North Viet Charges U.S. Bomb Attacks

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam charged today the United States carried out new bombing attacks deep in its territory yesterday and demanded an end of what it said "were acts of war."

American comment on the North Vietnamese charge was not immediately available.

★ ★ ★

Reports from Saigon have carried no mention of bombing attacks north of the demilitarized zone dividing North and South Vietnam.

A spokesman for Hanoi's delegation at the Paris peace talks asserted the American bombings had occurred for the third straight day yesterday.

The spokesman charged that three F4 jets of the U.S. Air Force dropped explosives and fragmentation bombs on four villages and hamlets in the Province of Quang Binh. One of the villages attacked, he said, is more than 40 miles north of the demilitarized zone.

The United States has claimed the right to send planes, under armed escort, over North Vietnam for reconnaissance. It also has warned the North Vietnamese that U. S. authorities will not hesitate to defend Americans imperiled by hostile actions or to go to the rescue of the crews of downed aircraft.

★ ★ ★

The North Vietnamese have disputed these claimed American rights.

Regardless of that dispute, the spokesman asserted the Americans attacked yesterday and the action was in no way connected with rescue operations.

VC STATEMENT

The Vietcong's National Liberation Front issued a statement saying: "If the United States wants to settle the South Vietnamese problem by peaceful means, it should start conversations with the National Liberation Front of South Vietnam . . . The puppet administration of Saigon, which is only an instrument in the service of American aggression, represents nobody."

★ ★ ★

The front reiterated its stand that it had agreed to take part in the Paris talks as an independent party, on equal footing with other parties.

★ ★ ★

The South Vietnamese government, meanwhile was reported preparing a peace plan to be submitted to the expanded talks when they got under way.

A South Vietnamese spokesman said the major priority in his government's plan would be an early cease-fire.

Cong Orders New Guerrilla, Terrorist Effort

HONG KONG (AP) — The Vietcong today ordered a new guerrilla and terrorist offensive against American and South Vietnamese units and officials.

Issued in the name of the military high command of the Vietcong's liberation armed forces, the order was beamed to South Vietnam by Radio Hanoi and monitored in Hong Kong.

★ ★ ★

It called for a guerrilla and terrorist campaign to "seek out, eliminate, and utterly destroy":

- South Vietnamese central, district and local government officials.
- American-South Vietnamese pacification teams working in rural farm and village areas in an attempt to win peasants and villagers over to the Saigon government.
- American and combined American-South Vietnamese search-and-destroy units which it said were moving deeper afield and "destroying our villages and occupying our areas."

UNDERGROUND UNITS

The order was addressed to the Vietcong's regular troops, guerrilla units, and "semiarmed" units. The latter are underground units that function as farmers by day and fight by night.

★ ★ ★

"The military high command," the order declared, "calls upon all the units of the main forces army, the regional army, the guerrilla forces, and the semi-armed units to make certain that the above orders are strictly obeyed in order to obtain greater and more glorious victories for our people."

★ ★ ★

The command also ordered its military and civilian infiltration units to gain more success in "the campaign of action inside the enemy's army and inside the enemy's administration."

The infiltrators must secure more surrenders of troops and weapons, more military defectors, and more administrative defectors, the order said, adding: "eliminate those who are stubborn and those who stand in the way."

Gas Danger Forces 15 Families to Flee

MARSHALL (AP) — A red tag on the front of your house means danger if you live in Marshall, Mich., where about 15 families had to flee a series of highly volatile, unexplained natural gas geysers early Thanksgiving Day.

Thunderous rumblings and 20-foot geysers forced the evacuation of a half-mile-square area yesterday.

Water pressure in wells rose sharply. Swampland bubbled. A 20-foot section of paved street was torn as a geyser of gaseous water erupted from the middle of the rubble.

"It looks like Yellowstone Park down there," said geologist James Woodruff of the State Conservation Department, motioning toward the Kalamazoo River bank, where most of the gas appeared to be escaping.

'LOTS OF BUBBLING'

"There aren't any more big geysers, but a lot of bubbling," he said, adding the eruptions could begin anew.

The level of the Kalamazoo River dropped roughly seven feet in the area about the same time that an explosion ripped through the house of Raymond Kulzick and his family, who were away on a visit. Damage to the house was estimated to be $25,000.

Calhoun County Sheriff Joseph Liebheer theorized the explosion was caused by a spark from a heater in the basement as fumes seeped up through the basement floor.

Authorities were unable to explain the water level drop in the river.

NO LEAKS

Geologists in the area said the gas seepages were almost surely natural, and a check by gas company workers disclosed no leaks.

It was the second time in a month that mysterious underground gas pressure built up in Lower Michigan.

Earlier a seven-mile square area at Lee Township, about 12 miles away in south central Michigan, was punctuated by the gas-and-water geysers.

Geologists then determined the geysers had something to do with an oil well shaft being drilled. The well casing was filled with a large quantity of concrete and the situation appeared to clear up.

One mining expert said he doubted the Marshall and Lee incidents were connected. He said the gases sealed off at Lee would have had to travel 12 miles at a level 4,000 feet beneath the surface because of rock strata in the area.

★ ★ ★

Gas company workers testing for seepage in the area found 100 per cent concentrations of the odorless, colorless natural gas near the surface in some places.

Coal Mine Hit by New Blast

MANNINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — Another "major explosion" ripped through No. 9 today, spewing smoke and flame from the mine's Llewellyn portal near the area where 78 men have been trapped nine days.

The early morning blast, the 16th since the initial explosion Nov. 20, sent flames and a column of white smoke spiraling above the entrance.

★ ★ ★

Officials directing efforts to rescue the entombed miners promised a "very, very comprehensive evaluation" of the situation within the sprawling mine today.

Drillings made by boring through to the deep caverns below produced air samples showing high concentrations of deadly carbon monoxide and dangerous methane gas.

'CRITICAL PLACE'

Peter P. Ferretti, a vice president of Consolidation Coal Co., was asked if the mine would be sealed and he replied: "I can't comment on that. This, of course, is a possibility. All the information at this time doesn't look good. It doesn't look encouraging."

Blue Cross Seeks 4.6 Pct. Rate Hike

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan Blue Cross announced today it proposes to raise rates an average of 4.6 per cent next April 1 for 577,000 of the 4.7 million who buy hospital insurance from it.

Blue Shield, a companion insurer of doctor bills, said it planned no increase in rates in the quarter beginning in April.

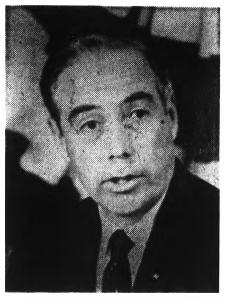
Blue Cross said it would raise rates 4.8 per cent for 540,000 group and group conversion subscribers and 2.1 per cent for 37,000 nongroup members.

Group rates vary according to usage and coverage carried, and Blue Cross said it had 18,000 separate groups, rates for which are reviewable quarterly.

SHOPPING DAYS 'TIL CHRISTMAS

On Mission for Nixon

Scranton to Tour Mideast



WILLIAM SCRANTON

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Richard M. Nixon will send former Gov. William S. Scranton of Pennsylvania to Israel and neighboring Arab nations next week to bring himself up to the minute on the potentially explosive Mideast situation.

It was learned late yesterday that Nixon will send Scranton on the trip to gather information Nixon will need as chief executive. Among the Arab countries that are expected to be on the itinerary are the United Arab Republic, Jordan, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia and Iran.

The fact that this was Nixon's second overseas assignment for Scranton since the beginning of the presidential campaign added new impetus to speculation that Scranton might be tapped for either secretary of state or U.S. ambassador to the United Nations in the new administration.

Scranton, after returning from a European fact-finding mission for Nixon, said he had no further aspirations for official positions. But he steered clear of declaring he would not accept a high post were one offered.

In 1964, Scranton made an unsuccessful effort to wrest the GOP presidential nomination from Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

Aides said Nixon is meeting today with staff advisers—not callers from outside the inner circle. Next week the flow of appointments with outsiders will resume—before the president-elect takes off Thursday for a few days in California that will encompass an address before the Republican Governors Association meeting at Palm Springs.

The Nixon family made a flying visit to Washington yesterday to share Thanksgiving with ailing former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and his family.

Nixon later reported he spent about 45 minutes with Eisenhower, recuperating from a series of heart attacks at Walter Reed Army Medical Center. He said they discussed "staffing of the new administration" and that Eisenhower gave him "some good advice and council."

The President-elect expressed hope he could meet again with the former chief executive before completing his selections for top federal positions.

But Eisenhower was not well enough to join the others as they dined on an Army-prepared Thanksgiving dinner in a small ward dining room. So members of the two families took turns joining Eisenhower for a course served in his sick room.

Adviser to Nixon Proposes Permanent Flexible Surtax

WASHINGTON (AP) — A permanent income tax surcharge, adjusted annually by Congress to promote maximum growth with price stability, is proposed by an economic adviser to President-elect Richard M. Nixon.

The moderate surtax, explained economist Herbert Stein, would be a stabilizing tool whose rates in some years could be "zero or even negative."

★ ★ ★

Stein heads a fiscal study team for Nixon and is director of economic studies at the Brookings Institution, privately supported organization for research in economics, government and the social sciences.

Nixon made a campaign commitment to let the 10 per cent surtax expire as scheduled June 30 or "at least significantly reduce it." But Stein suggests making the surtax an important addition to the government's kit of anti-inflation tools.

'FAIRLY ROUTINE'

The Brookings economist noted Congress is most unlikely to give any president discretionary power to adjust taxes, but suggested adjustment of a continuing surtax could become "a fairly routine" process.

"The president would recommend the rate of the surcharge, which might be zero or even negative, on the basis of whatever combinations of considerations he thinks important.

"Congress would debate the proposal, and pass it, or reject it. It might use the legislation in an attempt to force the president to change the expenditure side of the budget, as it did in 1968.

"In any case, both Congress and the president would have a vehicle for making an over-all fiscal decision in a fairly routine way . . . with assurance that the decision would not bind the future . . ."

Fair, a Bit Warmer Due for December

It looks like December will arrive tomorrow night fair and somewhat warmer than tonight's forecast.

The U.S. Weather Bureau official day-by-day prediction for the weekend looks like this:

TODAY — Cloudy and colder with occasional light snow or snow flurries, mixed with some light rain or drizzle. High 34 to 39, with temperature mostly steady or slowly falling. Gradual clearing and colder tonight, low 19 to 24.

TOMORROW — Fair becoming a little warmer in the afternoon.

SUNDAY — Fair and warmer.

Showers dumped 1.35 inches in rain on the Pontiac area on Thanksgiving Day. A few snow flurries were mixed with the rain during early evening.

A dismal 32 was the low temperature prior to 8 a.m. today in downtown Pontiac. The 2 p.m. reading was 35.

Whitmer Surveys Superschool Obstacles

Barring delays in the State Legislature or in the construction work, Pontiac Schools Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer feels there will be few obstacles in the construction of Pontiac's west side super high school.

WHITMER

The site for the new $19-million school—65 acres of Pontiac State Hospital land — was selected last week over a 55-acre center city site around Orchard Lake Avenue and Bagley.

The site for the high school, which will serve 4,500 students, had been the object of considerable controversy for several months.

★ ★ ★

For many people supporting the center site, the selection of the hospital location was seen as a sign of continuation of the decay of downtown Pontiac and further division of the races.

Funds for the construction will come from a $23-million bond issue approved by Pontiac School District voters last March.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

The following questions on the new super high school were presented to Dr. Whitmer by The Pontiac Press.

Q: Is the $18,750,000 which citizens voted for the school sufficient to do the job in the light of the delays which seem to pile up?

A: We think so. We have estimated the costs to take in the greatest increases expected through inflation. The cost figures are based on completion in three years of the new high school, on 550,000 square feet of area at $27.50 per square foot for construction.

★ ★ ★

Q: What are the delays?

A: There is a potential delay for the state hospital site, in that the purchase of the state-owned land by the board of education must be approved by the State Legislature. The next session opens after the first of the year, but we don't know how long it will take before the purchase is approved.

★ ★ ★

"The proposed central city site would have included many more delays, such as the formulation of the Neighborhood Development Program. Before starting construction there, it would have also required a study and approval of the project by Housing and Urban Development; appraisal, negotiations and probable condemnation of properties at the site; relocation of the people; land clearance, and the progression of the river and drain project.

★ ★ ★

Q: Will a halt in construction for the length of time required to handle the delays add materially to cost?

A: The increase in costs caused by the delay would depend primarily on inflation during that time. It is estimated it would have taken one or two years longer on the center site than the hospital site. This would have boosted construction costs another $3.5 to $4.5 million.

Q: Will a halt in construction also disrupt the schedule for adequately handling the total school population?

A: A halt could almost completely put the schedule at a standstill, since the key to the schedule is the new high school.

We would be unable to proceed with other moves for reorganization and accommodation of the enrollment. The long-range plan for reorganization includes the two four-year high schools; converting the junior highs to include sixth, seventh and eighth grades; and making the elementary K-5 (Kindergarten to fifth grade).

Upon completion of the new high school, the current Central High School would be converted to a middle school. This reorganization should solve all of

Protests Temper Mood of Holiday

By the Associated Press

The traditional ''thanks'' of Thanksgiving Day, a holiday uniquely American among nations of the world, was tempered this year by scattered protests over those in need in a land of plenty.

While thousands of families sat down to turkey dinners with all the trimmings, 10 members of the War Resistors League fasted outside a fashionable Beverly Hills, Calif., restaurant charging that "Americans are gluttons while millions starve."

During the annual Macy's Thanksgiving Day parade in Manhattan, featuring eight giant helium-filled balloons of cartoon characters, welfare protestors handed out leaflets to many of the 2.5 million spectators, at least half of them reading, "Thanks for nothing."

A spokesman said the protest was staged to show that "many thousands of poor children in this city and country will face empty plates today."

END FAST

At Albany College, 10 students and an adviser ended a four-day fast yesterday aimed at calling attention to hunger.

But thousands of the "have nots" also sat down to holiday dinners, thanks to social agencies and organizations such as the Salvation Army, which played host to 1,900 homeless or needy at centers it operates in Manhattan, Brooklyn, the Bronx and Staten Island in New York City.

★ ★ ★

Two churches, in Harlem and the Bedford Stuvesant section of Brooklyn, served needy or aged neighbors in church halls.

Symbolizing the holiday scene around the nation was the family gathering on the Texas ranch of President and Mrs. Johnson, celebrating with their daughters, grandchildren and friends.

SONS-IN-LAW MISSING

Missing from the Johnson festive board—again typical of hundreds of homes across the land—were the Johnsons' sons-in-law, Airman 1.C. Patrick J. Nugent and Marine Maj. Charles S. Robb, both serving in Vietnam. The two young men were among 536,000 U.S. troops eating holiday dinners far from their native hearth.

President-elect Richard M. Nixon, Mrs. Nixon and their daughters, Tricia and Julie, had Thanksgiving dinner in Walter Reed Army Medical Center, where former President Dwight D Eisenhower is recovering from his seventh heart attack.

★ ★ ★

Eisenhower enjoyed what was described as "a somewhat modified turkey dinner" in his private room.

He was joined later by Nixon; John Eisenhower, son of the former chief executive, and David, the elder Eisenhower's grandson, soon to become Nixon's son-in-law.

Near Mannington, W.Va., the tragedy of a coal mine disaster which trapped 79 men threw a pall over the entire community. Two girls from VISTA—Volunteers In Service to America— spent their holiday packing lunches for scores of men still trying to reach the entombed miners at the scene.

Dr. Whitmer Surveys Superschool Obstacles

our capacity problems for at least five years.

Q: Is there anything now that stops the school board from starting immediately on the west side school project as approved?

A: Construction cannot start immediately, because we have a year of architectural work to do.

Also, while waiting for approval of the purchase by the Legislature, we can simultaneously proceed with the preliminary phases of architectural planning.

★ ★ ★

Q: Do you think the hospital site is too far from the center of your school population?

A: Geographically, the site looks fairly well-centered in the section of the district to be served. Most of the population is in the southernmost part of the district and the hospital site is within the south half.

Although it is a little north of the most populated area, we don't believe it is too far from this area, as the northern half of the district is expected to grow rapidly.

Waterford to Air School Issues

Three public information sessions on the proposed millage increase and bond issue in the Waterford Township School District will be held next week, Supt. Dr. Don O. Tatroe said today.

★ ★ ★

The meetings will be held at Crary Junior High, 501 N. Cass Lake, on Monday; Mason Junior High, 3835 W. Walton, on Tuesday; and Pierce Junior High, 5145 Hatchery, on Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

Each program will begin at 7:30 p.m. and will be conducted by Fred Poole and Bruce Annett, cochairmen of the information campaign.

★ ★ ★

On Dec. 7, school district voters will be asked to approve a nine-mill tax hike for operations for two years, and a $10.8-million bond issue for construction needs. The bond issue will not increase taxes.

★ ★ ★

School officials have estimated that the nine mills would provide the district with an additional $1.5 million annually for operations.

Two Men Freed From Area Cave-In

Two construction workers were trapped briefly in a cave-in this morning in Bloomfield Township as they made sewer tie-ins to a new house on Spinning Wheel Drive in Fox Hills Subdivision.

★ ★ ★

Woodrow Fling, 23, of 145 Oakmont, Pontiac Township, was still being X rayed at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital at press time, but a second man had been treated and released.

★ ★ ★

Richard Donner, 35, of 714 E. Mansfield, Pontiac, apparently escaped serious injury when he was able to free himself from the 9-foot hole. The heavy clay reportedly buried Fling nearly to his waist and he had to be freed by construction workers on the scene.

★ ★ ★

It took workers 15 minutes to free his legs, acording to Bloomfield Township Fire Lt. Carl Domas. Fling was reportedly conscious all during the ordeal.

Petition Drive Asks School-Site Change

By BOB WISLER

The pressure is on again to change the Pontiac Board of Education's decision to locate the school district's planned super high school on the site of Pontiac State Hospital.

Voice of Oakland County Action League (VOCAL) has begun a petition drive that its leaders hope will sway the school board into changing its Nov. 18 decision. VOCAL's goal is 10,000 signers.

★ ★ ★

Behind the scenes, business and civic leaders have been exerting influence in attempts to change the minds of school board members.

A reliable source has indicated that some attempt may be made in the state Legislature to block the sale of the state-owned Pontiac State Hospital site to the school board, and one prominent Negro state legislator has pledged his support.

LODGE CONTACTED

The school district officials have already contacted State Sen. L. Harvey Lodge, R-Waterford Township, to ask that he take the steps necessary to sell the land to the school board as soon as possible. The Legislature must authorize sale of the hospital site land.

The school board voted 4-3 on Nov. 18 to proceed with construction of the much-discussed super high school, a three-school complex for 4,500 students, on the hospital grounds. The decision was reached only after it had become a community controversy.

★ ★ ★

There is strong support in the city for abandoning the plans for building the school on the hospital site in the city's north side. Opponents claim that the school should instead be built on a 45-to-65-acre site in the Bagley-Wessen-Orchard Lake area, a predominately Negro section.

★ ★ ★

The latter site was proposed as an alternative to the hospital site in a $26,000 study completed recently by David E. Lewis, a Pittsburgh urban planner. The Pontiac Area Planning Council, an advisory group to the school board, and the board's Committee on Human Relations both voted overwhelmingly for the central city site.

STEPS INTO CONTROVERSY

VOCAL entered the controversy when the report was released. The organization, formed to combat racism, suggested that the school should not be built on the hospital site, but instead should be constructed on Pontiac's 27 acres of downtown urban renewal land. The 27 acres alone would not be enough for the type of school planned.

Albert Shaw, acting chairman of VOCAL, said the organization hopes to collect as many signatures as possible and thinks that 10,000 is a realistic goal. The petitions ask that the school board reconsider its Nov. 18 decision and choose instead to build the school on a central city site.

★ ★ ★

Shaw said VOCAL leaders have not indicated on the petitions preference for the Bagley-Wessen area or the downtown site.

Shaw said VOCAL has several objections to the hospital site. The board decision, he said, is another indication that those making the decisions prefer to ignore what black people want.

'LABORIOUS' TO REACH

He said the hospital site would be "laborious" to reach for black students and this factor would only add to the Negro dropout rate.

School district officials maintain that switching sites to the central city area would cost another $3 million to $5 million and a delay in completion of the school, at least one year and probably much more.

★ ★ ★

Shaw said VOCAL feels these are no longer viable reasons in light of the sociological problems the city and country are facing. "The problem of money can be solved a lot more easily than the sociological problems caused by the lack of awareness of the white community," he said.

★ ★ ★

Construction of the school in the central city area would be possible under a federal program — Neighborhood Development Program — which could draw federal funds for acquisition of property, relocation of residents and razing of buildings in the area.

FIRST STEP TAKEN

Pontiac's City Commission this week took a first step toward a possible NDP program by authorizing a study and recommendations on an NDP area and methods to be used.

The city's planning staff likely will bring back recommendations in three to four weeks.

Hungary Bid to West

BUDAPEST (AP)—Hungary announced today it has opened its universities to students from the West.

Film Maker Wins Award From Kodak

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — A local 18-year-old film maker has been awarded an honorable mention in the senior category of the sixth annual Kodak Teen-Age Movie Awards.

Richard Glenn, 1410 Clarendon, received the award for his 17-minute film "The Undergraduate." Done in 16 mm color, it adapts the theme of the Hollywood production "The Graduate" to the high school level.

★ ★ ★

Glenn is a freshman at the University of Michigan.

BIRMINGHAM — Donald D. Hurd, 873 Knox, has been appointed eastern and southwestern sales manager for the mobile hyd raulics division of the Vickers Division, Sperry Rand Corp.

HURD

Hurd will work from the company's administrative and engineering center in Troy.

★ ★ ★

Previously, he was Vickers mobile product planning manager for two years. He joined the company in 1959.

Hurd has a mechanical engineering degree from Lawrence Institute of Technology and is a member of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

BIRMINGHAM — Two area men have received promotions from Young and Rubicam, Inc., of Detroit.

John F. Henry, 345 Shirley, has been appointed account supervisor in the Detroit office of the firm. He will succeed Welton C. Mansfield, 1708 Timson, Bloomfield Township, who has been promoted to account supervisor for Chrysler-Imperial.

SIMCA-SUNBEAM ACCOUNT

Henry will assume the responsibilities of the Simca-Sunbeam account, according to Joseph G. Standart Jr., senior vice president in charge.

A graduate of New York University, Henry has been a member of the board of directors of the American Association of Advertising Agencies; chairman of the association's board of governors for the East Central region; and chairman of its Michigan Council.

★ ★ ★

Mansfield, a graduate of Lake Forest (Ill.) College, joined Young and Rubicam in 1963.

Meadow Brook's Holiday Fare Well-Done

'Magistrate' Definitely Is Not a Turkey

By DON BRAUNAGEL

Opening a play on Thanksgiving is risky. There is a horrible temptation for reviewers to find some reason to call it a turkey.

Fortunately, Meadow Brook Theatre's second production of the season, Sir Arthur Wing Pinero's comedy "The Magistrate," escapes that fate. It is more like a sandwich — two bland parts with a lot of meat in the middle, seasoned with good acting.

★ ★ ★

Like last season's "Charley's Aunt," "Magistrate" is a late-19th-century farce about a group of proper Britishers victimized by some highly improbable circumstances.

The first act drags a bit in setting up these circumstances. A woman, widowed with a son, has recently remarried. To her visiting sister, she confides that she told her new husband, the magistrate, that she was five years younger than she is, and since she had to follow through, she convinced everyone that her 19-year-old son is really 14.

THE PLOT THICKENS

Then the sister receives a note from her fiance, breaking their engagement. The magistrate gets word that an old friend, a retired colonel who knew his wife and her first husband, is in town. The wife sets out to intercept the colonel who is dining with his friend, the sister's ex-fiance. With the mother gone, the son talks his stepfather into going into town with him. And so on.

★ ★ ★

Naturally, they all wind up at the same hotel, and it's here that the farce is zestiest, with people constantly scampering in and out of hiding places, including a balcony in a pouring rain. A police raid culminates the action, with only the magistrate and son escaping. And it's not hard to figure out which magistrate the culprits go before.

★ ★ ★

Having put these hapless characters through this trauma, Pinero resolves everything happily, if a bit weakly. It's somewhat hard to believe that a 19-year-old actually thought he was 14, but this is minor compared to the coincidences that have gone before.

What makes this production special is the acting. Director Douglas Seale (who also appears in a minor role) elicited uniformly good performances from all the players, with excellence from a few.

BERRY AT HIS BEST

Eric Berry, who has been consistently good through Meadow Brook's three seasons, was at his best as the straitlaced magistrate gone wrong, and Richard Curnock, who directed the season-opener, "The Apple Cart," properly sniffed and kept a stiff upper lip as the unflappable colonel. The confrontation between these two in the courtroom was masterful.

Other good performances were by Mary Savidge as the wife and Jeremy Rowe as her son, although in his 14-year-old phase, he used a strange gait which, with his too-short pants, made him look like a Charlie Chaplin imitator.

★ ★ ★

Special credit goes to Chris Thee for some elaborate and ornate sets. Oil-lamp tops over the footlights added to the period look.

"The Magistrate" will continue through Dec. 29. Following, on Jan. 2, will be the world premiere of tragi-comedy, "The Second Coming of Bert."

Sen. Hruska Plans Push for GOP Job

ROMAN L. HRUSKA

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nebraska's Roman L. Hruska plans a hard campaign for the post of assistant Republican leader, or party whip, in the Senate, but says he doesn't want "a bloody field with bodies lying around.

"I am not standing idly by. I am seeking the post," Hruska, just back from a trip abroad, told an interviewer.

* * *

The whip job was opened up by the primary defeat of California's Thomas H. Kuchel, a liberal-moderate Republican. The only other announced candidate for the job is Pennsylvania's Hugh Scott, a liberal-moderate.

Scott notified his colleagues by letter that he wants the job, but other than that his campaigning has been behind the scenes.

While Hruska was in Europe last week, his supporters said they already had commitments from 23 of the 42 Republican senators in the new Congress—more than enough to insure his election.

Scott's backers disagree, saying the contest is still wide open.

* * *

"We're certainly not going to leave a bloody field with bodies lying around," Hruska said in discussing the contest. "But I have made it known to my colleagues that I aspire to it and that I hope they feel I could make the judgments the post of whip requires.

* * *

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen has indicated he would like to avoid a party-splitting fight by a compromise under which Hruska would be the assistant leader and Scott would be chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, a position that will offer little more than a platform for dissent.

RETIREMENT

The policy committee post is due to the retirement of Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa.

* * *

The two jobs will be filled when Republican senators caucus at the opening of the new congressional session in January.

* * *

Scott backed Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York in his unsuccessful bid for the Republican presidential nomination this year while Hruska was an early and vocal supporter of President-elect Richard M. Nixon.

Scott's backers say they have been assured that Nixon will stay out of the fight.

OTHER POSSIBILITIES

Other Republican senators mentioned as possibilities for the two vacant leadership positions include Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota, Robert P. Griffin of Michigan and James B. Pearson of Kansas.

* * *

Hruska, 64, served one term in the House before being elected to the Senate in 1954 to fill an unexpired term. He was re-elected in 1958 and 1964, and comes up for reelection in 1970. He is on the influential appropriations and judiciary committees.

County Commission Reports on Millage Voted for Parks

By JEAN SAILE

What has Oakland County done with the quarter-mill voted by residents in November 1966, for parks and recreation?

Quite a bit, according to a report by the parks and recreation commission.

* * *

Though no money from the millage became available until last April, the county in the past seven months has implemented and completed purchase of some 1,000 acres of parks land.

The purchases have been part of a stated over-all plan to acquire and establish a chain of intermediate size, water-oriented, year-round recreation areas.

TO ALLOW PURCHASES

And with the passage Nov. 5 of a $100-million state bond issue, the plan is expected to develop by leaps and bounds, according to Gerard Lacey, assistant director of the Parks and Recreation Commission.

Passage of the bond issue will allow the county to purchase recreational land for one-quarter of its total cost, Lacey said. Another quarter will be matched by the state, while the federal government is expected to cover half the cost in its matching fund program.

* * *

Projects must meet specifications to qualify, Lacey noted.

* * *

Already under way in the recreation program, Lacey said, are four separate park areas.

NEGOTIATE FOR SITE

Springfield-Oaks, located near Davisburg, is comprised of 255 acres. Another eight-acre site on the opposite shore of a millpond in the area is currently under negotiation. This is the site that has been suggested as the future home of the 4-H Club.

Groveland-Oaks, located on the headwaters of the Thread River, 17 miles north of Pontiac, consists of 181 acres completely encompassing Stewart Lake. It has been called one of the most popular camp sites and bathing beaches in the entire state.

Waterford-Oaks consists of 110 acres of Scott Lake property. Acquisition is to be completed this year. The park is located in Waterford Township almost contiguous to the western city limits of Pontiac.

Independence-Oaks is the latest endeavor of the commission. Located west of Sashabaw Road, 3½ miles northeast of Clarkston, the property is to be paid for by 1970. It includes 337 acres with a shore line on the west side of Crooked Lake. The area is considered a prime one for winter sports due to its elevation, lakes and springs.

Lacey noted that the recreational purchases could double in the next couple of months.

"We're negotiating constantly," he said, "and we're buying when the price is right."

Avon Rezones Land to Allow Town-House Development

AVON TOWNSHIP — The Township Board has approved a proposed zoning change to allow the construction of a 55-acre multiple dwelling and town-house development.

To be located just east of the Rochester city limits between Parkdale and Romeo roads, the development is planned by Slavik Investors, a Southfield firm. The property previously was zoned for single-family residential use.

* * *

Also approved were two other rezoning requests. One, from Weinberger Builders Inc. of Utica, changes a 1.97-acre parcel on the southwest corner of Walton and Old Perch from single-family residential to office zoning. A medical and office building is planned for the site.

The other, requested by Detroit developer Fred Birkhill, involves three lots in Avon Manor subdivision, near John R and Auburn. One lot was changed to local business use and the others to parking.

PLANNING UNIT OK'D

All three zoning changes had the prior approval of the township planning commission and the Oakland County Board of Supervisors coordinating, zoning and planning committee.

* * *

The Township Board was notified that hearings have been set by the Oakland County Drain Commission on proposed drainage projects in Springhill and Brooklands subdivisions. Both areas have suffered flooding problems in recent years.

* * *

The hearing for the Springhill project is scheduled for 10 a.m. Dec. 9 at the Oakland County Courthouse with the Brooklands hearing following at 10:10.

In other recent business, the board agreed to the drawing up of a contract by the Oakland County Department of Public Works for the construction of Phase I of the township's water and sewer systems.

AREAS ENCOMPASSED

The sewer program encompasses 12 sections in the northwest corner of Avon, including the Sargent Creek arm of the Clinton-Oakland Interceptor, while the water program would include 26 central sections of the township.

* * *

Cost figures for the two programs presently are being revised by the Johnson and Anderson, Inc., of Waterford Township, engineering consultants, because of the recent addition of several areas to the plans.

The board referred to the planning commission a suggested breakdown of industrial zoning classifications proposed by general business committee chairman William McCullough.

The breakdown, which would divide light industrial zoning into two classes, is designed to make industrial zoning less distasteful to residents and attract more industry to improve the township's tax base.

LIQUOR LICENSE BID

The board, also gave preliminary approval to a liquor license request from Harris O. Machus, for a restaurant to be included in a proposed shopping center-office development at Walton and Livernois.

* * *

Final approval will be subject to inspection by the township building department and the State Liquor Control Commission of the proposed restaurant when it is constructed.

Homeless, Woe-Stricken Brewer Family Finds Out That People Do Have Hearts

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP — People do have hearts, the Dillard Brewer family, formerly of 4622 Hillcrest, will tell you.

Burned out of its home Nov. 20 by a blaze of undetermined cause, the family, which includes six small children 7 years old and under, has moved in with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Omer Brewer at 5785 Clarkston-Orion.

The house is unihabitable and Brewer is still recovering from a beating suffered at the hands of area youths earlier this month. He expects to resume his job at GMC Truck and Coach Division Monday.

Nevertheless, Thanksgiving Day was a pretty good one yesterday. Food, including a plump turkey, was provided through the combined efforts of Wisner School PTA-sponsored Cub Pack 13 and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Schlicht, Pontiac business people.

CASH, GIFTS COLLECTED

As of Wednesday, some $85 had been collected for the family along with furniture, clothing and even ice skates for the children.

Mrs. Herschel Sansom of 6461 Paramus, Clarkston, who offered her garage as a collection agency for the family, has been amazed at the outpouring of help.

Already offered are twin-bed box springs and mattresses, a set of bunk beds, a refrigerator, an electric stove, canned goods, clothing, games for the children, and even a pair of new eyeglasses to replace some burned in the fire.

Mrs. Sansom said a move is underway, she understands, to provide labor to help the family rebuild its one-story frame home.

BAD-LUCK HOUSE

The Brewers, though, don't know whether they want to go back to that house. It's been bad luck for them.

There were neighborhood problems which are believed responsible for Brewer's beating, a beating so severe it required a week's hospitalization and surgery.

* * *

The house was paint-splashed with obscene words shortly before the fire, and several windows had been broken.

Uninsured, the home would have been paid for in January.

LOOKING FOR ANOTHER

The Brewers would like to find another home in a different area, one with a low down payment that they might afford — a spacious house with room for the six small Brewers.

Mrs. Sansom said she'd like to hear ideas from anyone about that. She'd like to turn this Thanksgiving season into a real one for the Brewers.

Car Fumes Kill Woman

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — Mrs. Constance Furby, 42, of 53574 Dryden was pronounced dead of carbon monoxide poisoning on arrival about 1 a.m. today at Crittenton General Hospital, Avon Township. Her death was listed as an apparent suicide, according to township police. She had been found unconscious in her car, which had been left running in a closed garage at the residence.

Election Jan. 13 on Troy School Bond Proposal

TROY — A special election for the $6.75-million bond issue for school construction projects has been set by the board of education for Jan. 13.

In addition, the board will also ask school district voters to approve a five-year renewal of an 8-mill operating levy, which expires on Dec. 31.

* * *

Approval for the election must be granted by the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission.

The date for the special election was set over the objections of three board members, Harold A. Janes, Leonard P. Lucas and James M. McFarland. They sought to hold off the setting of a date until after the release of the state attorney general's report on charges of the alleged mismanagement of the schools' 1965 and 1966 building site funds.

AUTHORIZATION NEEDED

Supt. Rex B. Smith told the board he did not know when the report would be released. The board appeared before the attorney general in Lansing on Oct. 30 for a conference on the charges.

The schools' architects had advised the board that authorization for the election was necessary as soon as possible in order to open bids in time to start construction at the end of this school year.

* * *

Proposed under the bond issue are a new west side elementary school, additions at Hill and Union elementary schools, Troy High School, and Baker and Smith junior highs and remodeling at Big Beaver and Poppleton elementary schools.

* * *

The issue may also include funds for planning and design of a future high school and a future third junior high school.

Lake Orion Schools Set Millage Election

LAKE ORION — An election to renew a four-mill school tax levy for operating expenses has been set for Jan. 25 in this district.

The board of education adopted a resolution calling for the election at its regular meeting Wednesday.

* * *

Schools Supt. Lewis Mundy said he thought the renewal would be approved without difficulty, despite the fact that voters rejected two board requests for increased millage earlier this year.

A citizens' committee to study the millage needs of the district recently was reactivated, with Richard Young, 2810 Indian Lake, chairman.

