Landry Hits Press, Police and Urban Renewal Officials

Mayor Robert A. Landry last night loosed a verbal attack against city law enforcement, urban renewal officials and The Pontiac Press as a follow-up to the firing of City Manager Robert A. Stierer last month.

Landry delivered his address to explain the position he and four other commissioners took in suspending and firing Stierer.

He openly condemned all criticism of the decision in his 11-page speech.

Stierer and Commissioner William H. Taylor Jr. were among those whom he singled out for harsh criticism.

At the request of Commissioners Charles H. Harmon and Taylor, Landry agreed to deliver his speech after last night's meeting had been adjourned so that it wouldn't be part of the official commission journal.

Contrary to his announcement last week that the press and radio would be notified in advance of the time and place, Landry gave no prior indication to the press.

The mayor made it clear that the commission would not retreat in the face of an "unrelenting, vicious and irresponsible attack from a source which considers it itself the self-appointed ruler of our city."

Landry even pledged the City Commission's efforts to advertise for the establishment of a second newspaper in Pontiac.

In summary, his speech painted the police department as an example of weak leadership and the urban renewal department as riddled with indecision.

CHEAP POLITICS
He challenged Delos Hamilton, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors, as practicing "cheap politics," Taylor with sacrificing principles for personalities and Stierer with trying to block commission attempts to "protect and improve the management-commission form of government."

Landry pointed out that the city charter provides that "the city manager shall be responsible to the commission for the proper administration of the affairs of the city."

He described Stierer's dismissal as follows:

"In every city in the United States, every day of the week, city managers are hired, fired or resign."

"Only here in Pontiac can such an occurrence be built up to the status of an international problem."

"Only here . . . are duty elected city officials subjected to verbal abuse, ridicule and harassment, because only here are city officials told 'You either play it our way, or you don't play at all.'"

Landry charged that Stierer told him, "I won't resign, and I won't accede to the wish of the majority. You'll have to file charges, and I'm not a bit worried because the downtown is behind me."

Landry asked the public, "If your City Commission can't fire its city manager, then who can?"

"How can anyone be expected to protect and improve the management-commission form of government if elected officials are told they must assume all of the responsibility, but must not exercise the authority granted by the charter for fear of being condemned as malcontents?"

"ANSWER FIRM"
"Or," Landry continued, "of facing a barrage of personal, biased and unjustified adverse publicity. To the manager's challenge, the commission's answer was firm and to the point . . . he was suspended."

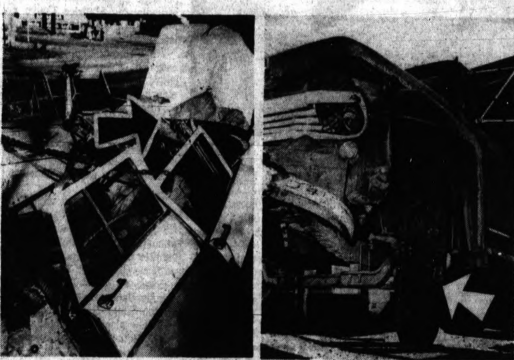

Landry pointed to a rising crime rate in the city in condemning police "inefficiency." He said that a trend toward a rising crime rate nationally was no excuse for condoning it in Pontiac.

Landry made two recommendations for changes in the department, indicating more would be suggested soon.

He called for "immediate formation of a volunteer civilian night patrol, using city cars with

Smog Causes 21 Cars to Crash

By ROGER SRIGLEY
and JIM LONG
Heavy fog mixed with smoke from a smoldering peat bog was blamed by police for a series of accidents this morning in the Diquindre-15 Mile Road area.

At least 21 cars were involved in collisions, according to police. A Diener Funeral Home ambulance, taking some of the injured to the hospital, smashed into a car that had been in an accident earlier.

The injured were transferred to another ambulance. Visibility was zero at the time of the accidents, most of which occurred around 8:45 a.m.

The smoke and fog had cleared from the area, considered a low spot, by 8 a.m.

Traffic was detoured around the area while police from seven departments worked at the accident scenes.

INVESTIGATING OFFICERS
Police investigating the accidents were from Troy, Oakland and Macomb county sheriff departments, Center Line State Police, Post, Rochester, Bloomfield Township and Birmingham.

One Oakland County deputy described the accidents as the "worst mess" he had seen.

Troy Fire Chief Lauren Ford said the peat bog had been burning since Sunday.

"There is very little we can do," Ford said. "We have one that has been burning on and off for the last 20 years."

The burning peat bog is on the west side of Diquindre and is owned by several people, according to Ford.

He said a heavy rain might put it out.

FOG BLAMED
The fog was most responsible for the hazardous driving conditions.

Many of the drivers continued on to work even though their cars were damaged.

The following is list of those injured and the hospitals they were taken to:

Signs Indicate JFK to Tell of Sale to Russia

Freeman Backs Deal, Says Public Supports
Grain Trade 4 to 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — There were signs that President Kennedy may break his silence today on a U.S.-Soviet wheat deal which is rumored to be some quarters to be almost signed, sealed and delivered.

One straw in the wind was that the White House abruptly changed the time of today's presidential WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee decided today, in an outburst of expected wheat deal with the Soviet Union, to make a long-range review of U.S. policy on trade with Communist countries.

Another indication of a decision was endorsement of the proposed wheat sale by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, who said he thought public sentiment was running 4 to 1 in favor of it. In a last-minute addition to a talk prepared for a North Platte, Neb., audience today, Freeman said:

"It is my judgment that we should sell wheat to the Russians, and to other Eastern European nations where firm offers to buy for dollars are made through the private trade. We should do this not only because of the dollars because of the increased people-and-cents advantage, but also to people contacts which will result."

CHANGED TIME
The changed time of the news conference strengthened speculation that Kennedy was ready to announce at that time his decision on wheat sales to Russia and other Communist bloc nations.

But Pierre Salinger, Kennedy's press secretary, said he had "no information about an announcement" and that the time for the news conference had been delayed because "it's more convenient for the President's schedule."

Although the schedule as officially announced was pretty much blank from midmorning until the news conference, Salinger said Kennedy has "a lot of appointments. He has appointments here every day that I don't put on the record."

KEEPS TO HIMSELF
If Kennedy was about to make a decision on a U.S.-Soviet wheat deal, though, a source said he was keeping it close to himself.

The Soviet Union was reported to have expressed interest through diplomatic channels in buying $250 million worth, with Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Bulgaria bidding for $60 million more.

GETS ADVICE — Joseph Valachi (right), tells the Senate Investigations subcommittee about a nationwide crime syndicate, listens to committee chief counsel Jerome Aderman at yesterday's session in Washington.

Valachi Says 'Cosa' Asked Mercy Killing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gangland informer Joseph Valachi testified today that the rulers of the Cosa Nostra caiously ordered a "mercy killing" of New Jersey crime boss Whitey Moretti because he was mentally ill and becoming talkative.

Valachi also charged that his one-time partner in a

Joan shark operation, Johnny Robert (John Rihoretto), was a participant in the 1951 Moretti slaying.

The husky-voiced former member of the Cosa Nostra told of the Moretti "mercy killing" as he continued his vengeful expose of the crime cartel before the Senate Investigations subcommittee.

His account of Moretti's last days was borne out by another witness with a far more law-abiding past.

New Jersey's Assistant Atty. Gen. John J. Bergin said he knew Moretti was "becoming extremely careless" and even granted interviews to newspaper reporters about his activities before he was slain.

Bergin said his information tended to corroborate Valachi's testimony on the Moretti slaying.

Valachi admitted he lied to New Jersey police when they questioned him about Robert. Although Valachi told them he did not know Robert, he confessed today they had been partners for years.

As a footnote to crime, Valachi told how the leaders of the underworld, including those that had decided on the "mercy killing," turned out at Moretti's flower-festooned funeral as an expression of undying affection for their dead colleague.

NEW CAPABILITY
It was obvious that he was referring to the new nuclear capability of France.

A communique issued after a meeting of President Charles de Gaulle's Cabinet spoke of "the creation of new means which the armed forces are beginning to have at their disposal."

The subject was mentioned in connection with France's decision to evacuate her last troops from Bizerte this month.

"For all practical purposes," said forecaster Robert McCaslin, "Flora, as a hurricane, is no longer a threat to any land areas."

Flora moved off the northeast coast of Cuba yesterday after pounding the island with winds and 60,000 persons reportedly abandoned flooded homes in Oriente and Camaguey provinces.

Over the weekend, the slow-moving hurricane devastated Haiti, leaving 3,500 people dead and 100,000 homeless. Flora also killed 17 persons on the island of Tobago, off Venezuela.

Auto Pioneer Dies in Detroit

From Our News Wires
DETROIT — Alfred J. Fisher — one of the seven Fisher brothers that pioneered the auto industry — died today following a long illness.

Fisher, 70, died at Henry Ford Hospital.

He served as chief engineer for the Fisher Body Co., founded in 1908 by his elder brothers, Fred J. and Charles F. He continued in that post when the firm became a division of General Motors, and held it until 1945.

Fisher was the second youngest of the brothers who designed the first enclosed automobile body.

He is the fourth of the six brothers to die. Surviving are William A. and Edward F., both older than he.

He also is survived by his wife, Alma, five children and eight grandchildren.

Services have been tentatively set for Friday.

U.S. Funds to Help Build County Children's Village

A $223,000 federal grant for construction of a proposed Children's Village in Oakland County was announced today by Sen. Patrick V. McNamara (D-Mich.).

Granted under the accelerated public works program, the federal monies will cover half the cost of the first units of a $445,000 county home for underprivileged children.

James W. Hunt, director of county children's services, said the first units would include a single-story special services facility to handle about 40 emotionally disturbed youngsters and two rehabilitation cottages with room for 30 children each.

Hunt said these buildings would be the beginnings of a proposed 50-acre Children's Village complex. Total cost of the entire development over a period of years would be $2.5 million.

REACHES SUPERVISORS
News of the federal grant reached the juvenile affairs committee of the county board of supervisors just minutes after it had adjourned this morning.

The committee had mapped plans to press for the Children's Village rather than make use of temporary facilities that might be costly to provide.

"This makes my day," commented the committee chairman, Abraham Brickner.

He said the Children's Village ultimately would house all the juvenile facilities of the county except those at Camp Oakland.

The board of supervisors had acquired a site for the village just west of Telegraph opposite the county offices. The board has also authorized the county's share of the first buildings.

The special services facility according to Hunt, would probably be the most expensive unit in the proposed village. He estimated the cost would be in excess of $300,000.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Flora, one of the most deadly to come out of the tropical Atlantic, sped toward the northeast today on a course that could bring gale winds close to Bermuda on Thursday.

With an estimated 3,500 dead in its wake in the Caribbean, the giant storm was racing to its death in the cold waters of the North Atlantic.

A Weather Bureau advisory at noon placed the storm center about 120 miles north-northeast of Turks Island. Earlier today, it had hit thinly populated Bahamas islands.

Flora's center, surrounded by winds up to 100 miles an hour, passed over the island of Mayagua before dawn, and then picked up speed and twisted into the open Atlantic at 15 miles an hour.

The Weather Bureau said Flora would move faster and faster as she pressed toward Northwestern Europe and England for the next few days. But by the time she reaches the North Atlantic, cold air will rob her of tropical character.

Flora left behind a trail of devastation and death. Officials at Haiti, hardest hit, estimated the dead at 3,500, said the exact figure will never be known.

Many parts of Cuba are still under water.

Some of the islands in the southwestern Bahamas—Inagua, Culebra and Grand Turk—were still due for gales.

But the islands, some of which contain U.S. missile tracking MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Havana radio said today the Cuban Red Cross has rejected "the hypocritical offer" of aid from the United States for the hurricane-ravaged island.

Equipment were expected to escape serious damage because of ample warning.

Cuba knocked out, there was no immediate estimate of casualties on Fidel Castro's island.

Havana reported that the rain had stopped and the winds abated in Oriente and Camaguey provinces, allowing relief activities to pick up. Relief work also was stepped up in Haiti.

CLOSE BRUSH
Castro reportedly had a close brush on an inspection trip of the storm-battered eastern provinces, when waves washed over his amphibious truck. Radio Havana said peasants tossed ropes to the distressed vehicle and hauled Castro and his party to shore.

30 Days to Better Grades—XXI

Take Over-All View of History

BY THE READING LABORATORY
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Association

All of our articles thus far have been developing a general study approach — habits of study that will work with almost any subject you encounter. Now it's time to round off your arsenal of study techniques — to supply the variations that apply to specific subjects.

We'll start with history. Nineteen chapters ago, we saw that a history book is not the same as an ordinary column.

It's not just a long list of dates and dead people — even though most of the people in your book are dead. Let's take an example from history.

ASK YOURSELF

Have you ever asked yourself why there was a Renaissance — why the whole of Europe suddenly awakened from centuries of comparative lethargy? Why there was such a tremendous flowering of science, art, culture, philosophy?

What prompted men to risk their lives upon unknown oceans?

More than this, have you tried to figure out how the Renaissance has shaped the world you're living in — how your country, ideals and beliefs and even the modern technology which is such a part of your life were largely determined by the events of centuries ago?

In other words, have you seen how history moves, how it flows in big, sweeping waves?

GO BACK

Let's stay with the Renaissance and take a look at a historical movement or pattern of development. We can go back to the 12th and 13th centuries and the Crusades.

The serfs that took part in the Crusades were "getting off the farm" and thus a major blow was dealt to feudalism — a system by which the king, by "divine right," owned the land and virtually owned the peasants.

The philosophy and science of the ancient Greeks that had been preserved in the East found its way to Europe via the returning crusaders. So did valuable spices, jewels, and cloths, and the seeds of trade and mercantilism were sown.

Trade meant exploration, exploration meant new lands, new lands meant more merchants — and a strong middle class was on the rise. Exploration required science; science meant freer, broader thinking.

REFORMATION

Hence, the Protestant Reformation and the Catholic Counter Reformation.

The new scientific approach was applied to politics and social problems — liberalism and democracy were not far behind. The kingdoms of Europe rose and fell with the fortunes of the New World.

The Americans revolted, the French revolted. Nineteenth century Europe seethed with revolt and new industry. In the turmoil of the 19th century, both communism and democracy found their footholds in the world.

We could go on further — but we've made our point.

Do you see how to study history? Over-view your book, over-view each unit, each chapter. Always keep the broad picture in mind. Fit each detail into the larger framework of historical movement.

Don't just memorize names and dates; think big, try to understand history — you'll have a lot more fun, and the names and dates won't be any problems.

13,735 Are Imprisoned

MADRID (UPI) — Government figures issued today showed a total of 13,735 prisoners in Spanish jails at the end of 1962.

A report from the general directorate of prisons said there were 44,343 persons in prison per 100,000 population. It said there are 659 men and 299 women prisoners serving sentences in connection with security cases.

Many blackboards installed in new schools today are of green color.

There are about 55,000 swimming pools in the United States, many of them privately-owned.

Sewer Plans Grow in Oxford

OXFORD — Both a sanitary sewer and a joint township-village municipal building here came one step closer to reality at last night's village council session.

Meeting with Village Appraiser Leslie R. Tripp, the council accepted his report on possible sewage treatment plant sites.

Preliminary plans for the system, prepared by consulting engineers Johnson & Anderson, Inc., Waterford Township, were also approved.

Village Manager Michael M. Kilgore will now forward the plans to the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency, in time to meet the Oct. 20 deadline set by the department.

In addition, the spray irrigation treatment facility recommended in one plan, the council is also leaving the door open for possible renewal of a joint system with Lake Orion.

Kilgore was instructed last night to invite Donald Ringler, deputy director of the county's Department of Public Works to the council's Oct. 22 meeting.

HANDLING PLANS
Ringler is handling the county end of plans for Lake Orion's sewage program.

Also at last night's session, the council endorsed a report and plans for a municipal building recommended by the Community Center Committee.

Formed last April, the committee is an outgrowth of a group which began a study of village and township needs in 1960.

Last night the Community Center Committee presented a plan for a $200,000 building, to be constructed on the site of the present township and village offices, which would contain facilities for the police and fire departments and a library.

The proposed center site has and a library.

After reviewing the plans, the council requested Committee Chairman R. A. Ambrose to have his group study various ways of financing the project.

Farmington Due Trial Transport

FARMINGTON — Detroit's Department of Streets and Railways is now planning bus runs between Farmington and Detroit.

The department has received permission from the Farmington City Council to operate buses here and probably will start service within 30 days, according to City Manager John D. Dinan.

Schedules have not yet been determined. The operation will be initiated on a trial basis. Farmington requested the service last year but was notified extensions of the routes was not feasible at that time.

CURRENT SERVICE
The Great Lakes Transit Corp. currently is providing the community with a shuttle service on Grand River between Farmington Road and Seven Mile Road. Detroit-bound patrons must then board another bus into the city.

Now making four runs daily the firm is contemplating reducing the number of trips, Dinan said.

At their first meeting in the new Farmington Municipal Building, councilmen were notified that Farmington Area Community Association, Inc., is disbanding short of the goal for which it was formed.

The organization was established in 1956 to raise money for construction of an area community center.

To date, it has collected some $5,500, which it plans to give to Farmington Township and the city.

The association stipulated, however, that the two governing bodies give the money in turn to the Farmington Area Library.

He told sheriff's deputies that his car went off the road when he swerved to avoid hitting a dog.

Detroit Vote Brings Call for Protests

DETROIT — Detroit's Common Council yesterday rejected, 7 to 2, a proposed antidiscrimination housing ordinance, and Negro leaders called for protest demonstrations.

The council's decision showed the "harsh reality of white opposition to Negro rights," the Detroit branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) charged.

Pickets had marched overnight at the City-County Building in support of the ordinance, which would have banned discrimination by reason of race, religion, color or national origin in the sale or rental of real estate. Owner-occupied homes would have been included.

The council's vote followed an opinion by the state attorney general that Michigan's new constitution, to take effect Jan. 1, would make any city antidiscrimination ordinances unnecessary.

FORBIDS ALL FORMS
The new constitution forbids all forms of discrimination and establishes a state civil rights commission with sweeping civil rights powers.

The council approved unanimously a resolution calling on Michigan Gov. George Romney and the legislature to appropriate funds necessary for the operation of the commission.

Votes for the antidiscrimination ordinance came from its sponsors, Mel J. Ravitz and William T. Patrick Jr., the council's only Negro member.

About 250 spectators crowded into the council chambers for the vote. Two dozen policemen were on hand, but there was no disorder.

HEARD CONTROVERSY
Detroit, a city of 1.6 million, heard controversy for months over the proposed ordinance.

A popular vote is scheduled on an opposing ordinance that would guarantee property owners the right to rent or sell their property as they see fit.

Auburn Heights Lions Club to Kindle Its Flare Drive

AUBURN HEIGHTS — Local Lions Club members will knock on doors tonight, as this year's annual flare drive gets under way.

Beginning at 7 p.m., Lions Club members will kick off a campaign to raise funds for the traditional Halloween entertainment in the community.

The sale will last until Oct. 28. Flares can also be purchased at local stores.

The club has set a goal of $1,400 for this year, publicity chairman H. C. Newingham announced today.

With this money, it will sponsor a party at the junior high school on Squirrel, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Halloween. The club also plans a dance at the Legion Hall on Auburn, from 9:30 to 11 p.m.

Adults and children alike are invited to both. No admission will be charged.

Kicking off the party will be a parade, made up of masqueraded "trick or treaters" as well as floats. It will start in front of Moore Chapel of Sparks-Griffin Funeral Home and proceed down

Improvements Planned for Detroit Districts

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh announced plans yesterday for three neighborhood improvement programs stressing voluntary property repair by $3,235 residents.

A similar program already is under way in three other neighborhood blocks. Cavanagh estimated it will cost the city $45,000 a year to staff the projects.

Board Names Scholarship Control Group

ROCHESTER — A committee to control this school district's $1,800 Linda T. Knorr Scholarship Fund has been activated by the board of education.

The new group will formulate rules for control of the fund. Presiding will be Board President James J. Ludwig. Others on the committee are Schools Supt. Dr. William Early, High School Principal Harlan Johnson and two high school students.

Miss Knorr, a former junior high principal here who moved across the state, will serve in an ex-officio capacity when present. The money was gathered by her school's student council when Miss Knorr was principal in 1950.

In other business the board resolved to revise its policy of recording minutes. Under the new rules, all subjects discussed and the names of those making motions, seconding and abstaining, will be recorded.

Construction to Start

The five-acre parcel is on the west side of West Livingston, about a quarter-mile south of M59.

The masonry building, faced with brick, will measure 95 by 100 feet. Simplicity of design will be apparent in 26-foot laminated arches and wooden decking.

AUXILIARY ROOM
Seating for 300 people will be provided in the sanctuary, and an auxiliary room will accommodate another 75.

An educational unit surrounding a court will contain 15 classrooms, a kitchen and a 24-by-50 foot social room.

Plans also include a pastor's study, a nursery and

Officer Chases, Nabs Suspect

DETROIT (AP) — In a chase over backyard fences, a Detroit policeman captured a suspect moments after a National Bank of Detroit branch was robbed of $1,361 yesterday.

Policeman Guido Venier was parked on his motorcycle a short distance from the bank when witnesses ran out shouting there had been a holdup.

He circled the block and saw a breathless man, who fitted the description of the robber, carrying a brown paper sack.

Venier gave chase through backyards and over two fences.

He finally cornered Gilbert L. Camp, 22. The sack with the money was found in a clump of grass. A sawed-off shotgun used in the holdup was recovered nearby.

Sponsors Card Party

TROY — The auxiliary of Charles Edwards Post No. 14, American Legion, is sponsoring a card party at 8 p.m. today in the legion home, Crooks and Maple.

B'nai B'rith's 120th Birthday

Sandy Koufax Rejoices Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Glad news today from B'nai B'rith, the American-born Jewish service organization, as it gets ready for its 120th birthday party.

Sandy Koufax is a member. As you undoubtedly know, Koufax is a left-handed pitcher for the Los Angeles Dodgers, who humbled the New York Yankees twice in baseball's World Series.

Hence he is entitled to take his place along with such B'nai B'rith notables as Sigmund Freud, the subconscious prober; Ben Myerson, the onetime Miss America; Dr. Jonas Salk, who discovered polio vaccine, and Richard Tucker, the opera singer.

If the list seems unusually varied, well, B'nai B'rith leaders like to stress that the Jews, like every other group coming to this astonishing country, have a rich and varied history.

They fought hard and well on both sides in the Civil War, and right now the Senate has Jacob K. Javits of New York, a Repub-

Southern University Drops Race Barriers

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP)—Furman University has lowered its racial barriers voluntarily, the first white college in South Carolina to do so.

Trustees of the Baptist-supported institution with but one dissenting vote agreed Tuesday that the college henceforth shall "consider applications from all qualified students."

Clemson College and the University of South Carolina have accepted Negro students under federal court orders.

where here when B'nai B'rith began, but they were imported. B'nai B'rith—it means Sons of the Covenant—is native stuff, with offspring in 41 other nations.

On Oct. 12, 1943, 12 Jewish immigrants got together in New York City, chipped in $60 for a widows' and orphans' fund, and B'nai B'rith was on its way.

Now it spends more than $15 million a year on various charities and service programs, has a large eight-story building here in Washington.

One problem facing the early founders: to bring together the 20,000 Jews, emigrating from different lands with different cultures, and strangers to each other. Today B. B. has the same problem. It includes Orthodox and Reform Jews, Yiddishists and Hebraists, Zionists and non-Zionists.

There's a special point, by the way, in this 120th birthday party. That is how long Moses lived, and so it is a symbolic milestone for the Jews.

Yankee Defeat Makes 1963 Historical Year

American history is replete with time-fixing events. The Signing of the Declaration of Independence in 1776, for instance; the Assassination of ABRAHAM LINCOLN in 1865; the Atlantic Flight of LINDBERGH in 1927.

But now we have a new year of reference: The Year the Yankees Lost the World Series in Four Straight Games. That was in 1963, the present generation will one day be telling its grandchildren.

It probably had to happen, and seemingly the Country at large wanted it to—if for no other reason than for reassurance that the Bronx pin-stripers are human just like the rest of us.

Yet the perennial American League and World Champions looked like champs even in defeat, and none of their followers need hang his head over what the fates of baseball decreed.

In 60 World Series to date, the Yankees have appeared in 27, winning 20. In but four previous Series was the title decided in four straight games, and the Yankees dished out in three of them what they just suffered at the hands of Los Angeles.

We congratulate manager WALT ALTON and his stout-hearted Dodgers for their superb exhibition of nerve and all-around play. They well rate the title they have won, and are a championship team of which America can be proud.

Couples Aren't Adept at Marital Squabbles

Now we have a California psychotherapist declaring that married couples do not know how to fight. He proposes a municipal fight center where they can learn how.

The learned one, incidentally he's married, describes marriage generally as a power struggle which erupts in "disorganized arguments."

Those arguments, he adds, should be programmed, so that each partner gains knowledge of the other.

Seems to us that this points up continuous need for the role of the matchmaker, the one who probably was responsible for all the trouble in the first place.

Valachi Investigation a Sorry Exhibition

For our money, the VALACHI melodrama being presented in Washington is an unmitigated bore and one reflecting little credit on Federal personages identified with it.

In the first place, we don't think the all-around mobster who is hammering it up for the edification of a nationwide audience has given out with anything not previously known by any self-respecting metropolitan law-enforcement agency.

And in the second, it is a chilling but known fact that major crime in this and most other countries operates along organized lines.

It may add a cloak-and-dagger aura to the nasty business to label it with something fancy like Cosa Nostra, but that does not alter the fact that it is peopled with a motley collection of just plain criminals of the lowest order to be dealt with by conscientious protectors of the public safety.

