Blaming Suicide Bomb in Airliner Explosion

West Works on Reds to Halt Arms Secrecy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Western powers expect to mount a new campaign this spring to break down Soviet secrecy barriers as an essential step toward an arms control agreement.

The importance of an international inspection system which would operate throughout the Soviet Union and keep check on its armed forces was heavily emphasized anew Thursday in a statement here on the projected Soviet military manpower cut.

The Soviet Union and the Western powers will resume disarmament negotiations at Geneva on March 15, meeting as members of a 10-nation committee equally divided between Communists and the Western Allies.

Within two weeks the United States is expected to begin consultations with Britain, France and other Western members of the group on what Allied policy should be.

The chief element is sure to be a requirement for a vast system of international inspectors operating behind the Iron Curtain as well as within the borders of Free nations.

This essential condition laid down by the Western nations in the past has been the chief obstacle to reaching a disarmament agreement with the Soviet Union. But the Western governments have insisted that an agreement which was not safeguarded by a thoroughgoing control operation would be worse than useless, since it would create a serious danger of cheating.

ISSUE IS CRITICAL

This whole critical issue was brought into the spotlight afresh Thursday by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's announcement that he intends to cut Soviet armed forces by 1,200,000 men without waiting for a disarmament pact.

The cut, assuming it is carried through, will reduce Khrushchev's force in about two years to the present level of the United States force—about 2½ million men.

In a statement issued through the State Department, the United States said it could take Khrushchev's announcement of a cutback only as a declaration of intent "since there will be no verifiable means of checking any actual reductions."

Farewell, John L.

Other World Powers Challenged to Trim Military Manpower

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Parliament today unanimously approved Premier Nikita Khrushchev's plan to cut 1,200,000 men from the Soviet armed forces and rely on nuclear age weapons to keep up the nation's military strength.

Spokesmen appealed to the parliaments of all other nations of the world to follow the Soviet example. Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko specifically mentioned the Western Big Three.

The ratification came immediately after Khrushchev, who had listened to the discussion, made a final call for adoption of the resolution on his proposal. The 1,300 delegates gave him clamorous applause.

Gromyko said he hoped the action of Parliament in voting the reduction will influence lawmakers of the United States, Britain and France to do likewise. He suggested "some practical action" in reply.

There was speculation in diplomatic galleries and among the Soviets themselves about the "fantastic new weapon" Khrushchev spoke about Thursday.

There were no further details.

WHAT'S TEST DATE?

"People here also were asking one another when the Soviet Union's big new space rocket will be fired into the Central Pacific target area.

Today marks the first day of a month-long period during which the Soviet Union says the tests will be held.

Cheers! You're Now Worth $1,472.39 More

WASHINGTON (AP)—You own $1,472.39 worth of property you may not ever have thought about.

So does Nelson A. Rockefeller, for that matter.

All this figures, since the people are the government of the United States and the value of all real and personal property owned by the federal government was placed today at 264 billion dollars or more.

You figure your share by dividing 179,300,000 — the number of people in the United States as of Jan. 1 — into the 264 billion.

The property total was shown in an annual inventory report issued by the House Government Operations Committee.

Williams Lashed for Requesting Heavy Spending

GOP Says Tax Truce Won't Allow It; Against 'Another Wild Spree'

LANSING (AP) — Republican legislators today lit into Gov. Williams for proposing millions of dollars in new spending programs for debt-plagued Michigan.

They chided him for calling a truce on taxes, then laying out a 29-point program that would create 12 state commissions, a state building authority and a 30-million-dollar state parks bonding program.

Sen. Lynn O. Francis (R-Midland), Senate GOP floor leader, estimated the proposals would cost at least 60 million dollars in new taxes.

"This is no time to embark on another wild spending spree," he said.

The governor's 55-minute address was one of the mildest of his 12 annual "state of the state" messages — and his last if he decides against bidding for a seventh term.

Tension heightened among Michigan politicians amid growing speculation over whether Gov. Williams will run for an unprecedented seventh term.

Some capitol observers felt that the governor himself had not yet made up his mind about seeking re-election. Even if he has, they feel that he has not disclosed his decision to anyone.

KINDLED BY ARTICLE

Discussion of Williams' intentions was kindled anew by an article in the Washington (D.C.) Evening Star yesterday which said that political associates of the governor expect him to retire this year rather than run again. The newspaper quoted unnamed associates as saying Williams may announce his decision before the end of January.

For only the second time, Williams offered no tax recommendations. Last year's stopgap package of nuisance taxes and Republican demands for a statewide vote in November on boosting the sales tax squelched any chance for new taxes, he said.

The Democratic governor also promised he would come up with a balanced or nearly balanced 1960-61 budget, based "not upon needs but upon the inadequate realities."

Republicans generally were less

NAMED IN PLANE CRASH — Julian Frank, 32-year-old Westport, Conn., lawyer, shown in New York with his wife, is said to have taken out insurance totaling almost $900,000 during the nine months preceding his death in a North Carolina airliner crash Jan. 6. His wife was not on the plane with him. Evidence is strong that a suicide-bent passenger released a bomb, causing the crash that killed all 34 persons aboard.

Evidence Points to Victim With New Insurance

Passenger Signed Up for Near Half Million Only Months Earlier

WASHINGTON (AP)—Blaming a suicide bomb for a Jan. 6 airliner crash which killed 34 persons, Sen. A/S. (Mike) Monroney (D-Okla) said today new laws may be needed to protect against such acts.

He said the evidence is very strong that a passenger bent on suicide caused the disaster.

The FBI reportedly moved into the case Thursday as the story was unfolded before the Senate aviation subcommittee headed by Monroney.

The subcommittee heard testimony that insurance totaling nearly $900,000 had been issued since last April on the life of one of the crash victims.

He was named as Julian Andrew Frank, 32 - year - old Westport, Conn., lawyer. He died with 33 others when a National Airlines plane plunged to earth near Bolivia, N.C., while en route from New York to Miami.

Like 104 other passengers, Frank originally had booked a flight to Florida on a new Boeing 707 jet plane operated by National Airlines, but a crack was discovered in its windshield.

With a crew of 7, that would have made a total of 132 persons aboard the giant jet.

WAS BEING INVESTIGATED

It also was disclosed in New York that Frank was under investigation by the district attorney's office and the bar association on a complaint lodged against him by a building engineer client.

The complaint concerned the disappearance of a $20,000 check, part of the proceeds of a $33,000 Queens realty sale.

Oscar Baldie, chief of the Civil Aeronautics Board's safety division, testified about the insurance. Baldie also described other evidence found by CAB investigators which Monroney said made clear the grim story of what had happened.

"I am convinced the explosion of a bomb of some sort was the cause of this disaster," Monroney announced.

"It seems pretty pat that this bomb was carried into the washroom in the plane and set off deliberately.

"The evidence is very strong that it was a case of suicide by bombing."

Baldie made no such direct statement, saying the CAB is reserving an official verdict until further investigation is completed. But he said some of the evidence points to a possible bomb explosion and said if that was the case, "it will be discovered and the cause precisely established."

In the case suicide is proved in Frank's death, it appeared the attorney's beneficiary would not receive any of the money from the three policies.

The man who sold Frank a half-million dollar insurance policy said the attorney always expressed

To Get One-Dollar Cuts

Long-Hairs Will March

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—A mass demonstration was being organized today to get the men of Sherbrooke to leave town — for haircuts.

Behind the agitation is the C.G.W.O.U.P.H.S. — the Committee of Gentlemen Who Oppose the Increase in the Price of Haircuts in Sherbrooke.

The economy-minded group is determined to defeat what it contends an inflationary move by Sherbrooke barbers in boosting the price of haircuts from $1 to $1.75.

The C.G.W.O.U.P.H.S. will stage a protest parade Friday down the main street of this Quebec city of 36,000. The parade will feature carloads of bushy-haired males.

Immediately afterwards, organizer Maurice Proulx hopes to lead most of Sherbrooke's men to barbershops in the town of Magog, 25 miles away, where a haircut still is $1.

Car Hits Train; Arrest Driver

Seek Warrant Against Oxford Man in Crash That Injured Youth

A 21-year-old Oxford man was arrested for investigation of felonious driving yesterday after the car he was driving hit a Grand Trunk Railroad freight train at the Johnson avenue crossing.

Police planned to seek a warrant today against the driver, Fred F. Hannah, 21, of 102 East St., Oxford.

Injured in the collision was Donald Evans, 18, of 14 Stanton St., Oxford. He was reported in fair condition at Pontiac General Hospital today. He suffered a fractured skull.

Hannah and another passenger, Gale Odell, 18, of 899 Gill St., Oxford, were not injured.

Hannah told Pontiac police he did not see the train. His car smashed through a guard rail and into the side of a box car.

Rain . . . Sleet . . . Snow Bring Load of Woe

Freezing rain and sleet today caused three area school systems to close and another to curtail bus operation for the second time in four days.

Pupils in the Imlay, Almont and Armada area school districts did not attend classes. Attendance was affected appreciably in the Oxford schools due to lack of bus service.

Below-freezing was predicted for the entire state by tonight.

Early morning snowfalls, including five inches at Muskegon and Saginaw, forced rural schools of both areas to close because school buses couldn't run.

Virtually all western and central Michigan got the snow while to the south there was freezing rain.

Reduced visibility forced the grounding of commercial planes at Saginaw, Muskegon and Flint.

As the snow continued in the Saginaw area, state police of the Bridgeport Post reported little car traffic on main trunklines and none at all on side roads.

The snow was so heavy at Saginaw that at 10 a.m. all public and parochial schools were ordered to close as of noon.

Forecasts of clearing weather gave hope that plane travel might be resumed in the affected cities by this afternoon.

The weather outlook for Pontiac and vicinity includes light snow today diminishing to flurries tonight. It will be partly cloudy and colder tonight with a high of 35 and a low of 25.

Easterly winds this morning at 12 to 18 m.p.h. will become northeasterly tonight and Saturday with a few snow flurries Saturday and a high of 32.

State police reported that area

LSU Dean Accused of Murdering Woman Protegee-Teacher

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Dr. George H. Mickey, known internationally in the field of genetics, was held in a Baton Rouge jail cell today accused of murdering a fellow teacher and protegee, Dr. Margaret Rosamond McMillan.

Officers arrested Dr. Mickey, dean of the Louisiana State University Graduate School, Thursday. They had questioned him several times since the body of Dr. McMillan, 39, was found on a cow path Sunday near the Mississippi River.

An assailant had brutally beaten her with a sharp instrument on the back of the head. She was a biology teacher at the LSU branch in New Orleans but was believed to have driven to Baton Rouge for a date.

Dist. Atty. J. St. Clair Favrot said Thursday night a special session of the grand jury may be called to consider the charge against Mickey, married and the father of a 19-year-old boy, a sophomore at LSU, and a married daughter.

The regular session of the grand jury is scheduled Feb. 16.

A murder charge in Louisiana allows no release on bond.

Deputies picked up Mickey at the campus Thursday and took him to State Police headquarters, where much of the questioning and the arrest took place.

The officers wouldn't discuss

Doctors Not Sure It Is Asian Type

Mild Influenza Creeps Into County

Influenza — possibly of the Asian strain — apparently has hit Oakland County, according to Dr. John F. Monroe, director of the County Health Department.

Dr. Monroe emphasized that there had been no reports, to date, that the disease had been definitely diagnosed — either as simple influenza or the more powerful Asian variety.

"But there is a lot of illness reported in the county and we assume some of it is flu, including the Asian type," he said.

Absenteeism in Pontiac schools has soared with many children out of school because of respiratory diseases.

Absenteeism topped 10 per cent at most schools, although the normal percentage at this time of year is around 5 to 8 per cent.

North, south, east and west, attendance was down. At Hawthorne school on the north side absenteeism was figured at 13 per cent; at Emerson on the east it was a high 17 per cent; and at Alcott on the west 16 per cent.

Bagley on the south side hit a little above 8 per cent.

At Pontiac Central, absenteeism eased a bit from a high of 7 per cent last week, while at Pontiac Northern it was averaging 12 per cent.

At Lincoln Junior High School in the center of town it was 11 per cent.

Cases of Asian flu have definitely been identified in Detroit.

Arthur S. Flemming, secretary of health, education and welfare, told a news conference in Washington that Asian flu had been identified in Michigan and three other states — Tennessee, Ohio and Hawaii. Flemming said flu had been reported in Texas, Tennessee, Kentucky, Ohio, California, Nevada, Utah, Hawaii and Michigan.

Dr. Monroe called attention to what appears to be a shortage of flu vaccine in the Oakland County area.

"There is probably not enough vaccine available to immunize a very large segment of the population," he said.

The vaccine is usually obtained through private physicians — the health department does not receive any from the state, Dr. Monroe said.

Dr. John D. Marra, medical director at Pontiac General Hospital, said there had been no definite cases of influenza admitted to the hospital.

He said the hospital is thoroughly checking into a few cases of possible influenza. This "involves primarily sending blood samples to the State Department of Health in Lansing for analysis — a process that takes about a week.

"Doctors have reported to me cases of possible influenza," Dr. Marra said. "But these cases were so mild that the physicians are treating the patients at home."

The variety of flu known as Asian flu struck Michigan and much of the nation 2½ years ago, causing widespread sickness and even some deaths.

GM Plane Official Says: Must Desire Air Service

Besides adequate airport facilities to attract business air transportation, a community such as Pontiac must have a realistic desire for increased air service, Pontiac Rotarians were told yesterday.

Speaking at their weekly luncheon at the Waldron Hotel was E. Tilson Peabody, director of General Motors Corporation's Air Transport Section.

The section is responsible for transporting GM executives and officials by air "where they have to go when they have to go."

Seventeen thousand corporation-owned aircraft log three times the number of hours of commercial airlines, Peabody said.

Success of corporation and private business air transportation requires that residents weigh all the advantages of having a busy, modern airport against the disadvantages, he said.

Residents must realize that noise and risk of a nearby airport are outweighed by its advantages; loss in taxes by taking private land off tax rolls will be compensated for by resulting economic factors, certain roads must be closed or rerouted, and that the community should be in substantial agreement on where the best place is and should understand why.

MUST SETTLE

"These are a few of the things that should be considered, understood and settled before a community builds an airport, not after," Peabody said.

No company likes to land its planes on a municipal battlefield, he added.

He referred to the recent survey of air transportation requirements for this general area released to

Williams Clears Navarre

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Williams says former insurance commissioner Joseph A. Navarre has not sought to exert any special influence on his successor in office in Michigan.

Frank Blackford succeeded Navarre in January 1959 before establishment of receivers that threw Michigan Surety Co. of Lansing into receivership.

The legal difficulties of Michigan Surety Co. plus Navarre's role as a legal representative of the firm after retirement from office in Michigan brought this comment from Williams:

"So far as I am aware Joe Navarre is an honorable man and conducted himself honorably while he was a member of my administration.

"He was highly thought of among his colleagues and was elected president of the Association of Insurance Commissioners.

"What he has done since leaving state government a year ago is a private, not a public, affair and is his business not mine.

"I do know that he has not sought to exert any special influence with the present insurance commissioner.

Navarre disclosed yesterday that his law firm was engaged last January by Michigan Surety Co within weeks after Navarre left office and a few months before Michigan Surety was put into receivership.

Blackford contends that Michigan Surety is hopelessly insolvent, and that its difficulties are closely bound up with out-of-state firms controlled by Mark H. Kroll of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Edwin A. Stowell, Ohio superintendent of insurance, said yesterday that three Kroll-controlled firms owed Michigan Surety $1,-253,000.

"We don't know what we'll find when we untangle all of the listed assets," Stowell said.

Michigan Surety assets held by the three firms have been frozen by court order.

DISCLOSURE MADE

Blackford disclosed yesterday that Navarre, then counsel for Michigan Surety, was the insurance firm official who "indicated he felt that the people who worked on the (1958) examination were prejudiced against Michigan Surety."

The special examination was called off in December 1958 while Navarre was insurance commissioner. It was under direction of Theodore Tubergen, insurance department supervisor of examiners.

Tubergen was responsible for starting an abortive inquiry in June 1952. A 1953 examination led to the receivership. It was directed by Don Fritz of Lansing under special arrangements made by Blackford.

Blackford confirmed yesterday that he had stopped payments from the insurance company to Navarre's law firm. The law outfit was on a retainer for $1,000 a month.

"We are not retaining any private attorneys," said Blackford, appointed a receiver by Circuit Judge Louis E. Coash. "We will use the attorney general's office."

DEAN CHARGED WITH MURDER — Shown working in his laboratory is Dr. George H. Mickey, dean of the Louisiana State University graduate school at Baton Rouge. any details of their case against the 49-year-old Mickey, described as likeable and friendly by LSU personnel. He is considered brilliant in the field of genetics and is known internationally.

Favrot said he issued the warrant after reviewing the evidence. He wouldn't go beyond that. The district attorney said the investigation is still going on.

Photographs and letters found in Dr. McMillan's apartment in New Orleans were mentioned several times by officers during the earlier part of the investigation.

Still missing is the weapon used in battering Miss McMillan's head 13 times. It is believed to be something similar to a tire tool.

A construction crew found her body early Sunday not far from the Mississippi River. Nearby was the 1956 foreign sports car she had driven to Baton Rouge. In her hands was a crushed package of cigarettes she was apparently trying to open when she was attacked, presumably, officers think, from behind.

Dr. Mickey is a native of Claude, in the Texas Panhandle. He is a graduate of Baylor University, a Baptist institution in Waco, Tex. He studied for his advanced degrees at Oklahoma University and the University of Texas.

He apparently first met Dr. McMillan when he was on the staff at Northwestern University in the early 1930s. It was there that he helped her with her thesis. Miss McMillan was from Evanston, Ill., site of Northwestern. Her funeral service was held there Thursday.

LSU has not taken any stand on the case.

the Supervisors Inter-County Committee.

"I have heard nobody who understands the situation question the need for additional airport facilities in this area," said Peabody, who lives in Rochester.

The major problem, he went on, was to reach agreement where these facilities should be built. It was suggested by the study that another major jet airfield be built by 1970 near the Pontiac area.

The new field in this area has the best chance, the speaker said, when there is a cooperative effort of citizens and civic groups "whose genuine interests in the general welfare of the community are widely recognized."

He urged prospective tenants of the airport to "stay out of the picture" until settlement is reached on where the field will be located.

Bomb Is Believed Air Crash Cause

fear of airplane travel, and it was more a case of Frank being talked into carrying heavy insurance than the other way around.

Mystery had shrouded exact cause of the disaster since the plane literally fell apart in the air and plunged to earth.

Bodies of most of the victims—the last was found Thursday—were located in the vicinity of Bolivia, N.C.

Frank's body was found last Saturday 16 miles away, on the beach near Ft. Fisher, N.C., with some of the wreckage. Bakke said Frank could have been blown through the side of the plane by an explosion.

Bakke said Frank's body had been deeply pierced by metal and wood fragments, and had been mutilated in a manner far different from the injuries suffered by all of the other victims. Such piercing of the body with flying fragments frequently occurs in explosions.

A small blue fabric bag, its bottom violently torn out, was viewed by Bakke and Munroes as key evidence in their joint inquiry. Monroney said the bag may have contained the bomb.

Frank was married to the former Janet Wagner, a top photographer's model who formerly lived in Galesburg, Ill. They had two children, Andrew, 2 and Ellen, 4. They moved to Connecticut about five years ago from New York City, and moved in prominent social circles there.

Charge Use of State Post to Benefit Barbers Assn.

ROBERT P. SCOTT

Robert P. Scott, one-time Pontiac barber and Teamster leader, has been charged in a suit in Lansing with using the State Board of Examiners of Barbers "as a tool to accomplish forceful enlistment" in the State Barbers Assn.

Scott, 53, of Waterford Township, is a member of both the board and the barbers association.

The suit was filed in Ingham County Circuit Court by Prosecutor Jack Warren in behalf of a Holt barber, Mark Kinnison, whose license was suspended by the board Jan. 4. Kinnison wants his license back.

Kinnison contends his license was lifted because he didn't belong to the barbers association, an organization that covers many out-state Michigan barbers.

The suit asserted that Scott is prejudiced in Kinnison's case and was not qualified to pass in the suspension.

It further asserted that at a hearing on the suspension Kinnison was not given a chance to defend himself adequately or call witnesses in his behalf.

TWO ALLEGATIONS

The suit claimed there was no court reporter present and that Scott himself refused to divulge names of barbers who had allegedly complained against Kinnison.

Kinnison's license was suspended on complaints brought by two members of the barbers' association, the suit stated. He was charged with alleged violations of the barbers' code.

Scott was not immediately available for comment.

His membership in the State Barbers Assn. caused him legal trouble once before. That was last year, when Oakland County Circuit Court granted his appeal for re-admission to the AFL-CIO barbers union in Detroit, which had suspended him for membership in the association.

Scott, a former vice president of Pontiac Teamsters Local 614, claimed he was suspended in retaliation for his testimony against James R. Hoffa, Teamster president, before the Senate Rackets Committee in Washington.

Gov. Williams appointed Scott to the barbers board in 1953. He was reappointed to a six-year term last year.

Heart Association Will Give Program

The Greater Pontiac Heart Unit of the Michigan Heart Association will present "Nature of the Enemy" free to the public 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Washington Junior High School, 710 Menominee.

Dr Donald S. Smith, president of the Michigan Heart Association will be master of ceremonies for the program, the first presented locally.

"Statistics show that more than 1,600 deaths in Oakland County during 1958 were caused from heart and circulatory ailments," said Smith. "This is three times greater than any other cause of death.

* * *

"Many of these untimely deaths could be prevented. If the public were properly informed on this vital subject."

Scheduled speakers are Pontiac doctors Elmer Mueller, John Pridmore, Joseph Chandler and Charles Patrick.

Dr. Michael C. Kozonis will moderate the program and Dr. Robert T. Lyons will preside as chairman of the Greater Pontiac Heart Unit.

The evening's topic will include "Nature of the Enemy," "Causes of Arteriosclerosis," "The Effect on You," and "Hope for the Future."

* * *

A panel discussion will be followed by a question and answer period and a six-minute film, "Strokes," which explains what happens in the brain and body when a stroke occurs.

Unarmed Theft Charge Puts Man in County Jail

BIRMINGHAM — Charged with unarmed robbery of Greenfield's Restaurant, 725 S. Hunter Blvd., a former employe is being held in the Oakland County Jail following his arraignment yesterday.

Wilbert L. Wheat, 23, of Detroit, and a former Pontiac resident, stood mute to the charges and waived examination before Birmingham Municipal Judge Edward Emery.

Bond was set at $2,000 and Wheat, who could not raise the money, was bound over to Circuit Court for a Jan. 25 hearing before Judge H. Russel Holland.

Wheat, accused of taking $630 from the restaurant's safe Monday night after forcing assistant manager William Gass to open it, was picked up Tuesday in Detroit on the request of the Birmingham police.

Only $148 of the stolen money was recovered, according to Det. Lt. Merlin Holmquist.

Columnist Sydney Harris spoke to the Birmingham Town Hall audience yesterday morning on "Great Books and Small Minds."

Harris, who heads the Great Books department of the University of Chicago's Downtown College, said he believes that every man is a philosopher, but most men are bad philosophers because they are ignorant.

He expressed his vital interest in giving adults the kind of education they missed in school. The study and discussion of the world's 70 great books can accomplish this, he believes.

Most higher education today, according to the speaker, is vocational. He said this is useful and necessary, but not the most important end of education.

"Education," said Harris, "should be designed to help a man think clearly. The four arts necessary for this are reading, writing, talking, and listening."

During the question period which followed the talk at the noon luncheon at Birmingham Country Club, there were several sharp exchanges on the subject of suburban living. Harris expressed sharp disapproval of suburbia, calling it "matriarchal" and "over-organized."

The lecture was repeated this morning to the balance of the Town Hall subscribers. Adventurer John Jay will bring his skiing films to the Feb. 4 and 5 session.

Unless Marvin A. Willson, 22, of 881 Wallace Rd., Birmingham, has his wallet returned to him his long-awaited marriage to Janet Amerman, of Detroit, will be further delayed.

One thing or another has interferred with the marriage during the past three years, and now Willson, a Canadian citizen, has lost his billfold containing his Canadian birth certificate.

Wednesday, while shopping with Miss Amerman for a wedding outfit, he discovered his wallet missing somewhere near Woodward and John R in Detroit.

All arrangements have been made for a Jan. 23 wedding, but until he recovers his birth certificate he will be unable to obtain a marriage license.

If he doesn't get his wallet back by tomorrow, it will take from six to eight weeks to have a duplicate birth certificate made and sent from Toronto, he said.

Paul A. Nash

Service for Paul A. Nash, 57, of 27441 Golden Gate Rd., Lathrup Village, will be held at 2:30 p.m. Monday in Kansas City, Mo. Burial will be in Floral Hills Memorial Gardens Cemetery, Kansas City.

The body will be at Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Funeral Home until 9:30 p.m. today.

Nash died suddenly of a heart attack today at the William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak.

Employed 35 years with General Motors, Nash held an executive position in the Salaried Personnel Department.

Surviving are his wife, Gladys, a daughter, Elaine, at home, two brothers and four sisters.

roads were "becoming more dangerous by the degree" as the temperature slid slowly downward.

The mercury should hit a low tonight of 15 in the northern part of the state and 24 in the southern portions.

COULD'VE HAD 10 INCHES

The weatherman said that if it had been colder in the extreme southern part of Michigan in the past few days, there would have been 10 inches of snow instead of the montage of sleet, wet snow, drizzle and rain.

Many basements and side streets were flooded in the Detroit area and portions of the southernmost boundary of Oakland County early this morning.

The new east end of the Ford Expressway was closed for a time.

The five-day weather forecast for Pontiac and vicinity calls for temperatures to average two degrees above normal.

Normal high is 33, low 19.

Colder tonight and Saturday, warming a little Monday and turning colder about Tuesday or Wednesday is forecast.

Precipitation will total about two-tenths of an inch as snow flurries today and Saturday and rain or snow about Monday.

The lowest temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 32. The reading at 2 p.m. was 25.

Ike OKs Overtime for Space Speed-Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has ordered overtime work if necessary to speed development of a super space rocket. He also wants to know if more money is needed for the job.

The President sent those instructions Thursday to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

He told T. Keith Glennan, NASA chief, "It is essential to press forward vigorously to increase our capability in high thrust space vehicles."

Cold Weather Whips Into Midwest States

By The Associated Press

Wintry weather, with snow, gusty winds and cold, swept into the Midwest today as a new ice storm moved into the Northeast.

The Midwest storm, fanned by strong northerly winds, dumped heavy snow in Iowa and Wisconsin and moved northeastward into northern Lower Michigan.

There was considerable blowing and drifting snow, resulting in hazardous driving conditions. Snow depths ranged up to a foot in parts of Iowa.

The gusty winds also powered cold air southward from Canada into the nation's midsection, with temperatures tumbling southward through Kansas and Oklahoma. The cold air ended unseasonably warm weather in many areas. It was near zero in some northern Midwest areas and in the northern Rockies.

COLD AIR ALONG ROCKIES

Cold air also swept along the Rockies from Montana, but the heavy snow which hit Colorado, Nebraska and Kansas appeared ended. Falls ranged from about 3 inches in Kansas to 6 to 11 inches from northern Colorado through most of Nebraska.

Falls in Colorado ranged up to two feet at Rico, in the southwestern part of the state. At Pueblo, Colorado's second largest city, the snow covering measured 18 inches.

As the snow swept the great plains Thursday, tornadoes skipped across north central Texas and parts of Oklahoma. No casualties were reported.

We Like It as 'Boi-oi-oing,' Crack or No

LONDON (AP) — For 100 years London's famed Big Ben has chimed out the hours with a resounding "bol-oi-oing."

Now two British metal repairmen have offered to mend a crack in the 13½-ton bell "as a patriotic duty" without removing it from atop its tower.

They claim that would make it sound as it should—just a simple "boing."

A spokesman for the Ministry of Works said, "We shall consider the offer, of course, but boi-oi-oing is a sound the world has got used to. The crack does not affect the safety of the bell."

Ike to Shoot Quail in Georgia on Weekend

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will fly to Georgia today for a weekend of quail shooting, the White House announced.

He planned to leave Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland about 10 a.m. for a flight to Albany, Ga.

* * *

He will stay at the Blue Springs plantation of W. Alton Jones, an executive of Cities Service Co., a personal friend and frequent golfing companion.

20 Years Older Than School but He Can Learn

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Robert K. Orr is only a sophomore at Florida Southern College in Lakeland, Fla., but he is 20 years older than the school.

The 40-year-old man visited relatives here this week en route to Florida.

The Caro, Mich., great-grandfather explained he enrolled last year "to fill some of the empty spots in my life."

Orr is a retired businessman and founded the Wolverine Insurance Co. in 1916. The firm has offices in 13 states now.

Orr never finished high school but taught at country schools in Michigan and wrote a book on business letter writing, now used as a school textbook.

He helped organize Michigan's insurance program, which later became the state workman's compensation program.

Orr said he didn't go to college to wear a beanie or to lead cheers.

"I just want to learn some of the things I missed when I was younger," he explained.

Wants Any Arms Deal to Include Red China

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) said last night he would refuse to vote for ratification of any world disarmament treaty which did not include Red China.

Humphrey, a strong advocate of disarmament and candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, said on a radio program he did not believe the time was yet ripe for recognizing Red China, but a treaty could be signed anyway.

He said Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's disarmament plan was "a convenient announcement inasmuch as he had Red Chinese armies to back him up."

Ferndale Man's Case Dropped in Carolina

A charge of involuntary manslaughter against Cleveland Hall Jr., 28, of Ferndale in a fatal traffic accident was dismissed at Marion, N.C., yesterday for lack of evidence.

The action was taken in Superior Court. Hall was charged after Walter K. Melton, 36, of Old Fort, N. C., was killed when the auto in which he and Hall were riding overturned on U.S. 221 near Marion Sept. 5.

harsh in their reaction than in earlier years.

"There is no point to fighting again the old battles over the old grounds of the past in this legislative session," said House Speaker Don R. Pears (R-Buchanan) and Sen. Frank D. Beadle (R-St. Clair), Senate majority leader.

"This is a time for realism, and for unity of purpose to straighten out the financial mess in Michigan," they said.

The two GOP leaders shrugged off most of the governor's programs as "warmed over" versions of earlier recommendations. They included such standbys as a seal of quality for state agricultural products, a commission for the aging, commissions on atomic energy and automation and a $1.25 minimum wage.

As expected, members of the governor's own party praised his blueprint as progressive and far-reaching.

Bus Confab? More Failure

Tri-City Strike Goes On; State Mediators Hunt New Dates

New efforts to solve the tri-city bus strike failed yesterday in Kalamazoo.

There were plans for state mediators to arrange new negotiating sessions next week in Pontiac and Saginaw, but no definite dates have been set.

Subsidiaries of National City Lines, Inc., have been struck by drivers and mechanics in all three cities for about five weeks.

Employes are asking for wage increases that the company says are too high. In Pontiac they are asking for a 22-cent-an-hour package, which the company has rejected.

A union spokesman said yesterday's meeting accomplished "absolutely nothing."

* * *

Federal mediator Judson P. Quintard said the Kalamazoo union proposed a settlement costing even more than the one rejected previously by the company.

Pushes State Park Expansion

Williams Wants 5-Year 30-Million-Dollar Cash Bonding Program

LANSING (UPI) — Gov. G. Mennen Williams urged passage Thursday of a five-year, 30-million-dollar cash bonding program for an expanded state park system.

Williams said he vetoed bills last year and in 1958 for a park entrance bill "for a variety of reasons, but particularly because I do not believe our state park problem can be solved by the slow trickle of revenues from a park fee alone."

Three Republican senators, Elmer R. Porter, Bloomfield; Clarence F. Graebner, Saginaw, and John Minasema, Traverse City, yesterday launched another drive for a parks entrance fee bill.

"We need a large 'cash' program to get us an expanded and rehabilitated park system quickly, and before all available land is taken up by private owners," Williams said.

"I therefore recommend again that the people be asked to authorize 30 million dollars in faith and credit bonds to be phased out over the next five years for state park rehabilitation and expansion."

Ex-AEC Chief Sees Complete A-Power Fiasco

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI)—The Atomic Energy Commission's plans and promises for cheap electric power through atomic energy have become "a complete fiasco," former AEC chairman David E. Lilienthal says.

"After every failure have come new promises for 10 years from now," Lilienthal said. "Two of the chief reasons (for failure) have been too much money and too much secrecy.

"With too much money you build too big laboratories and stuff them with too many people —second and third rate people.

"With too much secrecy the man in one compartment doesn't know what the man next door is doing. Knowledge isn't open and there isn't open comparison and competition."

Lilienthal headed the AEC from its creation in 1946 until 1950.

He said those who promised "unlimited power at little or no cost" from the heat of atomic energy "made grave miscalculations."

One of them, he said, was in underrating the future of coal and oil for electric power in huge, modern plants.

"The cost of producing electricity by these methods has been going down as the cost of atomic energy has been going up," Lilienthal said.

Lilienthal now heads the Development and Resources Corp. of New York, one of whose projects is a development in Iran similar to the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA).

Quakers and Episcopalians in Mount Holly cooperated in 1759 to open New Jersey's first school which offered free education.

Brunswick Firm Tries to Buy Union Hardware

CHICAGO (AP) — The Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. announced today it has begun negotiations toward purchase of Union Hardware Co. in Torrington, Conn.

B. E. Bensinger, Brunswick president, said that if the transaction is approved by Union's stockholders, Brunswick will pay about 93,500 shares of stock for substantially all the hardware company's assets. He said, however, that certain adjustments remain to be made following an audit.

Union Hardware Co. manufactures a diversified line of sporting goods.

Reds Reducing Manpower?

Let's Not Be Stampeded

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress members seem inclined to assess today's proclaimed Soviet plans to reduce armed manpower as a psychological trust of some importance. General reaction was that U.S. polices should not be influenced.

Rep. Thomas E. Morgan (D-Pa), chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, described Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's speech announcing a 1,200,000-man cut as a combination of boasting and propaganda.

He suggested in an interview that one purpose may be to build up opposition to a strong U.S. foreign aid program, and added: "We should be very careful not to be 'mousetrapped.'"

Morgan said the Soviet announcement "should not be allowed to affect our foreign policy in any way and certainly not our stand at Geneva."

At the Geneva conference on nuclear disarmament, Morgan said, the United States must continue to insist on a workable inspection plan.

"The test of Soviet intentions is inspection, not reduction of personnel," Morgan said.

There is no indication that a cut in manpower would mean any effective reduction in the potential Soviet military threat, Morgan said, adding:

"We have known for a long time they have been emphasizing missiles and mobility."

Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said Khrushchev "holds out an olive branch and at the same time tries to hit us over the head with it."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash) commented that "once again, Khrushchev has demonstrated his genius in seizing the psychological initiative by attempting to demonstrate:

"(1) The Russians are for peace and we are obstructing efforts to achieve peace.

"(2) The Soviet military might is greater than that of the U.S. and growing while ours is declining."

Jackson expressed doubt that the Soviets will in fact cut their ground troops by anything like 1,200,000 men.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, assistant Senate Democratic leader, called Khrushchev's message one of "confidence and power."

"It would be far more prudent to take Khrushchev's power claims at face value than to underrate them," he said.

He said it was difficult to find out whether the Russians carried out previously announced cuts in land forces and there is no way of knowing whether the latest promises will be carried out.

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, the assistant Republican leader, said Khrushchev apparently was announcing only a shift from men and planes to missiles.

"We devoutly hope that at the summit the Russian premier may concur in a dependable disarmament on which the world can rely and by which a nuclear rocket race to extermination may be avoided," Kuchel said.

West Berliners Seek Cheaper Jail for Nazis

BERLIN (UPI) — A committee of the West Berlin City Assembly has asked the Big Four to move three major Nazi war criminals from Spandau Prison to cheaper quarters.

The committee said it was costing $61,900 a year to maintain Ex-Deputy Fuehrer Rudolf Hess, Nazi munitions minister Albert Speer and Hitler Youth leader Baldur von Schirach all by themselves in the prison in the British sector of Berlin.

The prison is operated by the Americans, British, French and Russians, but the West Berlin city government bears the financial burden as occupation costs.

Nominates Judges for Alaska, Hawaii

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Thursday nominated Walter H. Hodge, now an Alaska Supreme Court justice, to be U. S. district judge for Alaska.

The President also sent to the Senate the nomination of C. Nils Tavares, a Honolulu attorney, to be U. S. district judge for Hawaii.

Both are new positions. The nominations are subject to Senate confirmation.

Hodge, 63-year-old Republican, is a native of Auburn, Ind. He began his legal career in 1921. Since then he has practiced law in Seattle, Wash., and in Alaska.

Tavares, 57, also a Republican, began private law practice in Hawaii in 1925. From 1927 to 1934 Tavares was deputy attorney general of Hawaii. For 13 years, starting in 1934, he served as attorney general. Then he returned to private law practice in Honolulu.

Actress Hildegarde Neff Named in Divorce Suit

LONDON (AP) — Hildegarde Neff, blonde German film actress, was named corespondent today in a divorce suit lodged by the wife of British actor David Cameron. The suit, which is undefended, will be heard in the divorce court's spring term.

Mrs. Shirley Cameron gave no details of her charges. Miss Neff, 33, is now in West Berlin where she was recently hospitalized with a minor ailment.

Trichologist L. E. Schroer will be in charge, representing the dynamic Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists organization. He will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 11:30 to 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Waldron Hotel. Phone No. FE 5-6168.

20,000 TREATMENTS A MONTH . . . Yes, the ERICKSON method of home scalp treatment has been so successful that an average of 20,000 treatments a month are now administered by ERICKSON clients — treatments they give to themselves right in the privacy of their own homes. This means that almost every minute of every waking hour of every day someone is realizing the benefits that may be derived from ERICKSON home treatment.

Who Can Be Helped?

For many years new Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists have been checking the hair of thousands of people across the country. They have encountered and dealt with hundreds of cases of every kind of hair trouble. From this experience has grown the scientific knowledge leading to the development of the new Erickson home treatment.

Will the new Erickson treatment cure baldness? "No!" For we cannot help men and women who are slick-bald after years of gradual hair loss. But if you still have fuzz and your scalp is still creating hair, you can at least save and thicken what you have. Some conditions, such as "spot baldness" usually have complete coverage if caught in time!

Other conditions that usually bring on excessive hair loss — dandruff, itching, over-oiliness or dryness, follicle clogged with sebum or seborrhea—can be corrected by the Erickson home treatment if caught before the "hair factories" are destroyed.

OVER 400 CITIES SERVED . . . The ERICKSON method, active in over 400 cities, is responsible for more home scalp treatments than all major hair specialists combined.

The most important thing is: "Don't wait until it's too late." Surveys among men and women in all walks of life show that the worst enemies of your hair are (1) skepticism and (2) procrastination. The average balding person justifies his condition with one or the other of these two statements:

"I don't think anybody can stop hair loss" — or "Oh, I'm going to see an expert when I get around to it."

Baldness won't wait for doubters to be convinced or for procrastinators to take action later. You're going to keep right on losing hair till you're bald, unless you get your scalp in healthy, hair growing condition again.

Satisfy 95%

"Actually, our biggest problem is not in doing what we claim," says D. W. Erickson, director of the organization, "for we satisfy at least 95% of our clients which, when you consider that almost every person is a 'doubter' or a 'putter-offer' where hair is concerned, is an excellent showing. Getting these doubters and putter-offers to come in for an examination is really the problem."

Examine You Free

We want to make it clear that you incur absolutely no charge or obligation by coming in for an examination.

Your only obligation is to yourself to ease your mind of hair worries by learning how to save and thicken your hair at home. We will tell you frankly and sincerely whether or not you can be helped, how long it will take and how much it will cost.

Hopeless Cases Refused

Erickson Hair and Scalp Specialists have established a very high reputation in the field for refusing any case that does not fall under the scope of its work. In the majority of cases of baldness and excessive hair loss (a condition sometimes described as male pattern baldness—has been identified as such) Erickson treatment is of little or no value, and again we state ERICKSON WILL CONTINUE ITS POLICY OF REFUSING ALL HOPELESS CASES.

Guarantee Satisfaction

The Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists will give you a guarantee that you must be satisfied within 30 days or it costs you nothing.

You won't be obligated or embarrassed in any way. Examinations are given in private. Hours are from 11:30 to 7:30.

Police Status Unchanged by K's Decentralization

By HENRY SHAPIRO

NEW YORK (UPI)—Abolition of the Soviet Union's Internal Affairs Ministry does not change the status of the police and secret police in Russia — it is chiefly another move in Premier Nikita Khrushchev's government decentralization programs.

And the apparent demotion of Aleksei I. Kirichenko to first secretary of the Rostov Regional Communist Party Central Committee may turn out to be a major trouble-shooting job to boost agricultural production in the north Caucasus.

Abolition of the Internal Affairs Ministry, and distribution of its powers among the 15 Soviet republics, is consistent with Khrushchev's policy of broadening the base of Soviet power and granting more political responsibility to the constituent republics.

It is a reform not to be interpreted to mean any substantial change in the basic police structure.

Since 1954 the functions have been entirely under jurisdiction of the State Committee for State Security, formerly under Gen. Ivan Serov, and now directed by former Komsomol chief Alexander Shelipi.

Since 1954 the Ministry of Internal Affairs has been in charge exclusively of normal police functions, civil matters, collection of vital statistics and fire protection.

The functions formerly executed by the dread OGPU, later the NKVD, were sharply reduced after the death of Josef Stalin. The post-Stalin Committee on state security was shorn of much of its almost unlimited power it had under Lavrenti P. Beria and his predecessors.

NEW LEGALITY CONCEPTS

The semi-autonomous frontier guards once controlled by the police were handed over to the Ministry of Defense. A series of decrees reorganized the functions of the secret police and introduced new concepts of legality so that police would no longer be able to exercise summary justice and carry out mass arrests.

That meant the dreaded midnight knock on the door virtually disappeared from Soviet life.

