Drought Hurts Farmer

No one is more seriously affected by the month-long dry spell than the Oakland County farmer.

Although the farmer welcomes dry weather around harvest time, his crops need rain to grow, and crops are his livelihood.

As the drought goes into its 33rd day, farmers are by no means in agreement on the damage it has caused.

Carlson Long, a Milford farmer, called the crops the worst he's seen in 25 years for the time of year.

The corn and oats are terrible, he declared.

He said he got in one good harvest of hay, but doubted that he could get in a second.

With his pastures drying up and little hay to fall back on, this spells trouble, he said. Long termed the problem "really serious."

Holly farmer Bob Burger agreed with Long that the dry weather had "dried up the crops to a considerable degree."

"It would be amazing the progress you'd see if a little rain was to come along," he said.

Burger warned that the danger point is close at hand, though. "With corn close to tassel, we'd better get some rain pretty soon," he said.

Cooperative Extension Service director Lyle B. Abel agreed that Oakland County farmers can expect trouble if the dry weather persists.

He cited the slow development of fruit, especially road-side stand, usually bristling with activity this time of year, is quiet. His drought-stricken fields, usually a cornucopia of vegetables at this time of year, are relatively barren.

peaches, early apples and berries.

Strawberries, in contrast, developed too soon, he noted, and as a result are small and of poor quality.

Because of the dry weather, grass has gone dormant, forcing farmers to use stored hay for feed, he observed.

However, the crop most endangered by the drought is corn, he said.

Truck farmers throughout the county—especially those without irrigation—are finding their vegetables tough and stringy.

One reported that his potatoes were like marbles. Last year at this time, he had new potatoes five inches in diameter, he said.

State troopers were on duty in racially embattled Savannah, Ga., and units of the Georgia National Guard were alerted.

But a tentative agreement for a racial truce was reported.

In Cambridge, where 4,000 Negroes live on one side of Race Street and 8,000 white persons on the other, about 250 demonstrators started a march toward the white section last night in a defiance of a ban imposed under a modified version of martial law.

Brig. Gen. George M. Golston stepped out alone, held up his hand and stopped them.

The general explained why he was there, removed his hat during a prayer, then asked the demonstrators to go back to their church. They did.

LONDON (UPI)—The United States and Britain today were reported agreed to resist any Soviet attempt to drag out the nuclear test ban talks opening Monday in Moscow.

PLENTY OF SUNSHINE—When Mrs. Rebecca Plympton, 75, was awakened by sunshine in her apartment at 94 E. MAC STAYS

Meanwhile, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan appeared determined today to hold on to his office at least until some concrete progress is made on a nuclear test ban with Russia.

Political observers said the 68-year-old "Unflappable Mac" intended to ride out the Profumo scandal and resist demands for his immediate retirement from the opposition Labor Party and from within his own Conservative Party.

Macmillan does not want to go down in history as the leader of a Conservative Government that was disgraced by one of his cabinet ministers, the observers said.

He particularly does not want to retire at a time when he thinks the West may be on the threshold of a nuclear treaty of some sort with Moscow.

Macmillan said in an interview yesterday that he has high hopes for the nuclear talks.

"I can't think of anything more important at this time," he said. "Either in itself or for East-West relations generally."

In Moscow an influential Russian review said today "there are no obstacles now" to the conclusion of an East-West agreement.

Sovietkaya Rossiya made the statement in an article summarizing proposals made by Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev in his July 2 speech in East Berlin.

ST. ANNE'S, England (AP)—Bob Charles, a gangling New Zealander with a rare putting touch, beat out Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif., by 8 strokes in their 36-hole playoff for the British Open title today and became the first left-hander ever to win a major golf championship.

Charles shot 69-71-140, Rodgers 72-76-148 after they had tied Friday at 277 for 72 holes.

More Parleys Might Follow 8-Day Confab

Reds Duck Open Split; Sino Newspaper Says 'Problem Can Wait'

MOSCOW (AP)—Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan, often the Kremlin's chief troubleshooter, took a hand today in the faltering unity talks with the Red Chinese.

From Our News Wires

MOSCOW — Sino-Soviet negotiations on the future of world communism came to an apparently inconclusive end today with a probable agreement to resume talks in the near future.

Chinese Communist and Soviet negotiators met for three hours today and then adjourned for the weekend. The Chinese were expected to leave for Peking early next week.

A clear hint of the outcome of the eight days of talks was contained in a Peking People's Daily editorial published today. It said: "If the current difference cannot be resolved now, they can wait until tomorrow. If it cannot be resolved this year, they can wait until next year."

It was believed the two sides has agreed to disagree for the time being and avoid a public appearance of an open and irreconcilable rupture.

With the negotiations apparently winding up, the way seemed clear for the Russians to open their meetings Monday with U.S. and British officials on a nuclear test ban.

The Soviet side remained silent on the talks—apparently while Kremlin leaders digested the import of Peking's statement.

The Red Chinese acknowledged that they believed the talks would end up in a very grave deadlock.

But the statement appeared to represent an abrupt switch from Premier Khrushchev's demand that the Soviet Union wants to push Chinese-Soviet relations to the brink of rupture.

The statement said: "It must be frankly pointed out that the present situation is very grave."

CHINESE WORRIED

The Chinese admitted they were "worrying" whether the Communist Party of the Soviet Union wants to push Chinese-Soviet relations to the brink of rupture.

Pulls Out Bid for U.S. Okay of Drug Use

CHICAGO (UPI)—The most bitterly fought medical battle of the decade took a dramatic turn yesterday when the discoverer of krebiozen withdrew his application for continued experimental status of the drug.

The move, in effect, meant at least a temporary halt in efforts to win federal approval of the controversial cancer drug and put it on the market.

Dr. Steven Durovic, a refugee Yugoslav physician who first extracted the substance from the blood serum of horses 16 years ago, withdrew his application in a letter to Anthony J. Celebrezze, secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

He said the government had waged a fight against "an unbiased clinical test" of the drug with "unheard-of pressure, the spreading of false statements to the press, an attempt to frame me and now an attempt to indict me."

He told Celebrezze he had "lost hope that your department will ever solve this controversy in good faith."

The latest attempt to secure an evaluation of krebiozen from the National Cancer Institute and the Food and Drug Administration bogged down in a welter of charges and countercharges.

Federal officials maintained that information provided by the drug's sponsors was inadequate for a thorough test.

Local Lawyer Dies in Court

W. H. Wilmot Worked 30 Years in Pontiac

William H. Wilmot, Pontiac attorney for more than 30 years, died unexpectedly of a heart attack in the Oakland County Court House yesterday afternoon. He was 85.

A 1923 graduate of the law school of the University of Michigan, Mr. Wilmot received his bachelor of arts degree from Michigan State Normal College.

He served overseas as a major with the Marine Corps in World War I and was cited for valor on several occasions by the French and American governments.

Mr. Wilmot, of 2550 S. Lake Angelus Road, entered the Pontiac law office of the late A. L. Moore as business associate in September 1928.

Former Attorney General Harry S. Toy appointed him as an assistant attorney general in 1935. His work was from the Pontiac law office chiefly in connection with the State Highway Department.

Mr. Wilmot served as president of the Pontiac Real Estate Board and on many occasions was toastmaster at local banquets.

A member of the Oakland County Bar Association, he also belonged to the Michigan State and American Bar Associations.

Another Tax Buck Wings Lavishly Off

It would be impossible to stop the stampeding elephant of government waste.

But we would like to affix a burr to its tough hide.

On July 12, we received a news release from the Office of Civil Defense, Department of Defense, stating its contents could be revealed to the public on July 10. It was mailed from Battle Creek on the afternoon of July 11.

In order to somehow try to make up for the time discrepancies, the letter was sent by air mail special delivery.

Certainly a message that must be sent by such expensive methods must be just short of a declaration of war, we thought. But the envelope spilled out only a message that a course in fallout shelter design would be available to architects at the University of Wisconsin in September.

We suggest that the taxpayer's money was wasted in ordering special mail service for such a message.

That's the burr.

Now I suppose we'll never get another release from the Office of Civil Defense, Department of Defense.

Ecuador Junta Alert for Strike

From Our News Wires
QUITO, Ecuador — The Military junta that seized power Thursday took steps today to head off a general strike called by the Communist-led Ecuador Workers Confederation (CTE).

The military rulers ordered strict application of martial law and a 9 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew. They promised to wipe out all civil disorder and terrorism "provoked by leftist extremists." The junta, that ousted President Carlos Julio Arsenosa as a drunk and Communist sympathizer, outlawed Ecuador's Communist party Friday and rounded up about 150 leftists.

Persons who attended a presidential banquet Wednesday night said Arsenosa disgraced himself not only by getting drunk and vomiting in front of the guests, but also by shaming the U.S. government in the presence of U.S. Ambassador Maurice Bernbaum.

Arsenosa was sent into exile in Panama. He has made no comment on the coup except to say he did not resign.

Tanks guarded the national palace where troops shot and killed two leftist demonstrators and wounded 17 others after the military seizure Thursday.

The CTE ordered a general strike to protest the military action, but has not set a date. The junta quickly warned that strike leaders would be prosecuted for "military crimes . . . subject to severe and summary punishments."

Along with banning Communists, the junta shipped Vice President Reynaldo Varona Donoso into exile, canceled elections, proclaimed martial law, and imposed a night curfew and censorship.

At least a dozen persons were arrested for violating the curfew. The deposed vice president, who tried unsuccessfully to rouse Congress to challenge the armed forces takeover Thursday, joined Arsenosa in Panama but planned to fly on today to Houston. Tex. It was not known whether Varona would stay in Texas.

Navy Capt. Ramon Castro Jijon, junta president, told the nation Friday night that he is "determined to completely eradicate communism" and restore moral and economic order.

Politico Loses Race to Cabbie

NEW YORK (UPI)—The mayor of River Rouge met with citizens, the police and the judiciary yesterday, but unfortunately it didn't happen in his home town.

Donald Nettlow, 34, up for reelection in River Rouge this fall, ran ahead of the law in Greenwich Village here and ended up on the wrong end of disorderly conduct charges.

The citizens involved in the affair were a taxicab driver who Nettlow claimed drove him a number of hysterics who materialized during the ensuing fight.

The policeman was a Michael Iannolo, who arrested Nettlow for allegedly using loud and boisterous language, which caused a crowd to assemble.

THE JUDICIARY

The judiciary was represented by Criminal Court Judge Irving L. Schrecker, who listened to Nettlow's innocent plea and set bond at $25 pending trial Aug. 5.

Nettlow, visibly upset by reporters and cameramen in court, said he and a companion had hailed a cab early Friday and asked the driver to take them someplace for "a bite to eat."

According to Nettlow, some $3.85 later, they still were riding around. An argument started and the cabbie called the policeman, who made the arrest.

At his home this morning in River Rouge, Nettlow stuck to his story.

"The cab driver was running up the bill unwarrantedly. My client and I asked him about it and he got very indignant. He was taking me for a joy ride."

"The policeman, without even hearing our side of the story, demanded we pay him his fare and get out of the cab. One word led to another. I feel that it was unfortunate and regrettable."

Possible Rain for Michigan Raises Hopes

The prospect of rain throughout the state Saturday and Sunday brought new hope to Michigan residents caught in one of the worst droughts in recent memory.

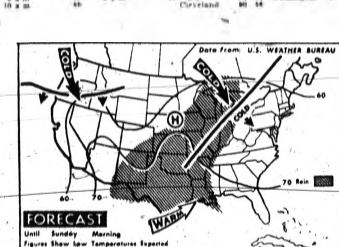

In many areas, it hasn't rained for a month. Detroit entered its 20th day without a measurable rainfall, the longest dry spell since 1916 when no rain fell for 32 days.

The last rain reported in the Detroit area was June 13 when two one-hundredths of an inch fell. Since then, a few scattered showers have hit, but they quit before they did much to alleviate dry conditions.

BURNING MARSH — West Bloomfield Township firemen (from left) Tom Ball and Bazil Stoddard hose down part of a peat bog along Richardson Road. The firemen are battling a marsh fire that has burned continuously since July 4. The blaze, which began in West Bloomfield Township just off Detroit Road and burned west toward Union Lake Road, covers an area a half-mile long and about 100-150 yards wide. Since crossing into Commerce Township, it has flared up several times. Most of the time, the actual burning occurs underground with only smoke visible. But when a surface blaze does appear, the two fire departments hose it down.

Detroit Ready for Bias Pickets

Cancel Police Leaves; Negro Protests Set

DETROIT (AP) — With police leaves canceled, Detroit took preparations against possible trouble today from two anti-segregationists' protest demonstrations.

The Detroit Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People planned demonstrations at 20 apartment houses which the NAACP said discriminates against Negroes.

NAACP officials said the demonstrations would be peaceful. All policemen's leaves for the day were canceled by Supt. Eugene A. Reuter, however. Reuter said he wanted to make sure of adequate police at all 20 sites.

