They'll Be Married Sunday

Jackie Flies to Her Beau

ATHENS (AP) — A spokesman for Aristotle Onassis said today that the Greek millionaire will marry Jacqueline Kennedy Sunday at the island of Scorpios.

ATHENS (AP) — Jacqueline Kennedy arrived in Greece today to marry one of the world's richest men, Aristotle Onassis, ending five years of speculation about the future of the glamorous presidential widow.

As Mrs. Kennedy stepped from the plane and walked down the steps, she was greeted by Onassis, who had flown from Athens to take his bride on to Scorpios, the small scorpion-shaped island he owns south of Corfu.

They will be married there tomorrow "or within three days at the latest," Onassis told newsmen in Athens.

Onassis said they would spend their honeymoon on Scorpios "unless Jackie wants to make a tour of the Mediterranean with Christina," his palatial yacht named for his 18-year-old daughter by his first marriage.

FAMILY AFFAIR

Asked about guests at the wedding, the 62-year-old Onassis replied: "The only thing I know is that it will be a close family affair. The rest I'll have to arrange with Jackie."

The wedding will unite the 39-year-old widow of assassinated President John F. Kennedy, left a wealthy woman by him, and a shipping magnate 23 years her senior who is often dubbed the "Golden Greek."

Onassis was divorced in 1960 after 14 years of marriage to the former Tina Livanos, daughter of another multimillionaire Greek shipowner. They had two children, and she later married England's Marquis of Blandford, the Duke of Marlborough's heir.

Mrs. Kennedy's plans to wed were announced Thursday in New York by her mother, Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, whose brief statement said: "My daughter, Mrs. John F. Kennedy, is planning to marry Mr. Aristotel Onassis."

ORTHODOX CEREMONY

Because the wedding will be in Greece, Greek law requires a Greek Orthodox ceremony. It seemed most unlikely that there would be a companion ceremony in Mrs. Kennedy's Roman Catholic faith because Onassis is divorced and the church prohibits such a marriage unless it finds his first union invalid.

Bomb-Halt Delay Tied to Hanoi Rift

WASHINGTON (AP) — Disagreement between "hawks" and "doves" in Hanoi may be delaying a response to Washington proposals for ending all bombing of North Vietnam, diplomatic authorities here believe.

These authorities suggest a debate has been going on within the North Vietnamese leadership over the issue of giving assurances of limiting the war on the Communist side if President Johnson halts attacks on the North.

The North Vietnamese, according to allied diplomats in Paris, have a choice of actions to assure Washington they would not take advantage of a bombing halt.

But Paris sources said the actions need not be announced in advance by Hanoi as long as they materialize.

SAIGON ROLE STRESSED

The Paris sources said the U.S. proposals were made contingent on firm acceptance by Hanoi of the Saigon government as a party to any ultimate peace negotiations.

Participation in some form of the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Vietcong guerrilas in South Vietnam, was said to have been conceded by the United States.

Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate Republican leader, meanwhile said he had learned in discussions with President Johnson that a breakthrough was expected in the Paris peace talks.

Johnson's requirements have been reported to include restoration of the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam, with removal of Communist forces from the zone, and an end to terror attacks on South Vietnamese cities and towns.

★ ★ ★

U.S. officials say that arrangement for a bombing halt have been thoroughly covered in consultations with governments allied in the war, including the South Vietnamese government, and that the "hang-up" is now entirely in Hanoi.

School Vote Dec. 7 in Waterford Twp.

The Waterford Township Board of Education last night called for a millage increase and bond issue election for Dec. 7. The amounts of the millage and bonds to be asked have yet to be determined.

Donald W. Porter, board president, indicated the theme of the election drive would be "Give your child a Christmas present of a full day's education."

This will be the district's second attempt in just over a year to get more millage from its residents. A 7½-mill request was defeated last November by an almost 2-1 margin. However, in June a millage renewal was approved by voters.

Further meetings were scheduled by the board to determine exact amounts of requests to go on the ballot. On Oct. 29 the board will meet with citizens' committees that have been studying school needs. The board is expected to officially designate the requested amounts at a meeting at 7 p.m. Nov. 1.

Dr. Don Tatroe, schools superintendent, painted a dark picture of the district's finances in the 1969-70 school years if the millage is not obtained.

Related Story, Page A-2

The proposed bond issue will be about $9 million it was indicated. It will be used to construct a fourth junior high school, a new elementary and possibly a second new elementary, plus additions to four or five present elementaries.

★ ★ ★

The Dec. 7 election day is a Saturday, the first time anyone recalled a Saturday election being held in the district. It was pointed out the Avondale School District passed a millage increase recently using a Saturday. It was felt more working residents voted and helped the Avondale election.

Board members said they hoped the Christmas spirit would also help the election. It also was pointed out that the tax increase payments would not be due until December of 1969, over a year later.

Days to register for nonregistered voters will be Nov. 6, 7 and 8.

Apollo 7 Engine Excels in Test

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP) — With a jolting burst of energy, the Apollo 7 astronauts fired their steering engine today in the most powerful maneuver ever made by a manned spaceship.

"Rubba-dubba-doo!" shouted Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr. as the huge engine flashed to life and spurted a steady tail of flame for 66 seconds as Apollo 7 raced 120 miles above the Gulf of Mexico.

★ ★ ★

The engine was the most powerful ever fired on a manned space ship. It had been ignited four times earlier on the Apollo 7 mission, with a maximum burn of 15 seconds. Thus, the amount of energy produced was a record.

The 66-second firing today burned two tons of fuel, reducing the weight of the spaceship from about 29,000 to 25,000 pounds.

Budget for OU Causes Debate

It's budget time again for the state's colleges and already there is controversy over the budget for Oakland University and Michigan State University, both governed by the same board of trustees.

Oakland University followers will remember last year's legislative struggle to get nearly $5.2 million in operating funds.

A MSU-OU budget request for 1969-70 yesterday drew some dissension from trustees in a meeting in East Lansing.

Trustee C. Allen Harlan, Democrat from Southfield, refused to vote on the budget, saying he was dissatisfied with it, and left the room. Clair White, Republican from Bay City, cast the one vote against it.

TOTAL REQUEST

The total budget request of $77.4 million for operating expenses, up $15.1 million over the current fiscal year, includes $7.6 million for Oakland. It is an increase of more than $2.5 million over 1968-69.

The trustees voted 6-1 to send the request to State Treasurer Allison Greene for scrutiny.

HHH Gives Up on TV Debates

By United Press International

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has given up for now hope of getting his presidential opponents to debate him on national television.

Humphrey late yesterday abandoned plans for a national debate with Republican nominee Richard M. Nixon because, he said, Nixon has consistently refused.

"We must abandon plans for a televised debate . . ." Humphrey said in a telegram to third-party candidate George C. Wallace.

Humphrey told Wallace Nixon has refused to face either of his two opponents in a nationally televised debate.

OFFERED TO PAY FOR IT

The Vice President had offered to pay for an hour of CBS time Sunday, from 10 to 11 p.m., for a three-way meeting with his opponents.

See Related Stories, Pages A-10, A-12, A-13

Nixon, ignoring Humphrey's strident calls for a debate, kept his attention on other major issues of the campaign.

On the war, Nixon said he would not second-guess President Johnson on whether a bombing halt in Vietnam would endanger American troops.

In other political developments:

Humphrey — The vice president courted labor votes in Detroit, calling Wallace a "union buster" and ignoring Nixon.

'BAYONETS, BOMBS'

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie — The Democratic vice presidential candidate said Wallace offers the nation "bayonets at home and bombs abroad" while Nixon "plays the same tune as Wallace but in a different key."

Cool Weather Due Over the Weekend

The early morning drizzle is expected to end before tonight, leaving skies mostly cloudy and temperatures cooler.

The U.S. Weather Bureau offers the following day-by-day forecast:

TODAY — Mostly cloudy, windy and turning cooler with scattered showers. High 64 to 70. Mostly cloudy and cooler tonight, with an expected low of 40 to 45. Winds were to stay southwest to west 12 to 22 miles per hour through tonight.

TOMORROW — Clearing and cooler.

SUNDAY — Fair and cool.

Precipitation probabilities in per cent are: today 40, tonight and tomorrow 20.

In downtown Pontiac the low temperature prior to 8 a.m. today was 65. The mercury stood near 54 at 2 p.m.

Gladys Carries Tidal Threat

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Gladys drifted north in the Gulf of Mexico today just out of wind reach from the populous Tampa Bay area but armed with a deceptive punch.

"The danger really is due to high water and not to winds," said Dr. Robert Simpson, director of the National Hurricane Center in Miami.

★ ★ ★

Simpson said he feared shoreline cities would drop their guard because of weak winds and then be caught unprepared for tides five feet above normal when Gladys makes landfall.

Forecaster Ray Kraft said Gladys could turn northeast and hit land near Cedar Key in the Big Bend area of the Gulf Coast.

★ ★ ★

But the storm was barely moving. Forward speed was clocked at 5 miles per hour with bare hurricane-force winds of 75 m.p.h. The storm center moved just one-tenth of a degree—well under 10 miles—between the 6 a.m. and 9 a.m. sightings today.

Winds in the area of Tampa and St. Petersburg were mild with top gusts clocked at about 17-25 m.p.h.

Micki Leading; Finals Tonight

BY BRUNO KEARNS
Sports Editor, The Pontiac Press

MEXICO CITY — History is on the side of Micki King when she bids for the gold medal of the 19th Olympiad in the three-meter springboard of women's diving.

The 24-year-old former Pontiac Central student, now a lieutenant in the Air Force, brought the crowd of 10,000 at poolside to its feet with a spectacular finishing dive in the semifinals to take the lead going into tonight's finals.

Micki, who was in third place after the sixth dive, hit her last dive, an inward 1½ sommersault pike for 17.38 quality points to finish the semifinals with 98.17 points.

The women's three-meter springboard diving finals are scheduled to be covered by ABC television between 7 and 8:30 tonight. The program will be carried locally by Channel 7.

She took the lead away from Soviet diver Tamara Pogozheva who led after the first dive when she and Micki were tied.

CLOSE BEHIND

Miss Pogozheva has 97.50 points going into the finals and close behind are American divers Sue Gossick at 97.32 and Kaola O'Sullivan with 95.85.

"This is a new experience for me," said Micki, pointing to the fact that in all of major championships she had never had the lead going into the final round.

Her coach at poolside, Dick Kimball, the diving coach at University of Michigan, has maintained all along that should Micki be in the top five at the semifinals, she could win it all.

Funeral Saturday for Slain Pair

A double funeral for the slain former wife and 7-year-old son of Dr. Daniel J. Boucher, 44, Birmingham orthodontist, will be 11 a.m. tomorrow.

Attendants at Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co., Birmingham, said both caskets would remain closed during the rites.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Blanche Boucher, 52, and her son, Daniel J. Jr., were found shot to death Wednesday evening in their $70,000 brick ranch home on Pine Lake in West Bloomfield Township.

Boucher was arrested the same evening in Birmingham as he left the home of his stepdaughter, Mrs. Ronald Mallek, 1524 Fairway.

SHOTS EXCHANGED

Birmingham police said he had shot his way into the Mallek home through a front picture window and that several shots had been exchanged between Mallek and Boucher.

Boucher, held in Oakland County Jail on an open charge of murder, will be arraigned before Circuit Judge William R. Beasley at 9 a.m. Oct. 29.

★ ★ ★

Problems involving a property settlement between the Bouchers, recently divorced, were attributed by the Malleks as the cause of Boucher's action.

Wednesday morning the Malleks, Mrs. Boucher, Dr. Boucher, and her attorney, Richard Hudnut of Detroit, appeared before Circuit Court Judge Robert L. Templin at a hearing on an injunction to keep Boucher from violating terms of the divorce settlement.

HUNT CLUB SALE

At issue was his reported recent sale of the $500,000 Tudor Hills Hunt Club, 1488 Romeo, Addison Township, to his manager, George Thomas, a Birmingham insurance agent. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas were also present at the hearing.

Hudnut claimed the sale was an attempted fraud to deprive Mrs. Boucher of her fair settlement, according to Judge Templin, who said he had decided to continue hearings on the matter.

★ ★ ★

The club, the former Claire Buhl estate, had been purchased by Boucher in 1965.

Mallek said he appeared at the hearing because he, as a real estate agent, had been authorized by the Oakland County

Pork Barrel Trips Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the nation's economy facing the worst crisis in decades, Congress voted for record billions in budget slashes this election year. But many of the members who hacked at national programs, jumped the traces and voted extra millions for home area projects.

One example: When one of the major federal school-aid bills came up in the House June 11, economy lost some luster. This program channels school funds into more than 300 of the 435 congressional districts.

The House voted 226 to 133 to increase the budget figure for this aid by $91 million over President Johnson's recommendation. And among the 226 were 140 who also voted for an overall $6-billion slash in federal spending.

★ ★ ★

Some of those who hammered loudest on the spending lid didn't hesitate to plead with the Public Works Committee that reservoir, flood control and similar projects in their own districts be spared.

Congress did cut about $12 billion net out of Johnson's budget requests of appropriations totaling $138.2 billion, for the fiscal year that began last July 1.

Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., of the House Appropriations Committee told his colleagues they had "reduced the budget requests of the executive branch by a greater amount than ever before in the nation's history."

★ ★ ★

But he added that the actual spending reduction this year brought about by Congress' actions would be only about $4 billion. The lawmakers told the President to find enough additional cuttable items to bring the whole spending reduction to $6 billion. At the same time they marked off large areas he was not to reduce.

The 1968 economy act, which was combined with a 10 per cent income tax surcharge, was championed in the House by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, and in the Senate by Sens. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., and John J. Williams, R-Del.

WARNING TO HOUSE

"It will do no good to take $10 billion out of the American taxpayers' pocket if it is just brought to Washington and spent on additional federal expenditures," Mills told the House as he called June 20 for strict financial belt-tightening.

Among the top champions of economy in the House were Reps. Durward G. Hall, R-Mo.; H. R. Gross, R-Iowa; Joel T. Broyhill, R-Va.; and Otto E. Passman, D-La.

Passman, long a foe of heavy foreign-aid spending, sponsored successfully the smallest aid appropriation bill in history. He emphasized to the House the need for economy.

But when the House Public Works appropriations subcommittee began its review of financing back-home projects, Passman said he hoped "in its wisdom" it would not cut a big project in his district.

Exam Thursday for Pontiac Twp. Slaying Suspect

A 48-year-old man charged with the shotgun killing Wednesday of a former Rochester village president faces preliminary examination Thursday on first-degree murder.

★ ★ ★

Waterford Township Justice of the Peace Kenneth H. Hempstead ordered Reginald F. Armstrong of 26 Trulane, Pontiac Township, remanded to Oakland County Jail without bond.

★ ★ ★

Armstrong appeared voluntarily at the Pontiac State Police post about two hours after John J. Lowes, 44, of 2385 Oaknoll Pontiac Township, was found dead in his home.

★ ★ ★

Lowes was the husband of Armstrong's former wife.

REPORT BY WITNESS

Oakland County sheriff's deputies said a witness told them that a man carrying a shotgun entered the Lowes home about noon, then left after a shot was fired.

★ ★ ★

The victim's body was found later by a neighbor who was asked to check the house by Lowes' wife, Barbara.

Lowes served as Rochester president in 1965 and 1966 and was a councilman there from 1961—67.

Armstrong, whose address is that of a trailer court, was employed as a trophy salesman. He and Mrs. Lowes separated about two years ago.

Lowes was co-owner of Hills Plumbing and Heating Co. in Rochester. He married Mrs. Lowes last August.

Saigon Balking at Bombing Halt

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. fighter-bombers streaked through heavy monsoon clouds again today to continue their daily bombing of North Vietnam while the Saigon government continued to balk at agreeing to a bombing halt.

★ ★ ★

North Vietnam's leaders in Hanoi were reported studying a new U. S. proposal for cessation of all bombing of the North in return for serious moves toward peace by the Communists. But South Vietnam's premier, Tran Van Huong, said his government could accept no such proposal unless it was favorable to South Vietnam.

★ ★ ★

U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker met with President Nguyen Van Thieu again last night to discuss the proposal, but so far the Vietnamese government has not agreed to go along.

★ ★ ★

With the military men it was business as usual although some said they felt an eventual bombing halt now appeared inevitable. More air strikes over North Vietnam's panhandle were planned for tomorrow.

Indonesia Holds Singapore Brass

JAKARTA (AP) — Singapore Ambassador P. S. Raman and his embassy staff were taken in "protective custody" by Indonesian police today as public rage at Singapore's hanging of two Indonesian marines reached fever pitch.

Students ransacked the Singapore consul's residence after similar raids Thursday on the Singapore Embassy and three houses owned by the Singapore government.

The students smeared slogans in the capital, demanding "Hang Lee Kwan Yew," the prime minister of Singapore, and urging Indonesia to sever diplomatic relations with the neighboring island state.

Raman, his staff and the Singapore consul were taken to police headquarters from the Hotel Indonesia, where they had been under the protection of security officers and combat police. They had received death threats from marines who vowed to avenge their comrades' execution.

The two marines, Cpl. Harun Bin Mohamed Ali and Pvt. Usman Bin Said, were hanged Thursday despite clemency appeals from Indonesian President Suharto and Malaysian Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman.

They were convicted three years ago of planting a bomb that killed three persons in Singapore during Indonesia's war against that country and Malaysia.

Extortion Suspect Jailed

The arrest earlier today of a reputed Mafia leader — charged with extortion against a Troy woman — signals a major breakthrough against organized crime, according to Oakland County Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson.

Taken into custody by State Police officers was Joseph Barbara Jr., 32, of Fraser, who was described by a Detroit grand jury two years ago as a Mafia chieftain.

★ ★ ★

Barbara's father hosted the 1937 Appalachian, N.Y., crime conference, where 61 reputed organized crime figures were arrested.

Barbara faces arraignment this afternoon in Farmington Township Justice Court on a charge that on March 27 of this year he extorted $4,000 in cash and valuables from a woman by threatening the lives of her husband and son.

The victim's identity is being withheld until after the arraignment.

Bronson said he will request that bond be denied because of the alleged death threats. He called the arrest a "knockout blow" against organized crime because of "implications which will be brought to light in the very near future."

★ ★ ★

The owner of a sanitation company based in Detroit, Barbara is married to the daughter of Peter Vitale, another reputed Mafia leader who was night manager of a Detroit restaurant raided by grand jury investigators in 1966.

★ ★ ★

That raid led to the "black book scandal," which allegedly involved the names of prominent Detroiters and members of the police heirarchy there.

They're Older in Waterford

Waterford Township area residents are getting older, it was indicated statistiscly in a report received last night by the district's Board of Education.

The report was the official enrollment figures for the fall. It showed an increase of 573 over last year bringing total enrollment to 18,239. The increase is about average for the 10-year period.

★ ★ ★

Though declines were shown in most grades below six, substantial gains were shown in grades above that. This would appear to indicate present residents' children are getting older and new residents are arriving with older children.

★ ★ ★

For instance in kindergarten, a decline of 55 pupils was noted. A large increase of 128 was reported in seventh grade. The eighth grade also went up 115. High school increases were, 10th — 106, 11th — 69, and 12th — 120.

DISTRICT SUCCESSFUL

The enrollment figures also showed the district is continuing its success in retaining 12th graders and preventing dropouts. The percentage figure remained near 90 per cent where it has been since the district began its preventative program. In the 58-59 school year the percentage figure of those staying in school was just 71 per cent.

★ ★ ★

In other business the board acted to reject a request by parents with children in Lotus Lake Elementary, 6455 Harper, to restore bus service. A check by officials indicated the children have less than a mile to walk. It is the board's policy to bus only those students who are more than a mile from their building, it was pointed out.

CARPETING FOR MOTT

About $14,000 in carpeting was ordered by the board. Most of it will go in the new Mott High School and about $2,800 worth in Cresent Lake Elementary. A small GMC bus costing $3,230 was ordered to transport emotionally disturbed and deaf children to their special classes.

★ ★ ★

Final payment of $44,574 for architectural and electrical work at Waterford Township High was also approved.

Micki in Lead; Finals Tonight

Kimball, who has coached Micki for six years since she left PCH and studied journalism at the U. of M., said, "It was the most beautiful bit of diving he has ever seen among women's competitor's."

'CAN'T SEE IT'

"Unless she misses one completely or something unforseen happens, and it's possible, I just can't see how Micki can miss winning a medal," said Kimball.

When Micki won the springboard and platform championships in 1965 and 1967 she did it with a great finish in her final dives. In the Olympic trials which won her a spot on the team she moved from eighth to second in the finals.

★ ★ ★

"She does her best under pressure," said Kimball, "and as I've always said there isn't a woman diver in the world who can match Micki on the twist. This is because she springs higher off the board than any woman here."

If this holds true as far as the finals go, Micki will finish with the reverse 1½ with a 1½ twist which has a 2.6 degree of difficulty. She has a forward 2½ somersault and pike planned for the eighth dive and the reverse 1½ somersault layout for the 9th dive, before her finale.

BEST DIVE

"The first dive was my best because it gave the confidence to know I was diving well. The last dive was most important because it put me in the lead," she said afterward.

As the scoring indicated, consistent improvement was the big factor in her success. She started out with 12.48 quality points added 13.60 in the second dive, picked up 14.06 in the third dive, and 12.48 in the fourth dive in the semifinals.

★ ★ ★

She stayed in second place behind the Russian with 13.87 quality points and a total of 64.73, and in the sixth dive she hit 16.06 points before her finish, which saw the judges score between 7½ and 8½ each.

The lowest score accorded her by any one judge was a 6 and the highest an 8½.

★ ★ ★

The finals begin at 7 p.m. Pontiac time.

Suit to Halt Water Plans Is Dismissed

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — A lawsuit to halt all planning on this city's proposed water system has been dismissed by Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Farrell E. Roberts.

Roberts acted on a motion by City Attorney David C. Pence that the suit, which challenged the authorization of an April 1968 election, had not been filed within 30 days of the vote.

★ ★ ★

Pence contended that state law requires that an election be challenged within 30 days. The suit was filed Sept. 30 by Justice of the Peace Jack Baldwin.

★ ★ ★

The object of the suit was to stop planning on the projected water system. The suit was aimed at the city and Oakland County, which are currently negotiating a contract concerning the construction and operation of the system.

★ ★ ★

Baldwin had claimed that the April vote was on a "would-you-like" basis with no specific details on the cost of the project. He alleged city officials were given a "blank check."

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Robert Sandoe, headmaster of Cranbrook School, has been elected trustee of a national organization that helps low-income, academically talented students.

Sandoe joins a board of educators and business executives in setting policy for a Better Chance — Independent Schools Talent Search Program (ABC).

★ ★ ★

This board will help these students gain admission to selected independent and public schools with scholarship aid.

With scholarship aid exceeding $2.7 million, ABC is supported through a joint effort by member schools, including Cranbrook, private enterprise and federal funds.

Cranbrook School enrolls at present 11 students under the ABC program.

Sandoe's election to the ABC board is his second recognition recently by a national educational organization. In September, he was elected chairman of the board of trustees of the non profit Independent Educational Services of Princeton, N.J.

AUTOPSIES CONDUCTED

Autopsies were conducted yesterday at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. Mrs. Boucher, a former free-lance fashion model, was reportedly struck several times in the head with blasts from a 12-gauge shotgun. She was found, clad in a nightgown, lying outside the back door of the home at 3130 W. Long Lake.

★ ★ ★

The boy, a student at Pine Lake Elementary School, was reportedly found shot in the neck and chest and lying under his bed.

Boys, Girls Like Coed Scout Rule

NEW YORK (AP) — Girls in a Boy Scout troop?

That's what the Boy Scouts of America says is in store for 1969. And both the boys and girls seem to think it's a fine idea.

The group's executive board announced Thursday, after a unanimous vote, that starting next Jan. 1, the Boy Scouts will "be prepared" to admit girls to the Explorer program for boys 14 to 18.

★ ★ ★

"We have known all along that boys were interested in girls," said a spokesman for the 58-year-old organization which has almost 4.5 million members, including more than 300,000 Explorers. "Now, it's an acknowledged fact," he added.

SURVEY RESULTS

A spot survey showed most Explorer Scouts liked the plan.

★ ★ ★

"It's a good idea," said Terry Ruch, 17, of West Chicago, Ill. "A bunch of dizzy dames balance" things, he said, and would provide an opportunity for different types of programs.

★ ★ ★

Bill Watson, 16, of Dallas, who's been an Explorer for one year, said, "Girls could possibly fit in if the program were carefully planned . . . I think it might be very interesting."

Mark Ohanian, 15, of Burbank, Calif., said, "When you get to a certain age... you don't have much time for scouting and dates too. This will take care of both."

GIRLS APPROVE

The plan won approval on the distaff side also.

Deann Sullivan, 16, of Portland, Ore., said "it sounds like more fun" than the Girl Scouts. And Linda Walters, 15, of Northridge, Calif., who dropped out of scouting a year ago, said, "This could change my mind."

There were some dissenters, however.

Angelo Suran, 15, of Portland, said girls would be too much of a diversion. "If we had any projects to do, we'd never finish them with girls around."

★ ★ ★

Don James of Wichita Falls, Tex., a former Explorer who's now a scoutmaster, said, "People here think scouting should be an outdoor program, strictly."

THAT WAS THEN

Asked whether he would have liked girls in his Explorer troop, James, said, "No. I wouldn't have touched a girl with a 10-foot pole when I was 14."

Son Dead, Father Torches Himself

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — A father grieving his son's death doused himself with alcohol in front of a crowded supermarket last night and set himself afire, police said.

Bernadino Ortega suffered burns over more than 50 per cent of his body and was listed in poor condition at Martland Hospital.

* * *

According to police and hospital spokesmen, Ortega was at bedside when his hospitalized son, Armando, 37, died late in the afternoon at St. James Hospital.

The younger Ortega had been hospitalized 17 months with burns he suffered in a chemical plant accident.

BURST OF FLAMES

The father sobbed at his son's deathbed and walked from the hospital to the nearby supermarket. There he purchased two quarts of rubbing alcohol, stepped onto the sidewalk and emptied the alcohol on his clothing, police said. He struck a cigarette lighter and went up in a burst of flames before several horrified shoppers.

A shopper beat out the flames with his coat, police said.

During his son's hospitalization Ortega had been a daily visitor.

"He had the run of the hospital," a hospital spokesman said. "He was here sometimes two or three times a day."

Bomb-Halt Speculation Discounted by Rep. Ford

DALLAS (UPI) — House Minority Leader Gerald Ford, R-Mich., discounted Thursday the rumors of a possible bombing halt over North Vietnam. He doubted, if such a halt were called, if it would affect the outcome of the elections.

Ford said the White House usually contacts the leaders of both parties if a drastic change in policy is planned and "so far I have not been contacted."

He said he assumed the reports of a bombing halt were rumors and not fact.

If there is a halt, Ford said, he thought it would come under conditions outlined by President Johnson earlier in what has come to be known as the "San Antonio policy."

RECIPROCAL AGREEMENT

Ford said Johnson would still require Hanoi to make some reciprocal agreement before calling a halt to U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

"But the people of the United States would still look to the administration's handling of the war as a major U.S. blunder," Ford said. For these reasons he did not think a halt would hurt Richard Nixon's chances for the presidency.

Ford was in Dallas as part of what is being termed a series of "congressional leadership briefings."

The eventual aim of the briefings is to win at least 218 seats — a simple majority — in the House of Representatives.

* * *

Ford predicted the Republican party would win 228 seats in November, including a gain of three seats from Texas.

Disabled Barber Finds Friends

'All of a Sudden, He's Not Alone'

HIGHLAND TOWNSHIP — Last month Duane Applebee, a 34-year-old barber, was driving home after work. When he reached Hickory Ridge Road, his car blew a tire, swerved off the road and hit a tree.

The next morning at Pontiac General Hospital the father of two children learned that a severe injury to his spinal column had paralyzed him from the waist down. Doctors said the paralysis was permanent, but with therapy he could probably work again.

Now, five weeks later, the residents and businessmen of Highland and Milford townships have begun a collective effort to see that an old friend receives the care he needs.

Customers, friends and businessmen are sponsoring projects and making donations to the Duane Applebee fund to send him to the Rehabilitation Institute in Detroit.

"We can't believe how wonderful people have been, all of a sudden we are not alone," said Mrs. Applebee, who works part-time at the Community National Bank in Milford. She has visited her husband in the hospital every day for the last five weeks.

She added that when they learned their insurance would not cover the therapy and the social service was unable to help finance the expensive therapy she didn't know where to turn.

★ ★ ★

"Duane has barbered in the area for the last 12 years and we both grew up here but we never expected the people to be so wonderful", she said shaking her head.

She said that her husband is bound to succeed in his efforts to return to work with the proper therapy.

★ ★ ★

The people who know him obviously have the same kind of faith in Applebee. They have received donations from both the Milford and Highland township supervisors, Jaycees from the two townships, five different manufacturing agencies in the area, and private individuals.

Applebee looked at a picture of the rehabilitation center and stoically said, "So that's going to be my new home."

Hearing Set Today on Lapeer Strike

LAPEER — A hearing was scheduled for 1 p.m. today to determine whether strikers at the Lapeer State Home and Training School should be forced by court order to return to their jobs.

The hearing is on an injunction sought yesterday by Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley after he met with Gov. George Romney and State Civil Service Director Franklin K. DeWald.

They issued a joint statement calling the strike by Local 567, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes Union (AFSCME) illegal based on state law which forbids public employes to strike.

A spokesman for the home said that the strike has cut the home's personnel by about 25 per cent in all areas. Minimal custodial care is being maintained. Volunteers and parents have contributed time to continue fairly normal operations. Some parents have taken their children home, the spokesman said.

The union agreed to provide personnel to maintain service for the 3,000-patient home, but an assessment of compliance has not been determined, according to the home's spokesman.

The strike began Wednesday following a meeting with the home's medical superintendent, Dr. Anthony Abruzzo, when he refused to sign an agreement with the union.

Abruzzo told union representatives at that time he would not sign the policy statement until he received an okay from Dr. William Anderson, director of the state mental health department, and the civil service commission.

About 20 pickets demonstrated in front of the home early this morning, according to Lapeer State Police, who with city police, are standing by to prevent any disturbance.

NONPROFESSIONALS

Most of the 145 strikers of the 580-member union are nonprofessionals — attendants and maintenance workers.

More Talks Set in Buick Strike

FLINT (AP) — Negotiators scheduled a new bargaining session for today in efforts to end a United Auto Workers Union local's strike against the Buick Division of General Motors Corp. in Flint.

Some progress was reported Thursday after a 3½-hour session between negotiators for Buick and striking Local 599 of the UAW.

★ ★ ★

The walkout, which began Wednesday, has idled some 21,000 workers. They include 17,000 striking over alleged speedups in parts production and auto assembly and 4,000 who were idled at a companion Fisher Body plant in Flint.

Workers at eight other GM plants around the country face layoffs if a parts shortage occurs because of the strike, a Buick spokesman said.

462 GRIEVANCES

The union local served a strike notice on Buick last week, threatening to walk out unless 462 grievances were settled.

Parts shortages, the Buick spokesman said, could cause layoffs at the Fisher Body plant in Euclid, Ohio, which makes Buick Riviera bodies; the GM Ternstedt Division and A. C. plants in Flint, which supply parts for Buick; and at assembly plants in Wilmington, Del.; Kansas City, Kan.; Doraville, Ga.; Fremont, Calif., and Southgate, Calif.

Fire Chief Jack Caylor said the building had collapsed before firemen arrived at the scene. He said he did not know the cause of the blaze.

North American Rockwell Buys Old Temprite Corp. Plant in Troy

TROY — North American Rockwell Corp. has announced purchase of the former Temprite Corp. property at 2345 W. Maple.

★ ★ ★

The land abuts a research and development building operated by Rockwell-Standard Divisions and Berz Airport, a general operation facility which the company purchased earlier this year.

Temprite Corp., according to its president, George Moule, will move to two new plants in the Chicago area.

The 12 acres involved in the sale include a 65,000-square-foot office and manufacturing building.

★ ★ ★

Robert Anderson, president of the Commercial Products Group of North American Rockwell, said the building will be remodeled and incorporated into a new technical center NAR is planning for its Detroit-based Rockwell-Standard Divisions. Plans include construction of major new facilities, Anderson said.

The Rockwell-Standard Divisions are the world's largest independent producers of mechanical components for motor vehicles, according to the company.

County Health Officials Prepare for Hong Kong Flu

By L. GARY THORNE
Assistant City Editor—Suburban

Hong Kong flu — expected here this winter — may not be as severe as the Asian bug of 10 years ago, according to Oakland County health authorities.

In any event health officials expect the Pontiac area to be prepared for the foreign virus providing there is a "run" on the protective vaccine.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Bernard Berman, county health director, said he expected the Hong Kong influenza would be a milder form than the Asian flu of 1957-58.

The health chief indicated he thought too much concern was being put on the possibilities of a flu epidemic. Berman said his office felt "no extreme concern."

ONE REAL DANGER

"It will strike among the younger people," he explained, "and we'll get high absenteeism in schools."

The only real danger of influenza is the complications, notably pneumonia and encephalitis, Berman further explained. He added that older persons are more subject to complications. There is also a greater danger for those who suffer from chronic disorders.

★ ★ ★

Berman said the concern with the Hong Kong germ is that it is a little different than anything experienced before.

"We don't know just how much protection is in the public now," he said.

PREDICTABLE CYCLE

Influenza, of which there are numerous known strains, follows a fairly predictable cycle. Health authorities attempt to chart this cycle and have protective vaccines prepared in advance to combat the type of flu that finally arrives.

Berman estimated that the Oakland County region could experience Hong Kong flu about January or February. The normal pattern for such an invasion is for it to first land on the West Coast about three or four months after being detected in the Far East.

★ ★ ★

The bug then jumps to the East Coast and gradually moves inland. Berman credited the speed of modern travel for the U.S. being hit with the Hong Kong virus this year.

According to Berman, this was not suppose to be a high flu year.

Vaccine to fight this winter's Asiatic disease is slated to be ready by early December, according to a spokesman for Parke, Davis & Co., of Rochester, one of the main vaccine manufacturers.

Parke, Davis has launched a crash program to produce large quantities of the protective vaccine, which is grown in chick embryos.

Watching and Being Watched

Laundromat Adventures

By DIANNE DUROCHER

The community wash center used to be a place of real rapport.

I mean a place where women gathered by the creekside conversing and singing as they pounded the family's soggy apparel against the rocks. Now . . .

★ ★ ★

Nevermore. The laundromat — the coin-fed, mechanized monster of slushing sanitation — has replaced the riverside.

Conversation is limited to, "Can I have change for a dollar?" The churning sound of the washers mixed with the droning whirl of dryers has replaced the singing.

WATCHERS

People come and go. It is a watch and be-watched atmosphere.

Enters Harriet, the harassed housewife, clad in too-tight stretch pants and tennis shoes; followed by three medium-sized children, each carrying a basket of different-colored clothing.

She sets four machines in action, closes the lids and wipes her brow. Immediately she is besieged with the children's pleas for dimes; for use in one of the dozen vending machines.

The children have already run around the building three times and are dizzy from watching the monotonous turning of the giant dryer.

VETERAN

Harriet is obviously a veteran.

Close by, a young enamoured couple sit holding hands, completely oblivious to the fact that their clothes have been dry for ten minutes.

★ ★ ★

Across the room the bachelor-type arises from one of the hard chairs situated in front of the front loading washers.

He carefully folds his permapress pants and shirts. Then he squashes all his socks and underwear into his laundry bag; paying no attention to the blue-eyed maiden who is watching him out of the corner of her eye, while pretending to read a magazine.

SURVEYED

She, in turn is being surveyed by a gray-haired man who has just poured five cups of detergent into a washing machine.

The drama continues with Clara —the curious, who carefully watches to see what kind of towels and linens her fellow patrons use.

★ ★ ★

Clara believes everybody else's dirt is dirtier than her dirt. She hurriedly folds her laundry to avoid being equally scrutinized.

Frustration, humor and romance abound at the local laundromat, even for the casual observer.

CHARGE

The climax of a trip to the modern day wash center is the charge to get a vacant dryer.

Tension mounts as three or four women are poised to move in and capture it — but only one achieves success. The losers return to their waiting — in silence.

Bombing at Policeman's Home Linked to Feud

DETROIT (UPI) — Police failed to connect the bombing of a policeman's home Thursday to the chain of 13 bombings in the greater Detroit area recently.

The front section of the home of Patrolman Melvin Louria was a crumpled mass of metal and cement after a blast tore the porch foundation, ripping away windows and walls while Louria, his wife, and three of their five children slept inside.

Mrs. Louria, and one daughter, Ruth Ann, 13, were slightly injured as the explosion shattered windows up and down the west side residential street.

Police said the bombing appeared to be the latest incident in a year-long feud between Louria and a neighbor. A suspect, William B. Rains, 38, who lives one block from the officer, was arrested.

SERIES OF BOMBINGS

For at least the past six weeks, a series of bombings have plagued Detroit and its outlying areas. Among the incidents was an explosion at a science building on the University of Michigan campus this week, the blasting of a Roseville Draft Board office, and car bombings that damaged cars of two policemen, one Army recruiter and an ex-soldier.

Except for Rains, police have made no arrests in connection with any of the bombings. Police gave no reason for the feud between Louria and Rains, but said Louria's neighborhood has been terrorized with incidents.

Last July, three separate shooting incidents left the policeman's car and a neighbor's home and car splattered with pellet holes. On another occasion, a sniper fired a shot into the front of Louria's home, police said.

★ ★ ★

"We can't sleep around here. When I woke up, I thought it was gunfire. It sounded like Europe during World War II," one neighbor said.

Rough Landing

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — It embarrassed Dean Heath, a sky diver who practices by night, to miss his field and land on the grounds of a pipe manufacturing company. Even more so when his plummet broke two power lines, tripping a burglar alarm that brought police on the double.

Romney Names Seven to New State Pay Board

LANSING (AP)—Acting more than two weeks late, Gov. George Romney Thursday announced appointment of the seven-member State Officers' Compensation Commission which voters approved in the Aug. 6 primary.

The new state law implementing the constitutional amendment adopted Aug. 6 called for the governor to name the commission by Oct. 1.

★ ★ ★

The commission is charged with setting the salaries of the governor, lieutenant governor, members of the Legislature and justices of the State Supreme Court.

It is authorized to raise the $15,000 annual compensation of legislators this year. The commission's pay levels become effective unless rejected by two-thirds majorities in the state House and Senate.

CURRENT PAY

The governor now is paid $40,000 a year, the lieutenant governor $22,500 and Supreme Court justices $35,000.

Named to the commission for two-year terms were Bishop Dwight Loder of the Michigan Area Methodist Church; Mrs. James W. Baker of Bay City, a dress designer and state NAACP director; former Muskegon Mayor Don F. Seyferth; and Jay VanAndel of Grand Rapids, board chairman of Amway Corp.

★ ★ ★

Named to four-year terms were Williamston cattle rancher William Brittain; Lawrence Carino, vice president and general manager of Detroit Station WJBK-TV; and Ralph E. Huhtala of Kingsford, public relations manager for Lake Shore, Inc.

Work Refusal on Sunday Set for Court Test

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—The question of whether a man can be fired for refusing to work on Sunday or providing someone to take his place is scheduled for determination in U. S. District Court here.

Robert K. Dewey, 34, of Grand Rapids, refuses to do either on religious grounds and said he was fired because of that.

★ ★ ★

District Judge Noel P. Fox ruled the question is one to be settled by trial in declining Wednesday to dismiss as uit brought against Reynolds Metals Co. by Dewey.

Dewey filed suit under Title 7 of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, claiming discrimination because of religion.

AT PLANT 15 YEARS

Dewey was employed in the suburban Wyoming plant of Reynolds for 15 years as a die repairman before he was fired in September 1966.

