

Greetings, First Lady!

She Wears White Silk in India

100,000 Smile at Jackie

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Indians welcomed Mrs. John F. Kennedy warmly today and watched with interest as she placed a wreath of white roses at the shrine of Mohandas K. Gandhi.

More than 100,000 turned out to witness the arrival of America's First Lady from Rome for a nine-day visit to India, and other thousands showed up for a glimpse of her as she made a round of official calls.

The pomp and ceremony of state occasions was lacking, for Mrs. Kennedy's visit is billed as semiformal, but the reception had the enthusiasm and color of greetings for such previous visitors as President Eisenhower and Queen Elizabeth II.

Mrs. Kennedy donned a completely white outfit for her round of calls. She wore a white silk sari with a white and gold border and a broad-brimmed straw hat turned up and worn off the face.

The First Lady, her sister Princess Lee Radziwill, U.S. Ambassador John Kenneth Galbraith and India's ambassador to Washington, B. K. Nehru, stopped first at the massive home of President Rajendra Prasad.

Prasad showed the youthful guest his formal gardens. With the temperature in the low 80s, the flowers are now at their peak of brilliance. Mrs. Kennedy shook hands with Prasad's four grandchildren, then joined him inside for tea.

From the presidential house she was driven across the city to a spot near the Jamma River where Gandhi, the hero of Indian independence, was cremated 14 years ago.

Rusk, Gromyko Talk 3 Hours, Get Nowhere

Meet Again on Tuesday Over Disarmament and Cold War Issues

From Our News Wire
GENEVA — Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko today held a wide-ranging three-hour talk which apparently failed to crack the East-West deadlock on critical Cold War issues.

Rusk, with a few of his top advisers, was the luncheon guest of Gromyko at the Soviet Villa Rose near the Palais des Nations where the U.N.-sponsored 17-nation general disarmament conference is scheduled to open on Wednesday.

Gromyko told newsmen afterwards that he found no reason for optimism after discussing a broad list of matters of "mutual interest" with Rusk.

Rusk will meet with Gromyko again Tuesday. The Soviet foreign minister was to lunch with Rusk and also have dinner with British Foreign Secretary Lord Home Tuesday evening.

The West called on Russia to stop harassing Allied air traffic to Berlin lest increasing tensions there endanger the disarmament negotiations.

In Berlin, as the talks were going on in Geneva, the Russians today attempted to harass Western Allied aircraft in the Berlin air corridors by scheduling flights to coincide with Western ones, in some cases said.

The Russian controller at Berlin's four-power Air Safety Center announced four military transports would occupy the same air space at the same time as four Western commercial airliners.

However, through chance, the Russian aircraft actually flew about 10 minutes later than the Western transports carrying passengers to and from Berlin over East Germany, the sources said.

Gromyko denied knowledge of Soviet interference in the Berlin air corridors.

In Moscow, the Soviet Union said today that it would withhold clear weapons and information on their manufacture from other countries, if the Western nuclear powers would "assume similar obligations."

6 Babies Die, 10 Stricken in NY; Find Salt Overdose

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP)—A sugar container last Tuesday for formula was under close observation.

The hospital said a preliminary post-mortem examination of two of the dead infants indicated a high sodium content in their bodies.

The investigation was the second in three years at the hospital. In 1959, the hospital, then named Binghamton City, underwent a probe after a woman cancer patient died from an overdose of radiation.

The hospital administrator at the time charged the hospital's chief radiologist with incompetence and misconduct and suspended the radiologist and his assistant. They later were reinstated but since have left the staff.

Dr. Vincent Budd, a corner, ordered autopsies performed on the bodies of six babies.

Two state departments, social welfare and health, began investigations.

No charge was placed against her, however, and she was not held. She said she was positive she had filled the can from a sugar container. She had been with the hospital as a practical nurse for about three months.

Another nurse who made herself a cup of instant coffee discovered table salt in the can in the formula room.

HEART FAILURE
Pediatricians said an overdose of salt could upset the balance in the body and cause heart failure in a very young child.

The babies who died ranged from 3 days to 8 months.

The four infants in critical condition were under the care of a team of specialists. Six others who, the hospital said, had been fed a salt-saturated

2 Try to Rob Store at Mall

By DON FERMOYLE and RALPH P. HUMMEL

A white and grey car this afternoon was the latest possible clue to two Halloween-masked bandits who for nine hours terrorized a Montgomery Ward store manager and his family and later attempted to rob the store at the Pontiac Mall.

Police had all but discarded the theory that two hitchhikers picked up this morning might be tied in with the kidnapping.

Held in their Bloomfield Hills home for most of the nine hours were Leslie M. (Red) Gillain, his wife Blanche and his son Donald, 15, a student at Bloomfield Hills High School.

The family and seven porters at the store escaped unhurt at 5:15 this morning when their captors fled as two police cars were approaching the store.

The investigation this noon was shifting away from the massive manhunt launched by over 60 police at 5:30 a.m. and abandoned at 11:30 a.m.

Now on the agenda is the questioning of store employees on the possibility that the robbery attempt might have been an inside job.

The unidentified hitchhikers also were to be questioned further, after being turned over by Pontiac Post State Police to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department. The two men had been picked up by White Lake Township Police on M39 near Pontiac Lake Road.

STOLEN AT RESTAURANT
The car is the latest clue in a widespread police net.

It was stolen between 11 p.m. yesterday and 11 a.m. today from in front of a Chicken Delight restaurant at 1302 W. Huron St., Waterford Township.

The restaurant is only three blocks away from the spot where Waterford Township police believe they last saw the gunman — at Coleman St. and Elizabeth Lake Road.

The car, belonging to John Bain, owner of the restaurant, was described as a white and grey 1955 Chevrolet with white tires and snow grips. Its license number was GP1824.

A total of three men were believed to be on the plot. Gillain saw only two, but believed he heard a third voice after being blindfolded.

The Gillains were held captive from 8:30 last night to shortly after 5 a.m. today — most of the time in their home at 140 E. Hickory Grove Road, Bloomfield Hills.

They were released unhurt behind the store when two police cars drove up just as the gunmen were forcing Gillain to drive them on their getaway. Also held captive but not harmed were seven porters at the store.

The two gunmen who forced the family to drive to the store about 5 a.m. were described as armed with pistols.

One was described as close to 6 feet tall, of slender build, wearing a dark blue or black jacket. The other was described as 5 feet 8 to 5 feet 10 inches tall, with very large feet. No description on the third man was revealed.

The trio forced their way into the Gillain home at 8:30 p.m. yesterday.

Gillain said he was sleeping on the couch in his co-op apartment at about 8:30 last night.

His wife was feeling ill and was asleep in an upstairs bedroom. His son was watching television in another bedroom.

WEAR MASKS
Gillain said two men in Halloween masks suddenly appeared in the living room, apparently after entering through a basement window.

Both were armed with pistols.

One of them said "Be quiet!" "Do as we tell you and no one will get hurt. If you don't, we'll kill your family," Gillain said.

"They said they wanted money from the store, and ordered Gillain upstairs. There the gun-

Manager Shot in Other Holdup

Ward's Official Tells of Being Wounded in Illinois Incident

"Red" Gillain has been through it all once before.

In 1957, a bullet nicked him in a holdup attempt when he was manager of a Montgomery Ward store in Bloomington, Illinois.

This morning, he got off without visible scars. But he and his family will never forget last night's terror when they were held hostage for nine hours by gunmen who threatened their lives to get money at the Pontiac Mall's Montgomery Ward store.

Recalling that other robbery attempt, Gillain said:

"I'd rather not remember that one."

But then he sketched the incident in a steady, well composed voice for a Pontiac Press reporter.

TOLD TO OPEN SAFE

Several gunmen had entered the Bloomington store just as it was closing. The gunmen herded Gillain and several employees to a safe and told him to open it.

As Gillain was fiddling with the safe controls, he says, one of the bandits' gun went off — apparently by accident.

"The gun went off — and grazed my cheek," he said.

Gillain pretended he couldn't open the safe, and the gunmen left without getting anything.

Pontiac police today also were looking back in their files to ferret out possible similarities between earlier kidnap robbery attempts and today's.

They recall the two armed kidnapers who took an estimated $12,000 from two Pontiac grocery stores Feb. 25 while holding the owner and his wife at gunpoint.

The victims that time were Joseph O. Gagne, 40, and his wife, Guida, of 4675 W. Ulca Road, Shelby Township.

DPW Crews Work Hard to Relieve City Flooding

Pontiac Department of Public Works crews can forget about ice and snow removal. Today they had a new problem — water.

The all night rain caused flooding conditions that closed several streets, lifted manhole covers off sewers and flooded basements of hundreds of residents.

Likewise, hundreds of residents in Oakland and Macomb counties were forced to flee their homes because of floods.

Monkey Cameron, DPW street maintenance supervisor, said high water forced crews to close Johnson Street west of the Grand Trunk Railroad tracks this morning.

"We also barricaded Giddings Road from Perry to Walton, and Brooklyn Street east and west of Baldwin," Cameron said.

"All of the city's drainage lines are overloaded. In several spots manhole covers were forced off by water pressure."

DRAIN BASEMENTS
Cameron said crews worked all day trying to relieve flooded basements where the flooding was due to drains backing up or streets flooding.

The worst conditions were reported to be in southern Oakland County where whole subdivisions (Continued on Page 2, Col 7)

Cooler Weather With Light Rain or Snow Tonight

Slightly cooler temperatures mixed with a few light showers or snow flurries are forecast for the Pontiac vicinity tonight through Tuesday.

Following a few light showers later today the mercury will dip to a mild 32 degrees tonight.

Cooler temperatures Tuesday and Wednesday will precede only minor day-to-day changes thereafter.

The lowest temperature recorded preceding 8 o'clock today was 35 degrees shortly after midnight. At 2 p.m. the thermometer reading was 44.

Dem Says Republican Standing 'Four-Square for Nothing'

STERLING, N.Y. — Michigan's Democratic national committee chairman Stephen Smolyk berated Republican gubernatorial candidate George Romney for "rejected every opportunity" to support the state's constitution.

Romney, asked to comment, told newsmen that "I'm devoting my time to the state constitutional convention. I haven't started campaigning and I don't intend to until I have discharged that responsibility."

Staeble accused Romney of ducking behind "generalities" in discussing such issues as medical care for the aged, right to work laws, collective bargaining, trade and the United Nations.

Love and Trunk Bring Freedom

Young E. German Girl Carried Past Commies in Fiance's Baggage

WEINHEIM, Germany (UPI) — The young West German mechanic tried to wear a poker face when he approached Communist East German border guards.

He dared not glance back at his large trunk on the railroad station platform.

Inside the trunk was the mechanic's fiancee. He was smuggling her out of East Germany.

Today, two days after reaching freedom, young Bern Schepp told his story.

Schepp, 19, and his fiancee had fallen in love when he made a trip to East Germany before the Communists sealed the East-West border.

Schepp, a quiet young man from this small town near Darmstadt, last week took his savings and bought a ticket for the East German city of Leipzig where the Communists are holding a fair.

At the fair, Schepp met his girl, also 19, and they bought a large trunk. With the trunk they boarded a train that runs between Communist East Germany and Frankfurt in West Germany.

A few miles from the East-West border the young girl, wearing skin-tight trousers and a sweater, climbed into the trunk. Schepp, who had bored a few air holes in the trunk, closed it. The train arrived at the Communist check point.

SET TRUNK DOWN — The Communists ordered Schepp and the other West Germans aboard the train to get off for an inspection. Schepp carefully set the trunk down on the station platform.

He showed his papers to the guards.

The Communist police waved Schepp aboard.

He tried to pick up the heavy trunk. He was hugging it back toward the train when the trunk's hand straps broke.

The trunk crashed back down on the platform.

The Communist police looked at Schepp and the trunk.

Schepp said later he did not mind a jail term if the Communists failed to give him a hand to get the trunk back aboard the train.

He hoisted it aboard. He was sweating. The train started moving through the Communist border area.

A few miles across the border Schepp opened the trunk. His fiancee leaped up. They had made it.

The Day in Birmingham

BIRMINGHAM — Seaholm High School students took over the reigns of city government here today.

Some 35 seniors were elected by their fellow classmates to participate in the annual Civic Control Day which allows them to become familiar with the workings of local government.

Each of those elected as commissioners will sit with their counterparts at tonight's commission meeting.

The elected "officials" include Tom Stevens, mayor and commissioner, and commissioners Francis Quillian Greg Frontier, Patsy Gordon, Mac LeFevre, Wendy Isherwood and Murray Stewart.

Others are Sue Koenke, clerk; Tim Baehr, city manager; and Steve Collier, assistant city manager.

Directing the government practice class is Robert Richards, chairman of the social studies department at Seaholm.

Rev. Horace B. Loomis of the Congregational Church of Chastelle will be the guest speaker at the March 22 meeting of the Child Study Club of the Congregational Church of Birmingham.

His topic will be entitled "Helping a Child Face the Death of a Loved One."

The 12:30 p.m. meeting will be held at the home of Mr. Robert Vibbert, 1696 Beverly Road.

Club officers for the coming year also will be elected at the meeting.

Mrs. Charles (Ruth) Shain will be the speaker at the March 19 meeting of the Birmingham Rotary.

The 1 p.m. luncheon will be held at the home of Mrs. John Wakevaine, 507 Linden Road.

In addition to her talk, Mrs. Shain will show films of her recent European trip.

Noted explorer Muri Deusing will narrate his color film "Safari in Africa" at the March 16 and 17 programs of the World Adventure Series at the Community House.

The film will be shown at 2 p.m. both days.

The film features places in today's headlines such as the Belgian Congo and Kenya.

Deusing's photography has been featured in many of Walt Disney's productions.

William E. Lucas Service for William E. Lucas, 74 of 688 Humphrey St., will be 1 p.m. tomorrow at the Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co. Burial will be Forest Lawn Cemetery, Detroit.

UAW to Cancel Clark Contract

Union Sets Deadline in 5 Days at Buchanan Equipment Plant

BUCHANAN, Ala. — The United Auto Workers Union today said it intends to cancel its contract with the Clark Equipment plant here in five days.

The union and company have been operating on an extension of the old contract since last Nov. 28 pending the outcome of new labor pact negotiations.

UAW Local 468 represents some 1,200 production workers. Local spokesmen said little progress has been made on a new contract in recent bargaining talks.

Clark and the Allied Industrial Workers Union recently signed a new contract after a four-month strike at company plants in Jackson and Battle Creek.

The Buchanan plant supplies dies to Clark plants in Benton Harbor, Battle Creek and Michigan City, Ind.

Union spokesmen said the major issues unresolved in negotiations include economic matters and grievance procedures.

When Freeman and Waterford Officer Pat Farrell themselves raced over the ridge, the two gunmen were no longer seen. No shots were fired, Freeman said, "because it was too dark."

A search of Gillian's apartment failed to turn up a third possible suspect.

Waterford Township Officer Ronald Freeman who was in one of the cars said he saw seven of the store employees lying face down in the gravel and the gunmen sprinting away over a ridge.

A Pontiac State Police Post car was the other vehicle.

The two gunmen saw the headlights and fled over the ridge and dropped out of sight in nearby woods, said Freeman.

To Face Charge of Embezzling

Mother of 2 Children Accused of the Theft of YMCA Funds

A Bloomfield Township mother of two children will appear in Birmingham Municipal Court March 23 on a charge that she embezzled funds from the Birmingham branch of the YMCA.

Mrs. Marion E. Danziger demanded examination at her arraignment Friday before Municipal Judge Elmer H. Hovig and was released on $500 bond.

Birmingham police Det. Lt. Merlin Holmquist said the charges were brought by Harry B. Sanders, executive secretary of the Detroit YMCA.

More than $5,000 is involved according to Birmingham police, but the formal charge is for embezzlement "an amount over $100." An audit report is in progress.

Mrs. Danziger is charged with the alleged embezzling while working as a clerk at the YMCA branch for five years, according to police.

They allege she obtained the money by cooking dues and rent checks and forwarding only a part of the money to the YMCA's Detroit headquarters.

Holmquist said Mrs. Danziger was a bonded employee of the YMCA.

A Waterford Township man is in satisfactory condition today after amputation of a leg crushed when he was pinned between bumpers of two automobiles in Bloomfield Township yesterday.

In St. Joseph Mercy Hospital is Ernest L. Hart, 39, of 3505 Beaubien St., who also suffered serious head and internal injuries.

Hart was attaching a tow line from his car to another owned by Richard C. Bigger, of the same address. When Bigger's car was rammed from the rear by a car driven by Dale L. Neelands, 26, of 245 Hendrickson St., Clawson.

The accident occurred about 1:15 a.m. Sunday on Square Lake Road near Ellen Road.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A squad of at least 30 Vietnamese government agents and soldiers combed through the homes of three American professors in a fashionable Saigon neighborhood Saturday morning.

The Americans were not arrested, but were questioned and their homes searched thoroughly along with all other houses on the block.

"Our dog had been restless for some time, and about midnight he started to bark," Dr. Frank Durham said.

Kennedy Reads, Retains His 'Home Work'

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON — No President probably ever worked harder at his homework than President Kennedy. If an hard, an astonishing knowledge of details shows through every news conference. The fact that he's only 44 must be a big help.

from describing the attitude of a governor in Brazil to telling a reporter his figure was too high when he said 13,000 men faced unemployment in a Long Island plane plant.

You can criticize him, and often justly, for not fighting more or not seeming to fight at all, for some of the programs he dumped on Congress in such rapid succession.

You can wish for fewer literary touches in his speeches and more iron and follow-through after he delivers them, even if it means making some people mad at him.

Like President Eisenhower, Kennedy has made a policy of not stirring up the bees, even when it means making some people mad at him.

ABSORBS PROBLEMS
But he cannot be criticized for not attempting to absorb the fantastically varied doubts and problems of government, at home and abroad, in dollars, dimes and percentages, in men, missions and missiles.

His accumulation of detailed knowledge, which must be acquired through much reading and many conferences, is in addition to the other activities of the presidency, from speeches by day to White House musings by night.

His news conference last Wednesday was an example, better than most, of Kennedy's mastery of the intricacies of his job.

It was better than most only because of the nature of the questions which prompted detailed answers.

Here is a rundown on his answers, showing the range of his knowledge, domestic and foreign, plus the evidence of his activity in the White House.

STEEL TALKS
He had written the steel industry and the steel union to resume negotiations on a new contract by next Wednesday (both sides agreed to) and he had written Premier Khrushchev some suggestions on space cooperation.

TARIFF FACTS

He announced that tariff agreements, covering $4.3 billion worth of annual exports—had just been reached in Geneva.

He observed that in Moscow Khrushchev had indicated Russia is hard up for food, that this country had given Poland food, but that to his knowledge Russia had never asked for any.

UNEMPLOYMENT

He mentioned that the unemployment rate is now just 5.6 per cent, the lowest in 19 months, that total employment is 65,789,000 and that industry profits were "up companies—22 per cent."

He indicated he fully knew what the CIA had learned from U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers; he said American negotiators at Geneva March 14 would have some suggestions on nuclear test inspections.

FROM A TO Z

He discussed nuclear free zones, a missile that can travel 5,000 miles and its effect on free zones; the $3 billion this country spends to support its defense forces overseas; the balance of payments; the war in Viet Nam; the disarmament conference; Berlin and Southeast Asia.

He pointed out that proposals to buy $100 million in U.N. bonds were before the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee; discussed the future of Okinawa; the nature of free enterprise and the public interest; the record of Congress so far, compared with other years.

He reminded reporters the defense budget was $11 billion in 1962.

British Guiana Chief Announces Neutrality

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (UPI)—Premier Cheddi Jagan said Sunday his country would follow a neutralist policy and never serve as a South American base for communism or the Soviet Union.

The premier, who in the past has expressed admiration for Cuba's Premier Fidel Castro, said his recently-elected government wants to be friendly with all nations and blocs.

British Guiana, a British colony on South America's northern coast, recently was torn by riots against Jagan's tax program. The riots were believed to have hampered the colony's drive for complete independence in the near future.

1959; explained that 140 B70 bombers, costing $10 billion, wouldn't be ready before 1970 or 1971 and that we have 640 B52s.

He ticked off the time schedules of the Polaris, Minuteman and Titan missiles; said we are going to spend $1 billion equipping the B52s with Skybolt; noted by name who in his Cabinet had gone overseas and where; mentioned that a certain governor of a Brazilian province had not been friendly to the United States; and wound up the day discussing the future of the Indiana dunes.

'Could Cure Most Cancer'

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Nearly two out of every three persons who get cancer could be saved today—if everything science knows were used to save them, scientists report.

As it is, only one in three is saved, says Dr. John R. Heller, who heads the Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center in New York City. He told the American Cancer Society's science writers seminar: "Please do not think it is contradictory to insist that two of every three cancer patients should be cured today, but to admit that they won't be, because of many human factors."

NEED MORE DOCTORS

One factor is medical manpower needed to examine well people, so cancer could be detected in its beginning stage.

Another factor is the monumental job of getting public cooperation for such a program, he said.

A third obstacle, he added, is the problem of getting the patient to the best treatment—or getting the treatment to the patient.

It is most important to detect every case of cancer at the earliest possible moment—and then to treat it with the best of skill and promptness.

ESTIMATES CASES

By checking cancer rates—that is, the number of people who survive at least five years after treatment without a recurrence of cancer—

Dr. Heller estimates what potential cure rates would be.

