Masked Amateurs Grabbed $72,000

Four Bank Thieves Caught

MASSAPEQUA, N. Y. (AP)—Four men with a variety of ordinary occupations who allegedly decided to take up a new profession — bank robbery — were seized early today less than 15 hours after a fast-moving but amateurish $72,321 stickup here yesterday.

Officers burst in on three of the men counting stacks of bills at the home of one of them. The police action was so fast none of the men had a chance to grab at any of the guns in a small arsenal beside them.

Arrest of the quartet so quickly was attributed to painstaking detective work based on the slimmest of clues — an incident seemingly unrelated to a bank robbery.

Parks was picked up for questioning about 10 o'clock last night, less than eight hours after the robbery at machinegun point of the Security National Bank in this Long Island community. Officers thought there might be some connection with recent robberies in which victims were handcuffed, although none had been used at the bank.

Parks denied buying any handcuffs, authorities said, but finally admitted he had bought some grotesque face masks. Such masks were used by the bandits who held 12 persons at bay in the bank for three minutes while scooping up cash.

Finally, it was added, Parks broke down and admitted taking part in the bank robbery, then implicated three others.

These were identified as Anatole Rylsky, 44, a tavernkeeper, of West Babylon; Richard Hatch, 43, a blueprint developer, of West Babylon; and William McHenry, 31, an insurance salesman of Lindenhurst, all on Long Island.

Police failed to locate any of the three until they got to the home of Rylsky, who has living quarters in the same building as his tavern. Peeking through a slit in a blind the officers saw three men sitting around a kitchen table putting money in neat piles.

Near them were two machine guns, two rifles and a revolver. Two of the men, it turned out, also had revolvers in their pockets.

Police said all the money taken in the bank robbery was on the table.

All four men were said to have signed statements admitting participation in the holdup.

They had never taken the trouble to "case" the bank beforehand, none of them had ever been in it, and it wasn't even selected for the robbery until just before the holdup.

The four were charged with assault and armed robbery.

In Queens, two gunmen got away with $8,000 from a savings and loan association.

In Manhattan, a man walked up to a teller at a bank in the garment district, slipped him a threatening note and walked off with $7,060.

A suspicious salesman, behind him in line followed him to the street, pointed him out to police and he was nabbed.

He was identified as Howard Zior, 39, of the Bronx. Police said he admitted using a note to rob another Manhattan bank of almost $3000 less than a month ago. The salesman was Stephen Sladkus, of Lynbrook, N.Y.

Lost Boy Comes Home When Love Lights Way

By ELIZABETH SHERRILL

Peter was not a "lovable" child. Since his parents had died, he'd been shuttled from one family to another, not wanted, not belonging.

Now, at age 5, he was protecting himself from a world that didn't want him by hating that world. Peter wouldn't talk, he wouldn't smile, he hated everybody.

MISS SHERRILL

At the Hillcrest Adoption Service, in Mt. Kisco, N.Y., they'd just about given up finding a home for Peter. My friend Isobel Clarke is a case worker there. She talked to me often about Peter. "It would take a miracle to make that boy risk loving someone again," she said.

And then one day Mrs. Greene came to the service. Mrs. Greene told Isobel that she and her husband had waited 15 years for a child of their own; now they knew there wouldn't be one.

Isobel hardly heard her; she was looking into Mrs. Greene's face, thinking she had never seen a face so full of love. And as she looked at her, Isobel was thinking, "Peter."

"But I'm frightened," Isobel admitted to me, "Peter is such a badly hurt little boy. Mrs. Greene won't believe me when I tell her that he hates everybody. She hasn't seen him yet."

It was a long time before Mrs. Greene could see Peter. First there had to be interviews, medical reports, family histories—the adoption service puts "parents" and child together with infinite pains before they are ever allowed to meet.

But at last the great day came when Mrs. Greene was to see Peter for the first time. Peter was taken to the public park to play on the swings. Mrs. Greene and Isobel were to sit down on one of the benches where Mrs. Greene could watch him without his knowing that he was being "considered."

HEART POUNDING

As Isobel walked with Mrs. Greene to the park, her heart was pounding so hard she was afraid Mrs. Greene would hear it. She knew, as she'd never known anything before, that this woman and this little boy belonged together.

"But, dear God, let them know

Rested Mamie Returns to Host State Dinner

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower says her three-week sojourn at an Arizona resort provided just what she needed — a rest.

The First Lady flew back just in time to officiate with the President at a dinner honoring President Jose Maria Lemus of El Salvador, scheduled at the White House tonight.

That is just the first item on a heavy spring schedule which will include not only state dinners but also an annual series of spring parties given by or for the First Lady.

Mrs. Eisenhower looked gay, smiling and rested as she alighted from the President's personal plane Columbine III, at Washington National Airport yesterday.

When queried, Mrs. Eisenhower laughingly said she'd again lost "about" five pounds as she did on her visit last year to Maine Chance Health and Beauty Resort near Phoenix, Ariz.

But, she said, "What I really had was a good rest — what I needed."

GOP Torpedoes Williams' Plan to Use Vet Fund

Hopes to Revive Bid to Link Sales Tax Hike to Bonding Program

LANSING (AP) — The Republicans are planning to try again today to revive their bid for a bonding program linked to a one-cent sales tax hike.

Defiant Republicans last night torpedoed Gov. Williams' "last chance" borrowing plan geared to temporary liquidation of the Veterans Trust Fund.

"Any other proposition I know of is a dead horse; in fact, they're beginning to smell," the governor said afterwards, soured and obviously dejected.

This was his comment to newsmen on a Republican return to the stalemate position of a week ago—namely, for borrowing to ease the state increase.

A heavy quiet filled the executive office, between reporters' questions.

Last night's action wiped away the last hope of getting any cash emergency solution on the April 6 ballot for a statewide vote. It heightened prospects for payless paydays in six or eight weeks.

The proposal, put to Republican and Democratic caucuses last night after the Legislature returned from weekend recess, was fuzzy in some respects but in the main called for:

1. Liquidation of the 50 million dollars in trust fund securities and applying proceeds—estimated at 43 millions—to current state obligations.

2. A constitutional guarantee for continuation of benefits to indigent veterans now supported from trust fund income, to be provided by annual appropriation not to exceed $1,500,000.

3. Re-establishment of trust fund principal over a period of 10 years by transfer of five million dollars annually from the state's general fund.

After the Senate Republican caucus, Sen. Frank Beadle of St. Clair, GOP majority leader, told newsmen sentiment was "very strong."

"They wanted no part of it. They wouldn't go for anything that had anything to do with tampering with the Veterans Trust Fund," Beadle said.

House Speaker Don R. Pears (R-Buchanan) said the House Republican position was nearly identical.

Democrats on both sides supported the program "in principle."

News Flash

DETROIT (AP) — The State Tenure Commission today ordered a hearing for Scott Street, demoted suburban Ferndale school principal who is asking reinstatement. New Old Glory Replaces Mangy Flag at Capitol

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Old Glory is flying again in all its glory from the top of the Capitol.

A steeplejack climbed the flag pole of the State House Monday and removed a mangled Stars and Stripes which had been flopping in the breeze for weeks after winds all but tore it from its moorings.

One steeplejack had tried repeatedly to rescue the flag, hanging by a single rope, but was forced to give up by bitter cold and fierce winds.

The rescue by steeplejack Bill Bradley was done with the help of special equipment and an assistant.

Mrs. Gall Mute at Arraignment

Judge Enters Innocent Plea for Mother in Daughter's Death

With the curious looking on, Mrs. Anne D. Gall yesterday heard Oakland County Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland enter a plea of innocent for her in the fatal beatings of her daughter, Judith Anne, 12.

The plea was entered into the record after Mrs. Gall's attorney, Raymond D. Munde, listened to the charge read against his client by First Assistant Prosecutor Robert D. Long. He then said she wished to stand mute.

Throughout the procedings, Mrs. Gall, 35-year-old Commerce Township mother of three other children, sat quietly in the corner of the courtroom with a deputy seated on each side of her.

When the charge against her was read, she stood with head bowed and with the same colorful babushka she has worn in two other court appearances draped over her head and hiding her face.

Mrs. Gall, of 3080 Royal St., is being held in the county jail on a first-degree murder charge. Judith Anne died Feb. 16 of pneumonia, brought on, a doctor says, by a series of beatings.

After Mrs. Gall had left the courtroom with Deputy Mildred Crozier, Judge Holland asked those that might have come to witness the arraignment to leave, if they wished, so other arraignments and sentences could proceed. Some 15, mostly women, filed from the courtroom.

Munde late yesterday declined to comment on whether he still was considering asking for a sanity hearing of Mrs. Gall. Judge Holland, however, earlier placed a March 30 deadline on when such a motion or other motions should be filed.

Neither would Munde affirm or deny reports that non-court appointed psychiatrists have already examined Mrs. Gall at the jail.

No date has been set as yet for Mrs. Gall's trial.

Area Woman 'Fine' After TV Operation

"I feel fine," a chipper Commerce Township grandmother of 29 said today after undergoing major eye surgery before thousands of television viewers.

Mrs. Ethel Rogan, a 71-year-old widow, sat up for breakfast in her Providence Hospital room in Detroit, a bandage covering her right eye.

"Now I'll have to learn to wink with my left eye," she gaily quipped at a news conference later.

A sure-handed surgeon had removed a cataract from the right eye in a 15-minute operation televised live last night by WWJ-TV and relayed in color and black and white by four other television stations in southern Michigan.

It was the second time a major operation was televised as part of Michigan's "Medical Week." Last year, a heart operation was performed on Carl Miltenberger, 66, of Battle Creek.

MRS. ETHEL ROGAN

At the hospital with eyes glued on the monitor set last night were Mrs. Rogan's three married daughters, two sons and her three oldest grandchildren.

The children were Mrs. Horace Metevia, 1838 Portlock Rd., Commerce Township; Mrs. John Talpos, 31779 Auburn Rd., Birmingham; Mrs. William Schilke, of Detroit; and her sons Harry, of Lorraine, Ohio, and Michael, of Dearborn.

Although the televised program was on the air for an hour, the actual operation required only a fourth of the time.

The operation was pronounced a success and Mrs. Rogan was allowed to have visitors today and to sit up in a chair for brief periods of time.

DELICATE OPERATION

As the TV cameras trained closely on Mrs. Rogan's face, Dr. Cusick cut into the eye.

He immediately applied sutures,

$48 Million More Approved for Mercury

Senate Gives Speedy Passage to Bill Aimed at Making U.S. First

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate gave an assist to the nation's manned space flight efforts today with speedy passage of a bill for an extra $48,354,000 of spending this year.

The authorization measure for the national aeronautics and space administration went through by roll call after brief discussion.

The bill now goes to the House where similar quick approval is expected.

Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss), floor manager for the supplemental bill, stressed the urgency of rapid progress "in developing our capabilities to put man into space."

He explained that just under 21 million dollars of the added funds will go for this under Project Mercury, NASA's initial program of manned space research.

Stennis repeated his warning of disaster if a potential enemy is first in space with a vehicle able to deliver a nuclear weapon.

NASA previously has earmarked more than 37 million dollars for the Mercury space flight project and the estimated effort will cost about 200 million dollars before it is accomplished.

In the next few years civilian and military space programs will cost billions of dollars annually, Stennis said, adding that scientists expect benefits which "would pay many times the cost of the program."

Eisenhower was quoted today as saying he is convinced his defense program meets the needs of the situation despite the alarms voiced by some Congressional Democrats.

Republican Congressional leaders reported after their regular weekly White House session that Eisenhower also said he of course puts the defense of the country ahead of everything else.

There have been suggestions from Dmocratic critics that Eisenhower was so bent on balancing the budget that he was ready to weaken defenses in order to do it.

The defense program was thoroughly reviewed, the GOP leaders said, during a 2¼ hour meeting with the President.

The Defense Department announced today that the radar warning line across the top of the continent will be extended across Greenland at a cost of more than 27 million dollars.

The Distant Early Warning Line (DEW) now runs from the Aleutian Islands, around Alaska and across Canada to eastern Baffin Island.

An Intimate Account of a Great Human—'The Babe and I'

Baseball Returned Little to 'Sultan of Swat,' Says Mrs. Ruth

Editor's Note: The widow and closest confidante of Babe Ruth sets down in her just published memoirs what she considers the first true story of the Babe's unparalleled career, on the diamond and off it. This is the start of a daily series providing an ample condensation of her account.

By MRS. BABE RUTH
with Bill Slocum

(Condensed from "The Babe and I," 1959, by Mrs. Babe Ruth and published by Prentice Hall, Inc.)

I am a lady in love with a legend. That can be an exhilarating experience, most of the time.

There is nothing very exhilarating, however, in watching a giant of a man sit in a kitchen and weep by the hour because the thing he loved most in all the world has discarded him.

Mrs. Babe Ruth

I know Babe Ruth loved me. The Babe and I never fell out of love, not even for a minute. I know the Babe loved his two adopted daughters and his close friends. And the Lord knows he loved life.

But he really loved baseball more than all things. And baseball took of him all he could give and returned an absolute minimum.

In dollars and cents baseball made Babe Ruth a wealthy man. But, if we accept dollars and cents as the sole scale of values, I ask: Who was the bigger gainer—Babe or baseball?

Before baseball sent Babe weeping to the kitchen, there were many thousands of exhilarating moments as an American living legend brought happiness and laughter to millions, not the least of them himself and his family.

It is, of course, trying to be alone. Of that as little as possible. I am not the first widow, nor the last. I am reminded of my husband more often than most widows because I see his name everywhere increasingly every year. The legend of the Babe seems to be growing.

I did not seek this book, I was happy to be asked to write it, thoubh. Perhaps I can explain why.

My husband left me very well off, indeed. So there must be another reason. Let me tell you what it is.

JUST A KID?

I do a great deal of reading and I am astonished by some of the things I see in print, I have no boudoir secrets here beyond the fact that, in that particular facet of my marriage, I envy no woman in the world.

Most of what has been written on Babe was just junk, although generally harmless junk.

The writers took a lot of baseball statistics, wrapped them around the fact that he loved kids and sometimes ate too many hot dogs. From that they drew what was purported to be the true picture of a man who is not just a great baseball player, but is, without doubt, a chapter of Americana.

There was a movie made about Babe's life. I still get TV royalties from that ridiculous charade. Although I have a remarkable awareness of the value of a dollar, I go on record here: I will happily forego any future royalties if the men paying them will forego showing that masterpiece in mush.

I keep reading that Babe Ruth was just a big kid. That is very true as far as it goes. The first time I met him I said "He's nice, but he's just a big kid." But he was also very much a big man.

HE LOVED FUN

Babe Ruth was the stuff of which juvenile delinquents are made. He was a remarkably gifted athlete, but others with similar gifts and the same background have floundered before their gifts were recognized.

All wives like to think they helped their husband in his life's work. I am no exception. It was my job to see that he stood up there relaxed and healthy.

And that could be a job. The Babe was not geared to even the mild restrictions baseball places on an athlete. He loved everything that was fun in life. Most of the things that are fun in the life of a rugged giant in his twenties and thirties take their toll in the third inning of the second game of a double-header.

But I was no jail-keeper. The Babe could be tamed, perhaps but he couldn't be caged. He surely couldn't be henpecked into staying in shape. I knew only too well that the country was filled with understanding females who would be more than enchanted to lighten the woes of a famous, wealthy, exciting and misunderstood husband.

So, if Babe straightened himself out, and the world knows he did, it was because he was man enough to fight off his wilder impulses toward wine, women and song.

I feel that the child who became an American legend could just as easily have become an American tragedy had he not had the instinctive courage to fight down baser impulses he picked up in childhood.

So this is an effort to tell the real story of an idol born to baseball greatness who had to fight himself to gain personal greatness. To have won the adoration and respect his own and next generation have had for his name, he must have been a great deal more than a big brute of an athlete.

Tomorrow: Wild tales of his wild youth are overshadowed by the taste of his sudden and fabulous success.

The lowest recorded temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 14. By 2 p.m. the mercury had reached 34.

Allied Split on Berlin Eased

Britain, France Agree on Policy

New Khrushchev Offer Helps Macmillan Mend Fences With De Gaulle

By United Press International

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, in Paris for talks with President Charles de Gaulle, was reported today to have mended much of the split in Allied ranks over their approach to the Berlin crisis.

He was helped to some extent by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev who made an apparent major concession on Berlin last night—but one that found no favor with Washington or Bonn.

Khrushchev suggested that Russia go ahead with its plans to turn West Berlin into a "free city," but he proposed that a token garrison be stationed there made up of Big Four or neutral troops.

The plan was criticized in most Western capitals because it did not change Allied determination to resist making West Berlin a free city, and because it would introduce Russian troops there for the first time.

But it helped Macmillan, who insists that only negotiations can avert a war over Berlin and who insists that the Soviet Union will relent on its Berlin stand if the negotiations get started.

Macmillan got a chilly reception on his arrival in Paris yesterday because of reports he favored a policy of partial surrender in Central Europe to previous Soviet calls for a demilitarized zone.

But he convinced Premier Michel Debre that Britain is as determined as France to stand firm against Communist pressure in Berlin. He received a boost in this from West German Foreign Minister Heinrich Von Brentano who said Macmillan had discussed with the Russians a form of disengagement with which West Germany agrees.

Western observers in Berlin said Khrushchev's new Berlin plan might open the way for a face-saving deal with the West that could prevent war over Berlin. But they cautioned that long and difficult negotiations lay ahead.

Washington dispatches said American officials were confident Khrushchev's alternately hot and cold tactics will not dent the solid Western resistance to his Berlin demands. And they said his "concessions" will not fool any Western officials.

They also dismissed his new Berlin "concession" on the ground that the whole idea of a "free city" was not acceptable, and that any refinements of the proposal did not make it any more acceptable.

Khrushchev, despite the apparent softening of his stand, was going ahead today with the discussion of plans for forcing the Western Allies out of Berlin. A Communist spokesman said he would meet German Reds today to map new anti-Western strategy.

Pontiac Man Falls Down Stairs, Dies

A 76-year-old Pontiac man died at Pontiac General Hospital this morning of a skull fracture after falling down a flight of stairs at a boarding house where he was living.

Police said Leon A. Durrant, who lived at 40 Auburn Ave., was admitted to the hospital in critical condition shortly after 1 a.m. He was pronounced dead at 5:15 by Oakland County Deputy Coroner Dr. Isaac Prevette.

Other residents at the home said Durrant had slipped and fallen on the stairs.

Area Parolees on Way Back to Jackson Prison

Two Waterford Township parolees were headed back to the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson today to serve out prison terms after Oakland County Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland yesterday suspended sentence for both of them for unarmed robbery.

Richard C. Lance, 24, of 1248 Parkway Dr., and Charles Bradley, 22, of 1740 Orchid St., pleaded guilty March 2 to robbing an 85-year-old Rose Township man of $24 in his home. They were to be sentenced March 23 along with a companion, Billy J. Gray, 25, of 13571 Davisburg Rd., Davisburg.

Because Lance and Bradley were parolees and had six and eight years, respectively, to serve on previous breaking and entering convictions, Judge Holland turned them over to Pontiac Parole Officer Edward Nakfoor. He had them transported back to Jackson this morning.

A close watch was put on Lance after he twice yesterday attempted to take his life in the Oakland County jail, according to Sheriff Frank W. Irons.

Gray is still scheduled to be sentenced March 23.

Spring in South but Winter Still Around in North

By The Associated Press

It was spring-like weather across most of the southern half of the country today but it was fairly cool in most northern areas.

Fair weather prevailed across the major part of the country.

The main belt of precipitation extended over southern sections of Iowa southeastward into Missouri, throughout Illinois and northern Indiana eastward through Ohio and into southern New England. Light snow or flurries fell in most areas, with light rain along the southern edge of the wet zone.

Temperatures were from 10 to 15 degrees higher from Georgia northward to the Middle Atlantic states. Warmer weather also was reported from western Texas eastward into Oklahoma and northeastward into western Missouri.

Cooler air spread between the two warmer areas, stretching from the lower Mississippi Valley northeastward into the Ohio Valley and spreading through the Great Lakes region.

Only minor temperature changes were reported in other sections of the country. Sunny skies and readings in the 70s were reported Monday from Florida and Georgia across the southern Rockies. The mercury climbed to the 80s in Texas, Arizona and California and to the 60s northward to Kansas City and Washington.

Youth Sentenced in Larceny Case

Oakland County Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland placed two Detroit 20-year-olds on probation for two years for using a charge account plate they found to purchase $500 in Christmas gifts at the Northland Center, Inc., in Southfield.

Judge Holland also handed down a 90-day jail sentence to one of the boys, Anthony F. Czanstke, of 17672 Springer St.

Czanstke and Kenneth D. Collins, of 14704 Eastwood Ave., were ordered to pay $100 court costs each.

Before sentencing yesterday, their Detroit attorney assured Judge Holland that restitution in the amount of the $543 worth of merchandise charged had been made.

Area Man Hurt in 3-Car Wreck Near Waterford

John E. Noonan, 17, of 3595 Lawence St., Drayton Plains, was treated for minor injuries at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Monday evening and released after being involved in a three-car smashup on U. S. 10 south of Andersonville road, Waterford Township.

The drivers of the other two cars, William J. Augugliaro, 17, of 4563 Waterford Rd., Waterford Township, and James W. Pritchard, 30, of 5222 Tangent St., were uninjured.

Augugliaro had stopped his car behind Pritchard's, which was waiting to make a turn when Noonan truck his auto from behind, starting the chain reaction pileup, according to State Police. Noonan old police he couldn't stop in time and skidded into the Augugliaro uto.

Push Sale of U.S. Savings Bonds Here

'Share in America' Drive Under Way

The "Share in America" campaign, aimed at increasing purchases of U. S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan, got under way yesterday in Pontiac.

According to Robert S. Nelson, Universal Oil Seal Co. vice president and chairman of the community-wide bond drive, employers throughout the Pontiac area have arranged for person-to-person solicitations of their employes this week to give every wage and salary earner an opportunity to enroll.

Major goal of the campaign, which will run throughout the week, is to enroll a minimum of 2,500 new payroll savers. Firms which did not have the bond-buying program were urged to install it. Companies in which the plan already was in operation were asked to conduct a promotion to encourage more employes to participate.

"I urge all citizens to buy bonds and U. S. Savings Stamps themselves and encourage friends and neighbors to do likewise," said Rowston, in proclaiming this as "Share in America Week" in Pontiac.

"This campaign gives every citizen the opportunity to share in the economic and military strength of our nation," he said.

Minority Parties to Be on Ballot

State Official Explains Reason for Action to Local Election Leaders

Twenty-eight candidates on the Prohibition, Socialist Labor, and Socialist Workers' tickets will be on statewide April 6 ballots despite an objection from Oakland County election officials.

Bernard Apal, deputy secretary of state, traveled to Pontiac yesterday afternoon to personally explain to local officials why the three so-called minority parties could go on the ballots.

Apal referred to a Sept. 23, 1949 opinion of former Michigan Atty. Gen. Stephen J. Roth which said, in effect, that time did not permit the three political parties from requalifying for places on the ballots by filing petitions with Secretary of State James M. Hare's office.

Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore, chairman of the Oakland County Election Commission, wrote Hare Friday, claiming the parties had not complied with a law to properly qualify for spots on the April ballots.

To qualify, the law states, a party's candidate for governor must get at least one per cent of the total votes cast for the successful candidate for secretary of state, in this case Hare, in the last preceding general election.

Judge Moore yesterday said Apal told him that Hare realizes the three lesser known parties had not done this based on Nov. 4 election returns.

However, an alternative method of qualifying by submitting voter-signed petitions at least six months prior to the election could not be exercised in this case, Moore quoted Apal as saying, because there were not six months between the November election and April 6.

Judge Moore requested that Apal take back to Lansing a request from the commission that a letter explaining this position be mailed to Pontiac to back up placing the three parties on the ballots.

"This," according to Daniel T. Murphy Jr., county clerk-register and commission member, "will put the Secretary of State's office on record as ruling on the legality of the election."

Meanwhile, Murphy said printers would soon be given the go-ahead to roll the presses on the April ballots—with the three parties on them, besides Republican and Democratic candidates.

Lost Boy Comes Home When Love Lights Way

it too," she prayed as they neared the gate. "Don't let her see just his silent, angry little face! Don't let this first meeting be so bad it spoils the rest!"

For there would be other meetings of course: another "chance" meeting, next time with Mr. Greene as well, then a visit to Peter's boarding home, then. . . But so much depended on this first time!

