McElroy Presses Need for Ike's Pentagon Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense McElroy agreed today that modern weapons and war techniques require the Pentagon organization changes proposed by President Eisenhower.

Carrying the fight for the administration Defense Department proposals to a House committee whose leaders are openly opposed to it, McElroy said in prepared testimony:

"It would be tragic indeed if in the moment of crisis we should be found wanting because of an attempt to graft the weapons of modern warfare onto an outmoded organization structure."

McElroy repeatedly invoked the name of Eisenhower in urging the House Armed Services Committee to accept the reorganization plan.

He told the group that "we believe that most of the concerns that have been expressed about the President's proposals will disappear when we have together studied the specific legislation and its adequacy to meet these needs."

McElroy said the program "is the President's plan."

IKE'S EXPERIENCE STRESSED

He pointed out Eisenhower's qualifications in the field, from a "lifetime of personal experience, peace and war."

In advance of McElroy's appearance Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) pledged that the committee will consider the proposals "seriously, objectively and in detail."

Vinson is one of the leading opponents of the general proposal.

Even before the hearing got down to the question stage, McElroy attempted in his prepared text to counter two of the objections which have been expressed to the plan.

He said the proposal "does not contemplate merger of the services any more than the Continental Air Defense Command, the Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean Command, the Atlantic Command, the Strategic Air Command, the Caribbean Command, the European Command, the Alaskan Command, and the Pacific Command, all of which are in existence today, have tended to merge or destroy them."

Each of those commands is headed by a single chief, from the service with the predominating interest in the area, in charge of all forces regardless of branch.

U.N. Sanctions Bomber Flights

Soviet Union Gives Up Fight in Face of Defeat by Member Vote

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Facing defeat, the Soviet Union has given up a fight to have the U.N. Security Council demand a halt to Arctic flights toward the Soviet frontier by U. S. hydrogen bombers.

Soviet Delegate Arkady A. Sobolev withdrew a resolution claiming the American flights risked nuclear war. Nine of the other 10 countries on the Council had spoken against it in a six-hour debate.

U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge said the flights of the U.S. Strategic Air Command were practice to keep up its deterrent strength and "could not possibly be the accidental causes of war." He asserted the flights would continue.

Lodge told reporters he considered the outcome of the Council session an "overwhelming victory for the United States."

Britain, Canada, Nationalist China, Colombia, France, Iraq, Japan and Panama sided with the United States.

The other Council member, Sweden, kept silent.

After Lodge — the Council president for April — proposed that the Council dispose of the Soviet resolution before adjournment, Sobolev twice failed with motions to gain time by adjourning the debate overnight. Only Sweden voted with the Soviet Union.

Then he withdrew his resolution to censure the United States, protesting that Lodge had sidestepped free discussion.

Michigan Girl Never to Return to School Room

The 27-year-old native of this small western Michigan community was one of two stewardesses killed in yesterday's crash of a United Airlines plane near Las Vegas, Nev.

Forty-five other occupants of the airline and two crewmen of an Air Force jet plane also were killed when the two crafts collided.

Miss Petersen told hometown friends during a recent visit that she wanted to go on a few overseas flights and then return to teaching. "I want to broaden my knowledge to help in my classes," an acquaintance quoted her as saying.

County to Wait for Courthouse

Proposed Building Hits Snag Again as Hearing Is Held Up in Lansing

Another long wait is in store on the question of Oakland County's proposed courthouse.

Supervisors Monday learned from David Levinson, special county building committee chairman, that the Supreme Court ruling on the county's appeal of last year's lower court decision might not be forthcoming before January of next year.

The case is expected to be argued in Lansing during the October term.

It can't be heard in the June term as attorney for the Oakland County Taxpayers League, Glenn C. Gillespie, said it would be "physically impossible" to have briefs submitted by May 3, when they would be due to be heard in June.

The county filed its 313-page brief April 15, Corporation Counsel Harry J. Merritt said. Gillespie has 60 days from then in which to answer the county briefs.

The county is appealing a decision handed down by visiting Judge Herman Dehnke, of Harrisville, last August. In it he said that some $1,400,000 earmarked for the new building had been secured without public approval and must, in effect, be returned to the taxpayers.

The League brought suit, charging the funds had been accumulated illegally.

While the county is appealing Judge Dehnke's decision, the League is filing a cross-appeal to decide whether the county can dispose of the downtown courthouse site and select a new one, such as the planned site in the Telegraph road Service Center.

3 Newcomers Named to Seats on Commission

Carry, Long Fail in Bid for Another Term; Four to Serve Again

Pontiac has three new City Commissioners as a result of an election yesterday that saw four incumbents re-elected and two defeated.

Newcomers are Milton R. Henry, Robert A. Landry and Wesley J. Wood. The latter nosed out incumbent John E. Carry by the narrow margin of 56 votes. Also defeated, but by a two-to-one margin, was incumbent Gilbert W. Long.

Incumbents Philip E. Rowston, William W. Donaldson, Floyd P. Miles and John A. Dugan easily won re-election. The incumbent was not seeking re-election in Henry's district.

The 1958-1960 Commission line-up by district is: District 1, Henry; District 2, Rowston; District 3, Donaldson; District 4, Miles; District 5, Dugan; District 6, Wood; and District 7, Landry.

One of the seven will be chosen Monday to serve as mayor.

Unofficial tallies had 8,848 voters casting ballots, just under 24 per cent of the city's 37,000 registered voters. This slightly topped the 1956 record of 8,600 votes out of approximately the same number of potential voters.

The unofficial results by district:

District 1 — Henry, an attorney, swamped businessman Samuel J. Whiters, 1,550 to 702. They were vying for the seat being vacated by incumbent Dr. Roy V. Cooley Jr.

District 2 — Incumbent Rowston had no trouble winning a second two-year term. His vote was 677 to 301 for challenger H. Malcolm Kahn. Both candidates are attorneys.

District 3 — For the third consecutive time, incumbent Mayor William W. Donaldson, an insurance agent, defeated Earl J. Smith Jr., a funeral home director. Donaldson got 493 votes to Smith's 366. This will be Donaldson's fifth term on the Commission.

District 4 — Incumbent Miles topped challenger Gerald W. Kehoe 780 to 423 to win a third term in office. Miles owns a religious book store, Kehoe works at Fisher Body Division.

Tragedy Brings Clamor for Air Control

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (INS) — A storm of public indignation mounted today over the loss of 49 lives in the collision of a United Air Lines DC7 and an Air Force jet fighter in crystal-clear skies over Las Vegas.

The two craft came together yesterday at an altitude of about 21,000 feet. The big airliner smashed into Potosi Mountain near the tiny mining town of Arden. The F100F Saberjet fighter plummeted into the desolate Nevada desert about 10 miles away.

Within hours after the crash, Congressman Oren Harris (D-Ark), chairman of the House Commerce Committee, said he would consider calling a special investigation into the cause of the crash.

Harris tentatively proposed that his committee, which controls civil aviation, and the House Armed Services Committee start an immediate investigation.

Rep. Patrick J. Hillings, (R-Calif) said the crash points up the need for congressional action to bring about effective and complete air space control under a single federal authority.

Mayor Norris Poulson of Los Angeles who was in Washington, D. C., added his "call to action" to those of the two lawmakers.

Poulson said: "We seem to be able to control our civilian aircraft but unable to control the military flights. Military planes must not be allowed to continue flying pell - mell."

7TH IN 2 YEARS

The accident was the seventh major in-air collision in the last two years and raised the death toll for such crashes during that period to 260.

Investigators of the Civil Aeronautics Board moved into the Nevada resort playground shortly after the air disaster and officials said a hearing on the crash probably will be held within two or three weeks.

Joining the CAB in the investigation were teams from the Air Force at Norton Air Force Base, Calif., and United Air Lines.

The bodies of both airmen were found in the wrecked remains of their sonic jet fighter. They were identified as Capt. Tom N. Coryell, 29, of Indianapolis, Ind., and 1st Lt. Gerald D. Morgan, 24, of Rapid City, S. D.

Shooting Stars Over Michigan Due Tonight

ANN ARBOR (AP) — A spectacular display of shooting stars can be seen in the heavens over Michigan tonight and tomorrow—barring cloudiness.

University of Michigan astronomer William Liller said the Lyrid Meteor shower will be seen best tonight. But it should be a pretty good show again tomorrow, Liller said.

He advised stargazers to crane their necks skyward at about 10 or 11 p.m. for the best results. The shooting stars should increase in number as the night progresses, Liller said.

Michigras Festival Set This Weekend at U. of M.

ANN ARBOR (AP) — This will be Michigras weekend at the University of Michigan when Ann Arbor becomes a bubbling New Orleans in full carnival.

A bicycle parade unofficially will inaugurate the biennial campus celebration Thursday in the midst of the noon rush hour. The students — all 25,000 — have been asked to pedal around town to advertise Michigras.

Friday, there's another parade, the official opening. This time there'll be 34 floats in the parade and the Michigan marching band.

The best booths and floats will be awarded prizes by University President Harlan Hatcher Saturday night. All Michigras proceeds go to charity.

Six Freighters Waiting

PORT HURON (INS)—Six upbound freighters waited in Lake St. Clair today, ordered by the Coast Guard to anchor until the St. Clair River was free of dangerous ice floes.

Among the ships waiting was the Veslefjell, the first foreign freighter to enter the Great Lakes this year. The Veslefjell passed Detroit yesterday en route to Chicago.

Captain Evor Kerr of the Coast Guard icebreaker Mackinaw said it will be between three and six days, depending on weather conditions, before all the ice flows down the river.

County Plans to Establish Work Relief Programs

Oakland County has decided to do something about its unemployed residents by creating a work relief program.

Four steering committees of the Board of Supervisors yesterday authorized George H. Burt, social welfare department director, to study relief loads for potential part-time workers.

Establishment of certain public works projects for these persons then must receive approval of the Michigan Social Welfare Commission.

Burt told commissioners he estimated some 700 men, mostly unskilled, might be put to work under this new type program. Similiar ones have been created in Wayne, Macomb and Monroe Counties.

The proposal is for the unemployed, who are presently subsisting on social welfare orders for needed supplies, to work for

GM Planning One-Body Shell

Also, Reportedly Builds Three Small Cars, One With Rear-Engine

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors has well under way a program which will give each of its car divisions a new car every year, Automotive News said today.

The program is based on a one-body shell concept for all GM cars, the paper said. General Motors has made no disclosures of its future model planning.

Automotive News said also that GM reportedly has built three different proposed small cars. Best information, it adds, is that the one most likely to be produced is a rear-engine model, possibly with a unitized body and swing axles.

Of the single body shell plan, the trade paper said it would replace the traditional body program that split up three different body styles among Chevrolet, Pontiac, Buick, Oldsmobile and Cadillac. It adds:

"GM's Fisher Body Division will use one basic body shell for all five cars, with 'mutations' that will produce a longer Cadillac 62 and certain other differences for Buick and Oldsmobile.

"Despite the use of a single body shell, each of the 1959 GM cars will have a very different product distinctiveness. This will be maintained through the use of different grilles, fenders, side trim and rear ends.

"All the cars will have a substantial increase in glass area."

third term, Dugan chalked up yesterday's second best margin. The Pontiac Motor Division employe had 1,048 votes to 530 for Ronald C. Hallenbeck, a Fisher Body employe and former Commissioner.

District 6 — Wood, a GMC Truck and Coach Division employe, scored an upset by defeating incumbent Carry 570 to 514. Carry, a sales representative, was seeking a third term.

District 7 — Following a pattern established in last month's primary, newcomer Landry easily topped incumbent Long, 575 to 296. The victory was the reverse of 1956's election, when Landry, a Fisher Body worker in Livonia, was defeated and Long, an insurance agent, was elected for the first time.

The District 6 outcome left Wood excited and a little surprised. In the primary, Carry had gathered 277 votes to Wood's 172. But yesterday, the 51-year-old service follow - up man swept four of the district's five precincts.

"I'm thrilled by the victory and appreciate the confidence the voters of District 6 have shown in me," said Wood, of 157 Michigan Ave., a native of Rapid City who has lived here 33 years.

Landry, 43, of 139 Prospect St., was "overwhelmed," he said.

"I'm very, very happy the voters have shown confidence in me," he said. "I repeat my pledge to give full representation and keep the voters of District 7 fully informed."

A Pontiac native, Landry formerly worked at Fisher Body's Pontiac plant. His victory was not unexpected. In the primary, he received 246 votes to Long's 147.

The new District 1 Commissioner was jubilant over his victory. Henry, a native of Philadelphia, has lived in Pontiac since 1952, when he was graduated from Yale University Law School.

It was the first time Henry ran for office. His opponent, Whiters, had unsuccessfully sought the seat two years ago. Dr. Cooley has been District 1 Commissioner six years.

After telephoning Wood to offer congratulations and cooperation, Carry said there was "no possibility" of a recount. "The margin against me is too decisive," he said.

Long expressed his appreciation for the privilege of serving on the Commission the past two years.

The Day in Birmingham

City Manager to Report After Cab-Proposal Study

BIRMINGHAM — No action was taken by the City Commission last night on the request of the Birmingham Veterans Cab Co. for three additional licenses or on the request of the Bloomfield Cab Co. to operate in Birmingham.

A study will be made by City Manager L. R. Gare, who will report on the matter at the next commission meeting Monday.

On recommendation of the City Taxicab Board, the request for a refund on the unused portion of the license of the AAA Cab Co. was denied.

May 12 was set for the hearing on the special assessment district for Lakepark street storm sewers. The line will run between Raynale and Redding roads.

Action of the parking ban on Southfield road between 14-Mile road and Lincoln avenue was tabled. The county suggested last December that the roads which it helped construct be kept clear of parking. Birmingham at that time approved the suggestion as it applied to Adams road, but made no decision on Southfield.

Robert Williamson, 25, of Sparta, was sentenced to 10 days in the Oakland County Jail and fined $25 by Bloomfield Hills Justice Alva J. Richardson on the charge of leaving the scene of an auto accident.

According to Bloomfield Hills Police, Williamson was stopped after fleeing a property damage collision on North Woodward avenue Saturday.

The Women's Auxiliary of Christ Church Cranbrook will hold its spring rummage sale from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Thursday in the Parish house. Proceeds of the sale will go to the Christian Social Relations Committee.

Barnum Junior High School will present "Splash of Color," by the school's water ballet group, for the student body at 4 p.m. tomorrow.

Public performances will be given at 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday.

Friday and Saturday and again on May 2 and 3, the Village Players dramatic group will stage "The Great Sabastian." Lead roles are played by William E. Kegel and Mrs. Ralph M. Fox. Madelyn Tillotson is director.

Curtain time will be 9 p.m. for all performances.

Birmingham alumnae of the University of Michigan will hear a talk by James Wallace, secretary of U. of M. School of Music, at their meeting at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Mrs. Paul Robertson of Franklin Hills, Franklin, will be hostess to the gathering.

Wallace, who will be introduced by Mrs. William Hohmeyer, will discuss the new music school on the north campus in Ann Arbor.

Shooter of 3 Nuns Accused of Assault

TRENTON, N.J. (INS) — Louis Felipe Marrero, who shot three nuns and a man in a rampage Saturday night, was held on $100,000 bail today on four charges of assault with a deadly weapon.

The wiry, 24-year-old factory worker was arraigned in Trenton Municipal Court yesterday after re-enacting the shooting spree at St. Joachim's convent, just a block from his home.

Marrero, a self-styled Bible scholar, said he wanted to "get even" with the Roman Catholic Church.

Standing near the door of the convent, he showed how he wounded two nuns who answered the door and the next nun he saw. Next he shot Stephen Koncsol across the street.

Marrero was brought to Trenton from Doylestown, Pa., where he waived extradition. He surrendered at nearby Morrisville, Pa., early Sunday after escaping from a police siege at the convent.

Production on '59 License Plates Begins

State's 'Water Wonderland' Slogan Safe

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's "Water Wonderland" slogan is safe for another three years.

Secretary of State James M. Hare today ordered 1959 auto license plates into full production with the slogan advertising Michigan waters, a trademark for the past five years, stamped on top.

The State Tourist Council, the Economic Development Department and Hare's advisers had been considering a new slogan more in keeping with a campaign to attract new industry to the state. "Water Unlimited" was an example.

When the word got around, scores of citizens sent letters to Hare suggesting new slogans.

A traveling photographer-lecturer from Saranac reported that women in Texas and other southwestern states shudder when they hear him say "Water Wonderland." For them, he said, "It produces illusions of swamps, mosquitoes, reptiles, rains and floods, hurricanes and danger."

As an alternative, he proposed "We Like Michigan."

A New Baltimore minister thought a bas relief outline of Michigan on license plates would be most effective.

A Detroit man came up with the slogan for the 1958 Michigan Week celebration in May—"Michigan Means Business."

A Royal Oak man, disgruntled by the recession and its effects on Michigan's economy, proposed: "Michigan, Land of the Unemployed."

From a group of Monroe eighth graders came the suggestions "Pleasant Peninsula" and "Land of Great Water."

A Benton Harbor woman, assailing the present slogan as "alliterative and wishy-washy" recommended "Land of the Inland Seas." A Midland man suggested "The Automobile State."

Frequently proposed were "The Great Lakes State," "Land of Hiawatha" and "Land of the Sky Blue Water."

Rather than chance the wrath of folk wholly satisfied with "Water Wonderland," Hare decided to put off any changes for three years at least.

Next year's license plates, colored green and gold in honor of Wayne State University, will last for three years. Corner tabs will be furnished to update them in 1960 and 1961 in a move calculated to save the state $200,000 in production costs.

Airliner-Jet Crash Brings Clamor for Space Control

ies of the 42 passengers and 5 crew members aboard the once-plush airliner were taken to the Las Vegas race track, a gaudy stucco - pink facility that has been closed for two years.

Officials said about 30 of the bodies have been identified, mostly through personal papers, and that all identification probably will not be completed for another two or three days.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

The cause of the collision is still a mystery.

However, officials at nearby Nellis Air Force Base where the jet was stationed said the plane was letting down for an instrument landing when the two ships came together.

The pilot of the UAL Flight 736 flashed the message, "UAL 736, Mayday, mid-air collision over Las Vegas," seconds before the plane smashed into the desert not far from the spot where Actress Carole Lombard was killed in a commercial airliner crash in 1942.

Thirty - one of the victims were from the Los Angeles area and many were important industrial leaders flying east on business.

One of the two stewardesses was Yvonne Petersen of Sidney, Mich.

Win First Round on Village Plan

County Group Approves Ballot on Incorporation of Farmington Area

Sensing that their little community might soon become part of a city, a group of Farmington Township residents decided to create a village to fight any such annexation moves.