Police function under the Committee for State Security was another example of Khrushchev's decision to abolish autonomous sources of power and place all organs of control under Communist Party authority. The secret police, only under party leadership, was thus able to oust such a powerful figure as Marshal Georgi Zhukov.

Observers in Moscow have long believed that the west has overrated Kirichenko's position in the Kremlin hierarchy, especially reports he might be Khrushchev's "right hand man." There has been no evidence Khrushchev has chosen him as his successor.

Only the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist Party has the power to remove a person from Central Committee or Presidium membership and there was no indication the Central Committee did so at its last meeting. Kirichenko was present at Thursday's Supreme Soviet session in Moscow.

It appeared his transfer to Rostov was largely connected with agricultural failures in that vital region.

It was recalled that presidium member Nikolai Bellayev was sent to the Kazakhstan Republic to deal with agricultural failings. He has since been heavily criticized by Khrushchev for his failings there.

Jet Bomber Crashes in Alaska; 2 Missing

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — A six-engine B47 jet bomber crashed after takeoff Thursday and burst into flames, showering a wooded area with exploding 20 millimeter cannon shells.

The copilot, Capt. Alfred S Despres, leaped out, then braved the flames to rescue the pilot, Capt. Daniel J. Hahn. Two other men were believed trapped in the wreckage and killed. The plane crashed just off a runway at Elelson Air Force Base near here.

The Air Force said the plane had trouble retracting its landing gear and started circling the field. Then more mechanical trouble developed.

Under radar and radio control, the plane was guided away from the base housing area and brought down in a level, wooded patch.

Despres and Hahn were hospitalized with minor injuries.

The Air Force did not immediately identify the missing men.

Mortuary Buries Wrong Remains—Sues for Costs

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—A mortuary has filed a suit to collect $2,025 it says it spent to bury a human skull and some porcupine bones believed to have been the charred remains of a man.

A few days after the burial, the missing man, Manuel N. Armijo Jr., Albuquerque, staggered into a southwestern New Mexico logging camp.

The suit has been brought by Pablo Garcia, who operates Garcia Mortuary in Albuquerque. He is suing Armijo and his wife, Priscilla.

The suit says Mrs. Armijo hired the mortuary to provide complete funeral services for her husband. He was declared dead last June 5 by a coroner's jury.

The remains were described at that time as so badly burned they were beyond identification.

Garcia explained to authorities that a fire started in his car and he jumped from it because he was carrying dynamite caps in it. He said he hit his head and could not remember anything of the incident until he stumbled into the logging camp.

Khrushchev's Remarks Need Careful Thought

Just how much we can believe of Premier NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV's most recent announcement is the problem facing this country and the rest of the world.

It is unfortunate that this is the case, but from past experience it is difficult to swallow everything he said hook, line and sinker. Probably some portions of his long three-hour speech are true.

If the Western powers are to believe all he said, the Soviets should be willing to participate in an exchange of truthful inspection. This, Mr. K. would have no part of in the past. To accept his pronouncements without some verification would seem ridiculous.

Undoubtedly part of his talk was aimed at recapturing some prestige lost since President EISENHOWER completed his recent trip. His demobilization pitch and nuclear test ban is aimed at the disarmament discussions set for Geneva this spring.

This country along with the other Western powers should not be stampeded into accepting Russia's terms without first careful study. The strong utterances by Boss Khrushchev sound like he was waving a big stick.

Whatever his motives may be, we must continue to accept the opportunity for negotiation and strive to work out some amicable agreement which would be mutually beneficial. We should not view his remarks lightly, yet it seems unsound to accept them as gospel truth.

Pres. de Gaulle's Visit Should Clarify Stand

After receiving Premier KHRUSHCHEV in Paris the latter part of March and visiting Great Britain in early April, Pres. DE GAULLE will come to the United States via Canada on April 22 for a week's conference.

As President of the Fifth Republic DE GAULLE has created serious problems for North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies, particularly the United States. France appears to be reneging on decisions made 10 years ago when signatories pledged to resist aggression on a collective security basis. French Prime Minister BIDAULT was the first to propose a supreme council to order and direct NATO. This resulted in a permanent North Atlantic Treaty Council calling for "balanced collective forces."

In December 1950 after the outbreak of the Korean War and fearing a Russian attack, the NATO Council recommended an integrated force under a centralized American command "adequate to insure the defense of Western Europe." At Council request Gen. Eisenhower was named the first Supreme Commander.

French Defense Minister JULES MOCH immediately announced that three divisions in Germany would be placed under NATO command and that two more would be added in 1951. Gen. EISENHOWER was succeeded by Gens. RIDGEWAY, GRUENTHER and NORSTAD.

Pres. de Gaulle is balking at full integration of French forces under NATO. He seems to be attacking its very foundation of planned, co-ordinated, centrally commanded, collective security. The General also is resentful of our neutral U.N. stand on Algeria and other French colonial matters.

There is no question but that Pres. DE GAULLE has worked miracles for his own country. Yet his single idea of building France's international prestige at the expense of the NATO alliance is causing alarm. Some sort of understanding will have to be arrived at before the Summit Conference with the Russians in Paris on May 16.

In This Case, Indians Are Better Off Dead

So now some Indians are drawing beads on the television producers, taking to the warpath about the large number of "Redskins" who get killed in the TV westerns.

It would appear they don't know when they have a good thing. Their dispatch is usually quick, while the viewers get the old Indian-style type of lingering torture—endless unimaginative and trite situations and episodes.

Proposition to Charge a Fee at the State Parks

Careless driver: One who plays the hearses.

The fee boys again are rampant in the new session of the Michigan State Legislature. They would make a charge for the use of our state parks.

This proposition, previously defeated by the veto of Governor

G. Mennen Williams

means much to the Pontiac area where more such recreational centers are located than in any other area in Michigan.

This also was the home of the man who originated the state park idea, the late

Howard Bloomer,

who spent much of his fortune in securing the acreage for the first such parks. He also persuaded the late

to put many millions into the plan.

The definite understanding and idea of these men was that these parks were forever to be free to the public. Many times have I heard Mr. Bloomer make this statement, always with a particular emphasis on "forever."

With over 60 such parks in the state, it can be seen that such a plan would create a good number of soft political jobs. In fact, I know of one young man who circulated such petitions with the understanding that if the plan was adopted he would be in line for such a job.

Recent quirks of the weather have only tended to make the ice in our lakes still more unsafe. Talk strongly to your children about it.

"Tell Rocky We've Got Easy Chairs and Everything"

David Lawrence Says:

West Isn't Fooled by Soviet Talk

WASHINGTON—The Soviets are great imitators as well as propagandists, Nikita Khrushchev's latest announcement that he is going to cut down the size of the Soviet army means really that he is adopting the "new look" policy which the United States put into effect several years ago.

LAWRENCE

For there is not much use these days for Russia to spend the bulk of her money for land armies when nuclear weapons are available to threaten attack and conduct what is known as "blackmail diplomacy."

This Khrushchev carried on in the same speech in his boasts about the Soviets' "incredible weapons" in missiles and rockets.

The truth is that there is a stalemate today in nuclear weapons, and all the claims about new rockets and new missiles will not lessen the responsibility of the Soviet regime to refrain from plunging its own people into a nuclear war.

Inside the United States, the "new look" has resulted in a big debate as to whether land armies aren't still important for what is known as "limited war."

Undoubtedly, if a foolproof agreement were ever signed that would prohibit the use of nuclear weapons, then conventional forces would come into their own again. In the present stage of international propaganda, however, while conventional forces are not being abandoned, nuclear weapons are being developed with increasing intensity of effort.

HE MEANS?

One of the troubles with the Khrushchev announcement is that nobody can be sure what he means when he says he is cutting the army by 1,200,000 men.

It could mean merely the transfer from uniform to civilian clothes of great numbers of men who still would be engaged in arms production.

Also, there is no way of knowing what the true potential of the Soviet regime is on the military side, for it can count upon huge forces recruited in Communist Asia.

The United States demobilized shortly after World War II the great bulk of its armed forces from a peak level of 12,300,000 in wartime, but in view of Communist aggression, as the State Department says, "the level was later raised and stands today at approximately 2,500,000." The Soviets claim their total forces will be reduced to 2,423,000 in the next year or two.

It has been suggested that Khrushchev's speech indicates that the Soviet Union is moving toward the "massive retaliation" strategy followed by the United States in recent years.

Although in America this policy has been derided by some critics —largely by those who advocate a build-up of conventional forces for "limited wars"—the fact is that the phrase still carries a world of meaning in preventing a big war today.

The United States does not any longer stress the phrase "massive retaliation" but explanations in "deterrent power." It all amounts to the same thing. One side will not start a war without counting the possible extent of destruction that could be inflicted on it by the other side.

There was for a time a belief that the Soviet Union, with its missiles and rockets, could destroy in one "first blow" the bomber bases inside the United States and wreak such wide destruction that the retaliatory power of this country would be frustrated.

PROPAGANDA!

But since the development of missiles and rockets that can be launched from submarines, there is danger to a country like the Soviet Union that it would receive tremendous punishment if it ever started a war.

For obviously it would be difficult to find and destroy submarines, and it cannot be forgotten that the water areas of the world are far greater than the land surfaces.

What, then, is the purpose of the Khrushchev speech at this time? Plainly it is a propaganda move. The Soviet dictator believes, as did Adolf Hitler, that the free world can be bluffed into submission.

With a controlled press inside Russia and with the press of the free world printing everything that the Soviet leader says, the wide circulation of Communist pronouncements is assured.

But it is apparent that the West is not going to be fooled by the propaganda.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Hemorrhoids Caused by Prolonged Standing

Hemorrhoids, or piles, are essentially varicose veins in the lower end of the rectum. These veins become weakened, dilated and distended, and at the same time increase in length — conditions which may be present for a considerable time before giving rise to symptoms.

DR. BRADY

What is commonly known as an "attack" of piles (hemorrhoids) is inflammation of one of these varicosed veins (scores of them around the last two inches of rectal canal), phlebitis, as doctors say. Almost inevitably thrombosis follows the phlebitis. The common name of thrombosis is clotting.

This clotting begins in the lowest part of the vein and then extends upward in the part of the vein above or within the sphincter, the purse-string muscle ring around the anal opening. Such inflammation and clotting close to or within the grasp of the sphincter is exceedingly painful.

A common predisposing cause of hemorrhoids (piles) and varicose veins in the legs is upright posture.

It is undeniable that piles may cause constipation, but far more likely that frequent or habitual use of physics or laxatives will eventually cause piles.

The title of my free pamphlet (free if you provide stamped envelope bearing your address) is You Need Not Have Piles. The former title of the pamphlet was "It is Stupid to Suffer From Piles."

Most of the laxatives, "regulators" or cathartics used by people with quaint notions of physiology, hygiene and health preservation cause congestion or stagnation of blood not only around the rectum but in the pelvic organs generally. This pelvic congestion accounts for many disorders of the reproductive organs in men and women.

When an "attack" of piles occurs it is advisable to remain off the feet, prone or supine or lateral semi-prone (Sims' position) — to keep the weight of a column of blood from pressing upon the walls of the affected vein.

For the same reason one with a tendency to piles or varicose veins should practice at frequent intervals through the day the upside down bicycle riding exercise, which drains some of the stagnant blood out of the weakened, distended veins.

The hemorrhoidal veins involved in piles empty into the portal circulation (in the liver), and so portal congestion or derangement of the liver aggravates piles. Perhaps the most familiar example of this is the predisposition to piles among those who eat too much

The Country Parson

"It's too bad that folks are so much more interested in getting things than in doing them."

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Beware Facade of Courtship Days

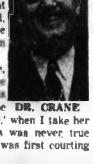

Hallowe'en isn't the only time when people put on a false face. Marie tricked her fiance by that method, but now he is seeing her real personality. He asked me to use this case today in the hope that Marie will read about herself and save their romance.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case D-453: Marie M., aged 20, is engaged to be married.

"But, Dr. Crane, I think she isn't the same girl to whom I proposed," her fiance informed me dubiously.

DR. CRANE

"Oh, I still love Marie. But since our engagement was announced, she has become very careless in her grooming.

"For instance, I'm sure she doesn't bathe as often as before, because now I notice 'B.O.' when I take her to a movie. This was never true of Marie while I was first courting her.

"And now I can see dingy slip straps showing through her sheer blouse. Why, even her complexion now looks grimy and unwashed.

"Furthermore, her teeth are not as white as they used to be, so I believe she is slighting her toothbrush.

"It worries me a lot, for I could never spend my life with an untidy person. I'm afraid she'd be a poor housekeeper and neglect her children.

"Don't all men dream of a sweet dainty wife to hold in their arms? I hope you don't think I am being unfair to Marie, for I love her so much this indecision is driving me crazy. But marriage is a serious step, and I wonder what has happened to Marie."

Marie is like many other lazy women who put up an attractive sales "front," at least till they get their sweetheart's name on the dotted line.

They then revert to type. And if that "type" is a slovenly, untidy personality, the new husband is unhappily surprised.

So girls, as well as boys, should be doubly on guard during courtship. It is only natural that we put our best foot forward at that time. We show off the best side of our personality.

But after the sales pressure is off, then what does our normal side look like?

Are we neat and tidy by habit? Or do we use an excessive amount of slang? Does a girl refrain from cigarettes or liquor to impress her boy friend, but then revert to them after she has him "hooked"?

Is she jealous and uncooperative? Inclined to self pity? Did she attend church just during courtship to win her religious boy friend, but now sleeps on Sunday morning after the wedding has taken place?

You young people need to "case" your prospective mate more thoroughly than a bank robber "cases" the bank he plans to loot.

Don't let your emotional intoxication make you confuse your own romantic "feelings" with the grim facts. So ask your friends and relatives for their opinions. And don't grow angry if some of them fail to compliment your prospective mate 100 per cent.

Maybe they are wrong in their estimate, but maybe they are right, so be open-minded. Seek all the facts you can gather.

Find out about her background. Did she attend church faithfully before you met her? How did she get along in school subjects?

She will be the mother of your future children when you marry her, so you now cast the proxy votes of your unborn sons and daughters. Will she make the kind of mother those children would vote for?

Can she mingle gracefully with people and carry her load of civic duties in PTA, church groups, etc?

Readers Send Comments on Straley Reinstatement

Now that the inquisition has failed and Straley (good for the FBI and all but crucified in Pontiac) is in no-man's-land, what next? Is "suicide" again going to be resumed in Pontiac?

Heinous crime of every description flourished in Pontiac for several years before Straley came here as police chief. It became so rotten the safety director of the time had the nerve to ask for a grand jury. The grand jury cleaned up only the corrupt cases.

Years and years ago the Holy Spirit of God inspired David to write the 64th Psalm. That Psalm is still in effect, including Pontiac, 1960.

Just a Voice

Does Eastman think he's making himself look like a big man by his treatment of Straley. Straley should have a car, and as for the badge not being found, we knew Eastman had his nose knocked out of joint when Straley got his job back. There are a lot of good people behind him and we don't like the treatment he's getting.

Democrats Differ About Candidates

As a lifelong Democrat I hope this party does not nominate Adlai Stevenson again. We want the Presidency and we will never get it with a twice-beaten candidate. He starts out an national discard and we cannot afford to oppose a man as popular as Nixon with someone that isn't equally inspiring. Some of us remember William Jennings Bryan.

Oldster

Why don't Democratic leaders give attention to Earl Warren as a candidate for the Presidency? He believes in our ideals and has had very valuable training. Also, he would not start out with as many Democratic detractors as the other candidates.

'Old Age Pension Is Just Welfare'

Many believe old age pension is given to old people who don't have social security when they reach 65. Many were farmers who worked with old fashioned equipment, and now they've grown old. It's time for them to get $80 a month pension.

It isn't much, but old people don't need much to eat, and they weren't used to many comforts when they were young, so they don't complain. The catch is, they don't get $80. Or even $50. And it's just plain welfare.

This is made clear when they apply. Each child must list his exact weekly earnings and every bill they owe. If a few dollars are left over, they're ordered to give it to their parents and this is deducted from the amount of the pension. No savings are allowed, so if Johnny has to go to the doctor or hospital the finance company is in business again.

Health Boon Goes Begging

Still Reject Fluoridation

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Suppose scientists were to find a simple, safe, cheap method of curbing man's most widespread chronic disease?

How would Americans respond to this marvelous discovery? Would they rush to put it to use all over the country?

No, the scientists declare unhappily, they wouldn't.

They say this because they are convinced the marvelous discovery has already been made. It has received the unqualified endorsement of the American Medical Association, the American Dental Association, the World Health Organization and many other scientific groups. Since 1951, the U.S. Public Health Service has been pleading with Americans to put it to use.

And yet, as of today, threefourths of the American people have chosen not to.

The supposed health boon that's going begging is fluoridation of public water supplies.

Scientists usually shy away from saying that anything has been "proved conclusively." Yet that is precisely the phrase used by the Public Health Service in summing up the results of a quarter century of intensive research on water fluoridation.

This research shows, beyond the shadow of any doubt in the scientific mind, that the addition of proper amounts of fluoride to public water supplies can reduce dental decay by about 65 per cent.

Dental decay is not a terrifying disease, like cancer. But it is by far the most prevalent of man's chronic ailments. It afflicts virtually everyone. It costs Americans upwards of $1,700,000,000 a year in dental bills—and even at that figure, only about half of the cases get treated.

The water fluoridation process which scientists say could eliminate two-thirds of this costly misery is very cheap. The price comes to only a few cents per person per year. And the authorities insist it has been proved completely safe. The Public Health Service says that even if the amount of fluoride in public water supplies were increased 800 per cent over the level recommended for preventing tooth decay, it would not and could not cause any injury to anyone's health.

These claims are not new. Health officials have been calling them to public attention regularly for the past eight years.

For a while, Americans responded enthusiastically. In 1952, water fluoridation programs were launched by 243 communities. The following year, 378 communities adopted fluoridation.

Then a counteraction set in. A small but highly vocal minority of anti-fluoridationists launched a campaign against the health measure. Some claimed it would cause harm; others objected to the introduction of any foreign matter into their water supplies.

Some sincere people were and are involved in the fight against fluoridation. But the opposition camp also includes, according to the American Medical Association, "cults and quacks of all descriptions" who harbor a perpetual grudge "against all legitimate scientific progress."

The AMA charges that opponents of fluoridation have resorted to "all manner of irresponsible charges," including the "ridiculous" assertions that fluoride in water causes sexual impotence and induces abortions.

This campaign has been highly effective. Since 1953, the number of communities adopting fluoridation has declined each year, reaching a low of 145 last year. And several cities which had begun fluoridation were compelled by public clamor to suspend it.

As of today, about 42,000,000 persons—one-fourth of the total population—live in communities where the water supply contains an amount of fluoride considered adequate to prevent tooth decay.

Arthur S. Flemming, secretary of health, education and welfare said he finds it "difficult to understand" why any community would pass up this "proved protection."

"I have come to the conclusion that the program is lagging only because opponents of fluoridation are a militant minority, and proponents, as is frequently the case with new health measures, are an unmilitant majority," Flemming said.

"It is nothing short of tragic to deny millions of children the benefits of healthy teeth, when public opinion polls indicate that a majority of citizens desire to take advantage of this established health measure.

"Yet this is clearly what is happening in a number of communities, large and small."

Wants Sale of Pep Pills Under Registration Law

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI) — Arthur Flemming, secretary of health, education and welfare, said last night that his department is seeking to have "pep pills" placed in the same field as narcotics which requires the registration of sales.

He said his department's crackdown on truck drivers is achieving results but he wants to go one step further. The pills are frequently taken by persons on diets.

Discloses Secret of Annexation

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI) — A policy of no water or sewer services was largely responsible for successful annexation in the Kalamazoo area over the past five years, Glenn Allen Jr., former Kalamazoo mayor, said last night.

Allen, a member of the Kalamazoo City Commission, said another factor in successful annexation was the refusal of Kalamazoo high schools to take in students from the unannexed areas.

Allen was one of four persons to discuss "who wins or loses when annexation takes place" before a meeting of the Southern Michigan Public Works Forum.

Herbert H. Holt, Holland city manager, concurred with Allen. Holt said "an identical policy in Holland was solely responsible for our successful annexation policy."

Try to Abolish Sales Tax Rule

Two Legislators Want School Share to Go on November Ballot

LANSING (UPI) — Two legislators Thursday started a move to abolish a constitutional amendment which earmarks two-thirds of sales tax revenue for schools.

Reps. E. R. O'Brien (D-Detroit) and Russell H. Strange (R-Clare) proposed to put the question on the November ballot. It needs a two-thirds majority in both Houses to go before the voters.

The amendment channels two of every three pennies collected in sales taxes to public schools. Of the remainder, half goes to the state and half to cities and villages.

Some legislators, state administrators and others complain it cripples the state's financial structure.

STIFF OPPOSITION SURE

The proposal is certain to run into stiff opposition from education interests.

O'Brien and Rep. Harvey J. Beadle (D-Detroit) also proposed to raise the state's constitutional debt limit from $250,000 to 50 million dollars.

A similar proposal died last year in the tax-budget battle.

Rep. Willard K. Bowerman (R-Lansing) has renewed his attempt to create a higher education assistance authority to make loans to college students at private and state-supported institutions.

The authority would guarantee 80 per cent of loans made to students for education purposes.

Nebraska is the only state in the nation where the gasoline tax is the largest single source of revenue. It accounted for about 40 per cent of the state's income.

THE LADY AND THE GIANT

By Clarence Budington Kelland

© 1959 by Clarence Budington Kelland. © 1959 by The Curtis Publishing Company. Distributed by NEA Service.

THE STORY: Orrin Applegate, a young lawyer, has just been retained by Madam (Diane Janeway), beautiful, mysterious and rich, to handle her legal affairs. Soon afterwards Orrin and his father found the body of a man who had been strangled in their barn.

Chapter 9

A few months ago it would have been difficult to locate an officer, but only recently the state legislature had passed a bill authorizing us to hire additional policemen. It was not dignified for a young attorney at law to run, but I walked rapidly to Salina Street, where I saw a patrolman saunttering along placidly. He was a middle-aged and whiskered man, who blinked at me as I accosted him excitedly.

"I'm Orrin Applegate," I told him, "and there's a murdered man in our barn."

"Applegate, huh?" he asked, becoming more respectful at mention of father's name.

Clearly he did not know what to do next. "I'm just a peeler," he said. "Murders is too steep fur me. I'll mosey along to your house, but you better fetch somebuddy higher up."

So he set off—reluctantly, I thought—while I hurried on to the home of the commissioner and rang his bell. He was arrayed for church, but he told his family to go on without him. As he walked toward James Street he questioned me, but there was little I could tell him.

'HAUL IT AWAY'

Father spoke testily to the commissioner. "This policeman of yours," he said loudly, "hasn't got the sense God gave geese. He does nothing but gawk. Look, Sam, I don't want ward my property cluttered up with corpses on a Sunday morning. Haul it away from here."

"Now, Applegate," the commissioner said placatingly, "just hold your horses. Don't blame you for being put out, but if there's been a murder, it's got to be looked into thorough."

The ensuing proceedings were highly informal. He invited the neighbors into the barn to take a look and see if they could identify the victim. No one ever had seen the man before.

"Maybe," suggested Uncle Landey, "there's suthin' in his pockets to tell who he is."

It was quite evident the commissioner was reluctant to make the gruesome search. He ordered the patrolman to undertake the unpleasant task, but nothing came to light. The man's pockets had been emptied.

Other policemen arrived—professionals who went about their business somewhat more efficiently, but with no results. No clue came to light. So, presently, the body was carted away to a downtown funeral parlor, we having no morgue at that time. The people who had been trampling our grass withdrew and the two families were left alone.

We sat on our porch, stiff and uncomfortable, for it was a warm morning. I was not sure I had acted correctly in keeping to myself the fact that I had seen a man with sideburn whiskers calling stealthily upon Madam Janeway.

But quite definitely I could not swear to the fact that our dead man and Madam's visitor were one and the same. In addition to this, Madam Janeway was a client of mine, my first real client, and I was not certain of the ethics of the situation.

I was conscious that Lossie was leaning forward and staring at me with silent, bright eyes. She got up and came to sit in the chair beside me and spoke in a whisper, "You might as well tell me now," she said.

"Tell you what?" I asked uncomfortably.

"Orrin Applegate," she said, "you're talking to Lossie. Remember Lossie? Well, she knows you from A to izzard." She wrinkled her nose at me. "Maybe," she said, "you can keep a secret, but you never could and never will be able to keep it a secret that you have a secret. You might as well tell me one time as another."

She was a steel trap for smartness. It was not decorous for a girl to be so smart, and I resented it.

But her attack upon me was interrupted. Across the street we saw Madam Janeway's handsome span of horses bring her carriage from the barn to stop beneath the porte-cochere. The lady came out of the door and tripped down the steps to take her seat with languid grace.

She put up a tiny, modish parasol and held it elegantly over her head. Madam did not so much as glance in our direction. She was a picture of reserved aristocracy and dignity.

Lossie sniffed. "Attorney Applegate's client!" she said quite nastily. "We never had any murders on this block till she moved here."

"Lossie Fun!" exclaimed her mother chidingly.

"A buzzard," Lossie said unheedingly, "in peacock's clothing."

"I thought you children were grown up," mother said, with disapproval.

Our mothers found a more interesting topic in Madam Janeway.

"I wonder what church she belongs to," Mrs. Fox said.

"Probably she's a Baptist," my mother guessed. "Our nicest people go to the Baptist Church."

"You'll find out she's nothing," Lossie said disagreeably.

"Oh, no," expostulated her mother. "No lady would be that—especially coming to a new town to live. She wouldn't be received."

"No, mama," said the reedy voice of Uncle Lander, "if she's got money and connections and wears her bustle in the right place, she'd be received if she was a Hottentot."

Leveler Roads Asked by Prof

Calls Autos Too Low for Adequate View in Passing Situations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hills should be made less hilly in highways constructed from now on, to assure safe passing for drivers of modern ground-hugging automobiles, a civil engineering professor says.

Prof. Clyde E. Lee of the University of Texas said yesterday the need is indicated by a new study showing that drivers of most modern passenger cars view the road from heights ranging from only about 3.6 to 4 feet. This compares with the presently recommended safety height of 4½ feet for viewing the road ahead.

Lee recommended radical changes in the grading of hills in the future roads so drivers could see farther ahead from a given point. He also urged expansion of no-passing zones in areas where they are now used and instituting them in others. Lee addressed the Highway Research Board of the National Academy of Sciences.

YOUNG PEOPLE — Doug Presto, 5427 Servis St. and Marie Cronon, 8324 Arlis St., Walled Lake, both are members of one of 16 Pontiac Center Junior Achievement companies. Self-run and self-supporting, the companies manufacture such items as skewer sets, candles, jewelry, telephone pads, furniture covers, barbecue sets and picture frames. Marie is waiting for her turn at the saw in the flowing production process at the Center, 20½ Patterson St.

400 Youths Manufacturers in Own 16 Pontiac JA Firms

Close to 400 youngsters who find their enjoyment in work are doing business on a grand scale in Pontiac.

They are members of the Pontiac Center of the Junior Achievement Assn.

Ranging in ages from 15 to 19, the boys and girls work out of an office at 70½ Patterson St. where there is a completely equipped shop for production.

The membership is divided into 16 companies, each sponsored by a business or manufacturing firm, but run by the youngsters themselves.

They elect their own officers, select a commodity, manufacture the product, sell stock in their company, sell the product, pay dividends and reap the profits and experience.

EXPERIENCE IMPORTANT

"The experience is the important thing," says Doug Presto, Center chairman and graduate of St. Frederick School.

"Each company president chooses his own production, sales and safety managers. The company determines its product and how much capital it'll need for raw materials. Then it raises the capital by selling stock in their company at 50 cents per share.

"One person can buy only five shares of stock in a company so that there can be no monopoly.

The company then goes into production, builds the product and sells it."

Presto explains that the retail price is determined by computing the labor cost, material and profit necessary to make the payroll and pay a dividend.

The members of each company split the profits evenly, regardless of job or position, and the average wage is 15 to 25 cents per hour. Stock usually climbs from 5 to 10 points at the end of the season, which coincides with the school year.

Four of the companies meet each night, Monday through Thursday, to produce items such as skewer sets, candles, jewelry, pinnie telephone pads, furniture covers, barbecue sets and picture frames.

Rodney Boyle, a Pontiac Motor Division employe, is the group's adult advisor. He demonstrates the use of machines, and is present for counsel and whatever assistance may be asked.

The Junior Achievers parlay their talents and share their experiences.

"The whole idea is to learn the American way of business, the free enterprise system," says Presto.

"We gain vast experience. We learn the complexities of management and production and salesmanship. The girls learn secretarial work, keep books and get an understanding of business.

"Junior Achievers often are recommended by JA to prospective employers, and employers look with favor on an applicant with JA experience."

National Junior Achievement Week will be observed Jan. 31 through Feb. 6.

Teamster Organizer Admits Flint Assault

FLINT (UPI) — Flint Teamster organizer Edward Gorham, 32, pleaded guilty Thursday to assault and battery in Genesee County Circuit Court.

The organizer was accused by two employes of a distributing company of beating them during an organizing drive in 1958. He was found guilty in municipal court, appealed and won a new trial in circuit court, and the second trial ended in a hung jury. His guilty plea today ended the long case.

Sentencing was set for Feb. 25. The misdemeanor carries a maximum penalty of $100 and 90 days in jail.

Pair Appointed to State Group

Name Alma Industrialist and Detroit Ad Man to Development Unit

LANSING (AP) —An Alma industrialist and a Detroit advertising executive are the newest members of the State Economic Development Commission.

The pair, appointed by Gov. Williams to the 10-man group, is Reid Brazzell, president of Leonard Refineries, Inc., and Wilfred B. Doner, president of the national advertising agency that bears his name.

They succeed the late George Murphy, and Antoni Misuraca of Paw Paw, who was named to the State Fair Commission to replace Kenneth Clifford of Alma.

Williams appointed or reappointed 12 persons to various state boards and commissions. All but one need Senate confirmation.

Others are:

Francis J. Coomes of Haslett, to the State Labor Mediation Board for a term ending June 30, 1962. He replaces George H. Sutton of Lansing.

James J. Fenlon of Sault Ste. Marie, reappointed to the Board of Control at Michigan Tech, and Allan R. Sorenson, Midland, to the same board to succeed W. A. Kroll, Ironwood. Both terms run out June 9, 1965.

Dr. George F. Freier, Benton Harbor, reappointed to the State Board for Veterinary Examiners for a term expiring Dec. 31, 1964.

Mrs. Alice Flie, Ann Arbor, to the Social Welfare Commission for a term ending June 30, 1960. She replaces Miss Teresa Farrell, Lansing, who resigned.

Andrew Pattullo, Battle Creek, to the Michigan Advisory Hospital Council for a term expiring Sept. 27, 1963. He succeeds Stanley R. Banyon, Benton Harbor. No Senate confirmation is needed.

Mrs. Salee A. Stinson, Detroit, to the State Board of Examiners in Mortuary Science for a term ending June 30, 1965. She replaces Anthony Wysocki, Detroit.

Walter Ninimaker, Wakefield, to the Civil Defense Advisory Council for an indefinite term. He replaces Brig. Gen. Lester J. Maitland, who, retired.

The governor also designated Ben Goltman of Marenisco to replace State Revenue Commissioner Louis M. Nims as chairman of the State Tax Commission. Goldman presently is a commission member.

Nims will retire from his revenue post Feb. 1.

Ferris Institute Makes Two Personnel Changes

BIG RAPIDS (AP) — The Ferris Institute Board of Control Thursday announced elevation of Dr. Ardwin J. Dolla from coordinating dean to vice president for academic affairs.

Meanwhile, Ferris Institute President Victor F. Spathelf announced appointment of former Detroit newsman Stanley J. Dean as administrative assistant in the president's office.

Dr. Dolio, 42, came to Ferris in 1955 from a post as acting dean of the University of Delaware school of education. Dean 34, recently has been engaged in industrial publications work.

Since 1950, U.S. retailers have greatly increased their dollar expenditures for newspaper advertising. Sporting goods dealers, for instance, have upped their investments a healthy 97 per cent; building supply dealers, 78 per cent; appliance dealers, 67 per cent.

Bequests Funds for Retirement of National Debt

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Mrs. W. L. (Will) Clayton, wife of the founder of the world's largest cotton firm, Anderson, Clayton & Co., left part of her estate to the U.S. government for retirement of the national debt.

Mrs. Clayton, whose husband was undersecretary of state for economic affairs from 1949 to 1945, died Jan. 7 at the age of 78.

Her will, filed for probate yesterday, did not indicate the value of the estate but special bequests to her husband, 56 other relatives and three servants totaled $3,686,000.

The will directed that half of her interest in the Susan V. Clayton Trust No. 2 be given "to my beloved country, the United States of America, to be used for the retirement of the national debt."

The remaining half of the trust went to Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, for the support of medical research to be designated by a son-in-law, Dr. Benjamin M. Baker of Baltimore.

Malik Given Soviet Deputy Ministry

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet Embassy says Ambassador Jacob Malik will return to Moscow next Wednesday to take up duties as a deputy Soviet foreign minister.

Malik has held the rank of deputy foreign minister for years but since 1953 has functioned as ambassador to London. Moscow announced yesterday that Malik was being replaced as ambassador by Alexander Soldatov, a foreign ministry official, but gave no indication of Malik's new assignment.

Malik is regarded as one of the Soviet Union's leading experts on dealing with the West and presumably Premier Khrushchev will draw upon his knowledge in preparing Soviet positions for the May East-West summit conference in Paris.

Kennedy Tells Reason for 'No'

Turned Down Invite in 1950 Calling Him Catholic Spokesman

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) says he withdrew from a 1950 invitation because he was invited as a spokesman for the Roman Catholic faith and felt he had no credentials to attend in that capacity.

Kennedy said Thursday he acted after a clergyman told him that some of the Catholic clergy were upset because he planned to represent the church.

Dr. Daniel A. Poling, a Protestant clergyman and editor of the Christian Herald, wrote in the Herald last fall that Dennis Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia got Kennedy to withdraw as a speaker at an interfaith meeting.

Kennedy said Thursday through a spokesman that he had not talked with Cardinal Dougherty about the invitation. He himself said he had withdrawn on the indirect advice of "the leading church groups which I assume would be the Cardinal."

Dr. Poling' article was in relation to the question of whether a Catholic would be influenced in his actions as president by the views of the church.

Kennedy, a Roman Catholic and a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, was asked about Dr. Poling's article Thursday after a speech to the National Press Club. He gave a lengthy reply and later issued a follow-up statement.

Kennedy's office last fall had said the article was inaccurate.

Foresees Race of Super Humans Living to 125-Plus

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A race of super human beings who can expect to live 125 years or more may be in the offing, says the president-elect of the American Medical Asen.

Dr. E. Vincent Askey of Los Angeles told a news conference Thursday it is conceivable that couples 90 years old will be having babies in the future.

Within the next 25 years, he predicted, man will know how to depress harmful hereditary characteristics through control of cell chemistry.

"Before long, man will possess the knowledge to plan the intelligence, physique and other characteristics of his offspring," he said.

Kilauea Volcano Still Boils Today

By HENRY HARTZENBUSCH

HONOLULU (AP)—Kilauea volcano continued to spew flaming lava from a long rift on its lower slope today, and pushed a wide river of boiling, orange-colored lava within a half mile of the Pacific Ocean.

The volcano blasted molten lava rock and white hot steam out of a 200-yard fissure east of deserted Kapoho village, on the southeast coast of Hawaii Island.

Th eruption, the second in the Puna area in five years, came to a brief halt Thursday but resumed its fiery activity before nightfall.

Blazing fissures spent fountains of lava 150 to 200 feet high before the liquid fire cascaded down the slope toward the sea.

'Satellite Switchboard' Seen in Future

By CHARLES STAFFORD
AP Feature Writer

The communications system of the world is developing hardening of the arteries. But scientists hope that man-made satellites tumbling through space can effect a cure if their prognosis is correct, by 1975 a telephone call from Omaha to Berlin might go through an automatic switchboard 22,300 miles above the earth.

This is but one of the exciting ideas to be gleaned from a report of the House Committee on Science and Astronautics entitled "Satellites for World Communication."

While communications within the United States are efficient and capable of unlimited expansion, cable and radio facilities linking the nation with other sections of the world are seriously overburdened.

Experts estimate that in 1965 there will be three million transoceanic telephone messages — twice the number in 1959 — and by 1970 some 21 million. It would be impossible for present cable and radio facilities to handle the latter number.

From a military standpoint the present system is woefully inadequate and easily disrupted. Radio communication with the important polar regions, for example, is greatly limited by weather conditions.

Radio can be monitored or jammed. Cables can be broken, accidentally or by design. The severing of five transatlantic cables last February by the Russian trawler Novorossisk is an example of how easily this can happen.

The Defense Department wants a system that assures that orders can be transmitted between major commands anywhere in the world reliably, secretly and in a matter of minutes.

The practicality of communications satellites, which could be tied into existing communications networks, was shown last Dec. 18 by Project Score. A message recorded by President Eisenhower and stored in a four-ton Atlas missile which was placed in orbit was transmitted by radio equipment in the missile on a command radioed from the ground.

The House committee report suggests three possibilities in the field of communications satellites.

One, scheduled for completion within three years, is a refinement of Project Score. This is the Courier satellite. Under this concept a satellite is placed in orbit about 500 miles from earth. As it passes over a ground station, information is transmitted to the satellite where it is recorded on magnetic tape. Later, when the Courier reaches the area of the station to which the message is addressed, it transmits the information.

Transmission can be going on at the same time the station is sending its own messages to the satellite. The Courier transmits only on a coded command from the ground station.

The first firing of a satellite testing Courier equipment is planned within a year.

But, says the report, "a 24-hour equatorial time repeater appears to be the real answer to rapid, reliable military communication."

In this plan, the satellite is placed in orbit 22,300 miles above the earth at such a speed that it always remains in the same spot in relation to the earth.

At this distance, much of the earth's surface is radiovisible to the satellite. It receives radio messages and relays them between points thousands of miles apart. A network of these fixed position satellites, combining both equatorial and polar orbits, could blanket the world.

"Use of earth-orbiting radio repeaters offers an opportunity for secure, reliable military communication, resistant to deliberate interference by any enemy," the committee report says. "Successful operation of military communication satellites will inevitably lead to highly profitable commercial exploitation."

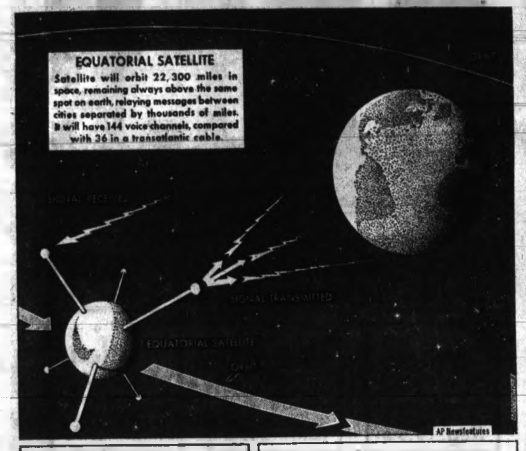

Full-scale tests for this project will begin in about three years, but refinement of the system might take as many as 10 years, the report says.

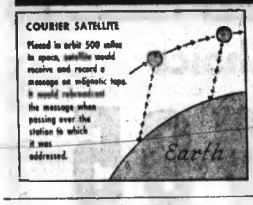

A commercial possibility is the passive communications satellite —an aluminized balloon that is placed in orbit. Radio signals are relayed by bouncing them off the balloon.

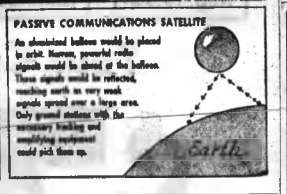

Roy Johnson, speaking for the Defense Department, told the committee that the military communication satellites program cost 15 million dollars in fiscal 1959. About 60 million has been budgeted for 1960, he said. Johnson estimated that the effort would reach a peak in about three years with the cost at that time going above 100 million dollars a year.

The attitude of the communications industry, the report says, "is one of cautious optimism, willingness. . .to cooperate with the government and with each other, but a feeling that no hard and fast commercial requirements or programs can be established at this time, that the government must lead the way and that, later, commercial concerns are prepared to invest large sums in proven techniques and hardware."

Four states entered the Union in 1889. They were Montana, Washington, North Dakota and South Dakota.

ELECTRIC HEAT

can be built into baseboards— or floor, ceiling or walls!

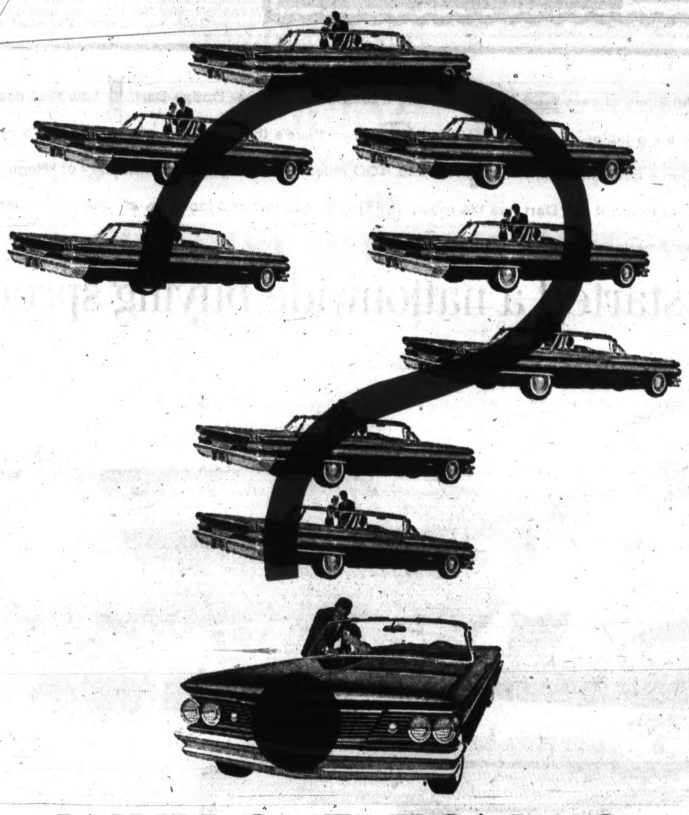

Buying, building or remodeling, you'll want to learn more about built-in electric heat. It's so comfortable, so fast and so clean it makes other heating methods downright old fashioned. Electric heat makes it practical—for the first time—to control the temperature in each room separately. Comfort? Here's such comfort it's a brand-new experience.