They were through the gate now, and Isobel saw Peter a little way off, near the swings. He wasn't swinging, he was standing next to the fence, his eyes on the ground.

WENT TO HIM

Isobel turned with an encouraging smile to Mrs. Greene, but she had forgotten Isobel was there. Her eyes were fixed on Peter.

Then Mrs. Greene was walking straight to him. No, no! thought Isobel, hurrying after her. This was all wrong! Peter must never guess that she was watching him!

Mrs. Greene was almost running now. Peter looked up and saw her and he too started running—not away, but straight to her.

Now they stopped, a foot apart, neither of them speaking, just looking at each other. Isobel caught up with them.

"Peter," she said, "do you know who this lady is?"

"Yes," said Peter. His eyes never left Mrs. Greene's face as he said, "She's my mother."

Waterford Dems Club Sets Spaghetti Dinner

The second annual dinner sponsored by the club, it will be held from 5 to 8 p.m. The public has been invited.

The dollar volume of new residential construction in 1959 is expected to reach about 14.6 billion dollars.

Motorist Unwittingly Routs Bandit

Car Lights Rescue Woman

A Waterford Township housewife told township police how a passing motorist last night saved her from possible bodily harm by a burglar who broke into her home.

Mrs. Grace Goyette of 221 Preston St. said she was in the basement of her home at about 10 p.m. when a man came in the side door at the head of the basement stairs and turned off the basement lights. Her husband, a gas station owner, was not at home.

"The man came down the stairs and flashed a flashlight in my face," she said.

Then, she told officers, the would-be bandit pointed to a safe in the basement room and said, "Open that safe."

"I told him I couldn't; that I didn't know how," she explained to police.

"At that moment some lights from a car flashed across the basement window as though someone was coming in the driveway," she said.

The man pushed her to the floor and fled through the door. Police said the lights must have been from the car of a passing motorist.

Sticks His Neck Out

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Paul J. Smith, a moving van firm executive, bought a 17-foot stuffed giraffe for $155 at an auction yesterday. "I really stuck my neck out," he commented after the sale.

Asks Dismissal of Gaming Count

Former City Official Gullett Seeks to Have Charges Dropped

Oakland County Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland today was listening to arguments in a motion to drop the charge against former Pontiac Deputy Treasurer LaRue E. Gullett, one of five persons accused of operating a horse race bookie ring in the city.

Howard I. Bond, Gullett's attorney, contended in his arguments that there has been "no testimony implicating LaRue Gullett, other than inference from surveillance reports."

"My position is that conspiracy can be inferred from circumstantial evidence, but this must be fair inference of the facts to be established," Bond said.

The reports he had reference to were those from three members of the State Police Rackets Squad who trailed Gullett and the four others, including his wife, for four months prior to their arrests. The reports were read by Bond.

Chief Assistant Prosecutor George F. Taylor was scheduled to present opposing arguments this afternoon.

Judge Holland said because of the amount of testimony he must go over, he would take the motion under advisement and rule later.

Nabbed with Gullett, 41, of 301 Dick Ave., in the Aug. 29 raids were his wife, Gladys, 35; Basil W. Burke, 59, of 29 Salmer Ave.; James Pruzor, 54, of 4 S. Saginaw St.; and Charles D. Apley, 44, of the Salmer avenue address. All have stood mute to the charge of conspiracy to violate state gambling laws and await trial.

Innocent Pleas Entered for Five in Narcotics Case

Arraigned yesterday before Oakland County Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland, five accused dope pushers stood mute on charges of selling narcotics in Pontiac.

Judge Holland ordered pleas of innocent entered for each and allowed all five to remain free on $500 bonds furnished after being set by Pontiac Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finnegan.

Arraigned yesterday were William Barksdale Jr., 21, of 10689 Foxton Ct., Royal Oak Township; Willie Halliburton, 38, of 253 Bondale St., Booker Gay, 25, of 325 Branch St., Lorenza Farrar, 45, of 196 S. Saginaw St., and James Dooley, 30, of 38 Chapman St.

A sixth man, the alleged operator of the dope ring, William Barksdale, 44, of the same address of his son, is free on a $1,000 bond awaiting trial for selling narcotics. He stood mute March 2.

No dates have been set for the trials of the six. They were arrested by Pontiac police vice squad members in a Feb. 14 raid.

Reports $600 Theft From His Home

Willard Smith, of 293 Voorheis Rd., told officers Monday that someone had taken a safe containing $600 in cash from his house. Smith, who had only discovered the loss yesterday, said the theft must have taken place between March 4-6 when he was away.

Police also are investigating the theft of $40 from the Nu Vision Studio, 109 N. Saginaw St. Dr. Edward Choryan of the studio told police he discovered the money missing from a cash drawer Monday afternoon.

Late Monday night Amy Campbell, of 247 Uplong St., reported that someone had stolen $10 worth of food plus a can opener valued at $5 from her auto while it was parked at 178 N. Saginaw St.

The Day in Birmingham

Bloomfield Hills Okays Addition to Junior High

BIRMINGHAM—Bloomfield Hills School Board last night approved plans for a 12-room addition to the junior high school on Quarton road.

Superintendent Eugene Johnson said architects Smith, Tarapata and McMahon have been authorized to advertise for bids on the estimated $314,000 addition.

Action was taken in view of last week's approval of the school bond issue by the voters.

Work will begin as soon as weather conditions permit, and will be pushed so the additional rooms will be ready for the fall term.

The superintendent also announced purchase of a 20-acre site on Long Lake road near the Will-O-Way Playhouse for a proposed junior high school. The land was purchased on an option held for a year at $4,000 an acre. Mrs. Treesa Way Merrill was the former owner.

There is still no official decision on the proposed expansion bond for Baldwin Public Library.

City attorneys at last night's commission meeting said that under the city's charter, a vote of the people is necessary. However, several similar bond issues have been approved by bond brakers without public vote.

Commissioners asked James Howlett, city attorney, to check local brokers on this and if it is feasible, to have them draw up a suitable resolution for commission study.

Mrs. Beth Cole's appointment as deputy city clerk was approved at last night's commission meeting.

Mayor Carl Ingraham told commissioners that Birmingham has been asked by William Breech, Oakland County chairman of the Michigan Week celebration, to appoint a committee to form local programs.

In the past, Birmingham has participated only in the statewide mayor's exchange day program.

Kassem Snuffs Iraq Rebellion

Claims Total Victory, Says Foreign Power Fomented Trouble

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iraq's government reiterated today it has crushed the weekend Nationalist uprising and accused a foreign power—apparently meaning President Nasser's United Arab Republic—of stirring up the trouble.

The rebels, whether by choice or necessity, maintained radio silence after signing off with a final claim to control of all North Iraq last midnight. The silence was utter and eerie.

The victory declarations of Premier Abdel Karim Kassem's Communist-influenced regime via radio Baghdad met no further challenge on Middle East airwaves.

Mystery still surrounded the insurrection led by Col. Abdel Wahab Shawaf in oil-rich Mosul, for few specific details had been disclosed by either side.

Iraq's military governor, Ahmed Saleh el Abdi, voiced the charge of foreign meddling in a broadcast from Baghdad. He named no names, but said:

"We advise this country that is cooperating with imperialism to stop spreading lies, because these will not affect the Iraqi Republic."

Kassem's regime has been at loggerheads with Nasser for months over the Iraqi leader's refusal to adopt a policy of Arab unity along lines advocated in Cairo.

The rebel radio in the North Iraq oil city of Mosul had grown steadily weaker before it stopped broadcasting about midnight Monday.

The final rebel broadcast repeated the aims of the revolution. Several listening posts in Beirut which heard the rebel radio signals clearly Monday could not find a trace of the station this morning.

then cut around the iris with scissors. The surgeon then reached into the eyeball with a suction instrument and gently tugged out the clouded lens.

Then he pulled the sutures tight, leaving the pupil, fluid and iris intact.

As the operation progressed Dr. Cusick kept up a running commentary, explaining the procedure to TV viewers.

A panel of four doctors discussed the operation before it was performed. They said the purpose of the telecast was to show that corrective eye surgery is now a relatively simple matter in view of medical advances.

Dr. Edmond L. Cooper, a panel member, explained that Mrs. Rogan must now wear powerful glasses which will perform the function of the lens in focusing.

Both Mrs. Hogan's eyes are affected by cataracts, but only one — the worst — was corrected last night.

A similar operation on the other eye may be performed in a few months, Dr. Cusick said.

A few minutes after the operation was over, Mrs. Hogan was able to chat with her children.

"She was in good spirits and said she didn't feel a thing during the operation," said Mrs. Metevia.

Only a local anaesthesia was used and Mrs. Hogan was conscious throughout the surgery. She wasn't able to see what was going on, however.

Mrs. Rogan had to conquer her own fears about the operation.

A widow for 12 years, she first noticed symptoms of eye trouble last July at the Metevia home, where she has been living the past year.

Within a few months, the vision in her right eye had almost completely disappeared.

"She was very worried that the trouble might be something much more serious than cataracts," said Mrs. Metevia.

Doctors persuaded Mrs. Rogan to submit to surgery and scheduled her as the TV patient three weeks ago.

But she continued to worry until the same operation had been successfully performed on another patient in a TV rehearsal which she watched at the hospital Sunday.

"That patient was up and around in a few hours with no complaints, so mother felt reassured that the operation would be easy for her, too," said Mrs. Metevia.

The telecast had a professional interest for Mrs. Metevia, a registered nurse who trained once at Providence Hospital.

"I participated in cataract operations many years ago, but I was never able to see the surgery as well as I did on television last night," she said.

"It was a little hard on my nerves to watch the operation, of course, knowing that my mother was the patient."

Prosecutor Rests in Flannery Trial

Three students, James Beck, Paul Christo and Wayne Kinjorski, testified this morning.

McIntyre then pulled a surprise by announcing he would not call his last five prosecution witnesses to the stand. He said the witnesses were in the courtroom and available for cross-examination by the defense.

Joseph W. Louisell, who is defending Flannery, said he would decide this afternoon whether or not to cross-examine the five witnesses McIntyre declined to call for testimony.

Beck, brother-in-law of the owner of the College Tav, testified under cross-examination that Flannery was "moody" on occasion.

Show Has Trouble Getting Star's Flowers

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK—Lynn Fontanne and her favorite fan Alfred Lunt were toasting their talents by the fireside in their Wisconsin home, when a call came through from New York.

"Miss Fontanne," said a strange voice, "we know you love to garden. At the International Flower Show in the New York coliseum, we're representing two booths of flowers which have been home-grown by Broadway stars. Would you be kind enough to contribute something?"

Mrs. Lunt remarked "heavens!" or something equally appropriate, and mentioned that there were five feet of snow outside. "It's hardly the season to plant."

The voice then offered to do her planting for her, in a hothouse. The great actress paused, said she'd call back. Then she delved into her seed catalogues, found what she considered an appropriate posy for current hothousing, and gave the go-ahead to establish an amaryllis in her name at the country's biggest floral exhibit.

This, then, is part of the story behind "Flowers of Broadway"—an exquisite exhibit which opens this week as part of the flower show. It contains the favorite flora of 37 of the top actresses on the Great White Way, and is as honest an exhibit as one could expect to find—considering the difficulties of flower-raising in small, stuffy dressing rooms.

"Whenever possible," a spokesman explained, when we called skeptically, "the stars raised their favorite flowers themselves. Helen Hayes is a terrific gardener, you know, and so are Tallulah Bankhead, Gypsy Rose Lee, Carol Lawrence, June Havoc, Celeste Holm—lots of them.

"However, it's a difficult time to grow flowers in New York. Apartments and dressing rooms are hot and dry. Terraces and backyards are cold and windy. So in some cases, we took the stars' home-grown flowers and 'forced' them to bloom early. In other cases, the stars picked their favorite flowers and we sent them back stage to be 'lived with' for awhile.

"Only trouble we had, if you could call this trouble, was the fact that Ethel Merman and Susan Strassberg are allergic. So they endorsed their flowers (azalias and African violets)—but can't get near them."

Some of the stars and their favorite fragrants, for the enlightenment of bloom-droopers, are: Helen Hayes, a rose bush; Tallulah, a white magnolia tree; Gertrude Berg, pink azalias; Gwen Verdon, lilacs; Arlene Francis, a chrysanthemum bush.

June Havoc, Lillian Gish, Claudette Colbert and Shelley Winters like various varieties of roses. France Nuyen and Gloria Vanderbilt prefer gardenias; Miss Vanderbilt sniffs them, and Miss Nuyen eats the petals. Kim Stanley, like Lynn Fontanne, favors amaryllis, Jessica Tandy likes hyacinth, Lena Horne antherium.

Nancy Kelly and Gretchen Wyler prefer tulips. And the realistic girls, who know a hardy plant from a hopeless one, are Judy Holliday and Cornelia Otis Skinner. They grow philadendron.

Each star has autographed her plant or flower or tree. According to a spokesman for sponsor Robert W. Dowling, the "flower stars" will be auctioned off to the public for the benefit of the Actors Fund of America.

Which explains why the allergic Misses Merman and Strassberg will lend their names, if not their noses, to the exhibit.

Jayne May Do Movie With Mexican Comic

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Blonde actress Jayne Mansfield may make a picture with Mexican comedian Cantinflas.

She discussed the possibility in Mexico with Cantinflas' associate, Santiago Riachi, she said Monday. She said studios are encouraging pairing of American and foreign stars.

Plot to Murder Husband Foiled

Preacher, Woman Held After Detective Poses as Killer-for-Hire

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A 41-year-old woman and a young preacher were arrested Monday after a detective said he posed as a professional killer in an alleged plot against the woman's husband.

Beatrice Gurley, mother of three grown children, and John A. Walker, 25, the preacher, were booked for investigation of conspiracy to murder Hugh Ernest Gurley, 45.

Detective Jack Metcalf, who said he played the killer-for-hire, arrested Mrs. Gurley. He said she gave him $100 as a down payment in the $1,000 deal to kill her husband.

The alleged installment-plan murder drama was played out in the preacher's car while a hidden tape recorder and motion picture camera recorded the affair, Metcalf said.

Metcalf said Mrs. Gurley signed a statement in which she said she wanted to hire some one to kill her husband. Walker denied any connection with the alleged plot.

Mrs. Gurley was quoted as saying she wanted her husband killed so she could get $30,000 in insurance and because he had been mean to her children by a previous marriage.

Later, Mrs. Gurley said her husband had little insurance and she wanted him killed because he wouldn't let her go to church with Walker, who shared the Gurley home, Metcalf said.

Device to Amplify Snorts Devised to Quiet Snorers

GENOA, Italy (AP)—Dr. Boris H. Vassileff has invented a device to stop snoring by forcing the noise to annoy the snorer.

You snore, says the doctor, when you sleep on your back or in some position in which the back of the tongue sags a bit into the throat. The tongue flutters when the breathing gets heavy and that's what causes all the noise.

Dr. Vassileff calls his anti-snorer a "psicofon." Like a hearing aid, it amplifies the noise of the snore close to the ear of the snorer. The doctor thinks the wearer will roll over into some position where the racket will stop.

Lutheran Unity Talks OK'd by Missouri Synod

NEW YORK (AP) — The two-million-member Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod has indicated willingness to talk unity with other Lutherans.

The Rev. Dr. John W. Behnken president of the group, who earlier had rejected an invitation to consider unity made the announcement in a letter Monday to Dr. Paul E. Empie, executive secretary of the National Lutheran Council, which includes eight Lutheran denominations with more than five million members.

There are about eight million Lutherans in the United States, in 16 branches.

Funds Donated to Put On Plays

Ford Foundation Will Produce Eight Dramas by U.S. Authors

NEW YORK (AP) — The Ford Foundation announced today that plays of eight American playwrights will be produced next fall at foundation expense.

The grant program for playwrights, totaling $110,000, is the last in a series of grants to creative artists. The programs have aided poets, writers, painters, sculptors, theater directors and musical artists.

The works of the eight playwrights will be staged at professional, community and university theaters.

The playwrights, their plays, and the theaters that will produce them are:

Kenneth Cameron, New York, "The Physician For Fools," Margot Jones Theater, Dallas, Tex.

Judge Permits Bathing Beach at Thoreau's Pond

CONCORD, Mass. (AP) — A storm of considerable violence swirled around Walden Pond today, the usually placid little pool made world famous by philosopher Henry David Thoreau.

Thoreau wrote most of his lasting prose in a little dwelling on its bank, charmed by the sylvan beauty. One volume, he called, simply, "Walden."

When he went to Boston, some 20 miles away, he walked, so he could observe the ants, the birds and beasts and growing things.

Now there are proponents of bathing beaches, folk who would enlist bulldozers to bash down trees and embankments.

But they have opposition from folk who don't want the maples cut down and have taken the fight to County Court.

Monday Judge Robert Sullivan upheld a decision dismissing a petition by 10 taxpayers to halt further tree-felling and digging. They protested such development violated terms under which the property was deeded to the state —to preserve it as a place of natural beauty.

A "Save Walden Committee" claims it has new legal moves in the making.

BERLIN HILTON — This is a night scene of West Berlin's biggest, newest hotel. An American arriving in Berlin, the story goes, would rush excitedly into a taxi at the Tempelhof airport and ask to be taken to this newest hotel. "I haven't been in Berlin in 25 years," he might tell the driver. "Has it changed much?" The cabbie would answer, "You haven't missed a thing." This anecdote illustrates the attitude of the witty, worldly Berliner who has learned to take everything in his stride: war, inflation, ruin, hunger, the Cold War, and now a political crisis.

Just Ram the Convoy Through, Amrehn Advises

Berliner Thinks Reds Won't Shoot

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Editor

BERLIN — West Berlin's Deputy Mayor Franz Amrehn has a solution if the East Germans try to stop an Allied Berlin convoy. Don't talk. Just ram the convoy through. The Russians won't shoot.

The 46-year-old Amrehn inherited temporarily the job of Administering West Berlin's city affairs in the absence of Mayor Willy Brandt, who is on a world tour.

This straight-talking member of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democratic Party makes no attempt to hide the depths of the crisis into which he believes West Berlin will be plunged next May 27.

On that date, he firmly expects the Russians to carry out their threat to turn West Berlin's communications lifelines over to the Communist East Germans.

He does not deny that the Soviet ultimatum against West Berlin already is having its effect, but he says the city cannot be caught unprepared.

For many months, long before Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's announcement last Nov. 27, West Berlin has been laying up stocks.

The last public figures were that 200 million dollars worth of essential supplies already had been stored here against the possibility of a blockade. And that figure has been increased vastly since. West Berlin plans include any eventuality and it is estimated the city can live within itself six to eight months.

"Of course," Amrehn says, "no one can be sure that the Russians won't shoot if the allies choose to ignore an attempt to halt their convoys."

"But," he told this correspondent in a city hall interview, "the Russians will shoot only if they already have made up their minds to do so."

Talk, Amrehn says, will only complicate the issues.

Amrehn is both surprised and proud of West Berliners' calm approach to the May 27 deadline.

A few more families than usual are leaving the city—about 250 families per month as opposed to a normal 150.

But there has been no flight of capital and West German industry has continued its firm support of industry here.

Big West German industry, he says, has placed orders which will take months beyond the May 27 deadline to fill.

He admits, however, there has been some falling off of orders in small industry.

Amrehn calls Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' illness tragic to the United States and to the world. But he believes there will be no weakening of U.S. policy.

To abandon Berlin, he says, would mean the death of NATO and a U.S. retreat clear back to its own continental bastion.

Blast Rips Mill in Strike Violence

HENDERSON, N. C. (UPI)—An explosion ripped through a boiler at a strike-bound textile plant last midnight and 47 machines were splashed with acid as a violence-torn walkout of 1,200 workers entered its 17th week.

The boiler explosion at the South Henderson plant of the Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mills was one of four blasts which echoed through the town. Early today, police had been unable to locate the source of the other three.

The blast and acid-dowsing marked the first damage inside any of the four strike-bound plants since workers walked off last November.

Congressional Payrolls May Be Padded More

Just when is this money merry-go-around with some of our Congressmen going to end? Packing their Washington offices with wives, relatives and in some cases juveniles in the big-pay jobs tinges of kicking the goose that laid the golden egg.

This group of high spending, high taxing lawmakers is really making suckers out of a lot of us back home. When the situation justifies it, no one is critical of wives, etc., assisting their husbands.

Recently we noted two Congressmen have given their wives pay boosts of $1,300 after less than three months time. Now comes word that the House Administration Committee has quietly approved by a 13-2 vote a $14,000 boost for each honorable members payroll. This could add another assistant.

If they get away with this maneuver, it would look like they were really sitting back having a good belly laugh at their tax-paying constituents back home.

Johnson Seems to Be Democrats' Strength

With SOAPY off on a barnstorming tour looking for support in his personal aspiration toward the presidential nomination, we wonder just where the power lies in the Democratic party.

As of this moment, Texas Democratic U. S. Senator Lyndon Johnson seems to be heading the pack in this race. It would appear that he is certainly one of, if not the most forceful personality in Washington and is becoming more forceful each passing day.

He is not a great orator like some of the other candidates, but he does a vast amount of maneuvering behind the scenes as a brilliant strategist skilled at lining up votes. When he chooses to utter a few words, his point is well made and all within earshot listen.

Some of the other candidates have more color, like the brilliant young Senator from Massachusetts. But from all indications, JOHNSON towers above him as a master mind who has a comprehensive grasp of the government. KENNEDY is still in the race.

So, too, is Senator Symington, apparently, but it is Johnson out front now, even with his heart attack of a few years ago. Insiders in Washington recently have indicated that both Kennedy and Symington would be willing to accept the No. 2 spot.

This is not conceding defeat, but with the convention more than a year away, it does point up JOHNSON'S superiority at this time. JOHNSON has proven that he has a clear cut mind and the men in Washington are not prone to cross him.

He has demonstrated in advance that he understands people and can figure them out. He plans well ahead to get people to react as he wishes. However, he could stumble in the next year and make a major error politically.

How ironic that this strong leader must remember to hold himself back because of his heart attack. It is a situation that in his case will present some thought between Democratic strategists.

The question will be: Can he stand the rigors of a nationwide campaign and then the great burden of Presidency?

This point will be uppermost in the minds of the party leaders, and so they will undoubtedly give more than usual care in selection of a running mate if JOHNSON gets the nod.

IF THEY are successful who are trying to get a law passed to allow the income taxpayer to deduct for personal depreciation, both physical and mental, the Government would owe some of us money.

Crop failure: What you'll never have if you sow seeds of kindness.

Young America is on the road. I learn from the

After reading lovelorn letters sent to our women's department experts for many years (purely as a side issue), I'm convinced that the trouble is all summed up in one sentence,

"If it's real love, you bet it'll keep."

A letter from my old friend,

Harvey Hummiston,

now living in Chicago, asserts that its State Street now is the most brilliantly lighted street in the world. Down Miami way they claim that honor for Biscayne Boulevard, and New York divides the honor between two streets. But from personal observation, I'd give the distinction to Seattle's main street.

In my last conversation with Michigan State Highway Commissioner

John C. Mackie,

he stated that some day 65 miles per hour will be too slow for autos on super highways. His deputy, has asked the State Safety Commission to think over a minimum speed, higher night speed and rule against slow moving farm vehicles.

Fred Tripp,

From reliable figures issued by the Methodist Board of Temperance,

I learn that Nevada leads the nation in its per capita consumption of alcohol beverages. Michigan is in ninth place. Mississippi is in last place. But the office cynic points out that down there most of the drinkers make it themselves, and it never gets counted, except in the obituary column.

Wrestling with welfare relief in our community for many years and to a greater extent than any other person,

His Game!

David Lawrence Says:

GOP Must Regain 8 Million Voters

LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—What happened to the 8,600,000 Republicans who voted in 1956 but didn't vote in 1958?

This is the puzzling question that is stirring the Republican Party leaders as they strive now to write a platform designed to bring "conservative" and "nonconservative" groups together behind a single expression of party policy.

At first glance, it might be assumed that most of the 8,600,000 Republicans voted Democratic and that, therefore, the Republican platform now might better imitate the Democrats. But a closer look at the Democratic total shows that most of the 8,600,000 Republicans couldn't have voted Democratic.

For even if some of them did, this didn't make up for defections from the Democratic Party. The total of all votes for the Democratic ticket for members of Congress throughout the nation in the last election was 4,200,000 less than the party got in 1956 for members of Congress. Of this total who didn't vote, more than half were in the South. Thus, the loss in the North for the Democrats was about 1,700,000.

