Handicap No Bar to Friendliness

SIGN LANGUAGE HELPS—Three of the four children in the Jim Schneider family of Louisville, Ky. are deaf mutes, but they refuse to let the handicap worry them. When the family moved into a new neighborhood Dolores, 8, (center) made friends by teaching her playmates the sign language. Eddie, 13, left, and Joe, 15, spend their time building model cars, trucks and ships. Physicians say the children's deafness is due to defective nerves leading to the ears, but have no remedy for it.

Boy Loses Legs Under Train

Hospital Reports Bobbie Dunn, 13, Condition Good

Witnesses Say Victim Attempted to Catch Ride on Freight

Thirteen-year-old Bobbie Dunn lost both legs when he fell under the wheels of a freight train here Christmas Day.

Bobbie, of 60 W. Pike St., was walking along the Grand Trunk Western Railroad tracks about a half-block from his home with two companions who said he attempted to "catch a ride" on one of the slow-moving cars.

The boys, Donald, 12, and William Hunter, 9, also of 60 W. Pike, said Bobbie lost his hold on the car ladder and slipped under the wheels.

According to Hunter youths, Bobbie remained conscious and asked them to summon aid. An unidentified city bus driver saw the youths running for help, investigated and called police.

The train did not stop, police said, because crewmen apparently didn't realize the accident had occurred.

Ambulance drivers said the victim remained conscious throughout the ride to the hospital.

Although nurses at the hospital reported the yough is in good condition today, they said they are not sure he realizes both legs are gone.

Yesterday, he told his parents, Ben and Myrtle Dunn, "I know how bad it is," they said.

Assistant Oakland County Prosecutor Arthur W. Kollin said statements from the Hunter boys would be taken today.

Hospital officials said the train wheels sealed the arteries in the boy's legs saving him from bleeding to death.

Bobbie's family moved here from Romeo last September when the father secured employment at Fisher Body Division. They came to Michigan 22 months ago from Harrisburg, Ill.

The youngster has two sisters, Martha Anna, 15, a sophomore at Pontiac High School and Phyllis June, 10, a Central School fifth grader.

Fishermen Save Two From Lake

Fast rescue work on the part of four Lake Orion fishermen Sunday averted a post-Christmas tragedy here when two boys steered their sleds onto thin ice and plunged into the frigid waters of the lake.

Billy Herrington, 9, and his brother Glen, 7, sons of Mr. and Mrs. James Herrington of 415 Lake St., Lake Orion, were coasting off a point at Bellevue Island. Sloping ice carried Billy farther than he planned, about 200 yards off shore. The ice gave way and boy and sled fell through.

Seeing his brother struggling in the icy water, Glen rushed out to help him and he, too, plunged into the 15-foot depth.

The boys' cries were heard by a fisherman, Arthur Schrah of 146 S. Bellevue, who ran out, jumped into the lake at the risk of his own life and caught the younger boy just as he was sinking. Schrah managed to keep both boys afloat until three other fishermen pushed a toboggan up to the edge of the hole.

Elroy Durocher, of 132 Bellevue St., Dailey Sisler of 712 Buena Vista and Eddie Triest of 452 Summit, with the aid of Schrah, brought the frightened, half-frozen youngsters to safety and took them to the Durocher home.

There, the pair, along with Schrah, were wrapped in blankets and given hot drinks, and the boys' parents were notified. The boys had been in the water about five minutes.

"My mommy and my new little baby sister were all I could think about," Billy said. The brothers have a 3-week old sister and two older sisters at home.

The boys were up and about today without even a cold to remind them of the near-tragedy.

"It was a lucky escape, and the boys have promised to stay away from the lake," Mrs. Herrington said.

Mendes Regime to Stand or Fall on Today's Vote

French Assembly Will Decide German Arms on Confidence Issue

PARIS (AP) — The French National Assembly convened shortly after 3 p. m. today for a decision fateful for the government of Premier Mendes-France and the defense of the Western world.

The Premier is asking for the Assembly's vote of confidence on west Germany's entrance into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and, by implication, the whole network of London-Paris accords for West German rearmament as a partner in a seven-nation Western European Union.

The public and press galleries of the chamber were packed long before the Assembly was called to order by its presiding officer, Andre Letroquer.

Hundreds of police stood on guard at strategic points around the Assembly building, the Bourbon Palace, to maintain order.

Shortly before the session opened, most of the political groups were holding last minute caucuses, and the odds appeared to favor the Premier by a slim margin.

The executive committee of the Independent Republicans, most of whom were hostile to the government last week, advised party members today to vote for the Premier. This, it said, should be done to support the Atlantic Alliance and not as a gesture for Mendes-France personally.

Pope Reported Resting Better, Still Improving

VATICAN CITY (INS) — Ailing Pope Pius XII was reported today to have passed a "satisfactory" night marked by a continuation of the gradual improvement in his condition.

Reports from the Pontiff's bedchamber said his hiccoughing had disappeared totally since Christmas Eve and added that he now was able to eat some meat and spend several hours each day working on church affairs.

The Pontiff was said to have received another infusion of plasma this morning as a part of his doctors' campaign to build up his general strength.

Vatican sources said the Pope spent some time yesterday working on the Christmas message which he hopes to publish in a few days.

The Pontiff delivered his traditional Christmas address last week, but it was a brief, recorded message instead of the lenghy speech which is customary. However, he told his listeners that he hoped to publish a much longer message.

25-Mile Chase Nets Fugitives

3 Wyandotte Youths Nabbed in Stolen Car After Evading Blocks

Three 16-year-old Wyandotte boys, who were seized by State Police of Pontiac Post early today after breaking through three police roadblocks and eluding 22 scout cars in a 25-mile chase, will undergo questioning in connection with store breakins, police reported.

The wild chase at speeds up to 100 miles an hour finally ended when the youths' auto crashed into a tree on Orchard Lake Road, north of Pontiac Trail. The boys fled on foot through a wooded area after the crash and eluded police who organized a search.

They were captured trying to hitchhike a ride at Northwestern Hwy. and Telegraph Rd. this morning after a citizen tipped off police that the trio had gained a ride in a green car traveling south.

Troopers Lyle Tucker and John Benaglio arrested the trio moments after they had been let out of the auto. They are being held by State Police of the Redford Post.

The chase began when two Dearborn policemen spotted the car, previously reported stolen, speeding through a stop light and gave chase, but they were outdistanced. Redford Township police, in answer to a radio alert, set up a roadblock, but the fugitive car

20 Deaths Rank Michigan With Nation's Worst

Christmas Weekend Toll Mounts to 499 for All Types of Accidents

From Our Wire Services

The number of dead in Christmas weekend traffic accidents hit 379 today, just nine over the pre-holiday estimate of safety experts.

With reports of deaths still coming in, a United Press tabulation showed that 379 persons died in highway crashes during the period from 6 p. m. Friday to midnight Sunday.

Sixty-two others died in fires, two in airplane mishaps and 56 in miscellaneous types of accidents to give the nation an overall total of 449 accidental deaths.

California reported 33 fatalities in traffic, Texas 31, Illinois and Pennsylvania 22 apiece, Ohio and Michigan 20, New York 19, and Florida and North Carolina 15.

Safety Council president Ned H. Dearborn said his organization "got a Christmas present it didn't want when the nation's drivers and pedestrians proved the council's pre-holiday estimate of 370 traffic deaths so tragically accurate."

"This is a bloody way to celebrate a holiday dedicted to peace on earth, good will toward men," he said.

The weekend started beautiful and merry. It ended with an unusually heavy death toll and dreary weather.

Twenty died in traffic mishaps. Three burned to death and another died in a fall down stairs. And still another drowned.

One of the last to die in traffic was Miss Edna M. Olenska, 38, of Detroit. She was killed when her car rammed into the rear of a steel-laden truck at a Detroit intersection

Glenn Wejmer, 51, of Midland County was killed Sunday three miles south of Midland when struck by a car.

David Fairchild, 17, of Dearborn was killed Friday night when a car in which he was riding went out of control and hit a utility pole in the Detroit suburb.

Frank McCaren, 64, of Carsonville died Friday night in a fire that swept his brick home in Sanilac County.

Dr. Liberty Hyde Bailey Was Early Graduate of Michigan State College

ITHACA, N. Y. (AP)—Funeral services will be held at the Cornell University Chapel tomorrow for Dr. Liberty Hyde Bailey, 96, a noted botanist, horticulturist and pioneer in the field of agricultural education.

Bailey, dean emeritus of the State College of Agriculture at Cornell, died at his home here on Christmas Eve.

Considered an expert on the subject of plant and animal life, Bailey had written or edited more than 100 books, among them the "Cyclopedia of Horticulture."

He made expeditions totaling more than 250,000 miles, including trips to China, New Zealand and various parts of the Americas. He spent his 90th birthday alone on an island in the Caribbean Sea hunting palm specimens.

In East Lansing, Dr. John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State College, today paid tribute to the famed botanist.

"Everyone at Michigan State College feels a sense of loss in the death of one of our most distinguished alumni," Dr. Hannah said. "Bailey was a pioneer in science in every sense of the word and lived a long life of tremendous usefulness."

A native of South Haven, Mich., Bailey was reared on a farm and was graduated in 1882 from Michigan Agricultural College (now Michigan State).

State News for 1954

Political Stories Awarded Top Billing in Past Year

DETROIT (AP)—Michigan's November election, a smashing victory for the Democrats, was a landslide choice as the state's biggest news story of 1954.

The political surprise which swept Republicans out of virtually every high state office drew the No. 1 vote of all but five of the newspaper editors and radio-television newsmen who took part in an Associated Press poll to pick the year's 10 top Michigan stories.

The biggest upset of the election was the defeat of Sen. Homer Ferguson, a high-ranking national Republican figure, by Democrat Patrick V. McNamara, a political unknown outside of Detroit. In addition, Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams won a fourth term with ease and carried his entire "cabinet" slate into office with him.

Only two other stories during the year challenged the election for first place votes. One was the start on construction of the long-discussed straits of Mackinac Bridge, which three poll participants picked as No. 1. The other was the sensational triangle slaying of New York playboy Jules Lack by Dr. Kenneth Small at a swank Lake Michigan summer home. That got two first place votes.

Both stories ran strong for runner-up honors and the Straits Bridge story was given second place by a narrow margin.

The top 10 stories are chosen on the basis of 10 votes for first choice, nine for second, eight for third and so forth.

The final tabulation showed the election received 217 points. The Straits Bridge got 162 and the Dr. Small case 153.

Another story of political significance—the untimely death of Blair Moody—was placed fourth. Moody died virtually on the eve of the Aug. 3 primary election, leaving the Democratic senatorial nomination to McNamara uncontested. Up to then, Moody, who had been a U. S. Senator by appointment of governor Williams, was favored to win the nomination to oppose Ferguson.

Chou Promises Fall of Formosa

Chinese Premier Vows to Capture Nationalist Isle in Bristling Talk

TOKYO (AP)—Red China's Premier Chou En-lai, in one of his most bristling statements to date, says "the Chinese people will never halt" until the Red flag flys over Formosa, island holdout of Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese Nationalists.

Chou voiced this latest Communist threat to capture Formosa before a government-sanctioned consultative conference in Peiping last Tuesday. Peiping radio did not broadcast Chou's remarks until yesterday.

Peiping quoted him as saying:

"Taiwan Formosa is China's territory and the Chinese people will never halt until Taiwan is liberated . . . The Chinese people resolutely demand that the United States withdraw all its armed forces from Taiwan."

Chou, at the same time, boasted that China no longer is a weak nation and would not beg for peace at the price of surrendeing territorial claims.

He called the recently-signed mutual defense treaty under which the United States promises to defend Formosa and the nearby Pes-(Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Gift Exchange Deadline Is Set for January 4

Next Tuesday—Jan. 4—has been set as the deadline for the return of those ill-fitting, strangely-colored or "what-is-it" type Christmas gifts you may have received.

The Jan. 4 return deadline is set to help both merchants and customers, according to John W. Hirlinger, assistant manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

Speaking for the C. of C.'s Retail Merchants Assn., Hirlinger explained:

"Most businesses close their fiscal year Jan. 31 and must have their inventories completed by that time. It's difficult to take an inventory with exchanges still being made.

"People with goods they want to return know they have to get it done by the 4th and so don't keep putting the exchange off. They have a better selection of items to pick from, too."

Hirlinger announced that member stores will close at 5:30 p.m. Friday, New Year's Eve.

Ike Keeps Eye on Paris Crisis

AUGUSTA, Ga (INS) — President Eisenhower, ready to fly back to Washington unless the French National Assembly approves West German rearmament, kept a close watch on the news from Paris today.

The chief executive may cut short his work-and-play Christmas holiday in Augusta and return to the capital for emergency conferences if the French fail to reverse last week's surprise vote on the issue.

It also was considered possible that Eisenhower might seek a meeting with British Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill if the French do not approve rearmament for West Germany.

White House News Secretary James C. Hagerty declined to speculate on such a possibility, however, pending the outcome of the crucial voting.

White House aides privately were optimistic that the final vote, expected today, would place a reluctant French stamp of approval on plans to bring a rearmed West Germany into the European defense alliance.

Should the French stick by their refusal to approve rearmament of their ancient foe, Eisenhower will summon his top foreign policy advisers into conference.

If the President does not return to Washington, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and probably Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson would fly to Augusta.

A decision to cut France out of the Western European alliance, at least temporarily, appeared certain if the French National Assembly rejects the rearmament plan.

Asian Premiers Meet

DJAKARTA, Indonesia (UP) — The premiers of Indonesia, Pakistan, Ceylon, India and Burma converted on the Indonesian hill town of Bogor today for a two-day conference which probably will include discussion of the plight of 11 U. S. airmen jailed as "spies" in Communist China.

California Whipped by 70 M. P. H. Winds

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Winds up to 70 miles an hour whipped Southern California today toppling power lines and billboards and slowing traffic.

As the winds rose, humidity dropped and the Los Angeles Fire Department described the fire hazard as "really dangerous."

A $2,500,000 blaze burned through the Fullerton Citrus Wasehouse District.

The 70-mile-an-hour blasts were recorded at Ontario. The wind whistling west from the desert virtually stalled traffic on highways in the Beaumont-Banning area. Gales lashed Cajon Pass and upper canyons of the San Bernardino and San Gabriel mountains.

Wind velocity was expected to increase.

Kiplinger Reports on Population Trend in Nation

'54 Saw Record Number of Births as U.S. Heads for 220 Million People by 1975

WASHINGTON — Did you know that more babies were born in the United States in 1954 than in any other year? That one third of all women work? That Florida's population is growing faster than California's? That the average bride is 20 years old, and that the average bridegroom, near 24? That our population will reach the 220 million mark in 1975?

These and many other facts about our people have been assembled in a special report on population by the Kiplinger Washington Agency. Excerpts from the report follow:

The nations birth rate is up a bit. It has been on a high plateau since war years. Now the plateau is rising. New babies this past year, 4.1 million . . . largest number ever in one year. The rate, 25.2 per 1,000 women, compared with a prewar rate of around 19. Peak rate was 26.6 in 47, when men were just coming back from the war.

All signs are that the high rate will continue through the coming year.

Young women are having more babies than their mothers had, and there are now more second, third, fourth children—family size is up. The birth rate is about the same at all income levels.

The farm mothers have the most babies; city mothers the fewest. The bigger the city, the lower the birth rate. But things are changing, the gap is narrowing.

As for marriages, the young marrying people of today were born back in the 30's, and there weren't so many babies being born those days. Consequently there aren't so many of marrying age today. Marriages now are about 1.5 million per year, as compared with 2.3 million back in '46.

The birth rate boom indicates future probems in education.

Elementary grade school enrollment is now almost 28 million. Next year, plus 29 million. By 1960, only 5 years off, 33½ million. That's 20 per cent more than now. High schools enrollment is now about 7 million (grades 9 through 12). Next year, near 8 million and in 1960, plus 9 million. That's 28 per cent more than now.

Some 117,000 classrooms should be added each year, for grade and high schools only, and to maintain existing standards only. Number being built this year, 50,000.

As for school teachers we have about 1,000,000 of them as-of-now. This past year we needed 58,000 more, unavailable. By 1960, 5 years off, we shall need approximately 1,700,000, which is 700,000 more than now.

It's largely a matter of pay, and pay is largely a matter of local taxes. There's one answer and only one: Higher taxes to get schools and teachers.

College enrollment, now 2½ million, reflects the low birth rate of the 30's, when current college students were born. By 1960, the outlook is 3 million. By 1965, 4 million. This is 60 per cent more than now. It means more physical facilities and more teachers.

Future demand for housing is shown by marriages, plus incomes, plus money costs and other economic factors. By all of these measures the outlook is favorable, except for a couple of short-range cautions. (1) Number of new marriages will be relatively low in next 4 or 5 years, due to birth rate (Continued on Page 29, Col. 3)

Flint Father Admits Strangling Own Baby

FLINT (INS) — A 40-year-old Flint father who thought he "was too old to have a baby" pleaded guilty in justice court today to the murder of his 2½-month-old daughter on Christmas Eve.

Cyril Labarre, who also waived examination, was bound over for arraignment in circuit court next Monday.

Appearing wild-eyed and dazed in his court appearance, Labarre admitted strangling the infant with a handkerchief when his wife, Inez, 36, was visiting friends in the same apartment building.

Labarre also struck his wife over the head with a hammer as she leaned over the crib to discover that the baby had been murdered during her absence. She is in serious condition in Flint's Hurley Hospital.

Stolen Car Stalls; Two Youths Caught

BIRMINGHAM — Two Detroit boys, ages 15 and 16, who police said had stolen a car in Pontiac, were caught on Christmas night here as they were syphoning gas for the stalled auto at Pinter's Service, 1595 N. Woodward Ave.

Police making their rounds noticed a broken rear window and upon investigation found the boys hiding under a car in the garage. They had pocketed $2.91 from a soft drink machine and cut the hose on what police said was an expensive acetylene pump for siphoning purposes.

The two, who told police they had been arrested twice in Detroit on breaking and entering charges, are being held at the Oakland County Juvenile Home, pending court action.

In good condition today at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital is Paul Kempainen, 20, of 18279 Ilene, Detroit, with side and head injuries.

Also injured were Danny Daniels, 15, of 12536 Cumings, Berkley, severe head cuts; Walter Clinton Jr., 17, of 247 Ford Ave., Highland Park, head and knee injuries; Mrs. Cecilia Conklin, 51, of 23161 Kipling, Oak Park, severe nose injure; and Ronald Hintz, 6, of Detroit, forehead bumps.

All were injured when cars driver by Clinton, Mrs. Conklin's husband, Edward, and Alvin Fender, 19, of 3629 Phillips, Berkley, collided.

A few seconds later, in a similar maneuver, it evaded a blockade set up by Detroit police. They were halted when West Bloomfield Township police set up a double block on Orchard Lake at Pontiac Trail. The driver managed to miss the police cars but failed to regain control of the car, which struck the tree.

Police said they found a large quantity of cigarets, beer, wine and jewelry in the wrecked auto. They said the loot was probably taken in a burglary.

Other police departments who took part in the chase were Pontiac, Sylvan Lake, Orchard Lake, Wayne County Road Patrol and Oakland County Sheriff's Dept.

most spectacular in prison history.

Also in the top 10 were:

6. A significant state supreme court decision making state equalization the basis for local property taxes.

7. The "solution" of the attempted assassination six years ago of labor leader Walter Reuther and the eventual evaporation of leads stemming from the stories of one Donald Ritchie.

8. Mergers involving every auto industry "independent" in a bid to battle stiff competition from the "big three."

9. The long and bitter controversy over bingo, climaxed by a state-wide vote Nov. 2 against a move to legalize lotteries for charity.

10. Defense Secretary C. E. Wilson's famous "bird dog" remark, which touched off a nationwide controversy over the Republican administration's attitude toward unemployment.

Other stories which figures considerably in the balloting included:

Tragic holiday weekend traffic deaths tolls and efforts to curb them.

The Chinese Communist leader charged that the United States attempted "to cover up the aggressive substance of the . . . treaty" by creating "a great clamor about the . . . U.S. spies that had been justly convicted in China."

That was Chou's only reference to the 11 U.S. airmen imprisoned by the Reds on spy charges. He made no mention of U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold's projected trip to Peiping to seek the airmen's release.

Crash Victim Reported in Poor Condition Today

Jack Baker, 44, of 159 Michigan Ave., is reported in poor condition today with a neck injury he received Friday when the car in which he was riding hit a tree at Mt. Clemens and Opdyke Rds.

Baker was a passenger in a car driven by Victor L. Smothers, 35, of 25 Collingwood Ave. Smothers, who was not injured, told Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy Melvin Glover that his brakes failed.

He is asking a vote of confidence today on two points—West Germany's entrance into NATO, and endorsement of the government's position on three amendments to the ratification bill.

If successful on those ballots, he was slated to demand that the Assembly reverse its refusal last Friday to ratify the treaty permitting West Germany to rearm as a member of the seven-nation Western European Union (WEU). That, too, would be a question of confidence which under Assembly rules could not be voted on for 24 hours, probably tomorrow.

Defeat on any of the three votes would force the government to resign, plunging France into another of its numerous postwar Cabinet crises.

Commerce Man Injured in Two-Car Collision

Edward J. Kolke Jr., 31, of 3146 Brooknell, Commerce Township, is listed in satisfactory condition today at Pontiac General Hospital with a possible skull fracture suffered Friday in a two-car crash on South Commerce road.