Here are some he cited: Stomach cancer: one New York clinic, handling both early and advanced cases, has a cure rate of 27 per cent. With earlier detection, some 35 per cent of the patients could be cured, and this may be a conservative estimate.

Lung cancer: National Cancer Institute figures show one lung cancer patient out of four survives five years. Dr. Heller says it could be 35 per cent or one in three.

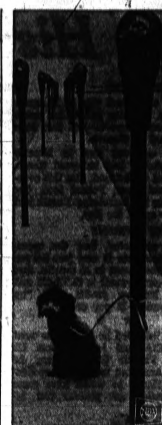

Breast cancer: the survival rate is increasing every year and some clinics report survival rates up to 85 per cent. Dr. Heller estimates the potential for the nation is to save four out of every five women stricken, on the basis of present knowledge.

Uterine cancer: since cancer of the uterus or womb is detectable at a very early stage, Dr. Heller believes 100 per cent of the cases can be cured.

Skin cancer: this, too, should be 95 to 100 per cent curable.

Plead for Bear Skins

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (AP)—The Royal Scots Regiment has appealed to Canada for bear skins. The commanding officer, Lt. Col. J. C. Balthart, said his head-dresses have gone rather bald, and black bears are in short supply in Britain. The Royal Scots plan a 12-week tour of Canada next fall.

Government Spending
Is Getting Out of Hand

Two phrases that have completely gone out of style in all types of government are "economize" and "cut back."
Just why, we don't know. They are used 365 days a year in the majority of businesses in this country and abroad. Yet, the idea of a department or bureau curtailing or cutting back on its budget is unheard of.

With our record budget of $92 billion now under consideration the cry is "urgent national needs." At times the expenditures make the citizens suspect that the size of the budget is also tied to the disregard of bureaucrats for the worth of our tax money.

An example that many are questioning is the $41 million for a parking garage on Capitol Hill. The garage would house 1,900 cars, and the cost would be more than $22,000 a car—more than ten times what the cars in the garage are likely to be worth. The expensive garage in Grant Park, Chicago, by contrast cost $3,300 per car to build.

The National Association of Manufacturers points up a situation in the Internal Revenue Service which is worth mentioning. They charge that in addition to regular pay raises Congress has been voting, regularly, the IRS employees have been gaining in another way.

It's simple. Everyone seems to get promoted. The IRS has about 52,000 employees, and in the last five years, 34,380 promotions have been made according to the NAM. Not bad. Now the IRS is asking money to promote 12,171 employees in the next year.

This amounts to upgrading practically the whole staff, and the merit system has just about gone out the window.

Most voters would again like to hear cost saving methods instead of continually asking for more money.

Kennedy Family Trips Might Be Worthwhile

The traveling Kennedys have launched another member of the family. It is a pretty safe bet today that if the President is not abroad some member of the family is.

Since President Kennedy's inauguration this is the travel schedule:
Four months after taking office JFK's state visit to Canada.
At six months President and First Lady visit London, Paris and Vienna.

More recently the President and First Lady visited Venezuela and Colombia.
Before his illness father Joe and Mrs. Kennedy wintered on the Riviera.

President's young brother Ted on recent fact finding trip to Poland, Israel and Greece.
Older brother Bobby just back from global good will tour.

At the moment Jackie is off to New Delhi, the capital of India.

This is not all wrong and as a matter of fact, it is not unprecedented. Some of the tours appear to have added a plus. The New York Times has reported: "In Japan, Bobby Kennedy made the top news every day for a week in four newspapers with more than 3 million circulation each. His face was on TV most of the day. Everyone in Tokyo seemed to know him when he rode by."

Milton Eisenhower performed similar duties for his brother. If it should be asked why the Nation's top legal office should qualify one especially for the role of unofficial ambassador, it might equally have been inquired why the presidency of John Hopkins University would do so.

Perhaps these friendly visits combat some of the unfavorable feelings we seem to have generated abroad. The baton on informal diplomacy now passes to the First Lady and we trust her charm fits the occasion.

The Man About Town
Got Started Here

Noted Author, Newspaper Writer Born in Pontiac

Excessively miniature: That "9" figure on the gas station signs.

A native of Pontiac, Dr. Arthur Pound, now living in Ann Arbor, became one of nation's leading authors. His most outstanding work in that field is "The Turning Wheel," the story of the first 25 years of General Motors. His list includes several other best sellers, some of which have a Pontiac locale in them.

But he likes most to tell of his early experiences in Pontiac. His first newspaper work was on The Pontiac Press soon after it was established in 1900.

He volunteered for restaurant work at the Michigan State Fair when it was held here early in the century. This led him into the job of caretaker of a carnival of sheep being shipped from here to Flint, and he wrestled with hoboes and tramps on the same train.

That was his first entry into Flint, where he lived many years, and married one of that city's most prominent young ladies, daughter of an industrialist. Dr. Pound recollects the keen rivalry between Pontiac and Flint in the horse and buggy days, and how the races between their fire department horses was the outstanding event of their annual county fairs.

To start off this week in The Pontiac area, the Old Farmer's Almanac says: "White crystals are missiles," and for the rest of the week: "Don't roam from home."

He Wasn't Alone After All!

David Lawrence Says:
Morality Lacking in World Politics

WASHINGTON — A look around the world today causes many a person to remark that things have never seemed so troubled — as if something new in the way of human friction has been introduced. But actually the world has seen much more troublesome times, and it has struggled for centuries with the very same conflicts of power, ambition, and greed. Indeed, impatience for a quick solution is in itself not novel.

Even as far back as the 1890s the czar of the Russian empire was talking about disarmament and proposing international agreements. As for wars and threats of wars, these have been almost constant.

What is most controversial in this country today perhaps is the direction and purpose of American policies toward the rest of the world. There are plenty of people in the United States — sometimes called "isolationists" — who overemphasize the present situation by regarding it as a forerunner of world government. This is really at the root of their antipathy to the United Nations.

But if ever there was a time when international-sovereignty, independence, self-determination were imprinted on the minds of people everywhere, it is today. The truth is that the pressure upon the United Nations to develop some formula for preserving order in the world is not by any means a trend toward world government, but really a desperate effort to find some way to keep sovereign nations from impairing the independence and autonomy of each in their countries large and small.

DRIFT TO ANARCHY
The fact that a vote is given in the U.N. General Assembly to every nation that calls itself independent, even though its people or its leaders may be by no means sufficiently educated to understand or apply the processes of self-government, is a sign of the drift toward world government. It is, unfortunately, more of a drift toward world anarchy.

The big Western powers themselves—the United States, Great Britain, and France—have not discovered thus far a formula for getting along with or defeating the "imperialism" of the Soviet Union. The worldwide contest, called the "cold war," is going on throughout all continents at the instigation of one aggressive government—the Soviet autocrat.

The Western group has found as yet no effective way to overcome the infiltration carried on by its avowed enemy. It's the "Trojan horse" philosophy of the Soviets—the camouflage of "peaceful co-existence" and "total disarmament."

A strong anti-squid may bring the skin and, by so doing, handicap your defenders.

Don't try to kill invaders by painting the overlying skin with a strong anti-squid. Even the most powerful germ killer won't be able to penetrate the various layers of the skin in sufficient strength to destroy more than a handful of bacteria, if that many.

The Country Parson

Voice of the People:
'Making Profit in Business
Proving Difficult in U. S.'

Factories, industries, contractors, merchants and farmers are employers of labor. Each must profit in their operation or quit and throw employees out of work. There is no incentive to start a new business or expand an old business if there is no chance to make profits.

Labor unions are strongest in Michigan, yet it is in this state where unemployment is most serious. More pay for less work does not produce jobs. Would it not be wise for labor and government to cooperate with instead of opposing business?

It is getting tougher to make a profit in business in the U.S. Labor, taxes and all expenses are high. This increases the cost of production and makes it difficult to compete with business in foreign countries which are taking over world markets formerly supplied by industry here. This makes jobs for workers in their countries and loses jobs for workers here. Foreigners used to flock to the U.S. for jobs and good pay. It is going to be necessary for men in the U.S. to go to other countries in order to find work. Pay there is less, but living expenses are less, also.

'Parochial Schools Should Stand Alone'

"H.C." does not compare the cost of each system correctly. About 70 per cent of public school costs go for teachers' salaries. Salaries are a small item in the parochial school budget. (At $53 a year tuition, I am assuming "H.C." means parochial.) The teaching sisters receive well under $2,500 a year, probably nearer $1,500.

In my parish the $540 tuition for 12 years is not sufficient to support the school. The entire parish is expected to contribute toward the school.

Free education is open to all. Those who elect to send their children to a private or parochial school must increase with public support and I consider tax aid to my parochial school as a threat to religious liberty.

"H.C." does not appear to be aware of the philosophy of public education or parochial education.

To Negotiate
Canal Treaty

PANAMA. (AP)—Within a few weeks the United States will face the sticky task of renegotiating the treaty governing the Panama Canal.

Panamanian negotiators, led by President Roberto F. Chiari, are expected to press for more revenue and Panamanian sovereignty over the canal which cuts through Panama.

The original treaty signed in 1903 gave the United States perpetual rights to the canal, a 50-mile stretch from Colon to Panama City, and a five-mile zone on either side.

Panamanian officials believe that the perpetual rights clause is unique in treaties and unfair. "The canal is an economic and natural resource for us," said Chiari, press secretary to Chiari. "It is the only thing with which we have to bargain."

Panamanians want their flag to fly over the zone, or at least to be flown jointly with the U.S. flag. They believe that ships transiting the canal should fly the Panamanian flag.

The United States pays Panama a flat yearly sum. The original annual sum of $250,000 in effect for many years has risen progressively. Last year it was $19 million, which Panamanian officials say is too small.

Case Records of a Psychologist:
Use 'Gimmicks' in Advertising

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
Case L-455: Mrs. Crane recently met me at the railroad station in Danville, Ill.

Since it was a Monday night when the stores remained open until late she wanted to do a little shopping.

So I dropped into a drug store for something to eat. And I saw a special bunch of bananas at the soda fountain.

Each banana had a little white slip attached. If a customer wanted to order a banana split, he was to choose any one of the bananas.

Then he was to present it at the soda fountain. In front of the soda jerk, he then peeled off the slip of paper, for underneath was a number that indicated the price of the banana split.

And the numbers ranged anywhere from 1 cent to 39 cents. Customers enjoying this novel method of pricing their own banana split.

One little boy got his big banana split for only 5 cents while I was looking on.

Indeed, if I hadn't been dieting and under the eagle eye of Mrs. Crane, I'd have been tempted to try my luck, both because I like banana splits and also enjoy the zest of taking a chance.

Obviously, a merchant couldn't make money if he were to include every single slip with 1 cent or even 5 cents thereon.

But this advertising "gimmick" really produced results, even with an occasional price tag well under the 39 cent usual charge.

It is such "gimmicks" (as advertisers call them) which often spell the difference between profit and loss.

"Only two to a customer" was a sign familiar during war rationing, and also used deftly by many merchants long afterwards.

For example, a grocer of my acquaintance loaded up with a certain brand of soap, it wasn't selling well.

In desperation, he looked around for a "gimmick" and decided to use that sign "Only two to a customer." It worked.

Soon his entire supply of soap was sold, for that sign indicated such a great demand that the soap was being forced to limit the number of bars per buyer.

Even in college we have found that the students also are fond of true-false or 4-answer exams than the old "essay" type, where we asked a question and then let them write at length in a blue book to offer their reply.

For students figure they have an opportunity to beat the laws of chance.

Thus, even in a Sunday School quiz, if you ask, "The boy who slew Goliath was?" Joseph Abraham-David-Peter, you offer the youngsters a chance to guess.

And this uncertainty proves intriguing, which is why far more banana splits were sold when you could pick your own.

could pick off your own choice of a banana from the large bunch, and then look underneath the white paper covering the price you would have to pay.

Churches, as well as schools, should wake up to these rules of applied psychology and use them to advantage for God undoubtedly prefers smart followers instead of the stupid variety.

'Criminologist' Real Help to NY Law

Man of Many Keys Locked Up

NEW YORK (U) — James Edmund Nickens, 41, described by police as a man of many keys, needs only one key today. But he hasn't got it. Detectives investigating the theft of 72 cases of liquor from a bar and grill in a downtown building Sunday came upon Nickens—the superintendent—sleeping on the building's second floor. The building was closed for the weekend.

Few to Collect for Storm Loss

Expect $1 Million to Be Paid for Estimated $300 Million Damage

NEW YORK (U) — The Insurance Information Institute says relatively few persons who lost homes and businesses in the storm that ravaged the East Coast last week will be able to collect insurance.

"Perhaps a million dollars" will be paid in storm losses, a spokesman for the institute said Sunday. Damage to private and public facilities in the devastated areas has been estimated as high as $300 million.

The spokesman said virtually all storm insurance policies have standard exclusion clauses that leave the policyholder unprotected when damage results "from wave wash, rising waters and flooding."

Policies for this type of protection are available, the spokesman said, but premiums are so high that virtually no one takes out such a policy.

The storm swept up the Eastern Seaboard last Tuesday, dumping rain to three feet of snow in inland areas and battering the coastline with high winds, inundating tides and freezing rain.

Its backwash pounded the shore from Miami Beach to southern New England for three days, pushing tide into already flooded areas and reshaping many beaches.

The Red Cross reported that a preliminary survey showed that 1,374 dwellings in a six-state area on the coast had been destroyed by the storm and that 2,383 homes had sustained major damage while 8,291 others sustained minor damage.

Altogether, the Red Cross said, 16,429 families suffered losses in the storm.

"I'm a criminologist," he told police on being awakened. "I'll help you out."

Detectives said he did. His footprints, they said, led directly from the bar and grill to a fifth-floor storage room, where, among other things, police found the missing cases of liquor.

The other things found included 60 keys—all tagged with addresses and room numbers—as well as blanks for virtually every type of lock made in this country, police said.

Police said Nickens had keys for every room of certain floors of two big hotels, plus keys to all offices on one floor of a mid-town building, plus a full professional outfit for making more keys, plus such specialized tools as an electric lock picker and a lock scope to enable their user to get a "reading" on a lock in minutes.

The detectives theorized that Nickens "rented" out his keys and knowhow to others for a share of the loot. Not so, said the superintendent, although he acknowledged the equipment was his.

Nickens was booked on charges of burglary and possession of burglar's tools.

The key he's missing? It's the key to his jail cell.

Attend Benefit for Boy, 3, Who Died Last Week

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — More than 1,000 persons attended a party for 3-year-old Jimmy Schaffer, Volunteer performers put on a variety show and an orchestra played for dancing at the party, intended to raise money for the leukemia victim.

Jimmy wasn't there. He died a week ago.

The Fraternal Order of Police decided to go ahead with the benefit to help the boy's parents, patrolman and Mrs. James J. Schaffer. The couple had sold their house to meet the cost of treatment.

To Launch Missiles From 10 Miles Away

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A remote radio launch system will be used to fire Minuteman intercontinental range missiles once they are placed in underground silos starting this year. Command signals will be sent from centers up to 10 miles away.

The communications system will employ antennas buried a few feet underground next to a control central site. Transmitted radio waves will penetrate to the earth's surface where they will bend and travel along the ground to buried receiving antennas at the Minuteman silo.

This system will be virtually impossible for an enemy to jam or sabotage.

Seek to Woo Skilled Workers From the U.S.

Canada Worried by Loss of Citizens to America

OTTAWA (UPI) — The exodus of many of Canada's most gifted and skilled citizens has authorities here concerned.

The Immigration Department, in fact, has launched a campaign to woo more skilled workers from the United States to lessen the effect of the drain.

Over the past decade an average of 30,000 Canadians annually moved to the United States to seek higher wages, greater employment opportunities, study, or find a milder climate. The number of Americans taking up residence in Canada has been exactly half that.

What bothers authorities is the high percentage of university graduates who go to the United States after receiving a partially-subsidized education paid for by Canadian taxpayers. Professional and technical people, with engineers in the lead, form one-quarter of those who leave.

IMMIGRATION DOWN

Canada, a big, expanding nation with only 18 million inhabitants, has depended upon immigration from Europe to supplement home-grown professional and offset those who leave for the United States. But boom times in Europe and recession in Canada have kept many potential immigrants at home.

The Labor Department, after conducting a recent survey on the movement of professional workers, stated that emigration to the United States is expected to continue its "slightly upward trend" and that a net loss of professionals is probable. Already more engineers, draftsman and nurses leave Canada than enter.

James E. Coyne, former governor of the Bank of Canada, said recently that Canadians should find a place at home for their talents.

John Matheson, a member of Parliament, said in a speech several weeks ago that Canada's greatest export is brains.

U.S. ambassador to India John Galbraith, for instance, is but one of several Canadian-born persons prominent in the Kennedy administration. He left Canada for post-graduate studies in the United States, and stayed.

James A. Chamberlain, another Canadian, has just been placed in charge of the U.S. Gemini two-man-orbit space project. He was one of several thousand engineers laid off in 1959 when the Canadian government cancelled plans for a Canadian-designed jet interceptor and ordered less expensive U.S. weaponry instead.

TO LURE MORE

Lt. Col. John Glenn's successful orbit is expected to lure more Canadians caught up in the challenge of the space age but unable to fulfill their ambitions here.

The U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration is recruiting 2,000 additional scientists and engineers.

The Professional Institute of the Public Service of Canada, the Chemical Institute of Canada and the Canadian Council of Professional Engineers all force a possible stepped-up drain to the United States.

The Immigration Department on the other hand, is convinced that more skilled Americans can be attracted to Canada if they better understand the living conditions and job opportunities here. Immigration officers in New York, Chicago, San Francisco and Denver, Colo., are seeing what they can do to even the flow.

Nehru Seeks to Make Enclaves Part of India

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru introduced a bill in parliament today providing for the merger of the three former Portuguese enclaves into India and for their direct administration from New Delhi.

Nehru also introduced another bill to amend the constitution incorporating the enclaves as part of India.

LOVES THAT FOUND — All 200 pounds of gold old Sam, the St. Bernard, are as mixed up as can be. The Denver, Colo., pooch has got it in his head that the pound is a second home. Every time Sam sees the dogcatcher's truck he leaps into the front seat and tries to lick the dogcatcher's hands. Ed Jones, one of his pound pals, hold him for a picture during one of three visits in two months.

Teen Stowaways 'Plane' Scared

CHICAGO (AP) — Two teenage boys returned home today after an unpaid — and they said unwitting — airplane ride to Michigan.

One of the youths, Kent T. Kopenka, 17, of suburban Hinsdale, said: "It was all a mistake. I had no idea where we were headed."

Kopenka and Richard Gross, 18, also of Hinsdale, surprised the crew of a United Air Lines passenger plane Sunday night by emerging sans tickets or money from the rest room of the airborne DC7.

The youths were turned over to Michigan State Police and an FBI agent when the plane made a scheduled stop at Muskegon, Mich. No charges were lodged and the boys were allowed to go home.

Kopenka said he and Gross began their adventure when they drove to Chicago's International Airport "for a look around."

The youths decided to see the inside of an airplane and snatched uninvited past a ticket window and two stewardesses. After chatting with the crew for a while, Kopenka said both entered a restroom on the plane.

"I was blowing my nose when all of a sudden I heard the engines revving up. We were both scared to death, so we just stayed in the rest room until the plane leveled off," Kopenka said.

"The two went out and told a pretty stewardess our problem. Boy, I've never seen a more astonished person in my life."

Kopenka said a state policeman drove them to Holland, Mich., where a westbound trucker gave the youths a ride to Hinsdale. They arrived home at 4 a.m.

"It was all a mistake," Kopenka said, "and we both learned a good lesson from it. I know I'll never snop around in airplanes anymore."

Insurance Payments Up

NEW YORK (UPI) — Payments to American families from their life insurance and annuity contracts totaled a record $2,782,800,000 in the first four months of 1961, the Institute of Life Insurance reports. This represents an increase of $136.6 million from the year earlier figure.

Charges President With Interference

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—State Rep. David C. Eldredge accused President Kennedy of intruding in a party primary and asked that he withdraw his endorsement of Rep. Dante Fascell, D-Fla., for re-election.

Eldredge is opposing Fascell for the 4th District seat in the May 8 Democratic primary.

The President endorsed Fascell during a Democratic dinner Saturday night.

Hurt Son, Kill Mother

MANILA, Philippines (AP)—A hit-and-run driver ran down a 2-year-old Daniel Salguero Sunday night. His mother, Paulina Salguero, left the child at a hospital with a broken leg and went home to get some clothes for him. On the way another hit-and-run driver killed her.

U.S. Buildup in S. Viet Nam Moves Into High Gear

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
Notes from the foreign news cables:

VICT NAM BUILDUP
The U. S. military buildup in South Viet Nam is really moving into high gear, according to high level military sources in the Far East.

The present troop strength level there, the sources say, is about 6,000 — although the figure generally mentioned in public is 5,000 to 4,000. The number is expected to hit 10,000 by June or July.

And it already has been disclosed by an authorized U. S. source that American military men are flying on combat missions to train Vietnamese crews.

Military sources in Saigon say that Gen. Paul D. Harkins, new American Military Assistance Group commander there, has the authority to request — and get — any men he wants from any U. S. Army command, with the exception of Europe.

Every command, including Europe, has been leveled upon to get some of the specialists Harkins needs to run his operation.

