Dem Predicts Parochiaid OK by Mid-May

LANSING (UPI) — The chief sponsor of the controversial parochiaid bill said today he has enough votes in the House and Senate to pass the measure as part of the public school aid bill by mid-May.

Rep. J. Robert Traxler, Bay City Democrat, said the parochiaid proposal will contain only limited tax funds now but that backers will push for $40 million at a special legislative session this fall.

Traxler said a poll of House members "indicates we have more than enough votes to pass the educaid (parochiaid) bill as part of the state school aid bill. It will pass the Senate, too—with votes to spare."

The Trexler bill, which allots tax funds to parochial school teachers for teaching nonreligious subjects, is presently before the House Appropriations Committee.

WILL BE COMBINED

Appropriations Chairman William R. Copeland, D-Wyandotte, confirmed that it would be combined with Gov. William G. Milliken's public school aid plan.

"The two issues are linked together and will be taken up together," Copeland said.

Traxler said if the Legislature establishes the principle of parochiaid this spring, "and I am confident we can, then we'll be satisfied to wait until fall to fund the bill."

The Bay City Democrat added: "the bill itself will be passed this month as part of the state school aid bill and the Legislature will appropriate upwards of $40 million for the 1970-71 school year when it meets next fall to consider both public and nonpublic school finance problems."

Probabilities of precipitation in per cent are; 5 today, 20 tonight, and 30 tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

Postal Plan 'Is Dead'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Post Office Department, whatever its faults, is here to stay, at least for the next few years. Sponsors of legislation to abolish it and turn the mails over to a government corporation conceded this today, but contended the idea isn't dead.

Wiretap Arrest Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. courts report that 263 arrests have resulted from legally tapped telephone conversations in a little more than six months.

More than 66,000 telephone conversations were overheard on 174 wiretaps in four states, 167 of them in New York.

Altered City Charter Urged

BY JIM LONG

Amendments to the Pontiac City Charter which would permit a larger segment of residents to become involved in local government are being eyed by a young, bipartisan group of citizens.

Patrick Oliver, chairman of the group, announced today that a petition drive will soon begin to change the charter in three respects. All would affect City Commission candidates.

★ ★ ★

The proposed amendments provide for lower age limits and less stringent residency requirements in order to qualify for candidacy on the City Commission and the nomination and election of commissioners by district.

The committee, said Oliver of 51 Cherokee, wants the present regulation revised that prohibits anyone under 30 years of age from running for a commission post.

A more "reasonable" place to draw the line is 25, said Oliver, pointing out the disparity of age requirements which the city sets on commission members as compared to other elective officers: governor, 30; secretary of state, 21; Congress 25; and state senator and representative, 21.

★ ★ ★

"It doesn't seem reasonable that a person can qualify for the national House of Representatives, state attorney general or county prosecutor and yet not be old enough to be a city commissioner," said Oliver, an attorney and a former assistant prosecutor.

He said the present residency requirements for city commissioners also are far out of line with other elective offices.

The plan advanced by the committee would make it necessary to live only one year in a city district to qualify.

Presently a candidate must be a resident of the city five years, and have lived in his district for at least two years.

★ ★ ★

The existing charter which has candidates nominated by districts and elected at large has an adverse effect on both city government and citizen participation, according to Oliver.

★ ★ ★

"Because city commissioners, after the primary, are elected by an at-large vote, it is very difficult to fix responsibility for the over-all conduct of the city government on any one commissioner," said Oliver.

Auto Plants Feel Black Unrest

DETROIT (AP) — A small group of black workers is militantly disputing the effectiveness of the auto industry's attempt to hire the hard-core unemployed and the United Auto Workers claim to represent Negro workers.

DRUM, for Dodge Revolutionary Union Movement, first surfaced last year at the Dodge main assembly plant in Hamtramck when about 500 Negroes walked off their jobs in demand for more supervisory jobs for blacks.

DRUM and its various counterparts at auto plants across the country are on the warpath against the UAW as well as the companies. Both are charged with discrimination.

Emil Mazey, secretary treasurer of the 1.5 million member UAW, disputes the claim that the UAW is guilty of discrimination.

CITES STATISTICS

"At the Dodge plant, four out of six of the full-time union officials are black, as are 56 per cent of the elected shop stewards," says Mazey.

Walter Reuther recently issued a warning to the militants:

"We will not protect workers who resort to violence and intimidation with the conscious purpose of dividing our union along racial lines."

★ ★ ★

In addition to disrupting production during several walk-outs, DRUM members have been held responsible for isolated instances of violence.

The major auto producers all have involved themselves in special inner city hiring programs designed to alleviate poverty in the ghetto.

'GREAT SENSITIVITY'

"We've seen great sensitivity by all the corporations recently," said UAW officer Douglas Fraser.

"Let's be charitable," he added after a few seconds' thoughtful silence. "Let's not ask why they didn't bring in these programs 30 years ago when they were needed.

★ ★ ★

"I don't question their motives. Maybe they're afraid their factories will be burned down, maybe they're doing it because of some new found social conscience.

"I'm not going to ask questions. As long as they do it, it's okay with me."

Consumers Hit by Vandalism

Vandalism of Consumers Power Co. equipment was reported today in several parts of Waterford Township, Walled Lake, Orchard Lake and Commerce Township. The first report came in around 3 a.m. and the rest came within the next five hours.

In most instances, gas lines coming out of the ground were either cut or twisted off from connecting pipes. At several homes, the lock-wing valve on the meter was turned off.

★ ★ ★

Commercial establishments affected included Eatmore Restaurant, 929 W. Huron, Waterford Township; Stapps Shoes, next door; Frank's Restaurant at 2371 Orchard Lake; and Howard Cleaners on Highland.

The meter was smashed at the Gay Toy Co., 799 Ladd, Commerce Township; and a meter was stolen at a car wash at 3031 S. Commerce, Commerce Township.

METER CUT

The meter beside Walled Lake Metals, 1377 W. Maple, Walled Lake, was cut with a hacksaw.

Service was cut off from six other Walled Lake area residences by the vandalism.

★ ★ ★

"Consumers Power is most concerned about such instances of malicious destruction and apparent sabotage, Such actions ignore the safety of the general public," said Wallace B. Schroth, assistant manager of the Pontiac Consumers office.

The company, object of a strike by its operating employes is offering a $1,000 reward for information leading to arrest and conviction of persons who tamper with company property or facilities.

Drinking Buddy's Toasts Burn

DENVER (UPI)—Three Pennsylvania businessmen — Mark Newman, Dominic Criscuole, and Donn W. Sturn—were having a few laughs and drinks in a local bar with a newfound friend when the man said: "The fun's over. Give me your money, rings and watches."

Still laughing, they handed over $2,310 in valuables and went back to their hotel to wait for the companion to finish the gag by returning the stolen goods.

★ ★ ★

Early yesterday, when he still hadn't arrived, they went to police. They described their ex-friend as a smart dresser who "knew a lot about Pennsylvania, New York, Chicago and cities in California."

Fall Start for M59 Work Pressed

By JEAN SAILE

Pressure will be applied on the State Highway Commission to begin work this fall on the widening of M59 between Airport and Williams Lake roads.

The special roads committee appointed by the County Board of Supervisors voted yesterday to attempt to have work started on the 1.4-mile improvement project six months ahead of current state schedules.

★ ★ ★

County Highway Engineer Paul VanRoekel said the early start could advance the completion date as much as one year — to the fall of 1970. He pointed out that the heavily traveled road — 16,000 to 17,000 vehicles per day — will be closed to through traffic during construction. A five-lane roadway similar to M59 east of Airport Road is planned.

★ ★ ★

The special committee voted to invite trucking interests, local newspapers, the road commission, Oakland University representatives, manufacturers and legislators to attend a meeting to be set with the State Highway Commission.

OTHER CONSIDERATIONS

Also due for future consideration is the continuance of M59 improvement west to the intersection with U.S. 23, an attempt to get proposed I-275 from I-696 north to I-75 reestablished on interstate priorities, and improvement of M150 from I-75 north to Rochester.

★ ★ ★

The whole matter of county road funding was explored by the special committee.

★ ★ ★

Road Commission Chairman Sol Lorherson said he expected another attempt would be made for approval of a 1-mill levy countywide for roads. A vote failed last summer.

★ ★ ★

Changes in the state gas and weight tax disbursement formula would give Oakland County a "fairer return" than it now reportedly has.

LITTLE OPTIMISM

There was little optimism on the part of those present that any such change in the formula would be approved by the State Legislature.

★ ★ ★

Oakland County is now unique in its funding problems, Van Roekel said. As the fastest growing county in the state, "We're like the school districts who have suddenly had to provide 50 per cent more capacity right now."

Food-Price Rise Is Too Rich for Congress's Taste

WASHINGTON (AP)—Several congressional economic experts say the government must do something about the unexpected rise in the cost of food now predicted for this year if inflation is to be controlled.

But there was no agreement on what to do, with solutions ranging from possible wage-price controls to a revamping of federal farm subsidies.

The Agriculture Department said this week that earlier forecasts that food costs would rise this year 2 to 2.5 per cent were being revised upward. An official said the figure would more likely be about 3 per cent.

Food prices last year jumped 4.3 per cent. The price of food makes up 20 per cent of the over-all cost of living, which climbed 4.7 per cent in 1968, the biggest jump since the Korean War year of 1951.

INFLATIONARY PSYCHOLOGY

One congressman, Rep. William B. Widnall of New Jersey, indicated the unexpected rise in food costs is the result of a general inflationary psychology. If it continues, he said, "I am afraid we'll see the last thing I want to see—direct controls on wages and prices."

Widnall is the senior Republican House member of Congress's Joint Economic Committee.

★ ★ ★

Another member of the committee, Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis. said "The Agriculture Department's absurd policy of subsidizing wealthy corporate farms not to grow crops causes food prices to rise. Nothing has been proposed to change this."

The chairman of the House Banking subcommittee on consumer affairs, Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo., also said the escalating price on food might call for attention to farm programs.

★ ★ ★

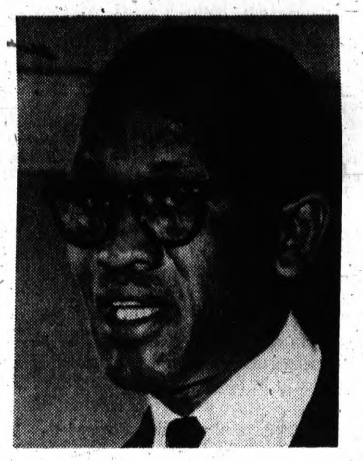

She said, "Inflation goes on unchecked and they haven't sent anything up."

But Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, defended both the administration and farmers, saying it is up to Congress to prove its sincerity in opposing inflation.

★ ★ ★

Miller, a member of the joint committee, said it is reasonable that prices received by farmers should increase as much as prices farmers have to pay.

If food prices increased 4.3 per cent this year, he continued, this would not be out of line with the program of gradually clamping down on inflation.

PARIS (UPI) — A new Vietcong concession and the return of North Vietnam's No. 2 negotiator, Le Duc Tho, from long consultation in Hanoi today brought word from diplomats close to the Vietnam peace talks that progress may be near. The Vietcong said yesterday it was ready to "engage in discussions with other parties," stirring speculation the Vietcong might finally be ready to talk directly with the South Vietnamese government.

'VC Eyes Political Revolt Tied to Summer Attacks'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon sources say a recently captured Vietcong staff document indicates the enemy plans to try for a political uprising in conjunction with major attacks on Saigon this summer.

Officials said the paper was believed to have figured in a Vietcong military staff conference in late March.

The document, captured as the Vietcong's winter-spring assault appears to be petering out, outlines plans for continuing enemy offensive activity, the sources said.

Disclosure of the new paper comes at a time when Pentagon authorities are challenging reports of major enemy pullbacks into Cambodia and disputing arguments of some critics that the enemy winter-spring offensive was in retaliation for intensified allied operations.

Among supporting material, they referred to:

- A directive issued by the National Liberation Front Dec. 5 saying "units must rapidly direct troops in resolutely attacking key enemy installations and agencies according to a prepared plan."
- A district level Vietcong's leader's captured notebook with entries from Oct. 8 to Nov. 24, 1968, saying the Vietcong-North Vietnamese forces would have to launch decisive and coordinated attacks to wipe out an important part of the U.S. war potential, destroying the South Vietnamese army, and overthrow the Saigon regime.
- Another captured Vietcong notebook mentioning a province committee resolution directing subordinate forces to prepare from seven to 10 objectives for higher headquarters prior to Dec. 20, 1968, together with plans for carrying out attacks.

Sunshine and Showers

April Agreed With Wind-Wary

Tornado-wary residents of Oakland County were given a respite from watches and warnings as the month of April remained free of windstorms.

April 1968 heralded the advent of the blustery season with a watch that climaxed in hail, driving winds, flooded streets and downed electric and telephone wires.

★ ★ ★

Showers totaled 3.4 inches of rainfall to insure an ample crop of May flowers if the old adage is correct. In April 1968 only 2.1 inches of rain dampened the landscapes, causing gardeners to haul out their hoses early in the season.

TEMPERATURES UP

And April 1969 was a boon to sun worshipers as 24 days of sunshine favored the area. Much of the shower accumulation fell during the night hours.

With the sunshine came higher temperatures. The April 1969 high was warmer (80 degrees, April 27) than the previous year's April high of 78 degrees. Low for the month was 26 degrees, two degrees colder than April 1968.

The 48-degree mean temperature was also colder than the previous April's 49.7-degree mean. Housewives who like to hang their clothes outdoors on the traditional Monday wash line were happy 50 per cent of the month: two Mondays were sunny and two were plagued with showers.

Key House Dem Backs School Bill

LANSING (UPI) — The Democratic chairman of the House Appropriations Committee has endorsed Republican Gov. William G. Milliken's $845-million school aid bill on the eve of committee consideration of the measure.

Rep. William R. Copeland of Wyandotte said the Legislature cannot afford to exceed the governor's recommendation without raising taxes or indulging in deficit spending.

★ ★ ★

The bill was passed, 22-15, in the GOP-controlled Senate Tuesday, after two days of sometimes stormy, mostly partisan haggling.

Copeland said his committee will take the massive measure up tomorrow afternoon and report it to the House floor Monday or Tuesday.

FAVORS CEILING

Copeland said "undoubtedly many attempts" will be made in the House to further hike school aid but that he personally favors sticking with Milliken's ceiling.

"I'm for holding the line until the governor's blue-ribbon Education Reform Commission comes up with some recommendations this fall," the powerful appropriations chairman said.

Copeland added, however, that the governor's bill will be amended in committee to establish the principle of tax aid to parochial schools. He did not know how much money this would involve.

Ryan said earlier parochiaid forces have abandoned hope for a substantial appropriation this year and are now thinking in terms of $5 million or so. This year, he said, the amount is not so important as the concept.

'$1 WOULD BE ENOUGH'

Rep. J. Robert Traxler, D-Bay City, chief sponsor of the $45-million parochiaid bill now before the Appropriations Committee, agreed. He said he would not object if the aid were cut to $1 so long as the principle were enacted into law.

★ ★ ★

If a parochiaid measure is passed, it will be tested for constitutionality. The governor could ask the state Supreme Court to take original jurisdiction.

★ ★ ★

The main legal problem is how to separate public school funding from parochial school aid so the latter cannot be attacked in court as a direct subsidization of a church-operated school system.

The Traxler bill, in its present form, does not dip into the state school aid fund, but rather allots tax money to the intermediate school districts for distribution to parochial school teachers for teaching nonreligious subjects.

Columbia Seeks Arrest of 200 Demonstrators

By the Associated Press

New York State Supreme Court Justice Charles Marks signed a warrant today for the arrest of some 200 students occupying two buildings at Columbia University.

The students left the buildings shortly before noon in an apparent attempt to avoid arrest.

The warrant charged the students were violating a temporary restraining order issued by the court after an earlier demonstration at the school.

★ ★ ★

At Stanford University, more than 100 antiwar demonstrators ended a sit-in after about 100 police officers were deployed in front of the building. No arrests were made.

WAR-RELATED RESEARCH

The Stanford demonstrators, protesting war-related research, came out of Encina Hall after an officer entered with a bullhorn and ordered them out. The demonstrators, numbering as high as 300, entered the building at 1 a.m.

More than 1,000 students staged a counterdemonstration just after the building was occupied.

Meanwhile, at Michigan State University, administrators agreed to student demands concerning working conditions for black cafeteria workers and 200 black students ended a peaceful sit-in in a school cafeteria.

Acting President Walter Adams agreed to put blacks in supervisory positions, transferred to minor posts two whites charged with discrimination and granted amnesty to the group.

The Columbia protestors, led by Students for a Democratic Society, seized the two buildings yesterday, repulsed a counterattack and jeered a sheriff who warned them to leave.

The double sit-in, in support of black students' demands for a larger role in the admissions process, came exactly one year after 1,000 police ended an eight-day sit-in in five Columbia buildings by making more than 700 arrests.

U.S.-China Ties 'Long Way Off'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nixon administration strategists say the latest Peking developments show Communist China is still a long way from a friendly entry into the community of nations.

The Washington assessment includes a study of the 24,000-word report delivered by Deputy Chairman Lin Piao to the recently concluded Chinese Communist party congress. Lin Piao, designated successor to Chairman Mao Tse Tung, said among other things:

"The truth that 'political power grows out of the barrel of a gun' is being grasped by ever broader masses of the oppressed people and nations."

Mao's heir apparent went on to denounce both "U.S. imperialism and Soviet revisionist social-imperialism" and praise "the national liberation movement" in "armed struggles of the people" ranging from South Vietnam to Palestine, Africa and Latin America.

These statements were noted yesterday at a State Department briefing of some 400 business executives on U.S. policy toward Red China and the Soviet Union.

Although the Nixon administration says it is trying to improve relations with all Communist countries, including China, the officials said Peking's posture makes it appear that a long road lies ahead.

Fall Start for Widening of M59 Section Pressed

He noted the gas and weight tax system is set up for a more leisurely growth.

"We need $200 million to $300 million spent in the next 20 years to improve roads right here in the county," the engineer said. Van Roekel noted that the county now receives less than $10 million a year in state tax disbursement. Much of that money, the main source of the Road Commission's income, is devoted to maintenance of roads and a relatively small sum is left over for construction improvement, reports showed.

Also suggested and due for study is the levying of a "users' tax" to raise money for roads. The suggestion was the subject of considerable controversy and two of the committee members, Supervisors Carl O'Brien, D-Pontiac, and Frank Richardson, R-Waterford Township, refused to vote for the study.

The study will be made, however, despite objections that such a tax would serve to drive vehicle title purchasers out of the county and would seriously affect already diminishing bus and truck service here.

★ ★ ★

"We owe it to taxpayers to explore every avenue of road funding," said Mary Bawden, R-Birmingham.

Kelley Names Area Man as Special Aide

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — An attorney here, Richard P. Condit, has been named a special assistant attorney general by Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley. He will represent the Michigan Motor Vehicle Accident Claims fund in Oakland County Courts.

Condit, 35, is a partner in the firm of Condit, Denison, Devine, Porter & Bartush of 860 W. Long Lake.

The appointment was made under the Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Act of 1965 authorizing the attorney general to select private attorneys to defend claims filed against the Secretary of State. The claims would be those arising out of accidents with uninsured motorists.

Condit, who resides in Southfield, was appointed as Oakland County Prosecuting Attorney in 1964. That appointment was made by the County Court Judges to fill the unexpired term of County Prosecutor George F. Taylor.

Condit had spent a brief time in private practice and four years as an assistant prosecutor prior to 1964.

He is a member of the Southfield School Board and served as president in 1967.

Five U.S. Climbers Killed in Accident on Nepal Mountain

NEW YORK (AP) — Five of the 10 Americans who challenged the world's seventh highest mountain have died on its icy slopes in western Nepal.

Two native guides also were killed in the accident, somewhere along the forbidding southeast ride of Mt. Dhaulagiri, 26,810 feet high.

★ ★ ★

First reports of the tragedy came from the State Department Wednesday night. A spokesman for the American Alpine Club in New York, sponsor of the expedition, confirmed the deaths.

Dhaulagiri, which means white peak, was first scaled by a Swiss team in 1960, after seven unsuccessful attempts. This was the first attempt on the southeast ridge.

'IMPOSSIBLE' ROUTE

"It's all very high up," French mountaineer Gaston Rebuffaut once said, "and above all it's technically very difficult: great walls and towers of ice, some rock, broken ground . . . There's absolutely no possibility of going that way."

★ ★ ★

But the Americans disagreed, and left New York March 31, led by Boyd N. Everett Jr., a 36-year-old New Yorker and the only man to climb North America's four highest peaks.

★ ★ ★

Everett and Vin Hoeman of Anchorage, Alaska, were among the victims, the State Department said. Other names were withheld pending notification of families.

An early report from New Delhi said a radio call had been received, asking for evacuation of two climbers who had taken ill. Further details were not forthcoming.

10-DAY REST

The Americans, with four Sherpa guides and 94 porters, set out two weeks ago, planning to establish a base camp at 16,000 feet and rest there 10 days to adjust to the thin air. The Sherpas, a Tibetan people living high on the southern slopes of the Himalayas, are famed for their mountaineering prowess.

Dhaulagiri is part of the Himilayas, as is Mt. Everest, the highest mountain at 29,002 feet.

★ ★ ★

News accounts at the start of the expedition identified the other Americans as William A. Read of Moose, Wyo., deputy leader; Drs. Jeffrey Duenwald of Pullman, Wash., James Morrisey of Olivette, Mo., and William Ross of Portola Valley, Calif.; Paul Gerhard, 26, of Laguna Beach, Calif.; Louis Reichardt, 26, of Palo Alto, Calif.; and James G. Janney III and David A. Seidman, both recent graduates of Dartmouth College.

In Seattle, Maria Duenwald said her brother had sent the family a message saying he had survived the accident. She said he provided no other information.

DENISE NICHOLLS

Ninth-Grader Is Waterford Teen of Week

A ninth-grader at Crary Junior High School who "cares what happens to others" is this week's Waterford Township teen of the week.

Denise Nicholls, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Nicholls of 1296 Hira, was the student cochairman of the United Fund Drive at Crary. She thus planned and organized student collections and helped build the fund wishing well in the school lobby.

★ ★ ★

Later in the year, Denise handled the collection of 2,100 cans of food from Crary for distribution to underprivilaged families.

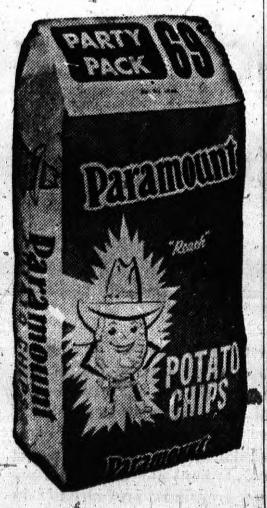

While working for others, she manages an A and B class average and practices her hobbies of water and snow skiing and sewing, and watching football.

According to her teachers, Denise "gives everything a little extra effort."

Nearly 50 Families In This Oxford Township Subdivision Face Loss Of Their Homes

'Homeowners' Await Lawyer Report in Row

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — "All three attorneys involved have been meeting, and we should have significant information Friday morning."

This was the statement by Robert Guiles, vice president of James T. Barnes Co., holders of the mortgages to 49 homes in Red Barn Subdivision No. 1 here, where residents have been told they face eviction if they do not begin making $100 monthly rental payments.

★ ★ ★

Those residents, most of whom assumed they owned their homes, were sent letters signed by Jerome C. Gropman, attorney for Marion Building Co. of Detroit, stating that Marion had purchased all sub properties from Villa Homes of Oak Park in a Circuit Court dispute with the developer and now legally owned all lots and houses.

Most of the residents have no title insurance protection and have organized an informal association to somehow win back their homesteads.

Malcomb Kahn, a Pontiac attorney specializing in real estate law, was retained by Red Barn residents earlier this week.

"I'm not sure whether we're going to move offensively or defensively," Kahn said. "A great degree of our decision will be based on what the other side (Gropman) does. I'm now awaiting return information on my investigations."

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile, Gropman said that a second letter will be sent to the residents to inform them when to begin paying rental. Gropman's first letter did not give a date and he refused to say when the second letters would be mailed.

According to Mrs. Richard Craun, 365 Kintyre, Kahn has advised residents to continue making mortgage payments even though it appears, technically, that the residents' mortgage contracts are void. Mrs. Craun and her husband are secretary and president, respectively, of the neighborhood association.

McDONALD INVOLVED

Another entrant in the Red Barn situation is U.S. Congressman Jack McDonald, R-19th District.

McDonald has legal aides in Washington looking into the responsibility of the FHA (Federal Housing Administration) which issued all the Red Barn mortgages.

"Although Congressman McDonald is familiar with the case, he has issued no statement thus far," reported an aide, Paul Scupholm.

"Normally, we wouldn't become involved in a case like this, but we are concerned by the fact that FHA apparently has no responsibility in checking for liens against mortgages that it approves," said Scupholm.

LAND CONTRACT

(According to Gropman's first letter, Villa Homes had been purchasing the Red Barn land from Marion Building Co. on a land contract and had failed to meet some payment terms of the agreement. Marion then went to Circuit Court and reclaimed the land.)

Scupholm's first reaction on hearing of the Oxford Township housing hassle was that FHA couldn't possibly have approved the loans.

★ ★ ★

Scupholm said he was shocked that FHA apparently has no such responsibility.

"The FHA has no responsibility in making sure the mortgaged properties have clear titles," declared Mrs. Helen Theoflilis, assistant to the director of FHA in Detroit.

Mrs. Theoflilis placed blame for the disputed title ownership squarely on the shoulders of the mortgagee, James T. Barnes Co.

Rural Suicide Rate Is Above Suburbs', County Study Says

By JEAN SAILE

The problems of life were too much for 273 Oakland County residents who committed suicide in the three-year period between Jan. 1, 1966, and Dec. 31, 1968.

Who those people were, where they lived, and how they chose to end life are the subject of a preliminary report made recently by the Oakland County Community Mental Health Services Board.

★ ★ ★

The report, designed to aid area mental health leaders in planning for a suicide prevention program, was prepared by social worker Noel Mazade with the cooperation of the Oakland County Health Department.

Mazade found:

- Pontiac's suicide rate appears to be 63 per cent higher than the national average.
- Women appear about half as likely to kill themselves as men. However, the number of Oakland County women who killed themselves in 1968 was nearly 60 per cent higher than the number in 1966. The number of male self-inflicted deaths remained about the same.
- There were 17 per cent more suicides in the county in 1968 than in 1966.
- Residents of the rural areas have a higher suicide rate in proportion to the population than do residents of suburban areas.

DEATH CERTIFICATES

Mazade said he based the suicide count on cause-of-death certificates, but he noted, "Deaths listed as suicides do not reflect the actual number, which may be twice that reported."

He explained that many suicides may be listed as accidental deaths. Relatives are reluctant to admit suicide, he noted, and sometimes medical examiners and police investigators cannot always produce sure evidence of suicide.

He noted such cases as an elderly person who walks into the path of an oncoming car, or the housewife who takes an overdose of sleeping pills.

National experts estimate that for every "successful" suicide there are eight unsuccessful attempts, the investigator reported

A composite of the most common county suicide victim, Mazade found, was a 44-year-old married man living in Pontiac and working at a semiskilled trade.

The Most Common Instrument Of Death Is The Gun

—Suicide Survey

Mazade noted, however, that this does not describe the person most likely to commit suicide. Data shows the highest risks to occur among the elderly and the divorced.

The most common instrument of death is the gun. Over the three-year period 105 persons (81 men and 24 women) shot themselves to death. This accounted for 38 per cent of the suicides.

★ ★ ★

Looking at women's suicides only, however, it is learned that the method used most frequently is carbon monoxide from an automobile tail pipe. This method killed 29 women (27 per cent of the female suicides.)

Men chose carbon monoxide, while women chose poisoning by drugs, as the second-ranking instrument of death.

THIRD CHOICE

Guns were third for women with strangulation third for men.

The countywide rate of suicides is 34 per 100,000 population, a figure that equates with national averages.

However, in the rural areas, that rate jumped to 49 per 100,000, and in Pontiac it was at its highest, 52 per 100,000.

Mazade also learned that up to age 50, the number of suicides in each successively older age group increases.

JUST A START

The investigator admits his study is "just a beginning; a takeoff point for much more detailed research."

To what extent did the suicide victims seek help before they resorted to taking their lives? Did they seek help at all? How can the mental health professional reach suicide-prone persons before it's too late?

"We need to know a lot more about this whole problem," Mazade said.

County Tables Action on Road Unit Land-Fills

The County Board of Supervisors this morning tabled action until May 15 on a resolution which would allow the County Road Commission to operate land-fill sites in the county. The tabling action was to avert a floor fight over the resolution.

Residents of Pontiac and Commerce townships may have land-fills operating within their boundaries by summer whether they want them or not.

The board of supervisors, at its meeting today, was to act on a recommendation from the public works committee which would allow the road commission to accept refuse in both areas.

The public works committee recommendation, viewed as an emergency measure, names the road commission as agent in charge of county land-fills. It leaves the drain commissioner as agent in charge of solid waste disposal.

Two committee members, George Grba, D-Pontiac, and Lee Walker, D-Madison Heights, voted against the recommendation.

WAIT FOR LEGISLATION

Grba said he felt that not enough study had been given the matter. Walker said he preferred to wait for 90 days to see if pending state legislation would allow the board to name the Department of Public Works as agent.

Supervisors have been told that solid waste disposal is reaching a crisis in the county; that a study involving the use of incinerators undertaken by the drain commission would take five years to implement; and that action must be taken now.

The road commission currently owns 55 acres on Bald Mountain Road in Pontiac Township and 45 acres on Sleeth Road in Commerce Township. It has been unable to use the land because of local opposition. Designation as land-fill agent would give the commission the right of condemnation.

The Commerce site is expected to be adequate for three to five years and the Pontiac Township site should be adequate to accept refuse for 10-13 years supervisors were told.

Clarification Sought in $5,000 Tax Rift

ORION TOWNSHIP — The $5,000 tax question dividing township and county officials was directed to the county's corporation council yesterday for clarification — pronto!

Township Supervisor John Lessiter said the county owes Orion Township $5,055 in 1967 back taxes for lease of Oakland-Orion Airport land.

★ ★ ★

Lessiter pointed out that if the taxes are not paid by May 1970, the bill could be declared delinquent and the land could then go on public sale.

"The county is not in the habit of withholding tax payment," countered Daniel T. Murphy, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Auditors.

"The land Mr. Lessiter is speaking of involves two parcels which the county leases to the airport operator who is in private business. With state reevaulation of the land two years ago, the county agreed to cut back on the amount of land leased to the private operator because of the higher tax bill," Murphy explained.

"Undoubtedly, someone owes someone more than $5,000 in back taxes. That's why I have assigned our attorney to straighten out the problem," Murphy said.

Lessiter claimed he has "called over to the county many times" regarding the taxes but that he has received no written explanation. Murphy, on the other hand, denied any knowledge of the difficulty and said that Lessiter had never contacted him.

The bulk of the taxes, Lessiter said, goes to the schools, with a small portion payable to the township and the balance back to the county.

"It should be paid," Lessiter declared. "The schools sure could use the money."

Attempt to Hike Troy Suit Fails

TROY — The business manager for this school district sought to boost to $1 million the damage amount in his lawsuit against the board of education and Supt. Dr. Rex B. Smith, claiming harassment on the job which caused him to suffer a nervous breakdown.

Circuit Court Judge Arthur E Moore rejected Ronald Sitter's amendment to his suit on the grounds that he failed to show cause, according to Judge Moore's clerk.

★ ★ ★

Sitter filed the initial lawsuit Nov. 14, 1968, in the amount of $5,000 plus interest at 5 per cent on wages lost. The second figure — $1 million plus interest, attorney fees and costs — was entered by Sitter's attorney earlier this week.

Sitter's attorney was told by Judge Moore, however, that the amendment rejection does not preclude a second amendment attempt.

★ ★ ★

Sitter's initial suit is still pending. He is presently on medical leave from the school system.

School-Busing Change Nixed

HOLLY — The board of education has decided against making any changes in its school bus transportation program for the district.

The board recently concluded an extensive reevaluation of its transportation policies. The study was prompted by a request from residents living in the north end of the village requesting bus service for children living three-fourths of a mile from school.

Bruce Mitchell, assistant superintendent of schools, said if the board began busing students who live about three-fourths of a mile from school, about 26 per cent of the student population would be affected.

This he said would result in an additional transportation operational cost of 20,000 including the purchase of two new buses.

Milford Township Horse Show Near

MILFORD TOWNSHIP — A horse show is slated Sunday at the Huron Valley Saddle Club. The show opens at 9 a.m. on grounds located at the corner of Hickory Ridge and Lone Tree.

Combining efforts for the event are the saddle club, Job's Daughters of Milford, the Milford Saddle Tramps's 4- Club and the Ro-Hi 4-H Club of Highland.

★ ★ ★

The saddle club will follow this Sunday's show with three others, June 1, July 6 and Sept. 7. All shows are open to the public. Anyone interested in competing should contact the saddle club.

School Board Decision Is Near in FEA Intern Training Dispute

FARMINGTON — A school board decision will be announced within 15 days on the Farmington Education Association (FEA) grievance that administrative interns are required to pay their own tuition for credits at Wayne State University taken through the intern program.

The appeal was discussed in detail at the board of education meeting earlier this week. The grievance was previously denied by Superintendent Roderick Smith.

★ ★ ★

The administrative intern program, administered by Wayne, offers teachers here training necessary to allow them to go into the administration field.

The FEA claims the credits are achieved through inservice training and therefore the school district should pay. Smith ruled the program is not a continuing education-type program but rather an upgrading training.

★ ★ ★

In other recent business the board authorized the establishment of a third-echelon administrative position at the secondary schools. This action will provide from one to three assistants — depending on the school size — just below the assistant principal level.

Authorization to build a walkway on Colfax between Farmington and Gill was given with the cost not to exceed $1,100.

State to Ban Parking at M59 Bottleneck

HIGHLAND TOWNSHIP — Stopping, standing and parking will be banned soon on about 800 feet of M59 east of Harvey Lake Road in this township, the Department of State Highways has announced.

★ ★ ★

An investigation by the Highway Department and State Police, in cooperation with the county sheriff's department showed a hazardous condition caused by trucks and cars stopping to load and unload materials and passengers.

The ban will be enforced as soon as signs are posted.

At Walled Lake Schools

Appropriate Attire Code Key

WALLED LAKE — There are days when it's more appropriate for girls to wear slacks.

This is one of the reasons for recent action here by the school board to liberalize the dress code for elementary pupils.

The new policy will be to govern dress in the elementary grades by three factors: health, safety and the effect of the dress on the educational activity of the school.

Schools Supt. Dr. George Garver commented: "Many of the traditional standards of dress are no longer appropriate. For example, slacks never used to be worn.

"Today, however, we recognize that at certain times of the year it may be far more appropriate for the girls to wear slacks — as in winter when waiting for the bus. One must also consider that in the early elementary grades, many of the children take part in activities that have them seated on the floor," he said.

The code was created by a committee formed of elementary school principals and teachers.

★ ★ ★

An official nine-step procedure was adopted when deciding to retain a child in the same grade.

★ ★ ★

"The policy involves a careful appraisal of all information on the child to see if there is reason to believe that a repeat of that grade would in fact be beneficial," said Garver.

He added that sometimes having a child stay in the same grade for another year did not always help the child improve.

★ ★ ★

A contract with the Oakland County Intermediate School District for the use of several rooms for special education was finalized.

★ ★ ★

The intermediate district is playing Walled Lake $76,000 for the use of five rooms for classes for elementary and high school mentally and perceptually handicapped students.

Walled Lake district is receiving money for the rooms for the first time although the programs are already in existence.

SURROUNDED BY WELL-WISHERS—Spec. 5 Thomas Van Putten, the 21-year-old Caledonia soldier who escaped from Vietcong captivity after 14 months, is surrounded by well-wishers in front of the town's high school after a motorcade yesterday from the Kent County Airport 15 miles away. With the soldier are his father (to Van Putten's immediate rear) and mother (right foreground).

He Won His Freedom but Lost His Girl

Caledonia Welcomes Its Hero

CALEDONIA (AP)—Residents of this tiny southwest Michigan town turned out in force Wednesday to welcome their hero, a young soldier who'd won his freedom from the Vietcong but lost his girl.