William Ford, 69, of 2219 Austin, Walled Lake, driver of the other car, was treated for minor cuts and bruises of the face and his wife, Annie, 67, is reported in good condition with knee injuries.

Ford told Oakland County sheriff's deputies that Kolke's auto skidded sideways across the centerline and into the path of his southbound car near Penny Lake road in Commerce Township.

Britain Ousts U. S. Divorcee

America Denies Use of 'Pressure' in Securing Expulsion Order

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — An American divorcee ordered out of Britain sought temporary haven here today and blamed American "pressure" for her plight. U.S. officials denied any part in the case.

The woman, 32-year-old Mrs. Jean Butler, flew here yesterday with her British fiance, Clive Jenkins, a British trade union official. She plans to marry him here when her divorce becomes final in February, then return with him to England as a British citizen.

Mrs. Butler has been in Britain for the past five years, employed recently as a curator at a London museum. The British Home Office had refused to extend her residence permit and warned that she must leave the country by Dec. 28 or be deported.

The Home Office declined to discuss the case but said "such action is made when it is conducive to the public good."

Mrs. Butler was divorced Dec. 22 from J. Jordan Butler, an American archaeologist living in Britain. She said previously "there is certainly no question of security involved, and there never before has been any question about extending my permit to stay in Britain."

Mrs. Butler has said she did not want to return to the United States because of former trade union affiliations. She said that 10 years ago she had been an organizer with the CIO (Congress of Industrial Organizations) "and had Negroes and whites in the same union in the South."

"Also at my state university (Missouri) I ran a campaign to allow Negroes to be admitted to the university," she added.

Deaf-Mute Child Teaches Friends Sign Language

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—When her family moved into a new neighborhood two years ago, Delores Schnider had a problem.

How does an 8-year-old deaf-mute go about making friends and playing with the other children?

With a child's directness, Delores found the answer by teaching all the youngsters sign language.

Delores' two brothers, Joe, 15, and Eddie, 13, also have been deaf-mutes from birth but the eldest child, Mary Lou, 17, has normal hearing. So do Mr. and Mrs. Jim Schneider.

Sleeping Driver Kills Another Asleep in Car

Italian Protectorate Picks Single-Starred Blue Flag

WASHINGTON—Italy's elongated, former East African colony, Somalia, has a new flag.

The banner is strikingly simple. It has a large white star on a solid blue field, nothing more. New Somalian postage stamps show the flag to the world against a background of Italy's traditional colors—green, white and red, the National Geographic Society reports.

Somalia is a United Nations Trust Territory under Italian administration. It has been promised self-government after ten years of tutelage ending in 1960.

Long and narrow, Somalia provides comparison—and sharp contrast—with California. Almost as wide and 300 miles longer, it is one-fifth greater in area. Its coast faces east instead of west, stretching 1,100 virtually unindented miles on the Indian Ocean from northeast to southwest, the reverse of California's slant.

Hotter and drier than the Golden State, Somalia reaches 100 miles south across the Equator to Dicks Head on the border with Kenya. With few high spots, it holds close to sea level in its southern half. Northward it rises to a 3,000-foot plateau. Two peaks bordering its short Gulf of Aden coast rise 7,218 and 4,593 feet.

Fully half the territory is barren wasteland. A million semi-nomadic Somalians herd several million sheep, goats, camels and cattle in areas that offer forage. Crop farming is possible on only one-tenth of the land—that which lies near the few large water holes or along the Giuba and Scebeli Rivers. Crossing the southern plain, the rivers are fed by tributaries flowing from Ethiopia on the northwest.

A few Somalians till the soil, growing maize, rice, sesame and peanuts. Since 1936, skilled Italian farmers have developed plantations beside the rivers, growing bananas, cotton and sugar. These and livestock products account for most of the export trade volume.

Some 170,000 Somalians live in towns, 70,000 of them in Mogadiscio, the capital, chief port and communications center. Its broad, palm-lined streets and white buildings lead to waterfront warehouses that store cargoes carried by British and Italian ships visiting on regular runs. Coastal ships from Aden ply among lesser Somalian ports—Merca, Brava and Chisimaio.

Rural Somalians are illiterate. The territory has never had a written language of its own. Only a few urban residents have learned to write Italian or English in the score of lower schools so far opened. Illiteracy and the limitations of agriculture and transportation hamper the trustee program of preparing the people to run a sovereign nation.

British forces early in World War II entered Mogadiscio, ending Italy's 50-year colonization of Italian Somaliland. Nine years later, in April, 1950, the British transferred the administration to Italians as provided by the United Nations Trusteeship Council. The arrangement left unsettled the sharply disputed problem of a boundary between Somalia and Ethiopia.

Of Italy's other former colonies in east Africa, Libya became an independent kingdom on Christmas Eve in 1951. Eritrea became an autonomous unit federated with Ethiopia on July 9, 1952. Ethiopia, which Fascist Italy held from 1935 to 1941, again has sovereign status under Emperor Haile Selassie.

Bentley Wants U. S. to Sever Red Ties

NEW YORK (AP)—Rep. Alvin M. Bentley (R-Mich) wants the United States to sever its diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia and the Iron Curtain countries.

Bentley told a meeting of the Hungarian Catholic League of America last night the move "Would be one of the best steps which this government could take to reassert its position of moral leadership of the free world."

"The weapons of international morality are among the strongest which remain in our arsenal," Bentley said.

The congressman questioned the value of using American embassies in Communist countries as "listening posts."

He said that on the basis of his personal knowledge as a foreign service officer between 1941 and 1950, he found their value "of extremely limited content."

House Trailer Ban in Court

Wolverine Lake Area Injunction Hearing Set January 17

Wolverine Lake village officials will appear in Circuit Court Jan. 17 and attempt to show why an injunction should not be issued stopping enforcement of an ordinance banning house trailers.

The injunction is sought by William D. Swinney and Joel K. Pipkin who have trailers located on lots in Springlake Heights Subdivision.

The ordinance, the first passed by the village, requires trailer owners to get building permits and start constructing homes within 30 days. The homes must be completed in a year, during which time the builders may live in their trailers.

Swinney and Pipkin claim they located the mobile homes on the lots before Wolverine Lake was incorporated and the ordinance passed. They cite a state law which says, "the lawful use of land or a structure exactly as such existed at the time of the enactment of the ordinance affecting them may be continued."

They assert the law places restrictions on their constitutional rights and "confiscates thousands of dollars of property." The two ask the court to declare the ordinance invalid.

Santa Matches Stork in Twin Yule Present

So Mr. and Mrs. Clebert Bergeron now have their second set of twin boys. The eldest sons are Clebert Jr. and Gilbert born on Thanksgiving Day 1941.

Tobacco, Alcohol Hold No Fears for 93-Year-Old

LOS ANGELES (AP)—At the age of 93 Thomas N. Camfield offers the opinion that "all this stuff you read about the dangers of tobacco and alcohol is a lot of hot air."

Camfield, a retired Los Angeles real estate man, took some time yesterday to give his views on life — and women — to a reporter in his room at the Jonathan Club, where he has lived for 30 years.

"I start my day with my corncob," said Camfield. "As soon as I wake up I go back to bed and smoke my head off. And I have a cigar after breakfast and dinner." He said he also has a glass of port before breakfast and a drink of whisky before dinner.

"Best thing I ever did in the whole world was never to get married. I never wanted to have anyone telling me where to head in. And I never wanted a home. I've known a lot of women and they're wonderful. But whenever I got tired of one, there were always plenty more.

"Millions of them."

Cardinal Spellman Busy

SEOUL (AP) — Francis Cardinal Spellman celebrated two masses, shook hands with 2,300 servicemen, made three speeches and laid the cornerstone of a new church Sunday on his fourth annual tour of Korea.

To Push Drive Against Trade With Red China

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) said yesterday the flow of goods from the free world to Communist China is steadily increasing and that he plans to intensify his campaign against it.

McCarthy said in an interview he plans to do "a lot of public speaking after the first of the year" to emphasize his contention that Red China should be blockaded—"not a naval blockade by U. S. warships," he added, "but a blockade brought about by cutting off aid to nations which do trade with the Reds."

Road Survey Needed

A proposal by George N. Skrubb, director of the County Plan Commission, that a survey of Oakland's highway needs be completed as soon as possible, makes sense.

His suggestion grew out of the fact that the plan commission and the Oakland County Highway Commission are collaborating in the task of determining just what work must be done.

This brought realization that because of limited personnel a complete survey of Oakland's State, Federal and county highway needs could not be ready in less than five years.

Oakland County can't wait that long.

As Skrubb told the Press, the need is so urgent now that few motorists in this area know what it is to drive on an uncongested road.

Moreover, as he pointed out, such long delay isn't necessary. By hiring some engineering firm to complete the survey, it could be ready in two and a half years.

In our opinion the plan commission's director has advanced a suggestion that should receive the early and sympathetic consideration of our supervisors. Certainly, as he says, to build roads in the wrong places can be worse than not building them at all.

Old Art in New Industry

Part of the success and romance in American industry stems from its ability to use old as well as new methods.

A case in point is the rapid growth of the investment casting industry. As the Wall Street Journal points out, this process dates as far back as China's Shang Dynasty, 1766-1122 B. C. and was used by the Egyptians, Romans and Greeks.

Investment casting got a new start in this country during World War II when it was adopted for the manufacture of parts for plane superchargers. By 1944 this had become a $25,000,000 business. Production this year totaled $200,000,000. Seventy of the 100 investment casting firms now operating didn't exist before 1945.

The system itself is easiliy described. Hot wax or plastic is pourde into a mold and allowed to harden, or mercury is poured in and frozen. This smoothed pattern is buried or "invested" in sand then melted out leaving a perfect matrix.

Molten metal poured into the cavity and hardened comes out smoothly finished. Most intricate designs can be made and little machine tooling is required on the finished pieces. Savings on production costs are said to be as high as 90 per cent.

Among products now being turned out for a mass market by this method are military and machine parts and intricate pieces for everything from fountain pens to electric shavers.

Thus we owe a debt of gratitude to the ancients for our industries' ability to produce more and better things for more people at less cost.

Faster Vote Counting

The good news from Lansing is that an effort is to be made by the next Legislature to insure speedier vote counting after State elections.

Present plans are to accomplish this by revising the election law. As the law now stands it is possible, if not probable, that unofficial election returns could be delayed as much as two weeks.

While there isn't any doubt about the need for a speedup, there is some question as to whether amendments alone will be sufficient. On the basis of Oakland County's experience in the last election, there is evidence that the problem won't be solved entirely without many more voting machines than now are used in the State.

Last election, for example, Michigan voters weren't sure of all results the morning after the voting. In other states with larger populations and closer races, most of the results were known by midnight of election day.

Our own staff was able to tabulate some machine precincts two hours after the polls closed. It was 14 hours before the count was finished in some of the paper ballot precincts.

The Press is heartily in favor of amending the election laws to bring about speedier handling of unofficial returns. But we are convinced that there can't be much speedup locally until more of Oakland County and Pontiac's paper ballot precincts are mechanized. At present there are 54 such precincts, 44 of them in the city.

Ross Wade Advises Using Surplus Food to Feed Hungry People Here and Abroad

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

About a year ago, I wrote an article on the surplus farm products, 2.5 billion dollars worth owned by the United States taxpayers, which was costing them 14 million each month just to store in government warehouses. That surplus now is about seven billions.

I suggested feeding the hungry people all over the world. A man will turn to anything, if it's going to give him something to eat, even to the Communists.

I suggest this Christmas and in 1955 that the taxpayers, through their government, give every family that is on welfare, 10 pounds of wheat.

If you brown wheat in the oven it makes a good coffee substitute, if you grind it coarse it makes a good breakfast food. Also give 3 or 4 pounds of butter, two or three dozen eggs or pounds of dried eggs and 3 or 4 pounds dried milk.

Give to the Salvation Army what they can distribute to any they know need food. Let us feed the hungry and save the taxpayers some money.

Choral Club Wonderful, Says 'A Music Lover'

Recently a Christmas play was presented at St. Vincent's Hall, which featured the St. Frederick's Choral Club.

I had the satisfaction of being present and enjoyed the singing very much. I have never heard a high school choral club sound so fine.

Mr. Dominic J. Kline, director of the choral group, should be congratulated for the wonderful performance.

I have also heard the "Men's Choir" of St. Vincent's, which was directed by Mr. Kline, and his direction of the choral group meets up to all expectations.

Our group would like to hear more of Mr. Klines Choral Club, and also the Men's Choir of St. Vincents.

Girl's Life With Brothers Not All Roses but Educational Experience Valuable

It's a lot of fun to have brothers and sisters, but Judy can tell you it is often embarrassing, too. However, children educate children so married couples should try to have at least three youngsters. For the "middle" child is different from the oldest and the youngest in his personality.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case N-307: When Judy, our only daughter, came home from college during the Christmas holidays in her freshmen year, she had several dates with a boy named Bob.

I'm telling you other girls about this case so you will realize that a life with four brothers is not all roses.

"Oh, Dr. Crane, I wish I had several brothers," many girls often tell me. And brothers are a great educational experience, as Judy can tell you.

For Judy invited Bob to our house for dinner one night. It so happened that Mrs. Crane and I were out of town that day but Judy's two younger brothers were at home.

At the dinner table that night, as soon as Bob had his mouth full of food, Daniel would immediately ask him a question, just to tease Judy.

For Bob would politely try to answer but since his mouth was full, he would be forced to swallow hard a couple of times before he could reply.

When David passed the butter to Bob, Bob reached for the butter plate and David then gave it a little shove, which Bob didn't anticipate.

So Bob's thumb rammed itself half an inch into the stick of butter, while David, in mock chagrin, exclaimed:

"Ooops, I'm sorry, I guess it slipped."

Well, Judy knew it slipped on purpose! And she realized that her two younger brothers were deliberately trying to embarrass her, but her hands were pretty well tied, so to speak.

Another stunt the boys used was to focus their eyes just above Bob's right shoulder and then stare fixedly at that point while they asked him questions.

Bob would turn his head to see who was standing behind him, for he thought the boys were looking at somebody else as they talked to him.

Danny even tried this stunt on his teachers at school, too. In fact, he had used it on Mrs. Crane and me on previous occasions.

The next night Judy had another boy friend, who was calling at the house for the first time.

Danny and David had never met him before, so they purposely remained out of sight in the adjoining room as Judy was preparing to leave the house.

Then Danny tried to imitate my voice and in stern, heavy tones, exclaimed:

"Be sure to bring my daughter home before midnight!"

Of course, Judy and the strange boy friend heard this admonition.

"Oh, that's one of my kid brothers," she tried to pass off the situation as gracefully as possible.

And as Judy and her boy friend started to open the front door to leave, David exclaimed in a loud stage whisper so they could easily hear him:

"Dan, is it O. K. to unlock the closet door now and let grandma out?"

Again, Judy tried to laugh off the situation by ascribing David's whisper to some more of the "horse play" of her kid brothers.

Fortunately, Judy was sufficiently accustomed to the give-and-take of four brothers that she "just considered the source."

She could also hold her own very well in debate with them. And now that the two younger boys are both in college, they don't embarrass her as much.

In fact, they value her advice and often ask for her opinions on social questions, which shows the reciprocal educational value of brothers and sisters.

Charge accounts make Jane extravagant. When you can charge things, it don't bother your conscience like passin' out the money.

David Lawrence Says:

Reliance on France Risky After German Arms Vote

WASHINGTON — If any further proof were needed for greater reliance on the intercontinental bomber of the U. S. Air Force and on the aircraft carrier of the U. S. Navy, it has been furnished in the last few days by the caprice of the French Parliament.

For the slender thread by which a small group of French deputies can arbitrarily swing a majority from one side to the other affords no defense or security to the United States or its ground troops stationed in France. The same French Parliament, when an emergency arises, can suddenly declare its neutrality and leave American forces isolated and helpless on French territory.

Soviet Russia, on the other hand, with a full-fledged force of infiltrators at present operating effectively through the Soviet embassy in Paris, controls important newspapers and has the support of influential groups, which collaborate with them today just as some did with the Nazis before the last war. These groups pull strings inside the French Parliament.

The whole French situation is one that is perilous for the Western Alliance, especially since the French people, even with the aggressive leadership of Mendes-France, are apparently unable to counteract the Soviet propaganda and the infiltration process which goes on in secret. Exposures of the Communist influence are rare indeed and then only when a flagrant case of espionage happens.

Some idea of the dangerous situation that exists in Paris can be derived from the fact that 100 deputies in the French Parliament are members of the Communist party and regularly contribute about $5,000 a year from their salaries, or about $500,000 annually for the support of Communist party propaganda and activities. The leaders of this party go periodically to Moscow for conferences, and this is reported in the press as a commonplace occurrence.

While the Communists are excluded from the cabinet, they manage somehow to get hold of secret documents. It has been revealed in the press that during the Indochina war the Communist agents in France instantly obtained the details of French military plans through cabinet sources and relayed them to Moscow and then to the Communist forces in Indochina.

How can the United States be sure of France as an ally when there are such goings on? This question has been frequently asked by military men here as they argue for a different concept of defense than is usually heard. Thus, for example, important air bases are being constructed for the U. S. Air Force in French territories in Africa.

But a change in control of the French cabinet can overnight mean a decision not to let any military operations be prosecuted from such bases.

These are some of the reasons why military strategists here feel that since the best defense for the United States is in part at least an effective offense, then intercontinental bombers which can be refueled in the air and can cross the Atlantic and Pacific from bases in Canada or this country are essential along with a large fleet of aircraft carriers which can roam the seas.

The floating bases, of course, are not within the control of any foreign parliament. This means that a sizable number of fighter planes and bombers can take off from the flat tops, and it would require a fleet of similar size or quite a lot of land-based planes for Soviet Russia to attack such carriers, especially since the latter can move around constantly at a speed of 30 to 40 miles an hour.

In any future war the oceans will be as important as the land mass. The accessibility of the Russian heartland from the approaches to the Baltic and the Arctic and also from the Mediterranean, Persian Gulf, Indian Ocean and the Pacific is well known to the bomber pilots of today. Also since naval planes are equipped to carry atomic weapons, a large number of sorties could be flown per hour to key cities in Russian territory without dependence on any land bases overseas.

This does not mean that American military men believe in giving up overseas airfields altogether. On the contrary, they see the need for more alternative bases in the event that parliamentary politics in any country should deprive the Western Alliance of the use of a particular set. Thus reliance on bases in Spain, Italy, Turkey and the Mediterranean area is still strong.

But the unsolved problem is the possible effect on land operations if some of the parliaments in Europe suddenly decide to go "neutral." It would make quite a vexing problm for the land generals who cannot redeploy their forces overnight.

Even with the French Parliament finally going through with its pledge of last summr to ratify the pending treaties to rearm Germany, enough lessons have been learned from last week's experience to cause a reshuffling of the cards for future strategy. Congress will ask a number of pertinent questions about all this when the defense budget comes up for consideration at the next session.

Baering Down

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
(International News Service)

When you have a boy around the house these Christmas days he sure will toy with you.

There was a time when Christmas toys lasted just long enough to follow the instructions on the wrapper.

You put it together and it fell apart. Or you wound it up and it gave a whirl, a mechanical wheeze, shivered and was no more.

Today the Christmas toy is as practical as long underwear. Somebody gave the kid next door a do-it-yourself set. And he did.

He not only did-it-hisself but he did-it-to-everything-and-everybody.

He sawed the legs off the piano and now it's a musical sand box. He pegged an arrow through the encyclopedia the thick way. He wanged the aquarium for the full derby route, his atomic airplane chased the cat over the transom and through a fan ventilator and all the chairs and tables in the house are now his size.

He has a hoss that gallops, a General Custer carbine that shoots and a Sitting Bull outfit that spares nobody. His electric train system has grade-crossing accidents. His tool chest takes up where the termites left off.

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

Doctors Find Fewer Cases of Croup; Children Getting Less Coddling Now

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Friends told me you used to have a pamphlet on croup. I have never seen any mention of it in your column . . . (Mrs. B.A.)

The last 3 pages in Little Lesson No. 5, "Call it CRI" deal with croup. You really should slip one of the Little Lessons in your pocket or handbag, Ma'am, and read it at odd moments instead of —well, wasting time. If by any chance the chapter on croup is not in your copy of Call it CRI, return it and I'll send you with my compliments a new $5 set of Little Lessons in the Ways of Health, being Ol' Doc Brady's pocket encyclopedia of the science and art of keeping well.

A few years ago I commented here upon the rarity of croup nowadays. Guided by the frequency of croup in my own practice—it was a common cause of emergency calls, particularly at night when the spasm of throat muscles causes crowing breathing—I had prepared for distribution a pamphlet on Croup.

The first decade or two readers asked for information and advice about croup. But after that months and years passed without any inquiries about croup. I inferred that children just didn't have croup any more. Moreover, I had not come across anything about it in medical literature in recent years. Even medical textbooks of the present era are as vague about croup as they are about rheumatiz, infantile colic and the gout.

So I opined in this column that croup was no longer a hazard of childhood and (you know me, folks) I endeavored to explain why —children nowdays get more fresh air, less coddling.

