HEADING FOR A CHILL — President Eisenhower sat bareheaded in the cold November air as he rode from the airport Monday with Morocco's King Mohammed. A few hours later the White House announced that he was suffering from a chill, forcing cancellation of his talks with the visiting monarch.

HAGERTY BACK FROM PARIS — James C. Hagerty, left, press secretary to the President, talks to newsmen in the White House after his return from Paris late last night. Hagerty made a hasty 20-hour flight from NATO headquarters where he had been making arrangements for the Dec. 16 meeting which President Eisenhower had planned to attend. Hagerty said he cut short his stay by about a day and a half when he learned of the President's illness.

Mother and Girl Killed as Train Rams Into Auto

Youth Seriously Hurt at Crossing Near Home in South Lyon

A South Lyon mother and daughter were killed this morning as their car was struck by a freight train at a crossing less than a mile from their home.

Killed instantly was Betty Ann Fortner, 8, of 25985 Dixboro Rd.

Her mother, Mrs. Rachel Fortner, 38, died later at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor, said State Police at the Brighton Post.

Still listed in "very serious condition" by hospital officials is her son, John Homer Fortner, 17.

Mrs. Fortner was driving her children to a school bus when the accident occurred. Police said she drove into the path of the train and believe the car was hit in about the middle.

The car was flung into the air and rolled over several times before it landed in a ditch. The Chesapeake & Ohio freight train suffered little damage.

The mother and her children were all thrown from the auto, said officers. The crossing is at 11-Mile and Dixboro Rds., where the Fortners' private drive meets the main road.

The train was traveling northwest from Detroit at an undetermined speed, said police. The accident occurred at about 8 a.m.

Jupiter Fails to Finish Flight

Six Congressmen See Florida Test Firing of Intermediate Missile

MISSILE TEST CENTER, CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Six congressmen watched last night as the Army fired a big Jupiter 1,500-mile-range rocket that failed to complete its planned flight.

Moments after the 70-foot intermediate range ballistic missile blazed into the tropic sky, the Army issued a statement saying it failed to complete its programed flight because of technical difficulties.

To hundreds of spectators watching along the beach on this island midway along the Florida east coast, the Jupiter was a spectacular sight as it rose from a pillow of smoke and flame on the launching pad.

It appeared to travel straight up, trailing a yellow flame. Then it became a purplish light high in the sky. It was visible for about four minutes and was brighter than any star.

The statement by the Defense Department said only that the mis-

Pontiac Citizens Observe Thanksgiving

All Churches Plan Rites

By MARY ANGLEMIER
Church Editor, Pontiac Press

People of Pontiac will follow the pattern of the Pilgrims in 1621 in observing Thanksgiving Day.

In churches and synagogues, they will gather to offer prayers of gratitude and sing hymns of praise.

The Pontiac Pastors' Association is sponsoring the annual service of Thanksgiving, to be held at 10 a.m. in the First Methodist Church. Dr. Milton H. Bank of Central Methodist Church will preside.

LaVerne Cox will play the organ prelude, "With Trumpets and Horns." Merlin B. Asplin will direct the Sanctuary Choir in "Let All Things Now Living" and "Great and Glorious."

The Rev. Paul T. Hart, pastor of First Methodist, will read the President's proclamation.

The Scripture Lesson will be read by the Rev. J. Allen Parker of Newman AME Church followed by the pastoral prayer by Dr. William H. Marbach of First Presbyterian Church.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Joseph I. Chapman of Bethany Baptist Church will preach the sermon, "Killing the Goose That Laid the Golden Egg."

The Rev. S. M. Edwards will preach at the 5 a.m. service in Liberty Baptist Church where he is pastor.

The combined choirs will sing at the morning service at 10 o'clock in St. Trinity Lutheran Church with Pastor Ralph C. Claus preaching the sermon; "Is Gain Godliness or Is Godliness Gain?"

The Oakland County Ministerial Fellowship will meet for worship at 11 a.m. in the Newman AME Church. The speaker will be the Rev. Amos Johnson, the new pastor at New Bethel Baptist Church.

Ike Illness Shadows Thanksgiving Spirit

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Americans prepared today to give thanks for still another year's harvest of freedom and abundance, but the shadow of President Eisenhower's illness darkened somewhat the usual joyful spirit of the time.

Prayers for the President's swift and complete recovery will be said tomorrow in many morning religious services which have been an integral part of Thanksgiving ever since the Pilgrims first celebrated it.

Otherwise, reports from across the country indicated that Americans will follow the patterns set in past years.

They will rush from city to country, from country to city, and from village to village, jamming trains, planes, buses and private cars to join friends and relatives for the day.

Some will make it a four-day weekend. To accommodate all, railroads, airlines and bus companies are scheduling extra facilities.

★ ★ ★

One of the most unusual church services tomorrow will be held in the DeWitt Church, in an unheated, as yet unfurnished building of the Bernard Baruch housing project in Manhattan's lower East Side.

Nondenominational services will be held in English, Spanish and Russian at the church, the first built inside a public housing project in the city.

In Plymouth, Mass., the Mayflower II — replica of the original Pilgrim ship — will be turned over today to the Plymouth Plantation in colorful, costumed ceremonies. Tomorrow, there will be a town-wide open house, with costumed attendants playing host at such spots as Pilgrim Hall, the first church, Sparrow House and the old fort.

★ ★ ★

In the afternoon, there will be the traditional Pilgrim procession by costumed townspeople marching from Plymouth Rock to church.

Clubs Get 1st Chance at Wilson Luncheon

Letters have gone to eighteen luncheon clubs in this area asking how many tickets they will require for the C. E. Wilson luncheon, Friday, January 3rd at the Elks.

As soon as these requirements are established, the remainder of the tickets will be placed on sale at the Elks. No tickets will be sold at the door on the day of the luncheon. The former Secretary of Defense will speak on his recent experiences and will answer questions.

Fred J. Poole and Carleton C. Patterson Jr., are in charge of the luncheon.

Recovering President Signs Some Papers

Temporary Impairment of Speech Is Only Reminder of Mild Stroke

(Related Stories on Ike, Mamie and Nixon, Pages 2, 6, 16)

FROM OUR WIRE SERVICES

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower spent a comfortable night and his doctor reported today that "everything is all right" in his progress toward recovery from a mild stroke.

The White House announced today President Eisenhower, on his own motion, signed and initialed some government documents.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the ailing Eisenhower met for half an hour in his bedroom with Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster, White House staff secretary.

Eisenhower signed his name 12 times and initialed a 13th document, Hagerty said.

He said Eisenhower, at the time, was sitting in an easy chair in his bedroom on the second floor of the White House.

HAGERTY LAUGHS

Hagerty laughed off, at his news conference, a reporter's request for comment on two London newspapers' suggestion that Eisenhower would resign.

"Just say I laughed and said I haven't any reaction," Hagerty replied.

The chief executive slept almost continuously for nearly 10 hours, awaking about 7:40 a.m. (EST).

All signs indicated that Eisenhower was pulling through the important first stage of his recuperation with only a slight, temporary speech impairment.

The 67-year-old President laughed at his difficulty in pronouncing some long words this morning as he chatted with the first lady and his news secretary, James C. Hagerty.

Hagerty, who arrived from Paris late last night, said he could detect no impairment of the President's memory, a fairly common result in stroke cases.

ASKS ABOUT FRIENDS

He said Eisenhower asked about a number of his old friends in Paris during the 10-minute talk in his room. Maj. Gen. Howard Snyder, the White House physician, also was present.

It was Snyder who made the "everything is all right" statement when he arrived at the White House a few minutes earlier.

★ ★ ★

Snyder said it was still too soon to say definitely whether the President has suffered a stroke. He indicated further examinations would be required to determine the exact nature of the ailment.

There is no question, however, that the attack —diagnosed as an "occlusion of a small branch of a cerebral vessel" — constitutes what is commonly described as a stroke in laymen's language.

Eisenhower shaved himself and took his customary morning shower. His spirits were "fine," according to Hagerty.

The President was walking about freely in the White House today though, of course, he will not be in his office.

No consideration is being given at the moment to delegating any of the President's powers during his convalescence.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon said Eisenhower is fully capable of acting on any vital matter that would be placed before him.

This bulletin from Snyder was issued at 8:20 a.m. (EST):

"The President slept almost continuously throughout the night. He awoke refreshed this morning.

"He took his usual shower and shave and has just had a normal breakfast."

The President's breakfast consisted of a half-grapefruit, creamed chipped beef, toast, honey and Sanka coffee.

County Jail Chefs Prepare Festive Meal

The kitchen staff at the Oakland County Jail will be working overtime tonight and early tomorrow, preparing the annual Thanksgiving Day dinner for inmates and trusties.

The menu will be quite a bit fancier than usual. Men in the blocks will sit down to a plate of steaming chicken pie, cold cuts, fruit jello, cake and coffee.

The trustees will get roast chicken with dressing, mashed potatoes and gravy, cranberries, celery, mince pie and cheese, and coffee.

The dinner is scheduled to be served shortly after the noon hour.

Colder Weather Due Thanksgiving

The weatherman predicts tonight will be cloudy, with a low of 34 degrees.

Thanksgiving Day will be colder, with a high of near 38 degrees.

The lowest temperature preceding 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac was 27 degrees. The mercury rose to 53 at 2 p.m.

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Teamsters Union made preparations today to start a huge two-and-a-half million dollar coast-to-coast organizing drive.

AF Pilots Try to Regain Mark

Jets Leave California in Attempt to Recapture 2 Records From Navy

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A team of Air Force pilots blast off for New York today in supersonic Voodoo jets in an attempt to recapture three transcontinental speed records held by the U. S. Navy.

★ ★ ★

Two of the swept-wing McDonnell RF101 photo reconnaissance planes will try for a non-stop round trip record and two others will land at Maguire Air Force Base, N. J., after they flash across Floyd Bennett Field. Voodoos on the east-west run will land at nearby March Air Force Base.

The Air Force is after these Navy speed marks:

Los Angeles-New York, 3 hours, 22 minutes, 723 m.p.h. average, F8U Crusader.

New York-Los Angeles, 5 hours, 14.54 minutes, 469.383 m.p.h. average, A3D Skywarrior.

Round trip, 9 hours, 31.35 minutes, 513.496 m.p.h. average, A3D Skywarrior.

Flying the 1,000 m.p.h.-plus jets are Capt. Ray W. Schreengost Jr., 31, Kittanning, Pa.; Capt. Robert J. Kilpatrick, 32, Bristol, Conn.; Capt. Robert M. Sweet, 30, Barronett, Wis.; 1st Lt. Gustav B. Klatt, 29, San Marcos, Tex.

Two other pilots are "spares" and will fly to the first refueling rendezvous only, unless something goes wrong with any of the other planes. The standby pilots are Capt. Donald D. Hawkins, 33, Springfield, Mo., and Capt. Robert E. Burkhart, 31, Alliance, Ohio. All the fliers are with the 363rd Tactical Reconnaissance Wing, Shaw Air Force Base, S. C.

The giant jets participating in the flight, called Operation Sun Run, will fly at about 40,000 feet, and will be refueled by Boeing KC135 Stratotankers at about 35,000 feet.

The approximate route: Albuquerque, Oklahoma City, St. Louis and Pittsburgh.

Malinovsky Says Troops Trained to Fight Missiles

MOSCOW (AP) — The new Soviet defense minister says Russian officers are receiving special training in defense against missiles.

The minister, Marshal R. Y. Malinovsky, made the statement Monday night at a Kremlin reception for graduates of Moscow's higher military academies. His remarks were made public today.

Nikita Khrushchev, Soviet Communist party boss, also addressed the graduates. He warned them that the party is supreme and cited ousted Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov as a bad example of failing to accept party direction.

Know the Weather

By E. H. SIMS

Does the launching of earth satellites promise to have any effect on our weather?

As far as astronomers now visualize, the launching of earth satellites, space platforms or other outer space devices will have no noticeable effect on the earth's weather.

There are means visualized for controlling weather in future wars and there are theories as to how weather might be controlled. But these methods deal with altitudes of 40,000 feet and under — where clouds are found — which is the nearest point to the earth in the trajectory of the Russian satellite.

Pitches In Like Dedicated Florence Nightingale

Courageous Mamie Is Ike's Best Tonic

WASHINGTON (INS) — Mamie Doud Eisenhower, always frail in health but valiant in spirit, is the President's best tonic when he is ill.

Despite the chronic heart murmur she has suffered since childhood, and the hysterectomy she underwent late this summer, the First Lady pitches in like a dedicated Florence Nightingale each time that Five Star General Ike sounds the call to duty.

Time tested and proven in her bedside manner, Mrs. Eisenhower disguised her own personal worry about Ike so effectively at the Monday night state dinner for King Mohammed V of Morocco that Vice President Nixon was later moved to comment "It was one of the most courageous acts I have ever seen."

He added that it was the President's own decision that Mamie leave him to come downstairs for the White House party.

★ ★ ★

The bubbling, warm-hearted Denver native had her own method of putting her guests at ease. To the feminine contingent during the after-dinner coffee session she confided: "Ike was simply furious because the doctors wouldn't let him come downstairs."

STOLE THEIR HEARTS

A spontaneous, homey act by Mamie during the inaugural luncheon last January on Capitol Hill endeared the First Lady to millions of television viewers.

★ ★ ★

Obviously forgetful for the moment that relentless cameras were trained on their table, Mrs. Eisenhower grabbed the President's arm in wifely rebuke as Ike reached for the salt shaker.

A thousand words could not have portrayed so vividly that Mamie was mindful of his stay-well diet, whether he was aware of it or not.

It was the First Lady who summoned Dr. Howard Snyder, two hours past midnight on Sept. 24, 1955, when Ike suffered his historic heart attack in Denver.

★ ★ ★

Later that morning, when the President was removed from the home of his beloved mother-in-law, Mrs. John Doud, to Fitzsimmons Army Hospital, Mamie moved with him.

KEPT SMILING

Throughout these seven nightmarish weeks of wifely anguish, she occupied a bedroom next to his presidential suite. To Ike she showed only a cheerful smile, and even to close friends she refused to let down her protective armor.

★ ★ ★

As soon as the President was able to proceed to Gettysburg for convalescence, Mamie served as his nurse. Then came the happy eight-and-a-half months of regained health until the striking suddenness of Ike's ileitis attack on June 6, 1956.

Again Mamie was at his side as he struggled through the lightning pains at Walter Reed General Hospital in Washington, and the tedious convalescence at Gettysburg.

Since every woman knows that a man is the world's worst patient, and Mamie had already seen Ike through a couple of serious bouts, the nation smiled in knowing sympathy for the First Lady.

★ ★ ★

According to Mary Jane McCaffree, Mamie's secretary, John Eisenhower and his family are still expected for Thanksgiving dinner with the first family.

★ ★ ★

Knowing Mamie, you have a feeling that she will manage to make it a cheerful occasion.

A frying pan of grease left on a basement stove caused a fire at 8:15 a.m. today at the home of John Melkian, 57 Mary Day Ave.

Pontiac firemen said the blaze started in cardboard tacked over ceiling joists. Damages were estimated at $100 to the building and $75 to contents.

City Folk Eye Problems of Farm at MSU Meeting

What's being done to make your pork chops more lean? What makes green grass in a black cow turn into white milk that makes yellow butter?

★ ★ ★

These were several of the questions answered during the program which brought 300 city slickers and farm folk from Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties together yesterday.

A specially chartered train took the group to Michigan State University in observance of national farm-city week, which ends tomorrow.

According to Lyle Abel, county agricultural agent, 25 farmers and 45 representatives from industry and labor attended the all-day program from Oakland County.

The program was sponsored through the cooperation of the Farm-City committee of the three counties composed of county extension agents and the chamber of commerce.

The train trip was subsidized through the Railroad Community Council of Greater Detroit. Most of the Oakland County residents boarded the train at Plymouth at 9:30 a.m.

After exchanging their ideas and ironing out mutual problems while riding the train, a chicken barbeque at the campus followed.

MSU PLAYERS SPEAK

Michigan State University football players Jim Ninowski, quarterback and Sammy Williams, end who was recently named captain for the 1958 season, spoke to the group.

They discussed the necessity of team work between the farm and the city boys while playing ball and correlated this with the idea of the need for more farm-city team work in everyday life and business.

Dean T. K. Cowden, head of the college of agriculture also expressed the necessity of farm-city interdependence.

Before leaving the campus, tours were conducted through the university's dairy plant, meats laboratory and agricultural engineering research building.

Oakland County representatives came from Pontiac, Rochester, Walled Lake, Oxford and South Lyon and countywide organizations.

Argentine Officers See Plymouth Plant

DETROIT (AP) — A group of 83 Army officers from Argentina toured Chrysler's Plymouth Division assembly plant in Detroit yesterday.

At the final assembly line a group of officers stood by with their watches to verify a guide's statement that a new car rolls off the line every 20 seconds.

The officers expressed surprise at the ease which American workers handle jobs on fast-moving assembly lines.

The group also toured the U.S. Army's Ordnance center in Detroit.

The officers prepared to fly to New York today to continue their tour of military installations and industrial sites in this country.

State Motorists to Drive About 140,000,000 Miles

DETROIT (INS) — The Automobile Club of Michigan announces that Michigan motorists will travel 140,000,000 miles Thanksgiving Day.

Harry N. Rogan, travel services director reports reservations on trains and planes are "tight" so more persons will make holiday trips in their own cars. Rogan added:

"Although four-day holidays make even more extensive trips possible, travelers generally limit their trips to the time it takes to get to the tables on Thanksgiving afternoon."

Flight Incomplete for Jupiter Rocket

sile failed in its programed flight because of technical difficulties and added:

"This test of the Jupiter, under development by the Army, is one of a series of intermediate range and intercontinental ballistic missile flight tests conducted at the Cape Canaveral range."

★ ★ ★

There was no official explanation of what technical difficulties were involved.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS

Congressmen who witnessed the firing were members of a military subcommittee of the House Committee on Appropriations, headed by Rep. Mahon (D-Tex).

★ ★ ★

Earlier in the day Dr. von Wernher von Braun, developer of the Jupiter, arrived in a private plane but was not available to newsmen.

There were reports that the big Atlas, an intercontinental ballistics missile, might be fired next week. The Navy's Vanguard, a three-stage rocket designed to put an American satellite in the sky, also has been seen on the launching ramps.

Two previous attempts have been made to fire the Atlas. Each time, on June 11 and Sept. 25, the 100-foot missile climbed slowly, wobbled and then was blasted apart because of some failure of one or more of its intricate parts.

★ ★ ★

The Jupiter has been fired several times and is considered to be the most effective rocket of its type in the U. S. arsenal.

Letter Carrier Gives Fund, Farm to MSU

ADRIAN (AP)—Mail carrier Lloyd Crane has given his 120-acre farm and a $12,000 scholarship fund to Michigan State University in memory of his wife who died last March 1.

Mrs. Crane taught in Michigan schools for 38 years. Her last teaching assignment was at Michigan Center.

The first scholarship under the new fund will be awarded today to Miss Jeannette Harris of Michigan Center, who is a student at Michigan State.

Crane has a star route between Adrian and Monroe.

Flint, Ypsilanti Consider Plans for Big Growth

FLINT (AP) — A proposed "new Flint" won unanimous support from the Flint area study, a citizenship group, last night.

Under the proposal, Flint would be expanded to include four and a half adjoining, highly populated townships; 16 school districts would be consolidated into one; a countywide planning agency would be set up to control future growth and a countrywide tax reassessment made.

★ ★ ★

It was offered by Dr. Basil G. Zimmer, a faculty member of the University of Michigan's Flint branch.

The study group's recommendation will be sent to governing bodies of all communities concerned.

YPSILANTI — The Legislative Committee of the Washtenaw County Board of Supervisors Tuesday recommended for approval petitions for annexation of 610 acres to the City of Ypsilanti.

The supervisors will vote Dec. 10, and if approved, will set the date for an annexation election.

The 610 acres lie to the northwest of the city, in Ypsilanti Township.

World's Diplomats Express Sympathy

Show Ike's Great Prestige

UNITED NATIONS (INS)—Evidence of President Eisenhower's great prestige was never more apparent than in U. N. expressions of sympathy today.

Delegates from all corners of the globe — free world, neutralist and Communist — expressed hope for his rapid recovery as they discussed possible ramifications from his mild stroke.

★ ★ ★

As diplomats awaited further word on the Chief Executive's condition, respect for his leadership also was evident.

"We need him, especially at this time," said Prince Wan Waithayakon of Thailand.

And Norwegian Ambassador Hans Engen, describing the effect Eisenhower's illness will have on next month's Atlantic Pact summit conference in Paris, said glumly:

"The central person will not be at NATO."

★ ★ ★

Free world diplomats said that without the President's personal attendance, the NATO meeting would not have so great a chance for success.

Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold sent a message to the White House and told newsmen who informed him of the ailment: "I'm so sorry. It's that things are going at too much speed these days."

Assembly President Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand, on behalf of all 82 member states, wired the President his "profound regret at the news you have become ill."

A U. N. diplomat who long has been on close, friendly terms with the President commented that the ailment was the third event in "a three-part salvo which has done more to damage American diplomatic policy abroad than anything since World War II."

He said the other two were "Little Rock and Sputnik."

The diplomat, who asked that his name be withheld, said Sputnik and the apparent Soviet success with the Intercontinental Ballistic Missile had "contributed" to the President's illness.

He asserted:

"Ike takes the blame for the ICBM failure so far in this country. He was terribly worried about this.

"He refused to pass the buck to the military, although your experts all tell me it was the intramilitary squabble which has delayed your ICBM."

Ike's Physicians Report: 'Everything Is All Right'

their Gettysburg, Pa., farm were abandoned because of the President's illness. Instead they will have Thanksgiving dinner at the White House.

Nixon arrived at the White House at 8:40 A.M. (EST) to assume whatever added duties may be assigned to him. But he said he had no plans to see Eisenhower today.

NIXON VOICES GRATIFICATION

Nixon and other administration officials voiced deep gratification over the rate of the President's recovery.

The vice president said the President's "progress in the next few days" would determine how soon he will "return to his desk and resume his responsibilities."

Nixon made it clear that he remains certain of the President's early and complete recovery from the attack with which he was stricken Monday afternoon. Both medical experts and administration officials stressed that Eisenhower is "fully capable" of making major decisions should the necessity arise.

Nixon emphasized repeatedly that there was "no thought" of delegating Eisenhower's executive authority to other officials.

MEDICAL BULLETIN ISSUED

Late yesterday, four neurologists called in as consultants issued a bulletin saying that "the President's physical strength is normal and he is allowed to be up and about his home."

Snyder said no one can tell at this time, whether the President suffered more than a spasm in a brain artery.

"There is no doctor up to this time who can tell you it's a stroke," he said.

★ ★ ★

He added it will take more time to determine exactly what did happen to the President, who was stricken Monday after attending a welcoming ceremony for King Mohammed V of Morocco.

Snyder's comments followed the same careful line taken in formal medical bulletins yesterday which steered away from use of the word "stroke."

The doctors described the illness — called nothing more than a chill by the White House for nearly 21 hours — as mild. They said the prospect for the President's complete recovery within a reasonable period is excellent.

But the team of examining physicians said Eisenhower will have to rest and be restricted to "substantially decreased activity" for several weeks.

No hospitalization is planned, the medical bulletins said. The White House added that the President already has been up part of the time and walking around his living quarters.

To last night's bulletin by the neurological specialists, the White House appended this note: "All attending physicians and consultants are agreed that the President has not had another heart attack and that the present symptoms have no relation to his previous heart attack."

The obvious purpose of that statement was to nullify even more completely the assertion during the afternoon by Anne Wheaton, associate presidential press secretary, that Eisenhower had suffered "a form of heart attack."

She said that in reply to questions about technical language in the first medical bulletin, then a bit later reversed herself and said the heart was not involved at all.

Mrs. Wheaton acknowledged that the White House physician, Gen. Snyder, made a tentative diagnosis of cerebral occlusion shortly after Eisenhower was stricken Monday afternoon.

Asked why the long delay in announcement of the real nature of Eisenhower's illness, Mrs. Wheaton said she had not been aware until shortly before the announcement yesterday that the President had suffered more than a chill.

She added that Snyder told her what to say Monday evening. She said also that Sherman Adams, the President's chief aide, was aware that the public was being told only that Eisenhower had a chill.

Asked why that course was followed, Mrs. Wheaton said Snyder wanted to confirm his diagnosis and be sure of all the facts in the case before putting out the full story.

★ ★ ★

A key portion of that first doctors' report on the President's illness said:

. . . The President suffered an occlusion blockage of a small branch of a middle cerebral artery on the left side. It cannot be determined at this time whether the condition present is one of a small clot or a vascular spasm. All findings indicate no brain hemorrhage."

The President's new illness hit him at a time when for several weeks he had been putting in longer work hours most days than at any period since his 1955 heart attack and the 1956 intestinal ailment which required major surgery.

He has been engaged in a personal campaign to rally both American and Allied effort in a drive to catch and surpass the Russians in development of missiles and other space age weapons.

The Day in Birmingham

Zoning Ordinance Rules Cover Sale of Yule Trees

BIRMINGHAM — Of special, seasonal interest at this week's informal discussion of the new zoning ordinance, was the clause concerning the sale and handling of Christmas trees.

Several organizations, as well as individuals, conduct lot sales in Birmingham each year. For the first time the rules and regulations are clearly stated for them.

Sales may be conducted within any B-1, 2, 3, 4, of I district. Churches, schools and other non-profit organizations may conduct sales on any zone district, provided the project is handled on land owned by the group.

