No Survivors Found in Wreckage of Jet After Crash With 95 Aboard in New York

Firemen Search Wreckage of Jet in Waters Near Airport

Disaster Nation's Worst Involving a Single Plane

NEW YORK (AP) — An American Airlines jet liner with 95 persons aboard crashed and burned today in the nation's largest disaster involving a single plane. Police said there were no survivors.

The Boeing 707 astrojet turned suddenly and plunged into a marsh off southern Long Island just after taking off from Idlewild Airport for Los Angeles.

The highest previous toll in a single plane was 78 lives lost in the crash of a Trans World Airways Constellation in a cornfield near Chicago's Midway Airport last Sept. 1.

A two-plane collision over New York cost 134 lives in 1960.

Police and firemen wading in hip boots or rowing in small boats searched swampy Long Island in search for survivors of the American airliner but found only bodies and wreckage.

Two hours after the crash they had found 32 bodies.

The airline listed one of the passengers as W. Alton Jones, board chairman of the Cities Service Co. and a golfing and quiet shooting companion of former President Eisenhower.

Ironically, the $5.5-million plane crashed in sparkling clear weather, the first fair day after almost a week of rain, and fog that had delayed or canceled hundreds of flights.

Coast Guardsmen at the scene just off the south shore of Long Island said they found no sign of survivors.

The tragedy came just as the city was about to give a joyful welcome to Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., the astronaut who orbited the earth.

Jones had been a director of Chrysler Corp. since 1945. He was a member of Chrysler's finance committee and owned 2,000 shares of Chrysler stock.

Jones reportedly was on his way to visit Eisenhower in California and the two planned a fishing trip to Mexico.

The plane, with 87 passengers and 8 crew members aboard, had taken off from Idlewild Airport for Los Angeles at 10:07 a.m. Glenn was due here at nearby LaGuardia Airport at 11:15 a.m.

The aircraft, a modernized Boeing 707 known as an Astrojet, crashed in a swampy area known as Broad Channel in Jamaica Bay off Far Rockaway in Queens. The area is just off the southern shore of Long Island.

The plane was half in the water and half on the marsh.

Huge clouds of smoke rose from the wreckage.

Witnesses said the plane climbed to about 700 feet from Idlewild, then turned left and plunged at a steep angle.

Some witnesses said they saw flames coming from the plane before the crash, others did not, but the plane was in flames immediately after the impact.

The plane was known as "Flight No. 1."

Redistricting Plan Passed by Senate

A Congressional redistricting plan affecting Oakland and Macomb Counties passed the State Senate yesterday but Gov. Swainson said he would veto it if it came to him.

The governor saw the plan, proposed by Sen. Frank D. Beadle, R-St. Clair, as "political expediency" and "gerrymandering."

The plan also would take away 59,858 constituents from U. S. Rep. William S. Broomfield's 18th District.

Proposed by Beadle was the creation of a 19th district which would comprise the cities of Center Line, East Detroit, Roseville, St. Clair Shores, Utica, Warren and Sterling Township in Macomb County and Ferndale, Hazel Park and Madison Heights in Oakland County.

The new 7th district would include the upper part of Macomb and Lapeer, St. Clair, Sanilac, Tuscola and Huron Counties.

Beadle admitted his bill was a "status quo" plan. He said, however, that it had the best chance of passage by both houses of the legislature.

GETS 19 VOTES
"At least we passed a reapportionment plan," he said.

Beadle said it was not his intention to open the 7th district for a cinch Republican victory but added, "it conceivably could happen."

The 1960 census gave Michigan another seat in the U. S. House of Representatives. If the legislature doesn't create a new district for that representation, the post would be filled by an election in the state at large.

Beadle's plan would shift O'Hara from the present 7th district to the new 19th and create a vacancy in the 7th.

GETS 19 VOTES
It won 19 Senate votes — one more than that required for passage. The bill was approved after a 30 minute debate, in which consideration of two other proposals was blocked.

Swainson said the Beadle plan "is totally unacceptable and" (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Shrieking Crowds Let Loose With Confetti, Roars as Hero Passes

NEW YORK (AP) — John Glenn, America's hero of outer space, rode up spaceless Manhattan today in a titanic thunder of cheers and torrent of confetti.

Up the canyons of lower Broadway — where Lindbergh and Byrd and Ederle had gone before him — came the beaming, freckled Marine. The motorcade began from Bowling Green at 10 p. m.

The weather was perfect bright and sunny — but the mood of the city was marred. About an hour before the astronauts landed, a huge American Airlines jet crashed near Idlewild Airport with 95 persons aboard.

"It's wonderful, wonderful!" shouted the Marine astronaut, as the crowds shrieked and confetti, torn paper, and at times, whole newspapers came pouring down from the skyscrapers of lower Manhattan.

Glenn rode atop the back seat of an open car and each time he waved it was like a conductor leading a massive symphony of the crowd roared still louder each time.

In the Niagara of confetti, thousands of signs in the hands of shrieking adults and school children welcomed Glenn up the canyon of heroes. Several said "Glenn for president."

From Bowling Green, up through the jammed financial district, past historic Trinity Church and the corner of Wall Street, all the way up to city hall, the crowd blew its stack in joyous welcome to Glenn, his family and six fellow astronauts.

At many points screaming spectators broke through police barriers and tried to reach Glenn's car, but were pushed back by police.

All along lower Broadway, the crowd was packed tight curbside to building line. Amid the noise, the chimes of Trinity Church playing the Marine Corps hymn could barely be heard as Glenn's car went by.

With him in his open car rode his beaming wife, Annie, and Vice President Lyndon Johnson. Glenn delighted the mob with his smile, his frequent waving and his thumbs-up gesture.

At city hall, another dense crowd roared "we want Glenn!" as the man of the hour climbed the steps of the reviewing stand followed by his six fellow astronauts.

State Lawmaker Taken to Hospital in Lansing

LANSING (AP) — Rep. Gail Handley, R-Eau Claire, was taken to Edward W. Sparrow Hospital today after he suffered an apparent heart attack in the House chamber.

An ambulance squad was called to the capital after Handley, 64, complained of severe chest pains.

Dec. 16, 1960: 134 killed in New York Collision.

June 30, 1956: 128 die in Grand Canyon collision.

Word Awaited on Air N-Tests

Kennedy Is Expected to Tell U.S. Friday on TV: 'We Will Resume'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Well-informed officials said today President Kennedy has decided to go ahead with a series of nuclear weapons tests in the atmosphere. They indicated the shots will not start until April.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy will tell the nation and the world-Friday night whether the United States will resume nuclear tests in the atmosphere, says an informed source.

Indications are he will order the tests to begin.

Kennedy's announcement, the source said Wednesday night, will be made on a national television broadcast.

Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, refused today to speculate on when, how or whether Kennedy would announce his decision.

Salinger had no comment on published reports that the decision is to test and will be made public in a television and radio address.

The press secretary declined to say whether he talked with network executives on-air he made to New York yesterday.

Kennedy said earlier that by the end of February he would know how much ground the Soviet Union gained by its fall series of atmospheric tests and he would then be in a position to make a decision.

But an air of mystery had surrounded the timing of the announcement.

Wednesday the White House declined to say if the President had made up his mind. But there was a hint something was in the wind when his press secretary, Pierre Salinger, left for an unannounced trip to New York.

The White House did not reveal the reason for Salinger's trip. Presumably he went to New York to make arrangements for the television broadcast.

sent thermometers plunging to 2 below, the lowest temperature for the day in 30 years.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said Pontiac can expect more cold weather tonight with the low 5 below to 5 above.

But behind the clouds there is always a silver lining. No new snow is predicted and Friday's forecast is a warmer high of 33.

Morning northerly winds at 10 miles per hour will become southwesterly to south tonight and Friday.

City Commission Takes Hat Off to Pontiac Motor

The City Commission passed a resolution in recognition of the 1961 sales record established by Pontiac Motor.

The resolution extends the congratulations of city fathers to E. M. (Pete) Estes, general manager, and Frank Bridge, sales manager, "and to the many and many of that important company who are responsible for placing third in all car sales throughout the world."

"This is a tribute to the rugged qualities and mechanical excellence of the Pontiac cars."

The document applauded Pontiac Motor employees and executives for producing a car with "the latest, beautiful design and genuine worth" of the 1961 Pontiac.

Clear 2 Friends of Dead Youth

Shelby, Avon Twp. Boys Pass Lie Detector Tests in McDonald Case

The two boys who were with 15-year-old Randall McDonald the night before he was found dead near a Rochester skating rink Saturday have been cleared of any suspicion of foul play.

Thomas Pierce, 16, of 8228 Dequindre Road, Shelby Township, and Thomas Kintworth, 13, of 1631 Avon Road, Avon Township, took lie detector tests yesterday. Their stories that they had not had a fight with Randy were confirmed by the tests, according to authorities.

"Now we're right back where we started," Rochester Police Chief Samuel Howitt said today. He was referring specifically to a still-unexplained bruise on the top of the dead boy's head.

Witnesses have said that Randy fell several times while drinking with his friends, and tracks show that he had also stumbled around near the spot where he was found.

Dr. Richard E. Olsen, pathologist at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac, said he doubts that the bruise on the boy's head was caused by the fall. He said the bruise on the skull could have been caused by a fall. Randy also had another bruise on the temple and a blacked eye.

His death was attributed to exposure. The boy also showed he had consumed enough liquor to make him drunk.

Slated to take a lie detector test this afternoon was Roger McIntosh, 21, of 3134 Eastwood Road, Pontiac Township. He is the man who said a bottle of gin to the boys Friday night.

McIntosh pleaded guilty Tuesday to the charge of furnishing intoxicants to a minor and is serving 90 days in jail.

Find No Survivors in Jet Wreckage

Coast Guardsmen at the scene said:

"There is now only floating, smoking debris in the water."

Police at Idlewild said at the same time:

"Apparently there were no survivors."

VICTIM IN CRASH — W. Alton Jones, chairman of the board of Cities Service Corp., shown with former President Eisenhower in 1959, is listed among the 87 passengers aboard the American Airlines jet plane that crashed shortly after take-off from New York's Idlewild Airport today. Jones was on his way to California to visit Eisenhower and to join him in a fishing trip in Mexico.

The crash scene was about three miles from the Idlewild control tower.

The crew of a Mohawk Airlines plane that had taken off immediately after the Astrojet witnessed the crash and radioed an alarm back to the airport.

William Martin, a member of the Board Chamber Volunteer Fire Department, said:

"There was an awful loud explosion that actually shook the fire house building a half-mile from the scene. Then a few minutes later we could see heavy black smoke — a very thick column of it. It went about 150 feet into the air."

The Broad Channel and other fire companies in the area sent ambulances and fire apparatus.

Coast Guard helicopters and a city fireboat converged on the scene.

Police Commissioner Michael J. Murphy sent a large detachment of police, including 50 who had been assigned to Manhattan for the ticker-tape parade for Glenn.

Also assigned to the crash were 25 detectives who had been attending a session on narcotics at the police academy.

The Civil Aeronautics Board office at Idlewild dispatched its agents.

Three alarms were sounded for the crash, including the plane. The fire was reported under control at 10:50 a.m. — but by that time only wreckage remained.

The crash site today was the first accident of a Boeing 707 in this country involving a loss of life for passengers, and the second in the world.

Another 707, owned by Sabena Airlines, crashed near Brussels, Belgium, on Feb. 15, 1961, and killed 73 persons. Among them were 18 young American figure skaters.

There have been other fatal jet accidents in this country but they either involved only crewmen or the aircraft were manufactured by other firms.

The 707 which plunged into Jamaica Bay was what Boeing terms a turbofan-powered 707 and was one of the company's latest models.

It costs $5.5 million and can carry 129 passengers, depending on the seating arrangement. American had 51 of them, before the last day.

All eight crew members in the crash were Californians. 7 spokesmen here said the crew had arrived in New York from Boston this morning to make the West Coast flight.

Lottie Lennon, Broad Channel, said her house shook "like an explosion."

"I never heard anything like it," she said. "I thought it was the house being bombed."

Mrs. Lennon said the smoke rose from a spot in the swampland about a mile from her home at the corner of Fourth Road and Cross Bay Blvd.

Redistricting Plan Would Carve County

not meet approval if it comes to my desk. It represents sheer political expediency. It is a 'don't rock the boat' scheme which allows every congressman to keep his seat and creates an additional one by carving out a gerrymandered district."

The governor said, "The Beadle plan is a shocking example of political manipulation to tear down representative government." He said the rest of the state's congressional districts would still range from 171,000 to 865,000 in population.

Swainson said reapportionment should be based on equal representation for all citizens. "The Senate has turned its back on this basic requirement of representative government and seeks to freeze congressional districts in its own unrepresentative image."

The bill was sent to the House, which today is scheduled to take up a redistricting plan by Rep. James Folks, R-Horion.

The Folks' proposal is similar to the Beadle plan and Swainson said it "is as bad and as unacceptable."

Beadle's plan just barely made it after two Democrats crossed party lines to join 17 Republicans in approving it. Sens. Philip Ralston, D-Ron Mountain, and Charles McManis, D-Doughton, said they went along with the bill because it leaves the Upper Peninsula with two congressmen.

Powers Is Kept Out of Public

CIA Chief Postpones His Testimony Before Congressional Units

WASHINGTON (AP) — The question of whether U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers will appear before congressional committees and hold a public news conference remained up in the air today.

Director John A. McCone of the Central Intelligence Agency had been scheduled to brief two congressional groups today on the government's interrogation of Powers.

But, McCone, informed the committee Wednesday night that he had not completed his review of the report prepared by a special board of inquiry.

The board, headed by Judge E. Barrett Prettyman, finished its job Wednesday and gave the report to McCone, an administration spokesman said.

A decision on whether to summon Powers before the committees is not planned until after McCone testifies.

Involved in a special Senate watchdog committee on the Powers case and the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee, which had announced it would call Powers, and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which also is interested in the case, both were notified of the delay.

Powers has been in the hands of government interrogators since he was returned from a Soviet prison Feb. 10 in exchange for Soviet spy Rudolf I. Abel.

The Day in Birmingham Seek $50,500 in Drive for Community House

BIRMINGHAM — The 1962 Community House fund drive for $50,500 was launched today and will continue through March 31.

The opening of the campaign was marked in Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills, Beverly Hills and Birmingham Township with the signing of a joint proclamation designating the March 1-31 period as "Community House Fund Week."

General Drive Chairman Edward H. Lerchen and Mrs. C. Theron Van Dusen, co-chairman, expressed the hope that "public spirited citizens who appreciate its growing importance to the area would make the drive a success through their generous contributions."

In addition to issuing of the proclamation, pledge cards were mailed today to 20,000 area residents; two theaters began running a short film strip on the campaign; and almost every city business establishment had three-sided mobile posters suspended from ceiling fixtures.

The proclamation was signed in a brief ceremony at the Community House by Birmingham's Mayor Florence Whitely, Marvin Cline, Beverly Hills village president; Lyman Craig, acting mayor of Bloomfield Hills; and Arno L. Huet, Birmingham Township supervisor.

The goal is the minimum amount needed to pay for the current services of the Community House, and to provide for repairs and maintenance. It represents 90 per cent of the 1962 budget.

The balance must come from income producing activities such as rentals and adult education classes.

The Birmingham Board of Education has awarded contracts for the construction of Meadow Lake Elementary School, which is expected to be completed in December.

The general construction contract went to the Trowell Construction Co. of Detroit for its bid of $346,000. Mechanical work will be done by the Brady Plumbing and Heating Co. of Detroit for $137,150.

Kitchen equipment will be supplied by the Illinois Range Co. of Mt. Prospect, Ill., for $13,382. The contract for electrical work will be awarded at a later date.

St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Birmingham, will sponsor a pancake supper Tuesday in the parish house.

Served from 5:30 to 7 p.m. the dinner will be prepared by Bertha and Wallace Johnson.

Chairman Mrs. Robert Montgomery will be assisted by the Young People's Fellowship.

Tickets are available at the door and children under six will be admitted free of charge.

Russell Alstrom Service for Russell Alstrom, 62, of 727 Ruffner St., will be 2 p.m. Saturday at the Manly Bailey Funeral Home. Burial will be in Roseland Park Cemetery, Berkeley.

Mr. Alstrom died yesterday after a long illness.

He had been a press operator for the Brass Forging Co. of Ferndale, retiring in 1959.

Surviving are his wife Mildred; three daughters, Mrs. William R. Part of Wyandotte, Mrs. David Sevel of Berkeley and Mrs. Charles Hill of Southfield; a son, Jack of Pontiac; one brother and sister; and nine grandchildren.

Trading Stamps Firm Going Out of Business; Bankruptcy Suit Filed

DETROIT AP — Merchants Green Stamps Co. announced today it is going out of business, leaving an estimated 100,000 housewife-philatelists in Michigan and Ohio holding the bag.

The firm is folding, said its attorney, Fred B. Collier, because a group of creditors are filing in voluntary bankruptcy proceedings against it in U.S. District Court.

Collier said the company, which supplied stamps to about 200 independent retail businesses in Southeastern Michigan and Northern Ohio, has been in trouble for several months. A series of last-ditch maneuvers to save it failed, he added.

The firm owes approximately $4,600 in state sales taxes, $8,000 in withholding taxes and $1,400 in taxes to the City of Detroit.

It was closed Feb. 15 by a state warrant charging nonpayment of sales taxes, but had planned to reopen and discharge its financial obligations, according to the owner, Donald S. Zimberg, 32, of Oak Park.

Zimberg said he learned of the creditors' plans following a meeting Wednesday. "I'm numb," he said. "The biggest thing that killed us was people saying 'we were going out of business.'"

Zimberg acquired control of the firm last December, after renting two buildings to its former owners for several years, by combining the back rent owed him with his own capital.

OK Wages Bill for State Works

House Approves Plan Requiring 'Prevailing' Area Pay in Michigan

LANSING UP—A bill to require contractors on state projects to pay the prevailing wage of the area where the work is taking place was on its way to the Senate today.

The House approved the measure 61-36 Wednesday despite objections that it would "strait jacket" contractors and make a wage "cear" of the state labor commissioner.

Rep. Josephine Hunsinger, D-Detroit, and nine other Democrats sponsored the measure, which would require contractors to pay the prevailing wage rates for construction workers in the area. A schedule of wage rates would be included in the work specifications and printed on the bidding forms.

Mrs. Hunsinger said the plan had been adopted in numerous other states and helped maintain high labor standards.

"This bill would put all contractors in a strait jacket," said Rep. Lester J. Allen, R-Ithaca. "It would eliminate competition in contracts."

Rep. Robert E. Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe, asserted it would make a "cear" of the labor commissioner by giving him authority to decide wage rates for various projects.

Another bill passed by the House and routed to the Senate would permit law suits against parents of youngsters under 16 who willfully and maliciously injure other persons. Maximum recovery would be $500.

Currently, the law allows parents to be sued only for property damage.

Reservists Honor JFK With Place in Hall of Fame

WASHINGTON UP—The Reserve Officers Association Wednesday gave President Kennedy a place in its "Nation's Minuteman Hall of Fame."

National officers of the association called at the White House to present Kennedy with a certificate, calling him "a patriotic service to his country, in war and peace, and particularly for his sacrifice in combat which exemplifies the citizens reservist tradition."

Kennedy's picture, which will identify him as a Navy lieutenant in the South Pacific in World War II, will be placed in the association's hall of fame. The hall will be a part of the association's memorial building to be erected near the Capitol.

Among others honored will be Col. Harry S. Truman, one of the association's founders.

Retiring as A.D.

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—Warren Giese is stepping down as athletic director at the University of South Carolina, it was revealed Wednesday night.

Columnist Proves There's No Fool Like 'Old' Fool

(Editor's Note — The real April fool in the following tale is the author, Hal Boyle, who recently turned 41, has lost another month. He thought today was April first instead of March 1. His excuse: "You can't trust columnists today like you could in the good old days.")

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Amos Toggie, president of the Giant Acme Toggieworks Corp., sat in lonely splendor in his office as he puffed on a big dollar cigar.

His secretary entered.

"Hector Squiggle to see you, sir," she murmured.

"Who's Hector Squiggle?" demanded Mr. Toggie.

"He's in our research and development department," replied the secretary.

"Been with us 19½ years."

"That isn't my fault," grumbled Mr. Toggie. "He's got a complaint, tell him to take it up with somebody in personnel."

"He doesn't want to complain, sir. He says he just wants to thank you."

"Thank me?" Mr. Toggie looked surprised. He hadn't been thanked personally by an employee since 1941, and now couldn't remember what the occasion had been. But the idea of it happening again intrigued him.

"Show him in," he ordered.

WELL, HERE GOES

A moment later in stepped a slender, nervous man with thinning hair.

"I just wanted to express my heartfelt appreciation for—" Hector Squiggle began obsequiously.

"For what, Squiggle?" said Mr. Toggie gruffly.

"For the merit raise, sir," answered Squiggle, and continued in a grateful gasp. "With my dough here ready for college, my mother's recent death, my wife's illness, all on top of an increase of rent."

"For the merit raise, sir," answered Squiggle, and continued in a grateful gasp. "With my dough here ready for college, my mother's recent death, my wife's illness, all on top of an increase of rent."

"I never signed that," said Mr. Toggie. Squiggle looked down at the calendar on his boss' desk—April 1.

"Someone must have traced your signature from an announcement on the bulletin board," he said.

Well, it just couldn't have come at a more welcome time.

"What in thunderation are you gabbling about?" growled Mr. Toggie.

Squiggle handed over a letter, it read:

"You've been doing a fine job, Hector, and I just want to tell you personally I'm upping your salary $7.50 weekly."

The letter appeared to bear Mr. Toggie's own famed illegible executive signature, which resembled the tracks made by a hen trying to escape a weasel in wet snow.

"I never signed that," said Mr. Toggie. Squiggle looked down at the calendar on his boss' desk—April 1.

"Someone must have traced your signature from an announcement on the bulletin board," he said.

He said, "We've both been made the victims of a cruel prank. Sorry to have troubled you, sir."

THE PLOT THICKENS

"Just a moment, Squiggle," Mr. Toggie said, drumming on his desk. He stabbed an angry finger down on the phone buzzer to his personnel office.

"Jake," he rasped. "I want you to put down Squiggle for a $7.50 a week, make it $15—pay boost. No, I didn't say Squiggle. I said Squiggle. Don't you even know who's working for us? The man's been here 19½ years."

Mr. Toggie slammed down the receiver, came around his desk, slipped Hector on his back, and stuck a dollar cigar in his pocket.

"That'll teach the smart aleck in this office they can't play jokes on the old man," he chuckled.

Squiggle, grinning.

"I'll show 'em who's the real fool," I mean Squiggle—you're doing a great job."

THE LITTLE MAN WINS

Hector stopped off and bought a steak and a bottle of champagne after leaving the office at the end of the day. At home as he sipped the champagne, he told the story of his adventure to his wife.

"I wonder who in the world could have written that note to Mr. Toggie?" she asked.

"Well, who got the raise?" said Squiggle, grinning.

"Why, Hector!" exclaimed his wife. "I never thought you had it in you!"

