10 Perish in State Farmhouse Fire

POSEN (AP) — Ten members of the same family died in a roaring farmhouse fire today outside this Polish, potato-growing community in northeastern Lower Michigan.

Of 12 who normally lived in the two-story home, only two survived. Edward Gralewicz, 51, escaped the blaze; his niece, Carol Bonin, 18, was visiting friends in Alpena.

Gralewicz' father, sister, brother-in-law and the latter couple's seven younger children perished in the fire. The children ranged in age from 15 months to 16 years.

The toll was the highest in recent Michigan history. Twice before since 1950, eight had died in two separate fires.

FAULTY WIRING

Gralewicz said the fire broke out in a first-floor laundry room about 1:30 a.m. and spread with incredible speed. Fire Chief Ray Wozniak said it may have been caused by faulty wiring.

Dead are Anthony Gralewicz, 85, Edward's father; Mrs. Theresa Bonin, 39, Anthony's daughter; her husband, Walter, 40; and seven of the eight Bonin children: Victor, 16; and Barbara Ann, 15; Kenneth, 12; Julie Ann, 11; Gregory, 7; Marcia, 5, and Robert, 15 months.

In halting, heavily accented English, Gralewicz told how he had come home from work at a limestone quarry at nearby Stoneport shortly after midnight and went to bed. He was awakened at about 1:30 a.m. by a dog barking.

"I heard crackling, it sounded like a dog chewing on bones or something," he said. "Then I saw big thick smoke and flames coming up.

"I ran to my dad's room and started hollering 'fire, fire' but nobody could hear. I opened all the doors and when I go outside I can't get in no more."

A neighbor girl returning from a date spotted the blaze and called the fire department. Firemen arriving 15 minutes later found the home engulfed in flames.

★ ★ ★

Intense heat and smoke prevented entry by firemen and the walls collapsed soon after their arrival, Fire Chief Ray Wozniak said.

The Gralewicz family worked a 120-acre farm, raising grain and potatoes, in this agricultural area about midway between Alpena and Rogers City on the Lake Huron shore in the north eastern Lower Peninsula of Michigan.

TOUCHDOWN!—Football fans, players, parents and school officials all pitched in yesterday to begin the job of laying sod and installing a sprinkler system on the new Waterford Mott High School athletic field. Construction contractors for the new school had told officials that the job couldn't be completed in time for gridiron action this fall, so parents in the school district have pledged to raise $3,000 needed to pay for the sod and sprinklers, while the kids promised to provide all the labor necessary. About 60 persons appeared yesterday to help level the field, including several families with youngsters.

Spiro Could Hold Key to ABM

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said today Vice President Spiro T. Agnew may get his first opportunity to vote in Congress when the Senate finally acts on the Safeguard program.

Mansfield told newsmen senators already have "made up their minds" on the antimissile question and he doubts whether any votes will be affected by the debate that began Tuesday and which may last three weeks.

★ ★ ★

"It looks like a 50-50 proposition," he said. "Maybe Agnew will be the deciding factor."

The vice president, although president of the Senate, can vote only to break a tie. He would be expected to support the Nixon administration's Safeguard plans.

PLENTY OF NOTICE

The Montana Democrat said the twice-postponed secret Senate session would not be held this week. "When we do have it," he said, "we ought to give the Senate plenty of notice."

Meanwhile Republican Sen. Charles H. Percy says it is "pure hogwash" to argue the program is needed to strengthen President Nixon's hand for U.S.-Soviet disarmament talks.

★ ★ ★

And Democratic Sen. Albert Gore says such an argument put forth on behalf of the antiballistic missile program — ABM — in opening debate by fellow Democrats John C. Stennis of Mississippi and Henry M. Jackson of Washington represents "a shift of strategy" by the pro-Safeguard forces.

Gore teamed with Percy to needle Stennis and Jackson as the ABM debate in the Senate heated up yesterday.

Related Story, Page B-16

Gore noted President Nixon and Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird had based their argument for the nation's missile deterrent force.

While the ABM debate picked up steam, Laird's testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee at a June 23 closed-door hearing was made public — providing an additional illustration of the wide split in Washington over what course should be taken in defense and disarmament.

Under vigorous questioning by Committee Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., Laird narrowed his earlier contention that the Russians were aiming for a devastating first-strike nuclear capability.

★ ★ ★

He said he was talking about a Soviet capability to knock out retaliatory U.S. Minuteman missiles in their permanent silos. He said he had never contended this would be an over-all knockout blow.

Fulbright insisted there was disagreement in the U.S. intelligence community over Russian capabilities and intentions.

On the Senate floor yesterday, Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., introduced their amendment to the $20-billion military procurement bill, which includes $759.1 million for ABM. The amendment prohibits deployment or site acquisition for Safeguard, but would provide for continued research, development, testing and evaluation of the antimissile system.

Leak Is Located in Apollo Rocket

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Technicians today located a leak in the pressurization system of the Apollo 11 rocket, and the space agency sought a means of correcting it so that the countdown could start on time tonight for the moon-landing mission.

Related Story, Page B-16

Officials said they did not think the problem was serious enough to delay the lengthy countdown, set to start at 8 p.m.

★ ★ ★

The leak cropped up this morning in the helium pressurization system of the first stage of the 36-story-tall Saturn 5.

Two technicians entered the huge liquid oxygen tank in the stage and isolated the leak to a so-called B-nut at the base of one of four helium bottles attached to the inside of the rocket.

There was a possibility the problem could be fixed by merely tightening the nut. Officials were assessing the technician's report in early afternoon.

Ex-Con's Confession to Killings Doubted

FLINT (UPI) — An ex-convict being held as a suspect in the strangling of a Kentucky widow has confessed to two of the Ann Arbor slayings, Flint police said today.

But Police Chief James Rutherford said he was dubious about the "confession" by 27-year-old John Spirko, who also told police he killed a man who gave him a ride while hitchhiking from Toledo, Ohio, to Michigan last weekend.

"Everything we've checked out so far has not checked out," Rutherford said.

Nevertheless, Ann Arbor authorities were expected here today to question Spirko, who first gave police an alias of John Parris.

OPENLY DUBIOUS

Police were openly dubious that Spirko had any connection with the seven slayings of young women in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area in the last two years. The latest victim was killed last Friday night and a slight, wiry ex-convict is being held for her murder.

No firm suspects have been found in any of the other slayings.

A similar "confession" by a jail inmate in Nashville, Tenn., last month turned out to be a hoax.

Spirko, described by police as a "floater," was booked on a felonious assault charge after he allegedly threatened a tavern customer with a gun in Bay City. Spirko was disarmed by a bartender, Flint Police Sgt. Clayton Stump said.

★ ★ ★

Spirko is wanted by Covington, Ky., police in connection with the strangulation death last Thursday of Mrs. Myra Ashcraft, 73, in Covington.

Sgt. Stump said Spirko waived the right to an attorney and signed a statement admitting he strangled the woman during a burglary in her home.

Nixon Predicts Massive Crisis in Heatlh Care

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon said today the nation faces "a massive crisis" in health care and placed his seal of approval on a collection of proposals to do something about it.

Nixon told newsmen that demand for health care is increasing so much faster than the supply of professionals and facilities available that there could be a national breakdown in the area unless action is taken within two to three years.

★ ★ ★

The President helped unveil an eight-page "Report on the Health of the Nation's Health Care System," signed by Robert H. Finch, secretary of health, education and welfare, and Dr. Roger O. Egeberg, assistant secretary-designate.

Finch and Egeberg listed a broad variety of concrete moves, proposals and ideas that, where not previously adopted, have at least been under wide discussion in — Congress and within the HEW department.

COST SPIRAL

Much of the report's emphasis was on spiraling costs of the medicaid program, which was described as "badly conceived and badly organized."

Meanwhile, the Senate Finance Committee searched for ways to stop the climbing costs of medicare and medicaid programs without extensive government intervention in fees charged by physicians and hospitals.

Medicare provides help for sick people 65 years of age and older. Medicaid is a joint federal-state program to provide medical care for needy persons.

Ex-Trustees in Dark on Euler Firing

By DICK ROBINSON

Most of the former board members of Pontiac General Hospital still in the area say they don't know why the hospital's top administrator was fired.

Ten former trustees in the area were available for comment. Two were not. A survey of the 10 shows:

- Most say they don't know why Harold B. Euler was fired. One says it was a personality conflict. Another wants reasons to be given.
- Most can't say without having the facts behind the firing whether the board was justified in firing Euler without even giving him a reason. One ex-trustee defended the board's action.
- A majority said they haven't been close to the situation, but they praised Euler, former Associate Administrator Donald H. Carros and Controller Robert DeCleene, now overseeing the hospital's operations.

★ ★ ★

"I think Euler was fired because of a personality clash between Euler and Carros and Euler and the board," comments John B. Maye, who served on the board from 1962 to 1966.

"I think Euler's firing of Carros was a main reason. And I also think Euler had certain things he wanted to do and the board didn't want him to do," Maye added.

'CARROS PUSHED EULER RAISE'

Euler talked highly of Carros and DeCleene and Carros always talked highly of Euler, according to Maye. Carros once encouraged a salary increase for Euler.

"I just don't feel the board of trustees is justified for not giving a reason for firing Euler," said Rev. Theodore R. Allebach of the Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church. He served on the board from 1957 to 1965.

"I feel his reputation is at stake, and if a reason is not found it could hang over him the rest of his life," Allebach said.

Allebach was on the board when Euler's predecessor, Carl I. Flath, was fired.

'WE HAVE RIGHT TO KNOW'

"Euler's dismissal appears to have been a very poor decision," he commented. "The public is also concerned because the hospital administrator is the hospital's representative to the community. We have a right to know why he was fired."

FREEWAY WRECK — State Police troopers examine the car driven by a Metamora man, which rolled over several times yesterday after colliding with a tractor-trailer on I-75 near Adams Road in Troy. Witnesses told police the driver, Robert L. Cattane of 1111 Mary Lou, crossed two lanes of traffic at speeds in excess of 90 miles per hour before colliding with the truck. Both vehicles were westbound on the freeway. Cattane was listed today in fair condition in St. Joseph Hospital. His left arm was severed below the elbow.

Muggy Weather Will Stick Around

Hot and humid weather is in store for Oakland County residents today, tonight and tomorrow with temperatures due to climb into the mid-80s.

Tonight's low is expected to be near 70. Light and variable winds will offer little relief from the muggy weather.

Partly sunny skies and warm temperatures are forecast for Saturday.

There is a 10 per cent possibility of precipitation today, tonight and tomorrow. Low mercury reading in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. was 70. By 2 p.m. the thermometer registered 88.

House Unit Extends '65 Voter-Rights Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House judiciary subcommittee today bypassed President Nixon's proposed voting rights legislation and approved a five-year extension of the existing law.

The administration proposal to shift the focus of the act from the South to the nation at large was never even offered during the brief subcommittee session.

Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., said approval of the 1965 act extension was by "overwhelming" voice vote. The full judiciary committee is also expected to approve the bill when it considers it next week.

Meanwhile, a Negro leader told the Senate constitutional rights subcommittee that the administration's proposed legislation could tie Congress up in a struggle lasting beyond the expiration of the present law.

"That's why the administration's action can be diversionary, disruptive and destructive," Clarence Mitchell, director of the Washington office of the NAACP, told the Senate group.

He said the administration is saying that Congress has the power to prohibit voter literacy tests by the states even where racial discrimination is not a factor. Mitchell said he is delighted that the administration is "thinking along these lines," but he said it departs from what is settled law and thus opens up a whole new battlefront.

He added that it could bring on a struggle in Congress that would last beyond the Aug. 6, 1970 expiration date of the present voting rights law.

In the House, the full judiciary committee will take up the legislation next Tuesday.

GOP leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, looking for cosponsors of the administration bill among the 15 committee Republicans, was able to find only two junior members willing to join him in introducing the measure yesterday. Reps. Thomas J. Meskill of Connecticut and Charles E. Wiggins of California.

Also joining Ford were the GOP whip, Rep. Leslie C. Arends of Illinois, Rep. John J. Rhodes of Arizona, the chairman of the Republican Policy Committee and Rep. Bob Wilson of California, chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee.

Notably missing from the list of sponsors, however, besides the senior judiciary committee Republicans, were Rep. William M. McCulloch of Ohio, the GOP's leading civil rights supporter in the House, and Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois.

Warns Peking

Gromyko Hits China, Woos U.S.

MOSCOW (AP) — Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko condemned Red China today and made a bid for developing friendly relations with the United States.

Gromyko, in a major foreign-policy speech before the Supreme Soviet (parliament) said the Kremlin favors talks with Washington "to find positions of agreement both on questions of bilateral relations and on unresolved international problems."

★ ★ ★

He warned Peking that attempts to use armed force against the Soviet Union "will be met with the necessary rebuff."

Despite the belligerent tone, he expressed readiness to hold talks with China "on a wide range of questions" but gave no indication that the Mao Tse-tung leadership had shown interest.

★ ★ ★

'Anti-DDT Data Being Sat On'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Gaylord A. Nelson has charged the Department of Agriculture with sitting on a report condemning the general use of DDT.

Agriculture officials denied any such report exists, but did announce Wednesday the department had ordered a temporary halt in the use of nine persistent or long-lasting pesticides —including DDT—in government pest control programs.

The Wisconsin Democrat called on Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin to ban use of the toxic pesticide altogether.

Nelson said the department has kept the report quiet because "they haven't done anything about it."

Dr. G. W. Irving Jr., administrator of the USDA's agricultural research service, and Harry W. Hays, director of the pesticides regulation division, said no such recommendations have been made to Hardin.

"If there had been a report I would have known about it," Irving said.

Nelson acknowledged the report may not yet have reached Hardin's desk. But he added: "There is no doubt in my mind the report exists."

'Tank Shortage' Laid to Army

WASHINGTON (AP) — A major tank shortage may be developing because of the Army's preoccupation with the new, sophisticated and trouble-ridden Sheridan weapon system, says a House armed services investigating subcommittee.

"We need more tanks. I am not at all happy about our tank combat situation in Europe," said subcommittee Chairman Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., yesterday, in releasing a report on the Sheridan.

Further, the subcommittee accused the Army of trumping up a need for the Sheridan in 1959, pushing it into production before testing was complete, and covering up difficulties to keep budget funds flowing.

The tank strength in Europe has been sapped because the Army stopped making the mainstay M60 tank in 1967 while at the same time it was selling an unspecified number of the same model to Iran, Austria and Italy, the subcommittee said.

"Not only did the Army fail to maintain an adequate production rate of M60s during the 1960s, but they slowed down the production line and even closed it in 1967 to produce the M60E2, which still cannot be deployed because of deficiencies," the report said.

Publicity-Shy Son of Former President Dies

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Herbert Hoover Jr. shunned publicity most of his life and when he died at age 65 yesterday there were no press announcements of his passing.

The son of the late president served as the No. 2 man in the State Department from 1954 to 1957 under the late John Foster Dulles.

Hoover died in Huntington Community Hospital, which said he had been hospitalized for about a week. Spokesman declined to name the illness or give the cause of death.

Hoover once said there were three ingredients that made life worth living for him—the outdoors, far-away places and mining engineering.

When he was undersecretary of state, friends said he would have rather been in Australia mining gold. Public office held no glamor for him and he avoided capitalizing on his father's name.

Shunning politics most of his life, Hoover, an engineer like his father, made his professional mark as an inventor and administrator in the fields of mining, radio and electronic engineering.

It was his experience in oil mining that brought him reluctantly into public life. Serving as a troubleshooter for Dulles, Hoover was instrumental in healing the rift between the British and the Iranians over the nationalization of British-held oil concessions in 1954. Shortly after the success of his work in the oil dispute he was named undersecretary of state.

Former Trustees in Dark on Firing

Allebach remembers Euler as "the man of the hour" when he was hired 11 years ago.

"We looked to him because he had everything we were looking for. He was well qualified and interested in the position when the board approached him.

"He's so well known and highly respected by everyone. He seemed to know what direction he was going. He took the hospital out of the red, enlarged the parking lot, built a residence for interns and planned for expansion," Allebach recalled.

'ENTITLED TO EXPLANATION'

Maye agrees that Euler is "entitled to an explanation and patients are entitled to a reason."

Dick M. Kirby, a former city commissioner who served on the hospital board from 1958 to 1962, said:

★ ★ ★

"Euler took over in the exact same situation. The indiscriminations are the same.

"But we still have a wonderful hospital and good people working there.

'PEOPLE OF INTEGRITY'

"Everybody on the hospital board is a person of integrity and ability."

Kirby said he "thinks sometimes reasons should be given but doesn't know if this is the opportune time."

Other former trustees had this to say:

● Joseph G. Benson, 1968: "It is the board's privilege and responsibility to operate the hospital in the best manner they know how. The firing must have been in the best judgment.

"I don't know all the facts. I'd rather not get drawn into it."

● Robert T. Flynn, 1962-66: "I don't know enough to comment, but I'm sure the trustees are doing a good job."

● James Clarkson, 1957-60: "I wouldn't want to be quoted on the reasons for Euler's firing. The justification of not telling him the reasons depends on the circumstances."

● Rev. Philip W. Somers, 1965-67: "I would like to have more facts. I can't say if the trustees are justified for not giving reasons until I know the reasons."

● Willis M. Brewer, 1952-58: "I don't know enough about it but I always had a high regard for Euler."

● Charles E. Yaeger, 1952-58: "I have a lot of respect for Harold Goldberg (vice chairman) and the board. I don't think they'd do anything to harm the hospital. I just can't believe Euler doesn't know why he's dismissed."

● Joseph Jones, 1952-57: "I haven't been close to the situation."

Unavailable for comment were Cecil J. Cosgrove, a member from 1957-60, and Robert A. Armstrong on the board from 1958-65.

Bigger Europe Troop Cuts Sought by Senate Dems

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic leaders have quietly approved a call for a far greater cutback in U. S. troop strength in Europe than now planned by the White House.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield described as inadequate President Nixon's order to withdraw some 15,000 military men from overseas bases during the next year.

★ ★ ★

The White House did not disclose the specific areas involved, but the order announced yesterday exempted Vietnam and other spots of trouble and tension.

★ ★ ★

"This is a step in the right direction, but it's only a drop in the bucket," Mansfield said in an interview.

AGREE TO SUPPORT

It was learned the Senate Democratic Policy Committee already has agreed to back a resolution urging the administration to substantially reduce U. S. manpower in Western Europe.

Mansfield, the resolution's chief sponsor, said he will formally introduce the measure later this year, but would not say when.

He said the United States is maintaining 2,700 bases, 400 of them major installations, covering 4,000 square miles in 30 foreign nations.

All told, he said, some 1.75 million troops, dependents and employes are based overseas.

FORMULA FOR PROGRESS

Mansfield said it would represent real progress if those figures were cut in half.

The White House announced 14,900 men will be brought back to the United States during the next year "in the interests of lessening budget and balance of payments costs and of reducing the American presence overseas."

The military cuts do not apply to forces in Vietnam, South Korea, Berlin, to other areas of Southeast Asia where U.S. forces support military operations, or to manpower commitments to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Presumably, this means reductions in U.S. forces in Spain, Japan, and Turkey.

The kind of cutbacks Mansfield wants would have to come in the NATO area, exempt from the Nixon order.

The United States has 228,000 men in West Germany alone.

Mansfield said the Germans are in far better economic shape than the United States to provide forces for their defense.

But he added:

"It isn't balance of payments, it isn't Vietnam, it's principle— an occupation army a quarter century later."

City C. of C. Sets Summer Meeting

The Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce's annual summer meeting will be Aug. 6 beginning at 8 a.m. at Spring Lake Country Club, 6060 Maybee, Clarkston.

The day's activities include golf, lunch and dinner. Tickets at $12 each, may be purchased through the Chamber office in the Riker Building.

Birmingham

Commission Names Public Works Head

BIRMINGHAM — Chester Hunter has been named superintendent of public works by the City Commission.

Hunter has served as city forester for the past several years. He replaces A. P. Blethen, who is moving to California. Blethen held the post for two years.

Hunter's salary was set at $13,500.

In other appointments, commissioners named Lawrence A. King of 4230 Pine Tree, Bloomfield Township, chairman of next year's Michigan Week festivities. King served as vice chairman this year.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Arthur W. Ackerman Jr. 1134 Eton Cross, has been appointed vice president and materials manager of Huck Manufacturing Co., Detroit.

★ ★ ★

In the newly created position, Ackerman will be responsible for the coordination and performance of all functions relating to the planning, acquisition and flow of materials through the manufacturing processes, including the packaging and shipment of the finished part.

ACKERMAN

Ackerman joined Huck in 1957 as assistant to the executive vice president. He was named manager—special products division in 1960 and to manager of inventories in 1962. In 1964, he was named director of purchases, the position he held prior to his new appointment.

Cranbrook Academy of Art student Hal M. Moseley Jr. recently won a $1,000 honorable mention in the 1969 Reynolds Aluminum Prize competition for architectural students.

★ ★ ★

Moseley's entry featured a design of a "Living Unit for One," a simple low-cost shelter for vagrants or migrants.

★ ★ ★

Mosely received his prize from George E. Kassabaum, FAIA, president of the American Institute of Architects, during recent ceremonies in Chicago.

Community Action Unit Hopes to Revitalize Metamora

By NED ADAMSON

METAMORA — Community action has come to quiet Metamora.

Located in southern Lapeer County, Metamora is southeast Michigan's version of the Kentucky blue-grass horsey belt. It is home to 450 persons.

As in many small towns, the downtown section of the village has been dying a slow death for years.

About the only businesses left are the local bank, a market, a variety shop which sells shoes to television sets, a gas station, a hardware store — which according to local residents is flourishing — and the Chatterbox, the local restaurant.

Several empty stores dot the streets.

The sprucely painted "banker's gray" bank dominates the downtown.

On a hot sunny day, the village looks like the set for a complete Bonnie and Clyde bank-robbery-type movie shot.

There is a monument to the war dead in Metamora flanked by a bed of petunias. The garbage cans are painted water-color hues. And in Metamora you can get 12 ice cream bars for 59 cents.

ACTION PROJECT

There's a community action project, of Metamora Progress, a corporation formed by a local minister the Rev. Norman Brower and the village clerk, Mrs. Margaret Brauer.

The corporation now has about 20 members. It soon will be selling stock at $25 per share. The great dream is to turn Metamora around and restore the village to its original image.

Will Slocum, a commercial artist and one of the organizers of Metamora Progress, envisions a downtown full of small convenience shops to service local residents and the affluent dwellers of the surrounding "hunt" country, and several boutique and specialty shop-type operations.

There is an old colonial-style stagecoach stop-country inn-type restaurant, the "White Horse Inn," on the main corner. When renovated it would provide a timely asset to a "quaint-type" downtown.

NO TOURIST TRAP

Slocum is careful to point out, however, that the corporation does not want Metamora to become a pseudo-colonial-look tourist trap.

"Our main concern is to rehabilitate the existing downtown stores, put new businesses in the several empty stores and generally develop a business center oriented basically to the village and nearby residents."

★ ★ ★

The current project of Metamora Progress is renovation of the former local supermarket. The corporation hopes to find a tenant for the old store by the end of the summer.

Slocum said Metamora Progress' main interest is not to profit, but to stimulate new life in the downtown. He added that if no interest is shown by others in finding new tenants for the vacant stores, the corporation would in time attempt to buy them up and assume the renovation and business-hunt chores itself.

Slocum is also quick to assert that the corporation is not looking for a fast sellout to a developer. He believes redevelopment of the village center is the sure way to keep developers from exploiting the "charms" of the area in the usual "hoked-up" early Americana manner.

The Metamora area may not always retain its quiet horse-country look.

★ ★ ★

Developers have admitted that the Metamora area is eyed as a ripe development plum, particularly since the Southeastern Michigan urban sprawl is continuing to expand and the area eventually will become saturated.

★ ★ ★

Places like Metamora, just outside the perimeter of the metropolitan area, then will become choice development targets, real estate men believe.

James C. Holmes, a real-estate specialist at COMAC, a Birmingham-based management firm, noted that land values have been appreciating 10 to 15 per cent annually over the past five years in Metamora Township.

★ ★ ★

"Metamora has considerable built-in appeal and tradition and, as the highways have improved, the population is bound to increase," Holmes noted.

★ ★ ★

He foresees the development of a country-estate housing environment in Metamora, with each home on about a five-acre plot.

★ ★ ★

"The opportunities for commercial development, especially small convenience-type shopping facilities, will abound in Metamora Township, Holmes believes.

W. Bloomfield School Board Elects Officers

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — A long-term board member, Jack Shuler, has been elected president of the West Bloomfield Board of Education. A board member for 10 years, Shuler was president in 1961-62.

Others elected to office at this week's meeting include Robert Carter, vice president, and Agnes Scott, secretary. Both have been on the board for two years. Earl Kreps, a third-year board member, was reelected treasurer.

Dr. C. James Lafkiotes, assistant superintendent for instruction and personnel, gave the board a progress report on the Citizens Study Committee.

The committee, organized last month, was instructed by the school board to examine the district's programs and facilities and judge their adequacy.

AREAS OF STUDY

A steering committee, headed by Joseph Harris of 6169 Northfield, has been formed to decide which areas should be approached and how.

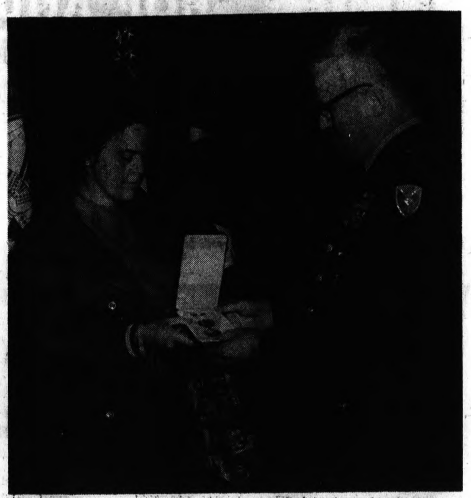
Possible areas to be considered, according to Lafkiotes, include growth and budget, history, curriculum, and the comparison between achievements of the district students and qualifications of the instructors when compared to those from other districts.

★ ★ ★

He also said that the committee would look at the traditional courses in terms of the needs of students who graduate in or around the year 2,000 to see what changes will be needed.

★ ★ ★

Areas to be considered include urban problems, 20th century ethics and morals, social conflicts, philosophy of sciences and opportunities for gifted children.



WIDOW RECEIVES MEDAL — Mrs. Donald P. Evans receives the Distinguished Service Cross, the nation's second highest medal for valor, from Maj. Gen. Shelton E. Follis of the Tank Automotive Command in Warren. Mrs. Evans' husband was killed in action in Vietnam Nov. 20, 1968.

Oxford Wife Given Medal for Dead Hero Husband

OXFORD — The wife of an Oxford man killed in Vietnam has been given the Distinguished Service Cross posthumously awarded him in a ceremony at the Tank Automotive Command in Warren.

EVANS

Receiving the medal was Mrs. Donald P. Evans of 1377 Indian Lake, Orion Township.

★ ★ ★

Evans was killed Nov. 20, 1968, in action with the 1st Cavalry Division. His acts before his death won him the award. The Distinguished Service Cross is the nation's second highest awarded for gallantry in action.

A resident of Oxford and graduate of Oxford High School, Evans entered the service on March 18, 1968, the day after he married his wife, Sharon.

Evans' heroism is described by the Army: "... while serving as a point man during a reconnaisance-in-force mission in a dense bamboo jungle near Landing Zone Jake, Pvt. Evans detected an enemy ambush and immediately warned his company. The unit attempted to flank the North Vietnamese soldiers, who were entranched in a well-camouflaged and heavily fortified bunker complex.

"Fearlessly leading one of the flanking elements and braving automatic weapons fire, he spearheaded an aggressive assault against the hostile positions. Moving ahead of the other troops, Pvt. Evans single-handedly destroyed four bunkers with rifle fire and genades, allowing the balance of the company to advance until it became pinned down by three adversaries in a camouflaged bunker.

"Unmindful of his safety, he immediately charged the position and forced the enemy to retreat. As he continued to pursue the communists, he was mortally wounded by sniper fire.

"Pvt. Evans' extraordinary heroism and devotion to duty, at the cost of his life, were in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service . . ."

Stony Creek Park Enters Its 6th Year of Operation

The Huron Clinton Metropolitan Authority's sprawling Stony Creek Metropolitan park moved into its sixth year of operation this week.

The 3,500-acre park is located about four miles northeast of Rochester in the southwest corner of Oakland Township, extending into northwestern Macomb County. It opened on July 8, 1964.

More than 60,000 persons visited the largely undeveloped park in its first year. Attendance reached 1.4 million in 1968 and is expected to exceed that figure this year.

William Tait, park superintendent at Stony Creek, said the park was opened in 1964 despite the fact that only limited facilities could be offered for a few years.

He noted the park has required 10 years of planning and land acquisition prior to its opening, including four years of intensive construction.

When it opened, expenditures for Stoney Creek park had reached $5 million including land acquisition. Two dams were constructed to impound Stony Creek to form a 600-acre man-made lake.

★ ★ ★

About $2 million has been spent for improvements with additional facilities made possible through federal or state funds granted on a matching basis with Huron Clinton Metropolitan Authority Funds.

★ ★ ★

In 1964, only dirt roads led to the entrance at the north end of the park. A divided paved highway leading west 2½ miles from the M53 freeway now provides easy access to the main park entrance which is now located at the southern section of the park along 26 Mile Road.

Other improvements include the addition of a Visitor Center building, the building of four new picnic areas, paving of roadways and parking spaces at Baypoint Beach and picnic areas, construction of comfort stations and the redesign and expansion of a small-boat launching site.

NEW PROJECTS

Current improvement projects include underwater grading and construction of parking lots and roadways at a second bathing site, Eastwood Beach, which is scheduled to open in 1970. A beachhouse is also under construction.

★ ★ ★

Stony Creek Metropolitan Park is one of eight parks operated by the Huron Clinton Authority. The larger sites include Metropolitan Beach near Mt. Clemens, Kensington Park near Milford, Hudson Mills near Ann Arbor and Lower Huron Metropolitan Park near Belleville.

GETTING POPULAR — An aerial view shows the layout of Baypoint Beach along the man-made Stony Creek Lake in Stony Creek Metropolitan Park. Visitors are making increasingly heavy use of the beach and accompanying bathhouse facility.

Car-Train Crash Kills 2 Youths

LAPEER — Two Elba Township teens were killed yesterday in a train-car collision here.

Killed instantly in the 12:27 p.m. accident, was driver Joey P. Teays, 16, of 69 Sterling. Passenger Robert Fisher, 18, of 380 Lake Nepessing died two hours later in Flint's Hurley Hospital, a victim of multiple fractures and concussions.

★ ★ ★

According to Lapeer police reports, the boys' car slammed into the side of a northbound Penn-Central freight train crossing DeMille, between Saginaw and Main.

There is no crossing gate or warning flasher at the railroad tracks, police said, but the engineer had sounded the whistle. The auto hit the wheels of the car directly behind the engine.

★ ★ ★

Police said DeMille Road with a 35-miles-per-hour speed limit — did not have heavy traffic at the time of the accident. Officers reported finding 178-foot skid marks at the scene.

Walled Lake, Novi in Line for $2.3 Million

Walled Lake and Novi are in line for a $2.3-million chunk of the state's water pollution bond money to put into their porposed joint $9-million sanitary sewer system.

These cities are among 54 pegged for funds from the $335-million water pollution bonds in a resolution currently awaiting House consideration.

The Senate passed the measure 28-1 yesterday authorizing the release of some $70.1 million of $285 million in bond money earmarked for aid to local units constructing sewage treatment plants.

A companion measure, setting up methods for allocating the remaining $50 million for local units for construction of connecting sewers, was moved into position for final vote in the upper chamber. The House has passed that bill already.

The resolution includes a priority project list compiled by the State Water Resources Commission. Projects totaling an estimated $133.2 million — to be financed with federal and local funds and some 50 per cent state money — are outlined.

The $2.3 million allocated to Walled Lake and Novi will be used to install the trunk lines and lateral pipes.

Dual School Election for Troy Bond Issue

TROY — The board of education wants no likelihood of a court challenge in the July 28 bond issue vote.

To avoid it, there will be two simultaneous elections — one for property owners and another for non-property owners. Both groups will vote separately but equally under the Troy plan, with two majorities necessary for a decision — a plurality of the property-owner vote and a plurality of the combined vote.

The move was recommended at a recent school board meeting by the board's bonding attorneys — Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone.

The legal firm pointed out that in two cases, in Louisiana and New York, the state supreme courts have upheld suits that found prohibitions against non-property owners voting on bond issues unconstitutional.

Michigan's laws, like those of Louisiana and New York, provide certain restrictions against non-property owners' voting on school bonds and issues.

To prevent a court tie-up — and a subsequent stalling of the $7.2 million of school construction bonds — the Troy Board of Education concurred with their attorneys' recommendations for the dual election.

The bond issue will not increase the tax rate for debt. It will build a new elementary school, pay for additions to existing elementary and junior high schools, and additions to Troy High School including a swimming pool to expand the physical education program.

The money also would be used for site improvements including drainage, grading, paving and seeding.

Leader of Unit Withdrawn From Viet Defends Reconstitution

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (AP) — The commander of the first U.S. troop unit withdrawn from Vietnam says the substitution of 650 men from other battalions for the trip home was a just move by the Army.

The returning 3rd Battalion, 60th Infantry of the 9th Infantry Division included 788 men, but only 138 were original battalion members. The rest were men near the end of their one-year tours of duty who were transferred into the 3rd from other units.

"In fairness to the individual soldier it was decided that those who had been there the longest would go home first," Lt. Col. Peter B. Petersen of Arlington, Va., the 3rd's commander, said Wednesday.

"Suppose my battalion as constituted did go home. Consider the reaction of an adjacent battalion which had people who had been there 11½ months when they saw people going home after one or two months of their tour."

Petersen, 36, had completed 8½ months of his own tour of Vietnam duty and will return to Southeast Asia Sunday to join the 9th Division staff.

His views were seconded by Sgt. John Griest, 24, of Hollywood, Pa., who was a member of the 3rd Battalion throughout his 11 months in Vietnam.

"I feel it was about the fairest way they could have done it," said Griest. "No matter what way they do it, some guys are going to be hurt or disappointed."

The substitution of men from other units caused some bitterness among displaced members of the 3rd Battalion.

'KIDDING THE PUBLIC'

First Lt. Paul Caputo of Brooklyn, N.Y., told a reporter in Dong Tam, South Vietnam, "They are just kidding the public, telling folks the 3rd Battalion is going home when in fact only the colors and standards are going home."

Among the actual returnees Tuesday, length of service in Vietnam ranged from 10 to 23 months.

★ ★ ★

Whatever units they served with, however, they got a heroes' welcome on their arrival at nearby McChord Air Force Base and more of the same was in store for them.

