Rumor Duvalier to Flee Today

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Rumors mounted steadily that Haitian dictator Francois Duvalier planned to fly into exile today, the day his constitutional term as president ends, to escape assassination.

Duvalier had planned to continue in office by virtue of a rigged election two years ago. But rumors that he planned to flee mushroomed as opposition to his fear-ridden totalitarian regime intensified at home and abroad. His underground enemies have vowed to destroy Duvalier today.

The gist of the rumors was that Duvalier and his family would fly by Haitian air force plane to the Dutch island of Curacao, off Venezuela, take an airliner to New York, and from New York travel to Europe.

Pan American World Airways said it had four reservations in the name of "Duvalier" for its New York-to-Paris flight tonight.

State Department officials in Washington said they had heard the rumors. So had former Haitian Sen. Louis Delio, who came to Santo Domingo after proclaiming a Haitian government in exile in Puerto Rico with Daniel Fignole.

Raymond Cassagnol, an exile leader who claimed he had 2,000 men under arms "somewhere in the Caribbean," said he is disbanding his forces. His brother Jacques, returning here from the Haitian border, called Raymond's statement false.

Raymond Cassagnol said one reason for calling off his invasion was "a threat of foreign occupation and its regrettable consequences for national dignity." He would not say whether he feared intervention by U.S. warships patrolling off Haiti and ready to go in if the approximately 1,000 Americans in the country are threatened.

AP correspondent William L. Ryan reported from Port-au-Prince that the Duvalier regime appeared to be trying to convince the outside world it may turn to the Communist camp for protection. Communist jargon was used freely at a rally Monday night.

But Ryan said few foreigners in Port-au-Prince believe Duvalier thinks the Communists could or would save him. They suggested the campaign is an attempt to blackmail the United States and Latin-American nations into abandoning any plans for diplomatic or economic sanctions.

Pontiac Cars Hit Sales Mark

Records Set During

First 10 Days in May

Pontiac Motor Division set sales records for the first 10 days in May, pacing an upsurge in the automobile industry.

Frank V. Bridge, general sales manager for Pontiac, reported today that sales for the period totaled 19,708 — a 61 per cent increase over the same period last year.

The previous record was 15,390 set in 1955.

"The public has caught the car buying fever," Bridge asserted. "Our new car sales are bristling along at an outstanding rate, and there is every reason to believe May will be another record month for Pontiac."

OTHER REPORTS GOOD

Other car manufacturers had similarly optimistic reports.

Chevrolet car and truck sales for 1963 topped the one million mark yesterday, the earliest time in the year the mark has ever been reached.

Sales totaled 79,292 cars and trucks for the 10-day period, second only to the record set in May, 1962.

Ford Division sold 45,008 cars and 9,917 trucks for the first 10 days of the month, highest for any similar May period in division annals.

Chrysler Corp. reported sales of 26,535, a 66 per cent increase over the same period a year ago and the highest May since 1957.

Atlas Missile Rises, Lifting Faith 7 Toward Orbit

Astronaut Takes 2nd Ride to Capsule

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—For the second straight day astronaut Gordon Cooper set out, at 4:55 a.m., from his living quarters in the hangar called "S" for a rendezvous with a rocket and a flight around the world 21 times through space.

With the aplomb of an accomplished television actor Cooper walked quickly from the open portals of the huge hangar into the air-conditioned van waiting to transport him to Launch Complex 14.

He had made the same trip yesterday, followed in minute detail by newsmen and remotely controlled television cameras.

He was within 15 minutes of takeoff when the operation was canceled by a faulty radar performance at the Bermuda tracking station—the point at which he is inserted into orbit at 17,500 miles per hour.

Immediately after Cooper entered the white van, he seated himself in a special chair installed just for astronaut use and once more began the slow three-mile journey.

LOOKS OK

Cooper looked none the worse for his ordeal of yesterday when he remained in the capsule from 5:36 a.m. until the hatch cover on the spacecraft, Faith 7, was removed and he emerged at 11:37 a.m.

As he came out of the hangar wearing his 20-pound silver space suit, he waved at the small crowd at the entrance and flashed a quick grin. He carried his portable, personal air-conditioning unit in his left hand.

Cooper was the sixth astronaut to emerge from those second floor living quarters en route to a waiting rocket.

With luck he will today become the American record holder for prolonged space flight—34 hours and 19 minutes. The previous record is about nine hours.

The procedures for readying an astronaut for his space flight have taken on the character of a ritual.

He was awakened long before dawn—at 2:50 a.m.—by his physician, Dr. Howard K. Minners, an Air Force flight surgeon. Then he breakfasted on the standard astronaut fare which includes scrambled eggs, filet mignon and dry toast.

FINAL EXAM

After breakfast, Minners gave him a final physical examination and then began the tedious business of donning his cumbersome space suit. During the examination it was learned that Cooper lost one pound, down to 147, from yesterday's weight.

Next came the trip just as dawn was breaking to the 300,000-pound thrust Atlas missile with its spacecraft perched on top.

Lt. Col. John A. Powers, Project Mercury public affairs officer, emerged from Hangar 8 a few minutes ahead of Cooper.

By HOWARD BENEDICT of his planned 22 orbits as his Faith 7 spacecraft swept high above the Caribbean east of Nicaragua at 2:22 p.m. (Pontiac time). He tipped into the fifth orbit with pilot and all systems reported in excellent condition.

As Cooper's capsule sped high above the South Atlantic

Cooper completed the fourth

Cooper reported to a tracking post on Ascension Island that the sphere had been released successfully. But there was no immediate report on his observation of the xenon gas lights which were to blink once every second.

However, Mercury Control Center reported later that it had received a partially garbled message from Cooper which indicated that perhaps the experiment was not as successful as originally thought.

The Air Force major, 36, was to observe the lights during nighttime phases of the third, fourth and fifth orbits in a test of his ability to judge distances and to see a light of known intensity in space.

This would be important to future rendezvous missions in the Gemini and Apollo manned space programs.

Cooper kicked the satellite into orbit 3 hours 29 minutes after he blasted off from Cape Canaveral at 8:04 a.m. Eastern Standard Time atop an Atlas rocket.

The great booster performed perfectly in propelling him into an orbit ranging from 100.2 to 166 miles above the earth.

Faith 7 reached a peak speed of 17,546 miles an hour and circled the globe once every 88.45 minutes.

HAILED AROUND GLOBE

The flight, conducted in the full glare of publicity in contrast with the secrecy of the Soviet Union's manned space flights, was hailed by people around the world.

President Kennedy in Washington expressed happiness at the success of the launching and followed the flight closely.

Among millions of earthbound people around the globe, there seemed to be greater enthusiasm for the American manned space flight than at any time since John H. Glenn Jr. soared aloft as the first orbiting American on Feb. 2, 1962.

This probably was because the two orbit flights in between were relatively short — M. Scott Carpenter's three orbits and six orbits by Walter Schirra Jr. — in comparison with the 64 and 48 orbit missions made by Soviet cosmonauts Andrian Nikolayev and Pavel Popovich.

European radio and television stations broke into regularly scheduled programs with spot news of the launching.

The same was true in Japan and in other areas of the world. Havana, Cuba, provided frequent reports for Cuban listeners.

TELEVIEWED TO EUROPE

NASA reported that the start of Cooper's orbital mission was televiewed to Europe with excellent results.

The broadcast was sent by way of the Relay 1 communications satellite, and NASA officials said it could be presumed that "the transmission was viewed by millions of persons in Europe, including probably millions behind the Iron Curtain."

Included in the broadcast was television film of Cooper in his space capsule, transmitted from space as he completed his first orbit around the globe.

As Faith 7 whirled through the heavens, Cooper frequently made satisfactory reports about his personal condition and the systems in the spacecraft.

Early in the flight there was

His Wife's Jubilation a Single Superlative

FROM OUR NEWS WIRE
HOUSTON, Tex.—"Beautiful," said Mrs. L. Gordon Cooper today after watching her husband launched in his Mercury capsule at Cape Canaveral.

And a few hours later—the wives of the six other astronauts selected in the first group arrived at the Cooper home to be with Mrs. Cooper and her children.

All but one of the six wives had waited out flights of their husbands into space.

Mrs. Cooper could get the first husband-to-wife message direct from space more than 100 miles above her home.

Mercury control at Cape Canaveral announced that two special radios have been placed in the Cooper home. They came from Astronaut Walter Schirra's Sigma-7 space capsule, which whirled around the earth last year.

Over these radios Mrs. Cooper can hear her husband's voice when he is zipping over Houston during his planned 22-orbit flight.

But Mrs. Cooper can't talk back. The radios are one-way.

Mrs. Cooper and her daughters—Camala, 14, and Janita, 13—watched the launch in the privacy of the master bedroom at their home 25 miles east of Houston.

It was more than an hour later that Dave Schwartz, a public affairs officer at the Manned Spacecraft Center, led the ranch style home and gave newsmen Mrs. Cooper's one-word reaction.

Schwartz said Mrs. Cooper asked him to say nothing more in behalf of herself and the daughters.

He said the mother and girls went into the master bedroom 15 minutes before launch and were smiling when they returned to the den after it was certain the blastoff had been successful.

Just 30 minutes before launch they received a telephone call from Cooper from his capsule.

Schwartz would not give details of the telephone conversation but said the family appeared more relaxed while waiting the start of the scheduled 34-hour space flight than had been the case yesterday when radar trouble at Bermuda caused a postponement.

The wives of the six other original astronauts arrived at the Cooper home at 11 a.m.

They arrived in an automobile driven by Mrs. Alan Shepard, the wife of the first U.S. astronaut to make a space flight. Shepard also was the backup pilot for Cooper's mission.

All but one — Mrs. Donald K. Slayton — have experienced similar space flight watches. A heart murmur knocked Slayton off the flight status list in 1961.

MOTHER CRIES

Cooper's mother, Mrs. Hattie Cooper, dropped a green alga when she was knitting at Tecumseh, Okla., as she watched her son's ascent on television.

Tears came into her eyes and she went into the kitchen to compose herself.

"I know Gordon was happy," his mother said. "No liftoff ever looked so good. I dreaded this takeoff."

Cooper's mother decided to hand-

Courthouse Site Set as Pay Parking Lot

The old county courthouse site at Huron and Saginaw will reopen Monday as a parking lot but not for free parking.

Sam L. Stolorow of 422 Shore View Drive won a six-month lease of the county-owned property in lively bidding yesterday.

He offered the county $1,150 a month, topping a combined bid by the Community National Bank and the Downtown Pontiac Business Association of $1,100.

Had the bank and businessmen's association won they would have reopened the lot for free parking to draw more shoppers downtown.

RESULTED IN DECREE
A suit by the company resulted in a Circuit Court decree in favor of the lot in February.

Until then the county was leasing the lots to the Downtown Business Association (DPBA) for a dollar a month.

The association was providing free parking.

Circuit Judge Stanton G. Dondero ordered the lots closed because the county hadn't offered to lease them in open bidding.

Pleasant Weather Seen Next 5 Days

The next five days will be predominantly pleasant, the weatherman said.

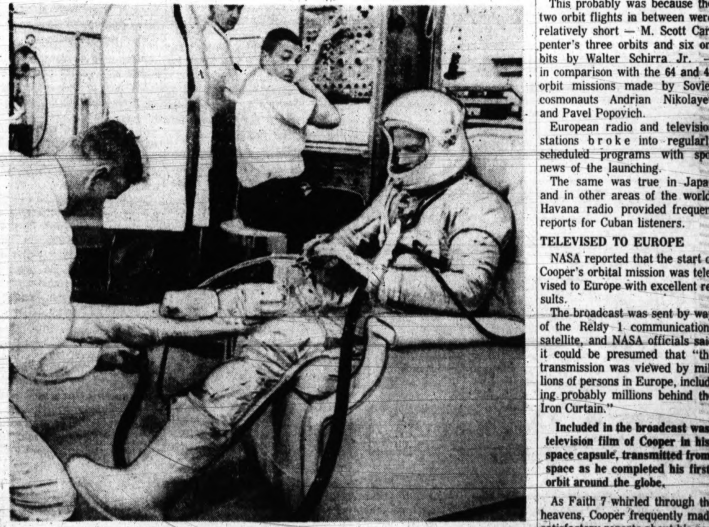

Temperatures will average near the normal high of 69 and normal low of 53. The low will be 53 tonight and the high a balmy 70 tomorrow.

There's a chance of showers or thundershowers tomorrow.

Forty-three was the low reading in downtown Pontiac preceding 9 a.m. The mercury had climbed to 62 at 2 p.m.

Negro Makes Charge in Alabama Rift

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Gov. George Wallace announced today that a federal court suit is being prepared to challenge the right of President Kennedy to use federal troops in racially troubled Birmingham.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—A Negro leader says Gov. George C. Wallace is trying to undermine a biracial agreement on Birmingham's racial problems by keeping state troopers in the city.

While the Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth was calling on Wallace Tuesday night to remove the highway patrolmen, Wallace again was calling on President Kennedy to withdraw special federal troops he sent into Alabama.

Wallace replied to Shuttlesworth, one of the top leaders in the desegregation campaign, that the state troopers would remain in Birmingham as long as he thinks they are needed to help maintain law and order.

The White House announced no reply to Wallace's latest telegram protesting the federal troops, but

Some Bugs Remain

Turbine Car Whines Jet-Age Smoothness

By JOHN J. CROWLEY
City Editor, The Pontiac Press

NEW YORK—The urgent whine of the jet age echoed through the Roosevelt Raceway on Long Island yesterday as newsmen tested

Chrysler Corp.'s new turbine passenger car.

It whistles, it whines and, to the observer outside the car, it seems to whir away as smoothly and confidently as a jet plane.

But inside behind the wheel it seemed unresponsive.

There were only a couple of unimportant seconds after the switch was turned on before the engine was ready.

The shift into drive was easy, but a cautious test of the accelerator pedal proved nothing. A more determined push was necessary.

Smoothly, then, the car moved ahead but not as quickly as an equivalent push on the accelerator of a piston car would have produced.

Perhaps the sound was deceiving—the muted scream becoming more and more urgent made the driver want to go faster.

NECESSARY BRAKES
Too soon, the awakened "whistle" had to be slowed down. The air-type power brakes seemed more necessary than on an ordinary car.

The turbine seemed reluctant to brake. In fact, though Chrysler engineers have designed it to be self-braking.

Paul Acherman, vice president in charge of engineering, said that some additional heat in the engine would improve it. But that would require further metals.

There are tougher alloys in the space program, but they're expensive and "critical" in terms of defense. Chrysler wants metals that are less critical.

Ackerman explained that the accelerator pedal on the other turbine car... which had stopped running... was lighter to the touch and more responsive.

George J. Huebner Jr., executive engineer in Chrysler research, "father of the Chrysler turbine," and Robert Anderson, vice president, product planning, drove the car into Manhattan from the race track to prove it was working all right.

It coiled out again at 40th Street and 3rd Avenue, in the middle of 5:30 p.m. traffic.

some concern about high temperature in the cabin but this quickly cleared up.

As he passed above California near the end of orbit No. 2, he told the tracking station at Point Arguello that he was "comfortable, real comfortable in fact; I even had a little nap."

If Cooper completes the full flight, he will be up for more than 34 hours, dropping to a parachute landing in the Pacific Ocean, southeast of Midway Island shortly after 6 p.m. (Pontiac Time) tomorrow.

During the first orbit he gave his spantest and pronounced them all in excellent shape. Mercury Control Center at Cape Canaveral then relayed the word that he was "go" for at least six more orbits.

That was the first of three critical decisions scheduled for the 34-hour flight. The other two were set for orbits 7 and 17.

Principal landing areas in the Atlantic and Pacific were at the end of each of these passes. However, alternate landing areas were located around the world in case of an emergency.

The decision to keep flying was passed on to Cooper by astronaut Virgil I. Grissom, capsule communicator at the Guaymas, Mexico station.

"You're go for seven," Grissom—who made a suborbital flight two years ago—replied.

"Roger," replied Cooper, and then jokingly made believe that he had understood Grissom to say thirty-plus orbits.

"For thirty how many?" he asked. "As many as you want," Grissom chuckled.

Minutes later, at 9:37 a.m. (Pontiac Time), Cooper's Faith 7 spacecraft passed above the Florida-Georgia border to complete the first orbit.

As Cooper completed orbit No. 1, he talked with astronauts Alan Shepard, the first American into space, and Walter Schirra, whose six-orbit American flight record he was out to break.

Shepard told the pilot, "It was a beautiful shot."

"It looks pretty good from up here, too," Cooper answered.

Shepard told Cooper to turn on his television camera and as the jerky films were relayed to a monitor at the Cape, Shepard said, "You look pretty casual up there."

"Boy, I am," Cooper replied. Schirra, who was serving as capsule communicator in Mercury Control Center, shouted, "Have a good ball!" as Faith 7 zipped out of radio range and on into the second orbit.

During the first orbit Cooper became the first American space television personality.

As his Atlas pushed him into space, the television camera relayed pictures of him in action a day and were converted from their jerky slow scan speed to normal television speed and relayed to American viewers by the national networks.

om at Guaymas, Cooper, 36, an Air Force major described his flight as "quite a thrill."

He said he had seen many of the sights witnessed by previous American astronauts, including the air glow layer on the horizon.

As he passed over the Pacific near the end of orbit No. 1, he saw the "fireflies" first reported by John H. Glenn Jr. on his pioneer orbital flight last year.

The fireflies are created by flakes of frost falling off the capsule and being illuminated by the rays of the rising sun.

Cooper described his view of the sunrise as he came over the Pacific as tremendous.

per and gave a rundown of Cooper's prelaunch night.

He said Cooper went to bed at 8:45 p.m.

The astronaut was awakened at 2:30 a.m. by Dr. Howard Minners. Breakfast, prepared by two civilian employees of Patrick Air Force Base Hospital, was served at 3:22 a.m. in a kitchen beside Hangar 3.

Astronauts Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Donald K. Slayton joined Cooper for breakfast, as did Walter Williams, Project Mercury operations director, just as they did yesterday.

GREETS COOPER
Backup astronaut Alan B. Shepard Jr. went to Pad 14 at midnight, and had remained there through the night, watching the countdown. He was at the pad to greet Cooper.

Cooper began suiting up at 4:24 a.m. after sensors were attached to his body and Dr. Minners had conducted the physical examination.

Powers said Cooper and Shepard were both in "every bit as good spirits today as yesterday, perhaps more so."

Cooper rode an elevator up the 123-foot high gantry cradling the rocket and almost immediately began entering the capsule, feet first.

There was none of the light-hearted play which occurred yesterday when technicians at the launch pad presented Cooper with a plumber's helper.

Cooper was inside the capsule, making himself comfortable on the plastic couch specially made to fit his body at 5:32 a.m., four minutes earlier than yesterday.

After entering the capsule, Cooper connected sound wires so he could follow the prelaunch procedures and carry out a personal countdown.

The scene at the launch site was like a preview of the year 2000. A couple of dozen huge anti-aircraft searchlights, their carbon arcs sputtering flame, outlined the big red gantry and the missile itself, serial No. 130-D, gleamed as if its thin aluminum skin had been hand polished with a jeweler's cloth.

The hatch cover of the Faith 7 was placed in position at 6:14 a.m. Three technicians immediately began the tedious job of sealing it in place.

The outer hatch cover with the explosive bolts for quick escape then was placed in position. The

Invalid Signatures Disqualify Position

Efforts put forth by two daughters in behalf of their father's candidacy for a Waterford Township School Board post have backfired and resulted in his disqualification.

Dr. Everette Gustafson, 3780 Lakewood, was ruled ineligible yesterday afternoon when a review of his petitions showed only 49 of the 72 signatures were valid.

School board candidates are required to file petitions containing a minimum of 50 valid signatures.

Unaware that petition circulators must be registered voters, Beverly, 11, and Barbara, 16, obtained 20 signatures for their father in the neighborhood. All were disallowed.

This still left 29 signatures. But, a review of these names on the petitions revealed that three were non-registered voters.

Those also were voided, leaving a total of 49 signatures, one below the required minimum.

Dr. Gustafson, 47, a physician and surgeon, was chief of staff at Pontiac General Hospital during 1962. He currently serves as chairman of the Oakland County Medical Society public relations committee.

Dr. Gustafson's petitions were filed Saturday afternoon just prior to the 4 p.m. deadline.

His disqualification leaves just three candidates for the two 4-year term vacancies on the board in the June 10 election.

Seeking office are incumbent secretary Mrs. Dorothy Barnham, 2856 W. Huron; Richard Luehmman, 3611 Percy King; Donald Porter, 3736 Mariner.

NATIONAL WEATHER—Cloudy skies, with widely scattered showers and thunderstorms and continued mild temperatures are expected tonight in the Midwest from the central and northern Plains to parts of the Mid-Mississippi and western Tennessee valleys. There will be a few showers over the northern Basin. It will be clear and cooler over the North-central and mid temperatures elsewhere. The Atlantic and Gulf coast states and the desert Southwest can expect clear skies.

Ask Congress to Abandon State Canal

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich., and City Manager Don C. Stewart of Benton Harbor, Mich., urged Congress yesterday to authorize abandonment of about 2,000 feet of the Benton Harbor ship canal.

They told a House Commerce subcommittee that there is no organized opposition to the proposal to abandon the canal in order to expand and redevelop a portion of the downtown Benton Harbor area.

Hutchinson said the abandoned portion of the canal would be filled in to extend city water and sewer lines and streets in connection with an urban renewal project.

The canal, built with private capital before the Civil War, was taken over by the United States in 1880, Hutchinson said.

He has introduced a bill to declare the canal non-navigable so the government can abandon it. He said abandonment would facilitate industrial development of land north of the canal.

3 Killed, 2 Injured in State Collision

BAY CITY (AP)—Three persons were killed and two others injured in a two-car collision at an intersection four miles west of here last night.

Dead are Guadalupe Martinez, 17, and Martina Ruiz, 42, both of Munger, and Don C. Schultz, of Bay City Hospital.

Bay County sheriff's deputies were unable to determine what caused the accident. The two survivors, both passengers in the Martinez car, were taken to a Bay City Hospital.

Grand Jury Indicts 2 for Bank Holdups

DETROIT (AP)—A federal grand jury yesterday indicted William L. Maus, 28, of Livonia for allegedly robbing two banks in less than 10 months.

Maus was accused of robbing the National Bank of Detroit branch in Dearborn of $20,000 on March 8, 1962, and taking $153,000 from the Bank of Livonia early this year.

Maus and a companion, Albert J. Dehetre, were captured in Arizona with part of the Bank of Livonia loot. Dehetre was charged in the same indictment with aiding Maus. Both were kept in custody in lieu of bond.

Airline Gets Approval to Land in Detroit

WASHINGTON (AP)—Canadian Pacific Airlines received permission yesterday to discharge U.S.-bound passengers at Detroit's Metropolitan Airport when weather conditions won't permit its flights from Mexico City to land in Windsor, Ont.

The Civil Aeronautics Board, in granting the authorization, said that under present circumstances, all passengers must be kept on board the aircraft under U.S. customs supervision while the weather is clearing before they can be flown to Windsor.

The Detroit-bound passengers would go there by their own means.

In its order yesterday, the CAB authorized Canadian Pacific Airlines to disembark at Detroit passengers ticketed to Windsor but destined for points in the United States during periods when the Windsor Airport is closed on account of weather.

Canadian Pacific also was authorized to transport by bus from Detroit to Windsor those passengers destined for Windsor.

Radio Manager Named to State Tourist Council

LANSING (AP)—Wesley Tebeau, general manager of radio station WSUS in Muskegon, yesterday was appointed by the Michigan Tourist Council by Gov. George Romney.

Tebeau, 38, will serve a five-year term, replacing Edward Mooney of Cheboygan whose term expired April 18. Confirmation by the Senate is necessary.

Honolulu Hit by Flooding Rainwaters

HONOLULU (AP)—Islanders began mopping up today in areas of Honolulu that were struck by flooding rainwaters Tuesday. The storm took the life of a child and forced about 75 families from their homes.

Coop's Flight Puts Cost at $450 Million

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—The space agency puts the cost of the Mercury program through the flight of L. Gordon Cooper at $450 million.

An additional flight, under consideration but not yet scheduled, would boost the Mercury bill by another $10 to $12 million.

Manned space flight costs will go much higher in the future. The two-man Gemini flight program, originally estimated at $550 million, is now expected to cost at least $1 billion.

The first flight of a Gemini spacecraft with men aboard is scheduled for late next year.

By far the costliest venture in the U.S. space program is the Apollo project to land a couple of men on the moon before 1970.

