Syrup Making Pays

WASHINGTON (INS)—Maple syrup making, although a minor source of farm income, is one of the most profitable activities a farmer can undertake. The Agriculture Department reports that maple syrup manufacture earns an average three dollars an hour—well above the average for major crops.

High Tax Rates, Deficit Spending Haunt Congress

OK on Defense Funds in Ike's Budget Likely; Others Face Debate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The spectre of deficit spending and continued high taxes haunted Capitol Hill today in the wake of President Eisenhower's peacetime record $73,900,000,000 federal budget proposal.

Congressional reaction, both public and private, was that the fiscal picture painted by the President in his annual budget message yesterday was anything but bright.

But Congress had not expected a rosy report in the light of current defense needs.

There was little doubt that Congress would approve all or most of the $39,500,000,000 outlay for the Defense Department.

More argument was expected over non-defense spending proposals in an effort to widen the narrow gap between expected spending and expected revenue during the coming fiscal year.

CALL HEARINGS

Even as it put the finishing touches on an emergency $1,200,000,000 defense fund, a House Defense Appropriations subcommittee called hearings for Jan. 27 on the military budget for the year starting July 1.

Subcommittee Chairman Mahon (D-Tx) called the new military budget "conservative insofar as ballistic missiles and other weapons of the future are concerned." It might even have to be increased, Mahon added.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) Chairman of the Senate Preparedness subcommittee, promised a careful look to "determine whether it is adequate to strengthen the nation's security."

The general attitude among the legislators appeared to be that so far as security is concerned, the sky is the limit.

Warrant Charges Henson With Killing

A second-degree murder warrant was issued today by Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem against Frank W. Henson, of Hazel Park in the Dec. 23 death of his wife.

The warrant was issued following investigation by Hazel Park and Redford Post State Police into what authorities at first believed was an accident.

Henson, 55, a factory worker, was expected to be arraigned this afternoon before Hazel Park Municipal Judge Robert C. Baldwin.

The body of his 57-year-old wife Helen was found on the kitchen floor of the Henson home at 62 W. Maxlow. An autopsy showed Mrs. Henson, the mother of two, had died from loss of blood from 13 scalp wounds.

U.S. Unofficially Pledges $98,000

Renewal Projects Assured

By PETE LOCHBILER

Pontiac has been unofficially assured it will get a $98,000 advance loan to plan its first federal aid urban renewal project.

The assurances have come from Urban Renewal Administration (URA) officials in Chicago, according to Robert A. Stierer, assistant city manager.

"They told me there is every chance that our project report will be submitted favorably to Washington and the money needed for advance planning will be forthcoming," said Stierer.

Stierer conferred recently in Chicago with Ivan Carson, URA regional administrator, and George Conklin, URA field representative.

The conference was the first meeting with URA representatives

Auto Plan Seen Pinching U. S.

Government Says That General Profit-Sharing Would Cut Tax Income

WASHINGTON (AP)—Government experts said today any big spread through industry of plans to share profits with workers would cut deeply into federal tax revenue and probably require sharp changes in taxing policy.

That was their private reaction to word from Detroit that the United Auto Workers have proposed that auto producers split a major share of profits before taxes with workers and customers.

They said profits thus distributed to workers would not be taxed as they are now, at the 52 per cent corporate rate but at the much lower individual income rate—around 15 per cent or less in auto worker income brackets, allowing for deductions.

If the plan were adopted in the auto industry and spread widely among other industries, the result could lead to reducing federal revenues by billions of dollars. Corporate income taxes now yield about 20 billion dollars a year. In turn, the government would have either to reduce spending or to boost tax rates somewhere along the line.

Unions' Merger Snagged Again

MFL Insisting Member of Teamsters Sit in on Discussions

DETROIT (AP)—An attempt to merge the Michigan Federation of Labor and the Michigan CIO Council has snagged again, as it has twice before, on MFL insistence that a member of the Teamsters Union sit on the merger committee.

The Teamsters Union has been ousted by the AFL-CIO for alleged corrupt influences. James Hoffa of Detroit is president-elect of the International Teamsters Union and a power in the MFL.

The latest blow-up came yesterday, after merger delegates had agreed to cut their 26-member committees to five each.

Speculation today was that President George Meany of the AFL-CIO probably would lift the charges of both the state organizations, call a merger convention for Grand Rapids Feb. 24-28 and fix the eligibility of convention delegates.

George Dean, president of the 300,000-member MFL, said tersely yesterday "We do not intend to comply" with Meany's request that Dean's organization replace Teamsters on its merger committee.

