12 Goodfellows Charged With Pocketing Funds

'John L' to Quit; Kennedy in Line

WASHINGTON (AP)—John L. Lewis announced today he will resign as president of the United Mine Workers early next year.

Lewis, who will be 80 next Feb. 12, said in a letter to UMW members published today in the Union's journal that the time has come to step aside. Aides said he is in excellent health.

JOHN L. LEWIS

THOMAS KENNEDY

"Mister Eyebrows," as millions came to know the fuzzy-browed union chief in his flamboyant organizing and bargaining days of the 1930s and 1940s, has headed the UMW for 40 years.

Few men have had greater impact on American economic life.

Lewis will be succeeded automatically by Thomas Kennedy, UMW vice president and former lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania. Kennedy, 72, a widower who married again just a few weeks ago, is honeymooning in Europe.

On retirement, Lewis will be eligible to continue at full salary of $50,000 a year. He did not set a specific date for quitting, saying only it would be shortly after the new year.

Lewis, a familiar figure for years in newspaper headlines, is responsible more than any other labor leader for organizing workers of the nation's biggest industries into labor unions.

Lewis capitalized on the National Recovery Act and the Wagner Labor Relations Act passed during President Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal.

FORMED CIO

These established the obligation of employers to bargain with unions. Lewis formed the Committee for Industrial Organizations and drew millions of workers into membership.

Lewis fought industry and on many occasions the government itself in unrelenting battle to obtain bargaining rights and wage-benefit gains in one industry after another.

In the past decade, although still vigorous and willing to fight if need be, Lewis conducted his union affairs in peace with the politicians and his old and favorite foes, the coal mine operators.

★ ★ ★

In his letter today to UMW members, Lewis displayed again his lifelong flair for rolling, sonorous language.

"The years have been long and individual burdens oppressive, yet progress has been great," he wrote.

WAGES WAY UP

Mine workers, who earned about $2 a day when Lewis became UMW president in 1919 and worked long hours, now have a $24.25 basic daily wage and a 6½-hour working day in most cases.

★ ★ ★

Lewis said his successor, Kennedy, is "amply qualified by training, character, executive ability and a lifetime of devoted and loyal service to function with credit and distinction" as UMW chief. Lewis said he commended Kennedy to UMW members "in every official and personal sense."

Like Lewis, Kennedy started working in coal mines as a teenager.

Greek Solons Shake Rafters for Eisenhower

President Boards Ship for Rest After Address to Parliament

ATHENS (AP) — President Eisenhower received a rousing ovation in the Greek parliament today and then boarded the U.S. cruiser Des Moines for his first real rest since he began his peace and friendship mission 12 days ago.

The President, renewing his call for peace in freedom in an address to the 300-member Parliament, was interrupted a dozen times by applause and cheers that almost shook the rafters. The Communist-led minority joined in.

Then five hours later, the President took his leave of the Greek royal family and drove in a procession to the Athens Stadium where he boarded a helicopter for the short flight to the Des Moines.

The President will have a three-day rest aboard the Des Moines, broken only by a meeting Thursday in Tunis with Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba.

★ ★ ★

Greek Premier Constantine Karamanlis and other Greek officials accompanied the President to the stadium.

The President got his greatest ovation when he told Parliament his message could be summed up in three words: "Peace in freedom."

IKE TOUCHED

Touched, Eisenhower departed from his prepared text to say: "I feel that here I am with men who, like myself and all Americans, love peace and freedom and want to work for it."

The rip-roaring demonstration far exceeded the reception of his message before two other parliaments he had addressed, Indian and Iranian, on the trip that has taken him so far to seven nations.

Eisenhower called on free nations to be strong militarily, economically and above all spiritually until they have won a secure peace in freedom. He stressed the need for freedom in any solid East-West understanding.

"By forever repudiating the use of aggressive force we shall win the sort of peace we want, with friendship in freedom," he said. "I mean freedom in which, under the rule of law, every human will have the right and a fair chance to live his own life, to choose his own path, to work out his own destiny."

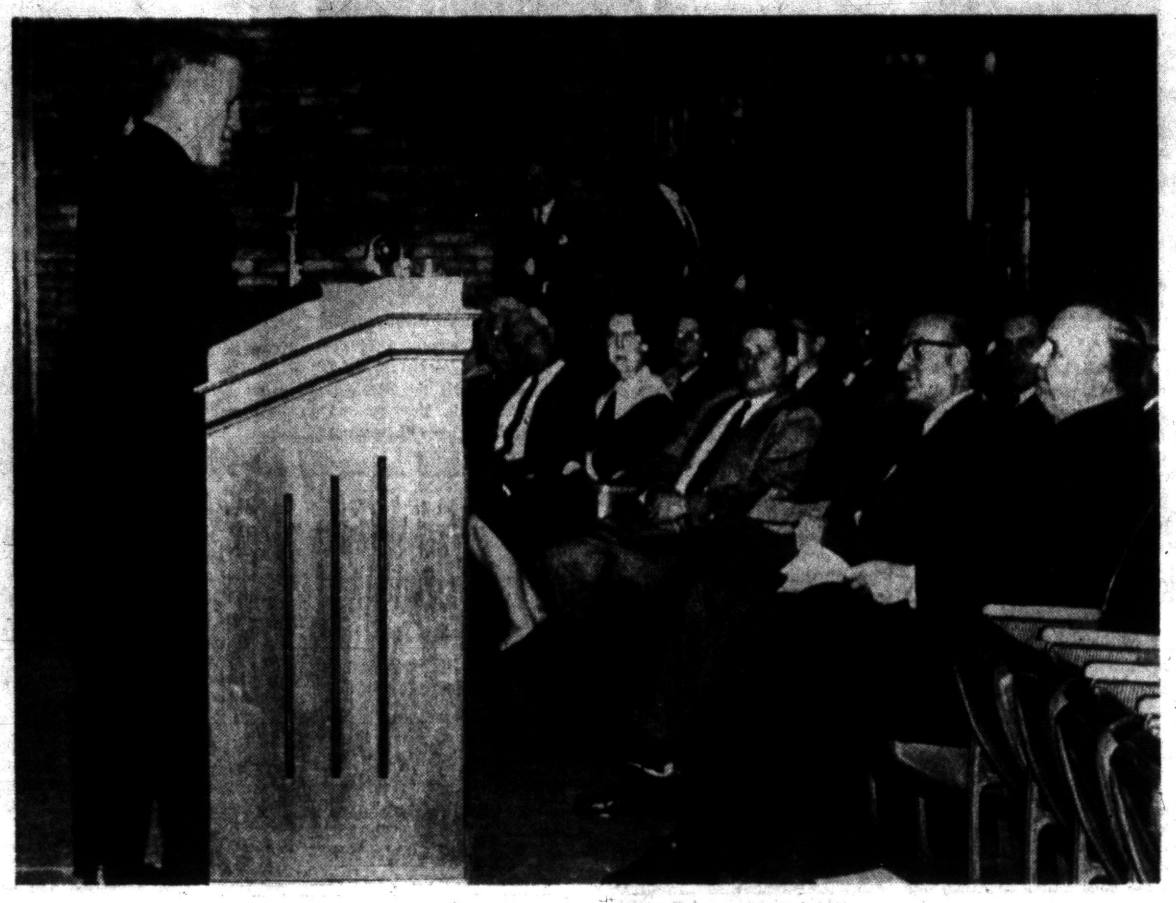

GREATEST EVER

The response appeared to be the greatest ever given a foreign statesman in the Greek Parliament.

Royal Oak Twp. Police, Firemen Are Arrested

'Newsboys' Failed to Turn Over the Marked Money They Received

Twelve Royal Oak Township "newsboys" — five of them policemen and three firemen—were charged yesterday with pocketing funds from the sale of Goodfellow newspapers.

State Police rackets squad and Redford State Police detectives arrested 10 men last night and have warrants for two more.

Oakland County Sheriff Frank W. Irons this morning said he would strip officers of their status as deputies.

Irons, who took no active part in yesterday's investigation, said he was "fed up with the situation down there (Royal Oak Township)."

"They are dishonest and I will not tolerate them any longer," the sheriff said.

Capt. William Ware, acting police chief, and Capt. Samuel Mitchell, head of the township fire department, were among the 10 arrested.

Others were Police Sgt. James Gatewood, 44; Patrolmen Ernest Wilson, 29; and Ananiah Ruffin, 39, and Sgt. James Anderson, 40; and Edward Tennant, 32, both of the fire department.