Electric heat completely eliminates the need for furnace or air ducts; for boiler or radiators; for chimney or fuel facilities. It gives you this space as a bonus!

Wally Earle's Blue Notes to Make Music at Graduation Social

By BARBARA GRIFFIN

"Winter Fantasy" is the theme of the combined January seniors prom to be held tomorrow night from 9 to 12 in the Pontiac Northern cafeteria. Wally Earle's Blue Notes will provide music for the evening.

Phyllis Burt and Karen Oxley are co-chairmen from Central. Dave MacDonald is in charge of decorations; Mike Luchenbach, refreshments; Sandra Baker, patrons; Steve Spratt, programs and tickets; and Phyllis Burt, music. The class officers, Dick Brown, Eleanor Mitteff, Marilyn Vernon, and Karen Oxley will be in charge of post dance.

Rehearsals began this week for "South Pacific," the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical to be presented by Pontiac Central March 23, 26, and April 1 and 2. Two matinees will be given also.

The play will be directed by Garth Errington, dramatics instructor, and George Putnaro, vocal music department head.

The main characters are Kay Jerome, Nellie Forbush; Gary Relyea, Emile de Becque; Phyllis Suhr, Bloody Mary; Dennis Zimmerman, Lieutenant Joe Cable; Sally Costantino, Liat; Carl Pappas, Billis; and Bruce Bishop, Captain Bracket.

Others are Barbara Alton, Judy Whitmer, Peggy Warren, Susan Putnam, Ruth Bell, Emmy Lou Hardy, Juanita Graham, Susan Dunlap, Nancy Walker, Jackie Bowman, Nancy Shaw, Betty Boone, Edwina Skelley, Vicki Annas, Barbara Griffin, Sue Summerville, Mitzi Schroeder, Judy King, Marlene Beale, Rowena Smith, Sharon Vasi, Linda Brown and Sharon Mathews.

The production staff includes Judy Kenney, student director; Marilyn Tomkins, production assistant; Doug Spurlock, stage manager; Sue Smith, costumes; Judy Prevette and Sharon Guenther, props; Kaye Gaddes, tickets; and Judy Whitmer and Sue Costantino, publicity.

The Playcrafters, the oldest high school dramatic group in the United States, have elected their officers for next semester. Serving as president will be Doug Spurlock. Other officers are Delbert Gibbs, vice president; Vicki Annas, secretary; and Bruce Bishop, treasurer.

Walled Lake Plays Host to Debaters

By KAREN TUTTLE

The debate team of Walled Lake Senior High School will host two rounds of debate Monday for the entire Inter Lakes League. The doubling up was necessitated when Tuesday's contests at Southfield were cancelled by weather conditions.

Following the meet, a subscription dinner will be held in the cafeteria, at which time the Inter-Lakes League varsity and Jayvee awards will be presented.

Three Walled Lake students have been chosen to speak before the PTA meeting to be held Jan. 21. They are Kathy Lundquist, senior; Jim Holt, junior; and Mary Young, sophomore, "Teen-age Codes" is the topic to be discussed.

The adults participating in the panel are Mrs. John Ashby, Mrs. Alfred Dixon, William M. Palmer and Joseph Tuma.

Moderating the panel of parents and students will be Dr. Gerald Brunkin of the Psychological Consultation Service in Detroit.

Topics to be discussed are automobiles, friendships, home duties, dating, money and security.

Senior high exam dates have been set for Jan. 26 and 27. Tests in the first, third and fifth hours have been scheduled for Tuesday while the remaining three hours of exams will be given Wednesday.

Waterford Students Meet With Board on Name Pick

By JOHN TEEUWISSEN

The Waterford Township High School Student Council Board and the Student Affairs Committee will meet with the Waterford Township Board of Education on Tuesday evening about the controversial question of the name change for Waterford High.

The Student Council members, as representatives of the student body, will discuss the matter with the Board of Education and present the opinions of the Waterford students on the matter.

It is now planned that the school will be renamed Thomas Alva Edison High School when the second township high school, Charles F. Kettering High School, is completed.

The final performance of "Cinderella" will be held 1:30 p.m. tomorrow. Many township youngsters enjoyed the Children's Theater production on Wednesday and Thursday.

Waterford's Committee of Clubs will meet next Wednesday evening at the high school. The Committee of Clubs consists of the presidents of all the clubs at Waterford, the class presidents, and representatives from cheerleaders, band, choir and journalism groups.

PLAN GUIDEBOOK

Its purpose is to coordinate meeting dates and collections, and to present information about each organization which will eventually be put into a guide for Waterford High students.

This guide will contain the purposes, meeting dates and other information about all of the clubs. It is intended to be especially helpful to incoming students.

Vets, Widows, Orphans to Benefit by Pensions

DETROIT (UPI) — Some 47,000 veterans, widows and orphans in Michigan will be affected by a complex new pension law going into effect July 1, the Veterans Administration regional office said today.

VA Manager Lloyd H. Jameson said the new law will add an estimated 10,000 Michigan widows of World War II and Korean War veterans who may now become eligible for pensions.

West Bloomfield Seniors Sponsor Dogpatch Dance

By DODI DWYER

The senior class of West Bloomfield High School sponsored a Sadie Hawkins dance held in the gymnasium. Music was provided by a record player for which the Orchard Lake Music shop supplied records.

David McAllister was marryin' Sam and marriage certificates were supplied to the pseudo happy couples.

Costumes portraying the different Dogpatch characters appeared throughout the gym. Betty Conner and Ed Decoteau presided at the record player.

The high point of the evening was a Virginia Reel danced by a group of seniors in typical Dogpatch costumes.

A refreshment stand was set up in the cafeteria and proceeds were added to the senior trip fund.

Northern High Dramatic Department Stages Hit

BY ED SANTALA

The dramatics department of Pontiac Northern High School put on three one-act plays Wednesday evening in the Northern auditorium under the direction of Edna Williams.

Tom Hutchinson, Tom Thomas, Bill Ramsey, Betty LaBarge, Bill Miracle, Joan Andrews, Karen Randolph, Janet Shook and Nancy Watson were the cast in "Murder on the High Seas."

The "Scrambled Eggs" cast included Doris Ellis, Mary MacDermaid, DiAnn Call, Bill Ramsey, Bill Miracle and Ron Hutchinson.

Joan Isbell, Jolene Hudnell, George Fowler, Richard Sokol, Mary MacDermaid, Richard Emblem, Karen Lackey and Bonita Themm comprised the cast for "Sun Deck."

Tomorrow night in the Pontiac Northern cafeteria, the graduating seniors from Northern and Central will have their prom. The theme for the prom is "Snow Fantasy." Admission is $2.50 a couple.

The "Blue Notes" will provide music in a winter atmosphere enhanced with formals and tuxedos.

Patrons for the dance from Northern will be Mr. and Mrs. Harry Santala, Mr. and Mrs. Armon Murtip, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Tinson, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hetherington, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nelson and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bunch.

Also serving as chaperones will be Mr. and Mrs. Philip Wargelin, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Lindquist, Mr. and Mrs. Donald McCracken, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hutchins and Miss Lillian Jacobs.

At the National Honor Society assembly last week the valedictorian and salutatorians were announced. Carolyn McBurney was awarded the valedictorian pin, with Sandra Tinson and Joanne Dembinski being honored as salutatorians.

Sharon Nelson and Charles Hawkins were awarded scholarship pins by Philip Wargelin, principal.

Clarkston High Seniors Select Motto, Flower

By PAULETTE KIMBALL

In the last senior assembly, the Clarkston High School senior chose as their motto, "Here Ezdeth, Here Beginneth"; their flower, the white rose; and their class colors, blue and white.

Also elected were the senior personalities, Cindy Anderson, and Larry Morgan were selected most masserly; Mary Brewer and John Kieft, most likely to succeed and most intelligent; Georgia Robinson and Bob Perritt, most collegiate; Gay Ann Park and Bob Perritt, best all-around; Gay Ann Park and Dick Hein, most beautiful and most handsome; Judy Bates and Rich Caverly, best dancers; Lucy Oakley and Ron Russell, most dramatic; and Paulette Etter and Bob Perritt, best dressed.

Debaters John Kieft, Frank Strother, Earl Pearson, Dave Sanford, Dave Smith, Pat Anthony, Ron Highlen, Janet Tisch and George Miller defeated Bloomfield Hills on Jan. 5, placing them on the first place rung of the Wayne-Oakland League ladder.

Friday night after the Oxford game, the freshman class will have a dance.

St. Michael School Pits 'Teens Against Polio'

By BARBARA ARDELAN

TAP (Teens Against Polio) representatives of St. Michael School will be stationed on various corners in downtown Pontiac tonight and tomorrow night.

They will be selling peanuts and records especially recorded for the New March of Dimes by the Kingston Trio. They will be on the corners tonight from 4:30 to 8:30 and on Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Representing the senior class will be: Kathy Henretty county chairman; Jane Bentham and Patrick Donahue, Junior representative is Judy Stickney. Pam Woollever will represent the sophomore classes and Judy McInnis and Bill Harding will represent the freshmen classes.

The slogan used by the students to denote the price of the record is "Eighty-nine plus a dime — keep the change." In other words, the records will be sold for one dollar. Proceeds from these sales will be forwarded to the Pontiac Chapter of the New March of Dimes.

Both junior and senior girls have been participating in the annual Church Mission which began last Sunday and will end tomorrow night.

GIRLS ADVISED

The girls were advised spiritually and were given many religious talks throughout the week by two visiting missionaries from Boston, Mass., Father Wholey and Father Bollard, Oblates of Mary Immaculate.

The Mission for the men and boys of the parish will begin Sunday night and will end the following Saturday.

Seniors will soon be hearing "smile" and "watch the birdie" as their pictures are scheduled to be taken throughout the coming week at a local photographer's studio.

The high school students attended the funeral Mass for the repose of the soul of Richard Williams. Richard drowned in a skating accident last Sunday.

TEENS AGAINST POLIO — St. Michael School street captains in the school's Teens Against Polio campaign plan their strategy for a successful drive. Their teams will be on Pontiac street corners tonight and tomorrow night to sell peanuts and records. Proceeds will go to the New March of Dimes. The street captains are (from left) Pam Woollever, Judy McInnis, Judi Stickney and Kathleen Heretty.

Says It's Exaggerated

U.S. Doubts Size of Red Troop Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The figures cited by Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev in proclaiming a one-third cut in Russia's armed manpower were met with skepticism today by military authorities.

The Russian leader contended that in the next year or two, the Red military forces would be cut by 1,200,000 men, reducing the total from a level of 3,623,000 to 2,423,000.

Officials here said that if Khrushchev's figures and claims were true, Soviet forces would be decreased to a par and possibility even a little lower than the forces maintained by the United States.

But western military experts don't believe his figures.

For instance, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization estimates that Russia has 4,500,000 men under arms instead of the 3,623,000 cited by Khrushchev. They estimate that along with its satellites, Soviet forces number 6,000,000.

3,500,000 OUT?

The claim would raise to 3,040,000 the number of men the Russians have said they have cut from their armed forces since August, 1955.

In August, 1955, Moscow announced a cut of 640,000 would be made by that December. In May, 1958, it was announced that an additional 1,200,000 were slated for discharge.

Western observers conceded that with the development of modern missiles, some manpower cuts in the Russian forces were feasible but not to the extent claimed. They noted that the Kremlin has persistent internal security problems which would prevent too deep a reduction.

Khrushchev has long claimed, as he did again this time, that piloted aircraft would give way to nuclear rockets. U. S. experts do not accept that view, at least in the foreseeable future, and they do not believe that Russian military men agree with Khrushchev.

Estimates are the Soviet Air Force today has 20,000 planes, with several new supersonic types introduced in the last year or so. No one expects Khrushchev to junk such an investment or, as he likes to put it, relegate it to museums.

Much of Khrushchev's other remarks were sensationalized versions of often-stated Soviet military position.

For example, he said Russia would center its Navy on powerful submarine forces. It did that long ago and now has more than 430 subs.

Asian Flu Hits Few at U. of M.

Six Cases Confirmed; Situation in State Isn't Serious: Health Dept.

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — A mild outbreak of Asian flu was reported at the University of Michigan today. Six confirmed cases were listed at the U. S. Clinic.

"Most of the cases are very mild," said UM Health Director Morley Beckett. "We have up to 30 students with respiratory ailments and they stay for two or three days. It's nothing like the 1957 epidemic when we had hundreds in."

"At Lansing, Dr. F. S. Leeder, head of the State Health Department's Bureau of Disease Control, said the Michigan flu situation is not serious.

"Anyone who caught the flu in 1957 can't get it again, so that cuts down the potential," he added.

The source of the flu seems to have been Detroit, Leeder said, and from there it spread to the university.

Saginaw and Flint appear to have flu outbreaks which have not yet been confirmed as the Asian type, Leeder said.

At Michigan State University, Dr. James S. Feurig said the university hospital was crowded with more than the usual number of flu cases. He said no Asian flu cases had been confirmed.

Still Intend to Convert World

Communists March On; Revise Their Propaganda

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

The Communist Party is revamping its entire vast propaganda machine in preparation for a new surge forward by the world Communist movement. One aim is to tell Communists and their sympathizers that whatever the warmth or chill of the international atmosphere, the struggle for communism's world supremacy must continue unabated.

The Soviet press has published a 10,000-word resolution of the Communist Central Committee calling for revision of propaganda machinery.

In the past few years, it notes, a radical change in the co-relation of forces in the world arena has taken place in favor of socialism (communism).

"There has been an immeasurable growth in the international prestige of our country and all socialist states, along with their influence on the course of world history and the fate of all mankind," it adds.

"As a result of the active, consistent struggle of the Soviet Union and other socialist countries and all peace-loving peoples, a relaxation of international tension has begun to appear."

But the resolution warns:

"The peaceful coexistence of states with different social systems does not weaken the ideological struggle, for our party has been waging and will continue to wage in the future a most relentless struggle for Communist ideology."

* * *

Party propagandists are instructed to step up their activities with regard to "problems of peace and war under present day conditions."

There will be increased propaganda abroad for what Communists call the "national liberation struggle" in Asia, Africa and Latin America.

There will be instruction for all Communists on the "Marxist-Leninist world outlook" with special emphasis on training Communist youth.

All these instructions are contained in the central committee resolution. In addition, there will be a broad revision of internal propaganda. Much of this concerns a need to make the party's world ambitions attractive to the Soviet people as a matter of patriotism.

Studied 10 Years in New Zealand

Bad Air, Cancer Linked

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A massive 10-year study of people in New Zealand has yielded plain evidence that polluted air is a cause of lung cancer, a medical researcher reported today.

A quarter of a million persons who moved from smoggy, industrial England into the unpolluted atmosphere of New Zealand provided the evidence.

These newcomers were compared with native-born New Zealanders.

The researcher, Dr. David F. Eastcott, thus had for comparison two virtually identical populations—the same constitutional or hereditary makeup, the same way of life, the same eating and smoking habits.

Lung cancer was 30 per cent higher among the newcomers generally than among New Zealand's 2.3 million native-born whites, Dr. Eastcott said. But among Britons who went to New Zealand relatively late in life — after living in smoggy England for 30 years or more — the prevalence of lung cancer was 75 per cent above that for New Zealanders of the same age.

Then Dr. Eastcott compared a group who had moved from England to New Zealand 25 to 30 years ago and compared it with a similar age group of native born New Zealanders.

Even though this group of immigrants had breathed polluted air for varying periods early in life, and then pure air for many years, their lung cancer hazard was 20 to 30 per cent greater than in native-born New Zealanders of the same age, the researcher reported.

The conclusion is inescapable, Dr. Eastcott said, that lung cancer is a product of total environment—that polluted air plays a part, smoking another part, and infection and irritation are factors.

Cuba Freezing Loans to U.S. Sugar Firms?

HAVANA (AP)—Ernesto Guevara, leftist president of the Cuban National Bank, reportedly has banned Cuban banks from making loans to sugar mills owned by American and other foreign interests.

An unofficial source said Guevara, an outspoken critic of the United States, issued the order at a meeting here Thursday night of representatives of all Cuban banks.

The source said the move was designed to force U.S. mill operators to bring dollars into Cuba to bolster the island republic's supply of foreign reserves.

Several American mill owners said the result could be that American interests would be frozen out of Cuban sugar operations.

Firm Plans to Aid Tree Planters

FILER CITY (UPI) — Packaging Corporation of America announced Thursday "Project Forever Green," a program to turn idle acres into productive tree plantations.

This year the project will be concentrated in Brown Township of Manistee County, where private landowners will be aided in establishing pine plantings on presently nonproductive land.

The landowner's only cost will be about $10 an acre for tree seedlings purchased from the Michigan Conservation Department.

The corporation said it planned to expand the project in coming years.

A four-point program for the project was outlined as a service of the corporation:

—Survey of property from which owners will be advised as to acreage and number of trees necessary.

—Tree plantation layout by professional foresters.

—Machine tree planting by experienced crews supervised by professional foresters.

—A master plan for developing the township, taking into consideration soil types, wildlife cover and other particulars of land and forest management.

FOR COOL HEADS — Tractor operator above looks hot unlike a space pilot as he tests a new air-conditioned helmet. An outgrowth of research on space suits, the "one-man air conditioner" filters out dust, insects and other foreign materials. An electric refrigeration unit connects to the glass fiber helmet with a flexible hose and circulates cool, clean air inside it. The helmet is being developed by Jamieson Laboratories of Santa Monica, Calif., for use in various kinds of outdoor work.

Checker's Superba Displayed in Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — A Kalamazoo firm put its entry in the automotive field on display here with an appeal aimed at motorists interested in the best features of a taxicab.

The Superba, manufactured by the Checker Motors Corp., Kalamazoo, claimed taxicab economy, spaciousness, durability, safety and comfort. Prices range from $2,542 for the sedan model to $2,898.37 for the Superba station wagon in standard models.

Morris Markin, president of the 38-year-old firm, the largest cab manufacturing company in the nation, said a target of 16,000 sedan and station wagon sales was set for 1960. Production, now at 80 cars a day, can be increased to 110 autos daily, he said.

The Superba sedan is compact on the outside, but outsized on the inside, designed to carry six to eight persons with ease. Features cited include roominess and headroom as well as high, wide doors designed to prevent bowing, scraping and swivelhipping in entering and leaving.

Markin said the new car could be economically operated for 150,000 miles before requiring a major overhaul and provide as good gas mileage as the smaller, "compact" cars. Mileage over the road was placed at 18 to 20 miles per gallon by a company official.

Checker will work through existing auto agencies in arranging distribution, Markin said. The firm now has 50 dealers signed up and has set an eventual goal of 1,500.

The Superba has a wheelbase of 120 inches, an overall length of 199.5 inches, and a width and length of 75.5 inches and 62.75 inches respectively. The gasoline tank has a 22-gallon capacity.

The standard engine is a six-cylinder, L-shaped Continental that produces 95 horsepower at 3,000 R.P.M., and the optional engine is an overhead valve continental with 125 horsepower at 3,900 R.P.M.

The car will make its formal Midwest debut Saturday at the opening of the annual Chicago Auto Show.

Imagine—Gazelles for Babs!

Diplomatic Gifts Overdone

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON—Payola is the wrong word to describe the gift-giving in top echelons of international diplomacy, but the custom is becoming a trifle ridiculous, to say the least.

President Eisenhower on his recent 19-day tour of three continents traveled reasonably light, as giveaways go. His goodies for fellow heads of state consisted principally of autographed portraits in silver frames, a few bowls, transistor radios, and an occasional camera.

His own loot, much more impressive in scope, included everything from a three-year-old Persian thoroughbred colt to a priceless inlaid antique desk. His daughter-in-law Barbara even became the somewhat bewildered purchasing of two Tunisian gazelles.

The headache of selecting official gifts from the President is now with us again, as Ike prepares to embark next month on a 10-day tour of four Latin American countries. He travels next to a May summit meeting in Paris, and in June gallies forth on a barnstorming tour of Russia, Siberia and the Far East.

K TOPS HIMSELF

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, who brought an array of gifts to the President last September, topped his own largesse in December by sending a jet-plane load of trees for Ike's Gettysburg farm, and four gigantic wooden crates full of Christmas tree ornaments and toys.

This week he dispatched Russian Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov to the White House in person to deliver a "good will message"—plus a foot-square box of sturgeon caviar and a suitcase full of still-secret delights.

These latter may have been in return for a bull and several heifers which Ike and his former atomic energy chairman, Lewis L. Strauss, sent to tenory old Nikita after his visit here.

Khrushchev, who was no piker with the President, possibly had his tongue in cheek when he sent Vice President Nixon a handsome shotgun after his return from Moscow.

The GOP presidential hopeful is an avid spectator fan at baseball and football meets, but the one sport for which he has no use is hunting. Perhaps his Quaker upbringing partially explains his distaste, but Dick Nixon simply cannot bear to kill animals or birds.

Always a practical man, his own gifts to the Communist boss were limited to a sample kit showing the various uses of corn, and a shortwave transistor radio which could come in handy if Nikita would stop the jamming.

WHERE ARE THE ADAGES?

Such time-honored adages as "Beware of a Greek bearing gifts" and "The gift without the giver is bare" seem somewhere to have been lost in today's frenetic shuffle. A more popular one nowadays apparently is the cynical quip: "Never look a gift horse in the mouth."

A number of politicos expressed mild surprise when Ike dug into his own pocket last fall to buy one of America's new small cars for the visiting president of Mexico.

Ordinarily the gifts from any American chief executive to his visiting counterpart are purchased with public funds, and ordered by the protocol division of the State Department.

These presents in recent years have run the gamut from sterling silver desk sets, glass and silver bowls to leatherbound volumes of Lincoln and Washington, fishing equipment, telescopes and a reproduction of a Jefferson desk.

Certainly there is nothing new about the gentle art of exchanging gifts with presidents, kings and potentates. President Roosevelt returned from his Casablanca conference fairly loaded down with exotic gifts and sarts from King Ibn Saud to his wife and family.

President Truman received the usual share of presidential loot from visitors, but because President Eisenhower has already established a record as the most widely traveled president in our history, his give-and-take of presents will unquestionably exceed all others.

The lavish gifts which potentates have showered on Ike are probably highly embarrassing to an austerely trained Army man, but what to do about it?

Frankly, there seems no way to stem the golden flow unless Congress passes a law limiting our chief executives to a simple exchange of autographed photographs. Our embassies abroad could then pass the word to foreign governments, and the heady race to outdo previous givers could grind to a sensible halt.

Shortest railroad tunnel in the United States is the Bee Rock Tunnel, 30 feet in length, on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad in Virginia.

NEW DESIGN SPEEDS FLOW — The inevitable clash of pedestrians meeting head-on in the middle of the street was solved in Madison, Wis., with this new crosswalk design. Two parallel lines of white tile extend from either curb, fading out midway across. A diagonal curb-to-curb line between them forms two "wedges" which, city authorities say, shorten walking time across the street.

Dem Senators Oppose 1-House

12 Lawmakers Disagree With Idea Committee Recommended

LANSING (AP)—Democratic Senators today joined unanimously in "vigorously opposing" A Democratic proposal to replace Michigan's two-house Legislature with a unicameral system.

The 12 lawmakers announced their stand in a letter to Neil Staebler, chairman of the party's state central committee. A study group of the committee last week recommended a unicameral setup.

The two-house Legislature, the senators said, "is a combination of the traditional important check and balance system which has proved to be the most perfect type of government that man has devised."

The group said 60 provisions of the present Constitution would need amendment to pave the way for a one-house arrangement.

"The effect of such changes is beyond immediate understanding," they said in a signed statement.

The study committee came up with the proposal after weighing reapportionment plans to get around the Republican stranglehold on the Senate. It was submitted to the Democratic State Central Committee.

Dr. Josiah Bartlett, a physician, was first governor of the state of New Hampshire, taking office in 1792.

Congressional Seat Aim of Genesee Prosecutor

FLINT (UPI) — Genesee County Prosecutor Jerome F. O'Rourke has announced he will seek the Democratic nomination in the 6th congressional district in the Aug. 2 primary.

Rep. Charles E. Chamberlain (R-Lansing) is the present congressman from the district, which includes Genesee, Livingston and Ingham counties.

Alma Digs In for Bid to Attract Industry

ALMA (AP)—This Gratiot County community, badly scared last summer by the threatened loss of its leading industry, has pledged an all-out industrial development program.

About 300 Chamber of Commerce members agreed to double their dues and hire a full-time executive secretary to try to attract new business to the community.

The Lobdell-Emery Manufacturing Co., which employs about 500 workers to make automobile paneling, threatened to move last summer. Company spokesmen said at the time they were tempted by a Kentucky offer of free taxes, a building and property. The firm eventually stayed in the city.

Chamber members also agreed to form a nonprofit organization to buy property to offer any industry interested in locating in Alma and to promote an industrial advertising campaign.

"Michigan now has a bad industrial reputation," T. E. Bennett, industrial relations director of Leonard Refineries, Inc., told the group. "It has been caused by many factors, but mostly by state politicians, perhaps unintentionally. It is up to groups like us to get busy and prove to the nation that Michigan has some good points that don't get in the headlines."

Import-Export Tonnage Triples on Lakes in '59

DETROIT (UPI)—Import-export tonnage in Detroit tripled last year because of the St. Lawrence Seaway, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury A. Gilmore Flues reports.

Flues, speaking before the Propeller Club of Detroit, warned, however, that last year's Seaway traffic to Detroit "is only the beginning" and he predicted Detroit and other lakes ports "will surely experience great growth."

Policeman to Try for Job of Man He Arrested

LANSING (AP) — The policeman who stopped Ingham County Sheriff Willard P. Barnes on his first drunk driving charge Thursday announced he would be a Republican candidate to succeed the sheriff.

Ellis Nemer, 41-year-old Williamston policeman, testified against the sheriff in an October trial, saying he found Barnes drunk in his car on U.S. 16, near Williamston. Barnes was found guilty in a justice court trial but has a circuit court appeal pending.

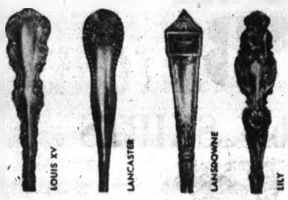

Barnes subsequently was charged with drunk driving on the day before Christmas, with state police making the complaint. State police said the sheriff apparently was picking up Christmas gifts of whisky and had an open bottle of whisky in the front seat of his car at the time.

Trial on the second charge is scheduled for Jan. 26.

Flu Outbreaks Still Crop Up

Vaccines Run Low in Detroit, but Epidemic Not Serious

By United Press International

New outbreaks of Asian flu cropped up across the nation today, causing high absenteeism from schools, jobs and in the entertainment industry.

The Asian bug, which appeared in the United States two years ago and caused scores of deaths, was not as widespread as in 1957. No deaths have been reported in this year's outbreak.

But it has caused a "low grade epidemic" in Southern California and was increasing in the Detroit area, where antiflu vaccines were running low.

Other states reported a higher than normal incidence of influenza-type cases was taking a heavy toll of school children, teachers and civic officials.

An estimated half-million Los Angeles area residents were stricken with Asian flu and other viruses. Dr. Malcolm Merrill, state health officer, identified the disease as Asian influenza, but County Health Officer Roy O. Gilbert said half a dozen viruses probably were involved.

* * *

Actors, actresses, crew members and even producer-director Alfred Hitchcock were laid low with bloodshot eyes and fevers. Work on more than five TV shows and Hitchcock's movie, "Psycho," was delayed or postponed by flu attacks.

Gives Russia Last Move

Red Talk Propaganda, Say European Editors

By DENNIS NEELD

LONDON (AP)—West European newspapers generally saw the proposed Soviet cut in its armed forces as ammunition for Premier Nikita Khrushchev at the East-West summit talks in May.

Some editorial writers said Khrushchev had once again seized the initiative in the cold war. Other wrote that the Soviet reductions were pointed in the right direction toward easing international tension but a hollow gesture militarily in view of the Soviet rocket strength.

A cartoon in neutral Sweden's Stockholm Tidningen showed Khrushchev inspecting an enormous battery of giant rockets and saying to a group of Soviet generals:

"Now we can reduce our armies in peace."

Denmark's conservative Dagens Nyheder probably summed up the feelings of most Europeans:

"Khrushchev's announcement is bound to spread joy, as any cut in the still gigantic Soviet military forces will be a step toward what all peoples of the world hope for. It might, however, create anxiety because nobody can believe that the Soviet Union would dare to act this way unless it had a solid lead in intercontinental missiles."

There was a general feeling that the Soviet cuts in military manpower reflected to some degree lessening of East-West tension.

* * *

European editorial writers called the Soviet Premier's disarmament speech a shrewd propaganda move.

Western Europe Pushing Rockets

NICE, France (UPI)—The first international space conference that ends today may have given a significant boost to the idea of creating a Western Europe "third force" in the space race.

French scientist Pierre Auger said that scientists from Britain, France, West Germany, Italy, Sweden, Belgium, The Netherlands, Switzerland and Spain have been having serious "backstage talks" on a proposal to create such a third force.

The proposal was first advanced a year ago by Italian physicist Edoardo Amaldi. It called for launching of all-European satellites in the next three or four years and rockets in the next six or seven years after that.

By 1970, according to the proposal, Western Europe would be rivaling the United States and Russia in space probes.

The Rod Strong Dance Quartette will appear in concert Saturday evening when the Waterford Township Civic Music Assn. presents its second subscription event of the season in Pierce Junior High School at 8:15.

Classics to Jazz in Waterford Tomorrow

4 Dancers Bring Variety

A program ranging in style from classic dance to modern jazz will be presented tomorrow evening to members of Waterford Township Civic Music Assn. by the Rod Strong Dance Quartette.

Familiar to viewers of the Ed Sullivan show, Rod Strong is known on Broadway for his high leaps and intricate tap-ballet rhythms in the idiom of Fred Astaire.

Strong, who has appeared on Broadway in "New Faces" and "The Ziegfield Follies," brings with him three young women who have earned renown individually in the dance world.

Charlotte Winson is Mrs. Rod Strong in private life. She has been dancing since age 13. Her particular flair is for jazz and contemporary dance.

RECENT APPEARANCES

She appeared recently in the Broadway revival of "On Your Toes" and last year's TV spectacular "Wonderful Town."

Bostonite Marcia Helpin has appeared on the Milton Berle and Ed Sullivan shows.

She performed the "Cha Cha" number in "Bells Are Ringing" and has just completed a national tour as lead dancer in the Children's Dance Theater.

Judith Panzer is happiest when dancing classical roles. She is known for her sensitivity to style and interpretation.

The diverse talents and specialties of the group point to a promising evening's entertainment for Civic Music concert-goers.

BARNES ACCOMPANIST

Accompanist is Rolf Barnes, composer and symphony soloist.

Mr. Barnes is closely tied to the dance, having accompanied Martha Graham, Jose Limon and Paul Draper.

He has been accompanist for Mr. Strong the past three seasons.

Oh, Those Deep-Cut Sleeves!

It'll Be the Greatcoat Look This Spring

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—This spring the term "the great and near great" applies to coats.

The greatcoat look, with the fabric flowing from the shoulder, shows in bulk, in soft, large collars, in dropped and deep-cut sleeves, and frequently in oversized patterns such as herringbone, chevron and block plaids.

Monte Sano & Pruzan, a famous coat and suit house, showed the "great and near great" in both street and three-quarter length coats. Many were sash-belted all the way around; others had a narrow back belt tied under and looped in the fabric.

The firm was one of the members of the New York couture group which yesterday showed spring collections to visiting fashion reporters. The semiannual showings will continue through tomorrow.

Monte Sano also featured the slouch coat — casual, bloused, and tied at the waistline; and a whole passel of white coats in mesh, basket weave, and popcorn textured fabrics.

In all coat collections, the woman shopper will find a variety of necklines — the collarless, cardigan style; a tiny, neat flat collar; and the cape back coat with flat front.

Look also for deep sleeves with sloped shoulders, for dolmans, and for three-quarter length sleeves with turned-up cuffs.

HERE ARE HIGHLIGHTS

Here by individual firms are highlights of yesterday's collections:

Monte Sano & Pruzan — no costume had a full-length sleeve. Many sleeves were above the elbow. Suit jackets were longer, one a "thumbnail" length, and another which inched down to tunic proportions.

Paul Parnes — Designer Beni Claire offered a variety of jacket shapes including the trimly fitted. Tailored touches of narrow leather belts, glazed white linen collars, white plaster buttons and bias edgings on jackets were part of the workmanship of this house.

Hannah Troy — Mrs. Troy checked in with checks in all sizes, colors and textures in her dresses, suits and costumes. Necklines away from the neck, both collared and collarless, looked young and new. The slim silhouette was number one, done in lightweight woolens, handsome silk crepes and silk linen, some with dainty lingerie trim.

Pauline Trigere—the French-born designer continued a master of the bias cut of fabric to shape dress to the figure. Sleeves for daytime and evening were giant. One sleeve, which she called the canopy, was more of a cape. Her "elbow room" jackets were small boleros with sleeves ending at the elbow. Many of the coats for daytime and evening were in her "spiral" silhouette — the look of a series of capes.

DARING NECKLINES

Oleg Cassini — The designer who holds that "clothes should make a woman look like a woman," showed the usual figure-moulding silhouette with many daring necklines. His daytime suits and costumes — with jackets in the short, the long and conventional lengths — made free use of white collars, cuffs and bows.

Jane Derby — A new name for a shape at this firm —

Oleg Cassini designed this "boy" suit of grey and navy glen plaid silk worn with a lavish bow-tied white silk shirt blouse. The straight cutaway jacket has bias-patch pockets. The suit was among fashions shown by the New York Couture Group in New York.

the "ten pin," something like a modification of the bowling pin, with smooth narrow top dropping low to a rounded and tapered skirt. Many day dresses were stem-slim with cape collars.

Mollie Parnis — Miss Parnis, who designs many of Mamie Eisenhower's clothes, introduced the swagger silhouette with roomy sleeves and shoulder area and ease at the waistline. Swagger jackets were cut to cling at the front of the waist, but drop straight and free at the back. Skirts stressed front fullness with under-construction holding their folds or wide pleats in place.

Don't Wear Garment While Exercising

Marathon Questions Answered

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Every year at this time I turn my question box over to questions which concern Marathon entrants.

Q. "Shall I wear my girdle when exercising?"

A. No.

Q. "Is water fattening? I have heard that a woman should not drink much water when reducing."

A. Water is not fattening. It has no calories.

START AT ONCE

Q. "When should I begin Marathon? I have just read about it."

A. Begin as soon as you receive your Marathon booklet. Read the instructions carefully and then start immediately.

Q. "I am going to hold my daily calorie intake to 1200 a day because I MUST lose weight. How should I divide the calories? Does it matter when I eat so long as I do not go over the daily allowance?"

A. So far as losing weight it does not matter how you distribute your daily caloric allowance. However, it has been found that it is much better not to skip a meal.

ANY TIME

Q. "Are exercises more effective when taken at a certain time or does it make any difference when they are done?"

A. Fit your exercises into your daily routine at the time most convenient for you. The value of exercise is the same, regardless of the time of day or night it is done. It's best to wait several hours after eating because exercise draws more blood away from the stomach.

Q. "When should I weigh and measure myself?"

A. Weigh and measure yourself just before beginning Marathon and weigh at the end of each week if you like. Measure at the end of every two weeks.

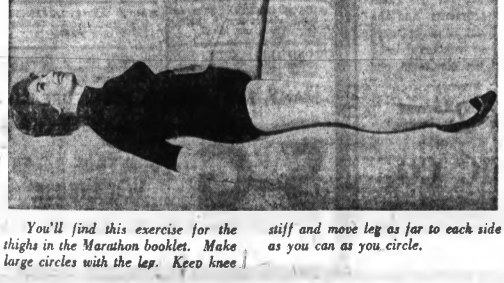

Q. "How long before I will see a difference in my figure?"

A. Usually the seams will begin to loosen some in about ten days. If you exercise, you should see an appreciable difference in measurements in two weeks.

If you would like to join my 8-Week Self-Improvement Marathon to see how much you can improve your figure an appearance in eight weeks, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the Marathon booklet. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Tomorrow: "Marathon Gives You Goal to Shoot For."

You'll find this exercise for the thighs in the Marathon booklet. Make large circles with the leg. Keep knee stiff and move leg as far to each side as you can as you circle.

Drive Against Obscene Books Will Begin Here

A campaign by Catholic men and women against the sale of obscene publications will be started at a meeting Wednesday at 7:30 in St. Vincent Church.

The Rev. Paul J. Hickey, director of the Archdiocesan Office for Decent Literature, will present a program that will transform those attending into active crusaders in cleaning up the newsstands, according to a spokesman.

For further information, call Mrs. Neil Ward, A. O. D. L. cochairman of the Northwestern Deanery of the Detroit Council.

Scholarship Discussed

Beta Theta Chapter of Lambda Chi Omega Sorority met Thursday evening at the Sylvan Lake home of Mrs. Don Wilson.

Final plans were discussed for the sorority scholarship to Michigan State University Oakland.

The scholarship is to be given to an eligible Pontiac June graduate for four years.

The chapter will host the semiannual state meeting.

Four Pages Today in Women's Section

Some of Children's Tattling Isn't Spiteful

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Some months after her little sister was born, Patty developed the maddening habit of weeping whenever she was corrected.

Hurried and preoccupied, her mother would say sharply:

"Don't mess up daddy's paper like that. If you want the funnies, turn the pages until you find them instead of pulling them all apart that way."

Patty, pushing the funnies away, would look as stricken as though you'd accused her of murder—and promptly burst into tears.

This response made her mother feel like Simon Legree, an unpleasant feeling. Ashamed of hurting Patty, she'd try to make amends by taking her on her lap and cuddling her. But as this comfort contained apology and some secret impatience, it failed to comfort.

It merely confirmed Patty's impression that making a mistake was an intolerable thing so that she burst into tears again the very next time she was corrected for making one.

With children like Patty, the problem is always to reduce their fear of making mistakes.

We reduce it by giving them current opportunities to correct the mistakes. Instead of cuddling our weeping Patty for messing up daddy's paper, we sit beside her on the floor and show her how to restore its scattered pages to order.

Instead of avoiding the subject of the tap she's left running in the bathroom by turning it off ourselves, we go upstairs with her while she turns it off with the same hand that left it running.

Instead of getting caught in her impression that making a mistake is a terrible thing, we reduce its terror for her by showing her how to put it right.

A child who is oversensitive to criticism has not been made aware of his own self-correcting powers. Though our cuddling may comfort him temporarily, it gives him no experience of his own strengths, but keeps him dependent on ours.

Instead of helping him find the reassurance he needs within himself, it keeps him clinging to the outside kind we can give him. If we deny it to him, he goes to pieces again.

This is why, if we love him, we take the time to help him develop a record of self-correcting action that reduces his dependence on us as at the same time it reduces his fear of making mistakes.

Don't Give Up Hope, Says Abby

May Take Time but They'll Find Out You're Sincere

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: First of all I am no teen-ager. I am 23. I am not "innocent" either. When I was 19 I got involved with a guy and ended up with a baby and no husband. After this, whenever I dated a fellow he took it for granted that I was easy and I had a fight on my hands after every date.

ABBY

Men think that just because a girl made one mistake she has nothing to lose. When I make it plain that I am not easy, they think I am putting on an act. How is a girl who has reformed supposed to act on a date. Abby?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: She is supposed to act like a lady. After you have convinced the men (by repeated ladylike behavior) that you are not putting on an "act" they will realize you are sincere. If you lose them, consider yourself lucky. You'll know they were not looking for a respectable girl.

DEAR ABBY: We've had a lot of trouble with our son, who is now 15. I guess you could call him a "problem child." He is smart, but he is lazy. He has no boy friends or girl friends and says he doesn't want any.

His counselor at school told us that we should take him to a psychiatrist. My husband says he will never do it because he's afraid it will show up on his permanent record and will be held against him if he applies for the service or college. Is my husband right, Abby?

PROBLEM CHILD'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Your husband is wrong to deprive his son of a mental examination when it is apparent that he needs one. When people realize that it is no more "disgraceful" to straighten out the kinks in their thinking than it is to straighten out the kinks in their arms, legs or spines, we will have come a long way. By all means, take the boy to a psychiatrist.

DEAR ABBY: That letter in your column about the man who was a two-faced sinner and practically lived in church reminds me of my brother-in-law.

He counts the slices of bread in a loaf and tells his poor, widowed mother how long the loaf should last her. And believe it or not, this heel practically lives in church, too. Do you think a man like that belongs in church?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: I can't think of a better place for him.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO WORRIED MOM: The first thing to do is take your daughter to a qualified physician to ascertain whether she is, in fact pregnant.

Justice Dept. to Try Again to Divorce DuPont and GM

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department today announced a continued effort to force E. I. DuPont de Nemours Co. to divest itself of its stockholdings in General Motors Corp.

The department filed notice of appeal to the Supreme Court from a judgment of the federal district court at Chicago that Du Pont could properly retain ownership of the GM stock provided Du Pont surrender the voting rights to individual Du Pont stockholders.

Du Pont holds about 23 per cent of the outstanding GM stock, acquired many years ago.

These holdings are currently valued at more than three billion dollars. The federal government has sought since 1949 to force Du Pont to give up this stock on the grounds that the big holding is a violation of the antitrust law.

