Freak Storms, Deaths Mar Nation's Holiday

Britain Refusing to Quit Egypt in Near Future

World U.N. Diplomats Join in Urging England to Cooperate

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Britain today reaffirmed its promise to withdraw its forces from Egypt, but made it clear that it would not bow to the growing demands to get out immediately.

Diplomats from all parts of the world joined today in a new appeal to Britain, France and Israel to get their forces out of Egypt without further delay.

The debate took place in the 79-nation General Assembly which met to consider the new complications in the Middle East situation.

Fawzi declared that the British, French and Israeli were ignoring the withdrawal demands of the U.N. and flagrantly violating Egypt's sovereignty. There is a possibility "every minute," he said, that renewed fighting may erupt.

Czechoslovakia Foreign Minister Vaclav David, Panamerican Foreign Minister Aquilino E. Boyd and the representatives of Jordan and Sudan led off the demands for quick U.N. action.

Diplomats said the United States also had thrown its support behind the Asian-African proposal.

U. S. chief delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. reportedly decided to back the resolution after conferring with President Eisenhower in Washington.

A U.S. source said the United States and India also would join in sponsoring a resolution to authorize U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to negotiate contracts for clearance of the blocked Suez Canal.

The British, French and Israelis have told Hammarskjold they are pulling out some troops. But they said before a complete pullback, the U.N. must insure free navigation through the Suez Canal after it is reopened and must guarantee Israel against Arab attacks and economic blockade.

U.S. support for the Asian-African resolution would widen the split between America and her Western partners. It collides head-on with the British stand spelled out in the House of Commons yesterday by acting Prime Minister R. A. Butler.

Egyptian President Nasser's top political adviser, Wing Cmdr. Ali Sabry, in Cairo repeated warnings that fighting would break out again if the British, French and Israelis don't pull out.

Thanksgiving Gift to Hungary —Rent-Free Farm

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP)—A Kansas City electrician and his wife plan to make a 360-acre farm available to a Hungarian refugee family, rent free.

The idea came to Hubert Bray as he relaxed in his home after his Thanksgiving dinner, watching scenes on television of Hungarians fighting for freedom.

Bray said he and his wife bought the farm, located in the Missouri Ozarks, "to have something to do on weekends." They've never worked it but it has 40 acres of tillable land, a house for a family of five, a good barn and two poultry houses.

"I know what it is to be free and I'll show these people what a wonderful cause they have fought for," Bray said.

U.S. Cagers Win 1st

MELBOURNE (AP)—Two-time All America Bill Russell scored 20 points in his 13 minutes on the court to perk up a sagging U. S. attack last night for a 98-40 first round Olympic basketball victory over Japan.

Russell, former University of San Francisco ace, hustled into the game with 5 minutes remaining in the first half and quickly sank eight points to overhaul the

Ike Awaits Report On Dock Walkout

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential inquiry board raced today to finish a report on the East-Gulf Coast waterfront strike so the government can apply before the weekend for a court injunction to end the walkout.

The board operated in high gear under the national emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley law, invoked by President Eisenhower in a Thanksgiving Day executive order.

HEADS BOARD — Thomas W. Holland, professor at George Washington University, has been named by President Eisenhower to be chairman of a board of inquiry which will ascertain facts in the Atlantic and Gulf Coast longshoreman's strike.

The strike, in its eighth day, has idled 60,000 longshoremen along the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts and tied up an estimated 200 ships to cripple ocean trade. The White House said the stoppage was serious and had "repercussions far beyond the maritime industry."

Under the national emergency provisions — the government's toughest anti-strike weapon—the three-man inquiry board named by the President must file its fact-finding report with the White House before the Justice Department can move for an 80-day back-to-work court order.

The striking International Longshoremen's Assn. said in advance it will obey such an injunction when issued. This seemed to insure resumption of port activity next week.

It was indicated that if the inquiry board files its report early enough this afternoon Eisenhower will probably order the Justice Department to move into court for the injunction right away.

The board heard last night from representatives of the New York Shipping Assn. and the Steamship Trade Assn. of Baltimore. Stevedore employers in other struck ports were telegraphing their statements.

Once an 80-day court order stops the strike, the employers and the ILA are required under the law to continue trying to settle their contract dispute.

In San Francisco longshore negotiators, with fresh authority to call a strike, today meet West Coast employers with whom they have a contract forbidding one.

Area Hunter, 65, Is Still Missing

Stanley Streeter Among 3 Men Reported Lost in State Regions

A 65-year-old Drayton Plains hunter, Stanley Streeter, of 4746 Clinton Dr., was reported one of three Michigan hunters missing as the 16-day season neared its end.

Another Oakland County resident, Jack Workman, of Clarkston, walked into a hunting camp Wednesday, ending a 33-hour search for the 75-year-old hunter.

In addition to Streeter, Floyd Iverson, 42, of Vanmeer, and Lawrence Springer (age and address unknown), were reported missing.

Two more hunters were shot to death yesterday bringing the total to eight that have died from gunfire. In addition, 11 have died from heart attacks. One hunter was reported murdered.

Ten fatal hunting accidents were recorded last year and eight hunters died of gunshot wounds in 1954.

The season closes Friday, Nov. 30.

46 Cars Vandalized at International Show

Damage to the cars was estimated at $50,000.

Charles H. Elmendorf, manager of the show, said that some of the cars — including a $25,000 Rolls Royce — were so badly damaged that they may have to be shipped back to the manufacturer for repairs.

Investigators theorized that the vandals hid in the Pan Pacific auditorium at show closing time and committed the vandalism during the night. The show is continuing.

3 States Buried in Snow Driven by Lake Winds

Pennsylvania, Ohio and New York Dig Out of Enormous Drifts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A biting wind off Lake Erie blew a tumult of heavy wet snow over adjacent sections of three states Thursday and locked in highway and air travel with drifts up to 7 feet deep.

Like a buzz saw cutting a pillow, the freak storm—accompanied at times by lightning and thunder—dumped up to 26 inches of snow over a relatively small area in northeastern Ohio, western Pennsylvania and western New York State.

It virtually paralyzed Erie, Pa., a city of 130,000, where hundreds of highway crewmen were fighting Friday to reopen roads and streets. Practically all industries in Erie, including General Electric which employs 10,000, were shut down.

Around 2 feet of snow fell in Ashtabula and Conneaut, Ohio. They, too, were snowbound, as well as many smaller towns and villages.

Hundreds of travelers and hunters were marooned as winds up to 35 m.p.h. plugged highways with deep drifts and whipped the snow into zero visibility which halted operations at Erie's airport. Drifts blocking two main Cleveland to Buffalo routes measured up to seven feet.

Mayor Arthur Gardner declared a state of emergency and asked Gov. George M. Leader to send in the National Guard. The mayor called a meeting of all emergency units in the city to discuss the situation.

The main storm area ran along Lake Erie's shore 50 miles inside Ohio eastward into west central New York State, and about 20 miles south into sections of Ohio and Pennsylvania.

A similar storm off eastern Lake Ontario dropped around eight inches of snow in the Adirondack Mountains, also stranding scores of automobile travelers.

Pontiac Hunter Heart Victim

Marion Street Resident, Stanley Tominsky, 62, 11th Stroke Fatality

A 62-year-old Pontiac man died yesterday in an Iron River hospital to become this hunting season's 11th heart attack victim.

Stanley Tominsky, of 431 Marion St., died after being stricken on his way back from hunting in Ontonagon County. He was employed by the American Forging and Socket Co.

Also, a 9-year-old boy who went deer hunting with his uncle died of exposure in Michigan's north woods yesterday.

Mannisto and his nephew, Charles Mannisto, had been missing since 4 p. m. Wednesday. It has been snowing in the Upper Peninsula for two days with winds of 20 m. p. h. piling up drifts.

Mannisto and his nephew went into the woods to pull out a deer his uncle had shot. They became lost in 15-degree weather. Soon the boy was unable to walk. Mannisto carried the boy in his arms and kept on trying to find a way out of the woods. The boy died. The uncle went on alone and eventually made his way to M28 near Christmas where he was found by searchers.

Searchers went back into the woods in an attempt to find the boy's body.

The boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Mannisto, who also live near Christmas. He was a fourth grade pupil at the Au Train school.

Last year 10 hunters died of gunshot wounds in the 16-day season. This year's season ends a week from today.

The Thanksgiving Day victims were Harold Leroy Nash, 28, of Williamsburg and Thaddeus Paul Kunnath, 50, of Detroit.

Kunnath was fatally wounded by a bullet from the gun of one of his hunting companions, Walter J. Kubasiewicz, 30, of Detroit. He was dead on arrival at St. Joseph Medical Center in Hancock.

Treat for Prisoners

MUSKEGON (AP) — County jail prisoners had an extra treat with their Thanksgiving Day meal when Highland Park dairy donated the balance of its supply of ice cream before closing down its ice cream making operations for the winter months.

Wyatt Says Sherry 'Bribed'

Conclude Testimony in Child Cruelty Trial

A father's accusation that authorities had persuaded his children to testify against him and their mother concluded testimony today in the five-day trial of William and Ada Wyatt, parents of 12, who are charged with child cruelty.

Wyatt, 29, answered with an emphatic, "Yes I do," when Chief Assistant Prosecutor George F. Taylor asked him: "Do you mean to say you believe we bought your children toys so they would testify against you?"

Wyatt had taken the stand for the first time after two days' cross-examination of his wife, Ada; 33, ended. Their trial is before Circuit Judge George B. Hartrick and a jury of 12 women and two men, all parents except one.

They are specifically charged with mistreatment of one daughter Sherry, 7, who, according to testimony, has been burned, beaten, cut, and disfigured.

Defense attorney Milton R. Henry had moved Wyatt's charge be dropped for lack of evidence.

He also ruled out a defense motion that the jury go to the Wyatt home to view evidence.

Henry resumed direct examination to refute, he said, "insistent claims she (Mrs. Wyatt) didn't do everything she could for her children."

The father testified, after breaking into tears at one point, he had planned hospital treatment for Sherry, whose right hand was severely burned.

He denied a neighbor's testimony that Sherry had often been tied to her bed. Of scars on the girl's body, Wyatt said, "All children get bumps and bruises."

He explained his job as produce purchaser for a Pontiac super market kept him away from home much of the time.

"I had to work seven days a week from sun up till after sundown in order to keep those kids," he said. "I have to be away seven, eight or nine days at a time, then I'm home again for maybe two or three days."

Burns Jockeys U.N. Police Unit

Moves to Get Troops in Key Stations as Suez Tension Continues

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — The commander of the U. N. Middle East police force moved swiftly today to get his headquarters working but there was more delay in sending his troops to stations to reduce the danger of a resumption of fighting in the Suez Canal zone.

Reaching Cairo yesterday to take over his new command, Canadian Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns set about organizing a temporary headquarters at the Sumiramis Hotel on the Nile.

The U. N. force led by Burns now totals nearly 1,000 men in Egypt. Plans call for it to be increased to some 6,000. Most of the troops still are in the assembly area at Abu Suweir, an airfield behind the Egyptian lines near the midway point on the canal.

38 Car Crashes and One Fatality Occur in County

A Flint woman was killed in a headon collision in Springfield Township in the most serious of 38 reported accidents which occurred on county highways as the arrival of winter snarled traffic over the Thanksgiving holiday.

At least 15 died in auto accidents in Michigan during the day. A steady snowfall and icy roads made driving hazardous in every part of the state.

Pauline O'Malley, 24, was the only county highway victim. The car she was riding in was one of 16 involved in several accidents in the same area on U. S. 10 at White Lake road within two hours late yesterday afternoon.

Her sister, Helen, 20, was driving a car which struck a vehicle operated by James W. Fowler, 29, of 39 Tacoma Ct., an off-duty Bloomfield Hills police officer, according to State Police. The impact resulted in the O'Malley car bouncing into one of three vehicles which had collided nearby.

The victim died later at Pontiac General Hospital of a fractured skull and other head injuries.

Another sister, Margaret, 17, is under treatment at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital for a fractured arm and cuts, and their aunt, Mrs. Margaret McCraig, 51, of Detroit, is at Pontiac General Hospital.

Mrs. McCraig is in critical condition at the hospital. Along with rib fractures, she is reported to have a fractured pelvis and internal injuries.

Hero of the mass accidents near the intersection was Officer Fowler. Investigators said that despite a severe hand injury he helped the injured and directed traffic for over 30 minutes while State Police administered first aid.

SWERVED ON ICE

Three of the intersection pileups, one involving seven cars, occurred just one minute apart as cars hit icy spots on the highway and swerved into opposite lanes.

Two and three-car pileups were happening rapidly all around the Travelers, Take Care!

Roads throughout the state range from slippery to snow-covered, the Automobile Club of Michigan reported today. Highways north of the line from Bay City to Ludington, including the upper peninsula, are ice and snow covered. The remainder of the state reports scattered slippery spots. Ohio and Indiana are mostly slippery with turnpikes in both states icy in places.

Yule Decorations Go Up on Saginaw Next Week

That expected Christmas atmosphere in Pontiac will become more evident Monday when city workers begin stringing gaily colored lights down Saginaw Avenue between Auburn and Oakland.

In addition, green garlands and decorative bells will be hung on utility poles in downtown Pontiac as part of this annual tradition sponsored by the Retail Merchants Assn.

Readying Floats for Christmas Parade

Saws are buzzing and hammers are providing a continuous racket as hundreds of Pontiac area church members and school kids are working overtime preparing their floats for this year's Dec. 1 Christmas parade.

Gerard A. Poehlman, executive director of the sponsoring Retail Merchants Assn., gave further notice today that "this year's parade will beat all others."

* * *

"To date we have received the largest number of applications for floats than in any previous year," he said. A total of 22 applications have been received.

Churches are shaping their colorful floats based on religious themes like "The Three Wise Men," "The Prophecy," "The Star of Bethlehem," "Mary and Joseph," and many others.

The schools have chosen a "Toyland Theme" from which to pick their individual themes for the parade.

And the expected throng of Pontiac area kids won't be disappointed as Santa Claus will be there in full regalia to open the Christmas season in the area.

There will be five high school bands along with a combination of junior high bands composed of 250 musicians, providing the music for the march.

Some 36 members of the "Dancing Majorette" group will strut up Saginaw. The Detroit Edison calliope, troops of Boy Scouts, and clowns will also appear.

* * *

Capt. A. J. Largent, of the National Guard, will be parade marshal.

Physically handicapped children will get the best vantage points for the parade by contacting Dave Ewalt at the Parks and Recreation office in the City Hall.

Low temperatures hampered maintenance operations throughout the state, with every sector reporting slippery conditions during the day and night. The dangerous conditions continued today. Grand Rapids reported an all-time low of 2 above zero for this date as 2 inches of snow fell there.

Dad, Son in Gun Scuffle, Mother Shot to Death

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—Police said a 46-year-old Grand Rapids woman was shot fatally yesterday as her 14-year-old son and husband scuffled over possession of a shotgun.

* * *

Detective Louis Vandermeer of the Grand Rapids Police Department said Mrs. Alfreda Kennedy was shot accidentally. Vandermeer said witnesses told him the son, David, and his father, John, were scuffling over the shotgun after the father and mother had a Thanksgiving dinner argument. The gun discharged hitting Mrs. Kennedy in the chest.

600 Skaters Are Basis for Predicted 50,000

BIRMINGHAM — "The 600 or more we had yesterday at Eton Park makes it look as though we'll hit the 50,000 mark in rink attendance this year," says Recreation Director Robert Girardin.

He termed the 600 a conservative estimate of those who attended the artificial ice rink's opening yesterday.

They were kept in order, as they will be all winter, by two men skating with the adults and children, and by the programmer, Vivian Hoard, directing over the public address system.

Music played until the program concluded with a grand march, which attracted over 100 adults and youth and ended with skaters filing off the ice at closing time.

With safety stressed in urgings to keep skaters moving when on the ice, few bruises were caused in falls.

Pontiac Deaths

Mrs. Thomas Farmer

Mrs. Thomas (Elsie) Farmer, 94, a former resident of Pontiac, died Wednesday afternoon. She had been in ill health several years.

She was born in Avon Township on Dec. 29, 1861 to Peter and Eliza Butler Fox. The Farmers were married here in 1883.

Mrs. Farmer attended school in Rochester and later taught in Avon Township. She had been a resident of Pontiac 30 years and of the county all her life.

She was a member of the First Baptist Church, the Gleaners and the Berean Sunday School Class of her church.

Other survivors are Mrs. Zula Drake of Pontiac, Mrs. Grace Ross of Crescent Lake and Earl Fox of Japan.

Service will be at 3 p.m. Saturday from the Huntoon Funeral Home. Dr. H. H. Savage, her pastor, will officiate with burial following in the Mt. Vernon Cemetery.

Alex R. Mills

Alex R. Mills, 83, died at his home, 140 E. Huron St., yesterday afternoon after an illness of several months.

Born in Port Sanilac on Nov. 26, 1872, he was the son of Nathan and Caroline Proctor Mills. On Aug. 15, 1900, he was married here to the former Ella McDonell.

Mr. Mills, a self-employed plumber, came to Pontiac from Port Sanilac 60 years ago. He was a member of the First Congregational Church, the VFW, and had served in the Spanish American War.

Besides his wife, he leaves three children, Mrs. Frank Dodge of Bad Axe, Mrs. Ralph Gjelhaug and Mrs. Edward Cousinow, both of Pontiac; five grandchildren; a brother, Milton Mills of Flint and a sister, Mrs. Hannah Needham, of Danville, Ill.

Service will be at 3 p.m. Saturday from the Donelson-Johns Funeral Home. The Rev. Malcolm K. Burton, his pastor, will officiate with burial in White Chapel Memorial Cemetery.

Everett Humes Murphy

Word has been received of the sudden death of Everett Humes Murphy Wednesday in Oshkosh, Wis. He died of a heart attack.

Mr. Murphy, 70, had spent most of his life in Michigan and for a number of years was a resident at the former Hotel Pontiac.

He was formerly employed by the Unemployment Compensation Board of Pontiac, prior to his retirement as a claims adjuster. At the time of his death he was employed by the Ford, Bacon & Davis Gas Line Co. of West Virginia as an adjuster for the Michigan & Wisconsin Gas Line.

Mr. Murphy was born to Margaret and Carroll Murphy of Raleigh, Ill. on Aug. 19, 1886.

He is survived by a brother and three sisters, Lawrence E., Mrs. Faye Stricklin and Mrs. Mary Fife, all of Alton, Ill. and Mrs. Blanche Bowers of Raleigh.

His body will be taken to the Rodgers Funeral Home of Eldorado, Ill. where service will be conducted at 2 p.m. Saturday. Burial will be in the Wolf Creek Cemetery at Eldorado.

Clyde I. Pickering

Clyde I. Pickering, 46, of 167 E. Huron St., died yesterday afternoon in Pontiac General Hospital of a heart illness. He was ill nearly a year.

He was born in Harrisburg, Ill. on Nov. 20, 1910, to James and Icyphene Bridges Pickering.

A resident of Pontiac 28 years, he had been employed at Pontiac Motor Division, Plant 11. He was a member of the Zion Church of the Nazarene.

Mr. Pickering leaves his wife, the former Cleo E. Biskner, four children, Esther, Linda, Victor and Johnnie, all at home; several brothers and sisters, Floyd of Bloomfield Hills, Otis and Beryl of Clarkston, Mrs. Lillie Sisk and Mrs. Catherine Cozart, both of Pontiac.

Mr. Pickering's body will be at the Donelson-Johns Funeral Home until Monday noon when it will be taken to the Zion Church of the Nazarene. The Rev. Robert North, his pastor, will conduct the service at 3 p.m. Burial will be in Oak Hill Cemetery.

Baby Girl Sherman

Prayers were offered at 9:30 this morning in Voorhees-Siple Chapel for the infant daughter of Ben P. and Katherine Easton Sherman of 821 Melrose Ave. Burial was in Mount Hope Cemetery.

The baby was dead at birth Wednesday in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. Besides her parents, she is survived by two sisters, Nancy and Katherine; five brothers, Ben, Richard, David, Robert and Joseph.

Lake Wind Dumps Snow on 3 States

chill which brought freezing weather clear to the deep South and plunged temperatures 20 degrees below the previous day's as far south as Florida.

In Michigan's Upper Peninsula it was down to 4 below at Sault Ste. Marie. Snow there ranged from 2 to 5 inches, the latter at Grand Marais.

Lighter falls of snow with similar bitter winds and cold ranged throughout the Great Lakes and Ohio Valley regions, the central Mississippi Valley and the eastern part of the Great Plains. Flurries continued in these sections Friday.

Boston had a different sort of a freak Thanksgiving Day storm. A violent rainstorm knocked out utility service in 45,000 homes, toppled chimneys and broke down trees. Damage from gusts ranging up to 62 m.p.h. was estimated in the millions of dollars.

Alabama, Tennessee, Mississippi and Georgia had minimums in the 25-35 range — some 10 degrees below normal.

The chill was generally unbroken Friday east of the Mississippi River. West Virginia and Maryland had the season's lows in the 15-20 range.

Kettle Drive Begun by Salvation Army

The Salvation Army began its annual Xmas Kettle Drive at 10 a.m. today, according to Senior Captain Magnus Michalsen. The funds will go towards food baskets, toys, clothing and medicine for the needy families in Pontiac at Christmas time.

Kettles will be stationed at five major downtown locations in cooperation with area merchants. The drive will consist mainly of Kettle contributions except for one night to be set in December when Exchange Club members will conduct a door-to-door campaign.

Aid will be given to families that are not receiving help from other public and private agencies, organizations and church groups. The Salvation Army is supplied with a list of the families receiving such aid to prevent duplication. Application must be made in person at the Salvation Army Citadel, 29 West Lawrence St.

Automobile Goes Through Window, Injures One

Reuben A. Barclay, 23, of 1420 Mildred St., Lake Orion, driver of the car involved was not hurt but was arrested by investigating Sheriff's deputies on a drunk and disorderly charge.

* * *

Deputies reported the Barclay car careened 300 feet across the road and struck the house which is 20 feet from the highway.

He told officers he was attempting a left turn when the car went out of control and went through the window at 1210 Miller Rd. The home is owned by Johnny A. Turner.

Auto Skids on Ice, Young Boy Injured

A Bay City boy was treated by his family doctor for a bruised forehead yesterday after his father's car was struck by another vehicle on U.S. 10, north of M15.

Wayne Wardynski was riding with his father, Eugene, 32, when a car operated by Amelia D. Pritchard, 56, of Detroit, skidded on some ice and struck their vehicle.

Young Man Admits Slaying of Musician

CHICAGO (AP) — The killing of Jay G. Grace, a musician in the Wayne King orchestra, has been orally confessed by a 20-year-old painter and maintenance man, police said.

James Golden last night told acting Deputy Chief of Detectives James McMahon that he beat up Grace, 55, and shot him in anger when the older man made improper suggestions.

* * *

The nude body of Grace, a saxophone and violin player, was found Wednesday in the bed of his hotel room. He had been shot in the head.

Grace had returned to Chicago Sunday after being on the road with King's orchestra for seven weeks.

* * *

Golden told police Grace had invited him to his room after the two had struck up an acquaintance in a tavern.

McMahon said Golden was on a four year probation after being paroled from the penitentiary at Ashland, Ky., where he was serving a six year sentence for auto theft.

The highway that runs along the Gulf of Mexico from Louisiana to Florida is still generally known today as the Old Spanish trail.

Pinza Ceases Singing Career: to Begin Acting

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — Ezio Pinza, whose deep, mellow voice brought swoons from the bobby-soxer's mother, says he doesn't intend to sing anymore.

* * *

Pinza suffered a heart attack in Italy last August, but he said last night his health did not influence his decision.

* * *

"It is my desire and my intention not to sing anymore," he said. "I decided this during the time when I was in Fanny.

"Before I was taken ill, I decided to play in "A Very Special Baby," which opened in New York Nov. 14 and closed on the 17th."

Pinza said that after his heart attack the part — as the father in the play — went to Luther Adler.

"I have sung for 37 years, from 1919 to 1956, a long time," Pinza said. "My plan now is to get well. My doctor says I am ready for light work."

* * *

Pinza said he will do movie, television or stage work.

"If I find a nice play — a play I like — will take it."

Probe Arsenic Angle in Deaths of Three

HAGERSTOWN, Md., (AP) — Investigators probing the deaths of William S. Kidwell and his two young sons await new autopsy reports after finding traces of arsenic in the bodies of the boys.

* * *

He had been admitted a week earlier, one day after his nine children were admitted. Two of them, one-year-old Tommy and two-year-old Charles, died the day their father was brought in.