A MATTER OF TIME

At the time of reactivation of the committee, board members said it would be only a matter of time until additional millage will have to be sought again.

* * *

In June, voters turned down a 6.25-mill increase which would have allotted 3.5 mills for operating expenses and 2.75 mills for a building program.

A second attempt to obtain the 3.5 additional mills in August also was defeated.

* * *

In other business, the board approved a proposed plan for administration of the intermediate school during the illness of Principal Harlan Johnson.

TEACHER TAKES OVER

A teacher, Mrs. Barbara Berthiaume, will assume the principal's duties on a temporary basis, Munday said.

Rochester School Officials Will Hear Talk on Drug Use

ROCHESTER — The dangers in the rising use of narcotics among teen-agers will be explained to board of education members and administrators at a meeting at 9 a.m. Monday at the board offices.

Gerald St. Souver, Oakland County assistant prosecutor and an authority on narcotics, will address the group.

* * *

"We want to be in a position to take any positive steps necessary to protect the students in our schools," said Supt. Douglas Lund.

* * *

The meeting with St. Souver is said to be the first step in a campaign to stop the growing menace of drug usage.

Safety Devices Cited as Reason

State Traffic Deaths Decline

Fatal traffic accidents are beginning to decrease in Michigan, and government-imposed safety devices may be responsible.

Michigan State Police report there were 2,298 deaths from automobile accidents in 1966 and 2,123 in 1967, representing the first drop in state yearly fatality rates since 1961.

* * *

Automobile deaths started to climb from 1,567 in 1961 to 2,298 victims reported in 1966.

The safety factors were introduced in the Federal Highway Safety Act of September 1966, and the National Traffic and Motor Vehicle Act, also signed in September of that year.

ORIGINAL DEVICES

The seat belt, padded instrument panel, energy-absorbing steering control system and safety door latches and hinges are among the original safety devices required by the laws.

OFFERS EVIDENCE

Two University of Michigan faculty members, Dr. Donald F. Huelke and Dr. Paul W. Gikas, completed a detailed study of accident causality for the U.S. Public Health Service, Division of Accident Prevention. They offer conclusive evidence supporting the value of the safety devices.

To gather evidence for their report the team analyzed all fatal automobile accidents occuring in the Washtenaw County area from 1961-1965.

The scene of every fatal accident reported was visited.

To provide complete analysis of the accident they photographed the vehicles involved, skid marks, general area of the accident, location of individuals involved and interior views of the car. Photographs were also taken when a postmortem examination was performed on the victims.

DEFINITE FACTORS

Results of this study involving 139 fatal accidents in which 177 occupants were killed consistantly revealed that there were definite vehicle mechanical or structural factors that caused or contributed to death.

Ejection from the automobile was the leading cause of fatalities, involving 27 per cent of the individuals studied. The front door or rear-panel collapsing inward on 25 per cent of the victims produced the second greatest loss of life.

The steering assembly, including the steering wheel, gear shift lever and steering column, accounted for 16 per cent of the fatalities, the third leading cause of death.

The research determined that 53 per cent or 94 of the 177 victims could have been saved had seat and shoulder belts been in use at the time of the accident. The belts would have prevented ejection of the individuals from the vehicle and/or their projection into structures within the car.

KEY ITEM

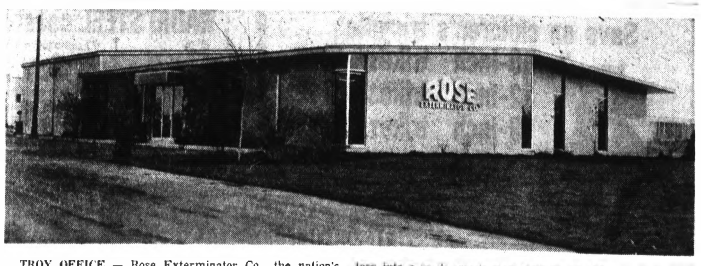
Regarding the steering assembly-caused deaths, the investigators concluded a collapsible or energy-absorbing steering column would have reduced significantly the number of driver fatalities from steering assembly impacts.

But, of all the new structural and mechanical safety features added to the more recent car models, the researchers found that the most important item is the seat belt. Additional protection is assured with the use of both the seat and shoulder belts.

Michigan Bell Plans Children's Yule Party

Christmas bells will ring for more than 1,900 boys and girls at the 10th annual Christmas party Michigan Bell Telephone Co. will give for the children of its Oakland County area employes Dec. 7.

The festivities, beginning at 9 a.m., will be held at the company's Service Center Building, 23500 Northwestern, Southfield.



TROY OFFICE — Rose Exterminator Co., the nation's oldest and one of Michigan's largest professional pest control firms, has moved its executive, sales and service headquarters into a newly constructed building at 1130 Livernois near 15 Mile, in Troy. Headquarters for the 108-year-old firm were formerly in Detroit.

LITTLE SOLACE—Mayor Eric Leslie of Australia, stands with his son, Brian (left), yesterday as their home burns to the ground. Five men are dead, seven are missing and about 200 injured in midsummer bush fires that caused millions of dollars worth of damage within a 50-mile radius of Sydney in the last two days.

Australia Bush Fires Claim 5

SYDNEY (AP) — Five men are dead, seven are missing and about 200 injured in midsummer bush fires that caused millions of dollars worth of damage within a 50-mile radius of Sydney in the past two days.

The fire danger diminished in Sydney's outer suburbs today as the wind abated and temperatures dropped 20 degrees from Thursday's high of 90.

* * *

Isolated fires still burned in the Blue Mountains 50 miles west of Sydney, but they were reported under control.

A thousand fire fighters, including professionals, volunteers and soldiers, stood by to prevent a recurrence of Thurday's disaster when flames destroyed 150 houses, shops, churches and other buildings.

TRAINS ON MOVE

Train service resumed today and roads in the region reopened.

New South Wales Chief Secretary Eric A. Willis said damage would run into millions of dollars. Relief funds for about 600 persons left homeless were begun.

"It was a taste of hell," said one fire fighter.

An Englishwoman said in a radio interview: "It was worse than the blitz in London. You knew then when it was coming. Here it just came on you, the noise, smoke and flames."

Crash Kills 4; 3 From State

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — Three members of a Michigan family and an Ohio youth were killed Thursday in a two-car crash at the intersection of Ohio Routes 18 and 301 about 10 miles south of here.

Five persons, including a six-weeks-old baby were injured, two critically.

Killed were Talmade E. Sutton, 36, of Ypsilanti, Mich., his wife, Carol, 24, and daughter Ruby, 6, and John Robert King, 12, of Creston, Ohio.

Injured were three of Mr. and Mrs. Sutton's children, Eugene, 3, John Harvey, aged 6 weeks, Bertha Elizabeth, aged 18 months, mother of the dead youth, and her elder son William H. King, 17, both of Creston.

The state highway patrol said Mrs. King and John Harvey Sutton were both reported in critical condition at Elyria Memorial Hospital. The other injured were in fair condition at Wellington Hospital.

Grape Harvest Ends, but Rift Grows Bitter

DELANO, Calif. (AP) —The grape harvest has ended in California, but there has been no slackening of activity in the epic labor dispute that has plagued the rich vineyards of the San Joaquin Valley for four years.

Cesar Chavez' AFL - CIO United Farm Workers Organizing Committee is continuing its boycott of California table grapes. The growers, on the other hand, are girding for the next round of the struggle that will begin with the 1969 harvest.

* * *

The UFWOC announced just last week plans to step up boycott activity in an effort to cut into holiday sales of stores that have refused to take grapes from the shelves.

Union officials say plans call for establishment of informational picket lines around stores as well as appeals to members of friendly and allied unions not to buy grapes.

POLITICAL OVERTONES

The boycott, which developed political overtones during this election year—it was supported by Vice President Hubert Humphrey and opposed by President-elect Richard Nixon—is an outgrowth of "lo huelga," Spanish for the strike.

Technically, no strike exists; members of UFWOC merely are refusing to accept jobs. Non-union workers are available, and worked this year's harvest.

* *

For four years, however, the dispute has grown steadily more bitter, reaching a peak early this year when the boycott was established.

The key word in the dispute is table. Wine and raisin grapes are not involved—the union has signed contracts with a number of vintners and raisin producers.

Detroit Cheaper

DETROIT (AP)—The government reports the cost of living in Detroit increased four-tenths of one per cent in October—slightly less than the national increase.

Post Office Braces for Mail Landslide

Once more the Postal Department girds itself for the onslaught of Holiday mail—cards, letters, packages, and what have you.

Although Christmas is nearly four weeks off, safe mailing dates are casting their shadows. In fact, for two categories of foreign movement —surface transportation and SAM (Space Available Parcel Post Airlift) —deadlines for positive Dec. 25 delivery have passed. But you could get a PAL package (regular parcel post rate plus $1 for overseas air service) under the postal wire by mailing it no later than tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

For overseas airmail (letters, cards) Dec. 11 is the cutoff date.

On the domestic front, mailers would do well to mail packages addressed to distant states by Dec. 2, while for local and nearby areas, a Dec. 11 postmark will assure before-Christmas delivery. Cards and letters to far-off points in the U.S. should be on their way by Dec. 11, with leeway of five days more for similar matter headed for local destination.

Oh, yes. Don't forget that this year Christmas cards, in sealed or unsealed envelopes, must travel first class. That means a 6-cent stamp in either case.

★ ★ ★

The local post office expects to handle an avalanche of 13,609,000 pieces of mail during the 1968 four-week Holiday period, up 6.4 per cent from last year's volume of 12,790,000 pieces.

You can help make Christmas a bit merrier for an overworked but faithful postal force by doing your Christmas mailing early.

Abortion Laws Bending With the Times

Abortion liberalization proposals will come before legislatures in more than a dozen states in 1969. A commission appointed by Gov. RICHARD J. HUGHES has held open hearings on modifying the 119-year-old abortion statute in New Jersey. The source for much of this information is the Association for the Study of Abortion which recently held a four-day international conference in Hot Springs, Va.

In the past year or two, abortion statutes have been modified in Mississippi, Georgia, Colorado, California, North Carolina, and Maryland. A reform was defeated in New York state at the 1968 session of the legislature. Actual repeal of anti-abortion laws next year is contemplated in several states.

Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau advocates liberalization of that country's abortion laws. A report of the British Ministry of Health shows that under the 1967 reform act, for a nine-week period from last April 27 to June 30, some 4,412 abortions had been carried out legally in England and Wales.

But The Economist of London comments: "The new Act does not seem to have made abortion more generally available, for there is a considerable variation in the rate among the different hospital regions. . . . Perhaps as has happened elsewhere, a more liberal abortion law persuades a new class of women to ask for one, because it is now more respectable to do so, but makes little impact on those who resort to the back streets."

★ ★ ★

Thus do social and legal taboos bend with the times.

Automation Not the Ogre Meany Foresaw

"Automation is a curse to society" that could lead to national catastrophe, AFL-CIO President GEORGE MEANY told his organization at its convention in New York five years ago. He said that technologists foresaw the day a few years hence when all the Nation's products would be furnished by less than 25 per cent of its manpower.

Automation has come, but without the mass joblessness that was then being predicted. Unemployment last month was down to 3.6 per cent of the Nation's work force; five years earlier, when MEANY spoke, it stood at 5.7 per cent.

A presidential commission reported in 1965 that technological changes might sometimes hurt individuals but were unlikely to affect adversely the overall economic and employment climate. That thesis has been borne out.

★ ★ ★

Some economists now are saying that the incoming President must trim spending in 1969, even at the expense of jobs, to avoid runaway inflation. If their advice is heeded, the old 1963 arguments over automation are likely to be replayed.

Espionage Is Commonplace Nowadays

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Foreign News Analyst

NEW YORK — Spies are in the news again. The current series of espionage cases and epidemic of mysterious murders and suicides in West Germany are another reminder that Russia's net of secret agents has grown to mammoth proportions.

Technology has created unprecedented possibilities for espionage. But even in the age of electronics, computers and spy-satellites, no replacement has yet been found for the man who, for idealistic or purely mercenary reasons, continues to ply the hazardous cloak-and-dagger trade.

★ ★ ★

In fact, like tax evasion, espionage is almost becoming a gentleman's crime.

Sweden's Col. Wennerstrom, who spied for Moscow, and Russia's Col. Oleg Penkovsky, who performed similar chores for the United States, were highly respected officers and members of their countries' elite.

SHOT TO DEATH

But none was more respected than West Germany's Rear Adm. Herman Luedke, who was found shot to death on Oct. 8. Until a month before his mysterious murder he was deputy chief of logistics at NATO's supreme military headquarters in Europe.

★ ★ ★

Luedke knew the secret location of NATO's 16,000 nuclear warheads. And he not only knew but largely decided the location of NATO's food and ammunition dumps, spare parts and other logistical resources that would back up the West's forces in war.

Since there is hardly any doubt that the admiral was a Soviet spy, there is not much about the military layout of the Western defense system that the Russians do not know.

FIVE SUICIDES

Luedke's murder was preceded and followed by the suicide of five West German federal employes, including the deputy chief of Bonn's intelligence service.

Ever since a number of Czechoslovak senior intelligence officers escaped to the West, not a day has passed in the Bonn Federal Republic without disclosures of espionage cases.

★ ★ ★

It is the Czechoslovakian defectors embittered by Russia's invasion of their country, who are mainly responsible for the current intensified hunt for the Kremlin's secret agents in the West.

No doubt, divided Germany is a particularly happy hunting ground for Communist spies. East and West Germans speak the same language and are generally undistinguishable. About 20 million West Germans have relatives in the east and some of them are blackmailed into spying for Russia.

5,000 AGENTS

It is estimated that the Communists have about 5,000 agents operating in the Bonn Federal Republic.

Helmut Schmidt, the Social Democratic parliamentary leader, complained recently that West Germany has became an "El Dorado" for spies.

★ ★ ★

But, after Britain's archtraitor, Kim Philby, it is no use pointing a finger at West Germany alone. There are undetected and highly placed spies in every defense organization in the world.

Everybody, it seems, knows about everybody else. This, in effect, is what Russia's deposed Premier Khrushchev once told Allen Dulles when he was chief of the American CIA.

Visions Of Sugar Plums—

David Lawrence Says:

Court Appointment Reform Due

WASHINGTON — Since the American people have been hearing a good deal in recent months about the way justices are chosen for the U.S. Supreme Court, there is likely to be a re-examination of the process by which the members of the high court are selected.

LAWRENCE

It is surprising that the demand for reform has been given so little attention up to now. Presidents have nominated personal friends or former colleagues or individuals who have played a conspicuous part in political campaigns, and appointments to the Supreme Court have come to be treated just like those for any other federal office—as political plums.

★ ★ ★

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., who himself served on the highest court of his own state, has proposed that future justices of the U.S. Supreme Court be nominated from a list prepared by a conference of the presiding judge of each of the 50 state Supreme Courts and the chief judge of each of the nine federal Circuit Courts of Appeal.

He has written all members of Congress declaring that he plans to introduce a constitutional amendment to bring about such a modification because the justices are "being allowed, with increasing frequency, to seriously change the economic, social, and politial direction of our nation."

CONFERENCE OF JUDGES

Ervin's idea is that, when a vacancy occurs on the Supreme court, the national conference of judges would submit five names to the president, and he would be limited to that group in the making of his appointment, which would be, as is customary, subject to Senate confirmation.

Ervin expressed the view that this procedure would "make it as certain as possible that members of the Supreme Court will not be chosen on the basis of personal friendship with the president, political service rendered to the political party in power, or past association with politically potent groups."

★ ★ ★

When a president nominates someone for the Supreme Court, his own party usually goes along with the appointment and rarely is there a controversy raised. If there is dissent, it is usually because of a belief that the nominee has a particular philosophy or ideology which he is likely to follow in making decisions.

Unquestionably public opinion would favor objective treatment of constitutional provisions and the established precedents. If these fail to meet the needs of changing times, the Constitution can always be amended by the people, as provided by the founding fathers.

Bob Considine Says:

Bishop's Book on JFK His Best Reporting Job

NEW YORK — People . . . places . . .

Jim Bishop's book, "The Day Kennedy was shot," is the finest reporting job he has ever done, and that constitutes a range of interests from Christ to LBJ. It is a much more thorough work than William Manchester's family - authorized and subsequently downgraded book on the same dolorous day in the history of an otherwise civilized nation.

CONSIDINE

★ ★ ★

At a point in his research, though he had been a good friend and a devoted biographer of JFK, the Kennedy family attempted to shut down Bishop's various accesses to proper sources.

That's a serious insult and challenge to a good man like Jim. Though he is still offended, I think that in time he will conclude this affront made for a better book in the end, a more industriously dug and documented work.

★ ★ ★

A century after pettiness and the paltry publishers of books and tracts of Kennedy intrigues and conspiracies and mass assassins are dust, Bishop's book will be a clear beacon in the libraries of the world.

In between foreward and epilogue are 675 of the most engrossing pages I've ever read or ever will.

The good ship HOPE, American - made, American-supported messenger of mercy to needy foreign lands, has been in Ceylon for several months and soon will be headed back to the U.S. for refitting and a 1969 voyage.

It has done more good for the U.S. than a hundred ambassadors during the years it has been employed in taking treatment and know-how to the sick of the world.

★ ★ ★

An orthopedic surgeon who gave up two months of his profitable practice in the U.S. to work for nothing for HOPE writes:

"As I frequented the orthopedic clinics at Lady Ridgeway Hospital, Colombo General Hospital, and on the HOPE, the same thoughts and feelings ran through my mind as when I worked in Cartagena.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A previous HOPE mission to Colombia.)

"I mean maimed children everywhere, always smiling, cheerful, moving along with a makeshift crutch or, at times, quadrupedly on hands and knees, often bedridden by deforming post-polio contractures, forever hoping!

★ ★ ★

"I dream of a HOPE ship for children everywhere, sailing the seven seas of mercy, mending the maimed and healing the sick. To watch a 7-year-old, with the aid of braces, take the first step in his lifetime is an unforgettable experience, and to see a 12-year-old stand for the first time after hip surgery and bracing is overwhelming. For these children, waiting for hope everywhere. I feel humble and proud to have been a small part of HOPE — and trust someday I will be wanted again."

HOPE's address is 2233 Wisconsin Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20007.

'Objections of Taxpayers Ignored by County Board'

Taxpayers' objections that were made on the County budget on Oct. 7 were completely ignored by the board of supervisors. When the budget was brought back for approval on Nov. 12, the tax-paying public was denied an audience in review of their objections, even to the point of cutting off a board member who wanted to acknowledge the objections.

This is nothing new to a good number of taxpayers who have been seeking information on budget practices for the past year. We trust the new board will be more democratic.

'Unfair of Central to Take School Bell'

Regarding the taking of our school bell by Pontiac Central, it is unfair to the kids at Northern, as well as to the coaches, that we should pay the ransom or whatever money they want for the return of our bell. Northern could not take anything from Central because it was hid. We took care of their chief last year so, in turn, they should take care of our things that they borrow for fun.

A PONTIAC NORTHERN STUDENT

Letter Refers to Editorial Regarding M59

Your recent editorial pointing up the impossible condition of M59 and other major county roads is to be commended, with one notable exception. You have publicly exhorted Mr. Staman to produce miracles. This is a bit inconsistent with your lead editorial of Sept. 24 when you stated that the county budgets no tax revenue for the road commission and suggested that it is time for the road commission to become a real part of the county government and be included in its budget.

★ ★ ★

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors appointed Mr. Staman to do a job but refuse to finance it. If Mr. Staman is inadequate, why did they reappoint him? The Road Commission has a rich cousin in the county government, but the supervisors only toss it a few crumbs which they can sweep away on a whim.

MOTHERS OF PONTIAC TOWNSHIP

Question and Answer

Is it true that if you wear your hair behind your ears constantly, your ears will start to stick out? My mother said it's true, but I'd like to get the real truth.

KAREN

REPLY

Mother usually knows best, but . . . we talked to two doctors who specialize in plastic and reconstructive surgery. Dr. Carlisle, and another who preferred to be anonymous, both said absolutely no. Dr. Anonymous gave a rather amusing and very convincing analogy—he said every night we sleep on our ears and every morning they pop right back out where they were before. Since the head is much heavier than the hair, danger of protruding ears from heavy hair is non-existent.

Question and Answer

What has happened to the birds in this area? We've always seen them around whenever we looked out, but now we may go days without seeing one. Squirrels are scarce, too. What can we do to bring them back?

MRS. E. L.

REPLY

The main reason for their scarcity seems to be pesticides containing DDT and hydro-carbons. Mr. Green, game biologist for Michigan Conservation, says these two types of pesticides don't break down in the soil, but continue to build up to very lethal doses. He says the birds, squirrels, chipmunks, etc., will come back by themselves in time if use of such pesticides were discontinued. Malathion and Methoxaclor are two pesticides he suggested as replacements. While direct contact with either would be lethal to birds and small animals, they both break down readily in soil and eliminate the more serious problem of build-up.

Reviewing Other Editorial Pages

Banned Books

Christian Science Monitor

Of the banning of books there is evidently no end. A history of censorship exhibit, now on view at the University of Texas, serves as a sort of sport-chronicle of 25 centuries of taste.

★ ★ ★

Among the books which have been "burned, banned or abominated" are "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland" (once prohibited in China), "Gulliver's Travels," "Leaves of Grass" and "Lysistrata." Aristophanes' comedy may have the long-distance record among the banned (Athens and Sparta Fifth Century B.C. to the United States Post Office, 20th Century.)

The exhibit, of course, indicated that censorship at the present time has a tendency to backfire.

As Cyril Connolly sardonically remarked: "I once looked on the authors and publishers and banned books as martyrs — Now I see theirs a lucrative business; one may have to get one's book banned, if it is to make any money."

Value of Money

London Daily Mail

We ourselves helped to weaken the world money system by running up large debts year after year. The Americans are overspending hugely abroad to pay for the war in Vietnam.

★ ★ ★

When the managers of the world's two great currencies, the pound and the dollar, cannot begin to balance their own books, people naturally lose faith in paper money and turn to the old standby, gold.

★ ★ ★

Until British and American governments learn how to maintain the value of their money, the system needs all the confidence it can get. And that means a continuing role for gold.

FAMED AUTHOR DIES — Children's book writer Enid Blyton died yesterday in a London nursing home. She kept her age a secret but admitted she was over 60. Some British libraries banned her books from their shelves, saying they too sweet a view of life.

Memphis Gets Sinking Feeling

It's Not of Immediate Worry, Says Official

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Memphis may start sinking into a hole by the side of the Mississippi River some day, but there's no need for the townfolks to start thinking about fleeing to higher ground.

Any sinking that occurs will be so gradual it will be measured on a special instrument to be installed next month.

* * *

James H. Criner, hydrologist in charge of the water resources division of the U.S. Geological survey here, said Thursday the town may start sinking soon because of the rate water is being pumped out from the ground beneath it.

"I'm convinced that surface sinking is coming," he said. "It may be 50 years from now, but it is coming."

WEAKER FOUNDATIONS

Memphis pumps its water—which it boasts is the best in the country—from a huge layer of sand about 500 feet beneath the surface. As the water is removed, Criner said, the sands take up less room, and the city's foundation is weakened.

Last year about 64 billion gallons were pumped out, and Criner said he doesn't think there would be any problem except the city is increasing its water usage by 1.8 billion gallons each year.

"It isn't a serious problem, but it could be," he said. "In Houston, the surface has sunk as much as four feet in some places. There are places in California's Great Central Valley that are subsiding at a rate as high as one foot a year."

The Memphis Light, Gas & Water Division will begin drilling Dec. 2 a 1,400-foot well which the geological survey will use for its measuring device.

Seven Bodies Found in Hull of Work Boat

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — The bodies of seven men were found entombed Thursday in the work boat Triple Crown on the floor of the Pacific Ocean. Two others were sought.

The men still missing, unlike the others, were on the deck working when the vessel suddenly capsized and sank Monday.

* * *

Six deep-sea divers, making five trips, recovered the seven bodies from inside the sunken hull of the 174-foot boat resting in 250 feet of Santa Barbara channel water.

The bodies recovered were those of William M. Thomasson of Torrance; Mark Von Mills, 46, Newport, Calif.; Alvin Dean Taylor, 37, and Frank L. Calloway, 27, both of Ventura; Jack William McDaniel of Lakewood and Lloyd E. Voight Jr., 19, of Santa Barbara, crewmen of the Triple Crown; and Richard Taylor of Ventura, a surveyor.

* * *

Missing were Jack Grameri and Richard Kours, members of a special anchor-handling crew.

The divers found a door to the main cabin buckled and another blocked by radio equipment. With special equipment, they got to the cabin where six bodies were found. The seventh was found in the lower port hunk room.

Boy's Snowy Walk Saves 2 Trapped in Plane

EUREKA, Utah (AP) — As his parents and sister lay pinned in the wreckage of their airplane Thanksgiving eve, 15-year-old William Rigby set off into a snowstorm to find help.

"My dad was pinned underneath the instrument panel," William, the son of Beverly Hills, Calif., heart surgeon Dr. Elmer C. Rigby Jr., said Thursday, "My sister was caught beneath two chairs. Mom was trapped beneath the wreckage. I knew I had to get some help."

* * *

He freed himself from the wreckage of the twin-engine plane and started walking—in the wrong direction.

Then he spotted headlights on U.S. 50-6 and turned toward the road. He had walked about four miles over snow-covered ground.

MARKED MILEAGE

An unidentified Nevada motorist stopped, picked up the boy, carefully marked his mileage, drove 10 miles north to Eureka and led rescuers directly to the spot where he picked up the youth, said Sheriff A. Duane Sperry.

"It was good thing, too, because I think those people would have frozen to death if we had to search for the plane," Sperry said.

* * *

Officers followed the boy's tracks back to the wreckage.

"The plane appeared to have come down hard, rolled on its side and finally came to rest on its top. It was literally torn apart by the impact," the sheriff said.

The boy's mother, Penelope, 46, was dead on arrival at Juab County Hospital.

IN POOR CONDITION

His 53-year-old father was in poor condition today at University Hospital in Salt Lake City. The prominent physician, one of the first to perform open heart surgery in the Los Angeles area, suffered chest injuries, broken legs, and back and head injuries. Nikola Rigby, 16, was in Satisfactory condition with a broken leg.

The boy was staying with relatives in Provo.

Another daughter, Judith, 21, would have been on the flight from Van Nuys airport to Salt Lake, to spend Thanksgiving with Dr. Rigby's parents, but she missed a connection in traveling from Berkeley to Beverly Hills. She attends the University of California.

* * *

William told officers the flight began in good weather. But snow and fog closed in and the plane began icing up.

"Dad decided to circle for a few minutes. Then he said he was going to make an emergency landing," William told Sheriff Sperry.

* * *

Sperry said the doctor apparently mistook a plowed field for a road about a mile west of U.S. 50-6. The plane touched down, hit a depression and flipped over.

THANKSGIVING TRAGEDY — Fifteen-year-old William Rigby freed himself from the wreckage of his twin-engine plane Wednesday night and wandered four miles through the snow to find help for other family members pinned inside. His mother died in the crash, but his father and sister were rescued and hospitalized in Salt Lake City, 60 miles north of the crash site.

Famous Educator Dies After Stroke

EAST LANSING (AP) —Internationally known educator Dr. Carleton Woolsy Washburn, who aided in reconstruction of Italy's school system after World War II, died Wednesday at Sparrow Hospital in Lansing two days after he suffered a stroke.

The 78-year-old Washburn, professor emeritus of education at Michigan State University, was a prolific writer, and his latest book, "Windows to Understanding..Thoughts on Science, Man and God" was published last Nov. 8.

* * *

Dr. Washburn won national recognition in the 1920s for his development of the so-called Winnetka plan, the idea that education of children should be tailored to the child's own best rate. He vigorously opposed the educational theory that children should be lockstepped into a class in which all had to keep up at a certain learning pace, regardless of educational potential.

He developed the theory during his 25 years as superintendent of schools at Winnetka, Ill.

CALIFORNIA-EDUCATED

A native of Chicago, Dr. Washburn was educated at Stanford University and the University of California. He taught in California public schools and at San Francisco State College from 1914 to 1919 when he went to Winnetka.

He wrote more than a score of books, the best-known of which was "A Living Philosophy of Education," published in 1940. His writing and research was devoted to pursuit of the theory that differences in children's educational potential should be recognized at all levels of schools.

* * *

When the U. S. entered World War II, he became a major in the Air Force. As Allied armies regained control of Italy, Dr. Washburn was given the task of reopening schools and universities and ridding them of Fascist influences.

After the war, he was assigned to northern Italy as director of the United States Information Service from 1946 to 1948. He later served on the faculty of Brooklyn (N.Y.) College before joining the Michigan State faculty in 1961. He was an active member through 1962 and then became a visiting lecturer with the rank of professor emeritus.

SURVIVORS LISTED

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Helouiz Washburn; two daughters, Mrs. John Visher of Falls Church, Va., and Mrs. Donald Marshall of Okemos, Mich., whose husband is a professor of philosophy at Michigan State; and by a son, Dr. Chandler Washburn, a professor at Fresno State College, Calif.

* * *

The body will be cremated. A memorial service will be held at the Michigan State University chapel, with the time tentatively set for Saturday afternoon.

Proposals' Passage 'Means Full School Days for Waterford'

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the last in a five-part series in which Waterford Township Supt. of Schools Dr. Don O. Tatroe answers frequently asked questions on the nine-mill tax proposal and the $10.8-million bond issue to be voted on Dec. 7.)

Question: What is the date of the school election?

Answer: Dec. 7. Two proposals will be presented to the voters:

- A Bond issue in the amount of $10.8 million.
- A millage increase election for nine mills for two years.

Q: Will this enable the district to have a full day's education for all children next year?

A: Yes, for the next two years. The junior and senior high school pupils will return to a full day in the coming year and we will be able to maintain full-day sessions for elementary schoolchildren.

In addition, Mott High School can become accredited by the time its first class graduates and accreditation can be maintained at Waterford Township and Waterford Kettering high schools. We can also offer additional help to primary grade children who are having reading difficulties, and the maintenance to our schools can be improved. We will also be able to meet collective bargaining demands for the next two years.

Q: Can voters expect to be asked to approve a property tax increase two or three times until passage is achieved?

A: We believe that it will be in the interests of the children and the community if sufficient funds are made available to support a full-day's education for all children.

★ ★ ★

The school board, in my opinion, has the responsibility to bring questions which would accomplish this to the taxpayers. As time goes on, however, it becomes increasingly difficult to accomplish the return to full days as teachers seek employment elsewhere, and our ability to select enough quality personnel becomes diminished.

Q: If the district loses the nine-mill increase Dec. 7, will it compromise and try for a lower millage later on?

A: The evidence that makes it appear that the nine-mills would be needed over the period of the two years or nearly so, the board is committed to levy only that portion of the nine mills which would be needed. It is attempting to avoid annual elections to allow the coming year's schoolteacher to hang in the balance.

Q: Will the school finance problem be eased in the future?

A: As I indicated last year, it may get worse first. Salary demands are rising, costs are increasing, larger groups of children are moving into their higher costs of high school and college years, and young people are staying in school longer and longer.

Q: What should be done to solve the school finance problem on a more permanent basis?

A: Nothing will work short of a substantial reform. We need a more equal opportunity for every child, we need a revenue source which grows with the economy, and we need reasonable and comparable salaries and conditions for school personnel.

★ ★ ★

I believe such a program would include property tax relief for older and lower income families; summer collection of school taxes and placing certain tax exempt revenue producing properties on the tax roll; charter millage authority for schools as cities have now; bargaining for school employes on the county or statewide basis; and additional state or original taxes for school.

Q: If I pay tuition to send my children to a parochial school, why should I support a millage proposal?

A: Parochial school children derive many benefits from the public school system such as school bus transportation, instructional services for the home and hospital-bound, speech correction, and services of school social workers and diagnositicians.

★ ★ ★

Also, many parochial school children attend Waterford high schools on a dual enrollment basis and receive instruction in mathematics, science and homemaking. Material from our Instructional Materials Center are shared with nonpublic schools, too. A good public school system is of benefit to the entire community and maintains property values.

Q: Is the Waterford school system effective?

A: I believe it has been. We have several pieces of evidence that would point to the fact that Waterford Township schools are good ones.

★ ★ ★

Both our high schools are accredited by North Central Association, colleges and secondary schools and the University of Michigan. Other educators who know about the school system consider it dollar for dollar to be an excellent school system.

Local realtors point to the Waterford schools as a selling point. The district has been entrusted with one of the nation's largest federal demonstration grants in the Indicom Project. University instructors are high in their praise of the Waterford School District and often bring their student teachers or their students here.

★ ★ ★

Waterford is a training ground for student teachers at Michigan State, Wayne State, Oakland and Western Michigan universities.

Q: How can we be sure that the school will use the funds to do a good job?

A: The schools are among the few agencies of government left that the local taxpayer can be sure about. The same people who vote for the millage also elect the school board members who live and work right in the community.

★ ★ ★

Board meetings are held on the first and third Thursday of each month and are open to the public. The Waterford Board of Education has been composed through the years of conscientious, capable people. They are intent to insure that the millage is used to do a good job in education. They welcome your comments, they are interested in the best interest of your children and the community.

Q: When would the tax have to be paid?

A: The tax would not have to be paid before February 1970. This provides the taxpayer with a reasonably adequate time to prepare for the higher amount.

Yule Cards to Require 6-Cent Postage Stamp

Christmas cards this year will require the same six-cent stamp as first class mail, whether they are sealed or not.

Rates for the first ounce were made identical to first-class rates — six cents — under a little-noticed provision of the new postal rates.

★ ★ ★

Once unsealed greeting cards containing no message beyond the sender's signature could be mailed for a penny less than first class. Undelivered cards were neither forwarded nor returned.

For the extra penny this year, patrons will get undelivered mail either forwarded or returned provided a return address is on the envelope.

★ ★ ★

The new provisions actually made third and first class rates equal for the first ounce, a category that includes most holiday greeting cards. A card weighing up to two ounces can be mailed third class for six cents but it will not be forwarded or returned if undeliverable.

Junior Editors Quiz on OCEAN DEPTHS

QUESTION: Is life found in all depths of the ocean?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Modern oceanographic research has given us much more knowledge of life below the sea surface than we had before. Students of ocean depths speak of three realms. The surface realm goes down to 600 feet. Here you might find the floating seaweed called sargasso, and many fish, a few of which we illustrate.

In the middle realm, from 600 to 9,000 feet, the light which filters down from above dies out completely. At that depth, there are no more plants and the water pressure is so great that only a few animals can live, such as the huge sperm whale and giant squid in our picture.

Further down lies the once unknown bottom realm, from 9,000 to as low as 30,000 feet or more. Here is eternal cold and eternal blackness. How could life possibly exist down here? Yet it does; scientists have probed this realm with diving ships.

A few strange little fish are able to live, giving their own light. Certain plant-like animals and a strange walking fish are found on the actual bottom. Nowadays, scientists believe that life can and does exist in all depths of the sea.

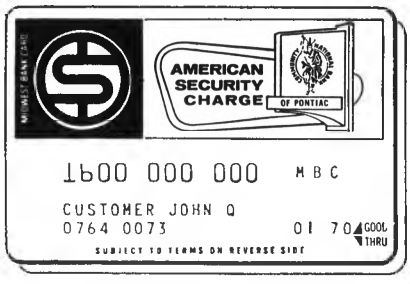
Have a Merrier Christmas this year

Shop with Midwest Bank Card



Next to Santa Claus himself, Midwest Bank Card is a Christmas shopper's best friend. It lets you buy more things at more places for less money than any other credit card in the Oakland-Macomb area.

