U.S. Grants $339,600 for Area Sewage Plan

And They Came Bringing Gifts

ADORATION OF THE MAGI — This ancient woodcut, taken from a book published nearly five centuries ago, shows how the "Kings of the Orient" appeared to medieval imaginations. Modern research shows the visitors from the East were professional scholars, and "kings" only in a poetic sense. The picture is from John of Hieldesheim's story of the Three Kings, published in 1484 and now at the Pierpont Morgan Library.

Magi's Search Rewarded: Find Christ in Peasant Hut

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religious Writer

THE HOUSE stood against a hillside. It was small, made of sun-hardened mud bricks. It had no windows. A narrow path led to the doorway, hung wth a heavy wool cloth. Beside it leaned a woodman's axe.

As the wayfarers approached, the only sound was the crunching of camel hooves on the red gravel. It seemed quite loud. Melchior's lined face tensed. Neither he nor his two companions spoke. They stared ahead fixedly.

This was the place. This was their goal. This was the star-touched habitation.

In front of the house, smoke curled from an earthen oven. A waterjar sat nearby, and a millstone. Off to one side of the house was a vegetable patch, and on the other, a litle shed built against a Cypress tree.

★ ★ ★

Wood shavings littered the ground beneath the open shelter, and on a work table lay knives, wedges, bow-drill, adze, mallet and other carpenter's tools, along with some partly carved yokes and axles.

END OF THE ODYSSEY

Travel-spent old Melchior held himself erect, his senses on edge. So here the long odyssey ended—in Bethlehem.

He and the other Magi, who had dedicated their minds, passions and physical endurance to the dream of welcoming God's Premier to mankind, stopped at last — outside a peasant's hut.

Its occupants were not in sight.

The three stately callers slid to the ground. Servants, who had quit their burros, took the reins of the camels, tapped their necks and pulled down on the halters, signalling them to kneel.

Hastily, the magi straightened their mantles. Melchior smoothed his long, white beard.

Then he stepped to the doorpost. He caught his breath, and knocked.

What answer lay within? What was its compelling power, its strange appeal.

It seemed odd, indeed, that the great eastern scholars should be there. They had wealth, prestige, acclaim. Yet there they stood, with pent-up solicitude, at the doorstep of an obscure Jewish family.

What had engrossed them through the years, and driven them, and brought them across half a continent from Persia to this unlikely pass?

Ike's Budget Draws Reaction of Both Parties

Dems Say $77 Billion Unrealistic but GOP Well Pleased

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Eisenhower's plan for a 77-billion-dollar balanced budget next year was described by Democrats as unrealistic today, but Republicans called it a welcome Christmas present to the taxpayers.

Eisenhower's announcement of his budget plans, unprecedented in advance of the opening of Congress, said defense spending would be higher and other expenditures "consistent with the public interest" without any general increase in taxes.

His approximate 77-billion-dollar spending figure would be two billions below this year's estimated $79,200,000,000 total. At that level, a 12-billion-dollar deficit is expected this year, partly because the recession cut expected federal revenues.

Eisenhower originally had forecast a 500-million-dollar surplus for this year (based on lower spending), higher revenues and a postal rate increase higher than that Congress later provided.

Without giving details, Eisenhower said "reductions in total spending will be achieved in part by reason of the ending of temporary programs in agriculture, unemployment insurance and housing."

Due to expire next year are part of the soil bank program and a recession-born program of extended unemployment compensation benefits.

Although no general tax increase is to be asked, Eisenhower said — again without giving details — that his budget will request higher postal rates and gasoline taxes, and some new user charges for government services.

Snow and Colder Is Area Forecast

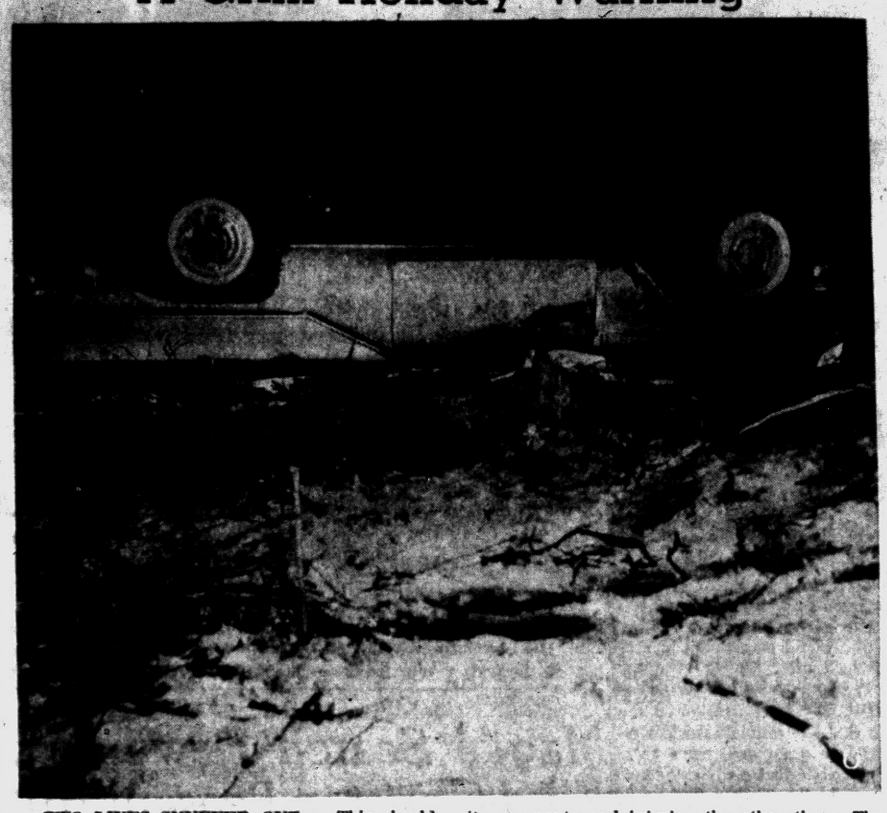

Mostly cloudy and colder with scattered snow flurries is the forecast for the area tomorrow by the U.S. Weather Bureau. The high will reach around 33 degrees. Tonight's low will be near 30.

With the arrival of winter yesterday morning, the shortest day of the year, Pontiac residents can expect two minutes more of day light each succeeding day.

This morning's westerly winds at 10-20 miles an hour will shift to northwesterly tonight and become northeasterly tomorrow.

The lowest recording in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 36 degrees. The mercury rose to 37 at 2 p.m.

A Grim Holiday Warning

TWO LIVES SNUFFED OUT — This should serve as a grim warning to holiday motorists. The overturned convertible overshot a curve in Commerce Township last night, killing two of its occupants and injuring the other three. The driver is being held for investigation of manslaughter.

Accused Bookies Are Bound Over

Will Stand Trial in Oakland Circuit Court on Gambling Charges

Five persons accused of running a bookie ring were bound over to Circuit Court today by Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCallum.

Bound over on charges of conspiracy to violate state gambling laws were Basil W. Burke, 59, of 29 Salmer St., described as the ring's kingpin; former deputy city treasurer LaRue E. Gullett, 41, of 301 Dick Ave.; his wife Gladys, 35; James Pruzer, 54, of 4 S. Saginaw St.; and Charles D. Apley, 44, of the Salmer address.

Lt. Carl W. Robinson, State Police detective, directed the Aug. 29 raids in which the five persons were arrested.

All five have been ordered to appear in Circuit Court Jan. 19.

New Kierdorf Trial Appeal Turned Down

Oakland County Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams this afternoon denied a motion for a new trial for Herman Kierdorf, former Teamsters aide convicted of possessing a pistol silencer.

Any verdict to the contrary, Judge Adams said, would have been against the great weight of evidence.

Attorney William J. Dohany of Pontiac said he would file an immediate leave to appeal to the decision to the State Supreme Court.

Kierdorf, 68, is free on bond of $15,000. He was sentenced Oct. 22 to 1-5 years in prison.

2 Die, 3 Hurt as Car Fails to Make Curve

Two Tawas men were killed and three other persons injured late Monday night when the auto in which they were riding shot off a curve and overturned at S. Commerce and Oakley Park roads.

Oakland County sheriff's deputies identified the dead as Frederick E. Cadorette, 22, of 229 Sixth St., and Robert J. Ketcherside, 24, of 629 Lake St.

They were pronounced dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital at 12:20 a.m. by Oakland County Deputy Coroner Dr. H. L. Riggs.

Oakland Highway Toll in '58 91

Driver of the convertible car, Robert L. Lixey, 23, of East Tawas, was treated for minor injuries and released. Two other passengers, Helga Hoitnga, 23, of Tawas, and William R. Klenow, 24, of East Tawas, were reported in fair condition today at the hospital.

★ ★ ★

A dozen deputies worked for an hour before freeing the victims from the smashed auto. The accident occurred about 11 p.m., deputies said.

Lixey was being held at Oakland County Jail for investigation of manslaughter, and will be questioned by detectives today.

Deputies estimated his speed at 55 m.p.h. Lixey said he didn't know the area very well and that his passengers confused him with their directions.

★ ★ ★

A reconstruction of the accident by deputies indicated the auto missed the curve completely and shot off South Commerce road onto an island between the two roads.

It struck two ditches, careened wildly across Oakley Park road and down an embankment, rolling over and coming to rest upside down.

★ ★ ★

The woman passenger was thrown from the auto. The other four persons were pinned in the demolished car and couldn't be reached until the car was raised off the ground, according to deputies.

13 Area Communities Included in Planning of $16,503,000 Project

Oakland County officials learned today that a federal grant of $339,600 had been approved for the initial planning of a proposed sewage disposal system and plant to take care of some 13 municipalities feeding into the Clinton River.

Oakland County Congressman William S. Broomfield said he had received a memorandum from Washington from John Hazeltine, commissioner of the Community Facilities Administration, that the advance had been made.

It thus permits the county's Department of Public Works, which will design and operate the system, to proceed with planning the $16,503,000 project.

Ideas for the project were born a year ago when supervisors of Avon, Pontiac, Waterford, Independence, and Orion townships met with DPW officials to see what could be done to handle sewer needs for this rapidly-expanding section of the county.

Harold K. Schone, department director, said the project will now be expanded to serve all of Oakland and Addison townships and parts of Brandon, Groveland, Springfield, White Lake and West Bloomfield townships.

All these 13 areas presently make up a 225-square-mile basin draining into the Clinton River.

What part the city of Pontiac might play in the project was still up in the air.

Pontiac, stifled twice by voters rejecting bond issues to build an auxiliary sewage treatment plant, "has not closed its mind" to participating in an area-wide sewer project of this kind, according to Walter K. Willman, city manager.

But Willman was cool to the idea when informed the DPW plans to make two designs of the sys-

Pre-Christmas Weekday Claims 14 Lives in State

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

Traffic accidents and injuries claimed 14 lives in Michigan Monday, doubling the State's weekend highway death toll of seven.

State Police Commissioner Joseph A. Childs issued a special plea for safe holiday driving today, but the approach of Christmas was already spelling tragedy for many Michigan motorists.

Although the holiday period hadn't yet started, the traffic toll was mounting rapidly. The grim figure was 11 dead in highway accidents last night and yesterday afternoon.

There was one triple fatality accident yesterday and three others in which two persons were killed.

★ ★ ★

Moreover, three persons died of injuries suffered in previous accidents and two Caro residents were asphyxiated when their car backed into a snowbank.

Childs told Michigan motorists that police "need your cooperation" to keep down the highway toll over the Christmas holiday.

"If you're going on a trip, leave early, take your time and drive slowly," Childs said. "If you plan to drink, we would appreciate it if you wouldn't drive."

He said State Troopers would work 10 hour patrols during the Christmas holiday, beginning at 6 p.m. tomorrow and lasting until Monday morning.

Donna A. Thompson, 18, of Midland, and Raymond Murphy, 40, and Gerald Lee Moldenhauer, 28, both of Bay City, were killed when their car collided with a truck on M115 about nine miles west of Clare in Clare County.

The three were mental patients on Christmas leave from the Traverse City State Hospital.

Jeff Straffon, 70, and Charles Corry, 67, both of Croswell, were killed in a two-car collision on M90 about seven miles east of Peck in Sanilac County. Straffon was the driver of one of the cars and Corry a passenger in the other.

Raymond Wilhelm, 44, of Alma, and his wife, Jeannette, 38, were killed Monday night when their car struck the rear end of a parked truck on U.S.27 about three miles south of Ithaca. Three other persons in the car were injured.

Talking Atlas Pulls Some New Tricks

LOS ANGELES (AP)— America's talking satellite is up to some new tricks.

As it flashed over Southern California Monday it punched out a teletype tape in a Signal Corps listening station near Los Angeles that was used by The Associated Press on its nationwide news wires.

The tape carried President Eisenhower's Christmas greeting to the world.

Here is the paragraph just as it was received by the Signal Corps and transmitted by the AP:

"Pt of the United States speaking. Through the marels of scidotific advance my voice is coming to you from a satellite circling in outer space. My message is a simple one. Through this unique means I convey to you and to all mankind America's wish for peace on earth and good will toward men everywhere."

Critical Period Ahead — Eastman

Police Program Outlined

By MAX E. SIMON

The next six months will be "critical" ones for the Pontiac Police Department, Public Safety Director George D. Eastman told police officers today.

Meeting with the entire force for the second time in the City Commission chambers, Eastman announced that the department is fast approaching a major overhaul and a training program. It will begin early in January, he said.

Eastman's last meeting with all police officers was on Nov. 12 — the day he relieved Police Chief Herbert W. Straley of command and personally took over.

During the reorganization period, Eastman said, many mistakes will be made by policemen.

"The responsibility is mine," he said.

The department will contain five basic units when the overhaul is completed in early spring, Eastman said.

★ ★ ★

These will be the patrol division, staff bureau (presently the planning, research and training unit), the detective bureau, administration bureau, and a crime prevention bureau (now the juvenile bureau).

The vice squad will be known as the special investigations unit under the new plan. It will remain directly under Eastman's control.

★ ★ ★

Patrol officers, under the new look, will handle all accident investigations, traffic enforcement problems and the preliminary investigation of criminal cases.

The increased burden placed on patrolmen should make their job more interesting and challenging, Eastman said.

His plan eliminates the need of a traffic bureau and relieves detectives from making preliminary criminal investigations.

"What I'm trying to do," the public safety director explained, "is to de-specialize the police department."

Eastman said he wants all officers as well acquainted as possible with all areas of police work.

"With competent men, adequate training, and good supervision and administration, it's possible," he added.

★ ★ ★

Activities of the staff bureau, he said, will include making up the budget and carrying out a public relations program.

One of the most difficult tasks in the department faces the administration bureau, according to Eastman. "They must pull together in one office the records now scattered on three floors of the Public Safety Building and in all the bureaus."

Eastman said that by March, Pontiac police will have the finest-equipped, small department in the nation.

Plans call for shotguns in prowl cars, an automatic recall device which will signal officers to return to vehicles in emergencies, and

'It's a Lie,' Says Mrs. Duncan

Grim Murder Plot Denied

VENTURA, Calif. (AP)—"It's a lie, of course," says Mrs. Elizabeth Duncan of the charge that she hired two men to kill her daughter-in-law. "Those men were trying to blackmail me."

AP Wirephoto

VICTIM AND MOTHER-IN-LAW — The body of Olga Duncan (left) was found buried in a shallow grave beside a lonely road near Ventura, Calif., and a laborer has told authorities that her mother-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Duncan (right), hired him to kill the young surgical nurse.

Authorities say Mrs. Duncan, 54, and five times wed, hired the murder of pretty Olga Kupczyk Duncan, 30, because she was fiercely jealous of the Canadian nurse who married her son, a Santa Barbara lawyer.

"I feel terrible about it," Mrs. Duncan told newsmen Monday when they asked how she felt when informed that Olga's body had been found in a shallow grave 20 miles from Ventura. "I liked her and I believe she liked me."

★ ★ ★

But Augstine Baldonado, 25, who led sheriff's deputies to the spot where Olga Duncan was buried — perhaps alive—said Mrs. Duncan offered him and Luis Maya, 22, $6,000 to kill the woman.

"She told us she had acid and pills to do the job with," said Baldonado. "She wanted us to use the acid on her face, and said this would destroy her dental work, so she could not be identified."

They did not carry out this part of the plan, however, he said.

Baldonado said Moya went to

Williams Stumped in Money Crisis

Eyes Vet Fund for Quick Cash

$50 Million Trust Seen as Only 'Out' in State's Financial Breakdown

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Williams says he's stumped as to the next move in Michigan's financial crisis —unless it is to wring the cash out of the 50-million-dollar Veterans Trust Fund.

★ ★ ★

Williams today rejected a suggestion for a special legislative session on the state's financial crisis.

The proposal came from Rep. George W. Sallade (R-Ann Arbor), who wired the governor that such a meeting should be called to "guarantee payrolls" and assure prompt payment of state bills.

The governor observed at a news conference that the regular 1959 session is due to convene Jan. 14.

★ ★ ★

"The few days that remain until then wouldn't make it possible for a meaningful session," he said.

He acknowledged there has been talk of liquidating the big cache of bonds reserved since 1946 for help of indigent veterans, "but I want to take a long look at that before any decision is made."

"Certainly the fund should not be taken without adequate assurance to veterans that they will continue to receive comparable benefits," he added. These amount to about $1,500,000 annually.

In a first broad survey of the state's slide toward a 100-million-dollar deficit since he returned from a Florida vacation, Williams yesterday mentioned no other possible remedies.

"At the moment, I am not sure what would be the best move," the Democratic governor said. "All available cash reserves were drained off a year ago.

★ ★ ★

"Even the state's liquor supplies have been sold off and we are operating the liquor control commission largely on credit."

Increasingly, speculation on the way out of the state's tightening cash squeeze has centered on the Veterans Trust Fund.

TOUCHY SUBJECT

But it is a touchy subject politically, and no forthright advocacy of this course yet has come from any elective public official. Veterans organization leaders have spoken out strongly against liquidation.

It has been estimated that conversion under present market conditions would produce about $44,500,000 in cash—for a loss in the transaction of more than 5 million dollars.

Williams reluctantly agreed in his statement that the state would have to withhold monthly installments of appropriated funds for the three major state universities, now holding the bag for $11,200,000, until a way is found of giving the state treasury a transfusion.

The step was recommended last week by James W. Miller, state controller. It was a foregone conclusion at the time that it had the governor's approval.

NEW COUNTY LAWYERS — These men yesterday gathered in Oakland County Circuit Judge Frank L. Doty's courtroom in the courthouse to be sworn in as new members of the Oakland County Bar Assn. The association, and some of its current members, proposed admitting the group, and Judges Doty, William J. Beer and H. Russel Holland accepted the new members. Included in the group were Emery E. Jacques Jr., Patrick D. O'Connor, Ashley Gorman, Max Isley, Lawrence H. Best, Earl M. Remer, Gerald R. Hershberger, John R. Sterling, David P. Huthwaite, Jerome E. Mulligan and Jeremy V. Taylor, the latter three from Pontiac.

tem—one to include Pontiac, and the other to omit it.

Willman said "a lot of water will have to go over the dam" before the city would participate in such a project, after having gone this far in planning its own expanded system.

He said city officials would have to know a great deal more about the proposal—such as the proposed location of the treatment plant — before a definite answer could be arrived at.

Such information will be some time in coming, Schone said when informed of the approval of the grant, applied for in February.

"It will be about eight months before we can even jell a proposed method of financing the system," he said.

★ ★ ★

With the grant being made, department planners now can move into the field and into the air to make aerial studies for the layout of the mammoth system.

Schone said "A lot depends on what Pontiac wants to do," as the city lies almost in the heart of the district to be served.

"Not only would it be of a great assistance to us, but I feel it also would be most economical and feasible, for the city to join in," he said.

American, Eastern Still Grounded

Airlines Peace Doubtful

By The Associated Press

A pre-Christmas settlement of paralyzing strikes against American and Eastern Airlines appeared beyond reach today — normally one of the busiest days of the year for the grounded lines.

★ ★ ★

Efforts of National mediation Board officials in Washington Monday brought no immediate plans for a resumption of contract negotiations between American and the striking Air Line Pilots Assn.

★ ★ ★

The board reportedly sent telegrams to both sides suggesting new bargaining procedures. Mediation Board Chairman Leverett Edwards said talks might begin again in a few days.

There was no development in the stalemate between Eastern and its mechanics and flight engineers.

★ ★ ★

An Eastern spokesman said today's booking for canceled flights had numbered about 31,000—highest in the line's history.

★ ★ ★

American estimated it would have carried about 30,000 passengers today and Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

American estimated its daily loss at a million dollars since the pilots walked out last Friday midnight. Eastern has been grounded since Nov. 24.

Nonstruck airlines, buses and railroads expaded facilities to fill the gap in the crush of holiday traffic.

★ ★ ★

Serious delays in airmail deliveries were not widespread.

A reassuring note came today from Capital Airlines in Washington.

In a statement it said was cleared with the rest of the industry, Capital advised:

★ ★ ★

"Although it is difficult to obtain seats on specific flights and at certain hours of the day, most airlines have space available between major U.S. cities. If the public can adjust departure plans slightly, all should be able to get reservations."

Magi's Search Rewarded: Find Christ in Peasant Hut

The reason was plain to them, although few shared their values then, or ever.

★ ★ ★

They saw, above all man's ambitions, attainments and empires, the overarching, infinite logic of God. They believed He spoke a constant word, in every evolving atom of the universe, to man

And now, in this time and place, they sensed His most eloquent affirmation.

TRUTH WAS FLESH

He had sent His Envoy. Truth had become flesh. The divine vocabulary was rendered in man's terms. God had bent down to man, and His voice rang out on earth.

The King had come!

That was why the wise ones were there. That is why they had sat their saddles for months, why they had traversed rugged miles, why they had questioned and persevered, why they stood now at the abode of Joseph, the carpenter.

★ ★ ★

As they waited, though only for a moment, they could hear as if far off the camels dropping to their knees, then settling in a series of lurches to their bellies with legs folded tightly beneath them.

What would the Child be like? An old Persian maxim said "His body resembles light, as His Spirit resembles truth." But the Magi had no preconceptions; they had come, not pronouncing, but inquiring.

The door covering was drawn aside, and the mild, steady gaze of Joseph met theirs. "What seek ye?"

"We seek One in whom God has visited in the person of a child."

★ ★ ★

Joseph surveyed the strangers fully, then bade them enter. "He is here."

The Magians filed through the doorway. Melchior hobbling in advance, followed by the grave, dark-skinned Balthasar, and then by Gaspar, young and beardless.

The floor was beaten clay, with a sheepskin mat in the center, and some low benches and utensils against the wall. In a corner, a shirt-clad infant played in a wooden crib.

MARY TOOK CHILD

The quiet, young mother, Mary, picked Him up, smiled faintly and sat down on a bench, displaying Him on her knee. He was a year and some months of age. He looked up with wide-eyed interest at the visitors.

Melchior's lips parted wordlessly. Tears welled in his eyes. Then he and the others knelt on the dirt floor in reverence and worship. They had found their King. They had entered the presence of God's Son.

There, in the ordinary beauty and innocence of a healthy toddler, Providence had provided its ultimate message to man. How often the greatest truth is clothed in simplest array.

To recognize it required humility, the knowledge that knows its lack of knowledge. And this was the character of the Magi.

While exalted scientists sought a world in space, they sought a world in time. They aspired, not to mere appearances, but to meanings. Through faith, they saw intuitively what others never see. Many see the stars. But who could see what the Magi saw? They saw the star of Bethlehem.

The Child had been given the name "Yeshua," or as the Greeks say, "Jesus," which means "the salvation of Jehovah."

Presently, with joyous animation, the Magi hurried outside the house and from their parcels, brought forth gifts and laid them before Him

Melchior presented gold, red gold, symbolizing a king's power. Gaspar brought myrrh, the resin of burial and death, offering it with tears. Balthasar gave incense, the rich gum of frankincense, signifying Divine immortality.

Mary sat with bowed head, murmuring over each gift. "Thanks be to God."

Tradition says the royal Magi had brought huge coffers of pearls, silk hangings and other luxuries as intended presents, but so as not to offend the dignity of the poor, gave only what they first touched as they reached in their chests.

★ ★ ★

After their departure, their misgivings about King Herod were intensified by ominous dreams. So they spurned his request to return to him and identify the Child.

Instead of taking the usual route home, northward through Jerusalem to Damascus, they went another way. Some accounts suggest they circled south toward Petra, crossing the copper-colored mountains of Moab.

Other reports say they slipped northward along the coast, departing by ship from the port of Tarsus in Cilicia, where Herod's troops in vengeful pursuit, later wrecked the whole harbor.

HEROD ACTS

Meanwhile, Herod also wielded his wordly power and cunning to overcome a child. He sent legionaries to slay all Bethlehem children under 2, "according to the time" of the star learned earlier from the wise men.

But the outcome of that clash shakes history. The seemingly helpless Child won. Joseph and Mary fled with Him to Egypt.

The Magi also escaped back toward the rising sun, back to the elevated plateau of Persia, to the vineyards of Shiraz, back to the land of hornless cattle and poetry.

Tradition says the Magi later built a chapel on Mt. Vaus, where they had first seen the star, and that they met there each year thereafter. They are said to have become bishops, ordained by the Apostle Thomas.

★ ★ ★

It is recounted that their bodies, after they died, were removed from Persia to Constantinople, then to Milan, and in 1163, to Cologne, where they rest now at the Cathedral of Cologne.

The Middle Ages claim that the Magi were kings, and they were, in a sense. They were sovereigns in the realm of wisdom, a royal heritage, beholden to its Divine Author.

They were far away when Jesus was born, when Christ came to renew life, but God gave the sign. And as is always the case, they could stay, or journey.

To average minds, their decision was folly. They acted with utter abandon. But despite the risks, the imponderables and the distance, those who sought, found.

Eases Winter Freeze

Warm Trend Crosses U.S.

By The Associated Press

Temperatures moderated in the cold-plagued Northeast today as mild winter weather dominated most of the nation.

★ ★ ★

It was a little chilly in some sections of the Northeast but not like Monday morning's below zero weather. The warming trend also was slower in the parts of the Southeast and it was a little cool.

★ ★ ★

However, no severe cold was reported throughout the nation.

Temperatures were 30 degrees higher in northern New England than 24 hours earlier. Elsewhere in the eastern half of the country they were 10 to 20 degrees above Monday morning's marks.

Freezing and below readings were reported in interior sections of the Carolinas westward into northern Alabama. Southerly breezes maintained 50-degree temperatures during the night as far north as Missouri.

A little cooler air moved into the northern Rockies and spread eastward into the western Dakotas dropping temperatures to the tens and 20's. Scattered patches of rain or snow were reported but there was no heavy precipitation.

Salvation Army Asks Aid on Yule Checks

The Salvation Army today asked Pontiac merchants to cooperate in exchanging Christmas checks brought in by needy persons for groceries.

Capt. J. William Heaver said the Salvation Army in behalf of the clearing house is issuing checks which can be exchanged for food only.

The checks are not intended to be exchanged for money, he stressed. The checks are negotiable at the Pontiac State Bank by local merchants as deposits or cash.

"Only those requests approved by the clearing house will be granted by the Salvation Army," he said, adding that aid would be sent through the mail or delivered to homes.

Bench Petition Filed by Ziem

Oakland Prosecutor Is Candidate for 6-Year Circuit Court Post

Bearing nominating petitions with 4,425 signatures, Frederick C. Ziem, Oakland County prosecutor, visited Lansing yesterday to file as a candidate for a position on the Circuit Court bench.

Ziem, 42, of 74 Mohawk Rd., filed his petitions with the Secretary of State's Office as candidates raced to meet the Monday deadline for filing.

The Republican prosecutor, who just last month won a fourth two-year term as top law enforcement officer of the county, announced he will be a candidate for one of the five six-year terms beginning Jan. 1, 1960.

Voters in Oakland County will cast their ballots for five Circuit Court judgeships in the April 6 election. A Feb. 16 primary will narrow down the field to two for each position.

Ziem has been with the prosecutor's office since 1947 when he was appointed an assistant. Three years later he became chief assistant prosecutor.

It was in 1952 that Ziem successfully won his first term as prosecutor for the county. He was re-elected on the GOP ticket to the same post in 1954, 1956 and last Nov. 4.

Prior to entering into work for the county, Ziem, who was admitted to the Michigan bar in 1941, practiced law in Pontiac and served a hitch in the Army.

Heavy Agenda Faces City Commission

Pontiac city commissioners go into their pre-Christmas meeting this evening faced with a heavy load of important matters.

For one, commissioners will be asked by City Manager Walter K. Willman to put their stamp of approval on a state trunkline redesignation plan arrived at in conjunction with the Barton Highway Transportation Study of a new downtown loop.

Action on this matter was carried over from last Tuesday as Willman shuffled the plan first to the City Planning Commission for its approval. This was given.

If commissioners approve the plan tonight, it will be placed on State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie's desk for a final okay.

Action might come also on a suggested program of how the city and hospital can help themselves out of some financial complications by cancellation of certain hospital construction contracts.

Other matters expected to be brought up is a further amendment to a revised jail bond ordinance, a new unemployment compensation ordinance, and a proposed plan to give city employes pay increases and wider fringe benefits next year.

Need More Study Time on Mental Health Plan

BIRMINGHAM — No action was taken by city commissioners last night on the request to support the Oakland County Chapter of the Michigan Society for Mental Health. The society is trying to have the now unused contagion hospital on Telegraph road made available for mental patients.

Commissioners said they wanted time to study the proposal and asked City Manager L. R. Gare to make a later report to them.

★ ★ ★

A complete study on the use of frame buildings in the business district was presented by Building Inspector Andrew F. Butt. The report was requested several weeks ago when a permit was denied to operate a retail business in this type building.

Butt said there are 56 frame buildings in the area, with nine operating on a nonconforming basis. His inspections, made jointly with the fire department found only one owner doing retail business in violation of the ordinance. He said that the owner has agreed to discontinue sales and operate as a beauty parlor instead.

A formal observance of Christmas will start at 5:30 p.m. tomorrow with the Community Carol Sing in Shain Park.

Christmas Eve service at the First Presbyterian Church will include carol singing at 10:30 p.m. with the general worship at 11 p.m.

★ ★ ★

The Congregational Church of Birmingham will hold a candlelight service at 9 p.m.

Services are scheduled for 8 and 11 p.m. at the First Methodist Church.

A special music program by the three choirs will be held at Embury Methodist Church at 7 p.m. Christmas Eve.

★ ★ ★

In the absence of a pastor, the board of deacons of the First Baptist Church will lead a Christmas Eve candlelight service at 8 p.m.

Catholic churches in the area have all scheduled midnight Masses, and on Christmas Day will hold Masses at regular Sunday hours.

Philip Welsh, 17, of St. Johns, was killed Monday night when he lost control of his car while driving in St. Johns and struck a tree.

Dirk R. Wilderboer, 65, of Grand Rapids, was struck and killed by a car Monday night as he crossed a street in front of his home.

Elmer W. Kintner, 54, of Applegate, died Monday night when his car hit the rear of a Sanilac County road grader on M51 a mile and a half south of Carsonville.

Frank Bialczak, 34, of Detroit, and John Roberts, 24, of Dearborn, both died Monday of injuries suffered in earlier accidents.

★ ★ ★

Bialczak was injured Nov. 26 when his car struck a guard rail on the Edsel Ford Expressway in Detroit. Roberts was injured Friday in a two-truck collision on the Detroit-Toledo Expressway, seven miles south of Monroe.

Adding to yesterday's grief, Phillip Welsh, a St. Johns high school student, died early this morning, about three hours after his car smashed into three trees on M21 at the West city limits.

★ ★ ★

Police said Welsh had just taken a girl home from a Christmas party at an area school and that he lost control, hitting the trees. Parts of the car flew 200 feet from the crash scene.

Murder Plot Denied by Mother-in-Law

Olga's Santa Barbara apartment late at night on Nov. 17 and told the nurse a friend of his was sick in a car outside. The nurse, clad in a bathrobe, went to the car.

"I was lying on the floor in the back," said Baldonado, "When she opened the door, I grabbed her, and Moya hit her with the gun."

The nurse put up a fierce struggle as they drove toward a lonely mountain pass near the coast, Baldonado said, and he and Moya beat her with their fists and the gun, and choked her repeatedly. They scooped out a grave with their bare hands and put her in it.

Coroner Virgil L. Payton said she died of asphyxia "Either through strangulation or by being buried alive." The pretty nurse was five months pregnant.

Mrs. Duncan branded Baldonado's story a complete lie.

"She threatened to hurt me and Frank," said Mrs. Duncan. "Those two men were just collecting for her. That's why I paid them the money."

★ ★ ★

Authorities said the men were paid a few hundred dollars by Mrs. Duncan after the nurse was killed.

Mrs. Duncan, Baldonado and Moya are booked in Ventura County jail on suspicion of murder. Moya has also denied Baldonado's story.

Dist. Atty. Roy Gustafson termed the nurse's death a "brutal, calculated, revolting killing for hire." He said he would ask the death penalty for Mrs. Duncan and the two men.

Mrs. Duncan was arrested 10 days ago for masquerading as her daughter-in-law, last August and obtaining an annulment of her son's marriage on the grounds it had never been consummated. Ventura authorities said she paid a man $60 to pose as her son in the staged courtroom proceeding.

Duncan said he was unaware of the annulment until his mother was arrested. He has not been to see his mother since the slaying was uncovered and has not been available for comment.

Mayor Issues Proclamation

Teen Traffic Safety Day Set

Pontiac Mayor Philip E. Rowston, in a proclamation signed yesterday afternoon, designed Tuesday, Jan. 13, as Teen-age Traffic Safety Day.

★ ★ ★

On that day at Pontiac Northern High School, the first teen-age traffic safety conference in the Pontiac area will be held.

In his proclamation, Rowston pledged the "fullest cooperation" of the city and its citizens, and added: "It is desirable that the young people in our area play a positive role in our efforts to make our community a safe place in which to live and drive."

The mayor called upon all schools in the city to cooperate by emphasizing the importance of safe driving practices to their teenage students during that day.

★ ★ ★

Sponsored by the Safety Committee of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, the conference will revolve around the theme: "Should Teenager's Be Treated as Adults?"

The conference, which will last from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., will be attended by more than 200 students.

Chairman of the event will be Michael Flynn, a senior at St. Michael High School.

Assisting the teenagers in preparing the conference are George S. Stewart, who heads the Pontiac school system's driver training program, and Robert T. Flynn of the Safety Committee.