That brought prompt and vigorous refutation from mothers whose children were subject to croup. But I realized it was useless to argue with them about it, because in most instances their children were attended not by an ordinary doctor like myself but by a pediatrician, if you please. One mother not only rebuked me for trying to impose my quaint views on intelligent people. Her young son, she informed me, got the croup if something went wrong with the thermostat and the temperature in his bedroom dropped below 65 in the night. That stopped me.

Aside from the last chapter in the booklet "Call it CRI" I have nothing more to say about croup. CRI, by the way, pronounced kree, means any common respiratory infection in the early stage before you or even the doctor, if you consult one, can tell what you are coming down with. The common respiratory infections account for three - fourths of the everyday work of the doctor, medical and surgical. So, my dear knucks, everyday use of knowledge of the prevention of the CRI is a kind of health insurance that is easy on the pocketbook.

And So Healthy New Year!

Signed letters not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

Once-Proud Army Is Gone

State to Close GAR Office in Capitol Building Wing

LANSING (AP) — The last Michigan outpost of a once-proud army —the Grand Army of the Republic —is soon to be abandoned.

Soon after the first of the year, state officials will move the GAR headquarters from its wing in the capitol building, where it has held the records of Michigan Civil War Veterans for as long as anyone can remember.

Whether the office will be continued in another building is still open to speculation, but even if it is—it will never be the same.

The office, and its furnishings, are a piece of the past—dust-covered, cracked, and covered with the memoralia of a war obscured by four later ones.

Workers will remove the American flag that hangs above the office door, and the venerable sign that identifies the room as GAR headquarters.

How many of the furnishings would be moved to new quarters is anyone's guess. Inside, there's an ancient couch, a shredded American flag, a dusty blue uniform hanging in one corner, pictures of the old guard and some 600 battered tin boxes containing records of the state's GAR posts.

John Gafner, state property manager, says he will start clearing out the room soon after Jan 1. Demands from the governor's office and legislators for more space make it inevitable, he said.

Actually, the office has been living on borrowed time. A state law provided that all the files and documents should be transferred to the Michigan Historical Commission "when the Department of Michigan Grand Army of the Republic becomes disbanded."

No one around the capitol seems to know what "disbanded" means. Michigan's last veteran of the Union Army died in 1952. Only one is left in the nation, and he is 107 years old.

Valuable records will apparently be turned over to the Michigan Historical Commission.

And the office, which one echoed with the talk of men who wore the blue of the Union, will be cleared to make room for the business of their grandsons.

April 15 Deadline

Tax Office Set to Mail New Blanks This Week

WASHINGTON (AP)—Right on the heels of Santa Claus this year will come a less welcome visitor to millions of American homes — a mailman with your 1954 income tax form.

The Internal Revenue Service is ready to mail out some 63 million forms between Christmas and New Year's Day. Many will be delivered in time to give the recipient a headache even before the morning of Jan. 1.

The form 1040 and 1040-A returns are being mailed a month later than last year, mainly because they had to be revamped completely as a result of the 1954 tax law changes. This took extra time.

One possible bright spot: An extra month to pay. Under the new law, the deadline for final returns is April 15.

Likewise, if you're one of those people required to file advance estimates of your income, and to pay the tax in quarterly installments, the deadline for your first estimate and payment is moved from March 15 to April 15. The dates for the remaining installments are unchanged, however—June 15, Sept. 15 and Jan. 15.

You now fall into this category if:

1. Your total income is $5,000 or more if you are single, or $10,000 or more for married couples or heads of families.

2. Your income includes more than $100 which is not subject to withholding. In that case you're supposed to file estimates if you expect your total income to be more than $400, plus $600 for each exemption.

What about those who should have filed estimates and made quarterly payments this year—but didn't do so? Will the T-men get after them?

Officials say no—such people can square accounts by filing a 1040 form and paying up in full by Jan. 31. You can do the same thing if you paid your first three installments for 1954 but want two weeks of grace in making the payment normally due Jan. 15.

Duck Owner Can't Even Give His Pet Away

MADISON, Ind. (AP) — Ansel Brooks donated his tame duck Bulldozer to the local gun club for a prize in a turkey shoot.

Bulldozer was too messy around the house and Brooks just couldn't bear to eat the pet as a duck dinner.

Sure enough, Brooks won Bulldozer back in the shoot.

Brooks redonated Bulldozer. And he won't compete in the next shoot.

GOO-GOO EYES—It has finally happened, someone had the idea of dressing up a helicopter to look like its nickname—"Grasshopper." This gigantic grasshopper rides in a parade at Pensacola, Fla., honoring the U. S. Navy Helicopter Training Unit No. 1 from Ellyson Field. Undressed, the aircraft is just another 'copter used to train pilots at the base.

Stork May Have Branches All Over but Bronx Is Bird's Headquarters

By EDDIE CANTOR

The other night, sitting in our living room with George Burns and Gracie Allen, Jack Benny and Mary Livingston, we started to reminisce. Jack and Mary, George and Gracie were all married in 1927. Ida and I go back a little bit further. Ours was a 1914 wedding.

When I told Ida's father that I wanted to marry his daughter, he wanted to know, "Can you support a family?" I told him I thought I could. He said, "Remember, there are seven of us." Of course he was only fooling—I learned later there were eleven of them.

When I proposed to Ida I was really romantic. I actually got down on my knees and said, "Ida, I love you." On every anniversary I repeat this, but now after saying I love you I've added, "Now help me up."

We started housekeeping in a three-room flat in the Bronx. Our daughters, Marjorie, Natalie, Edna and Marilyn, were all born there. Yes, the stork may have branches all over, but the Bronx—that's the old bird's headquarters.

Our marriage has lasted through all these years, and they have been happy ones, only because of Ida's proposal in our early days. She suggested, "Eddie, we'll get along fine if you just let me take care of the little things and you take care of the big things." Imagine—in forty years no big things have ever come up!

3 Centennials Scheduled in '55

MSC, Soo Locks, Flint to Mark 100th Birthdays Next Year

LANSING (UP)—Centennial celebrations at Michigan State College, the "Soo" locks and Flint and the second annual "Michigan Week" top more than 140 special events to be held in Michigan next year, the Tourist Council reported today.

February and July are the most popular months for tourist activities, council secretary Robert J. Furlong siad in noting the 1955 calender gives "further indication Michigan is an all-year vacationland."

Speed skating contests, ski-jumping tournaments, winter carnivals, trout festivals, sailboat and canoe races are among the variety of events scheduled.

MSC's centenial celebration will start with a Founder Day observance Feb. 12; the Soo locks centennial begins June 29, and Flint will begin its observance Oct. 1.

Michigan week will be held May 15-21.

Furlong said the council is looking forward to 1955 with "restrained optimism despite predictions that it will be one of the most prosperous years in the nation's history."

"Nationwide competition in the tourist industry has progressed to such an extent that it is no longer logical to believe that boom times in general will result in a boom year for Michigan's tourist business.

"Unless Michigan begins to at least keep pace with the advertising appropriations of other states and territories, there is little reason to believe that its tourist industry will continue to expand at the same rate it did prior to last year," Furlong said.

Earlier, Furlong reported the council seeks a $437,388 budget for the 1955-56 fiscal year to "put Michigan back in the parade with a dollar fighting force fully equal to that of its competition."

In Buffalo They Can Buy Art on Installment Plan

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UP)—Credit is as good as cash at the Art Institute of Buffalo.

For the first time in the institution's history, paintings and sculptures placed on exhibit may now be purchased on the installment plan through an arrangement with a Buffalo bank.

Wesley A. Nunemaker, director, commenting on the plan, observed that a growing trend is evident throughout the country to enlarge the base of interest in the arts.

"It is fortunate this is happening because, if our cultural institutions are to survive, they must be humanized," he said. "The ordinary citizen must feel he has as much a part in the cultural life of the community as in its political or economic life."

Ousted Navy Clerk to Answer Charges

DETROIT (UP) — Famous Lockett, 31, was scheduled to appear before a three-man naval board today to answer charges that he is a security risk.

Lockett, a civilian clerk for the Navy here, was suspended last month after the Navy received an anonymous letter charging that he was a member of a Communist-front organization while attending Wayne University in 1946.

He has denied ever being a member of the American Youth for Democracy group, as charged, or any other Communist front organization and asked to be reinstated.

Capt. W. T. Hart Jr., commander of the Navy Materials Office here, pledged to support Lockett and testify for him.

UM Research Points Way in 1954 Medical Progress

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The progress of medicine in 1954 is mirrored in the march of science at the University of Michigan.

The major scientific speculation of 1954 remains the hope of science in 1955 — the test of the Salk vaccine, the possible answer to polio.

Research men, under Dr. Thomas Francis Jr., are working on the nationwide test of the Salk polio vaccine, tabulating results. They expect to know about April 1 whether it is a success, a partial success, or a failure.

The work was begun this year at the university when Dr. Jonas Salk, discoverer of the vaccine, suggested that his teacher, Dr. Francis, conduct the evaluation.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis granted the university and Dr. Francis nearly one million dollars to do the job.

But 1954 saw other advances at the university. The medical school became the largest institution in enrollment to teach medicine.

Meanwhile university doctors announced a new test that will determine in advance who is susceptible to diabetes.

Another series of tests will discover which person is more susceptible to noise, and how much noise a person can take before his hearing mechanisms are damaged.

University doctors used atomic energy to sterilize human heart tissue so that it can later be used or replace damaged heart tissue in other persons.

A type of rheumatism was discovered which causes swelling of the fibrous outer layer of the brain.

The university hospital was made the medical headquarters of the state in event of an atomic bombing. University medical men have drawn up a series of emergency plans to transform the hospital into an atomic medical center.

A shipment of cobalt 60 is being received by the university for the treatment of cancer patients. It will be placed in a 65 thousand dollar machine that rotates about the patient, its radioactive rays focused on the diseased portion.

This machine will be one of two, using radioactive cobalt and cerium, to combat cancer in the new Alice Lloyd Cancer Research Center of the hospital.

It is part of the progress of science and medicine at Michigan and in the world.

WATERLOO, Iowa (AP) — Howd you like a mastodon molar for Christmas?

Young Jerry Mead of Waterloo got one this year and it was just what he wanted.

He's been studying mastodons in school. So he told his grandfather recently he'd like part of one of the prehistoric animals.

It wasn't too hard for grandpa to meet the request. He's Dr. Warren Mead of Belmont, Mass., former head of the geology department of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Hint New Policy in Latest Firing

Ouster of Land Reform Expert May Be Tip-Off to Major Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) says Congress should determine whether the firing of a U. S. land reform expert in Japan "is a tip-off of a major change in United States policy" in this field.

Humphrey said last night the ouster of Wolf Ladejinsky as U. S. agricultural attache in Tokyo raises a question "whether or not more is behind this than just a personnel action."

He urged a congressional investigation, suggesting the action might reflect a policy change "about which we haven't been informed."

The firing of Ladejinsky, a native of Russia closely identified with Gen. Douglas MacArthur's land reform program in Japan, was announced last week by Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

Ladejinsky was removed on security and technical grounds after his file was reviewed when control of his post was shifted from the State to the Agriculture Department.

Humphrey, in a statement, cited past United States support for some land reform programs in the Far East and added:

"There has been an apparent reluctance on the part of our government to maintain its leadership in this field and to do anything to implement our announced policies."

Ladejinsky, he said, "has been a symbol in Asia of America's concern for the people . . . and it certainly seems unwise to destroy a symbol of hope to people we are trying to win to the side of democracy."

See $100,000 Loss in Cheboygan Blaze

CHEBOYGAN (AP) — A fire swept the Knights of Columbus building in downtown Cheboygan last night, causing an estimated $100,000 damage.

No one was injured in the blaze.

Fire departments from Mackinaw City and Indian River and the crew of the U. S. Coast Guard cutter Mackinaw were summoned to help the Cheboygan firemen bring the flames under control.

Firemen said the flames burned through the roof of the three-story building and totally destroyed the K. of C. hall on the third floor.

Two business establishments on the ground floor, the J. D. Viau clothing store and the Cheboygan Candy Kitchen, sustained extensive smoke and water damage.

Healthy Ivy Plant Poses Problem for Movers

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Walter Frankowskis have a unique problem when they move to their new home next week. Mrs. Frankowskis bought a 10-inch ivy plant seven years ago, has become attached to it, and wants to take it with her—undamaged.

No problem, you snort?

This plant has grown to the ceiling and has completely encircled the walls of Mrs. Frankowskis' 19 by 22 foot living room.

Couple Perishes in Blaze as Oil Heater Explodes

MUSKEGON (AP) — A man and his wife died yesterday in a fire that swept their small home in Nesson trailer park in Muskegon Township.

Police identified the victims as Robert L. Spencer, 39, and his wife, Delores, 34. They said the couple was trapped in the home when an oil space heater apparently exploded.

Shakeup Looms in Probe Group

Un-American Activities Committee Faces Jolt When Dems Take Over

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Un-American Activities Committee seems headed for one of the biggest shakeups on Capital Hill when the Democrats get control of Congress next week.

Changes are shaping up in the committee's 41-man staff, its appropriations and, perhaps, in its controversial procedures in hunting for subversives and in putting its findings before the public.

Only one switch is due on the committee membership roster itself: The 5-4 ratio in favor of Republicans during the 83rd Congress changes to a similar edge for the Democrats in January.

But Rep. Walter (D-Pa), who takes over the chairmanship from Rep. Velde (R-Ill), says the committee's activities will be handled differently.

As things now stand the Un-American Activities group, with fewer members than any other regular House committee, has just about the biggest bank account of the 19 committees. Its 1953-54 appropriations totaled $575,000, topped only by the $585,000 for the House Government Operations Committee which handles a wide variety of probes dealing with the government.

But Walter says the Un-American Activities group can do just as well on less money next year. Besides, the Democrats are reportedly unhappy about part of the present staff lineup.

Latest hot potato in the staff situation is the hiring of Rea Van Fosson Nov. 24 as an $8,200-a-year investigator. Committee sources say Van Fosson was an Air Force intelligence agent who gave the committee secret FBI data and then was forced to resign from the Air Force.

Italian Painter Succumbs

Garland, Brando Named Top '54 Stars

NEW YORK (INS) — Judy Garland and Marlon Brando have been chosen by the nation's film critics as the top stars of the year.

The selection of Miss Garland and Brando by newspaper, magazine and broadcasting film reviewers was announced yesterday in the results of the "Film Daily's annual filmdom's famous fives poll."

Miss Garland was selected for her work in "A Star Is Born" while Brando won the critic's praise for his acting in "On the Waterfront."

Edmond O'Brien and Thelma Ritter were voted the best supporting actor and actress of the year. "On the Waterfront" picked up additional awards when Elia Kazan took honors as the year's outstanding director and Budd Shulberg received an award for the "best screenplay."

John N. Garner was the first vice president to leave the U. S. when the President was away. When Garner left in 1936 Cordell Hull acted as president until Roosevelt returned.

Many People Make Life Busiest After Retirement

By MARGARET LATROBE

From San Anselmo comes one of the best letters to hit this desk in months, from a man who has "retired" and likes "not working" better than working. He scolded me a little for saying recently that as long as people were happy in their pursuits—why quit?

This excellent gentleman quit one job which had given him lifetime employment, and retired by taking on about six more. He is busier now than ever before; the only difference is that now he isn't drawing a salary.

He proclaims himself a "bird dog"—(a descriptive term for initiative which I hope never leaves our vernacular)—and during the long years of doing what others told him, he put one quarter of his earnings into investments.

"From the age of 12 to 62 years I never missed a day's pay," he says, "and I learned that even when panics were on any man who really wants to work, can work. He might have to do labor he abhors, work for low wages—but I figured it was better than no wages."

Retirement, he says, gives one enough time to travel (17 foreign countries, so far), to accumulate a fine library on the wild and woolly West, to learn four foreign languages, own and run a farm, an orchard, a garden. And enough time to cultivate the hobby of cooking. "Greek thyme is decidedly different from the Yankees herb of the same name . . ." so our retired friend has the foreign variety sent him. Which may account for his constant prize-winning recipes.

On rainy days, this retired gentleman foregoes outdoor work and becomes the collector—gold coins, hand weapons, stamps, semi-precious minerals, curios and rare books. He builds gadgets in his workshop, short-wave sets when that California mist obscures the views. Otherwise, he goes fishing.

Retirement sounds pretty attractive, after all—but it also sounds like a full day's work to me.

Just to prove to his "Wonderful One" that he could write a book, she would enjoy reading, he wrote a book. Doesn't care about having it published—just wrote it for her. He's working on the second one now which is "coming along like froth on beer."

Of his wife, he says—"We two have so many thousands of beautiful thoughts and memories that we are never alone or lonely, and life is Heaven so long as we two are together." Then he adds, "But there are millions of married folks like us."

Hunter Slain in Rifle Fight

Seven-Man Gun Battle Sparked by Shooting of Hunting Dog

JASPER, Tex. (AP)—Two ranchers and five hunters who accused them of killing a hunting dog shot it out in a wild Christmas Day gunfight, officers said.

A sixth hunter — the only one who didn't fire a shot, the sheriff said — was slain. Both ranchers and another hunter were wounded in the furious exchange of some 40 shots. Six men were charged with assault to murder.

Dist Atty. J. L. Smith said the grand jury will take up the case Jan. 3.

Sheriff Tom Mixon said five hunters fought it out with two ranchers they accused of killing a hunting dog. He said the ranchers had often warned hunters they would kill any dogs they found in their pasture.

Roy Muench, 51, Beaumont, Tex., killed by a rifle blast through his right shoulder, had left his gun in his truck, Mixon said.

The bachelor rancher brothers, Sterling Garlington, 53, and Dalphin, 43, were among those wounded. Sterling was hospitalized at Beaumont, in critical condition, with a rifle shot in his stomach and shotgun blasts in his neck, chest and back. Dalphin was in a Jasper hospital in serious condition with face wounds.

Dalphin Garlington was among those charged with assault to murder and released under $2,000 bond. The others, all among the hunters, were Charley Ellis, his father Travis Ellis, who was shot in the face; Gerald Sanford; Richard Morris and Clarence Willingham. All are of the Jasper or Beaumont areas.

India has more than two million cases of tuberculosis.

Flat Look Hits Snags at 'Curtain'

Soviet Style Show Held in Budapest Sticks to Curves

The latest Soviet-world fashion show, held in Budapest, indicated that the Communist countries will stick to curvy feminine lines.

Not a single one of hundreds of model sshown by the Soviet Union-Poland, Czechoslovakia, East Germany and Hungary was trying to introduce Dior's H-line to women in the Soviet orbit.

It was the third international Communist fashion show, and the Soviet Union scored first place again, as it did in Leipzig and Prague, where the 1952 and 1953 shows were held.

As far as the word "international" was concerned at the Budapest show, it applied only to the Soviet Union and the "Peoples Democracies"—Russia's satellites.

According to an official Communist Hungarian report, "simple lines, a tasteful application of folk designs and the skillful use of new textiles" were typical of the Soviet orbit 1954 fashion show.

Softer, feminine lines stressing "curves" were the most popular, the report asserted.

Second place of the international fashion show went to Communist Hungary, the third was awarded to Red Czechoslovakia.

Eastern Germany's fashion industry was mentioned for its use of new plastic materials, Nylon and Perlon.

Models shown at the Budapest fashion parade ranged from overalls for women to deluxe evening gowns.

Swing-back coats have replaced swagger and straight line coats and coolie jackets are not in vogue any more behind the Iron Curtain, the official Hungarian report said.

Soviet Russia topped her satellites with what Hungarians described as a dark evening gown with white lace collar, designed in a style similar to that of the 19th century.

Most dress-up frocks of the Communist world have very full skirts, snugly fitted bodices and lots of tulle.

The pretty-as-a-picture look stars with a good figure. Fashion a finer shape with the right foundation garments. If you are a junior size, bandeau and lightweight girdle will do the trick.

Food Prices Double Since War Days

Expenditures for food have risen from $31,000,000,000 in 1944 to an anticipated $63,000,000,000 this year, according to Paul S. Willis, president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America.

Willis told a meeting of food editors in New York recently that a combination of good reporting by editors and increased food product advertising caused food sales to double in the past 10 years.

Green Walls Good

If a home seems pleasing and invigorating to you, chances are the walls are green. Because we associate this color with nature, it's a popular decorating color.

Don't Jerk Cord

However inaccessible it is, don't jerk on the cord to pull a plug out. Get down on your knees, if you have to, and pull the plug itself.

Civitan Club Announces Stage Play

'Vagabond King' Slated January 15 at High School

Members of Pontiac Civitan Club feel that they are paving the way toward a greater appreciation of the better type of entertainment in our community with the coming stage presentation of "The Vagabond King."

The production will be presented Jan. 15 at 8:30 p.m. in the Pontiac High School auditorium.

Civitan spokesmen say that the amount of community response to this production will influence the frequency of future presentations of its kind.

The production will duplicate the original Broadway show which ran for three solid years in New York City and which has been seen in major cities all over the globe.

There are two more weeks remaining to purchase tickets. All seats are reserved and tickets are available at many Pontiac stores or from Civitan members, according to William Lane, ticket chairman.

In bringing "The Vagabond King" to Pontiac, Civitan members hope to establish the legitimate theater in this locality. They are considering for future bookings such popular musicals as "Finian's Rainbow", "Gentlemen Prefer Blonds" and "Guys and Dolls".

They point out that community concerts have started Pontiac toward an appreciation of the better things in life and the amateur theater groups in Pontiac have taken another step in this direction.

