Top Soviets Still Pondering Marshal's Future

Reds Seem Divided Over Zhukov

MOSCOW (INS) — The top Communist Party leadership still appeared to be divided today over major policy decisions involved in the removal of Marshal Georgi Zhukov as defense minister.

The Central Committee sat into the early hours today without any indication of having reached a decision on Zhukov's future.

(An East Berlin Soviet diplomatic source said Zhukov was accused in the committee of fostering the "cult of personality," or one-man rule in the armed forces. The "cult of personality" charge was one made against the late Stalin by Party Secretary Nikita Khrushchev.)

(The Berlin informant also said Zhukov has been under detention since Saturday, when he returned from Albania to learn he had been ousted from the Defense Ministry.)

Observers said the failure of the Central Committee to make any announcement after the long session yesterday which lasted until 3:30 a.m. today indicated there was no unanimity in the party either about the future of the marshal or the policy issues.

The issues were said to go far beyond the mere question of giving Zhukov another post, or relegating him to obscurity.

Reports late yesterday said Zhukov had also been fired from the ruling Presidium of the Soviet Communist Party. These reports were completely unofficial. They came from members of Western diplomatic missions in Moscow.

FUNDAMENTAL CLASH

The issue before the Central Committee appeared to be not merely one of personalities, but a fundamental clash over military policy in the context of "coexistence."

While the Central Committee has been meeting, Moscow has been cut off from the rest of the Soviet Union "as a precaution against pro-Zhukov elements in the armed forces."

The source declared that a showdown became necessary because Khrushchev wanted to make himself free to decide both party and government matters.

A Berlin source said tumultuous scenes occurred during the Central Committee meeting when Khrushchev spoke for more than six

Shepherd Given Life Sentence

Birmingham Man Gets Maximum Jail Term in Slaying of Wife

A maximum sentence of life imprisonment today was imposed on James D. Shepherd, 36-year-old Birmingham man convicted of the second-degree murder of his school teacher wife.

Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams ordered Shepherd to serve the sentence in State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson.

Shepherd, former salesman who admitted stabbing his wife Elizabeth, 42, to death in their home at 1509 Pierce St. last May 27 heard the sentence impassively. He had not asked for leniency.

Conviction of second-degree murder calls for imprisonment for any number of years up to life. Shepherd had originally been charged with first-degree murder which carries a mandatory life sentence.

Judge Adams who had found Shepherd guilty of the lesser charge after a non-jury trial today chose to impose on him the highest sentence possible in Michigan.

Although he admitted wielding the knife Shepherd said that at the time of the slaying he was "blacked out" because of combined use of alcohol and tranquilizing pills.

Yule Parade Will Frolic Through Pontiac Nov. 30

Mark a big red circle around Nov. 30 on your calendar. For on this day you'll want to take the kids, as well as yourself, to see the colorful "Christmas on Wheels" parade sponsored this year by the Downtown Pontiac Assn.

Officials of the association held an organization meeting Monday to map plans for the annual extravaganza. They appointed Allan F. Cady, advertising solicitor for The Pontiac Press, as parade marshal.

There will be some 25 floats in this year's line of march, depicting religious Christmas and children's toyland themes. There will also be seven bands, majorettes, Detroit Edison's calliope, military marching units, and a flock of clowns.

According to Keith Ellibee, executive director of the association, entry forms for eight church floats, seven from schools, and six bands have been received to date.

Ellibee emphasized that this is the first year in which the parade will be conducted in the afternoon. It is slated to head up Saginaw street at 2 p.m.

Church and school workers who will aid in the construction of floats have been asked to attend a meeting Nov. 2 at 3:30 at the Waldron Hotel.

Ellibee also made a plea for convertible owners wishing to offer their cars for use in the parade as official cars. Interested owners have been requested to call him at FEderal 8-8991 or FEderal 5-6148.

Train Hits Car, Killing Driver

Walled Lake Resident Dies Following Collision at Unguarded Crossing

A Walled Lake man was killed this morning when his car was struck by a New York Central passenger train going 80 miles an hour.

Wayne County Sheriff's Deputies reported that Albert L. Steinberger, 48, of 28294 Beck Rd., was killed at a crossing on Hannan Rd. about 1/2 mile south of Michigan Ave., in Nankin Township. Deputies said Steinberger was going south when he approached the unguarded crossing. The east-bound train scattered the car along the tracks for almost a mile.

Detective Harvey Auer, of the Sheriff's Department, said that a signal is being installed at the crossing. This was the fourth death at the crossing in three years, he added. There were no skid marks to indicate Steinberger had attempted to stop.

UF Announces Chief Speaker to Open Drive

200 Volunteer Workers Will Meet for Breakfast, Talk by Dr. C. E. Irvin

Principal speaker at the Pontiac Area United Fund kick-off breakfast Monday will be Dr. Charles E. Irvin, the "Merchant of Message."

Rated among the top six speakers in the United States, Dr. Irvin speaks to nearly 500,000 listeners yearly. He comes to Pontiac sponsored by General Motors Corp.

An ardent United Fund booster, he is the past Assistant Director, Military Welfare, American National Red Cross.

He agreed to speak to the fund volunteer workers at their kick-off breakfast in response to an invitation from Campaign Chairman Dr. Dana F. Whitmer.

Born in Zanesville, Ohio, Dr. Irvin received his education at Oberlin College, Ohio State University and Michigan State University and holds B.A., M.A., and D.E.D. degrees.

He has served as both full and part time educator from 1935 until 1957. He taught business speaking and communications at Oberlin, Ohio State, Allegheny College and Michigan State University.

In addition to his speaking, he writes articles for professional journals. He now devotes full time to speaking and consulting in sales training, management training and business and industrial communication.

Over 200 United Fund volunteer solicitors from Pontiac and Waterford Townships are expected to attend the kick-off breakfast at the Elks Temple.

The breakfast is being sponsored again this year by the Pontiac Manufacturers' Association.

The companies making up the Association are American Forging & Socket Co., Baldwin Rubber Company, Consumer's Power Co., Dostal Foundry & Machine Co., Fisher Body Division, Jig Bushing Co., GMC Truck & Coach Division, Pontiac Motor Division, Pontiac Varnish Co. and Universal Oil Seal Co.

Dr. White Gets Laughs at 5-Mile-Walk Talk

DETROIT (INS) — Dr. Paul Dudley White, heart specialist and consulting physician to President Eisenhower, says all the medicine in the world can't do as much good for a tired businessman as a five mile walk.

White spoke before the Economic Club. His audience, which included about 50 physicians, roared with laughter. White responded: "Yes, I know. I have trouble getting people to walk half a mile with me."

Restore Funds for Research

McElroy Tells Military to Make No Money Cuts on Basic Studies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department has ordered the military services to make no cuts in the $1,700,000,000 which Congress voted for basic research in the current fiscal year.

Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy, who took office Oct. 10, yesterday announced modification of an Aug. 17 economy memorandum issued by his predecessor Charles E. Wilson.

The Wilson memo had the effect of curtailing some basic research spending, although Pentagon aides said this had not been intended.

Scientific matters also got new White House attention today as President Eisenhower arranged to meet with government officials and Dr. Isadore I. Rabi of Columbia University, chairman of a special scientific advisory committee.

Meanwhile, Russia's Sputnik—a major factor in the quickening interest in U. S. research—silently orbited the earth at 18,000 m.p.h. The Red moon was launched Oct. 4.

In the latest of a series of announced technological advances by the military, the Army disclosed some information yesterday about its new Hawk missile, which is designed to blast low flying planes out of the sky.

An announcement said the missile has a radar device that ignores stationary objects and speeds the weapon toward moving aerial targets. The Army said the Hawk can destroy invading aircraft even at treetop level.

The missile is not yet ready for combat issue and an Army statement said the Hawk "must be brought forward rapidly."

Wilson's Aug. 17 memorandum had stirred much criticism from members of Congress and others. The order told the services to cut their spending by an amount equal to 10 per cent of the $1,700,000,000 approved for basic research.

A spokesman said Wilson had intended that the reductions be made out of $3,600,000,000 set up for procurement and production in research and development, rather than trimming basic research funds.

But the interpretation the various services attached to the memorandum resulted, in the end, in the curtailment of basic research spending.

Elvis Disputes Sinatra Attack on Rock 'n' Roll

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Elvis Presley, replying to Frank Sinatra's denunciation of rock 'n' roll, said last night he considers it "the greatest music ever... because it is the only thing I can do."

Sinatra, writing in a Paris magazine, said rock 'n' roll is "phony and false" and is "sung, played and written for the most part by cretinous goons."

"Sinatra has a right to what he wants to say," Presley said. "He is a great success and a fine actor, but I don't think he should have said it."

"He is mistaken about this. This is a trend, just the same as he faced when he started years ago. I consider it the greatest in music. It is very noteworthy, and namely because it is the only thing I can do."

Light Turnout Defeats Issue by 3,530 to 2,150

City Officials Confronted by Big Problem to Equip, Furnish New Wing

An echoing second-round "no" has left another big question mark hanging over the $4,000,000 Pontiac General Hospital addition today.