Police Program Outlined for Officers by Eastman a transcribing device at police headquarters through which officers can phone in reports from their beats.

★ ★ ★

The training program, set to begin Jan. 5, will include two weeks of courses for patrolmen, three weeks for sergeants.

Lieutenants and captains will "audit" all courses, he said.

Command officers will receive other instruction in regularly-held staff conferences.

Eastman warned the officers against taking "the wrong tangent" on working conditions and salaries.

"Do a superior job, and the rest will follow," he declared.

Eastman denied he was playing favorites in selecting men for key positions. "I've heard this talk floating around and can assure you it's not true," he asserted.

★ ★ ★

Replying to questions, Eastman said detectives deserve a salary differential, but should hold their positions on the basis of merit.

"Once appointed, detectives should demonstrate their worth and show their ability to hold their jobs," Eastman said.

No decision will be made on tenure for detectives for some time, Eastman said.

Eastman also told a questioner he favored one-man patrol cars.

"I don't believe in them only for economy reasons, but because the public will receive better service and, under the right conditions, officers are safer than in two-man cars."

★ ★ ★

The "right conditions" were described as thorough training, supervision, and careful control of the central dispatch point at police headquarters.

"The public's respect for us will grow as they see more men and cars on the streets," Eastman predicted.

Consumers Hearing May Wind Up Today

LANSING (UPI) — Hearings on Consumers Power Co.'s request for a $15,300,000 hike in electric rates might end today, nearly a year after the utility first sought the increase.

★ ★ ★

Commissioner Thomas Burns said after yesterday's hearing it appeared only one more day of testimony would be needed.

It might be some time before a commission decision is announced. Commission Chairman Otis Smith missed the hearings yesterday because of illness.

The requested increase would average about four or five cents a day per average householder in the 1,500 Lower Peninsula counties where Consumers serves 835,000 customers.

The utility first filed its request in January, amended it in March and appeared before the PSC for 23 days of hearings intermittently in March, May, October, November and December.

Chevy Sets 2 Records for Output

DETROIT (AP) — Chevrolet today reported two new production records.

The General Motors division said one record was last week's 45,866 passenger car assemblies and the other the week's total car and truck output of 56,007.

★ ★ ★

Both improved on records which had been set the previous week. During that week car assemblies were 45,305 and car and truck assemblies 54,268.

★ ★ ★

The records were set with all assembly plants running on a six-day basis.

Edward N. Cole, Chevrolet general manager, said that increasing demand required the high output.

Alabama Closes Phenix City Case

Confession of Convict in Patterson Slaying Ruled a Hoax

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — The Albert Patterson murder case was closed again Monday when Alabama abandoned as a hoax the confession of a Virginia convict.

Atty. Gen. John Patterson issued the following statement about the new angle to his father's slaying in Phenix City in 1954:

★ ★ ★

"I have had investigated the statement of Calvin W. Pruitt in which he claims to have killed my father. It has been established that his story is untrue and a hoax.

"I say once more that we have one of my father's murders, Albert Fuller, serving a life sentence in Kilby Prison."

★ ★ ★

The attorney general's statement came a week after he sent two assistants to Virginia to investigate the signed confession of Pruitt, 28, who is serving sentences totaling 170 years for murder, robbery and burglary.

Pruitt, whose wife and two children live in Haleyville, Ala., claimed he killed Albert Patterson in a robbery attempt while a debt-ridden soldier stationed at Ft. Benning, Ga.

Bob Considine Says:

Bill Corum Always a Step Ahead of Life

NEW YORK—Bill Corum was generally ahead of life and not too far behind the short-nosed horses on which he lavished loving care and a sizable fortune through the years. He has shot past the grandstand a lot of times, always with his colors flying.

★ ★ ★

Corum marched out of the University of Missouri in 1916, climbed into uniform, and saw a little action along the Mexican border. He got to France a few yards behind Pershing, was gassed and shrapneled, won three Silver Stars and came out as the youngest major in the A.E.F.

He returned to St. Louis—for whose Cardinals he remained an unquenchable rooter—just in time to be arrested by the MPs for impersonating a major, a pardonable mistake in those pre-Air Force days. He had planned to stay in St. Louis, but a strain of the East had got in his blood, perhaps from association with the men of the Yankee Division with which he had served with such valor.

He found his way to New York, entered the Columbia School of Journalism, and hooked onto a desk job in the sports department of The New York Times. The wheels of a remarkable sports-writing life were beginning to grind. And he began to get more mileage, more fun, more laughs and more life out of $40 a week than most men had hitherto wrung.

Before his name ever appeared in print—the Times then being opposed to dignifying sports writers to the extent of giving them by-lines—he was one with the mob: Runyon, Rice, McGeehan, Pegler, Mercer, Slocum, Lardner and the other top sports writers of the time. In the speakeasies of the era he began picking up what later amounted to at least 10 tons of checks.

It was the all-night period of his life, a habit he had trouble breaking. His day began with an afternoon tea dance, followed by his work at the Times, then the clubs until the first pink glow of dawn enameled the garbage cans of the roaring Forties and fabulous Fifties. Then, after a few more stops, the ride to the apartment he shared with his mother near Columbia University. That devoted lady, for many years his constant, spry and gracious "Date," used to worry about his health.

"Why live way uptown here if you're going to stay out all night?" she asked him one morning when he arrived at the crack of 8:30.

Bill quickly reassured her. "You meet a better class of people," he said, referring to the students he had just passed on the way to their morning classes.

Corum got his first money break out of the 1924 World Series, a dramatic one involving the Washington Senators and the Giants. His story about Walter Johnson's performance as the winning relief pitcher in the seventh and final game of the series—after Johnson had been knocked out of the box twice in a classic that had evaded him for many years—struck the eagle eye of Arthur Brisbane, of the Hearst Newspapers.

Brisbane barked for Journal sports editor, Bill Farnsworth, waved the unsigned clipping in his face, and said, "Get this baseball writer off the Times."

Farnsworth turned the matter over to Ford Frick, now commissioner of baseball, then writing baseball for the Journal. Frick read the piece and called his old Times friend, Jim Harrison, then considered the best baseball writer in the city. Harrison usually wrote the lead story for the Times—also unsigned.

"Good news, Jim," Frick told him. "Brisbane wants to hire you. He's crazy about that piece you did on Johnson."

Harrison needed the extra money very badly, and he could have filled the job with ease. But he answered, "I didn't write it, Ford. It was written by that young fellow we've got. Bill Corum."

★ ★ ★

"Get Corum," Brisbane ordered. Then he added, "No, wait'll next spring. There's no baseball news now."

What with one thing and another, including the fact that Corum did not have a telephone, he didn't hear about his good fortune until months later when Warren Brown, long since moved on to Chicago, ran into him and told him.

Corum tried to explain to Brisbane that he liked working on the Times, and that he couldn't consider working for the Journal for less than (he gulped slightly, he remembered) $150 a week. That meant a $110 increase.

Brisbane reached into a pile of junk on his littered desk and extracted a contract.

"Sign it," he said. Bill signed.

★ ★ ★

For a good many years Bill never missed a day's work. In fact, he was a day ahead. Years ago, when he attended his first Indianapolis Speedway Race on Memorial Day, he composed a long and fervent piece and rushed it to the Journal, only to receive a bleak note in return.

"Mr. Hearst founded the Journal in 1896," it read, "and the paper has never printed on a holiday since then. I doubt that he plans to break that rule now."

Judge Lieb Refuses to Order Integration

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—U.S. Dist. Judge Joseph Lieb refused Monday to order integration of Dade County schools and told Negroes to seek relief under the state's pupil assignment law.

Lieb did not rule on legality of the pupil assignment law which he noted has never been challenged in the courts and is valid until declared unconstitutional.

Lieb held that a state law and a section of the state constitution which require separate but equal schools for the races is unconstitutional which require separate but equal schools for the races is unconstitutional. He said these requirements violate the provisions of the U.S. Constitution.

Grain Storage Tank Takes Two Lives

SALINA, Kan. (AP)—Two men were sucked to thir deaths Monday in a whirlpool of wheat at the bottom of a grain storage tank.

They were Vernon Gile of Falun, Kan., and Cornelius Cooper of Salina. A third man, Bob Mundell of Salina, was carried through a 10-foot discharge chute and escaped.

Gile and Mundell were trapped and Cooper died trying to help them. The men were shoveling grain toward the discharge chute when they were trapped by a sudden shift of the wheat.

Dies After 42 Years in Same Bed

HAMLIN, W. Va. (AP) — George Lacy, a man of the mountains who went to bed in 1916 and never got up, will be buried today.

Why did he spend the last 42 of his 71 years in bed? Nobody knows for sure. A neighbor said George got mad over sale of a pet. A sister blamed the measles.

★ ★ ★

Farmer Cal Escue, who lives in the remote Ezekiel Branch section of Lincoln County near the Lacys, said George threatened to go to bed if his father sold a pet calf. His father sold it. So george went to bed.

George's sister, Gertie, didn't see it that way. She said George was "a big, stout fellow" before the whole family came down with the measles one year.

★ ★ ★

"He followed those ridges and made a regular path up and down them hunting. He loved to hunt possum, squirrel and coon. He was strong as a young bull and never sick or poorly.

"They put us to bed but we all got up later — that is, all except George. He couldn't get up. He lost his talk, too. A lot of people thought he was just acting contrary like, but I knew better. He stayed in bed even when spring plowing time came.

★ ★ ★

"Pap, he knew something was wrong with George then because he was not a lazy boy. Well, sir, I have never known what was wrong with George, except that the measles did it."

A week ago, George became ill, possibly with pneumonia. Sunday night he died, in the bed he lay in 42 years.

MAURICE DEBRIE OF PARIS—President of Interflora, (left) and his predecessor, Jack Dobson of Glasgow, huddle over an example of their specialty.

See Russian Florists Joining

'Interflora' Plans Invasion Into Moscow Next Spring

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

WASHINGTON (NEA)—An invasion of Russia was plotted in a smoke-filled room here the other day.

According to the plan a beachhead should be established in Moscow by next spring. And thereafter the whole area behind the Iron Curtain is expected to crumble in what should be the prettiest, sweetest-smelling capitulation on record.

The invasion is an attempt by an international combine of florists who do business via telegraph to penetrate the Soviet bloc with their cooperative service.

Interflora is the name of this group of 22,000 florists from 126 countries. This past year they did two million dollars worth of business exchanging cabled orders for flowers.

★ ★ ★

Jack Dobson, the outgoing president who is a florist from Glasgow, Scotland, explains his floral offensive behind the Iron Curtain:

"We have evidence that Moscow florists, whether they're state-owner of what, want to join us. We've got members in East Germany and we had one member in Hungary before the revolution. These sources have indicated that Russia is ready for our service so we're sending a mission there to arrange the whole thing."

HIT THE BEACHES

Maurice Debrie, the best known florist in Paris and Dobson's successor as president, reveals that there is no grass growing under Interflora. He reports that when French and British troops invaded the Suez two years ago, Interflora agents were on the beaches to take orders from the troops. Business was so good there that Interflora duplicated its feat when American troops went into Lebanon this summer.

★ ★ ★

"As a matter of fact," Debrie explains, "the combination of American troops being so many places around the world plus so many American holidays is one of the biggest sources of business for us. If there was some way to create more American holidays we would not have to worry about going to Russia."

The wedding of Grace Kelly inspired the biggest single exchange of flowers on Interflora's records, Debrie says. But the most consistent inspiration for the international sending of flowers is French movie star Martine Carol, he adds with a touch of Gallic pride.

Funerals used to be the biggest source of flowers cablings. "But the consummation of business deals, weddings and other happy events now outrank funerals," Dobson explains.

The steady increase in the international flower business is a good sign that the world is not going to the dogs, both Debrie and Dobson agree.

WORLD CLEARING HOUSE

All payments to Interflora members are made through clearing houses in Zurich, Switzerland, Detroit and London. A fictitious unit of exchange called the "fleurin" is used to keep accounts between countries straight. The charge for the cable, plus a 50-cent service charge, is the only extra cost of sending flowers to a foreign country.

This arrangement makes flowers the only commodity in the world which moves in international trade free of barriers and other red tape. Roses, incidentally, are the most popular flowers.

Dobson's enthusiasm for the flower business in unbounded. But his wife was a little disillusioned about it recently. She was helping in the handwriting of the greeting cards from a group of cabled orders. This is a service always provided. She came across one from an American GI in the U.S. to a girl in Glasgow with an exceptionally tender message.

Her warm feeling for the note was quickly chilled, however, when she found five more identical flower orders and messages from the same GI going to five other Glasgow girls.

Congress to Get Bond Issue Plan

Federal Backing for City, County Projects Would Cut Interest

A plan to place the full faith and credit of the federal government behind municipal and county bond issues will be introduced in Congress in January, Congressman William S. Broomfield (R-Oakland County announced today.

Broomfield said the proposed new law would "materially reduce the cost of new projects to the taxpayer."

By placing the faith and credit of the U.S. government behind the financing for these projects, interest rates could be cut considerably, Broomfield sad.

In multi-million dollar projects on 30 to 50 year bond issues, interest costs often almost equal the value of the bond issue, he said.

The idea of federal backing for bond issues was first broached at a meeting in Washington between Broomfield and Oakland County drain and Department of Public Works officials.

Oakland County is faced with the construction of more than $50 million in new drainage projects alone during the next two years.

Federal backing "will not mean substantial increases in our own national debt of about $280 billion," said Broomfield. "But bond buyers would face less risk with their money, and therefore should be able to cut interest rates considerably under such a plan."

Triplets for Teen Couple

REDLANDS, Calif. (AP)—When the stork blesses two teen-agers with three bouncing sons, all in one swoop, how's it go?

"Fine," says David, the 19-year-old husband.

And the triplet boys? Well, three can't bawl any louder than one, say their dad and mom. Not much, anyway.

There's no sleeping, David admits, through a three-alarm clamor at 2 a.m. So he gets up, when he can't avoid it, to supply the third hand which Linda sometimes can use.

In the three months since Johnnie, Davie and Stevie arrived, things have gone well. No major illnesses, no family crises.

But the young parents have made some changes.

David left college and is working for a dairy. Linda is studying at home, between 'houshold chores, so she can graduate from Redlands High next June.

★ ★ ★

The mother has her hands full. But they're good babies. "They sleep most of the time," she says

It's no breeze to take on a full-blown family on $300 a month. The couple got a big boost, though from a television program on which Linda appeared. She won a year's supply of baby food; clothing for the boys and a number of other useful items, including a year's diaper service.

Linda feels her role isn't much different from that of most young mothers.

★ ★ ★

"Three or one," she shrugs, "it's all the same."

The boys look just alike to all but the parents.

"I can easily tell the difference, but nobody else could," says the dad.

Linda and David give folks a lift by habitually referring to "the biggest one," "the middle one," or "the smallest one."

Will this be their family?

"It doesn't matter," Linda says. "But I'd really like a girl."

Waterford Sets Date for Police Car Bids

Bids for two new Waterford Township police cars will be opened Jan. 5, the Township Board decided last night.

Specifications for prospective bidders may be obtained at the clerk's office at the Township Hall.

The Board also approved the purchase of 12 new snow tires at $15 each from the Market Tire Co. Several bids on new and recapped tires had been submitted for the Board's study.

There were no objectors in a preliminary hearing held at 8:30 for the blacktopping of Camley street near Elizabeth Lake road. Township Supervisor Elmer Johnson was authorized to set up a special assessment district in the area.

He said almost all of the 21 property owners on the street have approved the project. The next hearing has been set for Jan. 12.

★ ★ ★

The formation of a Recreation Facilities Commission was discussed and the board decided to have a future meeting with the school and recreation boards for study on the matter.

Robert Drake representing Morgan's Drive-Away Co., requested permission to park house trailers on the Drayton Ball Park Field, and Johnson was authorized to establish a rental fee for use of the land.

The township attorney was instructed to draw up a short term lease to specify that the company provide a bond guaranteeing no damage to the property.

No action was taken on a request from owners of Club Tahoe for a transfer of their liquor license to prospective buyers. Board members plan to check into possible parking problems before making final decision on the transfer.

The township offices will close at noon tomorrow until 9 a.m. Friday and also Dec. 31 until 9 a.m. Jan. 2, it was announced.

Passenger Air Service Draws Steadily Nearer

Plans now are being drawn up for a control tower and passenger terminal at Pontiac's Municipal Airport. This is one of the final steps required to put the airport into shape for the start of regular, scheduled passenger service on one or more commercial airlines.

★ ★ ★

Pontiac has made its overtures to the airlines, and a favorable reply is indicated by the time the terminal building is ready. Government approval also is expected then.

★ ★ ★

Regular passenger service is badly needed because of the distance from Pontiac of both Willow Run and Detroit's Metropolitan Airport, at Middlebelt and the Detroit Expressway. The latter port is much nearer Pontiac than is Willow Run, just as it is fourteen miles nearer downtown Detroit, but it still is a long way out.

Pontiac officials expect to win regular service providing planes to and from both Chicago and Detroit. If that program is realized, Pontiac and Oakland County residents will enjoy greater convenience than do Detroit residents who still must travel many miles by car before they can board a plane.

★ ★ ★

Pontiac residents will then have to travel less than half the distance faced by Detroiters, and less than one quarter the distance required heretofore when a Pontiac resident drove to Willow Run.

★ ★ ★

Once regular service has begun, its expansion will depend on patronage. But if reasonable connections are provided initially, airport officials are confident that increasing patronage is bound to follow.

Village Smithy Hasn't Vanished, Just Changed

Word reaches us that the day of the village blacksmith is not necessarily something of the bygone days. Suppose you have a son, just out of college, pondering what career to pursue.

★ ★ ★

If someone suggested that he become a blacksmith, you'd probably think he was teched in the haid.

This is not so; the gentle art is still quite alive.

True, the village smithy does not stand under the spreading chestnut, but he still exists, particularly in the big city. According to a recent survey by the Wall Street Journal, a blacksmith of today can make as much as $20,000 a year.

★ ★ ★

Sounds like a pretty good trade in any man's language.

Where does today's blacksmith get his horses to shoe? For one place, from the race tracks throughout the country. There are some 3,500,000 horses and mules in this country, and they all need shoes. Livery stables have another 250,000 riding horses.

Some years ago it was necessary to serve an apprenticeship to some master horseshoer. This is not true today. You learn the trade in college — Michigan State University, Cornell and Cal Tech all have horseshoeing courses.

★ ★ ★

Members of the trade are a little fussy about who joins the very tight International Union of Journeymen Horseshoers. Total membership is about 250, with only 20 openings or so a year.

Obviously competition is keen, but for the young man looking for a career as a blacksmith, head for college and join the race track circuit.

He Didn't Make Up Mind on Spur of Moment

No one can accuse former Vice President JOHN NANCE GARNER of jumping at conclusions when it comes to deciding what personal habits contribute most to long life.

"CACTUS JACK," who is Uvalde, Texas' most widely known citizen, celebrated his ninetieth birthday recently. Many Democratic leaders attended the ceremonies.

They found GARNER still retains much of the "pepper" which made him such a colorful character throughout his forty-six years in public life. Naturally the group got to talking about habits which contribute to long life.

★ ★ ★

Garner told his friends that after seventy years of drinking and smoking he had only recently given up cigars and whisky, after deciding they were bad for him. Without getting into the question of whether he was correct in his conclusions, even the most critical observer would have to concede that he had completed a great deal of research before making up his mind.

★ ★ ★

As he devoted most of his ninety years to political life, perhaps Mr. GARNER plans to devote the remainder of his life to science. At least he demonstrates that he understands the scientific approach.

What Recession?

David Lawrence Says:

Timing Perfect on Ike's Budget

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower has flung a challenge to the "spenders." He has announced that a balanced budget for the coming fiscal year at around 77 billions is feasible and will be recommended to the next session of Congress. This is lower than last year's budget by about $2,200,000,000.

LAWRENCE

The President is counting, of course, on a substantial increase in receipts from the present tax rates—due to the improvement in business conditions generally. It is likely that even if the formal budget is not exactly in balance there will be a cash surplus anyhow.

★ ★ ★

This is welcome news to the country. Politically it is a wise move. For it places the full responsibility on the Democratic Party—which controls Congress—to keep the expenditures in line with the recommendation of the President. If there is considerable deviation, the American people will be able to tell which party should properly be called the party of the "spenders" and which one is the party of the "savers."

Eisenhower's statement significantly declares that the balanced budget is designed "to prevent inflation, to encourage economic expansion, and to fulfill American responsibilities of world leadership."

Lately there has been worry abroad about the decline in the value of the dollar. A balanced budget, as the President says, is an assurance that "our government is determined to live within its means."

Broadly speaking the news of the President's action does not come a moment too soon. The congressional elections had been widely interpreted as meaning that the "spenders" were to be in the saddle and that persons with fixed incomes could expect a further decline in the purchasing power of the dollar due to bigger and bigger federal deficits.

With all the talk about "liberalism" and "conservatism," there is no issue that counts for more among the millions of persons of fixed income than a sound dollar. The drive for "welfare" spending has lately been renewed. Anybody who believes in a balanced budget and favors paying off the public debt instead of indulging in more and more extravagances has been denounced by the spenders as a "reactionary" or as being "to the right of McKinley." It is, of course, old fashioned to pay one's debts and not to spend more money than one takes in. The "modern" idea in politics is that government spending can be without limit and that the more that is spent the higher will be the national income.

Unfortunately, the history of bankrupt countries from ancient days is the same — there are always politicians who defy economic laws. The one thing they miscalculate is the confidence of the people in their own monetary unit. This suddenly vanishes into thin air when people become convinced that there is never going to be any balanced budget or payment of the public debt. Inflation is bearable up to the point where people suddenly grow panicky and lose confidence in the dollar, as prices soar. Then runaway inflation ensues, and the story of what happened in Germany in 1923 is recent enough to warn the present generation that people do not believe indefinitely in the infallibility of a government that keeps on running deficits.

What the President has done is to bolster confidence in the dollar inside the United States and throughout the world. It is an achievement of transcendent importance. It comes at a psychological moment — when an overwhelming majority of the Democratic Party is about to take control of the legislative branch of the government.

Fortunately for the United States there is in the South a conservative faction of the Democratic Party which can be counted upon to support conservative fiscal policies. Notable among its leaders is Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia, who may be expected to lead the fight against the spenders in his own party.

It was certainly good strategy for the President to make his announcement about a balanced budget now instead of waiting till next month when his budget message will be formally presented to Congress. The moment it became apparent to him that the budget could be balanced, it was important to give the news to the world.

To hold expenses down and balance the budget in itself is good news but to do it with "higher expenditures than ever before in time of peace for national defense" is to assure the country that the biggest need of all—national defense—will be fulfilled.

The Country Parson

"The only part of the church service that seems to get the attention of every member is the benediction."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Iodine Can Be Utilized as Medication, Nutrient

"Enclosed please find 25 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope for your pamphlet The Iodin Ration. I am hoping to discover why this ration, which our family physician recommended for our young son who had been troubled with otitis media for two years, made such a dramatic recovery . . . Since that time we have supplemented his diet each time he contracted an upper respiratory infection . . . I asked our doctor why this was so. He merely said that in his experience it often seemed to solve these recalcitrant problems when other treatment failed. Thanking you for your kind attention . . . (Mrs. ——, R. N.)"

★ ★ ★

All I know is what I read in medical books, medical journals and letters from followers of this column.

The old timers regarded iodine or iodide as an "alterative" — a medicine that produces a favorable change in the processes of nutrition and repair.

But they did not understand the difference between nutritional iodine and medicinal iodine, and few physicians do today.

★ ★ ★

In my pamphlet, The Iodin Ration, I give no information or advice about the use of medicinal iodine or iodide. That is a medical question in any circumstance. The pamphlet deals solely with nutritional iodine. I'm afraid many physicians have not yet learned that every man, woman or child must get an adequate daily ration of iodine to maintain good nutrition and good health.

In my files I find no data on the iodin content of the soil, drinking water and locally grown foods in Alabama. If I were not such a dispicable character the Alabama State Health or Food or Agriculture authorities might send me reports of analyses showing the iodin content of Alabama water, soil and food.

One old-time therapeutics authority, Hare, said in his textbook Practical Therapeutics:

"Some persons suffer with itching of the nose, of the inner canthus of one or both eyes, sneezing, running at the nose, of a watery fluid, weeping of the eyes, and severe frontal headache . . . These persons are greatly troubled, often for many years, with daily attacks of this character, lasting, it may be, several hours. Iodine inhaled often relieves this affection at once, lessening the headache and discharge from the nostrils . . ."

★ ★ ★

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

What Gift Is Better Than Sight?

It's very nice to present your elderly parents with a new refrigerator, but why not restore their vision to almost normal? And why not offer them normal hearing? God wants us to enjoy the more abundant life, so don't let your old folks waste their final 10 years in semi-darkness or a void of silence.

★ ★ ★

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE A-408: Tom K., aged 74, had been an active carpenter till 6 years ago.

"Then his vision got so bad from cataracts that he couldn't see to drive a nail," his daughter informed me.

"I felt so sorry for him, too, then I'd watch him trying to saw a board by feeling his way along.

"Then I read DR. CRANE one of your columns about the miracle that can happen when an eye surgeon removes a cataract.

"Dad didn't want to spend any money on himself and he doubted he could ever see again.

"But he was so frustrated that he finally agreed to go with me to an eye doctor.

"This surgeon told us he thought my father could regain pretty fair vision. He suggested we remove the cloudy lens in my father's left eye.

"Well, Dad said he was ready so we might as well get started, for he was now in the mood and he might change his mind if we waited.

"So the doctor sent him right to the hospital. And next day he removed the frosty lens. In an hour Dad was back in his room.

★ ★ ★

"They kept the bandages on for several days, and then let Dad look out of the former blind eye. He could now see objects but couldn't focus very well with the lens absent.

"The doctor said he'd soon fit him with eye glasses which would permit him to focus.

"And when this was done, Dad could recognize me. He started to cry for he hadn't been able to see that clearly for years.

★ ★ ★

"Now he is back in his shop and can see to hit a nail just as well as I can.

"We play dominoes at night and he can count the spots perfectly. In fact, he can even read the newspaper and write letters to his other children.

"In the past, I'd always handle his correspondenc and read all the mail that came to him.

"This made him feel he was a nuisance, although I was glad to be of help.

★ ★ ★

"But now he has regained his feeling of independence. I notice he has a much better morale. And he eats more heartily.

"He can come and go as he likes and doesn't need to grope around in semi-darkness.

"Dr. Crane, if you hadn't 'sold' me on this operation, I'm sure Dad would have died unhappy because of his sense of humiliation at his enforced idleness.

"So please urge people to take advantage of this modern eye miracle."

GIFT IDEAS

"God helps those who help themselves," runs an old adage.

But blind folks can't read this column, so you children with elderly parents, should help them regain as much vision as possible.

★ ★ ★

Don't let them grope around with 10 per cent sight if new eye glasses or a cataract operation will restore even 25 per cent to 50 per cent more vision.

And if they are now partially deaf, a hearing aid may permit them to relish conversation and music and the sound of birds.

So present your elderly relatives new vision and restored hearing!

And check on their dentures, too, for old people could enjoy their meals far more if we'd see that they had new false teeth, perfectly fitted to their receded gums.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan enclosing a long 4c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his phychological charts and pamphlets.

Voice of the People

Emphasizes Liberal Arts' Importance in Education

I was interested in The Press issue headlining the educational challenge of MSUO in arranging its Liberal Arts curriculum and remarks by educational leaders from various parts of the country.

★ ★ ★

Alumni news from Syracuse University features a discussion of liberal arts in the space age. Henry Ford II says, "I believe we can be rightfully proud of our scientific and material achievements. At the same time it seems to me only prudent to seek in liberal arts, which have been called our channels to the wellsprings of wisdom, the intellectual strength and moral discipline we need to master what we have learned."

★ ★ ★

I'm glad my alma mater nourishes liberal arts and emphasizes a liberal education for the good life and for development of the art of the individual as a free citizen. Those planning curriculum at MSUO wuold do well to recognize in this space age the art of living is no less important than the art of accumulating wealth.

Wants Diversified Choice of Autos

A current auto magazine has an article warning Detroit not to ignore the Diesel passenger car. Why doesn't Detroit build a Diesel like some of the foreign countries do? We know most of the answers concerning them, such as mass production, tooling costs, risk, etc. However, I doubt they will.

★ ★ ★

The Big Three are so firmly entrenched they just divide up the market. We have a choice of the Big Three or independents, but what difference is there fundamentally other than the nameplates? We don't have diversified types of vehicles from which to choose as do foreign countries.

California Gets No Raves Here

You can have Southern California. I moved from there three years ago and now the smog is worse than ever and it about choked everyone to death when I was feeling my way through it. Also, forest fires they have are the worst there are. I understand in Michigan you have burned down large forests, but out there they burn down homes. I prefer this ten above zero weather to that choking, killing smog.

'Let's Have Cleanup From Top Down'

We really need a vice cleanup. Corruption has spread like cancer, even into our schools. The cleanup should begin at the top and should include juvenile authorities and anyone concerned in any way with our youth. How many other cases like this have been kept quiet?

Publishing names of the boys makes it more difficult for others to speak up. What a Christmas present to have your name printed in connection with a mess like this. But the people should know and be on guard against adults.

Spirit of Gratitude Prompts Letters

Americans who gripe about taxes don't know how well off they are. People in other countries get lower wages, yet nearly all pay a higher percentage in taxes. So-called "necessities of life," as well as the "niceties," often cost less here, and the U.S.A. has the highest standard of living in the world.

Let's quit griping about the proportionately small amount we pay for good government, good law enforcement, good educational facilities, good public works and services and protection of our many freedoms. It's time we began to thank God for our blessings, even our taxes.

Happy American Taxpayer

This is the time of year to be grateful for what we have, to put smiles on everyone's face with a nice warm greeting. It isn't what you buy that counts, it's the greeting. Let's make children happy, for in them we find happiness ourselves. If mistakes were made this year, let's try to correct them for the coming year. Let's give our hearts a little more. That's the best gift anyone can give to anybody. And let's try to carry it all through the year. Merry Christmas.

A salute of commendation to The Press for refusal to enter a cheap headline feud. I refer to the campaign being waged by a couple of Detroit papers to defame Pontiac in headlines whenever there is the slightest hint of crime. Works Despite Cloud on Legal Status

County DPW Pushes Sewer Projects

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

Oakland County Department of Public Works officials are continuing to proceed toward construction of the Evergreen and Farmington sanitary sewer projects despite the uncertainty of the legal status of the department.

"We can't stand still," declared Harold K. Schone, department director, yesterday, following unanimous approval by the Board of Supervisors of an agreement with the city of Detroit for flowage rights and treatment and disposal of sewage from the yet unconstructed sewers.

Detroit, which would provide the outlet for the two big sewers, is expected to present a similar agreement to its Common Council Dec. 29.

Supervisors yesterday also approved two amendments to contracts between county and the municipalities which will be served by the $6,175,000 Evergreen project and the $4,900,000 Farmington system.

Schone said these two amendments — approved unanimously by supervisors, without discussion — were "technical adjustments to comply with the bonding resolutions" for both projects.

FUTURE UNCERTAIN

The future of the young department—Oakland by the initiative of its legislators in Lansing last year became the first county to establish a DPW—has been in some doubt since the Farmington project was contested in court earlier this year.

The Supreme Court has upheld an Oakland Circuit Court opinion that the project could move ahead and that townships, when the question of public health was at stake, could exceed the 15-mill constitutional tax limitation to finance their obligations in the projects.

The uncertainty comes in, Schone points out, in that the high court split 4 to 4 in its confirmation, with four justices not even answering the big taxing question.

Oakland County asked for a rehearing on the case, but this was refused. Since then Claude H. Stevens, the county's bond attorney, has been studying the court's decision in hopes the project and others like it can proceed.

★ ★ ★

Schone, although he says he doesn't like to think of it happening, explains that the difficulty the department might encounter is that bond buyers might be leery of purchasing bonds to finance the two projects with the constitutionality of the creating act in doubt.

ANSWER IMMINENT

A big answer might be forthcoming when Schone's department takes bids on the Evergreen sewer at 2 p.m. today.

Eight communities — the cities of Bloomfield Hills, Lathrup Village, Birmingham, Southfield, Troy, the townships of Bloomfield and Pontiac, and the village of Westwood — have entered into agreement with the county as benefactors of the Evergreen sewer.

The Farmington sewer will serve Farmington and West Bloomfield townships, and the cities of Keego Harbor and Southfield.

Both sewers are to be paid for from general obligation bond issues, with the county having already pledged its full faith and credit for the two.

Although Stevens has not come up with his interpretation of the questionable Supreme Court ruling, Schone said the DPW "couldn't afford to delay" for fear of losing a $250,000 federal grant for the Evergreen project.

He said in order for the county to remain eligible for the grant, flowage rights and treatment agreements with Detroit had to be approved by Jan. 1.

The department also is fighting other deadlines imposed by the State Water Resources Commission which has set financing and contract-letting deadlines as part of a state speed-up campaign for Oakland to correct inadequate sewage facilities.

Actress Given Divorce; Has TV Daughter Role

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Television actress Elinor Donahue, 21, was divorced on testimony her husband drank too much.

Miss Donahue, who plays the older daughter in the TV series "Father Knows Best," said her husband, Richard T. Smith, 27, studio sound technician, also ignored her and their son, Brian, 21 months.

Superior Court granted her custody of the child and $50 monthly for his support.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 29, 1957

United States House of Representatives,
Committee on Un-American Activities,
WASHINGTON, D. C.

STAFF CONSULTATION

The following consultation by the staff of the Committee on Un-American Activities was held at 2:55 p.m., Wednesday, May 29, 1957, in room 226, Old House Office Building, Washington, D.C.

Staff members present: Richard Arens, director; William P. Helmlich, consultant; and Richard S. Weil, staff member.

Mr. Arens. Dr. Schwarz, will you raise your right hand and be sworn by Mrs. Eduora Bernard, the notary public.

Mrs. Bernard. Do you solemnly swear that the testimony you are about to give in this hearing will be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, so help you God?

Dr. Schwarz. I do.

TESTIMONY OF DR. FREDERICK CHARLES SCHWARZ, EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR, CHRISTIAN ANTI-COMMUNIST CRUSADE

Mr. Arens. Kindly identify yourself by name, residence, and occupation.

Dr. Schwarz. My name is Frederick Charles Schwarz, S-C-H-W-A-R-Z. My official home address is 142 Concord Road, Concord, Sydney, New South Wales, Australia. My American address is Christian Anti-Communist Crusade, Box 890, Long Beach, Calif., and I am the executive director of the Christian Anti-Communist Crusade.