Dewey said that since 1962 he has been a member of the Reformed Church in America and refuses to work on Sunday because of his religious belief. He also insists he doesn't believe it is right to request someone else to do so, regardless of the replacement's religious beliefs.

★ ★ ★

Under Reynolds' union contract the company has a right to schedule overtime work, with a proviso that anyone may be excused if he obtains a qualified replacement.

Dewey was fired after three Sunday absences and failure to provide a replacement.

Bail System Change Asked

LANSING (UPI) — State Sen. Roger E. Craig, D-Dearborn, said Thursday he will introduce a bill to abolish bail in most cases in the next session of the Legislature.

Under the provisions of Craig's bill, release of a defendant on bail money would be used "only when it is found that no other conditions of release will reasonable assure the defendant's appearance in court."

★ ★ ★

In lieu of bail money, the Craig bill calls for release on personal recoginzance after a quick check of the defendant's background or release on nonmonetary conditions including supervision by a "qualified" person or organization.

"Many defendants, presumed to be innocent until proven guilty, crowd our county jails," Craig said, "simply because they are too poor to afford a bail bond. My bill would free these persons to return to jobs and home until their appearance in court."

World's Finest Bourbon a 173-Year-Old Secret

CHICAGO, ILL.—Before you can call yourself the world's finest anything—you'd better have a case in your favor.

Jim Beam Bourbon has that "case."

The whole matter started with Jacob Beam—who would be 200 years old this year—and a secret he discovered.

The secret, in the case of Jim Beam Bourbon, goes back to 1795, and it is still hush-hush today. The secret lay in the heart of Kentucky where there was, and is today, the right combination for pleasure. The right land. The right climate: the perfect Bourbon formula.

In north central Kentucky, Jacob Beam found clear, limestone free water—water that came from limestone springs—and discovered the very finest [illegible] out to make Bourbon in the rolling country and he added his own special touch.

Government Key To Public Attitude?

As the presidential election nears, one of the vital issues of the campaign — the Vietnam war — takes on special significance.

That a settlement of that impasse, or the promise of it, would substantially enhance the image of the Administration and the election chances of Vice President Hubert Humphrey goes without saying.

It is unthinkable that those in high Government office would be so base as to maneuver the unpopular war into a favorable light for political purposes in disregard of the adverse effect on the ultimate outcome and the fate of American fighting men.

★ ★ ★

But the theoretical possibility of such action points up the vast power held by heads of state and their diplomatic specialists to manipulate public opinion.

Currently rumors are widespread that a break in the Paris peace negotiations is imminent — a break that could lead to the long-hoped-for settlement of our entanglement in Southeast Asia.

President Johnson has denied any such developments. His denial could mean that the peace rumors are indeed false. Or they could simply represent an understandable attitude of caution until delicate deliberations take concrete form.

★ ★ ★

Along with all Americans, we devoutly hope for an early end to one of the most costly and frustrating wars in which the United States has ever engaged. Regardless of when peace comes — be it immediately, the day before the election or the day after — we have faith that President Johnson is sincerely and continuously working toward that end, let the political chips fall where they may.

City Mines Dollars From Trash-Disposal Plan

It's not often that one little idea promises to solve so many big problems.

Take the plan of a mechanical engineer in Philadelphia that would:

- Dispose of the city's refuse and save it money while doing it;
- Reduce air pollution;
- Reclaim acres of barren land;
- Give a boost to a traffic-hungry railroad;
- Bring extra money into economically depressed communities.

★ ★ ★

Under Donald Kerr's plan, scheduled to go into operation early next year, shredded and compressed trash from Philadelphia will be hauled about 100 miles by the Reading Railroad to coal areas in Pennsylvania to be used as fill for abandoned strip mines.

The city figures to save more than $1 million a year by disposing of its rubbish this way rather than incinerating it (last year Philadelphia burned more than 800,000 tons of the stuff), while also benefitting from a reduction of pollutants from its incinerators. The mine pits involved are said to be big enough to take 40 years to fill up.

★ ★ ★

KERR, who has formed the Eastern Land Reclamation Company, hopes to get other cities to adopt the idea and is negotiating with six major railroads and owners of landfill sites in six different states. Coal townships joining the plan would receive a small fee for each ton of trash dumped within their limits, and at the same time would be recovering valuable real estate.

"It all seems so logical," says KERR.

It is. And maybe that's why no one ever thought of it before.

★ ★ ★

The only question is, what are Americans going to do in the 21st century when all the holes in the ground are filled up?

Federal Economists Ignore Inflation Cause

Following the announcement of price increases by one of the Nation's major auto manufacturers, the President's cabinet committee on price stability noted that this action was "a severe setback to the cause of price stability." The further observation was made that if the automobile industry as a whole followed the pattern of this one company, it would cost the American consumer $750 million and further accelerate the spiral of inflation.

★ ★ ★

Once again, officials in Government are slipping the shoe of blame for the rising prices of inflation on the wrong foot.

Outlandish Federal deficit spending, this year running at some $25 billion, is the primary factor causing inflation.

With all the high-priced economists working for the Government, you would think one of them might look back and discover that on an average, during the past 18 years, every $2.6 billion in deficit in the Federal government has been accompanied by a 1 per cent increase in all prices.

It is just as simple as that.

Medicine, Jazz Suffer Keen Loss

By DICK SAUNDERS

Edmund Souchon II, M.D., is dead.

Few know who Doc Souchon was. I will try to tell some of his story.

He was a prominent surgeon in New Orleans. He delivered about 1,000 babies and performed nearly that many surgeries. He pioneered the use of sodium pentothal as an intravenous anesthetic.

SAUNDERS

But his first love was New Orleans jazz.

★ ★ ★

He played guitar and banjo. When he was 12, just before World War I, he helped organize the lengendary Six and 7/8 String Band.

Doc Souchon made numerous recordings, mostly as a sideman with New Orleans groups. It would be overly sentimental to say he was a great guitarist or banjoist. But he was good, he knew the music he played, and he had a feeling for that few white musicians have.

It was emotional music, sometimes happy, sometimes blue—the type of music where feeling is more vital than technical ability.

★ ★ ★

But his contribution was not solely as a jazz musician.

Doc Souchon was a collector of New Orleans jazz and blues recordings, a historian, a writer and an editor. He was a great force behind the preservation and appreciation of New Orleans jazz.

He donated to the New Orleans Public Library 4,000 records and books, which were used to open what may have been the first public library for jazz study in the United States.

★ ★ ★

His crowning achievement is a magnificent volume, "New Orleans Jazz: A Family Album," which he coauthored. It was published last year by the Louisiana State University Press. The book, containing over 1,000 biographies and 525 rare photos, is a result of years of research and stands as one of the most comprehensive documentations of New Orleans music and musicians ever published.

I learned of Doc's death through the jazz grapevine. He died a couple weeks ago in New Orleans.

Doc Souchon, M.D., guitarist, banjoist and vocalist, would have turned 71 a week from today. Last June I talked with him at the Fourth Annual Ragtime Festival aboard the Goldenrod Showboat in St. Louis.

★ ★ ★

Portly and exuberant, jumping from one band stand to another, at 70 he was like a 20-year-old filled with the ecstasy of being a star attraction in the midst of the jazz-filled atmosphere he so dearly loved.

He ripped off some fine banjo and a couple vocals with the St. Louis Ragtimers and then moved on to a set with an exciting Detroit area traditional jazz band, The Mothers' Boys.

★ ★ ★

A real trooper, Edmund Souchon II, M.D.

He held a life membership in the American College of Surgeons. But I'll bet he was equally proud of the card he held in New Orleans Local 147 of the American Federation of Musicians.

Words To Fight A War By!

David Lawrence Says:

Paris 'Face-Saving' Poses Risk

WASHINGTON — Although very little is being said as yet as to what is going on behind the scenes between the representatives in Paris of North Vietnam and the United States, there is a general feeling in Washington that a "compromise" of some kind is in the making.

LAWRENCE

The real difficulty is that each side wishes either to gain at least the appearance of a "victory" or to avoid the opposite — the charge that there has been a "surrender."

This means that "face-saving" becomes the underlying motive in a difficult negotiation in which sometimes neither side comes out on top.

The risks are considerable, inasmuch as a clumsy handling of the problem could have far-reaching effects not only among the allies of America but among neutral nations which are watching closely to see whether the power and prestige of the United States will in any sense have been sacrificed for the sake of political expediency at home.

So far as the South Vietnam government is concerned, it is worried about only one question: Will it be in command of its own territory or will a "coalition" government be imposed such as that to which the United States agreed before the Communists took over the mainland of China in 1949?

PROMISES LIKELY

If it is to retain the friendship of South Vietnam, the United States cannot agree to any kind of "coalition" government which threatens the independence of the Saigon regime.

But promises of some kind on the political questions involved in a settlement will doubtless have been made by both sides if a bombing halt occurs.

It doesn't seem possible that the United States will be content with a mere halt in the fighting when there is no assurance that this will be maintained for more than a few weeks or months.

The Hanoi government is probably well aware that the Johnson administration is anxious to bring about a stoppage of the fighting within the next three weeks before the election. So the trump cards of the North Vietnamese will be played with a supposition that the Washington government needs to get a cessation of the fighting as quickly as possible and may be willing to pay a heavy price for it.

★ ★ ★

Already there is speculation as to what the impact will be on the voters of America. Many of them will be relieved to learn that their sons probably will not be drafted to go to Vietnam.

The situation could still remain unsettled by election day. The Democrats will naturally expect to gain support because they have initiated some kind of negotiation that looks like it may result in an ending of the war.

(Copyright, 1968 Publishers-Hall Syndicate

Bob Considine Says:

Gen. LeMay Spokesman for Bygone Era in U.S.

NEW YORK — Gen. Curt LeMay says the best way to win the war in Vietnam is to knock out the ability of the enemy to fight, after giving due warning to the people in those productive areas to get out of the way.

CONSIDINE

He would, for example, shatter Haiphong, the port through which Ho Chi Minh receives most of the goods (and bads) with which he continues to fight. Gen. LeMay would, in addition, knock off Hanoi if the capital of North Vietnam was (as it may be) a strategic target. Also, after a leaflet warning to the Hanoians.

★ ★ ★

But times change, and so do men's assessment of what is a victory. Today, LeMay is widely considered a caricature of some sort, a voice from the grave of American history.

Actually, LeMay is a spokesman of a period in U.S. history which may never return: The age in which we would settle for nothing short of victory in any war we entered.

EISENHOWER'S PLEDGE

Now we have something else, and history cannot yet tell us whether it is as good or as bad as the dictum of unconditional surrender.

During the 1952 campaign, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said something that none of today's presidential candidates has quite said. Ike said that, if elected, he would "go to Korea." What he was also promising the American people was that he would wrap up an ugly and unpopular war there.

★ ★ ★

This he did within six months.

But it wasn't the kind of wrap-up he achieved in Europe nor did he hope it would be. The North Korean soldier of today, 15 years later, grew to manhood convinced that his older brother or his father held the heavyweight champion of the world, us, to at least a draw.

EXPLAINS BEHAVIOR

So this is basically why North Korea can capture a ship like the Pueblo, imprison its crew, make them say odd things, and defy us to do something about it.

LeMay is a good man. Few men have given as much of themselves to the service of this country as has this tough, wary guy.

But the times have passed him by as surely as they passed MacArthur.

★ ★ ★

We'll show the uniform and the flag in South Vietnam until, certainly, the year 2000.

Which is not so far away . . . except in the conclusive minds and hearts of old-fashioned Americans. Curt LeMay, for example.

'Census Limitation Bill Needs Citizens' Support'

A while back, The Pontiac Press suggested that people write to their congressmen for action against the new overly-long census. Now I have received a special request from Rep. Jack McDonald for support of the Census Limitation Bill (H.R. 14361). He evidently has had this bill in committee for nearly a year and cannot get action on it.

★ ★ ★

He asks that people write to him: Rep. Jack McDonald, House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515, and he will see to passing their views on to the chairman of the committee handling this bill. Let's all support Jack McDonald and the Census Limitation Bill, for freedom's sake.

VOICE FOR THE VOICELESS

Comments on Pontiac Teachers Organization

The public has probably read that there are 100 teachers who will be fired next June because they did not join the Pontiac Education Association or pay a financial obligation fee. I am one of those teachers. I have 17 years tenure in Pontiac and have a reputation of being a good teacher. Those 100 teachers are probably all members of the Federation of teachers and do not resent the fee as much as the way it was levied. We were not given one thing to say about the teachers' contracts. If the P.E.A. gets by with this, what is to prevent them from levying more money and passing any rules they wish to benefit their own organization? We live in a democracy and I don't like these Russian Red tactics.

Question and Answer

I heard someone had a sure cure for hiccups. What is it?

V. H. H.

REPLY

One technique was discussed in Journal of American Medical Association, Oct. 2, 1967. For reprints write Dr. Ramez Salem, University of Chicago Hospitals, 950 E. 59th St., Chicago. Another you can try in the meantime is (1) sit up straight, take a deep breath and hold it, (2) extend your head very far back and hold your breath as long as possible. Repeat if necessary. Or hold a paper bag tightly closed around your nose and mouth. Breathe into the bag, then inhale. The carbon dioxide in your exhaled breath may cure the hiccups. But don't ask for a written guarantee.

Question and Answer

Can you tell me how the current style for women started, with their hair hanging around their shoulders and short, short skirts, making them look like six-year-olds?

NEM

REPLY

As far back as the first century B. C. Virgil said, "A fickle and changeful thing is woman ever," and Poets and philosophers have been trying to explain them ever since. Far be it from us to pretend to understand them.

Reviewing Other Editorial Pages

Today's Campus

Christ Church (Cranbrook) Soundings

It seems evident that few people understand the meaning of student unrest and protest in 1968. To some, the student rebellion is obviously the work of conspirators who are provoking decent American adolescents into destructive behavior against the United States.

Many more people, however, unfamiliar with the contemporary college campus simply do not understand what the 'gripe' is all about and wish that students would return to panty-raids and other less disruptive activities.

★ ★ ★

Reflective individuals are puzzled as to where the fault lies for such protests and have proposed that the conventional wisdom generated on the subject by the press, the politicians and students themselves be examined more critically.

Most student protesters are from liberal-oriented middle and upper income families. They have been encouraged by the parents to be independent of mind, socially alert and reformist in style.

Far from rebelling against their parents (a common oversimplification), they are merely trying to put in motion those democratic ideals which they learned at home. Far from turning their backs on their progenitors, they have believed the Constitution and have protested whenever and wherever that Constitution has been abridged or denied.

It appears that the student protest has one common theme running throughout its protests, sit-ins and break-ins, namely, the demand for a voice in those decisions which affect their lives, the war, the draft and education.

★ ★ ★

Frankly, most people who are at all concerned about the direction of the student movement are afraid that the level of tolerance for dissent in the United States is exceedingly small and afraid that student protesters in the future will be subject to repression more quickly and without public exposure by the media.

And yet, unless we are able to distinguish between violent rhetoric and violent behavior, we will sanction that repression.

★ ★ ★

Students have only one lethal weapon: a simple moral imperative that demands honesty and justice. If this imperative is faulty, let it be exposed by dialogue. It may very well be that our youth represent the last opportunity for a sane dialogue with ourselves as a nation.

Are we so wise that we need no such dialogue? Do we have the courage to re-examine our assumptions and value systems that have required so much time and energy to construct? This is the challenge the student protest makes upon adults.

Afghan Sport Taxes Courage

It's Always Punishing and Sometimes Fatal

By National Geographic Society

WASHINGTON — An Afghan tribesman, viewing the most rough-and tumble-game of football or hockey, might find the contest scarcely more exciting than tiddledywinks.

Afghanistan's own national sport, buz kashi, ranks among the world's roughest pastimes.

* * *

Buz kashi, a roughshod ancestor of polo, is always punishing and sometimes fatal, National Geographic writer Thomas J. Abercrombie learned.

As many as 100 riders astride fighting stallions compete in buz kashi, which means "goat-drag."

HACKAWAY

Turbaned riders, sweating and shouting, hack away with short whips at men and beasts alike as they struggle for the "ball" — a beheaded goat or calf — on the ground.

Finally, a rider breaks through and, hanging from one stirrup amid the flying hoofs, snatches the prize from the bloody melee and flings the carcass into the scoring circle.

Almost no holds are barred. "Recently knives and chains have been outlawed, but sudden death on the playing field is not uncommon," Mr. Abercrombie says.

"It's no game for the timid — but a fitting sport for Afghanistan. It reflects the boldness, the tenacity, the fighting spirit of the Afghans themselves, dwellers in a rugged land where only men of iron and leather could survive at all."

'CAN'T WAIT'

Writer Abercrombie tried his hand at the sport during a three-month-long, 20,000-mile journey through the ancient land. He was taught some of the game's finer points by a friend, Mohammed Ali Hussein, who knows game, and once a leg," he told his hazards well.

"I've broken both arms at this the writer. "I've lost count of the ribs. Still, I can't wait for the cool season and the games every Friday."

* * *

The perilous sport befits the tough tribesmen whose forebears rode against ceaseless waves of invaders.

Alexander the Great founded cities in that central Asian region, and Genghis Khan destroyed them. Between the two, Parthians, Kushan Buddhists, Persians, Arabs, and Seljuk Turks had reigned—then waned.

IN 1919

The British, alarmed when expanding Tsarist Russia supported Persian claims to Herat, invaded Afghanistan from India in 1639. The Afghans forced the British garrison to abandon Kabul, the capital, in 1842, but the British again invaded in 1878.

Finally, in 1919, after still another Anglo-Afghan war, Britain recognized the nation's independence. In Kabul, the crowds celebrated for days.

* * *

Afghanistan lives in peace today, but maintains a fierce independence.

"For the Afghan, tureh — bravery — is a prime quality," Abercrombie writes.

* * *

As an ancient Afghan song puts it, perhaps with buz kashi in mind: "Better come home stained with blood/Than safe and sound as a coward."

Tired Wallace Takes Day Off

By JULES LOH
Associated Press Writer

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — George C. Wallace takes a day off at home with his children today after an exhausting 11-day coast-to-coast trip that included 26 speeches in 25 cities in 17 states.

Wallace was visibly tired.

He ended the trip Thursday on friendly ground, in Fort Worth and Longview, Tex., and the cheering crowds seemed to sooth him like a tonic.

"I have a bad cold," he told a crowd of 6,000 in Longview, "and I wish I felt better for a crowd as nice as this."

However he felt, he was plainly in good spirits. With a total absence of hecklers, he was able to use his oratorical skills to their fullest, bringing cheers and laughter.

The Fort Worth crowd, about 10,000 in a downtown park with only a few dozen ineffective hecklers in their midst, was likewise friendly and responsive.

This had not been the case in other stops on the trip which began Oct. 7 in Washington, D.C. progressed through the Midwest, the plains, the Rockies and the West Coast and ended in the Southwest.

In the plains and part of the mountains and the coast, Wallace drew large audiences, but they listened more out of curiosity than with the emotion displayed by crowds in the Midwest.

And in some cities, screaming, jeering hecklers drove him to the point of anger. In Denver they hooted him off the platform after some of the microphones failed and in San Diego he called the hecklers "punks" and belligerently invited one to step up on the stage with him.

In Alamogordo, N.M., before an enjoyable visit to an old wartime resident put him in better spirits, Wallace was openly annoyed at a bulky public address system. And apologizing for his late arrival he said, to the chagrin of some of his aides, "It just doesn't seem like we can keep this campaign on sched ule."

But Wallace apparently doesn't intend to slow his pace in the remaining 18 days before the election. On the cootrary his proposed schedule combines a rigorous tour of public appearances with a television blitz during the stretch drive.

He said the cancellation of appearances today in Kansas and Missouri was to tape television shows rather than because of any fatigue.

Purse Thief Finds Her Bag Is Violence

LONDON (AP) — John Whitney, out to snatch a handbag on a dark London street, chose the wrong little old lady.

"I'm a real hellcat," said 71-year-old Miss Helen Cathcart.

Whitney, 48, grabbed her handbag, which contained the equivalent of 84 cents and a pension book, and ran.

★ ★ ★

"I chased him and tried to hook his legs with my walking stick, like Charlie Chaplin used to do in the old films," Miss Cathcart said.

"He wasn't in good training and I'm afraid I laid about him with my walking stick. I'm sorry to say I broke his spectacles. I feel rather ashamed of myself."

RESCUED BY CABBIE

Fortunately for Whitney, a taxi driver drove by and saved him from further punishment.

Whitney was still shaking when he was brought to court Thursday, nine hours after Miss Cathcart beat him up. His face was covered with cuts and bruises, his nose was broken and his glasses had been smashed.

★ ★ ★

Magistrate John Ward gave Whitney a conditional discharge, which means he'd better behave himself in the future.

"It's a pretty despicable thing you tried to do," Ward said. "But to some extent you have suffered for it already."

In a California study it was disclosed that 15 per cent of all the accidents studied were caused by drivers who had died natural deaths at the wheel.

VP Reminds Detroit That GOP Had 3 Recessions in '50s

DETROIT (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey, apparently worried about diminishing support among traditionally Democratic blue collar workers, sought to block any defections Thursday by reminding rank-an-file union members of three recessions under Republican administrations in the 1950s.

"And Detroit knows what recession means," Humphrey said during his one - day swing through this auto-making city. "First the overtime goes. The paychecks get smaller. The mortgages and car payments get harder to meet.

* * *

"Next the assembly lines slow down. Then they stop completely. And you're out of a job," he said.

"You can vote Republican," he said. "You can vote Wallace —if you like long vacations, unpaid vacations."

NOON RALLY

Humphrey spoke to more than 6,000 persons during a noon rally in John F. Kennedy Square, and later addressed labor leaders and walked down the assembly line of the Ford Rouge plant in an effort to bolster his presidential candidacy.

* * *

In talks to labor leaders, Humphrey acknowledged he was running behind Republican opponent Richard M. Nixon.

"But we can win," he declared. "And he asked his listeners to urge others to vote Democratic on Nov. 5.

"I want you to go to work as you never worked before," Humphrey said. "I want you to be talking machines. This is an all or nothing crusade."

Of his critics, Humphrey said "I know what they're saying: 'That fellow Humphrey, he wants to put black people on those jobs.'"

* * *

And white workingmen, Humphrey added, fear that they would be replaced by a Negro.

"I believe in full employment," he said. "And I believe in it for white and black, fat and thin, short or tall.

"If the Republicans get in," he added, "you won't have to worry about what color you are. You'll be out of work."

During Nixon's years as vice president, Humphrey said, "we had three job-killing, profit-killing recessions in eight years."

But under Democratic administrations, he declared, "We have had steady economic growth — 92 straight months."

'Truth Squad' Links HHH to 'Old Politics'

DETROIT (UPI) — A barnstorming Republican "Truth squad" is accusing Hubert H. Humphrey of running his campaign in a world of old politics. They called the Democratic campaign one which is centered on fear.

"Humphrey is conducting a negative, fear-inspired campaign. This is obviously because he has no new ideas to present to the people — just more of the same we've had during the last four years of Johnson-Humphrey directions," said U.S. Rep. Barber Conable of New York during a new conference at the Lansing airport Thursday.

* * *

"Using this type of old politics won't work. Fear may paralyze, but it won't paralyze the people's judgment enough to stop them from voting from Richard Nixon," he added.

The squad, headed by two GOP senators and representatives, was in Detroit today, it stopped at Muskegon Airport, Tri-Cities Airport and Flint's Voyaguer Hotel Thursday.

'DEMOGAGUERY'

Traveling cross-country in an F-27 jet prop, the group hopes to "expose deceptions and demogaguery practiced by the Democrats in the 1968 presidential campaign."

The four legislators said they weren't bothering to "expose" former Alabama Gov. George Wallace because his campaign is a "dead-end street."

* * *

"All anyone needs to do is look at his record," Conable said.

Other members of the squad were Sens. Clifford P. Hansen of Wyoming and Jack Miller of Iowa and Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen of New Jersey.

Canadian Union Chief Reelected

QUEBEC (AP) — Marcel Pepin was re-elected president of the 225,000-member Confederation of National Trade Unions at the group's 43rd annual convention Thursday night.

Pepin, 42, who has held the top spot in the Quebec-based union group since 1965, was re-elected by acclamation.

Nixon Supports Bomb Halt—If...

BOSTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon has endorsed in advance a possible suspension of U.S. bombing of North Vietnam if it does not endanger U.S. troops and enhances the prospects of an honorable peace.

The Republican presidential candidate made clear that, at least at the outset, he would venture no campaign criticism of such a Johnson decision.

* * *

Nixon strategists acknowledge that a gesture of Vietnam de-escalation by the Democratic administration would be helpful to the campaign of Vice President Humphrey, that party's nominee.

They do not believe it would reverse what they now consider a substantial Nixon lead.

LBJ'S DECISION

Nixon declared in Johnstown, Pa., Thursday that the bombing halt is a decision for Johnson alone — and that if he decides to end it, Republicans will support the move.

"If a bombing pause can be agreed to in Vietnam," he said, "one which will not endanger American lives, and one which will increase the chances for bringing a peaceful and honorable solution to the war, then we are for it," Nixon said.

* * *

"And the man who can make that determination is the President of the United States," Nixon said. "Let's let him make that determination and if he does, we will support him because we want peace and we do not want to play politics with peace."

Nixon restated that position before some 12,000 people at a rally in Rochester, N.Y. "As long as President Johnson is president, let's give him a chance to bring this war to an honorable conclusion," he said.

NOT NEW TERMS

The terms Nixon set for a bombing pause — safety for U.S. troops and the promotion of honorable peace — were not new. There was, however, a new emphasis on Johnson's sole judgment in the matter.

And a Nixon spokesman, Ron Ziegler, made clear that the GOP campaigner had left the way open to possible criticism of a cessation which does not work. "After the bombing halt decision was made," Ziegler said, "then it would be for the world to see whether whose terms are met."

* * *

In past campaign settings, Nixon spoke more critically of a shift in U.S. aerial strategy. On Oct. 5 in Garden City, N.Y., he said, "We have stopped the bombing seven times, and each time it has meant more war and more American lives lost."

Agnew Raps Rebel Faculty

'Some Are Poisoning the Students' Minds'

DETROIT (AP) — Gov. Spiro T. Agnew has charged that many of the violent student disorders across the country are being sparked by college and university professors.

Speaking to a politely enthusiastic crowd of some 5,000 party faithful at Detroit's Cobo Hall area Thursday night, the Republican vice presidential candidate said some professors and instructors were poisoning the minds of their students.

* * *

"Part of the poisoning of some of these young minds comes at the university and college level from some of those professors and instructors, and I can document it," he said.

The Maryland governor said students for a Democratic Society (SDS), "dedicated to anarchy," and "led by people who preach the overthrow of our government has chapters in schools of this country, and some of those chapters are formed by professors.

'DISCOURAGE IT'

"It is time we began to discourage the employment of this kind of person in our colleges and universities," he said.

Agnew said he had received evidence from the FBI and the Baltimore City Police Department that two professors at Towson State College in Maryland founded the SDS chapter at its campus.

* * *

It was at Towson State, where he appeared last Friday night, that Angew encountered the heaviest heckling of his campaign.

The vice presidential candidate was introduced at Thursday night's rally, an annual affair held for those persons who contributed $50 or more to the Republican party, by Michigan Gov. George Romney.

DISSIDENTS LASHED

Earlier Thursday, at a rally in a motion picture theater in Youngstown, Ohio, Agnew lashed at student dissidents, saying that hippies and yippies were "the most unproductive parasites this country has ever produced.

"As far as I am concerned, they can get on the next cattle boat for North Vietnam."

* * *

The Youngstown rally was only the third public function at which Angew has appeared this week. He has appeared on three television panel shows, spoke briefly at a reception and two dinners in New York City Monday night, a luncheon in Indianapolis Tuesday, a dinner in Pittsburgh Wednesday, the Detroit gala Thursday, and he is scheduled to address a testimonial dinner in Washington, D. C. tonight.

Road Sector Open

LANSING (AP) — The State Highway Department has announced the opening Friday of part of a new highway that eventually will carry M81 and M13 traffic through Saginaw. One route, M31, is being relocated south of its present location and the section to be opened Friday will carry east-west M81 traffic during the construction, the department said.

Cobo Hall Offered as Debate Site

DETROIT (AP) — Mayor Jerome Cavanagh Thursday offered the use of Cobo Hall as the forum for a three - way debate among presidential candidates Hubert Humphrey, Richard Nixon and George Wallace.

* * *

"I herewith today formally make that offer to all three of these candidates," Cavanagh said as he introduced Humphrey during a noon rally. The mayor added that the city would absorb the expense.

* * *

Humphrey accepted the invitation. But he doubted that Nixon would accept.

"Nixon is a shadow boxer," Humphrey said. "He does most of his work in the gym."

Actor Laurence Harvey married Joan Cohn, widow of movie magnate Harry "King" Cohn, in a simple ceremony performed yesterday by a magistrate at Lyford Cay Club in Nassau, Bahamas.

Harvey wore a bright red suit, ruffled shirt and sapphire-dotted gold medallion. Mrs. Cohn — former actress Joan Perry — wore a pale yellow coat-dress with white polka dots and pearl fringes.

The wedding was originally scheduled for Wednesday night but had to be postponed because Harvey arrived from New York too late to beat Nassau's 8 p.m. wedding curfew.

Mae West to Make Film Version of Her Play

Mae West, who has not appeared in movies since 1943, will make a film version early next year of a play she wrote and starred in.

Miss West, 75, appeared in her play "Sextet" in 1961 during its Florida run.

The movie will be coproduced for Warner Bros.-Seven Arts by James T. Aubrey Jr., former president of the Columbia Broadcasting System television network, and Hunt Stromberg Jr., the film company announced yesterday in New York.

Miss West has made recordings and television appearances in recent years. She is currently preparing a TV special, "A Night With Mae West."

Rex Harrison to Play Ill-Fated Politician

HARRISON

Rex Harrison will play the role of Sir Charles Dilke, one of England's most promising politicians before he was involved in a romantic scandal, in Sam Spiegel's film, "Victorian Scandal." Spiegel, in London said the film, based on the Dilke biography written by Ray Jenkins, now Britain's chancellor of the exchequer, will be directed by George Cukor.

British Cabinet Adds Second Female Member

Judith Hart has been named to the cabinet, giving the British government two female members for the first time.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson yesterday selected Mrs. Hart, 44, a sociologist, to be in charge of coordinating efforts to overcome the problems of disenchanted youth and the Scots and Welsh who have complained that London has let them down.

She joins Barbara Castle, the employment minister, in the cabinet. Mrs. Hart has served in Wilson's government since Labor came to power in 1964. Her most recent post was as social security minister.

U-M Will Offer Hit Czech Play

ANN ARBOR—The American premiere of the daring Czech success, "The Castle," and the world premiere of a provocative new American play, "The Conjuror," will be produced here by the Professional Theatre Program of the University of Michigan, according to Robert C. Schnitzer, PTP executive director.

"The Castle" is a recent Prague hit by Ivan Klima, young reformist leader of the Czech Writers Union.

* * *

The playwright was in London discussing a Royal Shakespeare Company version of his play when the Soviet Union invaded his homeland.

"The Castle" has since been banned for production in Czechoslovakia.

The Professional Theatre Program will give Klima a special grant and fly him to Michigan to participate in rehearsals for the U.S. premiere Dec. 3-8 at Lydia Mendelssohn Theatre.

* * *

Termed by European critics as "a gripping, Kafkaesque parable of chilling prophecy . . . a strangled scream," the play was praised by leading British critic Kenneth Tynan and by the New York Times and the New Yorker as a significant artistic factor in the cultural liberalization of Czechoslovakia.

* * *

It has been adapted into English by Ruth Willard and will be staged by PTP Associate Director Marcella Cisney.

"The Conjuror" by Evan Hunter, author of "The Blackboard Jungle," will be given its world premiere by the Professional Theatre Program next February.

Michael Lemon, 19, of 3867 Iris faces higher court arraignment on all three counts Oct. 29. He was remanded to Oakland County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Lemon is accused of kidnaping a 15-year-old girl at gunpoint and raping her in a field near her home Oct. 8.

Judges OK 23 on Grand Jury

DETROIT (AP) — A permanent, 23-member grand jury was approved unanimously Thursday by Wayne County's circuit judges. The jury's first investigation is to be of burglary and larceny charges against a number of Highland Park policemen.

The jury, which officials hope to put in operation by Nov. 1, will be available to probe any other cases brought before it by the prosecutor's office.

* * *

Prosecutor William L. Cahalan said the first panel also will be asked specifically to investigate the sniper killing last summer of Inkster of State Police Detective Robert Gonser.

* * *

The new grand jury will hold secret proceedings and have power to subpoena anyone it wishes and issue indictments.

A panel for the jury is to be picked by the court every month. Jurors are to be paid $8 a day, or $4 for a half-day of their time, Cahalan said.

* * *

Unlike one-man grand juries in Michigan, which have limited terms and investigate only specific crimes designated by courts, the 23-member standing jury will be able to probe any area of wrongdoing it wants.

* * *

Cahalan said the permanent jury "will be a new deterrent to organized crime. People will think twice when they know they can receive a subopena."

Negro Role in Wild West Is Recounted

HOLLWOOD (UPI) — ABC-TV's new western series, "The Outcasts," which deals with two cowboys—one white, the other black—has raised considerable discussion about Negroes in frontier days.

Among the most interested viewers of the series is Jean Castles, an ABC publicist who is also a long-time student of, and expert on, western lore. Some of her research about the Negro and West is contained in a story circulated by the network this week.

★ ★ ★

For example, she notes that a black slave named York took part in the Lewis and Clark expedition. "York accompanied his master, William Clark," she writes, adding:

"To the Sioux, Mandan, Nez Perce and Flathead Indians who met the explorers York was an object of wonder, even more amazing than the 'solid water' mirrors of the white men. The 'charcoal paint' that wouldn't rub off mystified them. Some tribes thought he had blackened himself to signal a great victory over enemies; others believed he was to be the honored guest at a scalp dance. A Charles M. Russell painting shows York in a Mandan lodge, standing tall before admiring red men.

SLAVE COWBOYS

"In the years before the Civil War, the majority of the Negroes in the West were slaves. Some were sold or traded for herds; others worked for their masters as cowboys."

After the North-South war, "the majority worked for white men, as cowboys, horse breakers, cooks on cattle drives up the Chisholm Trail to Abilene, to Dodge, to Ft. Laramie, to Bozeman.

★ ★ ★

"The first Kentucky Derby was run in 1875. The winner, Aristides, was ridden by Oliver Lewis, a Negro.

"A year later Isaiah Dorman, a Negro employed as a civilian interpreter by the Seventh Cavalry quartermaster, was numbered among the Custer dead at the Little Big Horn. He was known to the Indians who killed him. They called him 'Teat.' He was mourned by a Santee Sioux woman, his widow.

SPECIAL RESPECT

"The Indians had a special respect for the black men who fought them. In 1866, Congress passed an act authorizing regiments of Negro troops for the U.S. Army; two of cavalry and four of infantry. The soldiers of the Ninth and Tenth Cavalry, ex-slaves for the most part, were called many things—most of them uncomplimentary — by the whites they protected from Laredo in Texas to Ft. Totten in the Dakotas, from Ft. Leavenworth in Kansas to Ft. Verde in Apache country.

"Buffalo soldiers, the nickname they were proud of, was what the Indians called them. The buffalo was sacred to the Indians, and for them to give its name to these soldiers . . . was a great honor. The blacks' role in the winning of the West hasn't been documented in television westerns, but it is preserved in the paintings of Frederick Remington, which hang in museums around the world."

Miss Castles notes: "They weren't all heroes, of course. Many earned the black hat of the villain with their guns." Cherokee Bill, for instance, "who died at the end of a rope at Ft. Smith, Ark."

And then, adds Miss Castles, there were those Negroes who found unique prominence: "Early in this century Bill Pickett was the cowboy who 'invented' bulldogging. He rode for Miller Bros. 101 ranch as a cowboy and rodeo star, performing his specialty in Chicago, New York and London. Henry Clay, another 101 cowboy, worked with Will Rogers when he as perfecting his rope tricks.

★ ★ ★

"Negroes left their mark on the West as soldiers, cowboys, mountain men, Army scouts, killers, confidence men, explorers, cooks, horse breakers . . . the trail ridden by bounty hunter Jemal David on 'The Outcasts' was broken for him by several generations of ex-slaves."

The Plane Truth

Hawkins Surmounts His Vocal Handicap

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

ROME — When Jack Hawkins lost his larynx in a cancer operation early in 1966, it appeared to mark the end of his acting career.

THOMAS

Yet he is now in Rome acting in two movies simultaneously — "The Adventures of Gerard" and "Monte Carlo Rally."

When Hawkins appeared for an interview at the Grand Hotel, he seemed to be the same stalwart symbol of the British Empire as he appeared in "The Bridge on the River Kwai" and a host of other films. And then he spoke.

* * *

His speech is the "burp-talk" which is used by those who have no larynx. It consists of gulping air, then forcing it up by compressing the esophagus. The words are soft but distinct, and Hawkins' "voice" retains his distinctively British accent.

HOLE IN NECK

The only alteration in his appearance is the air intake hole in his neck, over which he wears a medallion. The hole is needed because the larynx regulated air intake through the throat.

"It is amazing how quickly the human body can become adjusted to new conditions," he commented. "I find I can lead an almost normal life, with only a few minor vexations.' Among them: the inability to clear his throat or blow his nose; and little sense of smell, since hardly any air enters his nose.

* * *

The return of Jack Hawkins is one of the more heartwarming stories of show business. His fellow performers were shocked to learn of his operation; David Niven, Robert Mitchum, Glenn Ford and other costars quickly offered their services if he should return to films in a production capacity. Thousands of fans all over the world sent messages of sympathy.

* * *

It was very nice and very moving," Hawkins recalled. "But still I could scarcely overcome the black moods of depression that I felt because I no longer could speak.

"After all, I had been in films for 30 odd years, and I had started as an actor when I was 13. I know nothing else. The only other employment I had known was an uncomfortable six years in the army during the war, and I couldn't see myself going back in. Not in charge of troops, at any rate.

"That period after the operation is a time I would very much like to forget."

* * *

He conquered the depression and began the tedious process of learning to speak with gulps of air. Champagne inspired his first words. His therapist suggested the gas bubbles in the wine would help him speak. The actor took a drink and burped: "That's . . . good!"

Hawkins became more proficient with his new mode of speaking. As the confidence returned, he faced the challenge of returning to his profession. His first role was in "The Great Catherine" with his friend Peter O'Toole.

DIFFICULT AT FIRST

"Of course it was difficult at first," Hawkins admitted. "One feels for one's fellow actors because they must do a lot of lipreading. You are also aware that they are conscious of your difficulty, and you hope you are not throwing them off their lines. But I must say that everyone I have worked with has been extremely kind and helpful."

The actor next played a role in "Shalako," a Spanish-made Western with Sean Connery and Brigitte Bardot.

* * *

While acting in the films, Hawkins only mouths the words, since his gulps of air might be heard over the dialogue of the other actors; his lines are dubbed in later by actors who can imitate his distinctive voice.

"At first I found it difficult to mime the role; an actor is accustomed to the sound of his own voice coming back at him," he remarked. "When you don't get that sound, you must concentrate more, and I have found that my acting has improved. There is a deeper intensity in the eyes."

Dr. Oaks Says:

Lab Specialists Are Important

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is another in a series of articles issued weekly by the Oakland County Medical Society. Dr. Oaks is the collective voice of the society.)

Laboratory technologists are medicine's fact-finders, turning up evidence that permits the physician to prosecute the case.

The bodily processes adhere to a delicate balance. When that balance goes awry, physical changes often occur.

A drop of blood, for example, is more than a drop of blood. It has a structure all its own. The lab technologist examines such changes.

Peering through his microscope, the technologist observes the structures — cells — of the blood now magnified some 970 times normal size. One hand manipulates the focus while the other presses a counting device. It is in this manner that the blood cells are counted and categorized as to type.

