Shortage Revealed at City Credit Union

A $54,135.15 shortage at Chief Pontiac Federal Credit Union was disclosed today by Gordon W. Rice, the union's president.

The shortage, fully covered by insurance, was announced to the credit union's board of directors Tuesday, Rice said, following a three-week examination of financial records by the auditing team from the U. S. Bureau of Federal Credit Unions.

The shortages occurred in funds handled by the credit union for employes at Pontiac Motor Division.

Details of when and how the shortages came about will not be spelled out to the credit union, Rice said, until the examining team's report is okayed in Washington and returned to Pontiac, probably within two weeks to thirty days.

However, Rice said that Lawrence P. Hurter, chief examiner for the U. S. team, had indicated that the credit union's former treasurer - manager, Francis H. Schneider, had apparently been involved in at least one transaction now under investigation.

This occurred in February, Rice said, when Schneider apparently made a $19,500 loan to himself, which has not been paid back.

Schneider resigned on October 26 from the $9,900 a year post he has held since 1949. This was the same day that the federal examiners arrived for their annual, unannounced audit of the credit union.

Rice said that at the time of

Seeks Opinion on Gein's Sanity

Defense Moves to Get Independent Medical View on Slayer

WAUTOMA, Wis. (AP) — The defense moved today to get an independent medical opinion on the sanity of slayer-ghoul Edward Gein.

Counsel for the 51-year-old bachelor recluse who has admitted killing and butchering two women and looting graves already has agreed with the prosecution on a mental examination before Gein goes to trial.

Attorney William Belter said, however, that he planned to have Gein examined by a Milwaukee psychiatrist today — before the mild-appearing little killer makes another court appearance.

"The defense, in order to have any evidence of value in the future, must obtain it now," Belter said.

Circuit Court Judge Herbert A. Bunde said he would confer with Dist. Atty. Earl Kileen today and might call the first degree murder trial "at any time thereafter."

Belter said he planned to obtain the private opinion on Gein's sanity, because in the event the court commits the prisoner now, on the grounds that he is presently incompetent to stand trial, he might later reestablish his sanity. Under those circumstances, he could be ordered to trial and then would have to prove to a jury's satisfaction that he was insane at the time of the crimes.

"The important question is whether Ed Gein is insane now — not 3, 5 or 10 years from now," Belter said.

★ ★ ★

UF Out to Get Final $112,000 for Victory Goal

$501,352 Is Collected; Hoping to Push Drive Over Top by Tuesday

The cry of the Pontiac Area United Fund drive as it moves into the home stretch is "$500,000 down and $112,000 to go."

Officials of the campaign announced today that total pledges in the Industrial, Commercial and Geographic Divisions have reached $501,352, or 81.9 per cent of the goal of $612,000.

Campaign Chairman Dana P. Whitmer expressed hope for a last-minute drive to push the 1957 campaign over the top. He said he hoped next Tuesday's final report luncheon will be a "victory luncheon."

A total of $369,494 of this year's goal is earmarked for 14 local Community Chest agencies.

They are Boys' Club, Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Catholic Social Services, Family Service of Oakland County, Girl Scouts, Michigan Children's Aid Society, Pontiac Area Day Nursery, Salvation Army, Urban League, Visiting Nurse Assn., YMCA, YWCA, and the Oakland Child Guidance Clinic.

★ ★ ★

Forty - one other community service agencies depend on United Fund money each year.

The Industrial Division continues to lead the campaign with employes' contributions totaling $353,500, or 87.4 per cent of the division's $404,273 goal.

In the Commercial Division, $113,851 in pledges has been turned in to date. This represents 69.3 per cent of its quota of $164,280.

Mrs. Ralph T. Norvell and Mrs. Donald White, co-chairmen of the Geographic Division, said their workers have reached 56.2 per cent of their quota of $21,548.

Violent Winds Blast Southern California

DERRICKS TOPPLED—Violent winds shrieked through southern California for the second day, wreaking widespread havoc on land, sea and air. Among the winds' victims were at least five huge steel oil derricks in Huntington Beach. This fallen derrick shown lies across busy Pacific Coast Highway, a main route between Los Angeles and San Diego. The storm is also whipping a fire raging out of control in the Los Angeles National Forest, north of Los Angeles. (Fire picture page 19.)

Southfield Man Buried Alive

Charles Wilson Killed in 8-Foot Ditch Cave-In at Orchard Lake

The sewer ditch cave-in which buried a man alive in Orchard Lake yesterday, has been attributed to a layer of sand giving away after being weakened by rains.

Charles R. Wilson, 22, of Southfield Township, was dead before fellow workers could reach him.

Clyde Heppner, 31, of 3282 Cumberland Rd., Berkley, barely escaped the same fate, said Orchard Lake Police.

Wilson, who lived in a trailer park at 27375 Northwestern Hwy., was kneeling in the bottom of an eight-foot drainage ditch, laying pipe, when the cave-in occurred.

Heppner was standing erect and was buried to the waist. He worked himself free, said police, and then began digging for Wilson with other workers.

The ditch was located at 4450 Dow Ridge Rd. Wilson was employed by the Grolean Bros., road builders of Royal Oak.

Lapeer Woman Dies as Clothes Burn

Her clothing ablaze from a makeshift stove, a Lapeer woman fled her trailer home yesterday and rolled on the ground to smother the flames consuming her.

Mrs. Lois Cadle, 28, of 5127 Coldwater Rd., died of the burns she received. Her dress had blazed up as she warmed her month-old son William before a fire in an empty oil drum which had been converted into a stove.

The child was uninjured. Mrs. Cadle's husband, Isaac, 23, was at work at a nearby sawmill. The couple moved to the area recently from Birmingham, Ala.

25,000 Acres Periled by Fire

Winds Sock Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Damage mounted anew today as a violent wind storm lashed southern California for the second day.

Winds dashed out of the desert with hurricane speed yesterday, whistled through metropolitan Los Angeles on a wrecking spree, and fanned a monstrous forest fire that was still running wild today.

18,000 ACRES BURNED

The Forest Service said the fire, burning northeast of here in the Angeles National Forest, might cover as much as 25,000 acres. It has already burned about 18,000.

Police and sheriff's switchboards around Los Angeles and in many other parts of southern California were jammed with reports of damage caused by the shrieking winds.

Houses were wrecked, hundreds of trees were blown down, power lines were knocked out and a number of injuries were reported.

There were no known deaths. The forest fire started yesterday when a camp fire got away from a prison crew working on a highway west of Crystal Lake, about 25 miles north of Azusa.

WINDS HIT 100 M.P.H.

The fire had moved 22 miles early today. At times it was whistling along at the rate of 200 feet a minute, fanned by winds that hit 100 miles an hour in gusts.

Dave Waite, Angeles Forest fire prevention officer, said the blaze was burning only a couple of miles north of the town of Monrovia in the San Gabriel Mountain foothills.

County Fire Chief Keith Klinger said other communities in danger included Azusa, Duarte, East Pasadena and Sierra Madre. All are northeast of Los Angeles.

Waite said the famous observatory atop Mt. Wilson was in "serious danger," as were half a dozen or so Los Angeles television transmitters on the mountaintop. The crews manning these facilities were alerted for possible evacuation.

Waite said about 100 summer homes in Big Santa Anita Canyon were threatened. Four or five families occupying homes in the area were told they might have to leave.

A hundred children at Camp Hi-Hill, a Long Beach city school facility, were evacuated by bus. The evacuation was ordered when the fire was three or four miles from the mountain camp.

Chief Klinger said the blaze

Claims City Teamsters Handed Files to Probers

Records dating back to 1953 of Teamsters Local 614 in Pontiac are already in the hands of Senate labor investigators, Leaun Harrelson, president of the local, said today.

Harrelson's statement followed a report from Robert F. Kennedy, chief counsel of the Senate committee, that subpoenas will be served on some 40 Midwestern locals to get records showing how delegates to last month's Miami Beach convention were chosen.

The bulk of financial records and minutes of local meetings dating back to when James R. Hoffa took over the Pontiac local as trustee, were delivered to Kennedy back in September, Harrelson said.

He was vague when asked whether they would show how four 614 delegates were selected. "I think probably they should," he said. "There should have been evidence."

He said the delegates, himself, Floyd Harmon, Frank Orsini, and Alvy Bush, were "elected" about June or July.

DENY VOTING

Members of an anti-Hoffa movement here charge the 3,500 members of Local 614 had no vote on who the delegates should be.

Kennedy said only a few locals in the Teamsters Central Conference, headed by Hoffa, have turned over records voluntarily.

He said that these records show that over 75 per cent of the delegates on whom information has

14 on Plane Injured Over Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Western Air Lines plane carrying 33 persons bounced crazily through the air east of here last night after hitting a downdraft over Ontario. Fourteen passengers and two stewardesses were injured.

The stewardesses and some of the passengers were thrown against the roof of the DC6B when it was sucked downward by the draft, then pitched up by a reverse draft, and almost immediately jerked down again by still another draft.

The cabin was filled with flying luggage as passengers were hurled from their seats.

The stewardesses, Diane Hallock, 22, Los Angeles, and Sue Etzel, 21, San Diego were knocked unconscious, along with a number of the passengers. Four of the passengers were still unconscious when the plane landed safely at Los Angeles International Airport. The flight started at Las Vegas, Nev.

None of the injured were believed in serious condition. Most of them suffered facial cuts or injuries to their heads, backs or necks.

Expect Full Production of Intermediate Missiles to Begin Momentarily

WASHINGTON (INS) — U.S. defense efforts reached the crash stage today with America's first intercontinental missile base ordered and full production of intermediate missiles expected momentarily.

The Defense Department late yesterday ordered construction of a 65 million dollar missile base near Cheyenne, Wyo.

The department let it be known that it will be a permanent "operational launching base" for 5,500 mile rockets capable of hitting Moscow with nuclear destruction in the event of war.

The anticipated production speedup of IRBM's led one key Republican lawmaker to urge an immediate "stop" order on the purchase of any more costly B52 and B58 jet bombers.

Meanwhile, President Eisenhower will consider the cost aspects of the expanded missile program at a Cabinet meeting this morning and later today confers

More Flurries, Chilly Weather Slated for Area

Football fans going to Ann Arbor tomorrow had better be prepared for chilly weather. The U. S. Weather Bureau forecasts partly cloudy and continued cold with a few snow flurries tonight and tomorrow.

The low tonight will be 26-30 degrees. Tomorrow's high will be 40.

Sunday the prediction is cloudy with little change in temperature. Snow possibly mixed with rain is likely.

The lowest recorded temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 28. At 2 p.m. the reading was 30.

Get Ready for 8-Hour Work Week, Plush Vacations on Moon

Scientists Give Exciting Picture of Next 100 Years

By JOHN A. BARBOUR
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK—Some top scientists predicted today that science will create these thrills during the next 100 years:

★ ★ ★

You'll be able to control the size, shape and function of your body. You'll talk with your mind, never moving your lips.

★ ★ ★

We'll never get mentally or emotionally sick. Our emotions and impulses will be controlled by drops or pills.

★ ★ ★

There'll be lavish excursion hotels at scenic spots on the moon. The lunar surface will be subdivided among nations.

We'll be working a four to eight hour week.

★ ★ ★

You'll be able to pick the sex of your child and decide whether you want twins, triplets or just one.

★ ★ ★

We'll make food out of sunshine. Our raw materials and drinking water will come from the sea.

★ ★ ★

Most of our food will be vegetable and synthetic, but we'll make it taste as good as natural food—although we probably won't think taste is too important.

There'll be more than seven billion people in the world. But none of them will go hungry. Our mail will come in the form of radio signals carried by satellites high above the earth.

★ ★ ★

These were just some of the remarkable developments for the future dreamed up by eight scientific experts, including two Nobel prize winners, at a symposium here on "The Next Hundred Years." It marked the centennial of the industrial firm of Joseph E. Seagram & Sons, Inc.

Among the scientists were Dr. Wernher von Braun, director of development operations for the Army Ballistic Missile Agency at Huntsville, Ala.

Barmore Predicts Hung Jury in Killing

MUSKEGON (AP) — Herman Barmore predicts that his second degree murder trial will result in "a hung jury."

At 11:30 a.m. today, the jury had been out eight hours. Indications were it would recess at 1 p.m. for lunch if no verdict was reached by then.

Barmore's prediction of a mistrial came as he chatted with newsmen in a corridor while the jury deliberated. He said he "would bet on" the jury's failure to agree, but when a newsman asked what odds he'd given, Barmore withdrew the offer, saying: "I bet on the horses but never on my life or freedom."

Barmore, a 44-year-old New York ex-convict, is accused in the rifle slaying of Boy Scout Peter Gorham. The 12-year-old Evanston, Ill. boy was found dead after disappearing from nearby Camp Wabaningo in July of 1955. His skeleton, the skull pierced by a bullet, was found in a wooded area several weeks after he vanished.

Barmore has pleaded innocent in the case.

Last Ford Deer Tangles With Law and Gets Killed

DEARBORN (AP)—A giant buck—the last of a deer herd that once roamed the Fairlane estate of the late Henry Ford—was killed yesterday.

The 242-pound, eight-pointer was injured trying to hurdle a police car patrolling near the estate.

Dying, he limped into the forest and leaned against a tree.

Sgt. Donald M. Hohmann, 35, who was alone in the car, followed and shot him four times with his police revolver. "I hated to do it," Hohmann said. "I can't bear to kill animals."

Hohmann said the buck bounded out into the road and tried to leap over his station wagon patrol car. The animal failed to clear the vehicle and smashed into the side, breaking the windows and denting the side and top.

Hohmann said a Fairlane caretaker told him the buck was the last of a 40-deer herd which had roamed the 1,360-acre estate years ago.

What are nature's signs in the sky which tell us of approaching rain?

There are many clues, if one will observe the sky, wind, etc. carefully. The best-known is a falling barometer, but there are others which require no instruments.

Low clouds are a clue, especially in summer. A rainbow to the windward is another sign. Smoke curling downward and staying close to the earth is yet another.

More distant clues can be found by watching the moon. A halo or web-like cirrus clouds high in the sky usually mean coming rain — maybe a day away. In summer and at some other times of year a dry morning (without dew) indicates rain.

It can also be "felt" as it approaches by women with sensitive hair, by many with arthritis or creaky joints, and by many animals, which can be observed closely as forecasters.

Credit Union Shortage Revealed by Directors

the $19,500 loan, Schneider did not have an equivalent amount in savings at the credit union, a requirement that must be met by union officials.

The credit union is insured by the Employes Mutual Liability Insurance Company of Wausau, Wis. for 100 per cent of any losses up to $1 million, Rice said.

"I want to make it absolutely clear to our membership that their investments are safe, with no ifs, ands or buts about it," Rice said.

Rice also announced that James P. Harrington, manager of the Community National Bank's Perry street branch, had been hired by the credit union to take over as manager in mid-December.

The board of trustees has elected one of its members, Wayne Weaver, as the credit union's new treasurer, Rice said.

The shortages, Rice believed, have developed since September, 1956, the last time that federal examiners checked the books.

Detroit Driver Hits Tree; in Hospital

A Detroit man was rushed to Pontiac General Hospital shortly before 1 p.m. today after his car reportedly hit a tree no M24 in Orion Township traveling at speeds approaching 100 miles per hour, said Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies.

Deputy Raymond Pilon said that Raymond R. Eiben, 23, of 13903 Alma St., was driving a 1953 Ford with a "souped up" Oldsmobile engine. He passed a car and lost control skidding approximately 175 feet, sideswiping a tree and skidding another 75 feet into a second tree.

Deputies reported the car was demolished. The hospital has not yet issued a report on Eiben's condition, but said he suffered a broken leg, multiple bruises, and cuts of the head and face.

Exciting Century Ahead, Say Top U. S. Scientists

The creator of the German V2 rocket predicted the United States would surpass Russia in conquering space. He said the Russians launched their Sputniks as the beginning of an attempt to control the world.

A hundred years from now, he said, we'll be mining and tunneling under the surface of the moon. He added:

"In 2057 A. D., the earth will be surrounded by a whole family of artificial satellites . . . some of the satellites — and the best moneymakers among them — will have taken over the mailman's job. They will receive messages radioed up to them while over one city, country or continent and play it back while over others."

Other satellites, he said, would serve as television relay stations, provide accurate hourly weather reports, and monitor the world for signs of war.

Dr. John Weir, associate professor of psychology at the California Institute of Technology, said man should be able to learn to control the substance that determines the size of organs and systems.

MAN CAN ALTER SELF

By this means, he said, man could alter himself, make himself more efficient. He should be able to transmit thought to another person, without using words and gestures, he added.

All the elements of emotional and mental illness will be controllable, he said.

Dr. Hermann J. Muller, Nobel prize winning geneticist of Indiana University, predicted young couples could almost order their children.

TO BANK SPARE ORGANS

He said ailing or aged persons could have diseased or damaged organs replaced, from a spare parts bank.

Dr. Albert Szent-Gyorgyi forecast:

"We will steal the secrets of plants, learn how to make food out of sunshine, most of which is wasted at present."

The Nobel prize winner, who heads the Institute for Muscle Research at Woods Hole, Mass., said new methods of growing food will "do away with hungry mouths." He said biochemistry would solve the problem of birth control.

Dr. Harrison Brown, professor of geochemistry at California Institute of Technology, said automation in the next 100 years would eliminate the difference between skilled and unskilled labor.

A 4 TO 8 HOUR WEEK

He predicted we'd be down to a four to eight hours week by then.

The sea, said Dr. Clifford C. Furnas, chancellor of the University of Buffalo, will be the great pool of our resources, including drinking water.

Nuclear energy will give us power. Sunlight will be harnessed to make things synthetically.

Dr. James Bonner, professor of biology from the California Institute of Technology, predicted deserts would be irrigated by purified sea water, and the world go on a vegetable diet because of its huge population.

Base for ICBMs Ordered Built

with his defense policy-making National Security Council.

The planned intercontinental missile base will be located at Francis E. Warren Air Force Base. Construction will begin during the middle of 1958, with no completion date announced.

The gigantic nature of the project is indicated by its cost —65 million dollars—and the number of persons expected to be employed—5,000.

The project will be administered by the Air Research and Development Command.

MAKE ROCKETS

The intermediate missile production order was expected to include the Air Forces Thor—two of which are already being produced every month— and the Army's Jupiter—which has had many successful tests. The Navy's Polaris also is reported nearly ready for production.

These are the type missiles the U. S. plans to supply to Atlantic allies to ring Russia with nuclear weapons and neutralize the Soviets' advantage of having a successful long-range missile.

Rep. Gerald Ford (R-Mich) member of the Mahon subcommittee, said "if optimistic forecasts for these weapons are true, there is no need to duplicate them with a conventional weapons program."

He said the B58 program should be abandoned and that purchase of any more B52s be eliminated. The B52 long-range bomber is the backbone of the U. S. Strategic Air Command and the B58 is a new, improved model.

Meanwhile, there were these other developments on the defense front:

—The Air Force disclosed that "active research endeavors" have been launched for the creation of both manned space ships and a satellite "station in space." Deputy Chief of Staff Lt. Gen. C. S. Irvine said it is "well within reason" that space ships will fight the next major war.

—Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker declared that Americans might as well "forget" about a balanced budget because of increased defense spending. He based his statement on a four-week study of the financial picture with other top Pentagon officials.

—The Senate Preparedness Subcommittee was to meet behind closed doors late today to make final plans for the opening Monday of its missile-satellite investigation.

—The House Military Appropriations Subcommittee wound up its two-day hearing and prepared to tour the Army's Redstone arsenal at Huntsville, Ala., and the Air Force missile test center at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

—President Eeisenhower was pictured as the only real "czar" in the U. S. missile-satellite program. Defense and White House sources said no "decision-making" authority has been granted to Dr. James R. Killian, the President's special assistant for missiles who has been described as a czar, or William M. Holaday, the Pentagon's missile chief.

Killian, meanwhile, was revealed as having warned more than three years ago against "sitting on our secrets" if the U. S. was to win the scientific race with Russia. He said Russia was going all-out to build up a corps of scientists.

The Day in Birmingham

'Man Called Peter' Author Tells of Fight for Faith

BIRMINGHAM — The simplicity and candor plus the sincerity of her belief and faith in God of Catherine Marshall was deeply felt by her Town Hall listeners yesterday and today in Birmingham.

Widow of the late Dr. Peter Marshall, Senate chaplain, Mrs. Marshall told of her problems at the time of his death and during the writing of the book "A Man Called Peter."

She recounted her feeling of loss and confusion when her husband died so suddenly eight years ago. There was nothing to do—there was nowhere to turn, so she instinctively turned to God, she recalled.

She spoke of several incidents in the writing of the book where she became blocked through lack of information or through her emotions.

In each case, she said, she "turned to God and invariably my prayers were answered."

Most recent of Mrs. Marshall's works is another book which will deal with situations which arise in every life, leaving persons lost and confused. She points out that society has institutions, social agencies and medical science to cope with every problem.

"I hope to give some solace and sympathetic understanding, plus hope to those persons who find themselves in this situation," Mrs. Marshall said.

The arrest of a Detroit man in Lansing and his confession to church burglary has solved three Birmingham robberies.

The First Baptist Church, Christian Science Church and St. James Episcopal were entered earlier this week, where a total of $60 was stolen. Church offices were thoroughly ransacked by his address as 7550 Hanover St., Detroit.

Det. Lt. Merlin Holmquist said he hoped to be able to go to Lansing today to question McKenzie.

Birmingham Police today reported the robbery of the George A. Willison home at 1210 Washington Blvd., somewhere between Nov. 19 and 20.

The Willisons, who were away from home, reported the theft of a diamond ring valued at about $1,000. A small safe containing about $3,000 worth of government bonds was removed from the home.

Also stolen were a white gold wedding ring set with a natural ruby, a railroad - type Hamilton watch and 76 silver dollars.

Hoffa Trial Opens on Wiretap Charges

NEW YORK (AP) — After months of delay, James R. Hoffa goes on trial today in federal court on wiretap conspiracy charges.

Hoffa, president-elect of the Teamsters Union, is charged with conspiring here to illegally tap the telephones in the union's Detroit office so that conversations of smaller fry could be overheard.

Hoffa, who makes his headquarters in Detroit, also is under federal indictment on perjury charges.

Elmer McKenzie, 22, who gave

Miriani Wants 50-50 Welfare Funds Again

DETROIT (AP) - Mayor Louis C. Miriani said today Detroit will press for a change in the state laws to restore the former 50-50 split between the city and state on welfare payments. The state now pays only 30 per cent.

Miriani expressed his views after Daniel J. Ryan, Detroit superintendent of welfare, said the city is running more than $2 million short in its welfare funds at the moment.

Doctors Claim Man Hears Without Ears

PARIS — Two Frenchmen say they have proved that man can hear without ears — through the nerve system with sounds by-passing the ears entirely.

★ ★ ★

Their first human guinea pig, a businessman who was stone deaf six months ago, is walking around with a miniature "telephone" in his head.

The operation may give new hope to those born deaf or with eardrums damaged beyond repair, the doctors say. They are Charles Eyries, brilliant Paris surgeon, and Dr Andre Djourno, a professor.

Dr. Djourno previously had perfected an extraordinary method of obtaining muscular responses from a rabbit by exciting a particular nerve by electro-magnetic remote control When the doctor made a sound the rabbit moved a paw.

★ ★ ★

This method was adapted to a patient of Dr. Eyries' who had become stone-deaf.

More licorice is used in tobacco than in candy.

Texan Whittles Guitar for 'Blind' Success

FIFE, Tex. (AP) — Nolan Underwood, almost blind, whittled a guitar out of a piece of 4x12 lumber and rigged it with an amplifier. Sounds pretty good, too.

Nolan was almost blinded in 1951 in a high school shop explosion. But he finished high school and two years at Southwest Texas State College at San Marcos, Tex.

He writes his own compositions.

Walt Disney's True Life Adventures

Science Just Entering Most Exciting Phase

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter
Last in Series

NEW YORK (AP)—Scientists are just beginning their most exciting adventures and achievements.

Ahead lie limitless power from atoms by taming the H-bomb reaction . . . trips to the moon or Mars . . . control of heart attacks and cancer . . . perhaps the creation of life in the laboratory . . . certainly more insight into puzzles of the human mind and human behavior.

* * *

Best of all, many discoveries of the next 100 years can't be predicted at all—just as technology was unpredictable 50 to 100 years ago.

The opportunity and challenge for new young scientists are greater than ever before.

Human curiosity, using science training, can ultimately expect to answer all secrets of nature, declares Dr. Norris W. Rakestraw, of the Scripps Institute of Oceanography, La Jolla, Calif.

* * *

Science is young. Only 300 years ago did man learn to think and experiment scientifcally.

Just a day or so ago in human history, thunder and lightning, epidemics of sickness, movement of the sun and stars, were "all mysteries enshrouded with religious superstition, not to be questioned but only regarded with wonder and awe," he adds.

Scientists brought a new world of more understanding, comfort, health, jobs, leisure, freedom from toil, more time to wonder and learn.

* * *

Now there is even a serious question whether we shall have much future at all without new discoveries, new answers.

In 100 years, seven billion humans will be inhabiting this planet at one time, by some predictions. Today the world population is more than 2½ billions—right now it's estimated that one in every 20 humans who ever walked on this earth is alive today.

We are using up coal, oil, metals, food and land at prodigious rates. The rates accelerate as other nations raise standards of living.

Scientists must find new sources of energy from the atom or sun, new sources of food, synthetic materials, the answers to present and unpredictable needs. Rocks, sun, ocean and air are the fundamental resources, if they can be used.

Brainpower is the key to using them. Prospects of success are thin unless we use our brainpower better, warns Dr. John R. Weir, associate professor of psychology at the California Institute of Technology.

Right now, out of every 100 children entering first grade, only 59 finish high school, 13 graduate from college and only 3 become engineers or scientists.

* * *

He calls for more research to find embryo scientists early, for more women to become scientists, for teaching that awakens rather than deadens interest and curiosity, financial aid for capable students, better pay for teachers.

Military defense or survival depends more and more on science, new ideas, new weapons. Science is the cradle for methods of defending against intercontinental missiles.

* * *

Today's and tomorrow's challenge is as great for the social sciences, the study of man, his behavior, his control over his society. More basic research is needed to win this knowledge.

This is critical. How will men and nations use the powers and knowledge from science—for good or bad, to destroy or build? Will the new things yet to come be good or bad?

* * *

No one can say, remarks Dr. Le Dubridge, president of Caltech. Things aren't good or bad; it is only people who are bad, and some of them certainly always will be bad.

But, Dr. Dubridge declares, "these new things are going to come anyway, for no force on earth can stop them from thinking, from inventing, from exploring."

Michigan Industry Faces Strong Competition

Indiana is capitalizing on Michigan's current employment situation by lustily advertising her own advantages and her own wares.

You saw The Pontiac Press feature story revolving around a paid page advertisement proclaiming "Indiana Is Completely Debt Free, While Other State Governments Are Billions in Debt."

That's a challenging remark.

★ ★ ★

Another thought provoking assertion says: "In Indiana, New Industries DON'T Pay Yesterday's Bills."

They do in Michigan.

Then Indiana lumps a large number of tax advantages under these headings: "No Corporation Tax, No Manufacturer's Tax, No Net Worth Tax, No Value-Added Tax, No Penalty Tax, No Sales Tax, No 'Use' Tax."

Several are aimed at Michigan.

★ ★ ★

Then she asserts: "Indiana's Right to Work Law Is the First Enacted by a Major Industrial State."

She must be right.

Further, "Indiana Has Had Only One Tax Rate Increase in 26 Years."

That's a record of sorts.

Finally she claims that Indiana is first in the area (and that includes Michigan) and second in the Nation in per capita new-plant building.

★ ★ ★

Then she asserts that in a 24 month consecutive period, Indiana has had seven new plants a month and in the last half year, ten new ones a month.

This is competition Michigan must face and look squarely in the eye.

Arms for Tunisians

France's Foreign Minister PINEAU is in Washington to discuss among other things, British-American delivery of arms to Tunisia.

In the first place Tunisia's Premier BOURGUIBA is moderately pro-French and although he wanted independence for his country, he did not wish to cut ties with France in so far as defense and trade were concerned. By refusing the Premier's request for small arms—500 rifles and 50,000 rounds of ammunition to equip 6,000 national guardsmen—on the grounds that the arms might be turned over to Algeria, the French opened the way for a Russian offer.

★ ★ ★

To counter this move Britain and the United States decided to send the arms to Tunisia over French protests. Premier Bourguiba, as he had done previously in his appeal to France, promised that none would disappear over the Algerian border into rebel hands. Even if they did, the amount is so small it could not make much difference.

Surely the French should be able to see that their refusal could push Tunisia toward the Soviet orbit. Russia gained influence in Egypt and Syria by supplying them with arms.

★ ★ ★

Foreign Minister PINEAU has declared that the Anglo-American action is a breach of the NATO alliance. France's internal troubles, embarrassing to the West also, have blinded her politicians to the need for keeping Tunisia on the side of the West. The decision to supply small arms appears to be in the interest of NATO.

Ceylon Government Nationalizes Buses

In the 1956 election, S. W. R. D. BANDARAIKE ran on a platform of nationalization of every big business on the island.

After election, Prime Minister BANDARAIKE was faced with reality. Foreign owned plantations were the number one target. However, he found that they were well managed and moreover, had capital for expansion. Besides they were the backbone of the economy and it would be dangerous to tamper with them.

To make good election promises he turned his attention to the bus transport system. The service was poor and the people were complaining. So BANDARAIKE hired experts to make a survey.

On January 1 next, after two years of looking for something to nationalize, the government of Ceylon will take its first step. The privately owned bus system will be taken over. In accordance with the findings of the experts, the government will have to provide new buses and raise fares.

★ ★ ★

This is hardly what the politicians promised nor the people expected of Socialism.

MEMBER OF AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

Ulcers, Anyone?

David Lawrence Asks:

When Will 'Retaliate' Be Ordered?

WASHINGTON — Realism is still rare here in the appraisal of policies that must prevail if America is to defend herself promptly against sudden attack by missiles or nuclear weapons of any kind.

For the big issue — when exactly can the order be given for retaliatory action against attack — has never been resolved.

Secretary LAWRENCE of State Dulles, answering a question at a news conference at Chicago, said that retaliation from bases abroad would be instantaneous if there were another attack "like Pearl Harbor." But behind that statement are many unanswered questions such as these:

1. While the United States itself is committed to instant retaliation if an attack occurs against any member country of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, is it necessary to get the permission of an allied nation before American forces can fire weapons from overseas bases?