Shortly after Kidwell's death, State's Atty. Tom Kaylor disclosed the medical examiner's finding of arsenic in the two boys.

The father and nine children originally were believed to have been suffering from botulism, a disease resulting from eating spoiled food.

Find Man in Trunk

HASTINGS (AP) — Woolsey T. Thomas, 56, of Bellevue, route 3, was found dead Wednesday afternoon in the trunk of his car on the farm of C. R. Graham of Battle Creek, Rte. 3. Coroner W. R. Birk said Thomas died of carbon monoxide fumes and that he was a suicide.

Posses Hunt Boy, 2, Believed Killed; Plan to Charge Father, Grandmother

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP)—Sheriff's deputies and volunteers continued the search for 2-year-old William Henry Beaver today while plans were made to file murder charges against his father and grandmother.

The youngster disappeared early Wednesday from the family's three-room frame home in the Charley Creek section, about 20 miles east of Huntington.

* * *

His grandmother, Mrs. Virginia Beaver, about 60, told authorities she clubbed him to death because he "got on my nerves," according to Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Qualls.

He said the grandmother also told several other stories including statements that "another person" did it, that her son, James — the missing boy's father — was responsible, and that her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Beaver, 19, seven months pregnant with her second child, did away with the boy.

* * *

Beaver, 24-year-old odd-jobs man, told authorities all he knows of his son's disappearance is that the grandmother announced to him and his wife that the boy had "walked off."

Scores of searchers yesterday covered muddy creek bottoms and rugged wooded ridges looking for the youngster.

They believed even though he may have been alive Wednesday night, he could not have survived sub-freezing temperatures, a slight snow and strong winds.

* * *

Prosecuting Atty. Russell Daugherty who had Beaver and the grandmother take lie detector tests last night, said he would file murder charges today.

* * *

Searchers thought for a time late yesterday they had finally stumbled on a clue to the boy's whereabouts when they found a child's shirt, but the boy's mother said she had never seen it before.

It was found on the bank of Charley Creek about a half mile from the Beaver home. Despite the mother's disclaimer of the shirt, searchers drained a pond nearby and dragged the creek.

Boy Falls 70 Feet, Breaks His Ankles

DENVER (AP) — A junior high school student suffered fractures of both ankles when he fell 70 feet into a cavernous coal storage elevator. Firemen pulled Lee Gurule, 15, to safety an hour later.

At Denver General Hospital Gurule said he and two other boys were walking a plank across the top of three coal elevators when he stepped to one side, thinking the elevator was solid.

Burner Had Something to Raise Smoke About

COVENTRY, R.I. (AP)—Mrs. Leonard Fecteau finally learned why her kitchen oil burner has been smoky for the past four months.

Firefighters found the reason after they extinguished a flashback blaze in the burner.

They found that just inside the chimney the stove pipe came to a dead end in an inverted paint pot.

Suffers Heart Attack, Goes for Aid but Dies

* * *

He drove to Cambridge-Maryland Hospital, sounded his automobile horn to summon help, and was placed in an oxygen tent moments after attendants responded.

Windsor, 57, died one hour later.

* * *

The former Hurlock mayor was a milling company operator. He had been active in Democratic politics for many years.

Removable Object Meets With Resistible Force

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa. (AP) — A Reading Co. passenger train rammed into a 5-ton boulder today inside the line's Phoenixville tunnel. The train went on with a damaged engine after workers removed the rock.

The train was en route from Philadelphia to Reading. The company said the boulder apparently was jarred from the tunnel roof by frequent vibration. Another train went through the tunnel 45 minutes before the crash.

Could Be Love's Torch Started House Blaze

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Police today wre looking for a jilted girl to question her about a fire set yesterday at a rooming house.

* * *

Two bundles of newspapers were found burning near the room of a male lodger, but they did little damage.

Armen Bagdasrian, caretaker of the rooming house, said the lodger recently had a falling out with his girl friend and he believed she was responsible for the fire.

Tito Blasts Stalinists' Intervention in Hungary

To Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito goes credit for a speech many observers believe completely destroyed the myth of U.S.S.R. unity.

He has revealed a sharp division in the Kremlin with Stalinist forces holding out against any "democratization" of the East European Communist states. In speaking of his meeting with Soviet leaders in the Crimea Tito said they "had erroneous attitudes and defective views regarding relations toward Poland, Hungary and other countries."

With respect to Hungary Tito declared the use of Soviet troops to break the Hungarian revolt was "a fatal error." Looking to the future he added:

"It is still possible for those elements in the leadership of the Soviet Union to triumph by evolution who are for a stronger and quicker development toward democratization, for abandoning of all Stalinist methods and for creation of new relations between the socialist states and that the development in this direction will proceed in foreign policy . . . It is evident that these elements . . . are strong."

Tito showed courage in delivering this speech. He made clear that the Hungarian revolution was a revolution of the people against unbearable slavery and oppression.

By these revelations he presumably hopes to secure a victory for the anti-Stalinist wing of the Soviet Communist Party. Tito always has maintained that there are "various roads to socialism" and that national Communist parties should be free to choose their own.

The Geophysical Year

Landing of an airplane at the South Pole for the first time in history on October 31, directed world attention to an important field of research in the approaching International Geophysical Year.

The American plane that landed there was making advance surveys for a project to establish a base station. It is to house scientific observers and serve as a stopover point for ground parties crossing the polar continent. Hundreds of other observation posts will be linked in a globe circling network of scientific stations.

The extensive Antarctic program in which 11 countries will participate, will go into full operation in January, 1957, and continue through February, 1959. These expenditions, and American and Russian plans to shoot earth circling satellites into outer space are among the more spectacular activities scheduled for the geophysical year.

★ ★ ★

Scientists will measure the earth's core and crust, track the course of deep ocean currents, observe weather and climate and explore phenomena of the upper atmosphere. Solar flares and other eruptions from the sun interfere with long distance radio communications, produce the brilliant aurora in the polar regions and have other effects of great significance to man.

Important findings also are expected from studies of oceanography, glaciology and meteorology. These will contribute to knowledge of weather patterns and should bring about marked improvement in both short term and long range weather forecasting.

The plans to launch artificial satellites probably are of wider popular interest than any other projects of the geophysical year. The first of 10 satellites to be shot into space from Florida's east coast will measure only 20 or 30 inches in diameter and ewigh only 21.5 pounds.

But reflections of the sun's rays on the satellite's bright metal surface may make it visible to the naked eye as it hurtles around the earth every 90 minutes at a speed of 18,000 miles an hour. Its elliptical orbit around the Equator should make it observable in this country south of a line running from San Francisco to Philadelphia.

Reports of the Soviet satellite indicate that it will be somewhat larger than ours and move at a higher speed. It is expected to be projected into a polar orbit which will carry it in an ellipse around the Arctic Circle.

During the Geophysical Year's 18 months of intensive exploration, the effort will be to fill important gaps in man's existing knowledge of the earth and its atmosphere and to learn how both are affected by the sun.

As a rule a person who doesn't have hay fever doesn't have anything really serious to worry about.

David Lawrence Says:

We Protest Suppression Anywhere

WASHINGTON—Every now and then when American citizens of foreign birth or ancestry express themselves sympathetically to lands where they have kinsmen or sentimental interests, a hue and cry arises about "Hyphenated Americans." Many Americans without such foreign ties speak out, too—and they get critical for it as trying to involve America in foreign wars. Similarly, business men with profits to make abroad naturally express themselves for or against policies that might affect their relations with countries where they have investments. This too often brings adverse comment.

The argument most often advanced is that Americans sometimes put their own interests above those of the United States. What is often forgotten, however, is that Americans are not governed by the totalitarian concepts of suppression but speak out frankly in protest when human liberty is trampled upon anywhere in the world.

In fact, an examination of the platform planks of the two major political parties over a period of the past 100 years shows clearly that American citizens, irrespective of countries of origin or business affiliations, have expressed emphatically their sympathies with the cause of the oppressed in general and with the peoples in particular who have struggled for self-determination or independence.

As far back as 1888 the Democratic party's platform declared its "sympathy with the efforts of those noble patriots, who, led by Gladstone and Parnell, have conducted their grand and peaceful contest for home rule in Ireland."

Then in 1896 both the Republican and Democratic platforms came out for the independence of Cuba from Spanish rule.

SYMPATHY FOR BOERS

Again in 1900 the Democratic national convention followed the same pattern when it viewed "with indignation the purpose of England to overwhelm with force the South African Republics," and extended in the name "of the entire American nation," sympathy to the Boers "in their unequal struggle to maintain their liberty and independence." Also in 1900 the Republicans favored mediation by the President in the Boer war —a civil war in South Africa.

Only 36 years ago—in the San Francisco convention of the Democratic party—there were expressions of sympathy "for the unfortunate people of Armenia" and an appeal to our own government "to render every possible and proper aid to them in their efforts to establish and maintain a government of their own."

* * *

In the same year—1920—the Democrats in their platform expressed their "active sympathy with the peoples of China, Czechoslovakia, Finland, Yugoslavia, Poland, Persia and others who have recently established representative government and who are striving to develop the institutions of democracy."

Then came a firm reiteration of support by the Democrats in that 1920 platform "for the aspirations of Ireland for self-government."

In 1924 a friendly word is found in the Democratic platform for the new Republic of Greece, and a condemnation of the Lausanne treaty because it "barters legitimate American rights and betrays Armenia for the Chester oil concession."

Declarations in favor of Palestine began to appear during World War II. The Democratic convention of 1944 said:

"We favor the opening of Palestine to unrestricted Jewish immigration and colonization and such a policy as to result in the establishment there of a free and democratic Jewish commonwealth."

"In order to give refuge to millions of distressed Jewish men, women and children driven from their homes by tyranny, we call for the opening of Palestine to their unrestricted immigration and land ownership so that in accordance with the full intent and purpose of the Balfour declaration of 1917 and the resolution of a Republican congress in 1922, Palestine may be constituted as a free and democratic commonwealth . . ."

Dr. William Brady Says:

It's True, Certain Foods Are Natural Teammates

Back in the twenties, when Tony was a pup, there were numerous queries, Grampa said, concerning "food combinations." Many credulous customers of that era followed a diet fad which was marketed by a charlatan who regarded the combination of protein and starch, for example, as incompatible or in effect "poisonous."

It never occurred to the master salesman or his innocent customers that the Creator combined protein and starch in the staff of life—wheat.

Certain food combinations are more appetizing than others and probably more digestible. Thus bread and milk or meat and potato or a hot dog and a roll go well together, but meat and milk, do not.

There is a physiological reason for this. The gastric juice secreted in the stomach at the taste of meat is similar to that secreted at the taste of bread; and the juice secreted at the taste of milk is similar to that secreted at the taste of bread; but the meat juice and the milk juice are dissimilar in character.

Something like red, white, and blue. Red and white go well together; so do blue and white; but not red and blue. That is, not in my judgment. What do you think?

DIETARY TEAMMATES

Calcium and vitamin D, the sunshine vitamin, go well together. In fact one without the other is never quite effective in physiology, in nutrition, or in therapeutics, that is, the prevention or treatment of disease.

This does not necessarily mean that every meal, morsel, or dose of calcium must include enough vitamin D to insure good assimilation and utilization of the calcium in the body.

A good daily ration or even a larger ration once or twice a week will suffice, as a rule, but it is simpler to take calcium and D combined if the purpose is to correct calcium deficiency. In most instances this is the purpose, for the ordinary diet of Americans is generally lacking in calcium.

No matter whether you choose to regard calcium as medicine for what ails you or as food to satisfy the body's daily requirement, the effects of calcium are the same.

BUILDS BONE

1. It is essential for ossification of bone—or, as the pitch men say, to build strong bones and teeth.

2. It is necessary for clotting of blood.

3. It diminishes permeability of body tissues to serum or water —oozing, edema, dropsical swelling, and the like.

4. Necessary for adequate contraction of heart muscle. (Improves function of flabby, weak heart.)

5. Maintains tone of skeletal muscles—promotes firmness.

6. Regulates excitability of nerve fibres and nerve centers—"steadies the nerves."

* * *

Three glasses (1½ pints) of milk a day would supply enough calcium to keep an adult in fine fettle, though probably not enough for a growing child. Milk, by the way, contains more calcium (lime) than lime water does. Three glasses of milk would supply about 12 gains of calcium.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Football Fan Doesn't Like Pontiac's 'No Bells' Rule

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

This past losing football season for Pontiac High I was treated a lot better at out of town games than at Wisner Field. At Wisner field they told us "We do not allow people to ring bells." At least at out of town games they let us ring bells and have a little fun.

At Flint Northern, the ticket-taker told us, "Sure, ring bells." We had left ours in the car because of Pontiac rules. But you can be sure we went back at half time and got it.

A few years back they enlarged Wisner field and they still expect people to come and see a losing team year after year and not make noise, let them listen in on the radio at home. Let's get a winning team and then take the funeral drapes off Wisner Field so the fans can ring bells, make some noise and enjoy the game.

Wrong to Leave School to Hunt

I feel very sorry for the little boy that got lost deer hunting in the Upper Peninsula. I also feel very sorry for parents who allow a 13 or 14-year-old youngster to "skip school" to go deer hunting. Things like that are direct contributions to waywardness.

Events Set Solons Free From Pressure Groups

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
INS Economic Commentator

Recent events at home and abroad, including the election results and the blood bath in Hungary, should impart a sense of greater realism into American affairs.

* * *

When the 85th Congress meets in January it has an opportunity to convert into new laws the voters' mandate for prudence.

Both the victory for President Eisenhower's "dynamic conservatism" and the nature of the new Congress, with control in the hands of Republicans and Jeffersonian Democrats, should give the solons courage to take fundamental steps to strengthen the American system, undeterred by the demagoguery of pressure groups, which were deflated by the popular balloting.

The blight on our generation, which came from confusion as to whether there was something progressive in the Communist conspiracy, should be obliterated by the exposure of Soviet ruthlessness in Hungary.

* * *

This means that legislators over here need no longer be subject to an invisible censorship and restraint based somewhat on an aura of liberalism linked unwarrantably to the Soviet idea. Americans can hereafter be unblushing in their devotion to the U. S. Constitution, with its Bill of Rights, which is a pre-eminently humane and progressive document.

The Hungarian episode has revealed even to the least sensitive of observers the basic truth that not all change is progressive — that indeed some change represents a throwback to the barbarism of the past.

PRUDENT POLICIES

In practical terms, these psychological changes at home and abroad should clear the air for sound and prudent policy making.

* * *

Congress is entitled to consider economic legislation on its intrinsic merits, and no longer need be intimidated by the implied threat that soundness might impair a solon's standing with phony architects of some vague, brave new world.

The time is ripe to audit objectively the industrial relations act, the "progressive" features of the income tax law, sound money, and various other types of legislation.

The guiding principle should be how to strengthen the national economy, rather than how to cater to the prejudices of highly articulate special pleaders.

For such conciliation of pressure groups will not protect officials from public wrath if the prosperity structure decays. Good works — not appeasement of demagoguery — will be the key to public appreciation.

BRYAN'S AXIOM

The late William Jennings Bryan wrote that the American people are not interested in monetary and other economic "reforms" in time of prosperity — only in time of adversity.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Dr. Crane's Test Saves Marriage

Harry is a Chicago business man who was right on the brink of divorce and didn't even suspect it. But I was able to check it momentarily by my advice to his wife. Then Harry stopped it permanently by the strategy outlined below. At first, however, he cursed me and the newspaper, but we saved his home so his two children now enjoy a happy family life.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case T-329: Harry S., aged 33, is married and has two children.

* * *

"In fact, I have an appointment with a lawyer in two hours. But I thought I ought to talk to you first.

"Harry is totally unfit as a husband. He has never taken me on a date in the past 10 months, not even to the corner drugstore for an ice cream soda.

"He is also unduly stingy. Why, I have never had even a dime to spend since our marriage eight years ago.

"And he protests against my sending the children to Sunday school. All he does while he is home is putter around the lawn or paint and repair things around the house.

* * *

"If he devoted 10 per cent of the time to the children and me that he does to this house and yard, I wouldn't be thinking of a divorce. Harry is idolatrous for he worships inanimate things.

"He is always painting the garage or the house. I just wish he'd take me out, it only once, and paint the town red."

BEWARE OF DIVORCE

When I asked her if she had told Harry about her plans to divorce him, she said "No." So I urged her to cancel her date with the divorce attorney and go back home.

"After the children are put to bed tonight, sit down and have a heart-to-heart talk with your husband," I advised. "Tell him how you feel.

"Then let him rate himself on my 'Test for a Good Husband.' You can take an extra copy and rate him thereon, too. But at least give him a chance, if only for the sake of your two youngsters."

Well, she was reluctant to do so but I insisted, so she cancelled her divorce appointment and went home.

* * *

She followed my advice. And for the first time in her life, she saw her husband break down and cry while she explained she had planned a divorce.

Then she rated him on that "Test for a Good Husband." It contains the 50 commonest faults of modern husbands, as well as their 50 most frequent assets or virtues.

On her rating, Harry ended with a "Very Poor" classification. Oddly enough, even on his own rating of himself (and men tend to credit themselves with extra merits), he still came out with a "Poor" standing.

So he cursed and tore up the tests and tossed the fragments into the waste basket. He damned psychologists and psychiatrists in general and me in particular.

But later that night his wife found that he was still downstairs so she tiptoed to the head of the stairway.

And there she saw Harry, kneeling on the parlor rug, and with the wastebasket upside down! He was piecing together the torn fragments of that "Test for a Good Husband."

For he realized it told him the truth, even though, like the typical male, he wouldn't admit his mistakes in front of his wife.

And he made a very remarkable change! He started taking his wife on one date per week. He joined the church and took his children to Sunday school.

He even turned the entire pay check over to her beginning the next week! And he began to pay more attention to child psychology.

Not all husbands make such a dramatic right-about-face, but Harry did. And within six months, he had won his wife and had her more in love with him than during their original courtship. For love can be re-developed if you faithfully follow the surefire formula.

It is contained in my "Tests for Husbands and Wives." Send for your copy enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents.

Why injure your children and yourselves by a divorce, when you can soon learn how to be a successful husband and father?

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 9c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Killed in Car Chase: Identified as Ex-Con

COLDWATER, Mich. (AP)—A motorist, fatally injured Wednesday when his car overturned while trying to elude state police in an 90 mile an hour chase, has been identified as an ex-convict, released from prison only two days before his death.

He was Donald Hayes, 25, of Chicago, who was paroled from Terre Hause, Ind. prison Monday, according to state police.

Police said the car he was driving had been stolen in Chicago Tuesday. Hayes had several hundred dollars in cash and checks on his person and the trunk of the car was loaded with valuable camera equipment, police said.

The identity was established through fingerprints.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Billie Cravaacks has divorced Harvey — again.

"He dragged me by the hair of my head through the house," she testified Wednesday in getting her second divorce.

Harvey pulled her from the shower and threw her out of the house nude, and later he also pushed her out of their car on a busy freeway, she added.

When the Cravaacks appeared in Domestic Relations Court a year ago, Harvey, 48, related that he once awoke to find his wife "scratching on my Adam's apple with an icepick." Billie, 37, claimed then that Harvey had to poison their swimming pool.

Exemption Granted From Provisions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) has granted an exemption from provisions of the holding company act to the Ford Motor Co., and its power-producing subsidiary Henry Ford & Son, Inc.

* * *

Ford & Son owns and operates an electric generating plant on Green Island, N.Y. The application for exemption said the firm sells substantially all the energy it produces to the Ford Motor Plant on the island. Ford Motor, however, re-sells a minor part of the power to Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. as surplus energy.

SEC said Ford Motor paid its subsidiary between $135,211 and $153,282 yearly the last five years for power, while it received between $11,737 and $21,926 from Niagara power for the surplus energy.

Budapest Union, Premier Reach Partial Agreement

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—The government-controlled Budapest radio claimed today that the Budapest Workers' Council had called off its strike after "partial agreement" with the government of Soviet-backed Premier Janos Kadar.

The council called the strike Wednesday when Russian troops and Hungarian police kept it from meeting in the Budapest Sports Hall.

The strike call had little effect on the labor situation since a majority of Hungarian workers already were on strike. They are making a last-ditch effort to win concessions from the government in the face of Soviet guns and food and fuel shortages.

* * *

The "partial agreement" mentioned in the broadcast listed none of the strikers' main demands. These include withdrawal of the Russian troops and the return to power of Imre Nagy, a "nationalist" Communist who became premier briefly after the bloody anti-Soviet revolt erupted.

Once before the workers' leaders called off the original strike. The workers switched to a sit-down.

A later broadcast confirmed a Yugoslav announcement that Nagy and several of his followers had left their sanctuary in the Yugoslav Embassy in Budapest and returned to their homes. The radio said the group left after guarantees were given they would not be persecuted.

* * *

Nagy entered the embassy Nov. 4 when Russian tanks, which had withdrawn from the Hungarian capital, returned to crush the revolt which had installed him. Nagy had promised free elections, negotiations to get the Russian troops out of Hungary and withdrawal from the Warsaw Pact.

Although Nagy and his associates apparently were not molested, a report from Budapest said a secretary of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, Father Egon Turchany, was arrested as he tried to leave Hungary in an automobile with an American newsman.

Reports of Soviet deportations of rebels continued to filter out of Hungary, despite government denials.

The New York Times, in a dispatch from Vienna, said Gen. Ivan A. Serov, Russia's state security chief, was reported in Budapest to take charge of the deportations.

* * *

The dispatch said that Serov reportedly flew in five days ago to direct Soviet forces and a branch of the Hungarian secret police headed by Maj. Gen. Laszlo Piros in the deportations. Piros had been reported among the Stalinists ousted by the Hungarian Communists from their Politburo last week. The Hungarian Foreign Ministry claimed that "no Soviet delegation or Soviet statesmen" had been in Hungary since Nov. 4.

Austria was swamped by the influx of Hungarian refugees despite efforts by the Kadar government and the Russians to seal off the escape routes. Dr. Bruno Kreisky, state secretary in the Austrian Foreign Ministry, said:

"We have now received more than 60,000 refugees, and we just can't handle this thing any longer."

* * *

The International Committee for European Migration said the 10,000th Hungarian refugee had left Austria. The Austrian government pleaded with the Western countries to cut red tape.

West Germany, which had planned to admit 3,000 refugees, has removed all restrictions on the inflow.

* * *

There was no indication the United States would step up its daily intake of two planeloads, about 150 persons.

* * *

Austrian reporters who returned from what they called "a horrible night at the border" said Russian soldiers shot at least 20 Hungarian refugees during the night.

* * *

"I saw three Hungarians mowed down before my eyes," one reporter said.

* * *

The Russians in the area, adjoining Lake Neusiedlersee, had blown up a main bridge spanning a canal near the border. But refugees jumped into the cold water and swam across.

Then, the Austrians said, the Russians began shooting into groups of refugees or at individual refugees.

Nagy, Pals Arrested?

BELGRADE (AP) — Yugoslavia protested to Hungary today that Imre Nagy and his associates who left the Yugoslav Embassy in Budapest yesterday under guarantees of safety have not returned to their homes. The Yugoslav announcement said nothing about their fate but the protest indicates this country fears they are under arrest.

Blame Ice for Crash That Injured Six

Two persons were hospitalized and four others hurt in a two-car collision on icy Grass road, White Lake Township, yesterday.

Herman Merglewski, 20, of 2705 Ormand Rd., Milford, and Frank Chaffin, 18, of 224 Hospital Rd., Waterford Township, the drivers are both in "good" condition at Pontiac General Hospital.

Treated for cuts and bruises were: Jimmy J. Chaffin, 20, also of 224 Hospital Rd., Edgar D. Perkins, 19, of 7415 Pershing Dr., Waterford Township, and twins, David L. and Donald L. Liddy, 17, of 6751 Mather St., Waterford Township.

Oakland County Sheriff's deputies reported the cars collided at the top of a hill. They said both drivers blamed the narrow road and bad weather conditions for the crash.

India Train Crashes

BOMBAY (AP)—A passenger express train plunged from a flood-weakened embankment in South India today. Seven hours later 68 bodies had been recovered. Fifty persons were reported injured.

Two Autos Collide

Karl and Marie Heitjan, 3680 Cresthaven St., received minor injuries yesterday in an accident at Elizabeth Lake road and Winding drive. Their car collided with one driven by Richard Morin, 4115 Fenmore St. The Heitjans were treated and released from Pontiac General Hospital.

Librarians of State to Meet in Waterford

Waterford Township High School will be the scene of the annual winter meeting of the Michigan Assn. of School Librarians, Dec. 1.

A record number of librarians, school administrators, and teachers from the state are expected to attend the all-day session which will open at 9:30 and close at 3:30.

