Jury Now Holds Fate of Eleven in 'Clinton Trial'

Start of Deliberations Delayed for 20 Minutes by Defense Objection

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A U. S. district court jury today began its deliberations of the fate of 11 Clinton segregation case defendants.

A lawyer's wrangle delayed the start of deliberations more than 20 minutes after U. S. Dist. Judge Robert L. Taylor finished his charge to the jury.

That episode involved the bloody beating of the Rev. Paul Turner, young Baptist minister in Clinton. He was assaulted last Dec. 4 after escorting six Negro students past segregationist advocates on the streets of the little highland town near Knoxville.

When he finished his charge, Taylor excused the jury and asked the opposing lawyers whether they had any objections or comments on it.

The jury came back but was excused a second time before Taylor finally sent the 10 men and two women off to begin deliberations.

He carefully explained the three parts of the government's charge against the 10 Tennessee defendants and John Kasper, Northern segregationist organizer.

The three parts are:

1. That the defendants had notice of and understood that a court injunction had been issued preventing any interference with the integration of Clinton High School.

2. That one or more of the Tennessee defendants conspired with Kasper to violate the injunction.

3. That, in pursuance of the conspiracy, "overt acts" were committed.

Taylor said the jury has these alternatives:

"You may acquit all these defendants or convict all of them.

"You may acquit some and you may convict others.

"If you acquit the 10 defendants you must also acquit Kasper."

Final Link of Steel Spans Famous Straits

130-Ton Steel Truss Joins Straits Bridge

ST. IGNACE (AP)—A giant triangle of steel was locked into place above the Straits of Mackinac last night, linking the two main towers of the bridge between the Upper and Lower Peninsulas of Michigan.

The 130-ton truss was the final section needed to fill the gap over the deepest portion of the straits, never before bridged.

When 240-foot gaps between each of the two towers and shore are completed in two weeks, the five-mile link of the two sections of Michigan will touch both sides.

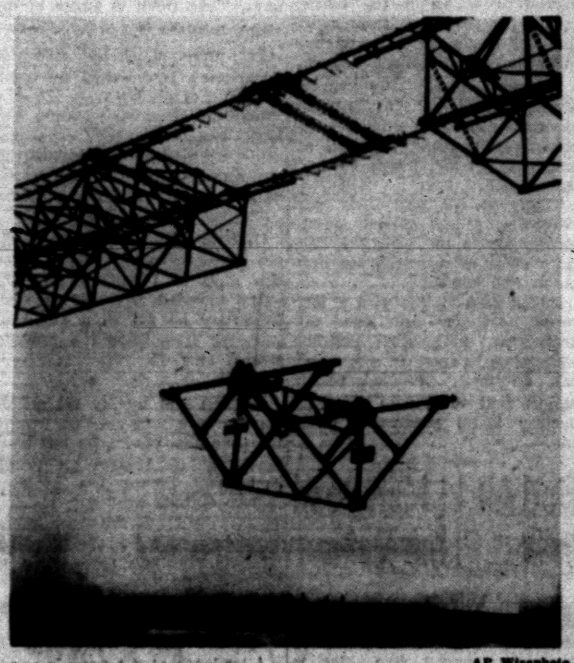

The Straits of Mackinac is located between Lake Michigan and Lake Huron.

The delicate job of fitting the last truss into place 155 feet above the water was completed about dusk. Plans to do the job earlier in the day went by the wayside because of rough water.

The center unit, pre-assembled by American Bridge Division of U.S. Steel Corp., near St. Ignace, was floated into position on three barges, then hoisted up.

Split-second timing and tight teamwork were vital in lifting each of the 86 sections, known as stiffening truss units, to final position firmly lacked to the steel suspender ropes hanging down from the main cables of the bridge.

The 100-million-dollar steel pathway will reach 4.2 miles across the Straits when it opens for traffic about Nov. 1.

GOING UP—The final section of steel forming the roadbed of the Straits of Mackinac bridge is lifted into place early last night after bridge workers waited nine hours for weather conditions to become exactly right for the operation.

Dulles Renews Appeal to Reds for Concessions

U. S. Hoping to Spur East-West Conference on Arms in London

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Voice of America beamed throughout the world today Secretary of State Dulles' plea for steps toward disarmament before the problems of curbing hydrogen and atomic weapons becomes "totally unmanageable."

"As matters are going," Dulles said last night, "the time will come when the pettiest and most irresponsible dictator could get hold of weapons with which to bring immense harm."

His radio-television address was both a report to the American people on this country's efforts at the London disarmament conference and an appeal to Russia for new concessions there, to make some agreement possible.

Full summaries of Dulles' address were aimed particularly at Iron Curtain areas from Voice transmitters in Okinawa, Munich and even the Coast Guard vessel Courier in the Mediterranean.

The all-out treatment in the oversea broadcasts pointed up how much the Eisenhower administration was relying on Dulles' sober words to spur the East-West disarmament talks in London.

He stressed the dangers to mankind of continued delay in developing a first-step plan for curbing the grim threat of atomic-hydrogen warfare.

And in words aimed at Russia's rulers, he also cautioned that the cost of building and maintaining modern nuclear-equipped forces was soaring so high "no nation can sustain that cost without grievously burdening its economy."

Dulles carefully avoided harsh language and the usual denunciations of Soviet policy in what seemed a clear move to demonstrate America's sincerity in wanting a limited disarmament agreement.

Responsible officials said the timing of the Dulles speech was keyed to a belief that Russia must soon come up with such concessions, particularly an agreement to end atomic-hydrogen bomb production.

The alternative, he said, is that mankind "must learn to live as

Ike Will Continue Support of Rights Bill -- Knowland

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) said after a White House conference today that President Eisenhower is supporting the fourfold objectives of the administration's civil rights bill now under attack in the Senate.

Knowland, the Senate minority leader, said Eisenhower's position remains as it was stated in a written statement last week.

In the statement, Eisenhower said he hopes the bill will provide for protection of civil rights in general, as well as voting rights.

He also called for establishment of a civil rights commission and a new civil rights decision in the Justice Department.

Knowland said Eisenhower's reiteration of this position at a meeting with GOP congressional leaders could be interpreted as indicating the President opposes efforts to narrow the bill's scope to provide only for protection of voting rights.

This issue has been put before the Senate by Sens. Anderson (D-NM) and Aiken (R-Vt) with an amendment to strike out the provision of the House-passed bill aimed at enforcement of racial integration and other civil rights decisions.

Knowland said the leaders did not discuss with Eisenhower an amendment by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) offered in an attempt to save part of this section of the bill.

★ ★ ★

Bricker proposed that enforcement action on general civil rights could be undertaken only when the President issued a directive.

Knowland said he is confident the Senate will reach a vote today on the issue of narrowing the bill's scope.

"I am ready to agree to a time to vote on that question," he said. "I think we can get such an agreement."

House OKs Raise for Postal Workers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House today passed a bill granting an across the board pay raise of $546 a year for 518,000 postal workers. There were predictions of a presidential veto if the Senate also passes the measure, estimated to raise government costs 318 million dollars annually.

The vote was 379-38. This is far above the two-thirds majority that would be necessary to enact the legislation over a veto.

A Senate committee has approved a 7½ per cent pay increase—about 5 per cent below the House figure—plus some upward cost of living adjustments for the postal workers.

The talk of a possible veto stems from President Eisenhower's expressed opposition to any general pay increase for federal workers at this time on grounds that the government as well as private citizens should avoid anything that could add to inflationary pressures.

Heat Siege Finally Lifted

Cooler temperatures have been ushered into the Pontiac area, bringing welcome relief from our recent siege of 90 plus temperatures.

Yesterday the mercury only rose to 78, a daily high far more tolerable than the sizzling 95 recorded on Sunday. The weather was muggy until a mid-morning rain fell, cooling temperatures for the remainder of the day.

The U.S. Weather Bureau's forecast for this area tonight is cooler with a low of 50 to 54 degrees.

Tomorrow will be a little warmer with a high of 76 to 80. Fair and somewhat warmer with a low near 60 is the evening outlook.

The U.S. Weather Bureau has predicted that temperatures will average three to five degrees below the normal 84 high and normal 63 low for the next few days.

In downtown Pontiac the lowest temperature recorded preceding 8 a.m. was 58. At 2 p.m. the Press thermometer read 73.

Weather Contest Has New Leader After Hot Sunday

Sunday's scorching temperatures gave us a new leader in the current Hottest Moment of the Month contest.

Betty Mielke, of 351 S. Williams Lake Rd., Waterford Township predicted July's hottest moment would be at 4:21 p.m., July 21; and at 4:52 p.m. Sunday, the mercury soared to a muggy 95 degrees.

Although a temperature of 95 prevailed throughout most of the stifling afternoon, the mercury reached its very highest peak at 4:52 p.m., when it very nearly pierced the 96 degree line.

Whether or not Miss Mielke claims the $100 bond will remain a mystery for eight more days.

Even though you've sent in your entry for this month, don't forget that the Press is conducting another contest for August with the prize double the amount offered in June and July.

GM Denies Jet Profits Unfair

Says Its Share After Taxes but 5.4 Per Cent on Entire Project

DETROIT (INS) — Congressman F. Edward Herbert, (D-La) threatened today to subpoena General Motors officials from Harlow Curtice "on down" in the controversy over GM's defense contract profits.

The threat was an outgrowth of charges by the government that GM "overstated or misstated" production cost figures on a 1952-55 jet plane contract.

A company spokesman emphatically denied GM made "almost double" its profits on the 376 million dollar deal through "excessive" cost estimates.

A company spokesman said:

"The contract for the manufacture of F-84-F fighter planes was completed by the Buick-Oldsmobile Pontiac assembly division to the satisfaction of the air force over two years ago.

"General Motors profit on this entire contract was 11.3 per cent on sales before income taxes and 5.4 per cent after taxes.

The General Accounting Office told the subcommittee that the company made a total profit of $42.2 million on the contract, "$17,459,200 in excess of that contemplated."

The company spokesman said data was supplied at the request of the House committee which in September of 1955 was examining cost and profit data in the entire air-frame industry.

"We are certain that an examination of the complete record will confirm that the GM price on this contract, and the profit accruing from it, was fair and reasonable."

Ford Sales Set 6 Month Record

Pass $3 Billion First Half of '57; Earnings Equal $3.15 a Share

DETROIT (AP)—Ford Motor Co.'s sales hit a record peak in the first six months of 1957.

President Henry Ford II said sales totaled $3,009,500,000, passing the three-billion-dollar mark in a six-month period for the first time.

Earnings per share amounted to $3.15 in the first half of 1957, compared to $2.44 in the first half of 1956, Ford said.

Consolidated net earnings for the first six months of 1957 were 171 million dollars, an increase of 30 per cent over the similar period last year.

Total Ford sales, including those of foreign subsidiaries, in 1956 was $4,683,760,000. Net income in 1956 was $236,596,236.

DETROIT — The Prime Minister of Pakistan arrived last night for a three-day visit in Detroit. Missing Witness Turns Up

Sheppard Hopes Dim, but Still Remain

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Convicted wife slayer Dr. Sam Sheppard, still seeking freedom after three years, today saw one hope crumble almost in his hand, but another glimmer of hope arise in Iowa.

Only hours after the unofficial "Court of Last Resort" pulled out of the Sheppard case in the face of Gov. C. William O'Neill's reversal of his permission for a lie detector test for Sheppard, a "missing witness" turned up in Waterloo, Iowa.

The witness is Ernest James Kolofolias, 32-year-old merchant seaman who says he hitchhiked a ride with an agitated young driver the night Mrs. Marilyn Sheppard was clubbed to death in her bed in Bay Village, Ohio, a Cleveland suburb.

He plans to try to identify, later in the day, pictures of Donald J. Wedler, 23, who has "confessed" the July 1954 slaying of a woman in a Cleveland suburb under conditions which, to a degree, parallel the Sheppard killing. No Ohio officials were available for comment on the Kolofolias development.

BAD NEWS, INDEED

But, from Sheppard's viewpoint, the decision on the "Court of Last Resort" to drop his case is bad news indeed.

If the handsome 33-year-old osteopath really is innocent as he insists, the "court's decision" capped the climax of a three-year nightmare.

From the four corners of the nation, experts under the sponsorship of the unofficial "Court of Last Resort" had gathered to prepare for a lie detector test on the man convicted in one of Ohio's most celebrated murder cases.

Then, in a hectic day of developments, O'Neill reversed his permission for the test and, in a hotel less than a mile from the Ohio Penitentiary where Sheppard is serving a life sentence for second degree murder, the "Court of Last Resort" decided it had come to the end of the line—and withdrew from the case.

The head of the "Court," mystery story writer Erle Stanley Gardner, visibly irked by O'Neill's reversal of position, said he is dropping all further efforts to aid Sheppard and added:

"We are just going to pick up the pieces and go back to making a living. We are just going to get the hell out of here and we are not coming back unless pressure from readers of the "Court of Last Resort" (an Argosy Magazine feature) is so great that we must."

Gardner also asserted that unless a lie test is given Sheppard, he will not under any circumstances seek an interview with the prisoner.

"I wouldn't see Sheppard even if I were invited," the celebrated crime writer said. "I have no interest in him."

Gardner said O'Neill's action placed Ohio's justice "on trial before the bar of public opinion in every state in the Union."

Referring to an investigation of Wedler in Florida to be conducted by Samuel R. Gerber, Cuyahoga County (Cleveland) coroner, Gardner declared: "I doubt if Wedler can be judged accurately by a prejudiced mind. This (investigation) will be like the trial of "Alice in Wonderland" where the jury gave the verdict and then heard the evidence."

SURPRISED AT WITHDRAWAL

At Daytona Beach, Fla., meanwhile, Gerber, on his way to Deland, expressed surprise at the Court of Last Resort's withdrawal in the case.

Gerber and his aides are investigating Wedler's statements, the coroner told newsmen, "because we feel Gardner and the Court of Last Resort are responsible for so much publicity, we want the city of Cleveland to be on record as being anxious to know whether this fellow (Wedler) has anything to do with it."

Ike Not Satisfied With School Bill

Outlook for Measure in Congress Not Bright, Martin Reports

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Republican leader Joseph Martin said today President Eisenhower is "not entirely satisfied" with the 1½-billion-dollar school aid bill but probably would accept it if Congress passes the measure.

Martin said, however, "the outlook is not too good" for passage by Congress of the compromise measure. House debate begins today.

★ ★ ★

The Massachusetts Republican spoke with newsmen at the White House after he and other GOP congressional leaders had held their weekly conference with Eisenhower.

★ ★ ★

The House bill would provide federal funds to the states for school construction over the next five years. It differs in several respects from an administration bill which would provide $1,200,000,000 in grants to the states over a four-year period.

★ ★ ★

There was no indication after today's meeting that Eisenhower would wage a personal campaign in favor of the school bill. Some members of Congress have been saying he would have to do so to get the bill passed.

Martin said he didn't know whether Eisenhower would play an "active role" in trying to get the bill enacted.

★ ★ ★

"While he is not entirely satisfied with the legislation as it comes out of the (Education) committee, he regards it as a start," Martin said.

As for the bill's chances of passing, Martin said:

"The outlook is not too good at the moment."

If caught at sea with a hurricane in the area, and without a functioning radio, how can one steer away from the path of the storm?

There are many ways for the unequipped observer to get out of the course of a tropical storm or hurricane. First, one should follow the swell, which invariably radiates outward from a hurricane.

Second, remembering that hurricanes move north or northeast, one should watch the winds. In a hurricane they circulate counter-clockwise. Therefore, if they are from south, one should steer east, or southeast. If they are from the north, one should move to the west.

If they are from the east, that may mean you are directly in the path of the storm, unless it moves northeasterly, and no time should be lost in making for the west. It is possible, of course, for a hurricane, to move temporarily, northwest, but the eventual path will take it eastward as it moves northward.

These same general rules apply to land as well as to sea, although — since hurricanes dissipate when they move inland — precautions on land are not as mandatory as on sea.

Dulles Renews Plea for Disarmament

burrowers within the earth's crust" for protection from radiation and as "a slave" to the tremendous cost of nuclear weapons.

"Mankind cannot long live under the shadow of such destruction as is now possible without great changes in existing physical, social, political and moral values," Dulles said.

"Time is not unlimited, each year that passes without agreement adds to the practical difficulty of achieving adequate limitation and control."

Dulles coupled this with a firm restatement of American disarmament proposals including willingness to agree to a 10-month ban on tests, provided Russia agrees first to a date when all nuclear bomb production would end.

Find All 11 Men Dead in Lost Plane Ruins

MILAN, Italy (AP)—Italian Alpine guides today reached the burned-out wreckage of a U. S. Navy plane on rugged San Martino Mountain in northern Italy and relayed word back by radio that all aboard had perished.

★ ★ ★

The plane with 11 men aboard had been missing 5 days. It was spotted earlier today on the slopes of the 9,000-foot peak near Trento. The guides said it crashed at the 7,000-foot level.

★ ★ ★

New Aga Khan to Study Arabic in Lebanon

DAMASCUS, Syria (INS) — Prince Aly Khan said today his son, the new Aga Khan IV, will study Arabic this fall at the American University in Beirut, Lebanon.

Aly, who arrived in Damascus today, said he had stopped in Beirut to register the new Ismaili Moslem leader for the next academic year. He said he wants his 24-year-old son, formerly known as Prince Karim, to learn Arabic thoroughly. Karim is currently a junior at Harvard University but is not expected to resume his studies this year.

'Devil Is Angry at Rising Spiritual Tide,' Billy Says

NEW YORK (AP)—Billy Graham says, "The Devil is angry at the rising spiritual tide in New York."

"He most likely will strike in unexpected places and at unexpected times," he says.

With the Devil putting up a die-hard resistance, the evangelist said yesterday he is tightening up his strategy for the last three weeks of his New York crusade.

Graham will be back at Madison Square Garden tonight after two days of rest. His schedule today included a round of golf. Yesterday he got in a game of golf, the first since the crusade started May 15.

★ ★ ★

Graham will modify his schedule as the crusade goes on. During the past nine weeks, he has been appearing at several gatherings each day before the Madison Square Garden meetings. He now plans to cut out the extra meetings in order to conserve his strength. He will speak only at the night meetings at the Garden, and will use the days for study and rest.

★ ★ ★

The crusade originally was scheduled to end June 30. It was extended to July 20, and now has been extended to Aug. 10.

British Soldiers Sent to Aid Sultan

LONDON (INS) — A hundred fully-equipped British soldiers were airlifted from Kenya to the Persian Gulf area today as Britain's Royal Air Force prepared leaflets, bullets and bombs to aid the embattled Sultan of Muscat and Oman.

A dispatch from Nairobi, Kenya, said only that the Tommies were taken to "join their formation" by two R.A.F. transports. But informants said the soldiers were headed for the British base at Sharjah, about 200 miles from Oman.

The foreign minister of the Sultan's government said "fairly rapid developments" were expected now that Britain had pledged to aid the Sultan in his fight against rebels led by the Iman of Oman.