Mr. Arens. Dr. Schwarz, on behalf of the staff of the Committee on Un-American Activities, I am happy to welcome you here for this staff consultation, which is pursuant to the overall policy of this committee in which we try to contact and make a record of statements of people who have had extensive experience and can shed some light on many of the facets of the world Communist conspiracy.

Would you kindly, for our record, give us a word about your own personal history and background?

Dr. Schwarz. I was born in Brisbane, Australia, on the 15th of January 1913. I was educated at the schools of Brisbane and I attended the University of Queensland, which is the northeastern state, of which Brisbane is the capital. At the university I studied, first, science. I graduated in science with major subjects mathematics and physics. I later graduated in arts in which I studied philosophy and political economy. After teaching school and being a lecturer in mathematics and science in the Queensland Teachers College, I graduated in medicine and surgery from the University of Queensland Medical School. Following graduation, I established a general medical practice in Sydney and, for a time, was psychiatrist for the Cathedral Marriage Guidance Clinic of Sydney and the New South Wales Community Hospital.

I am an evangelical Christian of Baptist denomination and have been a lay preacher for many years.

Mr. Arens. Doctor, would you kindly tell us how you became interested in your work in the anti-Communist movement?

Dr. Schwarz. At the University of Queensland, in the late 1930's, I was active in the Inter Varsity Christian Fellowship while the Communists were also active at the university in the Labor Club. We entered into a dispute on the philosophical conflict between God and materialism. I had my first debate with a Communist in 1940 when I debated with Max Julius, a very prominent Communist, now a member of the Central Committee of the Australian Communist Party.

Following this debate my interest quickened, and I read profoundly of the Communist text of Marx, Lenin, and Stalin and challenged other Communists to debate. Over a period of years I was active in lecturing against communism and debating with Communists within Australia, with special emphasis on the philosophic conflict of God and the value of the individual, as against materialism and the individual's insignificance in relation to the state.

Most of my activities were confined to church and religious circles and conducted in association with my medical practice.

In 1950 I made my first trip abroad, visited in America, and returned to Australia. The response to the message was such, and the need such, that my medical practice is now closed; and I am on my sixth world tour and I am now executive director of the Christian Anti-Communist Crusade, which is active in America and Australia and indirectly in many other parts of the world.

Mr. Arens. Thank you for that background information, Doctor.

May I pose this general question to you as a point of departure in your consultation with us today: How would you characterize or describe the ideology and morality of communism, and how, in your judgment, can that ideology and morality be countered or met in this world struggle?

Dr. Schwarz. The ideology of communism is applied Godless materialism. The problem that perplexes many people is the overwhelming appeal that communism apparently exercises for the student mind.

Mr. Arens. What is the nature of that appeal, Doctor?

Dr. Schwarz. The nature of that appeal is a promise that the student can achieve two things by association with the Communist Party. He can participate in the conquest of the world and, following the conquest of the world, he can then participate in a program to change human nature, perfect human character, and populate the entire earth with a new quality of personality infinitely superior to any that history has ever known. The appeal that attracts the young student is almost a religious appeal that his life can be utilized for the regeneration of all mankind.

Mr. Arens. Would you care to elaborate on that theme, Doctor?

Dr. Schwarz. When you ask the Communist, a simple question: "How are you going to change human nature?" they would answer with one word, and that word is "science." "We are scientists. Science has changed the material world. Science has changed the world of agriculture. Science has changed the world of animal husbandry. We can use science to change human nature itself."

This sounds very appealing. You can understand how this sounds to a young student infatuated with the techniques of science. To participate in using science for its greatest achievement is a seductive vision.

However, to be scientific you must follow scientific laws, and communism then proceeds to give it three scientific laws. These laws are as follows:

The first one is "There is no God." They are proudly, unashamedly atheistic in theory and in practice. When they deny God, they simultaneously deny every virtue and every value that originates with God. They deny moral law. They deny absolute standards of truth and righteousness. An entire civilized code of moral and ethical values is destroyed so that they are free to erect in their place new moral and ethical standards as the occasion demands.

The second law of communism is that man is a material machine. He is matter in motion and nothing more. Man is a body, and he is completely describable in terms of the laws of chemistry and physics. Man has no soul, no spirit, no significant individual value, no continuity of life. He is entirely an evolutionary product, the specie Homo sapiens, and subject to modification, adaptation, and transformation by the applied, established laws of animal husbandry.

William Z. Foster, chairman of the American Communist Party, expresses it in his book, the Twilight of World Capitalism, which he wrote in 1949. In the last chapter, The Advent of the Socialist Man, he writes:

Henceforth, the evolution of human species must be done artificially by the conscious action of man himself. Their second law, therefore, is the material animal nature of man.

The third law of communism is economic determinism. It states that the qualities of human intelligence, personality, emotional and religious life merely reflect the economic environment; that in the last analysis what we think, what we feel, what we believe, whom we love, and whom we worship is simply an expression of the environment in which we are raised; and since that environment is primarily concerned with economic forces, in the final analysis, man is a determined economic being.

Mr. Arens. I can hardly restrain myself at this point from posing this question, even at the risk of breaking the theme: If the Communists' major premise is correct, that you and I are not morally responsible, then why would the Communists in the same breath turn around and try to assess moral responsibility against what they describe as the capitalists?

Dr. Schwarz. In the final analysis they do not do that. They consider themselves as superior to the capitalist as the farmer is superior to his animal. Moral responsibility is not involved. They understand capitalist motivation as the automatic outcome of capitalist economics. Since the root is evil the fruit must be so. It is their duty to destroy the root and frequently the fruit. The concept of his moral guilt does not enter into it any more than when a farmer puts an animal giving a positive tuberculin reaction. You do not consider that animal morally responsible. He belongs to a certain class which by reason of its association, has developed a certain potentially dangerous character, and no matter how splendid the animal, its destruction is obligatory.

Communism rests on a class concept. They believe the proletariat class is the progressive class of history and that the capitalist classes, the degenerate classes, are discarded by history and must be destroyed. To them this is the law of historical development. To argue on a bourgeois moral basis merely reflects degenerate class origin.

Economic determinism is the third law of communism.

Applying these laws, communism asserts that the environment of capitalism is a degenerative environment and it creates degenerate people. The responsibility for individual evil, for vice and crime, for selfishness and greed in all its manifestations is not that of the individual. It is the projection of the capitalist environment into the individual.

The Communist believes that if you are going to change the individual, if you are going to change mankind, it is foolish to think that you can do it while the degenerative capitalist environment exists. First, you must conquer the world and, having conquered the world, you must destroy the capitalist environment which is built on profit, selfishness, and greed. You must replace it by socialism which is built on service, cooperation, and unselfishness, so that from birth the experience of the environment will build into the character unselfishness, cooperation, and service, and as these children mature to adolescents and adults everyone will work because they love to work; everyone will give because it is better to give than to receive; the hand of no man will be raised in anger against his brother; there will no longer be any need for government and government will wither and die. There will be no need for a police force; there will be nothing for police to do. There will be no need for an income-tax department because everyone working, according to his natural impulses, gives of his best for the general well-being, and out of this abundance thus created retains only his own personal needs. Farewell anger, lust and greed, envy, malice and strife, pestilence and war; enter golden, companionable, cooperative brotherhood; mankind will live together in the glorious day of communism that has dawned on the earth.

Mr. Arens. Doctor, may I pose this question: How, to the Communist mind, is this world of goodness and of plenty and of unselfishness and love, consistent with the program which we see in effect in Communist regimes, a program of bloodshed, of deceit, of inhumanity and the like?

Dr. Schwarz. It is the justification for it all. You see the goals. To sacrifice one or two generations is not a very big price to pay for such a glorious goal from their point of view.

The Communists are confronted with this problem: When they conquer the world, they are left with those people who have been brought up in the capitalistic environment. They have had their experiences. It has formed their character and personality. Naturally, if you leave the babies and the children with them, they will impress that character and personality upon them, so the Communists are confronted with a problem of what to do with the adults of established character and personality once they have conquered the world.

Being thoroughly materialist scientists, they do not hesitate. They say they have no alternative. Naturally, they must dispose of these classes. To them it is not murder. Murder is a bourgeois term which means killing individuals for bad reasons. They are going to kill classes for good reasons.

Mr. Arens. It is your theme, Doctor, that too, the practice of communism in the world is consistent with the theory of communism?

Dr. Schwarz. Exactly. Inherent within the theory of communism is the greatest program of murder, slaughter, and insanity conceivable.

Mr. Arens. It is your theory that the Communist mind the practice of communism and the theory of communism are coextensive, that they complement one another?

Dr. Schwarz. Exactly.

Mr. Arens. What is your appraisal of the murder, deceit, and treachery which even the Communist regime assess against Stalin?

Dr. Schwarz. To the Communists murder, treachery, and torture are frequently moral acts. They cannot regenerate human nature until they have destroyed the capitalist system. They cannot destroy the capitalist system until they have conquered the world.

Mr. Arens. What would be the mental processes by which Khrushchev could condemn Stalin for murder?

Dr. Schwarz. He did not condemn him. He justified him. In his speech on Stalin, that is the most amazing feature. We say Khrushchev condemned him because we read his report on Stalin's incredible acts and mental attitudes. We pay no attention to Khrushchev's climax. He portrayed Stalin's acts which were the most fiendish, the most brutal, the most evil in the record of man. He shows Stalin as a multiple murderer. He shows him the murderer of millions. He shows him as sadistic and insane. He shows him personally dictating the torture of his own friends. He showed, for example, when the Jewish doctors were arrested and accused of poisoning Zhdanov, Stalin called in their interrogator and said, "If you don't get a confession, we will shorten you by a head." After he portrayed the whole macabre spectacle, he finished up with this statement, in effect: "Mind you, don't misunderstand. Stalin was a good man. He did these things as a Marxist-Leninist. He did these in the interest of the working class. He was no giddy despot."

He finished up with a moral justification of Stalin. That leads us to Communist morality. Morality is relative and related to the objective situation.

You cannot regenerate mankind until you have destroyed the capitalist world, and you cannot destroy capitalism until you have conquered the world. The process of world conquest involves waging successfully the class war. Within the present phase of the world struggle, at the heart of existence, there is this universal war. As Lenin stated, "Proletarian morality is determined by the exigencies of the class struggle."

Mr. Arens. Could I interpose this question to perhaps clarify our record: Khrushchev, as we all know, had charge of the liquidation of the Kulak class. About 10 million of his countrymen were liquidated, what we would call murder. A crime of such enormous scope that the average human mind could not begin to comprehend it. In your appraisal of the Communist philosophy and motivation in life, could Khrushchev, as a dedicated Communist, have a twinge of conscience about those murders?

Dr. Schwarz. None whatsoever.

Mr. Arens. Why, Doctor?

Dr. Schwarz. Because these murders were in the interest of the advance of Communist power and world conquest and in the direction of history's will; therefore, they were moral and righteous acts. Any twinge of conscience would be a remnant of Krushchev's bourgeois, upbringing and a failure of his Communist personality.

Mr. Arens. Could you give us a further word, Doctor, on this ideology of the Communists on the inevitability of communizing the world?

Dr. Schwarz. Yes, sir. Their basic theoretical concept derives not from Stalin, not from Lenin, but from Marx. The concept is the universality of class war. This is their theoretical concept. War is a state of being. War exists between the proletarian class, which is the future class of mankind, and the reactionary bourgeois class. The waging of this war is the great duty of all class-conscious proletarians; the future is the triumph of the proletarian class. The Communist Party is the brain of the proletarian class, and the war that manifests itself within a state is a conflict between the Communist Party and the state government until the Communist Party destroys and conquers that state. Once that is done, it manifests itself in the international realm in a state of war between those countries that have been conquered by the Communists and where their power is established and those countries as yet unconquered. The basis of Communist policy is the existence of the class war. To them it is a fact of being.

So within this framework every act which advances their triumph is righteous. Every statement that helps their cause is true.

Mr. Arens. They overlooked the Christian philosophy.

Dr. Schwarz. They wiped it out entirely.

Mr. Arens. The philosophy that the end never justifies the means.

Dr. Schwarz. The end creates the means. Any act, however brutal, and no matter how many people are killed, that advances the Communist conquest, is a peaceful act.

Within this framework of ideology and morality, no Communist can tell a lie in the interests of communism because by definition, if it is in the interest of communism, it is the truth. A person is only a material machine and truth is merely a set of electronic impulses that circulate within his brain. The ultimate truth is the will of the Communist Party. Every basic term that we use has been redefined by the Communists in terms of the class war. For example, as you well know the word "peace" is one of the great words in the Communist vocabulary and most folks think they are hypocrites when they use the word "peace."

Mr. Arens. Certain people in high places in government have professed that the Communist regime in Soviet Russia wants peace.

Dr. Schwarz. They do want it.

Mr. Arens. What kind of peace do they want?

Dr. Schwarz. You have to understand that their basic concept is that class war is a fact of being and that peace is the historical synthesis when communism defeats the remainder of the world and establishes world Communist dictatorship, which is peace. If you ask a true Communist to take a lie detector test, and ask him if he wants peace, he would pass it with ease. He would look at you with a light in his eye and say he longs for peace.

Mr. Weil. Communist peace, not peace as we understand it.

Dr. Schwarz. Every act that contributes to the Communist conquest is a peaceful act. If they take a gun, they take a peaceful gun, containing a peaceful bullet, and kill you peacefully and put you in a peaceful grave. When the Chinese Communists murder millions, it is an act of peace. When the Russian tanks rolled into Budapest to butcher and destroy, it was glorious peace. Peace is wonderful and within their framework of ideology whatever helps their conquest is peaceful, good, and true.

Mr. Weil. I would like to ask one question of you as a psychiatrist as well as an analyst of the Communist ideology. There comes a point when all this re-evaluation and redefinition has progressed to a point where it is no longer reconcilable with reality, and even the Communists themselves must recognize this. Have they not reached that point?

Dr. Schwarz. I do not believe they have reached it. They have reached the point of insanity.

Mr. Weil. You think Khrushchev still believes in the classic theories as you expounded them?

Dr. Schwarz. I believe that paranoia is at the heart of communism and that their theoretical concepts are far more convincing to them than the evidence of the facts. I believe, for example, that they, in their own mind, believe that the riots in Hungary were organized by the vicious American imperialists. There is this element of paranoiac self-deception at the heart of communism. I do not think that they are just hypocrites; they have merged the techniques of hypocrisy with the virtues of sincerity, creating a very powerful instrument.

Mr. Weil. Mass paranoia itself is a term which can be quite deceptive.

Dr. Schwarz. It is a powerful instrument. That insanity is manifest in the world hysteria they stirred up about the Rosenbergs. The Communists manifested their tremendous efficiency as agitators around the world on behalf of the Rosenbergs. The name "Rosenberg" became the best-known American name throughout the world. There were riots in many countries, and actually quite a number of people died in these riots on behalf of the Rosenbergs. Everywhere the Communists and their friends went, hatred, strife, and desperately miserable because of the dreadful anti-Semitic conspiracy that was leading to this cruel persecution of these two poor Rosenbergs.

In the midst of it all, they suddenly arrested a lot of their own leading Jews in Czechoslovakia, men of position, power, anti-Communist character, and after a farce of a trial, which occupied about 2 weeks; they publicly executed them. The outsider looking on would say, "What sort of people are these? How hypocritical can you be?"

The two Rosenbergs had been given a fair trial. The trial was before a jury of their peers, conducted by an impartial judge. Appeals were heard and every civil liberty granted that the fairest judicial system in the world can provide. In Czechoslovakia, these Jews were practically murdered after the most summary of judicial farces. What hypocricy! You would expect the Communists to have at least some sense of guilt and inconsistency, but there was no manifestation of it whatsoever. If anything, their tears on behalf of the Rosenbergs flowed more freely. Their agony became more intense. To us they were utter hypocrites, but not to themselves. The execution of the Rosenbergs was an act that would retard Communist world conquest. Therefore, it was an evil act. Therefore, the Rosenbergs were guiltless. Therefore, the evidence against them was perjury. Therefore, those who gave the evidence were perjurers and criminals. Therefore, every progressive and moral proletarian heart must be emotionally disturbed because of this dreadful and evil act perpetrated with cruelty, brutality, and injustice. On the other hand, the arrest and execution of the Czechoslovak Jews would advance Communist world conquest; it would please the Arabs; it would set the stage for Communist influence in the Near East, which we see coming to fruition today.

It was an act in the interest of world conquest by communism; therefore, it was a good act. Therefore, they were guilty. Therefore, they were criminals. Therefore, the evidence against them was true. Therefore, a progressive heart must feel a sense of elation and rejoicing that justice triumphed with their death.

Mr. Weil. I think the theory behind that is excellent. But the evidence we have today seems to point to the fact that the Communists wanted the Rosenbergs executed, as a matter of fact, because they felt the Rosenbergs alive might be witnesses against the Communist apparatus. That bears out the impression of hypocrisy.

Dr. Schwarz. There is nothing inconsistent in their moral framework of believing all that and wanting them executed at the same time. There is nothing inconsistent in that because each individual is merely an expendable animal; and if their dying is going to help the Communist cause, then it is a good act. They could want them executed and yet feel compassion for them and anger against their brutal executioners. We have established that inherent within Communist ideology and morality there is a program of murder, treachery, and brutality and that the theory of communism translates these acts into highly moral acts. The theory of communism destroys every basic moral value on which civilization, and particularly Christian civilization, is built.

Mr. Arens. Doctor, is there some kind of analogy that could be made between what you are saying and what your experience must have been as a surgeon, namely, that a surgeon, as he undertakes to eliminate a cancerous cell or organism of the body, cuts into noncancerous material and does it feeling he is doing so on perfectly moral grounds because he is trying to save life? Is that the approach that you are saying that Communists have toward the ultimate goal of redemption of the world by communism, that they can take lives, innocent lives, because the overall objective is one of saving humanity?

Dr. Schwarz. The tragedy of communism is not simply that it murders, but that it transforms murder into a moral and righteous act. When a person does evil and he is conscious he is doing evil, you have a basis of approach; but when evil becomes good, you have no starting point, you have nothing about which to argue. The great evil rests in the philosophic, basic concepts of communism when it rejects God, when it materializes and bestializes man, and when it denies the inherent dignity and value of human personality and individuality. Upon that ruthless, amoral, materialistic basis it builds an edifice which destroys evermore every civilized, moral, ethical, and spiritual value.

Mr. Arens. Before we get to the second side of your coin, you have told us, first of all, that the basis of your background experience and study, the ideology and morality of communism, and you propose to tell us, as I understand it, how to meet and defeat this ideology of communism.

Before we get to the second side of the coin, could I ask you a question or two, if you please, Doctor?

How do you account for the fact that this ideology of communism, which is contrary to all that you and I as Christians—and I say it in the broadest term—people who believe in God and believe in spiritual values, how do you account for the fact that this force called communism, evil as it is, unappealing as it is to those with any sense in them of goodness, is sweeping across the world with a speed that is hitherto unknown in the history of the world, that it now encompasses about one-third of the population of the world from a start of about 50 years ago? How do you account for that?

Dr. Schwarz. First, the reason is their recruitment of the student intellectual, who is susceptible to the appeals of communism by reason of his educational conditioning. He accepts that materialists foundation on which Communist ideology and morality is built. He is recruited in terms of his ideological pride. He is more intelligent than the average man, and he sees the opportunity to mold man and create history, whereas the dull, brutal driven herd sweeps on unaware of the forces that create it and drive it forward. He is one of the elite, the chosen, and the intellectual aristocracy. In combination with this intellectual pride, the religious nature of man demands a purpose in life; they find in this vision of human regeneration a religious refuge for their Godless hearts.

Second, there is their superb organization. The origin of effective communism came with totalitarian organization, the formation of the Bolshevik segment of the Russian Democratic Labor Party under Lenin. Communism illustrates the truth that the disciplined, dedicated, scientific, intelligent, and organized few will be able to exploit and direct, deceive, and conquer the selfish, undisciplined, disorganized multitudes. Communism is advancing in terms of its recruitment of students, the organization of these students into the Communist Party and the scientific exploitation of group needs, grievances and ambitions to advance their party to power. The goal of communism is conquest, not conversion. They convert a few and conquer the many.

Mr. Arens. It is our information, Doctor, that there are in the world today approximately 25 million Communists. Is there any cohesive force that is opposing them?

Dr. Schwarz. Unfortunately, no.

Mr. Arens. Is there any monolithic force of any comparable size?

Dr. Schwarz. Unfortunately, I know of none. I know of no monolithic, conscious, dedicated, directive force to oppose them. What is needed, and that brings us to a second point—

Mr. Arens. I would like to ask you, before you get to your second point, if there is a fallacy in undertaking to appraise the strength of the world Communist movement in terms of numbers?

Dr. Schwarz. A very definite fallacy involved

Mr. Arens. Why?

Dr. Schwarz. Because it is trying to determine the validity of the hull of the boat by relating the area of the holes to the area which is sound. One hole can sink the ship. Communism is the theory of the disciplined few controlling and directing the rest. One person in a sensitive position can control, manipulate, and if necessary, destroy, thousand of others.

Mr. Arens. To use this illustration of your boat, you need only one man to pilot the wheel.

Dr. Schwarz. That is right. If he wants to run it aground, the fact that the other thousand people want to keep it at sea has little bearing on the result. Lenin's slogan was fewer but better; the dedicated, disciplined, who will conquer and control the great multitude.

Mr. Arens. Doctor, on the basis of your extensive study of communism, is it conceivable that we can negotiate ourselves out of the struggle, negotiate with the Soviets, the international Soviet operation?

Dr. Schwarz. To negotiate true peace with people who are utterly dedicated to the concept of the historical inevitability of class war and their victory is impossible. To think that we can do it is to indicate a failure to understand communism so completely that it approaches mental illness. To the Communist every negotiation is an act of war. Every delegation is an act of war. Every peace petition is an act of war. Every disarmament conference is an act of war.

Mr. Arens. Could we trust them in negotiating with them in a disarmament conference?

Dr. Schwarz. As long as keeping their promise would advance their program of conquest, they could be trusted to keep it. The moment that keeping their promise hindered their program of world conquest, it would be their moral and righteous duty to break it. Actually, crazy as it sounds, to them, breaking their promise would be keeping it.

Mr. Arens. Doctor, with this record reflecting your comments on the ideology and morality of communism, we would be very happy to have you proceed to give us your views on how the free world can meet and defeat the ideology of communism.

Dr. Schwarz. The first step of Communist conquest is the ideological conquest of the student mind. That is always the first step. Our first step should be the immunization of the student mind against that conquest by the Communists.

The Communists have never been able to make progress until they have been able to get these student intellectuals to be their standard bearers. This poses a problem both within and without the country. Within the country the educational system, the legislaive system, the family, the religion, and all cultural influences should be so tuned that they build a mind and a character with an understanding of the American heritage and moral values; a confidence in your constitutional system, your government by law, your economic systems of free competitive enterprise. Associated with this understanding, there should be a national patriotism that will immunize the youth against the very insidious Communist propaganda.

The first thing is to educate young people who believe in their God, their country, their family, their Constitution, their liberty under law and who are proud of their heritage. They then will not easily be swayed by Godless, materialistic concepts.

Mr. Arens. May I pose a question at this point, Doctor: Have not the Communists even perverted these institutions, such as loyalty to Government, such as the true tenets and principles of the Constitution?

I know when this committee has hearings in which we subpena before us people who are identified under oath as hard-core members of the Communist conspiracy, they very cleverly attack the committee as though we are the ones out to destroy the Constitution, as though they are the ones who are defending the Constitution by invoking the fifth amendment; and they have a significant segment of the so-called liberals of the country who go right down the line with them.

Dr. Schwarz. Exactly. This is the paradox. Here are our very precious, cherished liberties that did not come about by accident, that are the envy and admiration of the rest of the world; here is a group of people, the Communists, openly dedicated to their total destruction and yet these Communists are able to take advantage of these very liberties and to hide behind these liberties for their purposes of destruction and to recruit as their "runners of interference" well meaning American citizens. This is the paradox that confronts us. The problem is, and I know this is a problem that confronts your committee all the time, how can we rout them out, expose and disarm them without doing damage to the constitutional system and liberty under law which are so cherished in America? I believe it can be done, it must be done; and it is being done.

Mr. Arens. I would like to have you elaborate, if you please, sir, on the way in which, in your judgment, the ideology and morality of communism can be exposed for what it is, the fallacies of it actually exposed and how to actually meet it with a superior and more sound ideology.

Dr. Schwarz. I believe that the problem is largely an educational one, but it is also a spiritual one.

If I may say so, I think your committee has done a magnificent educational job. I do not know if that is the prime function of your committee, but you have certainly done a splendid educational job in revealing not only the theory but the actual practice and character of communism and Communists.

I believe that communism should be taught in the educational system, but I believe it should be taught with a moral directive, in the same way that a medical student is taught that cancer is evil, that tuberculosis is evil and education about them is directed to their elimination and defeat. I think the teaching of communism without a moral directive can be very dangerous. Teaching it with a moral directive, should emphasize the basic foundations of American civilization, revealing the enemy threatening their destruction, the erroneous beliefs leading the Communists to undertake the destruction of freedom, the methods by which they propose to destroy, and what must be done to defeat them. If it is presented without moral direction, it appears simply as an alternative economic system with certain superior virtues. This has frequently been done in the past and instead of opposing communism, it tends to recruit to communism.

I believe there is a great problem before the American people: to provide education with a moral dynamic that reveals communism as a rationale of murder and lying and the destruction of freedom. It is totally immoral, and mental and emotional barriers against it should be erected in the minds of the young.

Then there is also the problem of what is to be done throughout the world, because communism is advancing by a pincers movement. It is advancing by internal deception, confusion, misrepresentation and weakening and external growth of power. They believe that by a combination of the internal confusion and degeneracy, in combination with the growth of the external threat, the final act of conflict can be consummated without war and their violence can follow later.

Mr. Arens. Do you remember the quotation from Lenin on that, that they will encircle the Untied States and it will fall in the hands of the Communists like an overripened fruit?

Dr. Schwarz. That is their program. The tragedy of our approach to the Communist danger throughout the world is that it is almost entirely on a materialistic plane that we are trying to defeat them.

Here is the great paradox. The Communists profess themselves to be materialists, and we profess ourselves to be idealists and spiritual people. As a consequence of these beliefs, the Communists are winning the world by first winning the students ideologically, while we try to combat them by material means. Basically the program, at least if you look it it budgetwise, is about $40 billion approximately for military weapons, then about $3 billion to $4 billion for material assistance, and a tiny fragment for the purposes of information, education, and spiritual warfare.

The paradox is this: Basically, much of our program to combat communism rests on a Marxist foundation. Marxism teaches that the ideas of the mind, as well as the emotions of the heart, emerge out of the material environment.

When we want people of the world to resist the Communist idea and to embrace the idea of freedom, we think that if we give them material benefits this will automatically come to pass, and so the idea is to give economic aid and military assistance in the expectation that communism will lose its appeal and freedom will triumph.

The foundation is wrong. Materialistic measures do not control the minds and the hearts of the people. This must be done in a more direct fashion. We need a scientific approach that will utilize the moral, cultural, and spiritual values in each of these countries. We need a loving, friendly, cooperative spirit and a direct approach to their minds and hearts to mobilize them against communism.

Let us consider India. The Communists want India. If they conquer India the consequences are incalculable. The average Indian must have a reason for being against communism. What reason is significant to him? You cannot say it is against his economic well-being. His economic well-being is so low that it is difficult to make it any lower. You cannot say it is against his constitutional liberties. He does not quite understand what they are. It must be against something which to him is meaningful and significant, it must threaten something to him that is valuable. The Communists very cleverly deceive and hide their destructive program from each group as they exploit their needs and conquer them.

There are certain forces which, properly organized, will mobilize the people against communism. To the Indian his religious faith, whether it be Hindu, Moslem, or Christianity, is important. His family relationship is important. His moral code is important. His national aspirations are important. Communism is against all these things; but in its approach to the Indian, it appears to be favorable to them.

I am informed by Indians that the majority of Christians in India vote Communist. The reason they vote Communist is not because they approve of Communist theories, they haven't the faintest idea what they are. They vote Communist because the Communists sent a very fine young student to their village with glorious magazines showing them how much their life will be improved under communism.

Mr. Weil. What do we do; send more magazines?

Dr. Schwarz. Not so fast. First the Communists had to win the student who takes the magazines. We need an ideological offensive. That is what I am trying to do. I am an evangelical Christian and there are evangelical Christians in India. We have a basis of fellowship. Communism threatens us both. By personal association and contact we can build the understanding of the Communist danger. We have the tools that can help them convey the message to other Christians and the Indian people. It is much better that they should do it. We can help them. Our material advantage can now be effectively used when dedicated freedom-loving people, encouraged by our love, equipped by our support, carry the message of the value of the individual and the spiritual heritage of man, interpreted in the light of their specific faith, motivated by the dynamic of their conviction, when they carry this message and the corollary of the Communist threat to their own nationals.

Mr. Arens. On the basis of your worldwide tours, background and experience, what is your appraisal of the progress of internal communism as opposed to the forces of freedom at the present time?

Dr. Schwarz. I regret to say that, by every standard test, the Communists have been making terrifying progress; and they are winning and we are losing.

Also in regard to your question, I think that the following illustration may be significant: Recently, for the first time, I saw the mechanical brain, the Univac machine. The firm was quite a small firm and yet to them it was so important that they paid $1,000 a month rental for it. They explained to me its purpose: They fed into it the statistics of the past, and the machine analyzed them and then predicted future trends. These trends were so accurate that they formed the foundation for their policy.

I said to the president of the firm, "Let us feed in the statistics of Communist advances of the past 10 years and see what year the Univac predicts the Communists will conquer the world. Lenin established Bolshevikism with 17 supporters in 1903. He conquered Russia with 40,000 supporters in 1917, and today they have conquered more than 900 million." The president of the company said, "I'm afraid to try it."

The Communists claim victory is certain for the following reasons: They say it is inevitable, because we are the product of our own environment which has created us so intellectually dishonest, so unwilling to face the evidence, so selfish, so greedy, and so intoxicated with entertainment that we will never have the honesty, the intelligence, the courage, or the dedication necessary to do what must be done if we are to survive.

Mr. Weil. What must be done if we are to survive?

Dr. Schwarz. We must face honestly the gravity of the situation. We must give it priority in our thinking and in our actions. We must build a strong base of freedom-loving people articulate in their faith, in their love of country, in their love of God, in their love of home, and in their love of law, and we must rally the spiritual forces in the heart of man and recruit dedicated personnel to raise barriers against communism in every area of the world.

The fundamental foundation of opposition to communism is an informed public opinion and a dedicated public character. On these alone the necessary legislative, administrative, judicial, military, and economic and educational programs may be built.

We have to set to work urgently building the foundation for Communist defeat. Most of our present programs, such as the military program and economic program, are temporary measures which may hold back the flood for a short period and give us a little more time to find a permanent solution.

In conclusion may I say that assessing all the evidence on a world wide scope the Communists' continuing advance is terrifying, and the possibility of the fulfillment of Khrushchev's boast, "We'll bury you," looms closer every day.

Mr. Weil. If the present rate of Communist advances continues, how long do you think it will be, in your analysis of world events, before the Communists take complete control of the world?

Dr. Schwarz. I think the Communists have more or less tentatively set the deadline for about the year 1973. Mao Tse-tung and Stalin in their last conference thought it would take 4 more 5-year plans, approximately 10 years for the conquest and consolidation of Asia, with the immediate threat to Africa and Europe, while the weakening, softening, and degeneration of America continues, and avoiding an atomic-hydrogen war, their conquest is contemplated about that time.

Mr. Weil. You mean 10 years from now for the consolidation of Asia, and this program does not envision a hydrogen bomb war?

Dr. Schwarz. The basic Communist strategy in 1952 renounced the inevitability of world war III. World conquest without war, which is called coexistence, became their basic strategy. I would not be surprised that they would like some disarmament, as all they look to from military might is a stalemate. If they can reduce the armament burden and retain this stalemate, they will have more funds available for propaganda, and political and economic warfare.

Mr. Arens. Thank you very much, Doctor. We deeply appreciate your contribution in this staff interrogation.

(Thereupon, at 4:15 p.m., Wednesday, May 29, 1957, the consultation was concluded.)

Social Security Changes Due

Elections Mean Revisions

By RAY HENRY
Associated Press Writer

In 1950, Congress started a tradition of election year changes in Social Security. Including that year, five major revisions of the program have been made — each in an election year.

Looking for the tradition to continue, one of the chief advisors to Congress on Social Security — Prof. Wilbur Cohen of the University of Michigan—has already outlined changes he'd like to see in 1960—next election year.

Cohen proposals include raises in payments; a jump in the amount of earnings taxed for Social Security; increases in the minimum and maximum benefits; addition of hospital and nursing insurance for Social Security recipients and revision of the disability program.

Here are the details.

Increased payments—Payments will average about $81 a month to persons coming on the rolls in 1959. These payments should be raised to an average of $100 a month in 1960, meaning a 20 per cent increase.

Payments to widows are now 75 per cent of what husbands would have received had they lived to collect. Widows' payments should be 100 per cent of what their husbands would have received.

Higher earnings taxed — Starting in 1959, the Social Security tax will apply to all a worker's earnings up to $4,800 a year. To provide adequate benefits to person's earning more than that, up to $7,200 of his earnings should be taxed.

This change would automatically increase the possible payments to those who are taxed on the higher amount of earnings.

Increasing minimum and maximum payments — the minimum monthly payment could be increased to $50 where a person has been covered by the Social Security system for five years. The maximum family payments where there are several children could be increased to $254 to about $300 or $350.

Disability program changes — Two changes might be considered: (1) repealing the limitation to pay benefits beginning only at age 50 and (2) paying the cost of rehabilitation disabled persons from the Social Security disability fund.

Hospital and nursing insurance — Set up a program under Social Security which would give two types of protection: a limited duration of hospital care of perhaps 50 to 60 days a year and a limited amount of nursing service, including visiting nursing service in the home.

As a starter, the care might only go to persons 70 or over. Or, it might be limited to those who are actually "retired."

To provide this care or similar benefits, a tax on earnings of about one-quarter of one per cent would be required. For self-employed, a tax of three-eighths of one per cent would be necessary.

Although Cohen would like to see these changes in 1960, he freely admits that they may be too broad to make in a single year.

Perhaps, he says, some of them would have to be made in several steps. But, he feels, they're all necessary to bring the Social Security system into line with present day economic and social conditions.