* * *

The morning session will include discussion periods on school library service problems such as recruiting, handling of audio-visual aids, building plans and elementary library service.

* * *

Educators from Michigan State University, University of Michigan, Wayne University, Eastern Michigan College are among the group expected to attend.

Four Slightly Hurt in Skid-Collision

Slippery conditions were blamed for a two-car collision which resulted in four injuries on Opdyke road, one half mile north of Auburn Avenue in Avon Township Thursday.

* * *

Terry Spencer, 8, and his sister, Jill, 5, of 2730 Glenrose, Avon Township, are both under treatment for minor injuries at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

* * *

Released by the hospital after treatment were the drivers, Mrs. Janet Spencer, 28, and Hubert J. Sargent, 30, of 2616 Leach Rd., Avon Township.

* * *

Mrs. Spencer told investigators she skidded on a hilltop to the wrong side of the road and collided with the other vehicle. Sargent said he saw the other car coming and pulled over against the guardrail but was still hit.

Oklahoma Adopts Texas Bragging Tactics

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NORMAN, Okla. (INS)—It had never occurred to us until now that one of the smartest accessories for the house and lawn is an attractive oil well.

* * *

"Now you may laugh," said this native Oklahoman who was driving around the suburbs, pointing out the decorative little derricks in all the better backyards, "but we think an oil well is every bit as pretty to look upon as one of your crying willow trees or birdbaths back East.

"It's comforting to look out your window in the morning and see that big, stately monument standing out there in the sun. You can get to feel real close to an oil well. It symbolizes Oklahoma!"

* * *

It symbolizes a great many other nice, comfy things too, but Oklahomans like to think in more lyrical terms about their oil, their Will Rogers, their Mickey Mantle, and their 49-year-old tradition of statehood.

TIRED OF TEXANS

"We have never been much for bragging out here," went on our guide, "but we've gotten good and tired of listening to Texas—that's the place you can see out there when the gushers are resting. So come December first this year, we begin celebrating our 50th birthday.

* * *

"Gol dang it (you'll excuse me using some cuss words, I'm excited), we're come to the place where we've got to boast . . . in a modest way of course."

After all, he went on, leading us to a comfortable lawn chair in the shade of a becalmed gusher derrick, what does Texas have except a yellow rose? And Neiman-Marcus?

"But look at Oklahoma. We are way out in front of the rest of the whole blasted country in broomcorn, mung beans, hairy vetch seed, fresh water fishing, impeached governors, cowboy movie stars, quarter horses, petroleum research, lead, zinc, barbershop quartets and Indians."

* * *

While he paused for breath, we inquired, "and beautiful women?"

"Of course," he said, "beautiful women. Wealthy men, too," he added coyly, "case you care."

HARD TO DISPUTE

It would be hard for even the most proud, ivy-clad Easterner to quarrel the facts of Oklahoma life with this droll and debonair purveyor of the civic pride.

* * *

For it is obvious, as you squint across the flat countryside, through eyes weakened by city smog, and sight the tall, healthy people and the streamlined homes and buildings sparkling in the sun, that this is the land of opportunity.

"Only people who don't find opportunity here are the college teams that come to brush shins with our boys at the university," he winked.

"For explorers, we're right here to be discovered. We're so young that many of our most scenic spots are just now being set foot on.

"Only step easy and reverently, will you, because you may be walking over a million dollar fortune that somebody'll get around to drillin' one of these days."

'LIBELOUS BOOK'

Our guide pointed out that the reason his state hasn't progressed further in the braggadocio business is that "we were set back 25 years by that libelous book, 'Grapes of Wrath.'

* * *

"So we just sat quietly burning and raising our oil and hairy vetch seed while Texas was writing songs about their eyes and their deep heart and that smelly yellow rose.

"And then Rodgers and Hammerstein wrote that show called 'Oklahoma!' and we started to get steamed up. We're so born modest it took us 10 years to get up the gall to say we're the Best State in the Union. But now we want the word to get around—so go to it."

(Note: Miss Battelle, having gone to it, rather expected an excess oil well for her trouble. What she got was some of that hairy vetch seed, which is probably much handier when you get the hang of it).

Burning Oil Blazes, Covers U.S. Bypass

JACKSON (AP) — Thousands of gallons of burning oil covered the U.S. 12 bypass north of Jackson Wednesday — the result of a freak accident between two trucks and a car.

No one was hurt, State Police said.

* * *

It began when a semi-trailer, loaded with anti-freeze, bumped into the rear of an automobile. In the collision the truck jackknifed across the highway.

While police worked to free the two vehicles, an oil truck pulling two tank trailers slammed into the wreckage. Overturning, the trailers caught fire. Both trucks were damaged before the fire was put out.

Loses Control of Car, Dies in Snow, Sleet

HARBOR BEACH (AP)—Dr. Ralph Zelland, 53, of Harbor Beach, was killed Wednesday when his car went out of control and struck a bridge abutment.

He was driving alone through the sleet and snow that struck at this Lake Huron shore community in the Thumb area. Dr. Zelland, a dentist, was driving on US 25 seven and one-half miles south of Harbor Beach when the accident occurred.

In Poland

'Businesslike Socialism' Takes Place of Red Tape

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—When you liquidate the boss, who runs the plant? That's the question Poland is trying to answer.

Since 1948 the boss in Polish industry has been an almost incredible tangle of Soviet-style red tape. Now, with the economy at the breaking point, management and workers seem to be taking things into their own hands and racing to get production moving.

* * *

Zeran workers virtually grabbed control of their own plant during Poland's October rebellion. Their first intention was to defend the plant from Russian troops. Now they say they mean to run it in line with Poland's new policies of "businesslike socialism."

"If we wanted to sweep the floor, we had to get government permission first," one engineer said. "Any extra pay for overtime, any cash payment for some little extra job — all these things had to have the rubber stamp.

"Now we are through with it, and we don't want it any more."

* * *

Under present plans the plant will be run by a 50-member council elected by its 10,000 employes. This council in turn will elect an 11-man committee which, with one representative from the Polish National Bank and one from the Scientific Institute, will form the "board of directors." The plant manager will be the chief executive.

* * *

The state still will set the plant's annual budget and control wages and prices.

But all matters of plant organization will be decided inside the factory. Profits will be divided among the state, the plant investment fund, and a bonus pool for employes.

* * *

"Our capacity theoretically is 25,000 cars a year," the engineer said. "This is our best year so far, and we expect to produce 6,200.

Board Reaches Pay Agreement

Railroaders Get Raise After 72-Hour Hassle of Committee

CHICAGO (INS) — About 50,000 railroad firemen and enginemen will get the equivalent of 26½ cents an hour in pay boosts during the next three years under a long-term package agreement reached Wednesday.

Included in the agreement is a cost-of-living escalator clause under which wage rates will increase or decrease one cent an hour for each ½ point change in the bureau of labor statistics consumer price index.

First year wage increases, retroactive to Nov. 1, will be 10 cents an hour for firemen not on a five-day week and 16 cents for yard firemen now on a five-day week.

Second and third-year increases will be seven cents. The agreement provides that at the option of the union, the second year increase can be deducted and used for health benefits.

The long negotiations began Jan. 30, when the union demanded $3 a day increases, and went to mediation on Oct. 2. The agreement follows a pattern established in a contract signed Nov. 1 by 11 non-operating unions representing 728,000 railroad employes.

Iceland Reappraises Stand on Kicking Out U.S. Troops

WASHINGTON (INS) — Iceland appears now to be abandoning its demand that U.S. troops — assigned as part of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization — pull out.

• • • •

Washington circles, previously pessimistic, now hope that an agreement may be reached between the two governments for the continued presence of some Americans.

Comments within the island Republic indicate that many feel the demand of "Yankees go home" was too hasty.

The coalition government of Premier Hermann Jonasson has apparently also softened its stand in wake of developments in Hungary which showed that the Soviet "sweetness and light" campaign was only propaganda.

If a settlement is reached in the U.S.-Iceland negotiations, a serious breach in the Western Atlantic Alliance will have been averted.

ECONOMIC PROBLEM

Another factor is economics. The Icelanders realize that their island of 160,000 people will lose a considerable part of its income if the 4,000-odd American soldiers are pulled out.

The U.S. troops manning the huge Keflavik Airbase on behalf of NATO, as well as radar stations which cover the North Atlantic approaches from the Soviet Union have been in Iceland since 1951.

Last spring the Icelandic parliament demanded that the Americans be kicked out and a new government pledged to this was elected in June.

This demand was apparently motivated by politics, feelings of nationalistic pride and the belief that the Soviet "new look" was really that.

Under the present agreement American troops must evacuate Iceland by February 1958, unless the Icelanders change their mind.

New Congressmen May Pick Candidates

DENVER (AP)—New members of Congress may nominate 10 candidates each to compete for appointments to the third class of the U.S. Air Force Academy, Maj. Gen. James E. Briggs, superintendent, stated.

The nominations will be in addition to those made by lawmakers already in office, including some leaving Washington next January. They have until Jan. 31 to forward selections to the Air Force.

Spring Delivery Set for Jets

Big Tankers Eliminate Need for Low Altitudes in Re-fueling

WASHINGTON (INS)—The Air Force has announced that the first of its jet tanker planes will be delivered in late spring.

An announcement prepared at the Omaha headquarters of General Curtis LeMay, head of the strategic bombing command, named Castle Air Force Base in California as the scene for the first delivery of 4-engined KC135s. It said the training for their use is already in progress.

The statement added: "The 600-mile-per-hour-plus jet service station is expected to increase the capability of SAC's combat wings more than twofold.

"Greater speeds and higher altitude performance will eliminate the need for bombers to descend to lower altitudes in order to refuel from conventional planes."

* * *

The KC135 is the military version of the Boeing "707" commercial liner, which has been ordered in large quantities by American air transport companies.

The civilian deliveries, however, are not scheduled to start until late 1958, a year and a half after the first jet tankers are received.

* * *

Whereas air-to-air re-fuelings are now carried out at altitudes of 15,000 to 20,000 feet, and at speeds of about 200 miles an hour, the jet tanker will fly fully loaded at more than 40,000 feet. Boeing said both the military and civilian versions will better 600 miles an hour.

High Honor Awarded U. of M. English Teacher

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The highest honor the University of Michigan can accord to a faculty member has been awarded to Louis I. Bredvold, a Professor of English.

Prof. Bredvold was selected to become a Henry Russel lecturer, emblematic of the University's highest professional recognition of academic and scientific competence. He has been a member of the faculty since 1921.

Paris Is Caring for Refugees: — Fighting to Remain Anonymous

* * *

The speaker was Alexander Csuzdi, 23, one of the young people who went up against Soviet tanks in Budapest, and now is in a group of 96 Hungarian refugees being cared for in Paris.

Once a member of the Hungarian army, Csuzdi was among the many such Soviet-trained soldiers who went over to the patriots' side when Russia moved in to crush the Hungarian rebellion.

* * *

He told how the patriots, when they ran short of ammunition, used stones, rocks and crowbars to fight the Red tanks.

"When a tank was caught in a narrow place and unable to maneuver, the crew would open the top turret," he related.

"If we had ammunition, we'd snipe at them with our carbines. If we didn't, we hit them with anything we could find to throw—rocks, stones, anything.

"Molotov cocktails, when we could make them, were effective, too."

The blond, handsome youth, who served before his defection in a Hungarian tank corps, told how one Russian tank was destroyed.

"One of our band leaped up on the rear of the tank and threw a crowbar in the tank tracks.

"When the tank was out of action, we picked off the crew, one by one, as they tried to escape."

Csuzdi and the other refugees are housed in a Paris gymnasium temporarily. Among his comrades, there were others with stories to tell of the incredible fighting that is estimated to have killed and wounded some 100,000 persons in the Hungarian bloodbath.

* * *

"I was hiding in a school along with 150 other students," the boy with a crew-cut recalled. "When the heavy bombardment came, we all crouched in the cellar all night long. Then when things quieted down a bit, we sneaked out in the streets and joined student groups of freedom fighters, fighting street by street, using wrecked buildings as cover."

Nyalka said he had spent six months in a Russian prison before the revolt and knew firsthand what a Soviet jail meant.

"We hated the Russians and did everything we could to try to get them out of Hungary," he said with feeling.

"The students, particularly, echoed the discontent of the people, who were nothing but slaves under Russian masters."

A 32-year-old former worker in heavy industry, who wanted to remain anonymous, said he and his family walked 30 miles on foot from Gyor to the border—and freedom.

"Freedom," he breathed. "We haven't known freedom in more than 12 years. First it was the Nazis, then the Russians."

This short, dark Hungarian said he feared that if his identity were known his relatives and friends in Hungary might suffer.

He is luckier than most other refugees. He speaks French and looks forward to finding a job in a short time.

* * *

This is not the case for Csuzdi and Nyalka. Like most others in the relief center, they speak only Hungarian.

Csuzdi said his entire family, father, mother and sister, had managed to accompany him in his flight.

The refugees are now quartered in small private rooms, furnished with beds, nighttables, a radio and chairs. A gay note has been added by partitions of canary-yellow, pullman-type curtains.

On one side of the former gymnasium is a recreation lounge, equipped with a TV set and card tables. At the other end of the building is a dining hall, attractively set with flowers on each table.

Many of the refugees underwent processing for French identity and work permits in beach-robes that were issued to them.

A number of little children, five or six years old, tagged along after their parents.

Most of the refugees looked bewildered and confused in their new surroundings. They gathered in little clusters and chatted away in excited Hungarian.

Study Pay Hike for Civil Service

Board Considers Ideas for Salary Increases to State Employes

LANSING (AP) — Assorted suggestions for pay raise plans for state employes were under study today by the state Civil Service Commission.

One union group asked for pay boosts and fringe benefits estimated to cost 22 million dollars a year. Another asked for 10 million dollars in straight pay raises.

* * *

Special consideration was asked for state ferry workers.

The Michigan State employes council No. 7, American Federation of State County and Municipal Employes, asked for the 22 million dollars in benefits.

A three-point plan of salary adments was asked, including:

1 — An across-the-board increase of 10 cents an hour, effective Jan. 1, 1957.

* * *

2 — An increase of six cents per hour, effective July 1, 1957 "to keep pace with pay boosts in private industry."

3 — A five-cent an hour across-the-board increase, also effective July 1, "to help close the gap between state wage rates and those prevailing in private industry."

Space Traveling in Four Decades at 60,000 M.P.S.

STUTTGART, Germany (AP)—A German space research scientist predicted today that interplanetary travel will be possible for man by the year 2000.

* * *

Dr. Eugen Saenger told the opening session of the 8th convention of the German Society for Space Research that in about four decades man-manned rockets, driven by nuclear power would rove through space at an average of 60,000 miles per second.

Saenger visualized a number of space stations, to be established for interplanetary trips which would be "publicly accessible."

These stations may be set up as early as 1980, he told the 1,000 delegates among whom were representatives from the United States, France, Holland, Switzerland, Austria and Poland.

* * *

replaced by turbine and jet planes.

1960—Piston-engined planes will be replaced by turbine and jet planes.

1970—Turbine and jet liners will reach cruising speeds of 3,000 and 4,000 miles an hour.

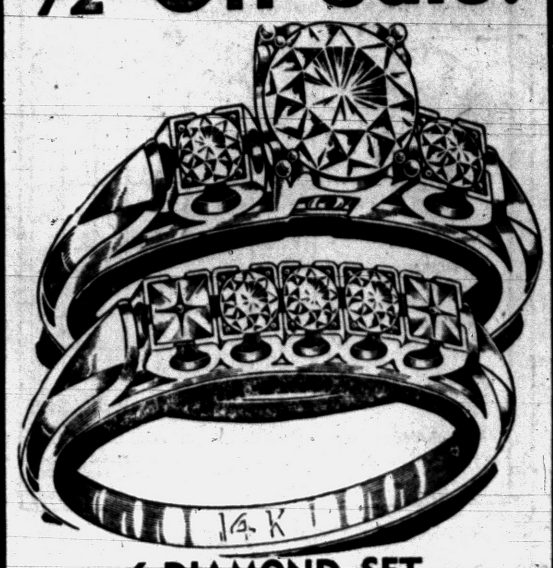

1980—Publicly accessible space stations will be established.

2000—Interplanetary space rockets, powered by nuclear energy, will be flashing through space at a speed of 60,000 miles per second.

Store Closed Sundays

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The United State Supreme Court rejected an appeal from a Pine Bluff, Ark., grocer who was convicted and fined for keeping his store open on Sunday in defiance of an 82-year-old Sunday closing law. Berlon S. Taylor had contended he was deprived of "equal protection of the laws" under the constitution.

THE BLONDE DIED DANCING

by KELLEY ROOS

Chapter 25

Mr. Apel was an affable man. He didn't disapprove of my coiffure. In fact, he looked mostly at me while he talked to Steve, telling him all he knew about Frank Stubbs.

He didn't know a great deal about him. Stubbs kept coming around for the next two or three weeks after his partner's death. But he certainly hadn't tended much to business. He spent most of his time across the street in that bar there. His partner's death seemed to have upset him badly. Before that he had been a nice enough fellow, not especially friendly, but pleasant.

The two men seemed to have had a going concern up there until a few months before the accident. The boys had fallen behind in their rent then.

When Mr. Apel came to think about it, the two partners stopped seeming to be happy together. Business must have been really bad at the end there, Mr. Apel decided.

Steve wondered if Mr. Stubbs had left any forwarding address.

He hadn't.

We thanked Mr. Apel and wished him luck.

Steve suggested that we have a drink or two across the street at the Ferry Bar. The place was heavily masculine, catering apparently to the dockworkers in the neighborhood. There was a free lunch counter, but its doubtful delicacies hadn't been disturbed for quite a while, the crackers not even dusted.

The long bar was gleaming, though, and the three sets of gay, shining beer taps made me wish I liked beer. Steve had a beer and I had bourbon and water. There were just a few men at the bar, silent, strong men.

It wasn't until our second drink that Steve got our bartender talking to us about Frank Stubbs. His beginning was a little discouraging, but then he warmed up to the subject at hand. He knew Frank Stubbs . . . Stubby, all right, all right. Stubby owed the bar some money.

"So anything," the bartender said, "I can tell you that'll help you locate that lug, I'll tell you."

Steve said, "You didn't like the guy?"

"At first I did. He used to come in here at least once a day. Sometimes with his partner, sometimes not. He never asked for credit then, never got drunk, all in all a good customer."

"That," Steve said, "was when the toy business was good?"

"Well, the partners seemed to be doing good. I don't know about that toy business."

"You mean it was just a front?"

"Well, now, I'm not one to go around pointing my finger at folks. They probably done some legitimate business in the toy and novelty line. But I think, from little things I heard, that they had something else going. Don't ask me what."

Steve thought about that a moment. He said, "The docks? The pier rackets?"

The bartender didn't deny this.

I said, "You mean the union rackets, Steve?"

"I was thinking more along the line of their being fences for some of all that loot stolen off the docks."

Steve said to him, "I'm right. Right?"

"I know what you mean. Was it after his partner's death that Stubbs changed? And you stopped liking him?"

"It happened slow. He spent more and more time here, less and less in his office. He had this lady friend that used to join him along about five, six o'clock. They got to closing up the place together. She'd try to get him to go easy on the stuff, but she usually ended up blind herself."

"What was her name?"

"Harriet was all I knew her by."

"She wasn't his wife?"

"I never got that impression."

"Did they live together?"

"I couldn't say that, either. I never did know where either of them lived. But this Harreit was crazy about him, I could see that. She was kind of a sad thing. All the time it was . . . 'Yes, Stubby, dear . . . yes, dear, yes . . .' To her Stubby was the brains of the world, a guy who couldn't go wrong."

"Was he nice to her?"

"When did they stop coming in here?"

"Six, seven weeks ago. It finally got so we had to close the door on them. It wasn't only his drinking. He'd try to borrow money from anybody, everybody, strangers even. Not just drinking money . . . fifty, a hundred, two hundred. People just laughed at him. Our customers don't have that kind of dough. Finally, he got to be such a nuisance we told him to stay away."

Another bartender, tying a clean apron on himself, had come into earshot. He said, "Who you talkin' about, Len?"

"That Stubby guy. Remember him, George?"

"Remember him? Can I forget him? He owes me thirty dollars."

Len said, "This fellow is looking for Stubby."

"Yes," Steve said. "Do you know where he lives now?"

George shook his head. "And a good thing for him I don't. I been around to see that friend of his, Harriet Kroll, a couple times. But she knows he owes me, so she won't say where he is."

"Where does she live?"

"862 West Twenty-fifth. At least she did three weeks ago. I haven't been around there since. I give up on the money."

"If I get a line on Stubbs from her, I'll let you know."

"Do that," George said. "And listen, you play it smart. Tell Harriet that you owe Stubby money, that you want to pay."

"I'll try that," Steve said. "And thanks to both of you."

862 West Twenty-fifth Street was a rooming house. Its exterior was shabby and beat-up, but there was a hint of somebody's pride about the place. The windows were clean; they had curtains. The tile floor of the vestibule bore signs of scrubbing.

There were no mail boxes or bells in the vestibule. Its inner door was unlocked. The hall beyond was dark and narrow. A feeble lamp on the wall table at the foot of the staircase was the only light.

"Yes?" a voice said.

"Are you the landlady?" Steve asked.

"Yes," she said.

She was a big, strong-looking landlady. There was belligerence hovering behind her flushed face. I had the feeling that she had called a lot of cops in her day.

Steve said, "Is Miss Kroll in? Miss Harriet Kroll?"

The landlady snorted and said. "No."

"Have you any idea where she is?"

"That friend of hers," Steve said. "A Mr. Frank Stubbs?"

"A Mrs. Clara Zeigler," the landlady said acidly. "They have a room here."

"When might they be back?"

"Do you think," Steve asked, "they might be drinking in the neighborhood?"

White Shrine Bazaar Set

Pontiac Press Photos

Checking proper placement of booths for the White Shrine 22 bazaar being held Dec. 1 at Roosevelt Temple are Mrs. Kathryn Quick (left) of Sheridan street, worthy high priestess, and Mrs. James McCurdy of Henry Clay avenue, general chairman. The bazaar is scheduled from 3 to 9 p. m., with a chicken dinner being served from 5 to 7 o'clock. Special emphasis will be placed on booths with Christmas gifts, decorations, cards and wrappings. Baked goods, needlework, jewelry and candy will be featured at other booths. Proceeds will be used for the group's philanthropic work. Mrs. Clifford Mossey is handling the sale of tickets for the dinner.

DAR Presents Good Citizen Pins

General Richardson Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, presented good citizenship pins at several elementary schools in Pontiac Wednesday.

* * *

The committee under the direction of Mrs. Lloyd Porter has organized Junior American Citizens Clubs in Bagley, Whittier, McConnell, Malkim and McCarroll Schools.

Thirty clubs with a membership of nearly 800 children are operating under the direction of their teachers and principals. DAR furnishes materials and handbooks in addition to a Junior American Citizenship membership button for each child.

Once a year the best citizen in each club is chosen and given the Thatcher Award pin. The pin is awarded for leadership, dependability, loyalty at home and in school, obedience, honesty, kindness and cooperation.

* * *

DAR, believing that the children who will soon become active citizens of our country should be assisted in developing good citizenship habits and be trained to use intelligently their responsibilities as active citizens, has organized JAC clubs as a national project.

The pins awarded at assemblies on Wednesday were given to JAC members of clubs organized last February. The JAC members choose three candidates for the Thatcher pin and from the three each club's director and the school principal choose the one considered the best citizen.

* * *

Pins will be awarded again in May to the outstanding citizen from the 30 clubs operating at the present time. Bagley school leads with 18 clubs including children from the first grade through the sixth.

Guests at the Thanksgiving assemblies and JAC ceremonies were Mrs. Harold Boughner and Mrs. Earl Ward, whose daughter received pins, and Mrs. David Blower, at McCarroll School.

The DAR was represented by Mrs. W. E. C. Huthwaite, Mrs. Gifford Andrews, Agnes Hilton, Mrs. William Kalwitz, Mrs. E. G. Clark and Mrs. Porter, who presented the award pins.

Gathering Held by Naomi Circle

Mrs. D. D. McColl opened her home on Dwight avenue to members of Naomi Circle of Christian Women's Fellowship of First Christian Church.

"Frontiers of Need" was the theme of the Tuesday evening program presented by Mrs. Hill Shanholtz: Devotions were given by Mrs. Morris Cucksey who used as her topic, "Show Us What Is Good."

Following the business meeting, members made favors for the trays at the Oakland County Tuberculosis Sanatorium. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Ethel E. Little YTC Greets 3 Members

John and Donna Pearon and Karen Lafond were welcomed as new members of Ethel E. Little YTC at the recent meeting of the group held at the Russell Shirman residence in Auburn Heights.