We assume that a deal of some sort was cooked up with VALACHI to induce him to "sing," and that suitable reward awaits him. But if he had any thing of importance to reveal, simple logic would have dictated that it be secretly confided to proper authorities and not paraded before the world for the use or misuse of those unentitled to the knowledge.

We recognize that it is the function of the Congress to conduct public hearings into matters affecting the common weal. But that does not relieve legislative bodies of the obligation of responsible selectivity in the areas and personalities they presume to investigate.

Little selectivity was displayed in the VALACHI charade.

The confessed murderer testified that he was once given the "kiss of death," the lethal portent of which failed to materialize. If he's kissed again, we hope that society gets a better break.

First Lady Takes Luxury Holiday

By RUTH MONTGOMERY
WASHINGTON — If a picture is worth 10,000 words, it would be interesting to know whether an equal number of votes could be affected by the pathetic little picture of John F. Kennedy Jr. sobbing bitterly at the airport the other day. If he's kissed again, we hope that society gets a better break.

The President was flying to Arkansas to dedicate a dam and meet a few political fences in the Deep South. Little "John John," as his father calls him, was doubly grief-stricken however, because his mother had also departed two days earlier for a yachting vacation in Greece.

Caroline has her schoolmates, who come each day to classes on the White House third floor, but two-and-a-half-year-old "John John," too young for kindergarten, seemed to think he had only the panda doll that he clutched in his heaving heart.

The First Lady, checking in at the White House for only a few days after a summer in Hammock Point, where she had a baby son, and a visit with her mother in Newport, is now holidaying with her brother-in-law and sister, Prince and Princess Stanislaw Radziwill.

The high spot of her vacation is the trip aboard the gleaming white yacht of Greek shipping magnate Aristotile Onassis.

The yacht "Christina" is named for Onassis' ex-wife, whom he discarded in favor of opera diva Marie Callas.

From all reports, the storied love affair between Callas and Onassis has now flared by several degrees, but Christina (Tina) Onassis subsequently hit the jackpot by marrying the Marquis of Blandford, son of the Duke of Marlborough, who was considered the top-notch of the international jet-set.

The Onassis yacht is probably the largest privately owned ship afloat. Well over 300 feet long, it carries its own canteen, a full complement of crew, and a full complement of the latest in electronic equipment.

Guests are assigned personal maids and stewards, and need merely press a buzzer to secure pedicures, manicures, massages and hair-setting services.

Sir Winston Churchill, since retiring from his top post at No. 10 Downing Street, has made several trips on the Onassis yacht, but has been subjected to British editorial criticism for accepting the hospitality of the Greek shipping magnate who is also chief owner of the famed Monte Carlo gambling casino.

Rumors are current that Onassis is beginning to pull out of Monte Carlo, where his relations with the Prince of Monaco and Princess Grace have been none too warm of late.

PLANNING TO MOVE? — Some of his freighters and tankers are reportedly now flying the panamanian flag and some U. S. officials are concerned that he may be planning to move his gambling operations to the Caribbean area off our Florida coastline.

For this reason, these officials are first-ly questioning the wisdom of our First Lady putting herself under obligation to the fabulously wealthy but somewhat mysterious Onassis.

David Lawrence Says: U. S. Should Help Cuba Victims

WASHINGTON — The United States has an opportunity to help the people of Cuba who have just suffered devastation of their farm lands by a hurricane.

To grant aid at this time would make an indelible impression on the people of Cuba, for they have been repeatedly told by Castro that this country is hostile to them.

The mere fact that the United States government is ready to put aside its formalities in dealing with a country whose government isn't recognized diplomatically would create inside Cuba a feeling that the Cuban nation has not been abandoned by the people of this country.

Sen. George A. Smathers, Democrat of Florida — a state which is caring for many Cuban exiles — is a staunch antagonist of Castro and his government, but nevertheless says in a statement that he favors aid to Cuba through the American Red Cross.

He declares that, if permission were granted by the State Department here, the United States need not deal with Castro or his government.

Because the United States is close by, it can furnish aid promptly. If some such move isn't made, the Soviets might well take advantage of the situation and come to the rescue of the Cubans, if only for propaganda purposes.

GREAT OPPORTUNITY

On the propaganda side, however, the United States has a greater opportunity than does the Soviet Union. For the people of Cuba know that, in the long run, their interests are more closely intertwined with those of this country than with the distant government in Moscow.

There has been, as a matter of fact, very little communication recently between the people of Cuba and the people of the United States.

Except for the help given Cuban exiles since the sending of food and medicines in exchange for the prisoners held for ransom, there has been dependence on radio broadcasts to convey to the Cubans the information that the people of the United States are still interested in their fate.

The opportunity now is presented for the formulation of a comprehensive plan of economic aid and development for the Cuban people. This could be widely publicized so that the residents of the island will come to realize how much better off they would be if they could somehow get rid of Castro.

BROAD CHANCE

It is this a broad chance for an important move on the policy front which could perhaps hasten the day of a revolution to overthrow Castro.

If he shunned America's offer of aid, he might unwittingly even light the fire of a revolution. However distasteful it might be to him, he might be taking less chance by letting the supplies come onto the island than by refusing them.

The question naturally arises whether the export of American wheat to the Soviet people would not come in the same category of humanitarianism even though it is a commercial sale. The United States doesn't need the money from the sale, and the government here could block it.

There is always the possibility however, that the United States could begin to negotiate an agreement with Moscow to end the cold war. The prospect could be held forth of an even larger program

Bob Considine Says: Modern Jetliner Soars Over Old Civilizations

EN ROUTE ROME—There is something God-like about flying. Athens is under us now, and we stir the puzzled dust of Pericles. Soon we'll tickle the instep of the boot that is Italy, rudder a bit to starboard, sweep up the coast, and course down one more of the endless roads to Rome.

The altitude we reached was a heady 60,000 feet and the speed under 100 miles an hour. But it gave me a feeling of mastery CONSIDINE over gravity which, I guess, is the secret dream of all of us.

As these words are written I am on 100 aboard flight 119. The altitude is 31,000 feet, the speed about 550 m.p.h. The view today is not of the Washington Monument.

The view is of Cyprus, a great brown and impersonal blob of land intruding on the serene blue of the Mediterranean.

It seems incredible that a land as barren in appearance and as aloof of the bustle of our stewardesses serving proper wines could have been a place of war and disorder for uncountable centuries.

By the time that last paragraph was finished there was new land far beneath us, hills of brown veronica knocked off the spine of Turkey in some forgotten geological past.

Viet Nam Mess

The New York World-Telegram

It is a brutally mess up state of affairs that Richard Starnes reports from South Viet Nam.

The mess is American, involving a bitter feud among U.S. agencies—which may help explain the vast cost and lack of satisfactory progress. The whole situation must be shocking to Americans who believe the nation is engaged in a selfless crusade to protect democracy in this far-off land.

Starnes has been told that: The Central Intelligence Agency has flatly refused to carry out instructions from Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, frustrating a plan of action from Washington.

Secret agents, or "spooks," from CIA have penetrated every branch of the American community in Saigon. Who are we fighting there anyhow? The Communists, or our own people?

The CIA agents represent a tremendous power and are totally unaccountable to anyone. They interfere in military operations, to the frustration of military officials.

The bitterness of other American agencies in Saigon toward the CIA, Starnes found to be almost unbelievable. On the basis of this last statement alone, there is something terribly wrong with the system. Defense Secretary McNamara has just finished his investigation and is preparing to report to President Kennedy. McNamara is a tough man with a reputation for de-

Soft-Soaping

The New York Journal American

There has been wide criticism of the conduct of the Senate subcommittee hearings at which Joseph Valachi has sung his song of crime. TV listeners have protested against the spectacle of "glorifying" this admitted killer. U.S. Senators have been described as "fawning" on their prize witness.

We agree that the kid-glove treatment of Valachi at public hearings is disgraceful. What kind of moral values are expected to impress themselves on the nation's youth when they can see on the TV screen members of the highest legislative chamber soft-soaping a hardened gangster?

Capitol Hill Brass

The Louisville Courier-Journal

In other circumstances we might be disposed to applaud mildy Senators Proxmire of Wisconsin and Keating of New York. The two legislators — one a Democrat, the other a Republican — have announced their opposition to a proposal to raise the salaries of members of Congress from $22,500 a year to $35,000.

Both men have lavored economy in government expenditures, and they agree, in the

'Moviegoer' Happy Strand Is Reopening

When the Strand closed, I wanted to place a funeral wreath on the door, but a resurrection is taking place. I never thought Pontiac would have a theater which would show films limited to the big cities. Movies are a form of art and I hope will be greeted with enthusiasm and large attendance.

Let us give "cheers" this week to the owners and manager.

Has Remedy for Stubborn Demonstrators

On many newscasts we see policemen picking up and carrying away demonstrators who have laid down. The demonstrator copies the mule in the coal mine. If one extra car of coal was hitched behind, the mule refused to cooperate.

The driver (called mule skinner) applied a black snake whip. Then the mule would lie down in the tracks and mud, but the mule skinner had a remedy. The miners wore a carbon light that had a two or three inch blaze of gas. The mule skinner removed same from his cap and went to the rear of the mule. The mule always got up and the cars went with him.

With human mules this would work. Police must be allowed a tougher treatment. If I were an officer and not allowed to defend myself, they would only throw stones at me once. I wouldn't be on the force the next day.

Power Position Is Solidified by Southern Senators' Seniority

By J. W. DAVIS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., was complaining the other day about the power enjoyed by Southern members of Congress.

As things now stand, seniority is the basic factor in getting good committee assignments and chairmanships.

Southerners hold more than their geographical share because so many of them have been in Congress for so long. Sometimes sympathetic and sometimes opposed to national administration purposes.

The new talk is circulating among a group of self-styled "loyal" House Democrats who say they would not abandon seniority. But they would strike at the seniority of those members who were found to be actively disloyal to the party in presidential elections.

Those named could be removed from committees on which they have long seniority or could be denied further promotion on the committees. This would lessen their chances of becoming chairmen.

An appraisal of what chances this movement has will have to await the 1964 presidential campaign, to see who among the Democratic members might bolt the national ticket. Some Southerners have bolted in the past, and some are restive about 1964.

But the chances of Congress tinkering very much with the claims of seniority are not all strong.

words of Mr. Keating: "If you are going to be for someone, you should include yourself in on that." If consistency is a jewel, Messrs. Proxmire and Keating have bejeweled themselves.

However, it would be immensely interesting to see the salary question put to roll call vote in both Senate and House. The current session of Congress has been chiefly distinguished by evasion of duty. Except for the deliberately debated test-ban treaty, in only one major instance, and this at the last possible minute, has Capitol Hill seemed responsive to the importunities of 1963. Congress acted to avert a threatened national railroad strike.

Is this the record of a group of men who deserve a pay increase of $12,500 a year apiece? We'd like to see how many members have brass enough to say such a reward is deserved.

'Good Lively Fight' Would Help GOP Chances, Says Ike

By JACK BELL

and MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower wants Republicans to battle out policy differences publicly at the 1964 convention—and then pick a presidential candidate best representing majority views proclaimed in a terse party platform.

In an interview with The Associated Press, Eisenhower said he would "like to see a good lively fight" among delegates on the GOP's course. In this way "you could have the feeling of consensus of Republican thought" in the choice of presidential and vice presidential nominees.

Eisenhower, who wants this sort of wide-open policy debate on the convention floor, met with AP reporters in his office on the Gettysburg College campus. Here are other points he made in a far-ranging discussion of political matters.

—He believes he may have been mistaken in interpretation of some of the views of Sen. Barry Goldwater, particularly on repeal of the graduated income tax. But Eisenhower still believes that before the Arizona senator "can be considered a truly serious candidate, he has to do his best to make his views clear"—in presidential primaries and otherwise—on such matters as foreign policy, medical care for the aged, fiscal responsibility, the farm problem and civil rights.

HAS KEPT STILL

—He has "kept very still in expressing a personal preference" for the presidential nomination because "I have no intention of trying to be a kingmaker." But he thinks three or four men are qualified to name are more highly qualified than others to be president.

—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon has told him he was removing himself absolutely from the 1964 presidential nomination contest. "But," says Eisenhower, "I suppose that if suddenly there was a wave of support that threw him again into the race, there would be no question about his capacity to perform the job."

Question: Mr. President, you had quite a bit of experience in the field. What kind of a president do you think Kennedy is making? Gen. Eisenhower: One thing I have always avoided is dealing in personalities. But I will say that in almost every domestic program I see what I consider is a degree of, if not recklessness, at least of carelessness in our budgetary affairs, so that there are few domestic programs that he has advanced, that I could agree with wholly.

HE WAS UNCLEAR

Q. The other day you wrote that you are unclear on precisely what are Sen. Goldwater's present views. You called on him and other Republican presidential possibilities to state their views clearly. On what particular issues are you unclear about Goldwater? Do they include, for example, civil rights?

A. I don't know exactly what he has said about civil rights, but I think he has probably taken a moderate course. I believe he must believe, like all of us, in progress in this field. As a matter of fact, I believe in just as fast progress as we can make, but it must not be so impulsive as to be destructive.

Q. Sen. Goldwater professed himself to be mystified, saying he thought he had made his views on the issues very clear.

A. I may have been mistaken, but I thought at one time he had argued for complete repeal of the graduated income tax. In this I have been told that I was mistaken. But a couple of weeks ago, in an interview, he said he was against it in principle. He thought the only practical thing to do was to keep the graduated tax in proper bounds, useful bounds, that would do the least damage to incentives and our capabilities of accumulating reinvestment capital while we were getting the necessary revenues to run the country.

I accept this attitude, except

He Ate the Evidence

LEICESTER, England (UPI)—Burglar Christopher Hall told a court yesterday that he panicked after robbing a butcher shop and ate the evidence—three frozen chickens. Police traced him away and Hall was fined $42.

that I believe the graduated income tax is, within reason, correct in principle, too. I think unquestionably his view now is one that would be close to mine. But there have been a number of his views in the past that my friends and I, in our talks, have just not known in detail.

I assume that if he comes into a position of candidacy, that he will try to take each of these things—the farm problem, sound fiscal proposals, foreign affairs and whatever—that he will define his approach in terms that a man can say, "I can take this," or, "I would object to this."

Q. Specifically, on civil rights Goldwater has said he is opposed to what is called the public accommodations proposal. I wonder what your view on that particular proposal is?

A. Personally, I would think if we are going to get into this thing as a matter of law, and if you could get it passed, we should base our effort on the 14th and 15th Amendments (to the Constitution).

HAS AUTHORITY

If I had to vote on this thing on the theory that the interstate commerce clause (of the Constitution) would give you the necessary authority to establish such a law, and enact it and enforce it, I would be very doubtful. I can't believe the framers of our Constitution would try to take the interstate commerce clause and make it apply to a little filling station or a hamburger place, so as to regulate what could come in there and who couldn't.

I do believe that this public accommodations problem is probably the most emotional thing that the Negro faces, for the simple reason that he sees it every day.

I would hope that we would have an awful lot of moral education—as much as law—because I can see many ways that this thing probably could settle this thing.

Q. An incumbent president usually is supposed to have the odds on his side. What makes you think that a Republican can beat Kennedy next year? I assume you think that.

A. Yes, I do. I think, of course, you have to have the right combination. You have to clearly establish a clean-cut program of action. This you do in your platform. Then you have to have a candidate who can appeal to the people in the mass with the logic of his position, pointing up where he can do things better than his predecessor, and one who enjoys the respect of the United States.

And along with that, he should have a very fine vice presidential nominee who would do the same things.

I have kept very still in expressing a personal preference in this field. I want to see every possible candidate putting his personal program or personal platform before the public. Then let it be debated.

NOT RUNNING YET

Q. What sort of mechanics could such a potential candidate use? Sen. Goldwater was asked the other day, "Why don't you make your views clear to the president (Eisenhower)?" and he said, "Well, I am not running. So it isn't time for me to say anything."

A. I think he has a right to say that. After all, I think he conducts a column—it isn't in the particular newspaper I take—and then he is making a number of speeches. But they are often off-the-cuff, so they are not studied statements. I think that before he can be considered a truly serious candidate he has to do his best to make his views clear.

Q. Do you have a private preference among the presidential possibilities?

A. No, honestly I don't. I would love to see a very fine and short program or platform come out of the committee and go to the floor of the convention, because if it could be short enough you might get a minority report and there could be a debate right on the floor.

I would like to see a debate on the policies and issues, and on our approach. Then, that being out of the way, I would like to see a good lively fight so you could have the feeling of consensus of Republican thought before making the nominations.

I have said this: There are three or four men in the United States I think are more highly qualified to take over the duties of that office than most others.

Q. Will you name them?

A. No, I had better not. I have no intention of getting people in here and trying to be a kingmaker. I would deplore that on anyone's part and I certainly want to have no part of it.

Q. There has been talk that the Republicans might turn again to Richard Nixon as the strongest man to contend against President Kennedy. Would you like to see Nixon have another chance?

A. I don't think he wants it. He is still a very highly qualified man for the job. He didn't win and that of course, people would remember. But he is very well, you might say, "atmosphered" in the duties and the tribulations and the trials and the tests that come to the top man. And this is very important.

Q. Have you had any conversation with him about this?

A. When he came from California to New York, he called me and said that one reason he was making the change was so he could be free to talk about political questions without, by any manner of means, being considered as a political candidate. He said, "You can't transfer from one state to another like that and be considered." So he said that he was removing himself absolutely.

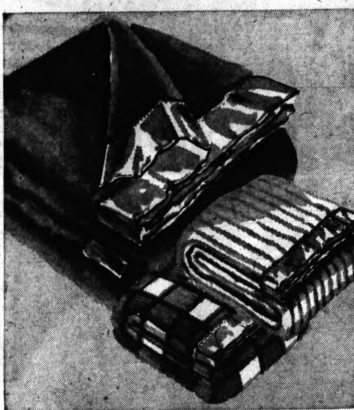

But I suppose if suddenly there was a wave of support and that threw him again into the race, there would be no question about his capacity to perform the job.

Q. In your race in '52 and '56 there had ever been in any four years since 1865, and yet there was almost no increase in the percentage of the vote for me in the Harlem. Although there was nothing done the first two and a half years of this administration, suddenly they have made a big difference by putting in a lot of bills, and of course they are going to get a lot of support. I personally think the Republican party has been more concerned about the individual in the United States, including all the so-called minority groups, than has the other party.

Asia Severely Shaken by Radical Cold War Changes

Editor's Note—Reporter William L. Ryan is a specialist in Communist affairs and the nations react to the Communist effort to gain converts. Now he is back in Asia, talking to people across the political spectrum from extreme right to extreme left. This is the first of several dispatches.

BACKGROUND OF THE NEWS

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

AP Special Correspondent

BANGKOK, Thailand — Asia is severely shaken today by its own conflicts and by radical changes in the cold war picture. These changes are a potent yeast in the ferment which is engulfing the whole vast, over-peopled, and impatient continent.

"This is a most critical moment for Asia," said one highly placed informant. "You might say this whole area now is up for grabs."

It seems probable that a long hard struggle ahead to prevent the whole continent from falling one day under Communist domination.

The most significant development for Asia in the past decade has been the violent quarrel between the Communist parties of the Soviet Union and Red China.

STARTLING RESULTS

This has produced some startling results:

—There is a prospect now that while U.S. and British military aid helps protect India's borders from the Red Chinese threat, Soviet missiles may be used eventually to protect India's cities from the Red Chinese.

—Ally is bickering with ally. While Red China and her supporters in Asia snipe at Moscow, a sulky Pakistan, once called the staunchest foe of communism in Asia, is flirting with the Red Chinese.

—The split had produced political changes in India, and for Asia probably has tarnished the figure of Prime Minister Nehru as a leader of nonaligned nations.

—There are developing signs of shoals ahead for Western treaty alliances.

SPLIT OVERSTRESSED?

Yet there are also clear indications that the Chinese-Soviet split is being overstressed to an extent that can lead to dangerous consequences.

To Indians, the split seems to have become a question as simple as black and white: the Chinese have become all bad—therefore those who seem to oppose the Red Chinese must be the reverse. This includes the Soviet party and its followers.

Even in Southeast Asia circles closely connected with the United States and the West one can detect a superabundance of optimism. This seems based on the notion that the Red Chinese have lost the implicit support of the Russians, should Peking think in terms of embarking on reckless adventures. But Peking always has had the long view of domination in Asia by slow stages, despite its defiance of nuclear "paper tigers."

The more cautious element in Southeast Asia makes allowance for the possibility of events—a showdown crisis in which Moscow may have to stand up and be counted, or a change of leadership either in Peking or Moscow—which could cause the Russians and Chinese to close ranks.

Although the world's attention was diverted by the Cuban missile crisis last October, Red China's attack at that time on India's frontiers was an event of enormous cold war significance.

India turned in virtual panic to the United States for military help. It got aid, under the U.S.-

British Nassau agreement, but this tended to damage Nehru's standing as the Asian leader of nonalignment.

But U.S. response to Indian appeals already had produced violent reaction in Pakistan. That nation is a member of the Central Treaty Organization — CENTO — with Britain, Turkey and Iran, and of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization — SEATO — with Thailand, the Philippines, Australia, New Zealand, Britain, France and the United States.

DIDN'T TAKE HINT

The United States did not take the hint. Possibly the reaction in Pakistan, which constantly expresses fear of the Indians, played a part. The Indians, who claim they have always turned first to the United States, now are looking to Moscow. There is a good chance that Russian ground-to-air missiles eventually will be protecting Indian cities against the Red Chinese.

But U.S. response to Indian appeals already had produced violent reaction in Pakistan. That nation is a member of the Central Treaty Organization — CENTO — with Britain, Turkey and Iran, and of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization — SEATO — with Thailand, the Philippines, Australia, New Zealand, Britain, France and the United States.

PAPER ARRANGEMENT

CENTO may be on its way to becoming little more than a paper arrangement because of Pakistan's bitterness over the U.S.-British aid to India. Pakistan's attitude on SEATO may not be too important one way or the other. But the treaty shows other signs of weakness.

The cracks may become more evident as the months go by. A meeting of SEATO is tentatively scheduled for Manila in the spring. It will be interesting to see if some of its members, including Pakistan, will show up.

The exigencies of Asian politics, the variety of conflicts among Southeast Asian nations themselves, have tended to produce a situation which SEATO members look directly to the United States for assistance in time of danger, rather than to action within the framework of the alliance.

HELP FOR INDIA — An Indian military policeman stands guard at the airfield at Leh, in Ladakh, as a U.S. Air Force C-130 transport rolls across the runway. The plane carries supplies for the Indian military establishment at Leh. Such American aid, given in response to Indian requests at the time of an attack by China, has resulted in a violent reaction from Pakistan.

Good Time to Buy, Say Consumers

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Consumers think it is "a good time to buy," the University of Michigan's survey research center says in forecasting the economy will "continue to show considerable strength" for the next six months or so.

The center released a report yesterday which showed consumer sentiment was found "cautiously optimistic" in any August survey.

"There is a growing feeling that prices are low or reasonable and that good buys are available," the center said, adding: "such attitudes have, of course, favorable implications for demand in the months ahead."

The center reached its conclusions through a nationwide, cross-section sampling of 1,350 adults. It has conducted similar surveys regularly since 1951.

INCOME CONFIRMS

"Plans to buy a new car are as frequent as a year ago," the center said, adding that "a somewhat larger proportion of prospective buyers intend to go ahead with their purchase before the end of the calendar year."

While only slightly more than one-fourth of those interviewed expect Congress will pass a tax cut bill, about two-thirds of those questioned said they thought passage would be "a good idea."

And when asked what most people would do with tax savings, the center reported three out of four replied "they would spend the money."

UAW Orders Rerun of Local Election

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union International Executive Board has ordered a rerun of a June election at UAW Local 400 in which defeated candidates complained of irregularities, spokesmen said yesterday.

The international union will supervise the new balloting, tentatively set for Oct. 24.

In the June election, candidates on a slate headed by Frank Dombroski defeated David Green, incumbent president, and some of his slate.

She Will Remember Turning Point in Life

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Ever after the girl would remember this moment as the turning point in her life.

She was tall and slender and 17 years old. She had green-blue eyes and reddish gold hair, and the freckles on her fair skin shone like tiny diamonds scattered by wastrel elves.

She walked hesitantly into the room where a number of men were drinking cocktails and smoking.

"Say the Lord's Prayer," brusquely commanded producer Gabriel Pascal. "Our Father, who art in heaven," began the girl. For a moment, frightened, she paused, then went on. "Hallowed be Thy name. Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done."

School Millage Okayed

JACKSON (U)—Voters in Jackson County's Western School District voted 600 to 414 yesterday in favor of a 2.3-mill school tax increase for one year to finance construction of a new junior high school and an addition to an elementary school.

School Boycott in Second Day

PLAQUEMINE, La. (UPI)—Student leaders called another rally today to protest the suspension of 35 students who participated in a demonstration at the all-Negro Itherville High School last week.

A near-complete boycott was expected to continue at the school.

A group of Negro parents had what they called an "unsatisfactory" meeting with school officials yesterday, to discuss anti-segregation demands.

Only 50 of the school's 650 students attended a rally yesterday. All but 71 students stayed away from classes. Local officials attributed the small attendance to parent's fears of trouble.

TEMPORARY SUSPENSION

Shreveport school authorities confirmed that Frank Daniels, reportedly a youth leader for the NAACP, was temporarily suspended from Booker T. Washington High School.

Caddo Parish School Supt. C. L. Perry said Daniels was suspended for participating "in certain activities" Sept. 23. A student demonstration at the high school that day was put down by police using tear gas.