It's accepted by over 400 local merchants—all listed in the Midwest Bank Card Shopping Guide that's available at all 20 offices of Community National Bank. Extended payment charges are 20% less than most credit cards—with no charge at all for full payment within 25 days of billing. And there are two big new advantages for Midwest Cardholders with Christmas travel plans.

First, we've gone international. A new agreement with other charge card networks makes Midwest good from coast to coast and in foreign countries. Second, automatic loan privileges at the hundreds of banks in the Midwest system now match the full amount of your personal credit limits.

All this makes Midwest the most welcome Christmas card. Use yours for your Christmas shopping. And if you don't have one yet, give yourself a present. Stop at any Community National office and apply for a Midwest Bank Card today.

We want everybody to have a Merrier Christmas.

Zoo's the Happening With Groves Students

By BENITA ROSEN

"Someone told me it's all happening at the zoo . . . I do believe it's true," sing Simon and Garfunkel. The zoo is happening in the Wylie E. Groves High School student lounge, due to the efforts of the art department with "The Zoo Experience," an art exhibit.

It all started late in September when Trudy Marquardt's sixth-hour creative writing class went on a field trip to the Detroit Zoo. The students captured the animals in descriptive literary form and turned their impressions over to the art classes. Art students, in turn, made a couple of visits to the zoo, taking notes on their observations from an artistic point of view.

* * *

The result was the array of zoo animal-inspired projects that was ready for display on the recent Groves' annual Parent's Night.

* * *

Some paintings and wall hangings were put up in school hallways, but predominantly observed were the large figures of various zoo creatures, products of the three dimensional design class.

SOME EXAMPLES

An ape with a harry-appearing hide was created by Larry Meyers, a peacock by Sue Heidel and a joint-effort rhinoceros was constructed by Chuck Adams and Paul Kawaga. Sue VanLopik's project was a giant turtle and Diane Souder designed a minizebra.

* * *

Some of the structures displayed already have been sold. The remaining pieces will be donated to Birmingham elementary school libraries.

* * *

"It was a most impressive and interesting display," said a parent who observed the exhibit during the open house. "I thought that it was terrific for high schol work."

* * *

The art department has also scheduled a sale, featuring student-made work, Dec. 11 from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. in the lounge.

AMONG ITEMS AVAILABLE

Student art pieces such as paintings, scuplture, jewelry and items made through the use of macrame, a technique of knotting yarn or twine to form clothing, belts or purses, will be available to the public for purchase.

* * *

Proceeds will provide funds for much-needed art hand tools and money for the student artist's profit.

* * *

Mrs. Fred Woell and George Landino, are the art department instructors. Mrs. Woell commented, "We hope that soon we will be given permission to use the lounge as a permanent gallery area."

Tonight, the Groves chapter of American Field Services will sponsor a pancake supper in the cafeteria, from 5 p.m. on.

BASKETBALL, SWIMMING

After the supper there will be a home basketball game against Seaholm and a swim meet with Southfield.

Pancake supper prices are 75 cents for children, $1 for students and $1.50 for adults. Tickets will be sold at the door.

* * *

"The organization and publicity of this event showed a lot of cooperation between students and parents," said AFS secretary Sue Dickson. "We both think that bringing foreign students to study at Groves is important, and the pancake supper is a joint effort of the adult and student chapters of the AFS."

* * *

Other club officers are Peggy Maass, president; Sue VanLopik, vice president; and Kathy McNabb, treasurer.

WLC Ski Team in Training for Its First Meeting

By JOANNE SANDERSON

If you walk down the halls after 2:30 p.m. at Walled Lake Central High School, be prepared for a surprise. You may be run over by running, jumping kids — the WLC ski team.

* * *

The ski team is in a six-week training period. The first meet will be Jan. 11. The team is coached by David Hisle of the social studies department.

* * *

Returning senior boys are Jim Martilla, Chuck Baldwin, Bruce Ghetia, Chris Baldwin and Doug Grinell.

* * *

RETURNING GIRLS

Girls' returning are seniors Pam Munger and Sue Schimelfining and juniors Jenny Morris, Sue Brunson and Gwen White.

* * *

Sophomores have strong team members in Bob Taylor, Lee Munson and Lynn Eggericks. Janet Green, Kathy Boyle and Candy Ingham will comprise the girls' team.

* * *

They all hope to be on the slopes by the middle of December to get in shape for the first meet.

* * *

The Drama Club held its first meeting Tuesday. The club is coached by Jacquelyn Bowers, speech and dramatics instructor, and Alexander Zerban, vocal music instructor.

PLAY PLANNED

The members will put on a play for the Fine Arts Festival.

The annual Fall Sports Banquet was held Nov. 19. All fall sports participants and their parents were invited. The evening was filled with presentations to the athletes.

* * *

Bruce Dudley, Ron Beagle and Don Krick were honored as second-year letter winners for cross country. Receiving their first letters were Roy York, Tom Dickens and Clyde Troutman. The awards were presented by Bernie Stafford, cross country coach.

* * *

Each member of the undefeated, junior varsity football team received a certificate from John Shadford and John Oswald, coaches of the team.

* * *

The three-year letter winners for varsity football were Greg Gonica, Larry Bingham, Gary Ferguson and Wally Williams. Presenting the awards was varsity coach Leo Folsom.

Day Is Happy and Sad at PNH

By LARRY HELTSLEY

Wednesday afternoon marked a happy beginning and a sad ending for Pontiac Northern students. Wednesday was the termination of the second marking period, much to the dismay of many students. Looking at the brighter side, it was also the beginning of an extended weekend due to the Thanksgiving holiday.

Pictures were distributed to underclassmen under a new system this year. A sample picture was given to each underclassman and he or she will not receive their pictures until they are paid for.

Northern's prize-winning band performed its annual concert in the PNH gymnasium Tuesday night. A. Roger Welton directed the band before a large and appreciative crowd.

An open paddle ball tournament is in progress for all male Northern students. Tournament games are played Monday and Wednesday by the two-man teams. Hercules Renda, coordinator of the tournament will award trophies and medals at the conclusion of the contest.

PANCAKE SUPPER PLANNED

The junior class decided to hold a pancake supper in order to raise money for its treasury.

Northern's Christmas dance will be held Dec. 14 in the school cafeteria. The dance is a girl-ask-boy affair, Northern's version of a Sadie Hawkins dance.

* * *

Student Council members have begun planning for decorations and auditions for the band are in progress.

Varsity debate competition has been dropped at Northern because of a lack of participants. Junior varsity and novice competition will continue with the remaining number of debators.

MADRIGALS PERFORM

PNH Madrigals directed by John Tousley performed in a Madrigal festival at Warren Cousino High School.

Barry Webb, Jim Shelton, Tom Pardee, Rob Clancy, and Scottie Hasted were chosen to serve as the buxom cheerleaders for the senior team during the senior faculty game. Others were Burton, Sam Richey and Ted Lazaroff.

Lake Orion High Athletes Honored at Fall Banquet

By CHERYL GRITZINGER

The Lake Orion High School fall sports banquet was held recently. Varsity and junior varsity football players and the members of the cross-country team were honored, along with the cheerleaders.

Douglas Holcomb, head varsity coach, Charles Dutcher, head JV coach, and Charles Bainton, cross-country coach, presented the awards.

* * *

Varsity football players Bill Baker and George Trim received most valuable player awards for defense and offense, respectively. Jim Schipper was the most improved player.

Steve Allison was best defense player and Ed Kubilis, best offense player on the junior varsity football team. Fred Siegwart received the Hustle (Spirit) trophy.

* * *

David Stenquist, a member of the varsity cross-country team for three years, received the senior trophy.

The Girls' Athletic Association has started a volleyball team. The girls will play three area schools.

Drive for GIs Success at Novi

By THOM HOLMES

The Novi High School Servicemen Drive, to collect useful items to be sent to Novi servicemen overseas, ends today. Because of good student response, the deadline date was moved back to this week from last Friday.

The drive was initiated by the Student Council four weeks ago. In order to increase the spirit of the drive, the Student Council put Willie the Wildcat, the school mascot, up for grabs.

The class that contributes the most to the fund will gain temporary possession of the treasured stuffed animal.

Needed items are presweetened Kool Aid, canned fruits and juices, playing cards, stationery, paperback books and vitamins.

QUITE A TASK

The Student Council faces quite a task determining Willies' winner. It has to count all of the donations.

The N Club will sponsor dances after the first and last basketball games. The first game is Dec. 7. After basketball season is over, the N Club will also sponsor the annual student-faculty game.

* * *

The senior class is considering a boat trip on the Great Lakes or a visit to a ranch up north for its class trip.

The Junior-Senior Prom will be held May 25. The event will be held in the school.

Radio Club Asks Items at WBH

By SHARON CARR

"Anyone interested in contributing amateur radio equipment should contact me at West Bloomfield High School," says Stewart Shultz, sponsor of WBH's highly ambitious Radio Club.

* * *

The goal of this club is to obtain equipment for its own radio station.

One project now under way for raising money is the selling of class pins. These pins initialed WBHS, with the graduation year of the customer, are available in sterling silver or gold plate. Prices are $3 and $1. Rob Zienhert is project chairman.

* * *

Club officers are Chuck Scott, president; Wesley Phillips, vice president; John Geneau, treasurer; and Mark Chambers, secretary.

BACCALAUREATE VOTE

Mark Nusslock, president of the senior class, presented the problem of baccalaureate service to seniors at a meeting Tuesday morning.

The question arose whether the school should have a service this year or if individual ones should be held at each church. Voting was Wednesday. Also at this time class motto, color, song and flower were chosen.

* * *

American Field Service members met Wednesday to plan for future events. It was decided that Feb. 28 would be the beginning of their annual AFS exchange weekend.

All AFS students from schools in our area will spend the weekend with students at WBH. They will attend classes and in the evening participate in a hootenanny.

AFS FINALISTS

The two AFS finalists for study abroad next year are juniors Pam Dulmage and Pam Cherney.

The journalism staff has expanded its newspaper to a full six pages for a special Thanksgiving issue.

Mott Students Set School-Drive Rally

By GEORGIA ROSEWALL

During Thanksgiving vacation many Waterford Mott students will be engaged actively in their drive to promote the school millage and bond proposal.

Students spent today making posters, printing pamphlets, and making final arrangements for a rally to be held tomorrow at 1 p.m.

* * *

The site will be on the Mott High School grounds at Pontiac Lake and Scott Lake roads. The public is invited

Speakers at the rally will include Cinda White, chairman of the Student Millage Action Campaign (SMAC); Bruce Annett, cochairman of the adult drive; a representative of the Waterford Jaycees; and a special guest speaker.

Yearbook Staff Is Busy at PC

By GERI KLINKHAMER

Activities were booming this week at Pontiac Catholic High School.

The yearbook staff collected the last of the advertisements for the 1969 Phoenix. They were due Wednesday. Orders for the books, themselves, went on sale this week.

NHS CONSTITUTION

The National Honor Society met Monday and began to draft its constitution for admittance to the Student Council.

An interviewer from Marygrove College came Tuesday to talk to the senior girls.

* * *

Seven boys went to the conference Tuesday held by the Detroit Engineering Society. Attending were Greg Almas, Mike Boyer, Abe Floro, Mike Ellis, Rick Polmear, Mark Holdsworth and Herb Larson.

* * *

The seniors Wednesday sponsored their first dance of the year. It was in tribute to Pontiac Catholic's freshmen. The dance featured the Whereabouts.

BASKETBALL CUTS

Final cuts in girls basketball were announced this week.

Survivors of varsity tryouts are Debbie Deuman, Maureen Daugherty, Vivi Barnes, Jane Staszkiewicz, Debbie Campbell, Sue Schmansky, Pat Tyrrell, Martha Bieri, Carmen Guillean and Frances Lenore Finnegan.

* * *

The girls had their first game Tuesday, defeating Detroit St. Rita in a scrimmage, 29 to 19.

The junior varsity lost to the Viqueen's reserves, 34 to 4.

Candy Sale On at Stevenson

By GALE NELSON

Eating candy during class isn't against the rules this week at Stevenson High School. An all-school candy sale is in progress to give each club and organization the opportunity to make extra money.

* * *

The Washington (class trip) Club is the only organization in which each individual is earning money for himself. Ten cents is earned from each $1 box sold and 5 cents from each 50-cent bar. The total sum earned by each member goes against the cost of the trip, $127.

* * *

Any member selling 100 cases (1200 boxes) of candy automatically earns a free trip.

* * *

The Student Council is offering prizes for the top five salesmen. First prize is $25, second prize, an Instamatic camera, third prize, $10 and two $5 awards for runners up.

* * *

The candy sale ends Dec. 6

School is closed for the Thanksgiving holiday until Monday.

At Troy High

Junior Joins Choir

By LUANNE GREENSTEIN

Steve Keller, a junior at Troy High School, is a new addition to Troy's concert choir.

* * *

Last year, Steve attended the Palistrina Institute of Music, a private school in Detroit. He took classes in music history, theory, voice, piano and choir. Steve attended Ferndale High last year.

* * *

In addition to the concert choir, which Steve hopes to repeat next year, he is an active member of the Vivace Club and Troy's wrestling team.

Outside of school Steve doesn't do much with music, but does admit that he "goofs around with the piano."

HAPPY AT TROY

He likes Troy High better than Ferndale, adding that the modular scheduling is great because it leaves time for more classes, where at Ferndale the maximum amount is six.

Steve feels school spirit at Troy is good, and he also believes that Clyde D. Peterson, principal of Troy, really cares about what's going on.

* * *

His First White Christmas?

Holly Guest From S. Africa

By MARCIA CLARK

This Christmas may be the first white Christmas ever seen by Bart Das, Holly High School's exchange student from Port Elizabeth, South Africa.

Bart, son of a Dutch interior decorator, is now living with the Robert P. Longstreth family of Riviera Shores Drive, Holly Township.

Bart has a sister Marty, and a brother Peter in South Africa. His American brothers and sisters total five — Linda, Larry , Lane, Leslie and Lee.

"America was very much like I expected it to be, but then I was lucky. My next-door neighbors had lived in Flint for a few years and returned just six months before I left," said Bart.

HOLLY IS LARGER

"Holly was also larger than I expected. Everyone told me how tiny it was so I compared it to the town I lived in previously, Redhruse, with a population of approximately 500."

"I was also better-prepared for life in the United States since I have studied English since grade school," said Bart.

The curriculum in the South African schools is much more confined than it is here.

Major fields of study are chosen in the fifth or sixth grade and followed through high school.

In this way, students get a more advanced education in their chosen field. Yet they do not get a chance to dabble in many fields.

SCHOOL YEAR VARIES

The school year also is longer in South Africa. School usually starts around Jan. 20 and runs until Dec. 10. But quite long vacations of two or three weeks are given at Easter and in the winter (which is our summer).

The school day begins at 8:30 a.m. and ends at 3:30 p.m. with a 45-minute break for lunch.

* * *

"The teacher-student relationship is more casual here than in South Africa. It seems that the whole educational system is more formal in South Africa," remarked Bart.

"My family has always traveled a great deal so they were all for my coming to the United States. I have traveled extensively in southwest Africa and Holland."

U.S. TRAFFIC SURPRISES

One of the more startling differences between South Africa and the United States is the traffic.

"The first day in the United States, in New York City, I was almost killed. I hadn't gotten used to the traffic yet. We drive on the other side of the road you know."

* * *

"Also the first day in New York City they served us pancakes and heavy syrup for breakfast. We never eat anything that heavy for breakfast."

"Mainly we eat fresh fruit and cereal — sandwiches maybe, but nothing as heavy as pancakes and syrup."

HE WANTS TO SKI

"I am looking forward to learning to ski. There is hardly ever enough snow to ski at home. The enthusiasts go into the mountains. I hope I don't break my neck," he added thoughtfully.

SCHOOL NEWS ROUNDUP

Oakland Christian

By KEVIN BALLARD

Seniors at Oakland Christian High School have selected their class motto, song, verse, flower and colors.

Ecclesiastes 3:1 is the verse, "To everything there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven."

"Vision to see, faith to believe, and courage to do," is their motto.

"He's everything to me" was chosen as class song, and the chrysanthemum, the flower.

* * *

Class representatives from 10th and 12th grades joined students from 75 other area high schools at the Campus Life Banquet held at the Sveden House Saturday night. The speaker was Mel Johnson, and the Teen Singers provided the music.

A new bowling club has been organized. Students will compete with other area schools and churches.

The student body presented Principal Lidie Bougher, with a dozen red roses to show its appreciation for her work at OCHS.

A paper drive will be conducted Dec. 7 to raise funds for the school. Student will pick up the newspapers.

Last Thursday, there was an open house for parents of the OCHS students.

Milford

By ROSE MAKI

Milford High School Student Council members will attend Clarkston High School Thursday.

An Activity Night is scheduled for Dec. 10.

Decorations for the recent Sadie Hawkins Dance were arranged by the decoration committee headed by Chairman Paulette Cattano.

Dominican

By CINDI WYZGOWSKI

To celebrate the Thanksgiving holiday; girls at Dominican Academy presented a program for the enjoyment of the entire student body.

The junior history class showed its interpretation of "what Thanksgiving really is." It compared a Pilgrim family with a 1968 family. The latter family showed its gratitude for everything they had, even in the face of the father's tragic death.

* * *

The Glee Club also performed, under the direction of Sister Diane Elizabeth. They sang, "Sing to the Lord of Harvest," and other season songs. The student body also joined in these songs.

The class of '70 sold night shirts this week. They come in powder blue, navy blue and red. Each shirt has a team emblem on it. They cost $2.50 and all profits go to the junior class treasury.

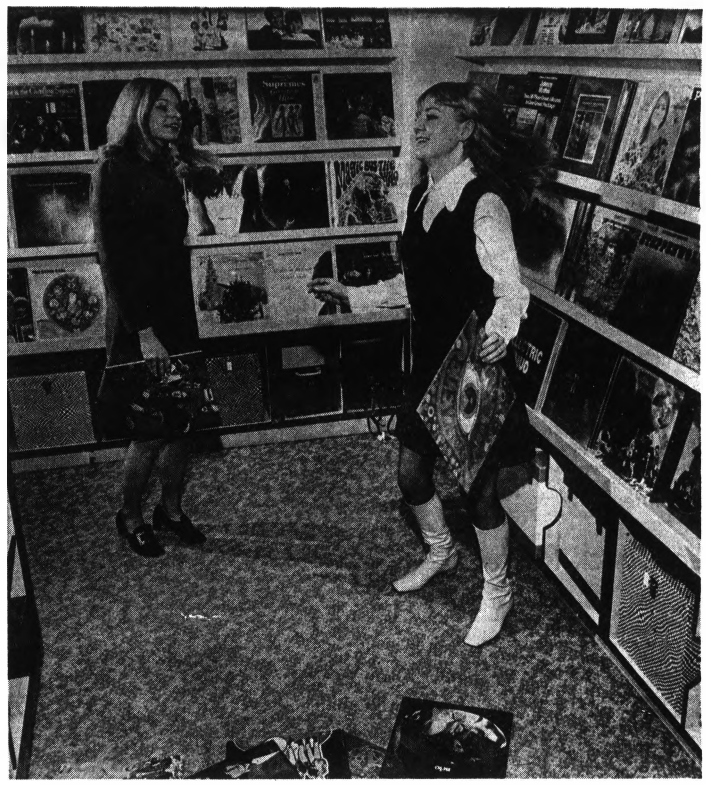
TEL HURON SHOPPING CENTER—FE 3-7879 — 1550 UNION LAKE RD., UNION LAKE—363-6286

Mrs. Robert Greene of Muerdale Road, West Bloomfield Township, shops for her infant son, Jason, in fashion and comfort. Her black and white tweed pant suit is tailored in a double breasted manner. She's smart to wear a short-sleeved shell under the jacket so that rising temperatures can be dealt with in a jiffy.



These two swingers, both secretaries in the Oakland County Prosecutor's Office, got sidetracked while Christmas shopping on their lunch hour. From left, Carol Butz of Paramus Street, White Lake Township, and Jackie Taylor of Pontiac Lake Road, can't resist a few steps as they hunt the latest sounds for gift-giving.

Pontiac Press Photos by Ron Untermahrer

Stylish Shoppers Crowding Area Centers

By JEANNE NELSON

Today, traditionally, is the real beginning of that great American institution — Christmas shopping. From now until the last store closes on Christmas Eve, it'll be shop, shop, shop.

For the moment at least, there seems to be a definite swing towards shopping "in style." As the days dwindle down, there may well be a switch to less emphasis on fashion. But in the meantime, area shoppers are looking chic indeed.

* * *

It's easy to see the pant suit, in one form or another, is a favorite. It's no surprise, of course, since it's so versatile.

Lightweight jackets make roaming around crowded aisles much less troublesome than does wearing a heavy coat.

Then too, there's the added advantage of comfort in those low, squatty shoes that are perfect go-togethers for an outfit of this kind.

Hats are few and far between, but fur toques are the winners for shoppers who wear them.

Those new walking suits adapt well to gift-hunting as long as they're light enough to wear as temperatures rise.

One can visualize how these longer jackets could be used to play a different role; perhaps over an odd pair of slacks or even topping a knit sheath. If fabrics and colors harmonize, why not?

MATRON'S TASTE

One silver-haired customer at The Pontiac Mall was looking especially smart in a soft grey wool ensemble with a touch of black velvet at neckline and cuffs. Her accessories and earrings were also black.

The higher the boots, the shorter the skirt seems the rule of the swinging, youthful shoppers (some aren't quite as young as they should be for this). While they look in tune with the times, it doesn't appear to be the most practical outfit for this purpose.

Those wonderful two and three piece knits are making the Christmas shopping scene in abundance. And what a carefree, handsome look they have about them! This year's color combinations are more attractive than ever.

* * *

The influence on fashion that the enclosed shopping center has created is becoming more and more apparent. It's no longer practical to think about just throwing on a coat over any old housedress for a day's shopping.

The outdoor coat is practically nonexistent with the convenience of close parking and rental lockers.

'Ho-Hum' Battle Cry Voiced by Some 48 Million Napocrats

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — What this nation needs in the presidential cabinet is a secretary of apathy.

In this high place in government he would speak for the estimated 48 million Americans who did not vote in the recent presidential election. That's around 40 per cent of the eligibles.

The apathetics need, in addition, an organization. Call it the National Apathetic party (NAP). Call the members Napocrats.

Whether they like it or not, these males and females ought to have their needs considered at lawmaking time.

IN A CRUNCH

Even though they sit on their hands most of the time while all about them are in a crunch, Napocrats contribute some things to the nation's interest.

Consider what they do when they utter their battle cry: "Ho-hum." They help keep America quiet and this reduces damage from noise pollution.

They also cooperate when police are worried about crowds getting out of hand. They stay home.

It's not fair to say the Napocrats never get aroused. When they don't like the size of tax deductions from their paychecks or when they consider social security payments too small, they usually say:

"Why doesn't someone do something about this."

The apathetic Napocrat at such a time is told to write his or her congressman or senator.

CAN'T IDENTIFY

The Napocrat might, but he doesn't know which congressman or senator represents him. Not having voted, the Napocrat can't identify with a legislator.

Napocrats also have been heard to say:

"I don't know what this country is coming to. A person can watch someone getting mugged or killed and not call the police.

"The children are disrespectful and don't obey laws. There is graft in high places. Things are in a terrible mess and no one cares."

If the apathetic Napocrats think they don't have something to gain by uniting, they ought to consider that voting as a block they might even get their man into the White House.

Political pundits probably would call it a sleeper. The candidate's name most likely would be Rip Van Winkle something-or-other.

Otto Mielkes Will Be Honor Guests Sunday

Former Pontiac residents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Mielke of Lewiston, will be feted Sunday at the Metropolitan Club of Pontiac in celebration of their golden wedding anniversary.

Hosting the affair, scheduled from 4-8 p.m., will be sons, Milton of White Lake Township, Richard of Springfield Township and daughter, Mrs. Richard (Delores) Scarlotti of Sparrow Wood Court.

The celebrants, who made their home here for 31 years, were married Nov. 30, 1918 in North Detroit Lutheran Church. They have eight grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Jaycee Unit to Sponsor Blood Bank Monday

A blood bank, sponsored by the Waterford Jaycee Auxiliary and arranged through the Red Cross, is scheduled Monday at the CAI Building from 3 to 9 p.m.

Open donations or specific replacements may be made. Appointments are recommended to avoid waiting. Contact Mrs. Richard Schwab of Waterloo Street or Mrs. James H. Curd of Dundee Drive.

Any organization wishing to arrange another blood bank may also contact either of these women.

Can't Manage Others' Lives, Columnist Says

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: We rented our house on the shore to a couple for two months this summer, and when they left, they commented bitterly that the late-hour uproar next door every night kept them from getting any sleep. I confirmed this during a ten-day stay at this house.

One night by midnight, I phoned the police. The police arrived just in time to catch two boys climbing in the upstairs bedroom window, clad only in a towel.

* * *

I then phoned the girl's parents and told them the full details. The mother told me she had not known about it and assured me she would put a stop to it.

* * *

The following weekend, when the parents came to town, the place had been cleaned up and the daughter had a slick story prepared, backed up by her companions, which the mother swallowed.

She brought the "youngsters" over and I was raked over the coals for making any complaint about the kids having a good time.

* * *

The uproar has subsided to the point where I have no further complaint. How do you think I should have handled this situation, other than as I did?—Mr. A. R.

* * *

Dear Mr. R.: There is only one other thing you could, and should, have done. You should have talked to the girl herself. While you had no right to criticize her morals, you had every right to complain about the noise. Unfortunately, some parents are only too willing to shrug off criticism of their children, and if you voiced your complaints in a civilized way, the parents were wrong in not checking on your story.

* * *

But none of us can manage the personal lives of our neighbors, and as long as their actions do not harm us in any way, there is little we can do to force them to change their ways.

Keep Up Your Behavior for Own Peace of Mind

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am not a mixed-up teen-ager, I am 24 years old, and I have been around the track a few times. When I was 18 I got involved with a married man and ended up with a baby and no husband.

After that, whenever I dated a guy he took it for granted that I was easy, and I had a fight on my hands.

Men think that because a girl made one mistake she has nothing to lose. When I make it plain that I intend to behave myself, they think I am putting on an act. How is a girl who has learned her lesson and reformed supposed to act on a date?

GIRL WITH A PAST

* * *

DEAR GIRL: She is supposed to act like a lady, and after she has acted that way consistently, she will convince one and all that she is sincere. And if she loses the man, she can consider herself lucky because she'll know he wasn't looking for a respectable girl. And by the way, it's easier to live down a "past" if you change pastures.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband is so hard to get up in the morning, I just don't know what to do. Once he's up, he's truly ambitious and hard-working, but it's getting him out of bed that's a chore. If I call him more than once, I'm "nagging" him, and I don't like to start the day off with a fight.

If I call him only once, he turns over and goes back to sleep. He's constantly late for work, which looks bad on his record. His mother said she had the same trouble with him before he was married.

We've been married for three years and I do love him. How can I make him realize that the early bird gets the worm?

BEAT IN BALTIMORE

DEAR BEAT: Maybe he's not crazy about worms, but if he likes butter on his bread, he'd better wake up (literally, that is). If he continues to be late for work, better get yourself a job. You'll need it.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter-in-law calls me "Grandmaw" and I don't like it one bit. Before her baby came she didn't call me anything. Just nothing at all. When she wanted my attention she would say, "Hey!"

When my grandson calls me "Grandmaw," I love it. I'm only 43, but it's one thing to have your own grandchild who is three years old call you "Grandmaw" and something else to be called that by a 25-year-old girl.

How can I let her know that I am not HER Grandmaw and I wish she would quit calling me that?

MOTHER-IN-LAW

* * *

DEAR MOTHER: How about just telling her?

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I've read you for many years but this is the first time I've written. I've been a social worker for nearly 40 years. Since you first appeared, I've kept tabs on your batting average, and it's better than most trained social workers I know.

I have a gripe, however. When some of your self-righteous women complain of "dirty old men," you seem to accept the terminology. You never mention "dirty young women," however. I am a consultant in a nursing home in which there are many elderly men, and I haven't seen a "dirty" one yet. But I see a lot of "dirty" young women on the streets every day.

* * *

By "dirty" the critical women include all older men who have an interest in sex. If "sex" is "dirty" then every normal person must be dirty. For a woman to complain because her husband looks at a waitress and other cute things is laughable. Why shouldn't he look?

Some young women dress to attract the attention of men. This is natural and I don't censure them for it. But modern styles (and cosmetics) provoke sexual thoughts and desires of men of any age. So if this is "dirty," then the sweet young provokers must also be dirty.

I don't think so. I think they are normal, and so are the men who look. The only "dirtiness" is in the nasty minds of some women who can no longer attract attention. This is rank hypocrisy.

AN ASCW

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Here is the scene. A man goes fishing and brings home a good catch. Everybody in the family loves fish. I say the wife should clean them.

Chuck, my kooky buddy, says I'm crazy — not one wife in a hundred cleans fish anymore. I say he's crazy. So who's crazy?

TOM M

DEAR TOM: The wife who cleans fish.

Peekini Top Is Exposed

SYDNEY (AP) — Australia's contribution to the see-through look is a "peekini," a strapless bra made of transparent plastic with a bright little plastic flower on each cup.

Unveiled at a champagne reception today, the peekini will go on sale in Sydney Monday at $3.36. Five pairs of different flowers come with each bra.

"A girl can change the flowers in a second," said designer Gerard Doube of Melbourne. He added the peekini will be on sale in the United States, Britain and Europe next year.

★ ★ ★

Doube claimed a girl can get a normal suntan through the peekini except for the part covered by the flower "which can be removed for private sunbathing."

★ ★ ★

The peekinis were displayed by models, who wore it with see-through evening and cocktail dresses, sarongs and bikini shorts.

★ ★ ★

"With a peekini I could get 100 per cent more sun tan on the beach than with my tiniest bikini," said Blonde Linda McKern.

★ ★ ★

Another model, Sandra Vesper, appeared in a topless mini-dress plus peekini and said she thought it would be ideal for cocktail parties.

Polly's Pointers

Keep Check Records

DEAR POLLY — When my bank statement has been reconciled, I put the canceled checks back in the checkbook according to the numbers on the stubs and attach them to the stubs with clear plastic tape. When a checkbook is completed, I file it in my desk drawer. This is the simplest and most thorough way I have found to file canceled checks. — MARGRET

★ ★ ★

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. L. M. B. could try using near's-foot oil on the sole of her shoe that squeaks. That usually helps a lot. — MRS. W. H. H.

(Polly's note — Be sure not to get any of the oil on the upper part of the shoe. It may affect the color or the shoe may not shine properly.)

DEAR POLLY — I want to tell the lady with the squeaky shoe that I had that problem. My shoemaker told me to put the shoe in a heavy damp cloth and leave it overnight. This certainly solved the problem for me. — MRS. S. P.

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — I hope some reader can tell me how to raise the dents in my inlaid asphalt-tile linoleum. Most were made by the steel caps on the heels of ladies' shoes. — MRS. J. W. E.

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is for covering an ottoman with carpet scraps so it matches your carpet. After we had wall-to-wall carpeting installed, I sewed scraps of carpet together and tacked it on the ottoman. I covered mine with heavy, clear plastic to keep it clean. — MRS. A. R. H.

★ ★

DEAR POLLY — To make a scarf holder, I crochet around a plastic curtain ring and add a tab of crochet with a tiny safety pin in the end. This way the scarf holder can be transferred from coat to coat without removing any stitching at all. If making for a gift, add this verse: "If a scarf, dear, you must tote, Just pin me inside your coat, Slip your scarf through the ring, Am I not the cleverest thing?" — LOTTIE

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice Farmer,

Do you know how practical the satin pillowcases are for protecting the hairdos we now have? I would like to make some for Christmas gifts but besitate because I don't know if they are worthwhile.

Mrs. Bev M.

Dear Mrs. Martin,

When this idea was tried out, the hairdo seemed to hold much longer because the very smooth surface of the satin kept the hair from getting pulled out of shape as it did on cotton pillow slips.

★ ★ ★

I think they would make excellent gifts and if you really want to give a lovely gift, I would recommend the beautiful satin smooth kind of imported polyester fabric that requires absolutely no ironing. Whether they really work for your hairdo or not, they certainly work wonders for your morale and make you feel very luxurious.

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Mrs. J. H. Thaden, Pardeeville, Wis., is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her sewing tip.

"When I make draperies, I finish all but the hems before hanging them. After a few days, I mark the bottom at the desired length. Then I place the ironing board beside the window and press and pin the hems. This allows a perfect chance to check the straightness without extra handling.

"If I intend to hem them by machine, and this is often permissible depending on the fabric, I move the machine to the windows and do the sewing while the draperies are in place. Obviously, the same thing can be done with hand hemming. This sure saves extra handling and above all, extra pressing."

★ ★ ★

(Sure wish I had thought of this great idea years ago when I was making draperies for a 26-foot wall. It took three men and a boy, as the old saying goes, to get them up, only to find they weren't even and down they would come again. I'm sure with the popularity of large walls and windows covered in draperies, this tip will save lots of extra work and will save dispositions.)

Dear Eunice Farmer,

I have learned how to lower bust line darts with your help, but now have a new kind of pattern where there is a construction seam over the bust line and a very small dart extending from the seam. How will I know just where this dart should be placed for the best fit and appearance?

Mrs. J. N. M.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. J. N. M.:

I'm glad you brought this up because I have stressed the correct fitting of bust line darts many times, but this is a different kind of dart.

When you have a construction seam at the side front, it will be a curved one, which is actually a concealed shaping and has the same effect as if there were regular darts. The very short dart that usually appears from this kind of seam is placed at an angle and is used for a youthful look rather than for a fitted shaping.

★ ★ ★

This kind of dart should be slightly above the bust and not below it as other darts are placed. However, if you usually lower your darts this kind of dart will also have to be lowered the same amount. It is usually not the best design for a woman who is full-busted.

Teflon Treatment

A good recipe to remove discoloration from Teflonware is: 2 tablespons baking soda, 1 cup water and ½ cup liquid chlorine bleach. Boil 10 minutes.

Michigan Girl Is Semifinalist

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Tamaira Jacobs, a senior at East Lansing, Mich., high school, will be one of eight semifinalists competing for the title of Miss Teen-age America Saturday night on national television.

Ethel Kennedy Awaits Birth of 11th Child

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy, sustained by her religion and her 10 children in the months since her husband was slain, is in seclusion awaiting the birth of their 11th child — possibly this weekend.

It has been a difficult pregnancy for the 40-year-old widow, and she has spent much of her time in bed in recent weeks. She had one false alarm Oct. 19 and was admitted to Georgetown University Hospital, then returned to her sprawling Hickory Hill Estate in suburban Mclean, Va., the next day.

The baby she is expecting will be delivered by Caesarian section, the fifth such operation for the athletic, vivacious Ethel who has referred to herself in conversation as "good old Moms."

Few women have more than three such operations.

The baby will be delivered by Dr. John W. Walsh, professor of gynecology and obstetrics at Georgetown, who attended the caesarian delivery of Mrs. John F. Kennedy's children.

Robert Kennedy knew his wife was pregnant before he was shot in Los Angeles last June 5.