After two trials, the first lost outright by the government, Chicago Federal District Judge Walter J. La Buy entered a judgment against Du Pont and GM last Nov. 17.

However, Judge La Buy held that under present tax laws, any forced sale of the GM stock would channel a big share of the profits into the U.S. Treasury and would be unnecessarily harsh and punitive.

The Chicago court said the Du Pont Co. could continue to own the stock and collect the GM dividends, but must transfer the voting rights to its stockholders, excluding members of the Du Pont family of Wilmington, Delaware.

It is this decision which the Justice Department now proposes to take to the Supreme Court.

The federal government effort to bring about a corporate divorcement of these two giants in American industry was started 10 years ago on the grounds that Du Pont manufactured many items used by General Motors and in that situation could not hold such a large interest in GM.

After the first trial, the Chicago court dismissed the government complaint in 1954, ruling it had failed to show any antitrust violations in the Du Pont-GM association.

Herbert Brownell, then attorney general, appealed that judgment to the Supreme Court which held there was an antitrust violation. The high court sent the case back to the Chicago court for a judgment in line with its findings.

The government's action brought an immediate charge by Crawford H. Greenewalt, Du Pont president, that the Department of Justice "desires simply to pursue its 11-year vendetta against the million or more stockholders of Du Pont and General Motors, who have been innocent of any wrong."

Greenewalt, in a statement telephoned to newsman in Chicago, said Judge La Buy's decision provides fully adequate safeguards to prevent violation of the law, and that:

* * *

"Further litigation can concern nothing more than the location of a piece of paper now representing only the bare legal title to the General Motors shares."

Career Diplomats to Change Posts

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower Thursday nominated G. Frederick Reinhardt, now State Department counselor, to be ambassador to the United Arab Republic.

The President also sent to the Senate the nomination of Tyler Thompson, a career diplomat to be ambassador to Iceland.

In Cairo, Reinhardt will succeed Raymond A. Hare who has been nominated to become deputy undersecretary of state.

* * *

In Iceland, Thompson will succeed John J. Muccio.

Reinhardt, 48, has served as ambassador to Viet Nan. He also has had embassy posts in Vienna, Moscow and Algiers. He has been State Department counselor since 1957.

Thompson, 52, is now consul general at Ottawa. He began his diplomatic career in 1931, and has served in Paris and Zurich among other places.

We Talk so Much, Say so Little

Sure Is Lousy Out, Isn't It?

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK (AP)—Have you ever noticed how often we human beings say and do things we don't really want, need, mean, or enjoy?

* * *

I have in mind the act of compulsion, the uttered cliche, the compunction to fill a void that doesn't need filling, the pause that doesn't need refreshing.

Think of all the little useless acts of human behavior, of the cigarette you smoked purely out of habit, of the extra highball or coffee cup you drained without thinking or wanting.

Is there anything on earth more useless than the man who asks, when it's 110 in the shade, "Is it hot enough for you?"

Every day, all over the world, millions of people get haircuts, but is it humanly possible to avoid the man who regards this as a miracle and must say, "See you got your ears lowered?"

The list of pointless acts of human behavior is probably endless. But can't we really do something about

The female dinner guest who can't wait to get home to her stomach pump but insists on saying, "You simply must give me that recipe."

* * *

The two old college mates who couldn't stand each other back on the old campus but when they meet, accidentally 15 years later, insist on exchanging phone numbers and chanting, "We must get together."

* * *

The mother who says automatically, "Be a good boy," whether the boy is off to solitary confinement, a monastery or a desert.

The man who opens the restaurant menu and asks the waiter, "What's good here?" That is both insulting and naive.

The driver who, when pulling away from a traffic light alongside another car, feels compelled to outrace the other guy. And pretty soon we have a mobile battle of virility.

The teen-age girls who can't talk without squealing.

The baseball batter who paws at the dirt with his toe, digs in hard so his spikes will hold and then steps out of the batter's box to get the dirt out of his spikes so he can do the whole thing over again.

The people who insist on talking louder to children and foreigners.

The cousins who meet at a family reunion once every five years, who have nothing in common and nothing to say to each other beyond decrying the sad fact that families get so scattered these days.

The man who can't breathe without asking "What's new?" and then feels put upon if you tell him.

The departing guests who can't just say good night but must say, "You must come over sometime." The implication is that sometime when they're not home.

The grandmothers who murmur perfunctorily, "Eat. Eat." when the baby already is eating like there's no tomorrow.

The commuter who would rather read your paper than his.

The columnist who would rather carp than think.

And Some Dream Up Disposable 5-Year Models

House of Future May Be Movable

HOUSE WITH SANDWICH WALLS—This National Association of Home Builders research house in South Bend, Ind., has no frame, but is held up by pre-fabricated "sandwich" walls—wood outside and in, with a layer of foamy plastic between.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Disposable houses. That's what builders are talking about now.

You'd buy a house, like you would a new automobile. Then turn it in after three, five or eight years, or junk it. Then you'd have a new house built on your lot.

Instead of paying, say $20,000 for a house built to last 30 years, you'd pay maybe $5,000 for a house to last five to eight years.

Others would want no have a new home every three years. At least one family questioned on the idea wants to turn in their old house for a new one every year.

The nation's builders, looking into this disposable house idea, think it may be practical in about a decade. But they have some other ideas that may be ready sooner.

One is a portable house. You'd build it, say, in Virginia. Then, if you move to California, or Florida, you'd pack the house up and move it to your new homesite along with the furniture.

Another is a changeable house. It might start out with a few large rooms for a young married couple. Then, as children were born, the inside walls might be moved, so there'd be more rooms, each smaller. Then as the couple aged and the children grew up there'd be fewer but larger rooms again to fit their new needs.

There are a host of other new ideas the National Association of Home Builders are now trying out in experimental homes—ideas that will be practical for the new homebuilder in three to four years or less. Some of these ideas will be on the market in late 1959 and in 1960.

BIG COST CUT

There's a new sandwich type outside wall that can save as much as $2,000 to $3,000 in the building of a $20,000 home.

It eliminates the whole frame of a house. It can be used for the roof as well. It can be built right in the factory.

All the carpenter on the job has to do is put it up. Some builders estimate it can cut the time needed to put up an ordinary home by a half to two-thirds.

One of the research men thinks a good fast builder will be able to put up one of these modern houses in four to five days apiece if he builds them in lots of 25 or more.

This sandwich can have a wood-on outside surface or a thin outer brick veneer and a finished, already painted, interior wall with a foam plastic center all in "one piece." It eliminates the two-by-four house frame, the insulation, the plaster, the bricklaying.

Then there's a new kind of plastic roof with embedded white marble chips, beautiful . . . but no more expensive than an asbestos shingle roof. After 10 to 12 years, a new plastic coating can be sprayed on and it's good for another decade. No more expensive roof repairs.

NO MORE PAINTING

Builders also are experimenting in their series of model homes with a group of plastic wall coverings that will do away with painting the inside of your house altogether—and permanently.

The walls are washable. Some have the texture of fine wallpaper. Some have more the appearance of rough plaster.

The research room have other ideas, too. They think it's old fashioned to have a laundry room—or to have the washing machine in the kitchen.

What's the proper place? The bathroom, of course, says one researcher, because soiled clothing and most household linen accumulate in the bedroom-bath section of a house.

They want to do away with basements, too, putting the money into a recreation room and more storage space on the first floor. They claim this is cheaper and more efficient.

They have a variety of cost-saving ideas—windows and doors that fit on the outside of the wall, instead of onto an opening. These two items could save hundreds of dollars in carpentry and fitting in building an ordinary house.

They are working with plastic pipes for the plumbing. These are cheaper, and last longer. They think plumbing walls can be prefabricated in the factory, save a lot of expensive plumber time on the job.

They're working on the idea of pre-fabricated terraces and pre-fabricated concrete foundations as additional dollar savers.

Altogether, the builders think they can cut the cost of building a modern home by as much as 30 per cent.

* * *

But don't wait for cheaper homes. The builders expect inflation, the rising price of land, and new gadgets that home buyers now demand will keep house costs about where they are now—or push them higher.

Crash Corvairs to Determine Collision Data

DETROIT (UPI) — Over-all damage to four Corvairs deliberately smashed in safety tests conducted by Chevrolet was less than expected, a Chevrolet spokesman said Thursday.

The spokesman said Chevrolet conducted the tests because it lacked specific data on the effects of collisions upon cars with unitized bodies and cars with engines in the rear. The Corvair has both.

E. L. Harrig, Chevrolet service manager, said the tests showed front end metal on the car absorbed most of the shock and reduced the impact in passenger compartments and the car was easy to repair because of its design, he said.

The four Corvairs were smashed in duplications of the most common traffic accidents as shown by insurance company and police records, Harrig said.

Automotive technicians considered the tests vital to establish the safety, durability and serviceability of the new models, Harrig said.

NEW WORLDS UNFOLD . . .

A new star is about to light the social sky. Her first real party, and her first real party dress . . . was there ever a thrill quite like it? And as she poses, her mother remembers her own first party and her mother making the frilly dress she wore. For generations of mothers have learned that the first party dress is the beginning of so many more . . . from dancing school frocks to college formals. Many wise mothers provide all these necessary luxuries without bankrupting Dad by creating them on the family sewing machine. Have you discovered this satisfying way of providing better clothes for less money? If you haven't, why not read today's Want Ads for a good buy on a used sewing machine? Or, if you're ready for a brand new, do-everything machine, earn the money for it by selling things you no longer need with one of these friendly little ads. Science Extracts Awesome Substance

Capture Queen Bee's Weapon

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK—Science now possesses in pure and usable form a female chemical weapon of awesome potency. It is the chemical with which a queen bee guarantees that she is the only true female in her hive-world despite the presence of tens of thousands of potential rivals.

But let's not stop the wonder of it with bees. Shrimp probably have the same or similar female weapon, said the scientists who isolated and purified the bee variety. Furthermore, they added, it is "justifiable" to think animals as unlike bees and shrimp as they are to one another, also have it.

C. H. Butler, the English bee scientist who first made a case for the existence of the bee chemical in 1956, led the team of chemists which has just proved the case by separating it from the complex personal chemistry of queen bees.

Their feat added to the growing scientific evidence that the much-admired "instincts" of bees, which have given them the most perfectly regulated social order in nature, are nothing more than a series of dove-tailing and automatic chemical responses.

Consider the difficult position of a queen bee. As subjects she may have as many as a hundred thousand workers, all of them female. (There may be a few hundred males but they have no importance beyond their biological function.) How in the world does the queen manage?

She manages with this potent chemical, according to Butler and his associates. She makes it in her mandibular glands and secretes it. The other bees take it from her and it prevents them from becoming functioning females by developing egg-laying organs.

The same chemical stills dissatisfaction and rebellion among the workers, so to speak. The workers have it within their power to produce a new queen at any time with which to replace the reigning one, keep in mind. They, too, make an extraordinary chemical in their mandibular glands—royal jelly.

All they have to do is construct a queen cell, put an egg in it, and feed the resulting larvae royal jelly. But the queen's potent chemical prevents them from behaving that way. The scientists proved that by feeding the pure chemical to queenless workers.

Presumably all is well with any reigning queen unless her subjects have become so very numerous she is unable to produce enough of the chemical to control them all—or until she is too old to produce enough to control even a relatively small number.

The scientists isolated and purified the chemical by a tedious succession of processes. They ended up with waxy crystals which appear to be an unsaturated carboxylic acid that is related chemically to the decenoic acid which seems to be the working part of royal jelly.

They have opened a new door upon chemical marvels that relates bees and shrimp chemically. They're now working to get at the secrets beyond the open door, they said in reporting to the international technical journal, "Nature."

New Bill Permits U.S. to Halt Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. Jacob K. Javits (R-NY) and George D. Aiken (R-Vt) today introduced a bill to permit government seizure of plants to avert strikes that would endanger the national health or safety.

They said the measure is designed to avert economic dislocations such as that caused by the just-settled steel strike.

In a statement Javits and Aiken said their bill would authorize the President first to appoint a public fact finding board to recommend terms of settlement of any labor dispute threatening to cause a national emergency.

If that step should fail, the President would be empowered to direct the attorney general to petition the courts to throw the affected facilities into receivership and appoint a special receiver to operate the facilities in the name of the government.

BIGGEST EVER — Workmen guide a 90-ton section of pipeline for fitting to another during work on what is called the longest, largest, heaviest, deepest pipeline ever assembled under water. The pipeline off Southern California will carry waste water out to sea.

Will Dump Waste Into Sea

Pipeline Laid in Ocean

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A pipeline nearly big enough for a train to run through it is being laid on the ocean floor to discharge waste water into the sea.

Engineers call it the largest, longest, heaviest, deepest pipeline ever assembled under water.

The pipeline, costing 23 million dollars, will extend 6.22 miles into the ocean from a sewage treatment plant. About half the distance has been covered. Each section laid is 192 feet long and 14 feet in diameter and weighs 720 tons.

It takes eight lengths of pipe to make one of the sections, which are put together on a barge and then floated on pontoons to the installation site.

Steel-helmeted workmen on a giant five-million dollar platform then take over. The deck of the platform, 120 feet by 210 feet, is a maze of winches and machinery with a 100-ton crane in the center.

The pontoon and pipe are guided into place below the platform by a tug. The pontoons are flooded, and the 720-ton section of concrete is lowered to the sea floor.

Two divers sink with the section and guide it into place. Over a loudspeaker they tell winch operators which lines to lower, lift or tighten.

When the spigot end is inserted into the bell, a rubber gasket inside the foot-thick pipe walls seal it under compression. The crane on the deck pours 1,200 tons of rock down a chute to cradle the pipe. The pontoon is surfaced and pulled back to land.

Hydraulic jacks then lift the platform's 27-stories-high, 700-ton legs. The platform is pulled 192 feet farther out to sea. The legs are drilled back into the sandy sea bottom and the platform is ready for the next splicing.

The pipeline is scheduled to be completed early next year.

Cleveland, Ohio, was originally named Cleaveland. The "a" was later dropped from the spelling.

Anti-Red Will Head India's Ruling Party

BANGALORE, India (AP)—The political party that controls the world's largest democracy, the Indian National Congress Party, Thursday inaugurated as its new president a staunch anti-Communist, Neelam Sanjiva Reddy successor to Prime Minister Nehru's daughter, Mrs. Indira Gandhi.

Reddy takes over as the party faces severe internal problems, amongthem challenges by new, among them challenges by new ruption in Congress-controlled state governments and a feeling that the Congress has increasingly depended on the same old leadership without making an appeal to young Indians.

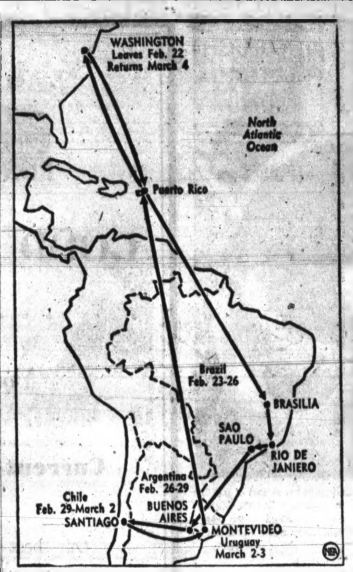

Reddy, 46, is one of the younger men now being brought into the leadership. He gave up the post of chief minister (head of the government) in central India's Andhra state to become Congress president.

He began as a prohibitionist in politics and for four years was prohibition minister in the Madras state cabinet before Andhra was created. During this period he led anti-Communist political forces in the Andhra area when Communists tried in 1948-1949 to establish a red state by Military force. This uprising was crushed by the Indian army.

Mrs. Gandhi, in office only a year, retired as Congress president because of ill health.

Kennedy Pals Eye Nebraska

Hoping for Derailment of Humphrey in That Farm State Primary

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters of Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) are laying what they believe may be a bear trap for Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) in Nebraska's May 10 presidential primary.

Kennedy backed away Thursday from taking on Humphrey, the only other announced candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, in the April 5 balloting in Wisconsin.

He said he will make his final decision only after talking the matter out thoroughly with his brother Robert Kennedy, one of his campaign advisers.

His brother has urged him to stay out of the Wisconsin fracas, next door to Humphrey's home state. Humphrey has said he won't invade the March 8 New Hampshire primary, adjoining Kennedy's home territory.

MAY GIVE UP STATE

The upshot of this jockeying may be a Kennedy decision to let Humphrey battle Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis) as a favorite son in Wisconsin. Proxmire has said that unless two major candidates wage a contest in his state, his name will go on the ballot.

Kennedy is certain to file in the Nebraska primary. His supporters think Humphrey will have to go into this farm-state, especially if he trails Proxmire in Wisconsin. They profess full confidence Kennedy could defeat Humphrey in Nebraska.

Whether the two aspirants meet in other states depends on decisions yet to be made.

Kennedy said he is entertaining the idea of contesting Gov. Edmund G. Brown in the California June 7 primary. Brown, running as a favorite son, has told others to stay out. Humphrey has said that if Kennedy disregards the governor's ban, he will too.

When a wife tells her husband she has given him the best years of her life (quotes Bert Kruse) he is rightfully concerned about the future . . . Money still talks, of course, but nowadays you need a hearing aid to understand what it's saying. —Earl Wilson.

Record Sells but Jockeys Shy Away

New Payola Disc in Trouble

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Stan Freberg is trying to sound the death knell for rock 'n' roll, but he's running into problems.

The satirist's latest jibe at American manners and morals is a record called "The Old Payola Roll Blues." It's a pointed fable about a fast-buck artist who pulls a teen-ager off the street and makes a rock 'n' roller out of him.

THOMAS

The con man then tries to bribe a disc jockey to play the atrocity, is rebuffed and slips out under the door.

The disc came out last week and took off immediately — in some places. A top Los Angeles radio station played it six times a day. The store sales indicated the record was moving as fast as Freberg's million-and-a-half seller "St. George and the Dragonet."

Elsewhere, the story is different. Capitol Records says that between 60 and 70 per cent of its field men report opposition in their areas to getting "Payola Roll Blues" played on local radio stations.

AUTHOR ANGRY

The author, usually known as Steady Stan, is incensed.

"The fact that a Los Angeles station would play the record six times a day, even though it is overlength, shows that it must have some value for the public," said Freberg. "The record is not anti-disc jockey. The great majority of disc jockeys are honest.

"The record is against certain independent record companies that have bought their way to success and have inflicted this atrocity called rock n' roll on the unsuspecting public. Music should be selected on its merits alone, not because somebody gets paid to play it on the radio.

"If stations don't play it, I can only conclude that they must have something to hide. I have been in touch with Sen. Clair Engle and the Harrid subcommittee on developments."

Freberg disclosed that he dreamed up the record late last year on the beach at Laguna.

Car Output to Hit Post-1955 High

Forecast This Week's Production Will Reach 176,655 Autos

DETROIT (UPI)—Car production will reach its highest level since the record-breaking year of 1955 this week, Automotive News reported Thursday.

The trade paper said U. S. manufacturers were scheduled to turn out 176,655 cars, the highest weekly output since the week ended Dec. 9, 1955, when 178,409 cars were built and the 10th highest production week in the industry's history.

Last week the industry turned out 163,740 cars and output in the same week a year ago was 136,127.

Truck production this week will be the highest for any week since June 23, 1955, as the industry turns out 29,799 units, compared with 27,689 last week and 22,548 in the same week a year ago.

The combined output of 206,454 cars and trucks this week marks the highest level of production since the week ended Nov. 18, 1955, when 207,263 units were built, the trade paper said.

Canadian manufacturers will produce an estimated 10,231 cars and trucks this week, compared with 10,027 assemblies last week and 8,163 units during the comparable week a year ago.

Makes Record-Breaking World-Circling Flight

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Milton Reynolds completed a record-breaking world-circling commercial flight here Thursday. His time: 51 hours, 45 minutes, 22 seconds.

The previous record, set last summer, was 60 hours 34 minutes.

Reynolds, a former ball point pen manufacturer now living in Mexico City, said he spent about $3,000 on the trip, including $2,220 for a first-class ticket, and gave away nearly a thousand ball point pens.

He flew in Pan American jets all the way, except for a brief piston hop in Europe.

Dave McDonald Evades Question on 1960 Vote

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I can't even sway my wife's vote," quipped President David McDonald of the United Steelworkers.

He made the remark when newsmen asked him Thursday if he will urge his half million steelworkers to vote for Richard M. Nixon for president if the occasion arises.

Earlier, McDonald repeated his praise of Vice President Nixon for helping settle the steel strike. "I have a lot of political friends," he added. "Just about all of those who are candidates."

McDonald, who came west for a vacation, said James C. Hagerty, President Eisenhower's press secretary, also played an important role in the strike settlement.

To Take Stand on School Aid

State's Administrators End Annual Talks Today in Grand Rapids

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Determination of a stand on state aid was the business at hand today at the annual conference of the Michigan Assn. of School Administrators.

The meeting ends two days of sessions which have drawn some 400 delegates to Grand Rapids.

One MASA faction seeks to maintain status quo with the state this year spending 327 million dollars on public elementary and secondary schools.

The amount is distributed on a formula of $205 per child with 3¼ mills deductable to equalize aid payments between rich and poor school districts.

Another group supports the Michigan Education Assn. proposal to ask the Legislature for a 3 per cent cost of living increase. The boost would add eight million dollars to state school costs and is likely to meet opposition from rural and low-valuation districts.

Author Says Nazis Hate Jews and U.S.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Author Pierre Van Paassen says the Nazi Party is living on hate—for the Jews and the Americans who helped defeat Germany twice in 50 years.

Just back from West Germany, the Dutch-born Van Paassen told newsmen Thursday he believes this accounts for the recent rash of swastika painting and Jew-baiting.

* * *

"Don't think they like us over there," he said. "There are many persons thirsting for revenge. They are in no position to take it out on the Americans. So they pick on their traditional enemy, the Jews."

Dream Television Program Strikes Oil in New York

NEW YORK (AP) — A television station's dream—sponsorship of a key program with a hands-off policy toward the show—has come true for WNTA-TV.

The station's popular "The Play of the Week" was in jeopardy because of inadequate financial support. When this became known, 27,000 persons sent postcards and letters praising the series and urging its continuance.

Wednesday night the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey announced it would assume full sponsorship of the program starting Feb. 8, and running for 13 weeks.

Moreover, said M. J. Rathbone, president of Jersey Standard, there will be only brief commercials, and the spacing of those will be left to the discretion of the playwright. He said the hands off policy also will apply to the choice of plays, their content, and the selection of actors.

The program is seen in the New York-New Jersey - Connecticut area. It presents the same two-hour play each night for six days, and again on Sunday afternoon.

Second Round of Tests in Diggs Paternity Suit

DETROIT (UPI) — A second round of blood tests was scheduled today in the paternity suit against Negro Congressman Charles C. Diggs Jr., (D-Detroit).

Trial of the case was adjourned yesterday after Diggs and Miss Jacqulyne M. Gibbs, 27, agreed that she would drop the case if a second round of blood tests excluded Diggs as the father of her five-year-old daughter.

* * *

An earlier set of tests excluded Diggs on the basis of two blood characteristics.

So Many, so Bad

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—The California Highway Patrol cited 955,159 erring drivers in the first 11 months of 1959. Of those, 283,260 were for speeding and 12,521 for drunken driving.

Kishi Trip to Mark Return of Japanese Respectability

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi's mission to Washington to sign a new security pact on a basis of sovereign equality marks the end of the long road back for Japan from the depths of defeat.

It calls to mind, by contrast, another mission from Tokyo slightly more than 18 years ago which is identified in history with Japan's disastrous decision to plunge into war against the United States.

It was November 1941 that Saburo Kurusu was sent to Washington to spin out discussions with President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull while Japan's militarists perfected their plan to strike at Pearl Harbor. Kurusu and the Japanese ambassador to Washington, Kichisaburo Nomura, held their initial meeting with Roosevelt and Hull Nov. 17.

They were still ostensibly negotiating with Hull when the Japanese launched their Dec. 7 attack on America's Pacific bastion at 7:50 a.m. Honolulu time (1:20 p.m. Washington time).

STILL NO DECLARATION

One hour after Japanese bombs began falling on Pearl Harbor, the two envoys from Tokyo called on Hull and handed him a long list of American actions allegedly aimed at throttling Japan. The Japanese document, prepared in Tokyo, still did not contain any declaration of war but merely said that Tokyo considered it impossible to reach agreement through further negotiations."

Hull, already advised of the attack on Pearl Harbor, answered the Japanese in a tone of repressed fury.

"In all my 50 years of public service I have never seen a document that was more crowded with infamous falsehoods and distortions—infamous falsehoods and distortions on a scale so huge that I never imagined until today that any government on this planet was capable of uttering them," Hull said.

Then he showed the Japanese the door.

The era since the Kurusu mission encompasses the bitter Pacific war, followed by a period during which Japanese-American relations have taken a full turn to bring the one-time enemies into closest military collaboration and economic cooperation.

The United States now envisages Japan as a bastion of democracy in the Far East and an industrial bulwark against the spread of communism in that area.

MSUO Offering New Class on Publications

A course designed to help high school publications advisors is being offered this term on the Michigan State University Oakland campus.

The course is offered through the extension services of Michigan State University.

Instructor for the course, "Supervising High School Publications," is William Haight, a faculty member of the MSU Mass Communications Division and a former newspaper editor and publisher.

The class meets at 7 p.m. Thursdays.

The three-hour credit course covers the place of student publications in the school, journalism as a career, writing news stories, editing papers, and planning of yearbooks.

Tuition is $27. Further information may be obtained by calling MSUO.

8 Chicago Police Facing Scandal

Burglar Squeals, Tells Tale of Fencing — 40 May Be Involved

CHICAGO (UPI)—Eight Chicago policemen were seized early today and held for investigation of burglary in what authorities said may turn into a major police force scandal.

The eight were seized in a predawn roundup by fellow officers after a burglary suspect charged that they acted as fences for a gang of thieves.

All were later suspended from the force by Police Commissioner Timothy J. O'Connor. Authorities said this was only the beginning.

First Assistant Attorney Frank Ferlic said there were a "goodly" number of other policemen believed involved. Some reports said the number might go as high as 40. But only eight had been seized.

FIND STOLEN GOODS

Robert Ryan, deputy chief of the uniformed force, said four patrol wagon loads of stolen goods were confiscated at homes of all but one of the policemen.

The eight seized today were held on open charges for further investigation and subpoenaed to appear Monday before a grand jury.

The investigation, one of the biggest scandals to hit the Chicago police force in recent years, started with a burglar awaiting trail on charges of theft in Cook County Jail.

The suspect, whose name was not revealed, threatened with a 10-year to life sentence, told police he would cooperate for a lighter sentence by "breaking the town wide open."

He accompanied teams of policemen early today as they seized the officer suspects at their home and hauled off goods identified as stolen loot to the state's attorney's offices.

Black's Outcry Shelved by Court

Won't Be Considered Till Body Has Finished Constitution Hearing

LANSING (UPI)—The State Supreme Court has temporarily shelved an opinion by one of its members on a suit to force a constitutional convention.

Justice Eugene Black's 60-page opinion was struck from the public files until the full court has finished deliberating the case. The vote was not disclosed.

Earlier this month, Black cracked precedent by handing down his opinion moments after the completion of oral arguments. It is traditional for the justices to announce their decisions jointly after lengthy consideration.

Black supported a petition by Port Huron Atty. Peter E. Bradt asking the high court to order a convention to rewrite Michigan's 52-year-old state constitution.

The justice contended a convention call was decreed by the 1958 statewide election in which there were 821,000 votes in favor of a convention and 608,000 against.

The State Board of Canvassers had ruled otherwise. The board cited a 1948 Supreme Court decision that a majority of all votes cast in the election was needed to carry the proposition.

Ship in Trouble Out on Pacific; Radios for Help

SEATTLE (UPI) — The Galapagos Islands-bound Alert, with 19 persons aboard, radioed for help early today from five miles off Grays Harbor on the Washington coast, saying it was taking on water. The Coast Guard sent a patrol boat and cutter to its aid.

A message received at 4:28 a.m. said a "suction line or something" had broken and the vessel was "getting heavy."

A 82-foot patrol boat and the cutter McLane were sent to the Alert and a pump placed aboard. The Coast Guard said the Alert and its passengers were not in any danger.

Capt. Don Harrsch, skipper of the 30-year-old converted refrigerator ship, asked that the Alert be escorted into Grays Harbor.

The Alert left here last Friday, stopped in the San Juan Islands and at Neah Bay, and sailed out of the Strait of Juan de Fuca yesterday headed for San Pedro, Calif.

The group of men, women and children were the first of an expected 100 families planning to establish a colony on San Cristobal Island, in the Galapagos group 600 miles west of Ecuador.

RO Man in Hospital, Crash Fatal to Wife

A Royal Oak man whose wife was killed in an automobile crash yesterday, remained in critical condition today at Clinton County Hospital in Wilmington, Ohio.

George Lehman, 79, of 222 Rhode Island Rd. suffered fractured ribs and cuts about the face in the crash which killed his wife Mary, 77.

Highway Patrolman William Schultz said the automobile left the road, ran along a ditch for about 360 feet and struck a utility pole.

It then caught fire, he said, with Mrs. Lehman still in it. Three passing motorists, however, extinguished the blaze quickly. Lehman was not in the car at the time, the officer said.

Mrs. Lehman died about two hours after the accident of a skull fracture.

Judge Can Continue to Sentence Youths

LANSING (UPI)—Circuit Judge Alfonso A. Magnotta was free today to continue handing out stiff penalties to juvenile delinquents.

The Michigan Supreme Court failed to pass a censure motion against Judge Magnotta who sentences teen-age criminals to solitary confinement, bread and water and gives them only the Bible to read.

Last November, the Michigan Area Council of Liberal Churches demanded an investigation of Magnotta's sentences.

Chief Supreme Court Justice John R. Dethmers said yesterday a motion to censure the judge was made and seconded but failed to pass.

Chiefs to Face Dangerous Foe in Flint Tilt

Northern Is Capable of Upsetting Ranked Pontiac Central

By BILL CORNWELL

FLINT — Pontiac Central, aiming for its 2nd straight Saginaw Valley Conference basketball title and 3rd in the last four years, opens a crucial league road trip here tonight at Wildanger Fieldhouse.

Commencing about 8 o'clock, the Chiefs clash with rugged Flint Northern in the 1st of three successive stops at Saginaw Valley cities.

After this evening's engagement, the road swing carries them to Saginaw High Jan. 22 and Arthur Hill Jan. 29. The return match with Arthur Hill begins the 2nd round of the Valley schedule.

Then, on Feb. 2, they invade Highland Park for a non-conference tussle with the highly-rated Purkers, their 4th consecutive game away from home.

If the Chiefs can hurdle these next three Valley rivals on hostile courts, a mighty difficult assignment, they should be well on their way to another crown.

They'll have their work cut out for them tonight against a dangerous Flint Northern quintet which handed city foe Central a 61-51 licking Tuesday at the IMA Auditorium.

Furthermore, the Vikings of Jack Marlette looked good doing it.

By custom, the Vikings are strong rebounders and their backboard work is supported by a well-balanced offense with forwards Gene Summers and Gary Locke and guard Vic Urick leading the scoring parade.

They boast good over-all height, headed by 6-foot-3 center Ernie Carr, 6-2 forward Ken Lotz and Summers and Locke, both 6-2.

Northern currently shares 2nd place with Saginaw on a 2-1 record and the Vikings consider this contest a "must win" affair.

Their over-all record is 4-2, including a 53-48 loss to defending state Class A champion Lansing Sexton. They lost to Sexton in the final two minutes after leading from the start.

PCH, Michigan's 3rd-ranked Class A team in this week's Associated Press poll, leads the Valley race with a 3-0 record and stands 5-0 altogether.

Art Van Ryzin, Pontiac's veteran coach, will string along with the same starting lineup that has helped the Chiefs to stay unbeaten — Bill Hayward and George Fed at forwards, Bill Pritchett at center and Phil Rabaja and Booker Hurner at guards.

"Fred (6-2), his broken finger now fully healed, and Pritchett (6-4) will be Pontiac's big rebounding guns in the fight for backboard supremacy. Hurner has been the loudest scoring weapon in the PCH attack.

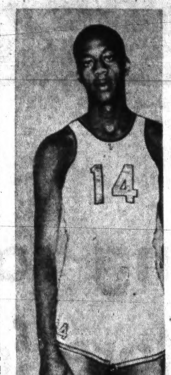

Flint Central visits Saginaw and Bay City Central entertains Arthur Hill to round out tonight's Valley schedule.

Mathias Eying Comeback for '60 Decathlon

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actor Bob Mathias, Olympic Decathlon champ in 1948 and 1952, says he is seriously considering a comeback for the 1960 Olympics.

Mathias believes the Russians could well win their first Decathlon championship in history and would like to try to stop them.

"Believe me, to many people around the world there's as much prestige to that as there is to hitting the moon," he said.

Rafer Johnson, the 1956 Olympic champ, has a bad leg, Mathias said, adding:

"I doubt if he can be in the proper shape to whip Vasily Kuznyetsov, the Russian champion. I know I can equal or better any of my old marks and I'd at least like to make a fight of it."

He plans to talk to his TV bosses and see if a schedule can be worked out. The series has already shot 26 episodes and is committed for 13 more.

PCH Ace Averaging 18.3

Chiefs' Booker Hurner 2nd in Valley Scoring

Booker Hurner, Pontiac Central's roving guard-forward, is the No. 1 offensive reason for the Chiefs' position at the top of the Saginaw Valley Conference basketball standings.

The 6-foot-1 Hurner, whose favorite shot is a jumper from the corners, holds down 2nd place in the Saginaw Valley scoring race after three games.

Playing his 1st year of varsity competition, Hurner has piled up 55 points for a three-game average of 18.3.

This puts him just one point behind Arthur Hill's Dave Tingley, the Valley's leading scorer. Tingler has tallied 58 points in three games for a 19.3 average.

In 3rd place in the SVC scoring free-for-all is Saginaw High's Jerry Tillman with 52 points for an average of 17.3.

Phil Rabaja, Pontiac's 5-foot-7 guard with the deadly two-handed set shot, ranks 8th in the Valley scramble with 42 points for an even 14.0 average.

Hurner, a senior sharpshooter who occasionally drives inside for easy layups when his eye grows cold outside, is tied with Ernie Thompson of Saginaw for 1st place in the all-games scoring battle.

Both Hurner and Thompson, 6-3 sophomore center, have bagged 95 points in five games for an average of 19.0. Tingler is runnerup in the all-games department with 103 points in six outings for a 17.1 average followed by Tillman who has netted 82 in five for 16.4.

Rabaja and teammate Bill Pritchett, 6-4 junior center, each owns a berth among the all-games leaders. Pritchett occupies 8th spot with 38 points for an average of 11.6 while Rabaja is tied for 10th place with 50 points, a 10.0 average.

The highest single-game scoring effort so far this season by a Valley cager was Thompson's 34-point spree against Midland in non-conference play.

West Happy Favorite in Pro Bowl Sunday

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Surprisingly Coach Red Hickey doesn't mind that his Western Conference team is favored by 3½ points in the Pro Bowl football game sunday.

And to really make a radical departure from the coach's pessimistic tradition, he adds: "We love to be the favorite in any game.

"The fellows who make the odds know what they're doing. I hope they're right again this time."

Hickey was asked yesterday to give his analysis of the game.

"The Pro Bowl is always a passing duel," he replied. "The team that gives its passer the better protection will win."

The San Francisco coach, affiliated as a player and coach with the Los Angeles Rams, also noted he will have another advantage.

"I am well acquainted with the personnel of the other club," Hickey said. "Half of them came from the Rams."

The East squad is sprinkled with Ram castoffs who have made good with other teams, notably quarterback Norm Van Brocklin, tackles Frank Fuller and Ken Panfil, defensive end Andy Robustelli, halfback Jimmy Orr and defensive halfback Dean Derby.

* * *

East Coach Buck Shaw of the Philadelphia Eagles says he plans to loosen up the West defense with passes by Van Brocklin and Bobby Layne and then shoot fullback Jimmy Brown up the middle.

Shaw said he's impressed by his squad's enthusiasm.

"It is amazing," he reflected, "what a pro football player will do for 200 bucks."

The winners will get $300 apiece, the losers $200 less.

A crowd of more than 50,000 is expected to see the 10th annual Pro Bowl classic in Memorial Coliseum. The contest will be televised nationally at 4 p.m., EST, by NBC, with the Los Angeles area blacked out.

Basilio Plans Welter Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — Carmen Basilio will try to win back the welterweight title he gave up when he won the middleweight crown from Ray Robinson.

Basilio subsequently stripped of the 160-pound title in a rematch with Sugar Ray, is going to box welterweight champ Don Jordan of Los Angeles, June 10 at Syracuse.

With Basilio going back into the 147-pound class, Gene Fullmer, the National Boxing Assn. champion, can concentrate on proposed matches with Ray Robinson, the New York and Massachusetts champion, and Joey Giardello of Philadelphia.

Marv Jenson, Fullmer's manager, said he had been offered $175,000 to box Robinson in Madison Square Garden, Monday May 16 with closed circuit television. He said he wanted $200,000 or an even split of 65 per cent of the gate with Robinson. He also said he would demand a $25,000 appearance bond from Robinson, who defends his version of the title against Paul Pender in Boston Jan. 22.

NCAA Council Polled on Play in Cotton Bowl

GUNNISON, Colo. (AP) — The 18 members of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. Council are being polled by mail to determine if the NCAA will investigate charges that Texas played dirty football in the Cotton Bowl game lost to Syracuse 23-14.

Herbert J. Dorricott of Western State College here, president of the NCAA, said he was acting on a request of Dr. Logan Wilson, president of the University of Texas, for an investigation of the charges.

Texas was accused of dirty play in reports by various news media. Wilson termed the accusations "irresponsible, false and slanderous" in asking the NCAA probe.

Dorricott said if two-thirds of the NCAA Council members decide in favor of an investigation the matter will be referred to the NCAA Committee on Ethics.

Hawks Lose Again, 119-112

By The Associated Press

The St. Louis Hawks are leading the National Basketball Assn.'s Western division by eight games but you would never guess it by glancing at their record against Eastern division clubs.

The Hawks' over-all record is 22-18. Against Eastern teams it is 10-12. They dropped their third in as many nights to an Eastern team last night when Syracuse broke out of a 111-111 deadlock with eight points in the last two minutes and 44 seconds for a 119-112 victory.

Against Syracuse and Philadelphia, the Hawks have broken even in six games each. They hold a 3-1 margin over the New York Knicks but have beaten the Boston Celtics only once in six clashes.

A Western representative also was beaten in the only other game when the Knicks turned back the Minneapolis Lakers at St. Paul 131-126 with Willie Naulls and Richie Guerin combining for 66 points. Naulls got 36 and Guerin 30.

Elgin Baylor, who fouled out three minutes before the end of the game, was high for the Lakers with 26. On his departure the Knicks broke out of a 119-all deadlock and won going away.

Bob Pettit scored 38 points and Cliff Hagan 36 for the Hawks but the Nationals had a better balanced attack, topped by Dolph Schayes' 29 and George Yardley's 25.

NHL Ace Ties Record

MONTREAL (AP) — Bernie Geoffrion, Montreal Canadiens' right winger, tied the National Hockey League record for goals in a game Thursday night when he scored five times in a 9-3 victory over Chicago Black Hawks.

Geoffrion's feat matched the record set by Maurice Richard of the Canadiens in 1944 and Joe Malone of the Quebec Bulldogs in 1920.

Dodgers 'Comeback' Story of 1959

By The Associated Press

A veteran baseball writer walked up to Walter Alston in Vero Beach, Fla. last March. "Look Walt," he told the Los Angeles Dodger manager, "I think your club has a good chance to win the pennant. What do you think?"

* * *

"I believe we'll finish in the first division," replied Alston. "But I don't know about the pennant. After all we were seventh last year and if we finish among the first four I guess we'll be doing all right."

The Dodgers startled Alston, most of the experts and the fans who had seen them wind up only ahead of last-place Philadelphia in their first season in Los Angeles in 1958. Bolstered by the acquisition of Wally Moon from St. Louis plus pitchers Roger Craig and Larry Sherry from minor league affiliates, the Dodgers beat Milwaukee in a playoff for the National League pennant and downed the Chicago White Sox in a six-game World Series.

Although several other teams and individuals rebounded from poor seasons, the Dodgers made the comeback of the year for 1959 in the opinion of the 114 sports-writers and broadcasters participating in the annual Associated Press poll.

The balloting today showed the Dodgers overwhelming choices. They received 72 first place votes and 262 points on a basis of three points for a first place vote, two for second place and one for third.

Baltimore pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm was second with 11 first place votes and 47 points. The knuckleballer was followed by the Green Bay Packers 35 points, the Georgia football team 29, pitcher Early Wynn of the Chicago White Sox 18 and Gene Fullmer, the National Boxing Assn.'s middleweight kingpin, 16.

Wilhelm, 36, bounced back from a 3-10 record with the Orioles and Cleveland in 1958, to win 15 games and the American League's earned run championship. He was placed on the mid-season all-star team by Yankee Manager Casey Stengel.

Green Bay, under new coach Vince Lombardi, won seven games and lost five to finish in a third place tie in the Western Conference of the National Football League. In 1958, the Packers posted a 1-10-1 record.

The comeback leaders (first place votes in parentheses):

	Points
1. Los Angeles, baseball (72)	262
2. Hoyt Wilhelm, baseball (11)	47
3. Green Bay, NFL (6)	35
4. Georgia, football (4)	29
5. Early Wynn, baseball (2)	18
6. Gene Fullmer (2)	16
7. Baltimore, NFL (1)	13
8. University of Washington, football	11
9. Wally Moon, baseball (1)	10
10. Ingemar Johansson, boxing (1)	9

Auburn to Get Back in League Graces

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — The Southeastern Conference Executive Committee voted Thursday to end Auburn's conference probation Sept. 1, 1960.

Conference athletic directors and coaches surveyed the problems of expanding the 12-member SEC and passed the issue on to the school presidents who meet Friday.