Tuesday Musicale Begins 40th Year

By BERNICE ROSENTHAL
Pontiac Tuesday Musicale began its fortieth season Tuesday. Founded in 1923 by Mrs. S. G. Kessell, it has grown from a charter group of 40 women interested in music to over 300 members who are either active or associate. It is a member of the Michigan Federation of Music Clubs.

From the original group are four past presidents: Mrs. Dora Dawson, Mrs. D. B. Hogue, Mrs. C. H. Purdy and Mrs. W. H. Sink. Other charter members still active are Miss Cecile Cloonan, Mrs. Don Derragan, Mrs. H. V. Hancock and Mrs. C. H. Hancock.

Several members have served on the state level of the Michigan Federation: Mrs. W. H. Maybury, Mrs. Sink, Mrs. Hogue, Mrs. M. J. Wager, Mrs. T. E. Wiesner and the current president, Mrs. George H. Putnam, who is also state choral chairman. Eight programs of professional caliber are given each year. In addition, Pontiac Tuesday Musicale supports the Pontiac Symphony as a patron club.

It has been the inspiring force behind young aspiring musicians whom it aids with scholarships and opportunities for performance. Mrs. J. B. Forman is in charge of scholarship auditions open to all young area musicians, and held yearly in February and March.

The local club is also active in the continuing program of "Music in Hospitals" conducted throughout the state and headed locally by Mrs. J. B. Nicolls Jr.

CHORUS

The Tuesday Musicale Chorus of 39 members rehearses weekly under the direction of Mrs. Ferdinand Gaensbauer and performs several times during the year.

Mrs. Curtis Patton coordinates three junior clubs whose members range from fourth grade through high school age.

Tuesday afternoon's program was a fine example of the excellence of its performances. The Stanley Spring Quartet of the University of Michigan performed the Haydn Quartet in C Major, Opus 33, No. 2 and the Beethoven Quartet in D Major, Opus 18, No. 3.

PERFECT RAPPORT

Violinists Gilbert Ross and

Gustave Rosseels, violinist Robert Courte and cellist Jerome Jelinek played the two quartets with perfect rapport. The many variations in dynamics and speed were accomplished as if one person were playing.

Their attacks and phrasing were so sensitively and perfectly drawn that this most difficult of all ensemble playing seemed simple and direct. The difference in style between the gentle and tender Hayden quartet and the more turbulent and taxing Beethoven showed the versatility and the true musicianship of the Stanley String Quartet.

Mrs. Walter Schmitz, West Kennett Road (left), is accompanist for Tuesday Musicale chorus. Mrs. John Napley, Fellen Lane (center), is this year's social

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: NO NAME PLEASE should join a nudist colony and she'd change her mind about it.

Our family joined one three years ago and there is nothing like it. My wife and I are both 29 and our children are 8, 6 and 4. There is much more immorality in view at public beaches, where women puzzled. Quote: "Most girls would give their blue garters for a chance to be married in their great-grandmother's wedding gown."

Where is there a girl who wears, or has, blue garters yet? All the girls I see this time of year wear no stockings at all.

Where do "blue garters" fit into the picture for young girls today?

HAPPY BACHELOR
DEAR HAPPY: When a girl marries, she traditionally wears, "Something old Something new Something borrowed Something blue". The "something blue" is usually a pretty blue garter. (How's that for a snappy answer?)

CONFIDENTIAL TO MOTHER OF A DAUGHTER 15 AND A SON 5: If your letter described your husband accurately, and I have read enough letters to believe it true, you should see a lawyer about separate maintenance.

A man, by law, must support his wife and children. To subject your children (and especially a 5-year-old) to such inhuman treatment is criminal. Are you sure he is all there?

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, care of The Pontiac Press.

Sorority Sees Soviet Slides

Mrs. Robert Bego of Hickory Grove Road was hostess to Xi Beta Theta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority Monday evening, with Mrs. Edward Forsyth assisting.

Colored slides of her five weeks in U. S. Soviet Russia were shown by Mrs. Ira J. Davis Jr., one of a group of 40 teachers who attended a Slavic Language Institute this summer.

Newlyweds Honored at Celebration

The newlywed Larry Eugene Sneeds (Donna Marie Sheffield) will be honored at a reception Sunday afternoon in the Fairgrove Avenue home of her parents, the John L. Sheffield.

Rev. N. W. Miller officiated at the recent family ceremony in Pilgrim Holiness Church.

The bride chose street-length white silk brocade and short veil of illusion attached to a narrow white fur headband. She wore white cymbidium orchids at her shoulder and carried her mother's heirloom lace handkerchief.

Mrs. K. R. Bearden, her sister's honor matron, appeared in turquoise sheer mohair.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Sneed of Mattie Lu Drive, had the bride's brother, Thomas, for best man.

They're looking over scrapbooks showing 40 years of Tuesday Musicale programs. Past presidents Mrs. C. H. Purdy, Mary Day Avenue (left) and Mrs. W. F. Maybury, East Iroquois Road (right) are joined by 1963 president, Mrs. George H. Putnam, West Iroquois Road. Tuesday Musicale was founded in 1923 by Mrs. Purdy's mother, Mrs. S. A. Kessell.

Former City Mayor Speaks on Women's Legal Rights

Philip E. Rowston, attorney and former mayor of Pontiac, spoke on women's legal rights at 10 a.m. yesterday to a small group of women gathered in the Community Room at the Pontiac Mail.

Rowston concentrated on those areas that will inevitably touch all women at some time: wills, property ownership and car titles. He also spoke of divorce rights.

Unless the husband has a will, the wife will receive only one third of the estate plus the first $5,000, according to Rowston.

If there are children, they will receive the other two thirds. If there are none, the two thirds goes to the husband's parents or brothers and sisters.

RECOMMENDS A WILL

This excludes all jointly owned property which is automatically transferred to the wife. Even in cases where all property is jointly owned, Rowston recommends drawing up a will. This is to make sure that all property belonging to the husband is disposed of as he wished.

Rowston recommended that property ownership should, in general, be legally shared by a husband and wife to avoid complications at the death of one.

ONE EXCEPTION

An exception to this, according to Rowston, is title to the family car. He recommended that the car be registered in the name of the person who drives it most so that only that person's assets are liable to seizure in case of damages.

Commenting on legal rights in divorce cases, Rowston said that in Michigan the mother is usually preferred to the father for custody of children. This is more true in cases where the children are under 12 years old than in others.

After he reaches 16, a child may decide which parent he would prefer but it is always up to the court which would be for the best interest of the child.

Rowston was graduated from Olivet College and the Detroit College of Law. He was mayor of Pontiac from 1958 to 1962.

Society of Artists Will Meet Friday

This is the second in a series of programs on elemental design, the first was presented with slides on "Design in Art" by Peter Duenas as the September meeting.

Mr. Radell, a former teacher in continuing education at Oakland University, is now professor in fine arts at Mercy College, Detroit.

OFFICERS NAMED

New officers for the group include Mrs. Herbert S. Swingle, president; Marjorie Halcrow, treasurer; Mrs. Arthur Rays, refreshments; Mrs. Norman Chesel, publicity; and Mrs. Maynard Cotcher, Strand theatre art exhibit chairman.

The Forum (formerly the Strand) has offered the Pontiac Society of Artists permanent exhibit space in the theater.

Her Dad Should Tell It

Q: The parents of my friend are giving a large reception shortly to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary. My boy friend and I had planned to announce our engagement in two months.

His father has suggested making the announcement at this reception. He feels it would be a perfect time to tell the happy news to their relatives and friends.

I would like to know if it would be proper for his father to make the announcement at this time. My parents will also be present at this reception.

A: Your fiancée's father cannot possibly announce your engagement, but if neither you nor your parents have any objection to making the news public at this time, your fiancée's father could announce sometime during the reception that Mr. Jones has something of importance to tell them, and your father could then make the announcement of your engagement.

Q: The mother of a friend of mine passed away two weeks ago. Although this friend lives in this city, I only learned of her mother's passing today.

I am extremely sorry about this and feel sure she must think very much of me. Is there anything I can do now to show my sympathy?

A: Either go to see her or write her a note telling her that you have only just learned of her sad loss and how very sorry you are not to have expressed your sympathy before this.

Finish Party Plans

Plans for tomorrow's card party were finalized at the Tuesday meeting of Blue Star Mothers Chapter 4 in the YMCA.

The card party will start at 8 p.m. at the First Federal Savings and Loan of Oakland, Mrs. Florence McCrae is general chairman.

Yoked to curve in with the dropped-shoulder sleeves is this epaulet coat from the fall collection of Originals. The full-bodied fleece is oyster white.

You Shouldn't Be Afraid of Child's Grief

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Dear Mrs. Lawrence: Our dachshund, the special pet of our girl, 8, was injured by a car. The vet said he had a chance to recover, so we encouraged the child to hope.

Two days ago the vet telephoned to tell us that Fritz had died. We have been unable to break the news to our daughter.

Ever since she was a baby the dog has slept at the foot of her bed. Perhaps we shouldn't have told the vet to dispose of the body...

Answer: You didn't kill your daughter's dog, so why are you so afraid of her grief?

Are you afraid of exposing your helplessness to her? This is usually one reason for trying to shield children against the knowledge of death.

We hide the death in the belief that we are showing the child "love." But usually what we are really trying to hide is our helplessness to alter events.

We fear a child's grief because we read into it reproach of our failure to control death with death not by hiding it from — and restore life to pet or thing, but by helping him come to terms with his helplessness to learn the difference between what she can and can't change is an essential part of your daughter's development.

Violent grief will be, of course, her first reaction to your news. But if you and her father have accepted your inability to change what has happened, it shouldn't frighten you.

You can let her experience her anger at her helplessness until her first protesting grief is transformed into the accepting feeling of sorrow.

Then, when the right time comes, you can propose the idea of another pet she can grow to love.

I hope that I do not sound glib to you. It is so easy to say, "Let this child you love move through the anger of grief to the quietness of sorrow."

It's another thing to do this, to stand by not trying to speed the arrival of comfort so that everyone can be happy again. So I want to remind you that it isn't I alone who puts high value on the freedom to complete the process of mourning.

It was Jesus who said, "Blessed are those that mourn for they shall be comforted" and who added, by implication, "Uncomforted are those who fear to mourn."

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Many thanks to the hundreds of readers who took the time to write me regarding the so-called "average figure size" used in sizing patterns.

The results so far show 97 per cent in favor of making waist and hip allowances LARGER.

Could it be that those of you who are satisfied haven't taken the time to write me? I'll admit, this project sure stirred up a lot of dust, but since we got started, let's finish the job.

We need a much larger representation of home sewers voice opinions in this before any pattern companies will be impressed enough to consider any changes.

Remember, your problems are my problems, so please write a card or letter to Sew Simple, expressing your honest, personal views. Each and every answer is important! Isn't it fun to be able to speak your piece?

Dear Eunice:

"Although I work where we manufacture men's suits, I still don't know what causes the sleeve to 'break' after it is set in."

Mrs. S. S.

Dear Mrs. S. S.:

The "break" you refer to is evident in women's clothes as well as men's and means that you have angry diagonal wrinkle in the upper sleeve. This is usually an individual fitting problem and determined by the way your arm hangs, either curved forward or toward the back.

This break can usually be corrected by bringing the ease in the sleeve up towards the shoulder a little further, in other words, shifting the sleeve up slightly. According to professional tailors, the sleeves need more know-how than any part of the garment, and it is often necessary to spend hours getting the sleeve to hang just right.

It is worth the effort when you achieve perfect results, so be sure to check the sleeves before permanent stitching.

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Mrs. C. Dean Hawley, Tulsa, Okla., is this week's winner of a Tailor Trix pressing board.

To keep pleats in the back of your skirt from ripping out at the end of the stitching, angle your stitching from the end of the pleat to the inside edge of the pleat. This keeps the strain from the exact point of the pleat and should keep it from ripping.

Dear Eunice:

"Last winter I made a satin brocade sheath dress and jacket. I underlined the jacket with silk but not the dress. Now I notice that the darts and seams at the waistline of my dress are all pulled leaving it an awful sight. I would like to make another brocade and need your help first."

Mrs. C. W. R.

Dear Mrs. C. W. R.:

Brocades, taffets, satins and some silk shantangs have a tendency to pull apart at the seams whenever there is the slightest strain. You can avoid a great deal of this by underlining your garment made out of these fabrics. Use a lightweight, but firm fabric, baste it to your garment fabric and then treat as one piece.

It is also a good idea to insert a piece of grosgrain ribbon at the waistline of tightly fitted dresses. Catch it to all seams and darts and make it just a little tighter than the dress. You should place a hook and eye on each end of the grosgrain; fasten before closing the zipper. It will relieve much of the strain.

Wash Then Polish

After applying silver polish to silverware, always wash the pieces in hot suds, then rinse and dry.

Survey of Teen-Agers Gives Picture

Parents Reluctant to Tell Children About Sex

By The Gilbert Youth Service
For the past few years, parents have been prodded at every turn to see to it that their children get sound information about sex.

And what has been the result of these attempts to remove the taboo from frank discussions of sex?

About 94 per cent of the nearly 900 teen-agers polled in our latest nationwide survey consider themselves well informed on fundamentals of sex education.

But their comments on the sources from which they received their information reveal that parents still shy away from answering questions about sex.

Nearly three-fourths of the girls say they got most of their information from their parents.

But a large proportion must have also given credit to other sources, for 37 per cent say the information came from girl-friends and 28 per cent say it came from books.

MORE JAMMED

Communication between parents and boys seems to be more jammed. Only 36 per cent of the boys claim their parents told them the facts of life.

About 52 per cent said their knowledge was gleaned from discussions with other boys, and 27 per cent went to books to find out.

Apparently teachers are reluctant to become involved in any controversy with parents over whose duty it is to spread sex education, for only 5 per cent of the girls and boys say teachers were their chief sources of such information.

Some 50 per cent of the girls and more than four-fifths of the boys believe they were told the facts of life soon enough.

Just how early should this education begin? According to the teen-agers, the best age is 19 years, although age 12 was a close second choice. Third place went to age 11.

While the young people feel they were given the knowledge soon enough, about 15 per cent do not feel sex was explained well enough.

MYSTERIOUS

A 15-year-old Indianapolis boy explains, "It was mysterious and left me with a feeling of shame and guilt."

"My mother was very vague," declares a 16-year-old girl from Columbus, Ohio.

One 17-year-old Arlington, Va., boy says "I could have been told in a more adult way. I got only childish rubbish."

And a 15-year-old girl from Manitoba says "My parents found out for themselves and felt I had to, too."

There has been controversy over whether or not sex education belongs in school curriculums.

Advocates feel it would benefit youngsters who are not given this information at home and supplement the knowledge given them by their parents.

Those opposing it generally feel that schools should not usurp the duty of the home and church.

More than half of the girls in this survey and nearly one-third of the boys say their schools do provide sex education courses.

There are, however, some criticisms of the manner in which schools handle it.

A 17-year-old girl from Milwaukee keeps, for instance, "The personal hygiene course is supposed to cover sex."

It is covered in boys' classes, but in girls' classes little or nothing is said. The teacher seems to be scared to take up the subject.

But three-fifths of the teen-agers in schools where these classes are not provided wish their schools would take on the responsibility.

As an Indianapolis girl says, "There are many who would like to know more about sex. Those who do not wish to learn would not have to take the course."

The chief complaint teen-agers make about the way in which matters of sex are discussed is that people don't talk about it frankly.

Banish Dullness at PTA Meetings

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (UPI) — Anybody who has sat squirming and bored through a long, dull meeting of any sort will know how members of the Oak School PTA felt when they decided to be different.

They decided that, in the first place, the faithful parents and teachers who always showed up shouldn't have to suffer for their fidelity. And, in the second place, activities of the Parent-Teacher Association were so important that something should be done to attract the not-so-faithful.

So, under the leadership of the new past president Wallace Cumteen, the Oak School PTA came up with this program:

—No more droning recitations of minutes and financial reports; pass them out in mimeograph form.

—Maintain a strict time limit; begin promptly at 8 p.m. and end at 9:15.

—Seat the parents at cafeteria tables equipped with coffee and cookies; no more rows of straight-backed chairs.

—Encourage attendance by setting up a pool of teen-agers available for paid babysitting.

—Most important of all, make the meetings genuinely interesting; no more lengthy discussions of whether the treasury can support a new television set for the third grade.

Cumteen said 900 persons turned out at one meeting that featured a speech by state Superintendent of Public Instruction Max Rafferty. It was the largest PTA turnout in the history of Santa Clara County.

Teach Children Careful Spending Habits

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

In this complicated era of juggling the dollar in order to have a dime, parents must teach their young the art of money management. Thrift is more than just hanging onto a dollar without a plan—it's spending carefully through good management that proves profitable.

MARY FEELEY

The ideal concept is to try and make money provide what you want today and tomorrow.

Two mothers write today to ask how they can put across the idea of money management to their children while the time is ripe:

Dear Miss Feeley:

My 15-year-old son has a paper route and makes between $30 and $40 a month. He pays his sister 50 cents each month to make out his receipts. And he's paying $8.17 a month on his TV. The balance he's "fluffing off!"

He has a savings account, but he doesn't contribute to it monthly. Last year he bought most of his clothes; however, he has bought very little of his wearing apparel this year. We pay for his toiletries, his hair cuts, and give him milk money each day (he takes his lunch to school).

So you see he has more than enough spending money. He doesn't have a girl so he's spending his money on himself, mostly on in between meal snacks.

I think he should be learning now how to live within his income. I would appreciate your recommending a budget for him.

Mrs. A.M.C., San Diego
Dear Mrs. C.:
Your son is obviously suffering from boredom—brought on by repetition. Doing the same things with his money month after month has become tedious. Saving and buying his own clothes probably were stimulating and exciting at first. But now the kick has worn off.

In a 15-year-old this attitude is as natural as breathing. So wouldn't be too concerned if were you. You can help him make a fresh start by taking an amiable and understanding approach.

Don't insist on an inflexible budget for the moment. In the first place, collections from his paper route are probably not exactly even every month. So asking him to stick to rigid figures that account for every penny won't be realistic and will only frustrate him. Instead, set a few simple rules and try to accomplish the rest with philosophy.

First he should pay his obligations—the TV payments and his sister's "wages." He should then pay for his hair cuts and, with your guidance, arrive at a sum to contribute toward his clothing every pay day. His third obligation should be a steady amount deposited in savings.

This might be a good time to suggest two savings accounts—one to remain in the bank to earn interest for later use, the other to buy something important he wants within the foreseeable future—say, a few months from now.

It's always easier to save when the goal is definite. So discuss his chief wants and help him visualize the object he's saving for with this second "spendable" savings account.

While buying the TV on time is giving him a lot of pleasure, you might point out for the future that he's paying more than he will have to pay next time for a similar purchase—because he will have saved for it and thereby not be putting him money into interest payments.

As for "fluffing off" some pocket money—allow for that as a necessary item, too. Just try to persuade him to "fluff" less. You can hardly argue that spending his money on a girl is more justifiable than eating it up. It will take some other girl to sell him on that idea!

(You may obtain Mary Feeley's budget suggestion leaflet by writing her in care of The Pontiac Press, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped, long envelope.)

Area Ponds, Lakes Receive 'Treatment'

Four ponds and two lakes in Oakland County have been chemically treated this fall as part of the Conservation Department's trout rehabilitation project.

Fenton, Davisburg, Bald Mountain and Lower Pettibone trout ponds and Algeo and Hartwig Lakes will be restocked with legal trout and fingerlings. The treatment eliminated overpopulation by underized pan and trash fish.

Also treated were Twin, Cedar and Duperow lakes in the Lapeer state game area. Long Lake near Lapeer received a "thinning out" chemical dosage.

Mormon Vault Will Safeguard Genealogical Records

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—High on a hillside of dollars worth of its genealogical records.

Called the Little Cottonwood project (after the canyon where it is located), the network of tunnels and vaults cost the church more than $1.5 million. More

It is there that the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day it should be completed this year. The tunnels include three 600-foot-long caverns designed to safeguard the millions have been lined with 1½ feet of concrete and heavy corrugated steel. Three large bank vault doors have been installed for added security. The three main passages will be intersected by three others more than 400 feet long.

500 MILLION PAGES

Destined for storage in the vaults at controlled temperatures and humidity are more than 500 million microfilm pages of genealogical records.

The church places considerable weight on the eternal nature of the family relationship. If a Mormon fully obeys the teachings of his faith, he may enter into a marriage covenant that not only lasts until "death do us part," but continues on "for time and eternity."

These eternal marriage ceremonies are performed in the temples of the church, of which there are now 12, with another under construction in Oakland, Calif.

Worthy members of the church are permitted to enter the temples, for marriages and other sacred ordinances.

Mormon doctrine states that members' ancestors who died before the religion was revealed in the early 1800s may be baptized by proxy as the first step in their acceptance into the faith. But the living must gather the necessary vital statistics concerning their kin. Thus, the emphasis on gene-logical research and record keeping.

In recent years, the church's record-gathering chore has been facilitated through a cooperating program with thousands of archivists and priests in foreign countries.

The Mormons maintain a number of microfilming teams abroad, as well as in the United States.

These teams, where permitted, search records or any lead that could uncover information births, marriages, or deaths. The records are microfilmed and the film shipped to Salt Lake City.

Most archivists and priests are happy to cooperate when the microfilming crews promise them free microfilm, copies of their records, pointing out that books can disintegrate, while microfilm is of a much more permanent nature.

Because of the zeal of thousands of dedicated church workers, the church genealogical library now includes more than 1.7 million microfilmed volumes. More than 500 million pages have been microfilmed.

'NOTHING SECRET'

N. Eldon Tanner, president of the church's genealogical society, says there is nothing secret about the records. "The public is welcome to use all of our facilities," he declares, adding that thousands of non-Mormons annually come to the genealogical society headquarters in Salt Lake City for information.

The society maintains 200 microfilm reading machines for public use, and plans to add 400 more. The records come from Sweden, Denmark, Great Britain, the Netherlands, Germany, Finland, Mexico, Belgium, France, Norway, Canada, Australia, and other countries.

The church also has purchased copies of U.S. census records of most states from 1790 to 1890. These have been microfilmed, and have 67,000 printed family histories, local histories, and other publications associated with genealogy.

Commission Okays Loan for Renewal Operation

The City Commission granted money would be available for use in six months. Another estimated $35,000 in interest and processing costs would be borne by the city.

The R20 urban renewal budget is down to $15,000 with no other means left to add to the coffers before a new project plan, with expanded budget, can be okayed by federal urban renewal agencies next March.

City Finance Director Marvin M. Alward said he would file applications with the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission immediately.

He said he hoped for approval to sell the loan note within two weeks, which could mean the city.

If the plan isn't okayed, the city would have to repay the loan note from 1964 capital improvement funds.

Voting against the loan last night were Commissioners Winford E. Bottom and Milton R. Henry.

FEDERAL FUNDS
The $409,000 will be repaid by federal urban renewal funds as soon as the new R20 plan and budget are approved. Approval is estimated to take from four to came up for preliminary approval two weeks ago.

ASKS BREAKDOWN
Again last night, Bottom said he had asked for an itemized breakdown of urban renewal costs and never got one.

"I can't go along with this loan until I know just where we stand financially," he said.

Charles H. Harmon voted for the measure but requested an annual audit and budget report from urban renewal, "just like we get from other city departments."

Parole Board to Consider Lifers' Release

LANSING (AP)—The State Parole Board will hold public hearings Friday at Lansing to consider the release pleas of four life-term prisoners.

Serving terms for first-degree murder are George Blank, sentenced from Gratiot County in 1936 for the slaying of his wife, and Alvin Tomala, sentenced from Detroit in 1946 for killing a policeman during a robbery attempt.

Both must have their sentences commuted by Gov. George Romney to be eligible for release. Also considered will be the cases of Leo Lisa, found guilty of second degree murder in Detroit in 1951 in the slaying of his 22-month-old son, and Otto Deeds, sentenced to a life term from Barry County in 1936 under provisions of the Habitual Criminal Act.

The parole board can act independently of the governor to commute the life sentences in the latter two cases.

The pulse rate of newborn infants ranges from 130 to 140 beats per minute.

Boy Writes to Santa in Washington

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — You can make of this what you choose, but the first Santa Claus letter to come to my attention this year struck me as being symbolic of the times.

WEST

It was written by young James Daubney of Uxbridge, Mass., and Jimmy apparently does not believe all that jass about Santa living at the North Pole.

At any rate, he mailed his letter to Washington D.C. which figures.

Even the kids must know by now when you want something, Washington is the place to write.

Furthermore, the letter was delivered to a Congressman, which also figures.

Old St. Nick may be noted for his benevolence, but he never came with anything that could touch the recent military pay bill passed by Congress. And when did Santa ever leave a tax cut in anyone's stocking?

In this case, however, the routing of the letter was not so much of a Freudian slip as a matter of postal myopia.

The letter was addressed to "Santa Clause," and the post office, with typical efficiency, delivered it to the office of Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-Calif.

USE ZIP CODE

A mistake like that would not have happened if Jimmy had used Santa's ZIP Code number.

There is no doubt, however, that Jimmy did the right thing in sending the letter to Washington. It would take a Congressional appropriation to pay for all of the things he wants for Christmas.

If the items on his list were stacked end to end, we wouldn't need the Apollo space program to reach the moon.

As an indication of what the rest of us parents will be up against this year, Jimmie's early bird gift list is itemized below. I have used his spelling, mainly because I can't spell very well either.

LIST TO SANTA

• First page — "Smoke gun, cement mixer, boat trailer truck, truck driver, horse trailer, truck & trailer, fire engine, bulldozer, Indian set, cow set, airplanes, Popie sailer punching bag, pup tent, train set."

• Second page — "New clock, U.S. space team, sky diver, cargo plane, Mr. Machine, Mr. Mercury, robot comando, King Zor, farm set, blue and gray army set, combat set, big bruist, exploding tank."