An eight-block parade through downtown Seattle today winds up at a reviewing stand in front of the public library, with Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor heading the list of dignitaries.

After that the men were invited to be guests at a salmon bake, complete with gallons of beer, to be thrown by Seattle civic organizations.

The Army said all returnees would be on their way home within two hours of their arrival back at the post from Seattle. Officers said 138 of them are due for discharge. The rest will be reassigned in the United States after 30 days leave.

140 Miles to Go

Oarsman Crosses Ocean

MIAMI (AP) — Sea-going adventurer John Fairfax faced the prospect of tangling with the swift currents of the Gulf Stream today as he neared the end of his transatlantic trip by rowboat.

Vigorous, smiling and trim, the 31-year-old oarsman dropped anchor Wednesday 140 miles east of Miami for a rest and a brief visit with photographers who landed in a seaplane near his 24-foot craft, the Britannia.

★ ★ ★

But, he said, "I'd like to have a drink." He was given a soft drink.

His boat was a bright orange when Fairfax left the Canary Islands Jan. 20 on an attempt to become the first man to row across the Atlantic. Wednesday the craft's color was faded and bleached, but apparently still seaworthy.

Fairfax, who describes himself as a "professional adventurer," said "I dream of beautiful girls all night while I row."

★ ★ ★

The 5-foot-6, 150-pound oarsman said he would attempt to ride the flow of the Gulf Stream northwesterly to Miami, possibly arriving late this weekend.

★ ★ ★

He planned to remain at anchor off Andros Island until late today, resting for the final leg of his journey.

ADVENTURER EXTRAORDINAIRE—British oarsman John Fairfax raises his oars above his head yesterday when he was located some 140 miles southeast of Miami, Fla. Fairfax has rowed and drifted in his 24-foot boat more than 3,000 miles across the Atlantic after leaving the Canary Islands last January.

School 'Sex' Stirs Public

This business of sex education in the schools seems lately to have reached the proportions of a national controversy not unlike the one over Communists in the State Department a decade and a half ago.

Educators and lawmakers in state after state have been under pressure from various groups and individuals either to eliminate sex education programs already established or not to begin them at all.

★ ★ ★

In Louisiana a few weeks ago, the legislature overwhelmingly passed a bill prohibiting any form of sex instruction below the ninth grade, and prohibiting it above the 9th grade unless approved by the state board of education and the parent of each individual student.

★ ★ ★

Even this measure was too lenient for one legislator, who was quoted as saying, "We don't need no sex education in our schools."

Another legislator stated, "We keep alcohol and tobacco away from children until they're over 17 and we ought to keep this mess away from them, too."

The only trouble with this reasoning is that while laws may help to keep alcohol and tobacco away from children, they cannot keep from them the knowledge of the existence of such things.

★ ★ ★

If the analogy were valid, we ought also to ban the teaching of anything about the dangers and consequences of the use of alcohol and tobacco. But no one argues that children must be kept in ignorance about these temptations until some arbitrarily set age of "liberation."

★ ★ ★

The fact is, of course, that no law can prevent sex education. If it does not take place in the home (and in many homes it does not) and if it is not to be permitted to take place in the classroom, that leaves only the street corner. And in that school of life, sex education is invariably miseducation.

Our Days Seen Numbered

When the military does anything, it does it by the numbers—and numbers are something it has plenty of.

Each member of the armed forces has a serial number, plus a social security number (as a taxpaying citizen) and a military occupational classification number.

In hopes of cutting down on some of their massive paper work, easing the load on computers that handle pay records and providing "speedy and direct data interchange" between offices, the Army and Air Force are putting the records on incoming personnel under social security numbers instead of the traditional serial numbers.

★ ★ ★

As of July 1, each new recruit will be assigned his own social security number, or a new one if he doesn't already have one, upon his arrival at the reception center. The Navy is slated to follow with this procedure in 1970 and the Marine Corps in 1971.

★ ★ ★

The Internal Revenue Service identifies each taxpayer with his social security number. Now the services will. Banks and credit card users have long talked of doing the same.

The time may not be far off when each newborn baby will be issued a lifetime dog tag bearing his own number, good for registering in school, for driving a car, for making purchases, for writing a check, for going to war, for paying taxes, for collecting a pension and undoubtedly, for reserving a final resting place in a cemetery.

Cost of Beefing Beefed Up

Congressional correspondence has been running hot and heavy this session. A lot of letters from the folks back home have been inspired by concern over taxes, inflation and government spending, including no doubt, the 41 per cent pay raise Congress voted for itself. Some congressmen complained they were being swamped by the volume of mail.

The result: The House of Representatives has authorized the hiring of 535 extra clerks, one for every member. The cost: $3.8 million a year.

Saigon Supports Gradual U.S. Pullout

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — It can be stated with assurance that the Thieu government in Saigon believes the time is now ripe for a gradual withdrawal of all U.S. combat troops and their replacement with Vietnamese units.

CROMLEY

This information comes from contacts in Saigon in the confidence of the highest circles of the Vietnamese government.

The Vietnamese believe this gradual withdrawal is desirable for three reasons:

- To meet the desires of American public opinion.
- To ease the problems caused in Vietnam by the continued presence of large numbers of foreign troops.
- To meet the needs of South Vietnamese nationalism and national pride essential to the building of a stable, independent nation.

AT MAXIMUM

It is known the Saigon government believes that given the right circumstances, 50,000 to 75,000 U.S. troops can leave before the end of 1969.

By the end of 1970, assuming things go right, the withdrawal of another 100,000 U.S. troops might be possible without danger to the safety of South Vietnam.

★ ★ ★

All this would add up to about 160,000 men, all the actual U.S. combat troops on the ground in South Vietnam.

It is assumed in these calculations that in a goodly number of cases each U.S. unit will be replaced by two or three South Vietnamese units.

HIGHLY TENTATIVE

These figures on the rate of American withdrawal are highly tentative, of course.

They depend in part on Hanoi's military plans, part on the rapidity with which improvements can be made in the South Vietnamese army, navy and air force, and part on how much military backup and support the United States is prepared to give the South Vietnamese forces.

An essential part of the program, as the Vietnamese see it, is that the United States be prepared, so long as the war continues and no peace settlement is reached, to back up the South Vietnamese infantry with strong air, artillery, naval, communications, logistics and other technical support and to supply the South Vietnamese with the arms, equipment and supplies to make them superior in these respects to their North Vietnamese and Vietcong foes.

★ ★ ★

It can be said authoritatively the only Vietnamese concern in carrying out this program will come if Saigon begins to believe that the heavy reduction in U.S. forces will lead in turn to a U.S. reluctance to give the air, naval, artillery and logistical and technical support and financial aid they feel they must have to continue their defense in the absence of a peace agreement.

★ ★ ★

That is, they don't want to be deserted and they worry that there may be a connection between the numbers of U.S. troops and American support.

Okay, Start Prying!

David Lawrence Says:

Nixon Administration Not Idle

WASHINGTON — A lot of criticism has been uttered by Democrats in Congress that the country is witnessing a "do - nothing" administration.

LAWRENCE

President Nixon and his Cabinet have been charged with failing to furnish Congress with important legislative proposals that could have been acted on in the last six months.

It is true that hardly any major legislation has been enacted.

★ ★ ★

If the subject is examined more closely, it will be found, however, that constructive activity has also been going on during the last six months in the executive branch of the government. For when an administration changes, the incoming president and his cabinet must familiarize themselves with each problem and get a picture from the inside before they can concentrate on how to make improvements in established practices.

The executive branch of the government under President Nixon is in fact a "work-hard" administration.

THOROUGH ANALYSIS

It is reluctant to act impulsively or come to conclusions without a thorough analysis of the merits of the pro-and-con of controversial subjects. This takes time.

Not long ago, a group of 23 Republicans from the House of Representatives went around the country to find out firsthand something about the campus riots.

★ ★ ★

They brought back a lot of interesting information which was presented in a report to the President. This is the kind of contact that could be made on other kinds of governmental problems, too.

While each house has committees which specialize in particular subjects, not many members of either house can find the time to read thoroughly all the printed reports.

PREOCCUPATION

This is due not to a lack of interest on the part of congressmen, but to a preoccupation with problems from their home states or districts or with a specialized subject or two dealt with by the committees on which they serve.

★ ★ ★

If each house could send around the country a group of 20 members and if each group could spend a few weeks studying a particular topic, the information gathered would be invaluable to Congress.

Members who go back to their own districts or states too often find themselves importuned for jobs or favors.

★ ★ ★

Special groups really could learn what the American people are thinking about.

Government is a far more difficult operation than it has ever been at any time heretofore in American history. For the growth of population to more thas 200 million has created problems.

Bob Considine Says:

Apollo 11 Trio Interview Was Pure Press Prattle

NEW YORK — The Apollo 11 astronauts must have felt like leaving for the moon then and there during that preposterous press conference at Houston — anything to get away from the most asinine collection of interrogators ever gathered under one roof. Here are some samples:

CONSIDINE

Would Neil Armstrong please tell all those folks out there in videoland whether he planned to shave before setting foot on the moon?

★ ★ ★

Was lying on top of that 36-story rocket, waiting for it to blast off, something like being in a dentist's waiting room? (This searching question either blew a fuse in the communications system or between the press and the men in their germproof enclosure, or the astronauts were too stunned to answer. So it had to be repeated—as if once wasn't awful enough.)

Where would Armstrong like to go for a vacation on earth after returning from the moon?

And so forth.

LAW OF AVERAGES

The law of averages saved the final preflight interview from utter meaninglessness. Bill Hines, one of the best reporters in the space business, was able to slip a question in among the prattling queries of British, German and Japanese journalists.

Bill asked Armstrong if he had chosen something to say to the peoples of the world as he steps on the moon.

The commander of the historic flight — physically and mentally the perfect spaceman — said he had not. But from the look he gave Bill he seemed to be saying: "I'll go to work on that right now."

And there was one exchange that was sobering as anything that ever oozed through the boob tube. The question, in effect, was: "What will happen if you can't get off the surface of the moon?"

FINAL SOLUTION

Astronauts Buzz Aldrin and Mike Collins, good tough military men, deferred to the civilian.

"We would be left without recourse," Armstrong said, ever so simply.

★

Armstrong impresses me as another John Glenn. So do Aldrin and Collins. They were chosen a long time ago, as years in the space age are measured, by Dr. Robert Gilruth and original astronauts Deke Slayton and Alan Shepard and NASA doctors.

They look and talk as if they were ordered from central casting. Just as Lindbergh was ordered. Or Lincoln. Or John F. Kennedy.

Reader States Opinion on Extension of Surtax

After listening to the remarks of Representative Gerald Ford about "the great victory for the American people in passing the extension of the surtax," it is plain to see what our elected officials have in mind—to extract every last cent from the people who work for a living.

Why are so many forced to seek overtime, hold two jobs, or put their wives to work? The crushing tax burden of this area is insupportable. Everyone should take the time and effort to find out how his congressional representative voted and remember this when he goes to the polls.

PGH Employe Concerned About Euler

As an employe of Pontiac General Hospital, I feel Mr. Euler's dismissal was shocking. Take a good look at all the good things he has done for Pontiac General. He has taken us out of the red and put us up high on the ladder of success. Our hospital has never had or never will have an administrator like Mr. Euler.

As for the so-called Commissioners' meeting of June 24, we presented a petition, only to have it filed away. At the July 1 meeting, we were overlooked as if we didn't exist.

It is two weeks since his firing and Mr. Euler hasn't even had a chance to ask why or defend his reputation. It is pretty bad when the top official can get fired without a reason.

Question and Answer

If they're going to demolish part of the church on East Huron and Mill to widen the street, why did they put a parking lot and meters in that block behind the church?

NORTHERNER

REPLY

Contractors who are working on the Michigan Bell Telephone building needed space for their equipment, and asked to use part of the city lot east of Michigan Bell. So drivers wouldn't be deprived of parking space during construction, the contractors agreed to pay the cost of having that lot graded and meters re-located.

Question and Answer

Whom may I contact, if anyone, to help start raising funds for the stadium to be built in Pontiac? I'd very much like to help.

DEBBIE GODOSHIAN
295 DRAPER

REPLY

Harold Cousins, chairman of the Stadium Building Authority, was very pleased by your concern. However, he says financing for the stadium would be through revenue bonds, with no need for donations or tax moneys. He urges everyone interested to continue trying to impress on others that this is the ideal location. You might also write to William Clay Ford, owner of the Lions, and John Fetzer, owner of the Tigers, to let them know that Pontiac enthusiastically endorses a stadium here.

Senator Reviews Election Figures

By EVERETT DIRKSEN

It is both interesting and exciting to go back and examine the election figures that were tallied over that period of time in our governmental progress when a workable and growing two-party system existed in this country. The researcher will take note of the voter reaction at the different quadrennial elections as it pertained to voting for a President and for members of the Congress.

DIRKSEN

The high point in voter plurality was reached in 1964 when Lyndon B. Johnson received a plurality of nearly 16 million votes. That massive landslide of votes brought about the re-election of Republican and Democratic senators who were then members of the Senate.

There was actually a change of only two votes in the Senate, and in the House of Representatives in the 89th Congress there was a change of 38 seats when the Republicans were losers by that many votes.

★ ★ ★

Probably the smallest change that ever took place in a national election was when James A. Garfield was elected as a Republican President in 1876 and the 45th Congress came into being. Garfield's plurality for the entire country was only 9,457 votes. In that year, a tie developed in the Senate with 37 Republicans and 37 Democrats. Two senators were identified with other parties. The election accounted for a loss of six Democratic Senate seats and a gain of four Republican Senate seats.

What must be the most devasting election that the country has seen was in 1936 when Franklin Delano Roosevelt ran for a second term. His plurality in the country was 11 million votes, and when the smoke of the one-sided battle cleared away the Republicans were found to have elected 17 senators as against 36 in 1932, and 56 in 1928.

The Democratic Party, on the other hand, jumped its membership in the Senate from 47 in 1930 to 69 in 1934, and then to 75 in 1936. That made the ratio in the Senate less than 3 to 1. The ratio was equally unbalanced in the House of Representatives, where in 1930 the Republicans had a majority of 218, only to drop in 1936 to 89.

And while looking back I am reminded that those were the days when Republicans were twitted with the paraphrased observation — "As Maine goes, so goes Vermont," and cracks like the one that said the Republican Party had been reduced to such dimensions that it could hold its conventions in a telephone booth.

★ ★ ★

In the second election of President Abraham Lincoln in 1864, his plurality for the entire country, consisting then of 26 states, was 414,000. He was confronted, however, with a Senate that was overwhelmingly Democratic.

The election of Franklin Roosevelt in 1932 for his first term commanded a national plurality of 7 million votes that carried with it a Democratic Senate. Only a few years before, the Senate had a virtually tie vote, but the number of new Democrat senators who were elected with Mr. Roosevelt raised the party's proportion in the Senate to 59 against 36 for the Republican Party.

★ ★ ★

One of the most interesting elections occurred when John F. Kennedy was elected in 1960 by a plurality of only 113,000 votes. Yet he managed to obtain a Senate which was comprised of 64 Democrats and 36 Republicans and a House of Representatives where the ratio was 263 Democrats and 174 Republicans.

The latest available figures now indicate that President Nixon's plurality last November was 224,197 votes. At the same time, the Senate still remains substantially Democratic by a vote of 58 to 42, and in the House the membership consists of 243 Democrats and 192 Republicans. Thus the voters elected a Republican President and a Democratic majority in both houses of Congress.

Weekly War Toll Is Down

1st Marines Pulled Out of Viet

SAIGON (AP) — The first contingent of U.S. Marines to be withdrawn from Vietnam flew to Okinawa today as military spokesmen reported the lowest weekly number of American battle deaths in almost six months.

The Marines left with none of the fanfare accorded departing U.S. infantrymen three days ago. An advance party of 120 Leatherpecks of the 9th Regiment departed from Quang Tri, a base 20 miles south of the demilitarized zone, in two four-engined transports.

They included 60 combat troops of the 1st Battalion and the rest payroll and administrative personnel who will prepare for arrival of the main body of the 8,000-man regiment expected in Okinawa within the next few weeks. The rest of the 1st Battalion will leave in a few days, spokesmen said.

U.S. headquarters said 153 Americans were killed in action last week, the lowest death toll since the week ending Jan. 11 when 151 U.S. personnel were killed.

RELATIVE LULL

Spokesmen said the relative lull in combat activity accounted for the marked decrease from the preceding week's toll of 241 Americans, and from the weekly average of 243 American dead in the first 26 weeks this year.

Another 1,548 Americans were wounded last week—772 of them hospitalized—compared to 1,674 the previous week.

South Vietnamese casualties and the number of enemy dead reflected similar drops—274 government troops killed and 586 wounded last week compared with 446 killed and 804 wounded the previous week, and 2,381 enemy killed compared with 3,485 the previous week.

The new casualty reports raised to 37,019 the number of Americans killed in action in Vietnam since Jan. 1, 1961, 238,147 wounded and 4,325 listed as missing, captured or interned. For the same period the U.S. Command lists 526,085 enemy dead.

The figures were released a few hours after the first contingent of 9th Regiment Marines left Vietnam.

Phooey, Says Maddox to School Edict

By the Associated Press

A new federal warning to the State of Georgia and the City of Chicago on school desegregation has drawn a sharp retort from Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox, while Chicago school officials deny their faculties are segregated.

"As far as I'm concerned, they can take their ultimatum and ram it in their satchels if they want to," Maddox told an Atlanta news conference Wednesday. "Phooey on the whole crowd!"

* * *

In Chicago, the city's school board president, Frank M. Whiston, and Schools Supt. James F. Redmond said, in a joint statement, "We have never practiced segregation of faculty in Chicago, but we have permitted seniority of choice of schools by our teachers."

Asst. U.S. Atty. Gen. Jerris Leonard warned Wednesday in Washington that the government would press lawsuits against Georgia and Chicago unless they move to end public school desegregation.

It was the third day in a row that the Justice Department acted to end school desegregation, and the 10th and 11th warnings issued in that time.

The Georgia warning, in a letter to the state superintendent of education, Jack P. Nix, demanded a "complete disestablishment" of dual schools for white and black pupils in the state's 194 school districts. Ninety-seven are now considered in compliance with federal guidelines on desegregation.

S. Viet Premier Has Eye Surgery

SAIGON (AP) — Premier Tran Van Huong of South Vietnam was reported recovering from eye surgery and resuming work today at his official residence.

Huong, 65, left his office a week ago to undergo treatment for his eyes. Informants said he had been operated on by American doctors and that the surgery apparently corrected his ailment, glaucoma.

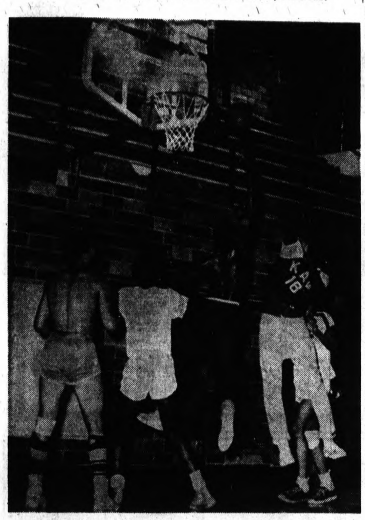
Y Reaches Out to Needy Young

"There are children living in Pontiac who have never been out of the city," says David Barker, assistant director of the YMCA Urban Outreach Program.

The program aims to reach these youngsters, providing a kind of traveling drop-in center or transporting them to existing city recreational facilities including the YMCA, he said.

For the city's disadvantaged youth between the ages of 10 to 16, summer recreation is limited to whatever is in walking distance, Barker says. Sometimes, that's not much, he adds.



Pontiac Press Photo

URBAN OUTREACH — Young men from the target area of the YMCA Urban Outreach program, organized into teams by director Ed Pruitt, find basketball an exciting summer sport.

Began three weeks ago, the YMCA summer program is an experimental pilot project to extend the YMCA into the community and serve as a liaison between target-area youth and existing service programs.

PONTIAC CENTRAL GRAD

The Urban Outreach program is headed by Ed Pruitt, a 20-year-old junior at George Williams College, Chicago. He is a 1966 graduate of Pontiac Central High School.

Barker is a sophomore at Michigan State University.

★ ★ ★

Operating on a shoestring budget, Pruitt and Barker were grateful when a local business donated a blue van for use as a Y-Mobile several weeks ago.

David Lawrence, associate executive director of program services for the Y, said the program is to last 11 weeks this summer.

SUCCESSFUL SO FAR

So far the program has met with success, reaching about 200 youths in the target area. Hopefully, plans can be made to continue Urban Outreach next year and possibly establish it on a year-round basis, Lawrence said.

"We are trying to establish contacts in key areas, determine the interests and needs of the youths, then channel them into program activities," Pruitt says.

★ ★ ★

One program activity that has already met with a successful response is the organization of basketball teams of boys from different sections of the city, he adds.

"Dave and I are trying to show the guys that there are better things to do than stand around street corners. We want them to be teen-agers, instead of old men before their time," Pruitt said.

THEY WORK TOGETHER

Lawrence says the basketball games also are important because the boys are working together as part of a group, learning that they have the power to accomplish a single goal.

The black community used to view the YMCA as a primarily white organization, Pruitt comments. "We want to let them know without a doubt that it is available for them to come and use."

Navy Takes Restrained View of Soviet Fleet Visit to Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's admirals, who have thundered for years about the growing Soviet naval challenge, are unusually restrained about a Russian squadron making a "show the flag" voyage to Cuba.

* * *

Sources indicated one reason stems from a State Department desire to treat the Soviet naval move in low key, to avoid a Moscow blast against U.S. fleet operations in international waters adjoining Russian territory.

Two U.S. destroyers last month cruised the Black Sea for four days to demonstrate this country's right to sail there.

* * *

American fleet units also concentrated in the Sea of Japan, a few hundred miles from Vladivostok, during crises growing out of the North Korean seizure of the U.S.S. Pueblo and the downing of a Navy reconnaissance plane.

Asked for his assessment of the voyage of seven Russian naval vessels toward Cuba, Adm. Thomas Moorer, chief of naval operations, limited himself to this statement: "Naturally, the United States Navy is interested in the movement of Soviet Naval ships to Cuba, and Atlantic fleet units will conduct routine surveillance of these ships during their transit.

* * *

"This surveillance is normal in nature. Our Navy carries out similar surveillance of Soviet units in other parts of the world, just as is the case with the Soviets' observance of our deployed ships."

* * *

This had a much tamer sound than Moorer's warning to Congress earlier this year "We are confronted by a formidable and expanding threat to our supremacy at sea" from the Soviet navy.

Moorer has sounded the same theme in public speeches.

Repeatedly, Moorer and other admirals have noted with concern the Russian build up of a formidable naval force in the Mediterranean, their cruise into Indian Ocean waters where they never before were seen, and the extension of their submarine and surface operations far into the Pacific and the Atlantic.

* * *

The Soviet voyage, described by Russia as "a friendly visit" to Communist Cuba from July 20 to 27, comes at a time when the Senate is debating a defense bill containing authorization for the Navy's shipbuilding program.

* * *

Some backers of the Navy are hoping the Russian voyage will remind the Senate of past warnings by the admirals that the Soviet Union is ominously extending its seaward reach.

* * *

The Russian ships are traveling in two groups, last reported by U.S. patrol planes as at least 600 miles away from the U.S. East Coast.

Licensing Post

LANSING (AP) — Charles Harmon, director of the Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulation, has been elected a vice president of the Council on Occupational Licensing (a national group of state licensing officials). The 1970 council conference will be held in Michigan. The date and location has not yet been set.

Auto Makers, Dealer at Odds

WASHINGTON (AP) —A car dealer told Congress Wednesday that meaningful price competition exists only at the retail level.

A representative of car manufacturers said there was intensive price competition among the makers as well as at the retail level.

They testified before a Senate small business subcommittee that is studying the role of giant corporations in the economy.

"Americans, ever suspicious of concentrated political power, have permitted concentrations of economic power to develop, substantially unchallenged, that would make a Roman emperor gasp," said Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., the subcommittee chairman.

Raphael Cohen, a car dealer in Yonkers, N.Y., said the top three auto manufacturers are threatening a take-over of the retail market, where usually dealers operate with franchises.

"The last bastion of price competition for the consumer lies in the independent franchise system," Cohen said. "I foresee in the future trading stamps and games as the only method of competition when the big three have complete and final control of all retail sales."

Thomas C. Mann, president of the Automobile Manufacturers Association, said he understood that the car makers want to get out of dealerships as fast as they can.

110 Area Scouts to Head West

About 110 Boy Scouts and adult leaders from Clinton Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America, will leave this weekend for Scouting's Seventh National Jamboree, July 16-22 at Farragut State Park, Idaho.

The local contingent includes two Jamboree troops of 64 young men and five leaders and the band of Troop 389 of Nardin Park Methodist Church, Farmington, and its four leaders.

* * *

Members of the Council's two Jamboree troops will leave at 11 a.m. Saturday by bus from the Pontiac Mall for Chicago, where they will board a special jamboree train.

Some 42,000 persons are expected to attend the National Jamboree.

Major activities include opening and closing arena shows, archery, hiking, fishing, swimming, boating, canoeing and talent shows.

PPOA Membership Irks 5 Police Supervisors

Five Pontiac police supervisors are irate about being forced to join a union representing the men they supervise when it is likely they will be excluded from that union in five months.

The five officers joined the Pontiac Police Officers' Association (PPOA) this week after receiving formal notice that they would be fired if they didn't.

The five officers weren't members of the 150-member PPOA when the association's negotiated agency shop contract went into effect May 7, according to City Personnel Director Nicholas Santiwan. It is the PPOA's first agency shop.

Now it appears police supervisors — sergeants and above — will be excluded from the bargaining union Jan. 1. Santiwan said this issue is being negotiated and hopes to have it settled soon.

SEPARATE UNION

Meanwhile, the department's 26 sergeants, lieutenants and captains are thinking about forming their own union, says Capt. Raymond Meggitt. They'll decide after they know if they've been excluded.

"If a supervisor belongs to the same organization as the man who works for him, it's harder for the supervisor to discipline him," Santiwan said in explaining the reasoning behind two unions.

★ ★ ★

One union for just employes, excluding supervisors, is traditional in industry, Santiwan says. Some police departments do have exclusion.

★ ★ ★

The five officers forced to join the union aren't objecting to paying $4 per month dues.

THE PRINCIPLE

"It's the principle of the thing," said one officer who asked not to be named. "This has been thrown at us. I've never seen the contract, and we haven't had time to check into it."

★ ★ ★

At least two of the five officers said they had no choice but to sign up. One said he was a few months away from retirement and another several months away from qualifying for his pension.

The five officers who were served notice by Santiwan last week were: Capts. Charles Gale and Fred Goines, Lt. Clayton Randolph, Sgt. Fred Worth and Patolman Thomas Gracey.

All four city unions, including the police, now have agency shop agreements, Santiwan said.

Finland Balances on Economic and Political Tightrope

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — Spring came reluctantly to Finland this year, out of key with the bouncy, summertime mood of the Finns after a tough winter.

Restaurants were filled with gay customers. The capital's streets bustled with shoppers. Though cold winds blew off a sea still strewn with ice floes, Finns bubbled over with plans to go this month to their summer cottages along the country's rocky seacoast and its thousands of lakes. They talked of the rough time shipping had this last winter negotiating the rock-strewn harbors through the thick ice.

* * *

"Pilots shouldn't have any trouble in the future," Finns laughingly remarked. "Every rock is marked by a ship."

In a way, that is true of Finland's economic and political situation. This tough little nation of 4.7 million on the Soviet Union's doorstep has gone through so many political and economic convulsions since the last war that her path by now is well marked.

AGILITY SHOWN

The Finns have shown a remarkable agility in maintaining their political and economic independence. Even so, they are keeping their fingers crossed for the future.

Behind them they have a year of steady economic recovery after being obliged to devalue their currency just 18 months ago. Exports shot up 31.3 per cent in 1968 to $1.6 billion. For the first time in a decade the nation's balance of payments showed a surplus. The figure was $77 million, against a $118-million deficit in 1967. Finland's reserves, which had been melting away, doubled and were approaching $300 million.

* * *

Economists describe 1969 as a year of growth for Finland. Forecasts point toward a 6 per cent rise in gross national production and 12 per cent in industrial investment, which declined 5 per cent in 1968.

Exceptional stabilization set in after devaluation. The inflationary spiral, which had been the curse of Finland since the wars, was brought under control. Since October the cost-of-living index has remained steady.

LABOR-INDUSTRY DEAL

Stabilization was achieved through controlled development and a general belt-tightening and resulted primarily from a deal struck among labor, industry and the government. What it amounted to was agreement to keep waga increases within the framework of increased productivity in return for the government's promise to hold the line on prices.

But the government's powers to control prices end Dec. 31. Finns are beginning to ask, "What then?"

Some feel there might be a psychological reaction among the workers — they could feel that they have a reward coming in the way of a substantially bigger pay packet after the hold-down. This, coupled with a possible overheating of the economy and political maneuvering associated with the coming parliamentary elections next March, could upset the hard-won stability.

The election campaign promises to be hard fought. Local elections last autumn registered a swing to the right with non-Socialists who dominate the present Coalition government. This compared with a 51-to-49 per cent poll in favor of the Socialists four years earlier. Biggest losers were the Communists-moderates in the party were openly critical of the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

UNEMPLOYMENT LINGERS

Finland still hasn't licked a stubborn unemployment problem. Latest figures show approximately 74,000 Finns out of work, although the number now is slowly beginning to decline. Worst-hit atreas of Finland are in the north and northeast where the postwar work of harnessing water power now has been completed and farming, except perhaps for cattle raising, doesn't pay. A traveler through the area will find farm after farm deserted. Industry hasn't yet been able to absorb enough of the farm workers leaving the land.

Finland over the years has followed a policy of steadily improving postwar relations with the Soviet Union while at the same time sticking to a straightforward neutrality line in foreign relations.

* * *

"We're more neutral than the Swedes," Finnish diplomats like to emphasize these days when Sweden has come under fire from some Americans for its stance on Vietnam.

Finns who have had to deal with the Russians say that over the last decade their relationship has moved along in a "routine and corerct" way even when questions arise on which the two countries have differing views, such as Czechoslovakia.

PRIVATE MEETINGS

President Urho Kekkonen has had at least 12 official and private meetings with the Soviet leadership. Kekkonen has met privately with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin twice within the last eight months.

Finnish diplomats suggest that the eplanation for the frequent meetings is simple — Kokkonen, they say, probably is the only Western statesman whom the Russians really trust. Thus,, whenever there is a significant international development — such as Charles de Gaulle's departure — the Soviet leadership comes out of its Kremlin isolation to exchange views with Kekkonen and get a Western interpretation.

Through the years of war and reparations there has been one unchanging factor about Finland in the eyes of the West and particularly the United States — Finland is one country which pays her debts.

Finland for all practical purposes has paid off the World War I loan through which she earned her good name, and still is regularly meeting installments on U.S. loans from 1923 and the 1940s.

Washington has given recognition of this by setting aside annually around $357,000 from the repayments for a scholarship fund. Some 30 to 40 Finnish graduate students travel each year to America for a year's study. The fund also helps provide Finnish universities with scientific literature, textbooks and technical equipment. Since 1950, when the program started, 2,264 scholarships have been awarded.

"The scheme nourishes a true feeling for the United States in Finland, perhaps more than in any other Nordic country," commented one beneficiary. "It creates good will, fosters a true cultural relationship. It's perhaps the best thing ever done to bind the two countries."

S. Africa Dog Patrol Going Airborne Now

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — The crack dog corps of the South African police has a bite that is definitely worse than its bark.

Any number of criminals can ruefully attest to the truth of this statement.

* * *

The dogs, Alsatians, have been so successful in aiding in the battle against crime that police believe they have cut down the use of firearms in making arrests or halting fleeing suspects.

For the past seven years dozens of dogs have been trained for patrols in urban areas and for tracking in the country districts — all of them taught to sniff out marijuana, to help in rescue work and in detection of mines.

EXPERIMENTS BEGUN

Now, says Col. Andries Brink, commander of the Dog School at Pretoria, experiments are under way with airborne parachute patrols in which dogs will be dropped in inaccessible areas where criminals have often thought themselves safe from pursuit.

Heading the experiment is Constable Anthony Prinsloo and his dog "Prins."

In all the practice jumps so far the dog has shown no fear, even in leaping from the open door of a light aircraft at the command of and in company with his handler.

Prinsloo and the dog use the same two parachutes but there is an emergency chute for Prins in event of a break in the line joining him to his handler. This parachute opens automatically.

IN ROUGH TERRAIN

According to Brink, a unit of parachute dogs will be able to accomplish much in heavy bushveld or mountainous terrain where the police are hampered by transport difficulties. They will be specifically directed against marijuana growers and cattle rustlers who operate in remote areas and on the slopes of the Drakensberg Mountains.

South African police have awarded a number of decorations to police dogs.

The most recent went to "Caro" who pursued an armed, escaped convict through dense tropical bush. Although wounded, the dog sprang into a tree where the convict was hiding, brought him down and held him.

* * *

In Durban when a mob of 2,500 packed the streets and refused to disperse on police orders a call went out for the dog corps. Two dogs arrived with their handlers. The crowd jeered. The handlers said:

"Blaf" (bark). The crowd surged forward.

"Brom" (growl). Someone swung at a policeman with a stick.

"Byt!" (bite!). The crowd moved back, and within an hour the streets were cleared.

General Electric 16 lb. capacity completely automatic washer specially priced

$189

Here are 7 good reasons why this G.E. is a great value:

1—Big, 16-lb. capacity washes more clothes at a time; cutting down on number of loads

2—has 3 water-saver load selections

3—Three wash/rinse temperature settings including a special cold water wash & rinse selection

4—A Permanent Press cycle that automatically cools garments with a cold water spray. Helps prevent those "set" wrinkles

5—"Delicate" selection setting shortens wash time to protect fine fabrics and sheers

6—Extra wash setting; lengthens normal cycle to give maximum washability without using extra water or detergent

7—A "soak" cycle that helps prepare heavily soiled garments for really clean laundering

Just look how much you can wash! 3 sheets, 6 bath towels, 6 pillow cases, 4 dish towels, 1 pr. pajamas, 4 undershirts, 4 pr. shorts, 4 hand towels, 2 dozen handkerchiefs. All this, and still have room to spare. Mix your load to your needs. Put in blouses, shirts, underwear, towels, dresses, aprons, wash cloths. You can save plenty of time by cutting down on the number of loads to wash, because your big-capacity G.E. washer will do more clothes at a time, and wash them clean as a whistle. The small load setting is great too for wash 'n wear and delicate fabrics. Eliminate hand washing and save more time.