Top Hope of Western Diplomats

Nigeria Seen Key to African Democracy

(Editor's Note—The following is the fourth in a series of eight "Great Decisions" dispatches suggested by the Foreign Policy Association to stimulate public discussion on world problems. The topic is: Nigeria: Democracy in a new climate?)

By WILBUR G. LANDREY

LAGOS (UPI)—Nigeria may be the future of democracy in black Africa, or Western diplomats and observers believe.

If democracy and the freedoms nurtured in the West can grow and flourish here in the same soil with impatient nationalism, regionalism and underdevelopment, then they have a chance elsewhere in black Africa as well.

"If Nigeria fails, it will be a setback to the evolution of constructive nationalism in the whole area," one senior Western diplomat said recently.

He was referring not only to the fate of Western democratic ideals but to the evolution of regimes moderate and constructive in their approach to international affairs.

ORIENTED TO WEST

African issues naturally come first in Nigeria's foreign policy. In the East-West cold war, the country is "nonaligned." But in such important fields as education, economic policy and trade, the country is oriented towards the West.

An indication of the importance the United States places on Nigeria is the fact that Washington has promised to provide $25 million during the next five years to help with the country's economic development. It will be the largest American aid program south of the Sahara.

With an estimated 40 million people, Nigeria is the most populous country in Africa, and its problems are the problems of Africa—regionalism, tribalism, ignorance, disease, poverty and underdevelopment.

Its politics are rough and tumble. But no one who has listened to debates in the House of Assembly, its benches lined with legislators in red and white turbans and robes of yellow, purple, blue and green—can doubt that the opposition is real and that the cut and thrust of democratic debate is ever present.

Throughout the country there is an intense desire for education and an optimism that Nigeria will succeed.

Discovered by Portuguese mariners for the outside world in the 15th century, this was the part of Africa known for 300 years as the slave coast. Tens of thousands of American Negroes came from West Africa.

"WHITE MAN'S GRAVE"

The chipped and worn tombstones in Fajal Cemetery in the center of Lagos bear testimony to the fact that the "White Man's Grave" was also the reason the malaria-carrying mosquito.

Parliamentary democracy as evolved in Britain had its first chance in Black Africa when Ghana, up the coast, gained its independence in 1947. Parliament still sits in Ghana but most of the leading opposition figures are in jail or exile.

Despite a solid elected majority, President Kwame Nkrumah—known as Oquayefo (the Messiah) to his followers—has steadily become more authoritarian and reduced the opposition on the grounds that it was plotting violence and overthrow of his legally elected government.

Parliamentary democracy has another chance in Nigeria, which gained its independence from Britain on Oct. 1, 1960.

Nigeria is not likely to go authoritarian in the same way that Ghana did, but other things may happen. The biggest danger is that it may come apart at the seams. It is often said that Nigeria "is not one country; it is three."

There are about 250 different tribes in Nigeria and as many languages and dialects. But in fact the country is divided into three distinct regions—the Northern region, the Western region and the Eastern region. Lagos, the capital, is federal territory like Washington, D.C. Together the regions form the federation of Nigeria. And federation is probably the most difficult of all forms of government.

DIVIDES NATION

The Niger River, which gives NIGERIA SEEN—Galley 2 the country its name, flows into Nigeria from the northwest. It forms a big letter Y on the map with the River Benue.

Overlapping the top of the Y is the Northern region, which is three-quarters of Nigeria and contains no more than one-half its population. Under the western arm of the Y, west of the Niger is the Western region. And under the eastern arm of the Y is the Eastern region.

The regions all gained self-government before Nigeria was independent and have a large measure of power. The federal government is mainly responsible for defense and security, foreign affairs and fiscal and commercial policy. It is weaker than the federal government in the United States.

A dominant regional party controls the government of each region. Together the Northern and Eastern parties form a coalition federal government. And the Western party forms the federal opposition.

The Northern party, the Northern Peoples Congress (NPC), is the senior coalition member in the federal government with the federal prime minister, Sir Abubakar Tafawa Bewa, and 11 ministers. The Eastern party, the National Council of Nigeria and the Cameroons (NCNC), also has 11 federal ministers, and another minister is nonparty.

Because of the greater size and population of the Northern region, the NPC has by far the greatest number of seats in the federal assembly. It might well win a federal majority in new elections and try to govern alone.

PROVIDES SAFEGUARD

But the presence of three indestructible regional parties provides a strong safeguard against Nigeria going the way of Ghana. Any attempt to impose Northern rule on the East and West would risk breaking up the federation.

A unified Nigeria dates only from 1914 and was the creation of the British. In that year, the colony of Lagos, the protectorate of Southern Nigeria and the protectorate of Northern Nigeria were lumped together to be administered as one.

Each of the regions has its distinctive character.

The North is Moslem in religion and tradition. For centuries its link with the outside was the great caravan routes across the desert from the walled city of Kano—today a great air hub—to the Mediterranean.

For years after the Europeans discovered Nigeria, the North lagged behind the rest of the country in education and political development. Most of its civil servants came from the South and it bitterly resented the fact.

In the past few years, "north-orientation" of the regional civil service has been going on steadily until few Southerners are left.

In contrast to the other regions, the North is still semifertile under its Fulani emirs whose ancestors conquered the country in a "holy war" early in the 19th century. Women cannot vote as they can in the rest of Nigeria, and the influence of Moslem law is strong.

The climate of the high savannah lands which fades into steppe and then desert is dryer than the humid "heat" of the southern rain forests and coast. The North speaks Hausa, the language of its largest tribe and completely different from the dominant languages of the East and West. Observers in Northern Nigeria say that its leaders tend to think of their region first. As one diplomat put it: "They believe that real unity is impossible until the North catches up with the East and West."

Company Plans to Pay Employees in $2 Bills

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—Executives of a manufacturing plant plan to pay 450 employees Friday in $2 bills to mark the 30th anniversary of the company.

Plant manager Joseph Medall, vice president of Union Underwear Co., said that as the $2 bills filter into stores "it will illustrate graphically how an industry benefits the local economy."

Youth, Alcohol Mixture Is Deadly Combination

A Pontiac township youth of 21 has 90 days in Oakland County Jail to think over his part in the circumstances which led to the discovery of a Rochester 13-year-old dead in the snow.

This is the maximum jail sentence for furnishing alcohol to a minor. But what probably began as a "favor" to some boys will be on his conscience for much longer than 90 days.

The Rochester boy is not the only case of death following the interpenetration of youth and booze.

We've had two others in the last year.

It isn't always possible to trace the source of the illegal liquor, but this time it was. And the justice handed out the maximum.

Alcoholism is as great a problem as narcotics addiction. Thousands of lives are ruined each year by both, but the heavy penalties have been reserved for the dope pushers.

It's time to consider increasing the penalty, as more and more evidence of teen-age drinking is revealed. This problem is growing daily, but the methods of combating it are not keeping pace.

Need Inspection Law for Ski Lift Devices

This State's fast growing winter sport of skiing seems headed for some type of state legislation requiring inspection of ski lift devices.

Since we have already had some serious accidents and one death this year, safety protection is needed. We can't conceive of anyone being against a law that will prevent future tragic accidents as a result of unsafe ski lifts.

All public conveyances such as trains, planes, elevators, must stand rigid inspection. This is for the protection of the passengers as well as the operators. Why not the ski lifts?

The bill which has been proposed by Sen. RAYMOND D. DZENDZEL, D-Detroit, would require annual inspections by State Labor Commissioner JAMES A. BOWEN. The operators would be required to pay a maximum of $250 for the inspection.

Also, the bill would require the department of labor to set minimum rules and regulations in accordance with National American Standards Association ski code.

The bill, sounds reasonable and if it will safeguard against the use of faulty equipment and help alleviate future skiing accidents, this newspaper is all for it.

So Now the Russians Want to Join the U.S.

Now that we've equalled and surpassed the Russian orbit show, NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV wants to pool the information we now have. This is to help us find the path to peace, the head Red says, plausibly.

Somewhat the information on the Russian trips has been restricted, but probably by Red tape. Nikita obviously meant to share everything with us, but some minor bureaucratic lost it through a hole in his briefcase.

We can't help but paint the mental picture of a fat little boy clutching his bag of goodies, unwilling to share until he sees it in his benefit.

Is this too different from the atomic testing ban? The Russians were against testing until their experiments were ready. Then they went ahead, despite the world's opposition. When their test series was over, out of the other side of the mouth came the obvious, "Let's go back to no tests."

His name is GLENN, NIKITA. He went around three times. What else do you need?

JFK Scapegoat for Labor Leaders

WASHINGTON — Strange news items are appearing these days—as, for instance, reports that the AFL-CIO is voicing criticism of President Kennedy and is predicting a "Kennedy recession" if he doesn't soon put through a program to pep up the nation's economy.

Such criticism can be misunderstood as meaning a break between labor and LAWRENCE, the administration which it helped so effectively at the polls in the last presidential election. The truth is that something deeper is involved.

For the all-important fact is that labor union leaders are coming face-to-face with reality and are looking for a scapegoat on whom to blame their expected inability to get heretofore unlimited increases in wages and benefits for their members.

The facts are piling up against the labor union politicians. The leaders are confronted with a simple truth—American businesses face stiff competition from abroad, where wage costs are lower.

In the not-far-distant future the United States is to reduce tariffs. Goods are to come in from the European Common Market countries in large quantities. How can a high level of employment be maintained when that happens?

It isn't enough to rely on "retraining" programs. Something more fundamental has to be done in labor-management relations.

So it's probably an easy way out for labor leaders to begin blaming the administration for not creating more public works programs and for failing to stimulate employment artificially in other ways.

However, for the last 30 years, my pulse rate has been from 45 to 60 a minute. Every third, or fourth beat is "no beat."

Some 12 years ago I had an electrocardiogram, not because I wanted it, but because my doctor thought it might throw some light on the nature of the series of blackouts I had at that time—momentary lapses of consciousness, occurring at intervals of weeks or months.

After a year or so, or perhaps half a dozen such spells, the spells ceased. The electrocardiogram was negative.

Tentative diagnoses of medical friends (I do, too, have medical friends) were epilepsy, adenoma polycystoma (low blood sugar), brain tumor and Adams-Stokes disease—name for permanent bradycardia (slow heart) with attacks of syncope (fainting) or epilepsy.

One doctor proposed more intensive study of the possibility of brain tumor. I promised to think about it, but soon after that, the spells ceased.

obtain the maximum of productivity's benefits, even if shareholders get nothing, and if the public has to bear increased prices instead of benefiting from lower prices.

Incidentally, the steel negotiations are being watched carefully by labor and management leaders in other industries. Already they don't like what they hear. They don't relish governmental intervention at all. They are inclined to voice criticism publicly and privately of the role played by Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg.

He, however, is doing what the President wants him to do—trying to avert a steel strike. The secretary cannot help it if he has to take a course which he never could have supported had he remained as general counsel of the steelworkers' union.

U.S. CAN'T STAND IT

But the backs of economic life are the country can't stand

Dr. William Brady Says:

Slow Heart Beat Spell Nothing to Panic About

The pulse rate of a healthy adult is about 72 per minute and he is expected to have a rate of 18 per minute. The pulse rate varies from 66 to 78 a minute in healthy persons at rest and the breathing from 15 to 20 a minute.

I'm a healthy person. I thank God every day that I have enjoyed excellent health all my life.

However, for the last 30 years, my pulse rate has been from 45 to 60 a minute. Every third, or fourth beat is "no beat."

Some 12 years ago I had an electrocardiogram, not because I wanted it, but because my doctor thought it might throw some light on the nature of the series of blackouts I had at that time—momentary lapses of consciousness, occurring at intervals of weeks or months.

After a year or so, or perhaps half a dozen such spells, the spells ceased. The electrocardiogram was negative.

Tentative diagnoses of medical friends (I do, too, have medical friends) were epilepsy, adenoma polycystoma (low blood sugar), brain tumor and Adams-Stokes disease—name for permanent bradycardia (slow heart) with attacks of syncope (fainting) or epilepsy.

One doctor proposed more intensive study of the possibility of brain tumor. I promised to think about it, but soon after that, the spells ceased.

Adams-Stokes disease is the medical term for permanent bradycardia (slow heart beat) with attacks of syncope (fainting) or mid epilepsy (pefit-mal). One doctor suggested that my heart might be or skip several beats in succession and that would interrupt the supply of oxygen to the vital brain centers for several seconds, long enough to produce unconsciousness or even—that's interesting, if true, I said, and hid myself to the bowling green to forget it.

Smiles

American school children are the healthiest in the world, says a doctor. Their bad spells in school don't count.

Wants to Be Notified When Schools Close

When we have snow and freezing rain, WPON radio station announces that schools in surrounding areas either close or just have buses on main road. Why doesn't the Pontiac Board of Education do the same?

Our boys and girls walk from one-half to one mile up icy roads in pouring rain to stand waiting sometimes an hour only to return home because the bus didn't come.

Parents: Don't Neglect Children

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE CASE, L.446: Timmy R., aged 10, was in a crowd of boys on a sandlot.

They were playing baseball. "One of the group decided, so the three ringleaders served as captains of the rival teams.

One by one they took turns picking players from the group. Timmy stood up straight and thrust out his chest. He smiled ingratiatingly.

But each time a choice was made, Timmy was omitted. And when the full roster of both teams was completed, Timmy was still unchosen.

My car was parked within eavesdropping distance, so I had witnessed the entire scene. And I had observed his excessive eagerness to be included on one of the other baseball aggregation.

But now that eager light went out of his eyes. His posture dropped.

He kicked at a tuft of grass with the toe of his shoe to keep his nervousness down, for they glinted with unshed tears.

Timmy had been socially rejected.

PARENTS, WISE UP

Since children are my major interest, I knew what was going on in Timmy's mind, so I casually got out of my car and stroked over.

"How come you aren't on one of the teams?" I asked.

Voice of the People:

'Dislike Your Government? When Did You Last Vote?'

If people don't like our government, local or national, they have no one to blame but themselves. The same thing applies to our unions. People don't go to the meetings and they don't vote.

If citizens would vote on the secondary as well as primary elections, we could soon get some sound and honest leaders.

The next time something happens that you don't like, ask yourself when you last voted.

'Private Schools Entitled to Return'

Some Americans felt sure that electing a Catholic President meant the "takeover" of America by the Pope. The election proved otherwise. There is no such thing as a "Catholic vote," and the Pope has picked no luggage for his suspected trip.

Now "The Ageless" accuses many of his fellow-Americans (who happen to be Catholics) of plotting to get state support of their church group through the proposed Federal Aid to Education legislation.

Obviously he has been misled. The subject is education—any education that meets the requirements of the state. The Congressional Record says "private elementary and high schools now enroll about 16 per cent of total school enrollment." Surely those schools are entitled to a return on tax monies supplied by all the people since they are obviously a substantial part of education.

The Internal Revenue Service has ruled that tuition payments to Catholic grade or high schools or colleges are not deductible since they are clearly educational rather than religious expenses.

No Catholic American or Catholic organization either is plotting to get public support for its religion. But many Catholics do feel that if there is to be any aid to education it should include private schools to the extent they meet official requirements for education.

Another Art Lover Wants a Gallery

I, too, would like to see an art center in Pontiac. I hope there are more requests because my son and I could stand a little appreciation for the art world. We have been here almost 50 years and since the age of seven have prayed and hoped for this day when people will also take interest.

'Practical Buildings Needed for Schools'

I am a construction worker with experience. I cannot hold still any longer for the ridiculous and disgusting way in which the architects for our school building program are having their little nightmares constructed at the taxpayers' expense. I have discussed this subject with other tradesmen and find it has become a laughing matter. Surely, there is someone in a position of authority with access to the opinions of responsible contractors and engineers who could look into this situation and curtail their experiments with school taxes.

We need more practical and less pretty schools which also might convey the seriousness of education to student bodies and maybe we could forget about federal aid to the schools and really put Pontiac on the map.

Practical Minded

The Almanac

By United Press International Today is Thursday, March 1, the 60th day of the year with 305 to follow in 1962.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

There are no morning or evening stars.

On this day in history:

In 1781, the American Colonies adopted the Articles of Confederation, paying the way for a federal union.

In 1972, a Civil Rights Act passed by Congress to give equal rights and guaranteed them equal rights in public places.

In 1954, five congressmen were wounded as three Puerto Rican nationalists fired from the gallery of the House of Representatives.

A thought for the day: The Irish proverb says, "There is no greater pain than to recall a happy time in wretchedness."

Portraits

By JOHN C. METCALFE

Babies are a lot of work... Right around the clock all day... Often well into the night... By the hour you must scrub... On awakening in bed... Till they have been kissed and fed... And their faces and hands... And occasions they are wet... Are not only in the tub... Little boys as well as girls... Must be constantly dressed each day... And you have to set aside... Time in which with them to play... Babies are a lot of work... Everyday around the clock... But it would not miss the angels in their cribs to rock.

Thousands of Workers With Me on Flight, Says Glenn

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (U)—In modestly accepting the accolades heaped on him for his round-the-world orbit flight, astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. repeatedly has said thousands of persons deserve credit — that he considers himself "a figurehead for this whole big tremendous thing."

Without their teamwork, Glenn says, his flight would not have been possible.

Ticker-Tape Snow Flurry Custom Since 1919 Parade

NEW YORK (UPI) — The so-called granddaddy of ticker-tape parades in 1910 lacked ticker tape — which was first used nine years later when an Irishman directed England's Prince of Wales should be welcomed despite strained Irish-English relations.

The first ticker-tape march generally is conceded to be a spontaneous shower of whatever paper was at hand on Theodore Roosevelt by Molting New Yorkers when Teddy returned from big game hunting June 16, 1910.

There was no ticker tape tossed in that one.

But nine years later, Grover Whalen, who was best known as the city's official greeter, originated what he said was the first ticker-tape parade.

The reason was that the Prince of Wales, now the Duke of Windsor, was en route to New York when Ireland declared its independence. Irish-English relations were poor.

Whalen, an Irishman himself, noted that New York had "an awful lot of Irish in it."

But Whalen thought the prince still was entitled to an enthusiastic welcome.

"Wishing to make the prince's welcome a spectacular one," Whalen recalled, "I hit on the ticker-tape idea. I organized a word-of-mouth campaign along Broadway and the idea swiftly filtered through thousands of offices."

When the parade started up Broadway, the duke recalled seeing what looked like snow flurries overhead. "What's that?" he asked.

"Ticker tape," shouted Whalen. "Ticker tape?" asked the prince. "What's ticker tape?"

Whalen explained that it was the ribbon like rolls of paper on which stock market prices and sometimes news is printed by electronic machines.

The prince later gave this account of his welcome: "Half astrophysicist by the smell of gasoline, I found myself sitting (up on the back of the motor (sic), bowing and waving like an actor noted that New York had 'an awful lot of Irish in it.'"

He could cite as an example a drama which occurred just two weeks before the flight, when a fuel tank problem developed in the Atlas booster. Officials at first believed the rocket would have to be taken down or replaced, with perhaps a two-month delay in the launching.

But engineers of General Dynamics-Astronautics, which makes the Atlas, came up with a solution. They constructed a scaffolding inside the fuel tank on which workmen stood to remove the trouble-causing plastic foam covering on the tank bulkhead.

The job was completed in four days and a series of tests pronounced the rocket fit.

The General Dynamics engineers also played key roles in adapting the military Atlas—with its 300,000 intricate parts — to a vehicle capable of lifting the 2-ton Mercury capsule.

Of several early unmanned flights, the Atlas-capsule combination proved incompatible and twice the rocket exploded in flight. Study of data indicated the Atlas was breaking up in a section just below the capsule when the rocket passed through an area of maximum aerodynamic stress.

The top eight feet of the 75-foot rocket were strengthened and two successful orbit flights, including that of Eos, the chimpanzee, paved the way for Glenn's ride.

Technical marvels were required to build the extremely complex capsule and to develop the 18-station tracking network capable of receiving data from the orbiting vehicle and relaying it on a split-second basis to the Mercury control center at Cape Canaveral.

Years of design and testing in wind tunnels, drops from airplanes, in laboratories and on rocket flights went into development of the bell-shaped vehicle, 8 feet tall and 4 feet across the base, McDonnell Aircraft Co. is prime contractor.

The final product — Glenn's Friendship 7 — was jammed with seven miles of wiring, 185 instruments, an environmental control system capable of sustaining life in comfortable surroundings for 28 hours, a heat shield to dissipate the searing 3,000-degree re-entry heat, an escape mechanism to pull the craft free in case of rocket trouble, radio devices to report capsule and astronaut condition, a set of automatic parachutes and even a window to give the astronaut a clear view of the earth and heavens.

One of the most vital capsule systems is the automatic controls device which keeps the craft in the proper attitude position in space. Gyroscopes controlled by hydrogen peroxide gas jets drive this system.

There are four jets for the roll axis, four for pitch and four for yaw. Two jets on each set of four produce a 26-pound thrust, the other two one pound each. This thrust is enough to control the capsule's maneuvers in the vacuum of space.

The small jets are for minor corrections, the larger jets for more violent attitude changes.

MANUAL CONTROL

One of the small jets on the yaw axis became clogged during Glenn's flight and he had to take over partial manual control for much of the 4-hour 56-minute mission.

This points up another remarkable design factor in the capsule — every system has at least two backup systems in case of trouble.

Building the hardware was not enough. Mathematicians and scientists had to plot the speed and angle required by the Atlas to place the capsule in the desired orbit. This information had to be fed into the Burroughs-General Electric computer and guidance system in the rocket.

Much figuring was needed to calculate when to fire the capsule's reverse rockets to bring it out of orbit to land in a designated recovery area in the Atlantic Ocean.

Many things were considered — weight, angle, shape and speed of the spacecraft, thrust of the booster and braking rockets, shape of the earth, gravity and density of the atmosphere.

Mathematical formulas and giant computer did the job, and Glenn landed only six miles from a recovery destroyer.

No wonder Glenn wasted little time when he returned to Cape Canaveral seeking out the men on the launch pad and in the control center to thank them personally for their roles in putting him in space.

Receiving special attention in Glenn's numerous public appearances have been the leaders of Project Mercury, those who in 15 years — despite extreme pressure — masterminded orbital flight from the drawing board to reality.

Success Depends on Socialist Party Chief

By PHIL NEWBORN
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Bartering unforeseen developments, Italy's first left-of-center government since the war takes office this week, its success dependent upon a stocky, moon-faced man in heavy glasses who once called former President Truman another Hitler.

The man is left-wing Socialist leader Pietro Nenni who applied this epithet to Truman in opposition to Italy's membership in NATO.

Nenni, for years a close collaborator with Italy's Communists, still opposes NATO but his ties with communists have loosened considerably.

CABINET SPLIT
Those went to the coalition of Fanfani's own Christian Democrats, the anti-Communist Social Democrats of Giuseppe Saragat and to the moderately left Republicans.

Pro-NATO Defense Minister Giulio Andreotti kept his old job, as did Foreign Minister Antonio Segni, a strong supporter of the Communist-opposed European common market.

Among those not included in the new government is Mario Scelba, who as interior minister frequently sent his head-thumping riot police against the Communists.

In return for the government's leftward shift domestically, Nenni promised to support government measures his party approved, and, more importantly, to abstain on those measures which were not approved.