Others arrested were David Lockridge, 46; Robert Thorne, 26; and James Dickens, 29. Dickens is the son of Township Supervisor Ellwood Dickens who stood with detectives as the men were arrested.

"This should have been done a long time ago," police quoted the supervisor as saying.

The Oakland County Prosecutors Office asked state police to investigate the township Goodfellow sale after there was suspected shortages in collected funds in last year's drive.

Eleven racket squad investigators and seven plainclothes detectives passed out $57 in marked money to the "newsboys." When the men turned in their "collections" last night, only $6 of the marked bills came back, said Lt. Howard Whaley, head of the Redford Post Detective Bureau.

There was $51 unaccounted for.

All 10 men were arraigned before Township Justice Lonnie Cash on charges of larceny by conversion. Nine pleaded innocent and were released on $200 bonds.

★ ★ ★

They will be tried before Cash Thursday at 10 a.m. Thorne, of 20466 Kentucky, pleaded guilty. He paid a fine of $10 plus $15 costs and was placed on a year probation.

Police have warrants for Patrolman William Boyd and Township Constable Willie Brown. The two were expected to be arraigned on simple larceny charges today.

Irons refused to deputize the department last January after an investigation by deputies uncovered what Irons called "irregularities and corruption in the police force."

After a feud between Dickens and police and fire department officials, township personnel agreed to several reform measures suggested by Irons.

He then deputized the policemen. Township police must be deputized by the sheriff of the county in which they reside, according to state law.

Without deputization, which occurs every two years, a township police force is without power to enforce state laws.

Royal Oak Township is located on the Eight Mile road south border of Oakland County nevt to Oak Park. It is a small but heavily populated community.

The sale was township-run and not connected with Goodfellow sales in other Oakland County communities.

Youth Is Moved to Adult Court

Judge Moore Waives Case of Mendoza, 16, in Near-Fatal Shooting

The Lake Orion youth was scheduled to be arraigned before Highland Township Justice Roy J. Carl only a few hours after Juvenile Judge Arthur E. Moore waived jurisdiction over his case.

Assistant Prosecutor Edward H. Shigley said he would recommend that the boy's bond be set at $25,000 until his examination Friday with two older companions named in the holdup—Victor Hood, 25, and Carroll L. Lay, 17.

Hood, a Pontiac ex-convict, and Lay, an expelled Lake Orion high school pupil, have been held under $25,000 each since their arraignment Dec. 2.

Accused of shooting Dale F. Newton, 19, in the back after the robbery, Hood has denied any part in the holdup. The youth, though implicated Hood in full confessions.

In ruling, Judge Moore noted the "viciousness" of the holdup and the "sadistic" attack upon the attendant.

He pointed out that his court could have jurisdiction over a youth Mendoza's age for only two years — until he was 18.

But more time is needed in order to assure "character improvement," Judge Moore added.

He noted "regretfully" that Mendoza "undoubtedly will have to be committed to prison."

Per Student Cost Cut at MSUO

Michigan State University Oakland is attempting to reverse the trend of spiraling costs in higher education.

Chancellor D. B. Varner yesterday told an audience at the dedication of the institution's new Oakland Student Center that MSUO's budget request for the 1960-61 school year represents a reduction of eight per cent per student from the current academic year. Next year's budget request is for $1,065,000 for 1,200 students.

The current year's budget is $550,000, or $965 per student.

"We honestly believe we can do the job ahead of us for $888," Varner said.

"In other words, we believe that for $77 less per student we can continue and extend the high level of education we have begun this year.

"We are able to do this," Varner said, "because of increased utilization of the physical plant and reductions in the budget allocations to the administrative operation of the university."

★ ★ ★

Varner said all expenditures not "absolutely essential" to the support of a first-class educational program are now, and shall in the future, be minimized.

"On the other hand," he said, "we shall fight just as diligently to increase faculty salaries, to expand the library and to contribute in every other way to the legitimate educational pursuits of the students.

"For example, we have included in the budget request an item of nine per cent for increasing faculty salaries. We hope it may be more than this because we recognize that the faculty shall in the long run make the university."

The chancellor said that since 1940 college costs have more than doubled and are continuing to rise.

In 1955-56, the most recent school year for which figures are available from the U.S. Office of Education, the average cost per student for all American colleges was $1,048.

The $700,000 building was formally named the Oakland Student Center with the unveiling of an aluminum plaque in the lobby. Unveiling the plaque was Delos Ham-

'Giving State Buck-Passing Reputation'

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

Returning to his own backyard from journeys around the state, knight-errant George Romney has leveled his lance at Michigan's Legislature which he said is giving the state a reputation as an "irresponsible, buck - passing politician's paradise."

Nearly 300 county residents came to Pontiac to hear the man who revolutionized the auto industry try to do the same with the politically-stagnant Legislature.

The president of American Motors Corp. was billed as top attraction in the Oakland County organizational meeting of "Citizens for Michigan." The meeting was at Pontiac Central High School.

Romney attempted to encourage membership with a sharp criticism. He wasted no words in saying apathetic citizens are probably chiefly responsible for allowing ambitious minority economic groups to plunge Michigan into a state of "political bankruptcy."

"When you get a situation like we have today, where you can't hold either political party responsible," Romney said, "it is a perfect buck-passing situation — an irresponsible politicians paradise."

He urged an intensive drive to return both parties to citizens.

"The attendance here tonight is evidence that we are not failing," the resident of Bloomfield Hills said.

His resume of the birth of CFM — created in hopes of curing the state's economic and governmental ills — preceded some 14 area chapter meetings in the classrooms of the school.

Committee members, however, weren't disheartened. They said some had to leave because the hour was late, and that area meetings would be held at a later date.

The Birmingham-Bloomfield chapter gathering was the largest. It was so large it had to split in two sections. Several groups had to merge because they were so small.

★ ★ ★

Romney and former Michigan Gov. Murray D. Van Wagoner, chosen by the CFM founder as county chairman, said they weren't disappointed in the turnout or exodus of some.

"Look what 280 citizens did in Detroit," Romney said. He referred to the study of Detroit school needs, of which he was chairman, from which, he said, "Citizens for Michigan was importantly inspired."

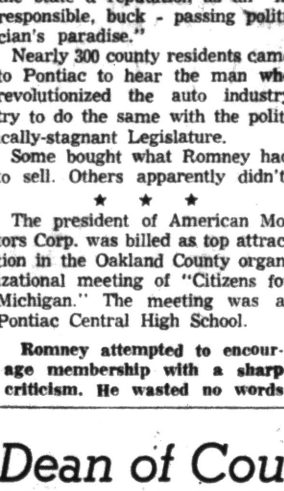

Those who will form the different chapters in Oakland County will, like similar groups across

Dean of County, Joe Haas, Named Oakland Historian

Oakland County now has an official historian in Joe Haas, editorial staff writer for The Pontiac Press.

In a special surprise move—both to Haas and supervisors—yesterday, the Board of Supervisors officially bestowed the title upon the popular 82-year-old Holly resident.

JOE HAAS

The white-haired Haas was attending Monday's meeting mainly to read a testimonial to his friend, Lee O. Brooks, who was resigning as county road commissioner.

"Here's hoping that his health will improve so he will be with us a great many more years," Haas said. "We need more men like Lee Brooks."

Following the election of Arno L. Hulet, Bloomfield Township supervisor, as new vice chairman of the 83-member Board, Haas was asked to escort Hulet to the rostrum.

★ ★ ★

Up popped Pontiac supervisor and city attorney, William A. Ewart, who moved that Haas be made official historian for the county. He was supported by R. Clare Cummings, another veteran Pontiac supervisor and long time friend of Haas.

Ewart's motion won unanimous support and applause.

While four tellers counted the votes for Brooks' successor, Ray W. Lahti, Wixom supervisor, moved to the microphone to ask what the legal steps would have to be to create an honorary 84th seat for Haas. Lahti sits in the 83rd seat in the back of the room.

"It would be great if it were legally possible, because Haas is recognized widely as the dean of Oakland County," replied Delos Hamlin, chairman of the Board.

Mercury in 40s to Continue for Wednesday

Temperatures in the 40s will continue through Wednesday, the weatherman predicts.

Tonight will be mostly cloudy with a low of 37. Cloudy with rain and a high of 44 is tomorrow's forecast. Cloudy, windy and colder with snow flurries is the prediction for Thursday.