Now, they continue, we can enjoy Broadway productions on a par with the larger cities of the nation.

Mrs. H. P. Shaw Is Hostess

Mrs. Paro M. Thomas, program chairman for today's event, announced that the annual meeting will be held on Jan. 10 in the Orchard Lake home of Mrs. George Baldwin. Colored slides of Hawaiian foliage and flowers were shown by William Smith of Bloomfield Hills. Mrs. Smith was narrator.

Following the program a tea was served by Hrs. W. G. Ferguson and her hospitality committee. Mrs. Leslie H. Green and Mrs Earl A. Thompson will preside at the tea tables.

Use Cake Breaker

Don't cut an angel cake with a conventional cake knife. There are cake-breakers that look like hyper-thyroid forks for the task. Lacking that, poke away with a fork and pull, rather than mash, the cake into slices.

Pillowcase Useful

Hints on curtain laundering: Wash them basted into an old pillowcase, rotate them when you rehang them to keep them matching, rehang now and then upside-down to vary the part of the fabric that gets the stronger sun at the bottom of the window.

Qualities We Praise in a Child Shape His Later Demands Upon Himself

Failure of Single Talent Incidental

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Jinny's father was the son of a wastrel who inflicted an anxious childhood on him. A successful lawyer himself, he credited the material advantages he lavished on his own family to his brain.

And he thought of a fast-thinking brain as the one indispensable safeguard against hurt and disaster.

He was therefore concerned with Jinny's brain. Throughout her childhood, he would provoke arguments with her, not because he was interested in what she had to say, but because he wanted to be sure that her brain was working competently.

Jinny's mother checked it constantly, too, lest it disappoint her husband. In grade school, Jinny's teachers were always having to reassure her parents that her brain was a superior one that would not let them down.

In her last year of high school, Jinny's marks suddenly began to deteriorate. Her alarmed parents said, "Remember college is ahead. Get your diploma — and we'll take you to Europe this summer."

But as final examinations neared, Jinny could not prepare for them. She could not study. For the test that faced her brain contained the possibility of its failure.

Without a successful brain, she was nothing, and final exams threatened her with annihilation of her entire self. So, the night before her first exam, she fainted.

Writes England's John MacMurray: "The intellect is rooted in the emotional life, draws its nourishment from it and is the subordinate partner in the human economy."

This statement holds true for any talent possessed by a child whether it be for fast thinking, music or football.

We make a bad mistake when we single out any young talent for praise. For by it, we suggest that the child's total value rests upon other's applause of his one gift. So when school or work tests face him with the possibility of failure, he has no reserves of self-appreciation to back him up.

He has to make Jinny's choice — and evade the tests. He may just not work at all — or content himself with third-rate jobs that offer him no possibility of annihilating failure.

What we praise in a child shapes the demands he will later make upon himself.

For this season, I praise children only for sincerity. For this quality includes acceptance of their total selves — their feelings as well as their thoughts. Thus, such praise supports whole selftrust, making the triumph or failure of a single talent incidental.

Apologies Are Better Than Pride

Treat Relationship With Real Respect, Don't Hurt Him

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: For two years he liked me before he asked me for a date. We went out together and were getting serious. He was very nice to me and I thought the world of him.

"But one night we had a misunderstanding, and afterward he went back to his base. Several nights later he called and said he wanted to see me, and I told him I'd be at a dance if he wanted to look me up there.

"When I go dancing I like to play around and have some fun with my friends—and he didn't like that and left without a word. Now he tells my friends I acted like a two-year-old! He said he wants a girl of 17 to act 17. What gets me is that he used to say I was the life of the party!

"Now I'd like to know how to tell him off! Should I phone, write or tell him face to face? I like to have as much fun as possible—so how should I have acted? As though I were 30?"

Usually one in a couple loves more deeply than the other, is more sensitive to moods and misunderstandings, can be more easily hurt. Obviously that one is not you! Equally obviously it's your boy friend.

You say he liked you for two years before he got around to asking for dates, so his affection for you is of long standing. He regards it with dignity and respect—it's important to him. Your misunderstanding with him cut him deeply.

And when he called you to get things patched up, you gaily suggested that he look for you at the dance. For all the world as though you had something better to do—and it didn't really matter to you whether you made up with him or not.

He found you at the dance, but you didn't give him much time. He wanted to talk seriously with you—and after all, you'd told him to meet you there. But you preferred to play around with your friends. You were having too much fun to be pried loose.

He saw he was getting nowhere, so he left without talking with you. He probably felt that you weren't treating him, his affection for you, and your relationship with him with the proper dignity and respect. You made no sign that he and your quarrel with him were important to you. That's when he decided you were acting like a child.

You'd better apologize to him instead of telling him off. You hurt him more than he annoyed you. You added insult to injury of the original misunderstanding.

So seek him out—by phone or by letter. Tell him this time that you want to see him. And say it in your most humble voice. Make things straight with him—if you care about him at all. And I'm sure you do!

If you ask a guest to play the piano for you—be courteous enough to listen quietly. It's rude to say, "I'd love to hear you play" and then chatter to someone else all through the selection. If you want to talk—talk. If you want to listen to music—listen.

You can't do both at the same time.

Mary Margaret McBride Says:

Outbursts Only Intensify the Hurt

By MARY MARGARET McBRIDE

The novelist Ellen Glasgow records as the earliest incident she remembers a frightened black dog, pursued by shouting men carrying sticks and stones. The little Ellen thought the animal threw her a tortured, appealing glance as it raced by but she could not help. It was the child's first contact with cruelty, her first intimation that human beings could be brutal.

For the rest of her life she was firmly convinced that the only great sin is the deliberate infliction on another of pain.

In her remarkable autobiography, "The Woman Within," the author predicts that war will never be banished, and gives as a reason that some people like it. They are the ones, she believes, who enjoy being cruel. At first "enjoy" seems the wrong word here, but perhaps it is the only one that fits.

I, for one, would never be able to tie a tin can to the tail of a cat, and I am miserable when occasionally I read stories of subhuman men and women who starve, beat and maim their children for reasons ranging from simple dislike to strange ideas of discipline.

In spite of all the rationalized explanations, I am revolted by bull fights and hunting undertaken only for sport. I can't for the life of me understand how a landlord can bring himself to evict a penniless woman and young children.

Yet there is a streak of cruelty in me—as I imagine there is in most. All it takes to bring mine to the surface is anger. Let somebody sting me in a sensitive spot, and instantly my irresistible inclination is to return blow for blow. Maybe I enjoy the outburst but it is useless as therapy, for it does not assuage but, rather, intensifies my hurt, since shame inevitably follows it.

If the blow is being struck for another, though, perhaps the case is different. Once I saw a mild-mannered woman do an extraordinary thing. She was passing through the vestibule of a department store as another shopper, annoyed by the crying of her child, first screamed at and then slapped the defenseless baby. Without a word, face white with anger, my friend walked over, hauled off and slapped the other woman hard across the face.

I don't know what would have happened if the avenging angel had stayed in the store. She didn't—she went away fast, scared and rather appalled at what she had done. But maybe she had the right idea.

Modern Woman's Role Requires All Her Talents

By ANNE HEYWOOD

A woman's life is no longer the predictable thing, running the predictable course, that it used to be.

In the times of our great-grandmothers, a girl got married in her late teens—or else! She then had baby after baby after baby, stayed in the home until the youngest was grown and then, gray-haired and black-shawled, rocked on the porch until she died.

The modern woman, on the other hand, is apt to live three or four different lives in the course of her one. She goes to school, she has a job, she leaves the job and gets married.

She has children and then, like as not, gets a part-time job when they're in school and a full-time job when they have flown the nest. She lives a lot longer than her great-grandmother did and if she's prudent, she plans for it.

Mrs. Helen Clarke, of Kingston, N. Y., is wise. She is a registered nurse, happily married and with an eight-year-old daughter, Mary Anne.

During the war, Helen worked in the hospital full time. Then she stayed home, had Mary Anne, and engaged in homemaking as a full time thing.

Recently Mrs. Clarke has worked out a new and very satisfactory arrangement. She decided that, first of all, the nursing shortage was so bad that she ought to be doing something in her community to help relieve it.

Second, she decided that it would be a good idea to keep her hand in just in case she might one day want to resume a full-time nursing career.

So she talked it over with her husband, and with the Kingston Hospital. The result is that Mrs. Clarke works at the hospital, on general floor duty two evenings a week from seven till eleven.

This gives her eight hours a week of work at her old field, enough to keep her from getting out of date. At the same time, it disrupts the Clarke household not at all. She gets all her homemaking done during the day and on her two working evenings Mr. Clarke baby sits. And a nice little nest egg is growing.

If you had a job or a profession before you were married, you don't have to sit around and bemoan its loss. If you will really search, you can find some way of working at it for at least a few hours a week.

With Life the way it is today, an up-to-date business skill is a handy thing for any wife to have!

Watch Long Handle

Those enameled frying pans with the long handles are wonderful for style in the kitchen, but be careful in using them. It's very easy to turn such a pan, full of hot food, onto yourself. Keep the handle away from the range edge.

Go to Play as Planned, Says Post

Dignified Evening Shouldn't Arouse Any Criticism

By EMILY POST

Today's first letter tells me: "My mother-in-law died last week. Before her death the women with whom I play bridge every week planned on going to the theater two weeks from today. In order to get seats for this particular play we had to get the tickets well ahead of time, so they are bought and paid for. I would like to know if you think it would be proper for me to go to the theater as planned. Please advise me as I don't want to bring criticism upon myself."

I see no reason why you should not to go the theater as planned—especially if it is a matinee and you are going with women alone. If it were a theater party in the evening with men and women, that would be criticized.

Dear Mrs. Post: The daughter of a neighbor of ours was married quietly a month ago in another city. In this morning's mail we received an invitation to a reception that is being given by her parents at their club in honor of the newlyweds. I would like to know if a present should be taken to the reception?

If you wish to give the bride a present you send it to her and her husband at their home address. You do not take it to the reception.

Dear Mrs. Post: The other day my sister and I were out walking, I met the mother of a friend. I did not see her coming until we were close. I did not have time to remove my glove and so when I took her hand, I said, "Excuse my glove." My sister criticized me later for saying this. Was I wrong?

A woman never apologizes for keeping on her glove to shake hands any more than she would apologize for not taking off her hat to bow. Both would be absurd things to do. A man, in your situation, would have apologized for his glove.

PETUNIA!

Good idea, Petunia! Make one pick-up trip with a tray for ash-trays, dead flowers and such—then replace them all clean and fresh the same way. Saves steps!

Pep Up Your Post-Holiday Eating

Clarkston Cook Has Number of Good Hearty Casseroles

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Food Editor

In the course of a pleasant discussion on food, Mrs. Francis A. Mickle of Clarkston gave some interesting suggestions. We are printing them all today to help you plan meals during the post-holiday slump. The first suggestion is most timely as it uses any food left over from your Christmas dinner.

The Mickles like living in the country so well that they became year-round residents a few years ago instead of summer dwellers. They like gardening and working as a family in the neighborhood church. As a hobby Mrs. Mickle also enjoys cooking.

POST-HOLIDAY CASSEROLE

By Mrs. Francis A. Mickle

Place a layer of mashed potatoes in a greased casserole. Cover with a layer of sliced chicken or turkey. Top with a layer of dressing. Pour poultry gravy over the casserole. Bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven and cut in squares to serve. If you have no gravy, use cream of mushroom soup.

Scalloped potatoes will have a new flavor if you bake the potatoes 20 minutes in the oven before covering them with warm milk. Prepare the potatoes as usual, adding flour, butter and seasoning. Let the milk warm in the oven.

An excellent winter meal is another scalloped potato dish. Place pork chops on top of the sliced potatoes, add cream of chicken soup diluted with 1 cup milk. Bake as usual.

Although the guillotine became widely used during the revolutionary period in France, records show that it was used much earlier in other countries.

U. S. Sends Mendes Milk From 48 States

CHICAGO (AP) — An 18-year-old Minnesota farm girl, good will emissary of America's dairy industry, made ready to fly to New York today and thence to Paris Tuesday with 48 quarters of milk for Premier Mendes-France.

The milk, one quart from each state, and a milk dispensing machine for the Premier's office, is a gift from the American Dairy Assn. In appreciation for Mendes-France's efforts to promote milk drinking. It will be delivered by Eleanor Maley, who won a statewide contest for the honor.

* * *

The French Premier, however, faced a political crisis today which might cause his Cabinet to fall on the issue of German rearmament. Just who would get the milk if Mendes-France loses his premiership is an unanswered question.

A LITTLE BOY GOES SKIING

This is the time of year ofr winter sports in many parts of the country. A popular one is skiing. Here's a little boy who will stand up on skis:

1. You can color boy's face pink with water colors or crayons if you like. Make his suit green, scarf and mittens yellow, and hat red and yellow striped. His shoes are brown, and the skis, ski straps and round disks are yellow.
2. Paste entire picture on strong white paper or light cardboard with library paste.
3. When dry, carefully cut out the boy's figure, the separate leg, and the two disks.
4. Place the separate leg behind boy's figure until the dotted line on leg is at edge of boy's coat. Paste leg in this position.
5. Figure stands upright on skis by folding along bottom of both feet on dotted line. Make sure to cut on heavy line of shoe as shown in small diagram. Also bend legs outward for better balance.

For finishing touch, poke holes in hands (white dots) and in center of discs with a toothpick. Place discs on toothpicks as shown in (A) and push top end of toothpick through hole in hand from behind figure.

Spread out some cotton in a shallow box, sprinkle it with snowlike soap flakes, and set the little boy on the snow.

Father, Children Reunited After Seven Years Apart

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Mike Katsanevas, 66, took his children shopping today—but he wasn't just looking for after-Christmas bargains.

He wanted practical coats and trousers and dresses and shoes, all right. But at the same time, he was showing six of his children a new way to live, the way he has learned to live in America.

This was the first time he had seen them in seven years, since he left Crete.

Three children came with Mike then, but he had to leave his wife and seven other sons and daughters behind. He got a job as a janitor at the naval supply depot north of here. He prayed and he saved—but he never could get together enough money to bring the rest of the family over.

Then Mike's fellow workers decided on his Christmas present. They raised $2,500, and that was enough.

The family started, but in Athens Mrs. Katsanevas was detained for about a month because of a minor illness. The six children came on by plane. Another son, George, 21, will join the family when he finishes a hitch in the Greek army.

Mike couldn't say much when the airliner landed and his children ran out—he just laughed and cried. His friends standing behind the runway fence didn't say much either—they just grinned.

The thin little father tried to gather all six children into his arms at once. Then he and the other three—James, a U. S. airman first class now home on leave; a daughter, Kaliope, 18, and Manuel, 16—posed for pictures with them. And between shots they turned and hugged Leonidas, 17, Irene, 14, Nicholas, 13, Areto, 11, Stylianos, 10, and Stavrolla 8.

Today Mike starts a week vacation and has his nine children to share it with him.

1955 Seen as Year of Continued Prosperity by Cabinet

Christmas Shoppers Spend $17 Million to Set New Mark

NEW YORK (AP)—With a record Christmas out of the way—except for the bills which the merchants will mail out next week—businessmen today are after another record: Post-Christmas sales.

The big Chicago mail order houses have their midwinter sales catalogues in the mails this week. They are liberally studded with price cuts from the listings in the fall general catalogues.

Department stores are launching their bargain sales early this year. Merchants are taking note of the increasing custom of using gift certificates or putting cash in family stockings.

That means there are a lot of folk today with money burning holes in their pockets. Many a retailer is eager to tap this flow of cash before it goes to a competitor.

And Christmas sales volume showed that people had money to spend and were in a mood to spend it this year.

More people than usual, however, were putting the tab for their Christmas generosity on the cuff. Merchants interpret this as revealing a 'better feeling" about the economic outlook. They hope that —with a little prodding from bargain sales—consumers are in the mood now to take some more big ticket items on tithe.

But with the Christmas bills coming in next week and the installment payments starting next month, New Year's Day may be a sobering occasion for many a consumer.

Consumers plunked out—or agreed to pay later—17 billion dollars this month, according to Dun & Bradstreet. This pushes Yuletide spending to an all time high.

And more expensive presents were bought—with auto dealers happily rolling up new models before many families' doors. Fur merchants say there were more fur coats under Christmas trees this year than in the last five seasons.

Bank clearings hit a record high—showing that not every shopper was asking merchants to put it on the cuff. Money in circulation also went to a new high.

Hopes that the business spurt will continue into next month are high. The biggest drag will be the usual post-Christmas rise in unemployment.

But this increase may be held down some this time. The auto makers, for example, are scheduling heavy production for January. The steel mills have enough orders to keep going along at a good clip. A number of other industries also may keep to the increased pace they started a few weeks ago.

Factory layoffs have been unseasonally low, the Labor Department reports, building hopes that the pickup in industrial output will continue. More call-backs to work than usual are reported.

The National Assn. of Purchasing Agents reports that the total of new orders is still rising at the nation's factories.

Three Jackson Trusties Escape Training Camp

JACKSON (AP)—Southern Michigan prison officials have reported the disappearance of three 18-year-old trusties from Cassidy Lake Training Camp.

They are James A. Welch, serving 2 to 4 years for larceny from Wexford County; Larry Miller, serving 3 to 5 years for auto theft from Clinton County; and Earl Steeles, serving 2 to 4 years for false pretenses from Grand Rapids.

Planning Unit Less Optimistic

Further Cuts in Taxes, More Public Spending Urged by Group

WASHINGTON (AP)—Members of President Eisenhower's Cabinet, indulging in the year-end custom of taking a look ahead, see 1955 as a year of peace but continuing tensions and of a stable and prosperous economy.

But the National Planning Assn., less optimistic about the economy, says the new year will be one of rising unemployment unless buying power and production are stimulated by the government and by industry.

The nonprofit, privately financed organization representing business, labor, agriculture and the professions, urged further tax cuts, increased public spending on such things as schools, roads and hospitals, and higher wages.

Cabinet officers wrote their separate appraisals of 1954 and of 1955 for "Nation's Business," monthly publication of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. While several of the 10 expressed a note of caution, there was no pessimism.

Secretary of State Dulles said 1954 saw considerable progress toward world peace, but added that He predicted the free world would be exposed to Communist trickery in 1955, and added:

"We shall strive that no incandescent episode will flare into the terrible eventuality of a third world war."

Secretary of Defense Wilson wrote:

"We are determined to use our atomic leadership to serve the usages of peace, but we will take full account of our large and growing arsenal of nuclear weapons and the most effective means of using them against an aggressor if they are needed to preserve our freedom.

"We do not necessarily seek the biggest air force in the world, but we do want the best and the most powerful . . . second best is not good enough . . ."

Somewhat more cautiously, Secretary of Commerce Weeks said "further economic growth in 1955 is probable, if an environment that is favorable to business progress is maintained.'

Weeks said his department is planning record federal outlays to aid construction of airports, highways and ships.

The National Planning Assn., urging such public spending, said the national output should be boosted by 25 to 30 billion dollars next year.

The organization's trustees, headed by New York banker H. Christian Sonne, said in a statement made public last night that the growth of the economy has failed to keep pace with the labor force and increased output per worker, and it continued:

"The actual level of economic activity is at present about 15 to 20 billion dollars below the amount of reasonable full employment."

The group said no general depression seems to be in sight, but it urged tax cuts to stimulate consumer buying, and an improvement of social security legislation. Among nongovernment measures, the group said it considered "the most important to be a rise in wage rates and a reduction in prices in accord with increases in productivity."

Dems Opposed on Refugee Law

Rap Act's Administrator for Red Tape Barriers to Iron Curtain Escapees

WASHINGTON (INS)—Twe two ranking Democrats on the House Judiciary Committee today disagreed bitterly over the administration of the 1953 Refugee Relief Act with Chairman Emanuel Celler (D-NY), calling it "savage and unrealistic."

Celler called the law itself "impractical" and complained that not a single escapee from behind the Iron Curtain and only very few refugees have been allowed to come to the U.S.

But the act's chief author, Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa), said it is being administered to his satisfaction and called Celler's criticism "entirely unwarranted and unjustified."

The divergent views follow a weekend statement by Sen. Arthur V. Watkins, (R-Utah), chairman of the judiciary subcommittee on immigration, that red tape is being cleared away to allow the refugees to enter in increasing numbers.

Celler promised to call enforcement officials before the House committee "to find out what has slowed down the process." He charged that the State Department has administered the act as if it were "handling so many sacks of potatoes instead of human beings."

The chairman was particularly critical of Scott McLeod who administers the act. However, Walter defended McLeod and said the official was merely carrying out provisions of the law.

The 1953 act was designed to make homes in this country for refugees from Red nations by allowing 215,00 persons above regular quotas. Each person must be assured of a place to live and a job before he can leave for the U.S.

New Low-Rent Housing Eyed by Solons

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Democratic senators said today they believe the next Congress will authorize more new low-rent public housing than they expect President Eisenhower to recommend.

The similar statements were made in separate interviews by Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala), a member of the Senate Banking subcommittee which handles housing legislation, and Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn).

Each said the present law is too restrictive and that he will propose changes in it.

Albert M. Cole, federal housing administrator, has indicated Eisenhower may ask Congress to authorize the construction of 70,000 low-rent public housing units in the next two years. Eisenhower this year asked a four-year program of 140,000 units, but Congress authorized 35,000 units for each of two years.

