Stevens Denies 'Covering' for Reds

Polite Professor Refuses Replies at Detroit Probe

Dr. Harrison on Stand for Rep. Clardy 1st Day of Loyalty Investigation

DETROIT (AP) — A World War II defense project scientist refused to tell a House un-American activities subcommittee today whether he is or ever was a Communist.

The witness was Dr. Gerald Harrison, 37, now an assistant mathematics professor at Wayne University in Detroit.

Dr. Harrison was the first witness called before Rep. Kit Clardy's (R-Mich) subcommittee investigating Communist infiltration into education, labor and other fields.

Dr. Harrison politely but firmly refused to answer any questions concerning the Communist party. He also refused to testify as to his connection with the American Federation of Teachers Union or the Progressive party.

Frank S. Tavenner, chief committee counsel, brought out through questioning Dr. Harrison had worked for the Sperry Gyroscope Co., for the Radiation Laboratory at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was contract physicist for the Naval Ordnance Laboratories in Washington and had been associated with the Harvard University Underwater Sound Laboratory.

The questions were put to Dr. Harrison by Clardy and the two other members of the subcommittee, Rep. Gordon Scherer (R-Ohio) and Rep. Morgan Moulder (D-Mo).

Clardy said the subcommittee would conduct hearings in Detroit, Lansing and Flint. But, he pointed out, sessions will be suspended Thursday while the committee members go back to Washington to vote on the St. Lawrence Seaway Bill.

The committee has issued 89 subpoenas, but has not publicly disclosed names of the recipients. Some of the witnesses, however, have admitted being called.

Clardy pointed out subcommittee rules specify that any witness may have counsel while he is testifying.

He said his group is not conducting a trial and is not trying "to determine who is guilty and who is not guilty."

Report Cabbie Hit by Picket

Man Pleads Innocent to Assault Charge in Labor Dispute

Attempts to organize Pontiac Cab Co. by Teamsters Local 614, AFL, exploded into violence Saturday night with the reported slugging of one of the company's drivers.

Robert Walton, of 30 Hovey St., who was charged with assault and battery, pleaded innocent this morning before Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finnegan.

Walton, who was released on $100 bond, is scheduled to appear for trial May 6.

The complainant, Willie E. Mills, 45, of 298 S. East Blvd., said Walton, a picket, knocked off his glasses and struck him in the face while he was parked at the cab stand at Saginaw and Pike Sts.

Daniel J. Keating, business agent for the local, demanded Walton's immediate release on bond, after his arrest Saturday night, but Finnegan refused on grounds that more violence could result in rioting at the cab stand.

Judge Finnegan, who surveyed the picketing, said the situation was tense, and he decided Walton's release might cause rioting.

4 Killed, 64 Hurt as Floods, Tornadoes Whip Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Damage estimates range up to a million dollars today in the wake of tornadoes and floods which hit Oklahoma over the weekend, taking four lives and injuring at least 64.

Latest reports showed twisters were seen at, or struck, 29 communities. A fifth death was indirectly caused by the weather.

Billy Shearler, 30, and his 84-year-old grandmother, Mrs. Annie Rubottom, were killed as they tried to outrun a tornado in a truck near Grandfield in southwest Oklahoma.

The twister caught up with the truck, demolished it and killed both occupants.

Frankie La Fallier, 21, of Miami, Okla., and Shirley Jester, 13, of Pocasset, drowned in flash floods.

A Tulsa woman died of a heart attack as she raced to a neighbor's storm cellar when the sirens began to blow, warning a tornado was overhead. She was Mrs. Ethel Olive Bowman, 57.

The state headquarters of the Salvation Army, which sent rescue crews into the storm areas, estimated property damage at over a million dollars.

The Washita River, which flooded Friday after a 10½-inch downpour in Roger Mills County, flooded again yesterday. The muddy river poured into the lowlands for 10 miles northeast of Cordell in Washita County.

Two Babies Die as Home Burns

Mother, Others Unable to Rescue Payne Tots Due to Dense Smoke

Two babies were burned to death Saturday night when flames raced through their garage home here.

Dead are Shari Payne, 1, and her brother, Zachary, 2.

Pontiac firemen found their bodies in the ruins of the two-room house at 91½ Crawford St.

Mrs. Josephine Payne, 20, said she tried to rescue her children from the rear sleeping room, but was forced to abandon them due to flames and dense smoke.

Capt. John J. Morrissey of the fire department quoted Mrs. Payne as saying she carried Shari into the front room, then went back after Zachary.

She said flames prevented her from reaching Zachary, and she couldn't find Shari when she returned to the front room.

Capt. Morrissey said Mrs. Payne summoned her father-in-law, Henderson Payne Sr., who lives in a house on the front of the lot, and he tried to extinguish the flames with a garden hose.

A passer-by, Robert Powell, 27, of 486 Branch St., told firemen he crawled into the burning garage house and searched for the infants, but failed to find them.

Firemen said the fire apparently was caused by an overheated oil stove in the rear room.

Army Eyes Site for Storage Area

Several Locations for Warehouse Checked in Pontiac Vicinity

The Detroit District Corps of Engineers is eyeing the Pontiac area for a site to build a warehouse presumably to store military equipment.

Joseph Lazaroff, the districts chief technical liaison man, said several possible sites already have been checked.

The district engineers were requested to study the Pontiac area by the Army Ordinance Corps, said Lazaroff.

He did not divulge details of the warehouse, but said the site would house buildings and outdoor storage areas.

If a suitable location is found in this area, continued Lazaroff, his office has been authorized to purchase it.

McCarthy Stirs Army Secretary Into Flare-Up

Senator Directs Probe to Discharge of Dentist of Doubtful Loyalty

WASHINGTON—(AP) — Secretary of the Army Stevens flared today "I'm not covering up anybody at any time" when Sen. McCarthy suggested someone in the Army was "covering up" Communists.

The clash came with Stevens in the witness chair on the eighth day of Senate hearings into the McCarthy-Army row. McCarthy was seeking to explore the case of Maj. Irving Peress, the Army dentist who got an honorable discharge despite refusal to sign loyalty papers.

Ray H. Jenkins, special counsel to the Senate Investigations subcommittee, objected to McCarthy's line of questions. Jenkins said the present hearing must "steer clear" of the question of the loyalty of any individual who came under scrutiny during McCarthy's inquiry into alleged subversive activities in the Army.

McCarthy argued it was a "crucial" matter and the "whole heart" of his controversy with Army officials.

He said Army officials cooperated in the investigation of individual Communist cases but threw up "every conceivable obstacle" when the committee moved into what McCarthy called the "far more important" field of who was responsible for putting up a "protective cover" over Communists.

McCarthy said Army officials threatened "smear reports" against his investigating committee staff when the committee pressed for the names of those responsible for "protecting" Communists.

It was then that Stevens, straightening up in the witness chair, clipped out his denial that he was "covering up" anyone.

In the upshot, Jenkins held that questions about the Army's handling of the Peress case were proper but that the inquiry should not go into the merits of the case, that is, the question of Peress' loyalty.

5 Children Die as House Burns

Sixth Youth Escapes From Flaming Building With Minor Injuries

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—Five sleeping children died in a fire that hit their home early today.

The sixth child of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. O'Brien escaped with burns of the back, right arm and head.

Neighbors discovered the flames. Firemen, upon their arrival, removed the dead children from a single upstairs bedroom. Efforts to revive them at Divine Providence Hospital failed.

The hospital said the child victims, ages 2 to 11, suffered burns but probably suffocated. The official cause of death was not immediately determined.

Dead were Mary Ann, 11; Elizabeth Jean, 10; Bernard James Jr., 8; David Michael, 6, and Dennis Paul, 23 months.

The rescued child, Patrick, 5, was in satisfactory condition at the hospital.

Hospital officials said the child told them he was downstairs when flames broke out about 4 a.m. (EST) in the living room of the two-story frame East End home. The child also said his father shoved him out of the house.

The father, 32, was treated for first degree face and hand burns and was discharged from Williamsport Hospital. His wife, Anna May, who was not in the house at the time of the fire, suffered shock.

Fire Chief Harold E. Kinley said the fire started from an undetermined cause in the living room.

DAREDEVIL DRIVER—Barry Joe Morey, 2, of 1155 Humphrey St, demonstrates just how he handled the wheel when he took the family car for a solo run Saturday. The tot started the motor himself and steered safely around a curve, but came to an abrupt stop when he hit a tree at a neighboring house. He is the son of Maurice Morey, a Bloomfield Township fireman.

Lad Worth Watching

His Driving Was Perfect Until He Met That Tree

BY WILMA GREENWAY

Barry Joe Morey, 2-year-old son of a Bloomfield Township fireman, is losing no time following in his father's wheeltreads.

The youngster took off on a solo run in the family car late Saturday.

His feet planted on the driver's seat and both hands clutching the wheel, young Barry steered the car around a curve from the back of his home at 1155 Humphrey St., down the slope of a 60-foot driveway, across the street, into a ditch, over a culvert, across a neighbor's lawn, and came to a stop when a tree refused to give ground.

Mrs. Albert Frericks, of 1580 Rockwell St., found the tot standing behind the wheel of the car, looking "sober, but determined," when she ran out at the sound of the crash. Barry was unhurt. The auto suffered a banged headlight.

Little Barry, who hides a daredevil nature behind a cherubic smile and golden curls apparently waited until the coast was clear, then slipped into the auto and found the keys in the ignition. The car was in gear. A turn of the key started the motor, and Barry was off.

Steering lessons on mom's and dad's laps during family drives apparently were well-learned, be-

Dien Bien Phu Gets Breather

Rebels Halt 3rd Heavy Attack and French Fly In Tons of Supplies

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—The Communist-led Vietminh halted their third massive infantry assault on Dien Bien Phu last night. The breather for the weary and battered French Union defenders extended into today.

A terse French high command communique early today said the night at the besieged northwest Indochina fortress was "calm," with only "light harassments" of key French positions by rebel artillery and mortars.

The French took immediate advantage of the slack in the fighting to parachute tons of ammunition and supplies into the beleaguered fortress.

The command said that the Vietminh, after suffering "extremely heavy losses" in smashing through three strongpoints of the fortress, apparently had taken time out to regroup.

In fierce hand-to-hand fighting, the French had turned back the rebels who had overrun and occupied a part of the southern strongpoint "Isabelle."

But in the main defense complex, the position of the French remained critical. Their northeastern, eastern and western strongholds had been wiped out by massive Vietminh infantry charges.

The narrow dropping zone for the fortress, its lifeline with planes dropping ammunition and war materiel, was still functioning despite the enemy's general attacks and continuing pressure.

Tornado Scare Ends as Mercury Plunges

Cold air knifed into the Pontiac area early today and sent the mercury plunging 14 degrees in two hours.

The temperature dropped from 64 at 5 a.m. to 50 degrees at 7 a.m. It continued to fall and registered only 44 degrees at 2 p.m. in downtown Pontiac.

The cold mass of air from Canada is expected to bring a low of from 36 to 40 degrees tonight and a high of only 50 to 54 Tuesday.

Sunday's temperature ranged from 50 to 67 degrees. Rainfall totaled about .4 of an inch.

Tornado warnings issued Sunday for Michigan and five other states were lifted early this morning.

Soviet Agrees to Ask Vietminh to Attend Talks

Nine Parties Will Be Represented at Confab to End Bloody War

GENEVA (AP) — East and West reached virtual agreement today on the setting up of a peace conference to end the bloody fighting in Indochina.

The Soviet Union agreed, French sources said, to a Western proposal that representatives of the Communist-led Vietminh be invited to the conference by the Soviet Union instead of Communist China.

The Western Big Three foreign ministers and Foreign Minister Nguyen Quoc Dinh of Viet Nam formally agreed to admit Vietminh representatives with the understanding that this would not imply recognition of the Vietminh regime as a state.

The Russians and the West already had agreed that nine parties would attend the conference—the Big Four, the Chinese Reds, the Vietminh and the three Associated States of Indochina, Viet Nam, Cambodia and Laos.

Smoothing out of the issue of Vietminh status came as the Korean deadlock showed no sign of a break and some of the Western foreign ministers began heading for home.

U.S. Under Secretary of State Walter Bedell Smith took over leadership of the American delegation as U.S. Secretary of State Dulles headed for Washington by plane. Dulles scheduled a stop at Milan to meet Italian Premier Mario Scelba for a talk on the stalemated European army treaty and Italy's wrangle with Yugoslavia over Trieste.

Australian Foreign Minister Richard G. Casey also left for home today, and other foreign ministers were expected to turn their conference duties over to deputies in the next week or two. Russia's V. M. Molotov was understood to have said he would be here two more weeks.

A French announcement said that agreement on the participation of the Vietminh representatives in the Indochina parley was reached this morning at a meeting of Dinh with Smith, British Foreign Secretary Eden and French Minister Bidault.

The Viet Nam foreign minister formally stated his government's readiness to meet with representatives of the Vietminh regime, now waging bitter war against French Union troops in Viet Nam.

The Soviet agreement to invite the Vietminh representatives was given after Ambassador Jean Chauvel of France had handed Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko a note proposing this procedure. Earlier, the Soviet Union had suggested that Red China invite the Vietminh representatives.

'City of Cleveland III' to Be Stripped, Burned

DETROIT (AP) — Plans are afoot to burn the passenger steamer City of Cleveland III off the head of Peche Island, Capt. Frank Becker of Detroit said Saturday night.

The ship, idle since a collision with a freighter in Lake Huron three years ago, would be stripped of all valuables, towed to deep water in Lake St. Clair, and burned within sight of the Canadian shore, Becker said.

Essential to Peace

Control of A and H-Bomb Is a 'Must,' Says Baruch

NEW YORK (INS)—Bernard M. Baruch has declared that if there is to be peace the United States and Russia must come to some disarmament agreement on the atomic and hydrogen bomb.

Merely to "outlaw" atomic weapons is not enough, the famous "elder statesman" asserted in an address before the School of Business of Public Administration of City College of New York.

No nation, Baruch said, can have effective insurance against atomic destruction unless there is "a sure system" of control against the diversion of atomic energy to military uses.

The former chief American representative in the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission contended that neither the U. S. nor other nations dare accept less than "a truly effective, enforceable system on international inspection and control."

"The proposals for such control which were put forward by the United States," said Baruch, "did not assume that this country would hold its atomic monopoly indefinitely."

"We had to figure that, in time, other nations would develop their own atomic sources. But whether one or sixty-one nations possess atomic weapons does not alter the fundamental problem.

Total of 1,985 Pontiac Children Signed Up for Polio Tests

Field testing of the new Salk polio vaccine moved into Pontiac on a larger scale today with some 330 children in five city schools getting injections.

COMING UP — A 19,000-pound bulldozer, which caused one man's death by drowning Thursday when it collapsed a section of beach on Harris Lake and plunged into 40 feet of water, breaks water in the first of two attempts to haul it out Saturday. Three wreckers from an Oak Park towing service and six "frogmen" from the Michigan Muck-Combers Club worked for six hours to pull the machine from the lake where Vernon Likens, 23, of Commerce Township drowned Thursday. The bulldozer slipped out of sight in 6 feet of water shortly after this picture was snapped. A second attempt was successful.

Suggests Boost for County to Go With Boast for State

By JOE HAAS

As we celebrate Michigain Week that began Sunday, it is hoped that local residents will do everything possible to boost their state. Surely it has plenty of things to boost.

No county among the state's 83 has more to add to Michigan's fame in this respect than our own Oakland County. Perhaps its own residents have been too modest in extolling its many attractions.

In this connection, it has been suggested that we supplement Michigan Week with an "Oakland County Week" at the same time. In our conversation, letters and otherwise it is an excellent time to call attention to what we have to offer.

Second only to Wayne among the state's 83 counties, in population, industry, assessed valuation, and in many other respects, Oakland also is first in several ways.

We top the entire state in the number of state parks and other public recreational areas. No other county leads us in the current percentage of gain in population. No other county has a greater percentage of automobile ownership.

Located in the very heart of the world's greatest industrial area, the county still maintains its position as one of Michigan's leading agricultural counties.

With its 15 cities, 10 villages, 25 townships, and several unincorporated communities, each with a population that far exceeds many of its cities, Oakland County offers every phase of urban and rural dwelling.

Its 400 lakes give it more than any county in the southern peninsula of Michigan, and their shores are lined with more year round homes than any other county in the state.

No other county in the state can match the number of substantial homes erected in recent years around its lakes, and also in its so-called rural sections outside the limits of any city or village.

Its 900 square miles in area make Oakland the second largest county in that respect in the southern peninsula, the largest being Sanilac which is in the 1950 census had a population less than one-twelfth that of Oakland.

Its 600 miles of paved roads and over 2,600 miles of other highways give easy access to all points, and form a system not matched in many of the nation's areas.

The county's geographical location and numerous recreational spots make it a favorite outing location for at least two million people. The number that visited its attractions of this kind in 1953 greatly exceeded that figure. Of course many of them liked it so well that they were counted several times.

Oakland County's school system is one of the best in the nation. It has seen the investment of over $30,000,000 in new buildings and equipment in the last few years. New buildings with a total value of over $10,000,000 now are under construction.

Numbered among the county's other substantial attractions for the promotion of better living are its 200 churches, 24 state approved summer camps, the largest number of any county in Michigan; over 100 service clubs with a total membership of over 5,000, and fully as many other civic organizations.

Yes, when we're boosting Michigan, let's give a strong boost for our own county which is one of the prime factors that make Michigan a fine state.

Also, let's do a little boosting among our own neighbors. The writer has found that it often is difficult to make Oakland County's own residents comprehend the size of the figures that make it what outsiders sometimes better appreciate than do the home folks.

1 Killed, 4 Hurt in Auto Crash

Saginaw Man, 50, Dies After Head-on Collision Sunday

A Saginaw man was killed and four persons injured early Sunday in a headon collision in Waterford Township.

Lester Colpean, 50, of 1209 Court St., Saginaw, was dead upon arrival at Pontiac General Hospital. He was a passenger in a car driven by his wife, Mae, in fair condition with a wrist fracture and cuts.

According to Waterford Township Patrolmen Charles Whitlock and William Stokes, the Colpean auto was on the wrong side of the highway when it collided with another car driven by Mrs. Shirley Young, 27, of 6983 Terrell, Drayton Plains, at the intersection of Williams Lake, Rowley and Lansdowne Rds.

Mrs. Young is reported in fair condition with severe chest injuries, a fractured jaw and a possible spinal injury.

Conrad Feliks, 26, of 19345 Derby, Detroit, is in fair condition with a dislocated hip and chest injuries. His wife, Barbara, 23, suffered rib and thumb fractures, and is in good condition.

The Feliks, and Gene Mager, 21, of 989 Oakland Ave., were passengers with Mrs. Young. Mager was treated for minor bruises.

FCC to Inspect Diathermy Sets

Will Enforce Regulations on Medical Equipment to Cut Plane Mishaps

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Federal Communications Commission is planning to crack down on illegal diathermy machines to keep them from interfering with broadcasting stations, police and fire calls and other vital radio services.

The FCC said there are "serious potential dangers" in continued use of short-wave medical diathermy equipment that doesn't meet its rules. The rules limit both the number of radio frequencies that can be used for the heat-treating medical equipment and the amount of radiation they produce.

As an example of potential danger, the FCC said diathermy equipment operating outside its assigned frequencies could interfere with flight communications and result in "disastrous airplane accidents."

In case of attack, it said, enemy planes could use signals from "excessively radiating diathermy machines" as a guide to their targets.

Each short-wave diathermy machine is, in effect, a radio transmitter. An illegal machine can cause interference hundreds of miles away, the FCC said.