Spec. 5 Thomas H. Van Putten snapped a salute as the high school band played his alma mater and waved happily to hundreds of well-wishers who crowded a nearby airport to meet his plane.

★ ★ ★

He rode through the less than two-block Caledonia business district in a parade, behind clanging fire engines and troops of Boy and Girl Scouts.

American flags fluttered from every telephone pole, and signs painted on store windows proclaimed "We Missed You" and "Our Hero Tom."

'PROUD OF YOU'

Van Putten clutched his mother's fingertips as the crowd surged around a platform at the Caledonia high school.

"We're proud of you and glad to have you back," speakers told the soldier who was captured by the Vietcong early last year, just one day before the scheduled end of his Vietnam tour.

★ ★ ★

Van Putten, 21, missing and presumed dead, managed to escape his captors after 14 months, then spent 18 days roaming the jungles before an Army helicopter pilot rescued him.

The escape and safe return "symbolize the rennaissance of hope," said Sen. Robert VanderLaan and Rep. Thomas Ford, both Grand Rapids area lawmakers who attended the formal ceremony.

DABBED AT TEARS

The youth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Van Putten, dabbed at tears as a resolution passed by the Michigan Legislature was read, recounting the horror-filled days their son had spent.

Van Putten accepted a telegram from Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird, gift certificates and a 1969 car from the townspeople and a year's supply of his favorite food, macaroni and cheese.

★ ★ ★

But he did not see his high school sweetheart.

"I had to work," explained the girl Van Putten was to have married, the girl who wrote him a "Dear John" letter when he still was imprisoned.

'KEPT PRAYING'

"I didn't want to hurt him, but I knew it would," said the girl, now Mrs. Edward J. Schipper of suburban Grand Rapids. "I kept praying that he would be found and would return safely—and my prayers have been answered."

The letter, sent some three months after Van Putten's capture, had been returned to his parents who delivered it when they greeted him last week at the Glenview, Ill., Naval Air Station.

"Before I was told he was missing, I had been having mixed emotions about when he would be coming back," Mrs. Schipper said. "So many guys had changed while they were gone."

Van Putten spoke only of his return.

"Thank you very much for all you have done for me," he told the crowd. "It's great to be home. God bless every one of you."

The slender soldier, who lost more than 60 pounds during his capture and ate fruit and raw frogs while lost in Tay Ninh Province before the rescue, said he planned only "to be home and with my family and go fishing."

Van Putten added that he expected to be released from the Army early next month and would then begin thinking about a job.

WITH MOM IN GIFT CAR—With his mother watching, Van Putten tries the keys of a new car presented by 700 Caledonia residents yesterday after his safe return home.

City Shows Good Will

Pontiac's atmosphere doesn't have to exude discontent.

A check for nearly $800 was sent this week to the United States International Games for the Deaf Committee to cover the transportation, hotel, meals and Deaf Olympic Games tickets for the wife of EDWARD SIDNEY WRIGHT JR. Last week a check for $1,800 was sent to the committee for WRIGHT himself.

WRIGHT

WRIGHT is a deaf-mute Negro who works on the assembly line at Fisher Body. The check was mailed by UAW Local 596 who spearheaded a fund-raising campaign on behalf of WRIGHT. The 24-year-old graduate of the Florida School for the Deaf came to Pontiac approximately 18 months ago hoping to earn a living in an area where similarly handicapped men and women have been gainfully employed.

He was also hopeful of continuing a successful track career in a city that is becoming noted for its runners.

The fact that he has been working steadily since his arrival indicates success in that quest. The fact he paid his own way to California last summer to compete successfully for a berth on the U.S. team to the Deaf Olympics and while on the West Coast set three world records for deaf dashmen reflects his continued success as a runner.

Although he qualified for the 1969 International Games for the Deaf this August in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, EDWARD WRIGHT still needed $1,800 to pay for his participation with the U.S. team. So the union organized the fund-raising drive. The response of both the black and white business, civic and social groups in Pontiac was unrestrained. Individuals, too, contributed, and rare was the organization or human being who turned down the opportunity to give.

★ ★ ★

Within one month the requested $1,800 was raised. The response was so successful the drive's organizers volunteered to extend it and include a trip for his wife SANDRA so she can watch him compete for a possible three gold medals. In the past HAYES JONES and BILL TIPTON, locally developed track stars, had experienced displays of support from the local community when they had the opportunity to travel to prestigious meets. JONES is Negro and TIPTON is white.

Pontiac has again made a fine biracial response on behalf of a worthy son.

Nixon 'Cools' Aid Cutoff

On the face of it, the Hickenlooper Amendment to the foreign aid laws seems logical.

The amendment, named after its sponsor, the retired Republican senator from Iowa, requires the United States to cut off foreign aid to any government which does not pay fair compensation six months after it expropriates the property or facilities of U.S. businesses.

In practice, as shown by the current imbroglio with Peru, what the amendment really does is paint the United States into a corner and virtually tie the hands of the president.

★ ★ ★

In this case, the dispute is over Peru's seizure of the facilities of the International Petroleum Co., a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey — in particular, the exact amount of the reimbursement and a claim of $690 million against the company for its "illegal enrichment" at the expense of Peru over the last 40 years or so.

If this were a world of black and white, the Hickenlooper Amendment might make sense. But things are always more complicated than they seem.

The United States is reaping in Latin America the consequences of decades of devotion to the principle that the "business of America is business." In turn, the military junta now in power in Peru is riding the crest of popular revulsion against "Yankee imperialism."

★ ★ ★

By ruling that the process for reconciling the dispute has not been exhausted, the Administration has wisely bought a few more months' time before the aid cutoff is to be applied.

But should negotiations fail, we stand to lose far more than Peru and far more than mere money, if the iron-bound reflex written into the Hickenlooper Amendment is permitted to come into play.

Russia Has Experienced Own 'Pueblo'

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Now is a good time to recall that last autumn, the tiny African nation of Ghana seized two Russian "fishing ships" off the Ghanian coast.

CROMLEY

The vice chairman of Ghana's ruling National Liberation Council said at the time it was an interesting coincidence that these two ships happened to be in Ghanian waters at a time when there was active underground plotting to bring pro-Communist Kwame Nkrumah, the former president, back into power.

★ ★ ★

As the vice chairman well knew, the Soviet Union regularly uses its far-ranging fishing fleet for espionage and for assisting local undergrounds.

Moscow protested diplomatically. It shut off shipments of petroleum.

NO EFFECT

But though the Soviet Union thus sought vigorously to have the ships and men immediately released, neither Moscow's exhortations nor its veiled threats had any effect on the Africans.

They held the Russian ships, the two captains and the crewmen for months while they conducted a complete investigation and brought the matter to court.

★ ★ ★

Finally — but not until they had satisfied themselves the Russians were not, in fact, connected with this particular plot to help Nkrumah back to power — they fined the two captains for being within the 12-mile limit and released them, their ships and crews.

The captains and crews were not released, in fact, until this March.

SMALLER, WEAKER

Now Ghana is much smaller and weaker than North Korea.

Russia certainly did not have to fear that Britain or the United States would rush to defend Ghanna militarily. Yet the Russians were frustrated.

There's no doubt North Korea's capture of the Pueblo, the torture of its crew and the subsequent shooting down of a U.S. Navy reconnaissance plane with 31 lives lost were far more serious matters than the taking of the Soviet fishing vessels, even though they were of a type the Russians frequently use for espionage.

Nevertheless, this incident demonstrates how the Russians, who invaded Czechoslovakia, find themselves frustrated when challenged by a tiny nation half a continent away.

Forever!

David Lawrence Says:

Protection From Unions Needed

WASHINGTON — With all the hullabaloo in recent years about "civil rights" and "equal rights," it's incredible that nothing has been done by Congress to spare individuals the hostility and even penalties they suffer for refusing to join a labor union.

LAWRENCE

Again and again, bills have been offered in Congress to safeguard the "right to work" and the right to refrain from joining a union if one desires.

Many letters have been received by this writer telling of the intimidation undergone by persons who cross picket lines or decline to join a union.

★ ★ ★

Senator Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., has again introduced a bill calling for Senate action to protect the rights of workers.

He said to the Senate: "Since the National Labor Relations Board and the Supreme Court nullified the chief objectives of the Taft-Hartley Act in the Allis-Chalmers case, unions have imposed fines on members which in some cases have run to as high as $20,000. In the Allis-Chalmers case, and in other instances, these fines have been imposed for working during a strike.

NOTHING WRONG

"Now, in the Scofield case, the Supreme Court has ruled that it is not an unfair labor practice for a union to impose a fine for exceeding union-imposed production quotas — which is the same as union-imposed quotas on the amount of money a man can earn.

Lots of people have wondered why the "equal rights" movement has never included in any "demonstrations" or "protests" in behalf of those workers who have insisted on exercising the privilege which the Labor Relations Act gives them — namely, to refrain from joining a union.

★ ★ ★

Congress, in writing the Taft-Hartley Act, permitted the states to adopt laws prohibiting compulsory union membership, and a few have done so. But in other states the federal law's provision allows "union shop" contracts, which often compel workers to pay dues to a union.

What is the reason for the reluctance of Congress to pass a law which will give citizens in one state the same rights as residents of another state, and do away with enforced unionization?

POLITICAL POWER

It must be assumed that the legislators in Congress and in many of the states are afraid of the political power of labor unions.

Large sums of money are raised by organized effort among union members to help elect those candidates friendly to labor.

★ ★ ★

"Equal rights" has been widely publicized as a meritorious cause, and the word "discrimination" has frequently been used to deplore any form of inequality as between individuals. But the fact is that those persons who decline to join a union often find themselves harassed.

Maybe Sen. Ervin's attempt to get Congress to give equal rights to workers in America will get some attention, and, of course, it might even lead to the enactment of a law on the subject if President Nixon lends his support to the proposed legislation.

Bob Considine Says:

Honest Gamblers Fearful of License Price Increase

LAS VEGAS — The government will put a lot of God-fearing, law-abiding, honest gamblers out of business if it forces through a law hiking the price of a gambler's license from $50 to $1,000 a year and ups its "take" of his action from 10 to 20 per cent.

CONSIDINE

That's what two members of the fraternity assured me at the Churchill Downs Race and Sports Book Emporium. They made a good case, one that might justly come to the attention of the Civil Liberties people, or the Supreme Court.

★ ★ ★

"The government couldn't possibly fight crime by raising the prices," said Harry Gordon in his office to the rear of the horse room — where perhaps two dozen racetrack types sat at their little desks and studied the entries, prices and results of tracks in New York, New Jersey, Maryland and California.

"Nevada's the only state that permits legalized gambling," the fatherly looking gambler continued. "Everybody behind a cage in this place — six or seven men, as a rule — must have a $50 stamp. There's quite a turnover in personnel during a year.

$50 OKAY, BUT . . .

"We can afford to buy a $50 stamp for the fellow who is replacing the guy who worked for you only a couple of weeks. But at a thousand a stamp, we'd just have to close down."

"We now pay 3 per cent of our handle to the state and 10 per cent to the federal government," co-owner Bob Martin put in. "That 10 per cent has already driven away a lot of players. Twenty per cent could scare the rest away.

★ ★ ★

"It's so damned discriminatory," he went on. "Here we are operating a legal business. It grosses only a tiny fraction of the total betting picture in the U.S. The overwhelming percentage of all gambling is illegal and run by the rackets people. They don't pay a penny's worth of tax. If they shell out anything, it's to corrupt the police and the officials.

"But the government would take aim at us, the Honest Joes, and 'enrich the dishonest' — because if we're knocked out of business, the bettors will find underground outlets for their wagering. Simple as that."

Last year the Supreme Court ruled that it was unconstitutional to fine a convicted gambler who did not possess a $50 stamp. The man in question had pleaded, and successfully, that if he had purchased the stamp he would have incriminated himself.

Notes Off Your Columnist's Cuff

By DICK SAUNDERS

DEPT. OF ODDS & ENDS: We were driving along the other day. I gazed out over an open field, turned to my nearsighted wife and said: "Hey, that's a groovy one over there."

SAUNDERS

"Groovy what?" she replied.

"That kite," I said. "It's really wild. Looks almost like a big bird."

"Must be one of those Japanese kites. Or are they Indian?" she noted squinting skyward.

We were captivated by the manner in which it soared. We watched for several moments.

Then, suddenly, it moved its wings.

I think it was a hawk.

The curse of the civic minded citizen is night meetings. Lots of them.

Take Oakland County Supervisor James Mathews, D-Pontiac, of 91 Earlmoor. I ran into him at one of those meetings last week.

"Hey," he said for openers, "I just got a color television."

★ ★ ★

"Ever have one before?" I queried.

"Nope," he replied.

"How do you like it?" I asked.

"I don't know," he answered. "With my schedule, all I've had time to look at so far are the late movies in black and white."

A friend with numerous children tells me that one of her sons upon opening a savings account at a local bank, stuck his chin up over the teller's counter and demanded: "Okay, now, where do I get the checks?"

On another occasion not long ago his mother broke her leg.

As she was being carried from the house on a stretcher, the lad stood there surrounded by four smaller brothers and sisters and observed: "I hope she doesn't bring back another baby."

★ ★ ★

Another of her sons recently got his first taste of sixth grade sex education.

That evening at the dinner table, he casually reported: "We had nothin' but sex all day in school."

The same son, after reading his sex information book, asked his mother, "Is this nonfiction?"

Then, as an afterthought: "You know what nonfiction means, don't you mom?"

Voice of the People:

Reds' Aggressive Policy Imposes Burden on U.S.

Since Russia air-tested, has since installed and is expanding an ABM system, why is it so bad for us to do it? Why are we said to be approaching an industrial-military oriented nation? It seems the Soviets have beaten us on that count, too. Who started and are protracting the cold war so that we have to keep developing defenses as fast as we can amid harassment from our own citizens?

★ ★ ★

We have the SDS and other far-out groups striking first at the schools and now it is reported they are going to try to work in the shops to form a liaison betwixt students and labor—a la France. Who calls the Communists warmongers, imperialists or interventionists? Who is doing the doing and who is doing the calling? We still have congressmen we can write to. Can a Soviet citizen do the same?

'Time Change Disrupts Little League Setup'

I believe one or two men have decided to disrupt Waterford's Little League set-up which has been carried on for many years, deciding the games must be played in the mornings. This means all of the men and women who have worked hard in the past and wish to continue working with the boys will have to give up due to the fact that they cannot attend games in the morning. Also, most parents will not be able to attend these games. Call the Waterford Recreation Department if you wish to voice your protest.

Suggests Possible Site for City High School

With the great debate concerning the location of the new high school, it is surprising that no one has thought to consider the old sanitary land fill on Orchard Lake Road. Until recently, the City owned this property, and probably with a minimum of legal action the school board could own it. Here lie 41 to 43 acres of land that would seemingly be enough for the new complex. It would be an excellent compromise choice and some nonproductive inner city property would be put to good use.

Continued inaction in providing the facilities necessary to maintain the present high level of education that Pontiac has been proud of may well force me to look elsewhere, as too many families have already done in the past few years.

Question and Answer

On our lunch hour at work, we discussed strange things that happen and I told them about the walking fish that walk on dry land that I saw on TV some time ago. They walked on people's lawns, along the highway and so on. I thought the girls were going to laugh themselves to death and they wanted to know what kind of a sandwich I was eating. Can you print something that will bail me out?

REPLY

Let them laugh—people in Florida don't think they're so funny, though. Walking catfish were imported to that state by private enterprise to stock private ponds, but they just "walked" away to other ponds and lakes and are making a terrific nuisance of themselves. They grow to as much as 50 pounds, eat just about anything in the water or on land, multiply rapidly and, indeed, do "walk" on their fins across lawns, down highways, etc. They're such a problem Michigan has banned their import. Magazines, newspapers and TV all carried information about them, so the last laugh's yours.

Laird Blames Supertransport Errors on LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird has blamed mistakes in the expensive C5A supertransport airplane program on the Johnson administration and promises they won't happen again.

Almost as punctuation to his remarks, Laird mentioned replacement of two high civilian appointees of the Democrat era, including an assistant secretary of the Air Force accused a day earlier of sanctioning cost-juggling on the C5A to prevent jeopardizing Lockheed Aircraft Corp. position in the stock market.

★ ★ ★

In his statement, Laird said, "I am very concerned by the situation which was inherited surrounding the C5A contract and procurement actions. Rapid corrective action is essential and is being taken."

Meanwhile, Deputy Air Force Secretary Aaron J. Racusin went to Capitol Hill and denied the charges laid by Col. Kennedy N. Beckman, the officer in charge of the C5A contract.

'COSTS SOARING'

Beckman had testified Tuesday before the House government operations subcommittee that Air Force officials knew as early as Feb. 2, 1966, that Lockheed costs on the C5A contract were soaring. That was 15 months before Air Force officials testified to Congress the program was coming in near target cost—$2.9 billion for 120 of the giant aircraft.

The latest Pentagon estimate on cost of the program, including research and development, is $5.2 billion.

★ ★ ★

Beckman had testified the cost overruns—which could approach $3 billion—were suppressed because they "might put Lockheed's position in the common stock market in jeopardy."

Racusin told the subcommittee Wednesday cost estimates were withheld rightly. "There were not any doctored reports to Air Force management officials," he said.

Beckman said Robert H. Charles, assistant secretary of the Air Force for installations and logistics, and Robert N. Anthony, former defense Department comptroller, had agreed with the withholding strategy.

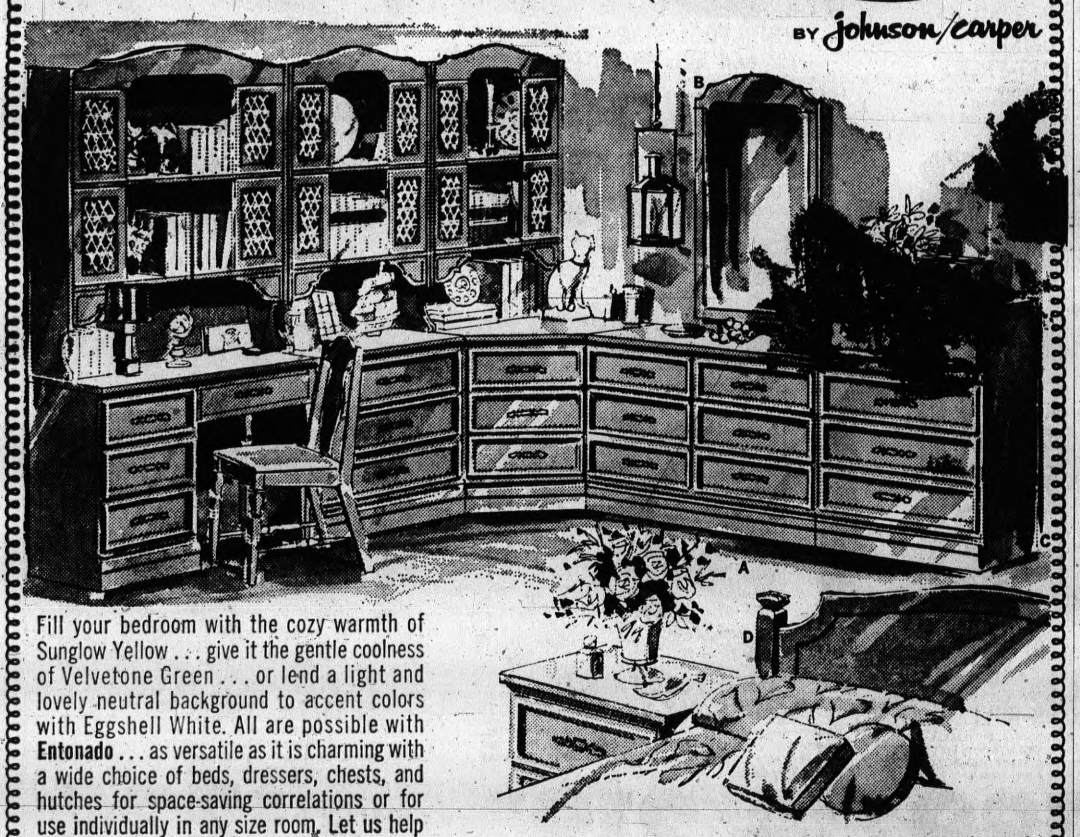

Anthony, who denies the claim, now teaches at Harvard Business School. Charles' replacement by Phillip N. Whittaker, an assistant administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, was announced by Laird Wednesday.

Laird also announced the planned departure of Thomas H. Nielson, assistant secertary of the Air Force for financial management, but Pentagon statement was issued later saying Nielson's resignation "has no connection with today's C5A statement by Secretary Laird."

GI Combat Deaths Dip to 3-Month Low

SAIGON (AP) — American battlefield deaths in Vietnam last week dropped to their lowest total in nearly four months while the enemy toll remained high, the U.S. Command reported today.

A U.S. spokesman attributed the reduction in American casualties to a decrease on the Vietcong offensive. He said enemy casualties remain high because there has been no slackening of U.S. and South Vietnamese offensive operations.

★ ★ ★

The weekly casualty reports said 163 Americans, 237 South Vietnamese government troops and 3,662 Vietcong and North Vietnamese were killed in action last week.

It was the lowest American toll reported since the Vietcong's spring offensive began 10 weeks ago and the third lowest toll of the year, bettered only by the first two weeks in January.

The toll among government forces was their lowest since Feb. 22, the day before the enemy launched its offensive. But the 3,662 enemy dead reported were 164 more than the revised total of 3,498 given for the week before.

★ ★ ★

South Vietnamese headquarters, explaining the drop in allied casualties, said the Vietcong's offensive decreased sharply last week except in the 3rd Corps area stretching from Saigon to the Cambodian border. And even in the 3rd Corps "the intensity of the enemy activity was not very significant," a communique said.

★ ★ ★

"The main form of enemy activity during the last week still was shelling, and a few ground attacks were also recorded, but they were carried out sporadically by their regional forces," the communique said.

The focus of the war appeared today to be shifting to border areas where the North Vietnamese and Vietcong troops are in a more advantageous position.

SEVEN CLASHES

Military spokesmen reported allied forces killed 186 North Vietnamese in seven clashes, and six of them were along the Cambodian border northwest of Saigon or just below the eastern flank of the demilitarized zone.

North Vietnamese gunners firing from inside the DMZ and from near the Laotian border also made two heavy mortar attacks on American troops during the night. The U.S. Command said casualties were light but some Americans were killed or wounded.

★ ★ ★

Allied casualties in the ground fighting included 13 Americans and 13 South Vietnamese killed, and 97 Americans and 40 South Vietnamese wounded.

Area Bus Lines Eyed for Merged Setup

Three bus companies serving the Pontiac area are included in a plan which recommends consolidation of transportation facilities in the Detroit Metropolitan area.

The recommendation was released yesterday in a report by the Southeast Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA).

★ ★ ★

The authority was created in 1967 by the State Legislature to plan, develop and operate a public transportation system in the six-county area of Oakland, Wayne, Macomb, Washtenaw, St. Clair and Monroe.

Thus far only limited funds for planning have been alloted by the Legislature for SEMTA.

★ ★ ★

Included in the proposed consolidation are Pontiac Transit, serving the Pontiac area, Great Lakes Transit, which makes runs up Woodward from Detroit as far as Pontiac, and the Bee Line, a small company based in Keego Harbor.

★ ★ ★

Others in the proposed unified system are the Detroit buses, Lake Shore Coach Lines, Metropolitan Transit, Martin Lines and Northville Coach Lines.

The report, prepared by the New York counsulting firm of Coverdale and Colpitts, proposed that SEMTA should acquire all eight systems and run them as one.

Several related studies on the problem of transportation in the area are under way. Currently the Pontiac Board of Education and City Commission are contemplating a unified system.

A comprehensive system for the entire metropolitan area would be more economically feasible than separate systems, the report claims.

Board Gives Approval to PAPC Budget, Revised Bylaws

Revised bylaws and the 1969-70 budget of the Pontiac Area Planning Council (PAPC) were approved by the Pontiac Board of Education last night following some discussion by the board and the audience.

Mrs. Lucille Marshall abstained from voting on the PAPC bylaws and also on a resolution that the board of education join with the City Commission to study the feasibility of a joint public transportation system in the city.

★ ★ ★

The resolution, submitted by the PAPC transportation task force, was passed by a 5-0 vote. Board member Christopher Brown was absent.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Marshall said she wanted to further study the bylaws and the task force resolution.

BUDGET APPROVED

The PAPC budget of $36,835 for the fiscal year May 1, 1969, through April 30, 1970, was approved by the board of education, despite arguments from the audience that the board should be spending its half of the PAPC budget ($18,417) on educational programs and instructional materials rather than what they called "an advisory group the board pays no attention to anyway."

Mrs. Marshall and Mrs. Elsie Mihalek cast dissenting votes on the budget proposal.

Members of the audience argued that Pontiac businessmen and industry should finance the advisory board which was formed last year as a coalition of the City Commission and the board of education.

Dr. David Doherty, director of the PAPC, explained that industry and businessmen had financed the first year of the organization last year with the understanding that if it was able to stay alive, the City Commission and school board would finance the second year.

TAKE BACK RESPONSIBILITY

Doherty explained that businessmen and industry would take back the financial responsibility of the organization the third and following years.

★ ★ ★

Several mothers in the audience still complained that some teachers were buying school supplies out of their own pockets and maintained that the money should be used for these materials.

In other action last night, James E. Dyer of 900 E. Pike, Voice of Oakland County Action League (VOCAL) education committee chairman, raised more questions concerning a school district application the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), for a grant to help finance construction of the Human Resource Center.

★ ★ ★

VOCAL last week sent a letter to HUD, charging that the district's application for $676,000 in federal funds was "fraudulent in its intent and in fact."

REITERATE DENIALS

Pontiac Schools Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer and other administrators reiterated their denials of the charges.

★ ★ ★

Whitmer said that community involvement was satisfactory to the community and minutes of meetings with citizens in the service area of the $5-million center were included in the application.

He also said that since the site for the center was already acquired, HUD did not require that the school district relocate persons displaced through site acquisitions.

★ ★ ★

The complex, which will serve both pupil and community needs, will have a capacity for 1,800 students, primarily from McConnell and Central Elementary schools and probably parts of Baldwin and Wilson schools.

The Human Resources Center is expected to be open in September 1970. This will depend on several factors, including approval of the HUD grant, no delays in awarding contracts and qualifying bidders, costs of total bids, and no delays in the construction schedule because of labor or material shortages, Whitmer said.

7 SF Policemen 'Dress' for Duty

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A new 150-man police detail hit the thug-plagued streets of San Francisco this week. It included a "women's auxiliary"—seven tough male officers togged out as ladies, but schooled in the bone-breaking arts of karate and judo and equipped with guns beneath their skirts. They will patrol in high-crime areas.

It's the first time males will be used by the department on decoy duty. Policewomen have been assigned that duty in the past.

CATV Net Gets OK for Distance

WASHINGTON (AP)—Marcus Theatres CATV Systems, Inc., has been authorized to carry distant television programs. The company proposes to operate Community Antenna Television Systems in Marinette and Peshtigo, Wis., and Menominee, Mich.

Announcing this Wednesday, the Federal Communications Commission said Marcus proposes to carry the local programs of the Green Bay, Wisc., stations, and the programs of the more distant stations WSAU—TV, Wausau, Wis.; WAEP—TV, Rhinelander, Wis.; WLUC—TV, Marquette, Mich., WPBN—TV, Traverse City, Mich. and WWTV, Cadillac, Mich.

Plan to Alter Duties at Eastern Set

A plan for revision of administrative duties at Eastern Junior High School was approved last night by the Pontiac Board of Education.

Under this plan a third assistant principal would be appointed, and the three assistant principals would each be in charge of one of the grades in the school.

★ ★ ★

The duties of the assistant principal would consist of working with the students, teachers and parents regarding discipline and instructional problems related to that particular grade, according to William J. Lacy, assistant superintendent of schools.

The principal of the school will work with problems referred to him by the assistant principals, appeals from parents and teachers and problems that affect the plan as a whole.

TO CONVERT CLASSROOM

One classroom will be converted into an office area and two of the grade assistant principals will work in this area, Lacy said.

★ ★ ★

He said the proposal includes the conversion of a classroom, equipment for it, another secretary, upgrading the assistant principal in charge of attendance to assistant principal, and converting a staff position to assistant principal. Cost estimate for the plan is about $17,550.

★ ★ ★

Lacy said that this plan is expected to result in better administrative services in the school, and to contribute to the solution of many problems the school has been experiencing.

★ ★★ ★

Eastern's administration will be expected within the next year to: improve the organization for discipline, improve the handling of attendance and associated problems, improve communications with students, parents and the community, improve the instructional program to make it more relevant to the pupils, and improve parent involvement in school operations.

Battle of Bands at PNH Sunday

A battle of the bands, sponsored by the Pontiac Jaycees, will be held Sunday at Pontiac Northern High School from 2 to 10 p.m.

First-place winners in the competition will receive $75 and second place $25. Trophies will be awarded to first-through fourth-place winners.

★ ★ ★

The band winning first place will also go on to Muskegon to compete on the state level.

$1.6 Million in Pacts Let for Construction of Vocational Center

Contracts totaling more than $1.6 million were awarded by the Pontiac Board of Education last night for construction of the Northeast Oakland Vocational Technical Center.

Low bidders for the construction of the center, which will be located on North Perry near Madison Junior High School, were recommended by the building's architects, Denyes and Freedman Associates, Inc., and were found to be awardable by the compliance division of the Michigan Civil Rights Commission (MCRC).

Original bids for the project were rejected by the board March 20, when the MCRC Compliance Division found most of the contractors or subcontractors not in compliance with board policies and state federal laws regarding nondiscrimination in hiring practices.

In the first bidding, 39 companies competed for four contracts on different phases of construction. There were 21 bidders on this second try, many of them submitting second bids.

DETROIT FIRM

Strobl Construction Co. of Detroit was awarded the largest project contract for architectural work, for its low bid of $877,900. There were six other bidders for this contract. The Strobl bid is about $30,000 less than the company's original. The original low bidder, Dale Cook Construction Co. of Waterford Township did not resubmit a bid.

★ ★ ★

The contract for mechanical trades was awarded to Inter-Lakes Mechanical Contractors of Walled Lake, for its low bid of $483,687. Inter-Lakes was also low bidder on the first try.

The MCRC found this company not to be in compliance, but since it signed a written agreement to take actions which will bring the company into compliance, it was recommended for the awarding. There were three other bidders for the mechanical contract.

The electrical trades contract was awarded to Brill Electric Co. of Pontiac for its low bid of $185,919. This company also was the low original bidder, and also signed a compliance agreement with the MCRC this time. Four other companies competed for this contract.

Gold Star Products, Inc., of Detroit was original low bidder for food service equipment for the vocational center. This company was the only original bidder found in compliance by the MCRC but the contract was not awarded since this job depended on completion of others. The Gold Star bid of $83,968 won the contract over four other bids.

The contract for the food service equipment for the center will not be awarded until Aug. 1, since funds for the equipment will not be available from the Oakland Intermediate School District until then.

Construction is expected to begin immediately. Target date for completion is September 1970.

The Oakland County Intermediate School district is financing this and three other similar projects in the county, through a ½-mill levy approved by a countywide vote in 1966.

The Pontiac School District, however, will be responsible for construction of the center and also for administration under a plan of the county school board.

PCH Building Engineer Plant Maintenance Head

W. Kenneth Skelton of 140 Oliver, building engineer at Pontiac Central High School, was appointed by the board of education last night as plant maintenance supervisor under a recent reorganization of the plant operation and maintenance division.

Skelton, 58, has been employed by the Pontiac School District since 1936, except for four years he spent in the armed services during World War II.

His appointment becomes effective May 12, at an annual salary of $11,500.

The reorganization of the department, approved by the board Feb. 6, involves the changing of William Carr's title from director of maintenance to director of plant construction and rehabilitation, and changing Cloyd Houts' title from director of plant operation to director of plant operation and maintenance.

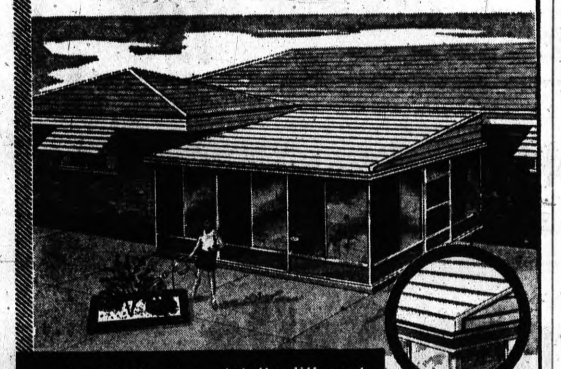

This change assigns regular plant maintenance functions to Houts, allowing Carr to devote time to new construction and rehabilitation of existing structures.

A number of agenda items were tabled when the meeting adjourned at 1 a.m. today. Among those items was a report on preschool and school-age children in a part of the Wilson Elementary School attendance area south of East South Boulevard, and east of Woodward.

The study had been asked by members of the audience when a plan was presented at the last board meeting April 17 to bus about 100 Wilson pupils who live in this area to the new Lincoln Elementary School.

Also tabled last night were a summer school survey, reports on the status of teacher recruiting and negotiations, and eight proposals on Equality of Educational Opportunity recommendations.

She and her husband were forced out of their home April 11. The floors are covered with silt, and many furnishings were damaged.

Film Was a Gamble; Looks Like Good Bet

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hall Bartlett has long been considered an idealistic film maker, but lately it appeared he had carried idealism too far.

THOMAS

The evidence: Bartlett had invested two years of his time and all of his savings in a movie about today's youth—without violence, motorcycle gangs, rape or dope. "Poor Hall's gotta go broke," said his despairing colleagues.

Maybe not. The product of Bartlett's time and money, a beautifully photographed film called "Changes," opened to critical acclaim in New York and Los Angeles. He cautiously observes that it's too early to determine if the investment will pay off. But the auguries bode well.

A Kansas City boy and Yale graduate, Barlett tried to make it as an actor in films, failed and turned to the production side. An early influence was Stanley Kramer, who instilled in him a sense of independence and altruism. Bartlett spent two years making a true-life picture of Inidan life, "Navajo," financed by $52,000 from 20 friends.

VARIETY OF SUBJECTS

His subsequent films have dealt with such subjects as penal reform ("Unchained") race ("All the Young men"), mental health ("Zero Hour" "The Caretakers"), and the United Nations ("A Global Affair").

The producer-director-writer discussed the origins of "Changes".

"There are a lot of young people in my family, and they felt that no one had tried to tell an honest story in films about today's youth. The kids I knew were laughing at the pictures that purported to depict the 18-25 age group. And most adults believed that all of the young generation were hippies. I knew that wasn't true."

Bartlett began touring the country to talk to young people. He took along an unpublished writer, Bill Kelly, 25, and a stepson, Kent Lane, whose mother is Rhonda Fleming. Together they interviewed thousands of young people throughout the nation. Bartlett admitted that many of his interviewees suspected his motives, figuring he was out to make a sexploitation film. But he convinced them of his sincerity.

BOARD OF REVIEW

During the scripting process, he used a board of 26 young people to review what was being written. "If they said, 'That's phony,' the offending passage came out of the script," said Bartlett.

He ended up with a tight shooting script that called for 27 shooting days, two-thirds on location. For his actors he chose unknowns; 32 of the speaking parts were cast with those who hadn't appeared on the screen before. The leading role of the purpose-seeking young man was given to stepson Kent Lane.

"I knew I wouldn't be able to get a major studio to sponsor such a film," remarked Bartlett. "Besides, I had worked at MGM and other studios, and I knew what it was like to make pictures for a committee. I was determined to preserve creative autonomy, even if it meant risking all my savings.

"It was a big crap shoot. I put everything I had into it and borrowed the rest — $800,000 in all."

Charges Are Dropped Against 49 Teens in Sit-In

Trespassing charges against 49 teen-agers involved in a sit-in demonstration at Pontiac Northern High School in March were dismissed yesterday in Oakland County Juvenile Court.

The charges were dropped after meetings between School Supt. Dr. Dana Whitmer, Juvenile Court judges and Oakland County Prosecutor Thomas G. Plunkett.