The 412 residents in a residential two - square - mile area just northwest of the city of Farmington today won round one in a movement to incorporate as a village to be known as "Quaker Town."

The Boundaries Committee of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors approved an Aug. 5 election in which the residents will vote. The full supervisors' board must pass on the election at their May meeting.

The residents petitioned the board at the same time Farmington city moved to annex an 8½-square mile area of the township.

Committee members also recommended township and city residents vote on this proposed annexation Aug. 5. Board approval is also necessary.

The proposed "Quaker Town," whose name comes from a subdivision in the area, is bounded roughly by 12 Mile road on the north, Farmington road on the east, a line paralleling Drake road on the west, and a line just north of 10 Mile on the south.

"They moved out of Detroit most of them to get away from a big city, and now they might be gobbled up by another city," said William J. Spicer, Detroit attorney for the residents, explaining the move.

The land proposed to be attached to the city is bounded generally by Eight Mile road on the south, Haggerty road on the west, 11 Mile road on the north, and Drake road and the Farmington city western boundaries on the east.

Navy Patrol Plane Crashes; 3 Injured

TOKYO (INS) — A U.S. Navy Neptune patrol bomber, carrying 11 crew members, crashed and burned Tuesday night while attempting a landing at the Iwakuni Marine Air Base in western Japan. All the crewmen escaped alive, but three were injured.

The Navy said the crash occurred as the huge P2V5 aircraft was returning from a routine training mission.

The announcement stated that the Neptune was not involved in the search for a single - seater F9F8 Cougar turbojet fighter that disappeared with its pilot yesterday minutes before it was to have landed at the Iwakuni Marine Base.

Names of the Neptune's crew members were withheld for the time being.

Huber Officially Out as Wing Publicist

Fred L. Huber, publicity director of the Detroit Red Wings hockey team for the past 17 years, announced his resignation today, effective June 1.

The Pontiac Press carried a story Monday stating Huber had been fired by Wing owner Bruce Norris. Norris has not denied the Huber announcement as yet.

Huber called the parting "amicable" and said club officials had accepted his move with regret. He said he would remain on television as a between-periods commentator at the team's home games.

Road Commission, Board of Education, county departments such as the cation, maintenance, and engineering.

"Some of these people are morally anxious to liquidate their indebtedness to the county," declared Burt. They are not obligated to reimburse the county for the purchase orders, he added.

REPLACE ORDERS

Payments under the proposed work relief program would replace present orders for food, fuel and other essentials, Burt said. "Thus there will be no additional expense to the county under the program," he stated.

He predicted it would be almost a month before the program would be put in use.

Oakland County is today confronted with a 3,000-family case load—the highest since the post-depression days. The county has spent $552,826 on these families in the first three months of the year, Burt revealed.

Royal Oak Supervisor Harry W. Horton suggested some of the unemployed might be used to clear the Service Center on Telegraph road.

William J. Emerson, county Board of Education superintendent, recommended township schools might be able to use extra help. "Local township roads might be a source of work for clean-up jobs," declared Hiland M. Thatcher, board vice-chairman from West Bloomfield Township.

Truman Accuses GOP of 'Robbing the Citizen'

WASHINGTON (AP) —Democrats went gunning for the Eisenhower administration today with accusations that it is claiming credit for peace where there is no peace and robbing the citizen to pay off the financier.

Harry S. Truman hurled the robbery charge last night. The jaunty former President said the recession is no accident, an administration high-interest policy is its basic cause, and "Shylock was a gentleman compared to our Republican interest-happy government."

A 1958 campaign conference of Democratic women from over the nation, 2,000 strong, assembled for three days of speeches and workshop sessions to whip up pep and strategy for this fall's congressional elections.

In the same forum, Sen. Mansfield of Montana, assistant Democratic leader in the Senate, said Americans would be fighting in Red China now if Democrats hadn't restrained Republican enthusiasm for it, yet the administration is trying to sell the people the idea there is peace in the Far East.

In the Middle East, the Senator said, the administration has "toyed with autocratic and dictatorial movements and nations, while it overlooks with almost snobbish disdain countries like Lebanon and Israel which are struggling to keep the concept of freedom alive."

Truman said the administration has been "misusing its power over the money supply" to redistribute the national income in the wrong direction.

"The Treasury has juggled around its short-term and long-term issues, and its types of issues, so as to rob the ordinary citizen to pay off political obligations to the gigantic financiers," Truman said.

Interest rates have been raised least, he said, on such things as Savings Bonds "bought or held by average American families."

What do we mean when we say that weather is a layer of gas?

This is looking at weather from a global standpoint. All our weather (and relatively dense air) is concentrated beneath an altitude of about 40,000 feet.

This layer of gas (air) circulates around the globe, west to east above the United States. The top of the layer is not level and features mountain peaks and valleys, so to speak. When you are beneath a mountain of air you are under a high-pressure system.

When you are under the influence of low pressure system, you are under a valley — at the top of the layer of gas (air) above you.

Old Commission Meets Tonight

Special Session Slated Thursday to Canvass Yesterday's Election

The 1956-1958 City Commission will hold its final regular meeting tonight. A meeting to canvass yesterday's election and certify its results will be held Thursday.

The 1958-1960 Commission is scheduled to take over with an organizational meeting next Monday.

Six public hearings are on tonight's agenda, one of them on intention to repave and widen Opdyke road from Square Lake road to Walton boulevard. The assessed cost to Pontiac property owners is estimated at $21,695.

The project, costing a total estimated $100,000, would be carried out by the state.

Four other hearings are on sidewalks. The city intends to construct new sidewalks on the west side of Seminole avenue, Menominee to Algonquin; east side of Blaine street, from High street about 500 feet south; east side of Joslyn avenue extension, Perry to Linda Vista; and in front of three lots on the east side of N. Jessie street.

Also scheduled is a hearing on intention to construct curbs and gutters on W. New York avenue, Baldwin to Walton. Petitions for and against the project have been filed.

Commissioners also plan to wrap up a land trade with the state to obtain clear approach to the west of Pontiac Municipal Airport. Contracts for new fencing, runways and runway lighting will be considered.

ROME (AP)—Giulio Neri, 49, Italian basso, died yesterday of a heart attack.

'Tex' Rounds Up Horses on Way to High School

NORTH BRANCH, N. J. (AP) — High school principal Bernard Duffy's students may be calling him "Tex" from now on.

The principal pulled to the side of the highway, got some rope from the trunk of his car, and lassoed the runaway critters.

State Police arriving on the scene found the horses securely tied to a tree. Duffy, his roundup completed, hurried to school.

No Time to Say 'Huh?' Before Bailing Out

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Dayton's city manager, Herbert Starick, was taken for a jet ride at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base.

Starick said that, as he was being briefed on use of the emergency ejection system, he asked: "Who bails out first in an emergency, the passenger or the pilot?"

He said the officer doing the briefing answered: "The passenger. . . . But if the pilot tells you to eject and you say: 'Huh?'—you'll be talking to yourself."

First Woman to Conquer Channel Now Deaf

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS) — Gertrude Ederle, a heroine a quarter-century ago when she was the first woman to swim the English Channel is today stone deaf. She also lives a large portion of her life in pain from nerve spasms, the result of a fall in 1933 which paralyzed her spine for nearly five years. Only two weeks ago a gas heater exploded in her face and burned away part of her hair . . .

"I'm really the lucky one," Gertrude told me. "Oh, I'm so lucky. I shouldn't be walkin' around at all, all that's happened, but here I am, fit as anything. Except for a small cold."

Miss Ederle, a great woman in size and buoyancy, eased herself into a straight-backed chair and grinned. "People say, what's ever happened to Gert Ederle? All those opportunities she had when she swam the channel, with the ticker tape parade and all, why didn't she take advantage of them?

"Well, all I can say is I've been busy.

"I was partly deaf, maybe you know, from a case of measles when I was five. I shouldn't have been swimmin', but you can't tell a kid anything. I was just 19 when I swam the channel—boy, and don't I remember that day like it was yesterday! ! — And I was fine.

"But then, I went on a tour, and after two years of traveling around the country, swimmin' every hour on the hour, I just suddenly got too much. I went deaf. For eight months, I lived in a quiet world all by myself. I made a comeback, though, and could hear a little, and I tried to get myself a job teaching children to swim here in New York City.

"You know what?" Miss Ederle's round, laugh-lined face took on a child's puzzled look. "They wouldn't let me because of my hearing. That hurt me, more than anything. I always loved children and worry about them. Every summer, my heart gets broken anew, reading about children drownin'. They don't have to be expert swimmers, but they've got to know how to hold their own . . . But that's another story.

"Anyway, I didn't get the job." (The gentle tomboy of the '20s went deaf again, and permanently, in 1940. But by that time hearing aids had been discovered. She now teaches swimming, on a volunteer basis, to children at the Lexington School for the Deaf, and hopes desperately to be appointed to President's Eisenhower's "Youth Fitness Council.")

In 1933, she fell and injured her spine, was told she'd never walk again. She wore a cast and slept on the floor, for 4½ years. "But that was nothin'," she says. "When I heard the World's Fair was gonna have a swimmin' feature, I just got well. Gee, they couldn't do that without me. I learned to swim all over again."

Miss Ederle's triumphant channel swim in 1926, which led to a ticker tape parade up Broadway and $900,000 in endorsements plus a $6,000 a week tour that lasted two years until her deafness, is still a delight to dwell on.

Not only was she the first woman and first American to conquer the channel, she beat the record time by more than two hours, fighting 15-foot waves during 14 hours of the way. She claims to have been "hilariously happy" all the way.

And when she climbed out on the English shore they asked her how she felt. "Wet," she said.

Hollywood is planning a movie of Gertrude Ederle's life story. However hard they try, it will have to be a soap opera. Because that's Gert's history.

Asked if she cares that the public has forgotten her whereabouts, she smiles. "I don't care if they've forgotten me — I haven't forgotten them."

Windsor Gas War Cuts Price to 35c Per Gallon

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP) — Gasoline prices in Windsor and suburban service stations dropped to a low of 34.9 and 35.9 cents an imperial gallon (five quarts) yesterday.

At least two stations were advertising prices at 34.9 cents and eight dropped to 35.9 cents a gallon.

The 34.9 cents is about 10 cents below regular prices prior to the beginning of a price-slashing war three weeks ago.

Claims TV Best Thing to Happen for Movies

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Charles Brackett, a 20th Century-Fox writer-producer, claims TV is the best thing that ever happened to motion pictures because "it saved the movie industry from sitting on its status quo."

Brackett, speaking to the Society of Motion Picture and Television Engineers, said the advent of TV forced motion picture producers to refine old techniques so they could meet modern conditions.

Big Gun Kills Trucker; Never Fired a Shot

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Harry Allison McGill, 45, was carrying an 18½-ton naval gun on his truck from Long Beach Navy Yard to Mare Island, near Vallejo, Calif. As he was coming through Los Angeles, he had to jam on his brakes suddenly.

The big gun shot forward, rammed into the cab and crushed McGill to death.

U.N. Population Experts Predict:

More Than 6 Billion People by 2000 A.D.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Young men and women already at the brink of adulthood will live to see the world more than double in population.

More than six billion people will inhabit the earth by the beginning of the next century, United Nations world population experts predict. They estimate the present population at 2,737,000,000.

A population explosion of such magnitude has many implications — political, economic and social.

The biggest growth, according to the U.N. Survey, will be in Asia, Africa, the Middle East and Latin America.

The experts estimate Communist China will have a population of 1,500,000,000 and India one billion by the year 2000, a total almost equal to the present world population.

The prediction for the United States is 282 million and for the Soviet Union 379 million.

Projecting population estimates as far ahead as the dawn of the 21st Century is risky, the experts concede. They say they can only assume those things which in the light of available knowledge seem most plausible.

Their principal assumption is that the future will be an orderly evolution from the recent past and present.

Man's victory over many diseases and poor health conditions has contributed largely to accelerating growth. Where only half of all newborn children once lived to adulthood, their chances of reaching adult age now surpass 90 per cent among an ever-increasing segment of the world's inhabitants.

The political implications of the forecasted population boom are many.

Among the most intriguing is the one presented by China's anticipated growth. If both the Soviet Union and mainland China maintain their Communist government by the year 2000, which will be the acknowledged leader?

Can the Soviet Union maintain its present role as world communism's main spokesman against an overwhelming population increase in China accompanied by accelerated industrial development?

Foreign analysts say this is already bothering the Kremlin.

A fundamental economic question posed is this: Can the world properly feed its increasing population?

The U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) estimates two-thirds of the present population is underfed, one-sixth adequately fed, and only one-sixth well-fed.

But FAO officials do not despair of the future, provided man continues his program for improving farm production and his general over-all economic welfare.

These experts say world food production is increasing 2 per cent each year, compared with a population increase running below that figure.

Technical aid officials stress the need for expanded technical aid to areas where population growth is expected to be most rapid.

The U.N. Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East says the anticipated population explosion could have disastrous effects on efforts to raise standards of living in that vast area.

Concern also is expressed in Western countries, including the United States. Administrator D. A. Williams of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service says that by 2000 the needs of each American will have to be supplied from 1½ acres of farm land, compared with the present 3 1-5 acres.

Some experts see this as a threat of food shortages, but others confidently predict that technical advances will boost production to the required amount.

A population boom also would present challenges in education, housing and general welfare fields.

The U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) says that despite intense efforts to battle illiteracy, the actual number of illiterates will be greater than ever in 2000.

Monroney Warning to President: 'Fore'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic women were told last night that their message to President Eisenhower should be "simply one word: 'fore.'"

Sen. Monroney (D-Okla) tossed that golfer's advance warning of a drive into a quip-filled dinner session as the women prepared for this year's congressional campaign.

Sen. Church (D-Idaho) referred to a colleague, Sen. Bible (D-Nev), to claim "the cause of righteousness" for the Democrats, adding: "We have both a Bible and a Church in the Senate and we're prepared to give 'em hell."

All of which led Sen. Ervin (D-NC) to remark that heaven was the place for "angels and all Democrats."

Most of the cracks, for obvious reasons, were directed at the Republicans as more than a score of senators were called on to speak for a minute or less.

Former President Truman, noting that the restriction was rigidly observed, commented that any group which could keep so many normally talkative senators "confined to speaking one sentence can do anything in the owrld."

League Reports KKK Breaking Up in South

It is encouraging to note that the Ku Klux Klan is not doing so well, as reported in the current issue of "Facts" a bulletin put out by the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith.

"Since its resurgence in 1955 and 1956," the League says, "the Klan has achieved little effectiveness as a social or political force . . . On the whole, the South has greeted the Klan's revival with intense hostility and aversion. In virtually every southern community the Klan has been identified as a tool of violence and lawlessness and . . . more of a police problem than anything else."

Strongest of the many organizations, feuding among themselves, is the U.S. Klan, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, headed by ELDON EDWARDS of Georgia. It is said to have between 12,000 and 15,000 members. The North Carolina Knights of the Klan once had between 2,000 and 5,000 members. But since the Lumbee Indians took them to town at Maxton last January and made their rally a laughing stock, the organization has been breaking up. Its leader is under indictment for his part in the incident.

Recent events in connection with resistance to school desegregation and formation of White Citizens' Councils may obscure the real progress made against prejudice and ignorance in this country.

Back in 1925 the Klan practically ruled in the South. It had officers in many states and listed 8,904,000 dues paying members. In several states its political power elected Senators, Representatives, State and Municipal officials. Each Southern state had more Klan members than the combined Klans of 1958.

The Anti-Defamation League credits its newspapers with being instrumental in exposing "hate-spewing Klansmen with their silly costumes, threats and acts of violence." Ridicule is playing its part in unmasking this "paper dragon" which incites the most ignorant and criminal elements in the country.

Egypt May Get Aid in Improving Canal

After conferences with President NASSER in Cairo, World Bank President EUGENE R. BLACK announces that Egypt will be given assistance for the improvement of the Suez Canal.

In recent weeks NASSER has eased up on propaganda attacks on the United States and Britain. At the same time he has alarmed the free world by the formation of the United Arab Republic, (Egypt, Syria and Yemen) and by his challenge of the Eisenhower Doctrine for security of the Middle East from Communism.

Mr. Black praised Mahmoud Younis, chairman of the Egyptian Suez Canal Authority, for the competent way he has operated the canal, now under Egyptian control. It is to be presumed that financial aid will be dependent on settlement of compensation claims of the former owners of the canal.

This doesn't mean that NASSER is breaking with the Communists. He is going to Moscow soon on an official visit and is negotiating for $200 million in Soviet industrial aid. Egypt already has received Red arms and will be paying in cotton for years to come.

But Egypt's President now feels that he must court the West lest Russia dominate his country's trade and put it in the position of a satellite. There's also some cash involved. About $30 million in Egyptian assets is impounded in this country since seizure of the canal, as well as hundreds of millions more frozen balances, in London and Paris. This money will not be released until NASSER makes a settlement with the West.

A discordant note comes from the southern entrance to Suez. A number of technicians from Red countries are said to be in Yemen building gun emplacements and harbor works at the mouth of the Red Sea. These could harass all Red Sea shipping including that bound for the Gulf of Aqaba and Israel.

If an agreement can be reached for widening and deepening the 100 mile long canal, it would ease international tensions and benefit world shipping.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Brisk Walk in Fresh Air Best Kind of Tranquilizer

No tranquilizer available with or without prescription gives as much satisfaction as three miles of oxygen on the hoof.

DR. BRADY

No other kind of work, game, play or exercise is so good for vite, vim and vigor as a brisk daily walk of two to six miles.

For urban people this is not so pleasant as it was in days past and the oxygen is not so pure either; but with careful planning one can usually map a route or course that presents few hazards, or perhaps ride or drive to suburban district where the walking is still good.

Of course it takes time—16 to 20 minutes a mile. And this expense puts the medicine beyond the reach of many who need it most. It's like investing in life insurance—indeed it is life insurance.

Many persons can't afford to walk to and-or from work, business or school because they squander so much time imbibing, at lunch hour, in mid-afternoon or on the way home at night.

They will give you any number of reasons why they need a drink, but the truth is that alcohol in any dose is a narcotic (not a stimulant") and so it makes them for a half hour or so unconscious or less conscious of their inferiority.

Tranquilizing drugs have a similar effect—they benumb or dull the higher consciousness and so for a while make one less aware of his weakness, his impaired health, his shortcomings. The difference between tranquilizing drug, alcohol, aspirin, barbiturate, and morphine or heroin is one of degree. It is an easy step from one to the other.

A good brisk walk every day (step along, don't stroll or drag) is the ideal tranuilizer for the sedentary, professional or white collar worker.

For the person who labors—this includes housework—I'd say go to the ball game or the movies or sit in your easy chair and watch TV.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

"I wrote you about feet getting cold on top, then burning numbness in feet and legs keeping me awake at night. You suggested calcium and vitamin D. Have taken a box of them and there is great improvement already. Should I continue them, or take them occasionally? (F. B.)"