The group read and discussed the study book, "What About Smoking?"

Junior Guild of Church Holds Holiday Meeting

* * *

Zo Wiegmann presented "The Origin of Thanksgiving" to open the meeting and Barbara DeWolfe led the prayer. The group discussed the song, "Bringing in the Sheaves."

Portions of the study book, "Mission, U. S.A.," were presented by Helen Kinney and a book, "Gift From the Sea" by Ann Morrow Lindbergh, was reviewed by Mabel Smith.

Refreshments were served by the hostess at the close of the meeting. Mrs. Milton H. Bank and Mrs. Calvin C. Rice were guests at the meeting.

Explain Your Laughter to Children

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Because Pammy is 4 years old, her awareness of birthdays is as intense as it is new. When she heard that one was due for her father, she became so excited that she was allowed to help make his cake on the big day.

She turned the flour mill, put eggshells in the garbage pail, sprinkled shredded coconut on the cake's mocha icing. Somewhere along the way, her mother, supervising Pammy's activities, mentioned the cake's "ingredients."

Later at dinner as her father lifted the knife over his beautiful birthday cake, Pammy said with the air of someone conveying momentous news, "That cake is made with the very best inDEgrients. Mommy said so."

Her Aunt Chris began to laugh. "What's that you just said, Pammy? What's your father's cake made with?" she demanded. Then, straightening her face, she asked with pretended solemnity, "It is made with the very best what, dear? Tell us again . . ."

* * *

Pammy's father interrupted his sister to speak directly to his little girl. "You said a word wrong," he told her. "It's ingredients that makes cakes, sweetie, not inDEgrients. We never heard the way you said it before, and it sounded new and funny. That's why we are all laughing."

LOOK OF PLEASURE

On Pammy's face, the look of helpless bewilderment gave way to a look of pleasure. And she was relieved to know that it was a wrongly said word that had amused Aunt Chris, not something bad or ugly about her that nobody wanted to mention.

* * *

Little children often say things we find amusing. As this is the fact, it's honest not to try and hide our amusement. But if we're going to laugh at them, let's remember to explain what it is we find so funny. Otherwise our laughter becomes ridicule.

As such it threatens Pammy's self-respect. If we keep on laughing at her without telling her how she's amused us, she'll take steps to defend herself against our ridicule.

She'll start making herself ridiculous consciously and deliberately in the hope of provoking more laughter from us. By provoking it, our helpless little girl hopes to get control of the wounding thing. But she makes a show-off of herself out of fear.

Fine Dinner Is Wasted by Dieters

Hostess Advised to Ask Guests About Food Restrictions

BY EMILY POST

"When invited out to dinner in someone's house, shouldn't guests forget about their diets for that one night? I invited two couples to dinner recently. I do my own cooking and spent practically the whole day in the kitchen preparing an especially delicious meal.

"The two women were dieting and so ate very little of the food. I was thoroughly disgusted and very much annoyed. Isn't it inconsiderate of guests, after a hostess has spent money, time and energy in the preparing of a meal, not to eat the food served?"

Answer: It certainly does seem rude, but every day now we see more and more of this discourtesy. The only cure for this situation is to ask when you invite them if they are on diets of any kind, and, if so, will they please tell you what they can eat.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am employed as secretary to the president of a large company. I have just received an invitation from my employer and his wife to a tea to introduce their daughter to society. I was quite surprised to receive this invitation as I do not mingle with them socially.

"I'm afraid I will not know anyone at the tea and will feel like a bump on a log. Since they were good enough to send me an invitation, would it be rude not to go? If I don't go, should I send the daughter flowers or a gift?"

Answer: As it is such a formal and general invitation, there is no obligation to send anything and you can stay away without being rude.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Isn't it impolite to call to the attention of someone that she has a run in her stocking? I think it serves no purpose to bring this to her attention and makes the person very uncomfortable. What do you say about this?"

Answer: I agree with you because nothing can be done to remedy it.

Lydia Group Meets With Mrs. Buckler

Mrs. Lula Buckler opened her home on Rosshire court recently to members of the Lydia Group of First Christian Church. Mrs. John Graham was cohostess.

Coming Events

Viola Artist Will Appear With Pontiac Symphony

By DORA DAWSON

"What is the difference between the violin and the viola?" This will probably be asked when Paul Doktor, soloist on the viola for the next concert of the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra, appears.

* * *

The concert, Dec. 4, will be conducted by Francesco DiBlasi in Lincoln Junior High School.

The variants of the provincially called "fiddle" include members of the dignified family of violins: The violin, the viola, the cello, and the bass viol.

This group of bowed string instruments was perfected about 300 years ago in Cremona, Italy, by Amati. Stradivarius learned the art of violin-making from him.

* * *

The violin is the most perfect musical instrument because of its versatility and powers. It is the nearest to the human voice. The viola shares this distinction, but is tuned a fifth lower in scale and is about a fifth larger.

The viola is sometimes called the tenor violin; its mellow tones provide a rich filling for middle parts of a quartet or symphony. Viola technique resembles that used for the violin. It was somewhat neglected early in the 20th Century but is now being used as a solo instrument by musicians of the skilled stature of Paul Doktor.

The making of a viola requires the greatest skill for it must be hand-constructed and every one of its 70 pieces of wood must fit together perfectly, in balance, seasoning, thickness, toughness and flexibility to produce the finest, truest tones.

Ten kinds of wood, including maple, deal, pine, willow, plane tree, birdseye maple, boxwood, ebony and rosewood, are used, each in its particular place in the construction. There must be absolute harmony in all of the viola's measurements.

Probably the most famous viola in the world is the "Medici" Stradivarius, owned by Italy. It is 266 years old. An American offer of $500,000 for the instrument was refused. The first recital ever played on it was by Paul Doktor in the Cherubini Academy at Florence, Italy, last season. He received widespread critical acclaim.

Boy, Prince Together in Spotlight

Dutch Scholarship Awarded to Son of Late Newsman

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — A wide-eyed small town boy and a worldly, much headlined prince charmed distinguished persons gathered for the fifth presentation of the annual William the Silent Award for Journalism.

The youngster was Burton Heath of Thetford, Vt., whose father, S. Burton Heath, was one of 14 American newsmen and women who lost their lives in a Dutch airliner crash in July 1949.

Funds for the prizes were contributed by private citizens of The Netherlands.

Top award, a gold medal and a check for $1,500, went to Don Cook, foreign correspondent of the New York Herald Tribune, whom the judges selected as having written the best story during 1955 on Dutch-American relations.

A gold medal for excellence in coverage of international news was presented to the Washington Post and Times Herald.

William the Silent, after whom the award was named, is often called "the George Washington of The Netherlands."

Born in 1533, he too is known as the "father of his country" because he led the Dutch nation to independence.

He was introduced as a "friendly prince and a prince of friends" by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Bring New Glamor Into Your Life

Says Lilly, did you know:

1. That cologne splashed on your throat, arms and bosom after a hot bath not only makes you fresh and fragrant all evening, but firms and tones your skin and muscles as well?

2. That a butterfly - touch of moisture cream on forehead, cheeks and chin on top of your makeup will give your face a dewy sheen and cancel the "powdered" look?

3. That your face powder should never be chosen to match your skin, but should always be a tint lighter, as all face powder has a tendency to darken as it stays on the skin?

4. That when you are entertaining at home you should not only spray yourself with your favorite fragrance, but your living room curtains and upholstery as well? The effect in glamour is well worth the effort.

Husbands Are Sensitive About Getting Older, Too

By RUTH MILLETT

Men hate to grow old every bit as much as women do. But you wouldn't think it, the way some wives constantly make remarks that call attention to their husband's age.

• • •

Who doesn't know the wife who is always reminding her husband in front of others that he isn't as young as he used to be?

Who doesn't know the wife who thinks her husband's baldness is something to kid about? And he is supposed to laugh with the rest when she has her little joke at the expense of his receding hairline.

Who doesn't know the wife who thinks it is her duty to remind George that they had better be leaving the party? It's because, of course, poor old George just can't stay up late the way he could when he was younger.

• • •

Women struggle hard to look as young as they can and they are usually pretty coy about their ages.

• • •

Most husbands know the score and never, never say anything to make a wife feel she is growing old. They are even gallant enough to keep reassuring a wife that she is even prettier than she was the day they were married.

This is not because she is, but because it is a pleasant and harmless bit of illusion to tell her so.

Why aren't wives as gallant toward their husbands? All it takes is a little tact to make a man feel young instead of old.

Emmanuel Christian Holds Open House

At the monthly gathering of Emmanuel Christian School PTA, parents visited the classrooms and in some instances participated in actual classroom study. Each parent visited three classrooms during the Tuesday evening affair.

Concluding the program, girls in the seventh grade sang the Thanksgiving hymn, "We Gather Together," and refreshments were served by mothers of grades 7 through 10.

Fight Envy by Developing Talent

By ANNE HEYWOOD

Have you ever felt real envy? Unless you're an insensitive type, it's a pretty horrible feeling.

* * *

You wish you had the good luck. You begin to dwell on how, after all, she doesn't deserve it, she's not that much better than you.

Next thing you know, you find yourself almost hating her. Then your conscience hurts. First thing, you know, you're in a real state.

* * *

It happens a great deal more than we'd like to admit. While novels deal almost exclusively with the envy a woman feels when another woman gets a dream man, my work brings me into contact with another kind of envy.

It's the kind a woman feels when another woman gets a better job, or more money, or more prestige, or more creative self-expression.

NO ABILITY

"My neighbor makes all her own clothes. They are stunning," a woman will write me. "And here I am, with no ability at all."

* * *

Or, "Mary got the nicest part-time job. I try to be happy for her but I keep thinking, 'Why not me?' "

Or, "I try to be happy for Sue. She is the best cook. People just long for an invitation to her dinner parties. Nobody feels that way about mine."

It always reminds me, in reverse, of that grisly little maxim of La Rochefoucauld's: "In the misfortune of even our dearest friends, there is something not entirely displeasing."

* * *

The answer is not, it seems to me, to try to develop more virtue, to force yourself into a spurious happiness for your lucky friend. That requires a degree of saint-hood most of us don't have.

The answer is to find some talent of your own, which will enable you to shine. When you're expressing yourself creatively, you no longer envy the other person. In fact, you can be truly happy for her.

ORDINARY PERSON

"But suppose you have no talent at all? I'm just an ordinary person, with nothing I really love or do well," is a typical answer—and it's wrong.

I have known many hundreds of people. I have yet to find one without a talent.

It may not be a flashy one, or a self-evident one, but no human creature exists without something they can do well, and happily.

The clue is always in our interest because deeply embedded in each of us is something that really fascinates us. You just have to keep digging until you find it.

* * *

The first step is to face, absolutely and without doubt, the fact that you do have such an interest.

The second step is to watch yourself like a hawk as you go about your day. See what activities you really enjoy.

It may be something silly or seemingly unimpressive but it is the germ of your own particular talent.

* * *

If you're having trouble uncovering it, send me a stamped self-addressed envelope, in care of The Pontiac Press, and I'll send you my pamphlet, "Pointers to Finding Your Basic Interest."

She will be honored at a luncheon and shower to be given Saturday by Jane McDaniel and her mother, Mrs. J. S. McDaniel, and again the following Saturday when Mrs. W. J. Reilly will give a tea and shower.

Plenty of Brass Is Button News From New York

NEW YORK (INS) — You can give last year's suit a new twist this season simply by buttoning it in brass.

Brass buttons are marching up and down most of the new spring fashions, and the more military they are, the more fashinable.

Uniform buttons—the kind with anchors, eagles and flags—are a particular designer pet for spring. Running second are heraldic buttons—the kind that look old and have a crest.

If they're military, they have to be shiny. If they're heraldic, they're supposed to be "antique" and therefore dull.

* * *

The home sewer who likes her trimmings up to date will find brass buttons just the thing for '57. In high-priced clothing, they're being used most on gray or navy.

Cheese Buns Featured for Snack

Mrs. Elder Heats Filling, Tangy Mix on Hamburg Rolls

By JANET ODELL

What to serve for a late evening snack is always a question. Mrs. Edward E. Elder Jr. has a good suggestion, one she uses often for Sunday night suppers too.

Mrs. Elder is a young homemaker with two small sons. She is active in the county medical auxiliary and in her church guild. Teaching Sunday School is a weekly occupation.

CHEESE BARBECUE BUNS
By Mrs. Edward E. Elder

1½ cups American cheese, diced
¾ cup green pepper, cut fine
2 hard cooked eggs, diced
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1½ tablespoons grated onion
3 tablespoons ketchup
½ cup condensed milk
Hamburger buns

Wonderful Idea for Tots' Mittens

Young fry can have dry, unchapped hands all winter with a new idea in mittens—matching twin sets. One pair is warm and woolly, worn under the other made of waterproof plastic.

Both pairs are washable—and the plastic ones can also be sudsponged to wipe away light soil. These novel mitten sets, in popular winter colors, come sized for children and adults.

Check Washability in All Purchases

Be alert to washing possibilities when you buy. If an article is not labeled to indicate washability, consult with your salesperson or buyer.

Exercise to Correct Double Chin

BY JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q. "Please tell me how to get rid of a double chin. It is not from overweight but is hereditary. Should I exercise or what?"

A. In the first place watch your posture, then do this exercise: Stand tall and lower your head backward as far as comfortable. Keep your head in the position while you chew in an exaggerated manner. Rest and continue. This exercise is the best I know for this defect.

* * *

Q. "Are depilatories inclined to dry out the skin on the arms and legs?"

A. No, not so far as I have experienced. If this is true in your case, apply cold cream after rinsing the depilatory off.

* * *

Q. "I am on a diet and would like to know about how much I can lose in 14 days eating 500 calories a day and exercising for 15 minutes."

A. You should not cut your calories that much without a doctor's advice and supervision. He would not want you to do so unless there were some special reason for it.

This sounds like some sort of zany diet to me. Do not take a chance with your health. You would lose a lot but how you would look and feel, I cannot imagine.

Q. "I have written several times before but you have never answered in the paper. I do not think it is very fair. I am 18 years old, 5 feet 10 inches tall and weigh 138 pounds. Please help me!"

A. I would like to take this opportunity to say to my readers that I cannot possibly answer in the paper all of the question box letters. I receive far too many. Therefore, I try to choose those which hit a more or less universal problem or which have a lot of human interest. I cannot see that you have any problem. You are just about right.

* * *

Q. "Someone told me about a cream on the market which will grow eyelashes. I have forgotten the name of it. Can you tell me?"

A. I know of no such cream.

* * *

Q. "My two front teeth protrude. I am 20 years old. Is it too late to have something done for them?

A. No. See an orthodontist.

If you would like to have my leaflet No. 10 "Is Your Chinline a Pain in the Neck?" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Tomorrow: "Investigate Reasons for Distress at Middle Age."

Tall women, large or slender, can carry important collars and sleeves. Small women look best in small collars and sleeves.

The petite woman, whether she is slim or not, cannot afford to become submerged in a big fur collar, bulky sleeves, and too much fullness in her fur coat. The bear-like fur coat of 50 years ago did not know proportion to the wearer.

Bethany Baptist Women Hold Meetings

* * *

Reports were heard from chairmen of standing committees and plans were completed for the Dec. 6 Harvest Dinner.

Announcement was made of the Dec. 13 Christmas meeting with Mrs. Carl Bohn of the Crescent Hills Baptist Church giving the Christmas story. Mrs. Victor Lindquist will be guest soloist and Mrs. Milton Bank of Central Methodist Church will give a Christmas reading. Mention was also made of the Baptist Day of Prayer, Dec. 7.

Following luncheon served by the Ruth group, Bruce Daines gave a Thanksgiving talk. A student of archaeology for 24 years, he spoke of "The Landing of the Pilgrims."

* * *

Following the talk, the six group leaders of the Women's Society presented the Silver Ingathering offering in a candlelight ceremony. Elda Sutter was organist with Mrs. Martin Wolfe, soloist.

* * *

* * *

Lydia

Mrs. Harold Wert of Liberty street was hostess to the Lydia circle. She was assisted by Mrs. Mildred Londick and Mrs. Daniel Owen. Mrs. Earl Eddy was a guest of the group. Betty Hanley gave devotions and Mrs. Mark Cheney spoke on the topic, "Precious Treasures."

* * *

Naomi

Fifteen members of Naomi group met with Mrs. Gordon Eckstrom of Giddings road for a dessert luncheon-meeting. Devotions were given by Mrs. Pearl Carr and Mrs. Maurice Baldwin reviewed the book, "Missions, USA." The group sewed cancer pads.

* * *

Esther

Mrs. Walter Willson of Murphy street opened her home to the Esther circle for a dessert luncheon-meeting. Mrs. Harry Taylor gave devotions. Three chapters of the book, "Missions USA" were reviewed by Mrs. Clarence Myers. The group packed boxes for Mather school and Migrant workers.

* * *

Dorcas

The Dorcas group met in the church parlors for a cooperative lunch and meeting. Mrs. Turris McCully gave devotions and boxes were packed for Mather school. A silent auction was also held.

* * *

Martha

Plans were made to assist with the serving of the Harvest Dinner when the Martha group met at the church. Mrs. Forrest Brown gave the devotions.

* * *

Ruth

Mrs. Arthur Schutt of Ogemaw road entertained members of the Ruth group assisted by Mrs. Harry Garrett. "A Thanksgiving Prayer" taken from the Baptist Leader was read by Mrs. Andrew Pepper for devotions and several chapters of the mission book, "The Church in Southeast Asia" were reviewed by Mrs. W. R. Shirley.

Bob Considine Says:

Tranquil Irish Olympians Shun Politicking

NEW YORK (INS) — "We have a completely tranquil Olympic team representing our poor dear land of Ireland," ruddy-jowled, dancing-eyed A. P. McWeeney of the "Irish Independent" told us as the big two-storied Pan American Airways Boeing began to let down for Honolulu Airport.

* * *

"None of that sticky politicking about us," he said, looking fondly at the handful of Irish athletes lounging in seats about him. "We're small but select, and completely tranquil. Three of the men are actually from Belfast. A marvel of integration!"

McWeeney gave us a rundown on the brave lads. United Ireland has sent six boxers, two track and field performers, a wrestler, a yachtsman and a girl to Melbourne.

"The first ever in our Olympics history," McWeeney said fondly, his eye upon Maeve Kyle, A Kilkenny girl, 26, handsome, and mother of a 2-year-old daughter.

"A fine sprinter, Maeve," the team historian continued, as we watched the sleeping girl in the seat ahead. "Married a Ballymena boy. A pity we could not afford to send a field hockey team. Maeve's the greatest at that. Twenty-six tests!"

BOXING TERRORS

The Irish boxers aboard the plane ranged from 18-year-old Johnny Caldwell, a Belfast plumber who fights as a flyweight, to Fred Tiedt, a Dublin cobbler who is the team's welterweight. The Irish fighters have been terrors on both sides of the Atlantic.

* * *

The Irish team beat Holland, England and Wales by 9-1 scores, bested Scotland 7 - 3, drew with Germany, had five wins in five tries against U.S. fighters in the last International Golden Gloves in Chicago.

Tony Byrne, lightweight from Droheda (on the road between Belfast and Dublin), drives a truck. "A wicked, two-fisted fighter," McWeeney enthused. "The pride of Droheda. The town's people raised enough money to send him all the way to Melbourne."

Harry Perry, a "clark" with the Irish National Railways, is 23 and has been light-welter champion of Ireland for five years. A Dublin boy. McWeeney gives him a good chance at Melbourne, but Tiedt apparently is the team's pet.

HE'S A MARVEL

"Fifteen straight!" McWeeney cried. "Three of the last four knocked out in one round. A marvel!"

Ireland's heavyweight representative, described by McWeeney as a "character named Pat Sharkey," emigrated to Australia a year ago but will have no part of its citizenship until he fights for the Ould Sod just once more.

"None of the lads will turn professional," McWeeney said. "There's very little professional fighting in Ireland. We've built a fine amateur boxing stadium in Dublin by popular subscription. We've little truck with professionalism."

Two seats ahead of us, Ron Delany, who attends Villanova but will run this time in the 1500-meter event for his native Ireland, slumped at his ease. Ten men in history have run the mile in less than four minutes. Ron is one of them.

Incredibly, nine of these sub-four-minute milers will be in competition at Melbourne, and the tenth, who liberated all 4-minute milers such a short while ago, Roger Bannister, will be in the press box.

MORE HOPEFULS

Other members of the Irish team pointed out by McWeeney were Eamonn Kinsella, second best European high - hurdler; Sommers Payne, a Cork insurance man who sails a "Finn Class" cockleshell, and a fine broth of an Irish bye named Jerry Martina, a Dublin mosaic worker who wrestles light-heavies.

A soft sad rain was drenching the land. It was topcoat weather. A brave little welcoming group stood bareheaded in the rain at the foot of the steps, bearing two limp Irish flags.

"Dublin with palms," McWeeney said wistfully.

Ike Won Tennessee by Larger Margin

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — President Eisenhower carried Tennessee by 5,790 votes in the Nov. 6 election. This was almost twice his 1952 majority of 2,437.

There was a difference of only 192 votes, out of this total of almost a million, in the election night unofficial tabulation of the Associated Press and the official figure compiled today.

Stop Airline Strike Before It Started

Leverett Edwards, a member of the National Mediation Board, announced the settlement last night just 45 minutes before the scheduled start of a strike of the airline's 4,800 mechanics and other ground crew personnel.

Eastern operates in major cities throughout the east from Detroit to Miami. Had the strike become effective early today it would have been particularly hard on Thanksgiving weekend travelers.

One More Hurdle to End Cleveland News Strike

CLEVELAND (AP)—Agreement between publishers and the photo-engravers' union on a two-year contract still was needed today to bring more than a million Cleveland-area readers the three big daily newspapers they have been without since Nov. 1.

The newspapers, employing a total of about 3,100 workers, are the Cleveland Plain Dealer, a morning paper, and the Cleveland Press and the Cleveland News, afternoon papers. The Plain Dealer and News are owned by Forest City Publishing Co., and the Press is a pioneer member of the Scripps-Howard newspaper group.

Britons Grumble, Shuffle in Line for Gas Coupons

LONDON (AP)—Long lines of British automobile owners shuffled through the nation's post offices today claiming the first coupons for gasoline rationing due to begin Dec. 17.

The motorists were orderly, but grumbled at being cut down on travel because of the blockage of the Suez Canal.

* * *

* * *

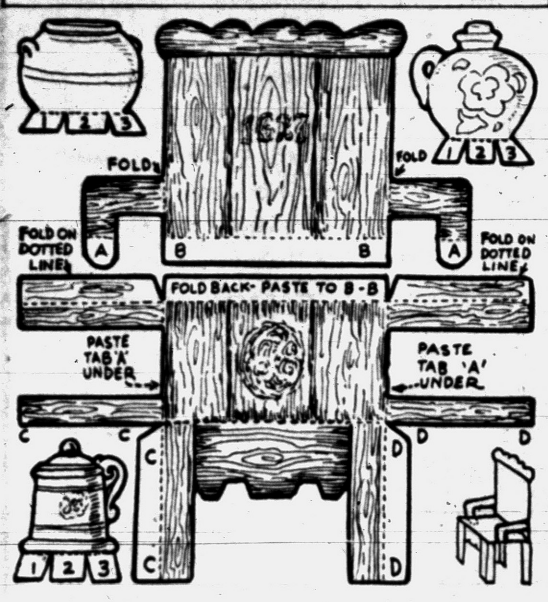

Tomorrow the government will begin handling applications for gasoline coupons from more than 1,150,000 truck operators. These may apply by mail.

More than 1,000 drivers and their assistants have gone out on an unofficial strike because the nationalized British Road Services ordered a cut of one in every 10 of its trucks to save fuel.

JUNIOR EDITORS

DOLL FURNITURE IN PILGRIM STYLE—5

A Big Armchair

In an early American settler's home there usually was a big armchair. At a meal this stood at the head of the table and the father of the family sat in it.

Color this chair brown with your crayons. Color the pewter tankard gray, the crockery blue and white and make the tabs at the bottom of each brown. Paste the picture down on heavy brown construction paper. Cut out the parts of the chair carefully. All dotted lines indicate folding.

Join the back of the chair to the seat by folding the tab on the seat down and pasting it to the strip B-B. Fold the legs down. Paste the top of the strips on the back legs to the strip B, and paste the front legs as indicated by the lettering, C-C and D-D.

Fold the arms forward and paste the tabs A under the seat. When complete the chair should look like the sketch at the right lower corner.