Some have disrupted police and fire department radio communications and interfered with reception of radio and TV stations, the commission said.

To minimize interference, the FCC issued a regulation that all short-wave diathermy equipment must be of a type approved by the commission or must have an engineer's certificate that it meets FCC rules.

The regulation took effect last June, after six years' notice, so doctors, hospitals and other users of diathermy equipment would have time to get approved machines.

The FCC said a "considerable number" of unapproved machines are still in use, but most of their operators are not aware they are violating the law. The ocommission will take court action, if illegal equipment continues to be used.

Queen and Her Family Welcomed at Malta

VALLETTA, Malta (UP) — Queen Elizabeth II and her family arrived in Malta today on the last stages of the monarch's round-the-world tour.

Prince Charles and Princess Anne jumped up and down with excitement on the bridge of the royal yacht Britannia as fireworks crackled, crowds cheered, ship sirens screamed and flags flew high.

A royal barge carried the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh ashore, where they drove through Valletta's old and narrow streets.

Neighborhood Feud Results in Shooting

MARINE CITY (INS) — A long family fued ended at least temporarily over the weekend with the shooting of a 54-year-old Marine City man.

Held Sunday for assault with intent to kill was Louis J. Greenleaf, 74, who said he shot Raymond D. Basset Saturday night while Basset was working in his yard.

Basset, shot in the face with a .22 rifle, was in fair condition in Port Huron Hospital.

Greenleaf said he had been mad at the Basset family for several years "because they trespassed on my property."

Woman Falls 3 Stories, Only Gets Foot Fracture

BALTIMORE, (UP) — Mrs. Glen Seiber fell three floors to a sidewalk here last night but suffered only a fractured foot. She was released after treatment at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Her husband told police she was calling from their apartment window to one of his relatives on the sidewalk when she apparently fainted.

Truck's Smashed Driver Fails to Get to Smash-Up

MALIBU, Calif. (UP)—A wrecker was summoned yesterday after a collision on Ventura Boulevard, but it didn't show up. Sheriff's deputies, anxious to clear the road, finally sent two men to look for it.

Deputies Fred Hadland and Del Crawford said they found it, weaving uncertainly down a thoroughfare, and arrested the driver on suspicion of drunk driving.

Then they summoned more tow trucks to take away the wrecked cars—and the first tow truck.

Ship Collection Crowds Owner From His Home

SOUTH BROOKSVILLE, Me. (UPI — Allie Ryan, 50, will have to (UP)—Allie Ryan, 50, will have to of old sailing vessels and steamships or find a new home.

The thousands of paintings and prints of ships (he has never counted them) cover all available wall space. Old schooners and sidewheelers have invaded the kitchen and even hang over the sink.

Ship models are scattered throughout the house and there are stacks of books on steamship lore, piles of newspapers giving accounts of famous voyages, boxes of steamship tickets and long-ago timetables.

"It all started when I was coxswain of a Navy transport during World War II," Ryan explained. "Spent three years in the South Pacific and got really interested in ships."

Among his prized paintings is one of the S. S. Ville du Havre which sank with a loss of 266 lives in 1873 after a collision. Another is of the steamer Penobscot which was on the Boston, Bangor, Mt. Desert run from 1882 until 1901.

There are Currier & Ives engravings, water colors, oils and etchings in Ryan's collection. His hobby takes up all the time he isn't forced to devote to raising blueberries, hauling pulpwood and digging clams for a living

"Maybe I'll find a Maine museum that would want my collection," Ryan said. "I sure would like it preserved for posterity. But maybe I'll have to find a bigger house, meantime."

USW to Outline New Demands

Serious Efforts to Get the Guaranteed Wage Seem Unlikely

PITTSBURGH, (AP) —The CIO United Steelworkers' 170-member Wage Policy Committee comes here Thursday and Friday to put finishing touches on the union's contract demands before starting negotiations with the nation's basic steel industry.

The committee's final draft undoubtedly will include demands for a wage increase and improvements in the present insurance and pension programs. But few observers expect any serious effort to be made for a guaranteed annual wage.

* * *

The big industry, which has granted seven rounds of wage hikes since World War II, is feeling the pinch of a business lag for the first time in several years and this is expected to weaken union bargaining power.

Only recently, David J. McDonald, president of the steelworkers, told the union's 39-member Executive Board that steel production is down more than he expected it to go.

McDonald said there are 189,344 USW members furloughed from basic and fabricating steel plants and another 257,026 members on part time schedules.

* * *

The union's contracts with basic steel production companies expire June 30.

Most observers expect the union to work hardest on getting improvements in the insurance and pension programs.

Any wage increase will likely be considerably less than the 8½ cent hourly hike granted last year to boost average hourly pay to between $2.14 and $2.24.

Nationalists Slip a Bit

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—President Chiang Kai-shek's Kuomintang (Nationalist party) sustained a few setbacks in yesterday's island-wide election of mayors, magistrates and a provincial assembly but retained its overwhelming strength.

From 1847 to 1887, Michigan was the greatest copper producing state in the union. In 1880, net earnings of the Upper Peninsula mines were greater than those of the precious metals mines in California and Colorado.

Michigan Week

Between May 2 and 8 the people of this great Commonwealth will have both the opportunity and manifold reasons for knowing their State better and appreciating it more.

During this period, which has been designated Michigan Week, special programs have been arranged in many communities to promote the idea of the sponsoring group, Greater Michigan Inc.

With the aid of local committees this organization has set out to sell Michigan to its 6,500,000 inhabitants. The task certainly is not a difficult one in a State so blessed with economic opportunities and great natural advantages.

Besides being pre-eminent for the manufacture of automobiles, the State leads in the production of many articles of commerce. Its natural beauties are so numerous that they are the foundation of a great tourist industry which ranks behind only our automobiles and agriculture.

Bordered on three sides by Great Lakes, Michigan can boast 2,242 miles of shoreline, more than any other state. True to its automobile plate slogan, "Water Wonderland," it is bejewelled by more than 11,000 inland lakes, 400 of them in Oakland County.

A paradise for fishermen and hunters, with unrivaled facilities for sports of all kinds, Michigan truly is a year round vacation land. Thanks to the vision of our tourist industry, there are accommodations for visitors to fit every taste and purse. We also have a magnificent system of State Parks which attract thousands of campers annually.

Fittingly, observance of Michigan Week began Sunday in the many churches with emphasis on the State's spiritual foundations. It will come to a climax on Saturday, United Michigan Day.

Then all eyes will be turned on the Straits of Mackinac and the ground breaking ceremony marking the start of the great Mackinac Bridge to link the Upper and Lower Pensinsulas. This $96,000,000 span will be the world's longest and will be ready for use November 1, 1957.

We who live in Michigan indeed are fortunate people.

More Vaccine Needed

Certainty that 1,000 more Oakland County children than first expected will be allowed to participate in the polio test has resulted in a call for more of the Salk vaccine.

This announcement came from County Health Director John D. Monroe. In preparation for the larger number of children to be inoculated, he sent to Lansing for 75 more boxes of serum, enough to provide another 1,500 shots.

Both Dr. Monroe and Deputy Health Director J. S. Lambie are much encouraged by the greater response of parents. Many who first refused to have their children inoculated have changed their minds.

As a result the original total of 15,000 of the County's 30,000 first, second and third grade children signed for the test, has been increased by 1,000.

Dr. Monroe, Dr. Robert J. Mason, president of the County Medical Society, and Dr. Lambie call this change a "triumph of common sense."

"People are beginning to realize the serum is safe," Dr. Lambie told the Press. "They're listening to the State Health Commissioner, our own County medical society's board of directors and national polio experts who all say the vaccine cannot harm children in any way."

Peronism Still Tyranny

Anyone who hoped that continuance in power would modify the ruthlessness of the Peron regime in Argentina, must be sorely disappointed by events there since the last election.

★ ★ ★

Already branded disgraceful, the aftermath of that political struggle included the arrests of Radical (conservative) party leaders. Among them were two of its defeated candidates.

Peron, of course, told the Argentine people that he had no prior knowledge of these arrests. But in ordering their release he stipulated that there should be "no prejudice to any judicial action which may be taken against them."

The charge against these men was "desacato," or disrespect. This is the Peronista party's way of punishing those who even as candidates of a conservative party dare to criticize Argentina's dictator.

This indefensible practice may help explain the 25 per cent gain in votes polled by the Communist party. In other words, 51,000 voters of the party which supports the tyranny of the left couldn't stomach Peron's tyranny of the right.

The New York judge who says it doesn't constitute mental cruelty for a woman to make her husband help with the housework should be read out of the Amalgamated Order of Husbands, Limited.

An astronomer has given victims of claustrophobia the jitters by advancing the theory that the universe is limited as to space and is in the form of a sphere closed at all boundary points.

Send Chiang's Troops, Not Americans, Into Indochina, Urges Mrs. Mary Walter

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

It would be suicidal for us to send troops into Indochina. It would not only inspire the Red-led forces to fight harder, but could turn the whole Middle East against us.

We should demand of our leaders, that they use some divisions which Chiang-Kai Shek has offered to aid the free forces of Indochina in fighting the Red invaders.

So many in China are now disillusioned with Communism and would not fight so hard against Chaing's troops and indeed if they knew that Nationalist Chinese were coming, many would turn on Reds behind the lines. It could prevent a third World War.

This would have to be done soon before the Soviets have time to consolidate the empire. We are already deep in a propaganda war with International Communism right here in America. It has been seeping into secular press, labor press and of course the effort to embarass Sen. McCarthy are all part of that war.

The enemies of God and human freedom in high places would like to lay blame for these things on the Church and patriotic elements. Support the move to restrain Pres. Eisenhower from taking this dangerous step in Indochina.

Time for Reappraisal of U. S. Policy on Asia Creeps Agonizingly Nearer

By DAVID LAWRENCE

GENEVA — International conferences have their ups and downs, and this is one of those stages in which things are decidedly down.

Sometimes it looks as if the entire Western alliance is just a myth and as if the Communists are riding high to bigger and bigger propaganda victories.

This comes about because one sees here the transparent weaknesses of both France and Britain who shy away from even the mildest proposals for collective action and collective security in Asia and reveal an awe of, if not a submissiveness to, Moscow's demands.

It makes one wonder how long Uncle Sam can keep on pouring billions into the coffers of Allies who, with the best intentions in the world, feel helpless with their own public opinion to stand up in the clinches.

As one surveys Europe and Asia to find the real allies of the United States today, it looks as if Spain — which has granted us air bases — will not quibble about our right to throw an atom bomb back at Russia if we are attacked.

It looks as if Turkey, with her excellent army, will stand firm. It also looks in Asia as if we could depend upon the really powerful army of South Korea and the armies of Pakistan, the Philippines and Japan when a crisis comes.

But as for France and Britain, they have apparently gone isolationist and seem unconcerned about the possible loss of Southeast Asia to the Communists and would make a deal tomorrow with Moscow if they could do so gracefully and without too much offense to America.

Prime Minister Churchill's latest speech, too, indicates he is willing to make a deal in Europe with Soviet Russia. It is significant that, for the first time in all his utterances, he wishes "happiness and ever-increasing and ever-expanding prosperity" to the Soviet government as well as the Soviet people and wants to see them both "play a proud and splendid part in the guidance of the human race."

This is the first time since 1945 that any Western statesman has had such flattering words for the murderers in the Kremlin who are responsible for 140,000 American casualties and who have committed flagrant acts of aggression in both Asia and Europe.

This Churchill speech sounds more like Chamberlain at Munich in 1938 than the expression of a resolute or formidable unity among the Western allies in 1954.

What is most disconcerting here is the way Anthony Eden ran out last week on his pledge made to Secretary Dulles in London before the Geneva conclave began. At that time, it was understood that Great Britain would support a Southeastern Asia collective pact like NATO.

Nobody asked Britain to announce any military commitments at this time. In fact, the French appeal for immediate military aid in Indochina had been turned down by both Britain and the United States as not the right step to take at the moment, since Britain and America alone could not hope to get the support of Asian peoples by such a move.

What America sought was a permanent setup like that in Europe. Secretary Dulles asked in vain that the British send a representative to Washington to explore the possibility of setting up a standing committee of governments for a Southeast Asia alliance, similar to the one established for the Korean situation and for NATO.

This was a powerful countermove and it worried the Communists, so they got busy and stirred up Nehru of India, who in turn stirred up some of his satellites in a suddenly convened conference at Ceylon. There, only Pakistan stood up against his efforts to torpedo the Dulles plan.

But it was London's turnabout which caused the most commotion here, and it seemed as if the British government were more anxious not to offend Nehru than the United States.

Meanwhile, French Foreign Minister Bidault has tried valiantly to keep the situation fluid so his cabinet would not be overthrown in the midst of the negotiations here. He has struggled to put forth some kind of plan for the partition of Indochina.

To the American delegation, the word "partition" has been an anathema. Then, out of a clear sky and without advance warning to the delegation here, President Eisenhower discussed at his press conference the idea of partition in principle. It was promptly seized upon here as meaning a repudiation of what Dulles was trying to do.

Actually there wasn't much difference between what the President said and what the secretary was trying to accomplish as an ultimate objective — namely, to achieve a "modus vivendi" in a military sense — but the European press distorted it into an Eisenhower willingness to accept a surrender of Southeast Asia.

It would be much better if the White House made no comments at all in these delicate situations while a conference of such importance is in progress, as even the most innocent words are misinterpreted deliberately by the anti-American press in Europe.

The cause is by no means lost here, however, and it is a good thing Secretary Dulles has decided to go back to Washington for a brief interval, because American public opinion needs to be informed on exactly what the issues are here and members of Congress need to be told how some of them have been inadvertently weakening the hand of their own delegation in Geneva.

For, whether it is called "partition" or a "truce line," the important thing is for the Allies to be able to say that they will defend such a line and that any transgression across that line will mean war, just the same as any aggressive action across the line drawn in Europe and across the 38th parallel in Korea today means war.

For it's the only way out — to draw a line in Asia as well as in Europe and tell the Communists to stay behind it under penalty of massive retaliation.

Case Records of a Psychologist

Unreal Dream Existence Changed by Compliments

Jesica is like thousands of you shy, sensitive teen-agers. She shows the "Phantasy of Unreality." But that means she is a fighter instead of a coward. She can really make the external world a happy, pretty place by joining the "Compliment Club" and strewing verbal bouquets along life's way.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case K-391: Jessica M., aged 19, is a college coed.

"But Dr. Crane, something must be wrong with me," she confessed. "For I feel as if I am living in a dream world. Things often look unreal to me.

"The streets and buildings appear so strange at times that I consider myself lucky to find my way back home.

"Am I losing my mind? Even my parents are beginning to notice that I seem queer."

No, Jessica is not losing her mind. Her complaint is very common among shy, sensitive young people. But it even appears in menopausal wives, too.

We psychologists call it the "Phantasy of Unreality." It denotes an escape mechanism and in this respect is a first cousin to other escape devices, such as vagabondage, alcoholism, the dope habit and even suicide.

It usually indicates lack of a happy adjustment to external reality. The world thus appears cruel or forbidding to the shy, friendless type of person.

So he subconsciously decides to paint external reality in a different hue, as it were, and thus disguise its unpleasant look.

Poetical young dreamers may thus conjure up a fairyland type of veneer for grim external reality.

Some unhappy people simply break under the strain of a forbidding external world. They become hypochondriacs, constantly fretting about illness.

So they rush around from one physician to another, hoping for sympathy and a word of encouragement from a fatherly type of doctor.

Others "paint" themselves, instead of the outside world. They do this by drinking liquor till they are maudlin and almost unconscious.

Those who take dope or rely constantly on sleeping pills, are also troubled by the same problem which faces Jessica, except they try to change themselves instead of the outside environment.

Jessica is really a fighter. Instead of meekly surrendering to her fear or fleeing from the situation via whisky, she resolutely is trying to do something about altering the external world.

Since she can't raze the buildings and rebuild them, brick by brick, she simply resorts to her imagination and thus makes them look different.

But that is not the ideal method to take. For she still isn't dealing with the core of her dilemma, which is lack of happy adjustment to the world in which she lives.

The proper solution is for her to learn how to make friends and carry on interesting conversation. Jessica should join the "Compliment Club" and faithfully pay three honest compliments every day.

She should also learn the art of carrying on gay conversation, which includes fading out of your part of the dialogue with a question, in order to "hook" the other person and easily pull him back into further talk.

"You can't be active and be unhappy!" runs an adage of psychology.

So unhappy people should get into gear and do something. Don't sit still and dream or dread. Get into motion, right now.

Size up the next person you meet for a virtue and pay him a word of praise. Repeat the process.

Smile, even if it is a forced smile such as actresses assume in Hollywood or before TV cameras.

For if you act the way you'd like to be, soon you'll be the way you act!

Send for the "Compliment Club" booklet, enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus a dime.

Just to keep the records in Rapport with the suspicious it was Anaxagoras who mixed the first theory for the atom souffle.

Anaxagoras goes back further than a careful brakeman with a warning torpedo. Twenty-three hundred years ago he diagnosed matter as infinitely divisible and continuous.

He had no microscope so he never saw enough to frighten himself.

He was corroborated by Aristotle on all guesses. The Greek thought police thought they were nuts.

The first detonation was accidental. Anaxagoras was cooking a can of beans and forgot to punch a hole in the top.

The Chinese came along with gunpowder, a Norwegian scientist proved an immovable force contributed heavy water and Einstein and an irresistible body will get you top billing in Hollywood.

Which gives you the encyclopedia of oblivion from "A" to "H."

Anaxagoras never hepped he had triggered hand-tailored eternity for posterity. He's the only guy we know who ever got even with 'em.

In One of Dr. Brady's Brown Studies He Decides Rheumatiz Due to Bad Diet

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

A prominent author and a newspaper editor told me they do their best writing while taking walks. That is to say, they conceive the ideas for stories or articles as they (if you will excuse me) perpateticate.

I tried this myself. Thought it would be a fine way to get a raise in pay, or at least get the same pay for shorter hours.

Unfortunately I choose the wrong place to try it, the crossroads of traffic from 48 states. I had just captured what I thought was an idea as I arrived at the curb. There was a momentary break in traffic and I took advantage of it.

But out in the middle of the street I found a big traffic cop and I were all alone. It's odd how lonely one can feel sometimes, with a million people at hand, enjoying the show. "Come, now, little man," said the fine representative of his corps, "you can confide in me. Just what are your plans?"

I would have flattened him right there, but for my respect for age. After the officer saluted me and begged me to take care of myself, I realized that his treatment could not have been more effective if he had given me a ticket or taken me before the magistrate.

I believe the big fellow knew I wasn't all there. I was far off somewhere in what is quaintly called a brown study.

Why brown I have never been able to understand. Blue or green would suit better, I should say. Anyway when you drift into it you become less conscious or almost unconscious of what you are or should be doing.

You are for the moment lost in the subconscious, and if you do not suffer some great embarrassment or accident while you are drifting, your absent-mindedness may prove a boon rather than a detriment.

I'm impressed, if nobody else is, with one idea I dredged out of the subconscious—and I wasn't indulging in a pipe dream.

The idea is that in the great majority of cases of chronic rheumatis—or call it 'arthritis" if you prefer—is physical degeneration.

And I do hope that by now some readers understand that when I speak of degeneration here I mean physical, bodily degeneration, not spiritual, mental or moral deterioration.

From many years of experience in practice, observation and study I conclude that the usual cause of physical degeneration is nutritional deficiency from early childhood up to breakfast this morning.

Oh-oh, here we go again, a lot of wiseacres will snort, as they go back to their aspirin, cortisone, ACTH, phenylbutazone (Butazolidin), trick diets, mineral water, fancy baths, 'shots," snake oil or far away climate.