IN CONTROL

She was at his side when he was wounded and remained on vigil during his last hours. At the funeral, she remained composed and in command.

Afterward, she lived quietly at their summer home at Hyannisport, Mass., returning to Washington only in time for the children to return to school.

It has been apparent that she is trying to carry on as "Bobby" would have wanted her to, running her household and her personal life with dignity. He once said she was the perfect wife because "She always thinks I'm right."

They were married for 18 years.

* * *

Although an in-law, Ethel always has seemed to be more of a Kennedy than some of the Kennedys. She epitomizes the family's stamina, loyalty and fighting spirit.

A devout Roman Catholic, she personally planned the details of a recent memorial Mass held at a neighborhood church to commemorate her husband's birthday. Most of their children participated, as altar boys or ushers.

A few weeks ago, she attended a small dinner party at the home of friends, but remained in an upstairs room at Hickory Hill in October when Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., announced, at a news conference at the estate, that a foundation had been set up in Robert's name.

MAINTAINS PRIVACY

Seclusion is not unusual for Ethel when she is expecting a child. When the Senator was alive, both were extremely popular on Washington's social circuit, but Ethel always "retired" for the last couple of months of her pregnancies.

She and the children rely heavily on Edward ("Uncle Ted") for advice and companionship. He has devoted many hours to her family.

In fact, all details concerning the imminent birth have come from Ted Kennedy's office, where spokesmen politely tell reporters they will only confirm or deny the facts as the questions come in.

Ethel has granted no interviews.

Friends who have known Ethel for years are certain that she will meet the arrival of the new baby — and the rearing of 11 children — with her usual indomitable spirit.

The engagement of their daughter, Marilyn Rose, to Jack M. Sabat, is announced by Mr. and Mrs. David S. Smith of Aquarma Drive. Miss Smith's fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sabat of Alco Drive.

Gloves for Messy Tasks

Office workers should keep a pair of gloves on hand for messy jobs like changing a typewriter ribbon. Then you don't have to stop to wash up before continuing your work.

Add to Rug Life

Dirty rugs are not only less pleasant, but are less apt to wear well than clean ones. Surface dirt dulls a rug's color, and embedded grit wears and cuts the fibers. Moths and carpet beetles are less likely to go to work on clean rugs. If there is a heavy traffic over your rug, you may need to use vacuum every day.

BPW Has Bibliography

"Caring is better than cleaning."

"Working mothers must do first things first, second things never."

In these words, two women expressed their belief that the quality of the relationship between working mother and child is more important than the quantity of time spent together.

* * *

The rising percentage of working mothers poses many social and economic questions for the families involved and the society as a whole. This is the subject matter surveyed in a new annotated bibliography on "Working Mothers" published by the Business and Professional Women's Foundation.

* * *

Prepared by Jeanne Spiegel, Foundation Librarian, this bibliography is the third in the series which examines literature concerning career women.

* * *

It is now being distributed to universities and news media; single free copies may be requested from the Foundation, 2012 Massachusetts Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

Electronic Cookery Brings New Challenge

BY JANET ODELL
Women's Editor,
The Pontiac Press

You'd think that after 33 years of being a homemaker, cooking a turkey for Thanksgiving would be a routine job. That's not true.

JANET ODELL

This was brought home to me rather forcefully Thursday.

I've been roasting turkeys for years — big birds and little ones.

The first year we had a 20-pounder. I was stymied for a roasting pan; Mom hadn't yet given me her big roaster. We finally scrubbed the dishpan and used that. Those were the days when dishpans were made of enamelware, not plastic.

* * *

But that was all of 25 years ago.

Yesterday, I had a different problem. As the excited owner of a new electronic oven — the portable kind — should I cook the turkey in it?

With eight guests expected for dinner, did I dare try a new and completely different roasting process? The book said a 14-pound turkey should cook in less than two hours. What if it were wrong?

Next came the problem of a roasting pan. Now I probably have as well stocked set of cooking pots and pans as anyone in Oakland County. But you can't use metal in electronic ovens.

RESTRICTIONS

You can cook on china, but not if it has metal trim. Our turkey platter has a gold rim.

You can cook on paper. But where would the juices go?

My Corningware skillet was the only solution. The bird hung over on all four sides so I spread paper towels on the bottom of the oven.

With dinner set for 5 p.m. I resisted the temptation to start the bird at noon — just in case. But between 2:30 and 3 o'clock I put it (him? her?) in the oven.

Never has a roasting turkey had more attention paid to it. I turned it every 30 minutes and looked at it in between times. By 4:45 p.m., it was beautifully done and ready for carving.

It was as good a bird as we have ever had. These newfangled cooking inventions are as good as advertised. And old cooks can learn new tricks. We must just have faith.

Why Grow Old?

BY JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Every once in awhile I remind my readers that "the shape they are in" is not dictated entirely by fatty deposits. There are other factors.

First, there is the skeleton. There is not much we can do about that except to be sure poor posture does not cause incorrect alignment, and resulting round shoulders, Dowager's Hump or a sway back.

* * *

Muscles play a much more important part than most women realize. These were made to use, and when they are not used or are exercised too little, they deteriorate and become weak. They may also slump. This of course changes the lines of the silhouette.

Even more interesting, any extra fat we may have seems to accumulate over these weakened muscles. This is a well recognized fact. A physical education expert once said to me during an interview, "Fat accumulates over lazy muscles." I have seen evidence of the truth of this over and over again in my figure molding classes as fatty deposits disappeared over activated muscles.

* * *

Perhaps this is one reason why a protruding abdomen is one of the most prevalent feminine figure faults. Remember the pregnancy the abdominal muscles are stretched and weakened. Unless they are reconditioned with exercise after delivery, fat is certain to gather there.

If this is your figure defect, do date it with exercise. Try this one.

Lie on the floor on your back with your arms on the floor extending out from your shoulders, palms facing the floor. Place a small pillow beneath your hips. Bend both knees up to your abdomen.

Straighten your legs toward the ceiling. Slowly lower legs downward to a point about a foot above the floor. Again, slowly bend your knees, straighten toward the ceiling and lower again to the same level. Continue. If this is too difficult, bend, straighten and lower, only one leg at a time until your muscles become stronger.

Convert Closet

By taking the door off a shelved closet in the living room or den, and painting the shelves to match the woodwork, you can turn this out-of-the-way closet into a handy and convenient bookcase.

A Look at TV

It's Delightful 'Memory'

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Write

NEW YORK — A mood piece, spun delicately with words, is difficult enough to pull off successfully. And to translate it effectively into another medium, television, is quite an accomplishment indeed.

Yet, for the second time, a sensitive production and acting team has managed to fashion a sensitive, moving and altogether memorable occasion out of what must be identified as a semiautobiographical vignette —drama is too powerful a word —by Truman Capote.

* * *

The first was 1966's "A Christmas Memory." On Thursday night it was "The Thanksgiving Memory," and it lived up, surprisingly, to expectations built by the first show.

Geraldine Page once again portrayed Miss Sook, the child-like, romantic and aging spinster with extraordinary human insight, the "best friend" and comforter of Buddy, a small lonely boy living with cousins during a crisis in his own family. Michael Kearney, once again in the orle, was heartrendingly effective as the boy.

SIMPLE STORY

The story line was simple: Buddy was harassed by an older, bigger bully and had no one to turn to except the loving and sympathetic Sookie, herself bullied by two hard-eyed sisters and a stern, unsympathetic brother.

Buddy, too small to stand up to the bully and too young to talk up to his elders, suffered. Miss Sook dreamed of faraway places and pinned all her dreams on selling a cameo pin that she fondly believed was worth enough money to carry her and Buddy from the farm home to the excitements of New Orleans.

* * *

The suspense came from Miss Sook's determination to convert the bully by inviting him to their Thanksgiving dinner. The plan worked until Buddy saw his enemy stealing the cameo—it was worthless—and summoned all his courage to denounce him at the table. The unexpected twist came with Miss Sook's bitter disappointment at Buddy's cruel action—"The greatest sin is to deliberately hurt another person."

* * *

Around this simple, nostalgic story, producer Frank Perry and his wife, Eleanor, who adapted Capote's gossamer memoir to television, introduced some fascinating country types —members of Miss Sook's family, from the colorful matriarch with a secret recipe for banana pudding to a flirtatious young cousin. The photography was effective and perfectly in the mood of the hour.

FINE HOUR

Altogether it was a fine hour. Its one flaw seemed to be the choice of Capote himself as narrator: his high voice and careful pronunciation was not quite right in the context, even if he did write it and it was his story.

One hopes that, in spite of the seasonal aspect of the hour, ABC will find time some night soon when there are not as many holiday demands on the potential audience, to rerun the program.

Faulty Heater Kills Baby Girl

CHARLEVOIX (UPI) — A faulty bottled gas space heater was blamed yesterday for spreading deadly carbon monoxide fumes through a home which killed a 25-day-old baby girl and sent her parents and two older sisters to a hospital Thanksgiving Day.

The family of Arthur Falting Jr. was overcome as they slept late in their home about four miles south of this northern Michigan community. The apprehension of Falting's mother, who tried twice to phone them, was credited with saving the lives of the other members of the family.

* * *

When she was unable to raise her son, Mrs. Arthur Falting Sr. sent two other sons to the home. They broke in the front door and applied artificial respiration but were unable to revive the youngest member of the family, Dawn Marie.

Hospitalized in fair condition were the parents and two daughters, Victoria, 5, and Beth Ann, 3.

* * *

The bottled gas space heater in the home apparently was not properly vented to the outside, sheriff's deputies said.

16 Are Held in Drug Raid

MIDLAND (AP) — Sixteen Detroit-area youths were arrested Thursday in what the Midland County sheriff's department said was a narcotics raid on a cabin near Midland.

The youths ranged in age from 13 to 18. Midland County Sheriff William Maxwell said a quantity of an unknown substance and a number of hypodermic needles were seized in the raid.

* * *

The names of the persons arrested were not issued.

U.S., Chinese Share Problem

Soviet Europe Policy May Ally Antagonists

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON

BRUSSELS (AP) — The United States and Red China comrades-in-arms?

It may seem far-fetched, but statesmen in Europe and Asia are beginning to consider the possibility.

* * *

The catalyst for any Sino-American reconciliation would be Russia. The setting would be Europe, where Red China is emerging as a significant power.

News Analysis

Since Russia's Aug. 21 invasion of Czechoslovakia, the Americans and their North Atlantic allies have denounced the assault in the strongest possible terms. So has Red China.

NEUTRAL ZONE

The United States and its North Atlantic Treaty Organization friends recently set up a new zone of security interest in Europe and the Mediterranean, warning the Soviets not to cross into it. In the zone are both Communist and neutral countries, Albania, Yugoslavia Romania and Austria.

Weeks ago the Red Chinese signaled a similar message to Moscow in more direct terms. They hustled troops to the Sinkiang frontier with the Soviet Union and announced that this was to deter the Russians from invading Romania.

There is no evidence the Russians ever intended to attack Romania, which has shown considerable independence from Moscow within the eastern bloc. Since Aug. 21, however, Romanian leaders have advised various western foreign ministers that China's massing of troops was a warning understood by the Kremlin.

Like NATO, the Red Chinese have established an area of interest in Europe. In other words, both Peking and Washington share an interest in seeing the Russians confined to their territorial den.

SPECIAL MEETING

The seriousness with which these developments were viewed by political leaders emerged in a recent two-day session of NATO foreign ministers.

Belgium's Pierre Harmel, one of the most respected men in the 15-member council, urged the alliance to study:

- The increasing diversity of Communist states and the implications for the West.
- The significance of disagreements among Communist states.
- The theory of the "socialist commonwealth."
- The role of Red China in Europe.

Two Virginia Indians Pay Bounty Tax

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Some things get to be a habit, even paying taxes.

The chiefs of two Indian tribes met with Gov. Mills E. Godwin Jr. yesterday to pay their taxes—an 18-pound turkey, 13 rockfish and a 140-pound deer.

* * *

"It looks like your bounty is pretty good this year," the governor told the chiefs of the shrinking Mattaponi and Pamunkey Indian tribes which still live on state-maintained reservations in King William County.

Three centuries ago the Indians were required to pay 20 beaver skins to the king of England. The law obviously is no longer in effect, but the Indians are tradition minded.

TRIBAL COMPETITION

Virginia governors normally donate the annual Thanksgiving gifts to the needy or to state institutions.

The Mattaponi and Pamunkey are fiercely competitive and usually show up on separate days. Yesterday, they were both in town at the same time.

Godwin accepted the turkey and the fish from Chief O. T. Custalow, head of the Mattaponi. After a few words, Godwin stepped around the capitol to the mansion and accepted the four - point buck from Chief Tecumseh Deerfoot Cook of the Pamunkey.

Santa and the Hippies

By LUCRECE BEALE

CHAPTER 1

HERE it is Christmas again — well, almost Christmas — and the question is: "Have you been good?"

Have you been nice to your Mama and helped set the table? Said "Yes, sir!" to your Daddy when he asked you to shovel the snow from the walk?

* * *

Have you hung your coat in the closet and come to meals on time? Studied your lessons and practiced the piano without being told? Put your toys where they belong and used a handkerchief when you should?

If you haven't been doing any of these things you better get busy because the first thing Santa wants to know when he's making out his list is "Has he been good?"

FILLS STOCKING

If you have been good, Santa's mighty pleased and you can bet your stocking will be overflowing on Christmas morning.

But the strange thing is — if you haven't been good, if, in fact, you've been perfectly awful, Santa will fill your stocking just the same.

* * *

But he'll be sad about it and he really won't like it at all.

There once was a boy named Henry Wetherspoon who was a terror of a kid. He called himself Ding Dong and he didn't care at all about being nice to his Mama or polite to his teachers even if Christmas was coming.

Ding Dong Henry Wetherspoon was a terror of a kid.

NEVER TOOK BATHS

Ding Dong never took baths. He never changed his socks or undererwear. He wouldn't comb his hair or brush his teeth and he sneaked out of bed in the middle of the night to watch the late late late show on TV.

He teased his sisters and played jokes on his brothers and hid his Father's shaving cream to make him late for the 8:15. He raided the refrigerator all day long and turned up his nose at the dinners his Mother worked so hard to prepare. He passed notes in school and talked out loud and went to sleep when arithmetic class came around.

* * *

Oh, he was a problem and neither his folks nor his teachers knew what in the world to do with Ding Dong Henry Wetherspoon.

But Santa Claus knew.

He was going over his list of boys and girls and making up Santa rubbed his eyes and his mind what to bring them for Christmas. When he got to Ding Dong's name he said, "What about this one? What about Henry Wetherspoon?"

SANTA'S HELPER

Santa has a helper — an elf named Edgar — who runs errands for him all over the world. In the course of his travels Edgar learned a lot about what children were up to when they thought no one was looking. So when Santa asked about Henry Wetherspoon, Edgar threw up his hands and wailed:

"That boy is impossible!"

* * *

Santa took off his spectacles and leaned back from his desk. "Tch, tch," he said reprovingly. "There's some good in every boy."

"Not this one!" snorted Edgar. He told Santa all he knew about Henry Wetherspoon. How bad he was and how unhappy he made all the folks who loved him and worried about him all the time.

rocked a while in his rocking chair. Then he said:

"Go and talk to him. Perhaps he'd like to live in Hippieville."

Tomorrow: Hippieville

Researcher Young at 81

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — When Dr. Reuben L. Kahn — famed for the syphilis test that replaced the Wasserman in 1923 — was brought to this country from his birthplace in Kovno, Lithuania, at the age of 12, he looked forward to becoming a doctor of medicine — a physician who made people well.

It was not until he completed his sophomore year as a medical student at Valparaiso University in Indiana that he seriously considered giving up this dream and turning to research. He reasoned that he still could serve people — perhaps many thousands more of them — through research.

At 81, when most men would have their accomplishments behind them, he is still an eager researcher.

For 40 years, from 1928 to 1968, Dr. Kahn was associated with the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor.

'GREW YOUNGER'

He says when he became professor emeritus there at 70, the age when all good men are expected to give up their active duties, he soon began to get younger. Students who had bidden him goodby turned to find him hard at work, under the sponsorship of the Atomic Energy Commission, in a university laboratory.

From 1957 to 1967 he worked on tissue immunity in relation to radiation under the Atomic Energy Commission. Currently his research is being supported by the American Cancer Society.

In July 1968 he accepted the invitation of Howard University in Washington, D.C., to become research professor of microbiology.

Now Volkswagen brings lasting relief to left feet.

Thanks to a new miracle ingredient in our little car called the automatic stick shift,* you can finally say goodbye to the clutch pedal.

How does this new ingredient work?

Two ways.

First, it provides continuous unemployment for your left foot.

Second, it provides near unemployment for your right hand.

(The only time you ever shift is when you go over 55 mph.)

Yet, even with its new ways, the bug continues to uphold the old ways.

It takes only small amounts of oil. Absolutely no water. And absolutely no antifreeze.

Best of all, it still delivers about 25 miles to a gallon of gas.

Don't you feel relieved already?

Teen Building a Pipe Organ

PITTSBURGH (AP) — While most high school woodshop pupils are building tie racks and small jewelry boxes, David Halliday is building a $20,000 pipe organ.

In a dusty corner of Taylor Allderdice High School's workshop sits the organ's 400-pound, 10-feet-4 console.

In the basement of David's home are nearly 1,000 organ pipes, ranging in length from several inches to 16 feet.

"My parents are amazingly tolerant," he said.

STARTED LAST YEAR

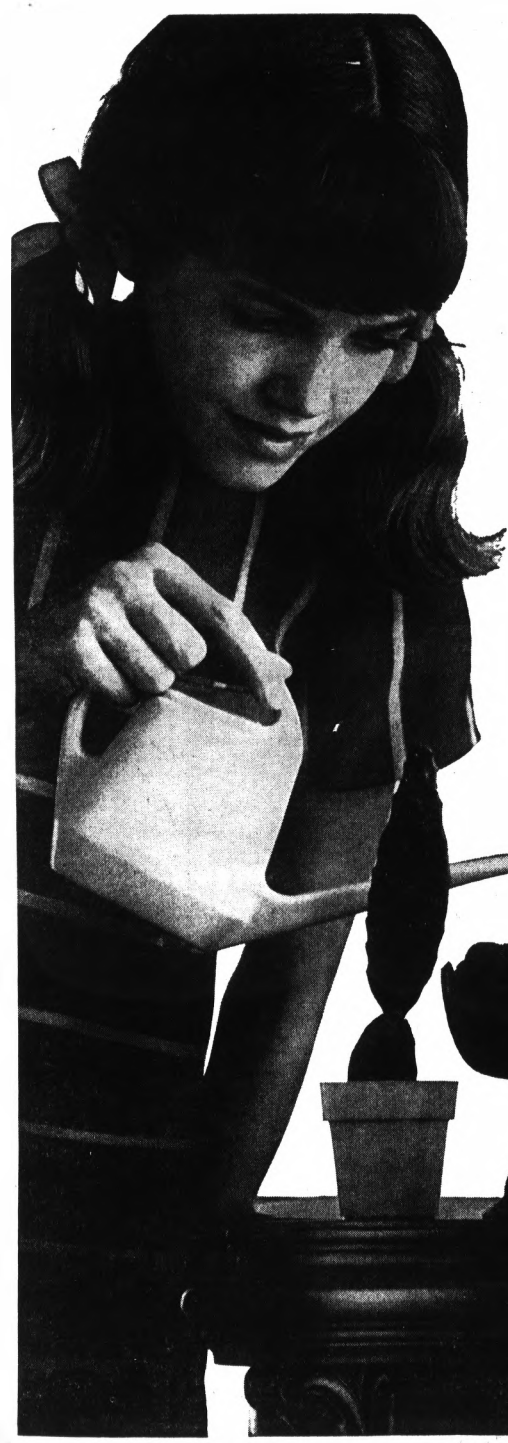
David, an 18-year-old senior, started the project last year under the direction of his shop instructor, William Matthews, and "Audsley's Treatise on Organ-Building."

"It should be finished in February," he says. "I've been working on the whole idea for five years and have collected all the parts I need."

* * *

David says construction plans call for $300 to $400 in materials, but the completed organ will be worth $20,000 to $30,000.

The loganberry is a cross between a variety of the wild blackberry of California and a cultivated red raspberry and takes its name from Judge J. H. Logan, who originated the fruit.



Is your home going to turn into a desert this winter?

A lot of homes will.

In wintertime, people in houses with flame-type heating wake up mornings with that stuffed-up feeling. With hoarse, dry throats. Furniture dries out and starts creaking.

Sound familiar? You bet it does. The best way to stop it is with electric heat.

You see, electric heat isn't a dry or drying heat. So you usually don't need a humidifier. The moisture from bathing and cooking is all you need for natural comfort.

An Edison-Approved Electric Heating Contractor will be glad to tell you all about comfortable, moisture-retaining electric heat. He'll figure your operating cost, and explain the operating cost guarantee. And right now, your contractor's offering a $100 trade-in on your old heating system. Call him for a no-obligation electric heat survey. He's listed in the Yellow Pages under "Electric Heating Equipment and Systems."

He'll show you how to turn your desert into an oasis.

Fearful and Full, Fat Keep Eating

NEW YORK (UPI) — Neither full stomachs nor fear slowed 43 fat young men in their eating. With 48 lean young men either condition was quite enough to dull the appetite.

All this eating was done in a scientific laboratory in a hunt for psychological differences between the fat and the lean. In physical controls they are assumed to be alike.

* * *

In either group, an empty stomach contracts as blood sugar diminishes which generates a feeling of hunger. Science also knows fear curbs appetite by abolishing stomach contractions and taking stored sugar from the liver.

With stomachs empty, the 91 young men reported to the Columbia University laboratory of Drs. Stanley Schachter, Ronald Goldman and Andrew Gordon. Like many subjects in psychological experimentation, they were deceived as to purpose. They thought they were to be tested in taste discriminations.

Some were greeted with roast beef sandwiches. Both fat and lean fell upon them with gusto. Stomachs now full, blood sugar now up, the hungry feeling presumably gone, each young man was left alone in a cubicle with five bowls of crackers of different kinds.

They were told to note taste differences among the crackers. Through a one-way mirror a hidden psychologist counted the crackers they ate. The lean young men were tuned to their full stomachs. They ate only enough crackers to taste difference. The fat ones weren't tuned. They had as much appetite for crackers as they had had for roast beef.

* * *

Other young men were confronted by formidable electrical apparatuses to which they were attached by electrodes. In the interest of the experiment, they were told, they were going to get a painful shock. That was to create fear which would halt the contractions of empty stomach and step up blood sugar levels.

For the lean young men, it worked. They had little appetite either for roast beef or crackers. For the fat young men, it didn't work. They ate as much as fat young men ate with their minds at rest.

"There appears to be little question that the eating of the obese is not related to the same set of bodily smptoms as the eating of normal in weight subjects," Schachter, Goldman and Gordon reported to the American Psychological Assocation.

"Obviously the obese are fat; obviously they eat. The feelings associated with gastric motility empty stomachs and hypoglycenia (low blood sugar levels) — appear to trigger eating in normal subjects. What triggers eating for the obese?"

They didn't know and, they said, "we confess a certain feeling of helplessness."

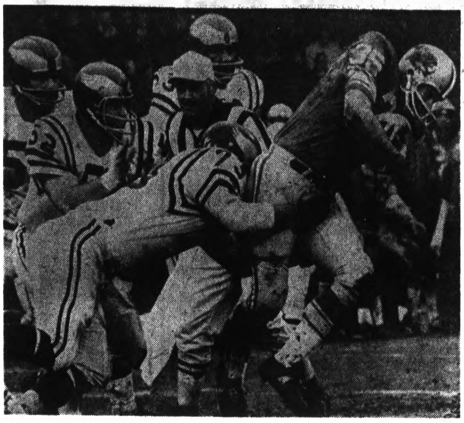
Victory Over Detroit Big Loss for Eagles



AP Wirephoto

CAGED LION—Fullback Tom Nowatzke (35) of the Detroit Lions is hauled down after wading through the mud for a short gain in the first half against the Philadelphia Eagles in Detroit yesterday. Making the stop is tackle Jim Norton (73). Eagles won, 12-0.

Lions' Setback Overshadowed by O. J. Talk

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

It wasn't a matter of winning or losing a game yesterday for the Philadelphia Eagles in Tiger Stadium where they defeated the hapless Detroit Lions, 12-0, but a question of who would get O. J. Simpson in the forthcoming draft.

There's probably joy in Buffalo today, happy over the Eagles' victory and just as pleased about the defeat of their own Buffalo Bills to the Oakland Raiders.

* * *

The Lions may have done an injustice to the Eagles by losing to them, because now there's a possibility that the heralded Southern Cal back could end up in the AFL.

It is generally accepted that Simpson would be he first player chosen in the draft by the losingest team in pro football and after winning yesterday the Eagles lost the inside track because they and the Bills have each won only one game.

The Eagles with a 1-11 record have to play New Orleans and Minnesota, while the Bills with a 1-12-1 record have only Houston left on the schedule.

FLIP OF COIN

Should the two teams tie with the poorest record then a flip of the coin might have to determine where Simpson would go in the draft.

At any rate, a crowd of 33,000 out of the 47,909 who had tickets sat in the dismal confines of sloppy Tiger Stadium and cheered the Eagles as they came out at half time holding a 6-0 lead based on two field goals by Sam Baker.

Baker's four field goals in the game accounted for all of the scoring, putting the veteran kicker into the record books as the second highest scorer in the NFL to Lou Groza, the Browns' specialist who will be honored and have his jersey retired Sunday in Cleveland.

* * *

The thought of losing Simpson by winning a game which meant nothing to the Eagles, supposedly didn't phase coach Joe Kuharich who has been the target of a "Joe Must Go" campaign in Philadelphia.

"The victory gave us all a lift," he said in the dressing room after the game. "The matter of the draft is still way off."

As convincing as Kuharich may have tried to be about the victory it was obvious that the possibility of losing Simpson by winning games was in the back of the minds of many of the Eagles' travelling group.

NOTHING OFFENSIVE

The Lions, meanwhile, played their usual offenseless game. However, it was an unfair test for rookie Greg Landry to start at quarterback under the miserable weather conditions.

Landry had three of his passes intercepted, completing seven out of 15 attempts for 66 yards.

DETROIT GETS BOOT—Sam Baker (38) of the Philadelphia Eagles follows through on this first-quarter kick to send the ball (upper left) sailing between the uprights for a 36-yard field goal against the Detroit Lions in Detroit yesterday. Baker booted four of the three-pointers to give the Eagles a 12-0 victory. The win was the first of the season for the Eagles who have lost 11.

Gordie Gets 699th but Red Wings Lose

By The Associated Press

Gordie Howe's 699th career goal could not prevent the St. Louis Blues from continuing to make life miserable for the National Hockey's League's East Division.

Howe scored in the first period Thursday night but the expansionist Blues bounced back for a 3-1 victory over Detroit, extending their unbeaten string to eight games — six of them against established East teams

* * *

In the only other NHL game played Thursday night, Pittsburgh, another West team, stung Chicago of the East Division, 3-2.

Red Berenson scored two goals as the rampaging Blues extended their West Division lead to a fat nine points over idle Los Angeles.

St. Louis, with only six losses in 21 games, is the only West team with a winning record. The Blues spoiled Detroit's homecoming after a 2½ week road trip and overcame Howe's fifth goal in the last three games.

POWER PLAY SCORE

After Howe's first period power play goal, Glenn Hall took charge in the St. Louis nets and stood Detroit off. Meanwhile Berenson scored his 12th and 13th goals of the season and Craig Cameron also hit.

The Blues have won four and tied four in their last eight to soar in front of the West Division.

* * *

Pittsburgh won its fourth game of the year, stunning the Black Hawks with goalie Les Binkley making 37 saves. Binkley was especially sharp in the first period when Chicago showered him with 20 shots.

Ex-Chicago forward Lou Angotti tallied the Penguins' winning goal midway through the second period, just 10 seconds after Eric Nesterenko had tied the score for the Black Hawks.

In Montreal, the Canadiens mulled the hockey future of goalie Gump Worsley, 39, who left the team in Chicago Tuesday night after a bumpy plane ride.

"Worsley is obviously very upset," said Sammy Pollack, general manager of the Canadiens. "His nerves have been bad all season and the flight to Chicago apparently was the breaking point."

Army Favored Against Navy

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Army is a two-touchdown favorite in Saturday's 69th football meeting with Navy, but the ghosts of upsets past have made the Cadets wary of odds in this annual classic.

Everything points to an easy Army victory before the usual sellout crowd of 100,000 at John F. Kennedy Stadium. Army comes in with a 7-2 record against Navy's 2-7. Against mutual opponents Army won two of three, Navy one of three.

* * *

In sizing up the teams, Army has a decided edge in personnel, and has shown to advantage on both offense and defense. Navy has shown little but the typical Navy heart and all out effort against superior foes.

Army therefore should win, but anything could happen.

Anyone care to remember 1948? Army arrived in Philadelphia unbeaten with eight straight victories. Navy was winless with eight straight defeats. Navy came up with a 21-21 tie.

FORM FAILS

Recall 1950? Army brought an 8-0 record into the traditional service game. Navy was 2-6. Again, the game had all the earmarks of a Cadet walkover. Navy won 14-2.

Pressure Mounts in AFL's West

AP Wirephoto

Chiefs, Oakland Remain Tied as Jets Take East

KANSAS CITY (AP) — There is no letup in the pressure on the three teams battling for the Western Division championship in the American Football League's photo finish. And the big prize still belongs to "the team that wants it the most," Kansas City's Hank Stram says.

Stram's Chiefs dispatched fallen Eastern Division champion Houston almost routinely Thursday, 24-10, for a 10-2 record in the West, but still remains tied with Oakland for first place. The Raiders also won Thursday.

* * *

The New York Jets claimed the Eastern Division title by virtue of Houston's loss, and the Jets will be host to the AFL championship game Dec. 29.

"The pressure is still on all of us," Stram said.

"It's still up in the air, and the team that wants it the most can grab it. We know we've got to win our last two games to assure ourselves of anything."

REMAINING CONTESTS

Kansas City plays at San Diego Dec. 8 and at Denver Dec. 14 in its final two games.

Len Dawson, the 33-year-old veteran, passed the Chiefs to their victory over Houston with his most crisp performance of the season.

* * *

Dawson, whose season passing statistics are impressive considering the fact that injuries to his receivers and to him almost wiped out the Chiefs' aerial game in midseason, completed 17 of 23 for 253 yards and three touchdowns.

* * *

He hit Mike Garrett on a 37-yard touchdown strike just before halftime for a 7-3 Kansas City lead, then kept the Chiefs comfortably in front with scoring tosses of 33 and 43 yards to Frank Pitts in the second half. Jan Stenerud added a 17-yard field goal for Kansas City.

* * *

"I didn't know for sure how well I was doing out there," Dawson said when told he had completed 10 passes in a row from his first touchdown completion to the third scoring toss.

STRONG RUSH

"I know one thing: They were coming in so strong early in the game I had to throw away the first two passes I tried' '

Wayne Walker put the Oilers in front 3-0 with a 39-yard field goal 2:12 before halftime, but Dawson's pass to Garrett wiped that out.

* * *

Houston scored again late in the third quarter on Pete Bethard's 66-yard pass to Jim Bierne to trim the Chiefs' lead to 14-10 but it wasn't close after that.

"We finally got good field position and that made all the difference in the world," said Stram.

Atkinson Stops Buffalo Bills in Raiders' 13-10 Victory

OAKLAND (AP) — Buffalo Coach Harvey Johnson could be forgiven for having O. J. Simpson on his mind. But George Atkinson is going through his thoughts at the moment.

Atkinson, the Oakland Raiders' rookie cornerback, played a key role in the Raiders' important 13-10 American Football League victory Thursday over the Buffalo Bills, who are suddenly in the running for Simpson, Southern California's great running back who will be the prize of the college draft.

* * *

The victory kept the Raiders tied with Kansas City, also a winner Thursday, for the Western Division title.

All Atkinson did to beat the plodding, but fired-up Bills was:

—Intercept a pass that lead to a field goal by George Blanda, putting the Raiders ahead 6-3 in the third quarter.

—Intercept another pass moments later and run it back for a 33-yard touchdown that gave the Raiders a 13-3 lead.

* * *

—Make a bone-crunching tackle of Buffalo quarterback Ed Rutkowski on the Oakland one-yard line with less than three minutes to go, forcing a fumble that ended a Bills' drive.

—And bat down two passes on the last Buffalo effort that culminated in a short 42-yard field-goal attempt by Bruce Alford.

DISMAL CAMPAIGN

Buffalo, with only one game left in its dismal season, is now 1-11-1. The Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League are 1-11 with two games remaining. The team with the poorest record gets the first draft choice, who will almost certainly be Simpson, the Heisman Trophy winner.

* * *

The Raiders, who have been averaging nearly 500 yards a game in their last five contests, played poorly, losing the total offense battle to Buffalo 343-186.

"There's no doubt about it," said Coach John Rauch. "We just came up with a flat ball game. But if you can win when you're playing a flat game, you must be pretty good."

'Skins Cry 'Thief' in Loss to Cowboys

DALLAS (AP) — Everyone agreed that Dallas' 29-20 National Football League victory over Washington Thanksgiving night was a steal but there was considerable debate today over who was the thief.

Dallas Coach Tom Landry said he felt rookie defensive tackle Larry Cole's theft of a wayward pass and five-yard touchdown return was "the big play of the game."

* * *

Washington Coach Otto Graham had his own opinion, however, saying "I thought the officials stole the game from us."

Cole made his big play with but 8:35 remaining in the nationally televised struggle in the Cotton Bowl.

The Cowboys led only 22-20 at the time. Tackle Jethro Pugh plowed into Redskin Jim Ninowski just as the quarterback released the ball. It fluttered into Cole's waiting arms.

"I don't know how he Cole does it, but he always seems to be in the right place each week," said Landry.

Graham was steaming about the 124 yards in penalties his team incurred, including 15 against Graham himself for unsportsmanlike conduct.

* * *

"I got that one for picking up the flag and throwing it back at the official," said Graham "When the kids play their hearts out like this and the officials steal the game from them it's a crime.

* * *

"I've written the league officials several times complaining about the officiating. But never has it been this bad.

"I don't mind getting beat and I can appreciate that the officials have some judgment calls to make. But I think it's about time we got some officials who have some judgment."

Referee Norm Schachter headed the crew of officials who also penalized Dallas 97 yards.

INTERFERENCE CALL

An interference call in the end zone against Jim Smith set up one Dallas touchdown.

Ninowski, subbing for flu-weakened Sonny Jurgensen, threw touchdown passes of 29 yards to Charlie Taylor, 11 to Jerry Smith, and four to Pat Richter. But he was harried by a strong Dallas rush and was dropped six times.

Washington played a strong defensive game but fumbles set up an 18-yard field goal by Mike Clark and led to a one-yard touchdown run by Craig Baynham. Pugh forced Ninowski to fumble out of the end zone for a safety.

Dallas scored but one touchdown on a sustained drive and that was when Craig Morton subbed briefly for starter Don Meredith, who was injured.

Morton took the Cowboys 62 yards in seven plays with Don Perkins going across from nine yards out.

* * *

Meredith later returned — to the boos of some of the 66,076 fans — and could never light a spark in the Cowboy attack.

The victory pushed Dallas, 10-2, within a half-game of clinching the Capitol Division.