The hang-up came on Dean's insistence that Gilbert Clark, Flint business agent for the Teamsters and president of the Genesee County Federation of Labor, be included on the MFL's five-member committee to work out merger details with a similar group from the 700,000-member Michigan CIO Council headed by August Scholle.

Cloudy Skies, Cooler in Pontiac Tomorrow

Cloudy skies and cooler temperatures are the prediction for the Pontiac area during the next few days.

Tonight the U. S. Weather Bureau predicts cloudy and colder with snow flurries. The low will be near 25 degrees.

Tomorrow will be mostly cloudy with snow flurries, and a high of about 30. The outlook for Thursday is partly cloudy.

In a five day forecast, the weather bureau reports temperatures will average slightly below the normal high of 33 and low of 19. Snow flurries are expected through Saturday.

The lowest recorded temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 29. The reading at 1 p.m. was 38.

Reuther Facing Fight Within His Own Ranks

UAW President Attacked by Stellato for Dropping Bid for 32-Hour Week

DETROIT (AP)—Leaders of the auto industry's Big Three—Ford, Chrysler and General Motors—have greeted Walter Reuther's profit-sharing plan with sharp words that amount to rejection.

A Ford spokesman called the plan unrealistic. General Motors President Harlow H. Curtice said it was "foreign to the concept of the American free enterprise system."

L. L. Colbert, president of Chrysler, said it was inflationary.

For a different reason, the United Auto Workers chief also appears headed for opposition from within his own union.

Stellato, says Carl Stellato, a UAW "minority" leader, is that Reuther turned his back on demanding a shorter work week in favor of trying for a profit-sharing plan in this summer's bargaining.

Stellato, president of Ford local in the UAW, said: "You can bet there will be plenty of opposition to the idea on the floor of the convention—and I'll be right there."

The UAW will convene Jan. 22 to give formal approval of the union's goals in 1958 bargaining sessions.

EYES LAYOFFS
Stellato, one of the chief opponents of Reuther in the 1½-million-member union, eyed the recent heavy layoffs in the auto industry and said:

"Reuther's plan is going to give him more four-day work weeks than he wants—but they'll be the wrong kind."

Reuther's plan would give employees 25 per cent of a company's profits above 10 per cent of net capital before taxes. Another 25 per cent would go to car buyers in the form of rebates. The rest—50 per cent—would be kept by the company.

Reuther said wage increases—he named no figure—also will be sought at bargaining sessions scheduled to start about April 1. Assembly plant workers now average about $2.40 an hour.

Ernest R. Breech, Ford board chairman, said the union's proposal would be given "weighty consideration" but he said the plan was "unrealistic."

He termed it a "complicated kill-the-profits plan" which he said "strikes at the very roots of the economic system that has made and kept America strong."

Colbert said Reuther "proposes, in effect, to fight inflation by making a whole series of new inflationary demands upon the automobile industry."

Curtice Comments on UAW Goals Says Demands Foreign to Our Free Enterprise

Following is a statement by Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors, relative to the UAW's 1958 bargaining goals:

The UAW's recommended 1958 bargaining objectives made public today are in keeping with the Union's earlier threat to exert its tremendous economic power to force the auto industry "the biggest wage increase in the history of the Union."

In addition the Union proposes a radical scheme under which it would bargain not only for employees they represent but also for salaried employees, shareholders and customers over the distribution of the earnings of the business. This scheme is foreign to the concept of the American free enterprise system.

It is unfortunate that these extravagant demands should come at a time when public confidence needs to be reaffirmed as a basis for an upturn in economy.

The chances for such an upturn would vastly improve if instead of announcing such extreme demands, the Union would base its bargaining objectives on the economic realities the nation faces today, not only here at home but also abroad.

We sincerely hope the delegates to the UAW special convention, who will consider the recommended 1958 UAW collective bargaining program, will recognize the economic realities and adopt a sound policy regarding collective bargaining objectives for 1958, rather than getting into a frozen position on these wholly unrealistic recommendations.

As for our part we are determined to strive for an equitable and peaceful solution of the questions which properly will come before the parties at the bargaining table.

A-Bomb Plane 'Somewhere'

Military Stays Vague; Say Explosion Chances Practically Nil

WASHINGTON (INS)—Pentagon sources today fixed "somewhere in the United States" as the place where an Air Force plane carrying an atomic bomb crashed and burned without setting off a nuclear explosion.

The Air Force still refused "for security reasons" to say where or when the American aircraft was destroyed.

But the sources said the crash was in this country and "was explained away at the time as a routine accident."