Southwesterly winds at 8-15 miles an hour at 10:15 a.m. will become southeasterly Wednesday.

Thirty-three was the lowest recording in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. At 2 p.m. the temperature was 38.

Owosso Airman Saved From Snow

HOULTON, Maine (AP) — Two Air Force men who bailed out of a B52 jet bomber last night after an aerial refueling accident were picked up by helicopters in a snow covered wilderness area today.

★ ★ ★

Officials at Dow Air Force Base, Bangor, said both Capt. William B. Harris of Middletown, Pa., and Lt. David B. Morris of Owosso, Mich., are in good condition.

They were flown to Dow and given a routine checkup at the base hospital. Officials said they will be interviewed as soon as possible about their experience.

★ ★ ★

The two men were picked up by helicopters in the same general area near east Millinocket, about 40 miles southwest of Houlton. They were taken out of the frozen woods after their parachutes had been spotted from the air.

How About Blackboard for Messages?

Buying a House Gift?

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Who really gets the gift when it's a "gift for the house?" There is always an argument on this, for many people do not like to get such a gift. But here are suggestions for those who do.

If your home doesn't have a public address system, but you would like to communicate from one end to the other without yelling, get a two-way home radio and broadcasting set. The children should be intrigued by this.

Have trouble keeping the family informed of important dates? Get a maple framed blackboard, hang it in a prominent spot and train the family to use it.

If Junior has to carry wood for the fireplace, he will appreciate a canvas log carrier which folds flat when not in use. The handles are dowels.

An electric hair dryer may be just the gift the whole family would enjoy. Or how about a new telephone bench with a space for putting a memo pad and a shelf for books?

We still don't know how it works, but we were interested in a fire lighter for a fireplace or outdoor grill. The package didn't divulge the secret, but said no paper and no kindling are needed.

A different kind of a lighter comes in the form of a little lighthouse. When you pick it up, a soft nightlight goes on. Good for youngsters who are afraid of the dark. Put several around the house.

Let's Not Go Into It

NEW YORK (UPI)—The office Christmas party is on the decline, the Commerce and Industry Assn. reported yesterday. Of 897 firms queried, only 42.1 per cent are holding parties this year compared with 46 per cent in 1956. A spokesman said the firms weren't asked why the parties are becoming less popular, "but everybody knows."

Supervisors Pick No. 2 Man

Arno Hulet Is Relatively New to Government; Taught for 30 Years

A veteran of 30 years as a school teacher, and a relative newcomer as a supervisor, was unanimously elected vice chairman of the 83-member Board of Supervisors Monday.

Arno L. Hulet, 65, a Bloomfield Township supervisor since 1957, was chosen for the Board's second highest position without a fight. There were no other nominations.

Because of his new post, Hulet will automatically sit on some of the more important committees of the Board, including the Ways and Means Committee, one of the top policy making groups. He has been chairman of the Board's boundaries committee.

Hulet, a Pontiac and Royal Oak teacher of government studies before becoming supervisor, was one of two township supervisors endorsed for the vice chairmanship. The other was Frank Webber of Addison Township. He was not nominated.

Hulet of 2355 Franklin Rd. was first elected supervisor in 1957. He had previously filled out the unexpired term of the late Supervisor David E. Anderson, from July 1, 1956 to his election. Hulet is a Republican.

Sitting where he does as vice chairman, Hulet may sometime realize the chairmanship. Although it has not been practiced lately, because of Chairman Delos Hamlin's and Thatcher's popularity, supervisors have had an unwritten policy of elevating the vice chairman.

Yesterday's election kept intact another unwritten Board policy. That is to elect a city supervisor chairman and township representative vice chairman, or vice versa.

★ ★ ★

Southwest Wades in Deep Snow

By The Associated Press

A pre-winter snowstorm, powered by strong winds, swept across New Mexico into Texas and Oklahoma today, curtailing travel and stranding scores of motorists.

★ ★ ★

Blizzard conditions were reported in some areas at the coldest weather of the season, hit many sections. It was chilly in Phoenix this morning, around 40 above. Snow was reported as far south as Las Cruces, near the Mexican border.

★ ★ ★

Snow depths in New Mexico ranged up to 10 inches. Seven inches of fresh snow fell at Albuquerque. Winds were clocked at 60 m.p.h. as the storm lashed wide areas. Blowing snow cut visibility sharply and driving conditions were extremely hazardous.

Traffic was virtually halted in the northern half of New Mexico. U. S. 66 was closed between Tucumcari, N.M., and Vega, Tex.

DEDICATION AT MSUO — Ceremonies dedicating Michigan State University Oakland's $700,000 student center were held yesterday. Unveiling the dedication plaque in the new building was Delos Hamlin (left), chairman of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors. On the other side of the plaque are MSUO Chancellor D. B. Varner and State Sen. L. Harvey Lodge (R-Oakland County). The building will be known as the Oakland Student Center.

Ovations Punctuate Ike's Greek Address

Eisenhower said: "And now, briefly permit me to speak on a cause close to my heart. The cause is peace and friendship in freedom."

Until Eisenhower reached this point in his speech, the Red bloc, 78 strong, had been sitting quietly, not joining in the outbursts of applause by the 170 members of the government bloc and other members.

Another call by Eisenhower for a dynamic peace, freeing the world of "the intolerable burden of armaments," went over big. The Reds, however, showed far less enthusiam when Eisenhower urged the free nations to keep their defenses strong until the Soviets agree to a trustworthy pace.

The speech to Parliament, whose building on Constitution Square once was a palace of Greek kings, was the highlight of another busy day in Eisenhower's swing to India and back. Thousands of Greeks filled the square to cheer him.

TALK WITH PREMIER

After addressing Parliament, Eisenhower plunged into a discussion of international problems with Premier Constantine Karamanlis.

Their talk presumably ranged over American aid to Greece, Soviet pressure on this Aegean kingdom, and possibly the question of intermediate range ballistic missiles.

Greece has received more than three billion dollars in U. S. aid. Karamanlis is known to feel that continuing economic assistance remains vitally necessary.

★ ★ ★

This country has a continuing squabble with Albania and Bulgaria, its two Moscow-controlled neighbors. Many Greeks hope that Eisenhower, in his contacts with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev will suggest that the Bulgarians and Albanians relax their propaganda compaigns against Greece.

★ ★ ★

Karamanlis has said his government is considering letting America station intermediate range missiles in Greece to strengthen his country's stand as a partner in NATO.

The supervisors have voted appropriations to carry the cost of the construction bond issue.

The building will provide facilities for student life which are essential for "esprit de corps," Varner said.

Containing 34,000 square feet of space, the building includes a dining hall which can accommodate 1,200, a student lounge, offices for student publications and student government, and space for a university bookstore.

The building has been designed so that it eventually can be tripled in size by the addition of duplicate facilities on the north and east sides.

Others speaking at the dedication were State Sen. L. Harvey Lodge (R-Oakland County), Gary Wright of Avondale for the MSUO student body, and Harold A. Fitzgerald, publisher of The Pontiac Press and chairman of the MSUO Foundation.

1. What services do Michigan citizens need from their state government?

2. How should these services be paid for?

3. How should the state government be structured to carry out its responsibilities?

4. What can be done to accelerate Michigan's economic growth and its cultural and social development?

The big test for CFM will come after arriving at answers where there is general agreement. Romney said recommendations then will be handed over to both parties in hopes they will be incorporated in next year's platforms. CFM will not endorse candidates.

Romney said he believes the selling job will succeed. He said both parties quietly admit they could use some outside non-partisan help.

DPW Will Run Water System

Sewer Plant to Serve Proposed MSUO Area for Faculty Housing

Avon Township was granted its request yesterday that the Oakland County Department of Public Works take over operation and maintenance of a $144,000 water-sewer system to serve a proposed faculty housing area for Michigan State University Oakland.

The approval came from the Board of Supervisors. It was unanimous.

Some 250 homes will be built on about 160 lots in a growing 157-acre subdivision near Adams and Crooks roads. The sewer and water systems are being built through contract between the township and the school.

Under the 1957 law which created the county DPW, the Board of Supervisors was petitioned by the township board to have the county handle operation and maintenance. The law permits this where one or more communities cannot undertake the work by themselves.

"This will be done with no financial obligation to the county," said Harry Horton, new secretary of the Board of Public Works.