PCH Entertains Lahser; Maples Visiting Groves

Pontiac Catholic 5 on Road; WOLL Five Plays Role of Host

Local high schools turn to basketball tonight and one that'll spark some interest is at Pontiac Central where the Chiefs entertain Bloomfield Hills Lahser.

In that one, coach Ralph Grubb will be making his debut as head man of the Chiefs after a long successful tenure as junior varsity coach.

TOUGH SCHEDULE

It'll also be a debut of sorts for coach Bill Ullenbruch and the Lahser Knights who have lined up their toughest cage schedule.

* * *

This one should be easy for PCH, but Lahser could make it interesting.

SPARKS KNIGHTS

The Knights have 6-4 Bill West, a strong rebounder and scorer who led the squad to a 13-4 (win-loss) mark last season.

* * *

West is likely to have his hands full, however, rebounding against A. B. Davis (6-2), Waverly Jones (6-4) and maybe, Campy Russell, a 6-5 sophomore.

The Chiefs have only two veterans back — Monte Herring (6-1) and Clayton Burch.

OTHER GAMES

In other games, Birmingham Groves entertains city rival Seaholm in a non-leaguer, while Birmingham Brother Rice plays host to Harper Woods Notre Dame in a Catholic League contest.

* * *

Pontiac Catholic is also in action, touching off play along with Waterford Our Lady of Lakes in the Northwest Catholic League.

TITANS TRAVEL

The Titans of Pontiac Catholic are considered one of the challengers to Orchard Lake St. Mary's hopes and the Titans will make their first start this evening at St. Francis de Sales. WOLL, a semifinalist last year in the state Class D tournament, swings into action against visiting Ferndale St. James.

* * *

In an outstate game, Bay City Central, a team that'll have to be reckoned with in the Saginaw Valley Conference, visits always strong Fenton. In a Saturday game, Flint Central, picked to win the SVC title, is at Muskegon.

In a couple other parochial games, Utica St. Lawrence plays host to Immaculate Conception, and Royal Oak Shrine visits Dearborn Divine Child.

Irish, Trojans Await Showdown in Finale

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Notre Dame and the unbeaten Trojans of Southern California collide on the football field for the 40th time Saturday in their finale of the regular season.

The contest will be televised nationally—ABC at 4:30 p.m., EST—and viewed by some 75,000 fans in Memorial Coliseum.

* * *

For the Irish, there is the will to close out the campaign on a winning note. Coach Ara Parseghian's lads, as ex-coach Frank Leahy was fond of calling the players, have won seven games but they lost two big ones.

Those were to Purdue, 37-33, and Michigan State, 21-17.

Coach John McKay's Trojans are 9-0. They have won 19 of their last 20 games and are Rose Bowl-bound, with O.J. Simpson leading the charge to play Ohio State. if the Trojans needed more incentive, they got it this week when The Associated Press pollsters dropped them from No. 1 to No. 2 behind Ohio State.

* * *

"We still think we are No. 1," said Simpson, the Heisman Trophy winner.

HANRATTY OUT

Notre Dame has been damaged by injuries to key players. The most serious was the loss of quarterback Terry Hanratty. A sophomore, Joe Theismann, is his replacement. He guided ND past Georgia Tech 34-6 and Pittsburgh 56-7.

"Notre Dame is as good a looking team as I have seen in years," says McKay. "That quarterback Theismann looks like Steve Preece of Oregon State when he runs and like Jim Plunkett of Stanford when he passes."

* * *

"Stopping Southern Cal is a big order," counters Parseghian. "First you have to contend with the finest running back in college football.

"Then," Ara gones on, "you take a look at the great offensive line of theirs and try to figsive line of tehir's and try to figure out how to stop both.

"The one thing that surprises most of all is that many people have overlooked the great job Steve Sogge has done at quarterback.

* * *

"They have lots of weapons and McKay utilizes all of them so well that you can't concentrate on any one person or phase of their offense."

Southern Cal has a few stops to make, also, such as halfback Bob Gadieux, who has led the Irish rushers with 133 carries for 596 yards and 11 touchdowns.

And there is pass-snagging Jim Seymour—49 for 671 yards and four touchdowns.

Sick Bay Call for Grid Coach

TORONTO (AP) — Frank Clair, coach of the Ottawa Rough Riders, joined nine Calgary Stampeder players in sick bay today. The Rough Riders and Stampeders clash here Saturday in the Grey Cup game for the championship of the Canadian Football League.

"I guess I've also got the flu bug," Clair said. "I don't know what caused it."

Kelly Gets Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Joseph B. Kelly, racing editor of the Washington, D.C. Star, was named the winner today of the Bill Corum award for 1968 by the Thoroughbred Racing Associations. Kelly's story of Dancer's Image first-place finish in the Kentucky Derby won him the award.

Veteran U.S. Netter Upsets Aussie Ace

NEW YORK (AP) — Veteran Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles upset second-seeded Kn Rosewall of Australia 7-5, 5-7, 6-4 Thursday night in the opening round of the $20,000 Madison Square Garden Invitation tennis tournament.

The 40-year-old former champion qualified to meet Spain's Andres Gimeno, who beat fourth-seeded John Newcombe of Australia, 3-6, 6-3, 7-5 in the quarter-finals.

* * *

In the other two first round matches of the eight-man pro event, top-seeded Rod Laver of Australia defeated Earl Buchholz of St. Louis 6-3, 7-5, and third-seeded Tony Roche of Australia won over Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., 6-4, 6-3.

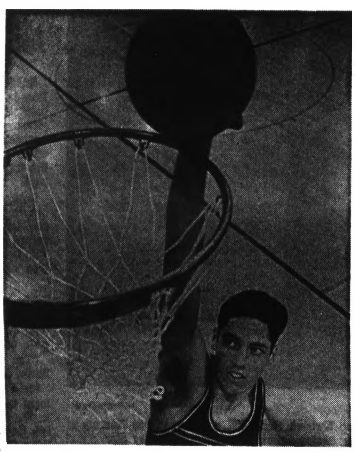
High Hopes at Orion

Dragon Quint Tall, Talented

Play Opener Tonight Against Oxford



Pontiac Press Photo

TALL DRAGON — Center Gary Mize (6-7) and his Lake Orion teammates visit Oxford for their basketball opener tonight and controlling Mize is one of the defensive problems the host Wildcats will have to solve.

"We have probably the best ball player in the league," says Lake Orion coach George Elias of 6-8 center Gary Mize.

Mize was good last year, helping the club to a 16-3 record and a share of the Oakland A League championship, and indications are he'll be better this time around.

OPENING TONIGHT

Elias and the Dragons will get a preview of what's in store this evening when they visit Oxford for their 1968-69 opener.

* * *

Coach Lee Noftz and the Oxford Wildcats are looking for better things after an 0-16 campaign last year. However, at this stage, the 'Cats aren't likely to pose any serious problems for the tall Orion quintet.

Elias has Mize, to be sure, and there's more.

Along with Mize on the front line are 6-5 Paul Bailey and 6-3 Russ Collins.

AFTER JOBS

The Dragons success will then depend to a great extent on the development of their guards. Bidding for jobs at that spot are Bill Baker (6-0), Don Upton (5-11) and Garyl Roberts (5-6).

* * *

Orion lost a big gun in Bill Foss through graduation and another good performer—Rick Toles—suffered a broken leg during the football season and will sit out this year.

From a scoring standpoint last year, Mize contributed 15.5 a game and Bailey managed six points a game.

* * *

Noftz lost two lettermen to graduation but he'll still be going with a young club.

Expect Sellout of 100,000 for Annual Service Game

Let's go back to last year. Army was 8-1, the Middies a so-so 4-4-1. The pregame experting had the Cadets a handy winner. A stirred Navy team, however, latched onto a fumble at the Navy 25 with 4:53 to play and held on to win 19-14.

This season Army has defeated The Citadel, Vanderbilt, California, Rutgers, Duke, Boston College and Pittsburgh. The Cadets lost 7-3 to Missouri and just missed knocking over unbeaten Penn State in a 28-24 thriller.

Navy has been thumped by Penn State, Boston College, Michigan, Air Force, Virginia, Notre Dame and Syracuse. The Middies beat hapless Pitt by a point and surprised Georgia Tech.

SPLIT END

Army, directed by quarterback Steve Lindell, operates from a wing and slot T with a split end and has good balance between running and passing. Lindell is accomplished with the rollout and favors tight end Gary Steele when he passes.

Eagles' Baker Cooks Lions

was no better as he managed just six of 15 for 66 yards.

The Lions offense was so weak it had the ball for only 44 plays, only seven in the fourth quarter.

Baker's field goals, one in each quarter, were for 36, 18, 32 and 35 yards and boosted his career total points to 890. Groza has 1,349.

DRIVES HALTED

The Lions penetrated the Eagles' 40 only three times in the game and two of the drives ended with interceptions, one on the five, and another drive halted with a fumble.

It was the first shutout handed the Lions since Oct. 25, 1964 when they lost to Baltimore 34-0 and it was ironic that it should be by a team which hadn't won a game this season.

The Philadelphia fans have been so incensed about the Eagles' record, they formed a "Joe Must Go" fan club and actually have run newspaper ads offering membership to the club and a packet of "Joe Must Go" items for $2.

* * *

The packet includes:

One Joe Must Go, or, a Go Joe Girl Button (specify). .

One Joe Must Go bumper sticker or aerial pennant.

One Joe Must Go megaphone.

One Joe Must Go poster.

Two Joe Must Go match packs.

One "Don't Cry Joe" Must Go song.

One Philadelphia writer commented, "I think after this game, they will probably get 10,000 orders from Detroit," and "now they may add another item to the packet in Philly saying, 'lose for O. J.'"

Kuharich's comment about the Eagles' record yesterday was, "You have years like this and it's unfortunate, but you have to suffer through it."

Now he has to suffer through the possibility of winning or losing O. J. Simpson in the next two weeks.

Georgia Set for Arkansas in Sugar Bowl

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Sugar Bowl football game New Year's Day will send Southwest Conference co-champion Arkansas against Southwestern Conference champion Georgia.

Arkansas officially accepted its Sugar Bowl invitation Thursday. Coach Frank Broyles said he'll be here today to sign the contracts.

* * *

Georgia and Arkansas have never clashed in football. The Razorbacks ranked eighth in this week's Associated Press poll, Georgia was fourth.

Georgia's undefeated Bulldogs close their season Saturday against traditional rival Georgia Tech.

Arkansas, 9-1, finished its season last Saturday by whipping Texas Tech 42-7.

Arkansas shared the SWC title with Texas. Since Texas beat the Razorbacks in regular season play, the Longhorns got the post spot in the Cotton Bowl in Dallas.

High-Scoring Duel on Tap; Longhorns in Cotton Bowl

By the Associated Press

Houston and Florida State play a college football game tonight in the Gator Bowl but their high-powered offenses may turn it into the Scoreboard Bowl.

The game is the only one on tonight's schedule. Four were played Thursday as two bowl berths were settled and 16 more are on tap Saturday as the regular season comes to a close, save for the Dec. 7 meeting in University Park, Pa., between Penn State and Syracuse.

* * *

Texas won its way into a Cotton Bowl date against Tennessee by trouncing traditional rival Texas A&M 35-14 Thursday.

The victory gained the Longhorns a share of the Southwest Conference championship with Arkansas but Texas goes to the Cotton Bowl by virtue of a 39-29 win over the Razorbacks. Arkansas settled for the Sugar Bowl against unbeaten Georgia.

Elsewhere, Liberty Bowl-bound Virginia Tech walloped VMI 55-6, Tulsa sent Wichita State to a winless season 23-7 and, in a night game, Louisiana Tech, which is in the Grantland Rice Bowl, knocked off its fourth major opponent, New Mexico State, 42-24.

Saturday's Georgia Tech-Georgia, Tennessee-Vanderbilt, Oklahoma-Oklahoma State, Alabama-Auburn and Arizona State-Arizona are top games.

SCORING LEADER

Tonight's pairing should be a wild one. Houston, ranked 10th, is the top offensive team in the nation with an all-time mark of 5,185 yards. The Cougars also lead in scoring with an average of 45 points a game.

Paul Gipson is fifth in rushing with 1,386 yards and the Ken Bailey-to-Elmo Wright combination is a passing threat. The Cougars have slaughtered Idaho 77-3 and Tulsa 100-6 in their last two starts. To make matters worse, they rank fifth nationally in total defense.

* * *

The Seminoles have a potent air attack of their own. Flanker Ron Sellers ranks this season in receiving and has gained more career yards than anyone in history, 3,384. Bill Cappleman does the throwing.

Texas raced to a 35-0 halftime lead over the Texas Aggies behind a balanced attack and a defense that intercepted five of Edd Hargett's passes. Chris Gilbert gained 85 yards in 25 carries and finished his regular season career third among all-time runners with 3,231 yards.

THREE 'BOMBS'

Quarterback Wayne Humphries passed for three touchdowns in his first varsity start to lead Virginia Tech over VMI. The defense picked off four passes and recovered two fumbles as the Gobblers made Turkey Day a field day.

Mike Stripling completed 26 of 51 passes for 336 yards and two touchdowns as Tulsa turned back stubborn Wichita State. The Hurricanes led only 3-0 but Stripling threw scoring passes of 16 yards to Harry Wood and seven to Les Bogers in the final period.

Running QB's May Change Pro Ideas

By DUFFY DAUGHERTY
Head Football Coach
Michigan State University

Practically every college football conference has seen new scoring or individual yardage records this season and as a result it's quite possible the pros will change their attitude against having their quarterbacks run with the football.

There are two reasons for this thinking. In college ball there are two rules which do not appear in pro football. We stop the clock every time the ball changes hands and start it with the snap of the ball.

After each first down in college — or where there's any question of a first down — the referee stops the clock while the chain gang moves the yardsticks. Again, time is resumed with the center snap.

STOPS CLOCK

Let's say the average football game has 40 first downs. On 10 to 15 these the clock would be stopped on out of bounds plays. On the other 25 instances the stopping of the clock saves eight to 10 seconds.

* * *

This has made the game longer, adding approximately four more minutes to the playing time. The combination of the two rules adds 20 more plays than we had a year ago.

Some coaches object to the added playing time on the theory that more plays expose more players to injury. But those opposed to the new 1968 rule appear to be coaches with limited squads.

With two platoon football we feel there is plenty of breathing time for the majority of players who see action either on offense or defense.

* * *

The added plays this season have created more scoring opportunities and this is one big reason why college football interest has increased tremendously. The rules are great because fans like a lot of scoring.

Actually, college football has taken the play away from the pros because we have opened up our game.

With additional playing time we find there is more running by our quarterbacks on wide formations. This has added a fourth running back to the attack and poses a greater problem for the defense.

It's almost impossible to defend against a quarterback who can run and throw.

Four examples of this type of quarterback are Rex Kern, Ohio State's 180-pounder, Kansas' southpaw passer Bob Douglass, Yale's Brian Dowling and Notre Dame's Terry Hanratty. They have gained valuable yardage running on the pass-run option play.

FINAL ANALYSIS

In the final analysis the additional action will keep the college fans coming back. The pros are reluctant to run their quarterbacks for fear of exposing them to injury.

Yet, more pro quarterbacks have been out of action this year than ever. In most cases they were decked when hit on their blind side while attempting to pass.

Ask Bart Starr or Johnny Unitas. The pro passer who fails to run the ball is sitting duck for red dogging defenders.

Fran Tarkenton of the New York Giants runs and scrambles with the ball more than any pro quarterback yet manages to stay healthy.

If he were a true drop back passer and remained in the pocket he, too, might get decked more often. But by running a lot he avoids injury.

If you can watch the Army-Navy game take a look at Steve Lindell of the Cadets. He's a fine operator on the pass-run option.

Few Sophs in Big 10 Lineups

Iowa, Purdue Quints Favored

CHICAGO (AP) — Iowa and Purdue are expected to lead a rough Big Ten basketball charge this season which finds the conference with three new coaches and only a handful of sophomores breaking into veteran lineups.

The new coaches are Bill Fitch at Minnesota, John Orr at Michigan and John Powless at Wisconsin. None has inherited anything that resembles a contender but a rugged race is expected from the other members.

Iowa and Purdue both will field veteran teams and appear to be the class of the conference, a shade ahead of Ohio State which last season was defeated 85-81 in a playoff to determine the NCAA representative after they had tied for the championship.

TALENT APLENTY

Ohio State, although loaded with talent, must make a go of it without Bill Hosket who led the Buckeyes in scoring and rebounding for three years.

Iowa lost super star Sam Williams but Coach Ralph Miller doesn't appear to be worried. He'll replace Williams with John Johnson, a 6-9 junior college transfer, who some feel will make Hawkeye fans forget Williams when the Big Ten race begins in January.

* * *

Purdue has all of its starters back including junior Rick Mount who set a sophomore scoring standard with a 29.7 average.

Coach George King needs only a respectable showing from his big men, 7-0 Chuck Bavis or 6-10 Jerry Johnson, to possibly take down the championship.

Illinois and Northwestern appear to have a shot at the title. Illinois has 6-8 Dave Scholz back and is counting heavily on 6-8 sophomore Greg Jackson. Illinois also has a blue chip sophomore in 6-4 Fred Miller of Pekin who is expected to see a lot of action but can't break into the starting lineup.

* * *

Northwestern has the likes of 6-8 Jim Sarno and sharpshooters Terry Gamber, Dale Kelley, Don Davis and Don Adams. If the Wildcats can cut down on mistakes and turnovers, they could prove troublesome.

* * *

Coach John Benington is playing down his chances at Michigan State and that's the time to be wary of the Spartans. They also have a veteran lineup led by Lee Lafayette.

Lou Watson's Hoosiers at Indiana will be big but slow. But they figure to be unpredictable as usual. In the last three seasons under Watson, Indiana has finished last, first and last. Larry Gipson, a 5-10 sophomore, figures to crack into the starting lineup. With that kind of size, he must be some kind of player.

ACHING WOLVERINE

Michigan's hopes rest on the aching back of Rudy Tomjanovich, who has tremendous talent but suffers from spinal difficulties. Wisconsin is high on 6-9 Craig Mayberry, a junior college transfer, and Minnesota would like to see 6-8 sophomore Tom Masterson make good.

SUCCESSOR — Culver Military Academy's new football coach, David L. Nelson (left) confers with ex-head coach Russell D. Oliver whose teams have compiled 19 winning seasons. Oliver ended a 29-year career as head coach of the Culver football Eagles with the final game of the season, and Nelson has assumed the responsibilities.

Ex-Pontiac Native Retires

Era Ends at Culver Academy

CULVER, Ind. — When the time ran out in the last game of Culver Military Academy's 1968 season, the end of a game signified the end of an era for Culver and Indiana football.

When Russell D. Oliver, Culver Class of 1931, returned to the Academy as a coach in 1935, he was told that his job didn't depend on setting records. He was told to build character, but he managed to tally a 138-80-14 win-loss record in 29 seasons as Culver's head football coach.

His tenure makes him one of Indiana's veteran coaches, and his record of 19 winning seasons qualifies him for special recognition. He also admits to having built character in his players — win or lose.

Oliver, a native of Pontiac, has been in contact with well over 1,000 boys in his 30 years of coaching at Culver and he says, "Some of the most loyal alumni played their hearts out for Culver as athletes.

"Athletics has been my life's work, and I have enjoyed every minute of it. The countless friendships I have made through athletics have been invaluable to me."

ALL SPORT STAR

As a Culver Summer Schools midshipman he became heavyweight boxing champion, and he played football, basketball and baseball for two years at the Academy. He was basketball and baseball captain as a senior.

At the University of Michigan he became the fifth nine-letter winner in the history of the school — earning three each in football, basketball and baseball. He was baseball captain as a senior.

In 34 years of tenure at Culver, including four years on leave to the Army during World War II, he coached football, basektball and baseball for 26 years, many of those years serving as athletic director. He started as head basketball coach in 1935 and became head football and baseball coach in 1936-37.

Although he had served as part-time alumni secretary for some time, in 1961 he became the first full-time secretary of the Culver Legion, the Academy's alumni association.

HELP ALUMNI

He will continue to concentrate on alumni affairs as alumni secretary and will direct the Academy's network of Culver Clubs across the nation.

Assistant coach David L. Nelson, Culver class of 1953, will succeed Oliver as head football coach. Nelson played right end for Oliver in 1951 and 1952, both 7-1 seasons.

* * *

Nelson played football for Butler and Ball State universities. After receiving his bachelor's and master's degrees from Ball State, he taught and coached in public schools for five years before returning to Culver in 1964 as a physical education instructor and head baseball coach.

In his four years as the Culver Eagles baseball coach, his teams have compiled a 52-15-1 record.

Toledo Tabbed in Basketball to Win MAC

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Toledo University has been tabbed to cop the Mid-American Conference basketball championship by members of the MAC News Media Association.

The Rockets of Coach Bob Nichols received 37 first place votes of the 41 members participating in the poll. Ohio University picked up two first place votes while Bowling Green and Marshall got one each.

* * *

On a 7-6-5-4-3-2-1 point basis, Toledo received 282 points, Ohio 193 and Marshall 180.

The writers and sportscasters also picked Toledo last year but the Rockets finished third as Bowling Green won the title.

Following Marshall in the voting were Bowling Green 143; Miami 142; Kent State 116 and Western Michigan 96.

WOULD GOVERNOR R_____ WEAR SOUTHWICK GROSVENOR TO THE INAUGURATION?
Probably, if he was reasonably sure it wouldn't make his constituents think he was spending too much money on clothes. For a suit of Southwick Grosvenor cloth looks about $50 more than it costs. It's a smooth, firm worsted that holds its shape indefinitely. And it's woven into brand-new plaids, checks and stripes that are nattier than ever this year. Come in and look over the natural shoulder styles. There's a casualness about them that never looks old hat and always feels just right. Ask the Governor. From $135.00

State Quintets Set to Lift Lid

Major college basketball moves onto the sport scene this weekend with Saturday and Tuesday games on the schedule.

The attention Saturday night will be at U. of D. Memorial Fieldhouse where the Titans play a breather against Aquinas however it will mark the debut of Olympic cage star Spencer Haywood.

* * *

Also Saturday, Central Michigan is at Hillsdale and Oakland Community College teams, Auburn Hills and Orchard Ridge have contests scheduled. On Monday, Michigan plays host to Northern Illinois.

OTHER GAMES

Next Tuesday, Michigan State opens against Southwest Louisiana at East Lansing, and Western Michigan is host to the Titans in Kalamazoo.

The Titans have a big front line with a couple prospective sophomores vying for starting positions along with Haywood.

The pre-season poll of the Associated Press has U. of D. ranked 18th and the big game of the early season will come about Dec. 16 at U. of D. when No. 3 rated St. Bonaventure with 6-11 All-American Bob Lanier goes against Haywood.

* * *

Michigan has All-County star Dan Fife in a starting position at guard at this time. The sophomore from Clarkston has pushed another ex-county cager Rick Bloodworth out of his position.

Another candidate for the Wolverines is Mike Rafferty, former Groves star and all-county player.

At Michigan State, coach John Benington has eight lettermen and a veteran front line from the team which posted a 12-12 record last season.

* *

The Spartans are looking ahead to next year as far as individual stars go when Al Simpson, a teammate of Haywood's at Pershing, moves up to the varsity.

Western Michigan, which has the toughest opening schedule among state colleges, facing U. of D., Michigan and Michigan State in their first three games all next week have built their team around senior Gene Ford.

FRONT LINE — The University of Detroit basketball team should have an interesting winter. Five of the big men who figure highly in coach Bob Calihan's plans are (l-r) 6-7 Larry Moore (Detroit Mumford), 6-6 Jerry Swartzfager (Detroit DeLaSalle), 6-8 Spencer Haywood (Detroit Pershing), 6-8 Al Peake (Toledo Start) and 6-5 Vyto Abramavicius (Chicago DeLaSalle). Haywood is the heralded Olympic star.

60th Trot Win

BOSTON (AP) — Dark Flash, won the $7,000 1½-mile trot Thursday night at Suffolk with Herve Filion, who drove the winner, scoring his 28th victory of the meeting and his 60th of the season.

Filion, the national driving champion, is now 24 victories short of the world record.

Pontiac Distaff Drag Racer in Auto Show

DETROIT — Dragracing's Della Woods, who along with her Hemi-powered Charger will be a feature of the Dodge exhibit during the 53rd Detroit Auto Show (Nov. 30-Dec. 8), is believed to be the first woman race driver to appear in the annual event.

Miss Wood, 27, has burned up quarter-mile strips from Florida to Quebec, Canada at speeds exceeding 180 mph.

The Pontiac resident is one of only four females who drive what is known in racing circles as a "Funny" car (the name given the unlimited class supercharger stocks).

In September of this year, Della scored two impressive wins over name driver "Farmer" Arnie Beswick at the Suffolk Dragway (recently renamed from International Raceway).

At the same track on October 27, Della turned in her best time of the season — 187.10 mph in 7.94 seconds — and in the process defeated such well known racing veterans as Hayden Proffitt, Pete Gates and Paula Murphy.

Chamberlain Finds Old Mates Tough

By the Associated Press

The Philadelphia 76ers might not be doing quite as well without Wilt Chamberlain as they did with him, but they are doing very well against him.

The 76ers ran their record to 2-0 against the Wilt Chamberlain-led Los Angeles Lakers with a 122-107 victory Thursday night that put them only 1½ games out of the lead in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Association.

* * *

Front and center in the victory was Luke Jackson, Chamberlain's replacement in the post, who canned seven of eight field goal tries and assisted on two others during a last half surge that destroyed the Western Division-leading Lakers.

In the only other NBA game, Seattle topped Milwaukee 115-103 on the West Coast.

In the American Basketball Association, Minnesota belted Miami 120-107 and Dallas beat the New York Mets 110-103.

After 11 lead changes, the host 76ers pulled away from the game's 16th tie at 71 with a 13-2 burst, and Los Angeles never recovered as Chamberlain managed only 13 points and 19 rebounds against his old mates, who he led to a world championship two years ago. The Lakers, too, were playing without Jerry West, who was sidelined with the flu.

LEADS SPREE

Jackson hit three baskets and got the two assists during the spree as the 76ers won their ninth game in 10 starts. He finished with 24 points, while Bill Cunningham led the 76ers with 28. Elgin Baylor had 32 for the Lakers.

Seattle, in whipping Milwaukee, won its fourth straight game—the first time the SuperSonics have registered four victories in a row since they joined the league last season. Three of the triumphs have been at the expense of Bucks while the other came over Chicago.

* * *

The Sonics virtually led from the outset and by halftime they were in front 55-48. Twice Milwaukee closed the gap to four points in the fourth quarter but each time Seattle pulled safely ahead.

Keg Qualifying List to Grow

With 90 bowlers breathing more easy after qualifying in the Pontiac Open Championship, the field of challengers is expected to double this weekend at 10 area sites where qualifying continues.

Bowlers don't have to worry about beating any of the scores of the opening weekend, just have only to hit the "target score" of 600 to join the list of those who will enter the semifinals Sunday, December 15 at Huron Bowl.

Huron Bowl, which has had the largest number of qualifiers in recent years, will run special squads on Saturday and continuously on Sunday starting at 10:00 a.m.

"I wish bowlers wouldn't wait until the last weekend," said Shirley Pointer, supervisor of the tournament at Huron Bowl, "because as happened last year we were trying to finish qualifying on the last day until almost midnight."

"Once the squads are filled, we will have to assign other times," she said.

SPECIAL SQUADS

Other establishments including 300 Bowl, Cooley and Airway are also planning special Saturday squads to eliminate Sunday conflicts, and 300 Bowl is also planning continuous squads starting at 10:00 a.m. Sunday.

Bowlers should check the other houses where qualifying is going on. The houses include North Hill, Lakewood, Howe's, West Side, Savoy and Sylvan Lanes.

Among the first week's qualifiers were bowlers whose averages range from 123 to 200, led by the highest actual ever record in qualifying, the 727 of Bob Liebler at Cooley. Lieber carries 21 pins handicap, giving him 748 total.

Bowlers are reminded of the extra prize possibilities in the Mix 'n Match Doubles and Mix 'n Match Team events. There are no added entry fees in these features, bowlers need only to mark their entry forms with a designated bowler (mixed doubles) or five man team (men or women).

Their entries must be marked prior to bowling and they must bowl on the same squad in the same house.

Currently Liebler is part of the team which fired a total of 3,114 at Cooley while Ed Marsh and Trudy Marsh led the Mix 'n Match doubles with a total of 1273. They are the parents of the 1967 Pontiac Open Champion. Hal Marsh who has also qualified in the opening week.

There are $50 prizes for the winning teams in these feature events.

Johnson Breaks 5 Marks

'M' Duo Sweeps Big Ten Records

CHICAGO (AP) — Michigan's Ron Johnson and Dennis Brown swept major statistical championships in a rain of records, final 1968 Big Ten football figures showed today.

Johnson smashed five conference marks and tied another in becoming the first rusher in Big Ten history to gain more than 1,000 yards in league competition seven games.

The 196 - pound senior halfback broke season records with 92 points scored and 1,017 yards rushing. Against Wisconsin he set single game marks of scoring 30 points, five touchdowns, and rushing 347 yards.

Brown, a smallish senior quarterback, took the Big Ten title as the best passer and amassed the most total yards, 1,317.

Team records also tumbled with Iowa and Ohio State, the top - ranked champion, each accounting for three of the major ones. Iowa's marks were averaging 36.6 points a game, 26 first downs and 481.9 total yards. Ohio State's records were averaging 320.4 yards rushing, 83.9 plays and 65.1 rushing plays.

BEST DEFENSE

The Buckeyes won the defensive crown with an average yield of 276 yards.

Other individual leaders included:

Pass receiving—Jade Butcher, Indiana, 34 for 525 yards; and Jim Mandish, Michigan, 27 for 386. Kickoff returns — Kerry Reardon, Iowa, 12 for 32.1 average; and Nate Butler, Wisconsin 17 for 23.0.

Punting—Dick Berlinski, Michigan State, 33 for 39.3 average; and Kerry Reardon 30 for 39.3. Punt returns — Doug Roalstad, Minnesota, 14 for 12.3 average; and Mike Sensibaugh, Ohio State, 8 for 10.6.

Individual Season Records Broken:

Scoring, most points — 92 for Ron Johnson, Michigan (old record 90 by Leroy Kayes, Purdue, 1967). Scoring, most extra points —31 by Marcos Melendez, Iowa (25 by Bob Baltzell, Purdue, 1967). Rushing, most yards — 1,017 by Ron Johnson (996 by Jim Grabowski, Illinois, 1965). Kickoff returns — 25 by Mike Adamle, Northwestern (18 by John Ginter, Indiana, 1966). Pass interceptions — 9 by Tom Curtis, Michigan (7 equalled four times).

NEW RECORDS

Individual Single Game Records Broken:

Most points — 30 by Ron Johnson, Michigan vs. Wisconsin, (modern record 27 by Tom Harmon, Michigan vs. Iowa, 1939; and Otto Graham, Northwestern vs. Wisconsin, 1943). All - time record 30 by Red Grange of Illinois vs. Michigan 1923. Most touchdowns — 5 by Ron Johnson, Michigan vs. Wisconsin (modern record 4 by Harmon, Michigan vs. Iowa 1939, and equalled 16 other times. All-time record 5 by Grange in 1924.)

* * *

Most yards rushing — 347 by Ron Johnson, Michigan vs. Wisconsin (268 by Clinton Jones, MSU vs. Iowa, 1966, and topped in 1968 by Ed Podolak, Iowa, 286 against Northwestern). Total offense, most yards — 347 by Ron Johnson (338 by Dennis Brown, Michigan vs. Indiana 1967).

Turbine Engine at End of Line in Auto Racing

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — The turbine-powered car as now designed takes what may be its last breath of air this Sunday in the Rex Mays 300.

Rule changes intended to limit the racing turbine are putting it out of business.

Joe Leonard of San Jose, Calif., and Art Pollard of Medford, Ore., will be in jet cars Sunday, shooting for top prize in the $85,000 race over the 2.6-mile road course at Riverside International Raceway.

But they don't figure to win. Leonard, in Parnelli Jones' No. 60, and Pollard, in Andy Granatelli's STP No. 20, haven't done too well in USAC races.

Cordero Riding for Jockey Title

SAN JUAN (AP) — Angel Cordero Jr., in a close duel with Alvaro Pineda for the national jockey championship, will come to Puerto Rico from New York and ride in all seven rides at El Connandante race track Sunday.

Cordero who leads Pineda by one victory, 289 to 288, has been riding at Aqueduct. Pineda is riding at Bay Meadows in California.

Bugs Don't Go South for Winter Vacation

When winter comes, the insects go — that's what you think!

There are just as many insects around in winter as summer and you can find them if you know where to look.

* * *

Some of the more brave ones will spend the winter months in the soil or on the trees in a dormant stage. You have to look for those pretty closely.

* * *

But there are others that stay active over winter and are more easily seen — often in places you'd rather not see them.

This is a sefect group of insects that know when fall comes around it's time to start looking for warmer quarters — perhaps your home.

HOME INVADERS

Although some of these "home invaders" are biters — examples would be ants, chiggers, flies and dog ticks — most are just crawling nuisances.

The "crawlers" that seek out a warm winter home include earwigs, millipeds, clover mites, spring tails, boxelder bugs and roaches.

* * *

How do these pests invade your home? Most will crawl or fly in through the doors, windows and cracks.

Others are a little lazy and will hitchike as passengers on the family pets.

PESTS

No discriminating homeowner wants her house invaded with these pests.

Fortunately there are ways to stop these hidden travelers from penetrating the inner sanctum of the hearth and home.

* * *

The trick is to create a "bug barrier" around the house using one of the newer insecticides that will control many kinds of insects, and in particular the home invaders.

Umbrella Spokes Support Plants

There is always some flower or house plant that needs support.

* * *

The ribs of a discarded old umbrella make ideal supports for most any flower. They are strong, yet at the same time almost invisible.

Conservationist Bill Humphrey Checks

Proper Planning Needed

Soil Erosion Plagues Suburbia

The big story in Michigan conservation today is the successful transplanting of Coho Salmon with apparently little or no problems. But a problem that is considered insignificant by most people is soil erosion in developing urban areas.

But why does water erode the soil in the first place? The reasons are simple. Areas that once were able to absorb nearly two thirds of the rainfall now absorb much less. This is due to streets of cement, buildings and parking areas that do now allow runoff to seep into the soil. This causes large concentrations of water over a small area and erosion begins.

* * *

The more noticeable erosion on sloping land in the United States today, is in areas where grass, trees and shrubs have been removed while subdivisions are being developed.

Land that has been cleared, is subject to wind and water erosion, through the misunderstanding of the erosive forces of those natural elements. This land is in need of cover for protection.

SILT WOES

Once the land has been eroded by water, the silt can cause many more problems. It travels through streams, rivers, and into lakes or oceans. But the silt does not always stay with the water. Sometimes it is deposited in river basins, or it may begin to fill desirable water recreational areas. The damage is great. The sediment may ruin commercial and sport fishing in streams, rivers and in lakes.

The sediment may also find its way into our game marshes. This is, indeed, detrimental because it will fill in the swamps and destroy animal habitats.

* * *

There are agencies and services provided for by the federal and state governments, that are wise in the ways of erosion control. The United States Department of Agriculture maintains an active Soil Conservation Office in Oakland County, under the direction of Work Unit Conservationist, Bill Humphrey.

The Soil Conservation Service provides information on erosion control, in addition to its other duties. The Service recommends temporary seedings with grasses and mulching areas, that are under construction in order to prevent or contain any erosion that may occur.