Nevertheless I suggest that it can do no harm, if you have had rheumatiz for more than a year, to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for the pamphlet Calcium and Rheumatiz. Ask for it in writing. A clipping will not suffice.

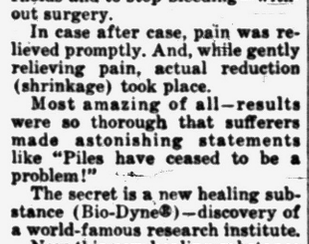

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

Dulles to Hear Conflicting Ideas

Congressional Leaders Disagree on Meeting Red Threat in Asia

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Congressional comment made it clear today that Secretary of State Dulles, rebuffed abroad in his plea for "united action" against communism in Indochina, will be greeted with a welter of conflicting advice when he returns to the United States.

Dulles, due back from the Geneva conference tomorrow, is scheduled for a round of talks with congressional leaders and administration officials over what to do about the Red threat to strategic Southeast Asia. Differences of opinion were evident both among congressmen and within the administration.

* * *

Senate Majority Leader Knowland of California in an interview Saturday called on the United States to move at once for a coalition defense against communism in Asia, even if this means acting without one of her major allies.

This was an obvious reference to Britain, whose Prime Minister Churchill has turned down Dulles' bid for a united front of 10 powers interested in Southeast Asia, including both the United States and Britain, in advance of talks with the Communists at Geneva. U.S. officials here said yesterday that prospects of direct American intervention in Indochina are virtually ruled out unless Britain agrees to a coalition.

Repeating his criticism of British policy, Knowland said on a Du Mont TV show last night the United States has "the right to know which of our allies are prepared to stand up with us and be counted."

"By that," he said, "I mean that in the event of Chinese intervention (in Indochina) what are they prepared to do. Congress is entitled to know that."

He also said, "I don't believe that the need of meeting the situation in Indochina is land power from the Western nations."

This was in reply to Sen. Mansfield (D—Mont), who said on the same program that any U.S. air support of the French in Indochina could easily lead to use of American naval and ground forces there and might bring on World War III. "There is no such thing as limited" intervention, Mansfield said.

Church Defies Ban on Chaplin Movie

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)— The Charlie Chaplin movie Carmen, banned by the Memphis Board of Censors, was shown to a laughing audience of 100 at the First Unitarian Church last night.

The slapstick comedy was postponed a week after Chief Censor Lloyd T. Binford said the church would "violate the law" if it showed the movie.

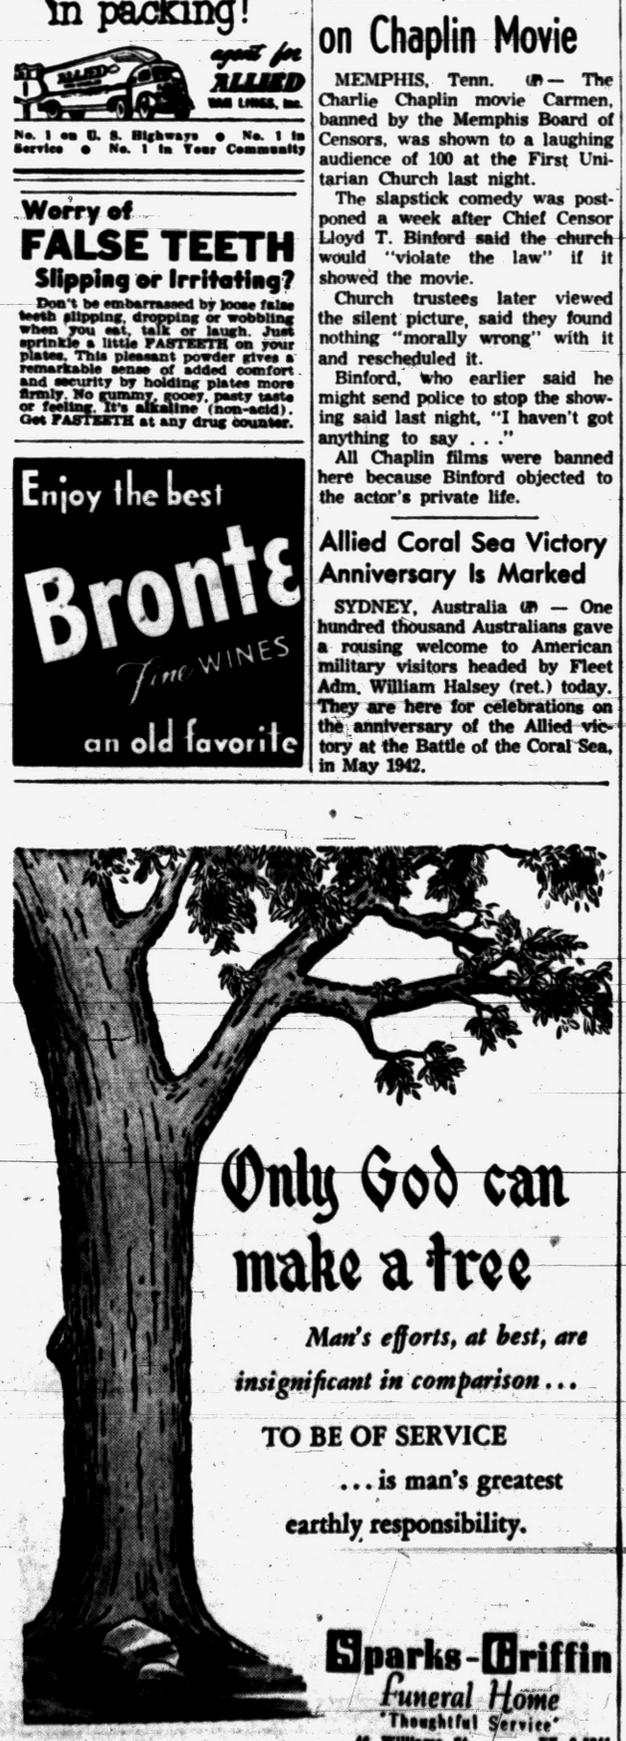

Church trustees later viewed the silent picture, said they found nothing "morally wrong" with it and rescheduled it.

Binford, who earlier said he might send police to stop the showing said last night, "I haven't got anything to say . . ."

All Chaplin films were banned here because Binford objected to the actor's private life.

Deflation and Inflation Make a 'Mean' Hobby

By BILLY ROSE

Up at my place in Mt. Kisco, I've got a couple of gadgets which come in mighty handy whenever I get confused.

One of these gadgets is a Breaker-Downer, a device guaranteed to shrink a swelled head. It is called a telescope.

The second gadget is a Builder-Upper, an instrument which will make the average person feel a hundred feet tall. It is known as a microscope.

BILLY ROSE

Here's how I use these dinguses. . . .

Whenever I get to thinking I'm quite a chunk of something, I set up the telescope on my back porch and take a peek into the wild black yonder.

Then, to check on exactly how small I am by comparison with what I see in my telescope, I thumb through a book by one or another of the younger astronomers. At the moment, it's "The Nature of the Universe" by Fred Hoyle of Oxford University.

For instance, this book tells me that if I were to build a scale model of the visible universe and place a marble on my desk to represent the earth, the sun, about the size of a basketball, would be 200 yards away. However, the nearest star, Alpha Centuri, would be somewhere south of Singapore —11,000 miles from the marble on my desk.

This star, to take it a step further, would be practically on top of me as compared with most other stars. For example, the constellation called Andromeda would be two-and-a-half billion miles away from my marble.

And, mind you, I'm only talking about our own cozy little galaxy, the Milky Way. The Milky Way, according to Hoyle, is only one of millions of galaxies which powder-puff the night sky I see through my telescope.

The crusher, according to astronomers, is that we will never know how far our universe extends, if, indeed, there is an end to it.

The most distant galaxies are skidoodling away from us at a speed approaching the speed of light—186,000 miles a second—and if there are glaxies further out in space, they are probably going faster than the speed of light, and consequently their rays will never reach any telescope on earth.

So, you can see why, after half an hour of playing celestial Peeping Tom, this fat head of mine shrinks down to normal proportions—billard-ball size.

Now for the Builder-Upper—the microscope.

As good a way as any to start using this gadget is to take a smear of water from the old millpond and inspect the critters in it. You'll see squirming blobs of jelly call amoebas; slipper-shaped animals called paramecium; microscopic fleas which, in turn, have fleas, an other protozoa in the shape of bells, stars, trumpets and globes.

In fact, every quart of warm sea water contains a whole lilliputian empire of whatchamacallits — 4,000,000 of them—more than the population of Chicago.

And, as you'll soon discover, these bantam bugs live the full life, eating, fighting, multiplying, loafing and occasionally killing each other, very much like the people of Chicago.

How can this pint-size panorama prop up a droopy ego? Well, for one thing, it always makes a little fellow feel good when he sees something smaller.

Actually, though, even the world under the microscope is gigantic compared to the atoms and molecules which our finest electron microscopes can't make out.

A billion molecules would fit comfortably on the head of a pin and, if you think that's small, each molecule is made up of atoms which, in turn, are composed of electrons spinning around a nucleus at up to 50,000 miles a second.

In other words, a good second-hand microscope is a jim-dandy system for building yourself up after somebody has laid you out flat.

The thing you've got to watch out for, I find, is that the microscope and telescope, taken together, may make you more confused than you already are.

If that happens, to steady yourself, I recommend you open any of the standard books on organic chemistry. You'll find that in 1944, had your carcass been cooked down properly, the chemicals in it would have been worth exactly 37 cents.

Today, thanks to inflation, everybody is worth a heck of a lot more —72 cents. By 1970, who knows, each of us may be worth as much as a buck.

T-H Revisions Up for Debate

GOP Senators Are Sure They Can Beat Dems' Attempts to Kill Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's request for changes in the long-disputed Taft-Hartley law was up today for a Senate go-round in which Republican leaders seemed confident they could beat down a Democratic move to pigeonhole the whole issue.

An attempt by Northern Democrats to send the matter back to the Labor Committee — in effect killing it for this session — was looked for early in the debate, which may last two weeks.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ), Labor Committee chairman, finished work over the weekend on a two-hour speech he may deliver today. It outlines the revision bill adoptd several weeks ago by the committee on straight party lines.

* * *

Tentative GOP plans called for Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz) to follow Smith with an amendment on the touchy states' rights question.

Goldwater's proposal, which he said has the backing of White House labor aides, seems certain to become the bitterest point at issue in this review of one of the most controversial fields of legislation in recent history.

Taft-Hartley has not been debated in full on the Senate floor since 1949, two years after the law was passed over former President Truman's veto. Only two amendments, both minor, have been adopted to the 1947 act which, in turn, was a series of amendments to the 1935 Wagner Act.

* * *

Last Jan. 12 Eisenhower sent Congress a special message calling the Taft-Hartley law "sound legislation "and listing what he said were only minor changes needed to "reinforce its basic objectives."

The Senate Labor Committee, after weeks of hearings last year, adopted a revision program three weeks ago closely following Eisenhower's recommendations. The House Labor Committee also completed hearings but has not yet voted out a bill.

The only major Eisenhower proposal left out of the Senate committee's revision bill was one for a secret, government-conducted poll of employes on the question of striking whenever a labor dispute entered the strike stage. At least two committee Republicans and all its Democratic members refused to endorse this proposal. Sen. Purtell (R-Conn), with Smith's support, will offer the amendment during debate.

Americans are eating better... and with less work in the kitchen

TODAY, Americans are eating 34% more eggs . . . 9% more meat, fish and poultry per person than in 1940. We're consuming 13% more dairy products (excluding butter).

And the food industry has been taking over more jobs once done in the kitchen. Hundreds of foods are now available in prepackaged, precooked, canned or frozen form, in mixes or concentrates. Our consumption of commercial frozen foods is now almost eight times as great as in 1940.

The fact that we are eating better—and with less kitchen work—is just one of many changes that have been occurring in America. In fact, our whole way of living has changed. We're earning more money. More of us own our homes than pay rent. We're raising larger families. More children are going to college. We're living longer.

And the life insurance business is keeping pace and is constantly growing more flexible to meet our new needs.

For example, more and more families own life insurance to provide a regular income to replace that of the breadwinner in case he were to die. Other families own it to assure funds for their children's education . . . or to help cover an unpaid mortgage . . . or to provide retirement income.

* * *

A suggestion: Have your needs or circumstances changed? Have you looked over your life insurance to see how it fits in with your way of living and the goals you and your family have set for yourselves?

Sleeping Guard Allows Escape

Prisoners Cut Fence During Baseball Game, Flee Unnoticed

ATMORE, Ala. (AP)—A ball game between two prison teams ended abruptly in the fourth inning yesterday when 19 of the spectators snipped their way through a steel mesh fence under a sleeping tower guard.

Seventeen escapees from Atmore State Prison were rounded up yesterday. The search for the two convicts still missing spread out today.

Henry Sawyer, the tower guard who admitted falling asleep, was fired immediately. Three other guards were suspended pending an investigation.

State Prison Director J. M. McCullough said 15 of the prisoners recaptured admitted they had noticed Sawyer asleep in his tower and cut their way through the fence almost directly below him.

The other three guards were suspended because "they could have stopped the break if they had been alert," McCullough said. They apparently were so interested in the close game that they didn't see the bleachers emptying.

The team from Kilby Prison at Montgomery was leading the Atmore club 3-2 in the fourth inning when the escape ended the game.

State's Birds, Mammals, Fish Provide Residents With Industry, Recreation

By GERALD E. EDDY
Michigan Conservation Director

LANSING (AP) — With all the animal abundance available in Michigan, it seems a wonder any room remains for humans.

Counted in the millions, the birds, mammals and fish of the state are everywhere around us, take part in our daily lives, and provide immense amounts of industry, recreation and opportunity for all concerned.

It has been said that if all the birds and insects from the world, bugs and insects would in short order overrun and destroy all other life.

This might be particularly true in Michigan, where 54 bird families are found, most of them commonly. Hundreds of varied types are contained in these bird families, from the tiniest wrens, sparrows and nuthatchers to the stately swans and cranes.

While bird types are kept busy holding bug, insect, carrion, and refuse problems down, 17 wild mammal families in Michigan are active in other ways that contribute to the human scene.

Included in these families — as with the birds — are hundreds of individual varieties. The families are oppossums, moles, shrews, bats, bears, raccoons, weasel-like mammals, canines, cats, squirrels, rats, Old World mice and rats, porcupines, beavers and deer.

The fish life of the state is also equally varied. At least 26 general families of fish are found in waters of the state and at least one count of fish varieties, past and present, in Great Lakes waters totaled 233.

Conservation Department fish specialists say it would be practically impossible to count all the individual kinds in the state with any degree of accuracy. On one point, however, they are agreed; the number of fish that inhabit Michigan waters is vast and varied.

Around these wildlife populations are centered a number of busy and expanding human activities.

Sport fishing and hunting, with its complex business of tackle and equipment, is entirely dependent on wildlife populations for its existence.

For a number of years, Michigan has ranked nationally either near or at the top in total annual sales of hunting and fishing equipment.

In 1953 for example, deer hunting alone drew nearly half a million persons to state woodlands. The value of recreation these hunters obtained, the 'market value" of meat they carried home and the cost of equipment they used would be impossible to compute.

Apart from sporting aims and attendant industries, there are important commercial industries directly tied to wildlife populations. Michigan is one of the top beaver-trapping states in the union, provides more than half a million muskrat pelts yearly and has a thriving commercial fishing industry that last year netted close to 30 million pounds of fish, most of it usable for human consumption.

Obviously, Michigan would not be Michigan were it not for the vast wildlife populations that, visible and hidden, surorund the human inhabitants of the state.

Pastel Pie Too Rich for Dieters

Coconut Shell Used in Mrs. Cumming's Luscious Dessert

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

The thing you can't have is what you want most. That seems to be true of many of the recipes given me by members of the Fashionette Club.

A number of the members, like Mrs. Jules Cumming, labeled their recipes, "Not for Dieters." But Pastel Pie sounds like good eating, rich as it may be.

Mrs. Cumming is one of the multitude of women who combine homemaking with an outside job. Mrs. Cumming has three children to care for, too.

Gardening and bowling are the things she likes to do best on her own time.

PASTEL PIE

By Mrs. Jules Cumming

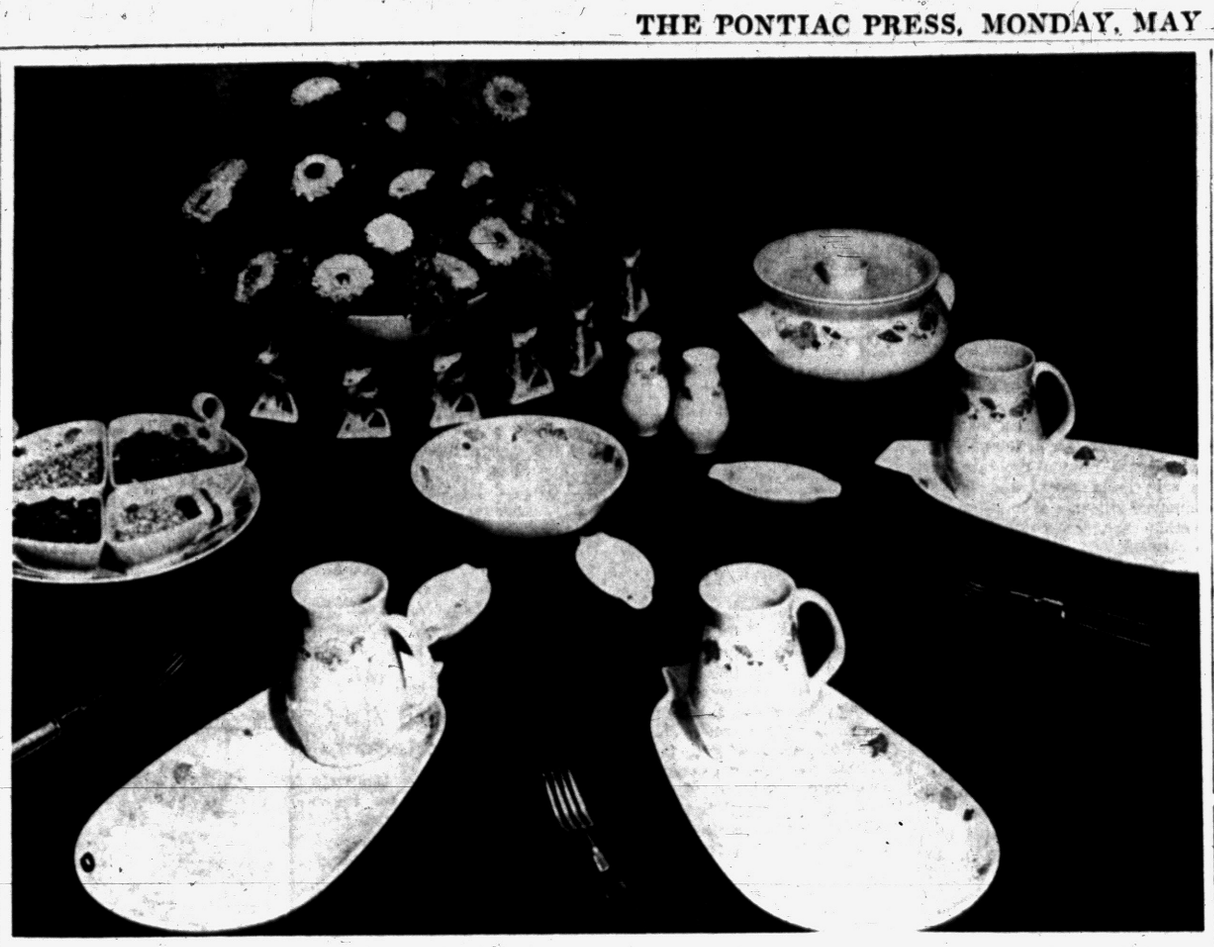

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can moist shredded coconut
1 tall can fruit cocktail
1 package lime flavored gelatin
½ cup whipping cream

Spread softened butter or margarine evenly on bottom and sides of 9-inch pie pan. Sprinkle coconut into pan, pressing evenly into the butter. Bake at 350 degrees 10-12 minutes. Cool.