DE GAULLE VIEWS
French President Charles de Gaulle is said to be wavering on earlier plans to dissolve parliament and hold general elections soon after an Algerian cease-fire.

Some ministers are said to have warned there will be violence in both Algeria and France which would not constitute a good atmosphere for sending the nation to the polls.

But, even with the settlement of the Algerian problem, American diplomats in Paris have warned Washington there is nothing to indicate that De Gaulle will be any easier to deal with on other issues.

With the bulk of the French army back home, he has set his sights on making France once again Western Europe's number one military power.

CHINESE NUCLEAR
Some high level U. S. military men in the Far East believe the Red Chinese will achieve some sort of nuclear capability this year.

These sources say the Communist Chinese already have weapons capable of atomic delivery — but don't have the warheads yet.

POLISH FAIRMING
Look for Communist-run Poland's regime to give more and more of a free hand to private farmers in an effort to make up for the setbacks suffered last year by the country's collective farming system.

Polish Premier Wladyslaw Gomułka is reported as having said his government is not planning to enforce collectivization.

He also is said to have blamed collective farmers for not achieving the same high production level as private farmers, despite better working conditions.

RUSSIAN CONCESSIONS
There is no sign that the Russians are ready for any major concessions on Berlin at the Geneva foreign ministers talks.

But it would not surprise observers in Moscow if Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko pulled some new disarmament gimmick out of his sleeve when the 18-nation talks begin Wednesday.

It is doubted, however, that the Soviet stand at Geneva will be changed on the key question of control. This is the key to Western agreement and heretofore has been the main stumbling block to any East-West arms agreement.

TROOP MORALE
U. S. military planners already are moving to make sure the morale of American troops in South Viet Nam remains high. Sources say that construction will begin soon on five rest and recreation centers in beach and mountain resort areas around Saigon.

Turkish Search Team Reaches Plane Wreck

ADANA, Turkey (AP) — Members of a search team reached the wreckage Sunday of a Turkish airliner that crashed on a mountain near here Thursday. They confirmed there were no survivors among the 11 persons aboard.

The victims were nine Turks and two American employees of a construction company in Turkey.

Charles Lindbergh's famed flight to Paris in 1927 took 33 hours 39 minutes. About 30,000 women in the U.S. lose their lives by accident each year.

Russian Leaders Never Give---They Only Take

By RUTH MONTGOMERY
WASHINGTON — The technical and scientific equipment carried in our space craft is so superior to Russian instruments that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's craft suggests we pool our resources for space exploration.

America is so far superior to Russia in nuclear power that the Soviets dare not sign a treaty to ban further testing.

We are absent in many other important fields as well, but judging by past history the Western nations will gallantly pitch in to help Russia catch up.

Britain and Canada, for instance, are already parading "business as usual" by trading highly strategic goods to Russia and Red China, and we are anxiously trying to help the Kremlin solve its agriculture and production problems.

President John F. Kennedy is a keen student of world history. It is good, therefore, that his attention has been called to a tremendously significant book by G. P. Putnam's Sons.

Titled "East Mins West—Zero," it was written by Werner Keller and translated from the German by Constantine Fitzgibbon.

Dr. Keller, a German author and scholar, effectively explodes the Soviet myth of Communist superiority, and demonstrates that Russian power throughout the ages has been totally dependent on short-sighted Western nations who supplied the know-how, and even the experts and technicians to do the job.

BACK TO EARLY DAYS
From the earliest days Russia has borrowed what it could not steal from the West, and has then used it to destroy its benefactors.

The current globe-trotting of Khrushchev and his exchange mission sounds like a page torn from the travel book of Peter the Great, who with his entourage toured the shipyards and factories of 17th century Europe. Tsar Peter's first stop was at Riga, the bulwark of Sweden's frontier which Peter's father, Alexei, had unsuccessfully besieged.

Writes Keller: "While most of his entourage set off to find lodgings, Peter went at once to examine the bastions, with their walls."

It was the same story in each of the countries visited. Just as with the Bolshevik five-year-plans more than two centuries later, Peter enlisted skilled workers, specialists and designers wherever he went, taking thousands of them back to Russia. Keller says of the trip:

"Soon Russia was to reap the benefits, but the West was to bear the cost. For under the cloak of an 'embassy' this journey had been nothing more nor less than a well-organized plundering expedition across the length and breadth of Europe."

Peter immediately ordered his borrowed experts to build a fleet, and when it was completed he turned it first against Turkey in surprise attack, and then against Sweden, which had previously provided him with 600 modern cannon and 300 new guns.

As Lenin was to do in 1920, Peter to spearhead Russia's missile and space program.

Peter made a second journey to Europe 20 years after the first, and all doors were again opened to him. The West had learned nothing by his previous looking and war mongering. He was "allowed" to pry and poke about as he wished, measuring the sluices and harbour installations with his yardstick.

He used foreigners to modernize Russia, but he denied free entry and transit to travelers, kept the Ural trade routes closed and refused to allow Russians to travel abroad. So did Catherine the Great and subsequent tsars. Does this sound familiar today?

The book painstakingly traces Russia's boundless sponging on the West, and tells how the Communists, begot, borrowed and stole their military and industrial arsenal from us during and after World War II.

Without the West, Russia could never have become a threat to the peace of the world. A host of American and European engineers and scientists pooled their technical know-how to build Red Russia into a first rate power.

Would it really be wise to pool our resources with Russia for exploration of outer space? Should we even share our farm and production know-how? Russia has never given. It only takes.

India to Peiping: Trade OK if ...

Aggressive Program
Must End if Pact With Tibet to Be Extended

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru's government has told Red China she must change her "aggressive policies" if she wants to extend the trade pact between India and China-occupied Tibet, President Rajendra Prasad told parliament today.

Prasad said Peiping had offered to negotiate a new trade pact to replace the 1954 agreement expiring on June 2.

In a speech written by the Nehru government to inaugurate the three-week lane dark session, Prasad said:

"My government, responding by way of reply, has asked for a reversal of the aggressive policies pursued by our neighbor and for restoration of a climate of peace on the basis of strict observance of the five principles of peaceful coexistence."

Prime Minister Nehru has accused Red China of occupying 12,000 square miles of Indian territory in Ladakh on the Himalayan frontier. Red China accused India last month of sending a reconnaissance plane over its territory in Ladakh.

Prasad also touched on the situation in the Congo, saying:

"India is gratified, there are some indications of a cooperative United Nations outlook between the Western powers and the Soviet Union 'regarding the Congo.'"

Although India would like to bring its troops home from the Congo, "my government for the essential tasks for which India sent troops there remain unfilled and has agreed to continue troops there," he added.

Find Underground Sea

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet geologists have discovered an underground sea in the region of the Dniester and Molochny rivers in the Ukraine, Moscow Radio says. Scientists have recommended using the waters of the sea, over 300 feet deep in some places, for irrigation projects.

"Must I Suffer
All My Life
because I'm a woman?"

Remarkable tablet can relieve female ailments at any age... both monthly cramps and "hot flashes" of change-of-life!

Just because you're a woman you don't have to suffer nasty cramps. Don't have to go through the change with fear, misery! Today, most women can relieve "female suffering" of any age—with Pinkham Tablets!

To doctor's tests with Pinkham Tablets, most young women no longer suffered agonizing "period pains". In middle-age, 3 out of 4 tested got remarkable relief from distress of change-of-life! No costly shots were used. Taking Pinkham Tablets alone, "hot flashes" subsided. Nervousness is calmed. Then you can start living a full, happy life again!

When simple iron-deficiency anemia robs you of energy, Pinkham Tablets are also a blessing! Rich in iron, they help strengthen blood and vitality! So don't "give in" to female ailments. Get Lydia E. Pinkham Tablets from drugstore. Take daily, like vitamin! See if you don't find new peace-of-mind, new relief from physical distress.

If you prefer a liquid drugstore also have famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Miriam Hopkins Rambles in Her Big City House

By PHYLIS BATTLE

NEW YORK—The most exclusive block of lovely, costly houses in Manhattan backs up against the East River and is called Sutton Place. The handful of people who own these residences have such names as Vanderbilt, Roosevelt, Onassis. There is only one owner who admits, happily, to working for a living.

"Hi!" called Miriam Hopkins, actress-landlady, peering over the balustrade of an elegant staircase that curls up four floors. "Come on up—the fire's fine."

In the sitting room, tastefully furnished in silk brocade and original Matisse, the fire, sure enough, was warm and lively. But no more so than the diminutive Miss Hopkins, Broadway star of the 1920s, Hollywood great of the '30s and '40s, now a combination actress-real estate owner.

"It all started about 35 years ago—Good Lord, was it that long—when I was on Broadway in a play called "Thou Desperate Plot," began Miss Hopkins, who speaks a southern accent in big time.

"I didn't make much money so on the side I wrote plays. One day I went to see the head of the American Play Company, a wonderful old lady who lived in this house. I was so impressed.

WHO, ME?

"This lady said if I liked this house, I should go ahead with my writing—that someday she'd be dead, and I could buy the house."

"I said, 'Who, Me?' Why, I'd had three roposeous warnings for not paying rent on my little apartment in Greenwich Village! But just to show you how things happen, it was only 10 years later that I suddenly was in Hollywood, with a chauffeur and a swimming pool. And the lady died. I rushed back and arranged to buy this wonderful nutty house."

"Sam Goldwyn—he'd just signed me to a contract—said

what in Heaven's name would I do with a house in New York City? My life was in California, he said. You know what I said? I said maybe so, but I'm going to die in New York." The tiny star smiled broadly. "You see?"

But there is no question of Miss Hopkins, settling down to the sedentary life here. She will not, for long, occupy her fabulous house which has at least quadrupled in value in the past quarter-century. She leases it out (last tenants, the Jule Stykes, who had it five years), and spends most of her time in a small penthouse 10 blocks away.

UNHAPPILY WED

"I would live here if I were happily married to somebody."

But it happens I lived here rather unhappily married twice, and I'm afraid things come in threes. Besides, it's too much work running a four-story house. You have to have servants. And servants eat lamb chops, strawberries and Devonshire cream three times a day. You know?"

So presently, this week perhaps, she will turn over the house to new, wealthy (they'd have to be) tenants and move back to her terrace-circled three-room apartment.

"It's almost time to start planting the geraniums again," she said. "I always plant the terrace because I know the minute I do it, I'll get a job out on the West Coast. The same principle as when you light a cigarette, the dinner arrives.

You know?"

Last spring, the very day she planted the terrace, a call came from director William Wyler in California, urging her to come to Hollywood to play in "The Children's Hour," her first film in 10 years. It is a revised version of the Lillian Hellman play in which Miss Hopkins co-starred with Merle Oberon back in 1936. This time, Shirley MacLaine plays her old role, and Miriam finds herself in the position of portraying her own aunt.

ROLE SO FUNNY

As it turned out, Miss Hopkins made the role so humorous and sympathetic that, for the sake of the pace and mood of the movie's theme, much of her performance had to be cut from the final version. "This I'm saying without bitterness," she said wryly, "I'm glad the back of my hair looked neat."

Miss Hopkins, who has been busy with occasional TV and stage performances this last decade, admitted that she cringes mentally when she thinks of an acting future in which "little starlets look up at me, batting their eyes, and say 'Mama' or 'Auntie.'"

Yet she'll continue to act, as long as meaty roles become available.

She wants to continue to be the only homemaker in Sutton Place who could be called a working girl.

House Lackadaisical on Rules to Elect Representatives

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — House members today showed little interest in efforts to boost the House membership and to force states to stop playing tricks with congressional districts. Every so often there's a burst of activity in the House on these twin problems. In the end the House shows too little interest to do anything. It seems the same this year. History tells the story.

YEAR 1787
The constitutional convention of 1787 decided each state should have two senators, elected by state legislatures. This was changed by the 17th amendment in 1913 to let the voters do the electing.

The convention, however, said voters should directly elect representatives in the House. This was to make Congress more democratic.

Ethel Waters in Good Condition After Collapse

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Famed actress and blues singer Ethel Waters was in good condition today following her collapse Saturday night while singing at a Youth-for-Christ church program.

The 61-year-old performer said she fainted just as she started to sing "His Eye Is on the Sparrow." The song also is the title of her best-selling autobiography.

"The Lord took care of the situation," Miss Waters said. "I'm just tired."

The stage and screen actress, who made famous the songs "Stormy Weather" and "Am I Blue," was hospitalized with a heart ailment two years ago.

Reports Glenn's Flight Eliminated Some Work

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—The success of astronaut John H. Glenn Jr.'s sixth orbital mission eliminated some of the steps in planning future flights into space. Lt. Col. John (Shorty) Powers told the Florida Society of Editors.

Powers, Project Mercury information officer, told the editors Saturday night Glenn's flight increased both the altitude and speed of man's flight capabilities about fivefold in one step.

The arrangement was that the number of representatives allowed each state must be based on its population. To check on the population there had to be a census every 10 years. It's been that way since the first Congress, which began with 65 House members, representing about 30,000 each.

Every 10 years thereafter until 1913, with the exception of 1843, Congress increased the number of House members to keep pace with the growing population. In 1913 there were 435 members.

House membership has remained at 435 since, although the population of about 185 million now is twice what it was in 1913. All attempts since 1913 to raise the permanent House membership have failed.

There have been arguments for it: the work of the 435 has increased enormously. In 1913

State legislatures, then and now, have played politics in deciding the size and population of districts, depending upon which party ran the legislature. Some call this gerrymandering, some plain larceny.

But in all the laws passed by Congress on districting since 1842—which hardly meant more than telling state legislatures to be nice—Congress has never told the states what its districts should be. Under present law the simple requirements of the 1842 law have been dropped. So there are still cries of gerrymandering and some large members still have to run at large.

In this year's congressional elections, as a result of the 1960 census showing shifts in population, nine states gain House seats, 18 lose some, Massachusetts is one of the losers.

There, where the Democratic legislature and the Republican governor can't agree on redistricting to allow for a just two seats, if they don't get together, all candidates for the remaining 12 House seats may have to run at large.

Nation's Girl Scouts, Celebrating 50th Anniversary

Girl Scouts of America are celebrating the organization's 50th birthday this week.

On March 12, 1912 in Savannah, Ga., Juliette Gordon Low organized this country's first troop of 12 girls, employing and adapting the principles of England's Lord Baden Powell, founder of the Scouting movement.

Golden anniversary activities are slated this week throughout the nation. Locally, Northern Oakland County Girl Scout Council has received a proclamation from Mayor Philip E. Rowston, designating today as the golden anniversary of Scouting and March 11-17 as Girl Scout Week.

OPEN TO ALL

Girl Scouting is open to all girls seven through 17, regardless of race, creed or nationality. The organization has a single over-all program of activities graded according to three age levels: Brownies, seven through nine years; intermediate Scouts, ten through 13; and Senior Scouts, 14 through 17. Each group has its own uniform.

Activities in 11 fields, including arts and crafts, literature and drama, nature, health and safety and homemaking, are featured in the Girl Scout program.

In keeping with the 50th anniversary pledge "Honor the Past—Serve the Future," Scouts throughout the United States will offer a "birthday present" to their communities in the form of service to children. As its way of thanking the community for support of Girl Scouting, Northern Oakland County Council members have chosen service to boys and girls at the Pontiac State Hospital. The program will cover a full year, beginning this week through March 10, 1962.

PRESENTATION

Launching this year of service to the hospital was the presentation of a tape recorder, stereo phonograph, records and speakers to Dr. Walter Obensh, superintendent of the institution. Funds for the contribution were earned through donation of one week's dues by each participating Girl Scout troop. A continuous 52-week year of direct service to the children will follow. Council chairman for the project is Mrs. Albert Shott of Rochester.

Another phase of the golden anniversary celebration is "Blossoms for the Birthday Years." During 1962 Scouts will plant blossoms of all varieties to beautify their communities. Many blossoms, both real and artificial, will be featured in birthday activities here.

Altars in many area churches were adorned yesterday, Girl Scout Sunday, with flowers donated by the group. Girls in the Rochester and Avon district have made 2,000 daisy flowers for public distribution this week. In memory of Miss Low, some Waterford Scouts will be giving daffodils and tulips fashioned from yellow crepe paper. In Lake Orion flowers have an international flavor, as Japanese cherry blossoms are proffered.

PLANT GARDEN

A yellow rose garden has been planted in the mall at Miracle Mile Shopping Center in honor of the anniversary celebration.

Although somewhat altered since 1912, camping has endured as a favorite of Girl Scouts. Several Girl Scout day camps operate during the summer, offering both Brownies and intermediates opportunities for camping close to home. Other girls may go troop camping with their leaders. Camp Sherwood, operated by the council, provides resident campment opportunities for girls from 7 to 17.

Senior scouts will have a special camping privilege this golden anniversary year at the Senior Roundup, an encampment for senior Girl Scouts from throughout the United States. Eight girls from the Northern Oakland County Council will attend roundup this July in Button Bay, Vt.

At 6 this evening over 300 Brownies, Girl Scouts and mothers will attend the fourth annual Downtown St. Benedict's neighborhood banquet at the 300 Bowl.

Table decorations have been made by each of the 13 participating troops. The program will feature the film "Something for the Girls," which depicts progress in the fifty years of scouting.

Certificates of appreciation will be presented to scout leaders, and a five-year pin will be awarded Mrs. Frank Harding.

Guests for the evening will include Mrs. Evelyn Tripp, Rev. Richard A. Schoenherr, the Harold J. Hemmings, Mrs. Iva O'Dell, Mrs. Warren Allen, Mrs. Jay Bendall and Mrs. Ted Gibson.

JULIETTE GORDON LOW
Founder of Girl Scouts of the U.S.A.

Mayor Philip E. Rowston happily meets with three area scouts to sign a proclamation urging citizens to pause and to reflect upon the organization's good work in relation to welfare of the

Scouting's outdoor program, be it a back-yard cookout or a two-week session at Camp Sherwood, continues to be a favorite. With an eye to spring and summer camping, Milford Scouts Victoria Gates (left) and Cathy Zachow are making charcoal stoves.

Designed Displays for Flower Show

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Allan F. Dalsimer owns a thumb so green that to him even golf is a green inspection.

"A gardener never stops gardening," said Dalsimer of Cedarhurst, N.Y. "When I play golf, I look at the grass to see what's wrong with it."

Currently, Dalsimer is gardening 180,000 square feet of concrete at the New York Coliseum, scene of the 46th International Flower Show.

Dalsimer, who each year since 1937 has exhibited at the show, for the first time is serving as its architect. He, his assistant, M. Paul Friedberg, and the show's executive director, John F. Edwards, are the men who map where each floral and foliage display goes.

MAPS OUT SHOW

Long before show opening time, Dalsimer has blueprinted every inch of the two floors the show occupies and has scale models of every individual garden. This, he said, assures that the show has overall harmony and aesthetic appeal.

that a brilliant display of tropical foliage is not competing with the delicate hyacinth, for instance.

The architect's job is a monumental one. There are more than half a million plants, not including the numerous cut flower displays.

One exhibit involved hauling in by trailer truck (the trucks cruise around the coliseum before opening day as if they were on a turnpike) 47-foot black pine with five tons of soil burled around its roots to keep it thriving.

POOLS BIG ITEMS

With this one display went 40 tons of boulders to form a massive waterfall, brick walls and hundreds of flowering shrubs.

Waterfalls and pools are big items at flower shows. And Dalsimer said that the water had to be recirculated by pump. The catch basins have to be leakproof, because there is an antique show going on simultaneously, on the floor below.

Some 400 exhibitors make up the show, which is expected to attract 285,000 persons from city dwellers, who garden a window box to estate owners.

The exhibitor who hauled in the boulders and pine trees is a commercial one, and Dalsimer estimated the cost of the display at around $40,000. It cost around $2,000 just to transport the pine. He guessed that another exhibitor — an individual who owns an estate and can afford to haul the flora from it — spent about $25,000.

HAS 4 RULES

He said the show has four basic rules — that no artificial plants are permitted, that construction such as trellis, etc., cannot dominate the floral setting, that the plants be in first-class condition (every plant has a stand-in case it begins to sag), and that each be dug with enough dirt and protected with peat moss so that it can be returned to its natural setting after the show.

Dalsimer is a landscape nurseryman, as was his father before him. He studied at Columbia College and at the University of Frankfurt, in Germany, and has one son who is a graduate student in landscaping at the University of California, at Berkeley. Another son is with the State Department in Upper Volta, Africa.

I asked the architect whether a garden club woman had changed much from the Pouter Pigeon types made famous in cartoons by the late Helen Hokeness.

"Oh yes," smiled Dalsimer. "If Helen were around now, she'd find most of them are slim matrons in skinny trousers."

Checking a United States map for Button Bay, Vt., where they will attend the Girl Scouts Senior Roundup in July are (from left) Sandra Bragen, Auburn Heights; Ann Aldrich, Rochester; Leslie Seiss, Hillcrest Drive; and Jane Tripp, Voorhees Road. The four will be among eight area girls at the encampment for Senior Scouts from throughout the nation.

"Honor the Past—Serve the Future" is the Girl Scouts' 50th birthday motto. The service pledge is well-expressed graphically as (from left) Suzanne Shott, Rochester, and scout leader Mrs. Elwyn Tripp, Voorhees Road, present a tape recorder and stereo phonograph to Pontiac State Hospital. Dr. Gisela Schroeder, director of the hospital's children's unit, accepts the gift.