BEVERLY DUFF

Bev Duff, Female Stock Broker, Hits the Top of Success Board

By JEANNE NELSON

Beverly Duff's highs and lows are no secret to the world. In fact, they're posted on the "big board" for everyone to see. But then, what stock broker worth an ounce of ticker tape would want it any other way?

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Duff certainly doesn't look much like a stock broker is supposed to look, but what she lacks in so-called image, she makes up in know-how. During our interview at her desk in the Birmingham offices of Goodbody & Company, she switched with practiced ease from talk of family and fashion to closing quotes of that day.

★ ★ ★

How does a woman get started along this path? Bev's first introduction into the world of finance came in the form of a teller's job at a local bank. Within a considerably short time she had risen to an administrative assistant post.

Her children, Patty, 20, Bob, 17 and Gregg, 15, along with husband, Cameron, all encouraged her when she was selected to take the preliminary examinations required for all stock brokers.

HECTIC PACE

From this first step things soon moved at a hectic pace, including a three-month crash course on "The Exchange" at New York University. As much as she likes pretty clothes, there was no time for shopping after a nine-to-five day class routine, several hours each evening of required reading and still more of the same during the major part of weekends.

Meanwhile, back at the family home on West Maple Road, kids and Dad managed to ease Bev's mind about the home fires with reports of newly acquired skills in the kitchen.

"My being able to take advantage of the academic opportunities offered by the company was mainly due to the cooperative and thoughtful attitude of my family," she says.

★ ★ ★

During her studies at NYU and observation of the New York Stock Exchange functions, she was the only woman in a class with students from all parts of the nation. Those same odds seem to prevail now in the Birmingham office of her company. She reports, however, that Goodbody does employ two women brokers in its Detroit office.

★ ★ ★

When asked about any difficulties with her fellow investment executives because of her sex, she replied that incidents are few and on the whole, she finds the majority accept her professionally in much the same way as one another.

HER CLIENTELE

Although she often speaks on investments before women's groups, her clientele is about evenly split between men and women.

"Housewives are the largest single group of stockholders in this country today," says Bev. "and a great many of them must rely on the judgement of others when they really should be learning the fundamentals themselves."

★ ★ ★

More and more she remarks, young professional women (most of them single and just beginning careers) are becoming small but steady market investors with an eye to the future.

Does her husband follow her advice? "You bet, says Bev, "but usually only on investments; important family decisions are handled by the man of the house."

KEEPS BUSY

Once the board is cleared for the next day's activities, Bev rushes home to prepare one of her special dishes and then it's off to some kind of school sports event that either one or both of the boys are participating in.

She'll return to the office next morning in plenty of time to skim The Wall Street Journal before the phone starts ringing.

Concern Over Sex Education

By JACQUELINE KORONA
Associated Press Writer

LANSING (AP) —"'Mother, I would so very much like to try to make a baby with Carolyn,' said Peter (5 years old) to mother.

★ ★ ★

"'Yes, but you can't do that yet you funny little boy,' said Peter's mother, laughing. 'Carolyn has no egg cells yet, and you have no sperm cells...you will have to wait until you grow up.'"

★ ★ ★

The official record of the Michigan Senate today contains that passage, read in by Sen. Gary Byker, R-Hudsonville, who joined several colleagues in revealing plans to enter a growing statewide controversy over sex education courses in Michigan elementary and secondary schools.

★ ★ ★

Byker said the quoted passage was included in a translation of a Swedish book for five- to eight-year-old children. The book, he said, currently is included in a sex education bibliography published by the State Education Department for local school use.

STUDY MATERIALS

Byker and Sen. Milton Zaagman, R-Grand Rapids, Wednesday introduced a resolution calling for a special committee study of sex education materials to be used in the state's public schools.

The proposal cites "a great amount of concern and aggravation among many parents about the sex education materials."

★ ★ ★

"There are a lot of rumors about what's in that bibliography," Zaagman said. "Let's find out once and for all if they do go beyond the bounds of good taste."

Meanwhile, Sen. Robert Huber, R-Troy, announced his intent to ask Gov. William Milliken's special commission on education reform to take up the question of sex education on a "top priority" basis.

Those who attended the board meeting on guidelines "were not a bunch of kooks who are out to destroy sex education," Huber maintained. "They're concerned."

★ ★ ★

"Ramifications (of the guidelines) will really shake up the people in your districts," he told Senate colleagues.

Huber said he would write Milliken regarding work of the commission charged with recommending education reform measures for possible implementation by the legislature this fall.

He said he also would introduce a formal resolution calling on the commission to study the question.

Governor Names Board Members

LANSING (AP) — The executive office has announced the reappointment by Gov. William Milliken of four members of the State Board of Marriage Counselors and one member of the State Labor Mediation Board.

Renamed to the Board of Marriage Counselors were Norman Robbins, of Detroit, Dr. Thomas Kirkman Jr. of Royal Oak, Dr. Aaron Rutledge of Grosse Pointe and Jack Frye of Saginaw. All will serve for new terms ending June 21, 1971.

★ ★ ★

Reappointed to the labor mediation board was Morris Milmet of Detroit, who will serve for a term ending June 30, 1972. Senate confirmation of the reappointments is required.

Belfast Woman Has Everything Except Love

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: People think we are a happy pair with nice children and a lovely home. We have many interests and lots of friends. This is only on the surface. In reality, I am only the housekeeper. My husband has no time for me. He is so busy helping Tom, Dick, and Harry. I rarely see him. My love life is almost nonexistent.

Life is so short, it's a pity to live like this, but I have made my bed. Despite our religion, I'd leave him if it weren't for the children because I know he will never change. I am sure there are other unhappy wives here. Belfast men are so unloving.

"UNHAPPY IN IRELAND"

DEAR UNHAPPY: Belfast men are no less "loving" than other men. Your complaint is universal, Madame. And the solution is so obvious, I'm surprised you haven't thought of it yourself. Stop playing the role of the abused and martyred wife, and "kill" your man with kindness.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: My husband's brother (I'll call him Danny) and his wife have separated after many years of marriage. I invited Danny to my home for Sunday dinner and he accepted. Then he called my husband at the office and asked if he could bring a date. Without asking me, my husband said he could.

When I was told of this, I let my husband know that I did not approve of it. In the first place Danny isn't divorced yet, and in the second place we have children at home and I don't think it's right for them to see their uncle with a date while he is still married.

Well, my husband insisted, telling me how depressed Danny was, etc., so I gave in, but I made sure my children weren't home that evening.

★ ★ ★

Now, my husband tells me that Danny is coming for Sunday dinner again, and he is bringing a girl. A different one! I am furious with my husband for being so wishy washy. I think it is wrong to receive a married man's dates in my home. What is your opinion?

OLD FASHIONED

★ ★ ★

DEAR OLD: I go along with you. And I also think it's inconsiderate of your husband to trap you into entertaining people you do not want in your home. It's YOUR home, too.

★ ★ ★

CONFIDENTIAL TO ELIZABETH: Tell your husband if HE'LL lose 40 pounds, YOU'LL lose 20. That way you'll have a closer relationship.

Student Musicians Perform Artistically

By BERNICE ROSENTHAL

The Meadow Brook Orchestra, under the direction of James Levine, with Jennie Tourel, mezzosoprano, presented its second concert of the season last night at the Baldwin Pavilion. After only two weeks of playing together, and one major concert already under its collective belt, these absolutely incredible young people, serious college students and a few highly talented high school seniors, played a formidable program beautifully, artistically, and with unabashed enthusiasm.

★ ★ ★

There is no need to sit back tolerantly and overlook the scratchy strings or the goofs in the brass section, because there aren't any — no weak spots anywhere. There's solid strength, beautiful tone and fine balance everywhere you listen.

With your eyes closed, so you can't see how young the musicians are, the sound is like one of the major professional orchestras. Nowhere in the country, except perhaps in Tanglewood, Mass., is there a young orchestra so accomplished and so inspired.

HANDPICKED

The students are carefully handpicked, from all over the United States. Some are on scholarship. There is a close relationship between them and their teachers, who rehearse right along with them so that the goals are always high, the rehearsal schedule backbreaking.

Levine, the musical director, who doesn't look much older than the students, is, at 26, an associate conductor of the mighty Cleveland Orchestra, with an imposing list of conducting and piano accomplishments to his credit. He is an exacting taskmaster, a perfectionist, who is able to establish such a fine rapport with his musicians that they will follow the slightest lift of an eyebrow.

★ ★ ★

The major work of the first half of the program was Mendelssohn's "Italian" Symphony. This excellent young work was played with exactness and thoughtful thoroughness. It lacked the airy, almost reckless quality that one is accustomed to hear in the symphony, but then, that is a matter of interpretation.

★ ★ ★

"Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks", and not-so-merry end at the gallows is one of Richard Strass' major tone poems for orchestra. All his powerfully descriptive scenes were delineated faithfully, from opening and closing "once upon a time" theme to his many escapades, to his lugubrious end, at the gallows—most artfully and mockingly stressed by Levine and the orchestra.

★ ★ ★

Jennie Tourel, one of the great vocal interpreters of our day, was heard in Mahler's "Songs of a Wayfarer", with bright orchestral accompaniment. Into this gracious, sweetly sad song cycle, full of the ambivalence of youth, Miss Tourel put the depth and beauty of her great artistry, her magnificent sense of timing, her faultless phrasing and perfect diction, her wonderful projection to her audience.

Even though her low register is no longer sure, and time has taken its toll of her brilliant full tone, she is a great artist, with no push and strain, but a meaningful inspired interpreter of great music.

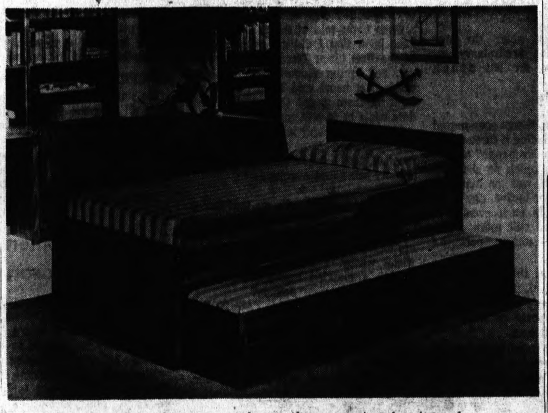
'Summer Time and the Livin' Is Easy'

Reminiscent of the furnishings of an old-fashioned ice cream parlor are these new wrought iron designs introduced at summer home furnishings markets by Lee L. Woodard Sons, Inc., Owosso. Appropriately called the "Ice Cream Set," table and chairs serve equally well for dining indoors or out. The compact pedestal table, 30 inches in diameter, is an attractive answer to furnishing an area, such as a kitchen, breakfast nook, or small patio where space is a problem. While it looks like beautifully grained oak, the table top is actually made of fiberglass and can be used out-of-doors without fear of damage from moisture. Wrought iron frames, available in 10 color finishes, are guaranteed against rust for 10 years. Line available locally.

For cool summer living, keep your rooms uncluttered and your colors light and gay. A new wool shag carpeting, Chableau by Karastan, is being shown in 24 multicolor combinations and solids; also comes as an area rug. One manufacturer of vacuum cleaners has just developed a new model unit with special settings for deep shag. Carpeting line available locally.



Put away your heavy spreads and use gay striped sheets instead during the summer. New furniture for a boy's room is "Mandalay," a new collection by Kroehler. Inspired by England's colonial past, the campaign furniture has a special finish that guards against nicks, scuffs, scratches and accidental spills like airplane glue. Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Q. Is it true that if you drink four cups of liquid a day it will keep you from losing weight?

A. No. In fact you need more liquid than that for good health. About losing weight, of course it depends on what liquid you drink. For instance, four cups of chocolate malted milk shake would surely put a dent in your allowable calorie intake. If you are thinking of water, it has no calories. In some special instances fluid intake may be restricted by a physician.

Q. For some reason I have hair growing on my upper lip. One woman I know said she uses cosmetic wax. I wonder what kind of cosmetic wax to use and will it remove the hair permanently?

A. Cosmetic wax does not remove the hair permanently. Electrolysis is the only method of permanent removal. You can banish the lip hair with a depilatory, which melts it off. This is also a temporary measure. If you use a depilatory, be sure that it is one planned for use on the face and follow directions carefully.

Q. If it is not advisable to use soap and water on the face and neck, how does one give the skin a good daily cleansing before applying the cream to restore the oil?

A. I love you, but your question almost confused me. Soap and water are fine for the normal skin. They are prescribed for the oily complexion, several times a day.

For dry skin there are excellent cleansing creams which do a wonderful job of cleaning the complexion. However, use soap and water once a week. If you have dry skin, use a cleansing cream as a habit rather than soap and water.

★ ★ ★

Q. Why do most women seem to get some hair on their face sooner or later? I never had any before, but now I have, at the age of fifty.

A. This is due to a change in the glandular system.

★ ★ ★

Q. Is it possible to lose inches in certain measurements and not pounds?

A. Absolutely, with the right exercises, faithfully done.

Adjust the ironing board to a sitting height, placing it at a right angle to the sewing machine. This makes it easier and quicker to press as you sew, saving both energy and time.

Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. The theatre is dark on Sundays. No reservations are required. The season ends Sept. 13.

Woman Seeks Council Seat

DETROIT (AP) —A 28-year-old Detroit woman filed for the City Council race Wednesday because she was too young to file for mayor.

Mrs. Katherine Wilson, a mother of three, was prepared to file for the mayoral race when she was told candidates for mayor must be at least 30 years old.

She was about to give up, despite the backing of her husband, three children and other supporters who accompanied her for the filing, when someone suggested that she was "not too young to run for the Common Council."

Twenty-five is the minimum age.

* * *

After conferring with her top political aide, husband Leslie, she decided Common Council was better than nothing. She will use the same platform planned for her race for mayor.

"I am for the dignity of people," she said. "I want to see the minds elevated to a high level so people white and black can't stoop to hate."

Mrs. Wilson, an X-ray technician at Detroit General Hospital, said she considered herself a spokesman for housewives.

House Mom Welcome on Field Treks

CANTON, Mo. (UPI) — "Mom" Dunkin, 72, follows the boys on campus. And the boys like it.

"Mom" is a housemother at the Culver-Stockton College where she cooks for the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity. When the boys plan special events, like a five mile hike, "Mom" Dunkin also gets an invitation to go along.

* * *

Mrs. Dunkin says of her boys, "I can't let them down." The boys gave her a field jacket with the fraternity insignia and she went along on the hike.

* * *

The housemother said that some of the boys wanted to carry a lawn chair to allow her to rest, "but, I would have none of that."

* * *

"Mom" Dunkin doesn't interfere with any plans the students make, but she maintains a motherly watch over them. Some of the boys confide in her about romantic problems.

"Yes," she said, "sometimes my boys call on me for an opinion, and I give it to them, but they're a level-headed lot, my boys are, and don't require much counseling."

DEAR POLLY — If new brides (as well as us older ones) would make up menus for the coming week before going grocery shopping it would save time in both knowing what to buy as well as having to do daily menu planning. Save these menus and lists and you can put them to use again after a period of time has elapsed.

DEAR POLLY — When you want grated cheese and have no grater, use a tea strainer and force the cheese through the holes. I think this is really easier than using a grater and it is especially good for fresh, soft cheese which is a mess to grate. I use a lot of the Pointers and I always enjoy reading the column. — ELEANOR

DEAR POLLY — The metal clips that hold shank buttons to the cards they come on make very good markers for counting when knitting. They slide in and out easily but will not fall out. For me they are easier to use than the rings that are sold for markers. — MRS. G. P. SR.

Overconfidence Drowning Cause

The great majority of victims of drowning are teen-age boys, according to a recent study. Overconfidence in swimming ability seems the commonest cause.

The study, reported by Dr. Edward Press of the Oregon State Board of Health, covered 1,201 cases of drowning occurring in 5 states over a one-year period. Of these, 1,020 victims were boys.

Very cold water appeared a strong factor in drowning deaths. Of 874 cases where temperatures were known, 299 drownings occurred in icy water.

From Bottom Up

To keep Venetian blinds from banging against the window when you dust them, try working from the bottom up and holding onto the bottom of the blind while you dust. Then after dusting a few slats, raise the blind and dust the next slats still holding firmly to the bottom.

The tunic—just the right length to team up with skirts or pants, or to stand alone as a mini-dress. Here, a boldly striped and wide belted tunic is worn over stark white, softly belled pants. Donovan Galvani fashioned this outfit in a new polyester called Encron by American Enka. Encron knits resist sitting wrinkles—so important for that always fresh look in pants. Best of all, Encron knits are machine washable and machine dryable.

Detroit Sues Bakeries for Price Fixing

DETROIT (UPI) — The city of Detroit will seek over $1 million in damages from 13 bread companies and a baking association for their part in an alleged conspiracy to fix prices, Chief Assistant Corporation Counsel Thomas H. Gallagher says.

One of the bakeries, Continental Baking Co., has been a supplier to the city throughout the years covered in the allegations.

Gallagher said the charges arose as the result of a federal grand jury inquiry into price-fixing practices by bakeries in several mid-western states.

★ ★ ★

Charges against the bakeries include conspiracy to establish identical prices for bread for a particular sale, allocate territories and allocate customers.

"The people hit the hardest," said Gallagher, "are those who depend on bread as the staple of their diet. These persons, the poor and indegent, are those least able to afford the extra price they must pay."

★ ★ ★

The suit, filed in United States District Court, names as defendants Continental Baking, American Baking Co., Dutch Treat Bakers, Inc., Gase Baking Co., Grocers Baking Co., Koepplinger's Bakery, Inc., and Michigan Bakers, Inc., Rainbo Bread Co. of Saginaw, Roskam Baking Co., Schaefer Bakeries, Inc., Silvercup Bakers, Inc., Ward Foods, Inc., the Way Baking Co., and the Michigan Bakers Association, Inc.

Congressman Cites Need for Crime Curbs

By REP. JACK McDONALD

The job of fighting organized crime will demand a concentrated, sustained effort on many fronts. Crime's overlords are deeply entrenched in our society.

La Cosa Nostra continues to thrive on billions of dollars realized from gambling, vice, narcotics and extortion.

★ ★ ★

Some 257 members of this Hydra-headed monster have been indicted or convicted since 1960—and this hasn't even dented the Cosa Nostra armor. Some 24 Mafia "families" are operating across the nation.

In New York, the Queens County district attorney has charged that the Mafia murdered two supermarket managers and inflicted $50 million in arson damage on A&P stores and warehouses in an attempt to force the chain to carry a Mafia brand of detergent.

The Justice Department is gearing up for a twin drive against the bosses of the rackets and those public officials and police officers who have been providing protection.

This is a good move, for it has been shown repeatedly that crime syndicates cannot exist unless given protection by corrupt officials.

★ ★ ★

That is why the President's plan to curb organized crime includes proposals to:

- Make bribery or corruption of local officers a federal crime.
- Make it a federal offense to maintain a gambling operation whose daily receipts exceed $2,000.
- Make it an additional crime for a convicted felon to have been an "organized crime offender."

★ ★ ★

These measures should be enacted swiftly to step up the war on the underworld. The goal is to break up all 24 Mafia "families," along with the rest of the national crime syndicate "untouchables" who still sneer at the law.

MORE THAN A DREAM

This youngster dreams a boy's dream of adventure to far away places, to outer space. Yet even as he gazes past the toy rocket, man's greatest adventure has unfolded—the landing of the first human being on the moon.

To chronicle this most fantastic, first-time event in all history, The Associated Press has produced for readers of this newspaper "Footprints On The Moon." It is the complete story of how man forged the tools to free himself from the bonds that held him to his native planet, and of the moon landing itself.

"Footprints On The Moon" provides a master countdown on the final day, hour and second of the final shot—and the first moon landing.

This is a book that belongs in everyone's home, for parents and their children.

Schools-Chief Hunt Goes On in Waterford

The Waterford Township Board of Education this week is continuing its search for a new superintendent of schools.

Board members met last week with placement bureau representatives from five major Michigan universities to seek advice in finding a successor to Dr. Don O. Tatroe, who has resigned from the position, effective Aug. 1.

Tatroe has accepted the position of executive director of the Michigan Association of School Board Members. Dr. John Pagen, head of the district's Indicom program will become acting superintendent Aug. 1 until the board finds a replacement for Tatroe.

The placement bureau experts — from Michigan State, Western Michigan, Eastern Michigan, University of Michigan, and Wayne State — advised the board on procedures used in making a nationwide search for a new superintendent.

The Waterford School sysem has the 13th largest student enrollment of all Michigan school districts.

Arraignment Set in Circuit Court

The cases of a man and a girl arrested at a Pontiac Township party were sent to Oakland County Circuit court yesterday following their preliminary examinations.

John F. Drake, 25, of 689 Perry and Janet A. Heyman, 18, of 80 Ottawa were among seven young people arrested by 15 police officers from four departments at a party at 2749 Patrick Henry on June 22.

Clarkston District Judge Gerald McNally bound Drake and Miss Heyman over to Circuit Court for arraignment July 22.

Drake is accused of assaulting a police officer, inciting a riot and escaping custody. The girl is charged with aiding a prisoner to escape and with resisting a police officer.

A preliminary examination for two other youths allegedly involved is scheduled for July 23.

F. JACK DOUGLAS

Metro Labor Council Detailed by Douglas

F. Jack Douglas, president of the Oakland County AFL-CIO Council, announced to the membership last night the merger of the council into a three-county organization representing nearly 130,000 union members.

The new council, comprising Oakland, Wayne and Macomb units, will be called the Metropolitan Detroit AFL-CIO.

The Oakland council, with representatives from each affiliated union, will remain as a functional unit and meet every second month starting the first Wednesday in September, he explained. On alternate months, starting in October, county council members will also have seats and voting power in the metro council.

The new organization was formed in a two-week effort which concluded last week.

Election of officers placed Tom Turner as president. Turner is president of the Wayne County council.

* * *

Other offiers are: John W. Gourlay of Gas Workers Local 80, secretary-treasurer; and three trustees, Ralph Liberato, former president of the Macomb council, Richard Corditz, Service Employes International; and Ed Kraft, Firemen and Oilers.

Douglas said the merger will give the affiliation far more latitude and strength in political action programs.

* * *

Three county council delegates were elected to the new council's executive board: Thomas Lodkio of Retail Clerks 876; Ruth Smith of Hotel and Restaurant 794; and Edward Thornton of AFSCME 92.

Milliken Names 2 to State Wage Unit

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has announced two appointments to the State Wage Deviation Board.

Jesse Williams, Detroit attorney and former member of the Detroit Welfare Appeal Board, was named to succeed Algird Ambrose of 771 Foxhall, Bloomfield Township, resigned, for a term expiring Aug. 27, 1972.

Frank Borsenik of Okemos, acting director of the Michigan State University school of hotel, restaurant and institutional management, was named to succeed Henry Barbour of East Lansing, resigned, for a term expiring Aug. 27, 1971.

The appointments require Senate confirmation.

Man Arrested After Chase

Officer Says Suspect Struck Him, Then Fled

A Pontiac man was arrested following a high-speed police chase in the city last night.

Eddie Page, 32, of 425 Orchard Lake was being held in the county jail on charges of reckless driving and having no driver's license.

Police said they will also seek warrants charging him with resisting and fleeing arrest.

Patrolman Raymond Hawks said he spotted a car traveling about 70 miles per hour in the 30 m.p.h. zone on Orchard Lake Avenue at Lake about 8:50 p.m.

Hawks said he turned on the patrol car's flashing blue light and pursued the car, which turned south on Lull.

The car went through a stop sign at Lull and Wessen and went east on Wessen, according to Hawks. He said he followed as it went through another stop sign at Wessen and Branch, turned north on Branch and stopped.

Hawks said he ordered the driver out of the car, told him he was under arrest for reckless driving and started to search him.

Hawks said the driver suddenly whirled around and hit him in the face with his fist. More officers arrived to subdue and handcuff the motorist.

Hawks said he didn't strike the assailant nor did he see any other officers strike him.

Soviet Flight Not on High Plane

MOSCOW (AP) — Mile for mile, few countries can beat the Soviet Union for cheap air travel — but comfort is seldom included in the price.

Aeroflot, the only way to fly in Russia, offers such low internal fares that until recently globetrotting dope sumgglers found the trans-Soviet route the best way to move their wares from Afghanistan to Western Europe. A crackdown by Soviet customs ended that, however, and about a dozen Americans and Euopeans are sitting out their sentences in Soviet labor camps and jails.

* * *

Foreign tourists as well as dope peddlers have long taken advantage of Aeroflot's bargain rates.

Fares can be held down because there is no international control and no need for big profits in the Soviet economy.

5,750 MILES, $185

The most expensive internal flight available from Moscow's airports, for example, costs only 169 rubles or $185 and takes the traveler 5,750 miles to Anadyr, a stone's throw from Alaska.

Moscow-Kiev, a more popular route, is a 500-mile flight and costs 14 rubles, or $15.40.

* * *

Tourists, while pleased at the financial savings, often are shocked by the disregard for the passenger's comfort aboard the Soviet airline. As the foreign travelers filter back to Moscow from the provinces each summer, they bring a new round of anecdotes with them.

One told recently of being stuck for an hour on the runway in Tashkent when technical troubles delayed the takeoff. Like most Soviet Planes, this one had no air-conditioning until airborne, and the temperature inside quickly topped 110 degrees. Several passengers began vomiting and two women fainted.

"Did they open the doors? Did they turn on the fans? No, they passed out more paper bags," the tourist said.

Another told of an eight-hour flight from Khabarovsk — across the entire breadth of the Soviet Union. The first meal was cold chicken and cold potatoes, making some passengers sick. Four hours later the second meal was served — cold chicken and cold potatoes.

Even the Soviet press has taken note of the failings of Aeroflot, which advertises itself as "fast, reliable, convenient."

Quoting the advertisement ironically, the newspaper Trud asked: "Is it always like that?"

CITIZENS INVESTIGATE

The article said so many Soviet citizens complained about Aeroflot service that the People's Control Committee, a powerful vigilante watchdog agency, investigated and found "serious failures."

Among those disclosed by the newspaper:

Too many tickets are often sold for a flight, causing some passengers to get left behind; some equipment on the planes, such as heaters, air conditioners and refrigerators, is years out of date; and there is no variety in the meals served.

The committee said Aeroflot had been warned by the Ministry of Civil Aviation to improve its service, but little has changed.

The committee gave Aeroflot three months to straighten out and fly right, hinting that some measures such as personnel changes might be recommended if there is no action.

An American aviation expert who recently was given a rare tour of Soviet flying schools said he was highly impressed by the meticulous attention paid to the training of young commercial pilots. He added:

"But when you seek the cockpit of some of those planes, everything looks so big and clumsy. The wheels go down and — whump! — you think the bottom has dropped out. When they come up you think they're coming up through the floor."

When the American complained during a demonstration flight that his suit was soaked with perspiration because of the lack of ventilation in the cockpit, he was told:

"Sweating is a healthy bodily function."

Clifford Article Revives Ethical Question

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Does a former Cabinet officer have the right to reveal backstage debates of government policymakers on an issue that is still unresolved?

That question — which has both legal and ethical dimensions — has come in for heated discussion in the wake of Clark M. Clifford's call for withdrawal in 1970 of U.S. ground combat forces from Vietnam.

* * *

Clifford, who was secretary of defense from Jan. 25, 1968, to Jan. 20, 1969, proposed the withdrawal in an article published last month in Foreign Affairs magazine.

The article included a candid account of the Johnson administration's internal debates over Vietnam strategy — a problem with which the Nixon administration is now trying desperately to cope.

NO COUNTERPART

The United States has no counterpart of Britain's tough "Official Secrets Act" under which cabinet proceedings may not be divulged by any participant for a period of 30 years.

The British law provides stiff criminal penalties for any ex-minister or senior official who discloses confidential information after leaving office, unless he has obtained permission for its publication from the present head of the department concerned.

However, U.S. officials, in both the State and Defense departments are required to sign "separation statements" when they leave office.

These statements must affirm that the official is not retaining any "classified or administratively controlled" documents.

PLEDGE REQUIRED

In addition, State Department officials, from the secretary of state down, are required to pledge: "I shall not publish nor reveal to any person any classified or administratively controlled information of which I have knowledge or any other information transmitted to me in confidence in the course of my official duties except as may be authorized by officials of the department."

The Defense Department statement, which Clifford presumably signed, includes the pledge:

"I shall not hereafter, in any manner, reveal or divulge to any unauthorized person, office or organization any security information affecting the national defense, classified top secret, secret or confidential, of which I have gained knowledge during my employment except as may be hereafter authorized by officials of the government empowered to grant such authority."

PUNISHMENT UNLIKELY

No one can be punished for violating the secrecy pledges, however, unless it can be shown that his disclosure aided an enemy. Then he would be subject to criminal prosecution under the regular statutes governing espionage or treason which apply to everyone, whether or not they have signed a secrecy pledge.

In the absence of specific penalties, the secrecy pledges are loosely enforced. No one in recent memory has been prosecuted for divulging classifed material after leaving high federal office.

* * *

A State Department lawyer said that in practice, "It boils down to a question of conscience."

The question of conscience can be acute, as Clifford's own dilemma demonstrates.

WEIGHED RISK

On one hand, he had to weigh the risk that his public demand for disengagement might stiffen North Vietnamese resistance to a negotiated settlement and intensify U.S. home-front pressures for peace at any price. On the other hand, there was the hope that by speaking out he might help divert the United States from a course he considered wrong.

Clifford chose to speak.

Although his magazine article said many things which Clifford had been unable to say publicly while a Cabinet officer, it did not represent a change of heart on his part. He states in the article that he decided while still in the Pentagon that the time had come for the United States to "begin to disengage" from Vietnam.

He was unable to sell his view completely to President Johnson, but he was credited with halting the escalation of the U.S. troop commitment.

W. Averell Harriman, chief U.S. negotiator at the Paris peace talks under President Johnson, also has been far more outspoken about Vietnam policy since leaving office. But there is no indication that his views have changed.

The stand Harriman is now taking publicly, for a compromise political settlement and early U.S. withdrawal, is the same that he supported in the privacy of administration councils while in office.

* * *

Robert S. McNamara, who preceded Clifford as defense secretary has said little publicly about the war since leaving office. However, he made it clear while still in office that he favored steps toward disengagement.

President Johnson used to refer privately to McNamara as one of the most dovish men in his Cabinet.

CHIEF HAWK

The chief hawk of the Johnson cabinet — by the President's own rating — was Secretary of State Dean Rusk. There has been no sign of any recantation on Rusk's part since he laid down the burden of high office.

Even if Rusk did change his mind, it is doubtful that he would every say so publicly, because he has often voiced a vehement distaste for "instant historians" who succumb to the urge to tell all soon after departing from high government jobs.

Survey Finds Public Skeptical on Inflation

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — American consumers have little confidence that the rate of inflation will be reduced during the next 12 months, according to a University of Michigan survey.

A deterioration in consumer sentiment during the second quarter of 1969 was noted in a report issued Wednesday by the University's Survey Research Center.

* * *

"The Nixon honeymoon is over," the report said. "The majority of people believe that interest rates will continue to go up during the next year.

"There has been a small increase in the proportion expecting more unemployment, and with respect to Vietnam, people are still waiting to see what happens."

CROSS-SECTION VIEW

The report was based on an analysis of hourlong interviews with a cross-section of more than 1,500 American families in May and June.

The outlook for consumer spending on durable goods and other discretionary items, the report said, is heavily dependent upon how people react to the expectation of a high rate of inflation.

* * *

According to economists George Katona, Jay Schmiedeskamp and Burkhard Strumpel, who studied the interviews, people do not believe that high interest rates will help curtail inflation.

Forty-five per cent of those interviewed said they expect price increases during the next 12 months will be larger than in the past year. Another 32 per cent said they expected the same amount of increase.

ADVERSE EFFECT

"On the one hand," the report said, "price increases have a pervasive adverse effect on attitudes toward the personal financial situation and expectations about the trend of the economy.

"High prices are frequently mentioned as a reason why now is a bad time to buy large household durables or a car."

* * *

But it added that on the other hand, when rapid inflation is expected, some people recognize the incentive to buy before prices go up.

On balance, the report said, "inflation still serves to restrict consumers' discretionary spending, especially among families with moderate income."

CAR MART UP

The economists said that intentions to buy cars remained at a high level in the May-June period even though the evaluation of buying conditions for cars moved in an opposite direction.

"Since attitudes are at present far from favorable, and real incomes probably will grow slowly, the outlook is for only modest gains in expenditures for durables and discretionary items during the second half of 1969," they concluded.

* * *

The Survey Research Center conducts quarterly reviews of consumer attitudes and inclinations to buy.

Student-Aid Crackdown Favored in State Poll

FENNVILLE (UPI) — More than 90 per cent of 15,841 persons who answered questionnaires sent out by U.S. Rep. Edward Hutchinson of Fennville are in favor of cancellation of federal scholarships to college students participating in campus disorders.

Hutchinson represents the seven-county, 4th Congressional District and has been conducting his fifth survey of voter opinion. The district includes Allegan, Berrien, Branch, Cass, Hillsdale, St. Joseph and Van Buren counties.

Hutchinson sent out 140,000 questionnaires and received 15,841 replies so far, his office here announced today.

On the issue of federal scholarships, 90.2 per cent were in favor of dropping scholarships to students who engage in campus disorders, 6.60 per cent were against eliminating the aid and 2.09 per cent were undecided.

Among other questions: 87.13 per cent were against a federal government guarantee of an annual income to heads of families whether or not they were working; 57.52 per cent were in favor of establishing the proposed Sleeping Bear Dunes National Lakeshore Park in Benzie and Leelanau counties with 21.01 per cent against and 21.4 per cent undecided; 60 per cent voted against lowering the voting age to 18, with 39 per cent in favor and 5.09 undecided.

In a three-part question on Vietnam, 12.13 per cent were in favor of pulling out U.S. troops even if this means a Communist take-over, 23.11 per cent were in favor of increasing U.S. troops until victory and 39.38 per cent favored withdrawal of U.S. troops as quickly as they can be replaced by South Vietnamese, even though the withdrawal may be unilateral.

Regarding the draft system, 20.91 per cent favored abolishing the draft to rely on career Army through voluntary enlistment, 42.01 per cent favored drafting military personnel by random selection with quotas to be filled from the youngest age groups as President Nixon recommends and 31.82 per cent favored continuing the present Selective Service system.

Construction of the Appian Way, oldest of Roman highways, was started in 213 B.C. by Appius Claudius, censor of Rome.

Censors Ban 'Curious' Film in Maryland

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — The three-woman Maryland Board of Motion Picture Censors has banned the Swedish film "I Am Curious (Yellow)" from Maryland theaters.

★ ★ ★

The three women acted after receiving a written opinion from Francis B. Burch, the state attorney general, who said:

"If the board cannot ban this sort of hard-core pornography masquerading as art, then I suppose it cannot ban anything and should be abolished."

★ ★ ★

Burch said the movie shows sex acts "as frankly and explicitly as hard-core stage smoker films that are sold and exhibited illicitly and clandestinely."