Cut out the tankard and the crockery carefully. Fold the tabs numbered 1 and 3 back, and the tabs number 2 forward so they will stand on the table.

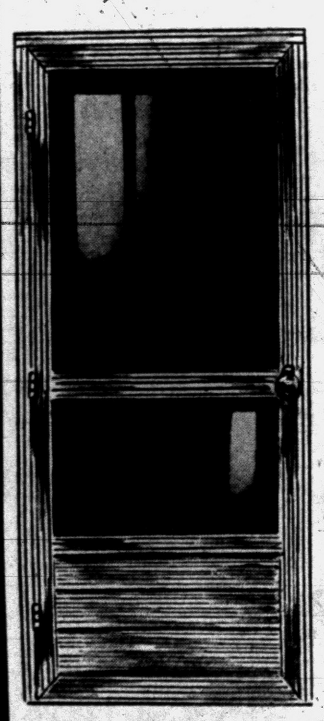

(Robbie Matthews, Charlotte, N. C., first contributed this idea. Junior Editors awards $10 for a usable idea so send in your suggestion care of this newspaper. Violet Moore Higgins; AP Newsfeatures.)

'Sleeping Beauty' Theme of PHS Parade Float

By JACK HENDRICKSON

Ron Hopp, Steve Stamis, LeRoy Crow, and Gerald Bodnovich were the carpentry boys who worked on the float.

* * *

There will be a castle made of black stone with white mortar, and a drawbridge across the moat. The vines clinging to the castle will be light green and cerise.

The A Capella Choir presented a special Thanksgiving assembly Wednesday, under the direction of George Putnam. Fred Vest was in charge of stage lighting, sound, and general stage management.

The choir began with "We Gather Together," and "O Sing Your Songs." Then the entire audience sang with the choir in "Come Ye Thankful People Come."

Kenneth Bogard sang "Count Your Blessings," followed by the choir in "Walk Hand in Hand."

Dianne Beach and Vickie Vandecar alternated, during the three assemblies on the solo "Thanks Be To God." "We Thank Three, Lord," a Meditation, was given by Sally Mow and the choir.

* * *

Putnam also said the vocal department would start rehearsals for the Community Christmas Concert next week. The concert will be presented Dec. 16, at 3 p.m.

PHS Debaters will meet Troy High (Birmingham), next week. This will be a Detroit Metropolitan League debate.

Then Thursday, they will take on Flint Northern, in a Saginaw Valley Conference meet.

* * *

The Detroit Metropolitan League differs from the SVC in that there are only two teams. Whereas, in the SVC there are six.

Pontiac leads the Saginaw Valley in points with 12. Flint Northern is right behind with 11. Then Flint Central with nine, Bay City eight, Arthur Hill seven, and Saginaw with one.

Girls' Volleyball Team Organized; Plan PHS Game

By MARGARET DRAKE

Varsity cheerleaders welcomed Sally Hildebrant as a new addition. Work has already begun on the classes for basketball cheerleading.

* * *

A volleyball team has been organized this year. Co-captains elected are Margaret Drake and Donna Pudvan. A game has already been scheduled for this season with Pontiac High.

Basketball practice for the girls' team began this week under the direction of Coach Joan Mazza. The varsity team has not lost a member of last year's successful team.

Seniors conducted an interesting discussion this week on various customs of their families during the holiday season. The American History classes have been conducting national discussions and have been laying special stress on learning the amendments to the Constitution. Two movies shown during the week were on the subject of freedom.

A new club of those interested in social work has been organized. The Rev. John Treses of the Archdiocesan Charities and the Catholic Family Center, spoke to the junior and senior classes on social work. This is one in a series of talks regarding the choosing of a career.

Thanksgiving vacation began Wednesday afternoon. Junior class held a Thanksgiving dancing party Wednesday evening. Classes will resume at St. Fred's on Monday morning at 8.

Schools Give Assemblies to Observe Thanksgiving

Busy Days in Junior Highs Precede Holidays

AT EASTERN

Music, speech and girls' physical education departments at Eastern combined their efforts in producing the annual Thanksgiving assembly.

The theme revolved around Lincoln's proclamation of a national Thanksgiving Day. A flashback showed the Pilgrims expressing gratitude for their many blessings in this new land. An Indian dance and music set the mood.

The Treble Clef (Girls' Glee) Club under the direction of Margaret Snyder opened the program with several religious numbers. The Ninth Grade Chorus, directed by Leonard Griffen, sang religious and secular numbers as continuity between the various scene changes.

On Saturday Mrs. Iris Ocetnik with her 9B Science group took a field trip to Greenfield Village and the Ford Museum at Dearborn.

The seven boys from Eastern who recently won Industrial Arts awards offered by the Ford Motor Company for fine craftsmanship for the second year, 1956, were entertained with a dinner at Devon Gables. They are Donald Chase, Richard Hovis, Melvin Seller, James Jones, Rodney Andrews, Randall Leinenger, and Steve Thompson.

AT JEFFERSON

The Jefferson Warriors, undefeated City Championship holders, are looking forward to culminating the football season with a Touchdown Banquet being sponsored by the Reama Club, a civic luncheon club of Pontiac.

Tryouts for the varsity and junior varsity basketball teams have been completed and regular practice has started with enthusiastic players. Dick Craig and Don Bowen are sending the boys through regular drills.

Frank Budds and Donnie Smith, special education instructors attended the Michigan Special Education Conference at St. Mary's Lake near Battle Creek last week.

AT WASHINGTON

On Tuesday a Thanksgiving edition of the school paper, the Tom-Tom, was released. Student demand for the paper far exceeded the supply with many people disappointed in not being able to obtain a copy.

Last week the Dramatics Club presented several short skits for assembly. These were very well received by the student body. The club sponsors are Janice Rivard and Kay Justin.

* * *

This week's assembly consisted of a Thanksgiving setting as established through songs presented by the vocal music groups under the direction of Faith Cook and Gordon Wilder.

* * *

AT LINCOLN

The magazine drive at Lincoln ended in a fever heat on Tuesday with a 27 per cent oversubscription of the school quota. Prizes and awards will be made to the winning salesmen. The funds raised from the drive will be used for needed school equipment.

Philip Wargelin, principal and Mrs. Morris Cucksey, PTA president, arranged open house Monday. Over 500 parents and friends of the school met with teachers and viewed activities of the school.

John Buchanan, head of the English department, announced rules for the annual Spelling Bee on Dec. 3-4. Each English class will enter two contestants with two alternates.

Comedy Marks Waterford Holiday Observance

By SANDY WHITE

Waterford Township High School's Thanksgiving assembly, Wednesday, was built around the presentation of a one act comedy "The Turkey Cobblers".

This was a Speech II project under the direction of Patty Looman. Those appearing in this play were: Ruth Ann DeGraw, Lyndie Salathiel, Virginia Valentine, Dennis Kind, Judy Boardman, Ron Willoughby and Nancy Richards. Barbara Hutchings gave a serious message on the '56 Thanksgiging.

With the Senior Trip Club's candy sale project closing last Tuesday, results show that 6,416 lbs. of candy were sold. Heading homeroom sales was room 119, Florence Day — teacher, and individual sales were Tony Zagraphos, selling 140 lbs. and Gary Page, selling 133 lbs.

Coming next Friday, is the Alumni vs Faculty basketball game sponsored by the senior class. Eight o'clock is the time set for the teams to come out of their huddles and onto the court.

Afterwards a dance is planned for all who wish to attend. Committee chairmen include; Diana Craig, general chairman; Julie Hickman, publicity; Barbara Tallerday and Sandy White, P. A. announcements; Jim Cote, tickets; Marlene Noe, dance.

Formed just recently at Waterford High is a Social Workers club. This club originated through the suggestion of the State Department of Mental Health and with the help of Frieda Hug-gett, Waterford School's visiting teacher.

This club, along with one in Battle Creek, was set up as a pilot study with the purpose of interesting more boys and girls in choosing some phase of social work as a career.

Mrs. Elsie Carter and Mrs. Edwina Isaacson are co-sponsors. The first meeting was composed of 20 interested students.

Officers were chosen and they are: Barbara Tibbals, president; Pauline Clark, vice-president and program chairman; Donna Dye, recording secretary; and Norma Sandoval, treasurer.

Nick Menghini accompanied 15 boys of the Senior Engineering Club Fri., Nov. 16, on a visit to Selfridge Air Force Base. They viewed radar controls and other mechanical devices of engineering value.

THANKSGIVING SKIT — Theme of a skit at Eastern Junior High School was Lincoln's proclamation of a national Thanksgiving Day. In a scene from the presentation which was last Wednesday are John Willoughby, Bonnie Plummer and John Palmer, all standing. Seated are Saundra Dutray and James Geaver.

200 Madisonites to See Cinerama as Sales Award

They are the students in the six top homerooms in the recent magazine drive. Additional students who were individually top salesmen will also make the afternoon trip.

Bustling Area Schools Plan Pre-Yuletide Days

AT AVONDALE

Avondale High School's debate team and other interested members of the student body witnessed a demonstration debate by the University of Michigan debate team earlier this week.

Vocal music director Barbara Le Beau reports that work on the special pageant for the Christmas concert is progressing nicely. The concert, which will feature the concert band as well as the vocal groups, will take place Dec. 19, in the high school gym.

The freshman class is planning a party in the school gym for next Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. A box social will highlight the evening's festivities according to freshman correspondent Irvin Gingrich.

* * *

"Erica Melchoir and his Melchior Marionettes" will be presented to the assembled student body Monday. The show, which features near life-size puppets, will take place on the stage at 9 a.m.

The second issue of the school paper came out Wednesday to the delight of the student body. Editor-in-chief, Will Janoschka and his staff report that the goal for this year is to make the Yel-O-Jac the best paper in the school's history. Bill Johnston has been named as the new managing editor.

Advanced sale of the yearbook started this week. The annual, which is a product of the Journalism class, sells for $3 and will come out in the spring.

Work has been completed on the school's alma mater. Faculty member James Simmons set to music the words selected by the student council last year.

AT CLARKSTON

The CHS Coin and Stamp Club is preparing a display of rare and interesting stamps.

The joint collection will be shown in the very near future.

The seventh and eighth grades of Clarkston High School chose their cheerleaders for this year's basketball season in separate assemblies, Tuesday.

In the seventh grade there were 47 girls and 3 boys who tried out. In the eighth grade there were 38 girls competing. Twelve cheerleaders were chosen from each grade.

The results were posted Wednesday on the bulletin board.

AT LAKE ORION

A campaign to rid the school of litterbugs is under way. Students are entering posters against the litterbugs in a contest now going on.

Seniors at St. Michael Get Measured for Caps and Gowns

By JUDY NIEDJELSKI

The students at St. Michael High School enjoyed reading the "Michaelite" which was distributed Tuesday. It consisted of sodality news, the whereabouts of alumni, club and class news, and the boy and girl of the month.

A movie entitled, "Chiropody as a Career" was shown to seniors this week. It listed opportunities, practice, earnings, and qualifications that are expected of those who plan to enter college to study chiropody.

The seniors were measured for their caps and gowns this week, a joyful event which brings them one step closer to their graduation day.

Tuesday, two brothers of the Xaverian Order talked to the high school boys on vocations to the religious life.

Basketball practice is under way for the high school boys' team. The girls are also organizing a team under the direction of Jo Rouse, their coach.

Senators Plan Filibuster Curb

6 Northern Dems to Ask Rule Change to Provide 'Reasonable' Debate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Six Northern Democratic senators say they are planning another effort to curb Senate filibusters.

The rule permitting almost unlimited debate in the Senate has been used in the past by Southerners to block civil rights legislation to which they were opposed.

Under the present rule, the votes of 64 of the 96 senators are required to force a limit on debate. Not even this method can be used to stop debate on proposed changes in the Senate rules.

The six Democrats said, however, they will move on the opening day of the new Congress Jan. 3 for a rule change which would provide what they called a "reasonable method" of cutting off debate. A similar attempt four years ago was beaten 70-21.

The proposal was one of a number made yesterday by Sens. Humphrey (Minn.), Douglas (Ill.), Morse (Ore.), Murray (Mont.), McNamara (Mich) and Neuberger (Ore.).

They suggested to their colleagues a 16-point legislative program based largely on the 1956 Democratic national platform, and invited also the support of "our 'modern Republican' colleagues with the President's expressed objective of remaking the Republican party."

* * *

Their proposals included tax cuts for lower income persons and small business, a return to higher rigid farm price supports, civil rights legislation on voting and educational rights, prompt federal aid for school construction, and elimination of the present formula for determining immigration quotas.

* * *

Other legislative proposals would affect natural resources, housing and urban redevelopment, social security, health, depressed areas, labor, atomic power development, clean elections, veterans and statehood for Alaska and Hawaii.

STREAM FOR FRANCE — C. P. Wallace, dockman for the Texas Co. of Houston, sets the flow of oil for the tanker SS Caltex London as it prepared to leave with eight other ships which set sail for France this week with a million barrels of oil to replace supplies cut off in the Middle East.

Liberace Is Victim of Home Burglary

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Liberace's home in nearby Sherman Oaks was ransacked by burglars who took an undetermined amount of clothing and jewelry.

The burglary in the wavy-haired pianist's home was discovered yesterday by a maid. Liberace is currently appearing in Las Vegas and no one was home at the time, police said.

They reported that a rear door was pried off to gain entrance to the home.

Hearst Denied Visa to Enter Yugoslavia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Publisher William Randolph Hearst Jr., traveling abroad as a representative of a U.S. Senate committee, has been denied entry into Yugoslavia.

* * *

A spokesman for the Yugoslav Embassy here said the Foreign Ministry in Belgrade had refused to grant a visa to Hearst. The spokesman said he did not know the reason. The State Department declined to comment.

In New York, a spokesman for Hearst said he assumed the refusal "is predicated on Hearst's published opposition to releasing 384 jet planes for the Yugoslavian air force."

Couple Escapes Injury as Blast Wrecks Home

FLINT (AP) — A Flint couple escaped injury yesterday when a coal gas explosion wrecked the interior of their home just as they were preparing to leave to visit friends for Thanksgiving day.

Three More Planes Due Today

Second Freedom Flight Arrives in U.S.

CAMP KILMER, N. J. (AP) — Freedom Flight No. 2 brought another 74 Hungarian refugees to America today.

They arrived aboard a Trans-American DC4 at McGuire Air Force Base in the middle of a freezing night and were immediately taken by Army buses to the Kilmer reception center.

* * *

The 35 men, 25 women and 11 children all looked weary and sleepy. WACs held three bundled infants in their arms.

Only a few newsmen were on hand — in contrast to the hundreds of press, radio and television representatives who jammed the airfield at noon Wednesday when the first plane carrying 60 escapees from Communist tyranny landed.

* * *

Brig. Gen. Sidney C. Wooten, commander of Camp Kilmer, greeted the newcomers. A group of Camden citizens, who had waited half the night, presented toys to the children as they boarded the buses.

The processing of the latest arrivals by immigration and health officials was to begin this morning after several hours of sleep in renovated Army barracks.

Two more plane loads of refugees — each with 74 persons aboard — were scheduled to arrive at McGuire later today. A fourth plane is flying straight to Milwaukee.

* * *

The refugees are among several thousand to be resettled in the United States before the end of the year under White House orders.

Ferenc Szucs, a 20-year-old electrician from Ujpest, told newsmen after his first American Thanksgiving dinner how Russian troops "used dum-dum bullets that tore people apart" to suppress the Hungarian uprisings.

"In the face of such weapons we could not possibly win the revolution," he said. Then after a pause:

Patients Are Calm as Hospital Blazes

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—More than 75 patients—20 of them infants and at least one in an iron lung—were forced from Blodgett Hospital yesterday when fire and smoke swept through the fourth and fifth floors.

Mary Patterson, assistant director of the hospital, said there were no injuries and "monetary damage was minimal." She said patients were "remarkably calm" during evacuation.

The blaze shot up through a dumbwaiter from the sub-basement. East Grand Rapids firemen and Grand Rapids police, aided by dozens of volunteers, brought the fire under control within an hour.

Evacuated patients were housed in the new wing and moved back to their rooms by evening.

Miss Patterson said workmen were using acetylene torches in the sub-basement to clear out obselete refrigeration equipment. She said it was believed sparks had ignited the cork insulation on refrigeration lines.

Rationing of Gas Causing Confusion

PARIS (AP)—France appears certain to follow Britain's lead and institute gasoline rationing.

Premier Guy Mollet admitted in a statement that the appeal for voluntary curtailment by motorists and others had led to a "veritable disorder."

Since the government trimmed retailers to 70 per cent of their normal supplies following the Suez crisis, long lines of motorists have been lining up at gas stations.

Stations have quickly sold their daily allowances and then shut down. Doctors and other "priority" users have complained they can't get gas.

Mollet again appealed for the population to voluntarily cut their consumption. He warned that if this doesn't prove effective the government will have to act quickly.

As in Britain, ration books are already prepared in France.

Garner Observes 88th Birthday; Not 'FDR's Holiday'

UVALDE, Tex. (AP)—Former Vice President John Nance Garner quietly celebrated his 88th birthday yesterday.

He didn't even observe Thanksgiving. Garner's only child, Tully, a Uvalde banker, said the Garners will celebrate Thanksgiving next Thursday. He quoted his father as saying "in Texas, it (Thanksgiving) is the last Thursday."

Tully called yesterday "Roosevelt's Thanksgiving."

The late Franklin D. Roosevelt proclaimed the early Thanksgiving in 1939. Garner served two terms under Roosevelt, then split with him over the third term issue.

Still spry and in good health, Garner has lived here since 1940, tending his chickens and his pecan trees.

Eisenhower Joins Family for Dinner

* * *

He heard the minister declare the spirit of freedom will never be extinguished by Russian "tyranny or tanks."

From the late morning services at the National Presbyterian Church here the President and Mrs. Eisenhower motored across the Potomac River to the home o ftheir son and daughter-in-law, Army Major and Mrs. John Eisenhower at Fort Belvoir, Va.

* * *

Waiting for them there were the four grandchildren of the Chief Executive and the first lady—David, 8, Barbara Anne, 7, Susan, 4, and Mary Jean, 11 months.

Finds Parents: Result Brings Unhappy Holiday

NEW YORK (AP)—What was to have been a happy Thanksgiving feast turned into a double tragedy for John Sarno, a Brooklyn barber.

Sarno's parents had been invited for a turkey dinner. Sarno had not seen them for several days, and he became worried when they failed to show up yesterday.

He went to the apartment of Jack Sarno, 65, and Lucy Sarno, 72. The door was locked. A neighbor helped him force it open.

Inside the apartment were the bodies of the elder Sarnos. A gas heater had exhausted all the oxygen in the tightly shut apartment.

Police said the couple had been dead about three days.

Lions Schedule Biggest Christmastime Party

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP—This community's biggest Christmas party is being planned by the Lions Club for Dec. 16. It will be held at the CAI Building, 5640 Williams Lake Rd., and all youngsters under eleven years of age and residing in the township are to be invited, according to Duane Johnson, Lions Club president.

Seymour Karp, chairman for the event, and his assistant, Mel D. Hale, plan to issue invitations through the schools. They expect some 3,000 youngsters to attend the party, which is to be divided into three parts, or shows, to be held at 2 p.m. 3 p.m. and 4 p.m.

Each show will include carol singing with accordion accompaniment, several stage acts, and a gift from Santa for each youngster.

Every one of the 29 Lions Club members is working on the project, says Karp, and they hope to enlist the help of many other adults in the township. He also said that voluntary donations of gifts will be accepted but that the Lions Club plans no soliciting. He may be reached at ORlando 3-1254.

West Bloomfield Plans Blitz Course for Defense

WEST BLOOMFIELD — A special blitz course in registration and information will be conducted Dec. 5 at the new Health Center, 2200 Telegraph Rd., by directors of the West Bloomfield Civil Defense organization.

The daytime session will get under way at 8:45 a.m. with registrations. The regional steering committee of Southeastern Michigan for Oakland county, under the direction of Edward Sienicke, coordinator of Detroit Emergency Welfare Services, and Mrs. John Warren, assistant deputy director of West Bloomfield.

Also assisting with the programming will be Dr. John Lambie, CD medical coordinator for Oakland county; George Burt, county emergency welfare service director; Lewis Jarrendt, county CD director; and Ransford Bromley, assistant county CD director.

The group is hoping for four delegates participating from each township in the county. Referred to as the R & I course, it teaches central registry in the event of a natural or man-made disaster, psychological aspects, and enables the delegates to take the information back to their own areas where they will in turn act as instructors.

Delegates will be guests of the county welfare department for luncheon and the session will conclude about 3:30 p.m.

Monday night at the Warren home, plans were formulated for Civil Defense exercise day January 20 at West Bloomfield High School. A hypothetical plan will be put into action that day for study.

Making arrangements are Stanford Stone, township supply deputy; Dr. John Williams, head of township casualty care station; William Duckwitz, communications head for the township; Mrs. Campbell Harvey, emergency welfare director; and Sidney Winstanley, mass feeding chairman for Oakland county Red Cross and Oakland county Civil Defense emergency welfare services; also Cecil Davis, mass feeding and lodging head for West Bloomfield; and Mrs. Ruth Spurlock of the Red Cross, as well as Mr. and Mrs. John Warren, township coordinators.

Tuesday at the township hall voluntary survey teams of the six sectors which were initially surveyed two years ago, scheduled a new check on their areas.

Sector Seven, a newly-created area under the direction of Warden William Finkbeiner, is getting its survey under way. The area includes Sylvan Manor and Hammond Lake Estates. Hammond Lake, although in Bloomfield township has been given to the jurisdiction of West Bloomfield because it is so closely allied with that area.

Mrs. Asher Panian, personnel deputy of West Bloomfield, and Mrs. O. A. DeWitte, her deputy, were in charge of the session.

Slate 4 Classes in Civil Defense

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — Enrollments in classes in Civil Defense that will be held on Monday, and on Dec. 3, 10 and 17, are being taken by Carl Schingeck, civil defense director for Pontiac Township.

Subjects in the classwork will be "What to do when the signal sounds," food and water supplies, home nursing, "what to do if someone is trapped," firefighting for householders, emergency sanitation, firesafe housekeeping, emergency action to save lives, and preparation for evacuation.

Classes will be from 8 to 10 at the Civil Defense offices in Palmer Park, with Schingeck arranging transportation.

Rochester 4-H Group to Meet Saturday

ROCHESTER — Tomorrow the Variety 4-H Club will meet at the Verne Sutton home, 722 West Fifth St., to plaint containers for the Rochester Garden Club. Members use them for flower-arranging on their weekly visits to patients at Pontiac State Hospital.

Four H'ers are invited to the Michigan State Football game tomorrow. Members going are asked to send their confainers to the Sutton home.

Members are also invited to attend a special showing of "The Seven Wonders of the World," in Detroit on Dec. 8. Mrs. Delbert Wiggins is taking reservations.

Keego Youth to Have Curfew

Law Being Drawn Up by Attorney; Will Be Voted by Council

KEEGO HARBOR — A curfew law is being drawn up for this city by Attorney Thomas Dillon, on instruction of the city commission.

The idea of a curfew to restrict youth being on streets late at night won council approval this week, and Dillon was directed to formulate an ordinance, which will be voted on at a later council meeting.

A new policeman, John Peachworth, formerly with the Sylvan Lake police department, has been added to the Keego police staff, according to Police Chief Richard Hurtubise.

City employes will be provided with Blue Cross and Blue Shield hospital insurance, city councilmen decided this week.

Question of whether they should pay social security fees and be eligible for its benefits will go to the voters of this city in the April election.

A restriction on use of city equipment and vehicles by city employes only, and for city business only, was voted by city council this week.

Teenage Party to Key Plans for Weeknights

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — Initiation of teenage activities for not only the youth of the Galloway Lake Methodist Church but of the entire community is goal of a "holiday house party" set for tonight at the church at 7 p.m.

Suggested activities range from indoor-sport competitions, and hobby groups as for model airplanes or trains and cars, to a basketball team, teenage newspaper, and singing or drama groups.

Several nights a week might be planned in the program establishing what might be called a "teen town" the commission of education predicts.

Query on City Workings Wins Keego Invitation

KEEGO HARBOR — A Detroit high school class's choice of Keego Harbor as an example of a new, small city, has won the class an invitation to attend a Keego council meeting in the near future.

Miss Eileen Van Horn, city manager, reports that she received the query on procedures from a Thurston High School group. She included the invitation with her summary of the city's workings.

Tell of Entering 2 Schools, Hall

Youths Confess Break-ins

ROMEO—Two youths confessed yesterday to charges of breaking and entering the Davis and Washington Schools Wednesday night. They are James Theodore Wisniewski, 19, of 8950 26 Mile Rd., Washington and Robert Peck, 17, of 11077 Pierson St., Washington.