It took Thomas Jefferson five days to travel by public transportation from Philadelphia to Baltimore. A modern bus can do it in 3¼ hours. Last year more Americans traveled than ever before, and to capture their share of the travel market, bus lines invested over $2 million in newspaper advertising.

The Day in Birmingham

County Permitted to Build Relief Drains Through City

BIRMINGHAM — Permission to construct the Twelve Towns Relief Drains through the city was granted to the Oakland County Drainage Board by city commissioners at last night's meeting.

The Commission's approval will allow the county to construct, maintain, replace and repair drains along Coolidge highway from Maple road to Windemere road.

Approval was given upon the following terms:

The drainage board will do all excavating work, maintenance and repairs of drains, causing as little inconvenience as possible to the city and users of the highway.

The drainage board, after making any excavation in the city, will restore the surface of all highways and sidewalks, so that they will be in as good condition as they were prior to excavation.

It also will hold the city blameless of any damages resulting from the construction, use and maintenance of the drain.

The low bid of $1,625 on a tractor for the Forestry Division was approved by the Commission.

It was submitted by the Great Lakes Tractor and Equipment Co.

The bid was $363 lower than the low bid accepted then rejected two weeks ago.

It was turned down after the Commission was told the bidder had not met all specifications.

A petition opposing the further clearance of adjacent land to the Reid Medical Building was referred to the city engineer for further study.

The Commission directed the city attorney to draw up an ordinance prohibiting commercial vehicles from parking in residential zoned districts.

At present there are no regulations against trucks parking in such areas unless there are specific signs.

Set More Bus Talks for This Afternoon

Another attempt to settle Michigan's tri-city bus strike was scheduled to begin this afternoon in Saginaw.

AFL-CIO representatives were called by state and federal labor mediators to meet in a bargaining session with officials of National City Lines, Inc., and its Saginaw affiliate.

The company also runs a strike-bound Pontiac City Lines and a subsidiary in Kalamazoo. But drivers and mechanics in the three cities have been on strike for higher wages nine days.

Meanwhile, another strike threatened in Grand Rapids, where the contract between Grand Rapids City Lines, Inc., and its employes expired at midnight last night.

According to a recent survey in Texas, newspapers are read by 95 per cent of all homeowners, by 85 per cent of all renters, by 97 per cent of upper income households, by 91 per cent of older households and by 93 per cent of younger households. You can reach practically everyone, when you advertise in the daily newspaper.

'Christmas Is Santa's Birthday!'

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK—This may come as a shock to adult Christians of a devout and optimistic nature, but in a recent survey of 50 three- and four-year-old children, only one tyke could answer the question, "Why do we have Christmas?"

The other 49 wide-eyes were completely stumped.

Later, the same 50 had their memories jostled by this question, "Well then, who was born on Christmas?"

★ ★ ★

This ignorance of the real meaning of Christmas, among American children who are old enough to sing beer commercials with assurance and bounce, is not as revelatory as it seems on first glance.

It does not necessarily indicate that the children's parents are too preoccupied to teach them religion —or that youngsters are born in the image of Santa Claus than in Jesus Christ.

★ ★ ★

What it does indicate is that Christmas is such a puzzling combination of religion, tradition and commercialization that a child finds it hard to work his way through the labyrinth and discover what is at the bottom of it all.

★ ★ ★

Researchers into family relations at Cornell University, who conducted the survey of the 50 children who were so naive to the Nativity, have a solution.

★ ★ ★

"If you would help youngsters understand the real meaning of Christ's birthday," they say, "make just as much a point of taking them to see the community manger scene . . . or creche . . . as you make of taking them to see Santa Claus. And include a creche —as well as a Christmas tree—in your household decorations.

HAVE A CRECHE

"Children will want to handle the figures in the creche. That will make them more real, just as Santa Claus is real when a child sits on his lap in a department store. So select simple, sturdy figures, and include only a few—perhaps Jesus, Mary, Joseph and a few animals.

"Too many figures will only confuse them."

To introduce a very young child to the joy of giving as well as receiving, the Cornell experts continue, take them gift-shopping with you. Let them select gifts.

Their gifts need be neither costly nor items which you yourself might pick: if your five-year-old wants to give his best friend a balloon, great!

Of course, the more children learn about Christmas, the more excited they become. So to spare them excess anxiety, and dyspepsias of delight, wait until Christmas week to let them shop with you.

You may get more bruises that way. But the kiddies, Cornell assures, will be better off—in the short run.

SINGING CAROLS AT BANK — Pontiac State Bank patrons yesterday were treated to a musical hour of Christmas carols by the 70-member Boys-Girls Choir of Washington Junior High School. Shown foreground, directing the group, is Jerry Libby, music director at Washington. The group performed during the noon hour. Other school choirs are expected to sing at the bank during the remaining days of the holiday season.

British Diplomats Acclaim Ike's Success in India

LONDON (AP) — Responsible British diplomats have hailed President Eisenhower's mission to India as an unqualified success.

They said they welcomed the President's trip to Britain's one-time possession, now a member of the British Commonwealth, and "we are very glad indeed about the way it went."

The mass circulation Daily Mirror, conservative Daily Telegraph and empire-minded Daily Express all mentioned in Friday editions what they termed the President's "failure to get his message across."

"I can assure you," said a responsible foreign office source "that those reports in no way reflect official British feeling. There certainly has been no sensitivity whatsoever about Eisenhower's visit inside the government here."

One newspaper contrasted the President's performance with the "sledgehammer braying" of Soviet leaders Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita S. Khrushchev to India in 1955.

It reported the American "soft sell" was most likely to succeed.

"President Eisenhower has woven one or two delicate threads into the flimsy diplomatic shawl that Mr. Nehru hopes will protect India until the cold war thaws," said the conservative Daily Telegraph.

No understanding was sought or given that America would come to India's aid if China attempted a full-scale invasion, the newspaper noted.

The liberal News Chronicle said that throughout his visit to India President Eisenhower "studiously avoided uttering anything which might have riled Delhi's prickly neutralists."

In justifying America's stand by quoting Gandhi: "Freedom is the gift of God — the right of every nation"—Eisenhower had "played an ace," said the Chronicle.

"Eisenhower has been extremely subtle. His utterances here have to be read upside down and sideways to get their meaning.

"But it seems likely that their impact has been more telling because Indians are a super-subtle people."

Posy Plays Big Part in Business

Say Many Things With Flowers

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The nation's florists expect to send more flowers this Christmas than they did on Mother's Day. They say a big reason is that businessmen have become more posy conscious.

Business spends well over a million dollars a year on flowers for customers, suppliers and employes. Florists say some individual firms spend as much as $25,000 a year this way.

★ ★ ★

The floral gifts range from bouquets to potted plants. One big segment of the practice is to telegraph flowers for openings of new enterprises or branches. But others acknowledge uncommonly large business orders, anniversaries of accounts, arrivals of customers or executives in town, various promotion stunts, and births or deaths in customer's or employe's family.

★ ★ ★

The practice is growing fast, says a naturally interested spectator, John Bodette, general manager of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Assn. This is a nonprofit clearing house for 11,000 florists scattered through every state in the nation and doing a 60-million-dollar annual business.

He says the flowers are delivered all over the world—Hong Kong, Capetown, Juneau, Melbourne. The orders go by wires or telephone to the distant florist through the Interflora network of world florists who make the deliveries.

★ ★ ★

The Hanover Bank of New York telegraphs flowers to every correspondent bank in the nation on the anniversary of the opening of the account.

★ ★ ★

U.S. Steel in Chicago says it with flowers when a new business enterprise that might use a steel product is launched.

Thomas Cook & Sons and other travel agencies reward a client who has purchased a long tour by sending a bon voyage floral piece to a departing ship.

★ ★ ★

Women who have kept an account for 25 years with Guaranty Trust of New York—now merged with J. P. Morgan—get a white orchid corsage.

A New York apparel manufacturer, noting that two out-of-town buyers never appeared at his showrooms, sent each a single rose every day. After 32 days the first buyer capitulated. The second showed up after 40 roses.

The average business order for telegraphed flowers runs from $10 to $25, but one Michigan department store spent $500 on orchids for the girls in its New York resident-buying office.

Flowers can help out in family emergencies, business is finding out as family men already know.

Recently executives of a billion-dollar asset corporation in New York's Radio City were held late in town for an important conference that came up at the last minute, although several had dinner engagements with their wives.