The apartment buildings, including two in the Motor City "art center" district containing the Detroit Institute of Arts and the Public Library, are generally in Detroit's midtown section. The neighborhoods are mostly mixed.

Abraham Ulmer Jr., chairman of the NAACP Housing Committee, said demonstrators would be assigned to 14 teams of about 20 members each.

Police headquarters in downtown Detroit also was chosen for group demonstration — by another group.

FATAL SHOOTING
The Group On Advanced Leadership (GOAL), an all-Negro organization, said it would picket headquarters from noon to 6 p.m. in connection with a policeman's fatal shooting of a Negro woman on a street July 5.

The woman, Cynthia Scott, 24, who police said had a record of nine convictions for accounting and soliciting, was shot by an officer who said she slashed him with a knife when he tried to arrest her.

GOAL representatives said the picketing would be carried out after Miss Scott's funeral by nine cars and the hearse containing her body.

Patrolman Theodore Spicher, who shot Miss Scott, was exonerated by Wayne (Detroit) County Prosecutor Samuel B. Olsen. Olsen held that Spicher acted properly in line of duty.

The Detroit Branch of the American Civil Liberties Union took issue with Olsen's investigation, declaring he had been "perfunctory" and demanding that the case be reopened.

The ACLU said Olsen failed in his duty and harmed the "cause of lawful law enforcement."

Angry Exchanges

TFX Hearing Flares

By G. MILTON KELLY
WASHINGTON (AP) — Tempers are flaring again—this time over a performance chart—as a Senate subcommittee presses ahead with its probe of the TFX warplane contract.

The latest angry exchanges pit Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth against chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., and the senior Republican member of the panel, Sen. Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota.

Korth spent his fourth day on the witness stand Friday as the subcommittee probed the award of the TFX contract to General Dynamics Corp. of Fort Worth, Tex., and Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp. of New York.

Senators want to know why Korth and other civilian defense chiefs overrode military evaluations that a design offered by the Boeing Co. of Seattle, Wash., promised a better and cheaper plane.

McClellan challenged a chart which Korth used to support his contention that the General Dynamics-Grumman design is superior.

"The way you are presenting it, you are distorting the performance of the Boeing plane, based on the record," he said.

"Mr. Chairman, I deny that we are distorting it," Korth retorted.

Continuing the exchange, a censored transcript of which was made public Friday, McClellan argued that the chart failed to reflect last-minute optional design changes the Boeing Co. had offered to make. He said the changes would have wiped out a claimed 320-mile an hour speed margin for the General Dynamics-Grumman plane and would have given the Boeing craft greater maneuverability at high altitudes.

Korth replied that the contractors knew that only the earlier designs would be evaluated and that technical teams never had evaluated a report spelling out the changes.

"You can talk about 'it has not been evaluated' from now until doomsday," McClellan said. "It was your duty to evaluate it if it was the best interest of the Navy, the country and to get the best plane."

Korth replied: "I have the best interests of the country and the Navy." However, he agreed to prepare a new chart for the subcommittee.

Mundt told Korth he could not understand why the contract went to General Dynamics-Grumman "unless there is some reason that you want to favor General Dynamics."

Mundt said he suspected the civilian secretaries read the military evaluation report to the point where it said either design would be acceptable and quit reading before the point where the military evaluators said the Boeing design had a "clear and substantial" advantage.

Korth replied with a defense of the decision. He returns to the witness stand Monday.

see a photograph which he said was taken at a "Communist training school" and showed a group of men in military uniforms.

King, Negro integration leader, who has been demonstrating for weeks against what they called discriminatory policy at a suburban housing tract was these victories.

These developments came in rapid succession yesterday.

1. Builder Don Wilson told a news conference Friday night he had accepted a down payment from a Negro on a home in his Torrance tract. Previously he had denied there was any racial discrimination at the tract.

2. Trespass and peace disturbance charges against 40 persons arrested in demonstrations at the tract were dismissed in court when Wilson declined to prosecute. Wilson had made citizen arrests of the defendants.

3. A temporary injunction blocked enforcement of an emergency Torrance ordinance establishing a 7 p.m. weekend curfew for nonresidents of the tract.

4. In Baltimore, Negro leaders called off weekend demonstrations at segregated Gwynn Oak amusement park while accepting the recommendations of a county commission of mediators.

Besides asking for an end to the demonstrations, the commission recommended yesterday: —That the park begin admitting Negroes July 26.

—That the parties involved examine the situation Jan. 1, 1969.

And that any disputes under the suggested agreement be referred to the commission for settlement.

U. S. District Judge J. Robert Elliot directed the county board of education to submit to him within 30 days a plan for desegregating the local public schools.

In Savannah, units of Georgia's National Guard were on standby today for possible use in this support while racial peace hopes brightened with a secretly negotiated truce.

Gov. Carl E. Sanders said Friday night he had ordered guard units alerted "to meet any emergency which local authorities determined as being beyond their enforcement capabilities."

The governor's action followed two successive nights of violence in the wake of mass marches by Negroes. He also sent in 50 more state troopers, bringing the total on duty here to 100.

Wirtz Confers With Rail Exec

Holds Private Session at Labor Department

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz met today with the chief negotiator for the railroads in the Kennedy administration's continued efforts to block a nationwide rail strike.

Wirtz and J. E. Wolfe, major spokesman for the carriers, conferred privately in Wirtz's office at the Labor Department.

Neither Wirtz nor Wolfe would say what subject was under discussion, but it presumably concerned the President's promise to seek legislation that would settle the four-year-old dispute over work rule changes advocated by the railroads.

"This is just a private chat," Wirtz told a reporter before entering the secretary's office.

"That's right, that's all it is," Wirtz added.

The unannounced meeting was the only sign of activity in the railroad dispute. Some officials predicted it would take legislation by Congress to resolve the crisis that could result in a nationwide strike after July 29.

President Kennedy's six-man fact-finding committee adjourned until Monday its investigation of the four-year-old battle over railroad demands for rule changes to abolish alleged "featherbedding," or unnecessary jobs.

Area Girl, 17, Killed as Car Hit by Train

The 17-year-old daughter of a Birmingham executive and her teenage companion were killed yesterday 20 miles east of Windsor, Ontario, when their convertible was struck by a Canadian National Railway train.

Cheryl Ann Martin, 17, of 7215 Parkhurst, Birmingham, and Louise Deziel, 14, of Windsor, died after the smashup at an unprotected railroad crossing.

Ontario Provincial Police said the train, traveling at 65 miles per hour, struck the car squarely with its engine.

The car was dragged nearly a mile.

Miss Martin, who apparently was driving, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold G. Martin. Martin is president of Research To Reality, an invention marketing firm.

Miss Deziel was the daughter of Judge Lawrence Deziel of Essex County, Canada.

Both families have summer homes near the accident scene.

400 Prisoners Riot on Singapore Island

SINGAPORE (AP)—Secret society gangsters among 400 convicts took over Singapore's prison island for several hours in bloody rioting yesterday.

Unofficial reports said they butchered Warden Daniel S. Dutton by gouging out his eyes and slowly hacking him to death. Two guards were reported slain and 39 injured. A barracks was burned.

Riot police and surviving guards finally restored control of the Pulau Senang Prison, 10 miles south of Singapore.

It was not immediately known what touched off the violence.

Eleven Pairs in Arkansas to (Re)Marry

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Eleven Arkansas couples—caught in a bill actually appropriating the State Supreme Court, state authorities and the Social Security Administration on what it means will revise their nuptial knots this weekend.

The Social Security Administration said that under the 1941 statute the couples aren't married legally enough to qualify for wives benefits.

That announcement prompted a Star City, Ark., couple to place an advertisement in a weekly newspaper, "mass wedding, bring your children."

NATION AFFECTED
The chain of events has reached California, Oklahoma and other portions of the nation where Arkansians have migrated.

The wording of Act 32 indicates it was passed because "numerous marital contracts entered into between persons of immature ages continuously create serious domestic relations problems."

James C. Hale, the legislator who introduced the law, says he did so because too many persons were coming across the state line at Memphis, Tenn., to take advantage of the youthful age at which Arkansas then permitted marriage — 14.

Okay Shelters Against Fallout

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House Armed Services subcommittee approved yesterday a Kennedy administration plan aimed at providing fallout shelters for 11 million more Americans during the next year.

Chairman F. Edward Hebert, D-La., said the subcommittee unanimously endorsed the concept of the $175-million shelter construction program proposed by the administration. It would offer incentive payments to public and nonprofit institutions to provide shelter space.

But he said the subcommittee intends to rewrite the bill before seeking action by the Armed Services Committee to send it to the House.

"We want it a tight one, a clear one, and one which keeps Congress in constant control of this program," Hebert said.

Hebert said House approval of the measure won't come easily, but added he thinks the job can be done. The bill would be the first of its kind to face a House vote.

Committee Agrees to Cut Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House Foreign Affairs Committee was reported yesterday to have virtually agreed to limit its cut in President Kennedy's foreign aid request to $430 million.

This would cut the foreign aid authorization to slightly less than $4.1 billion, an amount the President has indicated he would accept.

Kennedy had recommended a $4.5-billion authorization. A separate bill actually appropriating the funds must be passed later, and deeper cuts could be made then.

Informed sources said the major committee cut would come in the military assistance program.

Pontiac Passes Milestone in Automobile Production

For several years now, 1955 has been THE year in auto production. When the publicity boys sat down at the typewriters, invariably in their story was the phrase — "best since the record year of 1955."

This is no more, as far as E. M. "Pete" Estes' Pontiac Motor Division is concerned. That record has been put back on the furthest dusty shelf of the oldest stockroom.

ESTES

This week Pontiac workers guided another slimy-styled, elegant Grand Prix off the line. It had numbers on the side two feet high — 554,091 it said, and it wasn't any serial number.

That car broke the 1955 Pontiac production record of 554,090. It was completed 71 days earlier in the model run than the previous but now passed 1955. But that wasn't all.

Cars kept right on coming off the line. Catalinas, Tempests, Bonneville's, in a stream of multi-colored beauties that are already sold.

That's right. Pontiac has been jumping to keep up with sales all year. There weren't dozens of them standing around at dealers storerooms all over the Nation.

These cars were on the move from the moment they started down the line. Pontiac has increased its share of the market, and pulled far ahead of the lines which once challenged it for the position of third in the industry.

The people who walk around the Oakland Avenue administration building proudly wear their little gold "3" pins in their lapels, for the third year in a row.

Let's face it, did you EVER see so many Pontiacs on the highways? The percentage has always been high right here where they are made, but take a look upstate and outstate.

They're ahead of you and behind you on the highway! You find them on either side of you zipping down the expressway!

It's a fine year for Pontiac, Fisher Body, all the employees, the suppliers, and the community at large. Congratulations.

Lodge Assigned Sorry Asia Mess

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Henry Cabot Lodge is walking into a mess, one of the most dismal since the United States tried to help China. President Kennedy recently appointed him ambassador to South Viet Nam.

From 1946 until 1951 the colonialist French tried to smash the Reds in Indo-China. By 1951 they were doing so badly, militarily and financially, the United States had to bail them out, or try to.

It put $2.5 billion into the fight. No good. The French quit in 1954. The Communists got half of Indochina. Then the U.S. moved in and supported President Ngo Dinh Diem of South Viet Nam. From 1954 until now, this country has pumped in another $2.5 billion, plus 12,000 troops to help Diem and train his troops. So far 34 Americans have been killed in action or in noncombatant activities. What's the result?

No end to the war is in sight. Communist guerrillas are not only still fighting but now Diem is up to his neck with South Vietnamese Buddhists, who make up 80 per cent of the population and are growing increasingly angry.

Thursday, Malcolm W. Browne, Associated Press correspondent in Saigon, reported that U.S. officials there believe South Viet Nam could be plunged into civil war and chaos if tensions between the Buddhists and Diem increase.

The Buddhists complain they are discriminated against by Diem and most of his top advisers who, like Diem, are Roman Catholics. Diem is a dictator, and a hard-headed one.

His country, about the size of New England, has 14.5 million people. Most of them live under primitive conditions. It was recognized in Washington years ago that Diem needed to put in many reforms to give the people social, economic and political justice if they were to be persuaded to prefer his regime to the Communists.

The United States faced the same problem after World War II with China, who operated as a weak ruler while fighting Communists who promised reforms. Despite all the American help poured into him, the Communists drove him out.

The United States and South Viet Nam had agreed on a dozen new steps—including the reforms mentioned above to make increased American aid more effective. That's just about the last ever heard of the reforms.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

William Tyndale believed that all men had the right to read the Bible in their own language.

In the early 16th century he was determined to translate and print the Bible in English. As a result he was branded a heretic and forced to leave England. In Wittenberg, Germany, the city of Martin Luther, he found refuge and translated the New Testament from the Greek into English.

