The loss of life is tragic and the loss of a young life is especially tragic.

The Oakland University community was devastated on Saturday to learn of the death of Stephen James Dornan, a junior from New Baltimore, Mich., who lived on the OU campus. He was 20 years old. The University extends condolences to Stephen's family, friends and acquaintances during this most difficult time.

The University is making professional counseling services available to students, faculty and staff grieving in light of this news. Those interested in seeking support should contact University Housing staff, Graham Counseling Center at (248) 370-3465, or the Office of Dean of Students at (248) 370-3352. The Common Ground crisis hotline is also available at (800) 231-1127.