Trees, parts of trees or any other debris resulting from such display and sale must be removed not later than the day after Christmas.

City Planner Herbert Herzberg discussed other miscellaneous reguations of the ordinance, including accesses to residential property, smoke, ash, noise, odor and other "nuisance" phases, and essential services, such as utilities.

Essential services, he explained, are permitted in any zone, since their function benefits the public.

Notes of thanks have been received by city officials from the MOMS for the city's financial support of the Veterans' Day program, and from Pembroke School on its Halloween party. PTA President, Robert McPartlin said the party was most successful, and extended special thanks to the police and recreation and parks department for their help.

Schools in the Birmingham district will close tomorrow after regular class hours for the Thanksgiving recess. Full schedule operations will be resumed Monday morning.

Detroit Edison Manager Claude Morrow this week announced that the office at 220 East Merrill St. would be open Saturday mornings from now on. Friday evening hours will be discontinued.

The usual business of light bulb exchange, appliance repairs, other sales and bill payments will be conducted.

A special committee has been set up by Birmingham planners to prepare a study and make recommendations for a master plan. Newly appointed to the committee are Eliot F. Robinson and William Merrill.

Ex-Rouge Mayor Found Innocent

DETROIT (AP)—M. Warren Duncan, 56, was found innocent by a Circuit Court jury yesterday of charges that he extorted $27,000 from a paving contractor while he was mayor of suburban River Rouge.

The jury failed to agree on two other counts of bribery and conspiracy to bribe.

★ ★ ★

Assistant Attorney General John W. Gilmore said he will move soon to re-try the former six-term mayor on the two bribery counts. Duncan said he was confident of acquittal if there is a retrial.

"I knew I was innocent," he said, breaking into tears. "I appreciate the decision."

Duncan's attorney said the jury's verdict was "a tremendous victory." The jury deliberated three days after hearing evidence in a month-long trial.

★ ★ ★

Duncan was tried on a four count indictment returned by the one-man grand jury conducted by Circuit Judge Theodore R. Bohn. Duncan was accused of receiving payoffs on paving contracts given to the Detroit Concrete Products Co.

Woman Rescues Giant Boxer Dog With Icy Plunge

A 98-pound woman dove into ice-covered Huntoon Lake in Waterford Township yesterday, and rescued Fritz, her 65-pound boxer dog.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Virginia Wall, 36, of 3420 Oakbeach St., Waterford Township, said she first found neighbors to take care of her two young children and then rushed out to the lake near her home where the dog had reportedly fallen through the ice.

"By the time I got there, Ray A. Hewitt, of 5905 Rowley St., Drayton Plains, had broken a patch in the ice with a ladder.

"All I did was take off my coat and shoes, jump in and then push Fritz to the shore, since he was too big to carry," the mother of four children explained.

The dog had been struggling in the freezing water for approximately 30 minutes before the woman jumped in to rescue him.

Chapter 39

Hamilton Burger said, "We propose to show you, Your Honor, in fact, I think we have shown that the conversation was the result of the instructions of Mr. Perry Mason, who was then acting as attorney for the defendant in this case."

Judge DeWitt looked down at Mason and said, "I haven't as yet heard an objection from the defense."

"We have no objection to make, Your Honor," Mason said. "We're quite willing to have any fact in this case which will shed any light on what happened presented to this jury."

"Very well," Judge DeWitt said, "it seeming that there is no objection on the part of the defense, the court will permit this line of testimony."

"What happened?" Hamilton Burger asked Inskip.

"The phone rang. Paul Drake told me that Mr. Mason, the attorney for whom he was working, would be up, that I was to leave the door unlocked so he could come in without knocking."

"Now just how did you get Room 728?" Hamilton Burger asked.

"Oh, that was easy. I said I wanted something not too high up and not too low down. They offered me 519 which was vacant. I asked them to see a floor plan of the hotel and said, 'No,' and asked them if they had something perhaps a couple of floors higher up. They said they'd had a checkout in 728 and that was available if I wanted it, and I said I'd take it."

* * *

"Now after receiving that telephone call, what did you do?"

"And then what happened?"

"Well, it was about . . . I'm sorry to say I didn't notice the exact time, but it was around ten-thirty or eleven somewhere along there on the morning of the seventeenth that the door opened abruptly and Mr. Mason came in."

"Now you're referring to sometime around eleven o'clock on the morning of October seventeenth?"

"Yes."

"And Mr. Mason entered the room?"

"Yes."

"And what happened?"

'IDENTIFY YOURSELF'

"Well, we had some conversation. He asked me to identify myself as working for Drake, and then he asked if I'd looked the room over and I said I had generally. And he asked if I had a flashlight in my bag."

"And did you have such a flashlight?"

"Yes."

"And then what happened?"

"Mr. Mason looked all around the room carefully with the flashlight, and then he asked me to help him take the sheets and blankets off the bed."

"You did that?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then what happened?"

"Then he raised the mattress and found a bullet hole in the under side of the mattress."

There was an audible, collective gasp from spectators in the courtroom.

Judge DeWitt leaned forward. "A bullet hole?" he asked.

"Yes, sir."

"How do you know it was a bullet hole?" Judge DeWitt asked sharply.

* * *

"Because working with Mr. Mason we got the bullet out of the hole."

"How did you get it out?" Hamilton Burger asked.

"We cut a wire coathanger to pieces and made an instrument that would get the bullet out. First we probed and found there was a bullet in there, and then we got the bullet out."

"And what happened to that bullet?"

"I kept it in my possession."

"Did you mark the bullet so you could identify it?"

"Yes, sir."

"At whose suggestion?"

"At Mr. Mason's suggestion."

"I show you a bullet and ask you if that was the bullet which you extracted from the mattress?"

The witness looked at the bullet and said, "It is."

"Do you know how Mr. Mason knew that bullet hole was in the mattress?" Hamilton Burger asked.

"No, sir."

"But he did suggest to you that there might well be something in the mattress?"

"Yes, sir."

"And asked you to help him remove the blankets and sheets?"

"Yes, sir."

"And then he turned up the mattress?"

"Yes, sir."

"And indicated this bullet hole with his flashlight?"

"Yes, sir."

NO QUESTIONS

Hamilton Burger smiled triumphantly, "That's all."

"No questions on cross-examination," Mason said.

Hamilton Burger seemed somewhat nonplussed by Mason's attitude.

"Call Alexander Redfield," Burger said.

Alexander Redfield came forward.

"I show you the bullet which has been identified by the witness Inskip," Hamilton Burger said. "Do you know what gun discharged that bullet?"

"Yes, sir."

"What gun?"

"A Smith & Wesson gun, numbered C 48809."

"A gun which has previously been introduced in evidence here?"

"Yes, sir."

"The gun which the defendant Conway admitted he had in his possession?"

"Yes, sir."

"Now then," Hamilton Burger said, "there are two bullets in this case, and two guns."

"Yes, sir."

"There is a Colt No. 740818?"

"Yes, sir."

"And a bullet was fired from that gun?"

"Yes, sir."

"And what bullet was that?"

"That was the fatal bullet."

"That was the bullet that was given you by the autopsy surgeon as having been the bullet which caused the death of Rose Calvert?"

"Yes, sir."

"And that bullet was fired from that Colt revolver?"

"Yes, sir."

"And this bullet which you have now identified is a bullet which was fired from the Smith & Wesson, the one which is received in evidence and which bears the number C 48809.

"This is the same gun which the evidence shows Mr. Conway, the defendant in this case, produced and handed to the authorities as being the gun which he claimed had been pointed at him in Suite 729 and which he had taken away from this mysterious woman whom he had described in such detail?"

"Yes, sir."

"That's all," Hamilton Burger said.

Ex-Assistant Loomis Will Be Killian's Aide

WASHINGTON (AP) — Informed sources say that a former assistant of Dr. James R. Killian will be named shortly as Killian's top aide in coordinating the nation's scientific-military progress.

* * *

They identified the former aide as Henry Loomis, a 38-year-old physicist who was assistant to Killian at Massachuetts Institute of Technology from 1950 to 1953. Killian is president of MIT.

Loomis now is chief of research and intelligence for the U.S. Information Agency.

Homely Speech Fits Mood of Thanksgiving

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS) — Will somebody kindly peer out straight over his bifocals, and explain why Thanksgiving "ain't nothin' like it used to be when we was kids?"

No one could contest the fact that times have changed, and turkeys are higher, and chestnut stuffing is more trouble than it's worth and is therefore deleted from the interior of the bird.

But why do people who nostalgically yak about yore insist on slipping into ungrammatical terminology, as though, in those lovely days of chestnuts and overworked women, they had lived in backwoods pigsties remotely situated in regard to schools?

Even college men, who you happen to know come from good families in Connecticut, turn into cultural Hydes when discussing Thanksgiving — remarking, in the midst of a well-enunciated conversation on the weather, something like:

* * *

"Well, sir, it don't look like we'll have no snow this Thursday. I tell ya, in the old days we useta sit around the board and eat all day. Couldn't got out, all them blizzards."

THEM WAS DAYS

By willickers (ain't that the way you spell it?), them was the days.

This temporary foreteiture of the works of Mr. Webster occurs also when men reminisce of past Christmases, long-thawed winters and, occasionally, prices. But never is it so noticeable as at this season.

After some thought, it might be concluded that the reason lies in the fact that most men, even bluebloods, associate Thanksgiving with humility and homeliness. And speak accordingly.

Either that, or there's something to that story of Bridey Murphy. .

* * *

This particular national holiday, incidentally, was put over by a woman.

She was Sarah Josepha Hale, the hotshot fashion editor of "Godey's Lady's Magazine" in the early 19th Century.

3-IN-ONE CRUSADE

Before Sarah got into the picture, to promote peace and pilgrims and her publication in one giant crusade, Thanksgiving was celebrated in a number of states on whatever day they saw fit.

For some reason, unexplained by Godey's, they always picked Thursday and generally picked on the turkey as the symbol of gustatorial grandeur — although the original pilgrims at the original feast preferred heartier fare: deer, lobster, clams, Holland beer, etc.

Well, Sarah was a plumper for a lot of causes, but her favorite was Thanksgiving. Since she ran a fashion book, it might snidely be supposed that she wanted another holiday to encourage women to spruce up and look to Paris.

Actually, however, historians insist she was honest. That she was sincere when she said that "Thanksgiving, like the Fourth of July, should be a national festival observed by all our people as an exponent of our Republican institutions."

* * *

In 1861, about 35 years after she started the campaign, you may recall there was a war. Now Sarah went to the secretary of the state and suggested that "enmities and strife" be lain aside on that one day. Four days later, Abraham Lincoln proclaimed it a national day to give thanks.

There ain't many women like that no more, is it?

NATO Meeting Could Benefit U. S.

Parley May Win Bases

By JOHN H. MARTIN
INS Foreign Director

The United States evidently hopes that next month's NATO council meeting in Paris will lead to a missile bases pact.

Agreement by the allies on the establishment of American intermediate range missile bases and additional nuclear stockpiles in their territories would be the answer to Russian development of inter-continental missiles.

These forward bases strung through Western Europe and as far east as Turkey, which adjoins the Soviet Union, if equipped with intermediate range weapons, would counter Soviet bases armed with the longer ICBM's, or intercontinental ballistic missiles.

But confusion has arisen from Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' discussion of such a plan, and it seems to come from several assumptions made by Dulles.

One assumption is that there would be no reason to change the provisions of the Atomic Energy Act to permit the transfer of nuclear weapons to America's allies.

Dulles apparently believes that Congress would have less objections to transferring actual nuclear weapons that it would to revising strings on the exchange of information on those weapons.

If the act is not to be revised, then all weapons must remain under technical American control. That would include intermediate range missiles equipped with atomic warheads.

Another assumption is that Britain agreed at last March's Bermuda conference to have American missile-launching sites on British soil.

This may or may not be news to the British government. But the London press says it is certainly news to the British people because all the Bermuda bulletin said was agreement had been reached in principle that "certain guided missiles will be made available to the British forces."

This is a very different matter from establishing dumps of nuclear weapons under American control and getting allied agreement on use of them in case of war.

Dulles also said that if NATO forces are attacked in the field they would fight back without waiting for a declaration of war. The decision would be made by the field commander.

This question of responsibility also is one that always has plagued NATO deliberations. But American officials view the question of who controls the missile bases or launching sites to be largely academic.

This is because the NATO bases in effect are under the ultimate control of Gen. Lauris Norstad, allied supreme commander, Europe. In an emergency presumably he would merely switch from his NATO to his American general's hat in exercising this control. The provisions of the Atomic Energy Act would make that necessary, although he in turn would wait for word from President Eisenhower.

Chinese Military Group to Tour Indian Bases

NEW DELHI (AP) — A Red Chinese military mission will arrive here at the end of December on a six-week tour of "some military installations and places of general interest,' Deputy Defense Minister Surjit Singh Majithia said today.

Replying to parliamentary questions he said this is a return of a good will visit by a similar Indian team that toured Red China recently.

Wixom Approves Incorporation by Vote of 267 to 61

Village Elects 9-Man Group

Pearsall, Birchard Lead Candidates in Choice of Charter Commission

By STAN BOK
Commerce Correspondent

WIXOM — The progressive village of Wixom is settling down to a normal pace today after yesterday's special election which resulted in approval of a proposal for incorporation as a city.

★ ★ ★

The proposal was approved by an overwhelming majority of votes, 267 for and 61 against.

The election capped off several weeks of "around the town" discussion of the subject. It was a smashing victory for the Village Council and the Wixom Civic Association, both having supported the move to become a city.

Wixom officially became a village less than six months ago, breaking away from Novi and Commerce Townships. The village is situated in both townships.

ELECT CHARTER COMMISSION

A nine-man charter commission was elected into office yesterday with Everett Pearsall, president of the Civic Association, leading all candidates with a total of 248 votes. Close behind were Jesse Birchard, 247, and Joseph Stadnik, village president, 240.

★ ★ ★

Others elected were Herbert A. Abrams, 228; Gunnar Mettala, 227; R. W. Lahti, 227; Wesley McAtee, 225; Delbert Geyer, 225; and Eleanor Bourgeois, 217. Fred Thayer, who polled 165 votes, was defeated.

A total of 341 votes were cast, voting being heaviest between 5 and 8 p.m.

The present Village Common Council will be dissolved when and if a city charter is approved. A new city council will be elected when a special election is held for charter acceptance.

★ ★ ★

Backers of the city incorporation move reported that the biggest benefit to Wixom would be protection from annexation.

FIRST DOWNTOWN TREE — The Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce has erected this 40-foot Christmas tree in front of the courthouse. It is believed to be the first for the downtown area in many years. City crews today were stringing lights. It will be lighted during Saturday's "Christmas on Wheels" parade. Here Leslie W. Langford, Jaycee president, points out the height of the tree to City Manager Walter K. Willman. The idea was sparked by a Pontiac Press editorial.

White House Evasions Criticized

Why Was Illness Hidden?

By ALVIN SPIVAK

WASHINGTON (INS) — Why did the White House hide the true state of President Eisenhower's condition from the nation and the world for nearly 24 hours after his stroke?

★ ★ ★

This question today started a new controversy swirling about the head of Maj. Gen. Howard Snyder, the President's 76-year-old physician.

Also targets of criticism were Associate White House News Secretary Anne Wheaton and chief presidential assistant Sherman Adams.

It was Mrs. Wheaton, acting in the absence of News Secretary James C. Hagerty and with Adams' approval, who announced at 6:20 p.m. Monday that Eisenhower had been ordered to bed with a "chill."

No mention was made of the fact that Dr. Snyder and a panel of physicians — who had been slipped into the White House secretly—had already diagnosed the President's ailment as a cerebral occlusion.

At 8:58 p.m. Monday, Mrs. Wheaton announced that the President's temperature, pulse and respiration were "normal." Omitted from this cheering medical bulletin was the fact that the 67-year-old chief executive had suffered an impairment of speech, discovered during the afternoon examination.

NO HINT GIVEN

The deception continued Tuesday morning. The first bulletin of the day reported that Eisenhower was "progressing very well" and gave no hint that he had suffered a serious ailment.

★ ★ ★

It was not until 2:58 p.m., 24 hours after the first medical examination of the President, that the White House reported the true facts. Even then, the information that he had been stricken by what is commonly called a stroke was camouflaged in medical double-talk.

The announcement, originally intended to be made at 1:30 p.m. reached the New York Stock Exchange 30 minutes before closing time and caused the market to slump heavily.

Eisenhower has suffered three serious illnesses in the last 26 months and each time the early medical bulletins have cloaked the true seriousness of his condition.

His heart attack of Sept. 24, 1955, was first described as an upset stomach, though Dr. Snyder said later that he correctly diagnosed it immediately as a coronary.

'DIGESTIVE UPSET'

The first announcement of the attack of ileitis that sent Eisenhower to the hospital for major surgery in June 1956 also described his trouble as a simple digestive upset.

The admittedly delicate job of breaking the news to the world about the President's illness was directed in the last instance by Adams, who approved the bulletins given out by Mrs. Wheaton.

Eisenhower first complained of a "chill" to the First Lady and Dr. Snyder at about 1 p.m. Monday after he had greeted King Mohammed V of Morocco at the airport and had ridden in a 35-minute parade in cool weather.

Dr. Snyder ordered him to bed at 2:40 p.m. when he still did not feel well after lunch and a rest under extra blankets. An examination at that time disclosed Eisenhower had difficulty in speaking but no other abnormal symptoms.

The first White House announcement came at 6:20 p.m. It said simply the President had suffered a "chill." At 8:58 p.m., the White House reported the President's temperature, pulse and respiration were normal.

SPEECH IMPROVED

A panel of doctors again examined Eisenhower at 7:15 a.m. Tuesday and found that his speech had improved. At 8:55 a.m., a medical bulletin was issued saying the President was "resting comfortably, had a good breakfast and is progressing very well."

At 10:25 a.m., it was announced that doctors were making a "further evaluation" of his case but he was still "progressing satisfactorily." It was not until 2:58 p.m. that the White House announced he had suffered a cerebral occlusion.

Tax Hearing Ends in Draw

Seeking Tax Limit in Proposed Charter for Southfield

SOUTHFIELD—Efforts to set a tax limit in the proposed charter for the new city of Southfield resulted in a draw at this week's public hearing.

Of the 200 residents present, approximately half were in favor of an eight mill tax limit which would permit an increase in services.

★ ★ ★

The other half favored a five mill tax limit with no increase in present services.

The City Charter Commission invited the public to help set the tax limit in the charter for the future 26-square-mile city in the central and southerly portion of Southfield Township.

Two previous charters have been defeated by residents on the grounds of "high and unreasonable" tax limits. Another meeting will be held by the charter commission Dec. 4, said Charter Commissioner Eugene Swem this morning.

The commission will try to iron out the difficulties at that meeting.

The commission has until Dec. 16 to submit a charter for Governor Williams' approval.

Fined $100 for Selling Alcohol to Minor

The Michigan Liquor Control Commission has announced that Hortense Riddick, owner of Riddick's Pharmacy, 373 Franklin Rd., was found guilty at a recent hearing on the charge of selling alcohol to a minor.

The commission ordered a $100 fine imposed but did not suspend the owner's license on grounds that the minor's age had previously been checked. The fine is due Dec. 9.

Lake Orion Couple Wed

MRS. EDWARD STORY

LAKE ORION — The First Baptist Church was the scene Saturday afternoon of the wedding of Shirley Esther Toth and Edward J. Story. Before 300 guests the Rev. Walter Ballagh read the ceremony.

The bride wore a brocade gown with satin overlay pattern, which featured an empire waistline, Sabrina neckline and bracelet length sleeves. Her cascade bouquet was of baby white mums.

Mrs. Bruce Hamlin of Birmingham was the matron of honor and Kristin Kuester was the flower girl.

Robert Story of Pigeon was the best man. Ushers were Larry Toth and Maurice Story, both of Owosso.

A reception was held in the church parlors following the wedding.

★ ★ ★

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Toth of 8 N. Shore Dr. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Edward Story of Owosso.

After honeymooning in northern Michigan, the newlyweds will reside at 980 Orion Rd.

The bride was graduated from Lake Orion High School in 1954, and from the Mercy College of Nursing at Mt. Carmel in Detroit. She is employed by Dr. Buehrig of Clarkston.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Owosso High School and Michigan State University. He teaches in Lake Orion Community High School.

Army Reserve Center Planned for Charlevoix

CHARLEVOIX (AP)—City officials said yesterday a 100-man, one-unit army reserve center will be built in Charlevoix "as soon as practical."

The officials said announcement of the project came from Lt. Gen. William Arnold, commander of Fifty Army Headquarters in Chicago.

The center will house the 310th Ordnance Company of Charlevoix, whose members come from northern Michigan.

The Army had considered building the center at Petoskey but decided on Charlevoix following a study, Arnold said in a letter to Sen. Potter (R-Mich).

Eye Producing Jupiter Missile

Congressman Believes Work Would Be Done at Chrysler Facilities

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mass production of the Army's Jupiter missile may begin at Chrysler Corp. facilities in Detroit, Rep. Ford (R-Mich) said today.

If the Defense Department decides to begin assembly line output of the intermediate range ballistic missile (IRBM), he said, the work will be done in the unemployment-plagued auto capital.

★ ★ ★

Ford said in an interview such a development "would be terribly important for Michigan in getting into the missile business through the automotive industry."

"It would be a real shot in the arm for Michigan, not only in easing present unemployment problems, but for the future," he added.

The Detroit Chrysler facilities currently are producing 300-mile range Redstone missiles for the Army.

Ford said he will be in Detroit Monday to inspect the Chrysler plant as part of a series of fact-finding trips by members of the House Defense Appropriations Subcommittee. Ford is ranking Republican on the subcommittee's Army panel.

THOR READY

Ford conceded that the Thor missile, an Air Force-developed IRBM, is more nearly ready for assembly line production than the rival Army Jupiter.

"At this point, however," he added, "the Thor is not as reliable a weapon as the Jupiter."

Ford said a poll of eight subcommittee members attending hearings last week at the Army's Redstone Missile Center in Huntsville, Ala., found seven of them favoring mass production of both weapons simultaneously.

FAVORS COURSE

He said he favors this course on the grounds it will produce "more weapons in a hurry."

Ford said he could not estimate how many new employes Chrysler would hire for the construction of Jupiters. But he said he understands the Detroit work force producing Redstones is about to be increased from 300 to 4,000.

Ford said a start in mass production of Jupiter missiles in Detroit "would be significant in that the automotive industry is getting into the missile field."

Southfield Board OKs Television, Radio Station

SOUTHFIELD TOWNSHIP — Township Board members here last night accepted Station WXYZ's revamped plans for the building of a four million dollar radio and television station in Southfield Township.

The board referred the new petition to the Zoning Board for a public hearing.

The station has an option 104 acres of land on 10 Mile road, west of Northwestern Highway, and plans to build a four million dollar radio and television center on the site.

For the past eight months the station has been trying to have the property rezoned from residential to commercial, Township Supervisor Eugene M. Swem said.

He added that the Zoning Board will meet early in December and slate the public hearing sometime in January.

Stocks Perking Up After Panicky Fall

NEW YORK (AP) — The Stock Market opened with widespread gains of fractions up to two dollars today in a surprising rebound from the sharp selling at the close yesterday. Trading was active.

News the President has suffered a closure of a small artery in the brain hit the New York market yesterday 20 minutes before the close. In those last 20 minutes, stocks were dumped at steadily declining prices.

★ ★ ★

After the New York market closed, the drop continued on the Pacific Coast Exchange.

★ ★ ★

Some Wall Street experts, however, felt the selling may have been more hysterical than realistic. These analysts insisted there was no change in the administration's program, which has been leaning toward increased expenditures for defense.

Thus it was felt the market might get good support from those who felt the price break offered an alluring buying opportunity.

Slain Prowler Found to Be Family Member

CHICAGO (AP)—In the darkness of the night James and Lorraine Reynolds grew frightened at the strange sounds in their suburban Chicago Heights music store and called police.

The police spotted the prowler early today and shot and killed him.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Reynolds became hysterical when she saw the body. It was her brother Richard Paske, 27, a construction worker.

Police reported that the Reynolds, who have an apartment above the music store, were awakened by strange sounds in the store and went outdoors where they stopped a private watchman, Lawrence Burgess, 27.

★ ★ ★

Burgess notified Chicago Heights police and then entered the store, where he was slugged and shot in the forearm. Police arrived at this time and cornered the prowler in a stockroom. Demands that he surrender brought no response. Policeman Donald Share said he saw a shadow and started firing his submachinegun, fatally wounding Paske.

Urges Residents Back TB Seal Campaign

Dr. C. P. Mehas, president of the Oakland County Tuberculosis Association, has announced that the 1957 Christmas Seal Campaign is now in full swing and urges area residents to support the drive.

"On the average in Michigan, about 10 new active cases of TB are found every day," Mehas said. "Modern treatment has been saving lives, but Christmas Seal dollars must now work to prevent the disease in order to save the months and years of necessary treatment."

Easy Life Seen Rife With Strife in 2057

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK (AP) — There seems to be a new national anthem titled: "Be kind to your trusty scientist."

Sub-title: "Befriend your basic research boy or he'll sneak out of the lab and go into the dry goods business."

★ ★ ★

Now, I realize this new evangelism was born out of pure reverence for knowledge and absolute truth and, of course, has no connection with national panic. Still, I must confess, there are times when a heathen superstition keeps me from being swept off my feet, stops me from kneeling in prayer over the New Testament of the Test Tube.

Almost every time the new faith begins to seize me, something happens: A bunch of scientists get together and paint a futuristic picture of the paradise to come on earth.