• Third page — "Gas station, car, truck, car, sub, plane, racing car set."

This makes me glad that some of my sons are girls.

Mother of Red Prisoner on Third Visit

HONOLULU (AP) — "I would be exporter in Shanghai, was given very happy to have Hugh come a life sentence in 1951. home with me," said the mother of Hugh Redmond when she sends him dried fruit each month. This Honolulu on Tuesday for her third trip to see him was financed by visit to her son—who has been in a Red Chinese prison for the last 12½ years.

Redmond was convicted of espionage. Mrs. Redmond, 66, Yonkers, N.Y., has no illusions prior to this visit with her 43-year-old son, today they had approved a new however. "I have no idea he'll get out of false teeth for a Scotsman who swallowed his old ones while Redmond, who was an import-sleeping.

Mother Masquerades to Spy on Instructor

ATHENS (AP) — A 35-year-old mother, who said she posed undetected as her 17-year-old daughter to spy on a teacher during class, demanded yesterday that the teacher be fired for incompetence.

Mrs. Roland Conine, a mother of four, said she put on bobby sox, tied her hair in a pony tail and attended Miss Dessa Hudson's business class Monday in place of her daughter, Sharon.

She said she was convinced that Miss Hudson, a teacher of 32 years experience, "doesn't know how to reach a group, is scatterbrained and just isn't capable as a teacher."

Mrs. Conine attended the class, she said, to find out whether things were as bad as my children and other children said they were.

GRUDGE ISSUE?
School Supt. K. E. Lautzenheyer charged Mrs. Conine's competence to judge a teacher. He said it appeared there was a "deliberate attempt to publicly chastise a teacher against whom there is a grudge."

Although Mrs. Conine said she had no "grudge against Miss Hudson," Lautzenheyer said he understood Miss Hudson had expelled a boyfriend of one of the Conine girls for misconduct.

Sharon, her twin, Cheryl, and another sister, Donna, 16, all are enrolled in one of Miss Hudson's classes, which include bookkeeping and typing.

"If Mrs. Conine felt that Miss Hudson was not doing a good job, she should have contacted me or another of Miss Hudson's superiors," Lautzenheyer said.

NO SATISFACTION
Mrs. Conine said her daughters had complained to the high school principal last Friday "but got nowhere."

At a regular Athens Board of Education meeting Monday night, Mrs. Conine described her ruse and demanded an investigation of Miss Hudson's handling of classes.

Lautzenheyer said it was "unfortunate" that Miss Hudson didn't detect the pose.

Complaints from Mrs. Conine and other parents would be considered in closed meetings, Lautzenheyer said.

Unless the meetings turn up "good reason to alter my position," he added, Miss Hudson will continue in her job.

Romney in Last Tax Meetings, Facing Uncertain Legislature

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney prepared today for his last round of public meetings on tax reform, carrying fresh reminders that his sources of support in the legislature are still uncertain.

But changes in the governor's original 12-point program appeared more certain than ever following a day of heavy behind-the-scenes activity in which Romney and lawmakers took serious soundings of each other's position.

From House Speaker Allison Green, R-Kingston, Romney heard again that his plan — or any fiscal reform program based on a state income tax — could not pass the House on Republican votes alone.

Green said he had advised Romney of this several times earlier and added that a caucus of House GOP members Tuesday "gave me no reason to change my mind."

NO PLEDGES

While Green was reissuing his warning, Democratic legislative leaders met with Romney and informed him that they will not pledge any support for his program until they see the form in which the bills emerge from the taxation committee.

Rep. Joseph Kowalski and Sen. Charles Blundy, Detroit Democrats who lead their party in House and Senate, said they also told the governor that the tax reform bills must be "tied together" in a package.

"We'd decide whether the package amounted to true fiscal reform and we would not be willing to negotiate on individual bills," said Kowalski.

Both lawmakers emphasized, however, that they would not stand in the way of the Romney bills — for which the Democratic party has voiced general support — getting to the floor.

STRATEGY MEETING

All of this followed the theme laid down by Democratic party leaders in a strategy meeting Monday night in nearby Okemos.

Romney had called Kowalski and Blundy into yesterday's meeting to discuss their statements that Democrats would insist on removal of the "lien clause" from the senior citizens' property tax deferral, adequate provisions for Detroit and Wayne County, increased revenue for schools.

The Democratic leaders said their talk with Romney did not cover these topics, however.

serves as the governor's chief legislative spokesman, said proposed changes to furnish more money for Detroit and Wayne County already are being drawn up by the Romney staff.

IMMEDIATE OFFING

Thayer indicated that amendments in other phases of the program also may be in the immediate offing — among them possible elimination of the citizenship provision of the senior citizens' deferral plan, but not the lien clause.

The House and Senate Taxation Committee held a public hearing last night and had another one scheduled for tonight after the legislature goes into another recess, its third since the special session began Sept. 11.

Romney's public hearings today were set for Lansing, Jackson and Battle Creek.

Lawmakers will return Monday or Tuesday and there are no more recesses expected during the rest of the session.

OTHER HEARINGS

In additional hearings today, the Senate committee was to hear testimony from representatives of the State Revenue Department and the State Tax Commission.

Blundy said the main purpose of these meetings will be to determine whether there are any "mechanical difficulties" likely in administering the tax program if it became law.

While the committees continued their work, Romney was scheduled to hold a public meeting on tax reform in Lansing this morning and then move on to Jackson and Battle Creek to wind up his tour.

IN THE HOPPER

As the legislature reached the deadline for introduction of bills by individual members, some 190 bills were in the hopper — 87 in taxes.

the House and 63 in the Senate. Many, however, were duplicates.

Among the bills introduced ahead of the deadline were four by Green, one of them his previously announced alternative to Romney's proposal for a 20 per cent credit on school property taxes.

U. S. Aid Eyed on State Bridge

Legislators to Study Big Mac Span Debt

LANSING (AP) — A five-senator committee, with a $1,000 budget will investigate whether the U.S. Government can pay off 80 per cent of the $100 million owed on the Mackinac Bridge.

The Senate yesterday adopted without dissent a resolution by Sens. John Bowman, D-Roseville, and Thomas Schwelbert, R-Petoskey, creating the committee which is to report to the 1964 legislature.

Their resolution was changed to delete references to the committee being toll-free if it becomes part of the interstate highway system.

Sen. John Fitzgerald, R-Grand Ledge, a member of the committee which amended the resolution, said "Some token charge to at least cover maintenance of the bridge probably always will have to be charged."

The span, opened in 1957, was financed by public sale of $100 million in bonds falling due in 1983. Toll charges, which are applied to this debt, now run $3.75 one way for a motorist and as high as $28 round trip for a truck.

The bridge is the only link in Michigan for vehicles between the Upper and Lower Peninsulas.

Creation of the committee dovetails with pending federal legislation under which the U.S. government would "buy" the bridge, paying 80 per cent of the indebtedness with Michigan paying 20 per cent.

Bowman said since the bridge is an integral part of highway I-75, for which the government paid 80 per cent to Michigan's 10 per cent. "It is reasonable that the federal government should participate in the bridge."

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — An Ecorse man and three other Negroes were arrested for disturbing the peace Thursday after trying unsuccessfully to register at a motel.
Freed on $102 bond each were Charles Cooke Jr., 34, of Ecorse; rock 'n' roll singer Sam Cooke; Cooke's wife, Barbara, 28, of Los Angeles; and Senior Roy Craine, 52, of Chicago.
Police said Sam Cooke honked

Pontiac Pastors Hit 'Art' Films

Ask City to Censor Forum's Bill of Fare

Pontiac pastors and the Salvation Army raised their voices in union last night in opposition to the arrival of "adult" or "art" films to Pontiac.
The Salvation Army advisory board and the Greater Pontiac Evangelical Ministers' Fellowship don't like the bill of fare proposed by the Forum Theater, 12 N. Saginaw, formerly the Strand Theater.
They asked the City Commission to do something about it. Commissioners will discuss the situation at their next informal meeting Mayor Robert A. Landry promised.

The Forum is slated to open Friday. Its premiere film will be Worse Than the Devil.
WORSER MORALS

In a letter to commissioners, the fellowship, representing 65 Pontiac area pastors, said it was of the opinion that "foreign or adult films . . . will only result in the worsening of the moral and spiritual life in Pontiac."

The pastors suggested "It is well within the province of the commission to appoint a board of censors . . . or adopt other action" designed to limit the age of persons admitted to the theater.

According to City Attorney William A. Ewart, "censorship is a difficult thing to justify on a local level."
He pointed to recent U.S. Supreme Court rulings which "have consistently gone against attempts at local censorship."

Ewart explained that the most effective censorship boards operated on a national level or were set up within the motion picture industry.

Foreign films are screened by censors before they can be shown in the United States, he added.

East Germans Cut Out; Seek Asylum in West

ESCHWEGE, Germany (UPI)—A welder and a mechanic armed with wire-cutters hacked their way through two Communist barbed wire fences in darkness to flee to the west yesterday. West German customs officials announced.
Both asked for asylum. The 20-year-old welder said he fled to avoid being drafted into the East German army. The 21-year-old mechanic said he wanted to study machine building in the west.

This Apple Pie Really Smooth

Useful Rice Always in Season

Pontiac Press Food Editor
When did you last serve rice? This useful cereal can take the place of bread or potatoes, or be the main ingredient of a casserole.

You can buy rice that needs long cooking; rice that you can prepare in five minutes; rice flavored with herbs or curry; brown rice.

Cooked rice may be used in a number of dishes. Fold one-half to one cup into a cup of whipped cream; add one-half cup miniature marshmallows and 1 can drained crushed pineapple. Let stand at least 4 hours; overnight is better.

Just a little bit of cooked rice may be folded into pancake or waffle batter.

At this time of year stuffed peppers make a good main dish. Try this different rice stuffing. Serve the baked peppers with your favorite cheese sauce.

Rice Stuffed Peppers
4 medium green peppers
6 slices bacon
2 tablespoons bacon drippings
2 cups cooked rice
1/2 cup chopped green onion, including tops
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon thyme

Wash peppers; cut off tops and remove seeds. Cook peppers in small amount of boiling, salted water for 5 minutes. Drain. Fill peppers with rice stuffing and bake at 400 degrees for 15 minutes. Serve with cheese sauce.

To prepare stuffing, fry bacon until crisp; drain and crumble. Cook rice and onion in bacon drippings until drippings are absorbed. Add salt, pepper, and thyme. Add bacon and mix well. A main dish salad can be made with rice; this is fine Friday fare.

Salad Espagnole
1 1/2 cups hot cooked rice
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup chopped rice olives
1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire
1/4 cup diced green pepper
1/4 cup diced red sweet pepper or pimiento

Combine rice, butter, salt, pepper, chopped rice olives, and Worcestershire; mix lightly. Chill thoroughly. Add green and red pepper; mix lightly.

Arrange lettuce on individual salad plates. Place a tomato slice on each and top with rice mixture. Garnish with pitted olives. Serve with French dressing.

Makes 5 or 6 servings.
Precooked rice tastes better with some additional flavoring. How about a few almonds?

Almond Rice
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 package (5 oz.) precooked rice
1 1/2 cups water
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sliced or slivered almonds

Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in heavy sauce pan. Add rice; brown slightly over moderate heat, stirring constantly. Add water; bring to boil. Cover, remove from heat and let stand 5 minutes.

Brown almonds in remaining butter or margarine. Stir into rice just before serving. Makes 4 servings.

Cottage cheese matches meat, sauce for omelet, in protein. It provides more calcium, but not as much iron, as meat.

Lard as Shortening
Has Advantages
Lard is a shortening with no shortening. It makes tender cakes and cookies, flaky biscuits and pie crusts and superior fried foods. What's more, it's the most economical shortening of its kind on the market, reports the American Meat Institute.

Lard is especially famous for the quality of pie crusts it produces. Pastry made with lard not only is tender and flaky, but also has a nut-like flavor which many cooks prefer.

A translation into Persian of Dante's "Divine Comedy," published only four years ago, has gone into its fourth printing. The translation was done by Dr. Shojeddin Shafra, cultural counselor to the Iranian court.

"Apple Cheese Pie"
1 1/2 cups fine saltine cracker crumbs
2 tablespoons sugar
2 teaspoons cinnamon
6 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
2 eggs
2 cups creamed cottage cheese, sieved (1 pound)
1 cup heavy cream
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 8 1/2-oz. can apple sauce (about 1 cup)
1 cup chopped pecans
Few whole pecans, optional

Roll crackers into fine crumbs between two sheets of waxed paper. Combine with 2 tablespoons sugar, cinnamon and butter. Press mixture firmly over bottom and sides of 10-inch pie plate; set aside.

Add eggs, one at a time, to cheese, beating well after each. Stir in 1/2 cup cream, 1/2 cup sugar mixed with flour and lemon rind. Blend in apple sauce and chopped pecans. Pour into crumb lined plate.

Bake in slow oven, 325 degrees, about 60 minutes or until firm. Cool. Chill until needed. When ready to serve, whip remaining 1/2 cup of cream and spread over top. Garnish with a few whole pecans, if desired. Yield: 10 servings.

If available, the same amount of ricotta cheese may be substituted and no sieving is necessary.

APPLE CHEESE PIE — The crust is made of saltine crackers; the filling has both cottage cheese and applesauce in it. Resulting texture is much like cheese cake. Tasters label it delicious.

It's Decaffeinated Coffee for Dessert, Demitasse

Lives there a hostess who beverage is made with decaffeinated coffee flavored with orange and just a dash of rum. It can be topped with whipped cream and a few slivers of orange rind... or, if you prefer, with ground cinnamon, or shaved unsweetened chocolate.

Sometimes you might try serving all three of these garnishes for the whipped cream topping so that your guests can take their choice.

For double coffee pleasure, pre-coffee Coffee Caricoa with a luscious Mousse made with decaffeinated coffee plus another tropical favorite—coconut.

Fruit Stuffed Ribs

Like apple or prune stuffing with roast duck? It's good, too, when placed between two sides of pork spareribs that are to be baked. Shewer the sides of the spareribs together so the stuffing will stay in place.

Coffee Caricoa

2 oranges, peeled
1/2 cup instant decaffeinated coffee
1/4 cup granulated sugar
4 cups boiling water
1/4 cup rum
1/2 cup sweetened whipped cream

Remove all white membrane from oranges, cut into 1/4-inch thick slices. Place in a large heat-proof bowl with the instant coffee and sugar. Stir in boiling water. Let stand 30 minutes.

Strain coffee into saucepan. Heat just to boiling. Remove from heat and stir in rum. Serve in demitasse cups topped with whipped cream.

If desired, garnish with slivers of orange rind, shaved chocolate, or cinnamon. Makes 9 servings, 4 ounces each.

Coconut Coffee Mousse

2-3 cup granulated sugar
2 tablespoons instant decaffeinated coffee
1 envelope (1 tablespoon) unflavored gelatin

1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup milk, scalded
1/4 cup cold water
2 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
2 cups heavy cream
1 tablespoon butter
1 cup flaked coconut
Dash of salt

Mix together sugar, instant coffee, gelatin and salt; add milk and stir until dissolved. Then stir in water. Chill until slightly thickened. Add vanilla to cream; whip until the cream will form soft peaks, then fold into gelatin mixture. Spoon into freezing trays or shallow pan.

Keeps It Crisp-Tender

You can pan a pound of shredded green cabbage in as little as two tablespoons of fat. If you haven't a dome-type cover on the skillet in which you are pan-frying the cabbage, you may have to add a couple of tablespoons of water.

Freeze at coldest temperature until mixture is frozen about 1 inch from edge but is still soft in center.

Meanwhile, melt butter in skillet. Add coconut and salt; saute coconut until delicately browned.

Spoon partly frozen gelatin mixture into bowl. Beat with rotary beater until fluffy and smooth. Fold in coconut. Return to freezing trays and freeze until firm—3 to 4 hours. Makes about 1 1/2 quarts.

½ cup shredded carrot

2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon white pepper
½ cup real mayonnaise
1 tablespoon tarragon vinegar
1 teaspoon celery seed
Salted greens
Green pepper rings

Combine cabbage, green pepper, carrot, sugar, salt and pepper. Blend real mayonnaise, vinegar and celery seed. Add to cabbage mixture; toss until well mixed.

Line salad bowl with greens. Fill with cole slaw. Garnish with green pepper rings. Makes 6 servings.

1 cup dark brown sugar, firmly packed
Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt into a mixing bowl. With pastry blender, cut in ½ cup, firm butter. Beat egg slightly; add milk and vanilla and beat to combine; stir into flour mixture.

On prepared pastry cloth, roll out dough thin into a rectangle. Spread with ½ cup soft butter; sprinkle with brown sugar. Roll up; cut into 12 slices. Place each slice in a buttered muffin pan.

Potato Pancakes Made Rich With Lots of Eggs

A neighbor showed us how to prepare this old favorite as his family did in Pennsylvania.

Alan Matlock's Potato Pancakes

6 large potatoes
1 medium onion, grated
6 eggs
½ cup flour
Salt to taste

Applesauce and sour cream

Pare potatoes; grate on medium shredder; there should be about 1 quart. Put one-quarter of the potatoes at a time in a cloth (not cheesecloth) and wring dry; discard liquid. Using a fork, mix potatoes with grated onion, eggs, flour and salt to taste.

Drop heaping tablespoons of the mixture into hot shallow fat; flatten with back of spoon; fry until well browned on both sides and potatoes are cooked. Stir mixture each time before taking up to fry.

Drain on paper toweling or brown paper. Makes about 2 dozen. Serve with applesauce and sour cream.

On Unwelcome Visit

Press Agent Lectures on Image-Building

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Image—that's my lecture for today," said Clyde Mack, the cynical flock. The unemployed press agent was making an other unwelcome visit to my desk. "Look, I've got a deadline," I insisted.

"Take Elizabeth Taylor," he said. I contemplated the notion. "Heaven knows her image hasn't been the greatest," Mack said, "what with playing musical husbands, and all. The smartest thing she could have done was that tour of London on television." "How so," I foolishly asked. "Everybody loves a tour director. Did they throw stones at Burton Holmes and James A. FitzPatrick? Not on your life. When the sun dipped into the west and we had to say a fond farewell to Sarawak, everyone felt warm all over. Now consider Miss Taylor's husband." "Which one?" "BIG BOOST" "Eddie Fisher, of course. His image got a big boost when he sang the national anthem at the World Series last Sunday. You've got to like a guy who sings 'Oh say can you see' at the World Series—unless you're a Yankee fan, maybe."

"Okay, you've made your point." "I'm not finished. Another case in point: Frank Sinatra." "What about Frank Sinatra?" "He got in trouble because he allegedly put up Sam Giancana, the Chicago mobster, at his Lake Tahoe inn. So a few days later Sinatra is announced as executive assistant to Jack Warner at Warner Brothers. That will help improve his image."

"SYMPATHY VOTE" "How do you figure?" "An actor as Warner's assistant? He's bound to get the sympathy vote."

"They gotta learn about image-making in television, though." Mack continued. "Like the Judy Garland Show. They keep letting the comic knock her for being late, a big spender and a 'little old lady.' Bad image."

"How so? It shows she can laugh at herself." "You're wrong, as usual, Garland is a legend. You can't destroy a legend; people resent it. And if you call her a 'little old lady,' what does that make the millions of people who grew up with her? Geriatric cases."

"Another image problem in television — Jerry Lewis. How can he be humble for two hours on

Trustee Control Sought as Labor Leaders Fail

OTTAWA (AP) — Canadian and U.S. labor leaders failed to find a way to clean up lawlessness in waterfront unions, and the Canadian government announced yesterday it will try to do so with government trustees.

The Canadian Labor Congress (CLC) informed the government yesterday afternoon that efforts to work out a private union trusteeship have been unsuccessful.

Labor Minister Allan MacEachen promptly told the House of Commons that legislation to impose a government trusteeship on the Seafarers' International Union (SIU) of Canada and four other unions would be brought forward at the "earliest possible moment."

UNPRECEDENTED MOVE
This set the state for an unprecedented move by the government to intervene directly in the internal affairs of maritime unionism in a drive to eliminate violence plaguing the Great Lakes shipping industry.

MacEachen was expected to act today on a Commons resolution dealing with the trusteeship measure. Once the resolution stage is cleared, the government will introduce the actual legislation to set up a three-man board of trustees to take over "management and control" of maritime transportation unions.

The trustees will be appointed as soon as the trusteeship plan becomes law.

They will take over full control of the SIU; the marine section of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers; the Canadian Maritime Union; the Canadian Merchant Service Guild, and the National Association of Marine engineers and deck officers.

Woman Who Got Liver Transplant Is Doing Fine

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A 28-year-old housewife, the first woman ever to receive a liver in a transplanting operation, was reported "better than expected" at Colorado General Hospital today. The operation was performed Saturday, with doctors using the liver of a man who had died a few hours earlier.

Doctors said it was the sixth liver transplant on record. None of the principals in the other operations survived. The woman was suffering from cancer of the liver. Neither she nor the man whose liver was used was identified.

Egg Cutlets Are Brownd in Skillet

Ever tried this old-fashioned recipe?

Egg Cutlets with Cream Sauce
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/4 cup flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon Worcestershire
sauce
1/2 cup grated cheddar cheese
5 hard-cooked eggs, finely chopped
1/4 cup pancake mix
1/4 cup corn meal
1 egg, slightly beaten

In a medium saucepan over low heat, melt the butter. Stir in flour, salt and pepper. Add milk; cook and stir constantly until mixture thickens. Remove from heat.

Add Worcestershire sauce and cheese; mix well so cheese melts. Stir in eggs. Refrigerate at least 2 hours. Shape into 6 patties.

Mix together the pancake mix and corn meal; roll patties in mixture; dip in egg; roll in dry mixture again. Pan-fry in moderately hot fat until golden brown, turning only once. Serve with cream sauce. Makes 6 servings.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?

A. Canadian style bacon.

Q. Where does it come from and how is it identified?

A. It is the boned and rolled back strip of pork. The meat has been cured and smoked.

Q. How is it prepared?

A. It may be roasted, broiled, panbroiled or pan fried. For broiling, slice the meat at least 1/2 inch thick. Broil about 3 inches from the heat a total of 8 to 10 minutes. Slices thinner than 1/2 inch thick should be panbroiled about 6 to 8 minutes.

For roasting a whole piece, place the meat on a rack in an open roasting pan. Insert a meat thermometer into the center of the roast. Roast in a 350 degree oven until the thermometer registers 160 degrees, allowing about 35 to 40 minutes per pound.

place the stock base. Add hot

Bananas Make Fine Textured Cookies

In the last decade Americans have become vitally interested in education. Parents want their children enrolled in schools with the surroundings and well-trained teachers. Also of prime importance, if knowledge is to be absorbed, is the alert mind and physically fit body... each of which comes through well-balanced meals.

Consequently, when you pack the lunch kit for your towhead or teenager it must contain nutritious foods. Meat and peanut butter sandwiches, with a leaf or two of Western iceberg lettuce tucked in for crispness, raw vegetable sticks, fruit... such as a banana... and milk will satisfy the most ravenous appetite.

Nature has provided the banana with its own germ-free wrapping which changes color as it ripens.
For the lunch kit choose the deeper yellow banana with brown flecks... perfect for peeling and eating. At this particular stage the banana is also ideal for mashing, and when included in baked goods disperses not only flavor but enough moisture to give a fine texture to the finished product.

All of this brings us to the subject of cookies. And what younger doesn't look forward to a cookie or two while he sips his milk?

These banana cookies will receive an excellent rating from you and the students.

Banana Raisin Drops
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 tablespoon grated orange peel

Need to Get More Fish When It's Whole

Puzzled over how much fish to order? Here's a good "rule of thumb." A serving of fish is generally one-third to one-half pound of edible flesh. Therefore, for a whole fish allow about one pound per serving; for dressed fish (ready-to-cook as purchased), plan on one-half pound per person.

For fish steaks, fillets or frozen breaded fish sticks, squares and rectangles, allow one-third pound per person.

Meat now accounts for about a fourth of the shopper's food dollar, and the demand is expected to grow.

1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup mashed banana (about 2 medium bananas), fully ripe

1 1/4 cups rolled oats
1 cup raisins
1/4 cup chopped walnuts
1 1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour

LUNCH SURPRISE— Into your child's lunch kit goes a surprise... moist, flavorful banana cookies. Keep the cookie jar filled at all times. He'll enjoy them after school, too.

1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon baking soda
Cream together butter, orange peel and sugar; beat in egg. Mix in banana, oats, raisins and nuts. Sift together remaining ingredients; add to banana mixture and mix well.
Drop by tablespoons onto ungreased cookie sheets.

Bake in 375 degrees (moderate) oven 10 to 12 minutes or until golden brown. Remove cookies and cool on rack.

Banana Pecan Cookies
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon mace
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1/4 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 cup mashed banana (about 2 medium bananas), fully ripe
1/2 cup chopped pecans
1/2 cup red or green glace cherries, halved

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and mace. Cream butter; gradually beat in sugar, eggs and lemon peel. Stir in flour mixture alternately with banana. Add nuts. Chill; drop by tablespoons into ungreased cookie sheets. Top with glace cherries.

Bake in 400 degree (hot) oven
8 to 10 minutes. Remove cookies and cool on rack.

An average American housewife opens the door of her electric refrigerator about 62 times a day.

Diesel locomotives cut railroad fuel costs from one-third to three-fourths, depending on the type of operation.

Chicago Boycott Set

By United Press International
Seventeen civil rights groups today called a "massive one-day school boycott" in Chicago Oct. 22 in protest of the Chicago Board of Education's refusal to accept the resignation of Superintendent Benjamin C. Willis.