Property owners residing in the city yesterday repeated their stand taken in May, rejecting a $950,000 bond issue by an unofficial margin of 3,530 to 2,150.

The city had asked approval of the issue in order to provide funds to furnish and equip the new wing. It appeared evident from an impromptu meeting of hospital officials last night that the possibility of continuing the project was almost nil.

It was just as evident that they, as well as city commissioners and city officials, did not know what could be done to finish the project.

The trend in Monday's election was visible about half an hour after the polls closed at 8 p.m. Of the 43 precincts reporting, only 11 showed a favorable vote on the issue.

Precinct 34 at the Public Housing Commission office showed no returns from the 32 votes cast when the machine was opened for a tally. City Clerk Ada R. Evans was to seek an explanation from the manufacturers this morning.

In the first round vote taken May 20, 6,833 property owners cast a thumbs down "no" on a $1,500,000 issue by a 2-to-1 margin of 4,531 to 2,203.

It was apparent in Monday's defeat of the issue, as well as in the May vote, that voters saw a possibility of a tax increase if the issue carried. This was

Some members of the hospital's Board of Trustees hinted that they should let the new wing stand idle "and let those that opposed this worry when an epidemic or tornado strikes Pontiac."

Hearing the results, Carl I. Flath, new hospital director, threw up his arms and said, "It's unbelievable."

Mayor William W. Donaldson walked out of the hospital with fellow Commissioner John A. Dugan and said, "We're all stunned. Dugan had no comment."

Willis M. Brewer, chairman of the Board of Trustees, said: "The people have spoken for the second time. Naturally we are all very disappointed. And I just don't know what the next step will be."

He placed the major reason for the defeat as resentment of many taxpayers that non-residents of the city use the facilities of Pontiac General and only pay a 15 per cent surtax.

Brewer mentioned also "the fear of increased taxes" as being another big reason for the rejection.

Paul A. Kern Jr., president of the Pontiac Taxpayers Assn., which opposed the issue, said the results of the election were a vindication of the belief of many taxpayers that "we can't provide

Film Giant Louis B. Mayer of M-G-M Dead at 72

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Louis B. Mayer, 72, the sentimental film tycoon who assembled the biggest array of stars in motion picture history, died today.

His death was believed to have been caused by anemia, from which he had been suffering for some time.

Mayer was hospitalized in San Francisco last August, but his condition improved and he was allowed to return to his southern California home Sept. 16.

He had been home only a few days, when his condition deteriorated, and he was admitted to the UCLA Medical Center.

Mayer had been receiving blood transfusions several weeks. His condition took a turn for the worse last evening.

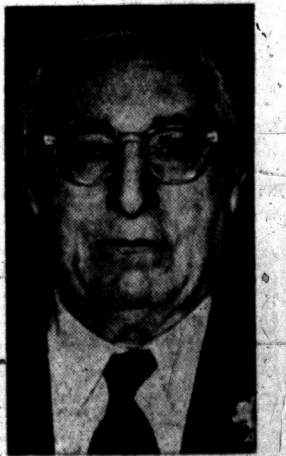

He entered a coma and died at 12:35 a.m.

Mayer—for a quarter-century one of the movies' most powerful executives and from 1937 to 1943 the highest paid worker in the United States—began his business career assisting his father in a ship salvage business.

Born in Minsk, Russia, July 4, 1885, he was taken at three months to St. John, N. B.

That was where he joined his father's business after a short public school education.

He entered the fledgling movie chastened by a cold and hunger, submitted meekly to her captors yesterday.

This was not the same girl who had been romping in the Catskill Mountains for 13 days, defying safaris of all sorts, aircraft and her trainers.

Today she was back at the farm she fled Oct. 16. After a week's repose "to settle her mind" she again will take up the television and circus life that she had forsaken for a simple pastoral existence.

A posse trailed the tired animal yesterday several miles through woods until she finally halted near a quarry. She had been caught and had broken away twice during the day.

Alfred Vidbel, one of her trainers, simply walked up to her and talked. She listened while an assistant put hobbling chains on her legs.

Then she lumbered up a ramp and was off to the farm she had fled when she was frightened by galloping horses.

A veterinarian, after making a quick check with a zoo, administered a shot of penicillin and prescribed whisky in the feed. Two glassfuls were dropped in.

The veterinarian said that Siam's temperature was one degree below normal and that she had a cold in her eyes.

But he found the 13-year-old suffering mostly from upset nerves and shock.

Mrs. Vidbel said Siam received an excited and noisy welcome from her two fellow performers, Bombay and Elhi, also females. They have been together about seven years.

The three spent last night together in a van in order to keep Siam warm.

Mrs. Vidbel pronounced her

Nixon, Gruenther—and Stassen Eisenhower Reported Favoring 3 Men to Lead Republican Slate in '60 Election

By RUTH MONTGOMERY
WASHINGTON (INS)—President Eisenhower has reportedly told several politicians within recent weeks that the Republican Party has "three superb choices" for the presidency in 1960.

A top source said that Ike listed the potential candidates in this order: Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther and "peace secretary" Harold Stassen.

He said the President agreed that Nixon is currently "way out in front" in the running, but that the other two would "also provide excellent presidential timber."

Ike's addition of Stassen's name evoked considerable surprise, since the one-time "boy wonder" governor of Minnesota was demoted shortly after the beginning of Eisenhower's second term.

Stassen, reached by telephone in New York, was asked whether he has had any discussions with the President about his potential presidential candidacy in '60. He replied:

NO COMMENT

"Over the past five years I have enjoyed a wonderful working relationship with the President, and I never comment on my private conversations with him."

Formerly a White House adviser with Cabinet status, Stassen now ranks well down the list of State Department officials and reports to Secretary John Foster Dulles, instead of directly to Ike.

Some political observers had interpreted Stassen's down-grading as a presidential slap for his abortive "Drop Nixon" drive before the Republican National Convention last year.

HOLDS NO GRUDGE

If so, Ike apparently holds no grudge against Stassen, and thinks he has exhibited excellent qualities of leadership during the long, drawn-out disarmament negotiations with the Russians.

Stassen, asked during a television interview last Sunday whether he believed he could contribute to national unity by running for an elective office, replied in these words:

"Any time I thought I could make a greater contribution to support of President Eisenhower... I would do so without hesitation. I think it is quite likely, after these five years of concentrating in these matters of service overseas (disarmament work) that I would come back to the active political arena in support of President Eisenhower and his objectives."

Some politicians interpreted this as a tip-off that Stassen will seek the Republican nomination for gov-

Graham Calls for Conversions

NEW YORK (AP)—Billy Graham says that unless its "half Christians" are converted into "complete Christians" the Christian world will be defeated by communism.

Graham spoke last night at a dinner given by the Protestant Council of the City of New York. Earlier in the day, he learned that he sustained a slight fracture of the knee when he was butted recently by a pet ram at his Montreat, N.C., farm.

After an examination at New York Hospital, Dr. Phillip D. Wilson Jr., orthopedic specialist, told the evangelist he had a slight fracture at the knee, a deep bruise and that the condition known as "water-on-the-knee" had developed.

Graham was ordered to stay off his feet except when absolutely necessary for three weeks. He also must wear stiff knee braces.

At the dinner, Graham declared that the Communists, directed by a handful of "dedicated and disciplined leaders, may triumph unless the Christian world meets the challenge.

He said "we stand in a mad arms race that's about to blow us all to bits."

Graham said two answers are available to the world: The Communist answer "which offers only to their problems" and the Christian answer which "comes not from without but from within."

Plaques were presented to Graham, former Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens and Roger Hull, chairman of the executive committee of Graham's recent New York crusade. Stevens is National Chairman of Religion in American Life.

Graham said he was grateful for the hospitality shown in New York City during his crusade, which ended Sunday with a religious meeting at the Polo Grounds.

"We had never been to a city where we had been treated with such courtesy—by Catholics, Protestants and Jews," Graham said.

Anastasia Pal Held Under $50,000 Bail

NEW YORK (AP)—Anthony Coppola, a slayer of slain mobster Albert Anastasia, has been held in $50,000 bail as a material witness in his boss' shooting.

Authorities say they fear the 41-year-old Coppola would suffer the same bloody fate as Anastasia if he were set free.

"If this man walks out, it may very well be the beginning of open warfare by the hoodlums in this city," Alexander Herman, assistant district attorney in charge of the Homicide Bureau, warned yesterday in General Sessions Court.

Judge Abraham N. Geller agreed with Herman in fixing the high bond for Coppola.

Joseph Panzer, Coppola's lawyer, predicted that the bail will be posted within a day or two.

"There's nothing on earth I fear," bragged Coppola, who often has been described as Anastasia's bodyguard-chauffeur.

"I was just a friend of his... I haven't an enemy in the world and I thought—Mr. Anastasia hadn't any either. May God have mercy on his soul wherever he is."

Reports Administration Sounded Out Adlai

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Herald Tribune said today it was learned on good authority that Adlai E. Stevenson has been quietly sounded out by the Eisenhower administration for appointment to the new civil rights commission.