★ ★ ★

They did it again just the other day. Now, just how much connection there was between the prophecies and the products being celebrated, I can not say and I don't think it would be fair of you to draw any inferences.

Eight top-rank scientists at a distiller's party came up with this picture of man (or woman) 100 years from now:

★ ★ ★

He'll be able to control the size, shape and function of his own body; talk through his mind instead of his mouth; remove all mental illness and control his emotions and impulses with drops or pills; select the sex of his unborn baby and determine whether he'll have singlets, twins or triplets; if he doesn't want his own baby, he'll be abe to shop for and then hatch the sperm and eggs of long-dead people of proven virture and talent; dine on vegetable dishes and synthetics, since the rest of the animal kingdom will have been consumed by then; vacation at lavish hotels hung in outer space and receive his mail through satellite radio signals.

WOW!

Except for the fact that they're convinced man in the year 2057 will work only for or eight hours a week, I find the scientists' dream of the future a screaming nightmare.

I visualize the human form being shaped to fit the furniture, not vice versa. Tuesday, I'll be contoured. Wednesday I'll sprout wings for the butterfly chair. Thursday I'll take in a little here and there to squeeze into my microscopic sports car.

★ ★ ★

In this suspenseful world of vegetating vegetarians, a hostess warming up for her dinner party will take glib conversation pills and her guests, antiboredom drops. The timid soul going in to ask for a raise will first take courage pills and the boss, seeing him enter, will take antisympathy pills.

★ ★ ★

There will be pills for everything but the divorce rate, I'm convinced, will zoom into the stratosphere. Trying to figure out what a woman is saying is torture enough; trying to figure out what she's thinking will defy even the wave of the future.

★ ★ ★

Verbally or mentally, there will be endless arguments between man and wife 100 years hence.

"Let's go to Mars again. I can get a discount."

'You and your cliche thinking! Mars is overloaded with humans. Let's go to Saturn. It's more chic. Nobody goes there."

★ ★ ★

"I'm telling you for the last time, it'll be a boy!"

"That's what you think. Remember, you picked the last one. Anyway, it's already been arranged. We'll have a quiet girl this time. I promised the babysitter."

★ ★ ★

"I want a boy, a brown-haired boy."

'I want a girl, with chartreuse hair. Mother says it'll go with our new living room. It's the big thing this year."

I want not to be there, in the year 2057.

—Muffled Sounds?

THEN THE CHANCES ARE THAT YOU HAVE CERUMEN

CERUMEN is the condition brought on by excessive exudation of wax in the ear canal. (Cerumen) can make you hard-of-hearing in two ways; by clogging the canal and keeping sound from ear drums; by coating the vibration-carrying canal linings. This deep-down wax, in addition to making you hard-of-hearing, can cause buzzing, ringing, head noises.

PROVE YOU AREN'T GOING DEAF! Remove those hardened wax accumulations deep in your ear canal with WAX-OUT. This compound of soothing oils gently loosens wax and by use of a simple syringe floats it out; also soothes and helps tissues normalize. Texas Votes Power to Close Schools

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—A bill giving the governor full power to close schools threatened with occupation by troops was passed by the Texas House of Representatives today and sent to Gov. Price Daniel's desk.

The vote was 115-26. The measure won approval in the Senate last week after overcoming a filibuster.

"We have a governor who can maintain order without the interference of the President of the United States," said Rep. Jerry Sadler in his plea for passage.

ICE

QUESTION: Why is ice slippery?

ANSWER: A tiny snowflake weighs less than a bird's feather and a glacier's weight on a mountain top is measured in hundreds of billions of pounds. Both are water and, surprisingly, it's the water which makes ice slippery.

How does it do this? Before you step on some ice it may seem pretty rough to you, and yet as soon as you walk on it you find it difficult to keep your balance. What happens is that your shoes create friction on the surface of the ice—and friction causes heat which melts a tiny bit of the ice on the surface. This film of water is responsible for the slippery qualities of ice.

Mackie Reports Threats to Arterial Road Program

HILLSDALE (AP)—Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie told yesterday of threatened political reprisals from pressure groups trying to persuade him to alter his five-year highway building program.

Mackie, in a luncheon talk prepared for two Hillsdae civic clubs, reaffirmed his intention of giving a connected system of arterial highways top priority in his road building plans.

"When this program was planned and announced it was anticipated that in some areas where needed highway improvements could not be met in the first five years, disappointment and outright opposition would develop," he said, adding:

"In a few areas this has happened. Pressures already are mounting in my office in Lansing to sacrifice the arterial plan to a few local demands for a bigger share of highway funds. I have been threatened with political reprisals of many descriptions and from a number of directions."

Mackie said he had been told that certain members of the Legislature would try to "embarrass" the highway department during the 1958 session "because their districts are not getting all the roads they want and need."

"This particular advice I do not believe," he said. "As I have had cooperation from legislative leaders to date and intend to make every effort to get bi-partisan support for the highways we will build in the future."

The commissioner declared:

"I want to emphatically state that during my service as highway commissioner I will not sacrifice a connected arterial highway system to local interests or to politicians of any party who would splinter the program and drag the pieces back to deliver them to local constituents."

Cuban Reports Indicate Mistreatment of Doctors

Recent seizure of a number of Cubans and their yacht loaded with arms at Key West, Fla., draws attention once again to the revolution which has been simmering in Cuba for a couple of years.

Despite strict censorship, distressing news is leaking out. From his hideout in the Sierra Maestra the rebel leader, FIDEL CASTRO, a 30-year-old law student, has directed sabotage and guerilla attacks against the government of Dictator President BATISTA who took over power and prevented a presidential election in 1952.

★ ★ ★

The Eleventh General Assembly of the World Medical Association meeting in Istanbul, Turkey, has heard complaints of the Cuban Medical Association that two Cuban doctors who attended rebels were themselves tortured and killed.

Another charge is that seriously ill patients have been released from hospitals on Government orders and then found murdered a few hours later. In addition, the Cuban Medical Association says that "the army and police prevent doctors from caring for the wounded and are subjected to physical and mental torture if they do so."

★ ★ ★

The 53 nation Association, through its Secretary, Dr. L. H. BAUER of New York, has been trying to get Gen. BATISTA's permission to send an impartial and non-political commission of three American doctors and an attorney to Cuba, to look into these charges. So far he has been unsuccessful.

If BATISTA has nothing to hide, he should welcome an investigation of the reported mistreatment of Cuban doctors.

Foreign Aid Essential to Our Own Economy

In a statement to the National Foreign Trade Association convention C. DOUGLAS DILLON, Deputy Undersecretary for Economic Affairs, pointed out the need for greater effort, particularly in the economic field, and a long term extension of Reciprocal Trade Agreements.

★ ★ ★

"Unless the free nations," said Mr. Dillon, "acting together succeed in building strong and healthy economies which answer to the aspirations of their people, we may be sure that we will not stay the course of Soviet world domination no matter what our military power may be.

"It is on this economic issue that Communist propaganda is most dangerously effective. For the Communists point to the great increase in national economic growth which they themselves have achieved while concealing the terrible sacrifice in lives, liberty and living standards which made those increases possible."

★ ★ ★

Mr. DILLON, who is to have over-all charge of foreign aid said that long term sustained aid programs are required and that foreign aid no longer can operate on an emergency basis. In his talk from Oklahoma City President EISENHOWER emphasized the importance of maintaining and enlarging this vital program.

BENJAMIN FAIRLESS, who headed a study committee on the subject of foreign aid, is of the opinion that trade under our system of competitive enterprise accompanied by capital investment and technical aid, is our secret weapon in the cold war.

★ ★ ★

Contrary to widely held misconceptions, foreign aid, about one per cent of our gross national product, benefits this country also. Three quarters of that one per cent is for military purposes. In the current year this program financed $4 billion in American exports. Without this, foreign trade would have dropped sharply and some Americans would have been out of work.

Our foreign aid serves our national security at the same time it helps strengthen the free world.

RUSSIA lacks about 98 per cent of being able to control her earthbound satellites as well as she did the one she put in outer space.

OF COURSE, blasting the world to pieces would end all international friction, but there are probably better ways.

Ads for patent medicines to cure most everything from falling hair to falling arches also occupied much space. The local news and municipal problems of 103 years ago had much in common with those of the present day.

Mr. Bacon values this reminder of Pontiac's pioneer times to such an extent that he has had it framed under glass. He is holding it until the Wisner Home is opened to the public, where it will be put on display. Like many other people, he also has other material that merits such a place.

A carpenter by trade, Mr. Bacon now is retired, but in good health, and is anxious to donate his services wherever they can be used in the restoration of the Wisner Home. Several others have told me the same thing. Something to cogitate upon, eh?

Flint's city commission has voted to pay only the "actual" expenses of its members at conventions they have been authorized to attend, starting with the annual American Municipal Congress at San Francisco early next month. That city's mayor,

MEMBER OF AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

Why All the Hubbub?

David Lawrence Warns:

President's Illness Teaches Lesson

WASHINGTON — Every illness of the President, however slight, teaches a lesson that apparently the American people have not been willing thus far to take seriously.

LAWRENCE

It is that one-man government in the United States is dangerous and that the alternative—Cabinet government—cannot long be delayed if America is to avoid a damaging emergency.

Almost everyone familiar with governmental operations knows that the present structure of the executive branch has long since become obsolete. Yet the presidency, as a functioning office, rarely gets attention.

The tendency of the electorate is to blame all the ills of the country on the chief executive. He would have to be a superman to satisfy all the popular conceptions of what he should do in public policy.

★ ★ ★

He is the victim today of a mass of work foisted on him by an ever-growing bureaucracy and an ever-expanding set of functions imposed on him by law because Congress doesn't know where else to delegate authortiy.

The fashion now is to blame Sherman Adams—the man who stands between Eisenhower and the demands of many congressmen and senators to have the President shake hands with their constituents or hear personally the grievances affecting their respective districts back home.

Mr. Adams himself has a superhuman task, and it is no wonder that he is lambasted by congressmen who are not given access to the President when they want it.

★ ★ ★

In recent years the chief executive has been given by law many presidential assistants, but the habit nowadays is to lump them together and visit upon them exaggerated ideas of power and the title—often referred to with subtle implications in the press—of "Palace Guard."

Nor is the answer to appoint an executive vice-president, as has been sometimes suggested. For the real problem is not in administering the duties of the office but in policy-making. There are plenty of officials and staffs to carry out orders, but not enough time to decide what the orders shall be.

The simplest solution lies in the formation of a presidential council, which would be created by law and would give the chief executive, to sit at his side, at least five persons who have been nominated by him and been confirmed by the Senate.

These five men would be freed from the responsibility of administering any of the departments of the executive branch, as cabinet secretaries do today. They could have their offices in the executive building alongside the President.

Since they would be men of stature and would be chosen presumably because of their eminence, they would be able to advise constantly on questions of foreign or domestic policy, conferring in advance with cabinet officers and then arranging for them to sit in with the President when final decisions are to be made.

This would save time and avoid two-man decisions by the President and one cabinet member.

★ ★ ★

The present cabinet members could be made eligible for the council if it was found desirable to put an executive manager in charge of each department.

The nations of the British Commonwealth have a cabinet government in which decisions are made by the group, which, in turn, is responsible to the majority party in Parliament.

While America may not be ready for such a change, the principle of fixing responsibility for policy-making in an executive group, rather than in a single man is sound enough to be applied in America.

★ ★ ★

The executive branch of the United States government is today a distended, top-heavy mechanism. It is not suitable for "The Atomic Age" or, as the phrase now goes, for "The Missile Age," either.

When will Congress spend a little time on the problem and come up with a plan to give the American people a presidential council that will remove the dangers of one-man government and assure continuity of action at all times?

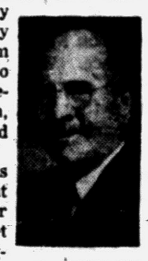
The Country Parson

"I wish our mouths reacted to things of bad taste coming out as they do to things that taste bad going in."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Don't Let Poor Diet Rob Bones of Vital Calcium

Most of the three pounds of calcium in the body of a healthy adult is in the bones and teeth. The bones and teeth serve as a kind of storehouse of calcium, upon which the other tissues draw when, for any reason, the daily intake of calcium is inadequate to meet the requirements of function, work, play and growth.



DR. BRADY

That most of us get insufficient calcium from our ultra-refined diet is now well recognized. That everyone needs enough vitamin D daily to insure absorption and utilization of calcium is well known, at least to physiologists, nutritionists and biological chemists.

★ ★ ★

But both medical and dental practitioners, for the most part, still regard the bones and teeth as unalterable in composition and having no metabolism, no constant chemical change, such as other tissues or organs have.

This 19th century notion explains why so many dentists still utter such childish maxims as: "A clean tooth never decays."

It explains, too, why so many physicians still tell credulous people that "too much" (thy never specify how much that would be) calcium may make the bones brittle, the arteries hard and the joints stiff.

As Sherman and other authorities have shown, the ordinary American diet is more deficient in calcium than in any other element. As a result (says Boas — "The Patient Past Fifty"), adults experience a steady long-continued loss of calcium through the years.

BONES BECOME POOR

This does not become superficially manifest because the great calcium stores in the bones constantly make up for the calcium losses in the blood and tissues. As a result of this constant depletion, the bones become poor in calcium and more fragile.

When the bones (and, I believe, the teeth) become very poor in calcium, softer, lighter, more fragile, the condition is called osteoporosis. "Osteoporosis of the aged," says Boas, "may be the result of a dietary fault and not an inevitable accompaniment of aging."

"It is difficult if not impossible," says Brady, "to get enough calcium to keep you in good physical condition unless you consume a minimum of 1½ pints, three glasses, of whole milk, skim milk or buttermilk every day. In one way or another, get sufficient vitamin D to insure assimilation and utilization of the calcium in milk."

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Poorest American Has Blessings

"The kids grumble too much in America," Clint says. "They turn up their noses at cake when tots in Korea regard our garbage pails as a Thanksgiving feast and beam with joy at a dry crust of bread." Read this case record aloud at your dinner table and then notice the increased fervor with which you will say grace!

By GEORGE W. CRANE

Case W-357: Clint T., aged 23, has recently returned from military service with our troops in Japan and Korea.

★ ★ ★

"Dr. Crane, American kids don't appreciate things," he began. "Why, my younger brother was grumbling just yesterday because Mom had a ham dinner.

DR. CRANE

"For he said he hated ham and why couldn't we have something better than that.

"Over in Korea, the children are delighted to get even a few crumbs. They'd regard our American garbage cans as a real Thanksgiving banquet.

"As a matter of fact, I wonder if it isn't a mistake for us to consider Thanksgiving Day a distinctly American holiday.

"For our people are probably the least thankful of any on the entire face of this earth.

★ ★ ★

"Our kids gripe about cake, if it is even a little dry, when millions of tots in India and Korea and Africa would beam at getting just a dry crust of bread."

DO YOU GRUMBLE

"Those who grumble have too much," is an adage that we always used with our five Crane children when they were little.

And that proverb is basically correct. For grumbling is a sign of a long time luxurious standard that makes people unappreciative.

The ancient Hebrews thus grumbled at Moses because God had furnished them Social Security in the form of daily manna.

They weren't required even to plow the ground or sow and cultivate it. All the work that was involved on their part was to go out and scoop up buckets of manna.

★ ★ ★

Yet they grumbled. For they had it too easy.

It might do American children a great service if they were all forced to spend three or four days during the teens in a barren wilderness where they had to forage for every bite of food.

Those few days of semi-starvation would teach them more respect the rest of their lives for our lush American living standard.

Our pioneer ancestors actually had to gnaw the bark of trees and chew the leather in their moccasins and try to capture insects just to put a few calories in their ravenous stomachs.

★ ★ ★

No wonder they were so grateful to Almighty God at the time of the first corn crop in New England.

They knew what it meant to be thankful, for they had been at the verge of starvation all during the previous winter. And their loved ones had meanwhile died like flies.

So a few bushels of yellow corn made them so happy they declared a day for offering thanks to God.

How many of you readers ever say grace at your family table as a daily event?

★ ★ ★

Oh, some of you may remember for a moment when your aged mother comes to visit and bow your heads as she intones thanks to the Almighty.

But you young parents are derelict in your duty if you don't teach your children to pause before they eat, and offer a prayer of gratitude.

"What have I to be thankful for?" a Chicago teen-ager bitterly inquired.

★ ★ ★

"You have two feet," I replied bluntly. "Lots of soldiers out at

Hines Veterans Hospital haven't even one foot.

"You have two good eyes. Some of those veterans have none. In fact, I saw one boy out there recently without arms or legs and blind in both eyes.

"He'd try to reach his bed radio and turn the knob with his teeth.

"And he obviously couldn't feed himself so he was totally dependent on the kindly nurses to spoon the food into his mouth."

So the poorest American can sincerely offer a mighty fervent prayer of thanksgiving to Almighty God, for this land is paradise in contrast to Korea.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Requests Account of Costs for Shelved Road Plans

Of all the complaints of high taxes, I haven't heard any about the flagrant use of money being carried on right now. I mean the shelving of the Northwestern Highway extension plans.

Our property was involved at one time, so I had occasion to make a few trips to the Highway Department in the past year and a half. If you could see the aerial maps, the many complicated technical road drawings of intersections, etc.; if you could have seen the survey crew that worked in this area for several months, the soil testing crews and probably many more that I know nothing about, you would know what I mean.

The plans are final, bonds are sold, and the Highway Commissioner wants to build a north-south road somewhere else. Before this new road is started, we as taxpayers should have a public accounting of the money spent to date on the now shelved Northwestern extension. Who knows? By the time they get the new road plans to the final stage, there may be another road commissioner who wants it somewhere else.

Mrs. C. F. S.

'Thank God for All, Not One Blessing'

As you sit down to dinner on this particular day, food will naturally predominate, but many will go back and relive in memory what they have to be thankful for since the last Thanksgiving season. No person in the world knows better what to be thankful for than you. Instead of picking out one particular blessing, why not thank God for all your blessings? As you thank a friend for doing you a favor, remember that God is your best friend.

Says Reasoning Is Wrong Here

We're sure stretching things when we decide we might as well send arms to Tunisia because if we don't the Russians will.

Either we should or we shouldn't send them. If we should, there's no need to make excuses. If we shouldn't, it doesn't make a particle of difference whether the Russians will or won't. On that argument we might just as well go in and take over countries, because if we don't, the Reds will.

It seems like we're doing more all the time that's against our better judgment just because we're afraid the Russians will do it first. It almost looks like they have us over a barrel with a dime's worth of reverse psychology.

Warns Shoppers to Check Items

After checking our items from a local supermarket when we got home, we found we were overcharged 43 cents.

I took them back and another cashier checked them and told us we had paid too much for several articles. The first cashier had gone. The manager said the adding machine sometimes adds incorrectly, to me a very childish alibi. I thought the purpose of adding machines is to avoid mistakes, and I told him I was reporting it to the Better Business Bureau, because that was the third time it had happened to me.

I just want to impress on the public to check your articles and don't be afraid to go back. I saved myself 43 cents and we people can't afford to lose too often in this day and age.

'May Sound Fine at Bridge Table'

One of Stevenson's first beads of wisdom in his new position: "We must rebuild mutual confidence between the United States and our allies. They need us and we need them more than ever." The next sentence may well have been: "The world would be a better place to live if everyone got along with his fellow man." Such platitudes may get by at a bridge table, but on a global level we need much more practical advice.

Bob Considine Says:

Warsaw, in Ruins, Gayer Than Moscow

WARSAW (INS) — The hand of World War II still lies heavily on the capital of this wavering Peoples' Democracy. A block from the tip-toeing residence of Cardinal Wyszynski is an area of ruined buildings whose drunken and neglected walls are held upright by their rain stained plaster. The Warsaw opera house is still being repaired more than 12 years after the last bomb fell.

The residence of Bishop Chormainsky where Cardinal Ratti, later Pope Pius XI, lived as the first apostolic delegate to Poland between 1917 and 1920, presents an ugly brown face ravaged by the smallpox of shrapnel.

At the city's best hotel, the Bristol, stoutly defended by one resident correspondent as the "world's worst hotel, no matter what anybody says or whatever other claims are made," there is only sporadic hot water. People sit in its browned out lobby in an attitude that souls consigned to limbo must adopt.

Yet, curiously, it is a gayer place than the great and confident mecca of the Communist world, Moscow. At least to the western eye and ear it is gayer.

★ ★ ★

Perry Como suddenly began singing on our radio as we started writing this piece. What a beautiful voice he has! For a full week in Moscow, during the 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution, great bullvoiced loud speakers in the square outside our room boomed only martial airs and vigorous polkas. The only American music selected during that period was a medley from that smash Broadway hit, "Rose Marie."

The dining room at the Bristol is lighted at night like the yard of a concentration camp but somehow retains its calmness. But off to one side is a friendly little cafe, clubroom of the eastern European world. People warmed it with their body heat.

A man who looks like Jimmy McHugh, Hollywood composer and pianist, played American songs—including one of Jimmy's, "Sunny Side of the Street." We asked him to have a drink. It seemed to frighten him. "I can't drink here," he said. "I am an employe of the ministry of health. This is just an extra job."

6 HOURS FROM MOSCOW

3:00 A.M. — Bill Hearst, Frank Conniff, Serge Fliegers and I flew here from Moscow in an IL 124, a kind of Russian Convair. It is a six-hour trip with an hour on the ground at Vilna which once belonged to Poland.

The runway at Moscow had been a sheet of ice. At Vilna it was covered with an inch or two of snow and there was a bit of an uneasy skid when the pilot first touched his brakes after touchdown.

But it was a comfortable flight, much of it at altitudes between 500 and 1,000 feet. Russian pilots believe in flying under rather than over the weather. An hour or two out of Moscow a strapping stewardess served lunch: a thick caviar sandwich, a salami sandwich, a package of cookies and a glass of very strong tea.

There were also magazines to read, including the Russian type "Life" or "Look," featuring a painting of the lynching of two negroes by a horde of Ku Klux Klansmen, one carrying an American flag. The man seated ahead of us read from Joseph Conrad, in Polish, all the way.

★ ★ ★

At Vilna airport the Americans startled the ground crew people by staging a snowball battle. Once inside the handsome terminal we were told that Aeroflot, the Russian airline on which we were traveling, had free lunch waiting for us. The dining room was all but deserted, and a young waiter was the picture of mingled dismay and amusement when we told him we didn't want all the luncheon, even though it was free.

In this same terminal, three years ago Hearst, Conniff and Kingsbury Smith, en route out of Russia, heard a Russian broadcast of their interview with Khrushchev. This day we went through, the radio that blared in the dining room contented itself with a Chinese soap opera. Plainly this expedition needed Smith.

Still, they somehow knew, a terminal guard in uniform asked Fliegers in Russian: "What kind of a man is Khrushchev?" and the moment after we had been seated in the dining room a fine-looking border patrol officer came in, looked at us, called over the waiter and whispered to him at some length, and marched out. It was about as subtle as the squeaky-shoed guy who had followed us in Prague, looking elaborately indifferent. But it's interesting.

Chronic Rheumatism Afflicts 11 Million Americans

Cause, Cure of Arthritis Still Mystery; Greatest Hope Is Research, Prevention

(This is the fourth of five articles in which top experts in health, medicine and old age report on what has been achieved and what to look for in the battle against disease and in overcoming problems of our senior citizens.)

By RUSSELL L. CECIL, M.D.
Medical Director, Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation
(Written for International News)

Crippling arthritis is this country's most widespread chronic disease, afflicting more than 11 million Americans.

Although arthritis and related rheumatic cripplers have plagued mankind for untold centuries, the cause of these disabling diseases is still a mystery, and a permanent cure has yet to be found.

Following World War II, which had given new impetus to physical medicine and rehabilitation, physicians and laymen in the United States, Canada, Great Britain and the Scandinavian countries joined forces to focus more closely on arthritis and other systemic diseases (those which affect the body as a whole). The development of the antibiotics, which predates the last war, had brought many acute infectious diseases under greater control, among them rheumatic fever and infectious arthritis. They are now much rarer than in the past.

★ ★ ★

Thus by common and spontaneous consent, a high priority was attached to chronic diseases, both in terms of basic and clinical research. Orangized efforts followed.

It was in 1948 that the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation was launched. Two years later Congress established the National Institute of Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases.

Today, these two organizations, along with the American Rheumatism Association, a professional society of physicians, work closely together in a large-scale effort to shed more light on the causes of arthritis and to alleviate the suffering of its victims.

3 COMMON FORMS

The basic cause of the three most common forms of rheumatic disease still eludes science—rheumatoid arthritis, a generalized disease of the entire body that produces an inflammation of the joints; osteoarthritis, which attacks the bone and the cartilage in the joint; and gout, in which a chalky substance is deposited especially in the joint tissues of the hands and feet.

★ ★ ★

Fifty years ago, rheumatoid arthritis, the most crippling form, was thought to be caused by infection.

At the present time, intensive work is under way to create the disease in animals so that its course can be more closely studied.

Blood tests and a better interpretation of X-ray pictures are of great assistance to the physician in diagnosing the disease earlier than was formerly possible. Early diagnosis means earlier correction or control of the crippling so characteristic of arthritis.

Lack of knowledge of the disease's cause has been a great handicap in treating it. Cortisone and similar steroids are of much help in selected cases. At the same time, there are some unfortunate side effects when cortisone or its derivatives is administered over a long period of time.