★ ★ ★

2. If permission must be obtained from local civilian authorities, does this mean that the British or French parliaments, for example, must give their consent, and how long a delay would this occasion while New York or Chicago was being bombed?

USUALLY POSITIVE NOD

These two points have long been argued, and military men usually have answered positively that there would be no delay. They have been assuming instant co-operation from parliamentary bodies.

In the North Atlantic Treaty, Congress has already authorized the President to use American military forces to resist any attack. The treaty, in effect, says that an attack on any member of NATO is an attack against the United States. Under the Constitution, the President has the power to use the military forces at once to repel any attack against the United States.

By construing the interests of the United States as the same thing as the territory of the United States, Congress, in ratifying the NATO treaty in 1949, consented to the instant exercise of the war power by the executive. Presumably any military operations thereafter would result in a resolution by Congress ratifying a "state of war." This happened in the case of Pearl Harbor, when the executive ordered counter attacks and then received confirming authority from Congress a few days later.

But this is not the kind of setup which today prevails in the parliamentary bodies abroad. No advance authorization has been given by either the British or French parliament to allow American commanders at bases in those countries to use their weapons in retaliation.

The Communists have relied on this gap, and military men here have been uneasy about it, despite assurances from London and Paris that in an emergency of this sort there wouldn't be any question about granting the necessary authority.

FORCES MIXED

It will be noted that Secretary Dulles in his remarks at Chicago says that the forces of the United States stationed abroad are so intermingled with allied forces already—and presumably would be integrated even more under the proposed establishment by NATO of intermediate bases for missiles—that it would be natural for the Americans to retaliate immediately.

With the threat, however, of the intercontinental missile which might come from Russia at a speed of thousands of miles per hour, the United States finds it more than ever necessary to use shorter-range missiles operating from NATO bases overseas. This opens anew the question of authority to function from such bases. It will not be enough to leave the matter hanging in the air, as in past conferences on the subject, with the vague assurance that the civilian parliaments will act in due time. Realism requires that this crucial issue be faced squarely at the NATO conference to be attended by President Eisenhower in Paris next month.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Real Danger of Smoking From Carbon Monoxide

Smokers frequently ask how long it takes to get the "nicotine" out of your system. I clothe "nicotine" in quotes because I do not believe the nicotine in tobacco has anything to do with the effects of smoking.

I believe the ill effects of smoking are due mainly to the carbon monoxide the smoker inhales or absorbs into his or her blood through the lining of nose, mouth throat and, if he or she inhales smoke, the lining of the larynx (voice box), trachea (windpipe) and bronchial tubes.

DR. BRADY

It would take less than 24 hours to get all the nicotine out of system, if the victim survived. The medical authorities, chemists, toxicologists, pharmacologists, physiologists and pathologists have been passing the buck these many years in reference to "nicotine poisoning"—each seems to rely on his predecessors for knowledge.

The lethal dose of nicotine for adults is 8 grains, but death has been reported from 1 grain, states one textbook of therapeutics. Various authorities say that tobacco contains from 2 per cent (Maryland) to 6 per cent (Virginia) or 8 per cent (Kentucky) nicotine.

Even though all the nicotine, carbon monoxide, pyridine, tars etc. are out of the system within 24 hours after the last smoke, it doesn't follow that the damage done by these substances vanishes with the smoke.

Tobacco amblyopia (weak sight), color blindness, peptic ulcer complex, palpitation and excessively rapid heart beat on moderate exertion, cold toes and cold fingers from constriction of the terminal arterioles, thrombo-angiitis obliterans (Buerger's disease) are manifestations of tobacco poisoning which persist for months after the last smoke.

★ ★ ★

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Hunter Angry Over Tie-Up at Pinconning and Standish

The state of Michigan completed the 100 million dollar bridge at the Straits just in time to eliminate the usual 10 to 20 mile traffic tie-up of hunters trying to get to the upper peninsula.

★ ★ ★

So what happens, Pinconning and Standish operate their traffic signal in the normal manner and the result is an 11 mile double line of cars trying to get past these two towns.

While spending an hour and a half in this line, I heard a radio report that traffic is heavy but moving normally, even though I was at a standstill.

★ ★ ★

As for me, I've bought my last pound of Pinconning cheese and have eaten my last meal at Standish.

Suggests GM Build Hospital

May I ask why the hospital was not finished, in the first place, by the contractor? They then tried to soak taxpayers over a million dollars more to finish it. Thanks to overburdened property owners it was turned down and rightly so. We can't cope with taxation now.

I'm a GI with two children and have been layed off for the past five months. I've drawn all my unemployment and haven't been called back, so how do they expect me to make my home payment and support a wife and family? How can City and hospital management expect to get more money from taxpayers when they can't cope with back taxes?

May I make a suggestion? It's about time General Motors built a hospital or at least build a wing on it when we are in need.

Says God Calls Men to Ministry

We are a couple with small children, my husband has a good job and we own our home, but the Lord has called him into the ministry. Just to get the education necessary, which is four years college and three of seminary, will take all we have plus what we will have to depend upon from the Lord.

Going into the ministry is a privilege God bestows on those he loves and wants to care for his flock. Our prayers are that God will lead us into the mission field or to a church where Long Time Observer might come and find out there are a lot of men in the ministry because God called them.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Increase Size of Sunday School

Notice the wonderful work that Ellen is doing with a class of 12-year-old girls in Sunday School. Ellen was disheartened at first, but in just six weeks' time, see the amount of good she has done. Teachers are sculptors in human clay, and can accomplish miracles if they use the proper psychological methods. Scrapbook this case

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case W-347: Ellen W., aged 16, is the Sunday school teacher who asked for specific advice on how to zoom attendance and also teach her pupils more about the Bible.

DR. CRANE

I urged her to employ four-answer tests and challenge a boys' class to an attendance race, for her pupils were 12-year-old girls.

Six weeks passed by and then Ellen gave me the following progress report.

"Dr. Crane," she began as she bubbled over with enthusiasm, "my Sunday school class of girls now has 17 as an average attendance.

"But just six weeks ago our average was only nine, so we have almost doubled.

"And the parents of the girls have praised me several times about those four-answer tests I've been using.

★ ★ ★

"The girls enjoy making them, too. Each week I select a different pair to help me. We then go over the lesson and make 10 to 20 statements.

"Then we type enough copies for the entire class, using several carbons, so it really isn't a hard job.

"And on Sunday, we divide the class into three or four groups, with a captain at the head of each. The girls in each group combine their knowledge and try to beat the other team.

"It really is great fun. And the girls have learned more facts about the Bible in these six weeks than they ever knew in their entire lives.

HOME TEACHERS

"But I think their greatest delight is in taking their four-answer test questions home. For then they give the quiz to their parents.

"My girls, of course, know the right answers, but their daddy and mother seldom do.

"For example, we use such four-answer items as:

"The Bible contains how many books—39-54-66-98.

"The first Gospel to be written was — MATTHEW-MARK-LUKE-JOHN.

"The book of Acts was written by — PETER - PAUL - THOMAS-LUKE.

"Several of the parents have expressed appreciation for the fact that their daughters are now reading the Bible voluntarily.

"And then we challenged a boys' class to an attendance contest. They beat us in numbers, for a wiener roast, but e had for a wiener roast, but we had a nice picnic, and are now halfway through our second contest with them.

"I think we'll probably win this time. And their teacher is now using our four-answer quiz plan every Sunday, too. He says the boys like it very much.

"One of my girls, who seemed the least interested of the entire group when I first took this class has now become the most enthusiastic member of all.

★ ★ ★

"For example, she got a copy of your 'Worry' book at the city library two weeks ago and prepared a report on the section where you explain how Jesus was the World's Greatest Psychologist.

"It was so interesting that our Sunday school Superintendent asked her to give it to several other classes.

"And now she has confided to me that she thinks she'd like to be a missionary.

"I misjudged her, I confess, for I originally thought she was the least religious girl in the group.

"But I have now learned she comes from a broken home, so maybe her enthusiasm for our class has been just what she needed.

"And we are now using your 'Weekly Check List' from Page 315 of your book as the basis for our four-weeks' contest with this boys' class.

"Three of my girls told me their families never had said grace at the table and had never prayed or read the Bible till we started with your 'Check List,' and now these three girls have got their parents started to church. Isn't it wonderful?

"I wouldn't have believed the marvelous results if I hadn't seen them happen among my own girls in this Sunday school class. It's wonderful!"

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Rhode Islanders Think Sputnik Falling Apart

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Numerous Rhode Island residents saw in the sky last night what they thought was the flaming disintegration of one of Russia's Sputniks.

Prof. Charles H. Smiley of the Brown University astronomy department, however, said it was a meteor of intense brilliance.

Said he: "Just a chunk of stuff coming in from outer space, and this has been going on since the beginning of the earth."

Garter Snake Bitten

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—In front of the horrified eyes of his mother, 18-month-old David Riedmayer made what should qualify as news. He picked up a small garter snake in his yard and gave it at fatal bite.

Life of Street Santa More Blitz Than Bliss

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS) — The life of a Santa Claus is not all hail and ho-ho-ho.

In fact, if you are a street corner Santa Claus you cannot even eat garlic or puncture mean little kids' balloons with holly leaves.

When a six-year-old child stalks up to you on the curb and says firmly, "I wanna Cadillac for Christmas," you are required to look at its mother for some sign of confirmation or denial.

If the mother looks blank, it is up to you to "inspire hope, without promising fulfillment" and reply something like, "Well now, little lady, don't you know most girls get a mink stole before a car?"

At the end of a busy day of bell-ringing and smiling back at scowling adults, Santa Claus must bundle up his hefty wooden chimney, tinkling with pennies (dimes are lighter, but no, people will give pennies), and trundle it back to the nearest collection headquarters.

There, after being "pleasant and courteous" for the past 10 hours, he is allowed maybe one snarl, if absolutely necessary, to unwrap the curled mouth that is now literally, frozen on his face. And home to sleep up for the next day's merry bemusement.

"Sometimes it's a cold job," said Col. John F. McMahon, national executive secretary of the Volunteers of America, whose more than 1,000 curb Kringles took to their posts for the 61st annual Christmas season today. "But our men (many of them derelicts until recently) fight for the opportunity to be Santa Clauses.

"All the men we choose are people who've had a hard time, but are now on the up-beat. They're happy people, grateful people. They know that being a Christmas spirit is going to help them as much as it helps others."

★ ★ ★

McMahon gathered all his 100 New York chuckle dispensers together over breakfast this morning and reminded them of the golden rules of Kris Kringling, before they went to their posts.

Among the "do's" are some fairly difficult assignments, like "Attract attention without being conspicuous," "Ring your bell but don't be a nuisance," "Keep your whiskers clean," and "Avoid garlic and onions."

QUITE A CHALLENGE

The list of "don'ts" is even more challenging — children and shoppers being what they are. It includes: "Do not promise children they will receive gifts, but send them away hopeful and happy anyway," "Don't lean on your chimney," and "Don't engage in any kind of argument or dispute."

Even with these musts and mustn'ts, and with the slings and arrows of the outrageous and more fortunate, the Volunteers' Santas have learned to do their job expertly.

One man, John Matison, 64, has been curbing a chimney for 15 years now, and he's the elder who finally settles all questions for the neophytes.

Like, what does one say to the question, "Kin I have a baby brother for Christmas?"

Answer: "Well, well, well, now, now, now, ho, ho, ho."

Could Offset Earlier Turndown

Adjusting Industries Told Revival May Be Started

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Some industries that began their adjustments earlier than most are being told today that a revival for them may soon be under way.

Cheerful predictions at least are being made for the oil, textile, housing and farm machinery industries and mild ones for farming. Aircraft makers who suffered when defense contracts were canceled or stretched out are pinning new hopes on the missile program, which also should benefit firms in the electronics and exotic fuel industries.

* * *

If all these hopes materialize it will help offset the turndown in many manufacturing groups that makes the early part of 1958 look dubious to business soothsayers.

The oil industry has been hurting from a glut of supplies and a disappointing sales volume. But the petroleum department of the Chase Manhattan Bank of New York predicts that demand will soon pick up sharply and inventories should be at good levels by the end of the year. If a cold winter is ahead, both the heating oil and the natural gas industries stand to prosper.

* * *

The outlook for textiles is largely based on the feeling that recovery is overdue. A turn in the cycle is predicted today by W. Ray Bell, president of the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York.

More new homes will be built next year than this, Roy M. Mark, president of the United States Savings and Loan League, predicts. He thinks the number of new homes built in 1958 will top the million mark.

* * *

Farm machinery makers are looking for a better spring sales season in 1958. Their hopes are based on the ending of the drought in several sections of the nation and on continuing high farm income levels.

* * *

The Agriculture Department looks for a slight gain in per capita income for farm people. Part of this will be due to the trend toward a decining farm population and part to the trend to increasing income from non-farm sources. It looks for farm product prices to be about the same and output to be high, the weather man willing.

Calendar Misleads Him Into Buying Early Bird

ONEONTA, N.Y. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. William Casam bought turkey and trimmings a week early for Thanksgiving. Fortunately, they have a freezer to store them in.

* * *

Calsam, manager of a television cable conern, took his wife shopping last Saturday after he found the holiday listed on his office calendar as Nov. 21.

* * *

He ran into an argument when he phoned his daughter to make sure the family would come for dinner. Investigation of other calendars set him straight.

Calsam confirmed yesterday that the calendar manufacturer was responsible for the mistake.

Colorado Officials Get Proverbial 'Bird'

DENVER (INS) — An officer of the Colorado Bird Club said state officials "flubbed it up" when they portrayed the state bird—the lark bunting — on the back of official state pamphlets.

Club corresponding secretary Catherine A. Hurlbutt said she sent the drawing into the National Audubon Society for identification, and said she received in reply:

"About the best we (The National Audubon Society) can do is suggest that it may be intended to portray a grosbeak, or possibly some other member of the family of finches and sparrows."

Car Kills Detroit Man

DETROIT (AP) — Abraham Goroff, 70, of Detroit was fatally injured Wednesday when struck by an automobile. He recently came to Detroit from New York.

THE BERRYS By Carl Grubert

Moderate King in Turbulent Arab World

Former Moroccan Sultan to Visit U. S.

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — When King Mohammed V of Morocco—formerly sultan—begins his visit to the United States next week many Americans will get to know one of the most moderate leaders of the turbulent Arab world.

★ ★ ★

The 48-year-old ruler reached the peak of his popularity and power on a crest of a wave of fiery nationalism that swept away a 44-year French colonial regime in 1955. To 10 million Moroccans he is a hero who suffered two years of exile for his mildly expressed patriotic convictions.

But Sidi Mohammed ben Youssef is no rabble-rouser, no neurotic nationalist. Neither is he an extravagant playboy potentate surrounded by a harem and basking in glitter.

★ ★ ★

He has his share of material grandeur—10 big baroque palaces built by sultans before him in the last 1,000 years, a fleet of 35 American cars, a large personal fortune, a highly colorful personal bodyguard and two of the four wives Moslem law allows.

But behind this pomp is a devoted father of six, a devout religious leader who commands Moslem respect, a shy, modest statesman with a gift for subtle speech.

On unofficial trips to Europe he wears Western business suits. But when he arrives in Washington next Monday in a U. S. Air Force plane for the start of his 15-day official visit to the United States, he will be wearing the traditional floor-length jellaba gown of fine gabardine or worsted, felt tarboosh hat and belgha slippers of yellow or white sheepskin.

After a stay in Washington of about three days he plans a trip to Williamsburg and a tour that will take him to Dallas, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Omaha, Niagara Falls and New York, where he will address the U. N. General Assembly Dec. 9.

Although he holds supreme authority in theory, Mohammed V listens to everything his advisers say and takes great pains over the smallest details. Usually the King counsels moderation and negotiation.

Basically, Mohammed's problem is to convince hot-blooded and impatient nationalists, both in Morocco and elsewhere in the Arab world, that his policy of moderation and negotiation with the West will pay off.

One outstanding problem, the status of five U. S. military bases in Morocco, will be discussed by the King and President Eisenhower. The King also will ask more U. S. aid to remedy the economic slump that followed France's stoppage of aid.

Garbage Truck King in Jail

Accused of Extortion in Collection Industry Around New York City

MINEOLA, N. Y. (AP)—Garbage truck king Vincent Squillante was jailed today on an indictment charging extortion.

Squillante, self-styled godson of the murdered mobster Albert Anastasia, was held in a cell pending arraignment later in the day along with an indicted brother and an associate.

★ ★ ★

Squillante, 40, is accused of extortion and attempted extortion in the garbage collection industry in Nassau County, a Long Island commuting suburb of New York City.

Allegedly the racket boss of the 50 - million-dollar-a-year garbage and rubbish pickup business in the New York metropolitan area, he took the Fifth Amendment last Friday in Washington. He refused to answer questions before the Senate committee investigating rackets in the fields of labor and management.

★ ★ ★

The county grand jury,m eeting in an extraordinary night session, handed up indictments shortly before last midnight against Squillante, his brother Nunzio and Carmen De Cabia, president of the men's Assn., an employer group.

All three were charged with attempted extortion, and Vincent Squillante and De Cabia with extortion also, in connection with garbage carting contracts at Mitchel Air Force Base and its nearby barracks area.

★ ★ ★

The indictment charges that Angelo Recchia, who formerly had a contract to haul the Air Force base garbage, gave up the contract to the Squillane group and paid $3,900 to Vincent Squillante after being threatened with being forced out of business.

Immediately after the grand jury returned the indictments, County Judge Paul Widlitz issued bench warrants to police, who picked up the defendants at their homes.

1-14 — GREEKS GOOD

Greeks Good Teachers

LOS ANGELES (INS) — A university professor believes modern educators could take lessons from some of the real veterans of the teaching field—like Aristotle and Plato. Dr. Lawrence E. Vredevoe, of the University of California at Los Angeles, says the famous Greek philosophers advocated many progressive educational theories in use today.

Modern Touch in Rite

WALPI, Ariz. (AP)—Ancient rainmaking ceremonies of the Hopi Indians had a modern touch this year. While Hopi children staged their colorful butterfly dance, a group of Indians at a nearby hamburger stand were listening to a radio—and keeping a boxscore of a St. Louis-Brooklyn baseball game.

Nickel Steel in Keys

GARY, Ind. — Nickel steel, an alloy of nickel, copper, and zinc, is often used in making keys because of its strength and ability to resist corrosion and wear.

WAXY MARILYN — That's right — it's not really Marilyn Monroe — or any other person, for that matter, but a life-size wax replica of the famous actress at Madame Tussaud's wax works exhibition in London. Lab Technician Feeds Woman Deadly Poison

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A 46-year-old laboratory technician last night sobbed that she mistakenly fed a woman patient two ounces of deadly sodium cyanide thinking it was a solution for a diabetes test. The patient fell dead.

Mrs. Emily Nash said she administered the solution to Mrs. Margaret Van Alstine, 67.

Mrs. Van Alstine had called on Mrs. Nash's employer Dr. Joseph E. West Jr. Wednesday and returned for the tests at his direction.

Detective H. W. Rodgers said no charge would be filed but the case would be referred to a grand jury.

Rodgers said Mrs. Nash told him she prepared what she thought was a dextrose solution Wednesday with crystals from a bottle which she discarded in a waste basket. The bottle was recovered and found to be labeled sodium cyanide.

★ ★ ★

He said Mrs. Nash told him she took a blood sample from Mrs. Van Alstine and then poured two ounces of the solution into a glass for her to drink.

She quoted Mrs. Van Alstine as saying, "Oh, that tastes horrible." The patient then drank the rest of the solution and fell from her chair, Mrs. Nash told detectives.

"It dawned on me that I might have given her the wrong solution," she wept.

Dr. West arrived a few minutes later and administered an adrenalin injection. "But she was already dead," he said.

Mrs. Van Alstine made her summer home near Big Rapids, Mich., but spent the winters with relatives here. She was a widow.

Returns Hotel Towel

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A package arrived at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel from Joplin Mo., containing a big bath towel, with the hotel's name and the 1943 date it was put into service. A note along with it read simply: "I couldn't keep it any longer."

Urge Chemistry for Profession

Prominent Chemist Says Antibiotics Are Boon to Mankind

MILWAUKEE, Wisc. — Youngsters are being encouraged to consider medicinal chemistry as a career.

It is a field where one can make important and rewarding contributions to mankind, a prominent chemist here said recently.

★ ★ ★

He cited the antibiotics which have "practically eliminated the dangers of infection."

Dr. John Biel, chief of the chemistry division of Lakeside Laboratories Inc., here who has helped to develop several key medical preparations used by doctors, transmitted the message in a publication distributed to science clubs.

"A happy, productive society depends on the health and vitality of its men and women," he said. "New drugs produced at reasonable cost and in quantity are playing a major role."

★ ★ ★

He said research and development chemists in the pharmaceutical and other fields are making discoveries that "make life more livable — even extend it — create new jobs, and raise the standard of living."

Dr. Biel described three careers in chemistry open to young people; first, the man who creates a new product in the laboratory,. the. research chemist; second, the one who devises practical processes of making it, the developmental chemist; third, the man who finally produces it on a large scale, the production chemist.

He outlined the academic requirements and the potential starting salaries.

"Get a job during the summer or right after undergraduate work," Dr. Biel advised. "If you are disappointed in the real thing there is still time to go into other fields such as medicine, pharmacy, chemical sales, patent law, where your chemical background is of primary importance.

Dog Bribed by Bones

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—Cheyenne police suspect a thief used bones to break into a Cheyenne garage.

The front door of the garage was pried open and $78 taken from the cash register.

A usually reliable watch dog apparently had been bribed with the small pile of bones found in front of the door.

'Plug Leaks in Foreign Aid to Get Millions for Missiles'

By FRED SPARKS

NEW YORK (NEA)—To match Soviet science, President Eisenhower proposed a massive increase in defense spending. To finance the new master weapons, he said, domestic expenditures must be curbed.

Excellent! Surely we will overcome the Soviets and their unhappy captives; an alerted Detroit can outproduce and outgadget the world.

But the President barred cuts in economic and military aid. I fear his advisors lack the hard truths of American outlays abroad.

I've spent most post-war years overseas; I'm just back from a long global reporting swing. I've seen leaking dollars fatten foreign manipulators.

I've seen our civilian and military aid administrators living in Cadillac splendor on Federal expense accounts.

I wish the White House, now condensing non-scientific costs to the muscle, would dispatch a fresh fact finding mission abroad.

NOT THIS KIND

I don't mean a whitewash mission of do-gooders or Congressmen hunting souvenirs. That kind arrive in Ankara or London or Karachi at 10 a.m., are stuffed with a two-hour diplomatic lunch, a high tea, a cocktail party, a black tie dinner. Next morning they wing off, heavy with indigestion, light with information.

I mean a mission of businessmen familiar with particular foreign regions. Of correspondents who know Belgian or Japanese political shenanigans like City Hall reporters, know Tammany. Retired generals who know when a division commander — Chinese or Arabian—is featherbedding.

I believe such a mission would suggest cutting military aid 25 per cent, economic aid 50 per cent. Without pulling back a single soldier on guard against Soviet adventures. But by introducing efficiency.

If I belonged to such a mission I would take it to the "Uyneo PX"—the black market of Tokyo's Uyneo Station where bargain priced merchandise brought over for our troops at high taxpayer cost is peddled illegally.

TO MANILA

It would take it to our economic aid mission on Dewey boulevard, Manila, where recently directors told me the Philippines could live and prosper without one free American dollar—if integrity dominated.

I would take it to one country where we run a knitting school, to another where we underwrite modern art exhibits, to a third where we finance an elaborate survey of flower reproduction.

I would take it to Pusan and Inchon, South Korea, where yearly millions in aid shipments are stolen off the docks through careless—or corrupt—police practices.

I would take it to the apartment houses around Champs Elysees, where our officers and diplomats pay $200 and $250 monthly rent (in your money) because France fails to regulate those gouging the Yankee.

I would take it to Algeria's grim battlefields where U. S. planes and tanks given to France earmarked "for anti - Communist use only" are crushing down a strictly local rebellion.

I would take it to the bazaars of the Levant here American weapons—sold by or stolen from our allies — are offered in the back of sports stores whose display windows feature innocent hunting shotguns.

I would take it to Belgrade where Yugoslav fatcat favorites of the Red Dictator Tito make their social callings in gifted vehicles given them by the U. S. and fueled by American gasoline.

GRAFT AT BANGKOK

I would take it to Bangkok where Thai journalists would document stories of great fortunes made by grafting on U. S. aid and American penicillin sold from "free clinic" medicine chests.

I would take it to the homes of U. S. Navy, Army and Air Force brass in 20 countries where their children are driven to work by a drafted sailor from Kansas, their dinner served by a drafted soldier from Michigan, their wives' market baskets carried by a drafted airman from New Jersey.

I would take it to Kai Tak Airfield, Hong Kong, to watch U. S. military planes from other Oriental capitals land wives of our bureaucrats for shopping sprees.

The cross - section of shame itemized above does not intend to indicate blanket scandal. These are the soft, shabby spots. But they cost—you and you and you—millions.

Patriotic foreign friends, once they were convinced the money plates at our treasury are not in perpetual motion, would cooperate to eradicate waste. Freedom comes dear. Sputnik has propelled us into renewed action—it should propel them, if need be, into austerity.

I urge the President, seeking savings for science, to look beyond our coasts as well as within.

Soble's Spying Career Ends in Prison

Sees Object Lesson in Plight

(This is the final article of a series in which confessed Soviet spy Jack Soble has told the innermost secrets of an espionage ring in the U.S. of which he was a leader for 15 years. Today he tells what he learned, following his arrest, about the democratic way of life in the U.S.)

By JACK SOBLE
(Written with Jack Lotto)

The courtroom was quiet. My wife, Myra, trembled and held my hand tightly as we sat and listened to Federal Judge Richard H. Levet speaking solemnly:

"From an unfortunately mistaken allegiance or adherence to a fallacious regime," he read from a prepared pre-sentencing statement, "whether voluntary or compulsory, a transformation in loyalty rather than a mere reform in conduct is required.

"There is, I believe," he went on, "strong indication that whatever the reasons, remorse on the part of these defendants is evident and probably genuine in possibly varying degrees. . . .

"Accordingly, my disposition is as follows:

"The sentence of Myra Soble is four years.

"The defendant Jack Soble is sentenced to seven years."

SENTENCE WAS FREEDOM

His pronouncement in the New York Federal District Court at 4:20 p.m. Oct. 8, 1957, was not for us a sentence.

It was a new beginning on the road back to morality.

We had begun serving our sentence many, many long years before, when in my first frightening encounter I had said "yes" to the Soviet proposal to do their bidding in 1931.

If we had only acted wisely and courageously when we first came to this country in 1941 by turning to the FBI, we'd now be a happy and respected family.

Our position should be an object lesson to those who may find themselves in a similar position, who may be under some compulsion, as we were.

THANKS HIS HELPERS

It was a providential day for us when our relatives engaged the services of our counsel, George Wolf, a distinguished and respected trial lawyer. His courage in accepting our case when public indignation against us rode high, his ability and his broad human understanding sustained and encouraged us in our long months of despair, degradation and shame.

It was he, by his precepts and conduct, who revealed to us the true nature of the democratic form of government in this country, based as it is on respect for the dignity and rights of man.

We must pay tribute to the undeviating fair and humane treatment of us by Judge Levet, by Deputy Attorney General William Tompkins, by U.S. Attorney Paul Williams, by his former Chief Assistant Thomas B. Gilchrist Jr., and by the present chief assistant, Arthur Christy, by their assistants and by the special agents of the FBI.

Their attitude and treatment was not only a source of great wonder to us, but it too served to point out by contrast how utterly false and cruel is the system which is without consideration or pity for the individual.

REPEATS TESTIMONY

To the American people, I can only contritely reaffirm what I said in court before sentencing:

"I deeply regret my past and my crimes which I committed against the country which gave me refuge.

"I hope that by my full cooperation with the authorities, I will partially do good to this country.

"I had plenty of opportunities to straighten out my life when I came to this country, but I didn't do that.

"I beg you to believe me that I am telling you the full truth now when I talk to you.

"It is very hard for me, but I know what I did to this country which never did any wrong to me and which gave us refuge, which could have made us happy and respectable citizens."

Deluded by a false dogma, we turned our backs to faith in God and the good things of this life.

We now face long, lonely, bleak years of imprisonment.

Over and over again I ask myself: Is there hope for us in the future?

Myra's pale but radiant face mirrors her answer. She has regained faith in God and hope for the future.

Perhaps somewhere, somehow, there is hope for me too.

Solve Way to Scare Gulls From Runway

WASHINGTON (INS) — Airports along the Atlantic seacoast have discovered a way of keeping seagulls away from the flight area and yet stay within the law.

Planes, official publication of the Aircraft Industries Association, says it is illegal to shoot seagulls despite the fact that they are hazards at airports. They have been known to smash into windshields or be sucked into jet engines.

The solution is to have a jeep drive down the runway, playing a tape-recorded cry of frightened seagulls. It works every time.

Comrade Artists Get Party Line in East Germany

BERLIN (INS) — The artist in Communist East Germany is no longer just an artist, but "a comrade who paints."

Just in case the comrade intellectuals in the Soviet satellite have forgotten their party line, the Communist newspaper "Neues Deutchland" has laid it down anew.

★ ★ ★

"An individual person cannot produce anything useful or successful without watching" the party, says the newspaper.

This is because "the individual has only two eyes, the party has a thousand eyes.

"What matters," states the newspaper, "is how the individual feels and acts: not just as a writer, but as a comrade who writes, not as a painter, but as a comrade who paints."

"Neus Deutchland" said the statement on art was necessary because there is still "some confusion" among comrade artists about Western theories. "Bourgeois ideology is still strong."

The newspaper described Bourgeois ideology as creating "a place in the clouds where art, useless and 'clean,' exists only for itself."

Teacher for 42 Years Gets OK as Substitute

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Miss Kathleen M. Gibbs filled in yesterday as a substitute teacher at the new Park Ave. School.

One of third-grade pupils told her at close of day:

"Gosh, you'd make a good teacher. You ought to go into the business."

Miss Gibbs taught school for 42 years before she retired last June.

Biology Students New York Bound

By WILLIAM BANK

John M. Youngpeter, Pontiac Central High School biology teacher and advisor of the Biology Club, will escort seven students to New York City during Thanksgiving vacation on a tour - collection expedition.