The United States Department of Agriculture puts out pamphlets, free or at little cost to the public, about erosion control. Bulletins can be obtained by writing to the Superintendent of Documents, United States Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 20402, or by visiting your Soil Conservation Office located in the Federal Building in downtown Pontiac.

Dig Deeper to Produce Top Flowers

Ever hear of double digging? It's real spadework. And a must for deep-rooted plants. A Pennsylvania State University correspondence course tells you why.

Double digging is needed to prepare topnotch flower beds for planting deep-rooted perennials like peonies and oriental poppies, dictamus and astilbes and for the demanding bulbs and tubers of tulips, lilies and dahlias. Autmn is the time to prepare beds for spring planting.

* * *

There's nothing complicated about double digging. First you take out a laver of soil a spade's depth. Then take out a second deeper layer. Next, place the first layer in the bottom of the trench and the second laver on top.

The object is to get organic is to get organic material, lime and fertilizer mixed deeply in the flower bed soil.

PROCEDURE

The procedure is as follows:

First spread a 2-inch layer of organic material (manure, peatmoss, rotted sawdust, compost, etc.) over the flower bed. Then spread ground limestone on the bed. At the rate of 5 to 15 pounds per 100 square feet, or according to a soil test report. Also put on 2 or 3 pounds of a fertilizer like 0-20-10 per 100 square feet. Then start digging.

* * *

Considerable soil must be dug out to completely reverse the top and second layers. But get the organic material and plant nutrients 12 to 18 inches deep. The trick is to place the soil so it won't slide back into the trench as you remove the bottom layer.

* * *

Learn more about the culture of perennial flowers. Study the Penn State correspondence course. Anyone can enroll by sending his name and address with $2.75 to Perennials, Box 5000, University Park, Pennsylvania 16802. A course will come to you by mail.

A new wind drift current computation chart developed by a Navy scientist may aid in the Navy's ability to carry out successful search and rescue operations at sea.

Grass Blend Best for Fall Seeding

Often it is sensible to mix your seeds to cover various areas of your landscape.

Veteran seeders blend bluegrasses, fescues and other fine textured species in the best proportion for the climate.

* * *

In the fall, it is best in reseeding lawns to do the whole job in one sweep, with a blend of quality grasses that will accommodate to the varying conditions in your lawn.

A lawn grass spreader simplifies the application.

Clean Tools for Winter

The time is approaching to put most of your tools away for the season. Power tools, like lawn mowers, take the most care.

All matted grass underneath as well as on top of the blade housing should be hosed out. If possible, rotary blades should be taken out and sharpened, making sure to keep the blade perfectly balanced.

* * *

The crankcase, if any, should be drained of its old oil and refilled with new immediately. To leave it empty over winter courts trouble, for when spring comes it's so easy to take the mower out and start using it without oil in the crankcase — you know the rest.

Next remove the spark plug, put a little light oil inside and crank the piston up and down a few times. Then replace with a new spark plug or the old one properly cleaned and adjusted.

OIL PARTS

Finally, oil any parts that move and wipe off the whole machine with an oily rag

Try Indoor Fruit for Winter Days

Bringing the lush greenery of the tropics to your snowbound home will be easier this winter if you add such exotic claypotted beauties as miniature orange and pineapple plants to your indoor collection this winter.

Conditioned in clay pots by professional northern growers to adapt easily to winter temperatures they combine the green of lush foliage plants with the colors of their native miniature fruits.

* * *

They'll brighten many a wintry day if you follow your florists' care instructions.

Apples have been known to man as a food for many years. Romans had 22 varieties some 2,000 years ago.

Better Be Careful of Potting Soil

That garden soil brought in from your yard can be deceiving — and harmful to plants, if it's been exposed to summer herbicide treatments.

When repotting plants that have been outdoors, it's safer to use professionally prepared, sterilized potting soil and porous clas pots, the combination that promotes proper drainage and healthier plants.

SHIPYARD DOCK BLAZES — Fire boats rush to pour water on a blazing pier at Todd Shipbuilding Corp. in Seattle. Some 26 fire-fighting boats and 270 firemen were pressed into duty to contain the fire. A tanker and two Navy ships were pulled from the dock when the fire broke out yesterday. The blaze left one fire fighter dead and 28 injured and did $250,000 damage.

1 Dead, 28 Hurt Fighting Pier Blaze

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Fire believed caused by a cable short circuit under a pier roared through a dock area, leaving one fireman dead, 28 others injured and an estimated $250,000 damage.

Henry C. Gronnerud, 41, a 12-year veteran fireman, was killed early today when he stepped onto a high-voltage wire at the scene. Most of the injuries were from smoke inhalation.

Twenty-six boats helped battle the flames, which broke out on high into the air over Puget Sound.

Japan Cabinet Resigns as Sato Eyes New Picks

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese Cabinet members today submitted their resignations en masse to Prime Minister Eisaku Sato, who will form a new cabinet following his reelection to a third two-year term as president of the ruling Liberal Democratic party.

* * *

The post assures Sato the premiership because of the party's parliamentary majority.

Kakuei Tanaka, an influential leader in the party, was reported to have accepted Sato's offer of the job of party secretary general.

* * *

After the selection of other top party executives, Sato and the new party leadership will confer on the selection of a new Cabinet. The lineup is expected to be finalized Sunday or Monday.

Police Have Group Therapy to Ease Stress

SAUSALITO, Calif. (AP) — The uniformed policemen sat in a circle. In their midst sat a psychiatrist.

Out poured talk of the Negro civil rights battle, the American flag, China, right and wrong, Hitler, homosexuality — and a dozen other subjects.

* * *

This was group therapy in the headquarters of the 26-man police force in Sausalito, a tourist town of 7,000 year-round residents across the Golden Gate Bridge from San Francisco.

* * *

The sessions are mandatory once a month for the entire police force, and from time to time in smaller groups when enough men are interested.

STRESS TOLERANCE

When an officer feels he has a serious problem, he can consult privately with the man who runs the therapy program, Dr. Edward E. Shev, an internationally noted psychiatrist and neurologist.

* * *

The aim of it all is to put on the streets of Sausalito mature men who will not allow themselves to be provoked and will not crack under stress.

* * *

Sausalito raises steeply from a waterfront almost solidly packed with yachts to houses that cling to precipitous hills. The place is a study in contrasts, a human mishmash of pot-smoking hippies, barefoot poverty stricken, millionaires, intellectuals, peace symbols, bric-a-brac joints, bookstalls, yacht chandleries, great restaurants and bad ones.

Sausalito is a bedroom community. Most residents work in San Francisco, a few miles south.

* * *

NO RACIAL STRAIN

Sausalito has no Negro district, and not many Negroes live there.

* * *

The police chief is burly but sensitive Edward S. Kreins, 34. He took over the department 2½ years ago after 10 years as sergeant of police training and personnel at nearby Hayward.

* * *

Shev, a Sausalito resident, regards himself a part of the police department inasmuch as he examined every man now in service — including Kreins.

Sitting on the rim of the circle, Shev eyes the 10-man group at the impromptu session, and tells observers, "I want you to know you're meeting the hamiest bunch of guys . . ."

REACTION TO MILITANTS

Catcalls put Shev in his place. After some banter about the doctor's ties, Detective Kevin Sharp asked whether it was good or bad for black society that Negro Olympic athletes Tommie Smith and John Carlos had given the militant Black Panther salute at the games.

"I don't know what the general reaction would be," said Shev. "What was yours?"

* * *

"I felt they had a right to protest," said Sharp. "But they broke away from tradition that made it a whole reflection on America."

Shev explained that Sharp was displaying a later stage of loyalty, begun first in the family, then expanded to country.

INTERESTING PARALLEL

"What the hell's the difference between that, the salute and the fact that United States was the only country that refused to dip the national flag?" cut in Kreins. He continued hotly:

"Is that any more of an insult to the president of Mexico than when a Negro gets up and gives the Black Panther salute . . .?"

* * *

Sgt. Tom Cain: "What the salute represented was black unity, not the Black Panthers . . ."

Cain said if he had to choose between the Black Panthers and the Ku Klux Klan he'd choose the Panthers because "they're less destructive and represent all the blacks."

NO BLACKS PRESENT

All the officers at the session were Caucasian, except Gary Gee, a Chinese-American.

Somebody said Gee had his friends in the Tong, a Chinese secret association, and everybody roared.

* * *

"Yellow power!" they shouted.

Shev: "No more yellow peril, eh? Now it's yellow power." And he joined the laughter.

"All joking aside," said Shev, ". . . how do you feel, should the Oriental community break away from the traditional patterns and become more vocal and verbal?"

Gee: "It seems they have the lowest crime rate because of close family ties . . ."

* * *

Shev: "This is changing — look at San Francisco . . ."

Sadly, Gee, agreed it was true.

KIND OF PROTEST

Shef shifted gears, telling the group, "You're minority people . . . let's say you're on the other side of the coin of bad newspaper publicity . . . they're really giving you the business.

"How would you go about getting up some kind of protest?"

* * *

What, he asked, would they do to attract public attention to the problems police face.

Cain: "That's why we're having these sessions. Through psychiatry we can better understand ourselves. And if we can better understand ourselves, we can better understand people in the street."

PSYCHIATRIC METHOD

Gears shifted again, Shev addressing Sharp:

"You want to talk about the thing we discussed the last time, the sudden realization of your new problem?"

Sharp: "No, I don't mind. Prior to my son being born I didn't have the same feeling. Since my son has been born, maybe I'm a little more cautious about what I do. I want to go home to see my son . . . I want to live long enough to see him grow up . . ."

Shev: "You're not going to be as impulsive as you were in the past?"

3-POINT PLAN

Sharp said he didn't think he would be.

In his San Francisco office, Shev said the therapy program has three points:

● Choose policemen who will be mature, not psychotic, and emotionally able to stand stress.

● "A continuous educational program for the men in the department . . . discovering problems on which they get hung up or up-tight about."

● Individual consultation for those who may have some hangup developing."

Shev, who represented the United States at the International Congress of Neurology and Psychiatry in 1961, gets $30 for a 45-minute private session, the rate Sausalito pays him.

The therapy program was started over two years ago and marked by high skepticism among policemen.

SKEPTICISM ANSWERED

Gradually, resistance to the program broke down and most of the men became sold on it, he said.

Patrolmen earn a monthly wage ranging from $644 to $782, plus five per cent if they have a college degree in police science.

Is the program working?

"Obviously," said Kreins.

"Our statistics show the Sausalito crime rate has been cut in half in the past two years, while the arrest rate has tripled. We have not had a single complaint filed against a police officer since the program began."

4 Synagogues to Get Scrolls

NEW YORK (AP) — Four synagogues which have been targets in a recent series of religious desecrations are each going to receive a priceless torah from the Israeli government.

Saying "If a scroll is damaged we are in mourning," Rehaveam Amir, the Israeli consul general, explained that the ancient documents of the Hebrew scribes would help replace religious articles damaged in several synagogue fires.

* * *

Eleven Jewish houses of worship have been desecrated during the last three months. Ten persons, including seven teen-agers, have been arrested in connection with the incidents.

Mayor John V. Lindsay, who had requested Israeli help in replacing the scrolls, joined Amir in the announcement.

* * *

He has directed increased police protection for all city houses of worship.

Walkaways Held in Ohio

IRONTON, Ohio (AP)—Lawrence County authorities have arrested two escaped prisoners from Cassidy Lake Prison Farm.

* * *

Harry Pyles, 22, and Rodney Knapp, 21, had walked off the facility near Jackson, Mich., the evening of Nov. 19. Pyles was serving a 1½-2 year term for auto theft, and Knapp had been sentenced to 2-14 years on a bad check charge.

* * *

The two men were picked up Wednesday at the home of one of Pyles' relatives near Ironton, Ohio.

We'd say compare Nova SS with its closest competition.

If anything came close.

Nobody else has anything like the Chevy Nova SS. Even if they did, they probably couldn't match its price.

The Nova SS comes onto the scene with power disc brakes, beefed-up suspension, dual exhausts—the works.

Under that domed hood is a standard 350-cubic-inch 300-hp V8. For even more varoom, you can add a 350-hp or 375-hp version of the Turbo-Jet 396.

On the floor is a 3-speed shifter that shifts like it's part of your hand.

On the wheels are red stripe wide oval tires.

You can get the whole Nova SS story at your Chevy dealer's Sports Shop.

Even if the competition came close to Nova SS, we wouldn't worry. Close only counts in horseshoes.

U.S. Plans Long Stay at Gitmo

GUANTANAMO NAVAL BASE, Cuba (UPI) — The United States will never let Fidel Castro take this strategic base by force and is preparing for a long stay here — probably for as long as Cuba remains under Communist control.

A visitor reaches this conclusion soon after taking a look at this 45-square mile military enclave on Cuba's southeast Oriente coast. A talk with Rear Adm. James B. Hildreth, base commander, confirms it.

* * *

"Castro would have to be somewhat irrational to attack," the 48-year-old Hildreth of Ukiah, Calif., said. "He knows full well we would defend the base."

If a Cuban attack did come, it more likely "would have to tie into a bigger world situation," he added.

GITMO DEFENDERS

The running flurry of incidents between Gitmo marines and Castro's troops which prevailed here up to two years ago has faded away. A strange tranquility has taken its place.

"We watch them and they watch us," Hildreth explained.

The watching is done from observation posts and bunkers and trenches on both sides of the 17-mile chain link fence which separates Gitmo from Cuba. Land mines are everywhere.

There are 4,000 marines — most of them battle-seasoned Vietnam veterans — and Navy men here. Precise figures on Cuban troops across the fence are undisclosed. But they include at least one artillery battalion.

A Marine officer described Castro's bunker system "quite sophisticated — right out of the latest Soviet manual." Cuba has the advantage in observation since its forces hold the higher mountain ground encircling the base.

"Whoever laid out this place in 1903 (the year a base agreement in perpetuity was signed with the fledgling Cuban Republic) was not thinking about the fence," Hildreth said wryly.

* * *

Gitmo is the oldest U.S. base on foreign soil and is the only American base in a Communist country. Its value and importance stem from the fact that it guarantees the United States control over one of the world's outstanding training "grounds" for warships.

"Our basic mission here is to train the Atlantic fleet," Hildreth said. "Our second basic mission is defend the base for fleet training."

TRAINING GROUND

Guantanamo Bay, which comprises fully one-half of the base area, is one of the best deep-water harbors on earth. Off shore the navy has unlimited deep water of the Caribbean Sea to maneuver in usually perfect weather with uncluttered air space overhead.

An average of 12 warships, but at times as many as 19, go through prolonged "shakedown" or "refresher" training off Gitmo month after month by expert "ship riders" from the Fleet Training Group (FTG) based here. The John F. Kennedy, newest Navy carrier, is one of the ships training here now.

In the event of a Cuban attack, the firepower from ships in training would back up Gitmo's defenses while Marines from a Caribbean "ready force" always at sea in the area and others from the U.S. mainland would fly here within hours.

A continuing series of big-money outlays by the Navy can be viewed as "evidence of our determination to stay here," the admiral said.

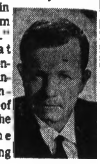
Director Enjoyed Filming 'The Fixer' in Hungary

BY BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD — "There is a saying that the Hungarian government grants only three-day visas to visit the country because the country has only three dishes to eat."

This was the jest of John Frankenheimer, who spent seven months in Hungary to film "The Fixer." During that time he consumed an unconscionable amount of goulash, but he enjoyed the movie-making experience.



THOMAS

"If the situation were right, I would go back there and make another picture," said the towering, boyish-looking director.

"I found the Hungarian people to be extremely friendly, and the film workers were eager and helpful. We received excellent cooperation all along the line.

Frankenheimer and his partner, producer Edward Lewis, were sold on "The Fixer" as soon as they had read the Bernard Malamud novel in galley form. They had previously tried to transfer another Malamud book, "The Assistant," into the film medium but were unable to acquire financing. It was no easy matter with "The Fixer," either.

MGM SOLD ON IT

"After I finished 'Grand Prix,' Eddie and I proposed 'The Fixer' to MGM; we were turned down," said Frankenheimer. "But then the president of MGM, Robert O'Brien, read the book and was sold on it. He said MGM would back the project if we could make it 'for a price'."

Lewis and Frankenheimer agreed to do so, and they began searching for topography and cityscapes that would resemble 1916 Russia. They wanted to film inside Russia itself, but they were told "via the grapevine" that such a request would be denied. The reason: "The Fixer" deals with anti-Semitism, which reportedly still exists in Russia.

* * *

"We figured if we got a turndown from Russia, that would scare off any of the satellite countries," said the director. "After looking at Czechoslovakia, Romania and Hungary, as well as Yugoslavia and Austria, we decided that Hungary offered the best backgrounds. The deal was arranged through the Tower international organization headed by Cyrus Eaton."

* * *

Frankenheimer went to Budapest with key production personnel from France, but most of the film workers were Hungarian. Orders had to be repeated three times—in English, French and Hungarian—but he figured that he lost only two days' shooting because of the language barrier.

"I speak French, so that helped," he remarked. "Hungarian is impossible to learn unless you begin as a child. It has no relationship to any other European language, except possibly Finnish."

* * *

Frankenheimer spent 100 days of filming on the picture, which stars Alan Bates, Dirk Bogarde and Elizabeth Hartman. "The Fixer" met O'Brien's stipulation "for a price." It was "something under two and a half million," a reasonable sum for a top production these days.

Voters OK $3 Billion in Bond Issues

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Voters across the country have given the go-ahead for financing of nearly $3 billion in new state government buildings, schools, hospitals, parks and water treatment facilities.

But some of the biggest state and local bond issues on the Nov. 5 ballots came to grief as citizens decided a whole galaxy of public questions at the polls.

* * *

A compilation of statewide bond issue referenda by Commerce Clearing House, Chicago, showed 25 approvals totaling $2.7 billion. Six bond issues totaling $1.3 billion were rejected.

In addition, the biggest single bond issue placed before the voters anywhere this year — a $2.5 billion proposal for rapid transit in Los Angeles — was defeated.

A PARTIAL OFFSET

Partially offsetting that at other local levels were approval of $207.5 million in rapid transit bonds by residents of five Washington, D.C., suburbs; an $80-million issue for schools in Baltimore and $39.9 million in Philadelphia for municipal building and water and sewage facilities construction.

The biggest statewide bond issues approved were in New Jersey — $640 million for transportation facilities, $337 million for public buildings and $12.5 million for housing projects.

The biggest bond issue rejected in statewide voting was a $1-billion proposal for conservation and natural resources development in Illinois.

Californians defeated a $250-million bond issue for school construction; Alaskans rejected an $18-million issue for a state ferry system and Rhode Islanders beat three bond issues totaling $20-million for airport development, a civic center and private hospital loans.

OTHER ISSUES PASS

But Rhode Island did approve a $10.8-million bond issue for recreational development, and Alaska voters okayed a series of bond issues including $11.2 million for highways, $10 million for public schools, $8.8 million for airports and $3 million for the University of Alaska.

The State of Washington approved $63 million for new buildings, $40 million for recreation facilities and $25 million for water pollution control. Virginia voters endorsed a $67.2 million issue for college construction and $13.8 million for mental hospitals.

In Michigan, two bond issues totaling $435 million were approved for water projects and recreational facilities. Pennsylvanians cleared a $28 million bond issue for veterans' bonuses. Maine approved $12.8 million for highways, $4.5 million for an Androscoggin River bridge and $4 million for parks and recreation.

Mass Transport Confab to Begin Series at OU Hall

A two-day conference on "Mass Transportation for a Dynamic Society" will lead off a series of dedicatory year conferences planned for Oakland University's new Dodge Hall of Engineering.

Scheduled for Dec. 5-6, the conference will be sponsored by the U.S. Army Tank Automotive Command in cooperation with the University's School of Engineering.

* * *

Conferees will hear educators, government officials and representatives of industry discuss the problems of mass transportation brought on by the rapid population growth and the continuing trend toward urbanization.

Separate sessions will explore the present status of land, water, and air transportation, along with some of the engineering developments that are under way. The final meeting will be devoted to a discussion of the research and development needs of the next 25 years.

Will He Ball It Up?

Nixon Has Problem

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Just about everyone with access to a typewriter has been pointing out the hard times that lie ahead for President-elect Nixon.

WEST

He faces, according to the pundits, monumental difficulties in such areas as foreign relations, congressional relations, race relations, crime, poverty, inflation and pollution.

* * *

Added to which is the possibility that some time within the next year he might become a grandfather.

The first indication of how well Nixon will be able to cope with these problems may come on the evening of Jan. 20, which is the date of the inaugural ball.

QUITE A CHALLENGE

The theme of the ball will be "Bring Us Together." Considering the way most people dance nowadays, carrying out that theme will present quite a challenge to the new administration.

It isn't going to look very encouraging if there is a big "Bring Us Together" banner over the bandstand and the majority of couples on the ballroom floor are doing the boogaloo.

* * *

Citizens will start asking themselves, "If Nixon can't bring the dancers together at his own inaugural ball, what chance will he have with Nguyen Van Thieu?"

One thing that may work in his favor is the fact that inaugural balls traditionally are overcrowded.

TOGETHERNESS ILLUSION

If the couples aren't dancing together, they at least won't be able to get very far apart. There will be an illusion of togetherness even when they are dancing separately.

If Nixon so chose, he could manage the ball in such a way as to insure compliance with the "Bring Us Together" theme. He could, for instance, limit the invitation list to guests over the age of 60.

* * *

After a few turns around the floor, dancers of that age usually are forced to get together for mutual support.

Or he could order the bands to play nothing but Viennese waltzes all evening.

HE WOULDN'T DO IT

However, Nixon has promised to conduct an "open administration," so I doubt he would resort to stratagems of that sort.

There is already a generation gap in this country and he wouldn't want to be accused of creating a tempo gap as well.

* * *

A president, it is said, can best lead by example. When Nixon and his wife take the floor, they can exemplify the theme of the ball by dancing cheek-to-cheek.

That will help get his administration off on the right foot. Provided, of course, he doesn't step on her left one.

The Gourmet Adventures of Jayson's

Planning meals is an art. Here is a helpful guide. Follow this basic plan; then use your imagination for gourmet meals, every meal For breakfast serve fruit or fruit juice, cereal with milk (and fruit), bread and spread (butter, margarine, jam, jelly), a main dish, if desired (eggs, meat or fish), and a beverage. For lunch or supper, have an appetizer, main dish (soup, sandwich, salad), bread, dessert, and beverage. Dinner requires something special. An appetizer, main dish (fish, meat, poultry), vegetable, salad, bread, dessert, and beverage are all basics to the meal. This basic plan will insure you that your family is getting well-balanced and good-tasting meals.

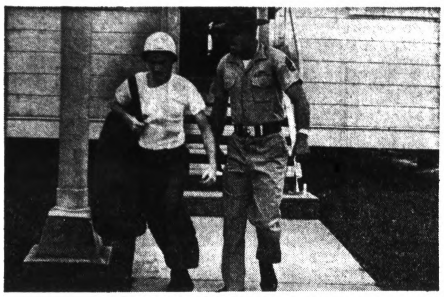
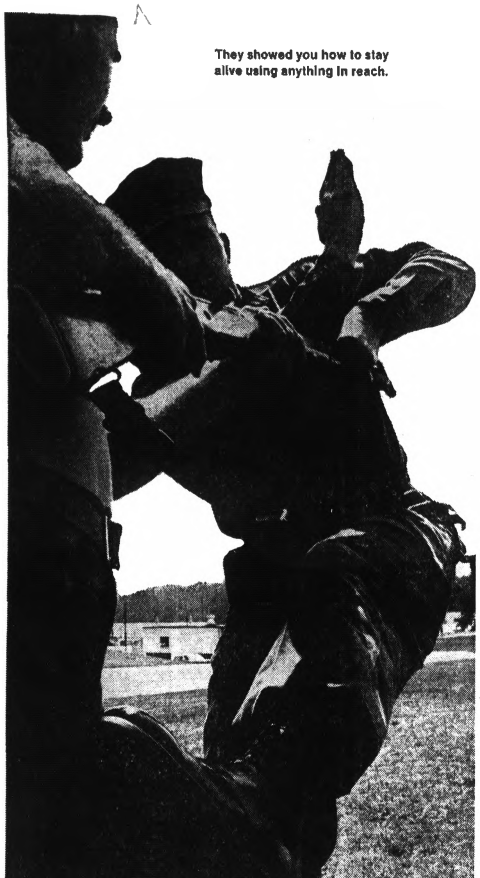
MAKING A MARINE

You learn quickly the value of silence.



Like angry thunder they were everywhere.

In thirty seconds you were bald but not yet older.



They showed you how to stay alive using anything in reach.

You heard about it: the men yelling, the running, the pressure, the training. You heard about it, but it didn't bother you.

Not until the gates closed behind your bus and the man up front suddenly grew bigger and meaner than he had been. His voice started screaming the moment that bus stopped, and it rang long after the lights had gone out.

"Move-move-move-move . . ."

Check-in, clothing issue, barracks, a continual thunder in your ear you would live with for weeks longer than you wanted to think about.

They trained you; trained you in loud-voiced cadence across obstacle course and rifle handling; through exercises that made legs and arms rubbery or buried your face in the ground.

"Give me twenty, you stupid 'cruit . . ."

They had to make you into something but they gave you no hope of making it: you were lower than a caterpillar's callous and as dumb as they come. They told you this until you started believing it yourself.

It became familiar and painful. It dropped you every night into deep sleep and shattered your dreams apart too, too early with its loud crashing. Another long day was beginning.

They ran you through mud and dust while your back and shoulders carried the weapon, the piece, the rifle.

"Never a gun, you toad, never a gun . . ."

Up and down, up and down, feet, arms, lifting the body forward or the weapon upward, while all the time that shouting face inches away blurred and drifted off into some psychedelic vacuum of confused thunder.

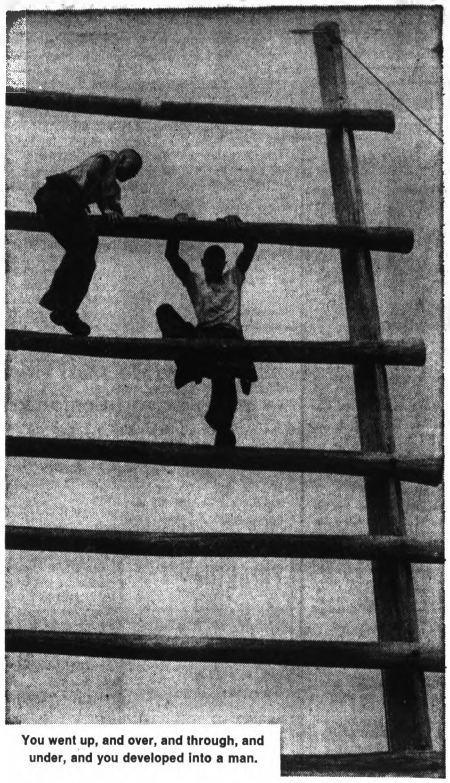
Then the man who broke your back and heart for long weeks takes you off in Class-A uniform and you hear something different in his voice. You hear pride and you see it on his face as he checks you out before the final "pass-in-review."

"Look sharp . . . Marine . . ."

Then it hits you. It's over. You've filled out and the family won't look at you the same anymore. You grew up in their care, but you went through the birth pangs to manhood right here.

You're something special and will be the rest of your life. It won't matter where they send you, what rank you wear, what job you do, you're only one thing now and forever.

You're a rifleman, mister, and you're a United States Marine.



You went up, and over, and through, and under, and you developed into a man.

Soon all you heard was the voice.

Even the officers came back to learn more.

You walked with your family again, but now you were a Marine.

Students Get Big Vacation in Ohio City

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Some 28,000 pupils enrolled in the 45 Youngstown public schools are on a vacation that will extend into next year because the system has run out of operating funds.

The schools were closed Wednesday at the beginning of the Thanksgiving Vacation. Officials say they hope to reopen them Jan. 2 by borrowing against taxes to be collected next year. The board of education has borrowed $1.5 million from banks since last August, but the banks have refused further credit.

The board said it ran out of money because tax rates, unchanged for five years, are too low. The last six proposed school operating levies were defeated by voters.

Pupils apparently will have to make up the time to meet state requirements for the length of a school term. The statutory requirement is for 180 days of classes in the school year. The attorney general's office in Columbus ruled that the Youngstown board of education may amend its school calendar to require teachers to work next June instead of next month.

The attorney general also ruled that auxiliary and transportation services for nonpublic school pupils must be continued.

Free Red Cross Program

Send Your Voice to GI

Talk to your husband in Vietnam at no cost? It's possible if you sign up for the Red Cross Voices From Home program.

The program permits you to make a 12½-minute tape of your voice and your children's voices and send it to any serviceman at an overseas post or in a hospital in the U.S.

Contact the local Red Cross office at 118 Franklin Blvd. for an appointment to tape your message in privacy.

When a serviceman receives the message he can call on the Red Cross area representative to play back the message you've sent.

Red Cross pays for the postage and the tape. All they ask is that appointments be made between Dec. 2 and Dec. 13 so the tapes will reach their destination before Christmas.

There is no charge for this service. Red Cross pays the postage.

Bill for Dinner

FT. LEONARD WOOD, Mo. (AP) — The Ft. Wood Quartermaster staff spent $35,000 for 14,000 pounds of turkey, 2,500 pounds of shrimp and 8,600 pounds of potatoes to feed Thanksgiving dinner to 25,000 soldiers.

Fewer Escapes Expected at Berlin Wall This Year

BERLIN (AP) — Black nights, rain and fog heard another escape season for the Berlin Wall, but West German officials said today fewer East Germans will make it to the West this year.

An authoritative source said there were about 70 escapes over the wall last year, and this year's total is expected to be 20 less.

The "death strip," a ring of stone and steel, explosive devices, wire and flood-lit open spaces patrolled by guards with dogs, has drastically curtailed the flow of East German refugees. Since the Communists sealed the borders in August 1961, about 163 Germans have been reported killed trying to cross to the West.

A West German government source said there were 19,573 refugees to West Germany and West Berlin in 1967. Of these 1,203 braved border barriers, while the rest reached the West through other countries or were pensioners who were granted visiting permits by the East Germans and never returned.

So far this year there have been 7,228 refugees, of whom only 415 crossed border barriers.

Only the bold, young or the desperate try to go over the wall.

* * *

Since October three families, some carrying suitcases, made it across the death strip. A young man used a collapsible ladder to cross the most heavily guarded section of the wall. An armed East German border guard officer in full uniform walked across and hitched a ride to an inn, where he promptly downed a glass of West Berlin beer.

There also has been tragedy.

GUNNED DOWN

The father in a family of four was gunned down by border guards who dragged him off. Western police had to restrain his two young sons from going back to rejoin their father.

Two youths tried climbing a 12-foot high section of a wall. One made it, the other lost his grip and fell back into the arms of pursuing guards.

* * *

Berliners were especially moved by the plight of a 16-year-old boy whose legs were blown off by a Communist mine along the East-West German border 110 miles away. He screamed for help to both the pursuing East Germans and the West Germans on the other side of the barriers, but it was three hours before the East Germans blew up other mines around him and carried him off.

* * *

This was a reminder to Berliners of Peter Fechter, 17, who was left to bleed to death in 1962. He was shot at the wall by East German guards and no one on either side moved to help him.

The United States accused East Germany Wednesday of murder in the 16-year-old's death, and demanded that mines and other obstacles be removed from the borders.

* * *

"This is another reminder that the regime in East Germany continues to use every means, including murder to oppress its subjects and perpetuate itself in power," said U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Parole Set for First Criminal to Be Arrested by FBI Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alvin Karpis, the first criminal arrested by J. Edgar Hoover, will be released from prison in January after serving 32 years of a life term for a kidnaping conspiracy.

Karpis, 60, and racked by arthritis, was a member of the infamous Barker-Karpis gang that was accused of at least 10 slayings between 1931 and 1936.

* * *

He won parole on his 17th try after first becoming eligible in 1961.

A Justice Department official said Karpis would be deported to his native Canada where a job is waiting for him.

Karpis was captured by Hoover in New Orleans in 1936, three years after the kidnaping of wealthy Minneapolis beer magnate William Hamm Jr.

RELEASED UNHARMED

Hamm was released unharmed after payment of $100,000 in ransom money.

Sentenced to life imprisonment he went to Leavenworth, Kan., penitentiary but spent most of his years in Alcatraz.

Karpis was transferred from Alcatraz in 1962 shortly before the old penitentiary was closed down and has spent the past six years in the McNeil Island, Wash. prison.

The parole board said its decision to release Karpis was based on the number of years he has spent in prison, his age, his failing health and his excellent record in custody.

The board also said it does not now consider him a "threat to public safety."

The Canadian government said a welfare agency has guaranteed him a home and a job when he arrives Jan. 14. Karpis was born Alvin Karpaviez in Montreal and immigrated to the United States with his parents in 1915.

He is now considered part of the legend which is built up around Hoover, who at 73 is approaching the end of his long career with the FBI.

* * *

Dubbed "public enemy No. 1" after the Hamm kidnaping, Karpis was publicly chided by Hoover — the FBI chief called him a "rat — to the extent that the notorious hoodlum sent personal word that he intended to kill the FBI chief.

Hoover, in turn, vowed to be in on Karpis' capture.

He missed him in Hot Springs, Akr., in March 1936, but caught up with him in New Orleans the following month.

Hoover grabbed his man as Karpis was reaching for a rifle on the rear seat of an auto. Even so, Karpis got something of a last laugh.

When Hoover ordered agents to "put the handcuffs on him," Karpis got a chuckle when an apologetic G-man told his chief he'd forgotten to bring any.

747 Jumbojet Comes as Convertible for Toting Freight

SEATTLE (UPI) — The workhorse version of the largest commercial aircraft ever built will be able to carry 200,000 pounds of payload from London to New York, even under the most adverse winter headwind conditions, the Boeing Co. said yesterday.

This will be the 747 Jumbojet equipped as a freighter, and it will be called the 747B.

* * *

It also will come as a "convertible" capable of carrying 374 passengers, their baggage and 40,000 pounds of air freight as far as from Rome to New York under adverse wind conditions.

The 747B will be 65,000 pounds heavier than the sophisticated 747 rolled out of Boeing's Everett factory Sept. 30 and will take to the air for testing late in December.

SAME DIMENSIONS

But the 747B will have the same dimensions as the 747 despite its 775,000 pounds. It will have a wingspan of 195 feet, 8 inches; length, 231 feet, 4 inches; tail height, 63 feet, 6 inches, and fuselage width, 21 feet, 5 inches.

J. E. Steiner, vice president in charge of engineering and sales for Boeing's commercial airplane division, said the 747B would be available for delivery in the first half of 1971.

He estimated sales of the 747 types at 600 through 1978 and said this would include 250 to 300 747Bs.

* * *

Many 747Bs, he said, would be operated by U.S. airlines and thus would be available for the U.S. Civil Reserve Air Fleet to augment Air Force capabilities in national emergencies.

Both the convertible and freighter models will be equipped with mechanized cargo-handling systems in their upper and lower holds. The nose of the plane will swing up so pallets or 8x8 containers in lengths up to 40 feet can be loaded straight in on motor-driven roller systems.

A man at the nose and one in the interior will be able to load and unload a 747B in 30 minutes, Steiner explained.

The freighter, using containers on the lower deck and pallets on the upper deck, could carry a payload of about 260,000 pounds a distance of 3,100 miles. Direct operating costs would be 32 per cent lower than those for the 707.