Answer—Regard them as food rather than medicine. Take one or two daily for a few months, to supplement your diet which is probably deficient in calcium and vitamin D.

"My career as a salesman hinges on your advice. My beard grows heavily right over my cheeks. It is bound to interfere with my work. How can I have it permanently removed? (E. I.)"

Answer—You can't. You are doomed to shave twice a day if necessary — as are millions of other successful men.

All Depends on How You Look at It

David Lawrence Says:

Presidents See End of Recessions

WASHINGTON — Presidents and cabinet officers are usually optimistic about when the country is to get out of a recession — and sometimes they are right.

LAWRENCE

The President who was most often wrong in his forecasts was the late Franklin D. Roosevelt. This is contrary to the general impression which has long prevailed, especially as the remark that "prosperity is just around the corner" was attributed to the administration of President Hoover.

PHRASE REPEATED

Actually, Hoover never said anything of the sort. In their political speeches, the Democrats accused him of overoptimism and kept repeating the phrase which he never uttered. What he did say resembles closely what President Roosevelt later said and what has been heard quite recently from present-day speakers. Hoover said in May 1930:

"I am convinced we now have passed the worst and with continued unity of effort we shall rapidly recover. There is one certainty in the future of a people of the resources, intelligence and character of the people of the United States—that is, prosperity."

By April 1931, when unemployment had risen, Hoover again qualified his prediction as he said: "If, by the grace of God, we have passed the worst of this storm, the future months will be easy. If we shall be called upon to endure more of this period, we must gird ourselves for even greater effort."

BECAME OPTIMISTIC

But when President Roosevelt took office, he became continuously optimistic. Thus on Jan. 4, 1934, in his annual message to Congress, he said: "We are definitely in the process of recovery."

But in 1934 the number of unemployed had jumped from 11,586,000 in November 1932, during the Hoover administration, to 13,282,000.

Yet during that same year—on Sept. 6, 1934—Roosevelt remained optimistic when he said: "It is a source of great satisfaction that at this moment conditions are such as to offer further substantial and widespread recovery."

There was, indeed, a 10 per cent improvement recorded in January 1935 over the figures of January 1934. It was a drop of 1,224,000, and Roosevelt said on April 28, 1935:

"Never since my inauguration in March 1933 have I felt so unmistakably the atmosphere of recovery. . . . Fear is vanishing and confidence is growing on every side. Faith is being renewed."

Then on Oct. 23, 1935, Roosevelt said: "Yes, we are on our way back. . . . We are coming back more soundly than ever before because we are planning it that way. Don't let anybody tell you differently."

But these statements proved to be too optimistic and by January 1936 unemployment actually increased by 600,000 over January 1935. All during 1936, however, Roosevelt remained optimistic, and on Sept. 4, 1936, he said flatly, "Prosperity is coming back." He went further and said in October that "we are around the corner."

Unemployment had gone down during the year and stood in January 1937 at 10,002,000. Then, in 1938, it went up again to 10,926,000. In fact, in 1939 just before World War II came and began to furnish war orders, the total unemployed had reached 11,369,000, which was just about the same as it was at the time of FDR's election in November 1932.

So no progress, statistically speaking, had been made in seven years.

In the recession that began in 1949, President Truman also made various statements of an optimistic nature, but here, too, the recession was ended by the outbreak of a war—in Korea.

So optimism seems to come naturally to the men at the head of the government and perhaps this happens because in critical times an attitude of pessimism can itself generate more fear and more hesitation in business and consequently produce more lay-offs of workers.

The Man About Town

Golden Wedding

One of More Than Ordinary Interest to Pontiac Folks

April showers: What (if we get them) bring May flowers.

The celebration today of the golden wedding of

of Ann Arbor, has a distinct Pontiac angle. Born here in 1884, and scion of our pioneer stock, Mr. Pound has become one of our nation's outstanding literary men.

Author of several books, including which foretold the development of the automobile industry, he also has been editorially connected with several prominent newspapers and magazines. In my last conversation with him, he gave his start on The Pontiac Press much of the credit for molding his chosen career.

His marriage to

of Flint was its biggest social event of the year. Her father had pioneered the manufacture of horse drawn vehicles in that city, and also was one of the first to make automobiles there.

On their honeymoon they visited at the White House, who advised them to have a large family in the shortest possible time. They have four daughters and 17 grandchildren.

President Theodore Roosevelt

In an installment of his autobiography,

"Time Is a Dream,"

Mr. Pound graphically describes his wedding day of April 22, 1908.

He always has a warm spot in his heart for his native city of Pontiac, and opens a story of his early life with the expression,

"I was born in Paradise."

Those favorite Christmas flowers, poinsettia plants, according to

of Keego Harbor, will bloom again if well cared for, and put outside in the spring.

An outstanding relic of the tonsorial art is owned by

of 867 Sarasota Ave. It is a set of four lather mugs, all cut on one piece of black marble, about 6x12 inches in size. Bearing the engraved name of

W. H. Hulsizer,

I wonder if it came down from a Pontiac pioneer. Did you know him?

Back from a trip to Northern Michigan,

Voice of the People

'Hardest Hit Are Farmers, Fixed Income Families'

To recover from this recession, it's necessary that prices be substantially reduced. Business and industry profits, wages and salaries must be lowered for at least a year or two. There's plenty of money in the country but people are fed up with high prices. They'll buy when price is right.

Construction costs of homes and other buildings are excessive, and most persons on fixed salaries, dependent upon investment income or living on insurance or social security can't afford to pay such prices. This is especially true of farmers, who are lucky to earn $1.00 or $1.50 an hour for their labor and nothing for their investments in land, buildings, livestock and machinery.

Prices farmers must pay have increased four-fold while prices they receive have gone down nearly half. Farmers are heavy purchasers of industry's products but haven't shared in the country's general prosperity. Farmers' families represent about one-fifth of the U. S. population, and when they've been in years of recession it affects the entire economy. Government has supported farm prices but hasn't brought farmers' income to a point where it compares with earnings in other fields.

'Even Schools Try to Ditch the Term'

I agree it's time to chuck this "modern" education. Undoubtedly there are children who must depend upon schools for "social integration" and "motivation," but why must everyone suffer because of them?

There are still a few of us who teach our children social behavior at home and send them to school for academic education. It would be fine if there's time for emphasizing both, but it doesn't seem to work that way. If you doubt it, just ask a few junior high and high school teachers who've been dealing with products of these "progressive" schools.

It's worked out so poorly even schools are trying to ditch the term "Progressive."

Disenchanted

Retired Worker Presents Views

I'm a retired Pontiac worker, 82 and getting along very well, thanks to social security FDR got for me and plant retirement the union got for us. I sympathize with the unemployed because I went through it during the big depression.

Our present administration doesn't think conditions are alarming, but neither did Hoover in 1929. They seem more interested in aid to foreign countries than for people who need it right here.

Eisenhower was supposed to be the greatest man the country's produced in 50 years, but the only great thing I've seen is that he's the greatest spender of other people's money the world has ever seen.

Next French Coalition to Run U.N. Gauntlet

By JOHN H. MARTIN
INS Foreign Director

Once the French put another makeshift coalition together, the regime will have to govern a nation which has become more isolated from its allies.

The new coalition also will run the risk of being disavowed over Algeria in the United Nations. The risk also is increasing of an active anti-French coalition between Tunisia and Morocco in aiding the Algerian drive toward independence.

For trying to keep one foot in the camp of infant North African states and another in France, the United States has exposed herself to bitter attacks by Frenchmen of various political hues. As one after another French coalition has fallen over the Algerian war issue, the United States also has been forced increasingly into an unenviable position.

The United States has sought to encourage the French to settle the Algerian issue peacefully and through negotiations with the Algerians.

This is easier said than done because the French ask: "Negotiate with whom? The most active guerrilla front which claims to speak for all Algerians? With rival Moslem groups who disavow the National Liberation Front (FLN)? And what about the minority but powerful French settlers' bloc?"

The United States with justification fears that Moscow and the Nasser bloc of Arab states will move in very heavily and take over command of the Algerian front. American and British governments have supported Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba as a moderating influence in the dispute.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Compares Newspaper, College

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Bill Klusmeier corresponds to the Publicity Director of a college. Like all livewire Promotion Managers of newspapers, he tries to show you the benefits of reading newspapers regularly. And those benefit cost far less and are usually more lasting than the usual courses your children take in college. See proof below.

CASE X-386: Bill Klusmeier, aged about 38, is the enterprising Promotion Manager of the Rockford (Ill.) newspaper.

DR. CRANE

He invited me to address the midwestern convention of Promotion Managers, so I decided to make a parallel comparison.

Suppose you contrast the educational benefits of the daily newspaper with those of a college curriculum.

Even if you pay the top price of 10 cents per day for your paper, the weekly "tuition" runs to only 60 cents.

And for that modest sum, you are kept up-to-date on the latest science, political events, world history, financial news, home economics, plus sports and comics.

The usual private college tuition averages $15 per week. Students are supposed to get 15 hours of lectures each week for that sum.

They may thus carry five classes which are called three-hour courses, since they meet three times per week.

Each individual course thus costs the student $3 per week, which is five times the newspaper tuition charge of 60 cents.

"But, Dr. Crane," you may protest, "doesn't the college education do you more good throughout life?"

You be the judge! How much of your German or French or Spanish have you remembered or been able to "cash-in" on since you left school?

Physicians and dentists, as well as lawyers and clergymen, despite seven years of college, usually don't employ anything but the simple arithmetic taught in the grades!

SHOCKING SURVEYS

"But what about history?" you may exclaim.

Well, what about it? Most of our college graduates remember so little history they'd flunk a beginning course.

Despite the high tuition that college youths are paying, they will take away very little specific information from most of their courses.

But every housewife will profit before this week is over from the 30 cents to 60 cents tuition paid for the newspaper.

Why, she'll probably save $1 to $5 just on grocery bargains alone, not to mention clothing purchases!

Millions of you readers are also interested in the financial news, so you will benefit from it in actual dollars and cents before next Saturday night as you buy or sell.

Just in this psychology feature, pay lasting benefits far beyond your foreign language courses and many others taken in high school or college.

The "Compliment club" alone has produced more success and happiness for thousands of you readers than any single course you took in high school or college, for I have your reports on such benefits in the millions of letters you have sent me.

The early grade schoolers likewise get more drill in English by trying to read the dialogue in the strip comics, than they probably obtain from their school readers, and that's no joke, either!

So pay tribute where tribute is due. The daily newspaper saves your family far more than its cost via the ads which housewives read, and all the other rich dividends are simply extra or "fringe" benefits.

These often include the very low-cost accident insurance policies subscribers are entitled to.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Supreme Court Eyes Railroad

9 Residents Appeal Denial of Injunction in Switchyard Case

Is the Grand Trunk Western Railroad switchyard a nuisance to Pontiac northsiders, and was it built in violation of the city's zoning ordinance?

This two-part question is now up to Michigan Supreme Court justices to decide.

They have heard arguments in the appeal of Oakland County Circuit Judge George B. Hartrick's Aug. 25, 1957 decision denying an injunction which would have blocked construction of the $750,000 yard.

In his arguments before the high court, City Attorney William A. Ewart, contended the city has done everything possible in preventing the yard from being a nuisance, and construction of it was not in violation of the zoning laws.

Robert Hodge, attorney for nine northside residents seeking to block the yard, argued in direct opposition to Ewart.

Ewart said he didn't expect a ruling from the court for at least three months. The yard is west of Baldwin avenue and south of West Walton boulevard.

Urban League Guild to Hear of Life Abroad

Mrs. Robert Turpin, 38 Crawford St., will discuss "Living Abroad" tomorrow night when she speaks at the April meeting of the Pontiac Urban League Guild.

Mrs. Turpin, her husband Dr. Turpin and their three children recently returned from Europe. They lived in Paris for two years while Dr. Turpin, a dentist, served as a major in the army.

The meeting, which begins at 8 p.m., will be held at the home of Mrs. Everett Spurlock, 146 Franklin Blvd.

OUT OF SEASON — Three-year-old Leeta Young of Dallas, Tex., shows how she made like Santa Claus recently in pursuit of a ball she dropped down the chimney. Fortunately, she didn't have Santa's skill and didn't make it all the way down. In fact, she got stuck four feet from the top. Two neighbors rescued her by knocking away part of the chimney. Leeta's journey to the roof was instigated by her cat, which climbed up there first. Leeta used a TV repairman's ladder to follow the feline. At the time the picture was taken, she was still looking for the ball.

Child Bearing Disease Specialists Rap Ignorance

Hysterectomy Urged for Older Women

By RENNIE TAYLOR
AP Science Reporter

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Thousands of American women over 40 years of age should undergo hysterectomy for their own well-being, says a group of specialists in the treatment of diseases associated with child bearing.

This operation, in which the womb is removed, often is the only effective way of dealing with organic disease and other troubles, but it is being criticized because of ignorance and misinformation, they assert.

"The afternoon tea table is the chief source of opposition to this procedure," said Dr. Allan C. Barnes, professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Western Reserve University Medical School at Cleveland.

"The typical tea table," he added, "is made up of the pregnant woman, the married but never pregnant one, the unmarried woman and the one who has one child. The talk goes around the table to the left. Each woman scares the other."

Dr. Barnes took part in a panel discussion before the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists yesterday. Other panelists were Dr. Waverly R. Payne, Newport News, Va., and Dr. Frederick Zuspan, McDowell, Ky.

Dr. Barnes said there are no firm statistics on the matter but that probably 5 to 10 out of every 100 women over 40 have fibroid tumors of the womb and about 20 per cent of those so affected should have the operation because of the growths. In addition, he said, there is an undetermined number of women who would benefit by the operation because of other conditions.

Chief objection to this surgery, he continued, is that it makes the patient no longer a woman; that she cannot enjoy sex relations afterward. This, he said, is not true.

Dr. Payne reported many of his hysterectomy patients noted improvement in their sex life afterward, probably because they had become free from pain and their general health had improved.

2 Remanded Back to Municipal Court

A Waterford Township man and a 19-year-old Rochester man were remanded back to Pontiac Municipal Court yesterday for examination on a felonious assault charge in which they allegedly fought with an unarmed off-duty Pontiac detective.

James D. Stevens, 23, of 2607 Williams Dr., and Robert L. Vallance, of 3660 Alida St., Rochester, had originally waived examination in the lower court earlier this month.

They are charged with attacking Det. Albert W. Foster Sr., of 275 S. Marshall St., after Foster found them in a neighbor's yard and tried to question them.

3-Year-Old Takes Ride on Outside of Truck

NEVADA, Mo. (AP)—Three-year-old Stephen Ray Rider took a ride on the outside of his grandfather's pickup truck, but didn't get very excited about his experience.

His grandfather did, however.

"I just about died when I found out about it," said C. P. Rider, who lives four miles north of Nevada on U. S. 71.

Rider drove with a load of grain to Nevada, unaware that the boy had crawled on the right fender and was hanging onto the door handle.

Motorists at the edge of town saw the boy, followed Rider and stopped him.

Beanpole Models Reign in Fashion World

NEW YORK (AP)—The average husband, thumbing through his wife's style gazettes, is convinced that most fashion models are human beanpoles in need of a blood transfusion.

One of his constant fears is that his wife, wearing the same clothes, will come home looking that way, too—that is, rather like a basketball center in skirts.

Somehow word got around recently that the new sack look would change all this. The rumor spread that fashion models now would look less like a vertical clothes line and more like, well, Marilyn Monroe.

RUMOR CHECKED

We have checked this rumor with Mrs. Roz O'Rourke Foy, an authority in such matters, and she says she can't understand how such a falsehood ever got started.

"A fashion model definitely still must be slim," said Mrs. Foy, who with her husband, Bill Foy, a former photographer, operates a model agency that stocks 50 of the town's leading gazelles.

"She can't be voluptuous—along Marilyn Monroe's lines. Marilyn Monroe indeed! Why, she'd definitely flop as a fashion model. There's simply too much of her. No doubt of it!

REGARDED AS FREAKS

"Marilyn is too abundant. So is Anita Eckberg. So is Jayne Mansfield. In the world of fashion, they're regarded as freaks of nature."

"As a matter of fact," she said defiantly, "if there is a trend it is this: bosoms are on the way out (of the fashion picture), and legs are back in.

"Good legs are tremendously important. A girl with bad legs is just out of luck.

"The ideal measurements for a fashion model, I'd say, are 34-inch bust, 23-inch waist, and 34½ inch hips. But of course she should wear a ceinture to pull her in about two inches at the waist, in the same manner as the surcingle on a horse."

Mrs. Robbins

Mrs. Vera Robbins, 48 W. Ferry, Detroit, says: "I tried about everything for arthritis in my arm, legs and neck, so when I saw a testimonial in my newspaper for O-JIB-WA BITTERS, I decided to try it too. I'm happy I did, for results with this wonderful medicine came quickly. Once again I can comb my hair, put on my coat and walk again without terrible pain. My husband also used it for his arthritis and it helped him in just one week. I am glad of the opportunity to tell others about O-JIB-WA BITTERS."

In Low-Grade Ores

Michigan Offers Fortune

DETROIT (AP) — At least 10 billion dollars lies in Michigan's earth waiting to be claimed.

The fortune isn't in cash, but in the state's vast supplies of low-grade iron and copper ores.

Theodore Pearce of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology says a way must be found to separate the ore efficiently before its full value can be realized.

"As soon as such a method is developed," Pearce said over the weekend, "these low-grade ores will be transformed into resources having a value on today's market of at least 10 billion dollars."

Pearce was one of the men who met in Detroit to prepare for this year's Michigan Week observance.

The group was agreed that the abundance of natural resources in the state bodes well for its future economic prosperity.

Burton H. Boyum, chairman of the Michigan Week Natural Resources Committee, told the gathering that Michigan has vast resources of land, salt, iron, copper, Gypsum and quarry products, lumber and tourist attractions.

Glenn McDonald, editor of the Bay City Times and chairman of the Water Resources Committee, said Michigan's water supplies are more than adequate for future development.

Also foreseen at the meeting were an upturn in the state's fishing industry as soon as the vicious sea lamprey is brought under control, a new lumbering era and an economic boom following completion of the St. Lawrence Seaway next year.

Recover Hunter's Body Lost Since November

BAY CITY (AP) — The body of a Flint duck hunter who drowned five months ago when his boat capsized was found floating in Saginaw Bay east of here yesterday.

Charles Nagy, 44, was spotted by a private pilot in a bayou about 800 feet off shore. He and another Flint man, Ernest R. Rockafellow, 43, perished Nov. 23 while duck hunting near Sebewaing. Rockafellow's body was found a week later.