Milton Henry Charged With Attacking Officer

Pontiac attorney Milton R. Henry, 38, of 34 Crawford St., was booked by Pontiac Police today on charges of assault and battery, after allegedly attacking officer Clarence Smith behind the Oakland County Circuit Court Building this morning.

Smith was impounding Henry's car, parked in the alley. Henry arrived, refusing to let Smith take his car, and started a fist fight with Smith, the officer said. Henry was subdued by officers rushing to the scene, while Smith was sent to Pontiac General Hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises to the head.

Supervisors Need Policing, They Decide

Oakland County's Supervisors have decided that they need policing.

In the future, the board will call upon the sheriff's department to furnish a sergeant-at-arms to keep order during its sessions.

It was also urged that more microphones be placed in the room for the convenience of the supervisors and that seats be numbered so that each supervisor will know where he should sit.

The latter proposal brought protests from some members who asserted that they didn't want to be "in a stall."

Originally, the board planned to install washable covers over seats, but this motion was defeated in a voice vote as an "unnecessary expense."

Lincoln Ends Third Best Year on Record

WAYNE (INS) — Lincoln Division, Ford Motor Co., reports ending its third best production year in history.

A company spokesman said 41,123 cars have rolled off the final assembly line at the Wayne plant. The biggest model run was over an 18-month period in 1949 when 73,507 units were built. A total of 50,332 units were assembled during the 1956 model run.

Assembly ended a month early this year to give the company a chance to build the new Edsel, which will use the Wayne plant.

Lincolns and Continentals will be produced in the new Lincoln plant in Wixom starting with the 1958 model.

Will Consolidate Health Labs

County Supervisors Set $6,325 Aside for Use in Pontiac, Royal Oak

Oakland County's Board of Supervisors today appropriated $6,325 for the consolidation of public laboratories in the Pontiac City Hall, the Pontiac General Hospital Annex and the County Health Department administration building in Royal Oak.

All laboratory work will be moved to the new county health center in the Telegraph road service center.

The move had been advocated by County Health Director John D. Monroe. Although the city and county health departments have been merged under Dr. Monroe since 1952, the city has been running its own small laboratory.

Consolidation was called necessary in the face of the present shortage of laboratory technicians, and to eliminate duplication of work.

The board also moved to relieve crowded conditions among County departments. It approved an appropriation for the leasing of the former Road Commision Building at 550 S. Telegraph Rd.

CONSIDER LEASE

A three-year lease with a six-month termination clause is being considered. The rent would be $525 a month. The staff of Drain Commissioner Daniel W. Barry and the new Department of Public Works will move into the new space.

In other business, the Buildings and Grounds Committee proposed that architects be employed to design two cottage-type units to meet the immediate needs of the Children's Home for housing.

However, the board referred the matter to its Ways and Means Committee, and empowered the committee, after study, to employ an architect to draw up plans for the housing units.

The architects will also be requested to submit a report on methods of solving classroom needs of the Children's Home. Three possible solutions to the classroom problem were indicated—construction of a second story to the County Welfare Building, use of Contagious Hospital after Pontiac General vacates the facilities, and use of the Nurses Home at the Tuberculosis Sanatorium.

The Board authorized the County Drain Commissioner to enter into negotiations with Detroit for the extension of the Northland Sanitary District, so that the Southfield junior high school and a telephone office building be included.

Waterford Justice Rules in Stabbing

Elmer S. Martin, 35, of 264 N. Saginaw St., charged with second degree murder, was bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court today by Waterford Township Justice of the Peace Donald Adams.

Martin was examined last Tuesday, and gave his version of the incident. His attorney, Clarence Smith, asked for a dismissal of the case, on the grounds of self defense. Adams studied the move for a week.

Textile Attorney Called in Probe

Senate Committee Acts on Meany's Charge of Union 'Whitewash'

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Meany's charge that the United Textile Workers "whitewashed" fund-juggling charges against its two top officials set Senate rackets probers searching today for the inside story.

★ ★ ★

The special Senate committee conducting the inquiry called union attorney Joseph Jacobs of Atlanta, Ga., for questioning.

Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy identified Jacobs as a member of a five-man UTW group which reported in 1953 that "none of the (union) money has been misused."

This document had absolved the union's President Anthony Valente and Secretary-Treasurer Lloyd Klenert of various charges, including use of union money in 1952 to buy themselves swank new Washington suburban homes.

The report was prepared after Meany, then secretary-treasurer of the AFL and now president of the combined AFL-CIO, had questioned some of the union's transactions in 1952. Meany described the report yesterday as a "complete whitewash."

Klenert testified Friday that he and Valente did use $57,000 of union money in part payment for the houses, but paid it back. He contended the whole deal was legitimate. Both have denied any wrongdoing.

Meany swore to the committee that both Klenert and Valente had denied the house-buying story when he taxed them with it in 1952. He announced he now will file fresh charges against both of them for a union "trial."

In addition to Jacobs, Kennedy said, the committee will call perhaps "a half dozen" other witnesses. He said they will be asked about reports that Valente and Klenert "borrowed from management"—employers of labor — in both direct loans and through notes signed by employers, in the period in which the two officials paid back the $57,000.

Nikita Gone Soft? Eats Ice Cream as Bulganin Talks

LONDON (INS) — Is Nikita Khrushchev getting soft?

The Soviet communist party chief who has proven more than once at diplomatic soirees that vodka leaves you legless was seen last night eating ice cream and drinking champagne.

Even so, Bulganin delivered only a brief speech in which he said Soviet-Polish relations had developed favorably since last October when Wladyslaw Gomulka became head of the Polish party.

Seek Double Killer in Dramatic Search

MANHATTAN BEACH (INS) — A dramatic house-by-house search took place today in Manhattan Beach, Calif., with 150 officers armed with shotguns seeking the killer of two policemen.

Object of the manhunt was a husky, blond man who yesterday shot to death officers Milton G. Curtis, 25, and Richard A. Phillips, 29.

Shortly before the double slaying, the killer accosted two teenage couples in a lovers lane, stripped them and ravished a 15-year-old girl.

"Go into your houses. Turn on all lights. Stay inside until the officers reach your homes."

The Day in Birmingham

Gare Again Holds Reins as Acting City Manager

BIRMINGHAM—L. R. Gare once again finds himself holding the title of acting city manager. Gare was named by commissioners last night to temporarily succeed Harold K. Schone, whose resignation was accepted effective Friday.

Gare, an employe of the city for many years, also filled the period between the resignation of Donald C. Egbert and the appointment of Schone about a year ago. He has been city engineer and has worked in several other city departments including the DPW and water division.

In accepting Schone's resignation, Carl Ingraham, mayor pro tem, said Gare's appointment was to be effective at least until commissioners have returned from vacationing and a full board can convene on a permanent successor to Schone.

Ingraham added that in the short time Schone had been in Birmingham, much had been accomplished. He thanked him for his excellent job here and extended congratulations and best wishes from city officials and residents to his new post with the county DPW.

Ingraham was named to succeed Schone as Birmingham's representative on the Oakland County Board of Supervisors. Two more appointments, one to the water authority, the other to the garbage and rubbish authority are made necessary through Schone's resignation.

Commissioners have granted permission for the annual outdoor exhibit to be held Saturday, Sept. 7 in Shain Park. The exhibit is the work of the Birmingham Society of Women Painters.

Asphalt concrete paving bids for 1957 have been awarded to Detroit Concrete Products Co. for a figure of $51,722.85. In recommending the acceptance, it was pointed out that the bid is approximately $13,000 below the city's engineering department estimate.

Army Privates Admit Breakins

Arrested Near Nike Base in Commerce Township

Two army privates stationed at the Nike Base, in Commerce Township, have confessed to a string of breakins in the county.

Pfc. Donald R. Davidson, 26, from Illinois, and Pfc. Thomas E. Williams, 21, an Oklahoma man, were apprehended in a wooded area near the base.

Detectives Leo Hazen and Harry Maur were checking the area for clues concerning the breaking and entering of the Lakeside Market, 155 Ladd Rd., Walled Lake, early Monday.

They said they found a car parked in the wooded area with the back seat and trunk full of merchandise stolen from the market. More was hidden under nearby trees, Hazen said.

The men were booked at the Oakland County Jail. They have confessed to committing other breakins, Hazen said.

Egyptians Display Military Prowess

CAIRO (INS) — Soviet-built rocket-launchers, antiaircraft guns, jet fighters and other deadly weapons were shown in Cairo today in an impressive three-hour display of Egypt's military prowess.

American and Russian observers sat side-by-side in reviewing stands as 12,000 Egyptian soldiers, sailors and airmen paraded before Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser on the fifth anniversary of the revolution which ousted King Farouk.

The demonstration served notice to the world, and particularly to Israel, that Egypt is a formidable power in the Middle East. Tens of thousuands of Egyptians cheered as each unit passed by.

This was the first public showing of the truck-mounted soviet rocket-launchers, each capable of hurling 32 three-and-one-half inch rockets. Also unveiled were four-barrel 20 millimeter antiaircraft guns drawn by Russian-made jeeps. Ninety per cent of the modern weapons on display were obtained from the Soviet bloc.

Car-Train Crash Kills 1

Hospitalized for Month, Auto Crash Victim Dies

Henry McCurry, 42, of 2757 Dorchester Rd., Birmingham, died Sunday at Pontiac General Hospital after having been hospitalized for a month with injuries received in an accident in Waterford Township.

McCurry was admitted to the hospital on June 20 after colliding headon with a car driven by James A. McEvers, 24, of 6442 Logan Dr., Drayton Plains.

McEvers was treated at the time for injuries received and has since been released. The accident took place on M59 at Woodstock street.

British Groups Cry 'Barbarian' At Fox Hunters

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

The National Society for the Abolition of Cruel Sports came out with a stiff condemnation of this "pagan rite." But this outcry was nothing to the furore over the blooding of two babies who, from their "prams," watched the Belvoir Hunt kill a fox on the front lawn of the next house.

★ ★ ★

The huntsman, amused at their excitement, followed the custom of wiping the bloody paws of the newly-killed fox across their cheeks. "Barbaric — more in keeping with Mau Mau ritual than the standards of a Christian nation," thundered the N.S.A.C.S.

A multi-colored Mallard flying south stopped at the pond, a beauty spot on the campus, and immediately the white female ducks left their mates to enjoy the company of the brightly-hued bird. The Mallard enjoyed the company so much he decided to postpone his trip south.

10th to Join Commonwealth

Malaya to Gain Independence From Britain After 133 Years

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (UP)—On Aug. 31 the Union Jack will be lowered here and its place taken by the flag of an independent Malaya.

The day will mark the end of 133 years of British colonial rule, interrupted by the four-year Japanese occupation in World War II. Malaya as the 10th nation to join the British Commonwealth is the first constitutional monarchy to recognize Queen Elizabeth II as head of the Commonwealth.

Malaya will have its own king, a Paramount Ruler to be selected Aug. 3 from among nine sultans. He will serve for a five-year period and be known as "his majesty."

Actually governing falls to another member of the Malay royalty, Cambridge-educated Prince Abdul Rahman, a younger brother of the sultan of Kedah. He becomes prime minister. For the last two years he has been chief minister, a job he got when his party won the legislative election.

Prince Rahman must keep harmony among Malaya's 6,300,000 people. His own Malay race numbers three million. Then follow the Chinese, with 2,300,000; Indians, Pakistanis, Ceylonese, Eurasians and Europeans. More than a half dozen tongues are spoken.

He will need agility to steer a middle course and pacify extremists — discontented Chinese on one hand and Malay jingoists who want to suppress the Chinese, on the other.

Responsible Malays say it is only a matter of a few years before the prolific Chinese surpass them in numbers.

The Chinese for more than 100 years have dominated commerce through a combination of their own industriousness and the Malays' preoccupation with small-scale agriculture that didn't take to much effort. The Colonial British fostered the Malay attitude so they wouldn't get ideas about asserting their nationalist rights.

Despite the near equality of Chinese and Malays in numbers, three out of four civil service jobs will, by law, be reserved for Malays.

A knowledge of the basic Malay language has been required to qualify for citizenship. The new constitution waives this requirement for those who apply for citizenship within a year.

★ ★ ★

The catchword is "apply." Only half the Chinese have applied. The rest are illiterate or ignorant of the laws. Some are in regions remote from registration offices. Those who come to register may give up in anger after a brush with Malay bureaucracy.

"In short," said one Chinese businessman, "this is independence for the Malays, not the Malayans."

★ ★ ★

The Chinese have no real voice or spokesman. The Malayan Chinese Assn. is made up largely of the rich Chinese rubber merchants and tin mine owners and they speak for themselves only. In frustration, many Chinese have looked toward the jungle and have lent support to Communist terrorists who have kept the country in war for more than nine years.

Britain Reopens Oldest Church

U. S. Gift Steel Helped Rebuild It After War; May Date to 604

LONDON (UP) — London's oldest church, destroyed by wartime bombing and rebuilt with gift steel from the United States, is being reopened tomorrow to carry on work begin 13 centuries ago.

To this church, All Hallows By-The-Tower, the headless bodies of famous Britons were carried after the executioner did them in at the Tower of London. Here William Penn was baptized in 1644 and John Quincy Adams married in 1797.

Its American connections are carried on today by the Rev. J. B. M. Frederick. An Episcopal clergyman from Rye, N.Y., he is an assistant on the church staff.

There has been a church on the site since the days of the Saxon kings. It may date to 604; records show it was definitely standing in 675.

Three times during World War II it was hit by German bombs. All that remained was the crypt and undercroft, the shell of the tower and the bare stone walls.

Men who planned the rebuilding of London chalked off the church as a hopeless case and suggested that a highway be routed over the site. The vicar, the Rev. Philip Clayton, moved in a batch of building materials to claim "squatters' rights" and opened a world wide campaign to get it rebuilt.

★ ★ ★

He said he wouldn't need a single item of any of Britain's scarce rebuilding materials and went abroad to appeal for the steel, wood, copper and lead he required. He came back with promises of steel from the United States, timber from Australia, Canada and New Zealand, copper from Southern Rhodesia, tiles and lead from Canada.

Little Progress Evident in Disarmament Talks

By JOHN H. MARTIN
INS Foreign Director

U. S. delegate Harold Stassen hopes to begin this week the final installment of the complicated American plan for partial disarmament.

The current round of London talks among the United States, Soviet Union, Britain, France and Canada now is in its fifth month. Not much headway has been made.

For years the United States has insisted on a fool-proof security and inspection system as a condition of any arms limitation. Moscow's spokesmen make sweeping statements about wanting to forbid and destroy nuclear weapons.

But they dodge away from the practical difficulties of enforcing any such scheme. Still, they managed to extract a good deal of propaganda value.

This is the fourth year that the U. N. disarmament subcommittee has been tackling the complicated problem in London. There has been somewhat less rigid approaches to various questions on the part of both sides, particularly the positions of the United States and the Soviet Union.

WANT AIR INSPECTION

The U. S. has been committed since the 1955 Geneva "summit meeting" of Big Four leaders to the idea of mutual erial inspection.

Stassen, in addition, has proposed ending nuclear tests for ten months, suspending production of nuclear materials and reducing American and Soviet armed forces in three stages to a minimum of 1,700,000 men each.

Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin has agreed to establishment of Western control posts on Soviet territory to check ending of nuclear tests, with the Soviet Union getting the same right in the U. S. and Britain.

Moscow also has accepted in principle the idea of aerial inspection. But there is a big gap between Western and Soviet views concerning the amount and location of territory to be open to inspection.

British scientists are behind the Soviet Union and the U. S. in testing nuclear weapons. A stoppage of tests would be a big concession on the part of the British. The French also want strong guarantees on genuine nuclear disarmament before renouncing their right to be an atomic power.

GERMANY WANTS REUNIFICATION

West Germany primarily is afraid that creation of European aerial inspection and other moves will be taken without allowing the reunification of Germany.

Back of all the conflicting views is the big question: What is Russia's exact purpose in the current talks? Stassen and some others think the Soviet rulers really want disarmament, to get a breathing spell because of heavy domestic burdens in industry and agriculture.

The pessimists believe Russia is trying to confuse the West and others to block German rearmament and try to get an agreement with loopholes so they can evade restrictions whereas the West will not be able to do so.

The very complexity of the whole effort makes it a marathon of talks. If the current round ends in failure another undoubtedly will be held because neither East nor West can give the impression that they oppose disarmament.

Postpone Atomic Test

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (UP)—There will be no atomic test today, the Atomic Energy Commission said, because a static wind condition would have caused radioactive fallout at Lincoln Mine 55 miles northeast of the test site. The low-powered blast of a device suspended from a balloon was postponed 24 hours.

Government to Assist in Clean-up by Unions

Speaking in Boston a few days ago, Secretary of Labor Mitchell explained why the Administration finds it necessary to provide safeguards to prevent mishandling employes' health and welfare funds.

There are some 75 million men and women looking to welfare and pension plans for retirement, hospitalization and other benefits. It is estimated that at present more than $30 billion is in reserve in these funds and that $8 billion more is contributed each year. This is more money than the total assets of General Motors, Standard Oil, Ford Motor, U.S. Steel and General Electric combined, says the Secretary.

While acknowledging that most welfare and pension funds are honestly administered, Secretary Mitchell pointed out that "such a vast amount of money, if it is not adequately safeguarded, presents temptations to the weak man and an invitation to the criminal."

Recent hearings and investigations in Congress have highlighted this fact. It suggests that new legislation is needed to protect the future of millions of working men and women by strengthening the ability of unions to safeguard their own funds. Congress now is considering legislation to provide such protection.

The Administration proposes to help unions rid the labor movement of corruption by requiring that (1) accurate reports on income, disbursements and financial operations of all welfare and pension plans be filed annually with the Department of Labor and (2) administrators of the plan furnish reports to any beneficiary requesting them; that they may be made available to the public and that copies be filed with State officials if and when the Governor of a State requests it.

To get compliance with these requirements criminal penalties are provided for willful violations and for unauthorized destruction of the books and records of plans. State laws already deal with criminal theft from these funds but the proposed law would make these thefts a Federal crime.

Another proposal is to make public the financial operations of each international or local union filing reports with the Labor Department under the Taft-Hartley Act. These would include a complete and detailed listing of all salaries, bonuses, loans, advances, gifts or contributions given or made to anyone from union funds.

From all this it is clear that the main job of keeping unions honest is up to the labor leaders themselves, with an assist from the Federal Government.

It's Dangerous to Keep Much Cash at Home

It is hard to believe that there still are people who hoard large sums of money about their homes. But the experience of Wincenty Erzywda of Detroit proves that some still prefer to stuff large sums of bills into glass jars and hide them about their own premises.

★ ★ ★

He didn't even report the loss to police. Days later, when they heard abou tit, they were able to find the thieves.

★ ★ ★

Then Wincenty refused to prefer charges against them.

"What good would that do?" he asked the officers. So the suspects were set free.