340 Deaf Youngsters Celebrate Silent Yule

By FRED GOLDEN

WEST HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Imagine singing "Jingle Bells" or "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer" with your hands.

Or, lock yourself for a moment in a world where there are none of the friendly Christmas noises—no street carolers, no belly laugh of a Santa Claus, no clamor of shoppers and traffic.

For the 340 youngsters here at the American School for the Deaf and for the thousands of other deaf across the country, Christmas is silent — just as all other days and nights.

But in the deep silence there is happiness, too.

A Christmas party for the American School's youngsters is a warm demonstration of how the human spirit can overcome a handicap.

★ ★ ★

The scene is a familiar Christmas school tableau. Scrubbed and smiling youngsters squirm in their seats in the large auditorium, fidgeting for the start of their annual Christmas program.

But when the school chaplain begins the invocation, the difference becomes apparent.

The clergyman tells a Christmas parable in a rich, friendly voice. He accompanies his words with rapid gestures of his arms and hands.

The story is of a mischievous, young angel whose pranks jar the conservative ways of heaven. St. Peter scolds his young charge — with silent gestures.

In the final scene, a chorus of angels assembles — costumed in white sheets, cardboard wings and wire halos.

A Christmas carol filters over the loudspeaker system, and the angels begin singing — with their hands.

★ ★ ★

To the observer, the scene looks pathetic momentarily. An age-old Christmas song, and the only way these deaf angels can evoke the beautiful melody and lyric is with their hands.

But the flash of pity is dispelled quickly. The gestures by the angels on stage have reached the youngsters. Singing with their hands, the deaf children, too, are experiencing the joys of caroling.

The program is brought to an end by a Santa Claus, who dispenses a holiday message with his hands and small gifts to the youngest children.

The school, founded in 1817, had proved again that deafness need not mean isolation or loneliness, especially at Christmas.

Australia Wants More Citizens

Country Helps Pay Fare for Adults and Children Who Want to Migrate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Australian Embassy says Australia's stepped-up program as "Assisted Immigration" is open to everybody — not just skilled workers.

★ ★ ★

Under the program, the Australian government helps pay the fare of persons interested in migrating down under.

The government recently increased its help, from $105 for each adult to $160, with a proportionate amount for children depending upon whether they pay half-fare or quarter-fare.

The embassy said it plans no advertising campaign to woo Americans to Australia. Instead, it said, it will depend upon word of mouth advertising and will content itself with replying to inquiries.

At least one Michigan family has emigrated to Australia.

Frank Lowas, 43, formerly of Lansing and Brighton, arrived at Melbourne, Australia, Sunday with his wife and four children.

Lowas said he went to Australia because he was not able to find work in his own country.

Australia's 10 million population has increased 10 per cent because of immigration since World War II. This is partly due to the program of assisted immigration.

There are few requirements.

Half-Fare Extended

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit's policy of permitting its "Senior Citizens" to ride city buses at half fare was extended yesterday for six months. It had been due to expire Dec. 31. A senior citizen is a person 65 years old or more.

To a New Land, They Brought Bethlehem

Some were stern-faced Puritans, others Christians of a more tolerant nature. But they shared one thing in common—an over-powering desire to worship the Lord in their own way.

They left their native lands, crossed a great ocean, and spread through this young country where a man's will was his own. They prayed to God as they wished.

And here and there, as they sought names for the new settlements they founded, they remembered the birthplace of the Christ child and they called their town Bethlehem.

★ ★ ★

BETHLEHEM, PA.

BETHLEHEM, Pa. — This little industrial town in Eastern Pennsylvania calls itself the Christmas City.

It was founded in 1741 by members of the Moravian Church who came to the New World from Europe to escape religious persecution. History records that it was named on Christmas Eve.

The Yule season centers around Moravian traditions, although the population today includes many other religious faiths.

Months before Dec. 25, beeswax candles are cast in the apothecary shop of Simon Rau and Co., the oldest drug store in the United States. These candles burn in every home and are carried through the streets by carol singers on Christmas Eve.

Bethlehem is a bustling industrial city of 72,000 on the banks of the Lehigh River.

More and more persons visit Bethlehem each year during the Christmas season. Last year 125,000 visitors were counted. Some 100,000 persons send their holiday cards here each year for re-mailing with the Bethlehem postmark.

★ ★ ★

The focal point of Bethlehem's Christmas is a huge electric star—a 30-foot mass of lights—erected on South Mountain on the city's outskirts.

All churches have special services. But the city takes care that its observance is a historical occasion—a non-commercial celebration "in the spirit of good will."

BETHLEHEM, IND.

BETHLEHEM, Ind.—This is a quiet village off the main highways, with a town pump, a loafer's bench and a fine view of the Ohio River.

Less than 25 miles north of Louisville, Ky., it has two stores, a non-denominational church, and huge maple trees lining its five short streets.

★ ★ ★

At Christmas, it is overshadowed by a more commercially-minded Indiana town named Santa Claus. But one of the storekeepers, who doubles as postmaster, postmarks about 2,000 pieces of Christmas mail a day with a special "Star of Bethlehem, Ind." cachet.

BETHLEHEM, GA.

BETHLEHEM, Ga.—First there was only the church, Bethlehem Methodist Church, which was founded in 1790 by oxcart pioneers.

Then, 74 years ago, the railroad came.

As Postmaster Lamar Ridgeway recalls the story, they had just pushed the rails and crossties through this area.

"The railroad president was here, and he picked out a spot for the depot," says Ridgeway. "A bunch of men were standing around, and he turned to them and said, 'Well, here's where it'll be—now one of you boys name it.'

★ ★ ★

"And the church chorister, Mr. Moore (the late Judson L. Moore) said, 'Call her Bethlehem.' "

Bethlehem is a North Georgia farming and poultry community of about 300.

Since 1951 townspeople have erected a 60-foot star to light the countryside during the Christmas season. A carol service is held beneath the star on Christmas night.

Postmaster Ridgeway handles a deluge of mail each December, applying the Bethlehem postmark with a hand stamp.

BETHLEHEM, N. H.

BETHLEHEM, N. H.—This community in the heart of the White Mountains once was known as Lloyd's Hill. But in 1799, the religious settlers renamed the town Bethlehem in the belief that the terrain was similar to that of the Bethlehem in Judea.

Bethlehem is primarily a summer resort with fewer than 900 year-round residents. Its pollen-free air makes it a haven for hay fever sufferers and it is the home of the National Hay Fever Relief Assn.

Bethlehem has no special celebration at Christmas. A Nativity scene is erected in the village square and house decorations carry out a Star of Bethlehem theme.

BETHLEHEM, MD.

BETHLEHEM, Md. — Motorists usually whip through this hamlet on Maryland's Eastern Shore before they know they're in it.

But at Christmas they slow down.

★ ★ ★

A shining star, visible two miles away, throws its light over the handful of old houses. At the crossroads a huge cedar tree is trimmed with multicolored lights.

Beneath the tree, a century-old cradle filled with straw holds a doll.

Still as it may lie most of the year, Bethlehem enjoys a great deal of fame each Christmas season through an idea conceived 20 years ago by a 14-year-old high school girl.

★ ★ ★

Marjorie Ann Chambers wanted to put her town on the map, so she advertised in stamp collectors' magazines, offering to mail a souvenir Christmas story in an envelope postmarked from Bethlehem on Christmas day.

She devised a special postmark showing the three wise men following the star. The response overwhelmed her.

Today, the postmistress is swamped each year with thousands of cards and packages brought or sent here for remailing. The postmistress, who has been hand-cancling the Christmas mail since 1946, is Mary Carroll.

BETHLEHEM, KY.

BETHLEHEM, Ky. — Jamison Hall was named postmaster and when it came time to open his office, he just didn't care for the name Mobley Stand. He changed it to Bethlehem.

That was in 1862 and the name has endured.

Today, Postmistress Lee Tyton carries on in the Hall tradition.

For the last 24 years, she has stamped thousands of Christmas greeting cards with the special postmark bearing a drawing of the three wise men. She estimates she and her family cancel about 25,000 greeting cards each year.

Bethlehem is 40 miles northeast of Louisville amid rich fields of corn and tobacco. The homes of 65 families surround three grocery stores, three service stations, two churches—Methodist and Baptist—and a barber shop.

★ ★ ★

The Christmas observance is typical of that in any small town. The churches take turns presenting the Christmas festival.

BETHLEHEM, CONN.

BETHLEHEM, Conn. — The first worship service in this tiny community in the scenic Berkshires, held on Nov. 2, 1738, couldn't have been more appropriate. It was held in a stable.

Some of the village historians say Bethlehem was named for the community in Judea where Christ was born in a stable. Others say it was named for the Bethlehem in upper Palestine, near Christ's Nazareth.

But they agree on the meaning—"House of Bread." It's an apt name, for Bethlehem, Conn., is in the center of a fertile dairying and agricultural section.

More than 20 years ago, Postmaster Earl Johnson set up a special postmark cachet at his own expense for use on Christmas cards. Now, in 1958, Johnson's idea has become a well-established custom.

Last year 300,000 pieces of Christmas mail poured into his tiny postoffice for mailing so they would bear the special marking: "Bethlehem — The Christmas Town."

Chiang to Step Aside in 1960

Will Leave Presidency but Retain Control of Nationalist Party

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI) — Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek indicated today he will step down as president in 1960 but will retain control of the Kuomintang, the ruling Nationalist party.

★ ★ ★

Chang told a meeting of 2,000 Kuomintang members he was opposed to amending the constitution which stipulates the president can serve only two terms of six years each. His second term expires May 19, 1960.

'Representing the government and the party I am against amendment of the constitution as proposed by many National assemblymen in the past year," he said.

Chiang spoke at a meeting of the mainland recovery planning board. His remarks apparently confirmed speculation he will not be a candidate in 1960.

Observers believed that Chen Cheng, vice president and vice director general of the Kuomintang, would succeed Chiang as president if he steps down. Another possibility is his eldest son, Gen. Chiang ChingKuo.

The national assembly, which elects the president and vice president, is scheduled to meet Thursday to debate a resolution to amend the constitution.

Chiang also told the Kuomintang meeting he would not order a counterattack against Communist China until he has won over the hearts and minds of the people on the mainland.

New Studies Hold Promise

Seek Key to Cancer Cure in Chemotherapy, Virology

(The following dispatch, reporting on progress in cancer research, was written for United Press International by the director of the National Cancer Institute. The Institute is one of the seven research divisions of the U.S. Public Health Services' famed National Institutes of Health at Bethesda, Md.)

By JOHN R. HELLER, M. D.
Direction, National Cancer Institute

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two of the most promising areas of modern cancer research are chemotherapy—treatment with drugs — and virology—the study of viruses as a cause of cancer.

Within the past decade a number of chemical agents have been developed that are temporarily effective in the treatment of such malignancies as leukemia, Hodgkin's disease, cancer of the breast, and prostate gland.

To date, no case of human cancer has been cured by treatment with drugs alone. However, many cancer patients have experienced prolongation of life and relative freedom from suffering owing to therapy with anti-cancer drugs.

One of the most dramatic results of cancer chemotherapy is the suppression of a rare form of uterine cancer, choriocarcinoma, by the drug methotrexate.

This disease usually kills the patient within a year; but a few women, whose disease had spread to the lungs and brain by the time drug treatment was started, have shown no evidence of cancer for months. One of these patients has manifested no sign of the disease for two and one-half years.

MASSIVE PROGRAM

The federal government, independent research institutions, colleges and universities and American industry are now joined in a massive, nationwide research program aimed at developing safe, effective anti-cancer drugs.

This undertaking was begun June 1953 when Congress allocated one million dollars to the National Cancer Institute of the U.S. Public Health Service for a centrally directed research program in the chemotherapy of acute leukemia.

★ ★ ★

In 1955, the Cancer Chemotherapy National Service Center was created in the National Cancer Institute, and was given the responsibility for developing a cooperative chemotherapy research program in laboratories and hospitals throughout the United States and abroad. For the present fiscal year, the appropriation for the center is 23 million dollars.

The research program of the chemotherapy service center is now in full operation after completion of a 3-year "tooling up" period. Essentially, there are three phases in the program:

(1) The acquisition and initial testing in mice of thousands of chemicals each year to identify those few that possess anticancer activity.

(2) Further testing in animals and the laboratory to learn more about these chemicals and to develop safe procedures for their use in humans.

(3) Evaluation in extensive clinical trials with patients in hospitals of the still fewer drugs that are safe and show promising anticancer activity.

The magnitude of this research effort is reflected by the fact that each year some 40,000 different materials are being tested in animals for anticancer properties. Experience has shown that only about one in a thousand substances tested will find its way ultimately to clinical trial—and even then, many will prove to be inadequate for use in treating human cancer.

At the present time, there are about 70 drugs undergoing clinical evaluation in about 150 hospitals throughout the country that are cooperating in the chemotherapy research effort. In these studies, drugs already well known to the medical profession, such as methotrexate, nitrogen mustard, and the sex hormones, are used as references to determine the effectiveness of newer materials.

One of the most important aspects of the national chemotherapy program is the active participation of private industry. Many pharmaceutical, chemical and allied firms, with their special facilities and talents for carrying out drug research, are making an invaluable contribution to the program by supplying test materials free of charge, producing and testing new drugs, conducting research and development programs and manufacturing promising drugs in sufficient quantities for clinical trials.

Much of this work is done under contract. To encourage industrial participation, a special patent policy covering contract research has been adopted by the Department of Health Education and Welfare.

Under this policy, a contractor who develops an effective anticancer drug retains the rights to his invention so long as he continues to supply adequate quantities of the material at a reasonable price. If he fails to do so, the surgeon general of the Public Health Service can take necessary steps to assure adequate production of the drug.

The chemotherapy program will accelerate the search for anticancer drugs and may make it possible to develop additional more effective, perhaps curative chemical agents for the treatment of malignant disease.

The suggestion that cancer may be a virus disease, such as polio or influenza, was first made more than 50 years ago, and is today the basis for another important, rapidly expanding area of cancer research.

Many investigators have demonstrated conclusively that some forms of cancer in animals are caused by viruses. Within the past few years, scientists at the National Institutes of Health, at Bethesda, Md., found that a single virus, obtained from the tissue of a leukemic mouse, causes a wide variety of tumors, not only in mice but also in rats and hamsters.

★ ★ ★

In another study, a scientist working at the Sloan-Kettering institute for Cancer Research, New York City, has developed a vaccine that protects about 80 per cent of mice challenged with a leukemia-producing virus.

These two studies are illustrative of a great deal of virus research now in progress in the cancer field.

Naturally, the question arises: Is human cancer a virus disease? And if it is, will science develop an anticancer vaccine?

No one can answer either question at present. As yet, no form of human cancer has been shown to be caused by the action of a virus. Therefore, the results obtained in animal cancer-virus research are not applicable to human cancer. However, continued progress in virus research may lead to the discovery of a means of preventing some forms of cancer in man.

Both chemotherapy and virus research appear to offer the hope that medical science will be able to find ways of controlling cancer, either by the use of drugs, by preventive means, or both.

Head of Chrysler Sees Good Year

Colbert Says Car Sales Should Total Around 5½ Million in '59

DETROIT (UPI) — President L. L. Colbert of Chrysler Corp. says there is evidence 1959 will be a good year for business in general.

Predicting a substantial improvement in the automobile market, Colbert said in a year-end statement that sales will be about 5½ million.

"With the right combination of market factors it could go as high as six million," he said.

Colbert's analysis was this:

"Consumer spending is at a very high rate. Present rates of expenditures by federal, state and local governments is at high levels.

"Factory production has shown definite gains in recent months. Liquidation of business inventories is tapering off and in some industries there has been a flow of new orders to replenish dwindling stocks.

"Residential construction activity is high. And expenditures for industrial plants and equipment in the first quarter of 1959 are expected to continue the upward trend which started in the present quarter."

Colbert gave a number of reasons for expecting a good car market next year.

The Chrysler president said 1959 model cars have been well received, hundreds of thousands of non-buyers in 1958 will be buyers next year, personal income is at a record level, and surveys indicate growing confidence on the part of both consumers and businessmen.

Jap Prince 25 Today, to Rule Soon

TOYKO (UPI) — Prince Akihito celebrated his 25th birthday today. Japanese magazines, and newspapers marked the occasion with speculation that he may become emperor next year.

They said Emperor Hirohito may abdicate next May when Akihito marries pretty commoner Michiko Shoda.

The mass-circulation weekly Shincho magazine ran a special article titled "Will the Emperor Seize This Fourth Chance?"

It said the possibility of Hirohito abdicating came up on three previous occasion:

—In 1945 after Japan's surrender in World War II.

—In 1948 when the Allied military tribunal convicted Gen. Hideki Tojo and other wartime Japanese leaders for war crimes.

—In 1952, when Japan became independent again and the Crown Prince came of age on his 18th birthday.

The Green Empress

(Copyright 1958) . . . by Elizabeth Cadell

The story: Angus Graham, invalided out of the Navy, is amused at being hired by Sir Chand as a "liaison officer" for the simple job of courier on a superlative luxury bus tour in Europe. He's filling in for his friend Wax Sealing. The passenger list sounds impressive—Lord Lorrimer, father of a Navy friend, with his lovely daughter Angela Clunes, and his secretary Lionel Yule, obviously in love with Angela; Mr. Zoller, philanthropist, and his wife; Admiral Peterson and his sister Mrs. Denby-Warre; young Sir Maurice Tarrant with an irresistible manner; Stanton Holt, an American, who asks to meet Miss Seton with warm, humorous, intelligent eyes. Angela tells Angus she has adored him ever since her brother Oliver brought him home on a visit and accused him of carefully avoiding all Naval contacts. Mrs. Denby-Warre wants Angus to interest the Admiral in everything to make him forget his garden. The crossing to France is uneventful. Miss Seton confides to Angus she is half-sister to Rosamund Blake who has just completed a film in Italy and is sailing to South America. She plans to surprise Rosamund by meeting her boat in Lisbon. Angela asks to join Angus at dinner that evening. He's disappointed to find Lionel Yule is one of the party. Angela is worried about her father. Ferdy Brewer, the driver, plans to stay close to the Green Empress during the night.

CHAPTER VIII

"You'd be surprised," Ferdy said to Angus, "how many people like to take a look-see at the Green Empress. I've got her tuned up and I know that if nobody else puts a finger on her, she'll run for ten thousand miles without a mite of trouble.

"And so . . . nobody else is going to put a finger on her."

★ ★ ★

"Sound enough." Angus rose. "Good night, Ferdy."

"Good night, sir. Eleven o'clock start tomorrow?"

"Yes."

Angus went to his room. Having undressed, he climbed with some misgiving into the four-poster and settled himself between the sheets, and then got up again to draw back the curtains so that when he opened his eyes in the morning, the view would be before him.

But when his eyes opened, it was still dark. He lay for some moments shaking off the mists of sleep, and knew even during that short time that something or someone had wakened him.

Sitting up with a jerk, he saw the flicker of a candle and heard a whisper in French.

A TELEPHONE CALL

"Monsieur, are you awake?"

"Yes. Is that Monsieur Chabrun?"

"Yes, Monsieur."

"What is it?"

"It is the telephone, monsieur. Somebody wishes to speak to Mademoiselle Seton. The person is waiting.'

Angus sat still. He could now make out the stout form of the manager; he could see a long nightshirt and below it, slippered feet, but he took in the details without registering them.

His mind was considering the alternatives of speaking to the caller himself, or waking Miss Seton.

★ ★ ★

He peered at his watch. There was nothing in his orders about waking a passenger at two in the morning to answer the telephone.

On the other hand, nobody in their senses would ring at this time unless the message were of the first importance.

He decided that he must wake her. He rose and consulted his room plan, not because he did not know it already, but because he must make absolutely certain that he did not disturb the wrong person.

"I will wake Mademoiselle Seton," he told Monsieur Chabrun. "Please say that she is coming at once."

He put on a dressing gown, lit his candle and made his way down two short, winding flights of stairs to Miss Seton's room, deciding as he went that candles and oak beams and four-posters were all very well as atmosphere, but not to be compared with up-to-date comforts — and telephones in every bedroom.

NO REPLY TO KNOCKS

He reached Miss Seton's door and knocked once, twice, softly. There was no reply. He opened the door, took a few steps into the room and spoke her name in a low tone.

"Miss Seton."

There was an instant's pause, and then a stirring behind the curtains of the huge bed. Then she had sat upright and had spoken his name.

"It's Mr. Graham. What is it?"

"I'm sorry to disturb you, but you're wanted on the telephone. It must be important, I think — it's five past two, and nobody —"

★ ★ ★

But she was out of bed. He heard the rasp of silk as she put on a dressing gown. She reached for a comb, drew it through her hair and went quietly to the door.

"Take the candle," said Angus in a low voice. "I'll go ahead and show you where the phone is."

She followed him downstairs, the only sound was the creak-creak of the old stairs. He led her to the little room in which Monsieur Chabrun stood carefully holding the receiver, as though putting it down would break the connection.

He handed it to her and followed Angus out of the room and closed the door.

"I hope," he whispered to Angus, "that it will not be bad news."

"I hope so too. Please go back to bed Monsieur. I will stay here and see that Miss Seton is all right."

OPSIDED CONVERSATION

He heard the creaking of the stairs, and stood alone in the great hall. He could hear at intervals the murmur of Miss Seton's voice, but the intervals were long, she was doing more listening than talking.

Once, he thought he heard a sharp exclamation, but he could not be sure. Then there was the sound of the receiver being replaced, and he waited for her to join him.

But the minutes passed, and she did not come out of the room. Angus wondered whether he had been mistaken; perhaps she was still on the line. But from the other room there came not a sound, no murmur, no movement.

He waited for what he felt to be an age — and then he opened the door and spoke without entering the room.

Monsieur Chabrun held the receiver as though in putting it down it would break the connection.

"Miss Seton?"

He could see her form silhouetted against the long window. She was standing quite still, so still that a chill went through him.

★ ★ ★

"Are you all right?" he asked softly.

She did not answer for some time, but he knew that she had heard. At last her voice came, and it was perfectly steady.

"Yes. I'm. . .all right."

He went up to her and lifted the candle from the table and held it so that its light showed her face. Its pallor shocked him. He thought of her mother and her sister, and put an anxious question.

"Is your. . .Is anybody ill?"

"No. No, thank you."

"Sit down," he said. "I'm going to find you a drink."

"No. No, thank you. I'll be all right."

"There hasn't been any. . .any kind of accident?"

She shook her head.

"No. It wasn't that kind of bad news. . ."

"I'm going to find you a drink," he said again. "But not down here. You must go back to bed, and I'll bring one up to you."

He led her silently up the stairs and left her in her room. Then he found his way to the dining room. There was nothing to be found there, but in the kitchen there was wine, and with a glass in his hand, he went back to Miss Seton's room and, knocking softly, entered and closed the door.

His voice and movements were hushed. Maurice Tarrant's room was on one side, Mr. Holt's on the other. He hoped that they were not light sleepers.

She took the glass, drank the wine and lay back in bed.

"Thank you. That was kind of you," she said.

★ ★ ★

"I'm sorry you've had bad news." He gave her an anxious look. "Is there nothing I can do?"

"You won't mention to anybody that I. . .that I was rung up?"

"Of course not."

"Would you light my candle for me please?"

He lit it and then, as there seemed nothing more he could do, he went back to his room and lay in the darkness wondering what she had heard and who had relayed the bad news.

He knew that something had shaken her badly, and he admired the way in which she had kept her control.

Would she, he wondered, leave the coach and return to England? She would scarcely be in a mood to continue the journey.

JOB GETTING TOUGH

Dawn was breaking before he fell asleep. When he awoke, the view was before him, and he got out of bed and looked at it—but it was an absent look. His mind was on what had happened in the early hours of the morning.

Miss Seton in trouble. Lord Lorrimer depressed, Maurice Tarrant an unknown quantity, this job wasn't going to be so easy, after all.

According to his instructions, Angus's first duty each morning was to see the driver and assure himself that the night had passed without incident. On his way to seek out Ferdy, however, he paused at Miss Seton's door.

It was still early, too early, he felt, to knock and ask how she was feeling. As he stood hesitating, the door of her room opened and a maid came out carrying a tray.

In the room, already dressed, was Miss Seton. Seeing Angus, she came to the door to speak to him, and he saw that although she was pale and had heavy shadows under her eyes, her manner was perfectly calm.

★ ★ ★

"Good morning. I came along to see how you were," he said.

"I'm a little tired, but that's all. Thank you for being so kind last night."

"This morning," he corrected. "Why didn't you have a long rest in bed? We're not starting until eleven."

"I wanted to get out of doors. I feel better outside — and I'd like some exercise. I'll go for a walk, but I'll be back in time to pack."

"Sure there's nothing I can do?"

"Nothing, thank you. I'm perfectly all right."

SOMETHING ON GROUND

Relieved, he went on to find Ferdy, and came upon him at last at the door of the garage. His stout form was bent forward and he seemed to be studying some object on the ground.

As Angus approached, he straightened and indicated the spot at which he had been staring.

"Morning, sir. Care to come and look at this?"

Angus, puzzled, approached and looked down at the place, but saw nothing that could account for Ferdy's interest.

"Anything wrong?" he asked.

"Nothing, sir—but there might have been, if I hadn't been sleeping near by."

"Prowlers?"

"I think so, sir. I heard someone trying the bolts. If you look close, you'll see footmarks on the ground."

★ ★ ★

Angus frowned.

"What time was this?"

"About five o'clock it was, sir. Something woke me—I sleep light—and I listened for a bit, and then I heard someone having a go at the bolts.

"That didn't worry me, they're strong, and I didn't think it'd be long before they found out how strong, and gave up trying.

"But I wanted to get a look at who it was, and so I nipped out of bed and waited by the window, thinking I'd see 'em as they went by.

"But I picked the wrong window, he hopped off the long way 'round. I didn't get a look at him—or them."

HE'D TAKE 'EM ON

Longing came into his voice. "If we were staying one more night, sir, I'd wait up and take a swipe." He gave Angus a belligerent glare, squared his shoulders and thumped a chest as hard as iron.

"I've been in some scraps in m'time, sir, and a driver-mechanic's job isn't as soft as people think. I'm in good fighting trim and I'd hand out more than I took."

"Why didn't you come and call me?"

Ferdy was obviously on the point of stating that he could take on all comers without aid, but there was no time to say so. The Admiral, with Angela by his side, had strolled into view and stopped beside them.

"Good morning," said Angela. "We're looking for breakfast."

Angus's eyes rested on her. The morning was sunny, but cold, and she was wearing a light woolen coat in a shade of pale yellow that he had hitherto believed unbecoming to a blonde.

He saw that he had been mistaken. Against the colors of the garden—the pale and tender green of spring, the deeper green of pine, the purple of lilac—she made a picture he did not think he would easily forget.

★ ★ ★

The Admiral's booming voice recalled him.

"Came down to try to get somethink to eat," he said

"Wasn't breakfast taken up to your room, sir?" asked Angus.

"If you call it breakfast. When you said breakfast last night, I thought you meant breakfast, but all they brought up was a gill of coffee and a couple of those crescent-shaped pastry affairs and a thimbleful of apricot jam." He shuddered. "Might do for a woman."

"It didn't do for me," said Angela. "I polished it off and came down to get something solid to eat."

Angus led them to the dining room, where they found Mr. Holt at a long table, eating the hearty breakfast he had ordered the night before.

The cloud passing from his face, the Admiral took his place between Angela and Angus, opened his large starched table napkin and spread it on his knees.

When Angus had twice bent to pick it up from the floor, the old man tucked it under his chin and bent to do justice to a good meal.

Angus, watching Angela, found himself correcting another theory, that women merely pecked at some toast in the morning. She ate almost as much as the admiral, and in half the time.

There was not, at first, much conversation. After a time the admiral, pouring himself out his third cup of coffee, referred to the scene he had witnessed earlier.

"When we came up to you," he said to Angus, "I thought that driver fellow looked angry. Any hanky-panky during the night?"

★ ★ ★

"None, sir." Angus assured him. "Somebody tried the garage bolts, that's all."

"And didn't get in, eh?"

"No. I gather from the driver that there's often a certain amount of local curiosity concerning the Empresses."

Well, there's a lot of stuff in them that I expect some people would like to get their hands on," said the Admiral. "They're expensively fitted out. The tires are worth a packet, and I daresay a few of those engine parts would come in handy. Did the driver get a look at the chap?"

"Unfortunately not."

"Fortunately not," corrected Mr. Holt. "I bet he can use his fists."

"So can you, can't you?" said the admiral to Angus. "Didn't I hand you a trophy some years ago, at Dartmouth?"

REMEMBERS ANGUS

"You did, sir. It wasn't strictly deserved, my fast two opponents went down with mumps."

"I remember you." There was no compliment in the words, except to the admiral's powers of memory.

"Placed you at once. I'm sorry you're out of the service. How long is it now?"

"Two years, sir."

"What've you been doing since?" asked Mr. Holt.

"Looking for a job, mostly."

The admiral looked shocked.

"What? Young fella like you with a Naval training behind him—"

★ ★ ★

"There were office jobs," explained Angus, "but I suppose it was the Naval training that made them seem rather cramping.

"If you start in an office, you can go on in one, but after nearly nine years in the Navy, I wanted to get something with a bit of moving about, if I could."

'And did you?" the admiral wanted to know.

"I think so. This oil job seems to involve a certain amount of work away from a desk."

"Good pay?" inquired Mr. Holt, with a friendly interest that made Angus smile.

"Eventually, I hope."

The door opened, and Maurice Tarrant came into the room and stood looking at them. Early as it was, he seemed to be in his usual high spirits.

"Why didn't I get invited to this party?" he demanded.

'SHOULD BE MORE DISCREET'

"I heard you ordering your breakfast last night," Angela told him. "You asked for a huge one."

"That's what's wrong with these old buildings," complained Maurice. "Sounds carry. Take last night—or rather, take the early hours of this morning.

"Creak, creak, creak on the stairs, and cautious knocks on doors and candles flickering on landings." He clicked his tongue reproachfully. "People ought to be more discreet."

"Who," asked the admiral, "was walking about the house?"

"If Angus knew, he wouldn't tell us," said Maurice. "And that," he added coolly, "is why I took the trouble to get up to look."

★ ★ ★

Angus started at him, a frown gathering on his brow.

"You—"

"Now, now, now," said Maurice soothingly. "Don't I know that boys will be boys, but I had to find out who the girls were."

"And if you found out," said Angela, "I hope you'll have the decency to keep it to yourself."

"Cross my heart," said Maurice. The admiral rose.

"Any objection to my going along to talk to the driver?" he asked Angus. "I'd like to hear exactly what happened."

NO OBJECTION

Angus had no objection to make, and Maurice looked after the admiral thoughtfully as he went out.

"What's he going to see the driver for?" he inquired.

"Somebody tried the garage bolts last night," said Mr. Holt.

"No—really?" said Maurice. "I must look into this."

He followed the admiral out of the room, and Mr. Holt stood hesitating for a moment. Then he gave a slightly malicious smile.

"You two won't mind," he asked, "if I go with them and leave you alone?"

"We won't mind at all," said Angela. "But if we're going to be alone, we'll go out of doors. Come on, Angus."

★ ★ ★

The three went out of the room. Mr. Holt walked in the direction of the garage, and Angela led Angus toward the road.

"Is there time for a walk?" she asked.

"A short one."

"Then let's go through the village. I like looking at all the little shops."

He walked beside, wondering, as they went, what had become of Lionel Yule. She answered the unspoken question.

"My father's working, and Lionel's with him. A bit hard to have to work on the journey—but then you're working too," she remembered. "Are you enjoying it?"

"Yes. Are you?"

"Of course. Were you angry with Maurice just now?"

"I thought he was talking a little too much."

"Yes . . . but I don't think he always knows what he's talking about."

"I think he does."

She threw him a glance.

"You don't like him?"

He hesitated and saw her quick frown. She stopped and faced him, and the owner of the chacuniere outside which they had halted prepared to receive them, but they did not notice him.

"You can't talk to me about the passengers, because you're a courier—is that it?" she demanded.

"Something like that."

"For goodness sake," she said slowly, "can't you get off your high horse?"

He frowned.

"I'm on one?"

★ ★ ★

"Of course. You're trying to be the perfect courier, and you're overdoing it, just as you overdid the no-more-Navy decision. Why? You're simply doing this job to fill in time, so why not relax and have fun—with me?"

"I'm being paid to look after the passengers," he pointed out, "not to amuse myself with the prettiest girl aboard. Besides—"

Once more, he paused. She turned and walked slowly on, and he fell into step beside her. When they had walked in silence for some time, she glanced up at him.

"I'm still waiting," she said.

"For what?"

"For the end of the sentence. I know what the end of it is, but if I don't make you say it yourself, you'll remain as you are, stiff and stand-offish, and we shall never get any further."

HAVE AN AUDIENCE

She took his hand and swung him round to face her. A small boy carrying loaves a yard long paused to study them. Two women with baskets on their arms came to a standstill and gave them curious glances.

The baker stared from his doorway, but Angus and Angela were conscious only of one another.

"Why would it be a good thing?" she asked. "It would be a bad thing to like me and be afraid to say so." She gave his arm a little shake.

"You've got to get out of this mood, Angus. You've got to pull yourself out of this My-whole-life-was-the-Navy-and-now-my-life-is-ended mood.

"You've got to — got to throw off this fit of the sulks." She saw his face whiten, and went swiftly on. "Because that's all it is, dearest Angus, and you've got to — got to see it.

★ ★ ★

"It was hellishly bad luck, but it happens to other people all the time, and they have to put it behind them and just go on without dragging it behind them all the time — as you're doing."

"I—"

"Wait, please! Everybody knows it. All your old friends know it. Oliver knows it. I know it. Your friends have tried to pull you out of it, but you wouldn't be pulled.

"You've avoided them, and you've avoided Oliver. And now I've caught up with you, and I'm not going to sit for the next week or more watching you avoiding me. Unless, of course, you loathe me and don't want to see me. Do you? Do you loathe me, I mean?"

He stared at her, all the misery of the past two years in his face.

"Do you?" she persisted. "Do let's have this out, Angus; it may be our only chance for the whole of the trip. Do you like me at all? Please . . . please tell me!"

'YOU'RE WHAT I WANT'

"You . . . you represent, for me," he said speaking with difficulty, "everything I want in the world. You — or do I mean somebody like you?

"No; you. You, and all you mean, somebody I could have grown up with; somebody who knew me and the men round me, somebody who talks my language, who knows the people and the things I never thought I'd have to give up.