* * *

Florida is believed to favor adding Miami and Florida State to the Dixie dozen. There also were reports that Alabama wanted Houston admitted. But the word here at the annual meeting was that there would be no expansion.

* * *

Auburn was penalized by the conference and the NCAA for football recruiting violations.

State Declares Legion Awards Were Too Much

Students of 3 Detroit Schools Get Hearing Early in February

By United Press International

The Michigan High School Athletic Association has ruled 14 athletes from three Detroit schools ineligible for friends they accepted 28 jackets in commemoration of their victory in the American Legion National basketball tournament last summer.

The boys all were members of the Edison Post Legion team which won the baseball crown. They are students at Catholic Central, Western and Benedictine.

Officials of the baseball team and the boys' parents said the MHSAA action apparently was due to a "misunderstanding" since the boys had worked 11 hours each to pay for the jackets.

An MHSAA rule says athletes are not to take gifts valued in excess of $3.

The boys were declared ineligible pending a hearing the first week of February.

Karl Reuschle, manager of the baseball team, said the boys had been sent out to work for the Salvation Army to pay for the jackets and that it was understood the plan was all right with the MHSAA.

But he said "now we hear" that the plan did not have approval of Charles Forsythe, State Director of Athletics.

The 14 boys suspended included Jerry Morrissey, Benedictine's top basketball scorer, and Rick Miller, star basketball guard for Western.

Others were George Hanley, Arnold Jent, Mark Esper, Terry Barden, Bill Marciniak, Denny Sinclair, Gerry Ratkewicz, John Bevins and Ed Hagen, all of Catholic Central, Ron Balistreo and Bill Takacs of Western and Fred Fleming of Benedictine.

Cal Coaching Job Is Still Undecided

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Just who will coach the California football team next fall remains anybody's guess.

Still figured at the head of the list are former Navy Coach Eddie Erdelatz and Dee Andros, who assisted Pete Elliott at California the past three seasons.

Elliott, who resigned to go to Illinois, put in a good word for Andros.

Also there's increased speculation that Johnny Ralston, an assistant at California before becoming head coach at Utah State a year ago, has re-entered the picture. Utah was 4-5 the past season.

Yesterday Otto Graham dropped out of the scene, the day after Len Casanova of Oregon said he would stay where he is.

All-Star Pin Points

THE BROKEN-FIELD APPROACH
By BUDDY BOMAR

When a bowler says he would like to follow in my footsteps, I tell him it might be a little tricky to do this literally.

My path to the final line has been described as that of a halfback doing some broken-field running in football.

The approach I use in national tournaments is not the one I suggest in Brunswick clinics. As in most other walks of life, it is better to follow the straight and narrow when delivering a bowling ball.

Letting one's footsteps wander during the approach makes it more difficult to finish at the same spot each time. This, of course, is vital to good bowling.

Either a three, four or five-step delivery is permissable. For those who choose an odd number of steps the first one should be made with the left foot, while those who use an even number must step off with the right foot. The purpose is to finish with the weight on the left leg and the right leg behind and out of the way of the ball.

The first step should be slow and fairly short. Other steps should be longer and it is natural to increase speed somewhat as the ball release point gets closer.

* * *

Make it a habit to notice where the left foot rests after delivery. It should always be the same for strike balls and the shoe should be pointing at the pins.

USAC Talks About Safety Measures

INDIANAPOLIS, (AP)—Harlan Fengler, U.S. Auto Club chief steward, was named Thursday to head a new board to prove all serious crashes in the Indianapolis 500-mile race. Fengler and six others were appointed by USAC President Thomas W. Binford, as the auto racing body opened a three-day meeting here.

Several safety measures — including compulsory foot loops on throttles, requiring crewmen involved in refueling operations to wear fireproof clothing and mandatory annual replacement of safety belts—gained tentative approval.

No decision was reached on mandatory shoulder harnesses, specifications for roll bars, compulsory firewalls between engine and fuel tanks or on prohibiting a grease fitting or other sharp object adjacent to a tire.

Driver Troy Ruttman of Lynwood, Calif., winner of the 1952 Memorial Day race, will be at the board meeting Friday to present his case for reinstatement. He was suspended last January for a year for "conduct detrimental to auto racing."

Northern Five Has Work Cut Out Here Tonight

Duel Farmington for First Place in Inter-Lakes

Waterford Invades Berkley; Walled Lake Hosts Southfield

By CHUCK ABAIR

This could very well be the night they separate the men from the boys in the Inter-Lakes basketball race.

The most important game of the season will be the attraction at the Pontiac Northern gym, where the Huskies meet the Farmington Falcons.

Waterford, needing to bounce back into the victory column to keep its championship hopes alive, will be guest of unpredictable Berkley as Southfield and Walled Lake tangle to complete the slate.

On the records, Northern and Farmington are even all around each 3-0 in loop play and only .500 over-all. PNH is 3-3 and the Falcons 4-4.

But Farmington will be the favorite for a few reasons. The charges of Bob Burtsch were preseason picks and have lived up to that billing as far as league play goes. They will have a bright advantage and probably the outstanding individual on the floor in Harvey Chapman. FHS is also fresh from a sound trouncing of a Waterford team that was figured to be a title contender.

The Huskies have played good ball in spots but have lacked accuracy on shooting every time out despite the steady scoring of hard-working Steve Thompson (12.8), Bruce Norton (10.8) and Mike Fedynik (10.5).

A big night on shooting and continued good board work by Thompson and Dennis Vincent could leave the locals alone atop the standings tomorrow.

Farmington has actually been an up-and-down team as has Northern except for the I-L. The Falcons bowed to PNH victim Southfield in a holiday tourney and was beaten by Northville, only a fair "B" live in December.

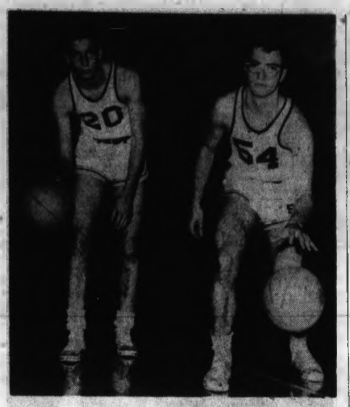

The veteran Chapman, a 15 per cent game point-getter, could be the difference. Comparative scores against common loop foes Walled Lake and Berkley favor Northern by a wide margin.

Waterford should be able to get back in gear if the Skippers can snap out of the doldrums left by a severe beating in a key duel a week ago.

The Skippers would deadlock the loser of the game at Northern by winning. They have won three of five season starts.

Big Bill Bryce will have to bounce back from a below par showing if Waterford is to stay in the race. Bob Newman was the only guy in double numbers last time out. Few games are won these days on 44 points. Berkley is 0-3 in the league and 2-6 all season.

Walled Lake is starved for a victory with four successive setbacks in a 1-5 record although Bill Allen has compiled a 15.3 point mark. Southfield has been improving and may not be very helpful to the Viking cause.

FALCON PAIR — Two of the Falcons Rochester coach Gene Kenley will be sending into action tonight at Romeo will be Jim Thompson, left, and Dwight Swords. The game will open the Tri-County League season with both teams having trouble getting started thus far.

Rochester at Romeo; Avon, Clarkston Fives Home

Tri-County Race Begins

It will be a happy night for the teams of the Tri-County League when they finally get to play each other on another full night of prep basketball around the area this evening.

The feature of a pair of contests will have Rochester at Romeo. Lapeer visits L'Anse Creuse in the other game.

It's with good reason the quartet has been anxious to get into league play since they have had much poor success trying to beat anyone outside. Only three victories have materialized from a total of 24 "outside" contests. Romeo is 2-4, Rochester 1-4, Lapeer 0-6, and L'Anse 0-7.

As Lapeer skipper Gene Herpinstall put it recently, "We could lose all of our other games and yet be league champion."

The consensus has tonight's foes at Romeo favored but there is little to go on.

Plenty of loop play is slated elsewhere although 1st place teams Birmingham of the Eastern Michigan and Ortonville of the South Central are resting.

Ferndale should return to normal by whipping Hazel Park, Port Huron and Mt. Clemens clash hoping to stay in contention while East Detroit should be assured a share of second by tripping Royal Oak Kimball in the EML.

Oxford hopes to take its anger of a salvage trouncing by Ortonville out on Millington. Both teams missed Tuesday warmups because of weather postponements. North Branch meets Imlay City also in the SCL.

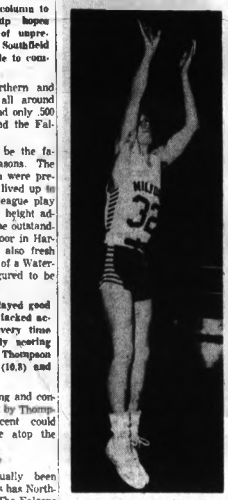

Upsets could stir up the Wayne-Oakland in good shape. A good possibility may be at Clarkston where the Wolves, way over due for a good night, entertain powerful Brighton. Bloomfield Hills will be trying to do the same to front-running Clarenceville and host Northville to Holly. West Bloomfield at Milford rates a toss-up although the Redskins are the only team without a victory.

Every game is a big one for Avondale as the Yellowjackets try to stay close behind Troy. Tonight Dick Bye sends his charges against visiting Clawson. Troy goes to Lake Orion where the Dragons are in the mood for pulling a surprise. Oak Park and Madison match 0-5 slates.

Armada should make New Haven its 4th Southern Thumb victim in five outings as the chief threat to unbeaten Anchor Bay. The Bay gang visits Almont. Memphis at Brown City and Capac vs Dryden complete the slate.

Also on the schedule are the following: Royal Oak Dondero host to Highland Park, Shrine of that city at Wyandotte Mt. Carmel, Warren at Utica, Country Day at Lutheran East, Farmington OLS home to meet Wayne St. Mary, unbeaten Lamphere vs Harper Woods and Marlette at Bad Axe.

The distaff linksters fired preliminary rounds yesterday and helped dedicate Sea Island's new retreat nine. The invitational will be played over the retreat, seaside and plantation nines, with each contestant playing all three twice.

'Hat Trick' Features Crane Hockey Victory

Cranbrook's Andy Billedston's three-goal (hat trick) effort led the Cranes to a 7-2 victory over Detroit St. Benedictine Thursday afternoon. Win gave Cranbrook (4-0) a share of the International High School Hockey League lead with Catholic Central.

Tom Sulenik contributed two goals, and Bill Mosher and Larry DeWitt each had one counter.

Game was played on the Cranbrook rink.

Dallas Drops '60 Open

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The Dallas Open golf tournament won't be held this year but sponsors said they were making plans to revive it in 1961.

The fall tournament is being dropped this year in order to switch it over to a spring event.

OLSM at Home, Shamrocks Away Today

SCL Title Race Tightens

Battle lines in the close basketball title race in the Suburban Catholic League were drawing tighter today, as co-leaders Orchard Lake St. Mary and Highland Park St. Benedict prepared to meet tough competition.

Only one of the Pontiac area clubs, however, will be in action before home folks, tonight. The Eaglets entertain a surprisingly strong and vastly improved Crusader club from St. Clement (2-2) Center Line, in the long court at Orchard Lake.

Rev. John Rakocy's five, a game behind most other SCL clubs (4-0), aims to square its mark with St. Benedict's (3-0), and is favored to do just that. Game time is 8:15 o'clock.

Shamrocks of St. Michael travel to Detroit St. Rita (3-2) tonight, seeking their 5th victory in six starts.

City parochial fans get their first 1960 look at the Ravens on Saturday night, at Pontiac Northern High's court, when the St. Benedict (5-0) club tangles with St. Frederick, a club that handed the visitors two stunning defeats last winter.

Rams are having a rough time this winter, with but one win in six starts, and there was a possibility that little Mike Reed, ace scorer, would not start Saturday. Mike strained a back muscle in practice, and was being treated today by a physician. However, coach Gene Wright was hopeful the diminutive whiz would threw off the disability by game time.

Eaglets have been hit by a touch of flu, but should be ready, Rev. Rakocy said this morning. He planned to start Don Dunzynski and Milton Wojtowicz at forwards, Tom Tomaszewski at center and Glenn Haag and Stan Krogulecki at the guards.

Shamrocks were at full strength for the Irish, and anticipate a rough time at St. Rita. However, the steady-going north siders are rated the edge. Jim Niebauer's starters will include one change, Art Robak going in place of Al Tunny. Other starters are Tom Dabbs, George Drake, Pat Campbell and Don Mountain.

St. Frederick also will make a change or two, with O'Reilly in Reed's spot (if Mike can't start), Jim Kennedy and Rudy Yapo at forwards and Phil Bieri at the pivot. Dave Lufkin is the other guard.

Largest Winter Show for PKC

539 Dogs Listed for Jan. 24 Event; Entries Include 67 Breeds

The biggest winter dog show in Pontiac Kennel Club history apparently is assured as entry lists closed for the Jan. 24 event.

Show officials reported today that there were 539 animals from 67 different breeds on the lists, led by entries in the working group. Rough collies comprised the largest breed of this group.

Top award will the The Pontiac Press best-in-show trophy, won last year by an English springer spaniel.

Sporting group, headed by Irish setters, non-sporting group with the largest breed the basset hounds, toys, led by toy poodles, and the terriers, with miniature schnauzers, were lined up in that order. Poodles of all types comprise the individual top breed. Judge is Ernie Ferguson of Hollywood.

There is only one kerry blue, where last year this terrier class had a dozen or more, all from the Eileen McEachern Kennel breeding stock at Toronto. Death of Mrs. McEachern recently, eliminated her usual entries.

Obedience class has a full list of 29 dogs. This competition is always one of the interesting show features.

Show will be held again at the Pontiac Retail Store garage headquarters, its site for the last several years.

Schoendienst Ready to Start Early Camp

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Red Schoendienst and his doctor were asked by John Mc Hale, Milwaukee Braves' general manager, Thursday if the veteran infielder could start spring training early this year.

The 37-year-old Schoendienst was out most of last season with tuberculosis.

"I thought it might be better for Red to begin workouts with the pitchers and catchers on Feb. 25," Mc Hale said. "He probably will want to set a slower pace when he starts his drills and may need more time than the others.

"On the other hand, there's the chance that too much training on his part might prove too tiresome. So we have consulted his doctor as to what he recommends."

Tiger President Wants No Team of 'Also Rans'

DETROIT (AP)—Struggling around with a bunch of also-rans is unpleasant enough. Getting keyed up and forgetting your short-comings is unforgivable.

Bill DeWitt doesn't think the Detroit Tigers necessarily must be also-rans. But at the same time, he wants an honest approach to the talent at hand.

"It doesn't pay to fool yourself and get worked into a tizzy over a playee," said the Tigers' president. "that's happened here."

Optimism is a necessary ingredient to a successful operation, he believes, but it must be a companion piece to realism.

"Just because Joe Smith hit .300 last season, that doesn't mean he's gonna hit .340 this season," said DeWitt. "Bill Jones isn't a cinch for 20 wins just because he looked pretty good and won 12 last year.

"You have to ask yourself 'what's his normal?' Ball players go up and down in their performances — every player you can name has had his ups and downs.

"So you figure his normal performance. If he does better, then you've had yourself a pleasant surprise. If he doesn't do as well, then at least you haven't built yourself up for a terrible letdown."

DeWitt mentioned two teams in particular along these lines. The Cleveland club of 1954, winner of 111 games, was a "Club of Fate," he said.

"The Yankees won 103 games but couldn't win the pennant because the Cleveland players did the right thing at the right time — every day. One of those guys would pop the ball into the stands whenever the Indians needed a run."

The White Sox of 1959, he said, had a similar turn of good fortune. They won scads of games by one-run margins, got tight relief pitching day in and day out from Gerry Staley and Turk Lown.

"But Bill Veek is smart enough to realize that all his players aren't going to have the same year they had in 1959," DeWitt emphasized. "Maybe Veeck figures his club was a little lucky at times — most pennant winners are, you know — so he's made some pretty quick moves to give the club a lift here, and a little more power there."

So what about the Tigers, who have been also-rans more seasons in a row than most Michigan fans care to remember?

"First off," said DeWitt, "were going to try to approach the matter objectively — analyzing what we have on hand and what we need to get.

"We've made a few changes but we're by no means through. We're trying to swing other things almost every day."

DeWitt said there are two things that could make a major difference in the Tiger club.

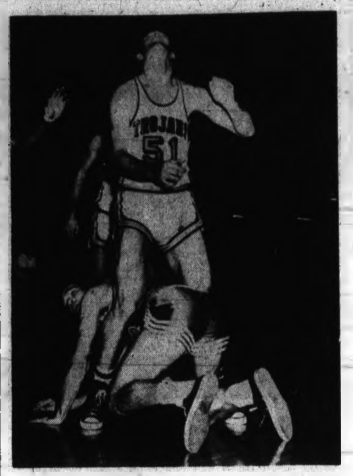

"To report in good shape in spring training and play the caliber of ball at the start of the season that we're capable of doing—that's a major item. No piddling around, waiting until June or July for a hot streak — we have to get started right.

"Then, if we could get about two or three kids from the farm system to give the club a lift. It would do the team a great amount of overall good."

But what about general manager Rick Ferrells statement that it looks like a dry year for production from the farm system?

"We're not so sure now" Dewitt answered. "we may get a little help at a position or two. At least we're hopeful."

Chisox Stock Offer Is Made

CHICAGO (AP)—Frank J. Curran, Chuck Comiskey's father-in-law, says he has made an offer for controlling interest of the Chicago White Sox at the behest of Hank Greenberg.

President Bill Veeck, who heads a syndicate owning 54 per cent of the club's stock, says: "Curran has made offers to buy us out a half dozen times. I am not interested whatsoever and never have been. If Greenberg (a vice president) asked for an offer, I was not consulted. I doubt if he ever shows Curran's offer to me."

Veeck said he still wants to buy Executive Mike President Comiskey's 46 per cent and added:

"I thought we were getting somewhere last month, but Curran called it off."

"Greenberg had invited us to make an offer since all their deals with Chuck to buy him out were rejected," Curran said. "I made the offer and he said he would take it to his group and give me an answer within 10 days."

Win Streak Snapped at Five; Walled Lake Nips Southfield

Pontiac Central had a five-match victory streak snapped while Walled Lake won its second in a row in wrestling action Thursday.

The Chiefs took a 46-8 beating at the hands of defending state champion Lansing Sexton losing 10 of 12 matches—eight on falls.

Final victories by reliables John Van Sickles and Jim Teddy pulled the Vikings through over Southfield, 27-19. Sam Wiscombe scored a pin and Art Fowlkes won a decision for the only PCH points.

But Purse Held Up

Greaves TKO Winner

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Willie Greaves, Canadian middleweight champion was awarded a technical knockout at the Alhambra Thursday night when Eddie Bell of Washington, D. C., was not permitted to answer the bell for the third round of the scheduled 10-rounder because of an eye injury. Greaves weighed 161½, Bell, 165.

After a listless first round, Greaves, fighting out of Detroit, knocked Bell down for a nine-count near the end of the second. Bell walked toward his corner rubbing his left eye.

Dr. Alfred Ayella Jr., representing the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission, examined the eye when Bell complained he couldn't see out of it. Ayella decided Bell could not continue.

Ayella quoted Bell as saying he had an irritation in the eye when he arose today but Dr. Irving Leopold, a commission eye specialist, examined it at the weigh-in and pronounced Bell fit.

The commission held up the purse and scheduled a hearing for Friday.

Beach to Have His 'Night'

MT. PLEASANT — "Walt Beach Night," honoring Central Michigan University's All-American halfback Walter Beach, will mark next Wednesday's (Jan 20) basketball game between Central and Ferris Institute.

Beach, from Pontiac, will be presented with the All-American award by Dave Diles, Detroit Bureau sports editor of the Associated Press, in the halftime ceremonies.

Beach will also receive his Chippewa Most Valuable Player award — a wristwatch to be presented by a jewelry store in Mt. Pleasant, which annually donates the watch to Central's Most Valuable Player.

This will mark the second straight year Beach has received the CMU Most Valuable award.

On hand to introduce the speakers will be Bill Kelly, veteran Chippewa coach who was voted Michigan's college "Coach of the Year" this season.

Beach, in his four years as a Central halfback, broke six CMU varsity records, was elected Most Valuable twice, named to the All-Interstate Conference first team three times, picked most valuable in the IIAC in 1958, and received mentions on four All-American squads.

A former Pontiac Central High School star, Beach signed a contract last month to play with the professional Hamilton Tigereats in the Canadian Big Four. He also appeared January 2 in the Optimist Bowl in Tucson, Arizona, as a member of the Small College team.

In his four years with the Chippewas Beach gained over 3,000 yards total offense and scored 263 points.

Ceremonies honoring Beach will be held at halftime of the varsity game which starts at 8 p.m. Tickets will be available at the door.

Titan Quintet Aims for 12th Win of Season

DETROIT (AP)—A former University of Detroit football star will bring a basketball team to meet his Alma Mater Saturday night.

John Metras, Titan football captain in 1952, is coach of the Western Ontario college team. He is a native of Dowagiac, Mich., where he excelled in four sports. He has been head basketball coach at the Ontario school since 1943 and his teams have won the Canadian Senior Intercollegiate title 11 of the last 14 seasons.

The Detroit club is unbeaten in its last nine home starts, goes after its 12th victory in 14 games.

Wolverines Host to Minnesota

Buckeyes to Meet Best Big 10 Defense

By The Associated Press

The attempt of Northwestern, the Big Ten's best defensive team, to contain league leading Ohio State's explosive offense headlines a four-game conference basketball card Saturday.

Northwestern (2-1) has yielded an average of 66.3 points and its deliberate style foiled Indiana last week.

The Buckeyes (2-0) will be highly favored on their home court. They have the Big Ten's best offensive punch with a 90.5 average and also lead in rebounds with 56 a game. Sophomore Jerry Lucas, whose injured ankle now has mended, is third high scorer in the conference with a 25 point average and his teammate, Mel Nowell, is among the top ten with 17.

Northwestern, whose only loss was to Iowa, 73-59, is led by Willie Jones, No. 8 on the scoring list with 18.3.

Another headliner is Purdue (2-1) at Iowa (3-1) in a regionally televised afternoon game. It matches two of the circuit's better sophomores, Terry Dischinger of the Boilermakers against the Hawkeyes' 6-7 Tom Nelson.

Rounding out the schedule are Michigan State (3-1) at Illinois (2-1) in another afternoon engagement and Minnesota (1-1) at Michigan (0-2).

The underrated Wolverines, who had hoped to offset their lack of height with speed and shooting skill this season, reverted to a slow motion style of play Monday which came within a whisker of upsetting skyscraping Indiana.

Coach Bill Perigo's iron-man five came back from an 11-point deficit early in the second half against Indiana to tie the count at 64-64 with less than five minutes remaining. The Hoosiers bounced back with a pair of baskets to regain the lead and escape with a 72-72 verdict.

Perigo hopes the same formula can pay off with similar or even better results against the Gophers.

Minnesota, 1-1 in the conference thus far, is paced by All-American candidate Ron Johnson, the loop's fourth best point maker with a 23.5 average.

Michigan's record is 0-2 in the conference and 2-9 overall. Its pair of victories came over Tennessee and Miami of Ohio in pre-Big Ten play.

MSU's Walker Second

Soph Top Big 10 Scorer

CHICAGO (AP)—Terry Dischinger's averaged 34.3 points in three league games for a 7 point lead over Horace Walker of Michigan State with 27.3. Sophomore Jerry Lucas is third with a 25.0 average in two games.

43 point splurge against Illinois this week lifted the Purdue sophomore to a commanding lead in the Big Ten basketball scoring race.

Official conference statistics showed today that Dischinger has

Only others hitting an average of 20 or better are Ron Johnson of Minnesota with 23.5 and Terry Miller of Michigan with 22.5.

Walker is the top rebounder, capturing an average of 19 a game. Dischinger heads the accuracy chart, hitting 38 of 59 floor shot attempts for a .644 percentage. Johnson is next with .630.

Dischinger's 43 points in a losing cause against the Illini Monday is the fourth best single game scoring performance in Big Ten history. Indiana's Don Schellundt twice hit 47 and Ohio State's Robin Freeman once made 46.

Michigan State is second in rebounding with an average of 54. Minnesota is No. 1 in field goal percentage with .495, followed by Northwestern with .457 and Ohio with .456.

Rocket Regains NHL Leadership

Assist on 'Pocket's' Goal Puts Richard in Front of Howe

By The Associated Press

Gordie Howe's share of the National Hockey League's all-time scoring lead lasted only one day—just long enough for Maurice (The Rocket) Richard to get back into action.

The Detroit veteran tied Richard for the lead at 945 points Wednesday. Last night the 38-year-old Rocket, sidelined since Nov. 26 with a fractured cheek bone, returned to the Montreal lineup and promptly picked up an assist as the Canadiens widened their lead to 13 points with a 3-1 victory over the second-place Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Rocket's assist came on the Canadiens' final goal of the game by Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard in the third period after Marcel Bonin and Dickie Moore had given the league-leaders a 2-0 lead in the second session.

Meantime, the red-hot Boston Bruins posted their fourth straight victory and goalie Don Simmons his second successive shutout with a 6-0 defeat of the New York Rangers. In the four games the Bruins have outscored their opponents 18-3.

GREENVILLE, S.C.—New Memorial auditorium here seats 5,481 for basketball.

He's Here, All 750 Pounds

One of the two main events at the Armory tonight will feature the return of Happy Farmer Humphrey to Pontiac. Humphrey, the biggest man in the world at 720 pounds, has long been a favorite here, as well as in other parts of the country.

He will team up with Louie Fajmeau to meet Jim "Brute" Bernard and Dynamite Johnny Gates in an Australian tag-team bout.

In the other main event, Leaping Larry Chene, will oppose Ali Bey.

Rain Hampers Start of Golf Tournament

YORBA LINDA, Calif. (AP)—Sponsors of the inaugural $30,000 Yorba Linda Open hoped to get their golfing show on the road again today after a ruinous rain.

All scores, and there were some good ones considering the downpour, went down the drain yesterday after about one-third of the field of 150 had finished what was to be the opening round for the area.

Four professionals mastered par despite the elements. Doug Ford, one of the great rain-wester players, Billy Maxwell, Bo Winniger and Billy Maxwell played the round in 71.

Even with par were Art Wall, Jr., Lionel Hebert, John Mc Mullin and Wes Ellis Jr.

Albion Gets Dunked

ALBION (UPI)—Western Michigan swimmers won eight of 11 events last night to defeat Albion 63-32 in a dual swimming meet.

Albion's Jim Sebastian set the only record of the meet. He won the 200-yard butterfly with a clocking of 2:20.4 to knock 1.8 seconds off the old pool and varsity marks.

Prep Front

By BILL CORNWELL

With grave misgivings, we're forced to give credit where credit is due. When it comes to landing a tournament in March, Livonia Bentley High School has its say with the MHSAA at Lansing.

We don't pretend to know how they swing the deal and we don't particularly mind them getting a tournament as long as prep basketball teams from our neck of the woods don't have to go there.

But alas, such is not the case. When the district tournaments roll around next March, seven Oakland County Class A schools will traipse down to Livonia where they will be joined by four others, including host Bentley.

Who are the seven unlucky teams? Their names are Pontiac Central, Pontiac Northern, Waterford, Walled Lake, Rochester, Farmington and Southfield.

Fortunately, the four district survivors at Livonia can journey as far north as Southfield for the regional tourney the following week.

After a one-year absence, Bentley has regained the district tourney. Two years ago both district and regional events were held there and Oakland County cage fans, Pontiac's especially, were justifiably angered at the proceedings.

The only happy people as far as this area was concerned were the money collectors at Bentley and the MHSAA who counted the cash and shared the proceeds.

Who from here can forget that final night of the regional when PCH met Bentley for the title and hundreds of Pontiac fans were left standing outside closed doors while Livonia followers stacked the gymnasium.

"We sincerely hope such a situation does not happen again during the district stay at Livonia for any county school involved.

Last year both the district and regional tourneys were staged at Southfield and nearly everyone, county fans in particular, were much happier with the situation.

It seems utterly ridiculous for the Oakland schools named here to plod into Wayne County as far south as 5-Mile Road when Southfield, or half a dozen other places, would have a better central location for the competing schools.

Not only that, but Southfield has a greater seating capacity than Bentley and is better able to handle the large crowds attending the tournaments.

"We've said it many times before and, for whatever it's worth, we'll say it again — no team should be allowed to play on its own court in state tournament play, especially in areas where there are enough available sites to prevent it.

Any team with any ability at all has a distinct advantage on its home floor, an advantage which should not be permitted in an event where a coveted state championship is the eventual prize.

The psychological atmosphere for the home team is often too great a factor in tourney warfare. Arranging it so that no team plays on its own court is really not a difficult thing to do.

Under last year's setup, for example, Southfield should have gone to Birmingham and Birmingham to Southfield. Ferndale should have played at East Detroit and vice versa. Or rearrange the order, if you prefer. But let's have everybody playing on a neutral floor. It can be done.

Clear Jennings of Giving Tip About Sooners

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Bill Jennings didn't furnish the tip that brought football probation for the University of Oklahoma. Walter Byers, executive director of the NCAA, said yesterday.

Byers said a confidential source not connected with any intercollegiate institution furnished the information that led to disclosure of a recruiting fund that caused NCAA action.

Jennings, now coach at the University of Nebraska, was an assistant to Coach Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma at the time of the improper recruiting payments and had been accused of squealing on his old boss. Jennings has consistently denied that he tipped off the NCAA but said he had reluctantly testified when called in by NCAA officials.

Ladewig Takes Over Lead at All-Star Titles on Line in Final Session on Tap Tonight

Rookie Chase Goes Ahead of Men; Joseph Ranks 6th

OMAHA (AP) — A dashing young rookie and a capable grandmother led their respective fields into the last day of action at the All Star bowling tourney here today.

The rookie was Bob Chase, a tall, dark and very handsome young muscleman from Kansas City, Mo.

The grandmother was, of course, the pro who had won this grueling test seven times — Marion Ladewig of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Both gained the tournament's top standings for the first time on the last of yesterday's four squads.

Chase, 27, averaged 226 as he won 12 and lost four games yesterday in matches with Billy Welu of St. Louis, Carmen Salvino and Billy Bunetta of Chicago and Wayne Zahn of Milwaukee. He ended the day with a flourish as he took three of four games from Zahn while rolling a record series for the current tourney of 280-223-301-257—961.

Welu, defending champion who had led for six consecutive rounds, stumbled into third place after winning but eight of his 16 games yesterday.

Harry Smith of St. Louis moved into second place after he won 13 games, Joe Joseph of Lansing is No. 6.

The final block of the tournament tonight will be broadcast on the NBC radio and television network at 12 p.m. EST.

Ladies Tourney Starts Saturday

Elks Keglers Ready

The curtain goes up tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 on the 3rd annual Elks Ladies National Invitational Bowling Tournament.

All competition will be held at the Lodge 810 alleys on weekends through Feb. 14.

Champions will be determined in team, doubles, singles and all-events during the lovely session.

A full schedule is planned this weekend with teams rolling Saturday and the others Sunday as will be the case throughout the meet.

A total of 144 teams, 236 doubles pairs and 472 singles entries make up the title hopefuls. Each figure is an increase over 1959.

Several of Pontiac and Michigan's outstanding women bowlers will be taking part' before its over along with some top performers from Ohio and Indiana.

A kickoff dinner for tourney officials and guests will get things rolling at 12 noon, according to Don Long, Esteemed Leading Knight. Exalted Ruler Mike Kinport will preside over the tournament.

Keglers from Pontiac, Detroit, Jackson, Midland, Royal Oak, Ann Arbor, Muskegon, Traverse City and Bowling Green and Wauseon in Ohio will get things rolling opening day.

Other cities to be represented during the meet are Battle Creek, Kalamazoo, Grand Rapids, Saginaw, Alpena, Ferndale, Mt. Clemens, Alma, Hillsdale, Lake Orion, Monroe, Port Huron and Flint in Michigan; Gary, Elkhart and Hammond, Indiana; and Lakewood, Lorain, Ft. Clinton, and Coshocton in Ohio.

The 1960 tourney wil be operated under the direction of president Peggy Bender and Eva Miller, secretary.

Eight New Hurlers to Be in Camp

Yankees Look to Rookie Pitchers

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees lost the 1959 American League pennant largely, because of the collapse of the pitching staff. Nobody is more aware of it than the Yankee brass.

Significantly, eight of the 12 freshmen who will report to the Yankee training camp at St. Petersburg, Fla., next month are pitchers. Leading the group is lefty Billy Short, minor league pitcher of the year.

Short had a 17-6 record at Richmond and a 2.46 earned run average. He fanned 138 and issued only 67 walks in 179 innings. The Newburgh, N. Y., youngster, only 22, not only pitches like Whitey Ford, but actually looks like him.

His height and weight dimensions are the same as those of the Yankee southpaw ace, 5-9 and 170 pounds.

Other pitching newcomers include right-handers Bill Bethel, 29, from Corpus Christi, Tex., who posted a 13-11 and 2.80 ERA at Omaha; Bill Bronstad, 6-8 at Richmond and John Gabler, 14-8 at Denver.

Johnny James, 26, relief star at Richmond, will get another chance with the Yanks. He had a 9-6 record and a remarkable 1.91 ERA in 70 relief appearances for the Virginians. Ed Dick, 22-year-old southpaw prospect, had a 7-10 record with Richmond.

Two bonus youngsters, both first year men, were jumped to the varsity for protection from the draft. They are George Haney, 20, a right hander who won six and lost one at Kearney, Neb., in the all-rookie Nebraska State League; and Harold Stowe, 22, a southpaw who had a 3-4 record and 90 strikeouts in 83 innings at Fargo, N.D., in the class C Northern League. Stowe was signed off the Clemson campus.

Deron Johnson, 21, an outfielder who was the early sensation of the 1958 instructional school at St. Petersburg, joins the Yankee roster for the first time. He slammed 25 home runs at Richmond last year and added seven more in the playoffs. He drove in 91 runs on a .277 batting average.

City Archers Invited for Sunday Golf Round

Any one interested in archery is invited to take part in Sunday's first archery-golf round for Pontiac Archery Club, this winter.

The shoot is scheduled for Pontiac's Municipal Golf Course, starting at 9 a.m., running through 1 p.m.

The clubhouse will be open for refreshments, and for the use of the shooters.

Marchandise awards will go to winners.

White Lake Twp. Treasurer to Keep Salary

Board in Closed Meeting Decides on Wording Error

By JIM LONG

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — Behind closed doors officials here last night "solved" the problem of whether the township treasurer is responsible for refunding $7,500 in salary received illegally over the past three years.

Immediately following the special meeting the Township Board issued a statement that Treasurer Ronald Voorheis will not have to return the money because of "improper wording of resolutions of past township boards."

Invited expressly to the meeting to get "all the facts in the story" by Supervisor Edward Cheyz, this reporter was asked to leave the meeting on the demands of Township Trustee Richard O. Paschke.

"I am not in the mood or of the opinion that the press should sit in on this special meeting," Paschke said, claiming that there were "things involved in making a decision that should be aired first by officials before making a collective statement."

Cheyz and Trustee Everett Gillow insisted it was "only right that the people were informed" but finally gave in to Paschke in order to tackle the business at hand.

Also attending the three hour private session was Clerk Bert A. McKeachie, who backed Paschke in his opinion, and Ronald C. Voorheis, treasurer.

Voorheis was told last Saturday at the regular board meeting that he has been unlawfully receiving both a salary and one per cent of the taxes he collects.

"The treasurer is not entitled to collect both the one per cent fee and the salary," Township Attorney Paul M. Mandel wrote in his opinion, requested by Supervisor Cheyz.

Appointed to the treasurer's post in the Fall of 1956 and then elected twice, Voorheis has been receiving a salary of $2,500 annually. He also has been collecting the one per cent from property owners the same length of time.

His percentage fee has amounted to about $7,200 in 1957, $5,500 in 1958, and $3,115 in 1959, Voorheis said.

The statement issued by the Township Board read: "Through the improper wording of resolutions of past township boards the treasurer's compensation for clerical work outside the prescribed duties of his office was listed as treasurer's salary."

"The Township Board has clarified this by designating such compensation as clerical fees and held that all funds paid to the treasurer as salary be designated as clerical fees and that treasurers so paid in the past not be held responsible for refunding the salary."

* * *

Commenting on the board's decision Voorheis said that he was "very satisfied. I think it was a justified solution to the problem."

"I feel I was just a victim of circumstance in being around when this matter came up," added Voorheis.

Voorheis said that before a treasurer receives a salary rather than a percentage it must be voted on by the people of the township.

"However, when the past Township Board voted to compensate the treasurer for extra work he was doing, they passed a resolution referring to it as salary," Voorheis said.

This was found to be contrary to state law that states the salary must be voted on by the people and the percentage dropped.

"Now that the wording of the resolution has been changed referring to compensation instead of salary, it makes it legal," he added.

"It was decided in the meeting that the salary issue will probably be put before the voters in the 1961 election.

"Then the Township Board will drop my compensation, my one per cent collection fee will no longer be in effect, and they will set a salary that should average the compensation and the collection fee."

Millage Talk Set in Lake Orion

District PTAs Invited to Hear Supt. Reed Discuss Election

LAKE ORION—The Lake Orion Junior High School PTA has invited members of all PTAs in the district to its meeting Monday night to hear School Superintendent A. A. Reed talk about the upcoming special school election.

The joint session will be held in the gymnasium at 7:30 p.m.

The Board of Education has set March 21 as the date for the special election on increased millage to provide additional funds for school operation, construction and an improved salary schedule.

The first phase of the two-phase proposal, if approved, will provide for a one-year delay in levying the 6¼ mills for the high school debt. This millage would be earmarked for construction.

The second phase would permit cancellation of the present three-mill levy which expires next year and levying of eight mills for construction and operation over a five-year period.

The entire program calls for a net increase of five mills over present taxes or $9.26 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

Area Churches Will Observe Exchange Day

TROY — It will be "Exchange Day" at the First Baptist Church of Royal Oak and the American Baptist Church of Troy on Sunday.

Dr. Woodrow W. Clark, pastor of the Royal Oak church, will speak at Stiles School, South boulevard and Livernois road, during the 11 a.m. worship service of the American Baptist Church.

The Troy church pastor, the Rev. Richard Snead, and members of his congregation will lead the 7 p.m. service in the Royal Oak church.

The American Baptist Church, which has been meeting in Stiles School since Nov. 1, is the fruition of the vision of Dr. Clark and a number of members of the Royal Oak church who now live in Troy, said Rev. Snead.

In addition to the support of Detroit Assn. of American Baptist Churches and the American Baptist Mission Society are sustaining the congregation in the early period of its development, the Troy minister added.

Recently elected officers of the new Troy church are Donald Hubbard, moderator; Mrs. Robert Wismer, choir director; and Franklin Dyer, church school superintendent. All are from Clawson.

Others are George Donaldson of Troy, treasurer; and Mrs. Walter Northrup of Rochester, clerk.

Washington Has Site for Post Office

WASHINGTON—Mrs. Grover C. Powell, Washington postmistress, reported today that the U.S. Post Office Dept. has taken an option on property at Smale and Delmar streets for a new post office here.

Plans for the new building, which will contain 2,100 square feet of floor space, are now being drawn by the department's regional office in Chicago.

Bids for construction will be announced within two months, officials said.

The high bidder will take over the option on the 138.5 by 106 foot lot, purchase it and construct the building. The facility then will be rented to the post office department on a long-term lease basis.

The present post office now is located in a white clapboard building on Van Dyke in the heart of the village.

Dryden Man Freed in Robbery Charge

DRYDEN TOWNSHIP—A 30-year-old Dryden man held for investigation of armed robbery was released yesterday after passing a lie detector test "with flying colors," according to the Lapeer County sheriff's department.

Ronald Hunsinger, 30, of Seven Ponds, had been arrested after a Detroit taxicab driver claimed he robbed him of $25 on a Dryden Township road.

Hunsinger had admitted being in the cab but had denied robbing the driver, Fred Lamprey, 60, of Detroit. Lamprey had told sheriff's deputies that the Dryden man pushed something in his back and demanded his money.

The sheriff was not available to comment on whether the cab driver would be called to face charges of false arrest.

Registration Deadline Monday in Four Towns

Monday is the registration deadline for voters who wish to cast their ballots in the Feb. 15 primary election in Holly, Lake Orion, Oxford and Romeo.

The deadline for registering in Holly is 4 p.m., in Romeo and Lake Orion, 8 p.m. and in Oxford, before the village clerk's office closes at 5 p.m.

Soil Conservation Body Told of Communist Life

By DICK HANSON
County Editor

Life behind the Iron Curtain was vividly portrayed last night at the annual Oakland County Soil Conservation District meeting in Pontiac.

A 35-minute-long movie in color, depicting the Soviet people and their way of life, was shown by foreign exchange student Max Benne of Mason. Last summer he spent six weeks on a whirlwind tour of the Communist states.

In his talk accompanying the film, Benne described the Russian people as ambitious for the most part; anxious to see their country, which they are certain has surpassed the United States scientifically, now lead the world in the production of consumer goods.

"They readily admit that at this time their standard of living falls short of ours. But, convinced that communism is the ultimate lot for the entire world, Soviets are determined to achieve the best in consumer goods, such as housing which they need desperately at this time.

"In fact the Red government is urging people to build their own homes, in direct contrast to communistic doctrine which specifies that the state provides everything and owns all," Benne noted. He said he saw homes and huge apartment buildings under construction in and around the major cities he visited.

TOUR EXTENSIVE

Benne's tour took him from Moscow and Leningrad into the rural Ukrainian countryside, which he described as having probably the best soil in the world, to the Black Sea resorts, and into the heavily - wooded Caucasian Mountains, where lumbering is being carried out extensively.

Everywhere behind the Iron Curtain, he said, the people are generally happy with their way of life and determined to improve it.

