Future students invited to Black and Gold Day

By Jeff Samoray, OU Web Writer

High school juniors, seniors and their families are invited to learn about the aspects that make Oakland University a distinctive educational experience at Black and Gold Day on Saturday, Nov. 15, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

“Black and Gold Day is a great opportunity for students and families to tour the campus and see our newest facilities as well as interact with faculty, staff and other students,” said Megan McNally, assistant director of admissions. “The scheduled activities will help solidify that Oakland is a great choice for a college education.”

Students also will learn about OU’s educational programs, including the College of Arts and Sciences, School of Business Administration, School of Education and Human Services, School of Engineering and Computer Science, School of Health Sciences, School of Nursing, and Bachelor of General Studies.

Participants will attend information sessions about making a successful transition to college, how to finance a college education, and learn about the many student services available on campus.

To attend, RSVP by Monday, Nov. 3, by using the convenient online reservation system or by contacting the Office of Admissions at (248) 370-3360 or (800) OAK-UNIV.