Emily Jean Goodman, general counsel for Grove Press, the film's U.S. distributor, said the firm would "appeal to the Supreme Court if necessary."

Theater in Hungary Is Prudish

(EDITOR'S NOTE—The "curtain" separating East from West includes the theater as well, it seems. At least it is true in Hungary, where there is none of the verbal candor nor visual undress of the Western stage. AP Drama Writer William Glover, traveling throughout East Europe to study the state of the theater, describes drama in Hungary in this first report in a series.)

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer

BUDAPEST — Those Broadway favorites Eliza Doolittle and Dolly Gallagher Levi are in town, a bit tardy but triumphant.

The popularity of "My Fair Lady," "Hello Dolly" and other stage imports from the capitalistic West underscores basic aspects of contemporary theater in Socialist Hungary.

One is the old-fashioned, pudgy quality of over-all endeavor that impresses visitors and is apologetically admitted by local show folk. The other is the historic isolation which Magyar culture feels from its closest Slavonic and Teutonic neighbors.

"We have always looked to England, France, Italy and America," one candid literary leader commented. "Our language is even completely different from every nearby country—our nearest linguistic tie is to the Finns, and neither of us can understand a word the other says.

GREATEST ART FORM

"In the theater, we developed late—poetry is our greatest form of artistic expression."

A representative of more official attitude says: "Before World War II, theater was only something for the bourgeois upper class, very expensive and limited. During the past 20 years a determined effort has been made to widen its appeal. And now that color television has come in, there has been some narrowing back. But we keep trying."

In this twin city capital by the Danube there are a dozen major ensembles, ranging from the opera with a repertoire from Wagner to Bartok to operetta musicals—"West Side Story" is the latest in rehearsal—escapist comedy such as "The Odd Couple" and some cautious avant-garde experimentation.

Another 10 companies perform in provincial cities, and a large touring troupe carries the stage message to rural communities.

By consensus of cross-section interviews, the Hungarian taste in theater is conservative and ultraprudish. Three cabaret theaters indulge sometimes in daring thrusts at minor deficiencies of the regime. But the verbal candor currently so popular in London and New York simply won't be accepted.

"It will be a long time before nudity would be dared," observes one highly active showman. "A while ago the first striptease entertainment was introduced, very modest and mostly for the tourists."

There is no formal censorship of what is performed by the all-repertory companies, each of which is responsible for its own September - through - June display. There are, however, certain built-in controls.

"Through long discipline, they know what is permissible," a longtime visitor comments.

A backstage worker phrases it another way: "In a year's program, you can see just about every variety of world theater, in every style. Mainly of course, things that represent our aims and ideological ways."

A shrewd rein is maintained by the state, which provides the entire budgetary needs of each company, then stipulates that a certain percentage is expected to be returned from the low price ticket sales. If a "good" drama is featured, the amount due is reduced. If a crime melodrama or similar triviality is presented, a surtax is added. And a periodic leaven of works from Russia or other satellite nations is understood. The quality of stagecraft seen during visits to 10 presentations, everything from Shakespeare to a contemporary farce called "The Battle of Waterloo," is highly progfessional but solemn. The most imaginative activity seems to center at the theater of marionettes.

★ ★

Performance caution results to some extent from the acting situation. All players are trained in a four-year course at the Academy of the Performing Arts, with enrollment limited to the projected employment needs.

"There are no great actors, just some very popular ones," you are told. The limited talent pool keeps the favorites busy in films, TV, radio as well as in the theater.

'NOT VERY INSPIRED'

"We have a saying," remarks an insider, "that the actors do all the other work to make their main income and come to the stage to rest."

To increase theatrical excitement, the Hungarian profession is hoping for the emergence of a dynamic direction talent—"the ones we have are all right, but not very inspired"—more native playwrights and increased appeal to a wedding audience.

The authors most frequently mentioned as the promise of tomorrow are Istvan Csurki and Istvan Orkey. The latter recently provided a highly lauded piece, "The Toth Family," which takes a rather penetrating look at the subservience of the petty bourgeoisie to vicious authority.

★ ★ ★

There has been talk of it going to England and perhaps off-Broadway. One supporter regards it as so imbued with Middle Europe feeling as to be inscrutable to spectators elsewhere.

U.S. Military Justice Is In for Big Change

By JERRY T. BAULCH
Associated Press Newsfeatures

WASHINGTON—U.S. military justice is undergoing the biggest upheaval in its 180-year history .

One reason is that the Supreme Court recently handed down more landmark decisions affecting military justice and the draft law than in any previous year. That comes on top of presidential orders extending to the military some broad rules laid down previously by the Supreme Court and involving arrest and trials for civilians.

BAULCH

The whole thing comes to a head Aug. 1 when a revised manual for courts-martial goes into effect. It involves the most extensive updating of military law in 19 years.

The legal snowball began rolling along, picking up new rules and guidelines, last fall when Congress passed a law creating, in effect, an independent judiciary for the armed forces. This goes into effect Aug. 1 along with the new manual.

* * *

The military lawyers are still trying to figure out the impact of the Supreme Court's O'Callahan ruling of June 2 that servicemen have the right to be tried in civilian courts for crimes that have no connection with their military duties.

MANY MIGHT BE FREED

The court didn't say if the ruling is retroactive and is almost certain to be asked to decide if it is. If the answer is "yes," the Army judge advocate general, Maj. Gen. Kenneth J. Hodson, figures 450,000 military convictions could be upset and about half the 4,000 men now confined as result of courts-martial might be freed.

And somebody is sure to raise the question of what to do about dishonorable or other less than honorable discharges that resulted from courts-martial. This is important because other than honorable discharges bar ex-servicemen from many jobs in civilian life and may deny them most veterans benefits.

* * *

The boards for correction of military records could be swamped with appeals for changing summary court-martial findings and discharges. And there are likely to be appeals for repayment of pay that men lost in fines as a result of courts-martial.

On the other hand, it could result in some military men getting civilian criminal records for minor offenses that under summary military justice might have cost just pay and loss in rank, with no criminal record.

DISCHARGES HANDED OUT

Many servicemen get administrative discharges, including "undesirable," as a result of conviction for civilian crimes and the O'Callahan ruling raises the point of whether this might be ruled out of order.

Right now the military lawyers are girding themselves for a case-by-case review of the thousands of convictions. Meanwhile, new ground rules have been laid out.

* * *

Military law will be considered to apply where an offense is committed on any military base, or against a military person or government property, where the offender was in a duty status at the time, where the offense is purely military in nature, where the offense is committed outside U.S. territorial jurisdiction or where "a factual relation to military effectiveness exists."

"The fact that an alleged offender was in uniform" may well be a relative factor, says the instruction to military lawyers in the field.

New Rules of Military Law

Under the new manual of courts-martial and the law passed by Congress last fall here are some of the changes:

No longer, except in extraordinary circumstances, will a defendant have a nonlegal officer defend him. And while nonlegal servicemen may serve on special courts they must be presided over by a military lawyer.

* * *

A man facing a special or general court-martial must, if he asks, be tried by a military judge without other officers of the court. He can be told in advance who the judge is to be and he can have advice of counsel before he makes such a request.

If a defendant objects to a hastily called summary court-martial by a single officer he can request and get a trial by a special court-martial.

MUST BE ADVISED

Before a suspect is questioned and before he is charged with a crime he must be advised of his right to counsel and be permitted to have counsel present during the questioning. And if he is convicted a serviceman, for the first time, may be released on "bail"—not really cash, but an honor system—pending appeal, if this is agreeable to the officer who ordered the court martial.

* * *

This will mean the services will have to have a lot more lawyers, and there is a question whether enough will be available.

The Army with the biggest load, plans to expand its JAG corps by 400 and top officers in the corps figure they can reach this goal with lawyers now in service who aren't already in the corps.

* * *

The rules say too that defense counsel or military judges cannot be punished or down-graded by superiors because of the zeal with which they perform their legal duties contrary to their superiors' views.

Serious Crimes Up 34 Pct. in Pontiac

Serious crime in Pontiac continues on the increase, the latest figures from the police department show.

The city's rate for the first five months of this year is up nearly 34 per cent over the same period last year.

★ ★ ★

The 1969 statistics indicate the city may be in for a record yearly increase in major crimes, surpassing the 1967 jump of 31 per cent.

For the first quarter of 1969, city police reported, serious crime also rose nearly 34 per cent over the corresponding period of 1968. The national crime increase for the first three months of this year was 10 per cent.

SLAYINGS UP 75 PCT.

So far in 1969, there have been increases in all categories of crime in Pontiac, the largest in murder and nonnegligent manslaughter.

Police Chief William K. Hanger says there is currently a rash of burglaries of homes all over the city.

Only 9 per cent of burglary offenses have been cleared by arrests, he said, compared to 27 per cent at this time last year.

"Burglaries of homes are the hardest thing for police officers to deal with because an officer who sees someone around a home can't immediately determine whether he is a resident or a burglar."

FIGURES COMPARED

Figures for this year compared to last year's January-through-May period and the percentage increases for major crimes are:

	1969	1968	Pct. Increase
Murder and Nonnegligent Manslaughter	7	4	75
Forcible Rape	17	13	31
Robbery	91	74	23
Aggravated Assault	230	154	49
Burglary	713	483	48
Larceny-Theft	473	423	12
Auto Theft	302	220	36
Total	1,833	1,371	34

The number of police calls for service is up more than 29 per cent this year, figures show.

Hanger is particularly proud of what he considers a good number of serious offenses cleared by arrest — 39 per cent. He says this is above the national average.

Junior Editors Quiz on WATER

QUESTION: If water is clear, why does it look so many different colors?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Though they appear to disagree, both boys in our picture are right. Bill's right — water in a glass is colorless — but then we're looking right through the water at close hand. Tim points to an ocean effect where we see glittering sunlight and blue water. But here the effect is far off and we are looking slantwise across the water.

Molecules on the surface of water hold together in what is called surface tension. Just like a mirror, they resist or reflect light and so throw the sun glitter and the blue reflection of the sky toward us.

In the picture just below, the yellow sunlight coming through the leaves is bouncing off the surface of the brook in the same way, making the water look yellow green.

In lower left, the boys look directly down through the water and the brown bottom makes it appear brown; scattered blue rays from the sky give a bluish tinge.

These are the main reasons for the apparent colors of water. Another is that the water migth be carrying some substance in solution, such as mud.

(You can win $10 cash plus APs handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

W. Europe Is Fearful of U.S. Concessions in N-Talks

By CARL HARTMAN
Associated Press Writer

BRUSSELS (AP) — West European governments are all for Moscow and Washington trying to halt the arms race, but they fear the United States may trade away their security.

★ ★ ★

Diplomats report member nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization are seeking reassurances from Philip Farley, deputy assistant secretary of state and No. 2 U.S. negotiator in the proposed strategic arms limitation talks.

★ ★ ★

The diplomats say NATO members fear the United States might trade away weapons that protect Western Europe in return for Soviet concessions on missiles the two superpowers have aimed at one another.

★ ★ ★

They point out that Polaris submarines and strategic bombers are more useful for defending Europe than intercontinental missiles in American silos.

POSSIBLE CONCESSION

Besides worrying about what Washington might give up for a reduction in Soviet missiles trained on the United States, West Europeans also are concerned about possible U.S. concessions in return for a reduction in the estimated 750 Soviet missiles trained on Western Europe.

★ ★ ★

They say there is nothing equivalent in Western Europe, and even if the Polaris submarines partly counter this threat, the West Europeans have no control over them.

★ ★ ★

Still another West European concern is that an agreed stalemate between Washington and Moscow on strategic missiles would show up the weakness of Western Europe in conventional arms.

★ ★ ★

The Americans have a quick answer for this. They have long complained the Europeans are not pulling their own weight in conventional defense and insist a little extra spending and planning coordination would bring big returns in this department.

The West Europeans have not heard enough about American negotiating plans to present their full official viewpoints. Two top-secret briefings were held at NATO headquarters last week, before Farley's arrival; two were held Tuesday and Wednesday, and another two are scheduled next week.

★ ★ ★

An ambassador and two aides from each of the 14 member countries plus some experts are allowed to sit in—60 or 70 participants much of the time, sources say.

★ ★ ★

The size and diversity of the group has some experienced diplomats shaking their heads about the chance of keeping the U.S. negotiating plans secret. Their disclosure could weaken a bargaining position.

Soviet Visit Was Success, Borman Says

MOSCOW (AP) — Astronaut Frank Borman left the Soviet Union for home today after a goodwill visit he called a "complete success and a personal pleasure."

Borman and his family were seen off at Moscow's Sheremetyevo Airport by Soviet officials, cosmonauts and their wives. He blew them a kiss just before entering the Soviet commercial airliner taking him to New York via a brief stop in London.

★ ★ ★

"I am leaving today with a very fine memory of a wonderful 10 days," Borman told an airport news conference. "Everywhere we went we were received with warmth and friendship from Russians in all walks of life."

Borman said that when he gets home he will ask the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to invite Soviet cosmonauts to the United States, but added: "The timing of the Apollo 11 moon flight will make it almost impossible for a cosmonaut to attend that."

It had been rumored that Borman's host, Soviet cosmonaut German Titov, would go to Cape Kennedy for the Apollo 11 launch July 16.

Frederick, one of the two Borman sons, called the tour of Soviet cities "a whole lot better than a history course." His brother Edwin said: "I'd like to come back."

Borman was given the most enthusiastic reception ever received by an American in the Soviet Union. As a special honor, President Nikokai V. Podgnory met with him Wednesday in the Kremlin.

Borman said he would like to be host to any Soviet cosmonaut who might see a U.S. space launching, adding: "The invitation doesn't only apply specifically for a launching. The main thing is to increase interchanges and expand visits rather than be concerned with specific arrangements.

'WE'RE FRIENDS'

"We came here as friends. The Soviet cosmonauts will be treated as friends in America."

Among those seeing the Bormans off were Soviet cosmonauts Georgi Beregovoi and Konstantin Feoktistov and Col. Gen. Nikolai Kamanin, commander of Soviet space pilot training.

Borman invited Beregovoi to Houston, joking: "I can introduce you to the wonders of tequila—Mexican vodka." The two spacemen laughed.

Asked if he thought there could be a joint Soviet-U.S. space flight before the mid-1970s Borman said. "I don't think it can be any earlier than that. We have to wait for the time when we have a big space station."

New Orleans Section Saved From Freeway

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The city's old French Quarter, long a mecca for fun-loving tourists, has been saved from the intrusion of a six-lane highway.

The highway project was officially put to death in Washington Wednesday, leaving defenders of tradition in a state of euphoria and the city with a $1.3-million hole in the ground.

★ ★ ★

John A. Volpe, secretary of transportation, confirmed reports that the federal government had withdrawn financial support for the expressway as part of the interstate highway network.

Construction of the road, Volpe declared, "would have seriously impaired the historic quality of the French Quarter."

SAID IT ALL ALONG

That's what landmark preservationists led by Martha Robinson and Mark Lowrey have been saying all along.

The Quarter is an original old square of New Orleans in the center of the city.

★ ★ ★

It is familiar to thousands of tourists who have wandered its narrow streets and reveled in its bars and nightclubs.

The expressway was vigorously backed by business groups as a necessity for quicker movement of traffic.

'WOULD RUIN IT'

The preservationists contended the expressway would ruin the Quarter.

★ ★ ★

The decision in favor of preservation left an embarrassing cavity under the recently completed Rivergate, a big convention facility at the foot of Canal Street. It's a tunnel which was to have connected with the expressway.

★ ★ ★

Now the 690-foot tunnel goes nowhere.

Mayor Victor H. Schiro said some use must be found for the big hole in the ground. He got quite a few suggestions.

FOR MUSHROOMS

"They now have a beautiful place to grow mushrooms," said J. W. Simon Jr., executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Homeless Children? GI Stretched Tale

DETROIT (UPI)—Marine Corps Pfc. Sammie Lee Jones got a lot of sympathy and many offers of help when he told people he went AWOL to find a good home for his two young children.

His story was good enough to gain the support of the American Red Cross, Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., news media and scores of Detroiters.

★ ★ ★

But it was all a hoax that came to light yesterday after he produced two children he said were his. They actually were his sister's children.

The 29-year-old Marine was given a 10-day leave in June from Camp Pendleton, Calif., to attend a funeral.

He then claimed his wife, Bernice, had left the children with a relative and then took off. The Red Cross worked to get him a four-day extension so he could look for someone to care for the children, aged 4 and 3. Then he got a second extension which expired, and Jones was listed as absent without leave (AWOL).

NO CUSTODY SINCE '67

Actually, Jones hasn't had custody of his two children since late 1967. They have lived with their mother in Cincinnati, Ohio, since 1968.

When confronted with the fact, Jones said the children were still in Detroit and were living with his sister. He even produced two youngsters who he later admitted were his sister's.

★ ★ ★

An aide to Conyers who has been trying to help the young Marine was shocked and said the congressman "worried all weekend about the kids."

State Curbs on Cigarette Ads Vowed

LANSING (UPI) — Westland Democrat William Faust has given the State Senate fair warning that he will ask for a partial ban on cigarette advertising in Michigan next January.

★ ★ ★

He tried to amend a bill pending in the Senate yesterday that would outlaw advertising indicating discrimination in the sale or exchange of real estate.

★ ★ ★

"But I didn't want it to come to a vote yet, so I withdrew it," he explained. "I am serious, though, and this serves notice on everyone that next January I will sponsor a bill."

Fire-Chief Confab

MIDLAND (AP) — The Midland Fire Department will host 150 visiting fire chiefs when the 44th annual convention of Michigan Fire Chiefs Association convenes next week. The purpose of the meeting, to be held July 13 - 16, is to discuss new fire-fighting tactics, new apparatus, legislative bills pending and passed and to elect new officers.

SF State Chief Gets the Job Permanently

LOS ANGELES (AP) — S.I. Hayakawa has advanced from temporary to permanent president of troubled San Francisco State College with blessings from Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Hayakawa, a jaunty, soft-voiced language expert, left open the possibility that he might seek the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate next year.

★ ★ ★

Republican Reagan said of the 62-year-old campus leader: "He is an example throughout the country of the relatively small group that have stood firm" in college disorders.

Reagan and other state college trustees voted 16-2 Wednesday to name Hayakawa permanent San Francisco State president.

KEPT CAMPUS OPEN

As acting president since last fall, Hayakawa called in hundreds of police to keep the campus open through four months of violence, bombings, charges of police brutality and student vandalism.

★ ★ ★

He promised Wednesday to work "quietly" to improve the campus, relatively peaceful since strikes by students and faculty ended earlier this year.

★ ★ ★

Hayakawa's critics have called him a poseur and seeker of political office.

Regarding rumors he may seek a U.S. Senate seat, Hayakawa said, "The door is still slightly open, but I haven't got much time to think about it."

STUDENT DEMANDS

Hayakawa moved last fall from a part-time job on the San Francisco State faculty to the president's chair after appeals for a firm stand against striking students by Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke and other college trustees.

NO LONGER ACTING—Gov. Ronald Reagan of California extends congratulations to Dr. S. I. U.S. Prosecutor Charges

'Hoffa Attorneys Rummaging'

CHICAGO (AP) —Attorneys for Teamster union President James R. Hoffa were accused Wednesday by a federal prosecutor of attempting to rummage through government wiretap files.

★ ★ ★

D. Arthur Connelly, assistant U.S. Attorney, said a recent decision by the U.S. Supreme Court allowing Hoffa's attorneys only the right to view transcripts of what was overheard when they were under electronic surveillance.

Connelly said that logs disclosed by the government of 14 instances of eavesdropping on Hoffa and others connected with his 1964 fraud conviction showed that the union leader had no right to a new trial.

★ ★ ★

Hoffa is appealing the fraud conviction on the grounds that illegal eavesdropping was used to collect evidence against him. The hearing is being held in U.S. District Court.

Judge Richard B. Austin rejected a motion by Connelly asking for the dismissal of subpoenas issued for two former Justice Department officials, who took part in the prosecution of Hoffa.

Hoffa is now serving an eight-year sentence in the Lewisburg, Pa., federal prison for a conviction of jury tampering in another trial.

Son-in-Law Fills Disney's Job---but Not His Shoes

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I'm not trying to fill anyone's shoes," says handsome onetime pro footballer Ron Miller. But he is the man now guiding the film destinies of the Disney studio, occupying the position long held by his father-in-law, Walt Disney.

THOMAS

Miller moved quietly into his post as executive producer of Walt Disney Productions about a year ago. He had been heading the television operation. He still operates from his normal-size office, the smallest of any studio production head in Hollywood. Walt's office remains as it was when he died Dec. 15, 1966.

★ ★ ★

Married to Walt's oldest daughter, Diana, Ron Miller fits the Disney pattern. He is a family man (seven children), a modest fellow and a group worker.

"They call me executive producer, but it is still a unit effort around here," Miller emphasized. But he admitted that although an executive committee mulls film projects, the final decision rests with him, as it did with Walt.

HIS PROBLEMS

Miller's problems?

"The principal one is what we have always faced at this studio: finding material," he replied. "Naturally it's more difficult here than at the other studios, because ours are family films. And it's much tougher to make a picture about Abraham Lincoln, say, than it is to shoot a 'Myra Breckenridge.'"

★ ★ ★

Another frustration is the same one Walt encountered: the scorn of highbrow critics.

"The sophisticates get so bugged because we can produce a picture (The Love Bug) about a thinking Volkswagen and make money with it," said Miller. "Bad reviews can't help but bother you after you've spent time and effort on a project for which you are seemingly proud. But I don't worry about it. We get panned, even with our good product.

LIVE WITH IT

"Walt learned to live with it. He used to say that whenever he got a bad review from the New York Times' Bosley Crowther, he knew he had a good picture."

"The Love Bug" is the Disney hit of the moment, with a predicted domestic gross of $12 million. But Miller was frank to admit that "Smith," a contemporary western with Glenn Ford, had flopped.

★ ★ ★

"'Smith' even pleased some of the critics," said Miller, analyzing the failure. "The script read well, and yet it didn't have the elements for success. Perhaps it was a bit too sophisticated for our audience, who are accustomed to adventure - action - comedy pictures from Disney."

An early riser, Miller is usually at the studio by 6:30 — "I like to get some reading done before the phone starts ringing." He leaves for his Encino home — formerly John Wayne's — at 6 or 6:30 p.m.

His day is filled with viewing film, working with script writers, conferring with fellow executives. Although he has no background in the field, he also keeps an eye on animation.

"That's our bread and butter," he remarked. "The more cartoon features we have, the better off we are. Our last one, 'Jungle Book,' was the biggest grosser so far — $11.5 million domestic and $8 million foreign."

Miller said he has high hopes for the next animated feature, "The Aristocrats," due at Christmas 1970. The studio's live-action projects include: "The Newcomers," a western to be filmed in Wyoming; "Boatniks," a modern comedy about the yachting set; "Bedknob and Broomstick," a hopeful musical successor to "Mary Poppins"; "A Journey to Matacumbe," a post-Civil War saga; "Scruffy," Paul Gallico's animal story; "Scandalous John," a modern western; and "Paniolo," about ranching in Hawaii.

Motion Picture Academy May Bare Oscar Tallies

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — The Academy Awards may rip away the secrecy about the Oscars and release the scores of the winners and losers.

So far it's just the hope of Producer Mike Frankovich, chairman of the '69 show, who'll make the proposal to his good friend Gregory Peck, who was just reelected president.

"I don't think anything should be kept secret that isn't harmful to the Academy," Frankovich just told me. "The balloting is the most honest I've seen. Making the vote public would make it even stronger."

WILSON

The first tabulation of the '69 vote showed Katherine Hepburn two votes ahead of Barbra Streisand. Because it was so close, Price-Waterhouse did a recount—and reported a tie between the two stars.

Mary Martin, knocking on wood about her recovery from several months illness, cheerfully said at Pearl's that she's off with Richard Halliday to their ranch in Brazil—for two years.

"We're taking quarter-horses with us and will breed them down there," Mary said enthusiastically. "Arthur Godfrey's been flying us around in his plane looking at quarter-horses."

"Bet you'll change your mind and go back to work," we said. "Bet I won't," said Mary who was wearing white-rimmed glasses and short hair and looking like a healthy woman.

He reminds you he's been a singer since Peabody High and Carnegie Tech, Pittsburgh, but played down his voice because he was an opening act to singers Bobby Darin and Steve Lawrence.

"Not to sound conceited," he says, "but they didn't hope to get a guy who could really sing, so now they're putting in more music for me."

Frank adds: "Only thing worries me is how that Broadway audience is going to react to a guy who walks on stage dressed."

Sherwood Has Sure Wood for Soviet Archers

LONDON (UPI) — In Sherwood Forest where Robin Hood and his merry men strode, modern day Britons are busy making bows and arrows for the Russians.

"But not from Sherwood wood," said Michael Stuttle. "That wood's quite unsuitable, notwithstanding the Robin Hood legend to the contrary."

★ ★ ★

Why, in this technological age when the Russians send men into space, do they need good, strong bows that can shoot an arrow dead on target? The whole thing is in the name of sport.

The Russians have ordered 250 bows and 1,000 sets of arrows from Britain for their archery teams. They have their eye on the 1972 Olympics when archery will be featured for the first time since 1908.

Stuttle, 32, sales director for an archery equipment firm at the Sherwood Forest village of Cuckney, near Nottingham, thinks he has put Russian bow makers out of business since he won a trial order last November and follow-ups this year totaling 20,000 pounds ($48,000).

"So far as I know, the whole of the Soviet Union's archery requirements are being purchased from our small company," he said. "We have also got our first order from Hungary."

Naturally enough, the world does not have many quality bow makers, just a few in Europe and the United States. Stuttle, who says he promotes bows like he would vacuum cleaners, is rather proud he beat the Americans on these sales.

The firm's location in Sherwood Forest, next to a pub in a picturesque village, is more coincidence than connection with the legendary Robin Hood who has shot many an arrow on movie and television screens.

"Even in medieval times, the wood for Sherwood bows came from Spain," Stuttle said. "About the only thing Sherwood wood was used for was to make fires."

Sweet and Tart Cherries Are Now Ripe

By JANET ODELL
Food Editor, The Pontiac Press

Remember that old child's song, "Cherries are ripe; cherries are ripe, the robin sang one day." Cherries ARE ripe. This is the week of the Cherry Festival in Traverse City and you can find lots of cherries in the stores.

The fresh sweet ones are delicious to eat out of hand. They also lend themselves to sauces and pastries. Tart red cherries are most often used for pies. Michigan ranks high in the production of both, although many of our sweet cherries comes from the Pacific Northwest.

Cherry Squares are a cross between a fruit kuchen and French pastry; wonderful dessert.

GLAZED FRESH CHERRY SQUARES

2 cups fresh sweet cherries
½ cup butter
½ cup sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon lemon peel
1 cup flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup water
⅔ cup sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon almond extract
Red food coloring
1 (3 oz.) package cream cheese, softened
2 tablespoons milk
2 tablespoons powdered sugar

Halve and pit cherries. Cream butter with ½ cup sugar. Beat in egg and lemon peel until light and lemon colored. Sift flour with baking powder. Add to creamed mixture.

Press dough into a greased, 9-inch square cake pan. Bake at 375 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes or until golden brown. Cool.

For Glaze: dissolve cornstarch in small amount of water. Add to ⅔ cup sugar and remaining water. Bring to boil and cook until thick and clear. Add lemon juice, almond extract and a few drops red foo coloring. Cool.

* * *

To assemble dessert, arrange cherries, cut side down, over baked layer. Spoon glaze over cherries. Chill. Cut into squares.

Beat cream cheese with milk and powdered sugar. Pipe around edges and in between cherries. Makes 9 cherry squares.

* * *

Cherry Buns will make breakfast a more desirable meal. But they're good any time with coffee or milk.

OLD WORLD CHERRY BUNS

1 1 lb. can tart red cherries
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons unbleached flour
1 tablespoon butter
Few drops red food coloring
1 package active dry yeast
¼ cup warm water
1 cup milk, scaled
½ cup shortening
⅓ cup sugar
1 teasoon salt
1 egg
4 to 4½ cups sifted unbleached flour

Drain cherries thoroughly. Combine sugar and flour. Add cherries and cook until thick. Add butter and food coloring. Cool and reserve.

Soften yeast in warm water. Add hot milk to shortening, sugar and salt. Stir until shortening is melted; cool to lukewarm. Stir in 1½ cups of the flour. Add softened yeast and egg; beat well.

Stir in remaining flour or enough to make a soft dough. Cover and let rest 10 minutes. Knead on lightly floured surface until smooth, about 5 minutes.

Place in a greased bowl; cover and let rise in a warm place until double in bulk, about 1 to 1½ hours. Punch down; cover and let rest 10 minutes.

Roll dough to slightly less than ½-inch thick. Cut with a 2½-inch cutter. Place 2-inches apart on a lightly greased baking sheet. Cover and let rise until light, about 45 minutes.

With fingers, press down center of buns; spoon in cherry filling. Bake at 375 degrees about 15 minutes or until done. Yield: about 1½ dozen buns.

GLAZED CHERRY SQUARES

CHERRIES FOR LUNCH — Cherries are the perfect color note on a luncheon plate; they adapt to many different menus. At the left is a man's hearty lunch of creamy potato salad, hard-cooked eggs, cold cuts, sesame roll and an extra-size portion of fresh sweet cherries. Top left, is a feminine combination of cooling vichyssoise, chicken spread and cream cheese sandwiches and cherries. The young set will go for cheese-stuffed hot dogs on buttery buns, relish sticks, potato or corn chips and cherries.

Canners Do Good Job on Cherry Crop

Canned cherries, both sweet and tart, and cherry pie filling are valuable ingredients for the cook. With them, she has a world of interesting dishes at her fingertips. Consider the following:

CHERRY BLOSSOM DESSERT

Sift together:
2½ cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
3 teaspoons salt

Mixx together and add to flour mixture:
2 cups dark brown sugar
2 cups quick oatmeal
1 cup shortening
1 cup nutmeats, chopped finely

Put ½ of mixture into ungreased pan, press down. Pour 2 cans of cherry pie filling on this, spread evenly. Add the other half of the mixture to the top.

Bake at 350 degrees for 30-45 minutes. Serve with ice cream or whipped cream. Serves 16.

CHERRYSAUCE

Thicken juice drained from red, tart cherries with cornstarch or tapioca to desired consistence. Sweeten with sugar and add a dash of salt. For a real, real red sauce, add red food coloring.

* * *

For meat and poultry, highlight basic sauce with prepared mustard for baked ham; with mincemeat for turkey dinners; with horseradish for roast pork; or with almond extract and slivered almonds for a chicken dish.

* * *

For dessert, serve the basic sauce hot or cold with just a pat or 2 of butter, or a subtle accent of lemon juice, cinnamon, pineapple preserves, or orange marmalade. Ladle sauce onto fresh baked cake squares, ice cream, old-fashioned rice pudding, pudding-filled cream puffs, or delectable baked pears.

SUBSTITUTIONS

Recipes that call for red tart baking or pie cherries, usually refer to unsweetened, water-pack, canned cherries. The Agricultural Marketing Service says sweetened cherries, also available in some stores, can be substituted by reducing the amount of sugar called for in the receipe by 7 teaspoons per cup of cherries.

Or use tart cherries for sweet ones by adding 7 teaspoons of sugar per cup of cherries.

Proper Time

Proper creaming of fat and sugar helps give your cakes a fine texture. The fat-sugar mixture should be light in color, smooth and creamy in texture. If the mixture looks curdled and frothy, it has been worked too long, and the cake will have a coarser grain.

Peanut Butter Fills Cored Apple

An apple a day keeps the doctor away. And when you fill cored apples, you'll have a hard time limiting the kids to just one a day.

Home economists suggest this kid-tested treat: Tuck a scoop of chunk style peanut butter inside a halved apple. It's nutritious and delicious.

Tell Information About 21st Bake-Off

Bake-Off comes of age this year in San Diego — California's southern-most city. Site of the 21st national cooking contest is Hotel Del Coronado, a stately Victorian hotel located on Coronado Island across the bay from San Diego, now celebrating its 200th anniversary.

This 80-year-old hotel is one of the largest wooden structures in America. It boasts a treasure of antiques and rooms rich in wood carvings.

For the second year, three grand prize winners will be named. Champions in convenience mix, flour and refrigerated fresh dough divisions each receive $10,000. An additional $15,000 is awarded to one of these three as Best of the Bake-Off for a total of $25,000.

Along with the three champions, a runner-up in each division wins $2,000. A $1,000 bright idea award goes to one cook in each of the three divisions.

There is no special junior category. Anyone 12 years or older may enter any of the three divisions.

ALL WIN

Actually, all 100 finalists at the Bake-Off, March 15-17, 1970, are winners. Each receives an expense-paid trip to San Diego and $100 in cash.

General Electric awards each finalist an Americana P-7 oven-range. Finalists who have their entry certified by a GE dealer receive a special appliance prize.

* * *

This is the first year artificial sweeteners have played a part in Bake-Off. Either ½ cup Pillsbury Sprinkle Sweet or 1 tablespoon Pillsbury Sweet* 10 can be used in a recipe entered in the convenience mix division.

* * *

Recipes incorporating the use of alcoholic beverages are eligible, provided the use of the ingredient in the recipe is a practical one.

Entries will be judged on: excellence of flavor and taste, appearance, popular appeal, creativity including practical, appropriate use of ingredients, recipe ingredient shortcuts, streamlined methods, and short preparation time.

Again this year, contestants will not be required to submit an official entry blank with the recipe. Entry rules and blanks are available by writing to Pillsbury, Box 679, Dept. 110, Minneapolis, Minn., 55460.

IN STORES

In food stores, they will be found in the refrigerated fresh dough section of the dairy case, in all Pillsbury flour sacks of 5 pounds or more, or wherever Pillsbury convenience mixes are sold.

Entries will be accepted until November 15, 1969, at Pillsbury Bake-Off, Box 409, Minneapolis, Minn., 55460.

You can do a smoother, quicker job of frosting cakes if you spread the frosting on the cake while it revolves slowly on the stand of the electric mixer.

SOPHISTICATED SAUSAGE — Sausage goes to the best parties. Here it appears in a casserole with vegetables and rice, flavored with wine.

Sausage Makes Grade in Dinner Casseroles

Looking for something different and exciting to serve dinner guests? You probably never realized what a gourmet feast can be developed with unique sausage recipes. These delicious — and nourishing — suggestions are ideal for either sit-down or buffet dinners.

SOPHISTICATED SAUSAGE CASSEROLE

1 lb. sausages (pork links, Spanish or Italian sausages)
4 teaspoon butter
1 cup chopped onions
1 cup chopped green peppers
1 cup diced celery
2 (10½-oz.) cans chicken broth, heated to boiling
1¼ cups uncooked rice
¾ cup sherry wine
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Cut sausages in 2-inch pieces and brown in skillet. Remove sausages, pour off fat. Melt butter in skillet, saute onions, pepper and celery for five to seven minutes, stirring until lightly browned.