Peck was home on leave from the Marine Corps. The pair was apprehended early yesterday morning by Romeo patrolman Robert Jacobs, who noticed them acting suspiciously and found they were using a stolen license plate.

While they were being questioned by Police Chief Gordon Osgood, custodian James Crawford alerted State Police of the Romeo Post about the Washington School breakin. The mark of a heelprint outside the school traced to one of the youths led to their confession.

The pair gained entry by breaking a window in the multipurpose room and then breaking the office door window. They took about $40 from a filing cabinet safe and desk.

They also said they entered the Davis School but took nothing. The pair confessed also to burglary of the Amvet Hall on South VanDyke, south of Romeo, last Sunday night.

Wisniewski and Peck are being held in Macomb County Jail in Mt. Clemens, pending further investigation.

You Can't Lose! Pot-O-Gold Is Fun, $$ or Both

$700 isn't to be scoffed at, and here's an easy way to come by that tidy sum. All you have to do is read the rules, study the clues and come up with the correct solution. This week's puzzle will be worth $700 plus $25 for a subscriber if no winner is found for Puzzle No. 24. Even with a winner for last week it's worth $100, and it's fun besides. How can you go wrong?

The puzzle consists of (1) a number of circles which contain a few scrambled letters, and (2) a corresponding list of clues to these words printed below. The object is to arrange each group of circled letters into a word that best fits its clue. The word which you select for Circle No. 1, then would be the one which you would print in the space to the right of (1) below.

You'll notice that some circles contain $ signs in pots of gold. You may use such a symbol as any letter you wish. However, it and all letters in that circle must be used. The $ sign, of course, can represent ANY letter in the word.

Do the same in all the other circles. Study the clues carefully and arrange all the letters into words that you believe best conforms to these clues. Use your $ signs to help you spell out the right words.

OFFICIAL CONTEST RULES

1. Anyone is eligible to enter the POT-O-GOLD contest with the exception of Pontiac Press employes or their immediate families.

2. A contestant may submit as many entries as he or she wishes but they must be on official entry blanks printed in this newspaper.

3. To submit an entry the contestant must print his answer words in the proper spaces, cut out the area enclosed by dotted lines and attach it securely to a 2-cent postcard. No entries will be accepted if they are in envelopes. Entries for Puzzle No. 25 must bear a Tuesday, Nov. 27, postmark (or before). No entries received after that time, whether mailed or delivered by hand, will be declared eligible. The Press is not responsible for entries lost or delayed in the mail.

4. Sorry, telephone calls or mail concerning details of the contest cannot be answered or acknowledged.

5. The Pontiac Press will award a cash prize of $100 a week to the winner of each weekly POT-O-GOLD contest. If more than one winning answer is received the prize will be divided equally among the winners. If any week or weeks should pass without any winners, the prize will be added weekly until a winning solution is submitted.

6. Winners will be awarded an extra cash bonus of $25 each if they are Pontiac Press subscribers of record on the day winners are announced. Only one such bonus can be awarded to each prize-winner, no matter how many weekly prizes may accumulate.

7. Each week's puzzle will be published Monday, Wednesday and Friday until the contest's end. Either or all will be considered as official entry blanks.

8. Winners and correct solutions will be announced each Friday of the week following individual contests. Official keeper of answers will be Frederick C. Ziem, prosecutor for Oakland County. Only the General Features Corp., originators of the puzzles, will know the solutions until after each contest is over. Answers will be delivered to the Press judges by Mr. Ziem after the final deadline.

9. There is only one correct solution to the POT-O-GOLD puzzle, and only that correct answer can win. The decision of the judges is final and all contestants agree to abide by the judges' decision. All entries become the property of The Pontiac Press and none can be returned.

10. Completed puzzles must be addressed to POT-O-GOLD, POST OFFICE BOX 58, Pontiac, Michigan. Winners will be notified either by telephone or in the mails.

THE BERRYS By Carl Grubert

Served in 2 Killings, to Be Tried for 3rd

A week's postponement was granted Wednesday by Pontiac Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum in the first-degree murder examination of Saint Helm, 57.

Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem asked the postponement because Helm's attorney, Milton R. Henry, was not present.

Helm, who has spent 34 years in prison on two other murder charges, is accused of the knife murder in 1924 of Cora Wickwire in her home at 56 Wessen St.

Helm had served four years in prison for the 1918 shooting of Willie Tanks in the same house. He left Pontiac after the Wickwire slaying, police say, and was convicted of another murder in New York in 1926.

He served 26 years for the second murder and then was returned to Jackson to serve out the maximum sentence for the 1918 killing.

'I'm Not Through,' Says Hunting Doctor

"I'm not through," he told his younger hunting companions. "Now I'm going quail hunting."

Hall, who in 1950 was honored by the American Medical Assn. as U. S. doctor of the year, maintains his practice with a son in Mount Vernon.

Commissions to Aid Easing of Pollution

LANSING (AP)—The Michigan and Ontario Water Resources Commissions got together yesterday in what Gov. Williams described as a "historic" step toward an easing of pollution problems in the border waters.

It was the first meeting between the two groups. The Ontario commission was organized only six months ago.

"This is one of the first times a provincial and state government have worked together without the help of the federal government," Williams said. "We feel we are headed toward a solution of our problems."

In the past, the International Joint Commission — a federally sanctioned body — has attempted to iron out differences between the two countries over pollution of the St. Mary's, St. Clair and Detroit Rivers.

Williams said the Ontario-Michigan meeting was arranged without the consent of the federal government, although Washington would be informed of the meeting.

Sound Sleeper—Huh?

HAWTHORNE, Calif. (AP)—California highway Patrolman Charles A. Barnes told local police yesterday that his motorcycle — a snappy model with red light and siren — was stolen from his front porch while he slept.

A tiny motor inside the high voltage X-ray tube can spin the electrode and thus prevents it from being burned by the electrons.

CONSTIPATED?

new laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks

without gag, bloat or gripe

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrifty" colon. A "thrifty" colon is one that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so shrunken that they fail to excite or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

TO REGAIN NORMAL REGULARITY two things are necessary. First, the dry, shrunken contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be re-moistened. Second, bulk must be brought to your colon to S-T-R-E-T-C-H STIMULATE it and so, excite its muscles to action; to a normal urge to purge.

ONLY A BULK LAXATIVE can 1) re-moisten this dry, shrunken waste and 2) supply vital bulk to re-create a normal urge to purge. And, of all bulk laxatives, COLONAID, the amazing new lavative discovery is so effective that it relieves even chronic constipation overnight, yet is so smooth, so gentle it has been proved safe even for women in the most critical stages of pregnancy.

SUPERIOR TO OLD STYLE bulk, salt or drug laxatives, COLONAID neither gags, bloats nor gripes; does not interfere with your absorption of vitamins and other valuable food nutrients; and in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other side reactions.

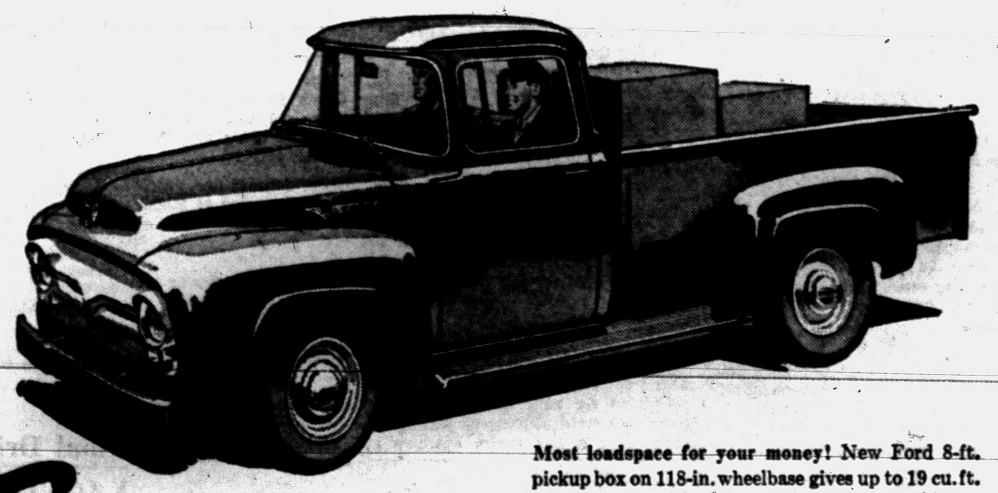

IT'S A PHYSIOLOGICAL FACT: Exercise tones your body! And COLONAID exercises your colon to tone it against constipation, overnight! Whether occasional, frequent or chronic, whatever your degree of constipation, get COLONAID, in easy-to-take tablet form at any drug counter, today! The price, only 98c for the economical 60 tablet package, brings you positive relief at less than 2c per tablet.

Packers Were Thankful, for Rote and 24-20 Win

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

DETROIT—The Green Bay Packers had themselves a delicacy for Thanksgiving Day—a feast of tender Lion.

Veteran quarterback Tobin Rote did the carving. He paved the way for three touchdowns in the 4th period to gain the Packers a 24-20 victory at Briggs Stadium before 54,087 snow-swept fans.

* * *

Millions more across the country watched the Lions fall out of first place in the Western Division on a nationally televised hookup.

The Lions' ground defense stopped the Packers cold with 87 yards, but in contrast as equally ineffective was Detroit's pass defense which for the second week in a row permitted over 300 yards through the air.

Due credit however, must go to Rote whose master-minding, especially in the 4th quarter, was brilliant. He completed 21 of 40 passes, two for touchdowns to Fred Cone and Billie Howton, and he scored once himself on a two-yard plunge.

* * *

The Lions led all the way and with 6:52 remaining they held a 20-10 lead, when the blizzard came, with the Packers scoring the winning TD with only 1:35 left in the game.

Detroit's first march of the game carried to the Green Bay 20 but a 15-yard penalty hurt the drive and the Packers took over.

A few minutes later, after Green Bay punted out, the Lions went 55 yards in eight plays with Leon Hart ramming the final four yards.

Hart and Gene Gedman were the full extent of the Detroit running attack throughout the game.

With four seconds left in the quarter, Cone booted a 12-yard field goal and it was 7-3 after the first stanza.

* * *

Hart warmed the hands of the Detroit fans with a 47-yard run in the third period to set up Bobby Layne's first field goal from the 22-yard line.

* * *

It was the longest gain from scrimmage of the season for the Lions and big Leon rambled like steam-powered tank before a pair of tacklers caught up with him.

After a pass interception by Yale Lary, the Lions moved to the 15 from where Layne made it 13-3 with his second field goal just before the quarter ended.

Then came the hectic 4th stanza. Using Howie Ferguson as his main target on three aerials, Rote's arm got warmer as the winds blew colder. Only three minutes were gone when Rote hit pay dirt to make it 13-10.

* * *

Detroit came back to score on a rare incident. Layne passed from his own 44 to the Packer 25 where Dave Middleton and defender Harry Gremminger went up for the ball. As Gremminger tried to bat the ball forward it bounced off his fingers behind him and into Middleton's surprised arms. He went the remaining distance to make it 20-10.

Green Bay took only two minutes to make it 20-17 as Rote took to the air hitting Cone for the 14-yard tally.

When Detroit took possession after the ensuing kickoff, Detroit was faced with the choice of gambling or punting. It was 4th down and just about a yard to go on Detroit's own 38 yard line.

Lions chose to punt and Girard booted to the Packer 18 from where the 82 yard march started in nine plays. Rote hit Howton with the clincher for a 13-yard TD.

Detroit got to the Packer 32 on a pair of Layne passes, but his 3rd aerial of the series was intercepted by Bobby Dillon to end it for the Lions.

	LIONS	PACKERS
First downs	17	21
Rushing yardage	206	84
Passing yardage	146	301
Passes	9-22	21-40
Passes intercepted	3	3
Punts	4-42.5	8-41
Yards Penalized	82	55

DETROIT	7	0	6	7—20
Green Bay	3	0	0	21—24

DETROIT: Touchdowns — Hart (3, run); Middleton (56, pass, run from Layne). Conversions — Layne 2. Field Goals—Layne 2 (22, 15).
GREEN BAY: Touchdowns — Rote (2, plunge); Cone (14, pass from Rote); Howton (13, pass from Rote). Conversions—Cone 3. Field Goal—Cone (12).

CAUGHT IN THE WEB — Detroit's Gene Gedman finds the going tough after taking a flat pass from Bobby Layne. Three Green Bay tacklers converge on Gedman hitting him from top to bottom. Ken Gorgal is No. 27, Bob Dillon is No. 44 and another unidentified Packer grabs for the feet. The blocker was Jim Doran No. 83 of the Lions. The play got five yards, but the Packers won 24-20.

U. S. Hammer Thrower Suspended at Games

MELBOURNE (AP) — Cliff Blair, giant hammer thrower from Hingham, Mass., today was suspended from the U.S. Olympic team in the most drastic action taken against an American athlete in the international games since star swimmer Eleanor Holm was expelled from the 1936 team.

Blair, 27, Boston University student who placed second in the U.S. Olympic trials, was suspended for "violation of the amateur code," which forbids an amateur to write for a newspaper.

* * *

Nelson Metcalf, member of the executive board of the U.S. Olympic committee, said Blair violated the code by writing for a Boston newspaper despite frequent warnings. Metcalf spoke for Dan Ferris, AAU executive secretary, who is hospitalized with pneumonia.

U.S. Olympic officials scheduled a meeting later today to determine what to do with Blair but Kenneth Wilson, president of the U.S. Olympic committee, said:

"Blair definitely violated the rules, he was given every opportunity to make himself right with the team but he refused."

In 1936 Miss Holm was booted off the team for breaking training rules enroute to Berlin in what became known as the celebrated champagne case.

* * *

Blair, who has a pending American hammer throw record of 216 feet 4¾ inches, couldn't be reached immediately for comment.

But in Boston sports editor Jerry Nason of the Boston Globe and a long-time friend of Blair said:

"He is merely writing personal letters to me. He is getting absolutely no pay and there has been no arrangement for him to be paid in the future."

* * *

Metcalf said Blair was first warned about his outside writing activities in September.

"He was warned later in Los Angeles, then in Hawaii and again after we got here," Metcalf added. "He continued to defy us and sent in the articles. He writes the articles in the form of letters but they had the same effect as regular newspaper stories. He talked about team personalities and even made predictions of performances."

* * *

It appeared certain U.S. officials would make arrangements for Blair's immediate return to the United States. They didn't appear inclined to leave him here without portfolio to continue his writing activities

There was one problem. That was what to do about the uniform which was issued to all U.S. Olympic athletes.

* * *

"Of course we may have to let him keep his uniform because he has no other clothes with him," said Metcalf. "But we will have to strip him of all the U.S. shields and other insignas. He can not keep anything that would indicate he is a team member.

TWO-POINT LANDING—Fullback Howie Ferguson of the Green Bay Packers does a somersault after being hit by Yale Lary on the ground and Joe Schmidt (56). Ferguson picked up a few yards, and he played a fine game against Detroit.

From the Press Box

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

The New York Giants will pick up a few million more rooters when they tangle with the Chicago Bears Sunday in New York.

All of Michigan's grid fans will be pulling for the Giants to help the Lions get back into a first place tie in the Western Division by beating the Bears.

The Bears however will be fired up, especially knowing that they have first place all to themselves after yesterday's Lion loss to Green Bay.

Lou Zarza, former Wayne University football coach who has scouted the Chicagoans three times for Detroit this year, didn't have very encouraging news for Lion fans about the Bears.

Sunday he will be in New York again to watch Chicago, but every report brings additional information of woe for Detroiters.

"They have a tremendous explosive ball club," said Zarza, "and they strike, just as fast, on the ground or in the air."

★ ★ ★

"Rick Casares, the National Football League's leading ground gainer, is a powerful runner and this end Harlan Hill is probably the best in the league," said Zarza.

"With Ed Brown the fine passer that he is, Hill can outmaneuver most any defender, and no one has been able to stop him from catching those passes yet," Zarza added.

Then there's George Blanda, a seven-year veteran in the league, and Zarza says, "if Brown don't hurt you then Blanda will."

"They're plenty tough, and the spread they use quite often is tough to defense," he finished.

So the Lions defensive line which has given up only 160 yards in the last two games on the ground will really get a test.

Of course the Lions pass defense will also get a test, that is, to see within how many yards the Bears can be held in the air. After yesterday—what's pass defense?

The lights were turned on twice at Briggs Stadium yesterday when the blizzardy snows swooped down out of nowhere.

And it seems the harder it snowed the better the Packers got. Must be they felt right at home since they have been working out in the snow "up north."

Victory and Jug Go to Royal Oak

By BILL CORNWELL

The Litte Brown Jug is now permanently lodged in the trophy case at Royal Oak High School and nobody disputes the Acorns' right to keep it.

* * *

Royal Oak's easy 19-0 victory over an inept Birmingham team Thursday on the snow-covered Birmingham gridiron convinced everyone in the near-capacity crowd that the Acorns deserved the time-honored Jug.

* * *

It was strictly no contest in this 43rd and final Thanksgiving Day football battle between the two neighboring schools.

The blue-shirted Oaks hammered out single touchdowns in the 1st, 2nd and 3rd quarters and added one conversion from placement. They scored twice on the ground and once through the air with three different players crossing the goal.

* * *

Birmingham's punchless offense was never more punchless than yesterday. The hapless Maples could gain a combined rushing and passing total of only 80 yards compared to 210 for Royal Oak.

* * *

Their feeble attack never did get moving against a hard-charging Royal Oak defense. Birmingham's deepest penetration reached the Acorn 37-yard line in the 2nd quarter.

* * *

Tackle Randy Uren started Royal Oak on the way to its 1st touchdown by recovering Dale Burrows' fumble. The Acorns stormed 48 yards in eight plays with Sierens going over from the four.

Late in the 1st period the fleet-footed Snider intercepted a Burrows aerial and lugged it to the Acorn 44. Seven plays later Sekers went 12 yards for the touchdown. Gary Banks booted the extra point to make it 13-0 at halftime.

* * *

A poor Maple punt which traveled only four yards from scrimmage set up Royal Oak's last touchdown. The Acorns took over on the Maple 26 and hit pay-dirt on the 1st play. Quarterback Gary Pitcher passed to Snider, who raced untouched into the end zone.

Royal Oak marched to the Birmingham one-yard line in the 3rd period, but the Maples braced and held for downs on the three.

It was Royal Oak's 5th straight victory over the Maples and the 22nd for the Acorns in the ancient rivalry compared to 14 wins for Birmingham. Seven games ended in ties.

The win gave Royal Oak a 1956 season record of five victories, three defeats and one tie. Birmingham wound up with a 4-5 mark.

BIRMINGHAM	STATISTICS	ROYAL OAK
6	First downs	8
39	Net yards rushing	144

MSU Alums Grid Hosts

Oakland County's football coaches and their outstanding players receiving all-state and all-county recognition will be guests of honor at the 7th annual banquet of the MSU Club of the county Nov. 28 at Birmingham Community House.

State Coach Duffy Daugherty and his entire coaching staff will attend the affair along with the Spartan senior players.

Don Mason, former line coach and All-American guard at Michigan State, will present films of the Spartans' games.

Miller's Condition Remains Indefinite

The young southpaw returned to his home in Berwyn, Ill., after another examination in Detroit. Further treatment and examination is scheduled for next month.

Clinic Starts Today

LANSING — The 4th annual basketball coaches clinic began today and continues through tomorrow at Michigan State University.

FRUSTRATION FOR BIRMINGHAM — This is a typical example of the frustration suffered by Birmingham in yesterday's 19-0 loss to Royal Oak on the Birmingham field. Royal Oak's Bob Manser (No. 19) breaks up a pass intended for an unidentified Maple receiver. It was the final Thanksgiving Day game between the two schools.

Bitter Rivalry Resumes Saturday

53rd Meeting of 'M'-OSU

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The game that was to have propelled Michigan into the Rose Bowl will be played here tomorrow.

The Wolverines take on Ohio State in the 53rd meeting between the bitterest of all football rivals.

But Michigan fans can no longer dream of bowl grandeur. Their hopes were smashed last week as Iowa snapped Ohio State's 17-game Big Ten wining streak and salted away the bid to Pasadena.

Ohio still has a chance to share the conference title with the Hawkeyes. And if any inspiration be needed—and it seldom is in a clash with the Buckeyes—the Wolverines have found it. They can knock Ohio off the Big Ten throne from which it has reigned for two years.

To add insult to injury, the Hawkeyes' haymaker dropped the Buckeyes from the nation's top ten for the first time this season. They're now in 12th place.

* * *

Michigan was spotted in 9th position and on this basis, and because of a victory over Iowa, rates as a slender favorite tomorrow.

The Wolverines are in their best condition of the season and coach Bennie Oosterbaan will field a veteran team. The Bucks won the last two games, 21-7, and 17-0.

Ohio, led by hefty 250-pound Jim Parker, an All-America hopeful at guard, has a doubtful starter. Sophomore left halfback Don Clark was hurt against Iowa and coach Woody Hayes said he didn't know if Clark would be ready.

Clark's replacement, Don Sutherin, was also a casualty against the Hawkeyes. So sophomore Dick Lebeau likely will see a lot of action.

The encounter that will attract a capacity crowd of more than 82,000 spectators to Ohio Stadium will present a number of side angles in battles for team and individual conference marks.

Michigan is first in the Big Ten offensively, having gained 328.8 yards a game. Ohio is the defensive leader, having held its foes to but 5.6 points a game.

* * *

In the Big Ten all-games scoring race, the Wolverines' John Herrnstein and Ohio's Jim Roseboro and Clark, are in a three-way tie for first place. Each has crossed the goal line seven times for 42 points.

Several fine collegians will be playing their finales. Among them are Ron Kramer, Capt Tom Maentz, Terry Barr, Al Sigman, Mike Rotunno, Ed Shannon, Jim Maddock and Dick Hill of Michigan and Parker, Bill Michael, Tom Dillman, Dick Guy, Ellwood, Roseboro and Fred Kriss of Ohio State.

Bone Leaves for 2nd Tour of PGA Circuit

Tam O'Shanter Country Club's assistant professional, Gene Bone, has embarked upon his 2nd swing around the arduous PGA winter tour. Gene is making the tour through connections with the Hillerich-Bradsby company of Louisville, Ky., and gets his first test at West Palm Beach, Fla. in the Mayfair Inn CC open Nov. 30-Dec. 2. That's a 54-hole medal event.

* * *

Gene was accompanied on the trip south (leaving Wednesday) by Dick Bury of Lochmoor.

Other tourneys on Bone's list are Sanford Fla. Open Dec. 13-16 and the big one, the Los Angeles Open, Jan. 4-7. He will stop at Dunedin, Fla. for some practice, Dec. 2-7.

Warren Orlick, Tam pro, Michigan PGA prexy and national PGA official, with Tommy Shannon of Orchard Lake CC and Ron LaParl of Battle Creek will be in Dunedin also, for the annual PGA meeting next month. Horton Smith, DGC pro and honorary head of the PGA, will also be there, Orlick says.

Final Drill Indoors

MSU Closes With K-State

EAST LANSING (AP)—Last practice of the season will be a light one today for the Michigan State football team.

The Spartan squad will spend only about an hour on signal drill in Jenison Field House as a final preparation for Saturday's windup against Kansas State.

The indoor practice routine also was followed yesterday because of a light fall of wet snow and 17-degree cold.

Players then stuffed themselves on turkey and all the trimmings at the training table—a meal that packed a few extra pounds on the program-listed playing weights.

State, dropped to 10th in the AP standings after the 14-13 defeat by Minnesota last week, will be out to wind up the year with a 7-2 record.

Macklin Stadium, now built to a capacity of 60,000-plus, will have the smallest crowd of the year for the 1:30 p.m. kickoff.

Everyone else on the bench is expected to get into the game as State's multiple offense should go for multiple touchdowns against the visiting Kansans, now with a 3-6 record.

Vikings Whip Central, 20-8

Flint Northern defeated arch-rival Flint Central Thursday, 20-8, to complete its 7th perfect season in history and win the Saginaw Valley Conference championship in the bargain.

More than 17,000 spectators filed into Flint's Atwood Stadium to watch the Vikings make Central victim No. 9 in yesterday's annual Thanksgiving Day football classic.

Phil Gaines, John Sharp and Arden Relerford scored touchdowns for Northern, winner of the state's mythical Class A championship. Gaines' 57-yard TD jaunt came on the 4th play of the game.

Quarterback Bill Ringer sneaked one yard in the 4th quarter for Central's lone touchdown. The Indians were credited with a safety in the 1st period.