Two facts, therefore, stand out. One is that both parties lost votes, and the other that the Republicans had the larger loss.

But why, it may be asked, do fewer persons vote for members of Congress than for the presidential candidate? A drop-off in the total vote might be expected in an off-year election, because there is no single figure running for office at the top of the ticket, but the real question is why the persons who actually go to the polls in a presidential election fail to vote at the same time for members of Congress.

Over a period of 60 years, the gap between the presidential vote and the congressional vote has been steadily widening, irrespective of party. Probably the answer is to be found in the gradual change that has been made in the nature of the ballots in different states and also in the growing population of each state and district.

The voters simply do not know the candidates or what they stand for, or else the separate ballot for Congress is tossed away by many voters. In the old days, presidential and congressional candidates were on the same ballot, which made it easier for straight-ticket voting.

It's a serious thing to see the voting drop off for members of Congress, who play such a dominant role in making the laws of the land.

It is often true that many voters are indifferent to national issues, or that many do not understand how such issues concretely apply to their own lives. The losses apply also to residential districts where it would be assumed that the voters would be well informed on current issues. But just why so many millions do not vote Republican any more is a question that the Republicans themselves are debating.

Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona is raising the whole question in a series of charts which, as chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, he is preparing to present to leaders and party workers in different parts of the country. These show that only in Arizona, where the Republican Party adopted a "conservative" line, did the number of Republican votes actually increase in 1958 over the vote for members of Congress in 1956.

Lest it be thought that there is something special or unusual about the 1958 congressional election, the statistics show that the Republicans, while losing 8,600,000 votes as compared with 1956, had a total vote in 1958 of 3,800,000 less than in 1954.

This happened even though the voting population in the country was increasing in the interval. It is true there also was a recession in 1954, but the fact remains that the Republicans didn't get out their vote, and the Democrats did.

The Democratic success was due primarily to the superior machinery of the Democrats in getting out the vote, principally in the ranks of union-labor families. Thus, the public opinion polls show that in 1958 the labor vote divided 65 per cent to the Democrats and 35 per cent to the Republicans, which is almost exactly what it was two years before in the Eisenhower election.

The Country Parson

Dr. William Brady Says:

Rheumatiz Easy to Define; Arthritis Is Another Matter

"All right, all right," says a Colorado Springs correspondent who has evidently seen one or two of my pieces about chronic joint disability "you have made it clear, in not more than a million words, that they're all out of step but Brady—for they call it arthritis whereas Brady calls it rheumatiz . . ."

DR. BRADY

No one who can understand words of more than one syllable can doubt what Rheumatiz means: degeneration of joint tissues.

Cite if you can a physician, specialist, author or medical authority who will explain or define in less than a million words what either chronic rheumatism or chronic arthritis means.

They're not only all out of step but Brady, Mr. Y. W., but they're all out of step with each other.

How confused and confusing they are about it is indicated by the title of the organization that purports to speak for and direct the medical profession in matters pertaining to joint disability: The Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation.

Having explained in four or five words that Rheumatiz means, I might explain in a dozen more words what causes it—but some of the words have more than one syllable.

7,000 WORDS

When it comes to the prevention, relief or cure of Rheumatiz, which is all that interests most sufferers, I am compelled to use about 7,000 words—in the booklet No. 12, Chronic Joint Disability. For a copy of the booklet send me 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Whether Rheumatiz is ever cured, I don't know. It is like the restoration of natural or original color to gray hair—many correspondents have assured me that the iodin ration has done so, but I haven't seen it myself.

Likewise numerous correspondents report that the regimen described in booklet No. 12 has cured their Rheumatiz, but knowing human nature I must suspend judgment until I see such cures in cases where I know from my own observation that the insidiously developing disability has lasted a year or longer.

I'll say here that I believe (mind, I don't say I know) the cause of Rheumatiz is malnutrition (nutritional deficiency) through the years from childhood up to the present moment.

In the booklet Chronic Joint Disability I specify which essentials of good nutrition are lacking as a rule, and tell how to correct the deficiencies. You see, I believe Rheumatiz is amenable to better nutrition and not to medicine.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Men Shun Reading Women's Page

George Brandenburg brings out a vital point regarding sex differences in newspaper reading habits. Study this case carefully for it gives some original data on a controversial point in modern journalism. It is wiser to go "with" the normal laws than "against" them.

By GEORGE W. CRANE

DR. CRANE

We dine together occasionally in Chicago and at one of our luncheons, Mr. Brandenburg asked:

"Which spot produces the heavier input of mail?"

How would you readers guess on that interesting query as to newspaper psychology? Take a quick poll this very minute in your own home, before I reveal the facts below.

For it makes a difference in letter input. And the mail is an indirect barometer of readership.

Well, here are the facts: My mail input goes down when my column is placed in the "Women's Section" of a newspaper.

"Dr. Crane, how do you explain that fact?" Mr. Brandenburg asked.

To which I'll reply with a counter question, namely, do young men relish invading the lingerie section of a department store, as much as young women enjoy invading the men's department?

In general, even older men shy away from invading any region that is labeled "For Women."

The older males may do so for timidity reasons, but the younger males also have a subconscious idea that it is "sissy" for a man to read features that are called "Women's Features."

Ever since earliest childhood boys have been ashamed to be called "sissy," so they veer away from women's apparel, women's interests, and even the "Women's Section" of a newspaper.

In fact, on airplanes, the usual male will not even accept a copy of a woman's magazine when the stewardess is passing out reading material to patrons, for he fears it may label him as effeminate.

Women, however, take delight in barging into the man's realm. That's one reason why they gleefully accept cigarettes and slacks.

SEX DIFFERENCE

Because of this entrenched sex difference, this column loses a certain percentage of male readership the moment it is placed in the "Women's Section" of a newspaper.

Alas, it doesn't gain extra women readership thereby, either.

In fact, as a professional psychologist, I'd suggest that the advice columns and other "human relations" items be bunched under a section headed "For Men Only."

Then all the men would avidly sift through those pages. And hardly a girl or woman could resist the temptation to devour that section, too.

Women's editors are vitally necessary to a successful newspaper, and they often have a superior "sixth sense" that enables them to select topnotch features, but it penalizes the women's editor to drive away potential male readers by having her features labeled "For Women."

Success in life depends on working "with" the physical and psychological laws, as I'll explain tomorrow when I discuss hypnosis.

So newspapers will offer more competition to TV and radio by steering greater male readership into the vital "advice" features.

The day has passed when men can "carry their religion in their wife's name," or their child rearing psychology or medical knowledge, etc.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Phoenix-Bound Policemen Will Get Cheerful Sendoff

I see by The Press the troops are getting restless. Can it be the cat is almost out of the bag? If the police department gets a good cleaning out, there are bound to be nervous troublemakers planning to move. I say amen. I hope the City Commission shows good sense. Give them a gallon of gas to help clean them out of town.

It's a good idea for the 18 officers to go to Arizona. Send Willman, Eastman and Straley along, too.

Tired and Embarrassed About the Whole Thing

Concerning the officers planning to leave for Phoenix. It's too bad Mr. Willman spoiled their plans to take over the police department. They may have better luck in Arizona.

All I can say is, poor Phoenix.

'Industry Likes It, but Workers Don't'

To the current publicity concerning the industrial climate of our neighboring state, Indiana, let me say phooey. Did you ever try working there? I have and I bless the day I shook Hoosier dust from my feet and came to Michigan.

Despite the fact Indiana is being played in Michigan politics as a Utopia for bill collecting industrialists, (hundred dollar bills, that is) it offers little for its working people.

Hoosiers pay an income tax to defray cost of getting industry to move there, so industry can save taxes, while people are routed from their homes year after year by floods, and nothing is done to prevent flooding. Is this a good state?

Michigan is in a mess, but it isn't Soapy Williams' fault any more than yours or mine. Put the blame in the lap of the Legislature. We're not electing them to defy the Governor, but to serve Michigan.

'Consider More Than Just Law'

Is the said law all you go by? How would you like to be put in a yard and confined? A dog is no beast or something you see and because the law says you can, you just shoot.

People with little heart go by this law. Taxpayer doesn't seem to have one. Animals aren't born with human brains to know not to walk across people's lawns or look when they cross the street, but it doesn't give people the right to pick them off. Instead, call the animal shelter and ask that they be picked up or call the owners.

'What's the Meaning of Being "on Dole"?'

Concerning voting rights of people "on dole," does that mean only those officially on welfare or does it include those drawing unemployment and/or living with and off relatives?

Many people have been forced to accept the dole of relatives and creditors in the last two years. They were probably property owners and eligible to vote. They probably helped vote present office holders in, so don't you think they've been punished enough? Give them a chance to try to vote them out.

'Readers Commend Press Coverage'

We, here at the YWCA, want to commend your paper for carrying the account of Billy Graham's Australian crusade. Since most of your readers are interested in a man of Billy Graham's stature and in the excerpts of the Gospel, you are rendering a great service to the American public.

Mrs. Fred Stimpert, Pres.

It's nice to see folks appreciate your paper, which is one of the best. Your editorials are outstanding and your coverage can't be beaten. There's no Billy Graham campaign in other papers and your reporters do a fine job.

'No. 5 Won't Have Things So Easy'

This Liz Taylor is about to claim her fourth husband and she isn't old enough to be well acquainted with the first one yet. Fisher is going to lose his TV show as a result of his two-timing, but he won't have to worry as he can live off her income and what she gathered from Number Three, Number Two and Number One.

From all reports, Debbie took Fisher to the cleaners good, so Taylor's Number Five won't be able to plan on much new cash from Number Four.

SICK PAY

You are entitled to exclude a portion of your income which was paid to you while absent from work because of illness or injury.

If the employer pays your wages, or it is an insured plan (the premiums for which are paid by the employer) you may exclude a certain portion of the amount received.

The maximum amount of the exclusion is $100 per week if your normal wages were $100 a week or more. If your wages were less than $100 a week, you may exclude the amount you receive as sick pay up to the amount of your regular wage.

If you receive as sick pay an amount less than your regular wage, you can only deduct the actual sick pay received.

There is a seven-day waiting period when you are absent because of illness.

If injured or hospitalized, no waiting period is necessary. The absence does not have to be caused by an on-the-job injury or illness.

To claim this exclusion, you must use the Form 1040 and attach the necessary schedules.

Read the instruction book so that you may properly claim this exclusion. If you then have a question, telephone your local Internal Revenue Service office.

Beavers Are Buddies of Water Commission

WANAQUE, N. J. (AP)—Beavers, whose dam building sometimes is a nuisance, have done a good turn for the North Jersey District Water Supply Commission.

A band of them walled off a three-acre marsh, thus reducing the chances silt might wash into Wanaque reservoir during periods of high run-off. The commission voted not to chase them away.

"They are doing a good engineering job," said Forester Albert Huber.

Haitians Face Starvation

PORT AU PRINCE (AP)—Famine is once again taking its toll in Haiti.

Half of the four million persons who live along Haiti's arid northwest coast face starvation if rain does not come soon.

Most of the people are living at the minimum subsistence level. As a result, tuberculosis, liver ailments and other diseases are decimating the population, whose resistance continues to drop for lack of food.

Dr. Dudley Nelson, who has been operating a clinic in Haiti since 1946, says there is virtually no money in circulation and the people cannot afford medicine even at cost price.

Nelson says conditions are the worst since hurricane Hazel hit in 1954, ravaging plantations and killing livestock.

The parched coastal region has had virtually no rain since Hazel struck. The northwest plateau is the only place that has grass. Peasants gather it up and bring it back by donkey to sell for 20 cents a load. It takes 8 to 10 hours travel time to make each sale.

Strong wind which lashed Port Au Prince for the past two months damaged the vegetation in the northwest, leaving it to wither.

Trees stand stark and leafless. Even the weeds are gone. The animals have nothing but the points of acacia branches to lick on.

Donkeys which used to bring $8 to $14 now sell for under $2 because there is nothing to feed them.

Winds and low tides have fouled the salt basins in the region, ending salt making by the people.

For a time the gayac charcoal forests were a lucrative source for the peasants, but they have now disappeared. Even the roots of the trees have been gouged out of the earth and sold for charcoal to Port Au Prince dealers.

The English language Taiti Sun has suggested a solution to the dilemma. It proposes a road building program improving routes from the farms to the market place. Thus; if the rains come, the farmers can sell their excess produce.

The peasants in the meantime could earn their daily food and some seed by working on the roads.

Geese Head North

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — The Weather Bureau reported during a heavy snowfall today that one of its observers at Olean saw a flock of geese heading north shortly after midnight.

Color is built into a new screening material for doors and windows. It's made of glass fibers impregnated and coated with a vinyl material and is said to offer increased visibility in addition to being immune to wrinkles, dents and rust.

Cuban Lottery Has All Winners

New Scheme's Profits Will Be Used to Build Needed Housing

HAVANA (AP) — Cuba's new lottery is designed to let everybody win.

The lottery tickets are savings bonds bearing numbers. If your number comes up, you win a prize. If it doesn't, you earn interest on your investment.

Proceeds go toward low-cost housing.

First saving bonds in this lottery plan, patterned on a scheme operating in Britain nearly two years, have just gone on sale.

There will be a weekly first prize of $100,000, and 1,000 other prizes of $100 each. Bonds cost $25. Fractions can be bought for 25 cents and upward. First drawing will be March 28.

Bonds not winning prizes draw 3 per cent interest annually if held 5 years; 5 per cent after 7 years. However, holders who cash them within a year get only 40 per cent of face value. After a year, it's 50 per cent, after 2 years 60 per cent, and so on.

The Institute of Saving and Housing, headed by a woman rebel soldier, Pastorita Nunez, has charge of the lottery program. It replaces the old national lottery dissolved by the revolutionary government.

Meanwhile, the institute has borrowed two million dollars to proceed immediately with housing in suburbs of Santiago, capital of Oriente. First structures are to be apartment houses in groups housing 5,000 persons. Maximum monthly rent will be $50, scaled down on the basis of ability to pay. A person who pays rent for 10 years gets the apartment as his own.

WHAT'S IN IT FOR ME?

What's in it for me, you ask, if a new industry locates here or one of our present plants expands?

A better chance at a better living.

An industry payroll dollar is a wondrous thing. It comes into our community from outside as our industries make and sell their products in competition with other industries in other places. It gets bigger as it starts its journey through the community. It passes through many hands, touches many people. You would have to be a long, long way away not to have some of it rub off on you.

Increased economic security for you and your family . . . greater opportunity for you and your children . . . are in the industrial expansion of your community, every time.

Join hands with your local industrial development organization and the Michigan Economic Development Department to help your community prosper.

MICHIGAN MEANS BUSINESS

Chicago School Gets Old Egyptian Ledger

CHICAGO (UPI) — The latest addition to the treasure-store of documents in a steel vault at Harper Memorial Library of the University of Chicago is a business ledger kept by a farm manager of 1,800 years ago.

Robert Rosenthal, the library's special collection curator, said the two yellowed, tattered sheets, 17¼ by 8½ inches, are papyrus account books and date back to about 158 A. D.

Rosenthal said the ledgers are "accounts written in Greek which were kept in the form of double entries. They record the cost of processing oil, wine, and grains for market and the income from the sales of these commodities over several months."

The papyri were written in Greek, Rosenthal added, because that was the language of Egypt at the time.

Edgar J. Goodspeed, 87, one of the world's greatest living authorities on the New Testament, gave the papyri to the university.

The sheets were found in 1900 in northern Egypt, near the site of the ancient city of Memphis, Rosenthal added.

There were 270,000,000 juvenile-type books sold in the United States in 1957, an increase of 216,000,000 over sales in 1947.

Leads With His Left After the Cable Breaks

MONROE, Wis. (AP)—Raymond F. Dvorak spent his 25th anniversary as director of the University of Wisconsin band leading it in a concert with his left hand.

He lost his right arm in a train accident 10 years ago and has used an artifical arm for directing since that time. Shortly before he was to start a concert here a cable in the artificial arm broke, rendering it useless.

Ohio Acre Will Be Most Deadly Garden in World

WOOSTER, Ohio (UPI)—A one-acre patch of Ohio farmland near here will become the most dangerous garden in the world next summer.

Scientists will seed the plot with Strontium 90 — the deadly radioactive isotope which is a by-product of atomic explosions — to see what effect it may have on the soil and plant life.

Elaborate precautions will be taken to screen off the experimental area at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station south of Wooster. A high fence will be constructed around the land and steps will be taken to prevent air and water from polluting nearby places.

The Strontium 90 will be shipped here under guard from the Atomic Energy Commission installation at Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Prof. Jasper D. Sayre, who has conducted experiments to determine what effect Strontium 90 has on growing corn, will be in charge of the operation.

Harvard's defense was so disappointing in the third game of the 1901 football season that coach Bill Reid ordered the varsity to play the freshmen immediately after the game ended. The Crimson went through the rest of the season undefeated.

Citizen Just Desires to Keep Record Clean

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — Mayor Harold Frankel received a call from an acquaintance offering congratulations on Huntington's selection as an All-America city in a national contest. But as the mayor was saying thanks for the kind thoughts, the caller added:

"Now get your All-America garbage truck over to my house and pick up the garbage."

In Chicago You Can See Self on Color TV

CHICAGO (UPI) — Some 8,000 persons are seeing themselves on color television daily through a new exhibit at Chicago's Museum of Science and Industry.

The museum, where the unusual exhibit was installed by the Radio Corporation of America, said it is the only place in the world where the man-in-the-street can actually see himself on color TV as well as in ordinary black and white.

The closed circuit arrangement flashes the visitor's picture as he stands in front of the camera to four other color sets in the exhibit area.

Three of the sets are located so that the visitor and other spectators can see how accurately the real life setting is reproduced in color, and the fourth is located in the control room manned by a full-time engineer.

New Jet Power Steering Insures Complete Control

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The aircraft industry has developed an electronic power steering system for supersonic jet fighter-bombers that makes takeoffs and landings at speeds of 200 miles an hour as easy as steering the family automobile.

Planes, official publication of the Aircraft Industries Association, says conventional mechanical steering systems were too slow to cope with the high speed of the latest aircraft. A half-second delay in responding to the pilot's signal could send the jet plunging off the runway.

The new system, which was tailor-made to match the average pilot's physical reactions, guarantees complete control of the jet on the ground at all times.

Alaska Puts Chill on Fraser, Colorado

FRASER, Colo. (UPI) — This chilly Colorado mountain town became—actually if not yet technically—just an "also ran" in the coldest-spot-in-the-nation derby when Alaska became the 49th state.

In the same category are Big Piney, Wyo.; Cut Bank and West Yellowstone, Mont.; and International Falls, Minn., all of which have also recorded the nation's lowest temperature from time to time.

The U. S. Weather Bureau, however, hasn't decided yet whether Alaska is technically a part of the "nation" and says the 49th state won't be considered in figuring "the nation's low" for the time being.

Detergents are more effective when the temperature of the water is at 140 degrees.

Marriage License Clerk Just Seeing Double

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI)—Mrs. Neva Gray, marriage license clerk, was somewhat startled when A. D. Shinkle, 26, asked her to issue him a marriage license.

She told him she couldn't issue the license. "Why?" he asked.

"You were in here this morning and applied for a license to marry Jacqueline L. Morrison — that's why."

Shinkle grinned. He explained that he planned to wed Mary Hayden and that his identical twin, L. D. Shinkle, was engaged to Miss Morrison.

That Boy's Thinking

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—Nine-year-old Paul Mongan, filling out an identification card, thought for a moment after coming to the line calling for type of blood. Then, his mind made up, he wrote "warm."

JUST SAY: "Charge It"

SOMETHING FISHY—Let's face up to it, fellers, when a skin diver surfaces from a swimming pool, especially in the Cambridge, Mass., YMCA, he's hardly expected to find a fish swimming around inside his diving mask. But that's what apparently happened to John Kaznowski, a member of the skin-diving team that instructs beginners. We'll bet a "fin" it's plastic.

Hal Boyle Says:

Zeckendorfs, Dad and Son, Altering Skyline

NEW YORK (AP)—A father and son team here are helping change America's skyline.

The two William Zeckendorfs—senior and junior—have some 200 million dollars in real estate development projects under way at the moment in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Their staff of 400 here also has on the drawing boards other projects totaling hundreds of millions of more dollars—office buildings, shopping centers, apartment buildings, home developments and hotels.

It is the first major hotel to be built here since 1931 and will cost nearly 70 million dollars, making it history's most expensive inn by far. That is a lot of responsibility to put on the shoulders of a 29-year-old man. But young Bill, who already runs six other Zeckendorf hotels here, shows no worry.

He has been used to big figures, ever since starting as an office boy with his father at the age of 14.

"It's easier to build a big project than a small one," he said. "You deal with bigger people."

Bill, like many other real estate leaders, expects a massive surge in home building early in the 1960s.

"The country is building a million housing units a year now," he said. "There's a very good chance we'll get up to two million units a year soon.

"But we've almost reached the end of the commuting line. We look forward to a return to the city."

Optimism seems to be hereditary in the Zeckendorf clan. Both father and son feel the biggest danger to business expansion is business cowardice.

Bill and his father are both big, dark-haired dynamic men given to expressing themselves crisply and forcefully. Don't they ever rub each other the wrong way?

Young Bill smiled.

"We get along as well as any father and son can," he said. "Certain areas he runs, others I run.

"There's only one thing we decided against doing—that was living in the same building."

The United Nations has played a large role in both their lives. Assembling the building plot for the U.N. helped springboard the senior Zeckendorf to public fame as a real estate wizard.

Later on a blind date, young Bill met Guri Lie, daughter of Trygve Lie, then U.N. secretary general. Now they are married and have a young son.

For the member of a firm that presently is building some 8,000 housing units, Bill has an unusual problem.

"I'm trying to find a nice big apartment for my family in a big old-fashioned building," he said. "Let me know if you hear of one."

YMCA Club to Host Speech Contest

The Pontiac YMCA Toastmasters Club will play host at 7 tonight to the Toastmasters District No. 3 Speech Contest at the local "Y."

Participating will be clubs from Pontiac, Royal Oak, Rochester and Birmingham. A total of 120 members and guests are expected.

Representing the local club will be George Crabtree. Dr. Harold Bussey and John Rallis will be co-toastmasters.

The winner will qualify for the regional contest, covering the Wayne-Oakland County area, in about two weeks.

The finals, to decide the national champion, will be in August.

When God Speaks in Whispers . . .

With the passing of a loved one, God's work comes closer — becomes more apparent. In our moments of sadness, we see and feel His presence, and hear His word.

God speaks kindly to us through the funeral service. Thus an experience in the loss of a dear one becomes our gain in increased faith and knowledge.

Scientist Speculates on Solar Effect on Weather

Sun May Cause Some of Our Storms

NEW YORK (UPI)—Earth's warm and benevolent sun also is one of earth's storm-makers, speculated Prof. Edward P. Ney and thereby added yet another paradox to the weather.

He underlined he was speculating but in science speculation often leads to explanations for unexplained things, and earth's storminess is basically unexplained. Also scientific speculation is based on facts.

Ney's facts were those of cosmic rays and sun spots. Cosmic rays come bounding in on earth from outer space, putting electrically charged atomic particles into its atmosphere in infinite numbers.

Vast spots, some of them hundreds of miles in diameter, appear on the face of the sun periodically, and when that happens the sun gets hotter although no one knows why.

When the sun gets hotter, the flow of cosmic rays through the earth's atmosphere decreases. No one really understands why that is so, but it is. That means the atmosphere is less dense with electrically charged particles.

With fewer electrically charged cosmic rays in it, the air's ability to conduct electricity would be lessened, or, to put it the other way, the air would become a better insulator of electricity.

This would cause electric fields to build up in the atmosphere which would explode, so to speak, in storms—"at least thunderstorms," Ney added.

Having proposed this paradox, Ney exfended it in order to explain one of science's best known paradoxes, that of "the hot sun and the cool earth."

It is a fact that when sun-spot activity is at its highest and the sun is then it its hottest, the earth is at its coolest. Increased storminess, Ney said, would produce increased cloud cover which would cause a deflected radiation that would cool the earth.

Ney is a professor of physics at the University of Minnesota and a well-known authority on cosmic rays. His speculation was intended to be of assistance to the scientists who study climate.