He also agreed to a reluctant neutrality toward NATO.

The idea of an "opening to the left" in Italian politics has been discussed for years.

Italian President Giovanni Gronchi proposed at his inauguration in April, 1955, that extreme left-wing parties should be admitted to the government.

widely acclaimed by the Communists, produced no concrete results until this year.

The Christian Democrats, Italy's largest party, are bound together by a common religion but are deeply split among themselves, left, right and center. Attempts at coalition with other center and right-wing parties proved unstable and short-lived.

For example, this is Italy's 23rd postwar government.

The alliance with the Socialists provides Fanfani with time and the solid majority he believes he needs to accomplish needed reforms.

These include a crash program to build schools, tax reforms, anti-trust legislation and easier farm credits.

Also on the program is nationalization of Italy's private power industry.

The Roman Catholic church opposes the alliance which also is regarded with great misgivings by many in the political center.

that Nenni could be the Trojan horse to lead Italy increasingly to the left and therefore away from NATO, the common market and close ties to the West.

At best, the "opening to the left" is regarded as a necessary calculated risk. A gain might be a final break between Nenni and the Communists.

The single star in the flag of Liberia symbolizes the nation's position as the first republic in all of Africa.

THE STYLE CORNER OF PONTIAC

Teen-Age Nutrition Conference

Examine Youth's Eating Habits

BY JANET ODELL

"We have become a nation of breakfast skippers, lunch skippers and evening stuffers and that evening stuffing may last from 6 o'clock until midnight."

This was the definition given of present-day eating habits by Roberta Hershey, extension specialist in foods and nutrition, Michigan State University. She was the keynote speaker at Oakland County's first Teen-Age Nutrition Conference.

Seventy-five persons attended the meeting sponsored by Oakland County Home Economics Extension Council, yesterday at Oakland State University.

The poorest fed members of the family are the country's 16-17 million teen-agers, said Miss Hershey. "Place of residence or family income does not affect the problem which appears to be universal in this age group."

NEED BETTER DIET

One out of every three girls is married by the time she is 18, and almost one out of every three first babies is born to a teen-ager mother. This points up the need for a better diet for teen-agers, the nutrition expert emphasized.

Dr. Richard K. Kerckhoff of Merrill-Palmer Institute, spoke in the afternoon on Life Among Our Teen-agers.

He said that our rapidly changing modern life complicates the already insecure, complicated, changing life of the teen-ager. "There is no one single item that denotes adulthood. Our society largely ignores areas where adolescents can excel and may ride alone areas where they can," he said.

Dr. Kerckhoff added, to change poor eating habits into good ones is important to use the teen-ager's own goals which fortunately sometimes coincide with those of the adults. Teen-agers must be included in any planning.

The group of one college and five high school students who participated in a panel discussion of the problem at the close of the day had some ideas to suggest.

They were of the opinion that if they got up a little earlier in the morning and breakfast was on the table, they would eat it.

INDICATE AWARENESS

Most of them said they knew they often did not eat the proper foods, and too, they were aware of what good nutrition is.

One panel member said that TV commercials should show nutritious snacks. Another said that good snacks should be available at more inexpensive eating places.

A third said that teens are too lazy to fix nutritious snacks and that something should be invented to make them easier.

In conclusion they agreed that good eating habits are a matter of personal responsibility, but that the teen-ager must get good education in nutrition from parents and teachers.

specialist, will conduct a music appreciation session. Several recreational activities are scheduled.

"The leadership training session kicks off National 4-H Club Week next week," points out Dr. Russell Mawby, state 4-H leader, who will close the Leadership at noon Sunday with an address.

Area Leaders Will Attend 4-H Event This Weekend

Six area leaders will represent Oakland County at the sixth annual State 4-H Leadership Saturday and Sunday at Kalamazoo College in the Michigan State University campus in East Lansing.

They are Mrs. Harold Lawrence, Royal Township; John Schafer, Holly Oak; Frank Williams, Waterford Township; Mrs. Fred Taylor, Independence Township; and Mrs. Francis A. Miller and John Lester, both of Orono Township.

The state 4-H Council, state 4-H Club staff and 4-H Club Foundation of Michigan plan and conduct the statewide leadership training meeting. The foundation finances the event, according to Ruth Montney, Oakland County 4-H agent.

Paul Weaver, state 4-H Council president, will open the program's first session at 10 a.m. Saturday. Over 300 4-H leaders from all 83 counties are expected to be on hand.

SPEAKERS LISTED

Dorothy Emerson, program consultant in leadership and citizen development with the National 4-H Foundation, will speak at the Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning sessions.

Charles Anspach, president emeritus of Central Michigan University and now a con-con delegate, will address a Saturday evening banquet. Also at the banquet, MSU foreign students will visit with leaders about their homelands.

Harvest Baptist Sets Revival Services

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — Revival services will be held 7:30 p.m. each evening Monday through March 11 at Harvest Baptist Church, 23-Mile Road near Van Dyke.

Guest speaker will be Rev. Oscar Van Impe of Detroit who was born in Belgium and is a convert of Roman Catholicism.

A former pastor of the Belgium Baptist Church of Detroit, Rev. Van Impe now is devoting much of his time to evangelistic work. He will return to his homeland for a six months' missionary tour the latter part of this month.

BITTER-COLD JOB — Firemen from three area departments suffered near-frostbite hands and faces while battling a house fire 3½ miles north of Romeo last night. Fighting the blaze that broke out in the dining-room ceiling of the Alfred Hahn home at 77210 Fisher Road were teams from the Romeo, Almont and Ford Piquette Ground departments. The fire was believed to be caused by an overheated pipe from a coal stove. One section of the house was gutted.

Novi Bids for Incorporation

BY JIM LONG

NOVI — Facing the possibility of losing as much as 800 acres of taxable land through disconnections, this village will attempt to halt any further loss of property by asking voters March 12 to incorporate into a city.

The village, Michigan's largest in area, already has lost nearly 230 acres of farmland through disconnections in the last several years.

Pending in Oakland County Circuit Court are the requests of eight property owners to have their land returned to Novi township.

The disgruntled landowners claim the township can provide the same services as the village and without the higher tax.

To disconnect from the village and return to the township, the property owner must have more than 10 acres that has been worked as farmland for at least three years. The property in question also must be located on the boundary of the village.

When the petitions for incorporation were submitted last May, it was the fear of those who signed that the village would be annexed and disconnected piecemeal until there was little left of the community unless votes were taken to become a city.

Shortly before the petitions had been presented to the Village Council it was upheld in the Michigan Supreme Court that an earlier annexation election that gave Northville 135 acres of the village was legal.

The election had been questioned since only the one property owner living in the village area to be annexed was allowed to vote.

Other Novi residents had no voice in the election, while all voters in Northville were allowed to go to the polls.

VILLAGE THREAT

The village has threatened to give back some of the services it have taken over from the township if the incorporation vote fails. Novi Township Supervisor Frazier Stannan says the township could provide these services.

"If the village had added extra services when it first incorporated I would have backed it thoroughly," Stannan said. "Instead, it has become an empty shell."

Village officials, however, feel they are doing more for township residents than required, providing police and fire service to those areas not in the village.

Except for those areas that already have been disconnected there is very little of the township, but rather a park and small subdivision that stands like an island in the center of the village.

WOULD HAVE TO MOVE

Should the village incorporate into a city, it would be necessary for township officials to move into the subdivision or eventually relinquish their control.

As it is now a township official can live within a village because the township is controlling government. A city government, however, would abolish the township in the area incorporated.

The change of status from village to city wouldn't officially occur at the March 12 election but rather at the time voters approve a charter.

Formation of a Charter Commission is also on the March 12 ballot. If the incorporation is approved, the commission would have 90 days to frame a charter and up to two years to present it to the voters.

The consensus of opinion of the charter candidates is that the present village charter will need little revision to make it into city law, even to the point of keeping the current tax rate of five mills.

NEWS OF THE AREA

End Toll on Blue Water Span

Cross State Bridge Free

LANSING — Motorists were crossing the Blue Water Bridge between Port Huron and Sarnia, 137 agreement that tolls would not, free for the first time today.

The state collected tolls on the international bridge from its opening in 1938 until midnight last night.

Gov. Swainson took part in a brief midnight ceremony on the bridge lifting the 35-cent toll. Swainson ordered the discontinuation of the toll earlier this month in order to salvage federal highway funds to Michigan.

The Federal Bureau of Public Roads is holding Michigan to a $1.5 million agreement that tolls would not, free for the first time today. The state collected tolls on the international bridge from its opening in 1938 until midnight last night.

Twenty-nine employees of the bridge commission are out of work as a result. Ironically, Swainson's father, John A. C. Swainson, was among them. He was a toll collector on the bridge.

Recital to Offer Harp and Voice

Musicals Will Feature 2 Recent Arrivals in the Rochester Area

ROCHESTER — A harp and vocal recital will be presented at the next meeting of the Rochester Tuesday Musicals at the Woodward Memorial Library.

Featured will be two artists who recently moved to the Rochester area. They are Betty Jo Buss, harpist from Rockford, Ill., and Enne Amann, lyric mezzo soprano, who is a graduate of the Oberlin Conservatory of Music in Oberlin, Ohio.

Mrs. Buss received her bachelor's degree in music from Carthage College, Carthage, Ill., and later was harpist with the Springfield Symphony, Springfield, Ill.

She is the wife of Rev. Lloyd Buss, minister of Abiding Presence Lutheran Church.

The featured vocalist, wife of Professor Peter Amann of Michigan State University, studied voice in New York City and Chicago. She is now a church soloist in Rochester.

Hostesses for the Tuesday night program, which will start at 8 p.m., will be Mrs. Edwin Cantrell and Mrs. Larry Morrison.

Port Huron — Sen. Philip Hart has described as "a magnificent gesture" Port Huron's offer to build the U.S. Internal Revenue Service a $3-million building here if the agency will locate a proposed 1,500-man Midwest computer center here.

Hart wired City Commissioner Robert L. Patterson yesterday he considered the proposal "a magnificent gesture," and added:

"I am thrilled the people of this community have responded in this fashion."

Sen. Patrick V. McNamara wired that he would "do my best to insure the center is committed to Michigan, rather than a specific location."

Among others, Detroit, Ann Arbor and Jackson are seeking the center, which will serve income tax returns from Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin. Chicago and Milwaukee also have bids in.

Rep. James G. O'Hara, D-Ill., suggested to the IRS in Washington yesterday that the $2 million the government might otherwise spend for a building could be used to retire some of the national debt if Port Huron's offer were taken up.

Mayor Ray Mathieson, meanwhile, took exception to Port Huron's offer by Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh, who said Detroit was the logical location.

Mathieson described his city's proposal as "a sincere and honest offer to the federal government," and said the city has every intention of standing by it.

Chemistry Test Clears Building

100 Are Evacuated at U. of D. When Mishap Feared in Experiment

DETROIT — About 100 students were evacuated from the University of Detroit chemistry building yesterday when two faculty members feared something had gone wrong in an experiment with lithium.

"It was a fizzle, thank heaven, but it might have been very bad," said Dr. John McLean.

Dr. Leon Rand, a colleague of McLean's, entered a basement laboratory after what was described as a flickish half hour and neutralized a powdered lithium mixture.

Lithium is a soft, silver-white element, the lightest metal known. It was being used in an experiment involving a new type of silicon compound.

When the professors became alarmed, firemen and policemen were called. Six pieces of fire-fighting equipment and two police cars were on hand when Dr. Rand, dressed in rain coat and hat, gloves and gas mask, entered the basement with firemen to neutralize the mixture.

Karl Geiger Will Seek GOP Senate Nomination

LANSING (AP)—Karl Geiger Jr., 37-year-old heating and plumbing contractor, has announced he will be a Republican candidate for the 25th District State Senate seat. The seat is being vacated because Sen. John H. Stahl, R-Belling, will be on the Republican ticket as a candidate for the nomination for lieutenant governor.

N.Y. Sanitation Dept. Waits to Gauge Popularity of Glenn

NEW YORK (UPI)—One measure of the size of the welcome for astronaut John H. Glenn will be the amount of paper New Yorkers shower down on him.

City officials agree that the ticker tape mania is a more accurate way to gauge a welcome than sidewalk crowd estimates.

They recall, rather ruefully, that one high police official said in 1945 when Gen. Dwight Eisenhower came home to the traditional parade that six million people welcomed him — two of every three people in the city. The estimate later was revised to about two million.

The same thing happened when Gen. Douglas MacArthur returned from Korea. But the sanitation department has given accurate accounts of the tons of confetti, streamers, phone book pages and ticker tape that rained down on every welcoming parade since Charles A. Lindbergh came home in 1927.

In that Lindbergh parade, New Yorkers tossed 1,750 tons of paper.

The record paper-tossing blizzard came in 1945 when New Yorkers showered down 5,438 tons of paper in a two-day celebration marking the end of World War II.

Seventy-seven tons of paper were showered on Eisenhower, incidentally and MacArthur received 3,650 tons.

Believe Forester 1st State Employee in Peace Corps

LANSING (AP)—A forester employed by the State Conservation Department is believed to be the first state employee to enter the Peace Corps.

The State Civil Service Commission has granted a two-year leave of absence to Michael D. Moore, forester at the Sturgeon River forest area.

He will report to Puerto Rico for training and expects to be assigned to forestry operations in El Salvador.

The leave guarantees him re-employment rights similar to those granted men entering military service.

Franklin K. Dewald, state civil service director, said the commission would consider a formal policy along this line at its next meeting.

Who Will Prosecute the County Prosecutor?

BEULAH (AP)—The law makes no exceptions at Beulah, the Benzie County seat, where a drive is in full swing to enforce statutes against owners letting dogs run at large.

Hailed into court this week as a violator, and fined $10 plus costs on his plea of guilty, was John Hutt—county prosecutor.

Says Extremists Weaken Nation

New Catholic Booklet Hits Groups as Threat to U.S. Diplomacy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Extreme anti-Communist groups "weaken our democracy by spreading suspicions of treason in government and asking Americans to use Communist tactics against fellow Americans," charges a booklet published today by the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

The publication states "it carried far enough, these movements would paralyze American diplomacy. When every discussion with the Communist powers is considered a sign of weakness or even treason, then we are left with only two stark alternatives: Surrender or war."

"Surely our common sense should tell us that we should seek some middle course between these extremes."

The booklet, "Communism: Threat to Freedom," was prepared by the Rev. John F. Cronin, assistant director of the Conference's department of social action.

BASIS FOR STUDY

It was published jointly by the conference, which represents the Roman Catholic hierarchy of the United States, and the Paulist Press of New York.

The booklet is designed to be used by Catholics as basis for study courses on communism, and by other groups, too, if they desire.

"We're putting on as big a publicity drive as we can swing—giving it the full treatment," Father Cronin told a news conference. "This is a campaign for sanity." "We don't name organizations in the booklet," he said, "because it is pretty hard to keep track of all of them. For instance, the John Birch Society is appearing locally in the form of front organizations... one of the Birch Society's expressed aims is to incite the Communists in the use of front organizations."

Rail Stations Becoming Replicas of Bygone Era

Half Filled With Freight; Other Half With Silence

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

Just off Airport road there is an active little freight depot where the silence is punctuated only by the staccato of a new virbaplex telegraph key.

Grand Trunk Western station master Kenneth Pixley likes the companionable music of the telegrapher's friend. There are a lot of depots in the county filled only with echoes—dead sounds of another era.

Since the Drayton and Clarkston railroad stations closed for lack of business, the soft-spoken Pixley has taken charge of freight destined for those points, too, and heavy loads of lumber and bricks are processed through his depot.

The life is slowly ebbing out of mainline railroad stations in Oakland County. Half of them now stand barren—their ancient windows and doors boarded up by the progress of time.

Some have been sold and moved from the property to be used as lake cottages, youth centers or libraries. Others have been torn down and the lumber used for houses, barns or garages.

Consolidation of stations has resulted in many empty structures along the tracks of the New York Central, Grand Trunk and the Chesapeake & Ohio lines. Where there were once 26 active depots in the county, there are now only 13.

After the NYC depot in Clarkston was closed three years ago, railroad officials were at a loss as to what to do with the building, but the Clarkston Village Players had been looking for just such a building for a workshop.

They bought the 85-foot long building for $150 and leased the land from the railroad company for $25 a year. As soon as it gets a little warmer, this "dead" station will become a beehive of activity.

Walls will be torn down, wiring and plumbing replaced and a lounge made out of the station's former waiting room. Occasionally, rehearsing actors' voices will be drowned but by a passing train, but the depot will have come to life again.

UNIQUE STATION

Another station still in operation is in Birmingham. According to station master Harry J. Wichman, it is the only one west of New York that has an underground pass for passengers leading to platforms for trains going either north or south.

More than 400 passengers are accommodated daily between Detroit and Birmingham, Wichman said. There are three morning and one evening trains from Birmingham to Detroit dispatched by the Grand Trunk.

In the City of Wixom, officials bought the 100-year old Grand Trunk depot for $1, planning to convert it to a fire station. Later they abandoned the idea and resold the building for $25 to William Myres and his son Ted, who are tearing it down for the materials.

Cargo, rather than passengers, is the specialty of Oxford's New York Central railroad station. Earl Iles, who has been with the company for 34 years, climbs into a power tower across from the depot to make train track switches, but someday these will be replaced with automatic devices, he said.

Just what will be done with the remaining buildings, such as the one in Milford, is anybody's guess.

Individuals or organizations may purchase the unused buildings by submitting sealed bids after they have been advertised for. Prices range from $1 to $200.

TAKES STRENGTH — That's what Earl Iles of Oxford thinks, as he pulls the big switches in the old tower near his station. Iles has taken over the responsibilities of the Drayton and Clarkston depots since they were closed for lack of customers. Oxford's is one of the busiest freight depots in Michigan.

HEADING IN — This bug-like New York Central train is shown crossing the Grand Trunk railroad tracks in the heart of Oxford. Oxford's largest out-going freight load is sand and gravel. However, the one-car, "Doodlebug" above transports passengers.

MODERN PONY BOYS — When the mail train pulls into a station, it pauses for one minute only, and workers have to move swiftly, especially if a train is late. Clinton White, the Lake Orion area mailman has held this position for the last 33 years, and has never missed a train yet.

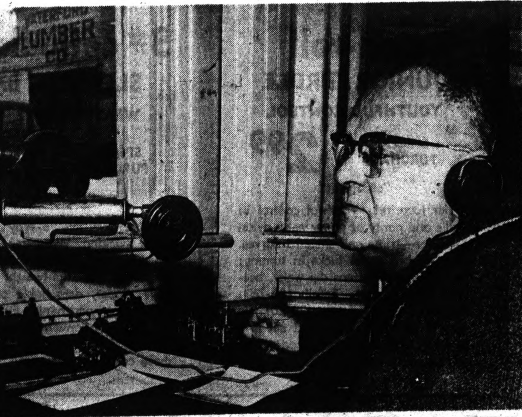

TRAINS HIS HOBBY — Birmingham station master Harry J. Wichman is shown examining a model train. After he's through work the genial Wichman builds the scale model cars and whole miniature settlements. The big Birmingham railroad station accommodates hundreds of commuters daily, and is the largest active depot in Oakland County.

WEIGHT WATCHERS — A package of peas sold in a local store gets a close inspection from Patrolman Fred A. Stormer (left). Pontiac's sealer of weights and measures, and James McCollum, foods and standards inspector for the Michigan Department of Agriculture. This package was less than one-half ounce short of the weight declared on the wrapper. But that's enough for a $100 fine or a 90-day jail term for the person that sells it.

THAT'S GOT TO GO! — So says Arthur Rose, one of the directors of the Clarkston Village Players who have just purchased the old Clarkston depot. Bruce Embrey, treasurer, left, and Merle Bennett, president, also agree the sign has got to go, but the entire building—inside and out—is in for a complete remodeling job to be used as a workshop.

GETS THE MESSAGE — All's quiet now, but when the weather breaks Kenneth Pixley will be a busy man in his Waterford railroad station. The state has awarded large contracts to a cement company to supply the big Interstate 75 highway. It is expected that rail traffic will jump from 44 to more than 80 carsloads daily in better weather.

The Officer Also Serves Who Only Stands and 'Weighs'

By DON FERMOYLE

Fred A. Stormer is one of the forgotten men of the Pontiac Police Department.

Unlike his fellow officers, Stormer doesn't take part in daring rescues, capture armed bandits or solve murders. His job brings him less publicity than the dog warden.

Yet Stormer has a vital—if ungla-morous—position in the police department as the city's sealer of weights and measures.

And, although few people are probably aware of it, this is his week.

By declaration of Gov. John B. Swainson, today through Wednesday is "Weights and Measures Week" in Michigan.

Despite the general public's lack of knowledge about his job, Stormer and others like him throughout the state are constantly at work to protect the average citizen.

Stormer works closely with James McCollum, food and standards inspector for the State Department of Agriculture, who performs a function similar to Stormer's outside Pontiac.

Together, they check local grocery stores, meat markets, gas stations and virtually every business which uses some type of weight or measure. Each business place must be checked at least once a year.

Stormer carries a highly sensitive scale and a box of weights which range from one-quarter ounce to a pound. If a scale is accurate, it is marked with an official seal.

In checking stores, Stormer also weighs prepackaged products to make certain the actual weight of the product is the same as that stamped on the container.

During a recent investigation in Pontiac, Stormer found "one pound" packages of bacon which were from one-half to three-quarters of an ounce short-weighted.

The store owner who sold the bacon was brought into court and escaped with a warning. The next time this happened, the judge said, the market owner would be fined $100 for each package found short of the marked weight.

There are from 50 to 60 convictions a year in Pontiac for short weighting, Stormer said.

Although inaccuracies of less than an ounce may seem relatively unimportant, they could reach tremendous proportions for a company which short weights thousands of pounds of its product, McCollum said.

"It could add up to extra profits of half a million dollars a year for some of the larger companies," said McCollum.

Besides grocery scales, Stormer also checks gasoline pumps, vehicular scales, tank truck meters and even linear measures used by shops which sell yard goods.

False labeling and packaging by manufacturers has received more than the usual share of publicity lately because of an investigation into these practices by a U.S. Senate subcommittee headed by Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Michigan.

Testifying before this committee, J. L. Littlefield, chief of the foods and standards divisions for the Department of Agriculture, pointed out that a pound is still a pound and a "quart is a quart."

"There is no need for amplification to a 'full' pound or a 'giant' quart," Littlefield told the committee.

The job of Stormer and McCollum is to make sure that the pound always equals exactly 16 ounces.

New Concord's High School Is Renamed for Favorite Son

NEW CONCORD, Ohio (UPI)—New Concord High School today was renamed after America's newest hero, whose triple orbit of earth last week rocketed this community to national prominence.

Changing the name of the high school to John H. Glenn Jr. High School was the first step in New Concord's plans to give hometown hero Glenn as many welcomes this weekend.

This village of 2,127 persons was nearly beside itself in excitement as Saturday, homecoming day, neared.

City officials met and then met again going over plans for the celebration. Students at Muskingum College talked of little else. Mayor J. K. Taylor said he expected between 35,000 and 40,000 Ohioans to flock to the village, nestled between the hills on U.S.-40 in the southeastern section of the state.