Such housing projects are designed for persons in low income brackets. The federal government pays to local housing authorities the difference between the amount of rents collected from the tenants and the cost of maintaining the properties.

Sparkman said the 35,000-unit limit is so hedged in by restrictions that it is doubtful whether more than 10,000 units a year could be built.

"These restrictions must be removed," he said, and added he expects they will be when Congress acts on proposed extension of the act.

Sparkman said he would prefer "a flexible law" which would leave it up to the President and the Budget Bureau to recommend each year how many units should be built, the final decision to rest with Congress.

Humphrey said that if the law does limit the number of units to be built, "it should be not less than 75,000 a year."

He said he will introduce proposed amendments soon after Congress convenes Jan. 5, seeking to eliminate what he termed "far too much red tape."

He said the present law requires that "for every public housing unit built, you must tear down an old housing unit, and relocate the family living in the old unit." He said that involves such burdensome planning operations that many municipalities in need of new projects and slum clearance have found it impossible to qualify within the time allowed."

'Fingerprint' Cancer Cells

BERKELEY, Calif. (INS)—The "fingerprinting" of living cells as a dramatic means of probing deeper into the mysteries of cancer was described by a scientist today at the 121st meeting of the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science.

The report was delivered as the huge AAAS convention, attended by some 6,000 delegates, swung into high gear on the University of California's Berkeley campus, with numerous sessions on topics ranging from snakebite deaths to radioactivity in oil refining.

Dr. Eugene Roberts, chief research biochemist of the City of Hope Medical Center in Southern California, told a symposium on the physiology of growth that cancer is "a chemical law unto itself."

Where malignant growths occur in the body, he explained, certain similarities can be found in their biochemical makeup in sharp contrast to normal tissues, all of which have highly individual patterns of chemical activity.

One of the similarities in tumors, Roberts reported, is in their patterns of free amino acids, substances which act as "building blocks" of protein materials and also perform other important functions in living cells.

Roberts launched the research project at Washington University in St. Louis and now is continuing it at the City of Hope with a team of eight associates.

See Missiles Zipping Through Space

WASHINGTON (INS) — Air Force experts conceded today that intercontinental guided missiles in the next few years may rise more than 1,000 miles to plunge at meteoric speeds through outer space on targets 5,000 or 6,000 miles away.

The "short burn-up" rocket, they said, has proved to have the greatest potential for long-range firing. A 6,000-mile missile might be powered for only six or eight minutes, and would travel almost the entire distance in free space.

Questions concerning the long-range missile projects were stimulated by the statement of Socialist Deputy Jules Moch in the French parliament that America has a missile that could destroy Moscow thirty minutes after leaving the U.S. That would require a speed of at least 10,000 miles an hour.

Both the Air Force and Convair, builder of the "Atlas" missile mentioned by Moch, refused to comment on the statement. The questioning, however, brought out these facts:

1. Both the U.S. and Russia are working on rocket missiles weighing more than fifty tons at takeoff. This compares with 14 tons for the German V-2, the largest rocket in World War II.

2. Both countries have "stage" rockets. The Soviets are known to have a two-stage rocket with a range close to 2,000 miles, and the U.S. may have a three or four-stage rocket in experimental development.

3. Single-stage rockets reaching speeds of more than 3,000 miles an hour have been produced by the Army, Navy and Air Force. Since the speed of each succeeding "stage" in a multi-stage rocket is added to the speed it has already been given, the final speed of a four-stage rocket might easily be 10,000 to 12,000 miles an hour.

4. The burn-up time for each stage would be only about two minutes, so a four-stage rocket would still have only about eight minutes of powered flight.

In order to span 6,000 miles, it would have to achieve an altitude of more than 1,000 miles. The atmosphere extends to an altitude of about 300 miles.

The Army demonstrated the potentialities of the "stage" rocket at White Sands, N. M., in 1949. A comparatively small rocket was placed in the nose of a captured German V-2, which was capable of altitudes of about 100 miles.

When the V-2 was near its maximum speed and altitude, the small "Wac Corporal" rocket was fired by remote control from its nose. The Wac Corporal reached an altitude of more than 250 miles and a speed of more than 5,000 miles an hour.

As far as official records go, this is the greatest altitude ever achieved by a man-created object. A tight lid of secrecy has been kept on this type of experiment ever since.

Most of the original weight of a rocket is burned up as fuel. In "stage" rockets, the casements, or tanks which contained the fuel, are also dropped off after their fuel has been exhausted.

Health Men Check Roaches in Disease Spread Check

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Radioactive cockroaches have demonstrated how the species can invade homes, even passing through water traps in the plumbing, two U. S. Public Health experts reported today.

Sewer cockroaches in Phoenix, Ariz., were used in the experiment. The results showed that the insects, which are potential disease carriers, migrate as much as 200 feet when they become overcrowded or when forced out of their colonies by backed-up sewage.

The experiment was reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science by William B. Jackson and Paul P. Maier of the Public Health Service Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, Ga.

The roaches in one sewer manhole were collected and sprayed with radioactive phosphorus which made them traceable with a geiger counter. Then they were put back into their hole and then another colony of 1,500 roaches was trapped from a nearby manhole and dumped into the radioactive colony. The second group of roaches was not made radioactive.

The idea was to produce overcrowding and see how many of the radioactive insects would leave their own home under such conditions.

In cold weather the migrating roaches didn't go far, but when it warmed up they went off in all directions. They were caught in spots both upstream and downstream in the sewer.

This is about what could be expected when clogged mains produce backed-up sewage, the health experts said. The insects are capable of carrying a variety of disease organisms, the experimenters said.

'Suspect'--Chapter 18 —by Hugh Lawrence Nelson

THE STORY: A woman sheriff, Mrs. Toby Argyle, is investigating the death of Mrs. Angelica Jones, one of the wealthy Carlson clan which is summering at the Carlson estate in Colorado. Jim Dunn, a private detective, and Nancy, his wife, have been retained to do some investigating there for Mrs. Kit Carlson who wanted to "get something" on Mrs. Hilton Carlson, her mother-in-law. Angelica is Mrs. Kit's sister-in-law. In an effort to protect his client, Jim makes a search and finds what may be a hiding place, although it is empty, in a recess behind the wood elevator on which Angelica's body was found. As he makes the discovery Mrs. Gelstrap, Mrs. Kit's cook, douses him with hot water. Immediately Mrs. Gelstrap is attacked by Miss Wister, Jim's secretary. Sheriff Argyle restores order.

"She—she tried to scald Jim," Miss Wister painted.

"I did not! How was I to know he was down there?" Mrs. Gelstrap whined and hiccuped. "I heard noises in the basement and scratchings inside the woodbox. I thought maybe someone was trying to get in that way. Trying to get in and hurt Mrs. Kit. That's what I thought."

Jim Dunn said, "I was looking around, standing on the platform of the elevator. The door of the woodbox opened and a lot of boiling water came down over me." Jim stopped talking long enough to realize he was not burned. His face tingled a little, but that was all. "Well, a lot of hot water," he amended.

"I didn't know what she was going to do," Miss Wister went on. "All at once, she ran out into the kitchen, came back carrying a pail of water from the stove. She pulled up the trap door there and dumped it down. I heard Mr. Dunn yell. When Mrs. Gelstrap started for another bucket of water, I stopped her."

Agnes Argyle walked over to the woodbox and lifted the lid. She spoke at last, and her voice was husky. "I see you found a hiding place, Mr. Dunn."

"Found it empty," Jim said. "But it might explain why Angelica Jones came here, why she was around the elevator."

"It could. And you found it empty?"

"Yes. You can see marks in the dust on the bottom where someone has swept it out, cleaned it."

"No," Sheriff Agnes said. "I can't see that. Not now. Well, Mrs. Gelstrap, maybe you'd better tell me what your real purpose was in pouring that water."

"I told you," the cook said sulkily.

"I heard what you said. Try again. Your water throwing did a thorough job of sluicing out the hidey-hole."

Nancy said. "What goes on at the main house? I seem to be getting everything second-hand, Jim."

He told her of the water, of the fight between Miss Wister and Mrs. Gelstrap. "I'm banished for the time being," he went on. "Ostensibly to change clothes. Meanwhile I think the sheriff is on the phone again, reporting to headquarters, to Mrs. Oswald. And they're trying to get Mrs. Kit awake. Seems to be an idea we should all gather happily under the Carlson roof in the place across the lake."

Nancy nodded. Apparently the move was no news to her. "Be handier for Agnes," she said.

"I noticed you two hit it off. What did you tell her, Nancy?"

"Everything I knew."

"Think that was wise?" Jim asked mildly.

"Of course, Jim. Really she is remarkable. She's also understanding and shrewd."

"Shrewd, I'll grant you." Dunn said. "She have anything to say as to why Mrs. Hilton hasn't been over here?"

"No. Why should she? Mrs. Hilton, I mean."

"Her daughter dead," Jim put. "After all—"

"I guess the Carlsons are a little different," Nancy said. "And I suppose Agnes told Mrs. Hilton not to come. After all, what could she do?"

"Nothing, I suppose," he said. "Here's a little word of caution. It's just possible Sheriff Agnes is buttering you up for her own reasons."

"It isn't like that," Nancy said indignantly. "And anyway you were right about one thing. Agnes already knew about the California business. And maybe I shouldn't tell you this, but I think she knew beforehand that Mrs. Kit and Mrs. Gelstrap were coming here."

Jim was more interested in the first part of that statement than in the news itself. "Why shouldn't you tell me?"

Nancy looked away from her husband. "After all it was more or less in confidence."

"I see." A horrid suspicion took root in Jim's mind and flourished. He decided to put it to the test. "Did Agnes—and I suppose I might as well adopt your informality — say who she suspected of the killing?"

"An accident, Jim. It has to be. It better be!" Nancy closed her mouth firmly around further words.

"Or our client might be a prime suspect?"

"I wouldn't say that. Jim, honestly, I hate this. Holding out on you."

Jim Dunn felt as if he were standing on a sinking hummock of grass in the middle of a quicksand. One wrong step or in this case, one wrong word might lead to disaster.

Near-Free Sudan Desired by Premier

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP)—In an effort to placate nationalist elements, Premier Ismail El Azhari has called for a nominally independent Sudan linked indirectly with Egypt.

El Azhari, who recently fired three Cabinet ministers for rebelling against his nationalist Union party's pro-Egyptian policy, told newsmen over the weekend the Sudan should become "an independent republic with its own government and parliament."

But he added: "The link with Egypt should take the form of a supreme council of the Sudanese and Egyptian Cabinets which would discuss and take decisions on matters of common interest such as defense, foreign affairs and use of the Nile water."

Under a 1953 British-Egyptian agreement, the cotton-rich Sudan is to choose within two years whether to join Egypt or become completely independent.

Skater Barbara Scott Recovers From Virus

CHICAGO (AP) — Barbara Ann Scott, queen of the Hollywood Ice Revue, is expected to return to the show today after a two-day struggle with a virus infection.

Miss Scott, former Olympic figure skating star, missed the opening night performance Christmas and failed to appear in last night's show which was televised on the Comedy Hour (NBC).

Texans Jolted by Blast From Stored Dynamite

ODESSA, Tex. (AP)—One hundred and 50 pounds of dynamite stored in a tiny metal shack on isolated prairie three miles south of here blew up last night, jolting a section of West Texas.

The only casualty reported was a woman knocked down when her door was blown open. She was treated for bruises.

What caused the blast was a mystery.

84th Congress Leaders-

Sen. Carl Hayden, Arizona, Will Steer Appropriations

Democratic control of the 84th Congress which convenes Jan. 5 reshuffles the key chairmanships of the Senate and House, with Democrats replacing the Republicans who ruled in the 83rd Congress. Below is the first of a series introducing you to the men who will head the key Senate committees in the new Congress.

WASHINGTON (INS)—The most powerful senate chairman in the 84th Congress will be a man whose reputation for brevity of public speech approaches that of the late President Calvin Coolidge.

Sen. Carl Hayden (D-Ariz) will be chairman of the Senate appropriations committee. No agency in the vast federal government can have any spending money unless this committee opens the purse.

An idea of the immense money requests that come to the unit can be glimpsed from the fact that in 1954 the committee heard 2,157 witnesses whose testimony ran to 12,315 pages.

Hayden in a rare interview said he did not believe that "there has ever been a year that Congress gave any president all the money he asked."

At 77, Hayden enjoys perfect health. Except for an infrequent cold, he has never been sick a day in his life. He sees a physician once a year for a check-up but the doctor never has found anything requiring correction, at least not for the last 20 years.

About 1934, when the six-foot Hayden cut down to 185 pounds and has stayed there.

The senator is a graduate of Leland Stanford University where he played center on the football team. As a young man, he was a champion rifle shooter. In a national rifle match in which 15 rounds were fired at 900 yards from the target, he hit the bull's eye 15 times.

In the horse-and-buggy days of 1907 to 1912, Hayden served as an Arizona County Sheriff. When it appeared he would have to hang a man, he got a state law passed transferring the hangman's chore to the penitentiary.

Upon Arizona's admission to the union, Hayden became in 1912 the state's first-and then only member in the House. In 1927 he was elected to the senate.

A pioneer in pushing federal aid to highways, he has been especially interested also in reclamation, public lands, Indian problems and mining.

Freshmen senators of late years have beaten an early trail to Haydens office. He has helped many with quiet tips on how to get along in the senate. Some not-so-new senators also like to have his opinion before coming to a decision on ticklish issues.

Raises Would Help Military Technicians

WASHINGTON (AP) — Asst. Secretary of Defense Fred Seaton says administration proposals for military pay raises would not affect the ordinary private but would aim at keeping skilled technicians in uniform.

Seaton said Congress will be asked to approve pay hikes on "a selective basis" for men who—particularly in the Air Force—require considerable training or have special skills.

In an NBC TV-radio interview, Seaton listed proposals to improve overseas housing and medical aid for dependents, and a rotation system for returning men from overseas, as more important than pay raises.

Saturday Evening Post Announces Job Shifts

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Robert Lee Sherrod, Far East representative for the Saturday Evening Post, will become the magazine's managing editor sometime next spring, the Post disclosed last night.

The 45-year-old native of Thomas County, Ga., formerly a war correspondent for Time and Life magazines, will succeed Robert Fuoss, who will become executive editor.

Last Thing They'll Do

Adventure Close at Hand in This Enchanted Week

By LAURA Z. HOBSON

NEW YORK (INS)—Lots of us find something unreal about the week between Christmas and New Year's—something like the way we feel on a sea voyage.

You've left one port behind you, and another lies a few days ahead of you, but in between you get a funny feeling of unreality, of being suspended in time and space.

As anybody knows who's ever taken a long trip on an ocean liner, there can be mighty odd results from that time-and-space sensation, odd and unusual and refreshing to the whole personality.

Maybe you spill your secrets to perfect strangers. Maybe you eat too many in-between snacks and drink too many in-between drinks. Maybe you strike up great new friendships that later become a bit of a problem.

So what? Travel is broadening, they say, and perhaps one reason is that many humans get their first experience of being themselves, of relaxing, of behaving in a more friendly and uninhibited way, during those strange hours of feeling out of touch with either port.

Perhaps, too, this suspended week between Christmas and New Year's can do a bit the same thing for many of us landlubbers, locked to our jobs, to our kitchens, to our cash registers and sales territories.

We have to settle down for these in-between days, of course. We can't just take off for parts unknown, no matter how much our unconscious minds tell us this week is a marking-time kind of week.

Just the same, it might be a perfectly swell idea for lots and lots of people if this became the week when they let their hearts and spirits pretend to be somewhere between the ports of hard reality and daily routine.

It's perfectly possible, you know. All you have to do is make believe you're in an environment where you're expected to be friendly and smiling to every stranger you pass as you stride around the deck, where you're supposed to strike up a bit of chit chat about the weather and the journey that both of you are making.

On a ship you get a sort ofinformal manner instead of your sober-as-a-judge personality, a kind of willingness to let down many of the bars of prim and proper behavior.

Why not try it for the rest of this week, this final floating week of the long tough year behind you? :I say "long, tough year," because most years, to most adults, are scarcely in the same class with beds of roses).

I've tried it in the past—tried talking to folks in stores, to bus drivers, to taxi drivers and salesgirls. I've "picked up" old ladies and shouting young brats: I've confided in the waitress in a tearoom about how tired I was and got her to tell me how much more tired the holiday rush had left her and her colleagues with the trays.

There's something really good and broadening in this sort of travel, too—this travel beyond the usual barriers of regulation behavior between strangers.

It's a voyage anybody of good will can take at any time, of course, and I'm not putting any time limit or stop watch to my suggestion.

But this week before the New Year is a great time to start it—and if you do set fort, bon voyage!

Judge to Study Injunction Case

Holland Takes City, Auto Agency Litigation Under Advisement

Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland today took under advisement a motion to dismiss a temporary injunction stopping Pontiac from seizing personal property of Matthews-Hargreaves Chevrolet agency here for sale to cover 1954 taxes.

The stop order was secured Nov. 26 by Jack Habel, former auto dealer, who leased his building at 22-34 Mill St. to Matthews-Hargreaves last April.

His move followed an annoncement by City Treasurer M. M. Ashbaugh of intention to collect $2,939.80 from Matthews-Hargreaves in city and school tax assessments. If the sum was not paid, Ashbaugh stated, enough property would be seized and sold at public auction to cover the tax.

Habel's attorney, William J. Beer, today said his client was fighting the tax in his capacity as landlord to assure "tranquility" of the new firm's lease.

He cited evidence in support of Habel's contention that the taxes did not become payable until after much of the property was destroyed in a fire and, therefore, the taxes should be reassessed.

City Attorney William A Ewart argued the taxes were assessed before the fire and the full amount is due. Judge Holland is expected to rule on the city's dismissal motion Jan. 3.

Judge Orders Test of Laughead's Sanity

LANSING (UP)—Probate Judge John McClellan ordered an "immediate" examination of Dr. Charles Laughead today to determine whether the ousted Michigan State College doctor should be committed to a mental institution for his gloomy predictions of world disaster.

Laughead said he was "all set" for the examinations.

Laughead was threatened with commitment last Wednesday when his sister, Margaret Laughead of Des Moines, Iowa, filed a petition asking that he be committed as a "religious fanatic" who "believes that he is to create a new age."

She also sought appointment of a guardian for Laughead's three children.

Browns Smash Lions 56-10, Take 2nd NFL Title

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Browns Monday owned a rare second National Football League title after an astounding 56-10 dethroning of the Detroit Lions which proved:

1. Cleveland's "retiring" quarterback, Otto Graham, showed enough voltage at 33 — three touchdown passes and three scoring smashes — to warrant doubt he will quit pro ball as he says.

2. That you can't believe what you see on the TV screen (the game-turning play favored the Browns after what apeared a neutralizing double-infraction on TV).

3. That the same two teams playing in the same city on successive Sundays won't kill your crowd, (43,827 apeared — 20,000 buying at the gate).

4. That statistics are little white lies (the Browns had only a slight edge over the two-time league champion Lions).

There was much of the fantastic about Paul Brown's tremendous crushing of a Detroit jinx in Sunday's game, played under perfect (for Dec. 26) weather conditions. It ended a Lion quest for an unprecedented third straight NFL title.

The Browns won their first triumph in nine starts against a Buddy Parker-coached Lion team, but the run-away didn't develop until after the first-quarter tide-changer which puzzled TV viewers.

Cleveland's punter was roughed on the same play in which Detroit's receiver apparently signaled for a fair catch then was clobbered deep in Lion territory.

The Brown punter, Horace Gillom, was racked up by Lion guard Harley Sewell, just after lofting a fourth-down punt to Detroit's Jug Girard. After signalling a fair catch, Girard moved three strides to his right and did not have control of the ball when he was smacked down.

What the TV audience never learned was that officials ruled Girard, "muffing the ball," never had enough control to warrant infraction of the fair-catch ruling. That left the roughing-the-punter violation standing alone, instead of being wiped out in a double penalty.

So Cleveland got a first down on Detroit's 35 and two plays later, Graham hurled a 37-yard touchdown pass to speedy Ray Renfro. That was the game's turning point. The Browns took a 7-3 lead and steadily enlarged it.

Statistically, the Browns outrushed Detroit by a scant 140 to 136 yards, and in passing the Lions were ahead, 195 to 163. But what the figures didn't tell was how Graham outwitted and outmaneuvered the Lions while Detroit's Bobby Lane was hopelessly tossing 44 passes.

The Browns, a divisional champion since 1950 after dominating the late All-America Conference, took the NFL crown only once before with a 1950 nipping of Los Angeles, 30-28.