The continuing cycle of sun spots has been measured with some exactness. The spots build up in numbers and sizes until a definite maximum is reached. Then they disappear from the sun's face and this marks the opposite side of the circle, the minimum. The sun is hottest at maximum and coolest at minimum.

Speculating in the technical journal, "Nature," Ney urged the climatologists to put established weather cycles against these established cycles in the sun's heat, sun spots, and the numbers of electrically charged atomic rays in the atmosphere, and see if there were any significant agreements.

Science has long believed that both cosmic rays and sun spots somehow influence earth's weather, but it has yet to discover just now.

Finland Is Remote, Yet Highly Civilized

WASHINGTON — Although its territory is diminished, Finland retains great attraction for the traveler bent on exploring a fairly remote, yet highly civilized country.

It is one of the few nations whose nicknames fail to do them full justice: often called "the land of 10,000 lakes," Finland's 130,000 square miles are dotted with more than 60,000 lakes.

Thrust like a great thumb into the Baltic Sea, it is a land of vast forests, peopled by a fighting race whose origins are lost to history, says the National Geographic Society.

Finnish soldiers, fighting first for Sweden and later for Russia, were among Europe's finest warriors. Today, Finland's skills are devoted to cultivation of its forests and fields. There are about 13 acres of forest for each of Finland's four million people, and the country ranks as one of the world's great producers of lumber and wood products.

a New Idea for a New Era

GIVE and TAKE

Where do new ideas that improve products or services come from?

AT NATIONWIDE, many of them come from our policyholders. While manufacturers and raw material producers look to their research laboratories for most of their new ideas, we go back to our customers for new directions.

Through Nationwide's unique Policyholder Participation program, we learn in frank "give and take" sessions exactly what policyholders think. At both hometown and Columbus home office meetings, our policyholders discuss subjects ranging from how their companies can better serve them, to key issues of our time. Out of these sessions come the new ideas that enable us to better serve policyholder needs.

More than any other single thing, we think this pioneering idea among insurance companies has accounted for Nationwide's staying out in front with new services, new economies, new modernized policies.

If you'd like to have a real voice in your insurance affairs . . . plus top quality coverage at all times . . . discuss the details with your neighborhood Nationwide man today.

Clue Hidden in the Tail — Abby

This Cat and Mouse Whodunit Has Bewildered Girl Up a Tree

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: Do cats eat all of the mouse? I have a cat and two small pet mice. When I came home from school the door of my mouse-house was open and both my pet mice were gone. I looked all through the house and couldn't find them. The cat is in the house all day. Maybe the mice got out and ran away but I wonder if maybe the cat didn't eat them?"

ABBY

PRISSY

DEAR PRISSY: I have asked all the experts in this field (mice fields, that is) and I am sorry to say that I am the one who is trapped. Some say a cat eats the whole mouse and others say he does not eat the tail. Does anyone out there really know?

"DEAR ABBY: When my husband loses his temper he uses the most vulgar language in the whole wide world. When I tell him to stop talking like that he says, 'If you are such a a lady how come you know what it means?' What do you do with a man like that?"

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: Give him the frigid treatment—until he cools off.

"DEAR ABBY: I have been married for two years and seven months. I love my husband and he loves me. It so happens that I am expecting my first baby in about three weeks. I admit I am rather large. My husband and I love to dance. We went to a dance with a family party last Saturday, and my husband and I were dancing. It wasn't a cha-cha, it was a slow bop.

"My mother-in-law came out on the floor to get us and she said, 'Please sit down! The whole place is laughing at you!' We sat down but I fought to keep the tears back all evening. I never answered her, but I sure felt like it. Do you think she was right to do this to me?"

LOVES TO DANCE

DEAR LOVES: A dance floor (even for a slow bop) is hardly the place for a woman who is three weeks from the delivery room. But your mother-in-law had no right to ask you to sit down. Your self-control was better than hers.

"DEAR ABBY: What do you do when you discover you married the wrong man? My husband is a nice person but he is shorter than I and doesn't have a car. He was 44 years old and a man that age has no business marrying a girl my age, which is 23. The man I should have married is 28 and he is taller than I am and has a car. The reason I married this first man was because I didn't think I had a chance with the second one. Now I want to know what I can do about this mess."

MARRIED WRONG

DEAR MARRIED: You knew how old the man was when you married him. And you surely had a right to assume that a man 44 years old had reached his full growth. Make the best of it, Dearie.

Traveling Decorator

Model Rooms Go on Tour

NEW YORK (UPI)—Homemakers across the country soon won't have to go to a decorator. One will come to you, complete with model rooms.

Raymond Stewart, an interior decorator in Manhattan, plans to take 24 rooms on tour of the United States once a year. His first stop will be Roosevelt Raceway in Westbury, N.Y., on April 18.

The settings, displayed at the National Antiques Show, are valued at $350,000 and combine antique and contemporary furniture and accessories. They include living and dining rooms, studies, bedrooms, a penthouse terrace, a bathroom with a four-foot-square pink vinyl tub, and an office "for a chic woman executive."

"I think there's a need for this sort of thing. There are no decent shows outside New York, but the demand is great. Married couples especially want new ideas," Stewart said. He believes the tour will be the first of its kind.

For the tour, the rooms will be remade with prefabricated walls, floors and ceilings that can be knocked down and transported like stage sets. Because the settings cover 5,000 square feet, they will be displayed in armories or other large exhibit areas.

Stewart has been in the business nine years and has designed rooms for public shows since 1955. He also decorates homes, offices, restaurants, night clubs and department store specialty salons.

It took him about two days to plan the model rooms, another two weeks to round up furniture and accessories—about 1,000 pieces, including 13 dozen electric light bulbs—and just 48 hours to set them up. All are fresh ideas, not used previously for his clients.

First he made floor plans and sketches and got the furniture. Then carpenters put up the walls, paper hangers and painters went to work, floors were laid, furniture arranged, and wiring hooked up. Finally, accessories, worth $250,000, were added.

"This was the fastest job I've done," said Stewart, as he ducked under the rope, snatched a hammer from a coffee table and hid it in a drawer.

"It was easier than my regular work—there wasn't the adjustment to other personalities and tastes. The hardest thing was trying to coordinate people and get opened on time.

"I tried not to overdecorate or get too arty. I wanted to keep the rooms livable, similar to what most people would have—or like to have—in their own homes. But one couple couldn't figure out that room," he said, pointing to one with very low furniture.

They stared, puzzled, until the woman said seriously, "I guess that room's for midgets."

MARY K. COOK

Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Cook of North Perry street announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Kathleen, to Daniel A. Wagner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wagner of South Edith street. Miss Cook is a graduate of Nazareth College.

Symposium Planned by Hadassah

Mrs. Herman Stenbuck, program chairman, will present a symposium entitled "Israel, Then and Now," at a meeting of Pontiac Chapter of Hadassah to be held at 8:30 p. m. Thursday at Congregation B'nai Israel.

Speakers in the syposium will be Rabbi Israel Goodman, Rabbi Nathan Hershfield and Abe Lapides who will trace the development of the state of Israel.

Hadassah has nearly 400,000 American women members, who as volunteer workers, help support the health and welfare programs of Israel.

Mrs. Sam Chafets and Mrs. John Rothschild will serve Purim refreshments. The public is invited.

Authentic Models Spur Young Scientists

New Toys Reflect Space Age

Educators and industrial experts help make the toys authentic and instructive as well as fun. The goal is to ease the young mind into the atomic and space age as a few years back toy makers began teaching little girls how to become homemakers by the introduction of the diaper doll and the toy kitchen.

Nuclear, jet and radar type toys range from those that just look like or simulate the action of the latest military and commercial marvels to scale reproductions and kits designed to reach the young (and maybe their parents) how such marvels are made and perform.

At the 56th annual toy fair sponsored by the toy manufacturers of the U. S., one firm will show three new plastic scale model hits. They reveal to the youngster at home or in the classroom the history and workings of atomic energy.

The model has complete interior and exterior details including nuclear reactor, steam generator, pumps, turbine generator, transformers, circuit breakers and transmission lines and tower.

The same firm has a replica of the U. S. submarine George Washington, scaled from General Dynamics' blueprints, including a model of its atomic power plant. The toy's launching tubes can fire a simulated guided missile, like the original sub.

The third kit is an 18½-inch scale model of the nuclear surface ship Savannah, to be launched in May at Camden, N. J., by the Atomic Energy Commission and the U. S. Maritime Administration.

Other aspects of science being stressed this year as a lure to young minds:

The Science Materials Center, New York City, has a kit including a spectroscope, colored plastic sheets and cards, and booklet listing experiments to teach the young about different light sources — fluorescent or incandescent bulb, sunlight, neon signs.

The center, a division of the Library of Science, also has a kit to teach the workings of static electricity. It says students can make particles jump several feet, and can light up a neon bulb with electric current produced from a charged toy balloon.

At the more purely top level, sky hooks are being shown. These are feather-shaped light plastic wings, precision designed by an aeronautical engineer. This space age variation of the rubberband sling shot can send the red hooks 300 feet high from a launcher.

Educators are taking an interest in the more complicated nuclear model kits of classroom work, according to Dr. William E. Shoupp, technical director of the Westinghouse atomic power department, Pittsburgh.

He holds: "They give students a basic insight of nuclear science and should encourage further investigation and study in this relatively new field of science. The mere assembling of a plastic kit can, and does, act as a stimulant to the builder."

The moral might be: Let junior put the kit together himself—and develop a yen for science. Don't try to do it for him.

Plans May Have to Be Changed

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: We have a problem confronting us regarding the forthcoming marriage of our daughter and would appreciate your help. A definite date has been set for the wedding and preparations have made for a large reception immediately following the ceremony.

"The bride's paternal grandmother who has been ailing for some time has suddenly taken a bad turn and is not expected to live very long. If the inevitable should happen after the invitations have been mailed, would it be proper to go ahead with the wedding plans, or must it be postponed for a later date?"

Answer: If your daughter's grandmother should die after the wedding invitations have been sent out, they should immediately be recalled. Then if you wish a large wedding with a reception, to be correct you will have to wait six months. A much smaller wedding with only the two families and a few intimate friends can take place as soon as you wish.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me if it is proper to use your drinking glass for a finger bowl after you finish your meal? I mean when finger bowls are not served. I was shocked to see this done at a hotel by a man who otherwise seemed to have good table manners."

Answer: To put your fingers into your glass? — Definitely no! But if fingers are sticky, you could hold a corner of your napkin against the rim of your glass and tipping it slightly moisten the corner and wipe your fingers on it.

Baking soda applied with a damp sponge will clean an iron's sole plate without scratching it.

Rhubarb Coffee Cake Is Festival Grand Prize

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Today we have the Senior Grand Prize winner's recipe from the Rhubarb Festival. Mrs. John Vogler of Utica won this honor with a Rhubarb Filled Coffee Cake.

You will be interested to know that the teenager whose picture appeared in last week's Market Basket section was the Junior Grand Prize winner. Her Rhubarb Crunch, the recipe we printed with her picture, won this honor.

Mrs. Vogler loves to bake and does it several times a week. Her children are all grown and married now. It was her daughter's suggestion that she enter the contest.

RHUBARB FILLED COFFEE CAKE

By Mrs. John Vogler

Basic dough:
1 cup milk scalded
¼ cup cooking oil
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg, beaten
1 package dry yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
3½ cups sifted flour

Add oil, sugar and salt to scalded milk. Mix and cool. Add egg, dissolved yeast and flour. Mix well. Place in bowl and let rise until double in size (about two hours). Remove and knead well.

Cut into 2 pieces. Roll out into 9x12 rectangle. Spread with half the filling and seal after folding over. Let rise again.

Filling
2 cups rhubarb sliced thin
1½ cups sugar
⅓ cup butter or margarine
4 tablespoons tapioca
½ cup water

Cook until thick. Cool.

Doesn't Take Money to Please a Wife

By RUTH MILLETT

Memo to men:

If you want to keep your wife satisfied with her lot in life — never miss a chance—

To tell her how pretty she looks. She'll be happier in an old dress, if you make her feel pretty, than in a new one that you fail to notice or one that you act dubious about.

To compliment her on her cooking. She won't mind not being able to serve steak if you can convince her that her meat loaf is the best you ever ate.

To praise her for being a good manager. Pinching pennies isn't nearly as dreary a necessity to the woman whose husband is impressed with what a good manager she is.

To tell her what a capable hostess she is. She may not be able to give fancy parties but if you assure her after every party that everything went well and the guests all seemed to have a good time she won't mind having to entertain simply.

To build her up in front of your friends. Nothing makes a wife feel quite so proud and quite so lucky as to have her husband let others know he thinks she is just about all right.

To notice and admire the things she does to make your home more attractive. It's no real hardship for a woman to paint a room, or make a slipcover, or refinish furniture if her husband marvels at what a change she has made in a room's appearance.

Any woman woman whose husband obviously thinks she is pretty smart, and nice to have around knows she is a lucky woman.

Others Shy Too

Forget Self to Be Good Talker

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The spoken word is our most universal means of communication with others. Yet many very intelligent folks find themselves in an agony of discomfort when in a social group which is composed of persons they do not know well, because they do not know what to say.

And the thought of having to make a speech can even tame a lion. Do you remember the story of the Christian who was to be thrown to the lions in the Roman Arena? He had asked for pardon and this was denied him. Then he asked Nero if his life would be spared if he could tame the lion, and this request was granted.

The animal came roaring at him, ready to take his head off, but just before this happened the Christian h u r r i e d l y whispered something into the animal's ear and it slunk away from him. Nero demanded to know what the intended v i c t i m had said to the lion, and he replies, "It was very simple. I just reminded him that he would be expected to say a few words after dinner."

When you go out socially you do not have to make a speech. Be thankful for that! Also those you meet are not lions. Many of them are just as insecure about conversation as you are. One way or another, they are all just human beings and most of them are very nice human beings —and they all have interesting things to say.

Really, all you have to do in order to be liked and thought of as a good conversationalist is to forget yourself and be truly interested in those you meet. I know that this is not as simple as it sounds. It may be impossible for you to fall in love with the human race at a moment's notice, or to immediately free yourself of self-consciousness. So — here are a few crutches to use until you can do so.

SHY TOO

You may be talking to someone who is just as shy as you are. Then why don't you start the ball rolling? You even can use the weather in such a drastic situation. That is better than nothing or "Duh". Or you might ask him or her questions such as where he lives and how long she has lived there and so forth. It doesn't matter what you say but say something.

It is a great help if you are fairly well-informed about current affairs, about books, and music. This self-education you can get through books and newspapers and magazines, radio, TV and records.

Most people are interesting. Once you break the ice with some remark, or maybe a few remarks, they usually will help carry the ball from then on.

If you will approach your daily life with a sense of humor you will find that many seemingly hectic situations and experiences really are funny. These make wonderful little stories which fit in so often in conversation.

Beware of controversial and extremely personal subjects such as religion or politics or over-weight—unless you know very well those with whom you are talking.

Knobby Knees Good Medicine

Not Girls' Legs but Cypress Twists Used Like Ink Blot Tests

MIAMI (UPI)—Psychiatrists can tell a lot about you by the way you look at knobby knees.

The idea, says Dr. Edward F. Kerman, Boston psychiatrist, is to give a third dimension to the widely used Rorschach ink blot tests by using the weirdly shaped knees.

Here's how it works:

A mentally troubled patient is asked to inspect a half dozen or so cypress knees. He then is asked to give his reaction to the shapes; to make up stories in which the knees become characters in the plot.

Through the reactions and stories—some of them are real dandies, says Kerman—a skilled examiner can learn much about the patient's hidden feelings and problems.

He says that one type of knee seems to appeal to persons suffering from guilt complexes, another to the aggressive type and still another to schizophrenics.

WOODSMAN'S IDEA

Strangely, the idea is not the brainchild of a psychiatrist but of a Florida woodsman with only a high school education and an inquisitive mind. He is Tom Gaskins, operator of a cypress museum at Palmdale, Fla.

About two years ago, Gaskins noticed that tourists visiting his "cypress knee exhibit" were fascinated by the strange shapes and visualized all sorts of images while studying them.

Gaskins, an amateur psychologist, recognized that the tourists were reacting very much as they would to the ink-blot test—only this was in 3-D

He became so intrigued with the idea that he wrote a letter to the Psychiatric Quarterly, a magazine of the profession, and sent the editors a sample of a knee.

Later several psychiatrists took time out from Florida vactions to visit Gaskins and look over his collection. Kerman was one of them. He became so interested he made a careful study of the idea.

He made rubber molds of six of the knees and tried them out on his patients with great success.

Kerman thinks so much of the idea he has written two papers on his studies and is preparing a third.

Apparently, other psychiatrists like the idea. Already, 40 of them are using it.

Bob Considine Says:

Khrushchev Is Ty Cobb Type of Diplomat

NEW YORK—Khrushchev is the finest boxer since Benny Leonard, the shrewdest competitor since Ty Cobb.

He hits where it hurts, steps back. He feints opponents into a confused cover-up from which they can produce no ready reply. He aggravates a minor flesh wound into a canyonesque gash. He leads with his chin, knowing that no haymaker is about to bop him.

The American nature, our tender concern for human life, has long since made counter punchers of us.

We are cheek-turners. Despite some earnest recent suggestions that we alter our rules, and perhaps even threaten as much as Khrushchev does, we find it as hard to poke a simple jab at him as we would find it hard to launch the roundhouse of a preventive missile-war—assuming we had the hardware.

Ty Cobb was the first to learn how to handle the blinding speed of Walter Johnson. Ty would stand so close to the plate that the most forward spike on each shoe would rest on the rubber like separated teeth gnawing at it. Johnson had a horror of hurting a hitter. He would walk Cobb or throw him something Ty could see and hit. Khrushchev is Cobb, too.

The Russian has many of us in an absolute tizzy over his preposterous demand that we clear out of his West Berlin May 27 when he arbitrarily turns his slab over to his pathetic stooges, the East Germans.

Sen. Jackson talks of calling up troops, a show of musketry which would have about as much deterrent effect on Khrushchev, if he was serious, as pictures of the crossbow exhibit at the Wichita Museum.

The Air Force pines for a true air alert for SAC but couldn't possibly afford the fuel which would have to be burned, unless a decision was made to cut down the missile program, which is already inadequate.

Sen. Fulbright calls for more imagination and originality in our reaction to Mr. K's penchant for shaking his hairy fist under our noses, but suggests neither panacea. Sen. Lyndon Johnson says, "This is a country united behind the President." But Sen. Ellender suspects out loud that the Eisenhower administration just won't get around to doing a darn thing about Berlin.

Sen. Keating says Ike "has a plan." He wouldn't say what it is. Khrushchev must be pleased by his ability to confound his betters.

If Khrushchev continues his consistent inconsistency, we'd better be on guard on May 27 not only at Berlin but wherever else the Free World has grown fat. It is more than possible that absolutely nothing will happen in Berlin on that fateful day but political, diplomatic and even minor military brush fires will "spontaneously" ignite in Asia, Africa, Europe, even South America. With all eyes on Berlin that day, I'd be a little nervous about living on, let's say, Quemoy.

In frozen Gander's Airport, where we made a recent stop for gas after flying the Atlantic, we came across an editorial in a little St. John's, Newfoundland, newspaper that took the U. S. press to task in a most vigorous way. Excerpt:

"The medical speculations that fill the American press, the calculations about whether or not Mr. Dulles can recover, the clinical examinations of the normal processes of his ailment, are absolutely revolting.

"Save in the case of President Eisenhower's own illnesses, we are unaware of any similar and indecent probing into the medical details of a sick man's condition."

You can tell that it is getting along into March without looking at a calendar. The rookies the baseball writers were hailing from the spring training camps two weeks ago are now safely on their way back to the bush.

The British want a Summit meeting quite badly. I have a hunch that President Eisenhower would like one, too, before he hangs up his glove. Khrushchev keeps bellowing for one. De Gaulle would welcome one. And yet there's a pretty good chance that it might never come off, at least with this set of characters, for the same awe-inspiring reason that curdled the last proposed summit—Red China's refusal to countenance such a meeting without including Mao Tse Tung.

Home-Made Rocket Explodes in Garage

DETROIT (UPI) — Two youths escaped injury yesterday when a home-made rocket exploded in an east side garage.

Police arrested Ernest Denmon, 20, and Tommy Watkins, 19, for investigation of possession of explosives.

Police said the missile was made from a piece of pipe a foot long and an inch in diameter. It was packed with sulphur, napthalene and potassium chlorate. Other missiles were found in the garage.

Dentist Still Serious After Car-Train Crash

A Detroit dentist injured in a car-train accident Friday afternoon remained on the critical list at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital today.

Dr. Joseph Forbes, 58, of 941 Merton Rd., suffered head injuries when his car and a train collided at the Grand Trunk crossing on S. Saginaw street.

Parents Hit 'Bed Snatching' in Telegram to Governor

By LEE WINBORN

LAPEER — A telegram was sent yesterday to Governor Williams by the Lapeer Parents Assn., protesting the "inhuman practice of bed snatching" at the Lapeer State Home and Training School here.

In a prepared statement the association defines bed snatching as the "practice of removing a child's bed when he or she is absent from the unit (building) for even a brief period period either due to illness or a vacation with parents."

The definition further states that the returning child is placed in the General Hospital admittance ward until a vacancy occurs in his unit or some other appropriate place.

The association charges that this practice is "inhuman" in its application to the children for the child's bed is the only home he knows.

"It is equally unjust to parents who now fear to take their children home even for a brief visit," the association release states.

In conclusion, the telegram urges "those responsible for this policy to discontinue it immediately."

Mrs. Seldon Barris of 21951 Ridgedale St., Oak Park, is a director of the association. She said the State Department of Public Health put in the new rules after "certain legislators" complained they saw 200 empty beds when they made an inspection trip to the home during the Christmas holidays.

Mrs. Barris said that Dr. A. T. Rehn, medical superintendent of the home claims his hands are tied.

She added that several parents complained at a recent association meeting that they don't dare take their child home for fear there will be no bed for him when he returns.

The children cannot understand why they must be sent to the hospital when they return to the home after a vacation if they aren't sick and have already had a bed assigned to them, Mrs. Barris pointed out.

The association has a membership of over 1,400 parents, relatives and friends. It was organized 10 years ago and it furnishes recreational, educational and training equipment not provided by the state for children at the home for the mentally retarded.

There are 4,200 patients, 3,900 in the home and 300 on home-patient care, assigned to the home.

Newcomers Win Election in Franklin

FRANKLIN—Three incumbents and three newcomers were elected here yesterday when 557 residents turned out to vote.

Elected clerk was newcomer Elsie Garwood with 296 votes; Incumbent Alfred C. Emmerling won the assessor's job with 442 and Robert E. Winkel, the village's new treasurer, received 280 votes.

Don W. Hunter, incumbent with 346; William H. Worcester, incumbent with 337 and Frederick K. Ziegel, a new office holder with 243, won the trusteeships.

Two of three propositions up for consideration were turned down by voters. Proposal of the Evergreen sewer system was defeated by a vote of 344 to 201 because of the lack of a two-thirds majority. This was the second time the village has defeated the proposed sewer.

The package proposal of two charter amendments to set up a special assessment district for roads and provide bonds to take care of the payment of road paving, improving and maintenance was also turned down by lack of two-thirds majority. This vote was 342 to 191.

The voters passed the proposal for a special eight-mill road millage for road repair and maintenance by a simple majority, 296 yes to 245 no.

Police Catch Romeo Speeder

Motorcycle Chase Hits 112 M.P.H., Nets Youth Fine, Jail

ROMEO — A 21-year-old youth's attempt to out-distance a pursuing police car on his flashy new motorcycle at speeds up to 112 m.p.h. netted him nothing but trouble yesterday.

Carl Knofski, of 413 N. Bailey St., was charged with reckless driving and for driving at a speed too fast for conditions.

He was arraigned before Justice Francis A. Castellucci in Mount Clemens and sentenced to pay a total of $125 in fines, plus 10 days in jail.

If unable to pay his fine, Knofski was sentenced to spend 25 days in jail.

Knofski abandoned his car early Sunday morning when police attempted to arrest him for speeding. He went home for his four-cylinder motorcycle and took off for Washington, six and a half miles away, with the police car in hot pursuit.

When the patrolmen tried to pull alongside Knofski, the youth would weave his motorcycle back and forth, they said.

Incumbents In as 92 Vote at Romeo Polls

ROMEO — Only 92 votes were cast in the village election here yesterday with all the incumbents and the appointee re-elected to their present posts.