"I didn't sulk, I tried — God knows how hard — to make a new life on the fringe of the old one. Everybody was kind.

"Everyone knew someone who knew someone who was going to give me a job — the kind of job I wanted. And that's all it ever came to.

"People wanted to help, but everything . . . came to nothing. The months went by and I was still out of a job and people were still promising to find me one.

★ ★ ★

"I got one or two on my own, but they led nowhere except to a life spent at a desk in a city. So I looked further — and that's the whole story."

"Not the whole story. Why do you leave out all the things that make a story interesting? Why leave out me, for instance? Would you believe me if I told you that I'd adored you from the moment I saw you?"

He smiled, his eyes warm with gratitude.

"You're sweet, but . . . no. No, I wouldn't." "Ask my father. It's true. You were . . . if you laugh, I'll kill you . . . you represented my ideal man. You were tall and strong and breath-takingly handsome, and I couldn't I just couldn't believe that we wouldn't get together — one day.

"But you didn't even notice me! Oliver knew how I felt, but he would have died before he'd have done anything to help me to get hold of you. He thought you were much, much too good for me. And I waited, feeling certain that I'd catch up with you in time.

"But . . . you left the Navy, and we lost you. Oliver tried to keep in touch with you, but you made it very difficult for him.

"But I was still sure — I still had a feeling we'd meet. And then . . . I got on the coach, and there you were."

'IT'S GOOD HEARING'

She paused. "I suppose you think I shouldn't be telling you this?"

"Perhaps you shouldn't — but it's good hearing." He smiled. "Are you always so impulsive?"

"Impulsive?" She considered. "No. No, I'm not impulsive at all, I might rush at things, but only when I've made quite certain that I want them.

"And I only rush if rushing's necessary. Don't forget that we really know one another quite well, even if we haven't often met."

Alabama Store Owners' Delight

Give Unsold Toys to Children

AUTAUGAVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Christmas week, 1930, the year the big depression hit Autaugaville, was a painful week for Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pearson, who operated a general merchandise store.

★ ★ ★

The Pearsons had laid in a stock of Christmas toys, candy and fruits. But the parents who came to their store that week bought only flour, bacon and other foods—or shoes if they had any money left.

★ ★ ★

The toys gathered dust on the shelves even though children tugged at their parents' overalls and faded coats.

Edward and Ercille Pearson agreed then that whatever was left over after Christmas would be given away.

Many a family heard an unexpected knock the day after that Christmas.

Many a child who had pretended gaiety at finding an apple and a stick of candy and nothing else in his Christmas stocking laughed with joy as the Pearsons loaded him with gifts.

It has happened every Dec. 26 since then.

The Pearsons' day after Christmas giving that first year was confined to homes at Autaugaville. Now they cover a 10-mile radius.

★ ★ ★

Their home is crowded with boxes of toys and other presents long before Dec. 26, because the Pearsons decided that leftovers were not enough.

The giving will begin on the lawn of the Pearson home. Then the Pearsons and friends will drive into the countryside where signs designate some 60 stations at which they will distribute more gifts, reaching perhaps 1,200 persons, old and young.

When the Pearsons are gone the tradition will continue. Their three children will carry on the annual custom.

Lots of Concentration

Pens, Typewriters Fly in Jackson Prison Cells

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson is living up to its reputation as the writingest prison in the world." State corrections authorities are pleased.

"When someone is spending the evening working on a story, he can't get into mischief," observed Gordon Fuller, Prison Director of Individual Treatment.

Fuller estimated yesterday that 2,500 of the institution's 6,000 inmates are full or part-time writers of one description or another.

What do they write?

★ ★ ★

"Everything," says Fuller, "we've got feature writers, gag writers, song writers, novelists and cartoonists, to name a few fields."

Lew York, pen-name of a lifer, had a book published a few years ago titled "Big House Banter." This year inmate Gordon Shelley published the story of his life: "I Take the Rap."

Many prisoners get journalistic experience by working on the Spectator, a weekly paper once cited by editors of other penal institution papers as the "nation's leading prison weekly."

★ ★ ★

A four-man manuscript committee of inmates, set up by former Corrections Commisioner Earnest C. Brooks in 1951, aids and encourages inmates to write.

The committee also censors articles sent to outside magazine editors for possible publication.

This tedious task formerly had to be done by the superintendent of the prison school — an almost impossible job for one busy man.

"The writing program has produced tremendous benefits," said Fuller.

"The men take great pride in creating something that's printed outside. Even a $5 sale is a big thing. Then, too, the men can send the extra money they earn home to help take care of their families."

Two members of the manuscript committee, lifers Frank Siple and Floyd Hurl, broadcast a weekly program of writing and marketing tips over the prison network radio.

Siple, 65, has had extensive broadcasting experience and has sold hundreds of manuscripts from prison as a free-lance writer.

Their program—"Writers Forum of the Air" — is awaited eagerly each Monday evening by prisoners with the journalistic urge.

Unfortunately, the only way an "outsider" could get to hear it would be to commit a felony and be sentenced to Southern Michigan Prison.

Chicago School Fire Claims 93rd Victim

CHICAGO (AP) — The fire which swept through the Our Lady of the Angeles parochial school Dec. 1 has claimed its 93rd victim. Little Susan Smaldone died Monday night.

★ ★ ★

Susan, 9, suffering from burns covering 85 per cent of her body, had been on the critical list at St. Anne's Hospital since the holocaust which claimed the lives of 90 pupils and three nuns. Forty children still are hospitalized. Five are in critical condition.

★ ★ ★

Mayor Richard J. Daley Monday asked the City Council to pass an ordinance requiring sprinkler systems be installed in all institutions of two stories or more with wooden floors by Jan. 1, 1960.

Stolen TV Set Doesn't Give a Good Picture

DETROIT (AP)—David Barton, 30, told police he was watching a late movie on television when he fell asleep.

When he awoke, the room was dark and he thought the picture tube had burned out.

He turned on a room light and found the $300 set had been stolen.

Peaceful Atom Fought Good Fight, but War Atom Hogged Spotlight

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Atoms for war topped atoms for peace in the headlines of 1958.

East and West tested nuclear weapons at the fastest pace ever while calling on each other to stop.

The peaceful atom fought a good fight. But the warlike atom hogged the spotlight.

—After her biggest and dirtiest test series, Russia said she would test no more if the West would follow suit.

—The West went ahead with its scheduled tests. The United States fired about 51 in two crowded series, the British four.

—Britain and America then offered to stop for a year if the Russians would do the same and start negotiations for a policed permanent test ban.

—The Russians resumed testing but agreed to negotiate. They shot off 14 tests, including seven of giant size.

—The test ban negotiations started at Geneva amid prophecies of failure. As though to underline the gloomy forecasts the Russians staged two more tests.

This brought the all-time score to about 154 for the U.S., 71 for Russia and 21 for the United Kingdom.

The Russian tests presumably refined warheads for intermediate range and intercontinental missiles and added to the variety of nuclear weapons in the Soviet arsenal.

The U.S. tests included two high altitude shots of anti-missile warheads, four underground explosions, one of which escaped detection, and nine weapons equal in power to less than 1,000 tons of TNT.

The biggest U.S. explosions were hydrogen weapons substantially cleansed of radioactivity; the smallest were tiny warheads for small field weapons and demolition kits.

Succes of the test-ban talks would prevent perfection of the "small, clean" H-bomb toward which U.S. weaponeers had been striving. It might also jeopardize Project Plowshare.

Plowshare is a U.S. program to develop peacetime uses of "atomic dynamite" to blast harbors, create underground reservoirs of water, heat, and useful radioactive materials, and stimulate oil and minerals production.

U.S. officials hope Russia and the rest of the world will sanction 10 or a dozen Plowshare shots, starting next summer, to prove that atomic explosions can accomplish good instead of evil.

The atom as a driving force moved ahead in 1958. The United States built a test reactor for Project Rover to develop nuclear rockets. First flight test of an atomic space engine conceivably could come in 1965.

After spending 850 million dollars in 13 years, the United States was close to success in harnessing the atom to drive airplanes.

★ ★ ★

At year's end five U.S. atomic submarines were operating and 17 new sub engines were being built. Two submarines cruised under the North Pole.

Land-based atom engines for large surface ships were being tested. The keel of the first atomic merchant ship, the Nuclear Ship Savannah, was laid.

★ ★ ★

A congressional expert predicted that Russia would have a large atom sub fleet caable of launching a devastating attack on the United States by the early 1960s.

Another expert said Russia may beat the United States into the air with a nuclear powered plane.

Development of atomic power plants for cities and industry also made headway in 1958. By 1980 the atom is expected to supply 10 per cent of this country's power.

A 60,000 kilowatt power plant was dedicated at Shippingport, Pa. Four civilian power plants were under construction and 11 were planned. Seven experimental power reactors were oerating during the year.

Britain, which started up the world's first atom power plant in 1957 projected the world's biggest —a 650,000-kilowatt plant in Suffolk. She plans six other large ones.

Russia is building a 600,000-kilowatt power station. One 100,000-kilowatt unit already is operating.

The United States, meanwhile, has underwritten a 35-million dollar project by the six Euratom nations to build nuclear power plants totaling one million kilowatts in capacity by 1963.

Britain beat America to the jump in an international race for the free world's atomic power business. Ground was broken for a power plant to be built with British help 70 miles south of Rome.

General Electric Co., however, kept the competition going by landing a job to build a 150,000-kilowatt station in Punta Fiume, Italy.

$250-a-Box Candies for President, Royalty

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — Open letter to sweet (toothed) little ladies everywhere who make homemade Christmas candies and give them away free. . .

Dear lovable dupe:

Have you ever thought of making money as well as friends?

Then take the advice of an expert in the matter of old-fashioned homemade candies, and be chary with the charity.

There may be gold in them thar caramels. And minks in the chocolate covered maraschinos.

I don't know what the confections situation is in your town, of course, but in New York there is a great deal of "Candy Snobbery" at Christmas season. The queen of the C. S. clan is Madelyn Hoey, a chic little woman who turns out sweets in her own little kitchen from 75-year-old recipes and sends them to such clients as President Eisenhower, Queen Elizabeth, Wally Windsor and, as she puts it, "anyone who is anything."

★ ★ ★

The average price is $4 a pound, but nobody who is anything orders their pounds in plain gold boxes.

Mrs. Hoey also is an art collector. She often sends her candies out in such receptacles as Tiffany crystal bowls and old Limoges and Wedgwood dishes, which boosts the ante to as much as $250 a half-pound.

I went to call on Mrs. H. at her "Nut Kitchen" in the swanky east 60's, after hearing she was putting together an order for the White House. I found the show window laden with oriental vases —not a crunchy goodie in sight— and the blinds drawn and the door locked.

After two rings, the lady admitted me. "Frankly," she whispered, "we have to discourage business at Christmas time. We don't want people coming in with little orders. This candy is like a pearl—I can't bear to put it in a paper bag."

★ ★ ★

The air was sweet with the aroma of candying apricots, and the only customer was a furswathed woman with a social register in her hand. Mrs. Hoey explained that she was not a candy snob herself ("I don't even eat candy," she said, "weight-conscious"), but that the snob appeal of the drawn shade and the locked door is limitless.

She told the story of how she got into the business. An art connoiseur, she was looking for a shop to display her goods, back in 1947. In despair, she learned that Mrs. Sophie Plumbridge was ready to sell out her famous (founded in 1833) candy business and retire.

"I wanted the showroom," she remembered. "Miss Sophie would not sell unless I promised to continue the business. I was desperate. For three months, she taught me how to make candies—rapping me on the knuckles when I made mistakes."

★ ★ ★

At the end of the apprentice period, Mrs. Hoey was left with her art treasures, her shop, and a "Customer List" that includes not only the wealthiest names in America, but the crowned and uncrowned heads of Europe.

She showed the package she is sending to the President. It is a glazed cardboard "catch-all" cabinet, eight inches high, with drawersful of fruits, nuts and Plumbridge's succulent specialty, pecan caramels. "Sweet," she said. "Only a $25.90 package."

Remembering my own mother's delectable Christmas caramels, which she gave away for smiles, I wondered why more homemade candy ladies don't make money from their art. Then I remembered the lowered shade and the locked door. She'd never stand for it.

★ ★ ★

Some women just have no snob sense at all!

What a Year! Dog Steals Car, House Runs Away

CHICAGO (UPI) — A runaway house . . . a hot-rodding puppy . . . and a trigger-happy sun.

They're all included in the National Safety Council's roundup of 1958's odd accidents—the not-so-serious mishaps that brought chuckles to everyone except those involved.

S. H. Burden, Knoxville, Tenn., was moving his house up an incline and roped it to a stump. A minute later he was fleeing for his life. The rope had broken, freeing the house, which clobbered Burden and broke his arm.

When a neighbor's car drove smoothly onto William Zaring's front lawn in Indianapolis, Zaring leaped into the car and jammed on the brakes. Then he turned to berate the driver—and found himself face-to-face with the neighbor's dog.

★ ★ ★

On a stifling summer day in Marathon, Tex., hunter Jack Lourie stretched out on his station wagon's mattress for a quick snooze. He was violently awakened when the sun's rays, passing through a gallon bottle of water, set the mattress afire, exploding a box of shotgun shells.

All was calm a minute later, though, when one of the shells smashed the water bottle, dousing the fire.

★ ★ ★

Other oddities recounted by the safety council's magazine "Traffic Safety," included:

"Comedian Bob Hope's brother, Jack, was an hour early to a scheduled get-together with Navy Chief Petty Officer Leroy Thomas when their cars collided on the way to the meeting.

—The Marine, Ill., fire department's float in the town's homecoming parade was a model of realistic display. It caught fire.

—Eleven-year-old Tommy Kline of Three Rivers, Mich., had a ready excuse when his bicycle hit a moving car. Said Tommy: "I fell asleep at the handlebars."

—Army Sgt. Joe Palacio snapped to a salute at Fort Huachuca, Ariz., and dislocated his shoulder.

—And George McCurdy, 81, fell and broke his knee—while cutting a rug at a dance sponsored by the Safety Always Club.

Santa Seeking Present for State: Return of Liquor

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A minister failed to have Santa Claus tossed in jail.

Santa, or Joe B. Hyden as he is known outside his costume, is circulating a petition calling for repeal of Oklahoma's whisky prohibition law.

★ ★ ★

The Rev. W. E. Cook, a Baptist, said it didn't seem right to him for Santa to be looking for signatures boosting booze. Police told the pastor he would have to find a law that Santa was violating before he could sign a complaint.

Ask Her for Your Money

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: While shopping about a month and a half ago, a friend of mine borrowed five dollars, saying she would return it soon. I know she had every intention of returning it, but has forgotten all about it. I see her often but she has not spoken of it. Would it be all right for me to remind her of it, and how?"

Answer: This situation would be awkward were the borrower merely an acquaintance. But since you say she is a very intimate friend, you should be able to say frankly, "By the way, Mary, do you remember you borrowed five dollars at such and such a time?"

"Dear Mrs. Post: Recently my niece went to a high school dance. This was her first dance and she went with a boy. Many of the girls bought boutonnieres for their boy friends. I told my niece I didn't think it was correct to do this, so she didn't.

"Later she told me she was embarrassed because so many of the girls had given the boys boutonnieres. Is this some new fad? I've never known girls to buy flowers for boys, except at a "Turn-about Dance." Maybe I'm behind the times."

Answer: Ordinarily she would certainly not be expected to give the boy a boutonniere, but if it is the local custom of her school for the girls to do so, she should follow their example.

"Dear Mrs. Post: The invitations to my wedding were sent out several weeks ago, but at the last minute the wedding had to be postponed. Several of the guests had sent replies before the invitations were recalled. I would like to know if those who sent regrets the first time should be sent a second invitation?"

Answer: If they were friends whom you feel would have wanted to come had they been able to, then yes. If they were only acquaintances, no.

But Duck Soup for Railway Express

Hippo Is Hard Gift to Package

NEW YORK (UPI) — You think you have Christmas package problems. What if you had to ship a hippo or a giraffe?

★ ★ ★

Yet these and other rather hard-to-wrap gifts are among those handled during Yule season by Railway Express men who, like the postmen, seem to get the job done despite the odds. A visit to Railway Express general headquarters here to see what people are shipping leaves one agape.

1,200-POUND SURPLUS

Now the man who gave the hippo had an express purpose — it was surplus at the Central Park Zoo in New York, and the children of Denver were without one. So A. E. Johnson, a Denver oil executive, bought "Bertie," a mere infant of 28 months although he already weighs 1,200 pounds.

★ ★ ★

Bertie, in wooden crate with identifying photograph on the outside, made the trip to his new habitat in 42 hours, coddled all the way because the New York shippers warned that "He has never been away from home before and is bound to be lonesome. He won't need any food; just a drink of water."

"We handle thousands of animals each year," said E. Boykin Hartley, vice president in charge of traffic. "The heaviest load is in December." He said the company has shipped dozens of types of animals from giraffes to flying squirrels, but burros and deodorized skunks are favorites for Christmas giving.

Burros used to be a problem — they chew up their destination tags. But a savvy expressman thought of putting the tags in small tin cans.

★ ★ ★

In December, Hartley said, the company handles some 16 million packages or 69 per cent more than the volume in any other month. It ships diamond bracelets as casually as rhinestones. This Christmas it shipped a $15,000 mink coat to an Iranian princess.

GIFT-WRAPPED COAL

Once it handled a basket of anthracite coal lumps — with each lump individually gift wrapped — from a grandmother in Carbondale, Pa., to her grand-kiddies in Cleveland. The children were lonesome for a touch of home as they knew it at grandma's.

★ ★ ★

Last year the company got a call to pick up a package at a New York address. The truck driver arrived to find the customer lived in a third floor walkup. He lumbered up the stairs, and the woman asked immediately: "Did you bring a helper?" She pointed to a foot locker-size carton on the floor.

"Lady, I can handle that," said the expressman. But when he tried to lift the package, he called his assistant.

★ ★ ★

"Ma'am," he said, "I don't know what's in there, but it feels like rocks."

"That is just what it is," she said. "Its a special collection I'm shipping my daughter for her rock garden."

Dear Abby . . .

How Can Child Learn Peace When TV Films Play Up War?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

ABBY

"DEAR ABBY: I think something should be done about the cowboy programs on television with 100 lynchings a day and 50 shootings in five minutes. Is this the way to entertain children? The monster pictures showing the earth being destroyed and people dying by the millions should also be outlawed.

"Life has become very complicated for a mother these days, Abby. We try to teach our children to strive toward a peaceful world full of love and respect for our fellow man but the competition from TV shows is stronger than we are. Isn't there something we can do about it?" OMEGA

DEAR OMEGA: If enough people protest, some action could result, but all one mother can do is turn off her own television set.

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are separated and we are getting a divorce. I am expecting a baby in about two months. My husband wants me to give my engagement and wedding rings back to him. I think that as long as I am going to have a baby I should be allowed to keep the rings so people will know that I have been married and the baby is legitimate.

"He said he doesn't want to have to buy another set in case he got married again. also I would like to know how I am supposed to announce the birth of the baby as we are almost divorced." LIBBY

DEAR LIBBY: Give him the engagement ring and tell him that you'd like to keep the wedding band for the reason you mentioned. Under the circumstances, I don't recommend any formal birth announcement.

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: There is a man in town who is a mighty fine catch. He's never been been married and brags that he's never going to be. He says that he's had a girl with every good-looking woman in town—before they were married, and a few after. He says they tell him he makes their husbands look like bums. You can't point at a good-looking girl but what he hasn't been out with her. I mean from 16 to 60. Even the good-lookers with gray hair are included. What do you make of him?" EDITH

DEAR EDITH: Either he's a heck of a man or he's a heck of a liar!

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: Last evening I had my girlfriend over for dinner and my mother had the nerve to tell her to take her elbows off the table! My mother can be very sweet when she wants to be, but when she's in a bad mood she takes it out on me and my friends. How can I get my mother to be nicer to my friends? I was so embarrassed."

EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: When your mother is in a good mood, ask her please not to correct your friends. But if she does, explain later to your friend about your mother's "moods." If she has a mother of her own, I'm sure she'll understand.

"DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been planning our "Dream House" for over six years. I showed our plans to my sister-in-law (my husband's sister) and they broke ground before we did, and do you know that woman stole my floor plan! I didn't realize what was happening until I went over there and looked around.

"When the realization hit me, I had to have the doctor for my nerves. My husband says we will have to change our plans now because we don't want it said that we copied them. THEY copied US! I say we should go ahead and use our plans anyway. What would you do? COPIED

DEAR COPIED: Imitation is the most sincere form of flattery. If I were you, I'd go right ahead and build my house as planned.

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: I have three boys. They are 3, 2 and six months old. The 3-year-old teases the 2-year-old and makes him scream. This goes on from dawn till dusk and drives me crazy. I am busy enough taking care of the baby and every time I hear that shrill scream I have to run to them to see who's getting murdered. For a while I punished the older one, figuring it was his fault, but I found the younger one screaming for nothing. I can't be with them every minute. Can anybody tell me what to do?"

GOING CRAZY

DEAR GOING: Simple: Keep the boys in separate rooms. If they get lonesome, put them back together again. If there is any screaming, separate them again to teach them that if they want to be together, they'd better behave.

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: My daughter told me that her boy friend is going to give her a ring at Easter time. They've gone together for three years, off and on. They broke up several times, but have always gotten back together again. Some of our relatives are coming to visit around the first of the year. I would like to give a sort of "pre-engagement" party for the couple but don't know if it would be proper since she doesn't have her ring yet. Have you any suggestions?"

HAPPY MOTHER

DEAR HAPPY: Don't count your chickens before they're hitched!

Diet, Exercise, Tension

Proper Heart Care Three Way

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Research and various studies have placed the finger of suspicion on several factors in heart trouble. While this problem is still far from solved, we should take advantage of these suspect elements in the picture.

In some instances diet certainly seems to affect the picture. In one fairly recent study 95 per cent of the coronary cases had the habit of eating more than the average amount of fat. While present information is not conclusive, it does suggest that we could, with profit, cut down some on our fat intake.

The amount of fat in the average diet has increased in recent years, along with heart attacks. Then, too, most of us must fight obesity as we grow older so a little less fat won't hurt us.

To me it is interesting to note that there has been a definite correlation made between times of stress and heart disease. Many studies have shown that a great majority of those who were investigated had been under strain for varying lengths of time before the occurrence of heart trouble.

It also has been demonstrated that emotional stress increases the cholesterol content of the blood, and it is known to be true that it contracts the blood vessels.

EXERCISE GOOD

Inheritance seems to play a less important role although there is some evidence that it may in some instances play a part. The conviction has been growing that exercise is good for the heart rather than bad for it.

Of course this doesn't mean that you should take exercise which is too strenuous for you because of your age or physical condition. However, it does seem that the sedentary life may promote hardening of the blood vessels.

Also more folks die in their sleep than as a direct result of exercise.

So I suppose the sensible measures we should take are to keep our weight at the ideal, to exercise sensibly and regularly, to avoid emotional tension as much as possible, and cut down some on our fat intake.

Frozen Dessert Studded With Candied Fruits

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Home Editor

An unusual holiday dessert is a Frozen Rum Pudding. If you prefer not to use rum, rum flavoring may be substituted and the fruit may be soaked in orange juice.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Kenneth Anderson sent us the recipe. We know Mrs. Anderson as a busy mother who enjoys homemaking. She is active in Extension work and civic affairs.

FROZEN RUM PUDDING

By Mrs. Kenneth Anderson

1 cup candied fruit
2 tablespoons dark rum or orange juice
2½ cups milk
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 cup whipping cream
¼ cup broken nut meats

Soak fruit in rum or orange juice for 3 hours in a covered dish. Make a custard of milk, sugar and eggs. Beat cream stiff and fold into cooled custard. Add fruit and, if used, teaspoon rum flavoring. Add nuts.

Freeze in ice cube trays for one hour or until set. Have refrigerator at coldest setting. Remove from trays and beat with a fork. Return to trays and freeze again.

If He Loves You He'll Stick Around

By RUTH MILLETT

She is 19 years old, and just about has made up her mind to quit school, marry a college sophomore and go to work to support both of them until he finishes his education.

Her parents don't like the idea but she is sure that I'll see things her way and she asks me to convince her parents that she is in the right.

I can't, because I don't believe she is. Sure, she could quit school and put her husband through. It's being done these days.

But in order to marry at 19 she is giving up her own chance for a college education, a chance she will probably never get again.

At 19 why the big rush to get married? Why not wait until she and her husband both have their educations? Is it because she is afraid if she doesn't marry him now she'll lose him?

EQUAL EDUCATION

If so, she can't be very sure of his love. If she is sure that he loves her then she can be sure that he'll love her three years from now when both are through school and ready to begin their marriage with an equal educational background.

There is another point for her to consider and to consider carefully. If she does quit school to support the marriage while her husband is a student is he going to think more of her for sacrificing her own opportunity for him?

Or will be take it all for granted, and expect her to always be the one to make the sacrifices for the marriage?

There's not much sense in a girl's working to educate a husband when she could be getting an education at the same time for the small price of putting off marriage until after graduation.

Warm Bathtubs Lead Clean Path to Detroit Judge

DETROIT (AP) — Peter G. Griggs, 53, was taken to recorder's court after he was found sleeping in a bathtub on the sixth floor of a hotel.

★ ★ ★

Hotel manager Mrs. Ella Payton told Judge W. McKay Skillman she had ordered Griggs out of five other bathtubs on other floors.

"It was warm in there," Griggs told the judge.

"You'd be in pretty bad shape if somebody turned on the water," replied the judge.

★ ★ ★

'Oh, that's all right," said Griggs, "I always sleep with one eye open."

Thirty days for vagrancy, said Skillman.

Canadian Scientist Blasts Atlas Missile

VICTORIA, B.C. (AP) — The United States Atlas satellite now in orbit is a "rubbishy propaganda stunt," Edward Argyle, Dominion Astrophysical Observatory scientist, said Monday.

"The Atlas is a gross misrepresentation done deliberately to deceive the U.S. public," he said. "Their satellite program is still a year behind the Russians."

Argyle said the actual pay load of the Atlas is but 150 pounds and there is no scientific equipment aboard. He said the third stage of Russia's Sputnik III weighed 7,500 pounds and its payload, or the satellite which is still in orbit, weighs 3,000 pounds.

Of New Jersey's total land area, about one-sixth is classified as urban.

ARTIST'S CONCEPT — This is the finished drawing of the proposed $1,000,000 Utica Community Junior High School now under construction. It was prepared by Smith & Smith Architects of Royal Oak. The new high school, which will have 20 classrooms, a library, gymnasium and other facilities, is of unadorned multi-purpose design. There is a maximum use of standard available construction materials.

The architects said the building is being put together to suit the materials at hand rather than the other way around. Contraction economies make the cost an estimated $11.80 a square foot as compared to $15 under conventional methods. Walls are made of precast concrete panels which can be installed in 30 minutes each and will require no future maintenance. School Supt. Fred M. Atkinson said the savings are such that a quarter more of school area is anticipated than at first expected from the money.

Youths Steal $1,500 From Food Store

BIRMINGHAM — Two armed youths held up a National Food Store at 499 S. Hunter Blvd at 9 p.m., shortly after closing, last night and fled with $1,500, according to Kenneth Pantone, assistant manager of the store.

Pantone said the two young men entered the store shortly before closing time and waited until the last customer had left, and the safe was opened to put away the day's receipts. They then ordered five employes at gunpoint to lie face down behind the counter in the bakery department.

★ ★ ★

One of the holdup men handed Pantone a white canvas bag and told him to put the money into it.

The pair calmly walked out the front door with the money. Birmingham police suspect they got into a waiting car and drove away.

The pair was recalled to have entered the store earlier in the day, when they tried to cash in some beer bottles. They were refused because of their age.

However, store employes were able to give accurate descriptions of both of the young men.

★ ★ ★

The victims agreed that one of the youths is about 6 foot, one inch tall, weighing about 180 pounds and is approximately 19 to 20 years old. He had reddish blond hair and was wearing a blue trench coat and brown leather gloves.

The other youth, described as good looking, is about 5 foot, 10 inches tall, weighs approximately 160 pounds, and is probably 17 or 18 years of age. He has dark wavy hair and piercing blue eyes, and was wearing a gray tweed trench coat and lighter gray tweed pants, employes said.

Road blocks were set up, but to no avail. Police are still seaching for the two young men, and possibly a third who drove the getaway car.

Rochester Council Denies Request to Rezone Lots

ROCHESTER — The Rochester Village Council last night denied a request to rezone lots fronting on Main street from Woodward street north to the village limits by a vote of five to two.

★ ★ ★

The request asked that the lots be rezoned from single family residential to mercantile business "A." The latter classification allows for business establishments with the exception of gas stations, warehouses, tire repair shops, drive-in restaurants and the like.

It was understood that a professional building was to be built on the two vacant lots on the corner of Glendale court and Main street should the rezoning be approved.

A hearing on the proposed rezoning of this section in the north end of town was held Dec. 8. The decision was tabled until last night when final action denying the request was taken.

The council then gave tentative approved to developers of Rochester Meadows Subdivision to continue work on that project. One stipulation was made, however. That was that all sewers and water mains must be in before final approval will be given for the balance of the proposed subdivision.

Rochester Meadows is located in an area bounded on the north by Parkdale Ave., on the south by Fifth street, on the west by Baldwin Ave., and on the east by the village limits.

And finally before adjournment, Village Manager Paul York was authorized to ask for bids on two new police cars for the village.

Endow WSU With Medical Professorship

ROCHESTER — The National Foundation of Rochester has donated $30,000 to Wayne State University's College of Medicine to establish the William H. McGregor professorship in medicine.

The cash gift is intended to make it possible for the College of Medicine to attract a distinguished scholar and outstanding teacher to its faculty.

William H. McGregor was the founder of the National Twist Drill and Tool Co., now of Rochester, in 1903.

He served several terms as Wayne County clerk and was president of the Detroit Board of Education in 1898. He was instrumental in the planning and construction of old Central High School, now Wayne State's "Old Main" building.

The National Foundation of Rochester was formed by a nephew, Howard McGregor Sr., former president of National Twist Drill and Tool Co., and a grand-nephew, Howard McGregor Jr., now president of the company.

Petition Denied for Woodcroft

County Supervisors Act After Public Hearing on Incorporating Village

Supervisors of Oakland County yesterday denied a petition that the southwesterly tip of Farmington Township be incorporated as the village of Woodcroft.

★ ★ ★

Supervisors, acting after a public hearing where a poll showed only four residents in favor of the move, turned down the incorporation petition of 40 residents.

The petition was filed several months ago under the old 1895 village incorporation law which leaves the decision for such a change entirely up to the Board of Supervisors, without a public vote.

★ ★ ★

It was revealed at the Dec. 11 hearing that many of those who had signed the petitions had since changed their minds. They said they had signed for fear their area might become incorporated as part of the city of Farmington.

Orion Township firemen were called to assist the local department in battling the flames which were brought under control in about two hours.

Fandors Find Place to Live

Family of 9, Destitute After Fire, Moves Into House for Christmas

LEONARD — Things are looking up today for the Frank J. Fandor family of nine which was left destitute last Thursday when its home here was destroyed by fire.

The Fandors moved into a vacant house on Drahner road, one mile east of M24 yesterday. Now they are busy getting settled and completing plans for Christmas which had been so tragically interrupted last week.

They have their Christmas tree, saved by firemen from the burning building. The family has set up the tree again and are moving in furniture contributed by residents of Leonard and other nearby communities.

Some $200 was collected for the Fandors from individual donors, classes at Oxford High School and other community groups. The Addison Township Goodfellows gave clothing and furniture as did many of the Fandor's neighbors.

Only one of the family's seven children not in the new quarters yet is Teddy, 12-months old, who is still staying with relatives in Royal Oak. But Teddy will be home in time for Christmas, Mrs. Fandor said.

The Fandor's other six children helped with the moving yesterday. They are Sandy, 15; Skip, 14; Corky, 13; Tom, 12; Terry, 11, and Tina Marie, 2½.

The Fandor's plan to tear down the charred shell of their former home, located at 115 E. Elmwood St., and rebuild on the site. As soon as the ground thaws next spring they will start construction of a one-story, cinder block ranch house, Mr. Fandor said.

Name Manager Next Meeting

Milford to Pick Village Head From Remaining Three Applicants

MILFORD—At last night's council meeting there was further discussion on selection of a village manager and members decided to definitely name the man for the position at next week's meeting.

★ ★ ★

Registered voters approved a home rule type of government at a special election in August and the council has eliminated all but three of the 28 applicants for the $6,500-a-year position.

Due to a mistake in the plans for a proposed shopping center on North Milford road, it was necessary to return the engineer's sketches, according to Highland Realtor Richard Steele, who is representing a Detroit firm. He said the plans will be presented at next week's council meeting.

Steele has received the council's approval to level a steep hill into one of the three Ford ponds on the south side of Milford road. However, members have emphasized the fact that the area is now zoned heavy manufacturing and would have to be rezoned for any other type of business.

A comparative report on the leasing of police cars on a six-month or one-year basis has been requested and will be presented at next week's meeting for council action.

Coupon Saver's Widow Suing Tobacco Firm

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — A cigarette manufacturer was sued for $150,000 here as a result of the electrocution death of a man who acquired an electric drill by saving the company's premium coupons.

The action was filed yesterday by Mrs. Helen Robbins, Omaha, Neb. It named the Brown and Williamson Corp. as defendant. The damage suit charged the tobacco company was responsible for an alleged defect in the drill, which caused the death of Donald Robbins, 41, father of 11 children.

The Milwaukee manufacturer of the electric drill was not made a party to the action.

He suffered deep lacerations of the scalp.

★ ★ ★

Income to Drop 5-10 Pct.

Farm Costs Will Rise

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON — (NEA)—It's going to get worse down on the farm before it gets better.

The outlook for 1959 and beyond:

Over-production is going to continue. Stocks of wheat and corn will rise "to a new high" this crop year. In the years after, surpluses will grow larger at a "startling" pace.

Farm income will move down five to 10 per cent next year. Farm production costs will move up. Farm wages, taxes and seed, machinery and feeder livestock prices are mounting.

There will be increasing competition for American farm products in the world's markets.

It will be progressively more difficult for the farmer to borrow the money he needs.

★ ★ ★

That's the picture painted here at a conference of 350 farm experts from the 48 states, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia. The sessions were sponsored by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The solution, as a goodly number of delegates saw it, was straightforward:

Move four out of every five young men and women off the farms in the next 10 years. Get them to find jobs in other lines. Start pushing that movement immediately by education and persuasion.