The current Apollo estimate: $20 billion.

No Serious Damage as 3 Ships Collide

DETROIT (AP)—Three ships—an American, a Canadian and a German—collided near the mouth of the St. Clair river today. But the Coast Guard reported none was damaged seriously enough to become unseaworthy and no one was injured.

Two headed down Lake St. Clair for Detroit under their own power and docked here. The third continued northbound up to the river to Lake Huron.

The collision happened at 3:40 a.m. It was almost exactly where, a week ago, an American ore carrier and a Swedish freighter sideswiped.

Someone Steals Photos in Policemen's Display

LANSING (AP)—Someone has stolen two photographs on display in the lobby of the Lansing police building.

The photos—one of a traffic accident, the other showing a police line-up—were part of the department's "police week" display. The remaining photos now are guarded by a uniformed officer.

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP)—The Dutch elected a new Parliament today after a very quiet campaign. There were no issues on which the big parties disagreed basically.

Troops Resented

Racial Fracas Hurting Dems?

ATLANTA (AP) — Southern Democratic chairmen believe President Kennedy's use of federal troops in Mississippi and Alabama has hurt the party's regional chances in 1964, the Atlanta Constitution said in today's editions.

In a copyrighted story by Political Editor Reg Murphy, the paper said Democratic leaders in the South believe Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., would be the toughest opponent for Kennedy in 1964.

However, the paper said a survey of Democratic chairmen and other party officials revealed that party leaders believe much of the South will remain Democratic.

The survey also showed party

chairmen believe they can recapture some of the states which have broken away from their old party ties in midcentury elections.

The paper said a new Democrat split is being murmured in a few Southern states, and Gov. George Wallace could become its leader unless tensions ease in Alabama.

Most of the chairmen pointed out that the new orders sending federal troops to Alabama are fresh on voters' minds now but might recede as an issue before election time.

Father Defends Girl Sent Home From D. C. Tour

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — "She has nice knees and I don't blame her for showing them," said John Pfeiffer, whose daughter, Jo Ann, was sent home Tuesday from a high school class tour of Washington because her skirts were too short.

Jo Ann, 18, had completed five days of the scheduled 10-day bus tour of the East Coast with 87 classmates. She worked as a sales clerk to earn most of the $400 required for the tour.

Jo Ann, a senior at suburban Mehlville High School, said the principal and four teacher chaperones warned her to lengthen her skirts, borrow another girl's clothes, constantly wear a coat, or return home.

Orion Man Gets Jail Sentence

An Orion Township man who admitted threatening a bartender with a pistol in September 1961, was placed on five years' probation yesterday and ordered to serve five months in Oakland County jail.

Samuel J. Hollifield, 23, of 3409 Indianwood Road, has only two months of the jail sentence left to serve, however.

Oakland County Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem ruled Hollifield was to be credited with having served three months of the sentence because of time already spent in the jail.

Hollifield pleaded guilty Nov. 27 to felonious assault as his trial was about to begin before Judge Ziem.

He was accused of threatening Robert Welch, 5835 Bordinan, Metamora, with a 22-caliber pistol at Barney's Tavern, 36 W. Flint St., Lake Orion. Police said Hollifield made no attempt to rob Welch.

Hart Praises Romney for Backing Park

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Romney of Michigan, Republican, was commended yesterday by Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., for backing, in principle, the creation of a Sleeping Bear national lake-shore of the Northwestern edge of Michigan.

Romney said recently he did not feel qualified to judge the acreage to be included but believed there ought to be a national park.

Hart and Sen. Pat McNamara, D-Mich., have proposed a national lakeshore of some 77,000 acres.

Rep. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., has offered a bill which would limit the park to about 37,000 acres in the dunes area on the shore of Lake Michigan.

"For many months Sen. McNamara and I felt mighty lonesome on this issue and its good to have people coming along behind us now," Hart said.

Will Sentence Woman's Killer

JACKSON (AP) — Larry Lee Hanley faces sentencing today for the murder of Mrs. Joan Watkins, 28, of Wampler's Lake, last Feb. 17.

The 23-year-old Hanley, of Napoleon, was convicted yesterday of murder in the first degree by Circuit Court Judge John Simpson in a trial heard in one day.

The conviction made a life sentence mandatory.

Mrs. Watkins disappeared from a coin-operated laundry at Brooklyn, Mich., where she had gone to wash diapers. Her body was found March 27 in a deep excavation next to a house. Hanley was building near Napoleon.

Hanley, the father of two, did not testify at the trial.

Douglas Watkins, husband of the slain woman, was among 17 witnesses called by the prosecution.

A motion by court-appointed defense attorney John Riley that the charge against Hanley be reduced from first-degree murder was denied by Judge Simpson.

Country Pays Tribute to Medical Institutions

This is National Hospital Week, the observance of which was initiated in 1921.

Fittingly, it began May 12, the birthday of Florence Nightingale. Her pioneer service in the Crimean War led to improvement of the hospital systems in both England and the United States.

In no area of science has there been greater progress since the turn of the century than in the conception and growth of institutional therapy.

During these years, the average span of human life has lengthened from 50 years to 70. No small part of this great boon is attributable to the progressive advancement of our hospitals and the dedicated men and women who staff and operate them.

In hospitals all over the Country, surgeons now make a routine performance of life-saving procedures so radical that they were almost unimaginable a few years ago.

On the average, one out of eight operations today is of a type which could not have been done at the end of World War II.

Locally, the week is highlighted by these events:

• Dedication of Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital's enlarged facility.

• The premiere of "Homer's Odyssey," a half-hour sound film produced at Pontiac General Hospital. It features the medical staff and employees while detailing hospital careers open to young people.

• Open house periods on two days at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital at which major phases of health service will be presented.

The Press congratulates these fine institutions and those connected with them on their vital contribution to the physical welfare of our area's citizenry.

Avoid Water Disaster—Obey Safety Principles

As we observe Water Safety Week, we are cognizant of the great boon represented by Oakland County's some 400 lakes. (A lake has a minimum of three acres.)

But with this unsurpassed recreational asset there is related danger. Danger from drowning.

With the annual invasion of the marine playgrounds by our citizenry near, words of caution are in order.

Two deaths by drowning have already occurred this season. There were 19 last year and 31 the year before.

Nationally, there were more than 12,000 water fatalities in 1962. Drownings rank next to automobiles as a cause of accidental death.

As tragic as the deaths themselves is the fact that virtually all could have been avoided by observing simple safety rules.

Boats are already in the water, and these pertinent safety principles are offered:

• Check all craft for seaworthiness before putting into service.

• Ascertain proper capacity of boats, and never under any circumstances exceed it.

• Old and abandoned boats should be reported to the sheriff's department. Last year the Department destroyed 168 such threats to the unwary who might be tempted to put them into use.

• Examine docks for soundness. The action of water and ice during winter can weaken the forward posts, with collapse possible.

• Scrutinize beaches for broken glass and debris which may have been left with departure of winter's ice.

Each summer, many persons suffer cuts from such fragments.

The Press wishes all in our area a safe, happy and beneficial summer on water and land.

The other day a Los Angeles man was arrested for riding a bicycle while drunk. There are a lot of talented people in L. A.

Presidents Should Use Troops Faster

BY JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — It seems clear that the disgruntled president's wishes to control may feel free to cut loose unless he says flatly beforehand he will use troops to stop them, if he has to.

President Kennedy used troops in Mississippi and now has them on standby in Alabama. President Eisenhower used them at Little Rock. In each case there was presidential reluctance about employing them.

In each case rioting began before the President decided to use troops.

Eisenhower went so far in July 1957 as to tell reporters he could imagine no circumstances "that would ever induce me to send federal troops . . . to enforce the orders of a court."

This was an amazing statement to make at a time when Southern states were showing resistance to U.S. court orders to integrate public schools. Troops are a president's ace-in-the-hole to enforce court orders if he has to.

Eisenhower threw his ace away for no apparent good reason. Within three months Arkansas segregationist rioters kept Negro children from a Little Rock school which a federal court had ordered integrated. Not until then did Eisenhower use troops.

REFUSED TO COMPLY

In 1962 a federal court ordered James H. Meredith, Negro, admitted to the University of Mississippi. State officials refused to comply. Mobs blocked U. S. marshals trying to take Meredith into the school.

Kennedy simply sent Meredith back with more marshals. Again there was rioting which lasted for hours and killed two men. Not until then did Kennedy send in troops. There were no more riots.

In the Little Rock and Mississippi cases, the presidents used troops to carry out court orders. The Constitution says that a president "shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed."

But no court order was involved in the mass demonstrations in Birmingham last week. Negroes were demanding equal treatment with whites. The demonstrations were not riots although they were getting increasingly explosive.

Because there was no court order and no rioting Kennedy was under no compulsion to employ troops.

But if he had warned he would send in troops if rioting started—as it eventually did—there might not subsequently have been any riots or any provocation which brought them on.

UNPREDICTABLE

While the law situation was still unpredictable last week—before the rioting started—Kennedy told his news conference:

"I've made it clear since assuming the presidency that I have all available means to protect human rights and uphold the law of the land."

But then, while acknowledging the Birmingham problem was still not settled, he said the demonstrations involved no federal law. The lawless elements in Birmingham might have concluded from this that Kennedy lacked legal authority for using troops to keep order.

At week's end criminals bombed Birmingham Negro dwellings. Negroes rioted against white police. Negroes and police were injured. It was too late to use troops to prevent disorders. There were none handy.

David Lawrence Says:

Judge Rules Integration Harmful

WASHINGTON — The "law of the land" can be a federal statute or any provision of the Constitution.

But a Supreme Court decision is "the law of the case" and holds good only for the facts and circumstances set forth in that particular case.

This differentiation now takes LAWRENCE on new significance because of a decision just rendered by U. S. District Judge Frank M. Scarlett.

He has ruled in a case tried at Savannah, Ga., that integration of the public schools can be harmful to both Negroes and whites, and that the evidence on which the Supreme Court's decision in 1954 ordering desegregation of public schools was not supported even by tests previously made by one expert in the psychological field who had testified that segregation was harmful.

The net effect on the new decision, if upheld by the Supreme Court, could be to limit the 1954 case to the principle of a political right whereby persons of any color are entitled to attend public schools, but are subject to educational standards which would be recognized as a valid basis for admission or rejection of applicants.

The findings of Judge Scarlett are in part as follows:

"Plaintiffs' assumption of injury to Negro students by the continuance of segregated schools is not supported by any evidence in this case."

"Whatever psychological injury may be sustained by a Negro child out of his sense of rejection by white children is increased rather than abated by forced intermixture, and this increase is in direct proportion to the number and extent of his contacts with white children."

"Each study presented to the court, confirmed by the opinions of the witnesses, showed that the damaging assumption of inferiority increased whenever the child is brought into forced association with white children."

"The principal author of the studies relied on by the Supreme Court in the Brown Case (1954 decision) used students from integrated schools in Northern states in getting the race rejection results which were then cited as showing such effects occurring from segregation."

ADVERSE EFFECTS

"The adverse effects of compulsory congregation are particularly harmful in the early formative school years. Intervenor's witnesses noted that integration at the collegiate level is not only possible, but on a voluntary basis might be of advantage to both white and Negro students."

"The findings herein are accordingly limited to children of primary and secondary-school ages."

The court further ruled that "selective integration would cause even greater psychological harm to the individual Negro children involved and to the balance of their group."

Judge Scarlett's conclusions in the Savannah case are as follows:

"1. The white and Negro school children have equivalent rights before this court and are equally entitled to be considered in determining the scope and content of constitutional rights."

"2. A reasonable classification within the meaning of the equal protection clause of the Constitution would be one which secures the maximum result in the educational process for all students and a minimum injury to any."

"3. The classification of children in the Savannah, Chatham County, schools by division on the basis of coherent groups having distinguishable educability capabilities is such a reasonable classification."

Unhappy Day for PR Boys When Diesel Stalled Orbit

BY BOB CONSIDINE

CAPE CANAVERAL — When it's time for an astronaut to go up, or try to, the Cape swarms with public relations men representing the numberless prime and subcontractors of the hardware that goes into these fabled exercises.

Each is bent upon getting the name of his client in the press accounts or on TV or radio.

But the only one who made the grade yesterday, when it was "no go for Gordon," wished it had happened to a dog, let's say.

If you were reading, listening or watching, the event will be familiar. The diesel motor that operates the 15-story skeleton-like gantry that served as a kind of maintenance scaffold around Gordon Cooper's 9-story space vehicle refused to function.

There, the gantry could not move away from that slim pillar of imprisoned fire atop which the astronaut was strapped.

The gantry, which moves on train tracks, just stayed there like a guest who overstays his welcome.

It stayed there two hours and nine minutes, in the course of which Lt. Col. Shorty Powers, the Voice of Project Mercury, felt it his responsibility to keep the world informed about the cause and nature of the delay.

SHORTY SAID 'CUMMINS'

A faulty diesel engine, he said at the start. Later, it was a corroded fuel pipe, diluted fuel, then a bad pump. But, clear and loud, Shorty said it was a Cummins diesel.

Cummins' name went 'round the world to the dismay of the publicist who had been trying to achieve just that.

Pretty soon the phone on Col. Powers' desk in Mercury control rang.

"Colonel Powers," Shorty snapped.

"Colonel," said a strange voice in the phone. "This is Mr. Keyes, President of Cummins diesel. What are you trying to do to me?"

Shorty straightened things out to Mr. Keyes' satisfaction, he believes, but he was still a bit flabbergasted when he saw him later at the Cape Colony Inn, the motel the first crop of astronauts once partly-owned through their business manager, C. Leo Doersey.

"I forgot to ask Mr. Keyes how he got through to me by phone," Shorty told us.

"He must be a wizard. Matter of fact, I got two phone calls during the countdown. The other came from Perth, Australia."

"It was the Deputy Prime Minister calling. He called to say that Perth was keeping its lights on for Gordon."

George Washington Asks—'Can This Be MY City?'

The Washington Post prints a page advertisement showing George Washington sitting on a park bench with a look of great concern on his face as he says:

"Is This My City? A pregnant woman assaulted in her home? A police officer gunned down in the streets? Workmen robbed of their wages daily? Riots and assaults at D. C. Stadium?"

"Is this my city? Where the coming of darkness signals the start of violence? Where women walk with fear and terror? Where tension explodes without even a spark? Where decent people reside and work in constant anxiety?"

"Is this really my city? And the voices cry, 'protect the criminal!' Why aren't these same voices raised in horror and protest at the senseless brutality of these crimes? Why aren't tears shed for the victims of these vicious attacks?"

"Who can help my city? The police department? They claim their hands are tied. The Commissioners? They look to Congress. The Congress? They sit, but they don't stir. The courts? They administer justice. The official organizations and spokesmen? They're so busy arguing for special interest and special privilege that the means destroy the ends."

"Who can help my city? Today, this city is the most dangerous of its size in the nation. First in criminal assaults. Second in robberies. Fourth in murders."

"Is this my city?"
Washington, D.C.

Hopes Broomfield Doesn't Change

Congressman William S. Broomfield has turned in a most outstanding job, during his tenure of office for the people of the 18th Congressional District.

He is the only public official (to my knowledge) with a full-staffed local office, rendering immediate advice and service to the constituents of this entire area, without alibi or long delays between Oakland County and Washington, D. C.

Now that a new 18th Congressional District is near reality, I hope the congressman will give serious consideration before deciding what district he will run in.

'Airport Creates Loss to Taxpayer'

We should be grateful to Mr. Hamlin for spending money. He advocated buying up all the airports in the county to be sure they will stay in operation, tax free, taking away land for expansion and future taxpayers.

The airports will have to be subsidized for loss of business and accidents but who subsidizes the taxpayer for depreciation in property values, loss by condemnation and damages around the airports? Were the people asked if they want to go into the airport business?

It is nice to supply private enterprise with airports at a cost of thousands to each taxpayer.

Businessmen and industries go where there are airports (according to Hamlin). Therefore, Chicago must have a lack of both as it almost had to abandon one of its major airports.

Three cheers for the fathers of our country who "believe in government, of the people, by the people but not for the people," only, VIPs.

Successor Story

The Washington Post

For the moment, Ludwig Erhard has won his fight to succeed Chancellor Adenauer when (and if) the venerable German statesman steps down next fall. By a decisive margin of 159-47, the Christian Democratic parliamentary delegation voted in favor of the portly Vice Chancellor and Minister of Economics.

Yet there was one formidable voice in the minority — that of the 87-year-old Chancellor, who continues to regard Mr. Erhard as an intolerable upstart.

On May 19, local elections will be held in Saxony, and until that vote it is highly unlikely that the Christian Democratic Party will jeopardize its showing by an unseemly split. Once Saxony is out of the way, however, the Chancellor may choose to resume his feud. His retirement is viewed as a certainty, but the succession is not wholly resolved.

This continuing doubt may well undermine Mr. Erhard's authority as heir-presumptive and encourage others who share the Chancellor's view that the Vice Chancellor is somewhat not qualified.

All this must be as galling to Mr. Erhard as it is gratifying to the opposition Social Democrats who scent victory in the next federal election in 1965.

find room at the top. Yet the shrewdest and most subtle German politician of the century still stands in the way.

A joke current in Bonn is that Mr. Adenauer's first choice as the ideal successor is President de Gaulle. Perhaps Mr. Erhard can wring some trifling comfort from the fact that the Franco-German entente, cordial as it is, as yet precludes the endorsement of a new Charlemagne.

Jury System

The Nashville Banner

The U.S. News & World Report rates James Riddle Hoffa as the most powerful union leader in America. He again hit the headlines across the country in another clash with the law.

The Teamster Chief and six of his associates were indicted by a Federal grand jury here on charges of conspiring to influence the jury that finally delisted Hoffa's nine-week trial. The allegations are yet to be proved, even though much of the evidence already is a matter of court record. But if these men are found guilty, the Banner believes the following observations are in order:

That never in history has the jury system been the target of a more reckless, brazen, cynical and contemptuous assault.

That these charges indicate on the part of those accused a stupidity and lack of sensitivity to the rules of civilized society, which are shocking and almost unbelievable to a law-abiding community.

That while the public had some awareness of the harassment of Judge William E. Miller, it is only now that the U.S. public can fully appreciate his devotion to justice and fairness.

That the tireless effort and teamwork exhibited by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and Department of Justice attorneys assigned to the case, are worthy of the highest commendation.

There is unfinished business still before the grand jury, entailing the same sifting of facts and sifting of evidence to determine further exactly what went on. They are items for which the report is awaited.

Reds May Want Cardinal to Go

Release of Mindszenty Part of Deal?

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Back in February 1956 a dill-eyed man in a Budapest courtroom pleaded guilty to treason against Communist Hungary. The man was Josef Cardinal Mindszenty.

To this day, there has been no clear account as to the methods the Communists used to torture such a confession from the austere cardinal who had fought both the Nazis and the Communists.

He himself had warned earlier that if he should be arrested and brought to a trumped-up trial, no one should believe him if somehow such a confession should be extracted from him.

The Communist court sentenced him to life imprisonment and, except for 120 hours of freedom during the Hungarian revolt in 1956, that was almost the last the outside world was to see of Cardinal Mindszenty.

As the Hungarian revolt crumbled under the weight of Russian tanks, the cardinal took sanctuary in the U.S. legation in Budapest and has remained there since in a small apartment set aside for him on the fourth floor.

In recent days, the name of Cardinal Mindszenty has appeared again in the news columns.

News dispatches from Rome, Warsaw, Vienna and Budapest have suggested that negotiations between the Soviet Union and the Vatican to improve their relations already are far advanced, and that safe passage for Mindszenty from Hungary might be part of a package deal.

For the Vatican to attempt to improve the conditions of the "silent church" behind the Iron Curtain is understandable.

Kremlin reasons for reaching or seeking such an accord seem more obscure.

A first reaction must be that it is a confession of defeat, that Communist oppression of religion only has stiffened the determination of the oppressed, and that Mindszenty's presence in Hungary serves as a rallying symbol and a continuing threat to Communist goals.

Certainly, it does not mean that Communism is abandoning the atheism which was one of Lenin's basic concepts.

One reason might be an experiment in coexistence which already has had significant results in Hungary.

It began with an assertion from Hungarian Premier János Kádár that henceforth he would consider "for" his regime all those who were not actively "against."

MANY OUT OF JAILS

One result was the release of an estimated 2,000 to 3,000 prisoners, both criminal and political, from Hungarian jails.

It also has meant that the Karegime has placed in key posts men who not necessarily are Communists but who do have specific qualifications.

Artists and writers operate under fewer restrictions than in any other Communist country with the possible exception of Poland. Personal freedoms also are greater.

New efficiencies also have led to a higher standard of living and an improvement in the economy generally.

It is possible that Communist leaders now feel they can extend their "humanization" to the church. If such is to be the case, it can only be accepted as good. But it should not be accepted as any basic change in communism's intent to rule the world.

Space Was Cooper's Destiny From Childhood

Infant Flier, Child Pilot, Teen Soloist

TV Viewers Enter Capsule With 'Gordo'

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—A tiny television camera that you can hold in one hand opens the way for millions of Americans to become "armchair astronauts."

The camera went aloft with astronaut L. Gordon Cooper Jr. on his 22-orbit journey through space, marking the first time that a television device has been used on a U.S. manned orbital mission.

Scientists tucked the camera alongside Cooper to give Americans in their living rooms an earth a view through the portal of the astronaut's bell-shaped Mercury space capsule.

There were a myriad of views possible—the vast panorama of space itself, or an inward peek at the astronaut during weightlessness within the tight confines of the spacecraft.

The camera, without its lens, measured 2 1/2 inches in diameter and eight inches in length. It is made of aluminum and weighs just 2 1/2 pounds.

The schedule called for Cooper to take the pictures himself.

The camera was rigged to a transmitter that could flash the photographs at the rate of three frames per second back to three receiving stations on earth.

The master receiving station is at Cape Canaveral.

During Space Ride

Plan Shut-Eye for All

By JULES LOH

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Plans for L. Gordon Cooper Jr.'s space effort called for nearly everybody involved, including the astronaut, to grab a little shut-eye during the 34-hour adventure. But some are betting Christopher Columbus Kraft Jr. won't sleep a wink.

As Project Mercury flight director, Chris Kraft has seen every previous American astronaut safely off the launching pad and safely back to earth without leaving his key post in the control center.

For the Cooper shot, however, a second team headed by Kraft's first assistant, John D. Hodge, was assigned to help direct in-flight operations. The teams planned to work in five-orbit shifts.

BE AROUND

"I'll probably be around when the main go-go-go decisions are made," Kraft said in advance. These are the critical moments when a split-second decision must be made whether to continue a flight or stop it.

"We'll fly this one on the basis of how goes it," Kraft said recently. "We have a planned landing area for all the orbits and we can make a go-go-go decision at all points in the flight."

To help him make the decisions Kraft compiled a catalogue as thick as the New York telephone book, outlining in infinitesimal detail everything that could happen, and what to do about it if it does.

ORIGINAL MEMBER

Kraft, 39, is one of the original members of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's manned spacecraft team. He joined the science staff of Langley Research Center's flight research division in 1945, a year after graduating from Virginia Polytechnic Institute as an aeronautical engineer. When the space task group was formed in 1958 he was one of the first to sign up. Kraft is the grandson of German immigrants—his father was born on Columbus Day—and grew up at Phoebus, Va., not far from the Langley center. Now he lives with his wife and two children in Houston, Tex.

Kraft is responsible for directing every space flight from the moment of lift-off to the moment of impact. He also is responsible for coordinating thousands of details and persons involved in Project Mercury—the tracking network, recovery forces and flight control divisions.

He has "flown" each mission, in simulators on the ground, many times before an astronaut climbs in the capsule atop the rocket, duplicating every situation the spaceman might face.

There's Little Concern Cooper Can Fall Asleep

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—Doctors said they had little concern that astronaut Gordon Cooper could fall asleep during his scheduled rest periods in space. "He's a napper," said one physician. "He can even go to sleep when he is having his blood pressure tested on the tilt table."

Avoids Cup of Coffee Though Up Before Dawn

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—Astronaut L. Gordon Cooper went without his usual eye-opening cup of coffee today although he was roused out of bed long before dawn. Cooper passed up coffee because he wanted to avoid any stimulants.

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—Gordon Cooper's itinerary called for him to pass over more than 100 countries, islands and possessions during his 22-orbit trip.

No Gravity May Affect Astronaut

By JOHN BARBOUR

Associated Press Science Writer
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla.—No matter how alert astronaut L. Gordon Cooper is in the weightlessness of space tomorrow, his heart will be lying down on the job.