"The demonstration will show the board of education the policies of de facto segregation will not be tolerated by Chicago parents after Willis leaves," Lawrence Landry, Coordinating Council of Community Organizations (CCCO) official, said in a statement.

Landry said parents would be asked to keep their youngsters out of school "in anticipation of final freedom from Dr. Willis." Landry spoke after an emergency meeting of the CCCO executive board last night.

Board of Education President Claire M. Roddewig named a committee of three board members yesterday to meet with Willis in an attempt to work out a satisfactory relationship.

Willis resigned Friday and accused the board of encroaching on his administrative duties by not going along with his plan for temporarily cutting back a program to transfer gifted students to two high schools.

Willis, however, was under attack much of the summer by racial groups who protested his policies of neighborhood schools and mobile classrooms served to propagate segregation.

Elsewhere on the integration front in the north:

• St. Louis, Mo. — The board of education unanimously elected the Rev. John J. Hicks yesterday as its first Negro president. The Rev. Mr. Hicks, pastor of the Union Memorial Methodist Church, was consistently aligned himself with efforts for greater integration.

Ex-Attorney General Dies of Crash Injuries

WASHINGTON (UPI) — James M. McInerney, 58, a former assistant U.S. attorney general during the Truman administration, died yesterday of injuries received in a two-car crash hours earlier.

McInerney served under former Atty. Gen. J. Howard McGrath. He also served as assistant to the head of the Justice Department's Tax Division from 1947 to 1950 while prosecuting wartime tax cheaters.

Muskegon College Chief Quits in Surprise Move

MUSKEGON (U-P) — Dr. James M. Snyder resigned yesterday as president of Muskegon County Community College in a move that apparently surprised the school board.

Snyder, who had held the Muskegon post since July 1960, said he has accepted the presidency of Maricopa County Junior College at Phoenix, Ariz. His resignation here takes effect next January.

"Oldest Arizonan" Dies; WINTERHAVEN, Calif. (UPI) — Military funeral services are pending for David A. Boone, 102, who, until his death Sunday, was believed to be the oldest living white person born in the old Arizona territory.

Boone, who was said to be a blood brother of Indian Chief Cochise, was born Aug. 26, 1861, near a water hole on the Gila River where his parents were camping.

Nixon Says Rights Bad Issue in '64

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said Tuesday night he hopes civil rights will not be an issue in the 1964 presidential campaign and promised to argue against any Republican party move to make it one.

Introduced to a National Metal Trades Association audience of 800 as the man who "just might break that jinx" that "just might break that jinx" that "just might break that jinx," Nixon disclaimed any intention of seeking the Republican nomination again.

"I've had my chance, and it's time to give someone else a chance," he said. "My role will be to make a few speeches, write a few articles, and try to unite the warring factions after the San Francisco convention."

Relaxed and jovial, Nixon spoke for an hour and 20 minutes, near by all of it answering audience questions. He had no formal speech.

He spoke on the nuclear test ban, Cuba, the Berlin wall, surplus wheat sales to the Soviet, compulsory arbitration, the proposed tax cut, the United Nations, Viet Nam, and other topics. In discussing civil rights, he showed particular concern.

POSSIBLE DISASTER
If next year's presidential contest "turns out to be North against South or blacks against whites, it will be the most unfortunate thing for the nation," he declared, and "disastrous to this country abroad."

"It is important for the Republican party particularly not to play politics with this issue," Nixon said.

"It's wrong to play politics, to demagogue about it," he said, "to make promises that can't be delivered." Too much of this has been done already under the present administration, he charged.

Syria, Iraq Join Defenses

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Syria, Egypt's former partner in the United Arab Republic, has proclaimed a military union with neighboring Iraq.

Gen. Amin Hafez, strongman president of Syria National Revolutionary Council, said Tuesday troops of both nations will be under a supreme defense council. Iraq's defense minister, Gen. Mahdi Saleh Ammash, will be supreme commander of the unified army, aided by three defense council members from each country.

The Arab Socialist Ba'ath party rules both Syria and Iraq. The two governments have been working toward union since their agreement to join Egypt in an enlarged United Arab Republic broke down.

TOKYO (AP) — Communist North Korea said today it has signed an unofficial trade agreement with a British delegation.

Pyeong Yang radio said the agreement was concluded with the Council for the Promotion of International Trade, but gave no figures.

The broadcast said North Korea will deliver various metals and minerals, chemicals, agricultural products and other commodities, while Britain will export special machine tools, complete plant equipment, ships, synthetic fibers and other products.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Progressive Conservatives won their third consecutive victory in U.S. State provincial elections under Prime Minister Robert Lorne Stanfield Tuesday.

The nation's leading opposition party increased its strength in the Nova Scotia Legislature from 27 to 39 seats, while the Liberals dropped from 15 to 4. The New Democratic party lost its only seat.

TOKYO (AP) — The two leaders of a Chinese Communist engineering mission left for home today without their defecting interpreter.

Tao Heng-hsien, chief of the oil hydraulics mission, and Chiang Kuo-hsien, his deputy, had extended their stay in an effort to get custody of Chou Hung-Ching, 44-year-old interpreter who sought political asylum in the Soviet Embassy Monday.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Narcotics Subject of Great Confusion

Narcotics is a subject that concerns all of us because of its close relationship to juvenile delinquency.

It is also a subject about which there is still a great deal of confusion and emotionally charged difference of opinion.

Before there can be an addict there must be a susceptible person, availability of an addiction-producing drug, and an environment that favors addiction.

Most of the addicts who make drug addiction the serious problem it is are young men between the ages of 16 and 20.

The chief drug of addiction is heroin. Environmental factors include overcrowding in substandard dwellings in large cities, and gangs in which addiction is accepted as a way of life.

DEPLORABLE ILLNESS
Drug addiction is a truly deplorable illness. In a well-meaning attempt to protect the potential addict the Harrison Narcotic Act was passed in 1914. This law has unfortunately had the opposite effect.

By making it a criminal offense for physicians to treat addicts by giving them maintenance doses of drugs it had the effect of causing doctors to stop treating addicts.

The average addict who can get his drugs regularly can manage to live a fairly normal life.

Many persons in high places have maintained such an addiction without even their closest associates ever suspecting that they were taking drugs.

SUFFERS TORTURE
When, however, we make it hard for the addict to get his daily supply, he will suffer the extreme tortures of withdrawal.

To prevent this he will steal or even commit murder. Since the doctors can no longer treat his illness he is forced to turn to the underworld for treatment.

Many addicts, in order to insure their own supply, become dope peddlers and induce other susceptible persons to become addicts. This a bad situation not only perpetuates itself but spreads.

Since the number of victims of this vicious system cannot be known accurately, estimates of the number in the United States range from 60,000 to one million.

IN BETWEEN
The true figure is probably somewhere in-between. A note of optimism has recently been sounded.

Although most young men who are taken off drugs re-lapse quickly, there is growing evidence that when they reach the age of 30 to 35, many (not all), voluntarily break the habit.

This is believed to be a sign of their reaching a new level of maturity.

This still does not solve the problem of the wasted years, the prevention of addiction in a new crop of youngsters, or the treatment of older persons who cannot break the habit.

One of the first steps that must be taken is to amend the laws in such a way as to place treatment back in the hands of legitimate doctors.

Final Call on Plans for Redistricting

LANSING (UPI)—Proposals for reapportioning the State Legislature must be submitted by Oct. 25, the Apportionment Commission said today.

Letters to all state officials, members of the legislature, and chairmen of the two major political parties were sent this week by the commission notifying them of the Oct. 25 target date, commission spokesmen said.

"Interested citizens who wish to submit plans may do so," said Bernard J. Apol, an aide to the commission. "Opportunity to explain such plans orally will be given by the commission."

At least nine or 10 of the Amazon's tributaries exceed the Rhine river in total length.

Banquet Starts Club Activity

A kickoff banquet launching the newly formed Waterford Boys Club slate of activities has been set for Dec. 5 at the Waterford Community Activities, Inc., Building.

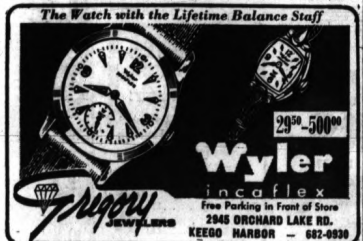

Prominent sports figures will speak. Tickets may be obtained from club members.

In addition to completing preliminary banquet plans, the club's board of directors at a meeting last night also announced a fund-raising campaign to begin the first of the year.

Saturday Worst Day on Highway

NEW YORK (UPI)—Saturday is the most dangerous day of the week on the road.

That's the conclusion of the Travelers Insurance Companies' annual compilation of records of street and highway accidents nationally, based on state motor vehicle records.

The company also reports people cause more accidents than roads, weather or defective vehicles.

More than 38 per cent of the fatal accidents which took 40,500 lives in 1962 occurred on weekends; 8,420 on Saturday.

In 1961, Saturday also accounted for the greatest number of deaths—7,670 of a total of 37,600.

Most accidents occur in clear weather and on dry roads. In 1962, 34,400 were killed in perfect weather. Other totals were: 1,100 in fog; 3,600 in rain, and 1,400 in snow.

Icy roads were present at only 1,400 fatal accidents with 31,640 persons killed in dry weather.

RULE VIOLATION

Slaughter on the road is most often the direct result of violation of rules of the road, according to The Travelers.

These include excessive speed, driving on the wrong side of the road, failing to yield the right of way and reckless driving.

Driving after drinking is, of course, an open invitation to the undertaker. Driving too long without rest is another prime cause of accidents.

Of the drivers in fatal accidents in 1962, 43,800 were male and 6,400 were female. It is estimated that females constitute about 30 per cent of all licensed drivers and male drivers about 70 per cent.

The exposure factors, the amount of driving done by men and women and the conditions under which the driving is done, are unknown.

Consequently, there's no proof that women are either better or worse drivers than men.

Young drivers had the poorest record, increasing their involvement in fatal accidents from 27.3 per cent in 1961 to 28.9 per cent in 1962.

Their participation in nonfatal accidents increased from 23.3 per cent in 1961 to 27.3 per cent in 1962.

HOCKEY TIME AGAIN — The National Hockey League season opened last night at Boston with the Bruins holding Montreal to a 4-4 tie. The two teams weren't long in squaring off as a fight erupted in the very first period between the Canadiens' Terry Harper (19) and Forbes Kennedy. Boston captain Leo Boivin (20 in dark jersey) keeps Montreal defenseman Jean Talbot (17) out of the battle.

Watkins No Longer Plays 2nd Fiddle

NEW YORK (AP) — Although Jimmy Brown staged another explosive running performance for Cleveland against the Pittsburgh Steelers Saturday night, Tom Watkins, Detroit's punt return star, came nearest to being a one-man explosion in the National Football League last week-end.

Watkins played second fiddle to league champion Pat Studstill in running back punts last season. When Studstill was knocked out of action this year with a pre-season injury, Tom had to take over. How well he — and the men who block for him — have succeeded was indicated Sunday. Watkins returned one punt 90 yards for a touchdown against the San Francisco 49ers, ran back two others 28 and 43 yards to set up scores and had returns of 9 and 16 yards on two more.

His total of 184 yards was an NFL record and his 90-yarder was a Detroit club record. Both had been set by Jack Christiansen, who hardly enjoyed his first game as a coach while watching Watkins.

Jimmy Brown, running to the outside as well as smashing through the line, gained 175 yards, and scored one touchdown against Pittsburgh and held his place as leading ground gainer and scorer in the NFL. In four games he has run for 694 yards, averaging 3.5 yards per try, and has scored 42 points.

SECOND BEST

The next-best figures are 297 yards by Green Bay fullback Jim Taylor and 38 points by Pittsburgh's Lou Michaels, who has kicked 10 field goals and eight extra points for 38 points. Brown also holds season records for the longest run from scrimmage, 90 yards, the best one-game total, 232 yards, and shares the one-game scoring high of 19 points.

Watkins, despite Sunday's performance, ranks second on punt return averages with a 20.8 mark. New York's Eddie Dove, who barely qualified with the minimum of four returns, went to the top with a 23.8 yard average.

Only other change among the individual leaders saw Yale Lary of Detroit go to the top of the punting list with an average of 49.4 yards on 19 kicks.

Y. A. Title of New York and Frank Ryan of Cleveland continued to run 1-2 in the passing department, where positions are determined on a basis of percentage of completions, touchdowns, passes, percentage of interceptions and average yards gained. Each has completed 50, including nine for touchdowns.

Bobby Joe Conrad of St. Louis leads the pass receivers with 25 catches and Al Woods of San Francisco leads on kickoff returns with an average of 42.3 yards.

Koufax Sets Sights on Two Major League Hurler Marks

NEW YORK (AP) — What makes Sandy Koufax a

Sandy Koufax was the Mr. Koufax, who was honored at a luncheon Tuesday as the hero of the World Series. He received a new sports car and admitted that his ambition is to win more games than anyone else in baseball.

He has a long way to go — and even the slender southpaw of the Los Angeles Dodgers admits "I'd have to be fortunate to do that." Koufax has two marks to aim at — the 311 victories posted by Cy Young from 1890-1911 and the current mark being extended by 42-year-old Warren Spahn of Milwaukee, still going strong with 350.

At 27, Koufax is behind Young at the same stage in their careers, but is well ahead of Spahn. Spahn had won only 20 games by the time he was 27 while Koufax has 35 victories after this year's 25-5 record.

Young, however, seems out of reach. He had 120 victories at age 27, and finished with an overall 311-313 win-loss record when he was 44. If Koufax were to pitch until he was 44-17 more seasons — he would have to average 25 victories a year.

NOT EASY

"It's not inconceivable, but it's not going to be easy. 'But anyway I'd like to win as many as I can,' said Koufax. Koufax quickly steered the talk away from himself and to the Dodgers as a whole.

"We did everything right for four days," he said of the sweep of the Yankees. "We had fought and scratched to win the pennant. We had the kind of club where every day we needed somebody to do something special."

"I can't help but feel we were fortunate. If the Yankees had beaten us in the fourth game, they might have taken four in a row."

Koufax also touched upon the strange Joe Pepitone-Moose Skowron situation that turned one into a goat and the other into a hero. Skowron was traded by the Yankees to the Dodgers when Pepitone was installed as the New York first baseman.

Pepitone was charged with a key error in the fourth game, dropping a throw for a three-base error that led to the winning run. Skowron collected five hits, including a homer.

GREAT SEASON

"Pep had a great season, and helped the Yankees win the pennant," Koufax said. "I'd heard about the Yankees' $3 million in prize money. It's as good an infield as I ever saw in baseball."

Turning to Skowron, he said: "Skowron had a tough year. I don't think the Moose disliked the Yankees for trading him to us, but one of the biggest thrills we got was the way Moose played in the series."

After the pleasanties, Koufax went outside to get his car, which was parked on the sidewalk in front of the restaurant. On the shiny new car, was a shiny green sticker, courtesy of the New York Police Department.

As someone noted, "Even Koufax can't win 'em all."

3 Rec Elevens Again Victors

The Motor Mart Bandits, the Lions and Miffits each posted win No. 2 without a loss in the city Men's Touch Football League last night at Jaycee Park.

Motor Mart topped the Wildcats, 19-0, the Victors fell to the Lions, 30-0, and the Miffits whipped G.M. Raiders, 18-0. The often game saw the Anderson All-Stars gain a 7-4 margin over the Pontiac Packers in overtime.

The All-Stars and Packers were tied 6-6 at the end of regulation play, but the winners picked up the decisive point by outgaining the Packers in an eight-down runoff.

Jerry Gardner was the night's individual star. He ran the opening kickoff back 75 yards for a touchdown against the Victors, then tossed five scoring passes for the Lions. Four of the payoff pitches went to Larry Douglas. Earl McKee hit Harrison Munson with two second half scoring tosses as the Miffits mopped 6-0 tie with G.M. Motor Mart was led by Tom Nichols, Tommy Dabbs and Chuck Graves who each tallied a touchdown against the Wildcats.

New League in Action

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Paul Rangers defeated the St. Louis Braves 6-3, Tuesday night in the first game ever played in the new Central Professional Hockey League.

THEY HIT FOR PITT — The University of Pittsburgh has racked up three straight wins over tough opponents this fall. Leading the attack in the backfield are (left to right) Bill Rodle, Rick Leeson, Fred Mazurek and Paul Martha. Mazurek is the quarterback and Rodle is an All-America candidate at left halfback. Averaging 416 yards per game, The Panthers have the second best offense in the country and are ranked sixth nationally.

Oliver Leads Boston in NHL Opening Tie

BOSTON (AP) — Murray Oliver, even more so than former Canadianer, who centered the National Hockey League's highest scoring line last season, is off to a flying start this year.

The 26-year-old stylist scored twice for the Bruins as Boston gained a 4-4 tie with the Montreal Canadiens in the NHL opener at Boston Garden Tuesday night. New York plays at Chicago tonight.

Oliver's second goal came with less than two minutes remaining after Canadiens defenseman Terry Harper had sent the visitors ahead 4-3 four minutes earlier. And Oliver's line collected a total of six points at wingman.

Johnny Bucyk and Tom Williams had two points apiece. Williams scored Boston's first 1963-64 goal and assisted on the final Bruins tally. Bucyk had assists on the second and fourth Boston scores. BOW LINE rebound of Orland Kurtenbach's long snap shot.

Oliver's tying goal at 18:05 of the third period was a 25-footer that tipped past Montreal goalie Gump Worsley and caught the far corner of the net. Williams had gone in on the left and dropped a pass to Oliver.

Expect Final 4,000 Ducafs to Be Bought Before Game Time

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — Times

The Michigan-Michigan State football clash — the state's premier football classic — is only four days away.

But if you want to see the game, all you have to do is to buy a ticket over the counter at the regular price.

Ticket manager Don Wier reports that there are still at least 4,000 tickets left to be sold for the game.

It's almost startling that tickets for the game that used to be a sellout in the middle of the summer can now be purchased the week of the game. It wasn't too long ago that the only tickets available the week of the game were being hustled by the scalpers.

Of course, by kickoff at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, the game will be a sellout for the 16th straight year and the 101,001 seats in the Michigan Stadium will be jammed.

That sellout will boost the attendance in the last 16 years for the game to 1,430,000 and the two schools will match that mark against any other rivalry outside of Army-Navy.

It's obvious, though, that it's not getting any easier to draw the fans in these days.

Athletic director Fritz Crier admitted yesterday, "Each successive year the date of the sellout has been pushed back."

SAME OFFENSES

Crier has a number of theories for the attendance drop ranging from the Internal Revenue Department's cutback in the number of tickets that can be written off for tax purposes to the fact that most colleges are using the same types of attack.

This season there is one specific reason. In the past, U-M used to hand out 22,000 student tickets for all the games while this season the Wolverines sold the student tickets for $13 and 5,000 students purchased them. That's a boost of $105,000 in revenue despite a 7,000 attendance drop.

But the basic reason for the general downward trend in ticket sales is simply that neither team has been winning enough recently. There's nothing that boosts attendance like winning teams.

The Spartans have had winning records but they've fallen short of expectations the last few years and haven't been to the Rose Bowl since 1956. Michigan hasn't been winning — period.

The pattern of this season's game is expected to be rather familiar. MSU, which trails in the all-time series, 35-14, hasn't lost to Michigan since 1955 at 10-05, but Oxford grabbed five of the first seven positions to win its second meet of the season.

The Spartans have won the last two games easily by 20-0 margins and will go into this one an eight-point favorite.

Both clubs come into the contest with 1-1 record after losing last week to highly-touted clubs. Michigan lost to the nation's fifth-ranked team, Navy, 26-13, and MSU lost to defending national champion and ninth-ranked Southern California, 13-10.

Both teams will be close to full strength for the game. MSU may lose the services of halfback Dewey Lincoln, who suffered a fractured jaw last week and won't play unless the swelling goes down. Guard Steve Melinger and halfback Ron Rubick also will probably see only spot action.

Michigan suffered a rash of injuries last week but practically all the players are expected to be back. Bob Timberlake is still bothered with his shoulder and can't throw.

Bengals Start Lessons

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Three Detroit pitchers limited the St. Louis Cardinals to three safe-ty Tuesday as the Tigers opened the Florida winter instructional baseball league season with a 3-1 victory.

Tommy Davis (10-11) pitched 6 2/3 innings, allowing two runs, three hits and one walk. He struck out four.

New Players Help Wings Face Off

DETROIT (AP) — There will be four new players on the roster when the Detroit Red Wings open their 1963-64 National Hockey League season against Chicago here Thursday night.

Art Stratton, an All Star center from Buffalo last season, will be on the first line with Gordie Howe and Parker MacDonald.

Ted Hampson a center drafted from New York; Ron Ingram opened in the trade that sent Howie Young to Chicago, and Andre Pronovost are the other newcomers.

Pronovost moved to Detroit in a late season deal last year with Boston. He and Hampson are scheduled for relief work.

Howe, starting his 18th season with the Wings, needs five goals to break Maurice Richard's career record of 544. Howe scored 14 goals in 10 games as Detroit lost only one game and tied an old pre-season play.

Capt. Alex Delvecchio will center the second line, with Floyd Smith and Norm Ullman at the forward positions.

The third line is composed of Alex Faul against the British starting Friday.

"I intend to play the men who I think can win for us," the Yank leader from Latrobe, Pa. said Wednesday. "If I feel I am playing well, I won't let my modesty stand in the way. I'll pick myself. If I'm off, to the sidelines I go."

As playing captain and star of the U.S. team, Palmer is in a bit of uncomfortable position and admits that the job has its drawbacks.

"There is one advantage," he said. "A non-playing captain can be as familiar with the guys as a man who has been batting it around with them all year. On the other hand, the added responsibility conceivably could affect the golf of the playing captain."

"But I'm not going to worry about it while I'm out on the course. I'll concentrate on golf and start worrying, if I have to, when I get back to the club house."

The British are led by a non-playing captain, John Falloon, a Scottish Ryder Cup veteran living in England.

GOLD PITCHER
Palmer is optimistic over the Americans' prospects of retaining the stylish gold pitcher which they have on 11 of 14 times and never lost on a U.S. course.

"If they're all right," he said of his team, "there are not 10 players in the world who can beat them."

In the first full-scale practice Tuesday, Palmer shot a 69, one-under-par for the 6,800-yard par-70 East Lake course. Gene Littler, former U.S. Open champion, also had a 69 as did Dow Finsterwald. The other players were said to be around par.

The British also found the course to their liking in warm, beautiful weather. Neil Coles and Ireland's Christy O'Connor both shot 69s. Geoffrey Hunt and Brian Huggett had 70s. The others were close to par.

Palmer gave a man-by-man rundown of the American team and even included himself in the analysis.

Palmer said doctors had found that he had a tendon strain—not serious—in his right shoulder and he intended to take treatment when he finishes the season in November.

On the other team members he gave this thumbnail description: Julius Boros—"He's playing so well it scares me."

Dow Finsterwald—"Better than he is in four or five years."

Gene Littler—"Not at his best but getting to be more sound."

Bill Casper Jr.—"Fresh after his long layoff with a bad hand, playing well."

Billy Maxwell—"Jerking the ball a bit, but improving."

Johnny Pott—"Playing really well."

Tony Lema—"Exceptionally well."

Dave Ragan—"You don't know what he'll do—can go either way, real good or real bad."

Arnold Palmer—"That's where I came in."

NAME'S THE SAME—St. Louis Cardinal manager John Keane was named the National League's 1963 Manager of the Year by the Associated Press today. He piloted the Redbirds to a second place finish and was an overwhelming choice of the AP sports writers and sportscasters. But to Kelly Masterson, 2, (left) and Johnny Keane Masterson, 3, he is just grandpa.

BOWLING

Leonard's Garage had a 257-235-651 performance by Hoot Gibson in last Wednesday's North Hill Lanes Classic League but it wasn't enough to overtake first place Crosline Realty.

The realtors held onto the top spot by taking three points from Team No. 8. The garagemen are one point back, but in a tie with Young's Men's Wear team.

The Huron Bowl Wednesday Night "A" League has completed five weeks of competition with the Wolverine Entertainers holding a two-point lead on the other 15 teams.

Ivan Craycraft's 225-254 — 679 led the Dixie Bowl squad to a 3,088 series last week. High game honors for the evening went to Ron Slack with 268 en route to a 648 series.

Lynner Spees had a 652. In Huron Bowl's Friday afternoon Ladies Matinee circuit, Gerry Benson clipped the pins for 218-446 totals on the Durs & Sons Realty squad.

Double Cola retained its slim one-point lead in the Cooles Lanes Senior House League last week with the aid of Len Martinson's 203-247-694 firing. Both Ron Allen (256) and Joe Miller (287) edged Martinson for high game honors, however.

The Men of the Moose at Lakewood Lanes Sunday recorded Vance Chapman with 204-234 game and Joe Roerick had 225-208 totals.

Sally Hoffman had her strike ball working in the Tuesday afternoon Elks Ladies League last week when she posted 223-597 scores to lead Thorndike.

It was just enough to keep her in first place as Oxford Spetic Tank is only one game back thanks to the efforts of Ruth Smith who rolled 223-308-600.

Best of Week Will Collide Saturday

DALLAS (AP)—What happens when the Back of the Week meets the Lineman of the Week?

The fans will find out Friday night when Navy plays Southern Methodist in the Cotton Bowl.

Roger Staubach of Navy was named Back of the Week for his great play against Michigan Saturday. He passed for 237 yards and ran for 70 as Navy beat Michigan 28-13.

John Hughes of Southern Methodist was picked as Lineman of the Week for his defensive play against Air Force Academy, beaten by Southern Methodist 10-0. He made 11 tackles, recovered a fumble, knocked down several passes and hit one receiver so hard that worthy dropped the ball.

Those guys will be giving each other the eye Friday night. They may be giving each other more than that when they come to gether.