Joseph C. Rymill, village president, received 89 votes; Sidney J. White, clerk, 85; Elaine M. Hosner, treasurer, 87; and Elgin F. Anger, recently appointed to the assessor's position, 82 votes.

The three incumbent trustees, George Tapley, John Kegler and William Totten were re-elected by votes of 82, 78 and 77 respectively.

Mrs. C. L. Davidson polled 79 votes and Arthur M. Smith 81 for re-election to their present offices as library directors.

Citizen's Party Sweeps Offices

Shoup Wins Presidency in Lake Orion Village; Campbell Treasurer

LAKE ORION—It was a clean sweep for the Citizen's Party in th general election here yesterday.

Party candidate William Shoup defeated the Village Party candidate, Clarence Braidwood, for election to the office of village president by a vote of 184 to 170.

Unopposed for re-election to her 15th one-year term as clerk was Mary Parkinson, Citizen's Party, who received 301 votes.

Lepha M. Decker, Village Party candidate, failed in her bid to unseat Geraldine J. Campbell, Citizen's Party, as village treasurer. The tally was 219 for Campbell, 127 for Decker.

Assessor Geraldine Storey, Citizen's Party, received 271 votes. She was unopposed for re-election.

The three Citizen's Party candidates were elected to serve two-year terms on the village council. They are Robert Hauxwell Sr., who garnered 260 votes; Carroll Kirkpatrick, 238; and David Erlandson, 214.

Village Party hopefuls were Robert Sheardy, who tallied 136 votes; George R. (Ray) Welch, 86; and Mary Jane DeRoseau, 82.

Six Incumbents, One Newcomer Win in Clarkston

CLARKSTON—Six of the seven village officials elected here last night were incumbents.

The winners and the totals they received were Edward Thomson, president, 67; Ralph Thayer, clerk, 78; Robert Jones, Edward O'Roark and Jerome Wilford, all trustees who received 78 votes, and Lyle Sibley, assessor, 78.

Mrs. Ada Scrace, a new office-holder, was elected treasurer. She received 76 votes.

Sheik Re-Elected Head of Leonard Village

LEONARD—Lawson Sheik was re-elected village president in yesterday's general election here. He received 58 of the total 62 votes cast.

John Lobzien was re-elected clerk with 61 votes; Lucille Porter, treasurer, also with 61; and Jesse Sutherby, assessor with 60 votes.

The three trustees running for two-year terms—Charles Hamilton, John Sutherby and Dwight Patterson—received 61, 60 and 58 votes respectively.

The Girl Scouts of America are celebrating their 47th birthday this week and troops everywhere are planning something special to mark the event.

Dedicated to furthering good practices in the home, health and citizenship, the Girl Scouts of America was founded by Mrs. Juliette Low of Savanah, Ga., in 1912 for girls from 10 to 18 years of age.

Today the organization numbers well of 200,000 girls and now includes the Brownies, which is sort of a prep unit for younger girls.

More than 200 Girl Scouts and Brownies in the 15 troops of the Union Lake-Twin Beach area in Oakland County are busy this week with Operation Birthday Cake.

They have taken for their theme, "You Can Count on Her to Be Creative," in showering local institutions, organizations and individuals with cakes reflecting the girls' creativity in homemaking.

Recipients of these tempting-looking cakes include the Oakland County Tuberculosis Sanatorium, West Hickory Haven—rest home in Milford, the Oakland County Infirmary, and numerous Girl Scout leaders and benefactors in the area.

As scouts, girls learn cooking, sewing, home nursing, child care, self help and resourcefulness in many lines as well as first aid and lifesaving, and other forms of community service.

Observances of the anniversary are being conducted by troops across the nation all this week in a spirit of honor, loyalty, helpfulness, obedience, friendliness, courtesy, humanity, cheerfulness, thrift and cleanliness. These are the rules of the scout movement.

Field of 15 Vied for Posts

Milford Picks 6 Trustees

The incumbent winners of the trustee contest and their votes are Wilbur Johnson 407; John Murphy, 303; Vernon Rounds, 291; and John Ray, 237.

New members to the council will be Paul Plotzer, 276, the former village president, and Herschel Krebs, 237. Fifteen residents run for trustee posts.

Mrs. Bee Helberg, village clerk, reports 530 residents voted of the possible 1,200 who were registered.

Those running for trusteeships who were defeated include: Edward Nealer, an incumbent, with 169; Charles Newell, 232; Donald Grondin, 168; Roy Elmore, 160; and Frank Fox, incumbent, 160.

Under the new home rule charter, the new village manager, Oliver Taylor hires the treasurer, clerk and village attorney.

Rochester Elects Four Councilmen

ROCHESTER—John A. Boberitz, Roy Rewold, the incumbent Clarence Burr and William C. Chapman were elected to the four vacancies on the Rochester council in yesterday's village election here.

All but Two Get 33 Votes Each at Ortonville

ORTONVILLE — All but two candidates received the total of 33 votes cast in yesterday's spring election here.

Candidates for the four trustee posts open this year were incumbent Ronald R. Richards and John K. Teare, who both polled 33 votes; Donald A. Barnes, who received 32; and Allen Stevens, who had 31.

All will serve for two years except Richards who was running for a one-year term.

Pearson Defeated in Oxford Vote

OXFORD—Ted Pearson Jr., who has served eight years on the village council here—all but one year as president—was defeated for re-election as a trustee yesterday.

Top council vote-getter was Neil Coulter with 121 votes. He and incumbent Edmund Unger, who polled 117 votes, were elected to two year terms.

Gordon Mathie received the third highest number of votes, 105, assuring him of election to a one-year term as trustee.

Montgomery Wins Only Holly Contest

HOLLY — Six of the seven village officers elected yesterday were unopposed. In the only contest, the incumbent lost.

J. Lee Montgomery, newcomer, won the office of the assessor from Byron B. Beatty, incumbent. The vote was Montgomery, 96; Beatty, 71.

Candidates who were unopposed and therefore elected were Paul O. Cohee, president; George J. Patterson, clerk; Harry J. Summers, treasurer; and Fred Disbroe, Clare Hubble and Samuel M. Wright, all trustees for two years.

Hazel Park Extends Five-Mill School Tax

HAZEL PARK — Voters in the Hazel Park School District elected to extend a five-mill tax for 10 years in yesterday's election.

The issue passed with 1,407 "yes" votes to 685. It means the city tax rate will remain at $20.38 per thousand valuation.

The money will be used for operating expenses.

Rudolph Romps With Children, Is Housebroken

Area Family Finds Deer to Be Fun-Loving Pet

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

A pet deer that hates school buses because it takes his beloved young friends away from him, lives in the home of the Victor Betts family at 6310 Shappie Rd., near Clarkston.

Last June, "Rudolph," (he has a shiny nose), was discovered in a hay field on the "back forty" acres of the farm. Bill, 18, one of the nine Betts children accidentally ran over the leg of the baby deer, with a mowing machine, before spotting him deep in the field of ripe clover.

Picking the injured fawn up, Bill took him home, doctored and taped the left hind leg, then called the State Conservation Department. He was told to replace the deer where he found him, and if Rudy's mother didn't reclaim him, Bill could raise the fawn—and that's just what has happened.

Truly the "dear" of the family and entire countryside, Rudy is as much at home indoors as out, and is completely house-broken, according to his owners.

Ever since the day the tiny 5-pound baby was brought into the Betts home, he has had a red leather collar with a good-sized cow bell hanging loosely around his neck.

This is to keep the family posted as to Rudy's whereabouts and also to serve as a precautionary measure to hunters in the area.

As for the school bus — Rudy knows that this contraption takes his pals, the Betts children, Jack 10, Ruth 14, Leon 15 and Helen 16, away from him.

When the big bus heaves into sight, Rudy immediately goes into action. He paws the ground and blats like a calf. After the bus stops, he bites at the tires —and when the machine gets going again, Rudy really puts on a show.

He throws himself up in the air, twisting and turning in all directions—then chases it down the road for a quarter of a mile. This is a daily procedure according to Mrs. Betts. "He just can't seem to get used to that bus," she added.

When he wants to come into the house, Rudy nibbles on the door knobs and if no one hears him at the back door, he trots around to the front, and gives that knob a work-out. (Six door knobs have had to be replaced, Betts said). If he is ignored, he then stands on his hind legs and paws the doors for attention.

Once inside, Rudy acts like any other pet dog or cat would, except that he eats raw apple peelings, peppermint candy, graham crackers and loves dill pickles.

A constant source of amusement, Rudy is a clown at heart. One day Mrs. Betts opened two big cans of peaches for dinner and poured them into a bowl on the kitchen table. The children called for her to come and see something on TV in the other room.

All of a sudden the family heard a loud slurping noise in the kitchen. There was Rudy standing in front of the empty peach bowl, licking sticky syrup from his chops.

"It's hard to believe, but he has fine table manners," Shirley said. "One day after dinner, Rudy picked up a cup of left-over warm tea from the table with his mouth, drank it, then politely set the cup down in the saucer again," Shirley said.

Inquisitive Rudy likes to be on the inside looking out. Just like a dog, he steps up onto the covered sofa and pushes back the nylon curtain to see what's going on outside.

"Sometimes startled strangers driving by in their cars see the deer in the window. They usually stop to ask if it's really true," Mrs. Betts relates.

During the cold weather, Rudy goes to the back door when he wants to go out. However, once the door is open and the blast of cold air hits him, Rudy stops dead in his tracks. "We have to get behind him and push him outside," Betts continued.

One day Betts and a couple of friends decided to go hunting, on the 200-acre farm. They forgot to put Rudy in the barn, so the deer followed the men.

"We looked pretty silly hunting for deer with one following us all over the place," Betts said. "That was the extent of my deer hunting," he added.

Rudy's idea of real fun is bumping the smaller children down with his head racing around the yard with two big hound dogs, and visiting the neighbors daily. "We have never allowed any real rough play with Rudy," Betts explained. "He's naturally gentle and that's the way we want to keep him."

When it's Rudy's bedtime, the Betts turn the light off on the front porch (this is Rudy's favorite spot) and the deer wanders out to the big barn to nestle in the hay.

When he settles down to sleep ten motherless Brittany spaniel puppies come running to cuddle close for warmth and protection from the cold winter nights. Not minding at all, Rudy fondly nuzzles his bedtime friends before dozing off.

DEAR DEER — Rudy, the shiny-nosed tame deer, loves 14-year-old Ruth Anne Betts dearly, 'tis evident. He follows her and the other children everywhere and makes a big commotion when the school bus "kidnaps" his playmates in the morning.

NOSEY DEER — "Rudy," a pet deer belonging to the Victor Betts family near Clarkston, wonders how his "dear" ancestor ever got in such a predicament. Rudy has assured himself of a good life by turning the tables on human beings — he lives with them.

Walled Lake Okays School Tax Hike

WALLED LAKE—A proposal to add 2 mills to operating funds for schools was approved yesterday by voters here 869 to 310.

The increase will result in approximately $93,000 more for the year. It will be used primarily for salaries of teachers and equipment in the 9-room addition to the senior high school and in the new junior high now under construction.

The junior high school is scheduled for completion in September. It will contain 22 classrooms.

Woman's Club to Meet for Lenten Program

ROCHESTER — The Rochester Woman's Club will meet at 1:30 p.m. Friday at the home of Mrs. Robert Fetlon, 1477 Ashton Dr., with Mrs. Louis M. Stieb serving as co-hostess. The program, on "Lenten Meditations," will be given by Mrs. H. J. Toles.

Irate Avondale Fans Fight Oxford Rooters

OXFORD — Avondale and Oxford basketball players and fans tangled on the main streets here after the game in Pontiac last night, forcing local police to break up the fracas twice between 10 and 11 p.m.

The trouble started at the Oxford-Clarkston game in Pontiac when, police said, Avondale rooters allegedly used foul language about Oxford players.

The hard feelings stemmed from Avondale's forced forfeiture of last Friday night's tournament game when a player was named ineligible because he had played in a church league.

The Avondale group followed the Oxford contingent back to town, got out of their cars and started milling around a local restaurant. Officer Chauncey Brooks broke up the melee and followed several cars out of town.

This morning there were several broken bottles on the street but no one was arrested and none were injured, police said.

Subdivision Given Go-Ahead

Rochester Meadows Allowed to Proceed by Village Council

ROCHESTER—The village council last night gave final approval to Rochester Meadows developers to proceed with plans for their entire subdivision.

They must meet certain requirements, however, which include drainage, easements and adequate access to the Cocroft property.

The estimated total to be held in escrow until all improvements in the subdivision are made is $70,452.

Village Manager Paul York and several council members were going to Lansing today to oppose a House bill which requires both a majority vote in the village and in the fringe area affected to annex new property.

Wood Creek Farms Elects 2 to Council

WOOD CREEK FARMS — Two seats on the village council filled in yesterday's election went to incumbent Norman Krieder, with 53 votes, and to Mrs. Marina Lam, 48 votes.

Clawson Voters OK 5 Mill School Tax Hike

CLAWSON—Voters here yesterday approved an increase of 5 mills for schools for the next five years by 709 to 574 votes.

A three-mill tax now in operation will expire in July 1959 at which time the millage will be 21.38, an increase of two-mills, per thousand valuation.

Bavarian City Shows Little Signs of War

Hitler's Munich Beer Hall Deserted

MUNICH, Germany (UPI) — The bricks show through where the stucco finish has fallen away from the walls of the beer hall made famous by Adolph Hitler.

The building is empty now, although over the stone archway leading to the courtyard you still can read the words "Buergerbraukeller."

The tables have been removed from the courtyard where brown-shirted youths drank beer and became enslaved to a mustached man with a heavy forelock who raved of a Hitler Germany that would live, forever. The only thing standing in the courtyard now is a portable cement mixer.

A mile or so away, the sun shines brightly on the broad Ludwigstrasse. On each side are the substantial buildings of Munich University. Near the end is a fountain where students lounge and at the far end is a victory arch.

The arch commemorates the German victory over France in 1870.

At the other end is the Feldherrnhalle, or "Marshals Hall."

It is uncovered and at the stairway leading to the entrance two stone lions stand guard.

It was between these two lions on Nov. 9, 1923, that Hitler stood. Marching toward him from the victory arch were his brown-shirted Nazi followers. That was the day of the ill-fated beer hall putsch.

For that, Hitler went to jail and wrote his book "Mein Kampf," which contained the blueprint of Nazi conquest.

Near at hand, is a huge square which became the site of a Nazi shrine. Many of Hitler's earlier followers fell there and the square became their honored grave.

All the outward signs that made the square a shrine have been removed now.

The residents of Munich wish that all signs of Hitlerism could be removed.

The Munich of 1959 shows few signs of the war that Hitler unleashed, and, 14 years ago, lost. It is a pleasant city in which the new U. S. consulate, glassed and standing on a modernistic stilt-like foundation, blends perfectly with the new, modernistic business architecture around it.

Last year, the birth of a son to a chimney-sweep made Munich a city of one million persons. Foreign buyers come here for textiles, gloves, optical and precision instruments.

By German standards, Munich is not considered a boom city. But it is a prosperous one which still, in the midst of growth, has been able to retain much of its tradition.

Close to Munich is one of the largest U. S. Army bases in Europe.

There are no "Yankee go home" signs here, although there is occasional resentment that the Americans in World War II bombed Munich.

However, if an American soldier visits a Munich beer hall, he usually is advised to wear civilian clothing.

A Munich newspaper columnist wrote recently that the sight of German uniforms at an annual carnival ball annoyed him. The result was a minor controversy, but in the end the columnist seemed the winner. One reader wrote:

"We have had enough. We don't want to see any more uniforms, not only at carnival balls."

Security for You

Men Can Retire When 60

By RAY HENRY

Here's a little known fact about Social Security: Most men can quit working at 60—if they've worked regularly until then—without serious effect on the size of the payments they can draw at 65.

(What a man who retires at 60 does for income until he's 65 is another question, since Social Security retirement payments aren't ever paid until 65.)

This is why:

The size of your payments at 65 are generally based on the average of your monthly earnings covered by Social Security since Jan. 1, 1951, BUT—

In figuring the monthly average, the Social Security Administration can ignore the five years in which your earnings were lowest—or in which you had no earnings.

KEEPS IT UNCOSTLY

It's this latter provision which keeps retirement at 60 from costing you a large chunk of your Social Security payments at 65.

For example:

Paul Jones reaches 60 on Jan. 1, 1960. He's worked in a job covered by Social Security since it started and has always had the maximum earnings under it.

Now, suppose he retires at 60.

His payments when he reaches 65 will be figured on his earnings covered by Social Security from Jan. 1, 1951, to Jan. 1, 1960.

(The five years between Jan. 1, 1960 and Jan. 1, 1965—that is the five years from age 60 to 65 when Jones had no earnings—are not figured in the average.)

Based on his average monthly earnings for this period, his payments at 65 will be $112 a month.

If he had continued to work to age 65 and had continued to earn the maximum earnings covered by Social Security, his payments would have been $123 a month.

Thus, the difference in his payments—whether he works or not—would be $11 a month.

This example for Jones could be worked out for most men under 60 who are now in jobs covered by Social Security. The result would be essentially the same. There wouldn't be too much difference in the size of his payments whether or not he works between 60 and 65.

SOME EXCEPTIONS

But, there are some exceptions to this early retirement possibility.

The main ones are farmers and most self-employed professional men like dentists and lawyers who within the last four years have been brought under the Social Security system.

Another major exception is men who have had sharp ups-and-downs in earnings under Social Security throughout their working life. Obviously, these ups-and-downs would affect their average monthly earnings on which their retirement payments would be based.

Such men would probably want to continue work until 65 to try to wipe out years in which they had low or no earnings before reaching 60.

Although the possibility of early retirement may be open to you, don't base your retirement plans on it until after you've had a talk with your local Social Security office.

You may find out you need all your possible working years to get fairly high payments. Your Social Security office can figure this out for you.

Water Diversion Bill Going to Floor

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Lake Michigan water diversion bill was expected to get quick clearance today from the House Rules Committee for floor action tomorrow.

The House Public Works Committee last week approved a diversion bill 19-11. The measure was sponsored by Rep. Thomas J. O'Brien (D-Ill).

A majority of the committee members, in a new defense of the measure, said today the diversion of additional water from Lake Michigan by the City of Chicago would have only a negligible effect on U. S. and Canadian shipping as well as power projects.

A committee aide said the minority's conclusions on the proposal would be released tomorrow.

Too Many Texas Mink

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — They've got too much mink in east Texas. State Rep. James V. Adams of Mount Pleasant said Monday mink are fine in coats but bad running loose. He introduced a bill to allow an open season on the fur-bearing animals.

Space Vehicle Money Urged

Stennis Says U.S. Must Be First With Manned Atomic Missile

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States must be first in developing a space vehicle that can deliver nuclear weapons, Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss) said today.

He told the Senate in a prepared speech that if an adversary outstripped this country in that respect, "the threat to our security could be disastous."

Stennis spoke in support of a bill to authorize $48,354,000 for the National Aeronauties and Space Administration for use by July 1. The total includes $20,750,000 for Project Mercury, NASA's initital manned space research program.

Another 70 millions for the project has been asked in a $485,300,000 program for NASA starting July 1, and Mercury's total cost has been estimated at 200 million dollars.

But Stennis said that is only a start.

"If Mercury is successful—and it is essential that it be successful—we can soon expect to be spending billions of dollars a year on various types of space vehicles, unless there is a drastic change in the world situation," Stennis said.

"We must make no mistake about this—space flight is of the highest importance and of the highest practicality."

Stennis said with both the United States and the Soviet Union placing more and more reliance on ballistic missiles "at best we can hope that this results in a nuclear stand-off."

New Painting Has Lincoln in Nightshirt

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new painting, exhibited on Capitol Hill for the first time, shows Abraham Lincoln in brocaded slippers and white nightshirt as he sits by a fourposter bed and scribbles notes for the Emancipation Proclamation.

"The painting has captured the simple dignity, the solemn earnestness and determination of President Lincoln just before the battle of Antietam," he commented.

An unidentified tourist took a different approach.

"What's the nightshirt bit? They're not trying to make out Lincoln was a member of the Ku Klux Klan, are they?" he asked.

Schlaikjer, a former illustrator fo Harper's magazine and the Chicago Herald Examiner, did the painting in 1957 and loaned it to the commission.

Deserter 52 Years Wins Discharge

TORONTO (AP)—A 73-year-old Toronto resident who deserted from a British regiment 52 years ago has finally won a discharge.

William Thorneloe joined the Sherwood Foresters in 1902 when he was 16. Five years later and only months before his discharge was due, he emigrated to Canada. During World War II he served with the Canadian army in England.

"I wasn't unduly worried," Thorneloe said today, "but I wrote my old regiment and asked for some kind of release."

The British War Office sent him a protection certificate just in case he should be picked up by police.

Flint Couple Tails Bandits, Gets Number

FLINT (UPI) — A Flint couple, present when a drive-in restaurant was held up last night, followed the bandits' car three miles to get the license number.

State police, acting on information furnished by Ronald Van Linden, 21, and his girl friend, Lola Brooks, 18, stopped the car at Ferry, northeast of Lansing.

Arrested were Robert Higman, 31, and James Freeman, about 25, both of Terre Haute, Ind.; Donald J. Ingram, 21, Flint, and his wife, Daria Jean Ingram, 19.

Police said four wallets containing about $300 were taken from Warren Robertson, owner of the restaurant, and customers. Police found the wallets and money concealed in the Higham car.

Retarded Son Got Candy Poisoned by Mother

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A judge has ruled mentally incompetent a mother accused of mailing poison candy to her mentally retarded son in Arizona.

Proceedings will be brought to have Mrs. Howard placed in an institution, her attorney said Monday. Her husband, George, was appointed her guardian.

She Gets Stamp That Goes With Green Envelope

"I want a stamp that will go well with this envelope," Mrs. Koscan told postal employes.

The employes laughed, but when she insisted, they showed her all the stamps they had.

3 Missing in Blaze at Old Lumber Camp

BLAND, Va. (AP)—Three persons were reported missing in the wake of an early morning fire which swept through four homes in an old lumber camp at nearby Bastian today.

Firemen said a skull was found in the ruins of the home of William Weber where the fire broke out. Missing are Weber, his wife and teen-age son.

No injuries were reported among the residents of the other three homes destroyed by the fire.

Friendly Election Campaign Waged in State by 20 Hopefuls

By GEORGE WEEKS

The 28 state candidates seldom say an unkind word about each other as they campaign for an election that will take place four weeks from yesterday.

There may be an exception or two before it is over. Crew-cut Hugh H. Holloway, 42-year-old superintendent of schools in Sault Ste. Marie, has indicated he will have some harsh words for incumbent Lynn M. Bartlett in the race for superintendent of public instruction.

Early in February, when it appeared there might be tax plans on the ballot, party workers were predicting a lively spring campaign.

Republicans still hope to turn out a vote in protest of Democratic tax and spending policies but are finding it difficult to spare the GOP-controlled legislature from at least a share of the blame for the state's fiscal mess.

The expected scrap over the Supreme Court vacancies failed to develop.

Some Republicans earlier said an issue would be made of the ruling of the Democratic-controlled (5-3) Supreme Court that will give jobless pay to Michigan workers idled by a strike in Ohio unless the state court is overruled by the U.S. Supreme Court.

However, GOP court candidates William H. Baldwin, Bloomfield Hills, and Maurice F. Cole, Ferndale, have declined to attack Democrats on specific cases. Republicans appear content to warn of a "liberal trend" in the court.

Democratic incumbents John D. Voelker and George Edwards have set a non-political tone in all appearances so far.

All in all, the court race is what it is supposed to be by law—nonpartisan.

The high court race two years ago was anything but nonpartisan.

Republicans also have the disadvantage of running unknowns against incumbents in the top races.

Cole has an added strike. Kenneth W. Cole, Saginaw Prohibition Party candidate, also is in the Supreme Court race.

Secretary of State James M. Hare said last week it will be up to county election officials to differentiate between the two Coles on the ballot.

Two Grand Rapids housewives have helped stir interest in West Michigan.

Mrs. Ann Timmons Burgess was nominated by Republicans to run for the University of Michigan Board of Regents.

Democrats nominated Mrs. F. William McKee for the Wayne State University Board of Governors.

Both parties nominated Negroes in the Wayne State Race. Dr. De Witt T. Burton, Detroit, was picked by Democrats and Albert B. Chennault, Detroit, by Republicans.