A Washington dispatch to the newspaper added that Stevenson, the twice defeated Democratic presidential candidate, has discussed the matter with close associates and is reported inclined to turn down the offer.

Man Forces Deputy, 5 Others Off Road

An Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy said today he chased a Pontiac motorist down Auburn road at speeds up to 80 miles per hour last night, after he and five other drivers were forced off the road.

Deputy George R. Emers said he had to drive off the highway on Auburn, just east of Livonia on Avon Township, when a car veered into his lane.

Chasing the driver, Emers saw five other cars which had been forced off the road, he said. When finally stopped, the driver allowed his car to roll back into his patrol car, Emers said.

Driver Emerson R. Leslie, 37, of 83 S. Francis St. was arrested on a charge of drunk driving.

Local Eagles to Present Party for Halloween

The Fraternal Order of Eagles, Pontiac Aerie No. 1230, will hold a Halloween party for members and neighborhood children at the Eagle Hall, 289 W. Montclair St., Thursday.

The party, scheduled to begin at 7 p.m., will feature free cider, donuts and movies for the kids.

Voters Defeat Bond Issue 3,530 to 2,150

despite a promise of the city that no such increase would result next year.

Only 5,738 property owners cast ballots Monday. This is out of a potential of between 15,000 and 17,000 in the city.

Mrs. Evans reported that 26 votes were made void when voters apparently lifted up write-in slots on the machines. This too would be checked with the firm, she said.

WHAT NEXT?

Asked this morning what the next step in the long program to complete the wing would be, City Manager Walter K. Willman replied with an emphatic "I don't know."

Willis M. Brewer, chairman of the Board of Trustees of the hospital, said he would call an emergency meeting with Willman and the commission to discuss the situation.

The million and a half dollar issue had been trimmed down by hospital authorities in a desperate effort to provide just the bare necessities to get the new wing completed and opened.

Brewer hinted last night that contracts for some $400,000-plus of equipment would most likely be cancelled immediately.

The building committee of the board, headed by Edward P. Barrett, plans an emergency session to discuss this issue.

Paul A. Kern Jr., president of the Pontiac Taxpayers Assn., led a fight to defeat the issue, claiming the city had other sources of revenue without asking another bond issue.

The construction of the 200-bed addition is nearly completed with money from an original 1954 issue of $3,000,000.

Officials asked the succeeding issues because they say building costs have risen sharply since then.

Precinct 22, located in the City Hall, was first to turn in returns at 8:15. An hour and 15 minutes later, precinct 19, located at St. Michael's Hall, was the last of the city's precincts to submit returns.

Several city commissioners, in the clerk's office awaiting returns, voiced criticism of the small turnout at some precincts, and later for the special election turnout as a whole.

Precinct 38 at Bagley School reported only 27 voters, the smallest turnout. Precinct 5 at Washington School had the largest with 285.

The first paved street in New York was Stone Street. It got its name because the large cobblestones they used to pave it made it "the stony street."

Economists Present Bleak Picture Governor Williams Fears Unemployment Next Year

LANSING (AP)—Gov. Williams, after consulting with his economic advisers, says he fears a nationwide business slump that will mean above normal unemployment in Michigan's auto industry next year.

The governor said he also is apprehensive that state tax income will not come up to expectations and that Michigan, along with most other states, will be confronted in 1958 with a "very severe fiscal problem."

He talked with newsmen for an hour yesterday after a regular quarterly meeting with his economic advisory group, consisting of university economists and key state officials in the areas of revenue, employment and state budgeting.

Williams related that the advisers had a "generally pessimistic mood" and said that one forecast a recession ahead of the proportions of 1953-54. None was optimistic, he said.

He quoted Dr. Lawrence Seltzer, Wayne State University economist, that a drop of as much as 10 per cent might occur in the Federal Reserve Board's index of productivity, which this summer stood at 147.

Colleges End Relations
Over Deliberate Injury
Controversy

BOSTON (INS)—Northeastern and Brandeis Universities today severed all athletic relations in a controversy over whether a Northeastern player deliberately injured a Brandeis star in last Saturday's football game.

The break came after coach Benny Friedman of Brandeis accused Capt. Bob Lyons of Northeastern of deliberately "elbowing" sophomore end Mike Long, breaking his face guard and causing cuts which required 42 stitches to close.

Coach Joe Zabalski angrily demanded a public apology from Friedman. When it was not forthcoming immediately, Herbert W. Gallagher, Northeastern Director of Athletics issued this statement:

"It is deemed impossible to carry on an amicable intercollegiate program with this (Brandeis) institution and for this reason it is better that we conclude any agreements we might have made with Brandeis University."

Friedman, who is also Director of Athletics at Brandeis, replied with a statement saying:

"Brandeis University, after careful consideration, has come to the conclusion that its athletic program would be better served by a discontinuance of athletic relationship with Northeastern University."

Prices Are Revealed for Studebaker Cars

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Studebaker-Packard Corp. announced increases of $19 to $100 on advertised delivery prices of 1958 Studebaker models compared with 1957.

The smallest increase was for the two-door Scotsman sedan, up from $1,776 to $1,795.

The regular four-door sedan in the President line has been discontinued and the President Classic sedan price was increased from $2,539 to $2,639.

Price of the supercharged Golden Hawk went up $100 to $3,282.

The Day in Birmingham Hearing on Zoning Draws but Half Dozen Residents

BIRMINGHAM — Commissioners last night prepared for a long tough session were amazed to hear the motion for adjournment come shortly before nine o'clock.

The purposely light agenda was prepared to give ample time for the first informal hearing on the new zoning ordinance. Dealing last night with the first three phases of residential zoning city officials expected a widespread interest.

Only about half a dozen residents attended the meeting and not one had a comment to make. City Planner Herbert Herzberg explained the three phases and how they will affect future development of the city.

Carl Ingraham mayor pro tem said he was at a loss to explain the apparent lack of interest on the part of residents. The balance of residential zoning will be discussed in another informal hearing next Monday night.

The suggested residence requirements for members of the various boards and committees appointed by commissioners, was presented last night. After a brief discussion, commissioners voted to withhold action until Mayor William Roberts can be present.

Mayor Roberts has shown considerable interest in this phase of city government and the group felt he should be there for official action.

Reds Seem Divided on Zhukov's Future

hours while listing charges against Zhukov.

Principal charges against Zhukov, according to the source, were that he was building a personality cult similar to the one which surrounded Stalin, that he was using the army as his own property and seeking to make the army loyal to himself rather than to the party and the state.

COMMUNIQUE, LIKELY

The Soviet source said the Central Committee meeting was expected to end either tonight or tomorrow at which time a communique will be issued giving reasons for ousting Zhukov from the Defense Ministry and the party Presidency.

This source said Khrushchev was sure of getting a majority of the Central Committee to support his charges against Zhukov whose only important supporter was said to be Marshal V. D. Sokolovsky, chief of the general staff.

Other members of the armed forces on the Central Committee, including Marshal Ivan Konev, commander of the Warsaw Pact armies, and Deputy Defense Minister Marshal A. M. Vasilevsky, were said to be in opposition to Zhukov.

Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky, who took Zhukov's place as defense minister, may be promoted to the Presidency, which has the day-to-day responsibility for running the party and, through it, the country. The Central Committee is responsible for broad policy decisions.

An editorial in the Tuesday edition of Pravda official organ of the party reminded the people that the party headed by Khrushchev is the "supreme inspirer and holder of Soviet power."

It was the strongest of a spate of recent editorials including some in military newspapers which called attention to party supremacy.

A POSITIVE SIGN

Diplomats regarded the editorials as a sure sign that Khrushchev had acted to keep the army from gaining enough power to endanger his position.

Zhukov is undoubtedly the most popular individual in the Soviet Union and very likely has adherents among the Central Committee membership.

Even if they agreed to a downgrading of their hero they may have asked some sharp questions of Khrushchev because of the timing of the announcement of Zhukov's removal as defense chief.

Screeching Girls Drown the Music of Elvis Presley

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Elvis Presley, wearing a gold jacket Liberace wouldn't be caught dead in, made his Hollywood concert debut last night before 10,000 hysterical members of the coke and malt set.

Few, if any, ever heard a note from the gyrating rock 'n' roll singer.

About half of the audience in Pan-Pacific Auditorium was too far back to see and hear Elvis and the rest of the cast in the two-hour show.

"The only thing that prevented a mass riot," said one police sergeant, "was that he had good people there in the back. It was a crime to sell tickets when there was no chance for the people to see and hear."

Even those in the front part of the auditorium heard little because every time Elvis did his bump and grind gyrations the screeching sounded like the whistle on VJ day.

It didn't bother Elvis. He sang, shimmed, wiggled, burlesqued himself and swung until he was as exhausted as any of his listeners.

A reporter who found himself in the midst of the screaming bobbysoxers heard one young girl scream: "Elvis you're a doll." The reporter turned around kiddingly, and said: "He wears GI shoes." The teenager hit one reporter on the head with her handbag.

Elvis' jacket was gold with solid rhinestone lapels. He wore it over a black shirt and with black trousers.