Drain fruit cocktail and reserve syrup. Prepare gelatin according to package directions, using 1 cup hot water and two-thirds cup fruit cocktail syrup. Chill.

When slightly thickened, beat with rotary beater until thick and fluffy. Fold fruit cocktail into whipped gelatin. Beat cream until stiff and fold into gelatin mixture.

Pour into cooled coconut shell. Chill several hours until firm. Makes six servings.

Set your table in style to blend with your contemporary home. One design available comes in a sand color with brown, yellow and charcoal mushrooms parading whimsically around the border. The television trays, mugs for hot or cold beverages, relish dishes that fit snugly on a dinner plate, and the individual ashtrays are just a part of this new line.

World's Complexity No Excuse for Delinquency

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

In 1952, 350,000 children were judged delinquent by the courts of this land. In the same year, another 615,000 passed through the hands of the police. Nobody knows how many other youngsters committed unlawful acts that were not detected.

A government official explains these angry children by the kind of world we live in. He speaks of the "increased complexity of our modern society; changing cultural patterns and the tremendous insecurities of youth living in a world that knows very little peace and stability."

When, may I ask, has this world offered us anything but complications, changes and insecurities?

It must have been pretty complicated to be a Hebrew living under Pharaoh. The "changing cultural pattern" resulting from the Hebrew's decision to leave Pharaoh and follow Moses into the wilderness was quite a cultural change.

Nor could it have been very secure to be a Christian under the Roman Emperor Caligula — or a passenger on that ship Mayflower sailing westward from home into unknown peril and struggle.

What made the complications, changes and insecurities endurable was a system of moral ideas.

These moral ideas gave such order and stability to the inward individual worlds of the Hebrew, the early Christian and the Pilgrim that they could find the strength to deal with the disorders and complications of the outward world.

So I do not think that anyone does us a service by citing our century's complications, changes and insecurities as an excuse for juvenile delinquency.

Evil is as old as it is monotonous. In one time, it speaks with the voice of Pharaoh; in another, with the voice of Malenkov. In one time, it threatens us with the destruction by lions in the Roman arena; in another, destruction by radioactivity.

So I do not agree with sociological excuses for our production of angry children. I think that they are created by people who refuse to order their individual moral world.

It's typical of our time to seize on sociological alibis for what's happening to children.

We are becoming much too skillful in exploiting the finds of modern science to justify cynicism, moral apathy and neglect of man's immemorial duty to find in his relation to God or himself values which transcend the stresses of his time.

Home Paints Now Match Perfectly

Same Shades Are Available for Sides, Trim, Etc.

By HUBBARD COBB

There was a time, not so very long ago, when someone who wanted to paint the outside of his house all the same color was up against quite a problem.

Sure, you could get plenty of red, yellow, gray or ivory paint, but the trouble was that it wasn't all the same shade.

This is how it worked: If you used a yellow paint for the siding you couldn't match it exactly if you wanted yellow for the trim.

You had to use a trim paint for this job and the guy who mixed the trim paint didn't have the same idea as the guy who made up the exterior paint as to just how yellow yellow is.

The same thing was true all along the line. You had to use a different shade of yellow for the porch floor (if you wanted a yellow porch floor) and a different shade of yellow for the foundations because the paint made for the wood siding couldn't be used on the masonry.

The final effect was pretty terrible. You ended up with three or four different shades of the same color paint and none of them got along worth a nickle. Things are a little different today.

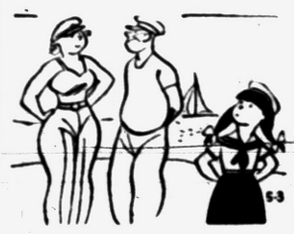

If you have your heart set on painting your house and want paints for different areas and materials exactly the same color, you only need go as far as your local hardware or paint store.

They can provide you with paints of exactly the same shade for every painting job about the house. In fact, you can paint your entire house, both inside and out, with the exact same color.

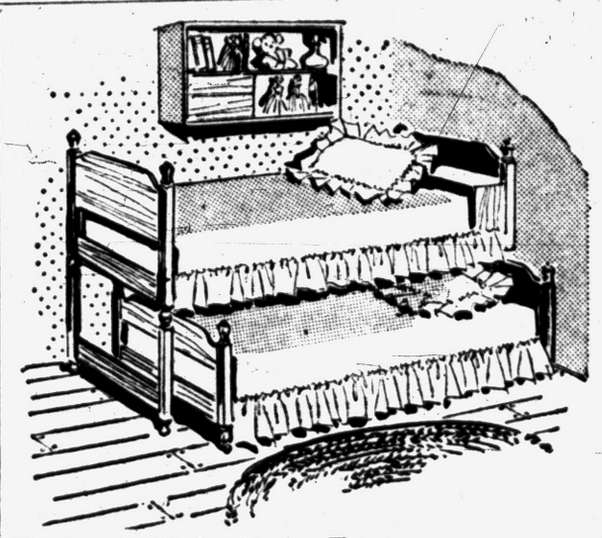

This means that if you like blue you can have blue kitchen cabinets, blue furniture, blue floors, blue walls and ceiling, a blue fireplace, blue doors and windows, blue exterior siding, blue exterior trim and blue foundations.

Of course, you don't have to go quiet this far, but it's nice to know that you can if you want.

Suede is a soft leather made by holding the flesh side of the tanned animal hide against a buffing wheel, which raises the nap.

One of life's little mysteries is why so many yacht club members don't own yachts.

Easier to Make Beds, Too

Trundle Bunk Is Feminine

By ELIZABETH HILLYER

Bunk beds are wonderful space savers in small bedrooms, and they're dear to the hearts of small boys. But not always so to mother, who finds them hard to make, and they've always seemed more suitable for boys than for girls.

Both of these objections to two-level bunking can be easily overcome. Instead of a tall bunk bed design, choose a new trundle bunk.

The top bed is much lower, and thus does away with the necessity of awkward climbing to tuck in the covers. The lower bed fits snugly under it when hot in use, but slides out for sleeping to be entirely free.

The maple trundle bunk design sketched features a shelf at the head of the upper bed, and adds a trim little wall cabinet to match.

Less bulk and a more graceful outline make beds like these a better fit to a room for girls than typical bunk beds, and dainty ruffled bedspreads and pillows are all they need to give them a feminine look.

* * *

Mrs. G. J. G. "I have an oil painting of magnolia blossoms back of my sofa, but feel it needs small pictures at both sides to give it balance and fill wall space. Should the small pictures be of flowers or could I use Currier & Ives prints?"

Small pictures of flowers in a style similar to the big picture are preferable to the prints, which are too different in character from the painting to harmonize with it well.

Little scenes that are painted in a style not too unlike that of the painting could also be used.

Mrs. E. H. "We are making a summer living room of our porch, with three knotty pine walls and the one of concrete which we plan to paint dark green.

"What should we put on the ceiling, pine like the walls, acoustic tile or plasterboard painted green to match the odd wall?"

Your summer living room will be much more summery if you use white or a light color instead of the dark green. The ceiling would look well matching the concrete wall in color, at least, and there are finishing materials that have a similar effect.

However, exactly what goes on the ceiling depends on what is now there. Whether or not you have an acoustical problem, and other practical considerations, can best be settled by consulting an adviser on building.

Be sure the paint you use on the concrete is one that is intended for that purpose.

Flower Pots Mark Places

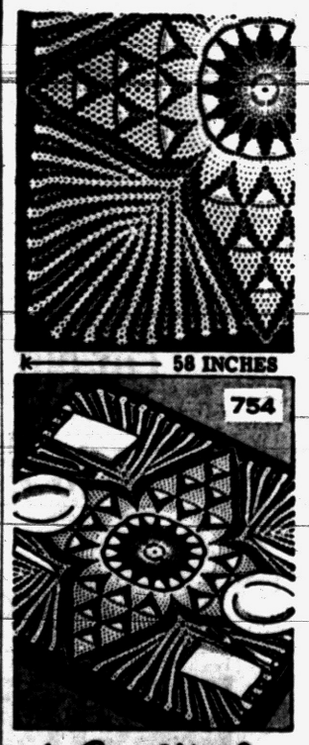

Perhaps you are planning a party some time this month, or how would you like to make these little favors for one of mother's club parties? No matter how simple a party is, it is fun for the guests to have a little something to take home. These placecards are inexpensive and easy to make.

They are made to look like a flower pot filled with flowers. You will need some corks for the flower pots.

When you look for these, in case you do not have some old ones around the house, do not use the ones which are for thermos bottles, for they are 10 cents each. Look for rough corks, for they will do just as well. Paint the corks to look like pots.

Drive a nail in the center of each and stick a section of pipe cleaner in this hole. Make tiny leaves from green construction paper and glue blossoms on the top of the cleaner.

I have shown several patterns in the drawing. Make the blossoms from different shades of paper and add centers of different colors. Put the name on one of the miniature leaves!

Carol Bump Is Married in Waterford

James E. Crothers Claims His Bride Saturday Evening

Carol Sue Bump spoke her wedding vows with James Erwin Crothers in a 7:30 o'clock ceremony performed Saturday evening in Christ Lutheran Church of Waterford.

For her wedding Carol chose a blue organdy gown of ballerina-length which featured a double circular bouffant skirt sprinkled with rhinestones. Her fingertip veil of blue tulle fell from a crescent-shaped headpiece which was sprinkled with rhinestones.

White gladioli and stephanotis carried on a white prayerbook completed the bridal costume.

Mrs. James DuVall was her sister's matron of honor wearing a princess dress of blue and white cotton print. She wore yellow rosebuds in a headpiece low in the back of her hair.

Mr. DuVall, who has just returned from two years in Korea, served as best man. Charles Perkins seated the guests.

A reception for 200 followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, the Ralph G. Bumps of West Walton boulevard. Jim's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Crothers of Lotus drive.

Mrs. Bump received her guests in a blue linen dress featuring a cowl neckline and rhinestone accents. Her corsage was of pink rosebuds, and other accessories were in pink and lilac.

Mrs. Crothers chose a silk print dress for the occasion, and her corsage was of white camellias.

Audience Applauds Well-Loved Selections

Concert Features Several Soloists

By DONNA ANDERSON

Saturday evening was a time for singing for Pontiac's MacDowell Male Chorus.

This year MacDowell proved to be not only a fine chorus, but also a group that counts many talented soloists among its membership. It was a pleasing surprise to hear individual voices that have been associated with chorus performance for so long.

Appearing in Pontiac High School auditorium, choristers joined with two local artists in a program of familiar music that everyone likes to hear again and again.

A full chorus opened the program with Meade's "A Time For Singing," then Neil Hunter stepped forward to solo in the jovial "Lane County Bachelor" by Dickson.

"Black-Eyed Susan" by Bartholemew was the chorus' next offering. It then joined Ralph Bergemann in "Her Rose" by Kountz.

George Putnam, conductor, and his singing men did not forget that there are two selections that make a male chorus concert complete. They did "The Soldier's Chorus" from Gounod's opera "Faust" and, in a lighter vein, "Stout-Hearted Men" from Romberg's "New Moon."

Kenneth Young presented the inspirational "Trees" by Rasbach, then displayed his versatile range in Petrie's "Asleep in the Deep."

Adding a little "barbershopping" to the concert were "The MacHowelers," a quartet composed of J. R. Miller, Dr. Stanley J. Dalley, Robert Debrodt and H. V. Phipps.

Ralph Bergemann, who appeared on the program previously, soloed in "Lucky Old Sun" by Smith and Jerome Kern's "Old Man River." "I Believe" with soloist Paul Miller was heard next, and the popular "Stranger in Paradise" was a full chorus offering.

Stait Lloyd, MacDowell's well-known soloist, presented "You'll Never Walk Alone" by Rodgers.

The chorus returned with "Lonesome Road" and joined Howard Trinkle in "One Little Candle," a Roach-Mysels composition.

Baritone Royce Everett appeared with guest artists Mrs. John B. Nicolls Jr., soprano, and Lyndon Salathiel, acompanist, in an operatic duet and two lighter compositions.

"Why Answer So Demurely" from Mozart's "Le Nozze di Figaro" (Marriage of Figaro) displayed both vocal talent and deft, interpretative accompaniment.

On the lighter side, the trio offered Friml's currently popular "Rose Marie" and "Some Enchanted Evening" from "South Pacific."

A religious theme prevailed in the closing selections, including Protheroe's "Laudamus" and Christiansen's arrangement of "Beautiful Savior" with J. Earl Crawford taking the solo part in the latter.

Three spirituals, "Let Us Break Bread Together," "Deep River," an all-chorus number, and "Ride the Chariot," concluded the program. J. R. Miller soloed in the first and Mr. Lloyd returned for the last.

The audience called the chorus back for two encores, "My Heart Is a Haven" and "Give Me Your Tired, Your Poor."

Oscar Schmidt, MacDowell's associate conductor and accompanist, gave his usual dependable and artistic support to the chorus.

Settle All Business Details Before Marketing Kitchen Food Product

Study Costs, Legal Procedure

Careful Planning Will Avert Tragedy

By ANNE HEYWOOD

Mrs. L. G. was an excellent cook, and she had always been famous for her orange marmalade.

Friends kept after her to make it for sale, and eventually she decided to. The marmalade was excellent and there was a large market awaiting her.

But, though an excellent cook, Mrs. L. G. was a terrible business woman. She just picked a price out of the air, so to speak, and three months later she found, to her horror and her husband's despair, that she had been consistently losing money with her venture.

By the time she reached me, things were in such a mess that it amounted to a complete overhaul to get her on her feet.

Because many women have found themselves in such a spot, here is a list of things I have prepared to help prevent similar tragedies:

1. Put in lots of time on preparation before you sell one single batch of your food product.

2. Talk things over with your husband. Two heads are better than one, and most men have been brought up to have a certain amount of know-how.

Also, it's family money you'll be risking, and so the family as a unit should be in on it.

3. Check with your lawyer if you have one or, if your funds are very limited, talk it over with the Legal Aid Society.

There may be legal ramifications which could get you into serious trouble.

4. If you and your husband have a bank account—even a very tiny one—have a talk with your bank. Most people underestimate the helpfulness and interest of bankers.

You may not be a big depositor, but your banker will be interested, if only to help you become one! He will have good suggestions, perhaps on economical purchasing, or record-keeping.

You may be able, if other things are equal, to make a small businesslike loan in order to get started. Remember, it is to your banker's interest to see you get rich, so talk things over with him.

5. Study a good book which will help you figure prices and businesslike procedure. One of the best is 'Making Money in Your Kitchen."

'The chapter called 'Business is Business" will give you concrete information on budgeting, bookkeeping, how to set up a balance sheet, insurance, purchasing, costs, pricing, the law of supply and demand, selling, rules and regulations, packaging and distribution.

If you have a good food product, you owe it to yourself, your family and your customers to present it in a profitable way.

Teenagers Left Without Chaperons

Mother Objects to Daughter Attending Such Parties

By EMILY POST

A reader tells me: "I am the mother of a 14-year-old daughter. She belongs to a group of about 12 boys and girls all around the same age.

"They have been having wonderful times together at parties given at each other's houses. These parties have always been chaperoned. That is, one of the parents is always at home when the young people are there.

"Two new boys have recently joined the group and when the parties have been at their houses, the parents have gone out for the evening and turned the house over to them.

"It is not that I don't trust these boys and girls, but I do not think they should be left entirely alone and I do not approve of my daughter going to these two houses.

"Most of the other mothers feel as I do. How can we let these new mothers know of our disapproval without seeming stodgy?"

Answer: I think you will have to explain that the parties given at the other houses have always been chaperoned, that the children are used to the idea of having someone in the house, and that if they are given complete freedom in these new houses they are going to hate the idea of surveillance when they go to the other houses.

I am sure if you explain the situation, they will be willing to comply. However, if they don't, as a last resort all of you other mothers together can put these new houses "out of bounds" to your children.

Dear Mrs. Post: When a girl meets a man she knows waiting for the same bus and he attempts to pay her bus fare, should she let him?

Answer: This casual payment by a man of a woman's fare embarrasses most people. She therefore should have her fare ready in her hand and when he makes a gesture to pay for her, she should say quickly, "I have it in my hand."

However, if he still insists so that it becomes awkward to refuse, it is usually better to say "thank you" and let it go!

Dear Mrs. Post: If a person is asked to "fill in" at a bridge club, does this call for a return invitation on the part of the "filler-in?"

Answer: No. This is because you are really doing the club a favor, rather than receiving one.

Mary Margaret McBride Says:

Remarkable Foster Mom Deserves Special Award

MISS McBRIDE

In 1953, for the first time, a stepmother was named among the mothers of the year, which was nice. For the 1954 list, I'd like to nominate an extraordinary foster-mother, Anna Perrott Rose.

Back in 1930 the Roses of Montclair, N. J., tried an experiment that made everybody they knew say, "You're crazy! You can't afford it."

"What we did," explains Anna Rose, "was add a few extra children to the family, and they weren't as much trouble as people expected. In fact, they were really a pleasure."

Anna and her husband had three children of their own when they took in three more. Jane, Joe and lame Jimmy John came really for visits, but Jane at the end of hers cried so hard that, says Anna, "to shut her up we let her stay."

Joey threw up when it was time to leave and so he stayed too. As for Jimmy John, an orphan who had undergone 10 operations after polio crippled him, the Roses never even debated. They just kept him. The six children fought and played together and before Mr. Rose died he saw them grow up to be fine young men and women.

Four years ago Anna, alone now and teaching seventh grade, was brought a new pupil, an 11-year-old Latvian war orphan who had been in a succession of displaced persons camps. The boy spoke no English, Anna no Latvian, but they smiled at each other and right then the spark was kindled that ended in Anna taking home another child.

Tinchey, as the boy came to be called, was tried out by other foster parents but he suited none and none suited him. Anna's friends were appalled that she, at her age and widowed, should assume such a responsibility. Even the social agency protested. But this was a case of true love.

Once, while negotiations were in progress, Anna Rose was whisked off to the hospital for a month. When she came back war-taught Tinchey stood silent, staring at her, with tears pouring down his cheeks. "You're not dead?" he faltered. "I think you be dead. Bombed dead."

He wouldn't eat cabbage and one day, quite casually, the explanation came out. "We all be eating cabbage soup outdoors. Airplane come and shoot, and all children knocked dead. I be not dead but I cannot eat any more that day. I lie flat and hide and I pray so hard my food come up."

The child who had known violence and never love was difficult sometimes. He bit, he screamed, he went into tantrums, but he responded eagerly to Anna Rose's affectionate concern.

"Why you worry about me?" he asked her. "Because I love you," she told him. A few nights later she woke to find her seventh child covering her with a blanket from his own bed.

The first time Tinchey was supposed to camp out over the weekend after he joined the Boy Scouts, he was worried for fear the house would not be there when he came back. Persuaded that it would be, he touched it in farewell, saying, "Goodbye, House, strive to be here when I get back. You are a gentle house."

"What is a gentle house?" asked Anna Rose.