DISEASE OF OLDER GROUPS

Even more common than rheumatoid arthritis is osteoarthritis, a disease of "wear and tear" which attacks older age groups in very large numbers. Unlike rheumatoid arthritis, it does not affect the body as a whole. Its three most common focal points are the hip, spine and knee. Treatment available at the present time consists mostly of heat, hot baths and the administration of such pain-killers as aspirin and codeine.

Gout is a metabolic disease in which the patient suffers from a painful excess of uric acid. Acute attacks can usually be promptly suppressed by the use of colchicine. Chronic gout can be relieved by the daily administration of benamid, a new drug which has a remarkable capacity for eliminating uric acid from the body's system through the kidneys.

Most encouraging is the new emphasis on rehabilitating the arthritic patient, particularly the rheumatoids who are often so badly disabled that they are forced to discontinue their occupations and way of life. The "back to work" program of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, in which teams of experts work for the restoration of the patient's physical and vocational abilities, is gaining strong support from many foundation chapters.

★ ★ ★

We may eventually find that, with the limitations of our scientific knowledge in this field, the most satisfactory method of handling the rheumatoid arthritic is to treat him with rest and exercises and various other measures, rather than with pills, powders and hypodermic injections.

ONLY TREATING SYMPTOMS

We must be honest: In the case of rheumatoid arthritis, osteoarthritis and gout we are treating the symptoms of the disease rather than the disease itself. Only a vastly intensified research attack can solve the mystery of the causes and mechanisms of these diseases.

Where there is mystery, there is superstition and its modern derivative "hucksterism." To combat unjustified and unverifiable claims to "cures" the U.S. Food and Drug Administration and the American Rheumatism Association have formed a joint committee which takes appropriate action in order to protect the public interest and public health.

Meanwhile public and professional education about the facts of rheumatic disease is gaining ground rapidly. Our medical schools are paying more attention to arthritis than ever before. As a result, more physicians are enabled to diagnose the disease at an early stage. Much work remains to be done in the field of professional training, but the Foundation's program for clinical traineeships and postgraduate teaching are steps in the right direction.

Our greatest hope rests in research. Here, our attack is broadly based and has multiple aims: Prevention, more effective treatment and a larger and continuing supply of professional and scientific manpower. With many of our scientific weapons and tools fully committed in this offensive, we shall eventually wipe out arthritis. We must destroy this destroyer of human health and happiness.

Ford Yule Fantasy to Open at Rotunda

DEARBORN (INS) — The Ford Motor Co. announced the fifth Christmas Fantasy will open Saturday at the Ford Rotunda here.

A spokesman for the company called the display "one of the nation's outstanding holiday presentations." He said 641,000 persons visited the Rotunda last year to view the Fantasy and nearly 2,380,000 visited the annual exhibit between 1953 and 1956.

A nativity scene will be featured in the center court of the Rotunda. Other features of the fantasy will include a 40-foot Christmas tree, a doll beauty shop, toys, a three-ring circus and a bake shop.

"Of course," the spokesman added, "Santa Claus will be on hand to hear the wishes of thousands of hopeful youngsters."

Cemeteries Buy Evergreens

Bind Boughs Into Mats to Give Graves Winter Covering

ESCANABA (AP) — There's a new market for upper Michigan's timber industry — cemeteries.

It is neither seedlings nor lumber that the cemeteries want, but evergreen boughs that can be bound into mats to give graves a winter covering.

Ever since the north woods of Menominee, Delta, Dickinson and Marquette Counties in upper Michigan became a hunting ground for lumber there has been a demand for evergreen boughs for Christmas decorations.

An example of the changing situation is offered by Teal's Evergreens of Bark River. Five years ago it had three suppliers in upper Michigan. Today it has about a dozen.

★ ★ ★

Some of these suppliers in the "boom" of the evergreen bough are man and wife teams. The husband works over the tree he has felled while his wife trims the boughs.

The business of selling the boughs to cemeteries got its start before World War II when timbermen sent the boughs to cemeteries and the cemeteries made their own mats. Today much of the manufacturing is in the Upper Peninsula, with operations located at Powers, Bark River and Randville.

The blankets of evergreen bound to wire netting generally come in two sizes, 22 x 62 inches and 24 x 72 inches.

Cemeteries buy the mats for $25 to $30 a ton and sell them.

★ ★ ★

Ray Jurmu of Escanaba, an evergreen dealer 19 years, says there is little chance of the business expanding. Grass - covered graves not only lessen the need for an evergreen blanket, he says, but in some places cemeteries won't handle them because they believe the needles have a harmful effect on the soil.

Adding salt will increase the conductivity of water.

Puzzle Fans! Money Mounts in Pot-O-Gold

Numbers on the Pot-O-Gold till show that the money's mounting rapidly and is now at the tempting sum of $1,200. That's a plump little morsel for so little effort. All you must do is read the rules and clues carefully, write the correct numbers in the appropriate blanks and mail it to us on a postcard. Certainly there could be no one so lazy he wouldn't be willing to invest that little time for such a generous prize.

The new puzzle contains a series of squares which are alphabetically lettered and a corresponding list of sentences with two clue words. Each of the words is numbered. The object is to select the word which you think best fits the clue sentence. You then place the number of that word in the square which has the same letter as the clue sentence.

In other words, you will read the clue labeled A and decide which of the two words makes the most sense in the puzzle square marked A.

Do the same with all other squares. Read all the clues carefully and be sure the right numbers are in the right squares.

2. Entries must be on official entry blanks printed in this newspaper.

3. To submit an entry the contestant must print his numbers in the proper spaces, cut out the area enclosed by dotted lines and attach it securely to a 2-cent post card. No entries will be accepted if they are in envelopes. Entries for Puzzle No. 78 must bear a Tuesday, Dec. 3 postmark (or before). No entries received after that time whether mailed or delivered by hand, will be declared eligible. The Press is not responsible for entries lost or delayed in the mail.

4. Sorry, telephone calls or mail concerning details of the contest canot be answered or acknowledged.

5. The Pontiac Press will award a cash prize of $100 a week to the winner of each weekly POT-O-GOLD contest. If more than one winning answer is received the prize will be divided equally among the winners. If any week or weeks should pass without any winners, the prize will be added weekly until a winning solution is submitted.

6. Winners will be awarded an extra cash bonus of $25 each if they are Pontiac Press subscribers of record on the day winners are anounced. Only one such bonus can be awarded to each prize-winner no matter how many weekly prizes may accumulate.

7. Each week's puzzle will be published Monday, Wednesday and Friday until the contest's end. Either or all will be considered as official entry blanks.

8. Winners and correct solutions will be announced each Friday of the week following individual contests. Official keeper of answers will be Frederick C. Ziem, prosecutor for Oakland County. Only the General Features Corp., originators of the puzzles, will know the solutions until after each contest is over. Answers will be delivered to the Press Judges by Mr. Ziem after the final deadline.

9. There is only one correct solution to the POT-O-GOLD puzzle, and only that correct answer can win. The decision of the judges is final and all contestants agree to abide by the judges' decision. All entries becoming the property of The Pontiac Press and none can be returned.

10. Completed puzzles must be addressed to POT-O-GOLD, POST OFFICE BOX 58, Pontiac, Michigan. Winners will be notified either by telephone or in the mails.

Doolittle Speaks Out at Senate Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — At 60, Gen. James H. Doolittle still is charged with courage.

He flew nonchalantly into a Senate preparedness subcommittee hearing today, and before he had finished he had fired shots at:

Our high school education, jealousies among the military services, at least one defect in our economic system, and, indirectly, even at the Senate itself.

Well, you might expect that from Doolittle — and what an inappropriate name that is for do-everything Jimmy! He's only 5 feet 6, but he's always been a scrapper. High school boxing champion, stunt flier extraordinary, record setter for cross country flights, leader of the first bombing raid on Tokyo.

★ ★ ★

Today the Senators wanted to ask Doolittle, who has been a scientist and businessman as well as an aviator, what we can do to make sure we're keeping up with the Russians.

Doolittle wasted no time. "We'd like to balance the budget," he said, "We'd like to cut military expenditures and reduce taxes, but the Russians won't let us."

Now most of the Senators had had a hand in cutting this year's budget, and were proud of it. But they never let on they even heard the shot. Several nodded solemnly, as if that was what they had been saying all along.

Doolittle explained how Russian youngsters are crammed with physics and chemistry, and how too often our schools are geared to make sure the stupidest boy could pass.

And he obviously didn't approve of that part of our system which furnishes such small pay for a science teacher. "In Russia," he said, "he makes 50 times as much as a day laborer. Here they often don't get as much."

★ ★ ★

As for the eternal jousting in the military systems, Doolittle must have rocked many an old marine, soldier, sailor and airman. "It may be," Doolittle said thoughtfully, "that we are headed toward a single system."

Doolittle said he's all for competition, but, he said, "the competition ought to be against the opposing team."

As he talked, Doolittle looked relaxed and sure of himself. But observers nearby could see he was forever moving his feet, as if he were subconsciously using them to help fly a plane.

★ ★ ★

And it was interesting, too, that although in politics, "I told you so," is a frequently used weapon, Doolittle spurned an excellent chance to use it.

For on Jan. 27, 1954, he was saying, "It is extremely likely that the Soviets are ahead of us in the development of the long-range ballistic missile."

In those pre-Sputnik days, the story was worth exactly three paragraphs.

Navy-Made Space Suit Set for First Traveler

PHILADELPHIA (INS) — Men may not be quite ready to commute to the moon, but U.S. Navy researchers in Philadelphia believe they already have proper space-going haberdashery for the first travelers in the void.

In fact, Richard J. McGowan, who has been a guinea pig for many of the tests of a space suit developed atthe Navy's air crew equipment laboratory, says he hopes he can be inside the suit when it finally zooms off to the moon.

The "Suitnik" is a result of nine years of experiments originally intended to develop garments for pilots flying at more than 43,000 feet.

ADVANCED STAGES

Lab director Capt. Charles F. Gell says the suit is now at the point where men will be able to live and carry out explorations on the airless surface of the moon while wearing it.

The Navy pointed out today that the suit already has proved itself by saving the life of a pilot in an emergency which developed during an experimental flight.

The pilot was wearing the garment when his plane's cockpit lost its pressure at 54,000 feet. The suit automatically inflated and its builtin atmosphere permited the flier to bring hi. plane to a safe altitude.

In one test McGowan spent 11 hours in an altitude chamber which simulated pressure and conditions which would be encountered at 80,000 feet—practically the same kind of vacuum he would meet on the moon.

HAS HEATING UNIT

In another he stayed 45 minutes in a tank of freezing brine while the air temperature was kept at 40 degrees below zero. The suit's heating system kept him comfortable.

The suit is also equipped with cooling apparatus and Dr. Gell says he believes it can be adapted to the extremes of temperature which space travelers will encounter.

He also points out that moon explorers will be able to carry a much larger oxygen supply for the Suitnik than earthbound experimenters can handle, simply because the oxygen will weigh only one-fifth as much on the moon as it does at earth gravity.

The Navy says that in addition to using the suits to work in on the moon, space voyagers may find them handy in flight.

A space traveler would be able to leave his ship in flight, make an inspection and return, maneuvering himself with jets of oxygen from the suit. He would not fall behind his lightning-fast ship while doing it because he would be traveling at the same speed as the ship when he went outside and there would be no atmosphere to slow him down.

Thousand in AF Helping Family of Injured Flier

FT. DIX, N.J. (AP)—A thousand squadron comrades of an injured airman are working to give his family something to celebrate on Thanksgiving Day.

★ ★ ★

The airman, James Driscoll, 27, suffered critical burns Sunday while trying to save his 18-month-old son from the family's burning trailer home outside Wrightstown.

The boy, Matthew, perished in the blaze. Driscoll's wife Roberta, 21, saved their other two chidren.

Now Driscoll is in Ft. Dix Army hospital while his wife and two children are living with neighbors. The $6,000 trailer and all their belongings are gone.

★ ★ ★

At this point, the men of the 29th Air Transport Squadron stepped in. One of the men said: "We're going to get them housing, clothing and take over whatever indebtedness Driscoll had. If we can get them a trailer, they're going to have it."

And, he added, Driscoll's wife and two children are going to have a Thanksgiving Day dinner.

Flint Duck Hunter's Body Found in Bay

UNIONVILLE (AP) — Sheriff's officers have recovered the body of one of two Flint duck hunters missing since they set out on a hunting trip Saturday.

Tuscola County Sheriff William Tomlinson said the body had been identified tentatively as that of Bean Rockafellow, 41. The hunt continued for his companion, Charles Nagy, 42.

The hunters' overturned boat was spotted in Sebewaing Bay today, about seven miles from where the hunters embarked. Rockafellow's body was found submerged beneath ice a mile from the boat. He still had a firm grasp on a wooden decoy which he apparently used in an unsuccessful effort to buoy him up until he got to shore.

Study Opening of More Graves

Officials in Wisconsin Ponder Further Check of Gein Story

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Atty. Gen. Stewart Honeck planned to confer today with District Attorneys Earl Kileen of Waushara County and John Haka of adjacent Portage County on the question of opening more graves which Ed Gein said he had plundered.

★ ★ ★

Any decision, Honeck said, would be made by mutual agreement of his office and local authorities.

Honeck also announced that another lie detector test would be given Gein, 51-year-old bachelor of rural Plainfield who has admitted killing two middle-aged women and robbing the graves of nine others.

Honeck said the purpose of the additional tests was to determine whether Gein was involved in other killings. Gein is undergoing 30 days of mental observation.

Gein's attorney, William Belter of Wautoma, said he had no objection to more lie tests for Gein but that he would doubt their reliability if Gein is judged insane.

★ ★ ★

"Gein is apparently trying to tell people honestly what happened," Belter said. "But perhaps he doesn't remember som things, and other facts may be perverted in his mind. If that is so, what value is a lie detector test?"

★ ★ ★

Two graves in Plainfield Cemetery were opened Monday and the caskets were found empty. Kileen said the opening of the graves verified Gein's story and added, "I won't open any more if I can help it."

★ ★ ★

Honeck has been directed by Gov. Vernon Thomson to investigate all phases of Gein's case.

Gein had pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to a charge of first-degree murder in the death of Mrs. Bernice Worden, 58-year-old Plainfield hardware store operator Nov. 16. He also admitted killing Mrs. Mary Hogan, 54, who disappeared from her rural tavern in Portage County in December 1954.

Report Due Dec. 5 on State Tax Study

LANSING (AP)—The first research staff report in the Conlin study of Michigan's tax structure will be reviewed Dec. 5, Rep. Rollo G. Conlin (R-Tipton) announced yesterday.

★ ★ ★

Areport, covering the intangitax, wil blesot eeydesrehcnildbles tax, will be considered by the legislative committee headed by Conlin and its 28-member Citizens Advisory Committee.

Conlin said because the state's tax problems are interrelated, it will not be possible to draw any firm conclusions on any tax until all have been analayzed.

★ ★ ★

The research phase is expected to take until next May or June, and after that conclusions will be drawn.

Conlin said the first report has been distributed to members of both the legislative and the advisory committee, with the underbep ublicly discussed before the meeting.

★ ★ ★

The session, to be held in the Capitol, will be open to newsmen, Conlin said.

There are still millions of people in this country opposed to education — mostly kids . . . Tony Pettito saw this sign at an intersection: "Give the pedestrians a chance. Remember — they are unarmed." —Earl Wilson.

Walt Disney Set to Make New Full-Length Feature

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — When Walt Disney told me he would have his next full length cartoon feature (thank goodness he's giving us another of these delightful cartoons) called "the 101 Dalmatians" ready for Christmas 1958, I laughed:

"Well, you are giving yourself enough time, Walt. But if it rolls around as fast as Christmas 1957 seems to have cropped up on us, it will be no time at all."

The strangely titled "101 Dalmatians" is a book by Dodie Smith about two dogs that track down an evil woman who kidnaps Dalmatians for the fur coats they will make. "It's as exciting and suspenseful as an Alfred Hitchcock thriller," explained Walt.

In fact, it will be Walt's most ambitious color cartoon feature since "Sleeping Beauty," an unforgettable delight.

Rosalind Russell is being paged for the role of the widow Tebbs in "Andersonville," and believe me Roz hasn't turned a deaf ear by any means to George Sidney's offer.

While conversing with Harry Cohn, Harry casually mentioned also that Roz would be very good, so George got busy and called on her in New York. She was in "Picnic" for Columbia, and the reviews on her performance were excellent.

Rosalind said if she can take that vacation to Europe with her family when she finishes "Auntie Mame" for Warners, she'll be more than interested in Columbia's offer.

There's nothing like knowing when you've made a mistake. In fact, that's half the battle, and Frank Sinatra now knows that the TV shows he made in such a hurry needed more attention, so he's doing them over "live." The first one is set for Friday.

Dean Martin, who exudes charm in his act at the Sands is flying in to appear on the Sinatra show. Frankie's shows have had a low rating, and for a man who is tops in his profession to have anything that is a semblance of failure, is tragic.

I certainly take my hat off to him for doing his shows over with an entirely different format.

I have been hearing about Edie Adams' impersonations of Marilyn Monroe, but I had no idea she was so good. You would have sworn it was Marilyn, in voice, the walk, hair-do, and the works.

After the show at the Tropicana, we have coffee with Edie and her husband, Ernie Kovacs, and I told her I wished Marilyn could see her act. She told me Marilyn had seen it, that she liked it, and didn't mind the impersonation at all.

When I think of some of the caricatures made of our stars, I am not surprised that Marilyn likes this one. Edie goes into the Mocambo December 26th, and Ernie will appear in a comedy for Columbia titled "The Notorious Landlady."

A very acceptable Christmas present is gift tickets to motion picture theaters. There's some mighty good pictures being released around the Yuletide season.

There have been five versions of Marlon Brando's "Ride Comanchero" written, and he still isn't satisfied.

Nice gesture on the part of Peggy King, who has offered Mary Morrison an extra week free at the Mocambo because of Charlie Morrison's kindness in giving Peggy her first job.

Jessie Matthews, once the No. 1 English actress, is returning to the screen after 18 years to sing in George Paal's "Tom Thumb."

Lions Set for Turkey Day Tilt

DETROIT (AP) — "If we've got championship stuff, now's the time to prove it," George Wilson said today on the eve of the traditional Thanksgiving Day battle between the Detroit Lions and the Green Bay Packers.

★ ★ ★

The knowledge that his Lions are one-touchdown favorites has done little to ease the fears of the Detroit coach.

"I hope we've learned that we can't overlook anybody in the National Football League," said Wilson.

That comment was prompted by Detroit's 27-7 shellacking last Sunday by the Chicago Bears, a team that lost five games before dusting off the Lions at Briggs Stadium.

Tomorrow's game will be nationally televised (CBS). The kickoff is at noon (EST).

The Lions carry a 5-4 record into the game. Green Bay is 3-6. A half dozen Green Bay boys are on the crippled list. Fullback Paul Hornung, their leading ground gainer, is a doubtful starter because of an ankle injury.

Despite these seemingly favorable factors, the Lions need look back only one year to last Thanksgiving Day when the underdog Packers trailed 13-3 at the end of the third quarter but finished the game on top 24-20.

★ ★ ★

Tobin Rote secured that Green Bay victory with three touchdown passes in the final period. Now Rote is throwing them for the Lions and alternating at quarterback with Bobby Layne.

Green Bay coach Lisle Blackbourn, while perhaps mourning the loss of Rote, has four former Detroit players on his offensive unit who were acquired in the trade that brought Rote to the Lions. They are tackles Norm Masters and Oliver Spencer, guard Jim Salsbury and halfback Don McIlhenny.

★ ★ ★

Green Bay also has Ron Kramer, the All-America end who graduated from Michigan last year. Kramer, now running in the Green Bay backfield, is their second leading pass receiver.

The loss to Chicago dropped Detroit into a second-place tie with the San Francisco 49ers in the Western Division race. The Baltimore Colts are leading with a 6-3 record.

The Lions met Green Bay in the second game of the season and won 24-14.

★ ★ ★

The game tomorrow will mark the seventh consecutive year the two teams have met at Briggs Stadium on Thanksgiving Day. The Lions have won all but two games since 1950, but the overall record going back to 1934 shows a 28-20 count in favor of Green Bay.

MSU Prexy Denounces Critics; Spartans Are Honored at Banquet

DETROIT (AP)—The president of Michigan State University said last night this is no time for panic or recrimination about our educational system and intercollegiate football.

"This is open season for critics to take pot shots at intercollegiate football," Dr. John A. Hannah said at the annual Michigan State football bust at a Detroit hotel.

"The critics say our educational system has failed dismally and should be revamped," said Dr. Hannah. "But this is the same educational system that gave us the atomic bomb, made us the most productive nation in the world, gave us the greatest amount of personal freedom and the highest standard of living in history."

Hailing the 1957 MSU team as a great one that represented the school in the finest tradition, the president said "the size of the father's pocketbook, the mother's position on the social register, the color of skin and the religion" have nothing to do with intercollegiate football.

Quarterback Jim Ninowski received the Danziger award, given annually to the most outstanding varsity player from the Detroit area. Center Dan Currie was named the Spartans' most valuable player by his teammates Monday night and Sam Williams has been named captain for 1958.

After Holiday Games

May Fill Bowl List

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

While you're reducing that turkey to a carcass tomorrow, college football will be filling out the bowl game schedule with Texas A&M, Texas and Virginia Military taking shots at the New Year's Day gravy.

The Aggie-Texas and VMI-Virginia Tech games aren't the only two on the Thanksgiving Day list, but they'll do for a start.

★ ★ ★

There are more angles to the A&M-Longhorn game than a Rube Goldberg cartoon. It's strictly an "if" game—and the result won't be known 'til Saturday.

IF Baylor can knock off Rice Saturday, the Aggie-Texas winner will claim the Southwest Conference title and the Cotton Bowl berth that goes with it. IF Rice wins, the Aggie-Texas winner likely will wind up in one of those "other" bowls, probably the Sugar.

★ ★ ★

In short, it's just a usual Southwest race. Texas A&M, beaten only by Rice, and Rice, beaten only by Texas, are tied for the lead at 4-1-0. Texas, betten only by Southern Methodist but tied by Baylor, is third at 3-1-1.

If Texas A&M and Rice wind up in a tie for the title, Rice gets the Cotton Bowl bid because of the 7-6 victory over the Aggies.

Things are much more simple for VMI. If the Keydets win, they go to the Tangerine Bowl. If they lose, they spend the year-end holidays with the folks.

The Keydets are 8-0-1 (tied 21-all by Holy Cross) and are paired with East Texas State by the Tangerine committee as the only two teams still under consideration as a foe for Mississippi Southern in the Bowl game. Texans already have completed their season, with an 8-1 record.

The Texas A&M-Texas game will be televised in the South, Southwest and Midwest. Eastern viewers will have a chance to look too, but only after the Brown-Colgate game is over at Providence, R.I. The East got into it when the network (NBC) noted the importance of the game at College Station, Tex.

★ ★ ★

Not on TV, but worth viewing in the flesh are Cornell at Penn, Richmond at William & Mary, Miami (Ohio) at Cincinnati, Denver at Wyoming and Utah State at Utah.

Utah can bag the Skyline title with a victory. But if the Utes lose, it's the Southwest Conference race all over again. A Utah defeat could make the Denver-Wyoming winner the champ—if New Mexico defeats Brigham Young Saturday. BYU could win it all.

The other still vacant bowl berths won't be after Saturday's games between Navy-Army, Mississippi-Mississippi State, Tennessee-Vanderbilt and Georgia-Georgia Tech.

Middies Given Slim 3-Point Edge

Navy Favored to Trip Army

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The football experts rate Navy a three-point favorite over Army in the 58th renewal of the service classic here Saturday, but fans trying to pick the winner have to decide how that slim margin stacks up against such unforeseeable factors as team spirit and the breaks.

Spirit alone has won for both sides in the past, and breaks have decided other meetings. The weather, too, could be a factor. The gridiron prophets base their calculations on the expectation that the Middies' aerial game will prove superior to Army's ground attack. Rain or windy weather could alter that picture.

The experts are unanimous on one point—anyone who goes by the record in picking the winner in this game is sticking his neck out.

Navy Coach Eddie Erdelatz promised "something new" for the clash at Municipal Stadium, but naturally wasn't saying what the something was.

Coach Earl Blaik of Army let it be known his squad was working on special defensive plans, but likewise wasn't giving any details.

Both Blaik and Erdelatz had high opinions of their opponents' abilities.

Erdelatz said the Cadet backfield of Dave Bourland, Pete Dawkins, Bob Anderson and Vin Barta is the best he's seen since coming to Annapolis seven years ago.

"Army can get you coming and going," he declared. "If you lay back for passes, they run over you. If you try to stop Anderson, Dawkins runs wild. If you watch Dawkins, Anderson takes off. If you watch both, Barta will beat you to death."

★ ★ ★

Erdelatz rates the Army "twice as good" as the squad which held Navy to a 7-7 tie in last year's encounter. And he says the West Point backfield is "about 10 times better than it was when we played them last November."

Blaik, while singling out Bourland for special praise, said he doubted if any team could contain Navy.

"Ned Oldham and Harry Hurst are good runners. Tom Forrestal is a fine quarterback and passer," Blaik commented. He said he figured Army would score on Navy, but questioned:

"Can we deny Navy a higher score?"

READY FOR ARMY — Tom Forrestal, Navy's ace quarterback, looks forward to Saturday's game against once-beaten Army in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium. Forrestal's passing has been a big factor in Navy's seven victories this season.

Pistons Score 109-91 Victory

Yardley Paces Detroit Pro Cagers With 31 Points

NEW YORK (AP)—The Detroit Pistons got back on a winning stride with a 109-91 victory over the Minneapolis Lakers at Madison Square Garden last night.