Students included in the trip who will leave Tuesday are Fred Staley, Bruce Berg, Richard Bradshaw, Donald Mann, John Roush, Ken Shaw and Bruce Benter.

During their trip, the group plans to visit a new aquarium on Coney Island and collect marine specimens along the coasts of Long Island and New England. A thorough sightseeing tour of New York City will be completed Friday when the boys attend the Broadway production of "Little Abner."

★ ★ ★

Highlight of their biological trips will be a tour of the American Museum of Natural History and an afternoon with Miss Libby Human, foremost woman biologist and specialist in invertibrate zoology.

★ ★ ★

The Pontiac Central High School Girls Recreation Association is planning a "Volleyball Playday" December 5. Several area high schools will be invited to play volleyball preceding a dinner. They include Waterford Township, Bloomfield, Birmingham, Avondale and Utica high schools.

The club, sponsored by Joan C. Anderson, physical education instructor, is headed by the following officers: Claudia Wasik, president; Kiki Sekles, vice president and Edna Davis, secretary - treasurer.

The evening of January 11, from 9 to 12, has been set for the Junior A's Prom. The theme of this year's dance will be "Snow Silhouettes."

General prom chairmen are Linda Stoner and Howard Batten. Other committee chairmen include: Charity Lindsey, publicity and programs; Margaret Murphy, tickets; Karen Hickson, music; Carol Olson, decorations; Gary Christensen, post dance and Ellen Taylor, patrons.

ELECT OFFICERS

Recent officers elected to head the Quill and Scroll Society, an international honorary society for high school journalists, are Joyce Reynolds, president; Rhoda Goldberg, vice president and Ann Pirochta, executive secretary.

The January seniors have also elected class officers. They are Lynne Colwell, president; Richard Melkonian, vice president; Muriel Upton, secretary; and Eugenia Thompson, treasurer.

The debate squad will head for Saginaw Tuesday to continue their seasonal debate on the question of direct U. S. economic aid to individual counties and possible limitations.

Members of the "Circle Francais", the school's French club, have also elected their leaders for the coming year. They include: Ann Pirochta, president; Phyllis Peter, vice president; Darlyne Gould, secretary and Genevieve D'Argy, treasurer.

Sputnik Address

Four weeks and three days ago, our Russian forefathers sent forth from this continent a Sputnik, conceived in mechanism and dedicated to Mutniks throughout the world.

Now we are engaged in a great outer planetary war, testing whether that dog or any other dog can zoom around the world in 80 days.

We are met in a vast stratosphere of outer space. We come to dedicate a portion of that dog to all Plutos, Fidos and Rovers throughout the world. But, in a sense we cannot dedicate this noble dog who gave his noble life for this noble cause of everlasting Communism.

The world will always note and never remember what assassination took place. It is for all dogs living rather than dead to be devoted to the unfinished cause of communism which that poor dog has so advanced that all Sputniks and Mutniks shall never perish from the face of the earth.

Created by five eighth grade students at St. Hugo of The Hills School, Bloomfield Hills.

Junior Highs Report On Magazine Sales

Madison Science Students Collect, Dissect Frogs

The science classes at Madison Junior High School have been very busy during the past few weeks. Following a recent unit on frogs, Dennis Beach, science teacher, guided his classes in dissecting frogs which they had collected. Then they learned the functions of the different organs of the frog's body.

Beach also has a display of leaves and insects in the main corridor of Madison. These specimens were gathered by the students in his science classes.

Last Saturday was the beginning of homeroom basketball at Madison. Eighty-four students from the seventh, eighth and ninth grades appeared on the first day and received instructions in fundamentals of the game along with an explanation of new rules.

★ ★ ★

Madison's 18 teams are anxiously awaiting the games which begin tomorrow and continue until March 1, when the intra-school games are held in order to determine the city champions at each grade level.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

Miss Ruth Anne Sowle just arrived from Central Michigan College to practice teach at Madison until Christmas. Miss Sowle, who is working with Mrs. Patricia Clark, will teach speech and dramatics.

AT LINCOLN

Sixteen teams from all grades at Lincoln Junior High School will make up the intra-mural basketball round robin tournament tomorrow at the school.

Richard Hall, physical education instructor, and Tony Pizza, social studies teacher, are in charge of the annual event.

Carol Zeplin and Don Stockwell were the winning couple of the dance contest Wednesday at the Sock Hop. The dance was sponsored by Mrs. Jean Stolzman's seventh grade homeroom.

★ ★ ★

Prize money went to three rooms who turned in the most PTA memberships. Miss Marla Jackson's room won first place of $10. Mrs. Esther Mountain's room won the $5 prize for being second, and Mrs. Margaret Burrette's room won $3 for third place.

★ ★ ★

Students have put away their worndown pencils from writing $3,479 worth of magazine subscriptions in the 8-day campaign. Miss Lucille Alber's room averaged $11.10 per student and this won the top award of a luncheon and theater party. Mrs. Jean Stolzman's room won second place with an $8.04 average sale, and they were awarded a movie party. Needed school equipment will be purchased with the profits of the campaign.

Twenty-three of Mr. Cresse Barner's Archery Club are completing competition to find the winners. The club has three ratings called the Bums, the Experts, and the Sharpshooters. Ron Sabisch, Louie DeBolt, and Bruce Linebaugh hold the high honors. The club meets twice a week at the outdoor range.

National Book Week, which ends tomorrow, is being celebrated by many classes. Book exhibits, reports, discussions, and dramatic presentations are highlighting the prominent books. "Explore With Books" is the theme for the year. Hundreds of new books have been added to the library for reading pleasure of students and faculty.

AT WASHINGTON

Ten Washington Junior High School students who ranked as top salesmen in the recent magazine sales campaign have been announced by Roger Gunn, faculty manager of the contest.

★ ★ ★

Here are the names and awards listed in order of sales productivity: Karen Antiloch, $50; Fred Fink, clock-radio; Art Silverthorn, rifle. George Sarros, Colleen Springer, Dorothy Boardman, Ellen Bisgeir, Nancy Chapman, Ron Clingaman, and Karen Redding also won awards for their salesmenship.

"Wilbur's Wild Night" was the name of the recent one act comedy presented by eight members of Mrs. William Webb's eighth grade speech class.

★ ★ ★

Homeroom basketball teams have been formed. Tomorrow morning the teams will play their first weekly game under the direction of Don Kelly, physcial education teacher.

AT EASTERN

Top girl and boy salesmen in the recent magazine sales campaign at Eastern Junior High School were Lorrain Baril and Joe Miller. They were each awarded a radio.

Second place awards, a watch, went to Carol Rasmus and Roger McVicar while Geraldine Clark and Elliot Malloy each received a camera for capturing the third place spot.

This week's assembly at Eastern was sponsored by Mrs. Retha Miller's homeroom. They presented a comedy, "Mr. Housewife." Those in the case included Keith Snelling, Stephen Sheffer, Grace Rathbun, Sharon VanHorn, Linda McIlrath and Diane Furlong.

At the present time, Eastern students are participating in a vision testing program.

St. Mike Labmen Experiment— Open Windows

By MICHAEL BUCHANAN

This week many juniors and seniors at St. Michael High School have been testing their scientific skills and aptitudes.

During their experiments with chlorine the fumes have been so strong and heavy that ol' man wind was welcomed through the open windows.

The seniors received their class rings this week and have been proudly flashing them in front of the envious juniors.

The second issue of the Michaelite, the school paper, is also due this week. Staff members have been hurrying back and forth from the typing rooms with stencils, paper and correcting fluid.

Choir to Stage Operetta Tomorrow

Esther Bentley Receives Waterford DAR Award

By SANDY CLEMENCE

Senior Esther Bentley, 175 Hospital Rd., Waterford Township, is the winner of the DAR (Daughters of American Revolution) good citizenship award at Waterford Township High School. She will be sponsored in the state contest by the General Richardson Chapter of the DAR.

★ ★ ★

Chosen by the WTHS faculty, Esther won the contest for her outstanding qualities of dependability, service, leadership, and patriotism.

The WTHS choir's operetta, Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Mikado," was performed last night and the final presentation will be staged tomorrow night.

Members of the French club, sponsored by Edward B. Mott, have sent two Christmas gift packages to the Bonlarron family whom they are sponsoring in France. Heads of the committees working on this project were Sharon Kunse, Chris Hartman, Peggy Basore, and Donna Liles.

New officers were elected when the first meeting of the Co-op club was held recently. They are: Dave Anthony, president; Connie Lane, first vice-president; Ken Morgan, second vice - president; Ruth Bush, recording secretary; Janice Barnes, treasurer; Kay Walser, publicity chairman; and Chuck Akers, sergeant-at-arms.

★ ★ ★

Members of the G. A. A. Letter club and the Varsity Cheerleaders attended the University of Michigan - University of Indiana football game at Ann Arbor last weekend.

ELECT LIBRARY HEADS

The new officers of the Library club, which is sponsored by Avis Carey, are: Bonnie Johnson, president; Viva Jean Ryden, secretary; and Marilyn Bell, treasurer.

★ ★ ★

At the last meeting of the Future Teachers Club, president Diane Russell appointed permanent club committees. They are: Peggy Scruggs, Fran Spencer, Jean Leach, and Vivian Rusch, points committee; Fran Goff, Judy Boardman, Rose Jones, and Donna Walton, program committee; Sue Fawcett, Marilyn Lake, Bonnie Johnson, and Andie Allison, publicity committee; and Janet Palmitier, Karolyn Knisley, and Andie Allison, project committee.

Teachers' salaries account for about three-fourths of all public expenditures for education in the U.S., according to national schooling reports.

Teachers Challenge Students Tonight

Tonight the senior students and the faculty of Walled Lake High School will play against each other in pre-season basketball game. This is an annual event sponsored by the student council and is their main fund raising project each year.

Faculty members participating will be Dave Smith, Tom Evans, Leo Folsom, John Shadford, Niles Freeland, Kenneth Hathaway, Ronald Rentschler, Guy Culver, Bruce Trimmer and Joseph Malonis, according to junior Martha Thibideau, in charge of procuring contestants.

Student players will be Gary Anderson, Mike Anderson, Tom Dunne, George Brown, Jim Dickson, Bill Hosley, Dennis McClelland, John Muth, Bob Pipkin, Mike Smith, Larry Vandervelde, Dennis Van Sicklen, Don Yeargan, Pat Yesh, Tom Zucchet, and alternates Bob Herbert and Frank Sulla.

Committee chairmen for the affair are Linda Doyle, publicity; Kenneth Johnson, clean-up; Mary Thibideau, monitors; Ponny Morris, records; and Bill Havel, tickets.

The game will be followed by a dance from 8 to 11:30 p.m. Tickets to the game will allow spectators to attend the dance.

Ray "Elvis" Tillery, of Walled Lake, and his guitar will be featured at the dance.

AT LAKE ORION

Tonight, the Lake Orion Community High School Student Council will sponsor a Thanksgiving dance at the Lake Orion Youth Center beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The seniors got an idea as to their plans for a senior trip this week when they were shown slides of the 1957 senior class trip to New York City. A definite destination has not been decided yet for the trip this spring.

Lake Orion's undefeated football team was honored this week during an assembly. The team received the Oakland B Conference title and trophy for their eight win no loss record. Varsity letters, trophies and certificates were also awarded to the various members of the team.

AT WEST BLOOMFIELD

Girls who are students at West Bloomfield High School and want to become nurses will now have an opportunity to investigate the field. A Future Nurses Club is now being organized .

December 17 is the date of the annual Christmas Concert to be presented by the choral music department. More than 340 students under the direction of M. Asplin will combine their talents to present a concert which includes the Hallelujah Chorus, songs from South Pacific as well as many Christmas songs.

AT AVONDALE

Catherine Gorang, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gorang, 3843 Alida, Rochester, is the winner of the DAR (Daughters of American Revolution) Award at Avondale High School.

She was chosen for the senior girl award because of her citizenship, scholarship and popularity.

Catherine was crowned the 1957 Homecoming queen at Avondale this month. A member of Student Council her sophomore, junior and senior years, she is now vice president.

She is also in the senior play, "Melody Jones," to be given December 5.

1st Homecoming This Weekend

Dance, Bonfire, Game, Pep Rally Scheduled for St. Fred Celebration

By PATRICIA FOSTER

All the plans and anticipation of the past two weeks will reach a climax this weekend in the observance of St. Frederick High School's homecoming.

Spirits reached high pitch this afternoon at the pep rally and there will be even more excitement tonight at the homecoming dance when the queen will be announced.

The seven finalists who were chosen Wednesday include Becky Schutt, 211 Auburn Ave.; Lorri Haps, 2546 Lafay Dr., Sylvan Lake; Rosemary Pierce, 449 Shore View Dr.; Diane Polapoli, 279 S. Marshall St.; Peggy Robertson, of School St.; Connie Crozier, 300 Tilden St. and Sharon Talbot, 251 S. Marshall St.

The queen, her court, and all of the students will dance this evening to the music of the Collegiates, an eight piece band.

Tomorrow night a huge bonfire will be held in honor of the annual Shamrock-Ram clash! The celebrations will culminate Sunday afternoon at Wisner Stadium when the actual homecoming game will take place against St. Michael High School.

Student Council representatives met Tuesday to organize a general student council meeting to discuss the various aspects of school life.

Ex-U.S. Judge Dies in Detroit

Arthur A. Koscinski Named to Bench in '45 by Truman

DETROIT (AP) — Retired Federal Judge Arthur A. Koscinski died at Henry Ford Hospital last night.

The 70-year-old jurist had been hospitalized since Nov. 10 with what doctors described as a chronic heart condition.

★ ★ ★

Koscinski was appointed to the federal bench in 1945 by President Truman.

Born in Poland, he had been a leader in the city's Polish community and was active in Democratic politics prior to his appointment to the U.S. District Court here.

He was a graduate of the Detroit College of Law and the University of Michigan.

★ ★ ★

His wife, Blanche, formerly of Manistee, and his son, Arthur J., an assistant Wayne County prosecutor, were with him when he died.

Judge Koscinski also is survived by another son, Phillip, of Las Vegas, Nev., and a daughter, Mrs. Russel Rule of Toronto, Canada.

Service Scheduled for John W. Quade

LAPEER — Service for John W. Quade, 16, 3557 North Lapeer Rd., who died this morning at Lapeer County General Hospital, will be at 2:30 p.m. Sunday from Muir Brothers Funeral Home here. The Rev. Frank S. Hemingway and the Rev. R. S. Rains will officiate with burial in Stiles Cemetery.

The popular youth was president of the junior class at Lapeer High School and also served as president of the sophomore class last year. He was an outstanding student, according to Principal A. E. Seaton.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Quade; a brother, David; two sisters, Mrs. Velma Hodges of Lapeer, and Mrs. Gloria Jolly of Elba Township.

The Highway Ride of 1975 is Here!

This lasting-smooth concrete makes traveling easier on new Brighton-Farmington section of US-16

Michigan's New Concrete Thruways Insure Smoother, Safer Driving for years to come!

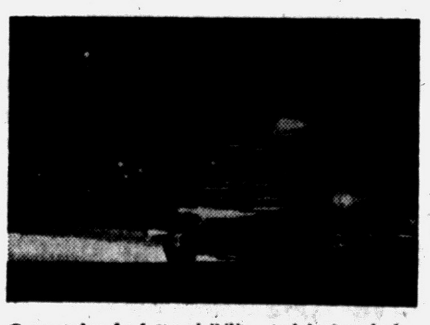

MICHIGAN MOTORISTS soon will be riding down more and more miles of fine new concrete expressways. Road builders are rapidly stretching dream highways of the future across the countryside for you to enjoy today.

Michigan's new concrete highways are being built to last 50 years—and more. This added durability plus lower maintenance expenses and moderate first cost spells economy in your tax dollars.

There's a real thrill awaiting you when you try these new, improved highways. The latest techniques in road-building give a lasting smoothness to these improved concrete expressways.

Concrete's lighter color provides up to four times better nighttime visibility . . . assures you a safer ride.

Smoother, safer concrete highways restore comfort to driving. And best of all, they'll be adequate to continue serving your children—and your grandchildren—long after they are old enough to drive.

Concrete has far better visibility at night than dark pavements. You can't be safe if you can't see.

Too-Possible Picture of Life Being Snuffed Out

'On The Beach' Success Puzzling

By WARD CANNEL
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (NEA) — Nevil Shute is still a little baffled: His latest novel, "On The Beach," has turned out to be a best-seller—despite the fact that it is a too-possible picture of how life on earth will be snuffed out by radiation pollution in the wake of atomic war.

PUBLISHERS WARY

"I thought it very likely that my publishers would ask to be excused from publishing it," he said in an airmail interview with NEA Service from his home in Australia. And if published, he thought, the book would have few readers.

At his publisher's office in New York, one editor said: "Of course we'd publish almost anything that Nevil Shute wrote. But we had to think twice about readership on this one."

"On The Beach," however, is pushing the 100,000-sales mark and will probably go higher.

BEAR A-DUST

Essentially, it is a story of the earth's southern hemisphere, given an extra year of life as wind currents slowly bear the deadly atomic dust south, forcing the last survivors of life—all life—into extinction.

"It became an attractive speculation," author Shute said. "What would ordinary people in my part of the world do with that year?"

As an author of 19 books, Shute left a successful career as an aviation engineer in England to write. Since 1951 he has lived in Australia with his wife and their two children where he runs a successful dairy farm.

★ ★ ★

"On The Beach," he explained, had been conceived and written in his usual way: First he gets interested in a subject and what kinds of people would be involved with it. With his list of characters and the "mess" they'd get into, it takes him about seven months of daily writing from 9:30 until noon to finish his story, and another two months to revise.

With "On The Beach" he had been afraid the story and its implications were too big for him. But the book became so compelling, he explained, that he decided he should write it.

Q. Does the great question the book poses still obsess him?

A. "This question no longer troubles me. I've done all I can about it. I doubt if I shall write about it again."

Q. Does he really believe mankind is headed for this kind of end?

A. "As I grow older (he is 58), I am more and more impressed with the ineptitude and the stupidity of statesmen. Eden, Macmillan, Eisenhower, Dulles, Nasser and all the Russians seem to me to be quite incompetent to handle the enormous power that modern technology has placed in their hands . . . It may be that modern problems make impossible demands on any human statesman, or it may be that modern democratic systems do not give us the right type of leader.

"However that may be, I do not think we can depend on their wisdom to avert a full scale nuclear war and so I think that the end which I have postulated in 'On The Beach' may quite well happen."

Candidate for Testing

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — An elderly motorist was stopped by Traffic Officer D. L. Weber for driving down the middle of a one-way street the wrong way.

Weber's report said he asked the man if he could read a "one-way" sign on the next corner and the man answered: "Sure, it says 'wait'." The officer recommended a new driver's license test.

ALTUS, Okla. (AP) — Ralph Fails and Gordon Stringer drove to Lugert Lake, rented a boat and cruised four miles to their favorite fishing spot.

When they stopped the boat, Fails suddenly made a horrible discovery—he had left his fishing tackle at home.

Oregon Farms Swept by Horde of Field Mice

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (AP) — An infestation of field mice is costing eastern Oregon farmers millions of dollars.

It apparently is worst in Kalamath county. The county agricultural agent, C. A. Henderson, estimates damage to potatoes, seed crops hay and pastures at 2½ million dollars.

The infestation extends into northern California and eastern into Idaho.

Henderson estimated there are up to 10,000 mice per acre on some of the 400,000 cultivated acres in Kalamath County.

Public health officials say so far the mice do not menace health. But officials are watching closely for any outbreak of disease among the mice.

★ ★ ★

Officials have not determined the reason for the sudden jump in the mouse population. Predators —owls, hawks and others — appear in normal numbers and are perhaps fatter than usual because of the happy hunting.

About 80 per cent of all of Canada's extensive coal reserves are believed located in Alberta province.

Black Widow Spider Is Useful

Web Strands Tougher Than Steel; Bites Only When Provoked

WASHINGTON — Gallant scientists are rushing to the defense of the black widow spider whose love life as long been considered a public scandal.

★ ★ ★

When a male black widow comes to see a female, he gains her attention by shaking the web she has spun. If she is interested, she shakes the web right back at him.

Gossips have whispered that she invariably eats her puny mate. But scientists who take note of spider intimacies report that she generally lets the little fellow escape unharmed. Except when she's very, very, hungry.

As a species, the black widow gets around. The National Geographic Society says it is found all over the Americas from Canada to Tierra del Fuego, and in all 48 states of the Union.

SPIDERS WORK FOR UNCLE SAM

The black widow is a retiring creature, who rarely ventures far from her web. She is so shy that she generally runs away or plays dead at the advance of a man. Virtuously, she helps housewives by killing flies. She has even worked for Uncle Sam.

★ ★ ★

The United States Army's Corps of Engineers "hired" 100 black widows several years ago to work at the General Depot in Columbus, Ohio. Strands of spider web are used for cross hairs in survey instruments, microscopes, and telescopic gunsights.

The strands are said to be tougher than steel, and so thin that it takes 5,000 to cover an inch of space. But the web is not as artistic as the symmetrical homes of garden spiders.

When an insect—frequently a fly—gets entangled in her web, the black widow ties her prey down with several lengths of webbing, and leisurely sucks out its life juices. After the meal, she cuts the supporting strands and lets the insect's body drop away.

Unfortunately for the widow's reputation, she sometimes bites people, generally when she is accidentally provoked. This trait as earned her a dreadful scientific name: Latrodectus Mactans (murderous biting robber).

Drop for drop, the black widow's venom is about 15 times more toxic than a prairie rattlesnake's, but snakes are more dangerous because they inject a much larger quantity of poison.

★ ★ ★

A black widow is easily identified. (The smaller males are harmless.) She is thumbnail-size with long, wiry legs. The underside of her shiny, black body has a yellow, orange, or red hourglass-shaped figure.

AND FURTHERMORE — Putting special emphasis behind his ideas is "Orator," a cat who helped its owner win $100 in an American magazine's photo contest. Cat and owner reside in Bombay, India. As can be seen here, "Orator" doesn't hesitate to shout his message from the rooftops.

Algerian Rebels Get Arab Plea

Tunisia, Morocco Chiefs Asking End to Conflict With France

RABAT, Morocco (AP)—Leaders of the Arab states flanking Algeria today addressed an urgent appeal to France and Algerian rebels to negotiate an end of their three-year conflict.

King Mohammed V of Morocco and President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia offered their good offices in peace negotiations.

★ ★ ★

There was no immediate reaction from French officials or from leaders of the Algerian National Liberation Front (NLF), the chief rebel group fighting for independence for France's North African province. Sources at the United Nations, where the Algerian rebellion is scheduled for debate next week, predicted that nothing would come of the appeal.

★ ★ ★

The appeal was made at the end of a two-day meeting between Mohammed and Bourguiba, who led their countries from French protectorates to independence last year.

France has refused to recognize any Algerian rebel claim to sovereignty. Frenchmen living in Algeria fear that their interests would not be safeguarded in an independent Arab state.

★ ★ ★

The French have insisted that the rebels agree to a cease-fire before negotiations on independence can begin. The NLF Executive Committee demands that France first recognize Algeria's right to independence.

The King and Bourguiba, who tacitly support the rebels while seeking not to give open offense to France, apparently hoped for American support of their offer.

Mohammed will fly to Washington next week for a 15-day state visit.

Philippine Reserves Drop to All-Time Low

MANILA (AP) — The Philippine Central Bank announced today that the nation's dollar reserves had dropped to the "dangerous" all-time low of $156,600,000 three days ago.

The bank's acting governor, Andres V. Castillo, attributed the drop to a slump in exports, and continuing requirements for funds to establish "new and essential industries."

Castillo said he felt sure the reserves would increase before the end of the year.

There are about 2,700 earth- only about 100 per year do major quakes per day in the world but damage.

Not Needed by State Governors

Few Serve in Legislature

EAST LANSING (INS) — Most state governors have not needed legislative experience to get elected to office in recent years.

Dr. Joseph A. Schlesinger, Michigan State University political scientist, said he studied political careers of all state governors from 1870 to 1950 and found the number of those who served in legislatures dropped from 65 per cent to 41 per cent during that period.

NOT BIG FACTOR

He stated legislative experience appears to be less of a factor in becoming governor in the West than in the East.

Schlesinger noted local officials such as mayors and councilmen have a slim chance to become governor, except in Idaho.

The political scientist said the tendency in Kentucky, Arkansas, Texas, Maryland, West Virginia, Tennessee and Missouri has been to pick the governor from law enforcement positions such as judges and state's attorneys.

★ ★ ★

He said a candidate who has never been elected to public office might find his chances better in Oregon where 30 per cent of the governors held no previous elected office.

The study indicated New England states tend to promote the lieutenant governor to the top post, but no single office is the stepping stone to the governorship in most western states.

Schlesinger said no lawyer was ever governor of Utah and Delaware in the last 80 years. However, he counted 456 practicing lawyers of the 995 men elected governors in the period covered by the study.

★ ★ ★

Lawyer-governors were heavily concentrated in the South and border states, but enjoyed no predominance in New England and the Western states.

When John Quincy Adams ran for president for the first time in 1820, he received only one electoral vote. Monroe had a total of 231.

MBS to Broadcast Live Ike's Speech in Paris

NEW YORK (AP) — The Mutual Broadcasting System will broadcast live on radio President Eisenhower's Dec. 16 speech at the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Conference in Paris.

The network said NATO had given permission to set up a special cricuit for the broadcast to this country. The exact time of the President's speech will be announced later.

Station Wagon Rise Hurts Textile Makers

NEW YORK — A predicted 40 per cent increase in production of station wagons in the 1958-model year is bad news for the textile world.

That's because station wagons use very little interior fabrics, and the automotive world is a big textile user.

Bob Considine Says:

Gen. Amer Tells How Egypt Won at Suez

MOSCOW (INS)—New light on how Egypt defeated Israeli-Anglo-French forces during last year's Suez disorders was shed here by Colonel Nasser's war minister, Gen. Abdel Hakim Amer.

Responding to Premier Bulganin's remarks at a splendid Kremlin farewell reception for the Egyptian mission, General Amer said the Soviet Union was Egypt's only friend in its hour of need. Before leaving Moscow Amer told a correspondent of the Moscow News: "It is said that friends in need are friends indeed. The Soviet Union has proved to be such a friend at the hour of her direst need.

"The entire Egyptian nation rose in a body to fight against colonialism which attempted to transform our homeland into a military base against your people, to destroy our sovereignty and subject our country to selfish interests. At that moment the Soviet Union supported the right cause for which our country was fighting and the Egyptian people were victorious."

The United States was among 61 nations which sent delegations, official and otherwise, to the now-ending ceremonies commemorating the 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

Our loose-knit five-man group is composed of Benny Bufano, San Francisco sculptor; Professor Goodwin Watson of Columbia; Royal W. France, New York attorney; Paul M. Sweezy, editor of the Socialist "Monthly Review," and Mitchell Wilson, Popular Science writer, who now rates with Hemingway and Steinbeck in Russian reading circles.

Bufano, Watson and Sweezy were quoted in the Soviet press today and their tone ranged from critical to placating.

Bufano said Russian sculptors he has watched tend to "work too much on the details," strive for superficial likenesses and neglect to "penetrate as deeply as possible into the inner life of the subject."

Professor Watson, who has made six trips here, is a psychologist. "There is no need for secrecy in our field," he told the Moscow press. "I visited your Institute of Psychology and spoke to Mister Smirnov, the director.

"I believe that along with important achievements in the study of psychology in Russia there is a somewhat narrow approach to its problems, which is based exclusively on physiology. Collective psychology is neglected, though the latter is the basis for your fantastic progress."

Sweezy praised Moscow's building program "though I think you neglect the aesthetic side" of architecture. All urged greater exchange of thoughts and personnel or, as one put it, "let us compete in arts rather than in arms."

Western dog lovers who mourned for Laika, the first space creature who now has traveled more than 6 million miles around the world, get the back of E. S. Vishnevzsky's hand in Pravda.

"The soft hearted ladies and gentlemen shed oceans of tears over Laika but for some reason forget about humanism. We did not hear their protests when American atomic bombs turned Hiroshima and Nagasaki into cemeteries.

"They did not demand that the butchers of Port Said be outlawed. They did not notice the barbaric crimes of colonialists in Kenya, hear the groans of wounded women and children in Oman and Yemen, and they do not even think of sending a message to the United Nations protesting against bloody repressions in Cyprus."

U. S. to Receive Superweapons

NATO Arms Fantastic

PARIS (INS) — European partners in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization have developed a series of superweapons verging on the fantastic.

A new addition to the U.S. ground forces armament, for instance, soon will be a short-range guided missile developed in France "to make the tank obsolete."

TO BUY MISSILES

The U.S. government is negotiating with France to buy 1,000 of the SS105 missiles for about $1.5 million.

One northern country has perfected an anti-submarine weapon which is fired under water, takes to the air, seeks out a submerged target and destroys it.

The nature of the allied weapons development programs was disclosed to demonstrate that the scientific exchange that NATO desires will not be a one-way street, with the United States providing all the knowledge.

FAR AHEAD

The French have at least three electronic weapons far ahead of anything developed in the United States.

Aside from the anti-tank missiles the French have in production or nearing production lines wire-guided anti-personnel missiles and a battlefield "seeing eye," with a remarkable capability.

According to Americans who have seen the seeing eye tested, it can spot a soldier on a battlefield nine miles away through a fog or any other kind of weather disturbance. Perhaps even more remarkable the seeing eye can pick out a tank at 15 miles, which is beyond the horizon.

★ ★ ★

Another northern members of the alliance has developed equipment to guide ships through mine fields. This is of prime importance to the alliance which would have to depend heavily on the sea lanes in any way with the great land-based Soviet empire.

There still are other age-of-fantasy weapons being developed by NATO partners but which still are too secret to reveal.

The French wire-guided anti-tank missile, for instance, is so simple it was demonstrated by French soldiers who never saw it before they had to fire it.

★ ★ ★

The missile is a shaped charge with wings. It is guided by an old-fashioned "joy stick" arrangement which gives the soldier complete control of its flight. The French mastered the tricky problem of perfecting the uncoiling wire technique.

French soldiers were picked at random for the demonstration to prove that the weapon did not need trained specialists.

During the demonstration the soldiers fired the missile at a five-degree angle from the target and curved it in mid-flight to prove it can go around corners.