Air Force spokesmen emphasized that there was "no possibility" flames from the burning plane could have detonated its deadly nuclear payload.

"The likelihood of such an accident is practically nonexistent," a Pentagon official said.

He added that the mathematical possibility of an accidental U. S. atomic weapon explosion was about "one in three billion."

The sources indicated the Air Force announcement was partly designed to calm British fears that atomic bomb-carrying planes might accidentally crash and precipitate a nuclear disaster.

Know the Weather

By E. H. SIMS

Why doesn't the cold front give ample warning before its arrival? The cold front, as we have heretofore observed, may be right upon you before you notice it. Suspicion should be aroused by a sudden pickup in the wind, especially if it comes as the sky is clearing, or has just cleared. Temperatures will also begin to drop.

But because the leading edge of this front will move over your head, on the earth's surface, before it moves in far above at 30,000 or 40,000 feet, for example, there will be no clue high above in the sky.

This failure to provide sky signs enables the cold front to come in by surprise.

Temperatures Plunge 20 Degrees Arctic Air Drives South

CHICAGO (INS)—Bitter cold arctic air moved southward today over the stock-raising sections of the northern plains, driving snow ahead of it and sending temperatures plunging 20 degrees in the last 24 hours.

Meanwhile, the Weather Bureau warned that freezing rain will make driving conditions hazardous and roads icy from parts of West Virginia through Pennsylvania, Maryland and the Middle Atlantic States. The precipitation will spread northward into New England as a mixture of rain, snow and sleet.

Minot, N. D., reported two degrees above zero and other points generally were in the teens at midnight. Snow flurries were observed along the leading edge of the advancing cold air which extended into extreme northwestern Nebraska.

Livestock warnings have been issued for northwestern Kansas because of the much colder weather and blowing snow is expected in that area.

One of the coldest spots at midnight was Lebanon, N. H., with a reading of 2 below zero in contrast a 70-degree reading at Key West, Fla.

Widespread precipitation continued over the southeastern portion of the country, Florida and areas as far north as Pennsylvania listed rain. Rain also hit the Gulf States from Mississippi eastward and extended into the Ohio Valley, Roanoke, Va., listed an inch of rain and Charleston, S. C., 1½ inches.

Snow flurries occurred over the central and southern Rockies and cold weather was the general rule in the Rockies and westward to the Pacific Coast. Rain prevailed along the North Pacific.

Sen. Russell on Missile Program: 'Two-Fisted' Defense Chief Needed

WASHINGTON (U)—Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) said today a "two-fisted secretary of defense" can straighten out the nation's missile program without creating any new agencies.

Russell, who heads the Senate Armed Services Committee, took issue with colleagues who have advocated reducing the power of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and placing the missile-satellite programs under a single head.

He added in an interview he is "favorably impressed" so far by the speed with which Secretary of Defense McNamara has made decisions but isn't passing final judgment until more changes are made.

A new political storm clouded congressional consideration of how to put the United States in the lead in the race for rocket weapons and manned satellites.

Sen. Knowland of California, Senate Republican leader, and Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, House GOP leader, stirred up the storm by blaming former President Truman for any lag behind Russia in the development of missiles.

They spoke out in reply to Truman's statement in New York that he does not think Eisenhower is a good policy maker nor is he a good public speaker.

In an unusual "public memorandum" addressed to Truman, the

Sen. Kefauver of Tennessee, 1956 Democratic vice presidential nominee, fired back that "no amount of political statements or speeches will hide the facts."

"The facts are that the budget has been cut and cut during the Eisenhower administration, and research has been frustrated," Kefauver said.

The Senate Preparedness subcommittee called for testimony behind closed doors from representatives of companies engaged in producing the Titan and Vanguard rockets.

It asked for later testimony by Gen. Nathan Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The subcommittee made public testimony yesterday in which Maj. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, commander of the Air Force ballistic missile division, said the present Thor missile can be improved so that it "can perform unannounced reconnaissance of the moon."

But Sen. Symington (D-Mo.) said "the manned satellite is just around the corner" and Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, retiring as chief of Army research and development agreed.

Sen. Kefauver said his plan will provide increased purchasing power, and said it was offered as a factor in halting the "growing imbalance between purchasing power and production."

Reuther compared his profit-sharing plan to the plans under which GM and Ford executives share in profits of their firms.

He said: "The fantastic profits of many of America's giant corporations have been shared in by the high-paid executives of these corporations while both workers and consumers have been short changed."

Reuther said about 800,000 auto industry workers would be covered by his plan.

He said if the rebate plan had been in effect for consumers during the past 10 years, customers would have received an average of more than $70 a car.