★ ★ ★

Snapping a three-game losing streak, the Pistons had no difficulty with the Lakers in the opener of a National Basketball Assn. doubleheader. It was the sixth straight defeat for the Lakers, who are in last place in the league's Western Division. The Lakers have won only two of their 15 games.

★ ★ ★

Detroit is third in the Western Division with a 6-7 record but only two and one-half games behind pace-setting St. Louis.

Pacing the Pistons were George Yardley with 31 points and Gene Shue with 25. Yardley scored 24 in the second half.

Making his professional debut with the Pistons, Bill Ebben saw less than three minutes of action and scored two points. Ebben is a former University of Detroit star.

★ ★ ★

In the second game, the St. Louis Hawks rallied in the last five minutes for a 120-110 victory over the New York Knickerbockers.

Duffy Still Thinks MSU Best in U. S.

EAST LANSING (AP) — Which team does coach Duffy Daugherty of Michigan State think should be on top of the football polls?

Auburn? Nope. Ohio State? Try again.

Slippery Rock . . . Indiana . . . Yankton . . . Comish . . . Hartwick . . . Michigan State . . .

Stop right there. That was a shrewd guess, fellow.

"Maybe I'm prejudiced," admitted Daugherty, "but I still think we have the greatest team in the country.

It was like asking a beaming mother which was the prettiest baby in the "pretty baby" contest.

★ ★ ★

"We were always at our best against the big ones. Look at Michigan (35-6), Notre Dame (34-6) and Minnesota (42-13). Those were the teams that were advertised in advance as the toughest on our schedule.

"Sure we lost one, (to Purdue 20-13) but Purdue was great that day. But so did Ohio State to Texas Christian. And look at the TCU record from there on in," Daugherty said.

How about Auburn, he was asked.

"I'd like to play them, or the teams they meet," Daugherty said. "I understand that down south they all vote in a block. Up here, our votes are divided between two tough top teams, Michigan State and Ohio State."

Would he like to meet Ohio State?

"Would I?" said Daugherty. "We've met them a few times, remember? The record shows we've won three and lost none."

The MSU-Buckeye record of the three meetings is 25-20 in 1912, 24-20 in 1951, and 28-13 in 1953. The teams haven't gotten together on a date since.

★ ★ ★

Biggie Munn, MSU athletic director and Spartan football coach for the last two defeats of the Buckeyes, also was outspoken about the rivalry.

"I don't think it's right," Munn said, "that one conference team plays more games than another. It gives them the edge. I'm going to fight for an even schedule at the next Big Ten meeting."

Getting back to polls, Daugherty admitted:

★ ★ ★

"I voted in one of the . . . . . scrambled up . . . . . things myself," he sputtered, with some censoring needed.

"I voted Michigan State in first and Ohio State second on the one they ask for the vote by the coaches. And it was close enough so that maybe I put Ohio State in.

"But to be honest," he declared. "I'd have to vote the same way again. I still think Ohio State is the second best team in the country."

Southfield Plays Tonight

Walled Lake Wins Opener

Walled Lake opened the area basketball season with a bench-sweeping 70-37 victory over Cranbrook on the Viking court last night.

Coach John Shadford used his entire 15-man squad and eleven players got into the scoring column, led by center Bill Hosley with 15 points.

This was Shadford's debut as head coach of the Vikings who last year captured the Inter-Lakes title and went all the way into the semi-final of the state tourney in posting a 21-2 record.

Cranbrook had only four players who scored led by a pair of 13-point efforts by John Studebaker and Pete Ordway.

★ ★ ★

Along with Hosley the other three returning lettermen also hit double figures with Larry Vandervelde and Bob Smith getting 13 each and Dennis McClelland hitting for 10.

Walled Lake jumped off to a 20-9 first quarter lead, and Cranbrook's lone scoring outburst came in the second stanza when the Cranes outscored the Vikings 14-13.

★ ★ ★

In the reserve game Walled Lake beat Cranbrook, 56-38.

In another early opener tonight, Southfield is host to Livonia Bentley on the Jays' court.

Friday night Troy visits Oak Park in the lone county clash of the day.

Deadline Set Sunday to Enter Elks Event

Only a few days remain to enter the 1st annual Ladies National Invitational tournament sponsored by the Pontiac Elks Club starting Jan. 18, 1958.

All entries for the event must be in by Sunday, according to co-chairmen Donald Long and Peggy Bender.

The tourney will run on consecutive weekends until all bowling is completed. Competition will be in team, doubles and singles with trophies awarded in each division and all events.

To be eligible, contestants must be sanctioned by the WIBC and be an Elks wife, widow, unmarried daughter, or unmarried sister. All bowling will be at the local Elks lodge.

Heckman Leads Table Net Loop With 56 Points

Howard Heckman defeated Perc Secord 21-19 and 21-17 in successive matches to move into a 16-point lead recently in the Pontiac Table Tennis league.

Heckman now has 56 points to 40 for 2nd placer Dick Bartow. M. Herscher ranks 3rd with 36.

Play will resume Friday at the Pontiac High girls gym from 7 to 11 p.m. League matches start at 8:15.

Michigan Varsity Tops Frosh, 89-50

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Michigan's varsity basketball team trounced the Wolverine freshmen 89-50 last night as Capt. Pete Tillotson poured in 28 points.

★ ★ ★

Working easily and showing scoring punch, the varsity moved to a 55-22 lead at halftime. It was never threatened after the five-minute mark, but coach Bill Perigo kept his regulars playing most of the route.

Tillotson also was a rebounding demon off the backboards. George Lee notched 17 points and M. C. Burton 16 for the varsity, which opens its regular season on the road Dec. 4 against Pittsburgh. The home opener is scheduled for Dec. 7 with Nebraska.

Marysville Gridder Leads Prep Scorers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Halfback Frank Anderson of Marysville High School is the state football scoring champion of 1957.

Anderson scored 22 touchdowns and 19 extra points for a 151-point total, enough to edge Carl Charon of Boyne City who scored 141 pints on 20 touchdowns and 21 conversions.

Charon missed a chance at the scoring title when Boyne's game against Gaylord was canceled because of influenza.

Wings Recall Metro Prystai

DETROIT (AP) — Metro Prystai, a 10-year veteran of the National Hockey League, today was recalled by the Detroit Red Wings from their Edmonton farm club.

The 30-year-old Prystai currently is Edmonton's leading goal-scorer with 10 and has played all three forward positions for the Flyers. He will report in time for Thursday's game here against Toronto.

Prystai scored 150 NHL goals, 90 of them during his seven-year stay with the Wings. He was sent to the minor leagues during the 1957 preseason training period.

Going to Edmonton is young Tom McCarthy. "He needs regular work," said Coach Jim Skinner, "and he can't get it in Detroit."

Redlegs, Cards Considering Big Player Trade

CINCINNATI, O. (INS) — Cincinnati's Redlegs and the St. Louis Cardinals reportedly were on the verge of a big trade today in a swap that would involve Redleg catcher Smoky Burgess and Cardinal pitcher Willard Schmidt.

★ ★ ★

There has been no confirmation of the deal but Redleg manager Gabe Paul was in St. Louis yesterday conferring with Cardinal manager Bing Devine.

★ ★ ★

Schmidt last season won 10 games and lost three while used primarily as a relief pitcher. Burgess, a second-string catcher, hit .283 for the Redlegs.

Doing It Up 'Brown' in NFL

Paul's Jimmy Sets Pace

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Cleveland Browns are doing the National Football League up brown—Jimmy Brown that is.

Brown (Jimmy) virtually is running Coach Brown's (Paul) Browns (Cleveland) to the NFL's Eastern Conference title and possibly a league championship. The former Syracuse All-America broke the league record last Sunday for yards gained in a single game to take a commanding lead in the race for individual ground gaining honors.

★ ★ ★

Brown gained 237 yards in 31 attempts to boost his league leading total to 769 yards on 161 carries, an average of 4.8 yards.

He's 197 yards ahead of Rick Casares of the Chicago Bears who moved from third to second place with 572 yards on 155 attempts, a 3.7 average. Third is Tom Wilson, Los Angeles, with 559 yards on 114 carries for a 4.9 average.

★ ★ ★

Cleveland also boasts of the League's No. 1 passer in Tommy O'Connell, former Illinois whiz. O'Connell has averaged 10.4 yards per pass on 58 completed of 98 thrown for 1,027 yards and 6 touchdowns. Eddie LeBaron, Washington's mite quarterback, is second with a 9.2 average on 76 for 128, 1,187 yards, 8 TDs. Baltimore's John Unitas, who leads all passers in touchdown aerials with 19, ranks third in over-all passing with figures of 117 for 205, 1,760 yards, 8.5 average.

Undefeated Hillsdale Accepts Bowl Bid

Has 11 TDs for Army
Royal Oak's Dawkins Top Scorer, Scholar

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Pete Dawkins, one of Army's "touchdowns twins" is a man to confound the egg heads who say football is all brawn and no brain.

Rated in the top five per cent of his class (1959) on academic grounds, the 19-year-old halfback from Royal Oak, Mich. is rated a superior student and excellent officer material.

In fact, Dawkins is toying with the idea of taking up the study of nuclear physics in advanced study after he finishes his course at the Academy.

★ ★ ★

Right now Dawkins is toying most of all with the idea of beating Navy in the big game Saturday at Philadelphia. He is 10th among the nation's scorers in major college football with 11 touchdowns for 66 points. His running mate, sophomore Bob Anderson is the No. 1 man in the country with 14 touchdowns and 84 points.

During the "off season", Dawkins is a regular defenseman on the Army hockey team which starts its season a week from Saturday and a lefthanded outfielder on the baseball club.

A year ago when Army was getting ready for the Navy game, Dawkins was masquerading as "a Navy" back on the third team. He dressed for the Navy game but didn't see action. In fact, he didn't earn a football letter as a sophomore.

Dawkins was a quarterback before he came to the Point and a quarterback on the Plebe team. Col. Earl (Red) Blaik, the Army coach, suggested the change to halfback.

Dales to Play in NAIA Grid Game Dec. 21

Middle Tennessee State Probable Foe in Holiday Bowl at St. Petersburg

HILLSDALE (AP) — National recognition has come to Hillsdale College's football team which has won 34 straight games for the longest current winning streak in collegiate competition.

Hillsdale has accepted an invitation to play in the football bowl game sponsored by the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics Dec. 21 in St. Petersburg, Fla.

The probable opponent will be Middle Tennessee State, also undefeated and untied and ranked No. 1 among NAIA teams. Hillsdale was ranked second among the nation's small colleges by the NAIA.

The Dales' coach, Frank (Muddy) Waters, first disclosed the news, before it became official, to a pep rally on the Hillsdale College campus yesterday afternoon.

★ ★ ★

Waters, a former Michigan State fullback who took over as coach here in 1954, said he will call his squad back for practice after the Thanksgiving vacation.

The contest at St. Petersburg will be known as the Holiday Bowl. It will be telecast by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The NAIA sponsored the first game for the national small college championship last year at Little Rock, where it was called the Aluminum Bowl. Montana State and St. Joseph's played a scoreless tie.

★ ★ ★

The Dales won nine straight this season. The victories were over Lakeland 42-7, Central Michigan 35-14, Olivet 60-0, Albion 20-14, Alma 31-7, Hope 7-6, Kalamazoo 48-0, Adrian 53-6, and Gustavus Adolphus 27-7.

After Waters took over in 1954, Hillsdale tied its opener and lost its second game before winning the last seven. In the following seasons the Dales had perfect 9-0 records.

Quarterback Doug Maison has been the key man in the Dales' attack. He is a 6-foot-3, 200-pounder, who is third among NAIA passers with an average of 161.5 yards per game. He is also fifth in total offense with 189.8 yards per game.

This season the Dales amassed 3,403 yards — 1,526 through the air and 1,877 on the ground.

★ ★ ★

The O'Shaughnessy brothers, Earl and Wayne, led the ground crew.

The Dales' star lineman is Dave Trippett, a 220-pound guard who has been drafted by the Los Angeles Rams.

STRIKES AND SPARES
By Joe Wilman

Some bowlers are always blaming their poor scores on bad alley conditions. But there are times when such conditions can hurt your game. I ran into such a situation down South this summer where I was bowling under extremely humid conditions.

Pin action won't be good when there's high moisture content in the air. Pins are made of maple wood, and they absorb moisture which cuts down on their bouncing action. The same absorption holds true for the alley itself.

Several former Detroit Tiger and Red Wing stars, including Harold Newhouser, Paul (Dizzy) Trout, Bob Swift, Joe Ginsberg, and Jack Stewart will be guests at Oakland County Sportsmen's Club tonight at the club's regular membership meeting.

Color films featuring the 1956 All-Star game and the 1956 World Series between the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers will also be a highlight of the all-star athletic program.

Present Detroit Tigers who appear in that All-Star game include Ray Boone, Charley Maxwell, Al Kaline, and Harvey Kuenn.

★ ★ ★

According to OCSC entertainment committeemen, other stars of past and present who may appear to talk with the sportsmen are Billy Rogell, Billy Pierce, Cass Michaels, Pat Mullin, Art Houtteman, Steve Gromek, Don Lund, and Steve Souchock, as well as former MSU boxer Chuck Davey and Detroit Free Press Sports Editor Lyall Smith.

Business portion of the meeting begins at 8 o'clock. Sportsmen from the public are invited to attend as a guest of the club.

Prairie Grouse Subject of New State Bulletin

"The Prairie Grouse of Michigan," a technical bulletin covering years of research, has been published by the Michigan Conservation Department.

The 200-page publication, written by department ornithologist G. A. Ammann, deals with studies of habitat, stocking, reproduction, hunting and management of sharp-tailed grouse and prairie chickens.

Included in the book are the results of investigations under three state-federal cooperative projects in Michigan.

★ ★ ★

This publication is one of a series of technical bulletins produced by the department's game division and is designed for use by professional wildlife management workers and university students in this field.

214-Pounder Takes Contest Lead

By H. GUY MOATS

End of the regular Michigan gun deer season, and the close of The Pontiac Press big deer contest are just three days away. Season closes Saturday, and so does the contest. However, hunters still in the north woods will have until noon, Tuesday, Dec. 3 to file their entries—if they can oust the newest leader.

After five days at the top of the heap, Bruce Hall's 205-pounder has been pushed aside for a much huskier specimen. Don Behrend of 714 Oakley Park road, Walled Lake, downed the new leader, a 214-pound 11-pointer, near Escanaba, at Northland in the Upper Peninsula.

It's quite possible that even this big buck may not hold on when other upper Michigan sportsmen return home as the season winds up.

Behrend, 20, is an avid hunter. "I hunt all legal game," says Don. This was his 2nd deer in four years. It was shot last week, but Don and his three area companions did not return until Sunday. He hunted with Ed Chruze of Commerce and Ed Sawyer and another from Detroit. His gun was an unusual deer-hunting weapon, a 8-mm Mauser.

Contest winner will win a $150 U.S. Savings Bond.

Conservation department is preparing now for its annual post card survey of the deer hunting success for 1957.

Some 6,300 questionnaires will be mailed to special permit holders. Later on, a similar survey will be made for the regular season.

HUSKY BUCK — Newest leader in The Pontiac Press' big buck contest is a real husky. Above is the current top deer, weighing-in at 214 pounds. "I think I missed an even bigger one," reported the young huntsman who downed the 11-pointer at Northland, near Escanaba in the Upper Peninsula. Don Behrend, 20, 71 Oakley Park road, said this was his 2nd buck in four years' hunting.

KH Man Tries Deer Hunting With Hounds

Andy Oman Bags Big Buck at Manitoulin, Canadian Island

First time he ever tried deer hunting with the aid of hounds was a successful venture for Andrew Oman, 2475 Willow Beach, Keego Harbor.

Oman made the trip, he said, "with an old trout-fishing pal" who had "been after me for 9 or 10 years to try this kind of deer hunting. It was quite an experience."

Oman downed a 229-pound (dressed) deer along Elizabeth Bay, on famed Manitoulin Island, in Georgian Bay. His buck had an unusual 10-point rack, two points at the base of the antlers jutting straight out in front.

Rain for three days, then three days of snow made hunting a tough job. "It was so windy that at times you couldn't hear the hounds until after they went by," Oman reported.

Bear Hunters Meet Jan. 17-19

Michigan Bear Hunters' assn. will hold its 1958 conference on Jan. 17-19 at Lake City. The program will feature gun safety, big game and dog legislation.

Members of the State Legislature, Department of Conservation, Michigan Farm Bureau, Michigan State Grange and Michigan Humane Society are slated to attend for discussion of MBHA legislative recommendations.

A big game banquet will be held Jan. 18 and delegates will be served a dinner including three bears taken by members during the season. Ray Voss, outdoor editor from Grand Rapids will be toastmaster.

Concluding feature will be a bobcat hunt, Jan. 19, in the Dead Stream area. Hosts for the convention are the Missaukee County Chamber of Commerce.

Old Order Changes!

Deer Camps on Decline

Old-time deer-hunting camps in Michigan are about gone.

That's the belief of Warren Chase, chairman of the University of Michigan Department of Wildlife Management at Ann Arbor.

★ ★ ★

"Although deer camps have been going down in numbers in the Upper and Lower Peninsulas for several years, it was a surprise to me to find them reaching such a low state during the early days of the deer season this year," says Chase.

★ ★ ★

"Where we often had six or seven deer camps in 1950, this year we had only two in the McKinley Bridge area of the Au Sable River."

★ ★ ★

Why is deer-camping declining? Says Prof. Chase, "It might be said that deer camping is being reduced because it is a rough, hard way to live. You guessed it. Those once rugged hunters are now living in cozy motels and driving out to the deer haunts in the morning.

★ ★ ★

"Another reason why there are fewer tent campers is that hunting success has been reduced in this part of the state since 1952. While we used to find seven or eight bucks hanging in the tent camp the first day of the season, we now find that two or three deer have been taken out of the area on the same day.

★ ★ ★

"A third major reason for lower numbers of deer taken the first day of the 1957 season was because of the weather report that the rain would last over the opening day. No doubt many hunters who had planned to go delayed for a day or two."

SAFARI PRIZE — Biggest thrill of his recent African big game safari and world-girdling trip for Dr. M. C. Wurster centered around the big bull elephant (above). Dr. Wurster, atop his 3-ton tusker, said the herd of which the bull was a part, charged the hunters immediately after the kill. The Pontiac doctor made the trip, all the way, with M. J. Blakley of Flint. Both took an extensive list of big game trophies.

Elephant Charge Highlights African Safari

Hunter Girdles Globe

By H. GUY MOATS

A globe-girdling jaunt, touching London, Paris, Zurich, Rome, Cairo, Bombay, Bangkok, Hong Kong, Tokyo and Hawaii has just been completed by Dr. M. C. Wurster, Pontiac medic. But the big moments of the aerial earth-circling expedition was a several weeks African big game safari, the slight, bearded Wurster declared today.

And the greatest thrill of all was the elephant charge in Tanganyika, Africa. "That was something you don't want to repeat very often," says the doctor.

An extensive collection of hunting trophies was made by Dr. Wurster and his companion of the trip, M. J. Blakeley of Flint. The collection included what amounts to a cross-section of the central Africa big game animals; the number one trophy, elephant tusks and feet from a 3-ton bull, that figured in the exciting incident of the charge; a beautifully marked and colored, 200-pound leopard; rhino, Cape buffalo, and the rather hard-to-get greater kudu, strikingly marked oryx, the rare gerok, zebra and other animals.

"The plains and grass country swarmed with game" the hunter explained." But it was hard work, at that. Involved lots of walking through often more than head-high, tough, grass to get down-wind from the game."

From 5,000 to 6,000 feet of color motion pictures were shot. Hundreds of black and white and color "still" shots were made of the trip. Pontiac clubs and perhaps some church groups will see these fine photos when the series has been edited and prepared for showing, Dr. Wurster says

★ ★ ★

Fine weather marked the entire trip, the doctor reported.

The kudu had 54-inch horns, those of the oryx were 35-inches long; the rhino was an old bull, 3,500 pounds; the "buff" had horns 39-inches wide and weighed about 3,000 pounds. The leopard was 7-feet 6-inches long, a splendid male.

About that elephant charge!

"We had moved up to the herd," the doctor recalled. "I had downed the big bull, when a big cow with a half-grown calf spotted us. She came right at us, with the herd following. Our hunter shot at her feet, a stunt that often turns the animal. But it didn't work, and Blakeley and myself pumped shots into the cow, which went down only about 30 feet from us. That was a little too close for comfort."

Elk Bugles a Wild Tune

By WARREN PAGE

It's getting frosty up in the hills and the bugling season has come.

If there be any more truly American sound than the mating whistle of a bull elk it can only be the popping of Fourth of July firecrackers. The wapiti is an American animal, and nowhere else in the world, save down under in New Zealand where a few transplanted wapiti do their mating in March, can the majestic elk bugle be heard.

★ ★ ★

It is a majestic, wild sound, full of wilderness. The bull who stands out on a timbered promontory and pumps from his lungs the air pressure behind the ear-splitting whistle is a majestic animal.

He stands 800 pounds of wild masculinity. No sound, not even the choppy song of the moon-struck coyote, is as much a symbol of the Rocky Mountain wilderness.

From far off, his peculiar tenriloquial whistle can be heard for miles on a still dawn. The tune is a three or four note scale, breaking up to a piercing peak and then sliding fast down to the bottom note. The young bull squeaks a thin shrill; but the old one's bugle has a steamboat quality that warns every other bull within earshot that he is indeed the boss of Elk Mountain.

Biological Factors Involved

Why Shift Deer Season?

By JACK PATTERSON

Milt Hathaway asked us the other day why we didn't start agitating for opening the deer season a week later than the traditional Nov. 15. In recent years the first week of the season has been rain or warm weather. Why not, then, take notice of a changing climate, if that's what we're faced with, and adjust the opening accordingly?

PATTERSON

Well, sir, that might not be a bad idea, weatherwise anyway. Though we personally never felt it necessary to freeze to enjoy deer hunting there are very practical reasons why cold weather is desirable for best results.

Trouble is weather is not the only concern. Other factors, mostly biological, are given more consideration in selecting the date. We suspect, too, that tradition, another name for habit, plays a substantial part in picking Nov. 15 year after year. When an organization has to beg for anything it gets, it's smarter, as a rule, to let some sleeping dogs lie.

As a counter-proposal, with an eye to the practical difficulties involved, we'd modestly like to propose a week's extension of the season on the other end. The first week in December ought to be wintry enough for even the most ardent chillblain chaser. It might be possible to set up a special, or additional license for the extra week, thereby making extra, badly needed funds available to the Conservation Department.

★ ★ ★

We shouldn't imagine the added kill of deer would be so stupendous as to ruin the hunting in Michigan forever. Anyway, it's something for the hot stove league to kick around at season's end.

★ ★ ★

We have always known that deer hunters' stories are apt to get the ho-hum treatment around home. We didn't realize this unwholesome attitude had spread to other quarters.

The other day at the City Club we were breezing with some other freshly returned nimrods. A stay-at-home regular fidgeted impatiently, then snarled: "Good ——! You guys spend a couple hours in the woods, if you got that far, and the rest of us have to sit around and listen to you all winter. C'mon, deal!"

Dec. 22 Party Date

Oakland County Sportsmen's club annual Christmas party for youngsters has been set for Dec. 22. Affair will be held at the clubhouse between 2 and 4 p.m. and there willl be gifts and prizes for the children. OCSC members' children and friends are invited.

Nike Base Operates Like City Within Itself

Chow time at Auburn Heights Nike Base features meals served cafeteria style. You'll find balanced meals that have been planned with variety and health in mind. Here SP3 Robert R. Siebenmorgan (far left) serves (left to right) SP3 Arnold Johnson, Sgt. 1.C. Alvin Atwell and M. Sgt. Joseph Walters.

Part of the inspection routine at Auburn Heights Nike Base is gone through by Sgt. James Ayer (right) as Pfc. Donald Hoff looks on. This is the actual Nike missile that the men are working on.

Men at Auburn Heights Site Guard Us

By GRETTA PORTER

You are now on tour of the Auburn Heights Nike Base.

You are greeted by Capt. Raymond J. Geoffrion in the orderly room after having been cleared by the guard on duty at the main gate.

★ ★ ★

As you walk from the orderly room to the mess hall for a cup of coffee with the captain and Sgt. 1.C. Alvin Atwell, it seems as if at least half of the base's personnel has passed you engaged in some important looking business.

Miss Porter

Capt. Geoffrion, the base commanding officer, begins to explain the operation of a Nike base (there are three in this area) by telling you that there are 96 enlisted men and eight officers at the Auburn Heights base.

"Incidentally," he adds, "we are not an offensive mission but a defensive one. Our area of defense is Detroit."

SPECIAL TRAINING

Of these 104 men, part are connected with what is known as the controlled area and part with the launcher area. Each man connected with the Nike receives training in a certain phase of operations.

★ ★ ★

Radar and missile mechanics receive their training at Ft. Bliss, Tex. This may be from eight weeks to one year—depending on the course.

All officers, Capt. Geoffrion will tell you, go through Nike transition (an orientation on the Nike) at Ft. Bliss. Capt. Geoffrion was basically in field artillery and, naturally, had to go through Nike transition.

★ ★ ★

Each outfit is formed in a "packet" at Ft. Bliss. This means that some 40 men receive their training together and probably move to a new base together.

When the new Hercules missile is sent to the Auburn Heights base the technical people will go back to Ft. Bliss for further training. Lest this alarm you, Capt. Geoffrion hastens to point out that only a small percentage of the technicians go to Texas at a time.