About a half hour after Presley finished his show, several hundred teen agers, mostly girls, tried to storm a back door of the auditorium in the mistaken notion he still was inside.

About 20 policemen locked arms in-arm held off the bobbysoxers until someone convinced them that Presley had made his getaway long ago.

The program is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. at the Pontiac High School Auditorium, and is one of seven travelogues to be presented through March, 1958.

Gromer, who has won many awards for his excellence in the travel film field, is expected to be one of the season's highlights.

service for all the area on our money."

He called for a hospital authority to finish the project at Pontiac General.

"I only hope the future waits for us," was the comment of William P. Babcock, a member and former chairman of the board.

"It is just unexplainable how the people can put the value of human life on the same pedestal with dollars," said James Clarkson, another board member.

"I would like some frank reasons by those who voted no why they did so, so we, the hospital board and city commission, can improve our public relations in the future," said Rev. Theodore R. Allebach, board secretary.

Know the Weather

By E. H. SIMS

Does a red sunrise indicate rain before the end of the day, as the saying goes?

There is little scientific support for this belief, which is also a part of a rhyme concerning both red sunsets and red sunrises. A red sunrise merely indicates dusty atmosphere to the west in most areas of the country—not a sign of rain.

A red sunset is an indication, in fall and winter, of dry weather and probably cold weather, more often than not. A red sunrise would seem to have the same value as a weather clue.

Therefore, in the famed rhyme about red sunrises and red sunsets, the folklore about the sunrise would often be wrong while the old belief about the sunset would more often than not be correct.

Local Eagles to Present Party for Halloween

The Fraternal Order of Eagles, Pontiac Aerie No. 1230, will hold a Halloween party for members and neighborhood children at the Eagle Hall, 289 W. Montclair St., Thursday.

The party, scheduled to begin at 7 p.m., will feature free cider, donuts and movies for the kids.

Hal Boyle Says:

Secret Dreams of Middle-Aged Odd, Crazy

NEW YORK (U)—Adolescence, they say, is a time of crazy dreams.

But if you put a window in the head of most middle-aged people and let a teen-ager peek at the dreams therein—well, the kid would bust his duodenum from laughing.

The hidden goals of the middle-aged American are as odd as those of any other juvenile delinquent a third his age. Here, for example, are a few hoarded ambitions:

To become a passenger on the s-e-c-o-n-d space ship that makes a successful round trip voyage to the moon.

To scratch his initials on the Taj Mahal when no one is looking.

To find a new pleasure as wild as roller skating.

To open a Chinese fortune cookie and find therein not a printed proverb but a large and lustrous black pearl.

To open an oyster and find the same thing.

To be able to eat a dish of red cabbage without burping for 16 hours afterward.

To be able to eat as much as you want, and still lose as much weight as you want.

To meet again the girl who jilted you in the 7th grade—and have her break into instant tears as she realized the horrible waste she had made of her life.

To work for a boss you can understand, but who finds in you depths of character he can never hope to plumb.

To have that kind of a wife, too.

To discover two kinds of instantly effective hangover cures.

To develop a new kind of toothpaste that will not only clean old teeth but also sprout new ones.

To be given a cat that has inherited money.

To enroll at Notre Dame and become the first Irishman over 45 to throw a winning touchdown pass in the last second of play.

To buy a crew-cut toupee, glue it to your skull, and discover a week later that it is actually taking root.

To hear a good funny story about a nontalking horse.

To meet an interesting stranger at a cocktail party who didn't wind up trying to sell you stocks, bonds or life insurance.

To see Ball again, the Bay of Naples, the Ardennes in Belgium.

Kassrine Gap, but with the same people you were with before.

To come upon a new vitamin that would make you feel as good in the morning now as you once felt in that morning prime when you didn't know what vitamins were.

To find a convenient free parking space that would fit your car and no other car in the world.

To discover a tranquilizing pill that would work on all people, including Russians and Chinese.

To find again a good $2 hotel room, a good pair of $5 shoes, a good two-bit haircut—given by a silent barber—and a good $45 sharkskin suit with two pairs of pants and a vest.

To know for sure the life ahead will hold as many pleasant memories as the years behind.

Those are one man's hodge-podge dreams. What are yours?

Lack of Congratulations From Gary Worries Bing

HOLLYWOOD (U)—A happy Bing Crosby and his pretty bride settled down today to a workaday marriage—but there was one worry on the old groaner's mind.

He admitted in an exclusive interview that they had received congratulations from all his four sons except Gary, the eldest.

"I don't know why I haven't heard from him," Bing said. "He must be on a tour or something."

Gary, at 23, is a few months older than the new Mrs. Crosby, actress Kathy Grant. He is stationed in Germany with the U.S. Army, and spends much of his time entertaining troops at remote bases. Conceivably, like some of the natives of the Belgian Congo, he could be among the few who haven't heard about his father's marriage last Thursday in Las Vegas, Nev.

Bing was at CBS radio by 10 a.m. yesterday and by 1 p.m. had recorded 11 songs for his radio show.

"Even Elvis Presley can't knock out 11 songs in three hours," said one of the sound engineers.

During a luncheon break, the crew broke out a few bottles of champagne and toasted Bing and his bride.

She was across the street at the time for wardrobe tests in "Gunman's Walk," an upcoming Western in which she will co-star with Van Heflin.

Bing revealed that the marriage

Spanish Air Crash Kills Chicago Pair

MADRID (INS)—A Chicago couple was among the 21 persons killed when a Spanish airliner crashed yesterday near the "Hill of Angels" not far from Madrid.

All 17 passengers and the crew of four aboard the Iberia airliner died when one of its four engines caught fire and the pilot was unable to make a successful emergency landing.

Paul Basbagil, a travel agent for the Continental Travel Bureau in Chicago, and his wife were returning on the plane from a brief visit to North Africa.

Socialist Asked to Form Cabinet

Young Radical Looks at French Post as Mollet Is Rejected

PARIS (U)—Radical Socialist Felix Gaillard, 37-year-old financial wizard and advocate of national belt-tightening, was asked today to form a government to fill the French political vacuum.

President Rene Coty called on the bespectacled young advocate of austerity after the National Assembly rejected Socialist Guy Mollet 290-227.

Gaillard, finance minister in the last government of Maurice Buge-Maunoury, indicated he would sound out other political leaders before accepting or rejecting the mandate tonight.

If he tries and succeeds, he will be the youngest French premier of modern history.

Mollet's chances were doomed when the Conservative Independents and Peasants, with 99 Assembly votes, decided to oppose him.

This realignment for Socialist refusal earlier to support independent candidate Antoine Pinay.

Mollet's votes came principally from his own Socialists, the Radical Socialists and the Catholic Popular Republicans. They were the three major elements in the left-of-center Cabinet he proposed.

The Conservatives teamed up with the Communists and the extreme-right Poujadists to defeat him.

The Cabinet crisis now is rounding out a month.

Gaillard on some previous occasions has had solid backing from the Independents, and they may hold the balance in any attempt by him to form a government.

Calling the signals for the Bourges-Maunoury finance program, Gaillard succeeded in winning approval of new taxes, reduced spending and strict government controls of imports and exports.

He persuaded the Assembly last August to place a ceiling of 15 billion dollars on the 1938 budget—1½ billion less than this year's budget.

Owners Uneasy in House That's Accident-Prone

ALTOONA, Pa. (U)—Walter Evans slept a little uneasily last night. So did his wife.

Late yesterday afternoon two autos collided at an intersection a few feet from the Evans home at nearby East Freedom. The autos locked together and smashed into a wall of the house.

Little more than three hours later a truck and auto came together and they, too, smashed into the Evans home.

The wall of the home was damaged but no one inside the house was hurt. Two of the four drivers were injured. One, Peter W. Odenthal, 44, of Portage, Pa., was reported in critical condition today.

"It makes a person wonder if they shouldn't move to a safer location," Mrs. Evans said.

Pilot Lands in Street to Ask About Airport

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (U)—City Patrolman Larry Eversull has often been asked for directions—but never before from an airplane.

The light plane landed on a city street yesterday evening near Eversull's patrol car and taxied over. The unidentified pilot leaned out and yelled he was "going to Montana" and where was the nearest airport.

The stunned policeman told him and the pilot took off.

"I should have given him a ticket," Eversull recalled too late.

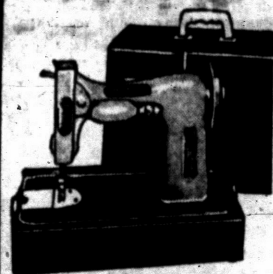

Finds Wife Dead in Car, Succumbs to Stroke

MAYSVILLE, Okla. (U)—A doctor said a traveling salesman discovered his wife dead in their car here, and shortly afterwards was found dead in the same car after he had notified his family.

The doctor said both deaths apparently were caused by heart attacks.

The victims were identified as John Hugh Wilson, about 75, and Mrs. Florence Wilson, 75, of Oklahoma City.

Bob Considine Wonders:

What Did Anastasia Order From Barber?