Because it carries more weight in special equipment necessary for added versatility, the convertible 747B would carry somewhat less payload than the freighter for the same ranges.

SAME PERFORMANCE

Despite its higher weight, the 747B will retain the performance advantages of the 710,000-pound 747 now in production, Steiner said. It will cruise 20 miles an hour faster than the 707, will be quieter, and its takeoff field length and cruising altitude will compare favorably with the 707.

The higher payload capacity results from air-frame weight reduction and structural improvements and from more powerful engines. The 747B will use Pratt & Whitney JT9D-7W engines of 47,000 pounds thrust in 1972.

* * *

Planes delivered in 1971 will use the same 45,000-pound thrust P&W engines the conventional 747 will carry, but they can be modified to the higher performance standards.

Dak To: One Year Later

DAK TO, Vietnam (AP) — It is hard to believe that the green hills of Dak To were once a battleground commanding worldwide attention.

Descending to the village by helicopter, a visitor finds the only evidence is the sight of a few ravaged hilltops in the distance, long since deserted.

* * *

In the Thanksgiving season last year, those hills lay beneath a pall of smoke, churned by thunderous bombardments. In a three-week battle that ended Thanksgiving Day, 287 Americans were killed and more than 1,000 wounded. It was at the time the costliest single battle fought by American troops in Vietnam.

Those hills today are once again deserted, almost worthless.

SMALL SETTLEMENT

November is normally a pleasant month for the highland village of Dak To, a small settlement of mountain tribesmen 270 miles north of Saigon. By day the sun is bright. Nights are comfortable. Few people saw the misty beauty last November. The North Vietnamese army was there in strength, and the Americans were determined to root them out.

Day after day, Nov. 3-23, men of the 173rd Airborne and the 4th Division, plus Vietnamese airborne and infantry battalions, fought to defeat more than a division of North Vietnamese regulars. Hills known only by their map numbers of 1338, 724, 882 and 875 had to be assaulted.

* * *

The battle of Dak To came to its bloody finale on Hill 875 on Thanksgiving Day. Eighty Americans died there. An accidentally dropped bomb heightened the tragedy of fighting against an unseen enemy.

When the survivors reached the top, they found only burned tree stumps, huge bomb craters, and sometimes the napalm-charred remains of buddies.

* * *

The men settled for C-ration turkey instead of a hot meal.

Tycoons Kept Hard at Work Keeping Their Dollars Busy

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—It isn't easy being a tycoon. You have to keep your nose to the grindstone, making sure all those hundreds of millions of dollars are working for you, bringing in more millions.

WILSON

The Golden Greek, Aristotle Onassis, who had to let business interfere with romance immediately after his marriage, will have to return to Europe shortly for the same reason.

He's expected to end his visit to America very soon and go back to Athens. Jackie is expected to accompany him or follow almost immediately. The New Jersey hideaway where they weekended is not new. Jackie has had it for more than a year and Onassis had visited her there before their marriage.

* * *

Some foul fiend got the Mykonos (Greek) Restaurant all upset the other night phoning and making a reservation for dinner for "Mr. Onassis and a party of three." Terribly dirty trick, everybody thought.

Atty. Greg Bautzer hopes Eddie Fisher and Connie Stevens don't divorce, but if they do, he's sure it won't be before Connie has her next baby, due in January. (There were Hollywood rumors it would happen immediately.) Friends are mystified by the couple: one day, hearts and flowers; very next day, divorce talk.

In a blockbuster bit of casting, Sidney Poitier and Barbra Streisand'll co-star in the film version of "The Owl and the Pussycat" (reversing the Broadway play, in which the man was white and the girl was a Negro).

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

With his new look El Morocco a success, Maurice Uchitel is seriously shopping for a Miami Beach hotel ("I love that sun") . . . A slightly inebriated gentleman saw one of those revolving tower restaurants and happily exclaimed, "This is the first time a men's room has come to me."

George Raft said at Volsin he'd just learned of the death of his wife Grace Mulrooney; they separated 40 years ago, hadn't seen each other in 35 years . . . Ballet master George Balanchine, 64, did a wild Watusi at the NYC Ballet Co. party at O'Neal's Baloon.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Remember way back, asks Jackie Kannon, when the only actress working without clothes was Lassie?

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "There's one thing to be said about baldness—it's neat."

EARL'S PEARLS: According to modern etiquette, when you've stayed so late at somebody's party that they yawn at you, the trick is to yawn right back at them.

Bea Lillie's story of the Thanksgiving turkey is timely again: "First you put the turkey in the oven, then pour a quart of bourbon on it, then a bottle of brandy, then a bottle of gin" . . . "And how does the turkey taste?" . . . "Oh, we never bother about the turkey, but the gravy's wonderful." . . . That's earl, brother.

Quads in Dearborn Are Given Names

DEARBORN (AP)—The quadruplets born to Mrs. Gustave Fuller in Dearborn Sunday have been named.

Previously tagged A, B, C and D, the quads' names now are Suzanne Kay, Stacey Kristine, Stephanie Marie and Bradley Stephen.

The children and mother were described as doing well, but a nursing supervisor said the children would remain at the hospital until they reach five pounds. Mrs. Fuller is expected to be released from the hospital early next week.

Opening lead—♠A

By OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

Oscar (Ockie) and Anita (Pigeon) Davis of Beaumont, Tex., like bridge tournaments. Pigeon has done most of the playing for the family and has established herself as one of the top players of the country. Ockie started putting in an occasional appearance at the table a few years ago and has managed to get half way to Life Master status.

We have had a lot of fun with him and keep offering to bet that Jim O. Jacoby, age six, will beat him to Life Master. We have withdrawn offers of this nature since watching Ockie play today's hand in Lake Charles, La.

★ ★ ★

We aren't sure that his bidding will get full approval of all experts but six no-trump is a reasonable contract and his partner held an absolute minimum opening bid.

West opened the ace of spades and continued the suit on the principle of not giving the declarer any help. Ockie counted 10 top tricks and at first glance it appeared that he would have to bring home the heart suit. He had to locate the queen and decided to play a few diamonds just to see what could happen. The first diamond lead told him. The suit was not going to break.

★ ★ ★

Since East held all the diamonds Ockie decided to play West for the queen of hearts. He led his king of hearts, continued with the 10 and finessed. The finesse worked but East showed out so Ockie was up to 11 tricks only but he also perceived an automatic squeeze position.

He cashed the remaining top diamonds, the last two spades, discarding a diamond, and finally the ace of hearts. East had to hold a diamond, whereupon Ockie chucked his last diamond. West had to hold the queen of hearts and Ockie spread his hand with the announcement, "The clubs are all good."

Market Continues Advance

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued its advance in fairly active trading early this afternoon.

Gains outnumbered losses by about 370 issues on the New York Stock Exchange.

* * *

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 2.1 at 367.3 with industrials up 2.8, rails up 2.1 and utilities unchanged.

Analysts saw the market as in a technically strong condition. Further reason for the purchase of stocks as a hedge against inflation was supplied by the October rise in the Consumer Price index at an annual rate of 7.2 per cent, the fastest pace in six years.

ACCOMPANIES ADVANCE

A solid advance by steels was accompanied by increasing shipments of steel products.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 4.54 at 980.86. If held to the close, this would be another new high for 1968.

Among the top steelmakers, gains of well over a point were scored by U.S. Steel and Republic Steel. Bethlehem and Jones & Laughlin rose about a point each.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were mostly higher in active trading.

Plan for Yule: Faster Mail

Fewer Workers, More Efficiency U.S. Goal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson said today he plans to deliver more Christmas mail this year with fewer workers by using a "command post" which will drag some postmasters from bed for 3 a.m. weather and mail load reports.

"We believe we have a plan that will allow us to move what is anticipated to be 10 billion pieces of mail from about Thanksgiving to Christmas day," Watson said in an interview.

"We further believe that should there be problems in any given area or given post office, we'll be able to determine the problem, which will allow us some opportunity to transfer some of that mail away from that particular point" for sorting elsewhere.

Watson said he understood that last year, the post office employed something between 120,000 and 125,000 seasonal and part-time people for the Christmas rush of mail. "This year," Watson said. We estimate we will not employ over 55,000.

SOME OVERTIME

"We believe that by using trained personnel and paying them some overtime, the economics will be better and the efficiency will be better."

The "command post," down the hall from Watson's gymnasium-sized office, will field phone calls on precise schedules. Postal officials throughout the nation will report on everything from the weather to the length of noon-time lines at their parcel post windows.

* * *

Watson who will lose his job Jan. 20 when Richard M. Nixon becomes president, will leave behind an efficiency plan for the sprawling postal system he claims would triple the speed of letter-sorting and save enough money for a "favorable return on investment."

The proposal, costing an estimated $500 million, would replace men with machines in the mail-sorting operations of the nation's 300 largest post offices, which handle about 80 per cent of the total mail load. Watson said his mechanical "modules" — actually automated assembly lines — would sort 107,000 letters per hour compared with 36 in today's most efficient post office setups.

Out of 'The Jungle' Came Consumerism

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK — The consumer protection movement may be traced into Biblical times, but in the United States one of its most enduring mileposts was driven into the American consciousness in 1906 with publication of "The Jungle."

CUNNIFF

That book, which described the shockingly filthy conditions in Chicago slaughterhouses and the human debasement they brought with them, was written by Upton Sinclair, for whom funeral services will be held Saturday in New Jersey.

* * *

It is easy to believe that a 90-year-old man had very little to do with what today is thought to be a very modern issue, the protection of consumers in the marketplace. But it would be incorrect.

Although relatively inactive in his later years, Sinclair had much to do with the present Federal Trade Commission hearings and truth in packaging and truth in lending and new and better Better Business Bureaus.

In 1906 there was considerable agitation but not as much action toward resolving some of the social and economic problems that had grown astride the burgeoning industrial economy. "The Jungle's" prose brought horror, then action.

"There would be meat stored in great piles in the rooms," Sinclair wrote, "and the water from leaky roofs would drip over it, and thousands of rats would race about on it."

* * *

Relentlessly, Sinclair added detail to his case. "It was too dark in these storage places to see well, but a man could run his hand over these piles of meat and sweep off handfuls of the dried dung of rats."

He continued. "These rats were nuisances, and the packers would put poisoned bread out for them, they would die, and then rats, bread and meat would go into the hoppers together."

DEMAND FOR ACTION

Such revelations were too much for the American mind and stomach, and soon President Theodore Roosevelt was receiving scores of letters a day demanding federal action to raise standards in the meat industry.

"The Jungle" became sort of an early "Unsafe At Any Speed," the book written a few years ago by Ralph Nader which aroused Congress to study and take action against factors making automobile travel riskier than necessary.

* * *

Roosevelt invited Sinclair to the White House, and soon "The Jungle" symoblized the consumer cause. It led to the famous Food and Drug Act of 1906, the first federal pure food law.

* * *

Moreover, the act put the federal government firmly into the consumer protection business for good. And it helped establish the high levels of cleanliness that generally prevail today in the American food industry.

SHIFT OF EMPHASIS

In federal regulation, subtle shifts of emphasis to the consumer can be traced from then. The regulation of industrial enterprise wasn't enough; it now became regulation in the interests of consumers.

As the American economy progressed, becoming more technologically complex each year, business also became far more active in the consumer protection area. Better Business Bureaus, established in the 1920s, have grown steadily since then. An office was opened recently, for example, in the Harlem section of New York.

* * *

Private groups also entered the picture, especially as the consumer needed assistance not simply because of the deception of businessmen but because of the complexity and vast array of products that crowded the marketplace.

Recognizing these conditions, President John F. Kennedy enunciated in 1962 what has been called the consumer bill of rights: the right to be informed, the right to choose, the right to safety and the right to be heard.

Man Treks 150 Miles to Give Thanks

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — For six days, Ralph Cabrera walked through rain and snow to travel 150 miles on his pilgrimage of thanks.

Then Thanksgiving morning, he knelt with the pastor of an old adobe church to thank God for the safe return of his son from Vietnam.

"He was very excited and was crying" as he arrived at El Santuario (The Sanctuary) Roman Catholic Church shortly after the last morning Mass, the pastor said.

The priest, who would identify himself only as Father Roca, added, "He is a very humble man. I was impressed with his faith.

TIRED, THANKFUL

"He was very tired, but very thankful to have completed his journey. We went inside the church and prayed together. Then we talked for a little time." Cabrera had taken the train to Grants, N.M., and then walked the rest of the way.

Cabrera's son, Ronald, 21, remained with his mother in San Francisco where Cabrera, 42, is a structural steel painter.

* * *

As a child in Santa Fe, he had sometimes attended Mass at El Santuario in Chimayo, a tiny Indian and Spanish-American community. The old church has been the destination of many pilgrimages and is full of remembrances left by the many persons who have visited it.

Position Filled at Pontiac Div.

Gordon S. Hill has been appointed an assistant purchasing director of Pontiac Motor Division.

HILL

The appointment is effective immediately.

Hill, who for the past six years had been the division's office and procurement manager, joined Pontiac as a clerk in the purchasing department in 1946.

He was named supervisor in 1951 and general supervisor of procurement in 1956.

A World War II Navy veteran, Hill is married and the father of five. He resides in Pleasant Ridge.

GMC Truck to Add New Diesel Engines

GMC Truck & Coach Division will add Cummins diesel engines to its line of heavy-duty truck engines, it is announced by Martin J. Caserio, a vice president of General Motors Corp. and divisional general manager.

He said two of the engines, the NHC250 and the NHCT270, will be standard in some GMC Astro 95 heavy-duty trucks, with the NH230 or NTC335 available as options. The NHC250 also will power one 92-inch conventional cab series, with the optional engine the NH230.

* * *

The Cummins engines join the GMC family of V8 and in-line 6 GM Diesel engines and the division's own V6 and V8 Toro-Flow II diesels.

"The addition of the Cummins engines will broaden our diesel engine line and open new marketing possibilities in this important facet of the heavy-duty trucking business," Caserio said.

* * *

All of the Cummins engines are 855-cubic-inch 6-cylinder in-lines. The numbers in their identifications denote gross horse-power ratings.

Blood Drive Set in Waterford

A Red Cross blood drive is scheduled Monday from 3-9 p.m. at the CAI Building, 5640 Williams Lake, Waterford Township. Contact the local Red Cross office, 118 Franklin Blvd., for an appointment.

Several Waterford Township families are urging people to donate blood in the name of Max Potter of 3605 Shelby, a Waterford Township man who began bleeding internally last year. He was released recently from the hospital but he still owes the blood bank more than 65 pints of blood.

News in Brief

Julius Van Acker, 59, of 51 Ardmore reported to Pontiac police that a radio, pocket watch, insurance papers and $40 in old coins and currency were stolen in a break-in of his home yesterday.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q—As a young worker for Economics Laboratory years ago I bought 50 shares at $10.60 each before the stock went public. I now own 792 shares from splits and stock dividends. We also have 62 American Telephone and 20 Long Island Lighting. My husband, retiring soon, wants to switch Am. Telephone into more Econ. Lab., but I would prefer to sell the latter gradually year by year — after our tax rates drop at age 65 — and buy good income stocks. What do you advise?—W.M.

A—You have profited handsomely from a strong growth situation and I congratulate you on your good fortune.

I favor your gradual switching plan from Economics Laboratory into the best dividend payers then available. You will need income to supplement your husband's Social Security. I would also hold Am Telephone and Long Island Lighting, not only for income but also for the growth anticipated in their respective industries.

* * *

Q—Now 50 years old, I am a semiskilled workman responsible for a disabled brother who draws small Social Security benefits. We own an old house in a changing neighborhood and these securities: 14 Alcoa debentures 5¼s of 1991; 100 Std. Oil of California; 100 Tri-Continental and 200 Belding Hemminway. Can I make any changes likely to benefit my retirement plans?—M.S.

A—Try to sell your house as advantageously as possible and buy a smaller one—on which upkeep might be less—in an area where values are rising. You are to be commended for selecting a good list of securities which at the present time requires no change.

Belding Heminway, your most speculative holding, is evidencing renewed growth and should be retained for its maximum potential. While you continue to work you probably can afford to keep one situation with a low dividend return. If you come out ahead on your real-estate deal, your profits can be reinvested in new growth opportunities presented through this column.

Doe Fares Well in Denver Snow

DENVER, Col. (AP)—Thursday's early morning snowstorm caught more than Denver residents by surprise. Several deer were apparently driven from the foothills by the blast. One was struck and killed on a Denver street.

A doe had better luck, however. She wandered into a gas station and was treated to a candy bar and milk by attendant Mike Sorensen. The doe spent the night at the city pound and was to be returned to the mountains today.

CITY OF KEEGO HARBOR
COUNTY OF OAKLAND

The City of Keego Harbor ordains:

Section 1. Permission is hereby granted to The Detroit Edison Company, incorporated under the laws of the States of Michigan and New York, its successors and assigns, to construct, maintain and operate in the public streets, highways, alleys and other public places in the City of Keego Harbor, Oakland County, Michigan, all needful and proper poles, towers, mains, wires, pipes, conduits and other apparatus requisite for the transmission, transforming and distribution of electricity for public and private use, and to transact a local electric business within said City, subject, however, to all conditions and restrictions hereinafter contained.

Section 2. The conditions of the foregoing grant are as follows:

A—The grantee shall do no injury to any street, highway, alley or other public place, or to any shade trees, or in any manner disturb or interfere with any water or gas pipes, or with any public or private sewer, now or hereafter laid or constructed by any authorized person or corporation.

B—The City may, in its discretion, grant permission for the trimming of trees when necessary to make the lines safe and accessible, such trimming to be done under its supervision.

C—The construction of the said lines shall be in accordance with the rules and regulations of the Michigan Public Service Commission or its successor.

D—The said grantee, before entering upon any street, highway, alley or other public place for the purpose of erecting and constructing any poles, mains, wires, pipes, conduits, or other apparatus, shall in writing notify the City or its representatives of the proposed construction, and shall, if the City so requires, file with them a sufficient plan and specification, showing the nature and extent of the proposed erection and construction.

E—No street, highway, alley or public place shall be allowed to remain open or encumbered by the construction work of the said grantee for a longer period than shall be necessary to execute the said work, and the grantee shall at all times conform to all ordinances of the City, now or hereafter in force, relative to the fencing and lighting of obstructions and excavations.

F—The grantee shall save the City harmless from any judgment that may be recovered against the City by reason of the wrongdoing or negligence of the said grantee in the erection and maintenance of said poles, mains, wires and other apparatus or construction.

G—Said grantee shall make due provision upon forty-eight hours' notice in writing by raising its wires or otherwise, for the passage of any barn, building or other structure on or over any street, highway or public place occupied by the mains, wires, poles and apparatus of said grantee.

H—This franchise is not exclusive.

Section 3. In consideration of the granting of this franchise, grantee agrees that its rates and charges for electric service in the City of Keego Harbor shall not exceed its rates and charges for like service elsewhere in its service area, evidenced by its uniform rate schedules at the time on file with and approved by the Michigan Public Service Commission. It is understood that the grantee is subject to regulation by the Michigan Public Service Commission and that any order, rule, or regulation by that Commission, or its successor, will prevail over any regulation herein contained or provided for in case of conflict.

Section 4. This grant shall take effect if said grantee shall, within fifteen days from the date of the passage of this ordinance, file with the City Clerk its written acceptance of the terms of the same, and upon the confirmation of this grant, by the affirmative vote of three-fifths of the electors of said City, voting thereon at a special election to be held on ...., the .... day of ...., 19 , as provided for by the Statutes and the State Constitution.

If not confirmed by the electors voting at said election, this ordinance shall be null and void.

Section 5. This Franchise and Ordinance shall be and remain in force for thirty (30) years from and after the date of its confirmation by the electors of the City of Keego Harbor, Oakland County, Michigan.

Section 6. Nothing in this grant shall be construed to alienate the title of the public in and to any street, highway, alley or public place or any portion thereof, neither shall anything herein be construed in any manner as a surrender by the City of Keego Harbor of its legislative power with respect to the subject matter hereof, or with respect to any other matter whatsoever; nor as in any manner limiting the right of the said City of Keego Harbor to lawfully regulate the use of any street, avenue, highway or public place within its jurisdiction.

Supervisors Aim to Lend Public an Ear

An attempt to give the public a chance to be heard during Oakland County Board of Supervisors meetings probably will be made by the new 27-man board.

* * *

The Democratic caucus Wednesday night in Southfield took up the matter in a discussion of bylaws. The public time was recommended by a committee studying bylaws and committee structure, according to Philip O. Mastin, Democratic Caucus chairman.

* * *

Lee Walker of Madison Heights is chairman of the special study committee with Lawrence Pernick of Oak Park as vice chairman. Alex Perinoff of Southfield, William Richardson of Royal Oak, James Matthews and George Grba, both of Pontiac, and Niles Olson of Orion Township are members.

* * *

Mastin said another caucus has been slated for 8 p.m. Thursday. He said the place, probably in the Pontiac area, has not yet been chosen.

* * *

Wednesday night the group discussed issues from 8 p.m. until shortly past midnight. While most of the time was spent on suggested bylaw changes, Mastin said the problem of committee structure was discussed and will be taken up again Thursday.

ENLISTING DESERTERS—Bill Jones, 20, of the United States tells a group in Stockholm, Sweden, that a new "international deserters" organization, with himself as chairman, has established offices in Stockholm, Paris and Tokyo. The poster reads, "GIs are welcome in Europe, but not as soldiers: As Deserters."

'U.S. Supports Viet Programs'

SAIGON (AP) — U.S Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker today promised the United States will support South Vietnam's economic, social and political programs "with greater determination and vigor."

He made the statement in a speech over the U.S. armed forces radio and television network. It was addressed to Americans in Vietnam, in connection with South Vietnam's agreement to join enlarged Paris peace talks.

Bunker said this decision "is a clear demonstration to the people of the world that the Vietnamese people, who have known war for so long and who have fought so courageously, are now prepared to join in the search for peace—a peace that would fulfill their aspirations for the future and would preserve the gains for which they have made so many sacrifices."

He added: "Success in Paris will be determined by events here in Vietnam. In many ways the most difficult phase of our effort in Vietnam is now before us . . . in the villages and in the cities, the government of Vietnam's efforts to provide a better tomorrow to its people through its economic, social and political programs will be supported by us with greater determination and vigor. Our Vietnam friends will not find us wanting in spirit and in action."

Liner Elizabeth Sails From Britain Last Time

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP) — The Queen Elizabeth sounded her mighty siren for the last time in British waters today and sailed off to Florida to the strains of "God Save The Queen."

About 500 Britons gathered at the dock to say farewell as the old Cunard liner ended her 28-year career in the Atlantic.

* * *

Other ships in the harbor sounded their sirens and dockside cranes dipped in a last salute to the 83,000-ton vessel, due to become a floating entertainment and convention center at Port Everglades.

When her sister ship, the Queen Mary, left in October 1967 for her final berth at Long Beach, Calif., 10,000 people turned out, planes flew salutes and warships escorted her out of the English Channel.

But the Elizabeth sailed out like a ghost in a misty dawn, with no passengers and only a skeleton crew.

"This is a very sad occasion," said her master, Commodore Geoffrey Marr. "We are taking the ship out with a British crew to set up a little bit of England in Florida."

She is expected to reach Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Dec. 7 and will wait there until Port Everglades prepares a berth.

Marr said he would stay as master of the ship for at least the next six months, along with some of the crew.

Marr's wife literally got carried away while saying goodbye to her husband. As she was about to leave the ship the gangway moved, she hastily stepped back the liner sailed with her. She was taken off later by a tug.

$18,000 Spent by Plunkett

Expenses Highest for Candidates in County

The cost of winning the post of Oakland County prosecutor came high for Thomas G. Plunkett, according to his campaign expense records filed with the county election department.

Accountings made by his two finance committees reveal that campaign expenditures topped $18,000, by far the most spent by any candidate from Oakland County in the Nov. 5 election.

Richard D. Kuhn, Plunkett's Republican opponent in the race for the $24,000-a-year job, reported expenditures at about $7,500.

Plunkett, chief assistant prosecutor for three years, will take over his new duties Jan. 1.

NUMBER OF VIOLATIONS

The election department reported that a number of candidates are in violation of state election laws for not filing an accounting of their campaign expenses.

The deadline for filing the report was last Monday.

* * *

Those who fail to submit a report could face prosecution. If convicted, they would be sentenced up to two years in prison or be fined $1,000, or both.

A finance committee for State Rep. Loren D. Anderson, R-Waterford Township, reported expenditures at $1,384.

A story in Wednesday's Pontiac Press incorrectly reported that his campaign costs were much higher.

The reported figure included funds paid out by Robert C. Anderson, an unsuccessful candidate for district judge in Waterford Township. His expenses totaled $4,253.

Kelley Asked for Tax Ruling

Legal Limit Exceeded' Claims County Group

The question of whether Oakland County is taxing beyond the legal limit has been forwarded to the state attorney general for an opinion.

Rep. Clifford Smart, R-Walled Lake, said that on behalf of the Oakland County Homeowners an Taxpayers Association, he had forwarded the question.

* * *

A ruling on the matter, he said, is expected to have far-reaching effects.

Oakland County appears to be the only county in Michigan which has interpreted the State Constitution as allowing a taxing body to impose nonvoted taxes over the 15-mill allocated limit for the purpose of implementing and paying construction bonds.

INTERPRETATION

It is also believed to be the only area where an interpretation allows Oakland Intermediate School District to impose taxes as necessary to cover its budget.

Home owners this year questioned the legality of the taxes at the time of county budget adoption.

* * *

The bonding taxes were questioned three years ago by Treasurer James Seeterlin, but a ruling from County Corporation Counsel Robert Allen was accepted which allowed such taxing procedure.

The question has never before gone to the state attorney general. However, the county this year quoted a Michigan Court of Appeals decision in Berrien County which officials said has bearing on the Oakland County case.

* * *

Smart said he did not know when to expect an answer from the state.

SUPERPLANE MOCK-UP—Tests of food and beverage service facilities aboard the outsized airliners of the 1970s required full-sized mock-ups of the planes and hundreds of "passengers." Results were termed satisfactory for Lockheed's L1011 (top) and the McDonnell Douglas DC10 (below). Both planes will feature food preparation centers on a lower deck and multiple aisles for easy service.

Politician Puts Foot in Mouth With Lecture

LONDON (AP) — Sir Dingle Foot, a distinguished British lawyer and politician, admitted he put his foot in his mouth today by inadvertantly giving Her Majesty's judges a lecture on their sex lives.

Foot, former legal adviser to Prime Minister Harold Wilson, quoted the fifth chapter of St. Paul's epistles to the Corinthians before a church congregation of judges and their wives.

* * *

"I actually hear reports of sexual immorality among you," he read. The jurists squirmed.

"Your self-satisfaction ill becomes you," Foot plowed on. "You are judges within the fellowship. Root out the evildoer within your community."

Sir Dingle said later he intended to read from the first chapter of St. Paul's epistles, but by the time he realized he was on the wrong track "it was too late."

The scripture reading occurred at a chapel in Gray's Inn, where many lawyers and judges live and work.

TV-Film Unit Eyes Negro History Role

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Negroes are setting up a panel of 12 historians, white and black, to screen movie and television scripts and make certain that Negro contributions to history aren't neglected.

Caleb Peterson, president of the Hollywood Race Relations Bureau, announced the plans but said there will be no censorship. He said his office wants only to insure that the part "the black man played in that particular era" is properly represented.

Movie studios which reject their demands will be picketed and first-run theaters will be boycotted, he added.

Train Crash Fatal

GRAND JUNCTION (AP) — A Grand Junction man, 75-year-old Andrew Baier, died in a South Haven hospital Thursday of injuries suffered Wednesday when his pickup truck was hit by a train. The crash occurred at the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad tracks in Van Buren County, about 3½ miles south of Grand Junction.

Killed in action were Pfc. Gerard J. Blume Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerard J. Blume Sr. of Mount Morris and Pfc. Curtis E. Braatz, son of Hilda F. Braatz of Charlotte.

Detroit Rape Rate 4th in Big Cities

WASHINGTON (AP) — Detroit has the fourth highest rate of forcible rape among the nation's large cities, according to an analysis by the District of Columbia Public Health Department.

Detroit, according to the analysis, has a rate of 43 cases for every 100,000 population. Los Angeles is first with 51.1 per cent, followed by Baltimore and St. Louis.

20-Year Wait to Chew Meal

FORT HUNTER, N.Y. (AP) — Thursday was a special Thanksgiving day for Laurence Peters. It was the first meal he has been able to chew in 20 years.

Peters, 48, recently underwent surgery to unlock his jaws. An uncommon affliction known as ankylosis had fused both sides of the jaws to the base of his skull.

* * *

His first thoughts were not for turkey, but for something else. "I can hardly wait," he said upon his hospital discharge Wednesday, "to crunch down on a raw carrot."

A retroactive tax is valid and has been imposed by Congress in the past.

Saigon Peace Plan Stresses Cease-Fire

PARIS (AP) — A top South Vietnamese spokesman said today an early cease-fire is a major priority in his government's peace plan, being prepared for presentation at the expanded talks here.

Nguyen Van An, the deputy chief of Saigon's observer mission in Paris, said South Vietnam also will demand "strong and effective international guarantees" in any final settlement.

★ ★ ★

The North Vietnamese and the Vietcong's National Liberation Front have said a cease-fire is unlikely to be discussed until later in the negotiating process. They have said such discussion must be preceded by the withdrawal of American and other foreign troops from South Vietnam.

Van An spoke in an interview as Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, chief of the U.S. delegation, prepared to head home Sunday for a brief Washington visit.

TO CARRY OUT DUTIES

Aides said Harriman plans to carry out duties he has as head of a commission on human rights. He is expected to return to Paris next Thursday or Friday.

Vietnam consultations were not listed as the main reason for his return, but Harriman was expected to confer with Pentagon officials on the forthcoming conference in which Saigon will participate.

★ ★ ★

The expanded parley now is expected to get going in the second week in December. The Saigon delegation, whose absence held up the meeting for a month, is due in Paris next week.

Hanoi's insistence that it will only talk to the United States and the refusal of South Vietnam and the NLF to recognize each other will make four-way conversation difficult when the expanded talks begin.

U.S. DOUBTFUL

Van An indicated the Saigon delegation will present its peace plan to the conference after the parley gets past initial procedural debate and concentrates on issues of substance.

U.S. diplomats have tended to doubt the realism of pressing for a cease-fire as the first negotiating item to end the guerrilla-type war.

★ ★ ★

Instead, they have been considering ways to bargain for de-escalation as a first step toward eventually ending all hostilities.

Yanks Chasing Fleeing Enemy After Big Fight

SAIGON (AP) — Helicopter-borne U.S. Air Cavalrymen leapfrogged along the Cambodian border today in pursuit of enemy troops fleeing to their sanctuaries after fierce Thanksgiving Day fighting.

U.S. headquarters said 25 enemy soldiers were killed in one battle during which helicopters and Air Force bombers sprayed the area with machine gun fire, rockets, bombs and cannons. No U.S. casualties were reported.

★ ★ ★

The new action raised to 288 the number of enemy troops killed in the last two days and to 426 the number of enemy slain since the first of the week in major fighting along the Cambodian border north of Saigon.

U.S. losses for the same period were 26 killed and 54 wounded. South Vietnam lost 10 dead and 20 wounded.

HEAVIEST IN 2 MONTHS

It was the heaviest fighting in the area since mid-September when a drive by the Communist command against the border provinces was beaten back.

★ ★ ★

The U.S. Command said constant pressure is being maintained on the 15,000 to 20,000 enemy troops believed deployed along the 100-mile stretch of Cambodian border.

In Laos, a country through which North Vietnam funnels the bulk of its supplies and troops along the Ho Chi Minh trail, to South Vietnam the Cabinet was called into emergency session today.

★ ★ ★

The group met to discuss reports of impending attack by 30,000 North Vietnamese troops on Attopeu and Saravane, two towns in the corner-formed by Cambodia and northern South Vietnam. A Laotian army general said the move would follow attacks on Ban Thateng, 25 miles south of Saravane on Wednesday.

Gas Danger Forces 15 Families to Flee

MARSHALL (AP) — A red tag on the front of your house means danger if you live in Marshall, Mich., where about 15 families had to flee a series of highly volatile, unexplained natural gas geysers early Thanksgiving Day.

Thunderous rumblings and 20-foot geysers forced the evacuation of a half-mile-square area yesterday.

Water pressure in wells rose sharply. Swampland bubbled. A 20-foot section of paved street was torn as a geyser of gaseous water erupted from the middle of the rubble.

"It looks like Yellowstone Park down there," said geologist James Woodruff of the State Conservation Department, motioning toward the Kalamazoo River bank, where most of the gas appeared to be escaping.

'LOTS OF BUBBLING'

"There aren't any more big geysers, but a lot of bubbling," he said, adding the eruptions could begin anew.

The level of the Kalamazoo River dropped roughly seven feet in the area about the same time that an explosion ripped through the house of Raymond Kulzick and his family, who were away on a visit. Damage to the house was estimated to be $25,000.

Calhoun County Sheriff Joseph Liebheer theorized the explosion was caused by a spark from a heater in the basement as fumes seeped up through the basement floor.

Authorities were unable to explain the water level drop in the river.

NO LEAKS

Geologists in the area said the gas seepages were almost surely natural, and a check by gas company workers disclosed no leaks.

It was the second time in a month that mysterious underground gas pressure built up in Lower Michigan.

Earlier a seven-mile square area at Lee Township, about 12 miles away in south central Michigan, was punctuated by the gas-and-water geysers.

Geologists then determined the geysers had something to do with an oil well shaft being drilled. The well casing was filled with a large quantity of concrete and the situation appeared to clear up.

One mining expert said he doubted the Marshall and Lee incidents were connected. He said the gases sealed off at Lee would have had to travel 12 miles at a level 4,000 feet beneath the surface because of rock strata in the area.

Another Blast at Mine; Verdict Near on Sealing

MANNINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — Another "major explosion" ripped through No. 9 today, spewing smoke and flame from the mine's Llewellyn portal near the area where 78 men have been trapped nine days.

The early-morning blast, the 16th since the initial explosion Nov. 20, sent flames and a column of white smoke spiraling above the entrance.

★ ★ ★

Officials directing efforts to rescue the entombed miners promised a "very, very comprehensive evaluation" of the situation within the sprawling mine today.

Drillings made by boring through to the deep caverns below produced air samples showing high concentrations of deadly carbon monoxide and dangerous methane gas.

'CRITICAL PLACE'

Peter P. Ferretti, a vice president of Consolidation Coal Co., said the latest testings last night were taken from an area where the men had been trained to go in case of disaster.

★ ★ ★

He described the testing area as a "very critical place." The carbon monoxide level was 50 times human capability while the methane concentration was 26.4 per cent. He said there is danger of explosion when methane reaches a level of between 5 and 15 per cent.

Ferretti said "we will make some decision" after the evaluation today.

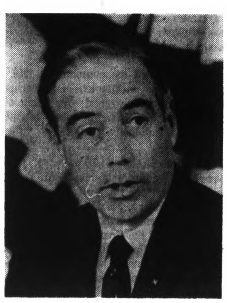
'DOESN'T LOOK GOOD'

Ferretti was asked last night if the mine would be sealed if the drill sites showed the same deadly air samples.

"He replied: "I can't comment on that. This, of course, is a possibility. All the information at this time doesn't look good. It doesn't look encouraging."