PART OF THE ARMY

Each Nike site is independent in itself. Although Nike bases work with the Air Force they are actually part of the Army. The bases, however, are alerted through the Selfridge Antiaircraft Artillery Operations Center. In other words, early warning information comes through the Air Force.

★ ★ ★

By looking around you see Auburn Heights Nike Base is a small city within itself. On the site the men have their own barbershop, hobby shop and PX. A local dry-cleaning and laundry service comes to the base and church services are held on the base. Most of the men, however, attend services in Auburn Heights. Three nights a week movies are shown for the soldiers and their dependents.

Incidentally, speaking of dependents, Capt. Geoffrion will tell you that there are some 52 families in the Auburn Heights-Pontiac area that are connected with the Nike base.

★ ★ ★

As for sports—well, Capt. Geoffrion points out that his Nike base just won the battalion football championship (which explains the few limping soldiers you see!).

Basketball season has just begun with the men practicing on the Boys' Club of Pontiac court, since they don't have their own basketball facilities on the base. On Wednesdays, soldiers participate in organized athletics which include everything from football to bowling, ping-pong to pool.

NOTED SPRINTER

The captain will tell you with a hint of pride in his voice that John Hudson, the fifth ranked sprinter in the U. S., is on the Auburn Heights site.

★ ★ ★

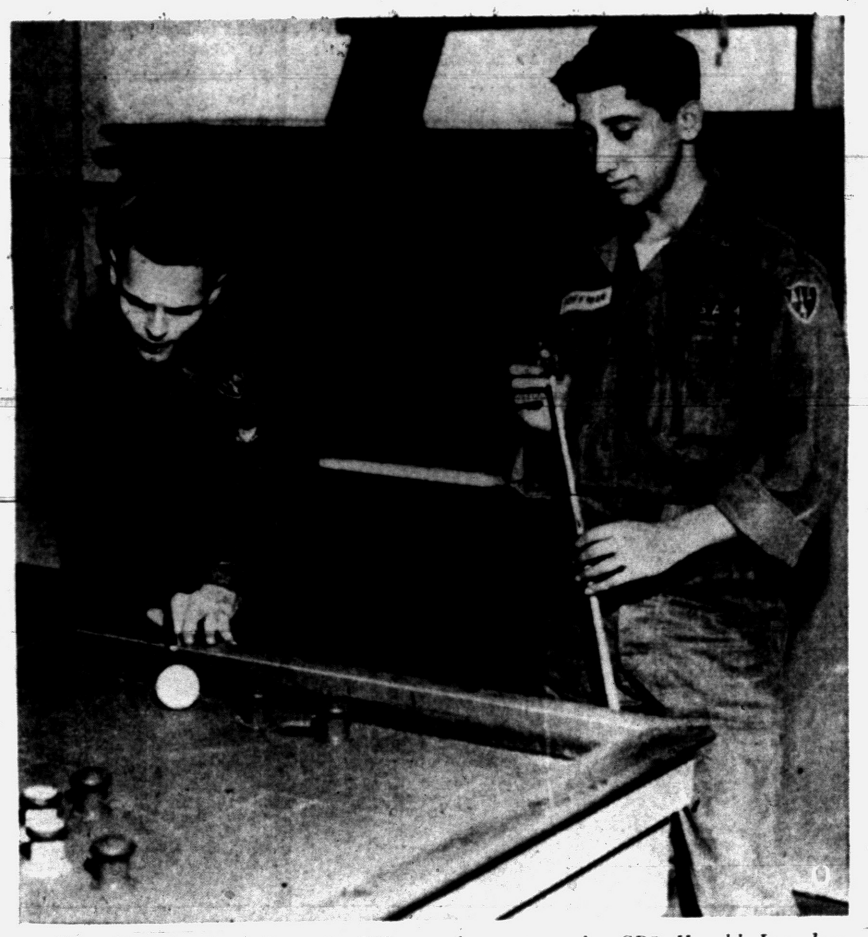
Up in the launcher area several Nike missiles may be seen on their launching platforms. However, the work that goes on below the ground is secret and certain questions are met with "Sorry, that's classified information."

Men working with the Nike have security clearance ratings of confidential or above. For the Nike missile and its newest brother, the Hercules, are secret projects. Certain men in the outfit must have secret clearance ratings.

Before you leave Auburn Heights Nike Base, Capt. Geoffrion tells you that visitors are welcome the third Saturday of each month from 2 to 5 p.m.

As you leave the Nike base a feeling of security and well-being settles over you—with bases like the Auburn Heights site to defend us, enemy attacks seem destined for failure.

Pontiac Press Photos by Ron Wagman



Not all is hard work at the Nike base. Occasionally the men find time to engage in a little recreation such as bumper pool. SP3 Harold Langdon and Pfc. Robert Hoffman are pictured enjoying a game.

Dear Abby:

I'm in Love With Brother's Wife

DEAR ABBY: What are all those widows complaining about? At least they lost their husbands to God. I lost my husband, too, but it was to another woman—and she was a widow.

ABBY

So please don't ask me to shed any tears over the poor husbandless widows. I am just as lonesome as they were only I don't have the kind of insolence it takes to steal another woman's mate. Thank you. I feel better now.

ALSO WITHOUT A HUSBAND

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 21-year-old stenographer who is in love with her boss. I know this sounds like an old story, but it is true. I have worked here for two years and can't get over him.

He is married and has two children and a nice wife but I can't help but feel the way I do about him. I can't enjoy anybody else's company because I compare them to him and there is no comparison. He hasn't given me any encouragement. Do I need a psychiatrist?

IN LOVE

DEAR IN: Possibly. Why don't you get another job and quit punishing yourself? You are keeping yourself in a hopeless position. Change your scenery, girl.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: When I discovered my wife was carrying on with my brother I went to have a talk with my brother's wife. Now we have four kids and my brother and his wife have five.

I fell in love with my brother's wife, and now my wife wants to divorce me and marry my brother and I would like to marry my brother's wife. Is this so wrong? After all, why shouldn't we all be married to the people we love?

IN LOVE

DEAR LOVE: Your wife should use the rocks in her head to fill up the holes in yours. Stay married to your own wife and behave yourself.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I have a daughter-in-law who just does not care a thing about keeping her house clean or cooking a meal on time. My son was used to good meals, a clean house and clean clothes and it makes me half sick to go over and see how they are living.

I try to show her how to do things but unless I do it for her she never does it herself. They are young yet, but I know a man doesn't like to come home to a messy house and open a can for his dinner. What can I do without butting in?

MAMMA

DEAR MAMMA: If you did any more than you have done, it might be considered "butting in." They'll manage somehow.

If she doesn't clean her house daily, let her rake it once a week. When your son gets tired of opening cans, he'll ask her to cook something. Be patient.

Dr. Prince Substitutes for Washington Writer

While our Washington correspondent, Jane Eads, is on vacation, she has asked top authorities in varied professions to write her daily column.

★ ★ ★

Our own Dr. Helen Dodson Prince, professor of astronomy at the University of Michigan, assigned to the McMath-Hulbert Observatory at Lake Angelus, is Friday's writer.

Dr. Prince has received wide recognition for her outstanding work in solar research and in 1955 won the Annie Jump Cannon Prize, the highest award given to women in the field of astronomy.

★ ★ ★

The award was presented to Dr. Prince by the American Astronomical Society, which also elected her to its council.

Symphony Unit Hears Mr. Harris

PHS Bandleader Talks at Home of Mrs. Barrett

Dale C. Harris, director of instrumental music at Pontiac High School, was the speaker when members of Women's Association of the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra met in the Ottawa drive home of Mrs. Edward Barrett.

★ ★ ★

Program Chairman Mrs. Donald B. Hogue introduced Mr. Harris, who discussed the close relationship between the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra and the Pontiac High School Band, adding that three high school band members currently are playing in the symphony.

Mr. Harris also explained the selections which will be played at the next band concert Dec. 10 at Pontiac High School. A tape recording of the movement "Pines of Rome," which the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra will present at its next concert, was played. John Howell, manager of the high school band, operated the recorder.

★ ★ ★

Also featured on the Monday program were recordings of the 1947 high school band playing "Pilgrim's March" by Mendelssohn and "Summertime" from Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess."

Working on the committee which assisted Mrs. Barrett were Mrs. H. B. Euler, Mrs. Joseph Walker, Mrs. Lester Enos and Mrs. Cecil McCallum.

Holiday to Bring Families Together

The traditional Thanksgiving turkey dinner will unite many families of this area Thursday.

Among folks celebrating the much anticipated day of thanks will be the George McGills of East Iroquois road, who are traveling to Bay City for dinner with their daughter, Mrs. James House, and her family.

Hinckley and Marion Egan of Detroit.

★ ★ ★

St. Clair will beckon to the Dwight Moulton family of Leach road, Mr. and Mrs. Moulton and their son, Dwight Jr., Eastern Michigan College freshman, will trek to the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Everitt, and the Everitt children, Lori and Mark, for their meal of thanks.

★ ★ ★

To spend the day with Mr. and Mrs. Edwward A. Maier of Illinois avenue are their daughter, Sally, from the University of Michigan, and Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Ashley and children, Mike Jr., Eddie and Sally. Mrs. Ashley is also a daughter of the Maier family.

Musicians Name Slate of Officers

Officers and committees of the Pontiac Music Guild were announced when the group met Tuesday evening at the North Telegraph road home of Mrs. Carl Clifford, who was assisted by Mrs. George Luenberger.

★ ★ ★

Named president was Amy Hogle. Others elected were Mrs. Walter Schmitz, vice president; Mrs. Lester Snell, secretary, and Mrs. Hazel Gessinger, treasurer.

Serving on committees will be Mrs. Clifford, publicity; Mrs. Snell, recital; Mrs. Schmitz, program; Charles Wilson, membership; Mrs. Oscar Schmidt, Mrs. Phillip Schurrer and Mrs. Eugene Stormer, telephone.

★ ★ ★

The group voted to hold a workshop in March with Helen Titus, instructor from the University of Michigan.

Miss Hogle reported on the state convention held at Grand Rapids, and Mrs. Schmitz introduced new piano material.

Chapter Plans Couples Party

Mrs. William Frankenfield of St. Joseph avenue was hostess to members of Gamma Chapter, Beta Theta Phi sorority, Tuesday evening. She was assisted by Mrs. William Reuter.

Mrs. Roscoe Lund and Mrs. Reuter have been named co-chairmen of a couples party to be held Dec. 7 in the Cheltingham drive home of Mrs. Richard DeWitt.

Mrs. William Grubbs was appointed to make plans for a March chapter party.

Principles of Business Help Home

Housewives Need Training for Wise Management

By FRANCES SCUDDER
(For Jane Eads)

Social and economic change has brought us a new way of life in the past 25 years. We mourn some of this change. Some we bless.

Our population has grown tremendously by means of a stepped up birth rate and lowered death rate. Along with this growth has come industrial production beyond the wildest imaginings of even a quarter of a century ago.

BETTER LIVING

Rapid social and economic changes have brought improved living conditions to most families.

★ ★ ★

Things not dreamed of 25 years ago are found in homes everywhere. But the changes also have brought restlessness and weariness to many homemakers.

The real homemaking problem today is management. Guiding the affairs of the family is just as important to its members as management of any big business is to stockholders.

★ ★ ★

Unfortunately, few are aware of the need to apply management principles to family affairs.

DON'T UNDERSTAND

Homemakers need to know how to evaluate their resources; how to set up alternatives; how to make decisions; how to carry out the plan decided on; how to take the responsibility for their actions. This is good management.

★ ★ ★

The spending of time and money should be preceded by a period of deliberation. What does the family need? What can it afford?

Many families who wanted more than they could afford on one income have decided it would be best for the homemaker to get an outside job.

★ ★ ★

Some have been happy with the consequences. Others have been disappointed, confused and unhappy.

AWARENESS URGED

An effort is being made throughout the country to make homemakers aware of the need for wise management.

An extensive program is being forwarded by the Home Economics Division of the Agricultural Extension Service through state specialists and county home demonstration agents.

WCTU Studies Thanksgiving

"Living Our Thanksgiving" was the topic of discussion and a flannelgraph lesson when members of the WCTU met Tuesday at the First Presbyterian Church.

★ ★ ★

Guest speaker for the event was Mrs. Ernest Alder of the Salvation Army, who talked on "Being Aware of the Need of Thanksgiving."

Presented with a life membership in the WCTU was Mrs. Ray Fleming. Also participating in the program were Mrs. Steven Locke, Mrs. William Veneman and Mrs. E. H. Sweazy.

Dr. Hufziger Talks Before GOP Women

Dr. Otto Hufziger, assistant superintendent of schools, discussed operational costs and construction progress of Pontiac schools for members of Pontiac Republican Women's Club. The group met Monday at Adah Shelly Library.

★ ★ ★

Introducing the speaker was Mrs. Frederick Ziem.

★ ★ ★

President Mrs. W. E. C. Huthwaite led a discussion on plans for the Christmas party to be held at the home of Mrs. William Kreklow. At the party a basket for a needy family will be filled.

Cubs Given Flag by VFW Auxiliary

VFW Auxiliary 1008 presented an American Flag to Cub Scout Pack 53 of Mark Twain School Monday evening at the school.

Mrs. James Dando, Americanism chairman, assisted by Mrs. Paul Boelter, president, made the presentation to Cub Scout leader James W. Wade.

Practice Taking Patient's Pulse and Respiration

Home Nursing Will Increase Your Skills

By AILEEN SNODDY
NEA Staff Correspondent

Caring for a person who is ill is a challenge of developing skills. You also know you are making a person more comfortable by your amateur, but efficient, efforts.

★ ★ ★

Taking pulse and respiration require time and practice to be accurate. And you may find yourself counting seconds on the clock instead of the patient's heart beat if you aren't careful.

And what is this pulse you count? With each heart beat, blood is pumped through blood vessels that go to all parts of the body. Like thin rubber tubing, these blood vessels stretch and shrink.

When the heart pumps, the walls of the tubing stretch out and let the blood through. Between beats, when the heart is not pumping, they shrink back the way they were before.

★ ★ ★

And at certain points on the body, this stretching and shrinking back into place can be felt under your fingers.

AT THE WRIST

The easiest place to feel a pulse is at the wrist. You will need a clock with a second hand and paper and pencil to record the findings.

★ ★ ★

When taking a pulse, you must report: (1) Rate—the number of pulse beats there are each minute, and (2) rhythm—the regularity of the pulse beats.

By regularity, we mean whether the length of time between each beat is the same, like the ticking of the clock or the dripping of a water faucet.

★ ★ ★

Or is the beat irregular like the sound of a person's heels as he runs a few steps, then stands still, then walks or runs again?

SHOULD BE RELAXED

The patient should be comfortable, relaxed, sitting or lying down when you take his pulse. And he should not be smoking.

★ ★ ★

To locate the pulse, place your first two fingers along the edge of the patient's thumb. Slide your fingers down straight until your fingers fall in a little "valley" on the inside of the wrist. Press lightly here until you can feel the beating.

Never use your thumb to take a pulse because you have a pulse in your thumb and you may confuse your pulse with that of the patient.

★ ★ ★

Count a pulse for one minute using a second hand. It saves confusion to begin counting when the the second hand is at 12 or 6.

SO LOOK AWAY

You may count seconds instead of pulse if you watch the clock constantly. So look away occasionally. Note whether the pulse is regular or irregular and record immediately.

You may count a person's respiration by watching the patient's chest rise or fall as he breathes in and out, or feel it rise with a hand on his chest. One respiration includes breathing in and out once.

The trick here is to count without the patient knowing it. It may be the "ham" coming out, but most persons can't breathe naturally when they know they are watched.

★ ★ ★

While counting respiration also notice whether the person breathes easily or works hard to get his breath. This is called "labored" respiration. If his breathing is noisy or irregular, record this, too.

USE PRETENSE

As when taking the pulse, the patient should be relaxed, either lying down or sitting. And to take respiration secretly, pretend you are taking his pulse.

★ ★ ★

Use a clock with a second hand as with pulse taking and count for one minute. During this time, you will note whether the breathing is fast, slow, irregular, noisy or labored.

★ ★ ★

Next: Bed baths.

Rolled Cooky With Raisins Stays Moist

Mrs. Elmore Tries to Keep Cookie Jar Full for 5 Children

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Keeping five children full of cookies is a chore for any mother. Mrs. Claude Elmore of Highland solves part of this demand for cookies at her house with a recipe calling for raisins.

Naturally, the size of Mrs. Elmore's family means she doesn't have much leisure time. She manages to put in an appearance at the WSCS, her church group and the PTA.

RAISIN COOKIES
By Mrs. Claude Elmore

1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
4 cups sifted flour
1½ cups sugar
1 cup shortening
2 teaspoons salt
2 beaten eggs
6 tablespoons milk
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 cups ground raisins

Sift first three ingredients together. Add sugar, shortening and salt. Mix thoroughly. Mix eggs, milk and vanilla and add. Add raisins. Dates and-or nuts may also be used. Chill dough for about an hour.

Roll out on lightly floured board and cut with floured cutters. Bake 8-10 minutes in a 350-degree oven. While still warm brush with glaze. These are nice and chewy.

Glaze

Mix confectioners' sugar with a few drops of boiling water to make a thick frosting. Brush on hot cookies.

To perk up last season's dress, why not get an exotic stole

Two OES Chapters Hold Dinner

A cooperative dinner was held when members of Pontiac Chapter and Areme Chapter, OES, met at the Masonic Temple Monday evening.

★ ★ ★

The Thanksgiving theme was carried out by Mrs. Josephine Hoskins and members of the decorations committee. The table featured white cornucopia overflowing with vegetables and flowers, flanked by green tapers.

The center table was decorated with a plaque of hands in prayer and a chain of golden links in honor of Worthy Grand Matron Mrs. William Clark of Jonesville.

★ ★ ★

Other guests present were from Berkley, Clarkston, Clawson, Detroit and Oxford.

Turkey Dinner Held by Church Groups

A turkey dinner held in the Friendship Hall of Central Christian Church was attended by the Loyal Men and Gleaners Class, followed by a business meeting. Huldah Roush of Clay City, Ind., was a guest at the Friday evening affair.

The church's Fellowship Class held a monthly meeting at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. G. W. Gibson Saturday evening.

Alpha Sigma Mu Elects Officers

The Sanderson street home of Clarabelle Amidon was the setting for a dinner meeting Monday evening of Alpha Sigma Mu sorority. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. B. H. Ogden, Mrs. Park Smith, Mrs. H. W. Dickman and Mrs. Russell Evans.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. A. A. Mitchell was named president of the group. Mrs. Smith will serve as vice president, Mrs. J. A. Helvery, secretary; Mrs. T. P. Robertson, treasurer, and Mrs. L. A. Mortz, historian.

Mrs. Hoisington Named Leader of Ruth Circle

Mrs. Eugene Hoisington was named president of Ruth Missionary Circle of Joslyn Avenue United Presbyterian Church when that group met Tuesday in the Second avenue home of Mrs. Leonard Cotter.

★ ★ ★

Other officers are Mrs. Fred Bohlman, vice president; Mrs. Francis Oak, recording secretary; Mrs Howard Keepin, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Harry Lunsford, treasurer.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Oak and Mrs. Walter Hubner participated in the program.

Must Pair Wait Year to Marry?

Widow Hesitates to Rewed During Mourning Time

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I lost my wife a year and a half ago and have asked a widow, who lost her husband eight months ago, to marry me. She is demurring on the grounds that it is not proper to remarry before a year.

"She lives alone and works for a living. I am well able to take care of her and give her a good home and am very much in need of companionship.

"There is no real reason to delay our marriage except for her hesitancy on account of convention. If you say it is all right, I am sure she will agree to marry me without delay."

Answer: If you are both held in esteem in your community, I am sure that sympathy with your situations would counteract criticism of your failure to pay strict attention to the completion of the full year.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Please tell me the proper way for mother and I to sign Christmas cards to mutual friends. Mother is a widow and I am not married. We live together."

Answer: To those who call your mother by her first name, sign the cards "From Mary (your mother) and Jane (you)." To those who do not call her by her first name, you sign them, "From Mary Jones and Jane."

"Dear Mrs. Post: I agree with Mother that colored writing papers used to be considered Bohemian and not in good taste for important social notes.

"But she seems to think that white or the off-whites such as cream, gray and blue are still the only kind in good taste, regardless of all the beautiful colored papers shown today. Hasn't there been a change in attitude toward colored papers?"

Answer: Definite colors in palest tones are today in fashion, and obviously preferred by many people. But a passing fashion in no way influences the preferences of most conservative tastes.

Nursery School Has Open House at Stevens Hall

Stevens Hall was the scene of an open house presented by the All Saints Episcopal Church Nursery School.

Parents and grandparents were invited to attend the Monday evening affair with their children in order to understand better the interests and activities of each child while at school. Those attending also were shown a display of children's books for the pre-schooler.

General chairman for the affair was Mrs. Fred Crossman, assisted by Mrs. John Vanderlind, educational director, and Mrs. Alan Gelford. Refreshment chairman was Mrs. Noyce Strait.

Make Wall Mosaic

DALLAS, Tex. (INS) — Bits of scrap aluminum foil—colored and natural, textured and smooth—can make a striking wall mosaic.

Ilonka Karasz, wall decor specialist, made such a mosaic (for the Aluminum Company of America) and recently displayed it in Dallas.

For her wall hanging, Miss Karasz used a background of heavy gray foil and assembled on it a glittering array of multi-colored foils—all used in workaday jobs, for Christmas gift wrappings, candy box liners, frozen food and corsage wrappings.

Some were used in their original colors and textures, others were painted or patterned by the artist to fashion the modern mosaic of related rectangles.

NATURALNESS

by Edythe McCulloch

Glamour should be no illusion wrought by a magic spell. Instead it is a combination of freshness and neatness that brings out your natural beauty. To obtain this much desired effect requires much more than the soap and water routine. Planned naturalness is achieved through careful self analysis followed by constant care and skillful technique.

All should be keyed to the normal everyday kind of life you lead. It may be as natural for some to achieve the sophisticated look as others to represent the American out-door-girl. Be your own best self!

Dr. Furst Tells His Own Story

Need Inspires Memory Mastery

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

For several days now I have been bringing you some of the inspiration and benefit I derived from a visit with Dr. Bruno Furst, distinguished teacher and memory expert. His background is almost as fascinating as he and his course are. I think you would enjoy hearing something about it.

Mental exercise is one of the roads to prolonged youthfulness.

So many good things grow out of someone's personal need. Dr. Furst took a course in memory when he was a very young man because he was embarrassed by an inability to remember as well as his classmates in law school. He told me that his colleagues used to tease him about his poor memory.

However, he soon turned the tables! The course greatly increased his power to remember. He found this ability of the utmost value while a student and later on when practicing law. Dr. Furst was primarily a very successful lawyer.

You can imagine what an asset such a memory was in remembering facts about his clients, case histories, laws and statutes. Because of its value to him he became interested in memory training and its application to all walks of life.

* * *

The course today is very different from the one he took so many years ago. He has added to it and simplified it. He told me that it is the result of about 40 years work.

FLED GERMANY

Dr. and Mrs. Furst came to the United States in 1938 when Hitler came into power. They had fled Germany five years before that because Dr. Furst had been outspoken in his opposition to Hitler.

From 1918 - 1933 Dr. Furst was an attorney in Frankfurt, Germany. From 1933-38 he was assistant professor of psychology (memory) at Nasaryk People's University in Prague. He left Czechoslovakia when Hitler invaded Austria and came to the United States.

He often has appeared on television and has written many magazine articles. He also has written several fascinating books, the latest of which is "Stop Forgetting" (Doubleday and Co.)

Mrs. Furst, a petite, pretty woman, works with her husband. She teaches in their school and is an expert in her own right. She is so charming that I asked Dr. Furst if he had created his course in order to be sure that his wife would not forget him. However, he doesn't impress me as having had any such trouble.

I also asked him if he could teach folks to forget as well as remember, but he thinks we all forget far too much as it is.

TRULY STIMULATING

It is truly stimulating to know that a man with Dr. Furst's mental ability was once handicapped by a poorer than average memory. He and his pupils are proof positive that we can all greatly improve our ability to remember.

* * *

Mental exercise is also one of the roads to prolong youthfulness. Dr. Furst himself looks much younger than he is.

Hostesses Are Warned Not to Be Too Ambitious

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

It's fun to give a party, but few women know how, says Nata Lee, who has made parties her business for the last 20 years.

"The most common mistake of hostesses," says she, "is getting too ambitious in planning a party. They are likely to get so involved in working out elaborate food that they haven't time to give proper thought to the guest list or even to clean up the house."

GOOD TALK VITAL

Nata believes even the simplest dinner party for a half-dozen friends should be planned with care, and that it's just as important to plan good talk as it is to produce good food.

"Who to invite is your first problem," says she. "To have a successful party, you must bring together guests who will have some interests in common, who will produce stimulating conversation and won't be at sword's point before the evening is over.

"Then look over the room for your party, and never invite more people than can be seated comfortably in that room.

* * *

"Consider your service. If you haven't a staff, don't try to have a formal sit-down dinner for more than six people.

"Plan your table setting, and if is a buffet dinner, be sure to have enough tables for your guests — don't make them balance plates on their laps.

MOST GRACEFUL

"With the disappearance of big household staffs and the resulting changes in our way of living, the informal buffet is the most graceful way to entertain these days.

* * *

"Don't try to serve too many different kinds of things, and don't make the things you do serve so fancied up with decorations that people don't know what they're eating."