Blood cells most commonly are divided into white and red, but the cells are not really white or red. These are the terms used to describe different cells.

Actually white cells are dark blue and some are even pink. So-called red cells tend to be an off-shade of red — almost tan in color.

There are even different type of white cells — lymphocytes, eosinophils and monocytes. Each of these should be present in a definite proportion to the other. And this is where the fact-finding begins.

Certain diseases tend to cause an increase in certain types of cells. Thus, the lab technologist's count provides the doctor with evidence to aid his diagnosis.

However, the lab merely provides evidence. It is the physician who must determine the significance of that evidence.

Lab work — 10 occupations in many different departments — is important behind-the-scenes activity.

Modern medicine leans heavily on some 150 different chemical tests available in the average medical laboratory.

Obviously training is necessary for such work, and, like most professions, learning never ceases as laboratory processes increase their sophistication.

Formal training extends three years beyond high school, plus a one-year internship. The student is then eligible for an examination given by the American Society of Clinical Pathology. A passing mark qualifies the student for the title — technologist — and he can be registered by the state board.

For the student pondering the opportunities of a health care career, the job of lab technologist has a lot to offer.

Perhaps one of the biggest attributes is a sense of being needed, part of the team.

He Envisioneers First Federal Compact Car

BY DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Treasury official said the other day that either the U.S. auto industry or the federal government must take "aggressive" steps to build small cars to compete with foreign imports.

WEST

When I first glanced at this item, I thought the official was suggesting that the government itself start building small cars. It turned out, however, that he had something else in mind.

* * *

Nevertheless, it is interesting to speculate as to what kind of cars the government might build if the government did build cars.

Washington — the Bureaucrat Six, the first car ever built by the federal government rolled off the assembly line here today.

MOTOR IN CENTER

Designed to compete with small foreign imports, the Bureaucrat introduces a new concept in automotive engineering by having its motor in the center of the car.

Harley Worthit, deputy assistant vice undersecretary for production, said the decision to place the motor in the middle was made by the committee that put the car together.

"The committee couldn't agree on whether the motor should be in the front or in the rear, so they compromised," Worthit explained.

He admitted, however, that some members of the committee were not pleased with the compromise.

BOTH ENDS BETTER

"They felt a better compromise would have been to put motors at both ends," he said.

Another new feature is the Bureaucrat's body style, which is in the shape of a filing cabinet.

"There are two basic models," Worthit said. "A two-drawer coupe and a four-drawer sedan."

The Bureaucrat also has a new safety feature. Instead of using seat belts, the occupants will be held in their seats with paper clips.

There are no doors on the car. They have been replaced by "in" and "out" baskets.

Wylie Groves Is Going Hollywood

Pontiac Press Photo by Edward R. Noble

HERO WORSHIP — Scott Duncanson gets down on bended knee to get Sue Dickson's autograph as the two seniors spoof Groves High School's Regalia Ball. Theme of the semiformal dance will follow a Hollywood premiere.

By BENITA ROSEN

Hollywood is going to have to take a back seat to Wylie E. Groves High School from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. on Oct. 26.

For these few hours, Tinsel Town, U.S.A., will be located in the Groves gym, as the senior class present the Homecoming Regalia Ball, Premiere '69.

★ ★ ★

The movie premiere theme for the semiformal affair will be carried out with many special effects. A lighted marquee will stretch across the band, and show posters will deck the walls.

Couples will be met at the door by uniformed ticket-takers, and ushered through walkways, surrounded by velvet ropes.

One section of the gym will be reserved for the showing of "old flicks." The stars, otherwise known as the homecoming court, will be feature attractions.

★ ★ ★

In an imitation Grauman's Chinese Theater, handprints of the senior royalty will be cast in cement.

★ ★ ★

Because of a lack of Roll-Royces, the court members will be chauffered to the homecoming throne on the stage in specially rented golf carts.

BRIGHTEST STARS

The "brightest stars in the Groves' galaxy" were voted for during the past two weeks. Senior girls elected to the homecoming court were, Robin Greeson, Sharon Herrick, Jean Jacobson, Beth Oberfelder, Melinda Rex and Linda Shahan.

★ ★ ★

Boys on the court are Mark Bergeron, Jim Cameron, Larry Driver, Jon Otto, Mark Shada and Greg Wood.

★ ★ ★

Honorary members of the court Groves' three AFS students, Eduardo Colombo, Christina Janssen and Juerg Straub wil also get top billing.

The homecoming king and queen will be announced at the Regalia Ball.

COCHAIRMEN FOR DANCE

Elected to head this year's homecoming dance committee were cochairmen Sue Dickson and Doug Fraser, with Kris Clemons assisting them.

Other leaders in organization are Beth Oberfelder, chairman of the ticket committee; Robin Greeson and John Phillips, decorations; Maureen Templeton, publicity; Sue Duquette and Melinda Rex, refreshments; Sue Cannon and Mary Zabell, entertainment; Marcia Hatz, programs; Jeff Berwick and Mike Stover, lighting and special effects; and Laurie Hoover, chaperones.

★ ★ ★

Tickets for Premiere '69 are available to Groves students and alumni, and are now on sale outside the cafeteria during lunch hour for $3.

★ ★ ★

"We're planning to give everyone a movie star fanfare," stated cochairman Sue Dickson. "You know — the red carpet treatment."

Walled Lake Celebrating Its Homecoming Tonight

By JOANNE SANDERSON

Walled Lake High School tonight will celebrate one of its treasured traditions. Homecoming.

Returning alumni will see the football team at work, floats representing the student body and the new queen.

★ ★ ★

Floats will be judged by school board members. Each float will be judged on theme, originality, appearance and workmanship. The winners will be announced at halftime.

★ ★ ★

Walled Lake welcomed four exchange students this year. They are Barbara Wagner from Hamburg, Germany; Pelle Sallin from Kirna, Sweden; Erlynn Bernardez from Manilla, Philippines; and Edua Eduardo from Mexico City, Mexico.

★ ★ ★

Each student will stay for the entire school year.

Barbara is making her home with the Homer Schaffers of Orchard Lake. Pelle is staying with the Richard Smiths of Union Lake. Erlynn will spend the year with the George Spencer family of Wixom. And Edua is living with the Port Stewart family of Union Lake.

★ ★ ★

Each is required to take certain subjects such as American history and English to give them a better knowledge of the United States.

★ ★ ★

Basically, all will follow a senior schedule.

They will receive class rings of the class of '69 as gifts from the Student Council.

'Paper Window' Introduced at OLL

By CHRIS GINGRAS

The school newspaper at Our Lady of the Lakes High School is operating this year with a new moderator and new name. Advised by Robert McGowan, the staff of the "Paper Window" has set its goal at biweekly publication.

Members of the staff included Pamm Janik, editor; Chris Gingras, business manager; and Michele Harris and Ralph Berg, layouts.

★ ★ ★

Debate, moderated by William Peters, previously has been rather obscure at Lakes. But under the new leadership, the team shows an increased interest in its expanded membership. The team is now preparing for the upcoming opening of the debate season.

The future nurses club, known as the Lourdettes, is planning projects and field trips, the first of which is its bake sale to be held Nov. 1, after each Mass.

PATIENT CARE

Rather than caring for patients at Lourdes Nursing Home, the girls will be working more with them, planning arts and crafts activities.

The club, supervised by Sister Mary Richard, plans to have monthly meetings.

Bands Concert Tuesday at Novi

By THOM HOLMES

The "Parade of Bands" concert will be presented Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Novi High School commons. Featured in the concert will be the Concert Band, Symphonic Wind Ensemble and the Wildcat Marching Band.

Proceeds are earmarked for new band uniforms.

★ ★ ★

The first graduating class at NHS discovered it would be missing the fun of having a homecoming, so students decided to do something about it. In order to set the pace for future homecomings, NHS is conducting a senior queen contest this year.

Four senior girls will be chosen to determine the queen and her court. In addition, one girl from each of the other three classes has been chosen to represent the other grades in the school.

The primary election was held last Wednesday. Representatives are Sue Calhoun, freshman; Marilyn Prosh, sophomore and Barb Reska, junior.

The four senior girls nominated for queen and her court are Cathy Carr, Virginia Clift, Sue Vivian and Kathy Winner.

★ ★ ★

The final election was held this week. The queen will be announced tonight when Novi plays host to Ypsi Roosevelt. The game starts at 8 and the queen will be presented at halftime. With tonight's game, Novi is trying to achieve a 5-1 win-loss record.

A dance, in honor of the queen and hopefully a victory for the team, will immediately follow the game.

Retarded to Get a Boost at Mott

By GEORGIA ROSEWALL

The Michigan Association for Retarded Children (MARC) convention held last June at Albion College sparked the interest of several Waterford Mott students.

Nancy Stepheson, Connie Crawford, Jim Durnbaugh and Tom Burgess attended the session to discuss ways to start a local youth chapter.

★ ★ ★

Swimming lessons for retarded children was first on the agenda.

Volunteers from Mott and Kettering gave an hour of their time every Friday to swimming instructions for elementary school-age retarded children.

VOLUNTEER SUPERVISION

Every volunteer supervised one child while awaiting that child's lesson.

Lasting for five weeks, the program was held at the YMCA in Pontiac.

★ ★ ★

The local adult group, Waterford Organization for Retarded Children (WORC), will present an assembly Nov. 1 at Mott.

As the new Waterford Mott Building will have facilities for all high school age retarded students, it is hoped that this group will promote a better relationship.

Future plans for interested students include taking retarded children to a musical, the national convention and a bake sale.

★ ★ ★

Volunteers from Mott will take approximately 50 retarded children to a musical sponsored by the Leukemia Foundation.

The event will take place Nov. 2 at Lincoln Junior High School.

BAKE SALE

A bake sale to raise money for a Shelter Workshop will be held on election day, Nov. 5.

Sponsored by WORC, the sale will take place at Cherokee Hills, Leggett, and Sandburg elementary schools.

★ ★ ★

WMH students will donate bake goods for the sale.

Students interested in Youth MARC will attend the national convention to see what teen-agers all over the United States are doing to help retarded children.

The convention will take place Nov. 23-27 in Detroit.

Under the guidance of Mrs. Robert McClendon, a Waterford Mott chapter is expected to be organized.

At homecoming festivities last Friday, Susan Marsh was elected queen.

★ ★ ★

The senior class took first place in the float competition with its Davey Crocket theme. The sophomore class came in second with Cinderella and the juniors third with Peter Pan.

The winners were chosen by judges from Lake Orion.

★ ★ ★

Last Thursday, Avondale had to return Troy's mascot which is a life-size colt's head. Troy lost its colt when Avondale won a cheering competition during halftime of the Avondale-Troy game.

Stevenson Band Theme

Global Half Time

By GAIL NELSON

Stevenson High School's marching band provided halftime entertainment with a many-country theme at the game Friday night.

The band, directed by Norman Soboleswski, played "Cathedral Chimes" as it marched into a bagpipe formation. In formation, they played "Scottish Variation."

★ ★ ★

Then, as the 80 members formed a "chuck-coo" clock, it played "Zourund Krout Four-Effer," and "German Variation."

"Sa-Ku-Ra" was played while moving into block formation. As the band played "Japanese Variation," they did a Japanese dance with drum majors, majorettes and band members bowing to each other Japanese style.

Russia was represented by the "Volga Boatman" with a Russian boatman formed when it led into "Russian Variation."

As the highlight of the presentation a champagne glass was formed and "Auld Lang Syne" was played.

★ ★ ★

The majorettes, Claudia Bryant, Gari Hotton, Pat Stanek, and Linda Yonkus, ran through the formation and each released a cluster of helium balloons at the tip of the "glass" to represent bubbles.

★ ★ ★

Drum major Max Mattison is the author of the Titan fight song. The words, sung to the tune of "Mr. Touchdown" were presented at a pep assembly previous to the game Friday.

BATTLE OF BANDS

The combined Stevenson-Utica Teen-Club sponsored a battle of the bands held at Stevenson.

Stevenson's "Fluid", which consists of Don Rowan, lead guitarist, Alan Wentz, bass guitarist, and Chris White, drummer, defeated Uticas "Rat."

★ ★ ★

Earlier this year, The Fluid placed first out of 140 bands in the blues division of the 1968 Michigan State Fair competition. The band received $125 as its prize.

The Ambassador, Stevenson's yearbook, will be on sale at $5 until Oct. 31. Seniors can have their names engraved in gold on the cover for 50 cents extra.

CHEER PRIZES

To increase school spirit, Pep Club is purchasing a large teddy bear who will "bear" a ribbon to represent the class which wins the competition cheer at each pep assembly.

The class represented by the most ribbons at the end of the year will receive a plaque.

Northern King, Queen Crowned

By LARRY HELTSLEY

Last Friday's pep assembly was climaxed by the crowning of Tom Pardee and Terry Kay as king and queen of Pontiac Northern. Their coronation kicked off the homecoming activities.

John Tousley accepted the first-place trophy for the winning choir's float at the homecoming dance. The court was announced and were spotlighted for a special dance.

Dave Weaver and Debbie Tenjaras, responsible for the dance's success, were congratulated by the Student Council.

Profits from the dance were erased as vandals burned and destroyed the Student Council float and wagon. An estimated $200 will be taken from the council treasury to replace the burned wagon.

A mysterious spirit boosting club called the SicSix made its first appearance in the cafeteria during the lunch hours prior to the Walled Lake football game. Masked members of this group also threw footballs into the crowd at the pep assembly and lead a gym rocking cheer.

Members of the Avalanche, the PNH yearbook club are busy on the 1969 edition. Faculty pictures and other feature pictures are in the process of being taken by their photographers.

★ ★ ★

Pat Ashton, director of the PNH drama club, has chosen "You Can't Take It With You" as the first drama to be presented. "Bye Bye Birdie" directed by Tousley and Tom Marsh will be the musical presentation.

Today marks the end of the first marking period for Northern students. The past week was hectic as students hustled to turn in papers before the start of the second marking period.

Northern students will have an extended weekend when MEA teachers' conferences take place next Thursday and Friday. Many seniors plan to use this long weekend to visit prospective colleges which they desire to attend.

This year's senior officers are Pat Griffin, president, Jerry Woods, vice president, JoAnn Woodside, secretary, Larry Heltsley, treasurer, and Dale Barton, historian.

Sophomore Fun Enjoyed by All at Troy High

By LUANNE GREENSTEIN

Homecoming week was everything that Troy High School students and alumni wanted it to be.

It started with sophomore initiation, continued with the homecoming game, and was climaxed by the event of the year, the homecoming dance and choosing of the queen.

* * *

Sophomore initiation began Thursday as soon as sophomores got to school. They were to wear homemade hats and white socks, and tags identifying them as sophomores. The seniors, the only ones allowed to initiate sophomores, also wore tags.

It was not an unusual sight to see sophomores carrying seniors' books, bowing down to seniors, or singing nursery rhymes in the cafeteria. Nor did it seem odd to see sophomores kissing lockers, skipping down the halls, or proposing to seniors, teachers, or other sophomores.

FUN DAY

It was peculiar, though, to see sophomores telling a clock that they loved it. It was a fun day for both sophomores and seniors, however, some sophomores had not been looking forward to it.

Thursday night, a large bonfire was held, with cheerleaders and the pep band, for all underclassmen to throw their hats in the fire and become true members of Troy High.

* * *

Friday, all sophomores were to wear black and silver, or black and white, Troy High's School colors.

Friday night was the homecoming game against Utica, which Troy won, 45-12. The parade of floats took place during halftime, behind the theme, "History of Africa." The senior float, with the theme "Troy Sacrifices Utica" won the contest.

EVENT OF YEAR

Then the whole week was concluded by the event of the year, the homecoming dance.

Janet Lamm assumed her responsibilities as 1968 homecoming queen.

Orion Priming Homecoming in Spirit Week

By CHERYL GRITZINGER

"Homecoming at Lake Orion High School is going to be a great success this year, especially due to the enthusiasm generated by Spirit Week," commented Mike Baker, chairman of the homecoming committee.

The homecoming committee consists of the Student Council executive board: Charles Hopper, Mike Baker, Sue Rhodes, and Joanne Cudnohufsky.

* * *

In addition to the executive board, there are two council members representing each class. Jim Fields and Steve Griffin represent the seniors; Barb Bonning and Roxan Almas, juniors; Vivian Belleville and Nancy Gunnerfeldt, sophomores.

The second annual Spirit Week, sponsored by the Pep Club, takes place this week. Each day has a special designation. Monday was dress up day; Tuesday, Bermuda day; Wednesday, booster badge day; and Thursday, slacks day. Friday, green and white day, the Pep club sold badges in support of LOHS team.

SECRET THEMES

It was decided that there will be no central theme for the floats this year. Instead, each class and club will decide upon its own theme, which will be kept secret until the parade to be held tonight.

In homeroom this morning the election was held for the 1968 football homecoming Queen.

* * *

Competing for the title are Joanne Cudnohufsky, Kathy Fisher, Donna Noble and Bonnie Workman, all seniors. The election results will be announced during the halftime ceremonies tonight.

HOMECOMING DANCE

The Homecoming dance, traditionally sponsored by the Varsity "O" club, will be held after the game. Identification cards will not be required in order that alumni may attend.

Representatives from 26 Michigan colleges will be present for a College Night program at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the high school.

* * *

The program is designed to give parents and students first hand information about college admission standards, costs, applications, and scholarship programs.

Sponsoring the event is the Lake Orion High School guidance department. The program will be divided into three 40-minute segments for parent convenience.

Roman Church's Approval of Marriage Is Doubtful

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Greek Orthodoxy, the church to which shipping tycoon Aristotle Onassis belongs, would approve his planned marriage to Jacqueline Kennedy. But it was highly uncertain that her church, Roman Catholicism, would do so.

That was the mixed ecclesiastical picture today in the wake of the announcement that they intended to wed.

He was divorced in 1960, after 14 years of marriage and two children. Roman Catholic rules do not allow divorce.

Only if Onassis' earlier marriage were found to be invalid, and thereby annulled, would the Catholic rules sanction his marriage to Mrs. Kennedy in that church.

Catholic authorities here saw slim chances for such a determination, and in Rome, a Vatican theologian said, "It would not be a valid marriage in the eyes of the church."

But the door was open to their marriage in the Greek Orthodox Church of North and South America, whose marital court in 1961 granted approval of Onassis' divorce.

"As far as we're concerned, a second marriage can be contracted in the Orthodox Church," said the Rev. Constantine Eliades, an Orthodox matrimonial expert here.

Orthodoxy in this country authorizes divorce on various grounds, such as adultery or prolonged desertion or imprisonment, or threats against the life of a partner in the marriage.

The basis cited in the Onassis case was not disclosed.

CATHOLIC

Roman Catholic rules allowing annulment are considerably more restrictive, the chief conditions being mental illness at the time of marriage, or fraud by not really intending to enter a permanent, faithful marriage and to rear children.

Whether such factors could be established in the Onassis case was regarded doubtful.

* * *

To gain an annulment is usually a long, intricate process, requiring court hearings, evidence and witnesses. A case can be started in any diocese, however, and carried all the way to the Roman Rota in the Vatican.

There have been some indications recently, under the impact of the Second Vatican Council and the ecumenical movement, that Roman Catholic rules may be eased somewhat—at least, many theologians have urged it.

Onassis and his first wife, Tina, were married in 1946 under Greek Orthodox auspices. Roman Catholicism regards as valid marriages of non-Catholics outside the Catholic Church, such as between Protestants or Orthodox unless one of the impediments is found making it void.

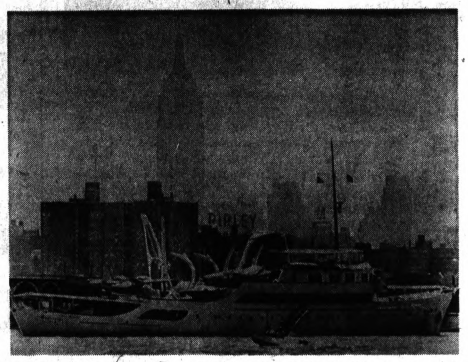
The wedding of Aristotle Onassis, Greek shipping magnate, and Jacqueline Kennedy, wife of the late president, will take place within the next week. Following the announcement, confirmed by Mrs. Kennedy's mother, Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, Mrs. Kennedy departed from New York to Onassis' private island, Scorpios, where they will reportedly be married.



This is the Christina, 325-foot yacht of Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis, whom Jacqueline Kennedy plans to marry, probably next week.

Lincoln Center Is Showcase for Modes of 'Now' Group

BY JANET ODELL
Women's Editor, The Pontiac Press

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Mrs. Odell is attending a seminar for Women's Editors at Columbia University.)

New York City . . . We went to see the lighted fountains at Lincoln Center and ended up watching a fashion panorama of the "Now" generation. Aretha Franklin was singing at Philharmonic Hall and the audience was mostly a young one, although there was a fair sprinkling of middleaged and older couples.

* * *

While we didn't see any bare feet, we did spot a number of boys and girls (and some whose sex we were a bit mystified) in blue jeans.

The pants suit has taken over in an infinite variety of materials. Some of the tweedy ones with the new chunky shoes were rather attractive; but the ones that look like lounging pajamas are not to my liking. One of the most striking, in black velvet, was worn by a beautiful tall young woman. Her full-sleeved blouse was white satin and she completed her ensemble with drop pearl earrings as big as proverbial pigeon's eggs.

Other styles included a gray knit tunic and matching bell bottom trousers; a tight-fitting gold and white striped knit with which the wearer wore gold spike heel shoes; a deep turquoise ensemble with pants so full that you had to look twice to see it was not a skirt; and one very short pants suit with the pants above the knees.

As for the men, they are returning to the Edwardian days when men were dandies. Shantung suits in turquoise, deep copper or gold stood out among the more conservative colors.

Ascots were commonplace. Some of the coats are long and flared at the bottom. Many men wore brightly colored shirts that contrasted with their suits with a third bright color in the tie.

The Nehru style had its wearers. Turtlenecks were a dime a dozen with one of the more spectacular, a white satin model with silver trim.

* * *

For the most part, it was a hatless crowd. However, we saw turbans, headbands, fancy evening hats and a number of those big floppy-brim models on both men and women.

Some of the males came in serapes; others wore vests of llama fur. A few wore sweaters. But the one who made us do a double take was the fellow in a mink coat.

The most dramatic in women's coats were a chinchilla and a full cape of white feathers.

Perhaps the one who will stay in my mind longest is the rather chunky girl in a black satin miniskirt and high, black, laced boots. Her hair was obviously a wig; it was an enormous platinum fall. But that was ignored when your gaze went above her waist, for it was apparent that there was nothing at all beneath the long sleeved blouse the neckline of which plunged way down to there and beyond.

And the fountains we went to see? Oh, they have been drained for the winter and covered with canvas.

Dance for New Members

New members — 37 of them, so far — will be feted at a dinner dance at the Village Woman's Club. Hosting the event will be the membership committee with their husbands, headed by chairman, Mrs. William Hamilton of Bloomfield Hills.

Wednesday, the VWC put on a fashion show — "Autumn Fantasy" — following luncheon. The clothes were supplied by Bloomfield Fashion Shop, but the modeling talents were strictly homegrown, members Mrs. George F. Breech Jr., Mrs. Paul E. McDonald, Mrs. Russell Strickland, and Mrs. James M. Taylor Jr., doing the honors.

Mrs. Donald Durnabeck was the chairman.

* * *

Hostesses were Mrs. Roderick A. Campbell, Mrs. Neil K. Barber, and Mrs. Robert B. Pokorny.

The Graham John Grahams are throwing a "welcome back" dinner party for Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Wellock, who have been in Europe for a few weeks.

* * *

A red — and gold, and orange, and russet — carpet is awaiting Cranbrook School alums who return to the campus Saturday for the annual homecoming. With the fall colors, there will be a football game, a soccer match, cider and donuts and, after the game, a tea in the gym.

Doesn't it come as a jolt to realize that next Friday — a mere week away, mind you — is the night of Bloomfield Open Hunt's Halloween party?

If Halloween comes, can Christmas shopping be far behind?

BOH will drag out and dust off the steaming cauldron, filling it to the brim with witches' brew; the guests will be in costume.

Fred Matthaei Jr., who of all people might be expected to be in Mexico City right now, front and center at the Olympics, is not. He's home campaigning, these last key weeks, for reelection to the University of Michigan Board of Regents.

Clark House Tour Set by Historical Group

On Wednesday afternoon the historic Clark House, on North Main Street in Clarkston, will be opened by its present owners, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Gardner, to the members of the Oakland County Pioneer and Historical Society.

The house is an outstanding example of Michigan Greek Revival architecture which enjoyed great popularity among the master builders of early Oakland County.

In this 1830s example, an impressive two-story columned portico was successfully attempted, producing a home of taste and culture in a still rough frontier.

Perennially pregnant "Edith," (left) and the gruesome gossip, "Sylvia," share a luscious morsel between hands of a bridge game during the first scene of "The Women," presented last night at Avon Playhouse, Rochester. In real life, Edith is Mrs. Robert E. (Pat) Puchalla of Canyon Drive, Oakland Township. Sylvia is played by Mrs. Richard (Judi) Womack of Denby Drive. The box office at 100 E. University Drive is open Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 10-12 noon and 3-5 p.m. Mail orders should be sent to Avon Players, P.O. Box 332, Rochester. Repeat performances are scheduled tonight, Saturday and Sunday and again on Oct. 24, 25 and 26.

Abby Says:

'People Need People'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: If I live to be 100, I'll never be able to understand why a man says he can't stand to stay home and look at the four walls, yet he can go to a neighborhood bar and sit there for hours on end. How about the four walls there?

ABBY

We are both 56 and have a good marriage, except for this one difference of opinion which seems to give us cause for argument. I'm not a drinking woman, but if I were, I'd just as soon stay home and drink by myself. Why should I go to a bar and buy drinks for other people? I don't care for friends that much. They are a lot of trouble and expense. My husband's not a drunkard, but he likes to sit in bars. Why?

Maybe you or one of your readers can give me an answer.

LIZ

DEAR LIZ: The "difference of opinion" that seems to give you cause for argument is that you don't care for friends and your husband does. The reason the neighborhood bar is so popular is that people need people.

I say moderation is essential to the enjoyment of everything, but the man who drinks alone could be a bigger problem than the one who seeks companionship.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: The problem that concerns me right now is the bugging some of my buddies are giving me because of your being my "pin up girl." Yes, that is right, Abby, I cut your picture out of the Stars and Stripes, which all the guys here in South Vietnam get, and I pinned your picture up on my wall locker.

I don't care what the guys think. Every guy has himself a pin up girl he likes to dream about, and mine is YOU. The thing that bugs me the most is that people say that the picture isn't really you, Abby. They say the newspapers get a picture of a beautiful girl and they say it's you.

So, please, do me a favor and send me a picture of yourself. It doesn't have to be in a bathing suit like all the other guys have in their lockers. Just a plain picture of your face so I can really show you off.

YOUR SECRET ADMIRER

* * *

DEAR ADMIRER: Your letter made my day. I like secret admirers, but you're TOO secret for your own good. Please send me your name and address and I'll send you my picture.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I haven't had a well day in three years. First I had trouble with my back and was in traction for five weeks. Then I got a sinus infection which gave me a headache I couldn't shake for a month. Next I got a bad case of the shingles which hung on for nearly three months.

* * *

All of a sudden my hearing went bad and my doctor discovered I had high blood pressure and diabetes.

I was telling my neighbor about this and she says I should throw away all my pills, think positive, and stay with wheat germ and yogurt, and in 30 days I'll be bowling. (She is 58) looks like 40, bowls three nights a week. I'm 55, and look like 90.) Should I listen to my neighbor? I'm willing to try anything.

A SICK WOMAN

DEAR SICK: I'm all for "positive thinking," but the best place to get medical advice is from your doctor.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NOT SURE AND SCARED TO DEATH:" Tell your parents immediately. No matter what you think, they will not "kill" you. In time of trouble your parents are your best friends. PLEASE believe me. They will help you!

Parents of a baby daughter are the Douglas Meads (nee Judy Ann Haroutunian) of Ely, Minn.

Laressa Araxie, who arrived Sept. 18, is the granddaughter of the Louis Haroutunians of Douglas Drive, Bloomfield Township and the James Meads of Mount Pleasant.

Belgian and Irish linen tablecloths now come in durable press with a special dirt-release finish. A boon on ironing day.

Trying for that winning hold is Mrs. Harold H. Wood, left, trophy chairman, as shown by Mrs. David H. Warrilow, who received the Niblick Traveling Golf Trophy for the second consecutive year at the club's luncheon this week. Mrs. Wood of Hummingbird Lane, Independence Township and her helpful instructor of Dick Street, gathered with members at Morey's Golf and Country Club for the annual affair.

Mrs. Savage Visits Children

Mrs. H. H. Savage, now of Muskegon, whose husband was pastor of First Baptist Church for nearly 40 years, left this week for San Cristobal Venezuela, for an extended visit with her son and daughter-in-law, Rev. and Mrs. James Savage and their children.

The family group will later join another son and daughter and their families, Rev. and Mrs. Robert Savage and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Broach, in Quito, Ecuador for the Christmas holidays.

The rugged leather look for fall is being softened in some fashions with the addition of fur trim in back to school styles. Fox, Persian lamb and chinchilla are the furs most often teamed up with hides.

'Conversation Series' Set Oct. 30 at U. of M. Center

The second part of a "conversations" series, offering women who are resuming their education a chance to discuss the challenges and other aspects of academic reentry with other adults, is scheduled Oct. 30 from noon to 2 p.m. at the University of Michigan Center for Continuing Education for Women.

Interested women may share their experiences and observations about the problems of combining student and family interests and adapting to University procedures and complexities.

Among other events scheduled at the Center are:

• A library orientation tour, to acquaint new students with University libraries and facilities and the best way to use these resources. Details, and a date for the tour, will be announced soon.

• A reading improvement course, to be conducted in six sessions, for women who wish to improve their reading skills and study techniques. Registration, limited to 20, is open to women who are enrolled at the University or who expect to be enrolled next term. The course will be given at the U-M Reading Improvement Service and will begin Oct. 31 at 7:30 p.m. Time of the remaining one-hour sessions may be adjusted. A fee is payable at the first session. Interested students should contact the center about registration.

CENTER

The center will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday for students who wish to drop in for meetings, consultation, or help in academic planning. The center also offers a library of materials on career planning and vocational opportunities for women, plus college catalogues and other information.

CAREERS

The Center has also recently published a paperback book, "New Careers in Community Service." The book presents the major talks and panel discussions of the Center's March 1968 conference which focused on careers of the future for mature, college-trained students.

This year the Center has established a financial aid fund to provide small grants and to help meet emergencies. The staff plans to seek annual contributions to continue and augment this fund.

Jobless Level Halved in State

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan's unemployment level was reported today to have been cut almost in half in September as compared with August.

"The recall of laid-off factory workers to their jobs accounted for most of the reduction," said Malcolm Lovell Jr., director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

Lovell said the ranks of the jobless in the state reduced to 119,000 in September from 231,000 in August. This was a drop from 6.7 per cent to 3.5 per cent.

"The decline was equally as sharp in the Detroit metropolitan area, which witnessed a 52,000 decrease in its unemployment total from 109,000 a month ago to 57,000 in September," Lovell added.

★ ★ ★

He said the recall of workers laid off for the changeover from production of 1968 cars to 1969 models dominated the large increase in employment.

Man Charged in Fire Deaths Found Guilty

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A 27-year-old man charged in a fire bombing that resulted in the deaths of eight persons has been sentenced to die in the electric chair.

A jury found Freddie McKenzie guilty after 45 minutes deliberation Thursday night and deliberated another hour and 10 minutes before sentencing him to death.

★ ★ ★

McKenzie, an employe of a concrete company, was charged with murder in the death of one of the victims, Willie C. Davis. Seven other persons died May 5 in the fire at the night club called "The Grave."

The prosecution charged that McKenzie threw a bucket of gasoline through the club's front door and tossed in a match.

★ ★ ★

Defense attorneys presented no witnesses, but objected to the state's introduction of a statement police said McKenzie signed in connection with the crime.

Bomb Rips Florida Shops

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A bomb blast today caused what police described as "extensive damage" to six Miami Beach businesses, including an Air Canada ticket office.

There were no injuries, police said.

★ ★ ★

Police said the blast damaged the Air Canada office, three clothing stores, a stockbroker's office and a small hotel. They were not immediately able to determine in which business the explosion occurred.

No evidence was found to connect the bombing with Cuban exile terrorist groups, police said. However, 28 previous bombings this year have been traced to anti-Castro groups.

Negro 'Guilty' in Killing

JACKSON (AP) — A Negro youth, who acted as his own attorney, was convicted of first degree murder Thursday in the slaying of an elderly Jackson jeweler last August.

A Jackson County Circuit Court jury of nine men and three women took two hours to return a verdict against Roy E. Faulkner, Jr., 20, of Jackson.

★ ★ ★

Some 30 Negroes were among the 50 spectators in the courtroom to hear the verdict and several of the Negro women sobbed.

Faulkner said in a loud voice after the verdict, "I shall return. . . . it is the will of Allah."

Some of the Negroes, "You said it, baby" and "Never had a chance. . . us blacks never had a chance."

Prosecution witnesses said Faulkner was walking down an alley with a girl companion last Aug. 20 when he saw Ernest Rothoehler, the jeweler, coming out of a garage.

They said Faulkner stated he was going to kill the man and that he approached him, with a gunshot being heard moments later.

Faulkner acted as his own attorney after rejecting the services of a court appointed attorney.

On the insistence of Circuit Judge Gordon Britten, the lawyer—Guy E. Christiam—sat by Faulkner's side during the trial and the defendant consulted him several times.

The conviction carries a mandatory life imprisonment.

'Learning' Link to Man Is Goal

1-Cell Animals 'Taught'

EAST LANSING (AP) — A Michigan State University professor is trying to "teach" one-celled animals in hopes of one day determining how man learns.

"Single-celled animals responding to the same variety of stimuli we do," says Dr. Edward Eisenstein, associate professor of biophysics. "They respond to light, chemical changes, temperature and others."

★ ★ ★

So Eisenstein is studying the tiny protezoa—some up to ¾ of a millimeter long—to prove, he hopes, that they can learn to avoid sources of electric shock, to approach certain points to be fed, to realize that the presence of light means they will be shocked or fed.

"Once we find they can learn," he says, "we can try to determine what happens molecularly when they do learn. We're looking for the physical chemical changes that presumably encode what has been learned."

CHEMICAL CHANGES

Hopefully, Eisenstein says, the chemical changes of learning in the one-celled animal will be similar to the chemical changes of learning in man.

★ ★ ★

He picked the protezoa because of its simplicity of make-up—only one cell to be concerned with. "It's not a complex organism like man," Eisenstein explains.

Before beginning study of the protezoa, Eisenstein worked on cockroaches, again trying to find out what happens at the cellular level when the creature learned.

★ ★ ★

"We picked the cockroach because it is a sturdy animal," he says. "But it turned out to be too complex—too many cells in the nervous system. And the cockroach is simple when compared to humans."

COLLECTION OF CELLS

A single cockroach ganglion—collection of nerve cells—includes "a few hundred cells," he says. A human, on the other hand, has 10-1,000 billion cells.

"We hope what we learn from the protezoa will have direct bearing on the learning processes in man," Eisenstein says.

★ ★ ★

It may have numerous medical applications, he adds.

"If we know the encoding process in the cells—what chemical changes take place in learning—we may know something about mental retardation."

Eisenstein explains that study of cells in a mentally retarded individual's brain could uncover malformed molecules or chemical changes different from those in a normal person's brain.

The scientist talks too of growth of knowledge. "It's impossible for any man to learn everything," he says. "If we know more about the learning process, though, we might create individuals with higher learning capacities."

Spock Generation, Doctor, His Books, ALL Defended by Wife

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — When they're especially disgusted with today's youth, disapproving adults sometimes call it "the Spock generation."

Thus, with one sweeipng indictment, they lay of what they consider young people's shortcomings at the doorstep of the genial baby doctor whose child care manual has been nearly as indispensable as diaper pins to millions of mothers.

★ ★ ★

Permissiveness, complained the disgrunteld older generation, was the root of the trouble.

The 65-year-old Dr. Spock, who has often been called the nation's unofficial godfather, sees no point in discussing the matter.

STAUNCH DEFENDER

But like many another devoted wife who feels deeply attacks on her husband, Jane Cheney Spock is always ready in his defense.

In her soft, husky, whispery voice she says: "We're not mad. We don't worry about it. The kids today wear terrible clothes and grow beards, but they are fine, principled, idealistic people — the hope of the world."

★ ★ ★

Over Dr. Spock's alleged permissiveness she grows more hearted:

"Ben is not permissive. He believes in discipline. Lots of mothers interpreted his book as more permissive than he intended. When he discovered this he revised his last two books and put in a great deal more about the rights of mothers to lead their own lives, not to have their children brattish and walking all over them."

DON'T BLAME HIM'

When Dr. Spock was writing his book "Baby and Child Care" in the early 1940s, she says, "there was a great movement toward permissiveness which had nothing to do with Ben, but with the interpreting of Freud that was going on."

In fact, she adds, "he has become more strict about toilet training. He's more stern now as a result of seeing effects, and so are lots of child psychologists. Youngsters are lost in life if they've had no earlier training.

★ ★ ★

"We both feel that children should be disciplined and taught to be neat and clean."

She just smiles and pushes back her shoulder-length gray hair at the speculation that it might have been a mite unsettling for her, as she marched in peace parades alongside her husband, to have been surrounded by shaggy, unkept youths she possibly longed to take home and scrub.

In the newest edition of his manual Dr. Spock bears down, as he has not in previous editions, on how the preference for cleanliness that a child gains at 1½ or 2 years lays "the foundation for his lifetime preference for unsticky hands, for clean clothes, for a neat home, for an orderly way of doing business . . ."

By now, the book has sold 21 million copies and has been translated into 15 languages.

★ ★ ★

At 61, a time when most wives begin to look forward to a peaceful, relaxed retirement, Jane Spock has found herself involved in some rather remarkable activities but after 41 years of marriage she sees only one thing to do:

"Well, I'm just back of him and don't object to many things he wants to do and make life as comfortable for him as possible. My role." She laughs and adds, "Regular woman's role."

EGG HURLER

She was by his side during a peace march in Washington when a young man, perhaps a "Spock baby" himself, hurled an egg into the physician's craggy, good-natured face and cried "Traitor:"

Mrs. Spock says: "I wasn't a bit bothered by this. I helped wipe the egg off his head and suit and was thankful it wasn't a bullet.

★ ★ ★

In the summer of 1967 Dr. Spock retired as professor of child development at Western Reserve Medical School in Cleveland, Ohio. He and Mrs. Spock moved to New York City and rented a small apartment to carry on his peace work. Part of the time they spent in the Virgin Islands on the boat they hope to make their retirement home.

Then came the trial this summer in Boston at which Dr. Spock was convicted of conspiring to help young men evade the draft laws. Mrs. Spock sat daily in the court with the wives of the four other defendants. She recalls it as a "very interesting experience. I got to know a lot about law. I was never bored at all."

TRIAL TIME WASTE?

Some feel the trial was a waste of time, she says: "Neither Ben nor I feels that. It was a shot in the arm for the peace movement. It focused a lot of attention on what they stood for. That was the most important thing to come out of the trial. His conviction was expected. He hopes to be reprieved in the court of appeals in December."

Meantime Dr. Spock will be finishing two books, "The Meaning of Life and Love for Teenagers" and "Belief in Man," barnstorming small colleges in California to talk of peace and campaigning for peace candidates for Congress.

During the trial the Spocks saw much of their two sons: Michael, 36, director of the Children's Museum in Boston, and John, 23, at Harvard's architectural school.

Michael is the father of three children, Danny 9, Peter 7 and Susannah 9 months. About them their grandmother says:

"They were being brought up a little more permissively than Ben and I would have really wanted. But this is no longer true. Mike and my daughter-in-law Judy are much firmer now.