That might be a problem. Flight surgeons will watch carefully to see what effects weightlessness will have on the astronaut's heart, especially when he returns to earth and his heart has to contend with gravity again.

So far as Cooper's heart is concerned, Cooper will be essentially a bed-ridden patient for nearly the full 34 hours of his 22-orbit space flight.

When Cooper returns to earth, can his heart adjust quickly to pumping blood against the pull of gravity again?

It could produce the same feeling you've had when you've been in bed for some days, and you first get up—lightheadedness and other problems.

Hundreds of medical specialists, nurses and technicians are on alert around the world for Cooper's intended 22-orbit flight lasting 34 hours.

Thousands of surgical instruments, carefully checked, sterilized and packed at nearby Patrick Air Force Base, have been distributed to temporary medical centers in many countries and on 27 ships at sea. The equipment, by Air Force count, weighs 95,611 pounds.

Each of the ships is staffed with a surgeon, anesthesiologist and medical technician.

Two teams of medical specialists are ready to fly anywhere in the world if needed. The teams, including top surgeons and specialists in neurology, plastic surgery, internal medicine, pathology and orthopedics, are stationed at the U.S. Army Tripler General Hospital in Honolulu, Hawaii, and the United States Naval Hospital in Portsmouth, Va. If Cooper requires hospitaliza-

By HOWARD BENEDET

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—As a boy, Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr. read Buck Rogers in the funny papers and wondered whether man would fly into space before the 25th century.

Today he's amazed at the swiftness of events which have sent astronauts into space in his lifetime—and his participation as one of the pioneers of this great effort.

If anyone seemed destined for space flight, it was Cooper. He has been flying as long as he can remember.

His father, an Air Force colonel, was a close friend of such aviation greats as Wiley Post and Amelia Earhart, and Gordon used to listen intrigued to their flying conversations. The elder Cooper took his son aloft almost before he could walk.

"Gordo"—as his fellow astronauts call him—recalls first handling the controls of a plane when he was 6 and flying his first solo at 16.

Cooper's mother says her son always was interested in airplanes.

"Gordon made a lot of model planes," she reported recently at her Carbondale, Colo., home. "Later, when he was a senior in high school at Shawnee, Okla., he had a good friend who ran an airport. Gordon worked there to pay for flying instruction. He soloed then, while his father was serving with the Air Force in the Pacific."

The senior Cooper died of cancer in 1960.

ANY WORRIES

Had Mrs. Cooper ever worried about Gordon's early-day flying?

"I worried about it, yes," she replied. "But I once asked that question of another mother who had three boys who were flying. She said: 'Don't you know that God's up there the same as on the ground?' and she went on knitting. I have always tried to remember that."

Cooper, a Methodist, feels much the same way.

"Religion is important in all the things we do," he says. "But I don't think a man needs to fall back on his faith any more or less in this space project than in any other undertaking."

Cooper was born March 6, 1927, in Shawnee. After graduation from high school in 1945, he entered the Marine Corps and spent some time at the Naval Academy Preparatory School. After his discharge in 1946 he attended the University of Hawaii for three years.

At the university, he met and married the former Trudy Olson of Seattle, Wash. Under Cooper's instruction, Trudy soon had a pilot's license. The couple explored the Hawaiian islands in a Piper Cub. They took their first baby for a plane ride soon after she was born.

COOPER'S FAMILY

The Coopers now have two daughters, Camala, 14, and Janita, 13. They live in Houston, Tex., site of the manned spacecraft center.

While at the University of Hawaii, Cooper received an army commission, which he transferred to the Air Force. In 1949, he was called by that service for extended flight duty. After training he was assigned to the 86th fighter-bomber group in Munich, Germany, where he piloted F84s and F86s for four years.

He later attended the Air Force Institute of Technology at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio, and earned a bachelor's degree in aeronautical engineering in 1956.

He then was assigned to the Air Force experimental flight test school, Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., and helped design and test experimental fighter aircraft.

Cooper, now an Air Force major, has logged more than 2,600 hours flying time, 1,600 in jets. As a test pilot, he has had several close calls; so the danger posed by space flight causes him no concern.

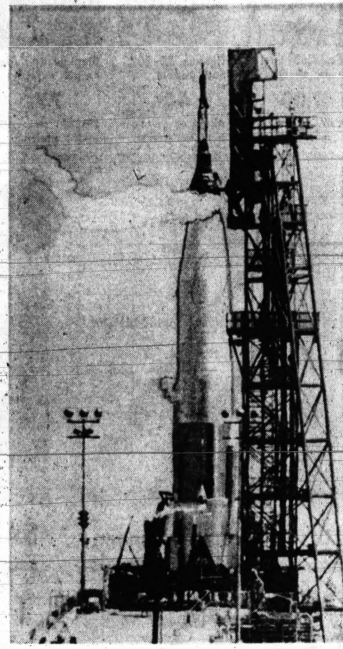

He and fellow astronaut Virgil I. Grissom had a near-fatal plane accident before their selection in 1959 as space candidates. They were taking off in a T33 jet trainer when the landing gear collapsed. The plane crashed and burned but both men escaped unharmed.

Trudy feels that Cooper's Mercury schedule, which separates the family for long periods, is no more strenuous than his test pilot days.

She was elated when he was selected to make a space flight which could keep him in orbit for more than a day. "I'd go with him if I could," she said.

She also shares his enthusiasm for wanting to travel one day to the moon.

Medical Team Ready for Long Space Flight

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A great medical team, backed up with everything from aspirin to X-rays, has been mobilized to support astronaut Gordon Cooper's long orbital flight.

Hundreds of medical specialists, nurses and technicians are on alert around the world for Cooper's intended 22-orbit flight lasting 34 hours.

Thousands of surgical instruments, carefully checked, sterilized and packed at nearby Patrick Air Force Base, have been distributed to temporary medical centers in many countries and on 27 ships at sea. The equipment, by Air Force count, weighs 95,611 pounds.

Each of the ships is staffed with a surgeon, anesthesiologist and medical technician. Two teams of medical specialists are ready to fly anywhere in the world if needed. The teams, including top surgeons and specialists in neurology, plastic surgery, internal medicine, pathology and orthopedics, are stationed at the U.S. Army Tripler General Hospital in Honolulu, Hawaii, and the United States Naval Hospital in Portsmouth, Va. If Cooper requires hospitaliza-

As Cooper zips above the Project Mercury global network of tracking stations, medical men at each post will keep a close watch on instruments which will relay body temperature, pulse, heart beat, blood pressure and other measurements. If anything seems amiss, they will be ready to order the astronaut back to earth.

There are a total of 12 planned landing areas—seven in the Pacific and five in the Atlantic. Ships will be in each area, each with a medical team trained for any emergency.

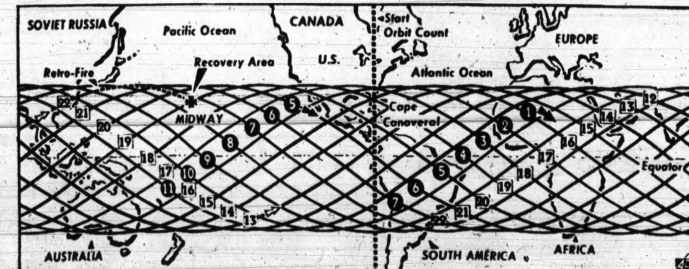

Aircraft carriers stationed at strategic points under the orbital paths are equipped with miniature hospitals—portable X-ray, resuscitator, iron lung, anesthesia machine, whole blood and the like.

If the flight goes the full distance, Cooper will travel nearly 600,000 miles and will land in the Pacific Ocean south-west of Midway Island.

POSE BY CAPSULE—Astronaut Gordon Cooper and his family pose before his spacecraft, Faith 7, in the "white room" in Hangar 5 at Cape Canaveral, Fla. Cooper is scheduled

Girls Can Rent Place for Summer

By The Emily Post Institute. Q: I am 20 years old and a junior in college. Two of my girl friends and I would like to rent a bungalow for a month this summer at the seashore.

A neighbor of one of the girls has a four-room bungalow which she rents every summer for a month and she said we could have it for a very reasonable rate.

I was enthusiastic over it, but when I approached my mother on the matter she promptly put thumbs down on the idea, saying it was not proper for three young women to stay alone in a bungalow unchaperoned.

Perhaps if I get your approval she will reconsider. A: The fact of three young women renting a bungalow at the seashore would be quite harmless in itself. It all depends on how they behave.

Of course, if you make it a gathering place for your men friends, you could run into very unpleasant criticism.

Q: My birthday is in two weeks and my boy friend asked me what I would like for a present. I have loads of perfume and costume jewelry and things of that sort.

I saw a very pretty blouse in one of the store windows last week and was going to buy it next pay day. Would it be proper to have my boy friend buy it for me for my birthday?

A: I'm sorry, but a boy may not properly give any article of clothing to a girl.

Child Problems

She's Psychology Sick

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am getting a little sick of all those deep-rooted psychological reasons why children do this and that. One, for instance, is the theory that when a child steals something it is a symptom of an unfulfilled need.

They say the child who steals a flashlight really wants his mother's love and is not getting it. Couldn't there possibly be another more obvious reason why a child steals a flashlight?

DOUBTING THOMAS DEAR DOUBTING: Yes, I suppose the child could simply want a flashlight.

DEAR ABBY: What can a sensible wife do about a husband who is excessively generous to an employee? She is very well paid, so all these extras are uncalled for in my opinion. We get bills from the dentist for Susie's teeth straightening, and from the optician for Robert's glasses. He has lent money to this employee and, as far as I know, she has never paid him back. We are not poor, but if I am going to give away that kind of money I'd rather do it through my missionary work at church, or CARE.

VERY MUCH ANNOYED DEAR ANNOYED: Tell your husband that every day isn't Christmas, and he is not Santa Claus.

I usually advise wives to stay away from their husbands' offices—but in your case I think I'll make an exception.

DEAR ABBY: For the past 16 years, an old shipmate of my husband's from World War II has come to spend his summer vacations with us. He stays about three weeks.

He never wants to go out. He only wants to sit around and have dinner at home every night.

Naturally, I have to cook company meals while he's here. Also, I would never think of serving him leftovers, which makes it hard.

My husband says that after four days he is no longer a "guest," and I should go back to my normal way of cooking.

I can't do that, Abby. To me a guest is a guest as long as he stays. I would appreciate your advice.

JOHN'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I think your husband is right. Give your "guest" the company treatment for the first few days, and after that relax and pretend that he is "one of the family." And don't hesitate to serve the leftovers.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MOTHER MARY: And when her birthday rolls around, forget the past and remember the present!

Yes, Abby will send you a personal reply if you send her a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your problem.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to ABBY, in care of The Pontiac Press.

Present Ritual of Endowment

Annual Music Program Set

Pontiac Central's vocal music department will present its "Say It With Music" annual spring concert Thursday and Friday at 8 p.m.

The choir has chosen both sacred and secular numbers for their groups. Combined mens' groups will sing "Down The Open Road" and an arrangement of Cole Porter's "Can Can."

The evening will close with three mass numbers by the entire department, concluding with an arrangement of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Teachers in the department are Ronald Bentley, Mrs. Robert Hermanson and Robert Settelring.

Tickets will be available at the door.

Heidi looks on as her mistress Mrs. William Ludwig of Bloomfield Hills tabulates scores of the Kappa Kappa Gamma alumnae bridge tournament. Also working on score cards are Mrs.

Theodore Walker of Birmingham and Mrs. Warren A. Wood Jr. of Royal Oak. Winners will be announced at a golden key luncheon Tuesday at the Oakland Hills Country Club.

Tuesday Musicales Has Final Program of Year

By BERNICE ROSENTHAL

For the annual luncheon and final meeting of the season, Pontiac Tuesday Musicales members met in the Gold Room at Oakland University on uTuesday afternoon.

The highlight of this gala occasion was a program by soprano Doralene McNelly, whose exquisitely even voice is matched by her artistry and musicianship.

Miss McNelly has never forgotten for a moment her love of singing for its own sake, and it is perhaps this quality most of all that makes her always a joy to hear.

She gives the listener the feeling that it is as simple and as natural to produce pure tones as it is for water to tumble gently from a mountain spring.

For her varied and musically taxing program, Miss McNelly began with four German lieder: "Lachen und Weinen" by Schubert; "In dem Schatten Meiner Locken" and "Lebe Wohl" by Wolf; and "Botschaft" by Brahms.

"Una Voce Poco Fa" from The Barber of Seville by Rossini was trilled and toyed with and tumbled out with the lightness that the pert coloratura aria requires.

In contrast with this charming

JFK Reminds of Suffrage

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has reminded a group of women about the suffrage movement, when—women were seeking the right to vote.

There was a tremendous outcry in front of the White House during that time, he said, and the leader told the demonstrators, "Don't worry, girls; pray to the Lord; she'll protect you."

He told the anecdote to the council of the League of Women Voters who met the President in the Rose Garden of the White House.

Kennedy praised the league for its support of the United Nations and said the U.N. has played a significant role in crucial moments.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

"Dear Eunice: Please tell me how I can reinforce the top corners on the pockets of my husband's shirts? They always tear away from the shirt."

Mrs. C. D. C.
Dear Mrs. C. D. C.: Place a strip of lightweight, firm fabric about one inch wide on the wrong side of the shirt just over the top of the pocket.

From the right side of the shirt, carefully machine stitch directly over the previous stitching about one inch at the top of each side of the pocket.

This reinforcement will not be noticeable if you are careful, and will add new life to the shirts.

LIKE NEW

The cloth portion of a slide fastener that has been removed is not firm and straight as it was originally and is difficult to put back in.

After removing the fastener, dip it in a solution of light starch, smooth out on a flat surface and dry. Once dry, it is as easy to insert as a new one.

You might prepare all your discarded fasteners in this way and keep them in a box ready for replacements.

Mrs. John Douglass, Detroit, wins this week's Tailor Trix pressing board award for this suggestion.

Mrs. S. says: When covering buttons with cotton fabric, dampen the fabric to be used, put it out on a towel and place it on the button while damp.

It will be easier to handle and the fabric will shrink just enough to make it fit extra tight and smooth.

Dear Eunice Farmer: My arms are not attractive enough for those sleeveless dresses that everyone seems to be wearing.

All the patterns I like are sleeveless. Is there some way to make a cap sleeve for a dress made from a pattern of this type?

Mrs. B. McN.

Dear Mrs. B. McN.: Draw an extended shoulder line the distance you desire (about 3 inches, raising shoulder slightly).

This point is connected in a curved line to a point about 1 1/2 inches below the armhole.

After your garment has been fitted, and you can determine exactly how long the sleeve cap should be, you must double stitch the area at the underarm twice, clip the seam to release any pull and reinforce with seam tape to prevent tearing at the underarm.

Dear Eunice Farmer: I would like to know how to keep a side pocket in shorts or slacks from standing open.

Mrs. J. D.
Dear Mrs. J. D.: The secret to this type of pocket staying nice and smooth is to avoid fitting the slacks or shorts too snug.

Be sure there is a little extra ease in your garment just below the waistline. Fit your garment before applying the pockets.

It is difficult to change after the pockets have been applied.

Any suggestions?

Mrs. S. T. wants to know if anything can be done with a sweater that has shrunk and become stiff. I don't know.

Many readers will appreciate an answer to this. If you know, please write me.

Please send your questions to Sew Simple. Those of the most general interest will be answered in the column.

If you would like a copy of instructions for making spaghetti straps and rope belts, send 10 cents and a self-addressed stamped envelope with your request to Eunice Farmer, in care of The Pontiac Press.

Allow Working Sons Part of Their Income

By MARY FEELEY

Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley: A year ago I lost my husband. I was left with three children, and the fourth was born a month after his death.

My husband did not have much social security, or veteran's pension coming, to the two older boys and I baby sit for friends and neighbors, and the boys do odd jobs to FEELSEY.

Should they turn all their earnings over to me, or should they be allowed to keep it? How much allowance do boys of 13 and 10 get?

They need no lunch money as they both work in the school cafeteria for their lunch. The two girls are only two years and eleven months old, so they are no problem as yet.

We are trying to keep this a happy family matter, so we would appreciate any advice you can give us.

Mrs. A.C.L., Hinsdale, Ill.

Dear Mrs. L.: I think your two line, industrious young men are entitled to the privilege of helping take care of their family. From what you tell me, they've earned the respect of their womenfolk, and can feel proud of their part in keeping the five of you together.

I do feel, however, that some part of what they earn should be theirs to spend as they like, provided your finances will permit it. As for how much allowance they should have, figure out your budget and see what it can reasonably spare.

Usually the older child is given a bit more than the younger, as his needs and expenses are apt to be greater.

But if they are both putting forth as much effort as possible, and if they earn pretty much the same amount, then you might allow an equal sum for each.

Encourage them to save some part of whatever they receive, no matter how small it must be. Talking all this out in family council, as you plan to do, is an excellent idea. More power to you.

Dear Miss Feeley: I am a single woman, in my later 30's, and very much interested in the work I am doing with a big company.

I have quite a bit of group life insurance and a pension plan. Marriage isn't in my plans for the future, and I have no dependents.

Do you think I should take out any individual life insurance? L.T., St. Paul, Minn.

Dear L.T.: I do. At your age marriage has a way of happening when you least expect it. And every married woman should have some life insurance for her husband and family.

But even if you don't marry, you may change your job. In either case, your group insurance would probably stop.

With permanent life insurance, the cash values will build up over the years and can provide a comfortable cushion for retirement.

You may get Mary Feeley's budget suggestion leaflet by writing her in care of The Pontiac Press and enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Understand Father's Protective Attitude

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE, her kind.

That, dear reader, is what your husband knows. He knows that boys' feelings toward girls are more aggressive, more impatient, more indiscriminating than girls' feelings toward boys.

I expect that as a man who loves and husbands a woman, he wishes to protect his daughters against the kind of impersonal overtures boys make toward girls in whom they have no personal interest.

That is a natural wish in fathers.

It can become too interfering, too suspicious and too restrictive if it is not understood by a father's womenfolk.

Perhaps you can better appreciate it if you will realize that this wish of your husband's derives from his love for you.

EXPERIENCED MALES

We are seldom a husband's first girl. The men we marry are usually romantically experienced people. They know how young males behave in parked cars on moonlit nights.

They know that what boys feel toward the casual "dates" is only part of what they later feel for the girl they undertake to love and cherish for life.

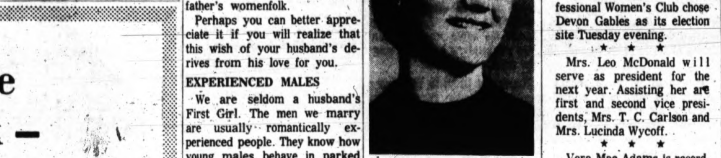

The fact your husband wants for his daughters what he feels for you should awaken a special tenderness in you toward him, instead of your obvious impatience.

Now you see only the children's point of view. Well, you were a wife before you were a mother.

If you will try to extend your point of view to include your husband's as well as your inexperienced children's perhaps you can interpret his to them. Then they may quit resenting him as a cantankerous, interfering old fuss-budget.

That would release him from the defensive and belligerent attitude their resentment has forced him to take toward their dates.

Swipers Clean Mess

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I cut or tear into practical sizes anything made of absorbent material after it can no longer serve its original use.

When a child makes any kind of a mess with spilled milk, jelly, muddy feet and so on, he goes to "Mother's Swiper Drawer" for something to clean up his offense. He then puts the dirty swipers in the kitchen hamper.

These swipers are no things of beauty, but they are always clean and can be used fearlessly.

When the knees give out on my boys' jeans, I cut off the pant legs with pinkish shears in a jagged design to eliminate the worn area. Use a length of rope as a belt and you have "beachcomber pants" which the children like to wear.—MRS. R. D. MCN.

DEAR POLLY—Use roller skates with the wheels up for handling wallpaper or roofing paper.

Lay the roll across two skates. The wheels will facilitate the job of rolling and unrolling the material and keep it off the ground or floor.—MRS. W. C. V.

DEAR POLLY—While playing Scrabble, or other board games, I place the board on the platform of my Lazy Susan, making it easier to turn as each person plays.—MRS. J.R.C.

DEAR POLLY—Do you save the big ribbon bows that come on gift packages? When I get mine out to reuse them, they are pressed flat from being crowded in a box. To restore their fluffiness, hot them into your clothes dryer. Turn the temperature on HOT and tumble them for about 15 minutes. The heat often softens the ribbon and the air fluffs the bows.—MRS. M.L.V.

Why Grow Old?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Women write to me from all over the country to tell me that my nine-day reducing diet seems to be as true a harbinger of spring as the first robin is.

In order to get ready for summer each year, they use it to lose the few pounds they gained during the winter.

While the ideal procedure is to change our eating habits so that we keep the same perfect weight during our lifetime, few of us achieve this state.

Therefore, it is important to go after that first five to 10 pounds before they multiply. A short rapid reducing diet is a pleasant way to do it.

I am here each spring with the menus for nine days, which will help you shed from five to 10 pounds in just nine days.

Here are the menus for Thursday:

May Request Union Rebate

Oakland County UAW members may be able to ask for a five-cent rebate on their union dues — if they disagree with the political philosophy of the union.

The Supreme Court ruled earlier this week that a worker cannot be forced to pay that portion of his union dues which might be used for political purposes.

The rebate proposal has not been approved by the international union, but Region 1 co-director Ken Morris stated that the union would do everything within its power to comply with changes in the law.

Explaining the ruling, Justice William J. Brennan Jr., suggested that unions either issue rebates or withhold that portion used for political purposes from the dues charged to members disagreeing with the union's policies.

As it now stands, when a UAW member objects to the use of dues of political purposes, the five cents is contributed to charity.

Morris noted that less than 1 per cent of all Oakland County UAW members have voiced objections.

LEVIN REPLIES TO BLAST ON DEM RECOUNT — Oakland County Democratic Chairman Sander M. Levin today answered a charge by supporters of the new state constitution that the recount of the vote on the document is a "nuisance."

Levin called "illogical" a statement by Mrs. Ruth Lichterman of Royal Oak, recount chairman for the Oakland County Non-Partisan Committee for the New Constitution. (CNC).

Mrs. Lichterman said the recount asked by the Democratic party caused "needless cost to the taxpayers."

She said it made sense to have a recount where the vote was close, but not in Oakland County where the new constitution carried by more than 25,000 votes.

Levin said, however, that any vote change in Oakland County would affect the vote statewide, where the document's victory margin was 7,829 votes.

"If Mrs. Lichterman thinks it's a waste of time and money to recount with a 7,829-vote margin, then does she also consider wasteful the recount demanded by the Mennen Williams won over Fred Alger by more than 8,000 votes?" Levin said.

Stephen Foster, who became famous for his songs about the South, actually was born in Lawrenceville, Pa. He was of Southern descent.

County Government Team Arrives in South America

A four-member team from Oakland County arrived in Bogota, Colombia, today en route to Cali to offer technical aid to the South American city's development problems.

The team, headed by Delos Hamlin, explained Oakland County could help in city planning because of its experience in solving similar problems.

The team is being sponsored by local government approach to the U.S. government to give a foreign aid.

The idea was fostered by U.S. Rep. William S. Broomfield, R-Oakland County.

Accompanying the team is architect Mark T. Jarozewicz of 4284 Butterfield Hill, Bloomfield Township.

Hamlin described him as an unofficial observer.

The U.S. government is paying plane fares and living expenses only for Hamlin and the other three members of the group.

They are D. B. Varner, chancellor of Oakland University; George Catlin, director of area development for Detroit Edison Co.; and George Skrubbs, director of the County Planning Commission.

Men Blast 2nd-Best Rating

By PHYLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK—Are American women really superior to American men?

Most men don't think so. Most women would rather not think so. Only people who take psychological tests think so. They like to get their names in the papers.

PHYLIS BATTELLE
Recently, this column printed results of some of those tests, indicating that woman, in many respects, is the stronger sex. The mail response has indicated that in at least one characteristic (temper) men are dominant.

Some of the more salient snarls of rebuttal are listed below:

1. Women are better able to remain calm in a crisis than men.
"Yes? Then why all this 'twilight sleep' for women having babies?"
2. A man is far more likely to have a high opinion of his own importance than a woman does.

"God gave man a healthy edge over men in getting their way in domestic arguments.

3. Women are more perceptive of other people's thoughts than men are.

"How true that is. A woman trains herself to X-ray a man's brain so she can kill his argument before he has a chance to give it."