Fish Battle for Bait in His Personal Lake

CHICOUTIMI, Que., (AP)—Many a fisherman has dreamed of owning a lake where trout would battle to take a tempting morsel of bait or a colorful fly.

Charles Duperre had such a dream and then set out to make it come true. His first step was to buy a wooded lot near St. Bruno, Que., a little hamlet in the waterrich Lake St. John district 120 miles north of quebec city.

Across the 600x1,600-foot lot ran a creek, the outlet for three small lakes.

Duperre built a home on the lot for himself and his family in 1953 and in the backyard had a bulldozer gouge out an acre for an artificial lake. It was sloped gradually to maximum depth of 12 feet.

Working in his spare time, Duperre built a dam to back the creek into the lake and by 1955 was ready to go into business.

He made several trips to a fish hatchery in the area and obtained all the information he could about the raising of trout. Without funds to purchase stock, Duperre went on weekend fishing trips and placed whatever fish he caught into 100-gallon milk cans filled with ice and water.

By the end of the 1955 season he had placed 160 trout in the lake, some of them weighing more than a pound. Then disaster struck. One day while Duperre was away from his farm, someone lifted the gates of his dam and the trout swam away down the creek.

Later in the fall he recaptured 75 of the trout when they moved upstream to spawn. Some of them spawned in the artificial lake and Duperre estimated that 3,000 fingerlings survived.

During the 1956 season, Duperre added another 325 adult trout to the lake and he anticipates that several thousand more fingerlings will be hatched before the winter freeze-up.

* * *

Leads NAIA Offense

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Mississippi Vocational has piled up an average of 501.2 yards a game and holds the lead in total football offense among the nation's smaller schools belonging to the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

ENTERS WIDE RACK — Widest rack of deer horns entered for the new contest division, in the Pontiac Press big deer derby, are 17⅛ inches. They were on a fat, 202-pound buck downed by smiling Thurman Bowers, RFD 3, Milford (above). Bowers' 10-point buck came from near Maas in Ontonagon county, and eliminated Richard Feeney's 16⅞-inch-wide entry. Contest weight leader is Rogers H. Davis' 207-pounder.

Most Modern in Majors

New Scoreboard at Cincy

CINCINNATI (AP)—Crosley Field next season will have a scoreboard which Gabe Paul, general manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs, says "will be the most modern in any stadium in the country."

* * *

Its height will be almost equivalent of a five-story building. It will be 55 feet high, 65 feet wide and require more than 150,000 feet of electrical wire to operate it.

* * *

Contract to build it has been awarded to the Spencer Display Corp. of New York, Paul announced last night.

* * *

One innovation of the scoreboard will be the flashing of a player's batting average prior to that day's game each time a batter steps to the plate.

* * *

Line scores and scores by innings, designation of pitchers and results of first games of doubleheaders, and also batting orders of the Redlegs and their opponents, will be shown through plexi-glass light units with opaque letters.

* * *

Electric figuregrams, designed with spun aluminum reflectors, will keep fans informed of player at bat, balls, strikes, outs and runs, hits and errors as the game progresses.

Hamtramck Netter Wins in National Tournament

Million 'Laker' Eggs Collected

Spawn Secured to Aid Rebuilding of State Trout Populations

LANSING (AP)—About one million lake trout eggs were collected from Lake Superior this fall and will be hatched at the Marquette Hatchery, the State Conservation Department reported.

Thirteen commercial fishermen from Munising and Marquette cooperated in the spawn-collecting project. In addition, about 90,000 eggs were taken from lake trout brood stock being reared at the Marquette hatchery.

The lake trout eggs will be hatched to provide eggs and fish in future years to take up the slack caused by lamprey losses.

The department also reported it has received 50,000 brown and 50,000 brook trout eggs from Pennsylvania this week. The eggs will be used in a long range program aimed at providing better hatchery trout for Michigan fishermen.

Ol Miss Seeks Defense Crown

NEW YORK (AP)—Mississippi has a good chance to nail down total defense honors for the second time in three years against Mississippi State Saturday.

Despite a 383-yard onslaught by Tennessee last week, Mississippi continues to lead the major colleges in total defense with an average yield of 188 yards per game according to the NCAA Service Bureau statistics released today.

Denmark Star to Quit After Olympic Games

MELBOURNE (AP)—Gunnar Nielsen, Denmark's mile ace, says he plans to retire from track after the games. "With my work and union affairs I don't get much time to train and besides I am planning to marry," adds the dashing Dane, who has run the mile in 3:59.1 and holds the world indoor mile mark of 4:03.6.

Starts U. S. to Winning Ways

Dumas Sets Olympic Mark

MELBOURNE (AP) — Charlie Dumas, 19, a lanky Los Angeles collegian, set a new Olympic high jump mark today as the United States team began to hoard gold medals on the first full day of actual competition.

Except for a surprise defeat by the Yale crew in the eight-oared competition at Ballarat, the suspension of a hammer thrower and the barring of two boxers, things ran true to form for the strong American team.

Dumas won a dramatic duel with an unheralded Australian in the gathering gloom with a leap of 6 feet 11½ inches — one inch short of his own world record.

Charles Vinci Jr., 23, of York, Pa., a bantamweight weightlifter, also grabbed a gold medal for Uncle Sam, smashing both the world and Olympic records on the way to a triumph over the Russian contender.

Vladimir Kouts, a sinewy Russian naval officer from the Ukraine, won the 10,000-meter race for his nation's first track and field victory in Olympic history to emphasize that Russia is no idle threat to American supremacy. Although Kouts didn't approach his own unofficial world mark, he broke the Olympic record and official world figure with a smashing performance in 28 minutes 45.6 seconds.

As he thrashed down the final straightaway, the blond Russian looked like another Emil Zatopek, the Czech runner whose record he erased.

Olga Fikotova of Czechoslovakia first track and field gold medal winner of 1956 set the style by also breaking the Olympic standard with a mighty toss of 53.69 meters—176 feet 1⅛ inches—in the women's discus. The old record was broken four times during the competition in which the Russians took three of the first six places. Earlene Brown, 21, a Los Angeles housewife, surpassed her best previous performance with a toss of 168 feet 5⅝ inches, good for a surprise fourth place.

• • •

As expected the American stars in the shorter distances easily qualified for the finals. Bobby Morrow, the speed demon from Abilene Christian in Texas, and Ira Murchison of the U.S. Army each tied the Olympic record by winning their 100-meter heats in 10.3 seconds. This pair and Thane Baker of the Air Force, another heat winner, will carry U.S. hopes in tomorrow's final.

And there were bitter disappointments for the Americans when two U.S. boxers — Choken Maekawa of Hawaii and Harry Smith of New York—were barred because they failed to make their class weight limits and when Yale's eight-oared crew finished a disappointing third in its heat.

The American eight, the only U.S. rowing team which didn't win its first heat, will get another chance in the repechage heats to qualify for the semi-finals. Since 1920 the United States never has failed to win this Olympic championship.

SOVIETS IN COURT PLAY — Vladimir Torban, (5) foreground, of Russia knocks the ball loose from Canada's Don MacIntosh (3) on the floor during their Olympic basketball game at Melbourne yesterday. The Soviets started off with an easy 97-59 win over the Canadian cagers. Today the Soviets meet France in their second game. The U. S. opens against Thailand.

Costello-Gardiner Scull Qualifies

State Rowers Among Preliminary Winners

BALLARAT, Australia (AP) — Optimistic was the word for U.S. rowing official Clifford (Tippy) Goes today after the first day of events in the Olympic Games, despite the stunning defeat of the touted Yale crew in the eight's.

"They'll still be in the finals," Goes said. "Their first 500 meters was not well rowed, but they'll make it in the repechage.

"I still predict that we will take at least four gold medals if we do not have any illness or accidents."

• • •

There are seven events in the rowing phase of the games and U.S. entries, headed by eight-time American sculling champion Jack Kelly Jr. of Philadelphia, won each of their heats with the exception of the big crew from Yale.

The Elis, previously hailed by Goes as "our best eight ever," finished third behind Australia and Canada. Although only the first two in each heat qualified automatically for the semi-finals Monday, the U.S. crew can rejoin the field by winning the repechage—second chance—round tomorrow.

By qualifying six out of seven and winning six "firsts" in the preliminaries, the U.S. team set an American record at the Olympics.

Kelly, brother of Princess Grace of Monaco, won his heat in the single sculls by a length over an old rival—Teodor Kocerka of Poland. His time was 7:24.8, best of the day and the third best in Olympic history.

Other U.S. preliminary winners were the Buffalo, N.Y. crew of Ronald Cardwell, James Wynne, Douglas Turner, James McMullen and Ed Masterson in the fours with coxswain; Jim Fifer of Tacoma, Wash. and Duvall Hecht, Beverly Hills, Calif. in the pairs without coxswain; Art Ayrault of Tacoma, Conn Findlay of Belmont, Calif. and Kurt Seiffert of Rochester, Mich. in the pairs with coxswain; and Detroit Boat Club in four oars without coxswain; and Pat Costello and Jim Gardiner of the Detroit club in the double sculls.

Americans Pace Riding Phase of Pentathlon

MELBOURNE (AP)—George Lambert of Sioux City, Iowa, and Jack Daniels of Missoula, Mont., finished one-two today in the riding phase of the Olympic Games' modern pentathlon. Both had faultless rounds.

Lambert finished the course in 9 minutes 32 seconds for a total of 1,070 points. Daniels was timed in 9:35 for 1,062 points. The standard time for the course is 10 minutes.

Baldacci on OSU Eleven

Celts Trip Warriors to Stretch NBA Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If the other teams in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Assn. don't get started sometime soon, they'll find the job of overtaking the streaking Boston Celtics insurmountable.

• • •

The Celts, with Bill Sharman scoring 30 points and Bob Cousy 29, trounced the Philadelphia Warriors 101-78 last night to give them a 7-3 record. New York is second with 4-5 followed by the Warriors with 5-7 and Syracuse with 4-7.

• • •

Rangers Snap Bruins String

Win Famine Is Ended After 10 Games; Chi-Hawks Get One, Too

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Rangers' famine and the Boston Bruins' feast were things of the past today in the National Hockey League. And the Chicago Black Hawks also were showing signs of coming to life.

• • •

The Rangers, winless in their last 10 games, defeated the Bruins 4-3 last night to snap Boston's unbeaten string of nine games.

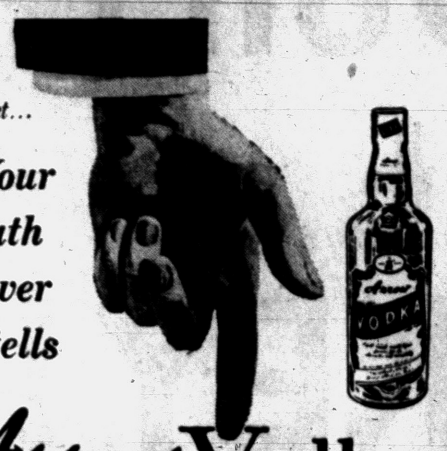

Meanwhile, the Black Hawks, cellar dwellers most of the year, whipped the Montreal Canadiens 5-3 to move within six points of the fourth-place Toronto Maple Leafs.

• • •

The Rangers almost lost a 4-1 lead they built over the Bruins, who scored twice in the third period. Danny Lewicki starred for New York with two goals with Andy Hebenton and Dave Creighton grabbing the others. Boston remained in first place, one point in front of Detroit.

Cullen's Late Goal Ties Wings

Toronto Evens Tilt With 90 Seconds Left

Pulls Goalie, Gangs Up on Detroiters in Last Ditch Stand

DETROIT (AP) — With only 90 seconds to play and Detroit leading 2-1, Toronto pulled goalie Ed Chadwick from the nets and ganged up on the Wings to score a last ditch goal for a 2-2 National Hockey League tie last night.

The play made it the second time Toronto came from behind to tie.

Detroit got its first goal in the second period off Billy Dea, but Toronto's Marc Reaume offset it later.

The tie was 4th-place Toronto's second in two nights. Hard luck Toronto has failed to win in its last five games and they have yet to beat 2nd-place Detroit this season.

Although only five penalties were called in the tame game, one figured in the scoring. Marty Pavelich was in the penalty box when Reaume slipped in the Leaf's first goal. His 50-footer caromed in off the leg of Detroit defenseman Warren Godfrey.

Three weeks ago a similar effort against Detroit saw Dick Duff score for a 2-2 tie just as the game-ending buzzer went off. Referee Frank Udvari ruled the goal was too late.

But movies later showed that Udvari was wrong and Wednesday NHL president Clarence Campbell ruled that Udvari was guilty of an "error in judgement."

Triple Challenge Looms for Vols

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tennessee, Georgia Tech, Texas Christian, Pitt, Clemson, and even four-times beaten Duke renew their push toward bowl invitations tomorrow in the season's last big college football Saturday with the Vols from Tennessee facing a triple challenge.

Not only the rich plum of a Sugar or Cotton Bowl invitation, but first place in the Southeastern Conference and, conceivably, top ranking in the Associated Press' nationwide poll will be dangling before the Volunteers as they meet Kentucky.

Tennessee, winner of eight straight, has slipped to second place nationally behind Oklahoma after a week as No. 1 in the AP ratings.

* * *

After their Southern feuds with Georgia Tech and Mississippi the last two weeks, the Vols might find always-tough Kentucky difficult to handle. And should they falter, Tech or Florida would be pleased to assume the conference leadership.

* * *

Texas Christian, with the inside track to the host spot in the Cotton Bowl with Texas A&M ineligible, plays Rice in a Southwest Conference feature. Pitt, leading Eastern candidate for a major bowl along with Syracuse, meets Penn State.

South Carolina passed its latest test Thanksgiving Day by defeating Wake Forest 13-0 to run its conference record to 5-2. Both the Gamecocks and Duke, although beaten four times this year while wading through a demanding schedule, have drawn renewed attention from the ACC and Orange Bowl folks since Clemson was smothered, 21-0 by the Miami Hurricanes a week ago.

Hunting in Arkansas

Pontiac Men Far Afield

Lure of the Arkansas duck marshes has pulled a number of Pontiac area hunters to the Stuttgart and Waldenburg sections, along the Mississippi flyway.

* * *

Leaving at 3 a.m. today were Paul Sparrow, West Huron street, Garnett West of Lakeville and Dr. J. W. Christie, Pontiac. They were bound for Marked Tree, Ark., near Waldenburg in central Arkansas, about 60 miles west of Memphis, Tenn. Sparrow has been making this annual fall duck hunting jaunt for about a half dozen years, but it is the first one for Dr. Christie.

Jack Greathouse, OCSC member and avid bird hunter, from Drayton Plains, joined Art Beauchamp of Flint for his 2nd trip to Stuttgart. They went to Beauchamp's place, DesArc, and wrote Jack's family that shooting has not been too good. There were few ducks, scarce water, but change in weather was expected to send the flight ducks over the area.

* * *

The Sparrow party will be guests of state senator (Ark.) Fred H. Stafford, former Pontiac man (real estate partner of Sparrow), now a prominent figure in Arkansas politics, Paul says.

* * *

Birmingham Badminton Tournament Saturday

The Birmingham Invitational Badminton Tournament, sponsored by the Birmingham Badminton Club, will be held Saturday at the Cranbrook gymnasium.

This will be the opening competition of the 1956-57 season for the Birmingham club. About 25 members will take part.

Competition will be provided by the Grosse Pointe and Flint badminton clubs in addition to many other players from scattered areas. Some of the state's top-rated players are expected to participate.

The tourney will get under way at 11 a.m. with action in the junior division. Adult activity starts about 1:30 p.m. The junior division is for youths through 18 years of age.

Tomorrow's competition will feature men's singles and doubles, women's singles and doubles and mixed doubles.

Garry Moore Can't Figure Out What He Is

NEW YORK (AP)—Thomas Garrison Morfit, who has 25 bowties and runs a 12½-million-dollar-a-year business, has a problem.

* * *

Behind a door marked "shop foreman," near a desk guarded by a stuffed imitation bulldog, Thomas Garrison Morfit sat and mused aloud over his predicament while a yellow parakeet—the gift of an admirer—flew about the office looking for a quiet place to park and take the load off his feathers.

* * *

"I sing a little, but I'm not a singer," said Thomas Garrison Morfit. "I dance a little, but nobody would call me a dancer. I also crack a few jokes, but I'm not really a comedian. I really don't know what I am."

* * *

But everyone in show business today knows what Thomas Garrison Morfit — who's known as "Garry Moore" during business hours — has become. He's the housewives' delight, and a real kingpin in the wonderful world of television.

AP Wirephoto

TERROR WITNESS — Mrs. Margaret Tamasi, 35-year-old Hungarian, arrives at New York's Idlewild Airport after a trip from Budapest where she watched men and women being mowed down by bullets during the recent uprisings. She is on her way to Australia to join her husband whom she hasn't seen in eight years.

Garry and his pixie pals—Durwood Kirby, Denise Lor and Ken Carson — brighten the lives of many homemakers with their antics on "The Garry Moore Show," a daytime program now in its seventh year.

"All of a sudden we find we are the oldest consecutive entertainment show on TV—and that rather frightens us," said Garry. "We hesitate to whoop and holler about the fact we're the oldest. We don't want to call attention to our age."

* * *

Bu Moore is one of those lucky mortals time seems to pass by. Although he is 41, and has been in radio and TV for 21 years, his grassroots humor and wheat-crop haircut give him the air of an eternal college boy.

What explains the amazing success of this ex-sports announcer who became a performer by accident and doubts himself he has any particular talent?

* * *

A Broadway flesh peddler would say, "It's because every girl who sees him wants to mother him—whether she's 9 or 90."

But a better reason, perhaps, is that in an industry which sometimes tends to regard people as faceless symbols Moore always remembers they are people. His humor is sometimes robust, but never cruel. He never reaches for a laugh at the expense of destroying anyone's essential human dignity.

Although Garry hits a bigger single audience as weekly master of ceremonies on "I've Got a Secret," his daily morning CBS network show takes most of his time. The program is a 12-million-dollar-a-year operation now, and Garry has to supervise a staff of 85 people, including six writers.

"The trouble with an operation of this kind," he said, "is that as it grows you have to spend more and more time on administrative details, leaving you less time for the creative end."

* * *

Garry is sometimes called "the only guy in television without an enemy," but his easygoing nature riles a bit when he is sometimes asked, "How do you like working before an audience of women?"

"Their tone implies they don't feel housewives have much intelligence," Garry said. "Yet women make up more than half the audience that watches the top intellectual or cultural evening programs.

* * *

"Do they suddenly get smarter after 6 o'clock? I don't think so. They're smart all day.

"Women are interested in any subject you present—as long as you don't get pedantic in your approach."

* * *

Garry appears so completely at ease on his shows that it is hard to believe he still sometimes has to fight down actor's buck fever.

But his wife said:

Sheriff Makes Like Chef —Punishing Prisoners?

At the Bonneville County jail Sheriff T. Clark Olsen personally cooked a feast for his seven prisoners. It included the traditional turkey and all that goes with it.

Group Urges More Colleges

Commission to Press for State Construction of 10 New Schools

LANSING (AP)—Ten more community colleges would put 98 per cent of the state's population within communiting distance of a campus, one of Gov. Williams' study commissions reported.

* * *

The additional 10 colleges would put everyone in the Lower Peninsula within 25 miles of a college and Upper Peninsula residents within 35 miles, the governor's junior and community college study commission said in a progress report.

"The pressure of time demands that strenuous measures be taken at once" to establish community colleges within reach of youth in all parts of the state, the commission said.

Included in the report was a recommendation that the legislature establish a state community college building fund financed by a bond issue approved by the voters.

* * *

It recommended that community college districts be authorized to build self-liquidating buildings financed by loans from governmental agencies or private investors.

Much of the report dealt with a complicated plan of state subsidy which would provide from 50 to 65 per cent of the operating revenue for community colleges.

* * *

The commission said the most urgent need for additional community colleges is in Oakland County, with Royal Oak and Pontiac the most logical sites.

* * *

Also listed as possible junior college sites were: Iron River, Escanaba, Sault Ste. Marie, Petoskey, Ludington, Grayling, Bad Axe, Tawas, and Ionia.

U.S. Marine Is Fined for Negligent Homicide

GRAND HAVEN (AP) — Robert Avery, 21, of Grand Haven driver of a car involved in a collision that killed Ronald Cammenga, 17, of Grand Rapids, was fined $150 Wednesday by circuit Judge Raymond L. Smith on a negligent homicide charge.

Avery, a U. S. marine on leave, was ordered to pay or serve 30 days in jail. He originally had been charged with manslaughter, but this was reduced after examination in municipal court.

Conservatives Rally to Save Eden's Job

LONDON (AP)—The Conservative party closed ranks last night behind Sir Anthony Eden, dispelling any immediate prospect that the ailing prime minister might give up the reins of the British government.

Dissatisfied Conservatives in Parliament appeared to have abandoned—for the time being, at least—any thought of a serious revolt against Eden's handling of the Suez Canal crisis.

* * *

It was conceded generally that nothing short of such a revolt, or a really crippling illness, could force Eden to throw in his hand.

The apparent restoration of party unity was achieved on the eve of Eden's departure tonight for a rest in Jamaica. It came at a meeting of the "1922 Committee," an organization of all Conservative members of the House of Commons who hold no office in the government.

* * *

Reports leaking out of the conference agreed that R. A. Butler, Eden's deputy and political heir apparent, and Chancellor of the Exchequer Harold Macmillan, another possible future prime minister, had succeeded in rallying the party behind the government.

Dissidents who had criticized the invasion of Egypt as unwise were said to have been persuaded that what's done is done and that the government is now doing all it can to help the United Nations pick up the pieces.

* * *

Another group who felt that the government was now taking too passive a line and thus letting itself be deprived of any fruits of victory in Egypt received assurances that British forces will not withdraw until "effective" U.N. control has been established.

* * *

Newspapers which oppose Eden resumed the sharp sniping they had toned down after the announcement that he was suffering from "severe overstrain" and was taking a rest.

* * *

The pro-Labor Daily Mirror's columnist William N. Connor wrote: "At no moment of our history, that I can recall, has the Queen's first minister left the country at a moment of such deadly peril. This indeed is a farewell to arms."

* * *

Taking Eden's place under fire in the House of Commons, acting prime minister Butler said the British and French would not withdraw from the Suez Canal zone "until we consider that this (U.N.) force is competent to discharge the tasks which the Assembly has given it to do."

These, Butler said, included (1) preservation of peace between Egypt and Israel, (2) restoration of "secure freedom of navigation" through the canal, and (3) insurance of unhindered use of the canal by world shipping in accord with the six principles adopted by the Security Council. One of the principles is that the waterway would be kept out of national and international politics.

* * *

Butler added the government had no idea of "flouting the United Nations, but we must reserve to ourselves an element of judgment."

* * *

Butler also rejected Laborite demands for an investigation into allegations that Britain, France and Israel had conspired in advance to attack Egypt. The acting prime minister insisted "there was no prior agreement" but turned down opposition calls for an inquiry into "the origin of the military operation."

UP FROM THE POTOMAC — A crane raises a twin-engined Air Force liaison plane after it crashed only minutes from its destination, the Bolling Air Force base near Washington, D. C. The pilot, Lt. Richard B. Perlich of McLean, Va., swam to safety but two passengers, Maj. Gen. James C. Selser Jr. and Maj. Jose Blondet, were reported missing.

College Students Are Really Low . . . on Nickels

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Police aren't having much luck putting parking meters in front of a University of Texas men's dormitory.

Diamonds in Industry

NEW YORK—American industry uses about 11,000,000 carats of man-made industrial diamonds yearly. This total weighs about 2½ tons and is worth nearly $35,000,000.

Burma Yields Again to Reds

By withdrawing their invading troops from one part of Burma, the Communists are getting permanent possession of another, far more strategic sector.

The Burmese concession gives the Chinese a road into rebellious Tibet which is relatively ice-free the year round, and two routes aimed directly at Assam, India's northernmost province. In return, the Communists agreed to withdraw from the Wa states which they invaded in 1953.

* * *

The area Red China won, apparently in negotiations with former Prime Minister U Nu recently, covers three townships in northern Kachin State.

An estimated 4,500 Chinese Communist troops moved into both the Wa states and Kachin up to last August.

* * *

The Burmese army became increasingly upset over the occupation. It had only 7,000 soldiers in all of upper Burma. Most of them were busy fighting local insurgents and local Communist bands who, with outside arms help and 4,000 men, have kept parts of Burma in civil war since 1948.

Said one Burmese commander: "We looked at our own forces, looked at their troops and then looked over the border. We shuddered."