DIFFERENT METHODS

As to the raising of her own two children Mrs. Spock says.

"Mike was brought up in the old-fashioned way (Ben was just an intern) fed every four hours, cried an hour before feeding and all that, without any of the things that Ben knows and believes in now, and therefore he had a much harder time in late adolescence. John came 11 years later and was brought up with all of Ben's beliefs — fed with he was hungry and such — and therefore it was much easier, for me and for him.

"Our children were always put to bed by 6:30 p.m., and they had to stay in bed until 7 in the morning. There was none of this getting up early and crawling around and waking their parents up the way children do now. They had certain limits they had to live within, and Ben believes in this. Now many children are given far too much freedom in many areas, far too much.

★ ★ ★

"People think Ben doesn't believe in discipline, but for years he gave a whole lecture on this. When our own son Michael gave an interview I was interested to hear him say that 34 years ago he knew absolutely what the limits of his activities would be. He wasn't punished, he said, he wasn't spanked or slapped around. He didn't need to be. He understood that there were certain things he could do and things he could not do and that's the way life was, and he obeyed this.

"Lots of people are so insecure now, mothers in particular, about what they feel they can demand of their children, and they don't set limits of activity for them. This you can perfectly well do in the beginning, and you don't have to punish children.

"But if for some reason, it's a big family, it's hectic and the children need punishing, Ben believes in punishment. Not punishment that's brutal or nerve-wracking. But it's much better to give them a wallop than to let a situation go on and on and both of you feeling badly about it and the child feeling guilty."

Introducing the 1969 Volkswagens.
They're harder to take than ever.

Once upon a time, you couldn't give away a Volkswagen.

But with all the improvements we've made over the years, things have changed.

Now people actually steal them.

To help stop this, we're putting a new ignition/steering wheel lock in every 1969 VW.

When you shut off the ignition and remove the key, it locks the front wheels in position.

So if someone ever breaks in and jumps the wires, he'll probably wind up just going in circles.

He may even end up going straight.

Of course, this isn't our only improvement for '69.

There are 28 others.

Including an optional fully-automatic transmission for the Fastback and Squareback.

(The bug and Ghia have our optional automatic stick shift. Which we introduced earlier this year.)

Whichever VW suits you best, the best way to see all its changes is with a test drive.

Because, as usual, most of our improvements aren't on the outside where you can look at them.

They're deep down inside.

Where they make new VWs run better.

And where they don't make old VWs look obsolete.

Knuckle-Cracker? Flat on Top? He May Settle Claim Easily

WASHINGTON (UPI)—When the auto insurance claims adjuster comes to call, he may mark you down as a knuckle-cracking, lip-smacking man who talks like a girl.

Or he may report that you have "hair in nostrils," your head is "flat on top" and you click your teeth.

Why does he collect this type of information? Some insurance companies claim they need it to decide whether to take a case to court or make a quick settlement.

Strategy on how to settle an auto insurance claim was collected by investigators for the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee which is expected to reopen its hearings on the multimillion-dollar auto insurance industry when the new Congress opens in January.

Some of the firms, in their written instructions to adjusters, outlined somewhat complicated procedures, while others recommended a straightforward approach.

The committee file showed that Allstate Insurance Co., Skokie, Ill., gives its adjusters a guide for reporting on a "claimant, insured or witness" that includes items like whether his "eyes are cocked"; if he likes to scratch himself, or indulges in "excessive spitting or slavering"; how he laughs—loudly, or quietly; whether he hangs around "5-and-10 cent stores," or if his lips are "red, pale or blue."

Settling the claim itself involves a different set of rules for some companies.

The Ohio Casualty Group, Hamilton, Ohio, put it this way:

"Claimants who can be isolated from helpful friends and relatives at settlement time are not only more susceptible to settlement, but are somewhat less difficult to deal with." TARGET

This company said the claimant's lawyer also can be a target for special handling. The best time to get a settlement from him may be when he "has just lost a big case" and his morale is low. Or if "he is starting a new fiscal year and hasn't reached an upper tax bracket."

Boxers Take Opposite Ways to Games

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

MEXICO CITY — Two boxers from Detroit went opposite ways to reach the Olympics. One had the Olympics as his goal, the other didn't want anything to do with boxing.

★ ★ ★

Now they are trying to bring the United States a medal to prove that American boxing is still the best in the world.

U.S. boxing coach Pappy Gault of Washington, D.C., a veteran in the ring world, is sure that John Baldwin, a 156-pound light middleweight, will win a medal for the U.S. For Baldwin, the U.S. Olympic team has been a goal since he first put on a pair of gloves in 1964 at the age of 14.

Al Jones, a middleweight who has won his first bout in the Olympics, and is optimistic enough to think he can win a gold medal, really didn't want to enter the boxing game and isn't planning a career of it.

Ironically, Jones didn't make the team as result of any AAU trials in Detroit, and just as ironical he had to defeat the Michigan AAU champ in his class, as a representative of Boston to make the Olympic team.

★ ★ ★

"I was in the army stationed around Boston," said Jones "and when I came home and wanted to tryout for the Olympic trials through the AAU they told me I wasn't eligible. "So I was ready to forget about it, but my trainer Eli Leggett insisted I try out and aim for the Olympics.

"So I decided to go back to Boston and go through the trials there."

★ ★ ★

When he qualified for the U.S. team he defeated Tom Hannah the Michigan representative to do it. Jones got into boxing because of anger one day.

★ ★ ★

"I was at the recreation center in Detroit and during some golden gloves practice I watched one boxer taking a pounding. It got me mad so I went into the ring and flattened the other guy."

After that the trainer at the rec center did everything he could to persuade Jones to stay with the ring.

AVOIDED TRAINING

"I used to come home from school and try to avoid the place because I knew he would be waiting and would talk to me about coming out for boxing," said Jones. Twice I quit because after my father died I had to work to support my mother and sisters, 'but here I am still at it, because Eli thought I had some potential," added Jones.

★ ★ ★

Jones defeated a Peruvian in his first Olympic fight and now that he's in Mexico City, he said, "It's a privilege to represent my country and the gold medal is what I'm after." He attended Eastern Michigan for a year and DIT for a semester.

★ ★ ★

"That's the decision I have to make, stay in boxing or finish my education. Another problem is to be fair to my mother and family. They never had much and being here doesn't help them. After a "gold medal" I will have a lot of thinking to do."

★ ★ ★

Baldwin, a southpaw from Southeastern High School, is confident he can win because of his speed and the fact that as a southpaw he is able to fool his opponents with his right hand.

★ ★ ★

Coach Gault is convinced that if any U.S. medals are won, Baldwin can do it. Baldwin is only 19 and he goes into his Olympic bid with a 37-2 record since he started in golden gloves as junior novice in 1966.

FOLLOWS RULES

Coach Gault, who believes that Detroit has produced many outstanding boxers, believes that Baldwin can win because he follows the rules of international boxing closely.

★ ★ ★

"You don't dance, you don't fall back, you have to press to win. The judges in the Olympics watch this very closely," said Gault. "I think John is able to do this and win."

★ ★ ★

"I am sure that when the Olympics are over Michigan boxing fans will be proud of these boys. One thing they must remember in Michigan is that the boys they fight are chosen because they are the best in their own countries."

★ ★ ★

"For me this is the biggest thrill of my life," said Baldwin. "This has been my goal and now that I've reached it I'm going to try to win it." By Tuesday when all finals matches will be held, both fighters should know what their chances are.

TWIN CHAMPIONS — Farmington's cross country aces Gary and Larry Williams sprint toward the finish line yesterday for an identical 10:42 timing that tied them for first place and led the Falcons to the Inter-Lakes League title on the Highland Lakes campus course of Oakland Community College. Third-place Steve Moffatt of Waterford trailed the twins by 14 seconds. (Story on Page C-3).

Gold Rush on as Swimmers Score for U.S.

MEXICO CITY — Bring out the safety deposit box, the gold rush by American swimmers has started.

Only two swimming events had their finals last night and the U.S took the gold medals in both in world and Olympic record times.

★ ★ ★

The U.S. girls medley relay team, with Kaye Hall, Catie Ball, Ellie Daniel and Sue Pedersen hit the finish line in 4.28.3.

The men's free style relay team also broke all records with a 3.31.7 clocking with Zachary Zorn, Steve Ryrich, Mark Spitz and former Michigan Stater Ken Walsh as the team.

★ ★ ★

Miss Hall, a 17-year-old high school girl from Tacoma, gave the U.S. a big lead in the opening backstroke portion of the medley as she came in with a 1.07.8 time.

CLOSED GAP

The Australian team with Judy Playfair in the breastroke closed the gap on Miss Ball who was timed in composite 2.24.1 to 2.24.4 for Miss Playfair.

"I looked to my side and was shocked to see her coming up," said Miss Ball, who is 15.

"So I gave it everything I had."

★ ★ ★

Miss Daniel picked up the ground with 1.04.8 in her butterfly leg compared to 1.05 for the Aussie Lyn McClements before Miss Pedersen raced in for the finish.

Along with the finals of the women's 3-meter springboard tonight, will be the semifinals of the men's and women's 100 meter breaststroke and freestyle.

★ ★ ★

In the men's freestyle, the United States led all the way to score by more than four lengths over Russia with Australia third. The 3:31.7 time eclipsed the world mark of 3:32.5 and the Olympic record of 3:33.2 racked up by other USA teams.

TIES RECORD

Zorn set the pace by tying teammate Don Schollander's Olympic record of 53.4 for the 100 and then Ryrich,, Spitz and Walsh took it from there.

★ ★ ★

One Olympic mark was surpassed by a leadoff swimmer on a relay team. Canada's Elaine Tanner was clocked in 1:07.6 one-tenth of a second faster than the Olympic mark, in a morning heat of the medley relay but the Canadians failed to qualify for the eight-team final.

Women's 3-meter springboard standings after five obligatory dives and two free choices: 1, Micky King, Pontiac, Mich., 96.17 points. 2, Pogozeva, Russia, 91.30. 3, Gossick, Tarzana, Calif., 87.32. 4, O'Sullivan, Honolulu, 85.39. 5, Milena, Czechoslovakia, 91.57. 6, Kramer, East Germany, 90.34. 7, Anokhina, Russia, 90.35. 8, Baklanova, Russia, 88.89. 9, Wieruiuk, Poland, 87.42. 10, Boys, Canada, 86.86. 11, Hilbert, West Germany, 86.83. 12, Rowlatt, Britain, 83.12.
First 12 finishers advance to final.
13, Robertson, Canada, 82.14. 14, Lillestrom, Finland, 81.80. 15, Bradshaw, Australia, 81.66. 16, Kuiter, Holland, 80.93. 17, Baraldi, Mexico, 80.47. 18, Dommers, Holland, 79.22. 19, Prtimayr, Austria, 79.08. 20, Pietkiewicz, Poland, 76.45. 21, Park, Korea, 73.57. 22, Manzano, Colombia, 63.12. 23, Ohsaki, Japan, did not finish.

BACKWARD APPROACH — Californian Sue Gossick uses a back dive to increase her point total Thursday during the qualifying in the women's three-meter springboard competition at the Mexico City Olympic Games. The 20-year-old currently is third behind Pontiac's Micki King, the U.S. Air Force lieutenant, and Russian Tamara Pogozeva with three dives remaining in tonight's finals. They are separated by less than one point.

Two Sprinters Suspended in Clenched-Fist Case

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The U.S. Olympic Committee suspended star Negro sprinters Tommie Smith and John Carlos from the U.S. Olympic team today for "untypical exhibitionism" during an Olympic victory ceremony Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

The decision followed a complaint by the International Olympic Committee regarding the conduct of Smith when he received the gold medal for winning the 200-meter event and Carlos when he was presented the bronze medal for finishing third in the 200-meter finals Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

Both Smith and Carlos raised clenched fists clothed in black gloves during the playing of the Star Spangled Banner and also wore black knee socks without shoes during the presentation ceremony.

★ ★ ★

They also wore identical buttons on their team uniforms citing demands for racial equality.

★ ★ ★

Two members of the U.S. Olympic Committee's board of consultants, John Sayre, a rower in the 1960 Olympics, and Billy Mills, the 10,000-meter winner in 1964, went to the Olympic Village after midnight to notify Smith and Carlos to leave.

STATEMENT

The statement from the U.S. Olympic Committee said that any repetition of "such incidents by other members of the U.S. team can only be considered a willful disregard of Olympic principles that would warrant the imposition of the severest penalties at the disposal of the U.S. Olympic Committee."

★ ★ ★

The statement expressed "profound regrets" to the IOC, the Mexican Organizing Committee and to the people of Mexico "for the discourtesy displayed by two members of this team in departing from tradition during a victory ceremony at the Olympic Stadium Oct. 16."

★ ★ ★

The statement continued: "The untypical exhibitionism of these athletes also violates the basic standards of sportsmanship and good manners which are so highly regarded in the United States, and therefore the two men involved are suspended forthwith from the team and ordered to remove themselves from the Olympic Village."

★ ★ ★

"This action is taken in the belief such immature behavior is an isolated incident. However, if further investigation or subsequent events do not bear out this view, the entire matter will be re-evaluated."

The rebellion started to build up when Jim Hines and Charlie Greene of the U.S. track team indicated prior to receiving medals for their 1-3 finish in the 100 meters Tuesday they would not accept medals at the victory ceremony from Avery Brundage of Chicago, 81-year-old president of the IOC.

★ ★ ★

At that time during the trials for the 200-meter sprint, Smith and Carlos wore knee-length black stockings as a protest gesture in their trial heat.

Four-Goal Burst Wins for Wings

DETROIT (UPI) — That first national Hockey League victory for any rookie coach is always the hardest, except when your club scores four goals in the final period.

Bill Gadsby, handed the coaching reins during the off-season when Sid Ael decided being general manager of the Red Wings was a job in itself, grinned from behind Detroit bench all the way through the third period Thursday night as his club rolled to a 7-2 victory over the New Yrok Rangers.

★ ★ ★

"I told them (between the second and third periods) we needed that fourth goal," Gadsby said after the rout. Detroit took a 3-2 margin into the dressing room between periods.

"Often, when a team gets that extra goal the other team will start sagging," Gadsby said. "I think that happened to New York."

The win was Detroit's and Gadsby's first in the young NHL season and gave them the same 1-2 record New York has.

OTHER ACTION

Other NHL action Thursday found Montreal registering a 3-1 triumph over Minnesota and the Philadelphia Flyers using the goaltending of Bernie Parent to whitewash Pittsburgh, 3-0. Los Angeles nipped Boston, 2-1.

★ ★ ★

Ron Harris, acquired from the Oakland Seals during the off-season, paid his first Detroit dividend by slapping home a 40-foot pass from Frank Mahovlich who was behind the net with only 19 seconds remaining in the second period to snap a 2-2 tie.

★ ★ ★

Then the two-hour workouts Gadsby put the Red Wings through the past three off days paid off during the final period.

Pete Stemkowski, another player acquired in a trade as the Red Wings shuffled their roster greatly, triggered the four-goal third period outburst 39 seconds into the third period by flicking in a rebound of an Alex Delvecchio shot.

PERFECT PASS

Gary Unger, a bare 20 years old, slid the puck past a bewildered Ed Giacomin, the frustrated Rangers' goalie, when Gordie Howe fed him a perfect pass from the corner almost six minutes after Stemkowski's tally.

★ ★ ★

Pete Mahovlich turned a shot by Nick Libett into a goal nearly two minutes after that and then returned the favor for Libett at the close of the period to round out the scoring.

Gary Bergman, ramming in the puck after a faceoff to Giacomin's left, got Detroit off to a 1-0 first period lead but Bob Nevin put New York ahead with two goals in the second period.

★ ★ ★

Nevin now has scored five of the seven goals the Rangers have in their three games.

Delvecchio, who like Stemkowski had a goal and two assists, tied the score 2-2 minutes later by whipping in a 40-foot shot on a break around left wing.

Asked if his initial NHL win was a relief, Gadsby sighed, then laughed, "are you kidding?"

RETURN TO GRIDIRON ACTION — Pontiac Central's Chiefs resume play in the Saginaw Valley Conference tonight at Flint's Houston Stadium located near Northwestern High School. The Chiefs, though, are tangling with Southwestern. Expected to see duty as a backup man on offense is end Albrey Tipton (82), while tackles Eric Walker (76) and Bob Hunt (71) both play defense and end Vic Quince (83) goes both ways. Hunt also is a two-way performer. Central was idle last week.

Tarkenton to Play for Giants Sunday

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fran Tarkenton, nursing a minor shoulder injury this week, is expected to be in the starting lineup Sunday when the New York Giants host the San Francisco Forty-Niners.

★ ★ ★

Tarkenton suffered the injury against the Atlanta Falcons last Sunday and missed several practice sessions this week but Tarkenton is expected to be ready to go against the Forty-Niners.

Rookie Defenseman Pays for Penalties

TORONTO (UPI) — Jim Dorey, Toronto's rookie defenseman who set a National Hockey League record for penalty minutes during a brawl Wednesday night with the Pittsburgh Penguins, was hit with $125 in fines Thursday.

Dorey, who sat out 38 minutes of the game to break Reg Fleming's old record of 37, was one of the 22 players — 11 on each side — fined a total of $1,275. Dorey is still liable for further punishment.

Chiefs Play SVC Surprise 11

Saginaw and Flint Southwestern weren't supposed to make much noise in the Saginaw Valley Conference football race this fall.

★ ★ ★

Going into Friday night's action, Saginaw is a half game behind front-runner Midland and Southwestern is within a couple of points of leading instead of being in fourth place.

★ ★ ★

Pontiac Central found out the hard way about Saginaw's Trojans, 27-20, in its last outing two weeks ago. The Chiefs will discover tonight that Southwestern is as tough as its 3-1-1 record indicates.

The Chiefs and Colts square off at Flint Northwestern's Houston Stadium at 7:30.

PCH needs a win to stay in contention for a second place finish in the SVC. The Chiefs are 2-2 and the last major hurdle after Southwestern will be Bay City Central.

OTHER GAMES

In other Valley action tonight, Midland plays a nonleague game at Alpena, Saginaw is at Flint Central, Flint Northern travels to Arthur Hill and Bay City Handy goes to cross-town rival Central.

Southwestern's defense is supposed to be its strong point. But the Colts have shown a surprising attack built around All-Valley fullback and linebacker Mark Charette.

The Colts opened with a 32-0 conquest of Arthur Hill and then lost to unbeaten Midland, 7-6. Triumphs over Flint Northern, 20-13, and Bay City Handy, 28-19, preceded last week's 21-all deadlock with Saginaw.

★ ★ ★

PCH dropped a 13-7 game to Midland and holds victories over Flint Northern, 14-6, and Handy, 39-13.

A week's rest helped take care of some bumps and bruises and offered some extra time to prepare the Chiefs for tonight's contest.

Tigers Sign Cards' Resinger as Coach

DETROIT (AP) — The world champion Detroit Tigers signed St. Louis Cardinal scout Grover Resinger Thursday as their third base coach for the 1969 season.

Resinger, 53, succeeds Tony Cucinello, who resigned the post after the World Series to rejoin his long time friend and former manager Al Lopez on the staff of the Chicago White Sox.

Fails to Qualify

Bad Luck for Francie

MEXICO CITY — Francie Kraker, the little blond from Ann Arbor who has been training for eight years for her day in the 1968 Olympics, is today one of the most dejected members of the U.S. track team.

Miss Kraker, who failed in her bid to reach the semifinals of the womens' 800-meter run Thursday by a quirk of bad luck. This has been her history since she became the protege of Ken and Betty Simmons of Ann Arbor in 1961.

* * *

In the four heats of the 800 meters, Francie came in with a time of 2:07.3, the best of the three U.S. women attempting to qualify.

However, the top four of each heat were chosen and Francie was in the heat which had the top times of the qualifying.

Normally, the top times of each heat are taken plus the top times among the losers, but because of the large field, only the top four of each heat reached the semifinal 16.

U.S. runner Madeline Manning won her feat in 2:08.7 and Doris Brown, the other American, tied for the lead in her heat in 2:09.5.

Best time of the 800-meter qualifying was 2:04.0 by M. F. Gommers of Holland. The semifinals are slated this evening.

* * *

Francie, who missed the U.S. trials because of a bout with tendenitis, finally made the team by posting a 2:05.3 in an international meet in September, a time which was under the required standard of 2:06.

During her stay in Mexico she suffered some stomach ailments and earlier this week she had to have medical attention. Her coaches, Mrs. Simmons, a junior high teacher in Ann Arbor, and Ken Simmons, in the U. of Michigan physical education department, were in Olympic stadium to cheer her on . . . then console the dejected Miss Kraker.

GLEEFUL GREETING — Anchorgirl Sue Pederson (in water) receives a pat on the head and a couple helping hands from her teammates as she strains to get her breath following the finish of the 400-meter medley relay yesterday in the Olympic pool. The 15-year-old Californian completed a successful gold medal quest by the U.S. foursome.

Two Sets of Marks May Be Necessary

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A West German track and field official says there may be two sets of world records in future —"one for the highlands and one for the lowlands."

Heinz Fallack, technical director of the West German Olympic track and field team here, said Thursday night:

* * *

"The Games of Mexico City have brought us abnormal conditions and abnormal results. World elite long distance runners like Ron Clarke of Australia or Roger Wadoux of France finish far behind the athletes from countries of about 2,000 meters above sea level.

"On the other hand, the new synthetic track plus the thin air help short distance runners and field athletes, like the triple jumpers, to break world records almost at will."

* * *

He said it was "highly unlikely, for instance, that the fantastic 48.1 seconds world record for the 400-meter hurdles could ever be bettered anywhere else than in Mexico City, or on a synthetic track at a similar height.

* * * *

"Maybe we will have to keep two sets of worlds records in future—one for highlands and one for the low lands."

Fallack said he saw two possibilities in the future of European track and field:

"1. We either build synthetic tracks like the one here in the European mountains somewhere, or:

"2. The track stars of the world will annually make a pilgrimage to Mexico City for the sole purpose of bettering world records under the most favorable conditions." He left no doubt that he does not like either idea and would rather have things the way they are.

* * *

But, he said, "How will I ever get our boys and girls to train harder and harder if they know they will never have a chance to come up with a world top performance on any track at a normal height."

He said he talked to the coach of the Polish triple jumpers, and quoted him as saying that he will demand synthetic rubber tracks be built in Poland at a favorable height "or else I'll give up my job."

Poland used to be the leading nation in triple jump.

Thursday their best man, double gold medal winner Joszef Schmidt, finished a poor seventh with 16.89 meters while six jumpers did better than 17 meters.

BOSTON TAKES OFF — Ralph Boston of the United States springs to a new Olympic long jump record yesterday with his leap of 27-1½ at Mexico City. The effort came during the qualifying.

WOMEN IN BLANKET FINISH — The third heat of the women's 800-meter qualifying run Thursday resulted in one of the closest finishes to date in the Olympic track competition. Frances' Marie Dupureur (119) has a very slight edge as they reach the tape. Second place was awarded Doris Brown (87) of the United States, Great Britain's Patricia Lowe (131) was third and Sylvia Potts (200) of New Zealand was fourth. Tough Defense Awaits Raiders

Kansas City Primed for Crucial Clash

By United Press International

The Kansas City Chiefs will be counting on the rugged defense which has held four previous opponents to a grand total of one touchdown, to stop the league champion Oakland Raiders on Sunday.

It was the same type of defense which the San Diego Chargers used last Sunday to end the Raiders' win streak at 14 games. And the Western Division leading Chiefs plan a little added judo.

* * *

That judo is going to come from Ed Lothamer, the unsung hero of Kansas City's famed revolving front four which includes ailing Ernie Ladd, Buck Buchanan, Jerry Mays and a healthy Aaron Brown.

Lothamer's steady play at tackle, after being sidelined with injuries the past two years has been a big asset to the Chiefs' defensive game. He claims that judo is responsible for his improvement.

"Judo teaches you to get a man off balance," he commented. "Now when I rush a guard, I put pressure on parts of his body and he fights back. So he starts pushing against me and, if I can take the pressure off him, he's going to lose his balance and I can get around him."

Simple as that.

In other American Football League action Sunday, New York meets Houston in a key Eastern Division game, Denver, riding a two-game win streak, travels to San Diego, Buffalo meets Boston with Jim Nance and Art Graham returned and Miami, without Larry Csonka, their star rookie, Cincinnati.

ANOTHER GOLD MEDAL—The United States retains the Olympic gold medal in the 110-meter high hurdles Thursday as Willie Davenport hits the tape first in the finals. Davenport succeeds Pontiac's Hayes Jones who was the 1964 high hurdle champion. Erv Hall (not pictured) of the U.S. was second and Italy's Eddy Ottoz (far right) had to settle for the bronze medal. Davenport's :13.3 timing tied the existing record.

Willie Davenport Ties Olympic Hurdle Record

MEXICO CITY — Tying an Olympic record, Willie Davenport, a junior at Southern University, won the 110-meter hurdles, but the sweep the United States expected never came about.

Davenport hit the tape at 13.3 and right behind was Ervin Hall of Philadelphia in 13.4. Italian Ed Ottoz was the bronze medal winner.

Leon Colman of Winston Salem, N.C., was fourth in 13.6. In the 5,000 meter run, Jack Bachelor of Birmingham failed to finish among the top 12, as the distance minded Kenyans grabbed two medals.

Winner was Mohamed Gammoudi of Tunis in 14.05.0 with Kenyans Heza Keino second in 14.05.2 and Naftali Temu, a gold medal winner in the 10,000 meter, taking the bronze award here in 14.06.4

LONG WALK

The 50,000 kilometer walk was won by East German Christopher Hohme in a time of four hours, 20.13.6. American Larry Young took third in 4 hours, 31.55.4

Former Bloomfield Hills High School exchange student from Germany Goetz Klopfer, who now lives in Baton Rouge, La., was in tenth place in the event with a time of 4H. 39.13.8.

American entries failed to win any medals in the hammer throw and triple jump, as the Soviets and Hungarians dominated the events, with Olympic and world records.

Davenport, a 6-foot-1, 185 pounder, said he wants to continue running next spring "to boost up my speed. That's what professional football teams want now-speed, so I'm going to work on that."

Davenport burst out of the blocks like a rocket and won going away, his hands in the sky as he breasted the finishing tape.

POOR IN SEMIFINALS

"The race went the way I hoped it would," Davenport said. "I was afraid going into it, because I ran a poor race in the seminfinals.

"But it came out just right at the end."

Seven U.S. Rowers in Finals

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Never before in history has the United States wound up with a finals berth in all seven Olympic rowing events. But after six of the small boats turned the trick, U.S. Coach Jack Frailey said, "It was no surprise to me."

Frailey, of Concord, Mass., admitted Thursday, after five of his boats won their way to Saturday's finals, "I wouldn't have made that statement before it had happened."

* * *

But it happened in Thursdays' semifinals as the five went on to join the big boat—Harvard University's eight-oared shell—and the U.S. four without coxswain, which passed directly to finals Tuesday.

The U.S. contingent, bothered some by sickness and some by Mexico's 7,347-foot altitude, joined other rowers in setting slower times Thursday than in previous heats when oarsmen collapsed from lack of oxygen.

Said Cleve Livingstone of Los Angeles, No. 2 man in the Harvard shell, which only paddled about on Thursday: "Lack of oxygen hurts me more and hurts earlier at this altitude, but like any other pain you can get through it."

An unexpected finals entry is the U.S. four with coxswain, filled with the middle four oarsmen of the University of Pennsylvania's eight, which finished only four inches behind Harvard in the Olympic trials. The U.S. always has had trouble putting together an international class four with.

GOOD CHANCE

"I think the four without has a good chance for the bronze medal, but New Zealand has the gold practically sewed up," said Jack Sulger, former president of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen.

Another boat that almost didn't make it was the single scull rowed by John Van Blom of Long Beach, Calif., Van Blom was battling it out for third place Thursday all the way with Victor Melnikov of Russia.

The Russian pulled ahead with about 40 meters to go, but Van Blom put on a sprint that carried him across just inches ahead.

The pair without, Lawrence Hough and Anthony Johnson of Arlington, Va., won their heat although the pair from Holland has consistently had better times.

The pair with coxswain, pulled by Williams Hobbs of Concord, Mass., and Richard Edmunds, of Springville, N.Y., got third in heat and a crack in the final after edging out Romania's entry.

William Maher and John Nunn, respectively from Detroit and Cincinnati, finished first in their double sculls heat, despite the fact that Maher, when it was all over, spent 15 minutes lying on a stretcher to recover from faintness.

Maher has been suffering from a cold, as have others of the U.S. team, some of whom have contracted infections of the upper respiratory system.

The Harvard eight and the four without coxswain made it to finals Tuesday, and, because of altitude, have been having only light workouts since then.

PCH's Costello Defends Crown

The Waterford schools' cross country runners probably didn't mind the rain at all this morning after the drenching they took Thursday. It wasn't much better for Pontiac Central.

Waterford Township, Kettering and Mott all followed their rivals across the finish line in separate meets; and PCH lost the Saginaw Valley Conference crown it held for the past three years, but did retain the individual title.

★ ★ ★

The Chiefs' Jon Costello repeated his 1967 victory by outlegging Flint Central's Dan Heddy to the finish line, 10:29—10:32. But the PCH squad slumped to fourth place.

★ ★ ★

Midland was first with 44 points then came Bay City Handy (52), Flint Central (96) and PCH (115). Ken Long of the Chiefs ran a 10:58 on the Kearsley Golf Course for 11th individually.

INTER-LAKES

At Oakland Community College's Highland Lakes Campus, Farmington unseated Walled Lake as the Inter-Lakes king behind the side-by-side running of twins Gary and Larry Williams.

★ ★ ★

They tied for first in 10:42 with Steve Moffat of WTHS placing third, 10:56, one step ahead of Northern's George Pickering. Defending individual champ Ron Beegle of Walled Lake slumped to fifth.

Andy Liddy and Tom Knibbs helped PNH to another runner-up finish — the Huskies have been first or second for the last six years — by placing seventh and eighth.

Farmington had the ninth and tenth spots in their total of 38 points, seven better than the Huskies.

★ ★ ★

Kettering was defeated by Clarkston, 22-35, in a Wayne-Oakland meet. Fred Seyler and Dan Dankert were one-two for the winners, and Keven Reabe of WKHS placed third.

★ ★ ★

Mott's defeat was at the "feet" of Bloomfield Hills Lahser, 17-41. The Knights grabbed the first four places led by Jim Stewart's 10:44. Roger Stroder placed fifth for Mott.

TITANS BEATEN

Bishop Borgess won its first-place showdown with Pontiac Catholic at Rouge Park, 26-31. The Titans' John Cassani grabbed first place by a half second with his 10:17 school record timing. Bill McCarthy of the winners was a half step behind.

Pat Lenz and Rudy Martinez were fourth and fifth for PCHS (now 3-1-1) but unbeaten Borgess swept 6-7-8.

★ ★ ★

In a Northwest Suburban harrier match, North Farmington squashed Wayne John Glenn, 21-38, to remain undefeated in the league and 7-1 over-all. Paul Hebel led the way with a first-place finish for the Raiders, and John Wilson was third.

★ ★ ★

The league meet will be 4 p.m. Tuesday at Hickory Hills in Wixom. PCH will race Northern that same afternoon.

WET BOGEY FOR BILLY — Billy Casper splashes a shot out of the lake along the 14th fairway at Paradise Valley Country Club near Las Vegas yesterday en route to an even-par 71 during the first round of the Sahara Invitational Tournament. Casper took a bogey four on the hole. He donned coveralls to attempt the shot.

Three in Deadlock for Tourney Lead

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Defending champion Jack Nicklaus, big Bill Collins and Dale Douglass knocked four strokes off par with 67s Thursday to share the lead in the first round of the $100,000 Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament.

Playing in delightful weather at the 7,109-yard, par 36-35—71 Paradise Valley Country Club, the trio had identical rounds of 34-33—67.

★ ★ ★

One stroke back were Julius Boros and Kermit Zarley, with scores of 35-38—68, and a former Arizona amateur champion, young professional Joe Porter of Scottsdale, 32-36—68.

Nicklaus, the friendly Big Bear from Columbus, Ohio, who won this tournament in 1963-66-67, sank two short putts for birdies on the first nine and then uncorked three long ones—25, 22 and 28, to birdie three of the final four holes.

Deadlocked at 69 were George Archer, Lionel Hebert, Johnny Stevens, Jack Fleck and Larry Mowry. The latter's 31 on the back side, in which he birdied four holes, was the low score for that nine hole route.

★ ★ ★

Twenty-eight of the field of 155 bettered par.

★ ★ ★

U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino finished with 36-34—70 in the heavily populated 70-bracket, while Billy Casper, leading money winner for the year, shot 36-35—71.

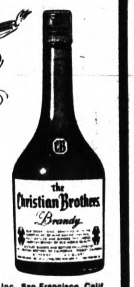
presented by THE CHRISTIAN BROTHERS BRANDY

Q. Gale Sayers was a spectacular new name to NFL rushing records in 1966. The '67 and '68 seasons found another "new" name. What was it?

A. Leroy Kelly of the Cleveland Browns burst on the scene to again give Cleveland the title they've practically owned since 1957.



Q. Why does the phrase, "Distilled Blended and Bottled By" appear on our label? A. It's your assurance that we produce every drop of our brandy. None is bought on the "open market".

Seaholm Plays SEMA Leader

Pivotal Games in Two Prep Leagues

The pivotal moment has arrived in their league races for Birmingham Seaholm and North Farmington's grid units.

Seaholm's improving Maples have to figure a way to stop powerful Ferndale, the unbeaten Southeast Michigan Association leader, and they can join it atop the standings. Royal Oak Kimball entertains Southfield in another important game.

★ ★ ★

The host Knights are tied with Seaholm at 2-1 with just one more week left in the SEMA race and could take over sole possession of the runner-up slot. Southfield also is in the picture with one defeat and a tie forcing it to hold fourth place at the moment.

Hazel Park is favored to enter the victory column at Berkley.

SUBURBAN TILTS

In the Northwest Suburban Birmingham Groves this afternoon guns for its first league triumph on Oak Park's gridiron.

But the big contest takes place tomorrow afternoon at North Farmington when unbeaten Livnoia Franklin will invade the Raiders' domain.

★ ★ ★

The first-place battle could be thrown into a three-way jam if NFHS can drop the Patriots for the first time this fall. The home team lost a squeaker to Detroit Thurston two weeks ago and the Eagles in turn were a hard-luck loser at Franklin last week.

IN ACTION

Thurston will entertain fourth-place Wayne John Glenn tomorrow afternoon, too.

The Groves at Oak Park duel will decide fifth place in the race and offer the winner a shot at catching John Glenn.

★ ★ ★

Another Birmingham eleven in action this evening is Brother Rice who travels to Detroit Cathedral. The Warriors are looking to regain their momentum after being limited to a scoreless tie last week in the Boys' Bowl Game.

★ ★ ★

Country Day will try to square its mark at 3-3 when it visits undefeated Maumee of Ohio Saturday afternoon. Jack Zwemer's passes are the key for the Yellow Jackets of Birmingham.

Former Boston Ace Dies at 54

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Ellis Kinder, 54, who won 23 games and lost only six for the Boston Red Sox in 1949, died at Baptist Hospital Thursday after recent open heart surgery.

Kinder, a colorful right-hander, spent 12 years in the major leagues. He was with Boston from 1947 to 1956.

Spartans Hurting at Quarterback Position

EAST LANSING (AP) — Bill Feraco, a seasoned senior but small for a Big Ten quarterback, is a key cog in the Mchigan State football machine this year.

It is doubtful whether Feraco will be able to start in Spartan Stadium against Minnesota Saturday.

* * *

Feraco sprained and bruised his shoulder early in the game in the 28-14 loss to Michigan last week —the first Spartan defeat following wins over Syracuse, Baylor and Wisconsin.

"He has been throwing along the sidelines," said Coach Duffy Daugherty of his No. 1 signal-caller. "He may work in the game, but it is questionable whether he will start."

RUNNING PLAYS

Dr. James Feurig, team physician, said the shoulder injury hurt Feraco's follow-through in his passing against Michigan. Feraco called mostly running plays and did little passing.

Feraco is 5-foot-11 and weighs just 186 pounds, but has proven himself a valuable chunk of quarterback to the Spartans.

He had to work as understudy to Jimmy Raye last season and logged only 79 minutes of playing time.

* * *

Feraco didn't get a chance to start in the 1967 season until Raye was injured. He engineered the two MSU touchdowns in the sixth game, a 24-12 loss to the Irish.

He was the unanimous choice of the coaches to start this season.

A SCRAMBLER

"He is a good passer, a fine runner and talented scrambler," appraised offensive backfield coach Al Dorow, an excellent judge of talent after his own years as a college and pro quarterback.

Feraco worked out on his own, perfecting his passing during the summer, often teaming up with Gene Washington, now an end with the Minnesota Vikings.

He has hit 30 of 55 pass tries to date for 453 yards and a 54 per cent completion average.

Feraco generally throws out of an action — or running — play and is given the option of passing or keeping. The coaches trust his judgment.

* * *

He has picked up good ground running, 113 yards to rank third among the MSU rushers. He is proven a master of the quarterback sneak and leads the team in touchdowns with six.

A major in advertising, Feraco is interested in motivational research, because, he says: "I like to know what makes people tick."

This gives a clue that he's a thinking quarterback.

If Feraco can't see much action against Minnesota Michigan State could be hurting Saturday.

2 U. S. Wrestlers Win First Bouts

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Jess Lewis of Aumsville, Ore., and Thomas Peckham of Ames Iowa, won their first-round matches Thursday in the Olympic wrestling eliminations.

* * *

Lewis outpointed Gerd Bachmann of East Germany in the heavyweight division. Peckham drew with Gard Jev of Bulgaria, the defending Olympic champ, in the light heavyweight class.

Battered Wildcats Challenge Buckeyes

By The Associated Press

You've heard about hanging the coach in effigy when the team is on the skids, but at Northwestern University they might just be contemplating a mock string up of the guy who mapped out the school's football schedule this season.

Without a doubt, it's the most demanding presented to a college team in quite some time.

* * *

On successive Saturdays, the Wildcats have been paired against Miami, Fla. (No. 12 in this week's Associated Press poll), top-ranked Southern California, Purdue (then ranked No. 1), and Notre Dame (sixth this week).

* * *

Northwestern, of course, has dropped all four—and there aren't any prospects for immediate relief. Saturday, the Wildcats furnish the opposition for No. 2 Ohio State, itching to wrest away the national championship from Southern Cal.

The Buckeyes climbed into the runnerup role as a close second to the Trojans with a 13-0 victory over Purdue last weekend that knocked the Boilermakers from the top spot.

Southern Cal, meanwhile, turns loose O. J. Simpson against lowly Washington Saturday in search of its fifth straight.

* * *

No. 3 Penn State is idle, while fourth-ranked Kansas draws Big Eight foe Oklahoma State, fresh from a 21-17 upset of Houston.

No. 5 Purdue should have Leroy Keyes back at full strength in what is expected to be an easy breeze against Wake Forest. Keyes suffered a strained back in practice a week ago.

Sixth-rated Notre Dame is heavily favored to clobber winless Illinois, and in the process quarterback Terry Hanratty may surpass the Irish's total yards record set by the immortal George Gipp. Hanratty is only 183 yards shy of the 4,110 total yards amassed by the Gipper from 1917-1920.

In other games involving the Top 10, No. 7 Florida travels to North Carolina, No. 8 Tennessee plays host to Alabama in a Southeastern Conference showdown, No. 9 Arkansas faces a crucial test at No. 17 Texas in a night game and No. 10 Georgia entertains Vanderbilt.

Two games match teams in the second 10—No. 13 Nebraska at home against Big Eight rival Missouri (tied for 20th) and No. 18 Michigan at No. 19 Indiana.