Holland Sends Windmill

Pakistan Irked by U.S. Policy

Fails to Comprehend Why India Is Receiving Similar Aid as Neutral

KARACHI (AP) — Discontent against the United States is seething in Pakistan.

America has provided Pakistan more than 650 million dollars in economic aid plus a secret amount of military aid, but this doesn't change the situation.

India, and America's aid to India, are the heart of the matter.

India is the enemy, in the feelings of many Pakistanis, and they ask: Why should the United States help an ally's enemy?

In public and private, Pakistan officials have questioned the value of alliance with the United States and the West. They say India's case shows it seems to pay more to be neutral and uncommitted.

India gets aid from both sides of the cold war, while criticizing both sides, especially American military aid to Pakistan.

Most high officials here admit that many of Pakistan's troubles are their own fault and are at home: a food shortage, corruption, political instability, inefficiency, slowness of economic progress.

Some say part of the prevalent discontent against the United States is a backlash of a general discontent and frustration in Pakistan.

Older People Should Have Legal Will

By RAY HENRY

As a man gets older, it becomes more and more important that he have a legal will — particularly if he's married and has property or money.

Why? Take this true story about a 64-year-old widow:

The widow's husband died last August, after a life of hard work and small wages. Raising a family of five children had kept him strapped. A small house and a 1956 car — both paid off — were about his only possessions.

Making a will had never occurred to him. Without one, the laws of his state gave his widow only one-third of his property. The rest had to be divided among his children.

Although the widow needed the house and car, they had to be sold. The children were married and wanted their inheritance.

The local probate court had to step in to give a clear title on the house and car. An administrator of the estate had to be named. This meant court costs, lawyers fees and the cost of selling the house and car, leaving less cash to be divided.

None of this would have happened if the widow's husband had made a simple will. And, the widow would have the house and car which is probably what her husband would have wanted.

From the story, you no doubt see several good reasons why you should have a will:

1. You choose how your property will be divided, rather than leaving it to your state's laws. Thus, you can give your wife the protection the widow above didn't have.

2. It's cheaper to write a will than to pay the costs usually involved when you don't leave one.

There are other reasons including a much smoother and faster settlement of your estate and eliminating the chance of a family feud.

In making a will, you should always consult a lawyer. He'll know the twists and turns of your local laws. And, he'll be able to put the will in appropriate legal language.

The fees lawyers charge for making a will vary depending on how much time it takes and the amount of property you have. It's tougher to write a will when you have a great deal of property.

But, rarely will the fee be more than $25. Chances are if your will is simple the fee won't be more than $15.

After the will is written, you'll have to have at least two persons sign it as witnesses. Select them carefully. They should be younger than you so that the chances are good they'll outlive you. Some states require the witness to be present when the will is probated.

Relatives usually don't make the best witnesses. Frequently, it's wise to use your lawyer and the person named executor of your estate, provided they aren't named in the will.

Once the will is signed and witnessed you should store it in a safe place. Then, be sure to tell your executor or a close friend where you keep it. All your effort will be wasted if the will can't be found after your death.

Buick Cancels Building Plans

Division Won't Enlarge Its Storage Facilities in Waterford

The $3-million proposed expansion of the Buick Motor Division storage building in Waterford Township, has been canceled indefinitely.

No explanation was given for the cancellation.

Township officials were notified of the cancellation by Robert Miller, of the Buick Works Engineering Dept., at Flint.

The company had planned to employ some 450 people. No manufacturing operation in the building was contemplated.

Plans and specifications for the large addition to the present structure have been in the township building department for more than a month. The building is located on Williams Lake Rd.

Chief Building Inspector Carl Walton said that Buick officials were expected to be issued a building permit May 5.

Fights Using Man as Guinea Pig on Outer Space

WASHINGTON (AP)—The chief of the Navy's Vanguard project says scientists should use instruments to learn preliminary facts about space and not use a man as a guinea pig.

Dr. John Hagen told the Special House Space Committee that this country might be able to send a man around the world in a space ship in two or three years, but contended the objective should not be getting a volunteer into space as soon as possible.

"The aeromedical people," he said, "have plans for instruments to be sent up that would tell them much of what could be learned by sending a man into space.

"Once we have this information without hazarding a life, then we should send a man up to serve some useful purpose."

Burning Motorcycle Confounds Policeman

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Somebody reported a motorcycle on fire at Lincoln Avenue and Idaho Street.

Officer Walter Kilgore already was at the scene.

As flames licked around the motorcycle, officer Kilgore heard these instructions on his radio: "Motor 104: Assist with burning motorcycle at Lincoln and Idaho."

Kilgore couldn't get to his radio to tell the dispatcher that he was already there—and that his motorcycle was burning.

Some weather experts now believe it may soon be possible to predict general weather conditions by as much as 10 years in advance.

Senator Challenges Dems on Water Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) challenged congressional Democrats today to drop their fight against a veto and get behind a water projects bill President Eisenhower can approve.

Knowland, the Senate Republican leader, said he does not believe Democrats can muster the required two-thirds vote to override Eisenhower's veto last week of the 1½-billion-dollar authorization measure.

Senate leaders made no move to bring the issue to an immediate vote. Instead, the vetoed bill was sent to the Senate Public Works Committee, where Chairman Chavez (D-NM) said he intends to hear people interested in the projects. He said the hearings may last a long time.

Boy Receives 32-Year Term

Murdered His Mother; Judge Describes Inner Turmoil of Youth, 15

REXBURG, Idaho (AP)—Troubled Tommy Brophy, 15, a poetry-writing youth who had 20 neighbors marked for murder, sat in a cell today awaiting perhaps the security he has never known.

The high school sophomore was given 32 years in prison yesterday for killing his mother last February. He must serve at least a third of it.

"It is difficult to understand you," said Judge Willard Burton as Tommy wept quietly during the sentencing. "You are a quiet, nice-appearing boy, but beneath the surface there is a storm raging. . . . You have become a menace to society, and this society which you have not trusted cannot trust you."

Tommy twice blasted Mrs. Nellie Mae Hinckley, 36, with a shotgun, then fired a rifle bullet into her head. He was convicted of second-degree murder despite his plea of temporary insanity.

The bright, brooding youth—he has an IQ of 128—was described by psychiatrists at his trial as an impulse-ridden boy with a persecution complex, caused partly by his troubled home life.

After his parents divorced when he was 3, Tommy lived in three foster homes, a school, then with two stepmothers, his father, and finally—starting in 1956—with his mother and stepfather here.

The doctors said Tommy now sleeps under the cot in his cell, a blanket draped over the side of the cot, the cell light burning. They said he has always been afraid. Psychologist David Elchorn said Tommy "feared father images and felt rejected by mother images."

Among Tommy's effects police found papers detailing plots to kill 20 neighbors. Other items told how Tommy shot cats at night and once left a cat's paws on a neighbor's doorstep.

Other papers were poems—one written to 13-year-old Barbara Weatherston, Tommy's girl friend who testified he once tried to strangle her.

State Driver Points System to Be Law

LANSING (AP) — A bill setting up a point system for suspension of driver licenses was signed yesterday by Gov. Williams.

When the new law goes into effect 90 days after final adjournment of the legislature, drivers who accumulate 12 demerit points in two years will be called in for re-examination by the Secretary of State's office.

Suspension or revocation of operating privileges could result.

Warning letters will be sent out to motorists who pick up nine points.

Secretary of State James M. Hare, a Democrat like Williams, has opposed freezing a point count into law. A flexible point system now is applied administratively.

Hare said a statutory schedule would hamstring efforts to remove bad drivers from the highways after one or two flagrant traffic law violations.

Waterford OKs Court Action

Concrete Mixing Firm Accused of Violating Zoning Ordinance

Waterford Township attorney Paul M. Mandel was authorized by the township board to instigate court proceedings against the Monte Concrete Ready Mix Co., of Mt. Clemens, at last night's regular board meeting.

Members of the Concrete Manufacturers Assn. requested the action. They contend that the company has set up a cement manufacturing plant in the Coleman-Friedman Subdivision, which is zoned residential.

Board members agreed that the zoning ordinance had been violated and that court action was necessary to stop any further violations.

In other business, some 35 residents from the Oakwood Manor Subdivision on Dixie Highway were present to discuss establishment of a special assessment street lighting district.

At a special hearing held yesterday, petitions showed that 75 per cent of the property owners were in favor of the project, 25 per cent against.

The board approved the special district. Each lot owner of the subdivision will pay $8.49 a year for lighting facilities.

Developers John Stenback and his son Carl presented a 192-lot plat located on Hatchery near Crescent Lake road for the board's approval. However, no provisions for a central water system in the plat necessitated tabling the matter for further planning.

Another controversial issue regarding water supply, was a request from Indian Woods Subdivision builder James Sayer, to have an agreement between his company and the township clarified.

The agreement specifies that $750 be held in escrow for each lot sold for a future central water system.

This has not been done, according to township officials, preventing issuance of more building permits to Sayer.

Fire Chief Edward Smith was given the board's approval to have major repair work completed on the fire truck at Station 2. Directional signals for the five township trucks will be installed at a cost of $165.

UAW Heads to Eye Bargaining Policy

DETROIT (AP) — The 25 member executive board of the United Auto Workers Union was expected to review collective bargaining policy in the auto industry at a three-day meeting opening here today at UAW headquarters.

The union now has negotiations on new contracts under way at General Motors, Ford Motor Co., Chrysler Corp. and American Motors Corp.

Negotiations at all the companies are being held under an agreement secrecy which can be revoked on 24 hours notice by either party.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther has acknowledged that the union is at a disadvantage in bargaining at a time when car sales are lagging and more than 200,000 auto workers have been laid off.

At the same time, Reuther says the union is "deadly serious" in its campaign to establish profit sharing for workers in the industry besides demanding an unspecified wage increase and more fringe benefits. But he says the union is not thinking in terms of a strike when the industry has a blacklog of more than 850,000 unsold cars.

Awaiting Trial in New York

FBI Cites Spy Contacts by Harvard Researcher

BOSTON (INS) — The FBI today alleged Russian-born Mark Zeborowski, 60-year-old Harvard University research assistant, had contacts with Soviet spies in the United States dating back 15 years.

This, according to federal officials, will comprise a major part of the prosecution's case against him in a Federal Court trial on perjury charges in New York.

Zborowski, arrested at his Brookline home, is being held in Charles Street Jail in lieu of $20,000, for a hearing tomorrow on his removal to New York to face trial.

Zborowski was indicted in New York on charges of perjury resulting from his denial under oath that he ever knew Jack Soble, confessed head of a Soviet spy ring, currently serving a federal sentence with his wife, Myra, and Jacob Albam.

The FBI claims Zborowski met Soble at least 50 times and claims also that he was in contact with Soble's predecessor, Vassili Subilin, second assistant at the Soviet Embassy in Washington. Zubilin is credited with being the chief architect of the far-flung Russian spy network in the United States.

Zborowski admitted serving the Russian secret police in France in the 1930s, but claimed he severed all ties with the NKVD when he came to the United States in 1941. He became a United States citizen in 1947.

He said the NKVD ferreted him out in America and tried to force him to spy but he refused.

Zborowski currently is working as a research assistant in a Harvard University school of public health project in Boston's Roxbury section, being conducted in cooperation with the City of Boston Health Department. He is a member of a team doing research on social, health and economic factors in a section of Roxbury.

Philosophy Fails Driver

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — "Didn't have change—to err is human," said Ken Van Altman in a note he left together with a quarter on the windshield of his car. When he returned he found a parking ticket and another note. It read: "Lead us not to temptation. I got here before the cop."

Twister Whirls Tot 50 Yards

He Suffers Cut Chin; Eleven Others Injured by Tornado in Texas

MIDLOTHIAN, Tex. (AP)—Writhing erratically, a tornado smashed farm houses, injured 11 persons and snatched a small boy from his mother's arms late yesterday.

Gary Froning, a chubby 2-year-old, was sucked from his collapsing home and whirled 50 yards into a pasture as the twister slashed back and forth across a dozen miles square.

Although debris fell all around him, the youngster suffered only a cut chin.

The tornado, which swept across the farm area south and east of this central Texas town, apparently scored a direct hit on the four-room frame home of George Froning, six miles southeast of Midlothian.

"It was raining so hard you couldn't see, but we didn't know anything about a tornado coming because of the noise from hail pounding on the tin roof of our sun room," Froning said.

"Then a window blew in, and my wife and I grabbed the children."

Mrs. Froning pushed the little boy to the floor and lay across his body protectively.

"All I could think of was that little boy in my arms," she said. "Then I felt the wind lifting us, and I couldn't hold onto him any longer."

After the storm passed on, Froning picked himself up 100 feet west of where only the foundation of the house remained. He had a head cut.

After a few seconds they found Gary, sobbing from fright and unable to say what had happened. He was 50 yards southwest of the razed home.

Two Missiles to Quit Earth

Blastoffs This Week Slated at Florida Site as Giant Strides

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UP)— Two powerful rockets are scheduled to blast off from the earth here this week. If each carries out its mission, the U.S. will have taken two great strides forward in the effort to solve the secrets of outer space.

One of the rockets, a 72 - foot Navy Vanguard, will attempt to hurl a fully-instrumented, 20-inch satellite into orbit around the earth.

The second, a combination of the Air Force Thor and the Vanguard, will be fired some 5,500 miles in an experiment on the reentry problem, which must be licked before man himself can venture into space.

Rep. Patrick J. Hillings (R-Calif.) reported in Washington that Thursday had been set as target time for the Vanguard, which already has made one successful space flight, establishing a 6.4-inch aluminum sphere with a radio voice into a high-flying orbit.

This tiny ball is one of the three "moons" now in space—all American. The Army, employing the Jupiter-C missile, has launched two Explorer satellites.

The newest Vanguard satellite will be a much bigger ball with more complete instruments to gather and radio back to earth information about temperatures in space, meteorites and ultra-violet radiations from the sun.

The second rocket scheduled for firing this week will consist of the Thor, an intermediate range ballistic missile, as the first stage, and the Vanguard second stage. This middle section of the three-stage Vanguard contains the guidance "brain" of the complete rocket.

Virtually nothing is known about this project, but it has been learned that the rocket has been designed to travel some 5,000 miles in space, then re-enter the earth's atmosphere.

Development of metals which will not burn to dust as rockets descend at fantastic speeds from space into the dense atmosphere of the world is necessary in many phases of the space program.

It is essential, for instance, before America could hope to shoot a man into space and bring him back alive. It is necessary in the development of intercontinental ballistic missiles which will fly 5,000 miles and more in space before crashing in on target.

When this problem is licked, scientists say, the eventual goal of travel to the moon will be much closer.

There have been reports that the same Thor-Vanguard rocket to be fired this week will be used when America makes its first attempt to land a payload on the moon.

Junior Editors Quiz on LITERATURE

.... QUESTION: Was Ulysses a real person?

ANSWER: Ulysses is the hero of the "Odyssey," an epic poem written about 4,000 years ago by the Greek poet Homer. The poem describes Ulysses as the king of Ithaca, in Greece, and tells of his 10 years of wanderings and adventures in returning to Ithaca after fighting heroically in the Trojan War.

In one adventure, Ulysses and several of his men are captured and taken to a cave in Sicily by Polyphemus, a giant with only one eye. The cruel giant started to eat the men, one by one. Ulysses put a stop to that by blinding him with a sharp stake down through his eye while he was asleep. Then the men were able to escape.

Historians agree that Ulysses did not really exist.

FOR YOU TO DO: Here is a picture from the Ulysses story. Paste it on cardboard, color it and cut it out.

Hollywood Headlines

Sam Spiegel Jumps From 'Kwai' to Texas

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Notes and comment on the Hollywood scene—

It's from "Kwai" to Texas for Oscar winner Sam Spiegel. The producer expects his next picture to be "The Chase," which takes place in the Lone Star State.

No, it's not really a Western, he says. It's a modern story about the haves and have-nots in a Texas oil town. Spiegel, who made "The African Queen" in Africa and "Bridge Over the River Kwai" in Ceylon, expects to make the whole picture in Texas. . . .

Rosalind Russell is gloating over "Auntie Mame" being booked into the Radio City Music Hall before it has been filmed. She says it's a first for the nation's biggest movie house. It will be the Christmas attraction and ought to be a smash. . . .

Harry Belafonte is working on a closed set at MGM for "The End of the World." The reason, says producer George Englund, is that he has two weeks of scenes entirely by himself. He thinks he is the sole survivor of an atomic catastrophe — until he finds Inger Stevens and Mel Ferrer.

Harry told me in the commissary that he has had two more operations on his eye and has been given a clean bill of health. . . .

It was nice to see Linda Darnell at a recent banquet. She tells me she has been leading the quiet life and is completely happy in her marriage to airline pilot Robbie Robertson. But she hasn't given up acting and is planning a TV series about lady cops. . . .

Folks are happy that Judy Garland and Sid Luft patched up their rift. Judy needs a strong hand and Sid was the only one who could handle her. With a little discipline, there's no reason why she couldn't solve her money problems. . . .

Promises Open Mind on Pentagon Plan

WASHINGTON (UP) — A House committee whose leaders are openly opposed to President Eisenhower's defense reorganization plans promised today to consider them "seriously, objectively and in detail."

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the House Armed Services Committee gave the promise in a statement prepared for the opening of hearings at which Secretary of Defense McElroy was called as the first witness.

"This committee has always given careful consideration to recommendations of the President," Vinson said. "In this instance, as in the past, the committee will consider the President's recommendations seriously, objectively and in detail and with full awareness of the constitutional responsibility of the Congress."

In general, Eisenhower's proposals would give the defense secretary more authority over the individual services—a move Vinson and other members of the committee have criticized sharply in the past.

There appeared little likelihood the House committee would approve Eisenhower's plan without major changes.

Tourist travel in Israel increased between 1956 and 1957 by 56 per cent during the month of September.

Two Do-It-Yourselfers Build Own Submarine

CORSICANA, Tex. (UP) — An 18-foot submarine built from a discarded water tank made four public dives without mishap.

The sub was built by Ray Bass, a plumbing inspector, and Pete Hartgraves, a welding shop operator, as a hobby.

The sub dives by flooding two attached tanks. Oxygen is forced into the flooded tanks to rise.

If someone cranks it hard enough, a hand-operated screw will give about 3 miles an hour.

At Brussels World Fair

U. S. Voting Machines Draw Crowds

BRUSSELS (INS) — One of the top attractions at the American Pavilion of the Brussels World Fair is a battery of voting machines, the personal suggestion of President Eisenhower.

Thousands of fairgoers, many of whom have never had the right to cast a secret ballot for or against the dictators or governments while rule them, poke gingerly at the levers of the machines each day.