His search for a printer for his translation led to Worms, where his new Testament was printed. When his edition was smuggled into England, Henry VIII decided that all the books should be confiscated and burned. The books continued to circulate through-out England. Henry had Tyndale arrested in Antwerp, Belgium, and he was held in a prison near Brussels for 18 months. He was tried for heresy, found guilty, and burned at the stake August 6, 1536.

The fire of his faith and of his burning books only kindled the flame in the hearts of his followers so that God's Word would be set free for English-speaking peoples throughout the world.

Days of All Faiths:

Blessed Anne Helped the Negroes

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

It would help a great deal if we had a Blessed Anne Javouhey today. This beautiful and holy Frenchwoman, who died only a century ago, had a special calling to help the Negro people, and she performed her task with such love and such intelligence that all racial strife was avoided in the places where she worked.

From childhood Anne knew she had some special job to do for the Lord, but she didn't know what it was. Twice she tried her vocation in religious orders, and twice she gave it up.

Finally a monk told her her vocation was to start a community of her own, and almost immediately she had a vision of St. Teresa, who showed her a room full of Negro children and said, "These are the children God gives you."

From then on things moved with directness and speed. Anne and her three sisters set up a school at home in Burgundy. Other women joined with them, and the schools spread to other parts of France, with Anne supervising them all.

Her Paris school came to the attention of the government and she was asked to go to Africa. She and some sisters set up a school on an island near Madagascar, and almost before she knew it, there she was with the Negro boys and girls St. Anne had promised her.

When in 1838, 600 slaves were to be set free in Guiana, Anne was asked to go there and see them through the emotional and economic stresses of their transition. She taught them to think and work as free men and to take on the responsibilities that go with freedom.

When the time came to let them take over their own lives, Anne had seen to it that each family had a cottage, some land, enough money for a start, and a knowledge of how to make a living.

The order established by Anne is known as the Sisters of St. Joseph of Chney.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

July 16 is the birthday of Mary Morse, born in 1821 in Bow, N.H. Later she became well-known as Mary Baker Eddy, who founded Christian Science.

There have been those who said Mrs. Eddy herself contributed no original thinking in the religious field, but only passed on and publicized what she had learned from Phineas Quimby, a Maine faith healer to whom she had gone for reasons of health.

Mrs. Eddy never acknowledged any such debt to Quimby. By her own account she was developing her own theory and practice of "mind-healing" as early as 1837, and had written a pamphlet on the subject that was copyrighted in 1878, though not printed until six years later.

In 1875, in Lynn, Mass., she organized a group of followers who called themselves the Christian Scientists. In this same year she produced "Science and Health, with Key to the Scriptures," which immediately became, and still is, the authoritative book of her church.

The philosophy of Christian Science is simple and easy to understand. Nothing, it says, is real except God and His ideal. Evil has no reality. It couldn't have, for God created everything, and God, by His nature, could not create anything but good.

Man is "God's spiritual idea" and belongs by right to an order in which there is no sickness, sin, sorrow, or death. Such apparent evils are errors of man's mortal mind; they have no existence except as he admits them. Deny them and they cease to exist.

It is frequently said that new movements arise in Christianity to correct some deficiency in the life of the churches, to bring back some aspect of Christianity that is being neglected. Obviously, Christian Science was doing this in the case of faith healing. The New Testament is full of

Voice of the People:

'Communist Terrorism Ruling Venezuelans'

Things are going from bad to worse in Venezuela. Terrorism reaches such heights the citizens no longer feel safe at night; the FALEN Communist thugs burn, kill, steel and loot; police are half-hearted.

"We live with guns at our sides," said a lady. "Night and day, we have them handy. We even carry them to the bedroom. The terrorists have attacked private homes, tried to blow up a bridge and kept the population in a state of tension." Victims are warned not to go out at night. There is a feeling in Caracas that Betancourt is not the paladin of democracy he claims. "Some people say Betancourt is the guiding hand behind the FALEN."

Communist employ terror not only to create fear, but to pester, to irritate, to badger and mortify people so they are willing to accept any conditions to restore normal existence. Venezuelan people are sick of the daily pummeling they are receiving from the Red terror; but they will be immensely grateful to anyone who brings an end to such affairs — even if they happen to be Communists. Therein lies the mortal peril.

By WASHINGTON STAFF

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A

panel of economists reviewing business prospects for the second half of 1963 at the U.S. Chamber of Commerce board of directors meeting came up with some quite observations on the road I have to go. When the faintly clouds in heaven smile on waters warm and blue

"Where's himself?" the newsman asked.

A secretary replied: "Himself is in with the Higher Himself." (She was referring to the attorney general.)

The fact that U.S. women pilots lost the chance to be first in space to Russian cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin, Terezhkova has evoked some bitter comments from the fairer sex.

Jerric Cobb, consultant for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration since 1961 and one of 13 American women pilots who have passed tests for space flight, says she warned both Congress and NASA more than a year ago that Russia was preparing to put a woman in orbit. Miss Cobb added acidly:

"I'm the most unconsulted consultant in any government agency."

From another woman pilot who also has passed her astronaut tests, Jane Hart, wife of Michigan's Sen. Philip A. Hart came:

"I'm tempted to go to the barn and tell the whole story to my horse and listen to him laugh."

At the recent Denver meeting of the Republican National Committee, Kentucky's Sen. Thurston Morton took note of a phenomenon:

The preacher who delivered the invocation also delivered somehow to him his message with strong political overtones. When introduced later, he drew heavy applause from assembled Republican leaders.

"This is the first political gathering I've ever attended where the preacher got more applause than the speakers."

Sen. Kenneth Keating, R-N.Y., is reminded of a little incident on a hot July day last summer when a group was waiting in line to enter the Senate gallery.

One old gentleman in line whispered to the person behind him:

"Take a look at the character in front of me with the poodle cut and the blue jeans. Is it a boy or a girl?"

"It's a girl," came the sharp answer. "I know. She happens to be my daughter."

"Oh, forgive me, sir," apologized the old fellow. "I never dreamed you were her father."

"I'm not," snipped the parent. "I'm her mother!"

U. S. Agriculture Department employees held a song-writing contest to pick a department theme song. Word got around to the Republicans and they decided to give USDA workers some song suggestions. They included:

Since Secretary Freeman proposed a year ago that farmers be sent to federal prison if they failed to keep records the way we handle you, you might hold a songfest called, "Sing Along With Orville or It's Sing Sing For You."

And for those who invested in Billie Sol Estes' fertilizer tanks, goes this song suggestion, "I've Got Plenty O' Nothin'."

The Associated Press is notified by the U.S. House of Representatives that the use of the word "Republican" in the title of this newspaper is not at all AP news.

Soviet Bloc Foreign Aid Falls Short of Goal in Free Algeria

By ANDREW BOROWIEC
ALGIERS (AP)—The Soviet bloc has suffered a series of setbacks in its efforts to establish a solid foothold in independent Algeria.

The Algerian government's ban on the Communist Party and its strong nonalignment course have jolted the Soviet Union and its satellites.

Their aid program appears to be withering away, replaced by a wait-and-see policy.

However, the bloc continues to try to influence the Algerian army. It has taken several hundred Algerian officers for training in the Soviet Union and Bulgaria.

And Red technicians are conducting mine removal operations along Algeria's frontiers. The mines were laid by the French to keep out Algerian rebel forces based in Tunisia and Morocco.

DISAPPOINTED POWERS
In general, the attitude of Algeria is a disappointment to the eastern powers which aided the seven-year nationalist revolt against French rule.

"The Russians thought they would be received with open arms," a western diplomat said. "They appear to have underestimated seriously the country's geographic position and economic dependence on France."

Another diplomat described the result of the Russians' military aid to the Algerian revolution as a fiasco.

"They got absolutely nothing out of it," he said.

The advent of independence last year was followed by a rush of Soviet bloc diplomats to Algiers — banned to them under French rule — and taken shipments of aid.

The Russians sent two shiploads of wheat and five army helicopters. They also shipped in sardines—to a country where fish is abundant.

PUZZLE OFFICIALS
The Chinese sent several shiploads of wire rolls, although Algeria inherited stocks of barbed wire from the departing French, and steel rods. These puzzled Algerian officials.

Poland and Czechoslovakia dispatched small quantities of food.

The most practical effort came in the form of medical personnel, particularly from Bulgaria and Yugoslavia. There are still some 300 Communist doctors and nurses in Algeria, although Bulgaria recently withdrew 25 doctors.

Trade missions from Poland, Czechoslovakia and Romania thus far have failed to produce solid agreements. A member of one of the satellite trade missions complained privately "it is impossible to do business with these people."

The Algerians decidedly prefer French products.

The effort of Yugoslavia stands out. Yugoslavia has given Algeria 500 tractors and technicians to maintain them in repair and contributed a number of doctors and other medical personnel.

Some Algerian officials openly express admiration for Yugoslavia's political, economic and diplomatic systems.

Red China is represented in Algeria by several score diplomats and experts whose task is obscure. At this stage, there is no known Chinese aid effort.

Premier Ahmed Ben Bella removed all known Communists from important government posts and electoral lists last September.

In November came the ban on the Algerian Communist party, officially explained as an "effort to maintain national unity."

Three People Carry Dagwood Sandwich

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—It took three people to carry the custom-made sandwich which publicized the Pacific Northwest Restaurant convention and exhibition here.

The eight-foot-long loaf of French bread was loaded with eight pounds of lunch meat—42 different kinds.

A local bakery produced several of the loaves, longest it had ever baked.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Whitelaw of Birmingham flew from Metropolitan Airport Friday on the first leg of their trip to some of Europe's top golf courses.

He is a member of the U.S. Amateur Seniors golf team which will play matches in Belgium and France through mid-August.

Competes in Europe

Golfer's Dream Realized

Golf can not make many dreams come true. But it did for C. H. Whitelaw of Birmingham who often wanted a chance to play some of Europe's top golf courses.

Whitelaw and his wife departed from New York's International Airport this morning as part of a U.S. Amateur Seniors team which will play a series of golf matches in Belgium and France.

The eight-man U.S. team of players age 55 and over will compete against players from nine other foreign countries.

Selection of the U.S. team was made from the leading results in the country's senior amateur held last February at Bek Air, Fla.

It was Whitelaw's third attempt in the American meet.

The tournament trail will start Monday when the American players compete in the King Leopold tournament at the spa in Brussels. Tuesday will be the alternate shot event at Royal Golf Club Belgique.

On Wednesday, Whitelaw and his U.S. teammates will play at the Royal Waterloo Golf Club in Brussels, after which they will head for Deauville to warm up for the International Amateur Seniors.

July 24, the individual matches will be played and from July 25-27 the team events are slated. They will be climaxed with the ambassadors' dinner at Deauville the night of the 27th.

Some of the U.S. players will continue to Scotland and England to play in other seniors' events.

Whitelaw, however, will stay in Europe until mid-August to play some of the renowned courses on the continent as part of a long-hoped-for vacation period.

Gifts Okay From Dead Chum's Dad

By The Emily Post Institute
Q: Since the death of a girl friend of mine, her father, a widower, has taken to sending me gifts. For my birthday he sent me a purse and at Easter he sent me a very pretty compact. Will you please tell me if it is proper to accept these gifts from him?

A: If you are certain that he is giving you these gifts in memory of his daughter and not because of any interest he may be developing in you personally, you may accept them.

Q: I am having a large reception and several of the guests have not let me know whether or not they are coming in spite of the r.s.v.p.

My husband thinks I should telephone them but I think the least people can do when they receive an invitation is to have the courtesy to reply and if they don't, it means they are not interested. What is your opinion?

A: If it is important to know exactly how many are coming, it will be necessary to telephone those who did not have the courtesy to reply, and ask whether or not they will be present since their failure to answer does not necessarily mean they are not coming.

How and when to introduce people seems to puzzle many. The new Emily Post Institute booklet entitled "Introductions" gives helpful information on this subject. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Emily Post Institute, in care of The Pontiac Press.

The Emily Post Institute cannot answer personal mail, but all questions of general interest are answered in this column.

Touching Presentation

Unique Fashions Made for Handicapped

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — After a week of viewing fashion from a purely frivolous and beautiful standpoint, newsmen today witnessed a sober and touching presentation of functional apparel for physically handicapped persons.

In contrast to models who vigorously strode the runways during the New York couture group's earlier press week shows, men stumbled out on braces and canes, women hobbled along on crutches, and many maneuvered wheel chairs. Reporters scribbled notes and wept.

The models represented the more than 30 million physically disabled persons in this country to whom dressing in ordinary garments is a frustrating and psychologically depressing problem.

Deftly and without embarrassment, they manipulated trouser openings and dress wraps, dressing themselves in minutes in deceptively practical and attractive costumes designed by a handful of interested couturiers.