* * *

Other games involving the rated are: No. 11 Syracuse at California, No. 12 Miami plays host to Virginia Tech tonight, No. 14 Stanford faces Washington State at Spokane, No. 15 Texas Tech meets Mississippi State in a night game at Jacksonville, No. 16 Mississippi is at home against Southern Mississippi and Kentucky invades Louisiana State, tied with Missouri for 20th, in a night affair.

* * *

The IU Homecoming contest has been a sellout for more than three weeks, with a capacity crowd of 50,561 expected for the 1:30 p.m. game.

Hoosiers' Defense Leaks Many Points

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Indiana, possessing a sporadically-inspired offense but a leaky defense, will tangle with a rugged Michigan squad Saturday in a game crucial to the Big Ten football race.

Both teams have been able to mount explosive attacks and the Wolverines have been building steadily through their early season contests. They could be rated a favorite in Saturday's game.

* * *

The Hoosiers are ranked third in the nation in total offense with an average of 506 yards per game. But I.U.'s 3-1 record was built on a point edge of 126 to 122.

Coach John Pont has focused drills on defense through most of the season, but the Hoosiers could be somewhat more ragged with the loss of linebacker Jim Sniadecki, who suffered a fractured thumb in Indiana's 38-34 win over Iowa last weekend.

BOXING GLOVE

The Big Ten had approved a special plastic sheath covered by a 16-ounce boxing glove to protect Sniadecki's hands in Saturday's game, but Pont said Wednesday that Sniadecki would not play.

Michigan leads the series between the two teams 20-8, although Indiana has won three of the last four games.

* * *

The Hoosiers took a 20-0 early second quarter lead in last year's encounter, then had to muster a touchdown in the closing minutes to salvage a 27-20 decision.

Long Fall Taken by Leading Team in Table Tennis

West Side Mobil, Club 99 and Mr. Steak were big winners last night and Francis Fuel consequently was the big loser in the Pontiac Table Tennis League's weekly outing.

★ ★ ★

West Side Mobil downed Francis, 5-1, to drop the fuel team from the National Division lead all the way down to fifth place.

West Side streaked into the top spot and was closely followed by Club 99 and Mr. Steak, while Richardson's slipped past Francis into fourth place.

The club unit trimmed Elliott

★ ★ ★

Engineering and Mr. Steak ripped Capitol Barbers, both by 5-1 counts. The loss left the barber shoppers just hanging onto the American Division top rung.

By JERE CRAIG

Bowling with a painful finger can be an agonizing experience. For Shirley Pointer it provided the biggest thrill of her lengthy and successful career.

Actually, the pain has little to do with the thrill, although it perhaps brings the event into sharper focus in the veteran Huron Bowl staffer's memory.

"My biggest thrill in bowling' . . .I think probably my first 700 series," the likeable hard-working Mrs. Pointer responded to the question.

★ ★ ★

"It was my first year in the Ladies Major League in Detroit at Eastland Bowl. In fact, I had only been in the league about six weeks when I had the 700.

★ ★ ★

"I had been sewing the previous week and stuck the needle under one fingernail by accident. It became infected over the weekend and the finger was really throbbing when I went to bowl that night.

★ ★ ★

"The pain was bad for about six frames," she continued, "but I was bowling well. About midway through the final game I suddenly realized I had a chance for 700 even with six open frames!

★ ★ ★

"I needed to strike out in the 10th frame. The first ball was a Brooklyn that carried," Shirley recalled. "The last two were solid pocket hits. I finished with 706."

Although she had been bowling for 15 years at the time—starting with a women's travelling league in the Saginaw-Bay City area while a senior at Caro High School — that was her first experience in all star league competition.

★ ★ ★

She has had two other sanctioned 700's since then, another 702 in a singles classic at Huron Bowl, and 704 in Detroit two years ago.

★ ★ ★

From time to time, other local bowlers will be asked to discuss their biggest thrills in the ten-pin sport.

SPARE PINS

The Detroit Men's 'All-Star Travelling Classic will visit 300 Bowl next Thursday night at 8 p.m. The high-scoring circuit will utilize the 16 lanes normally taken by the 300 Men's Classic that night.

★ ★ ★

Spectators are welcome; there will be no admission charge.

Members of the Pontiac 700 Club are planning to visit Flint's Northwest Lanes at G—4359 Clio Road Sunday Nov. 3 for a jamboree involving Ann Arbor, Flint and Pontiac's clubs.

★ ★ ★

A definite cost hasn't been determined but it won't exceed $8 and includes a buffet for two as well as the bowling for the club member.

★ ★ ★

Any man or woman having a sanctioned 700 is eligible to join the Pontiac chapter. A local jamboree is planned after the first of the year. The Flint affair will begin at 1 p.m.

Additional information is available on the trip as well as membership in the local affiliate by contacting secretary Dick Beamer at 682-4251. Arnie Osta is the Pontiac president.

SHIRLEY POINTER

State Invitational Tourney Scheduled

The fourth annual State Men's and Women's Invitational Singles Championships will be Nov. 9-10 and Nov. 16-17 at Huron Bowl with entries limited to 128 in each division.

★ ★ ★

The men will have their qualifying Saturday the 9th and the finals the next day. All contestants must have an 185-or-better average.

★ ★ ★

The women's event, originally set for the 2nd and 3rd, was set back until Saturday the 16th and Sunday the 17th due to a tournament conflict. Only those with 160-or-better averages are eligible.

★ ★ ★

The cost is $40 per person. First prize is a guaranteed $500 plus trophy and a paid entry to the National All-Star Tournament next May at Hialeah, Fla.

DIRECTOR

The prize list is expected to pay off at a one-for-each-five basis. All entries should be sent to tournament director Shirley Pointer at Huron Bowl, 2525 Elizabeth Lake Road.

★ ★ ★

Checks or money orders should be payable to Michigan State Invitational Singles.

The men will roll two six-game qualifying blocks. The top 16 scorers will duel head-to-head in two eight-game blocks, with 50 bonus pins going to the individual match winners.

★ ★ ★

For the women, following the two qualifying blocks of six games each, the leading 12 scorers will advance to the finals. This, again, will be head-to-head competition using the 50 bonus pins for the winners.

★ ★ ★

Entries close for both divisions Nov. 3. All finalists will be on the prize list. The defending champions are Elvira Toepfer of East Detroit and Mike Totsky of Detroit.

Mathis Will Fight Canadian Chuvalo

NEW YORK (UPI) — Slimmed-down Buster Mathis, attempting to earn another shot at Joe Frazier's five state heavyweight title will meet Canadian George Chuvalo in a 12-round elimination bout at Madison Square Garden on Dec. 6, it was announced Thursday.

★ ★ ★

Mathis, whose only loss in 29 decisions was his title fight against Fraizer, has scored 19 knockouts in his 28 victories.

★ ★ ★

Chuvalo, 31, has a record of 52-14-2 with 44 knockouts. He knocked out Mexico's Manuel Ramos in five rounds in his last bout Sept. 26 at Madison Square Garden.

Dempsey to Head Boxing Parade

NEW YORK (AP) — Former heavyweight champion Jack Dempsey heads a list of 32 boxing greats scheduled to take part tonight in a Salute to Boxing parade ending with ceremonies in a ring set up in Times Square.

Huron Bowl Classic Reports Big Outing

A pair of 275 games among the women and a high-scoring night by the Huron Bowl Classic men dominate recent bowling scores reported.

Peggy Green of the Wednesday morning Galaxy of Gifts at Huron Bowl coolly overcame a well-below-average effort in her first two games with nine straight strikes in a 275 game, 125 pins above her average.

The feat earns the Star Market team member a WIBC patch and medallion.

Also matching that performance was Laura Chenoweth last Friday in the 300 Bowl Ladies All-Star loop.

★ ★ ★

In the last Huron Bowl Classic action six teams topped the 3,000-pin figure led by Herks Auto Supply with 3131 and Moose Lodge No. 182 at 3111. Bud Mulholland featured the individual scoring with 216-258-235—709 for Herks. Ron Pennell also had a 258, and Ed Gibbs was at 248-238—692 for Hartford.

West Side Lanes' Classic also had an upswing as Mike Flores (255—677) and Al Norman (255—655) featured the scoring.

Other top leagues reported a 257-223—660 by Gil Luebke of Lake Orion Furniture among the Collier Lanes House Men; Jerry Owzarski a 234-213—658 and Bob Leibler a 258 (636) in Cooley Lanes' Men's Classic;

Packers' Pride Possible Problem

Lions Seek End to Green Bay Hex at Tiger Stadium

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions will be out to win their first game at home against Green Bay since 1962 when they take on the Packers Sunday in the second meeting of the teams this season.

* * *

Detroit won at Green Bay 23-17 Sept. 29 but hasn't swept two games in one season over the Packers since 1957.

* * *

Lions' Head Coach Joe Schmidt expects Sunday's encounter to be "our toughest game to date." Green Bay, defending National Football League and Super Bowl champions, has gotten off on the wrong foot this season but hopes to rebound against the Lions.

"The Packers are noted for their pride," said Schmidt. "They've lost three times this year. They played a great game last Sunday against the undefeated (Los Angeles) Rams and then got nosed out on a field goal in the final minute. They'll be out for blood this Sunday."

A victory for the Lions could possibly mean taking over first place in the NFL's Central Division all alone. Detroit and Minnesota are tied for first with identical 3-2 records, while Green Bay is 2-3.

TOUGH FOE

The Vikings face undefeated Dallas Sunday.

Detroit has displayed a well rounded offense this year under the leadership of quarterback Bill Munson. In last week's 28-10 victory over Chicago Munson hit on 13 of 22 passes for 169 yards and one touchdown. That pushed his season record to 56 of 85 passes completed for 659 yards and a 65.9 percentage. This includes seven touchdowns and only two interceptions.

* * *

Mel Farr carried the ball 18 times for 138 yards last week and caught six passes for 73 yards. He scored three touchdowns for his best scoring performance of his career. As a result, he was named NFL offensive player of the week by the Associated Press.

The Lions and Packers have met 70 times since 1934 with Green Bay holding a 40-27-3 edge. Detroit last beat Green Bay at home on Thanksgiving Day in 1962 by a 26-14 score.

Meanwhile, three Lions remained unsigned to contracts as of Thursday. They were fullbacks Bill Triplett and Tom Nowatzke and offensive tackle Bill Cottrell.

Defensive end Larry Hand is also unsigned, but he is on the reserve list after suffering a knee injury in the Lions' opener against Dallas and subsequently undergoing surgery.

* * *

Under an option clause in their 1967 contracts, the unsigned players automatically become free agents on May 1.

Seven players were unsigned at the start of this season. The other three have come to terms. They are ends Gail Cogdill and Bill Malinchak, and offensive tackle Roger Shoals, who signed Wednesday.

Raceway Opens for Final Days

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Roosevelt Raceway reopens tonight for the final 50 nights of the 1968 New York harness racing season with leading 2-year-old pacer Laverne Hanover favored to win the $83,000 Roosevelt Futurity.

Laverne, driven by Billy Haughton, is such a standout he has been barred from the betting.

Barry Will Debut in ABA Action Against Pacers

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Rick Barry makes his American Basketball Association debut tonight as the league opens its second season with the Oakland Oaks going against the Indiana Pacers.

Barry, the NBA's leading scorer two years ago, is expected to lead the Oaks to a considerably better season than last year, when they finished in the basement of the Western Division.

* * *

The Pacers finished third in the Eastern Division last season. They have been strengthened by the acquisition of Mel Daniels, last year's ABA Rookie of the Year, in a trade with Minnesota.

The new-look Oaks also will unveil Larry Brown and Doug Moe, obtained in a trade with New Orleans, and Coach Alex Hannum will be making his first ABA coaching start.

Gulf Gridmen Enter Win Column, 9-6

Jerry's Gulf won their first game in City Touch Football last night, downing the Latham Stallions, 9-6.

Jerry's scored on a ball centered over the head of the kicker into the End Zone for a 2-point safety and later in the second quarter Gary Acker hit Biff Rice for an 18-yard TD.

The Stallions scored late in the fourth-quarter on a 60-yard pass from Greg Glynn to Ralph Landry for their lone score.

Sashabaw Products upped its record to 5-0, winning on a forfeit from King Briggs.

Gov. Wallace Spells Out Where He Stands on the Issues:

(Editor's note: the following question-and-answer interview conducted by a team of Associated Press editors, is the first of a series outlining the positions of the three presidential candidates on major campaign issues.)

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

George C. Wallace says if he's elected President he'll ask Congress to overturn Supreme Court decisions defining the rights of criminal suspects as a step toward maintaining law and order.

Wallace, the American Independent party's candidate, emphasized that he regards action against crime and civil disorders as primarily the responsibility of the states.

Nonetheless, he contended that his election as President would bring about stronger law enforcement because it would be "a moral boost to the policeman" and "a mandate to the officials back in the states to stand with their police and not handcuff them."

The former Alabama governor was interviewed during one of his stops on a campaign swing through seven key northern states.

Here are the questions and answers:

Law and Order

Q. We would like to begin, Governor, by discussing the law and order issue. Law and order has been described by all three candidates in the presidential election as one of the main issues of the campaign. All are for law and order, but few specifics have been advanced to deal with the problem. What we would like to do is try to clarify this by suggesting that we take law and order and break it down to specific problems and ask you how you would deal with each of them.

First, how would you combat the growth of organzed crime which has steadily increased despite the efforts of the FBI and other police forces?

A. Of course, at the federal level we have many federal statutes regarding organized crime. I think the Justice Department ought to be more vigilant and I think the President ought to speak out on the matter of organized crime. I think he ought to lend the moral support of the presidency to the local law enforcement officials in the combating of organized crime.

* * *

Q. As of now though you see no need for any additional federal laws to combat organized crime?

A. No, I don't think we need any additional laws. We need a common sense interpretation of existing laws. We need some common sense application of rules of jurisprudence involved in confessions, involving obtaining evidence so that each time you arrest and convict someone for crime they won't be turned loose because of the Supreme Court rule that the confession was taken, for instance, without a lawyer present. The different decisions of the Court have handcuffed the police and law enforcement officials throughout the country in their fight against organized crime and also crime on the streets. It is almost impossible to convict anybody of any crime now from the highest to the lowest.

Q. If you were President would you ask Congress to pass legislation that would overturn the so-called Miranda and Escobedo decisions?

A. Yes, I would. I said that many times. I think those two decisions have helped bring about the increase in the crime rate and they really, in effect, made second class citizens of the policeman in our country.

Drug Abuse

Q. How would you deal with the widespread growth in recent years of petty crime, mainly committed by young people, that infests every area of the country? Tied to this question is the growth of drug addiction, since much of the crime is committed to obtain money for narcotics.

A. Well, we see people in high places with their permissiveness on the matter of crime in the streets, the matter of looting and arson. No one has any respect for the law any more and I think this encourages and helps to bring about the commission of petty crime and also drug addiction and everything else, because it is the thing to do and you can do it and nothing happens to you, nobody is going to bother you, you can't convict anybody. I think that plays a part in that. I also think that the Justice Department and the states ought to really bear down on this matter of marijuana and LSD.

* * *

Q. Would you consider any federal legislation, perhaps to outlaw LSD and marijuana?

A. I don't know that you need any further federal legislation. I don't think we ought to move into any more areas of law enforcement. I think that the states ought to handle it. However transporting marijuana, LSD, across the state line is or should be a federal offense, but I think by and large we ought to leave the matter of law enforcement to the states.

* * *

Q. One other point on this, Governor, in the matter of heroin particularly, the hard narcotics, these are almost all imported. Would you have any ideas, perhaps for action by this country and other countries in trying to cut off this traffic?

A. Of course I am not a law enforcement official and I cannot talk about items of strategy, logistics and mechanics of combating heroin or the importation of heroin, or anything else, but as President I would ask those federal agencies who are charged with law enforcement to stop the heroin traffic. Now how they are going to stop it would be left up to them.

Racial Unrest

Q. How would you deal with racial disorders, rioting and looting?

A. I don't know whether you should call them racial disorders. Usually racial disorder is between races, people of two races, you don't have much of this in the country at all. We do have a few militants who bring about the breakdown of law and order and then a few other people are caught up in the mob action, the hysteria of the moment, and loot and burn and commit arson. I think the police ought to be allowed to enforce the law. I think they have to be allowed to use whatever methods are necessary to prevent the breakdown of law and order and then if it does break down, they ought to be allowed to use whatever measures are necessary to stop it. We've used every other method of trying to stop disorder, we passed every piece of legislation advocated by the militants and otherwise. They passed the first bill called the civil rights bill, Senator Kennedy said we'd get folks out of the streets and into the courts and when you pass another bill you have more folks to get into the streets. It seems that every bill that is passed and every law that you've enacted we then have additional disorders in the streets. I think we've tried every other method but that of — the method of letting the police enforce the law.

* * *

Q. You talk about the militants being responsible, and "militant" seems to be something of a relative term. Would you identify the militants?

A. You might say militants are activists, revolutionaries, anarchists, and even Communists. Grand jury investigations in various parts of the country have shown the Communists involved. I'm talking about a person who stands up and says let us burn the town down is militant, he is a revolutionary.

* * *

Q. Would you characterize a person who advocates civil disobedience, non-violent protest, as a militant?

A. Civil disobedience is militancy too. That is not the way to change laws or to air grievances. The people of our region of the country have been very upset about all the laws and court orders that destroyed their right to determine the policies involved in the education of their children. But they haven't advocated civil disobedience. They have advocated doing the best we could, and one reason my candidacy has the support of so many people throughout the country is that we're going to change some of these procedures and laws and court orders within the constitutional context. So I think the matter of civil disobedience is just another method to disrupt and create chaos in the country and destroy our society.

* * *

Q. Since civil disobedience almost always involves a localized protest at the time, that is a march in Memphis or in Philadelphia or a march in New York, isn't it true that there is nothing a President can do to prevent them?

* * *

A. You have a right to march in Memphis peacefully saying we stand for so and so, but you don't have a right to march eight weeks and when I'm talking about civil disobedience I'm not talking about a march, people have a right to march for a candidate. I'm talking about lying in the streets, I'm talking about sitting down on thoroughfares and sitting down in buildings and assaulting the Pentagon, assaulting draft board stations, lying down on railroad tracks, in front of troop trains, that type of civil disobedience ought to be stopped. I'm certainly not talking about somebody who wants to make a march in protest, they have a right to do that.

* * *

Q. These acts of civil disobedience which you have just enumerated except for those that might have happened in the District of Columbia are outside federal jurisdiction. Do you have any plans of bringing them within the realm of federal authority?

A. No Sir. I recognize what you are driving at. As President you don't have any right to go into the state of Alabama and stop this from happening but my election as President is going to be a moral boost to the policeman and law enforcement officials in the country, and it is going to put some backbone in the back of the mayors and governors when we carry their states and is going to put backbone in the back of members of Congress whose districts we carry because they really feel like we felt in our hearts about stopping all this nonsense but they didn't think it was politically expedient. I think my election is going to mean stronger law enforcement in this country, I think that's going to be a mandate to the people back in the states, that is the officials back in the states, to stand with their police and not handcuff them, not send them into a situation without even a gun and tell them don't do anything, don't hurt people's feelings. That is what happened many times.

Q. You said that you would urge the police to enforce the law by any means necessary. Precisely what do you mean by "any means necessary?"

A. I don't know that I said by any means necessary. I said enforce the laws with the means they know are necessary and that they know how to employ. The police have been trained how to stop looting and rioting and arson. They have been trained how to control people who infringe upon the rights of others by making it unsafe for folks on the street and maybe a situation involving a riot. Just let them employ the tactics that they've been taught to use in the past but are not allowed to use now because the politicians in charge of the police in many instances are afraid it's going to affect them politically.

Q. Would you agree that the police should employ the maximum force necessary to put down these disorders?

A. No, sir. They should use the minimum force necessary to put down the disorders. Don't use maximum force. You use whatever is necessary—the maximum could be the minimum sometimes. But you use the minimum force, not the maximum force. I don't want to see a situation exist where people just go out and want to knock people in the head. However sometimes when you knock a few in the head, it saves having to knock many in the head, and I think strong measures in the beginning save lives. We saved lives in our own state by saying in advance what we were going to do in case you break out windows or throw rocks at policemen or try to set something on fire. It will be the last place you set on fire, and as a consequence, nobody even got hit in the head because—there was no trouble.

* * *

Q. If it's necessary for the police to shoot to stop looting and burning do you think the police should be permitted to shoot?

A. To stop a riot and looting and destruction of property and the committing of arson, yes. If that's the only way it can be done, yes. Now, I don't advocate we just go out and shoot to be shooting, but I think they ought to take whatever measures are necessary.

Demonstrations

Q. What would you do about student demonstrations, some of which have been over opposition to the war in Vietnam?

A. Well, you have a right to demonstrate against the war, but when you make one march on a city street, you ought not to march for three straight weeks and tie up trade and commerce and business and imperil the safety of people as a result of continuous demonstration. You have a right to protest the war, although I think common sense and judgment ought to be used by protesters who love our country, but who genuinely think that the war is not good for the United States. That's one thing, but now, these who go out and call for Communist victory and fly the Vietcong flag and raise materiel for the Communists, I think that's violation of the law, to get up and make a speech that you think the war is not good or we ought to get out of the war, it's not good for our country, that's one thing, but to make a speech saying I want the Communists to win and they print that speech in the Communist capitals, that's not legitimate dissent. That's an overt act of treason, because it aids and abets the enemies of our country and if you apply a little common sense you can tell a legitimate dissenter from one who's not a legitimate dissenter.

Q. What would you do, Governor, with the people—

A. I would—you see the courts have held that states can not punish for sedition in the Steve Nelson case arising in Pennsylvania. So the Government of the United States, the Justice Department ought to seek indictments against those who make speeches calling for Communist victory and those on college campuses, the few that do raise money and blood and clothes for the Communists. You ought to indict them and stick a few of them in jail and you'd stop it. I just don't understand sending grandsons and sons of American people to be killed by the Communists and allowing people in this country, some of them draft exempt because they're going to college, raising materiel and supplies for the Communist and flying the Vietcong flag. I don't understand it, but to me that's not academic freedom.

* * *

Q. Since all the three candidates have said they're for law and order, how would you describe your position and solutions as differing from those of your opponents?

A. Well, of course, a year ago when I was talking about law and order, these candidates were not talking about law and order. And a few years ago when I was talking about civil disobedience was going to culminate in anarchy, Mr. Nixon and Mr. Humphrey were endorsing this movement, saying it was a great movement. Now, since it engulfed the whole country in a siege of anarchy they both say law and order. Of course I knew they would start saying it when they sent their representative around to listen to me speak and hear the reception from the crowds that we've had all over the country, so there used to be no difference in what they said, or a dime's worth of difference I used to say. Now there's not a dime's worth of difference in what they say and what I'm saying about law and order, but this movement of ours brought it about, and I think they ought to have started saying it a long time ago.

* * *

Q. You're saying now that you and Mr. Nixon and Mr. Humphrey on this issue are saying essentially the same thing.

A. Saying essentially the same thing, but I don't think their hearts have been in it as long as mine because they have, on the other hand, actually endorsed this movement that brought about the breakdown of law and order.

Vietnam Peace

Q. You have said that you hope an honorable settlement of the war in Vietnam can be negotiated. Specifically, what terms would you accept as constituting an honorable settlement?

A. The integrity of South Vietnam, remove the North Vietnamese armed forces, and the Vietcong to lay down their arms and have free elections in Southeast Asia. I would consider coalition government being forced upon the South Vietnamese with the Communists represented, would not be an honorable settlement. I would say it would mean the end of South Vietnam. It would become Communist. Now if the people in South Vietnam vote Communist, that's another thing. I don't think they will, but that's what would constitute an honorable settlement as far as I'm concerned.

* * *

Q. Given the present situation in Vietnam, do you think the North Vietnamese are likely to settle for anything less than a coalition government with Communist participation in South Vietnam?

A. I don't have any idea what they would agree to. What they agree to would be based on how critical their situation happens to be, and so I have no idea what the North Vietnamese would do. I frankly think they're using the peace talks for propaganda purposes and they're using it to rebuild that portion of North Vietnam that we're not bombing now.

* * *

Q. How would you go about increasing the pressure on North Vietnam to negotiate an acceptable settlement? Would you, for example, resume the bombing?

A. Well, of course, I don't want to talk about military strategy and tactics because I'm not a military man, but if I were the President and peace talks hadn't concluded and we don't have an honorable settlement by the time of the new administration, then I think we ought to set some time limit in the matter of negotiations, and then if they don't solve and settle the matter honorably, then we ought to win a military victory with conventional weapons and get out of Vietnam.

* * *

Q. In connection with winning a military victory with conventional weapons, we'd like to ask you, what military actions are you prepared to take to win that victory?

A. I am not prepared to say what military action I would take because I would not be a military man, and I would ask the Joint Chiefs of Staff what military action we should take. But I will not abrogate my civilian responsibilities to the military. I would lean heavily upon them and probably accept their advice.

* * *

Q. Would you authorize an invasion of North Vietnam or the neutral states of Cambodia and Laos if the military should decide that such steps are necessary?

A. I would still lean on the Joint Chiefs of Staff and accept their recommendation about ending the war if we fail to end it in Paris.

* * *

Q. You would go along with what the Joint Chiefs of Staff recommended?

A. I don't say that I'd go along with everything they recommended. I would not give up my right as commander-in-chief, to veto or to accept, but I would lean very heavily upon them.

* * *

Q. Invasion of North Vietnam and the bordering states has been suggested as a means of cutting off the lifeline of supplies from North Vietnam to its forces in South Vietnam and to the Communist guerrillas, the Vietcong. Many people who oppose this, including some military men, contend that carrying the ground war into enemy territory would risk involving the United States in a land war with Communist China. Do you agree? Is that a risk that you can—

A. Well, we took a calculated risk when we went to Vietnam. And we shouldn't have gone there by ourselves in the first place. I hear one of the other candidates say what I've said for a long time. It is just as much to Western Europe's and non-Communist Asia's interests to be there as it is for us to be there, but we took the calculated risk when we went in Vietnam. Now, if you're talking about Red China, in my judgment Red China would get involved in the war if she wanted to get involved in the war and won't get involved if she doesn't want to.

And she doesn't have to have any excuse for getting in the war, she can concoct an excuse, because the government of Red China controls all the news media and they could say tomorrow morning in their newspapers that we had invaded China whether we had invaded China or not and the Chinese people would not know any difference. So, we took the risk when we went over there, but if we lose diplomatically and politically, then we cannot stay in Vietnam forever. We cannot continue to have three or four hundred servicemen killed a week, in a war that we see no end to, and if we can't win it militarily—if we lose diplomatically and politically, what other recourse is there but to get out.

* * *

So I would say we get out if we couldn't win militarily, but I think we should win militarily and I think that we have to take whatever risks we take, because we took those risks when we went there. I certainly don't want to get bogged down in any war with anybody else. I don't think we are going to.

Intervention

Q. Do you believe that the United States should continue its policy of military intervention as exercised in Lebanon, the Dominican Republic and Vietnam?

A. I think that Western Europe, that has two hundred and fifty-five million people — more than we have in this country— ought to carry a larger share of the load —not only manpower, but munitions and money and also those in the Far East in Japan and Thailand and the Philippines and all other countries who have a stake in a free Asia. And when I said we shouldn't have gone there by ourselves, when we saw we were going, we should have talked to Western Europe and non-Communist Asia and they ought to have helped us. We ought to have talked to the SEATO signatories, some of them have a token force of a hundred people or five hundred and they have as much at stake as we do. They let us carry the load. And we should not have carried all the load by ourselves, with just token help. Now, we do have help from Australia and New Zealand but they're small countries.

* * *

Q. What we asked, Governor, though, is that policy of being an international policeman—

A. No sir, we cannot be a policeman for the entire world. In other parts of the free world they are going to have to shore up their defenses and their forces and they are going to have to take their share of the risks and take their share of the policing and we cannot be policeman for the entire world by ourselves. I don't want to say that we're going back to isolationism, because what happens in other parts of the world affects us.

* * *

Q. Would it be fair to say that you would reassess this policy?

A. Yes, sir.

Mideast Tension

Q. One possible trouble area is the Middle East where the United States has supported Israel in its continuing confrontation with the Arab states. Would you continue this policy?

A. Insofar as the Middle East is concerned, I would like to see stability and peace achieved at the conference table and that we wouldn't have a war every five years as we have had in the Mideast for the last fifteen years. And I would hope that by building our own defenses up in this country and having an attitude of superiority that we could then talk later with the great powers about trying to stop the arms race in the Mideast, which I think ought to be stopped if humanly possible. And that Arab nations and Israel both must give and take and see if they cannot solve their differences at the conference table, but there must be a military balance in the Mideast.

* * *

Q. Then given the Soviet Union's support of the Arab states, we have no alternative, would you say—

A. I maintain that a military balance ought to exist, but that we ought to also try, if at all possible, through diplomacy, to gain respect of both sides, the Arab nations and the Israelis both, if that's possible, and help bring about a peaceful settlement with both sides giving and taking and that would stop the arms race. So I say there must be a military balance.

* * *

Q. In that connection, governor, the other two Presidential candidates have endorsed the sale of U.S. Phantom jets to Israel, which the Israelis say they need to maintain this military balance, but I don't believe you have.

A. Well, what I said was, Phantom jets are military hardware, and I said we must keep a balance. I don't know what is necessary to keep a balance, but whatever is necessary to keep a balance ought to be done. Not being a military man I can't say submarines or M16 rifles or Phantom jets, but we ought to keep a balance, but at the same time trying to work with both sides for a peaceful settlement. And try to gain some respect from both sides. I would like to see this country friendly with all the peoples of the Mideast, which in my judgment would be a benefit to the Israeli and also to the Arabs.

Pueblo Seizure

Q. Governor, another source of potential trouble involves Korea, particularly the aggressiveness of the North Koreans as demonstrated in the seizure of the USS Pueblo and its crew. What would you have done about that seizure if you had been President?

* * *

A. Well, there is no need for me to say what I would have done, because I was not in possession of the intelligence that the State Department and the Defense Department had about the Pueblo. I'm sorry the matter happened and I think we should never forget the Pueblo and we should continue our efforts to get the crew back safely. I hope that we won't allow it to happen again and that we might have support in whatever area some ship of this sort happens to be. I can understand that with the delicate mission of this ship you couldn't have a flotilla around it, but I think that we ought to in the future see that it doesn't happen again. But since we've gone this far and it's been so long, the only recourse at the moment is diplomacy.

* * *

Q. Do you have any specific ideas for diplomatic maneuvers that might gain freedom of the crewmen?

A. I don't have any specific ideas other than that I would ask the State Department with its trained diplomats and those in the career service to continue their efforts to get the crew back and we should never forget that either.

Inflation

Q. You have said that you regard inflation as a major issue of the campaign. What steps do you feel must be taken to curb inflation?

A. Well, I think we ought to cut out some the spending. We ought to take some of the welfare programs that really pay some able-bodied people not to work, and some of the so-called poverty programs and put on a public works program to employ able-bodied people in the building of highways and the building of streets, sewers, drainage systems, which enhances wealth and property values and helps to create trade and commerce. Some of the foreign aid programs ought to be cut out. The administration of domestic institutions which costs hundreds of millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money ought to be cut out. They should be administered in the districts and the political subdivisions of the states that have elected officials. We ought to cut out on some spending.

Tax Exemptions

Q. You have suggested at various times increasing personal income tax exemptions to $1,000, $1,200 and $1,500. Wouldn't any such increase be inflationary?

A. No, sir, I don't consider it to be inflationary because I think it would stimulate production, stimulate employment and stimulate the need for additional production and there is nothing wrong with that. As long as production increases along with the spending capacity then you don't have inflation. You have inflation where you have an increase in spending and are status quo in production.

* * *

Q. Governor, there has been an increasing tendency in the government to use taxes or tax policy to attempt to control inflation or deflation. The recent 10 per cent surtax is a case in point. Do you not regard this sort of thing as an effective weapon?

A. Well, I think that naturally, that tax is an effective weapon against inflation, but we have so many tax exempt foundations that get by without paying their taxes. The government ought to remove some of the tax exemption status on the multi-billion dollar tax exempt foundations and we should have gotten the money from them instead of from the average citizen on the street.

* * *

Q. Do you have any idea of how much money the Treasury could gain by removing those exemptions and do you think it would be enough to—

A. Yes, sir. To raise a dependent's exemption from six hundred to a thousand dollars would cost nine billion dollars. I hope I'm correct on this but I've seen some reports estimate that from twenty-five to forty billion dollars is lost in taxes through tax loopholes as a result—tax-exempt foundations and otherwise. So if you remove these tax loopholes, you could get as much as necessary to grant the dependent's exemption from six hundred to a thousand, maybe twelve hundred dollars, even in war time.

Social Security

Q. You and the other candidates have talked about increasing Social Security benefits. How would you finance such an increase?

A. Well, I think it ought to be financed by the removal of tax exemptions — multi-billion-dollar tax-exempt foundations, and from the Treasury, if necessary.

* * *

Q. In other words, from the general revenue rather than increasing the rates?

A. That is right, from the general revenue, if necessary. And I think that maybe cut out some of the spending programs for the administration of the schools in the country. I just wish you'd check the budget and see how much money goes for the administration of the Health, Education and Welfare Department. I don't have the figures now but I did. You could take that money and increase all of the pensions on the Social Security, and those HEW bureaucrats can go into private industry. If you check in the South, you'll find that nearly every school board member has one to two to three assigned to him that call him every day every week on the telephone about his school system. They ought to let the local school board man run the school system, and that man ought to be relieved off the payroll, and they're all highly educated and could go into private industry and produce instead of living off of what other people produce.

Balanced Budget

Q. You advocate a balanced budget. Where do you propose to make the economies necessary to bring about federal revenues and expenditures into line?

A. There are several million dollars that would be cut off the budget, including portions of foreign aid, poverty program and also the removal of the tax-exempt status of foundations, and the closing up of tax loopholes. Even Senator Kennedy talked about the people who make a million dollars a year and pay no taxes. I even heard one of my conservative friends not long ago say that he has some friends who brag about the fact that we make over a million dollars and don't pay any taxes. Well, that's just not right.

* * *

Q. What are some of these loopholes? How about tthe oil depletion allowance?

A. Since there are pros and cons on that, that ought to be looked into. If that's one of the loopholes, then look into it. I think wild-catters certainly ought to have some protection in the matter of exploring and exploiting but I think that matter ought to be looked into. I'm no expert on where the loopholes exist but every loophole that is charged in the Congress ought to be appraised and re-appraised.

Control of Schools

Q. Governor, you have advocated adoption of a constitutional amendment that would vest absolute control of the public schools in the state. In effect, wouldn't such an amendment permit any state that chose to do so to operate a racially-segregated system?

A. No, sir. I didn't suggest that at all. I suggested only that an amendment be submitted to the states for ratification vesting absolute control of the public school system in the state. The people of the states can have any sort of a school system they thought was in the interest of the children of that state.

* * *

Q. Including a racially-segregated one?

A. Including any kind they wanted to have, including having one like they have in Washington, if they want to, which is a jungle; including one like they have in Flint, Mich., where they can't play football at night any more; including one like they got in Philadelphia where it's unsafe for your child to go there and the teachers are unsafe; even like the city of New York, according to the New York Times, a jungle. If that is what the people want to have, they can have it. I don't think they'd have that kind of school system but let them have whatever they want to have.

* * *

Q. Such an amendment would also serve to stop this practice of busing children from one school to another to strike a racial balance. I want to ask you, do you think this is still an issue in view of the action in Congress limiting federal action in this specific area?

* * *

A. The House knocked out the Senate action, didn't they?

Q. No, sir, they did on all but just one issue. The H.E.W. can no longer withhold funds from a public school because it refuses to —

* * *

A. Well, there's one—a good mechanic friend of mine told me in the barbershop last Saturday—I went over there the last time I was in the barbershop—when he saw that in the paper. He said, your movement is the cause of that, and in my judgment, this movement is the cause of that because we've got the same reception about the school matter in Flint, Mich., and in Pittsburgh, Pa., that we get in Winston-Salem, N.C. So this movement is already successful in that it has impressed the Congress. People are concerned about the complete takeover of public schools by the federal government.

* * *

Q. You would say then it has defused busing as an issue in the campaign?

A. Well, I think the people of the country will be thankful for this movement for having stopped that, stopped busing as a result of Federal pressure. I think that they're going to call us to get some support and say this movement is worth something.

* * *

Q. You were once quoted as saying that the states could gain control of their schools by exercising their sovereign power—if that's the case, why do you need an amendment?

A. Well, I tend to think that the states do have a right to control their public school systems, but any action that the state took—that action would be adjudicated in the courts, and if they adjudicated that a state had no right, it would have to abide by the court order in the courts, whether we liked it or not. I never advocated just seizing physical control of anything or advocated the disobeying of a law because it was unjust. It's the liberals who say disobey unjust laws and obey the just laws. That's the reason we have anarchy in the country. But the more we obey the law, the more laws they put on you, and the more you disobey a law, the more they say I'll negotiate with you, and that's one of the reasons for the strength of our movement.

Integration

Q. Governor, do you or do you not favor racial integration in the schools?

A. Racial integration is not an issue in the presidential campaign because the President ought not to advocate any sort of school system for any state of the union, but I've always been honest and said I thought that was the best school system for Alabama, but as President I wouldn't even advocate it for Alabama. I'd advocate only that the people of Alabama, through their elected officials, decide what sort of school system they wanted. But frankly, it has and was the best school system for Alabama. It at least had peace and tranquility in the school system. Now you have to say something for peace and tranquility, but I do not recommend that type of school system for any state, not even Alabama, as a candidate for the Presidency. At least I'm honest about it and not hyprocritcal about it like the congressmen in Washington who talk one way and all send their children to Virginia and Maryland to school and six members of Congress out of 535, who have their children in the public schools of Washington. I think hypocrisy and lack of candor and bad faith has hurt race relations in this country.

* * *

Q. Would your amendment, Governor, be limited to schools or would it cover other local institutions such as hospitals?

A. Well, I think the public schools are what I'm interested in, but hospitals also ought to be exclusive also of federal control.

Civil Rights Act

Q. Would you seek the repeal of the Civil Rights Act outlawing discrimination in public accommodations?

A. I have no quarrel with anti-discrimination, but in the matter of public accommodations, I have no objection to who eats at what cafe or who uses what hotel. I have no objection to that at all. But since they are not franchise operations I do object to the government overseeing and supervising even the customers of a barber in a hotel. I think that in my judgment you would have businesses all over the South and the United States that would continue to serve anyone, regardless of race or colyone, regardless of race or color. So I'm not against a business serving people regardless of race. I am just against the government intruding and saying to a non-franchised hamburger stand, we're going to supervise your customers. If you had to get a franchise to operate a hamburger stand from the government and had an exclusive franchise, then everybody ought to be allowed to eat there.

Q. But again, Governor, would you seek to repeal the law; as an act of Congress it doesn't require anything but a simple repealer.

A. I don't advocate that people not be public accommodated at any place, but I do object to government supervising the business and I don't think the law is good.

Q. Vice President Humphrey calls you an "apostle of hate and racism." Do you blame the Negro for the country's racial problems; do you think the Negro is primarily responsible for the racial turmoil in this country?

A. No, sir. I always said that the overwhelming majority of the people of all races, including the black citizens of our country, are against this break-down of law and order. I blame it on a few militants, activists, revolutionaries, anarchists and Communists of all races. The negro citizens of this country are good law-abiding citizens and hope this conduct is going to be stopped.

* * *

Q. Governor, you consistently deny you are a racist. Are you a white supremacist?

A. Do you mean do I believe that any race is superior to any other race? I'm not a zoologist or an anthropologist or any other kind of ologist, so I can't pass on that, but I have never said that any race is superior to any other race and I don't say so now.