Nixon Takes Over Role Gingerly

Mitchell Gives 'Chins Up' Talk

Urges Nation to Accept Austerity Required to Aid Free World

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, speaking for ailing President Eisenhower, urged the nation last night to accept the "austerity and privations" required to give military and economic aid to other countries of the free world.

★ ★ ★

Mitchell digressed from a prepared speech of his own to deliver the gist of the "chins up" talk that Eisenhower had planned to broadcast last night from Cleveland.

The main topic of the Cleveland talk, canceled because of the President's illness, was the importance of international cooperation in halting Soviet imperialism.

Mitchell, whose speech before a dinner of the Manufacturing Chemists Assn. was not aired, said the administration believes "no investment we can make pays greater dividends than reasonable economic aid to friendly nations."

★ ★ ★

Mitchell listed three specific points that the President had intended to make in the Cleveland speech. They were:

1. The Eisenhower administration believes the people of the United States owe full support to the mutual security program in both its military and economic phases.

2. Eisenhower will recommend to Congress in January that the expiring Trade Agreements Act be broadened and be extended for a period longer than the present three-year term. The proposal would provide for broader authority for the negotiation of reciprocal trade pacts.

3. A call for United States participation in the Organization for Trade Corporation. Mitchell described the agency as "a business-like unit" to guarantee maximum benefits from the negotiation of trade agreements.

Mitchell was given a copy of the Eisenhower draft text, and he made notes on it before boarding a plane for New York.

Full Control of Blaze Hoped for in Forest

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Forest Service hopes to gain complete control sometime today over a fire that has run through 25,000 acres of timber and brush northeast of Los Angeles.

The big blaze, which broke out last Thursday, was reported 85 per cent controlled last night. Firefighters were still having trouble with one hotspot at the 6,000-foot level in the San Gabriel Mountains. More than 1,000 men remained on duty.

Foreign Papers Make Prediction Ike Will Resign

LONDON (AP)—Some newspapers predicted today that President Eisenhower would be the first United States president to resign from office.

★ ★ ★

Shocked and saddened by news of Eisenhower's illness, Western Europe halfway expected an early announcement that the ailing 67-year-old President had turned over the U.S. government to Vice President Nixon.

Official reaction to the illness was more restrained than that of newspapers. The press filled inside pages with lengthy feature articles and personality sketches on Nixon.

The lead story in the London Evening News said, "The big question in Washington today is: Will President Eisenhower resign?"

★ ★ ★

In a dispatch from Washington, the Daily Express assumed the President's resignation was only a matter of time. The story said: "President Eisenhower's latest illness almost certainly means that he will quit the White House—both for his own sake, and for his country's sake . . ."

Choose Attorney for GI in Japan

YOKOHAMA, Japan (AP) — The U. S. Army today appointed defense counsel for Detroit Army Specialist Gregory J. Kupski, charged yesterday with unpremeditated murder of a Japanese woman.

★ ★ ★

Capt. James Robinson, 34, Fort Collins, Colo., of the Army's Judge Advocate Section, was named by the section as Kupski's attorney. Kupski can also obtain an Army lawyer of his choice or a civilian attorney, the Army said.

The Army said Kupski, 23, signed a confession last week that he strangled Miss Kazue Eikawa, 25, whose nude body was found in an alleyway Nov. 17.

Japanese officials are still investigating the slaying on the assumption that Japan has primary jurisdiction over the soldier, a point which may be contended since Miss Eikawa had an American husband.

He is Robert Leslie Wescot, stationed at China Lake Navy Station, Calif.

★ ★ ★

Robinson is a graduate of West Point, the Army said. He got his law degree at the University of Michigan and is a member of the Michigan Bar.

Medical Supervision Makes the Difference

Many Persons Don't Recognize Illness Like Ike's

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP)—The type of illness President Eisenhower has might go unrecognized by many persons not under constant medical supervision, doctors of the National Heart Institute said today.

★ ★ ★

All present evidence as announced in White House bulletins indicates, they said, that Eisenhower had a "little" stroke—as distinguished from a "big" one.

★ ★ ★

A "little" stroke," they said, "is of sufficiently mild and transitory nature that many persons having such an attack might not recognize it as an illness or would pass it off as a transient feeling of not feeling too well."

A "stroke" — little or big — is an impairment of nerve function resulting from impairment of blood flow to particular areas of the brain. The severity of nerve impairment depends upon the location and size of the blood vessel involved — and the nerve centers it feeds.

★ ★ ★

The NHI doctors said that the signs and symptoms reported in White House medical bulletins last night are "commonly called a 'little' stroke when doctors describe such a condition to a layman."

★ ★ ★

Formal White House bulletins have not used the word "stroke." Neurologists attending the President said last night Eisenhower suffered "an occlusion (blockage) of a small branch of a cerebral vessel which has produced a slight difficulty in speaking."

The NHI doctors said that a "stroke" — little or big — could directly result from the following mechanisms:

★ ★ ★

1. Thrombosis — that is, clot formation in an artery of the brain.

2. Embolism — Blocking of a brain blood vessel by a clot floating in the blood stream and originating from another part of the body.

3. Spasm — A tightening or closing down of the walls of an artery in the brain.

4. Hemorrhage due to rupture of a brain blood vessel.

5. Compression on a brain blood vessel due to a tumor, swollen brain tissue, or a large clot inside a blood vessel that presses against a nearby vessel.

★ ★ ★

Declaring that people affected by "little" strokes almost invariable recover from that particular stroke, they added that even in the case of "big" strokes, the outlook "is not necessarily as disastrous as it may first appear."

They said a "big" stroke is the type in which there may be partial or complete paralysis of one side of the body.

★ ★ ★

In contrast, in a "little" stroke, there is no paralysis, although a particular function of the body or of the thinking process may be temporarily impaired.

In President Eisenhower's case, they said, the blood vessel affected is one controlling a "thinking" part of the speech process.

Ike to Continue Calling Signals

Congressional Leaders Agree Vice President Should Carry On

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Nixon stepped gingerly into the role of a part-time substitute for ailing President Eisenhower today with clear notice Eisenhower will continue to call the signals on government policies.

★ ★ ★

A proposal by Sen. Bridges (R-NH) that Nixon take over for the stricken President at two scheduled briefings of congressional leaders next week seemed likely to get Eisenhower's approval. Nixon said the meetings will be held but added he did not know whether he would preside.

Bridges, who heads the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said he thinks Nixon "should take over the leadership in routine matters for the President, carrying on the known general wishes and policy of the President."

★ ★ ★

Sen. Saltonstall of Massachusetts, chairman of the Conference of All Republican Senators, indicated general agreement with this view.

"Things have to go on," he said. "The government can't stop."

But Sen. Carroll (D-Colo) commented that "it's one thing to carry out policy and another to make it."

★ ★ ★

Nixon scheduled further conferences with presidential staff members today at the White House—where he spent most of yesterday without seeing the ill President. He told newsmen when he emerged he might preside over Cabinet and National Security Council meetings.

But in response to what he called "a hypothetical question" about who in the government would make a decision on retaliation if Russia suddenly attacked Western Europe, the vice president replied: "Any decision requiring presidential action could be made by the President. Major problems that require presidential decision, where the President alone can act, will be put to the President."

★ ★ ★

Nixon thus made it clear that—while some thought had been given to the matter—he had no intention of attempting to assume any authority because of presidential disability.

The Constitution is silent on who determines when a President is disabled, when a vice president takes over and when the disability ends. No vice president has ever taken over the duties except after the death of a president.

Nixon publicly disclaimed any thought of taking over as acting president during Eisenhower's illness.

★ ★ ★

He sought to explain that during the time he spent at the White House he was acting only as a member of the Cabinet team that rallied around the chief executive.

He said he was not presiding but "participating in" conferences of top administration leaders who met during the day while the President lay in bed under doctors' care.

★ ★ ★

Nixon, who is regarded as a leading candidate for the 1960 GOP presidential nomination, has avoided any appearance of trying to take over the top office in two previous Eisenhower illnesses. But he indicated the disability question was discussed while doctors were determining the extent of the presidential stricture.

The vice president said he and Cabinet members had been informed no delegation of presidential authority was required at present.

Nixon said Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers made this decision "after noting what the President's condition was and what was required for signing papers."

Sickness Strikes Summit Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials said today the United States is ready to go ahead with next month's NATO summit conference without President Eisenhower's participation if the other Allied governments decide that is the best thing to do.

The President's sudden illness dealt a blow, however, to the plan for a dramatic demonstration of Allied unity at this time in the face of Russia's growing scientific and military prowess.

The project for gathering heads of government for a conference in Paris Dec. 16-18 had been built largely around Eisenhower's personality and leadership.

With his prestige, he was to take the lead in proposals for modernizing Allied military systems with missiles and atomic stockpiles and for a greater pooling of scientific resources.

If the Allied governments want to go ahead with a summit session, it was understood that Vice President Nixon would be designated to substitute for Eisenhower.

Should they prefer to postpone the conference, it may be reset for next spring in the expectation that the President would then be able to attend. Meanwhile, the minister for foreign affairs, defense and finance of the 15 NATO countries would meet as they ordinarily do in December to set in motion the plans for greater Allied unity.

Nixon to Attend NATO Confab

He'll Substitute for Ike if Government Heads Meet as Planned

PARIS (AP) — The U.S. government has officially decided to send Vice President Nixon to next month's summit conference of NATO, it was disclosed today.

The Washington offer to substitute Nixon for ailing President Eisenhower will be communicated to the other NATO governments at a regular NATO Council session here tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

A spokesman for the U.S. delegation said that these instructions have been received by Frederic Nolting, deputy U.S. representative to NATO, who will take the American chair at tomorrow's meeting. The permanent American delegate, W. Randolph Burgess, now is in Washington.

There was no indication here as to just who in Washington drafted the instructions.

★ ★ ★

The American position is that it is up to the other 14 governments to decide if they wish to go ahead with Nixon heading the U.S. delegation.

First reported reactions from other governments was that they want to hold the meetings on this basis.

Spokesman in some Western European capitals had expressed dismay at the prospect of meeting without Eisenhower.

★ ★ ★

Paul-Henri Spaak, of Belgium, NATO secretary general, was reported polling NATO members.

French official sources said the French government sees no reason for postponing the session or for downgrading it to a ministerial meeting.

Normally the foreign, defense and finance ministers of the 15 nations meet here every December for their annual review session. This meeting, which would be held concurrently with the summit talks, fixes military preparedness goals for the coming year.

★ ★ ★

In Rome, Italian Foreign Minister Giuseppe Pella said he believes the Paris NATO meeting should be held as scheduled.

Dutch government officials were reported to favor going ahead.

Danish government sources were reported still undecided.

★ ★ ★

There was some speculation that only foreign ministers might meet next month, as originally scheduled, and the summit conference of presidents and prime ministers would be delayed until spring.

This development, however, might let out of the NATO sails some of the wind created by Russian missile threats and launching of earth satellites.

★ ★ ★

Expressions of sympathy for the president came from NATO capitals and other parts of the world. One, that represented the feelings of most messages, said "I sincerely pray that you will fully regain your health soon." It was sent by Nobusuke Kishi, premier of Japan.

West German Head of State Visits Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Pius XII and President Theodor Heuss of West Germany met today in a historic audience — the first such meeting between a pope and a German head of state in half a century.

★ ★ ★

The President wore to the audience the papal decoration of the Golden Spur, given to him by the pontiff for the occasion. It is the highest Vatican decoration that can be given to a head of state who is not Roman Catholic.

The last German chief of state to call on a pope was Kaiser Wilhelm II, who visited Pope Leo XIII in 1903.

★ ★ ★

The Vatican clearly attached great importance to Heuss' visit. L'Osservatore Romano pointed out that it was the first by a German head of state since Germany's democratic affirmation and its cooperation with the democratic forces of Europe.

Presidential Disability, Succession Again Top Issue

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—What happens if President Eisenhower should become too disabled to carry out his duties? Would Vice President Nixon become acting president or president? If so how? There's no agreed on answer.

The Constitution itself is foggy on this point.

★ ★ ★

But it's the third time the question has arisen in a little over two years: After Eisenhower's heart attack; after his ileitis operation; and now again after his mild stroke. He himself asked Congress to clear up the fog. But it didn't.

If a president dies, the vice president becomes president. Seven vice presidents have become president that way. If a president is removed from office by Congress, the Constitution says the vice president succeeds him. That hasn't happened yet.

★ ★ ★

But this is where the Constitution is vague: it says in case of the "inability of a president to discharge the powers and duties of his office," they "shall devolve on the vice president."

But that raises these questions:

1. What is the position of a vice president who acts as president? Does he thus become president, ousting the man who was elected to the job? What if the elected President recovers?

★ ★ ★

2. Just what is inability to discharge the duties of the presidency? Is there a time limit on how long a disabled president can remain in office before being succeeded by the vice president?

3. Who decides when the President is too disabled to do his job? And who decides when the disability ends and he can resume his office? The President? He couldn't if he were unconscious. The vice president? That might put him in the position of a usurper.

★ ★ ★

From what Eisenhower has said in public—in 1956 after his heart attack and again the same year after his operation—it might be concluded he would resign if he felt physically unfit for the job. But that's not positive.

He said: "There is going to be no neglect of the duties of the President of the United States; and when I feel I can't carry them on, I won't be there. . . .

"If at any time I have any reason to believe that I am not fit as I believe myself to be now, I will come before the American public and tell them. . . ."

★ ★ ★

It might be Eisenhower's intention to quit if he felt unfit. But suppose he was only temporarily unfit, although the unfitness lasted for months in which the whole direction of the government suffered. Suppose he felt sure he would recover and therefore did not step aside for the vice president?

What happens to the presidency and its duties then?

★ ★ ★

There were two presidents — Garfield and Wilson — who remained in office during periods they were physically unfit for it. In neither case did the people around those presidents let the vice presidents take over.

Garfield, shot by an assassin in 1881, lingered 80 days; Wilson, who collapsed in 1919, remained in office until the end of his term in 1921, although he had been paralyzed on one side.

Those around Garfield and Wilson feared that if their vice presidents took over the presidential duties they would by doing so oust the presidents.

★ ★ ★

Through his former attorney general, Herbert Brownell, Eisenhower earlier this year asked Congress to propose an amendment to the Constitution making clear once and for all how a vice president should take over presidential duties in cases of disability. As it did before, Congress talked about it and did nothing.

Brownell told Congress: "Unless the President, his Cabinet and his other friends are absolutely certain of his status after the termination of his inability, they will tend to oppose any attempt to declare the existence of inability, viewing such a declaration as equivalent to removing the President from office."

★ ★ ★

Some constitutional authorities have argued through the years that once a vice president assumes presidential duties, he is president, even though the elected President recovers. This is based on the belief there cannot be two presidents at the same time.

Brownell argued: "presidential disability severe and prolonged enough to warrant the devolution of presidential power on the vice president would create something of a crisis itself."

★ ★ ★

But suppose a president is unconscious and can't know he's unfit? Who decides the vice president should take over? No one has the answer, at least not an undisputed answer.

Sugar Cane Pulp Used in Bricks

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—A construction man says he has a patent pending on a process for making lightweight, low cost bricks from sugar cane pulp.

★ ★ ★

Steven Chambers said he worked five years to develop the brick from bagasse, the pulp left after juice is extracted from the cane.

★ ★ ★

He said it will reduce construction costs 20 per cent and is only one-third the weight of ordinary brick. It is waterproof, fireproof and contains its own insulation against heat and cold, he added.

Wheat Futures Turning Lower

CHICAGO (AP) — President Eisenhower's illness and a higher securities market were factors in the grain futures markets today.

★ ★ ★

Wheat futures started higher at the opening of the Board of Trade but quickly turned lower after early demand by shorts subsided. Shorts, worried over the ultimate outcome of the President's condition, which was announced after yesterday's market had closed, rushed to even up commitments at the start of today's session.

★ ★ ★

Corn and soybeans were about steady in early dealings. Rye fell back fractions, following the action in wheat.

★ ★ ★

Action in corn futures was mixed with commission house and elevator interests on both sides of the market. The Commodity credit Corporation again reported heavy overnight sales of surplus corn for export.

Trading in soybeans was limited and mixed.

★ ★ ★

Near the end of the first hour wheat was unchanged to ⅜ lower, Dec. $2.19¾; corn ⅛ lower to ¼ higher, Dec. $1.16⅜; oats unchanged to ⅛ higher, Dec. 67½, rye ½ lower to ⅜ higher, Dec. $1.36½; soybeans ⅛ lower to ¼ higher, Jan. $2.32¾, and lard was 2 to 7 cents a hundred lbs. higher, Dec. $12.27.

Chrysler, UAW Set New Talks

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers Union scheduled another conference this forenoon in an attempt to settle a labor dispute at the Mound Road engine plant in Detroit.

★ ★ ★

Some 2,000 workers walked off their jobs nine days ago and the union charged a speedup. The company has made no comment on the cause of the strike.

★ ★ ★

The plant makes engines for Plymouth cars. Chrysler said yesterday that 16,000 Plymouth Division workers would be laid off Monday if the strike isn't settled by then.

Stockholders Approve Midland Steel Merger

CLEVELAND (AP) — Stockholders of the Midland Steel Products Co. have overwhelmingly approved merger of the firm with the J. O. Ross Engineering Corp. of New York.

★ ★ ★

Ross stockholders will vote on the plan at a special meeting Dec. 3.

★ ★ ★

The combined company, if approved, will be known as the Midland-Ross Corp. and will operate four divisions—the Cleveland, Detroit and Owosso, Mich., divisions of Midland and the J. O. Ross Division. The new company with assets of about 60 million dollars will employ 6,500 in 10 plants.

Teacher Wed, Students Bring TV to School

DALLAS (AP)—Television was almost a school-wide activity at the Jefferson Davis school yesterday. One of the teachers, Marvin L. Grantham, was married on the Bride and Groom show.

Sixteen TV sets were set up in classrooms.

★ ★ ★

No one looked away from the set in Grantham's fifth grade class. "Wasn't it beautiful?" sighed one little girl as the music faded.

A deep red blush crept up the cheeks of a boy when the groom kissed the bride, the former Miss Verda Giles, a student in the Baylor University school of nursing.

★ ★ ★

Principal John J. Santillo said there was no campaign to have the youngsters bring the television sets to school. "They all volunteered," he said.

Chief U.S. Prosecutor in Hoffa Trial to Plot Role of Johnny Dio

NEW YORK (AP) — The chief prosecutor in the wiretap conspiracy trial of Teamster Union President-Elect James R. Hoffa says he will prove that racketeer Johnny Dio was the "friend" who allegedly helped Hoffa arrange for the tapping of union phones.

U.S. Atty. Paul Williams made the statement yesterday in his opening remarks to the jury of four women and eight men in federal court.

On trial with Hoffa on the wiretap conspiracy charges are Bernard Spindel, a wiretapping expert, and Owen (Bert) Brennan, president of a Detroit local of the Teamsters Union.

Williams told the jury he would prove the alleged conspiracy here started in May, 1953, when Spindel was demonstrating recording equipment to Dio—whose real name is John Dioguardi.

The demonstration, Williams said, was in the office of Sam Berger, former official of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union. Berger was ousted from the union after disclosures that he helped Dio get a charter for a local union from the AFL.

★ ★ ★

Williams said Dio suggested that Spindel go to Detroit to see Hoffa, and that Spindel did so, using $250 advanced by Dio.

When there, Williams charged, Spindel installed wiretap equipment so Hoffa could listen in on phone conversations in the Detroit office—where Hoffa makes his headquarters.

Collie's Litter of Pups Rare as Human Quints

RIVERTON, Utah (AP)—A purebred collie named Sandy has given birth to a litter which dog lovers claim is as rare as quintuplets in human births: Seven puppies—all males.

Normally, say the experts, dog litters run predominantly to females. Sandy, age 2, is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ferris Stokes, Riverton.

Nov. 6 was the birth date. All are still alive and healthy.

Auto Skids on Ice, Injures City Girl, 8

Icy streets caused injury to 8-year-old Karen Plourda, of 132 Oliver St., as she walked near St. Michael School.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Charles Paga, 39, of 36 Montclair St., tried to stop her car to let her children out, when the vehicle skidded into the curb and struck Karen yesterday.

She was treated for leg bruises at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and released.

Okinawans Demanding U.S. Reinstate Leftist

TOKYO (AP)—Okinawan residents in Tokyo today petitioned the U.S. Embassy here to repeal the recent ouster of Naha's leftist Mayor Kamejiro Senaga.

The spokesman for the Okinawan Residents Assn. said, "The United States itself offends the Lincoln spirit. We demand the immediate repeal of Moore's order, the revision of election law."

Senaga was ousted from the mayor's post after U.S. High Commissioner Lt. Gen. James E. Moore made four changes in the law which made possible the official's removal by Naha's City Assembly.

Solar Flare Causing Radio Disturbance

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—The National Bureau of Standards says a major radio disturbance is likely in this country during a 36-hour period that ends tonight.

Dr. Frederick W. Brown, director of the NBS laboratory, said today there would be possible radio blackouts at some points.

Cause of the disturbance is a huge solar flare which occurred at 1 a.m. Sunday. The flare was reported observed in Russia, Czechoslovakia and Germany.

Stocks Show Sharp Advance

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market advanced sharply today, recovering from its severe break of yesterday on news of President Eisenhower's illness.

★ ★ ★

Prices were higher from the start and by late in the morning gains running to around $6 a share were shown in leading issues. Oils were the strongest group but all sections pushed ahead.

★ ★ ★

In European markets, which were closed at the time the medical communique on Eisenhower's illness was issued yesterday afternoon, prices generally declined.

★ ★ ★

Quotations were marked down at the start on the London Stock Exchange but then recovered to near previous closing levels. On West German stock exchanges prices dropped.

Barmore Sentenced to Life in Prison

MUSKEGON (AP) — Storming abuse at Circuit Judge Henry L. Beers, ex-convict Herman Barmore was sentenced to life in prison today on a conviction of second-degree murder.

★ ★ ★

Barmore, 44, was found guilty last Saturday by a jury in the July 1955 fatal shooting of 12-year-old Evanston, Ill., boy scout Peter Gorham at nearby Camp Wabaningo.

Missing Since Sunday, Walks Out of Woods

WHITE CLOUD (AP)—Lost since Sunday in Newaygo County forests, Harry O. Suttliffe, 74, of Rockford, walked out of the woods yesterday afternoon. He apparently was unharmed by exposure to freezing weather.

★ ★ ★

Suttliffe had been on a hunting trip with his son, Harry Jr., of Sparta. They became separated in the woods.

★ ★ ★

More than 30 state troopers and sheriff's deputies joined in a search after he was reported missing in the forests 11 miles north of White Cloud.

Pair's Death Ends Argument Over Toy

SIDNEY, Ohio (AP) — Chester Daugherty shot his wife Flora to death, then killed himself late last night in an argument over a broken Christmas toy for one of their four children, police said.

According to accounts from relatives and friends, police said, Daugherty, 34, an unemployed construction worker, and his wife, 36, were wrapping Christmas presents when Daugherty broke one. He and his wife began arguing, and Daugherty left to go drinking.

He returned home later, police reported, and the argument resumed. Daugherty reached for a shotgun, shot his wife in the stomach, and then fired into his own head, officers said.

The two died shortly afterward in a hospital here. Their children, ranging in age from 4 to 7, saw the shootings, police said.

Rich Oil, Gas Fields Lure New Industry to Louisiana

(13th in a series on taxes and industry.)

By W. B. RAGSDALE Jr.

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Anybody who still thinks oil and water don't mix has never been to Louisiana.

Louisiana's rich oil and gas fields combined with the broad Mississippi and Atchafalaya rivers to touch off a boom that has added 1.8 billion dollars in new industry since 1946.

GROWS SWIFTLY

The Baton Rouge - New Orleans area is the focal point of the greatest activity, but Lake Charles also is growing swiftly out of its industrial knee pants.

One of the nation's largest real estate developers, Vice President William Zeckendorf Jr., of Webb and Knapp Inc., comments:

"This area along the river between New Orleans and Baton Rouge is the hottest industrial potential in the United States. Just about five per cent of the industrial potential along both sides of the Mississippi in this area has been realized."

SHOVED ASIDE

Sleepy cane plantations even small towns have been shoved aside by the booming petro - chemical industry.

Louisiana has a 10-year property tax writeoff for new or expanding industry, and localities may vote bond issues to help construct new plants.

While practically every industry grabs the tax exemption, a state Department of Commerce and Industry expert says out of 563 million dollars in new industrial construction last year only a half million of it came from the industry inducement program.

From St. Francisville, 30 miles north of Baton Rouge, where Time-Life Inc. and Crown Zellerbach are building a 30-million-dollar paper plant, to Braithwaite, 10 miles southeast of New Orleans, where Freeport Sulphur Co. plans one of the world's largest sulphur plants, the river area is booming.

The magic New Orleans -Baton Rouge area produces sulphuric acid, chlorine, soda ash sodium, anti-knock compounds, synthetic rubber, alumina, ethylene derivatives and a vast assortment of other raw materials and finished products in the chemicals line.

The chemical plants often buy from each other. One new industry, commenting on its good chemical neighbors, said that was a factor in bringing it here, since "we might expand our line into a chemical that might be used by some of our neighbors."

★ ★ ★

Kaiser Aluminum is building its third plant in the region. Esso Standard Oil's mammoth refinery, largest in the nation, is steadily growing here.

Louisiana ranks a close third to California in oil production and second to Texas in natural gas output. It is third in salt production and second in sulphur output.