The UAW chief said the actual amount of a general wage increase based on productivity, would have to be worked out at the bargaining table. The present assembly plant average of $2.40 an hour includes cost of living and productivity increases.

Reuther indicated the union will seek a short-term contract. He said it will be "considerably less" than the current three-year contracts which run out about June 1.

In addition to a wage increase, Reuther indicated the union will see an increase in supplementary unemployment benefits (SUB) for laid-off workers from 26 to 52 weeks.

He said he also will seek SUB for workers "whose purchasing power is reduced because of short work weeks."

Other bargaining issues, Reuther said, will be demands for improved pension benefits, correction of "wage inequities," and improved hospital-medical-insurance programs.

Reuther said the union's proposed bargaining program "reflects the realities of both our growing domestic difficulties and the increasingly difficult international situation."

He termed his profit plan a "reasonable approach. If they (the companies) make a lot of money we want our share. . . . We hope that Sputnik has made them more aware of their responsibilities."

Reuther added: "This union is going to act in terms of what is good for the United States. Union demands come second."

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court yesterday declared invalid a Baxley, Ga., ordinance requiring union organizers to obtain a city permit before soliciting for members.

The decision was given on an appeal by Rose Staub, an employee of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

She was sentenced in Baxley Police Court to 30 days in jail, or a $300 fine, for soliciting union membership without applying for a permit.

Justice Whitaker delivered the 7-2 decision. Justice Frankfurter wrote a dissenting opinion, joined by Justice Clark.

Mrs. Staub's appeal contended the ordinance abridged the constitutional

City Officials Fill Vacancies

Naming New County Board Representative at Tonight's Meeting

A new representative to the Oakland County Board of Supervisors will be appointed tonight at the Pontiac City Commission fills up vacancies on several administrative boards.

The vacancies are on the Fair Employment Practices Board, the Historical Commission, the Zoning Board of Appeals and the Board of Tax Review.

The supervisor's position was left vacant by the resignation two months ago of Willis M. Brewer, who had served 14 years on the board before taking the new position of Road Co-ordinator with the Oakland County Road Commission.

City Manager Walter K. Willman is expected to report on a proposed trade of property near East boulevard and Featherstone road, where the Evangelical United Brethren Church has planned to erect a new church.

There are no public hearings scheduled nor any other action on the public improvement program.

HOLLYWOOD (U)—A heart attack has ended the career of Jesse L. Lasky, movie pioneer who helped build Hollywood's vast film industry.

Lasky, 77, a moviemaker 44 years, collapsed and died in Beverly Hills yesterday shortly after talking about his book, "I Blow My Own Horn," before a women's literary club.

The producer, apparently in good health up to that moment, stumbled and fell as he turned to walk toward his car at the Beverly Hilton Hotel. Only a day earlier he had attended the annual Pro Bowl professional football game in Los Angeles.

Lasky, Cecil B. DeMille and Samuel Goldwyn formed a trio that came west and produced the first feature length film, "The Squaw Man," here in 1913.

The early-day producers followed this picture with other films, including "Rose of the Rancho," "Girl of the Golden West," "The Warrens of Virginia," "The Governor's Lady," "The Woman," and many others.

Lasky once recalled that DeMille, director of the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Co., had been the one who selected a barn amid a Hollywood orange grove for the first production and that he, Lasky, had suggested Arizona.

"I wonder what would have happened to us, and maybe to Hollywood, if Cecil had selected a site in Arizona," Lasky mused.

In 1916 the Lasky organization merged with Famous Players Film Co. to become Famous Players-Lasky, forerunner of Paramount Pictures Corp.

Born in San Francisco Sept. 13, 1880, the son of a shoe store owner, Lasky arrived in Hollywood by a circuitous route. He began his career as a cornet player at 16. He later was a cub reporter on the old San Francisco Post, a gold hunter in Alaska, and even managed a magician before joining forces with DeMille and Goldwyn in New York City.

Lasky leaves his widow, Bessie, three children, Jesse Jr., William and Nancy; and two grandchildren. Funeral services were tentatively set for Thursday.

Chairman Byrd (D-Va.) of the Senate Finance Committee called the new budget "reckless" and "likely to lead to substantial deficit spending with all of its evil consequences."

Rep. Reed of New York, senior Republican on the House Ways and Means Committee, also called the estimates of receipts "somewhat optimistic."

WASHINGTON (U)—U. S. Dist. Judge Alexander Holtzoff ruled today that civilian employees attached to the U. S. armed forces abroad may legally be tried by court-martial.