Russian visitors have been especially curious. One Muscovite today spent an hour photographing the machines from all angles and copying every word on them as well as on relevant signs posted nearby.

Among the words he copied was this legend:

"The right to vote, to make a secret and independent political decision, is the ultimate guarantee of liberty and freedom to people throughout the world. Dwight D. Eisenhower."

Six machines, supplied by the Shoup Voting Machine Corp. of New York City, gave the visitors an opportunity not only to see how democracy works at the polls but a chance to express their own unfettered opinion on several non-political topics.

They may vote on such questions as "In your opinion, who was the greatest American statesman?" On that ballot are the names of Benjamin Franklin, George Washington, Herbert Hoover, Theodore Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson, Abraham Lincoln and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Arthur Darby, Shoup representative, opened a sample machine and we discovered that Mr. Lincoln is leading in this field. It looks like a third term for Honest Abe.

Kim Novak was judged by users of that same machine as their favorite American actress in a field of belles which included Cyd Charisse, Lana Turner, Marilyn Monroe, Doris Day, Jennifer Jones, Esther Williams and June Allyson.

Ernest Hemingway was chosen the finest American writer in these early returns.

Asked which American cities they would most like to visit, a majority chose New York, followed by San Francisco. Hawaii was named as the most alluring vacation place and Harvard the college they would most like to attend.

Louis Armstrong led all other American musicians, followed by Lionel Hampton and Benny Goodman.

Fairgoers from the ends of the earth, voting on the question "Who is your favorite emigre to the United States?" named the late Albert Einstein. Their second choice caused Mr. Darby's derby to tilt a bit. They had chosen Marlene Dietrich.

Resign, Mayor, She Demands

Lady Council Member Instructs Three to Quit Before Investigation

BELTON, Mo. (UP) — The City Council meeting moved along serenely last night until Mrs. Tillie M. Quick, Belton's first woman Council member, demanded that the mayor, the superintendent of public works and an alderman resign.

She charged that the three had done business with the city (pop. 1,233) illegally.

Mrs. Quick said she asked last week for the resignations of Mayor William V. Powell, Alderman Fred Folk and J. Maurice Robey, public works superintendent.

She said Powell, a building contractor, did a $1,889 remodeling job on the City Hall; that Robey has a $70,000 insurance policy on the City Hall and sewage disposal plant, and that Folk, an implement dealer, has done repair work on city equipment.

"I gave you until tonight," she said. "I thought it could be done quietly. If it can't be, then this whole matter will be investigated."

Mrs. Quick said she would ask Atty. Gen. John M. Dalton what to do next.

Mayor Powell adjourned the meeting abruptly. Both he and Folk said they wanted to consult a lawyer.

Powell told a reporter he took the remodeling contract only because no one else would bid on it. As for repair work done by Folk, Powell said: "Why should we go to Kansas City or Harrisonville to buy tractor parts when we can get them as cheap or cheaper from Fred Folk without making the trip?"

Technology Blamed for Economic Dip

WASHINGTON (UP) — Two labor union officials contended today that automated factories have not produced the expanded employment and lower prices they said experts had promised.

Albert Whitehouse, director of the AFL-CIO Industrial Union Department, and Elmer J. Maloy, industrial engineering chief of the United Steelworkers, said automation so far has proved to be the bane rather than the boon of the American worker.

Both blamed the recession at least in part on new automatic machines, many of them guided electronically, that have provided increased industrial capacity with fewer workers.

Both advanced these views in talks prepared for a daylong conference on automation problems called by the AFL-CIO's IUD for some 200 union members.

"It's time to point out that automation and other major technological change have failed to bring automatically those things promised so blithely," Whitehouse said, adding: "Where are the great numbers of more highly skilled jobs? Where are the lower prices? Where are the jobs for everybody that were virtually guaranteed to us?

"Some of us have been kidding ourselves about the purpose of technology under our enterprise system, and probably under any other system. The purpose of better machinery is to cut labor costs by eliminating jobs."

Maloy said the steel industry has doubled capacity in a few years using fewer production workers. He said the auto industry has enough capacity for triple the country's demand and requires fewer employes.

"The answer is always the same," Maloy said, "more and more production, with less and less employes, yet higher and higher selling prices for the products.

"Either the increased production by improved methods costs more than the old hand-made product or the corporations are extorting more from the public than their products are worth."

Whitehouse said organized labor does not oppose technological progress but insists new machines be made the servants of all the people.

5 Seriously Injured as Bus Overturns

PAYNESVILLE, Minn. (UP) — A bus with 14 passengers aboard plunged off Highway 55 west of here yesterday and overturned in a hayfield.

Four of the passengers and the driver, James Sullivan, 45, Minneapolis, were reported in serious condition. The others suffered fractures, cuts and bruises.

The injured included Mrs. Stewart Johnson, 46, Grand Rapids, Mich., and her 6-month-old son, James. They suffered cuts and bruises.

Sullivan told authorities a gust of wind threw the zephyr bus out of control. Tracks indicated the bus traveled some distance along the soft shoulder before hitting a water-filled ditch, tearing through a barbed wire fence and then rolling two miles west of here.

Running Out of Gas Doesn't Stop Newsman

MIDLOTHIAN, Tex. (UP) — Joe Laird, Dallas News photographer, arrived to cover tornado damage and promptly ran out of gas. Power lines had been snapped by the storm and none of the gasoline pumps would work.

But kerosene, kept in barrels, was available. Laird poured several gallons in his tank, chugged off to get his pictures, then chugged back to Dallas.

Top Educators Discuss 'Gifted Child in School'

A panel of experts dealing with the gifted child participated in a discussion on the subject at a session held in Northland auditorium Monday night. Sponsor of the program was City-Country School.

Panel members were Dr. A. Harry Passow, associate professor of Teachers College, Columbia University, and consultant to Wayne County Board of Education on gifted children; Dr. Anton Brenner, of the research staff of Merrill-Palmer School, Detroit, and Dr. Elizabeth Drews, associate professor at Michigan State University. Moderator was George A. Roeper, director of City Country School, Bloomfield Hills.

Panel members, disturbed by the recent attack on the efficiency of schools, pointed out that the attack is based on ignorance of school systems. Far more schools are teaching the "three Rs" than any progressive method, it was pointed out.

GIFTED CHILD NEGLECTED?

Members also were disturbed by the neglect of the gifted child, asserting that the State Legislature spends a great deal on the handicapped and mentally retarded without giving equal treatment to the gifted child.

A comparison of schools in Germany and the United States was drawn by Mr. Roeper who recently returned from Europe. He elaborated on the "weeding out" of students unable to meet the educational requirements of German schools beginning at the early level. The American school system cannot copy such a system, Mr. Roeper said, but he pointed out that our schools could be more selective.

The panelists agreed that educators have not yet begun to understand how much a child knows and what his capacities for learning are. Experience shows that there is duplication of teaching and the child often is subjected to repetition of classroom work.

City Symphony Group Holds Last Program

The final program meeting of the Pontiac Symphony Women's Association, prior to the final concert of the season April 29, was held Monday at the home of Mrs. Fritzi Stoddard on Ottawa drive.

These meetings, which precede each concert, have been especially helpful and interesting to the members of the association. They have given them an approach to the symphony programs to be presented, that have made them more sensitive to the music and given a foreknowledge of the numbers to be played by the orchestra.

Included in the final concert will be:

Overture: "The Marriage of Figaro" ..... Mozart
Second Symphony ..... Beethoven
Poem for Flute and Orchestra ..... Griffes
Irish Suite ..... LeRoy Anderson

A special feature of the meeting was the appearance of the advanced Webster School orchestra, heard in a group of four delightful numbers and played with marked musicianship conducted by Robert Peterson who is first violist in the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra.

Included in the orchestra were Linda Conner, Carol Norvell, Joyce Livingstone, Denise Patton, Nancy Ward, Wesson Schultz and Katherine Widdifield, violins; Margaret Moreau, Robin Rutzen and Jean Livingstone, cellos, and Robert Bell, double bass.

TALK BY MRS. BENNETT

Following the business meeting conducted by Mrs. L. Raymond Sampson, program chairman Mrs. James Rosenthal, introduced the speaker, Mrs. Joseph L. Bennett. She pointed out interesting features and themes of the compositions to be played at the forthcoming concert and gave several highlights from the lives of the four composers.

Mrs. Bennett also paid tribute to the many civic groups, individuals and to the musicians in the orchestra who have contributed so generously in support of this cultural organization.

A coffee hour preceded the program and business meeting, with Mrs. Sampson presiding at the refreshment table. She was assisted by Mrs. Frank Bonner, Mrs. Vivian Tubbs, Mrs. J. C. Walker and Mrs. Charles Uligian who served on the social committee.

The annual meeting of the association will be held May 19 at the home of Mrs. Harold A. Fitzgerald on Ottawa drive.

Milk Is Source of 'Go Power'

About 3 out of 10 American families do not get enough calcium for daily requirements. Experts point out milk has 100 or so different food nutrients for vim, vigor and vitality.

Milk can help build and repair tired and frazzled muscle and nerve tissue and provide "go power" needed to meet today's working and living demands.

Sylvan Lake Gardeners Review Active Months

For the past several months women of the Sylvan Lake Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association have been active in planning special programs and projects.

In September the group planted 60 potted rose bushes along the southern end of the recreation grounds at Pontiac State Hospital. The move was prompted by a talk on the value of flowers in the hospital's recreational area, given by Dorothy D. Roe, director of recreational therapy at the institution.

EQUIPPED PLAYGROUND

A program on dried flower selection, preservation and arrangement was presented by Mrs. Gil Every and Mrs. Arthur Arnold of the Waterford Branch in October. The month also was marked by the purchase of playground equipment for pre-school children, to be placed in Sylvanite Haven Park. This equipment was financed by a check donated by Joe Leavy Jr. from the treasury of a disbanded teenage club.

The Sylvan Lake Branch contributed to this project to purchase equipment of better quality. Members of the committee for this project were Mrs. R. D. Aumaugher, Mrs. Walter Schroeder and Mrs. Franklin Webster.

At the November gathering four members of the club, Mrs. Ed Williams, Mrs. Aumaugher, Mrs. S. J. Filkins and Mrs. Franklin Webster, demonstrated uses of common materials for holiday decorations. They had attended a workshop at the home of Mrs. Frank Webb in Birmingham.

At Christmas gifts were donated for patients at the Oakland County Infirmary. For the program Patricia Burch of Lincoln Junior High School gave excerpts from the life of Peter Marshall. Two Roosevelt School pupils, Paulette Gryfin and Sue Ann Aumaugher, entertained with piano selections and a baton twirling demonstration.

GUEST NIGHT HELD

The January "Guest Night" meeting entertained members' husbands and friends. A quartet from the West Bloomfield Township High School sang several numbers, and the group saw two films, "How Green Is Your Garden" and "Modern Roses on Parade."

A workshop on corsage making was conducted in Ferbruary by Dunstan's Flowers. In March Mrs. J. R. Alexander of Birmingham discussed "Insecticides and Fungicides" when members met.

Three association members, Mrs. Charles S. Chandler, Mrs. J. A. Rammes and Olga Zander, were hostesses at the October International Tea held at Fairlane in Dearborn. Mrs. Harold James created a floral arrangement depicting the American Indian as the club's contribution to the tea.

When the Michigan Division Council Meeting was held at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club, Mrs. G. R. Jarvis, Mrs. W. A. Bull, Mrs. E. L. Johnson, Mrs. K. A. Ollis and Mrs. H. F. Stier participated.

'Heavies' Take Longer

Nine Day Diet Good Way to Start

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Thousands of women all over the country consider their 9-Day Diet booklet an important item in their Beauty First Aid Kit. The minute they find that they have gained five pounds they adopt this diet, and lose the unwanted pounds in a few days.

This is the secret of keeping your figure like you want it without painful reducing. Go after the first five pounds, and certainly after the first 10! It is so easy to allow 15 or 20 pounds to slip up on us because we can wear our same clothes with a five pound gain. We probably can even squeeze into some of the same garments after a 10-pound gain, although we will be uncomfortable and we will lose a lot of charm.

EYES ON SCALES

So . . . keep your eyes on the scales and a short reducing diet in your pocket! If you have already gone "overbroad" on the weight question, a short reduction of the first five to 10 pounds will be encouraging as a starter on a longer and more gradual reducing period.

Here is today's 9-Day Diet exercise. Kicking the legs in this position will help distribute weight evenly and improve the thighs. Keep the toes pointed.

Today I am printing the menus for Wednesday, the last of the 9-Day Diet series. Here they are.

MENUS FOR WEDNESDAY

Breakfast
One poached egg
One thin slice whole wheat toast
Black coffee

Luncheon
Salad made of shredded lettuce and one medium tomato (Lemon for dressing)
Two tablespoons cottage cheese
One glass skimmed milk
One-half grapefruit

Dinner
Broiled liver
One portion spinach
One portion beets
One glass skimmed milk
One orange

If you have missed some of the reducing menus which give you a loss of from five to 10 pounds in nine days, or if you would like to add the complete diet to your Beauty First Aid Kit, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for my 9-Day Diet Booklet. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

At Home Card Is Proper

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: We have advanced our wedding date for reasons beyond our control and intend after we come back from our wedding trip to move into our new house, even though it needs the finishing touches and most of the furnishings. How can we let our friends and relatives know that we would rather not have them come to visit us just yet?"

Answer: The customary method of letting people know where the newlyweds will live and when they will be ready to receive their friends is by enclosing an "At Home" card in the invitations, reading:

At Home
after the first of June
10 Elm Street
New Rochelle, New York

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to be married soon. My fiance is in the service at present but he will be discharged soon. For years he has been using his stepfather's name, although it is not legally his, and everyone here knows him by this name. He entered the service, of course, under his legal name.

"My problem concerns the wedding invitations. Should his legal name be used on these even though he is not known by that name, or would it be proper to use the name everyone knows him by?"

Answer: I think you have to use his legal name which is after all the name you will have when you marry him.

"Dear Mrs. Post: When a man is seated with others—men and women, both—and he takes out his cigarette case, is it necessary for him to pass the case around to everyone in the group before taking a cigarette himself, or may he take one, close the case and put it back into his pocket?"

Answer: It is not necessary that he do more than offer a cigarette to more than the two persons seated on either side of him.

Dear Abby....

Time to Quit Boss Ankling for Trouble

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: I work in a small office and like my job except for one thing. It is generally very cold in the office and I keep asking my boss to turn up the heat. He won't believe I'm cold until he feels my ankles. If they are cold, he turns up the heat. What can I do about it?" COLD COOKIE

ABBY

DEAR COOKIE: If you continue to let your boss check your ankles you could be up to your neck in trouble. Either turn up the heat yourself or get a job where the office is warmer and the boss is cooler.

"DEAR ABBY: My husband and I got married and went to his father's house for our honeymoon. They live on a farm in Minnesota. The second night he got his temper up and ran out of the house because I said this was not my idea of a honeymoon. I ran after him and blistered my feet in the snow and almost lost the baby.

"Now he wants me to take him back but I don't think I could ever care for him again after what he called me. Should I give him another chance or not?" UNLUCKY BRIDE

DEAR UNLUCKY: Ask your clergyman or a marriage counselor to give you both a refresher course in the responsibilities of a married couple. You owe it to the baby who is on the way to make a success of your marriage.

"DEAR ABBY: My mother left me a diamond ring years ago so I got the bright idea of having it put into a modern mounting and wearing it on my engagement finger. I told the people where I work that I am engaged to a man from out of town. I don't know what got into me.

"It has been four months now and the girls want to give me a party. I have no fiance but am ashamed to admit it. How can I get out of this predicament without making a fool of myself? I am 36 and old enough to know better." GUILTY CONSCIENCE

DEAR GUILTY: If you want to become legitimately engaged (and what girl doesn't?) take the ring off your finger, and tell your friends — "it's off!"

"DEAR ABBY: When someone wrote and asked you if all young couples necked in cars, you replied, "No, the woods are full of them." I want to ask, what would respectable adults be doing out in the woods to have observed these young couples? Sincerely," CADET J. E. T.

DEAR CADET: Enjoying the wild life, I imagine.

The City of Lathrup Village, the Village of Bingham Farms and Franklin Village also have been carved from the original township in recent years.

Man Deported, Wife Protests

Claims Husband Given No Chance to Contact Her Before Leaving

WASHINGTON (INS) — The justice department confirmed yesterday that William Heikkila of San Francisco, who was seized Friday for deportation, is en route to Helsinki, Finland.

The arrest and deportation of Heikkila brought sharp protests from his wife who charged that he was seized and rushed out of the U.S. without being given a chance to contact her.

A Justice Department spokesman said that Heikkila, who was charged with being a Communist during the 1930's was arrested Friday in San Francisco on a deportation warrant issued on Jan. 11, 1952.

According to the spokesman, Heikkila then was flown in an immigration service plane to Vancouver, British Columbia.

At Vancouver, the spokesman added, Heikkila was transferred to a Canadian Pacific Airlines plane which left for a non-stop flight to Amsterdam.

After his scheduled arrival at Amsterdam at midnight, Heikkila was to have been put aboard a Finnish airliner for the last leg of the flight to Helsinki.

The Justice Department spokesman, asked about Mrs. Heikkila's protests, declared: "It is the government's position that there was no legal impediment to the deportation."

He noted that Heikkila's latest effort to have the 1952 deportation warrant nullified was dismissed in federal court in California last week and Heikkila had filed no appeal.

Heikkila, 52, was born in Finland and was brought to the U.S. when he was an infant. His parents were naturalized Americans but he never became naturalized himself.

Guilty of Stabbing Boy to Death in Royal Oak Township on Feb. 1

ROYAL OAK TOWNSHIP — A sentence of five to 15 years in prison was handed Robert Burnside, 17-year-old township youth who pleaded guilty to stabbing to death another youth during a gang fight.

In passing sentence yesterday, Oakland County Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland told the youth he hoped the term in the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson would "change your attitude."

Burnside, of 10441 Fanwood St., plunged a knife into Johnson following a teenage dance at the 21075 Wyoming. Two other youths also suffered knife wounds during the scuffle involving 30 teenagers.

OLD-FASHIONED BARN RAISING — On March 30, Clark J. Miller's dairy barn on his farm at 2885 Seymour Lake Rd., Brandon Township, went up in flames and smoke. The total loss was about $65,000. Work was begun almost immediately to replace the structure, needed to house Miller's herd of 45 dairy cows, and yesterday was climaxed by an old-fashioned barn raising project. Some 40 neighbors volunteered their labor. The women pitched in, too, preparing a potluck lunch and serving coffee throughout the day. Here, the new 144-foot barn takes shape as rafters are raised.