The mine normally draws air from one opening, through the tunnels and out another opening. When methane builds up, the officials said, the flow is reversed and air is drawn in from both ends. This feeds the fire which in turn ignites the methane and produces an explosion.

Scranton to Tour Mideast



WILLIAM SCRANTON

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Richard M. Nixon will send former Gov. William S. Scranton of Pennsylvania to Israel and neighboring Arab nations next week to bring himself up to the minute on the potentially explosive Mideast situation.

It was learned late yesterday that Nixon will send Scranton on the trip to gather information Nixon will need as chief executive. Among the Arab countries that are expected to be on the itinerary are the United Arab Republic, Jordan, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia and Iran.

★ ★ ★

The fact that this was Nixon's second overseas assignment for Scranton since the beginning of the presidential campaign added new impetus to speculation that Scranton might be tapped for either secretary of state or U.S. ambassador to the United Nations in the new administration.

Scranton, after returning from a European fact-finding mission for Nixon, said he had no further aspirations for official positions. But he steered clear of declaring he would not accept a high post were one offered.

CHALLENGED GOLDWATER

In 1964, Scranton made an unsuccessful effort to wrest the GOP presidential nomination from Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

Aides said Nixon is meeting today with staff advisers—not callers from outside the inner circle. Next week the flow of appointments with outsiders will resume—before the president-elect takes off Thursday for a few days in California that will encompass an address before the Republican Governors Association meeting at Palm Springs.

★ ★ ★

The Nixon family made a flying visit to Washington yesterday to share Thanksgiving with ailing former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and his family.

Nixon later reported he spent about 45 minutes with Eisenhower, recuperating from a series of heart attacks at Walter Reed Army Medical Center. He said they discussed "staffing of the new administration" and that Eisenhower gave him "some good advice and council."

The President-elect expressed hope he could meet again with the former chief executive before completing his selections for top federal positions.

But Eisenhower was not well enough to join the others as they dined on an Army-prepared Thanksgiving dinner in a small ward dining room. So members of the two families took turns joining Eisenhower for a course served in his sick room.

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan Blue Cross announced today it proposes to raise rates an average of 4.6 per cent next April 1 for 577,000 of the 4.7 million who buy hospital insurance from it.

Utility Strike Next in Line to Stymie NY Labor Peace

NEW YORK (AP) — Network television musicians are playing again. Workers at state mental hospitals have returned to the wards, and Long Island Rail Road engineers are back on the track. A labor peace? Not yet — now utility workers are set to walk out.

New Yorkers, who have already weathered police and firemen slowdowns and teachers and sanitationmen's strikes in 1968, braced today for a Sunday walkout by 20,000 workers at the Consolidated Edison Co.

★ ★ ★

Charles F. Luce, Con Ed board chairman, told 9 million customers yesterday to expect "less than normal service" if the walkout occurs and appealed to the public to limit electrical usage during peak demand hours from 4 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Luce said 4,000 supervisors would attempt to provide "essential" gas and electrical service for an indefinite period. "We are confident we can operate the system," he said, but added, "It will be a challenge."

SURPRISED LEADERS

The workers, members of Local 1-2 of the AFL-CIO Utility Workers of America, surprised their leaders and Con Ed officials by rejecting a proposed two-year contract Wednesday.

Meanwhile, the commuting challenge for 90,000 daily riders on the Long Island Rail Road appeared ended. Line officials said they expected "full service" but warned of possible delays due to new timetables.

Nonprofessional workers who struck four state mental hospitals, disrupting the lives of thousands of patients for more than a week, began returning to the wards yesterday.

Finally, a 28-day strike of musicians against the three major radio and television networks ended yesterday with the announcement that members had voted 270-263 to accept a new two-year contract.

Fair, a Bit Warmer Due for December

It looks like December will arrive tomorrow night fair and somewhat warmer than tonight's forecast.

The U.S. Weather Bureau official day-by-day prediction for the weekend looks like this:

TODAY — Cloudy and colder with occasional light snow or snow flurries, mixed with some light rain or drizzle. High 34 to 39, with temperature mostly steady or slowly falling. Gradual clearing and colder tonight, low 19 to 24.

TOMORROW — Fair becoming a little warmer in the afternoon.

SUNDAY — Fair and warmer.

Showers dumped 1.35 inches in rain on the Pontiac area on Thanksgiving Day. A few snow flurries were mixed with the rain during early evening.

A dismal 32 was the low temperature prior to 8 a.m. today in downtown Pontiac. The 12:30 p.m. reading was 30.

Whitmer Surveys Superschool Obstacles

Barring delays in the State Legislature or in the construction work, Pontiac Schools Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer feels there will be few obstacles in the construction of Pontiac's west side super high school.

WHITMER

The site for the new $19-million school—65 acres of Pontiac State Hospital land — was selected last week over a 55-acre center city site around Orchard Lake Avenue and Bagley.

The site for the high school, which will serve 4,500 students, had been the object of considerable controversy for several months.

★ ★ ★

For many people supporting the center site, the selection of the hospital location was seen as a sign of continuation of the decay of downtown Pontiac and further division of the races.

Funds for the construction will come from a $23-million bond issue approved by Pontiac School District voters last March.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

The following questions on the new super high school were presented to Dr. Whitmer by The Pontiac Press.

Q: Is the $18,750,000 which citizens voted for the school sufficient to do the job in the light of the delays which seem to pile up?

A: We think so. We have estimated the costs to take in the greatest increases expected through inflation. The cost figures are based on completion in three years of the new high school, on 550,000 square feet of area at $27.50 per square foot for construction.

★ ★ ★

Q: What are the delays?

A: There is a potential delay for the state hospital site, in that the purchase of the state-owned land by the board of education must be approved by the State Legislature. The next session opens after the first of the year, but we don't know how long it will take before the purchase is approved.

★ ★ ★

"The proposed central city site would have included many more delays, such as the formulation of the Neighborhood Development Program. Before starting construction there, it would have also required a study and approval of the project by Housing and Urban Development; appraisal, negotiations and probable condemnation of properties at the site; relocation of the people; land clearance; and the progression of the river and drain project.

★ ★ ★

Q: Will a halt in construction for the length of time required to handle the delays add materially to cost?

A: The increase in costs caused by the delay would depend primarily on inflation during that time. It is estimated it would have taken one or two years longer on the center site than the hospital site. This would have boosted construction costs another $3.5 to $4.5 million.

Q: Will a halt in construction also disrupt the schedule for adequately handling the total school population?

A: A halt could almost completely put the schedule at a standstill, since the key to the schedule is the new high school.

We would be unable to proceed with other moves for reorganization and accommodation of the enrollment. The long-range plan for reorganization includes the two four-year high schools; converting the junior highs to include sixth, seventh and eighth grades; and making the elementary K-5 (Kindergarten to fifth grade).

Upon completion of the new high school, the current Central High School would be converted to a middle school. This reorganization should solve all of

Protests Temper Mood of Holiday

By the Associated Press

The traditional "thanks" of Thanksgiving Day, a holiday uniquely American among nations of the world, was tempered this year by scattered protests over those in need in a land of plenty.

While thousands of families sat down to turkey dinners with all the trimmings, 10 members of the War Resistors League fasted outside a fashionable Beverly Hills, Calif., restaurant charging that "Americans are gluttons while millions starve."

During the annual Macy's Thanksgiving Day parade in Manhattan, featuring eight giant helium-filled balloons of cartoon characters, welfare protestors handed out leaflets to many of the 2.5 million spectators, at least half of them reading, "Thanks for nothing."

A spokesman said the protest was staged to show that "many thousands of poor children in this city and country will face empty plates today."

END FAST

At Albany College, 10 students and an adviser ended a four-day fast yesterday aimed at calling attention to hunger.

But thousands of the "have nots" also sat down to holiday dinners, thanks to social agencies and organizations such as the Salvation Army, which played host to 1,900 homeless or needy at centers it operates in Manhattan, Brooklyn, the Bronx and Staten Island in New York City.

* * *

Two churches, in Harlem and the Bedford Stuvesant section of Brooklyn, served needy or aged neighbors in church halls.

Symbolizing the holiday scene around the nation was the family gathering on the Texas ranch of President and Mrs. Johnson, celebrating with their daughters, grandchildren and friends.

SONS-IN-LAW MISSING

Missing from the Johnson festive board—again typical of hundreds of homes across the land—were the Johnsons' sons-in-law, Airman 1.C. Patrick J. Nugent and Marine Maj. Charles S. Robb, both serving in Vietnam. The two young men were among 536,000 U.S. troops eating holiday dinners far from their native hearth.

President-elect Richard M. Nixon, Mrs. Nixon and their daughters, Tricia and Julie, had Thanksgiving dinner in Walter Reed Army Medical Center, where former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is recovering from his seventh heart attack.

* * *

Eisenhower enjoyed what was described as "a somewhat modified turkey dinner" in his private room.

He was joined later by Nixon; John Eisenhower, son of the former chief executive, and David, the elder Eisenhower's grandson, soon to become Nixon's son-in-law.

Near Mannington, W.Va., the tragedy of a coal mine disaster which trapped 79 men threw a pall over the entire community. Two girls from VISTA—Volunteers in Service to America— spent their holiday packing lunches for scores of men still trying to reach the entombed miners at the scene.

our capacity problems for at least five years.

Q: Is there anything now that stops the school board from starting immediately on the west side school project as approved?

A: Construction cannot start immediately, because we have a year of architectural work to do.

Also, while waiting for approval of the purchase by the Legislature, we can simultaneously proceed with the preliminary phases of architectural planning.

* * *

Q: Do you think the hospital site is too far from the center of your school population?

A: Geographically, the site looks fairly well-centered in the section of the district to be served. Most of the population is in the southernmost part of the district and the hospital site is within the south half.

Although it is a little north of the most populated area, we don't believe it is too far from this area, as the northern half of the district is expected to grow rapidly.

Waterford to Air School Issues

Three public information sessions on the proposed millage increase and bond issue in the Waterford Township School District will be held next week, Supt. Dr. Don O. Tatroe said today.

The meetings will be held at Crary Junior High, 501 N. Cass Lake, on Monday; Mason Junior High, 3835 W. Walton, on Tuesday; and Pierce Junior High, 5145 Hatchery, on Wednesday.

* * *

Each program will begin at 7:30 p.m. and will be conducted by Fred Poole and Bruce Annett, cochairmen of the information campaign.

* * *

On Dec. 7, school district voters will be asked to approve a nine-mill tax hike for operations for two years, and a $10.8-million bond issue for construction needs. The bond issue will not increase taxes.

* * *

School officials have estimated that the nine mills would provide the district with an additional $1.5 million annually for operations.

U.S. Road Toll Mounts

By The Associated Press

The nation's Thanksgiving holiday traffic death toll climbed steadily today as the long weekend approached the halfway mark.

The count since the four-day weekend began at 6 p.m. Wednesday reached 198 early today. The survey of highway deaths continues to midnight Sunday. During a recent nonholiday weekend of equal length, The Associated Press counted 530 traffic fatalities.

The National Safety Council did not estimate what the weekend toll might be. It classifies Thanksgiving Day as a stay-at-home holiday which produces no unusual traffic volume.

SS Officers Get Prison

DARMSTADT, Germany (AP) — A criminal court today convicted seven former Nazi SS officers of complicity in the World War II murder of 60,000 Jews in the Ukraine. All were sentenced to prison terms.

* * *

Three other defendants accused of participating in the slayings in Kiev and Kharkov during the last six months of 1941 also were found guilty. But the court ruled their degree of guilt did not warrant prison terms.

Petition Drive Asks School-Site Change

By BOB WISLER

The pressure is on again to change the Pontiac Board of Education's decision to locate the school district's planned super high school on the site of Pontiac State Hospital.

Voice of Oakland County Action League (VOCAL) has begun a petition drive that its leaders hope will sway the school board into changing its Nov. 18 decision. VOCAL's goal is 10,000 signers.

* * *

Behind the scenes, business and civic leaders have been exerting influence in attempts to change the minds of school board members.

A reliable source has indicated that some attempt may be made in the state Legislature to block the sale of the state-owned Pontiac State Hospital site to the school board, and one prominent Negro state legislator has pledged his support.

LODGE CONTACTED

The school district officials have already contacted State Sen. L. Harvey Lodge, R-Waterford Township, to ask that he take the steps necessary to sell the land to the school board as soon as possible. The Legislature must authorize sale of the hospital site land.

The school board voted 4-3 on Nov. 18 to proceed with construction of the much-discussed super high school, a three-school complex for 4,500 students, on the hospital grounds. The decision was reached only after it had become a community controversy.

* * *

There is strong support in the city for abandoning the plans for building the school on the hospital site in the city's north side. Opponents claim that the school should instead be built on a 45-to-65-acre site in the Bagley-Wessen-Orchard Lake area, a predominately Negro section.

* * *

The latter site was proposed as an alternative to the hospital site in a $26,000 study completed recently by David E. Lewis, a Pittsburgh urban planner. The Pontiac Area Planning Council, an advisory group to the school board, and the board's Committee on Human Relations both voted overwhelmingly for the central city site.

STEPS INTO CONTROVERSY

VOCAL entered the controversy when the report was released. The organization, formed to combat racism, suggested that the school should not be built on the hospital site, but instead should be constructed on Pontiac's 27 acres of downtown urban renewal land. The 27 acres alone would not be enough for the type of school planned.

Albert Shaw, acting chairman of VOCAL, said the organization hopes to collect as many signatures as possible and thinks that 10,000 is a realistic goal. The petitions ask that the school board reconsider its Nov. 18 decision and choose instead to build the school on a central city site.

* * *

Shaw said VOCAL leaders have not indicated on the petitions preference for the Bagley-Wessen area or the downtown site.

Shaw said VOCAL has several objections to the hospital site. The board decision, he said, is another indication that those making the decisions prefer to ignore what black people want.

'LABORIOUS' TO REACH

He said the hospital site would be "laborious" to reach for black students and this factor would only add to the Negro dropout rate.

School district officials maintain that switching sites to the central city area would cost another $3 mill to $5 million and a delay in completion of the school, at least one year and probably much more.

* * *

Shaw said VOCAL feels these are no longer viable reasons in light of the sociological problems the city and country are facing. "The problem of money can be solved a lot more easily than the socialogical problems caused by the lack of awareness of the white community," he said.

* * *

Construction of the school in the central city area would be possible under a federal program — Neighborhood Development Program — which could draw federal funds for acquisition of property, relocation of residents and razing of buildings in the area.

FIRST STEP TAKEN

Pontiac's City Commission this week took a first step toward a possible NDP program by authorizing a study and recommendations on an NDP area and methods to be used.

The city's planning staff likely will bring back recommendations in three to four weeks.

Meadow Brook's Holiday Fare Well-Done

'Magistrate' Definitely Is Not a Turkey

By DON BRAUNAGEL

Opening a play on Thanksgiving is risky. There is a horrible temptation for reviewers to find some reason to call it a turkey.

Fortunately, Meadow Brook Theatre's second production of the season, Sir Arthur Wing Pinero's comedy "The Magistrate," escapes that fate. It is more like a sandwich — two bland parts with a lot of meat in the middle, seasoned with good acting.

* * *

Like last season's "Charley's Aunt," "Magistrate" is a late-19th-century farce about a group of proper Britishers victimized by some highly improbable circumstances.

The first act drags a bit in setting up these circumstances. A woman, widowed with a son, has recently remarried. To her visiting sister, she confides that she told her new husband, the magistrate, that she was five years younger than she is, and since she had to follow through, she convinced everyone that her 19-year-old son is really 14.

THE PLOT THICKENS

Then the sister receives a note from her fiance, breaking their engagement. The magistrate gets word that an old friend, a retired colonel who knew his wife and her first husband, is in town. The wife sets out to intercept the colonel who is dining with his friend, the sister's ex-fiance. With the mother gone, the son talks his stepfather into going into town with him. And so on.

* * *

Naturally, they all wind up at the same hotel, and it's here that the farce is zestiest, with people constantly scampering in and out of hiding places, including a balcony in a pouring rain. A police raid culminates the action, with only the magistrate and son escaping. And it's not hard to figure out which magistrate the culprits go before.

* * *

Having put these hapless characters through this trauma, Pinero resolves everything happily, if a bit weakly. It's somewhat hard to believe that a 19-year-old actually thought he was 14, but this is minor compared the coincidences that have gone before.

* * *

What makes this production special is the acting. Director Douglas Seale (who also appears in a minor role) elicited uniformly good performances from all the players, with excellence from a few.

BERRY AT HIS BEST

Eric Berry, who has been consistently good through Meadow Brook's three seasons, was at his best as the straitlaced magistrate gone wrong, and Richard Curnock, who directed the season-opener, "The Apple Cart," properly sniffed and kept a stiff upper lip as the unflappable colonel. The confrontation between these two in the courtroom was masterful.

Other good performances were by Rowe as her son, although in his 14-year-old phase, he used a strange gait which, with his too-short pants, made him look like a Charlie Chaplin imitator.

* * *

Special credit goes to Chris Thee for some elaborate and ornate sets. Oil-lamp tops over the footlights added to the period look.

"The Magistrate" will continue through Dec. 29. Following, on Jan. 2, will be the world premiere of tragi-comedy, "The Second Coming of Bert."

A tanker and two Navy ships were pulled from the dock when the fire broke out yesterday. The blaze left one fire fighter dead and 28 injured and did $250,000 damage.

1 Dead, 28 Hurt Fighting Pier Blaze

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Fire believed caused by a cable short circuit under a pier roared through a dock area, leaving one fireman dead, 28 others injured and an estimated $250,000 damage.

Henry C. Gronnerud, 41, a 12-year veteran fireman, was killed early today when he stepped onto a high-voltage wire at the scene. Most of the injuries were from smoke inhalation.

Twenty-six boats helped battle the flames, which broke out on the underside of the dock Thursday.

* * *

Quick work by Todd Shipyard officials may have saved three vessels from heavy damage as tugs towed the three—a tanker and two Navy ships—away from their moorings soon after the fire broke out. A small blaze on the tanker was extinguished quickly.

Heavily-creosoted pilings aflame sent clouds of smoke high into the air over Puget Sound.

* * *

It was the second major fire at Todd Shipyards since Aug. 13.

A 12-year study of 6,329 distinguished men listed in the 1950 edition of "Who's Who in America" revealed that they had a mortality rate averaging 30 per cent below that of white males in the general population.

Japan Cabinet Resigns as Sato Eyes New Picks

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese Cabinet members today submitted their resignations en masse to Prime Minister Eisaku Sato, who will form a new cabinet following his reelection to a third two-year term as president of the ruling Liberal Democratic party.

* * *

The post assures Sato the premiership because of the party's parliamentary majority.

Kakuei Tanaka, an influential leader in the party, was reported to have accepted Sato's offer of the job of party secretary general.

* * *

After the selection of other top party executives, Sato and the new party leadership will confer on the selection of a new Cabinet. The lineup is expected to be finalized Sunday or Monday.

Police Have Group Therapy to Ease Stress

SAUSALITO, Calif. (AP) — The uniformed policemen sat in a circle. In their midst sat a psychiatrist.

Out poured talk of the Negro civil rights battle, the American flag, China, right and wrong, Hitler, homosexuality — and a dozen other subjects.

★ ★ ★

This was group therapy in the headquarters of the 26-man police force in Sausalito, a tourist town of 7,000 year-round residents across the Golden Gate Bridge from San Francisco.

★ ★ ★

The sessions are mandatory once a month for the entire police force, and from time to time in smaller groups when enough men are interested.

STRESS TOLERANCE

When an officer feels he has a serious problem, he can consult privately with the man who runs the therapy program, Dr. Edward E. Shev, an internationally noted psychiatrist and neurologist.

★ ★ ★

The aim of it all is to put on the streets of Sausalito mature men who will not allow themselves to be provoked and will not crack under stress.

★ ★ ★

Sausalito raises steeply from a waterfront almost solidly packed with yachts to houses that cling to precipitous hills. The place is a study in contrasts, a human mishmash of pot-smoking hippies, barefoot poverty stricken, millionaires, intellectuals, peace symbols, bric-a-brac joints, bookstalls, yacht chandleries, great restaurants and bad ones.

Sausalito is a bedroom community. Most residents work in San Francisco, a few miles south.

NO RACIAL STRAIN

Sausalito has no Negro district, and not many Negroes live there.

★ ★ ★

The police chief is burly but sensitive Edward S. Kreins, 34. He took over the department 2½ years ago after 10 years as sergeant of police training and personnel at nearby Hayward.

★ ★ ★

Shev, a Sausalito resident, regards himself a part of the police department inasmuch as he examined every man now in service — including Kreins.

Sitting on the rim of the circle, Shev eyes the 16-man group at the impromptu session, and tells observers, "I want you to know you're meeting the hammiest bunch of guys . . ."

REACTION TO MILITANTS

Catcalls put Shev in his place. After some banter about the doctor's ties, Detective Kevin Sharp asked whether it was good or bad for black society that Negro Olympic athletes Tommie Smith and John Carlos had given the militant Black Panther salute at the games.

"I don't know what the general reaction would be," said Shev. "What was yours?"

★ ★ ★

"I felt they had a right to protest," said Sharp. "But they broke away from tradition that made it a whole reflection on America."

Shev explained that Sharp was displaying a later stage of loyalty, begun first in the family, then expanded to country.

INTERESTING PARALLEL

"What the hell's the difference between that, the salute and the fact that United States was the only country that refused to dip the national flag?" cut in Kreins. He continued hotly:

"Is that any more of an insult to the president of Mexico than when a Negro gets up and gives the Black Panther salute . . .?"

★ ★ ★

Sgt. Tom Cain: "What the salute represented was black unity, not the Black Panthers . . ."

Cain said if he had to choose between the Black Panthers and the Ku Klux Klan he'd choose the Panthers because "they're less destructive and represent all the blacks."

NO BLACKS PRESENT

All the officers at the session were Caucasian, except Gary Gee, a Chinese-American.

Somebody said Gee had his friends in the Tong, a Chinese secret association, and everybody roared.

★ ★ ★

"Yellow power!" they shouted.

Shev: "No more yellow peril, eh? Now it's yellow power." And he joined the laughter.

"All joking aside," said Shev, ". . . how do you feel, should the Oriental community break away from the traditional patterns and become more vocal and verbal?"

Gee: "It seems they have the lowest crime rate because of close family ties . . ."

★ ★ ★

Shev: "This is changing — look at San Francisco . . ."

Sadly, Gee, agreed it was true.

KIND OF PROTEST

Shef shifted gears, telling the group, "You're minority people . . . let's say you're on the other side of the coin of bad newspaper publicity . . . they're really giving you the business.

"How would you go about getting up some kind of protest?"

★ ★ ★

What, he asked, would they do to attract public attention to the problems police face.

Cain: "That's why we're having these sessions. Through psychiatry we can better understand ourselves. And if we can better understand ourselves, we can better understand people in the street."

PSYCHIATRIC METHOD

Gears shifted again, Shev addressing Sharp.

"You want to talk about the thing we discussed the last time, the sudden realization of your new problem?"

Sharp: "No, I don't mind. Prior to my son being born I didn't have the same feeling. Since my son has been born, maybe I'm a little more cautious about what I do. I want to go home to see my son . . . I want to live long enough to see him grow up . . ."

Shev: "You're not going to be as impulsive as you were in the past?"

3-POINT PLAN

Sharp said he didn't think he would be.

In his San Francisco office, Shev said the therapy program has three points:

- Choose policemen who will be mature, not psychotic, and emotionally able to stand stress.
- "A continuous educational program for the men in the department . . . discovering problems on which they get hung up or up-tight about."
- Individual consultation for those who may have some hangup developing."

Shev, who represented the United States at the International Congress of Neurology and Psychiatry in 1961, gets $30 for a 45-minute private session, the rate Sausalito pays him.

The therapy program was started over two years ago and marked by high skepticism among policemen.

SKEPTICISM ANSWERED

Gradually, resistance to the program broke down and most of the men became sold on it, he said.

Patrolmen earn a monthly wage ranging from $644 to $782, plus five per cent if they have a college degree in police science.

Is the program working?

"Obviously," said Kreins.

"Our statistics show the Sausalito crime rate has been cut in half in the past two years, while the arrest rate has tripled. We have not had a single complaint filed against a police officer since the program began."

4 Synagogues to Get Scrolls

NEW YORK (AP) — Four synagogues which have been targets in a recent series of religious desecrations are each going to receive a priceless torah from the Israeli government.

Saying "If a scroll is damaged we are in mourning," Rehaveam Amir, the Israeli consul general, explained that the ancient documents of the Hebrew scribes would help replace religious articles damaged in several synagogue fires.

★ ★ ★

Eleven Jewish houses of worship have been desecrated during the last three months. Ten persons, including seven teen-agers, have been arrested in connection with the incidents.

Mayor John V. Lindsay, who had requested Israeli help in replacing the scrolls, joined Amir in the announcement.

★ ★ ★

He has directed increased police protection for all city houses of worship.

Walkaways Held in Ohio

IRONTON, Ohio (AP)—Lawrence County authorities have arrested two escaped prisoners from Cassidy Lake Prison Farm.

★ ★ ★

Harry Pyles, 22, and Rodney Knapp, 21, had walked off the facility near Jackson, Mich., the evening of Nov. 19. Pyles was serving a 1½-2 year term for auto theft, and Knapp had been sentenced to 2-14 years on a bad check charge.

★ ★ ★

The two men were picked up Wednesday at the home of one of Pyles' relatives near Ironton, Ohio.

The largest astroid, Ceres, is 480 miles in diameter.

We'd say compare Nova SS with its closest competition.

If anything came close.

Nobody else has anything like the Chevy Nova SS. Even if they did, they probably couldn't match its price.

The Nova SS comes onto the scene with power disc brakes, beefed-up suspension, dual exhausts—the works.

Under that domed hood is a standard 350-cubic-inch 300-hp V8. For even more varoom, you can add a 350-hp or 375-hp version of the Turbo-Jet 396.

On the floor is a 3-speed shifter that shifts like it's part of your hand.

On the wheels are red stripe wide oval tires.

You can get the whole Nova SS story at your Chevy dealer's Sports Shop.

Even if the competition came close to Nova SS, we wouldn't worry. Close only counts in horseshoes.

Putting you first, keeps us first. CHEVROLET

Plan for Yule: Faster Mail

Fewer Workers, More Efficiency U.S. Goal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson said today he plans to deliver more Christmas mail this year with fewer workers by using a "command post" which will drag some postmasters from bed for 3 a.m. weather and mail load reports.

"We believe we have a plan that will allow us to move what is anticipated to be 10 billion pieces of mail from about Thanksgiving to Christmas day," Watson said in an interview.

* * *

"We further believe that should there be problems in any given area or given post office, we'll be able to determine the problem, which will allow us some opportunity to transfer some of that mail away from that particular point" for sorting elsewhere.

Watson said he understood that last year, the post office employed something between 120,000 and 125,000 seasonal and part-time people for the Christmas rush of mail. "This year," Watson said. "We estimate we will not employ over 55,000.

SOME OVERTIME

"We believe that by using trained personnel and paying them some overtime, the economics will be better and the efficiency will be better."

The "command post," down the hall from Watson's gymnasium-sized office, will field phone calls on precise schedules. Postal officials throughout the nation will report on everything from the weather to the length of noontime lines at their parcel post windows.

* * *

Watson who will lose his job Jan. 20 when Richard M. Nixon becomes president, will leave behind an efficiency plan for the sprawling postal system he claims would triple the speed of letter-sorting and save enough money for a "favorable return on investment."

The proposal, costing an estimated $500 million, would replace men with machines in the mail-sorting operations of the nation's 300 largest post offices, which handle about 80 per cent of the total mail load. Watson said his mechanical "modules" — actually automated assembly lines — would sort 107,000 letters per hour compared with 36 in today's most efficient post office setups.

Blood Drive Set in Waterford

A Red Cross blood drive is scheduled Monday from 3-9 p.m. at the CAI Building, 5640 Williams Lake, Waterford Township. Contact the local Red Cross office, 118 Franklin Blvd., for an appointment.

Several Waterford Township families are urging people to donate blood in the name of Max Potter of 3605 Shelby, a Waterford Township man who began bleeding internally last year. He was released recently from the hospital but he still owes the blood bank more than 65 pints of blood.

Student Walkout at Detroit School

DETROIT (AP) — An estimated 1,400 students at Martin Luther King Junior-Senior High School staged a walkout from classes Wednesday in a student power demonstration

* * *

The walkout came at 9:30 a.m. and was touched off when school officials refused permission for a schoolwide rally in the gym. Students then marched into the school courtyard and shouted demands for a student bill of rights, a school holiday to honor slain black power leader Malcolm X and draft counseling sessions.

Man Treks 150 Miles to Give Thanks

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — For six days, Ralph Cabrera walked through rain and snow to travel 150 miles on his pilgrimage of thanks.

Then Thanksgiving morning, he knelt with the pastor of an old adobe church to thank God for the safe return of his son from Vietnam.

"He was very excited and was crying" as he arrived at El Santuario (The Sanctuary) Roman Catholic Church shortly after the last morning Mass, the pastor said.

The priest, who would identify himself only as Father Roca, added, "He is a very humble man. I was impressed with his faith.

TIRED, THANKFUL

"He was very tired, but very thankful to have completed his journey. We went inside the church and prayed together. Then we talked for a little time." Cabrera had taken the train to Grants, N.M., and then walked the rest of the way.

Cabrera's son, Ronald, 21, remained with his mother in San Francisco where Cabrera, 42, is a structural steel painter.

* * *

As a child in Santa Fe, he had sometimes attended Mass at El Santuario in Chimayo, a tiny Indian and Spanish-American community. The old church has been the destination of many pilgrimages and is full of remembrances left by the many persons who have visited it.

Out of 'The Jungle' Came Consumerism

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK — The consumer protection movement may be traced into Biblical times, but in the United States one of its most enduring mileposts was driven into the American consciousness in 1906 with publication of "The Jungle."

CUNNIFF

That book, which described the shockingly filthy conditions in Chicago slaughterhouses and the human debasement they brought with them, was written by Upton Sinclair, for whom funeral services will be held Saturday in New Jersey.

* * *

It is easy to believe that a 90-year-old man had very little to do with what today is thought to be a very modern issue, the protection of consumers in the marketplace. But it would be incorrect.

Although relatively inactive in his later years, Sinclair had much to do with the present Federal Trade Commission hearings and truth in packaging and truth in lending and new and better Better Business Bureaus.

In 1906 there was considerable agitation but not as much action toward resolving some of the social and economic problems that had grown astride the burgeoning industrial economy. "The Jungle's" prose brought horror, then action.

"There would be meat stored in great piles in the rooms," Sinclair wrote, "and the water from leaky roofs would drip over it, and thousands of rats would race about on it."

* * *

Relentlessly, Sinclair added detail to his case. "It was too dark in these storage places to see well, but a man could run his hand over these piles of meat and sweep off handfuls of the dried dung of rats."

He continued: "These rats were nuisances, and the packers would put poisoned bread out for them, they would die, and then rats, bread and meat would go into the hoppers together."

DEMAND FOR ACTION

Such revelations were too much for the American mind and stomach, and soon President Theodore Roosevelt was receiving scores of letters a day demanding federal action to raise standards in the meat industry.

"The Jungle" became sort of an early "Unsafe At Any Speed," the book written a few years ago by Ralph Nader which aroused Congress to study and take action against factors making automobile travel riskier than necessary.

* * *

Roosevelt invited Sinclair to the White House, and soon "The Jungle" symoblized the consumer cause. It led to the famous Food and Drug Act of 1906, the first federal pure food law.

* * *

Moreover, the act put the federal government firmly into the consumer protection business for good, And it helped establish the high levels of cleanliness that generally prevail today in the American food industry.

SHIFT OF EMPHASIS

In federal regulation, subtle shifts of emphasis to the consumer can be traced from then. The regulation of industrial enterprise wasn't enough; it now became regulation in the interests of consumers.

As the American economy progressed, becoming more technologically complex each year, business also became far more active in the consumer protection area. Better Business Bureaus, established in the 1920s, have grown steadily since then. An office was opened recently, for example, in the Harlem section of New York.

* * *

Private groups also entered the picture, especially as the consumer needed assistance not simply because of the deception of businessmen but because of the complexity and vast array of products that crowded the marketplace.

Recognizing these conditions, President John F. Kennedy enunciated in 1962 what has been called the consumer bill of rights: the right to be informed, the right to choose, the right to safety and the right to be heard.

Position Filled at Pontiac Div.

Gordon S. Hill has been appointed an assistant purchasing director of Pontiac Motor Division.

The appointment is effective immediately.

HILL

Hill, who for the past six years had been the division's office and procurement manager, joined Pontiac as a clerk in the purchasing department in 1946.

He was named supervisor in 1951 and general supervisor of procurement in 1956.

* * *

A World War II Navy veteran, Hill is married and the father of five. He resides in Pleasant Ridge.

GMC Truck to Add New Diesel Engines

GMC Truck & Coach Division will add Cummins diesel engines to its line of heavy-duty truck engines, it is announced by Martin J. Caserio, a vice president of General Motors Corp. and divisional general manager.

He said two of the engines, the NHC250 and the NHCT270, will be standard in some GMC Astro 95 heavy-duty trucks, with the NH230 or NTC335 available as options. The NHC250 also will power one 92-inch conventional cab series, with the optional engine the NH230.

* * *

The Cummins engines join the GMC family of V8 and in-line 6 GM Diesel engines and the division's own V6 and V8 Toro-Flow II diesels.

"The addition of the Cummins engines will broaden our diesel engine line and open new marketing possibilities in this important facet of the heavy-duty trucking business," Caserio said.

* * *

All of the Cummins engines are 855-cubic-inch 6-cylinder in-lines. The numbers in their identifications denote gross horse-power ratings.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q—As a young worker for Economics Laboratory years ago I bought 50 shares at $10.60 each before the stock went public. I now own 792 shares from splits and stock dividends. We also have 62 American Telephone and 20 Long Island Lighting. My husband, retiring soon, wants to switch Am. Telephone into more Econ. Lab., but I would prefer to sell the latter gradually year by year — after our tax rates drop at age 65 — and buy good income stocks. What do you advise?—W.M.

A—You have profited handsomely from a strong growth situation and I congratulate you on your good fortune.

I favor your gradual switching plan from Economics Laboratory into the best dividend payers then available. You will need income to supplement your husband's Social Security. I would also hold Am. Telephone and Long Island Lighting, not only for income but also for the growth anticipated in their respective industries.

* * *

Q—Now 50 years old, I am a semiskilled workman responsible for a disabled brother who draws small Social Security benefits. We own an old house in a changing neighborhood and these securities: 14 Alcoa debentures 5¼s of 1991; 100 Std. Oil of California; 100 Tri-Continental and 200 Belding Hemminway. Can I make any changes likely to benefit my retirement plans?—M.S.

A—Try to sell your house as advantageously as possible and buy a smaller one—on which upkeep might be less—in an area where values are rising. You are to be commended for selecting a good list of securities which at the present time requires no change.

Belding Heminway, your most speculative holding, is evidencing renewed growth and should be retained for its maximum potential. While you continue to work you probably can afford to keep one situation with a low dividend return. If you come out ahead on your real-estate deal, your profits can be reinvested in new growth opportunities presented through this column.

(Roger Spear's 48-page Investment Guide (recently revised and in its 10th printing) is available to all readers of this column. Send $1 with name and address to Roger E. Spear, The Pontiac Press, Box 1618, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017.)