★ ★ ★

In the demonstration a large number of tanks was moved over a hill by radio control. Within minutes more than three-fourths of the tanks were destroyed.

The underwater submarine missile with wings is of prime importance for allied navies facing the Soviet Union's estimated 500 submarines.

The French anti-tank missiles were designed primarily as ground-to-ground weapons with a two-mile range but also can be fired from helicopters.

Girl Insists Her Pet Really Pedigreed Mutt

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — When the Madison playground held its annual pet show there were two divisions for dogs — those with pedigrees and those without.

But 10-year-old Gail Hatala tugged an obvious mongrel into the line of purebreds and a judge asked her what breed she considered her entry.

"It's a pedigreed mutt," she replied.

A division for pedigreed mutts was created on the spot and Gail went home happy with first prize.

Men Becoming Secretaries

Big American Firms Actively Searching for Male Typists

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Learning typing and shorthand may prove an "Open Sesame" to success for the many young men who refuse to start a career as office boy or mailroom clerk.

★ ★ ★

This new shortcut has occurred, says an article in a national magazine, because every major American business today is actively looking for good, fast, efficient, bright male secretaries.

TAKE ORDERS

Men are in demand for this predominately female field, states the magazine, because a man reputedly take orders more easily than a woman and gets things done faster. Also, they are not as inclined to boss their bosses—and adjust more easily to crazy working hours and high pressure.

In addition, many wives won't let their husbands have attractive secretaries, and a lot of top executives just plain "like to cuss."

At the same time, there are lots of less obvious things wrong with female secretaries. A department-store president is quoted as putting it this way: "We hire temporary male secretaries for our buyers whenever they visit the wholesale markets in New York. What my buyers do after working hours is their own business. But I don't want them fooling around on my time — especially when I'd be placed in a position of paying salaries for both parties."

★ ★ ★

Also, many executives feel that when a female secretary gives a visitor the brush off, the man knows he's being brushed, but when a male does it, he takes it as a compliment, or almost so, and leaves happily.

A nationwide study was recently made which found that women just don't measure up to men in secretarial work—the girls have less stamina, less interest in advancement, little desire for responsibility—and a penchant for absenteeism.

Current events too, bear out the importance of men becoming skilled at typing and shorthand. At least one former male secretary now controls a nation. He is Fulgencio Batista, who after completing a correspondence course in Gregg shorthand rose from private in the Cuban Army to chief stenographer. This job then enabled him to become a colonel at the age of thirty-one and subsequently, head of the whole country.

FOUND IN LABOR

Labor, also, has drawn some of its captains from secretarial ranks. Young Dave McDonald was working as an office clerk for Wheeling Steel when he wrangled an interview for a job with Phillip Murray then vice-president of the United Mine Workers of America. McDonald rushed home, hauled out his old shorthand books, and "studied like hell." He got the job and in 1952, when Murray died, McDonald was chosen as head of the steelworkers.

Some other ex-male secretaries are: Fiorella La Guardia, one time Mayor of New York; Grover "the Greeter" Whalen, Vincent Bendiz, aviation tycoon and Frank A. Vanderlip the banker.

Four current vice-presidents of the New York Stock Exchange too, started out by taking dictation and typing.

★ ★ ★

The article quotes John A. Leslie, trainer of shorthand champions, as declaring, "Any young man can learn shorthand at speeds up to 100 words per minute. You don't have to be bright; all it takes is a little practice." Leslie proves his point by citing the fact that almost every shorthand champion has been a man.

Turks Show Kindness Amid Hardships, Shortages

Howard Handleman roams Europe, where he is chief correspondent for International News Service. He has been reporting from abroad for more than 15 years.

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN

CROSSING TURKEY BY TRAIN (INS) —We just threw two loaves of bread out the train window.

We bought them in desperation from a dirty-handed urchin at the last station, Tercan.

We were desperate because after boarding the train at Erzurdum for the thirty hour run to Ankara we were told there was no diner this trip. Neither were there sandwiches or fruit or cheese or bread or even the ever-present tea of Turkey.

It seemed the porter smiled evilly when he gave this information, but that may not have been true. The prospect of thirty hours without food made almost everything seem evil.

★ ★ ★

Five hours out we came to Tercan. Boys and girls, barefoot, ragged and dirty, charged the train with their wares.

Most hugged big loaves of bread, uncovered, against their soiled shirts and jackets.

The little ones offered drinking water drawn from the pump beside the station. They carried the water in open pails, in teakettles, in earthenware urns, in GI fruit juice cans.

USE CRACKED CUPS

Cups of tin or cracked enamel were the most common vessels offered for drinking, but there also were a few glass tumblers and old jelly jars.

★ ★ ★

The biggest boy of all was affluent. He had a large tray made of boxwood. On it he carried round loaves of white bread and a small box of eggs which presumably were hardboiled.

The presumption is necessary because somebody bought out the whole stock of eggs before the boy reached the window from which two very hungry American newsmen were leaning.

It looked like an equally hungry Turkish Army Major who got the eggs, the most edible things offered by the kids at Tercan.

We settled for two loaves of bread.

★ ★ ★

Back in the compartment the sour odor of the bread was pretty strong. The smell of the bread led to thoughts of just how dirty were the hands that had passed them up to us through the window.

A quick decision was made. The hunger pangs had lost much of their ache. The desperation dissipated.

But as an insurance against a revived desperation that might warp sound judgment, we threw the loaves out the window.

And as hope lives eternal, we consoled ourselves with the rather thin prospect that the bread at the next stop might not smell so strongly.

★ ★ ★

There were still 25 hours to go and Turkey looked like a mighty unpleasant place.

But, as happens so often in Turkey, all this feeling was wiped out in a stroke. A kind lady in the next compartment sent in a whole box of nuts, on which we feasted.

This was the nice side of Turkey. For the Turks, many so poor their children have to try to peddle cups of water to travellers, are among the most hospitable and thoughtful in the world.

KINDNESS IN KARS

There was the morning when everything went wrong in the little town of Kars near the Soviet frontier. There had been no breakfast. Our taxi was broken down in a garage. We stood on a sidewalk impatiently while the cab was being fixed.

Suddenly from behind us a man came with two chairs. He put them on the sidewalk and in sign language urged us to sit down.

He was from a tea house we hadn't noticed. We asked for tea, which the Turks serve in half-size glass tumblers with lump sugar on the side.

The man brought us two rounds. It was breakfast for us, and at the time felt like a good breakfast.

★ ★ ★

When time came to go we offered money. The tea house keeper refused it in the most effective sign language possible. He just reached out and closed the hand that held the money, closed it on top of the money.

★ ★ ★

It is possible to be exasperated by having to share the hardships and shortages these people endure, but it is difficult not to sympathize with and like the Turks.

Grim Raven Really Funny

Dark Bird of Folklore Revealed to be Clever, Tender, Long-Lived

WASHINGTON — The ghostly, grim and ancient raven that croaks through folklore and poetry is really a wise old bird, tender with its mate, and endowed with a sense of humor.

The first bird mentioned in the Bible, the raven occupies an honored place in mythology from classic Greece to the contemporary Bororos tribe of Brazil. It has been given roles as diverse as the tattletale of the gods and the soul of man.

★ ★ ★

The raven is distributed throughout the Northern Hemisphere, the National Geographic Society says. In America, it ranges chiefly through the North and West, and in the mountains of the Eastern Seaboard. It has been seen in the Bronx, New York.

Nearly twice as big as its common relative, the crow, the raven is similar in build and has glossy black feathers.

EATS ANYTHING

Going its sagacious way, it eats almost anything it can find or catch, animal or vegetable. It carefully stays out of shotgun range. Individuals have lived more than 50 years.

In places where it is valued as a scavenger and not molested, such as Indian villages of the Far North, the raven becomes rather tame. The same individual, however, resumes its wary ways in the woods.

As it goes about its daily life, the raven carries itself sedately, flying strongly or walking in a dignified manner. In the spring, however, it gambols.

MATE FOR LIFE

Ravens mate for life, but renew their courtship each year. Just before nesting, the couple soars high in the air, wing tips touching, as though holding hands.

Then the birds dive, tumble, twist, throw themselves into somersaults, roll over sideways, and generally romp through the air. At this time, the hoarse croak believed by the ancients to forbode evil softens into a harmonious series of cooing gurgles.

Ravens' bulky nests, often used year after year, are set in the tops of heavily leafed trees, or on inaccessible rock ledges. Although gregarious at some seasons, couples set up housekeeping far away from others.

The high good humor of nesting time occasionally lingers on. The black-robed birds have been known to play games with mountain climbers, swooping down as though to attack, then veering off. They sometimes bedevil other birds in the same way. When this sport palls they may chase one another through the air and pass back and forth some small object.

Expert Explores Easy Language for Mathematics

CHICAGO (INS) — If mathematics confuses you, cheer up. It may not be your fault.

"The language of mathematics, from algebra on, is in need of a thorough clarification," says Dr. Karl Menger, professor of mathematics at Illinois Institue of Technology.

★ ★ ★

"It's presentation to beginners must be changed," he adds, "if the expected large numbers of students are to learn the basic mathematical ideas."

For example, what does the symbol "x" mean?

"There are a dozen different answers," Dr. Menger says. "And since that letter occurs on practically every page in every mathematical text, there is confusion all the way up and down the line."

★ ★ ★

Menger is working on a new method of teaching math, aided by a $36,000 grant from the Carnegie Corporation of New York.

He proposes to develop clear rules for all symbolso — the "grammar" of the mathematical language.

Menger says recent surveys show that only 13 per cent of high school students go beyond the most elementray phases of mathematics. This figure, he observes, is making itself felt in the shortage of engineers, scientists and other technical personnel.

Peaceful Power Seizure Possible, Reds Claim

LONDON (AP)—The world's Communist leaders—minus Yugoslavia—claim that the Reds can use "popular fronts" to seize power peacefully in "a number of capitalist countries."

★ ★ ★

The assertion, made in a communique on the Red summit talks in Moscow last week, did not name the countries.

The communique also called for more conferences "as the need arises . . . of Communist and workers parties" to coordinate action.

The text of the communique, broadcast first last night by Peiping radio, filled a full newspaper page. It generally repeated the usual Soviet propaganda line — Western capitalism has had it and communism, the savior of the world, will win in the end.

The communique said: "Today in a number of capitalist countries the working class headed by its vanguard (the Communist party) has the opportunity, given a fronts" of middle and leftist parties in opposition to Fascists as a road to Red power. After Russia crushed the Hungarian uprising last fall, Western Socialist willingness to cooperate waned, but Soviet prestige based on launching of earth satellites has recenty renewed the attraction in some countries.

united working class and popular front or other workable forms of agreement and political cooperation between the different parties and public organizations, to unite a majority of the people, to win state power without civil war.

". . . . The working class can defeat the reactionary, anti-popular forces, secure a firm majority in parliament, and transform parliament from an instrument serving the class interests of the bourgeoisie into an instrument serving the working people. . . . All this will be possible only by broad and ceaseless development of the class struggle of the workers, peasant masses and the urban middle strata against big monopoly capital. . . ." the Red leaders said.

Inclusion of "the urban middle strata" apparently meant the Reds are bidding for support of people they have previously condemned as small capitalists.

During the 1930s the Communists sought to create "popular

Norway's Ambassador to Retire at End of Year

OSLO (AP) — King Olav V today approved the retirement at the end of the year of Wilhelm Munthe de Morgenstierne, Norway's ambassador to the United States and the dean of the Washington diplomatic corps.

Morgenstierne was 70 on Nov. 4. The King made his retirement effective Nov. 30 but asked him to stay on the job until the end of the year.

Paul Gruda Koth, 44-year-old acting ambassador to Denmark, is slated to take over the Washington post.

Leaves Pearl Harbor With Memory, $200

HONOLULU (AP) — A sailor aboard the transport Renville has his wallet and $200 back, but he hasn't any idea who his pretty benefactor was.

The sailor, George Jacobs, lost his wallet in the sand at Waikiki. It contained $400.

★ ★ ★

A young blonde woman, out for an earl dip, found it at 7 a.m. She called Pearl Harbor and was told the Renville was leaving at 8:30 a.m. The woman rushed to the Harbor, and arived as the ship was casting off lines.

Jacobs lowered a bucket on a line and she dropped the wallet in.

The ship sailed away and the woman drove away.

The litchi nuts, a tasty item on Chinese restaurant menus, is now being grown commercially in Florida. Previously the nuts had to be imported.

ROARING DESTRUCTION — With violent winds helping to propel them, flames overrun a timber area in southern California, racing along a ridge in the Crystal Lake area, 50 miles northeast of Los Angeles. By early morning the monstrous forest fire, still raging along out of control, had scorched nearly 20,000 acres of timberland.

Two Teens Injured in Waterford Crash

Two teenagers were slightly injured in a two-car accident on Telegraph road at Lakeview drive in Waterford Township last night.

Lynn H. Hull, 26, of Beechgrove, Ind., told police that he was traveling south on Telegraph when a car driven by Bonnie Proper, 19, of 20 Crescent Lake Rd., pulled off a side street in front of him.

Both Miss Proper and her companion Shirley Baur, 18, of 1159 N. Cass Lake Rd., were treated at Pontiac General Hospital and released.

2 Newsmen to Tour Missile Test Center

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Air Force has decided to permit a radio man and a public relations man to be included in a group that will tour the missile test center at Cape Canaveral.

★ ★ ★

But the Air Force requires that they be listed as "businessman and civic leader" and "member of the Chamber of Commerce" rather than occupations which identify them with their work in communications, Secretary Lou Marsh of the Chamber of Commerce reported last night.

The original ban on letting them make the tour drew fire from the Daytona Beach News — Journal and V. M. Newton JKr., managing editor of the Tampa Tribune.

Newton, who is chairman of the freedom of information committee of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraaternity, said the ban "not only is asinine and comic discrimination but it perfectly illustrates the blueprint of secrecy which the Pentagon has imposed on the free flow of information insofar as the free American press is concerned."

Halt Sewer Project in Waterford Township

Construction on the Sylvan Shores subdivision sewer installation in Waterford Township was suspended yesterday, because of a misunderstanding over the location and installation of a pumping station.

★ ★ ★

A solution to the mixup is expected with the return of Felix Anderson, who handled the original agreement, a spokesman for the engineering firm of Johnson & Anderson said today.

Lapeer School Seeks $1,600,000 for 440-Bed Nursery

State Hospital Requests $1,200,000

Pontiac State Hospital and Lapeer State Home and Training School were among the 11 mental institutions for which the State Mental Health Department asked $19,700,000 for capital outlay yesterday in the fiscal year starting July 1.

The budget request will be reviewed by Governor Williams. The final decision is up to the 1958 legislature. Last spring, the lawmakers alloted $2,750,000 for the mental health capital outlay in 1957-58.

The mental health department has requested $1,200,000 for service facilities for the Pontiac State Hospital.

Gerald A. Bax, business executive of the hospital, said today that a major part of this money, $800,000 if allocated, would be used to build a service building.

The building, estimated to cost a total of $1,700,000 when eventually completed, would be used to store supplies, and provide maintenance shops for the employes who keep up the hospital.

Bax said the present maintenance buildings, one built in 1878 and the other, 1885, were very inadequate.

The remainder of the $1,200,000 would be used for planning for a new administration building; the erection of four residences for doctors; building bleachers in the patients' recreation yard and repairing and remodeling of the present building.

The needed repairs include new toilets and baths, resurfacing wood floors, re-roofing and the completion of a street and grounds lighting project, according to Bax.

Charles Pearson, business executive of the Lapeer State Home and Training School reports the $1,600,000 requested for this institution is needed to erect a nursery building containing 440 beds.

This single floor building with wards of 40 beds each would be used for retarded children from babies to school age, according to Pearson.

★ ★ ★

Charles F. Wagg, director of the state mental health department, said the mentally retarded waiting list for admission to institutions was 874 as of November 1 and was rising.

Flames Take 4 Lives in Inkster Home

INKSTER (AP) — Four persons lost their lives early today as fire raced through a one story house here.

The victims were Mrs. Glorence Beddell, her son and daughter and Mrs. Beddell's brother-in-law. Names and ages of the latter three were not available immediately.

Mrs. Beddell's husband, Donnie Lee Beddell, escaped from the flaming house. He was taken to Wayne County General Hospital for treatment of multiple burns.

Cause of the fire was not determined immediately.

Buffalo, Erie Area Tastes Wet Winter

BUFFALO (AP) — Western New York continued to taste winter weather today.

Wet snow yesterday and during the night piled up in depths ranging from 5 to 8 inches, snarling traffic and causing power failures in some communities.

The storm ranged from the northern edge of Erie County to the Pennsylvania state line but was confined to the area within 25 miles of Lake Erie.

Hardest hit was central Erie County. Depths of 18 inches fell on the Buffalo suburban area between Hamburg and east Aurora.

The storm largely by-passed Buffalo itself although a thunderstorm snapped incongruously over the urban area late in the night.

New School Plans Studied at Waterford

Four different school site development plans for the new Thomas M. Cooley Elementary School in Waterford Township were presented by the architects at last night's Board of Education meeting.

The school will be located on the north side of Watkins Lake. Construction will begin sometime this winter and the building will be ready next fall, according to Supt. William Shunck.

Pupils in the Drayton Woods area, a portion of the Covert School area, and part of the Monteith area will be served by the new school.

Two new teachers were awarded contracts. Glen Jacobs will teach the fourth grade at Four Towns Elementary School and Mrs. Virginia Wester will teach the first grade at Waterford Center Elementary School.

The board also accepted a recommendation from Shunck for a township-wide kindergarten teachers workshop to be held Nov. 25. There are 20 kindergarten teachers in the Waterford school system.

5 in Pittsburgh Receive Yule 'Bargains' Early

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Five persons here got their Christmas bargains early, Police Lt. Carl Jackson reported. He said John Benford, 39, buttonholed customers in the street and sold $69.75 men's suits for $35.

★ ★ ★

Jackson booked Benford on a larcency charge, confiscating the five "bargains" still remaining. The lieutenant said earlier in the day 10 men's suits had been taken from a downtown clothing store.

LANSING (INS) — The Michigan Conservation Department recently hired a new forest fire lookout named Forrest A. Burns.

Abducted Boy's Mother Gives Birth to Son

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Beatrice Weinberger, whose infant son Peter was kidnaped and left to die on a Long Island roadside July 4, 1956, gave birth yesterday to a son in Long Island Jewish Hospital.

A hospital spokesman said the child and its 32-year-old mother "are doing very fine."

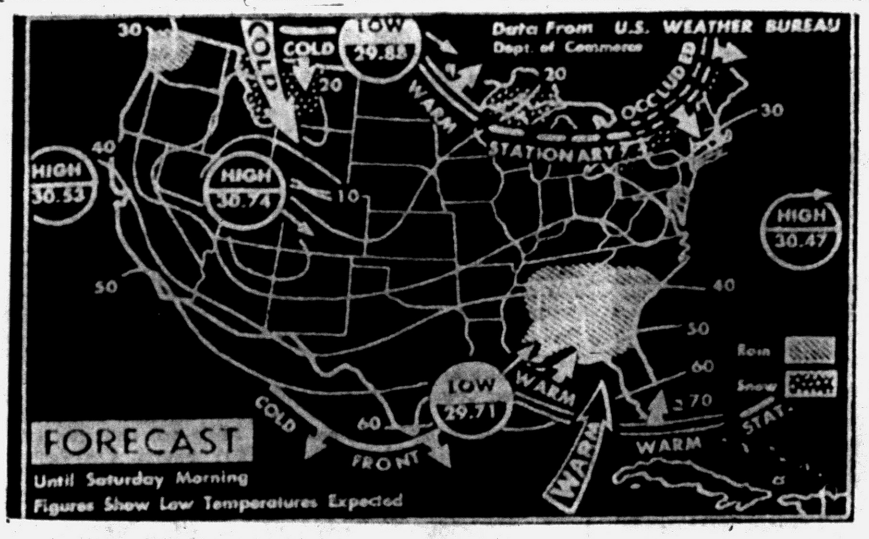

The Westbury, N.Y., housewife and her husband Morris have another boy, Lewis, 4.

'Too Busy' With 2 Jobs

COVENTRY, England (AP) — Post-woman Joan Feeney explained in court she had 270 undelivered letters in her home because looking after her three children during duty hours delayed her in her rounds. Mrs. Feeney, 35, was fined 5 pounds ($14) yesterday for wilfully delaying the mails.

Liz to Visit Juliana

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II will pay a state visit next March to Europe's only other reigning queen, Queen Juliana of the Netherlands.

AP Facsimile Map

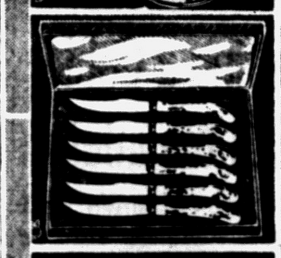

WEATHER OUTLOOK — Continuing cold is the forecast for the Great Lakes region and Ohio Valley, with a warmer trend to the west expected to affect the Northern Plains and Northern Rockies. Snow is on tap for the Northern Appalachians and parts of the upper Great Lakes, while the Tennessee Valley, the Carolinas, Eastern Gulf coast and the Washington coast are likely to have rain.

Commerce Methodist Raising Money

Will Serve Sideboard Supper

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP — An Early American Sideboard Supper will be held between 5:30 and 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the dining room of the new Commerce Methodist church in an effort to raise money for school equipment.

★ ★ ★

The event is being staged by the church Sunday School staff.

★ ★ ★

A special invitation has been extended to families having children in the church school, and to all persons in the Commerce area.

No admission price will be asked; the supper is being served on a goodwill, free offering basis.

The meal will resemble a smorgasbord with turkey, ham and meat loaf as the main dishes.

★ ★ ★

In charge of arrangements is Mrs. Mike Kinport, school superintendent, and three departmental superintendents: Mrs. Russell Thompson, Mrs. Leonard Griffin and Mrs. Milton Hogg.

★ ★ ★

After the supper, Rev. and Mrs. Jack Stowell, who recently returned from the Philippine Islands, will show movie slides of their missionary work.

★ ★ ★

Persons attending the supper are invited to inspect the new church library which is now open. Mrs. Harry Colestock is the librarian.

SIDEBOARD SUPPER — An Early American Sideboard Supper will be held in the new Commerce Methodist Church Saturday. The meal will be served between 5:30 and 7:30 p. m. and proceeds of the event will buy new Sunday School equipment. Above, Mrs. Mike Kinport, left, and Mrs. George Lawton make preparations for the event.

Farmers' Period of Decision Set

They Have Jan. 13 to March 7 to Sign Soil Bank Agreements

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculturre Department has set Jan. 13 to March 7 as a period when farmers will be given a chance to sign agreements to retire a part of their land from surplus crops next year under the soil bank program.

★ ★ ★

At the same time it cut acreage goals for the short-term acreage reserve part of the program, and increased those of the longer conservation reserve.

The agency has 825 million dollars available for payments to farmers who take land out of use compared with 723 million obligated this year.

Payments will be offered at slightly higher rates next year than this for land retired from cotton, wheat, corn, rice and tobacco. The increased are designed to compensate farmers for the increasing acre yields which these crops are showing on land where they are produced.

The 1958 rates compared with th year, respectively, for the various crops included: wheat $20.88 and $20.04; Upland cotton $59.95 and $54.15; corn $44.46 and 42.66; and rice 67.79 and $63.18. Tobacco rates will be unchanged at figures ranging from 125.60 to $345.42, depending on grade.

The department said it hopes farmers will retire at least 30 million acres compared with 26,800,000 this year.

"Widespread participation in the program will be needed," the department said, "to check the build-up of new surpluses."

★ ★ ★

Farmers who took part in the 1957 acreage reserve part of the program will be paid a 10 per cent premium above the 1958 payment rates for their farms if they put the identical land in the 1958 program.

CECIL MYERS

Local Teachers on Science Rally

First Anniversary Dec. 4 Will Be Celebrated at Meeting in Rochester

The Oakland County Science Teachers Assn. will celebrate its first anniversary when it meets Dec. 4 at the Rochester High School. Organized last year, the group seeks to promote a wider acquaintanceship between science teachers and to provide the opportunity for them to observe the others' lab facilities.

★ ★ ★

Featuring the meeting will be a demonstration of an industry kit used in schoolroom demonstrations. Dr. R. C. Gibson of the Parker Rust Proof Co. will exhibit a kit showing phosphate coating of metal surfaces for industrial use. Other kits also will be on display and explained to the teachers.

This enables science instructors to discover what is available for their classes and also will give them a chance to learn the techniques of making best use of them.

Association officers for the coming year were elected at a meeting at Waterford High School. They are Cecil Myers of Waterford High School, chairman; Walter Ainsworth of Pontiac High School, and Darwin Lawson of Clarenceville High School, co-chairmen; Joe Manziof of Farmington High School, treasurer, and Dave Klinke of Waterford High, secretary.

Typical of the association's activities was a discussion at an earlier meeting of the use of the spectroscope in research and analysis by Tulley Alessi of the Detroit Research Laboratory, the association chairman said. For the first time, the teachers had invited students from their science classes to attend.

The results were so good, that this policy may be continued, with the hope science minded youths in the county may form their own group in the future, he said.

All science teachers in the county are invited to attend the Dec. 4 meeting, the association says. It begins at 7:30 p.m.

2 Area Teenagers Face Break-In Charge Today

ROMEO — Two teenage youths will be arraigned today before Justice Francis A. Castellucci, Mount Clemens, on a charge of breaking into a Shelby Township farm building Tuesday evening. They dropped a match after entering the structure which was later destroyed by a $10,000 fire.

★ ★ ★

In custody are Charles Joseph Conville, 17, 6480 Mafair, Utica, and Millard Harold Peacock, 18, 1928 June St., Rochester. The pair admits breaking into the barn and office building of the Henderson Sod Farm, 25 Mile Rd., east of Schoenherr. They told Romeo State they were siphoning gas out of tractors.

★ ★ ★

They also admitted to Brabant and Shelby Township Police Chief Robert Smith that they stole a car in Utica the same night. The vehicle belonged to Robert Peterson, 7711 McCellan, and was abandoned near the new Utica High School later in the evening.

★ ★ ★

Peacock first admitted his part in the break-in at the State Police Post, Romeo, yesterday morning. Conville later confessed in the office of Assistant Macomb County Prosecutor Charles R. Towner who issued warrants for their arrests. The two will be questioned on other complaints, Det. Brabant said.

New President of Community Chorus Named

ROMEO—Miss Joanne West has been named president of the Community Chorus which numbers some 40 members from Almont, Armada, Rochester, Washington and Romeo. Miss West teaches music in the Utica School System and private piano lessons at her home in Romeo.

★ ★ ★

The new vice president is Romeo elementary school teacher William Maurer. Mrs. Charles Dodge, one of the chorus founders, will serve as secretary.

★ ★ ★

The three will take office immediately following the group's eighth annual presentation of "Handel's Messiah" here on Dec. 8.

★ ★ ★

The singers are rehearsing regularly at 8 p.m. every Friday evening at St. John Lutheran Church here. The director is Lawrence Gray, a former Romeo resident who teaches music in the Hartland School.

Benson Snubs Hints at Potato Bounty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary Benson said yesterday the Agriculture Department rejects suggestions that the government use a "bounty" to help the potato industry.

"We receive our fair share of suggestions for improving prosperity in the potato industry" he said in a speech prepared for a luncheon meeting of the National Potato Council.

"Too frequently these suggestions simmer down to a bounty to be paid by the government to precipitate the industry into an unsound regimented position or to aggravate an unsound condition already existing.

"We reject suggestions of this kind," the secreary said, adding that programs of this nature for other crops had not brought about a true long-range solution of their problems.

★ ★ ★

Like growers of some other crops, potato producers have been harassed by overproduction and low prices in recent years.

FBI Hunting Spy Courier

Seeking Man Alleged to Have Carried Soviet Funds to Agents Here

NEW YORK (INS)—An American paymaster for executed atomic spy Julius Rosenberg was the target of FBI spyhunters today.

★ ★ ★

The mystery man carried Russian funds from abroad for the fabulously successful ring which stole U.S. atomic, anti-missile and earth satellite secrets.

The G-Men have meagre clues in their needle-in-the-haystack hunt for the courier to whose activities they recently were tipped by Rosenberg's brother-in-law, imprisoned atomic spy David Greenglass.

What little they know has sent scores of FBI agents poring through thousands of State Department passport and U.S. government personnel records and airline manifests.

★ ★ ★

The elusive target of the massive manhunt is known to have held a $200-a-day engineering consultant post, perhaps with a U.S. agency.

He flew back to New York from Egypt in 1948. At that time he apparently was connected with engineering studies involving the Aswan Dam project in Egypt.

Greenglass, International News Service learned, told FBI agents that Rosenberg was hard-pressed for cash during a two-months period in 1948 and could not pay his agents for their espionage services.

★ ★ ★

Rosenberg, Greenglass said, explained he was awaiting the arrival of the "regular payoff man" from the Middle East and gave him the brief description of the agent.

Slate Public Hearing on Lakeville Level

ADDISON TOWNSHIP—A public hearing on a petition to establish the normal level of Lakeville Lake will be held in the Circuit Court for Oakland County when it opens Jan. 15, or as soon after as counsel can be heard.

★ ★ ★

Filed by the County Board of Supervisors, the petition seeks to have the lake level established at 952.3 feet above sea level.

14 Novi Votes Make 100 Per Cent on Annexation

NOVI TOWNSHIP — The 14 votes cast by Novi Township voters in Tuesday's election on annexation of a section of land to Northville represented a 100 per cent turnout of eligible voters, Township Clerk Hadley J. Bachert revealed.

The land involved is bounded on the north by 8½ Mile Rd., on the south by Eight Mile Rd., on the east by Novi Rd. and on the west by a line 1,000 feet west of Taft. Rd.

Annexation was approved, 159-32, by Northville voters and by a 9-5 margin by Novi electors.

While most of the property is undeveloped at present, it has been reported unofficially that a housing development is scheduled for the area, and possibly a new high school.

★ ★ ★

If new homes are built in the area, they will probably be built on streets having Northville city improvements as a result of the annexation.

Broomfield to Aid City's Renewal Plea

Congressman William S. Broomfield (R-Oakland County) has promised help to speed Pontiac's application for $1,705,346 in federal urban renewal funds.

He wrote Albert M. Cole, administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency in Washington, and called for "the utmost speed" in providing $98,000 out of the total grant to enable the city to proceed with its program.