"A gentle house," said Tinchey, "is a house where people are kind and where you feel so safe."

And "The Gentle House" is the name of Anna's book about Tinchey.

When the volcano, Krakota exploded in 1883, so much dust was thrown into the air that extraordinary color was observed in sunsets throughout the world for two years.

Be sure your belts hit your exact waistline. Misplaced waistline, usually too high, unbalances your height.

You Can't Solve Their Problems

Others Must Help Selves

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

You can give people advice, give them the benefit of your experience, show them a way to reorganize themselves, even lend them money—but they have to help themselves.

With all the goodwill and generosity of your heart you may want to help. You may knock yourself out thinking things out for them, planning new deals, figuring out angles and combinations. But it won't help—unless they work at it themselves.

But some of you get yourselves wound up in somebody else's cause. You take on their problems as though they were your own. You suffer for them. You defend them. You take the whole thing so seriously.

You get yourselves in the fix these two girls are in. They're dead sincere about wanting to help a girl friend of theirs. But the question is "How far can their help go?" Here's what they write:

"Dear Miss Woodward: I'm a sophomore in high school and I run around with a group of girls who are considered the clique of our class.

"My best girl friend and I are trying to help a girl in our grade who has a bad rep. She has told us that she is willing to try and improve it. She has finally realized that she has been on the wrong track.

"The trouble is that the other girls in our crowd refuse to run around with her. A few days ago they informed us that we would have to choose between them or this girl. We want to keep in the crowd, but still we want to help this girl.

"We feel she needs help considerably. She really could make something of herself. But some of the boys and girls in the crowd aren't speaking to us on account of her.

"How can we change their attitude toward us and still help this girl?"

Now, honestly and frankly, what can you do to help this girl?

By running around with her yourselves, do you figure you're going to keep her out of mischief? By letting her be seen with you, do you think it will keep her away from any "undesirable friends?" By championing her loudly, do you hope to have her adopted by the rest of the crowd?

It's noble of you to want to be her friends. But how far must that go? Must it depirve you of association with your other friends, friends who don't appreciate the possibilities of this girl as you do?

You've done a lot for the girl already in showing her your friendliness. You can go right on speaking to her, seeing her alone—while you run around with your usual crowd. She's the one, as you admit, who can make something of herself. And that's her problem.

You needn't leave her in the lurch. Neither need you make her your constant companion.

If you really like her, see her from time to time just to have fun with her—not for any self-righteous idea that you're doing her good.

Joann Freeman to Perform at Concert Tuesday

By GOLDA HOGUE

Joann Freeman, sensational young pianist, will be the guest artist for Tuesday's Pontiac Symphony Orchestra concert.

Directed by Francesco DiBlasi, the season's final concert will be held in Lincoln Junior High School.

Miss Freeman has performed on radio and television, on stage in New York, Chicago, Boston and Detroit, and has appeared with the Boston Pops, the Detroit Symphony and other orchestras.

She began her training with Henry Lichtwardt and Mischa Kottler in Detroit, graduating from Vassar College with honors in chemistry at the age of 19.

The eminent English pianist Dame Myra Hess encouraged Miss Freeman to devote herself entirely to music. After receiving a coveted graduate study scholarship to Juilliard School of Music in New York, she studied with Carl Friedberg, student of Schumann and Brahms.

Miss Freeman is a pianist of rare quality, taste and skill who has given music lovers a new type of musical entertainment. Rapt audiences have discovered an unforgettable experience in listening pleasure through her artistry.

She possesses a deft, confident touch, a sonorous and transparent tone. She has a notable talent for an ingratiating explanation of the musical substance of her programs.

This dedicated musician has brought new prestige to the little known pages of old and new music through her lustrous performance on the concert stage.

Tuesday's program will include:

"Overture to Egmont" ..... Beethoven

Season Plays Role in Choice of Perfumes

Glamor is far from being the property of the young. In fact, someone has said that a woman who isn't glamorous when she's past 50 has never been glamorous at all.

The older woman preserves her glamor by keeping physically fit and by choosing her clothes and cosmetics with care. Her smart grooming and healthy good looks keep tell-tale birthdays well hidden.

But for giving herself the special lift of youth, she has found there is nothing quite so dependable as fragrance. She makes it her constant companion.

As for selecting the scent, age should not become the prime consideration. If a woman has always preferred the more exotic perfumes, she shouldn't feel compelled to forego them for a delicate, floral fragrance.

Season, not birthdays, should influence her choice of fragrance. If she prefers the heavier perfumes, it's not advisable to wear them at this time of year.

As warmer weather comes upon us, the lighter, more delicate fragrances are in order. They complement both season and clothes better than a heavy fragrance.

A point for you to remember about perfume is that what is delightful on your friend may not be on you. Skin chemistry is an important factor in selecting fragrance.

Consequently, you should never buy a perfume or cologne for the first time without trying it. Ask the saleswoman to put a few drops on the inside of your wrist to test it.

It's also wise to buy only a dram-sized bottle of a new perfume so that you can try it for several days before making your investment in fragrant spirits.

Married Saturday at St. Martha Episcopal Church, Detroit, were Alice B. Allen and James P. Cuthbertson, son of the Adelbert Cuthbertsons of Whittemore street. The Alonzo B. Allens of Detroit are the bride's parents.

MRS. JAMES P. CUTHBERTSON

Rite Solemnized in Detroit

At a 3 o'clock ceremony in St. Martha Episcopal Church of Detroit, Alice Barbara Allen spoke her nuptial vows with James Phillip Cuthbertson, son of Adelbert Cuthbertsons of Whittemore street.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Allen of Detroit, wore a white imported Swiss organdy gown. The high neckline and short sleeves were highlighted by embroidered organdy flowers and her illusion veil was secured by an organdy bonnet.

Mrs. John Cuthbertson was matron of honor and the bride's cousins, Nancy Lott and Shirley Wagnitz were other attendants. They wore ballerina-length white organdy dresses over pink taffeta with pink satin sashes.

Pink chrysanthemums formed their headbands and they carried bouquets of pink carnations. Wearing pink organdy was Virginia Ann Wagnitz, flower girl. She carried a small basket of pink carnations.

Mr. Cuthbertson was his brother's best man and ushers were John H. Wagnitz and John Cuthbertson of Saginaw. A reception in the church parlors followed the ceremony.

Lambda Chi Omega Fetes New Pledges

New pledges honored were Mrs. Arley J. Lowe, Mrs. A. L. Kinkade and Mrs. Georgia Thornberry.

Mrs. Robert Holloway reported on service the group has given at Pontiac State Hospital.

This kind of "mouse" is easily chased by cleanliness.

Wilma Quye Becomes Bride Saturday

Spring flowers decorated the altar of First Church of God Saturday evening when Wilma Jean Quye became the bride of Howard D. Hall, son of the Howard D. Halls of Summit avenue.

The Rev. Grover C. Johnson performed the ceremony at 7:30 before 150 guests. For the occasion, Wilma, daughter of the L. H. Quyes of South Jessie street, chose a gown of white Chantilly-type lace and tulle over satin.

The gown was fashioned in a ballerina length with a fitted bodice. Her veil was also ballerina length and was secured with a headpiece of seed pearls and sequins. On a prayerbook the bride carried a bouquet of white roses and shattered carnations centered with a white orchid and streaming with ivy.

Mrs. D. J. Butler preceded her sister down the aisle as matron of honor. Her gown was of lavender lace and net over taffeta with a matching lace jacket, and she carried a white fan arrangement of yellow and white roses.

Attending the bride as bridesmaids were Geri Bennett and Mrs. Richard Quye. Their gowns were replicas of the honor matron's in yellow and their bouquets were fans of green carnations and streamers.

Sherrill Quye and Judy Butler were flower girls for their aunt in colonial ballerina-length dresses. Bryan Black carried the ring and Mrs. Morton Jorgenson and Drell Butler sang the wedding recital.

James Finch was best man,

MRS. HOWARD D. HALL

and the guests were seated by Bob Hahn of Berkley and Jim Fennelley. Guests were received in the church parlor after the ceremony.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Quye wore dusty rose lace and tulle with a variegated pink corsage. Mrs. Hall wore gray silk shantung with orchid accessories and orchid-colored carnations.

The new Mrs. Hall later changed to a beige suit with the orchid from her bouquet for the wedding trip to the Smoky Mountains. On their return the newlyweds will reside on South Marshall street.

Heard in a Pontiac Church Sunday

Job's Answer to Suffering Shows Healthy Rebellion

The Rev. C. George Widdifield preached at All Saints Episcopal Church here Sunday on the sufferings of Job. He used Job's ultimate questioning of God's purpose to illustrate that a healthy rebellion often may be of more value in religion than submission accompanied by inner resentment.

All Saints, one of Pontiac's oldest churches, was founded in September, 1837. The Rev. Mr. Widdifield has been rector there since March 25, 1953.

Following are excerpts from his sermon:

REV. C. G. WIDDIFIELD

The most popular stories in the world are the success stories. They are stories about men and women who begin with nothing and ended with everything. But there is another type of story that has its own particular kind of popularity. It is the story about the man or woman who had everything and lost it.

Such a story is the story of Job. Job was at the same time the richest and the best man in the country. That is a combination that you do not often find.

And then, without any warning, thieves stole his oxen, lightning struck his sheep and his shepherds, his camels disappeared, and a whirlwind struck and wiped out all of his 10 children.

And then to make the disaster complete, he was afflicted with ulcers from the soles of his feet to the top of his head.

How is it that such a good man should suffer so much? That is the problem which the Book of Job presents, but there is more to the book than simply the problem of suffering. There is the unfolding of a religious personality, and it is that personality that I would like to consider today.

Job was not patient. If I do nothing else this morning than to dispel that misconception of the character of Job, I shall be grateful.

Job cried out to God, "Tell me what thou hast against me." He rebelled against what seemed unjust, and the theme of our thinking this morning therefore is rebellion in religion.

Now I hope that no one will say that it has been said here that religion is rebellion or that rebellion, in or by itself, is a good thing. It is not. It is not a final thing, but it surely can be a tonic in a man's religion.

In the first place, Job's rebellion was more honest than his friends' resignation. They were saying, what they had been taught to say: sin and suffering go together. Their theory was what if a man is good he will succeed and if he is bad he will be punished.

Now over against that frozen pattern of popular religion Job set his open rebellion. He knew in his day as we know in ours any number of people who cheated others and swindled them out of their money for days—and years and were never caught, and on the other hand people who were scrupulously honest and fair who were beset by the worst of tragedies. Sinners do not always suffer, and good men do not always prosper.

Job's courage to say, "Look at me. I refuse to say that I was so bad, that I had committed so many sins, had indulged in so many crimes that God sent me this adversity as a punishment.

No, Job was too honest to say that, and in his rebellion were the very seeds of that kind of honesty without which you cannot have any real religion.

It is not unusual in these days to meet a great deal of criticism of the church, especially from the younger people. Much as we regret the rebellion, we can at least appreciate the honesty by which a young person looks at the things he has been given by his predecessors and says that they do not square with the facts as he sees them.

Now that kind of honesty as an element in rebellion is a good, strong, wholesome thing in any man's religion. Open rebellion is a great deal healthier than hidden unexpressed resentments. One of the reasons why a great many people are rotting religiously is that they are trying to deny something that they do not really feel. And that kind of insincerity is a very unhealthy thing in a man's life.

I cannot believe that God wants men and women to have no resistance to anything that happens to them so that they take it all equally whether it is good or bad. No it seems to me that God much prefers a man who, though he be mistaken, stands up and says, "This thing I do not understand."

Once a man has assumed that attitude toward God, there is the beginning of a working together in a kind of unity in which you can have real religion. God cannot make much impression upon a doormat.

Is it not true in life as we study the history of humanity that rebellion is always the first step forward? And as Job rebelled against this frozen theory of popular religion, namely, that sin and suffering always went together, he began to move toward a great idea.

This is one of the crucial points in the history of mankind. It is the point where mankind grasps the first glimmer of the truth that you are good not because you are going to get anything out of it, but you are good because it is right to be good.

And rebelling as he did inwardly against the injustice of what had happened to him, took a new step forward to that idea which finally came to its culmination on the Cross of Calvary on which a man was good to the very last, not because he got anything out of it, but because it was right to be good.

So in our lives, as we meet adversity, we have to decide sometimes whether to take it or to turn to God and say, "Tell me what thou hast against me." It is not easy to decide which to do when.

Sometimes, indeed, the proper attitude is to say, "I accept this." Surely this is the will of God.

But there are other times in the interest of honesty and a healthy spirit and in the forward movement of the race when the thing for a man to do is to stand up and say, "Tell me what thou hast against me."

Catholics Rejoice as Saint's Blood Melts 1 Day Late

NAPLES, Italy (AP)—Catholic Neopolitans feared today the city faces a year of bad luck—the hardened blood of their patron, St. Januarius, was a day late in melting this year.

The blood is kept in two silver phials in the Naples Cathedral. For the past four centuries, it is said, it has softened on the first Saturday of May in answer to prayers. Three times the blood remained hard—before a bubonic plague in 1527, a cholera epidemic in 1884 and the 1944 eruption of Vesuvius.

Bell ringing and fireworks signaled the public joy yesterday when the cathedral announced the blood of the martyred saint finally had liquified.

Truman's Birthday Talk to Be on Guarding Liberty

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman has selected a topic for his 70th birthday speech next Saturday—the President's key role in preserving basic liberties.

Truman's speech plans were announced yesterday by Basil O'Connor, president of the Harry S. Truman Library, which is sponsoring his $70-a-plate birthday dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Fireman Boosts Clean-Up Drive

Chief Schroeder Asks Home Owners to Cut Fire Hazards

Pontiac Fire Chief John F. Schroeder today called upon all residents to join this year's spring cleanup drive as one of the best ways to decrease fire hazards in the home.

The fire department, Schroeder said, is cooperating with the Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce which is sponsoring the week-long drive that start's today.

He urged householders to call on the fire department at any time to inspect homes for fire hazards.

Quoting National Fire Protection Assn. studies, Chief Schroeder said that home fires account for 50 per cent of all fire deaths. He added that children under 15 and persons 65 or older are the usual victims of home fires.

For spring cleanup, Schroeder suggests the following checklist on fire-safe housekeeping:

1. Dispose of trash and rubbish regularly—old linens, cast-off clothing, old furniture and papers.

2. Keep the grounds around your house free of dead grass, weeds, and dried brush.

3. Enclose dust mops and oily rags in a closed metal container.

4. Promptly replace worn or damaged electrical cords. Don't use makeshift fuses.

5. Replace old rotting wood in your home and fencing. Keep the roof in good repair.

6. Keep plenty of ash trays handy for smokers.

7. Clean your chimney and heating system at least once a year.

8. Call the fire department at FE 2-9271, in case you are in doubt about other questions.

Dr. Kato Seen Using Firm Hand as Jap Justice

TOKYO, (AP)—Japan's new justice minister hasn't had a chance yet to shake up his country's scandal-rocked administration.

But there's no doubt he's shaken nine condemned murders.

Dr. Ryogoro Kato, a 71-year-old obstetrician, took over the ministry April 22. In his first seven days he signed death warrants for all nine men and told prison wardens to get on with the hangings.

In Japan, justice ministers have traditionally shied away from the unpleasant job. The last minister, Takeru Inukai, let some of the warrants lie on his desk nearly a year.

Paper Says Britain Has Better A-Bomb

LONDON (UP)—The Daily Express said today Britain has developed a new type of hydrogen bomb "far simpler and cheaper to produce" then the one devised by U.S. scientists.

It was described as "a sensational discovery of which the Russians and Americans are believed to know nothing."

Chapman Pincher, Express science writer, said the British bomb "does not involve the use of large quantities of expensive heavy hydrogen as the ordinary H-bomb does."

Pincher, who did not cite the source of his information, said the new bomb was successfully tested at the Woomera weapons range in Australia Oct. 26.

'Truman Balloon' Lands in Yard of Eisenhours

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UP)—A red, white and blue paper balloon, 18 feet long, drifted down on a suburban lawn yesterday while several startled residents watched.

Miss Jean Smith, among others, rushed over to examine it. She read an attached tag which said: "Fired by H. S. Truman, Independence, Mo."

That's all—except for one thing. The balloon landed in the yard of Eugene Eisenhour, who says he has no prominent relatives. No one had an explanation for the incident.

Friends Wrong to Advise on Polio Vaccine Decision

By LAURA Z. HOBSON
(By International News Service)

Can you imagine how you'd feel if you'd scared off some friends of yours from letting their child be vaccinated with the new anti-polio vaccine—and then that child came down with polio?

In the nearly-nationwide tests just started, about a million school kids, aged six to nine, will get the vaccine developed by Dr. Jonas Edward Salk in the University of Pittsburgh's virus research laboratory—but only children with written permission from home may receive it.

Though the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is backing the tests, paying nearly $8,000,000 to give them, though famous child specialists like Dr. Henry Helmholtz, former head of pediatrics at the Mayo clinic, and many other leading scientists as well, have endorsed the vaccine's safety, many parents know some neighbor or relative who wags a warning finger and says, "Gosh, but it might be dangerous."

This scare talk of untrained laymen is nothing new. It happened way back in 1796 when Jenner developed the first anti-smallpox serum and in 1885 when Pasteur discovered the first anti-rabies vaccine.

Probably it will always crop up when any scientist ever comes forth with what might be a new blessing for mankind in the fight against disease.

The current wave of nay-saying can't be measured, but in a certain area in New York, where 43,000 children are eligible for the tests, only 22,000 received the first shots of vaccine. The other 21,000 didn't get the signed slips from home.

Where the veto is made by the parents themselves, that's one thing. For it's they who'd bear the responsibility if their decision ever proved wrong.

It's the outside friend or neighbor inoculating them with fear who gets me sore—usually somebody unscientific, unqualified, and with no kids young enough for these free tests now being given.

"Ask your doctor," is my suggestion. "Call up the March of Dimes experts in your city, or an officer in your state's department of health. Don't listen to the yes or the no of any amateur.

You've seen pictures in your paper these last few days of little Jimmy or Johnny or Mary Jane, arm bare, the small "ouch" or "ow" just uttered.

The tests are going ahead in 44 states of the union, to be repeated twice more before the middle of June. Georgia, Maryland and Arizona ruled themselves out because they already have an outbreak of polio, and Minnesota has not yet given her official go-ahead.

It will be many months before the final results are known, in this largest of all experiments to safeguard our children. By the end of the "polio season" the record will be in, for study and final report.

Without the Salk vaccine, statistics tell us that among a million children, 1,000 would come down with polio.

Of those thousand, about 690 would recover completely, about 260 would be crippled to some extent, and about 50 would die.

With the anti-polio vaccine, we can only hope and pray that some day 1954 may be known as year 1 in the past tense of this horrible crippler and killer.

Jenner's 1796 was a year 1, and so was Pasteur's 1885.

Army-McCarthy Tiff 'Political Football?'

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UP) — C. Richard Schine, a 19-year-old Harvard sophomore, says the Army made his brother's request for a commission "a political football."

Schine told the Boston Post in an interview yesterday that if Secretary of the Army Stevens had acted immediately on the application of his brother, G. David Schine, for an officer's commission, the McCarthy-Army row might have been averted.

"Instead of making a natural executive decision when my brother's application reached him, Stevens hedged for six weeks while the Army made Dave's request for a commission a political football," Schine said.

Pius XII Holds Large Audience

Pope Seen Stronger in First General Event Since He Became Ill

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Frail, 78-year-old Pope Pius XII held his first general audience yesterday since he became ill three months ago. Observers noted he appeared greatly improved in health and his voice — during a 12-minute speech—was much stronger than in his Easter broadcast.