NEW YORK (INS)—Collectors of hat, string and small details about big stories are divided on just what Anastasia ordered when he sat down in that barber chair last Friday morning.

According to one source, he said to the barber, "Give me the works." Two guys in masks beat the barber to it. Another source insists the thug said, "I'll have a close shave please," and later added, "Not THAT close."

A terrible end for any living thing, of course. But there must have been dozens of chuckles from the dusty graves of his bygone victims and perhaps a last triumphant bubble from a barrel of cement in the East River.

ward China because the administration feels it is too difficult to challenge certain sections of public opinion in America." He added, in effect:

"You will not recognize China because, you say, its troops killed GIs in Korea. The Germans killed your GIs and British boys and yet you have built Germany into a great power again, and insisted that we help. Where is consistency in this?"

Simple. The Chinese Reds still hold American boys in prison. Gen. Van Fleet has placed this number as high as 300. Capt. Eugene Guild, head of a Colorado organization named "Fighting Homeboys of Fighting Men," would make it a bigger figure.

One member of that organization has a suit pending against President Eisenhower for "abandoning" these men. For more than two years, a Red Chinese diplomat and U. S. Ambassador Alexis Johnson have been meeting in Geneva — fruitlessly — in our continuing efforts to liberate the men.

Incidentally, it cost the Coast Guard $300,000 to find the D. J. who tried to reach Bermuda in an outboard motor boat as a gag.

That's an insult to money.

People here are unduly angry at the French for slapping a 20 per cent tax on all imported raw materials. We owe a lot to the French — especially people who have stayed at the Ritz and eaten at the Tour D'Argent. Then there was Lafayette.

And besides, where else could you find a people who could build a racetrack like Chantilly? Its mutual windows are graduated through the various stages of bets as ours are. There is a window marked 100 Fr., 2,000 Fr. and finally one marked 10,000 Fr. And under the 10,000 Fr. sign is a neat little sign which reads:

"English spoken."

Where's Zhukov? He's that object which is finishing out of the money, just behind Sputnik, the third stage of the rocket and the gizmo that squeezed out Sputnik.

Sees the 7th Fleet Staying in Pacific

HONG KONG (INS) — Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of U. S. naval operations, said today that even if war breaks out in the Middle East the 7th Fleet would probably remain in the Pacific.

Burke, speaking to newsmen before leaving for home after an inspection tour of naval commands in Korea, Formosa and Japan, noted that the 7th Fleet is 1 1/2 times larger than the 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean.

The admiral said more ships were kept in the Pacific because "the East is more important."

Burke predicted that despite nuclear weapons and atomic-powered submarines navies would play a vital role in any future war.

On the theory, one supposes, that possession of the only wheel in town constitutes a license to steal, a local TV station will attempt to make up for the loss of the Giants and Dodgers by televising 78 games of the Phillies.

Another station may show Cincinnati's games here. One would think that if National League baseball must be sent into New York — something like CARE packages — the biggest audiences could be reached by sending in San Francisco Giants games and Los Angeles Dodgers games. Or, if that's too costly, games involving the World Champion Milwaukee Braves, whose players are now abundantly well-known here and everywhere else.

Incidentally, a San Francisco friend predicts that Los Angeles will not take to the Dodgers.

"They're not daffy enough for Southern California," he observed coolly.

THE STORY SO FAR: Jerry Conway is alarmed by an advertising campaign. Clifford Farrell, a disheveled employee, is conducting to obtain prizes and out Conway as the stockholders' meeting of the California and Texas Global Co. in a mysterious telephone call. Though he suspects a trap, Conway agrees to follow her cloak-and-dagger directions.

Ros Kane, his secretary, thinks she has heard her voice before. Asking the hotel clerk for a message for Gerald Roswell, he obtains a key to a hotel suite for the meeting but instead of finding Roswell there's a young woman scantily attired and on her face a mud pack. She points a gun at Conway, which he takes from her. Since the gun has been fired recently, Conway suspects a trap and calls Perry Mason, attorney. Mason looks over the gun and asks for the key to the hotel room. Detective Paul Drake convinces the hotel clerk he is Gerald Roswell, and with Mason, finds a woman murdered in the suite. Mason leaves the murdered woman had a list of the stockholders who had sent in their proxies. Mason Crave Farrell-line Farrell into admitting she is Roswell. She's getting a divorce from Clifford, and wants to help Conway to protect her own investment in the company, she didn't ask Conway to go to the hotel, but show Mason a picture, with clipping attached, apparently of the murdered young woman.

York a couple of months ago.

"I see," Mason said.

"My husband," she went on bitterly. "Is something of an amateur photographer. He took this picture and two others. Evidently he wanted something to remember the girl by."

"And how did you get them?" Mason asked.

"I happened to notice that my husband's camera which is usually kept in his den was in a dresser drawer in the bedroom. There was a roll of films in the camera and three films had been exposed. I'm afraid I have a nasty, suspicious disposition, Mr. Mason.

"I slipped that roll of films out of the camera and replaced it with another. I turned the film to number four so that in case my husband investigated he wouldn't know there was anything wrong, and in case he had the films developed and found three perfect blanks, he would think something had gone wrong with the shutter, when he was taking these pictures."

"I see," Mason commented dryly. "I take it that there were then two other exposed pictures on this roll?"

"Yes," she said significantly. "It was a well-exposed roll, and the model was well exposed."

Chapter 14

The clipping illustrated a curvaceous woman clad in a bikini bathing suit and across the top of the ad was printed in large, black letters: "She'll love it." In smaller type appeared: "And she'll love you for it. Get these private Bikini bathing suits. A wonderful, intimate, personal present, for just the right girl."

The ad went on to extol the virtues of the specially-made Bikini bathing suit.

"Yes," Mason said dryly. "I've seen these ads."

"Evidently my husband answered this," she said, "purchased a suit by mail, and persuaded this young woman to put the suit on."

Mason studied the picture thoughtfully. "This is a posed picture?"

"It is."

Mrs. Farrell said, "For your information, Mr. Mason, either the suit was donned for the occasion or... well, I'll be charitable and say that the suit was donned for the occasion... Do you find her so very attractive that you're completely engrossed?"

"I'm sorry," Mason said. "I was trying to make out the background."

"Well, it's dark and out of focus. I'm afraid you can't get much from it, Mr. Mason. However, if you'll notice the pattern of the rug beneath those high-heeled shoes, which are designed to bring out the shapeliness of her legs, you'll notice a certain very definite pattern. For your information, Mr. Mason, that rug is in my husband's bedroom. Apparently the picture was taken while I was in New

Mason strove to keep his voice from showing undue interest. "I wonder if you've been able to locate the model?" he asked.

"I have located the model," Mason raised his eyebrows.

"She is Rose M. Calvert, and in case you're interested, the 'M' stands for Mistletow, believe it or not. Her father, I understand, insisted on the name. It turned out to be quite appropriate."

"Rose Calvert is an employee in the brokerage firm which handles accounts for my husband, and, I believe, for some of the other officials of the Texas Global company. My husband has a roving eye, and Rose Calvert — well, you can see from the photograph what she has."

"She's still working with the brokerage company?" Mason asked.

"Not Rose, Rose, I understand, is living on the fat of the land. She has an apartment at the Lane Vista Apartments, number 319, but I'm afraid that's just one of the perches where this young bird lights from time to time. Apparently she drops in for mail, and to change her clothes. I've had the place under surveillance for a few days."

"There are then two other pictures?" Mason prompted.

"Two others."

Mason waited expectantly.

NO INHIBITIONS

Mrs. Farrell shook her head. "I'm afraid not, Mr. Mason. They're indicative of a progressing friendship. Evidently this young woman doesn't have the slightest compunction about exhibiting her charms to men or to cameras."

"I'm shock proof," Mason said. "I'm not."

Mason studied the face of the girl in the picture.

Mrs. Farrell said, somewhat bitterly, "I'm afraid you men are all the same. For your information, Mr. Mason, the anatomical exaggeration of those curves will be swallowed in fat within another ten years."

"Yes, I'm afraid so," Mason said, handing back the photograph. "My husband likes them well-curved," Mrs. Farrell said.

Mason almost automatically glanced at the lounging pajamas.

Mrs. Farrell laughed and said, "It's all right, Mr. Mason. I don't make any secret of it. Now, how about a drink?"

"Well," Mason said, "I could be induced if you twisted my arm."

"Hold it out," she said.

Mason held out his arm.

Mrs. Farrell took hold of the wrist, held the lawyer's arm tight against her body, gave it a gentle twist.

"Ouch!" Mason said. "I'll take it! I'll take it!"

SCOTCH OR BOURBON

She laughed throatily and said, "All right, sit down. I'll have to go to the kitchen. What do you like, Scotch or Bourbon?"

"Scotch," Mason said.

"Soda?"

"Please."

"Make yourself comfortable," she told him, "but don't wear that photograph out while I'm gone. I am going to have use for it."

When she had left the room, Mason hurriedly moved over to the Atlas in which the photograph had been concealed. He rifled through the pages but was unable to find any other photographs.

Mrs. Farrell entered the room, carrying a tray with two tall glasses.