He said a permit would have been issued to Miss Staub without cost if she had applied for it.

Frankfurter and Clark, in their dissent, described the case as one of those small cases that carries a large issue, for it concerns the essence of our federalism — due regard for the constitutional distribution of power as between the nation and the states, and more particularly the distribution of judicial power as between this court and the judiciaries of the states.

The Day in Birmingham Award Sewer Contract to Second Low Bidder

BIRMINGHAM — City Commissioners last night awarded a $129,239 contract to the Greenfield Construction Co., of Detroit, for the installation of sewers along Pine and Raynolds streets in the Quanton Lake Estates area.

The firm was the second low bidder out of 12 firms seeking the contract. Its bid was approximately 50 per cent below the high bid.

The low bid was rejected because it was felt the firm submitting it didn't meet all the specifications required by the city, L. R. Gare, city manager, said.

REJECT PETITION In other business, the commission rejected a petition of Thomas P. Monahan to erect a sign on the buildings at a Hunter boulevard, Maple avenue intersection.

Monahan, owner of Monahan's Beef Buffet on East Maple avenue, asked if he might have a second consideration after the sign is redesigned and brought down to the size of 100 square feet required by the ordinance.

He was assured of another hearing.

A few vacancies still remain in some of the hobby and crafts groups being formed at the Birmingham Community House.

Myra Showman, registrar, said enrollment still may be made for bridge classes to be conducted Wednesday and Thursday evenings; creative pottery-ceramics, Tuesday afternoons and evenings; and design, Wednesday evening.

Other classes still open are: enameling, Thursday mornings; homemaking, Thursday afternoons; interior decoration, Monday mornings; painting, Monday and Tuesday evenings; silver working and jewelry, Friday mornings and afternoons.

An advance first aid class will meet Thursday evenings, with a beginners class to start after its completion.

Special for children is the puppetry class meeting Thursday afternoons and the painting and drawing, Monday afternoons. Both sessions are from 3:30 to 5 p.m.

The regular meeting of the United Church Women of Birmingham at 9:30 a.m. Friday at the Baptist Church will be followed by the group's annual meeting.

Special guest at the 12:30 luncheon will be Miss Amber Van, counselor to international students at the University of Michigan. She will speak informally at the luncheon.

Jaycees to Present Awards at Banquet

Judges have selected the winner of the annual Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce "Outstanding Young Man of the Year" contest.

The winner will be presented a distinguished service award at the annual Jaycee Bosses Night banquet beginning at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Elks Temple.

Gov. Williams will be the principal speaker.

The job of judging was done by Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams, H. W. Huttenlocher, John Fitzgerald, Ralph Norvell and Howard Powers.

Also on the agenda will be presentation of awards to the boss of the year and key man of the year.

Says Jet Liners Create Problem

Sound-Proofing Needed to Protect Passengers From New Noise

DETROIT (U)—The 500-M.P.H. flight speeds of coming jet transport planes will create new and difficult ground-handling problems the Society of Automotive Engineers was told today.

Marvin Whitlock, of American Lines, Inc. said sound-proofed enclosures will be needed to protect passengers from the noise of the new power plants; and servicing personnel probably will have to wear ear-muffs.

Whitlock said the faster schedules will permit of only 12 to 20 minutes for turnarounds and require accelerated ground servicing, cargo and passenger handling.

G. H. Collier of Goodyear Aircraft Corp. described a newly developed skid control for fast planes. He defined the skid as a wheel sliding without rotating, resulting from overbraking. The skid warning system, he said, informs the pilot through a rapping on the sole of his shoe from the brake pedal.

He also described an automatic anti-skid system in which an impending skid causes a hydraulic valve to release brake pressure. The pressure is replenished when skid danger is past.

Glen B. Eastburn, of New York Airways, Inc., told the engineers that by 1960 to 1962 the line expects to be operating 100-M.P.H. 20 - 25 - passenger turbine powered helicopters between air terminals in the New York metropolitan area.

Present plans, Eastburn said, call for a fleet of five to 10 units to fly 3,000 miles daily, all within a 25 mile radius. He said it was expected the $500,000 helicopters would carry nearly a million passengers yearly and generate revenues above four million dollars.

HOW TO DEAL WITH YOUR TENSIONS

The quest for peace of mind—or for good mental health, which is another name for it—is universal. Yet very few of us are blessed with all the internal qualities and external circumstances that automatically assure us of peace of mind. We have to work to achieve it. Following is one of a few simple, ready-to-hand actions which may help you.

father or mother, a good friend, your clergyman, your family doctor, a teacher, school counselor, or dean. Talking things out helps to relieve your strain, helps you to see your worry in a clearer light, and often helps you to see what you can do about it.