"They naturally feel that their government is serving them well, as they never have known anything nearly so good under the czars. Their opinion of capitalistic nations has been bent to the point where they are convinced of the intrinsic evil of our government," explained Benne.

100 ATTEND

In spite of the fog, over 100 people attended the dinner - banquet in the community hall of the Pontiac Federal Savings and Loan Building, Pontiac.

They reelected Harold Mitchell to another three-year term as district soil conservation director, and heard a favorable report on efforts to improve area land conditions during the past year.

Goals in the district include convincing farmers of the value of good crop rotation, pasture and tree planting, strip cropping and improved cutting.

Director Stuart Hutchins, who gave the report, said one of the major projects this year would be to assist suburban developers in sound practices that will prevent soil erosion.

"Our goal will be to educate developers laying out new subdivisions to follow the contours of the land, rather than re-arranging it and uprooting trees with bulldozers," he said. "The latter practice invariably results in draining the land of its valuable topsoil and coverage with accompanying floods and erosion," he said.

State 4-H soil conservation winner Larry Middleton of Oakland Township described his recent trip to Chicago for the National 4-H Congress, and a medley of songs was presented by Anne and Daniel Mitchell, young 4-H members from Grand Blanc.

The swiss-steak dinner was prepared by women of the Oakland County Farm Bureau.

20-Mile Road Crack-Up Hurts 2 Utica Drivers

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — Two Utica drivers were injured seriously last night when their cars collided on 20-Mile road, east of Dequindre road.

Taken to St. Joseph Hospital, Mount Clemens, were Paul E. Edinger, 26, of 3540 Branch St., and Daniel L. Calabrese, 35, of 7354 Greeley St.

Calabrese told Shelby Township police that Edinger failed to straighten his car out after rounding a curve and crashed into his auto.

Edinger stated he didn't remember what happened. He was ticketed for driving on the wrong side of the road.

Both were listed in fair condition today.

Edinger has head, chest and back injuries. Calabrese had injuries of the hips and chest.

Simon Heads Avon Twp. Body

Name 3 Zoning Officers

AVON TOWNSHIP — The report of new officers elected to the zoning board has been accepted by the Avon Township Board.

Named to head the zoning body is Carl Simon, with Jack Fetterly elected vice chairman, and Fred Juengel, secretary-treasurer.

The Township Board will open bids on sale of bonds for construction of water and sewer mains in the Michigan State University Oakland faculty subdivision at 8 p.m. Jan. 27.

In other action taken Wednesday night the board approved the final plats for University Hills subdivision No. 1 and for Avon Manor Estates Subdivision 2, subject to deposit of the usual fees by the developers.

The township will hold a dog clinic the afternoon of Feb. 20 at Precinct 2 on Auburn road, west of Rochester road.

The board also accepted a near-acre piece of property in Hillwood subdivision deeded to the township by Frank R. Chapman.

Bridal Veil Falls are in Yosemite National Park in east central California.

Busy Years Loom Ahead for Mother State of Michigan

Car Production to Roll During the Sixties

HARRY A. WILLIAMS

Editor's Note: In this concluding instalment, Harry Williams, managing director of Automobile Manufacturers Assn., gives his views on a question most important to Michigan economy—what lies ahead for the auto industry in the next 10 years?)

By HARRY WILLIAMS
Managing Director
Automotive Mfgrs. Assn.

DETROIT (AP) — The outlook for the nation's automotive industries in the decade ahead is excellent.

Needless to say that prospect is of considerable importance to Michigan, the leading state in automotive manufacturing.

In past years a great number of forecasts have been heard concerning things to come in the '60s. I cannot add to the predictions already made, but can use a few of them to illustrate why the prospects for highway transportation industries are bright.

Fundamentally, four basic elements should be present to produce an expanding automotive market:

(1) More people to buy and use motor vehicles;

(2) Sufficient money and credit to encourage buying;

(3) Increasing transportation needs; and

(4) Adequate roads and streets to carry the growing traffic safely and efficiently.

It seems that these vital elements are destined to be present in full measure during the decade.

First, the Bureau of the Census has promised a lot more people, especially in the age groups that buy and use cars the most.

30 MILLION MORE

The forecast is for a national population of above 200 million between 1965 and 1970—about 20 million more than at present. The number of young people between the ages of 15 and 24 is expected to increase even more rapidly, reaching a point about 25 per cent higher than at present by the middle of the decade.

The upward population trend is not expected to be confined just to the coming decade. Projections indicate a U. S. population of about 230 million by 1975, with 30 million more persons of driving age than there are today.

Population shifts also are expected to affect potential automobile demand. Many of the low population states are now growing rapidly.

In these new areas of development, automotive transportation will continue to be even more of an essential than in some of the older population centers.

The trend toward suburban development so prominent in the postwar era also is expected to continue. It is well known that such decentralization of urban residential areas tends to create a greater need and desire for the kind of personal transportation offered by the automobile. It also increases the need for truck services of all kinds.

* * *

More and more families will be acquiring second or even third cars in the 10 years ahead. About 13.5 per cent now own two or more, compared with only 4.4 per cent 10 years ago.

Almost without exception, the economic forecasters have pictured the '60s as a decade of unparalleled prosperity and technological progress.

Leisure time and personal incomes are expected to rise dramatically. Real family income which has been increasing steadily for two decades is expected to continue upward.

In other words, the nation's population not only is growing, but proportionately the American people in the future will have a greater need for motor vehicles plus a greater financial capacity to buy and use them than ever before.

Meanwhile, the vast new federal highway modernization program now under way all over America will mean safer, more pleasant and more economical use of motor vehicles. These developments are certain to encourage the further expansion of highway transportation.

It has been conservatively estimated that early in the '60s the normal market for the U. S. automotive industry will be at least 6 million cars and 1 million trucks annually, with the level rising possibly as high as 8 million cars and 1.2 million trucks and buses by the end of the decade.

This means that, conservatively, the decade should see the production of at least 70 million U. S. cars, trucks and buses.

Michigan, the heartland state of automotive production, should have a busy 10 years.

Some Grain Futures See Dip in Prices

CHICAGO (AP)—Liquidation was resumed today in wheat, rye and soybean futures with prices slipping major fractions of a cent during the first few minutes of transactions on the board of trade.

Corn and oats were steady to firm, however, as dealers considered reports of snow and colder weather over the mid-west a bullish factor. They said it would increase livestock feeding requirements and cut into movement of the grains to markets.

Slow domestic and export demand was the bearish influence in other pits.

Wheat was ⅝ cent a bushel lower to ⅛ higher after about an hour. March $2.02¼; corn ⅛ to ⅛ higher, March 14.⅞; oats unchanged to ⅛ higher, March 77⅝; rye ⅝ to ¾ lower, March $1.28; soybeans ⅛ to ⅞ lower, January $2.13¼.

NAACP Seeks Lynch Case Data

Grand Jury Completes Probe, but Returns No Indictments

BILOXI, Miss. (AP)—The National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People has called on U. S. Atty. Gen. William Rogers to release to the public the FBI's report on the Mack Charles Parker lynching.

The NAACP sent its request to Rogers Thursday shortly after a federal grand jury here completed its investigation of the case without returning any indictments.

"On the basis of evidence presented, we were unable to arrive at any true bill," said the jury's report to U. S. Dist. Judge Sidney Mize.

This apparently means there will be no further grand jury action in the nine-month-old case unless authorities uncover new witnesses or new testimony.

The Justice Department submitted the calle to a federal grand jury after a Pearl River County grand jury did not indict anyone last November.

In the NAACP's telegram to Rogers, the organization said releasing the FBI's 378-page report on the case would allow the world to know who the suspects are "and to appraise the quality of justice administered in the state of Mississippi."

"These flagrant and calculated miscarriages of justice demonstrate anew the urgent need for strong civil rights legislation," it said.

Stocks Continue Mild Recovery

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market today continued a mild recovery from its recent battering. Trading was active early this afternoon.

Gains of key stocks went from fractions to about a point but an increasing number of losers gave the advance a patchy look.

The market was ahead moderately on a broad front early in the session as it followed through on yesterday's recovery from six straight sessions of sharp decline. Subsequently the rise lost much of its steam.

Steels reversed their initial advance and motors backed away from their best gains. Nonferrous metals were mostly lower. Rails and utilities remained on the upside.

Selective gains among chemicals, electronics, rubbers, drugs and assorted issues kept the market higher overall.

Brokers cited typical pre-weekend caution combined with the fact that today is the deadline for an income tax installment as reasons for the failure of the recovery to be more vigorous. The general news background, including auto production and rail carloadings, remained bullish.

Standard packaging was up fractionally while Brown Bigelow was off slightly as directors of the firms agreed to merge.

Ike Picks O'Sullivan for U.S. Appeals Court

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower nominated Federal Judge Clifford O'Sullivan of Detroit yesterday to be a member of the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals.

The 62-year-old O'Sullivan was also succeed Charles C. Simons who retired. The Court of Appeals sits in Cincinnati.

A native of Chicago, O'Sullivan practiced law in Port Huron for nearly 30 years and worked actively for Eisenhower's nomination in 1952.

His appointment by the President must be approved by the Senate.

More Firms Charged With Fakery in TV Ads

WASHINGTON (AP) — Those drops of moisture you might have seen described as "flavor gems" in television margarine commercials are nothing more than a sprinkled-on liquid, says the Federal Trade Commission.

"Sandpaper" being shaved in a shaving cream commercial is a piece of glass or plastic to which sand has been applied, the commission says.

The tired-looking ham wrapped in a competing foil looked that way before it was ever wrapped, the FTC says.

And the toothpaste commercial using a cigaret-smoking machine doesn't prove what it claims, says the commission.

'FAILURE TO PROVE'

The FTC listed these four examples Thursday in accusing four big companies of deceiving the public with their television commercials. It said trickery was used in some cases to make contrived TV scenes look real.

In all four cases, the FTC said, the TV demonstration failed to prove claims made for the products.

Complaints were filed against the following firms for allegedly deceptive advertising of the products named:

Standard Brands, Inc., New York City, Blue Bonnet Margarine; Colgate-Palmolive Co., New York City, Palmolive Rapid Shave Shaving Cream; Aluminum Co. of America, Pittsburgh, and its subsidiary, Wear-Ever Aluminum Inc., Philadelphia, New Super Strength Alcoa wrap aluminum foil; and Lever Brothers Co., New York City, Pepsodent Toothpaste.

CHARGES DECEPTION

The FTC charged that the challenged commercials tend to deceive the public and cause TV viewers to buy one brand instead of another on the basis of the alleged misrepresentations. The firms were accused of using unfair methods of competition made illegal under the Federal Trade Commission Act.

Colgate-Palmolive said its commercials did not misrepresent the facts and that the FTC objection "is based solely on a technique used to overcome photographic difficulties." Alcoa said "appearently the FTC complaint is confined to objections to one minor method of illustrating."

Also named in the complaints were three advertising agencies—Ted Bates & Co. Inc., New York City; Ketchum, MacLeod & Grove Inc., Pittsburgh; and Foote, Cone & Belding, New York City.

The manufacturers and agencies have 30 days in which to answer the complaints.

Kennedy Has One Policy

Dems' Campaign to Be...?

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Are the Democrats going to make their 1960 presidential campaign against President Eisenhower, the Republican Party, or Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the only Republican candidate in sight?

The Democrats will be fighting their 1956 campaign against Eisenhower all over again if the course taken Thursday by Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) is an example of what's to come.

Kennedy, now running for the Democratic presidential nomination, made a speech before the National Press Club. He not only attacked Eisenhower's presidential performance but said

The central issue in the 1960 contest is "not the farm problem or defense or India" but the "presidency itself." Although Eisenhower is not the 1960 candidate, Kennedy accused him of lack of leadership and do-nothingism.

His point was that the country needs to elect as its next president a man who is the opposite of Eisenhower. This is exactly the course the Democrats pursued in 1956 when Eisenhower ran for his second term.

It was fatal. The voters showed what they thought of the Democratic argument by re-electing Eisenhower overwhelmingly.

And at this moment, when Kennedy is blazing away at him, Eisenhower is probably at or near the highest mark of his popularity in his two White House terms. Which raises a question:

If the voters ignored the Democrats' arguments against Eisenhower in 1956, what makes Kennedy or any other Democrat think the voters won't do the same this year, especially since Eisenhower isn't even running?

Kennedy dwelt at length on the kind of active White House leadership he said the country needs from now on. He didn't say whether Nixon would imitate Eisenhower or be different. He didn't mention Nixon at all, directly or otherwise.

Kishi of Japan Facing Trouble

Leftists Plan Bombs to Stop Prime Minister Leaving for U.S.

TOKYO (AP)—Angry leftists today threatened to block highways, throw bombs and retaliate at the polls to prevent the departure of Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi for Washington to sign a new military alliance with the United States.

He is leaving Saturday via chartered airliner (JAL). The pact will be signed at the White House Jan. 19.

Communist-led Zengakuren, radical students organization, said it would muster 3,000 students to seal off roads to the airport. Unsigned letters received by Kishi said he might be bombed.

CHINA IN PICTURE

And Communist China stepped up the tension with warnings the pact would drag Japan into war.

That is the theme of Kishi's neutrality-advocating opponents — that continuation of American bases here under the alliance will set Japan again on a patch of aggression and war in Asia in partnership with America.

Kishi added to the strange picture by clouding his departure time in mystery until this afternoon.

Police have mobilized 6,000 men to protect the departure. There was little doubt they could keep roads open.

The new U.S.-Japan security pact was negotiated by U.S. Ambassador Douglas MacArthur II and Foreign Minister Aiichiro Fujiyama during the past 15 months. It provides for continuing U.S. bases here at least 10 years.

A bitter fight is expected in Parliament when the alliance is submitted for ratification upon Kishi's return Jan. 24.

Car Destroyed by Fire After Being Rammed

A Pontiac man escaped injury this morning when a trailer truck smashed into the rear of his car, knocking it more than 200 feet and setting it on fire.

Delore F. St. Dennis, 500 Lakeside St., Pontiac, was waiting for a traffic light at Telegraph and Maple roads in Bloomfield Township when a Trans-American Freight Co. truck driven by Lloyd W. Chase Jr. of Illinois rammed him from behind, according to township police.

St. Dennis had just got out of the car as it burst into flames from sparks that ignited a broken gas line, police said. The car was completely destroyed by fire.

A fire also broke out in the trailer of the truck but was quickly extinguished by police.

The truck driver, police said, apparently did not expect St. Dennis to stop for the changing traffic light and wasn't able to stop in time on the slippery pavement.

St. Dennis was taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital for observation and released.

The 3,000-year-old Noh dramas often have flickering wood fires as footlights in the Japanese theaters.

Rebel Heiress Is 19 Today

Top Birthday Gift? Legal Opinion Saying Grandmother's Out

PARIS (UPI)—Remington typewriter heiress Gamble Benedict, who is taking a chance on love, today got one of the birthday presents she wanted — a legal opinion that her wealthy grandmother cannot force her to leave her married boy friend.

The New York debutante celebrated her 19th birthday today in the guarded apartment she is sharing with Andrei Porumbeanu, the 34-year old former clerk and interpreter with whom she fled New York in December, and their lawyer.

She swore it was only the first of the many anniversaries she and Andrei will spend together.

There weren't many presents for the elopers who arrived here with their pockets full of dreams rather than cash.

SELL STORY RIGHTS

They did come out of their romantic haze long enough to sell the exclusive rights to their love story to several publications.

The present that delighted the couple most came from their friend and lawyer, silvery-haired Jean Cosacesco, who is putting them up in his apartment.

Cosacesco represents the interests of emigre Romanian royalty here.

And when he heard that Gamble's grandmother and guardian was sending a lawyer to Paris he anticipated a courtroom battle might be in the offing.

He asked French and American lawyers for their interpretation of the law.

They reported that since the debutante is over 18 she is free to make her own decisions about life and love.

LAW BROKEN?

On the basis of known facts the couple has violated no law even though Porumbeagu is married and the father of 10-year-old girl, Gigi.

Liqueur Firm Head Dies in Tampa

Abe H. Weinstein 66, founder and president of the Arrow Liqueurs Co. of Detroit and brother of Mrs. Norman Buckner of Pontiac, died in his sleep yesterday at his home in Tampa, Fla. He had been ill with a heart condition.

A native of Peoria, Ill., he had moved from Detroit to Tampa six years ago.

Mr. Weinstein was a member of the Masonic Lodge of Detroit and Temple Beth El.

Other survivors include his wife, Elsie; a daughter, Mrs. Arlene Rippa of Tampa; and three grandchildren.

Former School Head Honored

State Unit Commends Avondale's Dismissed Superintendent

Raymond N. Baker, former superintendent of Avondale Schools, was one of nine Michigan school administrators to be honored today with distinguished service awards by the Michigan Assn. of School Administrators.

The school administrators are attending the MASA semiannual conference in Grand Rapids.

Baker was superintendent of Avondale Schools until last June.

The Board of Education, at the time of his contract was up for renewal in December, 1958 ousted Baker by a split vote, causing a political upheaval in the school district.

A later repercussion was the defeat at the polls of then president of the Board of Education Gordon S. Hamilton in the annual school election.

One of the main opponents of the buster action, Earl Wilson, was elected to the Board.

Before leaving office, Baker was honored at a banquet by 200 persons, including area educators, board members and friends for 14 years of service to the Avondale district.

Among others slated to receive awards today for 25 or more years of service to education at the MASA conference was A. A. Gretenberger of Lapeer County.

Issue Warrant in Shooting Here

Pontiac Man Facing Assault Trial Arising From Violence

The Oakland County Prosecutors Office Thursday issued a warrant charging Martin Moore, 40, of 180 Raeburn St., with assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder.

Assistant Prosecutor Jerome K. Barry says Moore would appear in Commerce Township Justice Court as soon as he is released from Pontiac General Hospital.

The warrant charges Moore with attacking and shooting Homer C. Bolin, 46, of 496 E. Grand Traverse Rd., Commerce Township, at Bolin's home Tuesday evening.

Bolin told sheriff's detectives that he shot Moore in the wrist and hip with a .22 caliber pistol when Moore attacked him with a knife.

He said Moore returned later and fired several shots at his home from a .410 gauge shotgun. One of the shots struck Bolin.

Moore denied threatening Bolin and said Bolin fired the first shot. Bolin's wife, Helen, 38, was formerly married to Moore.

Both men are in satisfactory condition at the hospital.

Ketko Rubbish Cash Mounts to $48,000

DETROIT (UPI)—Police Inspector Marvin Frank said today two truckloads of trash from the apartment of an elderly couple have now yielded nearly $48,000.

Frank said officers found $32,335.40 in bank deposits; $7,223.83 in cash; $6,950 in savings bonds, and $1,280 in postal savings certificates.

Wayne County Probate Judge Joseph A. Murphy named a Detroit attorney as temporary guardian for Anthony and Agatha Ketko's "estate." The Ketkos were evicted Monday because they would not clean up the mountain of rubbish in their apartment.

Officers sifting through the trash found money and other valuables stuffed inside old shoes, wrapped in dirty rags and old napkins, stuck inside cans, crammed in old gloves and pinned to clothing.

Ketko, 68, retired a few years ago from a Detroit factory and his 63-year-old wife was a cleaning woman. They were to be released from a hospital to relatives while their valuables were looked after by the attorney.

Townships Assn. Fights Con-Con

Enters Battle Against Jaycees and League of Women Voters

LANSING (UPI) — Battle lines were formed today for the fight over calling of a convention to write a new state constitution.

The Michigan Townships Assn. voted yesterday 353-1 to oppose the drive for a constitutional convention.

The action created a roadblock to the drive for petitions by the the Junior Chamber of Commerce to put the "con con" issue on the Nov. 8 ballot.

"Our present constitution, through its system of local grass roots government and its democratic election processes, grants a maximum of control of their destiny to the people at large and a minimum of control to centralized authorities," the association's resolution said.

The township delegates also opposed a recommendation by a subcommittee of the Democratic State Central Committee that Michigan should have a one-house Legislature.

The association urged legislation to require approval of county boards of supervisors before any county is opened to "any deer" seasons.

GRANT PRESIDENT

Milford Mellon, Grant, was named president, replacing outgoing President Francis Drake who moved to member of the Board.

Others elected included Clark Most, Alanson, first vice president; Ray Lindsay, Plymouth, second vice president; Casper Ulrich, Battle Creek, third vice president; Zoe Robinson, Union City, secretary, and Louis Stein, Plymouth, treasurer.

Before winding up the three-day convention, delegates passed a total of 12 other resolutions including those calling for:

Legislation to allow townships to adopt housing codes.

Opposition to state taxes on real estate.

A uniform policy to determine the cash value of industrial and business prokperty.

Changing workmen's compensation laws to provide coverage for elected township officials.

East Highland Driver Hurt as Car Hits Tree

Elaine A. Walz, 19, of 1827 Duck Lake Rd., East Highland, was treated for minor injuries at Pontiac General Hospital and released yesterday after her car struck a tree.

She told sheriff's deputies she lost control of her car while attempting to pass a truck on N. Milford road, north of Clyde, in Rose Township.

Who'd Ever Think He Would Come to This?

By EARL WILSON

WILSON

And we never expected to see a nice looking gentleman personally steal the rhinestone from the aforementioned area of the young lady during a comedy-singing act.

But it's happening to Miss Gale Sherwood, a gifted gal from Hamilton, Ontario, and the happy jewel bandit is your friend and mine, Nelson Eddy, now 58, the former Providence and Philadelphia newspaperman who became yesterday's dreamboat.

"Have you ever had a rhinestone ripped off of you twice a night?" Miss Sherwood asked us at their opening.

It happens when Nelson Eddy and Miss Sherwood embrace, and Eddy steals her "jewel." At the Los Angeles Ambassador they wouldn't let Miss Sherwood expose her stomach, but this being the Sizzling Sixties, nobody's objected in N.Y. Miss Sherwood also pretends to be a spectator during Eddy's singing. "Are you enjoying yourself?" he asks her. "Who else?" she says. We think Mr. Eddy not only has a delightful act—it could almost play the Las Vegas "Strip" as they call it.

OUR FEARLESS FORECAST: Gov. Rockefeller will accept the VP nomination — because ike privately advised him Nixon desperately needs him. The GOP big brains are scared that without Rocky, they can lose N.Y. and N.J. — and 1600 Pennsylvania Av.

GALE

After Marlene Dietrich wound up a glamorous engagement at Las Vegas and scooted to Paris, Donald O'Connor and Sidney Miller came in and did a take-off on Marlene's famed Argentinian coque feather creation which she wore with a slit skirt. Miller, also wearing feathers and a cape, explains: "My dress designer was a chicken plucker—and somewhere in Beverly Hills tonight there's a naked chicken." (Marlene's husband Rudolf Seiber, operator of a San Francisco Valley chicken ranch, visited her twice, wearing a beret, just as on the Champs Elysees—or B'way.)

Joni James — who went to England and made an album she dedicated to Princess Margaret—was then invited to tea with the Princess this week.

Bob Hope'll soon be zipping to Wash'n, Miami Beach and Wichita for big shows he's doing without pay. In Miami Beach, he appears for the Variety Club Children's Hospital fund Jan. 28, and may relax a couple of days on the yacht belonging to Frances Langford Brinrude and her husband. Bob insists, however, that he's resting, as his doctors have ordered. "It's what you do after you do your show that tires you," Bob said. "It's more work for me to get to bed than to do the shows."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Pat Boone's TV'ers will be seen in Germany, England and Australia . . . Actress Neva Patterson and husband James Lee will adopt two youngsters . . . Joe Louis will take his name off a Chicago gym, because it "doesn't represent" him . . . Yul Brynner bought a Paris cafe . . . Actor Frank Milan is romancing Shirley Booth . . . Judy Holliday'll be ringside when beau Jerry Mulligan brings his jazz crew here in March.

EARL'S PEARLS: Your son's growing up when he gets a bigger allowance from your wife than you do.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Among the things that seem to grow by leaps and bounds are the kids in the apartment upstairs.

Comedienne Jean Carroll insists she wouldn't want her husband to become president: "All the neighbors know exactly what your husband does and how much he makes." . . . That's earl, brother.

Nehru Adamant on Military Aid

He Lectures His Party, Nixing Abandonment of Nonalignment Policy

BANGALORE, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru angrily denounced today suggestions that India abandon its policy of avoiding military alliances. He said he was not going to call on foreign armies to help out against Chinese Communists "whatever the consequences."

A small challenge to his foreign policy was snowed under after he lectured members of his National Congress party, rejecting any suggestion that India revise its policy of nonalignment in world affairs.

A motion from the floor of the party's annual convention proposed deletion of the foreign policy section of a resolution. Two speakers supported the motion, but when the vote came the resolution passed unanimously.

In addition to reaffirming nonalignment and rejection of military alliances, the resolution opposed nuclear weapons production and testing, deplored racial discrimination in Africa, and expressed support for the Algerian rebels.

Another resolution supported the government in its handling of the "grave situation" created by Communist pressure on the Chinese-Indian border. Government policy is to settle the trouble peaceably while preparing to resist any aggression.

Kiwanis Series to View Movie of Yugoslavia

Making a full-length color motion picture of Yugoslavia without the permission of Yugoslavian authorities presents several hazards.

Gene Wiancko will show such a film and tell of harrowing escapades in what is expected to be a highlight of the current Downtown Pontiac Kiwanis Club's Travel and Adventure Series Tuesday night.

The program will begin at 8 at Pontiac Central High School auditorium. The title of Wiancko's film-lecture is "Yugoslavia, Romania and Czechoslovakia."

Wiancko is new to the Pontiac Kiwanis series. He was a champion West Coast collegiate debater from the University of California before World War II.

During the war he went into oil exploration as a geophysicist in a search which led him as far away as the Alaskan Arctic.

S-P President Sees Upped Earning Figures

CHICAGO (UPI)—The president of Studebaker-Packard Corp. said yesterday unaudited figures indicated the firm's net earnings for 1959 increased to about $28,500,000.

* * *

Harold E. Churchill, speaking at a meeting of investment analysts here, attributed the increased earnings to "uninterrupted production despite the steel strike, plus public acceptance of our new models" and other factors.

Teen-Agers Injured in Three-Car Pile-Up

A three-car pile-up last night on Commerce road east of Carroll Lake road in Commerce Township sent two teen-agers to Pontiac General Hospital, according to sheriff's deputies.

One of the drivers, Raymond Cherre, 18, of 127 Commerce Rd., and his passenger, Ted Cwikiel, 17, of 4375 Bluebird St., both of Milford, were treated and released.

* * *

The other drivers were Wayne Dearing, 17, of Milford, and Gerald M. Klinger, 23, of Walled Lake.

Ernie Shrinks 'Pinafore,' but Result Is Charming

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI) — The credo of the song-and-dance man, "Always leave 'em wanting more," was practiced last night when Tennessee Ernie Ford presented his entertaining condensation of "H.M.S. Pinafore."

Twelve brisk numbers from the 1878 Gilbert and Sullivan operetta were chopped up, packed tightly and crammed aboard "Pinafore" during the half-hour NBC-TV colorcast.

It seemed as if such familiar peasant ditties as "I Am the Captain of the Pinafore," "Buttercup," and "We Sail the Ocean Blue," would just start to roll when they had to end.

And that noble skipper, peapicker Ernie Ford, paddled the foam-speckled plot along with his usual back-porch banter.

Speaking of the snobbery rampant in 19th Century England, Ford said, "There were no holes in the fence for a master to get into the wrong hen house."

Referring to a cheroy, he quipped, "That's a thinking woman's husband." Of a social butterfly, this comment: "His teabag is never dry."

Referring to Capt. Corcoran's sinecure: "He oughta be happier'n a woodpecker in a furniture factory." And in sizing up treacherous Dick Deadeye, Ernie said, "There's a flour ball in the gravy."

While some Gilbert and Sullivan purists might consider Ford the flour ball in the cultural gravy, I felt Ford's charming riposte added sparkle to the production and were not disrespectful to the G-and-S operetta.

In fact, despite the harsh editing made necessary by the time limitation, the entire production remained faithful to the "Pinafore" spirit.

Ford as the Rt. Hon Sir Joseph Porter, K.C.B., conveyed a solid grasp of the stuffy role and brought out its humor.

His chorus, the Top Twenty's also earned more glory for itself.

DIALING AND FILING: Don Ameche upstaged everyone by wearing a bold striped tie on last night's ABC-TV Pat Boone show.

The show had one of its finest moments with its "At the Moving Picture Ball" number although the singing could have used more bite.

THE CHANNEL SWIM: Bob Hope, who just agreed to emcee the 90-minute Oscar telecast on NBC Monday, April 4, also will narrate NBC-TV's "Not So Long Ago," a nostalgic look at the years 1945-50 set for Friday, Feb. 19 . . . The grapevine says Sylvania awards will go to Ingrid Bergman for her acting in "The Turn of the Screw." Laurence Olivier for his job in "The Moon and Sixpence," and the Startime Christmas musicale with Leonard Bernstein . . . "Harrigan and Son," starring Pat O'Brien as an elderly lawyer, is due for fall presentation on NBC-TV. Cy Howard created the series and Desilu will produce it.

Third Year in Row

PCH Takes Debate Title

The Pontiac Central High School debate team yesterday won the Saginaw Valley Conference season championship, taking 10 of its 12 tournament debates at Flint Central.

* * *

The local orators established a record for the year with 36 victories out of 48 contests and the third conference championship in three years.

As Saginaw Valley champions, the Central High debaters qualify for the district finals in Pinconning Feb. 13.

The team was coached by Walter R. Smith.

Final standings for the season were Pontiac Central, 40 points; Flint Central, 47 points; Flint Northern, 45 points; Arthur Hill, 35 points; Bay City, 13; and Saginaw, 7.

Local teachers who judged schools other than Pontiac were Robert Rickard, Tom Metzdorf, Jim Van Cleve, Gordon Johnston and Arthur Selden.

3 Youths Accused of Anti-Jewish Plot

NEW YORK (AP) — Three youths were arrested in Queens Thursday night and accused of organizing an anti-Jewish club.

Police, acting on a tip, entered the home of John Wallace, 21, alleged ring leader of the "National American Socialist Renaissance Party."

In Wallace's room, they said, were swastikas, Jewish hate literature and a phonograph record entitled "Hitler's inferno."

Wallace was quoted as saying he had planned his group for a long time and that he felt this country needed a dictator. What he wanted to do, he said, was get enough followers to attack Jews in heavily Jewish sections of Queens.

Michigan's City on Ice to Be Ready Saturday

BOYNE CITY (UPI)—A village will spring up on Lake Charlevoix Saturday.

Smeltania, Michigan's world known city on ice, will make its annual appearance for the winter season.

Mayor Archie Kuriskin said Smeltania was behind in being operational this year because of a late freeze-over which delayed construction of power lines out on the ice. Smeltania has lighted streets as well as telephone service and gas heat.

Smeltania is a seasonal ice fishing resort visited by thousands of anglers each winter.

Farewell, John L.

Williams Lashed for Requesting Heavy Spending

GOP Says Tax Truce Won't Allow It; Against 'Another Wild Spree'

LANSING (AP) — Republican legislators today lit into Gov. Williams for proposing millions of dollars in new spending programs for debt-plagued Michigan.

They chided him for calling a truce on taxes, then laying out a 29-point program that would create 12 state commissions, a state building authority and a 30-million-dollar state parks bonding program.

Sen. Lynn O. Francis (R-Midland), Senate GOP floor leader, stunned the proposals would boost at least 60 million dollars in new taxes.

"This is no time to embark on another wild spending spree," he said.

The governor's 45-minute address was one of the mildest of his 12 annual "state of the state" messages — and his last if he decides against bidding for a seventh term.

Tension heightened among Michigan politicians amid growing speculation over whether Gov. Williams will run for an unprecedented seventh term.

Some capitol observers felt that the governor himself had not yet made up his mind about seeking re-election. Even if he has, they feel that he has not definitely made his decision to announce.

KINDLED BY ARTICLE

Discussion of Williams' intentions was kindled anew by an article in the Washington (D.C.) Evening Star's sportsman which said it if political associates of the governor now expect him to retire this year rather than run again. The newspaper quoted unnamed associates as saying Williams may announce his decision before the end of January.

For only the second time, Williams offered no tax recommendations. Last year's stop-up proposed insurance taxes and license fees, boosts for cigarette and beer taxes, a new 3-cent-per-gallon gasoline tax, sprinkled any number of new taxes, he said.

The Democratic governor also promised he would come up with a balanced or nearly balanced

Cheers! You're Now Worth $1,472.39 More

WASHINGTON (AP)—You own $1,472.39 worth of property you may not ever have thought about.

So does Nelson A. Rockefeller, for that matter.

All this figures, since the people are the government of the United States and the value of all real and personal property owned by the federal government was placed today at 264 billion dollars or more.

You figure your share by dividing 179,300,000 — the number of people in the United States as of Jan. 1 — into the 264 billion.

The property total was shown in an annual inventory report issued by the House Government Operations Committee.

Famed Doctor Held in Killing

LSU Dean Accused of Murdering Woman Protegee-Teacher

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Dr. George D. Mackey, known internationally in the field of genetics, was held in a Baton Rouge jail cell today accused of murdering a fellow teacher and protege.

Dr. Margaret Rosamond McMillan Officers arrested Dr. Mackey, dean of the Louisiana State University Graduate School, Thursday. They had questioned him several times since the body of Miss McMillan, 29, was found on a cow path Sunday near the Mississippi River.

An assailant had brutally beaten her with a blunt instrument on the back of the head. She was a biology teacher at the LSU branch in New Orleans but was believed to have driven to Baton Rouge for a date.

Dist. Atty. J. St. Clair Favrot said Thursday night a special session of the grand jury may be called to consider the charge against Mackey, married and the father of a 19-year-old boy, a sophomore at LSU, and a married daughter.

The regular session of the grand jury is scheduled Feb. 16.

A murder charge in Louisiana allows no release on bond.

DETAILS SHIELDED

Deputies picked up Mackey at the campus Thursday and took him to State Police headquarters for questioning.

NAMED IN PLANE CRASH — Julian Frank, 32-year-old Westport, Conn., lawyer, shown in New York with his wife, is said to have taken out insurance totaling almost $900,000 during the nine months preceding his death in a North Carolina airliner crash Jan. 6. His wife was not on the plane with him. Evidence is strong that a suicide-bent passenger released a bomb, causing the crash that killed all 34 persons aboard.

Passenger May Have Brought Death to 34

Victim Signed Up for $900,000 of Insurance Only Months Before

WASHINGTON (AP)—Blaming a suicide bomb for a Jan. 6 airliner crash which killed 34 persons, Sen. A. S. (Mike) Monroney (D-Okla.) said today new laws may be needed to protect against such acts.

He said the evidence is very strong that a passenger bent on suicide caused the disaster.

The FBI reportedly moved into the case Thursday as the story was unfolded before the Senate aviation subcommittee headed by Monroney.

The subcommittee heard testimony that insurance totaling nearly $900,000 had been issued since last April on the life of one of the crash victims.

He was named as Julian Andrew Frank, 32 - year - old Westport, Conn., lawyer. He died with 33 others when a National Airlines plane plunged to earth near Bolivia, N.C., while en route from New York to Miami.

WAS BEING INVESTIGATED

It also was disclosed in New York that Frank was under investigation by the district attorney's office and the bar association on a complaint lodged against him by a building engineer client.

The complaint concerned the disappearance of a $20,000 check, part of the proceeds of a $33,000 Queens realty sale.

Oscar Bakke, chief of the Civil Aeronautics Board's safety division, testified about the insurance. Bakke also described other evidence found by CAB investigators which Monroney said made clear the grim story of what had happened.

"I am convinced the explosion of a bomb of some sort was the cause of this disaster," Monroney announced.

It seems pretty-pat that this bomb was carried into the washroom in the plane and set off deliberately.

"The evidence is very strong that it was a case of suicide by bombing."

Bakke made no such direct statement, saying the CAB is reserving an official verdict until further investigation is completed. But he said some of the evidence points to a possible bomb explosion and said if that was the case, "it will be discovered and the cause precisely established."

Mystery had shrouded exact cause of the disaster since the plane literally fell apart in the air and plunged to earth.

Relics of most of the victims—the last was found Thursday—were located in the vicinity of Bolivia, N.C.

Frank's body was found last Saturday 16 miles away, on the beach near Ft. Fisher, N.C., with

Nasser's 42 Today

CAIRO (UPI)—President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic observed his 42nd birthday today.

Rain . . . Sleet . . . Snow Bring Load of Woe

Freezing rain and sleet today caused three area school systems to close and another to curtail bus operation for the second time in four days.

Pupils in the Imlay, Almont and Armada area school districts did not attend classes. Attendance was affected appreciably in the Oxford schools due to lack of bus service.

Below-freezing was predicted for the entire state by Yokie.

Early morning snowfalls including five inches at Muskegon and Saginaw forced rural schools of both areas to close because school buses couldn't run.

Virtually all western and central Michigan got the snow while to the south there was freezing rain.

Reduced visibility forced the grounding of commercial planes at Saginaw, Muskegon and Flint. At the latter, the snow continued in the Saginaw area, state police of the Bridgeport Post reported little car traffic on main trunklines and none on side roads.

The snow was so heavy at Saginaw that at 10 a.m. all public and parochial schools were ordered to close as of noon.

Forecasts of clearing weather gave hope that plane travel might be resumed in the affected cities by this afternoon.

Car Hits Train; Arrest Driver

Seek Warrant Against Oxford Man in Crash That Injured Youth

A 21-year-old Oxford man was arrested for investigation of reckless driving yesterday after the car he was driving hit a Grand Trunk Railroad freight train at the Johnson avenue crossing.

Police planned to seek a warrant today against the driver, Fred E. Hannah, 21, of 102 East St., Oxford.

Injured in the collision was Donald Evans, 18, of 14 Stanton St., Oxford. He was reported in fair condition at Pontiac General Hospital today. He suffered a fractured skull.

Hannah and another passenger, Gale Odell, 18, of 886 Gill St., Oxford, were not injured.

Hannah told Pontiac police he did not see the train. His car smashed through a guard rail and into the side of a box car.

He was driving east on Johnson avenue when the accident occurred.

March, Men; Clippings Too Long for Purse

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—A mass demonstration was being organized today to get the men of Sherbrooke to leave town — for haircuts.

Behind the agitation is the C.G.W.O.U.F.H.S. — the Committee of Gentlemen Who Oppose the Increase in the Price of Haircuts in Sherbrooke.

The economy-minded group is determined to defeat what it contends an inflationary move by Sherbrooke barbers in boosting the price of haircuts from $1 to $1.75.

The C.G.W.O.U.F.H.S will stage a protest parade Friday down the main street of this Quebec city of 36,000. The parade will feature carloads of bush-haired males.

Immediately afterwards, organizer Maurice Prouly hopes to lead most of Sherbrooke's men to barbershops in the town of Magog, 25 miles away, where a haircut still is $1.

Doctors Not Sure It Is Asian Type

Mild Influenza Hits Oakland County

Influenza — possibly of the Asian type, there had been no reports to date — apparently has hit Oakland County according to Dr. John F. Monroe, director of the County Health Department.

Dr. Monroe emphasized that "But there is a lot of illness reported in the county and we assume some of it is flu, including the Asian type," he said.

Cases of influenza have been identified in Detroit.

Yesterday, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Arthur S. Flemming called a news conference in Washington that Asian flu had been eliminated in Michigan and three other states. Texas Gov. Price Daniel Flemming said the flu had been reported in Texas, Tennessee, Kentucky, Ohio, California, Nevada, Utah, Hawaii, and Michigan.

Dr. Monroe called attention to what appears to be a shortage of flu vaccine in the Oakland County area.

"There is probably not enough vaccine available to immunize a very large segment of the population," he said.

The vaccine is usually obtained through private physicians. The health department does not receive any from the state, Dr. Monroe said.

Dr. John D. Morgan, medical director of Pontiac General Hospital, said there has been no definite cases of influenza admitted to the hospital.

He said the hospital is thoroughly checking into a few cases of possible influenza. This involves primarily sending blood samples to the State Department of Health in Lansing for analysis, a process that takes about a week.

"Doctors have reported to me cases of possible influenza," Dr. Morgan said. "But these cases were so mild that the physicians are treating the patients at home."

The variety of flu known as Asian flu struck Michigan and much of the nation 2½ years ago, causing widespread sickness and even some deaths.

West Works on Reds to Halt Arms Secrecy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Western powers especially mount a new campaign this spring to its huge arsenal of nuclear and break down Soviet secrecy bar- rocket weapons. It no longer needs on an essential step toward as many men under arms to serve an arms control agreement. its military objectives. Indeed experts here are certain that the Soviet Union needs the men more urgently in industry and agriculture to produce food, civilian consumer goods, and more modern munitions.

The importance of an international inspection system which would operate throughout the Soviet Union and keep check on all armed forces was heavily emphasized anew Thursday in a statement here on the projected Soviet military manpower cut.

The Soviet Union and the Western powers will resume disarmament negotiations at Geneva on March 15, meeting as members of a 10-nation committee — equally divided between Communist and Western ALL-

Within two weeks the United States is expected to begin consultations with British, French and other Western members of the group on what Allied policy should be.

The chief element is sure to be a requirement for a vast system of "international inspectors operating behind the Iron Curtain as well as within the borders of free nations.

This essential condition laid down by the Western nations in the past has been the chief obstacle to reaching a disarmament agreement with the Soviet Union. But the Western governments have insisted that an agreement which was not safeguarded by such inspection would be worse than useless since it would create a serious danger of cheating.

ISSUE IS CRITICAL

This whole critical issue was brought into the spotlight afresh Thursday by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's announcement that he intends to cut Soviet armed forces by 1,200,000 men without waiting for a disarmament agreement.

The State Department, Pentagon and White House found cold comfort in the news. One official said about the most it seemed to mean was that the Soviets at least were not adding manpower.

Although Khrushchev presented it as a measure of single-handed disarmament, not conditioned on agreement with the West, he made quite clear in other portions of his long speech to the Supreme Soviet that its real significance is something else.