The pontiff was borne into St. Peter's Basilica on a portable throne to bless a great throng of Italian schoolchildren making a Marian Year pilgrimage.

* * *

The vast crowd cheered the Pope for 10 minutes as he raised his arms many times in blessing and repeatedly bent far down toward the children.

The pontiff's speech, relayed over loudspeakers, warned the children against the world's dangers.

Without referring directly to communism, he said a "venomous serpent circulates through the world, disguised in many fashions, and now, it seems that he especially wishes to attack children to take them away from Jesus, to remove them from their priests and from the church."

Turkish Democrats Win by Landslide

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—First official returns from Turkey's general election promised Premier Adnan Menderes' Democrat party a smashing victory today—possibly 94 per cent of the 541 seats in the National Assembly.

The early returns from yesterdy's nationwide voting showed the Democrats ahead in 55 of the 58 reporting provinces and taking nearly two thirds of the popular vote.

The Democrats were surpassing even their 1950 landslide victory, which ended 25 years of one-party rule by the Republican party founded by the late Kamal Ataturk, Turkey's national hero.

And returns today indicated the Democrats would seat 508 deputies, the Republicans no more than 28 and the Small Nation party probably 5.

In the previous 487-member assembly elected in 1950, the Democrats won 386 seats and the Republicans and allies 69.

20th Century Buys Rights to Oursler's Best-Seller

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Producer Darryl F. Zanuck says he has paid a record sum—two million dollars—for screen rights to "The Greatest Story Ever Told," the late Fulton Oursler's account of the life of Christ.

Twentieth Century-Fox Studios, where Zanuck is production head, announced yesterday that the cumulative price was agreed upon in conferences between Zanuck and executors of Oursler's estate.

Production of the picture is scheduled to start next year.

Symington Hits Defense Budget

Calls U. S. Relatively Weak Against Might of U.S.S.R.

DETROIT (UP) — Sen. Stuart yso.)he tsaENT,itedMUnRNA.tOU Symington (D-Mo.) says the United States is relatively weaker against Russia than it ever has been against "any possible enemy."

The Missouri senator, former Secretary of the Air Force, criticized the Eisenhower administration's defense budget Saturday night in an address at Michigan Democrats' Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner.

"Rhis country today is relatively weaker — relatively is the important word — against the military might of Soviety Russia than it has ever been against any possible enemy in the histor of our country," Symington said.

He said the administration cut the Air Force budget more than $5,000,000000 last year, although Russia now has atomic and hydrogen bombs and the planes and submaries to deliver them.

A record 1700 partymen attended the fund-raising dinner, but one of the candidates for a key Democratic nomination next August was absent.

Patrick V. McNamara, who is bidding for the party's enatorial nomination, failed to show up. His opponent, former Sen. Blair Moody, was there.

GLORY STORY—Gregory Peck is a colonel in the Counter Intelligence Corps in the new Twentieth Century-Fox film, "Night People." The CinemaScope thriller, filmed in Germany, also stars Rita Gam, Broderick Crawford and Anita Bjork. "Night People" is at the Oakland Theater here.

'Night Watch' Records Real Police in Action

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The new Night Watch radio show tops Dragnet for realism in the cops-and-criminal department. It's the genuine thing.

Listeners to Night Watch on CBS Monday nights will hear the actual nabbing of a criminal. The recording was made during an arrest by the Culver City, Calif., police.

Columbia's answer to Jack Webb is an enterprising young man named Donn Reed. A radio veteran, he dreamed up Night Watch in an effort to find something new in radio.

* * *

"I remember one day I came out of a radio conference feeling very depressed," he told me. "I said to another fellow that I was tired of rehashing the same old things in radio. If only there was something new.

"That day I went over to the place where I play handball. Another person who plays there is Ron Perkins, a sergeant with the Culver City police. He had his uniform on, and I asked him what he had been doing lately. He told me about some of his cases and they sounded fascinating. He invited me to come along with him some night."

Reed went in the prowl car one night and found a wealth of material. Perkins talked to Chief W. N. Hildebrande of the Culver City police about allowing Reed to record some cases. Permission was granted, and the project got under way.

* * *

"Our first problem was the recording equipment," reported Reed. "To get really professional quality meant using about 1,000 pounds of gear. Obviously that was impractical, since much of the time I had to race after police to get my recordings.

* * *

"We finally worked it down to a self-inclusive unit that weighs only 16 pounds. That makes me much more maneuverable. We carry an engineer with us, but he stays in the car. It wouldn't be right to ask him to accompany us."

Reed referred to the danger. It can be considerable. Once he was in close proximity when a holdup man was apprehended. The hood reached for his gun, and Reed hit the deck. He saved himself from danger, but he still was angry. The fall damaged the recording equipment and ruined his report on the crime.

On another occasion, the police picked up a dope addict who confessed the source of supply. This led to the undercover interview with a dope pusher whose devious method of selling the stuff was recorded on tape.

* * *

Such exploits provide an exciting life for Reed. Too exciting, claims his insurance firm. "My premium has been tripled since I started this work," he lamented.

Reed spends most of his evenings with the Culver City police. He now enjoys a night out with his wife only about once every four weeks. In addition to his night work, he keeps the radio in his CBS office tuned to the police reports. He knows the code numbers, and when a promising call comes over, he hops in his car and hurries to the scene.

Indochina Compared to Stalingrad Battle

BONN, Germany (AP)—Germany's World War II governor of northern France and Belgium described the French Union's stubborn defense of Dien Bien Phu today as "the second Battle of Stalingrad, in which the French are making all the mistakes Hitler made."

Former Gen. Alexander von Falkenhausen told an interviewer: "To insist on holding Dien Bien Phu, like Hitler did his famous 'fortresses,' gives this battle a propagandistic significance which can have catastrophic consequences.

"Dien Bien Phu has no strategic significance."

Before World War II Von Falkenhausen was a military adviser to Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. He is considered an expert on Asian affairs.

The Nazis arrested him in 1944 for alleged complicity in the officers' plot against Hitler. After the war the Belgians sentenced him to a long prison term as a war criminal, but released him in March 1951.

Winter Hits Greenhouse

KEENE, N. H. (UP) — "Ole Man Winter" doesn't know what a greenhouse is — and doesn't care. One recent sub-zero night, the heating system failed at the Keene Teachers College greenhouse. Everything was frost-killed including 1,500 geranium plants.

Rover, Frances Celebrate Can Opener Week in Style

NEW YORK (AP)—Frances shook me awake at dawn this morning.

"Wh-wh-what's wrong with you, wife?" I muttered sleepily. "Is the house on fire? Did the baby cut a new molar?"

"No, Rover," she said. "I just couldn't wait any longer. Let's get up and start celebrating."

"Celebrating?" I yawned. "Have you lost your marbles? What is there to celebrate on a Monday? Monday is only the doorway back to slavery."

* * *

"You've forgotten!" said Frances, accusingly. "I don't mind your forgetting my birthday, Mother's Day, St. Valentine's Day and our wedding anniversary. I even forgave you that time you slept through Christmas and woke up and wanted to color Easter eggs. But how could anybody be so thoughtless as to forget—"

Tears glistened in her eyes.

"Forget what?" I muttered crossly, feeling guilty.

"That this is the beginning of National Can Opener Week," she said.

* * *

"I'm sorry, honey," I apologized. "Just give me a moment, and we'll start the celebration."

After showering and shaving I donned my tux ad black tie while Frances eagerly slipped into her evening gown. Then we went into the kitchen and pulled out all our can openers and put them on the counter.

"Actually, National Can Opener Week this year is designed to promote the wall type opener which can take the top off a can in four seconds," I said.

"Shh," replied Frances. "You'll give my can opener an inferiority complex."

* * *

Frances next tied a gay ribbon around each can opener and laid them all in a row on the dining room table. Then she went back into the kitchen and returned corrying a cake with 15 lighted candles. As she put it on the table, we both chanted:

"Happy National Can Opener Week to you!

"Happy National Can Opener Week to you!

"Happy National Can Opener Week, dear can openers,

"Happy National Can Opener Week to you!"

Well, you never saw so many surprised can openers in your life. They fairly shone with excitement. Then I followed my usual custom of reading them the annual statistics put out by the Can Manufacturers Institute:

"The first record of a tin can is in 1853. But it wasn't until 1858 that Ezra J. Warner invented the first can opener. Think what this means. If it hadn't been for Ezra this country would now be covered with a sea of unopened tin cans as high as the Empire State Building, a traffic jam of cans that would have made life as we know it today impossible.

"Truly, it is the can opener that saved America."

As our can openers gleamed in quiet pride, Frances took them back into the kitchen, hung them up by their ribbons and said:

"Poor dears! You have worked so hard all year you deserve the rest of the week off."

"But that means we'll have to eat out in restaurants," I objected.

"Yes, isn't it a pity?" she said.

Police Corral Moroccans to Quell Killings, Terror

CASABLANCA, Morocco (AP)—Police and troops have rounded up more than 300 Moroccans after a weekend of nationalist terrorism during which three Europeans were killed and four persons were wounded.

Police and troops ringed the Moslem quarter and checked all persons entering or leaving.

Morocco has been plagued by recurrent terrorism and constant nationalist killings since the French exiled Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef last August and replaced him with his uncle, Sultan Moulay Mohammed Ben Arafa.

Golden Cocker Proves More Than a Name

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—While Don Campbell and Byrle Townley of nearby Inglewood were driving home Friday night they spotted a wandering golden cocker spaniel on the highway. Since they'd almost hit the pooch, Campbell decided to take him home.

The next day Mrs. Campbell read where Randy, a cocker, had run away from his owners. They had offered $1,000 reward. Mrs. Campbell realized the dog her husband brought home was Randy.

Campbell collected, said he would split with Townley and decided he'd have to buy a dog. His children had fallen in love with Randy overnight.

U. S. May Sue on FHA Profits

Official Sees Violation of Certain Contracts; 600 Tenants Act

WASHINGTON (AP)—Housing Administrator Albert M. Cole says the government may be able to recover some of the 75 million dollars in "windfall" profits which he estimates builders got under the federal housing program.

Reversing an earlier opinion that the gains made by builders involved nothing illegal, Cole said yesterday some federal - insured loan contracts may have forbidden such windfall profits.

"It is quite possible that suits may be brought to recover," he said on an NBC TV program.

* * *

Cole has charged that some builders obtained loans for amounts far exceeding the actual cost of apartment houses built with the loans. Builders were able to pocket the difference by paying themselves liquidating dividends, he said.

* * *

In New York, 600 tenants of a big Queens apartment development which was cited in recent disclosures as an example of such a case, voted unanimously yesterday to withhold 25 per cent of their rents.

Since maximum rents are based on the amount of the mortgage, the tenants contend the 25 per cent represents approximately the difference between Glen Oaks' 20-million-dollar cost and its mortgage of more than 26 million.

A spokesman for the tenants said the 25 per cent would be held in escrow until the issue is settled.

Marines 'Exercise' on Korean Shore

SOKCHO, Korea (AP) — A reinforced U.S. Marine regiment splashed ashore at this East Coast fishing village today in the first phase of the largest Marine amphibious exercise since the end of the Korean War.

Some 4,700 troops including the 1st Marine Regiment are taking part.

Only hitch was a report from the aircraft carrier Saipan that one of its Skyraider dive bombers was overdue. A search was under way.

The Marines established a beachhead and began moving into the hills in search of the "enemy," played by the 1st Marine Division Reconnaissance Company.

The exercise ends Wednesday.

Musial Smashes Five Home Runs in Single Day

By JACK HAND
AP Sports Writer

Now you know why they call Stan Musial Stan the Man. No other hitter in major league history ever hit five home runs in one day.

* * *

Only nine days ago Musial was bumping along at .250, gripped by the same slump that tortured him last spring. Now he is hitting .400 with eight homers and seven doubles among his 24 hits. The $80,000-salried St. Louis Cardinal outfielder leads the majors with 21 runs batted in and shares the home run lead with Chicago's Hank Sauer.

* * *

The six-time batting champion of the National League slumped to .337 last year, a few points below his .345 lifetime batting average. As late as mid-June he was struggling at the .250 mark.

"All I need is one of those four-for-four days," he said then.

He got his four for four yesterday in the first game, three home runs and a single off New York Giant pitching. Then he added two more homers in the second game.

Six men had hit four homers in a double-header but Musial never had hit three. Five men had hit five homers in two consecutive games, but not on the same day.

So Sunday, May 2, 1954, will go down in the books as Musial Day in St. Louis, the day Stan hit three atop the right field pavilion and two over the roof, bouncing across Grand Avenue.

Musial's clubhouse comment was typical of a team man. "You can't smile too much when you lose a ball game." For the Cards did lose that second game 9-7 after taking the opener 10-6.

A total of 12 home runs were hit in the two games at Busch Stadium and 21 in all in the National League, four short of the record set July 16, 1950.

Musial's shiny day had no appreciable effect on the league race. The Philadelphia Phillies gained a 4-3 edge over Cincinnati in the first half of a double-header. The second game was washed out.

* * *

Chicago and Pittsburgh also went on a homer spree with a total of eight, three by Hank Sauer, as they split a pair. A Sauer homer and single gave Paul Minner a 5-3 first-game decision over Vern Law. The Pirates ripped into the Cubs for eight runs in the first inning of the second game on the way to an 18-10 decision. Darkness mercifully put an end to the slaughter at the end of eight innings after six home runs had been hit, two more by Sauer.

Brooklyn's game at Milwaukee was rained out. The American League also had a postponement, the Baltimore at Boston doubleheader.

Cleveland gained ground on everybody in the American, winning a pair from Washington 6-4 and 6-3 in 10 innings. Chicago won its third straight shutout 4-0 at Philadelphia with Don Johnson throwing a two-hitter but the White Sox lost the second game 2-1 on Elmer Valo's pinch single in the ninth, his first hit of the season.

Only four homers were hit in the American League but two of them, by rookie Bill Wilson and Chico Carrasquel, provided Johnson's cushion for Chicago's first-game verdict over Philadelphia. Valo got his chance to win the second after Bill Renna singled and was moved to second on Jim Finigan's sacrifice. Valo's blast off the right field wall wasn't even chased.

Demaret Puts Together His Ideal Golfer

Nelson, Snead, Hogan, Runyon, Locke, Sarazen Are 'Contributors'

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—Now that Jimmy Demaret is a big shirt and jacket man it seemed only proper to get him to sharpen the edges of his long experience and patch together his "dream golfer."

* * *

If he could take the best features of the men with whom he's played for a quarter of a century and weave them into one golfer, what would this ideal shotmaker look like?

"You might expect me to say Ben Hogan," the 41-year-old Houston fashion-plate said today. "I consider Ben the best all-around golfer I ever saw but if I started taking golfers apart, well, that woud be something else."

* * *

"If I had to pick the best driver," Jimmy continued, "It would be Byron Nelson. He was the best I ever saw at placing the ball in a position in the fairway where he would have the best chance at a good second shot. No one was better at feathering the ball.

* * *

"The rest of the shots—

"Long irons—Sam Snead. He has no equal with the one-iron and he's also tremendous with the two and three irons.

"Medium irons—Ben Hogan, because he never picks the wrong club. Best in the world at choosing the right club and executing this kind of shot.

"Short irons—Paul Runyan. He's not a long hitter, anyhow, and he piled up a fine record because of his short game. Excellent from 100 yards out.

* * *

"Putting—Give me Bobby Locke and Lloyd Mangrum here. Locke is a great lag putter. Mangrum is tops at sinking the long ones. For pressure putting, I'll have to take Hogan.

"Traps—Gene Sarazen, I guess, but I never saw him at his best. Next to him, Hogan, Snead and Jackie Burke.

"Best swing—Snead for the swinger style, Nelson for the hitting style.

"Best scrambler—Al Besselink.

"Best temperament — South Africa's Bobby Locke. Never gets ruffled.

Bill Osborne of Monroe won the high and low hurdles and broad jump for a triple-event sweep.

Saginaw Wins

Ringgold Sets New Broad Jump Record as Chiefs Finish Fourth in CMC Relays

By BILL MARTIN

Pontiac High's track team won four 1st places and accounted for one of four broken Class A records Saturday to place 4th in the 14th annual Central Michigan Relays at Mt. Pleasant.

Saginaw High won the "A" title with 59.7 points, followed by Flint Northern with 58.6, Arthur Hill with 47.2, Pontiac with 44.6 and Lansing Sexton with 32.5. Waterford finished 14th with 7 points.

Ed Ringgold, the meet's only individual double-winner, was Pontiac's standout performer. The versatile junior won both the high jump and broad jump, setting a record of 21 feet 11½ inches in the latter event. He cleared 5 feet 11 inches in the high jump.

Chief's other 1st places came in the mile relay, (Charles Robinson-Coley Gracey - Jack Humphrey - Norris Jackson) and the 2-mile relay (Felix Brooks-Alonzo Watson-Fred Wilson-John James). PHS mile quartet negotiated the distance in 3 minutes 45.25 seconds, while the 2-mile team finished in 8 minutes 46.7 seconds.

Willie Wilson placed 2nd in the 180-yard low hurdles, shaving .3 of a second off his own school record of 20.6 seconds.

Pontiac's other points were scored by Bill Douglas, 3rd in the mile; Freeman Watkins, 3rd in the broad jump; Central relay team (Jimmy Williams - Watkins - Buddy Walker - Willie Wilson), 4th; and George Thrasher, tie for 4th in pole vault.

Bad breaks cost Pontiac potential points in other events. Ringgold gave Pontiac a sizeable lead in the shuttle hurdles relay, but Red Taylor fell after hitting a hurdle to give Pontiac a blank in that event. Williams, Pontiac's top dashman, aggravated a muscle injury and was unable to compete in the later relays.

Two boys accounted for Waterford's seven points. Kerry Keating placed 4th in the 100-yard dash and 5th in the broad jump and Ray Campbell finished 2nd in the 100 in 10.1 seconds.

Pontiac, unbeaten in outdoor dual meet competition since 1946, faces one of its toughest tests tomorrow against Flint Northern. Vikings come to Wisner Field for the Chiefs' final dual meet.

UM Thinclads Beat Broncos, Marquette

KALAMAZOO (UP) — Ten first places out of 14 events paced the University of Michigan to a resounding victory over Marquette and Western Michigan in a triangular track meet Saturday.

Wolverines compiled 95 points against 31 for Western and 25 for Marquette. Western captured three 1st places and Marquette one.

Pete Gray of Michigan reeled off a trail-blazing 1:52.1 to win the half mile. Wolverines' Fritz Nilsson posted new field records in winning the shot put and discus throw.

Rain Halts Speedway Program During Trials

Rain halted operations at Pontiac Speedway Sunday during qualification runs with about 50 cars in the pits and 1,600 in the stands.

Races were cancelled and fans were issued rain checks valid next Sunday. Children's Day also will be held next Sunday.

In the time trials held prior to the rain, Joy Fair of Pontiac spun one lap just two-tenths of a second off the all-time track record.

Fisherman Finds Big Rattlesnake

A two-foot-long rattlesnake, taking the sun along the banks of the Clinton River Sunday, halted a trout-fishing chore for a Twin Beach resident. The spot was just below the Cass-Elizabeth road.

Art Lane, 6525 Dandison, Twin Beach, was fishing when he discovered the husky rattler in his path. He killed the reptile, which had eight rattles.

A number of other persons were in the vicinity at the time, but they didn't stay long after the snake was found, Lane reports. "And I didn't look for any more of them, either," Lane added.

Last fall Lane's hunting dog pointed a rattler at Proud Lake. Lane killed the snake.