Actually, some of the agricultural economists present saw a future on the farm for only about one out of 10 of today's farm boys and girls.

This away-from-the farm movement would only be a speedup of what has been going on in the past 40 years. Farm families slipped from a third of the population in 1920 down to an eighth in 1958.

"At that rate, it appears as though politicians won't worry about the farm vote in 1972," said one conference delegate.

★ ★ ★

There was general agreement among the assembled state, government and private agricultural men here that the small farm is going to all but disappear, that farmers are going to go further into debt, that the capital required to run a farm is going to double in the next decade, that more and more farmers are going to become contract farmers, that is, produce for a fee for canneries, meat packers and other industrial concerns which would finance and own the farmer's entire output.

There was agreement, too, as one farm man put it, "we can't eat our way out of our surpluses."

But no one had any idea — or any dividual farmer to produce less, with hope of a plan — for getting the inoutput per farm rising rapidly on the wings of scientific research.

Avon Wants 2 Roads Ruled as Secondary

AVON TOWNSHIP — The Avon Township Board met yesterday afternoon with officials of the Oakland County Road Commission to present two petitions asking that East Tienken and Harding roads be made secondary roads. The township board also made an appeal for action to be taken on Avon road, especially where a railroad crosses and a fatal truck-train accident occurred last week.

The township learned that the county road commission in cooperation with the State Public Service Commission is making a study of the road and will have a report as soon as the study is completed.

County road commissioners also said they would study the two proposals listed in the two petitions.

Affects Farmington, W. Bloomfield

DPW to Run Systems

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors yesterday authorized its Department of Public Works to take over the operation of a sewer and water system serving a subdivision in Farmington Township, and a water system serving a subdivision in West Bloomfield Township.

★ ★ ★

In both instances, the requests for the DPW to take over the two systems came from the areas concerned.

★ ★ ★

Hiland M. Thatcher, secretary of the Board of Public Works, governing body of the department, said both transitions could be made without any expense to the county. This could be done, Thatcher said, by the department levying charges to users of the systems.

★ ★ ★

To be taken over by the DPW is the sewer-water system serving the Drake Farms subdivision in Farmington Township, and the water system serving the West Bloomfield Hills subdivision in West Bloomfield Township.

NOW CAN WE OPEN THEM? — Children at the Oakland County Tuberculosis Sanatorium had their attention split two ways at their Christmas party yesterday afternoon. But it was an all around exciting occasion for them. A puppet show was put on for the youngsters by Mr. and Mrs. James Scribner of 896 Hazel St., Birmingham, and after, the children opened their gifts under the huge Christmas tree. The gifts were provided for all 25 of the youngsters by the Oakland County "Eight and Forty," Salon 224. Of course Santa Claus was on hand to wish everyone a Merry Christmas. The children's party is held each year to enable some of the youngsters to be home for Christmas Day while others will be visited at the sanatorium by their parents.

Will Giants Have New Play for Colts?

SPORTS

From the Press Box

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Bobby Layne fans are wearing justifying smiles these days.

When the final National Football League Statistics were released, the standings among quarterbacks showed Layne in 3rd place and Tobin Rote 10th.

These are the final comparative statistics between Layne and Rote this season:

	ATT.	COMP.	PCT.	YDS. GND	TD	INT.	AVE. YDS.
Layne	294	145	49.3	2510	14	12	8.54
Rote	257	118	45.9	1678	14	10	6.53

Another Lion castoff who went to the Steelers just before Layne was Tom Tracy and it is interesting to note that Tracy was the 4th best ground gainer in the NFL, behind Jimmy Brown of Cleveland, Alan Ameche of Baltimore and Joe Perry of San Francisco.

★ ★ ★

Tracy showed 714 yards in 169 carries for a 4.2 average. There wasn't a Lion runner listed among the leading ball carriers.

This is quite a tribute to "The Bomb's" running ability considering he outgained such publicized pro backs as Rick Casares, Willie Galimore, Ollie Matson and Lenny Moore.

This writer never did go for the Lions' decision to send Tom to Pittsburgh, but as Tracy himself said, "It's the best thing that happened to me."

★ ★ ★

Being a hometown product, he became quite susceptible to criticism of local sports fans. He had a great day last year in the playoff against San Francisco when he carried the ball nine times and sparked the Lions to victory.

And for those who criticized him all during the 1957 season it should be pointed out that he carried the ball only 16 times in 13 games. Eleven of these attempts came in the playoff game at San Francisco.

One could hardly say he got a real opportunity with the Lions and for those who question the speed despite his 210 pounds, it should be pointed out in sprints during the Cranbrook training camp, Tom came in well ahead of backs Gene Gedman, Hopalong Cassady and John Henry Johnson.

Danny Lewis took the honors away from Tracy when he joined the Lions after the All-Star game.

DITTOS FROM THE PRESS BOX

Two pro players who didn't mind being traded away by the Detroit Lions are Ray Krouse and Carl Karilivacz.

Krouse has been pretty lucky in his moves. He was with the Giants when they won the title. Last year he came to Detroit and the Lions took the crown.

Now he plays with Baltimore Sunday against the Giants. Three title games in three years could total to $12,000 for him.

Karilivacz, of course, is now with the Eastern Division champion Giants.

Only Handful of Baltimore Tickets Left

BALTIMORE (AP) — All but a handful of 15,000 tickets were gone Monday night as Baltimore Colts football fans besieged Memorial Stadium to buy ducats for Sunday's championship NFL game in New York.

The ticket office was still open at a late hour to handle sales to season ticket holders of the Western Division champions.

Loyal followers of the Colts started lining up at 10 p.m. Sunday night—14 hours before the box office opened at noon. By 6:15 p.m., all but about 200 were gone, said Ray Gilland, ticket manager.

If any are left over, the general public will get a crack at them Tuesday.

Spahn Captures Hurling Honors

Lefty Dominates NL Records; Stu Miller Tops in ERA

NEW YORK (AP) — Veteran southpaw Warren Spahn of Milwaukee captured most of the important pitching honors in the National League, the official 1958 averages released today showed.

Among the titles Spahn did not win was the earned run crown. That went to crafty Stu Miller, who won only six games and lost nine for San Francisco.

Spahn compiled 22 victories and shared the top spot with Bob Friend of Pittsburgh. He also tied teammate Lew Burdette for winning percentage honors with .667. Spahn had a 23-11 record, Burdette 20-10.

Warren also pitched the most complete games, 23; the most innings, 290, and faced the most batsmen, 1,176.

Miller, 30-year-old righthander, gave up 50 earned runs in 182 innings for a 2.47 ERA. His six victories was the lowest total ever posted by a major league earned run leader.

Ruklick Big Ten's Leader, Burton 7th

CHICAGO (AP) — Joe Ruklick, Northwestern's hook shot ace, has taken over the lead in the Big Ten all-games basketball scoring parade.

Ruklick has 147 points in six games for a 24.5 average. In second place is Iowa star Dave Gunther with 132 points in six games and a 22.0 average.

The leaders:

	G	TP	Avg.
Ruklick, Northwestern	6	147	24.5
Gunther, Iowa	6	132	22.0
Merriweather, Purdue	6	123	20.5
Johnson, Ron, Minnesota	6	119	19.8
Bison, Purdue	5	104	20.8
Kulas, Wisconsin	7	104	14.8
Burton, Michigan	5	94	18.8
Barneson, Wisconsin	7	93	13.2
Tidwell, Michigan	5	91	18.2

Bill Veeck Wants to Buy Into Chisox

CHICAGO (AP) — Bill Veeck, baseball's wandering merchant, is negotiating to buy into the Chicago White Sox.

The former owner of the Cleveland Indians and the St. Louis Browns said last night "there has been some discussion" between himself and Mrs. Dorothy Rigney, largest stockholder of the White Sox.

Mrs. Rigney, wife of co-vice president John Rigney and sister of co-vice president Chuck Comiskey, confirmed sale of her stock shares to an outside syndicate may be imminent.

Controversy Follows Terry's Ouster From Notre Dame

Brennan's Firing Attacked

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — Joe Kuharich will get firsthand information today about prospects for his first Notre Dame football team, and probably will hear that the Irish face a rocky path back to undefeated grid greatness.

Kuharich was expected at the campus to interview the assistants of the ousted Terry Brennan and attend a press luncheon to discuss the future. He'll probably also view a few films of 1958 Irish games.

But it's unlikely the films or the assistants will be able to give him a bright picture for his second tour as a college coach. The 1959 Irish will be without 23 players who were main cogs in the 1958 eleven which won 6 of 10 games, a record poor enough to induce the discharge of Brennan.

★ ★ ★

Among those missing will be such stars as fullback Nick Pietrosante; guards Al Ecuyer, an All-America, and Jim Schaaf; tackles Chuck Puntillo, Frank Geremia, Bronko Nagurski Jr. and Don Lawrene; and ends Bob Wetoska, Gary Myers and Dick Royer.

Others who will be missing will be backs Bob Williams, Frank Reynolds, Jim Just, Ron Toth, Norm Odyniec, Mike Dugan and Dick Selcer, and linemen Dick Shulsen, Don Costa, Dick Beschen, Kevin Burke, Neil Seaman and Lou Manzo.

Kuharich was to confer with all of Brennan's helpers. Among them were two former college head coaches who earlier were classed among the contenders for the head coaching job — Bernie Crimmins, once head coach at Indiana, and Hugh Devore, head coach of Dayton and the Philadelphia Eagles before he joined the Irish staff.

Meanwhile, the dismissal of Brennan aroused considerable controversy across the nation.

At Baton Rouge, Paul Dietzel of Louisiana State University, who was "Coach of the Year," termed Notre Dame's action a "disgrace to the school."

"Anybody taking that job now should have his head examined," Dietzel said. "Firing Brennan will have the effect of setting football back at Notre Dame 20 years."

★ ★ ★

Members of the Notre Dame team in Santa Clara, Calif., for the Shrine game called the firing "rotten."

Ecuyer said the firing was a "surprise," but "I don't think it was called for. I feel real bad about it."

Pietrosante felt it was a "pretty rotten thing. They don't know what they did to themselves."

Attorney Joseph Brennan, brother of the ex-coach, fired a blast at Notre Dame and accused the school of "throwing out the pious pronouncements and going out to win 'at all costs'."

Other members of Brennan's family were equally bitter. Terry's father, Martin, said it was an "ill-timed thing to do to a man with four kids, especially just before Christmas."

Kuharich quit the Washington Redskins with four years remaining under his five-year contract in order to accept a four-year pact with the Irish.

It was possible that he might retain some of Brennan's assistants after today's interviews, and if so, he might name part of his staff at today's luncheon.

New York Fans Buzzing About 'Brown Special'

Grier, Huff of Giants May Miss Title Battle Against Baltimore

NEW YORK (AP) — What new trick will the New York Giants come up with against the Baltimore Colts in the National Football League championship game next Sunday?

Fans in this suddenly professional football crazy town still were buzzing about the razzle-dazzle double reverse lateral that produced the only touchdown in last Sunday's spectacular 10-0 New York triumph over Cleveland for the Eastern division title.

"That was the Brown Special," Coach Jim Lee Howell confided today. "We called it 'the thing' all week but we finally decided on a better name."

If the Giants had a "Ewbank special" to throw at Coach Weeb Ewbank's Colts next week, they weren't saying. It's a safe bet they'll practice any new play in private.

Two Giants who undoubtedly will not participate in the workouts until late in the week are Rosey Grier and Sam Huff. Both suffered painful injuries last week but don't bet against their appearing in the lineup against the Colts.

Grier, the massive defensive tackle, is on crutches as a result of a leg injury sustained when he was blocked in a play. Huff, who did such a tremendous hawking job on Jimmy Brown the Browns' fullback star was held to eight yards in seven rushes, may have a cracked rib.

★ ★ ★

On the brighter side, Howell reported that Jack Stroud, who missed the last three games, probably will be ready for action at tackle on offense. Buzz Guy, with a chipped ankle bone, definitely will be missing at guard.

Frank Gifford, who led the ground gainers with 95 yards Sunday, was limping as a result of an injury to his left knee but he is expected to be in shape to start. So will Alex Webster, who played last week despite two badly bruised knees.

The game is a cinch sellout. All reserve and box seats were gobbled up less than 24 hours after they were put on sale. The tremendous demand forced the Giants to change their policy and announce an advance sale of 12,000 bleacher tickets at $4 each and 5,000 standing room admissions at $5. The boxes cost $10 each and the reserves go for $7.50 each. Yankee Stadium capacity is 70,000.

The game will be televised nationally NBC but New York and a 75-mile area will be blacked out.

BLACKBOARD TELLS THE STORY — Jim Lee Howell, head coach of the New York Giants, points to blackboard showing diagram of touchdown play in Sunday's 10-0 victory over the Cleveland Browns for the Eastern Division title of the National Football League. The play started with quarterback Charley Conerly (42) handing off to halfback Alex Webster (29). Webster gave the ball to halfback Frank Gifford (16) to complete the double handoff. Gifford bucked seven yards to the 12-yard line and lateralled to Conerly, who ran for the TD. Howell called the play the "Browns Special."

★ ★ ★

In exhibition games last night at Pontiac Central, the Knights of Columbus defeated Griff's Grill, 53-45, and Sports Shop nosed out Field's Landscape, 44-42. City League action in all classes now recesses until Monday, Jan. 5.

Kentucky AP Leader, MSU 9th

By The Associated Press

Kentucky basketball coach Adolph Rupp had a Merry Christmas two days early today as the nation's sportswriters and broadcasters voted his Wildcats the top team in the weekly Associated Press poll.

The Baron, whose team is defending national collegiate champion, was still enjoying the results of a successful weekend when informed of the Wildcats' choice as top team.

★ ★ ★

"We're simply delighted," he said. "When you consider we have only one man returning from our national championship team and the other players are all youngsters, they've molded themselves into a top-flight unit," Rupp said.

Kentucky won its own invitational tournament over the weekend, defeating Ohio State and West Virginia. The Wildcats also had a victory over Maryland last week. Results of games through last Saturday determine the poll positions.

★ ★ ★

Cincinnati, first a week ago, dropped to second, receiving 61 first place votes compared to Kentucky's 71. The first place Wildcats totalled 1,443 points to Cincy's 1,415. Both are unbeaten, Kentucky with an 8-0 record, Cincinnati 5-0.

Unbeaten North Carolina (5-0) is third with 19 first place votes and 1,076 points. The points are awarded on a 10 for first, 9 for second, etc., basis.

The Tarheels made the biggest jump, coming from 10th place, with three triumphs in four days including the Blue Grass Invitational title.

Kansas State dropped a notch to fourth place, losing to Brigham Young, but bouncing back to drop North Carolina State and St. Joseph's, (Pa.) from the unbeaten ranks.

The top ten teams with first - place votes and won-lost records through Saturday, Dec. 20 in parentheses:

1.	Kentucky (71) (8-0)	1,443
2.	Cincinnati (61) (5-0)	1,415

The Hawks' stalwart boasts an 88-point lead over runner-up Paul Arizin of the Philadelphia Warriors who has accumulated 680. This is the biggest margin enjoyed by a pace-setter this season.

Rookie Elgin Baylor of the Minneapolis Lakers in third place is right on Arizin's heels with 670 points.

New Washington Coach Realizes His Ambitions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three years shy of his self-imposd deadline, Mike Nixon has made it as a football head coach.

Nixon was promoted yesterday to chief coach of the Washington Redskins, succeeding Joe Kuharich. After five years with the 'Skins, Kuharich is moving on to Notre Dame.

The 47-year-old Nixon has been in pro football for 15 years, as player and assistant coach. In his college days, he starred as a halfback with the hard - nosed Pitt teams of Jock Sutherland.

★ ★ ★

All this time, Nixon has harbored an ambition to become a head coach, to run the whole show instead of only part of it.

Recently he said "I don't have much time left. I'm sure I'll have to get a shot before I'm 50."

He got that shot yesterday when Redskins owner George Preston Marshall named him to run the team. Nixon is the 10th head coach the Redskins have had in their 22 years in the National Football League.

Marshall said Nixon was the only man he considered to replace Kuharich. No information was given out on salary or other terms of the new coach's agreement with the club.

★ ★ ★

Nixon has a varied background. A native of Masontown, Pa., he is the son of an immigrant coal miner. He himself has worked in the pits and for a while played some minor league baseball.

Although he's no kin of the vice president of the same name, the Redskins' Nixon had done a bit of politicking in his time. He was a Democratic member of the Pennsylvania State Senate from 1947 through 1950.

★ ★ ★

Nixon had college coaching experience at Pitt and West Virginia. In the pros, he played with the old Brooklyn Dodgers and was a coaching aide with the Pittsburgh Steelers and Chicago Cardinals before coming to the Redskins with Kuharich five years ago.

'Rocket' Crowds Geoffrion

MONTREAL (AP)—Montreal's Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion still holds the lead, but teammate Maurice (The Rocket) Richard has jumped into a challenging position in the National Hockey League scoring race.

★ ★ ★

Geoffrion, who snatched the lead from New York's Andy Bathgate a week ago, has a three-point edge according to statistics released today. He scored on goal and picked up a pair of assists last week for a 42-point total. Geoffrion leads in assists with 24. Bathgate managed only two assists for a 39-point total, but retained the goal lead with 19.

★ ★ ★

Richard, the old master, leaped from sixth place with six points—on two goals and four assists—for a third place tie with teammate Dickie Moore, who picked up five points. Each has 34 points.

★ ★ ★

Jacques Plante, another reason why the Canadiens' are leading the league, tightened his grip on a fourth consecutive Vezina Trophy—awarded to the goaltender with the lowest goals-against average. He bagged his fifth shutout and allowed only two goals in three games last week for a 2.10 average. Detroit's Terry Sawchuk is second with 2.50.

AT LAKEWOOD FRIDAY — Steve Nagy, one of the nation's outstanding bowlers, will appear at Lakewood Lanes on West Huron Friday afternoon and evening. He will give free instruction during the afternoon and will compete in exhibition games against some of Lakewood's top keglers during the evening.

Will Appear at Lakewood Lanes

Keg Ace Nagy Here Friday

Steve Nagy, one of the all-time greats of bowling, will feature a big day-after-Christmas program at Lakewood Lanes Friday afternoon and evening.

★ ★ ★

The colorful performer will give free instructions to area keglers from 2 to 5 p.m. and compete in some exhibitons from 7 to 10 p.m., according to proprietor Bill Kuklinski.

Plans call for Lakewood bowlers who have hit the top scores this week to be matched against the winner of many bowling titles.

The public is invited to the West Huron Street establishment to see the crowd-pleasing star in action. All interested bowlers may obtain instructions during the afternoon session.

Nagy is now a member of the St. Louis Falstaff team. He previously bowled with Pfeiffer's of Detroit and several Cleveland teams.

He has won ABC championships in singles and all-events and combined with Johnny Klares in 1952 for an all-time doubles total of 1453. Steve just missed an all-events mark with 2065 in the same tourney to earn $1,965. A 299 in the 1953 Masters, an All-Star title, a 300 on a keg film series and a 198 average for 16 years in ABC tourneys have been some of his other feats.

Kuklinski plans more appearances by top stars during the coming months.

Diamond in the Rough for Real at MSU

EAST LANSING (AP) — Campus police drew an assignment today comparable to finding a needle in a haystack.

The mission: find a 2-carat diamond, lost from its ring mounting, in Michigan State University's Jenison Fieldhouse, a dirt-floored arena that seats 12,500 for a basketball game.

James Ruttman, Saginaw hotel manager, believes the stone popped out of his ring during MSU's Saturday night victory over Nebraska. He said the ring was insured for its full $3,000 value.

Sugar Ray Squabbles With NBA

Robinson Told to Defend His Title—or Else

Middleweight Champ Defies Order to Fight Before January 11

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sugar Ray Robinson risked his middleweight crown today in a fight with the National Boxing Association.

The angry champion announced he would ignore the NBA's order to sign before Jan. 11 for a title defense, "and they can vacate the title if they want to."

At Mullens, W. Va., Dr. Ward Wylie — president of the NBA — said Sugar Ray's title will be vacated on Jan. 11 "unless he can show good cause why he has not signed for a defense, or that he is making an honest effort to sign."

The Jan. 11 deadline had been set in a letter written to Robinson on Dec. 17 by Arch Hindman, NBA executive secretary. Hindman made public the letter at Hagerstown, Ind., over the weekend.

Robinson, 38, hasn't defended during the nine months since he recaptured the 160-pound diadem from Carmen Basilio at Chicago, March 25. NBA rules require each world champion to defend at least once every six months against a leading contender.

Robinson declared bitterly: "They can take the title right now if they want to. I'd still be champion in New York state and if New York went along with the NBA. I could fight in some foreign country — if I wanted to."

'Flat' Pistons Get Extra Work

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Piston basketball players got a surprise yesterday. It was an extra day's practice instead of the usual Monday day off.

Coach Red Rocha ordered the work in calling his team "flat" and requiring something to "snap out of our slump."

The Pistons now trail the St. Louis Hawks by six games in the Western Division of the National Basketball Assn. Detroit's last game was a loss at home Saturday night to the Hawks 111-104.

"You've got to win at home if you're going to get anywhere in the NBA," said Rocha.

Detroit's next home game is with last-place Cincinnati Friday night. This will be part of a doubleheader in which the Boston Celtics meet the Minneapolis Lakers in the other game.

Lions' 2nd Choice Will Join Argos

TORONTO (AP)— Charley Horton, 230-pound guard from Baylor University and second choice of the Detroit Lions of the National Football League, has notified the Lions he will sign with the Toronto Argonauts instead.

★ ★ ★

Lew Hayman, managing director of Argos, commented: "All I can say is that Horton said he would come with us." But he was obviously pleased with the catch.

Hot Marquette Team Stops Xavier

Hickey Rolling Again

Associated Press Sports Writer

What do you do with a guy who trades in a sleek new car for an old flivver?

Don't answer because Eddie Hickey might get mad.

Hickey, the old maestro from St. Louis, quit his job as basketball coach and athletic director there nine months ago to take over at Marquette.

★ ★ ★

St. Louis always had been a basketball power and there was no reason to think that Hickey wouldn't find himself in clover again this year if he stayed around.

But Marquette, while not exactly a doormat, just about kept around the .500 mark. In fact, last season, the Warriors wound up with an 11-11 record after losing four in a row at the start of the season. Jack Nagle, who had coached Marquette for five years, resigned at the end of the season.

★ ★ ★

In April, Hickey entered, and as of today, Marquette has an 8 mark. There's a basketball revolution, no less, brewing in Milwaukee and Hicky is right in the middle of it.

The local folks love him, too, and last night they carried him and Ed Smith, his assistant off the court following Marquette's 86-71 victory over previously unbeaten Xavier of Ohio.

★ ★ ★

It marked the Warriors' sixth triumph in a row and with the steam they've generated under Hickey, there's no telling how far they'll go. He has installed a blazing fast-break offense that left Xavier befuddled. Mike Moran, Marquette's 6-8 pivot man collected 28 points.

Xavier is No. 10 in the current Associated Press poll and was the only member of the top 10 to play last night. Marquette is No. 17, one spot, ironically, behind St. Louis.

★ ★ ★

Northwestern, which was knocked out of the select circle, by North Carolina in the final of the Blue Grass Tournament made some amends by dropping Washington, 75-69, in an intersectional game. The Wildcats had to score 11 points midway through the second half to erase a 4-point Huskie lead.

Seattle, runner-up to Kentucky for the NCAA championship last year, recorded its sixth victory against one loss by rebounding from an 8-point halftime deficit to Whip Marshall, 91-80.

Wisniewski 'Homecoming' Spoiled

Hot Titans Down 'Hens'

By United Press International

Irv Wisniewski's "homecoming" with his University of Delaware Blue Hens was anything but satisfying. First, Wisniewski's alma mater, Michigan, pasted Delaware by an 82-58 count Saturday. The rest came last night when Detroit walloped the Blue Hens 101-71.

★ ★ ★

Detroit, enjoying its best shooting night of the season, connected on 64 per cent of its shots in taking a 50-40 halftime lead and the Titans wound up with nearly a 55 per cent completion mark for the game.

Ray Albee and John Belohlavek, the Titans' backcourt pair, sank 25 and 20 points respectively while sophomores George Heger, Bob Alexy and Larry Huges combined for 40. Alexy was moved into the starting center post for the game.

The victory guaranteed Detroit a winning record for its Motor City Classic. With a game against North Dakota State on Saturday to go, the Titans are 5-2 for the season.

★ ★ ★

The awesome offensive display for the sophomore-studded Titans bettered any game during the 25-game schedule last year.

In other action, Hillsdale still is lacking tournament luck. The Dales, who lost out in the NAIA Tip-Off tournament at Northern Michigan last weekend, fell to Flint Junior College 76-56 in the fifth annual Flint JC Holiday tournament. Eastern Michigan won its game, 81-71 over Aquinas and will meet Flint tonight for the tourney title.

In the Soo Tech tournament at Sault Ste. Marie, Alma whipped Alpena Community College 96-66 in the first round game.

Lawrence Tech hit the .500 mark with an 86-80 victory over North Central of Illinois. Hank Pollard paced the Blue Devils with 22 points and three teammates scored in double figures.

Margaret Couldn't Stay in Key Says Traubel

NEW YORK (AP) — Soprano Helen Traubel says she could never keep Margaret Truman on key when acting as singing adviser to the former President's daughter.

Miss Traubel says she quit after three years.

"I think her great fault was that she could not hear herself sing," Miss Traubel comments. "She never knew what a real amateur she was — an honorable designation in any way of life.

★ ★ ★

"She failed because she had no gift for self-criticism."

In a prepublication condensation of her memoirs appearing in the January issue of the Ladies' Home Journal, the former Metropolitan Opera star says her three years as Miss Truman's adviser cost her stature "in the eyes of the musical world for ever having my name connected with such a musical aspirant."

★ ★ ★

Miss Traubel wrote that she consented to the adviser role in 1948 when Miss Truman asked for help. Her voice then was "inexperienced and rather bad," Miss Traubel says, adding:

"My first, greatest and unconquerable difficulty with Margaret's voice was simply keeping her on key.

"There simply was not enough of everything — or of anything — to make her really a concert or light-opera singer."

Miss Truman is now the wife of Clifton Daniel, a New York newspaperman. She said she had not read the article, did not plan to, and would have no comment.

No comment was forthcoming either from Truman. He had been given a copy of Miss Traubel's statements with a request for comment.

Talmadge Backs Russell's Plans

Both Georgia Senators to Push Bill to Shift Negro Population

ATLANTA (AP)—A plan to spread the Negro population equally among all the states will be pushed in the new Congrss by Georgia's two Democratic senators, Richard Russell and Herman Talmadge.

Russell emphasized that his bill would provide federal money for relocation of Negroes and whites on a purely voluntary basis.

Talmadge, pledging his support to Russell's proposal, said the plan "will demonstrate conclusively the hypocrisy of many members of Congress who desire to force integration at the point of a bayonet and are unwilling to accept the same proposals themselves."

Russell issued a statement from his office in Winder, Ga., explaining provisions of his bill. He said the program would be designed primarily to assist Negroes living in the south who desire to move to the north, middle west and west and to assist whites in those areas to move to the south.

"It would, for example," Russell said, "offer assistance to a Georgia Negro family who might desire to relocate in Colorado and for a white family in Colorado to relocate in Georgia. It would not provide assistance to a Georgia white family to move to Colorado or to a Colorado colored family to move to Georgia."

Russell first introduced the plan in the Senate in 1949. He said opposition was so strong at that time that it never got out of committee.

Liz Taylor Waits as Eddie Fisher Rehearses Show

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor came early and stayed late to watch Eddie Fisher rehearse his television show.

The actress arrived at the National Broadcasting Co. studio at 6 o'clock Monday night. It was after 3 a.m. when she and Fisher and others in the show went home.

Miss Taylor, widow of Mike Todd, formed an enthusiastic audience for the singer as he ran through routines with several guest stars for his television show.

She and Fisher have been seen together frequently since the breakup of his marriage to actress Debbie Reynolds. A divorce action filed by Miss Reynolds is pending.

MONTVILLE, Conn. (UPI) — Former inmate Richard Johnson was arrested outside the county jail, accused of trying to break his way back in.

Reds Take Over Rites of Church

Drive Against Religion Imparts New Meaning to Marriage, Baptism

BERLIN (UPI) — German Communists no longer promise to love, honor and obey. Instead, they vow in their marriage ceremonies to work for the victory of Communism and to raise their children as the Party prescribes.

The girls are getting married in white bridal gowns at "Socialist weddings" on which photographs of Lenin and other Communist heroes look down.

★ ★ ★

The new Communist marriage ceremony is part of the East German Communists' anti-religious campaign which includes attacks on baptism, confirmation and church weddings as "old fashioned." The Reds have substituted for these what they call "Socialist" observances.

They hope to wean still faithful East Germans away from religion by maintaining the shell of traditional religious ceremonies and giving them an atheistic content.

Flower girls, music from "Lohengrin" and bridal veils all are part of the Socialist wedding ceremony. But there is no clergyman or religious reading.

One girl who got married the Red way recommended it to others as "solemn but without humbug."

★ ★ ★

Similar to the wedding is the Communist "christening" ceremony. The Communists call it "namensweihe"— literally "name dedication.'

At a ceremony in Dresden, Mayor Walter Weidauer told the parents of babes in arms, "These children will have the responsibility of seeing to it that the fight to build Socialism, to build a classless society, is completed.

"We expect from you parents that you educate your children that we can trust them to continue our work."

"Youth dedication" (Jugendweihe) services are a substitute for confirmation and the Communists place great pressure on parents to make their children attend. The children raise their hands and solemnly swear to be "faithful sons and daughters of our workers and farmers state."

★ ★ ★

They pledge to fight for the "nobel cause" of Communism, maintain friendship with the Soviet Union and other "peace-loving nations."

The marriage and christening ceremonies are quite new and the Communists are trying to popularize them.

After 2 Years, Bing Crosby Back as Priest in Movie

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Bing Crosby has ended a two-year absence from the screen by donning priest's robes again.

The genial groaner is working at 20th Century-Fox for the first time in his long film career. Producer-director Frank Tashlin has him playing a Roman Catholic priest with Debbie Reynolds and Robert Wagner in "Say One For Me."

★ ★ ★

"He's a pretty hep character," Bing explained about the role in his dressing room. "His church is St. Malachy's at 47th Street and Broadway in New York, so his flock is largely show people. When he came to the parish, he had to acquaint himself with show talk so he could communicate with his parishioners. He also has an early morning Mass, as they do in Las Vegas, so the people in shows can attend."

Bing illustrated with part of his sermon, which urged his listeners to drop in at his "late, late show." The padre adds that one of the church members has recovered his health and his act is playing to standing room only—"and I'd like to be doing the same."

★ ★ ★

The role harks back to Bing's successes in "Going My Way" (1944) and "Bells of St. Mary's" (1945).

"It was Leo McCarey's idea that I could play a Catholic priest," Bing said, "and he was encouraged by Buddy DeSylva, who was head of Paramount. When Leo mentioned it to me, I thought he was nuts."

"Going My Way" was the smash picture of the year and netted Bing an Oscar. McCarey then directed him and Ingrid Bergman in "Bells," which was even a greater box office success.

★ ★ ★

After a 13-year lapse, Bing finds that the church is more liberal in what it will permit the movie makers to screen.

Watching over such details is Msgr. John Devlin, who also was technical advisor on the previous Crosby priest portrayals.

"He was new then," Bing recalled, "and we pulled a gag on him at the end of 'Bells of St. Mary's.' There was a scene where Ingrid had to leave the parish because of illness. I gave her a real, back-bending kiss.

★ ★ ★

"Everyone knew about the gag but Father Devlin. Leo said 'cut and print it' and started to walk away. Nobody laughed and Father Delvin was fit to be tied until we finally let him in on it."

Slide Down Banisters Fatal to Man of 43

Baillie, leaving a dance hall, tried to slide down the bannisters, lost his balance and fell 45 feet to his death.

Yule Message Issued by Pope

World Unity and Peace Theme of Prelates' 1st Christmas Utterance

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII in his first Christmas message today urged the world to unity and peace.

These, he said, were the major themes of the many speeches and writings of his predecessor Pope Pius XII, who in his reign as supreme leader of the Roman Catholic Church gave 19 Christmas messages to the world.

★ ★ ★

Pope John, who was elected Oct. 28 to succeed Pius XII, said his predecessor's Christmas speeches and the 20 volumes of his other written and spoken words "are a monument to his wisdom and his apostolic fervor."

The new pontiff said man's unwillingness to submit to the grace of God in unity and peace "was the most terrible problem of human history and of the lives of individual men and people."

★ ★ ★

He emphasized the Roman Catholic Church's intense desire for unification with the Orthodox Church, which numbers more than 125 million members including millions in the Communist bloc.

Pope John said the broken unity of "the heredity of Christ" continues to be a grave problem, but that his own efforts would be unflagging toward "those dear, separated brothers who bow to the name of Christ and read the holy Bible."

★ ★ ★

Then the pope added, in a sharp criticism of Communist-ruled lands, "in many parts of the world there is no ear for this invitation (to unity and peace)." In those areas, he said, the "most sacred concepts are suffocated or have been suppressed."

Decision Up to Williams

Mull Health Agency Consolidation

LANSING (AP) — A question mark hung today over a proposal to push in the 1959 legislature for consolidation of four state health agencies.

The decision was squarely up to Gov. Williams after his advisory committee on state government reorganization recommended such consolidation, along with three other proposal quickly accepted by Williams.

The governor said he agreed in principle with merging the State Board of Alcoholism, the Tuberculosis Sanatorium Commission and the State Office of Hospital Survey and Construction with the State Health Department.

But he told the committee yesterday he wanted more time to study it.

Under the plan, the expanded department would be headed by a state health commissioner named by the governor. The commissioner would be ringed by several advisory councils on the various health service functions.

★ ★ ★

The 1958 legislature, in approving the so-called executive reorganization act, empowered the governor to submit plans for streamlining state government structure in the first 30 days of a regular legislative session.

The executive proposal automatically would take effect unless either Senate or House rejected it within 60 days.

The three proposals promptly agreed to by Williams would:

1. Transfer motor fuel tax collections from the Department of State to the revenue department.

2. Return surplus food distribution to the state Social Welfare Department, the agency which handled this function prior to 1947. Since then, it has been a department of administration responsibility.

★ ★ ★

3. Concentrate responsibility for signing and issuing state payroll, welfare and purchase warrants (checks) in the state treasurer's department. The state auditor general and treasurer now share these duties.