It is part of a new Soviet military program designed to exploit what the Soviet president called his "second

Other World Powers Challenged to Trim Military Manpower

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet spokesmen called on other world powers today to follow the example of Premier Nikita Khrushchev's move to trim military manpower. Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko singled out the Western Big Three.

Gromyko and others addressed the 1,320 deputies of the Soviet Parliament as it moved methodically toward unanimous adoption of Khrushchev's proposal to lop 1,200,000 men from the Soviet armed forces in the next year or two and rely on rocket-nuclear weapons for the slack.

Gromyko said he hoped the action of Parliament in voting the reduction will influence lawmakers of the United States, Britain and France to do likewise. He suggested some practical actions in reply.

Justas Paleckis, head of the Lithuanian Parliament's Presidium, declared the Soviet move should induce Parliament members of all nations to press for similar decisions by their governments.

There was speculation in diplomatic galleries and among the Soviets themselves about the "fantastic new weapon" Khrushchev spoke about Thursday.

There were no further details.

WHAT'S NEXT DATE?

People here also were asking one another when the Soviet Union's big new space rocket will hit the moon and the Central Pacific.

Today marks the first day of a month-long period during which the Soviet Union says the tests will be held.

GM Plane Official Says: Must Desire Air Service

Besides adequate airport facilities to attract business an transportation, a community such as Pontiac must have a realistic desire for increased air service, Pontiac Rotarians were told yesterday.

Speaking at their weekly luncheon at the Waldron Hotel was E. Tilson Peabody, director of General Motors Corporation's Air Transport Section.

The section is responsible for transporting GM executives and officials by air "where they have to go when they have to go."

Seventeen thousand corporation-owned aircraft log three times the number of hours of commercial airlines, Peabody said.

Success of corporation and private business air transportation requires that residents weigh all the advantages of having a busy, modern airport against the disadvantages, he said.

Residents must realize that noise and risk of a nearby airport are outweighed by its advantages; loss in taxes by taking private land off the tax rolls will be compensated for by resulting economic factors; certain roads must be closed or relocated; and that the community should be in substantial agreement on where the best place is and should understand why.

MUST SETTLE

"These are a few of the things that should be considered, understood and settled before a community builds an airport, not after," Peabody said.

No company likes to land its planes on a municipal battlefield, he added.

He referred to the recent survey of air transportation requirements for this general area released to

In Insurance Commission Record

Williams Clears Navarre

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Williams says former insurance commissioner Joseph A. Navarre has not sought to exert any special influence on his successor in office in Michigan.

Frank Blackford succeeded Navarre in January 1959 before crystallization of problems that threw Michigan Surety Co. of Lansing into receivership.

The legal difficulties of Michigan Surety Co. plus Navarre's role as a legal representative of the firm after retirement from office in Michigan brought this comment from Williams:

"So far as I am aware Joe Navarre is an honorable man and conducted himself honorably while he was a member of my administration.

"He was highly thought of among his colleagues and was elected president of the Association of Insurance Commissioners.

"What he has done since leaving state government a year ago is a private, not a public, affair and is his business, not mine.

"I do know that he has not sought to exert any special influence with the present insurance commissioner."

Navarre disclosed yesterday that his law firm was engaged last January by Michigan Surety Co within weeks after Navarre left office and a few months before Michigan Surety was put into receivership.

Blackford contends that Michigan Surety is hopelessly insolvent, and that its difficulties are closely bound up with out-of-state firms controlled by Mark H. Kroll of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Edwin A. Stowell, Ohio superintendent of insurance, said yesterday that three Kroll-controlled firms owed Michigan Surety $1,282,000.

"We don't know what we'll find when we untangle all of the listed assets," Stowell said.

Michigan Surety assets held by the three firms have been frozen by court order.

DISCLOSURE MADE

Blackford disclosed yesterday that Navarre, then counsel for Michigan Surety, was the insurance firm official who "indicated he felt that the people who worked on the 1958 examination were prejudiced against Michigan Surety."

The special examination was called off in December 1958 while Navarre was insurance commissioner. It was under direction of Theodore Tubergen, insurance department supervisor of examiners.

Tubergen was responsible for starting an abortive inquiry in June 1958. A 1958 examination led to the receivership. It was directed by Don Fritz of Lansing, under special arrangements made by Blackford.

Blackford confirmed yesterday that he had stopped payments from the insurance company to Navarre's law firm The law outfit was on a retainer for $1,000 a month.

"We are not retaining any private attorneys," said Blackford, appointed receiver by Circuit Judge Louis E. Coash. "We will use the attorney general's office."

20 Years Older Than School but He Can Learn

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Robert K. Orr is only a sophomore at Florida Southern College in Lakeland, Fla., but he is 20 years older than the school.

The 40-year-old man visited relatives here this week en route to Florida.

The Carr, Mich., great-grandfather explained he enrolled last year "to fill some of the empty spots in my life."

Orr is a retired businessman and founded the Wolverine Insurance Co. in 1916. The firm has offices in 13 states now.

Orr never finished high school but taught at country schools in Michigan and wrote a book on business letter writing, now used as a school textbook.

He helped organize Michigan's insurance program, which later became the state workman's compensation program.

Orr said he didn't go to college to wear a beanie or to lead cheers.

"I just want to learn some of the things I missed when I was younger," he explained.

Bus Confab? More Failure

Tri-City Strike Goes On; State Mediators Hunt New Dates

New efforts to solve the tri-city bus strike failed yesterday in Kalamazoo.

There were plans for state mediators to arrange new negotiating session next week in Pontiac and Saginaw, but no definite dates have been set.

Subsidiaries of National City Lines, Inc., have been struck by drivers and mechanics in all three cities for about five weeks.

Employes are asking for wage increases that the company says are too high. In Pontiac they are asking for a 22-cent-an-hour package, which the company has rejected.

A union spokesman said yesterday's meeting accomplished "absolutely nothing."

Federal mediator Judson P. Quintard said the Kalamazoo union proposed a settlement costing even more than the one rejected previously by the company.

Wants Any Arms Deal to Include Red China

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sen. Hubert H Humphrey (D-Minn) said last night he would refuse to vote for ratification of any world disarmament treaty which did not include Red China.

Humphrey, a strong advocate of disarmament and candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, said on a radio program he did not believe the time was yet ripe for recognizing Red China, but a treaty could be signed anyway.

He said Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's disarmament plan was "a convenient announcement inasmuch as he had Red Chinese armies to back him up."

"There is no point to fighting again the old battles over the old grounds of the past in this legislative session," said House Speaker Don R. Pears (R-Buchanan) and Sen. Frank D. Beadle (R-St. Clair), Senate majority leader.

"This is a time for realism, and for unity of purpose to straighten out the financial mess in Michigan," they said.

The two GOP leaders shrugged off most of the governor's program as "warmed over" versions of earlier recommendations. They included such standbys as a seal of quality for state agricultural products, a commission for the aging, commissions on atomic energy and automation and a $1.25 minimum wage.

As expected, members of the governor's own party praised his blueprint as progressive and far-reaching.

Ferndale Man's Case Dropped in Carolina

A charge of involuntary manslaughter against Cleveland Hall Jr., 28, of Ferndale in a fatal traffic accident was dismissed at Marion, N. C., yesterday for lack of evidence.

Bomb Is Believed Air Crash Cause

some of the wreckage. Bakke said Frank could have been blown through the side of the plane by an explosion.

Bakke said Frank's body had been deeply pierced by metal and wood fragments, and had been mutilated in a manner far different from the injuries suffered by all of the other victims. Such piercing of the body with flying fragments frequently occurs in explosions.

A small blue fabric bag, its bottom violently torn out, was viewed by Bakke and Monroney as key evidence in their joint inquiry. Monroney said the bag may have contained the bomb.

Frank was married to the former Janet Wagner, a top photographer's model who formerly lived in Galesburg, Ill. They had two children, Andrew, 2 and Ellen, 4. They moved to Connecticut about five years ago from New York City, and moved in prominent social circles there.

EMOTIONALLY UPSET

He was the son of the late Aaron Frank, a former deputy police commissioner of New York.

* * *

A source close to the Frank family reported in New York that Frank was emotionally upset and feared flying.

He reportedly took the train when the rest of his family flew to Chicago for Christmas and had canceled four previous reservations for the Miami trip.

Bakke said that Frank had taken out a $500,000 life insurance policy last November, two $100,000 accident policies in April and November, and three accident policies of $61,500 each in December.

* * *

Monroney said the insurance was made payable to Mrs Frank as beneficiary. She declined to discuss the matter with newsmen.

Cold Weather Whips Into Midwest States

By The Associated Press

Wintry weather, with snow, gusty winds and cold, swept into the Midwest today as a new ice storm moved into the Northeast.

The Midwest storm, fanned by strong northerly winds, dumped heavy snow in Iowa and Wisconsin and moved northeastward into northern Lower Michigan.

There was considerable blowing and drifting snow, resulting in hazardous driving conditions. Snow depths ranged up to a foot in parts of Iowa.

The gusty winds also powered cold air southward from Canada into the nation's midsection, with temperatures tumbling southward through Kansas and Oklahoma. The cold air ended unseasonably warm weather in many areas. It was a year zero in some northern Midwest areas and in the northern Rockies.

COLD AIR ALONG ROCKIES

Cold air also swept along the Rockies from Montana, but the heavy snow which hit Colorado, Nebraska and Kansas appeared ended. Falls ranged from about 3 inches in Kansas to 6 to 12 inches from northern Colorado through most of Nebraska.

Falls in Colorado ranged up to two feet at Rico, in the southwestern part of the state. At Pueblo, Colorado's second largest city, the snow covering measured 18 inches.

* * *

As the snow swept the great plains Thursday, a tornadoes skipped across north central Texas and parts of Oklahoma. No casualties were reported.

Ike to Shoot Quail in Georgia on Weekend

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will fly to Georgia today for a weekend of quail shooting, the White House announced.

* * *

He planned to leave Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland about 10 a.m. for a flight to Albany, Ga.

* * *

He will stay at the Blue Springs plantation of W. Alton Jones, an executive of Cities Service Co., a personal friend and frequent golfing companion.

We Like It as 'Boi-oi-oing,' Crack or No

LONDON (AP) — For 100 years London's famed Big Ben has chimed out the hours with a resounding "boi-oi-oing."

Now two British metal repairmen have offered to mend a crack in the 13½-ton bell "as a patriotic duty" without removing it from atop its tower.

They claim that would make it sound as it should—just a simple "boing."

A spokesman for the Ministry of Works said, "We shall consider the offer, of course, but boi-oi-oing is a sound the world has got used to. The crack does not affect the safety of the bell."

DEAN CHARGED WITH MURDER — Shown working in his laboratory is Dr. George H. Mickey, dean of the Louisiana State University graduate school at Baton Rouge. Dr. Mickey was arrested Thursday for the murder of a LSU woman professor. The woman was Dr. Margaret Rosamond McMillan. The dean has not confessed to anything.

any details of their case against the 49-year-old Mickey, described as likeable and friendly by LSU personnel. He is considered brilliant in the field of genetics and is known internationally.

Favrot said he issued the warrant after reviewing the evidence. He wouldn't go beyond that. The district attorney said the investigation is still going on.

Photographs and letters found in Dr. McMillan's apartment in New Orleans were mentioned several times by officers during the earlier part of the investigation.

Still missing is the weapon used in battering Miss McMillan's head 13 times. It is believed to be something similar to a tire tool.

A construction crew found her body early Sunday not far from the Mississippi River. Nearby was the 1960 foreign sports car she had driven to Baton Rouge. In her hands was a crushed package of cigarettes she was apparently trying to open when she was attacked, presumably, officers think, from behind.

Dr. Mickey is a native of Claude, in the Texas Panhandle. He is a graduate of Baylor University, a Baptist institution in Waco, Tex. He studied for his advanced degrees at Oklahoma University and the University of Texas.

He apparently first met Dr. McMillan when he was on the staff at Northwestern University in the early 1950s. It was there that he helped her with her thesis. Miss McMillan was from Evanston, Ill., site of Northwestern. Her funeral service was held there Thursday.

LSU has not taken any stand on the case.

Kishi of Japan Facing Trouble

Leftists Plan Bombs to Stop Prime Minister Leaving for U.S.

TOKYO (AP)—Angry leftists today threatened to block highways, throw bombs and retaliate at the polls to prevent the departure of Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi for Washington to sign a new military alliance with the United States.

He is leaving Saturday via chartered airliner (JAL). The pact will be signed at the White House Jan. 19.

* * *

Communist-led Zengakuren, a radical students organization, said it would muster 3,000 students to seal off roads to the airport. Unsigned letters received by Kishi said he might be bombed.

CHINA IN PICTURE

And Communist China stepped up the tension with warnings the pact would drag Japan into war.

That is the theme of Kishi's neutrality-advocating opponents — that continuation of American bases here under the alliance will set Japan again on a patch of aggression and war in Asia in partnership with America.

Kishi added to the strange picture by clouding his departure time in mystery until this afternoon.

Police have mobilized 6,000 men to protect the departure. There was little doubt they could keep roads open.

The new U.S.-Japan security pact was negotiated by U.S. Ambassador Douglas MacArthur II and Foreign Minister Aiichiro Fujyama during the past 13 months. It provides for continuing U.S. bases here at least 10 years.

A bitter fight is expected in Parliament when the alliance is submitted for ratification upon Kishi's return Jan. 24.

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—President Ngo Dinh Diem of South Viet Nam arrived here today for a four day state visit. He was greeted at the airport by Chinese Nationalist President Chiang Kai-shek.

Third Year in Row

PCH Takes Debate Title

The Pontiac Central High School debate team yesterday won the Saginaw Valley Conference season championship, taking 10 of its 12 tournament debates at Flint Central.

* * *

The local orators established a record for the year with 36 victories out of 48 contests and the third conference championship in three years.

As Saginaw Valley champions, the Central High debaters qualify for the district finals in Pinconning Feb. 13.

The team was coached by Walter R. Smith.

Final standings for the season were Pontiac Central, 49 points; Flint Central, 47 points; Flint Northern, 43 points; Arthur Hill, 32 points; Bay City, 13; and Saginaw, 7.

Local teachers who judged schools other than Pontiac were Robert Rickard, Tom Metzdorf, Jim Van Cleve, Gordon Johnston and Arthur Selden.

City Educators to Attend Talks

New Math Programs Is General Theme at University of Michigan

A group of Pontiac educators will attend the 10th annual Mathematics-Education Conference at the University of Michigan Saturday.

General theme of the conference will be "New and Experimental Mathematics Programs." Reports will be heard of several Michigan projects. Some data on the Defense Education Act will also be presented. A summary of the status of new programs over the United States as a whole will be given.

Small group meetings will be devoted to more detailed descriptions of classroom materials and experiences. Appearing on the program will be Charles Murphy, teacher at Madison Junior High.

Other school teachers and administrators attending from Pontiac are Kathleen Gelhorn from Pontiac Northern; Mike Andonian, Joseph Blank, Mrs. Freeman Clark Mary Gibbs and Joyce Sweet from Pontiac Central; E. L. Sturdy, assistant principal, Ralph Allen, Mrs. Archie Barnett, Mrs. Sturdy, and Mrs. John Ward of Eastern; Hobart Doehr, Rollie Jones, and John Stockman from Jefferson; James Cox, Janet Denhoff, Adrian Dutcher, and Mrs. Milton Young of Lincoln Junior High; Bernard Bruner, Stuart Choate, and Theodore Tomlinson from Madison; Donald Chuey, Mrs. Charles Heimke, Mrs. Samuel Miller, and David Weatherell from Washington; and Dr. Russell Curtis, Coordinator of Secondary Education.

Area Resident Hurt When Auto Hits Tree

A West Bloomfield Township man is in satisfactory condition today at Pontiac General Hospital after his car smashed into a tree last night, according to sheriff's deputies.

* * *

Darrell F. Weaver, 27, of 7377 Cooley Lake Rd., told deputies he couldn't see through heavy fog and ran off Haggerty road just north of Pontiac Trail in Commerce Township.

He suffered fractured ribs.

Ike OKs Overtime for Space Speed-Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has ordered overtime work if necessary to speed development of a super space rocket. He also wants to know if more money is needed for the job.

* * *

The President sent those instructions Thursday to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

He told T. Keith Glennan, NASA chief, "It is essential to press forward vigorously to increase our capability in high thrust space vehicles."

Widowed Lu Ann Simms Gives Birth to Child

NEW YORK (AP)—Television singer Lu Ann Simms has given birth to a child. The singer's husband Loring Buzzell died last Oct. 20.

Doctors Hospital said today that the child, born there Thursday, and the mother were fine. The hospital refused to reveal the sex of the child.

* * *

Buzzell, a music publisher, died here of a heart attack at the age of 31.

The Day in Birmingham

Unarmed Theft Charge Puts Man in County Jail

BIRMINGHAM — Charged with unarmed robbery of Greenfield's Restaurant, 725 S. Hunter Blvd., a former employe is being held in the Oakland County Jail following his arraignment yesterday.

Wilbert L. Wheat, 23, of Detroit, and a former Pontiac resident, stood mute to the charges and waived examination before Birmingham Municipal Judge Edward Emery.

Bond was set at $2,000 and Wheat, who could not raise the money, was bound over to Circuit Court for a Jan. 25 hearing before Judge H. Russel Holland.

Wheat, accused of taking $836 from the restaurant's safe Monday night after forcing assistant manager William Gass to open it, was picked up Tuesday in Detroit on the request of the Birmingham police.

Only $146 of the stolen money was recovered, according to Det. Lt. Merlin Holmquist.

Columnist Sydney Harris spoke to the Birmingham Town Hall audience yesterday morning on "Great Books and Small Minds."

Mr. Harris, who heads the Great Books department of the University of Chicago's Downtown College, said he believes that every man is a philosopher, but most men are bad philosophers because they are ignorant.

He expressed his vital interest in giving adults the kind of education they missed in school. The study and discussion of the world's 70 great books can accomplish this, he believes.

Most higher education today, according to the speaker, is vocational. He said this is useful and necessary, but not the most important end of education.

"Education," said Mr. Harris, "should be designed to help a man think clearly. The four arts necessary for this are reading, writing, talking and listening."

During the question period which followed the talk at the noon luncheon at Birmingham Country Club, there were several sharp exchanges on the subject of suburban living. Harris expressed sharp disapproval of suburbia, calling it "matriarchal" and "over-organized."

* * *

The lecture was repeated this morning to the balance of the Town Hall subscribers. Adventurer John Jay will bring his skiing films to the Feb. 4 and 5 session.

Unless Marvin A. Willson, 22, of 881 Wallace Rd., Birmingham, has his wallet returned to him his long-awaited marriage to Janet Amerman, of Detroit, will be further delayed.

One thing or another has interfered with the marriage during the past three years, and now Willson, a Canadian citizen, has lost his billfold containing his Canadian birth certificate.

Wednesday, while shopping with Miss Amerman for a wedding outfit, he discovered his wallet missing somewhere near Woodward and John R in Detroit.

All arrangements have been made for a Jan. 23 wedding, but until he recovers his birth certificate he will be unable to obtain a marriage license.

If he doesn't get his wallet back by tomorrow, it will take from six to eight weeks to have a duplicate birth certificate made and sent from Toronto, he said.

Heart Association Will Give Program

The Greater Pontiac Heart Unit of the Michigan Heart Association will present "Nature of the Enemy" free to the public 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Washington Junior High School, 710 Menominee.

* * *

Dr. Donald S. Smith, president of the Michigan Heart Association will be master of ceremonies for the program, the first presented locally.

"Statistics show that more than 1,600 deaths in Oakland County during 1958 were caused from heart and circulatory ailments," said Smith. "This is three times greater than any other cause of death.

* * *

"Many of these untimely deaths could be prevented if the public were properly informed on this vital subject."

Scheduled speakers are Pontiac doctors Elmer Mueller, John Pridmore, Joseph Chandler and Charles Patrick.

Dr. Michael C. Kozonis will moderate the program and Dr. Robert T. Lyons will preside as chairman of the Greater Pontiac Heart Unit.

The evening's topic will include "Nature of the Enemy," "Causes of Arteriosclerosis," "The Effect on You," and "Hope for the Future."

* * *

tonight with a high of 35 and a low of 25.

Easterly winds this morning at 12 to 18 m.p.h. will become northeasterly tonight and Saturday with a few snow flurries Saturday and a high of 32.

State police reported that area roads were "becoming more dangerous by the degree" as the temperature slid slowly downward.

The mercury should hit a low tonight of 15 in the northern part of the state and 24 in the southern portions.

COULD'VE HAD 10 INCHES

The weatherman said that if it had been colder in the extreme southern part of Michigan in the past few days, there would have been 10 inches of snow instead of the montage of sleet, wet snow, drizzle and rain.

Many basements and side streets were flooded in the Detroit area and portions of the southernmost boundary of Oakland County early this morning.

The new east end of the Ford Expressway was closed for a time.

The five-day weather forecast for Pontiac and vicinity calls for temperatures to average two degrees above normal.

Normal high is 33, low 19.

Colder tonight and Saturday, warming a little Monday and turning colder about Tuesday or Wednesday is forecast.

Precipitation will total about two-tenths of an inch as snow flurries today and Saturday and rain or snow about Monday.

The lowest temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 32. The reading at 1 p.m. was 26.

the Supervisors Inter-County Committee.

"I have heard nobody who understands the situation question the need for additional airport facilities in this area," said Peabody who lives in Rochester.

The major problem, he went on, was to reach agreement where these facilities should be built. It was suggested by the study that another major jet airfield be built by 1970 near the Pontiac area.

The new field in this area has the best chance, the speaker said, when there is a cooperative effort of citizens and civic groups "whose genuine interests in the general welfare of the community are widely recognized."

* * *

He urged prospective tenants of the airport to "stay out of the picture" until settlement is reached on where the field will be located.

Pushes State Park Expansion

Williams Wants 5-Year 30-Million-Dollar Cash Bonding Program

LANSING (UPI) — Gov. G. Mennen Williams urged passage Thursday of a five-year, 30-million-dollar cash bonding program for an expanded state park system.

Williams said he vetoed bills last year and in 1958 for a park entrance bill "for a variety of reasons, but particularly because I do not believe our state park problem can be solved by the slow trickle of revenues from a park fee alone."

Three Republican senators, Elmer R. Porter, Blissfield, Clarence E. Gratebner, Saginaw, and John Minnema, Traverse City, yesterday launched another drive for a parks entrance fee bill.

"We need a large 'cash' program to get us an expanded and rehabilitated park system quickly, and before all available land is taken up by private owners," Williams said.

"I therefore recommend again that the people be asked to authorize 30 million dollars in faith and credit bonds to be phased out over the next five years for state park rehabilitation and expansion."

Ex-AEC Chief Sees Complete A-Power Fiasco

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI)—The Atomic Energy Commission's plans and promises for cheap electric power through atomic energy have become "a complete fiasco," former AEC chairman David E. Lilienthal says.

"After every failure have come new promises for 10 years from now," Lilienthal said. "Two of the chief reasons (for failure) have been too much money and too much secrecy.

"With too much money you build too big laboratories and stuff them with too many people —second and third rate people.

"With too much secrecy the man in one compartment doesn't know what the man next door is doing. Knowledge isn't open and there isn't open comparison and competition."

Lilienthal headed the AEC from its creation in 1946 until 1950.

He said those who promised "unlimited power at little or no cost" from the heat of atomic energy "made grave miscalculations."

One of them, he said, was in underrating the future of coal and oil for electric power in huge, modern plants.

"The cost of producing electricity by these methods has been going down as the cost of atomic energy has been going up," Lilienthal said.

Lilienthal now heads the Development and Resources Corp. of New York, one of whose projects is a development in Iran similar to the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA).

Quakers and Episcopalians in Mount Holly cooperated in 1759 to open New Jersey's first school which offered free education.

Brunswick Firm Tries to Buy Union Hardware

CHICAGO (AP) — The Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. announced today it has begun negotiations toward purchase of Union Hardware Co. in Torrington, Conn.

B. E. Bensinger, Brunswick president, said that if the transaction is approved by Union's stockholders, Brunswick will pay about 93,500 shares of stock for substantially all the hardware company's assets. He said, however, that certain adjustments remain to be made following an audit.

Union Hardware Co. manufactures a diversified line of sporting goods.

The jagged boundary line between East and West Germany cuts through many towns and an occasional house. Near Helmstedt, Germany, it bisects a salt mine.

Khrushchev's Remarks Need Careful Thought

Just how much we can believe of Premier NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV's most recent announcement is the problem facing this country and the rest of the world.

It is unfortunate that this is the case, but from past experience it is difficult to swallow everything he said hook, line and sinker. Probably some portions of his long three-hour speech are true.

If the Western powers are to believe all he said, the Soviets should be willing to participate in an exchange of truthful inspection. This, Mr. K. would have no part of in the past. To accept his pronouncements without some verification would seem ridiculous.

Undoubtedly part of his talk was aimed at recapturing some prestige lost since President EISENHOWER completed his recent trip. His demobilization pitch and nuclear test ban is aimed at the disarmament discussions set for Geneva this spring.

This country along with the other Western powers should not be stampeded into accepting Russia's terms without first careful study. The strong utterances by Boss Khrushchev sound like he was waving a big stick.

Whatever his motives may be, we must continue to accept the opportunity for negotiation and strive to work out some amicable agreement which would be mutually beneficial. We should not view his remarks lightly, yet it seems unsound to accept them as gospel truth.

Pres. de Gaulle's Visit Should Clarify Stand

After receiving Premier KHRUSHCHEV in Paris the latter part of March and visiting Great Britain in early April, Pres. DE GAULLE will come to the United States via Canada on April 22 for a week's conference.

As President of the Fifth Republic DE GAULLE has created serious problems for North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies, particularly the United States. France appears to be reneging on decisions made 10 years ago when signatories pledged to resist aggression on a collective security basis. French Prime Minister BIDAULT was the first to propose a supreme council to order and direct NATO. This resulted in a permanent North Atlantic Treaty Council calling for "balanced collective forces."

In December 1950 after the outbreak of the Korean War and fearing a Russian attack, the NATO Council recommended an integrated force under a centralized American command "adequate to insure the defense of Western Europe." At Council request Gen. Eisenhower was named the first Supreme Commander.

French Defense Minister JULES MOCH immediately announced that three divisions in Germany would be placed under NATO command and that two more would be added in 1951. Gen EISENHOWER was succeeded by Gens. RIDGEWAY, GRUENTHER and NORSTAD

Pres. de Gaulle is balking at full integration of French forces under NATO. He seems to be attacking its very foundation of planned, co-ordinated, centrally commanded, collective security. The General also is resentful of our neutral U.N. stand on Algeria and other French colonial matters.

There is no question but that Pres. DE GAULLE has worked miracles for his own country. Yet his single idea of building France's international prestige at the expense of the NATO alliance is causing alarm. Some sort of understanding will have to be arrived at before the Summit Conference with the Russians in Paris on May 16.

In This Case, Indians Are Better Off Dead

So now some Indians are drawing beads on the television producers, taking to the warpath about the large number of "Redskins" who get killed in the TV westerns.

It would appear they don't know when they have a good thing. Their dispatch is usually quick, while the viewers get the old Indian-style type of lingering torture—endless unimaginative and trite situations and episodes.

Coming Up Again

Proposition to Charge a Fee at the State Parks

Careless driver: One who plays the hearses.

The fee boys again are rampant in the new session of the Michigan State Legislature. They would make a charge for the use of our state parks.

This proposition, previously defeated by the veto of Governor

G. Mennen Williams

means much to the Pontiac area where more such recreational centers are located than in any other area in Michigan.

This also was the home of the man who originated the state park idea, the late

Howard Bloomer,

who spent much of his fortune in securing the acreage for the first such parks. He also persuaded the late

to put many millions into the plan.

The definite understanding and idea of these men was that these parks were forever to be free to the public. Many times have I heard Mr. Bloomer make this statement, always with a particular emphasis on "forever."

With over 60 such parks in the state, it can be seen that such a plan would create a good number of soft political jobs. In fact, I know of one young man who circulated such petitions with the understanding that if the plan was adopted he would be in line for such a job.

Recent quirks of the weather have only tended to make the ice in our lakes still more unsafe. Talk strongly to your children about it.

Stopped by cold weather in his potato digging last autumn,

Graham Spellman

of Oxford finished the job on Dec. 30, not finding many frozen tubers.

Tulips making an extra early start are reported by

Mrs. Pansy Fordham

of Waterford, who has bulbs sending up sprouts near a warm cellar wall.

That usually reliable weather watcher,

Frenchy Bellows

of Waterford says he can always find plenty of proof for either extreme in any coming season.

feels that the trial of that alleged killer at Brighton is a good example.

"Tell Rocky We've Got Easy Chairs and Everything"

David Lawrenee Says:

West Isn't Fooled by Soviet Talk

WASHINGTON—The Soviets are great imitators as well as propagandists. Nikita Khrushchev's latest announcement that he is going to cut down the size of the Soviet army means really that he is adopting the "new look" policy which the United States put into effect several years ago.

LAWRENCE

For there is not much use these days for Russia to spend the bulk of her money for land armies when nuclear weapons are available to threaten attack and conduct what is known as "blackmail diplomacy."

This Khrushchev carried on in the same speech in his boasts about the Soviets' "incredible weapons" in missiles and rockets.

The truth is that there is a stalemate today in nuclear weapons, and all the claims about new rockets and new missiles will not lessen the responsibility of the Soviet regime to refrain from plunging its own people into a nuclear war.

Inside the United States, the "new look" has resulted in a big debate as to whether land armies aren't still important for what is known as "limited war."

Undoubtedly, if a foolproof agreement were ever signed that would prohibit the use of nuclear weapons, then conventional forces would come into their own again. In the present stage of international propaganda, however, while conventional forces are not being abandoned, nuclear weapons are being developed with increasing intensity of effort.

HE MEANS?

One of the troubles with the Khrushchev announcement is that nobody can be sure what he means when he says he is cutting the army by 1,200,000 men.

It could mean merely the transfer from uniform to civilian clothes of great numbers of men who still would be engaged in arms production.

Also, there is no way of knowing what the true potential of the Soviet regime is on the military side, for it can count upon huge forces recruited in Communist Asia.

The United States demobilized shortly after World War II the great bulk of its armed forces from a peak level of 12,300,000 in wartime, but in view of Communist aggression, as the State Department says, "the level was later raised and stands today at approximately 2,500,000." The Soviets claim their total forces will be reduced to 2,423,000 in the next year or two.

It has been suggested that Khrushchev's speech indicates that the Soviet Union is moving toward the "massive retaliation" strategy followed by the United States in recent years.

Although in America this policy has been derided by some critics —largely by those who advocate a build-up of conventional forces for "limited wars"—the fact is that the phrase still carries a world of meaning in preventing a big war today.

The United States does not any longer stress the phrase "massive retaliation" but emphasizes its "deterrent power." It all amounts to the same thing. One side will not start a war without counting the possible extent of destruction that could be inflicted on it by the other side.

There was for a time a belief that the Soviet Union, with its missiles and rockets, could destroy in one "first blow" the bomber bases inside the United States and wreak such wide destruction that the retaliatory power of this country would be frustrated.

PROPAGANDA!

But since the development of missiles and rockets that can be launched from submarines, there is danger to a country like the Soviet Union that it would receive tremendous punishment if it ever started a war.

For obviously it would be difficult to find and destroy submarines, and it cannot be forgotten that the water areas of the world are far greater than the land surfaces.

What, then, is the purpose of the Khrushchev speech at this time? Plainly it is a propaganda move. The Soviet dictator believes, as did Adolf Hitler, that the free world can be bluffed into submission.

With a controlled press inside Russia and with the press of the free world printing everything that the Soviet leader says, the wide circulation of Communist pronouncements is assured.

But it is apparent that the West is not going to be fooled by the propaganda.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Hemorrhoids Caused by Prolonged Standing

Hemorrhoids, or piles, are essentially varicose veins in the lower end of the rectum. These veins become weakened, dilated and distended, and at the same time increase in length — conditions which may be present for a considerable time before giving rise to symptoms.

What is commonly known as an "attack" of piles (hemorrhoids) is inflammation of one of these varicosed veins (scores of them around the last two inches of rectal canal), phlebitis, as doctors say. Almost inevitably thrombosis follows the phlebitis. The common name of thrombosis is clotting.

DR. BRADY

Signed letters not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

(Copyright 1960)

This clotting begins in the lowest part of the vein and then extends upward in the part of the vein above or within the sphincter, the purse-string muscle ring around the anal opening. Such inflammation and clotting close to or within the grasp of the sphincter is exceedingly painful.

A common predisposing cause of hemorrhoids (piles) and varicose veins in the legs is upright posture.

It is undeniable that piles may cause constipation, but far more likely that frequent or habitual use of physics or laxatives will eventually cause piles.

The title of my free pamphlet (free if you provide stamped envelope bearing your address) is You Need Not Have Piles. The former title of the pamphlet was "It is Stupid to Suffer From Piles."

Most of the laxatives, "regulators" or cathartics used by people with quaint notions of physiology, hygiene and health preservation cause congestion or stagnation of blood not only around the rectum but in the pelvic organs generally. This pelvic congestion accounts for many disorders of the reproductive organs in men and women.

When an "attack" of piles occurs it is advisable to remain off the feet, prone or supine or lateral semi-prone (Sims' position) — to keep the weight of a column of blood from pressing upon the walls of the affected vein.

For the same reason one with a tendency to piles or varicose veins should practice at frequent intervals through the day the upside down bicycle riding exercise, which drains some of the stagnant blood out of the weakened, distended veins.

The hemorrhoidal veins involved in piles empty into the portal circulation (in the liver), and so portal congestion or devangement of the liver aggravates piles. Perhaps the most familiar example of this is the predisposition to piles among those who eat too much.

Heinous crime of every description flourished in Pontiac for several years before Straley came here as police chief. It became so rotten the safety director of the time had the nerve to ask for a grand jury. The grand jury cleaned up only the current cases.

Democrats Differ About Candidates

As a lifelong Democrat I hope this party does not nominate Adlai Stevenson again. We want the Presidency and we will never get it with a twice-beaten candidate. He starts out as national discard and we cannot afford to oppose a man as popular as Nixon with someone that isn't equally inspiring. Some of us remember William Jennings Bryan.

Why don't Democratic leaders give attention to Earl Warren as a candidate for the Presidency? He believes in our ideals and has had very valuable training. Also, he would not start out with as many Democratic detractors as the other candidates.

It isn't much, but old people don't need much to eat, and they weren't used to many comforts when they were young, so they don't complain. The catch is, they don't get $80. Or even $50. And it's just plain welfare.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Beware Facade of Courtship Days

Hallowe'en isn't the only time when people put on a false face. Marie tricked her fiance by that method, but now he is seeing her real personality. He asked me to use this case today in the hope that Marie will read about herself, and save their romance.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case D-453: Marie M., aged 20, is engaged to be married.

"But, Dr. Crane, I think she isn't the same girl to whom I proposed," her fiance informed me dubiously.

DR. CRANE

"Oh, I still love Marie. But since our engagement was announced, she has become very careless in her grooming.

"For instance, I'm sure she doesn't bathe as before, because now I notice 'B.O.' when I take her to a movie. This was never true of Marie while I was first courting her.

"And now I can see dingy slip straps showing through her sheer blouse. Why, even her complexion now looks grimy and unwashed.

"Furthermore, her teeth are not as white as they used to be, so I believe she is slighting her toothbrush.

"It worries me a lot, for I could never spend my life with an untidy person. I'm afraid she'd be a poor housekeeper and neglect her children.

"Don't all men dream of a sweet dainty wife to hold in their arms? I hope you don't think I am being unfair to Marie, for I love her so much this indecision is driving me crazy. But marriage is a serious step, and I wonder what has happened to Marie."

Marie is like many other lazy women who put up an attractive sales "front," at least till they get their sweetheart's name on the dotted line.

They then revert to type. And if that "type" is a slovenly, untidy personality, the new husband is unhappily surprised.

So girls, as well as boys, should be doubly on guard during courtship. It is only natural that we put our best foot forward at that time. We show off the best side of our personality.

But after the sales pressure is off, then what does our normal side look like?

Are we neat and tidy by habit? Or do we use an excessive amount of slang? Does a girl refrain from cigarettes or liquor to impress her boy friend, but then revert to them after she has him "hooked"?

Is she jealous and uncooperative? Inclined to self pity? Did she attend church just during courtship to win her religious boy friend, but now sleeps on Sunday morning after the wedding has taken place?

You young people need to "case" your prospective mate more thoroughly than a bank robber "cases" the bank he plans to loot.

Don't let your emotional infatuation make you confuse your own romantic "feelings" with the grim facts. So ask your friends and relatives for their opinions. And don't grow angry if some of them fail to compliment your prospective mate 100 per cent.

Maybe they are wrong in their estimate, but maybe they are right, so be open-minded. Seek all the facts you can gather.

COURT WITH I.Q.

Use the Rating Scales mentioned below as a social yardstick for rating your date.

Can she mingle gracefully with people and carry her load of civic duties in PTA, church groups, etc?

Marriage is a lifelong partnership, requiring brains as well as love, so send for my "Tests for Sweethearts," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 30 cents.

Use them in school or church societies to promote discussion of the personality traits vital to happy marriage.

Firm Plans to Aid Tree Planters

TYLER CITY (UPI) — Packaging Corporation of America announced Thursday "Project Forever Green," a program to turn idle acres into productive tree plantations.

This year the project will be concentrated in Brown Township of Manistee County, where private landowners will be aided in establishing pine plantings on presently nonproductive land.

The landowner's only cost will be about $18 an acre for tree seedlings purchased from the Michigan Conservation Department.

The corporation said it planned to expand the project in coming years.

A four-point program for the project was outlined as a service of the corporation:

—Survey of property from which owners will be advised as to acreage and number of trees necessary.

—Tree plantation layout by professional foresters.

—Machine tree planting by experienced crews supervised by professional foresters.

—A master plan for developing the township, taking into consideration soil types, wildlife cover and other particulars of land and forest management.

FOR COOL HEADS — Tractor operator above looks not unlike a space pilot as he tests a new air-conditioned helmet. An outgrowth of research on space suits, the "one-man air conditioner" filters out dust, insects and other foreign materials. An electric refrigeration unit connects to the glass fiber helmet with a flexible hose and circulates cool, clean air inside it. The helmet is being developed by Jamieson Laboratories of Santa Monica, Calif., for use in various kinds of outdoor work.

Checker's Superba Displayed in Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — A Kalamazoo firm put its entry in the automotive field on display here with an appeal aimed at motorists interested in the best features of a taxicab.

The Superba, manufactured by the Checker Motors Corp., Kalamazoo, claimed taxicab economy, spaciousness, durability, safety and comfort. Prices range from $2,542 for the sedan model to $2,896.37 for the Superba station wagon in standard models.

Morris Markin, president of the 38-year-old firm, the largest cab manufacturing company in the nation, said a target of 16,000 sedan and station wagon sales was set for 1960. Production, now at 80 cars a day, can be increased to 110 autos daily, he said.

The Superba sedan is compact on the outside, but outsized on the inside, designed to carry six to eight persons with ease. Features cited include roominess and headroom as well as high, wide doors designed to prevent bowing, scraping and swivelhipping in entering and leaving.

Markin said the new car could be economically operated for 150,000 miles before requiring a major overhaul and provide as good gas mileage as the smaller, "compact" cars. Mileage over the road was placed at 18 to 20 miles per gallon by a company official.

Checker will work through existing auto agencies in arranging distribution, Markin said. The firm now has 50 dealers signed up and has set an eventual goal of 1,500.

The Superba has a wheelbase of 120 inches, an overall length of 199.5 inches, and a width and length of 75.5 inches and 62.75 inches respectively. The gasoline tank has a 22-gallon capacity.

The standard engine is a six-cylinder, L-shaped Continental that produces 95 horsepower at 3,000 R.P.M., and the optional engine is an overhead valve continental with 125 horsepower at 3,900 R.P.M.

The car will make its formal Midwest debut Saturday at the opening of the annual Chicago Auto Show.

Khrushchev's Remarks Need Careful Thought

Just how much we can believe of Premier NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV's most recent announcement is the problem facing this country and the rest of the world.

It is unfortunate that this is the case, but from past experience it is difficult to swallow everything he said hook, line and sinker. Probably some portions of his long three-hour speech are true.

If the Western powers are to believe all he said, the Soviets should be willing to participate in an exchange of truthful inspection. This, Mr. K. would have no part of in the past. To accept his pronouncements without some verification would seem ridiculous.

Undoubtedly part of his talk was aimed at recapturing some prestige lost since President EISENHOWER completed his recent trip. His demobilization pitch and nuclear test ban is aimed at the disarmament discussions set for Geneva this spring.

This country along with the other Western powers should not be stampeded into accepting Russia's terms without first careful study. The strong utterances by Boss Khrushchev sound like he was waving a big stick.

Whatever his motives may be, we must continue to accept the opportunity for negotiation and strive to work out some amicable agreement which would be mutually beneficial. We should not view his remarks lightly, yet it seems unsound to accept them as gospel truth.

Pres. de Gaulle's Visit Should Clarify Stand

After receiving Premier KHRUSHCHEV in Paris the latter part of March and visiting Great Britain in early April, Pres. DE GAULLE will come to the United States via Canada on April 22 for a week's conference.

One of the troubles with the Khrushchev announcement is that nobody can be sure what he means when he says he is cutting the army by 1,200,000 men.

It could mean merely the transfer from uniform to civilian clothes of great numbers of men who still would be engaged in arms production.

Also, there is no way of knowing what the true potential of the Soviet regime is on the military side, for it can count upon huge forces recruited in Communist Asia.

The United States demobilized shortly after World War II the great bulk of its armed forces from a peak level of 12,300,000 in wartime, but in view of Communist aggression, as the State Department says, "the level was later raised and stands today at approximately 2,500,000." The Soviets claim their total forces will be reduced to 2,423,000 in the next year or two.