Public distribution of "Blossoms for the Birthday Years" is another project of the Girl Scouts' golden anniversary celebration. Above (from left) Rochester Scouts Patricia Barath and Connie Mulinski, who are fashioning paper daisies, pause to watch sisters Deborah and Cherie Kelley of Lake Orion make gay Japanese cherry blossoms.

Urge Art Interest Stimulated

Parent Teachers Associations are urged to work with teachers and school officials in stimulating art interest and participation among school children in conjunction with the month of March's designation as "Children's Art Month" by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Chairman of the Cultural Arts Committee for the Michigan PTA Board, Mrs. Christian Rosemond of Lansing, suggests museum trips and exchanges of arts and crafts between schools and grades.

Other suggestions include studies of great artists, projects to obtain additional pictures for the schools, craft and hobby shows and international art festivals.

Alpha Nu Chapter Holds 1st Meeting

First meeting of the newly organized Alpha Nu Chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa, national honorary education society, was held at the Angelus Drive home of Mrs. William Kish, president.

Members attending the Thursday gathering were Beverly Barkeley, Dorothy Bell, Mrs. Richard Berge, Mrs. Charles Fournier, Mrs. V. Henry McCandless, Mrs. Frederick Tschirhart, Mrs. Ronald Voorhees and Mrs. Muri Webster.

He's OK, Abby Says

Boy Knits in Classroom

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: The boy behind me in freshman English brings a knitting bag to school and knits in class! He appears to be normal in every respect, but how can this be?

At first everyone giggled and made remarks, but now nobody pays any attention to it.

He is very good looking, clean-cut and polite, but a little on the effeminate side.

I would really like to get to know him better but my dorm sisters tell me there must be something wrong with him. Can a boy be normal and knit in public?

ON THE LEVEL

DEAR ON: He certainly can. And any male who knits in public is obviously masculine enough to defend himself.

DEAR ABBY: I think I am psychic. My husband is in the Navy and stands guard duty now and then. When he has guard duty, he has to sleep at the barracks. Something told me, the last time he said he had guard duty, that he really didn't and that he went out with another woman instead.

I did some checking and found out he got a buddy to take his duty and he did not sleep at the barracks. When I told him I knew he wasn't at the barracks, he admitted it, but denied there was a woman in the picture.

Should I believe him? And how do you account for my knowing as much as I did without being told?

PSYCHIC WIFE

DEAR PSYCHIC: Call it a combination of knowing your own husband and a woman's intuition. Believe him this time, but don't give him too much rope or he'll slip again.

DEAR ABBY: Tell UNUSUAL BREED that he is not as "unusual" as he thinks he is. As a young man, some fifty years ago, I determined to stay "pure" for the woman I married. And I have known many other young men along life's way who had the same idea. From a backward look of over seventy years, I can attest that it was a good idea. Although death took two wives from me, I have never violated that principle, and I can truthfully say I have—

NO REGRETS

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend's birthday falls four days before mine. If I give him a gift, do you think he will think I am doing it so he will give me one?

SHIRLEY

DEAR SHIRLEY: If you think he'll think that's the reason—he probably will, too. (P.S. Is it?)

Still worrying about the same old problem? Write to Abby for a personal reply. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Always Saying 'Yes' Spoils Your Children

MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
 Dear Mrs. Lawrence:
 My husband has had a fight with my stepdaughter over the way she and her husband spoil their 7-year-old girl. The child gets her own way in everything, because her parents know that she is jealous of their younger girl.

Her bedtime is 8:30 but when we are at the house she is allowed to hang around in the living room arguing and fighting about going upstairs until 10 o'clock.
 Last Sunday night my husband got mad and went home early because he couldn't stand it. But I don't want trouble and keep telling him that it's none of his business.

ANSWER: Maybe he is fond of his granddaughter.
 If we like a child, we do not enjoy watching his parents give him what they begrudge giving him.

It is not pleasant to be a child whose parents let you have what they don't want you to have. You may win the ice cream cone or the delayed bedtime — but your victory is lonely for you know that your parents take no pleasure in your satisfaction. You know they are against it.

TWO BAD RESULTS
 So two things happen. You have to look for more delayed bedtimes and ice cream cones — for your pleasure. And gradually you stop caring about whether your parents want you to have them or not. You begin to figure, "People hate giving to me."

If the big-headed giving continues, you soon find yourself developing a cynical disregard of what other people feel when you take from them — and such disregard is a dangerous development.

In attempting to protect this little girl against jealousy, her parents may be exposing her to more destructive feelings.

A "spoiled" child is always one who has parents begrudging giving to her. He demands from us endlessly, not because he wants the things he demands but because he is driven by the hope that someday we'll be able to take pleasure in his pleasure.

Your step-daughter and her husband are trying to express love for their child by giving her what they don't want her to have.

Sometimes if our wish to love a child is real, we can look at the way we are showing and thinking.

"All right, I let Susan postpone bedtime because I am afraid of offending her."

All right, part of my love is fear. But some of it is also real concern for Susan's life. If I am pushing her into loneliness every time I give her something I begrudge giving, then I must find the courage to say "No." I must follow that "No" wherever it leads me because I now see that it expresses love.

Sometimes parents can't do this. Their own parents have made an obedient "Yes" equal love so deeply that a "No" cannot be risked. They have to keep on saying "Yes" to the child because a "No" to their parents brought catastrophe. They are the "spoilers" of children.

Methodist Circles Meet for Devotion

The Women's Society of Central Methodist Church met for a recent luncheon at Fellowship Hall.

Jean Bagnall Circle enjoyed a salad luncheon at the home of Mrs. Lyle Saum of Voorhies Road.

Barbara Norris Circle met for a brunch at the St. Joseph Street address of Mrs. Edward Glatfelter assisted by Mrs. William Bullock. Mrs. Percy Latimer was in charge of the program and Mrs. Harold Silley presented the devotionals.

Maria Simonson Circle met for a brunch at the St. Joseph Street address of Mrs. Edward Glatfelter assisted by Mrs. William Bullock. Mrs. Percy Latimer was in charge of the program and Mrs. Harold Silley presented the devotionals.

Mrs. Loy Bennett of Irwindale Drive, Waterford Township, entertained members of the Otto Sisters Circle. Mrs. William Taylor gave the devotionals and Mrs. Earl Crawford presented the history of the Otto Sisters. Mrs. Nellie Stalcup and Mrs. Helen Aldrich were guests.

Artificial Look Dims Natural Glow of Youth

BY ALICIA HART
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
 The first thing that any teenager should know when she first starts using make-up is that what counts is a light, deft hand.

Make-up which is heavy or obvious defeats its own purpose and turns even the prettiest girl into a clown.

EASY ON EYES

If your brows and lashes are light and pale, you need a little eye make-up. Make it look as natural as possible. Use a medium brown mascara on the lashes and a brown pencil on the brows. Go lightly with both.

In penciling in brows, follow the bone structure to find your natural brow line. Girls who get a weird effect by applying brows with a pencil do so because they by-pass the natural bone structure.

Pass up very pale or very dark shades of lipstick; they look outlandish. Choose a clear, soft blue-red, pink-red or clear, true red. Use just a speck of dry rouge high on the cheek bones and buff it with a wadded cleansing tissue. Dust powder on with a puff; never rub it in.

For Family

(NEA) — Select clothes for wear around the house as carefully as you choose your dress-up costumes. Your family rates the consideration.

Quiet Club Women Aren't Easy to Find

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
 "Even the shyest clubwoman can overcome her fear of talking in public by talking at home." So says a woman who has written a book on public speaking.

What the typical woman's club needs isn't fewer shy members who are afraid to speak up, or fewer members who are ready to get on their feet the drop of a hat, any motion, capable of talking on and on and on without saying anything.

Be Formal But Polite in Greeting

By the Emily Post Institute
 Q: My husband's father died a year ago and my mother-in-law went to live with a married daughter. Several months ago I had a serious argument with this sister-in-law and her husband and have not spoken to them since.

My mother-in-law is elderly and more or less confined to the house. My husband goes to see her once a week and is quite perturbed because I refuse to go with him.

I am fond of my mother-in-law and would be happy to go see her if she lived in her own house, but under the circumstances I don't think I should be expected to go to a house where I am not welcome.

My husband feels it is my duty to go to see his mother regardless of the situation and that I would be visiting her and not his sister-in-law and her husband. He says I will not be necessary for me to greet them. I would like your opinion on this matter.

A: To please your husband you should go on occasions with him to see his mother. Try to go at times when your brother and sister-in-law will not be at home; but, if you do meet them, be strictly formal in your greeting and no conversation with them will be necessary.

Q: Please tell me just who are included in the receiving line that waits at the back of the church in a case where there is to be only a very small reception elsewhere for the immediate families.

A: The bride and groom usually receive guests at the back of the church in a case where there is to be only a very small reception elsewhere for the immediate families.

The bride's attendants and the parents very often wait too, but they do not stand in line. In other words, guests can stop and speak to anyone they care to; otherwise, they wish the bride and groom happiness and depart.

Q: When calling on an acquaintance and you are told that she is upstairs dressing and will be down shortly and you are ushered into the living room to wait, is it proper to pick up a book or magazine that is lying about, to read, while waiting for her to come down?

A: Certainly.

Oakland Hills Planning Night With 'Wee Ones'

The Oakland Hills Country Club plans "A Night With the Leprechauns" program on St. Patrick's Day.

Flaming green torches will light the way for the Irish and their friends who will arrive to celebrate the memory of Ireland's national saint.

Upon entering the foyer that evening, they will view an Irish cottage with a thatched roof — complete with leprechauns.

Once through the cottage portals a rollicking leprechaun will forsake shenanigans to spend the evening playing impish pranks on the Oakland Hills' members and guests. Other entertainment will be provided by a 10-piece orchestra.

Club members John Ahern, Larry Norton and the Carolin Brothers will sing an original Irish composition, amidst an atmosphere of green and white floral arrangements, leprechauns and Ireland's golden harp.

Chairmen of the event, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Godfrey, will be assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Oglesby, Mr. and Mrs. B. Lawrence Norton, Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Krue, Mr. and Mrs. Albert

J. Jolie Jr., Mr. and Mrs. James W. Guno and Mr. and Mrs. C. Norman Fry.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew G. Brodie, Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Hollins Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Wayne M. Spade and Mr. and Mrs. Colin John will also assist.

Mothers Club Hears Talk at State Hospital

Twin Mothers Club met at the Pontiac State Hospital Thursday to hear a talk by two staff nurses about the emotionally disturbed children at the hospital.

A tour of the teenage boys' and adult recreation rooms and the occupational therapy room for women followed the talk. A question and answer period was conducted afterward by Ted Panarotes, director of public relations and Frank Cushman child psychology department.

A card-party and millinery style show will be sponsored by the Twin Mothers Club April 12 to benefit the emotionally disturbed children's section at the hospital.

The card party will be held in the Pontiac State Hospital gymnasium at 8 p.m. and is open to the public.

Tickets are available from any club member and the door. The club has three new members: Mrs. David Wilson, Mrs. Ernest Thompson and Mrs. W. D. Saunty Jr.

Saybrook Unit Gets Together

Mrs. Howard McIntyre opened her home on Henry Clay Avenue Friday for the March meeting of the Saybrook Group of the First Congregational Church. Assisting with the luncheon were Mrs. James Absher, Mrs. Mason Rich and Mrs. William Miller.

Mrs. Absher gave the devotion. Mrs. McIntyre, who is supervisor of the outpatient department of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, told the group of her work. When the Department originated in 1930, it served four types of patients. Now, 13 specialties are included. Over 30,000 individuals have been treated.

The next meeting of Saybrook Group will be a musicale at the church on April 13.

Hostess at Luncheon of Standish Group

Mrs. L. C. Barner of Hudson Avenue was hostess to the Standish Group of the Congregational Church with Mrs. Ray Meiser, cohostess for the affair.

A salad luncheon was served to the 18 members present for the Friday gathering at which time Mrs. Ray Meiser led the devotion and presented a sketch of "Woman of the Bible." Also participating in the program with a St. Patrick's Day theme was Mrs. Albert J. Hening.

For Gleaning Hair

(NEA)—Dry your hair soon as possible after a shampoo. Leaving it wet over a long period tends to make hair dull and listless.

This pretty girl needn't lie about her age, but as the years go by she'll do well to measure her age by her physical condition (which is pretty good now) rather than by how many years she has lived. As any physician will tell you, it is entirely possible for a man or woman to be 10 years younger physically than another of the same age.

Consider It Biologically

Old at 20, or Young at 80?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Today, those who measure age in years rather than in physical condition and mental attitude are just plain old-fashioned! They are not up to date!

They might as well wear a bustle or use a miniskirt cap, wear their dresses down to their ankles or think the world is ending when they hear a jet overhead.

I was interested in hearing about a physical examination of a friend of mine was given not long ago by a very distinguished diagnostician.

The doctor said, "In this office we do not think of age chronologically but biologically."

As any physician will tell you, it is entirely possible for a man or woman to be 10 years younger physically than another of the same age. It is a question of condition, not years.

Yet folks cling to the idea that they are as old or as young as the number of years they have lived. How dreary!

I suppose that the idea that years are the measure of a person's age is a relaxing one for those who do not really want the challenge of new experiences and new thoughts.

However, I am certain that it is surprising to many who feel young and ARK young and who would get a terrific bang out of life if they had not been made age-conscious by group thinking.

Then, of course, there is the tremendous impact of individual outlook and approach to life. Marie Dressler once said, "It's not how old you are but HOW you are old."

OLD AT 20
Some folks are old at 20 while others are young at 80. If you judge by zest for life some folks are gay to be with, stimulating and rewarding at 80, while others are dull and discouraging at 20.

The correlation between physical health and a vibrant outlook is so close that I do not suppose anyone knows which has the greater effect on the other.

Anyway, don't become age-conscious, except in a sensible way, and don't be TOO sensible!

Mrs. Thiede Elected to Presidency

New officers for the Child Culture Club are announced with Mrs. William Thiede as president for the coming year.

Assisting Mrs. Thiede will be Mrs. Murray Osborn, first vice president; Mrs. Walter Johnson, second vice president; Mrs. Earl Steinhart, recording secretary; Mrs. Charles Bowers, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Andrew Kautrow, treasurer; and Mrs. Calvin King, social chairman.

Mrs. Raymond Jackson, outgoing president, directed the Thursday evening proceedings during which Mrs. William Forsyth was named chairman of the Needlework Guild.

Some 22 members present answered the roll call question "Can you see things as your child sees them?" which preceded a panel discussion on the topic, "A Young Child Looks—at the World Around Us, at Everyday Living, and at Himself." Serving as panel members were Mrs. Neil Nelson, Mrs. Walter Johnson and Mrs. Hilman Fortney.

Announcement was made of the next meeting March 22 at the Kettering Street home of Mrs. Delmar Logan, and the Michigan Child Study Association spring planning meeting April 28, in Howell.

Methodist Women's Unit Holds Regular Meeting

Women's Society for Christian, Service of Oakland Park Methodist Church held its monthly meeting in the church with the Rebecca Circle as hostess.

Participating in the program were Mrs. George Carhart speaking and giving illustrations of her work with blind children and Mrs. Frank Martin.

Mrs. John Lamont is newly elected president of the group. Assisting Mrs. Lamont will be Mrs. James Wellington as vice president, Mrs. Robert Walters, recording secretary; and Mrs. Charles Baynes, treasurer.

Other new officers include secretaries Mrs. Fay Wagner, in charge of Christian social relations, Mrs. James George, promotion; Mrs. Clayton Gillies, mission education and service; Mrs. Gerald Wright, student work; Mrs. John Dugan, youth work; and Mrs. Lee Murphy, children's work.

Mrs. Martin is secretary of spiritual life, Mrs. John Wetly, handles literature and publications; Mrs. Floyd Parks, supply work; Mrs. Bert Weddle, chairman of local church activities, and Mrs. Elton Behnke, chairman of the nominating committee.

The group made plans at the Thursday evening meeting to attend the annual gathering of the Flint District WSCS March 27 at the Trinity Methodist Church, Flint, and to hold a Mother-Daughter banquet May 17.

The women will serve as hostesses for three Lenten dinners beginning 6:30 p.m. March 28, April 5 and April 12.

Two classes will be started on the Study Course, "Meaning of Suffering"—one at 7:30 p.m. next Monday, and one March 20 at 9 a.m. Each class will meet once a week for six weeks.

Rotarians Plan Special Dinner

Broomfield to Talk on World Trade March 19 at Walled Lake

WALLED LAKE — U.S. Rep. William S. Broomfield (R-Oakland County) will be the guest speaker at a public dinner meeting of the Walled Lake Rotary Club March 19.

The program is in observance of World Understanding Week March 18-21.

Broomfield will discuss the international aspects of world understanding, as well as the meaning of the European Common Market to this country and the world.

All religious, governmental and community organizations of the area have been invited to attend the meeting, and to cooperate in the annual Rotary effort toward better understanding among peoples and governments of the world.

The program will be held in the auditorium of the Walled Lake Methodist Church, beginning at 7 p.m. The public is invited to attend without charge.

The dinner, at 8:30 p.m., is by advance reservation, which must be made today by contacting Robert Thibodeau, 1710 Pontiac Trail.

2-Car Collision in Milford Twp. Injures Three

Three persons were injured, none seriously, in a two-car head-on collision at about 1 a.m. Sunday on Milford Road just south of Howe Road in Milford Township.

Both drivers, Edson E. Redman, 22, of 1531 Wardlaw Road, Highland Township, and Larry J. Vernier, 21, of 337 Livingston St., Milford, and a passenger in Vernier's car, Linda L. Lang, 23, of 538 Hickory Road, Milford, were taken to Pontiac General Hospital.

Redman and Miss Lang are in satisfactory condition today. Vernier was treated and released.

Oakland County sheriff's deputies said the Redman car was total wreck. Neither driver could give deputies a clear explanation of how the accident happened.

NEWS OF THE AREA

Conclave on Preschoolers Will Focus on Social Traits

Developing socially desirable traits in the preschooler will be the theme of the third annual Conference on the Preschool Child to be held Saturday on the campus of Michigan State University.

Composers of the conference are the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State University and the Division of Continuing Education of Michigan State University.

Staff members of the Merrill Palmer Institute, Wayne State University and MSU will participate in a day-long program of addresses, panel discussions and small discussion groups.

Registration time is 9 a.m. Dr. Owen Morgan of the Merrill Palmer Institute will give the keynote address, "Developing Values in the Family Setting," at 9:30 a.m.

During the hour before and the hour after luncheon, conference participants will be able to make a choice of attending two of the three scheduled breakout discussions.

Dr. Judith Brown, special lecturer at MSU, will conduct a group on "The Role of Father in Developing a Child."

Dr. Brown's presentation includes the showing of a movie entitled "Fears of Children" which emphasizes the relationship of a little boy to his father.

"Normal Problems of Normal Children" will be the topic led by Large turnout of voters in today's annual spring elections are expected in six area villages where hard-fought contests will be decided. Candidates are opposed in the other eight.

Novel voters are asked to approve a proposal to incorporate as a home-rule city and choose between opposing candidates for council and charter commission.

Liquor-by-the-glass is an issue in Milford and Clarkston, with Milford also voting a bond issue for storm sewers and electing three councilmen from six candidates.

Avondale Area PTA to Hold Tuesday Vote

AUBURN HEIGHTS — New officers will be elected at the regular 8 p.m. meeting tomorrow of the Avondale Area PTA Council at Avondale Junior High School.

Members will sample a cafeteria lunch similar to those served in the Avondale schools' hot lunch program.

Also on the agenda is a discussion on "Planning a School Curriculum" conducted by Supt. Leroy Watt. This is part of the state-wide PTA program, "Studying Michigan Schools."

DR. W. C. WATTENBERG

Dr. William A. Wattenberg, professor of educational psychology, Wayne State University.

Dr. Leon P. Hall, director of psychological services, Oakland County Board of Education, and an instructor of educational psychology at WSU will discuss "Anxiety in Early Childhood," including the role of parents in preventing emotional disorders in early childhood.

Drs. Brown, Hall and Wattenberg will be panelists at the final session 2:30 to 3:15 p.m. on the theme topic, "Developing Socially Desirable Traits in the Preschooler." Participants will be given the opportunity to direct written questions to the panelists.

The discussion will be moderated by Mrs. Mary A. Hardy, Oakland County home economics extension agent.

Registration can be made by sending a check for $3 per person or $5 for husband and wife to Division of Continuing Education, MSU, Rochester. Luncheon is included in the conference fee.

The clubs are the Birmingham, Pontiac and Rochester Toastmasters, the Birmingham Royals and the Royal Oak Aces.

The 7 p.m. program is under the auspices of Toastmasters International.

James Stephenson of the Birmingham Royals is the toastmaster for the evening. Stephenson won the 1961 contest.

Frederick A. Dieter and M. G. Tammann, members of the Birmingham Toastmasters, the host club, are cochairman for the program.

Troy Station Held Up; 3 Escape With $700

TROY — Three men, one of them armed, escaped with nearly $700 early Sunday after holding up a gas station at 1489 E. Maple Road.

The attendant at Reeves' Cities Service station, Herbert Delano of 112 Parent, Royal Oak, told police two of the three went into the station while he was pumping gas into the tank of their black 1960 automobile.