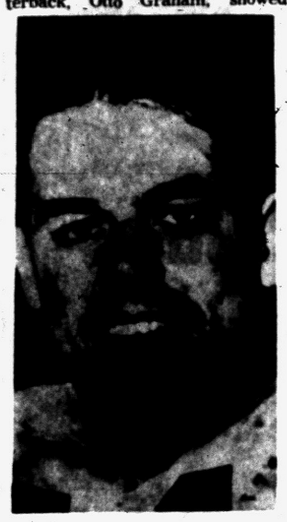
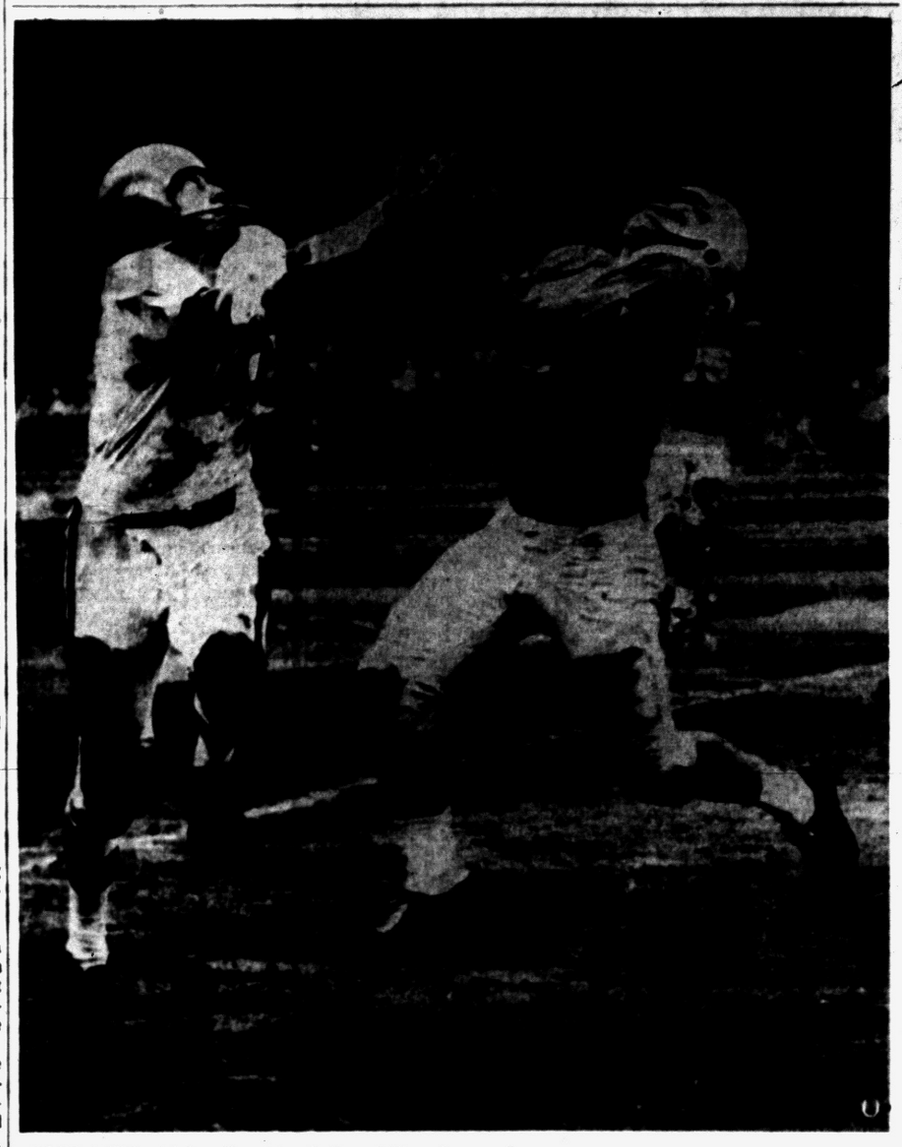
Passing twice to Renfro and once to end Pete Brewster for touchdowns, and in smashing over from the 5-yard line and 2 and 1-foot lines Graham set three playoff marks.

Graham's three touchdowns set title-game scoring marks with 18 points, most 6-pointers and most touchdowns by running. He bested the top efforts of any Chicago Bear in the Bears' all-time playoff rout of the Washington Redskins of 73-0 in 1940.

Lou (The Toe) Groza of Cleveland got into the title-game records with his eight conversions. That exceeded Bob Snyder's five extra points against Washington in 1943, and also the Bears' team-conversion total of seven against the Rediskins in 1940.



LEADER — Quarterback Otto Graham of the Cleveland Browns is pictured after he led his teammates to a 56-10 victory over the Detroit Lions for the National Football League title in Cleveland Sunday.



WITH THEIR EYES CLOSED—Both end Darrell Brewster (88) of the Cleveland Browns and back Carl Karlivacz of the Detroit Lions close their eyes as they grab for a 2nd period pass from Otto Graham intended for Brewster. The ball was finally recovered by Cleveland's Ray Renfro. Browns won, 56-10, to capture the National Football League championship.

Bows Out on Top!
'Mental Pressure' Is Too Much Says Otto Graham

CLEVELAND (AP)—Otto Graham, who says the "mental pressure" of T-formation quarterbacking is too much for a 33-year-old, bowed out of professional football Sunday amid the standing cheers of 43,827 fans.

Graham, who passed for three touchdowns and carried for three others, said definitely he was retiring after Cleveland's 56-10 championship victory over the Detroit Lions.

Cleveland fans, more demonstrative than ever before, poured from the stands and rimmed the sidelines two minutes before the game ended. Graham had to bull his way through backslappers to get to the dressing room.

Then, tugging off No. 14 Jersey, he smiled and said quietly:

Coach Paul Brown, surrounded by well-wishes in another part of the clubhouse, said he "hoped" Graham would reconsider.

The tension just before the kickoff prompted his decision, Graham explained. "I hate that pregame feeling and it gets worse and worse as the years go by . . . it affects your stomach."

He also pointed out that in T-formation play, the "pressure is on the quarterback . . . when he has a bad day the whole team is off."

Recalling the 17-16 title game licking the Lions handed the Browns last year, Graham said it made him "feel worse than I ever have in my whole life." He completed just 2 of 15 passes then for only 20 yards.

Sunday he connected on 9 of 12 pitches for 163 yards. His three scoring passes were the first he ever flipped against the Lions.

U.S. Holds Net Lead

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — America seized a firm, almost unbreakable grip on the Davis Cup Monday when two long-frustrated veterans, Tony Trabert and Vic Seixas, fought their way to almost identical four-set victories over young Australian foes in opening singles matches of the challenge round.

Trabert, tight-lipped and determined, cut down powerful Lewis Hoad in the first match, 6-4, 2-6, 12-10, 6-3. Seixas, scrapping 31-year-old United States champion, evened a long and embarrassing jinx by trouncing little Ken Rosewall, 8-6, 6-8, 6-4, 6-3.

"Two down and three to go," exultantly said Bill Talbert, nonplaying captain of the Americans as he congratulated his victorious athletes in the dressing room.

"We'll clinch the cup tomorrow in the doubles. And then Wednesday's final singles matches will be just a formality."

Only one other time in the history of this storied international tennis competition dating back to 1900 has a team lost the opening two singles and come back to victory.

That was in 1939 at Philadelphia where Australia's John Bromwich and Adrian Quist fell on the first day but rallied to win over America's Bobby Riggs and Frankie Parker.

In Tuesday's doubles, with the United States leading 2-0, America will send out Trabert and Seixas again against Australia's Hoad and Rosewall. The Americans, who have established themselves as the best in the world, will be overwhelmingly favored.

Harry Hopman, a disappointed Aussie captain, has the choice between Rosewall and Hoas or Rex Hartwig and Mervyn Rose, who have a brilliant doubles record.

Day's Passing Could Decide Sugar Bowl Tilt
Navy Rules 3-Point Pick, but Ole Miss. Has Aerial Star

NEW ORLEANS — Navy and Mississipi were set Monday to open final practice sessions for their New Years' Day football battle in the Sugar Bowl.

Navy Coach Eddie Erdelatz said he would hold workouts twice a day until Friday when he would send the team through a final polishing session. Mississippi Coach Johnny Vaught said he would hold afternoon workouts up until Friday's final light meeting.

Navy will drill at Tulane University while Mississippi will hold its sessions at Biloxi, Miss., about 90 miles from New Orleans on the Gulf Coast.

Navy rues a 3-pont favorite, mainly because of the Middies' 27-20 victory over powerful Army in the season finale.

But the Rebels have their own ideas about the game's outcome and the key to the game could well hinge on the passing arm of a 178-pound quarterback with the appropriate nickname Eagle.

Herman (Eagle) Day, a Mississippi native who completed 40 of 85 pass attempts during the Rebels 10-game season, may be the margin on which the Rebels are banking.

Navy quarterback George Welsh is better known than Day because of his starring role in the nationally televised upset of Army which earned Navy its Sugar Bowl bid.

The teams shape up about even statistically, both offensively and defensively. But Day has the upper hand over Welsh in the passing department as far as productiveness is concerned.

Welsh, a junior from Coaldale, Pa., completed 39 of 81 pass attempts, but his completions accounted for 527 yards, 350 yards less than Day.

The passing duel between Welsh and Day may prove to be the game's highlight although both teams have capable running attacks.

Frank Reagan, youthful coach at Villanova, is convinced Navy will have to be at its best to down the Rebels. Reagan's team lost 52-0 to Mississippi early in the season and dropped a pre-season scrimmage to Navy.

Navy wound up fifth in the final Associated Press poll while Mississipi took the No. 6 spot.

Navy carries a 7-2 record into Saturday's game while Mississippi's lone defeat on a 10-game schedule was by 6-0 to Arkansas, host team in the Cotton Bowl.

Duke, Nebraska Coaches Plan Saturday Surprises

"We plan to use the same lineup we were starting at the end of the season," Murray said. "Those are the boys who came through for us. We'll use some of our standard plays but we've been working on two or three things new."

Glassford, who substitutes by team units, said he has been juggling his players around a bit. One major change was boosting sophomore Don Comstock to the starting left halfback post. Comstock has a lot of power in his 6-foot frame and is fast.

"We're trying to adjust our backfield units to provide better balance and to come up with the best combination possible for this particular opponent," Glassford said.

Duke, the Atlantic Coast Conference champion with a record of seven victories, two defeats and one tie, is favored by two touchdowns over the Cornhuskers, who got the bowl nod with a 6-4 record because Big Seven champ Oklahoma was not eligible for the trip this year.

The squads flew to Miami by chartered plane Sunday. Both teams planned two workouts Monday and Tuesday with one each day thereafter.

Asked if he thought his boys would go out and mop up the field with Duke, Glassford replied with a grin:

Duke quarterback Jerry Barger said he had watched films of the Nebraska team and figured the Cornhuskers could be tough. His coach took a similar view.

"Nebraska has a good running attack," Murray commented. "It takes a lot of running to pile up 2,700 yards on the ground during the season."

Browns' Graham Sets Six Grid Playoff Marks

CLEVELAND (AP) — Quarterback Otto Graham says Cleveland's 56-10 National Football League playoff victory Monday over the Detroit Lions is the last football game in his 9-year career with the Browns.

Graham passed to Ray Renfro for 37-yard and 31-yard touchdowns and to Pete Brewster for a 10-yard score. That ran the totals for his 9-year pro career to 1,375 completed passes out of 2,417 attempts for 21,874 yards and 162 touchdowns. Only Sammy Baugh, who played 16 years for Washington, has a better record.

* * *

The three touchdowns Graham ran over from inside Detroit's 5-yard line were the most ever for one man in a pro championship game. Otto also retires with these playoff records from his five title championship games:

Most passes attempted, 134.
Most passes completed, 72.
Most yards gained passing, 952.
Most touchdown passes, 8.
Most points scored, one game, 18.

Siamese Trout Survive

CONCORD, N. H. (AP) — Survival of Siamese twins is about as rare in the wildlife world as anywhere else.

But this state's Laconia hatchery has such a pair approaching maturity. They are brook trout.

Big 7 Begins Cage Tourney
Phog Allen's Kansas Quint Enters Test With Unbeaten Mark

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Big Seven Conference's ninth basketball tournament opens Monday night, but it'll be after the first round before a championship favorite is established.

Opening the four-day meet in Municipal Auditorium at 8 p.m. (CST) will be the Colorado Buffaloes and Oklahoma's Sooners. Missuri and Nebraska follow at 9:30.

Completing the first round Tuesday night, and on the same time schedule will be Kansas and Iowa State, and Kansas State and the guest University of California Bears.

Record-wise, Coach Phog Allen's defending champion Kansas Jayhawks (4-0) boast the only perfect record in early play. But the Jayhawks have a rookie team with only one regular from last season, guard Dallas Dobbs.

California has the most impressive overall record. The Bears have seven victories against a single loss, a double overtime to College of Pacific.

Injury Puts Ed Furgol on Golf Sidelines
National Open Champ Out of Tourney Play Indefinitely

DALLAS (AP)—It's tough to have a withered left arm and lose the services of your right if playing golf is your business.

That's the predicament Ed Furgol, the National Open champion, is in. He hopes it's only temporary.

Furgol played championship golf last year winning several tournaments and the big one, although he has a rigid, withered left arm. It depends on his right arm for power using the left merely to guide the club.

The National Open king, stopping off here briefly Monday en route to Los Angeles for a newspaper dinner of champions, said he may have to quit the tournament trail for an indefinite period because of a ruptured muscle in his right arm.

He had an examination at Miami Saturday and said the specialist told him he had had another hemorrhage. He now is taking wet heat treatments.

Furgol only last week won the Havana Open but he said the arm pained him during the entire tournament.

Bengals Make Field Safe for Al Kaline

DETROIT (AP) — Workmen at Briggs Stadium have started taking out 75 box seats from the right field pavilion to make the corner safer for Tiger outfielder Al Kaline.

Though he finished the game a severe injury to his knee later developed because of the accident.

New Job for Devine

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Vaughn T. (Bing) Devine will be an administrative liason man in the St. Louis Cardinals' scouting and minor league department, moving up after six years as general manager of Rochester in the International League.

Rugged Pre-League Slate Faces St. Louis Quintet

ST. LOUIS (AP) — After you've played Indiana, Kentucky and LaSalle within seven days, you should be ready for anything in the Missouri Valley.

Maybe that's what Athletic Director and Basketball Coach Eddie Hickey was thinking when he arranged this week's lineup for his Billikens.

At any rate, Hickey has been a believer in tough schedules since he started at Creighton in 1936. And he's been nothing but successful, with five champions and seven runners-up.

Wichita and Detroit are the home teams in two holiday tournaments this week as the valley winds up pre-conference intersectional play with eight outside games.

The murderous three-game St. Louis set heads the list.

St. Louis meets Indiana, the Big Ten champion the past two years, here Monday night. Thursday the Billikens travel to face Kentucky, (5-0) unbeated in 30 straight games and ranked No. 1 in the nation. LaSalle, defending national champion, is here Sunday.

Detroit is favored to defend its Motor City Tourney crown against powerful Penn State (5-1) in the finals Tuesday at Detroit. In opening games Monday night, the Titans meet Toledo (1-5) and Penn State plays Wayne (2-5).

The Wichita meet isn't strictly a tournament, with the Wheatshockers already scheduled against Colorado A & M (3-2) Thursday. But the results are expected to make it look like one—Wichita is favored over Arizona (3-4) and Colorado A & M over Mississippi Southern (2-4) Wednesday.

In other games, Tulsa meets Arizona Monday night at Tulsa, then plays at Arkansas Saturday. Oklahoma A & M and Houston are idle.

Baylor, Auburn Wind Up Drills
Coaches Sauer, Jordan Both Seeking 1st Win in Bowl Game

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The Baylor Bears were scheduled to arrive here Monday and Auburn's football team will move in Tuesday to take final workouts for the Gator Bowl game Friday.

Coach George Sauer plans to hold drills for the Baylor players Tuesday and Wednesday, then a short workout Thursday.

Coach Ralph Jordan's Auburn Tigers reassembled on the campus in Alabama and will workout here three times before the game.

Sauer and Jordan both will be looking for their first bowl victory as a coach. Sauer's teams twice lost to Georgia Tech in the Orange Bowl—once when he coached at Kansas and once at Baylor. Jordan's first bowl team lost to Texas Tech in the Gator Bowl last Jan. 1.

Bucks, Trojans Buckle Down to Final Drills
Only 5 Days Remain to Prepare for Big Rose Bowl Test

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—The holiday is over and back to work for the final five days drills went the Ohio State and Southern California Rose Bowl football teams Monday.

Actually, there won't be too much hard labor on the schedule prior to the start of this 41st annual post-season attraction.

Latest word from the rival coaches, Woody Hayes of the champion Ohio Staters, and Jess Hill of USC, was that their squads have whipped into battle condition.

All that is needed is a general tapering off, and unless either team shows signs of tapering too fast, there'll be no hard contact at all.

During the final scrimmages a star for each team was banged up. Ohio State's halfback Howard (Hopalong) Cassady, sustained a hairline crack of the ninth rib but team physicians don't figure it will cause him trouble.

Southern California halfback Jon Arnett limped off the field Friday after suffering a twisted ankle. Medics said he incurred only a minor injury that won't keep him out of the game.

Each team has another problem case—fullback Hubert Bobo of the Buckeyes and right halfback Linden Crow of the Trojans. Both came up with late season knee injuries.

Coach Hill predicted Crow would be "ready and able" to go Saturday afternoon. Of Bobo, the 190-pounder from the quaintly named hamlet of Chauncey-Dover, Ohio, the team physician, Dr. Walter Duffee, observed:

"He'll be able to play maybe 58 minutes."

Crow, 187, the fastest of all the Trojans, is a dangerous runner and an exceptional defensive back. He was hurt in the UCLA game and sat out the Notre Dame game which USC dropped 23-17.

Fain Signs for '55; Terms Not Disclosed

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Tigers said today the club has received a 1955 contract agreement from Ferris Fain, newly acquired first baseman from the Chicago White Sox. No terms were disclosed.

Detroit got Fain, pitcher Leo Cristante and infielder Jack Phillips from Chicago Dec. 6 for outfielder Bob Neiman, 1st baseman Walt Dropo and pitcher Ted Gray.

Good 3-Year Record

Wayne University's basketball squads have lost no more than six games in any of the three past seasons. Coach Joel Mason's record from 1951-52 stands at 49 wins and 18 losses.

Sparrow, Arnelle Top Men
Penn State Is Rated Favorite as Motor City Tourney Opens at UD Fieldhouse

DETROIT (INS) — Annual Motor City basketball tournament opens tonight at the University of Detroit Memorial Building and the powerful Nittany Lions of Penn State have been installed as favorites over Detroit, Wayne University, and Toledo.

The Penn State crew has earned two NCAA tournament bids in three years and has virtually the same team which has played together for the last three years. Lions have in Jesse Arnelle a six-foot-five-inch center who is being mentioned for All-America honors this year.

Arnelle, who holds all scoring records at Penn State should engage in a scoring duel with Detroit's Guy Sparrow, who is also being groomed for All-America this year. Sparrow is averaging over 21 points a game for the Titans this year as Detroit has racked up seven wins against one loss.

Arnelle broke his own single game scoring record last week against Rutgers when he netted 41 points. His three year scoring total is 1,407 points and should he continue at his present pace he would approach the 2,000 mark.

On the other hand, Detroit's Sparrow has twice this season netted 30 points to pace the Titans to victory. The 6-5 former Pontiac high school forward scored 30 points in Detroit's upset win over Michigan State College early this season. Last Wednesday, Guy dumped in another 30 points to lead the Detroiters to a win over a troublesome Oregon five.

Incidentally, Sparrow, who had scored 1,008 points before the current campaign, is now ranked among the top 10 rebounders in the country.

North, South Split Christmas Features

Southerners on Top at Miami, by 20-17 Count

Victors Pack All of Scoring in 4th Frame in Shrine Tilt

MIAMI, Fla. (UP)—The South used a favorite defensive maneuver of professional football teams in beating the North 20-17 in the Shrine's College All Star game Christmas night.

South coach Andy Gustafson of Miami said he and Jim Tatum of Maryland, his assistant for the game, had four tackles in the lineup at times when the North drove deep into Rebel territory.

The game was played under free substitution rules, enabling Gustafson to do as the pros do —throw the big men into the line when the opposition gets in scoring range.

The North, coached by Ivy Williamson of Wisconsin and Bernie Crimmins of Indiana, drove inside the South's 25 on five occasions. Once the Yanks got a touchdown. The other four times the solid South defense forced field goal attempts by Minnesota's Jim Soltau. He made good on only one. The other North touchdown came on a 52-yard pass play from Indiana's Florian Helinski to Rhode Island's Pat Abbruzzi.

Maryland's Dick Bielski handled most of the South's fullbacking chores and was voted the outstanding player of the game, winning the honor over Wisconsin All America Alan Ameche, who starred for the North.

The South packed all its scoring into the final 16 minutes of the game. Bielski got the 1st touchdown with a 14-yard burst on the last play of the 3rd quarter, climaxing an 80-yard march. The bruising line buster gained all but 23 of those 80 yards.

The North still led 10-6, however, on Soltau's field goal and a touchdown by Michigan State's Zagers. And the Yanks quickly made it 17-6 on Abbruzzi's jaunt. The South marched 76 yards with the following kickoff for another touchdown, Ronnie Walker of Maryland going over from the one.

With seven minutes left in the game, Miami's Carl Garrigus intercepted a pass from Helinski and the South drove 34 yards in 10 plays, Carrigus scoring the winning touchdown from the two.

It was the South's 5th victory in seven college all star games.

Heavies Meet in TV Feature

NEW YORK (UP) — Heavyweights Dan Bucceroni and Cesar Brion meet tonight in what could be billed as a battle for survival at New York's St. Nicholas Arena (DuMont-TV, 10 p.m., EST.).

Although neither has been doing well of late, they still possess formidable won-lost records. Bucceroni, of Philadelphia, has a 46-5 slate with 30 knockouts. Brion's record is 43-10 with 20 kayos.