"It is necessary that surveys in the 155-acre area be continued so that sound plans for redeveloping this land can be worked out as soon as possible," Broomfield told Cole.

Accident Victim in Critical Shape

HAZEL PARK — John Donald MacFarland, 49, of 7012 Van Dyke, is in critical condition at Holy Cross Hospital from injuries received yesterday afternoon in an auto accident on Eight Mile Rd. west of John R.

According to Hazel Park police, MacFarland lost control of his car and smashed into a tree.

Marlette Club Asks C. of C. Speaker

MARLETTE — The Juvamus Club members here, having contemplated for some time the organization of a Chamber of Commerce for the village, have invited a representative of the Port Huron C. of C. to speak Dec. 16.

The meeting will be held at Teale's Cafe at 7 p.m., on the elected date, and members of the Lions Club; Merchants Assn.; businessmen and all interested persons have been invited to attend.

On Dec. 30, the Lions group will hear a blind person talk on "Leader Dogs," according to an anouncement by President Harold Hurd.

'Jungle Trash' Found Good for Plywood

LAE, New Guinea—Trees which old time timber men in New Guinea have long regarded as "jungle rubbish" are now yielding a type of lumber that is in great demand in Lae.

These are eight different timbers from the Busu forests—anisoptera, Celtis, Ambroi, Amoora, Numa, Erima, Kapok and Kapiok. They are going through the Lae veneer mill along with some cedar and other high class stuff.

The jungle growths are finding use by both South Pacific Timbers and the plant which Bulolo Gold Dredging Ltd., owns jointly with the Australian Government.

The "rubbish," converted to plywood and treated, discloses quality and finish that rather stagger the old hands, observers report.

Garden Club of Farmington to Meet for Tea

FARMINGTON — The home of Mrs. W. J. Spicer, 24915 Farmington Rd., will be the meeting place for the Annual Presidents' Tea of the Farmington Garden Club Monday, Dec. 2.

Election of officers for the next year will take place at 12:30 p.m. followed by a program honoring all past presidents of the club.

★ ★ ★

The Club's Choral group, led by Mrs. Keith Willoughby will be the main feature on the program. Mrs. Walter Coon will be in charge of hostesses for the tea following the program.

Laying a Cable, Find Mountain

11,000-Ft. Buried Peak Off Honolulu Located by Submarine Men

WASHINGTON — The invention of the telephone in 1876 and the discovery of an undersea mountain in 1956 may seem unrelated. Yet one was the indirect cause of the other, and both are part of the never-ending story of man's need to communicate with his fellows.

★ ★ ★

The submerged mountain rises 11,000 feet from the Pacific floor, about 750 miles northeast of Honolulu, says the National Geographic Society. It was charted when the first submarine telephone cables were laid between California and Hawaii through the joint efforts of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and the Hawaiian Telephone Company.

Inaugurated in October, 1957, this 2,400-mile trans-Pacific cable system is the latest example of the continuing, world-wide effects of Alexander Graham Bell's invention of less than a century ago.

Today, the world operates some 110,000,000 telephones, of which more than 60,000,000 are in the United States.

The first major systems of undersea telephone cables linked the United States with Great Britain and Alaska in 1956.

This year's line to Hawaii rests on ocean bottom at depths up to three and a half miles. It is the longest and deepest of the three submarine systems, and incorporates the latest advances in electronic amplifiers that make such connections possible.

★ ★ ★

It also introduces to undersea telephony the new time-saving feature of direct operator dialing from one land to another.

Utica Singer Wins Opera Scholarship

UTICA — Robert D. Kerns, 25, of Utica, today won a $2,500 operatic scholarship given annually by the Detroit Grand Opera Assn. The young baritone was judged winner from among nine finalists.

★ ★ ★

Kerns toured Michigan and other Midwest states this fall with the U.S. Air Force Band as soloist with the Singing Sergeants.

Spot Typhoon Mamie

TOKYO (AP) — The 13th typhoon of the Pacific season was spotted by Air Force Weathermen today whipping up the ocean 240 miles southwest of Marcus Island with 125-mile winds. The storm is named Mamie.

METAMORA — At the Hunters Creek Community Church on Sunday morning at the 10 a.m. service, Rev. John J. Stevenson, pastor, will speak on "Will the Earth Be Invaded by Other World Creatures?"

County Calendar

Metamora

A Thanksgiving dinner scheduled to be held tonight at the home of Mrs. Harry Whittaker has been postponed due to a death. A later date will be announced.

Paganini String Quartet to Play in Holly Series

HOLLY — The Paganini String Quartet will open the annual Holly-Fenton concert series at 8 p.m. Monday evening at the new Weaver Auditorium here. This is the fourth season that the two villages have joined in this community project. There will be two other programs in the current series, one also at the Weaver Auditorium on Feb. 17, and the other at the Fenton Community Center on April 23.

DEBUT— Robert B. Anderson is shown as he made his first appearance before a Congressional subcommittee since he became Treasury Secretary. He told the House Small Business Committee the Administration may ask Congress next year to raise the 275-billion-dollar ceiling on the national debt.

Defendant in Trial Escapes From Jail

DENVER (AP) — Police armed with machine guns pressed a hunt through a residential part of Denver today for a county jail inmate who escaped last night while awaiting his murder trial.

★ ★ ★

Albert Kostal, 37, fled on foot shortly before midnight when a car which he and another fugitive had stolen piled up and burned after a wild chase. The companion, Arthur Watson, 39, gave himself up meekly an hour later.

★ ★ ★

Police and the fugitives exchanged shots before the car crashed. No one was hit.

Authorities said they did not know where the fugitives got their firearms.

★ ★ ★

Nearly 100 police, barricading an eight-block area near fashionable Denver Country Club, sought Kostal.

Two city parks border the area and police said Kostal may be hiding in one of the parks.

Vacating of Two Keego Streets Wins Approval

KEEGO HARBOR — The City Council has approved the vacating of Howard street between Wilbur and Williams streets. Complying with a request from West Bloomfield School Board, this action was taken at the monthly meeting of the council.

★ ★ ★

In other business, car bids were presented by local dealers for the sale of a new police car to the city. The council placed them on file for future study.

A refund of $50 on licenses was reported received from the secretary of state.

★ ★ ★

A total of $326.50 was realized from parking meters, and 37 overtime parking tickets were issued. The Violation Bureau also reported issuing 90 violation tickets.

★ ★ ★

The Road Department has purchased a new snow plow and has posted weight restrictions on Summer and Cass Lake roads. A taxicab ordinance has been passed by the city.

★ ★ ★

There will be a meeting Dec. 5 at 7:30 p.m. to discuss general planning for the city.

Marlette Dance Club to Give Square Hop

MARLETTE—The Jolly Squares Dance Club of Marlette is sponsoring a square dance to be held in the Marlette Community High School gymnasium on Saturday evening, Dec. 7, from 8:30 to 12:30. An added attraction will be a style show of square dance fashions. Music and Calling will be by Perry Weaver. Refreshments will be served.

Seek Anticancer Compounds

Drug Contracts Awarded

WASHINGTON (AP)—Six contracts for production of new potential anticancer compounds were announced today by the Public Health Service. The project will cost about $793,000.

The service's National Cancer Institute said the chemicals to be synthesized under the contracts are designed to interfere with the growth of cancer cells in various ways.

★ ★ ★

Involved will be a group of compounds, known as antimetabolites, and new hormonal substances.

The service said the antimetabolites inhibit the growth of cancer cells by blocking certain metabolic reactions (life process).

Four research organizations will prepare various kinds of antimetabolites for evaluation as cancer drugs. They are: The Stanford Research Institute, Menlo Park, Calif.; the Southern Research Institute, Birmingham, Ala.; the Medical College of Virginia, Richmond; and the Monadnock Research Institute Inc., Antrim, N. H.

The cancer institute said synthesis of hormonal substances constitutes another promising avenue of cancer research.

It explained that both male and female sex hormones hinder the growth of cancer cells by changing the hormone environment which the cells need in order to continue reproducing.

The Upjohn Co., Kalamazoo, Mich., and the University of Chicago will produce new hormonal substances in sufficient quantities for laboratory studies and clinical trials.

Seven Cars Pile Up on Willow Run Xway

DEARBORN (INS) — Seven cars were involved in a series of accidents on the Willow Run Expressway in Dearborn today because of slippery pavement.

★ ★ ★

The autos hit an unexpectedly icy spot and skidded off the road into ditches. Two cars tipped over but their occupants were not injured seriously.

A bakery truck tipped over when the driver tried to stop for a red light. Baked goods were strewn about at the scene but the driver was not hurt.

A large tractor-trailer following the bakery truck, jackknifed when it tried to avoid hitting the bakery vehicles.

NO FISH STORY — Aquarium attendant Bill Duncan has a fish to dinner every day at the Park Aquarium, Vancouver, B. C. The finny guest, some 14 inches long, is known only as the "mystery fish." He takes morsels of food right from Duncan's lips. The fish was caught in a gill net some 400 miles off the west coast of Vancouver Island. Where he acquired his table manners is as much a mystery as is his species.

Savage Indians Peril Missionary

Tape-Recorded Plea, to Spare Life, Made by Auca Girl in U.S.

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A message for a missionary surrounded by savages in the jungles of Ecuador was broadcast from Kansas City last night in hopes it may save his life—if he is still alive.

★ ★ ★

The missionary is Dr. Winifred Tidmarsh, an Englishman. Wednesday, the savage Auca Indians filled the air around his shack with the calls of birds and beasts, an indication they were going to attack.

Not since January 1956 has anyone tried to Christianize the Aucas. That month five Americans who had flown into the dense jungle were killed, impaled by needle-pointed spears nine feet long.

A few weeks ago Dr. Tidmarsh, a missionary for the Christian Missions in Many Lands, set up his shack on the Oglan River in Auca territory.

Wednesday, the savages closed in on him.

When his plight became known to Rachel Saint, working on the Auca language at the Summer Institute of Linguistics in Arkansas, she had an Auca girl there make a recording, pleading with her people not to slay the white man.

Miss Saint, a missionary herself, is a sister of one of the men killed, pilot Nate Saint.

★ ★ ★

Last night, the processed recording was broadcast by ham radio operator Paul Carpenter here to Quito, capital of Ecuador, where it was picked up and taped by Maj. Everett Beall, signal officer with the Army mission, and Robert G. Schneider, the linguistics institute's agent there.

"You can never know how much we appreciate this, fellows," Schneider radioed Carpenter and Don Burns of the Kansas City Assn. for International Relations and Trade. Burns arranged the broadcast.

★ ★ ★

"This may save a life," Schneider said. "We are going to try to get a plane to drop the tape to Dr. Tidmarsh tomorrow (today)."

Tidmarsh has a recorder and loudspeaker, and could play the tape back for the Indians to hear. If it cannot be dropped, a plane may broadcast the appeal over the Auca country, Schneider said.

CONSULT ATTORNEY — Sheila Greenberg, 19, of Queens, N. Y., and Harry I. Bloksberg, 20 (center), Wamaque, N. J., talk with attorney Stanley Faulkner before testifying at a House Un-American Activities Committee hearing in Washington Thursday. The two young people were in the group which defied State Department orders last summer by accepting an invitation to visit Red China. They were questioned behind closed doors as the committee sought to determine what prompted the trip and how it was organized.

S-N-O-W Spells Weather Picture in Much of U.S.

More snow fell in the south central and northern border areas today but dry and fairly cold weather prevailed in most other sections of the country.

Snow piled up to nearly a foot in Las Vegas, N.M., as snow continued in the Texas Panhandle, into Western Texas and through most of New Mexico. Temperatures were below freezing in the snow belt.

The heavy snow that blanketed the Texas Panhandle and parts of the south Plains made driving conditions hazardous. One highway death was reported. Falls ranged up to 5 inches from Dumas, Tex., north to the Oklahoma border. Amarillo had 3 inches while in New Mexico Tucumcari reported 6 inches.

Rain fell in most other parts of Texas during the night and extended into southern Oklahoma and eastward through the Mississippi Valley. The rains were expected to move from the Texas Gulf Coast into the Southeastern states during the day.

More snow flurries and snow hit the Great Lakes region and southwestward through Iowa.

Wet snow piled up in depths ranging from 5 to 18 inches in southwestern New York state.

Desert winds of hurricane force lashed areas in southern California yesterday, causing extensive damage. No serious injuries were reported as wind gusts up to 85 m.p.h. swept the region.

The six islands of the Netherlands Antilles in the Caribbean Sea have 12 months a year of summer weather.

These Puzzle Answers Are Right

The following are the correct answers to the Pot-O-Gold puzzle which appeared in last week's Pontiac Press.

A. (1) BRIGHTEN. A sombre room will certainly look BRIGHTER with a change of gay colored draperies. These might be a high, vivid color which would not have the paleness necessary to Lighten the room, or let in more light.

B. (4) SLUGGER. A good hitter is a real prize for a ball team. The rookie player might work hard, but every such Plugger does not succeed. Hard work won't create ability, in itself.

C. (6) ESCORTS. Being seen in the right places with ESCORTS of good social standing will help a pretty girl rise in the social scale, and make a good marriage. "Careful scheming" could be in the selection of ESCORTS, and in self-improvement. Her own Efforts, unless she found the proper beaux, would not get her far.

D. (7) SMIRKING. A silly grin irritates many people, and the boss "might" get annoyed with a secretary who is always SMIRKING. He would—not just "might"—get annoyed with one who neglected her duties and was always Shirking.

E. (9) SERIAL. The commercial tie-up is probably one that the boy sees in connection with a children's SERIAL that he sees regularly. This might be the reason why he eats any kind of Cereal that offers a space helmet, with coupons.

F. (12) WOOZY. Naturally no one should drive a car if he feels dizzy or befuddled, whether or not it's because he's been drinking and is Boozy.

G. (13) REFLECT. A timid little woman is afraid to speak out but would merely echo her husband's opinions. Her timidity is often the effect of his overbearing nature, so it is quite probably she may not Respect his opinions at all.

H. (15) CHEATING. Crooks often show real ingenuity in thinking of schemes to defraud people. This same talent that is used for CHEATING could serve them equally well if applied to an honest business. As the clue is phrased, Creating is not right. It is a transitive verb and should be followed by an object, the something that is created.

I. (17) SCOPE. A badly defeated candidate may believe in himself too much to lose Hope, but his party leaders are not likely to put him on the ticket again. This gives him no SCOPE, or field of action, for his further career in politics.

J. (20) CONCERTS. The clue specified musician, rather than composer, which suggests CONCERTS. Even if he is planning to play, rather than composing, a Concerto, it would be for the purpose of playing it in concerts,

K. (22) DISBURSES. Naturally, the treasurer's department pays out money to employes of a firm, including refunds for expense accounts. It is not likely that the treasurer Disperses funds, or scatters them around, among favored salesmen, but only that he allows them to pocket a little extra on expense accounts.

L. (23) TALLER. In most cases, a man who is short wishes he were TALL, and the mousy type has not built up a personality to make up for being short. Not everyone who is not a Talker wishes that he were; sometimes he only wishes that the talker would shut up.

M. (26) SCENTING. A skilled detective has learned to nose out the motive for a crime. This is shrewd investigation, rather than a general suspicion, with the detective Sensing a motive.

N. (28) HOSTESS. Guests invited for the evening would usually far outnumber any sleeping accommodations the average house would have. If guests in a Hostel, or inn, were kept from leaving as planned because of a storm, there could still be room enough, for expected new arrivals would equally be prevented from coming in.

O. (30) DECODING. Certainly special training is necessary for the job of translating messages from code. The man responsible for Deciding secret messages is an appointee or an army officer, or some person whose training was not especially for the purpose of handling messages.

P. (31) MOPPING. A housewife who is constantly MOPPING is more devoted to a super-clean house than to the comfort of her family. Most husbands would protest. A wife who is constantly Moping feels depressed and protests are not in order. She can't help it.

Q. (33) TAMPERING. Even if there has been Tempering of incriminating evidence — statements modified, or something removed from the scene of the crime that makes the evidence less damaging—it would come under the term of TAMPERING, or wrongfully altering the proof of guilt, so that a judge would certainly consider the necessity for a new trial.

R. (36) STUPIDITY. A mercenary girl is out to find a man with money, but she needs to be smart not to show it. STUPIDITY would spill the beans and make it clear that her motive was Cupidity, or greed, rather than a sincere interest in the man himself.

S. (38) STREAMING. In skywriting, words are STREAMING, or pouring out, across the sky, as the airplane pilot forms them with trails of smoke. It is this message STREAMING across the sky which impresses those seeing it for the first time. When the letters dissolve, it is only a thin line, like a cloud, that is Streaking across the sky.

T. (39) UNSPARING. A man who finally succeeds in a "lost cause" would of course be helped by his wife's Inspiring devotion, her encouragement and constant belief in him. But in a long struggle, her devotion also involves sacrifice and hardships—an UNSPARING dedication to his work that makes her willing to endure such hardships.

1684 Book Details Life of Women

Strongly Favors Sovereign Water Cure-All

By DR. LOUIS B. WRIGHT

Long before the woman's page became an important feature of the modern newspaper, publishers were catering to the special interests of women.

The Folger Library in Washington has a significant collection of books written for women in the 16th and 17th Centuries.

HOW THEY LIVED

In recent months the library has acquired fascinating works that tell how the ancestors of our grandmothers kept their beauty, managed husbands, took care of children, cooked meals and doctored their families. Women were expected to be experts in all of these matters.

★ ★ ★

Typical of these books is one by Hannah Woolley, "The Accomplished Lady's Delight," dated 1684. Her introduction promised a more complete book than any ever written describing "all the accomplishments necessary to Ladies."

She even provided a chapter on fishing, "a Recreation which many Ladies delight in."

★ ★ ★

The ladies of the age of Charles II were expected to know how to make sweetmeats, brew perfumes and compound remedies and cosmetics.

FAVORITE RECIPES

Among the favorite recipes were those for "conserve of roses," "oil of violets," "the Queen's Perfume" (compounded of cloves and bay leaves) and "King Edward's perfume to make your house smell like Rosemary."

★ ★ ★

Among the remedies, compounded often from most unlikely substances, was one for gout, a poultice for the soles of the feet made from black snails, saffron and horse marrow.

For chills and fever in small children, Mrs. Woolley recommended giving the nurse a drink of wine and hanging a bunch of herbs around the child's neck.

★ ★ ★

The most highly recommended cure-all in the lot was "Dr. Stephen's Sovereign Water," which would "comfort the spirits," cure barrenness in women, alleviate bad breath and cure colds and toothache.

Zonta Club Hears Talk at Luncheon

"Revolution with restraint" was the Thanksgiving message given by Mrs. Theodore Auchard when members of Pontiac Zonta Club met Thursday at Hotel Waldron for luncheon.

She stressed the religious and patriotic meaning of the American Revolution.

The liberal leaders in the American colonies established constitutional government based on restraint, in contrast to the French Revolution which ended in the Reign of Terror, she said.

Mrs. Auchard pointed out that we have a fortunate heritage based on the stability of the tradition of basic English Comomn Law.

If Manana Satisfies Daughter It's Good Enough for Mama

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"Dear Abby: My daughter has been married for six years and she is so crazy about her husband that she can't see anything wrong with him. They live in a basement that is supposed to be built up into a house, but it has been a basement for four years and it doesn't get any further in the building.

ABBY

"Her husband is supposed to be building it himself. They act like they have nothing but time and meanwhile my poor daughter has two kids and a third one on the way.

"When I tell her to stand her ground she laughs and says, 'Manana, Ma.' Is she crazy or am I?"

MA

Dear Ma: If manana is good enough for your daughter — it should be good enough for you. She's not crazy — she's built a good marriage even though the house got only as far as the foundation.

FERNS IN HIS URNS

"Dear Abby: I am the cook in a place that keeps five in help, but the one who caught my eye is the gardener. He is about my age and I have been thinking about him lots lately.

"He tells me that he was married some 30 years ago and is separated from his wife but he gets snapshots all the time of his grandchildren and he must have 20 of them.

"He says divorce is too expensive but he would like me to be his girl, and maybe later on if we like each other well enough we can get married. How can we get married if he is not divorced? What should I do about him."

COOK

Dear Cook: The gardener has ferns in his urns. Don't cook up anything with a married man or the next thing you cook will be your own goose.

★ ★ ★

Dear Abby: I am engaged to a soldier who is now in Korea, and I haven't heard from him for four months. None of his family or friends had heard from him either so I got worried and called the Red Cross. They got in touch with him and he said he just didn't have anything to write about.

"I wrote him and told him if he didn't want to be bothered with me to please let me know, but I still haven't heard from him. Should I just sit home or should I go out with others and forget him?"

IRENE

Dear Irene: This boy is thoughtless — go with others and forget him.

LET HIM SHOP

"Dear Abby: Our son is 27 years old and his take-home pay is between $80 and $85 a week. He lives at home and gives me $10 a week. He told me that most of his friends live at home for nothing and I am wrong in expecting $10 a week from him.

"He doesn't save a dime. I work like a slave getting his meals, keeping his clothes washed and pressed, cleaning his room and shining his shoes. Am I too high? I wonder if any of your readers have an opinion on this?"

A MOTHER

Dear Mother: If your son thinks he can get room, board, laundry and a shoe-shine service for $10 a week, give him his 10 and let him go shopping.

Exercise, Like Life, Can Begin at 40

It's Not Too Late to Improve Shape

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

(The Friday Question Box)

Q. "I am in my early 40s. Is it too late to remedy some figure faults with exercise? I am healthy and active so exercise won't hurt me."

A. Heavens, no! You are just entering the prime of life and exercise will do wonders for your figure

Q. "I am 15 years old, 5 feet 3 inches tall and weigh 129 pounds. My bust measures 36 inches, waist 25, and hips 38½. Am I overweight and how are my measurements?"

A. You are overweight unless you have a very heavy frame. I would lose five pounds anyway. Your measurements are in pretty good ratio, so much so that I suspect you are not much overweight. Your hips should be a bit slimmer. Take hip-slimming exercises.

Q. "During the summer many of us women do not wear stockings but we still have to wear a girdle. My friends and I find that when we do not wear stockings and only wear a panty girdle the girdle has a tendency to ride up around the thighs. This makes a bulge on the thighs which is unsightly when we try to wear straight skirts. What can we do about this?"

A. I think any girdle has a tendency to ride up when one does not wear stockings. However, panty girdles are worse in this way than regular ones. Today you can buy lightweight but restraining girdles which cling like skin.

Here's how to decrease the measurement of the back hipline. Do a rolling-on-the-floor type of exercise.

Q. "I hope you can help me. My skin is so dry that I am getting deep lines around my mouth and have a burning sensation on my face and hands. Creams do not help. I am only 20."

A. I suggest that you see your family doctor. You may be allergic to the creams you have used and he may want you to use one of the lines planned especially for this condition.

★ ★ ★

Q. "I have never before written to Question Box. Although I am 5 feet 7 inches tall and weigh just 125 pounds, I am still heavy in the hip and thigh area. My hips are not especially wide but I carry so much weight in the back hipline that I look as though I had lordosis — slight but annoying. Is there any way I can remedy this?"

A. You certainly are not overweight. In fact you are underweight. You can decrease the measurement of the back hipline by exercise. Do the following one:

Sit on the foor, legs straight. Lift legs and roll over onto the right hip, catching yourself with your hands on the right side of the body. Roll onto the left hip, catching yourself by placing your hands on the left side of your body. Continue, rolling from side to side.

Be sure to lift your legs just high enough so that the body weight falls over the largest part of the hips. Hold them that way while you roll from side to side.

Wives Rise to the Defense of Helpful Young Hubbies

Modern Men Actively Participate in Homemaking and Raising Children

By RUTH MILLETT

Are the young men of today better husbands and fathers than the men of their fathers' generation?

That question is prompted by the response I've received to a recent column in which I described a woman's idea of an ideal husband and then asked, "Does he sound too good to be true? He is."

From all over the country have come letters of protest from wives who say: "My husband is all that you describe and more."

Then they go on to tell how their husbands help with the housework, the marketing, care of the children and much more.

As one young wife put it, "We are partners in everything we do. My husband wouldn't think of sitting around watching me work, when by pitching in and helping me, we can get the work done in half the time, and then sit down together."

The interesting thing to me about these letters, aside from the fact that many wives were prompted by my column to rise in defense of their husbands, was that all the letters came from young wives.

The only way I can account for that fact is that the young husband of today is playing a more active part in homemaking than his father or his grandfather ever did.

If these helpful young husbands ever have any doubt about the wisdom of their active participation in the job of homemaking and bringing up children, they ought to read their wives' letters.

★ ★ ★

They are a happy contrast to the frustrated, unhappy letters that come daily to this column from wives whose husbands feel they have done all that can be expected of them by earning a paycheck.

Don't Ask Everyone to One Large Party

Just because you find that you "owe" a lot of people, don't decide to give one big party and invite them all and "get it over with." That's a sure way of having an unsuccessful party.

The only way to entertain well is to invite just those persons you feel sure have something in common for the kind of evening they would enjoy.

Use Cheese on Hash

Preheat the gas broiler while you remove both ends from a No. 2 can of corned beef hash. Slide the hash out of the can, cut into four thick slices, spread with sauce or mustard and broil five inches from the flame until it sizzles. Turn rounds of hash upside down, place a slice of cheese on each one and broil until cheese melts. Serve on hot toasted buns accompanied with

Banning of Bad Word Relieves Youngster

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

George was at the dining room table working on a subtraction example his teacher had assigned for homework. Suddenly the point of his pencil snapped. After a slight pause, he uttered a four-letter word which contains offense for many people. He uttered it quite loudly.

* * *

Stunned, his father dropped his newspaper. But before he could open his mouth, George's mother shook her head at him vigorously.

Moving over to the sofa beside him, she whispered, "Ignore it. He's picked it up at school. He said it yesterday, too. Don't worry. It means he's maturing — identifying with his own age group. Just ignore it — and he'll stop saying it."

But George didn't.

He used the offensive word when he got home from school the next day to find his little sister had eaten the cake left over from supper the night before. Later, he used it when his father denied his appeal to stay up for the end of a TV show.

* * *

This time, his father ignored the advice to ignore it. With impressive firmness he said, "I don't like that word. As a matter of fact, I'm tired of hearing you say it. I don't want to hear it again."

SENSE OF RELIEF

Not too curiously, George felt a strong sense of relief.

For he'd known his parents felt discomfort with the word. At school the friend who'd introduced it to him had warned him darkly, "Better not let your Pop hear you say it."

He'd felt his mother's recoil when he'd spoken it first and heard the sudden living-room silence that followed his later use of it.

So his parents' apparent toleration of it had confused him. It had actually scared him a little so that he had to increase his use of it to get a more honest response.

* * *

Now that he'd got it, he felt the same relief he feels when he gropes for the light switch in the bathroom — and finds it exactly where he expected it to be.

NOT REASSURING

We do not reassure children by pretending to like behavior that we do not like.

* * *

Certainly, it's helpful to know that George's shock word is his way of saying, "See, we kids have an idea or two of our own!" It cools the heat of our protesting feelings toward it.

But if, in their cooled condition they still exist, we do neither ourselves nor George a favor by pretending this isn't true.

Discretion Needed

Some women insist on moving into a color and making it their own. It's usually a sharp green or lavender. They feel that it's attention-getting to do this. It is but in the wrong way. Other people regard it merely as an eccentric, not charming, habit.

Asks How to Prevent Borrowing

She Has Bad Luck in Loaning Things to Friends

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I've had bad luck in lending things to my friends, but don't rightly know how to go about refusing them now and still keep them as friends.

"My last experience—and by far the worst—was to have my best evening dress returned marked under the arms, with the explanation that the cleaner could not get the marks out. I know the friend is embarrassed because she avoids seeing me. And I'm sick about my dress."

Answer: The point is, not to lend possessions that you would be unhappy to have spoiled. And under no circumstances have favorites among your friends.

To refuse by saying something like, "Oh, dear, I can't let anyone—not even you, Mary—wear that dress until I've worn it myself a few more times" would neither be unkind nor unreasonable.

If you want to show that your heart is in the right place, you might have another suitable dress to offer her. But don't even suggest another unless you are sure you could live happily without it.

"Dear Mrs. Post: When addressing an envelope to two sisters, how are their names correctly written? Should it be The Misses Brown, or do their names have to be written out, such as Miss Mary Brown and Miss Jane Brown?"

Answer: The Misses Brown is sufficient unless there are other unmarried daughters in the family, and only these two are meant.

Easy Cream Pie Filling Versatile

Mrs. Allen Varies Plain Mixture With Fruits, Coconut

Basic recipes are a joy to have. If you make up a cream pie filling and vary it in several different ways, you have a world of desserts at your fingertips. Mrs. Ralph O. Allen of Cooley Lake road shares such a recipe with us today.

Attending PTA meetings is a new experience for Mrs. Allen; she has two younger children at home. An accomplished pianist, Mrs. Allen shares her talent with her friends. She belongs to both Pontiac Pan Hellenic and a social sorority.

BASIC CREAM PIE
By Mrs. Ralph O. Allen

¾ cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
2 egg yolks
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon butter

Mix sugar and cornstarch. Stir in egg yolks and milk. Cook slowly on top of stove, stirring constantly, until thick. Cool. Add bananas, coconut or pineapple and pour into baked pastry shell. Use the egg whites for meringue.

Substitute one cup brown sugar for the white sugar for a butterscotch cream pie. Beat egg whites stiff and fold into cooled mixture for a pudding. Serves 4-6.

Chapter 35

Mrs. Farrell fell back in surprise, clutching at the sheer negligee.

"You didn't tell me anyone was with you," she said.

"I'm sorry," Mason told her. "I overlooked it perhaps.

"I'm in a terrible hurry. I have to be back in court at two o'clock."

"But what in the world . . . ?"

Mason said, "You could buy us a drink. This is important."

She hesitated for a long moment, then said, "Very well."

"May I help you?" Della Street asked.

"Oh, I'm sorry," Mason said. "I haven't introduced these people to you."

'I'LL HELP YOU'

Mason performed introductions, mentioning only names save in the case of Della Street. "My confidential secretary," he explained.

"Come on," Della Street said, "I'll help you."

Somewhat hesitantly Mrs. Farrell moved toward the kitchenette. When she had gone Mason said to the elevator operator, "Have you ever seen her before?"

"I think I have. If I could get a better look at her feet I'd be sure. I'd like to see her shoes."