Even at that, Wincenty was lucky. Police had recovered $3,140 from the men they had captured. They gave this back to Wincenty.

★ ★ ★

But the detectives took no chances. They accompanied Wincenty to a bank where he deposited what was left of his money. He now agrees that it may be a safer place than his buried glass jars.

The moral of this story is clear. It is folly to keep large sums of money about your home, no matter how well concealed they may be.

★ ★ ★

If you insist on keeping some extra cash, that is your privilege. But don't take a chance with any more than you can easily afford to lose. Don't risk the savings of a lifetime needlessly.

You Can't Overlook This Possibility

High Interest Rates Not Social Evil

WASHINGTON — Judging by the comments being heard in Congress these days, it is some sort of social evil to pay higher wages for money—to provide an incentive to save.

LAWRENCE

For at last wages for the use of money are beginning to move toward a natural level. All the talk about interest rates being "high" is, however, still unrealistic. Money is still cheaper than it has ever been in periods like the 1920's.

The wages paid to the lender nowadays are far lower indeed then they were in the days before the income-tax law of 1913 was passed.

For today an interest rate of four per cent, which the government is willing to pay those who buy its notes, doesn't really yield a corporation investor anything like that amount. Actually, because of the 52 per cent corporate tax rate, the government takes back 2.08 per cent and the lender retains only 1.92 per cent out of a socalled four per cent interest rate.

What is not generally realized is that the businesses of the United States now are on a virtually 50-50 partnership basis with the government, which takes 52 per cent of all income from corporations and businesses. Indeed, the likelihood is that not in many years to come, if ever, will the corporation tax get below 50 per cent.

The truth is that, if there is a $4 billion surplus in the federal budget next year for tax-reduction purposes, this sum will be almost entirely absorbed by a cut in the taxes for the benefit of the lower-income groups. Corporations can expect little, if any, relief.

The sooner it comes to be realized generally that the American economy is going to operate indefinitely on a corporate tax rate in the neighborhood of 50 per cent, the quicker will borrowers and lenders adjust themselves to a new level of interest rates. Inevitably such rates must go somewhat higher than they are today.

SIX PER CENT REALISTIC

Thus, an interest rate of six per cent for government bonds would probably be regarded by many people today as fantastic or alarming. Yet it would truly be a realistic rate for the government to pay, because, on account of the tax deductions involved, such a rate for the corporate investor would give him only 2.88 per cent income in interest anyway.

Many of the banks have been somewhat reluctant to defend what is popularly called "higher" interest rates. Lately some of them have become outspoken as they have told some plain truths. The Guaranty Trust Company of New York, in the July issue of its Review of Business and Economic Conditions, said:

"Actually, the present level of interest rates is quite moderate for a time of active business. Rates on commercial paper, for example, average about four per cent, as compared with six per cent in 1929 and 7½ per cent in 1920. Before 1929, a rate below four per cent was exceptional. . . .

The First National City Bank of New York, in the July issue of its "Monthly Bank Letter," says:

"Higher rates are needed to bolster the inducement to save because savers are tired of being victimized by inflationary fiscal policies. Savers are important people: If they give up hope for sound, trustworthy money they can rush into equities. Denude the market of loan funds and turn creeping inflation into the galloping variety that knowns no bounds . . ."

★ ★ ★

The law of supply and demand is operating today without governmental restraint. Lenders are rightly waiting for a decent wage for money. When that comes, there will no longer be much talk about "scarce" or "tight" money.

Money, relatively speaking, is cheap, and funds to invest are plentiful — at the right price.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Drinking Water at Meals a Desirable Practice

Even I can't pooh-pooh the notion that "cold water checks the flow of gastric juice for a time, and ice for a longer period. "Anger, fatigue and anxiety delay and even suspend the secretion"—as J. Dorman Steel, Ph.D., said in a physiology textbook.

Some years later Philp B. Hawk, professor of physiological chemistry in a medical college, said in a book titled "What We Eat and What Happens to It;" "We have made many tests upon this subject and in every case the drinking of water, even in large quantity, at meal-time, has been shown to be a very desirable procedure."

Professor Hawk said drinking water immediately before a meal is a good practice—it starts the flow of gastric juice in the stomach; and therefore when food enters the stomach, it is more rapidly digested than it would have been if no water had been taken.

It is also good practice to drink water immediately after a meal. He added that the drinking of a glass of hot water before breakfast is especially to be commended. .I don't understand why —the Professor didn't explain.

So I do not commend drinking hot water before breakfast or at any other time. It probably won't do any harm—of you like water hot.

COLD WAER STIMULATES

Warm water frequently remains in the stomach longer than cold water, since cold water stimulates peristalsis—the wave movements propel the digesting food along through the alimentary tube.

So Dr. Hawk concluded that the best temperature for drinking water is about 60 degrees F. Such water, he said, is cold, but not ice cold.

As already indicated I prefer ice water. Just how cold ice water may be, I'm not sure. Anyway it must be pretty cold, yet not too cold. But I agree with the Professor that "a safe rule to follow is to drink the water at a temperature pleasing to oneself."

So, please pass the ice water and let's pitch in and eat.

Lest some hardshell insist that drinking water before, during or after a meal dilutes the gastric juice and prevents digestion, let me say that when a doctor wishes to get a sample of gastric juice for analysis there is no better way than to give the patient about a quarter of a glass of cold water, which will cause the outpouring of considerable quantity of active gastric juice.

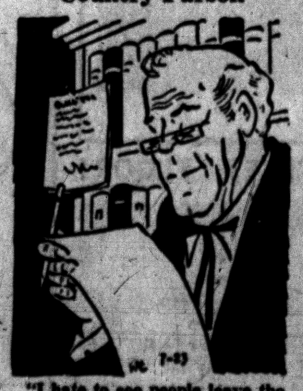

But remember, it is as wrong to use water to wash down unmasticated food as it is to use tea, coffee or other beverage for that purpose.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

"I hate to see people leave the church because they don't like the members or me. Don't they like God, whose church it is?"

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Home Background Changes Picture

Rita began to strike false notes when she tried to harmonize with Frank's family background. And these discordant notes subconsciously jarred Frank out of his infatuation. They shattered the halo which he had placed on her head when he fell in love at first sight. Scrapbook this case to help you when you plan to marry.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case V-344: Rita W., aged 20, is the girl with whom Frank fell madly in love at first sight.

DR. CRANE

Frank's parents invited her to their home for a vacation, which is a very desirable thing to do.

For this lets the stranger have a chance to show how well she (or he) fits into your family background.

If they harmonize, well and good. If they don't, they will strike many false notes which will help shatter the halo that the bewitched lover has placed around her head.

And this is what happened in Frank's case. As long as he had seen Rita only in the night club, he hadn't paid much attention to some of her habits that now jarred on him.

For example, his family didn't smoke. But hardly had Rita sat down to talk to his parents than she whipped out her cigaret case and started blowing tobacco smoke into their faces.

★ ★ ★

Rita thought nothing of this, but Frank immediately made a subconscious notation of this discordant note that she struck.

PERSONALITY CLASH

Frank's mother had played the piano for the local Sunday school, so Frank had been used to church and Classical music.

When Rita sat down at the piano, however, she began to play music that was quite appropriate to a night club, but it vaguely jarred on Frank's nerves.

The music was no more discordant now than when he had heard it in the night club, but the environment had changed, so Frank subconsciously winced.

Meanwhile, his parents had made no sign of dislike nor had they even lifted their eyebrows in disapproval, which thus kept them in the clear.

Frank couldn't defend Rita to his parents because they hadn't said a word against her.

★ ★ ★

On Sunday, Frank took Rita to church. Now he became vaguely aware of her strong tobacco breath.

It was apparent when he introduced her to some of the girls with whom he had attended high school several years before.

RITA'S JITTERS

Rita, too, began to feel the ultra constraint of Frank's type of social life.

A couple of days later, she told Frank she needed a drink so asked him to take her to the tavern in their small town.

Frank hemmed and hawed, but finally told her respectable women in their town never went inside a tavern.

This caused Rita to flare up and they had their first quarrel. It was ultimately patched up and at

They bade her a friendly adieu and invited her to come back and see them again.

But in the next few weeks, Frank's ardor began to cool. For Rita had shattered the halo which he had placed over her head. And when Frank rated her on my "Tests for Sweethearts", she scored "Poor!".

Send for those "Tests for Sweethearts", enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents (non-profit). They help give infatuated lovers an impartial outlook.

Remember, when you marry, you pick the other parent of your future unborn children, so use your head. You cast the proxy votes of those future babies so give them a break. It takes more than sexual infatuation to make a happy home.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Voice of the People

'Where Is That Wonderful Farm System of Tigers?'

Let's face it and quit kidding.

The baseball flops of 1957 are the Tigers. They simply haven't got it. They have the weakest run scoring squad in the two major leagues. Aside from Bunning, their pitchers are going down hill and as the season continues, the downward pace increases.

The only improvement over last year lies in the manager. If Bucky Harris had these 1957 misfits, he'd be a cold, indisputable last.

Now comes the question that rates the 64 Goes. Where is this marvelous, wonderful Tiger farm system we've heard about so long? They simply haven't a replacement in sight. Their "farm system" is a huge aggregation of has-beens, kids that never will cut it and always, always they have several that "are a year or two away."

Well, the sparkling dozen that were a "year or two away" in 1953, 1954, 1955 and 1956 must be ready for brilliant big league service by now. Where are they?

Echo answers, "hitting .243 for the Cherry Hill Giants in a Class C league." And mind you, this means they haven't replacements good enough for a lowly and inept team. They aren't hunting replacements for a strong club. The Tigers need more of everything good including big league experience in the front office.

Many Send Reply to Teen's Letter

Much entertainment has been offered to local teenagers and it has been poorly attended and lacked enthusiasm. Sal Mineo made a personal appearance at Boys' Club in connection with a kick-off dance open to all teenagers. It was to run all year around. The atmosphere of the dance location was that of an actual night club with table service. When Mineo appeared, attendance was slightly over 200. After that it dwindled down to five or six.

A talent show was held with band, quartet and free prizes. Only about 21 attended. Weekly dances were held at Anvet's hall on Oakland. Attendance was never over 75, sometimes down to five.

A boxing show was held at Wisner Stadium. Local talent was presented. Pontiac's own Four Joes held open house for teens. There were free entertainment and refreshments. A similar show was held a year ago. Detroit recording stars made appearances at local record shops. All of these things were very poorly attended.

This is indicative of lack of interest in Pontiac. It is next to impossible to offer entertainment to Pontiac teens when response is so poor that those who back and promote such entertainment begin to lose money. On the other hand, enthusiasm and response is fantastically high and well appreciated by teens in areas out of Pontiac deavor is being made in Auburn city limits. Similar such en- Heights and response is 85 per cent greater than in Pontiac.

We are interested in knowing what Pontiac teenagers want in the way of entertainment. If you will write to the Voice of the People or to the Sheriff's Department and let us know, we will do all we can to provide it.

This is an open invitation to Two Restless Teenagers and all other young people in this area who wish to have a good time to come to our dances at the American Legion Building in Auburn Heights every Friday at 8 p.m.

We have been having turnouts of over 100 every Friday, and we have a professional disc jockey spinning the records. We're sure you'll have a good time and you are all welcome.

Charles H. Cresswell, Director
Auburn Heights Boys' Club and 24 Teenagers

Teens are supposed to have fun and plenty of recreation during the summer months. Authors of the earlier letter said there are only three places to go — drive-ins, shows and rootbeer stands. We heartily disagree with this. There are plenty of other places with adequate supervision and facilities for teen recreation. For example, the YMCA offers various programs for teens.

Recently one of the teen programs at the YMCA, "Swim 'n Swing" was discontinued because of lack of participation. The "Y" is in a convenient and centrally located section of Pontiac. Admission is low enough to fit teens' pockets

So we would like to ask why participation has fallen and suggest that if these teens are seriously looking for places to go with good environment and under expert leadership, that they support the "Y" programs with their attendance. The "Y" is only one of the many organizations helping to improve the teenage condition in Pontiac.

I'm glad someone was interested in the kids last summer, but this is this summer. I haven't heard of one dance yet this summer. My only objection to your thoughtfulness was that you forgot the kids' low income. Charging $1.25 for one dance is really a lot.

My plea is for a recreation center for the kids to attend a few times a week at maybe 50 cents a person. Another important factor would be an enthusiastic person who would really stick to the project of promoting recreation, a person who's interested in teenagers, a person the kids would like so well they couldn't help but attend. Please, Pontiac, help us find a person like that to make Pontiac a safe place for teenagers.

Why not do something about delinquents instead of sitting home and stewing? These so-called delinquents want a place to dance and have fun. It isn't fun running the streets all the time, I know, I've done it before.

You organized the Blue Notes Club but only for high school kids. Junior highs want something to do, too. You organized a Boys' Club, why not a Girls' Club?

I don't know who takes care of these things, but I'm saying do something now: Do something, please, and thanks to those who do.

Bob Considine Says:

Aussie Airline Appreciate Dulles

NEW YORK (INS) — Our State Department made friends by the millions recently in Australia when it agreed to open the skies over America to the airliners of Qantas, the Aussies' state-owned line.

★ ★ ★

But there are no life-sized oils of John Foster Dulles hanging in the offices of the presidents of American Airlines, United and TWA.

Until now, Qantas planes with London-bound passengers had to off-load them at San Francisco. U.S. carriers have been picking up several thousand such customers each year.

Qantas complained that this was as unfair as if the British insisted that passengers of Pan Am or TWA flying to Paris be forced to take a British airline across England and then Air France from the channel to Paris.

Qantas made its squawk stand up, and now those who live along the standard air routes between the coasts will occasionally see the giant Connies of that excellent foreign carrier — which is incidentally the second oldest and fifth largest in the world. Australia long ago cleared its skies and airports for U.S. lines.

OTHER REQUESTS

Now BOAC will ask for a London-New York-San Francisco route. Sabena, KLM, Lufthansa, LAI and all the others will get in line in the hope of holding on to millions of dollars worth of passengers who now must climb into American planes for points beyond a first alighting place.

★ ★ ★

With the Qantas precedent on the books, it's likely they'll get their wish. The domestic lines will fight to a finish any good-neighbor suggestion on the part of the State Department to permit the foreign planes to pick up U.S. passengers on U.S. soil.

On that point, Air France easily became the dominant carrier when it was given permission to initiate Mexico City flights in New York. The report in aviation circles is that it took 90 per cent of the business away from American.

Best way to understand the earth satellite, how it works, how it will get out there in space, and what we and it will do about it, once there, is to visit the Chrysler Salon in the Chrysler Building.

Friend of mine named Bob Widener helped put the show together and went through more screenings and loyalty tests than an atomic scientist named Klaus Fuchs would get if he made application for a job with the AEC.

★ ★ ★

But it all turned out well in the end, and now the salon — watch that spelling, Mr. Printer — has such exhibits as a replica of the man-made moon, a model of Cape Canaveral, the launching site, a model of the Vanguard three-stage rocket, the IBM machines that will process the tracking data as the thing moves around the earth at 18,000 m.p.h., a 26-foot Nike-Cajun research rocket, which sends back to earth all sorts of interesting tidbits while browsing about at 4,500 m.p.h.

BOOK ON ALAMO

Walter Lord, a master of minute and miniscule detail, has chosen the story of the Alamo as his next book. His first two, "A Night to Remember," the sinking of the Titanic, and "A Day of Infamy," the attack on Pearl Harbor, were tremendous winners.

Lord and Jim Bishop appear to comprise the entire population of this field of needlepoint literature.

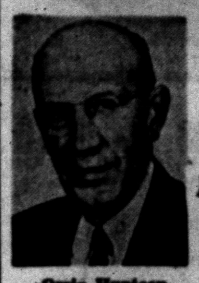

"People are having difficulty distinguishing between us," the tall, gangling, bespectacled Lord tells us. "Got a letter the other day from a nice lady who said she enjoyed 'A Day of Infamy' but not as much as my book on Jackie Gleason."

Most hilarious newsreel since the old days of the Sweepstakes winners was the weepy interview with Miss Maryland (nee Mrs. Maryland) and Miss Utah. Without intention, it was the burlesque to end all burlesques on these epidermis festivals.

The girls should take it on the road and make so much money Miss Maryland could settle down to the luxury of telling a truth now and then.

Population of the U. S. increased 26 million in the 1945-55 period, which was more than the gain in the 2 years spanning the 1924-45 period.

Crystilled Water Another Goebel "First"

Crystilled water is the first sound, sensible and scientific approach toward the improvement of beer quality and flavor since the turn of the century. Only Goebel can produce it, because Goebel is the only brewery in the U.S.A. that has the patented deionization equipment (see above) it takes to free water completely of all impurities.

Thousands who have already visited our Crystilled Water Technical Control Center in the Goebel Brewery have been amazed to see this equipment deionize water . . . remove from ordinary city water the positive charged ions and negative charged ions of minerals, chlorides, fluorides and all other elements damaging to the uniformity and excellence of a fine beer's flavor.

To really appreciate the wonderful difference crystilling makes in the flavor of beer, ask for Goebel Private Stock 22 . . . the only beer brewed with crystilled water.

Sad-Eyed Burro Poses Threat to Man and Itself

THREE RIVERS, Calif. (AP)—The animal often described as the most forlorn beast on earth is proving the wisdom of Shakespeare's remark that "Nature teaches beasts to know their friends."

Yet the burro — sad, shaggy, droopy-eared, poker-faced denizen of the alkali deserts of the West—is threatened with being smothered to death by his friends.

California's Death Valley, among the world's least hospitable climates for flora and fauna, has been the burro's Paradise. To the summer traveler who dares to brave the heat of this lowest point on the American continents, it is nearly incredible that life in any form could exist in the bleak, expansive furnace.

Burros take to the desert like ducks to water. They browse on vegetation where even the rugged mountain goat would starve. They drink alkali-water that would kill a man in a day.

VEGETATION DISAPPEARING

But, says Lowell Sumner, naturalist for Sequoia and Kings Canyon National Parks, unless the ironclad protection now accorded wild burros is removed and a systematic reduction in their numbers substituted, they are soon going to crop the desert's rich vegetation until no life can continue. Not even their own.

Already, Sumner told a gathering of conservationists in Three Rivers, there is a noticeable diminution of all life in Death Valley and the Mojave Desert to the west and north. Even the great herds of burros are showing a decline of fertility and health.

The burro has no natural enemies, Sumner points out, and since the advent of the Model-T Ford he has served no useful purpose to society or to the animal kingdom. Yet California has given the burro the greatest protection afforded any beast. It is unlawful to kill one of the sad-eyed donkeys, even in order to protect the grazing lands and watersheds on which much of California's desert and semi-arid lands depend for existence.

SERIOUS THREAT

The great boom in population during the past decade in the Mojave desert has brought about a situation where the multiplication of the wild burro herds poses the greatest threat to man. Water for the Mojave comes from the plant life of the valley and surrounding foothills. Here is where the burros have cropped the land clean.