For $191,000 Increase

Rochester School Board OKs $1.4 Million Budget

ROCHESTER — The Board of Education of the Rochester Community School District has approved a budget of $1,496,965 for the 1958-59 fiscal year, an increase of $191,000 over last year's outlay.

The addition of 26 teachers needed for new classrooms is the primary reason for the budget hike, according to Supt. Donald C. Baldwin. Twelve will be assigned to Meadow Brook School; eight at North Hill; two at the Junior High and four at the Senior High. One elementary vocal music teacher and one elementary physical education teacher also will be hired.

The board also voted to keep the present regular teacher salary schedule with the exception of changing the $160 annual increment to $170. This means that the maximum salary for a teacher with 12 years' experience will be raised to $6,540.

The present salary minimum of $4,300 for a teacher with a bachelor's degree was kept by the board.

No pay increases were granted to administrators, office, or custodian personnel, pending action by the Oakland County Allocation Board.

Voters will be asked at the June election to renew the 3 mill operating tax which has been in effect the past five years.

The tax will provide sufficient funds to hire 45 teachers, said Lewis B. Arscott, board president.

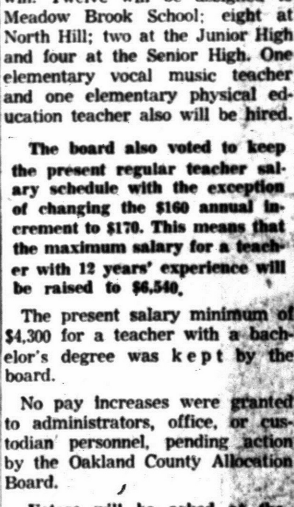

Seventy per cent of the budget is allocated to teachers' salaries. It cannot be cut unless some of the new rooms are not opened and new teachers not hired, Baldwin said.

The board has estimated that 330 additional children will enter Rochester schools in September.

Gullible Russians Thrown in Panic by Science Tale

MOSCOW — Publication of a science fiction serial story by a newspaper in the Black Sea town of Tuatse, Russia, caused chaos.

The story started with description of "an enormous flaming mass hurtling from near the sun toward the earth at 150,000 miles an hour."

"Some simpletons," Russian newspapers relate, sold all their possessions at bargain prices in the belief that they had "only the biblical 40 days to survive."

The serial story described the panic that reigned in a faint-hearted capaitalist world when "a new moon" flashed toward the earth and how "evil Bourgeois scientists" had diverted the vast part of it toward the Soviet Union.

Many people did not wait to read the next chapter—how Russian experts had saved the day by destroying the lethal mass before it could crash on Russian soil.

County Asked to Help Jobless

CIO Council in Oakland Urges Supervisors to Endorse Legislation

Any state or federal legislation which will "alleviate the hardships for our unemployed" should be endorsed by the Oakland County Board of Supervisors, the County CIO Council urged yesterday.

In a letter addressed to the supervisors, the union group asked them "to do all in their power to support the passage of this legislation and take immediate action to alleviate the hardships."

The request was referred to the Legislative Committee of the board.

The letter, adopted by council members April 7, suggested jobs created by the county's "deplorable roads" might help to give work to some 20,000 unemployed here, 844 of which have exhausted their unemployment benefit payments.

Rangers Teach Youngsters to Handle Firearms Safely

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP — Through the voluntary efforts of two Proud Lake Recreation Area Rangers, more than 1,000 children have learned the correct way to handle firearms during the last six months.

Rangers Herb Chambers and Roy Kern first helped build a scientific target range on a cleared site in the heart of 5,000 acres of State land in the recreation area.

Now, almost every spare minute of their personal time is spent instructing youngsters on the dangers of carelessness with firearms, correct carrying position of guns, and finally, how to "hit the bull's eye."

School children and scouts of all ages have all had the opportunity to participate in the shooting program.

What prompted the young rangers into action was the alarming caused by lack of respect for firearms, according to Alfred Masini park manager.

"Too many children have been hurt needlessly because they were not cautioned on perils of thoughtless handling of guns," he said.

Last November Masini made arrangements with an air rifle company for the donation of 20 guns for instructing boys and girls in the proper use of firearms.

The company liked the idea so well that it decided to go a step further with the project by supplying the ammunition and keeping the guns serviced.

After a youngster has been instructed in the proper handling and care with the air rifle, he is permitted to fire 15 rounds of ammunition at a target 25 feet away. Then he is permitted to keep that target.

Each pupil is allowed, under the expert supervision, to fire five rounds at another target 75 feet away with a 22-caliber rifle. A card of merit is the reward.

Grateful parents and teachers, as well as children, have expressed their appreciation to the two young rangers, who are devoting their time to saving lives through instruction in the safe use of firearms.

No Election, No Drinks?

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—State law provides no alcoholic beverages can be sold while polls are open. But this year there's only one candidate — and he's unopposed. So there'll be no election. American parents—on guard! Your children are getting "flaccid, flabby and soft."

This was the opinion publicly conveyed by Charles Pond, gymnastics coach at the University of Illinois.

It was also the same thought of Georgia Tech coach Lyle Wesler, Penn State coach Eugene Whettstone and George Szypula, Michigan State gymnastics coach.

All are men who work with boys. They are aware of the physical fitness of our youth, and they are unhappy over it.

"It's the fault of our school program on physical fitness and not the fault of the youngsters," say the coaches.

Wesler said that in a class of 30 students there are five who can't even do one pushup.

Russia and many other nations around the world are challenging the physical strength of American youth today. Russia's amateur wrestlers recently made a tour of the United States and easily handled some of the best amateur and collegiate mat men.

"We have been complacent in our attitude on physical education," said Whettstone during the recent gymnastics meet at East Lansing.

The MSU coach suggests that parents work with their children in some form of gymnastics and exercises. There's no better place than in the backyard and Szypula agrees because he and his family work out on their own trampoline at home.

YMCA DIRECTOR CALLS FOR TESTS

Art Mann of the local YMCA supports any program of physical fitness which would benefit youngsters and adults alike.

"Do you know how many people can bend over and touch the floor the first time down?" asked Mann. "Some can do it after several bends, but very few can do it the first time," he said.

For this reason at the Pontiac YMCA, Mann plans on giving one of his summer groups a series of tests known as the Kraus-Weber tests.

These tests were given among European children six to 16 and also given to American boys and girls. It was learned that 56 per cent of the American children failed the tests while only eight per cent of the Europeans were unable to reach the minimum.

Much of the poor physical conditioning lies in the back of the individual and to pass these tests would require calisthenics and a series of corrective exercises, according to Mann.

Mann would like to see the same battery of the Kraus-Weber tests given to all students in the school district similar to the program instituted in Lansing.

"We would see how physically fit our children are and I'm sure the percentage would be very small," said Mann.

As just an experiment he gave the tests to 75 boys at the YMCA and there was 30 per cent failure.

"The shocking truth," says Mann, "is that our children today devote only one per cent of their weekly time to physical fitness and a tremendous amount of their time to television."

As one of the college coaches put it, "our American children are so flaccid, they often break their ankles running in one spot."

MISSED WIN — Frank Lary pitched well enough to gain his 1st 1958 victory, allowing Chicago only three hits in eight innings but missed gaining the verdict when he was benched for a pinch-hitter. The Tigers clinched it in the 9th for reliefer Vito Valentinetti.

Kansas City Making Critics Eat Words

Yankee 'Farm' Team Is 2nd

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS

Critics call them a farm team, but today the Kansas City "Yankees" are second in the American League only to the real thing.

Made the butt of jokes for repeatedly trading with New York for young but green players, the Missouri A's adopted a "show you" attitude and are enjoying their laugh now.

Kansas City has second place all to itself, trailing the real Yankees by 1½ games.

Meanwhile, the team touted as the Yankees' toughest opposition, the Chicago White Sox and Boston, are reposing in seventh and eighth places respectively, 3½ and five games off the pace after only one week of championship play.

The A's used an old Yankee weapon — late inning lightning — to win their fourth game in six starts last night.

Harry Craft's team was losing to Cleveland and rookie Jim (Mudcat) Grant, 4 to 1, until the eighth inning. Then the A's erupted for eight runs, climaxed by Frank House's grand-slam homer, and carried off a 9-to-4 victory.

Grant walked the bases full and then walked to the showers to be replaced by Steve Ridzik. Hector Lopez singled home one run and two more scored when Chico Carrasquel erred on a grounder.

Ridzik walked the lead run home and House cleaned the bases. Woody Held homered in the seventh for the first run off Grant and Roger Maris belted a two-run homer for the Indians.

In other American League action, the Yankees won their fifth in a row, beating Boston, 4 to 1. Detroit nipped the White Sox, 2 to 1, on Mickey McDermott's ninth-inning pinch single. Baltimore at Washington was rained out.

Hank Bauer gave the Yanks their first run with an opening-inning homer off Willard Nixon and Don Larsen hit a two-run circuit. Larsen, who beat the Red. Sox for a second time, had to retire in the sixth because of a tightness in his shoulder.

The lone Red Sox run came when Ted Williams hit his first homer in the seventh. Larsen has not been scored on in 14 innings of 1958 hurling. The Yankee staff itself has a sensational 1.30 earned-run average.

MONDAY'S STARS
By The Associated Press

HITTING—Frank House, Athletics walked and scored as pinch-hitter, then walloped grand-slam homer for clincher on second at-bat in eight-run eighth that beat Indians 9-4.

PITCHING—Don Larsen, Yankees won second and remained unscored on for 14 innings this season, striking out eight to blank Red Sox in five-inning stint despite seven hits as Yanks won fifth straight 4-1.

WINNING RUN — Detroit Tiger outfielder Johnny Groth, pinch running for Charlie Maxwell who doubled to center field, scores in a cloud of dust on Mickey McDermott's single in the 9th inning against the Chicago White Sox. The run broke a 1-1 deadlock. Sherm Lollar, Chicago catcher, waits for the throw in that came too late as Detroit won, 2-1.

Mickey Delivers Winning Blow as Pinch Batter

His 9th Inning Single Brings Tigers 2-1 Win Over White Sox

DETROIT (AP) — People are inclined to forget that Mickey McDermott is a pitcher — and there are a couple of reasons.

First, the slender southpaw is a pretty fair hitter, as he proved yesterday when he drove in the winning run in Detroit's 2-1 victory over Chicago. Too, McDermott has won only three games in the last two seasons as a pitcher.

"I've won more with my bat in the last two years," said Mickey after he delivered a pinch single in the ninth inning and scored pinch runner Johnny Groth from second base.

The 29-year-old McDermott slugged four pinch-hit home runs for the Kansas City Athletics. Yesterday's performance was his first showing for the Tigers, but the club is hesitant to say just when Mickey will get into a game as a pitcher.

"Willis Hudlin (pitching coach) is working with Mickey every day on his delivery," said Manager Jack Tighe, acting like a man who wasn't particularly concerned whether McDermott ever pitches — as long as he keeps hitting "Sure, we hope he can help us in the bullpen. But we'll have to wait and see."

The clubhouse was a happy scene after the triumph, which sent the Tigers over the .500 mark.

They had trailed 1-0 despite the fact that the White Sox got only three hits — all off Frank Lary in the eight innings the stocky righthander worked. And the Chicago run came without a base hit in the sixth inning. Lary walked two batters, struck out the next two and then nicked Bubba Phillips on the wrist, forcing in a run.

"You got a victory in my book," pitcher Tom Morgan told Lary in the dressing room. But it was Vito Valentinetti, who pitched perfect ball in the ninth, who gained credit for the victory. And Dick Donovan, who had a shutout for 7 2/3 innings, was the loser.

Beaten by Frank Bolling's two-out home run in the ninth inning last week in Chicago, Donovan was an unfortunate pitcher this time, too. Pinch hitter Bill Taylor, Harvey Kuenn and Al Kaline got eighth inning singles that tied it, 1-1.

In the ninth, Charlie Maxwell hit Donovan's first pitch on one hop to the left center field wall for a double. Groth, running for Maxwell, had no trouble scoring when McDermott lined reliefer Ray Moore's curve into center field.

The same two teams were to wind up the brief Detroit home stand today at Briggs Stadium. Tighe planned to use southpaw Bill Hoeft against Chicago's Early Wynn.

Hoeft lasted only 2 2/3 innings on opening day last Friday while Wynn received credit for the Chisox victory over the Tigers last Thursday.

Ernie Banks, Cubs Take Turn in LA 'Punch Bowl'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Chicago Cubs, on their usual fast spring run, lead the National League tour into the promised land that lies behind the short screen in the Los Angeles Coliseum tonight.

Thus far, three games have been played in the Punch Bowl with the Los Angeles Dodgers and San Francisco Giants producing an average of four homers a game. Eight of the 12 have fallen behind the 42-foot high, 140-foot long screen jokingly referred to as a barrier.

Now come the other six clubs, the outsiders, to have at it with Ernie Banks, the Cubs' right-handed power man, all warmed up after hitting his first two home runs of the season over the weekend in Chicago.

As a lull before the storm, the only game played last night in the National League was homerless, with the Cincinnati Redlegs beating Philadelphia 4-2 in a rain-interrupted 14 innings. Rain idled Milwaukee and Pittsburgh in the only other game scheduled.

A walk and singles by Don Hoak and pinch-hitter Bob Thurman broke up a 2-2 tie for the Redlegs in the 14th and they added a cushion run on a pair of errors by Philly shortstop Roy Smalley.

Hal Jeffcoat won his first in relief of Bob Kelly and Tom Acker. Kelly faced only four men and gave up a run. Acker then allowed just one run on four hits and six walks, while striking out six, before giving way to Jeffcoat in the 11th.

Jim Hearn was the loser as the third of four Phillie pitchers who gave up 15 hits and eight walks. Hoak had three hits, one a double.

Chuck Could Be President If—

CHICAGO (AP) — Mrs. Dorothy Rigney, in an apparent attempt to end the feud involving the Chicago White Sox official family, said yesterday her brother, Chuck Comiskey, could become president of the team by withdrawing his various court actions.

Mrs. Rigney, secretary-treasurer of the American League club, however, stipulated that she would seek to maintain control over the White Sox affairs as a check on Chuck's actions.

While offering the presidency to the 32-year-old Comiskey, who is a vice president along with her husband, John Rigney, Mrs. Rigney criticized her brother for taking the family squabble into court.

Comiskey, who is trying to gain control of the club, said "I have no comment at all" after reading a four-page statement issued by his sister.

Bats Boom as 'M' Routs Irish, 13-7

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Michigan's bats boomed yesterday and the Wolverines raked four Notre Dame pitchers in a 13-7 victory, its fifth straight. The same teams clash today at South Bend.

The Wolverines have scored 49 runs on 52 hits in their five games since returning from Florida last week.

Bob Sealby and Bill Roman headed the 11-hit Michigan offensive yesterday, each contributing three safeties. Lefthander John Herrnstein received credit for the victory. He pitched the first five innings and was touched for five runs before moving to center field.

Williams Tells Fans Not to Give Up

Bosox Ready to Roll?

NEW YORK (AP) — Ted Williams today warned Boston followers not to give up on the Red Sox.

He thinks the club, in the throes of one of its worst starts in history, is ready to roll.

The great slugger, feeling better about things now that he has his first hit and his first home run, not only predicted another banner year for himself but insisted the Red Sox will still give the New York Yankees a run for the American League pennant.

"Everybody says the Yankees will win by 15-20 games," Ted declared. "Don't believe it. They're good but not that good. They've got a solid club but they may have trouble with their pitching.

"And if they do, watch out, brother. I admit their pitching has looked good up to now but we've got a long way to go and just wait until some of their guys start complaining about sore arms."

Don Larsen had to leave after the fifth inning yesterday when his arm tightened up but the Yankees went on to hand Boston its fourth straight defeat, 4-1, while rolling to their fifth consecutive victory.

"The fellows are beginning to hit," Williams said, "and that's a good sign. We hadn't been hitting a lick up to now. The pitching has been fine but they weren't getting any runs. We have been getting some tough breaks but it's bound to change.

"I think we're just about ready to start a winning streak. We'll still give the Yankees plenty of trouble provided none of our front line pitchers are injured. We're a bit thin there."

How about a fellow named Williams?

"Don't worry about Williams," Ted said. "He'll be all right. In fact he's going to have a real good year. Hit around .340-.350. That is, if that son-of-a-gun of an ankle doesn't buckle under him.

"Really, though, my timing still isn't just right but it's getting better every day. Give me another four, five days and I'll be ready."

Was he worried when he went hitless in his first three games?

"Well, yes and no," he said. "I started to think about it yesterday after I had gone 0 for seven. Then I said to myself 'How silly can you get? You've been up here nearly 20 years and you let a thing like that worry you. Heck, you're too good a hitter to be stopped for too long.'"

Doctoring Your Golf

By DR. CARY MIDDLECOFF

Patient's Complaint: Pushed Putts.

Diagnosis: Forward Sway.

Treatment: Accuracy on the greens demands that you keep your body stationary during the complete stroke. The putting stroke is made strictly with the arms and hands.

Many players, unfortunately, make a little forward movement with the body just before striking the putt. This faulty action is usually caused by over-anxiousness — a desire to "help" the ball into the hole.

Whatever the cause, any body movement on the putting stroke will generally cause a miss —usually to the right of the hole. Start the putting stroke with the eyes directly over the ball. Keep the head in place until you know the ball is on its way. If the head is kept still, there'll be no body sway.

An excellent exercise in this connection is to go to the practice putting green and hit a dozen or so putts without looking up to watch the ball at all. This will help you form the habit of keeping the head in place until after the ball is hit.

Sellout Seems Certain for Giant-Card Tussle

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Giants, who slugged their way to four victories in six games with the Los Angeles Dodgers, appear certain to play before a 23,500 capacity crowd in their series opener with the St. Louis Cardinals tonight.

Everything's Dandy at LA Except Bums

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Los Angeles baseball writers have decided the Dodgers won't be called the Bums any more. But the Dodgers are behaving as though they want the name back.

This behavior pattern was noted yesterday in remarks by Mr. Walter O'Malley, president of what is now the seventh-place team in the National League. Said he:

"I was elated with the attendance (at the first series here). I think it probably set a three-day record."

More than 167,000 fans turned out for the first three Dodger-Giant games here. That was about 40,000 more than saw the first six games between the Dodgers and Giants in 1957.

"But," O'Malley continued "what really got me was the tremendous showing of adoption by the fans. It seemed that fully half the men were wearing Dodger caps . . . what's more, they were noisy, and they stayed."

"Now, we've got to make ourselves worthy of that welcome.

"Let's face it. The boys played bad ball. But they'll get started."

About the much-punished Dodger pitching, O'Malley said:

"I am frankly disappointed . . . this was to be our strong suit this year. We don't figure to get a lot of runs. So if our pitchers don't have the stuff we're in trouble."