The trainer Bill Winfrey-owner A. G. Vanderbilt combination scored four times in stake races at Jamaica last spring. Their Native Dancer won the big one — the Wood Memorial.

Italian Mitri Puts Quick End to Turpin Comeback

ROME (AP)—Two men were on the boxing comeback trail last night. One bent his head in prayer. The other fidgeted with his glove lacings.

* * *

Twenty-eight seconds later handsome Tiberio Mitri was laughing happily—again the European middleweight champion, idol of Italy and ready to fight world champion Bobo Olson.

Former world champion Randy Turpin, slammed to the canvas by his opponent's first punch, stood in his corner with glazed eyes, smiling a little as if it couldn't have happened.

* * *

It was one of the quickest knockouts on record with Italy's Mitri the winner.

The end came so suddenly and the knockout punch was so short and swift that veteran fight reporters less than four feet away never saw the brutal left hook.

"It was like a pistol shot the way he went down," the elated Italian said later in his dressing room. Now I want to fight Bobo Olson."

The disconsolate Briton, Turpin, who beat Sugar Ray Robinson for the middleweight crown and later lost it to the American Negro, sat in his dressing room, slumped on a stool.

"I could have gone on," Turpin said.

* * *

But even his manager, George Middleton, agreed the referee was right in ending the fight.

Steady Work Helps Gromek

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Steve Gromek can't understand why there should be so much eyebrow-raising over his perfect 4-0 pitching record with the Detroit Tigers this season.

* * *

The 34-year-old righthander, now in his 13th big league season, doesn't subscribe to the various theories presented i.e.:

1. That he has finally recovered from a chronic sore arm; 2. That he has discovered a new pitch; 3. That he's happy to get away from the Cleveland Indians.

"I've heard all that, too," Gromek said yesterday before the Tigers took on New York in a doubleheader at Yankee Stadium. "But none of it is true. First of all, I've never had a sore arm in my life. I once hurt my left shoulder but never my right. Also, I've read that I'm supposed to have come up with a sinker ball this spring. I've been throwing that pitch for the past five years. And I was never unhappy in Cleveland. I was always treated well there.

* * *

"In Cleveland, it was just my misfortune to be the No. 5 pitcher," Gromek explained. "Lopez, naturally, wanted to use his big four as often as he could. I was relegated mostly to the bull pen and started only when the big four needed an extra day of rest.

"When I did start, it was either do or die. There was always extra pressure on me because I was fully aware if I didn't turn in an outstanding performance, I would not get another starting chance for several weeks. Not that I blamed Lopez. He had to go with his best whenever possible."

Could he explain his remarkable pitching that had enabled him to complete all his four starts, walk only three batters in 36 innings while striking out 18 and boast a 1.75 earned run average?

"No secret," he replied. "I've been getting regular work. The manager has faith in me and I've got confidence in myself.

'Satch' Scheduled to Pitch for Revived Globetrotters

CHICAGO (AP) — Leroy (Satchel) Paige, baseball's legendary antique, is cranking up the old right arm for another season of pitching —this one with the Harlem Globetrotters' barnstormers.

* * *

Abe Saperstein, whose basketball Globetrotters have established a world wide reputation, announced today that Paige has signed to pitch for the baseball end of the business.

* * *

Saperstein is reviving the Globetrotters baseball team, with Paige as general manager. The club toured the country during the mid-'40s but was disbanded a couple of years ago.

* * *

Paige, who admits to 45 years of age but is faced with general disbelief, said he expects to "make anywhere from $25,000 to $30,000" for the season. He said he recently turned down a $20,000 offer to hurl for Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast League. Saperstein estimates Paige will make "about $45,000."

* * *

The Globetrotters open their tour at Cincinnati May 30 against the House of David team.

Satchel developed a fearful reputation as Negro baseball's premier pitcher for years and, in 1948, signed with the Cleveland Indians —winning 6 and losing 1 game that season as the Indians won the American League pennant.

He pitched for the Indians again in 1949, laid off the following year and then hurled three seasons for the St. Louis Browns.

It's Time Out!

I'll say this for you, dear . . . you certainly hit some booming putts!"

4 Golfers Tie for MGA Honors

Povlitz, Schwope, Gent, Kurach Win 1st Tourney at Edgewood

Metropolitan Golf Association's 1st handicap tournament of the season was held Saturday at Edgewood Golf Club with four golfers sharing top honors.

Bob Povlitz of Pontiac, Bill Schwope, John Kurach and Bob Gent each totalled 71 net to tie for the top. A total of 238 golfers played in the affair.

Schwope and Kurach each had 75s with four handicaps, Povlitz and Gent shot 76s with five handicaps, Joe Kocsis also had a 75, but his net was 72.

Charley Barker of Pontiac had a fine 35 on the first nine, but had three shots out of bounds coming in and would up with 35-48—83.

First flight winner was Marshall Riehs with net 68. Tom MacQueen, Jack Galliger and Harry Bower had 69s. Bob Anderson won the 2nd flight with 64.

Midwestern College Football Teams Carry Heavy Appeal for National Television Fans and Sponsor

By GRANTLAND RICE

NEW YORK — The TV committee of the NCAA has been caught again in its annual web. These are all honest men, capable men wrestling with a ghost.

* * *

Last fall for example, I turned from TV to radio to get a playing account of the games I was interested in, not such games as Dartmouth and Holy Cross, where the two universities held only a light appeal.

* * *

You can imagine what interest the South, Midwest, Southwest and Far West had in this game. The answer is none at all. The NCAA TV committee is up against one of the toughest problems in the country. It is an almost impossible job. The committee has 12 football dates to handle, plus a Thanksgiving Day program.

* * *

Its job is to help college football please the public and also please some sponsor.

Sothe NCAA TV committee must have considered the first colleges that would have appealed to the country at large. This is also what the sponsor, supposed to put up $4,000,000, is supposed to look for.

What are the leading teams which should be considered in the fall TV programs? Here they are—in special order—Notre Dame, Michigan, Ohio State, Oklahoma, Maryland, Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Purdue, Michigan State, Southern California, UCLA, California, Georgia Tech, Army, Navy, Missouri, Minnesota, Pennsylvania, Alabama, Georgia, Texas, SMU, Duke, Rice Baylor, Texas A. and M., Oil, Miss., Pittsburgh, Kansas, Texas Tech.

* * *

You might add one or two others. You might also put in Notre Dame twice, for the sake of the sponsor and the public at large.

The East's showing in recent bowls has about eliminated this section's TV appeal, with the exception of Pittsburgh and Penn State. These two have a good rating, but not too high nationally.

* * *

Through the recent winter I have covered several sections, asking different football leaders the teams they would like to see.

This is the voting—East—No team in particular. Midwest—Notre Dame, Michigan, Ohio State, Iowa, Illinois and Michigan State. South—Georgia Tech, Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee. Southwest—Almost any member of the Southwest Conference. Big Seven—Oklahoma, Missouri. Far West—California, UCLA and Southern California.

* * *

The Midwest has the call next fall by a wide margin. It should get the breaks.

Pontiac Golfer Gets Ace, Then Nearly Repeats

Comes Within 2 Feet of Scoring Twice on 17th at PCC

Ralph Allen scored a hole-in-one at Pontiac Country Club Sunday, then nearly duplicated the feat while demonstrating his shot to fellow golfers.

Allen, who lives at 5986 Cooley Lake road, played the back nine with John Orsey. He hit a 5-iron shot into the hole on the 165-yard 17th and had a 39 for the round.

Then he played another 18 holes with Chet Reynolds and Fonce Fowler. When they reached the 17th, Allen showed his hole-in-one form to his partners and came within two feet of sinking the shot again.

The Pontiac golfer was one of four weekend players to score aces on Oakland County courses.

Sidney Weiss posted the 1st of the season at Glen Oaks on the 162-yard 17th hole. His perfect 5-iron shot helped him to a 93.

On Saturday, Valerie Kretchmar of Utica became the 1st woman to ever score a hole-in-one at Sunnybrook Golf Club. She used a 3-iron on the 162-yard 18th hole as she finished with 41.

Karl Gertz aced the 148-yard 11th hole at Red Run Country Club on his 1st round of the year. He used a 6-iron and had 97 for the round.

Orion Hunters Bag Seven Hungry Foxes

Two Lake Orion men—Hugh D. Myers and Jay Gingell—were $35 richer today after collecting bounties for seven foxes they dug out of a den near the intersection of Baldwin and Clarkston roads yesterday.

Mother of the 4-week-old foxes got away from the hunters. Extent of her destructive forages in the area was shown by the carcasses of 16 dead animals and fowl in the den.

Myers and Gingell found two chickens and a bantam, a mallard duck, a meadowlark, nine rabbits, a possum and, strangely enough, a skunk.

Williams Lake Dog Is Huron Hills Winner

Tor von Liebestraum, black German shepherd, owned by Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Porter of Forjan Kennels went winner's dog Sunday for the 2nd straight week.

The two-and-a-half year-old dog won honors at the Huron Hills Kennel Club show in Ann Arbor Sunday. A week ago, he was winner's dog and best of winners at a Columbus, Ohio, show.

Tor's son, 10-month-old Tagg of Forjan, was reserve winner at Ann Arbor Sunday.

The Porters live at 2435 Maplecrest, Williams Lake.

Skating Winners Named

Second elimination races of the 5th skating period were held at the Pontiac Rolladium Saturday.

Winners included Jim Wert and Sharon Green in Class A Richard Hamlin and Betty Legare in Class B and Miki Sue Hollenbeck and Herbert Mussen in Class C.

Pontiac Dog Wins

Flach von Liebestraum, a 16-month-old German Shepherd, was the highest scoring dog of his type in the obedience novice A class of the Huron Hills Kennel Club show at Ann Arbor Sunday. Flasch was handled by Keith VoVillis, 16, of 2960 Maybee Road, Pontiac.

Mayfield Backs Into Top Spot in Frisco Open

Ex-Texan Moves In as Middlecoff Blows Up on Final Hole

By RUSS NEWLAND

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— Shelley Mayfield, a transplanted Texan playing professional golf out of Chicopee, Mass., long will remember the 1954 San Francisco Open Invitational tournament.

So will Cary Middlecoff, former Memphis dentist who decided years ago that a molar maestro's career was less profitable than snatching dollars from the fairways.

Blond Mayfield, born in Seguin, near San Antonio, backed into the winner's circle yesterday, Middlecoff, the favorite and leader on the 54th and final hole, saw his hopes buried in a sand-trap breasting the last green of the Lake Merced course.

Middlecoff took a 6 when a par 4 would have meant the big win. Mayfield won the tournament, revived after eight years, with scores of 72-70-70—212. It was worth $1,400 to him.

Middlecoff had rounds of 69-70-74—213. His payoff was $1,000.

Jimmy Clark, Los Angeles, got $750 for a third-place score of 75-69-72—216. Gene Littler, 1953 National Amateur champ, and now a Palm Springs, Calif., pro, and Smiley Quick, Los Angeles, each won $600 fourth money with 217.

Walter Burkemo of Franklin, Mich., finished well down the list despite a strong rally on his last round. He scored 79-76-71—226.

Landy Doesn't Expect to Run 4-Minute Mile

Australian Ace Arrives in Stockholm for Tour of Scandinavia

STOCKHOLM (AP) — John Landy, Australia's crack miler who arrived here by air last night for a Scandinavian tour, says he's not the man to run the four minute mile.

* * *

"It will be very hard to run a mile of four minutes or less—it's just that last little bit that matters," he said. Landy should know, for he has run the mile in less than 4:03 six times, and his best effort of 4:02 is the third fastest ever.

* * *

Landy and Finnish miler Dennis Johansson, who met him when he arrived, were scheduled to depart later today for Helsinki where Landy will train for his eight-week Scandinavian tour starting May 31 at Turku, Finland.

"There's no formula for it," Landy said when asked how he thought a four minute mile should be run.

"You sort of feel it on your legs when you're on your way. There's no schedule I can recommend."

Johansson, who ran against Landy in Australia last winter with little success, broke in to say:

"I'm sure John would've broke the world record if he'd made his 4:02 mile on a dirt track instead of a grass track. Dirt tracks are so much faster than grass."

* * *

Landy said he didn't think the change of climate would affect his running in Scandinavia. "Although I'm used to a warmer climate."

* * *

"Im really eager to get started," he said, adding that he would put in some stiff training hours to better his top shape.

Landy will run in eight races in his Scandinavian tour in an attempt to run the four minute mile or at least break Gunder Haegg's world record of 4:01.4.

Derby to Coast Colt

By ORLO ROBERTSON

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A little grey colt with a terrific appetite and a decided dislike for work is going to pass up the turf's coveted Triple Crown after breaking a jinx that plagued horses of his color through 80 years of the Kentucky Derby.

* * *

No grey ever won America's No. 1 glamous race until Andy Crevolin's Determine, a tiny horse out of Alhambra, Calif., came from second place in the stretch to hang a length and a half defeat on the swift Hasty Road last Saturday.

* * *

Fifteen other 3-year olds, including the favored Correlation, were up the stretch as Determine reached the end of the mile and a quarter in 2:03.

The little colt, who got his name because his owner was determined to find a good one, is not eligible for the Belmont Stakes, third race of the Triple Crown.

Determine, weighing less than 900 pounds and a midget alongside such rivals as Hasty Road and Correlation, received his name after Crevolin had several suggestions turned down by the registrar of The Jockey Club.

"I'm determined to get a good name for him," said the Alhambra automobile dealer to his wife.

"Well, if you are so determined," she replied "why don't you call him Determine." and Determine it was.

The victory, worth a record $102,050, boosted Determine's total earnings to $286,235. He was in the money in 10 of his 14 two-year old starts, winning four races. This year, however, he has won seven and finished second twice in nine trips to the post.

* * *

Determine returned to his barn a mighty tired horse, according to Molter, a former jockey, but he was not too tired to eat.

"I never saw him so tired. He gave it everything. What a horse. But still he wanted to eat after a few minutes rest."

Jimmy Dykes 'Benches' Self

Hopes Move to Dugout Will Change Orioles' Luck at Bat

BOSTON (AP)—Manager Jimmy Dykes of the Baltimore Orioles has tried just about everything to snap his team out of an extended batting slump which has produced just 30 runs in 14 games.

* * *

But the rotund skipper has one more gimmick up his sleeve. While sitting out the postponement of a doubleheader here yesterday, Dykes said he intends to "bench" himself when the Orioles play the New York Yankees in New York Tuesday.

* * *

He told coach Tom Oliver to take over the third base coaching duties. "Nobody seems to want to talk to me over there any more," Dykes said. "I just want to see if the club's mad at me."

He added seriously: "Maybe it'll change our luck if I sit in the dugout."

My Greatest Shot

By SAM SNEAD

If you were to listen to the jokes my fellow professionals make I'm known for a powerful lot of things.

But it's a matter of record that I drive as long a ball as there is around. Now, this isn't telling tall tales over a cracker barrel.

It could come as a surprise, however, when I tell you that the shot I consider my all-time best was a little old chip shot.

The shot came during the 1942 PGA Championship, which was held at the Seaview Country Club, at Absecon, outside of Atlantic City.

It was on the 11th hole and I was two up and two to play in the final match with Jim Turnesa, a guy you never do beat easily—if you do beat him.

I got up to within chip-shot range, and I'm standing around waiting for Turnesa to make his fairway iron shot. As I waited, I said to myself, "Man, why not go for the hole with this one? Why play it extra safe and look for that putt? Why not kill the match off right here?"

I took my chip shot and hit right for the cup—and the ball ran right for the hole like a scalded dog and wound up right plumb in the cup.

The shot gave me my first major tournament victory.

Michigan's NCAA baseball champions led the Big Ten today by virtue of a twin licking Saturday handed to Illinois, the team that shared the Western Conference title with the Wolverines last year.

Michigan State, which went into the weekend leading the Big Ten and unbeaten, split a doubleheader with Purdue, and slipped into the number two spot in the league standings.

With the Michigan entry running one-two, none of the other teams looked to be strong contenders at the moment. Illinois slipped from its co-championship last year to 9th place. They've won only one game against five losses.

The closest teams, Ohio State and Minnesota, have already lost two games, while winning four.

Michigan connected for 16 hits in setting down Illinois twice, 6-1 and 3-2. Jack Corbett held the Illini to four hits in the 7th inning nightcap. Marv Wisniewski held Illinois to six hits in the opener.

Michigan State connected for 15 hits in beating Purdue 12-0 in their opener while Ed Hobaugh held the Boilermakers to three hits. Both squads got nine hits in the nightcap, but MSC lost 5-2.

Bengals Hold Second Place in AL Standings

Rest Today for Series With Red Sox Starting Tuesday

BOSTON (AP) — The Detroit Tigers started the season putting all their money on some old arms and some young bats.

The young bats in the hand of Al Kaline, Bill Tuttle and Frank Bolling have come through.

Resting for a three-day series with the Boston Red Sox tomorrow, Tigers were in 2nd place in the American League, a half game behind Chicago.

Most of the old arms had come through too. Steve Gromek, 34, has won four, lost none. Ned Garver, 29, has won two, lost none Ralph Branca, 28, working mostly in reliefs, has won two, lost none.

Between them they have won eight of the Tigers nine victories.

Detroit has two other pitchers who are expected to help carry the load; Ted Gray, 26, and Billy Hoeft, only two weeks away from his 22nd birthday.

Yesterday in his 3rd start, Gray was smashed 12-4. Hoeft, making his 2nd start came through. Tigers split a double-header with the New York Yankees, losing the 1st and winning a five inning nightcap 4-0 called because of darkness.

In the 1st game Gray was the loser. He lasted only two innings. He faced five batters in the 3rd before he was pulled out. During his stand Gray allowed four hits, walked two, and was charged with an error.

In the 3rd inning, Gray had the benefit of a 2-0 lead. When he left the Yankees were leading 3-2 and had two men on base with none out.

Reliefer Ray Herbert finally retired the side, but not until three more runs had scored, two of them charged to Gray.

The nightcap was different. Billy Hoeft kept the Yankees hitless until the 5th inning when 3rd baseman Andy Carey doubled with two out. Darkness gave the young southpaw a five-inning shutout and squared his record at 1-1.

On the hitting side, Tigers were held to four in the 1st game by Jim McDonald and Allie Reynolds. But all four hits counted in bringing in the Tiger runs.

In the 2nd game, Tigers made six hits for another four runs. But the standout aid was five Yankee errors.

Hoeft allowed only one base on balls and struck out six.

Determine Passes Up Preakness Test

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Kentucky Derby winner Determine will not run in the Preakness at Pimlico on May 22, it was announced today by the thoroughbred's trainer, Willie Molter.

Molter, who said he was speaking for owner Andy Crevolin, said "we don't want to push our luck too far."

The trainer said Determine would be returned to California by plane, leaving here Wednesday. He said the Derby winner would be given a couple of weeks rest before running at Hollywood.

Track Fans Escape Falling Limb at Derby

Ex-Aviation Daredevil, Others Leave Spot as Branch Topples

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 3 (AP) — Col. Roscoe Turner, aviation dare devil of the 1930's, and several other persons walked away from a beech tree Sunday seconds before a 50-foot limb crashed 60 feet to the ground.

* * *

Turner and the others were among some 700 persons attending a Kentucky Derby celebration at the home of Mrs. Anna Friedman, keeper of the seal of the Honorable Order of Kentucky Colonels.

* * *

Turner, an Indianapolis man known for his narrow escapes, mused: "I've always been lucky."

Accidents Mar Italian Classic

Two Drivers and Three Spectators Killed, 26 Others Injured

BRESCIA (AP)—The death toll in Italy's Mile Miglia (thousand mile) road race rose to five today in the wake of the hazardous automobile road race.