Nothing short of rigid control measures will preserve the less hardy animal and bird life, Sumner remarked in urging conservationists to launch a vigorous campaign toward a "realistic" approach to the problem by the state.

Spring and early summer are the most likely times for tornadoes to occur because of the collisions of cold polar air and air streams from the gulf's warmer weather.

Israel Demands Return of Sailor

Was Taken Off Danish Freighter by Egyptian Officials at Suez

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israel is demanding that Egypt release an Israeli sailor-writer arrested aboard the Danish freighter Birgitte Toft when it stopped at Suez en route throughout the Suez Canal to Israel.

Egyptian authorities said yesterday they had handed the sailor, Raphael Eylon, over to the Egyptian intelligence department and confiscated his camera "to protect the security of the state." They placed no formal charge.

The authorities said the vessel, carrying 3,357 tons of Burma rice to Israel, would be allowed to go through the canal, perhaps today.

Held up for inspection, the Birgette Toft missed yesterday's northbound convoy. Officials said it was normal procedure to permit limited, nonstrategic cargo through to Israel if it is addressed to individual importers and carried by a non-Israeli ship.

★ ★ ★

The Israeli demand asking also that Eylon be well treated until his release is being turned over with a request for action to U. N. Secretary Dag Hammarskjold, to the Security Council and the International Red Cross, a Foreign Ministry spokesman said.

Eylon, in his 20s, signed on as a sailor aboard the ship when it put in at Israel's new Red Sea port of Eilat. He sailed with the Birgette Toft to Rangoon, where it picked up a load of rice.

Egypt, meanwhile, informed Hammarskjold she will accept the jurisdiction of the World Court in disputes arising out of the operation of the canal.

False Bomb Threat Holds Plane Over

Search of the Constellation and the baggage of 35 passengers failed to uncover a bomb, police said, and the plane left for Atlanta at 3:10 a.m.

The scare was touched off shortly before 12:30 a.m. when a Port of New York Authority patrolman received a telephone call from a man who said: "Listen to this carefully. Eastern Airlines leaving to Atlanta 12:37. There is a bomb on board."

Flooded Chinese Rivers Recede, Take 557 Lives

HONG KONG (AP)—Peiping radio said today the rampaging rivers Yi and Shu have dropped below the danger mark after claiming 557 lives in south Shantung.

The broadcast said rescue operations are continuing and many stricken villages are still isolated. River boats are transporting victims to higher ground and planes are dropping food supplies.

'They Honk More 'Cause They Want to Play It Safer'

Top Trucker Lauds Women Drivers

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS) — Women drivers, who have been ill regarded ever since Eve drove Adam to distraction, were given an official seal of approval today.

★ ★ ★

"Women drivers—well, ah — are all right," he said.

Now this may seem at first to be damnation by virtue of faint praise, but that is misleading. For when sparse-talking Ernie Roedel says women are well, ah all right, it is as good as being called "brilliant" by a city slicker.

"Course," said Ernie delicately, "you can always tell when a woman comes up behind you on the road." It's not intuition, and he can't see behind the mammoth trailer-truck he drives . . .

★ ★ ★

"They honk more than men do. But don't think I'm criticizing. That's 'cause women they want to play it safer, it seems like. They'd like it if you'd pull over to the shoulder of the road so they could pass with a clean view a mile ahead."

HE APPROVES

★ ★ ★

The truck driver exemplary for 1957 is huge, handsome, 29 and a stickler for safey on the road. Not only has he never had an accident, but the penchant runs in his family; his father has driven trucks for more than 20 years and has never had so much as a bashed bumper.

"I'll be honest with you," he said, "I see an accident on the road everry day I drive, and I come to sort of accept it. Blood doesn't bother me, if it ever did. And I know by this time a lot about first aid.

"What gets me sick is when you have kids hurt in an accident.

"Here they are, little things that put their trust in their fathers and mothers. They're innocent and they have faith.

"If a father wants to go out and kill himself, that's all right—he knows what he's doing. But I can't understand parents who pack a load of kids in the car and then drive like they're chased by the devil."

★ ★ ★

Ernie's still sick of heart and stomach remembering an accident he saw this year. His part in it is part of the reason he was selected by the American Trucking Association to represent the six-million truck drivers.

TUMBLED 75 FEET

A man, with his wife and two daughters in a station wagon, tried to pass another car at a staggering rate of speed, lost control, and the station wagon plunged over a 75-foot embankment.

★ ★ ★

The man and wife were killed, but the children, aged 2 and 3 months, were pitched from the vehicle—one landing in a ditchful of water, the other on its edge. Ernie leaped from his truck, gently removed the children to safety, called for help and is credited with saving both lives.

Roedel—the father of a 5-year-old boy who is "crazy for pickup trucks, and doesn't give television much"—didn't always want to be a driver, like his dad was.

"I tried the Merchant Marine for a couple of years, thought it would be nice to see the world." But the world was too much of a bad thing, and he returned to Missouri where the wages are high and the drivin' is easy.

Only one question gave Ernie pause, as an official representative of the trucking industry asked: Would he rather drive a truck or be a millionaire?

He scratched his burr cut uneasily, then grinned and gave the only reply that would do nicely. "Well," he said, "one thing about being a millionaire—I'd be in a good spot to tell those jokers how to keep from killin' themselves in foreign sports cars."

Australia has airline service to more than 380 cities, towns and ranch centers.

Net Result: Public Confusion on Mass Scale

Scientists Debate Dangers of Nuclear Explosions

Thousands of scientists have petitioned the federal government for the end of all testing, many others are assuring the public there is no danger and are backed by the Atomic Energy Commission.

PUBLIC CONFUSED

The net result has been public confusion on a mass scale. For if the scientists disagree, how can the public form an opinion on a subject so vital to it and yet so complex that it is beyond the grasp of most laymen?

A search of scientific writings and publications shows that the scientists are in disagreement because there is a wide area of information missing which is vital to the formation of a true knowledge of the effects of man-made radiation.

All scientists base their opinions on the same mass of known facts, but because of the missing links of information, they can honestly come to different conclusions.

NOT DESIRABLE

This much is known—radiation from any source is undesirable. At just what level it leaves the realm of a threat and becomes in fact a destroyer is not precisely known.

The harm from high levels of radiation includes gene mutation. Genes are the tiny factors of heredity that determine a person's physical and mental growth.

A bad gene in a parent can cause a defective child. Radiation causes genes to mutate, or change, producing undesirable characteristics in offspring, such as feeblemindedness.

EXPOSED TO SUN

Scientists know that mankind has always been exposed to radiation from natural sources, such as the sun. So many argue that a steady radiation dose of even twice the natural level is certainly not harmful.

Radiation levels in Michigan reach double, or even higher levels following an atomic test explosion but the level drops back to normal quickly.

The scientists also know that X-rays used in medical treatment and diagnosis have been given for many years without apparent damage, and that nuclear tests do date have not raised the atmospheric radiation level anywhere near the amount given by one x-ray.

NO PRESENT DANGER

So on this score, most scientists are convinced there is no present danger even if the tests are continued.

There is, however, another source of atomic contamination much more serious than atmospheric radiation. That is a substance known as strontium 90.

Strontium is a man-made chemical born in the fury of an atomic blast. It closely resembles calcium and there in lies its danger.

As strontium 90 "falls out" from a nuclear explosion, it mixes with the soil it falls upon and is absorbed by growing plants in the same way that calcium is absorbed.

Animals, such as cattle and sheep, that eat these plants assimilate the strontium like calcium and it is passed on to humans in the meat and milk they consume.

Like calcium, strontium 90 is assimilated in the human body and concentrates in the bones, especially the bones of growing children.

CAUSE LEUKEMIA

Science knows that in large enough amounts, radiation lodged in the bones can cause leukemia. The questions then is how much strontium 90 is currently in the population's bodies and will be within any given life-span.

Here science again reaches the unknown. For the amount any one person may accumulate depends on a great variety of situations.

It depends on the amount of fallout, which in turn varies according to wind currents, rainfall and other atmospheric conditions. It depends on how much calcium is in the soil of a given area, since plants prefer calcium to strontium and take in the latter according to the scarcity of the former.

As to humans, it depends on where the food they eat comes from and their own metabolisms in regard to calcium storage.

The 2,000 U. S. scientists and the many foreign ones who are calling for agreement with Russia to end nuclear tests are particularly alarmed about the strontium 90 problem. Most admit dangerous levels probably have not been reached from past tests, but they foresee increasing effects if tests coptinue.

However, even the most pessimistic know they cannot prove danger from radiation, because a certain number of people come down with leukeia from natural causes. But statistically, they maintain, each test is adding to the figures, if only minutely.

The AEC and its supporters are equally convinced that the strontium level is no where high enough to proveably cause leukemia. However, they too will admit that if testing continues over the next 30 years or so, some cases might occur. This is a small price for security, some of them insist.

So there the matter sits, until research can provide more definite answers.

Junior Editors Quiz on ROBINSON CRUSOE

QUESTION: Who was the real Robinson Crusoe?

ANSWER: You may have read the famous story of Robinson Crusoe who was cast away on a desert island and made himself quite comfortable.

But did you know that it was based on an adventure that actually happened to a Scotchman, Alexander Selkirk, 250 years ago?

As a mate on a British ship, Selkirk quarreled with the captain and was set ashore on Juan Fernandez island off the coast of Chile. Soon regretting his decision, he had to stay on for four years. To get food he learned to outrun goats on the island. Also he ate turtles and shellfish and made clothes from the goat skins. He never did find a Man Friday, as described in the story, but finally got back to civilization aboard another ship.

FOR YOU TO DO: You can color this picture of Robinson Crusoe and his parrot, paste on cardboard, cut out, and make it stand by folding on dotted lines. And if you never have read "Robinson Crusoe" by Daniel De Foe, get it from a library and do so now, or have your father read it to you.

George Sanders Admits He Doesn't Hate Woman

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — After all these years, George Sanders now admits that his women-hating reputation was the creation of a press agent.

★ ★ ★

"It was all George Glass's idea for 'The Moon and Sixpence' and I just went along with it," he told a reporter.

Glass, now a producer, had a hand in some of such Hollywood publicity ideas as the search for Scarlett O'Hara and the five-year build-up of Jane Russell before she ever was seen on the screen.

★ ★ ★

Glass arranged an interview wherein Sanders called all women "spoiled little beasts." Over the years, Sanders built the myth into a legend.

He mellowed a little when he married Zsa Zsa Gabor. Then he stated: "Whereas I used to be pontifical on the subject of women-hating, my marriage to Zsa Zsa has made me merely confused."

★ ★ ★

Zsa Zsa has long debunked Sanders' women hating rep.

"George, even now, loves me. And I'm a woman. If I ever marry again, it will be George. He's the only husband I ever really loved."

Sanders, while admitting that he liked women, said what he really hates is being married to them.

"Marriage," he says, "is a throwback to the Victorian age. I've always contended that the marriage license should be issued the same as a driver's license, subject to expiration and renewal."

George also denies that he is the true actor type.

"It has just been a livelihood to me," he says. "Personally, I would have preferred at the start of my career to have bought AT & T stock and then lain on the beach and watched it go up. Amazingly, I would now have more money to show than I have for 20 years of acting."

Detroit Man Named to State Park Group

LANSING (AP) — Governor Williams has appointed Dr. A. H. Whittaker of Detroit as a Republican member of the bipartisan Mackinac Island State Park Commission for a term ending April 12, 1963. Senate confirmation is required.

★ ★ ★

He succeeds Claude R. Brooks of Grosse Pointe, whose term has expired.

Dr. Whittaker is on the staffs of the Detroit Memorial Hospital, Deaconess Hospital and Harper Hospital and served for 10 years on the Mackinac Island Beaumont Memorial Commission. He also has been a member of the Detroit City Planning Commission and of the Detroit Historical Commission.

Soraya Meets the Shah-- Betrothal Causes Stir in Iran

By CHARLES WIGHTON
International News Service

Early in October, 1950, 18-year old Soraya Esfandiary-Bakhtiary and her father, an Iranian nobleman and diplomat, stepped from an airliner at Tehran along with Princess Schams, eldest sister of the Shah.

Two days after their arrival from Europe where Soraya had been in finishing school, the Queen Mother gave a large reception. Soraya and her father were invited.

At the reception ministers, ambassadors and the leaders of Tehran society thronged the great hall. They all knew something was going on, but no one was sure what.

★ ★ ★

Then in walked Soraya on her father's arm. A gasp of delighted astonishment went up, as she glided in, wearing a gorgeous white, full-skirted Dior gown.

Next morning the Iranian court circular announced: "His Imperial Majesty announces his betrothal to Mlle. Soraya Esfandiary - Bakhtiary, only daughter of M. and Mme. Eva Esfandiary-Bakhtiary."

The news caused a sensation. No one could know then that the couple, unlike the lovers in fairy tales, were not to live happily ever after, and that their failure to have a child—a royal heir—is today threatening to smash their marriage.

After her engagement gay and carefree Soraya quickly discovered how often her happiness would be poisoned by intriguing court officials, power-hungry politicians and the conservative Moslem priesthood.

Two days after the engagement announcement, the Shah held a great reception to present his future queen to the leaders of Iranian life and society.

★ ★ ★

Soraya, wildly excited, was determined to look her best, and chose to wear one of her most glamorous Dior gowns—a white tulle, full-skirted and off the shoulder.

The mistress of the robes, a formidable dowager, took one look at Soraya's beautiful bare shoulders—and gasped.

"But M'selle," she said, "That gown . . . these shoulders — they are impossible! You cannot possibly appear as His Majesty's betrothed like that! The entire Moslem priesthood would be shocked."

When Soraya left for the Shah's palace her shapely shoulders were swathed in a scarf of voluminous tulle.

Soraya was the sensation of the reception. Everyone was overwhelmed by her beauty and charm.

★ ★ ★

A few days later the Shah and Soraya went out riding. The Shah returned, carrying Soraya, half fainting in the house. Pale and shivering, she whimpered: "I don't know what is wrong. We were out riding when I felt faint."

The court physician, Dr. Agadin, diagnosed—typhus.

How had Soraya caught it? Some foreigners in Tehran suspected that she had been poisoned by fanatical priests who were bitterly opposed to the Shah marrying the half-German Soraya.

As her condition became dangerous the young King became more and more distraught. At last Soraya regained consciousness. Weak and exhausted, she asked to see him. For hours they sat together holding hands.

The couple's most intimate friends say that that was when Soraya's feelings for the Shah deepened into a great love.

★ ★ ★

Soraya was a difficult patient.

One day she told the Shah: "I want music, Machmed." Two hours later a large phonograph with several hundred records reached her sick room.

Soraya also had cravings for fancy foods. She demanded smoked eel and the Shah cabled to Hamburg in Germany for it.

Finally late one evening as she lay sleepless, Soraya told him, "Machmed, there's only one thing I should like—some of those wonderful chocolate truffles which I used to buy from Sprungli's Sweet Shop in Zurich when we lived there."

A few minutes later the Iranian ambassador in Switzerland received a top priority phone call from Tehran.

The astounded diplomat heard the Shah say: "Ambassador, I want you to go right away to Zurich and buy there a five pound box of Sprungli's special chocolate truffles.

"Then put it on the next plane for Tehran."

Two mornings later as the Shah gave Soraya the box she laughed:

"Machmed, you should really be called Aladdin! I merely have a wish—and you seem to rub your lamp and it is satisfied."

MR. and MRS. DONALD KAYKO

Patricia Keehn and Donald Kayko were married Saturday in St. Michael Church. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Edith Keehn and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kayko are the bridegroom's parents.

St. Michael Church Is Setting for Rite

White gladioli decorated the altar of St. Michael Church for the 10 a.m. wedding Saturday of Patricia Keehn and Donald Kayko.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Edith Keehn of Pingree street and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kayko of South Marshall street.

★ ★ ★

For her wedding the bride chose a floor length gown of ruffled tulle over satin with panels of French lace. The bodice of the sweetheart neckline was made of imported French lace with iridescent sequins. The gown ended in a chapel train. A fingertip veil of handrolled silk illusion fell from a Juliet cap of French imported lace.

★ ★ ★

Three cousins of the bride, Annabelle and Judith Spinner of Jackson, Miss., and Mary Kay Dillion of Howell, served as bridesmaids. The maid of honor wore a waltz - length dress of pale green horsehair over taffeta with matching cummerbund. She carried a bouquet to match her gown. The bridesmaids wore pink gowns designed similar to that of the honor attendant. The flower girl was Mary Ann Jardine of Royal Oak.

★ ★ ★

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Keehn chose a pink and white embroidered silk organdy dress with pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Kayko wore a mink colored lace sheath dress with mink colored accessories and a yellow rose corsage.

★ ★ ★

For a wedding trip to Niagara Falls the new Mrs. Kayko changed to a black sheath dress with white accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet. The couple will live on Williams street.

Eye Superstition Proven Untrue

Even though the superstition is deep-rooted, we no longer believe that an ostrich buries its head in the sand in order to hide. It's just as untrue that a person losing his sight in one eye probably will lose the use of the other because "the remaining eye has to do the work of two." A one-eyed person actually is subject to less eye fatigue than a person with normal vision because the muscles which cause both eyes to converge on a single subject are not used according to researchers.

America's Shoe Styles Lead World

★ ★ ★

Acceptance of the pointed and tapered-toe style in the fashion capitals of the world spotlights the U. S. shoe industry as an international leader in shoe design, the National Shoe Institute points out.

The production power of U. S. shoemakers stands unchallenged around the globe. But their manufacturing muscles have tended to overshadow, in the minds of some, the creative imagination and initiative of American shoe designers.

★ ★ ★

"London, for example, today looks to New York for shoe style leadership, rather than to Paris or Rome," an expert who has observed more than 50 years of industry progress.

"The pointed-toe style has focussed the eyes of the fashion world on America more than ever before.

"American women can be proud to have at their feet the finest designers and makers of shoes in the world," he said.

Politicking Wins Over Dog-Raising

Senator Monroney Leaves Terriers to Serve Public

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—It was pretty close, but Sen. Mike Monroney (D-Okla) went into politics instead of going to the dogs.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Monroney told me it was their interest in breeding West Highland terriers that first got her husband into politics. The former Oklahoma newspaperman is still interested in the breeding of champion canines but has little time for anything but politics now.

ALWAYS INTERESTED

"We've been interested in dogs always and started our kennels in 1934 at Cohasset, Mass., when we used to go on vacation in New England," Mrs. Monroney said.

"We got interested in the West Highland terriers through former Gov. Winant of New Hampshire who had brought some over from England where he later served as ambassador."

★ ★ ★

Whenever they went up to see a new batch of dogs, Winant talked to Monroney about government and would ask him why he didn't run for public office, she said.

This went on for about two years, with Monroney arguing he wanted to go into business and Winant arguing that good men were needed in the service of the people.

"We used to make about 20 shows a year around the country exhibiting the breed," the senator's wife said, "Now, it's all I can do to go to four.