"Because a man thoughtfully chooses his words to be sincere, while a woman says whatever sounds appropriately glib for the moment."

5. Men have less imagination than women.

"And who are the greatest writers, poets, painters, musicians and chefs in world history?"

6. Men are more likely to "go to pieces" over a broken romance than women are.

"Because men are more sincere in romance."

7. Men do not hear as well as women.

"They have to have some defensive weapon."

8. In general, women are more cultured than men.

"Men are dedicated to making a good living so that their wives have leisure for cultural pursuits."

9. Women have a definite edge over men in getting their way in domestic arguments.

"Woman is more verbose, loquacious. She must always have the last word."

Some of these male correspondents have asked me what I think of their refutations. Since not every woman has to have the last word, the answer is "no comment."

And that's final.

Detroit Asks School Help

DETROIT (U)—The Detroit School Board adopted a formal resolution last night asking Gov. George Romney to call a special session of the legislature to help alleviate the city's school finance problems.

The board asked that Detroit be put on a par with other school districts in the state by authorizing the schools to have special school elections and to issue school bonds up to 3 per cent of the assessed valuation without a vote.

Detroit schools lack bonding authority and school questions are restricted to general elections.

Potential British Foreign Secretary to War on Complacency

By TOM OCHILTREE
LONDON (AP) — Patrick Gordon Walker — an intellectual and a family-playing suburbanite — expects to be Britain's foreign secretary by this time next year.

BACKGROUND

OF THE NEWS

If he gets the post, he intends to war on some of the hocus pocus and striped panics complicity in diplomacy to be begun by scrapping clichés about British-American relations.

Gordon Walker is fond of the United States — he has visited it many times and is going back this month. But he maintains he wants to bring a greater sense of realism into the relationship between London and Washington.

The Labor party must win Britain's next national election if Gordon Walker is to succeed aristocratic Lord Home in the Foreign Office.

Primarily, he believes diplomats everywhere need to re-think their basic concepts. It is not good enough, he says, to regard the Western-Soviet rivalry in terms of conditions eight years ago.

If you do, you tend to miss the point of "the growing distinction between the world's rich and poor countries which cuts across the old pattern in places."

Or, take the business of Britain's special relationship with the United States. For 12 years, conservative governments have used that phrase like a magic incantation.

Gordon Walker professes to see a lot of humping in all this. He concedes Prime Minister Harold Macmillan elaborated the special relationship theme to help the Conservative party's fortunes.

In the end, Gordon Walker says, this created tensions inside the North Atlantic Alliance with the French, West Germans, Italians and others getting to feel like second-class members.

CLOSE UNDERSTANDING

"We don't want a special or privileged relationship with Washington," Gordon Walker told an interviewer. "Naturally we expect a close understanding to exist."

He shares the conviction of Harold Wilson, the Labor party's potential prime minister, that a Laborite government will work more smoothly with the Kennedy administration than the Conservatives are doing now.

For one thing, the Laborites would steer away from Britain's separate nuclear deterrent — a course directly contrary to Conservative policy.

Britain's nuclear future, in fact, may be a key issue in the election, due sometime before October 1964.

Gordon Walker's stand on this issue is perhaps less ambiguous than Wilson's.

"We are prepared to accept the United States as the nuclear power in the West with a monopoly of weapons if the American government gives us a proper degree of sharing in the deployment and targeting of such weapons," he said.

A system must be worked out, he says, "which gives the NATO allies a greater feeling of participation in nuclear policy and strategy while recognizing America's right to make final decisions."

PLANS U.S. TRIP

Gordon Walker plans to be in the United States from May 26 to June 5, visiting New York, Boston, Washington, St. Louis and Louisville.

Americans "meeting him for the first time would hardly spot him as a potential foreign secretary."

At 56 he seems more like a professor — a reflection of the years he spent at Oxford both as a student and a tutor in history.

He is English middle class. Happily married, he is the father of three grown daughters and twin sons of 17.

He is fluent in French and German, an accomplishment which came in handy in World War II when he broadcast to German workers in an effort to break the Nazis' hold over them.

In 1944, Gordon Walker was in a British-American team which broadcast from Radio Luxembourg while Germans shelled the station from only five miles away.

He remains a fast friend of Col. Samuel Rosenbaum of Philadelphia, head of the group.

carried Gordon Walker into Parliament.

In 1959, he began a brief term as Commonwealth secretary before the Conservatives came back to power.

Today, most of his busy life is devoted to politics and the House of Commons, where his clear debating style is much admired.

As a potential foreign secretary, he spends almost as much time studying diplomatic problems as if he were in office. He also broadcasts for the overseas service of British Broadcasting Corp., in both French and German.

Jail Term Set in Burglary Try

Draws 1 to 5 Years in Jackson Prison

Freddie Bledsoe, 22, of Madison Heights, was sentenced to one to five years in Jackson prison yesterday by Oakland County Circuit Judge Stanton G. Dondero for attempted burglary.

Bledsoe pleaded guilty Feb. 5 to the crime at a Madison Heights restaurant in January.

Last week, Bledsoe was bound over to Circuit Court on armed robbery charges in another case two days after safe robbery charges against him in a third case were dismissed.

In the robbery charge Bledsoe is accused of holding up a Madison Heights gas station April 16 with a 22-year-old escapee from Pontiac State Hospital, Robert Monk.

Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore dismissed the safe robbery charges against Bledsoe in a Feb. 24 theft of a safe containing $6,000 from a Birmingham pharmacy.

Judge Moore ruled that Bledsoe was searched and arrested illegally by Clawson police.

Bledsoe will make at least one more visit to Circuit Court before he begins his prison sentence.

He will be brought back to face the armed robbery charge, according to the county prosecutor's office.

Critics Don't Bother Indifferent Powell

EDITOR'S NOTE—These attacks haven't hurt me with my people. That's the way Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., reacts to criticism of his activities in the following dispatch, the first of three.

By LOUIS CASSELL
—and ARNOLD SAWILAK
WASHINGTON (UPI) — At a recent news conference on Capitol Hill, a reporter asked Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y.: "Does it bother you to be called an adult delinquent?"

Powell's handsome face broke into an enigmatic smile.

"No," he replied. "Not at all."

A bland indifference to notoriety is one of the uncommon traits that have made Powell the most talked-about member of the 88th Congress.

Not since the heyday of the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis., has a lawmaker managed to stir up so much controversy as Powell.

The urbane, 54-year-old Negro leader has outraged some Americans, and delighted others, by assiduously pursuing the rarely combined careers of playboy, preacher and politician.

His genius for tramping on conventional ideas of how a minister and/or a congressman should behave has been expressed in a glittering variety of ways.

Item: He has hung a sign on the door of his congressional offices telling visitors, in effect, offices telling visitors, in effect, to go away.

Item: He married his secretary, raised her government salary from $3,074 to $12,974 a year and ensconced her in a $70,000 beach house in Puerto Rico to earn her pay at a distance of 1,500 miles from the Capitol building in Washington.

When criticized for all of this, he blithely acknowledged: "I think nepotism is wonderful."

Item: He left Washington in the midst of last year's congressional session for a month-long tour of Europe, accompanied by two attractive young women members of his staff, all of them traveling on government funds.

When asked whether it was proper for him to include eight chicks and beach resorts in his itinerary, he replied that he could hardly be expected to "go to Paris and spend all the time in Notre Dame."

For these and many other flamboyant transgressions against popular ideas of propriety, Powell has been criticized by his colleagues in Congress, upbraided by newspaper editorials and rebuffed by some prominent Negro leaders.

But there are two groups which he has evidently found no fault with: the Negro and Puerto Rican voters of the 18th Congressional District of New York who have elected him to the House 10 times by huge majorities, and the members of the Abyssinian Baptist Church in Harlem, who have retained him as their pastor through three marriages, two divorces, a trial for income tax evasion which resulted in a hung jury and repeated demonstrations of his sophisticated tastes in wine, women, food and festivity.

Can AFFORD IT?

Since his constituents and his congregation are the only people whose opinions greatly matter to Powell, he can afford to be care-free about the vituperation heaped on his head from other directions.

"These attacks haven't hurt me with my people," Powell said in an interview with UPI reporters.

"On the contrary, they have strengthened my position at home. The folks in Harlem know that I'm being attacked because I'm a Negro — and because I've won a place in the power structure of American society from which to battle for their rights."

Powell's place in the power structure is the chairmanship of the House Education and Labor Committee, which handles a large portion of President Kennedy's domestic legislative program.

came a Negro leader.

Italian N-Scientist Charged as Red Spy

SOUTHEND, England (AP) — Giuseppe Martelli, an Italian nuclear scientist, was accused in court today of being a spy for the Soviet Union.

Martelli, 39, was employed by the European Atomic Energy Community — Euratom — and had been working since last November in Britain's Culham Research Laboratory in Oxfordshire.

He was arrested April 28 upon his return from a trip to Brussels and accused of committing "an act preparatory to the commission of an offense" against the British Official Secrets Act.

Happiness Is Reason Behind Nixon's Move to New York

By RUTH MONTGOMERY
WASHINGTON — Former GOP standard-bearer Richard M. Nixon has told intimates that the overriding reason for the family's move to New York is a simple question of happiness.

"We think we'll be happier in New York than California," Nixon said, in what may be a classic understatement.

RUTH MONTGOMERY
Close friends, aware of how hard Pat Nixon took her husband's presidential defeat in 1960, know what he means. As one of them remarked: "Pat was deeply disappointed that the people of their own state did not support Dick in the '62 gubernatorial election."

Immediately after Nixon handed over the vice presidency to Lyndon D. Johnson in January 1961, he flew to California to join a Los Angeles law firm.

Pat, staying on in Washington until their daughters finished the school term, became almost a hermit during that five-month period.

Old friends were unable to reach her by telephone, their notes went unanswered, and intations were formally "regretted" by mail.

It was as if she could not bear to face a city that was suddenly jumping with new frontiersmen who had narrowly missed Dick at the polls.

As always, she was a gallant trooper when Nixon decided to throw in his battered hat for the governorship. She was at his side throughout the wearisome campaign, but when the home-state voters denied Nixon even that consolation prize, Pat had had it.

A home-loving woman with cordinate skill as a mother, wife and homemaker, she had thrived in anticipation of the first house ever built to their own specifications.

DREAMHOUSE, BUT...

It was a real dreamhouse with a swimming pool, in one of the most exclusive suburbs, but the political rejection in their own back yard took much of the joy out of it.

Nixon, whose interests are national and international, rather than local and state, naturally preferred the broader opportunities that a law practice in New York could provide.

He therefore denied rumors of the shift only until the terms he sought with the negotiating New York firm had been granted, and then announced the move.

Tricia and Julie Nixon, who knew no other home but Washington until their father's presidential defeat, are reportedly delighted to be returning East again to live.

Now old enough for high heels and lipstick, they depart June 10 with their parents for a long-promised tour of Europe.

PLUSH APARTMENT

Then they will move into the plush cooperative apartment across the street from Central Park, in the same building with the Nelson Rockefeller.

Nixon, Rockefeller, former President Eisenhower, Governor William Scranton of Pennsylvania and Governor George Romney of Michigan are invited to share the speakers' platform at last week's $1,000-a-plate dinner here honoring another potential presi-

Goldwater.

Of them all, only Romney came. Rockefeller apologetically cancelled out after deciding to move his wedding date forward a week because of "pounding" from the press.

Scranton already had a long-time engagement to speak at a 150th anniversary celebration in his state that evening.

He, fulfilling a year-old engagement for a golfing session with old friends at his favorite course in Augusta, Ga., sent regrets, but under party pressure offered to reconsider if a pressurized plane could be sent for him.

He stipulated that it should not be a "company" business plane, however, and when it was found that the luxurious privately-owned one of Post Toasties heir-ess Marjorie Post may would be in use the day of the dinner, Ike was permitted to continue his holiday without further pressure.

NOT CONSULTED

As the former President and leader of the party correctly pointed out, no one had bothered to consult him about the date in advance.

The only headliner who failed to supply a good excuse for his absence was Dick Nixon, who remained in California while the party angels gathered for the "Salute to the Senate" dinner.

This led many observers to accept at face value Nixon's recent assertions that he will never again run for political office, but one of his closest friends does not buy that one.

"Dick expects to address the Republican National Convention next summer," he said, "and you can be sure that it will be a real stem-winder. If the convention gets into a hassle over Rocky, Barry and Romney, he still thinks the lightning may strike you-know-who."

House Rejects Philippine Bill

WASHINGTON — The House rejected yesterday a Senate proposal to pay the Philippines $73 million in a lump sum settlement of World War II damage claims.

The voice vote action returned to the Senate a $15-supplemental appropriation bill to which the war claims proposal had been added.

The Senate provision had prohibited payment of any of the money to lobbyists.

Funds for payment of the claims had been appropriated previously, the money being earmarked for payment to individual claimants.

The Senate shift to lump-sum payment followed disclosure of political contributions by Washington lobbyist John A. O'Donnell, former member of the Philippine War Damage Commission.

If the Senate concurs in the House action, payments from the original appropriation will go forward through the U.S. Foreign Claims Settlement Commission.

Junior Editors Quiz on ACCORDIONS

QUESTION: Is the accordion a woodwind, percussion, string or brass instrument?

ANSWER: The accordion does not belong to any of the instrumental groups mentioned in the question. It is a member of the free-reed family of instruments, the earliest of which is an ancient Chinese instrument, the "cheng" (A).

At the base of each of the cheng's little bamboo tubes was a very small brass reed which vibrated when air was blown in through the mouthhole.

Instrument makers in Europe began to experiment with his principle in the 1820's. Small brass reeds which could vibrate freely between an opening were set in metal plates and arranged so air could be blown-in them, making musical tones when the reeds vibrated.

The harmonica or mouth organ where the air is blown in, and the accordion and concertina where the air is pumped in with a bellows, were thus invented.

The first accordions had only a simple scale and two keys to give the bass accompaniment. But they were easy to play and were favorites with sailors who liked the swinging rhythm which the pumping of the bellows gives to this kind of instrument.

When (main picture) a piano keyboard was added on the right side and 50 or more base buttons on the left, the accordion really grew up, and became the extremely popular dance and orchestra instrument it is today.

FOR YOU TO DO: Learn to "tongue" a harmonica. With high notes to right, use your tongue to cover all of the doubled openings which are between your lips, except the one to extreme right. When you blow, this will give a single melody note. Now move tongue off and on other openings to get accompaniment.

Negro Protest Is Called Off

Students Respond to Pleas in Tennessee

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Negro students, responding to a plea for a peaceful protest, canceled a downtown demonstration here last night.

However, they clearly indicated that their future course of action would depend on the outcome of negotiations with Mayor or Beverly Briley's biracial committee, which meets late today.

Negotiations center around student demands for complete integration of public accommodations such as restaurants and hotels, equal job opportunities and dismissal of charges filed against demonstrators since the first "sit-ins" in 1960.

The decision to call off the protest march last night followed a series of meetings in which Negro and white leaders criticized the violence that accompanied Monday night's rock-throwing, knife-wielding demonstration.

STUDENT SPEAKS
"In order to show our faith, to purge ourselves of our own sins, we have called off the demonstrators for the night," said John Lewis, Fisk University senior and chairman of the student nonviolent committee.

Lewis announced the change in plans at a meeting of some 250 Negro students minutes after he had conferred with the mayor. Lewis also urged all students "who cannot restrain themselves" to attend a Thursday night workshop on nonviolent demonstrations.

The Rev. J. Metz Rollins, vice president of the Nashville Christian Leadership Council, said the conference was "successful in that the students had a chance to listen to the mayor and he had a chance to listen to them . . . and they now have an appreciation of his feelings."

Rollins earlier had urged the students to avoid violence in any form, warning "we're sitting on top of a racial powder keg . . . That plea was echoed today by the Nashville branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

To Keep Vigil at Jail Where Marchers Held

GADSDEN, Ala. (AP) — An integrated group, including a Broadway actress, said it would stage a dawn-to-dusk vigil today outside a jail where a group of "freedom marchers" are being held.

The actress, Madeline Sherwood, said she joined the 12 demonstrators, including five other white persons and six Negroes, "because I feel compelled to do something for this great movement to gain equality and freedom for my fellow man."

They originally had planned the vigil at the county jail in Fort Payne, Ala., about 70 miles away. But only minutes after they announced their plan, the 18 freedom marchers there were whisked away to the Gadsden jail.

Miss Sherwood said the group, sponsored by the Congress of Racial Equality, planned to continue the watch until the demonstrators are brought to trial. She said it is a show of respect "for what they were trying to prove — that they could walk along the highways of Alabama."

Both groups had planned to retract the steps of Baltimore postman William L. Moore, who was shot down near Atlanta while on a pilgrimage to Jackson, Miss., to present his prointegration views to Gov. Ross Barnett.

San Francisco Postmen Get Antidog Protection

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Five hundred aerosol spray dog bombs will be given to San Francisco mail carriers today to be used against dogs who attack them, a Post Office spokesman said.

The spray cans, about four inches long and shaped like lipsticks, are filled with a solution of mineral oil and oil of capsaicin, an extract of cayenne pepper.

School Bonds Approved

DURAND (AP) — Voters yesterday approved 1,182-571 a $1.73 million bond issue to build a new high school. Last year, 13 rural school districts consolidated into the Durand District.

Won't Yield in Rate Fight

DETROIT (AP) — Insurance Commissioner Sherwood Colburn said yesterday he will not compromise with Michigan Medical Service (Blue Shield) on whether the insurance department has legal authority to regulate Blue Shield rates.

Circuit Court hearings were held.

scheduled to resume today in the law suit over Blue Shield's proposed 19.3 per cent rate increase. A day-long session of negotiations in the chambers of Circuit Judge Theodore R. Bohn ended yesterday with each side accusing the other of not conceding anything.

An estimated 100,000 children and 500,000 adults in the United States have an unrecognized and undiagnosed infection of the kidneys.

Seek to Repeal Law Banning Birth Control

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — A bill that would repeal Connecticut's anti-birth control law was passed Tuesday by the Republican-controlled House and sent to the Democratic-dominated Senate, where it is expected to die. The measure was approved 149-66 in balloting that crossed party lines.

K Won't Move From N-Stand

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev has told the British and American governments that the Soviet Union will make no more concessions in the nuclear test ban negotiations, informed sources reported today. The sources said Khrushchev's stand was taken in the letters in 1960.

delivered last week to President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan.

The letters replied to messages delivered to Khrushchev in Moscow April 24 by U.S. Ambassador Roy D. Kohler and British Ambassador Humphrey Trevelyan.

Columbia University, founded in 1754, first bore the name of King's College. That was changed to Columbia College in 1784 and assumed its present designation in 1896.

Urges Increasing Unemployment Roll

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy urged Congress Tuesday to put three million more workers under unemployment insurance and to increase the size and duration of benefits. Higher federal taxes for the purpose would be imposed, and states would be encouraged to increase their own schedules of benefits. The President sent to Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Miss., a bill to carry out his recommendations, as previously outlined in an economic report to Congress.

Drain Committee to Get Wolverine Lake Report

By DICK HANSON

An engineer's report that it would cost a prohibitive $995,000 to rehabilitate Wolverine Lake will be received by the county supervisors' drain committee tomorrow.

County Drain Commissioner Daniel Barry said he would not present his recommendation that the project be dropped as too expensive until the next meeting of the committee.

"This will give committee members at least two weeks to study the report and draw their own conclusions," he said yesterday.

A number of property owners around the lake in Commerce Township have indicated they want to be present when Barry makes his recommendation to the committee.

It is expected that they will make their own recommendation to go ahead with dredging the shallow parts of the lake.

The property owners generally agree that the engineer's estimate is too high and would be economically impossible for them.

CERTAIN OF LOWER COST

They feel certain the job could be done for much less than the price quoted by Hubbell, Roth & Clark, Inc., of Birmingham, consulting engineers on the project.

Their contention is based on the advice of Don O. Rutter, contractor for the current Long Lake renovation in the township.

He has indicated that he could rehabilitate nearby Wolverine Lake for much less than the engineer's estimate.

NEWS OF THE AREA

Barry said Rutter can offer no documentation of his claims. The lake commissioner said he must rely on the Birmingham firm's estimate because of its past experience.

In the preliminary report, Hubbell, Roth & Clark said 690,000 cubic yards of silt would have to be removed to increase the lake depth by an average 22 feet.

Areas of the lake marked for rehabilitation now average 3.2-foot depths.

SEEKS PURCHASE OF DAMS

Barry said he will ask the committee tomorrow to recommend that the county purchase two dams to control lake levels in Waterford Township.

He said the conservation department has indicated that it is selling its dam site at the no longer-used state fish hatchery near Watkins Lake.

The conservation department has maintained the dam to the benefit of upstream Lake Angelus and Lake Leelanau, but there is no guarantee that a private owner would do likewise, Barry contended.

He said a similar situation exists where the owners of the Cascades Motel in Waterford operate a dam that controls the levels of Lotus, Macoddy, Williams and Green lakes.

Barry is asking the county to purchase these dams as an emergency measure without circulating petitions among property owners in the affected areas.

The County Board of Supervisors presently requires that petitions for lake control be signed by 66.67 per cent of the property owners.

Barry said the cost of circulating the petitions in these instances "would be unnecessary. He estimated that it would cost several thousands of dollars, and in the case of the fish hatchery dam might be too late.

Several million dollars of lake property is at stake, he added.

58,000 Small Farmers Enroll for Wheat Vote

EAST LANSING (U) — Reports that about 58,000 small wheat farmers have signed up to vote in the May 21 wheat referendum cheered officials of the Michigan Farm Bureau today.

The Farm Bureau is the main opponent of the proposed 1969 federal wheat program, which would set production controls in addition to acreage controls on wheat crops.

"We worked hard to get people to register and are very pleased with the results," said Dan Reed legislative aide for the bureau. "We certainly would like to see a fully representative vote cast."

Of 90,000 wheat farms of 15 acres or less, 57,000 met the May 21 deadline for signing up to vote, with a few more mailed forms still expected, reported Frank Light, a state committee man for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

In 1962, when those who raised less than 15 acres were ineligible to vote, some 6,000 wheat farmers showed 58.5 per cent approval of the proposed wheat program for 1963.

U.S.D.A. estimates show there are 16,000 larger wheat farms eligible for the referendum in Michigan. Those growers are not required to sign up in advance.

The farm bureau, meanwhile, announced plans for a "wheat rally" tomorrow night at Lane's Civic Center.

A bureau spokesman said telephone conversations with farm leaders in other states—including Farm Bureau President Charles Shuman—would be amplified to the audience, which is expected to number between 200 and 400.

Wages Hiked for Secretaries and Principals

UTICA — The 22 principals and 40 members in the secretarial staff of the Utica School District have been granted pay raises for the 1963-64 academic year.

The secretarial staff will receive an additional increment and a $200 across-the-board hike, School Business Manager Alfred J. Peters said yesterday.

The salary increase for principals is based on a complex formula, Peters said, which considers position, schooling, and experience.

He added that the raise will use up some $35,650 of next year's budget. This figure also includes the pay for new principals in the district.

Over-all cost of the secretarial pay hike accounts for $33,200 of the new budget, which was set at a record $4,657,906.

To Study Church Merger

DETROIT (AP) — The American Baptist Convention's general council appointed a committee yesterday to explore the possibility of merger with the Disciples of Christ and the Seventh Day Adventist Convention.

'Very Rough' Figures Quoted on Village Sewerage Project

OXFORD — What Village Manager Michael M. Kilgore called "very, very rough figures" on the cost of a proposed village wide sewerage system were presented to the council last night.

The figures were part of four alternate plans for sewerage control offered by the village's consulting engineers, Johnson and Anderson, Inc., of Waterford Township.

Although the agenda called for acceptance of the preliminary plans, the council agreed to postpone a decision until the May 28 meeting.

Prior to May 28 session, the engineers are to present supplemental information on the alternate sewerage proposal which calls for a joint project with Lake Orion.

DISCUSS PLANS

Kilgore was to meet with officials of Oakland County today to discuss the preliminary plans.

He said he would also be requesting another extension of the time limit set by the Housing and Home Finance Administration to complete the preliminary plans.

A 90-day extension of the deadline was heartily accepted by the council on Feb. 26.

However, new developments in the proposed joint project have come to light in recent weeks, necessitating another extension, the council agreed.

Other alternatives offered by the engineering firm presented financing possibilities for the project if based on no federal grant and one based on a 50-per-cent federal grant.

Different means of financing the undertaking were also included in the report.

Funds for the plans come from an $8,000 loan granted by the federal government for that purpose.