★ ★ ★

Whitmer, who had been the complainant in the case, said the action was taken because the adults involved in the protest had been acquitted of the same charge last month in Pontiac District Court.

Those who were to have hearings in Juvenile Court were under 17 years of age and could not be tried in District Court. Their trials were to begin next Monday.

AGREES WITH PROSECUTOR

Whitmer said that he concurred with the prosecutor that the dismissal in no way means that they condone trespassing.

"But in view of the acquittal, it didn't seem reasonable to proceed against the juveniles," said Whitmer.

★ ★ ★

He said that school officials are considering having conferences with the youngsters and their parents to talk about the case.

The purpose of the meetings would be for them to "consider the seriousness of them being drawn into another incident like this," said Whitmer.

Teen Suspect in Burglary Stands Mute

A Pontiac teen-ager accused of burglarizing a school was in jail this morning after standing mute at his arraignment yesterday.

Larry Linwood, 18, of 39 Lorraine appeared before District Judge Cecil B. McCallum who set bond at $1,000 and scheduled a court examination next Thursday. Linwood had not posted bond.

★ ★ ★

Pontiac police Sgt. James Fritz and Patrolmen Archie Rose and William Bookie caught Linwood at about 5:15 a.m. yesterday after chasing him by foot and car and firing shots at him, they said.

Linwood was charged with stealing a record player and flute, valued at a total of $250, from Central Elementary School, across the street from the police station at 101 E. Pike.

KEEGO YOUTH ARRESTED

After another police chase, a Keego Harbor teen was arrested yesterday afternoon after his motorcycle went up an incline, few 43 feet through the air and crashed.

Frank Wright, 17, was arrested for fleeing a traffic arrest.

★ ★ ★

Patrolman Stanley Helgemo said he spotted a motorcycle without license plates at Sanderson and Norton and went after it.

The cycle picked up speed, disobeyed stop signs and tried to lose the police car, the officer said.

★ ★ ★

Innocent Plea by Teacher in Assault Case

An Eastern Junior High School teacher who allegedly struck a 14-year-old student during class Monday pleaded not guilty this morning at his arraignment in Pontiac District Court on an assault and battery charge.

Free on $500 bond awaiting preliminary examination next Thursday is Charles O. Hunt, 32, of 1111 Grace, Avon Township.

He is charged with striking Alvin Emery, son of Mrs. Betty Emery of 540 Judson, as the result of an argument in an English class.

Hunt, who was suspended without pay Tuesday pending an investigation by school authorities, resigned from the school system prior to the incident. His resignation is effective at the end of the school year.

The youth told police that Hunt knocked him to the floor and pushed a chair into him, then slammed him against a wall, causing his head to bleed.

Emery was taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital for X rays and was treated for bruises on the arms and head, then released.

Mrs. Emery made an assault complaint to police yesterday, and a warrant was issued against Hunt early today.

Service Group Picks Officers

New officers and directors of the Television and Electronics Service Association (TESA) of Oakland County were installed for the 1969-70 year at the recent annual meeting.

The new president is Sigmund Chmiloski, 242 S. East Blvd. Other new officers include Eugene Ellis of 2605 Catherham, Waterford Township, vice president and secretary, and Walter Grogan of 4730 Clarkston, Independence Township, treasurer.

Immediate past president Robert Dalby of 348 Lehigh will serve as chairman of the board of directors, also named at the annual meeting.

The local TESA group is formed to maintain a rigid code of ethics and to keep the members informed about new developments in the electronics industry.

SUCCESSFUL TEAM —Mort Shuman (left) and Eric Blau put together the musical "Jacques Brel Is Alive and Well and Living in Paris," and it is an off-Broadway success after running for more than a year. The show also has started a promising round of tours.

Off-Broadway Success

'Alive and Well' Just That

NEW YORK (AP) — Some shows click quick. Others take longer.

"We just felt sure," says Eric Blau, "that we had what the public would want if we could weather initial inertia."

★ ★ ★

Blau, small-wiry-intense, and Mort Shuman, vast-frizzy-cherubic, are cosires of Off-Broadway's improbably titled sleeper sensation, "Jacques Brel Is Alive and Well and Living in Paris."

The sauvely dramatic melody melange recently celebrated its first anniversary, clicking off a heady $2,000-weekly profit in a 412-seat nightclub turned theater, the Village Gate.

STUBBORN SURVIVAL

During its first three months of stubborn survival, it cost its angels an extra $20,000 over the original $27,000 investment.

The impressive turnabout is attributed by Blau to such factors as strong word-of-mouth, a belated rave from a newspaper that at first panned it, but most of all, the material itself.

Whatever the reasons, there's no longer any doubt that the entertainment has a powerfully electric range. There have been successful limited engagements in London and Philadelphia. Other units are running in Chicago and Toronto. A six-week engagement starts in June in Los Angeles, and tours of colleges and across Eruope are being planned.

"We will run here for at least another year," Blau predicts.

BELGIAN TROUBADOUR

The idea for the show began when he and Shuman independently discovered Brel, a 38-year-old Belgian troubadour who is one of the ranking favorites in Paris cafes and music halls, although comparatively unknonw here.

★ ★ ★

"His music knocked me over," says Blau, a skeptical realist from Bridgeport, Conn., who has spent a good part of his 48 years promoting sports events and ghosting articles by eminent sports figures.

"I was mostly derisive and thought songs were a silly occupation for a grown man. When I heard these, I was impressed and humbled."

Shuman was "turned around" when he heard Brel.

ENTHUSIASM POOLED

The two Brel fans met at a recording studio in 1967, pooled their enthusiasm and decided to develop a show that would expose the Belgain to a wide audience on this side of the sea..

★ ★ ★

They sifted through 200 songs, translated 50 lyrics and winowed the lot down to 26 numbers in the show that range from tartly romantic to mordantly satiric and moodily picturesque.

★ ★ ★

"In his apolitical way," Shuman says, "he writes seriously of the human condition. He is unbelieveably honest."

"What he does," adds Balu, "is to capture the life of these times and make it understandable to millions."

★ ★ ★

And sometime soon, the show sponsors hope, Brel himself will come see what all the excitement is about. Right now he is starring in his own Paris production of "Man of La Mancha."

Sheepshearers Safe From March of Science

NEW YORK (UPI) — Scores of ancient professions have been abolished by the ever-forward march of science, but sheepshearers of the world can now rejoice. Theirs is NOT going to be one of them, despite alarming rumors to the contrary.

The scientists who discovered sheep can be sheared chemically, rather than mechanically as shearers shear them, have made a full disclosure. As wonderful as the discovery is, it has drawbacks.

The scientists injected two sheep with a calculated dose of an anticancer drug. "Beginning on the sixth day," they said, "the wool on the backs and flanks of both animals became progessively looser and could be pulled or brushed out with little effort.

★ ★ ★

"The loss of wool progressed for approximately three weeks and involved most parts of the body, abdominal wool being the last to fall. During this period, the fleece could be rolled off like a blanket."

PRIMARY INTEREST

The scientists were Drs. Elton R. Homan and David P. Rall of the National Cancer Institute and Robert P. Zendzian and William M. Busey of The Hazleton Laboratories, Falls Church, Va.

Their primary interest was not at all in sheep-shearing; it was in finding out why some anticancer drugs inflict temporary hair loss in patients.

★ ★ ★

They injected Cyclophosphamide, the most active of these blandness-inducers, in a series of experimental animals. Dosages large enough to cause hair loss were also large enough to kill some of the animals. But the sheep proved tolerant of an effective dose.

However, there was damage to the hair follicles. The scientists believed wool was slower in growing back than is normal even though they found no evidence of a permanent stoppage of growth.

TOXIC CHANGES

Furthermore, there were toxic changes in blood chemistry, although they soon disappeared.

★ ★ ★

An authority on wool and sheep pooh-poohed this threat to the ancient profession. In the first place, he said, no sheep rancher could afford to have his flocks in corrals and away from pasture for several weeks, waiting for their wool to loosen enough to roll off.

★ ★ ★

Nor could the rancher afford to risk the health of his sheep, particularly the quality of the fleece succeeding the fleece removed chemically. But what makes the profession of sheepshearing safe, he said, is that a competent sheep-shearer can clip 100 to 150 sheep in a day.

★ ★ ★

When people entered history they were already sheepherders and sheepshearers. On that basis, sheep people claim to be "the world's oldest profession." Traditionally another profession is often accepeted as the oldest, but sheep people say their claim is better documented — in neolithic stone "writing" of about 4200 B.C.

No Plan Developing for Anguillan Future

ANGUILLA (AP) — New talk of a "Caribbean solution" to the Anguilla deadlock and an early pullout of British occupation troops has blossomed here. But there is no sign yet of a concrete play for the future of this secessionist island.

Anguillan leader Ronald Webster claims British officials have assured him the soldiers who landed March 19 soon will be gone. What they will leave behind is another matter.

★ ★ ★

Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart called in the London envoys of Jamaica, Barbados, Guyana and Trinidad-Tobago on Monday to talk over ways of resolving the standoff.

One topic discussed was the possibility of turning over the running of 35-square-mile Anguilla to larger Caribbean area members of the British Commonwealth.

PUBLIC PROMISE

Returning Anguilla to associated statehood with St. Kitts and Nevis islands, which it bolted in May 1967, seems out of the question. The British have promised publicly they would not do so.

And the Anguillans, who by their own reckoning have been out of the young federation nearly eight times as long as they were in it, are not likely to tolerate restoration of the St. Kitts-based rule that they claim made them a colony of a colony.

★ ★ ★

Moreover, St. Kitts Premier Robert Bradshaw does not have the resources to keep policing a dissident territory 60 sea miles from his capital.

What Britain needs is a formula that would protect Anguilla's determination to be free of Bradshaw but would not disregard the premise that the Anguillan seccession was illegal. One motive for the March invasion was fear that Anguilla's action might trigger a chain reaction of island splitting that would turn the British Caribbean into a chaos of ministates.

BUOYED BY STATEMENT

From the British viewpoint, hope may be seen in Webster's recent statement that Anguilla should be independent but stay in the Commonwealth. This suggests that Webster, who claims to be president of Anguilla, may be turning away from advisers like Jack N. Holcomb.

Holcomb, an American businessman who is barred from Anguilla by the British, says the island needs complete independence and a constitution that would encourage outside capital investments.

TV Offering Best Seats for Prince of Wales Rites

CAERNARVON, Wales (AP)—Television viewers throughout the world will get a better view of the investiture of the Prince of Wales than the 1,500 celebrities invited inside historic Caernarvon castle.

The July 1 ceremony will be the most elaborate royal occasion since the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II in 1953.

★ ★ ★

More than 4,000 guests will be seated within the limestone walls of the castle, but only 2,500 will be able to see the queen install her 20-year-old son Charles as Prince of Wales.

"It's too bad for the 1,500, but let's remember that the same was true of the coronation," says Geraint Walters, Welsh director of the British Ministry of Works.

SOME TO BE UNLUCKY

"Only a small proportion of people in Westminster Abbey saw the actual crowning of the queen. This time some people are going to be unlucky, too."

The unlucky 1,500 are to be seated behind a buttress that will shut off the view of Charles pledging himself to serve the people of Wales. Among the guests will be Welsh dignitaries, diplomats and possibly members of foreign royalty.

★ ★ ★

Banks of seating for the privileged guests inside the walls are mostly completed. The guests will be offered the chance of buying their handsome chairs at $28.80 each—a useful contribution to offset the British government's cost ceiling of $600,000 for all the pageantry.

More than 2,600 places outside the castle walls are nearly ready for people prepared to pay 10 guineas or $25.20 a seat. They will get a free cushion to take away.

Hippie Community Stirs Unrest in Valley

CAVE JUNCTION, Ore. (AP) — A small car pulls up to the curb, and a handful of bearded young men get out. Their hair is shaggy, their baggy clothing ragged, their feet bare or sandaled.

They try to enter stores and are turned away as people scowl at them.

They are part of a growing hippie community that is the focus of fear, distrust—even hatred—in this village of 350 persons in the southwest corner of Oregon.

The first hippies came to this lovely valley, known as the Illinois, about 18 months ago. Most were from California. They settled in several places about a dozen miles southwest of Cave Junction, and an influx began.

'STARTED UNREST'

Robert Bosworth of Medford, president of the local American Civil Liberties Union, says he first heard of the situation about eight months ago when he got complaints that a film linking hippies and Communists was being shown in the area.

"This seemed to start the civic unrest," he says.

★ ★ ★

Now some on both sides — hippies and "straights" — go armed.

One night recently, cars of youngsters driving into the hippie area were fired at with rifles and shotguns. Earlier, local toughs had harassed the hippies and said they'd be back.

CREATE SUSPICION

Efforts by the county to enforce sanitation standards have created suspicion and unrest.

Dist. Atty. Michael Killoren says a small minority of townspeople is rabid. "They've got guns and talk about violence," he said.

★ ★ ★

Several residents of the hippie community recently met, with drawn guns, a deputy sheriff and two sanitarians. One knocked the deputy unconscious.

Hal Medkeff, the deputy, says, "Every hippie is armed with rifles, pistols or knives. Even the girls have knives."

'FEAR OF VIOLENCE'

"There's a fear of violence all around the valley" says the Rev. Stanley Day, Methodist minister, He was hooted down when he tried early this month to tell a public meeting the people should share the blame for problems.

"We're scared," says Joseph Rossignol, a bearded poet, one-time Los Angeles area landscape gardener and owner of property in the Takilma hippie area. He's aligned with the hippies.

★ ★ ★

He was beaten last July by a group of young men from the town.

B. F. Randolph, president of the newly formed Illinois Valley Betterment Association, told a mass meeting that until the hippies showed up, Josephine County had no narcotics problem and now it does.

NARCOTICS RAIDS

"We'll get it whipped and then we'll move in and clean up the rest," he said to loud applause.

The sheriff's office has been making narcotics raids. Early this month police picked up 25 young persons in a commune known as the Frantic Family. Most of those arrested were 18 or 19 years old. They were charged with various narcotics offenses.

★ ★ ★

The number of hippies in Illinois Valley is not clear. Rossignol says there are around 100 adults in Takilma but more are coming steadily. He says—and the straight, or nonhippie, community fears—the number may swell to 1,000 by summer. An underground newspaper in Seattle estimates their number now at 600.

Some live in crude shacks. A few have built houses that show both skill and care although fashioned from discarded lumber.

LACK SANITATION

But few have adequate sanitary facilities. Many have no privies, the hippies relieving themselves almost anywhere.

"The sanitation issue has been ignored for years," says Sheriff Dean Snider, "but with the influx of people it is no longer a matter of isolated cases.

★ ★ ★

"We are starting now to require screened outhouses or other minimum facilities."

"The sanitarians don't inspect others, just us," say Mike and Donna Maes, who dress neatly and live in a tidy house they rent from Rossignol.

DISLIKES HARASSMENT

Mike shaved and cut his hair, and Donna says it was because "we wanted to stop the yelling at us — the obscene shouts."

Jim Thomas, tall, bronzed, clean-shaven, says, "I believe in sanitation. I don't believe in polluting the river and I'm not going to do it. But I'm not going to be harassed."

★ ★ ★

It was on Thomas' property that the deputy sheriff was knocked out when he escorted sanitatians in to make an inspection. They had been turned back the day before for lack of a warrant.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Robert Burrows says police and sanitary inspectors have power to go on property and need no warrant or other paper.

MEETING FAILED

The district attorney says some want to drive the hippies out. When he tried to set up a meeting of hippies and representatives of the betterment association, he failed because the association members refused to meet with the hippies.

The sheriff is unrestrained in his comment about the Frantic Family commune: "A mass of stinking humanity."

★ ★ ★

"The present society supports them," he says. "They don't believe in gainful employment . . . The stink like hell and they're dirty.

"The hippies say they are feeling pressure from us because of drugs which they say is for religious use. They say they are harassed for having out-of-town licenses, yet they certify they are Oregon residents to get free food.

DRUGS A CENTRAL FEAR

"Are they harassed by having obscenities shouted at them? We haven't been able to hear anyone doing it."

He points to hippies' use of drugs as a central fear in the town: "The residents know the hippies are using drugs. They are afraid their children will be influenced."

There is a strong threat of religion running through most hippies' talk, and one young woman said, as she walked up the river with a load of clothes she had washed, "I feel we were led here. Revelations are being lived today, and when the end comes, those living in love will be saved."

Burrows, the assistant district attorney, says one thing seems sure: "We won't wind up with peaceful coexistence."

Visa-ting Rights to Hell Are Offered

HELL, Mich. (AP)—Want a passport through Hell?

Well, you can get one — if you're a seventh or eighth grader—and write an essay on: "How to improve the Hell we live in today."

★ ★ ★

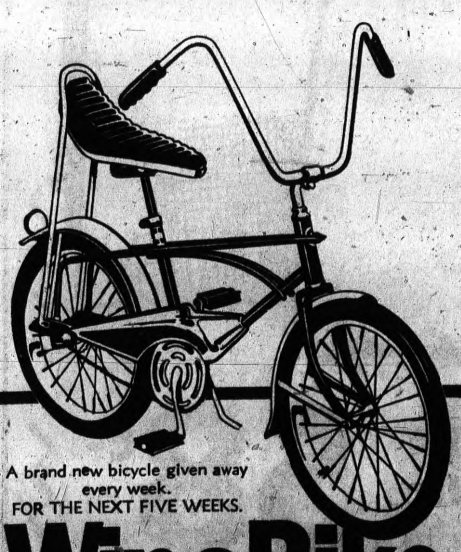

An "official passport" is offered all who respond by the Hell Chamber of Commerce, which advertises this southeastern Michigan lake-country resort village as "a town on its way up." Special cash prizes will go to those entries judged to have "outstanding solutions."

Probe of U.S. Chemical-Bacteriological Arsenal Has Started

WASHINGTON (AP) — Investigation of development and stockpiling of ultradeadly chemical and bacteriological weapons by the United States was begun today by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee headed by J. William Fulbright, D-Ark.

Fulbright, in a letter this week to Rep. Richard D. McCarthy, D-N.Y., expressed criticism and amazement that such an arsenal has been developed.

★ ★ ★

The question to which both Fulbright and McCarthy seek an answer is why the Pentagon spends hundreds of millions of dollars a year on the materials for an all-out chemica-biological (C-B) war in an age when attacks, second strikes, deterents and safeguard antimissile systems generally are thought of in terms of nuclear weapons.

The Pentagon's response: We build C-B weapons because our enemies do, and we will continue to develop them as long as our enemies do.

REFUSE TO TALK

Military officials refused to talk to the Associated Press about C-B warfare but did brief several members of Congress and replied in writing to questions submitted by McCarthy. Part of the briefing and the answers to McCarthy's questions now have been made public.

The Pentagon told McCarthy that the C-B warfare budget for fiscal 1969 would be $350 million, including $5 million for herbicides, or plant killers.

★ ★ ★

"I find it difficult to accept this budget figure," McCarthy said. "It is generally admitted that the United States spent about $100 million for defoliants and herbicides last year. I cannot believe that we will buy only $5 million this year."

The Defense Department told McCarthy the United States maintains only a limited offensive capability in chemical weapons.

100 MILLION LETHAL DOSES

But in the Rocky Mountain Arsenal and the Tooele Army Depot alone, there are, McCarthy said, about 100 million lethal doses of nerve gas. One Army source said that a single nerve gas bomb the size of a quart fruit jar could kill every living thing within a cubic mile.

★ ★ ★

Defense officials said there is no stockpiling of medical supplies to use as antidotes biological attack because there are more than 100 biological warfare agents and making large quantities of vaccines against all of them is impossible.

★ ★ ★

The United States also does not keep the antidote to nerve gas for civilian use, the Pentagon said. But it added that the military does have equipment to protect its personnel against chemical warfare.

McCarthy quoted figures, however, which said the Navy purchases only one-tenth enough atropine, the nerve gas antidote, needed for its total number of personnel.

SAFETY PRACTICES

The Defense Department says strict safety practices are enforced at laboratories where C-B weapons are developed and tested.

However, a study reported by McCarthy stated that between 1954 and 1962 at Ft. Detrick, Md., the headquarters for the nation's biological warfare research program, there were 3,300 accidents, half involving such things as broken test tubes and scratches from needles.

★ ★ ★

In 1959, one worker there caught pneumonic plague, a highly infectious disease. He also was a lifeguard at a swimming pool, but local residents who might have come in contact with him at the pool were not warned of the danger nor, according to McCarthy's report, did the U.S. Public Health service report the incident to the World Health Organization as required by international agreement.

★ ★ ★

Earlier, an Army bacteriologist at Ft. Detrick became ill at his home in Frederick, Md. He was placed in a local hospital where his disease went unrecognized. Shortly after being transferred to a base hospital, he died of contagious anthrax.

6,000 SHEEP KILLED

Some 6,000 sheep in Skull Valley, Utah, died last year when nerve gas drifted from a C-B warfare testing area at the nearby Dugway Proving Grounds into the pastures.

McCarthy said he was informed that autopsies done on some sheep showed low-level exposure to the gas. The Army refuse to confirm that its nerve gas caused the sheep deaths but has paid the rancher who owned them nearly $500,000 in damages. Tests of the gas at Dugway were suspended, but now have been resumed.

★ ★ ★

The Defense Departmen said it carefuly conforms to regulations covering transport of C-B materials overland: there is a layer of sand under the materials during shipment to reduce vibrations and absorb leakage; all shipments are accompanied by escorts; routes are planned to avoid populated centers and materials carried are not volatile.

Yet in the Denver rail yards, McCarthy said a reporter for a local television station found gondola cars carrying what he described as large tanks of nerve gas, a highly volatile substance. The tanks remained in the Denver yard most of the night. The reporter said his cameraman filmed them for an hour and a half and never saw a guard.

Speaking of C-B warfare in general, McCarthy said that most members of Congress know little about it.

"It's covertly covered in the defense appropriations bill," he charged. "We've had this shroud of secrecy over it. We just don't think it would survive in the light of day."

Project Is Helping GIs Get Good Job After Discharge

FT. KNOX, Ky. (AP)—James Morgan came out of Vietnam with a combat wound, medals and little hope for the future.

Within months he would become a civilian but one without a skill or a profession.

★ ★ ★

The Army solved the 22-year-old soldier's problem by running him through basic training in reverse.

He was enrolled in Project Transition, a unique experiment set up by the Defense Department and private enterprise to provide servicemen with the experience needed to find good jobs.

COMPUTER COURSE

Morgan chose a course in computers, assuming that upon his return to Oyster Bay, N.Y., he would have little trouble locating "a good-paying position in this field. It's the coming thing."

After Morgan is discharged next month, he won't be forgotten by Project Transition officials. They will check regularly to see what progress he is making in his new career.

More than 4,000 GIs have been processed through various schools since the pilot project was launched here in 1967. Like Morgan, many of the men had known no employer but the Army during most of their adult lives.

The first courses were sponsored by the Post Office Department, which taught servicemen how to sort letters, operate its trucks, and deliver the mail. Once this experience was acquired, the student was better prepared when he took a Civil Service examination for a post office job.

FIRST CIVILIAN

Late in 1967, the Army signed its first civilian—Humble Oil & Refining—for a 90-day hitch in Project Transition.

Rolling a trailer classroom onto the military reservation, Humble offered a comprehensive course of instruction leading to the leasing or managing of a service station. There were nearly 100 applicants.

They were screened and interviewed by company officials, who picked 19 for the original class. Of that group, only five washed out. Six took over service stations; three were placed on a waiting list for similar positions, and one was offered a job as a salesman for Humble.

Impressed by the results, Humble has continued the program indefinitely.

30 DIVERSIFIED FIELDS

Watching over Project Transition is James A. Jones, director of education at Ft. Knox. He has seen the program grow from two to more than 30 diversified fields, including data processing, restaurant management and even entymology.

The Army first attempts to persuade the serviceman to reenlist. If he doesn't, then Jones moves in.

★ ★ ★

Six months before discharge, each GI receives a questionnaire from Jones to determine whether he's interested in Project Transition.

Priority is assigned to the combat disabled. Next in line are those who entered the service with no civilian skills and acquired none during their years in the Army.

GIVEN CONSIDERATION

Consideration also is given to three other groups:

- Those who acquired a military specialty which has a civilian application but must be improved to make them empoyable.
- Those who need to update a civilian trade which they already had attained.
- And those who have a civilian occupation but wish to change it.

★ ★ ★

Often Jones finds that many men seeking training have no high school education. They are placed in a General Education Development course providing a high school equivalency certificate. If enough time remains before discharge, these servicemen then may take part in Project Transition.

Whatever his background, the GI soon learns that Jones is sympathetic.

★ ★ ★

"These boys have done their bit for the country," he says. "Now it's our turn to help, to see that they don't founder in a civilian world that can be tough on the unskilled."

ACQUIRING SKILLS—James Morgan, 22-year-old Vietnam veteran, works a computer at Ft. Knox, Ky., during his program in Project Transition, an experiment by the Defense Department and private enterprise to provide servicemen with the experience to find good jobs. Morgan is due to return to civilian life soon, and stands a good chance to obtain a job in the computer field.

Apollo Rock Hounds Ready for Descent on Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — America's pilot-astronauts may not be rock hounds, but by the time they head for the moon they should know more about lunar geology than many geologists straight out of college.

"They realize the success of the mission depends on their doing this job very well, and they are deadly serious about it," said Dr. T. H. Foss, a Space Agency geologist who helps train the moon explorers.

Apollo 11 astronauts Neil Armstrong and Edwin Aldrin are scheduled to make the initial landing on the moon's desolate Sea of Tranquility July 2 while Michael Collins orbits overhead.

"I think this first landing crew in particular is all we could hope for in geologic inclination among the astronauts," Foss said in an interview. "I couldn't think of a better crew for making the first landing, from my point of view."

2 HOURS TO EXPLORE

Armstrong and Aldrin will only have a couple of hours to explore the lunar surface around them, but they plan to do enough to tell mankind for the first time what at least part of the moon is made of.

Because all evidence indicates that the rock in the Sea of Tranquility is similar to volcanic material on earth, Armstrong, Aldrin and the rest of the Apollo astronauts have concentrated on that kind of rock.

"Obviously," said Foss, "they haven't studied fossils very much, and they haven't studied glaciers, and they haven't studied river deltas and things of this sort — things that we just don't expect to see on the moon.

"Their training has been very heavily aimed toward volcanism and impact theory and this sort of thing," the geologist said. The impact theory is expected to help the pilots study the small craters that pockmark virtually every square foot of the landing site.

150 CLASSROOM HOURS

Foss said Aldrin and Armstrong have had at least 150 hours of classroom study in the science dealing with the earth's makeup and, in this case, the moon's.

In addition, they have spent 30 to 40 days in the field studying geology under realistic conditions around Hawaiian volcanoes and in places with clear evidence of past volcanic activity as in Iceland, Oregon and Arizona.

"They've probably had a lot more time in the field than the average person with a bachelor's degree in geology," Foss said. "They've had more effective time in the field certainly because each of these field trips has been tailored specifically to their needs.

"In classroom hours, I would say their education is at least equivalent with a person with a bachelor's degree — and maybe more — but not in the whole broad field of geology.

"It has been more like a graduate course in a couple of specific areas. As a matter of fact, I doubt there's any place in the country where you could get a graduate course in the kinds of things they've had."

Foss said he did not think any of the pilot-astronauts were rock hounds by inclination, and "It's pretty unlikely that we could talk one of these fellows into becoming a geologist instead of an astronaut."

★ ★ ★

But, he said, "I think they've come to the realization that geology and geological exploration is an integral part of the mission, and they work on that just as hard as they do on any other part of their training."

Dr. John W. Dietrich, another geologist at the manned spacecraft center, said the astronauts have one big advantage in the business of geology — they are excellent observers.

"All we need to do is point this observation capability they already have toward the geological aspects of the problem," he said.

"I'm exceedingly pleased with the 11 crew."

State Teacher Strikes, School Closings Seen in Fall

RIVER ROUGE (AP)—"Widespread teacher strikes and school closings" can be expected this fall, a member of the State Board of Education predicted yesterday.

★ ★ ★

Board member Marilyn Jean Kelly of Detroit, speaking in River Rouge, charged Gov. William Milliken with "dodging the problem of state aid to education."

★ ★ ★

"Last year, at this time the Legislature had already passed the school aid budget and the governor had signed it," she said. "This year, with some 50,000 more public school youngsters expected to enroll by September, the Legislature hasn't even agreed on a figure.

"Worst of all," she said, "Milliken is pushing hard for a makeshift budget and insisting on anothe study of education needs."

★ ★ ★

Miss Kelly said the governor named his study commission only Tuesday and advised it to report by Sept. 30.

★ ★ ★

"No decision on educational reform can be made in five months that couldn't be made today," she said. "By September, with increased enrollments and normal inflationary increases in supplies, materials and equipment facing them, schools will find it impossible to negotiate reasonable salary and wage increases for teachers."

TEEN TERRORIST — A young gunner stands guard at the entrance to a camp in Jordan where boys aged 8 to 16 are trained as members of Fatah, an Arab terrorist organization. The guns reportedly have live ammunition and no safety catches.

Schoolmaster Club Near Its Final Chapter

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — One of the nation's oldest organizations for educators, the Michigan Schoolmasters Club, may vote itself out of existence at its 83rd annual meeting May 9.

The club, organized in 1886 by a group including noted progressive educator John Dewey, has declined in membership and professional affiliation.

★ ★ ★

Shoolmastes President Nicholas Schreiber said the club appears to be less essential than it was in the past when it served to establish ties between high school and college teachers who desired to improve the quality and processes of education.

The club's secretary-treasurer Russell West, believes the deadline in membership is due to school systems being less free to release staff members for profesisonal meetings and activities.

★ ★ ★

Also at fault, West said, is the growth of separate subject matter associations which now concern themselves with the main objectives of the teachers. He cited groups for English and math teachers as examples.

This Star Bears Watching Now

By National Geographic Society

WASHINGTON — Ursa Major, a constellation that has intrigued men for centuries, will be almost directly overhead on early evenings in May.

The constellation's Latin name means Great Bear, and peoples as different as the ancient Chaldeans and the Iroquois Indians have thought of it as a bear.

Modern observers may find it difficult to see a bear in the 22 stars making up Ursa Major. They may feel it suggests a reindeer — as some Siberain tribesmen thought — or a camel, the view of the Berbers of North Africa.

To find Ursa Major, an observer can simply look for the Big Dipper, a part of the constellation. The Big Dipper can be seen high in the northern skies in May. Its bowl is upside down and its handle points overhead.

GOOD STARTING PLACE

The eight stars of the Big Dipper provide an excellent place for a beginner to start learning his way around the heavens.

The second star from the end of the Big Dipper's handle is known as Mizar. It has a small companion, Alcor. The ancient Arabs knew the pair as the Horse and Rider and regarded seeing Alcor as a test of sight.

★ ★ ★

Alcor now can be seen by anyone with normal eyesight, but it is uncertain whether the star has brightened or people's sight has improved because of better diet.

West Germans Appear to Be Satisfied With Coalition Regime

BONN (UPI) — In spite of the rumblings of an approaching election, the West German electorate seems to be sufficiently satisfied with the existing grand coalition of Dr. Kurt Kiesinger's Christian Democrats and Willy Brandt's Social Democrats to make it difficult for the politicians to ignore their opinion.

A recent public opinion poll had 73 per cent of the Christian Democrats who were asked expressing their satisfaction with the coalition. Among the Social Democrats, the majority of 59 per cent was smaller but still substantial.

Behind these results there is the well-known distaste of the man at the grass roots for what he looks on as unnecessary political quarreling.

There is good reason to believe that some of the most important men in Bonn have decided at least to keep the coalition together as a working entity until Sept. 28, which is election day.

That means that, among other things, they will try their hardest, as Kiesinger wants to, to complete, for instance, the overhaul of the financial system, increasing the element of the centralism, which was one of the main aims that the coalition set itself when it came to office in 1966.

What happens after Sept. 28 is too dependent upon the precise strength of the parties, for any forecast to be made now.

The poll, however, showed that for epery two members of the Free Democratic party, now in opposition, who would like to resume their former coalition with the Christian Democrats, there are more than three who would prefer to join with the Social Democrats.

Unique Plan Would Provide Services for Twin-Cities Area

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Minnesota's attempt to meet the problems of urban sprawl could result in a unique metropolitan government.

Governing bodies in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area, the state's only metropolitan center, would not surrender their identities or most of their functions. Local control of schools, libraries and zoning would be retained.

★ ★ ★

But sewage treatent, solid waste disposal, transit, parks and zoos and possibly law enforcement would come under the larger financial umbrella of a metropolitan agency.

About half of Minnesota's 3.6 million residents live in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area. But the two core cities have less than half of the 1.8 million metropolitan population.

SPECIFIC FUNCTIONS

Recognizing that a metropolitan government which would take over all functions is not politically feasible, metropolitan government—Minnesota style—would handle specific functions which proponents say have to be financed as broadly and equitably as possible.

★ ★ ★

Stronger forms of metropolitan government proposed elsewhere have been rejected by voters. The Minnesota version, a compromise between the all-encompassing agency and a weak advisory system without fiscal powers, is unique, backers say.

The brainchild has many fathers, including the Citizens League, an independent, nonpartisan organization, working for better government.

IT'S HIS JOB

But the job of getting it approved by a rural-dominated legislature—without emasculation by urban lawmakers jealous of municipal interests—belongs to a small-town legislator.

State Sen. Gordon Rosenmeier—sometimes described as the most powerful man in the Senate—is quick to come to the defense of the plan: "It carries no threat to local government. It really isn't such a far-out thing."

★ ★ ★

Two years ago Rosenmeier, 61, introduced the enabling legislation for the Metropolitan Council, whose 15 members are appointed by the governor. It was the first attempt to have an overseer for the 300 or so governmental units in the Twin Cities area.

The council, Rosenmeier said, "has had a tendency" to stray from its original coordinating and planning duties. "We want to protect the Metropolitan Council as a planning and coordinating agency. We don't want it to move into the operational area."

The proposal which Rosenmeier hopes to unveil soon in the legislature would retain the present council, but would set up another metropolitan agency to apportion funds.

The third tier of metropolitan government would be independent operating boards for sewers, parks, open space and waste disposal.

Members of the new agency, which would disburse funds, would be elected by popular vote. The legislature probably would give the new agency a limit to finance specific programs.

It wouldn't take over schools but "possibly law enforcement." Sewage, zoos, solid waste disposal, transit and spaces are "all potential operating areas," Rosenmeier said. "I'm not so sure about air pollution. In fact, I don't quite envision it."

Rosenmier feels that state legislatures must supply the answers to metropolitan problems. "The only policy-making agency in the state is the legislature," he says.

STYLE-SETTER—The Duke of Windsor lights a pipe on arrival in the United States, wearing his favorite houndstooth tweed coat with large peaked lapels, matching tie and softly striped shirt. Falling Boy Saved by Seat of Pants

HIGHLAND MILLS, N.Y. (AP) — A 10-year-old boy was saved by the seat of his pants Wednesday as he fell down a nearly perpendicular, 200-foot shale cliff in this Orange County community.

Police said James O'Donald's slide ended about 25 feet from the top when his pants seat snagged on a ledge.

His fall stopped, the boy managed to grasp the ledge. He dangled there until his screams brought help.

Dem Hearing Set

LANSING (AP) — A public hearing to offer disaffected students and ghetto residents a chance to tell what they think about the political system will be held Saturday at Michigan State University by the Michigan Democratic Party political reform commission.

Dr. Oaks Says:

Ability to Listen May Hold Key to Good Communications

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is another in a series of weekly articles issued by the Oakland County Medical Society. Dr. Oaks is the collective voice of the society.)

Verbal combat often does more bodily harm than the wounds created by the arrows and shrapnel of the battlefield. Although the punctures of the flesh don't show, the daily conflict of conversation may do the greater damage.

Blessed with the thumb and the alphabet, man still finds it difficult to work and play at peace with his neighbor. It is as true of whole nations as it is of individuals.

★ ★ ★

Man fails to communicate.

Have you ever had an argument, felt put upon and walked away muttering "I should have said this or that . . . or, next time I'll tell him?"

Or, have you ever anticipated an argument, planning your attack . . . "If he says this, then I'll say . . .?"

FUSE OF HOSTILITY

Misunderstandings, the essence of arguments, occupies much of our lives. When unresolved, a misunderstanding beomes the producer of frustration and, indirectly, the fuse of hostility.