"With our grandchildren spending every weekend with us and my husband so busy on Capitol Hill we just don't have the time for it any more."

CARE FOR KENNELS

Interest in the breed is growing in this country, Mrs. Monroney says, though the dogs are so inbred their litters are reduced to one or two puppies a year.

★ ★ ★

"They're all champions," she explained. "If they can't become a champion by the time they are 9 months old, we sell them. We always have to keep the best for breeding purposes."

The Monroneys have raised about 500 terriers since they started the project and Mrs. Monroney says she has a hard time thinking up names for new puppies.

★ ★ ★

Champions named by the senator include Robin Ridge Democrat, Robin Ridge Senator, Robin Ridge Statesman.

How Some Folks Spend Those Lazy Summer Days

"Why come in out of the rain when you have a handsome lifeguard like Terry Stowes with an oversize umbrella?" ask Mrs. Leo Sheehan of Birmingham, Mrs. Fred Hirtzel of Lathrup Village, Mrs. Ed Olsen and Mrs. George Herrick of Birmingham, at Birmingham Country Club.

Just returning to Forest Lake clubhouse after a few holes of golf are Mrs. M. S. Rosenberger (getting a drink) and her daughter, Carol Rosenberger, of Birmingham.

Everyone is trying to beat the heat these hot, sticky July days and one of the most popular places to cool off is at the country club. Even after yesterday's cooling rain it is still more comfortable in country club attire than in confining streetwear.

The golf courses are still busy but with stiffling temperatures and humidities, pool and beach life guards are surrounded by people who generally steer clear of beach activities.

August will probably see an even greater number of people going out to clubs, for the weather man has promised a torrid month.

Old-Style Washstand Hides Hi-Fi

CHICAGO (INS) — The man who sneaked radios into early American spice cabinets and old - fashioned, crank - up telephones has found an even more outdated hiding place for up-to-date hi-fi.

The latest high fidelity cabinet introduced today at the 1957 Music Industry Trade Show in Chicago is a bonnet box, which folks used as a sink in the days before plumbing.

Like Lou Dolgin's previous Americana models, the cabinet looks exactly like an antique from the outside. Of solid rock maple, the cabinet is held together with black walnut nails that show. The doors are fitted with antique brass catches and white porcelain knobs.

But, instead of hiding a pitcher and washbowl as it did in the early 19th Century, Dolgin's cabinet is outfitted with woofers, tweeters, tuners, tubes and filters — all the standard hi-fi parts.

"It may be an antique," said Dolgin in an interview, "but the bonnet box is an ideal console for hi-fi. Folks get nostalgic and receptive to music just by looking at it. And it is sturdy enough to grow with a family's youngsters."

Captain Bayer will train for six weeks at Maxwell Air Force Base prior to reporting to the University of California at Los Angeles where he will serve as an ROTC instructor for three years.

Little Gallery Plans Series of Shows

Beginning July 29th, The Little Gallery in Birmingham, planning a series of Little Shows, will display the works of one or more lesser known artists from this area.

Kenneth Wynsma, Stanley Hench and Tom Frank, although quite diverse in their artistic backgrounds and methods, have in common the fact that they were born and educated in the Midwest. None of these young men has had a previous comprehensive showing in this area.

The exhibition will open at The Little Gallery on July 29th and continue through Aug. 31st, every day except Sundays from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Few Basic Rules for TV Viewing Ease Eyestrain

A few basic rules apply both to motion picture and TV viewing. Eye specialists tell you not to try to see the whole screen equally well, and do not try to hold any detail. Keep the eyes and attention constantly on the move. Here is a suggestion that shouldn't be hard to follow: Take the opportunities offered by boring scenes to rest the eyes by closing them for a few seconds and relaxing. You'll get a lot of rest that way.

Clubine Clan Has Election of Officers

All Sweaters Washable if Proper Steps Taken

The more a girl pays for her sweater, the bigger the problem she builds in her mind about the "right" way to launder it. In fact, she's most likely to let the dry cleaner do her worrying for her.

1. Fill machine with enough warm water to accommodate number of sweaters being washed. Do not overload washer.

2. Add soap or detergent. Agitate until thoroughly mixed in water.

3. Add garments to tub and allow to soak 10-15 minutes, depending on the soiled condition of the sweaters.

4. Extract wash water only, eliminating spinning to prevent wrinkling.

5. Remove sweaters and fill machine with desired amount of warm water, and agitate for a moment. Put sweaters in machine and allow to soak 5 minutes, swishing sweaters about in water.

6. Follow with plain warm water rinse according to directions in Step 5.

Everyone has her own way to dry a sweater. For goodness sake, if you have a dryer, use it. Use three or four turkish towels to act as buffers or cushions for the sweater and tumble about five or six minutes. Spread out on towel and allow to finish drying in natural atmosphere. Line up seams, and stretch the grosgrain backing to buttons and buttonholes slightly. Collar and cuff ribbing should be close and tight.

One manufacturer of dryers has really simplified this step by providing a rack which fits inside the drum. Sweater is placed over the rack and dried without tumbling by heat or by air.

You'll get better results by using only one method of cleaning a sweater throughout its lifetime. In other words, launder or dry clean, but don't do both.

Oh, yes, sweaters last longer if they are kept clean. Never iron or press a sweater if you want to retain the new-like appearance and nap.

If your sweaters are not moth-proof, you will be interested in one of the new products available which wash and moth-proof a sweater.

A college girl, who just acquired her thirtieth sweater, tells us that plastic bags are the answer to storage problems. Fold sweaters to put in plastic bag by matching shoulders and sleeves, then fold them once in half.

3 Place First in Competition

Frank Merwin, Harry Jones and Robert Anderson were among the 40 members of the Thomas A. Edison, American Legion, Detroit Post 187, drum and bugle corps that placed first in state competition.

This group has won the contest since 1952. The competition was part of the Legion state convention which met Friday in Grand Rapids.

Are Style-Conscious, Successful

Parisian 'Stouts' Face Problem

By NORA W. MARTIN

PARIS (INS) — Out-size, depressed and stricken with complexes? Think of the beautiful women in Rubens' masterpieces and cheer up.

This advice comes from Mag Cournou, president of the French "Stout Women's Club" who herself tips the scales at 235 pounds.

"All plump women sometimes face problems and have complexes. I know from my own experience," Mag said. "In our club we deal with psychological problems by eliminating the inferiority complex and with the material side by advising our members on suitable fashions and styles."

The "Stout Women's Club," founded in Paris six months ago, has now over 800 members. According to its president at least 30 per cent of French women "spread out" comfortably after 40. The club members like to think of themselves as "statuesque" and their club booklet is decorated with prints of women's portraits by Rubens. They never think in terms of "weight" but only "size." A 44-inch bust and 40-inch waistline are required to be eligible for club membership.

"Plump women," Mag said, "usually are good cooks since they like to eat well themselves. They are good wives and have a cheerful temperament because they are well nourished and don't go against nature.

"What husband wants to see his wife live on grapefruit and salad?" Mag asked. "It can make the best-tempered female naughty out of sheer hunger."

Mag said that the club counts many successful business women among its members, adding:

"Stout women as a rule have strong personalities which make them successful in their careers. We have singers, lawyers, nurses, doctors and women in public work, which proves that the 'string-bean silhouette has nothing to do with a happy and full life."

Out-size clothes, a problem in fashion-conscious Paris, has also been solved through the club. An elegant Paris shop has turned over an entire floor to ladies "patterned after Rubens."

"We advise our members to play their trumps fashion-wise: Beautiful smooth throat-lines and a youthful healthy complexion. I myself like simple, collar-trimmed necklines that come to a point in the front."

"Don't think that black clothes are necessarily slimming," Mag said. "Stout women can wear prints and light colors just as well as others. For us it is the style that counts."

"We must be more simple and even more elegantly dressed than slim women. We can wear blouses and skirts but the blouse should be a vest style, not tucked into the skirt at the waist. Loose jackets and matching dresses always make elegant outfits."

More tornadoes are recorded in Kansas than in any of the other states.

Open Mind Plays Big Part in Luck

By ANNE HEYWOOD

I am convinced that we make our own luck. Anyone can be lucky who really wants to be and is willing to work for it.

★ ★ ★

Some people, in short, are luckprone. Whatever happens to them, no matter how disastrous it may at first appear, is turned, as if by magic, into good luck.

There are many factors involved in this, but one of the most important is open-mindedness.

WILL TRY ANYTHING

The lucky person meets life with an open mind, ready to try anything; the unlucky person is apt to throw up her hands in horror when confronted with something new and say, "Well really, I couldn't think of it."

★ ★ ★

I thought of this the other day when talking with Helen Dossette—Mrs Lloyd Dossette—of Lincoln Park, Michigan, a town some 10 miles out of Detroit.

Mrs. Dossette was here as one of the finalists in a national sewing contest.

★ ★ ★

It was immediately apparent that she is a luck-prone person and, what's more wonderful, her husband it, too!

WONDERFUL SKILL

Mrs Dossette won her place as finalist because she is a wonderful seamstress; but she is a wonderful seamstress because she is 5 feet 9½!

★ ★ ★

Instead of complaining about how hard it is to find clothes that fit, and blaming fate for making her too tall, Mrs. Dossette, at an early age, quickly learned to sew so that she could make her own chic and well-fitting clothes.

Thirteen years ago, the Dossettes were married.

Then, two years later, one of those disasters befell them. Mr. Dossete broke his ankle badly, so badly that he had to have an operation to save his leg.

★ ★ ★

When he was laid up, instead of berating fate, he decided to set up a home service repairing and rebuilding automobile radiators.

He was trained as a welder, and Detroit and its environs have no dearth of cars. It didn't take long to build up a good business.

In fact, business was so good that, even after he was well again, he continued it and is enormously successful.

When she's not at her sewing machine, Mrs. Dossette does pickups and deliveries for her husband.

"I love chatting with the customers," she told me. "They are either dealers or garages or trucking people, and they're as nice as can be. Ocassionally, I even paint a radiator!"

Most women, at the thought of delivering and picking up old automobile radiators, would immediately say, "Heavens, not that!"

But because Helen Dossette has an open mind, it's a lark to her. And because she and her husband both have open minds, they're "lucky"!

★ ★ ★

If you have a problem in this regard, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and I'll send you my pamphlet, "Pointers To An Open Mind."

Make Clothespin Dolls for Rainy Afternoon Fun

Even the humble clothespin occasionally gets into the spirit of nonsense and for a few brief wet hours of a rainy afternoon abandons his prosaic job of holding up aprons and pillow slips for the more enchanting task of making like a "pin-up girl." Painted in sun-touched colors, and bedecked in garments of colored paper, these clothespins—like pumpkins at midnight—turn into a galaxy of dolls.

Here's how to make them: First paste wisps of yarn to head of pin for hair. With a pencil, sketch in eyes and mouth. Then drape colored paper to look like a dress.

Some ideas for dolls include:

Bride is bedecked in white lace-like paper doily. Groom wears top hat made from small cork pasted to paper brim; also a red felt bow and white paper vest

Freshness Gives You 'Cool Look'

Looking cool on a hot summer day is chiefly a matter of good grooming.

It starts with the freshness of a shower, followed by delicately scented dusting powder and toilet water. It goes on to light and subtle make-up, clean and shining hair in a simple arrangement, fresh lingerie and a pinneat linen or cotton dress.

Stockings, of course, and short white gloves always. Add chalky white jewelry to further the impression of coolness. Then forget about your appearance and the heat, too.

You'll need to freshen up once or twice during the day. Do it rapidly and efficiently. Don't sprawl or slump when you sit (bad in any weather) since you'll only look and feel dowdy.

Shampoo your hair oftener than you do during winter weather to rid your scalp of dust and perspiration. And remember that to look cool, you must look and be fresh.

Fontanas Show New Silhouette

Broad Shoulders, Slim Hips Styled by Roman Sisters

(Editor's Note: Fall and winter fashions by Italy's top designers are being displayed to the public this week in Rome.)

By PAOLA FASSIO

ROME (INS)—A new broad-shouldered, slim-hipped silhouette was launched today by the Fontana sisters of Rome.

Narrow skirts, widening from the waistline up into broad shoulders and puffy draped or bloused backs, mark the "golden anniversary" collection that celebrates the House of Fontana's 50th birthday.

The birthday collection was a surprise for fashion editors accustomed to Fontana's usually nipped-in waists, wide skirts, and fancy embroideries. The new line emphasizes shapes and limits trimmings to discreet braids and ruchings.

FULL-BLOWN BUD

The Fontanas themselves describe their new silhouette as "a full-blown bud rising from a slim stem." The figure is top-heavy, rising out of a straight skirt kept slim and tight across the tummy, but occasionally fan-flared in back. Waistlines are normal, but easier, sometimes draped in back.

★ ★ ★

Bloused bodices, especially in back, featured wider shoulders. Bustlines were not as tightly outlined as before.

One example of the new slim skirt-wide bodice shape was a black wool dress with a narrow-hemmed skirt which draped at the waist and then expanded upwards. A "butcher boy" yoke at the chest controlled the bloused top. Shoulders were wide and sloping, with sleeves dropping to bracelet length.

MODEST NECKLINES

The three Fontanas — Zoe, Micol and Giovanna — voted against extreme decollette for new clothes. They cut wide V's but filled in the V with tucked chiffon or lace ruching.

★ ★ ★

Evening clothes showed turn-of-the-century elegance in sentimental remembrance of the clothes worn when mother Amabile Fontana founded the firm in 1907.

The grand finale dress was typical: A gold lame ball gown with double train whose big skirt was caught to the back with unpressed pleats at the waistline. The bodice was smooth in front, but shoulders were draped backward into a huge pouff of fabric over the shoulder blades.

Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate

The new nonchalant silhouette is for the straight-figured person who likes to almost hide the waistline and can afford to focus on the hipline with band or bows and keep the skirt straight-out or pleated, if she prefers.

No Reason to Neglect Leg Care

It's amazing to see the number of well-groomed women who are not at all careful about leg grooming.

They've spent money on sheer stockings and pretty shoes. But peeping through the hosiery is a forest of fuzz. It completely ruins the effect of both stockings and shoes.

Yet these women have often given careful attention to hair, skin and all details of clothing. The same careful attention should go into using a razor or electric shaver designed for women.

The de-fuzzing should be done once a week and this is a good time, too, to use a pumice stone on rough spots and calluses on the feet.

After the de-fuzzing, use a good body lotion or even your gavorite hand lotion to smooth out your legs. Actually, feet and legs. Actually, feet and legs need the same steady care that your fingernails and hands rate.

Shower Is Held for Bride-Elect

Bride-elect, Elaine McManus, was honoree at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Robert Overcashier in her home on Waldon road Thursday evening.

Elaine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest MacManus of Lake Orion, is the bride-elect of Thomas Fluent, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fluent of Detroit.

Trend in Jewelry Toward Elegance

The jewelry business is moaning slightly. The big trend these days is toward elegance — more subdued jewelry — to go with the more subdued look of the narrow lapels and generally more conservative styling.

For jewelers, this means hard times. They thrive in an era of lavish, splashy jewelry. And anybody who splashes today is just all wet.

Perplexed About Who Sits Where

How Are Parents Seated in Church for Double Rite?

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: We are having a double wedding in our family and are a bit perplexed about the seating in the church and standing to receive afterwards.

"I am anxious that everything shall be done correctly but need help because there are two sets of bridegroom's parents, or more accurately two mothers and one father. Will you help me with this problem?"

Answer: The seating in church is as follows: The mother of the bridegroom of the older daughter should sit on the aisle of the first pew on the right.

Since the aisle seat is the choice seat, it would then be better that the mother of the second bride groom choose the aisle seat of the second pew rather than sit away from the aisle in the first pew.

The one father would of course sit next to his own wife. The first pew on the left belongs to the mother of the two brides.

Standing to receive afterwards: The mother-in-law of the older bride stands beside the bride's mother, and the mother-in-law of the younger bride next to the older bride's mother-in-law.

The father of the one bridegroom stands fourth in line, or walks about among the guests with the bride's father, whose duty it is to introduce him if he is a stranger.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please settle a point of correct table manners? I was taught from earliest childhood that it is improper to lean one's knife against the plate with the blade on the edge of the plate and the handle resting on the table.

"My husband thinks it is quite all right to do this and I feel that he is setting a bad example to the children by insisting on this practice."

"Dear Mrs. Post: I have heard that it is improper for a boy to give his girl friend a sweater for a present. Will you please tell me if this is true, and why?"

Answer: A generation ago the gift of a sweater would have been shocking, but today I think that there are very few who would criticize a girl for accepting one from a boy.

Only 3 per cent of the nation's salt is consumed as food.

But Many Women Make Serious Mistakes

Clothes Can Enhance Appearance

BY JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

For a few days I am writing about the five important C's: Courage, Calisthenics, Color, Clothes and Cooking. These are just about as essential to us as the three R's — Reading, Writing and 'rithmetic.

★ ★ ★

Let's think of the importance of clothes. Historians believes that clothes were first worn for ornamentation rather than for reasons of modesty and that ornaments were worn before clothes were. Therefore, our wish to bedeck ourselves is as natural as our desire to marry and have children.

The desire for becoming attire is universal. It is only when a woman gives up all hope of being attractive physically or has lost the incentive to be so because of grief or discouragement, that she loses interest in the garments and ornaments she wears.

Yet everywhere, every day, we see women who evidently have made an effort to enhance themselves becomingly and yet who have made many mistakes.

For instance: The fat woman wearing a large flowered print or stripes which go round and round; the flat-chested women with tightly fitted blouses rather than fullness or draping; short women with big hats which seem to crush them toward the earth; tall women with small handbags, little women with large bulky jewelry; plump women with wide belts; long-necked women with short hair; women wearing tailored woolens and lots of rhinestones; round-faced women with their hair flat on top and fluffed at the sides; thin-faced women with their hair worn high on top and close at the sides; women wearing powder several shades too light or lipstick and nail polish which clash; women in oxfords with afternoon dresses and spikes with tailored clothes; women with too much ornamentation — bracelets, earrings, beads, pins and veils. On and on it goes!

Clothes and accessories can make a tremendous difference in your appearance at any age. It behooves us to learn the tricks in dress.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Clothes to Fit Your Personality and Figure" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 54 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Tomorrow: "Three of the Five Important C's Are Discussed Today."

Fashions Pose Problem for Middle-Aged Woman

She Should Appraise Self and Others Before Choosing New Wardrobe

By RUTH MILLETT

One of my women readers admits to a problem that probably troubles a good many women her age.

She writes: "I know I don't know how to dress, and I'd like to know. I am well past middle-age and for the first time in my life I can afford a few good clothes and now I don't know what to buy. I am a little overweight, which makes my problem more difficult.

"I don't want to try to dress like a young woman but I know I don't look well in the kind of clothes I have been wearing. Where can I find how to dress becomingly and appropriately for my age?"

Not from fashion magazines, I'm afraid. In them you'll see a lot of extreme styles on a lot of undernourished models—all young and glamorous.