Vice President Buzzie Bavasi concurred:

"We are completely satisfied with the crowd, and as satisfied as can be expected with the stadium.

"But, artistically, we were a flop."

Nevertheless, the fans forgave the flopping. Even when the Dodgers were behind 12-2 in the late innings Sunday, most of the spectators still were around, cheering lustily at even the feeblest promise of a Dodger rally, hoping perhaps for a burst of homers over that famous left-field screen.

About that screen, which stretches across left field from the 250-foot foul line, O'Malley had this to say:

"We have the same shots as the opposition. Certainly it's not an ideal situation by any means. But baseball was played for many years in the Polo Grounds, where the foul line was only seven feet longer and the wall just 14 feet high.

"The fans seem to be excited by the screen. Thy tell me it's become quite a conversation piece so to speak."

Althea Gibson May Quit Net Career for TV

NEW YORK (AP)—This may be the last year of bigtime tennis for Althea Gibson.

Thenceforth if you want to see the gangling Negro net queen don't go to Forest Hills. Just flip your television dial. She now seems more interested in reaching high-C as a singing artist than stature as a tennis champion.

"I can't say exactly what my future plans will be," the 30-year old Harlem girl said today after returning from a spring tour of the southern tournaments. "I love to sing. I'll just have to wait and see how things turn out."

Althea is booked for a singing appearance on the Ed Sullivan

PCH Thinclads Meet Pointers

Falcons Win, Eaglets Lose, Monday, Starting Big Prep Track Week

With seven track meets on the card today, Pontiac area prep thinclads will hit the peak of a very heavy week of competition for the runners and jumpers.

Two meets, Monday, started the activities, with Orchard Lake St. Mary Eaglets dropping a close one to Detroit St. Joseph 63 and 5-6 points to 45 and 1-6, and Farmington edged Detroit Cody, 57 and 1-6 to 51 and 5-6 points, at Falcons' field.

Mansfield champions, Pontiac, met Grosse Pte. there today in a tuneup for the expected red-hot Valley dual, Friday, with Flint Northern. The Vikings come here.

Bill Krull led Eaglets with 6½ points. Bill Neuendorf of St. Joe's had 10½, with wins in both dashes and a share of a broad jump tie. OLSM took five firsts, St. Joseph, 7.

Ace hurdler Warren Cawley led Falcons with 16¼ points, including a school record 20.0 for the low hurdles. Cawley pulled Falcons into the lead after trailing to the hurdles, both of which he won, plus the high jump and a relay leg. Mike Agree won the dashes and collected 11¼ points with Carl Genslak getting 11 and 1-3.

Sprain May Sideline Lumpe Several Weeks

NEW YORK (AP)—A sprained left ankle may keep third baseman Jerry Lumpe out of the New York Yankees' lineup for two or three weeks.

Team physician Dr. Sidney Gaynor made the estimate yesterday even though X-rays disclosed no fracture. Lumpe suffered the injury, similar to one he incurred in spring training, when he stepped on a ball during a batting drill before the Yanks' game with the Boston Red Sox.

Davenport, Gray Best Hitters So Far

Rookie 3rd Sackers Sparkle

NEW YORK (AP)—Jim Davenport of the San Francisco Giants and Dick Gray of the Los Angeles Dodgers, two dandy third basemen up from the American Assn., put together the best batting marks among major league rookies in the first week of the season.

Davenport collected 13 hits in 26 times at bat for a .500 average. He had three doubles, five runs batted in and has scored seven runs. He played for the Giants Minneapolis farm last season.

Gray, 26, shows a .476 percentage as a result of 10 hits in 21 tries. Like Davenport he's a right-handed hitter. Dick, who drove in 111 runs and hit .297 for St. Paul in 1957, has slammed three homers and compiled six RBIs for the Dodgers.

John Goryl, another third baseman, has helped the Chicago Cubs set an early pace in the National League race. A graduate of Memphis of the Southern Assn., where he hit .301, Goryl is batting .353 for the Cubs. He has five extra base hits among his six safeties in 17 tries.

R. C. Stevens of Pittsburgh, a young first baseman who divided the '57 campaign between Hollywood of the Pacific Coast League and Columbus of the International League, also had a fine week. He had four hits in four times at bat. Two of his blows were homers—one a game-winner in Sunday's game against Cincinnati.

The highly touted Vada Pinson of Cincinnati shows a .313 average on five hits in 16 times at bat. The fleet outfielder has one of the two grand slam homers in the majors. Milwaukee's Johnny Logan has the other.

In adition to Davenport, the Giants also have three other freshmen in their line-up. Outfielder Willie Kirkland has a double, a triple and four singles in 25 times at bat for a .240 average. First baseman Orlando Cepeda has 5-for-25 for a .200 mark. Among his blows are one double and two home runs. Bob Schmidt, a catcher, has three hits in eight at bats for .375.

Len Green of Baltimore (3-for-5) and Billy Moran of Cleveland (4-for-12) also looked good in the opening week.

Lakers Get 1st Choice

NBA Draft Begins Today

DETROIT (AP)—Directors of the National Basketbal Assn. met today to divide up the nation's top collegiate basketball talent in their annual draft.

The Minneapolis Lakers, by virtue of their last-place finish in the 1957-58 season, will get first shot at the field of collegiate players.

The most choice names at stake in the draft are 6-foot-8 Archie Dees of Indiana, 6-foot-7 Dave Gambee of Oregon State, 6-foot-7 Barney Cable of Bradley, 6-foot-9 Connie Dierking of Cincinnati and 6-foot-4 George Kline of Minnesota.

Each of the eight teams in the NBA except Detroit will get a first-round choice. The Pistons traded their first-round choice to the New York Knickerbockers for Dick McGuire last September. This gives the Knicks two first-round cracks at the collegiate players.

In a closed meeting yesterday the directors made the first formal move toward getting a Chicago entry in the Western Division of the league. The board said after the meeting it would consider franchise applications for the 1959-60 season.

In other action, the committee selected Detroit as the site for the 1958-59 All-Star game. The game will be played in January on a date to be determined.

Chief Golfers in 1st Setback

Maples and Skippers Win; Walled Lake Holly Loop Victors

Pontiac Central owed to Flint Central while Waterford and Birmingham were posting their 1st victories on the golf links yesterday.

Walled Lake and Holly were other golf victors.

Dick Whitmer was the only PCH scorer as the Chiefs bowed 14-1. He had an 81. Two Flint boys had 77s. It was the 1st Pontiac loss following two opening triumphs.

Birmingham started its season with 4½ to 3½ win led by Pete Green with a 35. Jim Hogan was close behind with 37.

Waterford gained 352-396 over Lincoln Van Dyke at PCC. Chuck Canterbury was medalist with 83 and Dick Shell and Duane Benedict each had 89. Waterford lost its 1st two matches.

Walled Lake's victory was its 3rd straight and 2nd in the Inter-Lakes. The Vikings tripped Farmington 170-183 on 41s by Bob Young and Webster Wood. John Anderson had 42 for the Falcons.

Holly nipped Bloomfield Hills 197-200 despite Baron Bud Badger's 37. Darrell Kinney paced Holly with a 41.

Romeo 27, Almont 0

Milford, Keego Nines Win

A full slate of Wayne-Oakland League games and Romeo's 27-0 slaughter of Almont put baseball at the top of the prep list on yesterday's sports calendar.

Milford, West Bloomfield, Northville and defending champion Clarenceville were the opening day victors in the W-O.

Terry Hoy scattered six hits and fanned 14 in Milford's 7-2 conquest of Bloomfield Hills. John Zeeman swatted a two-run homer as the Redskins won their 4th straight.

West Bloomfield's all-sport ace John Lucadam also whiffed 14 and doubled in the winning run in the 7th in a 3-2 win over Brighton.

Northville and Clarkston went 11 innings before a triple by Joe Kritch and a long fly beat dandy Dave Gaddis 2-1. Gaddis struck out 19 in losing while matching Jeff Goodrich's four-hitter. Gaddis' infield hit had given Clarkston a 1-0 edge in the 7th.

A double by Nelson following two walks and an error clinched Clarenceville's 7-3 win over Holly early. Holly had led 3-2.

That Romeo parade featured four home runs and a no-hitter. The big star was hurler Warren Cahoon. All he did was belt a grand-slam and two singles and pitch a no-hitter while fanning 15. Ron Schmidt, Bud Dodge and Tom Meyer got the other circuit clouts.

Terry Dunnigan's two-run double ruined Orchard Lake St. Mary's Suburban Catholic opener as Royal Oak St. Mary triumphed 2-1. The Eaglets garnered only one safety off Dave Lequier. Center Line St. Clement blanked Highland Park St. Benedict 8-0 and Detroit St. Rita nipped Ferndale St. James, 1-0 in other loop play.

NCAA Hits Auburn With New 3-Year Sentence

Bell Hits NCAA Probation

SMU Athletic Director Labels Ruling 'Absurd'

DALLAS (AP)—Southern Methodist Athletic Director Matty Bell Monday called a probation slapped on the school "the most absurd thing I ever heard of."

The National Collegiate Athletic Assn. placed the school on one-year probation. It said the school drew the penalty for obtaining a summer job for a prospective football player. The NCAA ruled the player involved failed to meet job specifications and said the job as "tailor made to meet his needs."

Bell said he assumed the NCAA referred to Glynn Gregory, freshman football halfback and a basketball player from Abilene, Tex. He said that was the case the school had discussed with the NCAA.

The athletic director said Gregory was employed by an oil company as a representative in west Texas.

"They required him to be on the job and he did the job he was required to do," Bell said.

"I think it is a very unfair decision," Bell added.

The athletic director said Gregory obtained information for oil companies on wells.

"He wasn't even paid when he was let off to go to the high school all-star game (which precedes fall college football practice each year.) They docked him those two weeks.

"There are lots of kids paid more than he was in the oil fields. He wasn't overpaid."

Walter Byers, NCAA executive director who made the announcement, said the penalty is not considered very major in that the student involved "did do some work on the job and did not receive exorbitant pay."

INVOLVED IN CHARGE—Don Fuell, freshman quarterback, was the prep star to whom the NCAA accused Auburn of offering illegal financial aid. The national champions were placed on probation until Sept. 1961.

Turns Back on Pro Game

Baylor Stays in School Despite NCAA Ruling

SEATTLE (AP)—All-American Elgin Baylor turned his back on professional basketball Monday despite an NCAA crackdown on Seattle University and the resignation of Coach John Castellani.

The actions would make no difference in his plans to stay at the school, Baylor said.

"I'm very sorry to see the coach go," Baylor said, "but I haven't changed my mind about returning to school next fall."

Asked if he could be tempted by a pro offer, Baylor said, "I don't know what kind of an offer the pros could make that would make me change my mind."

Castellani's resignation as athletic director and head basketball coach came within two hours of the NCAA action which put Seattle U. on probation for two years.

He said he had not been asked to quit as a result of the disciplinary action but felt it would be for the good of the school. He said he had intended giving up coaching by the end of the year anyway and was thinking of resuming his law studies.

"I have no future plans to coach," Castellani said.

He denied there had been any pressure on him as a result of the NCAA crackdown, but added in a formal statement:

"In light of the penalties imposed on Seattle University, it is my considered opinion that my resignation as head coach and athletic director would best serve the interests of the university.

"It is unfortunate that my efforts in behalf of the school should be interpreted as at variance with the rules established by the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. as I still believe that I am innocent of any wrongdoing. I acted in good faith."

Castellani, who came to Seattle two years ago from Notre Dame where he was freshman basketball coach, led the Chieftains this season to the finals of the NCAA basketball championships where they lost to Kentucky.

He was accused by the NCAA of offering two prospective basketball players monthly payments of $90 and $200, respectively, but no money ever changed hands.

Penalties Also Are Dished Out to Seattle, SMU

Action Against Auburn Covers All Teams Until September 1, 1961

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Stunned Auburn, shackled with another three-year probation sentence for football recruiting violations, today faced prospects of a bleak athletic future with teams all dressed up in success and no where to go.

The National Collegiate Athletic Assn. slapped the three-year ban—one of the severest in the groups history—at a meeting yesterday and dealt Seattle University and Southern Methodist lesser penalties. Seattle drew probation for two years and Southern Methodist was given a less stringent one-year term.

Auburn, No. 1 football team in the nation last year and rated a prime contender for national honors again this fall, was about to complete a three-year probationary period when the hammer fell. The action yesterday covers all Auburn athletic teams and renders them ineligible for NCAA title events as well as mid-season and post-season tournaments until Sept. 1, 1961.

Seattle's basketball teams are ineligible for NCAA events, mid-season and post-season games until Sept. 1, 1960. The probation given SMU does not bar the Mustangs from bowl games and other tournaments, but the school's athletic program and practices will be under close scrutiny until Sept. 1, 1959.

Walter Byers, executive director of the NCAA, said the discipline given Auburn was the third toughest penalty ever administered by the group. Only the four-year probation given North Carolina State in the Jackie Moreland case and Kentucky in basketball recruiting cases were more severe.

The Auburn case, Byers said, involved a prospective student-athlete being offered "illicit financial aid . . . for the benefit of himself and his family."

Byers refused to identify the player involved, but the Birmingham News identified him as Don Fuell, an all-state quarterback from Guntersville, Ala., who is married and has one child.

The action was doubly severe, Byers said, because the school is still on probation from an earlier citation and Auburn staff members were aware that an alumnus offered the player involved the excessive financial aid.

Swiss to Send 175 to Olympics

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — The Swiss Olympic Committee announced today it is planning to send 175 athletes and 62 officials to the Rome Olympic Games in 1960.

Switzerland was one of a small group of countries which decided to boycott the 1956 Olympics at Melbourne in protest against the participation of Russia after its dealings with the Hungarian revolt.

Go Back, Sir—Paris Doesn't Play Anymore

PARIS, Tex. (AP)— Baltimore has assigned Kenneth Jenkins to the Paris club, but the chances are he'll never play a game here.

Former Business Manager Jim Bell received Jenkins' contract and information that Paris had purchased the player from Portland for $100.

Only trouble is that Paris doesn't have a team this year. The Sooner State League, of which Paris was a member, folded.

Little Army Golfer Wins N-S Medal

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP)—Little Wayne Jackson, an Army private first class from Ft. Eustis, Va., won the qualifying medal in the North and South Amateur Golf Tournament Monday with a 2-under-par 70.

On a day dotted with surprises, national champion Hillman Robbins, plagued by putting miseries, failed to qualify as he shot an 84 and defending North and South champion Bill Campbell came up with an 81 that forced him into a playoff Tuesday.

Campbell will be one of 19 men contesting nine places available for the first round of match play immediately after the 9 a.m., EST, playoff.

Dick Chapman, Pinehurst veteran who has sought to win this tournament without success for over 25 years, finished second to Jackson with a 71. He was the only other man in the field of 123 to break par.

Jack Penrose of Miami, Fla., was third with a par 72. Both he and Chapman, within striking distance of a tie for the medal could do no better than pars. Chapman had the day's best nine, going out in 33, but he needed 38 coming home. Penrose posted 35, 37.

The 23-year-old Jackson, at 5-4 and 135 pounds one of the smallest players in the field, carded a pair of 35s in his tour of the 7,000-yard course that played especially long due to its lush fairways. An occasionally brisk wind added to the troubles of most of the players.

Jackson, 1956 Virginia Amateur champion, has been in the Army for 15 months. His home is in Hampton, Va.

Tied with Campbell in the 81 group was two-time North and South winner Frank Strafaci of Miami Beach, Fla.

Otherwise, the favored performers made the grade, although failing to distinguish themselves.

Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N. C., after a one-under-par start for five holes, tapered off somewhat to a 74. His fellow Walker Cuppers, Arnold Blum of Macon, Ga. with a 77 and Bill Hyndman of Abingdon, Pa., with a 75 survived.

Thirty-two matches Tuesday and a double round Wednesday will leave eight men for the last three days of play.

10 U.S. Players on Exempt List

Pass Qualifying Test for British Amateur on June 2-7

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)—Ten Americans, including old campaigners Frank Strafaci and Jimmy McHale, Monday were listed among golfers to be exempted from qualifying for the British Amateur championship at St. Andrews June 2-7.

The Royal and Ancient announced that 23 golfers would go straight into the championship. All the other entries must qualify—the first time qualifying has been introduced in the 73-year-old tournament.

A total of 448 golfers with handicaps of four and under will try for 177 places. Qualifying play will be May 10.

Strafaci, of Miami, Fla., will be making his ninth attempt to win the British title. McHale of Philadelphia, is another favorite with British crowds.

The other eight American entries are: Gene Andrews, Pacific Palisades, Calif.; Peter Garnt, Phoenix, Ariz.; Tim Holland, Rockville Centre, N.Y.; James Law, Harper Woods, Mich.; Edward Meister, Willoughby, Ohio; Jack Penrose, Miami, Fla.; Capt. Ernest Vandeweghe, Rockville Centre, N.Y., and Frankfurt, Germany; Bob Ros, San Francisco.

Ex-Professor Enters Colt in Derby Run

A retired Louisiana State University professor and his thumbnail syndicate will take a crack at the Kentucky Derby with Noureddin, a chestnut colt named for a prince in the Arabian Nights.

Noureddin, who has finished second in his last three stakes races, almost upset the Maine Chance Farm's Jewel's Reward in the Wood Memorial last Saturday at Jamaica. The colt was due to arrive in Louisville today by motor van from New York.

Milwaukee Kegler Is Tied With Chicagoan in Only Top Change

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Julius Mack of Milwaukee uncorked the best series in his 14 years of American Bowling Congress Tournament competition Monday and moved into a fourth place tie in the singles.

Mack, 51, a millwork estimator, rolled 257-223-224—704, equaling the total put together by Frank Celebre of Chicago last Wednesday.

Anthony Flipper, McKees Rocks, Pa., claimed a ninth place in the singles after rolling a 224-225-244—693 set. Garn MacHan, St. Thomas Ont., rolled the same score on April 5.

Don Phelps, an unheralded bowler from Minneapolis, continued to lead the singles with the 727 he fashioned April 19.

There were no significant scores in the doubles or all-events and the leaders in those departments held firm.

To Help Those Who Err

Promoting State-Run Correspondence School

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP)—About one of every two students who entered high school as freshmen in Michigan last fall will never graduate.

A lot of them will be sorry.

Energetic Hugh H. Holloway, superintendent of schools at Sault Ste. Marie, thinks he has found a partial answer—a correspondence school run by the state.

Holloway says the figures show that 49 per cent of students entering high school fail to graduate. The biggest reason, he says, is a preference or need to go to work.

And Holloway believes many of these former students "would seek educational opportunity later in life if it were made available without loss of job earnings and embarrassment of returning to classrooms."