★ ★ ★

To witness misunderstanding is to be uncomfortable. To be involved in a misunderstanding produces anxiety.

★ ★ ★

Communication is the key to understanding, although the latter — if achieved — may not terminate disagreement. However, it does tend to remove some of the heat from the conflict.

★ ★ ★

The Center for Research on the Utilization of Scientific Knowledge (CRUSK) has devoted several years to the age-old problem of effectively communicating. CRUSK offers a means to understanding.

One of the essentials of communication is the ability to listen. When next you engage in a conversation, regardless of its content, try to listen.

Can you tell the speaker what he said? Often people tend to judge, to evaluate — approve or disapprove — before it is really understood what the other person is saying.

While you listen, think of the point of view of your conversational partner. What does he mean? What is his frame of reference?

Before responding, there is one other requirement, namely, can you restate the ideas and feelings of the first speaker to his satisfaction?

It sounds simple. But, often we don't really know what the other person said, or sense how he feels about it.

Conversational conflict often erupts in the husband-wife dialogue. Obviously, this is easily the most fruitful grounds for misunderstandings. Did either one of you really listen?

It may delay rebuttal or even curb some of the heat of the conversation, but try the new rule — restate the other's ideas and feelings to his satisfaction. It's not that easy.

(Do you have a question for Dr. Oaks, send a card or letter to Oakland County Medical Society, 346 Park, Birmingham 48009)

Coyotes Persist --Despite Man

By National Geographic Society

WASHINGTON — The king of varmints may well be the coyote. He is outwitting his greatest enemy — man.

In a one-way war, hunters and bounty agents have been trapping, shooting and poisoning coyotes ever since pioneers first pushed America's frontiers into the west.

★ ★ ★

Despite more than a century of slaughter, coyotes have survived, partly because they have widened their own horizons. Today coyote country extends further than ever.

★ ★ ★

In the drama of the animal kingdom, many species including the coyote have been miscast as villains. But conservationists like Michael Frome hold that animals turn outlaw because man has forced them into a life of crime—crime as humans judge it.

★ ★ ★

Foxes wouldn't rob hen houses, wolves wouldn't kill sheep and cattle, and bears wouldn't raid campground garbage cans, say naturalists, if man had not changed their traditional ways and tempted them with more easily acquired food.

Upsetting the balance of nature is a major threat to the nation's wildlife.

★ ★ ★

Michael Frome lists 12 animals leading the roll call of these vanishing Americans: the mountain lion, wildcat, badger, wolverine, fox, bear, honed owl, bald eagle, alligator, wolf, fisher and coyote.

★ ★ ★

His bew book on them is called "The Varmints, Our Unwanted Wildlife."

DO GOOD, TOO

Coyotes — called prairie wolves or, in their new home in eastern woods, brush wolves—may do as much good as bad.

★ ★ ★

Like many on the list of condemned wildlife, coyotes eat mostly mice, rats, squirrels, gophers and other rodents which, uncontrolled, can overrun and ruin farms.

★ ★ ★

As one naturalist put it: "If we didn't have these so-called varmints, America would wade in a sea of rabbits."

Federal Welfare Revision Cost to State Is Unclear

LANSING (UPI) — Clarification of new federal welfare rules hasn't resolved much for Michigan, and Gov. William G. Milliken's aides say they won't know how much the state must pay in hardship appeal cases until this summer.

Slated to go into effect Oct. 1, the regulations allow welfare recipients to get payments as long as the eligibility of their case is under appeal. They also require the state to provide free legal service to those bringing action against it. The cost could run into thousands of dollars.

★ ★ ★

Richard Helmbrecht of the executive office's program planning section said he has received word from Federal Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) officials that appeals will be allowed only on "matters of fact, not policy decisions."

Matters of fact include application information and personal statistics.

★ ★ ★

To insure that cases receive prompt attention, however, HEW is requiring that all appeals be decided within 60 days. This, theoretically, makes the state liable for two additional months of payments per case.

But even an initial application to receive welfare is eligible to be appealed under the new rules, Helmbrecht said. This includes hundreds of applications monthly.

★ ★ ★

If the appeals process is exhausted and the state is found not liable for payments, the Social Services department may still elect to continue assistance, with the federal government paying up to 50 per cent of the assistance, Helmbrecht explained.

★ ★ ★

But the chances of the state doing this are slight, he indicated. It would only involve very special hardship cases.

The new procedure for handling welfare review begins with a 10-14 day notice to the recipient that he is to appear at a preliminary hearing.

"The state can terminate the grant if he fails to show, but valid reasons such as illness will be accepted," Helmbrecht said.

★ ★ ★

"We'll have to see how the preliminary hearing works out," he said. "We hope it eliminates a later hearing and the matter is straightened out there."

Currently, the department must pay for withheld welfare checks if a hearing shows a person should continue receiving assistance. The new regulations will give hime the money no matter how the appeal is settled.

Michigan now has 50,000 Aid to Dependent Children welfare cases alone, according to Social Services Director R. Bernard Houston.

AFTER DE GAULLE, WHO? — The likeliest candidate to succeed Charles de Gaulle as president of France is believed to be former Premier Georges Pompidou (top). Other leading contenders include current Premier Maurice Couve de Murville (second from top), De Gaulle's personal choice; Foreign Minister Michel Debre (second from bottom), premier for several years following De Gaulle's return to power in 1958; and Francois Mitterand, candidate for the left coalition in France's last presidential election.

Pennsylvania Schools Defy U.S. in Bible-Reading Revival

CLAIRTON, Pa. (AP) — Open defiance of the Supreme Court rule banning Bible and prayer reading in the nation's schools is sweeping through Pennsylvania.

A grass-roots movement has so far brought a revival of Bible reading in four school districts comprising almost 18,000 children.

★ ★ ★

In several other communities requests to reinstate Bible reading are before school boards. And a bill that would allow Bible reading five minutes before the start of school has been introduced in the Pennsylvania House of Representatives. It was sponsored by 53 House members.

"People are saying the day the Supreme Court banned God was the day that led to moral degeneracy in the country," says Dr. Robert LaFrankie, superintendent of schools in Clairton, a smoky, Monongahela River steel town near Pittsburgh.

1,000 LETTERS

He says he has received more than 1,000 letters from across the country commending the Clairton school board's unanimous decision to reinstate Bible reading earlier this year.

"The people here have taken so much from government over the past eight to 10 years in the form of mandates that they feel the individual is suffering at the expense of the majority," says LaFrankie, a 40-year-old former Englewood, N.J., school principal. "They're saying, 'Who's the state? The people are the state. Who's the Supreme Court to serve? It's to serve the people.'"

★ ★ ★

Morning prayer and Bible reading are also back in the Phillipsburg-Osceola School District in central Pennsylvania and the Albert-Gallatin and Brownsville school districts in Fayette County, which touches the West Virginia border.

While all four school boards voted to bring back the Bible against the advice of board attorneys, there has been little commotion. The American Civil Liberties Union in Pittsburgh says it has been trying for two months to find someone willing to file suit against the Clairton board. They say they can't, despite a 1964 case against a Lebanon, Pa., school board where a federal court upheld the Supreme Court Bible ruling.

NO DISSENTING VOICE

"I think if there were anybody against it, they would have come forth," LaFrankie says, "I'm sure I would have heard from religious leaders by now."

A minifundamentalism has apparently sprouted in Clairton since the resurgence of classroom Bible reading. "Welcome to Clairton — The City of Prayer" signs now dot entrances to the town of 19,000. And the first of a series of "Youth Crusade for Christ Days" packed about 1,000 persons into the high school auditorium in March.

But to the south, on the edge of Appalachia, fundamentalism has always been a way of life to the people who once worked in thriving coal mines now largely closed down.

"It's overwhelming in this area to reinstate it despite the Supreme Court ruling. The feeling is that God won't punish us for it," says Richard Ciccetti, attorney for the Brownsville School District with about 5,000 pupils.

★ ★ ★

"I think they think this is the American way," he says. "If you saw these people, you'd understand. A little old lady is their leader. They got very emotional, started crying, when they reinstated it. It was something."

And Walter Tomecheck, a 58-year-old coal miner wh oonce served on the Albert-Gallatin school board, says, "The Bible is the only book in existence for the people in the mountains. I don't mean anything derogatory, but I think to these people, like other mountain folks, the Bible serves as a mainstay."

Most Quakes Are Not Felt

WASHINGTON — Of the million or more earthquakes that shake the world each year only 100,000 are strong enough to be felt. Fewer than a thousand cause any damage.

Each year averages one "great" earthquake, such as the Alaska and San Francisco shocks, and about 18 lesser quakes with enough violence to be termed "major."

★ ★ ★

No place is immune, but 80 per cent of the world's earthquakes occur in the so-called "line of fire" bordering the Pacific Ocean.

Seismology, a fairly new science, poses many more questions than answers.

EARTHQUAKE-PRONE

Scientists know which areas are most earthquake-prone but they can't predict when one will strike or with what intensity. Even their cause remains somewhat uncertain.

The most widely accepted theory holds that earthquakes result from titanic shifts in the earth's crust along fracture lines called faults.

★ ★ ★

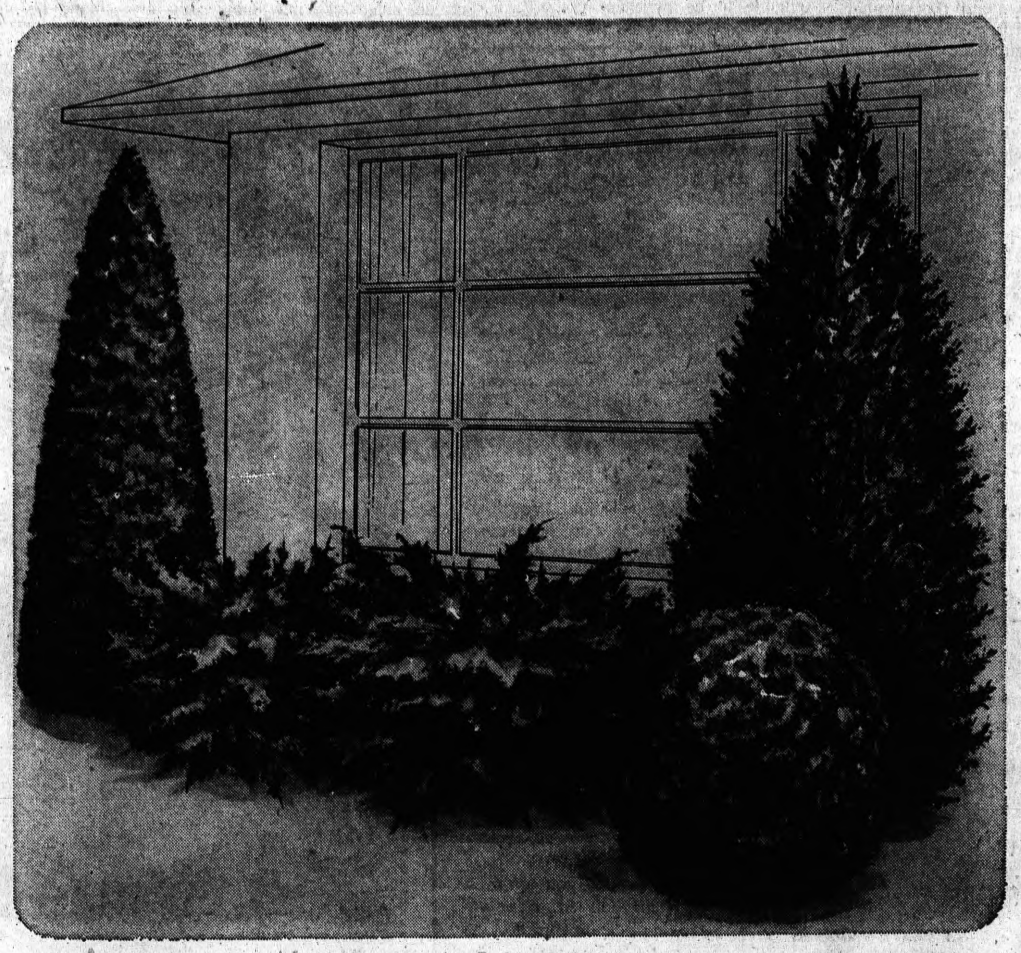

Portions of faults are under constant tension, like a bent bow. When the strain becomes intolerable, the rock gives way at some weak point, and pent-up energy bursts forth in enormously powerful waves.

Spy Plane Crisis Puts Strain on U.S.-Japan Security Pact

TOKYO (AP) — The future of the security treaty binding the United States and Japan is coming under new strains in the wake of the downing of an American scout plane by North Korea.

The treaty was drawn up in 1951 under a Japanese constitution forbidding this country from going to war. It permitted the creation of a small but highly trained self-defense force during the Korean War.

★ ★ ★

The treaty was revised after stormy opposition in 1960, and it is due for another look in June 1970.

It provides the United States with major bases in the main Japanese islands, "for the purpose of contributing to the security of Japan and the maintenance of international peace and security in the Far East."

PRIMARY CONDITION

But there is a primary condition: an accompanying note to the revised 1960 pact calls for prior consultation with Japan if the bases are used for "military combat operations."

The U.S. reconnaissance plane and its 31 men, engaged in what the United States called a routine operation, flew out of Atsugi Airbase, 30 miles from Tokyo. The plane incident, coming four months after the North Koreans had returned the 82 crewmen of the captured American spy ship Pueblo, gave new impetus to the leftist-opposition campaign against the security pact.

★ ★ ★

Japan's Socialists, backed by the Democratic Socialists, Buddhist Omeito and Communists, argue that the continued existence of the U.S. bases here is a source of danger which could draw Japan into a new Asian conflict.

Though the government itself denies this possibility, it counseled the United States against upsetting the delicate balance in North Asia by taking punitive military action against North Korea.

LEAN TO PACIFISM

Reflecting the concern of a nation which, since the sufferings and defeats of World War II, has leaned heavily toward pacifism, the mass circulation Yomiuri Shimbun on April 21 described President Nixon's order that the intelligence flights be resumed, with combat units protecting them, as a move which would "compound the tensions" and possibly lead to war.

A week ago Sunday 5,000 members of the Youth Antiwar Committee took to the streets in a preview of the demonstrations it plans in the months ahead.

Similar demonstrations in 1960, on a massive scale, failed to prevent adoption of the revised security treaty but forced the resignation of Nobusuke Kishi, then prime minister, and cancellation of a scheduled visit by President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

In the nine years since then, Japanese leftists, intellectuals and labor leaders have kept the security pot boiling, demonstrating against the bases, the visits of nuclear-powered U.S. warships and submarines, the Vietnam war, the existence of a hospital for Vietnam war casualties in Tokyo, and the comings and goings of Kishi's brother, Prime Minister Eisaku Sato.

PLANS TO CONTINUE

Sato has made it plain that he intends to continue the treaty: he recognizes it for the international bargain it is, permitting Japan — the third greatest industrial nation in the world — to be defended cheaply with no requirement for reciprocal help if the United States is attacked.

Sheltering under its protective branches, Japan has spent only a miniscule amount of its national budget on maintenance of its 173,000-man volunteer defense forces; U.S. nuclear might has kept covetous neighbors from its shore.

The Japanese have engaged in no foreign wars since 1945, nor sent any of their soldiers, sailors or airmen overseas to fight in the wars of others.

Opponents of the security treaty argue that the bases are no longer needed in the day of intercontinental ballistic missiles and long-range nuclear submarines. They add that intelligence flights off North Korea are similarly outmoded by spy-in-the-sky satellites.

As if in recognition of these facts, the U.S. stake in Japan has, over the years, dwindled. Beginning with 2,824 bases and installations and 260,000 men in 1952, the United States now has 40,700 men and more than 100 bases and installations.

Probably the main issue on continuing the treaty is the future of Okinawa, run by the U.S. military since its capture in 1945. Its return soon could take much of the wind out of the anti-treaty campaign.

★ ★ ★

How it is returned is nearly as important as its reversion. If present U.S. bases there continue to be run by Washington without prior consultation, the fires of national resentment may be kindled. They could be dampened if President Nixon consents to place them under the security treaty.

A few days ago, in a poignant footnote to the turbulent history of the treaty, Nobusuke Kishi presided over memorial services for Dwight Eisenhower. His failure to bring about the Eisenhower visit is one of the disappointments of his life.

SPCA Shows It Gives a Hoot

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A soot-covered owl was pulled out of the chimney at Fels Junior High School Wednesday after custodians reported noises to the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

"I think he fell down the chimney," said Steve Clevenger, an agent for the SPCA. "I put on a pair of gloves and opened the ash-pit door in the basement and there he was, sitting there and squinting at me."

Marxist Revolutionary Cautiously Works for Change in India

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — "We are very limited in our power," said Jyoti Basu, the short, precise, fast-thinking Bengali behind the big desk. "We can't bring about fundamental changes in the present situation. We have to overhaul the entire constitution of India."

Jyoti Basu, the Communist deputy chief minister of West Bengal, is regarded, particularly in New Delhi, as a cunning, confident revolutionary bent on disrupting the Indian union.

★ ★ ★

But here in West Bengal, where a Communist-dominated united front swept to power in February, winning 214 of 284 Assembly seats, the view is different.

Basu's Marxist Communist party, the slightly more radical of India's two Communist groups, acts truculently toward New Delhi—but is simultaneously cautious.

KILLING PROTEST

Recently, in protest against the killing of five workers by central government police stationed at a munitions plant here, Basu called a one-day strike throughout the state and charged three plant administrators with murder.

The strike and the murder charges aroused indignant protest in New Delhi, where the Home Office issued an angry challenge and right-wing parliamentarians called for a takeover of the state by the central government.

★ ★ ★

Almost at the same time, Basu was pleading with New Delhi for more central financial assistance for West Bengal. The state has most of India's heavy industry and includes its major port, Calcutta, but receives little help from the central government, the chief recipient of West Bengal's tax revenue.

While pressing for states' rights, Basu knows he cannot afford to break off relations with New Delhi. The memory of November 1967, when Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government undermined and then tossed out a similar united front, is still fresh in many minds.

HIGHLY RESPECTED

In West Bengal, Basu, 47, is enormously respected, not only within his own party. Says one Western diplomat: "Jyoti Basu is a splendid man."

He and many others admire Basu's decisive administrative style, which they say compares extremely favorably with the slumbering 20-year rule of the Congress party.

★ ★ ★

Businessmen, harassed and besieged by workers during the previous united front's nine-month tenure, were encouraged when Basu replaced his former Trotskyite labor minister with a Communist who is under his thumb.

"We are taking a wait-and-see attitude," said one industrialist. Basu had asked him to telephone if he had any labor problems.

Basu has to prevent labor unrest to keep capital in the state —to keep down the already high unemployment figures.

LAND REFORM

Hare Krishna Konar, land minister and a charismatic peasant leader, is moving in tandem with his followers in the countryside to redistribute about 150,000 acres filed under different names to bypass land regulations.

"Fundamental rights are fundamental," he affirmed. "But there are no fundamental rights for exploitation."

★ ★ ★

Konar plans to introduce legislation soon that will block a series of loopholes—for example, acreage "dedicated to a god" is allowed a higher land ceiling—and possibly open up 1.5 million acres for redistribution.

West Bengal has 43 million people crammed into its 34,000 square miles, giving it the second highest population density in India. Kerala, India's other Communist-led state, has the highest.

NO VIOLATION

"We shall see that the legislation is enacted without violating the constitution," Konar said of his land reform bill.

But in New Delhi the constitution looks slightly different than it does in West Bengal.

★ ★ ★

Far from crying "communism," the opposition state Congress party—the slightly alienated branch of Prime Minister Gandhi's nationally governing party—is unhappy it did not enact genuine land reform during its years in power.

The Congress government in West Bengal had not even redistributed "vested" or government-acquired land among landless people on a permanent basis, a confidential Congress "post mortem" report says.

"Five Communists will work like 50 Congressmen as far as aggressive politicking is concerned," admitted Congress leader Pratap Chunder.

For the moment, Basu's party is playing for short-term gains —by governing West Bengal as well as agitating against New Delhi.

★ ★ ★

"Jyoti Basu shudders when he hears the word 'revolution,'" one of his closest friends remarked, but many militants in Basu's party consider themselves revolutionaries and dream of one day running India.

Promode Das Gupta, secretary general of the West Bengal Marxists, says: "I don't think there is the possibility of having a united front at the center in the immediate future."

'Mod Squad' Star Was Born a Tiger

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — He was born Tiger Andrews, but shortened his name to Tige when he became an actor—the actor you see each week as Capt. Adam Greer in "The Mod Squad."

Andrews, a muscular man, was given the name Tiger because he was a sickly infant and his old world Lebanese parents invoked the superstition that the name of a wild beast would give the child strength. In Andrews' case it worked.

★ ★ ★

Now in his 40s, Andrews and his wife Norma, who was once a professional ballerina, are parents of five: Barbara, 13; Gigi, 11; John, 10; Steve, 8, and Juli, 6.

With that many children it follows that the Andrews family is also part zoo.

LOTS OF WILDLIFE

In addition to an English shepherd the wildlife in and around their Encino home includes a guinea pig, hamster, parakeet, goldfsh, a lizard and two tarantulas. Fortunately, according to Andrews, a pet snake escaped into the woods.

Andrews and company live in an exclusive section of the San Fernando Valley. Their Encino home has five bedrooms and a large garden.

"We don't have a pool because we don't want the worry of having the children fall in," Andrews says. "As soon as little Juli learns to swim we'll put in a pool.

Andrews is a compulsive collector. His den is filled with rare coins and stamps, early Americana, theatrical and film memorabilia and his own paintings. He specializes in impressionistic oils and has given canvasses to members of the ABC-TV series cast.

NO REGULAR HELP

Despite the impressive size of the family, there is no regular help in the home. Tige leaves the housework to his wife and the older girls.

When he gets home from the studio (Paramount) in the evening he likes to push Norma out of the kitchen and do the cooking himself.

Brazil Capital's Political, Economic Life Is Feeling the Pinch

BRASILIA (AP) — This modernistic capital of Brazil is starting its 10th year with much of its political life at a standstill and its economy in crisis.

Neither widespread unemployment nor the government's decision on Dec. 13 to send Congress into recess has caused an exodus or raised doubts about Brasilia's permanence, however.

★ ★ ★

"We are past the stage where we could have become a ghost town. "We're here to stay," says one resident.

Brasilia was carved out of the red earth of Brazil's central highlands in the '50s as the pet project of former President Juscelino Kubitschek.

GREEN LAWNS

The red dust that once swirled around the apartment buildings and daring government offices has largely been replaced by acres of tropical green lawn.

Thousands of families who came reluctantly to Brasilia on transfer from Rio de Janeiro have discovered that life can be enjoyed in the dry, cool highlands, even if the pace is much slower than in muggy Rio.

★ ★ ★

Salaried bureaucrats make up most of the 450,000 population, and things in general have improved for many. Business and professional men, as well as blue-collar workers, tell a different story.

In an effort to scotch inflation, the government last year decided to hold off new spending here. As a result, as many as 40,000 construction workers are idle.

'SHENANIGANS'

The situation was compounded in December when President Arthur Costa e Silva's government, angered by what it considered congressional shenanigans, sent the country's 375 senators and representatives home on enforced vacations.

The congressional recess has affected the pay of 3,500 clerks, pages, secretaries and others working in the capital. They keep receiving basic pay but miss overtime, which doubled or tripled their income when Congress was in session.

Lobbyists also find it unnecessary to come to Brasilia.

The top hotel has closed three floors and laid off 100 employes. A radio-TV complex has lost 80 per cent in advertising billings.

Scores of supermarkets, groceries and shops have turned to the courts to request a "concordata," an admission of near-bankruptcy that temporarily keeps creditors from foreclosing the petitioning firm.

In an effort to turn the tide, the government has reluctantly decided to start some minor public works in the Brasilia area. It has also promised to speed up the transfer of ministries from Rio de Janeiro, where most of the bureaucrats remain.

Foreign Minister Jose de Magalhaes Pinto says his diplomatic staff will be here by year's end. Thus far only the Czechs and the Yugoslavs have built embassies in Brasilia. Other countries, like the United States, keep a skeleton staff in Brasilia and the main embassy offices in Rio.

A wave of embassy construction, if the Foreign Ministry moves all its people to Brasilia, would relieve some of the construction industry's headaches.

"The best way to commemorate Brasilia's ninth anniversary is to reaffirm the decision to keep working for its development and consolidation . . . Brasilia is irreversible," Costa e Silva said in a statement last week.

But he did not say when Congress would reopen. Some analysts suggest that the government is out to let the country's two parties wilt to death.

Chrysler Use of Aluminum Powder Cited

NEW YORK (UPI) — Claiming a major breakthrough in the powder metallurgy field, Chrysler Corp's Ampley Division revealed here yesterday it is producing self-lubricating gears and bearings from powdered aluminum.

H. Arthur Wormet, Amplex Division president, said he believed Chrysler is the only firm in the world producing such equipemnt.

★ ★ ★

He described the material as "giving trouble-free performance."

He said it is light in weight and has great potential in aeronautical or other fields where thermal conductivity and low friction are required.

★ ★ ★

Up until now, Wormet said, manufacture of powder aluminum parts has been impossible because aluminum would neither hold its shape nor maintain its strength using known processes.

He described the new process as a blending of metal powder with a lubricant and wax.

HAMILTON, Ont. (AP) — Peter Chambers of Toronto claims the world record for underwater banana eating — 18 ounces in six minutes.

He performed the four-banana feat in scuba gear during a meeting of the Ontario Underwater Council.

Runner-up Bill Masterson of Hamilton quit after 14 ounces when a piece of banana clogged his scuba mouthpiece.

Car Makers Pay More for Quality but Enjoy It Less

DETROIT (AP) — Never before in history have auto makers alerted American motorists to so many potential safety faults in cars as in 1969.

And, ironically, never before in the 66 years of automotive mass production have the auto corporations invested such huge amounts of men and machines in their battle to achieve perfect quality control.

In the first three months of this year alone, the industry announced nearly 5.6 million recalls of cars and trucks. This was 179,000 more than the total of 5.4 million for the entire, preceding 28-month period which began with the signing of the National Highway Safety Act in September 1966.

The magnitude of the situation is illustrated by the fact that there has been one recall for every three vehicles rolling off U.S. assembly lines since the 1966 passage of the safety act. Some of the recalls involved vehicles made before the act took effect.

ACTUAL FAULTS?

Of the 11 million recalls since the law went on the books, domestic auto companies estimate that actual faults were found in 4½ per cent of the vehicles or nearly 50,000.

The 11 million occurred over 31 months. In the 50 years before then — dating back to the first recorded recall in 1916 when some Buicks were losing gasoline tanks on bumpy roads — an estimated 8.7 million vehicles were called back to dealers or factories for inspection of possible defects, but these recalls included not only safety but so-called "inconvenience" or "poor workmanship" problems not considered hazardous.

★ ★ ★

Why are so many being recalled now?

Ralph Nader, the auto safety critic credited with sparking passage of the safety act, puts a major share of blame on design and engineering practices of the auto firms.

'MANY REASONS'

Auto company spokesmen say there are almost as many reasons as recalls. There have been 294 different types of problems in the call-backs since late 1966.

Defects in parts and materials from suppliers account for many recalls. Sheer complexity plays a role, with about 1,400 moving parts in each auto containing a total of about 15,000 parts.

★ ★ ★

An Inspector at Ford Motor Co. said, 'It isn't so much the parts we make but the way they slap them together. Where the auto companies fall down is in assembly. They push the guys on the assembly lines too fast."

★ ★ ★

"Quality of production," Leonard Woodcock, a United Auto Workers vice president, said recently, 'is too often sacrificed to volume and speed of production in the auto plants."

MORE INSPECTIONS

Today there are more quality-control people and machines with 'chips on their shoulders" at General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors.

The modern trouble hunters include space-age computers, electronic eyes, a microscope that can "see" 200,000 times more than a human, sound waves that can 'hear" defects in axles, special teams of engineers and additional plain, old-fashioned checking of parts and materials.

★ ★ ★

Publicly the auto firms deny that Nader's widely printed criticisms prompted their stepped-up methods of quality control. They say quality control has improved continually over the years — with or without the prodding of Nader, interested citizens and congressmen.

The Ford inspector disagrees, saying, 'Since Nader started all that, unsafe-car business, they really watch it. Critical parts they always were fussy with. Since Nader they've been much fussier with them."

QUALITY STRESSED

Donn Hickman, a toolmaker at Chrysler, says his Dodge assembly plant in Hamtramck has 'a bigger department of quality-control people now'' than before 1966. Hickman, a Dodge employe since 1936, says all newly hired workers spend their first day on the job watching movies and hearing lectures, partly to emphasize the need for careful workmanship bannered in the signs around the plant saying, 'Quality Brings Customers Back."

'They're very conscious of recalls because it costs a lot of money," Hickman said.

There even has been a recall of a recall. General Motors has urged that 4,000 school buses, which previously had been called in for replacement of potentially defective brake parts, be taken out of service immediately. GM said six brake failures caused minor accidents on the buses and the firm blamed a faulty seal in the new brake kits which had just been installed earlier on the bus.

General Motors currently is spending an estimated $50 million to recall 4.9 million vehicles to correct two problems. One involved a plastic carburetor cam which had shown signs of deteriorating with time and use, and resulting in a record recall of 2.5 million vehicles.

FUMES SEEP THROUGH

The other recall, covering 2.4 million Chevrolets built in 1965 through 1968, was launched after the firm found that under certain conditions exhaust fumes could enter the cars through cracks in welded quarter-panel seams or through openings when plastic plugs jarred loose or were melted by exhaust heat.

'Four fatalities have been reported to us that were claimed to have been caused by the exhaust," the firm said in its recall announcement in late February. It added there were some reports of motorists overcome by exhaust fumes.

★ ★ ★

A company inspector, Edward A. Gregory of GM's Fisher Body plant at St. Louis, first called attention to the potential exhaust hazard in Chevrolets three years ago. His advice on sealing the quarter panels finally was adopted this year, and he received a $1,000 bonus for the suggestion.

★ ★ ★

Gregory, a husky, 50-year-old veteran of 16 years at GM, said in an interview: 'Since all this has happened, they've put two more men on nights and two more on days on quality control, just on these quarter-panels."

UNEXPECTED SOURCES

The tip-offs of trouble which lead to recalls come from a host of sources, mostly inspectors or car owners but sometimes from unexpected avenues.

One bitterly cold night in the winter of 1967, an executive of Pontiac Division of GM drove his new car home through slush created by salting of roads. That night the temperature dropped. The executive got in his car en route to work in the morning, backed out of the drive and discovered his brake pedal would not depress. Later, engineers discovered a tiny opening in a power brake booster which could suck water into the power brake cylinder where it could freeze solid. GM traced the defect to a supplier who had failed to machine a part allowing the booster to fasten airtight against the car's fire wall.

★ ★ ★

GM has inaugurated a system called "Source Performance and Evaluation Reporting," a fancy name for engineers and purchasing agents from each of the GM divisions who regularly visit parts supplier firms to tighten control over quality of incoming products.

At Buick, torque wrenches are equipped with horns that blow when a worker fails to tighten a bolt enough.

Computers are used by Ford to create simulated road conditions for testing of prototype innovations. GM uses computers to check automatic transmissions.

Chrysler has inaugurated a 'SIN" program, which stands for Safety Investigation Number. It's a formal procedure for tracing defective parts or materials by assigning them numbers and determining exactly how many such parts might be defective or 'sinful" and should be isolated before use - or recalled if they're on the road.

Other Chrysler quality control innovations have come from its space program at Huntsville, Ala. Four high-speed test machines developed at that space center have gone into use checking critical wheel brake cylinders for pressure leaks as tiny as 1-200th of a pound per square inch.

A $100,000 scanning-type, electron beam microscope which magnifies objects up to 200,000 times actual size is being employed by the Saginaw Steering Gear Division of GM.

Grand Opera Patrons See Ballgown Preview

By YOLANDA BENAVIDES

The audience should set the high note of the evening, according to the fashion score Bonwit-Teller of Troy composed Wednesday for some 120 members and guests of the Detroit Grand Opera Association.

Hosting the champagne showing, which included some 50 ballgowns suitable for the season's opening night May 26, was 1969 general chairman, Mrs. Ernest A. Jones of Bloomfield Hills.

★ ★ ★

From the sheerest organzas, reminiscent of youthful Scarlet O'Hara glory, to dramatic clinging crepes and elegantly bejeweled princess satins, the symphony of fashion unfolded.

For those with more daring than Scarlet but equally as trim, there were two-piece evening floral prints with bare midriff. If that is too adventurous, there were backless, semi-midriff, and a strategically-fashioned black see-through shirt with stark white flowing skirt.

★ ★ ★

"Do you think I might be able to get away with last year's gown?" mused my conservative neighbor.

Generally, however, from the oohs and aahs, the benefit performance of "Rigoletto" and invitational afterglow supper-dance should be quite the fashion night.

The supper-dance will be given in the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Mail orders for the 1969 Metropolitan Opera Detroit performances are now being accepted. Seats may be ordered from the Detroit Grand Opera Association, 20 East Jefferson Avenue, Detroit.

Should Ask Steady Friend to Celebration

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of The Emily Post Institute

Dear Mrs. Post: For my sweet sixteen birthday I have asked my parents to take me out for dinner and dancing. One boy and I seldom date any more, but used to quite a lot. Now I am quite friendly with this other boy. We are not officially going steady, but we are not seeing any others.

My mother says I should ask the boy I'm not dating because he will be going away to college and I'll rarely see him. I think I should ask my present boyfriend because I do like him the most. What can I do if I invite one, then if he refuses, ask the other, and make the second one feel like second choice? Debbie

★ ★ ★

Dear Debbie: It's your birthday and you should be allowed to ask whichever boy you want, provided your parents don't dislike him. Since you are unofficially going steady, your current boyfriend would surely be very hurt if you invited someone else on such an important occasion.

I don't believe you'll have to worry about the second choice — I'm sure your first choice will accept.

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently, a good friend of mine was badly injured in an auto accident to the point where it was "touch and go" for a while, and still is to some extent. He will be in the hospital for an extended period of time and I will want to visit when that is allowed.

At present he is unable to communicate by more than the blink of an eye or the nod of his head. Remembering him as he was, I am at a loss as to how to react to this situation. Can you give me any advice? — A reader

Dear Reader: First of all be sure you do visit him as soon as you are permitted to. Your support and friendship will mean more now than ever before. Try to make your visit as normal as possible. In other words, treat him the same way you always have. Pity or false jocularity will only create a feeling of strain and spoil the effect of your visit.

Open Card to Computer: 'You Bug Me'... Man

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

Today's lesson is titled how to simplify living in our increasingly complex world.

It all came about because of a lunch session this week at which someone complained there never was enough time, and what time there was often had to be devoted to everyday little annoyances that add up to larger frustrations.

We agreed that at the heart of the frustrations lies a machine which one day probably will run our lives right down to gauging how much sleep we need and if we're tired as we haul out of bed in the morning, the machine will give us a pep talk. That machine the computer.

★ ★ ★

Anyway, four of us — three women and our male host — got on the subject of things that bug us . . . and probably bug you too.

I know, perhaps we should have been talking about the war in Vietnam, the crisis in Czechoslovakia, the Israeli-Arab conflict, the starving Biafrans, the hunger in our own country, the campus demonstrations.

It was not a case of four people being unaware of these problems worldwide. It was just a day for airing the little annoyances.

COMPUTER ILLS

"Don't you hate those computerized bills that come in instructing, 'do not mutilate this card'?, said our host. "One of these days I'm going to mutilate one and see how the computer digests THAT."

★ ★ ★

Just the matter of paperwork involved as an unofficial tax accountant for Uncle Sam, New York's Mayor Lindsay and the state's governor Rockefeller gets under my skin. Or, being a mathematician for the bank where we have a checking account. Just once . . . just one time, I'd like to have my balance and the bank's balance balance.

★ ★ ★

Then there is the utilities company that asks you to read your own gas and electric meters. Their excuse: "It has been necessary to estimate your bills recently because our meter reader was unable to gain admittance to obtain readings."

★ ★ ★

Now at our house, this is not true; someone is there all day long. I'm not paid to read meters anyway. And I'd like to suggest to the utilities company it check into what its meter readers REALLY are doing with their time.