"GOING IN CIRCLES"

"I don't know where we're going to put them all," he said. "We're all going around in circles trying to figure it out."

"I'm about ready to take off in orbit, just like John Glenn did," the mayor added.

Sandra O'Connell, a college senior from Detroit, had one particular reason to be thankful to Glenn.

Enos' Capsule May Be Used for Man Orbit

WASHINGTON (AP)—The space capsule in which Enos the chimpanzee flew around the earth may make the trip again—this time with a man aboard.

With an eye on economizing, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration today revealed a possible second-time-around for the MA5 capsule.

Use of the craft for a manned shot would represent the first time an astronaut had flown in a Mercury capsule that already had served as a satellite.

Enos rode MA5 twice around the earth last December. It is now at the McDonnell Aircraft Co. factory in St. Louis, being reworked for its future mission.

The best part of this thing is that now I don't have to explain where Muskingum College is," she said.

The announcement last week that Glenn would come home, job

LEXINGTON, Ky.—The State Highway Department reports two department crews have started survey work for modernization of about 12 miles of U. S. 25 between Lexington and Port Sanilac in Sanilac County.

Hare Estimates Small Car Sales

Speculates That Market for Midget-Sized Ford Would Not Be Large

LANSING (U-P) — Secretary of State James M. Hare said today that he has offered some speculations on the possible market for the new midget-type car reported being considered by the Ford Motor Co.

A good yardstick, Hare said, is the number of cars already registered in the state in the similar weight and size class.

Hare said there are slightly more than 41,000 such registrations in Michigan. These include 40,350 Volkswagens, 17,900 Renaults and 4,350 British Fords, he reported, a small fraction of the more than 3 million cars registered in Michigan.

"There may be some," Hare said, "but a greater untapped market for a Ford-sized, U.S.-assembled compact-car of which we are unaware."

If the new Ford weighs in at around 1,200 pounds, Hare said, there will be a saving in weight taxes.

The tax would cost $3.35, he said, considerably less than conventional U.S. cars and somewhat less than the Ford-produced Comet, which weighs 2,379 pounds and brings in a weight tax of $2.40.

Near $20 Million Left in Avery's Estate

CHICAGO (U-P) — Sewell L. Avery, former chairman of Montgomery Ward & Co., left an estate of $19,865,479 when he died at the age of 86, Oct. 21, 1961. Avery also had headed U.S. Gypsum Co.

The size of the estate, formerly estimated to range between $5 million and $10 million, was disclosed in inheritance tax returns filed here Wednesday.

The estate was left in trust for two daughters, Mrs. Arla McMillen of Clayton, Mo., and Mrs. Nancy Folanabee of Evanston, Ill., and seven grandchildren. Expenses cut $11,180,855 out of the estate, including federal inheritance taxes of $10,403,502 and Illinois inheritance taxes of $220,659.

Urged to Back Bid for New IRS Center

LANSING (U-P) — Lawmakers were being asked today to support the city of Port Huron in its bid to house the Midwest Data Processing Center of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service (IRS).

Sen. Frank W. Bentele, R-St. Clair, introduced a concurrent resolution Wednesday urging the federal government to accept the city's offer of a 51-year lease on a 200,000-square foot office building.

The building, set on a 30-acre site, would be built to IRS specifications, city spokesmen said in their offer to the federal agency.

The resolution was referred to the Senate Business Committee.

Open Meetings Urged for Units of State House

LANSING (U-P) — A Democratic legislative move today to open House Committee meetings to the public and compel each to keep a public record of their proceedings.

Rep. Joseph A. Gillis Jr., D-Detroit, proposing the amendment to House rules, said "anything we do in committee meetings, including our votes, ought to be public knowledge."

The resolution would require approval of a majority of the House for any closed meetings. Any committee member could require a roll call vote of any matter before the committee.

Presently, House committees frequently conduct closed meetings. Votes on sending bills to the House floor for debate are generally secret.

There is no comparable results in the Senate.

Sammy Cohn Reconciled With His Wife Gloria
PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Songwriter Sammy Cohn and his wife, Gloria, are back together after a four-month separation.

The couple, married 16 years, were here Wednesday after a reconciliation in Los Angeles. They have two children, Steven, 15, and Laurie, 12.

Georgia Rescinds Old Crime Ruling

ATLANTA, Ga., (U-P) — Defendants in criminal trials in Georgia now may give sworn testimony. Gov. Ernest Vandiver signed into law Wednesday an act permitting defendants to testify under oath. Previously, defendants were permitted to make only unsworn statements to the jury and were not subject to cross-examination.

Authorities said Georgia was the last state to abandon an ancient common-law rule that anyone charged with a crime was incompetent to give sworn testimony.

Focus on Health

Pills, Pills Pills . . . Doctors Give Too Many of 'Em

By The Associated Press

The growing popularity of pills, a widespread drive to cut deaths from sudden heart standstill and a warning about little round white health hazards that will soon across the nation's golf courses come spring figure in the medical news.

PILLS, PILLS, PILLS

A New Hampshire doctor believes medical personnel in hospitals are over-using tranquilizers, sleeping pills, laxatives—and even X rays.

Dr. Wile L. Bong of Hanover held up this picture for young doctors and medical students:

aren't told that lack of normal action for a day or two won't do any harm.

X-rays are given routinely for sprain injuries that "obviously have no fracture on good clinical examination."

Writing in the New Physician, the Journal of the Student American Medical Association, Dr. Bong said, "In my opinion all this misuse can be corrected if we, the doctors, are willing to take out a little time and effort for explanation to those of the public who are willing to listen."

Drowning, electric shock, strangulation, suffocation and severe reactions to anesthesia can cause hearts to stop beating. Many of these patients survive if the heart resumes beating—or is forced to do its work—within 4 to 6 minutes.

Opening the chest wall and squeezing the heart by hand was the only survival aid available until researchers found that external pressure on the breast bone squeezed the heart against the backbone and forced it to pump blood into the arteries.

The technique requires no special equipment and can be used anywhere.

Smith Kline & French Laboratories, in cooperation with Johns Hopkins medical institutions, has completed a film designed to train physicians-directed rescue teams to perform the resuscitation measure safely and effectively.

RUGGED RECREATION

Spring is just around the corner and so is golf.

The Institute for Safer Living of the American Mutual Liability Insurance Co. has completed a nationwide study which indicated more than 15,000 golfers, caddies and workmen were injured in golf accidents last year.

Many were victims of swinging clubs, bent protrusion and lightning bolts.

But the report, carried in Medical World News, concluded that at least half the golfing injuries were caused by the golf ball itself, striking victims at speeds around 200 miles an hour.

Highway Irregularities Shock Representatives

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chairman of the House subcommittee investigating federal highway irregularities says "God help us" if disclosures in Massachusetts are widespread in the nation.
Rep. John A. Blatnik, D-Minn., said he was "depressed and deeply disturbed" over developments in the Massachusetts investigation.
Rep. William C. Cramer, R-Fla., the ranking GOP subcommittee member, said he was "shocked" and agreed with Blatnik before the hearings started of "handcuffing" the subcommittee from making a sweeping investigation.
Both, however, expressed shock after Wednesday's session.
The subcommittee Wednesday heard testimony that the state paid $155,000 in 1960 for an alley in Worcester for part of a federal highway. The alley owner, John Jacobson, who operated a cold storage plant, said his attorney was Boston Judge Theodore H. Glynn Jr., a prominent Massachusetts politician, got a $5,500 fee from the sale of the alley after it appraised in 1958 for only $21,000.
Other testimony concerned the appraisal of James J. Egan Jr., of Worcester, which were called "outstanding classics" because no one could understand them. A nationally known appraiser testified one of Egan's appraisals was the "worst I've ever seen in my life."
Blatnik said if the situation developed in Massachusetts was typical across the country, then it could lead to a breakdown of government.
GOOD ONES REPLACED
Blatnik referred to testimony that disclosed "competent" public works employees were transferred from Worcester and replaced with others whose qualifications were "questionable" after the $21,000 alley appraisal in 1958.
He also noted testimony that William M. Jacobs, an independent appraiser, had "free access" to confidential public works department files.
Jacobs, who made more money in fees than any other appraiser hired by the state to value property for highways in recent years, is under a federal indictment of conspiracy in connection with a land damage case.
8 Million Fathers Desert Their Families
NEW YORK (AP)—There are about eight million fathers in the country who have deserted their families and are not supporting them, a social workers' conference was told Wednesday.
The figure was supplied by Mrs. Harold D. Harvey, acting president of the Community Council of Greater New York, who said about 400,000 of the deserted women and children live in New York City.

Illinois Man in Jail Over Check Charge

An Alton, Ill., man who, police say, cashed $100 written on blank checks stolen from a Pontiac woman last week, was brought over to Circuit Court yesterday by Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCullum.

Being held today at the Oakland County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bond was Melvin W. Timmons, 41, who allegedly cashed several of the checks at local apartment and rooming houses.

Maguerite Jackson, manager of an apartment at 107 Oakland Ave., said her check book was missing after a man posing as a prospective tenant left her residence. All the checks had Mrs. Jackson's first name misspelled, police said.

Brisk Contest Seen for Title of Miss Waterford

Competition for the title of Miss Waterford of 1962 should be brisk, reports contest chairman Jack McCaffrey, who expects more girls to enter the competition than the 14 a year ago.

The event is a highlight of the annual Waterford Township Junior Chamber of Commerce Sports and Builders Show scheduled for March 23, 24 and 25 at the Community Activities Building, Waterford Township.

Beauty alone will not be enough to win this contest. The girls will also be judged on their talents in such categories as drama, music, dress designing and speech making. Poise, grace and general appearance will also be considered by the judges before a decision is rendered.

Contestants must be between 18 and 28, high school graduates, single and must never have been married.

Judging will span the three days of the show with the winner scheduled to be chosen Sunday from five finalists. Miss Waterford of 1962 will qualify for participation in the Miss Michigan pageant sometime this summer.

Glenn Predicts 'Cars' in Space

Astronaut Says Man Will Someday Be Able to 'Steer' Spacecraft

WASHINGTON (AP)—Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. says the day will come when man will cruise in the skies much as he now maneuvers his automobile on the highways.

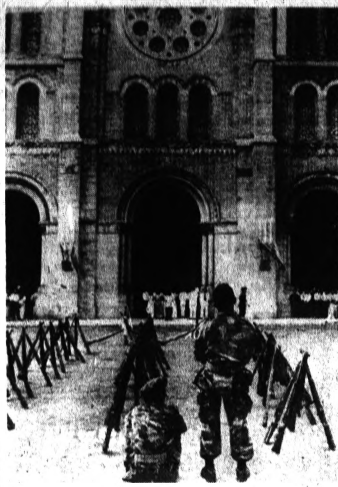

To travel in space like that, Glenn said in congressional testimony Wednesday, spacecraft many times more powerful than the Friendship 7 in which he orbited the globe three times will have to be developed.

COULD CHANGE ORBIT

When they are, Glenn said, a spaceman will be able to steer wherever his curiosity dictates, or go from one orbit to another as if in a sky auto.

Then, the Marine lieutenant colonel said, "Man will really take his rightful place in space."

Glenn said the hydrogen peroxide jets on his space capsule could change only its attitude (roll, pitch or yaw), not its path. And he said, the more powerful retro (braking) rockets could only slow him down to take him out of orbit and start his fall to earth.

PRAYERS OFFERED—Two South Vietnamese soldiers stand outside a church to watch over weapons as comrades attend Mass inside in thanks for the survival of President Ngo Dinh Diem from a bombing attack on the palace in Saigon, South Viet Nam, this week. The palace was set afire by the bombing of two dissident South Vietnamese pilots but President Diem and his family escaped unhurt.

Glenn's Dollar Cargo No Joke

Space Officials Upset

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Friendship 7 space capsule apparently carried a contraband cargo of souvenir dollars as it orbited the earth and project officials are going to take steps so that it doesn't happen again.

One space agency official termed it a "foolish business."

and congressmen expressed fear such articles might jam delicate electronic equipment.

Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., testifying before the House Space Committee, said he knew of only one $1 bill. That was wrapped in a wire bundle aboard the capsule.

200 BILLS

However, Lt. Col. John A. Powers, the astronaut's public information officer, told newsmen something like 200 bills were hidden aboard Glenn's space craft by the launch crew.

He showed newsmen Monday one of the bills on which he was collecting signatures of the astronauts for a workman who had been stationed on the high gantry that serviced Friendship 7 before it rocketed into history.

Education Pays Off (?)

Hungary Tries New Twist to Old American Theme

VIENNA (UPI)—A new twist-like dance called the "gida" is catching on fast in Hungary, the Budapest newspaper Eszt Hirlap reported Wednesday.

"It is similar to the twist but more tasteful," the newspaper said. "The couples jump and circle around each other but without touching or embracing."

FANCY DESIGN — A wheel of caramelized apple segments is placed in the bottom of the cake pan before coconut flavored batter is poured in. Reverse the cake when you take it out of the oven, pipe a ruffing of whipped cream around its base and you have a dessert that spells "glamour."

Apple Upside Down Cake Made With Coconut Batter

Like a becoming new hat which brightens your favorite basic dress, an elegant and pretty dessert will turn a favorite basic menu into a special occasion dinner. Perhaps there's no time when these additions to your food of fashion wardrobe are more welcome than at the turn of a season. And, since nothing's quite so refreshing as fresh fruit, Apple-Coconut Upside Down Cake is a glamorous dessert indeed.

This elegant, yet easily prepared, concoction partners the tangy, wine-like flavor of superb Winesap apples with flaked coconut in a moist batter. Ringed with a whipped-cream wreath, topped with caramelized fresh apple crescents, this dessert becomes a "Must" for your recipe file.

Apple-Coconut Upside-Down Cake
 ¼ cup butter or margarine
 23 cup brown sugar (firmly packed)
 1 tsp. grated lemon peel
 1 tsp. lemon juice
 2 cups Winesap apple slices (lightly steamed)
 ¼ cup sifted flour
 ¼ teaspoon salt
 2 tablespoons white vinegar
 13 cup milk
 ¼ cup shortening
 13 cup flaked coconut
 ¼ cup sugar
 1 teaspoon maple extract
 1 egg

8-inch tube pan or an 8x4x2 inch baking pan; blend in brown sugar and grated lemon peel. Arrange steamed, well-drained apple slices on top of sugar mixture, sprinkle with lemon juice and set aside.

Sift together flour, soda and salt. Combine vinegar and milk. Cream together thoroughly; shortening, maple extract, flaked coconut and sugar; beat in the egg. Add dry ingredients, alternating with liquid, adding flour mixture first and last, beat until blended after each addition. Cover apples with batter.

Bake at 350 degrees about 45 minutes or until the cake tests done. Remove from oven and let set 5 minutes. Turn out serving plate. Ring with whipped cream, if you wish. Serves 8.

Make Cookie Sandwich With Nutty Date Filling

What a match — a sweet date filling that couples with cookies as Date-Peanut Butter Cookie Sandwiches.

To make these little, luscious treats, combine 2 tablespoons, each, of peanut butter and dark molasses with ¼ cup cooked, pitted dates—mashed to a fine paste—and spread, sandwich-style, between 8 pairs of butter cookies.

Corn Bread Has Zippy Flavor Cheese Topping

Cut a big piece of this warm, golden corn bread. A sprinkle of poppy seeds and cheese are baked on top. Inside, bits of onion and sharp cheese add zip to the corn flavor and crunchiness of a package of corn muffin mix.

It's so easy to make when you start with a mix, yet Cheese Onion Corn Bread is just what it takes to make a baked bean supper extra special.

Cheese-Onion Corn Bread
 ½ cup chopped onion
 1 tablespoon shortening
 1 12-oz. pkg. (2 cups) Corn Muffin Mix
 1 egg
 ¾ cup milk
 1 cup grated sharp process cheese
 1 teaspoon poppy seed
 1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine

Heat oven to hot (400 degrees). Cook onion in shortening until tender and light brown. Empty contents of package into bowl; add egg and milk. Blend until dry ingredients are just moistened. Lightly stir in onion and ½ cup cheese. Pour batter in greased 8-inch square pan. Sprinkle top with poppy seed; drizzle melted butter.

Bake in preheated oven (400 degrees) 20 to 25 minutes. Turn out oven. Place remaining cheese on top of baked corn bread. Return corn bread to still hot oven for 2 or 3 minutes to melt cheese.

Meats and Vegetables Are Abundant, Hold Price

It's easy to put spring into winter menus when you choose Michigan hot-house rhubarb, states the Marketing Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer. Michigan growers celebrated the annual Michigan Hot-house Rhubarb Festival in Utica last week, but you will find reason for their celebration in most large food stores from now until May. This is the height or peak of the season for this unusual plant.

Snip and discard rhubarb leaves, for only the stalk is used to make that first fresh pie of the season. But use for rhubarb goes further than pie. Judges checked saucers, drinks, jams, jellies and preserves; all rhubarb pie, or other types of rhubarb pie, refrigerated desserts, cakes, puddings, breads, salads and unusual dishes made from rhubarb before awarding prizes at the festival.

If you wish a free folder of rhubarb recipes, write Mrs. Lawyer at 100 N. Telegraph, County Circle Drive E. Pontiac.

Weather conditions continue to influence supply, quality and price of fresh produce items.

Last year's potato supplies are still large and harvesting of new crop potatoes is in full swing in the South. For these reasons, you will find exceptional potato bargains.

Notice slight increases in supplies of cauliflower, spinach, asparagus, strawberries and vine-ripened tomatoes. In some instances supply increases are slight and only slight, or no price changes are noticeable.

Rain again interfered with the California Navel orange picking program. Although retailers report wholesale orange prices slightly higher, most range from 39 cents to $1.08 per dozen.

APPLES

Michigan's "CA" apples are getting national attention as more than ever before are being shipped into other states. There is currently a good supply of McIntosh and Jonathan apples from controlled atmosphere rooms, and quality is good.

Since January 1, production of the red meats (beef, pork, lamb and veal) has been about 6 per cent greater than last year. This is about the rate of increase shoppers can expect in the next few months.

Shoppers can expect to find a varied selection of meat cuts on special each week. Buying meats that are featured is one way to save on the food bill, as red meats take about 25 per cent of the average shopper's budget. A check of local markets this week will show that some cuts of beef, pork and lamb are red meats given special emphasis.

Store features of red meats and poultry seem even more attractive when one considers the wholesale report given by retailers. They report that both red meat and poultry remain at about the same wholesale prices to higher than the week before.

This is the season for sales of processed fruits and vegetables, and this is much in evidence again this week. The big four in volume among canned vegetables are sweet corn, snap beans, green peas and tomatoes. Combined (and including tomato juice) they total about 60 per cent of all canned vegetables.

Canned sweet corn is particularly abundant this season from the unusually heavy pack, 29 per cent larger than a year earlier. Snap beans, 28 per cent more on hand than a year ago, and tomatoes, with January 1 stocks 14 per cent greater, are both in liberal supply.

The pack of frozen vegetables again set a new record in volume this packing season. Cold storage holdings on January 1 were about 20 per cent larger than a year earlier. All six major frozen vegetables — peas, French fried potatoes, snap beans, sweet corn and lima beans — are unusually abundant.

GOURMET PEAS — Interesting vegetables make a world of difference in a family menu. For a beginning plan to put Gourmet Peas 'n' Artichokes off your dinner menu tonight. Using canned vegetables means dishes are easy to prepare and quickly ready to go on the table.

Can of Peas Is Made Elegant

Vary the vegetables you serve to your family and just like that you have dinner with an extra appeal. And, easy for you it's only little touches that make the difference. For one menu plan to serve Gourmet Peas 'n' Artichokes. Seasoned ever so delicately with butter and brown sugar, the peas are garnished with canned artichoke hearts.

Gourmet Peas 'n' Artichokes
 1 can (1 lb.) peas
 2 tablespoons butter, or margarine

1 tablespoon brown sugar
 1 can (4½-oz.) artichoke hearts
 Heat peas in the liquid. Mix melted butter and brown sugar in a small skillet. Cut drained artichoke hearts in half, lengthwise. Heat in the butter mixture, turning carefully. Drain peas and put in serving dish; top with artichoke hearts. Pour any remaining butter mixture over the peas. Four servings.

Mushroom Know-How Not at All Complicated

How is your mushroom I.Q.? What do you know about the little vegetable with the big flavor asks the Marketing Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer.

The mushrooms in stores (fresh, canned or in soups) come from commercially grown sources. Twelve growers in southeastern Michigan grow most of the fresh cultivated mushrooms sold in the Detroit area.

Mushrooms grow best at about 55 degrees, so producers are building more airconditioned growing houses to extend the marketing season for this Michigan crop.

At present, the largest supplies are harvested in the two periods of March, April and May, October, November and the first three weeks in December.

Shoppers will usually find fresh mushrooms in the produce department packed in one pint and one pound boxes, or in bulk.

The finest fresh mushrooms are snowy white with a rounded knob like top tightly closed around the stem. These are best for broiling or stuffing. Fresh mushrooms may turn brown and open like umbrellas. These are preferred by some for their distinct flavor. These may be used in gravies, soups and other food combinations where flavor addition is their reason for use.

Mushrooms are easy to prepare for cooking. Wash in cold water and trim the end of their stems. Peeling is unnecessary and wasteful.

Mushrooms may be frozen for later use. Steam blanch whole mushrooms 5 minutes; buttons or quarters 3½ minutes. Before blanching, dip for 5 minutes in a solution of 1 teaspoon lemon juice or ¼ teaspoon citric acid per pint of water.

Use This Estimate To Buy Meat

When you're choosing such things as chops or franks, it's easy to determine just how much meat you will need. You simply count bones. Other meats sometimes require a bit of estimating. Here's a general rule prepared by the American Meat Institute on how much to buy per serving:

Boneless meat — as boneless round steak, cutlets, liver, stew meats, ground meat and rolled roasts — allow ½ pound per serving.

Meat with average amount of bone — as bone-in roasts, steaks, ham — allow ¾ to 1 ½ pound per serving.

Meat with larger amount of bone — as short ribs, spare ribs, pork hocks — allow ¾ to 1 pound per serving.

Cooks, Pay Homage to Goobers

By JANET ODELL
Peanut Press Home Editor
 For reasons best known to those who have eaten of such things, March 4 is National Peanut Week. For the growers and manufacturers it is a time to push their product. For us it is an opportunity to give you some new peanut recipes.

Have you ever referred to peanuts as "Goobers"? Do you know that is the African word for "groundnuts"? Peanuts were found by early explorers in South America. The little nuts found their way back to Europe and then to Africa; eventually they returned to the new world and became big business.

Last year 165,000 American peanut growers produced a $200 million crop. Under the Federal farm support program, peanuts are one of America's basic crops.

Our latest report says that one pound of peanuts is equal in energy value to 4 pounds of beef steak, 21 pounds of cheese, 10 quarts of milk or 33 eggs. No wonder they're good for growing youngsters.

The whole family will enjoy peanuts served in Magnolia pie. Gingersnaps are added to the pastry, peanut butter to the filling and chopped peanuts for a garnish.