Possibly even more important is water. Dow Chemical, building a multi-million-dollar plant alongside the Mississippi, cites the need for an "ample, long-term supply of water, since it's essential for chemical production."

★ ★ ★

So far, Louisiana has water in abundance. The Army engineers estimate 300 billion gallons of water flow daily down the Mississippi.

Average daily use for the entire nation is 262 billion gallons, with national industrial use figured at 120 billion gallons a day.

Just as the deep water part at Lake Charles aids industrial growth, to an even larger degree the mighty port of New Orleans, ranked second only to New York, and the fast-growing port of Baton Rouge, ranked 13th even though it is 240 miles upstream from the Gulf of Mexico, aid their area.

City Employes Seek Pay Hike

12 Cents Hour Plus Fringe Benefits Would Total $307,000 Yearly

A 12-cent an hour wage increase and other fringe benefits totaling $307,000 a year have been submitted to the city by the Joint Council of Municipal Employes.

★ ★ ★

The council represents 710 police, fire, City Hall and other city employes.

They are seeking, besides the wage boost, longevity which would total $82,000 next year, hospitalization totaling $36,000, and insurance for city employes ($16,000) other than police and firemen who already are covered.

Elmer R. Fangboner, president of the council, said the wage increases and longevity are the most sought after. "We think we are below other cities in the metropolitan area, and have been for a long, long time," he said.

★ ★ ★

If the wage increases are granted it would cost the city $173,000 more annually, Fangboner said.

MONEY IN FUND

Athough City Manager Walter K. Willman refused comment on the requests, he did point out that the contingency fund in the proposed 1958 budget is $158,978 or $110,904 over the same fund appropriation last year.

"We don't expect to get all of the requested benefits," said Fangboner. He said council officials would meet Monday to study the proposed city budget.

The longevity request would pay a bonus to city employes after they had accrued 5, 10, 15, and 20 years of service. No longevity benefits are paid now, Fangboner said.

★ ★ ★

The employes are seeking ward service hospitalization payments. They pay their own currently.

Fangboner said employes last year received approximately an 11½ cents an hour pay increase in 1957.

Pontiac Man Caught Stealing Truck Gas

A Pontiac man pleaded guilty to larceny from an auto Tuesday after being caught by a Waterford Township patrolman in the act of stealing gasoline from a truck at the Burmeister Lumber Co., 7940 Cooley Lake Rd.

★ ★ ★

Arthur Raisanen, 32, of 621 Grey Rd., was arraigned before Waterford Township Justice Patrick K. Daly, and paid a fine of $25 plus $5 costs and one year's probation.

★ ★ ★

Patrolman Frank Randolph noted fresh footprints in the snow leading to the truck, at about 2 a.m. He found a broken line with gas streaming out of the truck and followed the prints leading to Raisanen.

★ ★ ★

Raisanen told Randolph his auto had run out of gas and as he knew Burmeister, the owner of the truck, "everything would be all right."

Senators Try to Learn Who Is Responsible for What in Missile Field

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) said today the Senate Preparedness subcommittee is having extreme difficulty determining who is responsible for what in the lagging missile and satellite programs.

★ ★ ★

Johnson, majority leader of the Senate and chairman of the committee, told reporters: "I do not believe in shaking everything up and turning things upside down. But we will have to find out how to streamline the organization."

★ ★ ★

The committee recalled Allen Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, and Dr. Herbert Scoville, director of the CIA's Office of Scientific Intelligence, for further closed-door questioning.

★ ★ ★

The first phase of the hearings will wind up sometime tonight when the committee will recess until Dec. 13.

Petoskey Group Formed to Lure New Industries

PETOSKEY (AP) — The Petoskey Industrial Development Commission has been formed to raise capital to finance industrial expansion here.

★ ★ ★

John Perry, chairman of the commission, said yesterday the public will be called upon to support the project. It is planned to raise capital through loans or notes to attract industry.

★ ★ ★

Perry said a full-time promoter is being considered.

Executive Appointed for MacManus Firm

The appointment of James H. Graham, 18580 Hillcrest Blvd., Birmingham, as vice president of MacManus, John and Adams, Inc., Bloomfield Hills Advertising Agency, was announced Tuesday by Ernest A. Jones, president.

GRAHAM

Graham joined MacManus, John and Adams more than a year ago. Previously he served as sales manager for Delenhanty Pontiac Inc., in Flushing.

He joined Buick Division of General Motors in 1950 as district manager in the Kansas City Zone and was transferred to the central office in 1952, where he served as advertising manager.

★ ★ ★

Account executive on the Pontiac Motor Division account, Graham will continue to work with Hovey Hagerman, senior vice president and Pontiac account supervisor.

Government Launches Public Campaign

Warning Small Investors Against High-Pressure Sales

WASHINGTON (INS) — The government announced that a public campaign is being launched to warn small investors against fly-by-night, high-pressure stock salesmen.

★ ★ ★

Edward N. Gadsby, chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, reported that 40,000 cautioning posters will be placed on the bulletin boards of all post offices and substations in the U.S.

Gadsby said the "Investors Beware" posted is aimed at alerting the public against relying on tips from "unknown, high-pressure telephone salesmen" and to encourage investors to bring to the government any instances of fraud.

★ ★ ★

Here are the 10 warning signals listed by the SEC poster:

—Before buying . . . Think!

—Don't deal with strange securities firms. (Consult your local broker!)

—Beware of securities offered over the telephone by strangers.

★ ★ ★

—Don't listen to high-pressure sales talk.

—Beware of promises of spectacular profits.

—Be sure you understand the risk of loss.

—Don't buy on tips and rumors . . . Get all the facts!

—Tell the salesman to: Put all the information and advice in writing and mail it to you . . . Save it!

—If you don't understand all the written information . . . consult a person who does.

—Give at least as much consideration to buying securities as you would the purchase of any valuable property.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF JOSEphine Todoroff who passed away Nov. 21, 1952.
Peaceful by thy rest, dear mother,
It is sweet to breathe thy name;
In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same.
Sadly missed by James, Donald, George, Theodore, Johnny, Geraldine, and Nancy Todoroff.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF CLAIRE C. Swarts who passed away Nov. 27, 1949.
Sweet memories will linger forever,
Time cannot change them it's true,
Years that may come cannot sever,
My loving remembrance of you.
Missed by Doris.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF Charles F. Tremain who passed away Nov. 25, 1950.
Do not ask me if I miss him, for there is such a vacant place. Often I think I hear his footsteps, or I see his smiling face. For he left me brokenhearted. Friends may think the wound is healed, but they so little know the sorrow, that is in my heart concealed.
Sadly missed by wife, Tillie Tremain.

U.N. to Tackle Algeria Problem

Taking Up Question Amid Talk of Mediation by France, Rebels

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UP)—U. N. diplomats tackle the festering Algerian situation today amid new talk of mediation between France and its North African rebels.

The heated question was before the U. N. Assembly Political Committee for renewed debate.

Arab delegates expressed hope that the United States and Britain would support mediation of the three-year-old rebellion. The delegates attached considerable importance to current talks in Washington of King Mohammed V of Morocco.

★ ★ ★

The King and President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia offered their good offices last week for negotiations in which France would accept Algerian sovereignty as a starting point. The French, who contend Algeria is part of metropolitan France, rejected the offer.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau said Morocco and Tunisia are not neutral in the struggle of their Arab neighbors. Pineau was scheduled to present the French position in the 82-nation committee's debate.

★ ★ ★

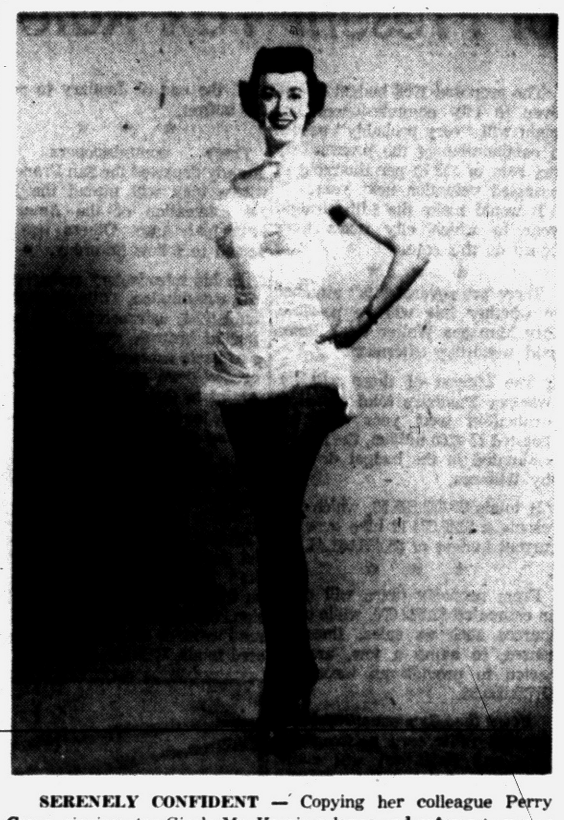
The New York Times said Pineau had told Latin-American, British Commonwealth and Western European delegates that France would be willing to admit up to 10,000 observers for proposed Algerian elections.

The French are insisting the observers come from nations with free elections, the Times said, thus barring Communist and some Arab nations.

★ ★ ★

Arab leaders reportedly want to see a North African federation formed to include Algeria, Morocco and Tunisia.

Moroccan and Tunisian delegates, who were to present Algeria's position, were reported working on a resolution calling for a cease-fire. It also would invite Algeria and France to enter negotiations aimed at self-determination for the French North African province.



SERENELY CONFIDENT — Copying her colleague Perry Como, singing star Gisele MacKenzie relaxes and refuses to worry about the ratings of the new Gisele MacKenzie Show. Gisele places her trust in the staff that is masterminding her television career. Her musical variety program is presented Saturdays at 9:30 p.m. by NBC.

Serene Singer Ignores Ratings

Relies on Jack Benny and Staffers to Guide Her TV Career

By CHARLES DENTON

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Relaxation seems to be reaching epidemic proportions among television's singers.

★ ★ ★

First, Perry Como gave it to most of his crooning colleagues. Now it's even spreading to the supposedly flightier lady thrushes.

★ ★ ★

Take, for example, Gisele MacKenzie.

One of NBC's prize entries in the somewhat overcrowded field of TV song pluggers, genial Gisele is disdainful of ratings, has serene confidence in the staff that packages her show and laughingly hopes she's a hit—so she won't lose her pretty new office.

This would be difficult to understand were it not that Gisele is the sort of gal who turned full-time singer because someone stole her violin and didn't come to Hollywood until nine days before her show went on the air because "all I could have done before that would have been sit around and get nervous."

★ ★ ★

"Ratings," she says with a slight upward curl in her lip, "are meaningless. I don't understand them, and I don't think many other people do either. I don't care about them."

"I've grown up that much at least."

MAY REACH TOP

So far as NBC is concerned, Gisele, who spent four years on "Your Hit Parade"—"I learned to sing upside down, sideways, any way at all"—has grown up a good deal more than that.

★ ★ ★

In fact, the network brass has a notion that before she stops growing she may be the top singer-comedienne on TV.

But the comely, newly naturalized 30-year-old Canadian chirper isn't looking quite that far ahead. A bachelor girl, she's just rented a home in Beverly Hills—for eight months.

"I don't make plans too far in advance," she explains. "I've discovered that the more you make plans, the more someone else changes them for you."

★ ★ ★

Gisele's faith in the people who are guiding her television fortunes is well placed. The mastermind of the operation is none other than Jack Benny, who can prove his knowledge of show business with bank balances.

RESPECTFUL PROTEGE

Gisele refers to him respectfully as "Mr. Benny."

"I've known him for about five years," says Gisele, who once toured with the old penny-pincher.

★ ★ ★

"Both Mr. and Mrs. Benny insisted that I should have my own show a year ago, but I thought I needed another year of seasoning on the 'Hit Parade.' After that, they worked on getting me a show and sponsors, and here I am with two wonderful sponsors.

"As long as two years ago, Mr. Benny told me that when I had a show of my own, he wanted something to do with it. So he's our editor."

The rest of her staffers also have Gisele's highest regard.

"They tell me what to do and I do it," she says candidly. "Oh, I may tell them I want to sing this tune or I don't care much for that one, but usually I just leave it up to them."

★ ★ ★

Gisele is proudest right now of her new office.

"Oh, we're very large now, very large indeed with our own office," she says delightedly.

"It's right next to Paramount studio, which is very impressive. The first time I saw the place, I couldn't believe it. I said I hope we don't flop because I'd sure hate to lose all this."

Kovaks Unconcerned With Divided Opinions

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—TV stars Ernie Kovacs and Edith Adams are controversial figures in Las Vegas, where reaction to their show is divided. "I've been making a living being a controversial figure for years," shrugs Ernie.

The material, written by Ernie, is mostly quite smart. I liked it. In a takeoff on radio chatterers, Ernie says, "Mike Todd springs into the news today with the announcement that he will do a remake of "The Ten Commandments" — with the original cast."

WILSON

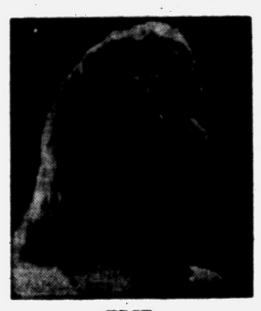
He offers a "Snobbe Shoppe" Christmas catalog—for rich boys. Sample present: "Train set. Specify whether child wants the B & O., N. Y. Central or Pennsylvania." Ernie says also, "Show me a man who smokes cigars in bed and I'll show you a man with an ashen complexion." Then he invents a new pill: "The Monk-Mil," half monkey gland and half Miltown.

★ ★ ★

"It gives you a terrible urge to kiss a girl," Ernie says, "but if you can't find anybody, you don't care."

★ ★ ★

Frank Sinatra decided to cook some spaghetti after recent TV chores and phoned Bill Karen in Los Angeles. "I want to try to make that clam sauce," he said. "Tell me just how to do it." Karen did. Later Sinatra called back and said, "You'd better bring some over."



EDIE

Jayne Mansfield's well aware of Elsa Maxwell's blasts at her on Jack Paar's program. So in telling me that she and Mickey Hargitay will be married at the all-glass Wayfarers Chapel in Place Verdes around Jan. 10, Jayne giggled and said, "I may ask Elsa Maxwell to be one of the bridesmaids."

Tot, 2, Calls Out for His 'Daddy' on Utility Pole

EFFINGHAM, Ill. (UP)—Who was the two-year-old boy and why did he shout "Daddy" every time he was taken to a studio window?

The double mystery confronted radio station WCRA yesterday.

The station broadcast a description of the tot, who was crying and without a coat or hat when found wandering near the studio.

Claudine Rush, the station's bookkeeper, noticed in trying to calm the boy that he cried except when she took him to the window.

Mrs. Ransom Wiedner, recognized the broadcast description of her son, soon arrived at the station.

Then she cleared up the rest of the mystery by going to the window. Her husband was installing a transformer on a utility pole across the street.

2 School Officials Held After Fight

NORWOOD, Colo. (UP) — Town Marshal Clyde Blanton issued warrants for the arrest of the high school superintendent and principal today after a brawl disrupted classes.

Blanton, 44, and Principal Ransom English, 28, required hospital treatment for cuts received in two separate flurries of fisticuffs yesterday.

★ ★ ★

The marshal said the first involved English and the superintendent, Lyle E. Cloepfil, 52. He said one or both of the men may have used a baseball bat during the five-minute battle in Cloepfil's office.

Blanton and English toppled through a class door into a classroom when the marshal arrived to investigate the affair. The marshal suffered cuts that required 26 stitches to close. English was taken to a hospital at nearby Montrose for treatment of cuts and shock.

★ ★ ★

The warrant for arrests charged English with assault and battery and resisting an officer. Cloepfil was charged with disturbance.

Asian Flu Near Manila

MANILA (UP)—At least 500 persons have been stricken with a new outbreak of Asian flu in 12 small towns in nearby Bulacan province, the Manila Bulletin reported today. May and June epidemics killed more than 800.

City Main Library Closing Early Today

The main Pontiac City Library at 47 Williams St. will close tonight at 6 instead of the regular 9 p.m. closing, according to Miss Phyllis A. Pope, city librarian.

She said the reason was a customary lag in use of the library on nights preceding holidays. The extra time will allow the staff to prepare for the usual after-holiday rush expected Friday, she added.

Lucille Ball, Husband to Purchase RKO Studio

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—RKO Studio, once a giant of the movie industry, will become the property of Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz and will be used for making television films.

★ ★ ★

A spokesman said only minor details remain to be worked out for their purchase of the studio from the General Tire and Rubber Co. for a reported price of six million dollars.

★ ★ ★

The tire company acquired it two years ago from Howard Hughes for 25 million dollars, made a few pictures, then let it go idle. Most of the studio's employes were laid off a year ago.

City B'nai Brith Lodge to Honor PCHS Student

B'nai Brith Lodge of Pontiac will present Charles Syers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Iving Syers, 821 Bow Lane, Waterford Township, with a special citation tonight following their business meeting at B'nai Israel Synagogue.

Syers, a student at Pontiac Central High School, recently won an essay contest entitled, "I Speak For Democracy," sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

SEATO Countries Warned of Soviets

MANILA (UP)—An American foreign affairs specialist warned SEATO nation delegates today that Soviet trade offers mask Communist plans for world domination.

★ ★ ★

Prof. George Taylor, director of the Far East and Russian Institute of the University of Washington, also said Russia controls 50 per cent of the world opium trade, which he said is used as a weapon in subversion.

Taylor gave the main lecture at the second of a four-day SEATO seminar at Baguio on Communist Asian cold war tactics. Taylor said the Russians were offering economic aid to gain a contact with neutral nations and form a base for subversion.

Oklahoma City Hit by Series of Fires

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A series of fires broke out last night in the southwest part of Oklahoma City and Fire Chief G. R. Mcalpine said an arsonist apparently was responsible.

★ ★ ★

One of the fires destroyed a large mule barn at the Oklahoma City Stockyards and caused damage estimated by the manager, Oscar Holderby, at $150,000.

Another blaze burned a large feed barn in the same area, along with 800 bales of alfalfa. Damage was estimated at $20,000.

★ ★ ★

A third fire broke out in a house. The woman occupant told firemen she saw a man run by, then looked out to see the front porch blazing.

Convict Man of Taking $26,700 by Trickery

DETROIT (AP) — Robert E. Martin, 24, today awaited sentencing Dec. 10 on a charge of taking $26,700 by trickery from his former landlady on the pretext of building a church.

Martin was convicted yesterday by a Recorder's Court jury of 11 women and one man.

Mrs. Nellie Horkenbach, 63, a divorcee, accused her former roomer of talking her out of her money by quoting from the Bible. She said she gave him the money to build a church and also to pay for a vacation trip.

Assistant Prosecutor Leonard Ziskie said about $13,000 in cash and a car have been recovered from Martin.

White potatoes consist of about 75 per cent water.

Eastern Coast Chilled From Top to Bottom

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Freezing temperatures gripped the New England states area early today and the whole of the Eastern Coast, down to northern Florida remained chilly.

★ ★ ★

Another cool air mass brought temperatures tumbling in the Northwest. The cool front extended to Montana and Wyoming. There were snow flurries in the northern and central Rockies and parts of Montana.

Southerly winds over the Mississippi Valley and the western Great Lakes accounted for a warming trend in the central portion of the country.

★ ★ ★

The cold weather along the Eastern Seaboard produced numbing temperatures in New England with a low of 1 above zero at Burlington, Vt., and 5 above at Lebanon, N. H. Temperatures along the seaboard from New England to northern Florida, were at the 40-degree mark.

Says $18 Million Hike in Gas Rates Sought

LANSING (AP)—Robert Reese, an assistant Detroit corporation counsel, said last night the Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. is seeking a minimum rate increase of 18 million dollars a year in its pending case before the Michigan Public Service Commission.

Michigan Consolidated throughout the proceedings which started last summer consistently has refused to specify the amount of the increase it wants, saying only it is asking a "just and reasonable" return on investment.

★ ★ ★

Reese based his statement to a reporter on the basis of cross examination yesterday of a utility official, John M. Veale, a former public service commissioner.

Although Veale refused to be pinned down to any dollar figure, Reese drew from him minimum figures both as to what the company considered a fair rate of return and a fair rate base.

★ ★ ★

Rees said to compute the dollar amount of increase being asked was "only mathematics."

Cross examination of company witnesses was to continue today, with the commission staff due to present its case Dec. 10.

Controversial Paper Bought by Photographer

LANSING (AP) — The Capitol Digest, a controversial political newspaper published in Lansing for the past three decades, has been purchased by Pat Mitchell, Lansing photographer.

Mitchell said he put in the highest bid for the name and assets of the Digest before a trustee in bankruptcy for the U. S. District Court at Grand Rapids. One source estimated the bid at $2,600.

The weekly, formerly known as the Michigan State Digest, was founded by the late Ed Nowack, well known in state politics and the target of several law suits for his writings.

After passing through several owners after Nowack's death, it suspended publication in November of 1956.

Mitchell said his plans for the paper were indefinite.

"But we are not going to let the Digest die," he said. "It has been a good crusader through the years and there is a need for it today."

Mitchell said he hoped to resume publication by January.

Pontiac City Affairs

'Ifs' Surrounding Continuation of Present Tax Rate for 1958

The proposed 1958 budget turned over to city commissioners last night will "very probably" permit a continuation of the present city tax rate of $13.70 per thousand of assessed valuation next year.

It would make the fifth straight year in which city taxes were based on this rate.

★ ★ ★

There are several "ifs" attached to whether this will be possible, City Manager Walter K. Willman said yesterday afternoon.

The biggest of these will be whether Pontiac's total assessed evaluation next year will be boosted to $260 million, the figure estimated in the budget drafted by Willman.

It totals $5,683,595.58, which represents a $245,064.12 hike over the current budget of $5,438,531.46.

From property taxes will come an estimated $3,562,000, while other sources such as sales, fines, licenses, to name a few, are expected to provide an income of $1,721,595.58.

From the city's unappropriated surplus (difference between assets and liabilities) will come $400,000 to balance the tentative budget.

Another "if" which might necessitate a tax hike is a pending decision of the State Water Resources Commission on whether the city must build another sewage treatment plant.

Willman said "this determination may be made in the year 1958" and might possibly, through a Supreme Court ruling, cause a tax increase or increase in sewage rates to pay for the project.

The manager was clear to point out that these and other factors would have to be decided next year. "We will cross those bridges when we come to them," he said.

A bare minimum quorum of four commissioners last evening set Jan. 21 as the mandatory public hearing on the budget. They have until the end of January to adopt the budget.

★ ★ ★

Three commissioners had already departed for San Francisco where they will attend the Dec. 1-4 convention of the American Municipal Assn. Others are expected to follow Saturday.

In his introductory remarks to the commission, Willman said if industrial, commercial and residential growth continues here, and basic assessed valuations increase, "we can very probably maintain the tax rate at the existing level without drastically reducing public service."

The 1957 assessed valuation was $254,145,600. This was nearly $15,000,000 above 1956 valuations.

If the jump to $260,000,000 for the coming year does not occur, the budget would have to be trimmed down by the commission, taxes increased or possibly a readjustment made in unappropriated funds, Willman remarked.

He repeated it was too early to speculate what action will be taken.

But he did say that the undecided means of financing and finishing Pontiac General Hospital would not directly affect the size of the budget or tax rate.

★ ★ ★

"This will affect the size of our capital improvement program," he said.

Willman listed expenditures totaling nearly $600,000 which might come from next year's $910,000 program. "This, of course, all depends on what the commission decides," he said.

The manager said higher supply costs, increased costs of Social Security and pension plans, and employe pay hikes and added personnel resulted in the higher budget.

Besides receiving the budget, commissioners breezed through the remaining six points on the agenda in 22 minutes.

Given OK to Study Ecorse Child's Killer

DETROIT (AP)—Psychiatrists are going to make a special study of Richard Lawrence Turner, 50, slayer of 6-year-old Mary DeCaussin.

Circuit Court Judge Frank Fitzgerald ruled yesterday that Turner is a criminal sexual psychopath, but then consented that the prisoner be kept at the Wayne County Jail instead of being sent to Ionia State Hospital.

Psychiatrists at Detroit's Lafayette Clinic plan to study Turner. They hope to find a pattern in the history of sex-killers which may lead to improvements in the law covering such crimes.

The DeCaussin child was slain last June 12 near her home in suburban Ecorse Township.

Representative Decides Not to Seek Re-election

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) — Rep. Hubert B. Scudder (R-Calif), says he will not seek re-election from the First California District.

In a farewell message yesterday, the 69-year-old solon, who is serving his fourth term, said "I am looking forward to the time when the crowded day might be more leisurely spent."

State High Court Schedules More Regional Talks

LANSING (AP) — The State Supreme Court has set three more regional meetings with circuit and probate judges in its move to assert closer supervision over Michigan's courts.

★ ★ ★

At one of the sessions Jan. 11 in Detroit, high court justices will engage in face-to-face discussions with Wayne County judges on the touchy issue of vacations.

Meredith H. Doyle, court administrator, said the other two regional meetings will be held Dec. 14 in Alpena and on a date to be determined between Christmas and New Years in Marquette. Justice Talbot Smith was designated to preside at the Alpena meeting.

Last Friday in a regional meeting of judges in Saginaw, Justice Eugene Black called the vacation practices on the Wayne County circuit bench a "disgrace."

★ ★ ★

Black said that some judges were taking a month off in the summer and a similar vacation period during the winter months while a backlog of undecided cases piled higher. Presiding Judge Theodore R. Bohn has said that work of the Wayne County bench has been slowed down by a wave of illnesses among judges.