5 File Petitions for School Board

BRANDON TOWNSHIP — Five candidates have filed petitions for the two-year vacancies on the Brandon School Board, including the two incumbents whose terms expire.

Seeking re-election to the board in the June 10 election will be President Leary O. Wood and assistant Russell Cullum, of 335 Jossman, Groveland Township.

Also on the ballot will be Thomas Thompson, 15105 Grange Hall, Groveland Township; James K. Templeton, 1923 Oakfield, Brandon Township; and Dr. Paul F. Schoen, 545 Jossman, Groveland Township.

State Firm Gets Award

PITTSBURGH (U) — The Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. of Detroit was one of 14 gas utilities presented awards yesterday for participating in a national applied field observation program to aid manufacturers in improving the design and construction of gas appliances.

EXTRACURRICULAR LIMBO — Second grader Larry Wiloughby gets a break in a limbo contest with Nancy Bailey, who's in the sixth grade. Holly Brown, in the fifth grade at Scotch School, and Lisa Kroesing, kindergarten, assist. Limbo competitions will be featured attractions at the school's annual Fun Fair, scheduled for noon to 6 p.m. Saturday. Scotch School is located at 5810 Commerce Road, Orchard Lake.

$143,251 Total Hikes Taxes

Cut New Equipment for Fire Department

OXFORD — A 1963-64 budget of $143,251 was adopted by the Village Council last night, based on a 20-mill tax levy.

Villagers' taxes will be hiked one mill under the new budget.

The second one - mill increase in two years now brings the levy up to the charter limit.

In order to meet the budget, the council had to cut funds planned for new fire department equipment, as well as in other categories.

The new millage will bring in $48,597, based on 95 per cent collection.

Other revenues in the new budget include sales tax, $18,300; gas and weight tax, $20,300; and water fund sales, $21,300.

"All of my anticipated revenue figures are on the low side," Manager Michael M. Kilgore told the council as they worked to balance the financial figures at the five-hour session.

Dismiss Suit on Grain Vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal district judge has dismissed a suit by a group of Midwestern farmers seeking to block a national wheat control referendum May 21.

The group contended that the 1962 wheat law setting up the program as proposed in the referendum was unconstitutional.

They said it gave the secretary of agriculture too much leeway in setting wheat planting allotments and asserted the voting qualification rules for the referendum discriminated against small growers.

Silhouettes of children will be done by Mrs. Robert Dixon of Rochester.

Other contributors will include Mrs. Robert Lucas, Mrs. Donald Bishop, Mrs. Anders Kjellberg, Roy Wattleat and Julius Kusey of Rochester.

Also Mrs. Margaret Glinke, Mrs. Jan Dorner, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Sylvester and Tom Dodd of Panelists will be Rev. F. William Palmer, minister of Auburn Heights United Presbyterian Church; Mrs. Donald Richards, teacher at Elmwood School; Wilbur Whately, special education teacher at Avondale Senior High School; and William Newby, father of eight children.

Also on the agenda is a ceremony honoring hometown mothers, some presentations and installation of next year's PTA officers.

St. Clair Legislator Dedication Speaker

NORTH BRANCH — Sen. Frank Beadie, R-St. Clair, will be the speaker at the dedication of the new North Branch High School Sunday at 2 p.m.

Construction of the new school was made possible by passage of a $600,000 bond issue in June 1961.

Approximately $30,000 of the total levy was for an addition to Sweet Elementary School.

Erected on a 40-acre site, the high school contains 21 teaching stations.

With a total capacity for 500 students, it is expected to accommodate about 426 during the upcoming school year.

For PTA Officials Set Mass Installation

ORTONVILLE — The first mass installation of new PTA officers in Oakland County will be held Tuesday night at Brandon School.

All local PTA groups in the county council can send their new officers to the event, at which council officers are also to be installed.

Mrs. William U. Porter of Troy, director of district services for the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers, will conduct the ceremony.

Mrs. Porter, for three years, has been district director of District VII, which includes all of Oakland County.

ELECTED AT CONVENTION

Also treasurer of the Avondale Board of Education, she was elected to her new PTA post at the recent state PTA convention in Kalamazoo.

Mrs. Edmund Winder of Waterford will speak briefly and distribute information about a community college for Oakland County.

Mrs. J. E. Frankensfield of Pine Knob School PTA will be installed as president of the county council.

Serving with her for the coming year will be Mrs. A. R. Dahl, Strathmore School PTA, first vice president; John B. Wilson, Leggett School PTA, second vice president; and Mrs. Alfred Keith, Beaumont School PTA, recording secretary.

COUNTY PTA TO INSTALL — Mrs. Richard Morgan (seated right) president of the Oakland County PTA Council, will turn the gavel over to Mrs. J. E. Frankensfield next week. District official Mrs. William U. Porter will conduct the installation at Brandon School Tuesday night. Helping them to plan the event is James D. Bradford, Brandon PTA president.

Rochester Schools to Offer Varied Summer Courses

ROCHESTER — The Rochester Community Schools will again offer a diversified summer school program this year extending from elementary to senior high school levels.

All classes will be held during the six-week period of June 24, Aug. 2.

Classes will meet daily during this time except for July 4 and 5 when schools will be closed.

Remedial courses in arithmetic and reading for children in grades 1-4 will be scheduled at the North Hill Elementary School.

Teachers in the various elementary schools will recommend those students it is felt would profit from this experience.

On the secondary level, most classes will be held at the senior high school. These will include leadership for sixth and seventh grade students who have shown particular abilities along these lines; and advanced reading skills for seventh, eighth and ninth grade students who wish to reinforce already adequate skills.

OTHER COURSES

Also, remedial English and remedial mathematics for grades seven, eight and nine will be offered as well as instrumental music for elementary and secondary students.

There is also a possibility of certain courses on the senior high level in English, American history, government, algebra, geometry, typing, and others if the demand warrants.

The entire program is on a self-supporting basis. Consequently it may be necessary to eliminate some offerings if there is not sufficient demand.

Appropriate fees will be charged.

Parents who have particular questions with regard to summer school are asked to contact the school which their children attend.

Traffic Toll Reaches 512

Open School for Bachelors? No Thank You!

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Schools for bachelors? Why?

After discussing recently the idea of special schools to prepare girls to be wives, and boys to be husbands, I received the following letter:

"You have the shoe on the wrong foot, brother."

"One of the biggest problems in the world today is the population explosion. What is the cause of it? Too many husbands and wives. They are the ones who have children."

shutting off the human population explosion at its source.

"HENPECKED SLAVES"
"Most husbands today aren't men. They're henpecked slaves who've sold their masculine birthright down the river. The modern women of today aren't worth the powder it takes to blow their big ears off anyway."

The letter was signed, "A thoughtful bachelor of 68 golden years—and proud of it."

At first glance the proposal advanced by this hale and hearty old single-footer seems to have at least a spurious merit.

It certainly is true that in the long run a marked increase in the supply of bachelors would gradually slow down the birth rate. But is this the best way to go about it? Would America be much better off with millions more bachelors around? The answer would seem to be a firm "No!"

There is no doubt that at times a family finds a certain type of bachelor handy. In return for a home-cooked meal, he performs chores around the house, baby-sits the kids while the parents go to the movies, fills in as a fourth at bridge, and cheerfully squires your departing mother-in-law to the air terminal.

ONLY TEMPORARY
We had a number of such bachelors hanging around our house when we were first married. But they were only temporary bachelors. As soon as they saw the joys of home life, they wandered off and got married themselves.

"Sometimes I think I've trained more husbands than any woman I know," my wife, Frances, said. core bachelor whom I'll call Albert. He couldn't sew on a button. When the garbage had to be carried out, he suddenly developed a bad case of tired hands. All he could do was stick his feet under our table and eat.

If I was late to dinner and Albert was hungry, he would ask my wife, "How long are you going to put up with a man who treats you like that? Why don't you show her who's the real boss?"

Well, finally my wife became aware of Albert's double-dealing nature, and one fine spring night she tossed him out.

The fact about most permanent bachelors is they are simply male clinging vines. They are responsibility-dodgers who aren't avoiding marriage so much as they are looking for a new father and mother to take care of them.

Schools for bachelors? Maybe it's a good idea at that. Reform schools—where they could learn to grow up and face life like real men.

County Worker to Talk on the Partially Sighted

Fred Nowland, Oakland County consultant—supervisor for the physically handicapped, will report on the county's program for the partially sighted at a conference in Chicago May 23.

Speaking at the conference for the Foundation for the Partially Sighted, Nowland will report on the county's 1,300-volume library of oversized books, used for children with partial sight.

Oakland County Group Sets Monthly Meeting
The monthly meeting of Oakland County retirees is scheduled for 11 a.m. tomorrow at GMC Truck & Coach Local 594, 525 S. East Blvd.

Guest speaker will be Pontiac City Manager Robert A. Stierer, who will discuss urban renewal and various problems confronting retirees.

The chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, Rep. Ar-nell Engstrom, R-Traverse City, have also been told.

Hare hopes for action on the supplemental appropriation at the legislative session tentatively scheduled for Thursday.

The shortage came about because of a miscalculated estimate. Fee offices around the state are paid 30 cents for each license plate they sell and 15 cents for each tax collection.

License plate revenues have brought in $63.8 million, about $2.2 million more than the same period last year, and motor vehicle sales and use tax collections have reached $30.2 million, an increase of $5 million.

The secretary of state has informed State Budget Director Paul Wileiden of the shortage.

The chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, Sen. Frank Beadle, R-St. Clair, and

Collectors May Miss Check

Some 250 branch managers of secretary of state's offices around Michigan—including Pontiac manager Willis M. Brewer—are collecting so much tax and license money they may miss a paycheck, temporarily.

And, as business gets better, their chances of missing a paycheck increase.

Collection fees, which are paid from the appropriation to the secretary of state's office, have exceeded estimates and caused a shortage of between $99,000 and $105,000 in office payrolls.

If the fees were deducted from the license and tax payments before they were turned in to the general fund, such a situation would not arise, but practice requires that the money be turned directly into the general fund, Secretary of State James Hare said yesterday.

Brewer noted that the last check he has received was dated March 14. The checks generally run 30-60 days behind, he said. "I'm not worried," he added. "I have enough funds to go three to four months."

Branch managers are required to pay office expenses, including rental and employee salaries, from the fees they receive.

FISCAL MEASURE
Hare said he hopes the legislature, as it has before, will pass a supplemental appropriations measure covering the current fiscal year payroll shortage of about $100,000.

The chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, Rep. Ar-nell Engstrom, R-Traverse City, have also been told.

Many Military Men Moving Into Big Business

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business-News Writer
NEW YORK—Rising ramrod straight from his chair, Gen.
Lauris Norstad, former military

SPECIAL REPORT

of the drug firm, Pfizer & Co.
and Admirals Nimitz and Arleigh
A. Burke are corporate directors.

Such highly informed men are needed by corporations that work with the military.

Military business is big business. In 1961 the military contracted for $2.9 billion of business within the United States alone.

The fact is that in so-called peaceful days, far removed from bullets and battlefields, there are great administrative similarities between corporations and military units.

"The military, to be successful, must be decentralized with strong controls," said Clay. "This is the usual pattern big business seeks and does, in fact, establish. Organizationally they are very much related."

It is for this reason, Clay believes, that former high-ranking officers fit into big business more easily than into small business.

Gogebic Drive 'Top Michigan Achievement'

LANSING (AP)—A drive to raise $100,000 to finance a three-year industrial development campaign for Gogebic County has been chosen as Michigan's community achievement of the year by the Michigan Week Awards Committee.

The fund-raising drive was launched last year in the Upper Peninsula county with the understanding that all contributions would be returned if the $100,000 goal was not reached by March 1.

However, the funds stand at $118,000, and the fund raisers are continuing in an attempt to raise enough to make the project into a four-year program.

The campaign will get under way next month with the opening of an office for Gogebic Organization for an Industrially
New County (INC).
Announcement of Gogebic County as the winner from among all 16 Michigan Week regions was made by M. I. n. Kendrick of Michigan Consolidated Gas Co., chairman of the Awards Committee of the Michigan-Week
Business and Product Promotion Board.

Gogebic County—a casualty in the changing economy in the nation's iron mining industry—has 23 per cent of its work force unemployed.

commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, appeared for a few papers on his broad walnut desk.

"I've only been on the job a short while," he said, "so you see it's pretty cluttered."

The expanse of desk may have seemed disordered to a precise military man. It would, however, pass inspection from any businessman. Norstad is a businessman now.

His office is on the 14th floor of a Fifth Avenue kyscraper, where he presides as president of Owens-Corning Fiberglass International, a business far removed from military affairs.

TOP POSITION
The handsome, 56-year-old combat and diplomatic veteran, is a recent big-name military man to step into a top industrial position.

Before him marched Douglas MacArthur, Chester W. Nimitz,
Anthony C. McAuliffe, Lucius D.
Clay, Omar N. Bradley, James
M. Gavin and other generals and admirals.

Obviously, despite their lack of experience in the world of profits and losses, military men are considered good businessmen. Why?
"My work," said Norstad, "was not technically military. In the service you control tremendous capital investments and you have to come up with your budget. You have a structure similar to what you have here."

WORK SAME WAY
Then, more militarily, the retired general explained how it was possible to work the same way within both corporate and military systems.

"First," he said, "you determine the facts. Then you determine the alternatives."
He continued: "There is no substitute for educating yourself, for knowing more about a subject than anyone else. I might be stupid, but I've never learned a substitute for this."

Gen. Clay, director of the Berlin air lift, former president and chairman of Continental Can Co. and now senior partner in the investment firm of Lehman Corp., explained military confidence this way:

"The advantage of a military education is that you must do what you are assigned. This means that you tackle many projects for which you are not equipped but in which you must do a good job."

EXPLANATION
Gen. McAuliffe offered this explanation:

"Few people appreciate that the military is big business. For any commander his military requirements are relatively minor."
McAuliffe, a handsome man with a twinkle in his eye that must have been with him that day at Bastogne when he announced a German surrender demand with "nuts." Is now a vice president of American Cyanamid

Corp., a huge chemical firm.

"I ran a post exchange in Europe that sold $175 million worth of goods a year, published one of the biggest newspapers in Europe—Stars and Stripes—and managed a $2-billion construction program," he said.

McAuliffe, who was the top
Army man in Europe and later assistant chief of staff, does not notice differences. Can a military organization and a corporation be run the same way?

DON'T AGREE
"Of course I say they can but my superiors don't agree. In both areas you deal with possible." But, he adds, you can't give orders in business with the same finality as you can in the service.

Gen. MacArthur still presides at board meetings of the Sperry Rand Corp., Gen. Bradley is chairman of the Bulova Watch Co., Gen. Gavin heads the Arthur D. Little research firm, Gen.
J. Lawton Collins is an executive

MILITARY TO BUSINESS — Generals
Lauris Norstad, Anthony C. McAuliffe and Lucius Clay (from left) are three of the former top military figures who have moved into high positions in industry. Norstad is president of Auliffe is vice president of American Cyanamid

Corp. Clay is a senior partner in Lehman Corp.

Moon Cheese? 'No,' Claims Selenologist

DALLAS (UPI)—Scientists know the moon's surface is not green cheese but they need to know a lot more to prepare for America's first lunar explorers.

Trying to find out what the first men on the moon will encounter is the job of Dr. Phillip Oetking.

Oetking is a selenologist for Ling-Temco-Vought, one of the nation's leading spacecraft industries. A selenologist is a sort of lunar geologist and observation is about the only way to get information.

The moon has been extensively photographed and mapped, Oetking said, and the most recent method of getting information about the moon's surface is from radio astronomy.

"We are almost around the corner from landings on the moon today," Oetking said. "Interest has, of necessity, increased."

The most important question to be answered is, does the moon's surface have a water supply?
"One of the most interesting things about selenology is that everyone is advancing theories," Oetking said. "We know that within a very few years, these theories will be proved or disproved."
"And man will soon be on the moon."

New Prisoner Fails at Making Friends

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A new arrival at the Tennessee State Prison got nowhere fast at making new friends.

"We can't sleep," his cellmates complained to guards. "This new guy snores all night long."

Officials moved him to another cellblock only to hear the same complaints there. Several cell-blocks later they arrived at a solution.

The newcomer now keeps the gate between the cellblocks and the hospital-athletic field area.
There's one bed in the gatehouse —his.

It is estimated that one of every 20 trucks operating on the nation's highways is owned by a federal, state, or local government unit.

Romney Snubs Dem Proposal

Ask Consideration of ADC-U in Legislature

LANSING—Gov. George Romney has given a cold shoulder to a Democratic party suggestion that the legislature take up the question of Aid to Dependent Children of the Unemployed (ADC-U) this week.

The suggestion came from Democratic State Chairman Zoltan Perency in a letter to Republican legislative leaders, who have asked the lawmakers to come back tomorrow to allow the Senate to confirm a GOP member of the Board of State Censors.

Romney told Newsweek Tuesday that his administration still has under consideration two and possibly more alternatives to deal with the ADC-U issue which found federal officials refusing to approve the program already enacted by lawmakers.

One of the alternatives would be court action to test the validity of the federal government's position, which is that the Michigan plan is discriminatory and therefore unacceptable.

Another alternative, Romney said, would be to write new legislation. In answer to a question, the governor said there is a distinct possibility that Michigan will not have an ADC-U program in effect this year.

But he added that he was talking about the fiscal year which ends June 30, not the calendar year.

Perency proposed in his letter that the legislature expand its session tomorrow to include ADC-U on its agenda.

He said there are 63 Democratic votes ready to pass a bill that will qualify Michigan for federal funds under the ADC-U program.

Announce New Sub Test Site

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S.-British agreement to establish a submarine test center in the Bahamas was announced yesterday.

The $65-million Atlantic Under-seas Test and Evaluation Center-AUTEC—will be paid for and operated by the United States. Britain will pay $400,000 a year for 20 years and will get some use and research benefits from the installation.

The Bahamas, a British crown colony, will benefit from U.S. defense dollars spent there and may also get part of the $400,000 in the form of aid from this country, U.S. officials said.

The agreement, culminating months of negotiating, was announced simultaneously in London and by the State Department in Washington.

EAST OF MIAMI

The new test center is to take in a section of ocean-100 miles long, 20 miles wide and up to 6,000 feet deep east of Andros Island, largest of the Bahamas. The location is about 125 miles east of Miami and is mainly in international waters, although the shore base is to be Fresh Creek on Andros Island.

U.S. authorities said the Navy needed a deep water test center and found after a search that the particular "tongue of the ocean" off Andros Island filled the qualifications better than any other place available.

The test area was described as having a deep, sheltered base with only one inlet very few noises would disturb test instruments and little commercial shipping traffic.

$77 Million in Aid Headed for Schools

LANSING (U) —More than $77 million in payments for supplemental state aid to Michigan public schools and for school interest funds will be mailed from Lansing in the next week.

Dr. Lynn Bartlett, state superintendent of public instruction, said the school interest fund money is the second and final payment.

"The first payment of $21.16 million was mailed to schools last November," Bartlett said. "This payment is $45.21 million."

"The total amount of the primary school interest money this school year constitutes the largest payment ever made to schools under this fund — $66,382,514.98."

Necking May Be Risky at Louisiana State U.

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Louisiana State University officials are asking spooning students to practice cooler companionship.

A Baton Rouge newspaper said Tuesday a general assembly was held, warning coeds that necking on the campus could be grounds for expulsion.

Man Stands Mute on Assault Charge

GRAND RAPIDS (U) — Convict Fred Parshay, 29, of Detroit stood mute yesterday in Superior Court on a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder.

He was remanded to Kent County Jail to await trial after acting Superior Judge Fred N. Seart ordered a plea of innocent entered.

Parshay, already under sentence of 12½ to 25 years for an armed robbery Feb. 5 in Grand Rapids, is charged with slaying a woman court reporter April 22 in an escape bid. The move was thwarted by police in the courtroom.

Dabbles in Foreign Affairs

Nixon Moved to New York So He Could Be Heard

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter
WASHINGTON — Backstairs at the White House:

Interestingly enough, there are occasions when Democrats may be best sources of information on what is happening with the Republicans, and vice versa.

In any case, the Democratic reading on former Vice President Richard M. Nixon's decision to leave California for residence in New York seems to agree with what Nixon has been confiding to friends.

The 1960 GOP standard bearer has no intention of trying to run for office from New York, but he does want his voice heard in Republican councils; as a specialist in international law, he wants to be in closer contact with foreign affairs than is possible working in California.

Nixon also is represented by those who claim to know, as wanting a show window for his views on international as well as domestic political matters.

And he feels New York offers greater opportunity of this than his native California. And perhaps more important than all other factors, Nixon stands to make considerably more money in New York than he did in Los Angeles, simply because there are more opportunities in the East for a specialist in international legal problems.

Seldom has President Kennedy sounded and looked as somber as he did Sunday night when he appealed to the people of Birmingham, Ala., to cease racial violence.

Battles between races in the streets of a southern city provide the sine — Soviet propagandists with invaluable new material to use against the United States particularly in the newer nations.

VACATION TIME

The President's family probably will not start its Cape Cod summer until he leaves for Europe late next month.

Most weekends in the meantime will be spent at Camp David, Md.

The President himself has come to prefer the Catskill Mountain place, founded by the late President Franklin D.

Roosevelt, to the charms of Middleburg, Va.

As much as anything, this explains why the President decided to rent out his new Middleburg house for the summer without first occupying it.

Mrs. Kennedy's police dog, Clipper, was hoofing around the White House grounds the other day with a splint on a front leg.

This was the dog given to her as a puppy by the President's father, former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy.

And Pushinka, a gift from Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, has developed a distinctly American taste.

This fluffy little white dog has a passion for hot chocolate, the kind that comes from a vending machine.

Pushinka slips from a cardboard cup in a most ladylike manner and never gets the chocolate on her white fur.

Opening Session Tonight at Cobo Hall

Romney to Address American Baptist Convention

From Our News Wires
DETROIT — Gov. George Romney will address the opening session of the 56th annual American Baptist Convention (ABC) this evening in Cobo Hall's convention arena.
Romney will offer his words of welcome before more than 10,000 delegates amid a colorful procession of flags from all over the union. The theme of this year's meeting is "We Preach Christ."

Yesterday, the convention's president, Dr. Benjamin P. Browne, attacked New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and his marriage to a divorced woman.
Browne said he was aware that "One of the great issues in America is the stability and sanctity and integrity of the home." He said it was a violation of that principle "for any of our great leaders to break up two homes and then declare themselves happy and disregard the children and the homes that have been broken."

He said the people have the right to expect from a man who may occupy the White House "something of moral standards and something of an example for American youth."
Rockefeller, a Baptist, and Romney, a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints, are regarded as prime candidates for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination although Romney has repeatedly said he is not a candidate.

Browne said "those who aspire to lead us cannot dismiss these matters as affairs that are purely private."
Browne asked the church's 15 million members to get "squarely behind Dr. Martin Luther King" with "more than just words."

Dr. King is a negro integrationist leader and currently is leading a campaign at Birmingham, Ala., to desegregate that city.
Browne's request came in his address prepared for opening the annual meeting of the nation's fourth largest Baptist convention.
Dr. King, whose church is an affiliate of the predominantly white ABC, was scheduled to arrive as a delegate tomorrow, but it is doubted that he will attend.

Browne, who is president of the Northern Baptist Theological Seminary in Chicago, said it is in the "very nature of the church to make no distinction based on race, class, income or national origin. All men stand equal before the cross of Christ."
A special school for Senate and House pages is supervised by the District of Columbia public school system, paid for by the federal government.

To Study Salary Schedule

Proposed salary schedule adjustments for non-teaching personnel in the Waterford Township School System will be considered tonight by the board of education.
Among the proposals is an increase from $115 to $225 monthly of the minimum salary rate in the secretary classification.
In other business, the board will hear a committee report on recommended specifications for future school buildings.

The planning committee, on educational specifications, comprised mainly of teachers, was organized recently to formulate a report on what the ideal school building should incorporate.
Regularly held on Thursday nights, today's 7:30 p.m. meeting was switched due to speaking engagements of some board members at Thursday PTA meetings.

JFK Gets $15.3-Billion Military Purchase Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington: MILITARY BUYING: Congress has approved and sent to President Kennedy a bill authorizing military purchases of $15.3 billion. This is $44.4 million less than the administration requested. The reduction actually was deeper, for included in the authorization was $363.7 million for construction of two additional B-57D planes—money for the administration didn't ask and probably won't spend.

All told, Congress denied some $408 million of the military procurement the Pentagon originally proposed.