Everyone is entitled to a mistake now and then. But some of the department stores are especially good at errors from their computerized billing methods.

PRIVATE WAR

One of our lunch group regaled us with her six months' "war" with a store that kept billing her for a dress she'd long since returned and had a credit slip to show for it. She kept scrawling across her computerized bill an explanation of why she didn't owe a cent. But computers haven't been programmed to read that type of writing, she found.

★ ★ ★

There's the classic story I noticed in the news columns the other day of the poor customer who kept getting a bill each month showing zero amount owed. After about six months of this — and several calls to the store's credit department trying to straighten the matter out — he finally sat down, wrote a check for zero amount. Presto. No more bills.

Troubled Waters Are Ahead for Sailor and His Family

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: All of a sudden, my husband loves sailing more than anything in the world. I thought it would be fun, but after we got a boat I found that I was terrified to go out on the lake in it.

Last summer I really tried, but my stomach was tied in knots every time I was on the boat and I just couldn't enjoy myself.

My husband knows how I feel, but he just gets mad and says if I gave myself a chance I'd learn to like it. Well, I have tried, and I just can't. I think I should tell you that my husband never sailed before we were married.

★ ★ ★

We've been married for three years and have two little ones. I really love my husband, but I don't want to sail with him.

Another thing. Now he's talking about getting a bigger boat for $5,000. Don't you think he's selfish to invest that kind of money in a hobby only HE enjoys?

HATES SAILING

DEAR HATES: If you've honestly tried to sail, and can't, you shouldn't be forced to go. I don't know how much your husband can afford to spend, but $5,000 seems high for a hobby only HE enjoys. I'd say your marriage was headed for troubled waters, so you had better set sail for some marriage counseling.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: This man I'm going with claims that he is a "CONFIRMED BACHELOR" — and there isn't a woman living who could change his mind. Is this possible?

JAN

DEAR JAN: Yes. He's the kind of man who is convinced that the only vital marriage was the one that produced him.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I have a real big crush on a boy in one of my classes at school, but he doesn't seem to have very much to say to me, although he sure stares at me a lot when he doesn't think I know it. He spoke to me once in the hall last week when he called the purse I was carrying a "fish basket."

How can I let him know I would like to know him better? I don't want to be too pushy. We are both 15.

LIKES KEVIN

★ ★ ★

DEAR LIKES: You'll need a little cooperation. Get one of your girl friends to tell one of Kevin's boy friends that the girl with the "fish basket" is in the market for a live one.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Please be fair and print this for us working wives who took such a lambasting from a housefrau:

With only one hour for lunch how would you like to pull up to a drive-in bank to get a check cashed and find yourself behind some idiot housewife, conducting all her banking for the month?

Or at the supermarket when the quick check-out counter is closed, you have only one item in your hand, but the housewife ahead of you stands there with her overflowing basket pretending not to notice. Then after all her groceries are bagged she starts fishing around in her purse for her pen and check book, and all those little discount coupons!

★ ★ ★

And while we're airing our pet peeves, why do these women wear their "7 children and 10-room homes" like a martyr's badge? These are hers by her own choice, I hope.

Some working wives have as much to do as she, PLUS a full time job. So what's the big deal?

Okay, Abby, I feel better now. Keep well.

Sorority Celebrates Founding

The first chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority was formed 38 years ago in Abilene, Kansas. The anniversary of that founding was celebrated in Jayson's Restaurant last night by 15 local chapters of the Pontiac City Council.

There are now approximately 9,100 chapters and 200,000 members in the United States, Canada and 15 foreign countries.

Each local chapter's "Girl of the Year" was honored with the presentation of a star.

Mrs. John Nord, City Council vice president, reviewed the history of the local chapters, and newcomers were welcomed into membership.

★ ★ ★

Also taking part in the program were Mrs. John Ward, Adah Shelly, who gave the invocation, Mrs. Ronald Miller, Mrs. Joseph Koren, Mrs. Gerald Crawford, and Mrs. Russell LaClair, who sang the year's theme song "Reach for the Stars."

Polly's Pointers

Could Use Glue

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. R. G. H. asked how to finish the edges of her stair carpet that is raveling along the sides. She could apply a white household adhesive that dries clear, along these edges. Neatly trim the edges, then apply this adhesive.

I suggest that she repeat the treatment three times, allowing a day for drying between each application. A firm edge will be formed that will last for quite awhile. If possible she should slip a piece of cardboard (shirt cardboard would be great) under the edge of the carpet to insure the carpet not sticking to the steps. Thank you for the many fine Pointers. — NELL

★ ★ ★

DEAR POLLY — I antiqued an old-fashioned washboard and a card file box to match my blue laundry room. They are both useful and decorative.

I made my grandmother's old washboard into a magnetic bulletin board with daisy magnets and hooks at the bottom to hold keys. A picture of an old-fashioned washing machine was pasted at the top.

★ ★ ★

I also pasted pictures of old laundry equipment on the file box and it holds the labels that come on all new articles. When something new is bought, I write on the tag a description of what it is and put it in this file box. It sits on the dryer. When I am ready to wash I just check my file as to the proper procedure for anything in question. — JANET

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — Many years ago we received as a gift eight anodized aluminum tumblers in various colors. I love them. They stack and take up the space of only one glass and are unbreakable and safe for the children to use.

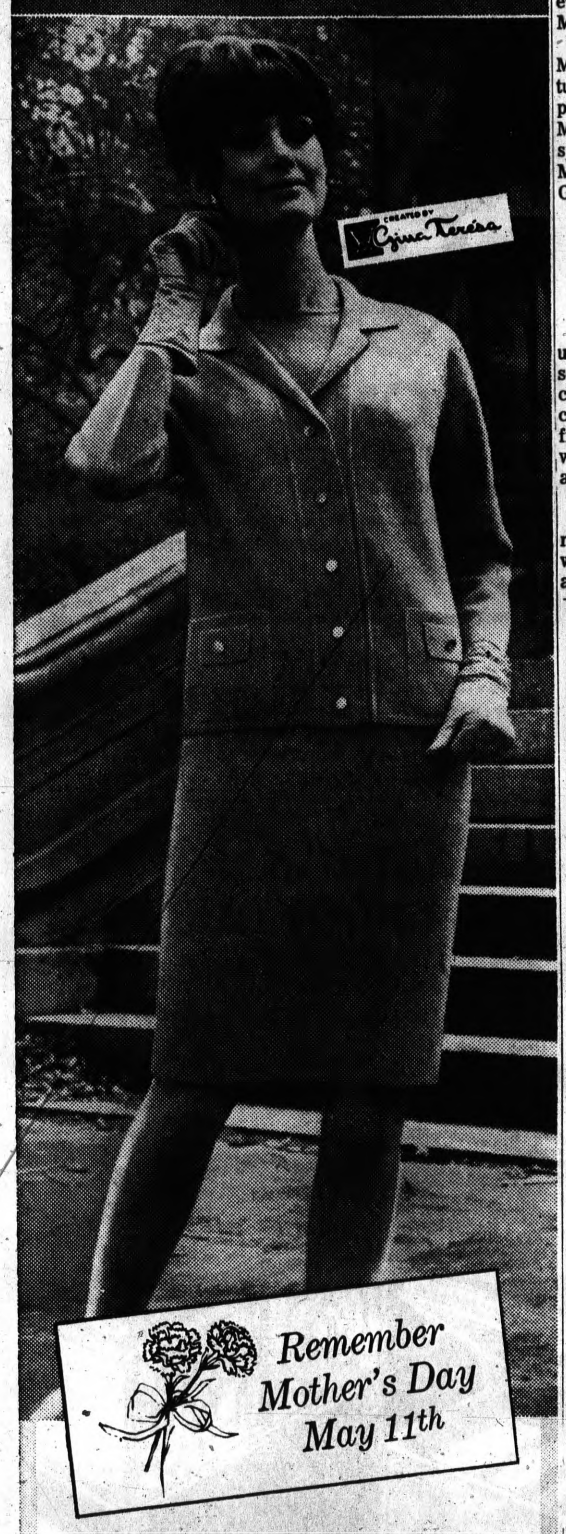

Years of use and dishwasher washing has removed parts of the once-brilliant coloring. I would like to remove all the color down to the bare aluminum. Steel wool will do the job but only after back-breaking labor. I would like to know an easier way. I have tried nail polish remover and boiling. — JANE

To Accent Lips

Lipstick was originally invented to give a hint of color to even the palest of lips — don't defeat its purpose by using shades like white, off-white, beige and silver. They are both unnatural and unattractive. Make-up is to accentuate natural beauty, not to create an unnatural look.

Hair Stylist Likes Motion

Enrico Caruso believes "hair should move." Now what that means, the hair-stylist explains, is: "It should have a youthful gait, like a little girl in a mini-skirt."

★ ★ ★

To achieve this movement, he recommends a middle of the neck length, semi-tapered cut, only a little bit of setting lotion with conditioner to keep hair lithe and full of movement.

'Nothing to Do? Pamper Yourself

Advice for a rainy, lazy weekend, or any time you have nothing "special" to do. Convert your time into beauty hours — give yourself a facial, a manicure, take a luxurious bubble bath — in short, pamper yourself.

The time will pass more quickly and you'll be rewarded for your rainy day efforts with sunny day compliments.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Q. I have heard that the cuticle around the fingernails should never be cut. Is this true? My nails would look terrible if I did not cut the cuticle.

A. The ideal thing is not to cut the cuticle. If you give your nails and hands proper care, this should not be necessary. Keep the cuticle soft by massaging with a cuticle cream each night. Also, after soaking the fingers in water for a little while, push the cuticle back with the end of an orange stick which is wrapped in cotton. You will have to clip off hangnails, but try to keep the cuticle in such good condition that very little cutting will be necessary.

★ ★ ★

Q. Can eyebrows be dyed?

A. Yes, but do not try to do it yourself. Have an expert do it for you and be sure to have a patch test first.

★ ★ ★

Q. What can I do about large pores? They ruin my appearance.

A. These usually go along with an oily complexion although some women with dry skin have this problem. Treat your oily complexion to frequent cleansing with soap and water. Use a complexion brush. Follow with an astringent after rinsing.

Steaming the face may be helpful, too. Use a facial sauna or hold your head over a bowl of hot water, with a towel over your head. Steam the face for a few minutes before washing it. Some experts advise patting the face with an ice cube which is wrapped in a soft cloth. Do this after cleansing.

Q. Is it usual for dyed hair to become discolored during the summer, or did I just have a poor job done on my hair? It looked nice at first but then it changed. I was ourdoors a lot, but I didn't think this would make any difference.

A. Long exposure to sunlight can do this to the best job. After this, give your hair more protection with a hat or a scarf.

Your hands can express your personality. Why not make them as beautiful and graceful as possible? Send for Josephine Lowman's free leaflet, "Exercises to Keep the Hands Flexible, Graceful and Young." Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056.

Montgomery Ward Venture

Offer Home Decorating Training

Time was when functions of organizations were clearly defined. But not nowadays.

Supermarkets sell clothing, banks woo their customers with everything but baby sitting-services and department stores go in the education business.

It is harder all the time to be an intelligent counsumer. Montgomery Ward, recognizing this fact, is offering professional home decorating courses through its 10 stores in the Detroit metopolitan area.

★ ★ ★

In announcing Ward's entry into this major area of consumer education, F. D. Schunck, Ward's manager of the Detroit metopolitan district, said.

"Based upon 10 years of successful counseling of good taste in fashions, we know that customers are eager for help in making their home environments more attractive and interesting. For this reason we are taking the lead in developing a series of audio-visual courses that will be taught by professional instructors in the ten stores in our area, beginning the week of May 12.

"The Art of Interior Decorating" course is being introduced in stores in Chicago, Los Angeles, San Diego, Oakland, Kansas City, Dallas, Ft. Worth, Houston, Washington, D.C.; Baltimore, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Denver and Detroit.

The course consists of eight one-and-one-half-hour sessions. Students will be taught the elements of design, furniture styles, room arrangements, color and how to use it, fabrics, window treatments, floor coverings, lighting and accessories.

COURSE MATERIALS

Lectures, films and samples will be part of the course. Enrollees will receive a home furnishings manual, project folder, floor plans, full-color room scenes, style charts, furniture templates, a color wheel, charts for measuring draperies and carpet and other instructional materials.

Instructors trained in the art of interior decorating have been employed. Graduates of the first series will be eligible for advanced courses that are planned for later in the year. There is a fee for all these courses.

Hilding A. Force is coordinator in the Detroit area. He brings 25 years of experience in the home furnishings field to his job.

An airy, transcuscent window treatment teams with the warm colors in this living room. To vary the effect, floor-to-ceiling screens filled with pre-strung Beadangles can be closed completely on their ceiling track to cover window and radiator to give a complete wall that glistens with a combination of all the colors in the room. Short strands of the beads were used by the designer to decorate the new fiberglass, sheer-look window shade which gives complete privacy without blocking the view.

Collect Enough Stuff and You'll Be an Antique Dealer

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

When the collecting bug bites, welcome it. For the result could be not only the joy of the hunt but also the beginnings of a financially and esthetically rewarding business.

Ask any antiques dealer. In most instances, in this booming field, the dealers started personal collections of anything from button hooks to Tiffany glass to art nouveau.

As their collections and their knowledge grew, it was only natural they should start collecting for customers.

★ ★ ★

There are pitfalls, dealers warn. But as Norma Dorfman, who runs a shop in Bridgehampton, N.Y., puts it, everyone makes mistakes.

"No dealer ever learned all about every antique in his lifetime. It is virtually impossible to go into an antique shop and not find a bargain."

SHE GOOFED

Mrs. Dorfman recalled the time she sold a Bennington Parian rare procelain for $6. After she'd closed shop for the day, she bought a book on Bennington and found she'd sold the Parian for about one tenth of its value.

Mrs. Dorfman was one of the dealers with whom we talked during the recent New York Antiques fair at the 17th Regiment Armory.

Most advise you to get experience by every means possible whether you plan to collect for pleasure or for profit. Most dealers said they were self-taught.

★ ★ ★

Kay Baker, of Winchester, N.H., had collected English sprigware since childhood, and started buying and selling other antiques to financce her own collection.

The business came naturally to her, she said — "My father was a horse trader."

Some of the women dealers said they started selling because they had small children at home and it was one business they could operate and still care for a family.

★ ★ ★

Claire Kellogg of New York City started as a decorator.

"The common denominator of all dealers," she said, "is that we're all doing something we like to do. The freedom we have! If you feel like not working one day, you just put a sign on your door saying, 'Come back Tuesday'."

Take Care of Hospital Patient's Dentures

By DR. HOWARD E. KESSLER

From time to time I have received letters asking me to discuss the removal of bridges and dentures from hospitalized individuals.

★ ★ ★

One nurse tells of trying to remove what was obviously a fixed bridge from a patient's upper jaw and being unable to do so because it wouldn't budge.

A fixed bridge is a restoration replacing one or more missing teeth and is cemented in place.

★ ★ ★

It should go without saying that before being given an anesthetic for surgery or any other procedure, a patient should have all removable bridgework, partial dentures and full dentures taken out of the mouth. According to the rules of the hospital, these appliances can be checked with the patient's valuables or left in a safe place in the room.

When patients are conscious and able, it is usually best to let the individuals themselves remove their dental appliances and hand them to the hospital nurse or nurse's aide.

Several letters tell sad tales of hospital personnel rolling up a denture or removable bridge in a cloth or paper, and then accidentally losing it among the soiled linen.

★ ★ ★

This unfortunate possibility has been overcome by some hospitals when they provide standard individual containers for all dental appliances.

These containers usually are plastic, clearly marked with a place for the patient's name and room number and kept in the table beside each bed. They sometimes contain some water so that the bridge or denture material can be kept moist.

★ ★ ★

This bedside container is also a good idea because it keeps the teeth handy for the hospitalized patient to use when eating.

Treat Paint in Storage

If you plan to use oil paint which you've had for a while, the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association suggests that you follow this procedure to get the proper mixture for even coverage and best durability.

First open the can and pour the surface oil into a clean container. Then thoroughly stir up the pigment from the bottom of the original can, and begin gradually pouring back the oil while stirring.

After blending all of the oil back into the can, pour the paint back and forth from can to can until it is thoroughly mixed.

Cooley PTA

Friday night the Cooley School PTA in Waterford has scheduled a Fair from 5:50 to 9.

The engagement of their daughter, Sandra Renee, to Donald W. Weaver is announced by the Paul Howells of Levee Street. The intended bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Weaver of Northville. The couple, students at Kettering College Medical Arts, Kettering, Ohio, and Andrews University, Berrien Springs, respectively, will wed Sept. 7.

Olivers Wed in Royal Oak

A reception at the American Legion Hall in Royal Oak feted James A. Oliver and his bride, th former Margaret Kenndey Saturday evening.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kennedy of Royal Oak and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Oliver of Oxford exchanged vows in the Shrine of the Little Flower, Royal Oak.

★ ★ ★

For the noon ceremony, the bride was gowned in ivory peau de soie. An orchid corsage, encircled with carnations, was held on a white Bible.

★ ★ ★

Janet Kennedy was maid of honor with Joan, Maureen, Sharon, Karen and Ellen Kennedy and Mrs. Joseph LaPorte as bridesmaids for their sister.

★ ★ ★

On the esquire side, the bridegroom was attended by his brothers, William, as best man, with Richard, Thomas, Paul, Timothy and Michael Oliver as ushers.

Glare Is Driver Hazard

Wear tinted glasses when driving on a sunny day. Glare from the sun, road, and reflection from chrome stripping can blind drivers temporarily.

Off on a safari through a playland jungle is fun for any little girl . . . but let her make her own animals with Avon Modeling Soap and she's sure to enjoy her trip that much more. Then, when she returns to the comforts of home, her wild animal can join her in the bathtub where it turns into a ferocious dirt-killer. Soap stays moldable if kept in plastic bag.

Vase Will Sparkle

You all know how grimy flower vases can become. These stains can be removed by washing vase thoroughly, then filling the vase with a solution of ¾-cup liquid bleach per gallon of warm water. Let stand five minutes, then rinse and dry.

Cream Cheese Used in Sauce

With the colorful wealth of spring vegetables now available, brighten meal-planning by including unusual uses of them. Try a combination of the tart, tangy Washington Winesap apples with cabbage. Not only will this all-purpose apple enhance this vegetable with its special flavor, but it will lend texture and color to what might be otherwise a routine course in your dinner.

Creamy Apple-Cabbage is tossed with a softened cream cheese and flavored with celery seed after the cabbage and apples have simmered together.

Creamy-Apple Cabbage

1 pkg. (3 oz.) cream cheese
2 tablespoons light cream
½ teaspoon celery seed
½ teaspoon salt
2 Winesap apples, peeled and sliced
4½ cups shredded cabbage
1 cup boiling water

Soften cream cheese; blend in cream, celery seed and salt. Set aside. Simmer apples and cabbage, covered in boiling water, until just tender. Drain thoroughly.

Combine apple mixture with cream cheese and toss lightly until cheese is melted. Sprinkle top with paprika or coarsely-chopped parsley and serve immediately. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Sauerkraut Takes on Glamour Look

Men usually like this way of fixing kraut to go with hot dogs.

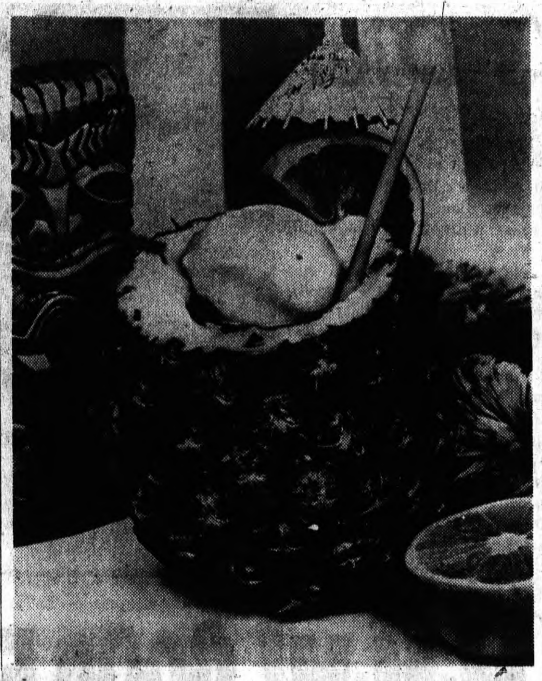

Savory Kraut

1 can (1 pound) sauerkraut, drained
1 tablespoon dry onion soup mix, just as it comes from package
½ cup water
½ cup dry vermouth

Into a 10-inch skillet turn sauerkraut, onion soup mix, water and ¼ cup of the vermouth. Cover and simmer about 20 minutes. Add remaining ¼ cup vermouth: continue simmering until liquid has evaporated — about 15 minutes.

Makes enough kraut to top 8 frankfurters served in hot-dog rolls.

Modern medical techniques can prolong life by restarting hearts and keeping a man breathing after the brain center has been destroyed.

ROOT BEER FLOAT—Slice off the tops of two ripe, whole pineapples, and scoop out a good part of the insides to form a bowl. Place large scoop of sherbet (orange or pineapple) in bottom of each. Pour root beer slowly until each is three-quarters full. Drop 6 to 8 halved strawberries in each and top off with a second scoop of sherbet. Garnish each with pineapple or orange slice, a whole strawberry and mint leaves. Say "aloha" to a wonderful new taste treat. Incidentally, save the pineapple chunks you scooped out, sugar lightly, and you'll have a fine mealtime dessert.

Major Grey's Chutney Goes Back to 1800's

The name Chutney is derived from the Hindu word "Chatni" and, properly used, describes an Oriental relish made from ususual fruits and spices. The product is considered to be the aristocrat of condiments.

Chutney was originally made in Inida and the East Indies and used almost exlusively by the reigning princes and potentates, each of whom had their own private recipe. In the 18th century British military units such as the famous Bengal Lancers were stationed in India and chutney was a favorite specialty the local rulers served the officers.

OPPORTUNIST

One of these officers, a Major Grey, was also a gourmet. He adapted one of the Indian chutney recipes and began commercial production of the item in India. So the name "Major Grey" describes a particular type of Chutney and is not the name of a brand.

However, Major Grey contaacted Crosse & Blackwell, an established packer of quality food specialties, to produce and sell the product in England and elsewhere.

Major Grey's Chutney is made from mangoes, sugar, vinegar, tamarinds, lime juice, raisins, ginger, spices and flavorings.

★ ★ ★

Chutney is generally used as a relish for cold meats, particularly ham and beef. It is the traditional side dish with all curried foods.

★ ★ ★

It can also be used as a salad ingredient.

Spread on fingers of toast, or cocktail crackers, it makes an unusual hors d'oeuvre.

New Casserole Dish

Corned Beef Creamed

If corned beef and cabbage is a favorite at your house, try this new menu idea for a change of pace. It stars ingredients that are handy on your cupboard shelf so you're ready on last minute notice. You can fix this toothsome casserole fast when friends drop in late in the afternoon and you impulsively invite them to stay for supper.

Combine rich egg noodles, canned corned beef, cream of mushroom soup and zesty Cheddar cheese for a casserole delight. canned mellow sweet peas add a touch of color to the casserole and buttery cornflake crumbs top it off.

MAKE SALAD

While the casserole bakes to bubbly goodness in your oven, make a big bowl of crisp coleslaw to round out your corned beef and cabbage meal. Top the coleslaw with your favorite vinegar or sweet-sour dressing.

★ ★ ★

For a clever change of pace, add a buffet size can of drained vacuum-pack golden whole kernel corn with red and green sweet peppers to the coleslaw.

CREAMY CORNED BEEF CASSEROLE

½ 10-oz. package egg noodles
1 12-oz. can corned beef
1 10½-oz. can cream of mushroom soup
⅔ cup evaporated milk
¼ pound Cheddar cheese, diced
⅓ cup chopped onion
1 17-oz. can sweet peas, drained
½ cup cornflake crumbs
1 teaspoon parsley flakes
1 tablespoon butter, melted

★ ★ ★

Cook noodles according to package directions; drain. In large mixing bowl, break corned beef into pieces. Add noodles, soup, milk, cheese and onion; mix well. Gently stir in peas. Turn into a 2½-quart casserole.

Combine cornflake crumbs and parsley with butter; sprinkle over casserole. Bake at 350 degrees for 3 to 45 minutes. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Melba Toast Made With Gluten Bread

A homemade version of melba toast can be made from a variety of bread available in many stores.

Heavenly Toast

1 loaf (8 ounces) gluten bread (19 slices including ends)
¼ pound (1 stick) butter, softened

Remove crusts from bread. Spread one side of each slice with butter; cut each slice into 4 triangles. Arrange in single layers on 2 large cookie sheets.

Bake in a slow (325 degrees) oven for about 20 minutes or until lightly browned and crisp. Cool on wire rack; store in a tightly covered tin box.

VANAMOS RICE TOSS — In large skillet lightly brown one pound frankfurters. Add rice from one package (6 to 7½ oz.) Spanish rice mix and cook lightly. Stir in Spanish rice seasoning mix and amount of water label directions call for. Add 1 can (12 oz.) whole kernel corn with red and green peppers and one can (8 oz.) tomato sauce. Simmer, covered, 15 minutes, or until rice is tender and liquid absorbed. Makes 4 servings.

Cookies Are Important in Children's Diet

By JANET ODELL
Food Editor, The Pontiac Press

"Can I have a cookie?" It's the daily after-school question in many homes. Active youngsters, released from the classroom, need nourishment and activity.

Just because cookies are sweet does not mean that they provide only calories and energy for the young ones. By making cookies with cereals, peanut butter, nuts or fruit, you can add valuable types of food to the diet.

The use of enriched flour in all your baking helps put important nutrients in the family's food.

Sugared corn flakes add crunch to these first cookies. If you're out of this cereal, you could substitute regular corn flakes or wheat flakes in the recipe.

TIGER COOKIES

3 cups sugared corn flakes
2 cups sifted regular all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup (6-oz. pkg.) semi-sweet chocolate morsels
1 cup regular margarine or butter, softened
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla flavoring

Measure cereal, then crush to 1½ cups. Set aside. Sift together flour, soda and salt. Set aside. Beat margarine and sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs and vanilla; beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients and cereal; mix thoroughly.

Melt chocolate morsels over-hot, but not boiling water or over very low heat, stirring constantly. Swirl warm melted chocolate lightly through dough, leaving streaks of chocolate.

Drop by level tablespoonfuls onto ungreased baking sheets. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 12 minutes or until lightly browned.

Yield: about 5 dozen Tiger Cookies, 2½ inches in diameter.

★ ★ ★

Be sure to cool all cookies before storing or even stacking. Wire cake racks are ideal for this purpose.

Store crisp cookies in a container with a loose cover. Soft cookies need to be tightly covered. You can keep them soft by placing a slice of apple or orange on a square of wax paper in the cookie jar; change fruit occasionally.

★ ★ ★

If you like banana bread or cake, you'll also enjoy banana cookies; these are a soft drop cookie.

BANANA SOFTIES

⅔ cup shortening, soft
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup mashed banana
1¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon soda
¼ cup milk
½ cup chopped walnuts
1 cup oatmeal, quick or old fashioned, uncooked

Beat shortening and sugar together until creamy. Add egg, vanilla and banana; beat well. Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and soda. Add to creamed mixture alternately with milk, mixing well after each addition. Stir in walnuts and oats.

Drop by teaspoonfuls onto greased cookie sheets. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 12 to 15 minutes. Makes 5 dozen.

★ ★ ★

Cap'n's Caramel Treasures are more like candy. They have to be refrigerated.

CAP'N'S CARAMEL TREASURES

8 cups Cap'n Crunch cereal
1 14-oz. pkg. caramels
¼ cup water
1 6-oz. pkg. (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate pieces, melted
Salted peanuts

Place cereal in large greased bowl. Melt caramels and water over low heat, stirring occasionally. Pour over cereal, stirring until evenly coated.

With greased hands, shape to form 2-inch patties. Cool. Spread top of each patty with melted chocolate. Press peanut into chocolate. Refrigerate. Makes 4 dozen.

★ ★ ★

When you are rolling out Groovy Oatmeal Jumbles, sprinkle confectioner's sugar on the board or canvas. This makes the dough easy to handle and avoids too much flour.

GROOVY OATMEAL JUMBOS

1 cup raisins
2¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon cloves
1 cup shortening, soft
1½ cups firmly packed brown sugar
1 egg
2 tablespoons water
2 cups quick or old fashioned, uncooked oatmeal

Pour enough boiling water over raisins to cover; let stand 10 minutes. Drain raisins. Sift together flour, salt, soda, cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves into bowl.

Add shortening, sugar, egg and water. Beat until smooth, about 2 minutes. Stir in raisins and oats.

Roll dough out on lightly floured board or canvas to ¼-inch thickness. Cut with floured 3-inch round cutter. Place on ungreased cookie sheets.

Sprinkle with granulated sugar. Bake in preheated moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 10 to 12 minutes. Makes 2½ dozen.

TIGER COOKIES

Two Cookies Depend Upon Peanuts

It's cooky time! Time for all the kiddies in your house (both big and little) to gather in the kitchen where the aroma of fresh baked peanut cookies is coming from the oven. Pour out a mug of milk, grab a handful of cookies fresh from the cooling rack and munch away.

Delicious as these cookies are, their generous size puts them in the hearty snack category. To transpose them into tea table dainties, their size (not the recipe) shoull be cut in half.

BUTTERSCOTCH PEANUT BUTTER FILLS

1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup granulated sugar
½ cup brown sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
2¾ cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
30 to 40 chocolate covered peanut butter cup candies

Beat butter or margarine until fluffy. Gradually beat in sugars, then eggs and vanilla. Sift together flour, soda and salt. Stir into butter - sugar - egg mixture, blending well.

★ ★ ★

Slice candies in half horizontally. Mold cookie dough around a candy half by pushing candy into a tablespoonful of dough, then pinching dough at top to seal. Drop onto greased cookie sheets.

★ ★ ★

Bake in moderate oven 375 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes. Cool slightly before removing from cookie sheets. Then cool completely on wire racks. Makes about 5 dozen cookies.

CHOCOLATE PEANUT BALLS

½ cup shortening
½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 egg
1½ cups sifted flour
1 square unsweetened chocolate, melted
1 cup crushed salted peanuts

Beat shortening until fluffy. Beat in sugar, then egg. Stir in flour, melted chocolate and peanuts. Form into 1-inch balls by rolling with hands.

Bake on greased cookie sheets in slow oven 350 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes. Cool on wire racks. Makes 2½ dozen cookies.

Pepper, Shallots in Sandwich Filling

Pantryshelf shrimp is used for a flavorsome sandwich.

SAVORY SHRIMP SANDWICHES

1 can (4½ ounces) deveined shrimp, drained and rinsed and chopped
3 tablespoons minced green pepper
2 tablespoons minced shallot or green onion (scallion)
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 tablespoon chili sauce
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
4 slices buttered bread
Minced parsley

Thoroughly mix together all the ingredients except the bread and parsley. Spread the shrimp mixture on the bread to make open sandwiches; sprinkle with parsley. Makes 2 to 4 servings.

Fruit Puffs

Wind up dinner in high-style with "Fruit Puffs." Fold drained canned fruit cocktail, toasted flaked coconut and a little grated orange rind into sweetened whipped cream. Spoon into baked cream puff shells and serve sprinkled with powdered sugar.

Giant Cookies Are Treat for Kids

Save your time while making one of childhood's fondest dreams come true. Instead of dropping countless small cookies, make two giant size versions.

No Jack-and-the-Beanstalk magic needed to make the cookie grow and grow — just a simple chocolate chip drop cookie batter. Prepare the batter from your own recipe or a mix. Divide in half.

Now the secret — flatten one portion on a greased cookie sheet as evenly as possible and bake in a preheated 375 degree oven 10 to 12 minutes, or until done.

NOTE: The other portion of the batter can be used to make a second Giant Cookie, or several dozen regular-size cookies.

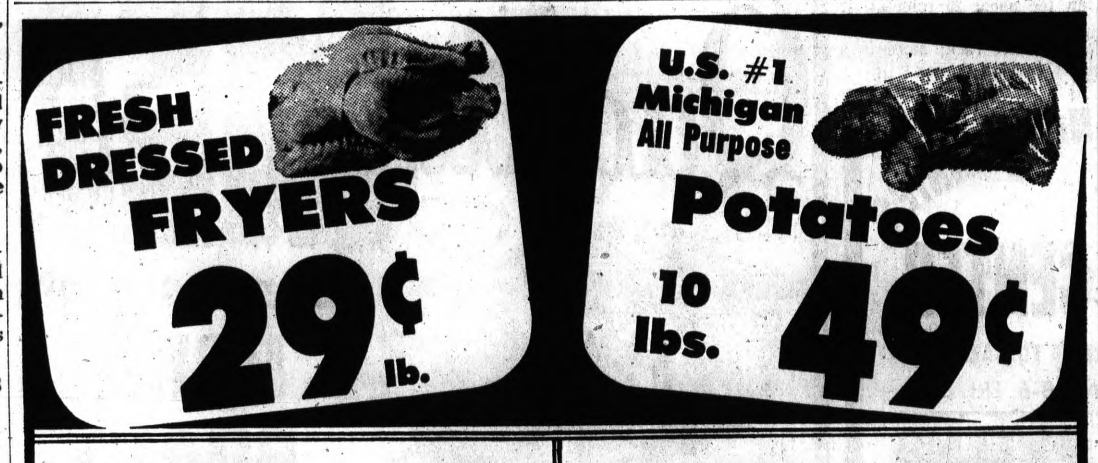

TRIO OF COOKIES — Centuries ago Dutch bakers used wood molds to make spicy speculaas cookies. Today's simpler methods produce a variety of delicious cookies and confections like Banana Softies, Cap'n's Caramel Treasures and Groovy Oatmeal Jumbos.

CHICKEN LIVER APPETIZER — Bits of chicken livers, coated with enriched corn meal and fried 'til crisp, are served with zesty onion-sour cream dip. An appetizer that really sparks appetites!

Deep Fry Livers for Appetizer

Have you run the gamut of tempting appetizers for cocktail parties and pre-dinner nibbling? It's now quite acceptable to "pare down" the number of appetizers offered before a dinner party.

One or two really outstanding ones suffice, and diet-conscious guests will appreciate your restraint. A hot hors d'oeuvre is always welcome, and we've a tempting recipe for you.

Chicken livers are popular in appetizer form; chicken liver pate is one example. Another "appeteaser" features the delicate liver wrapped in bacon, then broiled 'til bacon is crisp. And here's a third idea that will prove just as popular on the party circuit.

★ ★ ★

Bits of chicken livers are dipped in a well seasoned corn meal breading, then fried in deep fat. They're invitingly crisp and delightfully flavored. The golden brown liver bits are served, piping hot, with zippy sour cream-onion dip.

"Happy-up" the happy hour with the crusty morsels of delicious wholesomeness. And be sure to use enriched corn meal for its bonus of added nutrients.

CHICKEN LIVER APPETIZERS

Sour Cream Dip

1 cup dairy sour cream
2 tablespoons grated onion
4 drops liquid red pepper seasoning
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
⅛ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon salt

Liver Appetizers

⅓ cup enriched corn meal
¼ cup sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon garlic powder
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 egg
2 tablespoons milk
7 chicken livers, cut into ½-inch pieces

Four sour cream dip, combine sour cream, onion, red pepper seasoning, Worcestershire sauce, dry mustard and salt in small bowl. Cover; refrigerate until ready to use.

★ ★ ★

For liver appetizers, combine corn meal, flour, salt, garlic powder and pepper in shallow pan. Beat together egg and milk. Sprinkle liver with salt and pepper.

Dip each piece of liver into corn meal mixture, then into egg-milk mixture and into corn meal mixture again, coating well each time.

Fry in hot deep fat (375 degrees F.) until golden brown, about 2 minutes. Serve hot on toothpicks with sour cream dip.

NOTE: Appetizers can be prepared in advance, then cooled, covered and refrigerated. Just before serving, place in ungreased shallow baking pan. Heat in preheated moderate over (350 degrees F.) about 10 minutes.

Potatoes Best if Steamed

The best "boiled" potatoes are actually "steamed", whether they're cooked in their jackets or peeled. Save time and valuable nutrients by scrubbing the skins as for baking.