MAGNOLIA PIE
Peanut Pastry Shell
 Grind 1/4 cup salted peanuts through fine side of food chopper. Combine with the flour in your favorite recipe for a one-crust, 9-inch pastry shell. Continue as directed for baked pastry shell. Cool before filling.

Satin Chocolate Cream
 1/2 cup sugar
 2 tablespoons cornstarch
 2 tablespoons flour
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 2 cups milk
 2 squares unsweetened chocolate
 3 egg yolks
 1 1/2 cups creamy peanut butter
 1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine sugar, cornstarch, flour and salt in a saucepan. Stir in milk and add unsweetened chocolate. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Lightly beat a little of the hot sauce into the unbeaten egg yolks. Add to chocolate mixture slowly and stir over low heat for 2 minutes.

Remove from heat and thoroughly blend in peanut butter and vanilla. Cool to lukewarm. Combine with Spicy Whip as directed below.

Spicy Whip
 Prepare 1 (2-ounce) package of dessert topping mix, following package directions but adding 1/2 teaspoon each of cinnamon and nutmeg to the milk before beating. Fold cooled Satin Chocolate Cream lightly into Spicy Whip, leaving dapples of white through the chocolate.

Turn filling into baked and cooled Peanut Pastry Shell. Sprinkle with a spoon. Chill. Just before serving, sprinkle a wreath of chopped salted peanuts around edge.

All of our recipes have come from the National Peanut Council. Here's one they dreamed up for sticky buns.

Pineapple Goobers Goody Buns
 1 1/2 cup light brown sugar
 1/2 cup melted butter or margarine
 1/4 cup salted peanut halves
 3 cup pineapple preserves
 2 cups biscuit mix
 2 tablespoons softened butter or margarine

1/2 cup light brown sugar
 1/4 cup chopped salted peanuts
 1 cup seedless raisins

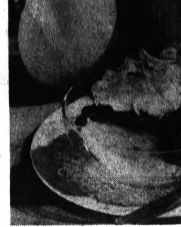

Heat oven to 400 degrees (hot). Grease 12 3-inch muffin cups; divide 1/2 cup brown sugar, melted butter and peanut halves between cups. With a fork, stir pineapple preserves into biscuit mix. Knead dough on lightly floured board 10 times; roll out to a 16x12-inch oblong. Spread with softened butter; sprinkle with 1/4 cup brown sugar, chopped peanuts and raisins. Roll tightly from wide side and pinch to seal. With floured knife cut crosswise into 12 slices.

Place cut-side down in prepared muffin cups. Bake 8 to 12 minutes hot oven (400 degrees). At once place wax paper and a rack over pan; invert both; let stand 1 minute, then remove pan. Serve hot with fluffy-whipped butter, be cold without a spread.

PEANUTS IN A SALAD add a pleasant taste and texture. This salad is a treat to the eye as well as to the tongue.

MADRID GRAS FRUIT SALAD

QUEEN'S PUDDING—This old fashioned dessert is "homey" but delicious. Underneath the lightly browned meringue is a jam layer atop a nourishing custard-like bread pudding. You may make it from left over bread, but it will taste first rate.

Custard Dessert Is Nourishing

A regal dessert with a regal name—Queen's Pudding will delight your family and is elegant enough for company, too. This dessert is an easily prepared old fashioned dessert consisting of layers of a custard-type bread pudding, then one of jam or preserves of your choice, and finally topped with a fluffy meringue which has been delicately browned in the oven.

Desserts, for the family, containing liberal amounts of milk and other dairy foods are a good choice for nutrition-minded homemakers. The high quality protein and calcium as well as other essential minerals and vitamins provided by milk, are essential in the daily diet of every member of the family.

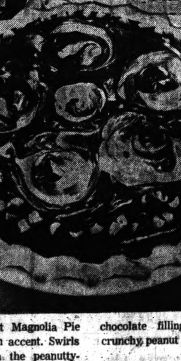

Queen's Pudding is just such an example of a dessert—serve this nourishing treat to your family or guests soon.

Queen's Pudding
 4 cups soft crust-free bread cubes (about 8 slices)
 4 eggs
 1/2 cup sugar
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 3 cups scalded milk
 1 (10-12 ounce) jar red raspberry preserves (about 1 cup)

Arrange bread cubes in 1 1/2 quart casserole. Combine 1 egg and 2 egg yolks, beat slightly. Add 1/2 cup sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt and vanilla; mix. Add scalded milk to egg mixture gradually, stirring constantly. Pour over bread.

Place casserole in a shallow pan filled with 1-inch of hot water; bake in a moderate 350 degree oven until done, about 30 minutes, or until a knife inserted in center of pudding comes out clean. Remove from oven; spread with raspberry preserves.

Beat egg whites with remaining 1/2 teaspoon salt until frothy. Add remaining 1/2 cup sugar gradually and continue beating until meringue will hold stiff peaks. Spread over preserves. Return to oven and bake 10 minutes longer or until meringue is delicately browned. Cool and serve plain or with cream. Makes 6 servings.

MAGNOLIA PIE—Fragrant Magnolia Pie invites you with its rich Southern accent. Swirls of spicy topping dance through the peanutty chocolate filling, all the way down to the crunching peanut crust.

cheese (more firm than cream) on your handkerchief tray or chop plate and jewel it with red grapes, halved and seeded. Around, on crisp salad greens, arrange alternate Fruit Cakes and Peanut Goodies, a pair for each lunch guest. Pass Honeyed Peanut Butter Mayonnaise.

Fruit Cakes
 Top a pineapple slice with a round coring slice of red-skinned apple. Crown with wedges cut from a slice of corned country sausage, arranged pin-wheel style. Top off with a fat slice of banana and a Spanish peanut! (Dip apple and banana slices in pineapple juice to keep them snowy white.)

Peanut Goodies
 Cut a ripe banana crosswise through the center. Split half of it down its length, slicing only part of the way through. Spread the slit slightly and fill with red-skinned Spanish peanuts.

Peanut Butter Mayonnaise
 Blend 1/2 cup creamy peanut butter with 1/4 cup honey. Fold in 1/2 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing. Delicious over fruit salad or as a rich surprise flavor in cabbage

Spanish peanut! (Dip apple and bananas in pineapple juice to keep them snowy white.)

Skillet Apples
 4 very large (2 1/2 pounds) Rome Beauty apples
 1 cup water
 1/2 cup sugar
 1/4 teaspoon vanilla

Pare apples; halve and core. Heat water and sugar in a 10-inch skillet, stirring, until sugar dissolves; simmer 5 minutes longer without stirring. Add apples, cavity sides up; cover and boil gently until tender but apples still hold their shape—about 30 minutes.

Turn apples about 10 minutes before end of cooking time so rounded sides are up. Stir vanilla into syrup. Allow apples to stand, uncovered, so they absorb small amount of syrup.

Serve warm or cold with custard sauce made from scratch or a pudding mix. Makes 4 servings.

Baked Cheese Dish Appeals to Tots

Adapted from a Dutch recipe, this dish made a big hit with some visiting toddlers!

Dutch Fonda
 6 slices bread
 1/2 pound Edam cheese (grated medium fine)
 4 eggs
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon paprika
 2 1/2 cups milk

Toast bread; remove crust; cut into 1-inch squares; arrange in one layer in a buttered shallow 6-cup baking dish. Sprinkle with cheese (there should be 2 cups), reserving 3 tablespoons.

Beat eggs slightly with salt and paprika; add milk and beat to combine. Pour over cheese; sprinkle reserved cheese over top. Bake in a pan of hot water in a slow (325 degrees) oven until knife inserted near center comes out clean—about 45 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Popcorn Isn't New but It's Bigger

Modern Indians had already evolved almost every use for popcorn which we have today long before the arrival of the Spaniards. Cortes, for example, saw popcorn for the first time when he invaded Mexico in 1519. He used it to decorate ceremonial headpieces, to ornament statues, or to offer to the gods, and also as personal jewelry. Columbus, too, found the natives of the West Indies selling popcorn decorations as we sell corsages today.

So it seems that we are "Johnny Come Lately" in the field of popcorn enjoyment. However, we can claim the credit for the great progress which has been made in the last few decades as far as the quality of popcorn is concerned. Ancient popcorn was very dry and probably extremely tough, and delicious taste package.

PRESTO — CHANGO — Canned tuna, soup and a vegetable... add up to a quick, tasty and nutritious dish. To make an entirely different dish, just combine different soup, vegetable and seasonings with the tuna.

Be a Quick Change Artist With Staple Foods

With two cans of tuna, a can of condensed soup and a little imagination, you can be a magician in your own kitchen. First you raid your own pantry shelf, which you've stocked with a view to performing culinary magic, then you wave your magic wand over the stove, and presto! five minutes later you have a fine main dish at hand.

On another occasion, select a different kind of soup and different seasonings to go with your tuna, and change! you have an equally fine, but very different, main dish to grace your table.

Canned tuna, a first-class protein food, also enables you to perform magic with your food budget. The tuna-soup combinations are real economy news: they serve four people at a cost of about 80 cents, or 20 cents a serving. To round out the menu, serve your presto changeo tuna dinner over rice, noodles, toast, toasted English muffins or corn-bread squares.

Take advantage of the vegetable oil in which tuna is packed. It is nutritious, emphasizes the fine flavor of the tuna and, combined with the natural tuna oil, contributes valuable polyunsaturates to the diet.

If you want to make a display piece of your tuna dinner, combine the ingredients in a casserole, top the mixture with French fried onions or potato sticks and bake it for long enough to heat, about 15 minutes.

Presto Chango Tuna Dinner

1 can undiluted cream of mushroom soup
1 can (1 pound) peas
1/4 teaspoon marjoram

2 cans 10 3/4 or 7 ounces each tuna in vegetable oil

Mix together in saucepan undiluted soup and peas with liquid from can. Add marjoram and tuna. Heat to serving temperature. Serve over toast points, corn bread squares, hot cooked rice or noodles. Yield: 4 servings.

Variations

Substitute for cream of mushroom soup, peas and marjoram in above recipe:

- 1 can cream of celery soup, 1 can (1 pound) green beans and 1/4 teaspoon thyme.
- 1 can tomato soup, 1 can (1 pound) corn and 1/4 teaspoon tarragon or oregano.
- 1 can cream of asparagus soup, 1 can (4 ounces) pimiento, diced, 1/2 cup milk and 1/2 teaspoon curry powder.

Note: Ingredients may be combined in a 1 1/2-quart casserole, topped with 1 can (3 1/2 ounces) French fried onions or potato sticks and baked in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) 15 minutes.

Hawaiian Touch Given Rice Dish

Hawaii's "gold," the golden pineapple is combined with sliced ham, rice and nippy cheese for this Island Magic. The rice is simmered in the juice of the canned pineapple.

Island Magic

1 cup pineapple tidbits
1 1/2 cups pineapple juice and water

1 can (10 3/4 ounces) condensed cheese soup, undiluted
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ground pepper

2 cups sliced cooked ham
1 1/3 cups packaged pre-cooked rice

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Drain pineapple and retain juice. Add enough water to make 1 1/2 cups liquid. In saucepan, combine liquid with pineapple, soup and next 3 ingredients. Bring to a boil. Stir in rice. Pour into 1 1/2 quart casserole. Bake 10 minutes. Makes 4-6 servings.

Fried Pork Skins Are Delicacy in Mexico

You probably think of pork in terms of roasts and chops, but have you ever tried chicharrones? Down Mexico way chicharrones is a pork delicacy that stacks up in popularity with cotton candy and bubble gum in our land, reports the American Meat Institute.

It's really pork skin which is fried crisp in vats of fat. Mexicans buy it in small pieces from street vendors, then dip the morsels in chili sauce and crunch away.

Wheat Germ Is Good Addition

A homesy poet somewhere along the line said "there is muffin" like a muffin to give a meal appeal," and most of us are quick to agree with him — especially if m.o.m. serves up the wheat germ banana muffins we feature today.

For these are premium muffins, high in nutrition and delightful in flavor. Serve them hot from the oven with lots of butter at breakfast, lunch or dinner. And you can add them to school or work lunchboxes, if stocking the latter is one of your daily assignments.

Wheat Germ Banana Muffins

1 1/2 cups sifted flour
1/2 cup sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup wheat germ
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup finely mashed banana
1/2 cup milk
1/4 cup melted shortening or cooking oil

Combine flour, sugar, baking powder and salt in sifter; sift into mixing bowl. Stir in wheat germ. Add eggs, banana pulp, milk and shortening or oil. Stir just until dry ingredients are moistened. Fill well greased large muffin pans 2/3 full. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) until done and lightly browned, 20 to 25 minutes. Yield: 12 large muffins.

Wheat Germ Banana Nut Muffins

Prepare as for Wheat Germ Banana Muffins adding 1/2 cup chopped pecans to dry ingredients before adding liquids.

Nightcaps Are Making Comeback

BY NANCY LOWE GRAY
Worcester, Mass.

Written for the AP
Nightcaps are back for the first time in more than a century, and women are wearing them everywhere.

The caps, which came in a variety of styles ranging from sturdy gingham to dainty nylon lace numbers, have been difficult for the nation's department stores to keep in stock during the past six months.

Now the menswear manufacturers have entered into the fashion spirit with nightcaps like those great-grandfather used to wear.

But women never did have a corner on the nightcap market. From the 14th to the mid-19th century, nightcaps were standard for women, men and children.

They were worn indoors as well as in bed, mostly to give wig-wearers a bit of relaxation.

Men's nightcaps in the 19th century were called jelly bags, because of their shape. They were usually fashioned of knitted silk with a tassel on the top.

Finally a rule was passed by the corporation of Harvard College that no student should wear any silk nightgown or nightcaps.

They were considered not only an unnecessary expense but "inconsistent with the gravity and demeanor proper to be observed."

An old costume book reveals that the governor of Massachusetts made a list of goods stolen from him.

He named four nightcaps

Bowling's Real Ball

By SHARON KAY RITCHIE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The bowler's code of etiquette is not only simple, it's sensible. There are just a few basic rules. Be gracious. Don't gloat if you win—and don't sulk or alibi if you lose. Keep cool. If you have to blow your top, take it out on the pins.

Give priority to the bowler on your right. If a bowler on the left is ready to bowl, however, let him complete his delivery before picking up your ball.

Stay in back of the foul line at all times. Stay in your own lane. Don't talk to your opponent after he's on the approach.

KEEP GAME GOING

Keep the game moving. Be ready to bowl when it's your turn. After the ball has hit the pins, walk back promptly to the approach.

Keep snacks and drinks away from the bowling area. Be fair when you miss a shot. Don't blame the equipment.

Never go on the lane without bowling shoes. Make certain they are free of foreign substances which might mar the lanes or mess up another's rolling.

Don't use another's ball without permission. This is not only impolite, it can result in some first-class arguments.

with lace edge and eight nightcaps with lace. Men at one time wore nightcaps in the daytime as a part of a lounging costume.

HIDE CURLERS

Today's nightcaps for women copy the 18th-century demure, French nightcaps, worn during the day and at night.

The bonnet-type caps featured puffed up crowns, ruffles and under-the-chin ties. Women are wearing them in bed, around the house, and on outside errands to cover up curlers.

The nightcaps range in price from $1 to $3. They come in dainty boudoir type laces to match nightgowns and negligees. They also come in nylon, rayon and cotton prints.

The caps will fit any type hair style, even the highly bouffant. Most have elastic banding so that they are face-hugging.

The women of the space age find them pretty and useful. Men may, too—at least those with bald patches should on cold winter nights.

Teen-Age Smoking Spirals; Shun Cancer Fear

By EUGENE GILBERT
President, Gilbert
Youth Research, Inc.

Cigarette smoking, a habit which declined measurably among teenagers at the height of reports linking it with lung cancer, appears to be on the upswing once again.

Our latest survey of America's young people shows 36 per cent of them smoke, compared with 25 per cent two years ago.

Both figures, however, are well below the findings of a 1957 survey. And only a third of the smokers indulge every day.

The possibility smoking causes lung cancer — an assertion, incidentally, of which all but 7 per cent are aware — still leads the list of reasons teen-agers give for not smoking. Cost of cigarettes is another.

Another change in the picture over the past two years is the number of boys who smoke compared with the number of girls.

In 1960, teen-age smokers included 30 per cent boys and 20 per cent girls. Today's group is made up of 36 per cent boys and 22 per cent girls.

Why do teen-agers smoke?

"It relaxes me," said 15-year-old Phyllis Wernick of New York City, and most other smokers asserted the same thing. There was some take up the practice purely to win social acceptance.

SOCIAL PRESSURE

"I started for social reasons," admitted Rosie Rappaport, 16, of Rockville Center, N.Y. Perhaps more significant was the answer of 18-year-old Richard Brown of Lincoln, Neb., who felt compelled to point out he started smoking "for enjoyment only — not to make a bit with the crowd."

A significant reason for smoking was advanced by a surprising number of figure-conscious girls, typified by Linda Hartman of Louisville, Ky. "It destroys my appetite so I can keep my figure." What it does to her health she didn't mention.

On the other hand, 16-year-old Robin Brown of Syracuse, N.Y., said she doesn't smoke and never will "because it stains your teeth and my beauty is more important than anything else."

Only one out of three teen-agers who smoke does so as often as once a day, our survey showed; and nearly as many, 27 per cent, indulge only one to three times a week. Of the daily smokers, half smoke only one to four cigarettes, 10 per cent consume a pack or more.

The years from 14 to 17 appear to be the period when teen-agers are most attracted to smoking. One to four begin during these years. It may be significant that only 3 per cent begin after they pass 17, and that of those who don't smoke only 8 per cent feel that they might someday try.

The majority of 64 per cent who don't smoke offer a number of reasons for their abstinence. Seventy-six per cent said they were afraid it might cause lung cancer; and of those who smoke, nearly half said fear of cancer might make them decide to give it up. Only 16 per cent, however, expect to quit soon.

Diane E. Haybik, 16, of Honolulu, Hawaii, commented, "Although the reports on cancer were not conclusive, I wouldn't take any chances," she said.

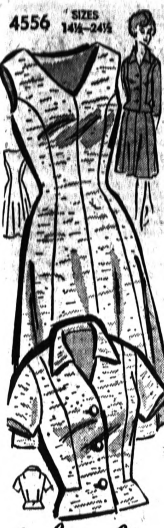

Martha Katz, 19, of Coral Gables, Fla., said she doesn't smoke simply because she doesn't enjoy it. Pam Dermitt, 18, of Whittier, Calif., said she doesn't smoke because her boyfriend doesn't approve.

Those who once had smoked but later gave it up (and nearly one out of seven had thus experienced) also offered a variety of reasons.

Lynn Johnson, 16, of Ridgewood, N.J., said she had tried smoking "for social reasons only" and gave it up because "I didn't like it, really." Gene Smith, 17, of Maclean, Ill., said he figured his new girlfriend would object; 15-year-old Mike Barnoff of Erie, Pa., said the habit got too expensive; and 15-year-old Louis Johns of Binghamton, N.Y., gave an equally frank reason. Said Louis: "My mother caught me."

U.S. Crash Diet Craze Costs Billion Plus Yearly

If all the money spent on crash diets was used to feed the hungry people of Africa...

Africans would have to start reducing. So said a Congressman who was interested in analyzing the crash diet phenomenon in the United States.

The cost of keeping fat people furnished is over a billion dollars a year... and ninety per cent of those undergoing a super-accelerated reducing program gain back the lost weight in six months.

DANGEROUS DIETS

Forty-eight million Americans go on crash diets every year, absurdly ignorant of what they are doing to themselves. People who can talk learnedly about art and politics, are shockingly uninformed when it comes to the problems of overweight, and resort to popular articles like "How to Lose Ten Pounds in Ten Days" and "The Miracle Way to Reduce."

Unfortunately, while some of these articles are interesting, few come to grips with the realities of dieting. For the average person, a diet is useless and even dangerous unless he knows what he's doing and why he's doing it.

For those seriously overweight — fifteen pounds or more — medical advice is needed. For those only slightly plump, they can probably manage on their own keeping this in mind: Ideal weight loss for dieters who want permanent results is two to three pounds per month.

For chronic eaters, emotional help can be gained from a new organization called TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly). TOPS operates along the successful pattern pioneered by Alcoholics Anonymous. Members who have "fallen off" their diet confess their failures, analyze their mistakes and try again. Like AA, names of members are held in strict confidence.

Tips Can Ease Tension

Worry Hurts All of You

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
When a person lives in a constant state of tension, he or she spends a tremendous amount of energy uselessly and wastefully.

When you worry, you do so not only with your mind but with your heart and respiration, your blood vessels and even with your muscles, which become tense. All of you is affected. When we remember this, we realize how devastating worry is to health as well as to happiness.

Today let me give you a few suggestions which I hope will be helpful.

1. Learn not to fret over non-essentials.

2. Try to think of something pleasant when you are in the middle of a hectic time and life gangs up on you. This is an art which can be learned with practice. You can deliberately cut out an unhappy, depressing thought and replace it with a happy thought just as surely as a surgeon can excise diseased tissue.

3. Find some time, even if only 10 or 15 minutes a day, to be alone. Every individual needs time out of the rat race to dream, to think, to straighten out the values of life, time in which to find himself and to get in touch with the sweep of the far horizons.

4. Be hospitable to those people and surroundings and thoughts which are rewarding and stimulating. You have only so much time and so much energy, so spend them wisely.

5. Do not forget the physical factors. A headache or a backache, too little sleep, or too little exercise, a state of chronic fatigue, unscientific habits in food consumption, all these factors and many more can sabotage you.

If you are one of those people who worry constantly about non-essentials as well as essential, you would be so wise to change your way of thinking. If you worry about nonessentials, you will not be in condition to cope intelligently with your real problems. I think we have to consider both our mental and physical habits because they are so closely correlated.

If you would like to have my leaflet, "Worry," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 44 to Josephine Lowman, in care of The Pontiac Press.

Marie Guizar Weds Jose Elizondo

Nine attendants preceded Marie Guizar to the altar in St. Vincent de Paul Church where she exchanged vows Saturday morning with Jose R. Elizondo of Bloomfield Hills before Rev. Joseph Fennimore.

Parents of the bride couple are the Rafael Guizars of West South Boulevard, Mrs. Blanca Rodriguez of New Laredo, Mexico, and the late Jose Elizondo.

Simulated orange blossoms of Mexican beeswax held the bride's fingertip veil of illusion worn in complement to her gown of white Italian silk, styled with bouffant panniers and chapel train. The long-sleeved bodice of Chantilly lace was re-embroidered with seed pearls. An orchid centered her cascade bouquet of white carnations.

Margaret Lorraine Guizar, wearing pink lace over taffeta served as her sister's maid of honor. Her flowers were pink and white carnations.

Coppertone and white carnations complemented gold taffeta for bridesmaids Mrs. Alfredo Martinez, Mrs. Eugene Berezinski, Mrs. Raymond Trivino and Mrs. Alfredo Moers, Waterford.

Bridesmaids Victoria Neaves, Margaret Villa, Erna Linda Aguilera and Theresa Tovar appeared in red taffeta styled with bubble overskirts and carried white fur muffs topped with white and red carnations.

Alfredo Martinez stood at best man. Eugene Berezinski, Raymond Trivino, Alfredo Moers, Waterford, Henry Muniz, Laize Jimenez, Richard Guizar and Robert Paramo comprised the usher list.