The authorization, which the House completed final legislative action on Tuesday, only sets ceilings. The subsequent appropriation may trim the spending further.

CIVIL RIGHTS: Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy has postponed his appearance before a House Judiciary subcommittee holding hearings on the administration's proposed civil rights legislation.

He was scheduled to testify today but a subcommittee spokesman said Kennedy asked that his testimony be heard later.

POWELL TRAVEL: The House has refused to approve an overseas trip next month for four members of the Education and Labor Committee headed by Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y.

But its refusal—on a 217 to 153 roll call—won't keep Powell and a Republican colleague from making the trip. As official House delegates to the International Labor Organization conference in Geneva, their expenses will be paid by the State Department.

The House vote was on a resolution that would have allowed two delegates and two alternates to go from the committee with their expenses to be paid from appropriated funds or from foreign currencies available to the State Department.

Republicans and Southern Democrats provided most of the votes defeating the resolution.

The delegates, named by the House speaker, will be Powell and Rep. William H. Ayres, R-Ohio. Left behind will be Reps. James Roosevelt, D-Calif., and Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y.

The measures now returns to the House for further action.

Okay Delivery of Gas to Michigan Company

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Power Commission authorized Trunkline Gas Co. of Houston yesterday to deliver an additional 25 million cubic feet of natural gas to Consumers Power Co., Jackson, Mich.

In a related action, the commission authorized Michigan Gas Storage Co. of Jackson to transport for Consumers the additional gas.

Parents of small children can easily make an outdoor play yard with a new kit consisting of 60 feet of nylon netting and steel rods to support it.

Heads Publications for Another Term

BATTLE CREEK — Robert B. Miller of Battle Creek was re-elected president of Federated Publications, Inc., at a meeting of the newspaper group's board of directors here Monday.

Also re-elected were Louis A. Weil Jr., of Lansing, executive vice president; Paul A. Martin of Lansing, secretary; and Joseph R. Chenna of Battle Creek, treasurer and assistant secretary.

Joseph F. Deeb of Grand Rapids was elected a vice president and legal counsel.

If Bo Met Cassius ...

Pride Would Suffer Pounding

By JIM BECKER
NEW YORK (AP)—If Cassius Clay, the self-proclaimed world's greatest fighter, and Bo Belinsky, the self-proclaimed world's greatest left-handed pitcher, should ever get together, the conversation might well go something like this:

"So you," said Bo Belinsky, "are Cassius Clay. Have you ever had the pleasure of seeing me pitch?"

"And you," said Cassius Clay, "are Bo Belinsky. For you I have a poem."

"Despite your Mamie, I have my doubts."

"That you will ever get anybody out."

"Man, I've read better poetry than that on pool room walls," said Belinsky. "And I know whereof I speak. I hope you can fight better than you can write."

THE GREATEST

"I'm the cat who calls the round," said Cassius Clay. "I'm the greatest fighter in the world. They all must fall in the round I call."

"Except Doug Jones who didn't fall at all," said Belinsky.

"For a 1-5 pitcher, you talk pretty big," said Cassius.

"I wonder who'll get sick of you first, Mamie or Rig?"

"You made a bum call again, old windy Cassius," said Bo. "Old Bill Rigney and me are real buddies. He can't get along with out Bo. And Mamie and me are going to get married the day I win my 20th game."

"Then she can buy the wedding license with her Social Security check," said Cassius. "I will add."

"The world will end," "Before you will ten," "I'll be rolling in plenty."

"Before you will twenty."

"Not if you fight Sonny Liston," said Bo. "You'll just be rolling."

"AFRAID OF ME?"

"That ugly old Liston is afraid of me, man," said Cassius.

"Afraid he'll kill you," said Bo. "Your clippings won't do you any good in there with him. I hear he can't read too good."

"Well then—hitters in your league don't read your clippings too good, either, Bo. I hear they're saying."

"If Belinsky would they pitch every day."

"We'd all hit 500 in old L.A."

"Look wise guy, at least don't have to take my show on the road. I hear you're taking off for Europe to ruin all the good the Marshall Plan did."

"I wouldn't talk about traveling too much, Bo," said Cassius.

"I wonder how Mamie will like it in Peoria?"

"If you get sent there will she still be for ya?"

Ice Skaters Initiate First Hall of Famers

CHICAGO (AP)—The first ice skating Hall of Fame, with incomparable Sonja Henie and speed skater Norval Bapiste as charter members, was unveiled by the Ice Skating Institute of America today.

The institute opened its annual three-day meeting Tuesday with more than 150 rink operators from the United States and Canada.

The induction of Miss Henie and Bapiste was conducted at a convention banquet Tuesday night.

The Giants opened a two-week stand at San Francisco Tuesday night and squeezed out a 3-1 decision over the Pittsburgh Pirates, with right-hander Jack Sanford registering the 100th victory of his National League career.

In a turnaround for the defending NL champions, Candlestick hasn't been a happy haven for them this season. They were a remarkable 11-21 there last year and only 42-41 away from home.

After plundering enemy territory with amazing success, the San Francisco Giants have returned to Candlestick Park—and find home isn't the worst place in the world to be, after all.

Habbs' two-run homer in the eighth inning, moved into a virtual tie with Pittsburgh for third, 2½ games off the pace.

In other NL games, the Philadelphia Phillies beat Don Drysdale for the first time in five seasons in a 5-1 victory over the Houston Colts posted their sixth straight victory and dumped New York into the cellar, edging the Mets 4-3.

In the American League, the Yankees shaded the Minnesota Twins, 3-1, the Athletics topped the Cleveland Indians, 5-2, and the Orioles beat the Senators, 6-1. Los Angeles at Boston was rained out.

FOURTH VICTORY

Whitey Ford pitched a five-hitter and won his fourth game of the season when Hector Lopez' eighth-inning single snapped a 1-1 tie. Ford fanned eight and walked two while loser Dick Stigman was tapped for six hits. It was the ninth loss in 12 games for the Twins.

Jerry Lumpe's two-run double and run-producing singles by Chuck Essegian and Bobby Del Greco sent the Athletics off to a 4-4 lead in the first inning and Ed Rakow protected it with a six-hitter for his fourth victory.

Max Alvis' homer produced the final Cleveland run as Jack Krackl suffered his fifth loss against a win.

Robin Roberts, comeback player of the year in 1962, finally posted his first 1963 triumph with a four-hitter, Jim Gentile and John Powell homered to lead the 10-hit Orioles attack.

Larry Osborne homered for the Senators.

Janiszewski Gives OLSM No-Hit Win

Larry Janiszewski pitched the first no-hitter in the last 17 years for Orchard Lake St. Mary yesterday as the Eagles defeated St. Mike's, 5-0.

The slender right-hander permitted only two runners on base for the Mike-men, a first-inning walk and a seventh-inning error with two out.

In between, he retired 18 consecutive batters. Janiszewski fanned six of the Shamrocks.

A fourth-inning double by Paul Herman drove in two unearned runs off loser Gary Kraft. The win was the fifth straight for OLSM and kept it atop the Northwest Catholic League.

Paul Legaj and Janiszewski also had doubles in the five-hit Eagles attack.

Oakland U. Question: to Compete or Not?

Intercollegiate sports, a frequent debate topic at Oakland University, has again been raised as a campus controversy.

First discussed two years ago, the question of intercollegiate athletics is now under study by a six-member faculty-administration committee.

The committee, headed by Dr. Richard Burke, is expected to furnish a policy recommendation to Chancellor D. B. Varner later this week.

Meeting weekly, the combined committee has accepted opinion on the Oakland University campus prior to recommending a new policy or staying with the old one.

Oakland University currently offers an intramural sports program, but does not compete with other colleges.

"The Observer," student newspaper, reported last week that the Student-Faculty University Council overwhelmingly rejected intercollegiate sports. Faculty members reportedly are also against any such program.

In appointing the faculty-administration committee last November, Chancellor Varner said there was "increasing evidence that our existing policy works to the disadvantage of the institution, both in efforts to attract a larger number of qualified students and our ability to maintain a healthy student morale."

RECRUITING PROBLEM

Student morale and the recruiting problem are the principal reasons for reopening the discussion on intercollegiate athletics.

Hollie Lepley, director of physical education and ex-officio member of the committee, pointed out that the kinds of sports that could be offered might be different than most people think.

He said most people think of football and basketball when intercollegiate sports are mentioned, but there are others that might fit Oakland University better.

Lepley mentioned tennis, golf and gymnastics as the intercollegiate athletics that might be beneficial to the university.

"It would all depend on what we could afford," he added, "and we would have to see what sports would fit in at OLU."

The controversy over intercollegiate competition first arose in 1961. At that time it was recommended that the university refrain from such a program for a while.

University officials hinted this week that a similar recommendation might be submitted again.

Big Ten Eyes Cut in Aid for Athletes

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Big Ten athletic directors are expected to plead for a drastic cut in full-time sports scholarships at the conference spring business meeting Friday and Saturday.

The high cost of subsidization is alarming some directors, who are reported ready to ask for a reduction of over-all annual full "rides" from the present total of $80 to $55 per school.

In the proposed $5 limit, football scholarships would be trimmed from 40 or more to 35, with only 7 going to basketball prospects and 18 for all remaining sports.

Several years ago, such Big Ten school was allowed to give as many as 100 over-all scholarships.

The directors, eyeing soaring blue chip athletes, but reportedly think that a lot of pro sports could be offered partial scholarships and would still be interested in a Big Ten school.

Shell Is Favored in Coliseum Mile

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Peter Snell of New Zealand is a heavy favorite to win the mile run in the Coliseum Relays Friday night, but his chief opponent says it may take world record time to achieve the victory.

Jim Greile of the Los Angeles Track Club believes he is going to have a lot to say about the outcome. He holds the distinction of having beaten Snell last February at the Los Angeles Times indoor meet. Furthermore, he holds a recent victory over game little Jim Beatty in the Pan American Games in Sao Paulo, Brazil.

'Misunderstanding' Over Phone Call

Hill Returns to Thompson's 500 Camp

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—World hill racing champion Graham Hill flies back to Indianapolis from Great Britain today with a car waiting for him to try to qualify for the 500-mile Memorial Day race.

Owner Mickey Thompson, of Long Beach, Calif., said today a cablegram from Hill had cleared up a misunderstanding. He said Hill is scheduled to arrive in Indianapolis at 5:07 p.m. EST.

"He'll definitely be driving for me," Thompson said. Qualifications for the May 30 race start Saturday at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, and Thompson said Hill will run this weekend, barring unexpected mechanical difficulties.

The misunderstanding developed after Hill failed to make a promised telephone call from London Tuesday afternoon.

Thompson said then, "I am assuming the Hill will not return back" and he assigned veteran Duane Carter to drive the Thompson Special that had been ticketed for Hill.

ANOTHER SHIFT

Thompson said today that Carter, 56-year-old veteran of nine Indianapolis races, will be shifted to another of his five cars.

Hill and two other Grand Prix drivers, Jim Clark of Scotland and Dan Gurney, practiced at the Speedway last week and then left to compete in the Silverstone race in England last weekend. Clark and Gurney returned Monday.

Still another Grand Prix driver, 22-year-old Pedro Rodriguez of Mexico City, finished his 100-mile test Tuesday. The test is required of all new drivers at the Speedway, regardless of their experience elsewhere.

The eight American drivers who made up the examining team congratulated Rodriguez on a good performance. If he succeeds in qualifying for the 500-mile race he will be the youngest driver in the field.

Jack Conely of Brighton, Mich., also finished the driver's test making 17 rookies now eligible to try to qualify for a first start in the Memorial Day race.

Drayton Woods Group Triggers Project

Hatchery Land Nature Center Will Cost $1 Million

One million dollars. This amount, an everyday term in government circles, is very difficult for the average homeowner to comprehend let alone achieve during a lifetime.

Members of the Drayton Woods

Civic Association began dealing in a million dollars Monday night.

That's the amount that would have to be raised if the Drayton Plains fish hatchery is to be converted into a nature center of the size and scope visualized by Robert R. Forbes.

He is president of the National Youth Science Foundation, which is attempting to establish a nature center on 60 acres of the hatchery property in Drayton Plains. The hatchery was closed last year.

"Based on population and land area," Forbes told the DWCA members, "I visualize a larger than medium center costing $500,000 to $600,000. The annual operating budget would be from $50,000 to $50,000."

The endowment fund needed to maintain such an operation would be over $500,000, he pointed out. The National Youth Science Foundation will not operate the center.

MUST HELP ITSELF
"The foundation is not a money giving organization," Forbes stated. "We help the local community help itself."

"Our function will help establish a nature center and advise in its operation. We receive no pay for our effort. The foundation is operated by private funds."

He listed three primary goals.

1. To see if there is real desire for the project in the community.

2. Leasing the property for one year from the Conservation Department, 3. establishing a steering committee of residents in the community. This committee would eventually be dissolved for a board of directors.

"You can start this summer, wait until fall, or even until early next year," he said.

"The property is among the best I have seen for a center, and I've been involved in the establishment of 35 others in the country. It lends itself beautifully to the proposed center.

"I would like to see a couple of people hired so that the grounds could be used on a limited scale this summer, if for no other reason than to curtail vandalism."

Forbes said the average staff is two to six people once the nature center building is constructed and the exhibits arranged. He said the Drayton center would have live animals "native to Michigan" among the exhibits.

At the end of the year's lease, money raised through the efforts of the steering committee and later board of directors would be used to purchase the property from the state for $41,000.

REJECTED BY COLLEGES

Donald Richards of the Conservation Department's education division told the group that "we offered the property to Michigan State, the University of Michigan and even Eastern Michigan University, but these institutions were not interested."

"We can sell the property to a state institution for a dollar," he said, "but we can not sell it for that sum to private citizens or organizations."

He reported that the minimum appraisal for the 60 acres on the south side of hatchery road is $41,000 while the maximum, if the land is auctioned, "would be in excess of $100,000."

The department will retain land on the north side of the road for a field station.

Forbes revealed that a similar project was started a year ago near Kalamazoo. The center now contains 600 acres enclosed by a cyclone fence and $1,700,000 has been raised, he said.

Forbes suggested that membership varying in amounts from $5 "on up" be sold for the Drayton center. The members of the Nature Center would then elect directors to operate the facility.

"From past experience," he said, "We have found that schools are very interested in the centers and utilize the facilities for conducted trips by their students."

"There would be no admission to the center and it would be open during regular hours to the public."

He also pointed out that the Drayton center would draw "not only from this area and Pontiac, but also from Bloomfield Hills, Birmingham and Detroit."

He urged DWCA members to sign names to a list to be used in selecting a steering committee.

Several signed and a million dollar project was under way.

RECORD RAINBOW—R. E. Salzwedel of Drayton Plains holds the four-pound seven-ounce rainbow he caught last week while fishing at the Dixie Highway bridge over the Clinton River. The fish is the heaviest ever entered in the Pontiac Press Big Fish Derby's rainbow division.

Clinton River Yields Record Trout

R. E. Salzwedel has caught one of two large rainbow trout—both while fishing for something else.

The Drayton Plains bait dealer boated a three-pounder a number of years ago while fishing for pike on a Northern Michigan reservoir.

Last week he repeated the process.

Only this time he was fishing from the upstream side of the Dixie Highway bridge over the Clinton River next to his place of business. He landed a four-pound seven-ounce rainbow.

It is the heaviest trout entered in the Pontiac Press Big Fish Derby's rainbow division. The former record of three pounds four ounces, from Schoolhouse Lake, in 1961.

The new leader replaces the three-pound one ounce rainbow entered last week by Jim Burgin of Pontiac.

"I knew there were trout around the bridge," said Salzwedel, "because the kids catch one once in a while. Last Thursday morning I saw two large fish near the center abutment."

"I didn't know whether they were suckers—there are a lot of suckers, carp and dogfish around the bridge—or something else."

IGNORED BAIT
"I got my rod and floated a nightcrawler right between them. They ignored it. Then I put on a bass minnow and ran it under the bridge. I got a strike, but missed."

"The next minnow had no more than disappeared when I had another hit. I hooked him. It was the big rainbow."

The weather fouled up the fish last week-end.

Salzwedel wasted no time getting the trout within netting distance. Using a spinning rod and eight-pound test line, he had the fish on shore in "about a minute and a half."

The Derby's pike leader still stands at four and a half pounds. There have been no bluegill entries and the blackbass division does not open until June 1.

Trot fishermen in Northern Michigan were hampered by high water and walleye fishermen on the St. Clair River had poor luck because of roily water.

Clouded water in Lake St. Clair also cut into the weekend musky take.

Browns are beginning to hit on the Huron River in the Proud Lake recreation area. The overall trout fishing in Oakland County is on the slow side. Maceady continues to lead the area's rainbow lakes.

That means that commercial fertilizers are economical for providing food for fish because they are not washed out. However, we recommend that fertilizer placements be made fairly close together to make sure the streams are properly saturated with nutrients.

The isotope used is phosphorus 32, because it can easily be "tagged" to the phosphorus already in the fertilizer.

"About 95 per cent of the radioactive phosphorus was absorbed by some living thing by the time it traveled a half mile downstream," reports Robert C. Ball, professor of fisheries and wildlife, who heads up the MSU project.

That means that commercial fertilizers are economical for providing food for fish because they are not washed out. However, we recommend that fertilizer placements be made fairly close together to make sure the streams are properly saturated with nutrients.

The isotope was also used to trace the fertilizer through the aquatic food chain—from single-celled animals and plants through the insects that eat them and then through the fish that eat the insects and the big fish that eat the smaller fish.

"We found the isotope in every aquatic organism in the half-mile area that was treated," claims Ball.

But the MSU scientist points out that it is "absolutely impossible" for these plants and animals to be killed or injured by the radioactive materials he and his colleagues put into streams.

The concentration of the isotope is less than one-half of that which is allowable for drinking water because of what Ball calls "prodigious dilution."

Michigan Team Sets Three Skeet Marks

Pontiac's Bob Thiefels and Larry Smith of Birmingham helped the Michigan Wreckers five-man skeet team make a wreck of the Eighth Canadian and 14th Province of Quebec Championships last weekend.

The team nailed all 500 clay targets in the second 100 (per shooter) of the Canadian all-gauge championships to set a record. The shooters broke 496 of 500 in the first 100.

The 300 & 1,000 for the two rounds was another record. Another mark was the team's 841 without a miss.

Thiefels cracked all 200 of his targets while Smith posted 198x200, Howard Confer and Jack Patton, both of Detroit, each posted 198x200 and Detroit's Chet Crite's was 200x200.

Thiefels and Smith set a two-man team record by breaking 200 straight and then winning a 100-bird shootoff with Confer and Crite.

LOST SHOOTOFF
Thiefels lost in a five-way shootoff for the all-gauge championship at the Montreal Skeet Club. Ken Sedewick of Baldwin, recent gold medal winner in the Pan-American Games, took the honors. Thiefels placed third.

Ralph Zimmerman of Birmingham took the Class B all-gauge.

Sedewick won the 20 gauge crown with Southfield's Abe Faris copping Class C. Smith was senior champ in 28 gauge and was senior champ for high over-all.

Proud Lake Work Planned by Scouts

Proud Lake recreation area in Oakland County will "be prepared" when Michigan's parks season moves into full swing later this month, thanks to some 1,100 Boy Scouts from northwestern Redford district in Detroit.

On Saturday, these young troops will stage a work bee at the area to put things in tip-top shape for visitors who will soon be arriving.

The Boy Scouts' day-long work schedule will include staining boat docks and signs, raking and filling in campground and beach areas, planting trees, and other cleanup and maintenance chores.

"Without the help of these Boy Scouts we couldn't be ready for the public," reports Al Masino, manager of the recreation area. "We're running behind schedule on springtime maintenance work because our regular crew of inmate labor was assigned elsewhere and seasonal employees were hired on the job later than usual this year."

Firefighters Watch Northern Michigan

Conservation Department field forces are maintaining their vigilant watch over forest lands in Northern Michigan where conditions for wild fires are described as "highly dangerous."

Some 3,415 acres have already burned in this part of the state and department officials report that the springtime threat of fires will remain at a peak level longer than normal. In most areas of Northern Michigan, particularly above the Straits, cold weather has held off the period when vegetation usually greens up.

In Southern Michigan, the spring threat of wild fires has passed its most dangerous point with the greening up of ground vegetation.

Angered Senators to Hold Airing on Air Fares Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators angered by the U.S. backdown on a fare increase on transatlantic air routes today for a public airing of the international dispute.

In advance of an afternoon hearing of the Senate Commerce Committee, Chairman Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., protested that country had capitulated without a fight.

He estimated a 5 per cent increase in round-trip economy class fares will cost Americans traveling to Europe about $15 million a year.

27 MORE

What does it mean to the individual passenger? He will be paying an extra $27 for his New York-London economy (tourist) roundtrip ticket, according to State Department officials. His fare will go up from $486 to $513.

The increase voted last fall by the International Air Transport Association—IATA—actually is a reduction in the discount allowed for return tickets—5 per cent instead of 10 per cent.

The change went into effect Saturday in Europe, but until Tuesday the Civil Aeronautics Board had refused to permit American Airlines to adopt the higher fares.

It announced then through an exchange of letters between CAB Chairman Alan S. Boyd and Secretary of State Dean Rusk that it was yielding to diplomatic pressure.

Rusk had suggested that in the absence of CAB authority to regulate international air route fares, Pan American World Airways and Trans World Airlines should be permitted to file the increased fares.

IN NO HURRY

But Pan American said it planned to continue present rates for several days "until the situation clarifies." Trans World also seemed in no hurry to act.

Great Britain had threatened to confiscate American airlines landing in London and to take other steps to prevent their operation on the Atlantic run unless they went along with the rate boost.

These reactions followed Washington's decision.

In London, the British Ministry of Aviation said: "We are glad to have this news. We now look forward to a discussion with the

—In Ottawa, Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson said Canada would continue to ban a fare increase. He said "there is no change in our position irrespective of the decision taken in Washington." This stand means that eight foreign airlines operating into Canada as well as Canada's two carriers will not be allowed to increase their return fares.

COULD BE COMPETITIVE

—In Montreal, an IATA spokesman said "we are happy to see any easing of the North Atlantic fares situation. We considered it intolerable and most harmful to our members." Since Canada is the only holdout, he expressed fear that Canadian lines or lines operating out of Canada might get a competitive advantage over U.S. airlines because of lower fares.

The White House announced that President Kennedy would ask Congress for legislation to give the CAB authority it now lacks to regulate and enforce international air fares.

On Capitol Hill, Magnuson also was preparing a bill that would empower the CAB to suspend disputed rates on international routes, both for American and foreign airlines, until settlement was reached through consultation or arbitration.

"American citizens, who comprise the great majority of international air passengers, should not be deprived of the choice of lower air fares which our U.S. carriers are eager to provide," he said.

MONROEY DISMAYED

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., chairman of the Commerce Committee's Aviation subcommittee, said he was dismayed by the decision and expressed hope Congress would plug any legal loopholes to prevent a recurrence.

The chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., said the State Department had "sundered to British dictation."

Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., chairman of the Senate Antitrust subcommittee, urged the CAB and the State Department to reconsider the decision.

Ways of California Strange to ex-Hoosier Herb Shriner

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer HOLLYWOOD—Look who has become a Californian—Indiana's own Herb Shriner.

The Hoosier humorist is settling here and he is trying to get accustomed to local living. It hasn't been easy.

"For one thing, it's awfully difficult to find any rhubarb pie in California," he said. "And it's impossible to find any sugar pie."

He explained that a poor man's pie with almost no filling.

"Pedestrians, he added, that's another thing I can't get used to out here. I always figured that the street belongs to drivers and the sidewalk belongs to pedestrians, and if a pedestrian is on the street, he'd better watch out for himself. That's the way it's done in New York."

"But not in California. The pedestrian is king here. It's kinda hard to adjust to."

NATIVE DRESS

The dress among the natives also has confused Shriner.

"I figured if I was coming to California I wasn't going to wear a tie any more, just sport shirts," he said. "The first thing I know, I run into a bunch of duds in ties and gray suits. So I gotta dress like 'em."

He explained why he had moved his family from his Eastern base:

"I've been fascinated for a long time with film, and I wanted to pursue something I had given a lot of thought to—exploring the American character. I lived at Fort Lauderdale in Florida, for six months and while it's a fine place to be retired, I wasn't ready to retire. I found my way out to Hollywood because it's the center of the film business and I could get the things I wanted done here."

Shriner's future is still unsettled.

He has done a lot of work on a television show he would call Herb Shriner's Wonderful People—grass roots Americans with real people. He would tour most of the year, visiting county fairs and other events or just talking to folks who had something to say.