'Jolly Roger' Flying High for Navy Team

Staubach Tops Nation in Total Offense and Forward Passing

NEW YORK (AP)—Navy hosted the Jolly Roger then sailed out and sank three enemies. That's not a tale of piracy, it's just an indication of how much the Navy football team has depended on Roger Staubach this season and how well the quarterback has responded.

Staubach has run or passed on 101 of Navy's 210 plays in three games this season and has accounted for 61.9 percentage of the team's yardage — 789 yards out of a total of 1,275. He is the No. 1 major college player in total offense and forward passing today according to statistics issued today by the NCAA Service Bureau.

The Navy pilot opened with 155 yards against West Virginia, topped it to 227 against William and Mary then hit the season's high of 307 yards last Saturday against Michigan. He has completed 78.1 per cent of his passes for 614 yards and has run for 175 yards.

The only players who surpass Staubach in one-man domination of a team's offense are Jack Connamon of Boston College, 69.3 per cent; Jimmy Sidle, Auburn, 65.1; Bob Schweickert, Virginia Tech, 64.4; and Archie Roberts, Columbia, 62.6. All but Roberts are among the top 10 players in total offense.

REVIEW SET
Banks said his suspension would remain in effect until reviewed by the USAC executive committee, within a week or 10 days.

The committee must put Foyt on probation or suspend him for a definite period or indefinitely and could impose a fine, with or without probation or suspension.

The suspension eliminated Foyt from the Riverside Grand Prix at Los Angeles this weekend.

Foyt was the U.S. Auto Club's new national driving champion, in under two other USAC championship events scheduled this season—Oct. 27 at Sacramento, Calif., and Nov. 17 at Phoenix, Ariz.—and the committee's action will determine whether he will be allowed to drive in them.

Last year USAC fined Foyt $1,000 and put him on probation for a year for threatening to punch promoter Tom Marchese at Milwaukee.

Foyt was national champion in 1960 and 1961 and regained the title this year. He won the Indianapolis 500-mile race in 1961.

Divorce Publicity Reunites Cepedas

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—San Francisco Giants first baseman Orlando Cepeda and his wife "are as happy as the day they were married" after a Tuesday in which he filed for divorce then told his attorney to forget the action when newspapers headlined the story.

The rocky 24 hours in Cepeda's marital bliss began Monday night when he appeared at the office of his attorney, Marvin Lewis, and signed a divorce complaint against Anna Cepeda, his wife of nearly three years.

Lewis filed the complaint Tuesday morning, the story broke and Cepeda denied any ideas of divorce.

Lewis got together with Orlando and later told newsmen that the 37-year-old Giant admitted signing the complaint.

But, said Lewis, Orlando "thought it was not a public filing. He was very shocked to learn the newspapers would find out about it. He further says he is now reconciled and they are as happy as the day they were married."

City Table Tennis Loop Starts Play

Play will start in the Pontiac Table Tennis League at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Pontiac Central Girl's gymnasium.

Defending champion Capitol Barber Shop, now the Pine Knob entry, will head the list of 14 teams, comprised of one woman and three men each.

New players are welcomed in the handicap-organized setup. The league is sponsored by the city Parks and Recreation Department.

Driving Champ Foyt Suspended by USAC

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—A. J. Foyt, the U.S. Auto Club's new national driving champion, is under suspension for misconduct on the charge of slugging another driver.

Henry Banks, USAC director of competition, ordered the suspension Tuesday for "misconduct considered detrimental to USAC and organized racing."

Banks' action was based on a report from Tommy Nicholson, USAC Eastern Zone supervisor, who said Foyt struck driver Johnny White while White was still strapped in his car after a heat event at Williams Grove, Pa., Saturday.

Nicholson said Foyt complained that White had cut him off in a corner during the race. The altercation occurred in the pit area. Nicholson said the fans booed Foyt and Foyt's conduct in front of them "was most reprehensible."

'Fighter Clay' 'Biding Fight'

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Radio soap operas are gone and movie serials are old hat, it's true, but not all drama has departed. To prove it, the "Biding Fight," "The Guiding Light," "The Brighter Day," the "Fighter Clay," "Cassius Clay," that is.

The latest chapter in the No. 1 heavyweight contender's saga of suspense goes thusly: Clay said Tuesday he had changed his mind and would not fight Canadian boxer George Chuvalo, as he had announced. He said he would not fight anyone until he faces champion Sonny Liston for the title "in four or five months."

PROTEST HEARD
Clay's words were hardly set in type when:

Promoter Bill King protested. The proposed Chuvalo-Clay fight had been set for Louisville.

State boxing commissioner Bob Ravans said he would hold a meeting on the matter Friday. "King thinks he has a grievance and I haven't heard from the Clay group. I can't make a comment until we all sit down and talk about it," Evans said. "Clay did sign a decision to fight Chuvalo here, but that's not a contract."

Bill Faversham, who serves as Clay's manager, said, "The document of intent was written to Harry Markson of Madison Square Garden and the matter was contingent on certain television requirements set down by us being met."

"As late as Monday, they were not cleared up in New York. In the meantime, something else came up of importance for Clay and he decided to let that take care of it. I can't discuss it now."

Experiments to Continue

Michigan Study May Eliminate DDT

LANSING (UPI) — A Michigan Conservation Department study could be the first step toward pesticide controls which would end the use of DDT as a crop spray in the United States.

Conservation officials, on a $10,000 grant from the U.S. Fisheries and Wildlife Service, are spraying pens of pheasants with various concentrations of malathion, a pesticide used to control cereal leaf beetle populations in Southern Michigan.

Reports from across the nation have connected DDT spraying with the death of song birds, game birds and water life. A recent report from California indicated the level of DDT found in wild pheasants in some areas would be lethal to humans if they ate the pheasants.

DDT residues have been found in ducks, ducklings and eggs in remote areas of northern Canada, far from any use of pesticides, and DDT contamination has been found in 31 of 32 eagles checked in parts of the North American continent.

The preliminary results of the Michigan study have indicated that malathion even when sprayed in concentrations up to 10 times its normal dosage did not affect the pheasants.

However, the results must be considered inconclusive, according to Charles T. Black, chief biologist of the Rose Lake experiment station, until further studies of pheasant chicks and eggs are made next spring.

"If there was going to be an effect, we thought it would be evident by this time," Black said. "We are going to examine another 12 birds after three to four weeks to see if there are any delayed effects."

HELD OVER

"These same birds will be banded and held over the winter," he said. "Next spring we will check the egg-laying of the birds to see if there is any carry-over effect to the breeding season. Possibly, some damage to breeding organs could show up then."

"Also we will hatch eggs out in an incubator to see if hatchability is affected and will raise approximately 100 of each group to see if they grow normally," Black said.

The major complaint of pesticide users about malathion currently is that the chemical breaks down more quickly than DDT and is more expensive.

However, if it is proved that malathion is not so dangerous to wildlife, it could be a big vote in its favor, according to state officials.

Michigan State University is running a test with malathion and DDT on the elm tree spraying to control Dutch elm disease in an effort to determine the relative effects of the two chemicals on the song bird population on campus.

Campus fisheries and wildlife experts spurred the study by their complaints that DDT spraying was killing campus robins.

State Park Bond Bids

Top Commission's List

Decisions are scheduled on state park bond bids and land additions during the Conservation Commission's meeting Thursday and Friday at the Higgins Lake conservation school.

Coming up for action is a $2.5-million revenue bond sale that will provide funds for new capital improvements and land purchases at state parks.

The first big weekend of grouse hunting ran the range from poor to excellent — depending on where hunters tried — but the duck opener did not live up to expectation.

The majority of hunters returning from Northern Michigan reported seeing pheasants. Many said they "had plenty of shooting."

Others used the term poor.

It boiled down to the fact that the grouse were in pockets. Hunters could tramp the woods all day and see only one or two birds while other nimrods a mile away were getting constant activity.

Some of the better locations were north of Gladwin, south of Roscommon, north of Higgins Lake and around Kalkaska. The northeastern Lower Peninsula was poor with few pheasants flushed.

One of the first to bag a buck was Jack Hirnstein, 6100 Williams Lake, Waterford Township, who downed a four-pointer opening morning.

The 18-year-old Flint Junior College student was hunting at Bowman's Resort near Gladwin with a group of archers from the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club.

He scored on the 128-pound buck from 30 yards away. It was his first successful hunt.

FOUR GEESSE

Jerry Spitzer, 24, 1002 Dewey, and his brother Don, 22, 467 Irwin, went pat hunting near Glenview over the weekend and failed to see a bird.

Monday afternoon they were duck hunting along Hummer Lake north of Oxford.

"We were standing among some trees along the shore waiting for some ducks to come in," said Jerry. "No ducks were using the lake, but seven geese came in for a landing. Only three flew away."

The brothers bagged the Canada geese using 12 gauges and No. 4 shot.

Duck shooting along the Great Lakes was generally poor over the weekend.

Sunny skies and light wind kept the ducks rafted away from the marshes and blinds. Jump shooters and drift hunters came up with the best results.

The situation was much better

Pistol League Adds Shooters From OCSC

Members of the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club, D. R. Wilson Rifle and Pistol Club are bringing back pistol competition to the Pontiac area.

Teams have been entered in both the 22 caliber and center-fire divisions of the Southeastern Michigan Pistol League.

Top shooters from the Detroit, Dearborn, Pontiac and other police departments plus most of the leading civilian shooters in the area are on one of the teams represented in this league.

The D. R. Wilson Club is firing home matches on the range.

Though most of their shooters are new at the game, there are a few seasoned competitors.

Consistent winners over the past years have been the Marksmen Club of Detroit, the Ford Gun Club of Dearborn, and the Detroit Sportsmen's Congress team.

Home matches are fired on Thursday nights, a match is scheduled tomorrow night at 7:30. On Wednesday nights at the OCSC range there will be practice firing plus instruction on safety and marksmanship with the pistol. This program is open to the public. There is a 75-cent range fee.

Targets are supplied.

ARMY ON MARCH

Hunters in the Hadley Hills were hampered by an invasion.

Dodging shotgun pellets was one thing, but the noise was a bevy of automatic weapons, machine guns and an occasional mortar was too much for the quackers.

Conservation officers checking the Holdridge Lakes marsh in the Holly recreation area reported an average of slightly over one duck per hunter, mostly woodies.

Senator Philip A. Hart reports that a $2,000 grant from the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife will be put with funds from the State Conservation Department and be used for lake and stream improvement in Oakland County.

ARCHERY SHOOT

The Lake Orion Archery Club has scheduled an indoor "Black Light" shoot Oct. 17. All archers 16 years old and over can participate.

The clubhouse is located on the Clarkston-Orion road. A winter indoor league is being formed and will begin Oct. 24 at 8 p.m. Interested bowmen can contact John Ardean at FE 2-0449.

Don Wharf of Pontiac reports a successful fishing trip last month to Camp Grayling on Black Lake in northern Saskatchewan.

He caught the largest lake trout, a 30 1/2-pounder during the week. The local angler said four fishermen caught and released 20 lakies in the 25-pound class.

Plan Hunting Trip Now

LANSING (UP) — Now is the time to start making friends with a farmer to assure a good hunting spot this fall, agree the hunter-farmer relations experts.

"Ask the farmer first," is the unanimous advice of F. W. Stuewer of the State Conservation Department game division and Charles Shick, Michigan State University extension specialist in game management.

Opening date of the small game season is Oct. 21 in southern Michigan. Some 1,600 farmers are banded together in nearly 40 clubs under the Conservation Department's cooperative hunting plan this season. They control about 110,000 acres of prime hunting land, mostly in southern Michigan.

Under the plan, the farmers get together to post their lands with signs furnished by the Conservation Department to give notice it is a regulated hunting area.

The farmers agree on how many permits they will give out. Hunters must apply for the permits at the home, agree to live up to any regulations and leave their cars in the farmyard.

"This gives the farmer some control over the hunters," said Shick. "Those in the plan seem pretty well satisfied with it."

Too many hunters, he said, don't attempt to make any contact before opening day. Then they swarm in and find the tickets are all given out.

The idea also is called the Williamston Township area.

MILE SQUARE

Stuewer said the department specifies that a cooperative hunting area must be at least a mile square. It also attempts to block out areas adjoining each other.

Some of the clubs extend the plan into the deer season. Others limit it to the small game and bird seasons.

Secret Formula—Work

Student Can Sharpen Test-Taking Skill

By LESLIE J. NASON, ED. D.
Now we'll take up that big bug-a-boo, college entrance examination.

Students frequently ask me, "Can I prepare for these examinations?" My answer is always a positive "yes."

How you take the examination does affect your score. You can sharpen your test-taking skills. If, the examination must be taken within a month, the following procedures have proved effective:

• Make a careful study of the information booklet provided by the College Examination Board (or other agency if some test is required). Familiarize yourself with the kind of questions asked. Take the sample test provided.

• Analyze your old school test papers. Low grades on tests are not necessarily due to a lack of knowledge of the subject. See what kind of errors you made. How can you avoid these errors in the future?

• Practice your handwriting. Since it is through writing that you transfer thoughts from your mind onto paper, if your writing is labored or juvenile, it may block your flow of thoughts. Even if you practice only 15 minutes a day until test time, you can be assured of a higher test score.

As you study your lessons from day to day, practice these things:

• Get a clear understanding of precise meanings in each paragraph you study. Use the dictionary. Learning word meanings is basic to test-taking success.

• In mathematics, learn to think in words. Understand every problem you attempt. Get professional help if necessary. This will help you gain confidence and proficiency in solving puzzle type problems you'll find on tests.

• Learn to write a paragraph in clear, simple language. Present just the information or answers to questions asked—don't ramble. Write and rewrite that paragraph several times. Get criticism of your results from a teacher. It's worth working for months to gain the skill of writing one good paragraph.

• Wide reading, particularly of classics, gives background not only for entrance examinations but also for your classes in college. The many low-cost paperback novels available make it possible for you to gain your own personal collection.

Practicing all these skills will prepare you for those dreaded examinations, and help you while you are in college and on the job later. They're not easy to attain, but they're worth working toward.

The minimum strength for the artificial two no-trump response to a major suit opening is 13 supporting points of which at least 11 are in high cards. With enough support and less than 11 in high cards you simply jump right to four of partner's suit.

There is no maximum strength at all. JACOBY can use the bid as the start of a slam exploration. The only thing to bear in mind is that it has nothing at all to do with no-trump and merely takes the place of the forcing raise.

If the opener has a rock bottom minimum he shows it by jumping right to game in his suit. This particular bid says, "Partner, I have no interest in a slam and merely am bidding game because your bid was a game force."

With a slightly better hand opener rebids to three no-trump. This also announces little or no slam interest, but at least a sound opening bid. Once more, it expresses no interest in a no-trump contract. The hand is going to play in the major suit first bid.

North is interested in six or seven once he hears the opening heart bid. He still plans on getting to six or more after the three no-trump rebid indicates a sound opening bid and his four club call is the first step in that direction.

South shows his ace of diamonds and North first shows his ace of spades and then steps at six hearts after South merely bids five.

Six hearts is the perfect contract. South has no trouble making it, but he has no play for seven.

Asia Strikers, Police Clash

SINGAPORE (AP)—Pickets and legions involved in Communist-led police clash sporadically today in the second day of a widespread walkout called by three pro-Communist labor blocs. Hundreds of workers returned to their jobs in defiance of union orders.

The strike, called by the leftist Singapore Association of Trade Unions (SATU), was officially declared illegal under Singapore statutes which specify such industrial action can be taken only in pursuit of nonpolitical aims.

Police had firm orders to break up illegal picketing and did so in a number of cases. A spokesman said about 70 people were arrested for illegal picketing. A small number of incidents was reported throughout the Malaysian island state.

The strike appeared to be a major showdown between extreme leftists and the more moderate state government, although the walkout began Monday over alleged British failure to settle claims by workers at Britain's giant naval base.

Just prior to the strike, the 60,000-member federation called for a mass government move to outlaw the labor bloc's seven largest unions for al-

Lawyer Hired to Defend City

Urban Renewal Case Scheduled in Detroit

The City Commission last night okayed a contract for legal services in a federal court suit challenging relocation payments in the R44 urban renewal area.

Commissioners hired Samuel L. Travis, Huntington Woods attorney, to represent the city. The contract puts a $2,500 maximum on his legal fees and costs.

Travis was the attorney who handled the R44 condemnation proceedings for the city last February.

The suit was filed in Oakland County Circuit Court by Leonard G. Barker, owner of Pontiac Truck and Trailer Service, 24 Wessex.

REFERRED TO DETROIT

Because it involved federal funds and regulations, it was referred to federal district court in Detroit.

The property has been purchased and marked for clearance in the R44 urban renewal project.

Barker is charging that the government has no right to make him sign, before he moves out, papers granting to a relocation payment in an amount to be approved by federal officials at a later date.

ON THIS BASIS

Federal urban renewal regulations provide for federal money to cover the cost of moving up to 100 miles on a fair market price basis.

Displaced persons must sign an agreement to accept a payment on this basis before they move, according to James L. Bates, urban renewal director.

The moving bill is later sent to Chicago for approval of federal agencies.

"The problem here is that Barker has moving cost appraisals in the neighborhood of $17,000, and ours come in just under $10,000," Bates said.

Pinkey Boodles Has Her Day in Master's Court

LONDON (AP)—"Silence in court!" belled the balliff. "All stand!"

Into the divorce court waddled a tilt-nosed Pekingese, an usher holding the dog on a leash and followed by Judge Samuel Richards Edgdale, 66.

The judge, wearing his gown and wig, took the leash and maneuvered the dog under the bench. Then he signalled the court was open for business.

"Other judges take their wives into court, so why shouldn't I take my dog?" the judge told newsmen later.

"Mine is a lonely life traveling around the country in divorce courts, and that is why I take Pinkey Boodles with me."

"Take who, Your Lordship?"

"Pinkey Boodles. That is my dog's name."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Emergence of a "Nasser-type" Socialist government often is mentioned as a possibility in new anti-developing nations. The following dispatch describes Nasser's aims in the United Arab Republic and reports on the results.

By MAURICE GUINDI
CAIRO (UPI)—The goal of President Gamal Abdel Nasser's development program for the United Arab Republic is doubling of the national income every 10 years.

Key to the plan is limitation of land ownership and distribution of excess holdings among peasants, nationalizing of big business, industry and commerce, and levying of a progressive tax on income.

Eleven years and two months after Nasser's overthrow of King Farouk, the national income has more than doubled. The greater part of 1-million acres, one-sixth of Egypt's arable land, has been turned over in small holdings to new owners. About 50 per cent of private business has been nationalized.

The amount of progress made under Nasser's program is difficult to measure because only unofficially published figures are available, and they sometimes are suspect.

Because newspapers in the U.A.R. are government organs and because there is no organized opposition to the government, there has been no public questioning of Nasser's move toward socialism.

Some American economists have expressed concern over ex-

Council Okays No Andrei! Less Latin Use Gamble Is Ecumenical Body Adamant

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Ecumenical Council fathers today overwhelmingly approved a series of proposals authorizing introduction of modern languages to replace Latin in large portions of the Mass.

Eight separate amendments to the document on the worship of the church were ratified at today's session of the council by top-heavy majorities.

The failure of today's reconciliation conference required by Swiss law cleared the way for formal divorce proceedings on Gamble's charge of her husband's unspecified "misconduct."

Eugen Curti, the 22-year-old Remington heiress' lawyer, said the first divorce hearing would be in about two months.

He had appeared half an hour early for the meeting, and was heard through an open window, pleading his case with Justice Forrer, to say, "This ruins my nerves..."

The elegantly dressed Proumbau confirmed reports that he had not requested police protection after he said Monday night two strangers in a car had tried to run him down, one shouting "We'll get you next time. This is a warning."

Purumbau said today, "After talking the matter over with my lawyer, we decided not to call the police for the time being."

The effect of the amendments approved today is to make it clear that the use of modern languages is optional with the bishops of each country and those who wish to continue an all-Latin Mass may do so.

They also provide for a wider use of vernacular than the original text would have done.

Egypt Prospers Under Nasser's Rule

velopment of a near-Communist style economy.

INVESTMENT AGREEMENT
An investment guaranty agreement between the United States and the U.A.R. was signed last June as a move to encourage American firms to establish factories here, but additional nationalization of 570 business firms in August has caused several American companies to revise investment plans.

The nationalization program, with its nationalization of business and property of well-to-do Egyptians, has led many of them to leave the country, cutting into an already short supply of skilled administrators and workers.

One effect, according to Western observers, has been a decline in quality of such important Egyptian products as textiles.

The new security granted to workers has a major drawback from the standpoint of management. Labor laws virtually preclude firing of an employee because of incompetence or automation.

Nasser spelled out his theory on socialism in the national charter adopted in June last year. "Socialism is the way to social freedom," he said.

"Social freedom cannot be realized except by affording an equal opportunity for every citizen to obtain a fair share of the national wealth."

WEALTH EXPANSION
"This is not confined to the mere redistribution of the national wealth among the citizens, but above all it requires the expansion of the base of this na-

Pontiac City Affairs

Proposed Lot Expands

A proposed employee parking lot for 120 to 200 cars at Pontiac General Hospital grew by 10 parking spaces last night.

The City Commission okayed a request from the hospital's board of trustees to purchase for $9,000 a lot and house at 95 S. Johnson.

Also okayed was a $6,200 contract with Louis D'Hondt & Son Wrecking Co. of Mount Clemens for demolition and site clearance on 12 other lots tabbed for the future parking lot.

Trustees requested the purchase of property at 95 S. Johnson after its owner, George F. Hayes, offered it for sale. An independent appraisal for the hospital placed its value at $10,100.

ALREADY PURCHASED

It is adjacent to property already purchased south of the present public parking lot between Johnson and Seminole.

Trustees estimate it will add 10 spaces to the proposed lot.

The hospital will pay for the purchase and subsequent clearance of the parcel.

Total estimated cost of the development is $170,000, with $100,000 borrowed from the city employees retirement fund to be repaid by the hospital over a two-year period.

The parcel at 95 S. Johnson is not included in the demolition contract.

D'Hondt, who holds two urban renewal wrecking contracts in Pontiac, submitted the lowest of three bids for the job.

In other business, a resolution was passed approving the

Berlin Workers Killing Pigeons Despite Protests

BERLIN (AP)—City workers armed with cyanide-coated feed continue their mass extermination of West Berlin's wild pigeons despite protests from the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The SPCA people say they have nothing against the killing of pigeons but they object that it is done "before the eyes of children," which violates the German animal protection law.

Cooper Catches Each Have Extra Claws

TULSA, Okla. (U)—Astronaut Gordon Cooper has two kittens, Gordy and Coggy named in his honor. They are black and white and have extra claws on their paws.

Their mother has one foot with six claws, but she outdid herself on her offspring. They both have six claws per foot.

STUDENTS TRIPLE

Today there are 3.6-million students in primary and high schools combined in the United States. In the universities and higher schools there are 1.2-million students. This year against 41,000 in 1952.

In the countryside, 15-million persons or 85 per cent of the rural population today drink potable water compared with 2 million in 1952. Plans for supplying the remaining inhabitants of Egypt's 4,000 villages with clean drinking water by 1965.

SEVEN DIRECTORS

Members of boards of directors has been limited to seven for each company, of which two must be elected by the workers. Nasser has promised to increase the workers' representation to four on every board shortly.

In factories, as well as on agricultural land, the minimum daily wage for an adult worker has been fixed at 25 piastres (57 cents). Daily adult wages previously were as low as 10 piastres (23 cents).

REDUCED GAP

Nasser's land fragmentation program was not merely a Socialist measure for reducing the gap between the haves and have-nots.

He had a political motive, too — to end the domination of Egypt's 16 million peasants by a handful of big landowners who forced people working in

School Aid Bill on Rough Road

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate's "minibus" version of President Kennedy's school aid bill rolled toward the House today when what looked to be a road studded with nails.

The measure, covering only three of the 24 education fields Kennedy wanted to help in a so-called "minibus" bill, passed the Senate 80-4 yesterday.

Having completed this "first installment" on the Kennedy school program, the senators planned to take up a $1.5 billion college construction aid bill later this week.

The "minibus" bill would vastly expand federal aid to vocational education, increase National Defense Education Act (NDEA) student loan funds and continue the "impacted areas" aid programs for schools crowded by children of servicemen and federal workers.

SMALLER BILL

The House "earlier this year passed legislation that would provide a somewhat smaller increase in vocational school aid than the $1.4 billion approved by the Senate.

The senators used the House bill as the vehicle for the larger bill, which included extensions of NDEA and "impacted areas."

Member of Gang Gets 18 Years for Store Robbery

BALTIMORE (AP)—A young man from Michigan, third member of a gang indicted in a $10,000 drug store robbery, was sentenced to 18 years in the Maryland Penitentiary.

Terrance Brandt, 21, of Detroit, wore a hospital mask over his mouth and nose Monday as Judge Charles D. Harbo imposed the sentence in criminal court. Brandt was the mask because of a tubercular condition.

At the same time, the state dropped a charge and abetting charges against two women found in the getaway car. They were Virginia Patrick, 18, and Shirley J. Blakeley, 17, both of Adrian.

The St. Paul pharmacy in North Baltimore was robbed last night. Deputy State's Attorney Brinkman said the gunman who stood at the entrance while his companions herded customers and employees into the rear of the store.

Negro Told to Leave Scotland Apartment

ABERDEEN, Scotland (AP)—A 39-year-old African doctor has been told to quit his Aberdeen flat with his white wife and three children. The neighbors complained that they were lowering the standards of the building. He is Dr. Kwasi Saka-Mante, principal medical officer of health in Accra, Ghana, who is taking a post-graduate course at Aberdeen University.