LAKELAND, Fla.—Tiger heroes of the "great era" gathered in Lakeland over the weekend, and the stories of the "good ole days" flew high and wide.

The gathering was in conjunction with Lakeland's 25th anniversary celebration of the 1934 Tiger team which was the first to train in this Florida city.

Some of the greatest names in Detroit baseball history thrilled Tiger fans from the mid-thirties to the late-forties in Navin Field and later Briggs Stadium, and many of them were here to reminisce.

Goose Goslin and Gerald Walker, both of the 1934-35 championship teams engaged in a story telling session against each other that had the audience literally in stitches.

"You were the worst base runner we ever had," said Goslin to Walker, "I remember when you tried to steal third base all the way from first by passing up one of our players sitting on second."

"It's no wonder you were traded to the Chicago White Sox," Goslin laughed, "you had Manager Mickey Cochrane going nuts by overrunning the bases."

"That's okay," replied Walker, "we made a bet once about stealing home and you never did pay up."

"What was the bet?" someone asked. "A bushel of lobsters," Walker replied, "and you can send them to me in Mississippi where I now live," he motioned to Goslin.

Goslin, who singled in the bottom of the 9th against the Cubs to win the World Series in the 6th game in 1935, recalled that it was an error and a dinky little grounder in the 4th game which proved to be big factors for the Tigers.

Reserve infielder Herman (Flea) Clifton hit an easy fly to left with two out in the top of the 9th and Augie Galan muffed the ball. With Clifton on second, pitcher Al Crowder tapped a slow bounder between third and short and when Stan Hack and Bill Jurges collided the ball dribbled into left field.

"Clifton scored the winning run and we had to call Crowder slugger from then on," Goslin noted.

Speaking of Hack, the great third baseman of the Cubs, Tommy Bridges recalled that in that eventful 6th game, won by Goslin's single, Hack opened the top of the 9th with a triple at Briggs Stadium.

There was no one out and Bridges then proceeded to strike out shortstop Bill Jurges, pitcher Larry French and Galan. "Hack angrily shook his head and was muttering when he was left on third," said Bridges.

"Funny thing then happened six years later," recalled Bridges. "Hack returned to Briggs Stadium for the 1941 All-Star game and to the amazement of everyone he ran out to third base and lifted the sack."

"I wanted to see if I was still out there, that was the last place I remember in this park," Hack said amusingly.

Marv Owen, Tiger third baseman in the 1934 Series against the St. Louis Cardinals remembered the sliding rhubarb with Ducky Medwick. Owen and Medwick had been having words with each other and late in the final game Ducky slid with spikes flying into third base.

After the inning was over Medwick went out into left field and Tiger fans showered him with debris for what they thought was a deliberate attempt against Owen.

After the game Commissioner Kenesaw Landis asked Owen about the incident and said he thought Medwick should have been taken out of left field for his own protection.

"Of course I was concerned with Medwick's safety," said Owen, "but I told the commissioner I didn't think it was such a heavy shower."

Disqualification Rumors Trigger Delany's Temper

MILWAUKEE (AP)— Ron Delany's volcano-like temper almost exploded last night when he learned there was official talk of disqualifying him after his 32nd consecutive indoor victory in the mile.

The Irish distance runner, undisputed king of the boards, registered a 4:05.4 triumph in the Journal games only 48 hours after pounding to a throbbing, world record 4:01.4 in New York.

To keep his indoor string from unraveling, Delany had to go all out to beat back another threat by Istvan Rozsavolgyi. Delany caught the Hungarian on the final turn, cut wide and crossed the line with about four yards to spare. It is Rozy who brings out the best in Delany — as he did in New York Saturday night.

Informed afterwards that at least one inspector thought he should have been disqualified for grabbing Rozy's arm on that last curve, Delany shot back:

"Oh, don't give me that. I've never been disqualified in my life. What was I going to do? Say 'excuse me' and walk by?"

Rozy himself said he didn't want to press the matter. Asked through an interpreter if Delany had fouled him, Rozy answered: "He grabbed my arm, but it wasn't intentional."

If it weren't for the Delany-Rozsafolgyi rivalry—and Delany's come-from-behind victory — little Max Truex would be No. 1 boy with the record arena crowd of 11,113.

The Los Angeles gamecock turned in the second fastest two-mile clocking on record, ramming home a half-lap ahead of world record holder Al Lawrence of Houston in 8:47.2. Only Lawrence's 8:46.8 effort in New York Saturday night was faster. Like Delany's mile record, it has not been sanctioned as yet.

Vada Pinson 'Riot' of Cincinnati Training Camp

Redleg Rookie Stars Again

By United Press International

Vada Pinson, who just missed making the grade last season, is once again the rookie riot of the Cincinnati Reds' training camp.

The 21-year-old Negro outfielder, a sensation last spring but later farmed out to Seattle in the Pacific Coast League, drove in five runs yesterday to lead the Reds to a 7-2 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers. Pinson blasted a 420-foot homer and also delivered a two-run triple to pace Cincinnati's 11-hit attack.

It was the second win in three games for the Reds who are so rich in outfield talent that Frank Robinson may be their regular first-baseman this year. Brooks Lawrence, first of four Cincinnati pitchers, was the winner while Dodger starter Danny McDevitt suffered the loss.

Pinson, a native of Memphis, Tenn., batted .271 in 27 games for the Reds last season. He compiled a gaudy .343 figure and hit 11 homers at Seattle.

Lee Maye, a rookie outfielder up from Austin Tex., also had a field day as the Milwaukee Braves whipped the world champion New York Yankees, 9-6. Maye knocked in five runs with a single and a homer to help the National League champions to their first Grapefruit League win and hand the Yankees their first loss. Rookie pitchers Bill Hamilton, Don Nottebart and Bob Hartman held the Yankees to 10 hits, including a homer by Marv Throneberry.

Bob Cerv and rookie Charley Secrest paced Kansas City to a 4-1 win over the Baltimore Orioles although the Athletics collected only four hits off Jack Harshman and Hoyt Wilhelm. Cerv singled home two runs off Harshman and Secrest, who hit .281 at Little Rock, Ark., last season, bopped a homer off Wilhelm.

Harry Anderson smashed a three-run homer in the Philadelphia Phillies' 6-1 decision over the Washington Senators. Curt Simmons started for the Phillies and didn't allow a hit during his three-inning stint. Dick Farrell, the ace relief pitcher who finished the game, yielded the Washington run on two singles and a sacrifice fly.

The Chicago White Sox defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-5, in a game marred by 10 errors, including four by first-basemen Dick Stuart of the Bucs. John Romano an Johnny Callison hit two-run homers for Chicago and Stuart, unabashed by his poor fielding, hit two doubles and a single for Pittsburgh.

Minnie Minoso, who wastes no time once he gets around to signing his contract, hit a homer and two singles in his first exhibition appearance — a Cleveland Indian camp game. Herb Score, who was battered for eight runs by the Giants last Saturday, pitched the first three innings and was tagged for two runs — one on a homer by Larry Doby.

Other camp news: The Cubs traded outfielder Chuck Tanner to the Boston Red Sox for Bob (Riverboat) Smith, a lefty pitcher. Tanner will go to the Red Sox' Minneapolis farm club. He had a .262 average for the Cubs last season. Smith, 29, was 4-3 with the Red Sox last season . . . pitchers Dick Drott and Glen Hobbie, just out of the army rejoined the Cubs . . . Baltimore pared its squad to 50 Monday by assigning pitcher Charlie Beamon and outfielder Barry Shetrone to Vancouver in triple A. Beamon saw service with the Orioles last summer . . . Ted Williams will make his debut Friday against Cleveland at San Diego.

Lefty Pitches Three Shutout Frames Monday

Kuenn Continues Heavy Hitting as Tigers Top St. Louis, 4-0

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — The Detroit Tigers combined good pitching and clutch hitting yesterday to shutout the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-0, on a hot sunny afternoon at Al Lang Field, located on St. Petersburg's bay front.

Starter Billy Hoeft walked the first man but after that he set nine men up and down in order by showing good control with a fast ball.

Tom Morgan, who followed Hoeft, gave up two hits as did rookie Jim Baugh who pitched the last three frames.

Extra base hits played an important part in the victory and it is interesting to note that in the three Grapefruit circuit games played thus far, 11 of the 27 Tigers hits have gone for extra bases.

Three doubles and a single produced three runs in the third inning for the Tigers.

Harvey Kuenn, with his third double in as many games, started the third inning with a drive against the left center field wall. Al Kaline followed with a double and after Gail Harris grounded out, Steve Demeter hit the 397-marker in center field for a double. He then scored on Neil Chrisley's single.

In the 6th inning, Tito Francona doubled and crossed the plate on a single by Harris. Harris had two hits for the day. He got another single in the 8th inning.

Larry Jackson, who had a 13-13 record with the Cardinals last season, pitched beautiful ball for the first three innings in setting down 9 Tigers in order. But the Bengals got to him in the 4th inning and he was replaced for a pinch hitter in the bottom half of the frame.

Morgan, whom the Tigers are hoping will be another possible starter or at least an adequate reliefer, was really throwing the ball hard. He had all the batters fouling the ball and he struck out two.

Kuenn, who has been hitting the ball solidly, leads the Tiger batters after three games with five hits in 11 trips, and four of the five have been extra base knocks including one homer.

Today the Tigers return to Lakeland to meet the Los Angeles Dodgers and manager Bill Norman has called on Pete Burnside, Don Lee and Bob Bruce to share the mound duties.

Hoeft's performance was pleasing to Norman. "If Billy does that kind of a job for us this season, we'll be trouble for anyone," he said.

The Cardinals have now lost three straight to American League teams, having been beaten by the Yankees twice over the weekend.

Clarkston Gains Regional Tourney

Wolves Defeat Oxford, 50-34, in Playoff

Meet Port Huron Five Tomorrow; Bloomfield, Romeo Clash Tonight

By CHUCK ABAIR

Clarkston became the 4th member of the rugged Wayne-Oakland League to gain a berth in the state regionals by belting Oxford 50-34 in a playoff game for the district championship at Pontiac Central last night.

Avondale's forfeit of the crown due to the use of an ineligible player had brought about a playoff for the first time in state history. Both playoff contestants had bowed to the Yellowjackets in tourney games last week.

Despite the one sided final score, Clarkston had to come from behind after failing to make a field goal in 10 tries in the opening quarter which ended with Oxford in front 8-6. It took the losers four minutes and 39 seconds to hit from the floor in an all-around "cold" first stanza.

But big boys Bill Powell and Dick Caverly got the Wolves going in the second quarter and there was little question about the outcome the rest of the way.

The victors, showing some of their best ball in recent weeks, led by nine or more most of the last half. They were moving the ball well and handling the boards. Powell got 13 of his 18 in those last two periods.

Except for old reliable Doug Stott, Oxford again failed to live up to its showing in upsetting Lake Orion. The rugged junior deadeye bettered 20 for the 3rd straight time here despite his mates inability to get the ball to him enough. He finished with 23, 10 in the last eight minutes.

The triumph moved Clarkston into the Wednesday regional berth at PCH against Port Huron St. Stephen. The tournament gets underway tonight at 7:30 when favored Romeo puts its 11-game winning streak on the line against surprising Bloomfield Hills.

A Bloomfield upset and Clarkston win would bring aobut an all-Wayne-Oakland final. Holly and Brighton are in regionals elsewhere.

The Barons won only two of their last 14 regular season games but then took three district games in four nights in a sudden about face. Port Huron St. Stephen was 8-8 for the season.

NO ROOM — That was the problem last night for Oxford whiz Doug Stott as the Wildcats bowed to Clarkston 50-34 in the district title playoff at PCH forced by Avondale's forfeit. Stott is used to being crowded after having a great season and still managed to swish 23 points giving him 69 in three games here. The CHS defenders visible are Bob Porritt, left, and Larry Landon.

Prep Regional Play Opens Tonight

Regional tourneys begin tonight in the Oakland County area as well as the rest of the state as the annual Michigan schoolboy marathon swings into its 2nd week.

The whole show reaches a climax next weekend at Michigan State's Jenison Fieldhouse in East Lansing, site of the state championship finals in classes A, B, C and D.

Two Class A games and three in the "C" division start the ball rolling this evening in the Oakland County vicinity.

St. Frederick, winner of its first district crown in "many a moon" last Saturday night at Pontiac Central, falls in the middle of a three-game Class C program at Birmingham High.

The Rams lock horns with Detroit St. Thomas at 7:30. New Haven, Southern Thumb cochamp, faces Detroit St. Gabriel in the 6 o'clock opener and south Central king Imlay City meets Grosse Pte. St. Paulat 9 to complete the card.

Detroit St. Bernard drew a bye and will tangle with the New Haven-St. Gabriel winner Thursday at 8:30 p.m.

Pontiac Central's cagers have their eyes peeled toward Southfield tonight where Livonia Bentley and Detroit Catholic Central clash in the 1st round of the Class A regional at 7 o'clock.

The Chiefs square off against Rochester tomorrow evening at the same time and place with the survivor playing the Bentley—Catholic Central victor Friday at 7 p.m. for the regional crown.

East Detroit's Class A regional also gets under way this evening with the host school colliding with Lakeview at 7:30 in the only game scheduled.

Class B regional activity opens at Pontiac Central with strong Romeo facing upstart Bloomfield Hills at 7:30. The winner will play Wednesday's Port Huron St. Stephens-Clarkston survivor on Friday for the "B" title.

CLASS A
At Southfield
Detroit Catholic Central vs. Livonia Bentley, 7 p.m.
At East Detroit
Lakeview vs. East Detroit, 7:30 p.m.

CLASS B
At Pontiac Central
Romeo vs. Bloomfield Hills, 7:30 p.m.

CLASS C
At Birmingham
New Haven vs. Detroit St. Gabriel, 6 p.m.; Detroit St. Thomas vs. St. Frederick, 7:30 p.m.; Imlay City vs. Grosse Pte. St. Paul, 9 p.m.

Leonard Says He Will Quit Unless Traded

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Bob Leonard of the Minneapolis Lakers said Monday he'll quit pro basketball unless the club trades him at the next National Basketball Assn. meeting.

"I won't play with the Lakers again," said the four-year veteran. "I'll sign to coach in the Indiana high school system if they don't deal me."

The former Indiana University star has been riding the bench since he missed 15 games in mid-season with a leg injury. He was replaced as a starter by Hot Rod Hundley.

Duke Coach Honored

Collins Winner at New Orleans

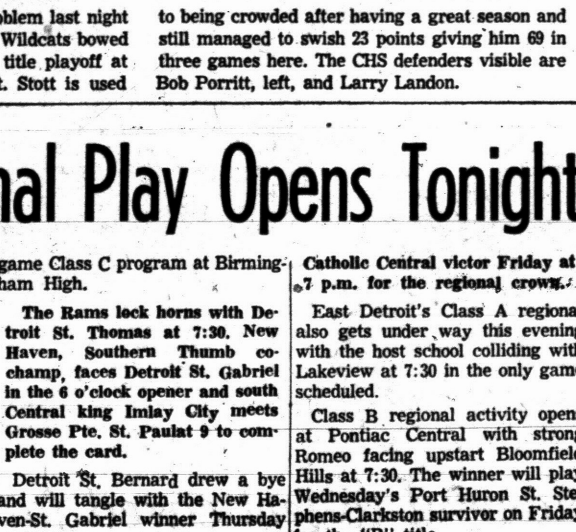

Delicate Putting Touch Brings Him First Major Golf Victory

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A newly-found putting touch and a bagful of confidence were all the tools bashing Bill Collins needed to win the $20,000 New Orleans Open Golf championship and establish himself as a possible force to be considered on the tournament trail.

The easy-going affable Collins — he's rarely without a smile even most pros would be moaning — came in with a two-under-par 70 in yesterday's final round. His distance shooting and delicate touch on the greens gave him a four round total of 280, three strokes better than Jackie Burke Jr. and Tom Nieporte, who tied for second.

The tournament was the first major victory for Collins, a 30-year-old, 230-pound former Marine who learned the game as a caddy in his native Baltimore, Md.

HE CAN STILL DO IT — Marvin Owen, 3rd baseman for the Detroit Tigers from 1931 through 1937, proves to Harvey Kuenn (left) and Charley Maxwell that he can still hold seven baseballs with one hand. Owen was among baseball oldtimers who were honored over the weekend at the Detroit spring training camp in Lakeland, Fla.

Booth Whips Grill, 76-70

'B' Playoff Goes to Limit

Booth Homes, regular season winner of the Class B City League basketball race in a runaway, bounced back from the loser's bracket at Jefferson Junior High last night to force the "B" playoff into a 2nd contest.

One down in the double elimination tourney, the Booth cagers conquered previously unbeaten Griff's Grill 76-70 to make another game necessary to decide the Class B city title.

Booth and Griff's will clash Thursday night at Pontiac Northern at 7 o'clock as part of a doubleheader. Class A finalists Sports Shop and Knights of Columbus will square off at 8:30 in their title scrap.

Both the Knights-Sports Shop and Booth-Griff's games were set for the PCH gym last night, but the unexpected high school district tournament playoff between Oxford and Clarkston took over the Central court and changed the plans.

The Parks and Recreation Department decided to move the Booth-Grigg's game to Jefferson yesterday while the Class A contest was postponed until Thursday.

Booth's quintet grabbed a 38-33 halftime lead yesterday and stayed ahead to the finish. Ken Butler paced Booth's balanced attack with 18 points, but individual scoring honors went to Griff's George Lang who netted 22.

Class C playoff action resumes tonight at Madison Junior High. Oliver Buick and Towne & Country, each undefeated, collide at 8:30 with the Vikings and Winglemire's of Holly tangling in the loser's bracket at 7 o'clock.

Pro Tennis, Trotters, Celtics

Triple Feature at Boston

BOSTON (AP)—Pro tennis, featuring Pancho Gonzales and Lew Hoad, and pro basketball, with the Boston Celtics and the Harlem Globetrotters displaying their talents, share the billing tonight at the Boston Garden.

Gonzales and Hoad will wind up their two-day Boston stand of the world championship tennis tour in the opener of the triple attraction expected to lure a sellout crowd of 13,909.

The Celtics then will take on the New York Knickerbockers in their final National Basketball Assn. game of the regular campaign.

The Globetrotters, internationally-known for their court humor, will wind up festivities with an exhibition game against the Philadelphia Sphas.

Hoad, the former Australian Davis Cup star, defeated Gonzales, the reigning pro king, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4 last night before a paid crowd of 1,936 hardy fans who braved a snowstorm.

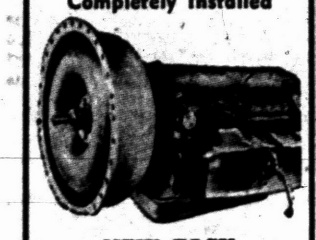

Donie Bush Lauds Chisox' Aparicio

Bush the 70-year-old owner of the Indianapolis club who was a teammate of Ty Cobb with Detroit in 1908, said:

"There aren't any of them that were as good defensively as this kid. And I'm not excepting anybody from Honus Wagner on up to the present day—Marty Marion, Bill Jurges, Pee Wee Reese, Roy McMillan or anybody else."

Bush admits that ball players now have the advantage of far better gloves, but insists Luis would be the greatest even if he wore a motorman's mitt.

Hoover Rallies in Keg Tourney

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Dick Hoover, the former boy wonder of bowling, rolled some professional caliber scores yesterday and recovered from an embarrassing opening night performance in the American Bowling Congress tournament.

The Akron, O., ace had a feeble 532 for the Akron Shur-Hooks in team play Sunday night. He came back yesterday with 610 in the doubles and 662 in the singles to bring his all-events total to a respectable 1,804.

Hoover is reported to be angling for a berth on the mighty Falstaff team. Although the brewery has denied it, the Falstaff team which won the ABC team title last year is believed to be in for some major overhauling. Since the team was reorganized in 1956, Falstaff has been making overtures to Hoover, twice the ABC Masters champion.

City Women 2nd in State Tourney

Vi Cargal led the local entries in singles play with 669 for 6th place. She had a 615 actual.

Della Bardon and Rose Stratton teamed for the best Pontiac double score with 1156 while Shirley Pointer was tops in all events actual with 1832.

NCAA Playoffs Begin Tonight

Final Brackets Filled for Big Title Showdown

Cincinnati, New Mexico State Last to Join; Spartans Play Friday

By The Associated Press

The NCAA, with all 23 brackets filled, gets down to the business of picking its 1959 major college basketball champion tonight with a tripleheader in New York and two games at Lexington, Ky.

The field was completed last night when Cincinnati qualified as the Missouri Valley Conference representative and New Mexico State won the Border Conference playoff.

Cincinnati turned back St. Louis 66-59 for a 13-1 conference record although All-America Oscar Robertson sat out the last seven minutes with five fouls after scoring 22 points. Big "O" ended the regular season as the nation's No. 1 major college scorer with a 33.2 average.

With the NCAA landing basketball's coveted Oscar, the National Invitation Tournament field of 12 was completed by the addition of Bradley, runner-up in the Missouri Valley.

Formal addition of Bradley to the NIT field had to wait until it was determined whether the Braves would meet Cincinnati in a playoff for the conference record.

After tonight's tripleheader at New York's Madison Square Garden and the doubleheader at Lexington, it will take a single game tomorrow night at Las Cruces, N. M., to reduce the field to 16 for starting Friday at Charlotte, N. C., and San Francisco.

At New York—West Virginia (25-4) vs Dartmouth (22-5), Connecticut (17-6) vs Boston Univ. (18-6), North Carolina (20-4) vs Navy (16-5).

At Lexington—Eastern Kentucky (16-5) vs Louisville (16-10), Bowling Green (18-7) vs Marquette (22-4). Tomorrow night Idaho State (19-6) tackles New Mexico State (17-10).

Then everything will be set for the four regionals, in which the teams will square off as follows in opening games Friday night:

At Evanston—Kentucky (18-3) vs either Eastern Kentucky or Louisville and Michigan State (18-3) meets either Bowling Green or Marquette.

At Lawrence—Texas Christian (19-5) vs Cincinnati (23-3) and De Paul (13-9) vs Kansas State (24-1).

At San Francisco—St. Marys of Calif. (18-5) vs either New Mexico State or Idaho State and California (21-4) vs Utah (21-5).

The four regional winners, who will be determined Saturday, will travel to Louisville for the semi-final and final rounds March 20-21.

'Y' Champs Lose, 67-51

The Falcons, champions of the YMCA Basketball League, lost a 67-51 decision to the King David Church team from Detroit last night in an exhibition game at the Pontiac "Y" gymnasium. Earl Kitchen and Gordon Montross led the Falcons with 15 and 12 points, respectively, while Joe Davis notched 13 to lead the winner's balanced offense.

LAKE WORTH, Fla.—Tony Padron, 128, Caracas, Venezuela, outpointed Ray Esteps, 129, Miami, 10.

'M' Picks Burton for Big Ten Honor

Start MVP Voting

CHICAGO (AP)—The race to name the Big Ten's most valuable basketball player started as five schools made their selections yesterday.

M. C. Burton was Michigan's choice. Ohio State selected Larry Siegfried. Wisconsin named Bob Barneson, Indiana selected Walt Bellamy, and Illinois picked Roger Taylor.

Burton and Taylor are the only seniors in this group. Siegfried and Bellamy are sophomores. All five were the scoring leaders for their schools this season.

Joe Ruklick of Northwestern won the league all-games basketball scoring title with a grand total of 505 points in 22 games and will likely be that school's choice.

Ruklick, is beating out Iowa's Dave Gunther, finished with a 22.9 game average. Gunther, the leader through most of the campaign, fell off in the final games and finished with 482 points in 22 games for a 21.9 average.

Burton was third with a 20.9 average on 460 points in 22 games. Burton, the conference games scoring champion, nosed out Purdue's Willie Merriweather who had 458 points in 22 games for a 20.8 average.

The leaders:

	G	TP	AVG.
Ruklick, Northwestern	22	505	22.8
Gunther, Iowa	22	482	21.9
Burton, Michigan	22	460	20.9
Merriweather, Purdue	22	458	20.8

POCKETS PRIZE MONEY — Bill Collins, of Baltimore, Md., is all smiles as he folds up first prize of $2,800 after winning the New Orleans Open golf tournament Monday. Collins fired a two-under-par 70 for a tourney total of 280, three strokes ahead of his nearest rivals. It was the first major victory for Collins, who was ready to quit the tour because of poor play.