After greeting some 600 guests at an evening reception in the Annets hall, the newlyweds left for a honeymoon in Northern Michigan.

For her daughter's wedding, Marie Guizar chose being taffeta. This was one thing a housewife hates worse than anything else it is having to turn out work on her husband's underfoot.

No housewife can hope to get everything done that she has to do in 24 hours a week. And if there is one thing a housewife hates worse than anything else it is having to turn out work on her husband's underfoot.

In time, a housewife gets used to working with children around. She can sleep them out of the house when they get in the way. She can banish them to their rooms if they get rowdy. She can put a baby in a playpen.

But what can she do with papa when he gets in the way? Let her start in to cook, and he is sure to want her help in the garage on some project he has begun.

Let her set the living room in order and the man who is loafing around home because he hasn't business elsewhere is sure to have it cluttered up in an hour.

Let her sit down to rest and her husband is bound to discover that he has lost something he has to have immediately.

Let her say she thinks she'll run a few errands and he wants to know when she'll be back.

That's why women are so often unhappy when their husbands retire — because the men aren't gone from home long enough each day to let their wives get their work done in peace.

Austin-Martin Vows Said Honeymoon in the East

MRS. FLOYD H. AUSTIN

The Floyd H. Austins who were wed Saturday evening in the First Church of the Nazarene, left for a honeymoon resort in the Pocono Mountains, Pennsylvania, following a reception in the Young Women's Christian Association building.

Potted palms and baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums adorned the chancel, where Rev. J. E. VanHouten performed the candlelight ceremony.

The former Doris E. Martin of Longworth Street, Waterford, is the daughter of James K. Martin of Terrell Street, Waterford and Mrs. Omer Mason, Compton, Calif.

Her bouffant floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace and no over taffeta featured a Sabrina neckline, wrist-point sleeves and scalloped skirt insets of lace and tulle. She wore fingertip veiling of silk illusion held by a jeweled tiara and carried a white Bible topped with miniature carnations and white roses.

Attending their sister were Mrs. William Libby, matron of honor and bridesmaid Carol Martin of Waterford. Headbands of pink carnations and turquoise muffs topped with pink carnations complemented their dress of turquoise peau de soie.

Arthur Austin Jr. of Berkley stood as best man for his brother who resided in Drayton Plains. They are sons of Arthur Austin of Bank Street, Waterford Township, and the late Mrs. Austin.

Seating some 250 guests were Charles Smalley, Richard Sowles and the bridegroom's nephew, Austin Hickey, Berkley.

The bride holds a master's degree in education from Eastern Michigan University and teaches in Birmingham. The couple will live in Waterford.

Mrs. Martin chose a sheath dress of beige lace over taffeta for the wedding.

Elegant Simplicity

The Japanese are probably the greatest appreciators of blending simplicity with elegance. A returning American tourist reports she was just a bit appalled at the thought of sleeping on the floor until the hotel maid politely spread out her tatami sleeping mat and reverently added a foam rubber mattress covered with satin sheets. She said she never slept better in her life!

Wives to Go Crazy With 20-Hour Week

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
There must be a lot of electricians' wives in New York who secretly hope their men won't ever win their fight for an eventual 20-hour week.

Not that wives want their husbands to overwork. But a husband who is gone from home only 20 hours each week just isn't gone long enough.

No housewife can hope to get everything done that she has to do in 24 hours a week. And if there is one thing a housewife hates worse than anything else it is having to turn out work on her husband's underfoot.

DOWNTOWN AND DRAYTON PLAINS

Balkans Still Powder Keg

From Mongols to Reds, Invaders Have Fought for Peninsula

WASHINGTON — The Balkan Peninsula is notorious as a powder keg of wars. From its name comes the verb "balkanize," meaning to break up into small, weak, and often conflicting units. For centuries armies have marched up and down this vast stretch of southeast Europe. Invading from east or west, Mongols and Turks, Roman legionaries and Frankish Crusaders have scoured the mountains, tramped through valleys, and swarmed over the plains.

Today, new quarrels and competitions rail the Balkan states as Communist leaders disagree with each other and the West. Yugoslavia is the largest and — with 15.5 million people — the most populous of the Balkan nations.

After World War II, Communist-led Yugoslavs first turned to the Soviet Union, then broke away from the Russian political and economic control. Small, neighboring Albania now also defies the Kremlin. But it denounces the Yugoslav government as well, and pledges allegiance to the policies of militant Fred China.

Yugoslavia and Albania are farthest from Russia. In Hungary, on the Soviet border, the anti-Communist revolt of 1956 was quickly crushed by Russian tanks. Adjacent Romania and nearby Bulgaria have remained in Russian orbit. Southward, Greece and Turkey stand with NATO and the West.

River, road and railway lines crisscross old and new Balkan trade routes. The great Danube flows in majestic curves from Austria to the Black Sea. Deep in Yugoslavia, a red airport star marks Sarajevo, where an assassin's bullet killed Austrian Archduke Franz Ferdinand, setting off World War I.

Young Yugoslavs, like young Americans, wear blue jeans, enjoy jazz, sports, and dancing. But they grow up in a hard-working, economically planned world in which government employment brings special benefits, and private enterprise is fettered by taxes and regulations.

Still Works in Garden at Reported Age of 145

MOSCOW (AP) — The Tass agency said Tuesday Ashim Dursunov, a peasant in Kirghiz village of Krasnaya Rechka, is 145 years old.

"Through force of age-long habit," Tass reported, "he still works in his garden and orchard. Doctors consider his state of health to be fairly strong. Dursunov says he has eaten all kinds of food but never touched alcoholic drinks."

Spends Time Teaching the Unteachable

Ex-Social Worker Hits School Methods

(Editor's Note — A retired social worker in Jonesville has compiled a unique record in the past nine years in helping children who had major difficulties in their early years of school. She is critical of schools and teachers who classified some of the children as unteachable and said her methods helped the children become good pupils.)

BY CONNIE V. REED
Jackson Citizen-Patriot
Written for the AP

JONESVILLE — A 7-year-old boy classed as problem child learned to read and write within a few short weeks.

A 12-year-old child expelled from school with a recommendation that he be committed to an institution could not write and could read only his first name. In five weeks he learned to read and write simple sentences and began to conquer other subjects as well.

A collection of 40 of "the worst problem children" in a school became a well-disciplined class of eager-to-learn pupils.

"A miracle," said parents and teachers who witnessed these and hundreds of other cases in which seemingly unteachable children broke the learning barrier.

SAYS IT'S SIMPLE
"Common sense," says Mrs. Jocelyn D'Arkos of Jonesville, whose private research project developed the teaching method which made learning possible for these pupils.

"It makes me boil to see what has happened to some fine young minds," this retired social worker and teacher declares.

"Any child can learn—only the rate of learning differs," Mrs. D'Arkos claims.

For nine years, working out of her own home, she has helped untangle scores of muddled young minds which have become sidetracked by lack of learning success. This seeming inability to learn results in emotional and physical problems not always traced to the real cause—frustration at not learning as other children do.

This is needless, said Mrs. D'Arkos, who said she never had a failure with a student using her method.

In 1950 alone, 1,561 people came to "Stencroft," the D'Arkos home 13 miles south of Jonesville, for guidance. In addition to the personal help she gives visitors, Mrs. D'Arkos aids others by mail and telephone and often visits schools to prove that her method works as well with a classroom full of pupils as with individual ones.

She has worked with many teachers, some of whom are already using her method in their schools. But she feels that the method can have really widespread use only after a book she has written is published. She signed a contract with a publisher in early February and hopes the book will be out yet this year.

NEED MORE WORK

More work, not more money, is the main need in schools today, Mrs. D'Arkos insists. She deplores the "easy learning" methods modern schools employ and the time spent in nonessential activity periods.

"Just give me as much time as they wasted in kindergarten," she says, "and I can solve any child's learning problems."

Parents are afraid to discipline their children, she says, and discipline is just as important to a youngster's education as any other factor.

In school, teachers "brand" children as problem pupils and the label follows them throughout their stay in that school, she says. Use of tests to determine pupils' ability draws another D'Arkos volley. "Why add to a 'problem child's' insecurity when the end result of all the testing is zero?" she asks. "They don't know what to do with them when the results are in!"

"Schools just don't give children enough to do so that they can develop a sense of personal accomplishment. Schools belittle memory work as old-fashioned, but it's one of the basic principles of learning," she says. "And children certainly don't need all the extra-curricular activities adults are forever thinking up for them just because the grownups don't know what to do with the kids."

Friday: In the concluding article, Mrs. D'Arkos charges many teachers deliberately confuse parents with ambiguous reports.

County Planning Unit Is Ruled Regional

LANSING — A county planning commission is a regional planning commission under the terms of the Federal Housing Act, an attorney general's opinion held Wednesday.

Agar said the County Planning Commission had applied for federal funds and a question had been raised as to its eligibility. The ruling has the effect of declaring the county commission is eligible for the funds.

Welcome to New York City, Mr. Astronaut!

Lindy a Hero but Glenn Is an Era, a Faith

By PHYLLIS BATTLE
NEW YORK (UPI) — Thirty-five years ago, New York City went berserk with joy.

Four million people — thousands of them crying hysterically — lined the streets.

They heaved 1,800 tons of confetti, paper and ticker tape toward the sky, and it rained down upon the frenzied city like a big, hard rain.

It cost $16,000 to clean up the next day.

Altogether 25,000 tons of newspaper was devoted to the most fantastic greeting in the history of this allegedly blasé city.

All in honor, of course, of Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr., a courageous and (temporarily) a lucky man.

Today is Col. John H. Glenn's Day, and Mayor Wagner thinks New York will duplicate or surpass, in demonstrations of delight his reception of Lindy.

This prediction from the mayor was spoken confidently and in full knowledge of the conveniences of television and the inconveniences of the winter climate.

I hope the mayor is right. I imagine he is.

A BIGGER JOB

The second—and simpler—reason why New Yorkers should hail Colonel Glenn even more jubilantly than they welcomed the young man with the transatlantic monoplane do not stem entirely from the greater scope of the job well done. I feel — so much as from the man himself.

"Lindbergh is a work of art and a picture or a poem, he either thrills you or he doesn't," summed up a N. Y. newspaper in '27.

John Glenn is more than a work of art. He is an era, an age, a one-man renaissance of faith, not only in the United States but in the entire Western world.

He is the all-American-looking boy; yet he is 40. And his achievement proves that life CAN begin then.

Glenn's accomplishments—were more than a somewhat irrational feat of derring-do; it was a calm, but never cold, job of risking his life for his country.

Lindbergh was a matinee idol, virily handsome and appropriately modest. Within three weeks after his flight he'd been swamped with 2.5-million fan letters, many proposing marriage. A film company offered $1 million for the privilege of filming his wedding.

Col. Glenn is a different kind of idol — a religious family man, obviously deeply in love with his wife after nearly 20 years. As Madison Avenue might put it, this snags him a greater market in the public's enormous mind.

Lindbergh became a great, gutsy hero by doing what Granddaddy called "a fool stunt," accepting the challenge of a New York hotel magnate who offered $25,000 for the first nonstop flight from New York to Paris.

Glenn's triumph was, by total contrast, marked by a cautious teamwork preparedness that at once frustrated and diminished the fingerlings of Americans everywhere.

But when he soared into space he was just as much a man alone as Lindy had been. And when he came down, it was to a marine officer's flight pay.

If there was any truth to the

New York paper's contention that Lindbergh "either thrills you or he doesn't," I'd guess John Glenn should win the popularity contest hands-down.

Because of the communications media of our day, which not only delineated every moment of his spectacular bravery—but also revealed his flawlessly warm, human and admirable personality. Use of tests to determine pupils' ability draws another D'Arkos volley. "Why add to a 'problem child's' insecurity when the end

New York loves parades, and idolizes Glenn, for the morale boost he's given to the many countries New Yorkers represent.

They have talked about nothing else for days. I think they'll turn out overwhelmingly to cheer him. If they don't — if it snows, say, or sleets — well, sorry. We all love courage here. But we don't all practice it.

Tigers Working Harder Than Ever for 'Manager of the Year'

They Hustle for Scheffing at Lakeland

Colavito Now Official Holdout, Ferrell Won't Hunt for Him

By BRUNO KRAJINS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press
LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Detroit manager Leo Scheffing is the most of the major league managers. Yet he was the 1961 "American League Manager of the Year."

Because he isn't like some of the other managers and unlike Tiger managers of the past, he may be the reason why in this spring camp, the Tigers appear to be working harder, hustling more and taking their assignments in better spirits.

When the clubhouse door opened at 10:30 a.m. yesterday and the squad of Tigers raced out of the doorway, Scheffing came racing out, right in the middle of the lineup. When they started hitting drills he was walking with a bat to pepper grounders to the infielders. When the pitchers started warming up, there were three receivers, two catchers and a shortstop.

Everywhere else around the training camps, the managers did patch their assistant coaches to their various duties and they park themselves near the field of action and do the overseeing.

Two units
The squad was broken down into two units, half of which took the bus to go to Tigertown to out while the remainder stayed at Port Huron. Undeveloped Capra, ranked No. 1, and once-beaten Imay City, No. 3, drew opposing brackets and appear headed for a showdown March 10 at 7 p.m.

Big 10 Round-Robin Schedule Under Fire

EAST LANSING 40—Some angry players in the Big Ten don't like the idea that they eventually will have to play only each other in football, and cut out some good outside friends.

This was made clear here at a conference of Big Ten faculty representatives, athletic directors, registrars and others at the annual conference meeting.

Under the plan the Big Ten big schools have to consider this week end, they would gradually eliminate all outsiders until they met only each other in a round-robin schedule.

The present schedule is progressing toward a nine-game round-robin in football play in 1963. It builds up by having a minimum of eight games in the conference in 1967 and 1968.

Schedules now are drawn up through 1966.

Big Ten Commissioner Bill Reed admitted there was some grumbling about the idea, claiming the vote was about even now.

Others claimed it could be voted down this weekend.

Reed said the Big Ten this week could take either tentative or final steps to stop the plan from being consummated.

Some schools protested they had excellent relationships with others—giving Notre Dame and other nonmember universities as examples. Others said there was an incentive to their players to travel to the West Coast and elsewhere. Groups representing alumni said the away trips were important to the plan.

One coach suggested: "If you can't promise your kids good trips—like to the coast or the Rose Bowl—then they have no incentive."

"If this goes through, it will be almost like the 'old' days," suggested another coach. "You will just have to play with members of your own family and you can get awful sick of them."

Two proposals affecting basketball also are up for consideration this weekend. One would limit freshmen to play a limited schedule either within or outside the Big Ten—probably three or four games.

The other is the suggestion of MSU basketball coach Fordy Anderson that the Big Ten should have a "Big Ten" basketball tournament.

The Tigers slugged was in town but never showed up at Henry Ford. Although Ford was interested in getting together with "The Rock," he made it known he wasn't going to go searching for him in the hotel where he was known to get reservation.

"He is being inconsiderate about this," said Ferrell. "He knows we can't carry any agreement of us not all down and talk about it."

The Tigers actually had two opening day casualties, neither of them, however, had anything to do with training camp.

Ferrell said his check on Charlie Maxwell's condition showed "Paw Paw" to be more seriously ill than was figured. "His doctor told me he had a temperature of 103 degrees yesterday and he was having difficulty breathing, which put him in bed last Saturday," said Ferrell.

NOT IN HOSPITAL
The doctor noted that Maxwell was urged to go into the hospital but refused.

After some pitching and cautions, Sad Sam Jones was taken to the Lakeland General Hospital for neck treatment. Jones has had pain in the neck and has complained about headaches. Doctors say he will remain in the hospital for a couple of days and his neck will be put in a brace.

Scheffing indicated he would hold his first intra-squad game Sunday with rookie pitchers slated to do most of the hurling. He has named Jerry Casale, Tom Timmerman, Leo Marenette, Bob Daulton and Johnny Seale to do the hurling.

Cassius Clay Awarded 4th-Round TKO Win
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Cassius Clay of Louisville, Ky., technically knocked out Don Warner of Philadelphia Wednesday night in the fourth of 10 scheduled rounds.

"I would have let it go five as I had predicted," Clay said, "but he wouldn't shake my hand and that made me mad."

Seek NCAA Berths in Dixie Tourney

By The Associated Press
West Virginia and Wake Forest, which won their respective conference races, now have to do it all over again in order to gain first round berths in the NCAA Eastern regional basketball tournament and it isn't going to be easy for either of them.

The Southern Conference tournament opens in Richmond, Va., and the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament in Raleigh, N.C. today with the eventual winners gaining the NCAA tourney spots.

All the regular season leadership medals to Wake Forest and South Carolina.

Chamberlain Tallies 61
CHICAGO 40—Times have changed rapidly for the Detroit Pistons.

Only a week ago they were battling Cincinnati for second place in the Western Division of the National Basketball Association. Then, after eight victories in nine games, they slipped.

A 119-109 loss to the New York Knicks last night dropped the Pistons to 4 1/2 games behind the second place Hawks. It was Detroit's fourth straight setback.

West Virginia is a favorable spot in the brackets.
In another major game tonight, tenth-ranked Utah can assure itself at least a share of the Skyline title if it beats Colorado State. That, however, may prove difficult. Colorado State (10-2 in the league) owns a 7-4-3 triumph over Utah in a previous match. Utah is 10-1 in the league and 21-3 overall going in. Utah, State, also 10-2 in the league, will try to keep pace against Denver.

Quick Tourney Exits Seen for County 5's

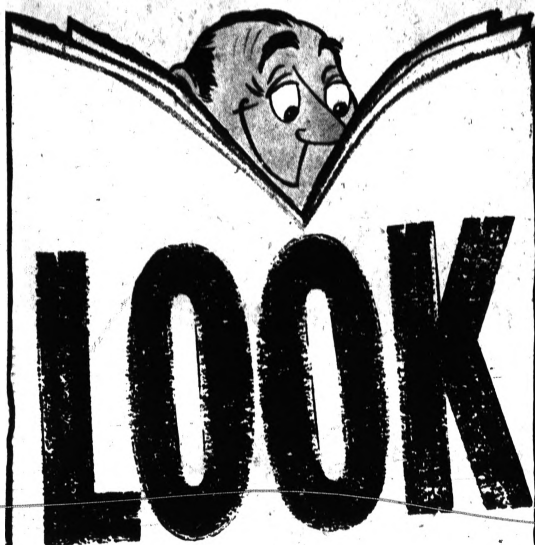

Barring some miraculous form reversals, a handful of Oakland County area basketball teams are going to make quick exits in district tournament action which begins next Tuesday at various sites.

Holly, competing in Class B at Fenton, is liable to vacate the premises early. The Broncos battle with host Fenton March 7 at 8:30 and the Wayne-Oakland squad took a 52-31 pasting from Fenton at home on Dec. 5.

Fenton, coached by former Holly center Leroy Decker, will be a heavy favorite to eliminate the Broncos.

Despite its home floor advantage, Milford is not expected to survive its own Class B district tourney. The Redskins may slip past Brighton in the opener, but it's highly unlikely that they'll survive a clash with high-rated Northville, unbeaten W-O champion.

Another county quintet apparently doomed to sudden elimination is Orville, competing in Class C at Swartz Creek. The Black Hawks drew Perry, the state's No. 2 team in this week's poll, as their first-round foe. Orville and Perry (16-

Flint Northern Visits PCH

By BILL CORNWELL
Since there is a distinct possibility that the Chiefs of Pontiac Central might be looking toward next week's district tournament action at Pontiac Northern, it would be wise to warn them about their final game of the regular season here Friday night.

The Chiefs tangle with Flint Northern in the PCH gymnasium at 8 o'clock and they'll be meeting an outfit that's currently the hottest basketball club in the Saginaw Valley Conference.

With the exception of unbeaten Saginaw High, which keeps rolling along in almost methodical fashion, no Valley quintet has played better than the Vikings during the month of February.

Just missed upset
Last week the Vikings nearly handed Saginaw its first defeat. They held a 60-50 edge with 39 seconds remaining, then lost a 63-60 decision.

Prior to the near upset of the Trojans, Northern sailed to an 80-61 victory over city rival Southwestern. Tuesday Jack Marlette's eagles routed their old cross-town foe, Central, by a 62-39 count.

They have won four of their last five games to boost their overall record to 8-5 and they're now fifth in the Valley standings with a 5-6 mark.

Pontiac Central handed them a 60-37 setback Jan. 12 at Flint after once trailing by 10 points. The way the Vikings have been performing lately, if the Chiefs get that far behind this time, they could be doomed.

Northern's resurgence has been spearheaded by the great backboard work of 6-foot-5 center Charlie Haynes and some added scoring punch from unexpected sources, namely Ed Johnson, Jim Caldwell, Lane Ellis and Don Mayfield.

Signs of revival
The Chiefs themselves have been showing signs of a revival following midseason losses to Saginaw and Flint Central. They've won their last three games and now boast an over-all 12-2 record. Their 9-2 SVC mark finds them all alone in second place.

Art Van Ryzin's forces can gain sole possession of second spot by repulsing Northern tomorrow in the final contest of the 1961-62 schedule.

They have yet to play a real solid game before the home folks since Jan. 5 when they played Midland 64-42.

Clarence Douglas, who carries a 15.2 scoring average, probably will see only limited action for the third straight week. Douglas is still plagued by a twisted knee that's slow to heal.

Van Ryzin plans to start Rudy Ransom and Paul Brown at forwards, 6-foot 6 Otis Kennedy at center and junior Ed Williams and sophomore Alvin Keel at guards.

On deck ready for duty are Roy Colner and Ray Sain.
In other Valley curtain-closers Friday, Saginaw plays host to Bay City. Arthur Hill invades Flint Central and Flint Southwest enters Midland. Bay City Central has ended its season.

Saginaw, Michigan's top-ranked Class A power, has already secured its second successive league title and will be a prohibitive favorite to conclude its second consecutive perfect campaign at Handy's expense.

GETTING READY — Area prep wrestlers are getting ready for the annual regional tournaments. Grappling at Pontiac Northern are the Kimmel brothers, Ken and Jim. They will be competing at Flint Northern.

Wrestling Regionals Will Begin Friday

By CHUCK ABRAH
The crucial part of the 1961-62 high school wrestling season begins tomorrow afternoon when the state regional tournaments get under way.

Class A action at Flint Northern and Hazel Park and "B" competition at River Rouge will feature Oakland County and surrounding area teams.

Northern and Central of Pontiac, Waterford, Walled Lake, Kettering, Port Huron, Alpena, Central and Handy of Bay City, Flint Central, Flint Southwest, Mt. Pleasant and Owosso will all be at Flint Northern.

An impressive Hazel Park field will include Berkley, Farmington, Southfield, Detroit Catholic Central, Redford Union, East Detroit, Hamtramck, Oak Park, Dondora and Kimball of Royal Oak, Lakeview, Fitzgerald and Warren Lincoln.

Lake Orion, Northville and Farmington Our Lady of Sorrows will go to Rouge.

FLINT NORTHERN HOST
Flint Northern, fresh from its domination of the Saginaw Valley tournament, will be favored there. PNH is in the best physical condition it has been in in recent weeks and should be a contender along with the steadily improving Chiefs. Walled Lake also could cause considerable trouble.