TWINS SLAIN — A 25-year-old man was charged with murder today in the bludgeoning slaying of Diana (left) and Dorcas Ring, 15-year-old twin sisters. Their bodies were found near their home at Enderby, in south-central British Columbia. Herman Hease of Kelowna, B.C., has been charged with the killings.

Mobile Defense System to Be Funded

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the House and Senate versions and amounted to $1,794,227,000 less than the President had asked for the Defense Department.

The $72.1 million is for development of a medium-range ballistic missile that could be launched from moving railroad cars, trucks or ships, thus making it more difficult for an enemy to pinpoint and destroy them.

A COMPROMISE
The bill's total of $47,220,010,000 represented a compromise between the House and Senate versions.

Chinese Diet the Thing—but Terms Hard to Digest

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK — The Big Thing in the Pussycat Set now is to get one of those "Chinese diets."

I owe my current slenderness to one prescribed by celebrated artist Dong Kingman (very simply: "Chinese picknicks, shelled plink, milled Chunks crabgrahie.")

Dong, just back from Spain where he started doing backgrounds for the Samuel H. Bronston movie for John Wayne, about circus life, said he always had trouble with English. He was long worried about America's most ubiquitous and most disrespectful-of-the-law motorists: one Mr. Mail, initials U. S. "I kept saying that this Mr. Mail who was always parking near fire plugs was going to get into trouble some day when there was a fire," Dong says. He never did, however.

Chief Justice Earl Warren celebrated becoming a grandfather for the 15th time, with John Daly, John's bride, Virginia, who just had a new-born to follow the redhead, is doing fine.

Never saw a couple of in-laws so proud of each other. . . Italian Producer Dino De Laurentiis plans to rent that very valuable Broadway & 46th St. sign space and put up merely the words "The Bible," indicating the coming of his masterpiece (the hopes) about the Scriptures. . . Martha Hyer rivals Brigitte Bardot, they say, in some scenes in "The Carpetbaggers."

Spivy's pretty sick at Roosevelt Hospital, but recovering . . . Patricia Wynne, doing her show at Westchester Dinner Theater, isn't dating; the ex of Errol Flynn says, "I'm sticking to business." . . . New faces, new faces for modeling and movies! The photos are screaming for them. . . I'm just sentimentally slobby enough to have loved all but about a minute of "Here's Love" with lovely Janis Paige, Craig Stevens and that cute little Valerie Lee. Stupendous: Laurence Naismith, David Doyle and Cliff Hall.

The Midnight Earl . . .

Helmut Traubel canceled her appearance on the Jimmy Dean TV'er virus . . . Lisa Kirk has a bid to do the Ford auto commercial. . . Movie Exec. Merry LeRoy got an award from Mayor Wagner at Grace Mansion, then walked across the street to Dr. Hosp. to see his new grandchild. . . The Blue Angel's Danny Meehan turned down the lead in the nat'l company of "Stop the World."

Yankee star Elton Howard is moving into the new house he bought with his Series Lot. . . Merle Oberon and husband Bruno Paglia were in the crowd giving El Morocco its most bustling business of the year. . . Gloria Swanson signed autographs with her eyebrow pencil at the Steak Pit in Farnam.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Psychiatrists say girls tend to marry men like their fathers. And that, says Galt, explains why mothers cry a weddings.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Some people don't care how much they have to pay for something, as long as it isn't right now.

EARL'S PEARLS: The only thing missing in a modern kitchen these days is an old-fashioned wife.

Robert Young and Jack Cassidy were at the Rat Fink Room opening, where Jackie Kannon told the jampacked audience: "I'd rather drink along with Dean than sing along with Mitch."

That's earl, brother.

At Ecumenical Council

Catholics Will Redefine Birth Control

VATICAN CITY (AP)—A leading Roman Catholic progressive said Tuesday night the Vatican Ecumenical Council will redefine the church's position on birth control, but not this year.

Leo Joseph Cardinal Suenens, archbishop of Brussels, said birth control would be reached eventually, as part of the 17th and last session—or topic—considered by the council, which will recess this session Dec. 4.

The cardinal is one of four special representatives named by Pope Paul VI to represent him personally at the council sessions. He spoke at a meeting of bishops from Africa which was crowded to overflowing by prelates and priests from other countries.

Cardinal Suenens gave no indication what action he thought the council might take toward the church's opposition to all methods of birth control except the rhythm method. He agreed the issue is one of the major contemporary problems confronting Catholicism.

WROTE BOOK

"Yes," he said with a smile, "I have written a book on it."

His book, "Love and Control," examines the church's restrictions on birth control and explores possibilities of greater medical research in the field.

Some prelates have said certain aspects of the question of birth control may be discussed even before the council takes up the 17th session concerning the Church in the modern world.

The problem of medical aids for birth control, some informants said, may be touched upon in such earlier topics as the one on marriage and chastity and on the sacraments including matrimony. Even these, however, are not likely to come up before next year.

Auxiliary Bishop Helder Camara of Rio de Janeiro has said he believed the 17th schema will be the key topic at the next session of the council.

BRAZILIAN SPEAKS

The bishop from Brazil, where the population explosion is being felt strongly, said: "I would like the church to form a new office to prepare the material for that schema, and to appoint laymen—not only priests—to that office."

Council fathers from the population-crowded Netherlands have expressed special interest in discussion on the Church's attitude toward the oral contraceptive pill.

The Rev. Cornelius de Jong, professor of canon law at the seminary of the diocese of Breda, Holland, said: "We cannot act any longer as if there is no pill in the world."

"We have not taken up any position on the morality of the oral pill," he said. "We merely seek guidance."

Red Farmer Given
Death Sentence

MOSCOW (AP) — A collective farmer in the Ukraine has been sentenced to death for attacking the chairman of his collective with an iron bar.

Pravda of the Ukraine, arriving in Moscow Tuesday, said the chairman survived, but a regional court from Kiev held a trial and sentenced farmer V. Gomyrnky to death.

The newspaper said Gomyrnky attacked the chairman because he refused to give him roofing material for a new house.

England, 108, Dies

PAIGNTON, England (UPI) — Miss Ellen Dart, a 108-year-old former nurse who was believed to be England's oldest inhabitant, died yesterday at a nursing home here. She would have been 109 on Nov. 1.

Husband
"too tired" for good

If your husband keeps coming home too tired to be gay or stimulating, too worn out to take you out, remember—the hectic "rat race" of today's business requires men to perform like human dynamo day after day, while builds up burning tensions that rob literally millions of husbands of energy and vigor they might otherwise enjoy!

What can you do to help counteract this tension-caused loss of vitality?

Many doctors recommend augmenting the daily diet with nature's remarkable "bounce-back" food, famous Kretschmer wheat germ. Made from the germinating heart of the kernel, wheat germ has been established by official U. S. Dept. of Agriculture studies to be the most healthful food known!

Kretschmer Wheat Germ actually supplies a whopping 80 nutrients important to good health, vigor and stamina!

Serve your husband this remarkable food every day and see how much more pep and vitality he has! Use these delicious, tasty toasted flakes as a cereal, on cereal, or add to pancakes, waffles, scrambled eggs, etc.

Thriftily, tasty Kretschmer Wheat Germ is great for the entire family, so be sure to get some. Look for it in vacuum-sealed plastic jars in the cereal section of your food store. Choose either regular or Sugar 'N Honey.

GUARANTEE—(1) Kretschmer Wheat Germ is the most healthful food known. (2) Your family will like its taste like flavor. If you are not satisfied, just write your name, address, and price paid on each of label and send to Kretschmer, Carrollton, Michigan, for full refund.

NEW HAIR-DO?—No, it's just the Mediterranean breeze in Jacqueline Kennedy's hair as she visited the island of Crete yesterday. President Kennedy's wife is cruising historic places on the luxury yacht "Christina" as guest of shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis.

Sailing With Jackie 'Great Way to Rest'

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Cruising where the colossal bronze statue of Apollo once marked the harbor of a great center of Greek art and philosophy. But Rhodes apparently has been bypassed.

Roosevelt, U.S. Undersecretary of Commerce, and his wife joined Mrs. Kennedy's vacation cruise of the Aegean after what he termed a somewhat rugged Middle East and African journey.

He said the island hopping sojourn on the hotel-like yacht of shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis is just what he needs.

It seems to be just what convalescing Mrs. Kennedy needs, too. She was smiling and energetically climbing ancient ruins in Crete yesterday.

Where the Christina will go next is a perennial mystery.

"That's the beauty of it," said F.D.R. Jr., "We make up our minds as we go along."

LAST MINUTE

The VIP guests of Onassis may have made up their minds at the last minute yesterday to take in Crete—a spot Mrs. Kennedy said she dreamed of going to all her life to see the Knossos palace of King Minos and the site of the famous art and culture of the Minoans.

Travel agent Anthony Samothracis, who speaks seven languages, said he got word at his office in Iraklion, Crete, only a short time before the Christina arrived that Mrs. Kennedy needed a guide.

where the colossal bronze statue of Apollo once marked the harbor of a great center of Greek art and philosophy. But Rhodes apparently has been bypassed.

Mrs. Kennedy was heading today for Onassis' dream island of Levkas, off the west coast of Greece. The millionaire shipowner is planning development of part of this Ionian island as a tourist attraction.

The weather continues bright and sunny, but Aegean was turning a bit rough today. The Christina sailed into thunderstorms again last night on its way north from Crete.

State Will Fight Japanese Beetles

LANSING (AP)—A bill to provide an emergency appropriation of $130,000 in state funds for war on Japanese beetles buzzed through the legislature Wednesday and went to Gov. George Romney for signature.

The appropriation—sought by Romney in a special message Monday night—will be used to fight a sudden infestation of the destructive insects in Calhoun and Washtenaw counties.

The federal government will provide another $130,000 in matching funds to help curb the menace to crops in Calhoun and Washtenaw counties, where a total of some 72,000 acres are affected.

Landry Attacks Police, Press, Renewal Aides

Mayor Robert A. Landry last night loosed a verbal attack against city police enforcement, urban renewal officials and the Pontiac Press as a follow-up to the firing of City Manager Robert A. Stierer last month.

Landry delivered his address to explain the position he and four other commissioners took in suspending and firing Stierer.

Koren Under Official Gun

Commission Requests Probe of Department

By DICK SAUNDERS

The same City Commission majority that fired former city manager Robert A. Stierer Sept. 17, passed a resolution last night which may signal the dismissal of Police Chief Joseph Koren.

Approved by a 5-2 vote, the resolution:

1) Assesses poor leadership and procedures in the police department.

2) Orders Assistant City Manager John F. Reinke to analyze the department, and recommends that he provide new leadership if his analysis confirms their conclusions.

NOT ON AGENDA

The resolution was neither included on the formal agenda, nor presented as an added item at the commission's informal session just before the meeting.

It was offered by Mayor Pro Tem Winford E. Bottom and supported by Commissioner Loy L. Ledford during a poll of the commission following completion of action on agenda items.

A motion by Commissioner Charles H. Harmon to defer action one week was defeated by an identical 5-2 margin.

Voting against the resolution were Commissioners Harmon and William H. Taylor Jr. Voting in favor were Mayor Robert A. Landry and Commissioners Bottom, Milton R. Henry, Dick M. Kirby and Ledford.

Taylor and Harmon objected to the resolution because it was not given to them until meeting time.

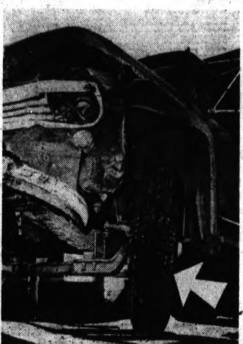

OPPOSE MOVE

Taylor has previously opposed any move to fire Koren.

Harmon said after the meeting that he wouldn't support any move "by the commission" (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Illness Starts Mac Heir Talk

Tory Chief Undergoes Operation Tomorrow

BLACKPOOL, England (AP) — Impressions hardened among Conservative party leaders today that Harold Macmillan, stricken by illness, soon will have to step down as prime minister of Great Britain.

The prime minister is to be operated on tomorrow for a prostate gland ailment.

Macmillan's doctor said the party leader would not be fully active "for at least two or three months."

The annual conference of the ruling Tories opened formally in an atmosphere of shock and confusion at the development.

There was a sense of uneasiness about the party's debates, an national education and health because the issue of leadership was the only one preoccupying the 4,000 assembled delegates.

Elder statesmen, managers and ministers who form the party hierarchy faced a stark choice between soldiering on leaderless for the next two or three months in the expectation that Macmillan will recover, or agreeing by Saturday on an heir-apparent who would be ready to take over when Macmillan signals he has had enough.

Even though the leaders themselves still were deeply engaged in secret discussion over the claims of rival contenders, it became increasingly evident that the consensus was that the present situation could not be allowed to continue.

Smog Shrouds Road; 21 Cars in Collisions

By ROGER SRIGLEY and JIM LONG

Heavy fog mixed with smoke from a smoldering peat bog was blamed by police for a series of accidents this morning in the Dequindre-18 Mile Road area.

An unknown number of persons was rushed to area hospitals.

At least 21 cars were involved in collisions, according to police.

An ambulance taking some of the injured to the hospital smashed into a car that had been in an accident earlier.

Visibility was zero at the time of the accidents, most of which occurred around 6:45 a.m.

The smoke and fog had cleared from the area, considered a low spot, by 8 a.m.

Traffic was detoured around the area while police from seven departments worked at the accident scenes.

INVESTIGATING OFFICERS
Police investigating the accidents were from Troy, Oakland and Macomb county sheriff departments, Centerline State Police Post, Rochester, Bloomfield Township and Birmingham.

One Oakland County deputy described the accidents as the "worst mess" he had seen.

Troy Fire Chief Lauren Ford said the peat bog had been burning since Sunday.

"There's very little we can do," Ford said. "We have one" (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Signs Indicate President Will Announce Sale

Russia, 3 Satellites Expected to Purchase $300 Million in Grain

WASHINGTON (AP) There were signs that President Kennedy may break his silence today on a U.S.-Soviet wheat deal which is rumored to come in some quarters to be almost signed, sealed and delivered.

One straw in the wind was that the White House abruptly changed the time of today's presidential news conference to 6 p.m. EDT (5 p.m. Pontiac time), two hours later than it had been scheduled.

The time change strengthened speculation and reports that the President was preparing to announce his decision on the proposed sale of American wheat to the Soviet Union and other Communist-bloc nations.

But Pierre Salinger, Kennedy's press secretary, said he had "no information about an announcement" and that the time for the news conference had been delayed because "it's more convenient for the President's schedule."

Although the schedule as officially announced was pretty much blank from midmorning until the news conference, Salinger said Kennedy has "a lot of appointments. He has appointments here every day that I don't put on the record."

KEEPS TO HIMSELF

If Kennedy was about to make a decision on a U.S.-Soviet wheat deal, though, a source said he was keeping it close to himself.

Reports were coming in from other administration sources that Kennedy would disclose, probably today, that the United States was on the verge of selling more than $300 million worth of wheat to the Soviet Union and three East European satellites.

The Soviet Union was reported to have expressed interest through diplomatic channels in buying $500 million worth, with Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Bulgaria bidding for $60 million more.

But there were caution signals around Capitol Hill.

Reports from pipelines there indicated that President Kennedy was carefully examining the political aspects of the situation before making a decision.

GETS ADVICE — Joseph Valachi (right), tells the Senate Investigations subcommittee about a nationwide crime syndicate, listens to committee chief counsel Jerome Adierman at yesterday's session in Washington.

Thugs Risked Lives to Sell Dope---Valachi

WASHINGTON (AP) — Joseph Valachi testified today that the bosses of the Cosa Nostra crime syndicate laid down a rule against narcotics trafficking in 1957 but money-hungry gangsters violated the rule even at the risk of death.

Under heavy guard as he made his fifth appearance before the Senate Investigations subcommittee, Valachi said that mob leaders in Chicago paid their "soldiers," a $200-a-week subsidy to lay off handling narcotics.

A convicted killer and narcotics peddler himself, Valachi said he had heard while he was in jail in Atlanta that the weekly payments had been raised to $250.

But Valachi said that in New York the bosses of the Cosa Nostra mobs, or families, didn't make these payments to their "soldiers" and this caused some grumbling.

He testified that if gang members in Chicago were caught dealing in narcotics after getting the weekly payments to lay off, they had "no chance at all."

He said a couple were caught in Chicago and "they paid with their lives."

WHAT PENALTY?

Asked what the penalty was in the New York family bossed by Vito Genovese, in which he was lively soldier, Valachi said: (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Auto Pioneer Dies in Detroit

Alfred J. Fisher Was 1 of 7 Famed Brothers

From Our News Wires
DETROIT — Alfred J. Fisher — one of the seven Fisher brothers who pioneered the auto industry — died today following a long illness.

Fisher, 70, had been ill for a long time. He died at Henry Ford Hospital.

He served as chief engineer for the Fisher Body Co., founded in 1906 by his older brothers, Fred J. and Charles P. He continued in that post when the firm became a division of General Motors, and held it until 1945.

Fisher was the second youngest of the brothers who designed the first enclosed automobile body.

He is the fourth of the six brothers to die. Surviving are William A. and Edward F., both older than he.

He also is survived by his wife, Alma, five children and 8 grandchildren.

Services have been tentatively set for Friday.

Flora Hits Sparsely Populated Islands

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Flora, one of the most deadly tropical storms on record, hit thinly populated Bahamaian island today, apparently her last landfall as a hurricane.

Flora's center, surrounded by winds up to 100 miles an hour, passed over the island of Mayaguay.

Some of the islands in the southeastern Bahamas — Inagua, Caicos and Grand Turk — were still due for gales.

Officials at Haiti, hardest hit, estimated the dead at 3,500, but said the exact figure will never be known.

Many parts of Cuba are still under water.

Some of the islands in the southeastern Bahamas — Inagua, Caicos and Grand Turk — were still due for gales.

But the islands, some of which contain U.S. missile tracking equipment, were expected to escape serious damage because of ample warning.

"For all practical purposes," said forecaster Robert McCallin, "Flora, as a hurricane, is no longer a threat to any land areas."

Flora moved off the northeast coast of Cuba yesterday after pounding the island with winds and rain for five days. Nearly 60,000 persons reportedly abandoned flooded homes in Oriente and Camaguey provinces.

Over the weekend, the slow-moving hurricane devastated Haiti, leaving 3,500 persons dead and 100,000 homeless.

Haiti Hurricane Deaths Figured at 3,500

Dr. Jacques Fourcand, North American-educated neurosurgeon, based his estimate on reports made by runners to each of the hardest-hit towns on the north and south coasts of Haiti's southern peninsula.

The Red Cross tabulators made their way by small boat and horseback. There are no airstrips at most of the villages and the weather, with Flora still flailing the Windward Passage area, has been too miserable for even helicopters to touch down in the devastated places.

The Red Cross listed the number of residents of each town hit, the number still there and the survivors' theories as to what had happened to the population.

CAN'T BE FOUND
"Reports of mass burials are ridiculous," said Dr. Fourcand, "because you can't find the bodies. They are buried in the mud and debris or they are washed away by the sea. Eventually, some may turn up alive but most will be written down as lost for ever."

Viet Boats Assailed

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Rep. William S. Broomfield, R-Dakota, has protested the secret police boating of American newsmen to President Ngo Dinh Diem and his influential brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu.

Broomfield told newsmen yesterday he asked both Diem and Nhu to guarantee the safety of American and other foreign newsmen in Saigon. He is a member of a Congressional fact-finding team in South Viet Nam that met with Diem and Nhu.

Police beat the American newsmen Saturday after a public suicide by a Buddhist monk. Broomfield protested particularly the fact that the National Board of Commerce, who came from Michael Sharkey's ribs and a finger were broken and he suffered head wounds in the police beating.

Broomfield said Diem told him that he knew nothing about the incident. The Congressman quoted Nhu, however, as saying: "We are looking for the assailants and will punish them when we find them."

A similar protest was filed by U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge on Saturday.

13 GIs Feared Dead in Jungle Crashes

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Thirteen U.S. military men are missing in central Viet Nam after the crash of two American Marine helicopters and a Vietnamese fighter-bomber. Wreckage of all three craft were spotted, and there was no sign of survivors.

Search planes sent into the area this morning ran into a storm of gunfire from Communist guerrillas. The American pilot of another Marine helicopter was wounded and a Vietnamese soldier aboard was killed.

U.N. to Probe Buddhist Issue

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A U.N. fact-finding mission is expected to leave soon for South Viet Nam to investigate charges that President Ngo Dinh Diem's regime is violating the rights of Buddhists.

The assembly agreed yesterday to dispatch a mission to be headed by U.N. President Carlos

An observation plane taking part in the search last night was hit by gunfire and returned to base with a wounded Vietnamese observer aboard.

The fact chain of events began yesterday when a Vietnamese plane crashed in a five-bombing attack on Communist positions south of Da Nang, in the central highlands about 300 miles north of Saigon.

A U.S. military spokesman said the plane exploded when it hit the ground and it was believed the pilot, a U.S. Air Force captain, and his Vietnamese companion were killed.

SEARCH PARTY
Two helicopters were sent out to look for the plane. They found it late yesterday, one landed and the other hovered. Both were forced to leave the area about 7:30 p.m. because of Viet Cong guerrilla activity.

Whether the downed helicopters were shot down by Communist guerrillas was not clear. Aboard the two were four Marine officers, five Marine enlisted men, a Navy doctor and two Navy hospital corpsmen.

When the search was begun this morning, searching planes and helicopters messaged that they were running into heavy ground fire, the military spokesman said.

If all 12 Americans aboard the two craft are dead it would be the heaviest loss of life among U.S. forces in one incident in South Viet Nam.

On Oct. 6, 1962, seven Marines were killed and one injured when a helicopter crashed and burned in the same area south of Da Nang.

On Jan. 10, 1963, seven U.S. advisers were killed in a helicopter crash south of Saigon.

Before the air crashes, 60 Americans had been killed by enemy action in South Viet Nam and 53 died of other causes.

that has been burning on and off for the last 20 years.

The burning pest bog is on the west side of Dequindre and is owned by several people, according to Ford.

He said a heavy rain might put it out.

FOG BLAMED
The fog was mostly responsible for the mess, Ford said.

Many of the drivers continued on to work even though their cars were damaged.

The following is a partial list compiled by the Troy Police Department of those taken to hospitals.

James D. Freed, 20, of Wayne; Russell Mangiampina, 24, of Detroit; and Donald E. Bannerman, 24, of Hazel Park.

Among those involved in the accidents but not seriously injured were Francis P. Raines, 45, of 551 E. Maple, and Michael J. Jerome, 48, of 665 Sylvanwood, of Troy; Dale E. Diener, 33, 4271 Van Dyke, William Sprow, 16, 4846 Bluebird, Harold E. Schunert, 35, of 1171 Diamond, and Alfred D. Marsack, 48, 6172 Stacy, all of Ulica; and Ronald R. Thatchner, 21, 127 Welfare, Walled Lake.

"If they had the evidence on you, you were dead."

But Valachi acknowledged he had broken the rule. And he said that he had some of the bosses, "especially Albert Anastasia."

He named Genovese, now in jail after a narcotics conviction, as another boss who violated his own rule.

Valachi said the rule against trafficking in narcotics was put into effect for Genovese's mob in 1948 but that it did not apply to all the Cosa Nostra families until after Albert Anastasia's slaying in 1957.

He said the rule was put into effect in Chicago "around the same time," but he did not make clear whether he was talking about 1948 or 1957. Nor did he explain how Anastasia violated a rule that he said didn't become general until after his death.

The addition will include 103 guest rooms, a heated swimming pool, barber shop, steam baths, coffee shop and meeting rooms. The hotel, expected to be completed in June 1964, was designed by Begrow and Brown of Bloomfield Hills. The original Kingsley Inn moved into a new building five years ago.

Algeria Heads for Showdown

From Our News Wires
ALGIERS (AP)—A showdown appeared building up today in Algeria's Berber revolt as President Ahmed Ben Bella canceled a trip to the U.N. General Assembly and moved more troops toward the rebel stronghold in the Kabylie Mountains.

Apparently abandoning hope of settling the dispute by negotiation, Ben Bella ordered troop convoys into the mountains east of Algiers and told a news conference: "There will be no discussions with the criminals, no bargaining. They only understand the language of machine guns."

10 KILLED
Ben Bella, who had been scheduled to leave today for New York, also announced that 10 persons had been killed in a clash in the coal-rich Sahara-Berchar area of the northwest Sahara which both Morocco and Algeria claim.

He blamed the incident on "uncontrolled Moroccan elements"—an apparent slap at the Moroccan government—but did not say which side suffered the casualties.

Last week Ben Bella assured the nation regular army troops would be used against "the sister population of Kabylie," stronghold of the two million Berbers. Most roadblocks on the approaches to the mountains were manned by the gendarmier, a militarized police force.

The Berbers, led by Hocine Ait Ahmed and Col. Mohand Ou El Hadj, rejected government appeals for peace talks. And Tuesday Ben Bella said: "If necessary we will arm hundreds of thousands of Algerians" to crush the revolt.

Man Missing 18 Hours Found in Wooded Area

ALLEGAN (AP)—Searchers today found Gary Voss in a wooded area near Ely Lake, approximately nine miles southwest of here, after he had been missing nearly 18 hours from a group of hospital patients on an outing.

Voss, about 60, was reported missing yesterday when he became separated from fellow Pine Rest Christian Hospital patients on a group outing at the lake.

"Or," Landry continued, "of facing a barrage of personal, biased and unjustified adverse publicity. To the manager's challenge, the commission's answer was firm and to the point—he was suspended."

Landry pointed to a rising crime rate in the city in condemning police "inefficiency."

He said that a trend toward a rising crime rate nationally was no excuse for condoning it in Pontiac.

Landry made two recommendations for changes in the department, indicating more would be suggested soon.