Pick potatoes of the same size for even cooking, whether large, medium, or small. Place scrubbed potatoes in a kettle which has a tight-fitting lid. A wide shallow pan is better than a deep narrow one, with potatoes arranged in not more than two layers.

Pour in cold water 1-inch up on sides of kettle. Cover. Bring water to the boiling point rapidly. Reduce heat so that water will simmer. Pierce potatoes with a small skewer to test for doneness.

TIMING

For medium-size Idaho-grown potatoes, it will take around 45 minutes. When almost tender, pour off water. Shake kettle over low heat to dry off any remaining water.

Let stand until cool enough to handle, then peel off skins and cut lengthwise into finger-size strips, crosswise to form even-size cubes.

Whether they are to be used in a cream sauce or in a potato salad, warm potatoes take on the sauce or dressing flavor much better than do cold potatoes.

Seafood Soup Takes Minimum of Time

Seafood soup is fine as a treat for the family or for noontime guests.

Oyster And Crab Soup

1 can (10 ounces) frozen condensed oyster stew soup, thawed
Milk
1 can (7½ ounces) king crab with tendons removed, drained
Paprika

Turn the soup into the electric blender; fill soup can with milk and add; blend to puree. Turn into a saucepan; bring to a boil. Add the crab, cutting large sections into smaller pieces; reheat but do not boil.

Ladle into soup bowls; sprinkle lightly with paprika. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

Swirl a Pair of Hot Puddings

Chocolate nut marble pudding makes a pretty and unusual dessert for family and guests. Prepare 1 (3⅝ ounce) package of vanilla pudding. While it is cooking in the pot, prepare 1 (3⅝-ounce) package of chocolate nut pudding.

When it is cooked, swirl it with a few strokes into vanilla pudding to create a marble effect. Pour into glass dishes and top with pecan halves. Makes 8 servings.

Raquel's New Film Contains a Torrid Scene

By DICK KLEINER
NEA Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — I was there for the big flareup on the "Flare-Up" set.

There were only a couple of lines in the script, but it took almost the whole day to shoot.

★ ★ ★

Raquel Welch was being held prisoner by Luke Askew in the apartment of her boyfriend, Jim Stacy.

She was supposed to throw some gasoline on Askew and then a burning match. As he collapsed in flames, she was to walk over his body to the door and escape.

NOWHERE NEAR

I spotted Luke Askew and asked him if he was all ready for the big scene.

"I'm going to be on the other side of town," he said. "I'm not going to be anywhere near the fire. I don't even smoke. When it comes to this kind of thing, I let the stunt man do it."

★ ★ ★

The close-up of Raquel throwing the gas at Askew had already been filmed — but what she had thrown was water.

Now they were going to do the long shot, complete with genuine gasoline and genuine flame.

ESPECIALLY CAREFUL

Herman Townsley, the special effects man, got everything ready.

He was especially careful about spotting fire extinguishers around the set. He had roofed the set with sheets of metal, and sprayed fire-retardant chemicals on the set walls.

★ ★ ★

Denver Mattson, the stunt man who would do the actual burning scene, went through it carefully. And Donna Garrett, who would double for Raquel, walked through the scene, too.

It was all being choreographed like a dance.

EACH STEP PLOTTED

Paul Strader, the stunt gaffer, plotted out each step. He counted aloud — one through 12 — and on each count, everyone knew what he was supposed to do.

At one, director James William Neilson called action and Donna threw the gasoline. At two, Townsley (off camera) lit the fire. At three, Mattson reacted.

From four through 10, Mattson staggered along a set path, falling to the floor on the count of 10.

At 11 Donna leaped over him to escape.

FIDDLING AROUND

At 12, Neilson yelled, "Cut!" And Townsley's crew of fire fighters rushed in.

While they rehearsed this action dozens of times — Mattson's life depended on it — the others were fiddling around.

Outside the soundstage, Jim Stacy and some buddies were playing with his new motorcycle. He had just bought it, his first.

He says before this he used to borrow Dave Nelson's.

RESTING IN TRAILER

"When the picture is over," he said, "I'm going to take the bike and go out on the desert and climb a few hills."

Raquel was resting in her trailer.

★ ★ ★

She said that she has wanted to get away from "the big, heroic pictures" she's been doing.

This one, she says, is good for her — a smaller picture, a better (or at least more modern) part.

IN PREPARATION

She and her husband, Pat Curtis, are preparing a film called "Tilda," which she will probably do next.

It would be her most dramatic part to date.

On stage, the preparations continued. Donna Garrett, who looks a lot like Raquel, was sprayed with water. Matton put on an asbestos suit under his pants-and-sweater costume.

Then everyone came out to watch. Neilson called action. Strader began his counting. Townsley lit the fire. Mattson and Donna Garrett went to work.

★ ★ ★

It all worked beautifully — except that Mattson suffered second-degree burns on his hands. They had had no protection.

Chances of Survival Ebb for 100-Year-Old Suez

WASHINGTON — In the year of its hundredth birthday, the Suez Canal appears dying, with fading chances of survival.

Choked with sunken ships and steadily filling with sand, the canal forms a battleline between two unbending enemies.

★ ★ ★

The unused canal is being beaten at its own game: moving people and cargo — especially crude oil — between the oceans of Asia and the waters lapping Europe and North Africa. The world's shipping is learning to live without the Suez Canal.

The Arabs and Jews who have plugged the canal and shoot at each other across it daily are fighting an old feud on a familiar stage.

MOSES' PATH

A part of today's canal—then a northern stretch of Red Sea — parted at the Lord's command allowing Moses to lead the children of Israel from Egypt, and then swallowed the host of the pharaoh trying to purse between the waals of water (Exodus 14).

★ ★ ★

The first canal joining the Mediterranean with the Red Sea was dug nearly 4,000 years ago, the National Geographic Society says. The 53-mile-long passage connected the Great Bitter Lake, then head of the Gulf of Suez, with the Nile River Delta town of Zagazig. From Zagazig, the Nile linked the channel to the Mediterranean.

★ ★ ★

The old canal was abandoned, filled up, and reopened periodically through Egypt's days of pharaohs and conquering Greeks, Romans, Persians, and Arabs. Finally the channel was closed in A.D. 776.

But through the centuries, hope survived for a canal directly cutting the isthmus, the age-old caravan route. The efforts of a Frenchman, Ferdinand de Lesseps, made it a reality.

LIFETIME FIGHT

He fought a lifetime for the canal. For years Great Britain opposed building it. Costs plagued construction, climbing to nearly $100,000,000 and almost bankrupting Egypt, which paid much of the bill at de Lesseps' persuastion.

★ ★ ★

Ditching 100 miles across the merciless desert, rock, and swamp of the isthmus was an unprecedented feat, combining advanced engineering and slave labor, giant dredges and countless dirt-carrying baskets.

★ ★ ★

The canal formally opened Nov. 17, 1869, launching nearly 100 years of successful operation, and shortening the route around Africa an average of 3,400 miles.

Rules on GI Attire Not Uniform Abroad

By JERRY T. BAULCH
Associated Press Newsfeatures

WASHINGTON—An American serviceman in another country on duty or leave faces a big tangle of rules governing dress. Whether he is required to wear civilian clothes, his uniform, or make his own choice depends on where he is traveling.

BAULCH

The Army rule book lists some 30 countries in which civvies must be worn while on duty there, but some of these do permit the uniform to be prescribed for special or ceremonial occasions. It all depends on what sort of understanding has been worked out between our government and the host country.

In some countries the uniform is mandatory for duty and in others the commander has the discretion of uniforms or civvies.

And there are special places such as Honduras, where the uniform is normal but there is an agreement to wear civvies when the Honduran government requests it if there are "civilian or military disturbances."

The latest change involves the Republic of Ireland. Until this year, civilian wear was normal but the uniform could be worn "from time to time." In transit or on leave a serviceman could wear either. But now civilian clothing is mandatory at all times.

It's not surprising that Americans are not supposed to visit Communist countries in uniform — Russia, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Rumania and Yugoslavia. But the rule applies to some friendlier locations — including Sweden, Finland, Switzerland, Afghanistan, Senegal, Sudan, Tunisia.

In the troubled Middle East the rules are mixed. The uniform is taboo in Israel and the United Arab Republic. In Jordan civilian clothes are prescribed for duty but the uniform may be worn on leave. In Lebanon, it's civvies for duty but "certain individuals" may be allowed to wear uniforms and either may be worn on leave or in transit.

Countries where civvies are the duty dress but the uniform is permitted for special occasions include India, Indonesia, Jamaica, Denmark, Ecuador, Ethiopia, Malaya and Mexico. If you go to Mexico on leave or off duty, wear civilian clothes.

CIVVIES PRESCRIBED

In Hong Kong, a favorite rest and recreation center for men in the Far East, the rules prescribe civvies for those stationed there.

Either civvies or uniform may be worn by men on leave, temporary duty or in transit but civvies are recommended. However, to enter or leave Hong Kong in civilian clothes you have to show a passport, which most military people don't possess.

There's a wide assortment of rules for what to wear on leave or in transit in those countries where the uniform is normal duty dress.

In Vietnam civilian clothing is encouraged for off-duty wear. In Korea, civilian clothing is permitted on leave but not during travel to and from leave areas.

CIVVIES ALLOWED

In West Germany and Great Britain the uniform is required for duty travel but civvies are allowed, though not required, off duty.

In Japan the uniform is prescribed wear in transit but either may be worn on leave. The opposite is the case in Costa Rica: either may be worn in transit but civvies are prescribed for leave.

In Japan the uniform is prescribed wear in transit but civvies are prescribed for leave.

In Iceland, members of the Iceland Defense Force must wear uniforms off duty but others may be in civilian clothes if they have a passport and visa.

Generally, where the uniform is required on duty, civvies are either required or encouraged off duty and during travel. In some countries civvies are required for off duty and uniforms for travel, but in others the opposite rule applies.

To confuse things more, in some countries members of U.S. Military Advisory and Assistance groups dress under rules opposite to those of other American servicemen.

Conscientious Objector

It'll probably be next fall or later before the Supreme Court rules on the new challenge to the conscientious objector definition of the draft law raised by U.S. District Judge Charles W. Wyzanski Jr. in Boston recently. The court is taking a summer recess in June.

In 1965 the court ruled that a person didn't have to believe in God to qualify. Then in 1967, Congress watered down the religious aspect by deleting a phrase that a person's objection to war had to relate to "a Supreme Being involving duties superior to those arising from any human relation."

But the congressional hearings made clear this would not permit a man to pick which wars he could object to and stay out of the draft.

So now the definition is boiled down to a person "who, by reason of religious training and belief, is conscientiously opposed to participation in war in any form."

Then the law adds: "The term 'religious training and belief' does not include essentially political, sociological or philosophical views, or a merely moral code."

DISCRIMINATION

Judge Wyzanski ruled this unconstitutionally discriminates against atheists, agnostics and others who claim conscientious objector status on other than religious gounds.

Specifically involved is John H. Sissons, 22, of Lincoln, Mass., who was sentenced for refusing to be inducted because he conscientiously objected to the Vietnam war.

If the Surpeme Court agrees with Judge Wyzanski it would open the door to thousands of others who hold the same view as Sissons.

GI Bill Students

If you plan to return to the same school next fall and pursue the same course as this year you don't have to apply to the VA for a new certificate of eligibility.

If you get a summer job your GI education and training allowances are not affected no matter how much money you earn.

New Wave on Deck for Voyagers

Liner Elizabeth 2 Makes Bows Tomorrow

LONDON (AP)—With a hopeful blast on her sirens, the Queen Elizabeth 2 will move gracefully out of her Southampton berth Friday to usher in a new style of transatlantic travel.

★ ★ ★

There will be bands and streamers, cheers and farewell parties, but any resemblance to the golden age of steamship travel ends there.

Deliberately, the new Queen isn't much like her two elderly aunts, the Queen Mary and the first Queen Elizabeth, both now in retirement in the United States.

Elizabeth 2 is sleek, rakishly elegant, modern—and temperamental.

OWNERS' HEADACHE

So far she has been a headache for her owners, the Cunard Co. They lost $7 million in canceled bookings when she had to limp home from her proving cruise last December with her turbines giving trouble.

Angrily, Cunard refused to take over from the shipbuilders, who in turn blamed the turbine designers. Questions were asked in the House of Commons. The government had provided a $12-million loan toward the ship's cost of $72 million.

★ ★ ★

The turbines were rebuilt. Internal wiring and decoration were finished, and she went on a cruise to Lisbon and the Canary Islands. Reports from the passengers were enthusiastic.

Her first trip to New York, which should have been Jan. 17, was set for May 2. Over 1,400 persons have paid up to $450 for the maiden trip.

The new Queen is designed as a floating vacation resort. She has a discotheque, sauna baths, push-button bedrooms, a modern art gallery, a night club, a modern shopping center, nine bars and two lido decks.

★ ★ ★

Conceding that the old-style sea travel across the Atlantic is outdated, Cunard has hedged its bets. The QE2 is a ship with a split personality—whereas the two old Queens were built for a weekly transatlantic run, this one will ply the Atlantic only four months every year. At other times she will chase the sun on dollar-earning luxury cruises to exotic ports.

X15 to Make Last Flight ---Into History

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The record-smashing X15 rocket plane, first manned vehicle capable of flying in both air and space, makes its final flight next month—into the halls of history.

★ ★ ★

The swift black space dart is headed for a niche in the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.C., beside the Wright brothers' Kitty Hawk Flyer, first heavier-than-air craft, and Charles Lindberg's Spirit of St. Louis, first to make a solo hop across the Atlantic.

★ ★ ★

Strangely enough, the people most responsible for the X15's success are glad to see it leave—it has been so magnificent that newer and equally vital projects have suffered.

GOALS ACCOMPLISHED

De E. Beeler, associate director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Flight Research Center here, put it this way in a recent interview:

★ ★ ★

"The X15 accomplished most of its goals in the early 1960s. It was such an excellent research tool that it was kept flying long past its intended time—but its presence prevented the use of men and facilities in research on vehicles of the future."

★ ★ ★

The Cigar-shaped X15, 50 feet long with a 22-foot wingspan, made its first flight June 8, 1959. In 198 flights since then, it set still unmatched records for winged craft in speed—4,520 miles an hour—and altitude—354,200 feet, or more than 67 miles.

★ ★ ★

John V. Becker, chief of the aerophysics division at NASA's Langley Research Center, Hampton, Va., said in summarizing the $300-million X15 program:

★ ★ ★

"When it became clear in 1958 that the Space Age was upon us and the need to put a man in orbit became a matter of national urgency, a massive backlog of aerospace technology was already at hand." This was so, he said, because of X15.

OTHER CONTRIBUTIONS

In additoin to setting records, he said it:

- Pioneered in the use of rocket thrusters to control the attitude of craft in space—a technique vital in aiming vehicles correctly for blazing reentry into the atmosphere.
- Showed that human pilots are needed—and this at a time when proponents of automation were insisting that electronic brains could do a better job and take up less space. Thirteen of the first 44 flights would have failed, he said, without a man aboard.

★ ★ ★

- Proved the economy of reusable vehicles for scientific experiments, developing space suits, instrumentation and heart-resistant materials for civilian and military craft.
- Showed that flight simulators—computerized cockpits on the ground—really work. The dozen X15 pilots trained this way— there was no room for a copilot—and the experience, Becker said, "paved the way for similar all-out use of simulators in the space program."

FORMER PILOTS

Among the NASA astronauts who have flown the X15 are Neil Armstrong, commander of Gemini 8 who is scheduled to command the Apollo 11 moon landing mission, and Maj. Joe H. Engle, so far unassigned. Three others—James McDivitt of Gemini 4 and Apollo 9, Michael Collins of Gemini 10 and Fred Haise, so far unassigned —formerly flew chase for X15 flights.

★ ★ ★

The X15 being shipped to the Smithsonian is the first of three built by North American. The No. 2 plane will be sent soon to the Air Force Museum at Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio. The No. 3 plane was destroyed in 1967 in a crash that killed the pilot, Maj. Michael J. Adams.

Catcher Had to Be Calmed Down

Cinci Hurler Unruffled During No-Hitter

CINCINNATI (AP) — Big Jim Maloney has nothing but ice water coursing through his body and a beautiful fast ball many baseball critics will tell you.

Add his curve ball to that combination and you might have the formula he used to pitch his third major league no-hitter against the down-trodden Houston Astros Wednesday night.

Maloney, who stands a shade over six feet and weighs above the 200-pound mark, belted a double to give more sparkle to the 10-0 victory.

The Reds broke a five-game losing streak and Maloney chalked up his third victory in as many decisions.

EVERYONE NERVOUS

From the seventh inning on, everyone was more than a little nervous in realizing Jim had a hitless game working: The 3,898 fans and all the Reds, especially catcher Johnny Bench. All except Maloney.

"I was not nervous—I've been there before," smiled Maloney after the game.

★ ★ ★

But Bench? "He was shaking so much and was so excited I had trouble reading his signals" Maloney said. "I walked down a bit to home plate and talked to him.

"But you don't have to change a called pitch when Bench is behind the plate" he added in praise of the 20-year-old catcher.

The 28-year-old fireballer put five Houston runners on base with walks in the second, fourth, sixth, seventh and ninth innings.

He walked to the mound just as briskly—almost a trademark with him — in the ninth as he did in the first. The crowd came alive with every pitch.

★ ★ ★

He got Joe Morgan to fly out to Pete Rose. Jesus Alou was thrown out by Tommy Helms. The crowd, virtually everyone standing, booed the walk issued to Jim Wynn. They roared when Doug Rader, the final batter, struck out swinging.

It meant the third no-hit game in the majors for the big boy from Fresno, Calif., the only survivor of the Reds' 1961 National League pennant-winning team.

FIRST RUN

The Reds, with the help of two Houston errors, picked up one run in the first. In the fourth, they bombarded starter Wade Blasingame, 0-5. Bobby Tolan's bases-loaded triple climaxed the outburst as Cincinnati went ahead 8-0.

★ ★ ★

In the eighth, Maloney pushed Tommy Helms across the plate with his double and scored on a single by Tolan.

Maloney pitched 10 hitless innings against the New York Mets June 14, 1965 but lost it on two hits in the top of the 11th by a 1-0 score. He pitched a 10-inning no-hitter against the Chicago Cubs two months later Aug. 19, 1965, winning it 1-0.

★ ★ ★

Was his third no-hitter any different?

"Very little," said Maloney. "I had good stuff. The ball was live, my control was good and I made good pitches. You just walk out there and if you've got a no-hitter, you've got one."

HOLDS ASTROS HITLESS — Cincinnati's Jim Maloney is shown during the fifth inning of his no-hit effort against Houston last night. He fired two no-hitters in 1965, both for 10 innings, but lost one to the the Mets on a home run in the 11th.

Casper Picks Canada

MONTREAL (AP) — Billy Casper, golf's leading money winner of 1968, has decided to pass up the American Golf Classic in Akron, Ohio, to play in the 1969 Canadian Open at Montreal July 24-27, the Royal Canadian Golf Association said Wednesday.

Orioles Are More Confident

Nothing 'Dull' in 3-2 Win Over Bengals

DETROIT (AP) —"How can anyone say baseball is dull?" asked Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver.

His Orioles had just edged the Detroit Tigers 3-2 Wednesday night to win the 15th out of their last 20 games to stay firmly atop the East Division of the American League.

★ ★ ★

"There's no reason to feel we won't be there all the way," he added, as he sat in the Oriole dressing room sipping beer and eating a sandwich.

It was Boog Powell's eighth inning home run off reliever John Hiller that proved to be the winner. But Frank Robinson's two-run shot in the upper deck in leftfield off starter Pat Dobson in the fifth was the most dramatic. It gave the former National League superstar a major league record of 10 home runs in April.

RALLY SHORT

The Tigers almost pulled it out with a two-run rally in the bottom of the eighth but reliever Pete Richert got pinch hitter Norm Cash to strike out and rookie Ron Woods to hit into a force out to leave Detroit's tying run on third. The Bengals beat Washington 5-4 Tuesday night with a three-run double by Mickey Stanley in the bottom of the ninth and the 15,340 fans seemed to be expecting the same kind of finish against the Orioles.

★ ★ ★

Dave McNally was the winner, upping his record to 4-0. Pat Dobson took the loss to drop his record to 0-2 and, although he was in trouble on a number of occasions, Robinson's home run was his only big mistake as he continually pitched out of jams.

"I thought 1966 was a great year, but this is overshadowing that," Robinson said, pulling on his calf length stockings.

That was his first year with Baltimore after 10 years with Cincinnati of the NL. That year he won the AL triple crown with a .316 batting average, 49 home runs, and 122 runs batted in.

★ ★ ★

"I don't know if Frank can duplicate the year he had then," Weaver said.

The talented leftfielder is off to a fantastic start. Besides his 10 homers he is batting .368 and has knocked in 24 runs. At that rate he would hit 60 home runs and knock in 144 runs by the end of the season.

★ ★ ★

"I've had hitting streaks but never with home runs, RBI, and hits all going together like this," he said.

Previous record for home runs in April was nine held by Ken Williams of the St. Louis Browns in 1922.

"I didn't know about the record until I got back in the dugout," Robinson said. "You don't really keep up with those things unless you read about it."

★ ★ ★

The loss was the sixth out of the last eight starts for faltering Detroit and dropped the Tigers back to fifth place in the East Division, one-half game behind Washington which beat Boston Wednesday night 1-0.

Green in Semifinals of North-South Golf

Special to The Press

PINEHURST, N.C. — Former North-South Amateur Champion Tom Draper was eliminated in the quarter-finals yesterday of the 69th annual championship, but Pete Green of Orchard Lake is still in contention to carry the state of Michigan laurels.

Draper, from Red Run Country Club, 1965 champion, was a 5-4 victim of Leonard Thompson of Laurinburg, N.C. in the morning round.

Also a loser yesterday was Frank Groves of Orchard Lake who was ousted 3-2 in the afternoon by James Gabrielson of Atlanta, after Groves had eliminated another Michigan golfer Bud Stevens of Detroit in the morning round, 1-up.

LONE SURVIVOR

Of the 11 Michigan players entered, Green is lone survivor going into today's semifinals and he faces John Farquhar of Amarillo, Tex.

Green defeated John Ward of Fayetteville, N.Y., 4-3 in the morning yesterday and then rallied to defeat the 1964 North-South Champion Dale Morey, 2-1.

Green was one down to Morey after the first five holes, but then birdied two holes, the 7th and 8th and won the ninth hole with par to keep the lead the rest of the way.

In other matches today, Bob Koch of Shaker Heights, Ohio meets Joe Inman of Greensboro, N.C.; Lanny Wadkins, who ousted ex-champion Bill Hyndman, 2-1 yesterday faces Gary Cowan, Canadian, who won the U.S. Amateur title in 1966.

Bob Lowry of Huntsville, Ala., who defeated Thomspon, 1 up, meets Gabrielson.

Inman, 21 senior at Wake Forest, reached the semifinals by defeating Bill Harvey, 3-2. Harvey was a semifinalist for the past two years.

Kentucky Derby Draws 8 Colts

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Eight colts, headed by California's unbeaten Majestic Prince, were formally entered today in Saturday's 95th Kentucky Derby.

Besides the big, red Majestic Prince, winner of the only seven races he has run, contenders included the other three members of the so-called Big Four—Top Knight, Arts and Letters and Dike—plus outsiders Traffic Mark, Fleet Allied, Rae Jet and Ocean Roar.

★ ★ ★

Rae Jet was a surprise entry.

Top Knight drew the No. 1 post position and Majestic Prince the No. 8 spot.

Other post positions were: 2, Traffic Mark; 3. Arts and Letters; 4. Rae Jet; 5. Fleet Allied; 6. Ocean Roar; 7. Dike.

The Derby will be run at 5:30 p.m., EDT, Saturday before a crowd of 100,000, including President Richard Nixon and 26 Republican governors, who are attending a convention in Lexington. The Derby is a test of 1¼ miles.

Late Change in Jockey Could Cause Problems

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Bill Shoemaker, the most active of the active Kentucky Derby riders, won't be on hand when they sound the call to the post this year. Will it make a big difference?

Some say it will; some say it won't.

"When you change from one good jockey to another good jockey, it just doesn't make any difference as long as it isn't a problem horse that you're dealing with," said Jimmy Jones, former trainer with Calumet Farms.

DIFFERENT IDEA

But Elliot Burch, trainer of Arts and Letters, which Shoemaker was to ride in his 17th Derby appearance, had a different idea.

"It took him a little while to get used to the horse," Elliot said. "At first, he tried to rate him perhaps too much, then in the Blue Grass Stakes he got used to him and let him run his own race."

After more than two months away from the winners' circle, Arts and Letters dashed home in the Blue Grass 15 lengths ahead of Traffic Mark.

★ ★ ★

But less than 24 hours after Burch had declared his Derby riding problems solved, Shoemaker was injured at Hollywood Park and the trainer was looking for a substitute.

Burch has indicated that he might want Braulio Baeza aboard his colt when the call to the post is given at 5:30 p.m., EDT. Saturday. The Panamanian rider led the jockey standings last year with earnings of more than $2.8 million.

Shoemaker, ready to make his first Derby appearance since he broke a leg early last year, sustained a broken pelvis and internal injuries when he was thrown from a horse Wednesday.

The 10-time national riding champion will be sidelined at least another six months.

Shoemaker's accident came during working hours. As he jumped on a horse in the fourth race, he was thrown against a hedge. The track physician said Shoemaker's pelvis was fractured in two places and the rider had suffered bladder injuries.

★ ★ ★

Arts and Letters won only one race as a 3-year-old — the Everglades — before Burch engaged Shoemaker as his rider. "I just called him and asked him and he said 'yes,'" Burch said in explaining the rider change.

Shoemaker was aboard in the colt's second-place finishes in the Fountain of Youth and the Florida Derby, both won by Derby hopeful Top Knight. He also rode in the Blue Grass Stakes runaway.

ANOTHER INJURY — Jockey Willie Shoemaker, who was making a comeback after a long layoff because of a broken leg, suffered a fractured pelvis and internal injuries yesterday when thrown from his mount in the paddock at Hollywood Park in California.

Cleveland Breaks Slump in World Series Fashion

AP Wirephoto

JUMPS CLEAR — Second baseman Rod Carew of the Minnesota Twins jumps over sliding Wayne Comer of Seattle after taking a throw for a force out in the first inning of last night's game. There was no relay to first. Minnesota won, 6-4.

NEW YORK (AP) — It may come as a surprise to the 23 other major league baseball teams but the Cleveland Indians won the first game of the World Series Wednesday night.

★ ★ ★

The only thing missing in the jubilant Cleveland clubhouse was champagne after Sam McDowell put an end to the Indians' 10-game losing streak with a three-hit 3-0 victory over the New York Yankees.

"Every pitch was just like a World Series game," said McDowell, who was able to overlook the fact that the Indians still are firmly embedded in last place in the American League's East Division with a 2-15 record

★ ★ ★

"All those losses were very discouraging, very discouraging. You look at the standings and you begin to believe you're that bad a team. The streaks don't taste too good when you're losing all the time."

EACH INNING

Despite seven walks—one in every inning except the seventh and eighth—and 166 pitches, McDowell said his control played a big part in the triumph.

★ ★ ★

"I've had better stuff in other games, but I wasn't putting the ball where I wanted," said the tall left-hander, who struck out 12 and was touched for infield singles by Horace Clarke in the sixth and Tom Tresh in the seventh and Bill Robinson's solid double in the ninth.

It was a sudden turnaround for Sudden Sam, who came into the game with an 0-3 record and had been raked for 21 hits and 17 runs in 21 innings while walking 17.

★ ★ ★

McDowell's toughest challenge came in the ninth inning. Robinson's one-out double was followed by a walk to Dick Simpson and a wild pitch. But Tresh bounced to third and Russ Snyder caught Len Boehmer's long fly to the left field fence for the final out.

One-Sided Contest in Slowpitch Loop

Copper Mug built up a 12-0 lead and coasted to an 18-6 win over Pyles Industries as the winners opened their Walled Lake Industrial Slowpitch Softball season Wednesday night.

The defeat was Pyles' first in two starts. Copper Mug started quickly in the interdivisional contest with a five-run opening inning.

Williams Research, meanwhile, needed a pair of three-run uprisings to pull away from Mobil-Temp in their "B" bracket contest, 10-2.

Last Minute Starter Wins

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Tom Hall—a last-minute starter—for sore armed Dean Chance struck out nine batters, got two hits and scored two runs Wednesday as the Minnesota Twins turned back the Seattle Pilots 6-4 for their fifth straight victory.

Hall, who needed relief help in the seventh, was called in from the bullpen to pitch for Dean Chance, whose arm stiffened after pregame warmup tosses.

★ ★ ★

The Twins, winners in 13 of their last 16 games, exploded for a four-run fifth inning, Hall providing a bunt single to load the bases for Ted Uhlaender's two-run single off loser Gene Brabender.

Hall later scored on a fielder's choice and Rod Carew stole home for the third time this season to cap the outburst. Hall doubled in the sixth and scored on Carew's single.

Oriole Home Runs Down Tigers, 3-2

Al Kaline, who extended his hitting streak to seven games with a pair of singles, played in his 2,115th game. That moved him to third on the all-time Tiger list behind Ty Cobb and Charley Gehringer and one game ahead of Sam Crawford.

Baltimore left five men stranded in the first three innings as Dobson began to bear down once he got in trouble. Don Buford led off the first with a single and Paul Blair walked. Then Dobson retired the next three batters.

★ ★ ★

Brooks Robinson led off the third with a single but Dobson disposed of the next three hitters. And in the third Buford doubled and Blair singled before Dobson again retired the next three men.

Finally, in the fifth with two-out Frank Robinson unloaded his homer after McNally singled. When Elrod Handricks and Mark Belanger singled in the sixth Mayo Smith decided to bring in Fred Lasher who pitched 1⅔ shut-out innings before giving way to a pinch hitter.

Detroit's eighth - inning rally started with a walk to Dick McAuliffe. Then Kaline singled and Willie Horton followed with a hard shot to third baseman Brooks Robinson that got by him for an error, scoring McAuliffe. Bill Freehan came through with a single to score Kaline but the Tigers could manage no more.

★ ★ ★

Smith started all righthanded hitters against southpaw McNally. Horton, who had an injured hip, was in the lineup for the first time in three games. Rookie Ron Woods made his first major league start by replacing slumping Jim Northrup in center, while rookie Dave Campbell took over for Cash at first.

Denny McLain (3-3) was to try to get Detroit untracked tonight against the Orioles with Jim Palmer (3-0) scheduled to start for Baltimore.

HITTING FALTERS

Where is Detroit's hitting.

The Tigers have lost six of their last eight ball games and are struggling at .500 with a 10-10 record for fifth place in the six-team East Division of the American League.

"We're not hitting as a club," said batting coach Wally Moses after Detroit dropped a 3-2 decision to first-place Baltimore Wednesday night. "We haven't started. We didn't get started in Florida. Our guys aren't ready yet."

Detroit stranded nine runners Wednesday and 134 in 20 games this year. That's only about seven a game but the way the the team has been hitting there haven't been enough runners get on base to worry about being stranded.

No regular Tiger is batting .300 and the team average going into Wednesday's game was .234. Baltimore has four regulars hitting more than .300.

Waterford, Andover 9's Defeat Rivals

Skippers Nip Mott; Lahser Defeated, 10-7

Waterford nipped Mott and Andover outslugged Lahser in prep baseball encounters between neighboring rivals Wednesay.

Steve Goit pitched WTHS' Skippers past Waterford Mott, 2-1, to record the winners' 10th straight victory. It was his first mound appearance.

Andover and Lahser each clouted 11 hits but the Barons (2-4) made better use of theirs and garnered a 10-7 victory over their Bloomfield Hills rivals.

★ ★ ★

Goit limited Mott (3-3) to two hits while striking out eight. The Skippers' regular third baseman also cracked a double to score the first run in the game.

Dennis Alvis singled and scored the deciding run on an infield out in the sixth. Lahser plated its only marker in the last inning but fell short of pulling out the decision. Bill Poe struck out nine and scattered five hits in taking a tough loss.

BIG OUTBURST

Andover's Barons broke open a close game with a five-run fourth inning which was keyed by Larry Appleby's home run. The winners upped their lead to 9-1 before BHL broke through for a pair of three-run outburts.

Winning pitcher Chris Smith had two hits and two RBI's while picking up the decision in relief. Mike Carter and Russ Thomas each had a pair of RBI's for Andover; while John Schmidt went three-for-three at the plate.

Lahser's Dave Lendt also had three safeties, and was aided by Ken Rump and Mike Hirsh with two each. The Knights at 2-4.

Orion, Rochester Win

OL St. Mary in Track Tie

The unusual happened in high school track yesterday. Orchard Lake St. Mary and Detroit St. Agatha finished in a 59-59 tie.

In other meets Lake Orion ran over Avondale, 81-33 and Rochester routed Madison, 105-13 in Oakland-A dual meets.

The second best time in Oakland County was posted by Keith Wattles in the two mile run with a time of 9:52.1.

Rochester has won four in a row and is now 5-1 for the season. Russ Gill and Mike Hull were double winners against Madison.

Lake Orion made a clean sweep of the long jump and the two mile run, won by Barnowski in 10:48.8.

Promising Hockey Careers Nipped

MISS MISSES COMPETITION — Bonnie Lauer, 18, a senior at Berkley High School can drive the ball 210 yards and carries a three handicap in women's golfing competition. But she can't make the high school team because a state rule prohibits athletic competition between boys and girls.

Boys Give Approval, but State Says Nay

BERKLEY (AP) — But for a silly rule, Bonnie Lauer could help the Berkley High School golf team make other teams look silly.

Bonnie, an 18-year-old senior, is a three handicap golfer—one of the best—in the Women's District Golf Association. A rule of the Michigan High School Athletic Association prohibits her from competing against boys.

"Dave Seyburn and Bob Ervasti told me they wanted me on the team," Miss Lauer said, referring to the squad's top two golfers.

★ ★ ★

"At one of the school assemblies we heard a talk by a member of the American Civil Liberties Union," the 5-foot-four athlete stated. "The speaker said my case could probably be won in the courts.

"But by that time the golf season would be over," she added. "Anyway, I didn't want to get into a hassle."

Bonnie, who began golfing as a 6-year-old with cut-down clubs, can now belt the ball 210 yards.

She is a member of Edgewood Country Club.

"I guess I'm mostly muscle," said the pretty 125-pounder with long pressed blonde hair.

This summer she will compete in some statewide women's meets along with the Broadmoor Invitational at Colorado Springs and in the women's National Amateur for the third year.

★ ★ ★

She plans to attend Michigan State University next fall, a school which has in the past created a women's team when the material was available.

"I do not have any professional plans," Bonnie says.

Now Coaching in Cup Final

Playoff Game Tonight in St. Louis Rink

ST. LOUIS (AP) — As they face each other on the opposing benches in tonight's third game of the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup finals, coaches Scotty Bowman of the St. Louis Blues and Claude Ruel of the Montreal Canadiens may think of what might have been.

★ ★ ★

They could have wound up as teammates playing in this series instead of enemy coaches trying to outthink each other.

Both were promising players in the Montreal organization when tragic injuries ended their playing careers almost before they had a chance to get started.

★ ★ ★

Bowman was a junior A player in 1952 when a collision on the ice resulted in a serious head injury. He carries a plate in his head as a result of the accident and he has a more tangible, constant reminder of it every time he glances down the St. Louis bench.

NOW DEFENSEMEN

The player he collided with was Jean Guy Talbot, now a Blues' defenseman and one of Bowman's alternate captains on the club.

Ruel came along a few years later and was considered a good defenseman when tragedy struck him. He was playing in Belleville, Ont., in 1957 when an errant stick hit him and cost him the sight of his left eye.

★ ★ ★

Following their injuries, Bowman's and Ruel's careers followed similar patterns within the Canadiens' organization.

From 1954 through 1957, Bowman coached and supervised the Canadiens' amateur systems. Then he coached and was general manager of the Hull-Ottawa Junior Canadiens and then Peterborough of the junior A Ontario Hockey Association.

★ ★ ★

He was named Montreal's head scout for Eastern Canada in 1961 and then coached the Montreal Junior Canadiens from 1964 until 1966 when he left to join the newly formed St. Louis franchise.