When Delano entered the station to collect money for the gas, one of the men was holding a revolver. He ordered Delano into a back room. The two men took cash and credit cards receipts from a cabinet and a desk, and then fled.

Information about the program can be obtained by contacting Richard Schisley, 1910 Dawn Ridge, Walled Lake, chairman of the YMCA branch's extension board, or William H. Beck of the staff of the sponsoring Birmingham YM.

Utica May Halt Teacher Raises

Board Will Consider Proposals Today in Effort to Avert Deficit

UTICA — Proposals to stop annual salary raises for teachers and cut back the music instruction program in a move to avert a $200,000 deficit in the 1962-63 budget will be considered by the Utica Board of Education at its regular meeting tonight.

To give teachers and other employees, whose pay would also be frozen, a chance to air their views on the proposal, the Board will meet in the Eppler Junior High School cafeteria. The meeting will start at 7 p.m.

No decision on the proposals is expected tonight, however. The board will study the problem, the views expressed at tonight's hearing and some alternative proposals by School Supt. Fred M. Atkinson before deciding on a solution.

The proposals are contrary to the higher starting salaries for new teachers requested by the Utica Teachers' Club, as these would also be frozen.

WOULD SAVE — Holding the line on employee wages would save about $120,000. Teacher salaries which account for nearly two-thirds of the total operating budget, have been increased five per cent annually since 1960 when the board said the increases would be made for three years.

To avoid the rest of the anticipated deficit, the following cutbacks are proposed:

1. Remedial reading program coverage to be reduced from fourth through ninth grade to fourth grade only.

2. Vocal music staff to be reduced from seven to five, and class time cut in half.

3. Pupil's start of the instrumental music program to be delayed one year and the staff reduced by one.

4. Pupil's start of the instrumental music program to be delayed one year and the staff reduced by one.

5. A 30- or 32-one pupil-to-teacher ratio in the classroom to be maintained.

Teachers Help Prepare Play

Clarkston Junior High to Stage 'Wizard of Oz' Friday and Saturday

CLARKSTON — Cast members of the Clarkston Junior High School production, "The Wizard of Oz," to be staged Friday and Saturday have had a lot of fun in preparing for the show.

Mrs. Ed Beattie and Mrs. O. F. Foster are again directing the players as they did a year ago when the school offered its first production.

Home economics girls with their teachers, Miss Pat Tanyer, have been making costumes and school librarian Mrs. Walt Wilberg will be helping with makeup.

Don Cooper and Tom Lamm, shop instructors, are making props, houses, thrones and other necessary props.

Ken Wolven will be helping with stage and lights and Barton Conors and his Junior High Band will provide the entertainment each night before the 8:15 curtain time at the school.

Christine Woodward will portray the role of Dorothy and Jerry Reed will take the part of Toto, her dog. The Strawman will be played by Morris Hyatt, Timman by Neil Stalker and the lion by Paul Roze.

Sets Open House at Carpenter School

ORION TOWNSHIP — An open house will highlight the Carpenter School Parent-Teacher Association meeting from 7:30 to 8:30 tonight.

Parents are invited to view their children's work and also to make appointments for later conferences.

The Lake Orion post of the American Legion will present a new flag to the school during the business meeting to start at 8:30. Harvey Cruikshank will make the presentation.

Orion Twp. PTA Slates Election of Officers

ORION TOWNSHIP — Members of the Proper School Parent-Teachers Association will elect officers for the 1962-63 school year at their 8 p.m. meeting tonight.

Entertainment will be provided by the school chorus led by music teacher Ann Maley.

PREPARES PRIME ROAST — An Ortonville mother of three teen-agers, Mrs. Harold Schmidt.

Is the state's only known licensed female meat cutter, and thinks nothing of removing huge bones from 35-pound hunks of meat far choice roasts. Besides meat cutting in her H&S supermarket, Mrs. Schmidt is an expert seamstress. She also paints and makes all her own hats.

Mrs. Schmidt at Ortonville

Meat: She Cuts, Sells It

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

ORTONVILLE — A versatile homemaker — mother of three — does much more with meat than fry pork chops, broil hamburgers and fix taste-tempting steaks.

She orders, cuts, wraps and sells hundreds of pounds of all types of "cuts" every week and is the only known female meat cutter in Michigan.

Truck drivers delivering big hunk, front and white quarters of beef know better than to bring in inferior quality at the independent owned H & S IGA supermarket on the outskirts of Ortonville.

The first one on hand to make inspections is Mrs. Harold (Shirley) Schmidt who is in full command of the rear-of-the-store meat department. Those United States Choice cuts of beef better be choice, or back on the truck they go.

FROM NECESSITY

The comely Mrs. Schmidt became interested in learning the meat cutting skill out of sheer necessity — and curiosity, she said.

She and her husband Harold realized they needed to expand into the meat department business if their grocery store was to survive.

"There is such a close mark-up in beef today that if you don't know exactly what you're doing you could lose plenty of money," the mother of two teen-age girls and a boy said.

Most of the time men delivering big slabs of meat, drop it on the cutting counter so Mrs. Schmidt has no problem handling her job. However, the trim woman manages to sling up to 35 pound chunks (the state limit for women) with little or no trouble at all — and loves every minute back of her attractive meat counter.

To Be Observed Before Jailing

Attempted Extortionist to Undergo 90-Day Study Prior to Jail

ROMEO — Rector T. Harless, 21, of 1929 E. 32-Mile Road, will undergo a 90-day psychiatric observation in a federal institution before serving his two-year sentence for attempted extortion.

U.S. District Judge Theodore Levin in Detroit ordered the psychiatric study under a statute that delays execution of the sentence for 90 days.

After that period, Judge Levin will have the option of placing Harless on probation instead of ordering execution of the two-year term in a federal penitentiary.

Harless, an unemployed press operator pleaded guilty to a plot to extort $5,000 with a threatening letter to Mrs. Louise H. Scherer of 440 Morton St. last November.

Harless and his 15-year-old brother were caught in a trap set by state police and FBI agents when they tried to retrieve a dummy package of money from the spot designated in the letter.

Rule on Sale of Seeds

LANSING (AP)—In the future, seed grown elsewhere and sold in Michigan as registered will have to be registered by a duly constituted agency of the government of the state or country in which it was grown, the State Agriculture Department says. And it must have been produced under standards equal to or higher than those in Michigan.

Troy Couple Is Injured Saving Children From Fire

TROY — The parents of four children are in St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital, Pontiac, today after rescuing their children from flames that destroyed their home as 2188 Burdick early this morning.

The explosion buckled the walls of the house and the roof collapsed shortly after the children had been rescued.

Boy Gives His Reasons for Killing Entire Family

CONCORD, N. H. (AP) — A slight 17-year-old high school boy, under psychiatric treatment for two years, was quoted by police today as admitting he killed his entire family — parents and two brothers — because he felt they would be better off dead.

The slayings in the central New Hampshire community of New Port, a town of 5,500 population about 50 miles northwest of Concord, left neighbors saddened and puzzled. Blond and bespectacled, the boy was considered bright. He was in the last year of high school.

The youth was scheduled for a juvenile court arraignment today behind closed doors.

Arrangements were begun for the funerals, presumably a joint service, in the Methodist Church of the Good Shepherd at Newport Wednesday.

The victims were Francis L. McGrath, 37; his wife, Wilhelmina, 46; and their sons, Peter F., 13, and Charles A., 5.

New Hampshire law forbids publication of the name of a juvenile involved in crime. Juvenile hearings are secret and the disposition may not be published.

"HAB TROUBLES"

Police quoted the 17-year-old as saying in explanation of the shootings Saturday night: "I was thinking about their suffering. They always have troubles."

Police said the youth told them he first thought of killing his parents last Friday.

Police said he told them he arrived home from his supermarket job Saturday night and found his parents angry at each other. The parents went out shortly afterward.

The boy told police he got a Japanese rifle and shot Peter in a hallway. Then he went into a bedroom and killed Charles in his bed.

Scientists Plan to Launch More Copper Needles

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. scientists plan to launch into space another batch of those controversial copper needles because the results of the first try are currently obliterating the earth in five or six useless clumps.

The second launching, scheduled for sometime this year, will send up a package of 250 million tiny copper wires. Last October 350 million were rocketed into space.

Purpose of the project is to create a ring of the wires about 2,000 miles above the earth to reflect microwave radio messages over great distances.

Philippine Chief Accepts Invitation to Visit U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Philippine President Diosdado Macapagal is reported to have accepted an invitation by President Kennedy to make a 10-day state visit to the United States beginning June 18.

Informal sources said the new Philippine leader would spend three days in Washington as guest of the President and also visit New York, Chicago, Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Honolulu.

Embryo College Names Assistant to President

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — George T. Potter, 34, a Canadian educator, has been named assistant to the president for academic affairs for Grand Valley State College.

Potter will take over the $10,000 a year job effective June 15 to work with GVSU President James H. Zumberge in planning curriculum and recruiting a faculty. He is currently associate director of extension education at the newly established Calgary Branch of the University of Alberta, Canada. He was born in London, England.

Jakarta Welcomes Returned Prisoners

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — An enthusiastic welcome was given Sunday to a group of Indonesians captured by the Dutch when their torpedo boat was sunk off West New Guinea.

U.N. acting Secretary-General U Thant, who negotiated the release of the prisoners with the help of the International Red Cross, said 50 men were involved. One of the men had his right leg in a cast. The others looked fit and well.

Indonesia's deputy navy chief, Commodore Jos Sudarmo, was shot up by Dutch gunboats Jan 15. Another Indonesian boat escaped.

Premier Changes His Tune

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — U.S. stock in Thailand, which sagged visibly earlier in the year, has soared to a new high.

A pledge by the United States last week to come to Thailand's assistance in case of Communist aggression has sparked a new wave of pro-American sentiment among leaders of this Southeast Asian country.

The pledge inspired Premier Marshal Sarit Thanarat, in a weekend nationwide television speech, to call the United States a true friend and give assurance that friendship and cooperation between the countries will exist eternally.

His statements contrasted sharply with his comments made as recently as a month ago, criticizing U.S. policy toward Laos. Sarit and other Thai officials protested U.S. support for a neutralist coalition government in Laos, which they claimed would lead to Communist domination of that next-door neighbor and endanger Thailand's security.

They routinely scored so-called "Don't Lose His Shirt"

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — Eighty yards of zippers went into a new cotton t-shirt for Big Tex, a statue on the State Fair grounds. Another 4,000 yards of thread helps hold together the shirt of 121 yards of material.

pressure tactics by the United States, including the withholding of aid money, to force the right-wing Laotian government—which Thailand backs—into negotiations with the neutralist and pro-Communist factions.

There is no indication that this point of difference has been resolved, but the pledge of immediate assistance made in Washington to Thai Foreign Minister Thanat Khomdin has eased Thailand's fears on one part; it need not rely now solely on the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization for its defense.

NO TREATY

Thailand and the United States do not have a formal bilateral defense treaty. Only their membership in SEATO binds them together in this respect, and SEATO's charter contains no provision for immediate and automatic action in the event a member nation must agree before the alliance can move.

The new U.S. commitment, contained in a communique after Thanat's Washington talks, assures Thailand of American assistance even without prior SEATO approval.

Sarit underlined this in his speech Saturday night. Now, he emphasized, "if and when our country is invaded it will not stand alone."

New York Bus Line Battle Rumbling Louder and Louder

By ANDREW MICHELS
NEW YORK (AP) — "I'm an investor," says Harry Weinberg, "not a gambler."
Investor or gambler, Weinberg is winning steadily since 1953. With an original stake of $3 million, he has built the largest transit empire in the country—worth an estimated $100 million.
Currently, he is the central figure in the biggest, and he has ever entered. Playing against him are Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York and the Transport Workers Union. At stake is the Fifth Avenue Coach Lines Inc., the largest private bus line in the world.

The TWU is striking the line. Wagner wants to seize it. Weinberg wants to hold on to it and make it pay.

Weinberg complained that "we inherited a cow that has no milk." Wagner declares that "Weinberg is not going to leave town with his carpool full of money." But he insists that Weinberg will have to leave.

On a television broadcast, Wagner said Weinberg and his associates should "abandon any idea of running a bus line in this city."

"You're through," Wagner added to Weinberg, contending he and his associates were guilty of "deliberately inviting a strike."

Weinberg and the city are even further apart in discussing money. Weinberg estimates the bus line would lose $5.5 million in 1962. The Transit Advisory Commission, citing city accountants, estimates the firm should make $500,000 with no layoffs or curtailment of service.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and the New York Legislature have been drawn into the fray—by saying nothing of it. It's million bus riders who have had to change their commuting habits since the strike began March 1.

All this revolves around a husky, clean-shaven 53-year-old man who was a comparative unknown here a month ago.

Harry Weinberg was born in Austria and was brought to the United States by his family at the age of 4. The family settled in Baltimore, where Weinberg's father opened an automobile repair shop.

BOUGHT STOCK
Weinberg started building his fortune in real estate in Baltimore. In 1953, learning that the privately owned Scranton Transit Co. in Pennsylvania was in financial difficulty, he became interested and began buying stock and second-mortgage bonds.

By 1960, Weinberg owned the line. Spurred by this success, he began quietly in 1957 to buy stock of the Honolulu Transit Co., explaining that "I liked the city and the climate."

Financial interests in Honolulu began a court suit to prevent Weinberg from getting control, but by 1960 he had won there, too. Then he bought into Dallas Transit in Texas. By last spring, he was in control.

Castig about for another transit line, his eye fell upon the Fifth Avenue company which, like many another bus line, has been in financial difficulties for some time.

Weinberg and his longtime right-hand man, Baltimore lawyer Lawrence I. Weisman, 34, began the fight for control of Fifth Avenue last May. As his left-hand man for the occasion, Weinberg hired former Senate subcommittee counsel Roy M. Cohn, along with Cohn's law firm of Saxe, Bacon and O'Shea.

Last January, the Fifth Avenue line had been struck by the TWU for four days. To help it out of its distress, the city agreed to eliminate the line's 5-cent transfers, thus making all riders pay the full 15-cent fare.

Weinberg gained control of the company Feb. 17 and took over the posts of president and chairman of the board, waiving the $5,000 salary.

Weinberg demanded emergency relief from the city. He suggested raising the fare to 20 cents—a plan strongly opposed by Wagner. He suggested having the city lease the lines on a cost-plus basis, which in effect would have been a subsidy.

Barrings, these, he said: the company would be forced to lay off 1,500 workers to cut costs. The union warned at once that the layoff of a single man would mean a strike.

Weinberg called for an immediate meeting with Wagner.

Wagner said he would not be rushed into such a session. He said the city's Transit Advisory Commission was still obtaining information on the company's finances.

Weinberg, Weisman and Cohn warned that unless a session with the mayor could be arranged for March 1, they would lay off the first 29 workers that day.

An angry mayor accused Weinberg of trying to blackmail the city into a fare increase.

On the appointed day, the line began laying off the workers. Immediately, the TWU declared itself on strike against the line, which, along with its subsidiaries, operates in Manhattan, the Bronx and Westchester County.

The Westchester segment of the strike has been settled, but the great bulk of the buses are still idle.

Wagner, a Democrat, has called on the New York Legislature to empower the city to take over the Fifth Avenue line. The heavily Republican body has not yet acted.

The GOP majority leader has urged that the city act under existing machinery. Rockefeller, also a Republican, said he would have to review the facts before deciding whether to support legislation to authorize the takeover.

Weinberg hasn't budged. His lines in other cities all charge higher fares than 15 cents—18 in Scranton, 25 in Dallas and 25 in Honolulu.

"You cannot sell a product at the same price you did years ago, when all costs have been rising," he has said.

Weinberg's home is still in Baltimore, where he and his wife have an apartment. Their son, Morton—a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Williams College who holds a masters degree in history from Harvard—is a vice president of Scranton Transit.

Weinberg is an energetic man with a gravelly voice and quick manner whose working day begins at 5:30 a.m. and sometimes runs till midnight or later. He is frank in saying that his main interest is making money.

Weisman, who has been his chief counsel for a dozen years, says that when his boss seeks escape literature, he reads balance sheets.

Daily Summits on Television?

Official Says Satellite System Could Enable Leaders to Talk

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A State Department official suggested today that a space satellite communication system could enable world leaders to hold summit meetings daily — on television.

Richard N. Gardner, deputy assistant secretary of state for international organization and affairs, said that by 1970 it should be possible to have a global telegraph, telephone, radio and television system operating by bouncing signals off internationally owned orbiting satellites.

If then might be possible, he said, to place a space call anywhere in the world for the price of a call to the next city. Commercial television programs would have audiences of a billion people and "leaders of nations could talk face to face on a convenient and reliable basis."

Gardner, in a speech prepared for a conference of the American Association for the United Nations, said that within the next year or two the United States would be able to offer its satellites, on an experimental basis, for live television transmissions across the North Atlantic or brief broadcasts from the United Nations.

He said American diplomacy would be more and more concerned with space in the next few years — for example, deciding where "inner" and "outer" space begins and making rules in the U.N.'s outer space committee on liability for injury caused by space vehicles and for return of spacecraft which may land in the wrong country.

Hope for Metal 'Oils'

BELLEVIEW, N.J. (UPI)—Gold and silver may find new uses as permanent lubricants in machinery, officials of General Magnaplate Corp. believe.

The company is experimenting with a system of bonding very thin layers of gold oxide and silver oxide to moving parts.

It is claimed the parts then will operate indefinitely at speeds and temperatures as high as 1,500 degrees.

Let the man who would be grateful think of repaying a kindness even while receiving it.—Seneca.

House Opens Hearings on Tariff Issue Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges today opens a new drive for the administration's trade program which would slash tariffs on many items.

Hodges is the first witness to call as the House Ways and Means Committee begins its month's hearings on a new five-year reciprocal trade program.

President Kennedy's major legislative proposal in the revision of the tariff program.

TO PRESENT CASE
Cabinet members and other officials will develop the administration's case during the week. Then it will be the turn of private interests—foreign trade groups who favor the bill and spokesmen for domestic industries which contend added foreign competition will eat jobs for eliminating hard core unemployment.

The House tackles another economic measure Tuesday—Kennedy's $25-million, three-year program for retraining unemployed workers and developing needed skills. The Senate passed a compromise version last week.

TO DEBATE WELFARE
Later in the week the House will debate proposals to boost welfare payments under the federal-state system, at a cost of $140 million a year above Kennedy's recommendations. The bill also includes administration proposals to liberalize children's aid and other features of the existing system.

The Senate may reach before the weekend a vote on the controversial proposal for the United States to buy $100 million in U.N. bonds to help the international organization through a financial crisis.

The House has scheduled for Thursday action on a compromise bill to tighten the requirements for reporting "white-collar" crime and welfare trust funds. If the House acts promptly, the Senate may get to the measure also.

Air-Cushion Machine to Be British Ferry
LONDON (AP) — Plans for the world's first ferry service by Hovercraft, a flying machine that supports itself on a cushion of air, were announced today by two British firms.

The service will between Rhyl in Wales and Holyhead in England. The towns are 15 miles apart across the Dee River.

The Hovercraft will carry 25 passengers and the fare will be one pound ($2.80) per hop. First flights will be made next September.

Eventually the two firms hope to start an English channel ferry service using Hovercraft weighing 400 tons, now under development.

Volunteer Hunt Turns Up 2,392 Rattlers in 3 Days

SWEETWATER, Tex. (AP)—There are 2,392 fewer rattlesnakes roaming the rocky countryside near Sweetwater.

Volunteers captured the rattlers in the annual three-day hunt of the Sweetwater Junior Chamber of Commerce. Bob Jenni, Republican of Oklahoma City's Lincoln Park Zoo, is taking them home with him. The hunt ended Sunday.

Jenni will keep some, sell some to other zoos and extract and sell the venom of others.

Russian Chess Master Succumbs in Moscow

LONDON (AP)—Vyacheslav Ragozin, Russian international chess master, died Sunday in Moscow, the Soviet news agency Tass reported. He was 53 and had been ill a long time.

Ragozin competed in numerous national and international chess competitions. He scored his most impressive victories at the International Tournament in Moscow in 1935 and the Chigorin Memorial Tournament of Slav countries in 1947.

Tormenting Rectal Itch Stopped In Minutes

Science Finds New Healing Substance That Promptly Stops Itching and Pain of Piles

New York, N. Y. (Special) — One of the most common afflictions is a condition known as "itching piles." It is most embarrassing for the victim during the day and especially aggravating at night.

No matter what you've used without results — here's good news. For the first time, science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to promptly stop the burning itch and pain. It actually shrinks hemorrhoids — science has proved this substance produces a remarkably effective rate of healing. Its germ-killing properties also help prevent infection.

In one hemorrhoid case after another "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations. This improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of months! Among these sufferers were a wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' duration.

The secret is this new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — discovery of a world-famous research institution. This substance is now obtainable in ointment or suppository form known as Preparation H®. Ask for Preparation H® Suppositories (convenient to carry if away from home) or Preparation H® Ointment with special applicator. Available at all drug counters.

Detroit Leaders Look Favorably on School Bias Report

DETROIT — Reaction of civic leaders to a Citizens Advisory Committee report on Detroit public school problems was generally favorable today.

The committee report found evidence of school boundaries being used for racial discrimination and bias existing in teacher placement.

Disagreement with the 260-page report generally was centered on the importance of some of the committee's key recommendations.