But Stenquiss Beats Pro in Game

Hennessey Downs 4 Foes

No local bowlers were able to defeat star Tom Hennessey but H. Stenquiss won out in one game in the 2nd of a series of "Beat the Pro" contest held last night before a large crowd at Lakewood Lanes.

Stenquiss rolled a 199 game to 192 for the St. Louis Budweiser ace but lost out in the two-game series 403 to 390. He was 2nd to win a game from a pro in the monthly event.

The 3rd and final program for this season is planned for April when area women are expected to get a chance to compete against Marion Ladewig.

Stenquiss and G. Bartel were the entries who opposed Hennessey represented Lakewood league bowlers with top series in recent weeks. Frank Spadafore and Bob Taylor were "open" contestants. The 390 by Stenquiss was the highest total against the pro.

Hennessey, who gave free instructions during the afternoon, totaled nine strikes in two different games and had eight in a row in another. He finished with 423 average for four 2-game series.

A long list of prizes will be divided among the top performers against the pros following the women's part of the series.

Bartel	167	151—318
Hennessey	255	264—519
Stenquiss	191	199—390
Hennessey	211	192—402

Santa Anita Finishes With Capistrano Run

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Santa Anita concludes another successful season tomorrow with its traditional windup race, the $100,000 add San Juan Capistrano Handicap.

Thirteen or more horses are expected to run. Included are Tudor Era, Anisado, Hakuchikara, Anxious Moment, Royal Living, Andrew Alan, Tall Chief II, Infantry, King's Canasta, Mac Bern, Solid Fleet, Spinney and Aorangi.

One of the top thrills of the entire meeting came yesterday in the $50,000-added San Bernardino Handicap as Terrang edged How Now and Bug Brush with all three horses only a neck apart.

Wyoming Cage Coach Resigns After Bad Year

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — Everett (Ev) Shelton has resigned as basketball coach at the University of Wyoming, only 48 hours after his Cowboys completed their worst season in history.

The 60-year-old Shelton said he was taking another head coaching job at a college whose athletic program is "less demanding." He did not disclose the college.

Bill Strannigan, a former Wyoming hoop star and now coach at Iowa State College, has been mentioned as the possible No. 1 choice of university athletic officials.

Archie Stops Wrestler on TKO in 3rd Round

ODESSA, Tex. (AP) — Archie Moore, the world's light heavyweight champion, made a punching bag out of Sterling (Dizzy) Davis, the wrestler turned boxer, Monday night and stopped him on a technical knockout after one minute of the third round.

Moore took the offensive at the start, never gave the bulky wrestler a chance to get in a solid blow and knocked him down three times in the second round. In the third Referee Paava Ketonen of Phoenix stopped the fight when Moore opened deep cuts over each of Davis' eyes.

Patterson vs. Johansson

May Name New York Title Fight Site Today

NEW YORK (UPI) — Promoter Bill Rosensohn was expected to announce at a press conference today that the Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson heavyweight title fight will be staged at New York's Yankee Stadium, possibly June 23.

Whatever the announcement, it will end nearly six weeks of bidding by 11 cities for the attractive international match.

A prominent member of the mayor's special fight committee claimed that New York had triumphed over Chicago and the other cities.

The committeeman said, "I am very happy. It was a neck-and-neck race with Chicago right down to the wire last night. In addition to a $500,000 guarantee from a Chicago contractor, the Chicago committee notified Rosensohn yesterday that a notable reduction in the rental of Soldiers' Field would be made if he would stage the fight there."

Other cities that had received serious consideration were Los Angeles, Baltimore, Minneapolis, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Indianapolis, Colorado Springs (Colo.), Las Vegas (Nev.) and Honolulu.

According to the committeeman, New York offered no financial guarantee; but its civic and business leaders had assured Rosensohn a city-wide cooperation never before accorded any sports event in the metropolis. The forms of cooperation were expected to be outlined at the press conference.

Hicke Eyes 2 Hockey Marks

Rochester Rookie Near Points and Goals Feat in AHL

NEW YORK (AP)—Billy Hicke, Rochester's big gun who can become the first rookie in American Hockey League history to win the loop scoring title, likely will set two first-year records before the season closes.

Hicke, who has amassed 92 points on 39 goals and 53 assists, has a 12-point edge over runner-up Ken Schinkel of Springfield in the race for scoring honors.

Named yesterday to the All-Star squad, Hicke can establish new marks in these departments:

Points: He needs three more to surpass the 94 by Buffalo's Don Marshall in 1953-54.

Goals: He's three shy of the 42 Wally Hergesheimer tallied for Cleveland in 1950-51.

Three of Hicke's teammates also earned All-Star berths. Rudy Migay and Gary Aldcorn, tied for third in the scoring duel with 76 points, were selected along with defenseman Steve Kraftcheck.

Hershey's Bobby Perreault is the league's leading goalie, league statistics released today show. The Americans' netminder has allowed a low of 2.64 goals a game.

Lakeside in Class D Final After Triumph

The Lakeside Royals moved into the championship round of the Class D City League basketball playoffs last night at Lincoln Junior High by ousting the Boys Club 56-33.

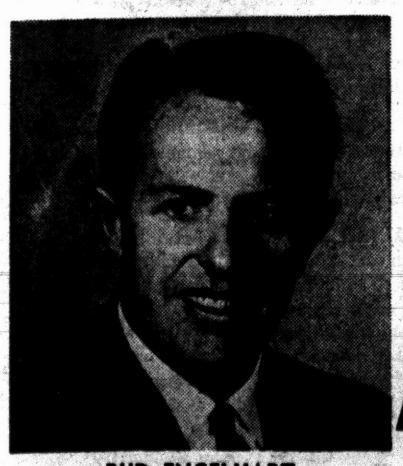

Lakeside and Welden's meet for the "D" title tonight at 7 o'clock on the Lincoln court and a 2nd game, if necessary, will be played tomorrow evening. A 25-point scoring spree by Larry Douglas paced the Royals' easy victory yesterday while George Mayes tallied 13 for Boys Club.

Hollywood Headlines:

Gordon, Sheila MacRae — Working Together 'Great'

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD—Not since vaudeville's salad days have husband and wife teams been so popular as they are today.

Night clubs and television have kindled a new boom for married couples who never had an opportunity to crack the movies.

Fifteen years ago only a few oldtimers of the George Burns-Gracie Allen stripe were making a go of it. But today Mr. and Mrs. acts are the rage—both in video and on the club circuit.

To name a few, Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz, Ozzie and Harriet Nelson, Ernie Kovacs and Edie Adams, Peter Lind Hayes and Mary Healy, Louis Prima and Keely Smith, Shirley Jones and Jack Cassidy, Bob Sterling and Ann Jeffreys.

For the past two years singer Gordon MacRae and his wife, Sheila, have bucketed around the country charming audiences with a smattering of songs, dances, witty sayings and informal palaver.

"A family that works together stays together," MacRae opined while his blonde wife looked on.

"When Gordon and I travel around we take the four children with us," Sheila added. "It's an education for the kids, and it's entirely delightful for us. Even when Gordon worked alone we all traveled with him."

Both MacRaes agree that performing together has its drawbacks.

"We have our share of spats and fights," Gordon grinned, "but it's worth it. We've been married 17 years and the last two—since we teamed up—have been among the happiest."

"Of course Gordon yells at me, and I yell back at him," Sheila said. "We probably wouldn't do that if we were working with someone else."

"When we were first married I thought I should be a good little Hollywood wife and sit at home," she laughed. "Then the children came along and I didn't want them to grow up strangers to their mother. Now I'm having a ball."

"I don't agree," Gordon said. "I think night clubs turned the trick. People won't go into a club anymore just to watch a performer stand there and sing a song. They expect to be entertained."

The MacRaes—including Meredith Lynn, 14; Heather, 12; Gus, 11, and Bruce, 4—have been offered several TV situation comedy series, a la the Nelson clan. But they've refused.

"The youngsters aren't anxious to enter show business," Sheila explained. "A series would be too confining for them."

Gordon nodded agreement. "We're doing very well as is, and we're very happy working together. The way I look at it, if two people are talented there isn't any reason why they shouldn't work together."

Hedy Seeking $100,000 for Injuries to Her Son

The suit, filed Monday, named Frank J. Burnell, 55, Los Angeles as defendant. It alleged Burnell was driving negligently.

Federal Judge Blames Texas City Disaster on Carelessness

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A federal judge ruled Monday that a carelessly discarded cigarette or match likely caused the freighter fire which triggered the death-dealing 1947 Texas City disaster.

The decision by U.S. Dist. Judge Ben. C. Connally followed nearly 12 years of legal maneuvering.

It favored the United States government in its efforts to collect some 70 million dollars from the French government and the French Lines.

Judge Connally said neither the French government or the ship firm is entitled to exoneration from or limitation of liability in the fire and resulting explosion aboard the S. S. Grandcamp.

The French blamed spontaneous combustion for the fire on the French Line vessel loaded with fertilizer grade ammonium nitrate.

The judge said the most plausible explanation for the fire was a carelessly discarded cigarette or match. He found the French negligent and the ship unseaworthy.

More than 500 were killed and more than 3,000 injured when the fires spread through the small city on Galveston Bay.

Golf, Basketball and Now — Tennis at White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Come spring, confused tourists hunting for the White House lawn may think they've found an athletic club instead.

Peering through the gates, a visitor, if he's lucky, might spot President Eisenhower putting golf balls on his green, his grandson, David Eisenhower, 10, swishing basketballs through a hoop, and White House aides smashing tennis balls over a net.

The putting green and basketball hoop are there now. White House press secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen Monday the President had authorized restoration of an old tennis court.

The court, built in 1902 when tennis player Theodore Roosevelt was president, last was used in the administration of President Harry Truman, whose daughter, Margaret, played tennis occasionally.

Hagerty said the repairs were requested by some tennis enthusiasts on the White House staff. He said they would share the small cost of restoration.

Vanguard II Data Hard to Interpret

WASHINGTTN (AP) — Space scientists may take weeks or months to solve the meaning of signals from orbiting Vanguard II.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration Monday reported the satellite has wobbled so much in its trips around the earth that its electronic messages are difficult to interpret.

On Feb. 17, the 20-inch satellite was launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla. Its main purpose: to send back coded signals that would help form a picture of clouds around the earth.

Its batteries died Saturday night. The stellite, expected to orbit at least 10 years, no longer sends signals.

NASA said scientists received a quarter of million feet of taped signals but the wobbling action of the satellite will make the task take longer than had been expected.

Doris Dowling Ends Marriage to Blumofe

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Actress Doris Dowling's marriage to movie executive Robert Blumofe, 49, has ended in divorce.

Miss Dowling, 34, who was once married to bandleader Artie Shaw, charged cruelty. She and Blumofe, vice president of United Artists Corp., were married April 27, 1956.

Miss Dowling will receive $25,000 and $600 a month alimony for two years. She said she will resume her acting career.

Banishing of Leader Inflames Nationalism

Nyasaland Lurches for Freedom

BLANTYRE (AP) — Another piece of the British Empire, the green, lush protectorate of Nyasaland, has made a violent and bloody lurch toward eventual freedom.

The wave of nationalistic fervor which has swept down the African continent from the north now has engulfed this banana-shaped colonial outpost, about the size of Louisiana. The only oustanding African political leader has been arrested and deported, and his followers have poured out of the woods, some with spears, to harass the British administration.

Riots and bloodshed followed the declaration of emergency which permitted the arrests of Dr. Hastings Banda and 150 other leaders of the African National Congress. Nearly two-score Africans were killed in the early days of the emergency.

Backed up by troops and aircraft from neighboring Southern Rhodesia, security forces so far have been able to avert major clashes. But the end is not in sight.

Less than a century ago, Nyasaland was known only to David Livingstone and slave traders, who found rich pickings along the shores of Lake Nyasa. Not until 1883 did a British consul finally arrive to set up an office in Zomba, now the seat of the colonial government. He was accredited to "kings and chiefs of Central Africa."

Since 1953 Nyasaland has been one of three territories in the Central African Federation, ruled with a firm hand by Prime Minister Sir Roy Welensky, former locomotive engineer and heavyweight boxer. Nyasaland brought three million Africans, 7,000 whites and very few natural resources into the federation. Northern and Southern Rhodesia are the other members of the federation, which lies in the same latitude below the equator as southern Brazil.

From the beginning Africans regarded the federation with suspicion. Their leaders refused to take part in London discussions which brought it about.

No thinking African has disputed the economic benefits which flowed from this federation. Roads, hospitals and public buildings were built. Last year Nyasaland received a cut of more than ($5,600,000) from federal income tax. In a country where there is practically no industry and wealth comes mainly from tea and tobacco, this is a contribution of sizable proportions.

They are admittedly backward. There is not an African engineer or an African accountant in the country. There is only one African lawyer.

The minimum wage for a worker in Blantyre and Limbe municipality, the largest in the protectorate (population 28,000) is 28 cents per day, including food. In other areas it is as low as 18 cents a day.

On the other side of the ledger is the fact that this is an agricultural economy where wages are necessarily low. There is no industry to employ masses of people at higher wages. There are few educated Africans who can hold down the few jobs available at better salaries.

Into this dificult situation came last July nattily dressed Dr. Banda, American and English educated.

He was greeted as a savior and did everything possible to further that estimate.

Banda had left Nyasaland at 13 with the help of missionaries. He went to high school at Wilberforce, Ohio, and then to the University of Chicago. He completed his medical education in London and lived there for 30 years. He is now 54.

* * *

The governor expressed the view that African objections to the federation are psychological.

"I don't think they have thought out what would happen if they came out of the federation."

Married Gals Drinking More

Statistics Say Single Women Not Nervous; Men Just the Opposite

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The way it looks from the figures, more married women than single drink themselves to death.

With men, it's the other way around. But before concluding that marriage is bad for a woman's nerves, note that the drinking-to-death rate goes up sharply for women who are widowed or divorced. Except for divorced women over 75.

More divorced men are anemic.

Apparently at any age from 20 to 80, a single man has twice as great a chance of being killed in an automobile accident as a married man.

Widowers have an even harder time staying alive in autos. And a divorced man of 75 has three times the chance of dying in a car as his married friends of the same age.

For a woman, however, there are times when it's safer for her to be single when in an automobile —under 20 and between 34 and 69.

From then on it's safer for her to be a widow, as far as cars are concerned.

By and large, married women apparently get — statistically — fewer benefits than their married husbands.

There are, apparently some disadvantages to being married. More married women are murdered. More die of diabetes and appendicitis.

However, compared with married women, almost two times as many widows die of heart disease, two to three times as many divorcees die in auto accidents, four times as many divorcees commit suicide.

Some women researchers have concluded it is better for men to get married and better for women to stay single. But if a woman does marry it is better for her not to become a widow.

Americans now eat about twice as much canned fruit as they did 20 years ago.

City Native Back as Store Head

Hanson Joins Furniture Company Here After 9-Year Absence

Thomas E. Hanson Jr. has returned to this city after a nine-year absence to be manager of Ward's Home Outfitting Co., 48 S. Saginaw St.

Hanson, who has 35 years experience in the furniture business, returned this week from northern Michigan where during the past nine years he owned his own store and managed another.

For the past three years he has managed a Traverse City furniture store. For six years previous to that he managed his own firm in Petoskey. His family presently lives there.

Hanson, born and raised in Pontiac, was manager of another prominent local firm for many year previous to moving north. He began his new position at Ward's last week.

His wife and their son plan to move to Pontiac in the near future.

Westwood Gets New Name of Beverly Hills

WESTWOOD VILLAGE—A majority of voters here in yesterday's election decided to change the village's name to Beverly Hills. The name-change was carried by 1,208 to 390 votes.

Another special issue in the election, a proposition giving municipal officials the power to negotiate with the City of Southfield to acquire the water system within the village, was approved by 1,388 votes to 186.

Successful contestants for the four seats on the village council were incumbents Chester F. Guillmet, Edward M. Shurtleff and Dr. Douglas J. Wood. They were elected to two-year terms.

The one-year term was secured by Leo J. Linsenmeyer.

Wheat Futures Under Pressure

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat futures came under fairly general selling pressure in early dealings today on the Board of Trade and prices slipped as much as a cent or more a bushel within the first few minutes.

The March delivery led the setback on reports that tension appeared to have eased a bit in the Berlin and Iraq situations and the fact that tenders for delivery of the March contract had been made on more than 1¼ million bushels.

There was a report that the United Arab Republic had asked offers on 100,000 tons of wheat of various varieties but no export sales were reported overnight. Japan, however, bought 13,000 tons of soybeans.

Wheat was ⅝ to 1¼ cents a bushel lower near the end of the first hour, March $2.06⅝; corn unchanged to ⅝ lower, March old type contract $1.16⅝; oats ⅛ lower to ⅜ higher, March 64; rye ⅜ to ⅞ lower, March $1.41⅜; soybeans unchanged to ½ lower, March $2.21¼.

Edsel Developer Leaving Ford

Krafve, 51, began with Ford as an assistant to the vice president in charge of purchasing. He was general manager of the Edsel Division when the car was introduced nearly two years ago.

The Edsel was merged with Lincoln and Mercury into Ford's M-E-L Division a few months ago.

Chrysler Reports Defense Backlog

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysle Corp.'s backlog of defense orders amounted to more than 300 million dollars at the beginning of 1959.

This was disclosed in the detailed annual report for 1958, mailed today to shareholders. The report supplemented the company's financial statement published last month. It noted that defense sales last year totaled 325 million dollars and accounted for 15 per cent of the total 1958 dollar sales.

The report showed total wages, salaries and employe benefits paid to Chrysler Corp. employes in the United States, Canada and overseas last year amounted to 705 million dollars.

Reiterated in the report was an earlier statement that as a result of extensive forward planning Chrysler is "in an excellent position to introduce a highly competitive economy car to the public as soon as we "conclude that the demand and volume are sufficient to warrant our bringing this car to market."

Mixed Results in Busy Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market turned mixed in active trading early today. A few specialty-situated stocks made fairly wide moves.

For the list of key stocks as a whole, gains and losses were kept within a 1-point range. Most changes were narrow and a number of issues were unchanged.

Boeing dropped about 2 points on a report of lower earnings and a forecast that 1959 earnings will decline further.

General Tire was a 2-point gainer as its rocket-making subsidiary, Aeroje-General, picked up around 4 on the American Stock Exchange. Aerojet has received an 85 million dollar contract in connection with the Minute Man missile.

Alaska Juneau came to life and was up slightly on a big trade. Thiokol rose more than a point. Litton Industries advanced more than 2, then clipped its gain fractionally.

Coppers, steels and motors were narrowly mixed despite bullish news in all these industries. Oils were narrowly irregular following their decline yesterday in reflection of the turmoil in Iraq.

Du Pont dropped about 2 of its 9-point rise of yesterday.

Tobaccos and mail-order retails were mostly higher. Rails were mixed.

2 Youths Plead Guilty to Pontiac Holdup

Two Pontiac teenagers, arrested March 1 by city police for allegedly burglarizing a city restaurant, yesterday pleaded guilty to breaking and entering when arraigned before Oakland County Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland.

Judge Holland set sentencing for March 30 for Larry W. McCray, 19, of 180 Norton Ave. and Russell Leo VanLuven, 18, of 83 Union St.

McCray was remanded to the county jail to await sentencing. VanLuven was released on a $300 bond.

First Amateur So Honored

Winston Churchill's Art Shown at Royal Academy

LONDON (AP) — Amateur painter Sir Winston Churchill today took over Britain's August Royal Academy of Art.

The one-man show by Britain's wartime Prime Minister is composed of 61 paintings valued for insurance purposes at $200,000. Included are the 35 pictures recently exhibited in the United States, Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

Churchill has given away some of his pictures but has never put any up for sale. The academy president, Sir Charles Wheeler, speculated that "if these pictures were auctioned in America tomorrow, they would bring a world record price."

Presumably he had in mind the curiosity value of an original Churchill, since critics have never compared the statesman's works to such artistic best sellers as Picasso, Cezanne and Van Gogh.

The exhibit covers 42 years of Churchill's life as an amateur artist. He and the royal academy selected them from more than 300 the 84-year-old statesman has painted.

Churchill is a member of the royal academy, its first "honorary academician extraordinary." Sir Charles said he liked the old man's pictures "for their boldness and directness."

"There are places where the general standard is much higher than the average, where the amateur steps over the border into professional territory," he said.

Bradley Case to Open in Ohio

However, Defense Plans Request for Transfer to Detroit Court

DETROIT (AP)—Litigation over the sinking of the freighter Carl D. Bradley will be heard in Ohio rather than Michigan.

The first court hearing on the Great Lakes freighter sinking that claimed 33 lives Nov. 18 will be held in Cleveland March 18 rather than in Rogers City, Mich., tomorrow as once ordered.

The Bradley sank in a Lake Michigan storm. Only two of her crew of 35 men survived. Damage suits involving millions of dollars have resulted.

Atty. Victor Hanson of Detroit, general counsel for the Maritime Trades Department of 15 Great Lakes seamen's unions, announced the new court plans after a meeting in Cleveland yesterday.

Hanson, also counsel for damage claim litigants including widows of dead seamen of the Bradley, said a petition in Cleveland by the Bradley's owners for liability limitation technically enjoined court procedure elsewhere.

However, he said that at the March 18 hearing he will ask that the case be transferred to Detroit since all witnesses are Michigan residents.

Alyea Case Ruling Delayed by Judge

Upon the request of defense attorney William R. Beasley, Oakland County Circuit Judge William J. Beer today granted a postponement until March 24 on a ruling on motions to release accused murderer Raymond L. Alyea.

Alyea, 35, of Detroit, is charged with the Aug. 1 fatal stabbing of Anthony Jasinski, a Southfield nursery caretaker.

Beasley requested the two-week adjournment of Judge Beer's scheduled ruling, saying he had additional information to submit to the court on a motion filed last month asking that Alyea be released.

Elderly City Pair Hurt in Accident

Two elderly Pontiac residents were injured yesterday afternoon when their auto struck a parked car on Elizabeth Lake road near Thorpe street, according to Pontiac Police.

Carl F. Kier, 83, the driver, and a passenger, Mae Catlin, 83, both of 81 Euclid St., were taken to Pontiac General Hospital. Mrs. Catlin was described in fair condition with head injuries.

Kier was treated and released. He told officers that a truck crowded him into a parked auto owned by Ted Panaretos of 53 Elizabeth Lake Rd.

Flint Trio Admits Four Thefts Here

Sentences will be passed March 30 on three Flint men who yesterday pleaded guilty before Oakland County Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland to breaking into an Ortonville gas station Feb. 26.

Sheriff's detectives said Robert Brown, 25, George Ahrms, 18, and Ronald Spees, 19, admitted a total of five break-ins in Genesee County and four here.

After the arraignment yesterday, Brown and Ahrms were returned to the county jail to await sentencing. Spees' posted $2,500 bond was allowed continued.

59ers Stalled by Auto Smash

Caravan Station Wagon Struck by Farm Truck in Dense Fog

FERGUS FALLS, Minn. (AP) — Winter driving hazards again overtook Michigan's Alaska-bound 59ers today when a caravan station wagon was smashed up in a collision on fog-shrouded slippery highway. No one was injured.

William Orzechowski, Hamtramck, Mich., driver of the station wagon had pulled to the side of Highway 52, about two miles north of here, to help another 59er mount tire chains.

A farm truck struck the rear of the station wagon. Orzechowski's vehicle was badly damaged. He planned to abandon it and obtain another to continue the trip.

The group had pegged Minot, N.D., 350 miles west of here, as its target for today after an overnight stop in Fergus Falls.

Six house trailers and several cars pulled in about 8 p.m. yesterday to join some of the party that had arrived a day earlier.

The two groups staged an impromptu reunion around a campfire which was lit in a parking lot. The 20 new arrivals were treated to roasted hot dogs as they outlined future plans to curious Fergus Falls residents.

Still among the missing were three cars and two house trailers which became separated from the main party in Wisconsin in a heavy weekend snow storm.

Jerry Donaldson, from Detroit, said last night that all the travelers were happy to be only two days behind their schedule, having in mind the violence of the blizzard that blocked them before they reached St. Paul Sunday.

The tourists are headed for Alaska's Kenai Peninsula, where they hope to homestead farms.

Birmingham Man Promoted by GM

Roy F. Knudsen, 671 Coolidge Rd., Birmingham, has been named assistant engineer in charge of Test Facilities, General Motors Engineering Staff, specializing in instrumentation and electronics.