The heavyweight class being what it is today, it doesn't take more than two good showings to get back in the rankings. It only took two wins by Charley Norkus to get back in the money, and Bucceroni and Brion hope to do the same.

Wildcat Billy McNeece, a crowd pleasing 22-year old middleweight from Islip, N. Y., takes on veteran Bobby Dykes of Miami at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway in the other TV show tonight (ABC-TV, 10 p.m., EST).

Georgia Tech Well-Schooled in Bowl Games

Arkansas' Foe Will Be in Major Tilt for 4th Straight Year

DALLAS (UP)—If experience is the payoff, Georgia Tech should win the Cotton Bowl football game in a breeze next Saturday.

The Yellow Jackets, who clash with Arkansas in the Dallas feature, have been in so many bowl games they're as common as regular season contests. This is the fourth straight year for Tech to play in a major bowl and there are three members of the team who have made all of them.

The three are Larry Morris, the great center; Buddy Jones, end, and Ben Daugherty, tackle. Bill Brigman, quarterback, was on the squad in 1952 when Morris, Jones and Daughterty, then freshmen, played against Baylor in the Orange Bowl, winning 17-14. Brigman, however, didn't get in that game.

Morris, Jones and Daugherty have never known anything except victory in bowl warfare because Tech beat Mississippi 24-7 in the 1953 Sugar Bowl and West Virginia 42-19 in the 1954 Sugar Bowl.

Arkansas doesn't even have the same coach when it last appeared in a bowl game — the Dixie Bowl in 1948.

But Arkansas beat a lot of teams with much more experience during the 1954 campaign and won't be frightened by Georgia Tech's great bowl record. In individual stars, the Razorbacks are as good or better than Tech. Henry Moore, the Razorback fullback, gained 667 yards rushing compared to 442 for Tech's top runner, Jimmy Thompson.

Argentine Boxer Gets Award for 'Progress'

NEW YORK (UP)—Little Pascual Perez of Argentina, who hammered from obscurity to the world flyweight championship in 1954, was named winner of the "progress-of-the-year" award today by the Ring magazine.

He joins the magazine's other two outstanding performers of 1954, heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano "fighter of the year" and lightweight Frankie Ryff of New York "rookie of the year," who were announced last night.

Perez, new king of the 112-pounders, was such a stranger outside Argentine a year ago that he wasn't even listed in the Ring Magazine's ratings.

It's Time Out!

Bowling Clinic

By BILLY SIXTY

CASE—Down at the Line.

A lot of young bowlers fail to reach stardom because they try to put too much stuff on the ball. They throw the ball, instead of sending it away smoothly.

As Basil (Buzz) Fazio of Detroit puts it: "A rolling ball gathers the pins." The action sketch of Fazio illustrates what he means: Perfectly balanced and fully relaxed, he is finishing his slide on the left foot, body well down at the line.

Thus he releases the ball on, or slightly behind, the foul line (an inch or so), with an easy arm swing. Note the position of the hand. The thumb and index finger form a perfect "V" at release, with the third and little fingers to apply what little spin Fazio gives the ball for hook break. He employs what is called a "rolling-spinner" that breaks short, is easy to control on either slow or fast ally surfaces, and has great spiller power.

Try Fazio's treatment: Instead of pitching the ball far out on the alley, release it easily on the foul line. The accuracy you acquire quickly will surprise you.

Easy Victories Posted in Union Basketball Play

Local 653 and Local 596 took easy victories last night in UAW-CIO Basketball League play at Eastern Junior High.

Morris collected 23 points to lead Local 653 to a 54-32 victory over Milford CIO 898. Smith's 14 points sparked "596" to a 43-23 triumph over Local 594.

UM's Baer Gets Winning Tally at Montgomery

Grabs Aerial in Last Period to Give Blues 14-7 Victory

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UP) — The North threw a couple of Missouri quarterbacks at the South here Saturday to swap a five-game Rebel winning streak and give the Yankees a 14-7 victory in the Blue-Gray football game.

Vic Eaton and Tony Scardino, both of Missouri, provided the Yanks with their scoring punch.

Eaton fired an aerial to fullback Fred Baer of Michigan on the 2nd play of the 4th quarter for the winning tally at the end of an 86-yard drive.

Scardino passed 37 yards to end Charles Fairbanks of Michigan State to set up the other North touchdown in the 1st period. Oklahoma's Bob Herndon dived over for the score to climax a 50-yard march.

Dick Shipley, Maryland tackle, kicked both North extra points.

The South missed a good scoring chance in the 1st period when Alabama's Corky Tharp fumbled on 4th down at the North one.

It was midway in the 4th quarter before the South got its scoring drive going. Jerry Johnson of Texas Tech started the move by returning a punt 2 yards to the Gray 39.

Then, with Louisiana State's Al Doggett doing the quarterbacking, the Rebels moved for a touchdown in 10 plays. A 29-yard pass from Doggett to VPI back Howie Wright was the scoring play. Doggett kicked the extra point

Big 10 Quints in Final Tests

Conference Play to Start Saturday With Illini-Wisconsin

CHICAGO (UP) — Three Big Ten teams swing into action tonight in the final week of pre-conference games before Illinois and Wisconsin open the Western Conference title chase Saturday.

Minnesota moved into the North Carolina State tournament while Indiana is at St. Louis and Butler is at Northwestern.

Gophers take a record of three victories and two losses into the Southeast.

Indiana, the defending Big Ten champion, has the worst record among Big Ten teams. The Hoosiers, with two triumphs and four losses, are hoping for a victory tonight before opening defense of their title against Michigan next Monday.

Northwestern will be out to avenge last week's 83-62 defeat at the hands of Butler. It was Butler's 1st victory against Big Ten teams this season after four successive losses.

Major Clubs Won't Accept Cash for Star

Seller Loses Money on Taxes, Might Lose Fans as Well

NEW YORK (INS)—You read from time to time of a major league club making a fabulous offer for a certain ball player, and you probably think the offer was just so much free advertising.

Not at all. As a matter of fact, it is almost impossible these days to buy an established star for cash.

Some years ago Bob Carpenter of the Phillies (who will outbid anybody) made an actual offer of $1,400,000 for a parcel of players and was turned down cold.

Not too long ago, Gabe Paul of the Cincinnati Redlegs, offered a certified check of $350,000 for a certain player. He also got a cold shoulder.

The answer, according to baseball people is simple.

Here's how Fresco Thompson, shrewd vice president of the Dodgers, explains it:

"Suppose your profit for the year is $100,000. You are offered $300,000 for a single star. Suppose you sell him. Your profit for the year is then $400,000, which immediately puts you a way up in the income tax brackets.

"So if you accept the offer, you have very little cash to show for your sale after taxes, and you are minus a great ball player. And where do you suppose that leaves you with your fans?"

Wardrop Upsets Jones in Holiday Swimming Meet

Jack Wardrop of the University of Michigan defeated Wolverine teammate Burell (Bumpy) Jones in the 165-yard individual medley yesterday to turn in one of the top upsets of the annual East-West swimming meet.

Western swimmers splashed to a 219-174 victory over their eastern rivals in the meet.

Jones, holder of the NCAA and AAU championships, led Wardrop through the 1st two laps but faded in the final rush and Wardrop beat him to the final marker by five yards.

Other Michigan entries helped the East in other events. Pete Dow finished 5th in the 55-yard freestyle. Jim Thurlow anchored the West's winning 220-yard breaststroke relay team and finished 4th in the 110-yard breaststroke; Harrison Wehner placed 4th in the 220-yard freestyle.

Tom Prunk took 6th in the 440-yard free-style. Bert Wardrop was 2nd on the 110-yard breaststroke. Mike Delaney was 5th in the 110-yard butterfly.

Segregation Comes to End in Sugar Bowl

NEW ORLEANS (UP) — A 20-year-old tradition will end New Year's Day when a non-segregated crowd will attend the Sugar Bowl football game.

Navy, whose team plays Mississippi in the game, started the tradition crumbling when it announced its 13,000 tickets to the game would be distributed without regard to race.

Smith, Andrews Ease Training for Fight

MIAMI, Fla. (UP) — Only light workouts remain on the training schedules of light heavyweight contenders Boardwalk Billy Smith and Paul Andrews who meet Wednesday night in a scheduled 10-round boxing match at Dinner Key Auditorium.

The fighters were in 'tip-top condition" said their trainers, for the nationally televised fight (CBS).

Final Period Goal by Howe Keeps Wings Up

Tie Leaves Detroit Just 3 Points From Leading Canucks

DETROIT (UP) — Gordie Howe scored suddenly and unexpectedly in the final period last night to give the Detroit Red Wings a 1-1 tie with the Toronto Maple Leafs in a National Hockey League game at Olympia.

Midway through the period Howe snagged a loose puck in the Toronto zone and flashed a 15-foot backhander high and true past goalie Harry Lumley.

It was Howe's 11th goal of the season and kept the Wings 3 points ahead of the Leafs in the NHL race. The tie also pulled the Detroit club to within 3 points of the league-leading Montreal Canadiens, who were idle.

Leafs had nursed a 1-0 lead on a freak 1st period tally by Rudy Migay. Migay lofted a 90-footer which landed in front of Terry Sawchuk, took a crazy bounce and slid between Sawchuck's legs into the net.

Referee Frank Udvari called 13 penalties in the 1st two periods. His strict whistle eliminated a lot of roughhousing but tamed the game considerably, since both sides were continually shorthanded.

This didn't go over too well with the 13,105 fans, who started stamping their feet for excitement. They got it in the last 10 minutes as the Wings drove in earnest to push the tie into a victory.

Canada's first curling club was formed in Montreal in 1807. It is still in existence under the name "Royal Montreal Curling Club."

Prosperity Stages Return for Entertainment World

Movies, television, radio and the theater all prospered in 1954. For Hollywood it was the year when the public came back to see its shows.

Helped by a rash of new dimensions and screen sizes, producers broke through the bored attitude of the customers which brought panic in studio streets and a nosedive of profits. The novelty has worn off the extra-size screens, but box offices continue to report good business.

Names of the new types of projection tended to confuse the public. There are CinemaScope, Cinerama, SuperScope, Vista-Vision, Todd-AO and others.

At least one three-dimensional method has passed into virtual oblivion. But whatever the names mean, the techniques offered excitement to the movie goer.

Among the shows that drew big money were: "Caine Mutiny," "On the Waterfront," "Magnificent Obsession," "A Star is Born," "The Glenn Miller Story," "The High and the Mighty," "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers," "Rear Window," "Executive Suite," "Dragnet" and "Sabrina."

The New York stage saw top hits in "Peter Pan," "Dear Charles and musicals like "Fanny," "Can Can" and "The Pajama Game."

There were several extended runs for solo stars, notably Victor Borge in his "Comedy in Music."

Television got new talent. Comedian George Gobel was one of the top new hits and Walt Disney put a show on TV screens. Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca went into seperate shows and there were more hour-long live dramas.

There were a number of shows broadcast in color, but only 5,000 color sets were sold, compared to 6,000,000 black and white.

CBS Planning Grants to 14 Private Schools

NEW YORK (UP)—The Columbia Broadcasting System has announced a new formula for its gifts to private colleges and universities. It is based on repaying the expenses of educating men who are now CBS executives.

The network said yesterday it will give $32,000 this year to 14 colleages and universities in the first of a number of annual grants.

These contributions represent $2,000 given for each of 16 graduates holding top posts in the network.

Dr. Frank Stanton, CBS president, explained that publicly-supported schools are excluded from the plan because CBS already contributes to them "through taxes at its various locations throughout the country."

Funeral Service Today for Veteran Musician

BATTLE CREEK (UP)—Funeral services were held today for Col. Joe Antonio Martin, 52, director of the Athens High School band, who died en route to a hospital.

Martin suffered a heart attack two months ago.

A clarinetist, he played with the Brown Saxophone Sextet and in Irving Berlin's Music-Box Revue. Martin was an infantry officer in the Normandy beachhead invasion during World War II. He was a native of Rome and came here at the age of four.

Japanese Population Hits 88 Million Mark

TOKYO (UP)—Japan's population hit an estimated total of 88,290,000 last Oct. 1, the government's statistics bureau announced today.

This was an increase of 1,260,000 over the 1953 estimate. Men outnumbered women in the new estimate—44,910,000 males and 43,380,000 females, the government said.

Judy, Brando Tops in Filmland

By CHESTER B. BAHN

NEW YORK — Marlon Brando, starred in Columbia's "On the Waterfront," and Judy Garland, starred in Transcona Enterprises' "A Star Is Born," distributed by Warners, emerge today as easy top winners in The Film Daily's annual Filmdom's Famous Fives natonal critics' poll to determine the outstanding screen performances of 1954.

Voting in the poll by invitation were the country's press and magazine critics and reviewers and broadcasting's commentators upon motion pictures.

Brando and Miss Garland, who returned to the screen in "A Star Is Born" after an absence of some time, far outstrip all others in their respective categories, best performances by male and female stars. Brando's Terry Malloy in the tensely dramatic and action-packed waterfront drama was a cameo-cut characterization; Mrs. Garland's Vicki Lester in the Hollywood saga was finely etched, warmly human.

Both "On the Waterfront" and "A Star Is Born," also win for several concerned with their making other prized FFF accolades. James Mason's Norman Maine places him third in the best male star performance classification, a Jack Carson's delineation of Libby in the same picture secures for him the fifth place in the best performance by supporting actor category. George Cukor, who directed the picture, takes the same numerical directional niche.

"On the Waterfront" does even better for those identified with its production. Elia Kazan is the choice for the year's best director, although pressed closely in the balloting by Alfred Hitchcock, whose "Rear Window" obviously also made a tremendous critical impression.

As the No. 1 "find" of 1954 the critics and commentators select Eva Marie Saint and for her finely done Edie Doyle she is also named one of the five female stars to give outstanding performances, placing fifth.

Two of the "On the Waterfront" cast are numbered among the five suporting actors chosen for FFF honors. They are Karl Malden, the picture's Father Barry, who placed second, and Lee J. Cobb, seen as Johnny Friendly, who finished fourth.

Budd Schulberg's "On the Waterfront" screenplay is picked as the year's best, and in the best photographed picture category, the camera work of Boris Kaufman is runner up to that of Milton Krasner, A. S. C., for Twentith-Fox's "Three Coins in a Fountain."

Humphrey Bogart's brilliantly done Capt. Francis Queeg in "Caine Mutiny," produced for Columbia by Stanley Kramer, was highly favored by the critics emerges as runnerup to Brando. James Stewart and William Holden finished fourth and fifth, respectively, in the male star voting, the former for his excellent Jeff in Paramount's "Rear Window," the latter for his fine Bernie Dodd in Paramount's "The Country Girl."

While Miss Garland had something of a walkaway, there was something of a battle waged between Jane Wyman and Audrey Hepburn for the runner up spot. Miss Wyman's unforgettable Helen Phillips in Universal's "Magnificent Obsession" finally made her the winner, Miss Hepburn taking third place. Her Sabrina Fairchild in Paramount's "Sabrina" is one of 1954's delights.

The voters have two ballot bouquets for Grace Kelly. Her interpretation of Lisa Fremond in Paramount's "Rear Window" won her enough votes to follow Miss Hepburn in the performance ratings, and she was voted second only to Miss Saint as the year's top "find."

In the instances of best performances by supporting actors and actresses, there was a remarkable scattering of votes among many players. The victors in the two categories are Edmond O'Brien, seen as Oscar Muldoon in Joseph L. Mankiewicz's "Barefoot Contessa,' distributed by United Artists, and Thelma Ritter, the Stella of Warner's "Rear Window."

Jose Ferrers Lt. Barney Greenwald in "Caine Muntiny" wins him third place among the supporting actors, the critics thus making their own arbitrary category distinction.

Two actresses seen in Warner's "High and the Mighty" are among those picked for best supporting actress performance honors. Jan Sterling, the pictures Sally McKee, is runner up to Miss Ritter; Claire Trevor, who played May Holst, places fifth. Others chosen are Nina Foch, the Erica Martin in Metro's "Executive Suite," who finishes third, and Agnes Moorehead, the Nancy Ashford in Universal's "Magnificent Obsession," with only a few votes less.

MOST BEAUTIFUL LEGS?—As far as Adelle August, Lucy Marlow and Jand Mason are concerned, they have the solution to producer Jonie Tops' search for the world's most beautiful legs. The trio demonstrate they are ready to match legs with any contenders as they walk down a Hollywood movie set.

Music Assists Screen Story

A Few Bars Can Do More Than Words to Create Impression

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — A screen writer has made the startling statement that there's at least one guy who can tell a story faster and better than he can.

The author of this inter-departmental admiration group is Howard Estabrook, and his tribute went to the music score composer, a man who never turns out a word of script.

Estabrook, who is not a musician, never ceases to be amazed at what "background music" can do to a film — what it can convey to the audience about a situation or a character.

"And in so little time, too," Estabrook noted. "It would take plenty of words in many instances to express what a minute or so of good music can get across.

"To realize how music has so much to do with telling a story, you should see a movie before and after the music is added. If the music doesn't go with the dialogue, you'll notice it and probably listen to the music.

'Take an instance in which we have a gentle, old man who displays by word and manner a kind, loving attitude toward a grandchild. No matter what this man says later, he can be changed just about instantly if a few bars of sinister-sounding music are injected every time the old man appears on the screen.

"No matter how good he seems, the audience will suspect him."

Television leans more heavily on music in this manner because a story must be told more quickly, Estabrook said, and the same idea frequently prevails in shorter westerns. Music can tell an audience that the Indians have been routed, the fort has been saved and all's well, he pointed out, along with only a few feet of film.

Estabrook, who worked on "Passion" and "Cattle Queen of Montana," said he writes with an idea of what the music score is going to be saying.

Mother Stabs Baby Boy 136 Times, Tries Suicide

ATLANTA (INS)—A housewife, who stabbed her 18-month-old son 136 times and then tried to kill herself, was in "fair" condition today at an Atlanta hospital.

Police, answering a call by Mrs. Dolores Degalleford yesterday, found the body of the child, Stephen Russell punctured with 136 wounds. The mother was cut about the neck and wrist.

Detroit Jails 31 Drivers

Marlon Brando, Marilyn Monroe Figures of Year

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Curvaceous Marilyn Monroe and muscular Marlon Brando are the figures of the year in Hollywood.

As another hetic Hollywood year comes to a close, it's time to assess the happenings of 1954. The year brought fewer scandals, more marriages, less divorces, longer pictures, better acting and less new talent than other years. Business was good, and there was little of the panic talk that had plagued the film industry from 1948 to 1953.

Marilyn Monroe was the top female personality in Hollywood during 1954. Her studio suspension, marriage and divorce from Joe DiMaggio made headlines everywhere. All she had to do was stand over a sidewalk grate in New York. Whoosh! Her picture was on all the front pages.

Brando drew almost as much attention. He walked out on "The Egyptian," was sued for millions, settled things by playing Napoleon. He journeyed to France, got himself engaged to the stepdaughter of a fisherman. Besides his personal adventures, many critics hailed him as best actor since John Barrymore.

Borough of Queens Spends Quiet Yule

NEW YORK (UP — The heavily populated borough of Queens was filled with peace and goodwill on Christmas Day.

For the first time in the memory of court officials not one of the borough's 1,629,000 citizens was arrested on a felony charge and Magistrate Albert Shanzer had the day off just like everybody else—for lack of business.

Fire Destroys Hospital;

TOKYO (AP)—Wind-driven flames destroyed most of a small Japanese hospital today but all 100 patients were carried to safety with the help of Americans from nearby U. S. Air Force bases.

Three entire wards of the Fussa City Hospital burned down before the blaze was doused by Japanese firemen and Air Force firefighting teams.

U.S. Launches Big Research Assault on Secrets Locked Within Antarctica

WASHINGTON — The United States is again preparing a "major research" assault on secrets locked in the great white wastes of the Antarctic.

Since the early 1770s, when Captain James Cook circled the ice-barricaded southernmost continent without catching sight of it, men of many nations have probed the Antarctic, says the National Geographic Society.

Yet despite daring thrusts to the South Pole, modern aerial surveys, and patient scientific studies carried on at lonely, snowbound camps, much of this last land frontier of the world remains shrouded in mystery.

The first stage of the current American project is under the direction of the United States Navy, which will send out an icebreaker in December during the Antactic summer.

Other expeditions are expected to continue the work through several seasons, culminating in United States participation in the International Geophysical Year of 1957-58. At that time worldwide scientific findings will be correlated by cooperating countries.

The American explorers will collect information on the Antarctic's geography, its resources and atmosphere, the melting polar cap, the effect of the chilly land mass on the world's weather, and problems of transport and supply. Some preliminary camp building is planned.

The last expeditions sent out from the United States were in 1946-47 and 1946-48. They were directed respectively by the United States Navy and an independent Antarctic explorer, Commander Finn Ronne (USNR).

The Navy undertaking—led by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd—was the largest in polar history. Four thousand men and 13 ships took part.

Out of Operation Highjump, as it was officially called, came new facts for mapmakers, geologists, meteorologists and biologists. Photo-mapping airplanes based at Little America made 20 inland flights that reached toward the Pole and beyond. Seaplanes from offshore tenders mapped most of the coastline. High mountain ranges, peninsulas, islands and seas were charted for the first time. To their surprise, the explorers came on ice-free "oases" of green lakes and brown hills.