He called for "immediate formation of a volunteer civilian do-

De Gaulle Visit Set Up in Talks

But Little Else Comes of U.S. Conference

WASHINGTON (AP)—An agreement for French President Charles de Gaulle to visit Washington next year is the only tangible result of two days of talks between Kennedy administration officials and Maurice Couve de Murville, De Gaulle's foreign minister.

Yet both sides appeared to be satisfied when the conferences ended. The emphasis was on clearing away what the State Department called "unnecessary points of misunderstanding."

Couve de Murville announced the De Gaulle visit after his call on the White House. He said it will take place "some time next year."

Both French and American officials stressed that contrary to reports in French papers the general might come in February. No date has been mentioned as yet.

PROTOCOL VISIT
Protocol required that De Gaulle return Kennedy's 1961 Paris visit. The agreement that he would do so next year should be considered an improvement in the rather cold climate of Franco-American relations, some officials here said.

And recalled what Kennedy said at a news conference in April: "I think General de Gaulle would be glad to come, or, protocol aside, I would be glad to go to France if there was some matter which we felt a personal exchange would solve."

Authoritative sources cautioned, however, that the administration does not expect any dramatic changes from a Kennedy-De Gaulle meeting. There is no hope here that the French leader will have a change of heart and change his scheme of things which boils down to this: a France independent of everybody.

Report Shows Students Eat Plenty at School

BIRMINGHAM — Mothers who don't milk and six cents for adult milk.

Total expenditures for food services were $412,891.27.

The Saturday swimming classes at Seaholm, Derby and Barmen pools have attracted 855 children this fall, according to Birmingham Recreation Director Donald Martin.

The series began Sept. 28. Last year 750 children enrolled, Martin noted.

Included in the federal grocery deliveries were such items as 147,417 one-half pints of milk, 25,000 pounds of butter, 34,800 pounds of flour, 30,714 pounds of turkey and chicken, 6,820 pounds of ground beef, 536 cases of vegetables, 523 cases of fruit and 225 cases of potatoes.

A total of 117 persons are on cafeteria staffs. In addition to the regular lunch program, the department last year served 2,000 dinners at 14 paid banquets.

Services for the PTA included 46 meetings, the council president's dinner and the regional council dinner.

PRICES SAME
Costs of the lunches remained the same: 30 cents for secondary, 25 cents for elementary, 40 cents for all adults; two cents for students.

General Motors Corp. has announced that Hydra-Matic Division will be the new name of the former Detroit Transmission Division.

John F. Gordon, GM president, in revealing the change in a luncheon meeting today in Detroit said has since been relocated near Ypsilanti.

"Moreover," Gordon said, "it seemed to us that the time had come to identify the division's designation more directly with its product."

Dr. Martin, 46, takes over the post vacated by the death of Dr. Walter H. Obernau.

The new medical superintendent received his medical degree from Ohio State University in 1944.

INTERVIEW IN NY
He interned at Metropolitan Hospital, New York City, and was a resident year later at Kings Park State Hospital, New York.

Wagge noted that the services of Summit County Hospital which is located in Cuyahoga Falls, near Akron are essentially community-based and those being planned for Michigan.

Dr. Martin was senior psychiatrist at Kings Park where he supervised a 1,400-bed continued treatment hospital. At Central Islip State Hospital, New York, where he received part of his training, he was supervising psychiatrist.

In 1956, the native Ohioan turned to Summit County Hospital and three years later was named medical superintendent. He is married and has two children.

Yankee Defeat Makes 1963 Historical Year

American history is replete with time-fixing events. The Signing of the Declaration of Independence in 1776, for instance; the Assassination of ABRAHAM LINCOLN in 1865; the Atlantic Flight of LINDBERGH in 1927.

But now we have a new year of reference: The Year the Yankees Lost the World Series in Four Straight Games. That was in 1963, the present generation will one day be telling its grandchildren.

It probably had to happen, and seemingly the Country at large wanted it to—if for no other reason than for reassurance that the Bronx pin-stripers are human just like the rest of us.

Yet the perennial American League and World Champions looked like champs even in defeat, and none of their followers need hang his head over what the fates of baseball decreed.

In 60 World Series to date, the Yankees have appeared in 27, winning 20. In but four previous Series was the title decided in four straight games, and the Yankees dished out in three of them what they just suffered at the hands of Los Angeles.

We congratulate manager WALT ALSTON and his stout-hearted Dodgers for their superb exhibition of nerve and all-around play. They well rate the title they have won, and are a championship team of which America can be proud.

Couples Aren't Adept at Marital Squabbles

Now we have a California psycho-therapist declaring that married couples do not know how to fight. He proposes a municipal-fight center where they can learn how.

The learned one, incidentally he's married, describes marriage generally as a power struggle which erupts in "disorganized arguments."

Those arguments, he adds, should be programmed, so that each partner gains knowledge of the other.

Seems to us that this points up continuous need for the role of the matchmaker, the one who probably was responsible for all the trouble in the first place.

Valachi Investigation a Sorry Exhibition

For our money, the VALACHI melodrama being presented in Washington is an unmitigated bore and one reflecting little credit on Federal personages identified with it.

In the first place, we don't think the all-around mobster who is hammering it up for the edification of a nationwide audience has given out with anything not previously known by any self-respecting metropolitan law-enforcement agency.

And in the second, it is a chilling but known fact that major crime in this and most other countries operates along organized lines.

It may add a cloak-and-dagger aura to the nasty business to label it with something fancy like Cosa Nostra, but that does not alter the fact that it is peopled with a motley collection of just plain criminals of the lowest order to be dealt with by conscientious protectors of the public safety.

We assume that a deal of some sort was cooked up with VALACHI to induce him to "sing," and that suitable reward awaits him. But if he had anything of importance to reveal, simple logic would have dictated that it be secretly confided to proper authorities and not paraded before the world for the use or misuse of those unentitled to the knowledge.

We recognize that it is the function of the Congress to conduct public hearings into matters affecting the common weal. But that does not relieve legislative bodies of the obligation of responsible selectivity in the areas and personalities they presume to investigate.

Little selectivity was displayed in the VALACHI charade.

The confessed murderer testified that he was once given the "kiss of death," the lethal portent of which failed to materialize. If he's kissed again, we hope that society gets a better break.

First Lady Takes Luxury Holiday

By RUTH MONTGOMERY
WASHINGTON — If a picture is worth 10,000 words, it would be interesting to know whether an equal number of votes could be affected by the pathetic little picture of John F. Kennedy Jr. sobbing bitterly at the airport the other day, after his father waved goodbye.

The President was flying to Arkansas to dedicate a dam and mend a few political fences in the Deep South. Little "John John," as his father calls him, was doubly grief-stricken, however, because his mother had also departed two days earlier for a yachting vacation in Greece.

RUTH MONTGOMERY
Caroline has her schoolmates, who come each day to classes on the White House third floor, but two-and-a-half-year-old "John John," too young for kindergarten, seemed to think he had only the panda doll that he clutched to his beating heart.

The First Lady, checking in at the White House for only a few days after a summer in Hyannis Port, where she lost a baby son, and a visit, with her mother in Newport, is now holidaying with her brother-in-law and sister, Prince and Princess Stanislaw Radziwill.

The high spot of her vacation is the trip aboard the gleaming white yacht of Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis.

The yacht "Christina" is named for Onassis' ex-wife, whom he discarded in favor of opera diva Marie Callas.

From all reports, the storied love affair between Callas and Onassis has now cooled by several degrees, but Christina (Tina) Onassis subsequently hit the jackpot by marrying the Marquis of Blandford, son of the Duke of Marlborough, who was considered the top-catch of the international jet-set.

The Onassis yacht is probably the largest privately owned ship afloat. Well over 300 feet long, it carries its own canary yellow seaplane which merely flies off to collect fresh caviar and other delicacies for the gay parties on board.

Guests are assigned personal maids and stewards, and need merely press a button to secure pedicures, manicures, massages and hair-setting services.

Sir Winston Churchill, since retiring from his top post at No. 10 Downing Street, has made several trips on the Onassis yacht, but has been subjected to British editorial criticism for accepting the hospitality of the Greek shipping magnate who is also chief owner of the famed Monte Carlo gambling casino.

Rumors are current that Onassis is beginning to pull out of Monte Carlo, where his relations with the Prince of Monaco and Princess Grace have been none too warm of late.

PLANNING TO MOVE?
Some of his brighters and tankers are reportedly now flying the Panamanian flag, and some U.S. officials are concerned that he may be planning to move his gambling operations to the Caribbean area off our Florida coastline.

For this reason, these officials are privately questioning the wisdom of our First Lady putting herself under obligation to the fabulously wealthy but somewhat mysterious Onassis.

David Lawrence Says:

U.S. Should Help Cuba Victims

WASHINGTON — The United States has an opportunity to help the people of Cuba who have just suffered devastation of their farm lands by a hurricane.

To grant aid at this time would make an indelible impression on the people of Cuba, for they have been repeatedly told by LAWRENCE CASTRO that this country is hostile to them.

The mere fact that the United States government is ready to put aside its formalities in dealing with a country whose government isn't recognized diplomatically would create inside Cuba a feeling that the Cuban nation has not been abandoned by the people of this country.

Sen. George A. Smathers, Democrat, of Florida — a state which is caring for many Cuban exiles — is a staunch antagonist of Castro and his government, but nevertheless says in a statement that he favors aid to Cuba through the American Red Cross.

He declares that, if permission were granted by the State Department here, the United States need not deal with Castro or his government.

Because the United States is close by, it can furnish aid promptly. If some such move isn't made, the Soviets might well take advantage of the situation and come to the rescue of the Cubans, if only for propaganda purposes.

GREATER OPPORTUNITY

On the propaganda side, however, the United States has a greater opportunity than does the Soviet Union. For the people of Cuba know that, in the long run, their interests are more closely interwoven with those of this country than with the distant government in Moscow.

There has been, as a matter of fact, very little communication recently between the people of Cuba and the people of the United States.

Except for the help given Cuban exiles and the sending of food and medicines in exchange for the prisoners held for ransom, there has been dependence on radio broadcasts to convey to the Cubans the information that the people of the United States are still interested in their fate.

The opportunity now is presented for the formation of a comprehensive plan of economic aid and development for the Cuban people. This could be widely publicized so that the residents of the island will come to realize how much better off they would be if they could somehow get rid of Castro.

BROAD CHANCE

It is thus a broad chance for an important move on the policy front which could perhaps hasten the day of a revolution to overthrow Castro.

If he chanced America's offer of aid, he might unwittingly even light the fire of a revolution. However, distasteful it might be to him, he might be taking less chance by letting the supplies come onto the island than by refusing them.

The question naturally arises whether the export of American wheat to the Soviet people would not come in the same category of humanitarianism even though it is a commercial sale. The United States doesn't need the money from the sale, and the government here could block it.

There is always the possibility, however, that the United States could begin to negotiate an agreement with Moscow to end the cold war. The prospect could be held forth of an even larger program of economic cooperation than the sale of wheat.

Certainly diplomacy should be busy these days at governmental levels, but the favorable impressions created by letting peoples everywhere have food from America offer propaganda advantages inside other countries.

And it is after all, the feeling of friendship other peoples come to have toward the United States which must in the long run cause them to dissent from the policies of autocratic governments.

Bob Considine Says:

Modern Jetliner Soars Over Old Civilizations

EN ROUTE ROME—There is something God-like about flying.

The feeling overcame me first many years ago when a girl named Cara Cook, who had taught me how to drive a car, benefitted me further by plunking down two bucks for an open cockpit sight-seeing ride around the Washington Monument.

The altitude we reached was a heady 600 feet and the speed under 100 miles an hour. But it gave me a feeling of mastery CONSIDINE over gravity which, I guess, is the secret dream of all of us.

As these words are written I am one of 100 aboard flight 119. The altitude is 31,000 feet, the speed about 560 m.p.h. The view today is not of the Washington Monument.

The view is of Cyprus, a great brown and impersonal blob of land intruding on the serene blue of the Mediterranean.

It seems incredible that a land as barren in appearance and as aloof of the bustle of our stewardesses serving proper wines could have been a place of war and disorder for uncountable centuries.

By the time that last paragraph was finished there was new land far beneath us, bits of brown vertebrae knocked off the spine of Turkey in some forgotten geological past.

ISLAND OF RHODES

And then Rhodes, where Christian knights, forced out of the Holy Land at the end of crusades, fought ghastly wars.

Off again, like ground-level lightning and thunder, and the contrast of the dun-colored south of Iran to the sapphire of the Arabian Sea, over oil-soaked Muscat, Oman, Bahrein, and a long leg over perhaps the bleakest land on the planet, the Saudi Arabian desert.

Endless miles without a living creature, limitless emptiness, yet appallingly arresting.

Now over Damascus over the world's oldest city and into bustling Beirut.

Athens is under us now, and we stir the puzzled dust of Pericles. Soon we'll tickle the instep of the boot that is Italy, rudder a bit to starboard, sweep up the coast, and course down one more of the endless roads to Rome.

Viet Nam Mess

The New York World-Telegram

It is a brutally messed up state of affairs that Richard Starnes reports from South Viet Nam.

The mess is American, involving a bitter feud among U.S. agencies—which may help explain the vast cost and lack of satisfactory progress. The whole situation must be shocking to Americans who believe the nation is engaged in a selfless crusade to protect democracy in this far-off land.

Starnes has been told that:

The Central Intelligence Agency has flatly refused to carry out instructions from Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, frustrating a plan of action from Washington.

Secret agents, or "spooks," from CIA "have penetrated every branch of the American community in Saigon." Who are we fighting there anyway? The Communists, or our own people?

The CIA agents represent a tremendous power and are totally unaccountable to anyone. They interfere in military operations, to the frustration of military officials.

The bitterness of other American agencies in Saigon toward the CIA, Starnes found to be "almost unbelievable." On the basis of this last statement alone, there is something terribly wrong with the system. Defense Secretary McNamara has just finished his investigation and is preparing to report to President Kennedy. McNamara is a tough man with a reputation for de-

Has Remedy for Stubborn Demonstrators

On many newscasts we see policemen picking up and carrying away demonstrators who have laid down. The demonstrator carries the mule in the coal mine. If one extra car of coal was hitched behind, the mule refused to cooperate.

The driver (called mule skinner) applied a black snake whip.

Then the mule would lie down in the tracks and mud; but the mule skinner had a remedy. The miners wore a carbon light that had a two or three inch blaze of gas. The mule skinner removed same from his cap and went to the rear of the mule. The mule always got up and the cars went with him.

With human mules this would work. Police must be allowed a tougher treatment. If I were an officer and not allowed to defend myself, they would only throw stones at me once. I wouldn't be on the force the next day.

Power Position Is Solidified by Southern Senators' Seniority

By J. W. DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP-Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., was complaining the other day about the power enjoyed by Southern members of Congress.

As things now stand, seniority is the basic factor in getting good committee assignments and chairmanships.

Southerners hold more than their geographical share because so many of them have been in Congress for so long, sometimes sympathetic and sometimes opposed to national administration purposes.

The new talk is circulating among a group of self-styled "loyal" House Democrats who say they would not abandon seniority. But they would strike at the seniority of those members who were found to be actively disloyal to the party in presidential elections.

Those named could be removed from committees in which they have long seniority or could be denied further promotion on the committees. This would lessen their chances of becoming chairmen.

An appraisal of what chances this movement has will have to await the 1964 presidential campaign, to see who among the Democratic members might bolt the national ticket. Some Southerners have bolted in the past, and some are restive about 1964.

But the chances of Congress tinkering very much with the claims of seniority are not all strong.

The New York Journal-American

There has been wide criticism of the conduct of the Senate subcommittee hearings at which Joseph Valachi has sung his song of crime. TV listeners have protested against the spectacle of "glorifying" this admitted killer. U.S. Senators have been described as "fawning" on their prize witness.

We agree that the kid-glove treatment of Valachi at public hearings is disgraceful. What kind of moral values are expected to impress themselves on the nation's young when they can see on the TV screens members of the highest legislative chamber soft-soaping a hardened gangster?

Good Time to Buy, Say Consumers

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Consumers think it is "a good time to buy," the University of Michigan's survey research center says in forecasting the economy will "continue to show considerable strength" for the next six months or so.

The center released a report yesterday which showed consumer sentiment was found "cautiously optimistic" in any August survey.

"There is a growing feeling that prices are low or reasonable and that good buys are available," the center said, adding: "such attitudes have, of course, favorable implications for demand in the months ahead."

The center reached its conclusions through a nationwide, cross-section sampling of 1,350 adults. It has conducted similar surveys regularly since 1951.

INCOME CONFIRMS

"Plans to buy a new car are as frequent as a year ago," the center said, adding that "a somewhat larger proportion of prospective buyers intend to go ahead with their purchase before the end of the calendar year."

While only slightly more than one-fourth of those interviewed expect Congress will pass a tax cut bill, about two-thirds of those questioned said they thought passage would be "a good idea."

And when asked what most people would do with tax savings, the center reported three out of four replied "they would spend the money."

Area Ponds, Lakes Receive 'Treatment'

Four ponds and two lakes in Oakland County have been chemically treated this fall as part of the Conservation Department's trout rehabilitation project.

Fenton, Davisburg, Bald Mountain and Lower Pettibone trout ponds and Algee and Hartwig Lakes will be restocked with legal trout and fingerlings. The treatment eliminated overpopulation by undersized pan and catch fish.

So treated were Twin, Cedar and Duperow lakes in the Lake State game area. Long Lake, however, received a "thinning" chemical dosage.

Mormon Vault Will Safeguard Genealogical Records

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—High on dollars worth of its genealogical records.

Called the Little Cottonwood project (after the canyon where it is located), the network of tunnels and vaults cost the church more than $1.5 million. More than three years in the making, it should be completed this year.

Salts (Mormon) has gouged a maze of under-rock caverns deep into the mountainside, lined with 1½ feet of concrete and heavy corrugated steel. Three large bank vault doors have been installed for added security. The three main passages will be intersected by three others more than 400 feet long.

500 MILLION PAGES

Destined for storage in the vaults at controlled temperatures and humidity are more than 500 million microfilmed pages of genealogical records.

The church places considerable weight on the eternal nature of the family relationship. If a Mormon fully obeys the teachings of his faith, he may enter into a marriage covenant that not only lasts until "death do us part," but continues on "for time and eternity."

These eternal marriage ceremonies are performed in the temples of the church, of which there are now 12, with another under construction in Oakland, Calif.

Worthy members of the church are permitted to enter the temples, for marriages and other sacred ordinances.

Mormon doctrine states that members' ancestors who died before the religion was revealed in the early 1800s may be baptized by proxy as the first step in their acceptance into the faith. But the living must gather the necessary vital statistics concerning their kin. Thus, the emphasis on genealogical research and record keeping.

In recent years, the church's record-gathering chore has been facilitated through a cooperating program with thousands of archivists and priests in foreign countries.

The Mormons maintain a number of microfilming teams abroad, as well as in the United States.

These teams, where permitted, search records or any lead that could uncover information births, marriages, or deaths. The records are microfilmed and the film shipped to Salt Lake City.

Most archivists and priests are happy to cooperate when the microfilming crews promise them free microfilm copies of their records, pointing out that books can disintegrate, while microfilm is of a much more permanent nature.

Because of the zeal of thousands of dedicated church workers, the church genealogical library now includes more than 1.7 million microfilmed volumes.

More than 500 million pages have been microfilmed.

'NOTHING SECRET'

N. Eldon Tanner, president of the church's genealogical society, says there is nothing secret about the records. "The public is welcome to use all of our facilities," he declares, adding that thousands of non-Mormons annually come to the genealogical society headquarters in Salt Lake City for information.

The society maintains 200 microfilm reading machines for public use, and plans to add 400 more. The records come from Sweden, Denmark, Great Britain, the Netherlands, Germany, Finland, Mexico, Belgium, France, Norway, Canada, Australia, and other countries.

The church also has purchased copies of U.S. census records of most states from 1790 to 1880. These have been microfilmed, as have 67,000 printed family histories, local histories, and other publications associated with genealogy.

By United Press International
Seventeen civil rights groups today called a "massive one-day school boycott" in Chicago Oct. 22 in protest of the Chicago Board of Education's refusal to accept the resignation of Supt. Benjamin C. Willis.

"The demonstration will show the board of education the policies of de facto segregation will not be tolerated by Chicago parents after Willis leaves," Lawrence Landry, Coordinating Council of Community Organizations (CCCO) official, said in a statement.

Landry said parents would be asked to keep their youngsters out of school "in anticipation of final freedom from Dr. Willis." Landry spoke after an emergency meeting of the CCCO executive board last night.

Board of Education President Claire M. Rodewig named a committee of three board members yesterday to meet with Willis in an attempt to work out a satisfactory relationship.

Willis resigned Friday and accused the board of encroaching on his administrative duties by not going along with his plan for temporarily cutting back on a program to transfer gifted students to two high schools.

Willis, however, was under attack much of the summer by racial groups who protested his policies of neighborhood schools and mobile classrooms served to propagate segregation.

Elsewhere on the integration front in the north:

St. Louis, Mo. — The board of education unanimously elected the Rev. John J. Hicks yesterday as its first Negro president. The Rev. Mr. Hicks, pastor of the Union Memorial Methodist Church, was consistently aligned himself with efforts for greater integration.

Ex-Attorney General

Dies of Crash Injuries

WASHINGTON (UPI) — James M. McInerney, 58, a former assistant U.S. attorney general during the Truman administration, died yesterday of injuries received in a two-car crash hours earlier.

McInerney served under former Atty. Gen. J. Howard McGrath. He also served as assistant to the head of the Justice Department's Tax Division from 1947 to 1950 while prosecuting wartime tax cheaters.

St. Louis — A bi-racial police force replaced 100 civil rights pickets yesterday in a pushing shoving demonstration outside the Jefferson Bank and Trust Co. Two Negro youths were arrested. It was the first time police used the technique of keeping the pickets outside the bank.

Peoria, Ill. — About 50 sign-carrying, singing Negroes demonstrated for open occupancy in private housing yesterday in front of the Pere Marquette Hotel housing delegates to the Illinois Association of Real Estate Brokers.

Syria, Iraq Join Defenses

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Syria, Egypt's former partner in the United Arab Republic, has proclaimed a military union with neighboring Iraq.

Gen. Amin Hafez, strongman president of Syria National Revolutionary Council, said Tuesday troops of both nations will be under a supreme defense council. Iraq's defense minister, Gen. Mahdi Saleh Ammash, will be supreme commander of the unified army, aided by three defense council members from each country.

The Arab Socialist Ba'ath party rules both Syria and Iraq. The two governments have been working toward union since their agreement to join Egypt in an enlarged United Arab Republic broke down.

TOKYO (AP) — Communist North Korea said today it has signed an unofficial trade agreement with a British delegation.

Pyeong Yang radio said the agreement was concluded with Council for the Promotion of International Trade, but gave no figures.

The broadcast said North Korea will deliver various metals and minerals, chemicals, agricultural products and other commodities, while Britain will export special machine tools, complete plant equipment, ships, synthetic fibers and other products.

HALIFAX, N.S. (AP) — The Progressive Conservatives won their third consecutive victory in Nova Scotia provincial elections under Prime Minister Robert Lorne Stanfield Tuesday. The nation's leading opposition party increased its strength in the Nova Scotia Legislature from 27 to 39 seats, while the Liberals dropped from 15 to 4. The New Democratic party lost its only seat.

TOKYO (AP) — The two leaders of a Chinese Communist engineering mission left for home today without their defecting interpreter. Tao Heng-hsen, chief of the oil hydraulics mission, and Chiang Kuo-hsen, his deputy, had extended their stay in an effort to get custody of Chou Hung-Ching, 44-year-old interpreter who sought political asylum in the Soviet Embassy Monday. The Russians turned Chou over

Muskegon College Chief

Quits in Surprise Move

MUSKEGON (AP) — Dr. James M. Snyder resigned yesterday as president of Muskegon County Community College in a move that apparently surprised the school board.

Snyder, who had held the Muskegon post since July 1960, said he has accepted the presidency of Marquette County Junior College at Phoenix, Ariz. His resignation here takes effect next January.

'Oldest Arizonan' Dies

WINTERHAVEN, Calif. (UPI) — Military funeral services are pending for David A. Boone, 102, who, until his death Sunday, was believed to be the oldest living white person born in the old Arizona territory.

Boone, who was said to be a blood brother of Indian Chief Cochise, was born Aug. 26, 1861, near a water hole on the Gila River where his parents were camping.

Nixon Says Rights Bad Issue in '64

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said Tuesday night he hopes civil rights will not be an issue in the 1964 presidential campaign and promised to argue against any Republican party move to make it one.

Introduced to a National Metal Trades Association audience of 800 as the man who "just might break that jinx" that defeated presidential candidate came back to win, Nixon disclaimed any intention of seeking the Republican nomination again.

HAD HIS CHANCE

"I've had my chance, and it's time to give someone else a chance," he said. "My role will be to make a few speeches, write a few articles, and try to unite the warring factions after the San Francisco convention."

Relaxed and jovial, Nixon spoke for an hour and 30 minutes, nearly all of it answering audience questions. He had no formal speech.

"It's wrong to play politics, to demagogue about it," he said, "to make promises that can't be delivered." Too much of this has been done already under the present administration, he charged.

POSSIBLE DISASTER

If next year's presidential contest "turns out to be North against South or blacks against whites, it will be a most unfortunate thing for the nation," he declared, and "disastrous to this country abroad."

"It is Important for the Republican Party Particularly Not to Play Politics with This Issue," Nixon Said.

Use Lettuce Liner

NEW YORK (AP) — One way to avoid having outdoor barbecue fires flare up is to line the burner with lettuce.

It also helps to keep anything that spills from sticking to the grill, and makes the whole operation safer and cleaner.