"Let's look," Mason said. He walked boldly to the bedroom door, opened it, beckoned to Paul Drake who took Myrtle's arm, led her along into the bedroom.

The elevator operator tried to hang back, but Drake shifted his arm around her waist.

"Know what you're doing, Perry?" Drake asked, as Mason crossed the bedroom.

"No," Mason said, "but I have a hunch." He opened a closet door.

"Take a look at the shoes, Myrtle," Mason said. "Do they mean anything to you? Wait a moment! I guess we don't need those. Take a look at this." The lawyer reached back into the closet, pulled out a suitcase. It had the initials "R. C."

"Just what do you think you're doing?" an angry, icy voice demanded.

* * *

Mason turned, said, "Right at the moment, I'm checking the baggage that you removed from the Redfern Hotel, Mrs. Farrell, and this young woman who is the elevator operator who was on duty the day of the murder is looking at your shoes to see if she recognized the pair you wore. She has the peculiar habit of noticing people's feet."

Mrs. Farrell started indignantly toward them, then suddenly stopped in her tracks.

Mason said, "Let's take a look inside that suitcase, Paul."

"You can't do that," she said. "You have no right."

* * *

"Okay," Mason said, "if you want it the hard way we'll do it the hard way. Go to the phone, Paul. Call Homicide and ask them to send up some officers with a warrant. We'll stay here until they arrive."

Evangeline Farrell stood looking at them with eyes that held an expression of sickened dismay.

"Or perhaps," Mason said, "you'd like to tell us about it. We haven't very much time, Mrs. Farrell."

"Tell you about what?" she asked, trying to get hold of herself.

"About renting Room 729 and saying you were the secretary of Gerald Boswell, and that he was to occupy the room for the night.

"Tell us about shooting Rose Calvert, who was in 728; about sitting there waiting trying to figure out what you'd do, then taking the body across the hall . . .Did you manage that alone? Or did someone help you?"

She said, "You can't do that to me. You . . . I don't know what you're talking about."

Mason walked over to the telepone, picked up the receiver, said to the operator, "I want Lt. Tragg . . ."

MRS. FARRELL SCREAMS

"Wait!" Mrs. Farrell screamed at him. "Wait! You've got to help me."

Mason said into the mouthpiece of the telephone, "Never mind." He dropped the phone into its cradle.

"All right," she said. "All right! I'll tell you. I'll tell you the whole story. I've been frightened stiff ever since it happened. But I didn't kill her. I didn't! Please, please believe that I didn't kill her."

"Who did?" Mason asked.

"Gifford," she said.

"How do you know?"

"He must have. He's the only one. He thought she was selling out. I guess he must have followed me to the hotel. He knew I was there."

"Go on," Mason said. "You only have a minute or to. Get it off your chest. What happened?"

She said, "I wanted to give Mr. Conway the lists of stockholders who had sent in proxies. I wanted to do it under such circumstances that Gifford would think his little mistress had sold him out. She was at the Redfern Hotel. She had this room in 728. She was typing. You could hear her through the transom banging away on a portable typewriter like mad. I told you the truth about getting the used carbon paper."

"Why did you do all this?" Mason asked. "Why did you rent that suite?"

* * *

"I didn't want Jerry Conway to lose control of Texas Global."

"Why?" Mason asked. "I would think your interests would have been elsewhere. I would think that your only hope of getting money out of your husband depended upon letting him get control. . ."

"I had to look at it two ways," she interrupted. "I had a pretty good block of Texas Global stock. I felt that under Conway's management it would be valuable. I knew that, under Gifford's management, it would be worthless in three or four years, and that this tramp he was running around with would get the most of it, and when he got tired of her some other tramp would get the rest of it."

"All right." Mason said, "what did you do?"

She said, "I knew that my husband was playing around with Rose Calvert. I followed her to the hotel. She registered as Ruth Calvert."

* * *

Mason's voice showed excitement. "Had she registered that way before?"

"Yes. In two hotels."

"I want the names of those hotels," Mason said.

"I can give you the names, the dates and the room numbers.

"While she was there, my husband was bringing her data, and she was typing out lists of proxy holders on her portable typewriter. Then one day she left a copy of the list in her car. The car was parked and the doors weren't even locked. I realize now it was a trap. I didn't know it at the time. I reached in and got this list.

"That, of course, was a completely phony list that they were hoping would lull Conway into a sense of security. I walked right into that trap."

"Go on," Mason said.

"I wanted Conway to have that list, but I didn't want him to know where it came from. So I telephoned him, and disguised my voice. I told him to remember me by the name of Rosalind."

Birthplace of Gideons on Real Estate Block

BOSCOBEL, Wis. (AP) — The old Boscobel Hotel, where the Gideons formed the organization which now distributes Bibles in hotels throughout the world, has been offered for sale.

Traveling salesmen, meeting by chance in a Boscobel Hotel room in 1896, organized the group which has distributed millions of Bibles in the ensuing years.

Average Yearly Income in Caribbean Is $230

KINGSTON, Jamaica—The average per capita income for the Caribbean area is $230 a year.

Only one man in three has a regular job in Jamaica, but Jamaica, with Trinidad and Barbados, ranks highest in living standards in the British West Indies, which has a population of 3,000,000. The seven other areas average about $135 per person annually.

U. S. paper money in its present size was issued for the first time in 1928.

Post Office Era Ends

OTTAWA, Ohio (AP)—An era ended in nearby North Creek when Miss Grace Ball retired after 36 years as postmaster. Her homey little post office was closed up forever under a reorganization program. The post office, in a building owned by Miss Ball, had knotty pine paneling, lounge chairs, rugs and curtains and was a favorite gathering place for the villagers.

SERIOUS DRAMA — Bob Gaines, 11, takes the role of an emotionally disturbed boy being treated by Frederick Wollaeger, clinical psychologist on the staff of the Oakland Child Guidance Clinic. By watching youngsters at play, trained staff members can learn much about their problems and attitudes. Play also enables the children to work out many of their inward frustrations. The clinic is partially supported by the Pontiac Area United Fund whose 1957 campaign is now in progress.

Mass X-Ray Exams for TB May Cease

WASHINGTON (INS)—The Public Health Service has recommended that mass use of X-rays to detect tuberculosis be halted to reduce the risk of radiation exposure.

★ ★ ★

In a statement issued to state and local health agencies, Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney suggested that chest X-rays be limited to groups facing the greatest risk of the disease.

Included in the groups are persons confined to hospitals and other institutions, low-income families, migrant workers and people known to be exposed to tuberculosis.

The Health Service suggested that for the rest of the population, communities should consider tuberculin skin testing as a first step. Chest X-rays would then be limited to those showing positive reactions to the skin test.

The recommendations resulted from advice of a committee of experts who studied the present tuberculosis problem, and the problem of low-level radiation exposure from X-rays.

Most active U. S. centers for lightning are Vicksburg, Mississippi; Tampa, Florida; and Santa Fe, New Mexico, which average from 60 to 90 thunderstorms in an average year.

Child Guidance Clinic Helps Disturbed Youngster

Staff Aids Parents to Work With Youth

Eddie might have looked to you like an ordinary nine-year-old. He did seem a little quiet at times and his parents complained that he was lazy and they had a hard time getting him to do anything at home.

He was in the fourth grade at school and his mother and father became alarmed when the teacher pointed out to them what they already suspected—Eddie couldn't read.

The teacher said that Eddie had a good fund of information and there was no doubt in her mind that he was a bright youngster. Something was holding him back.

The teacher suggested that the parents consult the workers at the Oakland Child Guidance Clinic.

As the social worker took a careful history, it was learned that in addition to his trouble with reading and his "laziness," this quiet boy would awaken at night in terror complaining of dreams of monsters chasing him.

TEACHER WAS RIGHT

Eddie was seen by the clinic's psychologist and test revealed that the teacher was right, Eddie was a bright boy.

The psychiatrist talked with Eddie and he learned that underneath Eddie's quiet exterior was a boy who was quite frightened and who saw the world peopled with grownups who were very hard to please. Eddie had just about given up trying.

Eddie's parents needed a lot of reassurance that they were not to blame for their son's disturbance.

They were helped to lower their current aspirations for Eddie so that he would feel it was all right to start trying again. Eddie was encouraged to talk with the worker about the things that bothered him and he was helped to see them as they really were and not as they seemed in his frightening dreams.

★ ★ ★

It took about six months before the clinic staff felt that Eddie was even ready to begin tutoring with the reading. By this time Eddie and his parents had come to a better understanding.

CLINIC SERVES COUNTY

Operating under the sponsorship of the State Department of Mental Health, the Oakland Child Guidance Clinic serves the entire county.

Children from birth to 16 years of age, plus any high school student, are eligible for assistance. They are recommended or referred by their parents, schools, social agencies, doctors, courts or health departments.

Psychiatrists, psychologists or psychiatric social workers examine the child and interview the parents to determine the nature of the difficulty. If treatment is needed, regular interviews are undertaken by staff members, usually on a weekly basis.

Personality and habit problems are tackled by the clinic such as nervousness, day-dreaming, unpopularity, fears, bed-wetting, temper tantrums, aggresiveness, shyness and conduct problems like lying, stealing and running away.

★ ★ ★

Also treated are education problems such as truancy and poor adjustment to school.

The entire treatment is free, although gifts are accepted from anyone who wishes to aid the clinic.

Operational expenses, outside of salaries, are met through the Pontiac Area United Fund and from the Oakland County budget.

"We count on the generosity of the public through the United Fund to enable us to continue our work that leads so many children to happier, healthier adult lives," said Madeleine Half, director.

Block Island Has Big Lure but No Doctor

BLOCK ISLAND, R.I. (AP)—A job paying between $12,000 and $15,000 a year is waiting for a qualified man to put in his bid.

★ ★ ★

Town officials estimate that's the amount a physician can earn annually by settling on the island, which has a year-around population of 800.

In addition he will get a 16-room mansion rent free for six months and for only $75 a month after that.

★ ★ ★

The island has been without a doctor since Dr. Gregory M. Burbelo left to set up practice in Westerly, R.I., last Friday.

Bride Has House Repainted

Brando Bidding to Own 'Westside Story' Company

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — One of the most eager would-be purchasers of "Westside Story" is Marlon Brando, who returns from New York to the coast this weekend, following his P.A. tour for "Sayonara."

While he was in the Big City, Marlon put out feelers to acquire the rights to this property for his own independent company but, with the well deserved success this play is having on Broadway, he will have to bid high.

When he arrives home, Marlon will find that his bride, Anna Kashfi, who is feeling much better now, has had the interior of their Laurel Canyon home all repainted.

DEBRA'S CONTRACT ENDS

After 10 years Debra Paget and 20th Century-Fox parted with mutual good wishes on both sides. "I'm grateful for the build-up given me, and I always will be," says Debra who started at about $500 a week and is now getting $2,500.

"Now that I am no longer restrained by a contract, I'll concentrate on TV and freelance in pictures. I'm on Eddie Fisher's TV show in January, and I have a movie under consideration at U-I."

Debbie is also booked for a nightclub opening Dec. 5 at the Flamingo in Las Vegas. Let's hope she forgets that revealing gown this time—she doesn't need it. Her role in "Ten Commandments" proved the gal can act.

Over long distance telephone Myrna Loy told me she will be in our fair city in three weeks to film a new TV series on modern family life for Screen Gems. Carol Irwin, who did the "Mama" shows, Myrna says, is working with her, and George Oppenheim is writing the scripts. Myrna will be on the Schlitz Playhouse tomorrow night.

She was hurrying to Washington when I talked with her, and she told me that the UNESCO meeting she attended in San Francisco two weeks ago was very exciting, with Madame Pandit in attendance. George Stevens flew up to attend some of the meetings.

"I keep plenty busy," said Myrna, and I can well believe it after listening to her schedule.

OLIVIA FLIES TO MATE

Shortly after midnight tomorrow night Olivia De Havilland wings her way over the pole to Paris. She'll have Sunday dinner with her husband, Pierre Galante and the two children. She says she and Pierre will be re-married in the Catholic Church shortly after she arrives home. Their dispensation (they have been informed) is on the way.

"I have been gone three months and four days," said Livvy, "and never again am I going to be away from my family this long. When I come back in January or February, Pierre is going to be right with me, unless, of course, his magazine 'Match' sends him on some big assignment."

She endeared herself to everyone in Sam Goldwyn Jr.'s picture "The Proud Rebel."

HOLLYWOOD SNAPSHOTS

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: The Glynis Johns - Allen Reisner engagement has gone pfffft!

Perry Como's son, Ronnie, is enrolling in Notre Dame.

Lorena Mayer, who was completely exhausted after L. B.'s long illness and death, is back from Main Chance, still resting and trying to build herself up.

Jack Benny is repeating a radio show Sunday that I did with him several years ago.

Dolores Gray, here for the Ethel Barrymore show Saturday, was with Paul Henderson, director of the program.

Carol Ohmart, who hasn't made a picture since she married Wayde Preston, is on the Warner lot to prepare for "Born Reckless."

The family of Taina Elg will make the acquaintance of her 20-months-old son when she goes to Finland in February with her husband, Karl Bjorkenheim. She'll be there for the premiere of "Les Girls."

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Girl, 6, Bravely Saves Baby Sister in Fire

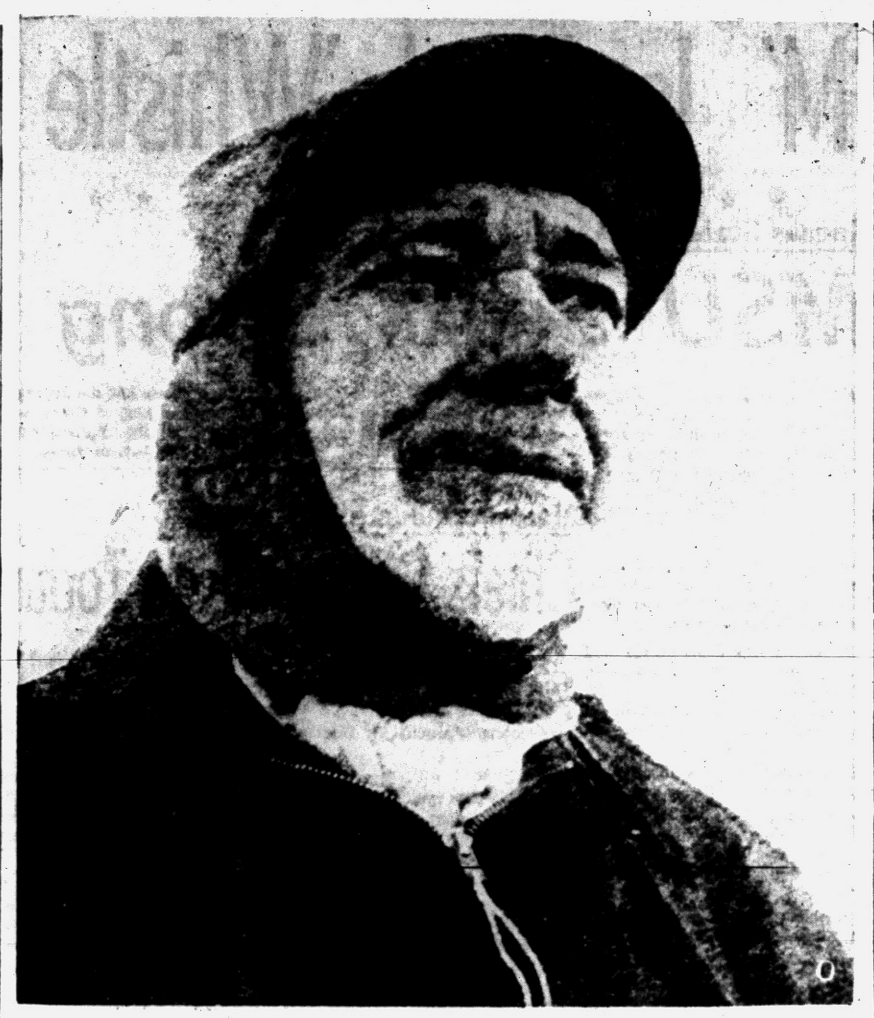

EAST PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Six-year-old Ruth Kitchen saved the life of her baby sister Robin, 18 months old, yesterday by snatching her from a blaing cribp and putting out the fire with a home fire extinguisher.

The fire started during the mother's absence when an electric lamp fell and heat from the bulb set the crib blanket ablaze.

"I didn't want Robin to get hurt or the house to burn," Ruth said.

Lawyer Still in Shape

SYDNEY, N. S. (AP)—Malcolm A. Patterson, 67, who has held four Nova Scotia Cabinet posts and served two terms as Crown Protector, recently won an acquittal in his first court case when he returned to private law practice after an absence of 24 years.

ANTARCTIC OBSERVER — Veteran explorer Sir Robert Wilkins is shown earlier this month at McMurdo Sound, Antarctica, where he says U. S. ground services have much to learn about building and operating stations in the frigid Antarctic. Sir Robert, 69, came to McMurdo Sound seeking ways to improve living conditions and efficiency in both Arctic and Antarctic operations. He is serving as consultant to the U. S. Army on cold weather operations and survival.

Hoover Urges More Diplomas

Sees Need of 70,000 More Graduates to Enter College

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Herbert Hoover urges an annual increase of at least 70,000 high school graduates who could qualify for college study of science and engineering.

Hoover spoke last night at a dinner marking the opening of a campaign to raise money for a new 10-million-dollar national engineering center on United Nations Plaza between 47th and 48th streets.

"The trouble is," said Hoover, "that we are turning out anually from our institutions of higher education perhaps fewer than half as many engineers and scientists as we did seven years ago.

"The greatest enemy of all mankind — the Communists—are turning out twice or possibly three times as many as we do."

Hoover said there is too much academic freedom in high schools, adidng: "A youngster's first reaction in school is to seek soft classes, not the hard work of science and mathematics. Also, he has a multitude of extra-curricular activities which he considers more beguiling than hard work.

"You simply cannot expect kids . . . to determine the sort of education they need, either for daily living or for the professions, unless they have some guidance."

Patrolman Suspended

ST. CLAIR SHORES (AP) — Patrolman Barry D. Oberg, 26, was suspended Wednesday after having been fined $50 in neighboring Detroit for reckless driving. Traffic Referee John D. Carney, who levied the fine, said the policeman had a record of 12 moving and 12 parking violations in Detroit. Oberg was suspended by Chief Harvey Champine pending a Civil Service hearing.

Hubby Can Keep His $5—She'll Get Pink Phone

CHICAGO (AP)—A Chicago housewife is going to get a pink telephone, as she demanded, to replace a defective ivory phone and her husband won't have to pay $5 for the installation.

★ ★ ★

A dispute between the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. and Bernard J. Arnold, a phone subscriber, was cut short yesterday by a State Commerce Commission examiner when he picked up the tab for the installation.

Arnold had complained to the commission after the company installed a new ivory replacement phone but insisted on $5 before switching to pink. He said his wife wanted a pink one to match her kitchen.

★ ★ ★

A company official told commission examiner William E. Helander if the company made no charge "housewives would be swarming around to change their phone colors for esthetic reasons."

Helander said the commission regulations provide for the $5 charge but Arnold argued the regulation did not apply "as long as they had to replace the defective phone."

★ ★ ★

Helander tossed a $5 bill on the table for the phone company and said: "If this case is not resolved, I'll have to write a long report and take it up with five busy commissioners. This ends the case."

Helander went into another room to hear a utility company's request for a 25 million dolar a year rate increase.

Civil Rights Attorney Named

W. Wilson White Will Head New Division in Justice Department

WASHINGTON (AP) — W. Wilson White, an assistant attorney general, reportedly has been chosen to head the new Civil Rights Division in the Justice Department.

This information came last night from informed sources. In Philadelphia, his home, White said it was impossible for him to comment.

★ ★ ★

A Justice Department spokesman also declined comment. He said there has been nothing final on an appointee to fill the post authorized by the civil rights law passed at the last session of Congress.

That law provides that the new Civil Rights Division shall be headed by an assistant attorney general.

★ ★ ★

Since White already is an assistant attorney general handling other duties, it was not immediately clear whether his name would have to be submitted to the Senate again for confirmation as head of the Civil Rights Division.

White, 51, practiced law in his native Philadelphia from 1934 to 1953 when he became U. S. attorney for eastern Pennsylvania.

'Hot' Cocktail Medicine Used

Doctors at U. of M. Serve Radioactive Drink to Cancer Patients

ANN ARBOR (AP)—A radioactive cocktail that tastes like lemonade is being used by University of Michigan researchers to learn about the food problems troubling patients with stomach cancer.

This cocktail is non-alcoholic. Its ingredients are water, olive oil, gelatin and glucose. It has no kick.

The doctors are trying to find out how weight loss can be stopped or reduced by patients who down the beverage.

The cocktail treatment is one phase of the university's study of stomach cancer. Dr. Arthur French, a professor of internal medicine, acts as bartender-in-charge of this phase.

★ ★ ★

All patients at University Hospital who have undergone stomach surgery for any reason are served the drink.

French said his doctors want to learn what proportion of patients have poor food absorption after removal of their stomachs and whether certain types of operations are the cause.

He said most food is absorbed in the intestinal tract outside the stomach, but after an operation for stomach removal, the intestine does not function as well. In most cases of stomach cancer, at least part of the stomach must be removed.

All stomach patients are given a battery of tests including a cocktail to obtain information on how well they absorb protein, fat and carbohydrates. In addition to the basic ingredients, the cocktail contains radioactive fat, Vitamin A, protein in the form of amino acids and sugar.

The drinking of these substances shows the rate of their absorption, French said.

★ ★ ★

The tests are made before the stomach operation, just after it and six months later.

The doctors hope the research will provide them with information to choose the type of operation that will best avoid nutritional troubles afterward.

When Trouble's Near, Look for 'Calamity'

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Calamity Jane is a small female wolf who has an uncanny knack of getting into complicated situations.

Her latest exploit came yesterday when she allegedly devoured a $100 imported goose. Calamity's owner, Mrs. Betty Brocksmith, called the dog pound. Two officers set a caged trap and nabbed the frisky wolf cub.

"She's gentle," said Mrs. Brocksmith, "but she doesn't care for chicken on a platter. Seems she prefers to kill her game."

Kill 46 Cuban Rebels

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban government announced today that 46 rebels were killed yesterday in three battes with army troops in southeast Cuba. A communique also said seven soldiers were killed and eight injured in the fighting in the Sierra Maestra Mountains.

British Army Revises Menus

Porterhouse for Privates?

LONDON (AP) — Days are numbered for char, wad, bubble and squeak, praties and bangers.

In their places on British army menus enlisted men and women each meal are offered such fare as porterhouse steak, duck, goose, vol-au-vent, omelette surprise charlotte russe and peach melba.

A buck private, but not an officer, gets lunch and dinner choices of 8 types of potatoes, 6 vegetables, 12 meats, soups and half a dozen sweet dishes to top off the meal.

★ ★ ★

Fancied-up menus are one of the come-ons Britain is giving to volunteers. In another couple of years Britain hopes to end the draft leaving patriotism and friendly persuasion as the two best means of getting her soldiers.

The first of the souped-up kitchens was opened at the Royal Artillery Depot in London's Woolwich section. For possibly the first time in the history of English-speaking soldiery, there have been no complaints from the ranks.

Army spokesmen claim that during the past three weeks there have been indications of much higher morale at the depot, which could mean more re-enlistments.

British soldiers traditionally have called tea "char," sandwiches "wad," a conglomeration of meat and vegetables mixed into a stew "bubble and squeak," plain boiled potatoes "praties" and sausages "bangers."

Final Cage Meeting Slated Next Monday

The final meeting for all managers of City League basketball teams will be held next Monday night at 7:30 in the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department office, City Hall, 35 S. Parke St.

★ ★ ★

This is the last call for teams wishing to compete in classes A, B and C during the 1957-58 season. Teams must be represented to gain consideration for league entry.

Discussion will cover team classification, league organization, schedules, playoff procedures, tournament selection, and rules and regulations. There are now 12 teams signed up and only a few more can be accommodated.

Players Group May Sue Pro Grid Owners

CLEVELAND (AP) — The National Football League players Assn.'s attorney says he will sue for $4,200,000 under the anti-trust laws if the NFLPA doesn't get the recognition it desires from team owners.

Creighton Miller said he was prepared to file the suit last week but the day before it was to be filed NFL Commissioner Bert Bell "somehow got wind of our intention" and telephoned. On being told Bell felt club owners would agree to the NFLPA demands at their Dec. 2 meeting in Philadelphia, Miller said he decided to hold off filing the suit until Dec. 3.

He told a reporter yesterday if the owners agree to the demands "the player representatives" probably will decide not to file their suit.

The big demand is that "every owner recognize our association, not just Bell. We also want pay for exhibitions and contract provisions to protect injured players."

These demands, said the attorney, a former Notre Dame grid star, are the same as those the association formulated last February. "After Bell recognized us in August, we presented our demands at the all-star game but have made no progress."

Bell said he was authorized to recognize the association but that he needs a favorable vote from 10 of the 12 NFL owners to complete any agreement with the association. "We'll get that (approval) at our meeting," Bell commented from Philadelphia.

Miller said the association, which claims representatives from 11 of the 12 NFL teams, "plans to charge the league, the clubs and the owners with violation of the Sherman anti-trust act, and ask treble damages amounting to $4,200,000."

The damages, he said, were based on an estimate of the difference between what the players "are getting now and what they would be able to get if they were able to offer their services to an open market."

1st Archery Golf Shoot on Sunday

A winter sport relatively new in Michigan—archery golf shooting—will begin its 2nd season here Sunday at Municipal golf course under the sponsorship of the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department and the Pontiac Archers Club.

Sunday's event, labeled a "turkey shoot," is the 1st of several planned at the city links this winter. Turkeys will be awarded to the winners of the meet and chickens and ducks will be given away as door prizes.

Competition in this novel sport will be conducted over an 18-hole route and contestants may register and start playing immediately between the hours of 9 a.m. and 12 noon.

The shoot is open to all Oakland County residents regardless of age and a small entry fee is charged at registration. Another "turkey shoot" is scheduled on Dec. 22.

Lou Little Calls 'em

Tomorrow is the day that brings some traditional games that mean even more than a conference title to players, to alumni and perhaps even to coaches.

Harvard and Yale play one such game at New Haven, their 74th.

Stanford and California play another. Ohio State and Michigan, Purdue and Indiana, Pitt and Penn State, Washington and Washington State, Oregon and Oregon State, Duke and North Carolina and some others.

And don't forget the little one outside Philadelphia where the scholars of Swarthmore and Haverford clash.

If you have never played or coached varsity football, perhaps you would expect to find an air of strain on the eve of a game that means so much.

★ ★ ★

But you would not find it. The work was finished this afternoon. The coaches have let up except perhaps for a brief review in early evening.

The men move about quietly, reading or listening to music. They're talking less than usual. If there is tension it's well concealed. At dinner tonight most of them will leave something on the plate and tomorrow morning they will eat even less. But you see no lack of poise.

You see maturity and you sense the feeling of responsibility they have. The game does that. I have known that feeling as a player and have observed it as a coach. I wish everyone could experience such a feeling as a player in football or another competitive sport.

You learn much about a boy on the night before such a game and after many years of coaching I can tell you that most of what you learn is good.

Lou Little picks:

BOSTON UNIV. over Connecticut — Mello's return aids Terriers.
COLUMBIA over Rutgers — Dick Donelli's new overhead threat helps Lions.
PRINCETON over Dartmouth — If Tigers tighten air defense.
YALE over Harvard — Winterbauer's passing will help Elis' running.
LEHIGH over Lafayette — Engineers have more power, and Nolan's air threat.
MARYLAND over Virginia — A battle of ground games.
PENN. STATE over Pitt. — Kasperian outstanding for State.
SYRACUSE over West Virginia — Orange power has been more consistent.
ARKANSAS over Texas Tech. — A day for the fast Arkansas backs.
AUBURN over Florida State — Unbeaten Auburn defense does it again.
SMU over Baylor — Watch Meredith's passing for Mustangs.
VANDERBILT over The Citadel — Smith and King leading Vandy's backs.
CLEMSON over Wake Forest — But Clemson must curb fumbles.
NO. CAROLIA STATE over So. Carolina — State still unbeaten in League.
DUKE over No. Carolina — Duke is up, bidding for bowl assignment.
GEORGIA TECH. over Florida — Tech comes back to earlier good form.
TENNESSEE over Kentucky — Volunteers will run this time.
RICE over TCU — But it's close to toss-up; Rice fears reaction.
DETROIT over Dayton — Detroit has picked up power each recent week.
ILLINOIS over Northwestern — Haller and Illini make last one good.
PURDUE over Indiana — Hoosiers close a grim campaign.
IOWA over Notre Dame — Irish still improving, but Iowa too strong.
COLORADO over Iowa State — With Stransky heading strong offense.
MICH. STATE over Kansas State — Good day for Kowalczyk and mates.
OHIO STATE over Michigan — Buckeyes strong both ways, and Clark is due back.
WISCONSIN over Minnesota — Badgers on speed and more drive.
OKLAHOMA over Nebraska — Beginning of a new string for Sooners?
OKLAHOMA STATE over Hardin-Simmons — Disappointing Coach Sammy Baugh.
HOUSTON over Tulsa — Houston has had some good days.
BRIGHTON YOUNG over Colorado State — On BYU's stronger attack.
STANFORD over California — Cal. may rise but Indians deserve clear nod.
OREGON STATE over Oregon — Near toss-up as State bids for conference tie.
UCLA over USC — Uclans have been alert, fighting crew.
WASHINGTON over Washington State — But it's a job stopping State's Newman.

Rescue Boats Help Hunters

MEMPHIS (NEA)—Duck hunters may venture forth on the Mississippi River with the assurance that if they get in trouble there will be 30 Memphis boats ready to search for them.

The Marine Rescue Squadron was organized under the sponsorship of the Memphis Parks Recreation Department and cooperating boat clubs.

Squadron volunteers will be called by the Red Cross whenever needed, in the same way the organization calls out first aid volunteers in case of fire, floods and other disasters.

The rescue boats are coordinated with Civil Air Patrol planes.

Barry Mackay Falls in Aussie Tourney

ADELAIDE (AP)—Barry Mackay of Dayton, Ohio, was upset today by Bob Mark, Australia, in the second round of South Australian Tennis Championships. The Ohioan, who had been playing among the best on the U.S. Davis Cup squad, lost 6-1, 7-9, 11-9, 6-4.