What you could do is study your face and figure in a mirror as carefully as you did way back when you were in your teens.

APPRAISE YOURSELF

Make a fair appraisal of your good points and your bad points so you can learn how to play up the former and play down the latter.

Then start paying careful attention to every woman you see who is about your age. When you think a woman looks especially well-dressed and attractive, figure out why.

When a woman looks overdressed or drab or if her clothes are so much too young for her that they make her look ridiculous, size up the situation and find out how she has gone wrong.

Then start out and plan one outfit, starting from scratch. Take plenty of time, looking until each article you buy is not only harmonious with the rest of the outfit but is as becoming as possible to you.

Just getting one costume together in which you feel comfortable and attractive will give you enough confidence so that you will find that shopping for clothes is fun instead of a dreaded chore.

Short Time on Stove Cooks Veal

Mrs. Moore Toasts and Rolls Crusts to Coat Steak

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Does everyone know how to prepare breaded meats? We doubt it and were glad to get Mrs. George Moore's recipe for Breaded Veal Steak.

Mrs. Moore is a homebody who enjoys having her grandchildren visit her. She likes to work in her flower garden and does all the yard work.

BREADED VEAL STEAK
By Mrs. George Moore

1 pound round bone veal steak
Fine dry bread crumbs
1 egg
2 tablespoons milk
Salt and pepper
Fat for frying

Beat egg with milk untill well mixed. If, like Mrs. Moore, you make your own breadcrumbs, roll dry bread fine. Cut meat into three servings.

Dip first in crumbs, then in egg and again in crumbs. Brown in hot fat. Turn heat very low and cook about 20 minutes or until meat is tender.

Remove meat from pan. Add milk to drippings and bits of crumbs left in pan. Cook and stir to make gravy. Serve with mashed potatoes. Serves three.

MR. and MRS. JOHN BEAUCHAMP

Married Saturday were Joan Inez Combs and John Beauchamp. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Combs. Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Beals are John's parents.

Joan Combs Is Married at Our Lady of the Lake

Our Lady of the Lake Church was the setting for the Saturday morning wedding of Joan Inez Combs and John Beauchamp. The Rev. F. J. Delaney performed the 11 o'clock service in the presence of 250 guests.

Joan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Combs of Hillcliff drive. Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Beals of Horseshoe drive are John's parents.

Given in marriage by her father, Joan wore a gown of embroidered lace with a fitted bodice accented by a modified Queen Anne collar. The bouffant skirt featured a front panel of pleated tulle with tiers of lace extending from the sides into a chapel sweep.

Her beaded headpiece secured a fingertip veil of silk illusion, and she carried a cascade arrangement of carnations centered with an orchid. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, a gift of the bridegroom.

Joyce Combs served her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Bonnie Meyers, Gail Arthurs and Mary Lou Carr. The honor attendant wore a gown of mint green nylon sheer with matching colored picture hat. Gowns of yellow nylon sheer with matching colored picture hats were worn by the bridesmaids.

A floor-length gown of white embroidered organza accented by a mint green sash was worn by Debbie Chapdelaine, niece of the bridegroom, who served as flower girl. She carried a basket of white baby chrysanthemums and yellow roses.

Serving the bridegroom was Francis LaBarge, Ronnie Combs, Ronnie LaBarge and Larry Combs served as groomsmen. Seating the guests were Douglas Combs and Ronald LaBarge. Roger Chapdelaine, nephew of the bridegroom performed the duties of ringbearer.

Mrs. Beals choice was an aqua lace sheath dress with chiffon trim. Her accessories were white and she wore an orchid corsage.

To Roll Apple Campaign

3-County Groups Meeting July 25

Plan Intensive Drive to Acquaint Housewives With Home Product

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP—Plans for a "Use Michigan Apples at Home" campaign will be formed at a meeting slated for 8 p.m. Thursday at West Bloomfield Township Hall.

Representatives from Kiwanis Clubs of Oakland, Wayne and Genesee Counties will attend the meeting, in conjunction with their agricultural project for 1957.

Kiwanians intend to set aside one full week late in September or early in October for a concentrated drive to push the sale of Michigan apples.

The one-week campaign will tie in with Michigan State Apple Commission's promotion to be known as the "Big Ten." It was so named because the eyes of the football world will be on the Big Ten teams during the same time that Michigan's 10 varieties of apples hit the market.

Kiwanis members are currently loaded with ideas to increase the use of Michigan apples. Retailers and apple growers are also making plans of their own to make the drive a complete success.

CAMPAIGN HEADQUARTERS

John C. Finlayson, chairman of the Oakland County committee, has been granted permission to use the Hidden Paradise, a large building in Commerce Township, in connection with the drive.

Eddie Dreyer, West Bloomfield club member who operates dance halls in Detroit, recently purchased the Hidden Paradise. Dreyer intends to use the building as a dance hall.

Hidden Paradise will be the scene of many contests in connection with the preparation of apple dishes.

It is the intention of Kiwanians to send out leading recipes involving the use of apples to housewives in the tri-county area.

Kiwanians also plan to distribute a film entitled "Gateway to Health." The film illustrates the value of eating apples in regard to health, particularly dental health.

Many clubs in the tri-county area will sell apples instead of peanuts at the end of the big campaign week. Proceeds will be used to support youth programs.

Retailers, apple growers and Kiwanians will coordinate plans at a meeting to be held soon after Labor Day. Final plans for the campaign week will be formulated at that time.

'A Bad Situation'

Introduces Cotton Bill

WASHINGTON (INS) — A California Republican congressman proposed today setting aside for two years the so-called "escalator clause" that pushes cotton price supports up when stocks fall too low.

The lawmaker, Harlan Hagen, introduced a bill that would freeze the cotton support level for 1958 and 1959 crops at the 1957 amount.

Hagen's measure was seen partly as a west-coast revolt against domination of cotton legislation by eastern and southern plains growers, and partly as a compromise between the present support program and new recommendations by Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson.

Hagen indicated that California producers are chafing under the restraints of the current cotton laws, and said demand for the west coast fiber is so high that few farmers there are bothering to obtain commodity credit corporation loans on their crop.

The Californian also said that a rise in support prices — now near the legal minimum of 75 per cent of parity — would slow down the cotton disposal program that is proceeding at a record rate.

He stated: "It is a bad situation when the producers who grow the best cotton are most penalized by surpluses."

Muskegon Area Needs Workers to Help Harvest

"Anyone who wants work can get it," said Henry Willis, farm labor placement officer. He noted that the harvests were just starting and the situation would call for more labor later.

The Muskegon area had about 7,000 pickers employed last week with the cherries, blueberries and beans all coming on at the same time.

"We could use 1,000 more pickers in this area," Willis said.

Security for You

How Will Family Stand When You Die

By RAY HENRY
Associated Press Writer

It was a warm fall day in Amarillo. The blond, well-tanned young man had his six-year-old daughter at his side as he entered the local Social Security office.

As he stopped at the Social Security representative's desk, he pointed to a distant chair for his daughter. He didn't want her to hear the conversation.

He started with this question:

"When a man dies and he leaves a child and widow, what does the widow do?"

He got a careful explanation. Then, the Social Security representative asked why he wanted to know.

"The doctors," he said, "have told me I have only a few months to live. I want to make the arrangements."

CAN'T TELL WHEN WE'LL DIE

As this true story illustrates, it's natural for a man approaching death to be concerned about the welfare of his family.

But, few of us know when we're going to die. And, all too often, we do little to find out where our family will stand financially if we were to die.

Yet, it's fairly simple to be informed about one major chunk of assistance which may be available to them: Social Security survivors payments.

There are two broad rules covering survivors payments:

(1) Your widow at any age is eligible for monthly Social Security payments if she is caring for your children under 18 and if you were fully or currently insured under the Social Security law when you died.

(2) Your widow is eligible for old age payments when she reaches 62 if you were fully insured when you died.

To be fully insured, you generally must have worked under Social Security since 1936 an amount of time equal to at least half of the time between Jan. 1, 1951 and the time of your death. To be currently insured, you must have worked at least 1½ of the last three years before your death.

In general, the payments to your survivors will be based on your average monthly earnings covered by the Social Security law between 1950 and the time of your death.

Since there is no way of knowing what your average monthly earnings over this period will be, it's impossible to figure the exact amount of the payments your family will get.

But, it is possible to tell approximately what they'll get. The Social Security offices have booklets and charts on which you can base your estimates.

For example: If your average monthly earnings have been $50 and you leave a widow and two children, the minimum payment for them will be $50.20 a month until the oldest child reaches 18.

If your average monthly earnings have been at least $310, your widow and two children will receive $200 a month—the highest payment made to a family—until the oldest child reaches 18.

(Questions on Social Security problems may be addressed to "Social Security," in care of The Pontiac Press. Questions will be answered by mail from the Pontiac office of the Social Security Administration. There is no charge for this service.)

Hired to Find 'Truth' in New York Mystery

Dynamic Morris Ernst Gets Tough Assignment

By International News Service

Morris Ernst has been fighting for causes all his life. Frequently called a "radical," a vocal and consistent champion of civil rights, he would seem at the opposite end of the pole from Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo, so-called "strong man" of the Dominican Republic.

But his latest role places him in the position of an employe of the Dominican government, hired to "find the truth" about one of the strangest mysteries of our day — the sudden disappearance in New York on March 12, 1956, of Dr. Jesus De Galindez.

Since that time the Dominican government has been confronted with rumors and open charges that it did away with De Galindez, an outspoken opponent of Trujillo.

Saturday, the Dominican Republic announced that Ernst would head an independent American team to find and publish the real facts — no matter who gets hurt.

Long a leading civil rights attorney, one-time aide and consultant to such men as Franklin D. Roosevelt, Herbert H. Lehman and Fiorello LaGuardia, enemy of dictatorships, foe of "vested interests," Ernst accepted the job — and the challenge — in typical fashion.

GIVEN 'COMPLETE LIBERTY'

He wanted and got "complete liberty" to swing away and let the chips fall where they may.

Direct action has been the rule of this Alabaman-turned-New Yorker (born in Uniontown, Ala., in 1888).

Once, when tussling with FDR over what he felt were unfair mail rates for books as against other printed matter, he sent the President a Bible.

He wrote FDR that should he wish to "send this Bible to a spiritually needy friend on the Pacific Coast, the postage would cost you 56 cents."

With the Bible he sent Roosevelt three "sex booklets" weighing exactly the same amount as the Bible. To mail those to a friend on the west coast, Ernst told FDR, "would cost you seven cents."

His "causes" have been fought on many fronts — banking, insurance, labor reform, civil rights, election reform, free speech. In the late 1930's he tackled one of the nation's most powerful city bosses, Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, N. J., on the free speech issue.

Hague, who bowed to an injunction, was so popping mad at Ernst he tried to make a speech in court against him — and got madder when the court ruled him out of order.

Press and Radio Go Commercial in Red Poland

WARSAW (AP)—The press and the state radio of Communist Poland are going commercial. It is part of an effort to combine communism with capitalist business methods.

"Learn to dance," the Soliszewski brothers advertise in the evening Express. "Latest additions—rock 'n' roll, calypso."

"You'll buy or sell a house, building site or farm most profitably through Realmox (a government agency)."

A marriage bureau asks if any girls would like "serious proposals from cultured American gentlemen, aged 30 to 35?"

The Express and the morning newspaper Zycie Warszawy carry two pages of ads in an average eight-page issue. A year ago they had 1 sesthan half a page.

The state radio wants to get into the advertising business and expects to begin making with the commercials by Aug. 1. It hopes to get ads—and hard currency—from Western firms whose products are trickling into Poland.

Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Out in Oakland, California, this week, more than 1,000 roller skaters from all over the country, including 28 from the Pontiac area, are competing for championships in 51 events.

For many years during its tremendous growth, skaters have been fighting an uphill battle with those who have scoffed at their claims to get positions on the sports pages of the country's newspapers.

The attitude that roller skating was strictly in the realm of social and recreational activity was the barrier which for a long time kept skating in the obscure places of various publications.

The first big move in the fight for recognition came in 1937 when the Roller Skating Rink Operators' Association organized in Detroit for the purpose of leading the fight for its product — the skater.

Today, the RSROA represents 20 million roller skaters in the United States. It provides competition on the state, regional and national levels which is as competitive as championships and tournaments found in any American sport.

IT HAS COMPETITIVE THRILLS

It offers the thrills of ice, but on wheels. It has grown internationally and now wants a rightful spot alongside the other competitive sports.

In roller and ice skating there are divisions for speed and art. The artistic end of each features precision and intricate patterns with as many skillful techniques as there are necessary for a person developing his skill in golf, tennis, bowling and other sports.

Roller skating has its pro and its amateur. The pro is often the teacher. The competitor in championship meets is always the amateur, who can be in the "diaper" division under the age of 6 or in any of the four other classes up to the seniors.

When the elimination championships begin on the state level, a field of over 25,000 across the country vies for the titles and positions at stake. The cast narrows in regional competition and from there the skater bids for national recognition.

Very few people know that right here in the Pontiac area a great number of roller skaters have done themselves proud on all levels of competition.

One of the outstanding names in the record book of the RSROA is Laurene Anselmy, who today at 19 is a retired amateur and now a teaching pro in Pontiac.

Ask Laurene how she feels about roller skating as a sport. She would affirm that the pileups and spills and the great competitive spirit of the contestants could hardly be called a social tea.

RODGERS OKAYS PONTIAC BOUT

Sammy Rodgers, the scrappy lightweight from Benton Harbor, who had a fabulous record as an amateur of 140 victories in 144 bouts, including 112 knockouts, has signed definitely to be Mickey Crawford's opponent at Wisner Stadium, August 13th.

Two of his losses since turning pro have been to Kenny Lane, the Muskegon title contender, and to Pat Lowry in an unfavorable decision. He has won 21.

Both fighters will move into Pontiac, Friday Aug. 9th and hold workouts in a training ring to be set up at Crofoot playground.

NO WIND; LEARN ABOUT DIVING — When the wind failed on Cass Lake, all one day's district regatta races were abandoned. With time on their hands, Pontiac Yacht Club folks learned something about aqualung diving from Gary Gray (right). Frank Palazzola has donned the gear. He was one of many who tried the "lung."

Resume NL Race; Chisox Battle NY

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Will the Braves be able to hold the lead despite injuries? Can the Cardinals win at home? Will the Dodgers, loaded with walking wounded, be able to hold their own in the West? Can the Redlegs avoid another long slump? Will the Phillies hang on?

★ ★ ★

Even Helen Trent never had it as rough as the five clubs in on that soap opera the National League is staging as a pennant race. And after the St. Louis Cardinals were rapped 13-4 by the Chicago White Sox in yesterday's Hall-of-Fame game, adding to NL indignities suffered in the All-Star Game defeat by the American League, the pennant pursuers get back to business today with the Western teams at home to the East.

★ ★ ★

In the AL, where the only real question is "If the Yankees are so great, why aren't they playing .700 ball?" (that's a joke, son), first place New York gets another chance to wrap it up early, returning home with a 4½-game lead for a three-game set with the second place White Sox.

In the other AL games, it's Kansas City at Boston, Cleveland at Washington and Detroit at Baltimore. All are night games.

The Yankees, who have lost only eight games since June 13, go with Don Larsen (5-2) against the White Sox and Bob Keegan (6-3), who has won six in a row.

★ ★ ★

Boston, shut out by Chicago in the last two games of the Western trip, is third, 12½ games back, going into the game with Kansas City. It's Frank Sullivan (8-6) for the Red Sox against Virgil Trucks (7-3). At Washington, The Indians, fourth and 13½ games behind, send Stan Pitula (2-2) against Chuck Stobbs 3-13.

Rex De Sota Wins Opener at Jackson

McCarthy, 'Wahoo' Reach Goal

Join Baseball's All-Time Stars in Hall of Fame

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y. (AP) — Looking back over 43 years of baseball stretching from Wilmington, Del. to a niche in the Hall of Fame, Joe McCarthy summed up his thoughts in a few brief words.

"Gee, I wish I could do it all over again."

Sentiment brought tears to the eyes of Samuel "Wahoo Sam" Crawford, as the 77-year-old former outfielder also was formally inducted into baseball's Hall of Fame, yesterday in this historic village.

"I've come a long way to this day," he started. "I want to thank all my friends. I had a speech to make but I don't believe I can go through with it."

★ ★ ★

The two new members were received officially by Commissioner Ford Frick on a wooden platform that had been built under the shade trees in front of the Hall of Fame and baseball museum. The shirt-sleeved crowd jammed Main Street from curb to curb and overflowed onto the steps of the post office.

In a few hours these people would be among the 9,000 at Doubleday Field, baseball's birthplace to watch the St. Louis Cardinals get drubbed, 13-4, by the Chicago White Sox in the annual Hall of Fame Trophy Game. But now all eyes were trained on the platform where McCarthy and Crawford were being honored.

Marse Joe, who won eight pennants with the New York Yankees and one with the Chicago Cubs and never finished worse than fourth in 24 years as a manager, thanked the owners, coaches, trainers, writers, umpires and players for his success.

"Most responsible of all for my being here are the great players," said McCarthy. "And God knows, I had my share of the good ones. I won't try to list them all because I would not want to forget and leave somebody out."

Glancing toward Mrs. Lou Gehrig, widow of his former first baseman, McCarthy said, "Seeing you brings back many a sad memory but also a lot of happy ones."

McCarthy turned to Cal Hubbard, American League Umpire Supervisor, and thanked his profession. When the crowd laughed, Marse Joe flashed a bit of his Irish wit and said "not that they ever give you the best of it."

The 70 - year - old "gentleman farmer" from East Amherst, N.Y. also pointed out the newsmen who first suggested he might be a manager.

"In 1912 at Wilkes-Barre, Tom Brislin wrote a story saying I might make a manager," said McCarthy. "Bill Clymer gave me the job after he read the story."

McCarthy listed Bill Veeck, Sr., and Phil Wrigley of Chicago, Col. Jake Ruppert, Ed Barrow and George Weiss of the Yanks and Tom Yawkey, Eddie Collins and Joe Cronin of the Red Sox as front office men who made his job easier.

McCarthy broke into baseball with Wilmington in 1907 and retired because of poor health as Boston manager in 1950.

Crawford, a power hitter in the dead ball days, had a lifetime batting average of .309 in 19 years with 2,964 hits. He still holds the record for most triples with 312 in his career.

Any Team Eligible in 1959

Change Orange Bowl

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Any topnotch college team can be invited to play in the 1959 Orange Bowl football game and everyone seems happy about it—even the Atlantic Coast Conference, which was cut loose to make room.

★ ★ ★

The Orange Bowl Committee voted yesterday not to renew its contract with the ACC. Atlantic Coast Conference teams have met Big Eight Conference champions in Orange Bowl New Year's Day games since 1954 under agreements that expire with the 1958 clash.

The Bowl will continue to book Big Eight championship teams, but will be free to pick the opposing eleven from any section of the nation.