The committee report said the practice in Detroit of assigning students to schools on a neighborhood basis sometimes adds segregation and suggested greater freedom in transfers of students to schools outside their own neighborhoods.

It also suggested that the current "boundary" system of school assignment be made more flexible to take in various racial and ethnic groups whenever possible.

PLACEMENT?
Another key finding of the committee was that although there was no discrimination in hiring of teachers, "... with only a few exceptions, Negro teachers are placed only where there are Negro children in attendance at a school."

The report, drawn up by a committee named by the board of education and including representatives of education, religion, labor, Negro groups, parent-teacher organizations and others dealt largely with problems of Negro students.

and a leader in the Negro community, said the report "is, on the whole, good, and the committee tried to face the facts realistically — but in some instances, the recommendations don't go far enough."

Another Negro leader, Arthur Johnson, an executive director of the Detroit branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and a member of the advisory committee, said he felt the report was "too wide ranging" and lacked "sharpness" on basic issues of racial inequalities.

George Romney, candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination who was chairman of the Citizens Advisory Committee on school needs three years ago, said he felt the report indicated "the length of time required to overcome the after-effects of earlier racial discrimination," as well as progress made by the school board since the earlier study.

MUST MOVE AHEAD
Richard V. Marks, director of the Community Relations Commission, said, "There is no question in my mind, that we should move ahead in every area the committee outlined. We have to do it for the sake of a healthy community."

Mrs. Betty Beck, president of the board of education, which financed the study with a $50,000 grant, said the report will receive immediate and careful study.

The 38-member Citizens Advisory Committee made a two-year survey of public schools.

"This report shows that Detroit schools are segregated," said Circuit Judge Nathan Kaufman, chairman of the committee.

"When you have segregated housing, you have segregated schools," he said, "and segregation in our schools is a fact."

The committee, which included seven Negroes, told the board that Detroit's school boundaries have been used in the past to "further racial and social segregation."

"While some progress has been made, it has not been adequate," the committee said. It called on the board to "recognize the full urgency of this issue."

Although he did not suggest that integration be forced in the schools, Judge Kaufman called for the "deliberate placement of Negro teachers in all white schools."

NEARLY ONE HALF
Negroes comprise 46.5 per cent of Detroit's school enrollment, the committee said.

"It is our belief that the practice of assigning teachers, principals and other school employees on the basis of race is educationally, legally and morally unsound and weakens the democratic opportunities of children in the Detroit public schools."

The board of education was asked to give future preference to textbooks which contain "valuable contributions of minority groups to American history and our social, political and economic life."

The committee said: "Since almost 50 per cent of the children in Detroit's public schools are Negroes, there is no right-made reason why textbooks should be used which do not accurately reflect the contributions and needs of the Negro in America and in the world community."

School Supt. Samuel Brownell said the board of education's policy already covers many of the committee's recommendations.

It would be inexcusable, he said, to be inexcusable, he said.

4 DIE AS PLANE HITS — An Air Force C119 Flying Boxcar slammed into the home of Label Levron near New Orleans, killing the construction worker, his wife and two sons. A 7-year-old daughter is in a hospital with a probable skull fracture. All six crewmen of the plane parachuted to safety. The plane plowed across an open field opposite Levron's home, jumped a 15-foot hayrack, sheared a utility pole off its base, jumped the highway and ripped into Levron's home, 22 miles southeast of New Orleans.

NORWALK, Ohio (AP) — Bricklayer Mike Hergatt married a second baseman and their teamwork is continuing in a thriving business.

Hergatt managed a girls' softball team a few years ago, and eventually married the girl who played second base and was team seamstress.

When the couple moved to Norwalk from Mansfield, Ohio, he continued as a bricklayer and she opened a lettering and embroidery service.

The embroidery business prospered, requiring a 2,100-square-foot addition, which Hergatt now is engaged in erecting. The couple has two married children.

Made Goat of Farm Flop

MOSCOW — The goat of Premier Khrushchev's report last week on Soviet farm failures was the son of a restless Briton who moved to Czarist Russia after an unsuccessful attempt to settle in the United States.

The son was Vasily Robertovich Williams, a soil scientist. His grasslands farming technique was adopted for large areas of Russia in the '20s. Joseph Stalin saw it as a way to save on chemical fertilizers.

FOLLOWED STALIN
When he died Nov. 11, 1939 at age 76, Williams was a highly respected soil specialist and holder of the prized Order of Lenin and two orders of the Red Banner of Labor.

Williams was one of the few Russian scientists to welcome the communist Revolution in 1917; he became a close follower of Stalin.

Top German Parties Gain in Local Vote

KIEL, Germany — West Germany's three major parties — the Christian Democrats, Socialists and Free Democrats — were the winners in local elections Sunday in the state of Schleswig-Holstein. Returns announced today showed that all three parties gained in votes and seats on local councils.

Big loser of the day was the right-wing All-German party. Its vote was only half of the previous election in 1959.

All parties had campaigned strictly on local issues. National and international politics were hardly a factor.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democrats, who form a coalition with the Free Democrats in the national government, received 23 per cent of the votes, the Social Democrats 39.4 per cent, the Free Democrats 39.4 per cent.

CARLISLE, Pa. (UPI) — Gilbert Malcolm, who was expelled from Dickinson College in his sophomore year for hazing, has since held every nonacademic administrative position at the college.

He became provost on July 1, 1961, after two years as president. Malcolm said one of the 1915 classmates expelled with him sent him a congratulatory message on his election to the presidency which said simply: "Read Psalm 118, verse 2."

"I looked it up and the verse read, 'The stone the builders rejected has become the head of the corner.'"

John Payne Sues for $250,000; Hit by Car Last Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Actor John Payne has filed a $250,000 damage suit for injuries suffered when he was struck by an auto on Madison Avenue a year ago.

Named in the State Supreme Court suit filed Saturday were Bernard Selz of Manhattan, identified as the driver, and Lawrence Glass of Manhattan, described as the car's owner.

Payne said the auto was operated negligently and carelessly and that he suffered serious and permanent injury, causing him a loss of earnings and a large expenditure for medical care.

Champ St. Michael Preps for Regional

By CHUCK ABRAHAM

A happy group of St. Michael's Shamrocks went back to the practice court today hoping to stay sharp after winning their first district tournament in four years under Jim Niebauer.

They cut down Royal Oak St. Mary's 47-38 in the final Saturday night advancing into Class C regional play.

The Pontiac parochial schools will compete at the Eastern Michigan University fieldhouse this week in a field which will include powerful Detroit All Saints, Ann Arbor University High, Grass Lake, Adrian Madison and Dundee. The Ann Arbor school dumped St. Fred on the same floor a year ago.

Clawson won Class B honors in the nightcap of a two doubleheader at Pontiac Central whipping Clareville, 65-52. It was the first crown in 21 long years for the Oakland A League school.

The charges of Ron Morse will switch their attention to the PNH gym this week.

Regional play begins Tuesday night and continues through Saturday.

There was a noticeable lack of St. Mike fans at the tourney here but that didn't hinder the eager Shamrocks.

Although their slim group of players was constantly overpowered by a good Royal Oak following, the Big Blue went about the task with determination. Everytime the Irish would try to put together a streak a local boy would ruin it with a key basket.

The champs won out in a last quarter free throw duel to lead 27-15. St. Mary cut it to two early in the 2nd but the Shamrocks dominated the rest of the season adding by reserve Max Hurst to lead 22-14 at halftime.

FINAL BID

Slicing the deficit to four in period No. 3, Royal Oak went up down by six starting the 4th and then opened the final session with two quick goals making the score 36-34.

But Charlie Dual pumped in a big basket and free throw and the southern county boys were never to come that close again. Hurst and fellow sub Stu Kindus tallied eight of the last nine points as the Mikemans pulled away.

Larry Sonnenberg fired in 12, Dual and Jim Hurren added 11 apiece and rebounded well along with young Mike Pope. Hurst and Pope fouled out in the 4th.

The stone-cold shooting Yellow Jackets finally pulled away from a 41-40 score on a three-point play by Gary Lynch when less than two minutes remained. They then had a 6-4 edge in a fast finish. Tom Van Houtte hit 19 to be high in a losing cause while Eldred Lewis topped Memphis with 13.

Overall, St. Michael had shooting problems hitting 25.6 per cent with no one very steady. ROSM was 23.9.

Clawson came on strong after a slow start. The "B" victors were in front only 9-7 at the 1st period and upped the margin by one in the 2nd. Craig Shup switched four of five free shots to pace a 45-37 3rd quarter advantage. Clareville's hounded back with seven in the last two minutes of the 4th to trail by just one.

Morse rallied his forces and they held on and pulled way to stay after the midway point by turning successive fliers by John Miller.

Phil Wheeler of the losers topped both teams with 28. Shup made 24.

Bengal Catcher Hits for Circuit Against Braves

Royal Oak Player's Mother Sees Blast, Won Saturday

BRADENTON, Fla.—Benny baby Bill Freehan's face aglazed into a magnificent grin as he circled the bases with his first home run in a Detroit Tiger uniform yesterday.

And his mother, Mrs. Ashley Freehan of Royal Oak, nearly missed it.

Charley Creighton, the Tigers' traveling secretary, told the story of the home-run hitter and his nervous mother.

"Before the game, Mrs. Freehan stood at a hotel stand outside and said she was so nervous she was afraid to watch," related Creighton. "She got to her seat just before her son got up to hit."

Freehan's wallop was the hardest hit of the first homers the Tigers blasted in succession in the fourth inning of their 10-6 loss to Milwaukee.

The ball streaked over the left field wall 350 feet from home plate and landed on the roof of a Boys' Club building.

SHOW TOWN

The Tigers hit five home runs in two games but managed only a split in their weekend series with the Braves.

The Tigers won the first game of the Grapefruit League season Saturday when home runs by Dick Brown and rookie outfielder Purnell Gandy powered them to an 11-3 victory.

Yesterday's game was a different story. The Braves slammed out five homers in the game, evened the game at 5-5 in the 10th.

University of Michigan baseball coach, and Chico Fernandez connected for the circuit in order against Tony Cline in yesterday's game at Bradenton, training site of the Braves.

Don Mossi was the winning pitcher in Saturday's game, evened the game at 5-5 in the 10th.

Brown drove in four runs, two of them on a "break" home which bounced off Tiger's glove and into the outfield.

He got two RBIs on a single in the fifth.

The Tigers got 13 hits off four Milwaukee pitchers. Gandy, who is the property of the Denver Bears, hit his homer over the leftfield fence in the fourth.

Three pitchers worked Saturday's game, with youngsters Tom Timmerman and Ron Nischwitz pitching well in relief of Mossi, who worked the first four innings.

U.S. Needs a Sweep in Hockey Tourney

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—The U.S. hockey forces, hanging on by their fingernails in the World Amateur Championships, find themselves in a strange position today.

They are pulling for Canada's defending champions to beat Sweden Tuesday night in a battle of the only two undefeated teams left in the championship division. The Americans show a 2-1 record after beating Finland Sunday night 6-3 and must win all four games left on the slate to hope for a crack at the title. Their final match is with Canada in a televised game Sunday.

OFF STRIDE

The Canadians, although well below their peak, had the shots and the defense they needed to turn back a scrappy Swedish team Sunday night 7-2. Canada drew ahead with three victories to two for Sweden, the team that outscored the U.S. 2-1 Saturday night. The Swedes play winless Finland at Denver tonight.

In the view of some tournament experts and players, Sweden has grabbed the favorite's role allotted earlier to Canada. Jack Riley, who coached the U.S. team to the Olympic hockey crown in 1960, said today of Canada's chances:

"It's a 50-50 shot now. It's

Williams' 274 Tops for Jamaica Open

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP)—Henry Williams Jr. of Fleetwood, Pa., won the Jamaica Open Golf Tournament with a 72-hole score of 274 Sunday. The victory gave him first prize money of $1,500.

Williams led from the outset of the tournament after carding a 6-under-par 68 in the first round. He shot a 69 in Sunday's final round for his first major victory since he won the Tucson open 10 years ago.

Al Geiberger of Carlton Oaks, Calif., Angel Miguel of Madrid, Spain, and Tom Stratford of Brooklyn, N.Y., were tied for second with 278. Geiberger and Miguel shot 72s and Stratford had 67 Sunday.

Hit Homer

Jones, a .326 swinger at Louisville up to his second try with the Braves, stroked a solo homer in a losing effort Saturday, then powered the Braves to a 10-6 triumph of Detroit at Bradenton, Fla., Sunday with a pair that accounted for five runs.

For the first time in 37 years of the state high school Class A swimming championships, two schools have the winner's trophy. Gross Pointe and Birmingham both won the trophy.

Chick Gress (three times) was the only other 6 second man around.

Frank Budd, a husky Villanova senior, already holds the world outdoor record of 92.7 for 100 yards, but he wants to shave another tenth of a second off that standard.

Robert Hayes of Florida A&M, has tied the record, but it hasn't been recognized yet.

"I'll be perfectly happy to hit .91 for the 100," Budd said today. "I'm not sure I can get down to .91 fast, though. If it comes, all right, but I'm setting my sights on .90."

Budd equalled the outdoor 60-yard sprint record of 6 flat twice Saturday, but he had double figures in the evening in Madison Square Garden, Herb Carper (two) and Roscoe Cook (three times) were the only other 6 second men around.

David Alex Hilder placed 18th among 51 divers. He missed qualifying for the semifinals by two points.

Three New Leaders at Women's Tourney

Three leads changed hands over the weekend in the 2nd round of the Pontiac Women's Bowling Association bowling tournament at Detroit West Side Recreation.

Sports Center Trophies, captured by Marjorie Hopp, rolled 1,278 to far ahead of the team field. A new high total of 2,899 made it possible. Sports Center also hit high game of 1,129.

A Rochester-Troy combination of Gladys Plagen, Fran Glaser, took charge in doubles at 1,380, with top game of 400. A.

Evenly Hewitt of Dayton Plains became the other new pacesetter with 728 in singles. Ruth Miller, Milford, hit high actual and handicap games of 225-278.

Charlotte Doris Beard held on to her all events actual lead with 1,721. Kay Vernon of Pontiac tied the same in the handicap division with 1,881.

Chicago Takes Second in East Replacing Pittsburgh

By The Associated Press

With the Kansas City Steers established as the kings of the American Basketball League's Western Division, it now remains for the Pittsburgh Renos and Chicago Majors to fight for second half supremacy in the East.

The Majors jumped into the drivers seat Sunday with a 111-85 victory over the Renos at Jacksonville, Fla., displacing the Renos, who lost to Kansas City 91-81 in the only games scheduled.

The Steers, who defeated New York Saturday night 112-104, got a 22-point effort from Bill Bridges Sunday.

From five others in running the second half record to 22-10 and an 8-game edge over second place Hawaii with the season rapidly drawing to a close.

HALF GAME

Connie Hawkins, the ABL's leading scorer, had 31 points in Chicago's half game in the Eastern Division.

Boys from all around the area have been invited to take part in summer baseball programs for several years here but there has not been a full season affair for high school teams.

Inter-City Contest Tonight for Tripp

Tripp Contractors, regular-season champs in Class B and winner of 14 straight games in the Waterford Township Recreation Department baseball league, will meet Dearborn tonight in the first round of the Inter-City Recreation Association tournament.

The game, which will start at 9 o'clock, will be played at Lusk Recreation Center, 13200 Lenox Road in Mount Road and south of McChesney in Detroit.

A win for Tripp Monday in the single-elimination tournament would mean a Tuesday contest against Trenton at Lusk at 8 p.m.

Fullmer Plans Three Defenses Before Fall

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Gene Fullmer plans to defend his National Bowling Association middleweight title three times before fall, promoter Norm Rothschild said Friday.

Rothschild said that under the plan the first contest will be with Denny Moyer this spring.

Fullmer's second defense would be against the winner of a Paul Feder-Terry Downes fight scheduled for April 7 and his third would be against Nigeria's Dick Tiger.

Unique Background for College Courtier

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Glen Tennan can claim several distinctions as a college basketball player.

He's probably the only ex-railroad conductor in the college at 36, he's probably the oldest, and he's likely the only part-time bartender in the college.

Tennan is a reserve guard for Buena Vista College of Storm Lake, Iowa, a team that enters the NAIA tournament here today with a 25-2 record.

Tournament Business Still Unfinished

By The Associated Press
Big-time college basketball's annual post-season carnivals start tonight—but a prime bit of unfinished business remains before a clear line can be taken on one of the major tournaments.

The single spot left in each of the two classics, the coast-to-coast NCAA and the National Invitation at New York, will be filled after tonight's showdown between Cincinnati and Bradley at Evanston, Ill. The two teams tied for the Missouri Valley title. The winner gets the conference NCAA berth while the loser goes to the NIT.

Attention is focused on the game principally because Cincinnati captured the championship in last year's NCAA by defeating mighty Ohio State and another clash between the Bluecats and Buckeyes has been awaited.

Should Bradley topple Cincinnati tonight, it would take some of the luster from the NCAA but would send Cincinnati to the NIT as title favorite.

Bradley, a nationally ranked power like Cincinnati, also would be a top contender in either of the tournaments.

The NCAA, with 16 conference representatives and nine independent teams gunning for the crown, begins play tonight. First round action will be completed tomorrow night, and the four regional semifinals and finals are set for Friday and Saturday.

Semifinals and final will be staged at Louisville, Ky., March 23-24.

The 12-team NIT has six doubleheaders set for Madison Square Garden, including first round competition Thursday night and Saturday afternoon. Quarterfinals will be played Saturday night and Tuesday night, March 20. The semifinals come on Thursday night, March 22 and the title match on Saturday afternoon, March 24.

Here is the NCAA schedule:
East at Philadelphia tonight — Wake Forest (Atlantic Coast) vs. Yale (Ivy League), Massachusetts (Yankee) vs. New York University (at-large) and West Virginia (Southern) vs. Villanova (at-large). The Wake Forest-Villanova winner plays St. Joseph's of Pennsylvania (Middle Atlantic) and the West Virginia-Villanova winner meets the NYU-Massachusetts winner in the regional semifinals at the University of Maryland.

TITANS PLAY

Midwest at the University of Kentucky tonight—Bowling Green (Mid-American) vs. Butler (at-large) and Western Kentucky (Ohio Valley) vs. Detroit (at-large). Regional semifinals at the University of Iowa pits the Bowling Green-Bulldog winner against Kentucky (Southeastern) and the Western Kentucky-Detroit winner against Ohio State (Big Ten).

Midwest at southern Methodist tonight—Texas Tech (Southwest) vs. Air Force (at-large) and Creighton (at-large) vs. Memphis State (at-large). The Texas Tech-Air Force winner meets Colorado (Big Eight) and the Creighton-Memphis State winner takes on Cincinnati or Bradley in the regional semifinals at Kansas State.

West at Oregon State Tuesday night—Oregon state (at-large) vs. Seattle (at-large) and Utah State (Skyline) vs. Arizona State University (at-large). The Oregon State-Seattle winner faces Pepperdine (WCAC) and the Utah State-Arizona State winner plays UCLA (Big Five) at Brigham Young in the regional semifinals.

Pressure-Filled Putts Pay Off for Sanders

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Doug Sanders sank a series of pressure-packed birdie putts and won the Pensacola Open Golf Tournament—his first victory of the year.

Weathering a strong rally by Don Fairfield, the 28-year-old Sanders closed with a 3-and-par 69 Sunday for a 270 total and $2,000 first money. Fairfield fired a 67 for 271.

On Fairfield applying the pressure, Sanders stroked in birdie putts on the 11th, 12th and 13th holes. But Fairfield, who started the round three strokes off the pace, drove even on the short 16th with a birdie due against Sanders' hole 4.

Sanders got the two-stroke margin back on the next hole by sinking a 20-foot birdie putt while Fairfield missed a 3-footer and took a bogey 5.

On the final hole, Fairfield had a par 4 and Sanders, taking no chances after blasting out of a sand trap nicely, settled for a bogey 5.

Pistons Suffer 126-123 Defeat at St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Detroit Pistons are playing like a team that has nothing to win—or lose.

With a Western Division playoff spot already secured, the Pistons lost their third straight National Basketball Association game last night to the St. Louis Hawks, 126-123.

Detroit was weakened by the absence of Bailey Howell, missing because of a death in the family, and Johnny Gagne, who was away for his army physical. They also missed Walter Dukes when Dukes fouled out early in the fourth quarter after scoring 20 points.

Gene Shue and Ray Scott topped the Pistons with 24 points apiece while Bob Pettit scored 23 and Cliff Hagan 35 for the Hawks.

Barons Sideswiped

MEADVILLE, Pa. (AP)—An auto sideswiped "bus" carrying the Cleveland Barons hockey team early Sunday on Route 19 about 10 miles south of this Western Pennsylvania community. No one was hurt.

Weekend fights
NEW YORK—Salim, 181, Argentina, outpointed Joe Chambers, 157, 5-0.
MANILA—Flash Elorote, 125, Philippines, 10-0, Thailand, 2.
Yokohama, Japan—Tadashi, 126, Japan, outpointed Pepito Morales, 122, Mexico, 10-0.

Waterford Softball Is Being Organized

Managers or sponsors interested in entering teams in Class B and C men's softball leagues this year are asked to contact the Waterford Township Recreation Department at OR 4-6376.