Best-of-Three Series

New 'Final' in NBA

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers and the Boston Celtics, showing home-court mastery over each other, open a best two-of-three series tonight at the Forum for the championship of the National Basketball Association.

The Lakers carry a single point's edge after two victories at home and two losses at Boston.

★ ★ ★

Jerry West of the Lakers leads all scorers with 154 points on the final playoff and John Havlicek is pacing the Celtics with scoring and all-around hustle. Bill Russell of Boston and Los Angeles center Wilt Chamberlain are their awesome selves.

With everything dead even, both teams are looking for a key.

FAVOR LAKERS

Two things are in the Lakers' favor.

First, Elgin Baylor, a perennial all-pro selection and one of the all-time great playoff players, is due to break loose after two poor games in a row.

★ ★ ★

He scored a total of 16 points in the two Laker defeats — on a miserable 6 of 32 from the floor.

Second, Havlicek went scoreless in Boston's final quarter last Tuesday, a 89-88 victory.

Former UCLA star Keith Erickson, who has played guard much of the season, was at forward—the post he played in college—in that final quarter. His task was to guard Havlicek, and the Celtic ace was stopped cold.

Erickson has always been known as a fine defensive player. UCLA Coach John Wooden based his zone press in 1964 and 1965 around the fact that Erickson was so good on defense.

The feeling was that Erickson would stay at forward for tonight's game, hoping his defense can stop the elusive Havlicek, who scored "only" 21 points in the Tuesday victory.

Boston won that one-point game in the final seconds after the Lakers had the ball and a one-point lead with 15 seconds to play.

Baylor tossed the ball in to guard John Egan, who was double-teamed. Emmett Bryant stole the ball and seconds later, with two ticks left on the clock, Sam Jones pushed a 15-foot shot from the rfght of the free-throw line toward the basket. It hit the rim twice, then fell through for the winning score.

'Bugged' Casper in Field

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Bugged by bug spray, Buffalo Bill Casper, along with Jack Nicklaus, head a field of 144 who tee off today for a shot at the $20,000 first prize in the Greater New Orleans Open Golf Tournament.

★ ★ ★

A city-owned airplane flew back and forth over Lakewood Country Club's 7,020 yards late Wednesday, spraying mosquito repellant on the cypress trees, water oaks and verdant fairways.

Casper, just finishing the pro-am preliminary, practically panicked. The onetime fatman, who has so many allergies it takes several specialists to keep track of them, had a violent reaction in Florida earlier this year to bug spray.

★ ★ ★

"This is a different kind of spray than they use in Florida," said tournament chairman Gene Rutter to Casper, the buffalo-meat eating food fadist.

The long-hitting Nicklaus is the automatic choice as tournament favorite because of this long, flat layout dotted with lakes and monstrous sandtraps.

Jack Weiss, a longtime Nicklaus friend and official of this tourney for many years, decided to play a practical joke on the Golden Bear.

★ ★ ★

Nicklaus, who had light-heartedly commented a week ago that he may be getting old at 29, was met at the airport by Weiss with a wheel chair, an attractive girl dressed in a nurse's uniform, and a sign which read: Greater New Orleans Open Welcomes Good OLD Jack.

The sun-bronzed Nicklaus went along with the joke, posing for pictures, and wise-cracking about his senior citizenship.

Defending champion George Archer, recent winner of the Masters, and Arnold Palmer are not competing.

Gibson Pitches Cardinals to Split With Pittsburgh

St. Louis Checked, 2-1, in Opener by Bunning

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Fireballing Bob Gibson fired a four-hitter, pitching the St. Louis Cardinals past Pittsburgh 8-1 after the Pirates won the first game of their twi-night doubleheader, 2-1 behind Jim Bunning.

Gibson, who struck out eight in evening his record at 2-2, lost his shutout in the ninth when a walk a single and a force out brought in a run.

★ ★ ★

Joe Torre gave him the needed hitting support, opening a five-run fourth with his second homer of the season, singling in Lou Brock in the seventh and then stroking a double in the ninth for the last St. Louis run.

Brock also singled in two runs in the fifth off Bruce Del Canton, who relieved starter Steve Blass, 2-1.

Bunning, pitching his first complete game since June 28, 1968, allowed only five hits—one a homer by Tim McCarver in the fifth inning—and struck out 10.

Record Field for U.S. Open

NEW YORK (AP) — A record entry list of approximately 3,400 golfers has been received for the 1969 U.S. Open golf tournament by the United States Golf Association. The old record, set in 1968, was 3,007. Entries closed at 5 p.m. Wednesday.

Twelve former champions, including the 1968 winner, Lee Trevino, were among those entering. Seven of the 12 are totally exempt from the qualifying rounds that will reduce the field to 150 at the start of the tournament at the Champions Golf Club, Houston, June 12-15.

The exempt seven are Trevino, Jack Nicklaus, Billy Casper, Gary Player, Ken Venturi, Julius Boros and Gene Littler.

★ ★ ★

The five other former champions are exempt only from the local qualifying rounds at 56 sites, May 19-20. They are Arnold Palmer, Cary Middlecoff, Tommy Bolt, Lew Worsham and Jack Fleck.

'Minor League' Tournaments

New Tour for Pro Golf

MIAMI (AP) — A minor league for professional golfers —with no cuts and no qualifying rounds—is scheduled to get off the ground with a $20,000 tournament somewhere in central Florida this June.

★ ★ ★

"We don't like to call ourselves the minor leagues, but that's exactly what it will be," said Bob Wiezycki, president of the International Association of Professional Golfers (IAPG).

"I imagine we'll develop some bright young stars who, in a very short time, will want to go on the big tour. That's fine. That is our express purpose in organizing this thing."

★ ★ ★

In less than two months, the IAPG has secured more than 100 members and plans to hold its first tournament in the area of Tampa-St. Petersburg.

Money has been put into escrow and the site and dates will be announced next week, said Wiezycki, 36, head pro at the Apollo Beach Golf and Country Club near Tampa.

He said others will be held in Jacksonville and Miami.

The IAPG will be open to any pro golfer who wishes to join. He may be a youngsters who could not make the cut in the gruelling Professional Golfers Association school at Palm Beach Gardens.

He may be an accredited PGA pro who has found he needs more experience before going back to the big time. He may be a club pro eager to make some money.

Imlay City Tops Memphis

Mark Dodge and Ron Harson each had a hand in three first places yesterday to lead Imlay City's track team in a 76-42 victory over Memphis.

Dodge won both hurdle races and Harson captured the long jump and 220. Both ran on the winning 880 relay team.

Memphis' Paul Letarte set a school record in the two-mile with a winning time of 11:02.1.

Waterford Wins, Kettering Loses in Golf Matches

Waterford's golfers dumped Bloomfield Hills Andover yesterday, but Kettering wasn't as fortunate against Milford in a Wayne-Oakland League match at Highland Hills GC.

The Redskins trimmed WKHS, 163-171, as Dave Baker again led the way with a three-over-par 39. He was matched by Jerry Hapton of the Captains. Chuck Hildreth and Steve Burrows each carded 41s for the winners (7-3). Kettering is 5-5.

Ron Greenlee's 38 and a 39 by Scott Niederluecke paced WTHS (3-4) to its win at Pontiac CC.

Wild Pitcher Helps Atlanta

Braves Turn Back Padres, 6-3

ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlanta Braves took advantage of San Diego rookie Leon Everitt's wildness and beat the Padres 6-3 Wednesday night behind the six-hit pitching of Phil Niekro.

★ ★ ★

The Atlanta knuckleballer pitched out of a bases loaded snarl after walking three in the first inning and went on to boost his record to 4-1.

★ ★ ★

His only other trouble came when Nate Colbert homered in the fourth inning, Tony Gonzalez hit one in the sixth and Gonzalez was hit by a pitch in the eighth and came around on a wild pitch and Colbert's infield out.

★ ★ ★

Four walks set up all of Atlanta's runs, except Felix Millan's third homer in the fifth inning. Tito Francona drove in three runs with a single and a double and Felipe Alou singled in another as the Braves built a 5-1 lead. Niekro singled in the final run in the eighth inning.

Professional Football's Chess Game Goes On

Next Move Up to NFL

Buffalo, Boston Hint at Moving Franchises

NEW YORK (AP) — Quiet on the outside, negotiating on the inside, pro football's perplexed club owners went back to their big chess game over realignment today with the American Football League waiting for the National Football League to make the next move.

The waiting had allowed two of the AFL's owners—Ralph Wilson of Buffalo and Billy Sullivan of Boston—to issue position statements with regard to shifting their franchises, the Bills moving closer to leaving Buffalo and the Patriots steering away from leaving Boston.

REALIGNMENT TALKS

But while the owners were willing to discuss the problems of their own individual clubs, they were noticeably reticent about issuing any declarations on the stalement that seems to have developed in the realignment talks.

★ ★ ★

When the realignment meetings began at Palm Springs, Calif., in mid-March the owners kicked around several suggestions publicly. But that has not been the case here. Whatever is being considered now is being considered privately.

"We're having dialogue without acrimony now," said Commissioner Pete Rozelle. "People got rid of a lot of emotions and strong views at Palm Springs. What we have now is an evaluation of the details and ramifications involved in different plans."

★ ★ ★

Rozelle said sentiment in both leagues was strongest for the Shift-Three Plan that would create two 13-team conferences by moving three NFL teams from their current 16-team alignment into the 10-team AFL.

The stalemate revolves around the problem of which three teams to move.

Rozelle indicated half a dozen NFL teams were willing to explore moving but he emphasized that none had agreed to move or had been asked to move. He also pointed out there were three steps involved—1, finding three teams willing to move; 2, securing NFL approval; 3, securing AFL approval.

At the same time as they pressed ahead on that basis, a playoff system was defined contingent upon the creation of two 13-team conferences and their breakdown into two divisions of four teams and one division of five.

Indy Speedway Officially Opens Season Today

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The Indianapolis Motor Speedway, which opened away out in the country in 1909 with a tarred-dirt track, started a new season today in an ultramodern racing plant seating more than 200,000 spectators.

The Speedway could almost fill the stands now with people within sound of the engines.

★ ★ ★

It has only one race a year, the venerable 500-miler on May 30, the northern Memorial Day, but preliminaries gradually have expanded to fill the entire month.

PRACTICE PLANS

Chief Steward Harlan Fengler of Dayton, Ohio, in his 12th year as chief official of the race, opened the track for practice this morning. The "official" opening ceremonies will be Saturday.

Drivers who have never started at Indianapolis, including national road racing champion Mark Donohue, will be listed as rookies and have to take a 100-mile test before attempting qualification.

The 10-mile qualification runs, to cut the field of 84 cars to 33 starters, will be held May 17, 18, 24 and 25. The opening qualification day crowd, there to see who wins the No. 1—pole car—position, often exceeds 100,000.

Joe Leonard of San Jose, Calif., set the 10-mile qualifying record last year at 171.559 m.p.h. in a British Lotus chassis powered by a Pratt Whitney turbine engine. New turbine size restrictions since have put the Pratt & Whitney cars, sponsored by STP Corp., out of business.

Leonard led late in the 1968 race but was stopped by a broken fuel pump with less than 25 miles to go. Bobby Unser of Albuquerque, N.M., winner with a turbocharged Offenhauser in an Eagle chassis, will return with the same combination.

★ ★ ★

Graham Hill, 1968 world road racing champion and 1966 Indianapolis winner, and A.J. Foyt Jr., three-time Indianapolis winner, probably will use turbocharged Ford engines this sear.

Foyt will start the 500 for the 12th time if he makes the field. Lloyd Ruby of Wichita Falls, Tex., who led part of the 1968 race, will be trying out his ninth Indianapolis start.

★ ★ ★

Andy Granatelli, STP president, reacted to hamstringing of his turbine cars by entering 11 piston engine cars this year, some with semi-stock Plymouth engines, some with turbocharged Fords. His drivers include Hill, Art Pollard, former national champion Mario Andretti and Austrian Grand Prix racer Jochen Rindt.

NFL Player Reps Meet at Pine Lake CC

Player representatives from the 16 National Football League teams started a 3-day meeting yesterday with Pine Lake Country Club as the site for the major sessions.

Heading the NFL Players' Association is John Gordy, the offensive lineman of the Detroit Lions who retired after sitting out the 1968 season with a leg injury.

When the current two-year pact runs out a year from next January, Gordy says the players are going to hit strongly at the option clause.

The current practice is for the player to play out his option under something like an automatic 10 per cent pay cut. He then becomes a free agent able to deal for himself.

However, commissioner Pete Rozelle has made a practice of forcing a team to surrender a player of equal ability, cash or a draft choice for signing the player.

"There are inadequacies in the option clause which require some creative bargaining," said Gordy, who was instrumental in getting a settlement between the players and owners prior to the start of the 1968 season.

★ ★ ★

"The players are not afforded an opportunity to bargain for themselves once they become free agents," said Gordy, "the player should make his own deal and sign with the highest bidder."

When Is a Man Dead? Israeli Surgeons Test New Criterion

By Science Service

JERUSALEM — The world's standards of who is dead and who is alive may need reworking, hospital experience here indicates.

The burgeoning of cadaver organ transplant operations has focused intense interest in the question of just when a person becomes dead and therefore eligible to be an organ donor.

★ ★ ★

Realizing that early criteria for death such as cessation of breathing and heartbeat, are inadequate, the medical community recently had developed new guidelines for physicians pronouncing death.

The kingpin of these new guidelines is that the victim records a flat electroencephalogram, indicating that no brain waves are being produced. Now it appears that, even before the guidelines have been fully circulated, a flat EEG is an inadequate index. Instead, the consumption of oxygen by the brain appears to be a significant indicator.

BRAIN INJURY

A 15-year-old Israeli boy fell into a deep cave and sustained severe brain injury. With great difficulty, he was brought out of the cave and rushed to the Hadassah Hospital here.

Doctors found that he was dead according to the five criteria of death laid down in June 1968 by the Council for International Organization of Medical Science, established under the World Health Organization.

★ ★ ★

These criteria are the loss of all response to the environment; complete abolition of reflexes and loss of muscle tone; cessation of spontaneous respiration; abrupt fall in the arterial blood pressure (once it is not artificially maintained), and a flat EEG.

Nevertheless, the doctors were not prepared to issue a death certificate. Some intuition made them think there was still hope. For two weeks the Hadassah neurosurgeons kept the boy on drugs and artificial respiration despite the fact that the EEG reading remained flat.

FULL RECOVERY

One day there was a change. His EEG reading began to indicate activity in the brain. Then spontaneous respiration was regained. Within two months of the accident, he was mentally and physically in excellent condition, with a normal EEG.

From this case it might seem that the solution to the problem of determining the point of death is to wait some weeks, with the heart kept artificially beating and the blood pressure up, in case the injured brain should recover.

The trouble with this approach is that the transplant surgeons have to receive organs from a donor within some hours of death. Waiting too long after death will deny life to somebody else in need of a transplant.

"We have to find the point when the patient enters the narrow space where the brain has completely and irrevocably ceased to function, yet the other organs are still suitable for transplantation," says Dr. Mordechai Shalit of Hadassah Hospital.

EXTRAORDINARY CASE

Dr. Shalit's surgical team thinks the five criteria for death laid down by the Council in Geneva this year are adequate for the great majority of cases, but they are worried about the extraordinary event.

A second unusual case in Hadassah was a 14-year-old girl, her head wounded by a shell fragment during the Arab-Israeli war. She was deeply comatose on admission, and required an operation for a fracture of the skull and bleeding in the brain.

★ ★ ★

Although there was spontaneous respiration and normal blood pressure, she remained deeply comatose, with wide pupils and no response to stimuli, and the EEG recording on the second day was flat.

Yet within a week her EEG reading was normal. Today the patient is in good mental and physical condition.

The Hadassah surgeons have sought an additional test for life to cover such cases. They theorize that if the brain is still alive, flat EEG or not, it will consume oxygen. (The brain is the organ in the body most sensitive to lack of oxygen.) The team uses a well-established test for oxygen consumption.

The patient is administered nitrous oxide gas. The degree of clearance of this gas through the brain gives an index of blood flow and thus of the amount of brain tissue being perfused.

Catheters are then placed high in the internal carotid artery and the jugular vein. Oxygen level in arterial and venous blood is measured. If there is a difference between the two levels, at least some part of the brain is metabolizing and the patient has some chance.

"Our test has one great advantage," Dr. Shalit says. "It enables us to look into the brain of the comatose patient and see what is going on. We intend to use it on more cases.

DEFINING DEATH — Physicians sometimes can't be sure just when death occurs and today, with the increase of organ transplants, the line between life and death is even more critical. Tons of electronic machinery help to provide an answer.

Brokers See Consolidation

Active Mart Continues Higher

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued higher in active trading early this afternoon, with brokers reporting the market apparently consolidating after Wednesday's sharp rise.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.08 at 951.26.

Gains led losses by about 200 issues.

Brokers said that after the big gains made Wednesday, and to a lesser degree Tuesday, the market apparently was pausing "because any rally needs a period to consolidate."

★ ★ ★

The Dow industrial jumped 16.08 Wednesday and 9.02 Tuesday. Volume Wednesday was an extremely heavy 19.35 million shares. It totaled 14.73 million shares Tuesday.

"After such big rises in the Dow and in volume," an analyst said, "the market has to be corrected to a certain degree."

Profit taking on the gains made in the upsurge was in evidence, brokers said.

"And there's a little caution now after those big price advances," an analyst said. "Practically nobody wants to buy stock on top of a forward move like we had."

★ ★ ★

Prices generally are higher on the American Stock Exchange, with 13 of the 20 most-active issues ahead and 7 lower.

North Canadian Oils, most-active, gained ¾. Brazilian Light & Power was up ⅝. Cinerama was up ⅜. Commonwealth United lost fractionally.

Inflation is Different things to different people.

To us it's paying 50 cents for parking to avoid paying $1 fine for over parking, while going in to pay 10 cents for a 5 cent cup of coffee. Quoted from T. C. News, Winter Garden, Florida.

BUT
The price of this farm is not inflationary — at $1750 per acre — in an area where land is selling for $3,000 per acre.

Approximately ½ mile road frontage, approximately 1 mile lake frontage. By surveyors report: 87 workable acres out of 113. Some of the 113 acres extend into the lake. Has the making of a beautiful development with island or recreational area or overnight camping site. On Nelsey Rd. just off Andersonville Rd.

Honoree at Lambs Gambol Would Mock Student Kooks

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — "The 3 R's of education today are Readin', Ritin' and Rifles."

When Harry Hershfield, the retiring 84-year-old Shepherd of the Lambs Club, heard this at the Lambs Gambol in his honor, he applauded — for he thinks the best weapon against the striking students today is ridicule. A line he likes goes this way:

WILSON

"The students are revolting" . . . "Yes, aren't they?"

"It's a fine state of affairs when a fellow has to go to college 4 years to learn to spell a 4-letter word."

Comedy writer Les Krammer spoke up about this time: 'My son brought his roommate home with him for the spring vacation. And my wife threw her right out of the house."

Maybe Harry's right. But you must remember that dear Harry was a teen-ager in the McKinley administration. As Jack Waldron, his successor as head of the Lambs, said, "His social Security number is 6. He loved only one woman — she ran away and became a Confederate Army nurse." The teen-agers in Harry's time had different problems. Their big worry was when to park the horse and buggy.

★ ★ ★

Gypsy Rose Lee will be the Saints & Sinners Fall Gal May 27 . . . Controller Procaccino told them, "If I was Irish, I'd be Governor of N.Y. now" . . . The TV world refers to the TV networks on the Av. of the Americas as the Rock Garden: "30 Rock" for NBC because it's at 30 Rockefeller Plaza, "Black Rock" for CBS because of the black marble building, and "Little Rock" for ABC because it's the smallest . . . They're all in 6 blocks within easy rock-throwing distance of each other.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Claire Boom reportedly returned secretly to N.Y. from London . . . O'Neal's Baloon gave a party for the N.Y.C. Ballet and the Royal Ballet, with Rudolf Nureyev leading a line of dancers through the restaurant — and into the street . . . Cmdr. and Mrs. Lloyd Bucher, who visited the Downbeat here, wrote to the manager, suggesting a jazz group he might hire.

Laurence Harvey does a strip while reciting "Hamlet" in his "Magic Christian" movie . . . Rex Reed's next book will be titled "Goodbye, Margaret O'Brien" . . . There'll be a sequel (with Kirk Douglas and Faye Dunaway to "The Arrangement."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Some people will believe anything if you tell them not to repeat it.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "There is no passion in the human heart that promises much and pays so little as that of revenge."

★ ★ ★

EARL'S PEARLS: Jackie Kannon figured out that his Florida vacation cost him $3,000: "Washington's spending a fortune getting to the moon; I'm spending a fortune getting some sun."

"Instead of baring his soul" (says Goodman Ace in the Saturday Review) 'the new off-Broadway playright finds it more lucrative to bare his actors." That's earl, brother.

Natural Gas to Be Tapped With A-Blast

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — The United States is running out of natural gas. But atomic bombs, exploded underground, may open vast new reserves.

The proven natural gas reserves of the continental United States are estimated at 287 trillion cubic feet. At a production rate of 19.4 trillion cubic feet yearly, if no new reserves were discovered, the United States would exhaust its supply in about 15 years.

★ ★ ★

However, there is a tremendous amount of natural gas — estimates range as high as 24 quadrillion cubic feet — locked away from conventional gas producing methods. The hope, therefore, lies in the unconventional.

For that reason, and as part of its long effort to demonstrate peaceful uses of nuclear energy, the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission has tentatively scheduled for the latter part of May the second U.S. experiment to produce natural gas by a nuclear explosion.

This time, rather than feasibility, the key word will be economics. The gas the AEC is after is unassociated gas, that is, gas not associated with oil as is most natural gas produced today. Conventional production methods cannot get this unassociated gas out of the ground economically.

★ ★ ★

The May blast, Project Rulison, is part of the AEC Plowshare program. Present plans call for a 40-kiloton nuclear device to be detonated in northwestern Colorado, about 150 miles west of Denver. The formation contains an estimated 100 billion cubic feet of natural gas.

The device will be detonated about 8,400 feet below ground. The blast should create a roughly cylindrical chimney filled with loose rock into which the natural gas from surrounding rock will flow. A well will be drilled ater to tap the chimney.

Skelton Tapped for July 4 Pledge

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Comedian Red Skelton says he'll recite his interpretation of the Pledge of Allegiance in Philadelphia's Independence Hall on July 4. It brought plaudits on Skelton's nationwide television show Jan. 14.

Mayor James H. J. Tate of Philadelphia asked Skelton to go to Independence Hall because "You have earned for yourself a place on the roster of distinguished patriots who seek to perpetuate the American heritage."

A Look at TV

'Hall' a Hit---in England

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK — "Music Hall," the NBC series that turns out a variety special weekly, summer and winter, moved its base last night to England.

The stars, British comedians Peter Cook and Dudley Moore, relied heavily on slapstick—breakaway furniture and such—and droll accents for laughs.

★ ★ ★

The London studio audience responded with inordinate laughter, so the British sense of humor may be a bit more elementary than American. But then, one problem of the U.S. viewer was to get one's ear adjusted to the accent—Cockney now, Scottish in the next sketch—and by the time one started to understand, the sketch was all but over.

The studio audience, too, roared at a sketch early in the show in which a pair of comedy villains threatened guest star Anne Bancroft with dreadful treatment if she refused to pay them protection money—and they seemed to find it absolutely delicious when she dropped them through a trap door in her living room floor.

The funniest sketch was a spoof of a western turned out by a skeleton crew and cast in East Germany. All the cliches of the western were stated in fractured German.

Miss Bancroft surprised some viewers when she handled a couple of musical numbers smoothly and unveiled an attractive singing voice. The least effective sketch of the hour was an elaborate one about safety that involved lowering an automobile into a swimming pool.

Cook, who is tall, and Moore, who is short, apparently are enormously popular at home. They will have another shot, next week, at trying to capture the American audience.

Glen Campbell's "Goodtime Hour" on CBS had an interesting pair of guest stars, Mr. and Mrs. John Wesley Campbell of Delight, Ark.

Glen's parents sang country songs with him. Later his father played "Turkey in the Straw" on guitar with his son and John Hartford. He went the younger men one better as he simultaneously played guitar and harmonica. It was a nice interlude.

The network earlier planned to run Campbell's show through the summer on rebroadcasts like just about everything else on its schedule. Now CBS has decided on a bold innovation: Starting June 4, the hour will be filled by reruns and even reruns of "Tarzan," which departed the network scene two seasons ago, retired by low ratings.

'When You Hurt Enough,' GI Rescue Platoon Offers 'the Best'

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — It was just another day in the lives of the Alley Cats, a helicopter gunship platoon.

Their job was to help in the rescue of two injured south Vietnamese soldiers lying on a jagged, shell-pocked ridgeline just two miles south of the demilitarized zone. North Vietnamese were all around them.

The two, a company commander and his radio operator, were badly hurt when a U.S. Marine Ch46 helicopter crashed and burned on a combat assault mission.

★ ★ ★

In all, two Marine crewmen had been killed, and three other Marines and a total of 14 South Vietnamese soldiers had been injured. A radio report had said the dead and wounded had been lifted out by helicopter, but the report was wrong.

2 OVERLOOKED

The two South Vietnamese somehow had been overlooked and an American spotter plane saw them on the ridge a few hours later.

★ ★ ★

Here was the way the rescue mission was set up: Four helicopters from the U.S. 101st Airborne Division and two Alley Cats from the Army's 282nd Aviation Company would sweep the North Vietnamese with their miniguns, rockets and grenades. A troop-carrying helicopter would go in and pick up the two Vietnamese soldiers.

★ ★ ★

"Lord, I got 17 days to go," said Spec. 5 Danney Beck, 19, an Alley Cat crew chief as he stood near his helicopter at Cam Lo. He was thinking about leave and a reunion with his family at El Paso, Tex.

★ ★ ★

The Alley Cat platoon carries calling cards suggesting its assistance is available "when you hurt enough to want the very best." The very best was called for now, and Beck knew it.

ARMOR BUCKLED

The pilots flying Beck's helicopter, WOs MacCochrell, 26, of Shreveport, La., and Sam Sneed, 23, of Cleveland, Okla., buckled on their heavy chest armor. Beck and the other door gunner, Pfc. Michael Murray, 21, of Longview, Wash., checked their armor and buckled themselves in.

★ ★ ★

As the helicopters neared the ridge, surrounded by ground haze and smoke rising from earlier air strikes, Cochrel told the door gunners: "Okay, let's keep our eyes open for other aircraft. It's going to get a bit crowded around here."

★ ★ ★

Two other gunships went in and then it was Cochrell's turn. He put the helicopter into a gentle dive. Sneed began working the miniguns. Beck and Murray showered the slopes with a steady spray of tracer bullets. Cochrell fired a salvo of rockets.

★ ★ ★

Then the rescue helicopter settled down on the ridgeline, and Cochrell said: "I don't envy those guys. They've got to have a lot of guts. They (the North Vietnamese) know they've got to come in and they're just waiting for them."

'HE'S HIT'

Then as the rescue helicopter's rotors slowed, Cochrell exclaimed: "Oh, goddamit, he's hit. He's taking hits. He's going to stay down."

Another attack on the hillside was called for and once more Cochrell put his helicopter into a slow dive with guns and rockets blazing.

★ ★ ★

Then with fuel running low, he and the other gunships were ordered to head for home. Other gunships would protect a second rescue helicopter.

★ ★ ★

On their way home, they heard the radio chatter and Cochrell said: "They got all those guys out okay," meaning the two South Vietnamese and the four crewmen of the rescue helicopter that had been shot down.

★ ★ ★

The Alley Cats had not been around at the finish. But as their calling cards said, they had helped out "when you hurt enough to want the very best."

Some Males Call It the 'Unfair Sex'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — What is it about women that annoys men?

BOYLE

While most men admire women, or pretend to for one reason or another, that admiration isn't altogether wholehearted. There are some things about the feminine mystique that the male mind dislikes, resents, envies or is baffled by.

★ ★ ★

A number of men asked recently to state what they felt was wrong with the female sex expressed a wide variety of misgivings. Here are a few of the more interesting replies:

"Women? Bah, humbugs!"

"They are so unpredictable. If you try to surprise and please them by bringing them home a box of candy, they tell you they've just gone on a diet. If you bring them roses because you know they've always liked roses, they want to know why you didn't bring chrysanthemums because chrysanthemums go better with the new draperies."

'WRONG ANSWER'

"When they are too dumb to know what's really going on, they pretend they do by trying to look mysterious."

"The only girl who annoyed me was the one who always said no to everything I ever asked her until the day I asked her to marry me. Then she really gave the wrong answer. She said yes."

★ ★ ★

"What's wrong with women? That's a good question. Pull up a chair, son — this is going to take all afternoon."

"The worst thing about them is that, like politicians, they are born fence straddlers. No matter what happens and how it turns out, they always manage to be in a position to claim they were right. A man will sometimes admit he was wrong, a woman — never."

VANITY

"It is woman's vanity that kills me. Even the homeliest one secretly thinks she is beautiful. And it is always the girl with bowlegs who is convinced every man in town admires her gams."

"Women are too preoccupied with themselves. A man can forget himself part of the time, but a woman can't. She is always on her own mind. If a woman sees a rainbow, she isn't lost in its beauty. It merely makes her wonder if she has on the right color lipstick."

★ ★ ★

"Why should I tell you what I think is wrong about women? You might be a spy for my wife, and then I'd just get in more trouble with her."

"Women are born arrogant. The only thing that teaches them humility is wrinkles, and if they can afford to get their faces lifted they never get humble."

POSSESSIVE

"What I can't stand about women is that they have no real sense of romance — only a sense of possessiveness. They don't want to love a man so much as to own him, body, soul and pocketbook. To them marriage chiefly means a gamble in human real estate. That's why women, in referring to a solvent bridegroom, say, "He was a good catch."

"All of them are too talky. They insist on thinking out loud when they have nothing out on their minds. The less they have to say, the more determind they are to say it."

But the most common criticism of women voiced by most men was the adage that has summed up male bewilderment on this subject for perhaps centuries:

"You can't get along with 'em, and you can't get along without 'em."

Method Acting

NEW ALBANY, Ind. (AP) — One of the girls in a children's theatre group being taught by Leslie Hardy was told to flap her arms to represent a butterfly. Miss Hardy soon noticed the little girl was sitting perfectly still, with her right arm raised upward but motionless. Asked why, the child replied: "The butterfly has a broken wing."

Opening lead—♣J

By OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

Sometimes our friend the Unlucky Expert really is plagued with adversity. Today's hand shows him at his unluckiest. There is nothing much wrong with South's six-diamond contract except that somehow or other the particular South who played against our friend was the only player to make it.

★ ★ ★

The Unlucky Expert made the normal lead of the jack of clubs. South won with the king and after going through a process of cerebration, decided that it wasn't a good day for finesses. Therefore he cashed his ace of diamonds and led a second diamond toward dummy. The Unlucky Expert went up with his king and led a third trump.

South was in his own hand. He cashed his other high club and the ace and king of spades, and ruffed a third spade in dummy. He cashed dummy's ace of hearts and queen of clubs to discard his next to last spade. Then he ruffed dummy's last club to get back to his hand.

Everyone was now down to two cards. West held two hearts, East one heart and the queen of spades, dummy the king and jack of hearts and South the 10 of spades and nine of hearts.

South knew all of this except he didn't know which opponent held the heart-queen. He had noted the drop of the heart 10 from East but East was smart enough to have chucked the 10 and hung on to a low one, so South could not be sure.

What he could be sure of was that an unsuccessful heart finesse at this point would put him down two. Anyway, South wasn't a finesser by nature so he went up with dummy's king of hearts and the Unlucky Expert had his usual unlucky result.

♥♣CARD Sense♠♦

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
	1 ♣	Pass	1 ♥
Pass	2 ♠	Pass	3 ♥
Pass	4 ♥	Pass	?

You, South, hold:
♠K107 ♥A109652 ♦Q6 ♣72

What do you do now?

A—Bid four spades. Hearts have been agreed on as the suit so your bidding is showing second-round spade control.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Your partner bids four no-trump. You show an ace and he bids five no-trump and you bid six diamonds to show one king. He bids six hearts. What do you do now?

Answer Tomorrow

Pig Hams It Up

SUMTER, S. C. (AP) — Susie, a pig brought up in the home of the Leon McCoy family, loves to ham it up, watching television and sitting to beg for her supper.

The McCoys raised the animal from the time she was one day old, keeping her in the house and treating her almost like a child. Now that she has grown into a 390-pound hog, she has been put in the pasture.

Baltimore Is Spreading Job Bank Success Story Across Nation

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — People need jobs and employers need workers. And out of that truism an idea came into being in Baltimore a year ago—a single clearinghouse for job seeker and job giver.

Now through use of a computer, an up-to-date list of the thousands of jobs currently available is turned out every weekday morning.

The Job Bank, as it is called, has come far enough that Baltimore people are traveling all over the country teaching other cities how to do it.

The program is ready for launching in Chicago, St. Louis, Mo., Atlanta, Ga., Hartford, Conn., and Portland, Ore. A dozen more cities are expected to open job banks by July 1, and the government hopes to have them operating in 30 more cities during the 1969-70 fiscal year.

'OVERWHELMED'

"I'm a little overwhelmed," says J. Donn Aiken, lean, white-haired director of the Maryland Employment Service who is creator of the project.

"This was set up just for Baltimore. Now we've opened a Pandora's box. It is so simple when you look at it work, you wonder why in the name of God it was never done before."

★ ★ ★

In March 1968, employers were besieged by requests to list their openings from all of the many programs financed by federal funds. One company was getting more than 90 calls a day.

That month, Aiken and Eugene B. Moore Jr., general manager of the Chamber of Commerce, met with representatives of 30 agencies that touch on manpower to devise something to halt the bothersome flood.

THOUSANDS OF JOBS

The mechanical process of the Job Bank begins at Aiken's office at 6:30 p.m. By 1 or 2 a.m. —3 or 4 a.m. during the busy summer—a computer and a copier have turned out 29 copies of pages containing thousands of current job openings.

The pages are assembled into books, and distributed by morning to Aiken's placement counselors and the city's antipoverty agencies. More than 30 pieces of information are listed for each opening, ranging from a $1.50-an-hour kitchen helper to a $14,000-a-year marine architect.

"We can show 43 different types of job orders," Aiken said in an interview.

"When we first began, we listed 3,000 openings a day. Right now, we're carrying 9,000 to 10,000."

GO TO SUBURBS

Copies of the daily job books also go to neighborhood and suburban Employment Service offices. There are 15 of these, as far as 15 miles from downtown, and Aikeh hopes to open 10 more by the end of the year.

The Job Bank opened May 27, 1968. "In the first six months, we placed 36 per cent more hard-core unemployed than at any other time," Aiken said.

During September, November and December of last year—October is omitted because of a transit strike—2,184 poor people were placed in Baltimore area jobs, more than triple the number a year earlier.

Eighteen of the 3 agencies represented at that first meeting with Aiken and Moore are using the Job Bank. Aiken said he has no figures, but estimated that "60 to 70 per cent of the employers in the metropolitan area are listing with us."

70 PCT. ACCEPTANCE

A year ago, employer response to referrals was 30 per cent or less. Now Aiken's office receives a card from the employer on disposition of the applicant 70 per cent of the time.

"Our chief charge today is dealing with the disadvantaged," Aiken said. But he said much of the work is with senior citizens, and contended the Job Bank is not just for the hard-core jobless.

"Any and all jobs are in the bank—professional engineer, teacher, journeyman trades. The Job Bank is for everyone. It was established to serve the employer."

In a very competitive labor market, orders do pile up in the bank—such as openings for 30 clerk-typists with no applicant to refer. Transportation is a serious problem. Many applicants don't have a clock to help them get to work on time.

★ ★ ★

Sometimes, another problem: 'We have to make sure they are job ready. Frequently they need proper clothing, to wash up, or even get a haircut."

Job Bank workers are state employes paid by federal funds. The bank started with $56,000. "Only 10 additional staff members work in the whole operation, and all but one are data processors," Aiken said.

He feels the program has side benefits.

"One employer wants no one over 25. We have a woman of 40 who has the potential, and asked him why he doesn't take her. Today, he's doing it."