Q. You don't think one race deserves any better because of his race.

A. No sir, I think all people are entitled to a good life and I'd like to see a better life for all of the people. And that's the reason my wife received more black votes in Alabama in 1966, because our administration had made an effort to provide a better life through education. By building a series of junior colleges and trade schools and busing of students from their homes to the schools and back every day, which aided the low income family in Alabama, which aided probably Negroes more than anybody else. No, sir, I think all citizens are entitled to as fine a life as we can provide for them, but we must have self-help. The government cannot provide a good living for anybody. It must come through the action of the individual, desiring also to benefit himself.

Q. Governor Wallace, what do you consider the most important issue in the campaign?

A. I think the most important issue involved is Vietnam coupled with the breakdown of law and order.

* * *

Thank you very much.

A. Let me say this about racism, if everybody's a racist who's been called a racist, then you folks who interrogated me today are racists also, because the Kerner Commission Reports called you a racist. A group of militants called Hubert Humphrey a racist. They called Orville Freeman a racist, they called Secretary of State Dean Rusk a racist, they called President Johnson a racist and a bigot. So, everybody in the country has been called a bigot and racist by somebody, but the biggest bigots in the country are those that consistently call other folks bigots.

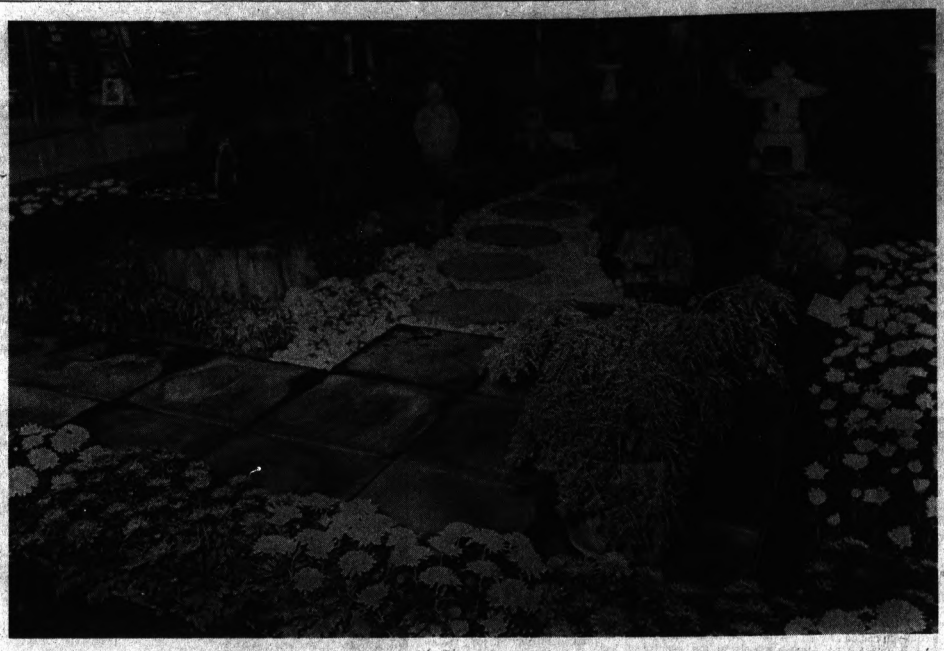
TABLE ARRANGEMENT — Judges awarded Mrs. James Raisen of the Holiday Farms branch a blue ribbon for her whimsical Halloween table. Balancing the ceramic black cat on the orange and black covered table is a pumpkin, marigold and Baker's fern arrangement in a black pedestal container. A black plate, mug and napkin complete the table.



ORIENTAL PATIO — Jacobsen's Garden Town of Lake Orion transformed a Pontiac Mall aisleway into a pocketsize garden complete with tinkling fountain and beaming Hotei. Plant material includes rust and yellow chrysanthemums, pachysandra, weeping spruce and cherry, juniper and mugho pine. The shows remains open tonight until 9 and tomorrow from 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Pontiac Mall Flower Show Now Open

By JODY HEADLEE
Garden Editor, The Pontiac Press

Ideas and ingenuity abound at The Pontiac Mall's flower show "Of Cabbages and Kings," a floral fantasy. Supported by 18 branches of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association and Ikebana International, the show will remain open tonight until 9 and tomorrow from 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m.

★ ★ ★

Commercial nurserymen from Bordines' Better Blooms of Rochester and Jacobsen's Garden Town of Lake Orion add their bit to the florific display with Jacobsen's fashioning an oriental retreat using specimen plant material and Bordines' an autumn garden of golden chrysanthemums and taxus.

With classes and sections geared to "Alice in Wonderland" and "Through the Looking Glass' by Lewis Carroll, whimsey holds the key to many of the entries.

★ ★ ★

The current political fray was not forgotten, however, as Mrs. Wesley Allen of the Lake Orion branch interpreted class 22 (Checkmate) using the Republican elephant and the Democratic donkey.

The political party symbols flank a red rose and white chrysanthemum arrangement in a black container. Crossed rose twigs, thorns intact, add symbolic realism to the overall theme.

A black plate, creamer and sugar and a white cup and saucer complete the table setting.

★ ★ ★

Judges awarded Mrs. Allen a blue ribbon.

Maplebrook branch member, Mrs. F. T. Rowland added a blue ribbon to her show honors with her presentation in class 20 (The Time and the Unicorn).

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Rowland selected branches of white pine, Colorado blue spruce, Japonica pieris, holly and mahonia. Accessories in the arrangement included a child's figure in terra cotta. Its putty-toned overlay repeats the colors in the ledge rock used.

FINE ART EXHIBIT

A fine arts exhibit by branch members spotlights the side windows of Highland Appliance Co.

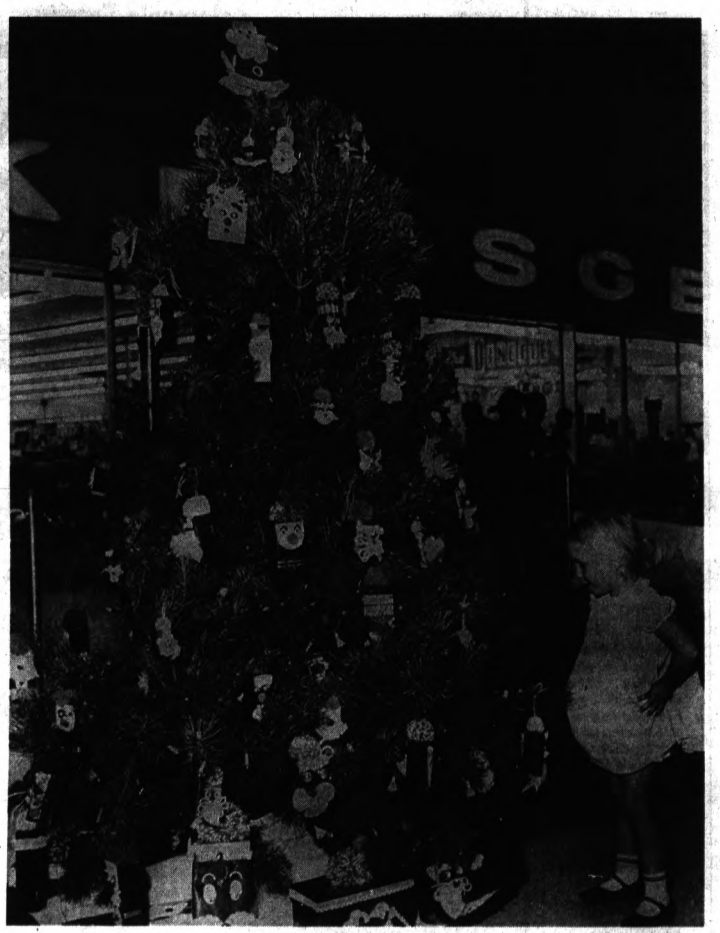
The $1,500 given to the participating branches by The Pontiac Mall will be given to the Drayton Plains Nature Center.

Mrs. Newton Skillman of Lake Angelus is the general show chairman. Ribbons were granted by the merit system: blue, 92-100 points; red, 85-91; yellow, 78-84; and white 70-77.

BLUE RIBBON — Mrs. Robert Genzlinger of the Concord Green branch earned top honors in her interpretation of "The Sand Was Dry as Dry" class. She used a whale baleen, cecropia leaves, Lake Michigan shore grass, allyssum saxatile seed, shells and white sand in an off-white container.

CLASS 14 — Kern Lake branch member, Mrs. Trudie Courtney was awarded a blue ribbon for her entry in the Vines Grown in Topiary Shapes class. The grape ivy covers a chicken wire duck.

SOGETSU SCHOOL — A native of Japan and a member of Ikebana International, Mrs. Edwin D. Brooke entered an exhibit in the Ikebana display. Representing a bird, the black driftwood is highlighted by bleached dried roots, white gypsophilia and scarlet anthurium blossoms. The entire arrangement is on a raised black base.



HOW ABOUT THAT! — Three-year-old Christine Forbes casts her vote in favor of the Holiday Farms branch Christmas tree. Sewing box odds and ends transform gift boxes of every size and shape into beaming St. Nicks. The white under-tree skirt is trimmed in red ball fringe. Judges granted the Kris Kringle entry a blue ribbon. Christine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Forbes of Warwick Drive, Birmingham.

INVITATIONAL — To recognize the Duchess in "Through the Looking Glass," Mrs. Arthur Cox of the Milford branch chose dried canna leaves and skeletonized castor bean leaves. "The castor bean," said Mrs. Cox, "stands for the Duchess' evil thoughts as she tried to destroy Alice." Invitational entries were not judged.

Indoor Ivy Likes Shower Baths

Give your indoor ivy a shower bath frequently to discourage red spider mites and keep the foliage clean.

* * *

Do not overfertilize this variety of ivy for it will cause the foliage to grow too fast, become soft and more prone to disease.

Bring Flowering Kale Inside for Winter Color

Ornamental flowering kale is at its best from early September and well into October until heavy frost finally kills it.

* * *

Flowering kale seeds should be sown in July, either in pots or in the garden. Plants are bright green when young and the gardener growing kale for the first time thinks there's some mistake but time will rectify it.

* * *

The mature plants have attractively curled leaves in which pale green, white, cream-pink, rose and magenta are all combined on a dark green background.

* * *

The tones of these colors become more brilliant as the season advances.

BRING INSIDE

Flowering kale can be brought inside for the winter if the plants are in pots or are potted from the row and will continue to be a conversation piece for some time.

To keep the foliage colors bright and gay, as the were outdoors, keep the plants in a sunny window, close to the glass.

* * *

Move them away from it briefly only when they are wanted for decoration elsewhere in the house.

Water whenever the top of the soil in the pot becomes dry and pick off an occasional dead leaf as needed.

How to Condition Potted Plants

To cool potted house plants in hot weather, put them in clay pots an inch or two larger and fill the intervening space with peat moss that has been soaked in water.

* * *

Plants will absorb water from the moss through their porous clay walls.

Alar Slows Apple Harvest

Scientists have found that Alar, a plant growth retarding chemical, can delay ripening of McIntosh apples at least 10 days and greatly reduces apple-falling before harvest.

And the researchers, Michigan State University horticulturists William W. Austin and Dr. David R. Dilley, are optimistic that the chemical will produce similar results on other varieties.

* * *

By delaying ripening, a grower would be able to extend his harvest time and make more efficient use of his labor.

Also, the delay would give the McIntosh a better chance to attain a good red coloring, especially in southern Michigan. Austin and Dilley explain that the McIntosh needs warm, sunny days and cool nights to get this good color, and its chances would be enhanced greatly if ripening can be delayed.

RIPENING DELAY

To achieve the delay in ripening, growers should make their applications 60 days prior to harvest.

Alar is expected to be used commercially on a limited basis.

The MSU study showed that Alar sprayed with conventional sprayers at the rate of 1,000 parts per million delayed ripening at least 10 days. The delay was reduced somewhat when the Alar was followed by a later application of 10 or 20 parts per million of 2, 4, 5-TP—but the delay in maturity was not less than 10 days.

Apply half as much Alar—500 parts per million—delayed ripening 5 to 7 days. Again, when applied with 2, 4, 5-TP, the delay in ripening was reduced as the concentration of 2, 4, 5-TP was increased from 0 to 20 parts per million.

Togetherness Test for Couple

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Gene Saks, director-husband, and Beatrice Arthur, actress-wife, say they're only kidding themselves if they talk about anything but "A Mother's Kisses," a musical due to debut Oct. 29. Saks is directing his wife in her first bid for stardom.)

NEW YORK (AP) — In a tough Broadway test of togetherness, Gene Saks, director-husband, is guiding Beatrice Arthur, actress-wife, on her first bid for stardom.

"It's darn scary" says the lady who until now has concentrated on such flashy character roles as the sidekick bit in "Mame" that won her a Tony.

"If we talk about anything else," adds her spouse who has a notable hit record on the line, "we're only kidding ourselves."

The reason for such connubial concern is the musical "A Mother's Kisses," due to debut Oct. 29 at the 46th Street theater.

The show is Novelist Bruce Jay Friedman's second stage venture after off-Broadway triumph with "Scuba Duba" and marks a comeback bid for composer-lyricist Richard Adler whose last big click was "Damn Yankees." Such contingent considerations tend to intensify creative tensions for the Saks, even though a sort of inevitability backgrounds their involvement.

★ ★ ★

Saks read Friedman's novel a couple of years ago, but shifted to such other assignments as directing Broadway's "Mame" and the film versions of "Barefoot in the Park" and "The Odd Couple" after being unable to get rights to the book.

★ ★ ★

A while later Adler, who did have the adaptation rights, urged Miss Arthur to accept the leading role. She said yes — if her husband could direct.

"After all," she says in her familiar tones of authoritative femininity, "I'm the power behind the throne." Her claim is speedily corroborated.

'DIDN'T WANT TO DIRECT'

"I'd never wanted to direct," says Saks who was doing fine with such Broadway acting successes as "A Thousand Clowns," "South Pacific" and "The Tenth Man."

But during a visit in 1959 to arts festival in Spoleto, Italy, the pair saw a short play that struck them as dandy for subsequent workshop exercise at the Actors Studio, where both are long-time initiates.

★ ★ ★

Having noticed "other actors were always coming up to him for advice," Miss Arthur suggested he direct. The experiment worked fine followed by a fine case of jitters when that studio sample got Saks the job of directing "Enter Laughing" for Broadway.

"The hardest thing for me always is use of the actors' time," he says, "and not giving a damn if I make someone go over a bit 30 times while some others just sit around all day. But I know a director has to do anything to get what he wants."

FREQUENT BATTLES

Since both of them are highly articulate, motive-searching workers there have been as Saks put it, "some terrible times, fighting" whenever she shows up in the cast.

"We even fight," the lady allows, "over who wrote which line in which show — him, me or the author."

★ ★ ★

Getting the performance he wants from her involves a measure of mutual, tacit guile.

"We have a pattern," says Saks. "When we start on a part she gets inhibited and fakes me into acting out the whole role — which I do very well.

When I've finished she says "I can't do it that way — I'll do it my own. And she does."

ANALYZES REALTIONSHIP

"That," admits Miss Arthur, "is substantially correct."

"I think it's because I'm her husband that she declares her weakness," he adds.

"What I know," she analyzes, "is that with another director I'd have to help myself."

Does she help him as a director?

★ ★ ★

"Ask him," she challenges.

She has a good instinctive sense and expresses herself freely. But I also find I'm more impatient with her than others."

Miss Arthur vigorously concurs.

"It once got to the point where I said 'If you do that again, I'm leaving.' And he said, 'I thought I might be mistreating you.' "

Occupational collisions don't appear, however, to hold any perils. Their professional careers, by coincidence, both began in 1947 at off-Broadway's Cherry Lane theater, and three years later they were married. Connubial adjustment has also been augmented by two sons.

"Getting home at night and seeing the kids changes the whole perspective," says Saks.

U. N. Gourmets Form Club

Group Has a Foreign Flavor

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Pierre Furst, an affable Parisian with an educated palate, liked to get together with U.N. colleagues for an evening of fine food and drink. So he organized the International Gourmet Club.

"We hope to interest our members in foreign lands by giving them a taste of their kitchen specialties," said Furst who organized the club in 1966 and has served as president ever since.

★ ★ ★

"The club tries to do this by arranging dinners every two months at some noted restaurant in town. We also give a Christmas party every two years to which each member brings a dish from his native country."

Furst, who works in the U.N. archives section preserving on tape the speeches of delegates, is assisted in his gourmet activities by club secretary Rochelle Grossman of the U.N. Statistical Division.

50 MEMBERS

The club now has some 50 members from a score of countries and has sampled such dishes as kimache, a volcanic relish from Korea, and quahog soup, which is a fancy version of American clam chowder.

For its insignia the club has borrowed the well-known emblem of the United Nations, but in place of the global map are two hands with poised knife and fork.

★ ★ ★

Any member of the United Nations, related agencies or foreign missions can belong to the club by paying dues of $3 a year. The dinners range up to 13-course banquets such as an elaborate Chinese repast given recently. Yet the price averages $10 a head with vintage wines included and each member is entitled to bring one guest for the same price.

Members still recall the dinner served in November 1966 at which guests ate such Japanese specialties as beef sukiyaki, devil's tongue noodles and "aphrodisiac" mushrooms.

NOTABLE FEAST

Another notable feast was served on the West Terrace of U.N. headquarters. It included such Middle East dishes as a whole sheep stuffed with rice, mincemeat and pistachio nuts.

"We have allays wanted to give a Russian dinner" said Furst, "but there are really only two Russian restaurants in town and neither one has the facilities for a private banquet."

Furst would also like to stage a banquet aboard a transoceanic liner. This has posed problems, but he still hopes to make arrangements with some foreign steamship line which takes pride in its ships' galleys.

Members are already looking forward to the Christmas buffet to be held this December at the U.N. Church Center. The club will pay for the room and appropriate wines to wash down the repast. All members need to do is bring a favorite dish from their homeland.

★ ★ ★

"The buffet we had in 1966 was really tremendous," said Furst. "I especially recall a great fish dish supplied by a member from Czechoslovakia. It had a raisin and nut sauce that was delicious."

That buffet also included korozott, a spicy cheese spread from Hungary; garlic pork from the West Indies, chicken aspic from France and tapioca pudding al la LBJ from the United States.

Benaderet's Husband Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — One day after the funeral of actress Bea Benaderet, her husband died in the same hospital in which she had succumbed.

The coroner's office said the death Thursday of Eugene Twombley, 52, was due to natural causes. He had been admitted to Good Samaritan Hospital a few hours before.

★ ★ ★

Miss Benaderet, 62, star of the "Petticoat Junction" television series, died Sunday of pneumonia and lung cancer. Her funeral was Wednesday.

Just a bunch of happy normal people.
A happy normal widow (Doris Day) who runs a lumberyard.
A happy normal widower (Brian Keith) who takes early morning strolls in his undershorts.
Two normal little boys who bathe in paint.
A teenaged son who drives a hot rod. Into a chicken truck.
And a teenaged daughter who likes boys, except when she's related to them.
Wouldn't it be refreshing to see a movie where everyone comes out fine, including you?

The Gourmet Adventures of Jayson's

To a wine lover, the word Graves has a significant meaning. The word is related to the French gravier, meaning gravel, and to greve, the pebbly marl found on riverbanks. These terms are perfectly descriptive of the gravelly earth of the area, washed down by the Garonne's waters. To this pebbly soil the wine of Graves owes much of its character. This region in France produces wines of nearly every type—red wines, medium-dry wines, sweet, liqueurish white wines. Of the world's wine regions, few can match Graves' variety.

Few can match the gourmet cooking of JAYSON'S, 4195 Dixie Hwy. at Hatchery Rd., Drayton Plains, where dining pleasure and hospitality go hand in hand. Enjoy dancing and entertainment Tues. thru Sat. with . . . J. C. Heard Trio. Call 673-7900 for reservations.

You can save the flavor of chopped meats if you prepare them in sizes ready for the pan before freezing. This also saves you trouble.

Study's The Thing At Juilliard School

Juilliard to School Actors

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Actors should know how to act, but many don't because they don't get enough training. To cure this the Juilliard School is setting up a tough and demanding course to teach kids from all over the United States the ABC of stage techniques.)

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Thirty-six handpicked hopefuls are tackling the most elaborate course ever set up in this country to develop acting talent.

Sponsored by the Juilliard School, until now a noted center only of musical endeavor, the program aims to ease one chronic theatrical shortage.

★ ★ ★

"Repertory companies are in terrible shape," asserts director John Houseman, "because promising youngsters don't get proper instruction."

He voices an opinion seemingly paradoxical — after all, there are drama schools galore — but are often echoed by teachers as well as producers. A lot of things are cited as contributing to the lag in performing skills, most of all the relatively abbreviated apprenticeship allowed under the prevailing educational system.

BACKSTAGE CRAFTSMAN

In contract, everybody agrees that present university departments are turning out able craftsmen in backstage crafts such as scenic design, costume and lighting.

What makes the Juilliard acting attitude different from others?

★ ★ ★

Houseman lists two main points: The drama division provides the first professional four-year curriculum "in the English-speaking world"; the chief artistic mentor is Michel Saint-Denis, a leading drama educator in Europe for more than 30 years.

"He is the great dean of actor training in the Western world," declares Houseman, who has a pretty impressive reputation of his own in professional and educational circles on this side of the sea.

NO MYSTIQUE

"There's no great mystique about that Saint-Denis method — it is a careful, well-considered progression of various types of work in both techniques and interpretation.

"In other schools there is a tendency to have brilliant teachers but no progressive development."

★ ★ ★

The curriculum is based on results of an examination Saint-Denis made of U.S. drama schools for Lincoln Center in 1959.

In addition to its instructional concept, the project is worth noting as part of a pioneering bid by Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts also to be come an important hub of aesthetic education.

Aside from Los Angeles, which is planning future art schooling facilities, the culture boom of recent years around the country has largely consisted of erecting buildings geared to box-office endeavor.

★ ★ ★

Adopting and installing Juilliard as a resident conservatory has been in Lincoln Center's plans from the start. Until its rectangular marble home is completed next year the music school will continue in old quarters across town while the new drama division operates three miles away at International House, a Rockefeller-endowed residence for graduate students.

★ ★ ★

To find the most promising candidates for Juilliard's $1,550-a-year course, Houseman and aides went on a six-month audition swing during which 600 candidates, suggested by high school and college teachers, were examined in 11 cities. Later classes will be held to about 20, with severe screen-out tests at the end of each three-term academic year.

"I think we have a fantastic collection," Housemen appraises the 19 boys and 17 girls who range from 18 to 22 years of age. "There are some pretty remarkable kids — though I'll be able to tell better a year from now."

SCHOLARSHIP HELPS

One youngster was found with a rural group in Kansas, another comes from a troupe doing street shows in Coney Island. Most are just out of high school and nearly all are getting scholarship help. A few hardship cases are being allowed complete remission of the tuition.

★ ★ ★

Houseman also raised "a special little fund from some friends" to help on living expenses. A drama club in Florida raised $500 to help one of the girls.

★ ★ ★

"We don't encourage them to take jobs outside in the great American tradition," says the director, "because they would hardly be in shape for the class work that goes on from 9 to 5:30 five days a week."

In the third year students will start to emerge into public for the first time. Until then "even friends" can't attend workshop drills in widely assorted acting styles.

4TH YEAR TOURING

During the fourth year emphasis is to be on touring in full-scale repertory, along with further study.

The final two years of the program are open to youthful performers already active in the profession who want to enlarge their emotive equipment.

Sponsored by the Juilliard School, the first class of 36 students will include (from left to right with Saint-Denis) Spain Logue of Dallas, Tex.; Beverly Ross of New York City; and Cathy Culnane of Misseapolis, Minn. They were selected from 600 candidates from all over the country.

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

The Professor was holding forth to a rapt audience of students. His subject was the 4-3 trump fit.

JACOBY

One pupil had just complained that he could never get to first base when he held only four trumps opposite three in dummy unless all the high trumps were among his seven.

The Professor said, "The first step in playing a 4-3 trump fit is to refuse to panic. You have seven trumps in the combined hands. Look around to see how many of them you can make. You will be surprised to find out that you will fulfill some hopeless-looking part-score contracts.

★ ★ ★

"Take this hand. West got off to a most annoying lead. I had to ruff his ace of hearts and was down to three trumps. That left the defense with as many trumps as I held but still I only needed seven more tricks.

It seemed silly to try to guess the location of the queen of clubs when I had such a nice diamond suit to work with, so I led a club to dummy's king, returned a diamond and finessed the jack. West took his king and could find nothing more appealing than a second heart lead. I ruffed and was down to two trumps but I had three tricks in.

"Two diamond leads gave me five tricks. I discarded dummy's four of clubs on the third diamond. The ace of clubs was my sixth trick and a club ruff in dummy counted seven. It was a simple mater to ruff another heart for my eighth trick and I still had my ace of trumps for a ninth."

"Weren't you a trifle lucky?" asked the senior pupil.

"Not at all," replied the Professor. "I did find two suits breaking 3-3 for me but I lost the diamond finesse."

Trading Slows

Mart Stays Ahead on Balance

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market remained a little ahead on balance early this afternoon as trading slowed far below the near-record pace of Thursday's "peace rally."

Wall Street, still hopeful that something concrete would develop toward a Vietnam bombing pause and perhaps other peaceful events, was watching and waiting for news, analysts said.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .4 at 356.6 with industrials up .1, rails up .4 and utilities up .3.

Gains of a point or more were made by some of the most-active issues and others scattered throughout the list but fractional changes were the general rule.

GAINS TOP LOSSES

Gains outnumbered losses by fewer than 100 issues as the afternoon got under way. Trading volume for the morning was less than 6 million shares as compared with 7.66 million shares in Thursday's record first hour.

* * *

AMK Corp., up a fraction, paced the list on activity in midday, followed by Grand Union, another fractional gainer.

* * *

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange as trading slowed far below Thursday's pace. Magna Oil paced the active stocks, gaining a fraction.

Chrysler Profit Hits Record

American Motors Gets Out of Losses Column

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. reported Thursday it set records for profits and sales during the first nine months of this year.

And American Motors Corp. said it expected to show its first profit since 1965 for its fiscal year ended Sept. 30. It lost $75 million in its previous fiscal year.

The AMC year-end report is expected next week, along with the nine-month reports of Ford Motor Co. and General Motors Corp. The latter had whopping mid-year earnings of $390.5 million and $960 million, respectively.

Chrysler reported profits for the first nine months were $178.5 million, equal to $3.83 cents per share of common stock, compared with $93.4 million, or $2.03 a share, for the same period of 1967.

PROFITS ABOVE

Chrysler's profits were 31 per cent above the previous nine-month record of $136.4 million set in the industry's bonanza year of 1965, and were only $21.9 million below 1967's total earnings of $200.4 million.

Sales by Chrysler and its worldwide subsidiaries totaled $5.3 billion in the three quarters ended Sept. 30, a gain of 25 per cent over the previous high of $4.2 billion for the first nine months of last year.

The third quarter traditionally is the industry's slowest and Chrysler sales were $1.6 billion, up 16 per cent over the record of $1.3 billion rung up in the same quarter last year.

Profits for the third quarter were $29.7 million, or 63 cents a share, compared with $26.8 million, or 58 cents a share, for the third quarter of 1967.

THIRD QUARTER

Chrysler's best third quarter ever was that of 1950, when earnings were $65.7 million, but profits for the full year only $127.8—or $50.7 million less than in this year's first nine months.

Chrysler's mid-year report last July showed $148.8 million in earnings on sales of $3.7 billion.

* * *

Chrysler said that for the sixth consecutive year it had improved its share of the American market, with its sales in the first nine months accounting for 18.5 per cent of the sales of U. S. made cars, against 17.2 per cent for 1967.

The company said sales by its Simca subsidiary of France were up 20 per cent this year, compared with a year ago, and that sales by Rootes of England, also a subsidiary, were up, despite what it said was a reduced automotive demand in the United Kingdom. It gave no percentage for Rootes.

Sales of Chrysler products manufactured in Austrialia were up 23 per cent in the first nine months, compared with 1967, a a record of 110,654 Dodge trucks were reported sold in the first three quarters.

DETROIT (AP)—The highest auto production in nearly three years was scheduled this week by the nation's auto industry.

Assembly lines were set to produce 216,991 cars through Saturday, the trade paper Automotive News reported. This was the heaviest volume since 217,087 were built in the week of Nov. 29-Dec. 4, 1965. Last week, the automakers produced 209,632 cars and in the same week a year ago their output was 149,011.

* * *

The automakers scheduled overtime work at 39 plants on Saturday, compared with overtime at 28 facilities last week.

The production schedules boosted the output so far this year to 6,911,509 cars, compared with 5,720,555 in the corresponding period of 1967.

TRUCK OUTPUT

The firms ordered 41,641 trucks built this week, compared with 42,390 last week and 24,541 in the comparable week of 1967. The output brought the calendar year total to 1,555,535, compared with 1,263,566 at the same point of 1967.

Canadian automakers scheduled production of 19,386 cars this week, a drop from the 23,527 last week but an increase over the 13,562 in the same week last year. The output brought car production to 664,526 so far this year, compared with 543,159 in the same span of 1967.

* * *

Truck assemblies in Canada totaled 5,296 this week, compared with 6,999 last week and 2,525 in the year-ago week. This brought the calendar-year truck total in Canada to 213,937, compared with 177,593 in the same period last year.

Philip May Retirement OK'd by MSU

EAST LANSING (UPI) — Philip J. May, treasurer and chief financial officer at Michigan State University, was granted retirement Thursday by the board of trustees only one month after they deadlocked 4-4 on a vote to dismiss him.

His retirement is effective June 30 1969.

* * *

In a letter to MSU President John A. Hannah, May said that unfavorable publicity surrounding him would make it "difficult" to carry out his duties. "Such publicity could continue to subject the university to unfair criticism," he added.

May has been with the university 21 years.

HANNAH PRAISES MAY

Hannah said the university would miss May's "competent" service and "accurate business judgement and sound management practice."

"No one — no auditor, no investigator, no supplier, no critic — has ever so much as hinted that this university or the people of the state ever lost as much as a penny by reason of Mr. May's private business transactions," he added.

New Status Symbol? It's the Lawn Tractor

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK—Do you remember how dazzled the neighbors were when you rolled up to the house in your new chrome-shiny automobile, its 400 horses restrained but ready, its interior as sumptuous as an old-fashioned parlor?

CUNNIFF

Want to relive that thrill? Today you do it with a tractor perhaps one of the 14-horsepower jobs with attached lawn mower and snow thrower, electric starting, four speeds, solid state radio, chrome hubcaps . . .

* * *

In suburbia, two cars fail today to have the impact of just one big new car a few years ago. In 1961 17 per cent of American families owned two cars; now it's 32 per cent, too high for snobbery.

The tractor instead is the thing to rouse the envy of your neighbors, to use up that leisure time constructively and, incidentally, to get the work done.

'MAN TOY'

"We call it the man toy," said a spokesman for International Harvester, one of the biggest of the early 50 companies that make lawn tractors of one size or another. "Many buyers don't need them; they could get by with something smaller."

Studying the warranty tags that come back to the factory, the IH man finds the average purchaser is a $12,000-a-year man owning ½ acre or more. But some also are two-home owners, perhaps with a vacation home in the country.

* * *

Another marketing man, from Deere & Co., claims his outfit brought out its biggest lawn tractor at 14 h.p. as something for motels and institutions. "But we can't stop home owners from buying them," he said.

Not that any manufacturer would try to stop them. They couldn't. Demand goes up each year, and something like 300,000 might be sold in 1968. Lawns someday might be the most mechanized real estate in America, aside from federal highways.

HORSEPOWER BATTLE

One manufacturer estimates that nearly three million riding mowers and yard tractors now cruise suburban lawns. Make that figure 25 million if you count the old machines, the low prestige types, the power mowers you must walk behind.

And just as on the highway, there's a real horsepower battle out on the lawn. For a while the industry seemed to stall at a top range of 14 h.p. Then this month one manufacturer announced a 15 h.p. job.

* * *

Will others now be content with their 14 horses? Likely not, for each year, marketing studies show, people trade up to bigger models. It goes this way:

You buy a power lawn mower and like the feel of it. You might even become a two-mower family. You get bored, especially since your neighbor bought himself one with a seat. So you trade up into the riding mower class.

NEED MORE POWER

Soon you get less kick out of waving to your envious neighbors. You need more power man. You buy a tractor, perhaps a 7 h.p. machine with mower and snow thrower. The horsepower race is on.

* * *

Steadily during the 1960s the maximum power for lawn tractors has risen from 7 to 10 to 12 to 14 and 15. As buyers traded up they often bought more attachments as well. There are probably 50 conventional ones to choose from.

* * *

"We give a man a lot of reasons for buying with all these attachments," said the IH man, the one who calls these rigs "man toys." Among them: harrows, planters, rollers, sprayers, loaders, hole diggers, enclosed cabs.

Soon the owner is pushing, digging, loading, throwing or hauling anything found on his land, including snow, earth, rocks, rubbish. He has as much fun as a kid with a pail and shovel, and often just as much leisure to indulge his pleasure.

KEY REASON FOR SALES

But besides prestige, the move to the suburbs and beyond, leisure and play, there's at least one other important reason for rising sales.

"More and more these tractors are something for fathers to buy for their teen-age sons so they can work in the summertime," said the IH man.

* * *

A youngster," he said, "can earn enough money in summer to pay his way through college. It's becoming a widespread trend. People need to have the work done but help is hard to get. And these tractors do the job quickly and neatly."

The initial investment for a new tractor can be less than $500, but the needed attachments then must be purchased. For an equipped 14 h.p. or 15 h.p.-machine the cost will be over $2,000.

But think of all the fun.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. We're in our late 30s and very conservative investors. We know we should buy growth stocks but have always settled for income instead. Have you any suggestions on investing the $10,000 we now have available? — G.D.

A. A carefully selected package of electric utility issues, representing areas of the country where population growth should prove most rapid, would be suitable for a conservative investor. The utilities have overall an enviable record of earnings and dividend increases but, because higher yields have been available elsewhere, the group has been in disfavor. As a consequence earnings multiples peaked out in the mid-60s and many fine growth utilities are obtainable today at reasonable levels.

The five companies reviewed below have been selected primarily for their strategic geographic locations and secondly for their growth records over the past decade. Each, with a history of annual dividend increases, currently provides an adequate yield.

Delmarva Power & Light furnishes electricity and gas to commercial, residential and industrial customers in Delaware, Maryland and Virginia. Over the last 10 years earnings growth has been uninterrupted, averaging over 10 per cent year to year.

Gulf States Utilities, serving Texas and Louisiana where oil and chemical industries predominate is predicting a 12 per cent long-range compound annual growth rate. Because of a greater number of common shares outstanding and increased preferred dividend requirements, a slowdown may be seen this year.

Long Island Lighting operates both in densely settled sections and also in Suffolk County where population should expand at an above-average rate.

Nevada Power, serving an area where two-thirds of the homes are all-electric, should benefit from continued government-sponsored building programs for space and nuclear projects.

Public Service of Colorado is Public service of Colorado is expected to maintain its 10 per cent annual growth rate, particularly since its largest single customer — American Metal Climax — has opened a new mining operation.

Equal dollar amounts placed in these five issues should enhance your capital over the next decade while producing a moderate return.

A LADY EATS PIE—When you go to the Circleville, Ohio, pumpkin festival you should eat pumpkin pie. Amy Allardyce, 8-month-old daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. David Allardyce, of Circleville, did just that. Here she is shown in four scenes while working on her whole pie. Her mother took her home for a bath and a change of clothing.

Transplant of Teeth Is Success

ANN ARBOR—Clinical tests and X rays have just revealed that oral surgeons at the University of Michigan School of Dentistry apparently have transplanted teeth successfully between related patients.

The operation was performed in February 1968 under local anesthetic. Two bicuspids were extracted from 16-year-old Margy Batten and transplanted into the upper jaw of her 13-year-old brother, Bill.

* * *

Now, eight months later, X rays show that a new layer of dentin is being formed inside the pulp canal; new sockets have developed in the jaw; and both teeth are viable.

A conventional pulp test indicates that the nerve supply is migrating into the new teeth.

FIRST INSTANCE

In announcing these results, Dr. James R. Hayward, professor of dentistry and head of dental oral surgery at the University of Michigan Hospital, said, "Although heterogenous tooth transplants (between different individuals) have been attempted for centuries, this may be the first instance in which the teeth survived with a viable pulp."

In previous attempts, Dr. Hayward said, the teeth either refused to "take" in the recipient's jaw or succumbed to his natural defenses which resorb bone.

* * *

However, a number of autogenous transplants—from one part of the mouth to another part in a single patient—have been successful.

The opportunity to transplant teeth between related patients arose when Dr. David G. Lehman of Elkhart, Ind., referred the two teen-agers to the U-M Dental School for consultation.

Dr. Lehman has been treating both Margy and Bill for orthodontic problems.

U-M oral surgeons found that the girl's bicuspids were impacted—wedged between the jawbone and other teeth—and that her brother's had never developed.

They saw that the brother stood to benefit from a transplant if it could be achieved.

Unlike the heart transplant recently performed at the University of Michigan, immunosuppressive drugs were not used in the tooth transplant.

THOSE WERE THE DAYS—Campaign-button collector Elmer A. Piercy shows off some of his best as he mourns that the 1968 vote drive is a dull one.

Button Collector Says It's a Dull Campaign

VICTORVILLE, Calif. (AP) — It's a dull campaign for the political button collectors, say Elmer A. Piercy. His own collection—which he values at $50,000—contains 20,000 political items dating back to George Washington.

"I sometimes wonder if the campaign button as such may not be vanishing from the American scene," Piercy said.

★ ★ ★

"It seems that nobody's wearing them any more, except for the novelties—'vote for Someone' or 'Elect Pat Paulsen' or 'Vote for Snoopy.'"

Piercy says Richard M. Nixon buttons like 'Nixon-Agnew" or "Tell It Like It Is" are not what he considers sparkling.

ONLY A MONOGRAM

He noted that Hubert H. Humphrey's supporters have rested mainly on the "HHH" monogram. And the George C. Wallace camp has even less, said Piercy.

There is nothing like the "hole-in-the shoe" pins for Adlai Stevenson or the John Kennedy rocking chair, he said.

★ ★ ★

One pin, however, has caught Piercy's fancy: "Nixon has what he needs—a gnu face."

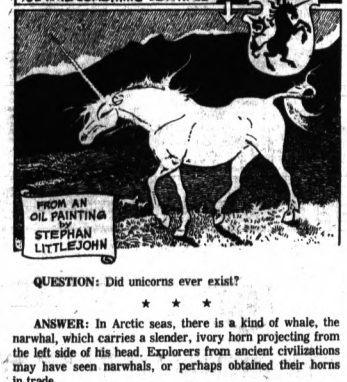
For real interest, Piercy likes to recall the William McKinley-William Jennings race of 1896. McKinley supporters turned out 900 items while the Bryan camp came out with 300.

McKinley just sat on his front porch, says Piercy, while Bryan stumped the country. McKinley won.

A "coffin" showing a Bryan who "talked himself to death" will bring up to $200, Piercy said.

As of the end of May 1968, each citizen's share of the national debt was $91 greater than the same date in 1967.

Junior Editors Quiz on UNICORNS



QUESTION: Did unicorns ever exist?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: In Arctic seas, there is a kind of whale, the narwhal, which carries a slender, ivory horn projecting from the left side of his head. Explorers from ancient civilizations may have seen narwhals, or perhaps obtained their horns in trade.

Ancient artists were impressed with the idea of an animal with one horn on his head, instead of the two found on cattle and deer. One of them must have experimented with the idea of putting the long narwhal horn on the head of a white horse.

The result was so stirring and beautiful that unicorns, or one horns, became widely used in ancient and medieval art, sometimes as symbols of fierceness, sometimes of purity.

Knights often used unicorns on their shields as heraldic devices. These, of course, were purely imaginary and mythical creatures. No real unicorn ever existed. But unicorns still stir the feelings of artists, as our picture shows.