Some of the garments are pilot models, the result of eight years of research by clothing designer Helen Cookman. The 78-year-old Philadelphia-born woman who halted her suit designing business to make uniforms during World War II and afterwards became interested in the part garments played in rehabilitating casualties.

She is now executive director of the nonprofit Clothing Research and Development Foundation. The foundation is searching out manufacturers in all price levels to mass produce the patented functional fashions.

OTHER GARMENTS

Other garments are those not specifically designed for handicapped people, but which the foundation tested and believed to suit the unique requirements of handicapped persons.

Certainly, the star of the show was the zipper. Long ones opened the entire leg of otherwise ordinary looking men's trousers.

They untold smart skimmer dresses, or dropped both sides of handsome tweed skirts. Full-length zippers also closed button paneled men's dress shirts.

For men, there were standard suit designs with drop seats and fronts, and for the paraplegic particularly, there were tailless suit coats like bus boy jackets, because coat tails get in the way of the wheel chair.

Trouser knees were reinforced to prevent damage from the sharp edges of braces.

Suits for women who use crutches were made with high set-in sleeves, reinforced at the armpits to withstand the wear. Costumes were slim but widened at the hem to allow greater use of the legs.

Skirts zipped down to the thighs on either side so that nonfunctioning bodies could be dressed from the feet up. Coats for wheelchair use were shortened in back to eliminate the need to straighten them under the seated figure.

A smart wheel chair costume by Ver Maxwell, for example, included a two-piece lined jacket with easy book closings. The blouse wrapped to either side.

The skirt also opened on both sides. With this was a scalloped lap robe with pockets for change and lipstick and a place to tuck cold feet in comfort.

A far cry from the heavy clodhoppers were the ballet slipper slippers, which the poised and pretty crippled girls attacked with their braces. They couldn't dance in them, but they could and did look beautiful.

Why Don't More Americans Display Flags on Holidays?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Could you please tell me why so few Americans have flags on special holidays? On our streets there was only one flag out on Memorial Day.

We are English born and America is our new home. We love it, but can't understand this about the American people. They praise America, sing the anthem, but when it comes to paying $2.40 for a flag, they hesitate.

It beats me. In England, a flag flies from every house, large and small. It was the same on my daughter's street here in America. One flag - theirs. It makes me so mad I could scream.

CANOGA PARK
DEAR CANOGA: The colorful tradition of showing the flag seems to be fading in America. And it's regrettable, for my taste. But REAL patriotism doesn't have to be demonstrated. Some of the most confused un-Americans are frantic flag-wavers. We have our Colonial Blimps, too.

DEAR ABBY: I was under the impression that my husband was working seven days a week, night and day, for five months.

One afternoon a young woman came to my apartment and told me that my husband was living with her practically all that time. She said she loved him and wanted me to give him up. When my husband came home and saw her there he almost jumped out of the window.

He told her in front of me that it was all over between them. She said she'd never let him go. He practically had to throw her out.

I never felt so sorry for a woman in all my life. My husband has tried to make it up to me in every way possible. He is begging me to forgive and forget. Should I let him share our bedroom again?

BROKEN-HEARTED

DEAR BROKEN-HEARTED: Yes.

DEAR ABBY: I am a very small eater and we eat out a lot. It is very embarrassing to me when a waitress notices that I haven't eaten much and asks, "Was there something wrong with the food?" I tell her there was nothing wrong with the food and she gives me an argument, and says, "Are you SURE there's nothing wrong with it? You hardly touched it."

Abby, I'm not a child, and I don't need to be coaxed into eating more than I want. How can I get waitresses to stop calling attention to the fact that I don't eat much.

SMALL EATER

DEAR SMALL: Don't blame the waitress for inquiring as to the quality of the food she serves you. She's only trying to be certain that you are satisfied. Next time

Laundry Aids for Delicates

NEW YORK (UPI)—Today, even laces and delicate tea napkins can be made machine-washed by enclosing "luxury" cloths and a piece of mats in a net bag or pillow slip.

But very fragile or heirloom pieces are best washed by hand in warm sudsy and rinsed after removing any stains, says the Cleanliness Bureau here.

Polly's Pointers

New Clothespin Idea

By POLLY CRAMER
DEAR POLLY — This idea was really my boy friend's but I am passing it on.

When you are trying to raise the hem on a net dress that will not hold pins, place clip clothespins over the folded fabric. Then put your hem in.

DEAR POLLY — Carry a packet of gummed name-address labels in purse or pocket. They save the annoyance of having to spell your name to sales clerks.

They are also handy to use on tiny blanks for store drawings and contest entries. At home, they neatly label books and records. All this besides their main purpose of use on stationery.

DEAR POLLY — "Where is my ruler?" is a familiar cry in every household where there are school children. There is no need to play Sherlock Holmes in order to find this lost item because it is easy to keep it at your child's finger tips.

Drill holes in a ruler to match the rings in the loose leaf notebook so that the ruler can be stored here when not in use. Here it can also serve as a convenient marker for immediately opening the notebook to a desired subject or reference material.

DEAR POLLY — While my husband is at work, I often think of little things I want to be sure to tell him — amusing things the children have said or done, ideas that have occurred to me, bits of news, jobs that should be done, etc.

I keep a pencil and paper handy to jot down these many items as I think of them through the day.

I find that our conversation at the dinner table is more interesting and constructive when I take a few minutes during the day to do this.

Share your favorite homemaking ideas . . . send them to Polly in care of The Pontiac Press. You'll receive a bright, new silver dollar if Polly uses your ideas in Polly's Pointers.

Some Raincoats Are Washable

Many raincoats have special water repellent finishes which can be washed safely in the automatic washer. Finishes such as "Scotchgard," "Zelan" and "Cravanette" are not harmed by regular washing. Moreover, most washable rainwear is a blend of polyester and cotton, or all cotton, and can be laundered beautifully. Keeping these garments clean actually will help maintain their water repellent qualities.

Kansas Couple Weds

MRS. RONALD J. CORRELL

Rev. Robert Friabee officiated at the marriage of Thea Mae Gideon to Ronald J. Correll, both of Hutchinson, Kan. today in the United Presbyterian Church in that city.

The Theron H. Gideons, Forsyth, Mo., and the Frank H. Corrells, Salina Drive, are parents of the newlyweds who have planned their honeymoon to include a week in Pontiac.

For the candlelight service and church reception, the bride chose ballerina-length white silk organza and Chantilly lace over tulle. A pearly tulle-topped headpiece and white Cymbidium orchids centered her bouquet of cascading white roses.

Matron of honor Mrs. Leon Gideon of Forsyth and bridesmaid Mrs. Erland Wallace of Hutchinson were lavender taffeta brocade with matching headpieces and shoes. They carried white carnations.

Erland Wallace was best man and Richard Partridge, groomsmen. Seating guests were Patrick Hall, James and Bud Partridge, all of Hutchinson.

The couple will make its home in Hutchinson.

Churches Announce Annual Affair

Festival at State Fair Grounds

The Eastern Orthodox parishes of Greater Detroit with some 150,000 Michigan communicants are joining to celebrate their sixth Annual Eastern Orthodox Festival on Sunday at the Michigan State Fair Grounds, Detroit.

Taking part in the gala affair will be members of St. George Greek Orthodox Church.

Eight nationality groups participating will include Albanian, Bulgarian, Macedonian, Car-patho-Russian, Greek, Romanian, Russian, Serbian and Syrian-Labaneze. National foods and customs will be exchanged.

Members of each Orthodox Church will observe Divine Liturgy in their own church for morning worship. At noon a combined service of thanksgiving will be celebrated at the State Fair Grounds with massed choirs singing responses.

During the afternoon the grounds will be turned into an international festival of food, entertainment, music and dancing. Exotic foods of all kinds will be featured by each nationality.

Singing groups and roving musicians will add a continental touch. There will be pony rides, carnival rides and games for the children.

The highlight of the afternoon festivities will be the Spectacular Show featuring dance groups and acts from each of the eight nationalities in their colorful native costumes.

Rev. Thomas Ruffin, president of the Council of Eastern Orthodox Churches of Greater Detroit, said the public is invited. There will be a small entrance fee for adults but children under 10 will be admitted free.

'Steps That Save' Theme of Sermon

"Steps That Save" is the title of Rev. Ronald Thompson's 10:30 a. m. sermon before the congregation of Trinity Methodist Church, Waterford, tomorrow.

Following the service at Schoolcraft Church a coffee hour will be held. Hostesses for the morning are Mrs. Dan Hoeler, Mrs. Kuga Kojima and Mrs. John Poggiano.

Thursday evening the Woman's Society will present a Summer Supper on the lawn of the parsonage, 6440 Macedonia Drive. Mrs. Thomas Patton is general chairman.

Next weekend the senior youth fellowship will take a 28-mile canoe trip on the Riffe River, north of Standish. Accompanying the youth will be Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ball, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Courtier and the Rev. and Mrs. Ronald Thompson.

At Emmanuel Baptist

To Show Civil War Film

"Red Runs the River," a production of "Universal Film," will be shown at 7 p. m. Sunday at Emmanuel Baptist Church, 665 S. Telegraph Road. The Civil War drama, filmed in color, tells the true story of incidents in the life of Richard Stoddard Ewell, hero of the Confederacy.

Dr. Bob Jones Jr., president of Bob Jones University, plays the role of the hard-fighting Southern general whose life is changed completely through his contact with "Stonewall" Jackson, played by Jack Buttram.

Bob Jones III, is the daring cavalry officer.

Although the principal characters are Confederates, the film is for the women's retreat scheduled for Aug. 24 at the St. Lawrence Retreat House.

Inmate Has to Give Up His Practical Education
YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—John Paul Jones, serving 10 months in jail for assault and battery, has been forced to give up a correspondence course he wanted to apply for.

Chief Deputy Stan Kreller was curious about a letter Jones received Friday. Kreller opened the envelope and found application forms from Locksmith Institute, Little Falls, N.J. Included was a special offer for a "professional locksmithing kit."

Woman Into Space

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Jerrie Cobb, likely to be one of America's first space women, tells the story of her life in this book. In earlier installments, she told of breaking into the male world of flying and of meeting Jack Ford, who hired her to help him ferry planes.)

Installment VI
By JERRIE COBB
With Jane Ricker

There was one light on the South American run that stands out in my memory above all others.

Two planes were flying in formation through a needle-thin pass in the Andes when clouds and fog came from nowhere. In a matter of seconds the ground was completely closed in, the mountains hidden.

The pilot of the second plane dropped her hands and bowed her head, literally handing the control of the aircraft over to God.

A glint of light pierced her lowered eyelids. Then, as they lifted, she saw blue sky and the sun overhead; the clouds were receding below. She hadn't touched the controls since entering the "soup." The compass showed that the airplane was flying back over the way it had come.

VOICE CALLING
She became aware of a voice calling her name.

"Jerrie, can you hear me?" The radio, of course!

"Yes, Jack, I'm fine."

"Thank God, I was afraid you didn't know that trick."

"What trick?"

"The one where you make a 180-degree turn when you're heading into the mountains and get closed in."

"She closed her eyes for a moment, then said, slowly, reverently, 'No, Jack, I didn't know the trick.'"

WAITING
At our stop, Jack was waiting for me in the field. Usually when I followed him in, I'd find him checking his airplane or chatting with the man in the office or the hangar. Not tonight. He helped me down.

"Any more trouble?"

"No, not a bit. She's got all her screws on tight."

"He smiled. 'Well, that's a relief. C'mon, I'll buy you a tamale.' I spent a restless night. Next morning when I joined Jack he looked a bit puff-y-eyed himself. We did a check of our planes and

Jerrie Falls in Love

The static on the radio was fierce.

"I can't hear you."

"Oh, for the love of Pete," snarled the baritone voice, "I'm trying to . . ."

"Jack, you're not getting through to me."

"I LOVE YOU"

"I said I love you."

Then there was nothing but silence and the drone of the engine.

"Jerrie?" The voice was lower now, soft and uncertain.

My reply was as soft. "You can get through that time."

The moment we landed, I slid from the cockpit and ran to him across the field. He held out his arms, and when he kissed me there was a streak of grease on my face.

My eyes and nose and lips, respected and admired by all who knew him as a great pilot, had suddenly turned into a man.

Actually, I don't think any red-blooded woman, 18 or 60, could have regarded Jack with-out interest. He was a charmer, a happy handsome extrovert.

Alternately the little boy and the dominating male, he had been a star college football player, a movie stunt man, bit player, and war pilot.

BRIEF BUT PERFECT
On the Atlantic run, our times together were brief but perfect. I would be on stopover in London and would get a call from San Francisco.

"Hi, honey," a deep voice would come over the aural cable. A rainy night in a London hotel would suddenly take on a golden shimmer.

"Just got in from Japan. Look, I have to pick up an airplane in Burbank and come on over."