His career might go in another direction. There has been much interest stirred among television producers for a show based on youth. He has been introducing them on the commercial lead-ins he does on Du Pont's Show of the Week on NBC.

Meanwhile he travels as Du Pont's goodwill ambassador and plays high-paying dates at state fairs and expositions.

These reactions followed Washington's decision.

In London, the British Ministry of Aviation said: "We are glad to have this news. We now look forward to a discussion with the

Kennedy Delaying Request for More Rights Authority

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy is delaying a decision on asking Congress for broader federal authority in civil rights cases while awaiting the results of efforts to end racial disturbances in the South.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the assistant Democratic leader, said a request for authority to permit the attorney general to initiate cases for individuals alleged to have been denied their rights remains a possibility.

Humphrey said Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy "does not feel at this time the need for this authority," because the President's brother felt any such immediate request might agitate the situation in Birmingham, Ala., and elsewhere.

CONFIDENT

But Humphrey said he is confident there will be a decision made later on whether to add the controversial proposal to the administration's voting rights recommendations now before Congress.

Any such request would be likely to result in a stormy Senate filibuster by Southern opponents of civil rights measures. The political explosion that would greet any administration push to get action on such a bill could easily endanger congressional passage of a tax reduction to which Kennedy has given No. 1 priority in this session.

But the administration is under pressure from Northern Democrats and Negro leaders to move faster in the civil rights field than it thus far has shown a willingness to go.

Humphrey complained that federal action has had to be confined largely to the use of U.S. marshals and troops to keep the peace. He said the government ought to have the authority to sue in the courts to enforce citizens' civil rights.

Humphrey said a forthcoming Senate hearing on the presidential request for extension of the life of the Civil Rights Commission may bring the issue to a head.

About 56 per cent of Mexico's population over six years of age is illiterate.

Tarragon Flavored

By adding a teaspoon of dry tarragon leaves to one convenient can of tomato sauce, simmering briefly and gently, then chilling in the refrigerator, you've created an excellent sauce to serve with cold cuts.

Serve Shower Guests a Beautiful Salad

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Food Editor.
If the roster of June brides is any indication of things to come, this is going to be the most showery place in the state soon.

So let's talk about food for showers.

A fruit salad is always a good choice because it appeals to the eye as well as the palate.
Fresh pineapple is in great abundance in the store and makes an excellent contribution to fruit salad.

I simply can't resist telling you to buy a female pineapple, if you can, because it will have more flavor. I am not out of my mind, however peculiar I may sound. Female pineapples have what looks like baby pineapples growing around the stem at the top of the fruit. Sometimes, though, a whole bin of pineapples won't have a single "lady" in the lot.

Use that pineapple — or any one you can buy — to make Reine Salad. Reine means "queen" and this salad is tops.

Reine Salad

- 1 large head iceberg lettuce
- 1 can (11 ounces) mandarin orange segments, well drained
- 1 can (1 pound) pitted dark cherries, well drained.

- 2 cups fresh pineapple tidbits
- 2 cups sour cream
- 1 teaspoon olive oil
- 2 teaspoons prepared mustard
- 2 teaspoons lemon juice
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- 1 teaspoon sugar

Reserve outer lettuce leaves to line salad bowl. Shred remaining lettuce and add to bowl. Arrange mandarin oranges, cherries, and pineapple in sections over lettuce. Chill.

Blend sour cream with olive oil, mustard, lemon juice, salt, paprika and sugar; serve with salad. Makes 4 servings.

Planning a molded salad for shower refreshments means you can get the work done the day before. Make it a tuna mold, but add interest in the shape of chopped nuts and stuffed olives.

Tuna Lime Salad

- 1 package (6 ounces) lime gelatin
- 2 cups boiling water
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- 1/2 cup lemon juice
- 2 cans (6 1/2 to 7 ounces each) tuna, drained
- 1/4 cup chopped walnuts
- 3 tablespoons chopped pimiento-stuffed olives

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water; add cold water, mayonnaise, and lemon juice. Beat until smooth; chill until slightly thickened. Fold in small chunks of tuna, walnuts and olives. Turn into 1-quart mold; chill until firm.

To serve, unmold and garnish with salad greens and carrot curls. Makes 6 servings.

There's nothing quite so festive as chicken salad. Long ago this was expensive, but not any more. You can make this salad out of chicken breasts alone and not break the budget.

Rich Chicken Salad

- 1/4 cup real mayonnaise
- 1 package (3 oz.) cream cheese
- 1/4 cup milk
- Dash of Tabasco sauce
- 1/4 cup finely diced celery
- 5 to 6 cups cooked chicken, diced
- 1/4 to 1 cup small stuffed olives, halved
- Salt and pepper
- Salad greens

Blend real mayonnaise and cream cheese thoroughly. Add milk and stir until smooth and creamy. Add Tabasco sauce and celery. Let stand in refrigerator while preparing chicken and olives. Toss chicken and olives with mayonnaise mixture and season to taste. Chill and serve on salad greens. Yield: 8 servings.

Pork Shoulder Excellent Meat

Treat your family to a meal of excellent flavor and bountiful nutrition at economical prices. Serve pork shoulder steaks, suggests the American Meat Institute.

Pork shoulder steaks are closely related to pork chops, one of America's favorite meats. Similar in flavor, texture and cooking methods to chops, shoulder steaks are almost always lower in price.

The economy of the shoulder steaks is part of the law of supply and demand. Fewer homemakers know about pork steaks and therefore choose the steaks less frequently than chops.

Like all cuts of fresh pork, the shoulder steaks are highly nutritious for they are excellent sources of complete proteins, the important B vitamins and minerals. And they are highly digestible.

There are three kinds of shoulder steaks: blade bone, round bone and boneless. The blade bone and boneless shoulder steaks are cut from the Boston butt, which is a square or triangular piece of meat from the upper half of the shoulder. The round bone shoulder steaks, known as arm pork steaks, are cut from the center of the picnic shoulder.

Cool Mixture First

When flavoring extracts are added to boiling hot mixtures, they lose their potency. That's why most recipes direct that these extremely hot mixtures be cooled before the extract is stirred in.

Color of Salad Is All Green and White

Change the variety of raisins used in an everyday salad and you may be surprised at the fresh-tasting, interesting result.

White Raisin Slaw

- 3 cups fine-knife-shredded firmly packed green cabbage
- 1/4 cup light raisins (rinsed in

- hot water and drained)
- 1/4 cup mayonnaise
- 1/4 cup milk
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- Salad greens and paprika (if desired)

Toss together the cabbage and raisins. Mix together the mayonnaise, milk, sugar, lemon juice and salt; mix well with cabbage and raisins. Serve at once for a very crisp salad; if refrigerated overnight, salad will be a little less crisp. Makes 4 servings. Salad may be garnished with salad greens and sprinkled with paprika just before serving.

'Green Shoots' in 'Vast Wasteland'

Lawyer Picked as New FCC Chairman

WASHINGTON (AP) — To replace Newton N. Minow as chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, President Kennedy has picked a 34-year-old lawyer who finds some "green shoots" sprouting in what Minow once described as "a vast wasteland" — the field of television.

Minow, 37, handed in his resignation Tuesday, five years before his term ends, to become executive vice president and general counsel of Encyclopaedia Britannica, Inc.

To take his place, Kennedy chose E. William Henry, former partner of a Memphis, Tenn., law firm, who has served as commissioner on the FCC since last August.

Minow's resignation, to take effect June 1, set off a shuffle involving five jobs.

To fill the vacancy on the commission, the President announced his intention to appoint Asst. Atty. Gen. Lee Loewinger, 50, who has been in charge of the Department of Justice's antitrust division.

As his replacement, Kennedy said he would name William H. Orrick Jr., 47, now deputy undersecretary of state for administration.

For Orrick it will be a return to familiar grounds. Before being named to the State Department post last July, he served for more than a year as assistant attorney general in charge of the civil division. He is said to be a trusted lieutenant of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The chain reaction of job changes was reported to be completed with William J. Rockett, now assistant secretary of state for administration in charge of personnel, succeeding Orrick and Herman Pollack, deputy assistant secretary, taking over Rockett's office.

"DEAR NEWT" — In his letter accepting Minow's resignation, Kennedy penned "Dear Newt" over the formal statement of "Dear Mr. Minow" and added under his signature, "Many thanks for all you have done."

Minow, who came in with the first President of the New Frontier, will not likely get such a ringing sendoff from the broadcasting industry.

Last July the National Association of Broadcasters convention listened in cool silence as Minow charged that the industry had not succeeded in regulating itself and that the public was "drowning in commercials and calling for help."

On his part, Minow said he had achieved several objectives during his tenure "and while the job is by no means finished, it never will be."

Among these objectives were the organization of the Communication Satellite Corporation and legislation to require all newly manufactured television sets to be constructed to receive 12 channels instead of just 13.

In looking at the 1963 record of the Republican-controlled State Legislature, Williams said the body is "a different kind of legislature from what I faced because many of the old guard Republicans have fallen by the wayside."

"The really difficult problem of fiscal reform is yet to be ridden up to," Williams said.

He said that the legislature has passed some significant bills but added that some of them were the harvest of Democratic "plopping" in earlier sessions.

Williams pointed out a newly enacted construction safety code and financing plans to boost Michigan's economic growth, commenting that both measures had strong Democratic support in previous years, but ran into Republican opposition.

Turning to his own plans, Williams said he has "no present intention of running for any office in 1964."

However, he said he feels a strong urge to join in campaigns as elections draw nearer.

Over 60 Jailed in Maryland After Mass Demonstrations

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP) — More than 60 persons were arrested yesterday in a series of racial demonstrations climaxed by a mass march on the Dorchester County jail.

Some 40 Negroes marched around the jail three times, shouting and jeering at police officers before Police Chief Brice Kinnam ordered the demonstrators taken into custody shortly before midnight. The 30 men and 10 women were charged with disorderly conduct.

The marchers began their demonstration following the arrests of 14 youths who attempted to integrate the Perses Theater in the downtown section of this Eastern Shore community. An officer at the jail said the marchers believed the youths were mistreated by police.

The 14 youths, first arrested Monday, had been released an hour earlier to make room in the jail for eight adults arrested yesterday afternoon. Four were arrested during a sit-in demonstration at a segregated lunch room.

Chief Kinnam called out all local police, and 15 state police officers with several K-9 dogs were summoned to prevent further disorders.

By midnight the town was quiet, but the marchers, who were booked four at a time and herded into cells, continued to sing and chant.

One of the youths arrested at the theater was Donna Richardson, 17. Her mother, Gloria Richardson, 41, and her grandmother, Mrs. Mabel S. Clair Booth, 53, had been arrested earlier during a sit-in demonstration at the Dizyland lunch room.

An adult Negro leader in the community said the situation "looked grave." He said his race was "sick and tired of police brutality when making arrests of demonstrators" and "I just don't know what will happen."

A Negro newsman was beaten, a woman suffered a head cut during a scuffle, and 11 store windows were shattered.

Four men were arrested. The newsman, Ben Holman of the Columbia Broadcasting System, was hospitalized with facial cuts and a possible broken nose after an attack by six men in the hotel.

Holman, 32, who wrote a series of articles on the Black Muslims, was a reporter for the Chicago Daily News, said he recognized several of his assailants as members of the black supremacy sect.

He said one of his attackers told him: "This is for those pieces you wrote."

Holman was seeking to interview the Rev. A. D. King of Birmingham when the assault occurred in the hotel's mezzanine. King, whose home in Birmingham was bombed last Saturday night, was one of the rally's principal speakers.

The brother of the Southern Integration leader, the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., told the rally:

"We in Birmingham are determined; and I bring you a message from 200,000 colored people; we cannot be free until you in New York are free and you in New York cannot be free until we are free."

The 15-month-old Girl Dies After Falling Into Lake

WATERVLIET (AP) — Sandra Leigh Smith, 15-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Smith of Watervliet, was dead on arrival at Community Hospital yesterday after being pulled unconscious from Paw Paw Lake.

The child was the youngest of five in the family. Berrien County sheriff's deputies said she apparently wandered through an open gate and slipped from a break in the family's lake front home.

Names Hillsdale Lawyer to Probate Judgship

LANSING (AP) — Appointment of Hillsdale attorney William MacRitchie, 40, as probate judge for Hillsdale County was announced yesterday by Gov. George Romney.

MacRitchie, whose appointment is effective immediately, succeeds the late Judge Thelma Uran, who died March 7. The position pays $8,000 a year. MacRitchie is a former Republican chairman for Hillsdale County.

Man Comes Before Liz and Burton: Shakespeare

NEW YORK — Another man finally came between Liz Taylor and Richard Burton—William Shakespeare! Liz rented at Dick recently for his lengthy dissertations about Shakespeare and the Old Vic," Burton replied. "This is the favorite subject of Sir John Gielgud and those chaps."

Liz said: "I find it a great bore!"... Actor John Gielgud of "The Taming of the Shrew," a one-time Burton buddy, claims the secret of Burton's attraction is the carbanes on his back. Women love them. (Where do I go to get a carbanes?)

HEART PATIENTS — Doctors of Children's Hospital Medical Center, Boston, performed operations—two in pressure tanks, two in the regular operating rooms—within a two-week period to save these four tiny heart patients.

Pressure tank surgery, performed under pressure that would be encountered 80 to 90 feet below the surface in a diving bell, was used in operating on two of the babies.

Rumor Duvalier to Flee Today

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Rumors mounted steadily that Haitian dictator Francois Duvalier planned to fly into exile today, the day his constitutional term as president ends, to escape assassination.

Duvalier had planned to continue in office by virtue of a rigged election two years ago. But rumors that he planned to flee mushroomed as opposition to his fear-ridden totalitarian regime intensified at home and abroad.

Case Admits Murder Guilt

Enters Plea Before Slaying Trial Begins

A guilty plea was entered by 19-year-old Carl Case yesterday, just before he was to stand trial for the murder of Leonard Reed, 16, in White Lake Township March 26.

Authorities remained baffled as to why Case bludgeoned the Reed boy with a lug wrench and nearly took the life of the victim's sister, Naomi, 14, in a similar beating.

Case, of Green Oak Township, Livingston County, has steadfastly refused to talk about the attack that occurred on a dark, lonely stretch of McKeachie Road.

The Reed children were less than a quarter-mile from their home at 6290 White Lake Road when waylaid and beaten shortly after 9 p.m.

Case surrendered in New Mexico and was found mentally fit to stand trial when returned here.

His plea of guilt was accepted by Circuit Judge William J. Beer who ruled Case was guilty of first-degree murder by his own admission.

Judge Beer set sentencing for 9 a.m. June 4 and remanded Case to the county jail. He faces a mandatory life sentence.

Courthouse Site Set as Pay Parking Lot

The old county courthouse site at Huron and Saginaw will reopen Monday as a parking lot but not for free parking.

Sam L. Stolorow of 422 Shore View Drive won a six-month lease of the county-owned property in lively bidding yesterday.

He offered the county $1,150 a month, topping a combined bid by the Community National Bank and the Downtown Pontiac Business Association of $1,100.

Had the bank and businessmen's association won they would have reopened the lot for free parking to draw more shoppers downtown.

Stolorow heads the Outdoor Parking Co. of Pontiac, which operates several pay parking lots downtown.

RESULTED IN DECREE
A suit by the company resulted in a Circuit Court decree in closing the lots in February.

Until then the county was leasing the lots to the Downtown Business Association (DPBA) for a dollar a month.

The association was providing free parking.

Circuit Judge Stanton G. Dondero ordered the lots closed because the county hadn't offered to lease them in open bidding. Bidding yesterday was conducted in the manner of an auction by the County Board of Auditors.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—Astronaut L. Gordon Cooper completed his second orbit of the earth at 11:04 a.m. (Pontiac time). He reported no serious problems.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (U)—Astronaut Gordon Cooper soared away on America's longest planned space flight today, described his celestial ride as "quite a thrill" and early in the mission was given a go-ahead for at least seven of his planned 22 orbits.

During the first orbit he gave his spacecraft systems a thorough testing and pronounced "them all in excellent shape. Mercury Control Center at Cape Canaveral then relayed the word that he was "go" for at least six more orbits.

That was the first of three critical decisions scheduled for the 24-hour flight. The other two were set for orbits 7 and 17. Principal landing areas in the Atlantic and Pacific were at the end of each of these passes. However, alternate landing areas were located around the world in case of an emergency.

The decision to keep flying was passed on to Cooper by astronaut Virgil I. Grissom, capsule communicator at the Guaymas, Mexico station.

"You're go for seven," Grissom—who made a suborbital flight years ago—reported.

TIME FOR JOKE

"Roger," replied Cooper, and then jokingly made believe that he had understood Grissom to say thirty-plus orbits.

"For thirty how many?" he asked. "As many as you want," Grissom chuckled.

Minutes later, at 9:37 a.m. (Pontiac Time), Cooper's Faith 7 spacecraft passed above the Florida-Georgia border to complete the first orbit.

That was one hour, 33 minutes after an Atlas rocket blasted off from Cape Canaveral to propel Cooper's spacecraft into a nearly perfect orbit ranging from 100 to 166 miles above the earth.

Each orbital pass was to take 88.7 minutes. The first circuit required longer because it included the boost phase of flight.

As Cooper completed orbit No. 1, he talked with astronauts Alan Shepard, the first American into space, and Walter Schirra, whose six-orbit American flight record he was out to break.

Shepard told the pilot, "It was a beautiful shot."

"It looks pretty good to turn up here, too," Cooper answered. Shepard told Cooper to turn on his television camera and as the jerky films were relayed to a monitor at the cape, Shepard said, "You look pretty casual up there."

"Boy, I am," Cooper replied.

Schirra, who was serving as capsule communicator in Mercury Control Center, shouted, "Have a good ball!" as Faith 7 zipped out of radio range and on into the second orbit.

In Washington, President Kennedy expressed happiness at the success of Cooper's launch into space. He was following the flight closely.

Kennedy's reaction was relayed to newsmen by Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary.

He added that Kennedy would be following the flight very closely today and hopefully tomorrow, when it is scheduled to end in mid-Pacific.

Kennedy watched a television set in his bedroom during Cooper's blast-off. Meantime, Salinger held an open telephone line to Cape Canaveral.

Countdown Comes Off Smoothly

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)

—For the second straight day, astronaut Gordon Cooper set out, at 4:55 a.m., from his living quarters in the hanger called "S" for a rendezvous with a rocket and a flight around the world 27 times through space.

With the aplomb of an accomplished television actor Cooper walked quickly from the open portals of the huge hanger into the air-conditioned van waiting to transport him to Launch Complex 14.

He had made the same trip Tuesday, followed in minute detail by newsmen and remotely controlled television cameras.

He had made the same trip yesterday, followed in minute detail by a faulty radar performance at the Bermuda tracking station—the point at which he is inserted into orbit at 17,500 miles per hour.

LOOKS OK

Cooper looked none the worse for his ordeal of yesterday when he remained in the capsule from 5:36 a.m. until the hatch cover on the spacecraft, Faith-7, was removed and he emerged at 11:37 a.m.

As he came out of the hanger wearing his 29-pound silver space suit (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

During the first orbit Cooper became the first American space television personality. As his Atlas pushed him into space, the television camera relayed pictures of him in action and they were converted from their jerky slowscan speed to normal television speed and relayed to American viewers by the national networks.

A ground station in the Canary Islands also picked up a television picture during a 7-minute Faith 7 overpass.

er and commenced drifting flight, allowing the craft to move freely on its yaw, pitch and roll axes.

In this condition the vehicle rotates slowly, making about one revolution every 30 minutes if control is not reestablished by the pilot.

The capsule will not move far off course because it is flying an orbital path determined by the laws of nature.

The only concern during the first orbit was a high cabin temperature reading of 118 degrees made by an instrument at one of the tracking stations.

But control officials said they believed the reading was in error because the astronaut reported his cabin temperature at a continual 100 degrees.

SLIGHTLY WARM

As he swung into orbit No. 2, Cooper reported he was slightly warmer than normal (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Buy Land for Branch Fire Station

Prospects for a new north side branch fire station moved ahead last night as the Pontiac City Commission approved purchase of the property.

The commission bought about an acre of land owned by the Grand Trunk Western Railroad Co., on Walton next to the Snow-Bol Co., 25 W. Walton.

The land cost the city $9,420, which will come out of capital improvement funds. The first station is expected to run about $120,000.

Commissioner Winford E. Bottom said construction may start by June 1. Final plans will be presented next week.

The fire station will be modeled after the branch station on West Huron at Genesee.

The city will purchase the property on a time installment plan with payments of $1,600 a year with six per cent interest. A down payment of $942 will be made.

Pontiac Cars Hit Sales Mark

Records Set During First 10 Days in May

Pontiac Motor Division set sales records for the first 10 days in May, pacing an upsurge in the automobile industry.

Frank V. Bridge, general sales manager for Pontiac, reported today that sales for the period totaled 19,708 — a 61 per cent increase over the same period last year.

The previous record was 15,396 set in 1955.

"The public has caught the car buying fever," Bridge asserted. "Our new car sales are bristling along at an outstanding rate, and there is every reason to believe May will be another record month for Pontiac."

OTHER REPORTS GOOD

Other car manufacturers had similarly optimistic reports. Chevrolet car and truck sales for 1963 topped the one million mark yesterday, the earliest time in the year the mark has ever been reached.

Sales totaled 79,292 cars and trucks for the 10-day period, second only to the record set in May, 1962.

Ford Division sold 45,008 cars and 9,917 trucks for the first 10 days of the month, highest for any similar May period in division annals.

Chrysler Corp. reported sales of 26,335, a 66 per cent increase over the same period a year ago and the highest May since 1957.

Tass Reports Flight

MOSCOW (U)—The Tass news agency carried a brief dispatch from New York today reporting astronaut Gordon Cooper's space flight.

Says Wallace Scuttles Peace

Negro Makes Charge in Alabama Rift

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A Negro leader says Gov. George C. Wallace is trying to undermine a biracial agreement on Birmingham's racial problems by keeping state troopers in the city.

While the Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth was calling on Wallace Tuesday night to remove the highway patrolmen, Wallace again was calling on President Kennedy to withdraw special federal troops he sent into Alabama.

Wallace replied to Shuttlesworth, one of the top leaders in the desegregation campaign, that the state troopers would remain in Birmingham as long as he thinks they are needed to help maintain law and order.

The White House announced no reply to Wallace's latest telegram protesting the federal troops, but the President has shown no inclination to recall the soldiers in previous exchanges with the Alabama governor.

In his latest telegram, Wallace demanded that what he termed military striking force be withdrawn from Birmingham.

This was a reference to about 25 officers of a headquarters platoon unit in the city. Wallace said their presence invited new rioting by Negroes.

RIOT TRAINED

About 3,000 riot-trained soldiers have been sent to military posts in Alabama, but they are not in Birmingham.

The President had lunch yesterday with 25 Alabama publishers and editors and the Alabama state of discussion was the state's racial problems.

Kennedy reportedly urged cooperation between local Negro and white leaders, and said that any Negro trend toward extremism would best be offset by conferences between moderates on both sides. The luncheon had been scheduled for some time.

The White House announced that Kennedy's trip to north Alabama Saturday for a Tennessee Valley Authority function will not include visits to Tusculum, a, Sheffield and Florence, as had been announced previously.

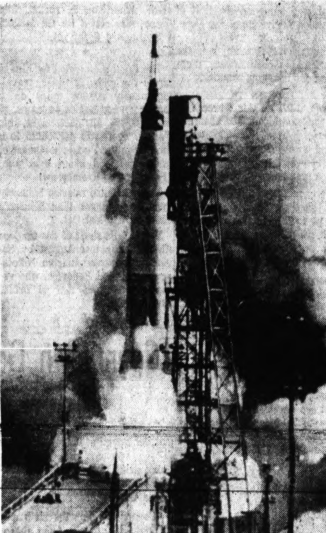

Pleasant Climate, Chance of Rain, Due City Area

The next five days will be predominantly pleasant, the weatherman said.

Temperatures will average near the normal high of 69 and normal low of 53. The low will be 53 tonight and the high a balmy 70 tomorrow.

There's a chance of showers or thundershowers tomorrow and again toward the beginning of the week. Rain fall will total about one-half inch.

Forty-three was the low record in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The mercury had climbed 3 1/2 at 1 p.m.

His Wife's Jubilation a Single Superlative

HOUSTON, Tex.—"Beautiful."

That was the way Mrs. Gordon Cooper described the launch of her astronaut husband's mercury capsule at Cape Canaveral, Fla., today. Mrs. Cooper and her daughters—Camala, 14, and Janita, 13—watched the launch in the privacy of the master bedroom at their home 25 miles east of Houston.