In 2-quart buttered casserole, mix together the sauteed vegetables, sausages, rice, sherry, broth, salt and pepper. Cover and bake in oven 1 hour at 325 degrees (until rice is tender and dry). Makes 4 to 6 servings.

SAUSAGE-CORN CASSEROLE

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup chopped green pepper
½ cup diced onion
2 cans cocktail sausages, drained and cut into slices
2 cans cream-style corn (17 oz.)
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon A.1. sauce
1 cup grated Parmesan cheese
½ cup bread crumbs
1 tablespoon melted butter

Melt two tablespoons of butter in large frying pan and cook pepper, onion and sausage over small flame, until onion is golden.

* * *

In large bowl, mix together with corn, salt, and A.1. Sauce. Pour half of mixture into 1½ qt. casserole. Sprinkle with half of cheese. Add remaining corn mixture and top with cheese.

Mix bread crumbs with butter, and sprinkle over cheese. Bake about 30 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Serve Wings to Pare Costs, Please Eaters

For good eating at low cost, take wing — chicken wings, that is. When you buy chicken wings, get about ¾ pound or four wings for each person. That means a family of four would need three pounds or 12 wings.

You can store the wings up to two days in the refrigerator. Before refrigerating, be sure to loosen the wrapping enough to allow some air to move around.

* * *

Serve either of the following chicken wing main dishes with a mound of fluffy white rice and green beans.

CHICKEN WINGS

Put a layer of ½ large white onion, sliced, in a saucepan and top with a layer of six chicken wings. Dot with 2 tablespoons margarine and season with salt and pepper. Top that with rest of sliced onion, 6 wings, 2 tablespoons margarine and salt and pepper to taste.

Add ½ cup water and cover saucepan tightly. Cook over moderate heat about 30 minutes. Serves 4.

CHICKEN WINGS DELUXE

Cover 3 pounds chicken wings with 2½ cups canned tomatoes and 2 cups water. Simmer 20 minutes. Add 1 garlic clove, 2 chopped onions, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon celery salt, 3 carrots and 1 teaspoon chili powder.

Simmer until tender and liquid is almost absorbed. Thicken with 1 tablespoon flour for each cup of liquid, if desired. Serves 4.

Opening lead—♠8

By OSWALD & JAMES JACOBY

"All butchers don't wear white aprons," remarked the young expert. "I played with one the other day. Of course, I shouldn't have put him in seven but he had promised never to bid a no-trump with less than 16 high-card points. This time he had only 15."

It seems that the so-called butcher had played out dummy's king and queen of diamonds and then proceeded to go down because West held four diamonds to the jack and East the long spades. We can't go along with calling this South a butcher. We feel that only an expert in very good form would have worked out the winning line of play. Here it is:

South wins the spade in dummy and notes that West had almost surely opened a short suit. Then he cashes four clubs, discarding two spades from dummy. He notes that East has shown up with four cards in that suit. Now South runs off three hearts and is careful to discard his seven of diamonds. East follows to the hearts also and, in addition, South has noticed that West discarded a heart on the fourth club.

At this point, expert South has some sort of count on the East and West hands. At least, enough of a count so he is pretty sure that West started out with either three or four diamonds. Then he leads a diamond to his ace and sees the eight-spot drop from West. South has to decide right here and now if that eight was a singleton.

★ ★ ★

If he makes the right decision, he leads his 10 of diamonds and lets it ride if West doesn't cover with the jack.

If West does cover, South returns to his hand with the king of spades and now we see why he had to get rid of the diamond seven. He can lead the three and win with dummy's six if West plays the five.

♥♣ CARD Sense ♠♦

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
	1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	2 N.T.	Pass	3 ♦
Pass	3 N.T.	Pass	7

You, South, hold: ♠AK984 ♥2 ♦AK1093 ♣65

What do you do now?

A—You should make some slam try. We suggest five no-trump but any forward-going bid is all right. It depends on your partnership.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of rebidding two no-trump your partner has jumped to four hearts. What do you do now?

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You get solution to money question. Key is to stick with project. New start now could be premature. You are appealing. Many are drawn to you. Among them, one is very helpful.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Now you can make successful contacts. Circumstances favor original ideas, efforts. Put forth opinion, but in diplomatic manner. Avoid scattering your forces.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): What you know can now be more practically utilized. You get chance to demonstrate capabilities. Remain practical. Don't trade something for nothing. Be on guard against false flattery.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Give full play to intellectual curiosity. Don't be satisfied merely that something happened. Find out why. You can obtain needed answers. Key is to ask in interested manner.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You may be envous of possessions of others. Realize that those who love you do so for you — not for what you own. Important to straighten this concept within yourself. Do so. Now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Accent on how you handle delicate situation. Key is not to be discreet. Could involve mate, partner, others who are close. Lie low. Play waiting game.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You get on solid ground. You gain greater perception. Practical issues demand attention if you concentrate, you gain. Otherwise, there is needless delay.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Accent on children, creative endeavors. Your efforts can gain wider audience. Key is to see project as a whole. Don't be bogged down with details.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Attention centers around home base. New approach is necessary. Be independent without appearing arrogant. State views in objective manner. Then you obtain results.

IF FRIDAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY difficult period will pass. You can meet individual who adds zest to your life. You are intuitive, capable of determining future trends.

Stage Riders of Past Coached on Demeanor

SANTE FE, N.M. (UPI) — "Spit with the wind, not against it."

This was one of the rules of the road laid down by Wells-Fargo for riders of its cross-country stages 100 years and more ago.

There were other rules — several as applicable today for auto and bus passengers as for those stage riders of another generation. Here, courtesy of the New Mexico Parks Department, is how Wells-Fargo in posted notices, asked its stage passengers to comport themselves:

- "Abstinence from liquor is requested, but if you must drink, share the bottle. To do otherwise makes you appear selfish and unneighborly.
- "If ladies are present, gentlemen are urged for forego smoking cigars and pipes as the odor of same is repugnant to the Gentle Sex. Chewing tobacco is permitted, but spit with the wind, not against it.
- "Gentlemen must refrain from the use of rough language in the presence of ladies and children.
- "Buffalo robes are provided for your comfort during cold weather. Hogging robes will not be tolerated and the offender will be made to ride with the driver.
- "Don't snore loudly while sleeping or use your fellow passenger's shoulder for a pillow; he (or she) may not understand and friction may result.
- "Firearms may be kept on your person for use in emergencies. Do not fire them for pleasure or shoot at wild animals as the sound riles the horses.
- "In the event of runaway horses, remain calm. Leaping from the coach in panic will leave you injured, at the mercy of the elements, hostile Indians and hungry coyotes.
- "Forbidden topics of discussion are stagecoach robberies and Indian uprisings.
- "Gents guilt of unchivalrous behavior toward lady passengers will be put off the stage. It's a long walk back. A word to the wise is sufficient."

Fog Gear in New War

NEW YORK (UPI) — Smoke screen equipment developed during World War II to protect ship movements, troop landings and shore maneuvers now is being used in a war against mosquitos and other insects throughout the world.

The so-called fogging machines, which range from ones mounted on jeeps and trucks to hand-portable models, have battled mosquito infestations in Regina, Canada; an outbreak of encephalitis in North Dakota; malaria in Sao Paulo, Brazil, and pests in horse racing stables at Saratoga, N.Y.

Use of fogging machines for pest control was not a consideration in their original design, according to William Bohn, president of Todd-CEA, Inc., the manufacturer.

The U.S. Navy faced a critical need for high-output smoke generators to provide a low-hanging, long-lasting dense fog to mask its operations from the enemy and developed the product in cooperation with Todd Shipyards, former parent company of Todd-CEA.

★ ★ ★

The fogging machines were adapted for pest control when U.S. servicemen faced tropical disease-carrying insects in landings on Pacific islands.

And Space Is Just as Scarce

Viets Have Their Coney Island, Too

(EDITOR'S NOTE — War-ravaged Vietnam has its sunny vacation spots, too, it seems. The beaches of Vung Tau, a relatively secure area, serve as South Vietnam's Coney Island.)

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

VUNG TAU, Vietnam (AP)—The beaches of Vung Tau, wartime South Vietnam's leading seaside resort, have one thing in common with Coney Island, or Brighton: crowds.

Every weekend the highway from Saigon to Vung Tau is filled with autos, buses, trucks and motorbikes carrying people to the beach. The route, which measures 40 miles on the map, now is relatively secure during daylight hours. It winds around the vast U.S. Army complex at Long Binh, then moves through areas where Thai or South Vietnamese troops guard bridges and check points.

* * *

When the speeding caravans reach Vung Tau — formerly the popular French stronghold of Cap St. Jacques — parking, sitting, sleeping and swimming space are at a premium.

If you are lucky, you may find a room in one of the hotels that range from the comfortable to the more primitive. If you don't get a room, you may be able to rent a folding canvas chair for about 60 cents to spend the night on the beach. If the chairs are gone, you can sleep in the car or throw a blanket on the sand itself.

Food and drink stands and bigger restaurants line the beaches. There are clams on the half shell to be dunked in a black pepper and lime sauce; excellent spiced, cracked crab; and the more elaborate Vietnamese and Chinese dishes. On the porches of the restaurants, folding chairs are jammed against each other for persons who just want to take the ocean breeze.

Dank, cell-like dressing rooms are available at the restaurants for changing before plunging into the tepid waters of the South China Sea. The surf generally is gentle and the gray-white sand slopes gradually into the sea.

* * *

Between the swimming areas in the center of the city and "second beach" a couple of miles north, some palatial villas cling to the steep hills. These are the homes of the wealthy, for whom Vung Tau may be a first or second resort home. Farther north there are other beaches that once were popular resorts, but now many of the villas there stand vacant and wrecked by the continuing war.

Vung Tau now is a popular rest-and-recreation center for American troops, but they are restricted to their own beach area. The remainder is supposed to be for the Vietnamese, and they flock to it by the thousands.

SOMETIME TARGET

On a recent Sunday they included President Nguyen Van Thieu, whose bodyguards kept watch while he bobbed around in a public beach area with the public. Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky often visits the Vung Tau beaches. For these officials and for the rest it means a few hours away from the war or from the pressures of Saigon. Vung Tau, with its many military installations, has been the target of enemy rocket or mortar attacks, but generally it is considered a relatively secure, safe place to try and get away from it all.

* * *

But one of the things you don't get away from, and which the Vietnamese don't seem to mind, is crowds. When a holiday weekend brought an even extra outpouring, a Vietnamese matron's only comment was: "Isn't it wonderful that there are so many people."

AP Photo

AWAY FROM THE WAR — South Vietnamese crowd the beaches of Vung Tau, some 40 miles away from Saigon. The route is now fairly safe through daylight hours. And the attraction of cool sea breezes and gentle surf in a relatively secure area regularly draws crowds in numbers which would not shame Coney Island.

Yugoslav Out to Crack Underground Record

BELGRADE (UPI) — Milutin Veljkovic was only 11 years old when he first ventured alone into a subterranean cave. Predictably, his oil lamp went out.

"I hadn't taken any matches with me," the 35-year-old amateur speleologist recalled recently. "I was so scared I wanted to cry. Then I felt in my trouser pocket and there was a box of matches. I had put on my brother's pants by mistake.

★ ★ ★

"Since then I've always been lucky in caves," he said.

Veljkovic, who makes his living as a Belgrade electrician, will need more than just luck to pull off his latest underground exploit.

HOLED UP

He has been holed up since June 24 in the Samar Cave near the Central Serbian mountain village of Kopajkosara in a bid to break the world underground endurance record.

The present record is 130 days, set in 1966 by David Lafferty, an Irishman.

★ ★ ★

But Veljkovic is taking no chances. He intends to remain in the grotto beneath Kalafat Mountain for 463 days, emerging Sept. 30, 1970.

"There is no reason why man should not be able to spend an indefinite amount of time underground and be reasonably comfortable doing it," he said before descending.

WELL STOCKED

Yugoslav experts agree. After careful research they supplied Veljkovic with everything he may need during his marathon stay in the dark."

★ ★ ★

His two "rooms" in the mile long cave have lights and power 12 hours a day from a generator brought in for the occasion—making Samar the only place in the Kopjkosara area with electricity.

★ ★ ★

Veljkovic cooks his meals on a canister-fed gas stove. He eats canned goods supplied by the Podravka food concern, one of the cosponsors of the stunt.

He will communicate with the outside world by mobile telephone hookup during his 15 months underground. His first phone report is due July 24.

Veljkovic is not alone in his cave. For companionship he has his choice of sheep, hens, a goat, a cat and several wild ducks. He is to study the effects of subterranean life on them as well as on himself.

The project is backed by Podravka and by Vecerne Novosti, a mass-circulation Belgrade afternoon newspaper.

★ ★ ★

"Let us make it understood now that we are not paying this man a lot of money for this venture," a Vecerne Novosit spokesman said. "It is no publicity stunt. He is there for scientific reasons. The only money he is earning is the 15,000 dinars ($1,200) he gets for the reports he phones to us every 10 days."

SPECIAL DELIVERY — A carnival mask used in the Mardi Gras parade in Nice, France, caused heads to turn on New York's busy Fifth Avenue when a messenger delivered it on foot to the Hallmark Gallery. The giant figure is to be shown there on feast days. The messenger's face can be seen through the hole under the tie.

Farmer, 96, Prefers Oxen for His Work

BERWICK, Pa. (UPI) — Edward De Lay, still active as a farmer at the age of 96, picks oxen over horses and tractors as a source of power in farming.

"I've farmed with them all and oxen are hard to beat," De Lay said at his 75-acre farm near here.

★ ★ ★

The aged farmer used oxen in his youth and noted that 144,000 "working oxen" were in use in 1855.

"There's nothing like oxen when you want to pull out stumps or boulders," De Lay said. "When oxen put their shoulders against those yokes, something has to give."

★ ★

De Lay said oxen are "bright enough not to overdrink when they're hot from work. A horse will founder himself in the same circumstances.

He said the "quiet peaceful healthy days on farms began to pass away" with the advent of trucks and tractors.

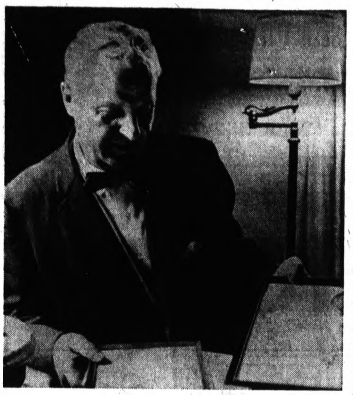
Saginaw Custodian 'a Kind Angel' in Disguise



AP Wirephoto

HE'S PAYING BACK AMERICA — Joe Vaich, 68, head custodian at Handley School in Saginaw, displays letters he has received from President Nixon and U.S. Rep. James Harvey. At Christmas time, each of the 240 handicapped children at the school get a present from Joe, earning him recognition as "a kind angel." Vaich, a native of Lithuania, became a U.S. citizen in 1963.

SAGINAW (AP) —At Christmas vacation time, each one of the 240 handicapped children at Handley School takes home a "present from Joe," who's known around these parts as "not just a janitor, but a kind angel."

"It is very little what I do," says 68-year-old Joseph Vaich, a Lithuanian native who came to this country and settled in Michigan in 1955.

★ ★ ★

The people whose lives he has touched don't agree.

Ask the young man who worked at a dry-cleaning establishment near the restaurant Vaich operated from 1956 until he sold it in 1958. The man had not been able to find a steady job and was only working two days a week at the dry cleaners.

GAVE HIM FOOD

Vaich fed him once or twice a day and gave him food to take home to feed his wife and children.

He gave away food to other needy persons, and Vaich laughingly recalls: "The cook said I would go bankrupt if I did not stop feeding the whole town."

★ ★ ★

But the way Vaich sees it:

"A man only needs so much money and then the rest he should share. There is only me and I do not need a lot of money. I still receive so much more from America. I will never be able to pay it all back.

Vaich became a citizen in 1963 and he is very proud of the letter of congratulations he received at that time from U.S. Rep. James Harvey of Saginaw.

CHURCH DONATIONS

For eight years after he sold his restaurant he was a janitor at Holy Cross Lutheran Church, where members of the parents league remember him as "a very kind angel" who donated money to the church each year, providing the money to pay for tables in a hot-lunch kitchen, drapes in the office and first-aid room.

He later became head custodian at Handley School. Teachers there say that each child gets "a present from Joe" at Christmas time. He also fills envelopes with $5 or $10 bills and delivers them to homes of poor families. Enclosed is a note which says "a gift from heaven."

"Just maybe they'll believe it came from heaven and regain their faith in the world, though they are poor," says Vaich.

Besides his work for charitable organizations, Vaich also has worked in politics, campaigning as neighborhood chairman for Nixon. In November he received a letter of thanks from the newly elected president, and Vaich had it framed and placed among his souvenirs.

Drivers Tricked

LONDON (AP) — British road researchers are experimenting with an optical trick to make motorists drive slower.

The trick, discovered by the ancient Greeks, is basically a system of lines painted across the road in such a way that they seem to merge. This makes a driver think he is traveling faster than he is.

Nigerian-Biafran War Passes 2nd Anniversary

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Two years ago a small Nigerian army set out for a "quick surgical operation" on a rebellion that since has spread to a malignancy of air warfare, starving civilians and a suffering body politic.

The Biafran revolt has shattered Africa's example of a model grouping of tribes, religions, economies and ways of life, which had begun to thrive as an independent nation.

★ ★ ★

Death, injury and sickness have reached millions of the 55 million inhabitants. Perhaps more than $600 million has been spent on aircraft, bullets and war-related expenses.

Nigeria, once easy going and open, now searches for spies and "rumormongers." Soldiers and civilians don't often mix easily.

RELIEF TAKE-OVER

A few days ago the federal Nigerian government told about 20 relief agencies that Nigeria was taking over all war relief efforts for both federally controlled areas and Biafra.

The move, in effect, represents an almost complete blockade of Biafra. International Red Cross officials predict disaster for Biafra's civilian population if relief flights are not begun soon.

★ ★ ★

At the outset — July 6, 1967 — each side underestimated the other. Federal authorities spoke of a police action. Biafrans boasted no army in black Africa could beat them.

Nigeria, with rich oil fields and a strictly controlled economy, has paid cash for eveeything.

SHRINKING STATE

The secessionist state has shrunk from the former Eastern Region of 30,000 square miles to an embattled circle one-tenth that size — equal to Delaware plus Rhode Island. Its population has shrunk from 14 million to three or four million, mostly of the Ibo tribe.

Nigerian jets have cut air traffic to a trickle of arms flights. A seasonal food crop promises Biafra some nourishment, but vital needs like protein, salt and medicine are cut off.

★ ★ ★

Biafra's Gen. C. Odumwegwu Ojukwu, a 35-year-old Oxford graduate, insists an immediate cease-fire is necessary to find a political solution. Nigeria's Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowon, a British-trained officer one year younger, says that would give Biafrans a breathing spell.

The problem of renouncing secession remains, ready to founder any new peace attempt as it has the last four times.

PUBLIC RELATIONS

A powerful mobile radio transmitter beams Biafra's side of the conflict to the outside. The killing of 10 Italians and a Jordanian by Biafran soldiers at an oil camp — and other incidents — cost Biafra a lot of friends. But in general Biafra's public relations have made a strong impact in other countries.

Meanwhile the 100.000-man federal army, 10 times its original size, slowly tightens the circle. Biafra's army is vaguel estimated at one-third that figure, although thousands of others help.

★ ★ ★

But the bush country lends itself to ambush and guerrilla harassment, making federal supply lines hard to protect.

Twice outside help has revived Biafra's effort. Last year French arms helped check a federal drive. Later a Swedish pilot brought five tiny aircraft strung with rockets to attack federal air bases and cut into Nigeria's fleet of dated Soviet-built aircraft.

BOOSTED MORALE

The air strikes changed the war, toughening federal resolve but boosting Biafran morale.

Internal Nigerian politics, always complex, are feeling the strain of war. "Open and clandestine" meetings are banned in the federal Western State, where 10 million Youbas are entangled in political intrigues that trace back to before the Brisith came in the late 1800s.

The recurrent complaint by the Ibos of Biafra is that federal troops led by northern Moslem elements, are out to annihilate them physically and culturally. An international observer team and many outside analysts say that is not true.

Surface trouble broke out in January 1966 when an Ibo-inspired coup killed the prime minister, northerner Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa. A countercoup six months later brought Gowon to power.

Ibos say riots in the North between March and September 1966 killed more than 30,000 of their brothers. Most neutral sources put the figure lower, and northerners say Ibos did some killing in revenge.

Conciliation with the East failed. Ojukwu secded May 30, 1967, refusing to accept Gowon's 12-state proposal to weaken regional governments.

★ ★ ★

Observers fear an end to the war may be only the beginning. Federal authorities have tried to assure the Ibos they are welcome as Nigerians. Many are clearly unconvinced.

Whether the scars of Nigerai's malignancy can heal — if it can be cured at all — few are daring to guess.

Researcher: Some Cancer Likely Virus-Induced

NEW YORK (UPI) — Though no human cancer virus has been found in 30 years of searching, the hunt must go on because it still "seems likely and perhaps inevitable that at least some human cancer is virus-induced."

* * *

Dr. Renato Dulbecco, one of the leaders in the long search, was engaged in a private summing-up, and he was quick to add that it is "unlikely viruses are the sole agents of cancer." To forget that, he said, would be a disservice to mankind.

* * *

Any forgetting could "lead to laxity in public health measures." In experimental animals certain chemicals convert normal cells into cancerous ones. X rays and other radiations do it too. Then there are inborn phenomena which make changes in chromosomes.

* * *

As an example of the latter, Dulbecco cited the abnormal chromosomes pattern associated with the feeble-mindedness of mongolism, and the freakish "Philadelphia chromosome" which is implicated in some human leukemias.

MANY IN ANIMALS

The search for human cancer viruses has turned up many viruses which cause cancers in animals. They're much used in laboratory tissue culture systems and Dulbecco's hope is that this research will expose "the mechanism of cancer" in people as well as animals.

"Many difficulties still remain," he said. "But I think that they will be conquered and the virus-specified protein or proteins that change the normal cells into cancer cells will be identified. After that it will be possible to approach in a rational way the problem of cancer prevention or control, even before the casual agents are identified."

* * *

Dulbecco is one of the scientists engaged in pure research at the Salk Institute for Biological Studies, La Jolla, Calif. His summing-up was at a closed faculty conference of the University of California medical school in Los Angeles. It is now published in the journal of the American College of Physicians.

Negro on High Court Backed All Men's Rights

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Justice Thurgood Marshall, the Supreme Court's first Negro, voted during the term just ended like a man who is concerned with safeguarding the civil liberties of all Americans, regardless of race.

The former U.S. solicitor general, who was 61 on July 2, went along with the majority in several cases advancing Negro rights. But he did not speak for the Court — by writing the majority opinion — in any strictly racial case.

* * *

Despite his status as the junior justice, he did deliver majority opinions on important cases involving free speech, the rights of defendants in criminal trials and labor.

On most issues that came before the court during the past term, Marshall found himself aligned with the majority and specifically with retiring Chief Justice Earl Warren, whose views he evidently shares to a substantial degree. Marshall dissented from the majority ruling in only 7 of 109 cases.

DISQUALIFIED HIMSELF

Although Marshall was appointed to the court in 1967, he did not establish a voting record until the 1968-69 term. He had to disqualify himself from more than 60 cases in the 1967-68 term, because he had represented the government as solicitor general in the argument of the cases before the Court.

Marshall had extensive judicial experience before he was named to the Supreme Court. He served as a U.S. circuit judge from 1961 to 1965, when he became solicitor general in the Justice Department.

* * *

Prior to 1961, he was chief counsel of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People and won milestone victories for Negro rights in a series of legal tests of segregation.

On the last day of the 1968-69 term, with such highly placed court critics as President Nixon and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover in the audience, the former civil rights attorney announced for the court that the Constitution's guarantee against double jeopardy is binding on the states.

OPINION REVERSED

The opinion reversed the larceny conviction of a Maryland man and ordered reconsideration of his burglary conviction.

Earlier, Marshall had delivered the court's opinion that under federal law police cannot walk into a suspect's apartment without announcing themselves, even if the door is unlocked. Another Marshall opinion held that a man has right to counsel at a hearing to revoke his probation.

* * *

In a 1968 decision disappointing to some civil liberties advocates, the court, with Marshall as spokesman, refused to require courts to treat alcoholics as ill persons rather than criminals. Marshall's opinion said it is too early to "freeze the developing productive dialogue between law and psychiatry into a rigid constitutional mold."

The justices had given up trying to reach a consensus on obscenity before Marshall joined them. They were glad to turn over to a newcomer two cases on the subject.

LAW STRUCK DOWN

On April 7 Marshall's opinion struck down a Georgia law under which a man was punished for having obscene films found by police in a desk drawer in his bedroom.

In the previous term a Marshall opinion struck down as too vague a Dallas, Tex., ordinance regulatint the showing of movies to children. But it emphasized that there would be no constitutional objection to "reasonable and definite standards."

In another free speech case, Marshall held that a public schoolteacher can't be fired for speaking out on issues of the day.

Still another free speech ruling held that peaceful picketing of a store in a shopping center cannot be barred on the ground that the property rights of the owners of the land are being invaded.

The opinion said a contrary ruling would have "substantial consequences for workers seeking to challenge substandard working conditions, consumers protesting shoddy or overpriced merchandise, and minority groups seeking nondiscriminatory hiring policies."

Marshall also found for a unanimous Court that the sole surviving son in a family is exempt from the draft regardless of whether he has a family. The case involved a draftee whose exemption was invalidated after his mother died.

The opinion suggested that Congress might have based the exemption partly on " a desire to avoid extinguishing the male line of a family."

Patty Duke Is Anxious for More Mature Roles

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — She is still tiny, still vibrant, still beautiful.

BOYLE

But at 22, celebrating her 15th anniversary in show business, child star Patty Duke is definitely no longer a child star. She is now a mature mite 5 feet tall — weight 98 pounds — and anxious to tackle mature role.

* * *

"When I was younger it used to bother me that I was so small," she said. "it doesn't anymore, although I suppose it wouldn't hurt if I were a couple of inches taller."

In her latest film, "Me, Natalie," she plays a love-awakened 18-year-old girl moving about in the world of the wounded young.

FALSE NOSE, TEETH

"They had me wear a false nose and false teeth," she remarked, smiling.

Patty is planning soon to move from the West Coast back to Manhattan, where she was born in Bellevue Hospital on Dec. 14, 1946. Her father was a cabdriver, her mother a restaurant cashier.

* * *

She remembers at the age of 8 helping her older brother open car doors for customers arriving at an Italian restaurant near her home.

"If you were lucky you got a quarter," she recalled, "but usually it was a dime—or nothing at all. But it was something to do for an hour."

CAREER STARTS AT 7

At 7 Patty started her phenomenal acting career. In the busy years that followed she appeared in several plays, more than 50 television shows, and a number of movies. A landmark of her life, of course, was the winning of an Oscar in 1963 as "best supporting actress" for her part in "The Miracle Worker." Then only 16, she was the youngest person ever to receive the award.

Inevitably, Patty's childhood wasn't a normal one, but she doesn't feel her early stardom left any permanent emotional scars.

* * *

"I have some regrets, but the good outweighs the bad," she said. "I'd like to have spent more time in school, but I was given greater opportunities.

"When I have children, I wouldn't want them to take up a theatrical career unless they really had the urge to. I think children have enough responsibilities while growing up without having to compete with adults in an adult world."

SPARE-TIME TOIL

An instinctive performer and a conscientious one, Patty spends most of her spare time reading scripts, searching for roles that she feels will expand her acting horizon.

* * *

"It's part of the homework," she said. "But acting to me is secondary now. My goals are personal. I want to be happily married and have children."

At the moment, however, Miss Duke is unhappily married. She is separated from her husband Harry G. Falk Jr., a television director who is double her age.

* * *

To Patty, life is summed up in the word "adjustment."

"You have to learn to adjust to the things you have but strive to change what you don't like about your life—and avoid becoming cynical."

* * *

Here are things Patty likes: "Friendly, open people—dogs—the innocence of children—daisies—folk songs—the sound of rain—lobster, and almost every kind of food—white wine—anything colored blue—collecting antiques—simple gold jewelry—sensitive men with a good sense of humor."

Israelis Gradually Welding Split Jerusalem

JERUSALEM (AP) — With bricks, concrete and laws, the Israelis are welding together this holy city of the world's three major religions.

But in hearts and minds the no-man's land which divided the Israeli capital for 20 years is as wide and barren as ever.

★ ★ ★

The Israelis control "Jerusalem the Golden"—where Islam, Judaism and Christianity meet—and swear they will never let go.

Many of the 65,000 Arabs here declare they feel like foreign visitors in a strange land the moment they step outside their homes.

BARRIERS SOWN

Almost immediately after the guns of battle ceased in June two years ago, the Israelis tore down the barriers which had marked the armistice lines of 1948. Highways which ran into blank concrete walls suddenly opened up.

Thousands of Jews streamed into the Old City to examine the fruits of war. Arabs flowed the other way to gaze at traffic lights—and some to stand wistfully outside homes which once were theirs.

★ ★ ★

The barriers are still down, but the rigidity of men's minds have over the last 24 months raised another kind of curtain.

The no-man's land, once a deadly wilderness of mines and barbed wire watched through gunsights, is now the scene of feverish building activity.

APARTMENTS, VILLAS

Within another two years, 3,000 apartments will stand on Ammunition Hill, scene of some of the bitterest fighting. First occupants move in this fall. More than 300 villas are scheduled for the site of Arab Legion fortifications on Mitva Hill, and bulldozers are scourging the past from French Hill.

The broad alley which carried the Israeli paratroopers on their assault on the Old City soon will bear a 1,000-unit housing project.

The National Parks Authority is drawing up plans for a 10,000-acre green belt around the Old City, and Architects envisage a multistory underground garage and bus depot outside Jaffa Gate. Arab building crumble under sledge hammers to open views and make way for highways.

The unification process continues, too, on paper. The Israeli government says all Arab businessmen must register on the Israeli lists. Jordan, which used to rule the Old City, protested to the United Nations. Israel twice postponed its deadline and then muted its demands. Most Arab businesses—taxi companies, tourist stores, hotels—already were on the lists. Those which remained would come of their own accord, the cabinet reasoned, drawn by blunt business needs.

FEWER VISITORS

Terrorist actions over the past year—the notorious "night of the grenades" when blasts wounded scores, the street market TNT explosion which killed and wounded 70 and the anti-Arab riots which followed, and the supermarket explosion which killed two students—have stemmed the flow of Arab casual visitors to West Jerusalem.

They fear another incident, followed by massive police dragnets. Security-conscious Israelis, even in times of calm and order, constantly check Arab baggage and identity papers, and Israelis regard the Moslems in West Jerusalem with suspicion.

Several thousand Arabs work each day in Jewish Jerusalem, mainly as laborers building the new houses, digging the new roads. Each night they return to their own environment and stay indoors after dark.

Jews shop in the Arab sector for goods imported from the Arab world and not available in Israel. Orthodox Jews in long black coats and wide-brimmed hats stride through the alleyways of the bazaars toward their holy places at all times of the day and night.

MENTAL FEAR

Personal, individual molestation on both sides is virtually unknown. The fear the Arabs feel under occupation is less physical than mental.

"The Arabs are no longer 100 per cent sure that they don't have to live for a long time under Israeli rule," says Atallah Mansour, a respected Israeli-Arab journalist.

★ ★ ★

"A year ago they would count the time until the Israelis left in weeks. Now they doubt if they are going to get rid of them in one year or two.

"They haven't adjusted. They don't like the Israelis' ways—they don't like the Israelis. They maybe didn't much like the Jordanians either, but at least they were cousins, of the same faith and traditions."

In public, Jerusalem Arabs demand a return of the 1948-67 status quo. In private they admit they like the city united—but not with Arabs ruled by Jews.

★ ★ ★

Israelis admit there is little social contact between Arabs and Jews.

Ari Rath, managing editor of the English-language Jerusalem Post, tends to blame the Israelis because, he says, it was their duty to make the first move. In some isolated cases there has been successful contact on a family-to-family basis.

"But not nearly enough has been done," said Rath. "To this day there is no joint Rotary Club, for example. Professional people and students mainly keep apart."

The Israelis say Jerusalem will never again be divided, that it will remain under their control. The Middle East stalemate goes on while the Europeanism of Israel is being slowly joined to the Arabian East. Time will test the strength of the sutures.

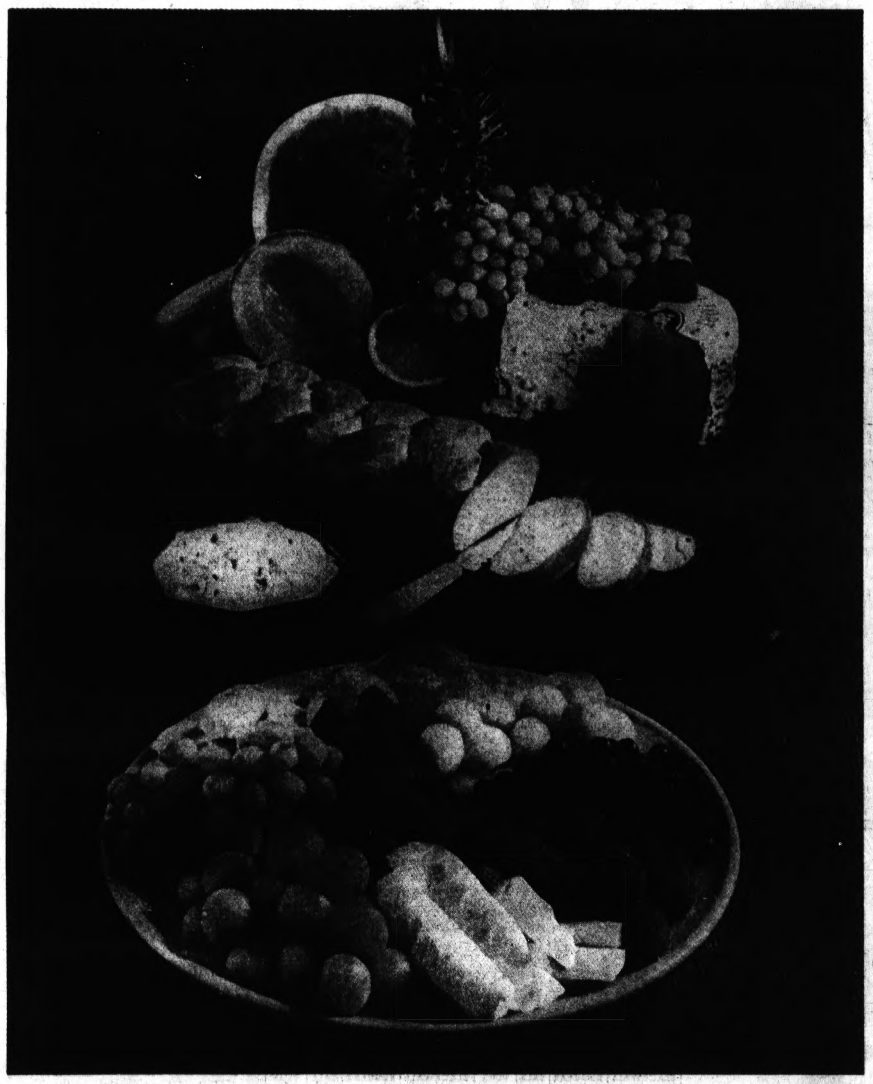
Gourmet Supper Delight



This summer, we're blossoming out with bursts of color suffused in a supper fashioned for cool gourmets. Warm weather summons salads and what could be more delightful than a salad plate heaped high with succulent fresh fruits lavishly drenched in a rich, creamy Roquefort dressing and served with delicious chunks of golden-crusted homemade bread?