The Ronne expedition, carrying on through the Antarctic winter of 1947, found evidence that the continent is one piece, and not, as had been theorized, split by a strait between the Weddell and Ross Seas.

Meantime, other nations were setting up temporary and permanent bases. Seven countries—Britain, France, Australia, Norway, Argentina, Chile and New Zealand—have claimed portions of the continent. The United States, however, has made no claim and recognized none.

On the map, the broad mass of Antarctica still stands significantly blank. Only around the fringes and here and there in the interior are place names hinting at man's hard-won success. Among them are the broad stretches of land, seas, bays, glaciers and islands named for such pioneers as Palmer, Bellingshausen, Wilkes, D'Urville and Shackleton; for Amundsen and Scott who slogged to the Pole; and for airmen Wilkins, Byrd and Ellsworth.

Admiral Byrd, a life trustee of the National Geographic Society and technical adviser for the Navy's forthcoming expedition, was the first man to fly over both North and South Poles. He has led four American expeditions to the Antarctic, the first two of which were aided by substantial grants from the society.

Five-Legged Frog Seen

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UP)—Thirteen-year-old Gerard Gerstner, the envy of his playmates, may have a champion jumping frog.

Young Gerard is the proud possessor of a frog that has five legs. The youth, a frog-hunting enthusiast, found Freddie when the latter was just a tadpole.

"People may laugh at Freddie because he's got five legs," he said. "But just wait until he becomes the champion."

Gerard hopes that Freddie, with the extra jump-off power afforded by the fifth leg, some day will beat the 19-foot championship leap made by Gas House Gus in Sarasota, Fla., in 1936.

The U. S. weather bureau was organized under control of the Department of Agriculture July 1, 1891.

Drought Break Spurs Wheat

CHICAGO, Dec. 27 (AP)—An unexpected break in the dry weather which has prevailed over much of the Southwest for many weeks created selling in wheat futures on the Board of Trade today.

At the start wheat had losses averaging around two cents, old crop months selling off with the new crop futures. The bread grain showed no ability to rally in subsequent trading. Soybeans eased but feed grains held steady.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was 1¼ to 2¾ lower, March $2.31½; corn unchanged to ½ higher, March $1.56; oats unchanged to ¼ lower, March 80; rye ¾ to 1¾ lower, March $1.15¾; soybeans ¼ to ¾ lower, January $2.81; lard 15 cents lower to 5 cents a hundred pounds higher, January $13.02.

Supplies Held Grains Down

Farm Price Supports Prevented Debacle in '54; Soy Is Exception

CHICAGO (AP) — Big supplies acted to prevent any run away upsurge in grain prices in 1954 while the government support program prevented any price debacle.

One result of this situation was that the government was saddled with huge supplies of grain and confronted with the problem of how to get rid of them.

Only exception to this pattern was soybeans, where a wild time was enjoyed by all as a result of a poor 1953 crop.

A national wheat acreage allotment of 62 million acres was set for the 1954 crop. As a result, production was cut to 959,258,000 bushels from 1,168,836,000 in 1953. Prices were supported at 90 per cent of parity.

For next year, acreage allotments will be down to 55 million acres. The government support price also will be down—to 82½ per cent of parity. This lower support results from passage of the 1954 flexible price support law.

The Agriculture Department expects the reduced acreage at least to slow down the pace at which wheat stocks have been building up. Even so, it thinks the carryover on July 1, 1955, will total about one billion bushels, up 100 carryover July 1, 1954.

"Because of the very large supplies of wheat, prices will continue to be maintained by the support program," the department predicts.

Wheat futures prices on the Chicago Board of Trade reached their low in June, climbing slowly thereafter as more wheat was tied up in the government loan. December wheat set a low of $1.95¾ on June 17. By the end of November it was up to $2.30.

Acreage allotments on corn, calling for a reduction of 17.4 per cent in planted acreage in the commercial producing area, were proclaimed. Total production, both inside and outside the commercial area, was 2,939,000,000 bushels, down 7.5 per cent from a year ago.

This total is not as much corn as is normally consumed in one year, but there's an enormous carryover from previous crops.

High price for corn in the Chicago cash market was $1.72 a bushel on Sept. 9 and 10, just before the new crop started to come to market. By the end of September the price had fallen to $1.52. The December corn future set a low of $1.39⅜ on June 1, but was back to $1.60 in December.

Production of both oats and rye were higher than in the previous year. An important factor in maintaining price levels, however, was imposition of quotas limiting the amount of imports. This applied particularly to Canada.

Cash oats sold at a low of 69½ cents a bushel on July 12. By Oct. 29 the same grade was at a high of 88½. The amount of rye sold in the cash market at Chicago was insignificant. Prices ranged from $1.16 in July to $1.60 in October.

DETROIT (INS) — The CIO-United Auto Workers today ordered an immediate end to a wildcat strike of 42 grinders which tied up the Mack plant of Chrysler's Automotive Body Division this morning, halted Plymouth assembly and idled 8,000 workers.

Instructions to end the unauthorized walkout were issued by Ken Morris, president of UAW Local 212, less than three hours after the company was forced to send 5,000 home from the Mack plant.

French Crisis Affects Stocks

NEW YORK (AP) — The Stock Market declined moderately today in the face of tax selling and uncertainties of the French political situation.

Prices were down around 2 points at the worst. Plus signs were scattered and seldom large, although some went to around 2 points.

Trading was in the neighborhood of Thursday when the total was 3,310,000 shares in a rising market.

This is the final day that stocks can be sold for regular four-day delivery and have profits counted on the 1954 tax bill. Selling for 1954 tax losses can continue regularly to the end of the year.

Premier Mendes-France staked the life of his Cabinet on a vote of confidence over West Germany's entrance into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. There was little or no disposition in Wall street to regard the French action as a threat to market stability, but some brokers felt a word of caution was necessary.

The market opened higher and then swung lower all around. Motors were down from the start, and other major divisions soon joined them.

Troy to Discuss Sewer Plans, Liquor License

TROY TOWNSHIP — Consideration of plans for the Evergreen Interceptor Sewer district will be the main business at the board meeting of Troy Township at 7:30 p.m. today.

The board will also talk of the $1,233 share of the township in the disposal plan. An application of the Silver Moon Bar, 1090 Rochester Rd., to add Ronald Phillips and Floyd Carns as partners, and ask a class C liquor license will be considered.

A resolution to ask representatives in the state legislature to reassess the drain law on benefitted property will also be discussed.

Birth Rate Predicts Problem of Future

in 30's. Thus fewer new families than in recent past. (2) The "undoubling" of families, going on since war, seems at an end. We can expect a gradual tapering off of new houses in about another year.

But another big boom, starting in early 60's, is almost sure. The wave of births in past 15 years will become a wave of marriages then, creating demand for millions of homes; a bigger boom than at present.

Remodeling of old houses and rehabilitation of seedy areas; all reports indicate a coming rise in these and a buttress to building.

Suburbs are growing three times as fast as the downtown areas, and in many cities, the central areas are even shrinking.

One third of all women have jobs outside the home. Proportion changes from year to year. Over long pull it is increasing. And about 31 per cent of all workers are women, considering all lines, all jobs.

People are living longer, many more beyond age 65. Fifty years ago, the people past age 65 were 4 per cent. In 1950, they were 8 per cent. Twenty years from now the people past age 65 will be 11 per cent . . . still rising.

Our people are still moving (although less) so some states grow, some shrink, some are static. Southeast states, growing fast in business. Texas is still spectacular. New England is lagging, excepting only Connecticut. The big industrial states aren't keeping pace in creating new businesses. Florida is now growing at a faster rate than her old rival state of California. But California in 10 years promises to be number one state, bigger than New York State.

In the past five years Michigan's population growth has been 10 per cent; new business growth, 1 per cent. The average is 6 and 4 per cent, respectively.

Widows outnumber widowers, because men die younger than women, and also because men are older than their wives. Divorce is now about level, or slightly-statistically downward. Almost 3 out of 4 of all divorcees remarry, after wait of about 3 years.

U.S. population now, 164 million, should be about 220 million by 1975. Each new estimate is higher than the one before, amazingly so.

In summary, Kiplinger's report says: "This country is growing in many ways. In people. In resources. In ingenuity. In standard of living. In energy which makes for progress. It is anything but static. People with vision see great expansion ahead, the years ahead. To expect it and to plan on it . . . that is realistic."

Wife's Death Follows Rescue

Driver Holds Mate's Head Above Water in Long Vigil

A 56-year-old Williams Lake woman, trapped for more than seven hours with her husband in their overturned automobile near Gallipolis, Ohio, died on Christmas after being rescued from the wrecked car.

Mrs. Estelle Overstreet, whose husband, Robert, held her head above water in the ditch where the car over-turned, died en route to Holzer Hospital in Gallipolis.

Her husband, also 56, is suffering from exposure and shock but is reported in good condition.

Their car turned over about midnight Christmas Eve in a ditch along U.S. 35, a heavily traveled route between Dayton and Charleston, W. Va. They were on their way to visit a daughter, Mrs. Homer A. Thurman Jr., of Cedar Grove, about 20 miles from Charleston.

Throughout the night-long ordeal Overstreet held his wife's head above water which seeped into the car from the ditch. A passing motorist discovered the couple and called for help.

Gallia County Coroner Donald R. Warehime said he placed the time of the accident at about midnight because a watch on Mrs. Overstreet's arm was stopped at that time.

He said she died from exposure and shock.

Overstreet said he never lost consciousness though his wife was unconscious when taken from the car.

Mr. and Mrs. Overstreet were living with their daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Loren Hossler, 6846 Brightwood, Williams Lake. Mr. and Mrs. Hossler left Christmas day to attend the funeral at Cedar Grove.

Probing Crash of British Plane

28 Killed When Airliner Overturns on Runway at Scottish Field

PRESTWICK, Scotland (AP)—Investigators trying to discover the cause of the crash of a transatlantic plane which killed 28 persons here Christmas Day concentrated study today on three ruts the ship made as it landed.

The plane, a British Overseas Airways Corporation stratocruiser traveling between London and New York, touched down here, turned over and caught fire. Only eight of the 36 aboard survived.

From a study of the marks, the investigators said they believed the ship hit the soft ground 20 feet short of a cement runway, bounced 200 yards, struck the runway, skidded and then turned over.

* * *

The captain of the wrecked airliner, Capt. W. L. Stewart, who had been confined to his room here for questioning by the investigators was allowed to fly to London today to be with his family.

Investigators refused to let the plane's wreckage be moved, saying they want to study it further. They also continued to collect all at the time of the crash.
the available weather information

The crash victims included two Americans, Dr. and Mrs. Walter C. Mayland of Evanston, Ill., and a British subject, Kenneth R. Davidson, who lived at Bronxville, N.Y. Davidson, 49, was a former world's amateur badminton champion.

Dr. Small Takes Gifts to Officials at Allegan

ALLEGAN (UP) — Dr. Kenneth B. Small, Detroit society dentist found innocent here by reason of temporary insanity in the slaying of his wife's wealthy New York lover, remembered his friends in Allegan at Christmas.

Small sent Christmas cards to "quite a few" friends he made in Allegan during the 2½ months he was jailed here after the shooting during the Memorial Day weekend this year. Then he slipped into this western Michigan community the day before Christmas to deliver yuletide presents to a few friends.

Small, who told his friends here that he is again practicing dentistry in Detroit and "doing fine," gave gifts to almost everyone on the Allegan County Sheriff's Department as well as Allegan City Police.

4 Injured as Autos Crash in Southfield

In fair condition today at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital is Mrs. Malinda Dillickrath, 66, of 27620 Eurika, Romulus, with forehead cuts and leg injuries.

Treated at the hospital were her husband, Edward, 64, (chest and jaw injuries), Paul Chandler, 33, of 36910 12-Mile Rd, (forehead injuries), and Chandler's wife, Dorothy, 32, (leg injuries).

Southfield Township Patrolmen Melton Sackett and William Reed said Chandler attempted to turn onto Northwestern and drove into the path of Dillickrath's auto.

No Drinking Drive Nets Three Motorists

Three Pontiac motorists were scheduled to appear in Municipal Court today after spending the Christmas weekend in the Oakland County Jail on drunk driving charges, according to Pontiac Police.

The rigid policy that "drunk drivers go to jail" started here Friday afternoon when police agencies and judges ordered the crackdown on drunk drivers to avert possible deaths due to traffic accidents.

One of the arrested motorists was involved in a property damage accident and another was apprehended while drinking from a bottle of beer and driving his auto at the same time. The third was driving unsteadily, said police.

Police Chief Herbert W. Straley today said the strict order would continue, especially this week-and next weekend.

"We will continue jailing all drunk drivers as fast as we are able to arrest them," said Straley. "Drunk driving is one of the greatest causes for traffic deaths."

OYSTER RECORD—Paris restaurant employe William Bley claims his feat of shucking 100 oysters in three minutes, fifty-seven seconds, gives him the world title.

Eisenhower Will Run Again in 1956 – Duff

WASHINGTON (INS) — Sen. James H. Duff (R-Pa), predicted today President Eisenhower will run for re-election in 1956, sweep to victory and put Pennsylvania back in the Republican column.

Duff was one of the first Republicans to urge the nomination and election of Eisenhower in 1951 when the general was serving in Europe as NATO commander.

Duff declined to discuss any moves being made to push the president's renomination but said: "I think he is going to run and will win."

Duff's statement reflected growing conviction among GOP leaders, including many who earlier felt otherwise, that the president will be available in 1956 for another term.

Communist Bird Jailed

CANNNES (INS)—There won't be any spying from the air over southern France, even by Communist birds, if one patriotic fisherman can help it. Agence France Presse reports that a Cannes fisherman, who found a seagull wearing a leg band with Russian writing, promptly turned the bird over to the police.

Redwood trees secrete a poison which kills insects on which many birds feed, so birds are rare in redwood forests.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF THE Drake family, Alma & Dave & Frankie & Kathy, who were killed Dec. 27, 1953.
No one knows the silent heartache
Only those who have lost can tell,
The grief we bear in silence,
For the ones we loved so well.
Some day sometime our eyes shall see,
The faces we keep in memory,
And God will link the broken chain,
Still closer when we meet again.
Sadly missed by Carl & Cora Code & family.

Mitzi Gaynor Spends Wedding Night Talking

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Mitzi Gaynor Bean spent her honeymoon talking.

The happy bride and her lovin' bridegroom, Jack Bean, embraced each other for a full hour to talk to me. A whole conveyor belt of reporters kept breaking in on the honeymoon.

★ ★ ★ ★

"We even spent our wedding night talking," Mitzi—in a tight fitting sweater and tight-fitting toreador pants—said in her honeymoon suite up at the Plaza. "We were sitting up on a plane flying from San Francisco to New York. Couldn't get a berth."

MITZI GAYNOR BEAN

"Johnny Ray—of course, he's a little bit cuke—"

"What'd you say?" I said.

"Cuke," Mitzi repeated, then I knew she meant cuckoo. "But he works from his toenails up. And he gave everybody gifts. You say to him, 'Johnny, that's a nice ring you have on,' and he says, 'You like it? Here. It's yours'."

★ ★ ★ ★

"Did you get well acquainted with Irving Berlin?"

"Sure! Do you know what he is? A song-plugger!" Mitzi laughed. "And such a cute one.

"He comes up to you and says he wants to sing you his latest song. You never know what the tune is, the way he sings it, but he says, 'Is that a beautiful phrase? Is that a beautiful phrase?'

"And it is!

★ ★ ★ ★

One day Mitzi, a gifted mimic, couldn't resist doing an impression of Marilyn Monroe, chest thrust forward and mouth open, as she walked into the studio commissary. Ethel Merman then did an impression of Mitzi doing an impression of Marilyn.

"I'm a big fan of Marilyn's, but I could never get close to her," Mitzi confessed.

★ ★ ★ ★

"I guess she had all these other things on her mind." She didn't seem to be aware of the rest of us.

"One day we asked her if she'd have lunch with us. She said 'No, I'm going to have lunch off the lot.' She seemed very moody and depressed.

"When she came back after lunch she was smiling and friendly and said 'Hi!' to everybody. Ethel said, 'Girl, do you know what happened?'

"Ethel said, 'Why, she went home and had lunch with Joe!'"

Mitzi, a Chicago-born, Detroit-reared kid who's been in show business forever, worked her way up through many road tours of Broadway shows. She was also on tour with a group billed as "The 13 Hollywood Starlets," which played for service men.

After this talking, Mitzi and her bridegroom, a Los Angeles public relations man, were asked to pose for a honeymoon smooching picture. They embraced and the photographer said "Wait a second, something wrong with the camera."

"Oh, we don't mind holding it," the bride replied.

Hanging TV Sets Soon Available

Detroit Police Now Say TV Curbs Delinquency; Monty Makes 13 Films

NEW YORK (INS) — Art Carney's reward in the new Gleason prosperity will be promotion to the $100,000-a-year category. . .

Perry Como finally turned down the Jan. 4 extravaganza. They couldn't supply proper talent or script. . .

"I Love Lucy" started Desi and Lucille along the road Gleason aims to follow: They now own and produce some dozen different TV series, all of them sold. . .

"Lucy" re-runs of old episodes go into the "Omnibus" spot when the latter leaves the TV air in April . . . soap sponsor. . .

This is Berle's seventh highly successful TV year and his show still is by far the most expensive hour-long opus on the air — $154,500 a week for talent and production alone — network time charges are extra — Berle earning $30,000 of that ups to $40,000 next season. . .

London paper says Liberace is the "best known name in the U. S. next to President Eisenhower."

Gen. David Sarnoff's dream of a TV tube which hangs on a wall and can be moved to any room of the house now is an actuality, will be on sale in a couple of years. . .

Both RCA and General Electric have ways of amplifying light the way sound now is amplified. . .

1954 TV sets sold a million more than expected — 7,000,000 in all, biggest TV year yet. . .

New Cop Faces Endless Parade of Dragnet Gags

MILWAUKEE (INS)—This is the town, Milwaukee. One of the cleanest. A lot of credit is due the people. And the cops. Chief John Polcyn and the men he picks, like his newest recruit—Joe Friday.

"The lad will be appointed the 17th of January, with 39 others," Polcyn said today. "That's his real name—Joe Friday—just like the Dragnet man on television."

What's the run-down?

"Let's look at the application," Chief Polsyn said. " Born Stevens Point, Wis., 28th February 1926. Machinist by trade. Married. Wife, Mary Primus."

Notice any outstanding characteristics?

"Take a look at the medical," the chief said. "Five feet, 10. Weighs 164. Nothing unusual."

Why did he apply for the force?

"Likes people," the chief said. "Always interested in police work. Really interested in people, in working with them."

Polcyn added: "He was in the Army, Oct. 30, 1944 to Aug. 10, 1946. Infantry rifleman—the next thing to being a Marine."

The chief said this with a little pride, adding: "I was a sergeant in the Corps, 1910 to '14."

When Joe Friday joins the force, a sidekick will be one Frank Smith, a patrolman who signed his application in 1951 as Franklin A. Smith.

2,500 Economists Gather in Detroit for Convention

DETROIT (UP)—Approximately 2,500 industrial and government economists, university professors and labor and industrial relations experts were on hand today for the opening of the annual convention of the American Economic Association.

Among the featured speakers at the four-day convention will be Ewan Clague, assistant secretary of labor and former director of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, and Albert R. Koch, a member of the board of the Federal Reserve system.

10 Tipplers Back in Jail

Yesterday 10 of them were back in jail on the same charge.

100 New TV Stations Seen by End of 1955

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Television entertainment will be dished up from 100 new stations by the end of 1955, a General Electric Co. executive says.

Dr. W. R. G. Baker, vice president and general manager of GE's electronics division here, predicted yesterday that—at this time next year—"at least" 530 TV stations would be in operation across the country. That would compare with the 430 Baker said are now on the air.

Baker forecast the retail sale of about 5,800,000 black and white receivers and 200,000 color receivers during the coming year. He said the retail cost of one color set would approximate that of three black and white receivers.

Explorer Is Surprised at Arctic Community

BOOTHBAY HARBOR, Me. (UP) —Rear Adm. Donald B. MacMillan, the Arctic explorer, says one of the sights that surprised him most on his 30th voyage to the far north this year was Thule, Greenland.

"Why," said MacMillan, "there must be 5,000 people there now that the U.S. Air Force has established a base. And whoever thought to see movie houses and traffic cops so far north?"

Mud for Giant Roof

CHICAGO (UP) — The biggest roof in town is being made leakproof in a strange way. About 31,000 tons of mud have been dumped on it, and 14,000 tons of black dirt will go over that. Then grass, trees and shrubs will be planted. The roof is that of the Grand Park Underground Garage, 1,200 feet long and 350 feet wide at its widest point.

Deft Definition

HARTFORD, Conn. (UP) — Dr. John C. Leonard, medical educational director of Hartford Hospital, told the New England conference of the American College of Physicians that "insomnia is a disease transmitted to parents by infants."

Warm Springs foundation, anti-paralysis institute founded by the late President Roosevelt, has normal accommodations for about 150 persons.

Breaks Bounty Fund

BOSTON (UP)—The woodchuck bounty fund in Usquepaugh, R.I., is almost exhausted. The council pays 15 cents for every deceased woodchuck produced. Frank Dawley, a local marksman, already has plugged 89.