Ancient unicorns often had beards and cloven hoofs, but the artist of our picture has painted his unicorn in the way he liked it the best.

GM Suggestion Top Increased

The maximum suggestion award payable through the General Motors suggestion plan has been increased from $6,000 to $10,000, Louis G. Seaton vice president in charge of personnel staff, announced today. The increase in the maximum award is effective immediately.

"The increase in the maximum suggestion award is made to provide added incentive for eligible employes to submit more constructive suggestions of value to themselves and to General Motors," Seaton said.

★ ★ ★

This is the fifth time that the top award has been increased, and the largest in the 26-year history of the suggestion plan. During the past 26 years there have been 2,249 maximum awards under the plan of which 130 were made last year — the Silver Anniversary year.

Earlier this year the GM Suggestion Plan achieved a significant milestone when the amount paid out since its inception for award winning suggestions topped $100 million. For the first six months of 1968 the total amount of awards was in excess of $7 million. A record for the period.

State Hospital, MSU Agree on Program

Pontiac State Hospital and Michigan State University yesterday entered into an agreement to cooperate in medical programs.

The agreement provides for instruction of resident physicians and MSU medical students.

★ ★ ★

Programs planned include field trips and summer extern programs for MSU medical students, exchange of residents in psychiatry when the MSU medical school progresses to that point and MSU faculty appointments for qualified PSH staff members.

Pontiac State Hospital previously had approved the agreement.

★ ★ ★

MSU plans to start a resident medical program when a full medical curriculum is approved by the Legislature. The university has admitted three classes of 26 students each in the medical program authorized thus far.

Net Income Up

Garlock Inc. today reported net income of $2,108,465 for the 39 weeks ended Sept. 29, equivalent to $1.09 per share — an increase of 9 per cent over last year's comparable $1,932,854 or $1.06 per share.

Murder Trial Is Resumed

Pathologist Testifies in Hospital Slaying

The first witness to appear after two days of legal maneuvering in the trial of a Pontiac man charged with the knife slaying of a Pontiac State Hospital patient testified yesterday that the victim's body was cut 60 to 70 times.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Thomas J. Petinga, state hospital pathologist, said the wounds inflicted on 19-year-old Dannelda Stewart were too numerous for an accurate count.

★ ★ ★

Charged with first-degree murder in the May 31 killing is Edward J. Stockwell, 26, of 999 James K, also a patient at the hospital.

He was arrested by Pontiac police a few hours after a guard discovered Miss Stewart's body in a little-used building on the hospital grounds.

★ ★ ★

Previous action in the case included Oakland County Circuit Judge William J. Beer's order earlier this month that Stockwell stand trial, after three psychiatrists testified that the defendant is capable of assisting in his own defense.

★ ★ ★

This followed an unsuccessful attempt by defense attorney Leonard Peres to have Stockwell declared a criminal sexual psychopath — a declaration which would have committed him to a mental institution without criminal procedure.

Another Executive Joins OCC Exodus

Another top administrator at Oakland Community College is leaving the college. Now only four original administrators are left.

Bruce A. King Jr., director of physical facilities, told the board of trustees last night that he would leave his post Dec. 31 to accept a position in private business in the Pontiac area.

★ ★ ★

He is the 10th high-level administrator to leave within about 1½ years.

King, who is responsible for planning and construction of buildings, joined OCC in February 1965.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business, the board approved revised 1968-69 general fund budget, upping it from $6.8 million as adopted in April to $8.9 million.

"This budget has now been revised to relefet the tremendous student growth," Walter H. Nikkol, director of business, explained.

Total college enrollment jumped from 5,487 in 1967-68 to 10,024 this year.

"The revised expenditures includes not only new faculty employed due to this growth but salaries that were negotiated in June for this fiscal year," he said. "Income was also adjusted upward to reflect the new student enrollment."

BREAKDOWN

A breakdown of the $8.9 million includes $7.9 million for operation of the college and $975,659 for community services.

The revised budget puts OCC in the red — about $311,000 worth — compared to April's estimate of $444,000 of income in excess of expenditures.

★ ★ ★

Nikkol said the college has never ended up in the red and that some adjustments will have to be worked out. He mentioned that unexpected revenue could come from the federal government or some programs might have to be cut back.

ENROLLMENT

An enrollment report given by S. James Manilla, college director of Educational Services, shows that in one year OCC has grown faster than eight other community colleges in the state.

OCC's enrollment went up 82.7 per cent. Monroe Community College had the next greatest increase, almost 35 per cent.

★ ★ ★

Macomb County Community College increased to 12,600 students, up 20 per cent; Flint Community Junior College, 7,081 students, up 8 per cent; and Henry Ford Community College, an estimated 12,000 students, up more than 3 per cent.

County Tries Clinic to Lure Teacher Subs

There are hundreds of potential substitute teachers in Oakland County, but the problem for school people is to find them.

A major problem is that many people don't know they can be a sub with only two years of college credit in any field, says Duane Tester, regional director of Michigan State University's Continuing Education Service at Oakland University.

★ ★ ★

With a minimum of 60 college semester hours of credit, a person can get a 90-day substitute teacher permit. They can teach for 90 days during the school year at an average salary in Oakland County of $26 per day.

Almost every school district in Oakland County needs substitute teachers, according to Tester.

WORKSHOP OFFERED

For the first time in this area, MSU Continuing Education is offering a workshop for working and potential substitute teachers to give them "self assurance," Tester says.

First of the six sessions at the workshop will be held 7 to 9 p.m. Monday in Room 195 of the Science Building at Oakland University. Registration will be held then. The fee is $15.

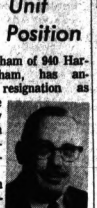
GOP Is Stuck Without Stickers

BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP) — The Gallatin County Republican party headquarters has placed a rush order for more bumper stickers and lapel buttons for GOP candidates.

Someone broke into the headquarters and stole several thousand stickers and buttons, party officials reported.

Head of County OCCEO Unit Resigns Position

Carl F. Ingraham of 940 Harmon, Birmingham, has announced his resignation as chairman of the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity (OCCEO).



INGRAHAM

Ingraham, an attorney, chaired the county antipoverty effort for over four years. He said he was resigning because of other business. He is a candidate for the new post of district judge.

Ingraham seeks a judgeship in the 48th District which encompasses West Bloomfield and Bloomfield townships, including Birmingham.

He said he would stay on the OCCEO as a commissioner.

Accrued interest to date of delivery of such bonds must be paid by the purchaser at the time of delivery. Both principal and interest will be payable at such bank or trust company as shall be designated by the original purchaser of the bonds, subject to the approval by the Township, which paying agent qualifies as such under the Statutes of the State of Michigan or of the Federal Government.

1974— 5,000	1982— 5,000	1990— 5,000
1975— 5,000	1983— 5,000	1991— 5,000
1976— 10,000	1984— 10,000	1992— 10,000

Bonds maturing in the years 1969 and 1970 shall not be subject to redemption prior to maturity. The bonds maturing in the years 1971 thru 1992 are subject to redemption at the option of the Township, in direct numerical order, on any one or more interest payment dates on and after August 1, 1970, at the par value thereof and accrued interest. Notice of redemption shall be given to the holders of bonds called for redemption by publication of such notice not less than thirty (30) days prior to the date fixed for redemption, at least once in a newspaper or publication circulated in the City of Detroit, Michigan, which carries as a part of its regular service, notices of the sale of municipal bonds. Bonds so called for redemption shall not bear interest after the date fixed for redemption, provided funds are on hand with the paying agent to redeem the same.

The said bonds are to be issued in anticipation of the collection of an equal amount of special assessments against bonds in special assessment district No. 114, to defray part of the cost of constructing sanitary sewers in said Special Assessment District in the Charter Township of Waterford, and in addition will pledge the full faith and credit of the Township for the payment of the principal and interest thereon. Interest due on said bonds on February 1, 1969, is capitalized and payable from the bond proceeds.

If the receipts from the special assessments in anticipation of which the bonds of this series are issued, shall not be sufficient to meet the payment of the principal of and interest on said bonds when due, then moneys shall be advanced from the general fund of the Township to meet such deficiency.

For the purpose of awarding the bonds, the interest cost of each bid will be computed by determining, at the rate or rates specified therein, the total dollar value of interest on the bonds from November 1, 1968 to their respective maturities and deducting therefrom any premium. The bonds will be awarded to the bidder whose bid on the above computation produces the lowest interest cost to the Township. No proposal for the purchase of less than all of the bonds or at a price less than par value will be considered.

A certified or cashier's check in the amount of $3,000 drawn upon an incorporated bank or trust company and payable to the order of the Township Treasurer must accompany each bid as a guarantee of good faith on the part of the bidder, to be forfeited as liquidated damages if such bid be accepted and the bidder fails to take up and pay for the bonds. No interest shall be allowed on the good faith checks and checks of the unsuccessful bidders will be promptly returned to each bidder's representative or by registered mail.

Sex Education Has Hang-Up

Suitable Teachers Lacking

By Science Service

NEW YORK—Many teachers turn red in bringing up sex in the classroom; others inflict on the schoolchildren their own sex hang-ups, some apparently relish the sanction to spout four-letter words.

So while sex education in the schools is backed by parents, pushed by professional groups and studied by mental health organizations, it runs afoul of a basic problem: the teachers.

★ ★ ★

A few short years ago teachers provided sex education at their own risk. At most, students might see cartoon films depicting biological functions.

★ ★ ★

That period is rapidly passing, helped into oblivion by the Sex Education and Information Council of the United States (SEICUS), an agency which has been pressing for improved sex education since its inception four years ago.

500 REQUESTS

The agency now receives monthly some 500 requests for educational material. School boards still step lightly around the subject, but where community polls have been taken, they reveal that parents want the schools to undertake sex education.

No figures are available on the number of new sex education programs being offered in response to the demand, but authorities estimate there may be about 100.

The critical problem, which neither SEICUS nor anyone else has solved, is lack of suitable teachers.

★ ★ ★

In some cases permission to teach about sex is an opening for teachers to inflict their own problems with the subject on the students, says Dr. Gerald Sandson, a child psychiarist at the National Institute of Mental Health.

Dr. Sandson says he believes it is better for children to get distorted information from their own age group than from authorities in the classroom.

He says he was enthusiastic about sex education before last spring, when he met a group of 50 teachers and counselors attending a sex education workshop.

★ ★ ★

Many of them were riding roughshod over an area the youngsters are grappling with, says Dr. Sandson. "Some had their own sexual axes to grind; others almost relished their ability to say four-letter words."

Teacher preparedness is a primary concern of SEICUS, which is attacking the problem by sending out consultants to speak in schools and before teacher workshops. This year there were 58 such workshops, as contrasted to only 12 in 1967.

MORE INSTRUCTIVE?

It may be more instructive for teachers to hear experts talk about sex than to receive sensitivity training—a kind of group therapy—says Dr. James Liemerman, chief of the NIMH center for studies in child and family health and a member of the SEICUS board.

He disagrees with pessimism about teachers' capabilities in sex education, but concedes that problems arise from both sexually inhibited adults and the overeager ones, whose desires to teach about sex often arise from exhibitionism.

★ ★ ★

Nevertheless he adds, "The more sources from which young people get sex information the better—so long as some of the sources are good. A schoolteacher is likely to be better than a garage mechanic."

Wilson's Friars Club Pals Prove to Be Good Roasters

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — After years of reporting the famous Friars Club roasts where they said the most outrageous things about their guests, the tables were turned and miniscule me was the guest of dishonor. I'd be unfair if I didn't publish what they said about me.

WILSON

"He once drove a cab — he must have — he's a hack writer" . . .

"His scoops are numerous. He was first with the news that Lynda Bird Johnson was marrying George Hamilton. Last year somebody told him about World War II and he printed it as a rumor. He is a familiar figure at all night-club openings, sleeping soundly at a ringside table. He is a great audience for comedians, because compared to him, Ed Sullivan is a laughing hyena. He discovered many busty starlets and made unknowns out of them. General Le May was going to be here for him but he couldn't get his foot out of his mouth."

* * *

That's the way it went and that's only the printable part. Eddie Schaeffer was a brilliant m.c., with Arthur Godfrey, Pat Henry, Ed Sullivan, Bobby Morse, Joey Adams, William B. Williams, Joe E. Lewis, Jack Dempsey, Robert Merrill, Bobby Shields, Bobby Ramsen, Henny Youngman, and Harry Hershfield dais-sitting. Hershfield left early. He was 83 Oct. 14. Joey Adams explained, "He went to visit his son in an old-age home."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Hefty "Mama Cass" Elliott, formerly of the Mamas and the Papas, opened solo at Las Vegas Caesars Palace, announcing: "I have my own career now — now it's just me and Julie Andrews fighting it out for those roles" . . . Henry Fonda (now in "Boston Strangler") showed off snapshots of his granddaughter (via dtr. Jane) at L'Etoile . . . The pants-for-gals fashion seems here to stay — Jane Morgan ordered 50 pairs.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A man, asked how he managed to look so slim, said, "Well, you know the body is 80 per cent water — and right now the tide is out." — Andrew C. Scola, Somers Point, N.J.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "A diehard in my neighborhood," writes Wallace Davis of Houston, "has a Woodrow Wilson sticker on the windshield of his Hupmobile."

EARL'S PEARLS: Phyllis Diller insists her cookbook will be something different: "After each recipe I'll give the antidote."

Comic Slappy White auditioned for a TV show and was asked what he could do in three minutes. "In that time," he said, "all I can do is boil an egg." . . . That's earl, brother.

Judge Avoids Row on Length of Skirts, Hair

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A federal judge refused Thursday to inject himself into arguments over the length of a girl's skirt or a boy's hair.

U.S. District Judge Frank Gray Jr., declined to order the readmission of two Donelson High School students who were suspended because they refused to cut their hair and shave their beards.

* * *

When an attorney for the boys, Barry Barnes and Michael Jackson, both 16, brought up the argument about the length of girls' skirts, Gray said: "This court can't tell how high the skirt should be. That—thank God—is something the federal courts have not yet been asked to determine.

* * *

Barnes and Jackson said they needed beards and long hair to make it as musicians in a rock band. But school officials told them to decide between school and a job.

A Look at TV

'Soul'---Black 'Laugh-In'

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK — The marked family resemblance between the weekly "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-in" and Thursday night's NBC special "Soul" was no accident. It was a demonstration that the entertainment recipe developed by the "Laugh-in" producers is flexible and adaptable.

"Soul" was r ally a Negro "Laugh-in." George Schlatter and Ed Friendly, fathers of the Monday night hit series, assembled a number of talented and attractive Negro performers—singers, dancers, comedians—and assigned the writing to a team from the Watts Writers Workshop. Then they mixed the music, the jokes and the sketches like a tossed salad. The result was fast, funny and handsome.

* * *

There was more singing and dancing and more impressive production numbers than on the parent show. And, of course, it was possible to slant the humor toward Negro-white relationships, and present inside Negro jokes. While it was brash, irreverent and sometimes a little risque, it was never bitter.

Lou Rawls and Martha Reeves and the Vandellas stuck to their musical specialties, while another singing act, Hines, Hines and Dad, moved out of their usual repertoire to join the comedy with great success. The burden of the topical humor was on the professional funny men—George Kirby, Redd Foxx, Nipsey Russell and Slappy White. In "Laugh-in" style, endless short takes and wise cracks were mixed with some pretty old jokes. The humor was aimed at everything from the Ku Klux Klan to the Negroes themselves.

IT WAS REFRESHING

It was refreshing and excellent entertainment. Schlatter and Friendly hope the special will persuade the network to expand it into a weekly series. The product was very persuasive.

* * *

Earlier there was another engaging special on the network, "Fabulous Shorts," a delightful hour dedicated to showing, in whole or in part, animated cartoon films that have won Oscars.

Son of RFK Hospitalized

BOSTON (AP) — Joseph P. Kennedy III, oldest son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, has been a patient at New England Baptist Hospital since Tuesday, it was disclosed Thursday night.

The nature of his ailment was not revealed.

* * *

The 15-year-old Kennedy broke both legs in skiing accidents over the past two years. Last June he suffered a minor gash in the head at Seville, Spain, while trying a matador's role with a bull calf.

Actor to Pay

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Lorne Greene must pay $3,720 more than he did for remodeling work on his fashionable home, a Superior Court judge ruled Thursday. Greene, star of television's "Bonanza," was sued for $10,291, the amount contractor Warren H. Nathanson said was due on a $33,610 job. Greene countersued for $23,700, claiming he was overcharged that amount.

They'll Wed Within 3 Days

Jackie Flies to Her Beau

ATHENS (AP) — Jacqueline Kennedy arrived in Greece today to marry one of the world's richest men, Aristotle Onassis, ending five years of speculation about the future of the glamorous presidential widow.

As Mrs. Kennedy stepped from the plane and walked down the steps, she was greeted by Onassis, who had flown from Athens to take his bride on to Scorpios, the small scorpion-shaped island he owns south of Corfu.

They will be married there tomorrow "or within three days at the latest," Onassis told newsmen in Athens.

★ ★ ★

Onassis said they would spend their honeymoon on Scorpios "unless Jackie wants to make a tour of the Mediterranean with Christina," his palatial yacht named for his 18-year-old daughter by his first marriage.

FAMILY AFFAIR

Asked about guests at the wedding, the 62-year-old Onassis replied: "The only thing I know is that it will be a close family affair. The rest I'll have to arrange with Jackie."

The wedding will unite the 39-year-old widow of assassinated President John F. Kennedy, left a wealthy woman by him, and a shipping magnate 23 years her senior who is often dubbed the "Golden Greek."

★ ★ ★

Onassis was divorced in 1960 after 14 years of marriage to the former Tina Livanos, daughter of another multimillionaire Greek shipowner. They had two children, and she later married England's Marquis of Blandford, the Duke of Marlborough's heir.

Mrs. Kennedy's plans to wed were announced Thursday in New York by her mother, Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, whose brief statement said: "My daughter, Mrs. John F. Kennedy, is planning to marry Mr. Aristotal Onassis."

ORTHODOX CEREMONY

Because the wedding will be in Greece, Greek law requires a Greek Orthodox ceremony. It seemed most unlikely that there would be a companion ceremony in Mrs. Kennedy's Roman Catholic faith because Onassis is divorced and the church prohibits such a marriage unless it finds his first union invalid.

Bomb-Halt Delay Tied to Hanoi Rift

WASHINGTON (AP) — Disagreement between "hawks" and "doves" in Hanoi may be delaying a response to Washington proposals for ending all bombing of North Vietnam, diplomatic authorities here believe.

These authorities suggest a debate has been going on within the North Vietnamese leadership over the issue of giving assurances of limiting the war on the Communist side if President Johnson halts attacks on the North.

The North Vietnamese, according to allied diplomats in Paris, have a choice of actions to assure Washington they would not take advantage of a bombing halt.

But Paris sources said the actions need not be announced in advance by Hanoi as long as they materialize.

SAIGON ROLE STRESSED

The Paris sources said the U.S. proposals were made contingent on firm acceptance by Hanoi of the Saigon government as a party to any ultimate peace negotiations.

Participation in some form of the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Vietcong guerrilas in South Vietnam, was said to have been conceded by the United States.

Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate Republican leader, meanwhile said he had learned in discussions with President Johnson that a breakthrough was expected in the Paris peace talks.

Johnson's requirements have been reported to include restoration of the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam, with removal of Communist forces from the zone, and an end to terror attacks on South Vietnamese cities and towns.

★ ★ ★

U.S. officials say that arrangement for a bombing halt have been thoroughly covered in consultations with governments allied in the war, including the South Vietnamese government, and that the "hang-up" is now entirely in Hanoi.

MSU-OU Budget Stirs Controversy

It's budget time again for the state's colleges and already there is controversy over the budget for Oakland University and Michigan State University, both governed by the same board of trustees.

Oakland University followers will remember last year's legislative struggle to get nearly $5.2 million in operating funds.

★ ★ ★

A MSU-OU budget request for 1969-70 yesterday drew some dissension from trustees in a meeting in East Lansing.

Trustee C. Allen Harlan, Democrat from Southfield, refused to vote on the budget, saying he was dissatisfied with it, and left the room. Clair White, Republican from Bay City, cast the one vote against it.

TOTAL REQUEST

The total budget request of $77.4 million for operating expenses, up $15.1 million over the current fiscal year, includes $7.6 million for Oakland. It is an increase of more than $2.5 million over 1968-69.

The trustees voted 6-1 to send the request to State Treasure Allison Greene for scrutiny.

★ ★ ★

Harlan, objected that more than 68 per cent of the professors at Michigan State are paid more than $15,000 a year compared to less than 15 per cent at the University of Detroit.

MSU draws more students percentagewise from the rich suburbs, such as Birmingham, than from Detroit, Harlan declared. This, he said, makes Detroit citizens pay three times more in support for the university than it receives in value.

★ ★ ★

"Birmingham will be burning," Harlan predicted just before he walked out.

This was a reference to what he has contended is innercity resentment against preferential educational treatment for students from more affluent families.

School Election Set in Waterford

The Waterford Township Board of Education last night called for a millage increase and bond issue election for Dec. 7. The amounts of the millage and bonds to be asked have yet to be determined.

Donald W. Porter, board president, indicated the theme of the election drive would be "Give your child a Christmas present of a full day's education."

Related Story, Page A-2

This will be the district's second attempt in just over a year to get more millage from its residents. A 7½-mill request was defeated last November by an almost 2-1 margin. However, in June a millage renewal was approved by voters.

Further meetings were scheduled by the board to determine exact amounts of requests to go on the ballot. On Oct. 29 the board will meet with citizens' committees that have been studying school needs. The board is expected to officially designate the requested amounts at a meeting at 7 p.m. Nov. 1.

DARK PICTURE PAINTED

Dr. Don Tatroe, schools superintendent, painted a dark picture of the district's finances in the 1969-70 school years if the millage is not obtained.

The proposed bond issue will be about $9 million it was indicated. It will be used to construct a fourth junior high school, a new elementary and possibly a second new elementary, plus additions to four or five present elementaries.

★ ★ ★

The Dec. 1 election day is a Saturday, the first time anyone recalled a Saturday election being held in the district. It was pointed out the Avondale School District passed a millage increase recently using a Saturday. It was felt more working residents voted and helped the Avondale election.

Board members said they hoped the Christmas spirit would also help the election. It also was pointed out that the tax increase payments would not be due until December of 1969, over a year later.

Days to register for nonregistered voters will be Nov. 6, 7 and 8.

Apollo 7 Engine Excels in Test

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP) — With a jolting burst of energy, the Apollo 7 astronauts fired their steering engine today in the most powerful maneuver ever made by a manned spaceship.

★ ★ ★

"Rubba-dubba-doo!" shouted Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr. as the huge engine flashed to life and spurted a steady tail of flame for 66 seconds as Apollo 7 raced 120 miles above the Gulf of Mexico.

The engine was the most powerful ever fired on a manned space ship. It had been ignited four times earlier on the Apollo 7 mission, with a maximum burn of 15 seconds. Thus, the amount of energy produced was a record.

★ ★ ★

The 66-second firing today burned two tons of fuel, reducing the weight of the spaceship from about 29,000 to 25,000 pounds.

ADDED SPEED

The burst of energy from the 2,500-pound thrust engine temporarily added 1,120 miles an hour to the speed of the vehicle.

HHH Gives Up on TV Debates

By United Press International

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has given up for now hope of getting his presidential opponents to debate him on national television.

Humphrey late yesterday abandoned plans for a national debate with Republican nominee Richard M. Nixon because, he said, Nixon has consistently refused.

See Related Stories, Pages A-10, A-12, A-13

"We must abandon plans for a televised debate . . ." Humphrey said in a telegram to third-party candidate George C. Wallace.

Humphrey told Wallace Nixon has refused to face either of his two opponents in a nationally televised debate.

OFFERED TO PAY FOR IT

The Vice President had offered to pay for an hour of CBS time Sunday, from 10 to 11 p.m., for a three-way meeting with his opponents.

Nixon, ignoring Humphrey's strident calls for a debate, kept his attention on other major issues of the campaign.

★ ★ ★

On the war, Nixon said he would not second-guess President Johnson on whether a bombing halt in Vietnam would endanger American troops.

In other political developments:

Humphrey — The vice president courted labor votes in Detroit, calling Wallace a "union buster" and ignoring Nixon.

'BAYONETS, BOMBS'

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie — The Democratic vice presidential candidate said Wallace offers the nation "bayonets at home and bombs abroad" while Nixon "plays the same tune as Wallace but in a different key."

BETWEEN DIVES—Air Force Lt. Micki King of Pontiac reaches for a towel after a dive off the three-meter springboard yesterday during Olympic competition in Mexico City. Miss King is leading going into tonight's finals. At her side is Dick Kimball of the University of Michigan. He is Micki's coach.

Micki Leading; Finals Tonight

BY BRUNO KEARNS
Sports Editor, The Pontiac Press

MEXICO CITY — History is on the side of Micki King when she bids for the gold medal of the 19th Olympiad in the three-meter springboard of women's diving.

The 24-year-old former Pontiac Central student, now a lieutenant in the Air Force, brought the crowd of 10,000 at poolside to its feet with a spectacular finishing dive in the semifinals to take lead going into tonight's finals.

Micki, who was in third place after the sixth dive, hit her last dive, an inward 1½ sommersault pike for 17.38 quality points to finish the semifinals with 98.17 points.

She took the lead away from Soviet diver Tamara Pogozheva who led after the first dive when she and Micki were tied.

The women's three-meter springboard diving finals are scheduled to be covered by ABC television between 7 and 8:30 tonight. The program will be carried locally by Channel 7.

CLOSE BEHIND

Miss Pogozheva has 97.50 points going into the finals and close behind are American divers Sue Gossick at 97.32 and Kaola O'Sullivan with 95.85.

"This is a new experience for me," said Micki, pointing to the fact that in all of major championships she had never had the lead going into the final round.

Her coach at poolside, Dick Kimball, the diving coach at University of Michigan, has maintained all along that should Micki be in the top five at the semifinals, she could win it all.

Funeral Saturday for Slain Pair

A double funeral for the slain former wife and 7-year-old son of Dr. Daniel J. Boucher, 44, Birmingham orthodontist, will be 11 a.m. tomorrow.

Attendants at Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co., Birmingham, said both caskets would remain closed during the rites.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Blanche Boucher, 52, and her son, Daniel J. Jr., were found shot to death Wednesday evening in their $70,000 brick ranch home on Pine Lake in West Bloomfield Township.

Boucher was arrested the same evening in Birmingham as he left the home of his stepdaughter, Mrs. Ronald Mallek, 1524 Fairway.

SHOTS EXCHANGED

Birmingham police said he had shot his way into the Mallek home through a front picture window and that several shots had been exchanged between Mallek and Boucher.

Now held in Oakland County Jail on an open charge of murder, Boucher's arraignment in Circuit Court has been set for 9 a.m. Oct. 29 before Judge William R. Beasley.

★ ★ ★

Problems involving a property settlement between the Bouchers, recently divorced, were attributed by the Malleks as the cause of Boucher's action.

Wednesday morning the Malleks, Mrs. Boucher, Dr. Boucher, and her attorney, Richard Hudnut of Detroit, appeared before Circuit Court Judge Robert L. Templin at a hearing on an injunction to keep Boucher from violating terms of the divorce settlement.

HUNT CLUB SALE

At issue was his reported recent sale of the $500,000 Tudor Hills Hunt Club, 1488 Romeo, Addison Township, to his manager, George Thomas, a Birmingham insurance agent. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas were also present at the hearing.

Hudnut claimed the sale was an attempted fraud to deprive Mrs. Boucher of her fair settlement, according to Judge Templin, who said he had decided to continue hearings on the matter.

★ ★ ★

The club, the former Claire Buhl estate, had been purchased by Boucher in 1965.

Mallek said he appeared at the hearing because he, as a real estate agent, had been authorized by the Oakland County

Pastore Bottel Trips Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the nation's economy facing the worst crisis in decades, Congress voted for record billions in budget slashes this election year. But many of the members who hacked at national programs, jumped the traces and voted extra millions for home area projects.

One example: When one of the major federal school-aid bills came up in the House June 11, economy lost some luster. This program channels school funds into more than 300 of the 435 congressional districts.

The House voted 226 to 133 to increase the budget figure for this aid by $91 million over President Johnson's recommendation. And among the 226 were 140 who also voted for an overall $6-billion slash in federal spending.

★ ★ ★

Some of those who hammered loudest on the spending lid didn't hesitate to plead with the Public Works Committee that reservoir, flood control and similar projects in their own districts be spared.

Congress did cut about $12 billion net out of Johnson's budget requests of appropriations totaling $138.2 billion, for the fiscal year that began last July 1.

Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., of the House Appropriations Committee told his colleagues they had "reduced the budget requests of the executive branch by a greater amount than ever before in the nation's history."

★ ★ ★

But he added that the actual spending reduction this year brought about by Congress' actions would be only about $4 billion. The lawmakers told the President to find enough additional cuttable items to bring the whole spending reduction to $6 billion. At the same time they marked off large areas he was not to reduce.

The 1968 economy act, which was combined with a 10 per cent income tax surcharge, was championed in the House by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, and in the Senate by Sens. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., and John J. Williams, R-Del.

WARNING TO HOUSE

"It will do no good to take $10 billion out of the American taxpayers' pocket if it is just brought to Washington and spent on additional federal expenditures," Mills told the House as he called June 20 for strict financial belt-tightening.

Among the top champions of economy in the House were Reps. Durward G. Hall, R-Mo.; H. R. Gross, R-Iowa; Joel T. Broyhill, R-Va.; and Otto E. Passman, D-La.

Passman, long a foe of heavy foreign-aid spending, sponsored successfully the smallest aid appropriation bill in history. He emphasized to the House the need for economy.

But when the House Public Works appropriations subcommittee began its review of financing back-home projects, Passman said he hoped "in its wisdom" it would not cut a big project in his district.

Saigon Balking at Bombing Halt

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. fighter-bombers streaked through heavy monsoon clouds again today to continue their daily bombing of North Vietnam while the Saigon government continued to balk at agreeing to a bombing halt.

★ ★ ★

North Vietnam's leaders in Hanoi were reported studying a new U. S. proposal for cessation of all bombing of the North in return for serious moves toward peace by the Communists. But South Vietnam's premier, Tran Van Huong, said his government could accept no such proposal unless it was favorable to South Vietnam.

★ ★ ★

U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker met with President Nguyen Van Thieu again last night to discuss the proposal, but so far the Vietnamese government has not agreed to go along.

★ ★ ★

With the military men it was business as usual although some said they felt an eventual bombing halt now appeared inevitable. More air strikes over North Vietnam's panhandle were planned for tomorrow.

Indonesia Holds Singapore Brass

JAKARTA (AP) — Singapore Ambassador P.S. Raman and his embassy staff were taken in "protective custody" by Indonesian police today as public rage at Singapore's hanging of two Indonesian marines reached fever pitch.

Students ransacked the Singapore consul's residence after similar raids Thursday on the Singapore Embassy and three houses owned by the Singapore government.

The students smeared slogans in the capital, demanding "Hang Lee Kwan Yew," the prime minister of Singapore, and urging Indonesia to sever diplomatic relations with the neighboring island state.

Raman, his staff and the Singapore consul were taken to police headquarters from the Hotel Indonesia, where they had been under the protection of security officers and combat police. They had received death threats from marines who vowed to avenge their comrades' execution.

The two marines, Cpl. Harun Bin Mohamed Ali and Pvt. Usman Bin Said, were hanged Thursday despite clemency appeals from Indonesian President Suharto and Malaysian Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman.

They were convicted three years ago of planting a bomb that killed three persons in Singapore during Indonesia's war against that country and Malaysia.

Exam Thursday for Pontiac Twp. Slaying Suspect

A 48-year-old man charged with the shotgun killing Wednesday of a former Rochester village president faces preliminary examination Thursday on first-degree murder.

★ ★ ★

Waterford Township Justice of the Peace Kenneth H. Hempstead ordered Reginald F. Armstrong of 26 Trulane, Pontiac Township, remanded to Oakland County Jail without bond.

★ ★ ★

Armstrong appeared voluntarily at the Pontiac State Police post about two hours after John J. Lowes, 44, of 2385 Oaknoll Pontiac Township, was found dead in his home.

★ ★ ★

Lowes was the husband of Armstrong's former wife.

REPORT BY WITNESS

Oakland County sheriff's deputies said a witness told them that a man carrying a shotgun entered the Lowes home about noon, then left after a shot was fired.

★ ★ ★

The victim's body was found later by a neighbor who was asked to check the house by Lowes' wife, Barbara.

★ ★ ★

Lowes served as Rochester president in 1965 and 1966 and was a councilman there from 1961—67.

Armstrong, whose address is that of a trailer court, was employed as a trophy salesman. He and Mrs. Lowes separated about two years ago.

Lowes was co-owner of Hills Plumbing and Heating Co. in Rochester. He married Mrs. Lowes last August.

Suit to Halt Water Plans Is Dismissed

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — A lawsuit to halt all planning on this city's proposed water system has been dismissed by Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Farrell E. Roberts.

Roberts acted on a motion by City Attorney David C. Pence that the suit, which challenged the authorization of an April 1968 election, had not been filed within 30 days of the vote.

★ ★ ★

Pence contended that state law requires that an election be challenged within 30 days. The suit was filed Sept. 30 by Justice of the Peace Jack Baldwin.

★ ★ ★

The object of the suit was to stop planning on the projected water system. The suit was aimed at the city and Oakland County, which are currently negotiating a contract concerning the construction and operation of the system.

★ ★ ★

Baldwin had claimed that the April vote was on a "would-you-like" basis with no specific details on the cost of the project. He alleged city officials were given a "blank check."

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Robert Sandoe, headmaster of Cranbrook School, has been elected trustee of a national organization that helps low-income, academically talented students.

Sandoe joins a board of educators and business executives in setting policy for a Better Chance — Independent Schools Talent Search Program (ABC).

★ ★ ★

This board will help these students gain admission to selected independent and public schools with scholarship aid.

With scholarship aid exceeding $2.7 million, ABC is supported through a joint effort by member schools, including Cranbrook, private enterprise and federal funds.

★ ★ ★

Cranbrook School enrolls at present 11 students under the ABC program.

Sandoe's election to the ABC board is his second recignition recently by a national educational organization. In September, he was elected chairman of the board of trustees of the non profit Independent Educational Services of Princeton, N.J.

Bronson Hails Arrest

Extortion Suspect Jailed

The arrest earlier today of a reputed Mafia leader — charged with extortion against a Troy woman — signals a major breakthrough against organized crime, according to Oakland County Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson.

Taken into custody by State Police officers was Joseph Barbara Jr., 32, of Fraser, who was described by a Detroit grand jury two years ago as a Mafia chieftain.

★ ★ ★

Barbarbo's father hosted the 1957 Appalachian, N.Y., crime conference, where 61 reputed organized crime figures were arrested.

Barbara faces arraignment this afternoon in Farmington Township Justice Court on a charge that on March 27 of this year he extorted $4,000 in cash and valuables from a woman by threatening the lives of her husband and son.

The victim's identity is being withheld until after the arraignment.

★ ★ ★

Bronson said he will request that bond be denied because of the alleged death threats. He called the arrest a "knockout blow" against organized crime because of "implications which will be brought to light in the very near future."

★ ★ ★

The owner of a sanitation company based in Detroit, Barbara is married to the daughter of Peter Vitale, another reputed Mafia leader who was night manager of a Detroit restaurant raided by grand jury investigators in 1966.

★ ★ ★

That raid led to the "black book scandal," which allegedly involved the names of prominent Detroiters and members of the police heirarchy there.

They're Older in Waterford

Waterford Township area residents are getting older, it was indicated statisticly in a report received last night by the district's Board of Education.

The report was the official enrollemnt figures for the fall. It showed an increase of 573 over last year bringing total enrollment to 18,239. The increase is about average for the 10-year period.

★ ★ ★

Though declines were shown in most grades below six, substantial gains were shown in grades above that. This would appear to indicate present residents' children are getting older and new residents are arriving with older children.

★ ★ ★

For instance in kindergarten, a decline of 55 pupils was noted. A large increase of 128 was reported in seventh grade. The eighth grade also went up 115. High school increases were, 10th — 106, 11th — 69, and 12th — 120.

DISTRICT SUCCESSFUL

The enrollment figures also showed the district is continuing its success in retaining 12th graders and preventing dropouts. The percentage figure remained near 9 per cent where it has been since the district began its preventative program. In the 58-59 school year the percentage figure of those staying in school was just 71 per cent.

★ ★ ★

In other business the board acted to reject a request by parents with children in Lotus Lake Elementary, 6455 Harper, to restore bus service. A check by officials indicated the children have less than a mile to walk. It is the board's policy to bus only those students who are more than a mile from their building, it was pointed out.

CARPETING FOR MOTT

About $14,000 in carpeting was ordered by the board. Most of it will go in the new Mott High School and about $2,800 worth in Cresent Lake Elementary. A small GMC bus costing $3,230 was ordered to transport emotionally disturbed and deaf children to their special classes.

Final payment of $44,574 for architectural and electrical work at Waterford Township High was also approved.

Kimball, who has coached Micki for six years since she left PCH and studied journalism at the U. of M., said, "It was the most beautiful bit of diving he has ever seen among women's competitor's."

'CAN'T SEE IT'

"Unless she misses one completely or something unforseen happens, and it's possible, I just can't see how Micki can miss winning a medal," said Kimball.

When Micki won the springboard and platform championships in 1965 and 1967 she did it with a great finish in her final dives. In the Olympic trials which won her a spot on the team she moved from eighth to second in the finals.

★ ★ ★

"She does her best under pressure," said Kimball, "and as I've always said there isn't a woman diver in the world who can match Micki on the twist. This is because she springs higher off the board than any woman here."

If this holds true as far as the finals go, Micki will finish with the reverse 1½ with a 1½ twist which has a 2.6 degree of difficulty. She has a forward 2½ somersault and pike planned for the eighth dive and the reverse 1½ somersault layout for the 9th dive, before her finale.

BEST DIVE

"The first dive was my best because it gave the confidence to know I was diving well. The last dive was most important because it put me in the lead," she said afterward.

As the scoring indicated, consistent improvement was the big factor in her success. She started out with 12.48 quality points added 13.60 in the second dive, picked up 14.06 in the third dive, and 12.48 in the fourth dive in the semifinals.

★ ★ ★

She stayed in second place behind the Russian with 13.87 quality points and a total of 64.73, and in the sixth dive she hit 16.06 points before her finish, which saw the judges score between 7½ and 8½ each.

The lowest score accorded her by any one judge was a 6 and the highest an 8½.

★ ★ ★

The finals begin at 7 p.m. Pontiac time.

Boys, Girls Like Coed Scout Rule

NEW YORK (AP) — Girls in a Boy Scout troop?

That's what the Boy Scouts of America says is in store for 1969. And both the boys and girls seem to think it's a fine idea.

The group's executive board announced Thursday, after a unanimous vote, that starting next Jan. 1, the Boy Scouts will "be prepared" to admit girls to the Explorer porgram for boys 14 to 18.

★ ★ ★

"We have known all along that boys were interested in girls," said a spokesman for the 58-year-old organization which has almost 4.5 million members, including more than 300,000 Explorers. "Now, it's an acknowledged fact," he added.

SURVEY RESULTS

A spot survey showed most Explorer Scouts liked the plan.

★ ★ ★

"It's a good idea," said Terry Ruch, 17, of West Chicago, Ill. "A bunch of dizzy dames balance" things, he said, and would porvide an opportunity for different types of programs.

★ ★ ★

Bill Watson, 16, of Dallas, who's been an Explorer for one year, said, "Girls could possibly fit in if the program were carefully planned . . . I think it might be very interesting."

Mark Ohanian, 15, of Burbank, Calif., said, "When you get to a certain age... you don't have much time for scouting and dates too. This will take care of both."

GIRLS APPROVE

The plan won approval on the distaff side also.