The first plan represents a step in the direction of putting all tax collection duties in a single place, the state revenue department. They now are scattered among several agencies.

The third was described as a move to improve security of state funds.

Frank Blackford, Advisory Committee Research Director, said numerous other proposals were under consideration but probably would not be readied in time for consideration by the 1959 legislature.

Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams of Pontiac heads the screening group.

AF C54 Is Missing in Aleutian Islands

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Bad weather and early darkness stalled the search Monday night for an Air Force C54 with 15 aboard, missing and believed down along the rugged Aleutian chain.

The big, four-engined plane took off from Elmendorf Air Force Base here Monday morning and disappeared from the radarscope 47 minutes later. It was headed for the refueling and radar base at Shemya, a tiny island in the North Pacific.

De Gaulle Transforms Nation

1959 France Will Be Much Stronger

By ARTHUR HIGBEE

PARIS (UPI) — France in 1959 will be vitally different from France in 1958.

With one big IF — The Algerian War — France will be far stronger too, which is something for all of France's allies to cheer about.

This is thanks to Gen. Charles de Gaulle and his countrymen who have united so overwhelmingly behind him.

Enormous problems remain — Algeria, high prices, scandalously inadequate housing. But the promise of the immediate future is brighter than at any time since the second World War.

Items on a list of strong probabilities:

—No more colonial wars like Indochina and North Africa. De Gaulle all but liquidated the colonial problem by formally giving the dozen enormous French colonies in tropical Africa (equal in area to the U.S.) the right to independence any time they want it. One (Guinea has already taken it; the others are staying on in the new French community (or commonwealth), which de Gaulle created.

—No more Communist hamstringing of national policy. The Communists in past French legislatures were so numerous that they could overthrow governments almost at will. But in the November parliamentary elections, they were reduced to an impotent handful.

—For that matter, no more governmental instability. The new French Assembly is divided into as many rival parties as ever. But the French are fed up with parliamentary battles and the deputies know it.

In any case the new constitution, which four out of five Frenchmen voted for in September, has transformed the presidency from a figurehead job to an office of immense authority, and reduced the once-all-powerful role of the Assembly accordingly.

—The economically-backward, tariff-walled economy of the past hundred years is ending. One real accomplishment during the Fourth Republic was the transformation of French industry. Much of it remains to be overhauled. But France has automated factories and is getting more.

De Gaulle has promised that France will lower her tariff barriers on schedule in the new European Common Market, and let the chips of outside competition fall where they may.

In the long run, an economically sound France will be a France that no longer has to apply periodically for foreign loans.

The war is still costing France a billion dollars a year, poisoning the French political atmosphere and envenoming the Arab world's relations with the Western democracies.

De Gaulle's only setback so far has come in Algeria. He quieted the settler riots that blew the Fourth Republic sky high; he stemmed incipient and sometimes overt mutiny in the French army, whose officers were determined to keep Algeria from becoming yet another defeat.

But thus far he has failed to get the rebels to discuss a cease-fire; in the November elections he was unable to get any but the most settler-subsidized Moslems to stand as candidates.

Peace in Algeria is still far off, but it is not completely out of sight as it was before de Gaulle took power.

Meanwhile, de Gaulle is in charge. He has more of his countrymen behind him than any other French leader in this century. He probably is the best hope — some say the only hope — for bringing Franch, the 20th century's "Sick Man of Europe," back to health and strength.

Biggest State News in '58 Was Sinking of Bradley

By The Associated Press

The year 1958 in Michigan was one of turbulence, tragedy and slump.

A ship sank. A plane crashed. The auto industry suffered. Jobless ranks swelled. Sports teams floundered, both pro and amateur. And the mighty Mackinac Bridge was dedicated.

This was the year to be considered as editors of Associated Press member newspapers and news directors of AP radio and television member stations debated the top Michigan stories of the past 12 months.

First choice by a wide margin was the spectacular sinking of the freighter Carl D. Bradley in storm-tossed Lake Michigan the night of Nov. 18. Thirty-three men lost their lives in the tragedy. Two men miraculously survived.

Second choice was another death-dealing tragedy, this one from the air. A Capital Airlines Viscount plane with 47 aboard approached the Tri City Airport through an Easter night snowstorm. It never made it, plowing instead into the mud and snow short of the runway. This was the worst crash ever at any Michigan airport.

★ ★ ★

Newsmen voted on a ballot which included 19 suggested stories. They added four others. The voting was extremely varied. The Bradley sinking was picked as No. 1 on 12 of 42 replies and it received no vote lower than sixth. But the plane crash, which received six first place votes, also was picked for every other spot from two through nine. In all, 12 different stories received first place votes.

Competition for the third spot was the closest in the entire balloting. In the end the newsmen picked the November general election which saw the defeat of the last Republican in a statewide office. One point behind was the bizarre Kierdorf case—the saga of Frank and Uncle Herman.

A first place vote was worth 10 points, second 9 points, third 8 points and on down the line 7-6-5-4-3-2-1.

The Bradley sinking received 350 of a possible 420 points. The Tri City plane crash received 285; the election 240 and the Kierdorf case 239.

Formal dedication of the mighty Mackinac Bridge in June was picked as the fifth best story of the year with 191 points. It was followed by the United Auto Workers-Big Three auto negotiations and strikes with 180 points.

The proposal to establish a state income tax caught the newsmen's eyes as the seventh ranking story. The record unemployment was voted eighth and the slump in the auto industry specifically was picked ninth.

The only sports story to crash the top 10 was the Detroit Tigers' activities for the year which included the firing of Jack Tighe as manager, the fall to fifth place in the American League standings and the subsequent trade of Billy Martin to Cleveland.

★ ★ ★

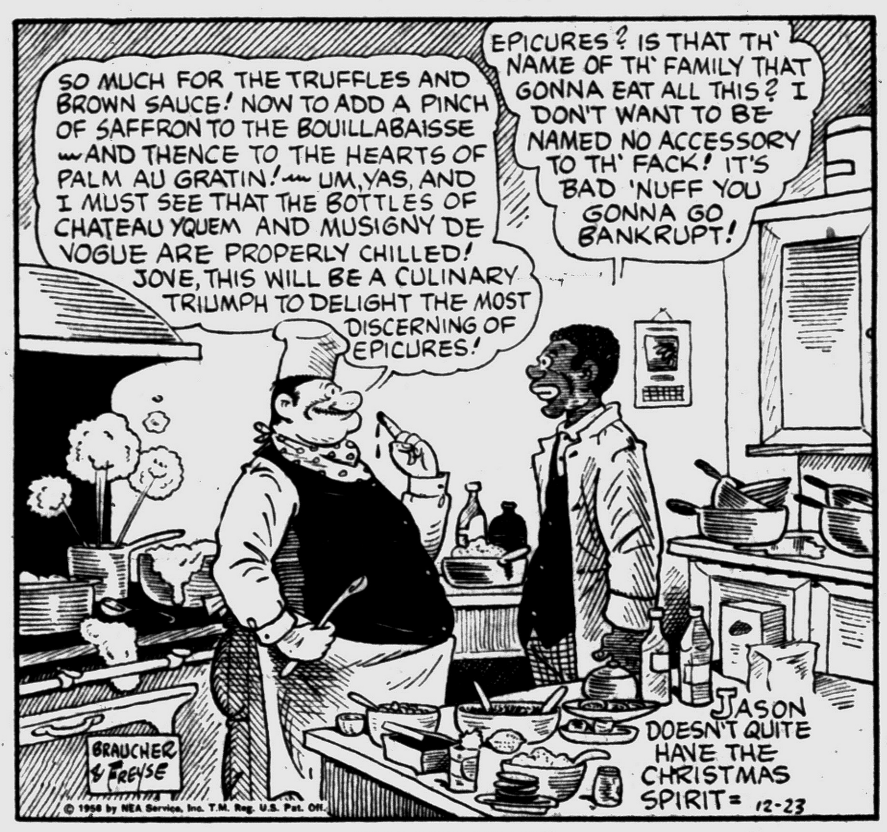

Here is how the voting went (10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1) (42 ballots—first place in parentheses):

1. Sinking of the Carl D. Bradley (12) 350
2. Easter plane crash at Tri City Airport (6) 285
3. Democrats sweep November election; Hart tops Williams (2) 240
4. The Kierdorf case (5) 239
5. Mackinac Bridge dedicated (2) 191
6. UAW-Big Three talks and strikes (4) 180
7. State income tax proposed (1) 164
8. Unemployment hits peak (2) 127
9. Automotive recession (3) .. 89
10. Tigers fire Tighe, finish 5th 60

Market Shows Early Low

NEW YORK (AP)—The Stock Market continued generally lower early today with a few stocks bucking the trend.

Gains and losses ran from fractions to about a point.

★ ★ ★

After an active opening, trading slowed considerably with the trend irregularly on the downside.

Profit taking for 1958 tax returns continued as the deadline for this type of transaction approached. The business news background remained fairly neutral. It included Wall Street speculation that Congress will not accept all of President Eisenhower's economy proposals and continued hesitation over oils in view of Venezuelan action in boosting oil taxes from firms operating there.

North American Aviation and Merck were down about a point. Fractional losses were taken by Bethlehem and Republic Steel as well as by most motors.

★ ★ ★

American Telephone dropped another point. Slightly lower were Consolidated Edison, Eastman Kodak, Union Carbide, Du Pont, American Tobacco, Gulf Oil, Texas Co., Baltimore & Ohio and Southern Pacific.

★ ★ ★

New York Central, Pan American World Airways, Montgomery Ward, Anaconda and Kennecott were slightly higher.

Grain Is Weak in Early Trade

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain futures prices trended toward weakness in slow early transactions today on the Board of Trade.

Dealers said commercial and export business appeared to have slipped into a holiday lull although the United Kingdom was understood to have been a fairly good buyer of corn overnight and Japan took about a million bushels of Pacific Coast white wheat.

★ ★ ★

Soybeans and corn led the early downturn, with losses running to a half cent a bushel or more. The pressure on corn was linked with reports of more liberal movement of the grain into commercial positions at a number of Iowa points.

Wheat was ¼ to ⅝ cent a bushel lower near the end of the first hour, March $1.95⅝; corn unchanged to ⅜ lower, March old type contract $1.13½; oats ¼ to ⅜ lower, March 65½; rye ¼ to ⅜ lower, March $1.30¾; soybeans ⅜ to 1 cent lower, January $2.16¾.

Lawyers to Rate Judge Prospects

County Bar Association May Present Listings for April Election

Oakland County Circuit and Probate Court judge candidates in the future will be rated as to their qualifications by their fellow lawyer members of the County Bar Association.

★ ★ ★

The association yesterday approved the rating system after many years debating its pros and cons.

More than 50 lawyers, meeting in Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams' courtroom, in a voice vote decided it would be in the best interest of placing the best qualified persons on both county court benches by rating both candidates for election and appointment.

William B. Hartman, association president, who offered the resolution suggested after study by a special committee, said candidates in next year's April judicial balloting might be the first to be rated.

★ ★ ★

Under the proposal, the more than 250 lawyers of the Oakland association will be asked by secret ballot to rate candidates preferred, qualified, or not commented on.

Totals of the vote, showing how many of the three classifications each candidate received, will then be released for publication.

Such action brought disapproval from Robert Hodge of Pontiac, who felt that the association by its rating system "was walking straight into politics."

But David C. Pence, also of Pontiac, said he had learned from a neighborhood poll he took that the public is very unfamiliar with candidates and members of the bench, and that association rating might help the public decide who are the best qualified.

★ ★ ★

The only candidate for the coming election to speak out on the plan, Maurice A. Merritt of Royal Oak, suggested, but to no avail, that the category of "not commented on" be replaced by one "less injurious" to candidates.

Probably the stronger support for the rating system came from Gilbert H. Davis of Royal Oak, who said the association in the past, by not taking such action, had "adopted a cowardly attitude of sticking its head in the sand" by not aiding the voters in deciding on the best judicial candidates.

As to appointees, members decided they would rate by the same method those reportedly in line for vacancies on the bench, and pass their suggested candidate or candidates on to Gov. Williams, who makes judicial appointments.

Ruby Must Know Secret but She's Not Apt to Tell

LONDON (UPI) — Does Princess Margaret still secretly hope to marry Peter Townsend?

There is a busy little Scotswoman who bustles daily between St. James's Palace and Clarence House, Margaret's residence, who probably knows the answer better than anyone else.

★ ★ ★

But she isn't telling what she knows about the celebrated romance — nor is she ever likely to.

The little Scotswoman is Mrs. Robina "Ruby" Gordon, Princess Meg's personal maid. She has looked after Margaret since the Princess was a baby. She has watched her and the handsome ex-RAF Group Captain since they first met.

She is the one person who could give the full, authentic answer to such questions as "what really did happen?" and "does Margaret still love Peter?"

"Ruby" is the younger sister of Margaret MacDonald, Queen Elizabeth's personal maid, who began her career 30 years ago as nursemaid to little Princess Elizabeth.

At Meg's birth, Miss MacDonald sent for her sister from their home in the lonely Black Isle district of Iverness in North Scotland, and Ruby was installed as attendant to Margaret Rose.

DEVOTED FRIEND

She has been at the princess' side ever since, a devoted friend as well as a servant, and keeper of Meg's closest secrets.

Some years back, Ruby was quietly married to Buckingham Palace footman Norman Gordon. So she would not have to leave the royal service, Queen Mother Elizabeth arranged for the Gordons to have a mews apartment in St. James's Palace.

★ ★ ★

The Queen Mother even helped them decorate and furnish the flat.

Ruby is almost always with Meg, looking after her in her pink and white apartment at Clarence House and traveling with her wherever she goes.

When Townsend, then deputy master of the royal household, first started to show interest in the teenage princess, Ruby must have sat in the servants' lounge at Buckingham Palace many times listening to domestic comment on the affair.

It is known that many of the senior members of the royal household felt it was "not quite the thing" for the equerry to be on such familiar terms with the King's younger daughter.

OFTEN GO-BETWEEN

But Ruby stuck by her princess, often acting as messenger and go-between for Meg and Townsend. She mailed the "secret" letters, took the personal phone calls from Townsend in Brussels, and even now carries in the flowers which Townsend sends Margaret on her birthday, at Christmas, and other occasions.

Ruby was in the royal airplane which carried Meg to Africa, immediately after her interest in Peter Townsend became public and caused so much gossip in the summer of 1955.

She tended the princess a little later when she was prostrated with nervous strain — officially announced as "a slight chill."

★ ★ ★

She accompanied Meg to the country house in Sussex where the princess and Townsend came to their renunciation decision after a long walk in the woods.

And when Townsend returned to Britain earlier this year after his world tour, it was Ruby who showed him into the princess's sitting room when he visited Clarence House.

Parke, Davis Votes an Extra Dividend

NEW YORK (AP) — Directors of Parke, Davis & Co., Detroit pharmaceutical manufacturer, voted an extra dividend of 30 cents and raised the common stock dividend yesterday.

The board declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents, both the extra and the quarterly will be paid Jan. 30 to holders of record Jan. 6.

★ ★ ★

Directors said the action puts the stock on a $1 annual rate which is equivalent to $3 on the old shares, which were split 3-for-1 Dec. 12.

The old stock was on a 50 cent quarterly basis. Last year the company also declared a $1 extra on the old shares.

MANCHESTER, Conn. (UPI) — The Rev. Clarence E. Winslow hired a crane to hoist him 90 feet so he could secure a four-foot cross to his new church steeple. He figured he saved his Church-of-the-Nazarene congregation $50 by doing the job himself.

Try New Areas in Paper Talks

New York Sessions Start After Five-Day Break; Union May Get Tougher

NEW YORK (AP)—Negotiators were exploring new approaches to ending a 14-day-old newspaper strike as they prepared today for another round of joint talks with federal mediators.

Publishers of the nine closed dailies and the striking deliverymen resumed joint sessions Monday after a five-day break.

★ ★ ★

Federal mediator Walter A. Maggiolo said both parties had promised to give serious study to a number of suggestions aimed at "establishing possible areas of agreement."

Neither side indicated any break in the deadlock.

In fact, Asher Schwartz, attorney for the independent Newspaper and Mail Deliverers Union, indicated a possible stiffening in the strikers' demands on a go-it-alone basis.

★ ★ ★

Noting that nine other newspaper unions, all members of the AFL-CIO have refused to support the Deliverers Union, Schwartz said:

"They (the publishers) have been calculating their cost of meeting our proposals on the basis of the over-all cost of granting the same or equivalent benefits to the other unions which are involved in other negotiations with the publishers.

★ ★ ★

"Now it would seem to us that the publishers are free of this demand. The other unions have rejected us and our efforts to win more than a $7 package. Whatever the publishers agree to add at the request of the Deliverers Union, they no longer can say they have to give it to the other unions."

160 Hurt Watching Blaze

Gas Truck Blast Kills 4

BROWNFIELD, Tex. (AP)—Four men perished when a bottled gas truck blew up in a shattering eruption of shooting flames and flying steel Monday night. An estimated 160 persons, most of them spectators, suffered wounds and burns.

About 45 remained hospitalized today.

"The whole sky seemed to be on fire," a witness exclaimed.

The cries of the injured filled the air at the scene, on the outskirts of this West Texas city of 7,000.

★ ★ ★

The community turned out to help the wounded and burned.

The fire followed a collision of a small pickup truck and a large gas transport truck.

The accident started a fire in the overturned cab of the transport truck. About 20 firemen were at the scene, surrounded by a small group of spectators. Several hundred other spectators lined the other side of the highway.

Phillip Thompson, a volunteer fireman, said "There was a terrific explosion. The blast knocked me out but I came to right away. There was a terrible roar and the whole sky seemed to be on fire."

"Pieces of steel from the exploding tank ripped through the crowd," Thompson said. "Flames from the burning transport set a number of people on fire.

"I put out the fire on several people. I had to rip some of their clothes off to put out the flames."

A service station near the scene was set afire, but was quickly extinguished.

Thompson said debris from the exploding truck was hurled 250 to 300 yards away.

The blast shook the town of about 7,000. Windows were broken a mile away. Flames leaped an estimated 400 to 500 feet into the air.

The Terry County Hospital said it had admitted 63 victims of which a dozen were seriously burned or injured.

Some of the victims were driven to nearby Lubbock, Tex., for treatment.

Charlie Maples, Brownfield newsman, said that in addition to the three dead, a torso was found near the blast scene.

Sidney Hester, police dispatcher, said four men were confirmed dead. He identified them as Ruben Johnson, about 50, of Lubbock, driver of the big truck; Jim Cousineau, fire marshal here; Wayland Parker, Brownfield fireman, and James Ray, of Brownfield.

Crawford Taylor of KTFY said a number of wires were blown down and both the police and fire departments lost power. He said businessmen went back to their stores to clean up broken glass and to protect from looting.

The bottled gas is a treated natural gas used for heating and cooking in homes as well as for industrial heating purposes.

Living Costs Up; Wages Hit Peak

Plant Workers' Pay Soars $3 Higher Than in November 1957

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs edged back up last month to their record peak of last July. And, at the same time, average earnings of factory workers climbed to record heights.

Influenced chiefly by the higher prices for 1959 automobiles, the cost of living index rose two-tenths of one per cent between October and November to 123.9 per cent of the 1947-49 base. This equals the record reached last July and is about two per cent higher than in November of last year.

★ ★ ★

Reporting this today, the Labor Department said November also saw a sharp rise in factory worker spendable earnings and buying power. This resulted both from higher hourly pay and increasing work hours.

The after-tax earnings of the average factory worker with three dependents rose to $78.41 a week. For the single worker it was $70.93. These were both new records, about $1.30 per week higher than in October and about $3 above November 1957.

★ ★ ★

Buying power of these earnings rose substantially, too, in November but worker dollar purchasing power still is below the November 1959 level.

The previous records on earnings were in September. Government figures for that month were $77.43 for the average worker with three dependents and $69.97 for the worker without dependents.

Cash on Way to Chrysler, Ford Labor

DETROIT (AP) — Pre-Christmas money was on the way or available today to thousands of auto workers affected by layoffs or recent strikes.

Roughly 50,000 workers and laid-off employes stood to benefit.

Chrysler Corp. offered $50 pay advances to 43,000 employes idled in the 18-day Dodge Main plant strike earlier this month. Their first scheduled pay checks are not due until Jan. 2. The company would deduct the advances from employes' later earnings.

The Ford Motor Co. is mailing out more than one million dollars in retroactive layoff pay to an estimated 7,000 employes under the company's new contract with the United Auto Workers Union.

In addition, the UAW is giving special strike assistance of $20 to all Chrysler workers who were laid off because of the Dodge Main strike of 7,100 union members and Chrysler's previous office workers' strike. The strikers are paid benefits of their own.

Probe House Blast That Killed Four

MONTREAL (UPI) — Authorities launched a two-pronged investigation today to determine the cause of an explosion that ripped apart a two-story east end duplex dwelling, killing four persons, three of them children.

Fire department investigators and officials of the Quebec Natural Gas Corp. launched probes to determine the cause of the explosion yesterday. A Natural Gas Corp. official said last night, "We have found no trace of gas."

★ ★ ★

He said investigators with special measuring devices to detect leaks would continue their work for several days, until the investigation was completed.

Pistol Pete, 8, Muffs Chance to 'Get' Prince

LONDON (UPI) — Pistol Pete Murray, an eight-year-old Kansas City cowboy, almost shot up the future king of England yesterday but a stern father and a stern Scotland Yard man spoiled his fun.

His dad, Louis Murray, 49, boxed his ears and lectured him on protocol after a Scotland Yard detective resisted Pete's efforts to get close enough for a 'gun fight' with 10-year-old Prince Charles aboard a speeding train.

Pete and Charles were riding on the same train from London to Norfolk County where Charles and the rest of Britain's royal family are spending Christmas. The young prince was riding with his mother and other members of the family in a special coach attached to the regular train.

Pete is nearing the end of a three-month holiday in Britain where his father brought him from Kansas City after his mother died.

The nation's pharmaceutical industry spent $125,000,000 on research work in 1957, or about 8 cents out of every sales dollar.

Police Caution Against Easy Check Cashing

Because of a sharp rise in bad checks reported to the Pontiac Police Dept., police are urging merchants to be on the alert.

★ ★ ★

Detective Robert A. Emery today warned merchants not to accept a temporary driver's license or social security card as positive identification.

Strangers should be made to produce identification containing their photos and driver's license, he said. Merchants should not allow strangers to copy down their license numbers, but should do it themselves, he added.

Emery said that the best policy for merchants to follow is not to cash checks unless they are personally acquainted with the persons bringing them in.

White House employes from garage mechanics to protocol experts were entertained yesterday at a coffee and cake Christmas party hosted by the President and Mrs. Eisenhower.

The nearly 1,000 members of the staff received their annual Christmas gift—a print of an Eisenhower painting of a weathered red barn. Christmas carols were piped by loudspeaker through the elaborately decorated rooms where 12 Christmas trees glistened.

Strike New Oil Well on Farm Near Albion

ALBION (UPI) — A new oil well, located in the "Hottest wildcat drilling area east of the Mississippi River," was brought in today on the W. F. Rosenau farm three miles south of Albion and just east of M99.

★ ★ ★

Drilling on the well was begun early in October by Tom Mask and the McClure oil interests of Mt. Pleasant and Alma.

The strike, made in the Trenton formation at about 4,340 feet, was expected to touch off further drillings in the area within the next 30-90 days.

Drillers said they felt the oil may be coming from the same source as wells now producing in the Scipio Field, located near Mosherville in northern Hillsdale County.

Goldfine Plans to File Appeal

Tycoon, Secretary Will Fight Jail Sentences Due to Start Jan. 7

BOSTON (AP) — Textile tycoon Bernard Goldfine and his secretary indicate they plan to appeal the jail terms imposed on them for contempt of court in failing to furnish company records to tax agents.

Goldfine, 67, a close friend of former White House aide Sherman Adams, was sentenced Monday to three months in prison for failing to produce the full records of his Lebanon Mills, Lebannon, N.H.

★ ★ ★

Miss Mildred Paperman, 43, his blonde secretary, was sentenced to 10 days in jail for failure to give tax agents some of the records of Goldfine's Northfield, Vt., mill and Strathmore Woolen Co. of Boston.

U.S. Dist. Judge Charles E. Wyzanski Jr., who convicted them last Friday, specified the jail terms would begin Jan. 7 so they would not be imprisoned during "this holiday season."

★ ★ ★

He released both in $1,000 personal recognizance. Attorneys indicated appeals would be prepared.

Judge Wyzanski dismissed civil contempt charges brought by the Securities and Exchange Commission against Goldfine and other officers of the East Boston Co.

NOTICE OF SALE
$1,000,000

Clarkston Community School District, Oakland County, Michigan, Building and Site Bonds, Series 1958.

Sealed bids for the purchase of Building and Site Bonds, Series 1958, to be issued by the Clarkston Community School District, Oakland County, Michigan, of the par value of $1,000,000 will be received by the undersigned, at the Clarkston Elementary School building in the Village of Clarkston, Michigan, until 8:00 o'clock p.m., Eastern Standard Time, on Monday, the 12th day of January, 1959, at which time and place said bids will be publicly opened and read.

Said bonds will be dated November 1, 1958, will be coupon bonds in the denomination of $1,000 each, will be numbered consecutively in the direct order of their maturities from 1 to 1,000, both inclusive, and will bear interest from their date at a rate or rates not exceeding 4½ per cent per annum, payable on June 1, 1959 and thereafter semiannually on December 1 and June 1. Each bid shall state the annual interest rate or rates upon which it is submitted, expressed in multiples of ⅛ of 1 per cent. The interest rate for each coupon period on any one bond shall be at one rate only. Accrued interest to date of delivery of such bonds must be paid by the purchaser at the time of delivery.

Said bonds will mature serially on the 1st day of June in each year as follows: $25,000 in each of the years 1959 thru 1963, $30,000 in each of the years 1964 through 1968, $35,000 in each of the years 1969 through 1972, $40,000 in each of the years 1973 through 1975, $45,000 in each of the years 1976 through 1978, $50,000 in each of the years 1979 and 1980, $55,000 in each of the years 1981 and 1982, and $60,000 in each of the years 1983 and 1984. Bonds maturing in the years 1970 to 1984, both inclusive, are subject to redemption by the school district prior to maturity, in inverse numerical order, on any one or more interest payment dates on and after June 1, 1969, at par and accrued interest plus a premium on each bond in accordance with the following schedule:

$25 if called to be redeemed on or after June 1, 1969 but prior to June 1, 1972
$20 if called to be redeemed on or after June 1, 1972 but prior to June 1, 1975
$15 if called to be redeemed on or after June 1, 1975 but prior to June 1, 1978
$10 if called to be redeemed on or after June 1, 1978 but prior to June 1, 1981
$5 if called to be redeemed on or after June 1, 1981.

Notice of redemption shall be published not less than 30 days prior to the date fixed for redemption, at least once in a newspaper or publication circulated in the City of Detroit, Michigan, which carries as a part of its regular service, notices of the sale of municipal bonds. The remaining bonds will not be subject to redemption prior to maturity. Both principal and interest will be payable at such bank or trust company as shall be designated by the original purchaser of the bonds.

The bonds are to be the first part of a total issue of $2,500,000 voted for the purpose of erecting and furnishing a new high school building and additional school facilities either as new buildings or additions to existing buildings, and acquiring additional school sites, and will be the general obligations of the school district which is authorized and required by law to levy upon all the taxable property therein such ad valorem taxes as may be necessary to pay said bonds and the interest thereon, without limitation as to rate or amount.

For the purpose of awarding the bonds, the interest cost of each bid will be computed by determining, at the rate or rates specified therein, the total dollar value of all interest on the bonds from February 1, 1959, to their respective maturities and deducting therefrom any premium. The bonds will be awarded to the bidder whose bid on the above computation produces the lowest interest cost to the school district. No proposal for the purchase of less than all of the bonds or at a price less than their par value, will be considered.

A certified or cashier's check in the amount of $20,000 drawn upon an incorporated bank or trust company and payable to the order of the Treasurer of the school district must accompany each bid as a guarantee of good faith on the part of the bidder, to be forfeited as liquidated damages if such bid be accepted and the bidder fails to take up and pay for the bonds. No interest shall be allowed on the good faith checks and checks of the unsuccessful bidders will be promptly returned to each bidder's representative or by registered mail.

Bids shall be conditioned upon the unqualified opinion of Dickinson, Wright, Davis, McKean and Cudlip (Claude H. Stevens, of Counsel), attorneys, Detroit, Michigan, approving the legality of the bonds. The cost of said legal opinion and of the printing of the bonds will be paid by the school district. Bonds will be delivered at Detroit, Michigan.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

Envelopes containing the bids should be plainly marked "Proposal for Bonds."

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR wife and mother, Mrs. Karen V. Nelson, who passed away Dec. 23, 1952.
Sleep on, dear mother, it has been six long years
Since you left our hearts filled with sadness and tears.
Yours was a heart so jolly and gay,
Scattering sunshine all along the way.
You know how we loved you, yes, love you yet,
Though God took you from us, we can never forget.
Where sweet flowers are ever blooming and banks are ever green;
The flowers we place upon your grave,
May wither and decay,
But love for you who sleeps beneath, will never fade away.
Time speeds on, five years have passed
Since death its gloom, its shadow cast within our home,
Where all seemed bright,
And took from us a shining light.
We miss that light and ever will,
Her vacant place there is none to fill.
Down here we mourn, but not in vain,
For up in heaven, we will meet again.
Sadly missed by husband, Victor, and children, Victor A., Vern, and Doris E.

THE FAMILY OF SAMUEL Wolfe acknowledge with deepest appreciation the beautiful floral offerings, thoughtfulness, & kindness expressed by their relatives & friends during their recent bereavement. Special thanks to Rev. Roy Botruff, C. F. Sherman Funeral Home, Brandon Grange No. 973, Ortonville O.E.S. No. 286 & Moms Unit No. 14.

De Gaulle Will Visit U.S. Next Spring

PARIS (AP) — Premier Charles de Gaulle has accepted an invitation to make a state visit to the United States early next spring, informed sources disclosed today.

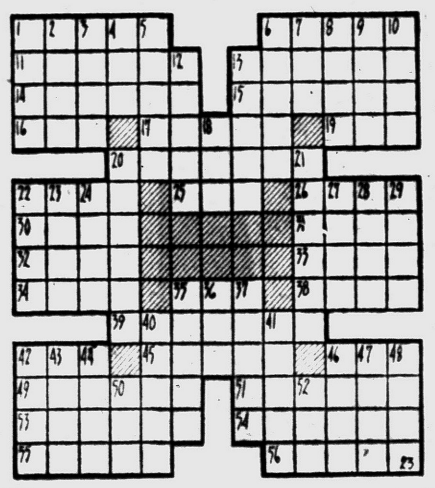

★ ★ ★

De Gaulle, who takes office as president of France Jan. 8, was first invited to the United States by President Eisenhower July 5, after he took over the reins of the French government. The invitation was renewed last month by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles when he called on De Gaulle during the NATO Council meeting in Paris.

Of the women in the U.S. who reach age 65 this year, one-fifth will go on to reach age 85.

Plays TV Role Christmas Eve

Veteran Comedian to Hide Behind Beard on Donna Reed Show

UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Dour-faced Buster Keaton voices a "Ho ho ho" as Santa Claus in a Christmas show, but we still won't even get a grin from the sad funny man.

The veteran comedian was in his Santa Claus costume as he prepped for his role in "The Donna Reed Show" to be aired on Christmas Eve.

In the show, Keaton portrays a hospital janitor who plays Santa Claus for kiddie patients.

However, the youngsters will have to take their presents from a sour-pussed St. Nick who refuses to smile.

"I never do," Keaton replied when asked if he would break his rule against smiling.

"Even if I did, you would never know it with this big beard on," he added.

He also has figured out how to appear as Santa without grinning.

"It's easy," he said, "just say 'ho ho ho' and don't smile."

★ ★ ★

Keaton's history as a sad-faced laugh getter goes back over 40 years.

"As I grew up," he reminisced, "it became obvious that if I laughed at what I did, the audience didn't.

"So, I found that the more serious I took my work the better the audience liked it. And by the time I made my first picture it was automatic for me not to smile."

And he sees no reason to start splitting his sides in laughter at this late date after all those glum years.

"I work just the same now as I did 40 years ago," he pointed out.

The veteran rib-tickler looked back over his more than 60 years as an entertainer, in a career which started when he was three.

"Charlie Chaplin, Harold Lloyd and myself outgrossed all the dramatic actors at the box office in foreign markets," he said.

"And what got laughs in England, got laughs in India, France, South America and other places."

Even though Keaton is one of the entertainment world's senior citizens, he's not thinking about retiring. If nothing else, he can always make commercials.

"That's the best job, it only takes you a couple of days to do them and then you can go home for a month," he said.

But besides the commercials, Buster is receiving, and accepting offers for TV and night club appearances. He's even planning a dance sequence with Mrs. Arthur Murray.

★ ★ ★

He's not planning any movie roles now although he would jump at the chance to work in another "Around the World in 80 Days."

"Unless you put out a big picture like 'The King and I' or 'Around the World in 80 Days' you just don't make any money in the motion picture business," he complained, "and even then it's a risk."

Although Keaton is an active "old pro," father time is busting down his reserve.

He smiled several times, even laughed!"

25 Vessels Stuck in Ice for Holiday

MONTREAL (AP) — The crews of 25 foreign-owned freighters face a bleak and cheerless Christmas on the ice-filled waters of the St. Lawrence River.

Twelve of the 24 still were riding at anchor in Montreal Harbor, awaiting the arrival today of the ice-breakers N. B. McLean and Ernest LaPointe, which are battering their way through a gigantic jam east of Montreal.

The first task for the two ships will be to free the Transontario, stuck fast in mid-channel off the eastern end of Montreal Island, and getting dangerously low on fuel.

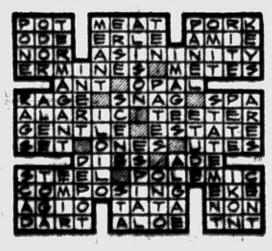

Five more freighters were held in the ice which forms quickly on the shallow-slow-moving waters of Lake St. Peter, 60 miles east of Montreal.

Lewis In for Martin

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Comedian Jerry Lewis will appear on the Eddie Fisher television show tonight in place of his former partner Dean Martin, who walked out in a salary hassle.