"Parking, I'm leaving in the morning, back to New York."

"I know — I'm meeting you there tomorrow night. Got something for you." Jack always brought a surprise — a native trinket or perhaps a coin for my collection.

Once in Prestwick, we played golf in midwinter. We looked at the sight of ourselves on the "greens" wearing light gear including boots, long under-ware, wool socks, fur-lined jackets and gloves.

On time in London we planned a birthday party for Jack. We flew to London and I bought little jokes and gadgets and gimmicks. We dumped the beer and ice into the bathtub of our largest room and Jack was like a delighted little boy when we bothered "surprise!"

GOODBYE TO ALL THAT
My ferrying days came to an end. I was through it. I didn't know it then. I was needed as a test pilot in Burbank where I would see Jack more frequently.

There seemed to be more bugs and clunkers in these planes than in any I had ever flown. By the end of the day I was far more tired than I would have been after a 20-hour flight across the Atlantic.

The formula is to take the airplane up and bring it to the limit of its performance. If nothing fails, falls off, or holds, there is a reasonable assumption that the craft is fit for service.

Jack would ask, "How are you bearing up with the sedentary life?"

"Sedentary? Haven't you noticed that I spend all day, every day, flying airplanes inside out and backwards?"

was off with hardly a word exchanged.

Union Battles Court Orders

SUPERIOR, Wis. (UPI)—The Seafarers' International Union (SIU) today battled several injunctions against picketing—including one issued yesterday in its dispute with a Canadian shipping firm.

A temporary restraining order was issued by Circuit Judge Alan Kinney yesterday until July 22 which prevents the SIU from picketing Upper Lakes Shipping of Canada.

Judge Kinney said the order would be continued until he decides whether his court has jurisdiction in the matter.

Oppose Spain Ships Voyaging to Cuba

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States has told Spain it does not approve of a proposed resumption of Spanish ocean liner traffic to Cuba.

U. S. officials said Assistant Secretary of State Edwin M. Martin told enquiring Spanish Ambassador Antonio Garrigues yesterday the United States was determined to isolate the Castro regime as much as possible.

Spain wants to resume sailings of transatlantica Espanola passenger ships to Cuba. They were suspended during the October Cuban missile crisis.

Mackie Says Freeway Plan Was Accurate

LANSING (UPI)—State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie said yesterday a department release concerning the proposed Grand River freeway which stirred protest in Detroit was both accurate and authorized.

"I don't know why anyone should be shocked or embarrassed by the release setting forth our plans and target date for the Grand River freeway," Mackie said.

"No one is arguing with the Common Council's right to approve or disapprove freeways within the city of Detroit."

Mackie said the 1967 date was first announced in January 1961 in a listing of projects in the second Highway Department five-year plan.

"Press statements are not issued by the Highway Department over my name without authorization," he said.

"If the members of the Common Council don't want the freeway, they will have ample opportunity to stop it."

Customer Is Always Right

RALEIGH, N. C. (U-P)—A lot of honest people are turning up at a local department store to report that they owe the firm money.

A burglar who stole a large amount of cash from the store's safe also carried off records of charge accounts for the date.

Long-Lasting Bouquet

Color Photos Will Show Off Your Flowers

A collection of color photographs or slides of your best flowers will give you a long-lasting bouquet that you can show the year around or use in your garden planning when the snow is deep under the ground.

The picture-taking process can be particularly rewarding and, if you follow a few tested procedures, it's not difficult at all to get good results.

The first and most important step in the preparation of the flowers themselves. Just as we don one of our best outfits before stepping in front of a camera, so too, we should see to it that our flowers are at their Sunday best before we start clicking.

Dead leaves should be removed along with dead flowers, needs, fading petals, and anything else that's not part of the picture.

In trimming out dead blossoms, particularly on roses or other flowers where there is a relatively large stem, cut away from the camera position.

If the cut stem of a rose shows or rain spots away and it is the best possible way to put dew on your roses.

HIGHLIGHT PHOTO

For a detailed clean-up of your flowers, the best magician's wand to use is a soft camel's hair brush.

If you want your flower to open up a little bit more, brush the petals open gently with the brush.

Your camel's hair brush can also be used to brush any dust or rain spots away and it is the best possible way to put dew on your roses.

Just dip the brush in water and shake it over the blossom. You get finer, more dew-like drops than you do by sprinkling water on by hand.

If there is any spray residue or dust on the leaves, wash it off.

The sky, lawn and the bare earth provide natural backdrops for your photographs, or you may want to pick up some inexpensive poster boards at a stationery store.

With a variety of colored boards you will be able to select one that compliments the color of your flower and gives the final picture a professional touch as well.

Auto Thefts Night Activity

CHICAGO (UPI) — Most of this city's auto thefts occur between 8 p.m. and 4 a.m., reports the Chicago Police Department.

More than 60 per cent of arrests for auto theft in past years were persons under 30.

The department said 75 per cent of auto thieves are joyriders who steal because the opportunity exists.

But it adds that motorists make it easy for the thieves. More than 50 per cent of stolen cars have keys left in the ignition or the doors unlocked at the time of theft.

Cuba to Have Fund for Mission to U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States will not interfere with the financial operations of the Cuban mission to the United Nations, a U.S. spokesman says.

He was replying Friday to a Cuban complaint that the U.S. decision to freeze Cuban assets in this country would choke off funds needed to operate Cuba's U.N. mission.

The spokesman said details are being worked out in Washington to avoid involving the Cuban U.N. mission in the freeze.

Proclamation Honors

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney has issued a proclamation honoring a murdered official of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Romney issued the proclamation in connection with a memorial service in Flint for Medgar Evers, a Mississippi field representative for the NAACP who was shot in the back outside his home last month.

Fugitive OKs Extradition

MIDLAND (AP) — George R. Phillips, 30, arrested here on a fugitive warrant Wednesday, yesterday waived extradition to Alabama.

Phillips escaped from Kilby Prison at Montgomery, Ala., May 7, where he was serving a 30-year term for assault with intent to rob.

He was arrested at a Western Union office shortly after Midland police had been notified he would try to pick up a money order.

Phillips pleaded guilty to the fugitive charge and waived examination at his Municipal Court arraignment.

Mac Was Determined to Survive 'Tar' Threat

LONDON (AP) — "I was determined that no British government should be brought down by the action of two taris," Prime Minister Harold Macmillan told the Daily Express in an interview Friday.

He appeared to be trying to shake off the aftermath of the scandal involving party girl Christine Keeler and his former war minister, John Profumo. The other girl referred to would be Christine's friend, Mandy Rice-Davies, who also figured in the scandal.

Antiques Give Home Unique Charm

PHOTOS AND STORY BY REBA HEINTZELMAN
Pontiac Press Home Editor

When you've got a charming house filled with six happy children, a lot of hard work and a "heap-o' good living," you've really got a HOME.

That sort of sums up the way of life for the Edward J. Vallier family who live in a subdivision near Sylvan shopping center.

Although Mrs. Vallier inherited many lovely antiques from her grandmother, the artistic couple has collected and restored many more, thus producing an Early American atmosphere that is truly unique.

The soft green carpeting shows a little wear—and it well should, with the Valliers' own children plus friends bouncing in and out of the house constantly. There's William, 15, Dennis, 16, Mary Francis, 15, Peggy, 14, Robert, 12, and Rosemary, 11.

When Vallier found an old student lamp in an antique shop, it was coated with kerosene oil and was rusting and in a deplorable state. However, the two green lamp shades were in perfect condition, so he went to work.

PLACE OF HONOR

Now the big lamp, that other lamp makers try to imitate, stands with a shiny brass finish in a place of honor in the living room.

Chairs, tables and hutchches have had a thorough going over by members of the family. The whole setting is one of restful charm.

Soft French cathedral wallpaper covers the music alcove, and the pine "grandmother's" clock, that Vallier made in his spare time, slowly ticks away the hours. Its soft chimes can be heard throughout the house every 15 minutes.

From what the Valliers described as a "kinky" old bedroom set has emerged a beautifully refinished antique-white room full of furniture for the girls.

The glassed-in back porch is the happiest place of all. A determined grapevine that refused to die was finally let through the wall and is growing merrily—spreading its vines all over the ceiling of the room. Yet low laminated plastic serves as a covering for the room and vine.

The big Ponderosa pine four-poster bed in the master bedroom is complimented by an old walnut dresser with porcelain knobs.

FILLED WITH CHARM — This little subdivision house looks just like many others on Walce street near Sylvan Lake Village, but all of the warmth and charm of Early American has been captured inside. Rugged furniture is mixed with down-filled sofas and chairs — just perfect for teen-age growing-up and entertaining.

COOL AND COMFORTABLE — There's not too much of anything in the big, uncluttered L-shaped living room. To the right, an antique dry sink holds a century-old student lamp. The oil painting above seems to come alive by the pots of bright, flowering geraniums in the copper compartment of the sink. The primitive hutch at the end of the dining area backs up against tiny red and white print wallpaper. Chairs, table and hutch all blend together.

VINE GROWS INSIDE — This was once the Valliers' patio, and when a persistent grape vine refused to die during construction, the family decided to keep it. So the wandering vine was brought through the wall and trained to grow up under the plastic roof. Each fall, luscious purple grapes hang in bunches, making interesting conversation items.

INVITES RELAXATION — From the time you set foot in the front door, there is a feeling of comfort, uncluttered living and relaxation. That brown, red and white print sofa has cushions that are bulging with soft down. The old Venetian carriage lamps cast a soft glow over the scene of an early village post office.

MUSIC ALCOVE — All of the Valliers' six children seem to have a flair for music, so naturally there must be a music room. A bedroom was sacrificed when they tore out a wall at the end of the living room to make way for the big grand piano. Vallier hand made the pine "Grandmother's" clock in the corner. The two pans hanging on the alcove wall, were formerly old tin milk pans and are painted in beautiful oil colors.

HALLWAY'S AMERICAN — Those golden eagles in the Valliers' charming hall look like they're ready to fly right off the wall. Natural wood stained leaved doors form the entrance to this urchin. The dry sink at the end crochets like a little old-fashioned model used by salarimen long ago.

A building board made by to sheet asbestos is practically About 35 per cent of new constructed in so-called modern laminating natural wood veneer fireproof. churches in the United States are architectural style.

Children Need 3-in-1 Room

As youngsters grow older, their hobbies and interests change. And so do their needs for living space.

Homemakers can keep pace with these changes by converting their children's bedrooms into 3-in-1 activity centers that serve as bedroom, party room and general fun room.

Besides meeting the needs of the child, the 3-in-1 activity center is designed to provide a substitute for living rooms and family rooms, thus keeping the rest of the house more quiet and less cluttered.

Because the floor design determines the overall decorating scheme, it's wise to start there. Resilient coverings that resist scuffs and stains such as vinyl asbestos tiles are ideal for the rough wear youngsters will give the floor.

They can be obtained in gay colors and combinations and can be kept bright and clean with a minimum of care.

A charming floor for a girl's room can easily be created with dainty madrasa pink or egg white in a marbled style of Kenzie vinyl asbestos that will hide any signs of dirt.

For a boy's room, colonial blue or shannon green are ideal marbled colors. And hop-scotch or checkerboard patterns as well as complete shuffleboard game insets can be built into the floor to provide many fun-filled hours for the youngsters in this all-round room.

Correct lighting can make modern living more enjoyable. A bright, well directed beam of light can enhance the pleasures of reading room or a sewing nook, but it can spoil the subtlety of a secluded corner.

Pool Has Use as Fire Fighter

All-Important Stopgap Where Water Limited

Suburban and rural homeowners are learning that the purchase of a private swimming pool can pay big dividends not only in pleasure but in protection against fire.

Where the water supply is limited, or where there is no organized fire department, a swimming pool is an all-important stopgap.

The value of a pool as a resource for successfully combating fires was seen in California little more than a year ago.

While fires raged in the Bel Air vicinity of Los Angeles, domestic water supply reserves were drained completely in a few hours. In at least a dozen cases, homes with private swimming pools were saved, while those without them were seriously damaged or leveled by fire.

The person who lives beyond the city water mains, especially where there is no official fire-fighting force, is wise to consider the installation of a pool.

Rural and suburban dwellers will find that the local water systems dealer can provide them with a water supply and purification system for the pool and an important plus—a special pumping system.

The special pump can be used to draw water from the pool to fight fires when other help is not available.

Any experienced water systems dealer will be able to provide exactly the right pump and system for the specific needs of rural and suburban homeowners.

Consider Wood Panels Stimulating to Learning

Wood paneling frequently appears as the interior finish for walls of school classrooms.

Many educators regard the material as stimulating to learning. In addition, there is the factor of low maintenance. Hard surfaced woods have high resistance to blemish or marring.