This is one of eleven simple suggestions that can be helpful if they are applied diligently. If you would like further information, write for the free new booklet, "How To Deal With Your Tensions," written by top experts in the field of psychiatry. Waterford Twp. Board Discusses Problems of Department Rule

The question of just how much power is allocated to a fire chief was discussed by the Waterford Township Board and representatives of the township Fire Department last night.

Fire Chief Edward Smith is a paid, part-time volunteer fireman and his authoritative powers have been challenged by members of the department.

After a lengthy discussion, Trustee John Coleman suggested that Smith draw up a plan to be presented at a firemen's executive board meeting this week with township board members and representatives from each of the department's three stations present.

The group will plan to discuss rules, regulations and insubordination proceedings for paid firemen, Mr. Coleman said.

Another question was raised on whether to use stock or mutual insurance policies on township-owned property and equipment. This was tabled for further study next Monday.

Two $65,000 insurance policies on the Township Hall covering 80 per cent of its total valuation will expire Jan. 21.

The problem of establishing a charge to private contractors for hydrants was also tabled. Clerk James Seeterlin was authorized to check procedures in surrounding communities.

A used car dealer's license was approved for Marion Corder for a lot to be established at 3560 Elizabeth Lake Rd.

U. S. Man Gets Verdict of Reds

Sentenced to 10 Months for Camera Purchase by East Berlin Court

BERLIN (U) — A Communist court in East Berlin yesterday sentenced Dr. Walter Steinberg of Alhambra, Calif., to 10 months imprisonment on charges of illegally buying a camera in the Soviet-run sector.

The 35-year-old chiropodist, who has been in jail since last September, was given seven days to appeal the verdict.

Steinberg, pale and looking shocked, shook his head as the Communist judge handed down the sentence. He wore a rumpled gray suit. His guards had taken away his necktie and shoelaces, a routine precaution to prevent any suicide attempt.

The U. S. mission in Allied-run West Berlin sent a German observer to the trial. No American consular representative was present since the United States does not recognize the East German government.

Convicted with Steinberg was a Swiss citizen, Josef Gutman, who was sentenced to four years imprisonment at hard labor.

Gutman was charged with luring Steinberg into using his car for smuggling illegally purchased cameras and typewriters from East Berlin into West Berlin.

East German law forbids non residents to make purchases without a government permit. The regulations prevent foreigners from buying cheaply in East Berlin shops with Communist currency purchased at one-fourth of its face value on West Berlin's open money market.

The court confiscated Steinberg's American car and ordered him to pay court costs.

After the Philadelphia-born chiropodist was arrested, he arranged for the camera equipment given to him by Gutman to be brought back to East Berlin and turned over to the Communist authorities.

Friends of Steinberg told the U. S. consulate in West Berlin that Steinberg had intended to go to Moscow for the International Youth Festival.

Cabbie May Not Get His $5,000 Tip

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (U) — A cab driver may not collect a $5,000 tip offered by retired Navy Capt. Jesse L. Kenworthy, 66, of Parkersburg, Pa.

Mrs. Lorna Kenworthy of Encinita, Calif., filed a Superior Court petition yesterday asking Judge Milton Sapiro to declare her husband mentally incompetent. A hearing was scheduled for Monday.

Mrs. Kenworthy, who had not seen her husband for 10 years, said in the petition that he was recently classified as a manic-depressive by a Pennsylvania mental clinic.

Cab driver Bruno Del Carlo, 31, also was told by Lt. George Page of the police check detail that Kenworthy's Parkersburg bank account apparently contains less than $2,600.

Del Carlo told police he was given the $5,000 check after he drove the retired officer around San Francisco and to the airport twice.

Kenworthy is a survivor of the crash of the dirigible Macon and the sinking at Pearl Harbor of the battleship Oklahoma. He was retired after serving 17 months in a Navy hospital and was given a 100 per cent disability pension.

Why Secretary Looks So Good to Hubby

By OLGA CURTIS

NEW YORK (INS) — If love is blind, marriage is a great eye-opener.

"Especially at breakfast time," says Dr. Randolph Ray, rector of New York's famed "Little Church Around the Corner" who may well be America's champion knot-tie.

"It always surprises me that the girl who can't face her fiancé without a new hairdo becomes the wife who won't take her hair out of curlers for breakfast," sighs Dr. Ray.

"Then she wonders why her husband thinks his secretary looks good."

After hearing 65,000 sets of "I do," Dr. Ray is convinced that the best marital advice is practical advice.