Hazel Park whipped every team in the Eastern Michigan League and bowed only once all season. The Parkers then took the top meet. They ran as the power at home. Farmington won the Inter-Lakes tournament and could provide the stiffest opposition.

Action starts at 2 p.m. Friday at all sites and continues through the night. There will also be Saturday afternoon and night sessions.

There will be team trophies for the top scoring schools and medals will go to the top four individuals in each weight class. Each of the

Lounge Muffs Lead, Goes Overtime to Win, 79-77

The 300 Lounge quiet, unbeaten through 14 games of the regular season schedule, remained that way Wednesday night in the first round of the City Basketball League's Class A playoffs at Pontiac Central.

After blowing a 41-24 halftime lead, Lounge scored a 79-77 victory over Newman AME in an overtime thriller.

Newman's 31-13 spree in the third period put Lounge one point behind and the count was 71-71 at the end of regulation time.

Felix Brooks and Larry Peet called 17 points apiece to pace Lounge's triumph. John Bandy rifled 23 and Earl McKee 20 in defeat.

Five Buckner players hit double figures, with Larry Hummel and Jerry Paul each netting 19, as the Finance quintet whipped the Southwest Trojans 84-76 in the Class B playoff opener. Allen Manley notched 16 in a losing cause.

While Peck's 20 points highlighted Joe's 48-45 decision over Peck's Trojans in the first round of the Class D tournament. Larry Blackburn and Gene Lappino each bagged 14 for the Trojans.

The Bombers noted out New Hope 68-69 in their tie-breaking contest to determine the fourth entry in the "D" tourney. Ernie Pickett netted 26 points for the winners and New Hope's J. D. Bradley fired 27.

In concluding National loop action yesterday, Town & Country won the regular season title with a 42-26 verdict over Reeves Standard as Roger Reynolds swished 14 points and Bill Schulich notched 10 to lead Police Market 61-41 rout of Michigan Bell.

Kazoo 5 Wins to Share MIAA Title

By The Associated Press
Kalamazoo shares the 1962 championship of the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association (MIAA) with Hope.

Kalamazoo's Hornets buzzed past Alma 81-60 at Kalamazoo Wednesday night in a season-end-to-

12-0 Year for Tripp After 44-43 Victory

Tripp Contracting ended a perfect season in the Class B Waterford Recreation Basketball League last night by nipping runner-up Hoyt Realty, 44-43. Bob Pickett's foul shot in the final 30 seconds brought Tripp its 12th win. Bill York had 16 points for Tripp while Tom Goff tallied 12 for Hoyt.

Dennis Horrigan swished 16 points to spark O'Neil Realty's 61-47 triumph over Don Nicholte in another "B" contest. Ron Itherrington of Nicholte took scoring honors with 20. Nicholte's gained a forfeit win over Scarlett's Bike Shop.

Spencer Floor Covering (10-1) and Lakeland Pharmacy (9-2) collided tonight at 8:30 on the Craycroft court with the Class A regular season title at stake. Lakeland can force a playoff with a victory. Spencer has won two previous battles with the Pharmacy.

grab a share of the title, as Hope last July by, having finished its MIAA competition last Saturday. Both Hope and Kalamazoo were 10-2 in the 12-game league schedule.

Alma finished MIAA play in a fifth-place tie with Olivet. Each had 3-9 league records.

Olivet was humiliated Wednesday at Defiance, Ohio, 84-37 as the Defiance College Yellow Jackets went through what amounted to limbering up exercises for the NAIA tournament next week.

The victory gave Defiance, which already had clinched a bid to the little-league classic, an over all record of 15-4 and made Olivet 3-7.

Northern Michigan, pride and joy of the Upper Peninsula outside Houghton, romped to a 91-61 victory over Aquinas in a journey down the Lower Peninsula to Grand Rapids last night.

Northern held a 41-19 advantage at halftime and Aquinas seldom got within 20 points of the Wildcats.

Western Michigan, which ventured into Ohio with Olivet, also came back with the short end of the stick. The Broncos were whipped 82-77 by the University of Toledo.

Hilldale found Indiana inshootable, too. The Dales were beaten 102-99 by Tri-State College at Angola.

Manny Newsome hit 33 for WMU, Cliff Turner 28 for Hilldale.

Haynes Files Counter Suit Against Abe

NEW YORK (AP) — Marquis Haynes, the basketball dribbling star and owner of the Harlem Magicians, has filed a $900,000 counter suit against Abe Saperstein, owner of the Harlem Globetrotters and head of the American Basketball League.

Haynes and his attorney, Harold Tompkins, said Wednesday they have filed an action seeking $300,000 damages and $600,000 punitive damages under the anti-trust laws. Tompkins said the suit was filed Feb. 14 in U.S. District Court, Southern District.

Saperstein has several times sued the Magicians claiming they are imitating the Globetrotters in name, uniform, playing style and attempting "to deceive the public" into believing the Magicians were the Globetrotters.

Ski Jumpers Set Sights on Grampian Record

100-Foot Leap One of Goals in CUSSA Event

Top Riders in State Expected to Compete on New Facility

Leading ski jumpers in Michigan will try to reach 100 feet Sunday at Grampian Mountain.

They will be competing in the first sanctioned Central United States Ski Association (CUSSA) event on the 35-meter jump at the area three miles east of Oxford on Lakeville Road.

Competition gets under way at 2 p.m.

The tower was completed earlier this winter. The record distance is 78 feet. This was established by Clint Beach of Flint in a meet between the Grampian Mountain and Briar Hill clubs.

Beach will be on hand Sunday, and so will state champion Earl Hill of Detroit; Walt Hyry, Berkeley; John Tessmer, Rochester; Berger Erickson, Flint; and Jan Simonsen, Flint.

Dan Guthrie of Utica, ski and jump instructor at Grampian, also will compete. John Grames of Pontiac has entered. Carl Nolan and Ralph Guthrie, local jumpers, also are ready to jump.

Dan Guthrie and Grames are planning the program.

Included will be competition for boys 10 and 12 years old.

Entered in this class are John Michaels and Dennis Carves, both of Redford. They have been taking instruction in the Grampian jump classes.

Conditions weren't the best when Beach set the record, and weather could play a big role in any attempts to better this distance.

The jump tower has a six-inch base, but sudden warm weather could make it slushy. A freezing rain would cause the run to ice over.

Tessmer Places 1st in Veteran's Class

John Tessmer of Rochester won the veteran's division of the Voyageur Ski Club jump meet last Sunday in Grand Rapids.

Jumping for the Briar Hill Club, Tessmer garnered 132.5 points. He was trailed by Bill Schmidt of Detroit. Elder Hyry of Berkeley and the Kewadin Ski Club was third.

Grampian Mountain's Dan Guthrie, of Utica, was fifth.

John Grames of Pontiac was second behind Flint's Clint Beach in Class B. Earl Hill of Detroit occupied Class A honors with 114 points, high total in the meet.

Junior honors went to Carl Saul of Cadillac.

Thirty-eight jumpers competed on the 30-meter run. Although the Upper Peninsula had jumpers entered from the Ishpeming area, all trophies stayed in the Lower Peninsula.

Ski Festival Set March 11 at Caberfae

CADILLAC — The fourth annual Caberfae Spring Festival and a Ladies' Day will be held Sunday, March 11, at the Caberfae Ski Area, 16 miles west of here.

The festival features a costume contest for both men and women. Last year 50 persons entered this contest. Prizes are awarded to winners in the two divisions.

Ladies of all ages ski free at Caberfae on Sunday, March 11.

Contestants do not perform on skis for the contest. The event is held in the central area where a large ramp and stage are utilized.

Dryden Owner Faced Many Starting Problems

Profile of Fred Molitor: Flowers to Skiing

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press
Snow making fascinated Fred Molitor even when he was selling flowers in Royal Oak. He started in the floral business 15 years ago without even the slightest thought about skiing.

Listening to his customers talk about skiing in Upper Michigan and about the problems which skiing would face if an area opened in this part of the state, Molitor got to thinking about the possibility of a snow making device.

"I heard about snow making machines being used in the East and I started checking into them," he said. Little did he know however that another person, Mort Graddis, now owner at Mt. Holly had the same thought.

When Graddis opened Mt. Holly with a snow machine, the first in Michigan, it came as a shock to Molitor. "After all the time I spent looking into the snow machine possibilities I didn't want to give up the idea so I jumped into the ski business as fast as I could," he said.

He searched the entire area and found the picturesque layout at Dryden and in 1956 he opened. His start at Dryden ski area was filled with problems. He started with three rope tows, three slopes and a warming shelter and no snow machine. The machine arrived late in the season and was used for only three weeks.

Molitor then started on his lodge in "do it yourself" fashion. Two years ago he opened the two story lodge and converted the original shelter into a 48-bed dormitory.

Dryden ski area is popular with young skiers. The warm atmosphere of dining area with fireplace and jukebox appeals to teenagers and adults alike.

Molitor has put emphasis on family skiing. He is the only local area with a family membership plan. "We have 33 beautiful acres here," said Molitor, "and I know there's a lot which has to be done, but gradually we can make this area into a small Otsego."

"It has good elevation and fine natural beauty," he added.

PLASTIC SNOW

One of Molitor's big projects has been plastic skiing. He opened one slope in September last year, covered with his patented plastic-covered pebbles.

"We've experimented and are ready to take out the hills

GOP Rift Stalls Action on Judicial Article

LANSING (UPI) — Rifts in the Republican majority at the constitutional convention have stalled action on the proposed new judicial article.

Delegates Wednesday approved a postponement of further consideration of how Supreme Court Justices will be selected and also passed over one section of the proposed circuit court section and the entire matter of a court of appeals.

The action had been expected since Monday when it became apparent that there were several factions within the Republican caucus unwilling to compromise on pet ideas.

The GOP caucus named a six-member committee headed by Henry L. Woolfenden, R-Bloomfield Hills, to study the array of proposals on supreme court selection and come up with a plan acceptable to the majority.

Democrats have maintained a solid front for the present system of partisan nomination and non-partisan statewide elections.

There were indications by the GOP select committee that it would first attempt to find a workable plan among three Republican-backed proposals "close to the majority position."

PARTISAN MATTER

One of the plans, backed by Milton E. Higgs, R-Bay City, would make both the nomination and statewide election of justices strictly a partisan matter.

A second, backed by Garry E. Brown, R-Schoolcraft, would have justices run for re-election on their records after initial partisan selection by appointment of the governor.

The third, and apparently most seriously regarded, was proposed by William F. Haman, R-Muskegon. It would set out three methods of nomination, in partisan convention, self nomination by justices already on the bench, or by petition.

The motion to delay further consideration of the selection plan came after a noon Republican caucus failed to unify sponsors of various plans.

Arthur T. Iverson, R-Detroit, head of the GOP caucus, made the move to head off more debate which was opening the noticeable splits even more.

Typical of the fractures was the position of rural Republican delegates. Following a Tuesday night "caucus within a caucus" by farm-bloc members one said, "George (Romney) came to see us and broke even. He didn't have any of our votes when he came and he still didn't when he left."

Romney, announced GOP candidate for the nomination for governor this fall, has been silent throughout the four days of debate on the judicial article.

He was understood to be picking up the pace of his "breakfast caucus" with small groups of the delegates, apparently in an off-stage effort to exert Republican leadership.

Discussion switched to the organization of circuit courts following the decision to hold off on the organization of the supreme court and the new court of appeals.

A minor snag developed soon after the circuit court debate started and further work on that was cut off by an adjournment to allow the problem to be worked out in personal discussions during the night.

Vast Land Plan Pushed by JFK

Urges Purchases Up to $1 Billion to Provide More Recreation Area

WASHINGTON (U) — President Kennedy recommended today a vast new land purchase program ranging up to $1 billion to provide more outdoor recreation for millions of Americans.

The proposal was part of a broad plan aimed at protecting and expanding the country's natural resources. In a special conservation message to Congress, Kennedy called for the creation of a land conservation fund to acquire recreational areas across the country.

Administration sources estimated buying would total between $800 million and $1 billion over the next eight years. Costs would be paid by people who use existing federal parks and outdoor facilities, through admission and other fees; by the diversion of unclaimed motorboat fuel tax rebates from the highway trust fund; and by receipts from the sale of surplus federal land.

While these funds build up, Kennedy recommended a Treasury advance not exceeding $500 million for the eight-year span. He said Congress could make the money available by annual appropriations to the conservation fund and have it replaced by income from the fees and other sources.

Kennedy outlined the plan, fashioned from a study by his Outdoor Recreation Resources Review Commission, in a lengthy message declaring the nation's conservation effort must cover the entire spectrum of its resources.

The President defined conservation as the "wise use of our natural environment" and said, "It is, in the final analysis, the highest form of national thrift."

Khrushchev Again Urges 18-Nation Summit Meeting

PARIS (U) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev today urged an 18-nation summit meeting on disarmament and said that the world's four nuclear powers could easily have special talks within the framework of the larger meeting.

The premier's renewal of a summit call was contained in a letter to French President Charles de Gaulle. De Gaulle proposed destruction of all nuclear stocks and delivery systems in a letter to Khrushchev late last month and said he would be willing to discuss such matters among the four nuclear powers.

Khrushchev in his response to De Gaulle, declined today, said, "The peoples of other states, among them the neutral states, which constitute an important part of humanity, are not less interested in the realization of a general and complete disarmament."

The premier, in effect, rejected De Gaulle's proposal to limit disarmament talks to the four nuclear powers.

"There is no doubt the nuclear powers are called upon to play an important, even decisive, role in the talks on disarmament," Khrushchev said.

"Without the agreement of these powers, it is not possible to resolve the question of the liquidation of nuclear arms as well as the question of the banning of tests. The peoples of the world demand that a quick agreement on this subject should be reached by the nuclear powers."

But, he asked, referring to nations which do not have nuclear weapons: "Would they be spared in a thermonuclear war? Are they not threatened by heavy consequences?"

The premier declared the cause of disarmament could best be served by having the 18-power

Final Talks Near but Blood Flows

European Terrorism Mounts in Algeria Peace Parley Set

ALGIERS (U) — The final round of Algerian peace talks is expected to open this weekend, but a bloody step-up of European terrorism promised continuing violence in the North African territory long after France and the Algerian rebels proclaim a cease fire.

Terrorist attacks, blamed on the Secret Army Organization opposed to Algerian independence, killed 65 persons and wounded 160 Wednesday. It was Algeria's worst day of violence this year.

Seven terrorist attacks were reported before noon today, with three persons killed. In Oran, four persons were shot to death during the morning.

Terrorism mounted in the territory as the Algerian rebel parliament reportedly gave its provisional government a free hand to sign peace terms with France after further talks. Both French and rebel quarters indicated the talks would open Saturday or Sunday somewhere near the French-Swiss border.

Speedy agreement was expected on a cease fire and political agreement providing for a self-determination referendum. Algeria's Muslim majority is certain to vote overwhelmingly for independence.

But the impending truce in the 7½-year Algerian rebellion against the French still will leave unresolved the battle against the underground secret army, which threatens a major insurrection in its campaign to keep Algeria French.

Secret army bombs killed 30 Muslims and wounded 50 others in Oran's Ville Nouvelle Moslem quarter Wednesday.

President Names Sleeping Bear in Recreation Plans

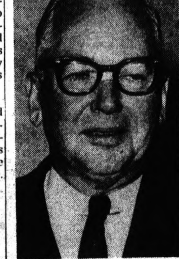

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy asked Congress today to include Michigan's Sleeping Bear Dunes in an expanded federal park system which would help meet obligations to "numberless generations."

The long-expected presidential priority tag on the 77,000-acre Michigan area was contained in the President's conservation message to Congress.

Michigan's Pictured Rocks Park proposal was not among the nine pending legislative proposals on which Kennedy urged favorable action.

Meanwhile, Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall said he was "much more hopeful" than before about prospects for passage of the controversial Sleeping Bear proposal.

"I think I am beginning to see the ingredients of a compromise," he said, adding that he planned to visit the area sometime this year.

Rusk Is Positive of Arms Parley

Appeals to Reds to Get Together With U.S. for Nuclear Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk appealed to the Soviet Union today to join the United States in lifting forthcoming disarmament negotiations out of the East-West propaganda conflict. He linked to his appeal the hope that the nuclear powers would be able to bring the arms race under control.

In spite of the stalemate between President John F. Kennedy and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev over the level at which the Geneva conference should open, Rusk said he is sure that the 18-nation disarmament meeting will start on schedule March 14.

At his first news conference here in several weeks, Rusk also told leaders of the Soviet Union and Red China that "there can be peace overnight" in South Viet Nam if the Communists will stop supporting guerrilla warfare in that embattled Southeast Asian country.

Rusk said the Reds themselves are wholly to blame for the conflict in which the United States has the sole aim of supporting the independence of South Viet Nam. This country is helping the government "to deal with this (Communist) conspiratorial effort to take over the country by violent means," Rusk said.

"We have no combat units in Viet Nam and we have no desire for bases or other military advantages," he added.

12-Town Drain Ceremonies Set

Ground to Be Broken by Officials Saturday in Madison Heights

Official ground-breaking ceremonies for the $40-million 12-Town Relief Drain in South Oakland County are scheduled for 11 a.m. Saturday in Madison Heights County Drain Commissioner Daniel W. Barry announced today.

He and officials of benefiting communities will be launching the huge project, construction of which has been under way on a minor scale since the latter part of December.

Completion of the 43 miles of storm relief drain is expected in early December 1963.

The drain is intended to eliminate flooding in 14 communities. The project has been snarled by litigation for six years.

STILL PENDING

Litigation is still pending over the last contract let on the drain. A losing bidder has appealed a Circuit Court decision to the State Supreme Court.

Previous court cases concerned which municipalities should participate and each unit's share of construction costs.

The storm relief drain is intended to serve Birmingham, Berkley, Clawson, Ferndale, Hazel Park, Huntington Woods, Madison Heights, Oak Park, Pleasant Ridge, Royal Oak, Royal Oak Township, Southfield, Beverly Hills and Troy.

The 10½-foot-diameter drain will worm its way to the Red Run Drain in Southeast Oakland County. The drainage flow then will be carried by the Clinton River into Lake St. Clair.

During relatively dry spells, the storm relief drain will carry sanitary flow into the Detroit sewer system via interceptors.

The new drain will replace an earlier one that has served the area since 1950. The drainage district's population since then has more than tripled to an estimated 257,710.

District users will pay for the drain through special assessments charged by the 14 municipalities, which in turn will refund the cost to the county.

The county is financing most of the drain with a $33.6 million bond issue purchased by the Chase Manhattan Bank of New York at an average interest rate of 3.82 per cent.

February 'Impossible' for Man, Auto, Beast

Last month was one of Pontiac's snowiest Februarys.

Some 20.2 inches of snow came down in Pontiac during the past month. It was bound to happen.

In February last year, while most of the nation was being buried in the white stuff, only 5.3 inches covered the city.

It also was about 10 degrees colder last month than February 1961.

The average high temperature during the past month was 28.8 degrees. The average low was 14.8 degrees. The median temperature was 21.8.

Still, it wasn't the cold as much as the shoveling that exhausted the patience of area residents. No sooner had streets and "drives" been cleared than a fresh batch of snow came down to make the roads impassable again.

A 6-inch snowfall was dumped here on the night of Feb. 23, bringing a 6-day total to 17 inches, heaviest in 10 years. Street shovels were unobtainable items in Pontiac area hardware and department stores by noon of Feb. 24.

The groundhog, legendary prophet of the weather, probably agreed with most humans in this vicinity, that the month was fit neither for, men nor beast.

ONE DEGREE BELOW

The month's lowest temperature, one degree below zero, was recorded on Feb. 2—Groundhog Day.

The mercury shot up to 50 degrees on Feb. 4 and 5 for the highest reading of the month. On Feb. 6, though, the little indicator dropped back to a low of seven degrees.

Seven days last month were cloudy or partly cloudy and seven were sunny. It was rainy or misty three days.

Snow storms or flurries occurred on 10 of February's 28 days.

Yesterday, the last of the month, provided a little of everything. There were clouds and flurries in the morning and sunshine in the afternoon.

Perhaps Pontiac area residents can take heart now that March is here. It's usually a windy month, but it marks the end of winter. March 20 is the first day of spring.

Oh, oh...

A dispatch from the weatherman states that today is the coldest March 1 in 90 years. It was two below zero this morning, colder than any day in February.

Has Boom Forced So Soon to End?

50 Firms Have $1 Billion Sales

General Motors Leads List Again in 1961 With $11.4 Billion

Editor's Note—In recent days some doubts have been raised about the well-being of the U.S. economy, which most observers have predicted would get healthier and healthier through the first half of 1962. In the following first of two articles AP Business Week's Sam Dawson interprets events that have been causing concern.

By SAM DAWSON AP Business Week Analyst

NEW YORK—Has the business boom lost its thrust before it really got off the ground? A number of key statistics, taken by themselves, would seem to show it has.

Or has it spluttered a bit, as it did last September, only to find its next surge going on to new heights? Certain other statistics, taken by themselves, would tend to show that the signals are still going off.

Some January statistics, and in the case of the February count, made dismal enough reading. Fearing the business recovery was already faltering, some editorial production, personal income, average factory work weeks, retail sales, new housing starts, just new failures.

On the pleasant side, however, were employment gains, rising new orders for durable goods, continuing strength in installment credit and manufacturers' inventories.

AUTO SALES CITED

Also cited were the big advance of auto sales last year—figures and steel production well ahead of a year ago—and, in fact, the near record level still maintained by these economic measurements that slipped below their December highs.

It's a look today at the first list of the economic setbacks that make some observers fear the recovery may be petering out.

Industrial output, the Federal Reserve Board's index slipped back to the November level of 114 percent of the 1957 average from the record 115 set in December.

Falling were auto assemblies, industrial machinery, building materials. Higher were iron and steel, cement, farm equipment.

Many insist that bad weather played a major role in keeping workers at home, marling transportation of supplies and finished goods. Others scent the first evidence that demand has leveled off.

Factory work weeks—the average dropped to 40 hours in January from 40.4 in December and 40.6 in November. Slogging industry production of the cult, and therefore a reason to worry. But contributing could be the bad weather and the drive of workers called to work in the cold.

Personal income—In January this ran at an annual rate of $40 billion, off $1.5 billion from December but still 6.5 percent higher than a year earlier. The slip back after a long rise was disturbing. Official tie in with the drop in auto production and in the average work week. This is something to watch.

But the government objection that drove by the Du Pont and Chrysler holdings is not a new one. Christiana companies should not leave vast blocks of GM stocks still in the hands of Du Pont family members.

Food Fair Will Build at Glenwood Plaza

Work will begin as soon as weather permits on the second floor structure at the new Glenwood Plaza Shopping Center. A building permit has been issued by Pontiac Building Inspector Carl J. $103,000 Food Fair super-market.

Business failures—These were 13 per cent higher in January than in December. The trend has been upward for about two years. One thing that's sure may have business completion is an 80,000 square-foot S. S. Kresge Store.

The supermarket will cover some 7,000 square feet. The shopping center site is on North Perry at Glenwood.

