates to lenders — has forced it into the shorter term markets.

The result of this, the economists say, has been to draw money from the home mortgage market and force up interest rates as well. In this respect, they argue, an even broader public than potential homeowners is hurt.

★ ★ ★

By competing for short-term funds, they argue, the Treasury has also been adding to inflationary pressures. This opinion is bound to have an impact on an administration avowedly dedicated to subduing inflation.

Whether the rate is changed is up to the administration and to Congress. It isn't as easy as it looks, for several attempts have failed in recent years.

SOMETHING SACRED

For some reason there seems to be something sacred about the government paying 4.25 per cent for the money it borrows but nothing sinful about the public paying rates much higher—for home mortgages, for example.