The leagues are being organized now and a meeting of managers is planned shortly. Umpires wishing to officiate in the league are also urged to call the department.

Collegiate Skier Claims 2 Titles

SOLITUDE, Utah (AP)—Dave Gorsuch of Western State College won the downhill and combined title Sunday at the National Alpine Ski Championships. Linda Meyers of Mammoth Mountain, Calif., took the women's combined. She was second in the downhill.

Sharon Pacjak of Aspen, Colo., won the downhill and was second in the combined.

Jim Gaddis of the University of Utah, who won the giant slalom Friday, was third in Saturday's slalom, seventh in the downhill and runnerup to Gorsuch in the combined.

Gorsuch won the downhill at the Solitude ski slopes in the Wasatch Mountains east of Salt Lake City in 1 minute, 51.6 seconds. He was fourth in the giant slalom and second in the slalom.

After the red-haired Aussie recovered to take the third and fourth set, he seemed to tire. Emerson regained his early edge to win.

Miss Hard disrupted the German girl's usually smooth game with beautiful changes of pace at the net coupled with deadly serves that continually found the mark.

Emerson, U.S. and Australian champion, was almost untouchable during the first two sets, and his cannibal serve once broke Laver's racket.

Opening ceremonies are slated for Tuesday when the drawing of men's compulsory figures and compulsory dances will be held. The order of skating for pairs, men's figures and compulsory dance also is scheduled.

Austrians Dominate

Could Lead to Better Job

Retraining Can Aid Victims of Automation

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.
Professor of Education,
University of Southern California

These are trying times for almost everyone who works with his hands — for many of us who work with our heads.

Thousands of skilled and semi-skilled jobs are being eliminated by automation.

Suppose it happens to you. Suppose your job is taken over by a machine. What can you do?

The best thing DR. NASON says is to make sure you are retrainable. In that way, you'll not only be assured of a new job, you may even have a crack at a better one.

Anyone who is in the habit of learning is retrainable. Some people keep the habit all their lives. Others are able to revive it successfully years after they leave school.

Age is no factor. I saw one man return to school at 59 after being out of school 45 years. He retrained himself for an entirely different job.

The man had been a merchant seaman. Now he was a sweeper. He had lost the habit of studying completely. But he decided to give learning a try.

He started with an evening course in beginning algebra. At first he had difficulty understanding the work. The first course was the hardest. Others came easier.

A year later he was studying both analytic geometry and chemistry. Within two years he was working as a technician in a chemical laboratory.

GO BACK TO SCHOOL.

Over the past 30 years I've watched thousands of persons return to school and regain their learning skills.

Some fall into the pattern very rapidly. Perhaps they have been learning all of the time. Not all learning takes place in school.

Others find it difficult to read for understanding. Before to directions, follow the instructor closely and absorb what he says. Some drop out. Others stay on and struggle. At first they are uncertain, hesitant in the way they go about their work. But they soon gain confidence.

A man in one of my classes who had been attending night school once a week for a year, told me: "Today the boss called me in and said, 'We are giving you a new job with a desk! You will have some things to learn, but I will give you higher pay.' I was startled as I had not applied for a new job."

"Why did you select me?" I asked. The boss said, "You've changed. You're a better man. We are sure that you will be able to handle the new job."

Thinking back to the hesitant way in which this man had enrolled in the first class, I too could see that he carried himself with a new confidence.

I began observing the progress made by our evening school students. Other members of the faculty and administration agreed that getting back into the habit of learning did something for these people.

I began observing other adults who were studying and learning on their own without attending evening school. They too had confidence in their ability to learn. They were stimulated to learn. Keep learning. Keep your mind in the habit of learning. Keep preparing for a better job. It may be nearer than you think!

Criticizes Care to Aged Needy

Welfare Board Chief in Wayne County Hits Hospitals, Doctors

DETROIT (AP) — The director of the Wayne County Board of Social Welfare says many needy senior citizens end up in private hospitals because other hospitals refuse to admit them and many doctors refuse to handle their cases.

The accusations were leveled over the weekend by Walter J. Dunne, the board's director, after Dr. Don McLean, president of the Wayne County Medical Society, charged that elderly needy patients are not receiving care to which they are entitled under the federal Kerr-Mills program.

Dr. McLean said in effect that the elderly patients are being "sold" to several county hospitals to be used in teaching physicians, and they are given neither a choice of doctor or hospital.

Dr. McLean said elderly needy patients are entitled to private care and the choice of their own doctors under the Kerr-Mills Act, but instead are being treated as charity cases by the social welfare board and farmed out.

Under the Kerr-Mills Act, half the cost of medical care for the needy elderly is paid by the federal government, 40 per cent by the state and 10 per cent by the county.

Fashion Designer Arrested in Hit-Run

WEST LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Nationally known fashion designer Don Loper was arrested on suspicion of felony hit-run Sunday following a three-mile chase by comedian Jerry Lewis and other motorists.

Lewis, who knows Loper but was not aware of the fashion designer, called police on his car telephone.

"I kept police posted on our position," Lewis said. "I forced him to the side of the road and he stopped."

An investigating officer said Loper told him he had taken sleeping pills, but still was unable to sleep so left his home for a drive. Police said he refused to take a sobriety test.

Loper caused a furor when singer Frank Sinatra refused to wear an ensemble designed for him by Loper to President Kennedy's inauguration because of derogatory remarks.

Loper, 52, who is famous for his wardrobe for Hollywood personalities, was jailed after the arrest but was later released on a writ of habeas corpus after spending several hours in jail. He posted bail of $1,000.

THREE INJURED

Police said Loper's car crossed the double yellow center line, struck another automobile, continued to angle across the oncoming lanes, jumped the curb and struck a high bush. Loper was uninjured, but three persons in the other car suffered minor injuries. Police said Loper's car also sideswiped three parked autos.

Press Group Labels Communism Bad

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UPI) — A "declaration of San Juan," labeling communism a real menace to the free press and other liberties, was approved Sunday by the Inter American Press Association (IAPA).

The IAPA said that evidence has been obtained showing "beyond doubt that international communism has intensified its aggression against press freedom."

"Communism, like all totalitarian systems, is in essence the absolute denial of freedom of expression as well as all liberties," the declaration said.

Industrialist Succumbs

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Frank E. Seaman, 79, organizer and retired general manager of the Crane Hoist Division of Robbins and Myers, Inc., died Sunday. Seaman, a past treasurer of the Catholic Art Association of the U.S., was born in Newark, N.J.

Death Takes PR Man

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Col. John Y. Argo, 63, director of public relations for International Paper Co., since 1947, died Sunday. Argo, who retired from the Army in 1944 after 26 years service, was born in Talladega, Ala.

Provide Saving Gesture

COMANCHE, Tex. (UPI) — Public donations helped buy a $1,888 fire truck for Comanche, and addition of the truck lowered fire insurance premiums an estimated 2 per cent.

Astrological Forecast

By SYDNEY CHARR
"The wise man controls his destiny... Astrology points the way."

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Do not engage in gossip. And do not permit the influence of others to depress you. You gain most by sincerity. Sex: fair. Career: opportunity for advancement. Word: VERBATIM.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): If you do not ask for too much, there is danger of disappointment. This is not day to push or make demands. Be diplomatic. Be diplomatic — very and charming.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Strive for originality. No time to follow mob. Exercise independence of thought. Action: Spontaneous. Personality: You can win your case now. Strive while you can.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Emphasize the positive. Do not dwell on the negative. Don't surround yourself with persons who complain, who depress you. Do not let your own interests blind you. By so doing, you also make love over.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): You obtain what you seek. If you are working for an unpleasant situation, you will find it. Opportunity for making new friends. Expressing creative side.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21): If you are tired of details, take a vacation. Visit. Interviewing, telephone, calling. Virgo will be a day. You miss the day.

Libra (Sept. 22 to Oct. 21): Temptation is part of freedom. The tempter is the child in you. If you wish to use the power of temptation, use it ahead. But, in long run, price may prove higher.

Scorpio (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21): Strength is on your side. Do not let fear make you off balance. Do not let fear make you break through the time and watch others' change.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Now is time to "be low" quietly, but you are not to surrender. Do not sign anything. Do not give away your secrets.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 31): All told to responsibilities at home. Do not let fear make you a victim. Do not let fear make you a victim. Do not let fear make you a victim. Do not let fear make you a victim.

Aquarius (Jan. 31 to Feb. 28): Stress on the individual. Do not let fear make you a victim. Do not let fear make you a victim. Do not let fear make you a victim. Do not let fear make you a victim.

Pisces (Feb. 29 to Mar. 31): Do not let fear make you a victim. Do not let fear make you a victim. Do not let fear make you a victim. Do not let fear make you a victim.

IF TUESDAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

Today you could find you moving or in more secure domestic position. You have certain responsibilities. Do not let fear make you a victim. Do not let fear make you a victim. Do not let fear make you a victim. Do not let fear make you a victim.

GENERAL TENDENCY: Kind of day. Do not let fear make you a victim. Do not let fear make you a victim. Do not let fear make you a victim. Do not let fear make you a victim.

REMARKS ON LATEST ENTERTAINMENT:

Do not let fear make you a victim. Do not let fear make you a victim. Do not let fear make you a victim. Do not let fear make you a victim.

THESE REMARKS, HOWEVER, APPROACH ARE TO BE TAKEN WITH A GRAIN OF SALT.

Asks Seat Belts;
Slams Lobbyists

N.Y. Lawmaker Says
Detroit Trying to Kill
Bill to Mandate Device

ALBANY (UPI)—A Republican assemblyman said today that Detroit lobbyists are out to "kill" a bill in the New York State Legislature which would mandate safety belts in all automobiles.

Assemblyman Julius Volker of Buffalo, vice chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Motor Vehicles and Traffic said, "High pressure lobbyists representing the auto industry" are concentrating their efforts in the assembly where the seat belt measure is due for action soon.

Volker said the lobbyists failed completely in the Senate. The measure was unanimous support in the upper house.

The bill promises "to reduce fatalities and serious injuries" by more than 35 per cent, and mandates seat belts for the front seats of every car in the state, foreign and domestic, starting with all 1965 models.

A companion bill sets up the state health department testing procedures and requirements for all models of seat belts. The seat belt law itself is attached to a bill which pushes ahead by two weeks, to next June 30, the effective date of last year's enacted seat belt anchorage unit bill.

He said lobbyists managed to kill seat belt anchorage unit bills in seven states last year, but "failed in New York State."

"The lobbyists are battling desperately now," he said, "because they know this new law will force Detroit to install the belts as standard equipment, like brakes and headlights."

Volker said use of the safety device will prevent more than 7,000 deaths and 1 million serious injuries in New York State over the course of 10 years.

USS San Juan Sold to Japan as Scrap

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (UPI)—The light cruiser USS San Juan is going back to the country she fought — as scrap.

The 30-year-old ship is being chopped into scrap at this southern California port for shipment to Japan.

Once one of the fastest ships in the Navy, the San Juan distinguished herself in battle in the Pacific during World War II.

The ship saw action in the Solomon Islands in mid-October, 1942, and engaged the enemy in the battle of Santa Cruz Islands south and east of the Solomons.

She took part in the bombardment of the Japanese mainland and entered Sagami Bay on Aug. 27, 1945, with the occupation forces.

The San Juan was purchased as scrap for $210,000 only a fraction of her cost when she was commissioned on Feb. 28, 1942.

Repulse Rebel Attack in Burmese Town

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Police drove off a large force of Karen rebels attacking the town of Monywa on the Irrawaddy River about 100 miles south of Rangoon Saturday night.

Two police and three rebels were killed in the nine-hour battle and 50 other persons were believed wounded.

The attackers finally retreated, burning three government launchers, after failing to get inside the town.

In a move to stamp out the rebellion of Karen tribes who have been demanding autonomy since Burma won independence, the revolutionary council announced that the 15,000-man constabulary would be integrated into the regular army.

West Studies Plan to Neutralize Laos

GENEVA (AP)—The West is reported considering a proposal to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko that Britain and the Soviet Union send the co-chairmen of the Geneva conference on Laos to try to bring the three political princes together.

The suggestion is that Malcolm MacDonald of Britain and Gromyko of Russia act as mediators in the formation of a coalition regime that would keep Laos neutral in the cold war.

The 13-nation conference here for months has been urging the Laotian factions to iron out their differences and form a national unity government. The princes—rightist Boua Oun, neutralist Souvanna Phouma and pro-Communist Souphanouvong—cannot agree on distribution of cabinet posts in a coalition government.

Welk's Producer Dies

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Edward Sobol, 70, television producer and a veteran producer-director of Broadway stage shows in New York, died Saturday after an illness of five weeks. Sobol had produced the Lawrence Welk television show since 1955 and had produced several other television shows.

McNamara Against Use of Nike Zeus

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara has all but decided against allowing the Army to put its vaunted Nike Zeus antimissile missile into production, no matter how successful it is in forthcoming Pacific tests.

Only some spectacular scientific breakthrough that would overcome what he considers serious weaknesses in the Nike Zeus could budge McNamara from his present belief that the weapon should not be produced and deployed.

Authorities said today that, as far as the Defense Department is concerned, no such breakthrough is foreseeable.

McNamara, appearing on a radio-television program Sunday with Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., said it appeared that no amount of money can make possible an absolute defense of this country against the intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM).

For that reason and because of serious weaknesses in the Nike Zeus system, he said, defense officials could not at this time recommend that the antimissile missile be put in production.

REVEALED POSITION

McNamara it was said had made known his position to Congress during closed defense budget hearings and that he had made it known to the public in a statement that he had made in the House of Representatives.

Army, which calls the Nike Zeus the "coast defense in sight" against ICBMs, has seemed to expect that the spring Pacific tests will be a graduation ceremony followed by production and deployment of the weapon around major U.S. targets. That would cost $8 billion to $10 billion over five years.

In the tests, the Nike Zeus will be fired from Kwajalein Island against the Nike Zeus, and the Nike Zeus will be fired from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.

McNamara has informed Congress he does not consider that the tests will be very meaningful in terms of how well the Nike Zeus could defend the nation against a heavy, surprise ICBM attack.

Girl Survives Cold, Tells How Pals Died

GLEICHEN, Alta. (AP) — An Indian girl told today that two companions froze to death at her side when they were caught in a blizzard after playing hockey on a frozen lake.

Geraldine Black Rider, 11, survived the 20-hour ordeal of wind and snow on the bare prairie, suffering only from exposure and a frozen head.

Indian searchers found the frozen bodies of her companions, Belinda Rawn Eater, 12, and Mable Crane Bear, 13, buried in the snow.

From a hospital bed, Geraldine said the three skipped afternoon classes at the residential school near the Blackfoot reservation, 30 miles southeast of Calgary, last Thursday because the weather was a balmy 50 degrees.

They decided to walk a mile to Gleichen to visit their mother, All three were lightly clad.

DECIDED TO RETURN

Geraldine said that evening the three decided to return to their rooms at the school just as a storm began blowing up. Her sister, Mary, tried to persuade them to stay, but they wanted to get back to the school.

She related this sequence of events:

As the storm increased in fury they ran to a house on the wind-swept prairie. No one was home. The winds, which reached a peak of 60 miles an hour, blew across the field. They finally sought shelter on the banks of a frozen slough.

They lay down and struggled close in the freezing temperature. Geraldine in the middle. The weather records show the temperature held fairly steady at 15 above through the night, but the winds blew without letup and the snow came down.

About 4 p.m. Friday, Geraldine realized her friends were not sleeping. They were frozen to death.

She struggled to free her feet and stumbled off through the drifts under Indian searchers found her. Royal Canadian Mounted Police said Geraldine survived because she was dressed a little warmer, and because she had lain between the other two.

They May Be Thieves,
But They're Not Liars

JOELIN, Mo. (AP) — Mrs. Mary Silvers observed two men putting some rolls of her new roofing, packed in her yard, into an automobile at the curb.

"What do you think you're doing with that roofing?" she asked. "We're stealing it, ma'am," the male voice answered as the car drove away.

Northern Police Go After Woman Admitting Theft

DETROIT (AP) — Cheboygan police were expected here today to take custody of a mother of four who allegedly embezzled $634.50 from a Girl Scout cookie sale.

Mrs. Elgie Jerald, 29, of Cheboygan, surrendered to police Sunday night. She said she heard day in her home town were looking for her.

Shepherd Harold K. Werner, of Cheboygan County, said Mrs. Jerald admitted to him Feb. 19 she had taken the money, but disappeared the next day when Werner returned to her home with a warrant for her arrest.

Mrs. Jerald's husband, Walter, and their four children, aged 2 to 10, also vanished the same day.

The woman was treasurer of the cookie sale fund drive but allegedly failed to turn in money owed to the firm which supplied the cookies, Werner said.

Walks Into Police Station After Being Shot in Head

Bloomfield Township police today were investigating the shooting of a high school student who walked into the Birmingham police station Saturday night and said he had been shot in the head.

The incident took place, Ives said, near 16-Mile Road just before 11 p.m. in the south Bloomfield Township section of Woodward Avenue.

REMOVES SLUG

Ives was taken to William Beaumont Hospital where a slug, apparently from an old cap and ball pistol, was removed.

The ball did not penetrate Ives' skull but four stitches were needed to close the wound.

Police said the shot was either fired from a considerable distance or the pistol had been loaded with a small charge of powder.

Bloomfield Township said one of its scout cars was parked on Woodward Avenue where the shooting apparently happened but the officer heard no shot at that time.

Both Ives and Collins attend Seaborn High School.

Urges Expansion of Jobless Pay

Kennedy Says Program Needed to Boost Trade and Ease Hardships

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy urged Congress today to broaden the federal-state jobless pay system on a permanent basis.

He said prompt action is "especially urgent" to reduce hardships of unemployment and to stimulate business.

In a letter to both houses of Congress, Kennedy described legislation he presented last year as "essential to assure sustained prosperity and to strengthen our manpower base."

The administration program would cover an additional three million workers now unprotected by the jobless pay system, extend benefit periods by 12 weeks under certain conditions and increase compensation in most instances.

When enacted, Kennedy said, "the legislation will exert a stabilizing effect upon our economy, helping to maintain consumer purchasing power and cushioning any economic reverses."

It will make unnecessary the temporary stop gap legislation sought each time a crisis develops, and modernizes the system to better meet the needs of the work force, the community and the nation."

Walkout Slows Construction of 12-Town Drain

Work on the 12-Town Drain under construction in South Oakland County slowed to a snail's pace today with 150 tunnel workers on strike for higher wages and a limited production schedule.

An additional 41 county-employed drain inspectors have been laid off as a result of the strike which is affecting over half of the $40-million project currently under contract.

The dispute between contractors and tunnel workers of Local 334 and 1876 is threatening to spread to surface workers, Deputy Drain Commissioner Robert Evans said.

Some 30 to 40 men remained on surface contracts today, however.

Plan Rail Strike Vote

CHICAGO (AP) — The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen announced today a strike vote will be taken soon among its 20,000 members in a dispute involving proposed changes in working rules on the nation's major railroads.

HOW DO YOU DO, MRS. KENNEDY! — Mrs. John F. Kennedy is flanked by India's Prime Minister Nehru at Palam Airfield in New Delhi, India, after her arrival there this morning. The President's wife, who flew to India after a short stay in Rome where she had an interview with the Pope, begins a two-week tour of India and Pakistan.

She Wears White Silk in India Thousands Greet Jackie

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Indians welcomed Mrs. John F. Kennedy warmly today and watched with interest as she placed a wreath of white roses at the shrine of Mohandas K. Gandhi.

More than 100,000 turned out to witness the arrival of America's First Lady from Rome for a nine-day visit to India, and other thousands showed up for a glimpse of her as she made a round of official calls.

The pomp and ceremony of state occasions was lacking, but the reception had the enthusiasm and color of greetings for such previous visitors as President Eisenhower and Queen Elizabeth II.

Mrs. Kennedy donned a completely white outfit for her round of calls. She wore a white silk jacket designed by Cleo Casini and a broad-brimmed straw hat turned up and worn off the face.

The First Lady, her sister Princess Lee Radziwili, U.S. Ambassador John Kenneth Galt and India's ambassador to Washington, B. K. Nehru, stopped first at the massive home of President Rajendra Prasad.

Prasad showed the youthful guest his formal gardens, with the temperature in the low 80s, the flowers are now at their peak of brilliance. Mrs. Kennedy shook hands with Prasad's four grandchildren, then joined him inside for tea.

From the presidential house she was driven across the city to a spot near the Juma River where Gandhi, the hero of Indian independence, was cremated 14 years ago.

Before entering Mrs. Kennedy took off her Italian-made white shoes and put on gold-trimmed white velvet slippers. Visitors are not allowed to wear leather footwear.

Rusk, Gromyko Talk 3 Hours, Get Nowhere

Meet Again on Tuesday
Over Disarmament and Cold War Issues

From Our News Wire
GENEVA — Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko today held a wide-ranging three-hour talk which apparently failed to crack the East-West deadlock on critical Cold War issues.

Rusk, with a few of his top advisers, was the luncheon guest of Gromyko at the Soviet Villa Rose near the Palais des Nations where the UN-sponsored 17-nation general disarmament conference is scheduled to open on Wednesday.

Gromyko told newsmen afterwards that he found no reason for optimism after discussing a broad list of matters of "mutual interest" with Rusk.

Rusk will meet with Gromyko again Tuesday. The Soviet foreign minister was to lunch with Rusk and also have dinner with British Foreign Secretary Lord Home Tuesday evening.