It was more than an hour later that Dave Schwartz, a public affairs officer at the Manned Spacecraft Center, left the ranch style home and gave newsmen Mrs. Cooper's one-word reaction.

Schwartz said Mrs. Cooper asked him to say nothing more in behalf of herself and the daughters.

He said the mother and girls went into the master bedroom 15 minutes before launch and were smiling when they returned to the den after it was certain the blastoff had been successful.

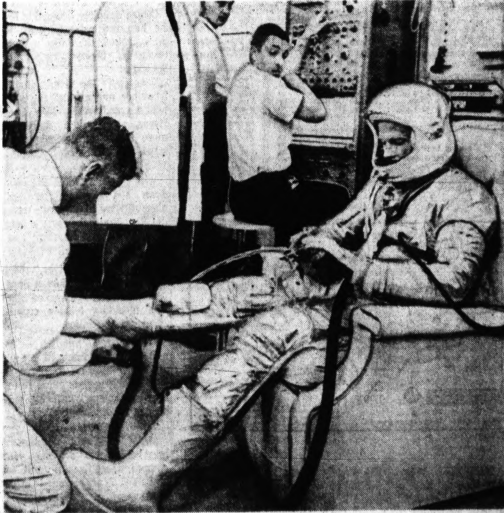

Just 30 minutes before launch they received a telephone call from Cooper from his capsule.

Schwartz would not give details of the telephone conversation but said the family appeared more relaxed while awaiting the start of the scheduled 34-hour space flight than when radar trouble at Bermuda caused a postponement.

Recount Notice to 77 Counties

Canvassers Adopt Schedule, Rules

LANSING (AP) — Notice that the recount of the election will commence next Tuesday was on its way to 77 county clerks today, following adoption of a schedule and a set of revised rules by the board of state canvassers.

Gov. George Romney and Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley formally approved the new rules yesterday following their acceptance by the board in a day-long meeting.

With three members voting and one merely sitting in because he had not yet been confirmed by the Senate, the board adopted a schedule under which recount teams will go to 24 counties on May 21.

The board plans to meet Saturday to select unpaid volunteer attorneys who will supervise the recounting of votes in 19 counties, including Wayne, Oakland and Kent.

In the other 58 counties, the precinct checking will be conducted by members of the state elections office staff. For purposes of the recount, the 58 counties have been divided into five groups, with counting to begin May 21 and end by June 7.

The plan originally had been for the recount to begin a day earlier, but State Elections Director Robert Montgomery advised the board that county clerks, on that day, are scheduled to meet with county tax allocation boards.

The new constitution was adopted by a margin of 7,829 votes in the April 1 election, but the Democratic party, which opposed it, has filed for a recount in 1,881 of the state's 5,209 precincts.

Rechecking of totals in 103 precincts has been requested by the coordinating council for the new constitution, a group supporting the new document.

Crash Injures Pontiac Man

A 28-year-old Pontiac man was seriously injured last night in a two-car crash at Joslyn and Upland.

Jack Berridge, 3088 Catalpa, is in Pontiac General Hospital under intensive care with injuries to his legs and a possible head injury.

The 8:13 p.m. accident happened when Berridge rammed a car driven by Edmund L. Koch, 24, 362 E. Sheffield, as Koch was making a left turn, according to Pontiac police.

Koch told police he did not see the other car because Berridge did not have his headlights on.

Turbine Car Whines Jet-Age Smoothness

By JOHN J. CROWLEY
City Editor, The Pontiac Press

NEW YORK—The urgent whine of the jet age echoed through the Roosevelt Raceway on Long Island yesterday as newsmen tested Chrysler Corp.'s new turbine passenger car.

It whistles, it whines and, to the observer outside the car, it seems to whir away as smoothly and confidently as a jet plane.

But inside—behind the wheel—it seemed unresponsive. There were only a couple of unimportant seconds after the switch was turned on before the engine was ready.

Smoothly, then, the car moved ahead but not as quickly as an equivalent push on the accelerator of a piston car would have produced.

Perhaps the sound was deceiving—the muted scream becoming more and more urgent made the driver want to go faster.

NECESSARY BRAKES
Too soon, the awakened "whisper" had to be slowed down. The air-type power brakes seemed necessary then on an ordinary car.

The turbine seemed reluctant to brake itself, though Chrysler engineers have designed it to be self-braking.

Paul Ackerman, vice president in charge of engineering, said that some additional heat in the engine would improve it. But that would require tougher metals.

There are tougher alloys in the space program, but they're expensive and "critical" in terms of defense, Chrysler wants metals that are less critical.

Ackerman explained that the accelerator pedal on the other turbine car... which had stopped running... was lighter to the touch and more responsive.

George J. Huebner Jr., executive engineer in Chrysler's turbine, "father of the Chrysler turbine," and Robert Anderson, vice president, product planning, drove the car into Manhattan from the race track to prove it was working all right.

It took out again at 40th Street and 3rd Avenue, in the middle of 5:50 p.m. traffic.

Board Aspirant Ruled Ineligible

Invalid Signatures Disqualify Position

Efforts put forth by two daughters in behalf of their father's candidacy for a Waterford Township School Board post have backfired and resulted in his disqualification.

Dr. Everett Gustafson, 3780 Lakewood, was ruled ineligible yesterday afternoon, when a review of his petitions showed only 49 of the 72 signatures were valid.

School board candidates are required to file petitions containing a minimum of 50 valid signatures.

Unaware that petition circulators must be registered voters, Beverly, 11, and Barbara, 16, obtained 20 signatures for their father in the neighborhood. All were disallowed.

This still left 53 signatures. But a review of these names on the petitions revealed that three were non-registered voters.

Those also were voided, leaving a total of 49 signatures, one below the required minimum.

Dr. Gustafson, 47, a physician and surgeon, was chief of staff at Pontiac General Hospital during 1962. He currently serves as chairman of the Oakland County Medical Society public relations committee.

Dr. Gustafson's petitions were filed Saturday afternoon just prior to the 4 p.m. deadline.

His disqualification leaves just three candidates for the two 4-year term vacancies on the board in the June 10 election.

Seeking office are incumbent secretary Mrs. Dorothy Barningham, 2658 W. Huron; Richard Luehmann, 3611 Perry King; Donald Porter, 3736 Mariner.

Two more circuit judges in Oakland County this year were assured today when Gov. George Romney signed into law a bill that provides for them.

The new court posts, raising the number of county circuit judges from five to seven, will take effect in 1969.

The bill takes effect 90 days after the legislature adjourns.

Romney is expected to name his appointees to the vacancies soon. They would serve until the November 1964 election.

Cancel Out Restriction on Aerial Tree Spraying

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP—A short-lived resolution prohibiting the aerial spraying of trees has been rescinded by the Township Board.

The trustees passed the resolution just two weeks ago after listening to the complaints of bird lovers.

This week property owners in Chapel Hill Subdivision at South Adams protested the restriction.

Now the trees can be treated if the sprayer obtains a permit.

"And that's the way we're going to leave it," Supervisor Homer Case said.

The trustees denied a rezoning.

Dr. John P. Wood, 664 Rutledge, Bloomfield Hills, and Dr. Clifford Millard of Hilldale have been appointed by Gov. George Romney to the Board of Osteopathic Registration and Examination.

Wood succeeds Dr. O. L. Brookover of Livonia for a term expiring April 30, 1968. The appointments require Senate confirmation.

Birmingham Chapter No. 220, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold a mother and daughter banquet at 6:30 tonight in the Birmingham Masonic Temple, 327 S. Woodward.

Potential British Foreign Secretary to War on Complacency

By TOM OCHILTREE
LONDON — Patrick Gordon Walker — an intellectual and a tennis-playing suburbanite — expects to be Britain's foreign secretary by this time next year.

OF THE NEWS

If he gets the post, he intends to war on some of the hocus pocus and striped pants complacency in diplomacy. He hopes to be seen by scrapping clichés about British-American relations.

Gordon Walker is fond of the United States — he has visited it many times and is going back this month. But he maintains he wants to bring a greater sense of realism into the relationship between London and Washington.

The Labor party must win Britain's next national election if Gordon Walker is to succeed aristocratic Lord Home in the Foreign Office.

Primarily, he believes diplomats everywhere need to rethink their basic concepts. It is not good enough, he says, to regard the Western-Soviet rivalry in terms of conditions eight years ago.

If you do, you tend to miss the point of "the growing division between the world's rich and poor countries which cuts across the old pattern in places."

Or, take the business of Britain's special relationship with the United States. For 12 years, conservative governments have used that phrase like a magic incantation.

Gordon Walker professes to see a lot of humping in all this. He contends Prime Minister Harold Macmillan elaborated the special relationship theme to bolster the Conservative party's fortunes.

In the end, Gordon Walker says, this created tensions within the North Atlantic Alliance — with the French, West Germans, Italians and others getting to feel like second-class members.

CLOSE UNDERSTANDING
"We don't want a special or privileged relationship with Washington," Gordon Walker told an interviewer. "Naturally we expect a close understanding to exist."

He shares the conviction of Harold Wilson, the Labor party's potential prime minister, that a Laborite government will work more smoothly with the Kennedy administration than the Conservatives are doing now.

For one thing, the Laborites would steer away from Britain's separate nuclear deterrent — a course directly contrary to Conservative policy.

Britain's nuclear future, in fact, may be a key issue in the election, due sometime before October 1964.

Gordon Walker's stand on this issue is perhaps less ambiguous than Wilson's.

"We are prepared to accept the United States as the nuclear power in the West with a monopoly of weapons if the American government gives us a proper degree of sharing in the deployment and targeting of such weapons," he said.

A system must be worked out, he says, "which gives the NATO allies a greater feeling of participation in nuclear policy and strategy while recognizing America's right to make final decisions."

PLANS U.S. TRIP

Gordon Walker plans to be in the United States from May 26 to June 5, visiting New York, Boston, Washington, St. Louis and Louisville.

Americans meeting him for the first time would hardly spot him as a potential foreign secretary.

At 56 he seems more like a professor — a reflection of the years he spent at Oxford both as a student and a tutor in history.

He is English middle class. Happily married, he is the father of three grown daughters and twin sons of 17.

He is fluent in French and German, an accomplishment which came in handy in World War II when he broadcast to German workers in an effort to break the Nazis' hold over them.

In 1944, Gordon Walker was in a British-American team which broadcast from Radio Luxembourg while Germans shelled the station from only five miles away.

He remains a fast friend of Col. Samuel Rosenbaum of Philadelphia, head of the group.

The Labor party sweep in 1945 carried Gordon Walker into Parliament.

In 1950, he began a brief term as Commonwealth secretary before the Conservatives came back to power.

Today, most of his busy life is devoted to politics and the House of Commons, where his clear debating style is much admired.

As a potential foreign secretary, he spends almost as much time studying diplomatic problems as if he were in office.

He also broadcasts for the overseas service of British Broadcasting Corp., in both French and German.

This activity gives him a separate income and helps him keep his command of the two languages.

Drayton Woods Group Triggers Project

Hatchery Land Nature Center Will Cost $1 Million

One million dollars. This amount, an everyday achievement during a lifetime term in government circles, is very difficult for the average homeowner to comprehend. Members of the Drayton Woods

Civic Association began dealing in a million dollars Monday night. That's the amount that would have to be raised if the Drayton Plains fish hatchery is to be converted into a nature center of the size and scope visualized by Robert R. Forbes.

He is president of the National Youth Science Foundation which is attempting to establish a nature center on 60 acres of the hatchery property in Drayton Plains. The hatchery was closed last year. "Based on population and land area," Forbes told the DWCA members, "I visualize a larger than medium center costing $250,000 to $300,000. The annual operating budget would be from $25,000 to $50,000."

The endowment fund needed to maintain such an operation would be over $500,000, he pointed out. The National Youth Science Foundation will not operate the center. MUST HELP ITSELF. "The foundation is not a money giving organization," Forbes stated. "We help the local community help itself."

"Our function will help establish a nature center and advise in its operation. We receive no pay for our effort. The foundation is operated by private funds."

He listed three primary goals:

1. To see if there is real desire for the project in the community. 2. Leasing the property for one year from the Conservation Department, 3. Establishing a steering committee of residents in the community. This committee would eventually be dissolved for a board of directors. "You can start this summer, wait until fall, or even until early next year," he said. "The property is among the best I have seen for a center, and I've been involved in the establishment of 35 others in the country. It lends itself beautifully to the proposed center."

"I would like to see a couple of people hired so that the grounds could be used on a limited scale this summer, if for no other reason than to curtail vandalism."

Forbes said the average staff is two to six people once the nature center building is constructed and the exhibit arranged. He said the Drayton center would have live animals "native to Michigan" among the exhibits.

At the end of the year's lease, money raised through the efforts of the steering committee and later board of directors would be used to purchase the property from the state for $41,000.

REJECTED BY COLLEGES

Donald Richards of the Conservation Department's education division told the group that "we offered the property to Michigan State, the University of Michigan and even Eastern Michigan University, but these institutions were not interested."

"We can sell the property to a state institution for a dollar," he said, "but we can not sell it for that sum to private citizens or organizations."

He reported that the minimum appraisal for the 60 acres on the south side of hatchery road is $41,000 while the maximum, if the land is auctioned, "would be in excess of $100,000."

The department will retain land on the north side of the road for a field station.

Forbes revealed that a similar project was started a year ago near Kalamazoo. The center now contains 600 acres enclosed by a cyclone fence and $1,700,000 has been raised, he said.

Forbes suggested that membership varying in amounts from $5 "on up" be sold for the Drayton center. The members of the Nature Center would then elect directors to operate the facility. "From past experience," he said, "We have found that schools are very interested in the centers and utilize the facilities for conducted trips by their students."

"There would be no admission to the center and it would be open during regular hours to the public."

He also pointed out that the Drayton center would draw "not only from this area and Pontiac, but also from Bloomfield Hills, Birmingham and Detroit."

He urged DWCA members to sign names to a list to be used in selecting a steering committee.

Several signed and a million dollar project was under way.

Clinton River Yields Record Trout

R. E. Salzwedel has caught only one large rainbow trout — both while fishing for something else.

The Drayton Plains bait dealer boasted a three-pounder a number of years ago while fishing for pike on a Northern-Michigan reservoir.

Last week he repeated the process. Only this time he was fishing from the upstream side of the Dixie Highway bridge over the Clinton River next to his place of business. He landed a four-pound seven-ounce rainbow.

It is the heaviest trout entered in The Pontiac Press Big Fish Derby's rainbow division. The former record of three pounds four ounces, from Schoolhouse Lake, in 1961.

The new leader replaces the three-pound one ounce rainbow entered last week by Jim Burgin of Pontiac.

"I knew there were trout around the bridge," said Salzwedel, "because the kids catch one once in a while. Last Thursday morning I saw two large fish near the center abutment."

"I didn't know whether they were suckers — there are a lot of suckers, carp and dogfish around the bridge — or something else."

IGNORED BAIT "I got my rod and floated a nightcrawler right between them. They ignored it. Then I put on a bass minnow and ran it under the bridge. I got a strike, but missed."

"The next minnow had no more than disappeared when I had another hit. I hooked him. It was the big rainbow."

The weather fouled up the fish last week-end.

Salzwedel wasted no time getting the trout within netting distance. Using a spinning rod and eight-pound test line, he had the fish on shore in "about a minute and a half."

The Derby's pike leader still stands at four and a half pounds. There have been no bluegill entries and the black bass division does not open until June 1.

Trout fishermen in Northern Michigan were hampered by high water and walleye fishermen on the St. Clair River had poor luck because of roily water.

Clouded water in Lake St. Clair also cut into the weekend musky take.

Browns are beginning to hit on the Huron River in the Proud Lake recreation area. The overall trout fishing in Oakland County is on the slow side. Maccody continues to lead the area's rainbow lakes.

Firefighters Watch Northern Michigan Conservation Department field forces are maintaining their vigilant watch over forest lands in Northern Michigan where conditions for wild fires are described as "highly dangerous."

Some 3,415 acres have already burned in this part of the state and department officials report that the springtime threat of fires will remain at a peak level longer than normal. In most areas of Northern Michigan, particularly above the Straits, cold weather has held off the period when vegetation usually greens up.

In Southern Michigan, the spring threat of wild fires has passed its most dangerous point with the greening up of ground vegetation.

The MSU scientist points out that it is "absolutely impossible" for these plants and animals to be killed or injured by the radioactive materials he and his colleagues put into streams. "The concentration of the isotopes is less than one-half of that which is allowable for drinking water because of what Ball calls 'prodigious dilution.'"

When some Michigan State University scientists go "fishing," they carry a geiger counter, a 55-gallon oil drum and an eye dropper filled with radioactive isotopes.

The dozen MSU researchers are "angling" for information on how to improve Michigan's fishing sites. Their gear is used to study water pollution and better methods of feeding fish and increasing their productivity.

The radioactive isotopes have been used for the past five years to trace commercial fertilizers downstream in the West Branch of the Sturgeon River, a northern trout stream which runs through Olsego, Cebogyan and Charlevoix counties.

IN FERTILIZER "The isotope used is phosphorus 32, because it can easily be 'tagged' to the phosphorus already in the fertilizer."

"About 95 per cent of the radioactive phosphorus was absorbed by some living thing by the time it traveled a half mile downstream," reports Robert C. Ball, professor of fisheries and wildlife, who heads up the MSU project.

That means that commercial fertilizers are economical for providing food for fish because they are not washed out. However, we recommend that fertilizer placements be made fairly close together to make sure the streams are properly saturated with nutrients.

The isotopes were also used to trace the fertilizer through the aquatic food chain — from single-celled animals and plants through the insects that eat them, and then through the fish that eat the insects and the big fish that eat the smaller fish.

"We found the isotopes in every aquatic organism in the half-mile area that was treated," claims Ball.

But the MSU scientist points out that it is "absolutely impossible" for these plants and animals to be killed or injured by the radioactive materials he and his colleagues put into streams. "The concentration of the isotopes is less than one-half of that which is allowable for drinking water because of what Ball calls 'prodigious dilution.'"

Proud Lake recreation area in Oakland County will be "prepared" when Michigan's fishing season moves into full swing later this month, thanks to some 1,100 Boy Scouts from northwestern Redford district in Detroit.

On Saturday, these young troopers will stage a work bee at the area to put things in tip-top shape for visitors who will soon be arriving.

The Boy Scouts' day-long work schedule will include staking boat docks and signs, raking and filling in campground and beach areas, planting trees, and other cleanup and maintenance chores.

"Without the help of these Boy Scouts we couldn't be ready for the public," reports Al Masino, manager of the recreation area.

"We're running behind schedule on springtime maintenance work because our regular crew of inmate labor was assigned elsewhere and seasonal employees were hired on the job later than usual this year."

Tarragon Flavored

By adding a teaspoon of dry tarragon leaves to one convenient can of tomato sauce, simmering briefly and gently, then chilling in the refrigerator, you've created an excellent sauce to serve with cold cuts.

Serve Shower Guests a Beautiful Salad

Pontiac Press Food Editor
If the roster of June brides is any indication of things to come, this is going to be the most showery place in the state soon.

So let's talk about food for showers.

A fruit salad is always a good choice because it appeals to the eye as well as the palate.

Fresh pineapple is in great abundance in the store and makes an excellent contribution to a fruit salad.

I simply can't resist telling you to buy a female pineapple, if you can, because it will have more flavor. I am not out of my mind, however peculiar I may sound.

Female pineapples have what looks like baby pineapples growing around the stem at the top of the fruit. Sometimes, though, a whole bin of pineapples won't have a single "lady" in the lot.

Use that pineapple — or any one you can buy — to make Reine Salad. Reine means "queen" and this salad is tops.

Reine Salad

1 large head iceberg lettuce
1 can (11 ounces) mandarin orange segments, well drained
1 can (1 pound) pitted dark cherries, well drained.

2 cups fresh pineapple tidbits
2 cups sour cream
1 teaspoon olive oil
4 teaspoons prepared mustard
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon sugar

Reserve outer lettuce leaves to line salad bowl. Shred remaining lettuce and add to bowl. Arrange mandarin oranges, cherries, and pineapple in sections over lettuce. Chill.

Blend sour cream with olive oil, mustard, lemon juice, salt, paprika and sugar; serve with salad. Makes 4 servings.

Planning a molded salad for shower refreshments means you can get the work done the day before. Make it a tuna mold, but add interest in the shape of chopped nuts and stuffed olives.

Tuna Lime Salad

1 package (6 ounces) lime gelatin
2 cups boiling water
1/2 cup cold water
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1/2 cup lemon juice
2 cans (6 1/2 to 7 ounces each) tuna, drained
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
3 tablespoons chopped pimiento-stuffed olives

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water; add cold water, mayonnaise, and lemon juice. Beat until smooth; chill until slightly thickened. Fold in small chunks of tuna, walnuts and olives. Turn into 1-quart mold; chill until firm.

To serve, unmold and garnish with salad greens and carrot curls. Makes 6 servings.

There's nothing quite so festive as chicken salad. Long ago this was expensive, but not any more. You can make this salad out of chicken breasts alone and not break the budget.

Rich Chicken Salad

1/2 cup real mayonnaise
1 package (3 oz.) cream cheese
1/2 cup milk
Dash of Tabasco sauce
1/2 cup finely diced celery
5 to 6 cups cooked chicken, diced
1/2 to 1 cup small stuffed olives, halved
Salt and pepper

Salad greens

Blend real mayonnaise and cream cheese thoroughly. Add milk and stir until smooth and creamy. Add Tabasco sauce and celery. Let stand in refrigerator while preparing chicken and olives. Toss chicken and olives with mayonnaise mixture and season to taste. Chill and serve on salad greens. Yield: 8 servings.

Pork Shoulder Excellent Meat

Treat your family to a meal of excellent flavor and bountiful nutrition at economical prices. Serve pork shoulder steaks, suggests the American Meat Institute.

Pork shoulder steaks are closely related to pork chops, one of America's favorite meats. Similar in flavor, texture and cooking methods to chops, shoulder steaks are almost always lower in price.

The economy of the shoulder steaks is part of the law of supply and demand. Fewer home-makers know about pork steaks and therefore choose the steaks less frequently than chops.

Like all cuts of fresh pork, the shoulder steaks are highly nutritious for they are excellent sources of complete proteins, the important B vitamins and minerals. And they are highly digestible.

There are three kinds of shoulder steaks: blade bone, round bone and boneless. The blade bone and boneless shoulder steaks are cut from the Boston butt, which is a square or triangular piece of meat from the upper half of the shoulder. The round bone shoulder steaks, known as arm pork steaks, are cut from the center of the picnic shoulder.

Cool Mixture First

When flavoring extracts are added to boiling hot mixtures, they lose their potency. That's why most recipes direct that these extremely hot mixtures be cooled before the extract is stirred in.

Color of Salad Is All Green and White

Change the variety of raisins used in an everyday salad and you may be surprised at the fresh-tasting, interesting result.

White Raisin Slaw

3 cups fine knife-shredded firm-ly packed green cabbage
1/2 cup light raisins (rinsed in hot water and drained)
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1/2 cup milk
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
Salad greens and paprika (if desired)

Toss together the cabbage and raisins. Mix together the mayonnaise, milk, sugar, lemon juice and salt; mix well with cabbage and raisins. Serve at once for a very crisp salad; if refrigerated overnight, salad will be a little less crisp. Makes 4 servings. Salad may be garnished with salad greens and sprinkled with paprika just before serving.

Well Seasoned Dough Good as Bread Sticks

Meats built around salads are doubly good with the addition of special breads. Fruit salads and tossed green salads both taste better when they're accompanied by Savory Bread Sticks.

Savory Bread Sticks

1 1/4 cups warm water (105 degrees-115 degrees)
1 package or cake yeast, active dry or compressed
3 tablespoons sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon margarine
2 teaspoons caraway seeds
1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning
3/4 cups unsifted flour (about)
Melted margarine
Caraway seeds

Measure warm water into large warm bowl. Sprinkle or crumble in yeast; stir until dissolved. Add sugar, salt and margarine. Add 2 teaspoons caraway seeds, poultry season-

Add enough additional flour to make a soft dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, about 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Punch dough down; turn out onto lightly floured board. Divide in half. Roll each half into 12-inch length and cut each into 12 equal pieces. Roll each piece with palms of hands to form rope about 12 inches long. Place on greased sheets.

Brush sticks with melted margarine; sprinkle with additional caraway seeds as desired. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes, or until golden brown.