Lewis agreed to fill in, without charge, after Martin backed out on the eve of the show.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

YOU SEE, IT'S THIS WAY — Red Skelton and guest Allen Jenkins, clad in the rags of Freddie the Freeloader and Freddie's pal, Muggsy, plot to have themselves tossed into jail for the winter in the holiday presentation of O'Henry's Christmas tale, "The Cop and the Anthem," Tuesday, Dec. 23 on the Red Skelton Show from 9:30 to 10 p. m. on CBS-TV.

Wild West Is Moving to Jolly Old England

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Hugh O'Brian, alias Wyatt Earp, is off to London to do 32 personal appearances at the Odeon Theater—and so fellow TV star George de Witt flung him a bon voyage party attended by more girls than men, practically all the girls being beautiful.

WILSON

That was because Hugh opened up his little black bachelor book and plucked out the most interesting phone numbers.

At the party I saw such dolls as Doris Dondon of Hollywood, Sandu Scott, and Eva Gabor, whom I at first didn't recognize.

"You've changed your hair!" I alibied to Eva.

"No, dolling," she cooed. "I combed it."

Hugh will recruit British girl dancers for his show. "It'll be strange for them," he explained. "They'll wear western costumes and do square dances—these people who only recently have been doing the Highland Fling."

Down in Miami I saw a billboard ad plugging Jamaica. Noel Coward, pictured drinking a cup of coffee, did it in these words: "Come to Jamaica. It's no place like home" . . . Sally Margolin saw this sign outside of the casinos in Las Vegas: "Come on in. We offer free aspirin and tender sympathy."

All the way out there in Saigon, my Laugh Scout Ted Chinell (of San Francisco) heard this conversation about a chorus girl:

"I wonder who made her dress."

"The police, I imagine."

And Milton Berle defines pneumonia as "a common cold handled by MCA" . . . While Ham Park of Salt Lake City, receiving a TV singer whose debut was a dismal flop, says: "But it could have been worse. It could have been longer" . . . Which reminded J. O. Jewett of one of William Jenning's Bryan's first speeches. His mother, who was present, later said, "William, it seemed to me you didn't improve all your opportunities." He asked, "How do you mean?" And she replied, "Well, you had several opportunities to sit down before you did."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Actress Virginia De Luce, who was bitten by a rat in a Detroit hotel and literally couldn't talk (she had to learn all over again), has recovered and is about to land a good role . . . Patti Page and Charles O'Curran will build a new home in Palm Springs . . . The late Bill Corum was said to have been born in Booneville, Mo., but that was "the big town" in the area. He really came from Booneville's 'suburb" which was called Speed, Mo., named after a leading local family. It had a population of about 500, and Bill's dad ran a general store and was postmaster.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: A sign at a garage that says: "Next time you have a blowout, invite us to your flat" — Via Paul Morris.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: The average business executive's motto is "Avoid the Christmas rush—make your secretary do your shopping"—Tony Pettito.

"Neither rain nor cold nor earthquake," says the Emporia Gazette, "can halt our appointed coffee break." . . . That's earl, brother.

Thanks to Skippy, the Dog

Cat Escapes Fiery Death

LANSING (AP)—Fluffy the cat still has all nine of her lives left today, thanks to a helping paw from Skippy the dog.

★ ★ ★

Both animals are owned by Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Howse of DeWitt Township about 10 miles north of here.

The Howses report the animals were frolicking together Sunday when a piece of burning paper blew out of an incinerator and landed on Fluffy's back turning her into a hot cat without a tin roof.

Fur afire, she streaked across the snow-covered landscape like a blazing rocket with Skippy dogging her tracks.

★ ★ ★

The dog caught up, seized Fluffy by the nape of the neck and quickly doused the blaze by plunging the fiery feline in a nearby mound of snow.

Ferndale Votes for Parking Lot

Jury Returns Verdict After 3-Week Hearing on Condemnation

FERNDALE—A jury late yesterday afternoon climaxed a three week condemnation hearing by returning with a verdict that there is a necessity for a 350-car off-street parking lot in Ferndale.

Jurors, nine women and one man, also decided that the several owners of 16 parcels of property where the lot is slated to be built on Withington street, west of Woodward avenue, should be paid a total of $295,800 in damages.

The City Council met last night and voted acceptance of this amount which the city will have to pay to property owners.

Oakland County Circuit Judge William J. Beer charged the jury at 1:50 p.m. yesterday. Jurors deliberated until shortly before 5 p.m. when they returned their verdict.

★ ★ ★

Earlier this year the city initiated condemnation proceedings to acquire property for the 900 by 146-foot lot.

TB Patient Faces Charge After Sanatorium Death

MUSKEGON (UPI) — A 32-year-old tuberculosis patient was expected to be arraigned today on a charge of assault and battery in the death of another patient in the Muskegon County TB sanatorium.

Muskegon County Prosecutor Robert Cavanagh issued a warrant against Ray Raby who was held on an open charge following the death last Friday of Simon Schiller, 58, New Era.

Due to the many requests for information on CONTACT LENSES, we are devoting today's column to—

CONTACT LENSES
Fact and Fiction

Q. Are they the lenses that you put directly on the eye? M.L.D.

A. Contact lenses are tiny plastics which are worn beneath the eyelids. They replace spectacle lenses and frames by correcting the visual defects where these defects really exist —at the eye itself.

Q. With the lenses touching the eyes, you'd think they could injure . . . ? R. A. R.

A. The lenses actually float free on the front surface of the eye, on a layer of tear fluid that prevents them from coming in contact with the delicate tissue of the cornea.

Q. Do they have the lenses perfected? S. L. W.

A. Advances in science would come to a standstill and progress would cease if researchers would assume that anything was completely perfected. The development of the small contact lens within the past few years has increased the comfortable wearing time of most patients for the full waking day, the same as for eyeglasses.

Hal Boyle Asks:

What Kind of Christmas Character Are You?

NEW YORK (AP)—Few things make people more human than Christmas.

And since it makes them human, it makes them different. The wonder of the season affects them in various ways.

Here are a few standard types that can be found in every community—and one of them may be you:

★ ★ ★

The Grouch—He hates the whole idea of good will toward anybody, let alone everybody. On Christmas eve he puts a bear trap in his fireplace, baits it with a calendar photo of Marilyn Monroe — in hopes that Santa Claus will reach for it and get a broken arm.

The Fair Trader—She sends out exactly 287 Christmas cards herself, and worries if she doesn't get exactly 287 in return.

★ ★ ★

The Hard Luck Artist—Never in his whole life has he received a Christmas present he really could use. The necktie is always the wrong color, the shirt the wrong size, the cufflinks are superfluous since he never wears them. But he enjoys his misery, and if anybody ever did send him something that fit him it would ruin his Christmas.

The Cecil B. DeMille Producer—He starts decorating the outside of his home the day after Thanksgiving, and spends enough money on it to make another "Ten Commandments." Early in February he goes into bankruptcy, moves away and leaves the papier-mache reindeer and sled to rot quietly atop his empty home.

★ ★ ★

The Chronic Caroler—This guy knows all the words, but not the tunes, of every Christmas song ever written, sings them incessantly at his desk, on the bus, in the supermarket, and over the telephone if you should ring a wrong number and get him.

The Impassioned Imbiber—Christmas always makes him gay. He is lit before the first tree, and is still glowing when the last wreath is packed away. He has few Christmas memories—as he can't remember anything.

The Human Willow Tree—Christmas always makes him sad. He weeps in everybody's else's wassail bowl. He cries over his lost youth, your lost youth, anybody's lost youth. Everything that ever happened to him happened on Christmas. He had his tonsils out on Christmas; his car was stolen on another Christmas.

The Creep of Christmas Past—He yearns for the old-fashioned Christmas of long ago, when people were simpler and loved simple things—just an orange in a Christmas stocking was enough to bring joy. But if you send him just an orange for Christmas he'd sulk until Easter.

The Solitary Reaper—He wraps up a dozen two-bit can openers in fancy packages, then tours the homes of all his friends on Christmas day. He can't lose. He is sure to get a drink at each home—and probably a present.

The Ordinary Guy—He spent a little more than he could afford, he got about what he expected out of Christmas—a good time and a warmer feeling toward people.

On Dec. 26 he wouldn't give a dime for another Christmas — and wouldn't take a million dollars for the one he just had.

Recipe for 100 Years Is Daily Snuff, Beer

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Want to live to be 100 plus? Try a daily ration of snuff and beer, says Mrs. Annie Seifert, who was 101 Monday.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Seifert topped her snuff and glass of beer with some ice cream and cake at a birthday celebration at the Little Sisters of the Poor home. Among the presents was a good-sized supply of snuff.

Keeper's Order Saves Man From Elephant

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—An annoyed elephant at the Kansas City Zoo pushed an attendant against a wall, then released the man at the head keeper's shouted orders.

★ ★ ★

"He got off lucky," said William T. A. Cully, zoo director.

★ ★ ★

Cully said Kent was told to water the elephants with a hose while staying outside the cage.

However, Kent went inside. When two elephants crowded in for water he tried to push one away. That's when Mr. Temple, a 3,500-Indian elephant, turned on him.

Plans Watch for UFOs

ALAMOGORDO, N. M. (AP)—L. J. Lorenzen, director of an organization gathering information on unidentified flying objects, says this season may show a heavy rash of sightings. Lorenzen is gathering volunteers to start a 24-hour watch on the skies for UFOs.

Helping Dreamers to Dream Keeps America Strong

It has always been the dreamers of better ways of doing things who have made our lives more worthwhile.

Yet the dreamer of today, if he is to contribute to our progress, must be an educated dreamer. He must have the training to dream beyond the present, beyond the knowledge we have now.

Our colleges and universities are the places our dreams are given direction. Ironically, today they face a crisis. Low salaries are driving qualified teachers into other fields. Many classrooms are overcrowded. And applications are expected to double by 1967.

Won't you help the college of your choice now? The returns will be greater than you think.

116th YEAR ★★★★ PONTIAC, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 24, 1958 ASSOCIATED PRESS UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL 7c

Oh Wondrous Night

AND IT CAME TO PASS in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world would be taxed . . .

And all went to be taxed, everyone into his own city.

And Joseph also went up from Galilee . . . unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem . . . to be taxed with Mary his espoused wife . . .

And so it was, that, while they were there . . . she brought forth her first-born son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were in the same country, shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone 'round about them: and they were sore afraid.

And the angel said unto them, "Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

"For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.

"And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger."

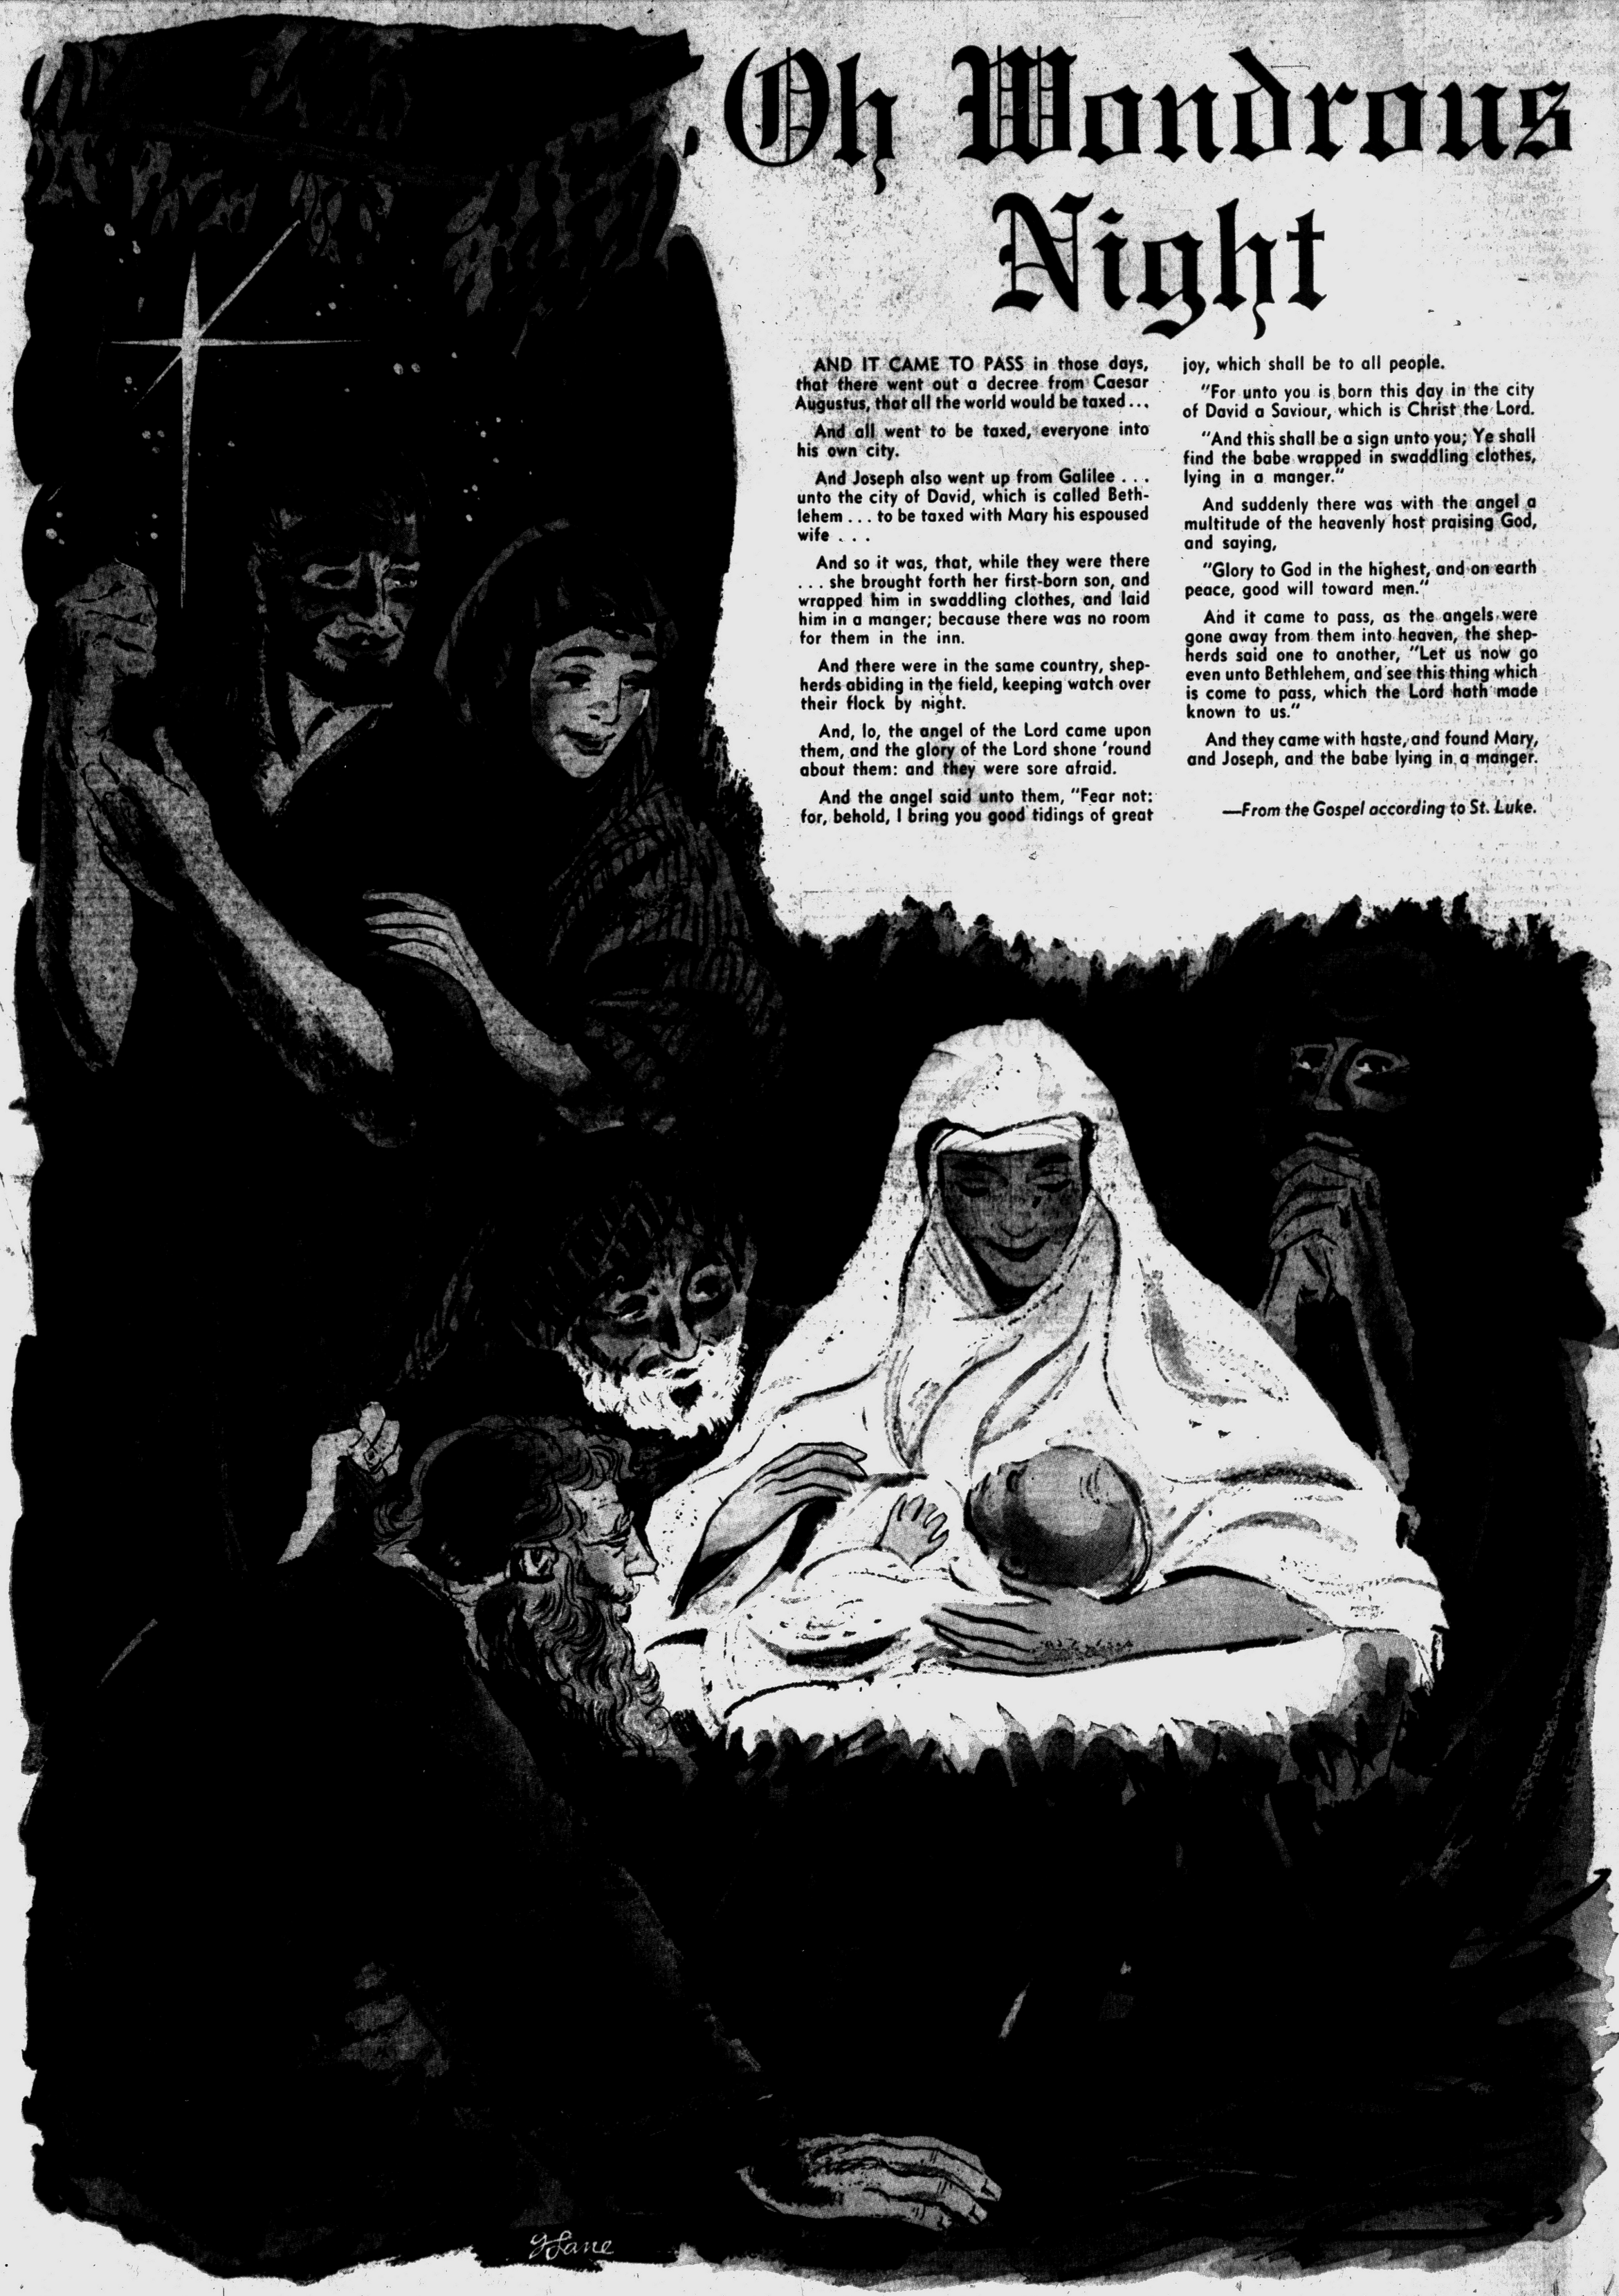

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying,

"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, "Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known to us."

And they came with haste, and found Mary, and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger.

City Employes Get Big Gift

Granted Cost-of-Living Raises, Longer Vacation to Come Under MUSA

City employes of Pontiac received a big Christmas present from the City Commission last evening when it was decided that employes for the first time should come under the Michigan Unemployment Security Act.

Another present was handed employes when commissioners granted cost-of-living wage increases and longer vacation periods.

★ ★ ★

Employes earning up to $5,200 annually were given a wage boost of $78 a year, while employes earning more than $5,200 were granted a 1½ per cent cost-of-living wage increase.

The vacations of two weeks be granted all employes through the first five years of continuous service, and that the usual custom of adding a third week for the fifth year only be continued, commissioners agreed.

★ ★ ★

Also, one day vacation per added year from six to ten years shall be approved so that an employe serving continuously for ten years will be entitled to three weeks vacation.

It was also approved that injury compensation be based on sixty working days instead of 60 calendar days.

The Joint Council of Municipal Employes had asked the city for the unemployment coverage and also the added wage and fringe benefits.

★ ★ ★

Sam Baker, president of Local 100, AFL-CIO, of municipal employes, rose to thank commissioners after they took this action last night.

Robert A. Stierer, assistant city manager, said the city's request to the Michigan Employment Security Commission would ask that 681 employes come under the act retroactive to July 1.

★ ★ ★

Not affected will be elected or appointed officials.

Commissioners passed an emergency ordinance placing the employes under the state act for at least two years, and held out that the contract may be terminated at the end of this time.

Snow Flurries Kindle Hopes for White Yule

Falling temperatures and light snow flurries, enough to keep alive the hope of a White Christmas despite official forecasts, Wednesday dominated the northernmost and central portions of the nation's weather map.

★ ★ ★

The U.S. Weather Bureau reported a fresh movement of Canadian air into the Dakotas and Minnesota and its influence was felt as far south as Oklahoma early Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

There were drifting snow flurries from Minnesota across the Great Lakes and into New York state and northern New England, but appreciable amounts were rare. Some locally heavy snows fell on the southern shore of Lake Superior, and five inches fell at Houghton, Mich. Tuesday night.

★ ★ ★

While the trend was to somewhat cooler in the central part of the country, southerly breezes caused warming throughout much of the southeast.

Temperatures in the 60s ranged along the Gulf Coast, dropping only slightly as the moisture-laden aid moved through the Carolinas and eastern Virginia. There also were frequent reports of rain and drizzle from the Gulf northeastward to southern Pennsylvania.

SANTA'S HELPERS — Members of the Pontiac Naval Reserve Training Center have been quietly working as Santa's helpers for the past month and are now really playing the part. They began collecting defective toys from area merchants and families in the middle of November, and worked day and night to repair them. Now, with enough toys for 300 underprivileged children in the Pontiac area, the Navy men are busy packing and distributing the gifts through cooperation with the Pontiac St. Vincent De Paul Church charity organization. Here, Hospital Corpsman First Class Gerald W. Perry of 383½ N. Perry St., packs some of the toys for distribution.

Slain Woman's Father on Way to Coast

Seek Husband in 'Hired' Killing

VENTURA, Calif. (UPI) — Attorney Frank Duncan, 29, whose mother is accused of masterminding a plot to kill his pregnant wife, was sought today by authorities and a grieving father who will spend his Christmas this year arranging burial for his slain daughter.

Elias Kupcyzk, 61, a railroad worker from Benito, Manitoba, Canada, and father of Olga Duncan, 30, who was brutally murdered in a for-hire killing, is on his way here, according to Coroner Virgil Payton.

★ ★ ★

Kupcyzk, whose wife, Jessie, collapsed Sunday of a heart attack and shock when she was informed that Olga's body was uncovered in a shallow grave near here, is expected to arrive tomorrow on Christmas Day.

The grieving father must find Duncan, a Santa Barbara attorney, in order to obtain a release of his daughter's body from the coroner's custody.

Coroner Payton said that even though Duncan had separated from his wife two weeks after their June 20 marriage, he was still legally the next of kin and had first say as to what should be done with the body.

Duncan has been missing since Sunday when Augustine Baldonado, 25, confessed to authorities that he and Louis Moya, 22, had kidnaped Olga Nov. 17 and killed her. Both men were laborers and have long police records for petty crimes.

★ ★ ★

Baldonado told police Duncan's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Duncan, 54, promised to pay them $6,000 if they killed her daughter-in-law, whom police say she resented and had threatened because she was afraid of losing her son's affections.

The senior Mrs. Duncan already has admitted carrying out a bold scheme in which she obtained an annulment of her son's marriage to the Canadian-born nurse.

Duncan was sought by authorities so he can be served with a subpoena to a grand jury hearing Friday in which the district attorney will seek murder indictments against Mrs. Duncan, Moya and Baldonado.

Moya, who has spent the past eight Christmasses in jail and tomorrow will spend his ninth Christmas behind bars, has denied he had anything to do with the bludgeon-strangulation of Olga.

Mrs. Duncan also has denied any part in the macabre plot. She charged that Baldonado and Moya were extorting money from her and killed Olga to "spite" her.

Liz, Brigitte Make Top 10; Beat Cowboys to Draw

By JAMES BACON
AP Motion Picture Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor and Brigitte Bardot today gave shapely proof that sex appeal is outgalloping cowpokes at movie boxoffices.

The two international beauties made the coveted top 10 list of movie moneymakers in the annual exhibitors' poll conducted by Motion Picture Herald.

★ ★ ★

Actor Glenn Ford was named the No. 1 boxoffice star of 1958. A spokesman for the trade magazine said that Ford's comedy roles in such pictures as "Teahouse of the August Moon" and "Don't Go Near the Water" earned him the title more than his Western roles.

★ ★ ★

John Wayne and Gary Cooper, perennial Western heroes, were missing from the list. It was Wayne's first time out of the top 10 in 10 years.

The list in order of popularity: 1. Ford. 2. Miss Taylor. 3. Jerry Lewis. 4. Marlon Brando. 5. Rock Hudson. 6. William Holden. 7. Miss Bardot. 8. Yul Brynner. 9. James Stewart. 10. Frank Sinatra.

Trade sources placed significance on Miss Taylor and Miss Bardot making the list. There were no women among the 1957 top 10.

It was the first time that the beauteous widow of the late Mike Todd ever made the list. Her selection came in the face of scandalous headlines involving her in the breakup of Eddie Fisher's marriage to Debbie Reynolds.

Miss Bardot, also no stranger to headlines, became the first foreign star ever to make the list without help from an American-made film.

One of her pictures, "And God Created Woman," will gross an estimated four million dollars from limited American showings, mostly in so-called art houses.

Comic Jerry Lewis climbed from ninth place in 1957 to third this year to outdistance his former partner, Dean Martin. Martin hasn't made the list since he and Lewis split up three years ago.

ESCAPES KANSAS "GUNMAN" — Ten-year-old Prince Philip follows a family pet into London's Liverpool rail station for the royal family's annual Christmas trek to Sandringham castle. An American youngster, Pete Murray, 8, of Kansas City, caused some excitement on the train when he approached the royal car with a toy six-shooter to meet the prince. He was halted by a Scotland Yard guard. A cast covers the sprained ankle of the prince.

Revise Policy on Local Arrests

Setup to Allow Persons Taken on Weekends to Arrange for Bond

Some changes were made last night in a new city policy which permits persons arrested by Pontiac police before or on weekends to post bonds to assure their appearance in court Monday.

★ ★ ★

A substitute provision was added, upon the recommendation of City Attorney William A. Ewart, whereby the final decision on whether the person should be released will rest with the municipal judges.

Ewart had opposed a plan under the original resolution, adopted in August, whereby prisoners could appeal to a deputy coroner for a medical examination to determine his condition.

It was Ewart's argument that coroners "wouldn't enter into this setup" for fear damage suits might result should prisoners they certified as fit later prove to have been injured.

★ ★ ★

Another new provision of what is actually a City Commission directive to the Police Department, and not a city ordinance, is that police must give prisoners the opportunity to call an attorney, wife or friend if they so request upon their arrest for a misdemeanor, such as drunk driving.

Complaints had been made that local law officials were not granting this constitutional right, Ewart said.

The policy states that the arrested person can post a security bond with the desk sergeant when arrested. This money is turned over to the Municipal Court when it opens on the following Monday.

★ ★ ★

Major advantage of the policy is that it permits persons to stay out of jail during a weekend, Ewart pointed out.

Highland Park Man Shot Attacking Thug

HIGHLAND PARK (AP) — Kenneth McCloud, 50, was shot in the stomach today by a bandit he bombarded with empty beer bottles.

The Highland Park man was reported in serious condition. The bandit escaped with $115.

Police said McCloud was in the washroom of a Highland Park bar when the bandit entered and ordered the bartender and three patrons to turn over their cash. He got $83 from the bartender and $32 from the patrons.

As the gunman turned to leave, McCloud emerged and began throwing beer bottles. One struck the robber in the head and felled him. The man then fired twice from the floor. One bullet struck McCloud.

7,500 Watch Yule Ceremony

President to Celebrate Holiday With Family at White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower used the occasion of lighting the national Christmas tree Tuesday night to pledge again that the United States wants peace, not war.

"The people of the United States do not wish to enslave or control any other nation or any other people," Eisenhower said in a brief address.

"The United States will never use its strength to break the peace."

★ ★ ★

Eisenhower made no reference to his earlier Christmas wish of "peace on earth and good will to men everywhere" as recorded and broadcast from the Atlas satellite last week. But he said that Christmas message, not limited to this nation or the free world, "is a universal, divine spark that lights the soul of mankind."

A crowd of 7,500 persons watched as he spoke and then pushed a button to set aglow the 7,000 lights on a giant spruce tree erected in a park near the White House. A gentle rain fell during the half-hour ceremony.

The President, like millions of other Americans, plans to spend Christmas at home surrounded by his family.

Joining the President and his wife for a big Christmas dinner at the White House will be their son and daughter-in-law, Maj. and Mrs. John Eisenhower and their four youngsters.

The presidential grandchildren are David, 10, Barbara Anne, 9, Susan, who will be 7 a week from today and Mary Jean, who celebrated her third birthday Sunday.

★ ★ ★

The president got official Christmas duties out of the way in advance. He and Mrs. Eisenhower sent out formal season's greeting cards to hundreds of dignitaries all over the world. On Monday they held their yearly yuletime party for members of the White House staff.

On Friday President and Mrs. Eisenhower will go to their Gettysburg, Pa., farm, where Eisenhower will work on messages to be sent to Congress early in the new session. They will stay through New Year's Day.

9 Perish, 3 Survive British Plane Crash

BOURNEMOUTH, England (UPI) — A four-engined Bristol Britannia carrying 12 persons on a routine test flight crashed into a fog-bound field near here today and disintegrated as it hit the ground.

Nine bodies were taken to Christchurch Hospital near the crash scene, police said. There were three survivors.

All the dead and injured were British Overseas Airways personnel, BOAC announced.

The prop-jet Britannia had been on a 90-minute flight from London Airport 100 miles north of here and apparently was coming in for a landing at Hurn Airport outside Bournemouth.

Teen Club Committees Seek Building for Center

BIRMINGHAM — During the holidays, Teen Club committees will concentrate their efforts on trying to find a suitable building as a proposed center. Two sites have been rejected, and an appeal is made to the public for information on possibly suitable buildings.

★ ★ ★

Community organizations, such as the YMCA, Council of Churches and the United Church Women, are being asked to appoint representatives to the Teen Club Senior Board. They also will be asked to assist, either financially or through services, with the organization of the center.

All committees are being made up of an equal number of teens and adults. The plan is to have the young people residing in the Birmingham School District help in building the organization they want.

Teen committees have far outclassed adult groups in setting up organizational plans, according to Mrs. Robert Girardin, a member of the Junior Women's Club which is spearheading the drive.

★ ★ ★

The boys and girls have drawn up their rules and regulations on membership and conduct, and already have held several committee sessions on their own.

They are carrying the Teen Club message and plans to adults by speaking at service clubs. The young speakers are available to any organization which would like to learn more about the center.

The next meeting has been set for 8 p.m. Jan. 15 at the Community House. It is hoped that a suitable home may be announced at that time.

John W. McGill, president of the Sheffield Estates subdivision, has announced that judging of home Christmas decorations will be done Dec. 26.

He said the idea is spreading through the southeast section of the city and much improvement is noted this year. Interior decorations visible from the street at night will be included for judging.

The regular Friday meeting of the Birmingham Senior Men's Club will not be held this week. The Community House is closing "as early as possible this afternoon" to open again Saturday morning, Mrs. Effie Schaeffer, Community House director said.

Baldwin Public Library closed at noon today and will open again Friday morning, according to Miss Jeanne Loyd, head librarian.

3 Small Children Die in Flaming Home

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—A fire flashed through a two-story frame house early today, killing three small children trapped in an upstairs bedroom.

A passing cab driver spotted the fire in the six-room home and relayed a fire call to his dispatcher before attempting to enter the blazing home.