An inspired vice president phoned a florist. An hour later, the wives of each of the six executives received an elaborate bouquet of forget-me-nots. Nary a divorce.

Makarios Way in Lead

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI)—Greek Orthodox Archbishop Makarios ran up a better than two to one commanding lead over Communist-rightist candidate John Clerides today. He appeared certain to become the first president of this island when Cyprus becomes independent next Feb. 19.

Adams Will Oppose Reapportionment

Adams, a Democrat, said his staff would defend against the union leader's supreme court petition seeking to throw out a 1952 constitutional amendment freezing the 34 senatorial districts.

Both Adams and Scholle are expected to file briefs with the high court tomorrow.

Scholle, filing suit against Secy. of State James M. Hare, contended the constitutional amendment violated the 14th amendment of the U.S. Constitution which guarantees equal protection of the law.

North Central Adds Two Cities to Route

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—North Central Airlines formally announced Monday a Jan. 1 start on daily service to the twin cities of St. Joseph and Benton Harbor.

The new schedule, part of the line's Chicago-Grand Rapids route, calls for two southbound and two northbound flights each day at the Twin Cities Airport.

It was authorized on an interim basis last Oct. 28 by the Civil Aeronautics Board pending final decision in an investigation of Great Lakes air service.

covers an area almost as large as the United States.

A Japanese attempt to conquer Korea late in the 16th Century was thwarted by ironclad "turtle ships" which destroyed the Japanese fleet.

SEASON'S GAIETY starts with party decorations made at home. Decorative Chinaman pencil holders and clown namecards come to life from balls of styrofoam. Use construction paper, black yarn, toothpicks and pins.

Decorative Pieces Fun and Are Easy to Make

The holiday season is a gay time for all. Especially when you construct whimsical, decorative items that draw praise from friends and family.

Children will like decorative pencil holders and clown namecards for their parties. Adults will get a kick from them, too.

To make these, you need 5-inch and 2-inch balls of styrofoam and a square, 4x4x1-inch of the material. Use a 5-inch star for a base for the large figure and small star bases for clowns.

★ ★ ★

Hats for a chinaman pencil holder are made from 12-inch circles of construction paper. Cut paper from edge of circle to center. Form cone to fit ball and staple or tape on. Cut hole in top for braid and pencils.

For pigtail, braid heavy strands of yarn and attach to ball with pins. Then cut eyes and mustache from construction paper and glue or pin in place.

Attach head to base (star or square) with round toothpicks. Insert sharpened pencils and brushes through hole of hat and into the ball.

Make a clown namecard by attaching heads to base, as for Chinaman. Pin sequins in place for eyes, eyebrows, ears and mouth.

★ ★ ★

Builder of Roads, Good Manhood, Leaves Office

After 22 years on the Oakland County Road Commission, LEE O. BROOKS is leaving that office because of his health.

Only recently he was chosen for another six-year term.

He had much to do with lifting Oakland County out of the mud and making its highways keep pace with its industrial development.

★ ★ ★

But even before LEE entered the road building and maintenance game he had established a solid reputation in school and Boy Scout work.

Many years he served on his local board of education, and there made such a good record that his district named one of its schools in his honor.

★ ★ ★

He has been granted the highest local award possible in this work.

This county owes LEE BROOKS a debt of gratitude, not only for his work in the job it hates to see him relinquish, but also for his work in the interests of the rising generations.

Even Stevenson Would Have Rough Go on This

ADLAI STEVENSON should be President in 1960, according to the result of a poll published recently in Esquire Magazine.

★ ★ ★

A select group of 54 Americans, leaders in the fields of publishing, letters, industry, religion, education, science and arts, gave twice as many votes to the two-time losing Democratic Presidential candidate as they did to Vice President Richard Nixon, the next in favor.

★ ★ ★

Jot this poll down for future reference. Unless ADLAI has some secret weapon, which we cannot believe, we are willing to go on record as doubting the veracity of this poll.

★ ★ ★

Press Freedom Flouted in U.N. Committee Vote

After 11 years spent in discussing a draft convention on freedom of information, the Social Committee of the U.N. General Assembly adjourned without doing anything.

★ ★ ★

In the first article, sponsored by such diverse nations as Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Republic, India, the Philippines and Mexico, newspapers were to have "freedom to seek, receive and impart" news without government interference and that news must be "accurate, objective and comprehensive." The Polish delegate supported this provision.

★ ★ ★

Iceland's Delegate ALBERTSSON pointed out that the "objectivity" clause would give an "excellent excuse for terroristic and dictatorial governments to justify censorship." The danger, of course, lies in the interpretation of what is "accurate, objective and comprehensive" reporting.

It was for just such reporting that New York Times Correspondent A. M. ROSENTHAL was expelled from Poland. He had "probed too deeply into the internal affairs of that country" the government said. No question of accuracy was involved.

Several countries, supported by the Communist bloc, thought the word "seek" too strong and the harmless word "gather" was substituted. This would make newsmen mere dispensers of government information. Nevertheless, the clause carried with 43 votes, the U.S. abstaining.

The Social Committee will meet again next year to resume discussions on the draft convention. So far it's gotten exactly nowhere.

POLLYANNAS and purveyors of sweetness and light propagate a lot of puerile propaganda. For example, they've been saying for years it takes ever so many more muscles to frown than to smile. An anatomist recently said that considerably fewer muscles are used in frowning.

"I KNOW a young fellow who used to drive a car at 100 miles an hour," said Old Sorehead, "who makes about 10 miles a month now—in a wheelchair."

The Man About Town

Longest in Nation

Freeway Exceeds All the Others in United States

Budget: What allows you to pay as you go—if you don't go.

Word comes from State Highway Commissioner

This converts U.S.-23 to a four lane divided highway with no intersections or traffic lights for 45 miles, longest such freeway in the nation. It extends north from Lemen's Corners to a point 20 miles north of Flint, where it joins the Dixie Highway. The whole distance has a wide expanse between the lanes.

To reach Lemen's Corners, go west from Pontiac, out Huron Street, M-59, which merges into Highland Road. Follow this 23 miles from our courthouse, where you turn right into the new freeway. You skirt the edges of Fenton and Flint, go through no cities or towns, and have a general speed limit of 65, meeting no traffic.

Even now, that is the safest route between Pontiac and Flint, as with no left turns and a few extra miles you are in that city. It also is the best and safest route for all points in Northern Michigan.

The freeway later will be opened from Lemen's Corners south to connect with that being built to Ann Arbor and Toledo. A highway of 30 miles in California is the second largest such freeway in the United States.

Our suburban Oak Park continues to be Oakland County's champion producer of young lawyers. In the last state bar exam, it furnished nine. Birmingham had four, Pontiac three, Royal Oak, Madison Heights and Southfield two apiece and a few others one each.

Time surely scoots along. I am informed by

of Birmingham that it was ten years ago that five people were killed in an explosion in that city.

Always in line with cheerful news,

Information is received from

of Birmingham that the joint Audubon societies will conduct their annual bird count in the Pontiac area on Dec. 27. Last year over 7,500 birds of nearly 50 varieties were counted in the one day, principally in an area northwest of our city.

There's a lot to think about in the sentiments in a letter from which says the recent rains were just what we need to make good going for that segment of our population which is feeding us.

David Lawrence Says:

Catholic Birth Control Stand Told

LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Much has been said and written recently about the so-called Roman Catholic view toward birth control, and the issue has even gotten into American politics.

Many people have derived the erroneous impression that the Catholic church is against birth control in any form and that the Protestant clergy favor it.

For this reason, the clarifying expressions by a population expert who happens also to be a prominent educator in a Catholic University became pertinent.

The Rev. William J. Gibbons, who lectures in sociology at Fordham University, has taken part in many U. S. and international conferences dealing with problems of population and economic development. He draws a distinction between "planned parenthood" and "responsible parenthood." He has just answered a number of significant questions in a copyrighted interview in "U. S. News & World Report":

"Q. What does the Catholic church feel should be done about the excessive rate of growth of population in such (underdeveloped) areas?

NO DOCTRINE

"A. The Catholic church, as such, has no doctrinal judgment on the economic-demographic implications of the growth rates in question.

"I would say definitely, however, that the church from time immemorial has stood for responsibility in the use of all God's creations. This includes obviously the material universe, the land, the forests, the mines, the other resources that we have at our disposal and were put there for man's use and enjoyment.