Vic Seixas, the veteran Philadelphia, and Ron Holmberg, Brooklyn youth, stayed in the running. Seixas trounced Warren Jacques, Australia, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2. Holmberg, playing his best tennis since arriving in Australia, whipped Aussie John Pearce 63, 6-0, 7-5.

The 44-year-old Gardnar Mulloy, of Miami, Fla. was eliminated by Mal Anderson, the Aussie who holds the U.S. championship. Mulloy put up a stiff fight before going down 6-3, 8-6, 4-6, 6-3.

Kansas State Not Afraid

MSU Seeks Strong Finish

EAST LANSING (AP) — Kansas State won't be any pushover or patsy for Michigan State, top-rated football team in the nation.

That's the pitch that Paul DeWeese, sports publicist and advance man for the Wildcats, has been throwing.

Paul is so earnest and sincere that you at least have to listen to him even if you disagree with his theories.

He notes that Oklahoma was held to a 13-0 margin over Kansas State, which was a clear tip that the Sooners weren't as invincible as advertised.

★ ★ ★

Kansas State has a three won, five lost and one tied record but Paul claims — and the score books back him up — that four of those games could have been won by Kansas State by one touchdown or less.

He cites the ball control game of Kansas State.

The generally accepted yardstick is that if a team controls the ball more than 70 plays in any one game, that's exceptional.

★ ★ ★

Kansas State had the ball 86 times while losing to Oklahoma, 83 times while losing by one touchdown, on a freak pass to Kansas and 92 times winning over Missouri.

Michigan State has the average of holding the ball 73 times per game and in the Indiana runaway had the ball 91 times.

The team is up for this game, DeWeese said.

★ ★ ★

"We play the best teams in the country and just think what it would mean to our boys to knock off No. 1 Michigan State," he anticipated.

That's the positive approach by Kansas State.

But DeWeese also says this:

"We've only got one good team — about nine of that first 11 are good. But we lack depth. And Daugherty (MSU coach Duffy Daugherty) has a second team just as good as his starters and two others on the bench breathing hard and wanting to get in that game.

"I hope we look good," DeWeese said with a shrug, "but if anything beats us that depth will do it."

★ ★ ★

The Spartans, out of a Rose Bowl or conference title chance, will be playing this one just for an 8-1 season and the hopes of hanging on to their top spot by influencing the fickle voters by an impressive score.

The prediction for the 1:30 p.m. kickoff is for an overcast and chilling cold day and an attendance of around 35,000 smallest home crowd of the MSU season.

Meet Ferndale at Wisner

Chiefs Close Season Today

Victory is sweet, they say, but Jesse MacLeay has seldom tasted it this season in his 1st year as head football coach at Pontiac High.

★ ★ ★

MacLeay has watched his PHS gridders go down to defeat five times in seven tries during the 1957 campaign and his moments of joy have been few and far between.

The Chiefs are in their accustomed role of underdogs again today when they ring down the curtain on another football season by meeting Ferndale at Wisner Stadium.

It will also be the final game this fall for the Railsplitters, who have compiled a record of three wins, four losses and one tie.

The two teams are scheduled to line up for the opening kickoff at 3:30 p.m., marking the 1st time since 1944 that Pontiac High has participated in an afternoon contest at Wisner.

There is a strong possibility that the lights will go on before hostilities are over, however, due to the early arrival of darkness at this time of year.

★ ★ ★

Pontiac's game with Ferndale was originally scheduled here Oct. 4, but the Asian flu invaded both grid camps, Ferndale's in particular, and postponed the meeting.

Victory No. 3 in a dismal season will be the Chiefs' goal today. Their hopes for a winning year have long since ended, all they can do now is try to finish on a happy note.

Taylor Resigns Stanford Post

Grid Coach to Become Assistant Director of Athletics

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Popular Chuck Taylor, Stanford's football head man the past seven seasons, finishes out his coaching career tomorrow and then helps hunt for his successor.

Announcement that he is quitting as football coach at his alma mater and would take up new duties as right-hand man to Athletic Director Al Masters came yesterday, just two days before the traditional "big game" here with California.

With a record as head coach of 39 victories, 29 defeats and 2 ties, Taylor came under no pressure to resign but had stated previously that he never had planned to make coaching football a lifetime career.

He has been one of Stanford's most popular coaches. Although Taylor said he hoped there would be no melodrama connected with his stepping out as coach, quarterback Jack Douglas declared, 'We're going to win the big game for him."

Stanford has a 5-4 record this season with a 3-3 in the Pacific Coast Conference.

★ ★ ★

Taylor told reporters his coaching career was definitely ended, "But the opportunity to work with Al Masters in promoting intercollegiate competition is one I treasure and look forward to."

'Hot Seat' Designed for Warming Hunters

NEW YORK (NEA)—Duck hunters will be happy to hear about the Hot Seat.

It will keep their posteriors snug and warm as they sit in blinds or boats. The Hot Seat ($1.98 at sporting goods stores) is an insulating cushion which retains body heat amazingly well. Ice fishermen, deer hunters and football fans will find it a handy and comfortable item.

All of them are really roughing it.

WHERE'S THE BALL — Lou Tsioropoulos (20) Boston Celtic guard charges forward after a loose ball as Chuck Noble (5) Detroit Piston guard sees the ball go through his legs. Bill Sharman (21) is also looking for the ball. The Celtics won, 112-90.

Celtics Rout Pistons

DETROIT (AP) — The absence of Bob Cousy from the lineup of the Boston Celtics basketball team appeared hardly noticeable last night in the standout performance of teammate Bill Russell.

★ ★ ★

Russell held the Detroit Piston offense to a standstill as his colleagues Bill Sharman and Tom Heinsohn piled up a total of 47 points in the Celtic 112-90 smothering of the Detroit Pistons.

★ ★ ★

Russell, the 6-foot-9 former San Francisco star, was matched against three different Piston centers but came out ahead each time. He took rebound after rebound — nearly 30 all told — and canned 15 points in a sparkling performance.

George Yardley, the NBA's leading scorer with an average of 28 points per game, was held to 22 as the Pistons went down to their sixth defeat in 11 games. The loss dropped Detroit to third place in the Western Division standings, 1½ games behind front-running St. Louis and ½ game behind idle Cincinnati.

★ ★ ★

The New York Knickerbockers defeated the Minneapolis Lakers 124-123 in an overtime game in the opener of the double header at Olympia Stadium.

Attendance was 5,273.

The Celtics rolled to an 18-point lead over the Pistons in the first period and from there on in it was easy sailing. They headed Detroit 59-35 at the half and led 92-63 at the start of the fourth period. Most of the time they were at least 30 points in front.

The Pistons, trying for their second victory in their new home town, never got within 16 points of the Boston crew as Sharman and Heinsohn took up the scoring slack left by the injury of Cousy who didn't play.

The Pistons, who have added Bill Ebben of the University of Detroit to the roster, play St. Louis away Saturday. Ebben, however, who finished his college career last spring, won't join the club until it meets New York in the big city Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

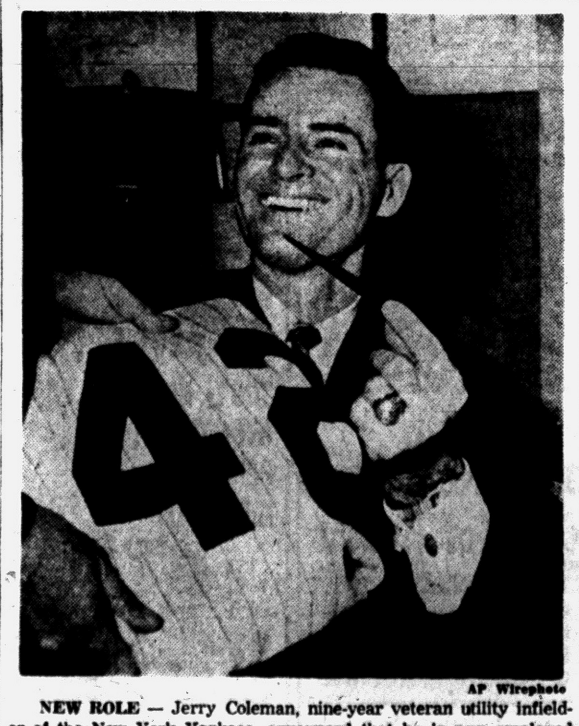

Pontiac's Guy Sparrow gave the Knicks a needed shot in the arm early in the fourth quarter as he poured in eight straight points for the New Yorkers. He added a bucket late in that quarter to put the Knicks into a 107-105 lead, chalking up ten points for the evening. Sparrow also played briefly in the first quarter, but came out of the game after being shaken up in a collision in the Minneapolis forecourt.

Champions Seek Clean Big Ten Mark for Coast

Ohio State Has Won Only Once Since '37 at Ann Arbor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — For the first time in 54 meetings, Ohio State's grid game with Michigan Saturday will be just a whistle stop on the Buckeye cross-country dash to the Rose Bowl.

The wily Wolverines, most honored foe of the newly-crowned Big Ten champions, have beaten the Bucks 34 times against 15 losses and four ties. Ohio has beaten Michigan at Ann Arbor only once since the late Francis Schmidt's 1937 team did it, that was 17-0 in 1955.

Many, many times the two teams have come up to the final game with the championship hanging in the balance for one or the other. But this time it's all settled.

Ohio State grabbed everything—its 11th Western Conference crown, its third title in four years, and its fourth Rose Bowl trip—by coming from behind in the last four minutes last Saturday and dethroning Iowa 17-13.

★ ★ ★

That puts the Michigan game—to everyone except coach Woody "just another contest" category. Woody wants this one for his 24th Big Ten victory in 26 starts, to avenge last year's 19-0 loss, and to carry a clean league record to Pasadena for the Rose Bowl battle with coach Len Casanova's twice-beaten Oregon Webfoots.

★ ★ ★

Until last week the opposition had been able to ignore Ohio's aerial attack and concentrate its defenses on stopping the sweeps and offtackle bursts of Don Clark, the nine-goal speedster from Akron.

They can still ignore the passing threat, but they'll have to build a dam across the middle to stop the Big Ten's newest threat.

★ ★ ★

That would be Bob White, the 203-pound sophomore from Covington, Ky., who against Iowa gave the greatest fullbacking performance Ohio Stadium has ever seen as he rolled for 157 yards in 22 cracks at the line. He got 65 of them in seven tries in the eight-play come-from-behind touchdown drive in the dying minutes. He scored the counter—his first of the year—on a five-yard crash.

Red-haired Bob started as a fullback, then shifted to center and then back to third-string fullback this season. He still plays center on defense.

He wears contact lenses while playing, regulation spectacles when studying. But he didn't have to see last Saturday. The team just pointed him toward the goal line and he tore things apart to get there. His 157 yards exceeded by two the entire ground output by the Hawkeyes. They also bettered by 10 yards the entire rushing effort of last year's Ohio team as it lost 6-0 to Iowa.

He'll compete for the MVP title in the MIAA conference.

The Dutchmen elected tackle Lary Termolen, also of Grand Rapids, captain of next year's football squad.

Oosterbaan Denies Quitting

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Michigan coach Bennie Oosterbaan said today whispers that the traditional game with Ohio State tomorrow would be the last in his 10-year career as head coach are untrue.

"Rumors that I am going to retire from active coaching at the end of this season are unfounded," Oosterbaan said.

★ ★ ★

The possibility that Oosterbaan would be forced out and given the position of assistant athletic director is remote.

A former star end at Michigan, Oosterbaan has been connected continually with the Wolverines since he entered the university in 1924 as a freshman.

With him under considerable fire, many close observers have hinted his backfield coach, Bump Elliott, would replace him soon after the season ends.

Iowa's Forest Evashevski always is mentioned by those who believe Michigan would choose a ready-made name coach, when Oosterbaan decides to step down.

★ ★ ★

There also have been rumblings that Evashevski will resign at Iowa after this season.

Coach Davey Nelson of Delaware has been cited as another possibility.

Mikes Must Stop Lyon Sunday

By BILL CORNWELL

A roaring lion has long been the trademark for one of America's leading motion picture companies.

They don't make movies at St. Frederick, but the southside school has its own version of the time-honored symbol. He's Jack Lyon, a package of football dynamite.

St. Fred supporters devoutly hope that Lyon will do plenty of roaring at Wisner Stadium Sunday afternoon when the Rams collide with St. Michael for the city parochial championship.

Lyon, who stands only 5-8 but weighs a solid 160, has been the sparkplug of a St. Fred gridiron resurgence which has seen the Rams win four games in seven starts this fall.

The chunky fullback makes a habit of scoring touchdowns and he has reeled off 18 of them during the 1957 season to nail down the Oakland County scoring title with 108 points.

There is more to Lyon's football make-up than just offense. He switches to guard on defense and his work there has been praised by rival coaches as much as his ball-carrying ability.

Many other St. Fred gridders have played a vital part in their comeback. Dick Kast, a sound defensive player who moved from quarterback to end, center Joe Sharpe, tackle Don Landry, halfback Tom Derocher and Jim Kennedy, freshman field general, are the most notable.

St. Mike, which has defeated the Rams the last seven times out, is well aware of St. Fred's offensive power and Lyon's ball-lugging prowess. But the Shamrocks are by no means ready to roll over and play dead.

There is every indication that the Mikes are willing and able to hold their own against the Rams and the momentum of seven straight wins in this series is a factor in their favor.

Although St. Mike's attack has been spotty this year, coach Bob Mineweaser has built a rock-ribbed defensive unit which has thrived in spite of the loss of tackle Lou Palace and end Paul Harding with knee and head injuries respectively.

Tackle Jerry Ohngren, a 192-pound senior whose specialty is blocking kicks among other talents, and Ed Lauinger, a 137-pound guard who tackles viciously, spearhead the Shamrock defense which has yielded an average of only one touchdown per game.

Tackle Fred Lauinger, a 229-pound sophomore, has done an admirable job of replacing Palace while Ron Call and George Drake have bolstered the defense at end positions.

Fullback Jim Fox has been St. Mike's most consistent scoring threat and occasional flashes of halfback Chuck Steinhelper.

The Shamrocks' record of five wins in seven games is better than St. Fred's and a triumph Sunday will assure them of 3rd place in the Suburban Catholic League standings.

A victory for coach Gene Wright's Rams, on the other hand, will enable them to share 3rd spot with the Mikes. Each team would then have a 4-3 league record.

New Pool, Veteran Squad

Maples Eye 'Best Season'

By R. GUY MOATS

With a fine new pool in which to swim, and a veteran squad to do the splashing, Birmingham High's 1957-58 swimming team may be pointed for the school's best year at the sport.

That's the opinion of veteran coach Jay Myers, tempered by the observation that "anything can happen in sports." Jay says that "barring Asian flu, ineligibility or other untoward developments, we should have our best team."

Maples did all right last winter. They won the EML title, compiled a fine, overall record, and had a state record-holder and MHSAA champion in Tom Bechtel. They were 6th in the state meet, unbeaten in dual competition. But Bechtel, ill from infectious hepatitis virus, may be lost for the season, Myers says. He's a senior, and ace free-styler.

First meet in the new pool and season's opener, is set for Nov. 27 at 7:30 p.m. against Highland Park. Schedule for duals (15) closes with Hazel Park Feb. 18. Eight are home contests. Schedule is the heaviest in Maple history.

New pool has six 7-foot lanes, two one-meter diving boards, underwater windows to permit coach to make stroke corrections while boys swim, a turn-off valve to reduce surface waves. Seating capacity is nearly 1,000.

Top performers, outside Betchtel, in whom Maples will lean, include Pete Sintz (free style sprints, butterfly, medley), Jim Peters (butterfly), Dave Smith (backstroker, medley) and Dave Rider (breaststroke).

Maples schedule—Nov. 27, Highland Park; Dec. 3, Grosse Pt; Dec. 10, at Southfield; Dec. 12, at Plymouth; Dec. 17, at Dondero; Dec. 20 at Hazel Park; Jan. 7 Kimball; Jan. 10 at Mt. Clemens; Jan. 14 at Ferndale; Jan. 24 at Kimball (RO); Jan. 31 Plymouth; Feb. 7 Southfield; Feb. 1 Ferndale; Feb. 14 Mt. Clemens; Feb 18 Hazel Park; Feb 28 EML prelim; Mar. 7 EML finals; state meet Mar. 14 (site to be named).

190-Pound Deer Fail to Quality for 'Tourney'

Two fine bucks that weighed 190 pounds or more today failed to qualify for The Pontiac Press big deer contest.

The reason?

A 205-pounder grabbed the top spot.

Charles Weeden, Oxford, downed his first buck in 18 years 10 minutes after start of the season. The 10-pointer (190 pounds) was taken at Silver City in the Upper Peninsula at 150-yard range.

Floyd Williams, Drayton Plains, bagged a 17-point, 195-pounder at Cornell, Upper Peninsula, hunting with brother Dave and Garfield Garton. The buck sported a freakish rack, each point bearing forked spikes several inches long. He reported seeing many deer in the area.

Senator Gets His Buck

VANDERBILT (AP) — Sen. Potter (R-Mich) shot a nine-point buck while hunting yesterday near this Otsego county community.

A member of his hunting party, Ed Wilson, son of former defense secretary Wilson, also killed a deer.

Others in the group included Fred Knorr, former president of the Detroit Tigers; Glenn McDonald, Editor of the Bay City Times; and Robert MacLaughlin, an official of the McLouth Steel Corp.

Returning Hunters in Brief Bridge Tieup

With only one deer among them, eight Oakland county hunters have returned home, with probably sharper memories of the brief tie-up at the new Mackinac bridge, than of the hunting jaunt.

The party, composed of Forest Baker (Rochester), who downed a 165-pound, 8-pointer at Garden, Harold, Don, Gary "Porky" and Jim Lumm, of Rochester and one other from Clarkston, waited on the approaches while state troopers cleared traffic.

"Two trailers overturned on the approaches (one at each end) and held up traffic for a few minutes," said Baker.

REVERE, Mass. — Joe Devlin, 152½, Boston, stopped Hal Jaynes, 150, Springfield, Mass., 1.

MARSEILLE, France — Mohammed Omari, 132, France, outpointed Ray Paimi, 136, Italy, 10.

Imlay City Dominates South Central Eleven

Champion Imlay City placed four players on the offensive unit and one on the best defensive eleven in a selection of all-star teams made by the South Central Conference League recently.

Named Coach-of-the-Year

Muddy Waters Is Honored

DETROIT (AP) — Frank (Muddy) Waters of Hillsdale college has be named Michigan's small college coach of the year by the state district of the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics and by the Associated Press.

★ ★ ★

The popular Hillsdale coach has guided his team to 34 straight football victories, the nation's longest winning streak. He has lost only one game and tied one while winning 34 since taking over at Hillsdale in 1954.

Waters' teams have won the MIAA title four years in succession. Previously, Waters was an outstanding fullback at Michigan State University and coached at Albion High School and Walled Lake High school.

He came to Hillsdale in 1953 as backfield coach.

★ ★ ★

Waters and the AP's all-state small college football squad will be honored at a luncheon in Marshall, Mich., on Tuesday, Dec 3. Waters will receive the coach-of-the-year award and awards also will go to members of the first and second teams.

The AP's all - state collegiate team will be announced next week.

Yankee Slugger Edges Williams in Close Ballot

Sievers in Third Place With 2 Tigers Among Top Ten

NEW YORK (AP)—Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees was voted the American League's most valuable player of the 1957 season today by the Baseball Writers' Assn. of America.

It was the second consecutive MVP award for the star center fielder but, unlike 1956 when he swept the boards, polling the maximum 336 points, Mantle barely beat runnerup Ted Williams of Boston and Roy Sievers of Washington, who finished third. Mantle had 233 points, Williams 209 and Sievers 205.

Mantle had only six first place votes, compared to five for Williams and four for Sievers, but none of the 24 voting members of the association named him lower than fourth. Williams, for some inexplicable reason, received one tenth and one ninth place vote. Sievers' lowest vote was one seventh.

All three were named on every ballot, as was Nellie Fox of the Chicago White Sox, who finished with a surprising five votes for first place and 193 points. Gil McDougald of the Yankees, who commanded the four other first place votes, finished fifth with 165 points.

★ ★ ★

It was the fourth time in his brilliant career with the Red Sox that Willams finished second in the Most Valuable Player balloting. The great slugger won the award in 1946 and 1949. Ironically, in each of his runnerup finishes, it was a Yankee who beat him.

Ted finished second by 41 points to Joe DiMaggio in 1941 despite his spectacular .406 batting average. The following year he paced the league in practically all offensive departments but lost by 21 points to Joe Gordon. His margin of defeat in 1947 was just one point, when DiMaggio again won, because one Boston writer refused to give him even a 10th place vote.

Williams also finished third once and fourth twice since he came to the big leagues in 1939.

Vic Wertz, slugging Cleveland first baseman, finished sixth in the voting, with 61 points. He was followed by Frank Malzone, Red Sox third baseman, 58; Minnie Minoso, Chicago outfielder, 55; Jim Bunning, Detroit pitcher, 46; and Al Kaline, Detroit outfielder, 40.

Press' Deer 'Derby' Rules

Reminders of Oakland county deer hunters concerning The Pontiac Press "big deer" contest:

Present leader — 205 pounds (Bruce Hall).

★ ★ ★

Rules, regulations — Full-time residents of Oakland county only are eligible.

★ ★ ★

Bucks may be taken anywhere in Michigan, where legal hunting is available (no special season deer eligible), during regular gun season (Nov. 15-30).

★ ★ ★

Weight only considered. All deer MUST BE DRESSED OUT before weighing. Weighing must be made on approved, state-inspected scales (lumber-fuel yard, supermarket or food locker are OK).

★ ★ ★

Weight slips, signed by weigher, one witness, and the hunter must accompany entry. Entries should be brought to The Press for checking and photographing. Entries may be filed between 7 a.m., 1:30 p.m. daily, except that none will be taken after 12 noon, Saturdays, and none on Sundays.

★ ★ ★

Final date for entries is Dec. 3, at 12 o'clock noon.

Winner will receive $.50 U. S. Savings Bond.

Dog Show on Sunday

Battle Creek Kennel Club is holding an AKC-sanctioned all-breed match for pure-bred dogs on Sunday, at the BC Warehouse building on Edison (Battle Creek). Obedience and junior handling competitions will also be held. Judging starts at 1:30 p.m.

Ranks of Long Term Hunters Dwindle

By JACK PATTERSON

ALPENA—It isn't like it used to be in the old days. Serious deer hunters took two weeks off for hunting and that's all there was to it. Of course they pretty much had to it was such a job getting in and set up that it was hardly worth it for a shorter time. Rapid, easy transportation cured that and the ranks of full-termers are dwindling.

PATTERSON

It's particularly noticeable here now that the first week of the season has run its course. The woods are by no means deserted but in comparison with the early part of the week deer go their way practically unmolested. The approaching weekend will bring in new reinforcements, though, and heavy ones, so deer, Don't let down your guard.

We ran into Floyd Studaker at Frederic and he had an interesting observation to make on changing conditions in the upper. An area which has been loaded with deer for years showed nary a track this season. Such fluctuations are nothing new, of course, but when they are noticed in the Upper this year, watch the bridge get the blame.

Some Pontiac hunters still operating around Luzerne are Walter Green Fred Bauers and Joe Linegar.

That is a popular area with Pontiac hunters but so many have left for home we didn't do a very good job of tracking them down.

Truckloads of southbound Christmas trees not only serve notice that winter is closer than you think but also reminded us that we ought to check on our own tree plantation in Otsego County.

We wanted to go over in the starvation lake area anyway and see if we could substantiate rumors of the herd of wild horses reputed to roam the region. Wanted to ask them if many of them got mistaken for deer.

★ ★ ★

Didn't find hoof nor whinny of horses, wild or otherwise, and at our place considerable fewer trees than the planters guarantee.

Went back to the cabin to pick up some gear. The other members and guests are gone and what a contrast to the gaiety and liveliness of a few days ago.

No cheering lights as we approach the cabin along the winding drive through the hardwoods and spruces. Inside, the bar stands forlorn and deserted, no signs of after-hunting conviviality there. The feeling of coming home is gone.

★ ★ ★

It reminds us again that it is people, not things, that make a place memorable. We consider spending the night. The wind is swooshing about and flurries of snow rattle against the windows. There are strange noises outside. Bye and bye there are strange noises inside. Warlocks and boglies maybe??

2½ Miles in 6 Hours

George and Alvin Cole, Rochester deer hunters, were glad to get home from Alberta, in Baraga County. That feeling grew out of the six long hours they spent bucking two feet of snow to go two-and-a-half miles to M41. "That was some job," said George. "Snow was up over the hood of our car as we bucked it out. It was two feet deep on the level."

★ ★ ★

George took a 9-point, 180-pound buck.

STRIKES AND SPARES
By Joe Wilman

I like to refer to the back swing and the forward swing of the arm as a pendulum swing, but actually it's not a perfect pendulum swing.

First, the forward swing is faster than the back swing. It is accelerated smoothly throughout the forward swing to give the ball its proper speed at release.

Second, the forward swing of the arm is not a perfect pendulum because the arm comes forward and replaces the right leg at the foul line as the right leg extends back for balance and braking. Often I can feel the ball brush lightly against my left pants leg as I bring it forward to deliver it.

I call it a pendulum swing, however, to impress on you the chief characteristics of the armswing. The arm takes the ball straight back and retraces the same path forward as we show today. Keep in mind the actions of a clock's pendulum, and you'll understand the basic pattern for your armswing.

Ohio Coach Promoted

ATHENS, Ohio—Carroll Widdoes resigned as Ohio University head football coach, but will keep his post as athletic director.

Upset Fever Still Strong With Irish

SOUTH BEND, Ind., (AP) — Upset fever which surged through Notre Dame last week and brought victory over Oklahoma again is strong as the fighting Irish prepare for Iowa tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

For the last two days more than 500 students held impromptu rallies outside the football practice field. Similar demonstrations last week were credited by coach Terry Brennan with arousing his players to new heights of determination and led to the 7-0 conquest of the Sooners.

★ ★ ★

"We'll need another all-out effort to beat Iowa," says Brennan, whose Irish bounced back from thrashings by Navy and Michigan State to ambush Oklahoma and post a 5-2 season record thus far.

★ ★ ★

"In Iowa we'll be facing a versatile, powerful team with a tremendous size advantage in the line. They average 216 pounds per man up front compared to 201 for us.

★ ★ ★

"But if we can't run through them, we'll have to try to run around them or pass over them. I'll start the same team that opened against Oklahoma."

★ ★ ★

Iowa, a seven point favorite in the regionally televised contest will be closing its season for the seventh successive year against Notre Dame. The Hawkeyes fumbled away their chance of retaining the big ten title last week in losing 17-13 to Ohio State.

★ ★ ★

"We'll just forget what happened at Ohio State and remember the lessons," says coach Forest Evashevski. "We must start hitting and tackling. We've got to tighten our defense. The Irish rely upon a running game with a strong fullback of the type that wrecked us at Ohio.

★ ★ ★

"Our scout Whitey Piro rates Notre Dame 80 per cent improved over the team that Iowa beat 48-8 last year. They want to atone for that beating. This should be a real good game."

★ ★ ★

Fullback Bob White was instrumental in Ohio State's victory and fullback Nick Pietrosante was a key in Notre Dame's triumph over Oklahoma. Pietrosante, an excellent defensemen, has a 5-yard average in 89 trips with the ball and has averaged 30.2 yards in 37 punts.

Junior Editors Quiz on NORTHERN LIGHTS

QUESTION: What makes the Northern Lights shine?

ANSWER: Perhaps you did not realize it, but the Northern Lights are visible at times in nearly all parts of the United States. They are most common and most brilliant however, in the regions near the Canadian border and, of course, in Canada itself. On a clear night they will appear like a folded, fluted curtain flashing and shimmering high in the sky. Sometimes they are white and sometimes colored. They extend as high as 400 or 500 miles in the air. Similar lights appear in the regions near the South pole. Scientists are not in complete agreement about the causes of the lights but it seems evident they result from the emission of electrically charged particles from the sun. These particles are affected by the magnetic poles of the earth, which explain why the lights are seen in the polar regions.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: You can use lots of bright colors on this picture of an Eskimo boy watching the lights. Then paste it on cardboard, cut out around the outer outlines, fold as indicated and stand it up.

Tourist Campaign Flops

Reds Fail to Lure British

LONDON (INS)—Russia flopped in her first big venture into the competitive world of alluring travel posters and brochures in an attempt to win British tourist trade.

★ ★ ★

For the flashing smiles of the Muscovite bathing girls on the colorful advertising posters attracted only an additional 125 Britons from their usual Western vacation haunts.

★ ★ ★

A Soviet Embassy spokesman admitted that they were disappointed at this poor response to the charms of their attractive posters and to the new facilities offered to British tourists in the U.S.S.R.

★ ★ ★

But the Intourist officials are not downhearted and say they hope for a better season in 1958 with perhaps a drastic increase also in the official tourist ruble rate.

★ ★ ★

Richard Colmer, secretary of the British travel agents, thought the Russians had every chance of rapidly increasing the tourist traffic. Colmer explained:

"The Russians are very impressive when they want a thing done. When I was last there to discuss tourist facilities everything went like clockwork.

IMPROVING FACILITIES

"The roads are bad for auto travel but the Russians are going all out improving rail, air and steamer facilities, which already are very good.

★ ★ ★

"The greatest drawback is the exchange rate of the ruble. Even at the tourist rate of 27 to the pound (10 to a dollar) a vacation in Russia is expensive.

★ ★ ★

"If that difficulty is overcome and a reasonable ruble rate arranged, I think you will find many more Britons traveling to the Soviet Union."

★ ★ ★

British travel agents said that about 500 British tourists — only 125 over the usual number—went to Russia this year by sea, coach and rail, and air. Only about a dozen made the journey by auto.

★ ★ ★

The Russians began laying out their red carpet for British tourists early in January with attractive advertisements in the British newspapers.

PERSONAL CONTACTS

Intourist also sent their genial, smiling representative Vladimir Smirnov to London to step up the drive by personal contacts.

★ ★ ★

Smirnov kept up the advertising pressure until late summer with 40-page brochures, and pictures of smiling girls in the London-published Soviet Weekly.

But the Russians had to admit that the results of the first year's drive were "most disappointing."

Hal Boyle Says:

Irving Berlin Self-Taught Musical Genius

NEW YORK (AP) — Fifty years ago a young Bowery singing waiter wrote the words for a song called "Marie from Sunny Italy," and it earned him a total of 37 cents.