A back-yard picnic can be more fun and twice as easy as fighting traffic to find a silvian glade. So, make this sturdy table with attached benches now. Pattern 202, which lists materials, shows steps and even gives guides for cutting supports, is 35 cents. This pattern also is in the Lawn and Garden Packet No. 38 which contains trellis and flower box patterns as popular furniture patterns—all for $1. The Pontiac Press Pattern Dept. Bedford Hills, New York.

Pocked Floors Can Be Saved

A simple way to remove floor pock marks caused by women's spike heels, which have resulted in an estimated one-half billion dollars damage to the floors of offices and other public buildings, has been reported by a manufacturer in the building maintenance field.

With the new technique many types of commonly used resilient flooring materials can be smoothed down to remove dents with an ordinary commercial floor machine and abrasive discs. The process is comparable to sanding a wood floor.

The greatest potential use for the method is in offices, retail establishments, and other public buildings where women work, walk or play in high heels in great numbers.

Do-it-yourself efforts by homeowners are discouraged because of the need for commercial equipment.

ELEPHANTS WELCOME

Fashion dictates have caused the women to troop about in a manner pleasing to the eye, but to the floors herds of elephants would have been more welcome. An elephant foot exerts 50 to 100 pounds of pressure per square inch. Women in spike heels exert from a quarter-ton to a full ton per square inch for each heel. And if the spike is exposed at the bottom of the heel, the load pressure can go up to more than 25 tons.

Greece had a 175 per cent increase in number of motor vehicles from 1954 to 1961.

Peppers Are Cool Looking

What's the coolest-looking plant you can grow in your garden? Sweet green peppers. Yes, peppers! Hot they may sound, but cool they are — to look at and to eat. Crisp and sweetly mild, they're perfect for slicing, salads or stuffing.

Growing, they're a delight to have. The sturdy, decorative plants with their shiny, dark green foliage create an exciting note of contrast in your flower beds and borders.

(Bonus idea: If space is at a premium, your home-grown pepper plants will be both decorative and handy when grown among clumps of evergreen shrubbery.)

Green peppers are perfect, of course, for summertime salads. But there are so many other uses for them! Sliced and served with alternating slices of fresh tomatoes sprinkled with bleu cheese, they make a wonderfully colorful and tasty side dish.

Serving corn off the cob? Add in chopped peppers for delightful added piquancy.

Does your cookbook contain a recipe for sweet and sour pork?

Peppers are a "must" — and your family and friends will rave over this fabulous Oriental dish. And don't forget stuffed peppers — delicious as a main dish and so easy on your budget.

THE MEDITERRANEAN FEELING — This dining set with its sunny colors and accessories is the decor preferred by the majority of retired Americans. With the warm brown buttered of table, chairs, and china cabinet, there is a three-drawer chest in a terra cotta painted finish. Chair seats repeat the terra cotta with an orange and beige stripe. Orange and antique gold Spanish spread used as a rug and wicker basket light fixtures complete the theme.

Blocks Ease Upkeep of Ceiling

Cracks and "cricks" of ceiling surface resists soiling; can be damp-wiped clean. The 16 - inch square ceiling blocks, available at lumber yards in white and parchment colors as well as lace and nugget patterns, can be used appropriately in any room of the house. They can be arranged in different ways to form interesting patterns with joint lines.

The cracks are those that appear in the ceiling surface to mar the appearance and the "cricks" are those pains that settle in the home owner's neck when he has to spend long hours at redecorating or cleaning the ceiling.

A combined remedy and preventive for such difficulties is to cover the ceiling with a plastic-surfaced hardboard ceiling block. Cracks in the ceiling do not need to be filled; the blocks, applied with adhesive, can be put on over disfigured surfaces without tedious preparation.

Insurance against future ceiling cracks is afforded by the unusual strength of the blocks, which have a base of tempered hardboard, a material tough enough for workbench tops.

And how about the "cricks" in the neck? A baked plastic finish which guards the beauty of the paneling means an end to the customary need for periodic redecorating and the neck-bending work it entails. The hard, smooth

By OSWALD JACOBY

My old friend the unlucky expert really is unlucky. Other players make their own bad luck. He sits South today.

South wasted no time in losing his slam. He won the club opening, cashed the ace of trumps and a king of spades, led a second trump to dummy.

JACOBY's losing club on the queen of spades and played the ace and another diamond.

West won the trick and was unkind enough to lead a third round of trumps, whereupon South was able to ruff only one of his two remaining diamonds.

Had South stopped to think before he led the ace of trumps he would have noted that danger and considered the possibility of playing his ace and king of spades.

before leading even the ace of trumps.

Then he could have led a trump to dummy, taken his club discard and gone after diamonds. West would have gotten the lead, but would not have been able to lead a third trump because only one trump would have been played.

Of course, this play would lose if someone had ruffed the third spade but it was a far better play. The odds are 3 to 2 against a 2-2 break and better than 3 to 2 in favor of a 4-3 break. Hence South had taken a play with only a 40 per cent chance of success instead of one that had better than 60 per cent in its favor.

Driver Faces Exam for 2 Teens' Deaths

MUSKOGEE (AP)—John F. Schmiedeknecht, 41, of rural Montague, faces examination July 24 on charges of manslaughter and negligent homicide in the traffic deaths of two teen-aged Montague girls.

Muskogee County sheriff's deputies said Schmiedeknecht's car crossed the center line of a road and struck Lauren Mae Scott, 13, and Marjorie Gay Hermann, 15, from behind as they rode bicycles near their homes Thursday night.

Officers said the car was running without lights.

Municipal Court Judge Matthew C. Locke released Schmiedeknecht on $2,000 bond at his arraignment yesterday.

Army Claims Success in Missile Interception

WASHINGTON (AP)—The army said yesterday its Nike-Zeus anti-missile missile successfully intercepted a target warhead from an Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile fired 5,000 miles over the Pacific from California.

It was the seventh such intercept claimed by the Army since its antimissile testing series began last year.

N-Power Firm Gets AEC Okay to Start Reactor

LAGUNA BEACH (AP)—Power Reactor Development Co. (PRDC), now with an Atomic Energy Commission go-ahead for fueling its nuclear reactor, estimated yesterday it will be about one month before the reactor starts operating.

Company officials said 100 fuel elements must be installed for the Enrico Fermi reactor to reach criticality—the point at which it contains enough fuel to operate.

The AEC gave authorization Thursday for PRDC to load fuel and operate the reactor at up to one megawatt output, according to specifications approved in its operating license.

The firm still does not have permission to increase the heat to power-making levels or transfer heat from the reactor to the conventional steam turbines.

Permission to step up the $96 million reactor to full power of 60,000 kilowatts is expected later.

Purchases in supermarkets include about 20 per cent nonfood items.

Reflections

NIGHT SHADOWS:
Children claim more Night Shadows than Disney has cartoons. My grandfather showed me how to project a wall, lamb, horse, and elephant.

Shadows are without substance and yet unfortunately there are intelligent human beings who consider them as signs, dangers and omens.

The terrible part of this shadow is people believe it, become disturbed, unbalanced. A woman projects an array of illness, receives sympathy, feeling, protection, and money, receive more sympathy, her behavior of awe is shadows. A man was named an official of his company. His ego was inflated to fantastic proportions; his projected shadow covered every wall of his existence, they are shadows of superimportance—until the light source is extinguished. He'll think he's normal and proud, or an imagination creates all the wonders of science and it also creates more subtle frightening monsters.

We create Night Shadows, interpret them as good clean fun, something to laugh at as a starting point for amusing projects.

3 Die as Fire Hits Tenement

Mother, Two Children Perish in Apartment

REVERE, Mass. (UPI) — A mother and her two children were killed early today in a fire that swept their tenement house here.

Authorities said Mrs. Mildred Kepnes, 46, her son Stephen, 11, and her daughter Naomi, 7, were found dead in their second-floor apartment. Their German shepherd dog was killed.

Three other families escaped from the flaming building in their neighborhoods.

The fire, which started in a nearby vacant tenement, spread rapidly to three adjoining buildings, all occupied. Only one of the structures, that occupied by the Kepnes family, was destroyed. One fireman was reported injured.

Authorities said passersby discovered the flames about 12:30 a.m. (Pontiac time) and entered the building to arouse the occupants.

They awoke third-floor residents Mrs. and Mrs. James McCabes, who fled with their three children, and told police they also knocked at the door of the Kepnes apartment.

The unidentified passersby said authorities a woman's voice and two children's voices were heard. They said they also heard a dog barking in the apartment.

Fire Chief Alfred Long said the flames apparently suffocated. Before firemen could reach the apartment, however, the bodies also had been burned.

Detroiters Want 'Bill of Rights' in Suburb Area

DETROIT (UPI) — A Detroit homeowners group opposing a proposed open occupancy ordinance wants suburban officials to adopt a "bill of rights" for property holders.

Millard Lutz, secretary-treasurer of the Greater Detroit Home Owners Association, said he and association chairman Thomas L. Pointer would make their plea today.

They planned to attend a meeting of the Vigilance Tax Committee in the Warren City Hall this morning.

The committee is composed of suburban officials and was organized to fight the Detroit income tax which imposed a one percent levy on anyone who worked in Detroit even if he lived in a suburb.

Lutz said he would give the suburban mayors a copy of the "bill of rights" which 44,000 Detroiters signed. It was submitted to the Detroit Common Council yesterday.

Hayloft Collapses, Injuring 2 Workers

Two youths working for the summer at a Springfield Township hayloft collapsed yesterday afternoon when an overloaded hayloft collapsed, causing the entire barn to fall.

Richard Trassell, 16, of 4277 Myers, Waterford Township, and Danny Gray, 14, of 8255 Eaton, Springfield Township, were loading hay in the barn. Both were treated at the Clarkson Village Clinic and released.

Both the Springfield and Independence Township fire departments answered the 2:30 p.m. emergency call at the Holiday Farm on Big Lake road.

City Fireman Suffers Burns

A Pontiac fire fighter suffered second-degree burns on his arms last night during a garage and house fire at 26 Esther.

Treated and released from Pontiac General Hospital was James E. Lainger, 29, of 411 E. Montclair.

Cause of the 7:30 p.m. fire, which started in a four-car garage and spread to the home of Grace Munson, has not been determined. No vehicles were in the garage.

Total damage to the garage and house is estimated at $1,300. An adjacent home at 22 Esther was damaged slightly from the blaze.

Crown King, Queen of Weight Losers

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — A woman who lost 143½ pounds in a year and a man who shed 77½ pounds have been crowned queen and king of the fat people at the annual TOPS national convention.

Alta M. Baker of Los Angeles and Glenard Garner of La Puente, Calif., were crowned last night before more than 3,000 TOPS (take off pounds) club members at the Long Beach Arena.

Mrs. Baker's doctors had warned her "either to diet or die." She dropped from 267 pounds to 123½ within a year. Where she now weighs a size 48 dress, she now slips in and out of a 14 and sometimes even a 12.

Garner, whose mother, Frances, was a runner to the queen last year, now weighs 201½ pounds.

Motorist Gets Pat on Back for 'Violation'

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — Elwyn V. Starratt, accused of "willfully" defying a peace officer in the performance of his duties, got a pat on the back instead of a ticket in court yesterday from Dist. Atty. Louis Bergna.

Policeman Louis Marillo, aided by radar, stopped Starratt for speeding Wednesday night. Starratt quickly made up a "cardboard sign with the words 'read ahead'" and held it up for approaching motorists.

Marillo was passing him so slowly, investigated and found Starratt with the sign. He promptly arrested Starratt on the "willfully" defying charge.

Bergna refused to let the charges with the comment, "I'm couldn't see where it was a violation of the law. In fact, it might be the sign fulfilled your purpose by helping to slow down traffic."

Greek Premier Describes Visit

Belittles British Jeers Against Royal Couple

ATHENS (UPI)—Premier Panagiotis Kinnias called in his government leaders today to brief them on the controversial state visit of King Paul and Queen Frederika to Britain.

During the four-day visit concluded yesterday, thousands of Britons demonstrated in the streets of London to demand the release of Communist and other prisoners jailed in Greece during the civil war.

There was street-fighting and Queen Frederika, who once belonged to a Hitler youth group in her native Germany, was subjected to jeers and cries of "Fascist Swine."

Queen Elizabeth was booed for the first time since she ascended the British throne.

But Pinielis, who accompanied the royal couple, likened the "isolated incidents" to "a drop of water in the ocean."

"REVOLVED MASSES" "From the political point of view, if anything, the demonstrations have revolted those masses of people who have such manifestations," he said.

Pinielis took office after former Premier Constantine Carmanis resigned because King Paul disregarded his advice to call off the visit to Britain. Carmanis feared violence might worsen Anglo-Greek relations.

King Paul, on his return to Athens, said the "complete success of our state visit to Great Britain has marked the beginning of a new period of good union in warm Anglo-Hellenic relations for the benefit of two friendly and allied countries."