Mason held his drink to the light. "That looks pretty stout."

She laughed. "You look pretty stout yourself, Mr. Mason. I may as well confess that you're one of my heroes. I've followed your cases with the greatest interest. I like your way of fighting."

"Thanks!" Mason said.

She raised her glass.

"Here's to crime!" Mason said.

"Here's to us!" She touched the brim of her glass to his, let her eyes rest steadily on his as she raised the glass to her lips.

Mason waited until she had seated herself, then said, "I am interested in how you were able to secure the information that you offered Mr. Conway — the list of proxies."

"Oh that!"

"Well?" Mason asked.

Sentenced to Prison in White Lake Death

A Flint man, Harold Frye, 35, was sentenced yesterday by Circuit Judge Frank L. Doty to 1-20 years in State Prison of Southern Michigan for the auto death of a White Lake Township mother of two last summer.

Frye was convicted of negligent homicide on grounds that he had been drinking and was driving on the wrong side of Airport road in Waterford Township when the accident occurred July 15.

Mrs. Richard D. Schultz, 28, of 9510 Portage Trail was killed and five passengers with her were injured.

The bridge, four years in the making and with a 7,400-foot suspension will be dedicated formally next June 25-28.

Capsule History of Gigantic Span

Here is the chronological history of the Mackinac bridge: Mackinac Bridge Authority created June 6, 1950.
Financing and construction authorized, April 30, 1952.
D. B. Steinman chosen engineer, Jan. 1, 1953.

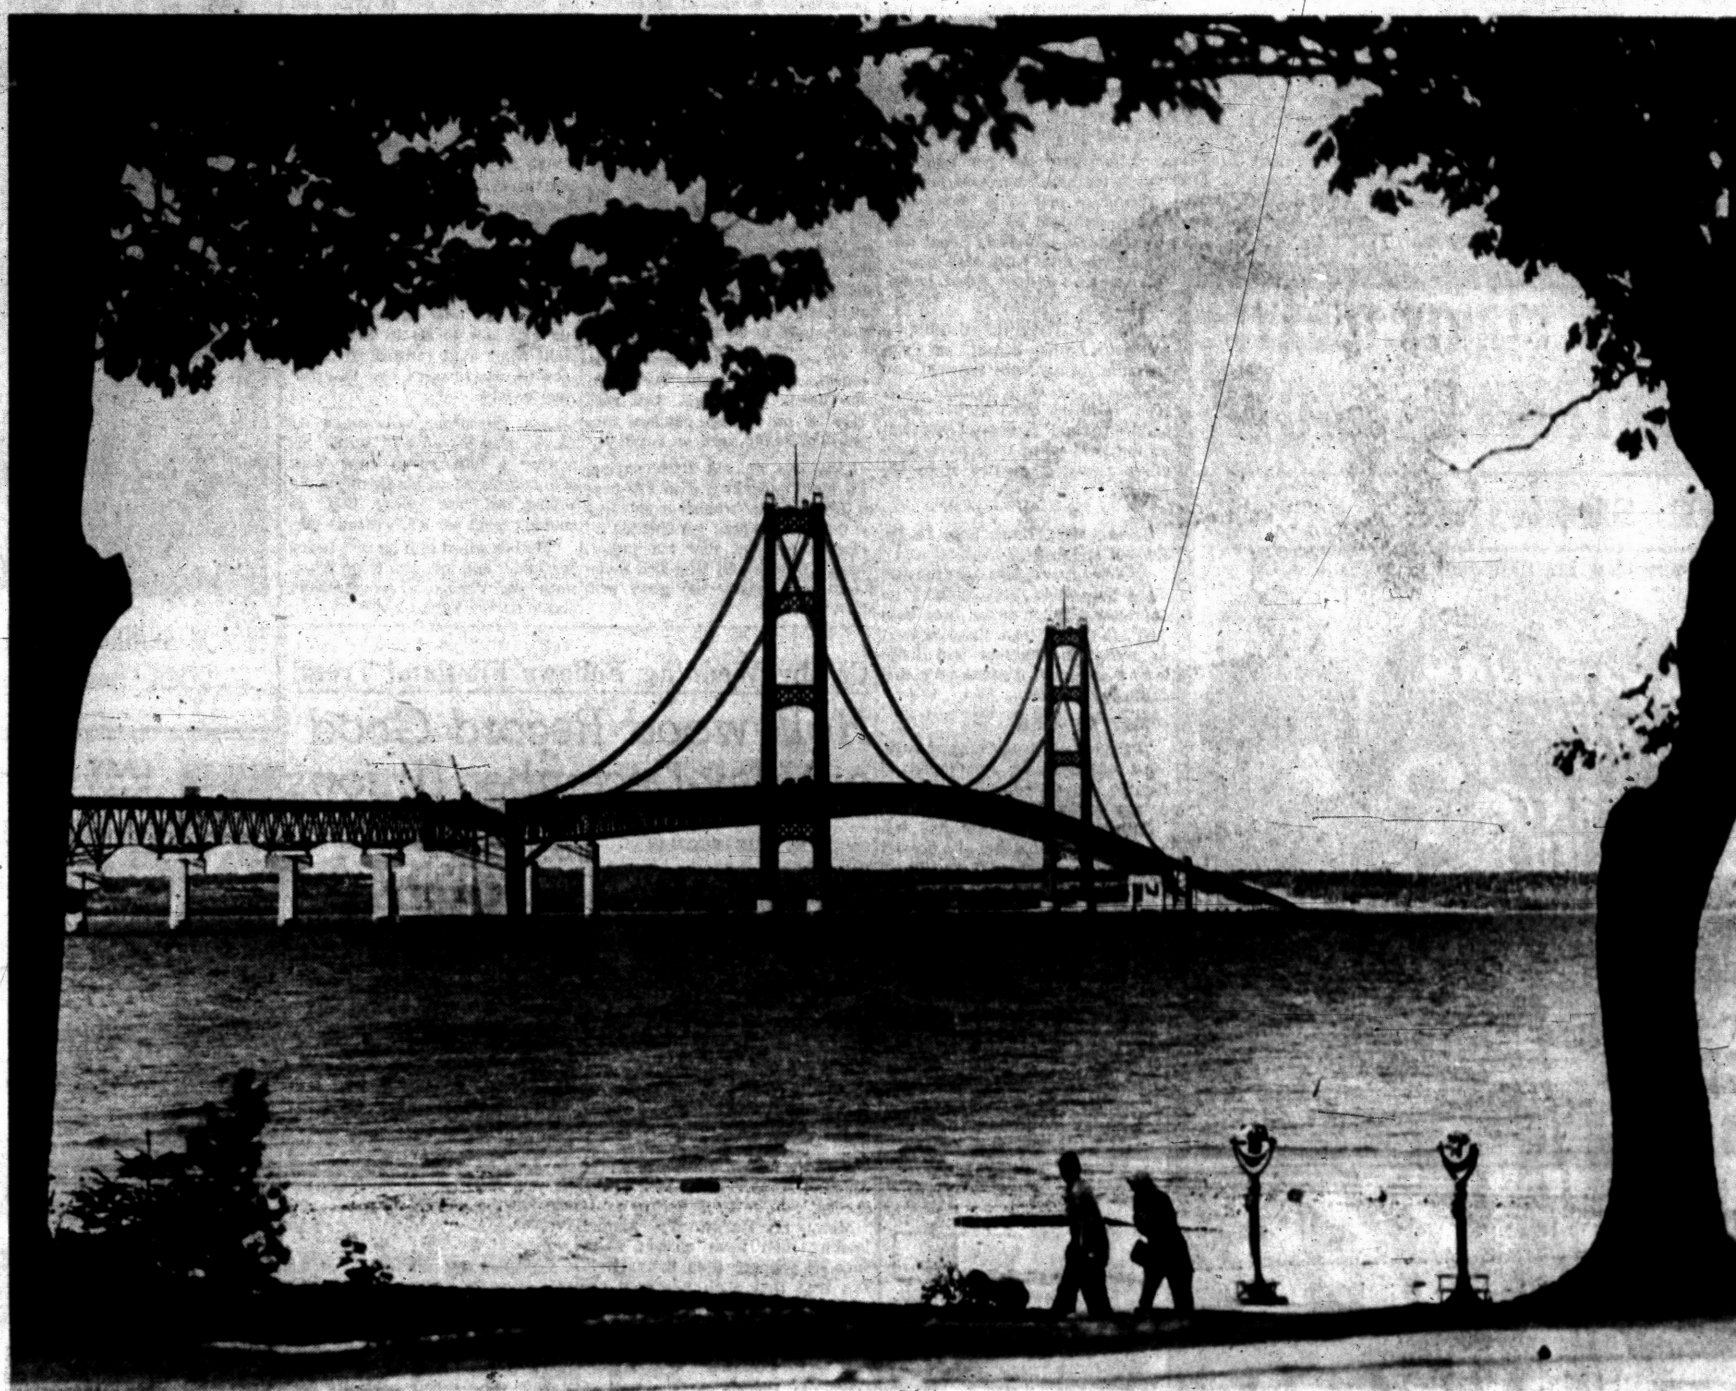

Bonds sold Feb. 17, 1954

Equipment assembled for construction, March 1954.
Foundation construction started, May 1954.
Anchorage reach 10 feet above water, November 1954.
First winter shutdown, Jan. 14, 1955.