Major radio and television networks, which have paid the Bowl increasing sums for broadcast rights, had urged the committee to widen its field of choices. Negotiations currently are under way with National Broadcasting Co. and Columbia Broadcasting System.

Joe H. Adams, President of the Bowl Committee, said the Big Eight conference had agreed to waive for 1959—the Bowl's 25th anniversary—its rule that no Big Eight titlist can play in two successive bowl games. Under foreseeable conditions, that probably would bring the Big Eight's powerhouse, Oklahoma, to the Orange Bowl both in 1958 and 1959. The latter year, the committee could pick the Big Eight team's foe from the cream of college football regardless of section.

★ ★ ★

"We are happy about this," Adams said.

Van C. Kussrow headed a committee panel that studied means of improving the Orange Bowl holiday game and recommended yesterday's action by the full committee.

"With a Big Eight champion as the host team," said Kussrow, "we have a wide choice from schools in the state, the Southeastern and Atlantic Coast Conferences, Army, Navy or an outstanding Eastern team."

The 23-year-old Braves' slugger is the leader in game-winning blows—a system of rating the top clutch hitters devised by the Associated Press. Aaron has produced the pivotal hit in seven games this season.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

Other players who also have consistently delivered important hits in the late innings are Gino Cimoli of Brooklyn, Del Ennis of the St. Louis Cardinals and Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs. Each has five game-winning blows.

Trailing Skowron in the American League with four are Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra of the Yankees. Each has five game-winning blows.

Hoeft Opens at Baltimore

Tigers Defend 5th Place

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Detroit Tigers arrived here today to open a three-game series with the Baltimore Orioles that will determine whether the sagging Tigers cling to fifth place or fall to sixth.

Billy Hoeft (2-5) is expected to pitch for Detroit in the opener of the series tonight. Baltimore was expected to start with Bill O'Dell (1-3).

Veteran Steve Gromek, a victim of sore arm troubles since late June, was the whole show in the Tigers' 5-3 victory over their Charleston Farm Club in the American Association., in a exhibition game at Charleston last night.

Gromek gave the Class AAA Senators just four hits in five innings and socked a three-run double that provided the winning difference.

Al Aber finished for the Tigers, yielding five hits and two runs in the final four innings.

Gromek's blow in the second inning put the Tigers in front to stay. They added two more in the sixth on Bill Tuttle's triple, Ron Samford's double and an error.

City Skaters Gain Honors

A 3-iron shot on the 193-yard 9th hole resulted in a hole-in-one for John Tanczysyn at the Rochester Golf Club yesterday. The ace helped him to a 35 for the 1st nine. He finished with 75 for the round.

Lady Pros Arriving

Head for Wolverine Open

The nation's leading women golf professionals began arriving in Detroit today for the opening of the 3rd annual Wolverine Ladies Open, starting Thursday at Lochmoor Club in Grosse Pointe Woods.

The lady pros finished up their annual four-ball championship tournament Sunday at the Homestead in Hot Springs, Ark. The event was won by Fay Crocker and Marilyn Smith with successive rounds of 71-69-75-66. Both girls will compete in the Wolverine.

As a matter of fact, John G. Bannister, chairman of the tournament for Lochmoor, announces that the only name pros missing from the tournament here will be Patty Berg and Betsy Rawls, both of whom have July exhibition commitments for the sporting goods company which employs them.

Chick Rutan, Lochmoor pro, said today that Lochmoor's tight, fence-bounded layout will play at par 75 for the tournament with a total yardage of 6,406. He predicts that few of the ladies will be able to match men's par of 72 and that a score of 296 will probably take top money.

The 72-hole medal play tournament will see 18 hole rounds on Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday with the lady pros and top women amateurs playing in threesomes. Total prize pot is $7,500 with first place taking $1,350. On Thursday and Friday, the women amateurs will start teeing off at 10:30 a.m. with the lady pros teeing off between noon and 2 p.m.

Preceding the opening of the actual tournament itself on Thursday, will be a special best-ball match on Wednesday featuring not only the lady pros and women amateurs but also Detroit's district pros and leading men amateurs, playing in foursomes. Starting time for this exhibition match is 10:30 a.m.

Jockey Is Exonerated in Futurity Violation

CHICAGO (INS) — Jockey Doug Dodson has been cleared of any blame for last Saturday's Arlington Park Futurity violation which cost his horse's stablemate, Alhambra, the $104,875 first place money.

Resort Areas Consider Good Fishing an Asset

The Associated Press

Now the government of Bermuda has discovered that its rather special mid-Atlantic game fishery can be as much of a tourist asset as a genuine haunted castle back home in the British Isles.

And there's kind of a heart-warming angle to developing a game fish resource—the more you try to give it away, the better it pays.

"Primary purpose of the bureau," a statement says, "will be to advise visiting anglers as to how and where to fish in the waters surrounding the British resort. All the latest angling literature, including special maps of Bermuda reef areas for light tackle fishing, are available."

Foe Collapses, Bell Given KO

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Courchesne was as good as new today but his manager, taking no chances, decided that a projected trip to Venezuela was out for the time being.

★ ★ ★

Courchesne, a good journeyman lightweight, took a spasm between the eighth and ninth rounds of his scheduled 10 with Bobby Bell last night at St. Nicholas Arena and scared the living daylights out of his seconds and the TV spectators who saw the bout in some sections of the country.

★ ★ ★

Courchesne, who had a 50-8-2 record, was charged with a knockout at the hands of Bell when he failed to answer the bell for the ninth round. According to the New York State Athletic Commission rules, it goes in the books as an eighth-round kayo.

Houston Fight Card Aids Zaharias Fund

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Willie Pep, 35-year-old battler who has his eye on winning the world's featherweight championship for the third time, takes on Russ Tague of Davenport, Iowa, in a 10-round match here tonight.

The card is a benefit performance, with 10 per cent of the gross gate earmarked for the Babe Zaharias Cancer Fund.

Nashville Newest Threat for Top Horse This Year

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—There's an added starter in the bid for 3-year-old honors of the year today—A spanking bay colt named Nashville.

Once a highly regarded youngster in the racing empire of the Belair Stud's late master, William Woodward Jr., Nashville once whipped Bold Ruler, then took beatings from the Ruler, Federal Hill and Barbizon last fall. But he came back into prominence yesterday.

The son of Nasrullah raced for the first time as a 3-year-old, since Oct. 27, 1956, at Garden State, N. J., and for the first time against older horses.

This was in the $25,000-added Lakes and Flowers at Hollywood Park yesterday and the winner was Nashville by three and three-quarter lengths.

Pitching ace Bob Lemon opened the 1946 season in center field for the Cleveland Indians. Before that he played third base.

Grains Follow Wheat in Drop

CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat futures fell fractionally to more than a cent in early dealings on the Board of Trade today. Most other grains followed the trend.

A goodly volume of stop-loss orders entered the wheat pit at the opening, pushing the price of September futures down 1¼ cents at one time. Corn eased on scattered selling and favorable crop weather.

Soybeans also turned weaker, influenced by excellent weather and some profit taking. June soybeans at 24,693,000 bushels were about in line with expectations and had little effect on the trade. Weakness in soybean oils was a factor in the decline.

Near the end of the first hour, new style wheat was one to 1¼ lower, Sept. $2.14⅝; corn was ½ to ⅞ lower, Sept. $1.32⅞; oats were unchanged to ¼ lower, Sept. 65⅞; rye was ½ to two cents lower, Sept. $1.28¾; soybeans were ¼ higher to 1⅛ lower, Sept. $2.48 and lard was two to five cents a hundred pounds higher, Sept. $13.87.

Parents Too Friendly, Juvenile Judge Says

CLEVELAND (AP) — A Cleveland juvenile judge believes there would be less delinquency if parents would stop trying to be "pals" to their teenage children.

Juvenile Court Judge Albert A. Woldman says:

"I'm sick and tired of fathers coming into court and telling me they gave their sons this and that because they wanted to be pals.

"What we need is a little of that sternness that marked the father of the Victorian Age when children knew who was boss."

6 Marines Hurt Fighting Blaze

Forest Fire in Control After Periling Homes, Factories at Lakehurst

LAKEHURST, N. J. (AP)—Six Marines were injured fighting a forest fire which threatened a housing development and two factories before it was brought under control early today.

The blaze consumed 1,000 acres of parched scrub pine and hardwood. It was declared under control and almost out at 11:45 a. m. by the central Jersey fire warden, Bernard C. Bartlett.

Three of the Marines, assigned to the Naval Air Station here, were hospitalized with second and third degree burns. They were identified as Maj. E. E. Kaufer, commander of the Marine Barracks; Lt. Thomas F. Kelaher, executive officer, and Pfc. John Frederickson.

★ ★ ★

A wind shift saved the 500-unit Pine Lake Park housing development near here. The blaze also threatened the Reid Manufacturing Co. and the Barrett Asphalt Co. A Navy fire truck was destroyed.

Robert Runion, Manchester Township fire chief, said that explosives stored at the Reid company were removed to safe ground at the height of the fire.

Some 75 firemen fought the blaze yesterday and into the night. Fanned by shifting winds, the blaze raced toward Lakehurst for a time last night, and firefighters set up back fires along Route 37.

The firemen were aided in their defense of the town by cranberry bogs, a branch of the Toms River, and the open lands of the air station.

E-H Bond Sales Pass $144 Million in State

DETROIT (INS) — Michigan's U.S. Savings Bond Division announced sales of series E and H bonds in the state during the first six months of this year totaled $144,741,000.

★ ★ ★

The division's director, Delmar V. Cote, said this was equal to 46 per cent of this year's treasury assigned quota of $315 million.

He said sales of the two series were 15.6 per cent below those of the same period for last year.

Cote said there was an upward trend in E bond sales since the treasury announced bonds issued after Feb. 1 of 1957 would pay 3¼ per cent compounded semi-annually if held to maturity, and a larger return than before if redeemed early.

South Viet Nam Adds 6 Pct. Production Tax

SAIGON, South Viet Nam—South Viet Nam has authorized a 6 per cent production tax on all Viet Nam-produced articles except handicraft products. It replaces the 4 per cent sales tax. Also, new taxes, in addition to the present customs duties, will be levied on all imports.

The new taxes amount to 15 per cent on essential consumer goods and 30 per cent on luxuries. The new taxes are expected to yield about 15 per cent of the Government's total revenue.

Stock Trading Remains Dull

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices were irregular and trading was dull in the stock market early today.

Leading issues moved to the plus or minus side by fractions to around a point.

Wall Street analysts said the market was still undergoing a consolidation phase, possibly to build a base for a further assault on the record highs of 1956.

Declining second quarter earnings for Ford Motor Co. and Republic Steel, the nation's third-largest steelmaker, afforded no encouragement to investors.

But the rise in national production to a new record rate in the second quarter and the improvement of steel output for the third-straight week were more reassuring.

Lukens Steel, Cities Service and Douglas Aircraft were up about a point each. International Paper was down around a point and Du Pont close to two.

Fractional gains were made by Chrysler, United Aircraft, Anaconda, American Cyanamid, Union Carbide, American Tobacco, Schering, West Indies Sugar, Santa Fe, New York Central and Southern Railway.

Get Some Real Brew for Off-Stage Use

NEW YORK (AP) — A whimsical warning accompanied a gift to the cast of "Long Day's Journey Into Night" from former Lord Mayor Robert Briscoe of Dublin.

Mississippi Shipping Up

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP)—As picturesque as ever, shipping on the Mississippi River is today also prosperous, growing and air-conditioned.

Little-noticed except by the river people, shipping on the greatest of inland streams has been booming for a quarter of a century. The boom never looked better than it does today.

For the entire navigable length of the river, from Minneapolis to the gulf, tonnage has grown steadily from 24,765,369 tons in 1935 to 94,041,76 in 1955.

Stylish as a trip down the Mississippi was a century ago, the traveler was likely to come off the boat with a few lice and needing a bath.

An example of today's towboats is the Ben McCool, which has five baths for its crew of seven, air conditioned sleeping quarters, a mahogany-paneled lounge with a 28-inch television set, a freezer full of steaks, and radio telephone by which the boat can reach any telephone number in the nation.

A river trip is still romantic. At five to six miles an hour upstream and about 15 miles downstream, the tow churns for hours without a soul visible on the tree-lined shores or stretches of sand beach.

Unlike automobiles and trains, the towboats' appearance is little changed from the past. They still look like a little white house on a thick raft. There's little point in streamlining them.

MEMENTOES OF THE PAST

On most of them, too, you are likely to find mementos of the past. The Ben McCool has a 40-year-old wooden pilot's chair, taken off the sternwheeler Titan before it was scrapped. Its powerful twin searchlights are off another vanished sternwheeler, the C. D. O'Conner.

Moonlight's reflection in the rippling waters and the play of shadows as darkness descends on the river is as stirring today as when Fernando De Soto's men first caught sight of the Mississippi in 1541.

World War II was a stimulant to many industries and brought a great increase in upstream movement of gasoline, oil, sulphur and other war-essential products. many small war vessels made in inland shipyards moved down the Mississippi. But the statistical curve showing the river's growing traffic slipped only once, from 43,968,841 tons in 1945 to 41,308,475 in 1946. The rise, since then has exceeded that during the war on an annual basis.

Supporting this growing transportation service, new industries are lining not only the Mississippi but the navigable stretches of the Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Cumberland and Tennessee rivers. Many cities are building modern river-rail-truck terminals, warehouses, and other shipping facilities.

SPUR LOCAL INDUSTRIES

They are finding, too, that availability of a direct water route to other industrial areas of the nation, and to the high seas, is a spur to local industrial growth.

Pleasure traffic on the Mississippi has grown so much that the U. S. Corps of Engineers has got out a manual for "part-time pilots." It urges respect for the barge tows, some of which are 1,000 feet long and can't stop in less than two miles.

Report Optimistic Trend in Business Forecasts

By SAM DAWSON

Strong points in the economy keep popping up to reassure the wary who say they still can't be sure which way business is heading.

The National Assn. of Purchasing Agents reports most of its members "hopeful" of upturn in the fall, although not as sure of that as they were in May.

Steelmen report an unexpected but mild gain in new orders in July, with most of the ordering for the new auto models yet to come.

Machine tool makers also note a cheerful reversal in the trend of new orders. These started slipping in March and continued to drag until June, but that month saw new orders topping the May number by 20 per cent.

The bulls still outnumber the bears in the stock market, despite the wariness last week that kept the averages from reaching last year's record high point.

Helping market sentiment have been many of the corporate earnings statements. While lots of companies are falling victim to the rising trend of operating costs and some to declining sales, an impressive number are reporting gains in net profits after taxes over the year-ago figures, and some are crowing over record sales and profits.

★ ★ ★

The cost of living, which has been climbing monotonously for months, may level off next month, the experts think, if the harvests reverse the upward trend of food prices.

John N. Guilds, 34, of 7169 Michigan Rd., pleaded guilty to reckless driving Monday before Keego Harbor Justice James Southart and paid a fine of $85 plus $15 costs.

Drain Facilities Report Heard

Whitfield Estates Would Receive 30-Inch Pipe to Relieve Flooding

Residents from Whitfield Estates subdivision heard a report on drainage facilities for their area at last night's Waterford Township board meeting.

He told the group that the proposed plans call for a 30 inch pipe extending 778 feet from the intersection of Whitfield Court to Maceday Lake, on the west.

Some 49 acres and adjacent hills drain into the north end of Homestead Dr. An existing pothole at the low point would be used as a safety valve for the new drainage plan.

Estimated costs of $14,266 was submitted to the board. Supervisor Elmer Johnson said he would talk with the Oakland County Road Commission today to discuss financing the project.

Bids for the printing of 35,000 township tax forms were opened, and a contract was awarded to the low bidder, the Division Printing Co., of Waterford Township. Its bid was $18 per thousand. The next lowest bid was $29.50.

A request from David Dunsky, for a liquor license, was again tabled for further study by board members. The State Liquor Control Commission has approved the license, but the township officials elected April 1 have not decided on a policy of procedure on liquor licenses.

The board approved the purchase of a flashing signal dome to be installed on one of the three police cars now in service.

Due to a low township budget, the board tabled Clerk James Seeterlin's request for a new fence around the Waterford Cemetery. A cost of $1,500 was anticipated.

Paraguay is about the same area as California, according to world surveys.

Recent discoveries indicate the human blood is full of small clots which normally are absorbed. If they do not absorb, they may, of course, cause a serious physical ailment.

New Eastland Center Will Open on Friday

DETROIT (AP) — Eastland, a 73-store business monument to the move to the suburbs, will open to its first customers here Friday morning.

Located on a 105-acre plot of land in suburban Harper Woods, the 25-million-dollar shopping city was planned to attract the business of the 430,000 people who live within a 15-minute driving radius.

The giant merchandising installation, with 17 entrances and exits for automobiles, is expected to be able to handle 100,000 customers a day.

Everything from food and clothing to flowers and beauty shops is offered, along with post office and banking facilities.

Oscar Webber, president of Eastland Center, Inc., said "better than 60 stores will be able to open Friday."

2 Hurt on Airliner as Pilot 'Avoids Mid-Air Crash'

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)—A woman passenger and a hostess were injured last night when a Trans-World airliner dipped suddenly in what its pilot said was an attempt to dodge an unidentified object.

Mrs. Mary Clark, 68, North Adams, Mass., suffered head lacerations and a bruised back when thrown to the floor of the airliner.

★ ★ ★

The hostess, Dorothy Rekow, suffered a bruised hip and possible back injuries. She said a suitcase fell on her. She went on to Tucson, Ariz., with the flight after the plane landed here.

Ivan Borsum, TWA sales manager at Amarillo, said the ship was a four-engined Constellation, bound from Chicago to Tucson nonstop. He said it was flying an assigned course at 18,000 feet.

Borsum quoted the pilot as saying he dropped the airliner about 500 feet when he sighted the running lights on an approaching object flying a collision course.

He did not identify the object further.

Says Candidacy Would Depend Upon 'the People'

Hoffa Plunges Into Union Work, Politics With Eye on Teamsters' Presidency

CHICAGO (AP) — James R. Hoffa, ninth vice president of the Teamsters Union, plunged yesterday from his acquittal on federal bribe and conspiracy charges into union work and union politics.

Hoffa, 44-year-old Detroit Labor Boss, said that whether he becomes an active candidate to succeed discredited Dave Beck as president of the 1½-million-member Teamster Union "would depend upon what the people want me to do."

★ ★ ★

By "The people," he told newsmen, he meant in the final analysis some 1,900 delegates who will pick Beck's successor at the union's international convention at Miami Beach which starts Sept. 30.

Hoffa was asked whether he was getting encouragement to run for the union presidency.

"Well, my close friends say I could have it, but they aren't the majority."

Some Teamster Union officals said a Washington federal court jury verdict Friday acquitting Hoffa on charges he conspired and bribed to plant a spy within the Senate Rackets Committee may rocket him into the Teamsters presidency.

PRESIDES AT MEETING

Hoffa, in his capacity as head of the international union's Warehouse Council, presided today at a meeting of the Teamsters' Montgomery Ward Council when that body recommended acceptance of a wage settlement offer by Wards for some 20,000 teamster employes.