TV SHOW

The bank is promoted by "Opportunity Line," a show telecast each Saturday by WBAL-TV. David L. Glenn, Negro head of the Community Relations Commission, pulls a slip and reads the qualifications. Viewers are asked to call a number flashed on the screen.

★ ★ ★

Glenn also asks employers to list their openings. Sometimes a "graduate" is shown at work at his new job. In a year, more than 1,000 persons were placed through the show.

Westinghouse, Bethlehem Steel, McCormick, Black & Decker and Koppers are among the large employers in this area using the Job Bank. "As far as we're concerned, it's working well," said a Westinghouse spokesman.

★ ★ ★

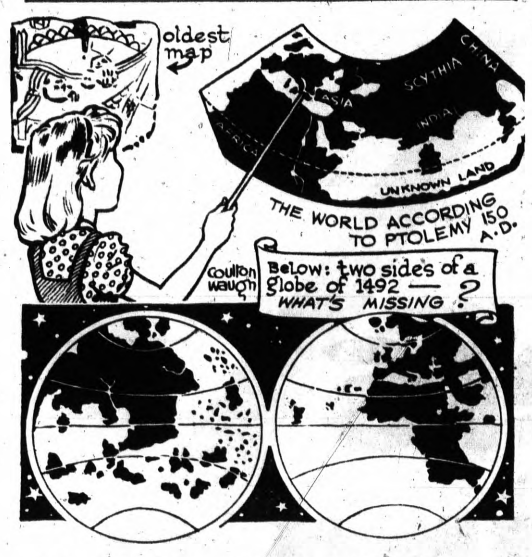

Agencies using the bank for their job applicants include the Urban League, Target City, the NAACP and the Neighborhood Youth Corps.

'GOOD IDEA'

James Chavis, director of the Neighborhood Youth Corps, calls the bank "a very good idea" but he has reservations.

"One area that needs strengthening is the area of job development, especially for those with low education and no job skills," he said.

Junior Editors Quiz on WORLD MAPS

QUESTION: Who made the first world maps?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Only crude maps were made in ancient times, such as the clay tablet in upper left, dating from 2300 B.C. Its rough marks indicated a wealthy man's estate.

The peoples of the first civilizations had little knowledge of what lay beyond their borders and lacked accurate instruments to determine the location of places with the result that the early maps were vague and confused.

The first map to show the world with at least some positions scientifically located was made by the astronomer Ptolemy about 150 A.D. It was used for hundreds of years thereafter.

Ptolemy's map suggested that the earth was round, to be connected by some strange unknown land. But was not until nearly 1500 that the idea of the earth as a full sphere became accepted.

Even then, Martin Behaim, who drew the first globe map in 1492, made a curious mistake: he greatly underestimated the size of that part lying between Europe and the East Indies.

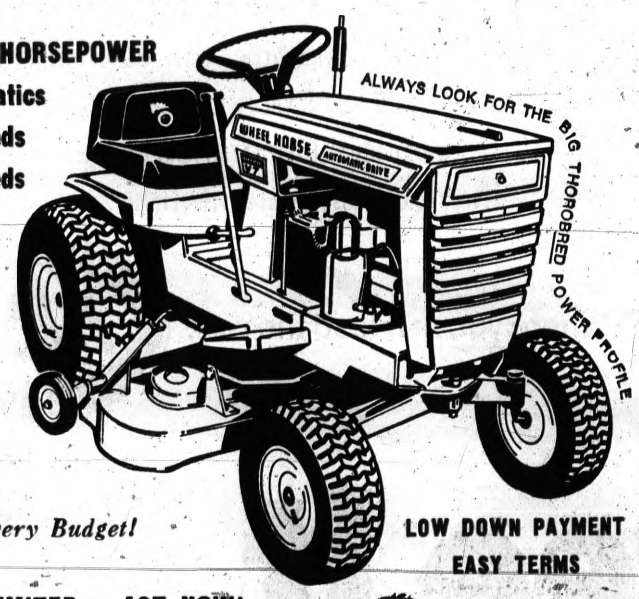

Columbus and other explorers soon started to sail west, but they bumped into two huge continents Behaim had left out—those later to be called the Americas.

Young Group Seeks Changes in City Charter

BY JIM LONG

Amendments to the Pontiac City Charter which would permit a larger segment of residents to become involved in local government are being eyed by a young, bipartisan group of citizens.

Patrick Oliver, chairman of the group, announced today that a petition drive will soon begin to change the charter in three respects. All would affect City Commission candidates.

★ ★ ★

The proposed amendments provide for lower age limits and less stringent residency requirements in order to qualify for candidacy on the City Commission and the nomination and election of commissioners by district.

★ ★ ★

The committee, said Oliver of 51 Cherokee, wants the present regulation revised that prohibits anyone under 30 years of age from running for a commission post.

POINTS OUT DISPARITY

A more "reasonable" place to draw the line is 25, said Oliver, pointing out the disparity of age requirements which the city sets on commission members as compared to other elective officers: governor, 30; secretary of state, 21; Congress 25; and state senator and representative, 21.

★ ★ ★

"It doesn't seem reasonable that a person can qualify for the national House of Representatives, state attorney general or county prosecutor and yet not be old enough to be a city commissioner," said Oliver, an attorney and a former assistant prosecutor.

★ ★ ★

He said the present residency requirements for city commissioners also are far out of line with other elective offices.

★ ★ ★

The plan advanced by the committee would make it necessary to live only one year in a city district to qualify.

CURRENT REQUIREMENTS

Presently a candidate must be a resident of the city five years, and have lived in his district for at least two years.

★ ★ ★

The existing charter which has candidates nominated by districts and elected at large has an adverse effect on both city government and citizen participation, according to Oliver.

★ ★ ★

"Because city commissioners, after the primary, are elected by an at-large vote, it is very difficult to fix responsibility for the over-all conduct of the city government on any one commissioner," said Oliver.

May Day Sunny, but Rain Is Near

Today's sunny skies will become partly cloudy tonight and there's a chance of rain tomorrow, and Saturday morning.

Temperatures are expected to drop into the low 40s tonight and climb to 70 to 75 tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

Southeasterly winds at 5-12 miles per hour will increase to 10 to 18 miles tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

Probabilities of precipitation in per cent are; 5 today, 20 tonight, and 30 tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

Thirty-eight was the low mercury reading before 8 a.m. The thermometer registered 66 at 12:30 p.m.

SDS REPULSES COUNTERATTACK — A youth standing in a window menaces students with a brick last night as a group of conservatives attempts to force its way into Columbia University's mathematics building. The conservatives were attempting to oust members of the Students for a Democratic Society, who were conducting a sit-in behind barricades to enforce demands, including the ending of school ties with the military and open admission for Negro students.

More Student Violence Rocks Columbia

By The Associated Press

Protesters led by Students for Democratic Society have seized two buildings at Columbia University, repulsed a counterattack by other students and jeered a sheriff who warned them to leave.

Four other New York City campuses are beset by student turmoil, but elsewhere around the nation fewer campuses reported trouble.

★ ★ ★

Several hundred students at Columbia stormed into Mathematics and Fayerweather halls yesterday in support of black students' demands for a larger role in the admissions process. The double sit-in came exactly one year after 1,000 police ended an eight-day sit-in five Columbia buildings by making more than 700 arrests.

Administrators at Michigan State University agreed to student demands concerning working conditions for black cafeteria workers and 200 black students ended a peaceful sit-in in a school cafeteria.

CONCESSIONS MADE

Acting President Walter Adams agreed to put blacks in supervisory positions, transferred to minor posts two whites charge with discrimination and granted amnesty to the group.

About 300 students at Stanford University seized a campus building early today for the second time in two weeks in a protest over war-related research.

★ ★ ★

In New York, more than 100 students vandalized the president's office at Brooklyn College as officials of the school met with student representatives to discuss demands for open enrollment of all high school graduates and abolition of mandatory attendance and required courses.

At City College, negotiations continued between President Buell G. Gallagher and black and Puerto Rican students who have seized half the campus to demand enrollment of more minority group students and a separate school of black and Hispanic studies.

At Queens College, several hundred students remained in the administration building for the second day. The students demand amnesty for 38 students and a professor arrested in an earlier demonstration.

At Queensborough Community College, a sit-in continued over President Kurt R. Schmeller's refusal to rehire a left-wing English professor. Schmeller said he would reinstate for the fall term two of the three professors he fired for joining the sit-in. The faculty has voted to support student demands.

Auto Plants Feel Black Unrest

DETROIT (AP) — A small group of black workers is militantly disputing the effectiveness of the auto industry's attempt to hire the hard-core unemployed and the United Auto Workers claim to represent Negro workers.

DRUM, for Dodge Revolutionary Union Movement, first surfaced last year at the Dodge main assembly plant in Hamtramck when about 500 Negroes walked off their jobs in demand for more supervisory jobs for blacks.

DRUM and its various counterparts at auto plants across the country are on the warpath against the UAW as well as the companies. Both are charged with discrimination.

Emil Mazey, secretary treasurer of the 1.5 million member UAW, disputes the claim that the UAW is guilty of discrimination.

CITES STATISTICS

"At the Dodge plant, four out of six of the full-time union officials are black, as are 56 per cent of the elected shop stewards," says Mazey.

Walter Reuther recently issued a warning to the militants:

"We will not protect workers who resort to violence and intimidation with the conscious purpose of dividing our union along racial lines."

★ ★ ★

In addition to disrupting production during several walk-outs, DRUM members have been held responsible for isolated instances of violence.

The major auto producers all have involved themselves in special inner city hiring programs designed to alleviate poverty in the ghetto.

'GREAT SENSITIVITY'

"We've seen great sensitivity by all the corporations recently," said UAW officer Douglas Fraser.

"Let's be charitable," he added after a few seconds' thoughtful silence. "Let's not ask why they didn't bring in these programs 30 years ago when they were needed.

★ ★ ★

"I don't question their motives. Maybe they're afraid their factories will be burned down, maybe they're doing it because of some new found social conscience.

"I'm not going to ask questions. As long as they do it, it's okay with me."

Consumers Hit by Vandalism

Vandalism of Consumers Power Co. equipment was reported today in several parts of Waterford Township, Walled Lake, Orchard Lake and Commerce Township. The first report came in around 3 a.m. and the rest came within the next five hours.

In most instances, gas lines coming out of the ground were either cut or twisted off from connecting pipes. At several homes, the lock-wing valve on the meter was turned off.

★ ★ ★

Commercial establishments affected included Eatmore Restaurant, 929 W. Huron, Waterford Township; Stapps Shoes, next door; Frank's Restaurant at 2371 Orchard Lake; and Howard Cleaners on Highland.

The meter was smashed at the Gay Toy Co., 799 Ladd, Commerce Township; and a meter was stolen at a car wash at 3031 S. Commerce, Commerce Township.

METER CUT

The meter beside Walled Lake Metals, 1377 W. Maple, Walled Lake, was cut with a hacksaw.

Service was cut off from six other Walled Lake area residences by the vandalism.

★ ★ ★

"Consumers Power is most concerned about such instances of malicious destruction and apparent sabotage, Such actions ignore the safety of the general public," said Wallace B. Schroth, assistant manager of the Pontiac Consumers office.

The company, object of a strike by its operating employes is offering a $1,000 reward for information leading to arrest and conviction of persons who tamper with company property or facilities.

Drinking Buddy's Toasts Burn

DENVER (UPI)—Three Pennsylvania businessmen — Mark Newman, Dominic Criscuole, and Donn W. Sturn—were having a few laughs and drinks in a local bar with a newfound friend when the man said: "The fun's over. Give me your, money, rings and watches."

Still laughing, they handed over $2,310 in valuables and went back to their hotel to wait for the companion to finish the gag by returning the stolen goods.

★ ★ ★

Early yesterday, when he still hadn't arrived, they went to police. They described their ex-friend as a smart dresser who "knew a lot about Pennsylvania, New York, Chicago and cities in California."

Food-Price Rise Is Too Rich for Congress's Taste

WASHINGTON (AP)—Several congressional economic experts say the government must do something about the unexpected rise in the cost of food now predicted for this year if inflation is to be controlled.

But there was no agreement on what to do, with solutions ranging from possible wage-price controls to a revamping of federal farm subsidies.

The Agriculture Department said this week that earlier forecasts that food costs would rise this year 2 to 2.5 per cent were being revised upward. An official said the figure would more likely be about 3 per cent.

Food prices last year jumped 4.3 per cent. The price of food makes up 20 per cent of the over-all cost of living, which climbed 4-7 per cent in 1968, the biggest jump since the Korean War year of 1951.

INFLATIONARY PSYCHOLOGY

One congressman, Rep. William B. Widnall of New Jersey, indicated the unexpected rise in food costs is the result of a general inflationary psychology. If it continues, he said, "I am afraid we'll see the last thing I want to see—direct controls on wages and prices."

Widnall is the senior Republican House member of Congress' Joint Economic Committee.

★ ★ ★

Another member of the committee, Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis. said "The Agriculture Department's absurd policy of subsidizing wealthy corporate farms not to grow crops causes food prices to rise. Nothing has been proposed to change this."

The chairman of the House Banking subcommittee on consumer affairs, Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo., also said the escalating price on food might call for attention to farm programs.

★ ★ ★

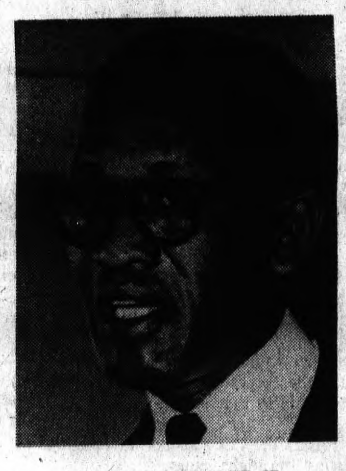

She said, "Inflation goes on unchecked and they haven't sent anything up."

But Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, defended both the administration and farmers, saying it is up to Congress to prove its sincerity in opposing inflating.

★ ★ ★

Miller, a member of the joint committee, said it is reasonable that prices received by farmers should increase as much as prices farmers have to pay.

If food prices increased 4.3 per cent this year, he continued, this would not be out of line with the program of gradually clamping down on inflation.

Still others are Sen. Coleman Young, Democratic National committeeman from Michigan; Neil Staebler, association National committeeman; and Senate Minority Leader Sander M. Levin.

★ ★ ★

OCCEO Keeps Its Chairman

Thomas W. Fowler Jr. of 421 Lynch was elected chairman of the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity (OCCEO) at yesterday's meeting.

★ ★ ★

Fowler is a Pontiac businessman and son of T. Warren Fowler Sr., Pontiac city commisisoner, District 1.

★ ★ ★

He had been vice chairman and assumed the chairmanship last October to replace Carl W. Ingraham, Birmingham lawyer, who was elected a district judge.

★ ★ ★

A full slate of officers and an executive committee were chosen for one-year terms at yesterday's annual meeting.

ACTIVE IN CIVIC AFFAIRS

The OCCEO positions are nonpaying and members decide policy for a professional staff which provides wide-ranging services for the county's poor.

Fowler has been active in civic affairs and is a graduate of Lawrence Institute of Technology.

★ ★ ★

Other officers and the organizations they represent on the OCCEO are: Walter Koch, 18th congressional district, vice president; Douglas Anderson, Royal Oak Township supervisor, second vice president; Mrs. Pat Birach Tri-City Council, third vice president; Joanne VanTassel, 19th congressional district, secretary; and John Rusher, County Board of Supervisors, treasurer.

★ ★ ★

Of the executive board are all the above officers plus the following: Jack Douglas, AFL-CIO; John Dewan, UAW; James Dyer, Voice of Oakland County Action League; J. L. Taunt, General Motors; Dr. Wilfred Webb, City of Hazel Park; Beryl Hines, West County Council; Darlene Paterson, Hazel Park Council; Carl Matteson, Pontiac Area Council; and Gordon Heath, Senior Citizens Council.

Fall Start for M59 Work Pressed

By JEAN SAILE

Pressure will be applied on the State Highway Commission to begin work this fall on the widening of M59 between Airport and Williams Lake roads.

The special roads committee appointed by the County Board of Supervisors voted yesterday to attempt to have work started on the 1.4-mile improvement project six months ahead of current state schedules.

★ ★ ★

County Highway Engineer Paul VanRoekel said the early start could advance the completion date as much as one year — to the fall of 1970. He pointed out that the heavily traveled road — 16,000 to 17,000 vehicles per day — will be closed to through traffic during construction. A five-lane roadway similar to M59 east of Airport Road is planned.

★ ★ ★

The special committee voted to invite trucking interests, local newspapers, the road commission, Oakland University representatives, manufacturers and legislators to attend a meeting to be set with the State Highway Commission.

OTHER CONSIDERATIONS

Also due for future consideration is the continuance of M59 improvement west to the intersection with U.S. 23, an attempt to get proposed I-275 from I-696 north to I-75 reestablished on interstate priorities, and improvement of M150 from I-75 north to Rochester.

★ ★ ★

The whole matter of county road funding was explored by the special committee.

★ ★ ★

Road Commission Chairman Sol Lomerson said he expected another attempt would be made for approval of a 1-mill levy countywide for roads. A vote failed last summer.

★ ★ ★

Changes in the state gas and weight tax disbursement formula would give Oakland County a "fairer return" than it now reportedly has.

LITTLE OPTIMISM

The was little optimism on the part of those present that any such change in the formula would be approved by the State Legislature.

★ ★ ★

Oakland County is now unique in its funding problems, Van Roekel said. As the fastest growing county in the state, "We're like the school districts who have suddenly had to provide 50 per cent more capacity right now."

LANSING (AP) — Bills to allocate some $335 million from boards for water pollution treatment and sewage construction faced final action in the House today. Also a new regulatory loan act covering loans of as much as $5,000 received initial approval. Hopes Rise at Talks

PARIS (UPI) — A new Vietcong concession and the return of North Vietnam's No. 2 negotiator, Le Duc Tho, from long consultation in Hanoi today brought word from diplomats close to the Vietnam peace talks that progress may be near. The Vietcong said yesterday it was ready to "engage in discussions with other parties," stirring speculation the Vietcong might finally be ready to talk directly with the South Vietnamese government.

'VC Eyes Political Revolt Tied to Summer Attacks'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon sources say a recently captured Vietcong staff document indicates the enemy plans to try for a political uprising in conjunction with major attacks on Saigon this summer.

Officials said the paper was believed to have figured in a Vietcong military staff conference in late March.

The document, captured as the Vietcong's winter-spring assault appears to be petering out, outlines plans for continuing enemy offensive activity, the sources said.

Disclosure of the new paper comes at a time when Pentagon authorities are challenging reports of major enemy pullbacks into Cambodia and disputing arguments of some critics that the enemy winter-spring offensive was in retaliation for intensified allied operations.

Citing other captured documents and interrogations of prisoners and defectors, the military sources also say it is clear the enemy was preparing for this year's winter-spring offensive as early as last August.

There are no indications in any of this material that the enemy attempted to de-escalate its military activity last fall after former President Johnson halted all bombing of North Vietnam, these military sources said.

Among supporting material, they referred to:

- A directive issued by the National Liberation Front Dec. 5 saying "units must rapidly direct troops in resolutely attacking key enemy installations and agencies according to a prepared plan."
- A district level Vietcong's leader's captured notebook with entries from Oct. 8 to Nov. 24, 1968, saying the Vietcong-North Vietnamese forces would have to launch decisive and coordinated attacks to wipe out an important part of the U.S. war potential, destroying the South Vietnamese army, and overthrow the Saigon regime.
- Another captured Vietcong notebook mentioning a province committee resolution directing subordinate forces to prepare from seven to 10 objectives for higher headquarters prior to Dec. 20, 1968, together with plans for carrying out attacks.

Key House Dem Backs School Bill

LANSING (UPI) — The Democratic chairman of the House Appropriations Committee has endorsed Republican Gov. William G. Milliken's $845-million school aid bill on the eve of committee consideration of the measure.

Rep. William R. Copeland of Wyandotte said the Legislature cannot afford to exceed the governor's recommendation without raising taxes or indulging in deficit spending.

★ ★ ★

The bill was passed, 22-15, in the GOP-controlled Senate Tuesday, after two days of sometimes stormy, mostly partisan haggling.

Copeland said his committee will take the massive measure up tomorrow afternoon and report it to the House floor Monday or Tuesday.

FAVORS CEILING

Copeland said "undoubtedly many attempts" will be made in the House to further hike school aid but that he personally favors sticking with Milliken's ceiling.

"I'm for holding the line until the governor's blue-ribbon Education Reform Commission comes up with some recommendations this fall," the powerful appropriations chairman said.

Copeland added, however, that the governor's bill will be amended in committee to establish the principle of tax aid to parochial schools. He did not know how much money this would involve.

Ryan said earlier parochiaid forces have abandoned hope for a substantial appropriation this year and are now thinking in terms of $5 million or so. This year, he said, the amount is not so important as the concept.

'$1 WOULD BE ENOUGH'

Rep. J. Robert Traxler, D-Bay City, chief sponsor of the $45-million parochiaid bill now before the Appropriations Committee, agreed. He said he would not object if the aid were cut to $1 so long as the principle were enacted into law.

★ ★ ★

If a parochiaid measure is passed, it will be tested for constitutionality. The governor could ask the state Supreme Court to take original jurisdiction.

★ ★ ★

The main legal problem is how to separate public school funding from parochial school aid so the latter cannot be attacked in court as a direct subsidization of a church-operated school system.

The Traxler bill, in its present form, does not dip into the state school aid fund, but rather allots tax money to the intermediate school districts for distribution to parochial school teachers for teaching nonreligious subjects.

May Day Fetes Subdued, Tense News at Glance

LONDON (AP) — Europe's May Day celebrations took on a new look today, more subdued in Communist capitals and unusually tense in the West.

The Soviet Union dropped the display of military hardware which in the past preceded the mammoth parade of workers and other civilians past Lenin's tomb in Moscow's Red Square. With the exception of East Germany, other nations in the Soviet bloc followed Moscow's example.

★ ★ ★

Fearful of another outburst of anti-Soviet feeling Czechoslovak authorities strengthened police forces in Prague with army troops. The workers' parade was called off, and factories urged workers to spend the traditional holiday in the country and avoid large gatherings.

In the West, authorities from London to Athens also prepared for trouble.

STRIKE FALLS SHORT

British workers went on strike for 24 hours to protest the Labor government's plans to curb wildcat strikes. The walkout was expected to fall short of the general strike its promoters wanted, but union leaders said up to a million men out of the country's 24.5-million work force would be involved.

The French Interior Ministry banned the usual Paris parade, charging that some leftist extremist groups planned to use the occasion for a day of "revolutionary combat." The Communist-led General Confederation of Labor and the French National Students Union also canceled plans for May Day demonstrations, seeking to improve the Communists' image for the coming presidential campaign.

U.S.-China Ties 'Long Way Off'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nixon administration strategists say the latest Peking developments show Communist China is still a long way from a friendly entry into the community of nations.

★ ★ ★

The Washington assessment includes a study of the 24,000-word report delivered by Deputy Chairman Lin Piao to the recently concluded Chinese Communist party congress. Lin Piao, designated successor to Chairman Mao Tse Tung, said among other things:

★ ★ ★

"The truth that 'political power grows out of the barrel of a gun' is being grasped by ever broader masses of the oppressed people and nations."

PRAISED ARMED STRUGGLES

Mao's heir apparent went on to denounce both "U.S. imperialism and Soviet revisionist social-imperialism" and praise "the national liberation movement" in "armed struggles of the people" ranging from South Vietnam to Palestine, Africa and Latin America.

These statements were noted yesterday at a State Department briefing of some 400 business executives on U.S. policy toward Red China and the Soviet Union.

★ ★ ★

Although the Nixon administration says it is trying to improve relations with all Communist countries, including China, the officials said Peking's posture makes it appear that a long road lies ahead.

Birmingham

Kelley Names Area Man as Special Aide

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — An attorney here, Richard P. Condit, has been named a special assistant attorney general by Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley. He will represent the Michigan Motor Vehicle Accident Claims fund in Oakland County Courts.

Condit, 35, is a partner in the firm of Condit, Denison, Devine, Porter & Bartush of 860 W. Long Lake.

The appointment was made under the Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Act of 1965 authorizing the attorney general to select private attorneys to defend claims filed against the Secretary of State. The claims would be those arising out of accidents with uninsured motorists.

Condit, who resides in Southfield, was appointed as Oakland County Prosecuting Attorney in 1964. That appointment was made by the County Court Judges to fill the unexpired term of County Prosecutor George F. Taylor.

Condit had spent a brief time in private practice and four years as an assistant prosecutor prior to 1964.

He is a member of the Southfield School Board and served as president in 1967.

Sunshine and Showers

April Agreed With Wind-Wary

Tornado-wary residents of Oakland County were given a respite from watches and warnings as the month of April remained free of windstorms.

April 1968 heralded the advent of the blustery season with a watch that climaxed in hail, driving winds, flooded streets and downed electric and telephone wires.

★ ★ ★

Showers totaled 3.4 inches of rainfall to insure an ample crop of May flowers if the old adage is correct. In April 1968 only 2.1 inches of rain dampened the landscapes, causing gardeners to haul out their hoses early in the season.

TEMPERATURES UP

And April 1969 was a boon to sun worshipers as 24 days of sunshine favored the area. Much of the shower accumulation fell during the night hours.

With the sunshine came higher temperatures. The April 1969 high was warmer (80 degrees, April 27) than the previous year's April high of 78 degrees. Low for the month was 26 degrees, two degrees colder than April 1968.

The 48-degree mean temperature was also colder than the previous April's 49.7-degree mean. Housewives who like to hang their clothes outdoors on the traditional Monday wash line were happy 50 per cent of the month: two Mondays were sunny and two were plagued with showers.

Kelley Asks Rate Cut for Consumers Power

LANSING (UPI) — Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley yesterday asked the State Public Service Commissioner to slash Consumers Power Co. rates by $25 million instead of raising them by $58 million.

Walter Boris of Jackson, financial vice president for Consumers, said the reduction would wreck the utility and its stockholders.

The exchange was at a hearing on Consumers' application for a 14 per cent increase in electrical rates, and 10 per cent boost in gas rates.

Kelley presented testimony from two experts. Boris answered in a statement from his Jackson office.

Fall Start for Widening of M59 Section Pressed

He noted the gas and weight tax system is set up for a more leisurely growth.

★ ★ ★

"We need $200 million to $300 million spent in the next 20 years to improve roads right here in the county," the engineer said. Much of that money, the main source of the Road Commission's income, is devoted to maintenance of roads and a relatively small sum is left over for construction improvement, reports showed.

★ ★ ★

Also suggested and due for study is the levying of a "users' tax" to raise money for roads. The suggestion was the subject of considerable controversy and two of the committee members, Supervisors Carl O'Brien, D-Pontiac, and Frank Richardson, R-Waterford Township, refused to vote for the study.

The study will be made, however, despite objections that such a tax would serve to drive vehicle title purchasers out of the county and would seriously affect already diminishing bus and truck service here.

★ ★ ★

"We owe it to taxpayers to explore every avenue of road funding," said Mary Bowden, R-Birmingham.

SURROUNDED BY WELL-WISHERS—Spec. 5 Thomas Van Putten, the 21-year-old Caledonia soldier who escaped from Vietcong captivity after 14 months, is surrounded by well-wishers in front of the town's high school after a motorcade yesterday from the Kent County Airport 15 miles away. With the soldier are his father (to Van Putten's immediate rear) and mother (right foreground).

He Won His Freedom but Lost His Girl

Caledonia Welcomes Its Hero

CALEDONIA (AP)—Residents of this tiny southwest Michigan town turned out in force Wednesday to welcome their hero, a young soldier who'd won his freedom from the Vietcong but lost his girl.

Spec. 5 Thomas H. Van Putten snapped a salute as the high school band played his alma mater and waved happily to hundreds of well-wishers who crowded a nearby airport to meet his plane.

★ ★ ★

He rode through the less than two-block Caledonia business district in a parade, behind clanging fire engines and troops of Boy and Girl Scouts.

American flags fluttered from every telephone pole, and signs painted on store windows proclaimed "We Missed You" and "Our Hero Tom."

'PROUD OF YOU'

Van Putten clutched his mother's fingertips as the crowd surged around a platform at the Caledonia high school.

"We're proud of you and glad to have you back," speakers told the soldier who was captured by the Vietcong early last year, just one day before the scheduled end of his Vietnam tour.

★ ★ ★

Van Putten, 21, missing and presumed dead, managed to escape his captors after 14 months, then spent 18 days roaming the jungles before an Army helicopter pilot rescued him.

The escape and safe return "symbolize the rennaissance of hope," said Sen. Robert VanderLaan and Rep. Thomas Ford, both Grand Rapids area lawmakers who attended the formal ceremony.

DABBED AT TEARS

The youth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Van Putten, dabbed at tears as a resolution passed by the Michigan Legislature was read, recounting the horror-filled days their son had spent.

Van Putten accepted a telegram from Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird, gift certificates and a 1969 car from the townspeople and a year's supply of his favorite food, macaroni and cheese.

★ ★ ★

But he did not see his high school sweetheart.

"I had to work," explained the girl Van Putten was to have married, the girl who wrote him a "Dear John" letter when he still was imprisoned.

'KEPT PRAYING'

"I didn't want to hurt him, but I knew it would," said the girl, now Mrs. Edward J. Schipper of suburban Grand Rapids. "I kept praying that he would be found and would return safely—and my prayers have been answered."

The letter, sent some three months after Van Putten's capture, had been returned to his parents who delivered it when they greeted him last week at the Glenview, Ill., Naval Air Station.

"Before I was told he was missing, I had been having mixed emotions about when he would be coming back," Mrs. Schipper said. "So many guys had changed while they were gone."

Van Putten spoke only of his return.

"Thank you very much for all you have done for me," he told the crowd. "It's great to be home. God bless every one of you."

The slender soldier, who lost more than 60 pounds during his capture and ate fruit and raw frogs while lost in Tay Ninh Province before the rescue, said he planned only "to be home and with my family and go fishing."

Van Putten added that he expected to be released from the Army early next month and would then begin thinking about a job.

Rochester and Walton-Livernois branch offices are now open until 4 P.M. Monday through Thursday, and until 7:30 P.M. on Friday.

NBD knows that when you're already running around in circles, getting to the bank before the stroke of three can be mighty hectic.

So, to keep your adrenalin at a comfortable level, we're keeping our Rochester and Walton-Livernois NBD branch offices open longer. (We still open every weekday at 9:30 A.M.).

It may take some talking to convince our cleaning ladies that this is a smart business move. But business is business. And if you need an extra hour to bank, NBD'll squeeze in an extra hour (or three per week) to accommodate you.

Which just goes to show how willing we are to roll out the red carpet for our customers at the National Bank of Detroit.

Charges Are Dropped Against 49 Teens in Sit-In

Trespassing charges against 49 teen-agers involved in a sit-in demonstration at Pontiac Northern High School in March were dismissed yesterday in Oakland County Juvenile Court.

The charges were dropped after meetings between School Supt. Dr. Dana Whitmer, Juvenile Court judges and Oakland County Prosecutor Thomas G. Plunkett.

★ ★ ★

Whitmer, who had been the complainant in the case, said the action was taken because the adults involved in the protest had been acquitted of the same charge last month in Pontiac District Court.

Those who were to have hearings in Juvenile Court were under 17 years of age and could not be tried in District Court. Their trials were to begin next Monday.

AGREES WITH PROSECUTOR

Whitmer said that he concurred with the prosecutor that the dismissal in no way means that they condone trespassing.

"But in view of the acquittal, it didn't seem reasonable to proceed against the juveniles," said Whitmer.

★ ★ ★

He said that school officials are considering having conferences with the youngsters and their parents to talk about the case.

The purpose of the meetings would be for them to "consider the seriousness of them being drawn into another incident like this," said Whitmer.

Teen Suspect in Burglary Stands Mute

A Pontiac teen-ager accused of burglarizing a school was in jail this morning after standing mute at his arraignment yesterday.

Larry Linwood, 18, of 39 Lorraine appeared before District Judge Cecil B. McCallum who set bond at $1,000 and scheduled a court examination next Thursday. Linwood had not posted bond.

★ ★ ★

Pontiac police Sgt. James Fritz and Patrolmen Archie Rose and William Bookie caught Linwood at about 5:15 a.m. yesterday after chasing him by foot and car and firing shots at him, they said.

Linwood was charged with stealing a record player and flute, valued at a total of $250, from Central Elementary School, across the street from the police station at 101 E. Pike.

KEEGO YOUTH ARRESTED

After another police chase, a Keego Harbor teen was arrested yesterday afternoon after his motorcycle went up an incline, few 43 feet through the air and crashed.

Frank Wright, 17, was arrested for fleeing a traffic arrest.

★ ★ ★

Patrolman Stanley Helgemo said he spotted a motorcycle without license plates at Sanderson and Norton and went after it.

The cycle picked up speed, disobeyed stop signs and tried to lose the police car, the officer said.

★ ★ ★

The cycle crashed at the end of Close Street near Florence. Police said the driver ran away, but they apprehended his 16-year-old girl passenger and learned the driver's identity.

No Warrant Yet in School Assault Case

Pontiac police said today that no warrant has yet been issued against an Eastern Junior High School teacher who allegedly struck a student Monday.

A complaint charging Charles O. Hunt, 32, of 1111 Grace, Avon Township, with assault and battery was made yesterday in Pontiac District Court by the youth's mother, Mrs. Betty Emery of 540 Judson.

★ ★ ★

She accused Hunt of striking her son, Alvin, 14, during an argument in a morning English class.

Hunt, who had resigned from the school system — effective at the end of the class year — prior to the incident, was suspended without pay Tuesday pending an investigation by district officials.

Alvin told investigators that Hunt knocked him down and shoved a chair against him, then slammed him against the wall.

★ ★ ★

The youth was taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital for X rays. He was reportedly treated for bruises on the arms and head and released.

Hair Stylist Likes Motion

Enrico Caruso believes "hair should move." Now what that means, the hair-stylist explains, is: "It should have a youthful gait, like a little girl in a mini-skirt."

★ ★ ★

To achieve this movement, he recommends a middle of the neck length, semi-tapered cut, only a little bit of setting lotion with conditioner to keep hair lithe and full of movement.

Nothing to Do? Pamper Yourself

Advice for a rainy, lazy weekend, or any time you have nothing "special" to do. Convert your time into beauty hours — give yourself a facial, a manicure, take a luxurious bubble bath — in short, pamper yourself.

★ ★ ★

The time will pass more quickly and you'll be rewarded for your rainy day efforts with sunny day compliments.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Q. I have heard that the cuticle around the fingernails should never be cut. Is this true? My nails would look terrible if I did not cut the cuticle.

A. The ideal thing is not to cut the cuticle. If you give your nails and hands proper care, this should not be necessary. Keep the cuticle soft by massaging with a cuticle cream each night. Also, after soaking the fingers in water for a little while, push the cuticle back with the end of an orange stick which is wrapped in cotton. You will have to clip off hangnails, but try to keep the cuticle in such good condition that very little cutting will be necessary.

★ ★ ★

Q. Can eyebrows be dyed?

A. Yes, but do not try to do it yourself. Have an expert do it for you and be sure to have a patch test first.

★ ★ ★

Q. What can I do about large pores? They ruin my appearance.

A. These usually go along with an oily complexion although some women with dry skin have this problem. Treat your oily complexion to frequent cleansing with soap and water. Use a complexion brush. Follow with an astringent after rinsing.

Steaming the face may be helpful, too. Use a facial sauna or hold your head over a bowl of hot water, with a towel over your head. Steam the face for a few minutes before washing it. Some experts advise patting the face with an ice cube which is wrapped in a soft cloth. Do this after cleansing.

★ ★ ★

Q. Is it usual for dyed hair to become discolored during the summer, or did I just have a poor job done on my hair? It looked nice at first but then it changed. I was ourdoors a lot, but I didn't think this would make any difference.

A. Long exposure to sunlight can do this to the best job. After this, give your hair more protection with a hat or a scarf.

Your hands can express your personality. Why not make them as beautiful and graceful as possible? Send for Josephine Lowman's free leaflet, "Exercises to Keep the Hands Flexible, Graceful and Young." Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056.

Paleolithic Beginnings

The first person to practice oral hygiene consciously was probably the Paleolithic hunter who paused one day by a stream to rinse some nagging particles of mammoth steak from his mouth.