Our fruit platter is a ravishing assortment of fresh fruits so inviting to look at and so splendid and nutritious to eat. Juicy rounds of rainbow-hued cantaloupe, honeydew and watermelon are resplendent in their setting among pastel green seedless grapes; orange sections; blueberries and strawberries with lemon shaded pineapple spears and banana slices. The melons, grapes and berries are lovely summertime eating, while bananas, oranges and pineapple are fruits for all seasons.

Roquefort, regarded as the King of Cheeses and one of the most popular in this country, is the perfect choice to serve with fresh fruits because of its creamy texture and tangy flavor. Made from the milk of sheep (which accounts for the red sheep seal on the covering foil), it is cured only in the unique mountain caves of Roquefort.

Here are three tips to remember when serving Roquefort cheese: let it stand at room temperature for about two hours before using so that it softens and attains its full, delicious flavor. Cut from the wedge only the amount you plan to serve, returning the rest to the refrigerator wrapped securely both in a plastic bag and its aluminum foil. Use a thin knife or a fine wire cheese cutter to prevent crumbling when you cut this fine cheese.

The final touch for connoisseurs is crusty herb bread. Seasoned with rosemary and braided for a shape that is different with an excellent taste, it is all new and modern in preparation; yet the wonderful satisfaction from baking bread is indeed present.

It is made by the new Rapidmix method which eliminates dissolving the yeast and fussing with thermometers to be assured of the right temperature of the water. Instead, the yeast is mixed with some of the dry ingredients and liquefied with hot water right from the kitchen tap.

The bread is a marvelous complement to a meal which can't fail to bring compliments to the cook.

Gourmet Fruit Salad

2 cups seedless grapes
1-1/2 cups cantaloupe balls
1-1/2 cups honeydew balls
1-1/2 cups watermelon balls
1-1/4 cups fresh orange sections (2 large oranges)
1 cup fresh blueberries
1 cup fresh strawberries
6-8 fresh pineapple spears (about 3-inches long)
1 banana, sliced

Arrange fruits in sections on a large platter. Makes about 6 servings. Serve with Roquefort Dressing.

Roquefort Dressing

1/2 cup mashed Roquefort cheese, packed
1 cup commercial sour cream
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
4 teaspoons fresh lemon juice

Blend together all ingredients. Chill. Serve with fresh fruit salad. Makes about 1-1/2 cups.

French Herb Bread

Makes 2 loaves

6-1/2 to 7-1/2 cups unsifted flour
1 tablespoon salt
1 tablespoon rosemary leaves
2 packages Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast
1 tablespoon softened Fleischmann's Margarine
2-1/2 cups very hot tap water
1 egg white
1 tablespoon cold water

In a large bowl thoroughly mix 2-1/3 cups flour, salt, rosemary leaves and undissolved Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast. Add softened Fleischmann's Margarine.

Gradually add very hot tap water to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add 1 cup flour, or enough flour to make a thick batter. Beat at high speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough additional flour to make a soft dough (dough will be sticky). Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. Punch dough down and turn out onto well-floured board. Divide into 6 equal pieces. Roll each piece into a rope, 18 inches long. Using 3 ropes, form a braid. Place on greased baking sheet. Repeat with remaining 3 ropes. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Bake in a very hot oven (450°F.) 25 minutes. Combine egg white and 1 tablespoon cold water. Remove bread from oven and brush with egg white mixture. Return to oven; bake 5 minutes or until done. Remove from baking sheets and cool on wire racks.

Charles Maintains Lead in British Open

AP Wirephoto
JACK NICKLAUS

LYTHAM ST. ANNES, England (AP) — Bob Charles, the New Zealand left-hander, tacked a 69 Thursday onto his record-equalling opening round and built a three-shot lead at the halfway mark of the British Open Golf Championship with a seven-under par 135.

Charles, who won over this course in 1963, continued his sensational play by adding the two-under-par 69 to Wednesday's course-equalling 66.

Billy Casper remained in contention five strokes back after firing his second one-under-par 70, but Jack Nicklaus' failure to conquer the back nine may have put him out of reach of the title.

Nicholaus started nine strokes off the pace and used a front nine 33 to help shoot a 70 for a 36-hole total of 145.

Casper registered three birdies but slipped to bogey fives on the 14th and 15th holes, otherwise he was as straight as a string.

Casper out	344 334 543—33
Casper in	443 455 444-37-70—140

★ ★ ★

Casper said: "I played pretty good, I suppose there's room for improvement. But two under par for the first two rounds is not too bad.

"I had 31 putts today compared with 28 Wednesday. The course played easier today on the first nine but the wind picked up on the home nine and it was still tough — just like yesterday."

Casper missed the green on two of the first three holes but still got his par figures and at the fourth hole he carded a birdie with a 45-foot putt. He got another birdie at the sixth with a dangerous looking nine footer and was out in two under par 33.

Player knocked in five birdies but dropped shots at the 14th and 15th where most of the field seemed to be having trouble with some wicked rough.

Player in	443 355 345 35-68—142

★ ★ ★

Nicklaus said after his round: "I just didn't have any bad holes today—a contrast to yesterday. The only hole where I putted badly was at the 10th.

"I believe that the holes where the champion will be made are on the last nine."

TRICK PUTT

Nicklaus bogeyed the third, birdied the sixth by sinking a tricky four-footer, and carded another birdie at the seventh when he holed a 25-footer after being in the rough.

Another 12-footer went in at the ninth for a birdie two and he turned two under par.

★ ★ ★

Nicklaus went over the green at the 12th and took a bogey. He picked up that shot at the 13th with a birdie where he used a three wood off the tee, sent his sand wedge to three feet and sank the putt.

He bogeyed the 15th after having trouble in the rough again and finished with pars on the home three holes.

The field of 130 was blessed with an overnight rain that freshened the course and encouraged bold play. The ball was staying where it was hit, which is mostly what the top stars want.

★ ★ ★

Only the low 70 and ties will survive tonight's 36-hole cutoff. After Friday's third round the field again is cut to how 45 and ties for Saturday's final.

George Archer, the U.S. Masters champion from Gilroy, Calif., withdrew from the championship because of illness.

The 6-foot-6 Californian, who shot a 79 Wednesday, was stricken with gastro enteritis and a heavy cold soon after he arrived in Britain.

Alex Caygill, 28-year-old English pro who has been having a good year on the British circuit, started out with a bogey, then a double bogey 6 at the second.

Suddenly be came alive, birdied the fifth, eagled the long sixth and birdied the seventh, which put him out in one-under-par 34.

Caygill fairly raced home with three birdies and six pars for 34-33—67 to go with his opening 71 and stand at four under par for the 36-hole trip — a mighty comfortable slot.

TOM SEAVER
Close to Perfect Game

With One-Hitter

Seaver Baffles Cubs

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Seaver's wife, Nancy, burst into tears after the game.

"Just be thankful I got a one-hit shutout," the young New York Met pitcher consoled her "Just be thankful of that."

And that was the attitude Seaver, slumped exhausted on a bench, maintained in the Mets' dressing room after Jim Qualls' looping single to left-centerfield had deprived him of a perfect game with just two outs to go in Wednesday night's 4-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

"Disappointment" was the strongest word use by the handsome, pitcher, who could easily be the All-American boy.

"I looked back when he hit it. It was in the alley, and I knew it's got to be a hit.

EMOTION SPILLED OUT

"I just took a deep breath and shrugged my shoulders. I didn't say anything and I didn't think anything. But all that emotion that had been building up in me just spilled out."

Seaver, who has trouble sleeping before he pitches, undoubtedly had the Cubs tossing and turning with the masterpiece heading into today's final game of the crucial three-game set.

The victory—New York's seventh straight and the fifth consecutive loss for the Cubs— shaved to just three games Chicago's lead over the former winless wonders in the National League East.

And, the Mets are only one game back of the Cubs in the important loss column.

MOSTLY STRIKES

Seaver, a 6-foot-1, 200-pounder, baffled the Cubs with blinding fastballs, striking out 11 and he never had more than two balls on one batter. He threw a total of only 99 pitches, including 71 strikes and 28 balls.

"Nobody was going to beat that guy tonight," said Cub Manager Leo Durocher. "He pitches like that and nobody's ever going to beat him. But, he's never going to be that fast again."

Seaver had never faced rookie Qualls, a left-handed hitter, before this series and said, consequently, he didn't know how to pitch to him.

"I meant to give him a low fastball, but it got a little high and over the middle. It wasn't that bad of a pitch though."

The Mets on the bench stuck to tradition and didn't mention the perfect game, but Seaver said he was well aware of it.

"By the fourth or fifth inning, I was feeling real strong, and I felt I could do it. By the eighth inning, my heart was beating abnormally wild ... and my arm was as light as a feather. I couldn't feel that I was throwing.

Say Tigers, Bosox

Second Place Is for Birds

BOSTON (UPI) — There's a great battle for second place going on right now in the American League East, but just ask managers Mayo Smith of Detroit and Dick Williams of Boston about it.

They'll tell you being runner-up is for the birds.

Detroit occupies second place right now — by a slim half-game — as a result of its 6-5 victory over Boston Wednesday, but the Red Sox could do something about bringing both clubs closer to the front because they play Baltimore next. Detroit comes home to entertain Cleveland tonight.

The Orioles are sitting in the catbird seat right now, flying along a dozen games ahead of the Tigers and 12 and one-half games in front of the Bosox, with a flock of contests coming up between the first and third-place teams in the next two weeks.

GRAIN OF SAND

Curiously, the fight for second and the marginal money difference that goes with the higher position in the standings is about as noticeable as a grain of sand in the desert. And about as important as far as Smith and Williams care.

The two are off-season neighbors in Lake Worth, Fla., close personal friends and neither has any great love for Baltimore manager Earl Weaver.

★ ★ ★

It's a case of "You beat 'em or I'll beat 'em — but just so one of us does it."

The Tigers captured the final game of the three-game series Wednesday — and the first time they've won in six tries at Fenway Park — but not without trying to give it away first.

SEVENTH SAVE

Detroit built up a 4-0 lead, added two more after Boston tallied a pair but still had to hang on at the end. It wasn't assured until Don McMahon notched his seventh save by fanning Don Lock, the only man he faced, with two out in the bottom of the ninth.

A walk, a single by Bill Freehan and Tom Matchick's first of three runs batted in coming on a sacrifice fly — gave the Tigers a 1-0 lead in the second.

They padded it to 3-0 in the third when loser Lee Stange paved the way for his sixth loss in nine decisions by giving up two more walks and a single by Norm Cash to load the bases. Matchick slashed a two-run single to right.

Dick McAulifee doubled in the fourth off Bill Lee, the second of four Bosox hurlers, and came home on Mickey Stanley's single before the weird things started coming off.

Tiger GM Divorced

DETROIT (AP) — A divorce has been granted to Jim Campbell, general manager of the Detroit Tigers, and his wife, Helene. Wayne County Circuit Judge Richard M. Maher granted the divorce as a result of action filed last April by Mrs. Campbell charging mental cruelty. They were married in 1954 and do not have children. She was awarded $1,200 a month alimony among other benefits.

Indians' Owner in Cash Squeeze

CLEVELAND (AP) — Vernon Stouffer, the Cleveland Indians' principal owner, is in a tight money situation and is getting offers for purchase of the club from Dallas, Milwaukee and Buffalo, the Cleveland Plain Dealer reported today.

Hal Lebovitz, Plain Dealer sports editor, said in a column that Dallas multimillionaire Lamar Hunt is prepared to buy the Indians at a figure which would give Stouffer a huge profit.

All three buyers would move the team from Cleveland to their own cities.

Lebovitz said a Milwaukee group is prepared to put up a large sum, but not as much as Hunt.

Bud Selig, president of the Milwaukee group which has been trying to get major league baseball back in the city, said, "This one Lebovitz' story is news to us. Other than that we have no comment at this time."

Lebovitz said that a Buffalo group is interested in the franchise, but Robert O. Swados, secretary of Major League for Buffalo, Inc., said no direct move has been made to bring the Indians to that city.

NEW STADIUM

"What we have done in the last few days is to notify everybody in both leagues, and the commissioner's office, that our interest in obtaining a franchise continues unabated.

"We feel they should get the facts of the new stadium from us, and we have sent letters to key people in both leagues," Swados said.

Business Career or Pro Grid?
QB Morrall Caught in Middle

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Great Retirement Movement seems to have gained another adherent, with the announcement by Earl Morrall that he may quit football.

Morrall, who led the Baltimore Colts to the National Football League title last year and was named the league's Player of the Year, told a news conference Wednesday he was entering a business venture that required his services full time.

Morrall, a veteran of 13 years in the NFL but a star only last year, said he would discuss the situation with the Colts this weekend after talking with his family today in Detroit.

"I think he's leaning our way," said Ellie E. Erdman, board chairman of Trans National Communications, Inc., which has made Morrall a vice president. TNC owns the Oakland Seals of the National Hockey League and other businesses.

"I will make no secret of the fact that I would like Earl Morrall to retire," said Erdman. "We want him with us full time."

CAUGHT IN MIDDLE

Morrall said, "I'm right in the middle. My communication with the Colts is the deciding factor."

Morrall was asked if he thought the retirement of star quarterbacks Joe Namath of the New York Jets, Don Meredith of the Dallas Cowboys and himself would hurt football.

"Football is bigger than all of us," he replied. "It might be upsetting for a while, but football will go on."

★ ★ ★

The Colts have a healthy John Unitas returning to them at quarterback this year and that would put Morrall in the position of having to fight for the starting job.

Morrall said that would have nothing to do with his decision, however, noting, "Every year I've played football I've had to fight for the job. If I go back into camp, the No. 1 job is up for grabs again."

★ ★ ★

Morrall added, "If the Colts said they really need me and want me back, that is the direction I would go."

Employed as a sales engineer during the off season, Morrall, a Michigan State graduate, also was named president of Earl Morrall Associates, a TNC subsidiary in Detroit.

Namath Wants to Play Football, but Won't Report to Jets' Camp

CORONA, Calif. (AP) — Joe Namath makes it clear he wants to play football this fall and is in good shape to play right now—but he has no plans to report to the New York Jets training camp which opens this weekend.

Namath, the flamboyant quarterback of the Jets, quit football last month when National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle told him to rid himself of his interest in Bachelors III, a night spot in New York where known gamblers were seen.

"I made my decision and I'm sticking with it," Namath told The Associated Press in an interview Wednesday. "As for Rozelle, I don't know what's on his mind."

But do you want to play football, Joe?

"No matter what the outcome, I want to play ball whether it's in the United States, Canada or Hong Kong."

Have you received any firm offers from Canada?

"How about this? How come I haven't received any real offers from Canada? Oh, maybe a word here or there, but they were from guys I knew nothing about. If I was an owner of a ball team and a particular property was on the market and he could do me some good, I would certainly want to talk to him."

You have refused to sell your interest in Bachelors III. Do you have any regrets?

"I would change my mind if someone would say where I was wrong. That's all I want—show me what's wrong. If I have been wrong, I won't want any part of the restaurant."

Do you think Rozelle will change his mind?

"If I was him, I would want to see a break in the situation. But I'm not him so I don't know what he's going to do. The charge was that I had consorted with undesirables and I say I didn't. Nobody has proven to me I did anything wrong."

Then Joe jogged down the road to prove he's in good enough shape to play ball right now if the situation breaks.

He was interviewed on the set of "Norwood," his first movie. It stars Kim Darby and Glen Campbell.

Twins, Pilots Howl Over Umps' Boner

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — The umpires admitted it, they blew the call, but immediately blamed it on someone else—a manager.

Umpire John Rice admitted he called a play wrong in Wednesday's Kansas City-Minnesota game. With Bob Oliver at first and Ellie Rodriguez at the plate, Rodriguez was apparently ruled out on a strike with a 2-1 count.

★ ★ ★

Twins' catcher John Roseboro's throw to second nailed Oliver for a double play. Rice first called a double play on the second strike, then called Rodriguez out for interference.

He then returned Oliver to first base, saying the play was dead when Rodriguez was ruled out.

★ ★ ★

Twins' Manager Billy Martin charged on the field as did Pilot Joe Gordon of the Royals, making charges and counter charges.

REFUSED TO PLAY

At one point, both teams refused to come on the playing field and Rice took off his cap and began scratching his head.

Eight minutes ticked off. Finally, the Twins returned to the field and Gordon filed a protest.

Rice said after the game that baseball rule 6.06 (C) reads: A batter is out for illegal action when (C) He interferes with the catcher's throwing by stepping out of the batter's box.

EXCEPTION: Batter is not out if any runner attempting to advance is put out.

★ ★ ★

Umpire Larry Napp, also involved in the play, said, "We had it right until Billy Martin of the Twins made us change our minds.

"We just forgot about the exception."

★ ★ ★

Gordon, whose Royals eventually won 4-3, decided to forget his protest after the game.

"I don't like to fill out those reports anyway," he added.

Slugging Birds Rescue McNally

Orioles Nip Yankees in 10 Innings, 6-5

BALTIMORE (AP) — "Hey, McNally," Paul Blair yelled to Baltimore pitcher Dave McNally. "You just can't get a break."

It's just that kind of year for Unlucky McNally even though Baltimore posted a 10-inning 6-5 victory over the New York Yankees Wednesday night.

★ ★ ★

McNally, with a 12-0 record this season and seeking his 15th consecutive victory, was lifted after giving up six hits and four runs in 3 2-3 innings.

But for the seventh time this year, the Orioles rallied after McNally departed on the short end of the score and took him off the hook.

The Yanks led 4-2 when McNally headed for the showers, but a two-run homer by Frank Robinson followed by a Boog Powell homer gave the Orioles a 5-4 advantage in the fifth.

Gene Michael's double and a single by Bobby Cox in the sixth pulled New York into a 5-5 tie which lasted until Powell singled with one out in the 10th and scored as Bobby Murcer booted Brooks Robinson's double.

SAFE SIGN — New York Mets' Bobby Pfeil (1) gets the nod from umpire Frank Dezelan after sliding into second base with a double against the Chicago Cubs in the first inning of their game in New York last night. Pfeil's safety scored Tommy Agee from third. Trying to put the tag on Pfeil is Cubs' second baseman Glenn Beckert. Mets won, 4-0.

No. 1 Fan Sees Victory by Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ted Williams and Joe Coleman like to play host to the nation's most famous sports fan. But Williams would prefer for President Nixon to come to the ball park only when his Washington Senators are threatening to score.

"We're going to request that he come in when we have men on the bases," said Williams with a broad grin.

President Nixon made his fourth appearance at Robert F. Kennedy Stadium—and finally got to see the Senators, whom he calls his favorite team, win a game Wednesday night.

★ ★ ★

The Senators defeated the Cleveland Indians 3-0 behind the four-hit pitching of Coleman, son of the former major league pitcher Joe Coleman whom Nixon knew.

★ ★ ★

"He really shows me something by coming out," said Coleman afterward. "It gives you a big boost when you know he's in the stands. I hope he keeps on coming out, especially when I'm pitching."

★ ★ ★

Nixon, along with his daughter, Tricia, and son-in-law David, stopped by the Senators' dugout after the game to congratulate Williams and Coleman.

Wills' Hit Spurs LA to Victory Over Braves

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Maury Wills drilled a tie-breaking single with two out in the eighth inning and scored an insurance run on Manny Mota's infield hit as the Los Angeles Dodgers made it three in a row over Atlanta 3-1 and increased their lead in the National League West to 1½ games over the skidding Braves.

Bill Singer, 12-6, pitched out of deep trouble after the Braves scored in the first inning and allowed only one hit the rest of the way in outdueling Phil Niekro, 14-6, who was bidding to become the major leagues' first 15-game winner.

Willie Crawford, who scored the tying run in the fifth, opened the Dodgers' eighth with a single and took second on Ted Sizemore's sacrifice. Singer struck out but Wills snapped the 1-1 tie with a single to center and raced to third when the throw to the plate got away from catcher Bob Didier. He then scored when Mota outlegged a grounder to second for his third hit of the game and 11th in the last three contests.

Meyer Given Prize

GENOA, Italy (UPI) — Debbie Meyer, a U.S. Olympic swimming gold medalist from Sacramento, Calif., was awarded this city's International Sports Prize Wednesday. The 17-year-old possessor of four world records arrives here July 19 to receive the honor.

Bucs Take Pair From Montreal

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Willie Stargell drilled a pinch double with two out in the eighth inning that scored Fred Patek from first base and gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 3-2 victory over Montreal Wednesday night and a sweep of a twi-night doubleheader.

★ ★ ★

Richie Hebner led off the bottom of the 10th of the opener with a triple and scored on a one-out single by Jose Martinez for a 4-3 Pittsburg triumph.

★ ★ ★

Jim Bunning, who started the first game for the Pirates but was not involved in the decision, fanned three batters and moved into third place on the all-time strikeout list with 2,586. He had been tied with Warren Spahn.

★ ★ ★

The Pirates trailed 2-1 in the nightcap on Mack Jones' two-run homer in the fourth. But Matty Alou, who scored Pittsburgh's first run in the opening inning, opened the seventh by outlegging a bunt, his sixth hit of the twin bill.

KEPT RUNNING

Carl Taylor sacrificed Alou to second. He raced to third on a wild pitch by Howie Reed and continued home with the tying run when catcher John Bateman threw the ball into left field. Reed retired the first two batters in the eighth but Patek beat out an infield hit and Stargell, batting for winning pitcher Dock Ellis, slapped an opposite field double to the left field corner.

St. Louis Netter Wins

NEWPORT, Wales (AP) — Mr Mary Ann Curtis of St. Louis defeated Eileen Ernest, Cardiff, 6-2, 6-0 in the third round of the Welsh tennis championships Wednesday. Bobby Wilson, Britain, beat George Taylor of Houston 6-2, 6-3 in the third round of the men's singles.

Teen Golfer Moves Ahead by Two Shots

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) — Pat Fitzsimons, 18-year-old freshman-to-be at the University of Oregon, carded a two-under-par 69 Wednesday to go with Tuesday's 68 for a two-stroke lead in the 72-hole medal play portion of the 67th annual Western Amateur Golf Tournament.

Paul Purtzer, 20-year-old star of the Arizona State University golf team, is second with 139 after firing a five-under-par 66 Wednesday, the best round of the tournament to date.

Fitzsimons, who had to borrow money from an aunt to play in the tournament, says, "It's a waste of the swing to practice. I play golf from mid-March until October and that's enough."

He helped himself Wednesday with an eagle on the 507-yard 15th hole at Rockford Country Club. Otherwise he played very steady golf with just two birdies, two bogeys and 13 pars.

Through the 36 holes he has 28 pars, five birdies, the eagle and just two bogeys.

Woes Compound by 21-10 Score

Reeds Roofing compounded the woes of the winless Milford Jaycees last night by piling up a 21-10 victory in the Milford Softball League.

Ross Reed went three for three and Chuck and Pat Reed each went three for five for the winners.

In another game, Chuck Wood blasted two home runs to lead the Milford Merchants to 15-9 triumph over Aluma Vue.

Brock's Homer Sparks Cards

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Lou Brock slammed a two-run homer in the ninth inning Wednesday night, giving St. Louis a 5-3 victory over Philadelphia and a split of their twi-night doubleheader.

The Phillies took the opener 7-1 behind Woodie Fryman.

Johnny Briggs, who smashed a two-run homer in the first game, doubled home two runs in the second inning of the nightcapt as the Phils scored three times.

Rookie Lowell Palmer carried the 3-2 lead into the ninth, yielding bases-empty homers to Joe Torre and Vada Pinson. With one out in the ninth, pinch hitter Dave Ricketts singled and then Brock connected. It was his 10th home run of the season.

The Cards added another run on an error and singles by Pinson and Tim McCarver.

Fryman scattered seven hits in the first game and got a quick lead on Briggs' first inning homer. The Phillie victory in the opener halted a four-game Cardinals' winning string.

Bass Lure Pro Anglers in National Meet

EUFAULA, Ala. (AP) — They had a fishing rodeo—mostly for amateurs—a few weeks ago on Lake Eufaula, and it took an eight-pound bass to win 10th place. The winner tipped the scales at 9.88 pounds.

★ ★ ★

Now the pros—128 of them from as far away as California—try their luck. The starter's gun at 6 a.m. Thursday sends them out on the 45,000-acre lake for three days of competition for more than $6,000 in prize money and the satisfaction that only a fisherman can truly understand.

If the annual National Bass Tournament is anything like the one last year, they'll haul in more than one and one-half tons of bass before the final weigh-in at 5 p.m. Saturday.

★ ★ ★

Fishing on the lake which runs for 80 miles north and south along the Alabama-Georgia border is excellent despite the 100-degree weather of the past several days. The pros have already landed one 10-pound bigmouth bass and several nine-pounders during the trial runs this week.

The anglers will fish in pairs for 12 hours on each of the first two days and 11 hours on Saturday, using only artificial lures. Electronic depth finders are permitted because, in hot weather, the bass hide out along the ledges of the Chattahoochee River bed where the water drops from 8 or 10 feet to 40 or 50 feet.

★ ★ ★

No bass under 12 inches long will even be weighed in. Pros who work Lake Eufaula are excluded from the competition.

★ ★ ★

It's weight that counts in the tournament. Each contestant is limited to 15 bass per day and is awarded 10 points per ounce on his total catch. The one with the most points at the close of the competition gets the first prize; if there is a tie, it will be settled by a sudden-death fishoff.

Professional fishermen will compete from Alabama (outside of Lake Eufaula), Arkansas, California, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee and Texas.

Late Efforts Bring Wins for 5 Teams

The final inning was decisive for five teams yesterday in the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department's junior baseball program.

Two class D games were decided in the last of the seventh; substitute Bob Reed singled home the winning run as Elmer's Ashland nipped the Met Club, 3-2; and Doug Gaines' safety ended McCullough Realty's 4-3 conquest of the Pontiac Police Officers' Association.

★ ★ ★

Consecutive singles by Randy Handnell, Bob Teague and Larry Dura in the bottom of the seventh gave Talbott Construction two runs and a 5-4 Class E win over Rochester.

STEALS VICTORY

The prowling Eriksen's Tigers pulled out a 4-3 squeaker over the F.O.P. Yankees in "E" play on Tim Perry's steal of home in the fifth inning.

Five runs in sixth and two in the last of the seventh enabled AAMCO's Firebirds to prevail, 11-10, over the Padres in a Class F International thriller.

★ ★ ★

The best Widget American contest saw McCray's Catering, down 9-1 with three innings to go, tied the score with a seven-run spree in the fifth and post a 10-9 triumph in its next at bat.

Detroit Deals Center to Atlanta Falcons

ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlanta Falcons have traded a future undisclosed draft choice to the Detroit Lions for veteran center Mike Alford, it was announced Wednesday.

Alford, a 6-foot-3, 235-pounder from Auburn, was drafted into the National Football League originally by the St. Louis Cardinals in 1965. He was traded to the Lions a year later and has spent the past two seasons on the Detroit taxi squad.

M.G. Lefty Fires Blanks in 7-0 Triumph Over OCC

Once-beaten M. G. Collision didn't need to bring its bats Wednesday evening to extend its hold on first place in the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department's Class A baseball loop to four games.

With frugal left-hander Walt Miller on the mound for the league leaders and Oakland Community College generous to a fault, M. G. paraded to a 7-0 conquest.

★ ★ ★

The circuit's top pitcher, the veteran southpaw Miller recorded his third shutout and lowered his earned run average to 0.4 in nearly 50 innings of work while posting his sixth win in seven outings.

ONE THREAT

He also raised his league-leading strikeout total with eight more whiffs, getting the last batter on strikes after the Highlanders loaded the bases in a futile bid to score.

U. A. W. Pins Setback on College Squad

Two big innings enabled U.A.W. Local 653 to take over first place in the city's Class B baseball title chase Wednesday night at Jaycee Park.

A four-run second inning and a three-run fifth sparked the union to a 7-1 conquest of Oakland Community College, breaking the tie between the two teams for the top spot.

★ ★ ★

Alonzo Bobo had a two-run single and stole home to highlight the second inning outburst, and Mike West's two-run safety sparked the fifth inning spree.

Named All-Star Catcher

AL Lineup Stacked With Homer Hitters

NEW YORK (AP) — The American League hopes to roll out the old home run cannon to try to snap the National League's six-game win streak in the July 22 All-Star game at Washington with sluggers like Reggie Jackson and Frank Howard in the starting line-up.

The big surprise in the line-up, announced Wednesday by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn was the absence of Baltimore's Brooks Robinson, the third base starter five years in a row. Brooks gave way to Sa Bando of the Oakland A's.

★ ★ ★

Baltimore, breezing along in the Eastern Division, wound up with outfielder Frank Robinson and first baseman John "Boog" Powell in the starting eight. Pitchers are picked later. Oakland, running second to Minnesota in the Western Division, also had a pair—Bando at third and Jackson in the outfield.

Rico Petrocelli, Boston's shortstop who has developed into a long ball threat, topped the balloting of players, managers and coaches with 286 votes. The next best was Jackson's 260. Players were not permitted to vote for their own teammates.

HOMER DUEL

Howard, the giant-sized Washington slugger who is fighting with Jackson for the home run title, was one of three repeaters from the 1968 starting line-up. The others were catcher Bill Freehan of Detroit and second baseman Rod Carew of Minnesota, the current batting leader.

Minnesota, Boston, Washington and Detroit have one starter each. By divisions the East had five, the West three.

Members of the National League's starting line-up will be announced Friday afternoon.

Mayo Smith, who led Detroit to the pennant last year, will manage the Americans against Red Schoendienst, his World Series rival as skipper of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Preparing for Jets

College Stars in Camp

CHICAGO (AP) — A squad of more than forty college football stars assembled in Evanston Wednesday to prepare for their Aug. 1 battle against the world champion New York Jets in the 36th annual College All-Star Football Game.

Coach Otto Graham and his six assistants say this year's team is a great one, especially in the front line, six of whose members were picked in the first round of the pro draft.

★ ★ ★

But four of last year's greatest college stars won't be at the first practice because they have not signed their pro contracts yet.

Among the absentees is O. J. Simpson; Southern Cal's super back who's still dickering with the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League.

Also in that category are Purdue's Leroy Keyes, Michigan's Ron Johnson, and Penn State's Ted Kwalick.

★ ★ ★

The champion Jets began working out for the game Wednesday in New York, also minus their leading man, quarterback Joe Namath.

★ ★ ★

This will be the first year the Stars will face AFL opposition in the game. They've lost the last five to NFL champs, since they beat the Green Bay Packers in 1963.

Entry Deadline Draws Near

Record Seniors Field Seen for Net Play

The increasing flow of entries as the deadline nears for the 10th annual Oakland County Open Tennis Tournament indicates the likelihood of a record seniors field and an encouraging turnout in the new mixed doubles event.

★ ★ ★

The senior singles and the men's singles and doubles are luring the best support at this time, with a surprising lack of juniors entries causing apprehension.

★ ★ ★

The deadline for entering the 1969 tourney, which will commence July 18, is 4 p.m. next Wednesday. The forms should be submitted to The Press sports department, or the co-sponsoring Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department at City Hall.

The entry fee is 50 cents per player per event (or $1 per doubles team). No player can participate in more than three events due to the possibility of scheduling problems in the later rounds.

In addition to men's singles, senior singles and the mixed doubles, competition is scheduled in men's doubles plus junior singles and doubles.

The juniors' class is limited to boys 17-and-under. Senior men are players 35-and-older.

SCHEDULE

The tentative playing schedule calls for the seniors to begin their eliminations Friday evening July 18. Men's doubles also may start that evening.

The juniors and remaining men's doubles probably will play their first two rounds Saturday July 19. Men's singles and the mixed doubles are listed primarily for Sunday the 20th.

The amount of entries in each event and the weather will be factors affecting the scheduling. At least two rounds will be played in most events on the first weekend.

★ ★ ★

The quarter-finals, semifinals and finals are scheduled for Saturday and Sunday July 26-27.

All matches will be played at Oakland University. Trophies will be awarded the winners and runners-up in all events.

In addition to the 50-cent entry fee per event, each player must provide two new balls for all matches until the semifinals.

★ ★ ★

Any players having time conflicts during the opening three dates of the tournament should note this on their entry form. Matches may be scheduled anytime after 5:30 p.m. on Friday, and 8 a.m.-dark on Saturdays and Sundays.

Four Sharing Second Place in Gals' Loop

Four teams now are tied for second place with 2-2 records in the city women's Slowpitch Softball League after victories last night by Gethsemane Lutheran, Progressive Welder and AMRC.

★ ★ ★

The churchwomen pulled out a squeaker, 11-10, to knock Town and Country Inn out of the runner-up spot. Marty Lawson's two-run homer put Gethsemae ahead for good as it scored five times in the sixth inning.

★ ★ ★

The welders and Pontiac Press combined for 48 hits and Progressive rallied for 18 runs in its last two at bats to earn a 25-16 victory.

Wilma Clark had two home runs among her four hits for the winners, and teammates Marge Bierlein and Butch Balkwell each added a quartet, while Diane Goulek clubbed two singles, a triple and home run for the losers.

★ ★ ★

AMRC's second straight victory featured a four-run outburst in the third inning which broke a 7-7 tie. It then held Standard Auto scoreless over the final four innings for a 15-7 victory.

Clothiers Closing In on Title

The city men's slowpitch softball Class A League races continue at different tempos.

Unyielding Conn's Clothes withstood another challenge at its perfect record to deal J. A. Fredman an 11-8 defeat Wednesday night and drop the losers into third place in the American Division.

★ ★ ★

The clothiers' 15th straight conquest gives them a golden chance to all but clinch their divisional honors with wins in their 7 p.m. Sunday and Wednesday showdowns at Northside Park with the runner-up Pontiac Press (13-2). Fredman's fell to 13-3.