First pier reaches bedrock, April 30, 1955.
Steel erection (main towers) started, July 13, 1955.
Main towers completed, November 1955.
Second winter shutdown, Dec. 19, 1955.

Cable spinning started, July 18, 1956.
Cable spinning completed, Oct. 19, 1956.
Third winter shutdown, Dec. 15, 1956.

Final gap of steel closed, May 17, 1957.
First automobile crosses, Sept. 11, 1957 (driver, Gordon Dallas, assistant resident engineer for D. B. Steinman).
First woman to ride across, Mrs. Amelia Cole, Grand Rapids, Sept. 11, 1957. (Rode with Eugene Yanko, Merritt-Chapman & Scott Superintendent).

Monarch of the Straits

Most Experts Think Bridge Will Boom Economy

Stirs Question of Profit to UP

EAST LANSING — Opening of the new Mackinac Bridge is certain to benefit Northern Michigan—but authorities disagree about the amount of economic expansion to expect.

While Upper Peninsula residents rub their hands in anticipation of a great new prosperity boom, some take a let's-wait-and-see attitude.

Michigan State University specialists offer contrasting views concerning this new direct highway link.

A member of the Tourist and Resort Service sees the Straits Bridge becoming one of the nation's top tourist attractions and a magnet for tourist dollars which already mount up in millions each year.

Dr. Robert W. McIntosh, MSU extension specialist, points out that traffic is expected nearly to double in the first full year of bridge operation—from an estimated 1,000,000 cars via ferry and bridge this year to an estimated 1,927,000 in 1958.

"The greatest effect probably will be in land use and increase of recreational facilities," Dr. Mc-

Intosh said. "Land prices are jumping now."

The Mackinac Bridge will join the locks at Sault Ste. Marie as a great tourist attraction, he added, pointing out that man-made objects always are the greatest attractions—"like New York City, Washington and the Golden Gate Bridge, for example."

Dr. McIntosh predicts heavier traffic in both directions. Eventually, he pointed out, a four-lane divided highway from Detroit to Sault Ste. Marie will be integrated with the 41,000-mile national system of interstate highways, "creating for many American shippers the shortest route to the Pacific Northwest and the Rockies."

A 10-minute instead of 10-hour crossing for deer hunters will help too, he added.

"And outstanding scenery is one of our greatest resources," agrees Dan Sturt, MSU's district extension director in the UP.

"Of equal importance, the bridge will mean closer markets for our farm and timber products," he added.

However, Dr. Bennett T. Sandefur, professor of geology at MSU, points out: "The most important Upper Peninsula products are limestone and iron and copper ores, all of which will continue to depend upon cheaper lake shipping to compete with other sources."

Increased tourist trade in the UP could be balanced somewhat by losses at St. Ignace and Mackinaw City, present ferry headquarters, he warned, with some tourist traffic moving into Ontario resorts.

Mackinac Span Tops All Others on Statistics

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Mackinac Bridge has the longest over-all suspension in the world, 7,400 feet compared to 6,450 for San Francisco's Golden Gate.

Michigan's Mackinac Bridge is the world's costliest. It cost 100 million dollars, compared with 78 million for the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge; 35 million for the Golden Gate; and 20 million dollars for Detroit's Ambassador.

The concrete anchors for the Mackinac Bridge weigh a combined 360,380 tons—a weight virtually equal to all the steel and concrete in New York's Empire State Building.

End-to-end the Mackinac Bridge lacks 24 feet of being five miles long.

There are 42,000 miles of wire in the cables of the Mackinac Bridge.

The Mackinac Bridge's towers are 552 feet tall—equal to the height of Detroit's 47-story Penobscot building. Over all they are 772 feet.

The roadway of the Mackinac Bridge at its highest point is 199 feet above the Straits of Mackinac.

—There are 4,851,700 rivets and 1,016,600 bolts holding the Mackinac Bridge's steel superstructure together.

Michigan's Upper and Lower Peninsulas are joined for the first time by the Mackinac Bridge. It jumps the Straits of Mackinac, which link Lakes Michigan and Huron.

Its designer, Dr. D. B. Steinman, estimates the Mackinac Bridge could withstand winds of 632 miles an hour.

Travel by Bus Over Bridge to Cost 50 Cents

ST. IGNACE — The Mackinac Straits Bridge Authority has purchased two buses which it will operate for commuters and transients over the new Mackinac Bridge.

The buses were bought from the Detroit Street Railways system and reconditioned. They will be driven to the straits from Detroit this week.

Bus fares will be 50 cents for a single trip with commuter tickets available at 15 for $5. The ferries charge 25 cents per trip for pedestrians. The buses will operate between various points in Mackinaw City and St. Ignace, rather than just across the bridge.

The Authority paid $2,000 each for the buses. They have been completely reconditioned, repaired and painted to match the bridge color scheme of green and ivory.

Hanna Co. Will Cut to 5-Day Work Week

IRON RIVER — The M. A. Hanna Co. has announced plans to cut back from a six-day to a five-day work week at its four Upper Peninsula mines Nov. 3.

The company said the work-week cut was prompted by a decline in the demand for iron ore.

The company employs some 1000 workers at Upper Peninsula installations.

He Calls Bridge a Wedding Ring

Soo Reporter Crosses Early; Finds Freighters Look Like Toys

(The following story was written by Woodie Jarvis of the Sault Ste. Marie Evening News, who became, by accident, the first reporter to cross the new Mackinac Bridge linking Michigan's two peninsulas. The bridge will be opened Nov. 1.)

By WOODIE JARVIS
Sault Ste. Marie Evening News
ST. IGNACE — They tell you the Mackinac Bridge is the longest suspension bridge in the world, and you can well believe it when you ride across.

It isn't just a bridge . . . it is a wedding ring.
Quite by accident, I rode across the Mackinac Bridge the other day.

RODE TO MIDDLE

Boarding the bridge on the St. Ignace side, I rode to the middle. Three miles away and 200 feet down, the buildings of Mackinaw City seemed like toys on the south shore.

It occurred to me it was somewhat similar to taking an airplane ride with both feet on the ground.

I gazed down 200 feet — it seemed like a thousand — to the cold blue waters of the Straits of Mackinac.

FREIGHTER TOY

A huge Lake freighter looked like a large toy.

The wind was strong enough to blow your hat off. I fully expected to feel the bridge sway. But it didn't.

I sped down the Mackinaw City side and came to a high board barricade. A guard came out of a little guardhouse.

A two-sided letter in a clear plastic sleeve let me pass. Stationery was white on one side, green on the other.

I swung off to the right, made a short turn and found myself on the main street of Mackinaw City.

I had crossed the world's longest suspension span. I was traversing a Michigan that had suddenly become one state. There would still be an Upper Peninsula and a Lower Peninsula, but now they were joined for the first time.

The giant span was erected by U.S. Steel's American Bridge Division.

Williams to Pay First $3.25 Toll

Big Dedication Saved for Favorable Weather Next June

ST. IGNACE — The Mackinac Bridge will be open to traffic at 11 a.m. Friday, according to Prentiss M. Brown, chairman of the Mackinac Bridge Authority.

The official linking of Michigan's two peninsulas will be without fanfare and marked with little ceremony and no speechmaking, said the chairman.

The governor, state elective officers and the Legislature have been invited to a pre-opening inspection trip.

Immediately following this, the governor and the Authority officials will drive from Mackinaw City to St. Ignace with the governor paying the first toll, $3.25, to mark the opening to traffic and dramatize the fact that the law prohibits free passes.

"The big dedication celebration will take place during the last week in June 1958, when we can be more certain of the weather than we are now."

"Our present objective is to get the bridge open, and break in our operating crews so that we can handle the huge flow of hunting season traffic efficiently," said Brown.

OPENS ON SCHEDULE

It was never intended to have the final touches on the bridge until 1958. According to this original schedule, cable wrapping, painting, landscaping and miscellaneous items were to be finished after the bridge opened. However, the cable wrapping is practically complete.

Brown cautioned motorists to respect flagmen who may be stationed at intervals along the roadway at some periods of the day for 10 days or two weeks after the opening.

"We are very proud of two important facts," said Brown. "First, we stated in December of 1953 that the bridge would be opened to traffic Nov. 1, 1957 and we are meeting this date."

Second, we figured the construction cost would be about 80 million dollars and we have kept within estimates despite three years of inflation. We consider this quite remarkable."

Passenger car tolls will be $3.25 with no charge for occupants. Truck tolls will be graduated upward depending on the number of axles to $14.00. All toll-collectors will be made on the St. Ignace side of the Straits.

Duffy Orders All-Out Scrimmage

EAST LANSING (U) — A coach is supposed to be happy after he wins a football game.

But Michigan State's boss man, Duffy Daugherty, generally a cheerful type, wasn't laughing today. Instead, Daugherty has been feeling mighty low and getting pretty tough.