Today, more than 1,000 songs later, Irving Berlin, whose golden anniversary in show business is being widely celebrated, is believed to have made more money out of music than any other man in history.

Just how much this self-taught genius of song has amassed is a favorite topic of Broadway conjecture. But it is known that as of last June 30 the tunes and shows he has donated to different charities had raised $10,079,768. Not a bad donation from a boy who once sang in the streets for pennies!

One of his tunes, 'White Christmas," sold 23 million records. More than 250 new recordings of his songs have been made in the past few months alone.

The world enjoys his music, but knows little of Irving Berlin, the man. He will be 70 next May 11. What is he like—this brooding, solitary figure who, after all these years, can still play a piano in only one key—F sharp?

Few men are heroes to their valets, but Berlin remains very much of a personal hero to Helmy Kresa, 53, his arranger.

★ ★ ★

Kresa, a former student at the Dresden Conservatory in Germany, wanted to be a conductor. But he started as a copyist for Berlin in 1925, became his arranger in 1927, and has stayed with him ever since.

"Irving is the most prolific song writer who ever lived," he said, "and he is as interested in his work now as ever.

"Weeks may go by without his turning out a single tune, and then he will write 10 in a row.

"He is a real craftsman with the language as well as with the tunes. By the time he has finished a song, he usually has enough good lyrics left over to make five other songs.

"He requires no special atmosphere to create. He writes any place—wherever he is—in an airplane, a car, at a desk, or walking. He concentrates night and day on his songs.

"I have left him at midnight and come back in the morning and found him still there, wearing the same clothes. But the song would be finished.

"He works well under pressure. He composes mostly in his head, then plays it later on the piano. Sometimes, when he has finished a new song, he will phone me and sing it to me—and I write it down. I am the musical stenographer."

"He is a very warm man, and doesn't like ostentation. He doesn't like insincerity. He can see through human nature at a glance, and can spot a phoney on sight.

"One thing that amazes me is that he has a phenomenal memory, and yet can be very absent-minded.

★ ★ ★

"He may walk out of a room and forget his coat and hat. But he can also concentrate and do three things at once—dictate a social letter, talk to his lawyer, and at the same time work out a new tune in his head. He is regarded as one of the best businessmen in the field.

"He doesn't get mad very often, and is tolerant of forms of music he doesn't care for himself — such as rock 'n' roll.

"What is his favorite of all the songs he has written? Although he says he has no favorites, I would say the one closest to his heart is 'God Bless America.'"

Money Climbs to $1,100 Mark in Pot-O-Gold

Each week without a winner means another $100, but it also means the chances are getting greater that a winner will come along. Get busy now before someone snatches the prize money right out from under your nose.

The new puzzle contains a series of squares which are alphabetically lettered and a corresponding list of sentences with two clue words. Each of the words is numbered. The object is to select the word which you think best fits the clue sentence. You then place the number of that word in the square which has the same letter as the clue sentence.

In other words, you will read the clue labeled A and decide which of the two words makes the most sense in the puzzle square marked A.

Do the same with all other squares. Read all the clues carefully and be sure the right numbers are in the right squares.

OFFICIAL CONTEST RULES

1. Anyone is eligible to enter the POT-O-GOLD contest with the exception of Pontiac Press employes or their immediate families.

2. Entries must be on official entry blanks printed in this newspaper.

3. To submit an entry the contestant must print his numbers in the proper spaces, cut out the area enclosed by dotted lines and attach it securely to a 2-cent post card. No entries will be accepted if they are in envelopes. Entries for Puzzle No. 77 must bear a Tuesday, Nov. 26 postmark (or before). No entries received after that time whether mailed or delivered by hand, will be declared eligible. The Press is not responsible for entries lost or delayed in the mail.

4. Sorry, telephone calls or mail concerning details of the contest cannot be answered or acknowledged.

5. The Pontiac Press will award a cash prize of $100 a week to the winner of each weekly POT-O-GOLD contest. If more than one winning answer is received the prize will be divided equally among the winners. If any week or weeks should pass without any winners, the prize will be added weekly until a winning solution is submitted.

6. Winners will be awarded an extra cash bonus of $25 each if they are Pontiac Press subscribers of record on the day winners are announced. Only one such bonus can be awarded to each prize-winner no matter how many weekly prizes may accumulate.

7. Each week's puzzle will be published Monday, Wednesday and Friday until the contest's end. Either or all will be considered as official entry blanks.

8. Winners and correct solutions will be announced each Friday of the week following individual contests. Official keeper of answers will be Frederick C. Ziem, prosecutor for Oakland County. Only the General Features Corp., originators of the puzzles, will know the solutions until after each contest is over. Answers will be delivered to the Press Judges by Mr. Ziem after the final deadline.

9. There is only one correct solution to the POT-O-GOLD puzzle, and only that correct answer can win. The decision of the judges is final and all contestants agree to abide by the judges' decision. All entries becoming the property of The Pontiac Press and none can be returned.

10. Completed puzzles must be addressed to POT-O-GOLD, POST OFFICE BOX 58, Pontiac, Michigan. Winners will be notified either by telephone or in the mails.

Sardine Can's Key Opens Up Mail Boxes

MIDDLETOWN, R.I. (AP)—Postal officials today ordered old mail collection boxes replaced after a 7-year-old girl showed an astonished letter carrier she could open them with a sardine can key.

The unidentified young miss, who likes to play mailman, told her mail carrier about her success. He doubted. She demonstrated.

All she did was insert the key, used normally for winding open fish tins, twist it and lift the box door.

The mailman reported the incident to superiors. They checked and found the system worked on old mailboxes with worn out tumblers.

It won't budge new ones, they said.

Little Rock Fight Affects Industry

(Tenth of a series on taxes and industry).

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The question of whether the Little Rock school integration crisis will affect Arkansas' efforts to lure new industry remains unanswered.

Leaders charged with the state's fledgling industrial program agree the answer is vital.

GAUGE EFFECT

One spokesman said, "It is essential that we correctly gauge and measure the total effect of the integration publicity on the state's ability to add industry."

But he added that he believed the racial crisis could be no more than a temporary setback to Little Rock and that he doubted any overall adverse effect on Arkansas as a state.

"The industrialists are businessmen," he said, "and they look beneath today's headlines for signs of economic adaptability."

★ ★ ★

Winthrop Rockefeller, one of the leaders in creating the two-year-old Arkansas Industrial Development Commission (AIDC), said recently it would take six months to assess the damage done by the furore over integration at Little Rock's Central High School.

Rockefeller was appointed chairman of the development commission by Gov. Orval Faubus, who before the integration crisis spent a lot of time on the industrial program.

★ ★ ★

A report distributed by the AIDC shortly before the school battle said industries reflecting 10,383 new jobs had been brought to the state in a fiscal year ending June 30, 1957. An equal number had been added the previous year of 1955-56, the first full year of the AIDC program.

PICK UP INDUSTRIES

Arkansas has picked up a number of industries since the Little Rock integration publicity, one of them the Daisy Manufacturing Co., of Plymouth, Mich.

The company, one of the nation's largest manufacturers of air rifles and toy guns, pulled up from its Michigan home after 70 years of operation to move to Rogers, Ark., in the northwest section of the state.

Rogers has no Negro population.

The announced move brought a blast from Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan who accused the company of moving to get lower cost labor.

★ ★ ★

Arkansas' trump cards in getting new industry include plentiful supplies of water, mild climate, raw materials and comparatively cheap labor in good supply.

While most of the new industry in Arkansas is branch plants of established manufacturing concerns with headquarters in other states, it is in effect industry taken away from the North and East.

★ ★ ★

Among recent comers industrially are well-known names like Brown Shoe Co., Standard Register, Teletype Corp., Yale & Towne Mfg. Co., International Paper Co., Clary Corp., and others.

The AIDC, with Rockefeller influence and money, has become a model for other states. William Rock, operating head of the commission, has been recognized in recent months as one of the outstanding planners for expanded industrialization in the nation.

Factors such as tax writeoffs, industrial loans through bond sales and other inducements are much like other southern states with similar programs.

★ ★ ★

Arkansas seeks out industrial expansionists in the North and East and invites them to look over prospective sites here. AIDC has, in Rockefeller's words, tried to be honest with investors in pointing out strong and weak points. This, the chairman said, has made AIDC reports more than just chamber of commerce chantings.

Police Slayer Suspect Caught

Mental Escapee Held in Death of 2 North Carolina Patrolmen

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)—"I'm Wetzel. I was in an asylum in New York for awhile."

★ ★ ★

A dozen words spoken by a man serving 30 days in jail for vagrancy. But they spelled finis last night to a weeklong nationwide manhunt for Frank Edward Wetzel, mental institution escapee sought in the killing of two North Carolina state patrolmen.

Wetzel confirmed his identity after fingerprints on file with the FBI were matched with those taken from a stolen car parked near an alley where he was arrested here Tuesday night.

★ ★ ★

Wetzel had been the object of an intense manhunt since Nov. 14, when his prints were taken from another stolen car—one of several found along a trail leading from the scene of the double slaying in North Carolina.

★ ★ ★

The governor of Mississippi called out the National Guard after Wetzel, 36, escaped from the Willard, N. Y., mental institution Oct. 21. Wetzel had announced that he intended to free his brother, William, 37, who is under a death sentence in the Mississippi State Penitentiary at Parchman.

★ ★ ★

Wetzel originally had been arrested Sept. 26 and charged with the burglary of a Batavia, N. Y., gun shop. He had been sent to the mental institution for observation.

★ ★ ★

Two Bakersfield patrolmen arrested Wetzel Tuesday night when they caught him loitering in an alley next to a sporting goods store that sells firearms.

He put up quite a battle, the officers reported, and was taken to the police station in handcuffs. Once there, however, he calmed down and became quite polite.

Aircrafts Gain in Quiet Trade

NEW YORK (AP) — Aircrafts gained in a mixed and uncertain stock market early today. Trading was quiet.

Favorable reports on a number of the new missiles drew attention to the shares representing them, but most of their gains were narrow.

★ ★ ★

Douglas Aircraft, main contractor for the Thor, was an exception, rising 1⅜ at 71⅝ on an opening block of 1,700 shares.

Curtiss-Wright steadied after its beating of yesterday and rose ⅛ at 27 on an opener of 3,000 shares. North American Aviation rose close to a point.

A number of leading issues in motors, rails, oils, motion pictures, chemicals and nonferrous metals were unchanged after two days of rallying on exceptions of further credit-loosening steps by the federal reserve board.

★ ★ ★

Baltimore & Ohio dropped a major fraction and Du Pont about a point. Youngstown Sheet and Union Carbide were fractional gainers.

Small losses were taken by U.S. Steel, Anaconda, International Nickel, Westinghouse Electric, Sinclair and American Airlines.

General Motors, Chrysler, Santa Fe, New York Central, Standard Oil (New Jersey) and American Smelting showed little change.

Reports Auto Output Falling Short of Mark

DETROIT (INS) — Ward's Automotive Reports said today U. S. plants currently are assembling cars and trucks at the fastest rate of the year, but still are expected to fall short of November schedules.

★ ★ ★

Original programs of 615,000 cars and 95,000 trucks, Ward's said, have been cut down to 585,000 cars and 90,000 trucks.

The statistical agency said the most troublesome output snags are being encountered by Ford, Chrysler and Studebaker-Packard while General Motors and American Motors are "right on target."

Ward's looks for production to reach 153,917 cars and 23,373 trucks this week as compared with 141,902 cars and 22,666 trucks last week.

Robbins Engineering Is Closing Plant

DETROIT (AP)—Th Robbins Engineering Co., a subsidiary of Ex-Cell-O Corp., will close operations today in its Highland Park plant. It has 46 employes, but had a defense production peak of 220.

Local 150 of the United Auto Workers Union, which represents the idled workers, said Ex-Cell-O was moving operations to Lima, Ohio, and Black Mountain, N. C., because of lost contracts but was blaming it on the union.

★ ★ ★

H. G. Bixby, Ex-Cell-O president, charged in a recent statement that "featherbedding and economic wastes, refusal of the union to permit employes to run two or more machines and slowdowns" were responsible for the closing.

Local 151 said that R. M. Jones, Robbins labor relations director, informed employes earlier that it was not union activities but loss of contracts that was forcing the closing.

New Strike Threatens

HIGHLAND PARK (INS)—Chrysler Corp., plagued by a five-day-old strike of 2,200 workers at its Plymouth Division, today faced another strike threat at its Highland Park plant.

GM, DuPont Ruling Ordered

Internal Revenue Unit Called on to Prescribe Distribution of Stock

CHICAGO (AP)—A federal judge has ordered a government ruling on tax aspects of the proposed distribution of General Motors Corp. stock held by E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co.

U. S. Dist. Judge Walter J. Labuy entered an order yesterday calling for the ruling by the Internal Revenue Service. The action resulted from a motion by individual Du Pont and GM Stockholders.

★ ★ ★

Last summer the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that Du Pont violated the antitrust laws in its ownership of 63 million shares—some 23 per cent — of GM stock.

The high court sent the case back to the Chicago court, where it originated, for a determination of how the stock should be disposed of.

The government has suggested that the shares be placed in trust over a 10-year period. Some would be distributed to Du Pont stockholders and some would be sold.

★ ★ ★

At yesterday's hearing, attorneys for the stockholders said the distribution and sale could involve "hundreds of millions of dollars." Spokesmen for the Justice Department and the two firms told Judge Labuy they would join in the request for a ruling.

Daniel Gribbon, Du Pont attorney, said his company would join in the request for the ruling despite its "violent opposition" to the government plan. He said a Du Pont proposal will be filed in U.S. District Court Dec. 24.

Auto Industry to Build 155,000 Cars in Week

DETROIT (AP)—The auto industry will build 154,941 cars this week, highest single week's volume since last December, Automotive News said.

The indicated total will compare with 141,904 assemblies last week and 118,949 in the comparable 1956 week.

This week's truck assemblies should total 23,349 units, compared with 22,646 last week and 17,251 in the like 1956 week.

The trade paper said Canadian output this week will come to 8,900 cars and trucks, compared with 8,813 last week.

Card of Thanks 1

WE ARE DEEPLY GRATEFUL TO our many friends, neighbors, relatives and members of the Church of Christ for their many acts of kindness, prayers, floral offerings, sympathy cards and letters, and also to Brother Truex for his comforting words, during the recent bereavement of our dearly beloved son and brother. We also appreciate the kindness of Mr. Siple and other members of the Voorhees-Siple Funeral Home.
James & Dorothy Flanary and Sandy.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF JOHN Daniel Oaneal who passed away Nov. 23, 1955.
Deep in our hearts lies a picture,
Of a loved one at rest.
In memory's frame we shall always keep it
Because he was one of the best.
Sadly missed by Wife, Son, Mother and Sister.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MR. Clyde Pickering who passed away Nov. 22 1956
In our heart your memory lingers,
Always tender, fond and true.
There's not a day, dear husband and father,
We don't think of you.
Sadly missed by your wife, Cleo and Children.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MRS. Anna Spencer, who passed away Nov. 23, 1954
In my heart your memory lingers,
Always tender, fond and true.
There's not a day, dear wife,
I do not think of you.
Sadly missed by Kelly Spencer and Family.

Witness Boy Rejects Blood Despite Ruling

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Doctors still are trying to persuade an ailing 12-year-old Jehovah's Witness to receive a blood transfusion after a court overruled his father's religious objections.

★ ★ ★

Juvenile Court Judge Sam Davis Tatum ruled that Baptist Hospital could administer the blood recommended by a doctor even though the boy's father James O'dell Graves, objected that transfusions are against his religious beliefs.

But young Ronnie Graves, who suffered a broken leg and head injuries when his schoolroom ceiling fell in during a windstorm Monday, folded his arms and declared "I'm not going to take it."

★ ★ ★

Three nurses and an intern tried to administer the blood for half an hour, but Ronnie refused. Then his physician, Dr. Don L. Eyler, said, "I'm not going to force anyone to take blood."

Ronnie's condition was reported serious but improving.

4 Policemen Penalized

DETROIT (AP) — Four policemen who took time off from their duties election night (Nov. 5) to visit a brewery drew heavy penalties Wednesday. They were ordered to work a six-day week for the next year and lost $275 pay for the 12 days they were suspended. A police trial board imposed the penalties.

The world's largest grove of cultivated pecans, started in 1933 near Las Cruces, New Mexico, today numbers 75,000 trees covering 4,000 acres.

Union Official Assails Editors

Says Papers Unfair to Labor in Coverage of Rackets Probe

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—George M. Harrison, vice president of AFL-CIO, today accused the nation's editors of unfairness to labor in their coverage of the McClellan committee.

"I say that the newspapers have failed to point out that the dishonesty and racketeering revealed before the McClellan committee have involved just as many businessmen as labor leaders," Harrison said in a speech prepared for delivery to the Associated Press Managing Editors Assn.

★ ★ ★

"For every labor man who took a 'bribe or a kickback' there was a businessman who gave it."

Harrison, who also is president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, said that the committee of Sen. John McClellan (D-Ark) was set up to investigate labor and management but "you'll find most newspapers have put the emphasis on the misdeeds of labor."

"You can probably guess that I don't think we've had a fair shake," Harrison added, "and that, incidentally, is all we ever ask, a fair shake."

★ ★ ★

Another request for fuller coverage came from management, in a speech prepared for delivery by Lammot du Pont Copeland, vice president and chairman of the Finance Committee of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co.

"There is good reason to doubt that the public understands as much as it should about the operation of the economic principles that underlie our social, cultural, educational, scientific, and even religious structures," Copeland told the APME.

Guard Cost U.S. Over $3 Million

Source Near Faubus Says Government Spent $90,000 Per Day

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A source close to Gov. Orval Faubus today estimated that the federal government spent $3,436,000 to keep troops on duty here for the first six weeks of enforced integration at Central High School.

Faubus and the government are on opposite sides in the controversy over the presence of the troops.

★ ★ ★

The source, who refused to be identified, said that his figures were based on the first 38 days after the arrival of units of the 101st Airborne Division Sept. 24.

Only federalized Arkansas National Guardsmen now are at the scene, where nine Negro children are attending school with about 1,900 white pupils under a federal court order.

About 225 paratroopers still are stationed here but the Army has announced that they will be returned Nov. 27 to their base at Ft. Campbell, Ky.

★ ★ ★

The estimate indicated that the federal government spent more than $90,000 per day.

The Army has cut the payroll sharply by releasing most of the federalized guardsmen.

A short time after the arrival of federal troops the Army said it was spending $95,000 per day. At that time 10,800 guardsmen were under federal control and were receiving full-time pay. Most of them also were receiving rations and allowances.

★ ★ ★

On Oct. 16, the Army released 9,000 guardsmen from federal service and reduced the complement of regular troops from about 1,100 to 500. On Nov. 8 the number of guardsmen was reduced from 1,800 to 900 and paratroopers from 500 to 225.

NATO Allies Ponder Plans

Scale Sought by Which Chief Could Decide on Use of Nuclear Arms

LONDON (AP)—The Atlantic Allies are reported pondering plans for an "aggression thermometer"—a scale by which NATO's American commander would get limited powers to decide on the use of atomic and hydrogen weapons against any Red aggressor.

★ ★ ★

Informed Western diplomats said the 15-nation Atlantic Alliance is seeking advance agreement on all the varying circumstances in which Communist attacks might take place—and which would, in the Allied view, make nuclear retaliation instantly permissible.

★ ★ ★

The Allies at the same time were said to be engaged in the complicated process of trying to define "grades" of aggression. This, informants said, is to determine what form Allied retaliation might take.

★ ★ ★

The outcome of the study is not yet known. All the members of the alliance are taking part. Conclusions are being prepared for discussion and possible decision in mid-December, when NATO heads of government meet in Paris.

★ ★ ★

In this way the United States and Britain, as the West's only two nuclear powers, are seeking to associate their partners in some of the decisions that might govern the future use—or nonuse—of nuclear weapons.

★ ★ ★

Each, implicitly, has the right and chance to state just when it thinks nuclear weapons should or should not be used.

★ ★ ★

Informants said if and when the Allies agree on the scale of conditions under which massive, limited or conventional retaliation may take place, it certainly will be kept as one of the top secrets of the alliance.

OKs Road Closings

MONROE (AP) — The Monroe County Road Commission Wednesday unanimously approved the closing of portions of four roads in connection with proposed construction of a 10-million-dollar cement plant near Dundee. The roads cross the 14,000-acre site. Closing had been opposed by three residents and the commission delayed its decision two weeks.

The hull of the frigate Constitution, the gallant "Old Ironsides," was of live oak from St. Simons Island, Georgia. The live oak is named for the fresh, lively look of its shiny, oblong leaves.

A NEW CAESAR — Comedian Sid Caesar, who returns to television on Jan. 26, claims that his humor has undergone a change since Caesar's Hour was dropped last spring. In his new half-hour ABC show, Sid will be reunited with his original TV partner, comedienne Imogene Coca.

Does Everyone Look Like Marilyn Monroe?

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — I was at a party the other morning enjoying looking at Marilyn Monroe's sister-in-law, Joan Copeland, the TV, stage and movie actress, when another girl gushed up and said, "You're the brunette Marilyn!"

WILSON

"Yo'ure sweet!" cried Joan (Arthur Miller's sister), hugging another actress who looks like Marilyn, too—in fact, doesn't everybody now?

"Marilyn and I were friends at Actors Studio before she knew Arthur," Joan said. "Once I took her along to run over songs with a new accompanist before a very critical audition. Because of her, I almost blew the show.

"I asked the pianist if I could bring a friend. When Marilyn walked in, he was so nervous, he didn't hit one note right! Guess I should have told him in advance the name of the friend!"

JOAN

Hearing Elsa Maxwell say millions of people loved her on Jack Parr's program, Hermione Gingold phoned friends and asked them if they did. Once, a man, enthusiastically said "Yes." Hermione asked why. "Because she's so fat!" he said.

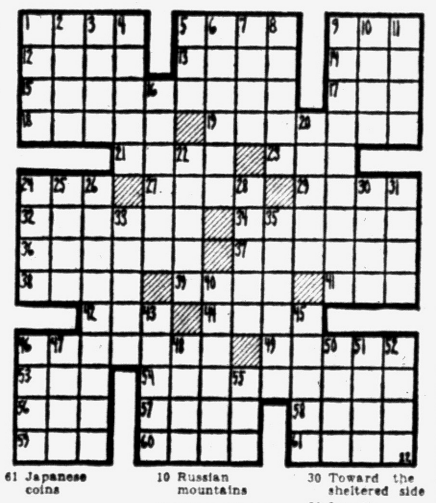

Paul Whiteman's 50th Anniversary TV show'll have some film clips from "The King of Jazz" with songs by then-unknown Bing Crosby. Bing in those days was considered too big in the ears, also the rear, to get anywhere. Mack Sennett let him wear a hat and casual pants and—BING!

Comic Changes Style of Humor

Sid Looking Forward to New ABC Program With Imogene Coca

By CHARLIE MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Meet the new Sid Caesar.

★ ★ ★

The comedian who returns with his old partner, Imogene Coca, to a regular night-time show on ABC-TV in January, is quite a different person today from the harried, exhausted performer who bowed off NBC-TV at the end of last season.

And his humor has changed too, he says.

"I'm not going to kid people. My humor has changed, I think, to kidding myself some too — to showing people that they're not alone.

★ ★ ★

"I want to show that whatever human foibles I hold up to ridicule are my foibles too . . . It's something that evolves from maturity."

LOOKS YOUNGER

A new maturity could be one way of describing Caesar's thought and manner. But in physical appearance he literally looks years younger than he did a few months ago.

He's lost 25 pounds. His face is unwrinkled and shadowless. You'd call him one of the healthiest-looking men in New York.

"I feel better and I think sharper since I took off that weight," Caesar said.

"I'm 35 and the doctor said I should weigh what I did when I was 21. I weighed 190 then. Today I weigh 191½—and that pound and a half is coming off."

★ ★ ★

"I'm glad to be coming back with Imogene. She's a small person in size, but she's 10 times as big as her size in being a great performer . . . No, there's no format worked out yet. We're just coming back."

Father of Philippine Independence Dead

FLEMINGTON, N.J. (AP)—Francis Burton Harrison, former governor general of the Philippines and member of Congress, died in Hunterdon Medical Center yesterday of a heart ailment. He was 83.

A resident of nearby Califon, Harrison had been in failing health for several years and entered the hospital a week ago.

★ ★ ★

He served as governor general of the Philippines from 1913 to 1921. A strong advocate of the establishment of a Philippine republic, he has been called the Grandfather of Philippine Independence.

After the islands were finally granted complete independence July 4, 1946, Harrison served as an adviser to the first four presidents of the republic.

★ ★ ★

Before being appointed to the Philippines by President Woodrow Wilson, he served five terms in Congress as a Democratic representative from New York City.

His bill requiring doctors to account for all narcotics which they bought and distributed formed the basis for the later Pure Food and Drug Act.

★ ★ ★

He was married several times. His widow Marie Theresa Aguiretxe survives, as do eight children.

Actress Jeanne Crain Gives Birth to Girl

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It's a baby girl—the fifth child—for actress Jeanne Crain and her husband, manufacturer Paul Brinkman.

The baby was born yesterday at Queen of Angels Hospital. The new arrival gives the couple three boys and two girls.

The actress and her husband reconciled last New Year's Eve at a colorful filmland party, ending a lengthy separation.

Lengthy Lack of Sleep Brings Hallucinations

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Can't sleep? Then watch out for witches with frizzled hair, luminous chicken wire and water jets spouting through the floor.

★ ★ ★

These are hallucinations reported by persons who have gone without sleep for 72 hours or more, says Dr. Eugene Bliss, associate professor of psychiatry at the University of Utah.

Bliss told the Western American Psychiatric Assn. that he got his information by conducting a "stay-awake" experiment with volunteer medical students.

Many Miss Old Trains

DALLAS (AP)—E. George Siedle, assistant postmaster for transportation, says the railroad fan isn't the only one who misses the many trains of the past. Siedle told a meeting of postal transportation officials finding new ways to move mail along routes served by discontinued passenger trains is his most pressing problem.

Her Dream Was Fine Home

Wealthy Widow's Unused Riches Sold

DALLAS (AP) — Treasures of a wealthy Dallas woman who always dreamed of having a fine home but lived almost 50 years in a downtown hotel will be sold to settle her estate.

★ ★ ★

None of the treasures—including her wedding presents—were ever used. They were sent directly to a Dallas warehouse for storage.

★ ★ ★

The wedding gifts were being unwrapped from their original tissue paper wrappings under the watchful eyes of Pinkerton guards. They will be evaluated by experts from Neiman-Marcus Co., Dallas specialty store.

★ ★ ★

The estate is that of Mrs. T. J. Carmody, who died in 1955. Her husband, a Corsicana, Tex., banker and investor, died in 1940.

J. N. Garitty, vice president of the Corsicana First National Bank and executor of the estate, said he could not estimate the value of the collection.

★ ★ ★

He indicated it would be sold at a private sale after its appraisal.

One antique silver urn bears the original bill of sale showing that Mrs. Carmody paid $2,640 for it.

Another item — a brass clock and pair of candelabra "from the collection of J. P. Morgan" — shows a price of $1,250.

★ ★ ★

Four large wardrobe trunks bought and sent directly into storage, still in their original packing cases, cost $2,200.

★ ★ ★

A sizable group of large antique silver sets and urns were willed by Mrs. Carmody to the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts and are set aside for the museum.

Garitty estimated that the silver going to the museum may be worth $75,000.

"But that's strictly a wild guess," he added.

There are other less valuable treasures too. Bottles of French perfume by the dozen, unopened. Set after set of ivory dominoes, obviously never played with.

★ ★ ★

And, in a tiny box, a little silver thimble and a lock of hair.

The couple traveled widely but always returned to their hotel quarters. She wanted a big home but he prefered living at the hotel.

★ ★ ★

In May 1927, Mrs. Carmody had started sending things she bought to the warehouse for storage. People who knew her said she bought her treasures only after deep consideration.

★ ★ ★

In Mrs. Carmody's wedding book is a clipping from the Corsicana newspaper of 1906. It said: "Those who called to wish the young couple bon voyage lingered to admire the wealth of handsome wedding gifts."

Memorial to Bell Recalls First Exhibit of Telephone

WASHINGTON — In honor of the original achievement, the Telephone Pioneers of America recently voted to erect a monument to Dr. Bell on the Philadelphia site where his telephone was first exhibited to the public.

★ ★ ★

The occasion was the 1876 Centennial, held at Philadelphia's Fairmount Park. The telephone was one of the Massachusetts exhibits, presided over by the father of young Bell's fiancee, Mabel Hubbard.

With his customary modesty—and a touch of Scottish stubbornness—Dr. Bell had refused to leave Boston to explain his invention at the Centennial. He insisted that he had to give an examination instead at the Horace Mann School for the Deaf.

When all family arguments failed to persuade him, Miss Hubbard resorted to feminine guile.

Accompanied by her mother, she went to Bell's rooms and secretly packed his bag. She then bought a some money from the bank, and asked him to go with her for a carriage ride.

The drive, of course, ended at the railroad station, where Miss Hubbard pointed out that she had taken care of all necessary details for the trip. When he still refused to go, she burst into tears. How could she marry a man, she said, who would deny her such a small request?

That settled it. The inventor caught the train as it was pulling out.

FATE INTERVENES

Again, at the Centennial, it seemed as if fate took a hand in the success story of the telephone.

The judges of the scientific exhibits, including the Emperor Dom Pedro of Brazil, reached the Bell machine at the end of the day. Hot and tired, they were about to go home when Dom Pedro recognized the young man whose advanced methods for teaching the deaf had impressed him on a visit to the Horace Mann school.

On learning of Bell's offering, Dom Pedro persuaded the others to remain and inspect it. They heard the inventory recite, from a distant room, "To be or not to be, that is the question." The effect was sensational.

The rest—the prize award, the general acclaim, and the gradual demonstration of the instrument's value to all humanity—is history.

Lock to Be Drained

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP) — The Army Corps of Engineers will pump the David Lock dry next Monday. The MacArthur and Sabin Locks, however, will remain in operation until the end of shipping traffic on the Great Lakes.

The Morrill act establishing the land grant colleges in the United States was passed by congress in 1862.

Alabama estimates her coal reserves, at present rates of consumption, will last about 2,000 years.