"It also includes — and this is sometimes overlooked — very responsible use of the reproductive faculty. If man does not use sex responsibly in marriage and if he enters marriage without due concern for the future, he is not acting in a rational manner.

"Q. Does this mean you favor 'planned parenthood'?

"A. I think that most Catholics object to the term 'planned parenthood' because it carries particular connotations of methods that various groups have advocated. I think the better term is 'responsible parenthood.'

"I would start by saying it means that we will not rush into marriage prematurely and without insight and foresight as to the meaning of it all, that we will take into account the provision of economic support for children that may be born, that we will think about the over-all welfare of these children and of society.

"Within marriage itself, it is obvious that God did not give man sex as a plaything, that sex has a purpose and this is related to continuing the race. Man, therefore, must use this with a sense of responsibility so as not to harm himself, his family and the race. Otherwise, he is not being fully human. . . .

WHAT METHOD?

"Q. What method of regulating the number of offspring does the church sanction?

"A. The church's teaching on the matter of regulating number of offspring could be reduced to three heads.

"The first is what we call delayed marriage, especially beyond the very productive years—in the late teens and early twenties.

"The second is continence within marriage for a protracted period, which some people practice—in fact, even in non-Christian areas—in order to space children more effectively.

"And the third is periodic continence or use of the sterile period during the woman's monthly cycle. Where there are legitimate reasons present, it is perfectly all right morally to use this latter method. Modern science has progressively made it more effective, and we can hope for further advances in the foreseeable future.

"Q. Are you referring to the so-called 'rhythm' method?

"A. That is what I am referring to, and I think that adequate knowledge of the way in which it can be practiced should be possessed by people who are seeking responsibility in their use of marriage and their reproductive faculty. And I think this effort should be made, on the part of research scientists and medical people and others, to acquire better means of making this an effective method.

"Q. By accepting the 'rhythm' method of regulating family size, has the church to some extent accepted the principle of birth control?

"A. This brings up the question of terminology. Unfortunately, in the western world the words 'birth control' have become associated in the minds of many people with particular methods usually referred to in Catholic circles as 'artificial contraception.'

"If we mean 'birth control' in this sense, the church has not come to terms with it, and cannot.

"If we mean 'birth control' in the sense of responsible parenthood and the spacing of children when there are reasons for it, then the church, I think, has always accepted this in principle and, in modern times, has also come to terms with it in practice."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Feeding Bulky Foods Best Remedy for Gulped Whistle

"Two weeks ago our daughter, nearly four years old, swallowed a little round whistle larger than a dime, or anyway we believe she did. So far we have heard nothing from it. Should we have X-rays? (D.E.)"

DR. BRADY

If the child swallowed the object, it probably passed within 48 hours.

Only in case she has some sympton or sign of trouble is X-ray examination necessary.

Here is the best way to treat a child who has swallowed or may have swallowed a foreign body:

1. Give no physic and no emetic.

2. Feed the child a good sized bowl of chopped vegetables—cabbage, green beans, carrots, turnip, potato, celery, etc.—cooked only a few minutes, washed down with water.

3. If the child is too young to eat such vegetables, feed all the ripe banana the child will eat in 24 hours.

The purpose of bulky food is to coat over the foreign body with food residue and make it a rounded mass which will readily pass through the alimentary canal.

4. Years ago Dr. G. Francis Bliven, Worcester dentist, reported that in his long years of practice he had found that sharp dentures accidentally swallowed by patients became wrapped like a cocoon if the patient was required to swallow, mixed with applesauce, enough ravelling threads 1½ to 2 inches long to make a ball the size of a horse-chestnut.

It is necessary to wash all the dejecta through a sieve for several days in order to make sure whether a foreign body passes naturally.

★ ★ ★

Signed letters not more then one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

The Country Parson

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Why Did Bible Men Live So Long?

How did Adam live to be 930, when he did not have the benefit of modern vaccination, antibiotics and pasteurized milk? Did the apples he ate contain trace chemicals that our fruit and and vegetables lack? Scrapbook this challenging case and its follow-up tomorrow for it offers startling modern medical ideas.

By GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE D-426: Lawrence T., aged 29, is superintendent of the Sunday School in his neighborhood church.

★ ★ ★

"Dr. Crane," he began, "some of the boys in our high school class asked why modern men don't live as long as Adam or Noah and Methuselah.

DR. CRANE

"You will recall that Adam was 930 years of age when he died. Noah was 950 and Methuselah 969.

"They didn't get smallpox vaccination or polio shots, either, or the other benefits of our modern antibiotics, pasteurized milk, etc. So how did they live so long?"

SECRET OF OLD AGE

Some scholars have suggested that such men as Adam, Noah and Methuselah simply counted seasons as years.

★ ★ ★

So it could easily have been possible for Adam to rate Winter, Spring, Summer and Autumn as "years."

Even so, if you divide 969 by 4, you still find that Methuselah lived more than 242 years.

"Dr. Crane, maybe they used 'moons' as years," is another explanation. There are 13 moons to our year, so if you divide 969 by 13, you would arrive at 74 as Methuselah's age.

That may seem plausible till you read that Methuselah's father (Enoch) was 65 when he begat Methuselah. And 65, divided by 13, would make him only five years old when his first son was born, which is far-fetched.

So I'll give you another idea that has been suggested in recent years.

★ ★ ★

When the various continents rose up out of the oceans, the soil had all the many chemicals therein which are now in the sea.

TRACE CHEMICALS

But as men became farmers and tilled the soil, the frequent rains soon dissolved the soluble chemicals and carried them back to the oceans.

It doesn't take many years for almost all soluble chemicals to be leeched from our land and carried to the sea.

For example, we finally added a trace of iodine to table salt in 1924 just to stop the severe goiters, even among men, in the Great Lakes region, for salt of iodine had been dissolved almost entirely from the soil of the Midwest.

Now we are also adding fluorine to city drinking water to stop dental decay, and it seems to eliminate about 65 per cent of the cavities in children who have been reared on fluoridated water.

We medics are even prescribing capsules with vitamins plus a dozen or more of these vital trace chemicals.

The oceans nowadays are full of all soluble chemicals that God placed on this planet. But our land is often almost totally devoid of them.

Thus, our potatoes and lettuce and celery and apples and other farm products no longer offer us the rich variety of trace chemicals that Adam obtained when he ate such garden products.

Do you think these trace chemicals may have helped explain the remarkable longevity of people prior to the flood?

Cancer researchers are almost unanimous in saying:

"Cancer is apparently due to chemical deficiency."

Well, our land is deficient of chemicals but the ocean teems with them.

Many modern ailments of middle age, such as cancer, diabetes, baldness, gray hair, possibly multiple sclerosis and others, are not regarded as due to virus or germ diseases.

No; they are called "deficiency" ailments. See tomorrow's follow-up.

'Our Property Taxes Are Another Mystery Muddle'

Each time we property owners receive our tax statements the taxes are invariably up, although the assessed valuation remains the same. When the taxpayer asks the reason why, he's given a song and dance that it's due to some mysterious State Equalization Board. No one seems to know what this board is and who are its members. It's just something to blame higher taxes upon.

★ ★ ★

The sales tax is an honest and understandable tax. We know that we pay three per cent of the purchase and anyone can figure it out.

★ ★ ★

Our property tax system is subject to all sorts of abuses simply because the taxpayer has no way of figuring his tax liability. There's probably not one person in a hundred who understands our property tax. Even people who collect taxes don't know how to explain it. Michigan has numerous serious muddles and our property tax system is just one of them.

'God Must Weep to See His Sons'

Is it "liberalism" or is it "sin" to let the murderer kill and win probation or parole, so then he soon is free to kill again? And what of those who weep for the rapist's "rights" instead of women's fear-filled nights?

★ ★ ★

Is it "liberalism" to care far more about the gunman than the man who owns the store? No. God must weep to see His sons "protect" and excuse the evil ones, while decent folks must live in fear that violent death is lurking near.

★ ★ ★

'They Know Book's Bad, Read Anyway'

It's tiring to read about these so-called adults who can't stand TV commercials and these bad books such as Lady Chatterly's Lover.

★ ★ ★

You must know that as an intelligent adult you should bypass books if you've heard they aren't good, proper reading material. But two out of three people hear all the oh's and ah's and proceed to read it. Then comes the shocked explosive awareness of things put on paper that have existed since time began. I don't approve, but these things do abide.