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile, the National Division race tightened considerably last night when Johnson and Anderson pulled out an eight-inning 4-2 triumph over the first-place Congregation.

SHARE SECOND

MGM Cleaners remained tied with J & A for second place with a forfeit decision over Local 594. Both winners are now 8-8, while the pacesetters slipped to 9-7.

J&A's win resulted when Bob Williamson tripled and Jerry Blanton doubled to start the eighth. An error let in Blanton with the insurance marker. The two teams had been tied at 2-2 since the fourth.

★ ★ ★

Conn's broke a 2-2 tie with five runs in the fourth inning, three on Hank Thomas' circuit clout which capped the explosion after Cliff Armstrong homered with one on to snap the tie.

Tom Davis' home run got two of the runs back in the bottom of the inning, and Fredman's twice cut its dificit to one run.

Oxford Mattress moved within a half game of fifth place in the American Division by trimming Miracle Lounge, 6-3, after trailing by three runs going into the last of the fifth.

★ ★ ★

A four-run spree in that inning turned the outcome around. Consecutive two-baggers by Larry Walters and substitute Theron Franklin keyed the outburst, and Mike Thornberry's single brought in the tying and go-ahead markers.

Hit Spree Keeps Liberty on Top; Engineers Rally

A 21-hit attack led by Ken Farnstrom's four runs batted in carried Liberty Tool to a 16-1 rout of winless Mobil Temp last night in the Walled Lake Industrial Slowpitch Softball circuit.

Farnstrom ripped a three-run homer in the second inning to feature the "B" Division leaders' victory.

★ ★ ★

In the "A" bracket, Carpentry Engineering closed in on fourth-place Copper Mug with a 9-8 come-from-behind win in eight innings. Carpentry tied it with two runs in the last of the seventh.

★ ★ ★

Pitcher Fred Koby's two-bagger and Ken Russell's single ended it one inning later. Carpentry is now one game behind the tavern team in the standings.

A one-hitter by Pete Taylor yesterday enabled Waterford to post an easy decision and remain atop the standings in the District 18 American Legion baseball race.

* * *

Taylor's pitching resulted in a 10-0 Waterford verdict over Farmington that raised the winners' record to 11-3. Mike Murphy rapped out three hits and Mike Harkey added a pair to back Taylor's effort.

ONE GAME BACK

Second-place Madison Heights remained a game off the pace with a 6-1 decision over Waterford Mott. Bob Trembly went two-for-two at the plate and drove in two runs for Madison. Teammate Neil Fatheree aided the cause with two hits.

* * *

Clyde Duncan picked up a pair of hits and drove in two runs as Pontiac Central squeezed past Berkley, 3-1. Steve Bass picked up the mound decision.

FLIPS SHUTOUT

Don Burlingame hurled shutout ball and teammate Tim Johnson backed him with three hits as Walled Lake downed Clarkston, 3-0.

In the final game, Southfield and Milford played to an eight-inning standoff and they'll make up the game at a later date.

Five Net Seeds Reach Quarter-Finals

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Five seeded players made it to today's quarter-finals in the U.S. Amateur Tennis Championship, but they had a tough time getting there.

All were forced into extra sets Wednesday by stubborn foes.

* * *

Sixth-seeded Mike Estep of Dallas fell at the hands of Turner Howard of Knoxville, Tenn., 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.

The quintet reaching the round of eight were top-seeded Eugene Scott of New York, second-seeded Joaquin Loyo-Mayo of Mexico, fourth-seeded Zan Guerry of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., fifth-seeded George Seewagen of New York, and Eric Van Dillen, the seventh-seed from Los Angeles.

Scott posted a 7-5, 6-1, 4-6, 6-4 triumph over Peter Fishbach of Great Neck, N.Y. Scott's quarter-final opponent was Charles Owens of Tuscaloosa, Ala., who beat Terry Hassal, Wilmington, Del., 6-0, 6-0, 6-4.

Loyo-Mayo outlasted F. D. Robbins of Salt Lake City, Utah, 6-1, 2-6, 6-4, 6-3.

FIVE SETS

Loyo-Mayo faced Van Dillen, who scored a 6-2, 5-7, 4-6, 8-6, 6-1 triumph over Paul Gerkin of East Norwalk, Conn.

Seewagen ousted Alberto Carrero of Santurce, P.R., 7-8, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3 for a quarter-final meeting with James Pressley of Palm Beach, Fla., who defeated Herb Rapp of Decatur, Ill., 6-4, 6-1, 6-2.

Former Davis Cupper Frank Froehling bowed to Guerry 6-2, 6-4, 2-6, 6-8, 6-3.

Howard's surprise victory over Estep was the only real upset in the third round. Me met Guerry today.

West Coast Marksman Holds Lead in Publinx

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — A 20-year-old college English major and a shaggy young man who wears a moustache for good luck are leading the field after the first round of the National Public Links Championship.

Both nearly missed the tournament because they did so poorly in sectional qualifiers.

Steve Cook, a dapper student from California State College in Long Beach, Calif., shot a sizzling two-under-par 69 Wednesday at the long, tough, 6,954-yard Downing Municipal Course.

Right on his heels was Robert Blomberg of Alameda, Calif., who came in with a one-under 70.

Cook made the 150-player tournament limit by tying for third from the last spot in a sudden death playoff of two holes in the qualifier.

★ ★ ★

The student cut his left knee badly when he accidently stepped through a plate-glass window in his apartment last February. The cut required 60 stitches.

Cook didn't play golf for two months and was unable to compete for his school's golf team although he holds a partial golf scholarship.

Golf Triumph Is Expensive

Lady Player Gains First Tourney Win

"I better not win any more, I don't think I can afford it," said Mrs. G. F. Langford of Dearborn Heights who celebrated her first victory in the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association by buying a new golf cart and golf bag.

Mrs. G. F. Langford carded a 47-41-88 to lead a field of 55 by two shots yesterday in gaining her initial WMGA victory in a weekly outing at Holly Greens.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Max Evans of Southfield checked in with third place while three players shared the No. 4 spot.

It was a struggle for Mrs. Langford, who came close to winning last year when she tied Mrs. Midge Cova of Novi for first place only to lose in a playoff.

Going into No. 17, Mrs. Langford held a five-shot lead over Mrs. Evans but she proceeded to bogey the final two holes while Mrs. Evans finished par-birdie to slice off three shots.

Rookie Bursts Pitcher's Bubble

"And that crowd really helped to do it for them. That's one of my big disappointments, after the way they acted,"

RECORD CROWD

A record turnout of 59,083—50,709 paid—greeted each of Seaver's pitches with a deafening roar of approval during the last few innings, and when Tom came to bat in the eighth they gave him a rousing and long standing ovation.

"These fans were unbelievable," he smiled. "It was like a dream. I think they really spurred me. I was very conscious of it, and I was trying to do it for them."

It was the eighth straight victory, and 13th in 14 games, for the big right-hander, who has won 16 games in each of the last two seasons for the Mets.

"We really couldn't help him very much," said Manager Gil Hodges, about pitching to Qualls. "The only advice we could give him was that on any new boy like this you just keep the ball down.

★ ★ ★

"One of Tommy's problems is getting off—he always has trouble in the first inning—but I was thinking no-hitter from the second inning on. He was throwing very good at the end."

Qualls, who had 11 hits in 45 trips going into the game, wouldn't say much about the hit except that "it felt real good. You just go up there and try to get a hit."

"I couldn't believe it at times, he was so fast," commented Jerry Grote, who caught the one-hitter. "He was keeping all of his pitches low—except that one to Qualls—or just blowing it by them."

★ ★ ★

The Mets jumped on Chicago ace Ken Holtzman, 10-5, when Tommie Agee lined the first pitch of the game to the right field wall for a triple and Bobby Pfeil followed with a double down the left field line.

Holtzman was chased in the next inning when two indield errors, Seaver's single and Agee's double produced two more runs.

Reliever Ted Abernathy checked the Mets after that, except for Cleon Jones' 10th homer of the season in the seventh.

Polish Team Wins

HARRISON, N.J. (AP) — Legia of Poland defeated the Newark Ukranian Sitch team of the American Soccer League 3-1 in an international soccer contest Wednesday night.

Fastpitch Team Gains Ground

Midget Bar grabbed third place in the Waterford Recreation Men's Fastpitch Softball League last night by bombing Tru-Bilt Redi-Mix, 5-3.

With a record of 8-7, Redi-Mix's third-place position began to crumble when Midget Bar scored once in the second inning and held on to the lead the rest of the game. Midget is now 9-7.

In another game, Lighthouse Lanes (3-12) bowled over Weedon Construction (6-9) in eight innings, 8-5, to snap a five-game losing streak.

The winning run was scored on a wild pitch by Bob Von Bargon, who had walked and advanced to third on a single.

Local Sailors Gain Honors

Two Troy men swept first and second places in the Junior Ocean Group of the North Star Sail Club races last weekend.

Warren Trammal, 2170 N. Dorchester, Troy, skippered the 21-mile course in his Morgan 24 in a time of 4:33:50, with William Brazier, 6766 Vernmoor, Troy, three minutes behind in his Cal 25 in a time of 4:36:43.

Al Burley of Birmingham took third place with a time of 4:44:00 in his Cal 20.

Week's Loss Totals 34 Points

Market Continues to Tumble

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market took a sharp tumble into lower territory early this afternoon, with the Dow Jones industrial average off more than 10 points and losses ahead of gains by a bit less than 500 issues.

Trading was fairly active.

★ ★ ★

The DJI, which lost a total of 24.50 points in this week's previous three sessions, was off 10.21 at 851.41.

Analysts said penetration of the 860 level by the DJI brought in "some selling by the chartists who regarded that level as a support area."

'BIG THING'

"But the big thing behind this and previous declines," an analyst said, "is the credit crunch and the high interest rates resulting from it. It seems that during an inflation-fighting period, the stock market takes it on the chin."

Brokers said: "There's a lot of cash around, but even with prices down to what are considered bargain levels it's not rushing in to buy. A lot of these investors seem to be waiting for some break for the better in the adverse developments that have been weighing on the market, such as tight money and the concern over what happens to the income tax surcharge extension."

★ ★ ★

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was off 1.9 at 304.9, with industrials off 3.9, rails off .6, and utilities off .4.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY of Clarence Turner, who passed away 1 year ago today, July 10, 1968.
Many silent heartaches,
And many burning tears.
But many happy memories,
Of many happy years,
Sadly missed by his loving wife and family. Minnie Turner.

IN LOVING MEMORY of Leona M. Lampson, who passed away July 10, 1961.
Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear,
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach.
Sadly missed by daughters, Sharon, Lenore and families.

IN LOVING MEMORY of my dear husband, William R. Hall, who passed away three years ago today, July 10, 1966.
Our hearts still ache with sadness,
Our eyes shed many a tear.
God alone knows how much we miss you,
For this ends the third sad year.
In our saddest moments,
The happy thoughts hold sway
We will meet again darling,
And be happy some sweet day.
Sadly missed by your wife Bessie, and daughter Shirley.

IN LOVING MEMORY of Bert W. Hallett who passed away July 10, 1967.
A wonderful memory,
More precious than gold,
Of a husband whose worth can,
Never be told.
Your memory is a keepsake,
With which I'll never part,
Though God has you in His keeping,
Your love and spirit
Remains still in my heart.
Sadly missed by your wife Ethel.

Charlie Brown Says:
"There's nothing so devastating as having a cherished belief clobbered"

AND IF YOU HAVE CHERISHED A BELIEF — that charm lies alone in the newer homes for a large family — you're about to have that belief clobbered when you see this older house. The house was built over 127 years ago owner states. On the old stage coach route from Pontiac to Lansing. First settlement west of Pontiac. There was a blacksmith shop, doctor's office, old hotel and stable, stage coach barn for changing of horses on the route. All gone with the winds of time except this house — standing like a rock with the whirlpools of change swirling around its ol' solid feet. Retaining its beauty with old fashioned lilac hedges, gorgeous roses, glads, zinnias, petunias, geraniums, tulips — a riot of color in spring. In summer — a vegetable garden of asparagus, rhubarb, strawberries, corn, lima beans, peas and blackeyed peas, radishes, turnips, onions and tomatoes. Solid and well kept in a modest small community. A delightful small barn with room for 2 cars and a playhouse upstairs for the kids. Lot 136 ft. front and rear by 134.70 on the side. Zoned residential small farm on an asphalt road. Rewired up to code 5 years ago. Well. Gas. 3 septic seals. 4 large bedrooms, 1 bath and room for another. Modern kitchen, large living room and dining room. 2 porches. Asphalt roof new 4 years ago. In excellent condition. Price $40,000 with $15,000 down. Balance 7 per cent land contract. Please call for an appointment — please do not ask "to just drive by."

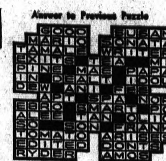
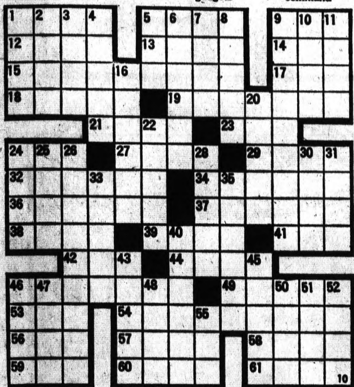
Answer to Previous Puzzle





People in the News

By The Associated Press

Actor Henry Fonda has been admitted to a hospital in Albuquerque, N.M., for treatment of what a spokesman described as influenza.

A nurse said the 64-year-old actor told her upon his arrival yesterday: "I'm just a tired old man and I want to be left alone."

★ ★ ★

Fonda has been in New Mexico for the shooting of the movie "There Was a Crooked Man."

FONDA

Liz Taylor 'May Never Act Again'

MISS TAYLOR

Actress Elizabeth Taylor says, "I may never work again."

The film beauty discussed her career yesterday at a ceremony in a London hotel where she handed a check for $240,000, raised by voluntary organizations, to the National Society for Handicapped Children.

★ ★ ★

"I do not have a film in line and shall not consider one unless something captivating comes along," Miss Taylor remarked.

Pat Once Took Flying Lessons

Pat Nixon says she once took flying lessons from a boyfriend while in college, but never got a pilot's license because the romantic attachment didn't last long enough.

The President's wife made the disclosure at a White House party yesterday for some 200 women pilots who have flown in the Powder Puff Derby, a transcontinental air race for women.

★ ★ ★

Winner of this year's derby was Mrs. Mara Culp, 27, who comes from the President's hometown of Whittier, Calif.

MRS. NIXON

Nixon Likes His Quiet New Office

NIXON

President Nixon says he likes his new office in the Executive Office Building next to the White House because people are less likely to barge in on him while he's working.

When he is using the presidential office in the White House, he told newsmen yesterday, "naturally people feel they can come in and talk."

Nixon said he goes to the new office whenever his schedule consists entirely of conferences with staff members or administration officials.

2 Area Pupils to Attend World Friendship Village

Ivy Hendricks, the daughter of a Pontiac teacher, and Ben Snyder of Cranbrook School, Bloomfield Hills, are among four Detroit area 11-year-olds who will attend Children's International Summer Village (CISV) in Michigan City, Ind., this summer — starting Sunday — to help promote world peace and understanding.

★ ★ ★

Ivy of Detroit is the daughter of Mrs. Mai Hendricks, a kindergarten teacher at Pontiac's Robert Frost Elementary School. She is a student at Sacred Heart Academy in Bloomfield Hills.

★ ★ ★

CISV is a worldwide organization dedicated to further world friendship and understanding through the bright and outgoing children of the world.

★ ★ ★

More than 48 countries representing five continents have participated since the organization 18 years ago, and by 1968 over 100 villages had been held.

The Detroit chapter will be the only chapter representing the United States at the village.

A Look at TV

Agent 99 Secure Again

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD — To get to Barbara Feldon's home you put the car into gear and aim it for the sky.

Barbara lives in a two-bedroom house perched at the top of the Hollywood Hills, an ear-popping, cliff-hanging drive up from the smoggy valley below.

★ ★ ★

Dressed in a black sweater and pants, Barbara padded abotu the house in her stocking feet. Her dark hair was pulled back into a pony tail and bangs and she looked ready for a caper as Agent 99 on "Get Smart."

The series, which copped Emmies as the outstanding comedy show and for star Don Adams, was snatched up for next season by CBS when NBC dropped it.

REALLY A SHOCK

Settling on the sofa, Barbara said, "It really was a shock, because our ratings were very good. It was a surprise, not a shock. I wasn't dismayed, however. I had a feeling of buoyancy. Suddenly, the whole horizon opens to you. Movies, my own series."

She laughed. "The next day CBS bought it and I felt that a great sense of security had settled back over me."

★ ★ ★

Barbara said she couldn't be happier with the life she leads. "We shoot in three days and that gives me four days free," she said. "On the set you're romping, wearing funny costumes. I love to put moustaches on.

"With four days off you can live, that's what you can do, which is what most actors complain about. I take guitar lessons on my day off. I can play tennis. I have friends in for a dinner a few nights a week.

Barbara was asked about reports that she and Don, her husband on the show, will have twins early in the season in an effort to boost the ratings.

"That's what I've read in the papers," she said. "We did a show last week where I just told Don I was going to have a baby. My progress is going to be rather rapid. As you watch, folks!

"I was afraid when we got married last year that it wouldn't work out. But it opened new avenues for the writers," Barbara said. "They tell me they can handle the babies, too."

6-INCH TELESCOPE

Standing on a tripod by the sliding glass doors of the living room was a six-inch telescope. "I look at the moon, mainly," she explained. "I love to see the sun hit the tops of the mountains on the moon. You can get lost in that."

Rolling Stone's Girl Is Improved After Collapse

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — The condition of British actress-singer Marianne Faithfull showed "marked improvement" today following her collapse in a Sydney hotel suite Wednesday, a hospital spokesman said.

In an afternoon bulletin on the 22-year-old girlfriend of Rolling Stones leader Mick Jagger, St. Vincent's Hospital said: "Marianne Faithfull's condition is still giving rise to concern, but there has been marked improvement since the last statement. Tests this morning proved satisfactory.

"Doctors at St. Vincent's have at no stage made mention of her having suffered any brain damage."

Doctors said earlier Miss Faithfull might be unconscious for two days. Drug squad detectives at the hotel seized two containers reported to have contained sedatives prescribed for her in Britain. They were waiting to question her.

Florida Study Finds Public College Financing Is Unfair to Poor

By United Press International

Tax-supported state universities are intended, at least in part, to equalize opportunity. With student fees less than at private colleges, lower-income families should be getting a better break.

★ ★ ★

But does paying for higher education really work that equitably?

★ ★ ★

According to a study at Florida State University, the effect of Florida's state-financed system of higher education is quite to the contrary. Proportionately, lower income groups shoulder more of the costs and received less of the benefits than higher income groups.

★ ★ ★

Douglas M. Windham, who made the Florida study as a doctoral dissertation in economics, said a similar report from California showed that that state, which has a massive university-college system, was doing the same thing.

SAME CONCLUSION

"Both studies reach the same conclusion: If the public has a desire to remove the inequities of the system, it will require substantial revison of the present tax structure and-or the eligibility base for public higher education," Windham said.

★ ★ ★

Principally because of entrance requirements which result in a study body mainly from better high schools, Windham's study said, the universities obtain a large proportion of their students from families with better incomes.

★ ★ ★

Florida's six state universities' principal source of income is state support and the state's tax system is "regressive," much of the revenue coming from consumer taxes, Windham said.

★ ★ ★

"Year after year the low-income groups will pay their taxes and year after year they will receive less-than-proportionate benefits," Windham said.

10 Believed Dead in Rural State Fire

From Our News Wires

POSEN — Two members of a rural farm family remained alive today after a midnight fire burned down their two-story frame house near here, possibly killing as many as 10 persons.

Surviving are Edward Gralewicz, son of the house's 83-year-old owner, Anothony Gralewicz, and Carol Bonin, 18, his granddaughter.

★ ★ ★

Believed to have perished in the fire are the elder Gralewicz, his daughter and son-in-law (Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Bonnin) and seven of their eight children. Carol, the Bonnins' eldest daughter, was reportedly away on a trip at the time of the fire.

Village Marshal Earl Bradford, who sped to the scene with volunteer firefighters shortly before 2 a.m., said Edward, about 55, was the only person in the home to escape.

"He said he woke up, smelled smoke and heard the others trying to get out," a Presque Isle County sheriff's department spokesman said.

The sheriff's deputies retracted an earlier report which said the 83-year-old grandfather had escaped. They said Edward had awakened his father, but the older man did not manage to escape.

★ ★ ★

Nothing remains of the four-bedroom home near this northern lower Michigan village except redhot silt, it was reported. Firemen tenatively blamed the blaze on electrical wiring in the home's storeroom-washroom.

"I believe a neighbor girl called the fire in," Bradford said. "By the time we got there, it was well started and it burned completely to the ground. We'll have to look in the ashes for positive identifcation."

SEARCH FOR REMAINS

Sheriff's deputies said the stone foundation and the silt was too hot to examine closely for remains of the other occupants of the home.

A state fire marshal was reported en route from Traverse City to the scene to supervise the search operation which will take place as soon as the ruins cool sufficiently.

★ ★ ★

Presque Isle County sheriff's deputies at Rogers City said the Gralewicz's were longtime residents in the area, noted for its potato growing. The Gralewicz farm covered about 120 acres, Bradford said.

TOUCHDOWN!—Football fans, players, parents and school officials all pitched in yesterday to begin the job of laying sod and installing a sprinkler system on the new Waterford Mott High School athletic field. Construction contractors for the new school had told officials that the job couldn't be completed in time for gridiron action this fall, so parents in the school district have pledged to raise $3,000 needed to pay for the sod and sprinklers, while the kids promised to provide all the labor necessary. About 60 persons appeared yesterday to help level the field, including several families with youngsters.

ABM Logic 'Hogwash' — Percy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Sen. Charles Percy says it is "pure hogwash" to argue that the Safeguard missile defense system is needed to strengthen President Nixon's hand for U.S.-Soviet disarmament talks.

And Democratic Sen. Albert Gore says such an argument put forth on behalf of the antiballistic missile program — ABM — in opening debate by fellow Democrats John C. Stennis of Mississippi and Henry M. Jackson of Washington represents "a shift of strategy" by the pro-Safeguard forces.

Gore teamed with Percy to needle Stennis and Jackson as the ABM debate in the Senate heated up yesterday.

DEPARTING FROM COURSE?

The Tennessee Democrat suggested ABM supporters were departing from that course when they contended Safeguard should be approved to bolster the President for impending disarmament talks with the Soviet Union.

Percy said, "The President will be in a strong position if the Congress orders continued testing to make the now vulnerable Safeguard system really effective."

Related Story, Page B-16

While the ABM debate picked up steam, Larid's testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee at a June 23 closed-door hearing was made public — providing an additional illustration of the wide split in Washington over what course should be taken in defense and disarmament.

★ ★ ★

Laird in his testimony reemphasized the arguments for Safeguard and rejected a suggestion that the United States unilaterally suspend development of multiheaded missiles.

VIGOROUS QUESTIONING

Under vigorous questioning by Committee Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., Laird narrowed his earlier contention that the Russians were aiming for a devastating first-strike nuclear capability.

He said he was talking about a Soviet capability to knock out retaliatory U.S. Minuteman missiles in their permanent silos. He said he had never contended this would be an over-all knockout blow.

Fulbright insisted there was disagreement in the U.S. intelligence community over Russian capabilities and intentions.

The senator said the U.S. Intelligence Board had "never found there was a first-strike capability on the part of the Soviets . . . or that it was their intention to develop such a capability . . ."

AMENDMENT INTRODUCED

On the Senate floor yesterday, Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., introduced their amendment to the $20-billion military procurement bill, which includes $759.1 million for ABM. The amendment prohibits deployment or site acquisition for Safeguard, but would provide for continued research, development, testing and evaluation of the antimissile system.

The Senate again put off indefinitely an expected secret session.

Leak Develops in Apollo Rocket

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A leak developed in the pressurization system of the Apollo 11 rocket today, and a crew rushed in to find it, raising the possibility of a delay in tonight's scheduled start of the final countdown for the moon-landing mission.

Related Story, Page B-16

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported the leak was in the helium gas system used to pressurize fuel tanks in the first stage of the 36-story Saturn 5 rocket.

★ ★ ★

The exact location of the leak was not known and access doors were opened to permit a crew of technicians to enter the tank, which holds 334,000 gallons of liquid oxygen.

If not found and corrected, the leak possibly could hold up the start of the final countdown, scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. (Pontiac time) tonight, aiming for a lift-off at 8:32 next Wednesday.

Senators Mull Lid on Medical Programs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee is groping for ways to halt soaring costs of Medicare and Medicaid programs without extensive government intervention in fees charged by physicians and hospitals.

If a solution is not found, some senators say, pressure may develop before long for Congress to assume the task of fixing the charges.

★ ★ ★

The committee, in opening a lengthy investigation of costs and abuses in the two big health programs, said expenses already exceeded original estimates by $4.8 billion a year.

Members were unanimous in the view this trend could not be permitted to continue, at least not at the same rate.

SOARING COSTS

It was evident from testimony that soaring costs were posing a far bigger problem for the programs than abuses.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett of Utah, No. 2 Republican on the committee, said he was disturbed at an apparent feeling in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare that it could cover losses and higher costs by getting Congress to raise taxes which finance the programs.

★ ★ ★

When Congress established the two programs in 1965, it decided not to try to write in specific controls.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., a veteran committee member, believes that a mistake may have been made in providing that actual payments to doctors, hospitals and others be made by carriers or intermediaries—generally health insurance companies.

'LAX ADMINISTRATION'

Sen. John J. Williams of Delaware, senior Republican on Finance who sparked the current investigation, said he tended to blame "lax administration" in the government agencies for many of the abuses and high costs.

HERBERT HOOVER JR.

Publicity-Shy Son of Former President Dies

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Herbert Hoover Jr. shunned publicity most of his life and when he died at age 65 yesterday there were no press announcements of his passing.

The son of the late president served as the No. 2 man in the State Department from 1954 to 1957 under the late John Foster Dulles.

★ ★ ★

Hoover died in Huntington Community Hospital which said he had been hospitalized for about a week. Spokesman declined to name the illness or give the cause of death.

Hoover once said there were three ingredients that made life worth living for him—the outdoors, far away places and mining engineering.

NO GLAMOR

When he was undersecretary of state, friends said he would have rather been in Australia mining gold. Public office held no glamor for him and he avoided capitalizing on his father's name.

Shunning politics most of his life, Hoover, an engineer like his father, made his professional mark as an inventor and administrator in the fields of mining, radio and electronic engineering.

★ ★ ★

It was his experience in oil mining that brought him reluctantly into public life. Serving as a troubleshooter for Dulles, Hoover was instrumental in healing the rift between the British and the Iranians over the nationalization of British-held oil concessions in 1954. Shortly after the success of his work in the oil dispute he was named undersecretary of state.

"Under certain circumstances when things are put to you as a matter of duty to serve your country, it is extraordinarily difficult to say "no," Hoover said of his duties as undersecretary.

Muggy Weather Will Stick Around

Hot and humid weather is in store for Oakland County residents today, tonight and tomorrow with temperatures due to climb into the mid-80s.

Tonight's low is expected to be near 70. Light and variable winds will offer little relief from the muggy weather.

★ ★ ★

Partly sunny skies and warm temperatures are forecast for Saturday.

Probabilities of precipitation in per cent are today, tonight and tomorrow 10. Low mercury reading in dowtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. was 70. By 1 p.m. the thermometer registed 81.

Ex-Trustees in Dark on Euler Firing

By DICK ROBINSON

Most of the former board members of Pontiac General Hospital still in the area say they don't know why the hospital's top administrator was fired.

Ten former trustees in the area were available for comment. Two were not. A survey of the 10 shows:

- Most say they don't know why Harold B. Euler was fired. One says it was a personality conflict. Another wants reasons to be given.
- Most can't say without having the facts behind the firing whether the board was justified in firing Euler without even giving him a reason. One ex-trustee defended the board's action.
- A majority said they haven't been close to the situation, but they praised Euler, former Associate Administrator Donald H. Carros and Controller Robert DeCleene, now overseeing the hospital's operations.

★ ★ ★

"I think Euler was fired because of a personality clash between Euler and Carros and Euler and the board," comments John B. Maye, who served on the board from 1962 to 1966.

"I think Euler's firing of Carros was a main reason. And I also think Euler had certain things he wanted to do and the board didn't want him to do," Maye added.

'CARROS PUSHED EULER RAISE'

Euler talked highly of Carros and DeCleene and Carros always talked highly of Euler, according to Maye. Carros once encouraged a salary increase for Euler.

"I just don't feel the board of trustees is justified for not giving a reason for firing Euler," said Rev. Theodore R. Allebach of the Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church. He served on the board from 1957 to 1965.

"I feel his reputation is at stake, and if a reason is not found it could hang over him the rest of his life," Allebach said.

Allebach was on the board when Euler's predecessor, Carl I. Flath, was fired.

'WE HAVE RIGHT TO KNOW'

"Euler's dismissal appears to have been a very poor decision," he commented. "The public is also concerned because the hospital administrator is the hospital's representative to the community. We have a right to know why he was fired."

FREEWAY WRECK — State Police troopers examine the car driven by a Metamora man, which rolled over several times yesterday after colliding with a tractor-trailer on I-75 near Adams Road in Troy. Witnesses told police the driver, Robert L. Cattane of 1111 Mary Lou, crossed two lanes of traffic at speeds in excess of 90 miles per hour before colliding with the truck. Both vehicles were westbound on the freeway. Cattane was listed today in fair condition in St. Joseph Hospital. His left arm was severed below the elbow.

Nixon Voter-Rights Plan Faces Failure

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's proposal to junk the 1965 Voting Rights Act in favor of his own broader measure appears doomed to fail its first congressional test.

A solid bipartisan majorit of a 13-member House judiciary subcommittee was lined up against the President's bill in advance of today's vote, indicating the panel would approve extending the 1965 act, which is favored by civil rights groups.

The outlook for the administration's proposal, which would expand voter protection to all 50 states rather than the seven southern states covered by the current law, is not much better in the full judiciary committee which will take up the legislation next Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

GOP leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, looking for cosponsors of the administration bill among the 15 committee Republicans, was able to find only two junior members willing to join him in introducing the measure yesterday, Reps. Thomas J. Meskill of Connecticut and Charles E. Wiggins of California.

OTHER SPONSORS

Also joining Ford were the GOP whip, Rep. Leslie C. Arends of Illinois, Rep. John J. Rhodes of Arizona, the chairman of the Republican Policy Committee and Rep. Bob Wilson of California, chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee.

Notably missing from the list of sponsors, however, besides the senior judiciary committee Republicans, were Rep. William M. McCulloch of Ohio, the GOP's leading civil rights supporter in the House, and Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois, who holds the No. 2 GOP leadership spot behind Ford as chairman of the Republican Conference. Both are strongly supporting the existing law.

★ ★ ★

The lineup in the judiciary committee and on the list of sponsors signal the deep split in Republican ranks touched off by Nixon's proposal, which opponents have called a political payoff to the southerners who supported his presidential bid.

The 1965 law was designed to increase Negro registration and voting in the South. Since its enactment, 800,000 Negroes have been registered and scores have been elected to local offices.

The chief provisions in the law are a ban on literacy tests in the seven states and a requirement that they get court approval before putting any changes in election procedures into effect.

Warns Red Peking

Gromyko Hits China, Woos U.S.

MOSCOW (AP) — Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko condemned Red China today and made a bid for developing friendly relations with the United States.

Gromyko, in a major foreign-policy speech before the Supreme Soviet (parliament) said the Kremlin favors talks with Washington "to find positions of agreement both on questions of bilateral relations and on unresolved international problems."

★ ★ ★

He warned Peking that attempts to use armed force against the Soviet Union "will be met with the necessary rebuff."

Despite the belligerent tone, he expressed readiness to hold talks with China "on a wide range of questions" but gave no indication that the Mao Tse-tung leadership had shown interest.

★ ★ ★

'Anti-DDT Data Being Sat On'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Gaylord A. Nelson has charged the Department of Agriculture with sitting on a report condemning the general use of DDT.

Agriculture officials denied any such report exists, but did announce Wednesday the department had ordered a temporary halt in the use of nine persistent or long-lasting pesticides —including DDT—in government pest control programs.

The Wisconsin Democrat called on Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin to ban use of the toxic pesticide altogether.

Nelson said the department has kept the report quiet because "they haven't done anything about it."

Dr. G. W. Irving Jr., administrator of the USDA's agricultural research service, and Harry W. Hays, director of the pesticides regulation division, said no such recommendations have been made to Hardin.

"If there had been a report I would have known about it," Irving said.

Nelson acknowledged the report may not yet have reached Hardin's desk. But he added: "There is no doubt in my mind the report exists."

'Tank Shortage' Laid to Army

WASHINGTON (AP) — A major tank shortage may be developing because of the Army's preoccupation with the new, sophisticated and trouble-ridden Sheridan weapon system, says a House armed services investigating subcommittee.

"We need more tanks. I am not at all happy about our tank combat situation in Europe," said subcommittee Chairman Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., yesterday, in releasing a report on the Sheridan.

Further, the subcommittee accused the Army of trumping up a need for the Sheridan in 1959, pushing it into production before testing was complete, and covering up difficulties to keep budget funds flowing.

The tank strength in Europe has been sapped because the Army stopped making the mainstay M60 tank in 1967 while at the same time it was selling an unspecified number of the same model to Iran, Austria and Italy, the subcommittee said.

"Not only did the Army fail to maintain an adequate production rate of M60s during the 1960s, but they slowed down the production line and even closed it in 1967 to produce the M60E2, which still cannot be deployed because of deficiencies," the report said.

Prospects Dim at Peace Talk Session Today

PARIS (AP) — The stalled Vietnam peace talks went into their 25th weekly meeting today with little prospect of moving beyond the familiar polemics.

North Vietnamese delegate Xuan Thuy just returned from a month of consultations in Hanoi, Peking and Moscow, attacked the United States before he even entered the conference room.

★ ★ ★

He charged that while North Vietnam announced the liberation of three American war prisoners to mark U.S. Independence Day and show its good will in the talks, the United States "responded by bombing localities north of the demilitarized zone on July 7 and 8, causing casualties among the civilian population."

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile, an American peace worker, David Dellinger, said he would arrange for a group of Americans to go to Hanoi to finalize the release and possibly accompany the prisoners back to the United States. He was invited to Paris by Hanoi authorities.

NOT IDENTIFIED

Hanoi has still not identified the three men to be released.

Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, foreign minister of the Vietcong's provisional revolutionary government, reiterated she was prepared to negotiate peace on the basis of an unconditional withdrawal of all American troops.

Former Trustees in Dark on Firing

Allebach remembers Euler as "the man of the hour" when he was hired 11 years ago.