He said he and Frederika had been extended "the most brilliant and hospitable reception by the queen of Great Britain and her people." Paul said he and his queen were "deeply moved."

The Greek government contends that the approximately 1,000 inmates of Greek jails referred to as "political prisoners" by the demonstrators in reality are convicted felons, many of whom have committed murder.

Faulty Generator Factor in Crash of Jet Killing 7

WILLOW GROVE, Pa. (AP)—A faulty generator was a factor in the jet fighter crash last Sunday that killed seven persons enjoying a family picnic, a Navy officer says.

Capt. A. C. Waldman Jr., commander of the Willow Grove Naval Air Station, made the statement at a meeting Thursday night of the Liaison Committee of Hiram Township, a citizens' group formed to maintain contact with the naval base, which is in the township.

Waldman said the generator failure was one reason the pilot was unable to control the plane and ejected himself. He said an intelligence services' military board of investigation would detail the entire cause of the crash when it has completed its task.

WILLOW GROVE, Pa. (AP)—A faulty generator was a factor in the jet fighter crash last Sunday that killed seven persons enjoying a family picnic, a Navy officer says.

Capt. A. C. Waldman Jr., commander of the Willow Grove Naval Air Station, made the statement at a meeting Thursday night of the Liaison Committee of Hiram Township, a citizens' group formed to maintain contact with the naval base, which is in the township.

Waldman said the generator failure was one reason the pilot was unable to control the plane and ejected himself. He said an intelligence services' military board of investigation would detail the entire cause of the crash when it has completed its task.

China Reds Withdraw From Posts in Ladakh

NEW DELHI (AP)—The Chinese Communists have withdrawn from the military post in North Ladakh, about which India made a strong protest last month, an Indian foreign office spokesman announced Friday.

The spokesman said the spot was four miles inside the so-called line of actual control of 1959 which marked the high tide point of the Chinese advance in last fall's fighting in that section of the disputed Himalayan border.

PRAYS FOR RAIN — Commerce Township farmer Alfred Vaedic depends entirely on what he raises in his little truck garden to keep himself and his wife through the winter. His little road-side stand, usually bristling with activity this time of year, is quiet. His drought-smitten fields, usually a cornucopia of vegetables at this time of year, are relatively barren.

Disagree on Damage

Drought Hurts Farmer

No one is more seriously affected by the month-long dry spell than the Oakland County farmer.

Although the farmer welcomes dry weather around harvest time, his crops need rain to grow, and crops are his livelihood.

As the drought goes into its 33rd day, farmers are by no means in agreement on the damage it has caused.

Some it has hit hard; others not quite so hard.

Carlos Long, a Milford farmer, called the crops the worst he's seen in 25 years for the time of year.

The corn and oats are terrible, he declared.

He said he got in one good harvest of hay, but doubted that he could get in a second.

With his pastures drying up and little hay to fall back on, this spells trouble, he said. Long termed the problem "really serious."

Holly farmer Bob Barger agreed with Long that the dry weather had "dried up the crops to a considerable degree."

However, he felt that none of them were beyond hope.

"It would be amazing the progress you'd see if a little rain were to come along," he said.

Barger warned that the danger point is close at hand, though.

"With corn close to tasseling, we'd better get some rain pretty soon," he said.

Cooperative Extension Service director Lyle B. Abel agreed that Oakland County farmers can expect trouble if the dry weather persists.

He cited the slow development of fruit, especially peaches, early apples and berries.

Strawberries, in contrast, developed too soon, he noted, and as a result are small and of poorer quality.

Because of the dry weather, grass has gone dormant, forcing farmers to use stored hay for feed, he observed.

However, the crop most endangered by the drought is corn, he said.

"If we don't get rain soon, a short crop could result."

Truck farmers throughout the county—especially those without irrigation—are finding their vegetables tough and stringy.

One reported that his potatoes were like marbles. Last year at this time, he had new potatoes five inches in diameter, he said.

WILLIAM H. WILMOT

Pulls Out Bid for U.S. Okay of Drug Use

CHICAGO (UPI) — The most bitterly fought medical battle of the decade took a dramatic turn yesterday when the discoverer of krebzen withdrew his application for continued experimental status of the drug.

The move, in effect, meant at least a temporary halt in efforts to win federal approval of the controversial cancer drug and put it on the market.

Dr. Steven Durovic, a refugee Yugoslav physician who first extracted the substance from the blood serum of horses 18 years ago, withdrew his application in a letter to Anthony J. Celebrezze, secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

He said the government had waged a fight against "an unbiased clinical test" of the drug with "unheard-of pressure, the spreading of false statements to the press, an attempt to frame me and now an attempt to indict me."

He told Celebrezze he had "no hope that your department will ever solve this controversy in good faith."

The latest attempts to secure an evaluation of krebzen from the National Cancer Institute and the Food and Drug Administration bogged down in a welter of charges and countercharges.

Federal officials maintained that information provided by the drug's sponsors was inadequate for a thorough test. Durovic and Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, who has virtually staked his professional career on his support of the drug, maintained they submitted adequate information.

Local Lawyer Dies in Court

W. H. Wilmot Worked 30 Years in Pontiac

William H. Wilmot, Pontiac attorney for more than 30 years, died unexpectedly of a heart attack in the Oakland County Court House yesterday afternoon. He was 65.

A 1923 graduate of the law school of the University of Michigan, Mr. Wilmot received his bachelor of arts degree from Michigan State Normal College.

He served overseas as a major with the Marine Corps in World War I and was cited for valor on several occasions by the French and American governments.

Mr. Wilmot, of 2280 S. Lake Angelus Road, entered the Pontiac law office of the late A. L. Moore as business associate in September 1928.

Former Attorney General Harry S. Toy appointed him as an assistant attorney general in 1935. His work was from the Pontiac law office chiefly in connection with the State Highway Department.

Mr. Wilmot served as president of the Pontiac Board of Estate Board and on many occasions was lawmaster at local banquets.

A member of the Oakland County Bar Association, he also belonged to the Michigan State and American Bar Associations.

Mr. Wilmot was a member of (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

U.S., Britain Ready to Hit Ban 'Drag'

LONDON (UPI) — The United States and Britain today were reported to be ready to agree to a test ban on nuclear test ban talks opening Monday in Moscow.

Diplomatic sources said U.S. presidential envoy W. Averell Harriman and British Science Minister Lord Hailsham, heads of the Western delegations, have

Military Quiets Demonstrators

National Guardsmen End Maryland Terror

By The Associated Press
National Guardsmen marching along with main business thoroughfare in Cambridge, Md., yesterday named Race Street signified a return to order Saturday in the terror-ridden town on Maryland's Eastern Shore.

State troopers were on duty in racially embattled Savannah, Ga., and units of the Georgia National Guard were alerted. But a tentative agreement for a bilateral truce was reported.

In Cambridge, where 4,000 Negroes live on one side of Race Street and 8,000 white persons on the other, about 250 demonstrators started a march toward the white section Friday night in defiance of a ban imposed under a modified version of martial law.

Brig. Gen. George M. Gelston stepped out alone, held up his hand and stopped them.

The general explained why he was there, removed his hat during a testimony before the demonstrators to go back to their church. They did.

In Washington, supporters of President Kennedy's civil rights legislation challenged a southern Governor's claim that current Negro demonstrators are "largely communist inspired."

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., said the Federal Bureau of Investigation would be asked for any information it has relevant to the statement of Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi yesterday in testimony before the Senate Commerce Committee.

Under questioning by Sen. E. L. Bartlett, D-Alaska, Harriet conceded he had not talked with any FBI official to back up his claim that "leaders of the FBI" believe (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4) instructions to seek a speedy Kremlin indication on whether it is ready to agree to a test ban now — without political strings attached.

The two negotiators aligned strategy in extensive consultations yesterday, and their political and scientific experts today were putting final touches to their preparations for the Moscow confrontation.

High sources said the Allies are in full agreement on their approach to the talks and are ready to plunge into full dress negotiations immediately.

The Allies hoped to ascertain Soviet intentions within a week or 10 days, though they have set no deadline.

MAC STAYS
Meanwhile, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan appeared determined today to hold on to his office at least until some concrete progress is made on a nuclear test ban with Russia.

Political observers said the 69-year-old "Unflappable Mac" intended to ride out the Profumo scandal and resist demands for his immediate retirement from the opposition Labor Party and from within his own Conservative Party.

Macmillan does not want to go down in history as the leader of a Conservative Government that was disgraced by one of his cabinet ministers, the observers said.

He particularly does not want to retire at a time when he thinks the West may be on the threshold of a nuclear treaty of some sort with Moscow.

Macmillan said in an interview yesterday that he has high hopes for the nuclear talks.

"I can't think of anything more important at this time," he said. "Either in itself or for East-West relations generally."

In Moscow an influential Russian review said today "there are no obstacles now" to the conclusion of an East-West agreement.

Sovietskaya Russia made the statement in an article summing up proposals made by Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev in his July 2 speech in East Berlin.

Guard Battles Blaze

CAMP GRAYLING — More than 150 National Guardsmen fought late into the night against a brush fire that scorched more than 200 acres on the edge of a firing range.

The fire, about 14 miles north-nine holes of the afternoon round, was started by reckless rifle and tank fire.

ST. ANNE'S, England (UPI) — Bob Charles of New Zealand, who led by three strokes at the 18-hole lunch intermission, maintained that advantage on the first nine holes of the afternoon round. Charles had shot a 33-36, 99 on the morning round and Rodgers a 35-47, 72.

Rodgers narrowed his deficit to one stroke at the 24th hole, but Charles regained his three-shot advantage by the afternoon round. The New Zealander shot two birdies, a bogey and a double-bogey on the first nine of the afternoon round. Rodgers carded three birdies and four bogeys.

Charles increased his lead to five strokes when he parred the first two holes of the afternoon round, but he drove out of bounds on the third hole and wound up with a double bogey six, cutting his lead to three strokes.

Rodgers uncovered his drive on the first hole of the afternoon round to card a bogey four. The American also bogeyed the second hole when he missed the green with his approach and then failed to sink a five-foot putt.

PLENTY OF SUNSHINE — When Mrs. Rebecca Plympton, 73, was awakened by sunshine in her apartment at 94 E. Huron St. recently, it was the first time in her 31-year residence morning sunbeams had broken through. Perimeter road demands had just razed the building next door and let the sun come in. Though it's too dusty for her flowers, Mrs. Plympton watches perimeter road construction from an excellent second-floor vantage point.

Red Agents Search for Top Spy Defector

From Our News Wires
LONDON — Soviet agents are searching Britain with orders to kill or kidnap master spy Anatoly Dolynskiy, who defected to the West 18 months ago, British newspapers said today.

The Daily Express said an attempt already may have been made on the defector's life.

The Labor Party opposition appeared today to be readying a sharp new attack on the British government for its handling of the "disclosure."

All British morning newspapers today published the name of the master spy despite a British Defense Ministry "D" notice circulated to the press Thursday urging against its publication. One afternoon newspaper published a photograph of a man with the face blanked out, identified as Dolynskiy.

Thus far, the Defense Ministry itself has not publicly confirmed the identity of the Russian spy, who, informed sources said, has given the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) in Washington the names of many if not all — Russian secret agents working in the West.

The sources said the defector, who went over to the west 18 months ago, also has tipped the CIA to methods employed by Communist agents. Many Soviet agents have been recalled behind the Iron Curtain in recent months.

UNDER GUARD
Dolynskiy is in hiding, under guard, being groomed for a new identity. It is considered vital that he should be unrecognizable to the Soviet agents who for months to come are sure to press an intensive hunt.

Dolynskiy's defection is believed to have dealt a severe blow to Soviet intelligence services. The Soviets will want him eliminated for revenge and as a warning to others, informants noted.

Plastic surgery may be used to give Dolynskiy a new face — as it did for many British agents during World War II, then he would be unrecognizable even to those who knew him during the eight months or so he lived in London while on a tour of duty here.

It generally is believed that Dolynskiy defected while serving in a Soviet satellite country after first contacting the U.S. embassy in an allied country. One report said he defected in a town in North America.

For about a year Dolynskiy was quoted by the Central Intelligence Agency in the United States. After he requested asylum in Britain, he was flown here and interrogated.

Battle Is Lost, but Not War, Peking Claims

Soviets Still Silent as Kremlin Digests Discussion Effects

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet and Red Chinese Communist party experts entered what may be one of their final unity meetings today. The Chinese have already called the conferences a flop.

A statement from Peking indicated the Chinese negotiators felt they had lost a battle, not the war, and were pushing for further talks.

"Differences that cannot be settled immediately may be laid aside," the Peking statement said. "If we cannot finish our discussions in one session, several can be held; and our parties can hold further bilateral talks."

With the negotiations apparently winding up, the way seemed clear for the Russians to open their meetings Monday with U.S. and British officials on a nuclear test ban.