The affected locals will vote on the council's recommendation between now and Tuesday, July 30. The proffered terms were not disclosed.

Hoffa said he plans to discuss the pending retirement of Beck with friends this week, and to meet with some 200 local council representatives Friday at the Shoreland Hotel in Chicago.

H. J. Gibbons of St. Louis, secretary-treasure of Local 688, said he had called the meeting to boom Hoffa for international president.

Hoffa, himself, said the purpose of the meeting was to discuss informally proposals for changes in the international constitution which would widen powers of the executive board.

Constitutional changes will be taken up formally at a three-day meeting of the International Constitutional Committee Aug. 1-3 in the Fairmont Hotel at San Francisco.

On Aug. 5, the union's 13-member executive board will hold its postponed summer meeting in San Francisco. Business of the upcoming convention will be discussed at this meeting, and it is possible the board will endorse a candidate.

POWERFUL FACTOR

Hoffa was conceded by many union officials to be a powerful factor in the choice of Beck's successor. He has developed a wide circle of friends at area council and local levels by willingness to accept the calls upon international headquarters for high level trouble-shooting help.

Two possible candidates are Chicagoans, one of whom, John J. O'Brien, 60, is the only vice president who has announced his intention to seek the job.

Also mentioned has been William A. Lee, a vice-president of the Teamsters and president of the Chicago Federation of Labor. Lee has disavowed candidacy and said he would back O'Brien.

O'Brien has the endorsement of John T. English, veteran secretary-treasurer of the Teamsters, who runs the international office in Washington.

Reports Confession to May Lake Death

The policeman, Patrolman Charles J. Moore, said Herdegen made the statement to him June 4.

Herdegen is charged with common-law murder in the death of Hyde, 32, of Grosse Pointe Farms.

Moore said Herdegen, 30, of suburban Harper Woods, told him he pushed Hyde out of a cabin cruiser after Hyde made indecent proposals.

Beware of Certain Drivers

Expert on Cars Compiles Dictionary of Disaster

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (INS) — American Automobile Association consultant Amos E. Neyhart has compiled "a dictionary of disaster" — definitions of driver types who cause accidents.

Neyhart, director of Pennsylvania State University's Institute of Public Safety and a pioneer in driver education, brushed off "all that hullabaloo" about automobile horsepower. He said:

"I don't care if it's 1,000 horsepower, the driver is still in control.

His dictionary for 1957 includes the following:

THE SURPRISED: who, after the accident says 'where'd you come from?'

EAGER BEAVER: pulls across the the pedestrian crosswalk so he can get away first — on the amber light.

ROAD HOG: prefers to straddle lanes.

BUMPER-RIDER: (also known as a tail-gater) not happy unless close to the bumper ahead.

PASS-ITIS TYPE: must pass everyone.

SLOW POKE: drive half the speed of everybody else because he's not going any place.

BLINDER: keeps bright beam on when approaching, or overtaking from behind.

HAIR-RAISER: tries to scare the — out of you.

CASPAR MILQTOAST. 'maybe I should turn, maybe I shouldn't,' and by then it's too late.

BULLY (also known as plunging full back): Takes over all situations.

TWO-DRINK BENNY: bigger and better than anybody on the highway.

INATTENTIVE: stops on green, waits until red light, then moves.

TOOTIN' TOOTER: alla' time blowin' his horn.

Police Use Dictionaries to Improve Reports

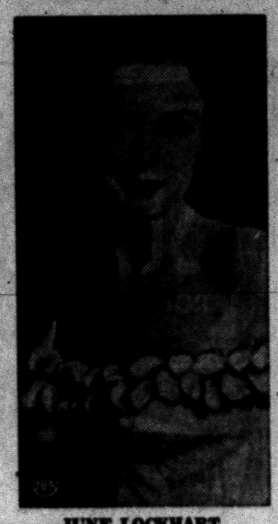

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Police Department has added some new equipment—dictionaries.

An increase in paper work has brought on too many misspelled words, officials say. All reports with incorrect spelling must be done over, according to regulations.

So dictionaries have been issued to every stationhouse and detective division in the city.

JUNE LOCKHART

Players Revise Poor Material

Star Unhappily Learns System Doesn't Apply to Broadway Shows

By JOAN HANAUER

★ ★ ★

The blue-eyed blonde is in a position to know what she's talking about, since her talents as an actress and a panelist are much in demand.

"I have done more shows where we actors sat around a big table asking each other 'In real life, what would you say next?' Actors do most of the writing," she insisted.

"I remember I did one 'Climax' show where the first day we read the script and then they sent us home. The second day we rewrote the first act, the third day we rewrote the second act, the fourth day we rewrote the third act and the final scene was rewritten after dress rehearsal.

"Another show I did, we rewrote the final scene while our makeup was being done.

★ ★ ★

NOT TRUE OF ALL

This, of course, doesn't hold true of all dramatic TV shows, but Miss Lockhart said: "The writers who have written good shows aren't hacks. They put in six months on a script."

★ ★ ★

One of the benefits of the do-it-yourself writing job by actors is that there is some recourse from a dreadful script. This doesn't happen on stage, as Miss Lockhart discovered when she and John Newland signed to do a comedy called "The Grand Prize" in 1955.

That was her second Broadway play, her first being the long-run hit "For Love or Money" in 1947.

There were a great many changes made in the script between the time she signed and the start of rehearsals. There is nothing an actor can do about this, unless revision approval is written into his original contract.

"I would like to do another Broadway play, if it's a good one," Miss Lockhart said, eyes twinkling but jaw determined.

★ ★ ★

"I waited six years before doing a second play. I'd rather wait 16 years before doing another one of those. I don't care if I never do another play if it has to be another 'Grand Prize'."

PERFECTLY HAPPY

Meanwhile she is perfectly happy being a combined actress and "personality." Conducting TV interviews doesn't bother her any more than does acting.

★ ★ ★

"I don't get nervous," she said. "When I did 'For Love or Money' I didn't know enough to be nervous I just figured if you know your lines, what can happen? They are only people."

Health Service Watching Flu

Asiatic Illness Hit U. S. 6 Weeks Ago, Seems Temporarily Halted

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. Public Health Service officials today kept a cautious eye on the Asiatic influenza incidence despite indications the quick-striking respiratory ailment may have been halted—at least temporarily.

Since first discovered in the United States some six weeks ago, Asiatic flu has affected more than 3,500 persons. But so far no deaths have been reported.

★ ★ ★

The new flu bug hit first in the United States at the Newport, R.I., Naval Base, then invaded the naval installation at Norfolk, Va.

Some 2,000 seamen were next as it jumped to the San Diego, Calif., Naval Recruit Depot. Several small outbreaks were reported among Army personnel at Ft. Ord, Calif., and in two teenage civilian groups in the same state.

PHS sources say the bug's last real outbreak was at Grinnell, Iowa, when it hit several hundred persons at an Iowa University gathering early this month.

HIT BOY SCOUTS

Asiatic flu also claimed several hundred more victims in the last two weeks at the Boy Scout encampment at Valley Forge, Pa., but the number of cases was considered to be only a few more than would be normally expectable.

In any event, PHS officials reported relief when the ailment failed to flash through the camp of 55,000 scouts in the sudden manner of earlier outbreaks.

Although Asiatic flu appears to have eased up in the last week or so, PHS sources say the service is "planning for all possibilities" with the coming of fall and winter, the traditional flu season.

Surgeon General Leroy Burney met recently with an American Medical Assn. group to lay the groundwork for a manpower program in the event of any widespread outbreak later in the year.

Production of influenza vaccine, prepared to combat the Asiatic strain, is being stepped up to meet possible civilian requirements. The Army has ordered 2¾ million vaccine shots for delivery after Sept. 1.

The New York Herald Tribune reported today that Caesar has confirmed he is dickering for a new half-hour show with Miss Coca.

"It will be a condensed form of Caesar's Hour," he was quoted as saying. "I'm not at liberty to say at this time where it'll be shown because nothing's been finalized as yet.

★ ★ ★

"I'm happy that Imogene will be with me."

Miss Coca is currently appearing at Detroit in a road show of the play "Janus." Caesar's show was dropped by NBC last month because of dwindling audience ratings.

News Blackout on School Probe

Hearing on Dismissal of Monroe Principal Barred to Reporters

MONROE (AP) — The hearing on the dismissal of Miss Ruth Amen as principal of Boyd Elementary School moved into its second day today, still enshrouded in secrecy.

Newsmen were barred from the opening session of the hearing yesterday by Dr. Earl O. Johnson, head of the 11-member panel of the National Education Assn., which is conducting the hearing.

He said the censorship was to "save embarrassment" for Miss Amen and Frederick Strong, superintendent of schools.

At the end of the three-day hearing local newsmen will be invited to hear the panel's recommendations to the Monroe School Board, Dr. Johnson said.

The NEA panel was called into the case by the Michigan Education Assn., after the latter failed in efforts to get Miss Amen reinstated.

★ ★ ★

Miss Amen, who was principal of Boyd Elementary School 11 years, was notified in March that her contract would not be renewed.

The only reason publicly offered was "incompatibility."

Miss Amen, with the aid of some townspeople, is contesting her dismissal. The school board has remained behind Strong and refused to reverse the decision.

Johnson, the head of the NEA's investigating panel, is head of the Department of Education at Ball State Teachers College in Muncie, Ind.

Questioned after the hearing yesterday, Strong said there was no "special reason" for the firing of Miss Amen. But he said she was a "perfectionist" who had "her own ideas" about matters pertaining to the schools.

★ ★ ★

Miss Amen said Strong had told her she had "poor public relations." She said he told a group of classroom teachers, who protested her firing, that her contract was not being renewed because of "incompatibility with parents, teachers and the board."

Draws Fine, Probation

Alvin Slusher, 22, of 220 E. Walton Blvd., was placed on three years probation and fined $200 costs yesterday by Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams for the theft of $52 from a beauty shop at 78½ N. Saginaw St. July 3.

Terry Suddenly Feels Like She's an Old Lady

By EARL WILSON

HOLLYWOOD — Terry Moore's grown up — and I suppose there are people who will snort, "It's about time."

Impetuous as ever, Terry interrupted this declaration to try to phone her husband, Gene McGrath, who was on boat going from Florida to Panama via Mexico.

"Cant the operator locate him just by telling her he's in Mexican waters?" she wondered.

"I can't remember the name of the town he's near but it's got a 'Z' in the middle of it."

TERRY MOORE

Terry finally gave that up but kept talking about "My husband", with whom she's completely reunited after suing him for divorce a few weeks ago.

It was obvious that she thinks highly of him.

"I feel like an old lady when I remember that I made my first picture in 1939 when I was just a little girl," she said.

You can be sure everything Terry told me is true, too, because, in the Mormon manner, she was drinking only fruit juice.

Model, Actress Go to Court Over Telephone

NEW YORK (AP)—A model who says the telephone is her "only vice" and an actress who calls it her "lifeline" went to court yesterday in a row over the phone in the apartment they share.

★ ★ ★

Red-haired model Sheryl Parks, 25, and blonde actress Didi Roberts, also 25, filed cross-complaints of assault. Each of the shapely roommates accused the other of assault with a high-heel shoe.

"The phone is my lifeline," said Didi. "That girl was constantly on the phone."

★ ★ ★

The girls' phone bill for May and June totaled $328.

Firemen Overcome Fighting Flint Blaze

FLINT (AP)—Seven firemen were overcome by smoke last night while fighting a $200,000 blaze in downtown Flint. None was believed seriously hurt.

Fields, a men's clothing store, was seriously damaged. Owner Joseph Schiller estimated his loss at $150,000. Damage at the Vanity Shoe Shop and Shaw's Jewelery was estimated at $50,000.

Fail to Prevent British Hanging

Man Becomes First to Be Executed Under New Homicide Law

DURHAM, England (AP) — A 22-year-old laborer was hanged for murder today despite efforts by parliamentary and religious groups to prevent Britain's first execution since August 1955.

Vickers was the first person executed under the new British homicide law which provides capital punishment only for certain degrees of murder.

A strong parliamentary group led by Laborite Sydney Silverman fought without success to get the case reviewed by the House of Lords. Home Secretary Richard A. Butler had announced there would be no reprieve.

An all-night interdenominational prayer and meditation meeting was held in London by persons opposed to the resumption of hanging in Britain.

Witnesses at Vickers' trial testified that he struck the fatal blows after Miss Duckett surprised him trying to take money from her shop. He was sentenced to death under the section of the Homicide Act specifying that any urder done in the course of furtherance of theft is a capital crime.

★ ★ ★

Silverman and other abolitionists claimed the new law, although designed to ease the severity of the old code, actually had worked against Vickers. Silverman maintained there was no clear showing of premeditation, yet under the new law a poisoner, committing a premeditated crime, would not hang.

There are about 53,000 motels in the U. S. as of 1956.

Confused Thieves Rob Same Store at Same Time

LONDON (AP)—It was a distinctly embarrassing moment when two separate gangs of robbers found they had chosen the same time of the same night to break into the same store and haul away the same safe.

One gang of three tiptoed into the London suburban grocery store and surprised another trio in the act of removing the safe from its moorings.

There was an awkward silence after both gangs established they were in the same line of business. Finally they decided to join forces and together lugged the half-ton safe into a truck to divide the spoils later.

Somebody meantime had tipped off Scotland Yard, and detectives rounded up the coalition before the 100 pounds ($280) in the safe could be shared out.

★ ★ ★

Police told the story in court yesterday when Ronald Alloway, Ronald Harley and Charles Haynes were found guilty of breaking into the store. A sixth man, Robert Routledge, was convicted of being an accessory after the fact. All will be sentenced later.

Disco VFW Loses Whisky Wheelbarrow

DISCO (AP)—The Veterans of Foreign Wars Post at this tiny east Michigan town is having its troubles, and it blames them all on disagreeable neighbors.

Agents of the Michigan Liquor Control Commission raided the VFW Hall Sunday and confiscated a wheelbarrow full of whisky that was being raffled off. Also taken was $80 collected from the raffle.

Ray Chaffe, post commander, said the agents were called by neighbors who objected to the noise.

English is now the most widely used language in the world. It has taken the lead from the German in science and has supplanted the French in the field of diplomacy.

Threat Is Seen to Tourist Trade

State Resort Owners Said to Oppose New Limited Access Roads

EAST JORDAN (AP) — Michigan's competitive position among the states vying for the tourist trade is threatened by opposition by some northern Michigan resort owners to limited access highways, State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie said here last night.

Mackie told the Northern Michigan Development Council that Michigan will lose its leadership as a tourist state unless a modern, north-south thruway is built in the near future.

"A number of other states have built or have under construction express-type limited access highways which already tap their tourists centers and make them quickly and easily accessible to the motoring tourists," Mackie said.

"Michigan has only one north-south route entitled to 90 per cent federal aid and this route must be designed to limited access expressway standards to earn that federal assistance.

"I have found a widespread lack of understanding among many resort owners and businessmen about the tremendous value of this route to the future of Michigan's tourist trade," Mackie said.

"Many," he said, "violently oppose limited access construction, which, in fact, will be vital to their future growth."

The one north-south route entitled to 90 per cent federal support, Mackie said, runs north from Ohio near Toledo, bypassing Detroit to the West, connecting Pontiac, Flint, Saginaw, Bay City and Standish, then going northwesterly to the vicinity of Grayling, north to the Mackinac Bridge and then north to Sault Ste. Marie.

"Completion of this new limited access highway connecting it with a series of high grade feeder roads through northern Michigan will revolutionize time and distance relationships," Mackie said, "and place Michigan vacation centers within one day's drive of millions of new customers."

Say Widow Allowed East Germans to Spy

KARLSRUHE, Germany (AP)—An elderly widow today was reported under arrest on charges she let East German Communist agents secretly record conversations by foreign diplomats in her Bonn hotel.

Court officials confirmed the arrest on treason charges but refused to give her name or details of the charge against her. Informed sources, however, told this story:

The widow, manager of a small hotel in the diplomatic quarter of Bonn, was paid by the East German Communist regime to permit installation of recording devices in rooms used by foreign diplomats.

The rooms were mostly used by diplomats from small countries, such as Yugoslavia, Pakistan and Afhanistan.

Electric Gadgets Hold Wife's Love

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The great love affairs of the past were between men and women.

★ ★ ★

For example: Adam and Eve, Cleopatra and Mark Anthony, Romeo and Juliet, Tristram and Isolde, Cyrano de Bergerac and Roxanne, and Tommy Manville and the phone book.

Such romances today are hopelessly old-fashioned and are usually found only among callow teenagers. The great romance of the 20th century isn't between man and woman. It's between women and electrical gadgets.

Only a high school girl really is fascinated by the vibrations of an Elvis Presley. Your mature woman is more attracted by the vibrations of a new electric dishwasher or the throaty purring of a living room air-conditioning machine.

In the good old days, when man was king in his castle, a husband could always keep his wife's thoughts on her home by a quick left hook to the stomach or a right cross to the jaw. Marriage always held a surprise element to a woman, because she never was sure what her man would do next. This kept up her interest in him.

Since the victory of the equal rights movement, however, many a man has been faced with the problem of how to get a strong-minded oman to cleave to him for life. After all, a woman now has a husband figured out pretty well 10 minutes after leaving the altar.

What is there left to keep up her interest in the wearing years ahead? How can a husband be sure she won't drop him for the first male adventurer with a ticklish mustache who appears on the horizons.

Some husbands think the answer is to shower their wife with jewelry and furs. But there is a mistake. It only makes her more attractive to other men.

The thing to do, if you are a simple-minded husband (and if the noun fits, the adjective follows), is to get your wife interested in something in your home she can never quite understand. The most suitable thing is electricity. It has everything the wayward feminine mind finds entracing: power, subtlety, unpredictability.

This new toy will revive her interest in the home. When the husband finds that in time, however, she starts yawning as she puts the breakfast bread in the toaster, he should realize its simple mechanism bores her—just as he does. It is time for him to buy her a more advanced machine, such as an electric vacuum cleaner.

This will keep her content and humming for a full year. When boredom sets in again, the next move is to buy her a television set, then—in succession—an electric radio alarm clock, an electric hair dryer, an electric dish washer, an electric oven, an electric massage chair, a series of electric air conditioners, an electric freezer and an electric clothes washer.

By now you've got your girl wired in forever. She doesn't have time to be bored. If one machine purrs merrily, another starts clanking fearfully, and she forgets her own woes as she gets out her tol kit to repair it.

Your wife may not feel she is a slave to you, but she is a slave to all the wilderness of electrical gadgets you have surrounded her with and she is happy in her thralldom. She is happy because she dwells in eternal mystery—the mystery of electricity, which even a woman cannot ever hope to understand fully.

You can bark at her or beat her, and she will never divorce you. She will reason thusly, "What go away and let that bum bring in some other women who will ruin all these beautiful electric gadgets I've given my life to! Never!"