Along Burma's twisting 1,200-mile frontier with China, the Communists supposedly have five armies of about 50,000 men.

There are about a million Chinese in Burma — a major share illegally. Most of them are settling in the frontier states.

Japan's Diet Elects Two New Members

FUKUOKA, Japan (AP) — Two members of Prime Minister Ichiro Hatoyama's government party were elected today to the lower house of Japan's Diet (Parliament) to fill two vacancies in Fukuoka prefecture's first constituency.

The voting increased the strength of Hatoyama's Liberal-Democrats to 299 of the Diet's 467 seats.

Trapped Marines Sing While Awaiting Rescue

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—Two U.S. Marines were trapped for 20 minutes when their car overturned last night.

Police said PFC. Melvin Crossland, 21, and PFC. Edward S. Carroll, 22, who suffered only cuts in the crash, sang the Marine hymn while waiting for rescue workers to extricate them.

Find Fisherman's Body

PENTWATER (AP) — The body of Corwin Brower, 29, who with Lloyd E. Horton, 52, was drowned Sunday while fishing in Pentwater Lake, was recovered late Wednesday. Horton's body was found soon after they had been reported missing. Both were residents of Pentwater.

Hollywood Headlines

Mansfield Gains Lead in Hunter Success Reel

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — We can all relax now, Jayne Mansfield gets the lead in "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?" for 20th Century-Fox. This is official. When I printed that Jayne would play the role she created on the stage, other columnists said she'd never get the role, it would go to Marilyn Monroe.

Jayne will have with her Tom Ewell, Clifton Webb and Thelma Ritter. Frank Tashlin has scripted the story and he'll produce and direct it. If Tom Ewell is still in "Tunnel of Love" on the Broadway stage, the company will go to New York for his scenes.

The "Rock Hunter" story has been completely revised and is now a satire on TV. Well, at last the poor movies are getting a rest.

"Wayward Bus," which the voluptuous Jayne starts in 10 days, still has no director or leading man.

* * *

When success comes to a girl like Lisa Kirk you can't help but be happy. Lisa, who is in Hollywood for a few days before she takes off for the El Rancho Vegas where she opens Nov. 28, told me she has an entirely new act. 'And you figure in it," she said.

Her husband, Bob Wells, and Kay Thompson wrote her material and Nick Castle has done the choreography.

While Lisa is here she will discuss with those two young geniuses Stanley Kubrick and James Harris the top role in "The Unfaithful Wife." Stanley and James are the two lads who made that sleeper, "The Killing," which received such great notices.

* * *

The Little East Indian actress Anna Kashfi, who has been so sick for so many months, almost ever since she finished "The Mountain," has told MGM she'll be ready to work in "Don't Go Near The Water" by Jan. 1.

William Brinkley, author of this best seller, is due in Hollywood this week on a vacation. And while he's here he will read Dorothy Kingsley's screenplay and offer her any additional suggestions he feels are important.

* * *

Harry Karl telephoned to tell me that he has never refused Marie McDonald a Mexican divorce. "I don't care what she does," he told me. "We're divorced in California and all this sounds as if I wanted her back. I don't want her. I've had it."

Harry, who does much for charity and has never been known to turn down a worthy appeal, is currently being seen with Zsa Zsa Gabor. I asked him if he is going to marry Zsa Zsa.

He said, "I don't want to marry anyone, but like her very much."

Ann Miller's date for the evening was Hal Hayes. They were with the William Peireras.

After the premiere, the Vine Street Derby looked like the good old days with Gregory Peck and his attractive Veronique, the Joseph Cottons, Frances and Edgar Bergen, and Charlie Coburn going on from the theater.

Susan Strasberg, all done up in a purple sweater, was Yul Brynner's luncheon guest at the Paramount commissary. Her day was complete with C. B. De Mille and Y. Frank Freeman stopping by her table.

Virginia Z writes that her daughter Susan Zanuck Hakim had a sick spell after walking up five flights of stairs when a lift went out of commission in Paris. She expects her baby in February.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

U. S. Followed Course of Middleman in Middle East

By JOSEPH H. SINGER
Washington Diplomatic Correspondent of INS

(What is the U.S. stake in the current Middle East crisis? What course has the U.S. followed? What new U.S. moves can we expect? This is the third of six reports from world capitals explaining from all angles a situation that has brought the world to the brink of disaster.)

WASHINGTON (INS)—The United States has played the role of "peacemaker" in the Middle East crisis from the very beginning—and will follow this path in the future.

Playing the middleman alienated the United States from its two closest allies, Britain and France, but U. S. diplomats are more than ever convinced this is the only course for America.

* * *

Why has the U. S. stuck to the role in the Middle East?

The United States defenses in the Middle East—including strategic air command atomic bases in Libya and Saudi Arabia—are designed mainly to keep the Soviets from achieving this aim. If Moscow can establish a solid bridgehead in the Middle East, it will cut through Western Europe's defenses and point a dagger at the free world.

On the economic side the United States has private and government investments exceedling two billion dollars. A large part of this is American Oil Company rights to nearly 40 per cent of the world's oil supply.

SPARK IGNIGHTED

The present Middle East crisis, merely one of a long series throughout history, sparked into life on July 19, 1956. The United States withdrew its billion-dollar-offer to help Egyptian president Gamal Abdel Nasser build the Aswan Dam on the Nile River. The reason was that Nasser had put Egypt deeply in debt to the Communist world in buying Russian military equipment.

On July 26 Nasser nationalized the Suez Canal, the vital lifeline for Western Europe for Middle Eastern Oil. The Canal was operated by a company largely controlled by British and French interests.

In August, Britian and France demanded international control of canal traffic and rushed military forces to the Eastern Mediterranean.

* * *

At this point, the United States stepped in, urging with all diplomatic pressure possible on Britain and France that the conflict be settled through negotiations and not through military force.

In September Nasser rejected the idea of international control. As the majority of foreign pilots quit working on the canal, British and French forces were poised to attack and re-captured the canal.

On Sept. 8, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and President Eisenhower both intervened personally to prevent war. The U. S. proposed a "users' agency" to work out an arrangement between the maritime nations and the Egyptian government over the canal.

U. S. LED TALKS

The U. S. spearheaded the diplomatic maneuvering to produce negotiated settlement. At the personal urging of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, Britain and France agreed to hold closed-door discussions with Egypt on settling the Canal dispute.

Then suddenly in October Washington discovered that Israeli, British and French military forces were being prepared for some action without any prior notice to the U. S. government.

But on Oct. 29, Israeli forces drove into Egyptian territory. The U. S. immediately acted to halt the Israel invasion through the United Nations machinery, calling for an immediate emergency meeting of the security council.

President Eisenhower also asked Israel to stop.

Two days later Britain and France threatened to move against Egypt and stop the conflict there. Again the U. S. strove to restrain those countries from sending their forces into action.

But the American effort failed.

The President during a Trans-Atlantic telephone talk urged Eden to stop the fighting. The Chief Executive also sent personal messages to the same effect to Mollet and Ben-Gurion. Eden agreed with Mr. Eisenhower and brought the conflict to a halt.

The next day, Wednesday, Nov. 7, when the cease-fire was achieved, Israel refused to obey the United Nations' order to withdraw from Egypt. However, another personal cable from President Eisenhower forced Ben-Gurion to reverse his position and agree to withdraw immediately after the United Nations' police force arrived in Egypt.

Parallel to this unilateral American action, the United States led the fight in the United Nations to bring about a cease-fire and set up the international police force.

During all this time President Eisenhower made it abundantly clear in several public statements that the United States had no intention of sending American troops to intervene in the Middle East.

Today the United States stands prepared to bring peace to the Middle East by:

1. Granting a loan for the resettlement of 900,000 Palestinian refugees who have been a sore spot in the Middle East since 1948.
2. By giving money for the development of irrigation projects to bring prosperity to the entire area.
3. By joining any treaty which would prevent either the Israelis or the Arabs from forcibly changing their boundaries.
4. By helping seek a solution to the problem of drawing permanent borders between Israel and the Arab nations.

As in the past, the American efforts will be concentrated within the frame work of the United Nations.

(Next: The Israeli position.)

KEEP POURING IN — A day's mail into the Pontiac Chamber of Commerce office doesn't go by without letters being received from citizens urging installation of airline service at Pontiac Municipal Airport. The Chamber began a campaign recently asking public opinion on the subject after the new 4,000-foot runway was opened at the local field. Shown examining some of the 100 letters are John W. Hirlinger, manager of the Chamber, and Mrs. Leonard O. Griffin, secretary at the office. Hirlinger plans to take the bundle to Washington along with a delegation to appear before the Civil Aeronautics Board seeking acceptance of an application previously filed.

Rhode Island Barbers Give Haircuts to Needy

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP) — The Rhode Island Mutual Barbers Assn. will begin "operation next" at the Rhode Island Catholic Orphan Asylum next Sunday.

Member barbers will give free haircuts to about 80 boys from 6 to 16.

The association said it will offer free haircuts to all charitable organizations in the state, regardless of race, creed or religion.

New Task-Force 57 Chevrolet Trucks!

In a history-making endurance run, six heavily loaded new '57 Chevy trucks covered the 1,520-mile Alcan in less than 45 hours (normally a 72-hour haul)—and with gas mileage up to 18.17 miles per gallon!

Chevy's short-stroke V8's put on a power show that turned steep Yukon grades into gentle slopes. As a special test of endurance, two of the engines went all the way without being turned off once!

A Powermatic-equipped heavyweight went the whole 1,520-mile route in a single forward speed range! On downgrades, Powermatic's built-in retarder saved wear on service brakes.

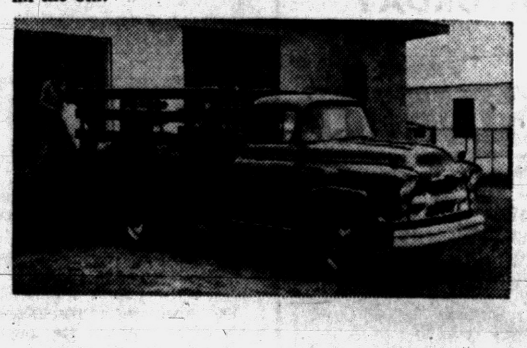

Chassis components passed a test of rutted, rough going. Frames and rear axles withstood hundreds of miles of pounding gravel. Chevy's superb steering and suspension took all the fight out of the most treacherous Alcan stretches.

Stop by soon to look over our new line. Whether your job calls for fast work against tight schedules, or big muscles for off-the-road grinds—we've got a Chevrolet Alcan champ to fill the bill!

"Despite the severity of the test under the most adverse road conditions, not a single truck turned back or dropped out because of mechanical failure." (From the official AAA test report.)

Naval Academy Breathes Easy—Girl Won't Apply

UNION CITY, N.J. (AP) — The Navy has won its battle to keep women out of the all-male Naval Academy—by default.

Miss Mary Ann Bonalsky, 17-year-old student of Union City, decided not to force the issue. She decided not to take a preliminary entrance examination yesterday.

She had shocked the Navy Brass last month by announcing that she hoped to be the first of her sex to enter Annapolis.

Navy Secretary Charles Thomas commented shortly afterward, "I can't imagine one girl down there with all those men, can you?"

Mary Ann's mother said today, "all the publicity did her more harm than good," and so her daughter decided to abandon her bid to become a midshipwoman.

Military Order of the Purple Heart was established on August 7, 1782.

Stocks Dawdle at Higher Level

NEW YORK (AP)—Steels lost their early edge as the stock market dawdled along slightly higher on average early this afternoon. Trading was quiet.

* * *

Motors were steady. Chrysler, Ford, General Motors and Studebaker-Packard all posted slight gains.

* * *

Lukens Steel, which had been ahead more than two points earlier, was down almost 4 points. Youngstown Sheet & Tube held part of its earlier advance. Bethlehem and Republic shifted narrowly lower.

Chemicals and metals were spotty. Lower were American Cyanamid, Allied Chemical and Du Pont. Slightly ahead were Dow and Union Carbide.

Grains Make Fair Advances

CHICAGO (AP)—Grains pushed ahead for fair-sized advances on the Board of Trade today even though dealings were not very active.

* * *

Major force behind the buying was supplied by President Eisenhower's envoking the emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act in the dock workers' strike.

* * *

Cold weather, a large soybean crush and no prospect for moisture in the winter wheat belt were other items inclining traders to the buying side.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was ½ to 1 cent higher. December $2.40½; corn ⅝ to 1 cent higher, December $1.38⅞, oats ⅝ to ¾ higher, December 80⅝, rye ¾ to 1 higher, December $1.49¼, soybeans 1¾ to 2¼ higher, January $2.60⅜, and lard 17 to 30 cents a hundred pounds higher, December $15.05.

News in Brief

An Auburn Heights bartender prevented a possible knifing at a tavern there Wednesday night when he overpowered a man threatening his wife by slugging him with a blackjack, the Oakland County Sheriff's Department said today.

A pair of Oakland County Sheriff's deputies spent part of their Thanksgiving afternoon chasing a loose horse at an Avon Township subdivision yesterday. Officers George R. Enners and Wilbert Lankin rounded up the stray Shetland pony after a long chase with the aid of area residents. The pony reportedly got loose from a tree at 392 Winry Rd.

Card of Thanks 1

THE FAMILY OF MRS. ADDIE Burt wish to express their heartfelt thanks and appreciation to all our relatives and friends for their messages of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings received during our recent bereavement. We especially wish to thank Rev. Arnold Olson and Baird's Funeral Home. Your kindness will always be remembered. The family.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR mother, Mrs. Rhoda Teasdle Who passed away one year ago today, November 23, 1955.

CARPENDER — In loving memory of Howard Carpender, who passed away Nov. 23rd 1953.
Sunshine passes and shadows fall.
But love's remembrance outlast all.
And though the years be many or few,
They are filled with remembrance, dear, of you.

ODNEAL — In loving memory of John Daniel who passed away Nov. 23, 1953.
In the prime of life he drew his last breath
Loved by wife, son and mother, sister, friends, father, brother. He was missed this Thanksgiving day, and the feasting and gladness was mixed with sadness, remembering his passing away.

Adds Films, TV to Bandleading

Musician Acts in Two New Movies and Stars in Own Video Show

By BOB THOMAS

* * *

Diversification is a two-bit word for a practice many big companies have employed in recent years. Instead of putting all their eggs in one basket, the firms get into a variety of enterprises. For instance, we find the O'Neils of General Tire buying up radio networks, TV stations and even RKO studios.

Handsome, able Anthony — he's a ringer for Cary Grant — decided two years ago he needed to do more than merely front a band.

* * *

"The band business has changed a great deal in recent years," he reasoned. "In the old days, you could make a lot of money in 'locations' — lengthy stands in big city ballrooms.

"Nowadays there are no locations. You can still make money in the band business, but you've got to keep traveling 52 weeks of the year. The money has to be found in parties and one-night stands."

* * *

Such a life might be all right for a youngster, but Anthony is tired of drafty buses and one-nighters. Home has more appeal for him these days. Small wonder, when it contains Mamie Van Doren and their new youngster.

"After I appeared in 'Daddy Long Legs,' I decided I'd better branch out," he explained. "So for two years I took acting lessons, singing lessons, some dancing and even a memory course. That helped me in remembering lines and lyrics; I could memorize music in one reading, but the words of songs escaped me."

* * *

End Adv. Wed. Nov. 21.

LIKES VARIETY — Bandleader Ray Anthony believes in diversifying his career to achieve more security and a regular home life. Thus, he has become a movie actor, as well as starring in his own ABC-TV show on Fridays from 10 to 11 p. m.

Four Top Generals Fired in Buenos Aires

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Provisional President Pedro Aramburu's government has ousted four top generals, including the army commander in chief and chief of staff, and arrested two other generals who oppose the regime.

Those jailed were Gen. Leon Justo Bengoa and Gen. Juan Jose Uranga, leaders of the conservative nationalist faction opposing Aramburu. The army said they were picked up late Wednesday while loitering, armed, near a military barracks.

Uranga's son, an attorney and a third man also were arrested.

Aramburu claimed there was no connection between the army shakeup and the arrests and said the shift in army leadership was not aimed at nipping a potential revolt. He termed it just "part of a process of evolution which the country continues and which does not affect the stability of government."

Dems to Discuss Debt

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic National Committee's Executive Committee will meet Monday and Tuesday to discuss plans for paying off the party's campaign debt. The members of the executive committee include Mrs. Margaret Price of Detroit.

Walter Winchell Friday Program to Be Dropped

NEW YORK (AP)—The option on Walter Winchell's Friday night television show will not be picked up at the end of the columnist's current six-weeks contract.

The Mirror quoted Winchell as saying he is relieved at the action of the sponsors "because he is working for less than half the salary he received for a 12½-minute newscast and is knocking himself out every day rehearsing, revising the entire script, editing the show . . ."

Winchell reportedly will receive $75,000 in severance pay.

Old Gold, which controls the 8:30-9 p.m. period over NBC on Friday nights, has given up that time. Toni, the alternate sponsor, said it could not carry the financial load of the show, put at $165,000 weekly for broadcasting time and other costs.

Michigan Supplier Buys Natural Gas Reserves

DETROIT (AP) — American Louisiana Pipe Line Co., which supplies two-thirds of Michigan Consolidated Gas Co's. natural gas, today said it has purchased 180 billion cubic feet of additional gas reserves.

The firm also said another 70 billion cubic feet of gas reserves will be connected to its line next week.

American Louisiana said the reserves will provide the pipe line with approximately 25 million cubic feet of gas a day. The new gas fields are located in Louisiana.

Fire Hits Bloomington Kappa Delta House

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) — Fire yesterday destroyed the Kappa Delta sorority house on the Illinois Wesleyan University campus in Bloomington.

Claims Shivers Stalled Election

Texas Gov.-Elect Daniel Hints Scheme to Name GOP Senate Successor

DALLAS (AP)—Democratic Gov.-elect Price Daniel accused Gov. Allan Shivers yesterday of preventing immediate election of Daniel's Senate successor and hinted Shivers wants to appoint a Republican.

* * *

Daniel resigned effective Jan. 15 or as soon as a successor was elected. Shivers said the resignation was not effective until Jan. 15, the day Daniel is inaugurated. He called on the junior senator to submit an unqualified resignation.

Daniel refused, saying that would allow Shivers to appoint the successor. He quoted several precedents and statutes he said allowed a provisional resignation.

* * *

Daniel promised during his campaign he would resign in time for his successor to be elected and pledged there would be no appointment.

He offered his resignation after he won the Democratic nomination in the second primary in August.

* * *

He said Article 1201 of the election code permitted a 100-day wait for the election, which he said would be time for a primary.

Two Hurt in Car Skid in Brandon Township

Virgil F. Goward, 38, of 1845 Hadley Rd., the driver, is in fair condition at Goodrich Hospital with a concussion and broken collarbone. His wife, Theresa, was released after treatment there for cuts and bruises of the neck and arms.

Goward was ticketed for speeding by Pontiac State Police.

Lapeer Man in Crash

Junior G. Cox, 33, of Lapeer, received minor chest injuries when he drove off the road and into a bank at an Avon Township intersection early this morning. He told county deputies he saw street signs too late to avoid the accident at Crooks and Adams roads.

Thirty-two of the states and the District of Columbia have mandatory provisions in their statutes for distribution of free school text books.

Realty and Industry Vying for Avon's Hills

"Rochester is the center of one of the biggest growth areas in the whole metropolitan district," says John K. Brennan of the Howard T. Keating Company.

Restrictions being placed on proposed new subdivision plats would provide a fine protection to any community. Its planning board is one of the best insurance factors to assure an unusually high type of community development," he explains.

"The township sets a minimum of 100 feet of frontage and a minimum lot size of 20,000 square feet. It examines all proposed plats and insists that no one subdivision shall be developed in such a way as to jeopardize adjacent property.

"Wherever you go in the Detroit area, people are talking of Rochester and its rolling hills. We have 3,000 acres there now which are in the process of development and we have been very well pleased with the progress we have made in the two years since we entered the area."

* * *

Back in 1908, the company bought the first 325 acres of this property when it found its stock of animals used for manufacturing and testing biological agents was becoming so large that it could not properly care for them in the block square paddocks and buildings at its Detroit laboratories.

Within a few years this tract had become too small, so the company bought an additional 310 acres making a total of 635 acres that is now in use. Year by year, activities there have increased.

There are now 60 buildings at Parkedale, including a new $2,000,000 laboratory, completed in 1955, which houses the polio vaccine production unit.

Such biological products as influenza vaccine and toxins and antitoxins for tetanus, rabies, diphtheria and a type of gangrene are also manufactured there.

Horses, monkeys, guinea pigs and other animals are housed at Parkedale, and suitable tracts of land are utilized for growing digitalis and other medicinal plants that require special cultivation and handling. Feed for the animals also is grown there.

There are now 227 persons employed at Parkedale, including a number of area farmers who plant, care for and harvest the crop. There still is ample room for expansion if and when new vaccines are developed and manufactured there.

* * *

The Eastern Breeding and Research Station of the Ferry-Morse Seed is a farm that has been in operation for almost 50 years, and Harm Drewes, its superintendent, has been there for almost 30 years, having come over directly from Holland to enter the employ of Ferry-Morse.

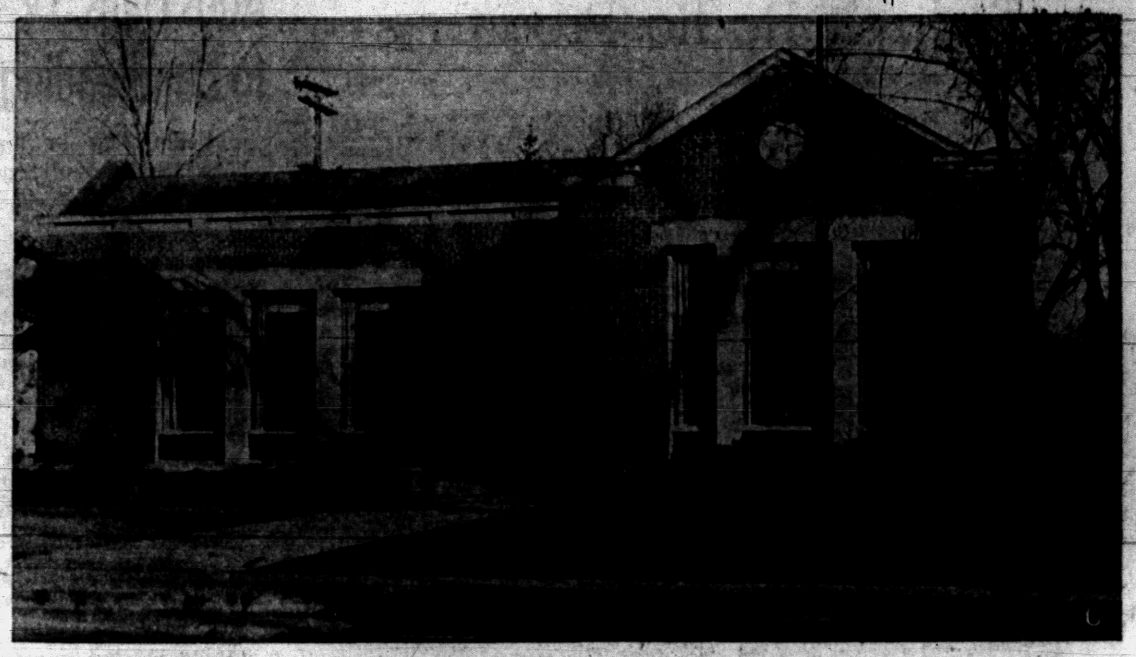

The company is observing its centennial this year. In addition to the Rochester farm it maintains a big western station near Salinas, Calif., and other stations in Idaho and Florida.

Ferry-Morse owns almost 200 acres near Rochester and rents 100 acres more in an effort to avoid cross pollination while conducting its experiments and tests with various seeds. The company experiments, conducts research and tests samples of seed raised for Ferry-Morse at this farm. The tested seed then is rated.

This station handles both vegetable and flower seeds and lawn grasses, but no field seeds. It employes from 50 to 60 people in the summer season, but only a few during the winter when research work is confined to the greenhouses.

Building up of the Rochester area has so increased the dangers of cross-pollination that it is forcing the company to abandon its Rochester farm. Sometime during the next three years all of its activities will be transferred to the company's newly acquired 400 acre farm near Howell, and the land on South Rochester road will be sold.

Plan Yule Party

ROCHESTER — Plans for a Dec. 18 Christmas party are under way for the Rochester Home makers Club. The group will be guests of Mrs. Otto Wagner, according to plans told at a recent meeting at the Township Hall. The Yule gift lesson was given at that time.