The Soviet side remained silent on the talks—apparently while Kremlin leaders digested the import of Peking's statement.

The Red Chinese acknowledged that they believed the talks would end up in a very grave deadlock.

But the statement appeared to represent an abrupt switch from Peking's repeated demands that Premier Khrushchev call an early meeting of the world's Communist parties.

CHINESE WORRIED

The Chinese admitted they were "worrying whether the Central Committee of the Communist party of the Soviet Union wants to push Chinese-Soviet relations to the brink of rupture."

The statement said: "It must be frankly pointed out that the present situation is very grave."

"We sincerely hope that the comrades of the Communist party of the Soviet Union will treasure Chinese-Soviet unity, will refrain from rash actions and will not push things to the extreme."

The Chinese indicated they would give up their campaign to undermine Khrushchev and his policy of peaceful coexistence with the West—a tactic he believes will advance world communism.

"One should realize that ideas cannot be blockaded and that it is impossible to resolve differences by debates or comments, to consider one's own world as final and refuse to let others speak will not work," the Chinese statement said.

Today's meeting got under way at 2 p.m. after the Chinese spent the morning in their embassy.

Ecuador Junta Alert for Strike

From Our News Wires
QUITO, Ecuador — The Military Junta that seized power Thursday took steps today to head off a general strike called by the Communist-led Ecuador Workers Confederation (CTE).

The military rulers ordered strict application of martial law and a 9 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew. They promised to wipe out all civil disorder and terrorism "provoked by leftist extremists." The

Politico Loses Race to Cabbie

NEW YORK (UPI)—The mayor of River Rouge met with citizens, the police and the judiciary yesterday, but unfortunately it didn't happen in his home town.

Donald Nettlow, 34, up for reelection in River Rouge this fall, ran afoul of the law in Greenwichtown Village here and ended up on the wrong end of disorderly conduct charges.

The citizens involved in the affair were a taxi driver who Nettlow claimed drove him a number of bystanders who materialized during the ensuing dispute.

The policeman was Michael Iannato, who arrested Nettlow for allegedly using loud and boisterous language, which caused a crowd to assemble.

Possible Rain for Michigan Raises Hopes

The prospect of rain through out the state Saturday and Sunday brought new hope to Michigan residents caught in one of the worst droughts in recent memory.

In many areas, it hasn't rained for a month. Detroit entered its 36th day without measurable rainfall, the longest dry spell since 1916 when no rain fell for 32 days.

The last rain reported in the Detroit area was June 13 when two one-hundredths of an inch fell. Since then, a few scattered showers have hit, but they quit before they did much to alleviate dry conditions.

BURNING MARSH — West Bloomfield Township firemen (from left) Tom Ball and Basil Stoddard hose down part of a peat bog along Richardson Road. The firemen are battling a marsh fire that has burned continuously since July 4. The blaze, which began in West Bloomfield Township just off Detroit Road and burned west toward Union Lake Road, covers an area a half-mile long and about 100-150 yards wide. Since crossing into Commerce Township, it has flared up several times. Most of the time, the actual burning occurs underground with only smoke visible. But when a surface blaze does appear, the two fire departments hose it down.

Detroit Ready for Bias Pickets Angry Exchanges

Cancel Police Leaves; Negro Protests Set

DETROIT (AP) — With police leaves canceled, Detroit took precautions against possible trouble today from two anti-segregationists' protest demonstrations.

The Detroit Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People planned demonstrations at 20 apartment houses which the NAACP said discriminated against Negroes.

NAACP officials said the demonstrations would be peaceful. All policemen's leaves for the day were canceled by Supt. Eugene A. Reuter, however. Reuter said he wanted to make sure of adequate police at all 20 sites.

The apartment buildings, including two in the Motor City "art center" district containing the Detroit Institute of Arts and the Public Library, are generally in Detroit's midtown section. The neighborhoods are mostly mixed.

Abraham Ulmer Jr., chairman of the NAACP Housing Committee, said demonstrators would be assigned to 16 teams of about 20 members each.

Police headquarters in downtown Detroit also was chosen for a demonstration — by another group.

FATAL SHOOTING

The Group On Advanced Leadership (GOAL), an all-Negro organization, said it would picket headquarters from noon to 6 p.m. in connection with a policeman's fatal shooting of a Negro woman on a street July 5.

The woman, Cynthia Scott, 24, who police said had a record of nine convictions for arresting and soliciting, was shot by an officer who said she slashed him with a knife when he tried to arrest her.

GOAL representatives said the picketing would be carried out after Miss Scott's funeral by nine cars and the hearse containing her body.

Patrolman Theodore Spicher, who shot Miss Scott, was confronted by Wayne (Detroit) County Prosecutor Samuel B. Olsen. Olsen held that Spicher acted properly in line of duty.

The Detroit Branch of the American Civil Liberties Union took issue with Olsen's investigation, declaring he had been "perjurious" and demanding that the case be reopened.

The ACLU said Olsen failed in this duty and harmed the "cause of lawful law enforcement."

TFX Hearing Flares

By G. MILTON KELLY
WASHINGTON (AP) — Tempers are flaring again this time over a performance chart—as a Senate subcommittee presses ahead with its probe of the TFX warplane contract.

The latest angry exchanges pit Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth against chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., and the senior Republican member of the panel, Sen. Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota.

Korth spent his fourth day on the witness stand Friday as the subcommittee probed the award of the TFX contract to General Dynamics Corp. of Fort Worth, Tex., and Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp. of New York.

Senators want to know why Korth and other civilian defense chiefs overrode military evaluations that a design offered by the Boeing Co. of Seattle, Wash., promised a better and cheaper plane.

McClellan challenged a chart which Korth used to support his contention that the General Dynamics-Grumman design is superior.

"The way you are presenting it, you are distorting the performance of the Boeing plane based on the record," he said.

"Mr. Chairman, I deny that we are distorting it," Korth retorted.

Continuing the exchange, a censored transcript of which was made public Friday, McClellan argued that the chart failed to reflect last-minute optional design changes the Boeing Co. had offered to make. He said the changes would have wiped out a claimed 32-mile an hour speed margin for the General Dynamics-Grumman plane and would have given the Boeing craft greater maneuverability at high altitudes.

Korth replied that the contractors knew that only the earlier designs would be evaluated and that technical teams never had evaluated a report spelling out the changes.

"You can talk about it 'has not been evaluated' from now until doomsday," McClellan said. "It was your duty to evaluate if you had in mind the best interests of the country and to get the best plane."

Korth replied: "I have the best interests of the country and the best plane."

Wirtz Confers With Rail Exec Holds Private Session at Labor Department

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz met today with the chief negotiator for the railroads in the Kennedy administration's continued efforts to block a nationwide rail strike.

Wirtz and J. E. Wolfe, major spokesman for the carriers, conferred privately in Wirtz's office at the Labor Department.

Neither Wirtz nor Wolfe would say what subject was under discussion, but it presumably concerned the President's promise to seek legislation that would settle the four-year-old dispute over work rule changes advocated by the railroads.

"This is just a private chat," Wolfe told a reporter before entering the secretary's office.

"That's right, that's all that it is," Wirtz added.

To Check Mine for Three Boys

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Officials planned a final probe into an abandoned mine this afternoon in the search for three boys missing since Thursday.

They announced their decision after a six-man rescue team emerged from the mine earlier today and reported they had discovered no clues that would help them determine whether the teen-agers are in the suburban Caste Shannon mine.

Everett Turner, a U.S. Bureau of Mines inspector, said exploration into the last area should take about eight hours. Once this is accomplished, he said, officials will have been satisfied that the mine was searched thoroughly.

Turner said a large pressure fan was to be used to clear dead air black damp gas from the area.

Area Girl, 17 Killed as Car Hit by Train

The 17-year-old daughter of a Birmingham executive and her teen-aged companion were killed yesterday 20 miles east of Windsor, Ontario, when their convertible was struck by a Canadian National Railway train.

Cheryl Ann Martin, 17, of 7215 Parkhurst, Birmingham, and Louise Deziel, 14, of Windsor, died after the smashup at an unprotected railroad crossing.

Ontario Provincial Police said the train, traveling at 65 miles per hour, struck the car squarely with its engine.

The car was dragged nearly a mile.

Miss Martin, who apparently was driving, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold G. Martin. Martin is president of Research To Reality, an invention marketing firm.

Miss Deziel was the daughter of Judge Lawrence Deziel of Essex County, Canada.

Both families have summer homes near the accident scene.

Blocks Ease Upkeep of Ceiling

Cracks and "cricks" of ceiling surface resist soiling; can be wiped clean.

The 16 - inch square ceiling blocks, available at lumber yards in white and parchment colors as well as lace and nugget patterns, can be used appropriately in any room of the house. They can be arranged in different ways to form interesting patterns with joint lines.

The cracks are those that appear in the ceiling surface to mar the appearance and the "cricks" are those pains that settle in the home owner's neck when he has to spend long hours at redecorating or cleaning the ceiling.

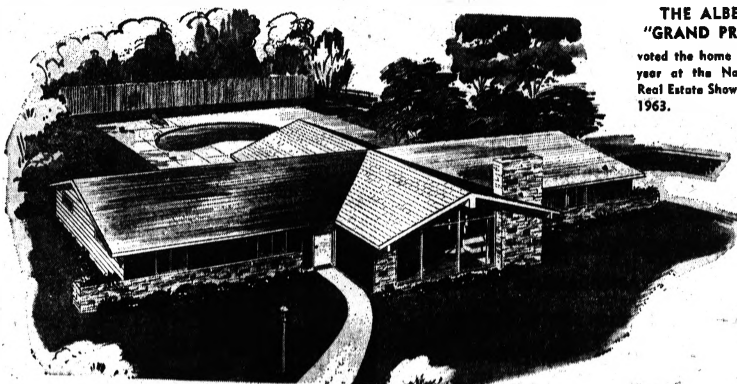

A combined remedy and preventive for such difficulties is to cover the ceiling with a plastic-surfaced hardboard ceiling block. Cracks in the ceiling do not need to be filled; the blocks, applied with adhesive, can be put on over disfigured surfaces without tedious preparation.

Insurance against future ceiling cracks is afforded by the unusual strength of the blocks, which have a base of tempered hardboard, a material tough enough for workbench tops. And how about the "cricks" in the neck? A baked plastic finish which guards the beauty of the paneling means an end to the customary need for periodic redecorating and the neck-bending work it entails. The hard, smooth

Sachs' Almost 'Climbed Out'

DETROIT (AP)—"On the very first lap I almost climbed out of the cockpit and saw the Seattle Seafair two weeks later."

COACH RIDES

"I don't know what to do there," said Sachs and heading for his spin accompanied by Leo Mucutza, a veteran hydroplane driver and mechanic.

"That's the toughest thing I've ever come up against," said Sachs after the boatride of several laps around the three-mile course where the Gold Cup was held last Sunday. "I never dreamed it'd be this difficult as far as control is concerned."

"It's really a daring business. Things all over this world are coming at you. You have to have a real good pair of hands and arms to do it. I've got to get these wrists toughened up."

Sachs steered the 11,000-pound Sucht at straightaway speeds approaching 140 miles per hour in his first trial as a driver on a water. Afterwards, Jack Schaffer, Sucht's owner, said the Indianapolis veteran plans to double up as a driver in top powerboat races.

"I'm very sincere about it," said Sachs, whose outspoken criticism of winner Parnell Jones after this year's Indianapolis 500 provided a fistfight between them. "I'm going back racing."

Foes Seek Waiver of 2-Minutes

DETROIT (AP)—The Michigan Boxing Commission will take another look at its controversial 10-minute round rule that's threatening to cancel the Keny Arnold and Paul Armstrong fight killed in the world lightweight championship.

The rule likely will be changed to the 15-round championship rule, which was in effect until Aug. 19 in Saginaw Veterans Memorial Park can be fought under the standard three-minute round system.

The boxing board is going to be asked to consider a waiver for the championship attraction only, said Dave Gudekly, state boxing commissioner, from his office in Muskegon Friday. Lane Arnold, who has been in the ring for two minutes, they feel they're in good condition."

Gudekly said Thursday that Michigan's new rules, designed for greater safety in boxing, will be in force for the bout he's sanctioned as a championship fight.

But Gudekly said Friday he and the four members of the board will vote on waiving the two minute round rule only at a special meeting next Saturday at Jackson.

The fight is for the world boxing lightweight championship and they're not going to sell tickets and turn around and have these guys fight two thirds of a light," said Julius Plazza, co-promoter of the Saginaw bout. "I feel for a title fight. This ruling should be waived."

'Yas' Paces Boston Win

By The Associated Press

The first time Ted Williams saw Carl Yastrzemski's rare batting, he made one of his rare predictions. "Don't let anyone change his swing and he'll be a great hitter."

No one has and Yast is beginning to make Boston's old batting master look like an oracle.

Young Yast, the American League's leading