★ ★ ★

"We looked to him because he had everything we were looking for. He was well qualified and interested in the position when the board approached him.

"He's so well known and highly respected by everyone. He seemed to know what direction he was going. He took the hospital out of the red, enlarged the parking lot, built a residence for interns and planned for expansion," Allebach recalled.

'ENTITLED TO EXPLANATION'

Maye agrees that Euler is "entitled to an explanation and patients are entitled to a reason."

Dick M. Kirby, a former city commissioner who served on the hospital board from 1958 to 1962, said:

★ ★ ★

"Euler took over in the exact same situation. The indiscriminations are the same.

"But we still have a wonderful hospital and good people working there.

'PEOPLE OF INTEGRITY'

"Everybody on the hospital board is a person of integrity and ability."

Kirby said he "thinks sometimes reasons should be given but doesn't know if this is the opportune time."

Other former trustees had this to say:

● Joseph G. Benson, 1968: "It is the board's privilege and responsibility to operate the hospital in the best manner they know how. The firing must have been in the best judgment.

"I don't know all the facts. I'd rather not get drawn into it."

● Robert T. Flynn, 1962-66: "I don't know enough to comment, but I'm sure the trustees are doing a good job."

● James Clarkson, 1957-60: "I wouldn't want to be quoted on the reasons for Euler's firing. The justification of not telling him the reasons depends on the circumstances."

● Rev. Philip W. Somers, 1965-67: "I would like to have more facts. I can't say if the trustees are justified for not giving reasons until I know the reasons."

● Willis M. Brewer, 1952-58: "I don't know enough about it but I always had a high regard for Euler."

● Charles E. Yaeger, 1952-58: "I have a lot of respect for Harold Goldberg (vice chairman) and the board. I don't think they'd do anything to harm the hospital. I just can't believe Euler doesn't know why he's dismissed."

● Joseph Jones, 1952-57: "I haven't been close to the situation."

Unavailable for comment were Cecil J. Cosgrove, a member from 1957-60, and Robert A. Armstrong on the board from 1958-63.

Bigger Europe Troop Cuts Sought by Senate Dems

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic leaders have quietly approved a call for a far greater cutback in U. S. troop strength in Europe than now planned by the White House.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield described as inadequate President Nixon's order to withdraw some 15,000 military men from overseas bases during the next year.

★ ★ ★

The White House did not disclose the specific areas involved, but the order announced yesterday exempted Vietnam and other spots of trouble and tension.

★ ★ ★

"This is a step in the right direction, but it's only a drop in the bucket," Mansfield said in an interview.

AGREE TO SUPPORT

It was learned the Senate Democratic Policy Committee already has agreed to back a resolution urging the administration to substantially reduce U. S. manpower in Western Europe.

Mansfield, the resolutions's chief sponsor, said he will formally introduce the measure later this year, but would not say when.

★ ★ ★

He said the United States is maintaining 2,700 bases, 400 of them major installations, covering 4,000 square miles in 30 foreign nations.

All told, he said, some 1.75 million troops, dependents and employes are based overseas.

FORMULA FOR PROGRESS

Mansfield said it would represent real progress if those figures were cut in half.

The White House announced 14,900 men will be brought back to the United States during the next year "in the interests of lessening budget and balance of payments costs and of reducing the American presence overseas."

The military cuts do not apply to forces in Vietnam, South Korea, Berlin, to other areas of Southeast Asia where U.S. forces support military operations, or to manpower commitments to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Presumably, this means reductions in U.S. forces in Spain, Japan, and Turkey.

The kind of cutbacks Mansfield wants would have to come in the NATO area, exempt from the Nixon order.

The United States has 228,000 men in West Germany alone.

Mansfield said the Germans are in far better economic shape than the United States to provide forces for their defense.

But he added:

"It isn't balance of payments, it isn't Vietnam, it's principle— an occupation army a quarter century later."

Commission Names Public Works Head

BIRMINGHAM — Chester Hunter has been named superintendent of public works by the City Commission.

Hunter has served as city forester for the past several years. He replaces A. P. Blethen, who is moving to California. Blethen held the post for two years.

★ ★ ★

Hunter's salary was set at $13,500.

In other appointments, commissioners named Lawrence A. King of 4230 Pine Tree, Bloomfield Township, chairman of next year's Michigan Week festivities. King served as vice chairman this year.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Arthur W. Ackerman Jr. 1134 Eton Cross, has been appointed vice president and materials manager of Huck Manufacturing Co., Detroit.

★ ★ ★

In the newly created position, Ackerman will be responsible for the coordination and performance of all functions relating to the planning, acquisition and flow of materials through the manufacturing processes, including the packaging and shipment of the finished part.

★ ★ ★

Ackerman joined Huck in 1957 as assistant to the executive vice president. He was named manager—special products division in 1960 and to manager of inventories in 1962. In 1964, he was named director of purchases, the position he held prior to his new appointment.

Cranbrook Academy of Art student Hal M. Moseley Jr. recently won a $1,000 honorable mention in the 1969 Reynolds Aluminum Prize competition for architectural students.

★ ★ ★

Moseley's entry featured a design of a "Living Unit for One," a simple low-cost shelter for vagrants or migrants.

★ ★ ★

Mosely received his prize from George E. Kassabaum, FAIA, president of the American Institute of Architects, during recent ceremonies in Chicago.

Finland Balances on Economic and Political Tightrope

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — Spring came reluctantly to Finland this year, out of key with the bouncy, summertime mood of the Finns after a tough winter.

Restaurants were filled with gay customers. The capital's streets bustled with shoppers. Though cold winds blew off a sea still strewn with ice floes, Finns bubbled over with plans to go this month to their summer cottages along the country's rocky seacoast and its thousands of lakes. They talked of the rough time shipping had this last winter negotiating the rock-strewn harbors through the thick ice.

★ ★ ★

"Pilots shouldn't have any trouble in the future," Finns laughingly remarked. "Every rock is marked by a ship."

In a way, that is true of Finland's economic and political situation. This tough little nation of 4.7 million on the Soviet Union's doorstep has gone through so many political and economic convulsions since the last war that her path by now is well marked.

AGILITY SHOWN

The Finns have shown a remarkable agility in maintaining their political and economic independence. Even so, they are keeping their fingers crossed for the future.

Behind them they have a year of steady economic recovery after being obliged to devalue their currency just 18 months ago. Exports shot up 31.3 per cent in 1968 to $1.6 billion. For the first time in a decade the nation's balance of payments showed a surplus. The figure was $77 million, against a $116-million deficit in 1967. Finland's reserves, which had been melting away, doubled and were approaching $300 million.

★ ★ ★

Economists describe 1969 as a year of growth for Finland. Forecasts point toward a 6 per cent rise in gross national production and 12 per cent in industrial investment, which declined 5 per cent in 1968.

Exceptional stabilization set in after devaluation. The inflationary spiral, which had been the curse of Finland since the wars, was brought under control. Since October the cost-of-living index has remained steady.

LABOR-INDUSTRY DEAL

Stabilization was achieved through controlled development and a general belt-tightening and resulted primarily from a deal struck among labor, industry and the government. What it amounted to was agreement to keep waga increases within the framework of increased productivity in return for the government's promise to hold the line on prices.

But the government's powers to control prices end Dec. 31. Finns are beginning to ask, "What then?"

Some feel there might be a psychological reaction among the workers — they could feel that they have a reward coming in the way of a substantially bigger pay packet after the hold-down. This, coupled with a possible overheating of the economy and political maneuvering associated with the coming parliamentary elections next March, could upset the hard-won stability.

The election campaign promises to be hard fought. Local elections last autumn registered a swing to the right with non-Socialists who dominate the present Coalition government. This compared with a 51-to-49 per cent poll in favor of the Socialists four years earlier. Biggest losers were the Communists-moderates in the party were openly critical of the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

UNEMPLOYMENT LINGERS

Finland still hasn't licked a stubborn unemployment problem. Latest figures show approximately 74,000 Finns out of work, although the number now is slowly beginning to decline. Worst-hit areas of Finland are in the north and northeast where the postwar work of harnessing water power now has been completed and farming, except perhaps for cattle raising, doesn't pay. A traveler through the area will find farm after farm deserted. Industry hasn't yet been able to absorb enough of the farm workers leaving the land.

Finland over the years has followed a policy of steadily improving postwar relations with the Soviet Union while at the same time sticking to a straightforward neutrality line in foreign relations.

★ ★ ★

"We're more neutral than the Swedes," Finnish diplomats like to emphasize these days when Sweden has come under fire from some Americans for its stance on Vietnam.

Finns who have had to deal with the Russians say that over the last decade their relationship has moved along in a "routine and correct" way even when questions arise on which the two countries have differing views, such as Czechoslovakia.

PRIVATE MEETINGS

President Urho Kekkonen has had at least 12 official and private meetings with the Soviet leadership. Kekkonen has met privately with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin twice within the last eight months.

Finnish diplomats suggest that the eplanation for the frequent meetings is simple — Kokkonen, they say, probably is the only Western statesman whom the Russians really trust. Thus, whenever there is a significant international development — such as Charles de Gaulle's departure — the Soviet leadership comes out of its Kremlin isolation to exchange views with Kekkonen and get a Western interpretation.

Through the years of war and reparations there has been one unchanging factor about Finland in the eyes of the West and particularly the United States — Finland is one country which pays her debts.

Finland for all practical purposes has paid off the World War I loan through which she earned her good name, and still is regularly meeting installments on U.S. loans from 1923 and the 1940s.

Washington has given recognition of this by setting aside annually around $357,000 from the repayments for a scholarship fund. Some 30 to 40 Finnish graduate students travel each year to America for a year's study. The fund also helps provide Finnish universities with scientific literature, textbooks and technical equipment. Since 1950, when the program started, 2,264 scholarships have been awarded.

"The scheme nourishes a true feeling for the United States in Finland, perhaps more than in any other Nordic country," commented one beneficiary. "It creates good will, fosters a true cultural relationship. It's perhaps the best thing ever done to bind the two countries."

S. Africa Dog Patrol Going Airborne Now

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — The crack dog corps of the South African police has a bite that is definitely worse than its bark.

Any number of criminals can ruefully attest to the truth of this statement.

★ ★ ★

The dogs, Alsatians, have been so successful in aiding in the battle against crime that police believe they have cut down the use of firearms in making arrests or halting fleeing suspects.

For the past seven years dozens of dogs have been trained for patrols in urban areas and for tracking in the country districts — all of them taught to sniff out marijuana, to help in rescue work and in detection of mines.

EXPERIMENTS BEGUN

Now, says Col. Andries Brink, commander of the Dog School at Pretoria, experiments are under way with airborne parachute patrols in which dogs will be dropped in inaccessible areas where criminals have often thought themselves safe from pursuit.

Heading the experiment is Constable Anthony Prinsloo and his dog "Prins."

In all the practice jumps so far the dog has shown no fear, even in leaping from the open door of a light aircraft at the command of and in company with his handler.

Prinsloo and the dog use the same two parachutes but there is an emergency chute for Prins in event of a break in the line joining him to his handler. This parachute opens automatically.

IN ROUGH TERRAIN

According to Brink, a unit of parachute dogs will be able to accomplish much in heavy bushveld or mountainous terrain where the police are hampered by transport difficulties. They will be specifically directed against marijuana growers and cattle rustlers who operate in remote areas and on the slopes of the Drakensberg Mountains.

South African police have awarded a number of decorations to police dogs.

The most recent went to "Caro" who pursued an armed, escaped convict through dense tropical bush. Although wounded, the dog sprang into a tree where the convict was hiding, brought him down and held him.

★ ★ ★

In Durban when a mob of 2,500 packed the streets and refused to disperse on police orders a call went out for the dog corps. Two dogs arrived with their handlers. The crowd jeered. The handlers said:

"Blaf" (bark). The crowd surged forward.

"Brom" (growl). Someone swung at a policeman with a stick.

"Byt!" (bite!). The crowd moved back, and within an hour the streets were cleared.

Schools-Chief Hunt Goes On in Waterford

The Waterford Township Board of Education this week is continuing its search for a new superintendent of schools.

Board members met last week with placement bureau representatives from five major Michigan universities to seek advice in finding a successor to Dr. Don O. Tatroe, who has resigned from the position, effective Aug. 1.

Tatroe has accepted the position of executive director of the Michigan Association of School Board Members. Dr. John Pagen, head of the district's Indicom program will become acting superintendent Aug. 1 until the board finds a replacement for Tatroe.

The placement bureau experts — from Michigan State, Western Michigan, Eastern Michigan, University of Michigan, and Wayne State — advised the board on procedures used in making a nationwide search for a new superintendent.

The Waterford School sysem has the 13th largest student enrollment of all Michigan school districts.

Arraignment Set in Circuit Court

The cases of a man and a girl arrested at a Pontiac Township party were sent to Oakland County Circuit court yesterday during their preliminary examinations.

John F. Drake, 25, of 689 Perry and Janet A. Heyman, 18, of 80 Ottawa were among seven young people arrested by 15 police officers from four departments at a party at 2749 Patrick Henry on June 22.

Clarkston District Judge Gerald McNally bound Drake and Miss Heyman over to Circuit Court for arraignment July 22.

Drake is accused of assaulting a police officer, inciting a riot and escaping custody. The girl is charged with aiding a prisoner to escape and with resisting a police officer.

A preliminary examination for two other youths allegedly involved is scheduled for July 23.

Man Arrested After Chase

Officer Says Suspect Struck Him, Then Fled

A Pontiac man was arrested following a high-speed police chase in the city last night.

Eddie Page, 32, of 425 Orchard Lake was being held in the county jail on charges of reckless driving and having no driver's license.

Police said they will also seek warrants charging him with resisting and fleeing arrest.

Patrolman Raymond Hawks said he spotted a car traveling about 70 miles per hour in the 30 m.p.h. zone on Orchard Lake Avenue at Lake about 8:50 p.m.

Hawks said he turned on the patrol car's flashing blue light and pursued the car, which turned south on Lull.

The car went through a stop sign at Lull and Wessen and went east on Wessen, according to Hawks. He said he followed as it went through another stop sign at Wessen and Branch, turned north on Branch and stopped.

Hawks said he ordered the driver out of the car, told him he was under arrest for reckless driving and started to search him.

Hawks said the driver suddenly whirled around and hit him in the face with his fist. More officers arrived to subdue and handcuff the motorist.

Hawks said he didn't strike the assailant nor did he see any other officers strike him.

The appointments require Senate confirmation.

Metro Labor Council Detailed by Douglas

F. Jack Douglas, president of the Oakland County AFL-CIO Council, announced to the membership last night the merger of the council into a three-county organization representing nearly 130,000 union members.

The new council, comprising Oakland, Wayne and Macomb units, will be known as the Metropolitan Detroit AFL-CIO.

The Oakland council, with representatives from each affiliated union, will remain as a functional unit and meet every second month starting the first Wednesday in September, he explained. On alternate months, starting in October, county council members will also have seats and voting power in the metro council.

The new organization was formed in a two-week effort which concluded last week.

Election of officers placed Tom Turner as president. Turner is president of the Wayne County council.

* * *

Other offiers are: John W. Gourlay of Gas Workers Local 80, secretary-treasurer; and three trustees, Ralph Liberato, former president of the Macomb council, Richard Cordtz, Service Employes International; and Ed Kraft, Firemen and Oilers.

Douglas said the merger will give the affiliation far more latitude and strength in political action programs.

* * *

Three county council delegates were elected to the new council's executive board: Thomas Lodkio of Retail Clerks 876; Ruth Smith of Hotel and Restaurant 794; and Edward Thornton of AFSCME 92.

Soviet Flight Not on High Plane

MOSCOW (AP) — Mile for mile, few countries can beat the Soviet Union for cheap air travel — but comfort is seldom included in the price.

Aeroflot, the only way to fly in Russia, offers such low internal fares that until recently globetrotting dope sumgglers found the trans-Soviet route the best way to move their wares from Afghanistan to Western Europe. A crackdown by Soviet customs ended that, however, and about a dozen Americans and Europeans are sitting out their sentences in Soviet labor camps and jails.

★ ★ ★

Foreign tourists as well as dope peddlers have long taken advantage of Aeroflot's bargain rates.

Fares can be held down because there is no international control and no need for big profits in the Soviet economy.

5,750 MILES, $185

The most expensive internal flight available from Moscow's airports, for example, costs only 169 rubles or $185 and takes the traveler 5,750 miles to Anadyr, a stone's throw from Alaska.

Moscow-Kiev, a more popular route, is a 500-mile flight and costs 14 rubles, or $15.40.

★ ★ ★

Tourists, while pleased at the financial savings, often are shocked by the disregard for the passenger's comfort aboard the Soviet airline. As the foreign travelers filter back to Moscow from the provinces each summer, they bring a new round of anecdotes with them.

One told recently of being stuck for an hour on the runway in Tashkent when technical troubles delayed the takeoff. Like most Soviet Planes, this one had no air-conditioning until airborne, and the temperature inside quickly topped 110 degrees. Several passengers began vomiting and two women fainted.

"Did they open the doors? Did they turn on the fans? No, they passed out more paper bags," the tourist said.

Another told of an eight-hour flight from Khabarovsk — across the entire breadth of the Soviet Union. The first meal was cold chicken and cold potatoes, making some passengers sick. Four hours later the second meal was served — cold chicken and cold potatoes.

Even the Soviet press has taken note of the failings of Aeroflot, which advertises itself as "fast, reliable, convenient."

Quoting the advertisement ironically, the newspaper Trud asked: "Is it always like that?"

CITIZENS INVESTIGATE

The article said so many Soviet citizens complained about Aeroflot service that the People's Control Committee, a powerful vigilante watchdog agency, investigated and found "serious failures."

Among those disclosed by the newspaper:

Too many tickets are often sold for a flight, causing some passengers to get left behind; some equipment on the planes, such as heaters, air conditioners and refrigerators, is years out of date; and there is no variety in the meals served.

The committee said Aeroflot had been warned by the Ministry of Civil Aviation to improve its service, but little has changed.

The committee gave Aeroflot three months to straighten out and fly right, hinting that some measures such as personnel changes might be recommended if there is no action.

An American aviation expert who recently was given a rare tour of Soviet flying schools said he was highly impressed by the meticulous attention paid to the training of young commercial pilots. He added:

"But when you seek the cockpit of some of those planes, everything looks so big and clumsy. The wheels go down and — whump! — you think the bottom has dropped out. When they come up you think they're coming up through the floor."

When the American complained during a demonstration flight that his suit was soaked with perspiration because of the lack of ventilation in the cockpit, he was told:

"Sweating is a healthy bodily function."

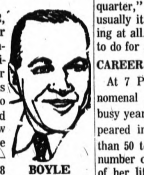
Patty Duke Is Anxious for More Mature Roles

MAKE OVER FACES

By Vernon Scott

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — She is an instant restaurant hear her home.

still tiny, still vibrant, still beautiful.



BOYLE

But at 22, celebrating her 15th anniversary in show business, child star Patty Duke is definitely no longer a child star. She is now a mature mite 5 feet tall and weight 98 pounds — and anxious to tackle mature role.

★ ★ ★

"When I was younger it used to bother me that I was so small," she said. "it doesn't anymore, although I suppose it wouldn't hurt if I were a couple of inches taller."

In her latest film, "Me, Natalie," she plays a love-awakened 18-year-old girl moving about in the world of the wounded young.

FALSE NOSE, TEETH

"They had me wear a false nose and false teeth," she remarked, smiling.

Patty is planning soon to move from the West Coast back to Manhattan, where she was born in Bellevue Hospital on Dec. 14, 1946. Her father was a cabdriver, her mother a restaurant cashier.

★ ★ ★

She remembers at the age of 6 helping her older brother open car doors for customers arriving reading scripts, searching for roles that she feels will expand her acting horizon.

★ ★ ★

"It's part of the homework," she said. "But acting to me is secondary now. My goals are personal. I want to be happily married and have children."

At the moment, however, Miss Duke is unhappily married. She is separated from her husband, Harry G. Falk Jr., a television director who is double her age.

★ ★ ★

To Patty, life is summed up in the word "adjustment."

"You have to learn to adjust to the things you have but strive to change what you don't like about your life—and avoid becoming cynical."

★ ★ ★

CAREER STARTS AT 7

At 7 Patty started her phenomenal acting career. In the busy years that followed she appeared in several plays, more than 50 television shows, and a number of movies. A landmark of her life, of course, was the winning of an Oscar in 1963 as "best supporting actress" for her part in "The Miracle Worker." Then only 16, she was the youngest person ever to receive the award.

Inevitably, Patty's childhood wasn't a normal one, but she doesn't feel her early stardom left any permanent emotional scars.

"I have some regrets, but the good outweighs the bad," she said. "I'd like to have spent more time in school, but I was given greater opportunities.

"When I have children, I wouldn't want them to take up a theatrical career unless they really had the urge to. I think children have enough responsibilities while growing up without having to compete with adults in an adult world."

Serious Crimes Up 34 Pct. in Pontiac

Serious crime in Pontiac continues on the increase, the latest figures from the police department show.

The city's rate for the first five months of this year is up nearly 34 per cent over the same period last year.

★ ★ ★

The 1968 statistics indicate the city may be in for a record yearly increase in major crimes, surpassing the 1967 jump of 31 per cent.

For the first quarter of 1969, city police reported, serious crime also rose nearly 34 per cent over the corresponding period of 1968. The national crime increase for the first three months of this year was 10 per cent.

SLAYINGS UP 75 PCT.

So far in 1969, there have been increases in all categories of crime in Pontiac, the largest in murder and nonnegligent manslaughter.

Police Chief William K. Hanger says there is currently a rash of burglaries of homes all over the city.

Only 9 per cent of burglary offenses have been cleared by who sees someone around a arrests, he said, compared to 27 per cent at this time last year.

"Burglaries of homes are the hardest thing for police officers to deal with because an officer home can't immediately determine whether he is a resident or a burglar."

FIGURES COMPARED

Figures for this year compared to last year's January-through-May period and the percentage increases for major crimes are:

	1969	1968	Pct. Increase
Murder and Nonnegligent Manslaughter	7	4	75
Forcible Rape	17	13	31
Robbery	91	74	23
Aggravated Assault	230	154	49
Burglary	713	483	48
Larceny-Theft	473	423	12
Auto Theft	302	220	36
Total	1,833	1,371	34

The number of police calls for service is up more than 29 per cent this year, figures show.

Hanger is particularly proud of what he considers a good number of serious offenses cleared by arrest — 39 per cent. He says this is above the national average.

Junior Editors Quiz on WATER

QUESTION: If water is clear, why does it look so many different colors?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Though they appear to disagree, both boys in our picture are right. Bill's right — water in a glass is colorless — but then we're looking right through the water at close hand. Tim points to an ocean effect where we see glittering sunlight and blue water. But here the effect is far off and we are looking slantwise across the water.

Molecules on the surface of water hold together in what is called surface tension. Just like a mirror, they resist or reflect light and so throw the sun glitter and the blue reflection of the sky toward us.

In the picture just below, the yellow sunlight coming through the leaves is bouncing off the surface of the brook in the same way, making the water look yellow green.

In lower left, the boys look directly down through the water and the brown bottom makes it appear brown; scattered blue rays from the sky give a bluish tinge.

These are the main reasons for the apparent colors of water. Another is that the water migth be carrying some substance in solution, such as mud.

(You can win $10 cash plus APs handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

Casper Making Move in British Open

AP Wirephoto
JACK NICKLAUS

LYTHAM ST. ANNES, England (AP) — Billy Casper cranked up a typical American challenge in pursuit of New Zealand's Bob Charles at the outset of the second round of the British Open Golf Championship today.

And Jack Nicklaus regained his form to move into contention.

★ ★ ★

Casper, from San Diego, duplicated his first round 70 for 140, two under par and in position for prime contention. Charles, a late starter, led after yesterday's opening round with a 66.

Nicholaus started nine strokes off the pace and used a front nine 33 to help shoot a 70 for a 36-hole total of 145.

Casper registered three birdies but slipped to bogey fives on the 14th and 15th holes, otherwise he was as straight as a string.

Casper out 344 334 543—33
Casper in 443 455 444-37-70—140

Casper said: "I played pretty, good, I suppose there's room for improvement. But two under par for the first two rounds is not too bad.

"I had 31 putts today compared with 28 Wednesday. The course played easier today on the first nine but the wind picked up on the home nine and it was still tough — just like yesterday."

MISSED GREENS

Casper missed the green on two of the first three holes but still got his par figures and at the fourth hole he carded a birdie with a 45-foot putt. He got another birdie at the sixth with a dangerous looking nine footer and was out in two under par 33.

Player knocked in five birdies but dropped shots at the 14th and 15th where most of the field seemed to be having trouble with some wicked rough.

Player out 344 434 542—33
Player in 443 355-345 35-68—142

★ ★ ★

Nicklaus said after his round: "I just didn't have any bad holes today—a contrast to yesterday. The only hole where I putted badly was at the 10th.

"I believe that the holes where the champion will be made are on the last nine."

TRICK PUTT

Nicklaus bogeyed the third, birdied the sixth by sinking a tricky four-footer, and carded another birdie at the seventh when he holed a 25-footer after being in the rough.

Another 12-footer went in at the ninth for a birdie two and he turned two under par.

★ ★ ★

Nicklaus went over the green at the 12th and took a bogey. He picked up that shot at the 13th with a birdie where he used a three wood off the tee, sent his sand wedge to three feet and sank the putt.

He bogeyed the 15th after having trouble in the rough again and finished with pars on the home three holes.

The field of 130 was blessed with an overnight rain that freshened the course and encouraged bold play. The ball was staying where it was hit, which is mostly what the top stars want.

★ ★ ★

Only the low 70 and ties will survive tonight's 36-hole cutoff. After Friday's third round the field again is cut to how 45 and ties for Saturday's final.

George Archer, the U.S. Masters champion from Gilroy, Calif., withdrew from the championship because of illness.

The 6-foot-6 Californian, who shot a 79 Wednesday, was stricken with gastro enteritis and a heavy cold soon after he arrived in Britain.

Alex Caygill, 28-year-old English pro who has been having a good year on the British circuit, started out with a bogey, then a double bogey 6 at the second.

Suddenly he came alive, birdied the fifth, eagled the long sixth and birdied the seventh, which put him out in one-under-par 34.

TOM SEAVER
Close to Perfect Game

With One-Hitter

Seaver Baffles Cubs

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Seaver's wife, Nancy, burst into tears after the game.

"Just be thankful I got a one-hit shutout," the young New York Met pitcher consoled her "Just be thankful of that."

And that was the attitude Seaver, slumped exhausted on a bench, maintained in the Mets' dressing room after Jim Qualls' looping single to left-centerfield had deprived him of a perfect game with just two outs to go in Wednesday night's 4-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

"Disappointment" was the strongest word use by the handsome, pitcher, who could easily be the All-American boy.

"I looked back when he hit it. It was in the alley, and I knew it's got to be a hit.

EMOTION SPILLED OUT

"I just took a deep breath and shrugged my shoulders. I didn't say anything and I didn't think anything. But all that emotion that had been building up in me just spilled out."

Seaver, who has trouble sleeping before he pitches, undoubtedly had the Cubs tossing and turning with the masterpiece heading into today's final game of the crucial three-game set.

The victory—New York's seventh straight and the fifth consecutive loss for the Cubs— shaved to just three games Chicago's lead over the former winless wonders in the National League East.

And, the Mets are only one game back of the Cubs in the important loss column.

MOSTLY STRIKES

Seaver, a 6-foot-1, 200-pounder, baffled the Cubs with blinding fastballs, striking out 11 and he never had more than two balls on one batter. He threw a total of only 99 pitches, including 71 strikes and 28 balls.

"Nobody was going to beat that guy tonight," said Cub Manager Leo Durocher. "He pitches like that and nobody's ever going to beat him. But, he's never going to be that fast again."

Seaver had never faced rookie Qualls, a left-handed hitter, before this series and said, consequently, he didn't know how to pitch to him.

"I meant to give him a low fastball, but it got a little high and over the middle. It wasn't that bad of a pitch though."

The Mets on the bench stuck to tradition and didn't mention the perfect game, but Seaver said he was well aware of it.

"By the fourth or fifth inning, I was feeling real strong, and I felt I could do it. By the eighth inning, my heart was beating abnormally wild ... and my arm was as light as a feather. I couldn't feel that I was throwing.

Say Tigers, Bosox

Second Place Is for Birds

BOSTON (UPI) — There's a great battle for second place going on right now in the American League East, but just ask managers Mayo Smith of Detroit and Dick Williams of Boston about it.

They'll tell you being runner-up is for the birds.

★ ★ ★

Detroit occupies second place right now — by a slim half-game — as a result of its 6-5 victory over Boston Wednesday, but the Red Sox could do something about bringing both clubs closer to the front because they play Baltimore next. Detroit comes home to entertain Cleveland tonight.

The Orioles are sitting in the catbird seat right now, flying along a dozen games ahead of the Tigers and 12 and one-half games in front of the Bosox, with a flock of contests coming up between the first and third-place teams in the next two weeks.

GRAIN OF SAND

Curiously, the fight for second and the marginal money difference that goes with the higher position in the standings is about as noticeable as a grain of sand in the desert. And about as important as far as Smith and Williams care.

The two are off-season neighbors in Lake Worth, Fla., close personal friends and neither has any great love for Baltimore manager Earl Weaver.

★ ★ ★

It's a case of "You beat 'em or I'll beat 'em — but just so one of us does it."

The Tigers captured the final game of the three-game series Wednesday — and the first time they've won in six tries at Fenway Park — but not without trying to give it away first.

SEVENTH SAVE

Detroit built up a 4-0 lead, added two more after Boston tallied a pair but still had to hang on at the end. It wasn't assured until Don McMahon notched his seventh save by fanning Don Lock, the only man he faced, with two out in the bottom of the ninth.

A walk, a single by Bill Freehan and Tom Matchick's first of three runs batted in coming on a sacrifice fly — gave the Tigers a 1-0 lead in the second.

They padded it to 3-0 in the third when loser Lee Stange paved the way for his sixth loss in nine decisions by giving up two more walks and a single by Norm Cash to load the bases. Matchick slashed a two-run single to right.

Dick McAulifee doubled in the fourth off Bill Lee, the second of four Bosox hurlers, and came home on Mickey Stanley's single before the weird things started coming off.

Tiger GM Divorced

DETROIT (AP) — A divorce has been granted to Jim Campbell, general manager of the Detroit Tigers, and his wife, Helene. Wayne County Circuit Judge Richard M. Maher granted the divorce as a result of action filed last April by Mrs. Campbell charging mental cruelty. They were married in 1954 and do not have children. She was awarded $1,200 a month alimony among other benefits.

Indians' Owner in Cash Squeeze

CLEVELAND (AP) — Vernon Stouffer, the Cleveland Indians' principal owner, is in a tight money situation and is getting offers for purchase of the club from Dallas, Milwaukee and Buffalo, the Cleveland Plain Dealer reported today.

Hal Lebovitz, Plain Dealer sports editor, said in a column that Dallas multimillionaire Lamar Hunt is prepared to buy the Indians at a figure which would give Stouffer a huge profit.

All three buyers would move the team from Cleveland to their own cities.

Lebovitz said a Milwaukee group is prepared to put up a large sum, but not as much as Hunt.

Bud Selig, president of the Milwaukee group which has been trying to get major league baseball back in the city, said, "This one Lebovitz' story is news to us. Other than that we have no comment at this time."

Lebovitz said that a Buffalo group is interested in the franchise, but Robert O. Swados, secretary of Major League for Buffalo, Inc., said no direct move has been made to bring the Indians to that city.

NEW STADIUM

"What we have done in the last few days is to notify everybody in both leagues, and the commissioner's office, that our interest in obtaining a franchise continues unabated.

"We feel they should get the facts of the new stadium from us, and we have sent letters to key people in both leagues," Swados said.

Business Career or Pro Grid? QB Morrall Caught in Middle

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Great Retirement Movement seems to have gained another adherent, with the announcement by Earl Morrall that he may quit football.

Morrall, who led the Baltimore Colts to the National Football League title last year and was named the league's Player of the Year, told a news conference Wednesday he was entering a business venture that required his services full time.

Morrall, a veteran of 13 years in the NFL but a star only last year, said he would discuss the situation with the Colts this weekend after talking with his family today in Detroit.

"I think he's leaning our way," said Ellie E. Erdman, board chairman of Trans National Communications, Inc., which has made Morrall a vice president. TNC owns the Oakland Seals of the National Hockey League and other businesses.

"I will make no secret of the fact that I would like Earl Morrall to retire," said Erdman. "We want him with us full time."

CAUGHT IN MIDDLE

Morrall said, "I'm right in the middle. My communication with the Colts is the deciding factor."

Morrall was asked if he thought the retirement of star quarterbacks Joe Namath of the New York Jets, Don Meredith of the Dallas Cowboys and himself would hurt football.

"Football is bigger than all of us," he replied. "It might be upsetting for a while, but football will go on."

★ ★ ★

The Colts have a healthy John Unitas returning to them at quarterback this year and that would put Morrall in the position of having to fight for the starting job.

Morrall said that would have nothing to do with his decision, however, noting, "Every year I've played football I've had to fight for the job. If I go back into camp, the No. 1 job is up for grabs again."

★ ★ ★

Morrall added, "If the Colts said they really need me and want me back, that is the direction I would go."

Employed as a sales engineer during the off season, Morrall, a Michigan State graduate, also was named president of Earl Morrall Associates, a TNC subsidiary in Detroit.

Trading Moderately Active

Mart Slumps 4th Day in Row

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market sank lower in moderately active trading early today.

The Dow Jones industrial average at 10:30 a.m. was off 2.33 at 859.29.

Losses led gains by about 200 issues.

A 290,000-share block of Continental Telephone traded at 22⅞, up ⅝.

Other early blocks included:

Occidental Petroleum, 114,000 shares at 36, off ⅜; Pennzoil United, 89,400 shares at 36½, up ⅜; RCA, 7,600 shares at 40, off ¼; and American Telephone & Telegraph, 9,000 shares at 54⅜ up ¼.

Opening prices included:

Polaroid, off ⅜ at 115 on 10,200 shares; Boening, up ¼ at 9,300 shares; Boeing, up ¼ at 38⅜ on 8,400 shares; International Nickel, off ¼ at 35 on 8,300 shares; and Xerox, off ½ at 93⅜ on 8,300 shares.

The market slid to a new low for the year Wednesday as it turned in its third straight losing performance. The decline was attributed in part to continuing investor concern over the fate of the income tax surcharge extension. Brokers said the market's decline Tuesday had many investors more cautious and that they had taken to the sidelines.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 8.73 to 861.92, a new 1969 closing low and the lowest the Dow has closed since April 1, 1968. The Associated Press 60-stock average lost 1.8 to 306.8, also a new low for the year.