"Not about sex," he grinned. "The young couples who come to me know more about sex than I do."

"But they don't always know the importance of shaving in the morning or remembering birth days."

The cherubic 71-year-old clergyman, who proudly estimates that 89 per cent of the marriages he has performed have turned out to be happy ones, likes to remind prospective newlyweds that "love is like paint."

"It's an emotion that glosses over all faults," he pointed out. "A girl in love can look at an alcoholic and imagine she'll reform him."

"When you're in love, everything seems plausible—even living with the in-laws. But the first thing I advise is 'DON'T'—whatever you do—go to live with your in-laws. No house is big enough for two women."

NEVER 'RUN HOME'
Dr. Ray also advises all brides never to "run home to mother."

"Families take sides," he explains. "If you have to tell your troubles to somebody, go to a clergyman, or a psychiatrist—not your mother."

The clergyman, a widower who looks back on 16 years of completely happy marriage, says most lasting marriages are based on "getting the right backgrounds together."

"It's important to match age and interest," he believes. Once married, however even a "matching" pair can forget such simple things as "confiding to each other and being polite to each other."

"I always tell couples to get and keep a common interest, the simplest of which is the husband's work. A wife can encourage her husband's professional life by the kind of social life she provides."

LEARN TO COOK
To brides, he adds: "Look your best always — especially in the morning. Learn to cook—your job is the home."

To bridegrooms, he says: "Shave before you have breakfast, and talk to her after you shave. Keep courting her; you won her and you've got to spend some time trying to keep her. Remember her birthday and anniversary."

Dr. Ray, who must retire next June 11th at the mandatory age of 72, said, "I wouldn't retire if I didn't have to."

"Marriages are off today; we're getting only a few a week. But in 1966 we expect another peak marriage period, when the war babies grow up. And I wouldn't mind the rush at all."

THE BERRYS

By Carl Gruber

Complete With Swimming Pool

College Acquires Former Hide-Out

BERRIEN SPRINGS (U) — The plush, pushbutton-controlled hide-way of a former Capone era gangster has taken on the aura of respectability.

The gates are open at the one-time "farm" of Louis (Little New York) Campagna. The 80 acres on the St. Joseph river near Berrien Springs is now the property of Emmanuel Missionary College.

The estate, surrounded by high fences and backed against the river, was purchased by the Seventh Day Adventist college for $80,000 two months ago.

The main building is the guest house. It has eight bedrooms, living room, dining room, a kitchen and a walk-in cold room and freezer.

The estate also includes a garage house where Campagna, his wife and two children lived; a caretaker's cottage; various barns and a 110,000-gallon swimming pool.

Old timers say the pool, replete with wine cellars and a water filtration plant beneath it, was built largely by the Chicago department of public works.

From the study in the garage house, a pushbutton opens the gates. Another turns on the lights along the drive. A third trips floodlights at both the guest house and garage house.

An intercom system connects the gate with the caretaker's cottage and the guest house. And the grounds are watered by an underground sprinkling system controlled by an automatic timer.

Campagna gained control of the property after moving from New York to Chicago where he hooked up with the notorious Al Capone. He wound up behind bars in 1943 as the result of a million dollar extortion plot against west coast movie executives.

Campagna served about a third of a 10-year sentence and then was paroled. He died in Florida three years ago.

After the mobster's death, his heirs gave up the place. It was sold to a Lansing physician. The college bought it with funds from the board of the now defunct Battle Creek Sanitarium.

Eventually, the hospital hopes to construct facilities for training nurses and laboratory technicians on the estate.

Dr. F. O. Rittenhouse, Emmanuel Missionary president, says the college will definitely make use of the farm land. It may be a white elephant to us at present, he says, adding "we may be able to feed it but we don't know how to put it to work."

2 Die as Plane Hits

Oil Derrick on Truck

STONEHAM, Colo. (U) — Two men were killed yesterday when their light plane struck an oil derrick on a truck to which they were delivering highway travel permits.

Francis Saylor, manager of the L. E. Whitlock Trucking Co. in Sterling, Colo., identified the men killed in the freak accident as Jonesie Thompson, 41, the pilot, and Marvin Kitch, 44. Both lived at Sterling and were employees of the trucking firm.

Saylor said the plane apparently swooped low in order to drop permits for overweight and over-length loads to the drivers of oil trucks in a field.

One wheel of the plane struck the derrick. The craft hit the ground 100 feet from the truck and burst into flames.

Most people in the world's underdeveloped countries still refer to the U. S. program by its original name: Point Four. Now it's under the International Cooperation Administration.