★ ★ ★

Why did they read these books when they must have heard the word. It's really comic how people get all riled up on something they could view with some humor when they could get excited about conditions far worse. Oh, well, small minds fret over small things.

'Hospital Comeback Deserves Publicity'

Last Saturday the Neopolitans had the opportunity to tour Pontiac General Hospital. After the luncheon, Mr. Euler spoke to us. The most impressive thing to me about this man was his keenness and straight-forwardness from the business administrative standpoint. His perception, imagination and future plans for the hospital are tremendous. I, being a Commissioner and forever cognizant of our budget, was particularly gratified at the proposed date of complete solvency of the hospital.

★ ★ ★

In view of the very bad publicity our hospital received nationally a short time ago, I think the Hospital Board, Mr. Euler, the hospital director and all administrative personnel should be highly commended for a grand comeback. Dr. Mara seems relentless in his job of making General an accredited hospital.

★ ★ ★

A most interesting but startling fact was brought out. It takes two and one-half persons to properly service one patient. This, along with facilities that must be used, explains partially the astronomical costs of hospitalization.

Someone must tell the hospital comeback story, either by more open house dates or through The Press with graphs, pictures or what-have-you. I'm sure the major portion of the community is completely unaware of the great recovery of this institution.

Loss in Number Hiring 100 or More

State Gains Firms as Others Lose

DETROIT (UPI) — New businesses mushroomed in Michigan from 1953 to 1956, most of them employing fewer than 100 persons. But the number of establishments employing more than 100 persons decreased.

This was one of the facts confirmed today in a pamphlet on "Michigan Industrial Facts," released by the Michigan Economic Development Commission.

The pamphlet was released to members of the state's "industrial ambassadors corps" as a "ready reference book to which they could turn for answers about Michigan's comparative position."

"From 1953 to 1956," the pamphlet said, "the total number of businesses in Michigan increased by 7,070. In manufacturing businesses during the same period Michigan gained 286 while the U. S. gained 2,639 and the Great Lakes bordering states (Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin) generally lost.

"Most of the (Michigan) gain during this period, however, was in establishments employing less than 100 people while there was a loss in the number of establishments employing 100 people or more."

HIGH PERCENTAGE IN CARS

During that year, the pamphlet said:

"Michigan had 2.4 million employes working in nonagricultural establishments.

"This was 30.9 per cent of the total population and ranks fifth. Employes in manufacturing only during the same period, numbered 1,025,000 which was fourth ranking.

"Michigan has an unusually high percentage of workers in the automobile and related industries. Of the employes in manufacturing, 395,000 were engaged in the manufacture of motor vehicles and related equipment.

These were 39 per cent of the total manufacturing employes and compares with 6 per cent for Ohio, 11 per cent for Indiana and an average of 10 per cent for the Great Lakes bordering states."

Michigan also ranks high among the neighboring states in population, income and spending.

On July 1, 1958, Michigan's population was 7,866,000, but in the comparison states this was surpassed only by Pennsylvania with 11,101,000, Illinois 9,889,000 and Ohio, 9,345,000.

The pamphlet predicted that by 1970 Michigan's population may reach 10,480,000, compared with 12,508,000 for Pennsylvania, 11,353,000 for Illinois and 12,258,000 for Ohio.

GROWING FAST

"Michigan's population growth," it said, "has been faster in actual numbers than any state except California, Texas and Florida. It rose faster in the last eight years (23.4 per cent) than any of the Great Lakes bordering states and was 10th in the nation."

As the population rose so did personal and manufacturing income.

In 1958, Michigan was fourth highest among the comparison states in per capita personal income. This amounted to $2,099, compared with $1,990 in Indiana, $1,916 in Minnesota and $1,936 in Wisconsin. Illinois led in this category with $2,435.

During the same year, 47.6 per cent of the wages and salaries paid in Michigan were obtained from manufacturing.

Manufacturing income that year was $5,356,000,000, compared with $2,848,000,000 in Indiana, $1,060,000,000 in Minnesota and $2,153,000,000 in Wisconsin. Pennsylvania led with $6,613,000,000, Ohio was next with $6,350,000,000 and Illinois followed with $6,120,000,000.

Michigan, the pamphlet said, ranked third among the comparison states in state and local government spending per $1,000 of personal income and first "in similar per capita expenditures during 1957."

Per capita governmental spending in 1957 was $262.81 and per $1,000 of personal income it amounted to $121.21, compared with $256.70 and $138.61 for Minnesota, $242.83 and $126.42 for Wisconsin, $227.73 and $93.68 for Illinois, $222.91 and $98.91 for Ohio, $206.75 and $102.28 for Indiana and $196.48 and $92.74 for Pennsylvania.

State and local government spending in Michigan in 1957 saw 30.2 per cent go for local schools, 9.4 per cent for state institutions of higher education, 18 per cent for highways, 6.2 per cent for welfare and 36.2 per cent for other expenditures. In comparison, Wisconsin gave 26.5 per cent for welfare; Minnesota 31.4 per cent, 7.3 per cent and 8.3 per cent respectively; Ohio 31.9 per cent, 4.0 per cent and 8.0 per cent, and Indiana, 32.0 per cent, 10.8 per cent and 58.8 per cent.

THIRD IN TAXES

As for taxes, the pamphlet said, "On the basis of $1,000 for personal income, state and local taxes in Michigan ranked third (among the comparison states) in 1957.

Michigan taxes were $83.54, exceeded only by Minnesota with $97.04 and Wisconsin with $95.90. Following Michigan were Pennsylvania, $75.98; Illinois, $73.83; Indiana, $70.09, and Ohio, $67.88.

The state's debt in 1957 per $1,000 of personal income was $101.58 or fourth among the comparison states. Pennsylvania led with $140.88; Ohio was next with $117.96, Illinois, third, with $113.98, and Minnesota, fifth, with $100.15. Indiana was sixth with $83.56 and Wisconsin seventh with $77.45.

Michigan ranked first in 1958 among the comparison states in both the average hourly rate ($2.52) and weekly earnings ($99.70) for production workers in manufacturing. However, the hours worked (39.5) ranked third.

Production workers in Ohio earned an average of $2.40 an hour; $2.34 in Indiana; $2.28 in Illinois; $2.18 in Minnesota; $2.17 in Wisconsin, and $2.15 in Pennsylvania. In weekly earnings, Ohio was second with $93.27, followed by Indiana, $91.92; Illinois, $89.86; Wisconsin, $87.63; Minnesota, $86.64, and Pennsylvania, $82.35.

Waterford Mulls Revisions in Water Loan Request

Several revisions on an application for a $100,000 federal loan for water and sewers in Waterford Township were considered last night by the Township Board. Supervisor Elmer R. Johnson was authorized to set up a special meeting with financial consultants to further the project.

Application for the loan from the Housing and Home Finance Agency was made last week, and the legal department of the agency suggested minor changes be made before the funds are granted.

In other business, action on the proposed fire prevention code was tabled until a sufficient number of copies of the code are available for posting in the township.

Director of the Oakland County Juvenile Court's Protective Service, William McCarthy, attended the meeting to discuss setting up a program and guide for child protection and youth assistance in the township.

★ ★ ★

McCarthy said that several communities have been approached on the project which would be partly supported by the county and in part by the Detroit McGregor Foundation.

A committee would be set up and a case worker assigned to Waterford Township. The township would provide office space and hire a part-time secretary.

Johnson was authorized to check with school officials as to the need for such an agency.

A request to accept a $200 grant from the Drayton-Waterford Kiwanis Club to partially pay costs of establishing a public skating rink at the Drayton Fish Hatchery was referred to the recreation board.

The Township Board approved the rezoning of a 300-foot lot on Williams Lake and Cooley Lake roads from residential to commercial for expansion of a motel in the area.

Trustee Charles Pappas' resignation was accepted. The Board is expected to appoint another trustee to complete the term of office which expires in the spring of 1961.

Pappas, who has accepted a teaching position at Northern Michigan College, has moved out of the township.

Chessman Sits 'On the Brink'

Hears About Rejection of Latest Appeal by Supreme Court

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) — "It would seem that I'm as close to the gas chamber as I can get," said Caryl Chessman, "but I've been there before."

Chessman, in San Quentin Prison's death row for 11½ of his 38 years, appeared emotionless Monday as he received word that the U. S. Supreme Court had rejected his latest appeal.