Deann Sullivan, 16, of Portland, Ore., said "it sounds like more fun" than the Girl Scouts. And Linda Walters, 15, of Northridge, Calif., who dropped out of scouting a year ago, said, "This could change my mind."

There were some dissenters, however.

Angelo Suran, 15, of Portland, said girls would be too much of a diversion. "If we had any projects to do, we'd never finish them with girls around."

★ ★ ★

Don James of Wichita Falls, Tex., a former Explorer who's now a scoutmaster, said, "People here think scouting should be an outdoor program, strictly."

THAT WAS THEN

Asked whether he would have liked girls in his Explorer troop, James, said, "No. I wouldn't have touched a girl with a 10-foot pole when I was 14."

Son Dead, Father Torches Himself

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — A father grieving his son's death doused himself with alcohol in front of a crowded supermarket last night and set himself afire, police said.

Bernadino Ortega suffered burns over more than 50 per cent of his body and was listed in poor condition at Martland Hospital.

★ ★ ★

According to police and hospital spokesmen, Ortega was at bedside when his hospitalized son, Armando, 37, died late in the afternoon at St. James Hospital.

The younger Ortega had been hospitalized 17 months with burns he suffered in a chemical plant accident.

BURST OF FLAMES

The father sobbed at his son's deathbed and walked from the hospital to the nearby supermarket. There he purchased two quarts of rubbing alcohol, stepped onto the sidewalk and emptied the alcohol on his clothing, police said. He struck a cigarette lighter and went up in a burst of flames before several horrified shoppers.

A shopper beat out the flames with his coat, police said.

During his son's hospitalization Ortega had been a daily visitor.

"He had the run of the hospital," a hospital spokesman said. "He was here sometimes two or three times a day."

Bomb-Halt Speculation Discounted by Rep. Ford

DALLAS (UPI) — House Minority Leader Gerald Ford, R-Mich., discounted Thursday the rumors of a possible bombing halt over North Vietnam. He doubted, if such a halt were called, if it would affect the outcome of the elections.

Ford said the White House usually contacts the leaders of both parties if a drastic change in policy is planned and "so far I have not been contacted."

He said he assumed the reports of a bombing halt were rumors and not fact.

If there is a halt, Ford said, he thought it would come under conditions outlined by President Johnson earlier in what has come to be known as the "San Antonio policy."

RECIPROCAL AGREEMENT

Ford said Johnson would still require Hanoi to make some reciprocal agreement before calling a halt to U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

"But the people of the United States would still look to the administration's handling of the war as a major U.S. blunder," Ford said. For these reasons he did not think a halt would hurt Richard Nixon's chances for the presidency.

Ford was in Dallas as part of what is being termed a series of "congressional leadership briefings."

The eventual aim of the briefings is to win at least 218 seats — a simple majority — in the House of Representatives.

★ ★ ★

Ford predicted the Republican party would win 228 seats in November, including a gain of three seats from Texas.

Disabled Barber Finds Friends

'All of a Sudden, He's Not Alone'

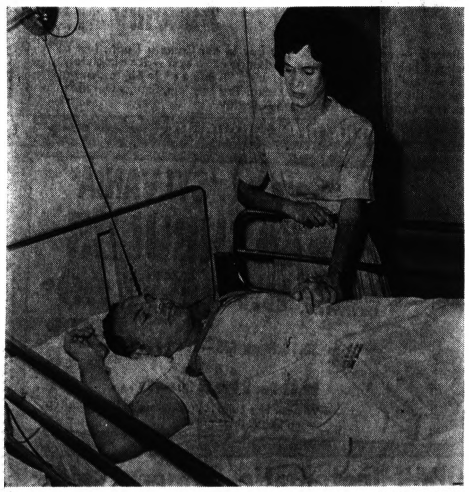
HIGHLAND TOWNSHIP — Last month Duane Applebee, a 34-year-old barber, was driving home after work. When he reached Hickory Ridge Road, his car blew a tire, swerved off the road and hit a tree.

The next morning at Pontiac General Hospital the father of two children learned that a severe injury to his spinal column had paralyzed him from the waist down. Doctors said the paralysis was permanent, but with therapy he could probably work again.

Now, five weeks later, the residents and businessmen of Highland and Milford townships have begun a collective effort to see that an old friend receives the care he needs.

Customers, friends and businessmen are sponsoring projects and making donations to the Duane Applebee fund to send him to the Rehabilitation Institute in Detroit.

"We can't believe how wonderful people have been, all of a sudden we are not alone," said Mrs. Applebee, who works



Pontiac Press Photo

NEW HOPE — Mr. and Mrs. Duane Applebee, of 1930 Hickory Ridge, Highland Township, have hope for the future thanks to friends. He was paralyzed as the result of an automobile accident last month.

insurance would not cover the therapy part-time at the Community National Bank in Milford. She has visited her husband in the hospital every day for the last five weeks.

She added that when they learned their and the social service was unable to help finance the expensive therapy she didn't know where to turn.

★ ★ ★

"Duane has barbered in the area for the last 12 years and we both grew up here but we never expected the people to be so wonderful", she said shaking her head.

She said that her husband is bound to succeed in his efforts to return to work with the proper therapy.

The people who know him obviously have the same kind of faith in Applebee. They have received donations from both the Milford and Highland township supervisors, Jaycees from the two townships, five different manufacturing agencies in the area, and private individuals.

Applebee looked at a picture of the rehabilitation center and stoically said, "So that's going to be my new home."

And with luck, it probably will be.

Hearing Set Today on Lapeer Strike

LAPEER — A hearing was scheduled for 1 p.m. today to determine whether strikers at the Lapeer State Home and Training School should be forced by court order to return to their jobs.

The hearing is on an injunction sought yesterday by Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley after he met with Gov. George Romney and State Civil Service Director Franklin K. DeWald.

★ ★ ★

They issued a joint statement calling the strike by Local 567, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes Union (AFSCME) illegal based on state law which forbids public employes to strike.

A spokesman for the home said that the strike has cut the home's personnel by about 25 per cent in all areas. Minimal custodial care is being maintained. Volunteers and parents have contributed time to continue fairly normal operations. Some parents have taken their children home, the spokesman said.

The union agreed to provide personnel to maintain service for the 3,000-patient home, but an assessment of compliance has not been determined, according to the home's spokesman.

The strike began Wednesday following a meeting with the home's medical superintendent, Dr. Anthony Abruzzo, when he refused to sign an agreement with the union.

Abruzzo told union representatives at that time he would not sign the policy statement until he received an okay from Dr. William Anderson, director of the state mental health department, and the civil service commission.

About 20 pickets demonstrated in front of the home early this morning, according to Lapeer State Police, who with city police, are standing by to prevent any disturbance.

NONPROFESSIONALS

Most of the 145 strikers of the 580-member union are nonprofessionals — attendants and maintenance workers.

More Talks Set in Buick Strike

FLINT (AP) — Negotiators scheduled a new bargaining session for today in efforts to end a United Auto Workers Union local's strike against the Buick Division of General Motors Corp. in Flint.

Some progress was reported Thursday after a 3½-hour session between negotiators for Buick and striking Local 599 of the UAW.

★ ★ ★

The walkout, which began Wednesday, has idled some 21,000 workers. They include 17,000 striking over alleged speedups in parts production and auto assembly and 4,000 who were idled at a companion Fisher Body plant in Flint.

Workers at eight other GM plants around the country face layoffs if a parts shortage occurs because of the strike, a Buick spokesman said.

462 GRIEVANCES

The union local served a strike notice on Buick last week, threatening to walk out unless 462 grievances were settled.

Parts shortages, the Buick spokesman said, could cause layoffs at the Fisher Body plant in Euclid, Ohio, which makes Buick Riviera bodies; the GM Ternstedt Division and A. C. plants in Flint, which supply parts for Buick; and at assembly plants in Wilmington, Del.; Kansas City, Kan.; Doraville, Ga.; Fremont, Calif., and Southgate, Calif.

North American Rockwell Buys Old Temprite Corp. Plant in Troy

TROY — North American Rockwell Corp. has announced purchase of the former Temprite Corp. property at 2345 W. Maple.

★ ★ ★

Temprite Corp., according to its president, George Moule, will move to two new plants in the Chicago area.

The 12 acres involved in the sale include a 65,000-square-foot office and manufacturing building.

★ ★ ★

Robert Anderson, president of the Commercial Products Group of North American Rockwell, said the building will be remodeled and incorporated into a new technical center NAR is planning for its Detroit-based Rockwell-Standard Divisions. Plans include construction of major new facilities, Anderson said.

The Rockwell-Standard Divisions are the world's largest independent producers of mechanical components for motor vehicles, according to the company.

County Health Officials Prepare for Hong Kong Flu

By L. GARY THORNE
Assistant City Editor—Suburban

Hong Kong flu — expected here this winter — may not be as severe as the Asian bug of 10 years ago, according to Oakland County health authorities.

In any event health officials expect the Pontiac area to be prepared for the foreign virus providing there is a "run" on the protective vaccine.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Bernard Berman, county health director, said he expected the Hong Kong influenza would be a milder form than the Asian flu of 1957-58.

The health chief indicated he thought too much concern was being put on the possibilities of a flu epidemic. Berman said his office felt "no extreme concern."

ONE REAL DANGER

"It will strike among the younger people," he explained, "and we'll get high absenteeism in schools."

The only real danger of influenza is the complications, notably pneumonia and encephalitis, Berman further explained. He added that older persons are more subject to complications. There is also a greater danger for those who suffer from chronic disorders.

★ ★ ★

Berman said the concern with the Hong Kong germ is that it is a little different than anything experienced before.

"We don't know just how much protection is in the public now," he said.

PREDICTABLE CYCLE

Influenza, of which there are numberous known strains, follows a fairly predictable cycle. Health authorities attempt to chart this cycle and have protective vaccines prepared in advance to combat the type of flu that finally arrives.

Berman estimated that the Oakland County region could experience Hong Kong flue about January or February. The normal pattern for such an invasion is for it to first land on the West Coast about three or four months after being detected in the Far East.

★ ★ ★

The bug then jumps to the East Coast and gradually moves inland. Berman credited the speed of modern travel for the U.S. being hit with the Hong Kong virus this year.

Accoridng to Berman, this was not suppose to be a high flu year.

Vaccine to fight this winter's Asiatic disease is slated to be ready by early December, according to a spokesman for Parke, Davis & Co., of Rochester, one of the main vaccine manufacturers.

Parke, Davis has launched a crash program to produce large quantitites of the protective vaccine, which is grown in chick embryos.

Watching and Being Watched

Laundromat Adventures

By DIANNE DUROCHER

The community wash center used to be a place of real rapport.

I mean a place where women gathered by the creekside conversing and singing as they pounded the family's soggy apparel against the rocks. Now . . .

★ ★ ★

Nevermore. The laundromat — the coin-fed, mechanized monster of slushing sanitation — has replaced the riverside.

Conversation is limited to, "Can I have change for a dollar?" The churning sound of the washers mixed with the droning whirl of dryers has replaced the singing.

WATCHERS

People come and go. It is a watch and be-watched atmosphere.

Enters Harriet, the harassed housewife, clad in too-tight stretch pants and tennis shoes; followed by three medium-sized children, each carrying a basket of different-colored clothing.

She sets four machines in action, closes the lids and wipes her brow. Immediately she is besieged with the children's pleas for dimes; for use in one of the dozen vending machines.

The children have already run around the building three times and are dizzy from watching the monotonous turning of the giant dryer.

VETERAN

Harriet is obviously a veteran.

Close by, a young enamoured couple sit holding hands, completely oblivious to the fact that their clothes have been dry for ten minutes.

★ ★ ★

Across the room the bachelor-type arises from one of the hard chairs situated in front of the front loading washers.

He carefully folds his permapress pants and shirts. Then he squashes all his socks and underwear into his laundry bag; paying no attention to the blue-eyed maiden who is watching him out of the corner of her eye, while pretending to read a magazine.

SURVEYED

She, in turn is being surveyed by a gray-haired man who has just poured five cups of detergent into a washing machine.

The drama continues with Clara —the curious, who carefully watches to see what kind of towels and linens her fellow patrons use.

★ ★ ★

Clara believes everybody else's dirt is dirtier than her dirt. She hurriedly folds her laundry to avoid being equally scrutinized.

Frustration, humor and romance abound at the local laundromat, even for the casual observer.

CHARGE

The climax of a trip to the modern day wash center is the charge to get a vacant dryer.

Tension mounts as three or four women are poised to move in and capture it — but only one achieves success. The losers return to their waiting — in silence.

Actor Laurence Harvey married Joan Cohn, widow of movie magnate Harry "King" Cohn, in a simple ceremony performed yesterday by a magistrate at Lyford Cay Club in Nassau, Bahamas.

Harvey wore a bright red suit, ruffled shirt and sapphire-dotted gold medallion. Mrs. Cohn — former actress Joan Perry — wore a pale yellow coat-dress with white polka dots and pearl fringes.

The wedding was originally scheduled for Wednesday night but had to be postponed because Harvey arrived from New York too late to beat Nassau's 8 p.m. wedding curfew.

Mae West to Make Film Version of Her Play

Mae West, who has not appeared in movies since 1943, will make a film version early next year of a play she wrote and starred in.

Miss West, 75, appeared in her play "Sextet" in 1961 during its Florida run.

The movie will be coproduced for Warner Bros.-Seven Arts by James T. Aubrey Jr., former president of the Columbia Broadcasting System television network, and Hunt Stromberg Jr., the film company announced yesterday in New York.

Miss West has made recordings and television appearances in recent years. She is currently preparing a TV special, "A Night With Mae West."

U-M Will Offer Hit Czech Play

ANN ARBOR—The American premiere of the daring Czech success, "The Castle," and the world premiere of a provocative new American play, "The Conjuror," will be produced here by the Professional Theatre Program of the University of Michigan, according to Robert C. Schnitzer, PTP executive director.

"The Castle" is a recent Prague hit by Ivan Klima, young reformist leader of the Czech Writers Union.

* * *

The playwright was in London discussing a Royal Shakespeare Company version of his play when the Soviet Union invaded his homeland.

"The Castle" has since been banned for production in Czechoslovakia.

The Professional Theatre Program will give Klima a special grant and fly him to Michigan to participate in rehearsals for the U.S. premiere Dec. 3-8 at Lydia Mendelssohn Theatre.

* * *

Termed by European critics as "a gripping, Kafkaesque parable of chilling prophecy . . . a strangled scream," the play was praised by leading British critic Kenneth Tynan and by the New York Times and the New Yorker as a significant artistic factor in the cultural liberalization of Czechoslovakia.

* * *

It has been adapted into English by Ruth Willard and will be staged by PTP Associate Director Marcella Cisney.

"The Conjuror" by Evan Hunter, author of "The Blackboard Jungle," will be given its world premiere by the Professional Theatre Program next February.

Judges OK 23 on Grand Jury

DETROIT (AP) — A permanent, 23-member grand jury was approved unanimously Thursday by Wayne County's circuit judges. The jury's first investigation is to be of burglary and larceny charges against a number of Highland Park policemen.

The jury, which officials hope to put in operation by Nov. 1, will be available to probe any other cases brought before it by the prosecutor's office.

* * *

Prosecutor William L. Cahalan said the first panel also will be asked specifically to investigate the sniper killing last summer of Inkster of State Police Detective Robert Gonser.

* * *

The new grand jury will hold secret proceedings and have power to subpoena anyone it wishes and issue indictments.

A panel for the jury is to be picked by the court every month Jurors are to be paid $8 a day, or $4 for a half-day of their time, Cahalan said.

* * *

Unlike one-man grand juries in Michigan, which have limited terms and investigate only specific crimes designated by courts, the 23-member standing jury will be able to probe any area of wrongdoing it wants.

* * *

Cahalan said the permanent jury "will be a new deterrent to organized crime. People will think twice when they know they can receive a subopena."

Chrysler Profit Hits Record

American Motors Gets Out of Losses Column

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. reported Thursday it set records for profits and sales during the first nine months of this year.

★ ★ ★

And American Motors Corp. said it expected to show its first profit since 1965 for its fiscal year ended Sept. 30. It lost $75 million in its previous fiscal year.

The AMC year-end report is expected next week, along with the nine-month reports of Ford Motor Co. and General Motors Corp. The latter had whopping mid-year earnings of $390.5 million and $960 million, respectively.

Chrysler reported profits for the first nine months were $178.5 million, equal to $3.83 cents per share of common stock, compared with $93.4 million, or $2.03 a share, for the same period of 1967.

PROFITS ABOVE

Chrysler's profits were 31 per cent above the previous nine-month record of $136.4 million set in the industry's bonanza year of 1965, and were only $21.9 million below 1967's total earnings of $200.4 million.

Sales by Chrysler and its worldwide subsidiaries totaled $5.3 billion in the three quarters ended Sept. 30, a gain of 25 per cent over the previous high of $4.2 billion for the first nine months of last year.

★ ★ ★

The third quarter traditionally is the industry's slowest and Chrysler sales were $1.6 billion, up 16 per cent over the record of $1.3 billion rung up in the same quarter last year.

Profits for the third quarter were $29.7 million, or 63 cents a share, compared with $26.8 million, or 58 cents a share, for the third quarter of 1967.

THIRD QUARTER

Chrysler's best third quarter ever was that of 1950, when earnings were $65.7 million, but profits for the full year only $127.8—or $50.7 million less than in this year's first nine months.

Chrysler's mid-year report last July showed $148.8 million in earnings on sales of $3.7 billion.

★ ★ ★

Chrysler said that for the sixth consecutive year it had improved its share of the American market, with its sales in the first nine months accounting for 18.5 per cent of the sales of U. S. made cars, against 17.2 per cent for 1967.

★ ★ ★

The company said sales by its Simca subsidiary of France were up 20 per cent this year, compared with a year ago, and that sales by Rootes of England, also a subsidiary, were up, despite what it said was a reduced automotive demand in the United Kingdom. It gave no percentage for Rootes.

★ ★ ★

Sales of Chrysler products manufactured in Austrialia were up 23 per cent in the first nine months, compared with 1967, a a record of 110,654 Dodge trucks were reported sold in the first three quarters.

Current assets were reported to have been $679 million at the end of 1967.

★ ★ ★

Expenditures for property, plant and equipment, excluding special tools, in the first nine months were $134 million vs. $159 million in the same period a year earlier.

New Status Symbol? It's the Lawn Tractor

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK—Do you remember how dazzled the neighbors were when you rolled up to the house in your new chrome-shiny automobile, its 400 horses restrained but ready, its interior as sumptuous as an old - fashioned parlor?

CUNNIFF

Want to relive that thrill? Today you do it with a tractor perhaps one of the 14-horsepower jobs with attached lawn mower and snow thrower, electric starting, four speeds, solid state radio, chrome hubcaps . . .

★ ★ ★

In suburbia, two cars fail today to have the impact of just one big new car a few years ago. In 1961 17 per cent of American families owned two cars; now it's 32 per cent, too high for snobbery.

The tractor instead is the thing to rouse the envy of your neighbors, to use up that leisure time constructively and, incidentally, to get the work done.

'MAN TOY'

"We call it the man toy," said a spokesman for International Harvester, one of the biggest of the early 50 companies that make lawn tractors of one size or another. "Many buyers don't need them; they could get by with something smaller."

Studying the warranty tags that come back to the factory, the IH man finds the average purchaser is a $12,000-a-year man owning ½ acre or more. But some also are two-home owners, perhaps with a vacation home in the country.

★ ★ ★

Another marketing man, from Deere & Co., claims his outfit brought out its biggest lawn tractor at 14 h.p. as something for motels and institutions. "But we can't stop home owners from buying them," he said.

Not that any manufacturer would try to stop them. They couldn't. Demand goes up each year, and something like 300,000 might be sold in 1968. Lawns someday might be the most mechanized real estate in America, aside from federal highways.

HORSEPOWER BATTLE

One manufacturer estimates that nearly three million riding mowers and yard tractors now cruise suburban lawns. Make that figure 25 million if you count the old machines, the low prestige types, the power mowers you must walk behind.

And just as on the highway, there's a real horsepower battle out on the lawn. For a while the industry seemed to stall at a top range of 14 h.p. Then this month one manufacturer announced a 15 h.p. job.

★ ★ ★

Will others now be content with their 14 horses? Likely not, for each year, marketing studies show, people trade up to bigger models. It goes this way:

You buy a power lawn mower and like the feel of it. You might even become a two-mower family. You get bored, especially since your neighbor bought himself one with a seat. So you trade up into the riding mower class.

NEED MORE POWER

Soon you get less kick out of waving to your envious neighbors. You need more power man. You buy a tractor, perhaps a 7 h.p. machine with mower and snow thrower. The horsepower race is on.

★ ★ ★

Steadily during the 1960s the maximum power for lawn tractors has risen from 7 to 10 to 12 to 14 and 15. As buyers traded up they often bought more attachments as well. There are probably 50 conventional ones to choose from.

★ ★ ★

"We give a man a lot of reasons for buying with all these attachments," said the IH man, the one who calls these rigs "man toys." Among them: harrows, planters, rollers, sprayers, loaders, hole diggers, enclosed cabs.

Soon the owner is pushing, digging, loading, throwing or hauling anything found on his land, including snow, earth, rocks, rubbish. He has as much fun as a kid with a pail and shovel, and often just as much leisure to indulge his pleasure.

KEY REASON FOR SALES

But besides prestige, the move to the suburbs and beyond, leisure and play, there's at least one other important reason for rising sales.

"More and more these tractors are something for fathers to buy for their teen-age sons so they can work in the summertime," said the IH man.

★ ★ ★

A youngster," he said, "can earn enough money in summer to pay his way through college. It's becoming a widespread trend. People need to have the work done but help is hard to get. And these tractors do the job quickly and neatly."

The initial investment for a new tractor can be less than $500, but the needed attachments then must be purchased. For an equipped 14 h.p. or 15 h.p.-machine the cost will be over $2,000.

But think of all the fun.

Week's Auto Output to Be Top Since '65

DETROIT (AP)—The highest auto production in nearly three years was scheduled this week by the nation's auto industry.

Assembly lines were set to produce 216,991 cars through Saturday, the trade paper Automotive News reported. This was the heaviest volume since 217,087 were built in the week of Nov. 29-Dec. 4, 1965. Last week, the automakers produced 209,632 cars and in the same week a year ago their output was 149,011.

★ ★ ★

The automakers scheduled overtime work at 39 plants on Saturday, compared with overtime at 28 facilities last week.

The production schedules boosted the output so far this year to 6,911,509 cars, compared with 5,720,555 in the corresponding period of 1967.

TRUCK OUTPUT

The firms ordered 41,641 trucks built this week, compared with 42,390 last week and 24,541 in the comparable week of 1967. The output brought the calendar year total to 1,555,535, compared with 1,263,566 at the same point of 1967.

Canadian automakers scheduled production of 19,386 cars this week, a drop from the 23,527 last week but an increase over the 13,562 in the same week last year. The output brought car production to 664,526 so far this year, compared with 543,159 in the same span of 1967.

★ ★ ★

Truck assemblies in Canada totaled 5,296 this week, compared with 6,999 last week and 2,525 in the year-ago week. This brought the calendar-year truck total in Canada to 213,937, compared with 177,593 in the same period last year.

Philip May Retirement OK'd by MSU

EAST LANSING (UPI) — Philip J. May, treasurer and chief financial officer at Michigan State University, was granted retirement Thursday by the board of trustees only one month after they deadlocked 4-4 on a vote to dismiss him.

His retirement is effective June 30 1969.

★ ★ ★

In a letter to MSU President John A. Hannah, May said that unfavorable publicity surrounding him would make it "difficult" to carry out his duties. "Such publicity could continue to subject the university to unfair criticism," he added.

May has been with the university 21 years.

HANNAH PRAISES MAY

Hannah said the university would miss May's "competent" service and "accurate business judgement and sound management practice."

"No one — no auditor, no investigator, no supplier, no critic — has ever so much as hinted that this university or the people of the state ever lost as much as a penny by reason of Mr. May's private business transactions," he added.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. We're in our late 30s and very conservative investors. We know we should buy growth stocks but have always settled for income instead. Have you any suggestions on investing the $10,000 we now have available? — G.D.

A. A carefully selected package of electric utility issues, representing areas of the country where population growth should prove most rapid, would be suitable for a conservative investor. The utilities have overall an enviable record of earnings and dividend increases but, because higher yields have been available elsewhere, the group has been in disfavor. As a consequence earnings multiples peaked out in the mid-60s and many fine growth utilities are obtainable today at reasonable levels.

The five companies reviewed below have been selected primarily for their strategic geographic locations and secondly for their growth records over the past decade. Each, with a history of annual dividend increases, currently provides an adequate yield.

Delmarva Power & Light furnishes electricity and gas to commercial, residential and industrial customers in Delaware, Maryland and Virginia. Over the last 10 years earnings growth has been uninterrupted, averaging over 10 per cent year to year.

Gulf States Utilities, serving Texas and Louisiana where oil and chemical industries predominate is predicting a 12 per cent long-range compound annual growth rate. Because of a greater number of common shares outstanding and increased preferred dividend requirements, a slowdown may be seen this year.

Long Island Lighting operates both in densely settled sections and also in Suffolk County where population should expand at an above-average rate.

Nevada Power, serving an area where two-thirds of the homes are all-electric, should benefit from continued government-sponsored building programs for space and nuclear projects.

Public Service of Colorado is Public service of Colorado is expected to maintain its 10 per cent annual growth rate, particularly since its largest single customer — American Metal Climax — has opened a new mining operation.

Equal dollar amounts placed in these five issues should enhance your capital over the next decade while producing a moderate return.

THOSE WERE THE DAYS—Campaign-button collector Elmer A. Piercy shows off some of his best as he mourns that the 1968 vote drive is a dull one.

Button Collector Says It's a Dull Campaign

VICTORVILLE, Calif. (AP) — It's a dull campaign for the political button collectors, say Elmer A. Piercy. His own collection—which he values at $50,000—contains 20,000 political items dating back to George Washington.

"I sometimes wonder if the campaign button as such may not be vanishing from the American scene," Piercy said.

★ ★ ★

"It seems that nobody's wearing them any more, except for the novelties—'vote for Someone' or 'Elect Pat Paulsen' or 'Vote for Snooopy.'"

Piercy says Richard M. Nixon buttons like 'Nixon-Agnew" or "Tell It Like It Is" are not what he considers sparkling.

ONLY A MONOGRAM

He noted that Hubert H. Humphrey's supporters have rested mainly on the "HHH" monogram. And the George C. Wallace camp has even less, said Piercy.

There is nothing like the "hole-in-the shoe" pins for Adlai Stevenson or the John Kennedy rocking chair, he said.

★ ★ ★

One pin, however, has caught Piercy's fancy: "Nixon has what he needs—a gnu face."

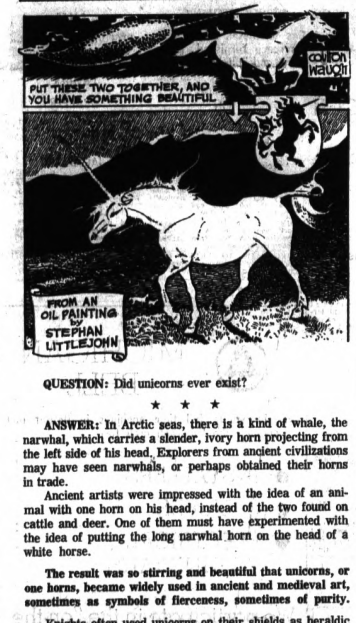
For real interest, Piercy likes to recall the William McKinley-William Jennings race of 1896. McKinley supporters turned out 900 items while the Bryan camp came out with 300.

McKinley just sat on his front porch, says Piercy, while Bryan stumped the country. McKinley won.

A "coffin" showing a Bryan who "talked himself to death" will bring up to $200, Piercy said.

As of the end of May 1968, each citizen's share of the national debt was $91 greater than the same date in 1967.

Junior Editors Quiz on UNICORNS



QUESTION: Did unicorns ever exist?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: In Arctic seas, there is a kind of whale, the narwhal, which carries a slender, ivory horn projecting from the left side of his head. Explorers from ancient civilizations may have seen narwhals, or perhaps obtained their horns in trade.

Ancient artists were impressed with the idea of an animal with one horn on his head, instead of the two found on cattle and deer. One of them must have experimented with the idea of putting the long narwhal horn on the head of a white horse.

The result was so stirring and beautiful that unicorns, or one horns, became widely used in ancient and medieval art, sometimes as symbols of fierceness, sometimes of purity.

Knights often used unicorns on their shields as heraldic devices. These, of course, were purely imaginary and mythical creatures. No real unicorn ever existed. But unicorns still stir the feelings of artists, as our picture shows.

Ancient unicorns often had beards and cloven hoofs, but the artist of our picture has painted his unicorn in the way he liked it the best.

GM Suggestion Top Increased

The maximum suggestion award payable through the General Motors suggestion plan has been increased from $6,000 to $10,000, Louis G. Seaton vice president in charge of personnel staff, announced today. The increase in the maximum award is effective immediately.

"The increase in the maximum suggestion award is made to provide added incentive for eligible employes to submit more constructive suggestions of value to themselves and to General Motors," Seaton said.

★ ★ ★

This is the fifth time that the top award has been increased, and the largest in the 26-year history of the suggestion plan. During the past 26 years there have been 2,249 maximum awards under the plan of which 130 were made last year — the Silver Anniversary year.

Earlier this year the GM Suggestion Plan achieved a significant milestone when the amount paid out since its inception for award winning suggestions topped $100 million. For the first six months of 1968 the total amount of awards was in excess of $7 million. A record for the period.

State Hospital, MSU Agree on Program

Pontiac State Hospital and Michigan State University yesterday entered into an agreement to cooperate in medical programs.

The agreement provides for instruction of resident physicians and MSU medical students.

★ ★ ★

Programs planned include field trips and summer extern programs for MSU medical students, exchange of residents in psychiatry when the MSU medical school progresses to that point and MSU faculty appointments for qualified PSH staff members.

Pontiac State Hospital previously had approved the agreement.

★ ★ ★

MSU plans to start a resident medical program when a full medical curriculum is approved by the Legislature. The university has admitted three classes of 26 students each in the medical program authorized thus far.

Net Income Up

Garlock Inc. today reported net income of $2,108,465 for the 39 weeks ended Sept. 29, equivalent to $1.09 per share — an increase of 9 per cent over last year's comparable $1,932,854 or $1.06 per share.

Murder Trial Is Resumed

Pathologist Testifies in Hospital Slaying

The first witness to appear after two days of legal maneuvering in the trial of a Pontiac man charged with the knife slaying of a Pontiac State Hospital patient testified yesterday that the victim's body was cut 60 to 70 times.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Thomas J. Petinga, state hospital pathologist, said the wounds inflicted on 19-year-old Dannelda Stewart were too numerous for an accurate count.

★ ★ ★

Charged with first-degree murder in the May 31 killing is Edward J. Stockwell, 26, of 999 James K. also a patient at the hospital.

He was arrested by Pontiac police a few hours after a guard discovered Miss Stewart's body in a little-used building on the hospital grounds.

★ ★ ★

Previous action in the case included Oakland County Circuit Judge William J. Beer's order earlier this month that Stockwell stand trial, after three psychiatrists testified that the defendant is capable of assisting in his own defense.

★ ★ ★

This followed an unsuccessful attempt by defense attorney Leonard Péres to have Stockwell declared a criminal sexual psychopath — a declaration which would have committed him to a mental institution without criminal procedure.

Another Executive Joins OCC Exodus

Another top administrator at Oakland Community College is leaving the college. Now only four original administrators are left.

Bruce A. King Jr., director of physical facilities, told the board of trustees last night that he would leave his post Dec. 31 to accept a position in private business in the Pontiac area.

★ ★ ★

He is the 10th high-level administrator to leave within about 1½ years.

King, who is responsible for planning and construction of buildings, joined OCC in February 1965.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business, the board approved revised 1968-69 general fund budget, upping it from $6.8 million as adopted in April to $8.9 million.

"This budget has now been revised to relefct the tremendous student growth," Walter H. Nikkol, director of business, explained.

★ ★ ★

Total college enrollment jumped from 5,487 in 1967-68 to 10,024 this year.

"The revised expenditures includes not only new faculty employed due to this growth but salaries that were negotiated in June for this fiscal year," he said. "Income was also adjusted upward to reflect the new student enrollment."

BREAKDOWN

A breakdown of the $8.9 million includes $7.9 million for operation of the college and $975,659 for community services.

The revised budget puts OCC in the red — about $311,000 worth — compared to April's estimate of $444,000 of income in excess of expenditures.

★ ★ ★

Nikkol said the college has never ended up in the red and that some adjustments will have to be worked out. He mentioned that unexpected revenue could come from the federal government or some programs might have to be cut back.

ENROLLMENT

An enrollment report given by S. James Manilla, college director of Educational Services, shows that in one year OCC has grown faster than eight other community colleges in the state.

OCC's enrollment went up 82.7 per cent. Monroe Community College had the next greatest increase, almost 35 per cent.

★ ★ ★

Macomb County Community College increased to 12,600 students, up 20 per cent; Flint Community Junior College, 7,081 students, up 8 per cent; and Henry Ford Community College, an estimated 12,000 students, up more than 3 per cent.

OCCEO Unit Resigns Position

Carl F. Ingraham of 940 Harmon, Birmingham, has announced his resignation as chairman of the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity (OCCEO).

Ingraham, an attorney, chaired the county antipoverty effort for over four years. He said he was resigning because of other business. He is a candidate for the new post of district judge.

Ingraham seeks a judgeship in the 48th District which encompasses West Bloomfield and Bloomfield townships, including Birmingham.

He said he would stay on the OCCEO as a commissioner.

Each bid shall state the annual interest rate or rates upon which it is submitted, expressed in multiples of ¼ of 1%. The interest rate on any one bond shall be at one rate only and shall be represented by one interest coupon for each coupon period. All bonds maturing in the same year shall bear the same rate of interest and no bond of any issue shall bear interest at a rate per annum which is less than 50% of the interest rate on any other bond of this issue. 1975—	5,000	1983—	5,000	1991—	5,000
1976—	10,000	1984—	10,000	1992—	10,000

Bonds maturing in the years 1969 and 1970 shall not be subject to redemption prior to maturity. The bonds maturing in the years 1971 thru 1992 are subject to redemption at the option of the Township in direct numerical order, on any one or more interest payment dates on and after August 1, 1970, at the par value thereof and accrued interest. Notice of redemption shall be given to the holders of bonds called for redemption by publication of such notice not less than thirty (30) days prior to the date fixed for redemption, at least once in a newspaper or publication circulated in the City of Detroit, Michigan, which carries as a part of its regular service, notices of the sale of municipal bonds. Bonds so called for redemption shall not bear interest after the date fixed for redemption, provided funds are on hand with the paying agent to redeem the same.

The said bonds are to be issued in anticipation of the collection of an equal amount of special assessments against lands in special assessment district No. 114, to defray part of the cost of constructing sanitary sewers in said Special Assessment District in the Charter Township of Waterford, and in addition will pledge the full faith and credit of the Township for the payment of the principal and interest thereon. Interest due on said bonds on February 1, 1969, is capitalized and payable from the bond proceeds.

If the receipts from the special assessments in anticipation of which the bonds of this series are issued, shall not be sufficient to meet the payment of the principal and interest on said bonds when due, then moneys shall be advanced from the general fund of the Township to meet such deficiency.

For the purpose of awarding the bonds, the interest cost of each bid will be computed by determining, at the rate or rates specified therein, the total dollar value of interest on the bonds from November 1, 1968 to their respective maturities and deducting therefrom any premium. The bonds will be awarded to the bidder whose bid on the above computation produces the lowest interest cost to the Township. No proposal for the purchase of less than all of the bonds or at a price less than par value will be considered.

A certified or cashier's check in the amount of $3,000 drawn upon an incorporated bank or trust company and payable to the order of the Township Treasurer must accompany each bid as a guarantee of good faith on the part of the bidder, to be forfeited as liquidated damages if such bid be accepted and the bidder fails to take up and pay for the bonds. No interest shall be allowed on the good faith checks and checks of the unsuccessful bidders will be promptly returned to each bidder's representative or by registered mail.

Bids shall be conditioned upon the unqualified opinion of Dickinson, Wright, McKean & Cudlip, attorneys, Detroit, Michigan, approving the legality of the bonds. The cost of said legal opinion and of the printing of the bonds will be paid by the Township. There will also be furnished the usual closing papers, including a non-litigation certificate, dated as of the date of the delivery of the bonds. Bonds will be delivered at Detroit, Michigan, or such other place as may be agreed upon between the Township and the purchaser. The right is reserved to reject any or all bids. Envelopes containing the bids should be plainly marked "Proposal for Bonds".

County Tries Clinic to Lure Teacher Subs

There are hundreds of potential substitute teachers in Oakland County, but the problem for school people is to find them.

A major problem is that many people don't know they can be a sub with only two years of college credit in any field, says Duane Tester, regional director of Michigan State University's Continuing Education Service at Oakland University.

★ ★ ★

With a minimum of 60 college semester hours of credit, a person can get a 90-day substitute teacher permit. They can teach for 90 days during the school year at an average salary in Oakland County of $26 per day.

Almost every school district in Oakland County needs substitute teachers, according to Tester.

WORKSHOP OFFERED

For the first time in this area, MSU Continuing Education is offering a workshop for working and potential substitute teachers to give them "self assurance," Tester says.

First of the six sessions at the workshop will be held 7 to 9 p.m. Monday in Room 195 of the Science Building at Oakland University. Registration will be held then. The fee is $15.

Suitable Teachers Lacking

Sex Education Has Hang-Up

By Science Service

NEW YORK—Many teachers turn red in bringing up sex in the classroom; others inflict on the schoolchildren their own sex hang-ups, some apparently relish the sanction to spout four-letter words.

So while sex education in the schools is backed by parents, pushed by professional groups and studied by mental health organizations, it runs afoul of a basic problem: the teachers.

★ ★ ★

A few short years ago teachers provided sex education at their own risk. At most, students might see cartoon films depicting biological functions.

★ ★ ★

That period is rapidly passing, helped into oblivion by the Sex Education and Information Council of the United States (SEICUS), an agency which has been pressing for improved sex education since its inception four years ago.

500 REQUESTS

The agency now receives monthly some 500 requests for educational material. School boards still step lightly around the subject, but where community polls have been taken, they reveal that parents want the schools to undertake sex education.

No figures are available on the number of new sex education programs being offered in response to the demand, but authorities estimate there may be about 100.

The critical problem, which neither SEICUS nor anyone else has solved, is lack of suitable teachers.

★ ★ ★

In some cases permission to teach about sex is an opening for teachers to inflict their own problems with the subject on the students, says Dr. Gerald Sandson, a child psychiatrist at the National Institute of Mental Health.

Dr. Sandson says he believes it is better for children to get distorted information from their own age group than from authorities in the classroom.

He says he was enthusiastic about sex education before last spring, when he met a group of 50 teachers and counselors attending a sex education workshop.

★ ★ ★

Many of them were riding roughshod over an area the youngsters are grappling with, says Dr. Sandson. "Some had their own sexual axes to grind; others almost relished their ability to say four-letter words."

Teacher preparedness is a primary concern of SEICUS, which is attacking the problem by sending out consultants to speak in schools and before teacher workshops. This year there were 58 such workshops, as contrasted to only 12 in 1967.

MORE INSTRUCTIVE?

It may be more instructive for teachers to hear experts talk about sex than to receive sensitivity training—a kind of group therapy—says Dr. James Liemerman, chief of the NIMH center for studies in child and family health and a member of the SEICUS board.

He disagrees with pessimism about teachers' capabilities in sex education, but concedes that problems arise from both sexually inhibited adults and the overeager ones, whose desires to teach about sex often arise from exhibitionism.

★ ★ ★

Nevertheless he adds, "The more sources from which young people get sex information the better—so long as some of the sources are good. A schoolteacher is likely to be better than a garage mechanic."