When the tribesmen swore to protect American technicians, they were mindful of a project which once was a butt of Washington jokes. American hygiene experts went to the villages with a campaign to rid the bathhouses—the villagers' social centers—of the filth which made those places breeding areas of contagion.

The whole vast Middle East, a major theater in the political-economic contest between democracy and communism, is dotted with such so-called trivia projects. Local people don't think the news. An Associated Press survey indicates however, that of all Americans abroad, the technical experts are the least resented. Indeed, in many places, they are highly popular.

YOUR PLANS FOR THE FUTURE SHOULD Start Now!

Many well selected common stocks are excellent investments right now, as Manufacturers; the more modest tax reduction program was advanced by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. Spokesmen for the two groups outlined the revenue overhauls at a House Ways and Means Committee hearing.

Chamber spokesman Joel Barlow argued that this group's proposal would not necessarily mean a federal deficit because the cuts would spur business and buying activity.

The NAM representative contended his group's plan would provide new capital for investments. William J. Grede said present tax rates "choke off new savings at their source, thus making economic growth dependent on income tax rates with future reductions to 40 per cent.

A one per cent cut in individual income tax rates in the middle income bracket.

Reduction in the corporate income tax rate from 52 per cent to 50 per cent in the first year and further reduction to 40 per cent in future years.

Shorter, more realistic tax write-offs on depreciable assets to encourage investment in new plants and equipment.

Today, technical assistance is a weapon whose potency has been newly recognized by the Russians. Iron Curtain technicians wait eagerly for a chance to supplant Americans in the underdeveloped World.

Quietly, without publicity fanfare, a little army of American technicians chalked up an impressive record as ambassadors of good will. It numbered only 2,961 in 1957. Before Congress this session will be a proposal to increase the number to 5,302, and to increase the annual budget by 20 million dollars to 150 million for operations in 57 countries in the next 18 months.

Grede, chairman of the organization's tax committee, asked Congress to cut personal income taxes from 20 to 15 per cent in the lower brackets, and from 91 to 42 per cent in the top brackets. Corporation taxes would be cut from a maximum of 91 per cent to 42 per cent.

Kills Patrolman, Surrenders

Panicky Slayer Gives Up

CHICAGO (AP)—A panicky gunman—hunted by nearly every cop in the city for the slaying of a fellow patrolman—surrendered to the FBI last night, saying he feared he "was going to be shot on sight."

George Starcevic, 23, his hair combed carefully into a ducktail, turned himself in to the FBI and then was turned over to Chicago police.

When newsmen asked about his surrender, he snarled: "Do you know how hot them streets are?"

All day long, the streets were alive with patrols searching for Starcevic, implicated by a companion in the fatal shooting of Patrolman John Quirk, 23, early yesterday.

Starcevic's companion Nick LaPapa Jr., 23, was seized at a hospital where he sought medical attention for a hand injury he said he suffered when he broke a pitcher. Police said he later admitted the wound was inflicted in the Quirk slaying and implicated Starcevic.

From admissions by Starcevic and LaPapa, police constructed this account:

The pair forced their way into Quirk's parked car on the near North Side and got into the back seat. They forced the off-duty patrolman and his date Caroline Smith, 18, a student of modeling, to give up money and jewels.

Then LaPapa ordered Quirk to drive around the neighborhood and pull into an alley. In an apparently desperate gamble to foil the gunmen, Quirk rammed his car into a parked car, whipped out a pistol and started shooting. The gunmen returned fire and Quirk slumped down, mortally wounded.

Miss Smith, a willowy brunette who came to Chicago from Mount Vernon, Ill., identified LaPapa and Starcevic at police headquarters. She said she recognized one by his voice, the other by sight.

"I'm sorry it happened," LaPapa said.

"Yeah, I'm sorry too," muttered Starcevic.

Miss Smith in a voice scarcely above a whisper, replied, "That won't do any good."

As newsmen crowded about him, Starcevic said he fired "two or three times, but straight up in the air. And I heard five shots before that."

At the same time, LaPapa, the son of a Chicago union official, denied firing at all. "That's how I hurt my hand," he insisted, "lunging at the guy."

The two were linked by police at a series of showups with a gang of stickup men who preyed on taverns in the near North Side district.

Lt. James McMahon, head of the homicide division, said that a few hours before the slaying, the pair raided a tavern and robbed patrons. After disposing of their loot, LaPapa and Starcevic had a few drinks in the Loop, then about midnight began looking for a new victim, McMahon said.

No formal charges were placed against the pair immediately.