It has been suggested that Khrushchev's speech indicates that the Soviet Union is moving toward the "massive retaliation" strategy followed by the United States in recent years.

Although in America this policy has been derided by some critics —largely by those who advocate a build-up of conventional forces for "limited wars"—the fact is that the phrase still carries a world of meaning in preventing a big war today.

The United States does not any longer stress the phrase "massive retaliation" but emphasizes its "deterrent power." It all amounts to the same thing. One side will not start a war without counting the possible extent of destruction that could be inflicted on it by the other side.

There was for a time a belief that the Soviet Union, with its missiles and rockets, could destroy in one "first blow" the bomber bases inside the United States and wreak such wide destruction that the retaliatory power of this country would be frustrated.

PROPAGANDA!

But since the development of missiles and rockets that can be launched from submarines, there is danger to a country like the Soviet Union that it would receive tremendous punishment if it ever started a war.

For obviously it would be difficult to find and destroy submarines, and it cannot be forgotten that the water areas of the world are far greater than the land surfaces.

What, then, is the purpose of the Khrushchev speech at this time? Plainly it is a propaganda move. The Soviet dictator believes, as did Adolf Hitler, that the free world can be bluffed into submission.

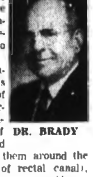

With a controlled press inside Russia and with the press of the free world printing everything that the Soviet leader says, the wide circulation of Communist pronouncements is assured.

But it is apparent that the West is not going to be fooled by the propaganda.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Hemorrhoids Caused by Prolonged Standing

Hemorrhoids, or piles, are essentially varicose veins in the lower end of the rectum. These veins become weakened, dilated and distended, and at the same time increase in length — conditions which may be present for a considerable time before giving rise to symptoms.

DR. BRADY

What is commonly known as an "attack" of piles (hemorrhoids) is inflammation of one of these varicosed veins (scores of them around the last two inches of rectal canal), phlebitis, as doctors say. Almost inevitably thrombosis follows the phlebitis. The common name of thrombosis is clotting.

This clotting begins in the lowest part of the vein and then extends upward in the part of the vein above or within the sphincter, the purse-string muscle ring around the anal opening. Such inflammation and clotting close to or within the grasp of the sphincter is exceedingly painful.

A common predisposing cause of hemorrhoids (piles) and varicose veins in the legs is upright posture.

It is undeniable that piles may cause constipation, but far more likely that frequent or habitual use of physics or laxatives will eventually cause piles.

The title of my free pamphlet (free if you provide stamped envelope bearing your address) is You Need Not Have Piles. The former title of the pamphlet was "It is Stupid to Suffer From Piles."

Most of the laxatives, "regulators" or cathartics used by people with quaint notions of physiology, hygiene and health preservation cause congestion or stagnation of blood not only around the rectum but in the pelvic organs generally. This pelvic congestion accounts for many disorders of the reproductive organs in men and women.

When an "attack" of piles occurs it is advisable to remain off the feet, prone or supine or lateral semi-prone (Sims' position) — to keep the weight of a column of blood from pressing upon the walls of the affected vein.

For the same reason one with a tendency to piles or varicose veins should practice at frequent intervals through the day the upside down bicycle riding exercise, which drains some of the stagnant blood out of the weakened, distended veins.

The hemorrhoidal veins involved in piles empty into the portal circulation (in the liver), and so portal congestion or derangement of the liver aggravates piles. Perhaps the most familiar example of this is the predisposition to piles among those who eat too much.

The Country Parson

"It's too bad that folks are so much more interested in getting things than in doing them."

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Beware Facade of Courtship Days

Hallowe'en isn't the only time when people put on a false face. Marie tricked her fiance by that method, but now he is seeing her real personality. He asked me to use this case today in the hope that Marie will read about herself and save their romance.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case D-453: Marie M., aged 20, is engaged to be married.

"But, Dr. Crane, I think she isn't the same girl to whom I proposed," her fiance informed me dubiously.

DR. CRANE

"Oh, I still love Marie. But since our engagement was announced, she has become very careless in her grooming.

"For instance, I'm sure she doesn't bathe as before, because now I notice 'B.O.' when I take her to a movie. This was never true of Marie while I was first courting her.

"And now I can see dingy slip straps showing through her sheer blouse. Why, even her complexion now looks grimy and unwashed.

"Furthermore, her teeth are not as white as they used to be, so I believe she is slighting her toothbrush.

"It worries me a lot, for I could never spend my life with an untidy person. I'm afraid she'd be a poor housekeeper and neglect her children.

"Don't all men dream of a sweet dainty wife to hold in their arms? I hope you don't think I am being unfair to Marie, for I love her so much this indecision is driving me crazy. But marriage is a serious step, and I wonder what has happened to Marie."

Marie is like many other lazy women who put up an attractive sales "front," at least till they get their sweetheart's name on the dotted line.

They then revert to type. And if that "type" is a slovenly, untidy personality, the new husband is unhappily surprised.

So girls, as well as boys, should be doubly on guard during courtship. It is only natural that we put our best foot forward at that time. We show off the best side of our personality.

But after the sales pressure is off, then what does our normal side look like?

Are we neat and tidy by habit? Or do we use an excessive amount of slang? Does a girl refrain from cigarettes or liquor to impress her boy friend, but then revert to them after she has him "hooked"?

Is she jealous and uncooperative? Inclined to self pity? Did she attend church just during courtship to win her religious boy friend, but now sleeps on Sunday morning after the wedding has taken place?

You young people need to "case" your prospective mate more thoroughly than a bank robber "cases" the bank he plans to loot.

Don't let your emotional infatuation make you confuse your own romantic "feelings" with the grim facts. So ask your friends and relatives for their opinions. And don't grow angry if some of them fail to compliment your prospective mate 100 per cent.

Maybe they are wrong in their estimate, but maybe they are right, so be open-minded. Seek all the facts you can gather.

COURT WITH I.Q.

Use the Rating Scales mentioned below as a social yardstick for rating your date.

Find out about her background. Did she attend church faithfully before you met her? How did she get along in school subjects?

She will be the mother of your future children when you marry her, so you now cast the proxy votes of your unborn sons and daughters. Will she make the kind of mother those children would vote for?

Can she mingle gracefully with people and carry her load of civic duties in PTA, church groups, etc?

Marriage is a lifelong partnership, requiring brains as well as love, so send for my "Tests for Sweethearts," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 50 cents.

Use them in school or church societies to promote discussion of the personality traits vital to happy marriage.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing 5c in stamped, self-addressed envelope and 30c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Readers Send Comments on Straley Reinstatement

Now that the inquisition has failed and Straley (good for the FBI and all but crucified in Pontiac) is in no-man's-land, what next? Is "suicide" again going to be resumed in Pontiac?

Heinous crime of every description flourished in Pontiac for several years before Straley came here as police chief. It became so rotten the safety director of the time had the nerve to ask for a grand jury. The grand jury cleaned up only the current cases.

Just a Voice

"Does Eastman think he's making himself look like a big man by his treatment of Straley. Straley should have a car, and as for the badge not being found, we know Eastman had his nose knocked out of joint when Straley got his job back. There are a lot of good people behind him and we don't like the treatment he's getting.

Democrats Differ About Candidates

As a lifelong Democrat I hope this party does not nominate Adlai Stevenson again. We want the Presidency and we will never get it with a twice-beaten candidate. He starts out as national discard and we cannot afford to oppose a man as popular as Nixon with someone that isn't equally inspiring. Some of us remember William Jennings Bryan.

Oldster

Why don't Democratic leaders give attention to Earl Warren as a candidate for the Presidency? He believes in our ideals and has had very valuable training. Also, he would not start out with as many Democratic detractors as the other candidates.

'Old Age Pension' Is Just Welfare'

Many believe old age pension is given to old people who don't have social security when they reach 65. Many were farmers who worked with old fashioned equipment, and now they've grown old. It's time for them to get $80 a month pension.

It isn't much, but old people don't need much to eat, and they weren't used to many comforts when they were young, so they don't complain. The catch is, they don't get $80. Or even $50. And it's just plain welfare.

This is made clear when they apply. Each child must list his exact weekly earnings and every bill they owe. If a few dollars are left over, they're ordered to give it to their parents and this is deducted from the amount of the pension. No savings are allowed, so if Johnny has to go to the doctor or hospital, the finance company is in business again.

Firm Plans to Aid Tree Planters

TYLER CITY (UPI) — Packaging Corporation of America announced Thursday "Project Forever Green," a program to turn idle acres into productive tree plantations.

This year the project will be concentrated in Brown Township of Manistee County, where private landowners will be aided in establishing pine plantings on presently nonproductive land.

The landowner's only cost will be about $10 an acre for tree seedlings purchased from the Michigan Conservation Department.

The corporation said it planned to expand the project in coming years.

A four-point program for the project was outlined as a service of the corporation:

—Survey of property from which owners will be advised as to acreage and number of trees necessary.

—Tree plantation layout by professional foresters.

—Machine tree planting by experienced crews supervised by professional foresters.

—A master plan for developing the township, taking into consideration soil types, wildlife cover and other particulars of land and forest management.

FOR COOL HEADS — Tractor operator above looks not unlike a space pilot as he tests a new air-conditioned helmet. An outgrowth of research on space suits, the "one-man air conditioner" filters out dust, insects and other foreign materials. An electric refrigeration unit connects to the glass fiber helmet with a flexible hose and circulates cool, clean air inside it. The helmet is being developed by Jamieson Laboratories of Santa Monica, Calif., for use in various kinds of outdoor work.

Checker's Superba Displayed in Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — A Kalamazoo firm put its entry in the automotive field on display here with an appeal aimed at motorists interested in the best features of a taxicab.

The Superba, manufactured by the Checker Motors Corp., Kalamazoo, claimed taxics's economy, spaciousness, durability, safety and comfort. Prices range from $2,542 for the sedan model to $2,896.37 for the Superba station wagon in standard models.

Morris Markin, president of the 38-year-old firm, the largest cab manufacturing company in the nation, said a target of 16,000 sedan and station wagon sales was set for 1960. Production, now at 80 cars a day, can be increased to 110 autos daily, he said.

The Superba sedan is compact on the outside, but outsized on the inside, designed to carry six to eight persons with ease. Features cited include roominess and headroom as well as high, wide doors designed to prevent bowing, scraping and switchhipping in entering and leaving.

Markin said the new car could be economically operated for 150,000 miles before requiring a major overhaul and provide as good gas mileage as the smaller, "compact" cars. Mileage over the road was placed at 18 to 20 miles per gallon by a company official.

Checker will work through existing auto agencies in arranging distribution, Markin said. The firm now has 50 dealers signed up and has set an eventual goal of 1,500.

The Superba has a wheelbase of 120 inches, an overall length of 199.5 inches, and a width and length of 75.5 inches and 62.75 inches respectively. The gasoline tank has a 22-gallon capacity.

The standard engine is a six-cylinder, L-shaped Continental that produces 95 horsepower at 3,000 R.P.M., and the optional engine is an overhead valve continental with 125 horsepower at 3,900 R.P.M.

The car will make its formal Midwest debut Saturday at the opening of the annual Chicago Auto Show.

And Some Dream Up Disposable 5-Year Models

House of Future May Be Movable

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Disposable houses. That's what builders are talking about now.

You'd buy a house, like you would a new automobile. Then turn it in after three, five or eight years, or junk it. Then you'd have a new house built on your lot.

Instead of paying, say $20,000, for a house built to last 30 years, you'd pay maybe $5,000 for a house to last five to eight years.

Others would want no have a new home every three years. At least one family questioned on the idea wants to turn in their old house for a new one every year.

The nation's builders, looking into this disposable house idea, think it may be practical in about a decade. But they have some other ideas that may be ready sooner.

One is a portable house. You'd build it, say, in Virginia. Then, if you move to California, or Florida, you'd pack the house up and move it to your new home-site along with the furniture.

Another is a changeable house. It might start out with a few large rooms for a young married couple. Then, as children were born, the inside walls might be moved, so there'd be more rooms, each smaller. Then as the couple aged and the children grew up there'd be fewer but larger rooms again to fit their new needs.

There are a host of other new ideas the National Association of Home Builders are now trying out in experimental homes—ideas that will be practical for the new homebuilder in three to four years or less. Some of these ideas will be on the market in late 1959 and in 1960.

BIG COST CUT

There's a new sandwich type outer wall that can save as much as $2,000 to $3,000 in the building of a $20,000 home.

It eliminates the whole frame of a house. It can be used for the roof as well. It can be built right in the factory.

All the carpenter on the job has to do is put it up. Some builders estimate it can cut the time needed to put up an ordinary home by a half to two-thirds.

One of the research men thinks a good fast builder will be able to put up one of these modern houses in four to five days apiece if he builds them in lots of 25 or more.

This sandwich can have a wood-on outside surface or a thin outer brick veneer and a finished, already painted interior wall with a foam plastic center all in "one piece." It eliminates the two-by-four house frame, the insulation, the plaster, the bricklaying.

HOUSE WITH SANDWICH WALLS—This National Association of Home Builders research house in South Bend, Ind., has no frame, but is held up by pre-fabricated "sandwich" walls—wood outside and in, with a layer of foamy plastic between.

Then there's a new kind of a plastic roof with embedded white marble chips, beautiful . . . but no more expensive than an asbestos shingle roof. After 10 to 12 years, a new plastic coating can be sprayed on and it's good for another decade. No more expensive roof repairs.

NO MORE PAINTING

Builders also are experimenting in their series of model homes with a group of plastic wall coverings that will do away with painting the inside of your house altogether—and permanently.

The walls are washable. Some have the texture of fine wallpaper. Some have more the appearance of rough plaster.

The research men have other ideas, too. They think it's old fashioned to have a laundry room—or to have the washing machine in the kitchen.

What's the proper place? The bathroom, of course, says one researcher, because soiled clothing and most household linen accumulate in the bedroom-bath section of a house.

They want to do away with basements, too, putting the money into a recreation room and more storage space on the first floor. They claim this is cheaper and more efficient.

They have a variety of cost-saving ideas—windows and doors that fit on the outside of the wall, instead of onto an opening. These two items could save hundreds of dollars in carpentry and fitting in building an ordinary house.

They are working with plastic pipes for the plumbing. These are cheaper, and last longer. They think plumbing walls can be pre-fabricated in the factory, save a lot of expensive plumber time on the job.

They're working on the idea of pre-fabricated terraces and pre-fabricated concrete foundations as additional dollar savers.

Altogether, the builders think they can cut the cost of building a modern home by as much as 30 per cent.

* * *

But don't wait for cheaper homes. The builders expect inflation, the rising price of land, and new gadgets that home buyers now demand will keep house costs about where they are now—or push them higher.

Crash Corvairs to Determine Collision Data

DETROIT (UPI) — Over-all damage to four Corvairs deliberately smashed in safety tests conducted by Chevrolet was less than expected, a Chevrolet spokesman said Thursday.

The spokesman said Chevrolet conducted the tests because it lacked specific data on the effects of collisions upon cars with unitized bodies and cars with engines in the rear. The Corvair has both.

E. L. Harrig, Chevrolet service manager, said the tests showed front end metal on the car absorbed most of the shock and reduced the impact in passenger compartments and the car was easy to repair because of its design, he said.

The four Corvairs were smashed in duplications of the most common traffic accidents as shown by insurance company and police records, Harrig said.

Automotive technicians considered the tests vital to establish the safety, durability and serviceability of the new models, Harrig said.

'Price Is Right' Calm Wins $60,000 on TV Quiz

NEW YORK (AP) — For the past four weeks Maryann Spencer, a Sumter, S.C. recreation director, has been the winner on NBC's "The Price Is Right."

Retail value of her winnings now total more than $60,000, which makes her the champ both in terms of longevity on the show and in loot. Among the items she has picked up include a house in Florida (with swimming pool), another swimming pool, a trip to Israel, a motorboat, a foreign car, a piano, a diamond bracelet and necklace, furs, cash and an Afghan hound.

Things on "The Price Is Right," however, aren't the way they were on the old big-money quiz and audience participation shows where the M. C. almost had apoplexy when somebody made a record.

When Mrs. Spencer again was victor Wednesday night, the M. C. Bill Cullen didn't make much of a fuss about either the enormous amount of stuff she had won or her continued presence on the show.

"From the very beginning of the show," explained Mark Goodson, one of the show's packagers, "we have de-emphasized the contestants. We have never done much with the interviews of the people —not more than about 25 seconds with each one on camera. The show isn't the contestants, but the items up for bidding. The attraction of the show is the merchandise—and the fact that the audience at home bids right along with them. Americans — and all people—seem to like to guess what things cost."

* * *

Goodson concedes, that he likes to see a lot of turnover on the show's championship chair, but that of course is something beyond his control.

Contestants on the bidding panel are chosen from the show's audience, and the show's staff "tries to pick them for their lack of shyness (so they won't freeze before the cameras), their likability and their own response and enthusiasm," says Goodson.

"The truth is," he adds, "the audience starts to get hostile to contestants who have been on more than two weeks."

Eight More Men Taken Off Floe; Last Four Today

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—An Arctic drama which began with a small crack in an ice floe eight days ago neared its conclusion today.

A C130 transport plane evacuated eight men late Thursday night from Station Charley, a crumbling mass of ice floating in the Arctic Ocean 440 miles northwest of Barrow, Alaska, and the remaining four men were to be brought out early today.

* * *

In all, twelve men were evacuated Thursday.

The Air Force earlier had flown the others in the original complement of some 30 civilian scientists and military personnel off the floe.

The camp was the base for a close study of the depths and currents of the Arctic Ocean. The scientists and military personnel had been on the floe since last May.

De Gaulle Gets Busy on Algerian Confab

PARIS (UPI)—President Charles de Gaulle today pushed aside a simmering political crisis and the problem of a falling stock market to give full attention to a new drive for peace in Algeria, where rightist groups are seething against his "soft" approach.

Both the political crisis and investors' flagging confidence in the economy were brought on by De Gaulle's firing two days ago of Finance Minister Antoine Pinay. De Gaulle apparently hoped now to prevent a political link up by Pinay's angry conservatives and the right-wing groups.

But De Gaulle ignored these crises at least for the moment and called a top-level conference on Algeria for a week from today. It was reported he might tour the war-torn African territory within the next few weeks.

Model Policeman Kills 2, Self in N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP)—A model policeman who recently became emotionally disturbed turned in Lower Manhattan bar into a place of death Thursday. In a sudden burst of gunfire he killed a man and woman, wounded the bartender, and then killed himself.

* * *

Dead were the police officer, Anthony Dotti, 55, who earlier had threatened to "kill five people this week"; Ann Kenney, 46, mother of two married children; and Dominick Mega, 48-year-old truck driver.

After shooting his victims, Dotti walked to an alcove in Dick's Bar and Grill near the Holland Tunnel on Sixth avenue, put his service revolver to his head, and fired. It clicked but didn't fire.

A witness said Dotti appeared puzzled, examined the .38-caliber gun, raised the pistol to his head again, and fired a bullet into his brain.

"This guy had been going crazy for about a week," Kruse told police. "He had been in several times drinking and complaining that people were talking about him behind his back. He said he was going to have to kill five people this week."

Dotti leaves his widow, Jennie, 50, and four children aged 14 to 30.

One daughter of the policeman told newsmen her father had been "a very sick man in the past few months." On Wednesday, she said, he had visited a physician and was given a prescription for a nervous condition. Dotti had promised his family he would see a psychiatrist but never got around to it.

Three days ago, Dotti suddenly applied for retirement. He had been on the force for 28 years, and his unmarred record included a commendation for arresting three suspicious men, two of them armed.

In accordance with rules, Dotti surrendered his gun with his retirement application. Early Thursday he changed his mind, withdrew his retirement papers and retrieved his service revolver.

State Senate Designates Jan. 25 MacArthur Day

LANSING (UPI) — A resolution to designate Jan. 26 as Gen. MacArthur Day and to congratulate Gen. Douglas A. MacArthur on his 80th birthday was adopted by the state Senate yesterday.

* * *

Sen. John P. Smeekens (R-Coldwater), who introduced the resolution, noted MacArthur addressed a joint session of the Legislature in 1932.

Lear to Leave Grand Rapids?

Hassle on Relocating Airport May Force Out Major Employer

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI) — A controversy on relocating the Kent County Airport raised the possibility today that a major Grand Rapids employer might leave the city.

William P. Lear Sr., chairman of Lear, Inc., aired his views on the controversy yesterday afternoon at a news conference and pointed out the firm has always operated with plants accessible to airports.

Plans are under way to build a new county airport in cascade Township, about 10 miles east of Grand Rapids, and turn the present airport into an industrial park.

The present airport is on the south edge of the city and Lear last fall opened a multi-million dollar facility next to it, employing 2,200 workers.

WOULD HOLD FUNDS

The county has learned the Federal Aviation Agency would withhold funds for the new airport unless safety correctional measures, by its standards, are made at the present field.

The corrections involve Lear which leases a runway extension that crosses a street.

Earlier this week the county said it may not renew Lear's lease on the extension next year when it expires as a possible way to please the FAA.

Lear said he didn't care if the county built a new airport or not as long as the present one was left operational.

He said Lear relocated a plant at Piqua, Ohio, because of airport troubles.

Lear did not state flatly the firm would leave the city if the present airport were closed, but he said another Michigan city has assured the company of an adjacent airport if it would move there.

He did not name the city.

Kiwanis Series to View Movie of Yugoslavia

Making a full-length color motion picture of Yugoslavia without the permission of Yugoslavian authorities presents several hazards.

Gene Wiancko will show such a film and tell of harrowing escapades in what is expected to be a highlight of the current Downtown Pontiac Kiwanis Club's Travel and Adventure Series Tuesday night.

The program will begin at 8 at Pontiac Central High School auditorium. The title of Wiancko's film-lecture is "Yugoslavia, Romania, and Czechoslovakia."

Wiancko is new to the Pontiac Kiwanis series. He was a champion West Coast collegiate debater from the University of California before World War II.

During the war he went into oil exploration as a geophysicist, a search which led him as far away as the Alaskan Arctic.

East Highland Driver Hurt as Car Hits Tree

Elaine A. Walz, 19, of 1827 Duck Lake Rd., East Highland, was treated for minor injuries at Pontiac General Hospital and released yesterday after her car struck a tree.

She told sheriff's deputies she lost control of her car while attempting to pass a truck on N. Milford road, north of Clyde, in Rose Township.

Bull Market Keeps on Going

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market resumed its recovery drive in active trading early today.

Gains of fractions to about a point were the rule among key stocks.

Motors continued to set the pace among key industrial issues. Prospects for 1960 production remained glowing.

Steels, rails, chemicals, drugs and electronics were generally higher.

The fear of another boost in the discount rate was blunted somewhat by the failure of the Federal Reserve Board to take that step yesterday and by widening belief in Wall Street that the boost would be postponed until mid-February.

Standard Packaging was up about a point and Brown & Bigelow was about unchanged on a report of merger talks.

Some of the lower priced issues remained active but trading interest was falling off. Hupp and A. J. Industries rose fractionally as was U. S. Industries.

Schering jumped about 2. Gains of around a point or better were made by Texaco, International Paper and Union Carbide. Westinghouse Electric was another 2 point gainer.

Fractional gains were scored by Bethlehem, Ford, General Motors, Du Pont, American Motors, Studebaker-Packard, United Aircraft, New York Central, Southern Railway, American Telephone and Allied Chemical.

Trading was active at the opening with the ticker tape late briefly. Turnover continued at a brisk pace.

Opening blocks included: Gulf Oil up ⅛ at 33¼ on 25,000 shares; Graham-Paige up ¼ at 3¼ on 5,000 shares followed by a block of 15,000 at the same price; U.S. Industries up ½ at 13⅜ on 12,000; Studebaker-Packard often-issued up ⅜ at 17¼ on 9,300; and Bethlehem up ⅜ at 33 1.8 on 3,000.

Issue Warrant in Shooting Here

Pontiac Man Facing Assault Trial Arising From Violence

The Oakland County Prosecutors Office Thursday issued a warrant charging Martin Moore, 40, of 180 Raeburn St., with assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder.

Assistant Prosecutor Jerome K. Barry says Moore would appear in Commerce Township Justice Court as soon as he is released from Pontiac General Hospital.

The warrant charges Moore with attacking and shooting Elmer C. Bolin, 46, of 056 E. Grand Traverse Rd., Commerce Township, at Bolin's home Tuesday evening.

Bolin told sheriff's detectives that he shot Moore in the wrist and hip with a .22 caliber pistol when Moore attacked him with a knife.

He said Moore returned later and fired several shots at his home from a .410 gauge shotgun. One of the shots struck Bolin. A neighbor was also hit, but suffered only minor flesh wounds.

Moore denied threatening Bolin and said Bolin fired the first shot. Bolin's wife, Helen, 35, was formerly married to Moore.

Both men are in satisfactory condition at the hospital.

Teen-Agers Injured in Three-Car Pile-Up

A three-car pile-up last night on Commerce road east of Carroll Lake road in Commerce Township sent two teen-agers to Pontiac General Hospital, according to sheriff's deputies.

One of the drivers, Raymond Cherre, 16, of 127 Commerce Rd., and his passenger, Ted Cwikiel, 17, of 4375 Bluebird St., both of Milford, were treated and released.

The other drivers were Wayne Dearing, 17, of Milford, and Gerald M. Klinger, 23, of Walled Lake.

More Firms Charged With Fakery in TV Ads

WASHINGTON (AP) — Those drops of moisture you might have seen described as "flavor gems" in television margarine commercials are nothing more than a sprinkled-on liquid, says the Federal Trade Commission.

"Sandpaper" being shaved in a shaving cream commercial is a piece of glass or plastic to which sand has been applied, the commission says.

The tired-looking ham wrapped in a competing foil looked that way before it was ever wrapped, the FTC says.

And the toothpaste commercial using a cigaret-smoking machine doesn't prove what it claims, says the commission.

'FAILURE TO PROVE'

The FTC listed these four examples Thursday in accusing four big companies of deceiving the public with their television commercials. It said trickery was used in some cases to make contrived TV scenes look real.

In all four cases, the FTC said, the TV demonstration failed to prove claims made for the products.

Complaints were filed against the following firms for allegedly deceptive advertising of the products named:

Standard Brands, Inc., New York City, Blue Bonnet Margarine; Colgate-Palmolive Co., New York City, Palmolive Rapid Shave Shaving Cream; Aluminum Co. of America, Pittsburgh, and its subsidiary, Wear-Ever Aluminum Inc., Philadelphia, New Super Strength Alcoa wrap aluminum foil; and Lever Brothers Co., New York City, Pepsodent Toothpaste.

CHARGES DECEPTION

The FTC charged that the challenged commercials tend to deceive the public and cause TV viewers to buy one brand instead of another on the basis of the alleged misrepresentations. The firms were accused of using unfair methods of competition made illegal under the Federal Trade Commission Act.

Colgate-Palmolive said its commercials did not misrepresent the facts and that the FTC objection "is based solely on a technique used by cameramen to overcome difficulties." Alcoa said "apparently the FTC complaint is confined to objections to one minor method of illustrating."

Also named in the complaints were three advertising agencies—Ted Bates & Co. Inc., New York City; Ketchum, MacLeod & Grove Inc., Pittsburgh; and Foote, Cone & Belding, New York City.

The manufacturers and agencies have 30 days in which to answer the complaints.

Kennedy Has One Policy

Dems' Campaign to Be...?

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Are the Democrats going to make their 1960 presidential campaign against President Eisenhower, the Republican Party, or Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the only Republican candidate in sight?

The Democrats will be fighting their 1956 campaign against Eisenhower all over again if the course taken Thursday by Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) is an example of what's to come.

'Kennedy, now running for the Democratic presidential nomination, made a speech before the National Press Club. He not only attacked Eisenhower's presidential performance but said:

The central issue in the 1960 contest is "not the farm problem or defense or India" but the "presidency itself." Although Eisenhower is not the 1960 candidate, Kennedy accused him of lack of leadership and do-nothingism.

His point was that the country needs to elect as its next president a man who is the opposite of Eisenhower. This is exactly the course the Democrats pursued in 1956 when Eisenhower ran for his second term.

It was fatal. The voters showed what they thought of the Democratic argument by re-electing Eisenhower overwhelmingly.

And at this moment, when Kennedy is blazing away at him, Eisenhower is probably at or near the highest mark of his popularity in his two White House terms. Which raises a question:

If the voters ignored the Democrats' arguments against Eisenhower in 1956, what makes Kennedy or any other Democrat think the voters won't do the same this year, especially since Eisenhower isn't even running?

Kennedy dwelt at length on the kind of active White House leadership he said the country needs from now on. He didn't say whether Nixon would imitate Eisenhower or be different. He didn't mention Nixon at all, directly or otherwise.

Former School Head Honored

State Group Awards Avondale's Dismissed Superintendent

Raymond N. Baker, former superintendent of Avondale Schools, was one of nine Michigan school administrators to be honored today with distinguished service awards by the Michigan Assn. of School Administrators.

The school administrators are attending the MASA semiannual conference in Grand Rapids.

Baker was superintendent of Avondale Schools until last June.

The Board of Education, at the time of his contract was up for renewal in December, 1958 ousted Baker by a split vote, causing a political upheaval in the school district.

A later repercussion was the defeat at the polls of then president of the Board of Education Gordon S. Hamilton in the annual school election.

One of the main opponents of the ouster action, Earl Wilson, was elected to the board.

Before leaving office, Baker was honored at a banquet by 200 persons, including area educators, board members and friends for 16 years of service to the Avnodale district.

Among others slated to receive awards today for 25 or more years of service to education at the MASA conference was A. A. Gretenberger of Lapeer County.

MSUO Offering New Class on Publications

A course designed to help high school publications advisors is being offered this term on the Michigan State University Oakland campus.

The course is offered through the extension services of Michigan State University.

Instructor for the course, "Supervising High School Publications" is William Haight, a faculty member of the MSU Mass Communications Division and a former newspaper editor and publisher.

The class meets at 7 p.m. Thursdays.

The three-hour credit course covers the place of student publications in the school, journalism as a career, writing news stories, editing papers, and planning of year books.

Tuition is $27. Further information may be obtained by calling MSUO.

S-P President Sees Upped Earning Figures

CHICAGO (UPI)—The president of Studebaker-Packard Corp. said yesterday unaudited figures indicated the firm's net earnings for 1959 increased to about $28,500,000.

Harold E. Churchill, speaking at a meeting of investment analysts here, attributed the increased earnings to "uninterrupted production despite the steel strike, plus public acceptance of our new models" and other factors.

To Ask Aid of Germany

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A group of Mexican businessmen is leaving for West Germany tonight to seek capital for development of ties to "uninterrupted production (the Latin-American country's medium and small industry.

Rebel Heiress Is 19 Today

Top Birthday Gift? Legal Opinion Saying Grandmother's Out

PARIS (UPI)—Remington typewriter heiress Gamble Benedict, who is taking a chance on love, today got one of the birthday presents she wanted — a legal opinion that her wealthy grandmother cannot force her to leave her married boy friend.

The New York debutante celebrated her 19th birthday today in the guarded apartment she is sharing with Andrei Porumbeanu, the 34-year old former clerk and interpreter with whom she fled New York in December, and their lawyer

She swore it was only the first of the many anniversaries she and Andrei will spend together.

There weren't many presents for the elopers who arrived here with their pockets full of dreams rather than cash.

SELL STORY RIGHTS

They did come out of their romantic haze long enough to sell the exclusive rights to their love story to several publications.

The present that delighted the couple most came from their friend and lawyer, silvery-haired Jean Casanova, who is putting them up in his apartment.

Casaceco represents the interests of emigre Romanian royalty here.

And when he heard that Gamble's grandmother and guardian was sending a lawyer to Paris he anticipated a courtroom battle might be in the offing.

He asked French and American lawyers for their interpretation of the law.

They reported that since the debutante is over 18 she is free to make her own decisions about life and love.

LAW BROKEN?

On the basis of known facts the couple has violated no law even though Porumbeanu is married and the father of 10-year-old girl Gigi.

Commercial Output of Chicks Dips 8 Pct.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Agriculture Department said today production of chicks by commercial hatcheries during December was down 8 per cent from a year ago, but up 31 per cent from the 1953-57 average.

Production of broiler-type chicks during December totaled 140,784,000, compared with 148,002,000 in December 1958.

The preliminary estimate of the number produced during 1959 totaled 1,817,337,000, about the same as 1958.

Egg-type chicks produced during December 1959 totaled 13,650,000, compared with 19,564,000 in December 1958.

The number produced in 1959 totaled 545,657,000, down 8 per cent from the number produced in 1958.

Ernie Shrinks 'Pinafore,' but Result Is Charming

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI) — The credo of the gong-and-dance man, "Always leave 'em wanting more," was practiced last night when Tennessee Ernie Ford presented his entertaining condensation of "H.M.S. Pinafore."

Twelve brisk numbers from the 1878 Gilbert and Sullivan operetta were chopped up, packed tightly and crammed aboard "Pinafore" during the half-hour NBC-TV colorcast.

It seemed as if such familiar pleasant ditties as "I Am the Captain of the Pinafore," "Buttercup," and "We Sail the Ocean Blue," would just start to roll when they had to end.

And that noble skipper, pea-picker Ernie Ford, paddled the foam-specked plot along with his usual back-porch banter.

Speaking of the snobbery rampant in 19th Century England, Ford said, "There were no holes in the fence for a rooster to get into the wrong hen house."

Referring to a viceroy, he quipped, "That's a thinking woman's husband." Of a social butterfly, this comment: "His teabag is never dry."

Referring to Capt. Corcoran's sinecure: "He oughta be happier'n a woodpecker in a furniture factory." And in sizing up treacherous Dick Deadeye, Ernie said, "There's a flour ball in the gravy."

While some Gilbert and Sullivan purists might consider Ford the flour ball in the cultural gravy, I felt Ford's charming ripostes added sparkle to the production and were not disrespectful to the G-and-S operetta.

In fact, despite the harsh editing made necessary by the time limitation, the entire production remained faithful to the "Pinafore" spirit.

Ford, as the Rt. Hon. Sir Joseph Porter, K.C.B., conveyed a solid grasp of the stuffy role and brought out its humor.

His chorus, the Top Twenty's also earned more glory for itself.

DIALING AND FILING:

Don Ameche upstaged everyone by wearing a bold striped tie on last night's ABC-TV Pat Boone show.

THE CHANNEL SWIM:

Bob Hope, who just agreed to emcee the 90-minute Oscar telecast on NBC Monday, April 4, also will narrate NBC-TV's "Not So Long Ago," a nostalgic look at the years 1945-'50, set for Friday, Feb. 19. . . The grapevine says Sylvania awards will go to Ingrid Bergman for her acting in "The Turn of the Screw," Laurence Olivier for his job in "The Moon and Sixpence," and the Maytime Christmas musicale with Leonard Bernstein . . . "Harrigan and Son," starring Pat O'Brien as an elderly lawyer, is due for fall presentation on NBC-TV. Cy Howard created the series and Desilu will produce it.

LINCOLN PARK, N.J. (UPI)—Mrs. Wilhelmina Gillooly, an illuminator of sheepskin documents, once spent two years working on a single hand-printed book. The volume was a 63-page memorial containing the names of members of St. Thomas Episcopal Church in New York who fought in World War II.

TV Networks Like Suggestion

Explore Half-Hour of Culture Proposed by FCC Chairman

NEW YORK (AP) — The three major television networks have reacted favorably to a suggestion by the head of the Federal Communications Commission that a half hour every weekday night be devoted to purely cultural programs.

FCC Chairman John C. Doerfer put forth his proposal Thursday in a speech before the Radio and Television Executives Society. Doerfer suggested that the three networks and their affiliates alternate each week in setting aside 30 minutes—from 7:30 p.m. to 8 p.m., Monday through Friday—for programs consisting solely of information, education and culture.

Dr. Frank Stanton, president of Columbia Broadcasting System, said Doerfer's idea "makes a lot of sense and deserves prompt and serious consideration."

He added, however, that CBS would first get the reaction of its affiliates "since the plan cannot be affectuated without their full cooperation."

The National Broadcasting Co. said in a statement that Doerfer's plan "deserves thoughtful study and we intend to evaluate it carefully."

The American Broadcasting Co. said Doefer's proposal "is very provocative and ABC plans to give it careful study both as a network and in consultation with our owned and operated stations and our affiliates."

Ex-Pig Farmer, Never a 'Bride,' Eyes Ike's Job

SECAUCUS, N.J. (UPI)—Veteran campaigner Henry Krajewski, once a pig farmer, is on the presidential trail again with cuteries against "piggy deals in Washington."

Krajewski, 47, announced his candidacy for president yesterday. He said he would tour the nation by covered wagon to California and then north.

He obtained a nominating petition from the office of the secretary of state.

Krajewski's running mate for vice president will be Mrs. Anne Marie Yeso, a 41-year-old housewife of North Bergen, N.J.

TRIED 5 TIMES

Krajewski, often a candidate but never an office-holder, has made eight previous and colorful tries to be president, governor, senator, freeholder, mayor and councilman.

He owned a pig farm here until pigs were outlawed in Secaucus because of the odor that assailed northern New Jersey motorists.

Now Krajewski operates a tavern called "Tammany Hall."

Some people refer to the street as "Pig Alley," in memory of times gone by.

Who'd Ever Think He Would Come to This?

By EARL WILSON

WILSON

And we never expected to see a nice looking gentleman personally steal the rhinestone from the aforementioned area of the young lady during a comedy-singing act.

But it's happening to Miss Gale Sherwood, a gifted gal from Hamilton, Ontario, and the happy jewel bandit is your friend and mine, Nelson Eddy, now 58, the former Providence and Philadelphia newspaperman who became yesterday's dreamboat.

"Have you ever had a rhinestone ripped off of you twice a night?" Miss Sherwood asked us at their opening.

It happens when Nelson Eddy and Miss Sherwood embrace, and Eddy steals her "jewel." At the Los Angeles Ambassador they wouldn't let Miss Sherwood expose her stomach, but this being the Sizzling Sixties, nobody's objected in N.Y. Miss Sherwood also pretends to be a spectator during Eddy's singing. "Are you enjoying yourself?" he asks her. "Who else?" she says. We think Mr. Eddy not only has a delightful act—it could almost play the Las Vegas "Strip" as they call it.

GALE

OUR FEARLESS FORECAST: Gov. Rockefeller will accept the VP nomination — because Ike privately advised him Nixon desperately needs him. The GOP big brains are scared that without Rocky, they can lose N.Y. and N.J. — and 1600 Pennsylvania Av.

After Marlene Dietrich wound up a glamorous engagement at Las Vegas and zoomed to Paris, Donald O'Connor and Sidney Miller came in and did a take-off on Marlene's famed Argentinian coque feather creation which she wore with a slit skirt. Miller, also wearing feathers and a cape, explains: "My dress designer was a chicken plucker—and somewhere in Beverly Hills tonight there's a naked chicken." (Marlene's husband Rudolf Seiber, operator of a San Francisco Valley chicken ranch, visited her twice, wearing a beret, just as on the Champs Elysees—or B'way.)

Joni James — who went to England and made an album she dedicated to Princess Margaret—was then invited to tea with the Princess this week.

Bob Hope'll soon be zipping to Wash'n, Miami Beach and Wichita for big shows he's doing without pay. In Miami Beach, he appears for the Variety Club Children's Hospital fund Jan. 28, and may relax a couple of days on the yacht belonging to Frances Langford Evinrude and her husband. Bob insists, however, that he's resting, as his doctors have ordered. "It's what you do after you do your show that tires you," Bob said. "It's more work for me to get to bed than to do the shows."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Pat Boone's TV'ers will be seen in Germany, England and Australia . . . Actress Neva Patterson and husband James Lee will adopt two youngsters . . . Joe Louis will take his name off a Chicago gym, because it "doesn't represent" him . . . Yul Brynner bought a Paris cafe . . . Actor Frank Milan is romancing Shirley Booth . . . Judy Holliday'll be ringside when beau Jerry Mulligan brings his jazz crew here in March.

EARL'S PEARLS: Your son's growing up when he gets a bigger allowance from your wife than you do.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Among the things that seem to grow by leaps and bounds are the kids in the apartment upstairs.

Comedienne Jean Carroll insists she wouldn't want her husband to become president: "All the neighbors know exactly what your husband does and how much he makes." . . . That's earl, brother.

For the same period in 1958, sales were $341,881,379, income was $28,028,844 and earnings were $1.07 per share.

MAKE OVER TABLES

7 Days Offer Variety

Pleasant TV Ahead

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — A pleasantly full of television fare is offered to the viewers during the next seven days — music, drama, spectator sports, variety.

Tonight, for example, there is the usually entertaining Telephone Hour — music by talented teams including the dancing Champions, Jose and Amparo Iturbi, the Gordon MacRaes, Les Paul and Mary Ford, Dorothy Collins and Raymond Scott (NBC, 8:30-9:30 p.m. (Eastern Standard Time).

Horse lovers can watch the national finals of the rodeo at Dallas at 9 p.m. (CBS) and from 10 to 11 p.m. there is the championship playoff of the All-Star Bowling tournament from Omaha (NBC).

Sir Anthony Eden is the subject of an interview Saturday on NBC, 5:5:30 p.m., and there's a Jerry Lewis special on NBC (8:30-9:30 p.m.) if you want a change from the usual Saturday night programs.

"Meet the Press" turns up at a special early time on NBC Sunday (11-11:30 p.m.) with Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson. Sunday Showcase (NBC, 8-9 p.m.) is "One Loud Clear Voice," an original drama about politics, and CBS' Show of the Month at 9:30 p.m. is an adaptation of Sinclair Lewis' "Arrowsmith."

Startime has a documentary called "Crime, Inc." Tuesday night (NBC, 9:30-10:30 p.m.) and on Wednesday, CBS' Circle Theatre will do an expose about stock swindlers called "Full Disclosure" (10-11). And Thursday night there is the final Playhouse 90 at its familiar time (CBS, 9:30-11 p.m.) with another TV original, "Dream of Treeson," about a state department officer in big trouble.