This afternoon, for the 1st time in two years after a season started, Daugherty has ordered his first and second teams to stage an all-out scrimmage.

"I'm not mad at the team," Daugherty insisted, "but I think a little hitting will help to re-sharpen our operation. We've had a lot of fumbles and defensive lapses the last two Saturdays. We need to review a lot of things and maybe revise some of them."

The top two teams haven't scrimmaged on a weekday this fall since the Indiana opener. In fact, they didn't scrimmage at all last season either, once play started.

The move shows coaches are really concerned after the narrow 19-14 verdict over Illinois, even more so than after the only loss this season, to Purdue by a 20-13 score the week previous.

One good reason is that for the 1st time this fall, Michigan State was out-rushed. The Illini gained 300 yards overland to 151 for the Spartans. State had only a slight edge in passing and the line play and blocking sometimes looked lackadaisical.

The theory at Michigan State has been that scrimmage during mid-week was too dangerous for the top 22 men on the varsity. There would always be risks that a valuable regular might be crippled by one of his own teammates.

The third team and those below have been trying for blood regularly. But the top talent has been playing for keeps only on Saturday afternoons.

As another indication of the mood of dissatisfaction, coaches called an abrupt halt to practice for those who saw game action at 5 P.M. Monday.

Five squad members were hospitalized over night with colds. It was explained their ailments were merely bad colds — not the flu, Asian or otherwise, and the hospital rest was only precautionary.

Marquette Has 16 Losses but Coach to Stay

MILWAUKEE (U) — Marquette football coach Johnny Druze, bolstered by a full vote of confidence from school officials, returned today to the task of rebuilding the Warriors, owners of the nation's longest major college losing streak — 16 games dating back to 1953.

Following Saturday's 26-7 homecoming loss to Texas Christian, the Rev. John Holbrook, S. J., chairman of the Marquette Athletic Board, said he was particularly happy with the team's showing in the last two games, against Cincinnati and TCU.

"We lost both games but the boys showed that they have not given up, that they have confidence and faith," he said.

Bass Drummer Blamed

Colorado Calls Sooner Fans 'Unsportsmanlike'

DENVER, Colo. (INS) — Colorado University football coach Dal Ward said Monday an "unsportsmanlike" crowd and Oklahoma's base drummer cost Colorado one touchdown at least in C. U.'s upset of Oklahoma Saturday.

Ward, however, refused to say the crowd and drummer meant the difference between winning and losing, giving full credit to coach Bud Wilkinson's No. 1 ranked Sooners.

Oklahoma beat the Colorado Buffaloes, 14-13, in what so-called experts had said would be a runaway game.

Ward, appearing before a downtown Denver booster club, was disgusted about the treatment his team received, however, at the hands of the more than 60,000 fans witnessing the contest at Norman, Okla. He said:

"Never in my life... have I witnessed such a spectacle as I saw at Norman."

"When our (Colorado's) quarterback signaled for silence, the partisan crowd would scream all the more. And it wasn't only the crowd."

"I'll always remember that bass drummer in the Oklahoma band pounding harder and harder when the players pleaded for silence."

"This cost us a touchdown in the third period."

Desire Helps Makeshift Indians Run Up Longest Win String in 19 Years

HANOVER, N. H. (U) — The makeshift Dartmouth football team is riding its longest winning streak in 19 years on a steady diet of desire.

A fullback playing guard, two boys promoted in desperation and an end who can't catch are members of the incredible Indians' cast of players.

"We feel spirit is one of the vital factors in football," energetic coach Bob Blackman said. "Every man on the squad receives at least one letter a week from the staff during the summer. We do everything we can from a morale standpoint."

Dartmouth is the only major team with a perfect record left in the East and its eight straight victories extending back into last season is its first such string since the 1937-38 campaigns.

New NFL Slate Planned

PHILADELPHIA (U) — Commissioner Bert Bell says he is working on a new six-year schedule which would allow more games between Eastern and Western Conference teams in the National Football League.

The Commissioner disclosed yesterday that four of the six Eastern Conference teams feel the "big games" are in the Western Conference and want more games with their more fortunate brothers.

Under the present NFL scheduling system, each team plays home and away against members of its own conference and two games with clubs from the opposite conference.

The Philadelphia Eagles, Chicago Cards, Washington Redskins and Pittsburgh Steelers, all of the Eastern Conference have expressed dissatisfaction with this setup. These clubs feel all the "big money" is in the Western Conference.

Bell says he is inclined to agree with the Eastern owners, although he contends, "It wasn't always that way. The big games used to be in the East while the West starved. The thing has swung around, however, and I'm trying to do something about it."

Under Bell's new six-year plan, each team would add a game with a club in the opposite conference, dropping one away game with a team in its own conference.

STRIKES AND SPARES

By Joe Wilman

There are four ways to roll a hook ball. Today, we'll discuss two of them. Tomorrow, we'll take up the other two ways.

1. I call this the hand-shaking position. As the bowler looks down, his thumb is in the 9 o'clock position while the fingers are at 3 o'clock. In delivering the ball, the bowler applies no wrist turn but does have a good follow-through. The thumb comes out first, and the fingers impart a natural spin to the ball because they are on the side, as you see in today's illustration. This natural spin is what gives the ball its hook as it nears the pins.

2. A stronger hook results when the thumb is in the 11 o'clock position with the hand behind and under the ball. The fingers give plenty of lift as the ball is released, and the arm follows through. Once again, no turn. (Copyright 1957, John F. Dille Co.)

From Probe Into Sears
Labor Policies

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sidetracked briefly by a Teamster official's yachts, the Senate Rackets Committee moves ahead today in its inquiry into Sears, Roebuck & Co. labor policies.

Nearing the end of testimony about an unsuccessful unionizing drive at Sears' Boston stores in 1953, the committee summoned Charles Seville, manager of the Indianapolis store, for questioning about labor relations there.

But several other witnesses remained to be heard on the Boston situation, among them Edmund Wroblewski, also known as Ed Robey of Chicago, a representative of Nathan Shefferman's Labor Relations Associates, Inc.

Yesterday's hearing brought testimony from one Sears employee, James R. Donoghue, that he had agreed to let someone "wreck" his automobile with the understanding that the action would be blamed on the Retail Clerks Union then trying to organize the Boston store employees.

His testimony did not develop with whom the agreement on wrecking the car was made.

Before resuming its Sears inquiry after a weekend recess, the committee detoured yesterday to the affairs of a Teamsters Union official.

Raymond Cohen, who committee aides said was elected as an international trustee of the union at its recent Miami Beach convention, declined to answer a score of questions. He did not invoke the Fifth Amendment's protection against self-incrimination, but said he had "a right not to bear witness against myself."

He was asked how he acquired $41,000 worth of yachts while serving as secretary-treasurer of the Teamsters Local 107 in Philadelphia.

Counsel Kennedy said the committee has information that Cohen now has a yacht acquired with $24,000 of union funds and also that he bought another in 1955 for $17,000. Cohen declined to say whether he used union money to maintain the boats.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) ordered further inquiry into what Kennedy said was "a great deal of information" turned up about Cohen's financial dealings with Ben Lapensohn, former union business agent now in Canada.

Waterford Board Rejects Plan for Holiday Farms Subdivision

$7,000 Loot Found in Parolee's Trailer

Can Recover Guided Missile With Parachute

Waterford Township officials are cautiously studying each proposed real estate development submitted for approval in an effort to improve future township operations.

After seven weeks of investigation, study and negotiations by the township board, the plan for Holiday Farms Subdivision on M59 near Airport road was rejected at last night's meeting.

Board members felt that the subdivision was "land-locked" and, in case of an emergency, exit from the subdivision would be hazardous. They want the company to build a road between Holiday Farms and Highland Estates Subdivision.

Another controversial issue was tabled for further investigation when George A. Agree, one of the owners of Belmoral Subdivision on Hatchery road near Crescent Lake road, presented a solution to the central water system for his subdivision.

Originally the Belmoral plat including 102 lots was approved by board members. However, Agree now says his company can only build 30 homes at the present time and cannot afford an expensive water system for so few homes. The homes will be in the $12,500 to $15,000 price bracket and will include three bedrooms and a basement.

Agree has indicated that he will of the 30 homes he plans to build, bedrooms and a basement.

The preliminary plans were tabled indefinitely by the township board.

The board officially approved the hiring of six additional reserve police officers recommended by Supervisor Elmer Johnson. They are Harvey Gilchrist, Loren Anderson, Dave Putman, Tom Peterson, Steve Hubbell and Clayton Hall, all of Waterford Township.

The men have taken a 10-week civil defense training course and have been approved by the State Police. Four were deputized by Sheriff Frank W. Irons. The other two, Peterson and Hubbell, already carry deputy cards, Johnson said.

The men will work under the supervision of the Waterford Township Police Department and will be paid one dollar per year in order to be bonded, receive workmen's compensation coverage and insurance.

The zoning of four plots of land from residential to commercial was discussed, but no action was taken until people living in the immediate vicinity have been informed of the zoning change.