He will assume his new position at the end of this month, after completing a special training course in use of radioactive materials at General Motors Research Laboratories.

Born at Brooklyn, N. Y., Knudsen, 40, was graduated from Collingswood, N. J., high school and received his bachelor of science in electrical engineering from Swarthmore College, Swarthmore, Penna., in 1949. A communications officer in the U. S. Air Force, he was discharged at the rank of captain.

Prior to joining GM Research Laboratories in April 1954, he was employed four years by Minneapolis Honeywell. At the time of his transfer to GM Engineering staff, where he will assist E. C. Campbell, Knudsen was assistant to the head of GM Research Laboratories Electronics - Instrumentation Department.

GM Tops Stock Trade by Odd Lot Investors

Odd lot trading in GM stock came to 2,567,755 shares in 1958. Next in odd lot popularity were American Telephone, with 2,279,748 shares, and Standard Oil (New Jersey) with 2,210,578 shares.

The highest priced issue of the 25 stocks was International Business Machines at $535 a share, up $237.50 on the year. The cheapest was Studebaker-Packard which finished 1958 at $14.25 a share, up $11.37 a share.

The exchange also reported the Ford foundation during the year ended Sept. 30, bought shares in 40 companies with money collected from a 1956 sale of Ford motor stock.

The foundation spent $2,290,900 on stock purchases during the year, the exchange said. By the end of the year, the shares had a market value of $2,655,218 giving the foundation a paper profit of $364,318, or 16 per cent.

The five biggest blocks of stock in the foundation portfolio at the close of the fiscal year were: U.S. Steel, 2,100 shares worth $167,214; IBM, 350 shares worth $142,800; General Electric, 1,800 shares worth $118,800; American Telephone, 600 shares worth $115,350; and International Nickel, 1,300 shares worth $109,850.

Utica Man Repudiates Confession

Webb Denies Slaying

The Utica man who admitted slaying a Hamtramck taxidermist has repudiated his confession and agreed to take a psychiatric examination, Hamtramck police reported today.

John D. Webb, 27, of 37485 Susan St., Utica, telephoned Warren police asking them to take him into custody for the murder. He said he "wanted to come clean."

Webb then confessed that he and a man named Charles Wilbert (address unknown) shot and killed Ben Delinski, 56, in a holdup at his shop March 1, 1958, according to arresting officers.

Webb said he shot the owner twice and his companion pumped five shots into Delinski's body, police reported.

Delinski was shot seven times with his own gun.

Webb suffered an epileptic seizure while he was being questioned and repudiated the confession after he recovered, police said.

A lie detecter test given to Webb yesterday at the Redford State Police Post proved "inconclusive," Hamtramck authorities said. They added that Webb is still in their custody and will be given the psychiatric examination and further tests later today.

Chrysler Expects to Double Output

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. told its dealers yesterday that it expects to build half a million cars and trucks in the next five months, or twice the number it has put out in the last five months.

Chrysler executives, including President L. L. Colbert, made the forecast in a 62-city, closed circuit television sales conference with all the company's dealers.

For most of the 1959 model period to date Chrysler has been short on production because of labor troubles, including the Pittsburgh Glass Strike which caused a shortage of windshields.

Death Not Due to Fight

KALAMAZOO (AP)—Police say the death of Clyde Harger, 51, who collapsed in a fight last Wednesday, was due to natural causes.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MY husband Allen Thompson (Hot-Shot) who passed away March 10, 1958.
Your life's such a beautiful memory,
To grieve that it's gone, seems unfair.
Like grudging you more time in Heaven.
When our only hope's meeting you there
Sadly missed by wife Betty.

NO TIME FOR GOODBYES ONE year ago today, March 10, 1958. In loving thoughts and memory of our dear husband and father, Albert Barnett. His wife and children.

Hit-Run Driver Gets Jail, Costs

City Man Sentenced in Waterford Accident That Killed Man, 28

George E. Stansfield, Pontiac mechanic who admitted fleeing the scene of a fatal automobile accident last fall in Waterford Township, yesterday was sentenced to 30 days in the Oakland County jail and ordered to pay $100 court costs.

Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland sentenced Stansfield, 31, of 22 Augusta St., who pleaded guilty Feb. 10 to leaving the scene of a personal injury accident. Stansfield had stood mute last October to the charge.

Stansfield, who said he fled the scene on Dixie Highway Sept. 9 because he was already on probation for assault and battery in the township, was the driver of a car which ran down and killed Elmer Robinson Jr., 28.

Robinson, from Arkansas, was killed while crossing the highway after leaving a tavern. He was employed on a road construction crew.

Stansfield was arrested by police the next day on a tip from a neighbor who spotted a car which fitted the description of the one in the hit-run accident as published in The Pontiac Press.

MSU Alumni Won't Give Beef to State Officials

EAST LANSING (AP) — There'll be no two-inch steaks served up to Legislators at Michigan State University this year.

MSU alumni announced yesterday they won't be throwing their annual dinner for lawmakers and the Capitol press corps, in past years one of the most elaborately staged affairs on the university social calendar.

Said Claude R. Erickson, alumni spokesman:

"There seem to be more students requiring financial aid this year than usual, and it was felt that as alumni we should help these students as best we can."

There are plans to resume the event next year, he said.

"In the meantime," he added, "we extend to you our best wishes and warm personal regards."

Warren Chief Ruled to Legally Hold Post

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP)—Macomb County Prosecutor Cevil A. Byers held Monday that there was no cause for action against Warren Police Chief Stanley Hamacher. Hamacher's residence and voting qualifications had been challenged by William Romano, a candidate for mayor in Warren. Romano contended Hamacher did not legally live in Warren although he is a registered voter in the city.

PRESS WINDOWS—The news leaks out through these windows at Panmunjom, where the Korean armistice talks are still going on. Reporters covering the meetings have to observe the proceedings while standing on a narrow platform outside the building. The newsmen and a few curious observers lined up like this for the 49th meeting of the Joint Korean Military Armistice Commission, at which the Communists rejected a United Nations demand to account for 2,147 Korean war prisoners who are still missing.

Bill Would Extend Jobless Benefits

WASHINGTON (AP)—A 50 per cent extension of unemployment benefits for jobless persons who have exhausted their eligibility was proposed today by Rep. John B. Bennett (R-Mich).

Bennett said his bill would provide an additional 13 weeks of such benefits in Michigan by extending the present loan program until April 1, 1960.

The present program, expiring March 31, authorizes federal loans to permit states to extend their programs by 50 per cent. Michigan's 26-week program thus would be increased by another 13 weeks.

Bennett said he felt the extension necessary "because there are still many areas of serious unemployment in my district and in the state."

Sens. Pat McNamara (D-Mich) and Philip A. Hart (D-Mich), among others, have introduced bills to provide a flat 16-week extension for all states, financed by outright federal grants instead of loans.

Malayan production of palm oil in the first seven months of 1958 increased by 16.6 per cent over the like 1957 period, climbing to 38,500 tons from 32,100.

'Adult' Ewald Felt Circus Shown on TV 'De-Arted'

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UPI)—There is something terribly sad about the contemporary circus — the mournful, grey, dirty elephants; the little clowns grinding out their pathetic attempts at fun; the spectacularly uncomely girls; the badly costumed flyers, wire walkers and high bar swingers milking pretend-danger out of dreary rituals; the seedy roustabouts constantly puncturing the sketchy-illusion with the sweat-jobs of reality.

Last night, ABC-TV funneled out portions of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus in a one hour special from Charlotte, N.C., and I must confess it looked to me like all the portions of the Ed Sullivan show that drive me to Steve Allen.

There was a fellow who hung by his hair and juggled fire, a fellow who hung from his heels on a trapeze and a bunch of weepy elephants, those fictitious animals, who hung atop each other.

There was also much to do about two people who were "shot" out of an "atomic" cannon, and I seem to remember that same sad cannon when it was functioning unatomically back in the early '30's.

There were in this hour a few patches of interest — some of the camera work that went on while a high wire walker was working conveyed the feeling of height with remarkable truth. And I liked, too, a trio of hefty young girls who balanced on giant rubber balls and managed to pretend successfully that they were doing something awfully difficult.

For an adult, the present-day circus — vulgarized, slickized and de-arted, as it has been — holds very little. Whether it holds something for children, is another matter. However, I assume this is not very much to the point in last night's presentation since the sponsor was an auto maker, obviously targeting in on an older audience.

Short Shots: Ernie Kovacs, a performer I like, mouthed some really awkward gush as emcee of the ABC-TV circus last night in his role of emcee . . . The CBS-TV Ann Southern Show, in a bid to re-juice its proceedings, nudged Ernest Truex out of its script and introduced Don Porter in a new continuing role — Porter was a member of Miss Southern's old TV show, private secretary. I doubt whether this sort of switch is going to help the show much — its trouble lies in its mechanical, assembly line approach to comedy . . . Things like Arthur Murray doing the tango last night help to make the NBC-TV Arthur Murray Party one of the funniest shows on television — unintentionally, of course.

Sammy's Slip Brings Frost to Miami Beach

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—The word from Miami Beach was that Frank Sinatra's very cool toward Sammy Davis' hopes of patching up their palship which got ruptured when Sammy said in a Chicago radio interview that Frank's sometimes rude. Sammy's next door to Frank in Miami Beach, and 'twas reported that Sammy was ready to hurl himself prostrate on the stage in front of Frank and ask his forgiveness . . . if it would do any good. One report to Sammy was: "It wouldn't help you."

Hear about the woman who like the new American flag—except she asked, "Don't you have it in any other colors?"

Joey Adams and Al Kelly told about her in their new show which offers the wonderful Lane Brothers and an extremely talented gal named Jacqueline Fontaine, from Kenosha and Milwaukee, dancer, singer and shaker, plus Lou Wills Jr.

I say there, Maria Callas — don't hurry back! The Met brass privately says it won't be taking you back "for years" . . . Who ordered a whole section of Claude's beauty salon cleared out so the Duchess of Windsor could have privacy when she got her tresses touched up? (Several non-royalists were pretty annoyed).

Rocky Marciano likes the story about the heavyweight who was badly battered but still able to stagger to his corner at the end of the ninth. His manager said, "Say, I suddenly got a great idea for you. Why don't you hit him back?"

"A go-getter," according to Breadwinner, "is a guy who gets in behind you in a revolving door and comes out ahead of you."

Asks Mental Cases Be Allowed to Drive

LANSING (AP)—An end to the law prohibiting the mentally afflicted from driving cars and trucks was proposed last night by Rep. Ben E. Lohman (R-Hamilton).

The proposal grew out of a legislative study of laws controlling commitment procedures for Michigan's mental institutions. Lohman headed the two-year study, which also included probate judges and mental health authorities.

The amendment to the motor vehicle code, one of a number of changes recommended by the committee, would allow the mentally ill and mentally retarded to retain their operator's license when they entered an institution. However, hospital authorities would notify the secretary of state when any patient was considered incapable of operating a car or truck properly and the license would be suspended.

Omnibus Money Bills Attacked as Poor Economy

LANSING (AP) — A Republican Senate leader last night assailed Michigan legislative custom in packaging annual appropriations into nine or 10 omnibus bills.

Sen. Charles Prescott of Prescott, president pro tem and a 12-year legislative veteran, said the system frustrates economy. He pledged a fight against it.

"The bills should be submitted to us separately," he said, "so some of them could be defeated and the State of Michigan still could run."

As it is, a legislator faces a choice at the session's end of either taking the appropriation bills or leaving them.

"If you want economy in government today, you've got to break this thing down," he added.

Prescott said the system for determining revenues first by acting on tax bills and then appropriating was "upside down." The spending level should be determined first, he said.

Spokesman Hits Wheat Curbing

Denounces Plan to Cut Surplus Growing as Ruthless, Callous

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A spokesman for wheat growers today denounced the administration's plan for curbing surplus wheat production as "ruthless, callous, and self-defeating."

Herbert Hughes of Imperial, Neb., chairman of the program committee of the National Association of Wheat Growers, outlined the association's plan in testimony prepared for delivery to a House agriculture subcommittee studying wheat legislation.

Subcommittee Chairman Carl Albert (D-Okla) refused to predict what his group would recommend, but said he hoped it would complete action in time to permit a House vote on wheat legislation before May 1.

Hughes said the administration proposal to curb wheat production by slashing support prices would "eliminate" growers to solve the problem created by technological advances in production efficiency.

Takes Off Brace for Opera Role, Collapses After

NEW YORK (UPI)—Plucky Soprano Dolores Wilson, who took off a neck brace to substitute for ailing Lily Pons at the Metropolitan Opera last night, collapsed after the final curtain and was taken to a hospital.

From the beginning of the opera "Lucia Di Lammermoor," the beautiful 29-year-old blonde was in obvious discomfort. In the final mad scene, her staggering was more than just acting. She made it to her dressing room after taking three curtain calls and collapsed there.

Dr. Morris Brann, the house physician, ordered Miss Wilson taken to University Hospital where her neck was placed in traction. She was injured in an auto accident in Concord, Ohio, Jan. 16 during a tour of the Mozart opera group and was released from traction only last week.

Miss Pons was stricken last week in Palm Springs, Calif. and was forced to cancel her scheduled appearance as Lucia, which was to have been her only Met appearance this season. Miss Wilson had assured Met officials that she was recovered sufficiently to undertake the role.

Murfreesboro was the capital of Tennessee from 1817 to 1824. Otherwise, Nashville's been the capital since 1812.

Wants Deficit to Hit Home

Legislator to Ask Halt to All Officials' Wages if State Goes Broke

LANSING (AP)—If and when the state goes broke, a Republican legislator hopes to make sure that state officials feel the pinch first.

Rep. James P. Mielock (R-Whitemore) says he will introduce a resolution directing the state treasurer to suspend salaries of all elected and appointed officials when bankruptcy appears inevitable.

"I'd say the Legislature would be ripe for that kind of a proposal in about 10 days judging from the way things are going now," Mielock said.

"My proposal would take in everybody from the governor on down," he said. "That includes the entire Legislature, the Supreme Court, circuit judges and every chairman and member of an appointive board who draws a salary."

Mielock, a farmer and father of four children, said he might need to borrow from the bank to tide his family over any lean months of payless paydays.

"Somebody's going to go without a paycheck or two before we settle this thing," he said. "I think the Legislature and state officials ought to get hit in the pocketbook before state employes do."

Eastern Michigan Bill En Route to Governor

LANSING (AP)—A bill to boost Eastern Michigan College to university status was en route to the governor for signing today after clearing its final legislative hurdle.

The House last night gave overwhelming endorsement to a Senate amendment moving up the effective date of the measure from July 1 to June 1, thus allowing the class of 1959 to benefit from the name change.

A similar bill to make a university of Central Michigan College also is awaiting the governor's signature.

Vote on Contract Today

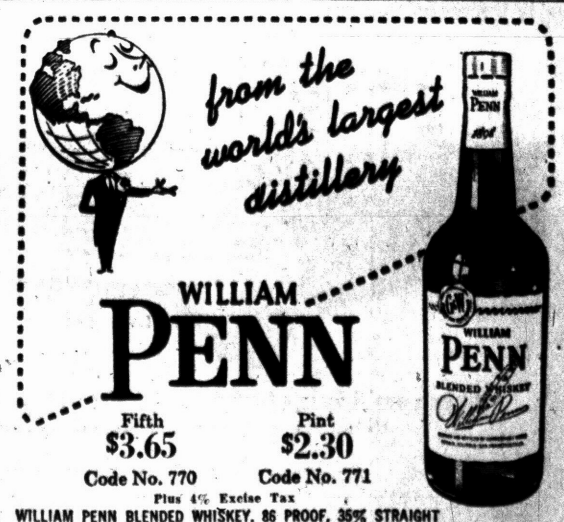

DETROIT (AP)—The 1,700 employes of the Michigan Alkali Division of Wyandotte Chemicals Corp. are voting today on ratification of a new contract between the company and the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union. The union has set a Wednesday midnight strike deadline.

County Offices Will Be Studied

Special Group to Visit Road Commission First in Streamlining Check

All Oakland County departments can expect a visit from a committee of nine persons who have the job of streamlining county government.

First to receive members of the Special County Government Study Committee will be the Road Commission. The committee hopes to arrange a tour of commission facilities for Thursday.

The committee, headed by Springfield Township Supervisor John L. Carey, met for the first time Friday since it saw its drive for county home-rule government killed in Lansing last month.

Members went into the meeting with an apparent feeling of "where do we go from here?"

So it decided to pick up where it left off last fall when it dropped everything to start the big push for a Constitutional amendment to allow home rule for Michigan counties.

Previously the committee of four supervisors, three citizens-at-large and two county officials requested and received critiques about how current operations could be improved from some 30 department heads.

Carey himself is pessimistic whether these tours and further studies of the departments will produce anything more than "duplication of efforts."

The chairman added, however, that he saw some good coming from the "home work" studies, as one member called them, in that they will help the committee "better understand the eventual need for home rule."

The committee agreed to "keep alive" the program for home rule in the meantime.

Child's Body Ordered Returned to Parents

TIFTON, Ga. (AP)—A Superior Court judge has ordered a Tifton undertaker to return to her parents the body of one of nine Negro pupils drowned last week in a school bus accident.

Judge J. Bowie Gray ruled Monday that Kensey and Addie Lee Wilcox were entitled to decide who is to bury their daughter Earline, 13.

The parents contend that the Melton and Sun Funeral Home refused to release the child's body afer they refused to agree to pay $1,250 for a funeral. The undertaker said the parents signed a burial agreement, but the judge ruled it was too vague to establish a price.

Senators Entertain Yankus Jr.

LANSING (AP)—Stanley A. Yankus Jr., maverick Dowagiac chicken farmer, came to the Capitol today as the House Rules and Resolutions Committee prepared to turn thumbs down on a resolution commending his "fight for the right to own property."

One committee member said only courtesy to the absent chief sponsor of the resolution, Rep. Floyd E. Wagner (R-Cassopolis), spared it from quick death. The resolution was filed last week.

A majority on the committee reportedly felt that to commend Yankus would be construed as an endorsement of "flouting" existing federal law.

Yankus, in Lansing as a guest of Sen. Harry Litowich (R-Benton Harbor), has gained nationwide attention for resisting federal wheat planting restrictions.

This, he said, was his principal reason for planned immigration to Australia.

If he quit farming and went into business, "I might be subject to harassment by some other federal bureau," he said.

Asked if the reason he felt no fear of "harassment" at the present was that the newspapers were protecting him, Yankus answered: "Yes, they do at this time."

He was a luncheon guest of the Senate Agriculture Committee.

Yankus acknowledged that Australia, like the United States, has many controls on agriculture, and that he might wind up following some other pursuit than farming.

He mentioned selling feed, plumbing and other skills developed in his Cass County farming operation.

"I might even get a job as a public speaker," he said.

Last night, Sen. Clyde H. Geerlings (R-Holland) took the floor to urge his 33 colleagues to join him in writing their congressmen to change restrictive laws such as entangled Yankus.

Geerlings extolled the old days when farmers, working men and businessmen were "unhampered by quotas, forced union dues and labor slow downs."

The House has in committee resolution signed by about 30 members to commend the Dowagiac individualist for his "courage, substance and tenacity."

WASHINGTON (AP)—Stanley Yankus, Michigan's regulation-busting farmer, would be reimbursed more than $5,000 under a bill proposed by Rep. Alvin M. Bentley (R-Mich).

Bentley said he wants the federal government to repay $5,072 in fines and penalties slapped on Yankus in the Dowagiac farmer's vain fight against federal acreage restrictions.

Yankus, contending that he raised wheat on his 100 acre farm solely to feed to his own chickens, maintains that he has a right to raise what he pleases without outside interference.

"Of course," Bentley said, "the remedy for this situation is not in a private bill, but the Yankus case seems somewhat deserving.

"It should be clearly understood that the only remedy is a legislative one, and I am introducing a bill which would solve this problem."

Patrol Warns of Thin Ice

Sheriff's Dept. Water Division Says Lakes' Danger Period Here

The Oakland County Sheriff's Department Water Patrol Division has issued a warning to residents to be on the lookout for areas of thin ice on county lakes.

"From now until all the ice has melted we will be in an extremely dangerous period of the year," said Deputy Donald Kratt, safety division director. Parents should take extra precautions to keep their children off the ice, he said.

Kratt emphasized that from now on there will be more thawing than freezing weather, and although the ice was much thicker on most lakes this winter, thin spots are already evident on several lakes near the shoreline.

"That last ice fishing trip can really be your 'last trip' if you make the jaunt on thin ice," Kratt warned.

"When a good swimmer falls from a boat in the summertime he has a fair chance of surviving, but a person who falls through ice into cold water has all the odds against him," Kratt said.

Former U.S. Judge Takes Own Life

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — William Denman, 86, retired federal judge who said life was difficult after the death of his wife, was found dead Monday night with a bullet in his head.

Houseboy Fred Woo told police he discovered the body of the retired chief judge of the Ninth U.S. Court of Appeals lying on the floor of the study in the Denman home with a .38 caliber automatic in one hand.

Clara Denman, a niece, quoted the judge as saying life had been unbearable following the death Feb. 8 of Mrs. Leslie Denman, his wife of 52 years. The couple was childless.

Judge Denman retired in 1957 after 22 years on the circuit court bench. He had been chief judge nine years.

Father, 3 Children Die in Maine Fire

LISBON FALLS, Maine (AP)—Three children and their stepfather perished in a roaring inferno early today when fire leveled their two-story home on Free street.

Neighbors said Lester Simmons, a 30-year-old laborer, was trapped in an attempt to rescue the children.

One of the children reportedly pushed her mother, Sara, to safety through a second-story window, then became trapped herself as a door shut on her.

Mrs. Simmons, who is expecting a baby in July, was hospitalized with burns, shock and possibly a broken leg.

Late Tags No Excuse

BEULAH (AP)—Drivers of several Benzie County motor vehicles—who say they have applied for but not received their 1959 license tags—have been ticketed for continuing to drive with expired plates.

Commission to Consider Resurfacing City Streets

Proposals to resurface several major Pontiac streets and a recommendation to open up the Glenwood Estates subdivision south of Walton boulevard to new residential use will come before the City Commission tonight.

Commissioners will be asked to include in this year's public improvement program recapping of Orchard Lake avenue from the Beaudette Park bridge over the Clinton River to Saginaw street; E. Huron street from Saginaw to Perry; Sanderson avenue, Oakland to Cass; S. Johnson avenue, Orchard Lake to Huron; Cass avenue, Pike to Orchard Lake; Judson street, Saginaw to Park; Prall street, Huron to Washington; and Prospect street, from Paddock east.

The administration also will ask permission to pave Joslyn road from Walton boulevard to the city limits. For economy reasons, the initial paving would only be 22 feet wide instead of the usual 28 feet.

Commissioners will consider a recommendation from the Planning Commission that 169 lots in the Glenwood Estates subdivision be rezoned from manufacturing 2 to residential 1.

Many of the lots are already occupied by homes in a non-conforming usage. Because the subdivision lies just north of the Grand Trunk Railroad beltline, it was zoned manufacturing, but never has been used for it.

Henry Smith, plan commission secretary, said that developers plan new homes along Walton, but have no plans at present for other construction in the rest of the subdivision.

Scheduled for adoption is an ordinance rezoning nine lots north of Columbia avenue along the Western side of the Pontiac, Oxford & Northern Railroad from Residential to Commercial 1 to make way for a beer distributor's warehouse, planned for the site.

To be submitted are petitions for and against grading and graveling of the alley south of Walton between University and Baldwin. Commercial interests on the north side of the alley want the grading while residents on the south side have opposed it.

A new assessment formula that would distribute the cost of the grading between commercial and residential properties on the basis of usage is scheduled for final passage tonight.

Recall Election Eyed

RICHLAND (AP)—A recall election is being considered by supporters of Glenn Nykerk, Richland School superintendent whose contract the school board had refused to renew.

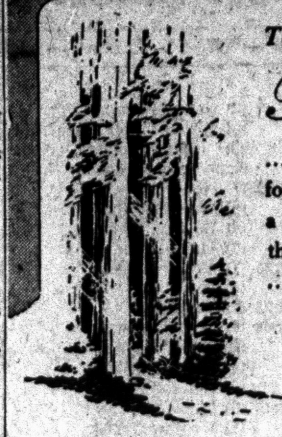

Muskegon Man Killed

MUSKEGON (AP)—John West, 37, of Muskegon, was killed Monday when his car and a truck collided on M46 about five miles east of Muskegon.