Indicted for Murder of Child With Cancer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A chiropractor is under indictment for murder in the death of a cancer-stricken child.

A grand jury indicted Dr. Marvin Phillips, 35, of Sherman Oaks, after witnesses testified that he told Phillips told Mr. and Mrs. Herman Eppings last July he could cure their daughter, Linda, 8, after surgery. The parents moved her to a hospital the day she was to have her cancer-infected left eye removed. Dr. Phillips treated the girl with iodine drops, vitamins and mineral pills.

She died Dec. 28. Medical men said the eye operation would have saved her.

Wednesday Superior Court ordered Dr. Phillips to enter a plea on the murder charge March 21.

Favors Limiting Owners of Communications Corp.

FCC Splits With JFK on Satellite Unit

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Communications Commission has split with President Kennedy over ownership of an American communications satellite corporation.

The FCC Wednesday came out in favor of limiting ownership of the corporation to communications companies.

Kennedy, in legislation submitted to Congress, would have the corporation sell its stock-up to $1-billion worth—not only to communications companies but also to other types of companies and the general public.

The FCC's position was set forth by Chairman Newton N. Minow at a hearing of the Senate Space Committee. He said the Budget Bureau had cleared the commission's statement even though the FCC was not in accord with the President's program.

While disagreeing with the administration's position on ownership of the corporation, the FCC agreed it should be a private enterprise.

FAVOR KERR APPROACH

Minow said the FCC members strongly favor the approach taken in a bill introduced by Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla., the space committee chairman, limiting ownership of the proposed corporation to authorized common carriers.

He said while concern had been expressed that this might give rise to domination of the corporation by a single carrier and other abuses, the FCC believed safeguards already in the legislation and others it recommended would prevent this.

In his message to Congress, Kennedy said "the corporation would be, in effect, a government-created monopoly."

"We cannot in good conscience," he added, "limit its ownership to a few existing companies and exclude automatically all other potential investors who have equal rights to own a part

5 Deer Rescued in Hudson River by Coast Guard

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP)—U.S. Coast Guardmen spotted five deer floundering near exhaustion on ice floes in the Hudson River—again lived up to their motto, "Semper Paratus" (always prepared).

The icebreaker Sauk circled the floes until the deer bunched together.

We herded them with the ship like a cow pony," Sauk skipper Byron Swearingen related Wednesday.

Once bunched, the deer were lassoed one by one and hoisted aboard the ship.

The Sauk carried the animals to shore, and a game warden released them in the woods.

Redistricting Plan Passed by Senate

A Congressional redistricting plan affecting Oakland and Macomb Counties passed the Senate yesterday but Gov. Swainson said he would veto it if it came to him.

The governor saw the plan, proposed by Sen. Frank D. Beadle, R-St. Clair, as "political expediency" and "gerrymandering."

The plan also would take away 59,858 constituents from U. S. Rep. William S. Broomfield's 18th District.

PROPOSED MOVE

Proposed by Beadle was the creation of a 19th district which would comprise the cities of Center Line, East Detroit, Roseville, St. Clair Shores, Utica, Warren and Sterling Township in Macomb County.

Word on Tests in Atmosphere Is Due Friday

Kennedy Expected to Tell Nation on TV: 'We Will Resume'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will tell the nation — and the world — Friday night whether the United States will resume nuclear tests in the atmosphere, says an informed source.

Indications are he will order the tests to begin.

Kennedy's announcement, the source said Wednesday night, will be made on a national television broadcast.

Kennedy said earlier that by the end of February he would know how much ground the Soviet Union gained by its fall series of atmospheric tests and he would then be in a position to make a decision.

But an air of mystery had surrounded the timing of the announcement.

Wednesday the White House declined to say if the President had made up his mind. But there was a hint something was in the wind when his press secretary, Pierre Salinger, left for an unannounced trip to New York.

The White House did not reveal the reason for Salinger's trip. Presumably he went to New York to make arrangements for the television broadcast.

The President, sources indicated, is determined to remove any uncertainty about U.S. testing plans before the 18-nation Geneva disarmament conference which opens March 14.

This is the conference Soviet Premier Khrushchev proposed to lead off with a summit conference some time ago, a proposal which was turned down by the United States, Britain and most of the other nations that are to attend. The West urged that a meeting of foreign ministers should start off the disarmament conference.

WILL BE 'COSTLY'

Khrushchev, U.S. officials said Wednesday night, will do everything possible to make the United States pay a heavy propaganda price for any atmospheric tests.

In his latest note to Washington, the Soviet premier urged Kennedy not to resume the atmospheric tests, saying a new round would raise doubts about Kennedy's sincerity in disarmament negotiations.

He also renewed his threat that if the Western powers conduct tests, the Soviet Union would resume its testing.

Kennedy said his decision on testing would be made only on the grounds of military necessity.

If the decision was to test, he said, it would be to protect the security of the nation and the Allies — security that some U.S. officials and congressmen fear was threatened by the Soviet Union — string of nuclear bursts last fall.

Then the Soviet Union broke an informal test moratorium by setting off about 50 explosions, all in the atmosphere, and climaxed by a mammoth explosion of 35-60 megatons.

Millions Cheer Hero in NY City

NEW YORK (AP)—It isn't March that's coming in like a lion today—it's the nation's number one hero, Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr.

New Yorkers, who really have been in a holiday mood since the trouble-faced, sandy-haired Glenn gave all American hearts a glow of a lifetime, were eager to roar their thunderous welcome.

MILLIONS EXPECTED

As the astronaut's plane touched down at La Guardia Field, the welcome gouts mesh into high Millions were expected to line the streets and cheer the 26-car motorcade.

Everyone on the sidewalks and in the skyscrapers lining Broadway gets a good look at Glenn riding by, seated in an open car moving at less than 10 miles per hour.

Memories of other great American heroes ride with Glenn on this momentous occasion. To name a few: Some in the present crowd may remember General of the Armies, John J. Pershing (1859); many remember thrilling to Capt. Charles Lindbergh (1927); Dwight D. Eisenhower (1953) and Douglas MacArthur (1951).

BANDS TO PLAY

At Bowling Green, marching bands of the Army, Navy, Air Force will join the procession.

After the procession leaves City Hall, more millions watch Glenn ride to Union Square and then up Fifth Avenue to 24th street and east to the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel on Park Avenue.

MEDALS FOR THREE

At City Hall, Mayor Robert F. Wagner bestows the city's medal of honor not only on Glenn but also on astronauts Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Capt. Virgil I. Grissom.

At the Waldorf-Astoria, Glenn is awaited by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, among the many notables on hand for the official luncheon.

One person in particular is especially remembered by Glenn during his historic globe-girdling. He is Sir Harry Howard, the lord mayor of Perth, Australia, who ordered the lights of the city turned on in the early part of Glenn's flight. Sir Howard is here with a picture of the astronaut, his name, and the inscription, "Welcome our hero."

For several days now, flag makers have been having a field day. One company has made up a red, white and blue "John Glenn flag" bearing a picture of the astronaut, his name, and the inscription, "Welcome our hero."

ASTRONAUT WAY FOR THE DAY

President of New York's Borough of Manhattan, changes the name of Broadway at Park Place in lower Manhattan to Astronaut Way in preparation for today's welcome parade for Lt. Col. John H. Glenn and the other astronauts.

JFK Pushes Purchase of $1-Billion Park Lands

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy recommended today a vast new land purchase program ranging up to $1 billion to provide more outdoor recreation for millions of Americans.

The proposal was part of a broad plan aimed at protecting and expanding the country's natural resources. In a special conservation message to Congress, Kennedy called for the creation of a land conservation fund to acquire recreational areas across the country.

Administration sources estimated buying would total between $800 million and $1 billion over the next eight years. Costs would be paid by people who use existing federal parks and outdoor facilities, through admission and other fees; by the diversion of unclaimed motorboat fuel tax rebates from the highway trust fund and by receipts from the sale of surplus federal land.

While those funds build up, Kennedy recommended a Treasury advance not exceeding $500 million for the eight-year span. He said Congress could make the money available by annual appropriations to the conservation fund and have it replaced by income from the fees and other sources.

Kennedy outlined the plan, fashioned from a study by his Outdoor Recreation Resources Review Commission, in a lengthy message declaring the nation's conservation effort must cover the entire spectrum of its resources.

The President defined conservation as the "wise use of our natural environment" and said, "It is, in the final analysis, the highest form of national pride."

TO CONVEY PARLEY

To evaluate past progress and plan for the future, Kennedy announced he would convene a White House conference on conservation some time this year.

He promised the United States would continue to cooperate with other countries in scientific and research undertakings and share the techniques it develops—techniques such as making salt water fit to drink.

"Resource conservation problems are worldwide," he said. "Efforts to solve them should be equally universal."

The month's lowest temperature, one degree below zero, was recorded on Feb. 2—Ground-hog Day.

The mercury shot up to 30 degrees on Feb. 4 and 5 for the highest reading of the month.

Tragedy Comes as City Awaits Glenn's Arrival

Plane Burns After Fall Into Swampy Area Off Long Island

NEW YORK (AP)—An American Airlines jet liner crashed and burned shortly after take-off today, apparently killing all 95 persons aboard.

Coast Guardsmen at the scene just off the south shore of Long Island said they found no sign of survivors.

The tragedy came just as the city was about to give a joyful welcome to Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., the astronaut who orbited the earth.

The plane, with 87 passengers and 8 crew members aboard, had taken off from Idlewild Airport for Los Angeles at 10:07 a.m. Glenn was due here at nearby LaGuardia Airport at 11:15 a.m.

The 747-100, a Boeing 747-100, an Astrojet, crashed in a swampy area known as Broad Channel in Jamaica Bay off Far Rockaway in Queens. The shore of Long Island.

The plane was half in the water and half on the marsh.

Huge clouds of smoke rose from the wreckage.

Witnesses said the plane climbed to about 700 feet from Idlewild, then turned left and plunged at a steep angle.

Some witnesses said they saw flames coming from the plane before the crash, others did not, but the plane was in flames immediately after the impact.

The plane was known as "Flight No. 1."

ONLY DEBRIS

By 11 a.m., the report from Coast Guardsmen at the scene was: "There is now only floating, smoking debris in the water."

Police at Idlewild said at the same time: "Apparently there were no survivors."

The crash scene was about three miles from the Idlewild control tower.

The crew of a Mohawk Airlines plane that had taken off immediately after the crash was uninjured.

12-Town Drain Ceremonies Set

Ground to Be Broken by Officials Saturday in Madison Heights

Official ground-breaking ceremonies for the $10-million, 12-Town Relief Drain—in South-Oakland County—are scheduled for 11 a.m. Saturday in Madison Heights.

County Drain Commissioner Daniel W. Barry announced today.

He and officials of benefiting communities will join in launching the huge project, construction of which has been under way on a minor scale since the latter part of December.

Completion of the 43 miles of storm relief drain is expected in early December 1963.

The drain is intended to eliminate flooding in 14 communities. The project has been snarled by litigation for six years.

STILL PENDING

Litigation is still pending over the best contract for the drain. A losing bidder has appealed a Circuit Court decision to the State Supreme Court.

Previous court cases concerned which municipalities should participate and each unit's share of construction costs.

The storm relief drain is intended to serve Birmingham, Berkeley, Clawson, Ferndale, Hazel Park, Madison Heights, Madison Heights, Oak Park, Pleasant Ridge, Royal Oak, Royal Oak Township, Southfield, Beverly Hills and Troy.

The 10½-foot-diameter drain will worm its way to the Red Run River in Southfield, Oakland County.

The drainage flow then will be carried by the Clinton River into Lake St. Clair.

February 'Impossible' for Man, Auto, Beast

February was one of Pontiac's snowiest Februarys.

It was the weatherman's way of catching up with the law of averages.

Some 20.2 inches of snow came down in downtown Pontiac during the past month.

It was bound to happen.

In February last year, while most of the nation was being buried in the white stuff, only 5.3 inches covered the city.

It also was about 10 degrees colder last month than February 1961.

The average high temperature during the past month was 28.8 degrees. The average low was 14.8 degrees. The median temperature was 21.8.

Still, it wasn't the cold as much as the snowing that exhausted the patience of area residents. No sooner had streets and driveways been cleared, than a fresh batch of snow came down to make the roads impassable again.

A 6-inch snowfall was dumped here on the night of Feb. 23, bringing a 6-day total to 17 inches, heaviest in 10 years.

Snow showers were unobtainable items in Pontiac area hardware and department stores by noon of Feb. 24.

The groundhog, legendary prophet of the weather, probably agreed with most humans in this vicinity, that the month was fit neither for men nor beast.

ONE DEGREE BELOW

The month's lowest temperature, one degree below zero, was recorded on Feb. 2—Ground-hog Day.

The mercury shot up to 30 degrees on Feb. 4 and 5 for the highest reading of the month.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said Pontiac can expect more cold weather tonight with the low a little higher, near 12 above.

But behind the clouds there is always a silver lining. No new snow is predicted and Friday's forecast is a warmer high of 33.

Morning northerly winds at 10 miles per hour will become southwesterly tonight and Friday.

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Barring unforeseen developments, Italy's first left-of-center government since the war taken office this week, its success depends upon a stocky, moon-faced man in heavy glasses who once called former President Truman another Hitler.

The man is left-wing Socialist leader Pietro Nenni who applied his epithet to Truman in opposition to Italy's membership in NATO.

Nenni, for years a close collaborator with Italy's Communists, still opposes NATO but his ties with communists have loosened considerably.

"CABINET SPLIT"

Those went to the coalition of Fanfani's own Christian Democrats, the anti-Communist Social Democrats of Giuseppe Saragat and to the moderately left Republicans.

Pro-NATO Defense Minister Giulio Andreotti kept his old job, as did Foreign Minister Antonio Segni, a strong supporter of the Communist-opposed European common market.

Among those not included in the new government is Mario Scelba, who as interior minister frequently sent his head-thumping riot police against the Communists.

In return for the government's leftward shift domestically, Nenni promised to support government measures his party approved, and, more importantly, to abstain on those measures which were not approved.

He also agreed to a reluctant neutrality toward NATO.

The idea of an "opening to the left" in Italian politics has been discussed for years.

Italian President Giovanni Gronchi proposed at his inauguration in April, 1955, that extreme left-wing parties should be admitted to the government.

The Gronchi proposal, although wildly acclaimed by the Communists, produced no concrete results until this year.

The Christian Democrats, Italy's largest party, are bound together by a common religion but are deeply split among themselves, left, right and center. Attempts at coalition with other center and rightwing parties proved unstable and short-lived.

For example, this is Italy's 23rd postwar government.

The alliance with the Socialists provides Fanfani with time and the solid majority he believes he needs to accomplish needed reforms.

These include a crash program to build schools, tax reforms, anti-trust legislation and easier farm credits.

Also on the program is Nationalization of Italy's private power industry.

The Roman Catholic church opposes the alliance which also is regarded with great misgivings by many in the political center.

The center and rightwing fear that Nenni could lead Italy increasingly to the left and therefore away from NATO, the common market and close ties to the West.

At best, the "opening to the left" is regarded as a necessary calculated risk. A gain might be a final break between Nenni and the Communists.

The single star in the flag of Liberia symbolizes the nation's position as the first republic in all of Africa.

FLINT (AP) — An 18-year-old high school girl, who never regained consciousness after being injured in an auto accident in which her parents were killed 23 weeks ago, died Wednesday in a nursing home.

She was Judy M. Burt, a senior at Bendle High School.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Burt were killed in the crash Sept. 24 near Flint. The other driver, Ralph Lambert, 17, also died in the smashup.

Michael Burt, 9, one of Judy's nine brothers and sisters, was injured in the accident but has since recovered.

Horses Under Hood Roaring These Days

News Analysis
By BEN FULEGAR
AP Automotive Writer
DETROIT — To followers of the sports pages it may come as a shock to learn the automobile manufacturers still are agreed that there should be no emphasis on speed and horsepower.

Association confirms that a resolution voluntarily adopted by all the makers five years ago to lay off speed claims and to get out of racing still is on the books.
For those who read of the 130-mile-an-hour exploits of familiar cars makes at Daytona Beach this legend ranks in the same class as the Easter Bunny and Santa Claus.

An announcement in this week's mail says one company has presented the division directors of the National Hot Rod Association with 1962 models of its cars.

The same announcement points out this company, and one of its divisions, present trophies and engines to the winners of the "win-ter-nationals," one of the big drag strip events at Panama, Calif.

SPECIAL CARS
Attractions at the recently-concluded Chicago Auto Show included Phil Hill, world champion driver; Angie Granatelli, who expects to drive a supercharged stock model 200 miles an hour; a so-called dream model which actually was designed especially for road races such as the one at Watkins Glen, N.Y.

Any one who doubts the horsepower race is on with a vengeance might consider some of the new engines recently announced. One of 413 cubic inches, has 13.5-to-1 compression ratio and develops 410 horsepower. Another, of 466 cubic inches, has an advertised brake horsepower of 465. A third popular make offers options up to 469 horsepower.

One engine, which debuted modestly at 80 horsepower only 2½ years ago, now has turbocharger options which boost it to 120.

Whereas horsepower dropped slightly in 1959 and 1960, the push ever since has been for more. Last year one of the companies issued a brief announcement that it had a 400-plus horsepower bomb available and it sold 2,200 of them.

er at a $600 premium over the standard engine.

None of these is anything you'd want to entrust to your grandmother or your maiden aunt. And the horses under the hood can really roar when they get up beside you at the boulevard stop light.

A quick judgement could be that economy is passe, especially since these engines are not only costly, but they gulp high octane gas as if it were going out of style.

There may not be the emphasis on speed that prevailed before the 1957 AMA action but it has been replaced several times over by the new catchword—performance.

There is little doubt the companies acted five years ago in the face of rumblings from Washington about possible federal controls. Do the makers feel they are flirting with danger again? Apparently not.

The standard reply from the manufacturers is that they only are meeting a demand, that horsepower in itself is not dangerous and that less horsepower is absolutely no assurance a car will be operated safely. An under-powered car, in their view, can be more of a highway hazard than one of 400 horses.

Hare Estimates Small Car Sales

Speculates That Market for Midget-Sized Ford
Would Not Be Large

LANSING 4P — Secretary of State James M. Hare has offered some speculations on the possible market for the new midget-type car, reported being considered by the Ford Motor Co.

A good yardstick, Hare said, is the number of cars already registered in the state in the similar weight and size class.

Hare said there are slightly more than 61,000 such registrations in Michigan. These include 46,300 Volkswagens, 12,900 Renaults and 8,200 British Fords, he reported, a small fraction of the more than 3 million cars registered in Michigan.

"There may be of course," Hare said, "a greater untapped market for a Ford-made, U.S.-assembled compact-compact of which we are unaware."

If the new Ford weighs in at around 1,700 pounds, Hare said, there will be a saving in weight taxes.

The tax would cost $3.95, he said, considerably less than conventional U.S. cars and somewhat less than the Ford-produced Comet, which weighs 2,370 pounds and brings in a weight tax of $7.40.

Near $20 Million Left in Avery's Estate

CHICAGO 4P — Sewell L. Avery, former chairman of Montgomery Ward & Co., left an estate of $19,865,479 when he died at the age of 86, Oct. 31, 1951. Avery, who had headed U.S. Gypsum Co., also had headed U.S. Gypsum Co.

The size of the estate, formerly estimated to range between $5 million and $15 million, was disclosed in inheritance-tax returns filed here Wednesday.

The estate was left in trust for two daughters, Mrs. Arla McMillen of Clayton, Mo., and Mrs. Nancy Follansbee, of Evanston, Ill., and seven grandchildren.

Expenses cut $11,180,855 out of the estate, including federal inheritance taxes of $10,003,592 and Illinois inheritance taxes of $200,659.

Urged to Back Bid for New IRS Center

LANSING 4P — Lawmakers were being asked today to support the city of Port Huron in its bid to house the Midwest Data Processing Center of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service (IRS).

Sen. Frank W. Beadle, R-St. Clair, introduced a concurrent resolution Wednesday urging the federal government to accept the city's offer of a $1-a-year lease on a 200,000-square foot office building.

The building, set on a 30-acre site, would be built to IRS specifications, city spokesmen said in their offer to the federal agency.

The resolution was referred to the Senate Business Committee.

Open Meetings Urged for Units of State House

LANSING 4P — A Democratic legislator moved today to open House Committee meetings to the public and compel each to keep a public record of their proceedings.

Rep. Joseph A. Gillis Jr., D-Detroit, proposing the amendment to House rules, said "anything we do in committee meetings, including our votes, ought to be public knowledge."

The resolution would require approval of a majority of the House for any closed meeting. Any committee member could require a roll call vote of any matter before the committee.

Presently, House committees frequently conduct closed meetings. Votes on sending bills to the House floor for debate are generally secret.

There is no comparable resolution in the Senate.

Sammy Cahn Reconciled With His Wife Gloria

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Songwriter Sammy Cahn and his wife, Gloria, are back together after a four-month separation.

The couple, married 16 years, flew here Wednesday after a reconciliation in Los Angeles. They have two children, Steven, 15, and Laurie, 12.

Georgia Rescinds Old Crime Ruling

ATLANTA, Ga., (AP)—Defendants in criminal trials in Georgia now may give sworn testimony.

Gov. Ernest Vandiver signed into law Wednesday an act permitting defendants to testify under oath. Previously, defendants were permitted to make only unsworn statements to the jury and were not subject to cross-examination.

Authorities said Georgia was the last state to abandon an ancient common-law rule that anyone charged with a crime was incompetent to give sworn testimony.

Be a Quick Change Artist With Staple Foods

With two cans of tuna, a can of condensed soup and a little imagination, you can be a magician in your own kitchen. First you raid your own pantry shelf, which you've stocked with a view to performing culinary magic, then you wave your magic wand over the stove, and presto! five minutes later you have a fine main dish at hand.

On another occasion, select a different kind of soup and different seasonings to go with your tuna, and change! you have an equally fine, but very different, main dish to grace your table.

Canned tuna, a first-class protein food, also enables you to perform magic with your food budget. The tuna-soup combinations are real economy news: they serve four people at a cost of about 30 cents, or 20 cents a serving. To round out the menu, serve your presto changeo tuna dinner over rice, noodles, toast, toasted English muffins or corn-bread squares.

Wheat Germ Is Good Addition

A honey poet somewhere along the line said "there is muffin like a muffin to give a meal appeal," and most of us are quick to agree with him — especially if no m serves up the wheat germ banana muffins we feature today.

For these are premium muffins, high in nutrition and delightful in flavor. Serve them hot from the oven with lots of butter at breakfast, lunch or dinner. And you can add them to school or work lunchboxes, if stocking the latter is one of your daily assignments.

Wheat Germ Banana Muffins
1½ cups sifted flour
½ cup sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup wheat germ
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup finely mashed banana
½ cup milk
¼ cup melted shortening or cooking oil

Combine flour, sugar, baking powder and salt in sifter; sift into mixing bowl. Stir in wheat germ. Add eggs, banana pulp, milk and shortening or oil. Stir just until dry ingredients are moistened. Fill well-greased large muffin pans 2/3 full. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) until done and lightly browned. 20 to 25 minutes. Yield: 12 large muffins.