Holloway's plan would set up the High School of the State of Michigan. Courses on a tuition basis—to keep the program self supporting—would be available to anyone in the state.

Holloway said courses would be stiff enough and final examinations tough enough that the validity of the diploma could never be questioned.

He also figures that students already in school could use the correspondence courses.

"If normal school students should utilize this as a means of speeding up their education, it should be encouraged," Holloway said. "Such would both save money for the state and would allow individual advancement for speedier entrances into selected vocational fields."

The Soo superintendent estimates that almost half of the students dropping out of high school could be reached through the correspondence school program.

"Even if 10 per cent were reached," Holloway said, "this would be more than were being educated in high schools at the turn of the century."

Expect Car Output to Drop This Week

DETROIT (AP) — Passenger car output this week probably will drop to about 60,000 units. It would be the lowest volume in six years, excepting for holiday and changeover periods. Last week 73,638 cars were built.

Automotive News attributes the indicated decline to the closing of nine of Chevrolet's 11 assembly plants and subnormal output by Ford division and other plants. The curtailments in all instances are for inventory adjustments.

Ward's Automotive Reports said last week that new car sales for the first 10 days of April were at a daily rate of 13,330 units compared with 13,800 daily in the March 1-10 period. Automotive News said today there had been a slight improvement in sales. It added that "many dealers feel a substantial boost in new car sales still is in the cards."

The paper said dealers see among hopeful indications the fact depressed sales lead to pent up demand and that activity has picked up in the used car market.

New Relations Manager at American Motors

Ford Net Earnings Drop

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. net earnings dropped in this year's first quarter to less than one-fourth of what they were in the like period a year ago.

The company attributed the decline almost entirely to sharp reductions in auto sales.

The firm said earnings totaled $22,700,000 in the first three months of 1958, down $77,800,000 from the $100,500,000 reported for the initial quarter of 1957.

Earnings per share in this year's first quarter were 42 cents compared to $1.85 in 1957's like period.

Consolidated sales in the first quarter of 1958 were $1,095,800,000 compared with $1,569,500,000 in the first three months of 1957. Factory sales of cars and trucks in the first quarter this year totaled 400,419 units, against 626,206 units in last year's like period, a drop of 36.1 per cent.

Income before taxes totaled $45,400,000 in 1958's first quarter compared to $217,000,000 in the corresponding period a year ago. The company listed net assets of $2,947,700,000.

Stocks Maintain Upside Edge

NEW YORK (AP) — The Stock Market turned irregular in early trading today but kept an upside edge on balance.

Gains and losses of fractions to around a point were the general rule for leading issues.

The list moved slightly higher in a fairly active opening, then the pace slowed as profit taking got in some licks. The action followed three straight sessions of vigorous advance which culminated yesterday in a new high for 1958.

Oils, which have risen substantially in recent sessions, were conspicuous victims of profit taking. Amerada was down around a point. Standard Oil (New Jersey) eased.

Steels were about unchanged. Youngstown managed a slight gain. Coppers took a string of small losses. Kennecott, Phelps Dodge and International Nickel were clipped.

The leading rails which have pushed to a '58 high as a group, were unchanged to slightly lower.

American Motors continued as a trading favorite and was firm. Ford dropped a major fraction following news of an earnings drop.

The easier money situation was emphasized as additional banks reduced prime lending rates, the interest charged biggest borrowers. The U. S. Treasury's short-term borrowing costs dropped to the lowest point in more than three years.

New York City Banks Reducing Loan Rates

NEW YORK (INS) — New York's biggest bank, the Chase Manhattan, and other leading banks today announced reduction of their prime rate to 3½ per cent. It had been four per cent since January.

The prime rate is the interest which banks charge their biggest borrowers with the best credit ratings. Other interest is scaled upward from it. Other New York banks and those across the country are expected to follow.

Hoover Mending Well

NEW YORK (INS) — Former President Herbert Hoover continued his rapid progress today from a gall bladder operation, even taking a few steps and sitting up in his hospital room.

Michigan to Get Army Contract

Potter Says 70 Pct. of Work on Trucks Going to State Plants

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 70 per cent of the dollar value of a 40 million dollar Curtiss-Wright Corp. Army truck contract will go to Michigan firms, Sen. Potter (R-Mich) reported yesterday.

He said only about 30 per cent of the contract will be involved in assembly of the trucks at the Studebaker-Packard plant in South Bend, Ind.

Potter said he obtained his information from S. R. Shaffer, Curtiss-Wright South Bend plant manager, and J. C. Vaughan Jr., Washington representative for Curtiss-Wright.

A $40,807,226 contract to build 5,000 2½ ton trucks for the Army was signed by the South Bend division of Curtiss-Wright in Detroit today. Curtiss-Wright has had a hand in Studebaker-Packard operations under an advisory management contract.

Potter said construction parts for the trucks will begin in Michigan within four or five months but assembly of trucks in South Bend will not begin until April, 1959.

The senator said a subcontract for engine construction will go either to Reo Motors, Inc., Lansing, Mich., or Continental Motors Corp., Muskegon, Mich. He added it will comprise 15 to 20 per cent of the contract's dollar value.

Another 25 per cent of the dollar value, Potter said, will be involved in a contract to go to the Detroit Gear & Axle Co. for construction of gears, shafts and transmissions.

30 Bullets Riddle School Bus

Father, His Son, Deputy Die in Strange Gun Fight

DANA POINT, Calif. (AP) — A 10-year-old boy, his father and a deputy sheriff died in a strange gun duel last night.

Another deputy and a 14-year-old boy were wounded.

Authorities said the sheriff's office had received a telephone warning that a deranged man was driving a battered old school bus — converted for family travel — through this picturesque resort city and that he had threatened to harm his children.

Sheriff's Lt. Clarence A. Double gave this account of the events which followed:

Deputies Edward C. Johnson, 31, and Robert L. Shultz, 37, overtook the bus on the Street of the Blue Lantern.

As Johnson and Shultz approached, Charles Arthur Seyfert, 39-year-old Tucson, Ariz., carpenter, and his older son Charles, 14, opened fire from the bus — father with a .22-caliber pistol and the son with a rifle.

Spectators heard Seyfert order his sons: "Shoot anybody who tries to stop the bus. Don't let them take you."

Lt. Double said the yellow bus had more than 30 bullet holes in it when the shooting ended. Seyfert and his youngest son Tommy, 10, were killed almost instantly. Both deputies had fallen to the pavement wounded. Deputy Shultz died before reaching a hospital.

The older Seyfert boy and Deputy Johnson were taken to Hoag Memorial Hospital, where attendants said the boy's condition was critical. Johnson, shot twice in the side, was expected to recover.

Lt. Double said the warning telephone call came from Mrs. Seyfert's sister, who lives in nearby San Juan Capistrano. He said the family had stopped at the sister's home briefly and that Mrs. Seyfert had confided to her that she was concerned about her husband's mental condition.

Mrs. Seyfert, 34, told investigators that she fled the bus with her daughter, Roberta, 4, several blocks before it reached the scene of the shooting when she became alarmed by her husband's actions and his talk about guns.

She said the family left Arizona Saturday, intending to go to Alaska.

House OKs Bill for Lake Pilots

Foreign Vessels Would Have to Use U.S. or Canadian Navigators

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed and sent to the Senate yesterday a bill to require a licensed pilot to be aboard any ship of 300 gross tons or more navigating the Great Lakes west of St. Regis on the St. Lawrence River.

The bill is aimed chiefly at the expected huge influx of foreign flag ships after the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway in the spring of 1959.

The pilots would be licensed either by the United States or Canada.

Some representatives of foreign flag operators, while conceding the need for pilots in particular areas of the lakes, had protested as an unnecessary expense the requirement that they be aboard all the time.

The House Merchant Marine Committee rejected this, saying: "Experienced lake navigators and the Coast Guard point out that even in the relatively open waters of the lakes, storms of considerable severity are not uncommon...

"There is no present evidence that the cost of keeping one man on board would exceed the cost of utilizing the services of several pilots at different lake points..."

Kept Too Busy to Hunt Husband

Annie Oakley of Video Has Little Time to Be Feminine, Frilly

By MARY BELL

FORT WORTH, Tex. (INS) — Gail Davis is living blonde-pretty proof that Annie Oakley's song "You Can't Get a Man With a Gun" is true.

"I hope to be married some day," Gail admits, "but right now Annie keeps me pretty busy."

Gail is not complaining about her single state, for she hardly has time for even that.

She lives her role of "Annie Oakley" — the sharpshooting gal of the old West — most of her waking hours, making films for her television show six months of the year and touring the country for personal appearances at rodeos, fairs and children's hospitals most of the other six.

"People expect to see me in pigtails and western attire," she explained after a recent appearance at Fort Worth's Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show. "So it is only seldom that I let my hair down and go frilly."

HER OWN BRAIDS

The long blonde braids are her own — in natural color — and her split-skirt cowgirl costumes are mostly the design of her younger sister, a commercial design student at the University of Arkansas.

It was in Arkansas — the little town of McGee, outside Little Rock — that Gail took up the hobbies that later were to make her a top feminine star in the Western-happy TV business.

"My dad was a country doctor who liked to ride horses and shoot. He gave me my first BB gun when I was 8 years old," she reminisced, "and we spent weekends in the country shooting at tin cans and fence posts. Then he graduated me to a rifle and we went hunting together."

Gail, who was born Betty Jean Grayson, spent two years at a girls' school in the East, then studied drama at the University of Texas. There she met Gene Autry, who told her to "look him up if I ever came to Hollywood and he would try to help me."

"I did look him up and he kept his word," she said, "and I guess I passed the screen test. Anyway, in 1950 I found myself in a Western film as his leading lady."

She has been doing the "Annie" series (ABC-TV, Tuesday, 6:30 p. m.) for four years, during which time she has filmed about 100 half-hour shows and visited every state in the union, giving shooting exhibitions and riding and singing.

Another Hilton Opens; Attracts Many Stars

BY EARL WILSON

MONTREAL — We took a train up here—you remember trains! — for the opening of the latest of Conrad Hilton's trinkets. Hilton, a boy from Texas, delivered one full-length speech in French and was thereupon applauded by the French-speaking population, for his excellent accent.

WILSON

Beautiful Hollywood star Jeanne Crain later said: "It was a wonderful speech but I wonder if his French was really good." I asked her why.

"Because," she answered, "I understood nearly every word of it."

Lauritz Melchior and Mimi Benzell both volunteered while here to appear for the U.S. this summer at the Brussels World's Fair. Melchior, who's going to Europe on a busy schedule, said, "Just cable me care of Victor Borge, Copenhagen."

While he was gulping Canadian ale, I told Melchior of his great luck — he can get fat and it's an asset; to the rest of us it's a liability.

"Oh, I'm not so fat," boomed Melchior. "I'm 6-feet-3 and when I step on the scales there's only 245 pounds of me and my beautiful body."

They say this hotel's more magnificent than the Waldorf—on one floor there's room for a party for 8,000. Which reminded Leo Carillo that Hilton once had a hotel in Dallas called "The Little Waldorf." Hilton's family, according to Leo, had a small house, and each time a baby was born they added a room. Finally all the children grew up and left home. Conrad Hilton—left with all those empty rooms—started his first hotel.

Refuse to Fight Air Authority

Supervisors Get Letter Opposed to Creation of Metropolitan Body

A request that they vote against the creation of a metropolitan airport authority was filed away Monday without action by the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

The request came from John C. Czarnowski, president of the East Central Troy Improvement Association, Inc. A letter from the organization said creation of an airport in Sterling Township "will be hazardous and detrimental to our community as a whole."

This brought a rebuttal from Delos Hamlin, board chairman and also chairman of the new airport authority study committee.

"In studying the creation of this authority," said Hamlin, "we in no way have selected a site. We are instead studying whether the aviation problem is a metropolitan one."

A second communication to the board yesterday came from the Troy City Commission. It asked that the city have "a fair representation" if such an authority is created.

GI Interviews Going on TV in Hometowns

BERLIN (AP)—The U.S. Army has started shooting filmed interviews with hundreds of soldiers overseas for showing by hometown TV stations throughout the United States.

A three-man TV crew—one of four to operate in Western Europe—went to work last week in West Berlin making 90-second film spots of GIs doing interesting or outstanding jobs.

The program got under way at the same time in other overseas commands, including Korea.

An Army spokesman said a survey of the demand for such films produced an enthusiastic response from hundreds of American TV stations. The films of the hometown boys will be shown after stations give advance notice to families and friends. Parents will be able to get the army film free for their own library after it has been shown by local stations.

"Our purpose in making the films," said the Army spokesman, "is to boost the morale of both the soldier overseas and his family at home. It also is hoped that Americans will get a better picture of our modern Army and the complex variety of jobs it offers."

About 550,000 cars produced in 1953 had power brakes.

Youth Stands Mute in Dynamiting Case

A 17-year-old Warren youth, who has admitted tossing dynamite at an Avon Township home last month, yesterday stood mute when arraigned before Oakland County Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland on a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder.

Lloyd D. Jaynes was returned to the county jail after the judge entered a plea of innocent for him. He failed to post $1,500 bond.

The youth has admitted throwing the dynamite at the home of Ronald MacDonad, at 3389 Eastwood St., because he "wanted to scare" the owners, who he said, would not return his clothes to him after he no longer roomed in the home.

Supervisors OK Funds for New Market Roof

Supervisors of Oakland County yesterday allocated $5,500 for a new roof for the county market, 2350 Pontiac Lake Rd.

They provided the money after Harry W. Horton, chairman of the supervisors Buildings and Grounds Committee, reported the roof had been leaking since the building's construction in 1954. "This has been exasperating and a nuisance to the public," declared Horton.

Women Also Lose — Clothes

Reducing Salon's Take Thinned by Two Bandits

DALLAS (AP)—A couple of bandits in Ivy League clothes forced some 20 women to strip and reduced the take at a reducing salon by $150 last night.

"It was awful," complained manager Esther Rangland.

"They walked in like they owned the place, herding two or three women ahead of them from the entrance hall."

Mrs. Ragland said one of the men "told us this was a holdup and started pushing everybody toward the back of the studio. "He hit one woman attendant in the face with a pistol."

She said the gunman, snarling death threats, forced the women into a steam room, shut the door and stood outside. He ordered everyone to disrobe and throw out the clothing.

He then ordered Mrs. Ragland, still dressed, to the front office and made her hand over all the money.

"Then he marched me back to the steam room, opened the door and shoved me inside. He came right in with me and made me tak off my clothes.

"It was terrible. All the ladies were sitting on the benches without a stitch on. Everyone of them was scared to death.

"He told us he'd kill the first woman who opened the door. He told us to stay inside 15 minutes.

"We did."

She said they came out, retrieved their clothes and one woman ran across the street to call police.

Mrs. Ragland said the second bandit stood around with a pistol in his hand, but said little.

Think of your children!

Wherever you live, blight is a very real threat to your family's personal and economic safety.

No neighborhood is free from the danger of this stealthy disease.

Decay feeds on neglect and carelessness. It starts in one home, spreads block by block, strangles whole neighborhoods unseen. Your living conditions slide downhill, property values shrink, taxes go up . . . local facilities of every kind deteriorate.

Act today to protect your family's future. Keep up your own home. Work with your neighbors in community-improvement groups.

Group action has worked wonders for other neighborhoods. It will work for yours. Start now by writing for practical, effective information to:

Bob Considine Reports:

Nazi Torture Camp Carefully Preserved

ANTWERP (INS) — Belgium has carefully preserved at nearby Fort Breendonk the horrifying Nazi torture camp where Hitler's S.S. Troops and Gestapo killed or worked and starved to death more than 1,100 Belgian patriots, resistance leaders, suspects, hostages and innocent Jews.

All that is missing in the terrible place is the cordwood dead, cries from clammy cells and torture chambers, the stench of ovens and the shrill whistle of Sturnbannfuhrer (major) Schmidt, the indescribable sadist who affected long sideburns and commanded the wretched inmates only by that whistle. He considered himself too superior to use his voice on them.

The whips are in museum cases now, along with finger breaking devices, strangling chains, handcuffs that adjusted a size smaller as the hours of a man's courage held out and the 50-pound sacks of bricks which prisoners were forced to hold on each hand and stand at attention for excruciating periods because of some infraction such as walking in front of an S.S. guard.

Bitter, barren icy cells for those about to be shot stand hardly ten yards from the courtroom, painted grisly green and yellow, where judgment was handed down pitilessly after a simple hearing of charges.

Farther along the dank corridor in the bowels of the old fort are dismal barracks of the doomed, their hard bunks of rising tiers and cracked enamel food dishes still standing on bare tables where men found bare sustenance.

The torture chamber itself is a stark high-ceilinged former ammunition storeroom where man, as represented by the S.S., reached depths that will cause his fellow human beings to shudder through eternity.

In search of information from prisoners, Nazi guards strung them up nakedly by their feet like butchers' meat, beat them unconscious with rubber hoses and sometimes pokers, broke their bones, tore off their nails, and sometimes in ultimate frustration split their heads in half. Microphones that carried a ghastly audible account of the happenings in that room to recorders elsewhere in the fort are still in place.

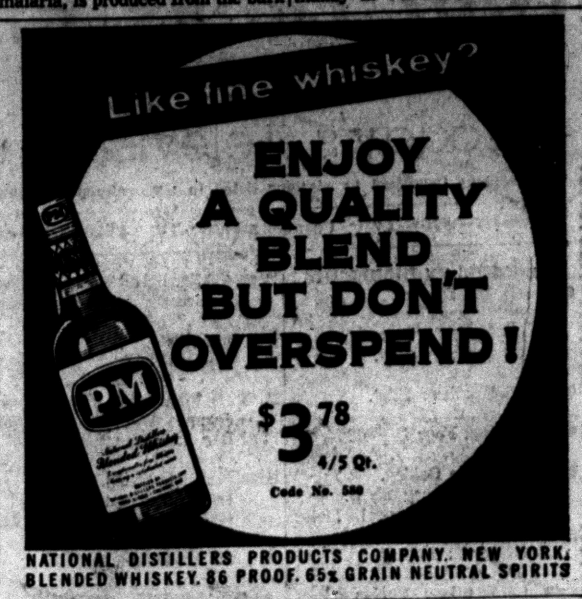

You touch a button on the wall of the torture chamber or any other room in Breendonk and the recorded voice of a surviving eyewitness of those savage days sounds through the place with a sceptural report.

Outside, behind the double wire fences, watchtowers look down on ovens, gallows, riddled posts to which men and sometimes women were tied before execution, and unmarked graves. Hostages indiscriminately picked up from disobedient cities or uncooperative factories were shot here in lots of ten and sometimes more if the wounding or death of a member of the occupation forces was involved.

That was life at Breendonk under Hitler's super race and Belgium proposes to see to it that succeeding generations will never forget.