Dead were Andrew Bouchon, driver of a French Citroen; S. Dal Cin, Italian co-driver of F. Mancini's Maserati; and three spectators, a 15-year-old boy, a man and a woman.

Thirteen other drivers and 13 other spectators also were injured, eight of the spectators when Bouchon's car careened off the road.

Race was won by 1953 world driving champion Alberto Ascari in a Ferrari. His average time was 139.648 kilometers per hour (about 84 miles per hour).

Whitfield Gets Mile Victory in Confusing Race

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — The pacing "rabbit" crossed the finish line first, but Mal Whitfield was credited with his 1st mile victory Sunday in the 7th annual Boardwalk Mile.

An all-out assault on the 4-minute mile ended in confusion and with Whitfield trailing Alex Breckenridge across the finish line. Breckenridge, a Scotsman attending Villanova College, had been assigned to pace the field of four over the 1st half mile of the straightaway course.

But Alex went all the way and won in 4.06.3. Judges ruled that since he was not an official entry, Whitfield, who finished in 4:06.8, was the "official" winner.

Fred Wilt was 2nd, John Joe Barry 3rd and Horace Ashenfelter 4th.

Dark's Streak Ends

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Alvin Dark of the Giants went hitless in the second game of yesterday's doubleheader against the Cardinals and thus saw his 16-game hitting streak come to an end. Five Redbird pitchers collaborated to stop Dark for the first time this season.

Patton Victor in North-South

Billy Joe Finally Gets Chance to Wear New White Jacket

PINEHURST N. C. (AP) — Just as Billy Joe Patton had hoped, and most of the fans figured he got to wear his new sharp-looking white jacket here Saturday night to receive the North and South amateur gold trophy.

A combination of miracle shots on the last three holes and a missed putt by his opponent, Alex Welsh of Rockford, Ill., gave Patton a one-up 37-hole victory in the finals.

The 32-year-old Tar Heel, who became the talk of golfdom after his near miss at Augusta's Masters last month, had told the gallery that his new white jacket was waiting still unworn. He brought it for the presentations at the Masters, as he put it "so I could look nice when they presented me something."

But he never had a chance to wear it, having been pushed to 3rd place in that event.

Welsh came from behind for the 5th time by winning the 32nd and 33rd holes with par golf.

Both parred the 34th and Welsh was on the green on the short 35th while Patton was in the sand. The Morgantown, N. C., golfer exploded beautifully but the ball was still 10 feet from the hole. Welsh was assured of his par three.

Studying the ball carefully, Patton rolled in a 10-footer to the cheers of the gallery, to stave off defeat.

Victory for Patton followed a runnerup performance here in 1951 and was his 1st in major amateur competition.

Bob Considine Says:

New Books on McCarthy Only Add More Confusion

WASHINGTON (INS)—If you are thoroughly confused by the Senate hearings whose most arresting figure is Sen. Joe McCarthy, and you feel that it is not possible to become more confused, take heart. It is possible to explore new realms of consternation.

Just buy and read the best of the pro-McCarthy books, "McCarthy and His Enemies," published by Henry Regnery Co., $5, and then buy and read the special issue of "The Progressive," a magazine published by the LaFollette interests in Madison, Wis. It is sub-titled "McCarthy, A Documented Record," and the price on newsstands is 75 cents.

When you finish both pros and cons on Joe, you'll be bewildered enough to be called as a witness.

* * *

Bob Hope, Gen. George C. Kenney, George Jessel, Bill Corum and a lot of other well known people assembled in Louisville for the Derby, took part in Hope's charity tele-thon the other night trying to raise some dough to fight one of the oldest and most neglected diseases of man—arthritis.

We ran into Tom Murphy, public relations man for the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, while flying down to Derbyburg, and he filled me with some depressing statistics: To wit: There are 10,000,000 sufferers in this country. Until recently there were only 200 hospital beds specifically earmarked for the more than 1,000,000 patients in need of them.

Those chronic sufferers from the more than 50 forms of the disease cost $128,000,000 in public relief last year. That's eight times as much as France charged us for what was called Louisiana, out of which we carved not only the state of Louisiana but a dozen others.

Arthritis-rheumatism has baffled medical science since the birth of time. Nazi aggression inadvertently brought about the development of the first great modern treatment: cortisone.

Allied airmen, astonished by the sharp reflexes of luftwaffe fighter pilots at what was then considered extreme altitudes, came to the conclusion that they were taking certain "hormone treatments."

Intelligence reports added fact to fancy: Hitler had imported tons of cattle stomachs and glands from Argentina just before marching into Poland.

Our people went to work literally trying to wring from the lining of cattle stomachs the magic stuff to shoot into the airmen of the free world. Then came word that it was all a mistake; the krauts had just trained their first team a bit better.

But Merck and Co. kept at the work on its own and came up not with a fly-boy's pep juice but a miracle substance capable of lifting thousands of the twisted and tortured sufferers from their beds and restoring them to normal lives.

Massey Flies to U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vincent Massey, governor general of Canada, is due here by plane today for a three-day official visit to Washington as the guest of President Eisenhower.

Some 180 species of holly grow in various parts of the world, but only about a dozen can be found in the United States.

Lists Sore Spots in Sino-Soviet Amity

WASHINGTON (AP)—A study published by a federal agency says there are potential points of friction between Red China and Russia despite the "stalinization" of China and efforts to weld stronger bonds between the two countries.

The U.S. Information Agency yesterday published for public information and the guidance of its own staff a study of Chinese-Russian relations by Richard L. Walker, assistant professor of Far Eastern history at Yale University.

Walker said Communist China is being remade in the image of Soviet Russia with Russian help and that ties between the two nations are strengthening.

But he viewed as potential trouble points China's traditional antiforeign attitude, which might turn against Soviet advisers, and, more important, the Soviet system's inability to solve China's problems, particularly in agriculture.

10-Year-Old Driver Hits Play Pen, Kills Toddler

CINCINNATI, (AP) —Ten-year-old James Lykins Jr. kept begging his father to let him drive the family car.

Finally his father said he could drive it back and forth in the driveway yesterday.

Jimmy lost control. The car struck a baby's play pen near the garage and ran over and killed 15-month-old Douglas Byrnside.

Stocks Deadlock in Slight Drop

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market exhibited a lower tendency today in subdued trading.

The effort today represented a consolidation action following the 24-year highs reached last week.

The market started generally lower and slower, and it continued in that vein into the early afternoon.

Lower divisions included chemicals, coppers, radio - televisions, farm implements, motors and steels. The utilities were higher on balance, and there was a touch of buoyancy about the oils, airlines, rubbers, and aircrafts.

The new stock of American Motors Corp. opened at 11¾. The company was formed from the merger of Nash-Kelvinator and Hudson.

"The sign said the space was reserved for military vehicles," Mrs. Bensmiller said. Arthur thought his car could be considered one because in a few minutes he would be in the Air Force.

Refuses Answers at Commie Probe

session was a sparring, wrangling exchange which produced little to throw new light on the basic issues in dispute between McCarthy and Army officials.

These revolve about Army contention that McCarthy and his aides sought by improper means to secure preferential treatment for G. David Schine. Schine, a wealthy New Yorker who was an unpaid consultant to McCarthy's Investigations subcommittee before he was drafted last fall.

* * *

McCarthy and his aides, denying the Army charge, contend the Army tried to use Schine as a "hostage" to influence the subcommittee to stop its investigation of alleged subversive activities in the Army.

The main developments of the session:

1. The committee had some talk about what could be done to speed up the hearings, but this was dropped when McCarthy said it would take him "at least" three days more to complete his examination of Stevens and that he might want to call some senators as witnesses.

* * *

2. Roy M. Cohn, general counsel for McCarthy's subcommittee, pressed Stevens as to whether the Army had not drafted a proposed statement by McCarthy last October announcing the subcommittee's inquiry into alleged subversion at Ft. Monmouth, N.J., was being called off. Stevens said he had no recollection any such statement was proposed. He said he did recall a proposed statement to the effect that the Army was co-operating with the senator. Cohn asked that the secretary's and any other notes as to the proposed statement be subpoenaed for this hearing. Chairman Mundt (R-SD) agreed this would be done.

3. Cohn hammered at Stevens' denial last week that McCarthy's opposition caused Stevens to decide against removal of Maj. Gen. Kirke B. Lawton as commandant at Ft. Monmouth. Stevens stuck to his stand that, although he sought McCarthy's reaction as to possible relief of Lawton from his command, his decision against relieving the general was not due to McCarthy's opposition.

* * *

The entire morning session was taken up by questioning of Stevens by McCarthy and Cohn, with a few assists from Jenkins. Jenkins repeatedly protested Stevens was not answering questions directly and intervened to get a specific answer.

Jenkins took repeated exception also to McCarthy questions, and at one point said McCarthy was going beyond the bounds of propriety.

This was when McCarthy questioned Stevens about a newspaper story the senator said described Pvt. Schine as dining on "filet mignon and champagne" at the Stork Club when he should have been peeling potatoes at Ft. Dix, N.J.

Stevens said he didn't know anything about the news story.

Members of the hearing committee obviously are getting restless at the slow progress, and prodded the principals at the outset today to try for a speed up.

Speaks at 2nd Annual Banquet of Southwest Civic Association

About 250 persons heard Gov. G. Mennen Williams describe fair employment practices legislation and the overall state program last night at the second annual banquet of the Pontiac Southwest Civic Assn. in the Roosevelt Hotel.

The need for a community center was discussed by Douglas Williams, director of the Douglas Community Center in Ann Arbor.

The association announced its 1954 aims, according to Morton Harshaw, president. They are:

1. To raise a $100,000 building fund toward construction of a community center.
2. To increase membership to 30,000.
3. To continue to maintain the baby clinic at Lakeside Homes.
4. To set up a playground on the old Bagley School site at Bagley and Wessen Sts. "for clean, healthy recreation for the youth of Pontiac."

The Lee Williams Memorial Award for promoting better race relations throughout Oakland County was presented to Dr. Etta Link of Berkley by Dr. John D. Monroe, Oakland County health officer.

The award was first given last year. It honors a Pontiac man who was killed in action during World War II, Harshaw explained.

Last year's memorial award winner, Oakland County Register of Deeds Orrin McQuaid, attended the dinner as did Pontiac Mayor William W. Donaldson. The mayor gave a short address.

Court Martial Body Has Dickenson Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—A court-martial considering charges that Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson collaborated with the enemy was instructed today that duress, coercion or mental irresponsibility would be "a complete defense" to the charges.

But Col. Richard F. Scarborough of Macon, Ga., law officer for the court, added that "mere defect of character . . . is not a defense."

The eight-member court took the case under consideration after receiving instructions from Scarborough on the points of law involved.

Dickenson, sitting as quietly and calmly as he had throughout the first two weeks of the trial, listened intently as the chief legal officer instructed the court-martial.

The 23-year-old farmboy from Cracker's Neck, Va., is accused of collaborating with the Chinese Communists during the 2½ years he was held a prisoner of war in North Korea and with informing on a buddy, Edward M. Gaither.

Scarborough told the Army officers a two-thirds vote would be required for conviction. That means six of the officers must find Dickenson guilty for a conviction.

4 Treated for Injuries After 2-Car Collision

Stanley Barber, 32, of 735 Trinway, Birmingham, and his son, Dale A., 9, were treated for injuries at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital following a two-car collision Sunday on Stephenson highway near Maple road.

Barber told Oakland County sheriff's deputies that a car driven by Fred L. Leaver, 69, of 70 Shoreham, Grosse Pointe, made a left turn in front of his car. Leaver and his wife, Josephine, 65, were treated for head injuries at the hospital.

Three Injured in 3-Car Crash

Autos Collide Sunday on Rochester Road in Troy Township

Three persons were injured last night when three cars collided on Rochester road near 19-Mile road in Troy Township.

Leonard T. Zaremba, 32, of 60430 Mount Vernon Rd., Rochester, and Richard Parrish, 59, of 545 Henrickson, Clawson, both driving south, told Troy Township Police Chief David Gratopp that a third motorist, Fred M. Singleton, 31, of Hazel Park, pulled onto the highway without turning on his lights.

Singleton said he turned on his lights but did not see Parrish attempting to pass Zaremba's auto.

Singleton is in good condition today at St. Joseph Mercy hospital with a fractured leg and scalp cuts. Parrish was treated for chest pains, and a passenger with him, Paul Wood, 14, of 72 N. Jessie St., suffered head cuts.

Mrs. Marie Smith, 52, of Detroit, a passenger with Zaremba, was treated for cuts and bruises.

'Planned Maturity' Plan Helps Retired

OMAHA (AP) — An ex-university president is ready to help you face retirement. His correspondence course is called "planned maturity."

When Rowland Haynes retired as President of the University of Omaha in 1948, he wasn't sure what he would do.

"I never was much good at fishing," he admitted.

But Haynes, now 75 and a widower living with a son-in-law and daughter here, found happiness. In six years, in addition to doing a little teaching "for relaxation," he planned his course in what he calls "super adult education".

"Someone has said that retirement is about the severest shock the human organism can sustain. But it doesn't have to be a shock if you plan ahead for it."

Monroney Out of Step With 'Bust' Predictors

CRANSTON, R.I. (AP)—Sen. Monroney (D—Okla) says he is one Democrat who doesn't think the country is moving into a recession.

"If we're headed on the train for economic perdition," he said in a weekend speech here, "it's the first time I've ever seen the trip being made with all the parlor car seats sold."

Afrikaan Novel Lauded for Tale of Africans' Life

JOHANNESBURG (UP) — South African literary critics are hailing the first novel written in Afrikaans by a man who says he wrote it after waiting in vain for a "better educated" African to do it.

Arthur Fula, a court interpreter, has written a rich and powerful story of native life in South Africa today. "Johnnie Casts the Image" has been compared to Alan Paton's "Cry the Beloved Country" for its dramatic and sympathetic approach to the Africans' problems in a European-dominated society. Fula says of his book:

"Johnnie is Johannesburg, the mould from which the natives who are drawn by its glitter emerge as men or are broken. Too many are broken. My people must get back to the land."

The book is being translated into Zulu and other African languages, as well as English and probably other European languages.

Boy Works for Elder, 15

ANDERSON, S. C. (AP)—When authorities closed in on a liquor still here they found a 13-year-old boy involved in the moonshine operation. The youth explained he was only working for someone older. His boss' age is 15.

Career Smooth From Boyhood

But His Fans Say Talent and Hard Work Reason for Singer's Success

NEW YORK—Unlike many of his fellow top stars of the entertainment world, Tony Martin, handsome singing star of TV's Tony Martin Show, didn't have an uphill struggle for a career.

From the time he was 12 years old, things just seemed to work out for the talented youngster.

At 12 Martin was already an accomplished player of the clarinet and saxophone. In high school he played with a group called the Clarion Four, which had many professional vaudeville engagements.

At 16 he was playing these instruments at the Palace Hotel in San Francisco, making over $100 a week. While a sophomore at St. Mary's College he sang on Walter Winchell's nationwide radio program as a special guest.

During the Chicago World's Fair, Martin made a number of successful appearances in Chicago night spots, the beginnings of one of the nation's most successful night club careers. At that time, too, he changed his name from Al Morris to Tony Martin.

He then went to Hollywood and appeared in many films.

In addition to his movie and night club activities Martin also made numerous radio and television appearances.

His recordings for RCA Victor frequently place him among the top 10 of the nation's popular singers on discs, and his recordings have for many years remained in the best-seller class.

Martin is married to the dancer-actress Cyd Charisse and they live in Brentwood with their two children. When not touring Martin is an active participant in sports.

Martin has no special formula for success to offer. He simply says, "I'm the luckiest guy in Hollywood."

But Martin's fans agree that talent, personality and hard work are the qualities he brings along to give Lady Luck a boost.

TONY ON TV—Tony Martin, the handsome young singing star of movies, radio and nightclub engagements recently made his television debut on "The Tony Martin Show." The weekly 15-minute song-fest of favorite tunes is built on the style of the Perry Como-Dinah Shore shows. The interlude is a mixture of melodies, colorful sets and the ingratiating personality of the star himself . . . Tony Martin.

Pontiac Youth Dies After Car Accident

A 15-year-old Pontiac boy, injured in a two-car auto accident April 26, died Sunday at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Joseph Payne, of 606 Bloomfield Ave., sustained a fractured skull when his car struck one driven by Dr. Edwin J. Dobsky, 42, of Clarkston. Witneses said the youth failed to heed a stop sign at California and Bloomfield Aves.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Payne, and six brothers and sisters, John Jr. of Pontiac, William, Lee, Mammie Lee, Janice and Mary, all of St. Louis, Mo.

The body is at Frank Carruthers Funeral Home where service will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. The Rev. Charles H. Peoples, associate pastor of New Bethel Baptist Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Oak Hill Cemetery.

More than 196,000 trucks are used in the distribution of milk in the United States.

School Board to Open Bids

Pontiac Body Offering Bonds Worth $320,000 to Build Classrooms

Pontiac Board of Education will meet Wednesday to open bids on bonds totaling $320,000—the amount it will borrow to build more classrooms by September.

The board, meeting at 7:30 p. m. in school offices at 40 Patterson St., also plans to discuss the tax increase it will ask voters for in June. The added tax would pay for new schools and also help pay the school system's day-to-day operating costs.

The $320,000 in building fund notes is a "bonus" on the two and a half-mill school building tax Pontiac people approved in 1951. The board then borrowed $1,800,000 — all it thought it could handle — to build new classrooms. This bond issue still isn't all paid off. But enough new homes and businesses were built so that the tax is bringing in more money than expected — and buyers of the first bonds have agreed to let more bonds be sold.

The money will be used to build eight permanent classrooms and buy three steel "portable" buildings.

733 Attend State Hospital Open House Sunday

Pontiac State Hospital welcomed 733 visitors Sunday in the first day of a four-day "open house" celebrating Mental Health Week.

Another 481 men and women came to visit patients and to tour the hospital.

Staff and volunteers will take guests for tours of the 3,000-patient institution from 1 until 4 p. m. today and Tuesday and from 6:30 until 9 p.m. Wednesday. Anyone in Oakland or nearby counties who wants to visit the hospital is invited to the open house.

Army Plans Open House

PENTWATER (UP) — Officials at nearby Camp Claybanks said today the Army base will hold an open house May 15 in observance of Armed Forces Day.

2 Pilots Take All 4 Events in Flight Test

Richard Stranahan, of Pontiac, and Paul Kline Jr., of Big Beaver, each won two of four events Sunday in the local elimination contest for the 1954 Michigan amateur flying championship held at Allen's Airport on Giddings road.

Some 500 persons watched 20 pilots compete, according to Maj. Thomas Toma, commander of Pontiac Civil Air Patrol Group 6318 which sponsored the contest.

Stranahan won the free-glide spot landing plus the cross-wind take-off and landing events. Kline placed first in the controlled-approach spot landing and dummy bomb-dropping events.

Judges were Warrant Officers Donald Bump and William Pappas, of the CAP, and Ken Duberville, of Pontiac, a civilian flight instructor.

Besides Toma, CAP men directing the contest were Capt. Donald Ryckman, Lt. Orville Mann, Capt. Henry Baynes and Capt. Frank X. Lundy.

The first and second place winners in each event are eligible to compete in the championship finals to be held Sunday at the Owosso Municipal Airport.

Gas Truck Hits Train

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—A gasoline truck smashed into a moving locomotive in southern Formosa yesterday, killing four persons in the truck and seriously injuring seven others. The injured included five train crewmen and a woman and child passengers.

Of the 48 states in the Union, 25 have names derived from Indian words or combinations of words.