The West called on Russia to stop harassing Allied air traffic to Berlin lest increasing tensions there endanger the disarmament negotiations.

As the talks went on Western officials today reported new Soviet harassment of Western aircraft in the air lanes over East Germany to West Berlin.

NEWS BLACKOUT

The officials gave no details of the topics because of a news blackout ordered on the Soviet tactics, but the Russians were believed to be scheduling flights in the corridors at the times and altitudes Allied planes were scheduled to fly.

Gromyko denied knowledge of Soviet interference in the Berlin air corridors.

Rusk also told Gromyko the United States and Britain would like to get to work promptly on a number of key issues.

Gromyko dimmed hopes for a quick agreement by raising the old spy-scare issue to counter President Kennedy's demand that inspection provisions be written into any treaty.

Rusk again warned Gromyko that unless an agreement can be reached by the middle of April, the United States will go ahead with a series of nuclear atmospheric tests in the central Pacific. Home supported the U.S. stand.

Stamp Exhibit Stolen

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Thieves nabbed with more than $1,000 in stamps and coins being shown at the annual exhibit of the Toledo Stamp Collectors Club.

McNamara, appearing on a radio-television program Sunday with Sen. Kenneth E. Keating, R-N.Y., said it appeared that "no amount of money can make possible an absolute defense of this country against the intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM)." — PAGE 2.

For that reason and because of serious weaknesses in the Nike Zeus system, he said, defense officials could not at this time recommend that the antimissile missile be put in production.

REVEALED POSITION

McNamara it was said had made known his position to Congress during closed defense budget hearings and to the Army, which has been issuing a steady stream of information about successful preliminary test shots with the missile.

The Army, which calls the Nike Zeus the only defense in sight against ICBMs, has seemed to expect that the spring Pacific tests will be a graduation exercise followed by production and deployment of the weapon around major U.S. targets. That would cost $8 billion to $10 billion over five years.

In the tests, the Nike Zeus will be fired from Kwajalein Island against the nose cones of Atlas missiles launched from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.

McNamara has informed Congress he does not consider that the test will be very meaningful in terms of how well the Nike Zeus could defend the nation against a heavy, surprise ICBM attack.

6 Babies Die, 10 Stricken in NY; Find Salt Overdose

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — In the baby and cause heart failure in a very young child.

The babies who died ranged from 3 days to 3 months.

The four infants in critical condition were under the care of a team of specialists. Six others who, the hospital said, had been fed a salt-saturated formula were under close observation.

The hospital said a preliminary post-mortem examination of two of the dead infants indicated a high sodium content in their bodies.

The investigation was the second in three years at the hospital. In 1959, the hospital, then named Binghamton City, underwent a probe after a woman cancer patient died from an overdose of radiation.

The hospital administrator at the time charged the hospital's chief radiologist with incompetence and misconduct and suspended the radiologist and his assistant. They later were reinstated but since have left the staff.

Dr. Vincent Maddi, a corner, ordered autopsies performed on the bodies of six babies.

Two state departments, social welfare and health, began investigations.

Berlin Wall Crumbling
BERLIN (AP) — The top layer of 60 feet of the Communist's masonry wall, apparently damaged by weather, crashed to the pavement today in Boyenstrasse, in the Wedding district, East German police climbed over to retrieve fallen pieces. They repaired the wall while a French military patrol watched on one side and an East German armored personnel carrier on the other.

Severe winds at 12 miles per hour earlier today will become southeasterly 15 to 25 miles later today.

The lowest temperature recorded preceding 8 o'clock today was 35 degrees shortly after midnight. At 1 p.m. the thermometer reading was 44.

HEART FAILURE
Pediatricians said an overdose of salt could upset the balance.

DPW Crews Work Hard to Relieve City Flooding

Pontiac Department of Public Works crews can forget about ice and snow removal. Today they had a new problem — water.

The all night rain caused flooding conditions that closed several streets, lifted manhole covers off sewers and flooded basements of hundreds of residents.

Likewise, hundreds of residents in Oakland and Macomb Counties were forced to flee their homes because of floods.

Morey Cameron, DPW street maintenance supervisor, said high water forced crews to close Johnson Street west of the Grand Trunk Railroad tracks this morning.

"We also barricaded Giddings Road from Perry to Walton, and Brooklyn Street east and west of Baldwin," Cameron said.

"All of the city's drainage lines are overloaded. In several spots manhole covers were forced off by water pressure."

DRAIN BASEMENTS
Cameron said crews worked all day trying to relieve flooded basements where the flooding was due to drains backing up or streets flooding.

The worst conditions were reported to be in southern Oakland County where whole subdivisions (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Try Robbery at Mall Store

By DON FERMOYRE and RALPH F. HUMMEL

Two suspects were picked up at 10:30 this morning to be questioned in the robbery attempt of the Pontiac Mall's Montgomery Ward store and the kidnapping of the store manager, his wife and 15-year-old son.

The two men were being held by White Lake Township Police after being picked up while hitch-hiking on M59 near Pontiac Lake Road. No names were released.

Meanwhile, over 60 police from the Pontiac area were continuing a manhunt for at least one other man believed among the trio which held hostage for nine hours Leslie (Red) Gillain, his wife, Blanche, and his son Donald.

The manhunt — aided by two police dogs — was spreading outward from an area behind the store at Telegraph and Elizabeth Lake roads in a wooded area where two of the gunmen were last seen.

Gillain was held captive from 8:30 last night to shortly after 5 a. m. today — most of the time in their home at 140 E. Berkley Drive Road, Bloomfield Township.

They were released unharmed behind the store when two police cars drove up just as the gunmen were forcing Gillain to drive their getaway. Also held captive but not harmed were seven porters at the store.

The two gunmen who forced the family to drive to the store about 5 a. m. were described as armed with pistols.

One was described as close to 6 feet tall, of slender build, wearing a dark blue or black jacket. The other was described as 5 feet 8 to 5 feet 10 inches tall, with very large feet. No description on the third man was revealed.

The trio forced their way into the Gillain home at 8:30 p. m. yesterday.

Gillain said he was sleeping on the couch in his coop apartment at about 8:30 last night.

His wife was feeling ill and was asleep in an upstairs bedroom. Gillain was watching television in another bedroom.

WEAR MASKS
The two gunmen took two men in Hallows masks suddenly appeared in the living room, apparently after entering through a basement window.

Both were armed with pistols. "One of them said 'Be quiet!'"

"Do as we tell you and no one will get hurt," Gillain said. "If you don't, we'll kill your family."

"They said they wanted money from the store, and ordered Gillain upstairs. There the gunman blindfolded, and gagged Gillain and his son, Donald, 15, a student at Bloomfield Hills High School.

The bandits first said they wanted to take the family directly to the store. But Gillain told them there was an armed guard on duty who would shoot anyone entering. He advised them to wait till morning when the guard would go off duty.

India to Peiping: Trade OK if . . .

Aggressive Program
Tibet to Be Extended

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru's government has told Red China after almost a year of "aggressive policies" it she wants to extend the trade pact between India and China-occupied Tibet, President Rajendra Prasad told parliament today.

Prasad said Peiping had offered to negotiate a new trade pact to replace the 1954 agreement expiring on June 2.

In a speech written by the Nehru government to inaugurate the three-week lame duck session, Prasad said:

"My government, responding by way of reply, has asked for a reversal of the aggressive policies pursued by our neighbor and for restoration of a climate of peace on the basis of strict observance of the five principles of peaceful coexistence."

Prime Minister Nehru has accused Red China of occupying 12,000 square miles of Indian territory in Ladakh on the Himalayan frontier. Red China accused India last month of sending a reconnaissance plane over its territory in Ladakh.

Prasad also touched on the situation in the Congo, saying:

"India is gratified there are some indications of a cooperative United Nations outlook between the Western powers and the Soviet Union 'regarding the Congo.'"

Although India would like to bring its troops home from the Congo, "my government feels the essential basis for which India sent troops there remain unfulfilled and has agreed to continue troops there," he added.

Miriam Hopkins Rambles in Her Big City House

By PHYLLIS BATELLE

NEW YORK—The most exclusive block of lovely, costly houses in Manhattan backs up against the East River, and is called Sutton Place. The handful of people who own these residences have such names as Vanderbilt, Roosevelt, Onassis. There is only one owner who admits, happily, to working for a living.

"Hi!" called Miriam Hopkins, actress-landlady, peering over the balustrade of an elegant staircase that curls up four floors. "Come on up—the fire's fine."

In the sitting room, tastefully furnished in silk brocade and original Matisse, the fire, sure enough, was warm and lively. But no more so than the diminutive Miss Hopkins, Broadway star of the 1930s, Hollywood great of the '30s and '40s, now a combination actress-real estate owner.

"It all started about 35 years ago—Good Lord, was it that long—when I was on Broadway in a play called "Thou Desperest Pilot," began Miss Hopkins, with a southern accent in big time.

"I didn't make much money so on the side I wrote plays. One day I went to see the head of the American Play Company, a wonderful old lady who lived in this house. I was so impressed.

WHO, ME?

"This lady said if I liked this house, I should go ahead with my writing—that someday she'd be dead, and I could buy the house."

"I said, 'Who, Me?' Why, I'd had three repossessions warnings for not paying rent on my little apartment in Greenwich Village! But just to show you how things happen, it was only 10 years later that I suddenly was in Hollywood, with a chauffeur and a swimming pool. And the lady died. I rushed back and arranged to buy this wonderful nutty house."

"Sam Goldwyn—he'd just signed me to a contract—said

what in Heaven's name would I do with a house in New York City? My life was in California, he said. You know what I said? I said maybe so, but I'm going to die in New York." The tiny star smiled broadly. "You see?"

But there is no question of Miss Hopkins, settling down to the sedentary life here. She will not, for long, occupy her fabulous house which has at least quadrupled in value in the past quarter-century. She leases it out (last tenants, the Jule Styne, who had it five years), and spends most of her time in a small penthouse 10 blocks away.

UNHAPPILY WED

"I would live here if I were happily married to somebody."

But it happens I lived here rather unhappily married twice, and I'm afraid things come in threes. Besides, it's too much work running a four-story house. You have to have servants. And servants eat lamb chops, strawberries and Devonshire cream three times a day. You know?"

So presently, this week perhaps, she will turn over the house to new, wealthy (they'd have to be) tenants and move back to her terrace-circled three-room apartment.

"It's almost time to start planting the geraniums again," she said. "I always plant the terrace because I know the minute I do it, I'll get a job out on the West Coast. The same principle as when you light a cigarette, the dinner arrives. You know?"

Last spring, the very day she planted the terrace, a call came from director William Wyler in California, urging her to come to Hollywood to play in "The Children's Hour," her first film in 10 years. It is a revised version of the Lillian Hellman play in which Miss Hopkins co-starred with Merle Oberon back in 1938. This time, Shirley MacLaine plays her old role, and Miriam finds herself in the position of portraying her own aunt.

ROLE SO FUNNY

As it turned out, Miss Hopkins made the role so humorous and sympathetic that, for the sake of the pace and mood of the movie's theme, much of her performance had to be cut from the final version. "This I'm saying without bitterness," she said wryly. "I'm glad the back of my hair looked neat."

Miss Hopkins, who has been busy with occasional TV and stage performances this last decade, admitted that she cringes mentally when she thinks of an acting future in which "little starlets look up at me, hating their eyes, and say 'Mama' or 'Auntie.'"

Yet she'll continue to act, as long as meaty roles become available.

She wants to continue to be the only homeowner in Sutton Place who could be called a working girl.

Boy Gives His Reasons for Killing Entire Family

CONCORD, N. H. (AP) — A slight 17-year-old high school boy, under psychiatric treatment for two years, was quoted by police today as admitting he killed his entire family — parents and two brothers because he felt they would be better off dead.

The slayings in the central New Hampshire community of New Port, a town of 5,500 population about 50 miles northwest of Concord, left neighbors saddened and puzzled. Blond and bespectacled, the boy was considered bright. He was in the last year of high school.

The youth was scheduled for a juvenile court arraignment today behind closed doors.

Arrangements were begun for the funerals, presumably a joint service, in the Methodist Church of the Good Shepherd at Newport Wednesday.

The victims were Francis L. McGrath, 37; his wife, Wilma, 40; and their sons, Peter F., 13, and Charles A., 5.

New Hampshire law forbids publication of the name of a juvenile involved in crime. Juvenile hearings are secret and the disposition may not be published.

HAD TROUBLES

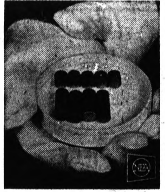

Police quoted the 17-year-old as saying in explanation of the shootings Saturday night: "I was thinking about their suffering. They always have troubles."

Police said the youth told them he first thought of killing his parents last Friday.

Police said he told them he arrived home from his supermarket job Saturday night and found his parents angry at each other. The parents went out shortly afterward.

The boy told police he got a Japanese rifle and shot Peter in a hallway. Then he went into a bedroom and killed Charles in his bed.

Scientists Plan to Launch More Copper Needles

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. scientists plan to launch into space another batch of those controversial copper needles because the results of the first try are currently orbiting the earth in five or six useless clumps.

The second launching, scheduled for sometime this year, will send up a package of 250 million tiny copper wires. Last October 350 million were rocketed into space.

Purpose of the project is to create a ring of the wires about 2,000 miles above the earth to reflect microwave radio messages over great distances.

Informal sources said the new Philippine leader would spend three days in Washington as guest of the President and also visit New York, Chicago, Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Honolulu.

Embryo College Names Assistant to President

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — George T. Potter, 34, a Canadian educator, has been named assistant to the president for academic affairs for Grand Valley State College.

Potter will take over the $10,000 a year job effective June 15 to work with GVSC President James H. Zumberge in planning curriculum and recruiting a faculty. He is currently associate director of extension education at the newly established Calgary Branch of the University of Alberta, Canada. He was born in London, England.

Jakarta Welcomes Returned Prisoners

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—An enthusiastic welcome was given Sunday to a group of Indonesians captured by the Dutch when their torpedo boat was sunk off West New Guinea.

U.N. acting Secretary-General U Thant, who negotiated the release of the prisoners with the help of the International Red Cross, said 52 men were involved. One of the men had his right leg in a cast. The others looked fit and well.

Indonesia's deputy navy chief commander, Jos Sudarmo, was killed when the torpedo boat was shot up by Dutch gunboats Jan. 15. Another Indonesian boat escaped.

His statements contrasted sharply with his comments made as recently as a month ago, criticizing U.S. policy toward Laos.

Premier Changes His Tune

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—U.S. stock in Thailand, which sagged visibly earlier in the year, has soared to a new high.

A pledge by the United States last week to come to Thailand's assistance in case of Communist aggression has sparked a new wave of pro-American sentiment among leaders of this Southeast Asian country.

U.S.A. FRIEND

The pledge inspired Premier Marshal Sarit Thanarat, in a weekend nationwide television speech, to call the United States a true friend and give assurance that friendship and cooperation between the countries will exist eternally.

They routinely scored so-called neutralist coalition government in Laos, which they claimed would lead to Communist domination of that next-door neighbor and endanger Thailand's security.

Thailand Happy Over U.S. Aid Promises

pressure tactics by the United States, including the withholding of aid money, to force the right-wing Laotian government—which Thailand backs—into negotiations with the neutralist and pro-Communist factions.

There is no indication that this point of difference has been resolved, but the pledge of immediate assistance made in Washington to Thai Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman has eased Thailand's fears on one part: it need not rely now solely on the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization for its defense.

NO TREATY

Thailand and the United States do not have a formal bilateral defense treaty. Only their membership in SEATO binds them together in this respect, and SEATO's charter contains no provision for immediate and automatic action in the event a member is threatened. All eight member nations must agree before the alliance can move.

The new U.S. commitment contained in a communique after Thanat's Washington talks, assures Thailand of American assistance even without prior SEATO approval.

Sarit underlined this in his speech Saturday night. Now, he emphasized, "if and when our country is invaded it will not stand alone."

Detroit Leaders Look Favorably on School Bias Report

DETROIT — Reaction of civic leaders to a Citizens' Advisory Committee report on Detroit public school racial problems was generally favorable today.

The committee report found evidence of school boundaries being used for racial discrimination and bias existing in teacher placement.

Disagreement with the 360-page report generally was centered on the importance of some of the committee's key recommendations.

The committee report said the practice in Detroit of assigning students to schools on a neighborhood basis sometimes aids segregation and suggested greater freedom in transfers of students to schools outside their own neighborhoods where possible.

It also suggested that the current "boundary" system of school placement be made more flexible to take in various racial and ethnic groups where possible.

PLACEMENT

Another key finding of the committee was that although there was no discrimination in hiring of teachers, "... with only a few exceptions, Negro teachers are placed only where there are Negro children in attendance at a school."

The report, drawn up by a committee named by the board of education and including representatives of education, religion, labor, Negro groups, parent-teacher organizations and others deeply versed in problems of Negro life, recommended that the board of education, which included seven Negroes, told the board that the school boundaries have been used in the past to "further racial and social segregation."

"While some progress has been made, it has not been adequate," the committee said. It called on the board to "recognize the full urgency of this issue."

Although he did not suggest that integration be forced in the schools, Judge Kaufman called for the "deliberate placement of Negro teachers in all white schools."

NEARLY ONE HALF

Negroes comprise 46.5 per cent of Detroit's school enrollment. On the assignment of teachers, the committee said, "It is our belief that the practice of assigning teachers, principals and other school employees on the basis of race is educationally, legally and morally unsound and weakens the democratic opportunities of children in the Detroit public schools."

The board of education was asked to give future preference to textbooks which contain "valid reference to contributions of minority groups to American history and our social, political and economic life."

The committee said: "Since almost 40 per cent of the children in Detroit's public schools are Negroes, there is no legitimate reason why textbooks should be used which do not accurately reflect the contributions and needs of the Negro in America and in the world community."

School Supt. Samuel Brownell said the board of education's policy already covers many of the committee's recommendations. "If it were otherwise, it would be inexecutable," he said.

4 DIE AS PLANE HITS — An Air Force C119 Flying Boxcar slammed into the home of Lubet Levron near New Orleans, killing the construction worker, his wife and two sons. A 7-year-old daughter is in a hospital with a probable skull fracture. All six crewmen of the plane parachuted to safety. The plane plowed across an open field opposite Levron's home, jumped a 15-foot bayou, sheared a utility pole off its base, jumped the highway and ripped into Levron's home, 22 miles southeast of New Orleans.

Manager, 'Baseman' Form Winning Team

NORWALK, Ohio (AP) — Bricklayer Mike Hergatt married a second baseman and their teamwork is continuing in a thriving business.

Hergatt—managed a girls' softball team a few years ago, and eventually married the girl who played second base and was team seamstress.

When the couple moved to Norwalk from Massillon, Ohio, he continued as a bricklayer and she opened a lettering and embroidery service.

The embroidery business prospered, requiring a 2,100-square-foot addition, which Hergatt now is engaged in erecting. The couple has two married children.

Made Goat of Farm Flop

MOSCOW — The goat of Premier Khrushchev's report last week on Soviet farm failures was the son of a restless Briton who moved to Communist Russia after an unsuccessful attempt to settle in the United States.

The son was Vasily Robertovich Williams, a soil scientist. His grasslands farming technique was adopted for large areas of Russia in the '30s. Joseph Stalin saw it as a way to save on chemical fertilizers.

FOLLOWED STALIN

When he died Nov. 11, 1939 at age 36, Williams was a highly respected soil specialist and holder of the prized Order of Lenin and two orders of the Red Banner of Labor.

Williams was one of the few Russian scientists to welcome the Communist Revolution in 1917; he became a close follower of Stalin.

Khrushchev charges now that Williams talked Stalin into adopting a wasteful method that keeps a large part of the land in grass each year. Against the advice of many Soviet agricultural specialists, Khrushchev has ordered grasslands plowed up and planted mostly with grain and some peas and corn.

Williams' method involves rotation of crops — grass after grain. This helps the soil restore its fertility naturally and prevents the wind from blowing it away.

Williams intended his method for use only in the humid northwestern areas of Russia. In typical Bolshevik fashion, Stalin forced its adoption in semiarid areas as well as areas where half the Soviet Union's farmhands live.

A SCIENTIST, BUT...

The Post-Stalin edition of the great Soviet encyclopedia devotes three pages to Williams as "an outstanding Soviet soil scientist" but it contains critical references to "a series of mistaken views."

Born in Moscow Sept. 27, 1893, Williams studied soil science at the Chair of Agriculture and Forestry and later traveled to France and Germany for further studies of farm methods. At one point in his travels, he worked as a technician in the laboratory of Louis Pasteur.

Williams is said to have inherited the restlessness of his father, and his Russian mother's love of nature. The father was a railroad engineer. His restlessness probably accounts for his decision to leave England and settle in Russia. Records do not give the circumstances of his attempt to live in the United States.

CARLISLE, Pa. (UPI) — Gilbert Malcolm, who was expelled from Dickinson College in his sophomore year for hazing, has since held every nonacademic administrative position at the college.

He became provost on July 1, 1961, after two years as president. Malcolm said one of the 1916 classmates expelled with him sent him a congratulatory message on his election to the presidency which said simply: "Read Psalm 118, verse 2."

"I looked it up and the verse read, 'The stone the builders rejected has become the head of the corner.'"