It was the 13th time the high court has considered one of Chessman's attempts to escape execution since he was sentenced to die in 1948 as Los Angeles' "red light bandit."

Chessman, who wrote a best selling novel and two other books while in prison, has had seven execution dates set and stayed. California now has authority to set another date for his death.

Chessman said he did not believe the Supreme Court considered all of his documented appeal. "I think they acted the way they planned to and the way they were advised to act."

He said he was getting ready for another petition.

Chessman was convicted in Los Angeles on 17 counts, involving robbery, kidnaping and sex perversion. He was condemned for kidnaping with bodily harm.

Roberta Peters Has Second Son Monday

NEW YORK (AP) — Opera singer Roberta Peters gave birth to a boy Monday. It was the second son for Miss Peters and her husband.

May Charge Mother With Cruelty to Child

DETROIT (UPI) — A warrant charging cruelty to a child was recommended yesterday against Mrs. Giovanni Costanza, 28, who abandoned her two-week-old son in a motel here Friday night.

★ ★ ★

After stories of the boy's being found in the motel were published and broadcast Mrs. Costanza, a divorcee, returned to claim the child.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Costanza underwent surgery yesterday for a complication of childbirth. The baby, Ronald, also was being cared for in a hospital.

Talks, Court Loom in Strike

Packinghouse Workers in Bargaining Session; State Fights Company

ALBERT LEA, Minn. (AP)—Rival forces in the volatile Wilson & Co. packinghouse dispute headed today for a fresh start at the conference table and a new collision in court.

The next scheduled encounter comes Wednesday in U. S. District Court in Minneapolis where the State will try to block a company move aimed at reopening Wilson's plant here.

The plant and community have been under martial law since Friday when Gov. Orville Freeman ordered National Guard units onto the scene as a result of two days of picket line violence involving strikers and non-union workers hired to replace them.

Balancing the court clash is Thursday's scheduled resumption of talks between management and union negotiators. The mediation session in Chicago will be their first meeting since negotiations were broken off Oct. 29 in a disagreement over work schedules.

The meeting was scheduled by the U. S. Mediation and Conciliation Service after the striking United Packinghouse Workers of America agreed to terms demanded by the company.

Union leaders pledged they will not foment any violations of future contracts and specifically will refrain from encouraging slowdowns, work suspensions, quickie strikes and refusal to work scheduled hours.

Shooting of Trooper Ranked Second

Tax Crisis Top State Story in Poll

DETROIT (UPI) — Michigan's lingering cash crisis provided the top news in the state during 1959, a poll of United Press International, newspaper, radio and television subscribers showed today.

The state's fiscal dilemma, including outlawing of the one-cent use (sales) tax hike by the Michigan Supreme Court, was voted the biggest news in the state this year on all but one of the ballots returned by papers and stations served by UPI.

Hardly a day went by during the year without attention focused on Michigan's financial plight, payless paydays for state employes and charges and counter-charges of blame in the stalemate.

The September slaying of state trooper Albert Souden was voted the second biggest news story of 1959 in Michigan and the drowning of 12 persons in a small Upper Peninsula lake was the third biggest story.

★ ★ ★

Other top stories included the Chinese student who hid for two years in a church attic at Ann Arbor; introduction of the compact cars by the big three auto makers; impact of the steel strike on Michigan industries; the duck hunting accident in which former General Motors President Harlow H. Curtice shot and killed an ex-GM vice president; the death of the Edsel; the spring election, and the drowning of five persons in separate boating accidents at Muskegon and on Lake St. Clair.

★ ★ ★

Souden was slain on Sept. 3 when he drove from the post at Brighton to Argentine about a break-in at Milford.

Knight was arrested at a cottage near Oscoda the next day and finally led officers to a shallow grave three days later after the trooper's wife pleaded with him to tell what had happened to her husband.

On Sept. 22, three adults and 10 children got into a small boat on Lake McKeever in the Upper Peninsula to ride to a cranberry bog. The boat sank and Leonard Larson, 41, Skandia, was the only survivor.

FAILED COURSES

Cheng Guan Lim didn't want to disgrace relatives and friends in his native China when he found he was failing several courses at the University of Michigan.

He took refuge in a church attic in Ann Arbor and spent nearly two years in self-imposed exile before he was discovered on Sunday, Aug. 30. Cheng has since returned to the classrooms at Michigan.

Ford, Chevrolet and Chrysler came out with the compact Falcon, Corvair and Valiant, respectively, to cash in on the growing trend towards small, economical autos.

But the big three of the auto industry were caught in the throes of the steel pinch and early output of compact cars was crimped. At one time this fall, auto companies had as many as 230,000 workers idle because of the nationwide steel strike.

The effects of the steel strike weren't confined exclusively to auto makers. Upper Peninsula mining operations were suspended and cutbacks were forced in most manufacturing operations. Great Lakes seamen also suffered because ore boats were idled.

Curtice and retired GM vice president-industrial relations, Harry W. Anderson, made their eighth annual trip to St. Anne Island on the Ontario side of Lake St. Clair Nov. 18. Anderson "lurched" into Curtice's line of fire and was fatally wounded.

Ford called it quits on a $250,000,000 gamble on Nov. 19 by announcing its Edsel line of cars was being dropped, little more than two years after the car was first introduced to the public.

★ ★ ★

Results of the spring election gave Democrats a split of house seats for the first time in more than a decade. But Republicans looked upon the election as the start of a comeback because of strong showings in races for educational boards.

★ ★ ★

Two separate boating accidents claimed five lives each. Five young persons drowned in Lake St. Clair when their small outboard capsized on the night of Sunday, May 24. Three girls clung to the boat throughout the night and were rescued. The crash of a pleasure cruiser and a ferry at Muskegon early July 4 took the lives of five occupants of the smaller boat.

A TOP STORY — Ex-convict Alvin Knight steps out of a police car last September as he is arrested in the slaying of state trooper Albert Souden. A poll by UPI picked the story as the second best of the year in the state.

Moscow Gives Small Space to Ike's Trip

MOSCOW (AP) — President Eisenhower's trip is receiving day-to-day coverage in Moscow's papers, but volume is small and nowhere near the space given to reports from New York on this week's convention of the American Communist party.

Both editorial and official comment on Eisenhower's three-continent mission are lacking.

★ ★ ★

There have been no unusual displays and no human interest sidelights. Newspapers and television stations have not used any pictures to accompany their brief reports.

★ ★ ★

Stories from Rome pointedly referred to the welcome given Eisenhower by Italy's Communist party. But none of the accounts has made any reference to the size of the crowds or tried to assess the warmth of their welcome.

The United States adopted the alloy containing 75 per cent copper and 25 per cent nickel for its five-cent piece in 1866. The same alloy is used for today's nickels.

Archbishop Makarios 1st Cyprus President

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Archbishop Makarios has been elected by a 2-to-1 vote to serve as first president of this East Mediterranean island when it becomes independent from Britain Feb. 19.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

The Greek Orthodox archbishop, political leader of the fight for independence, won 114,501 votes to 71,753 for John Clerides, former mayor of Nicosia who accused the archbishop of wanting to be a dictator.

★ ★ ★

Makarios' vice president will be Dr. Fazil Kutchuk, unopposed leader of the Turkish Cypriot minority. The Turkish Cypriots are guaranteed the vice presidential post with certain veto powers under the independence agreement worked out by Britain, Greece, Turkey and the two Cypriot communities.

WSU Prof to Receive German Decoration

DETROIT (AP) — Dr. George Lechler of Wayne State University has been named to receive the Officers Cross of the Order of Merit of the Federal Republic of Germany.

★ ★ ★

Lechler, an associate professor of art and history, was cited for furthering understanding between Germans and German-Americans.

Stops Constipation Due to "Aging Colon"

New laxative discovery re-creates 3 essentials for normal regularity.

As you grow older, the internal muscles of your colon wall also age, lose the strength that propels waste from the body. Stagnant bowel contents become so dry and shrunken that they fail to stimulate the urge to purge.

Relief, doctors say, lies in a new laxative principle. Old-style bulks and moisteners may create gas, take 3 or 4 days for relief. Old-style salts and drugs cramp and gripe the entire system. Of all laxatives, only new COLONAID gives you its special 3-way relief that works only on the lower colon (area of constipation).

(1) COLONAID moisturizes dry, hardened waste for easy passage without pain or strain. (2) COLONAID'S unequalled rebulking action helps retone flabby colon muscles. (3) And COLONAID acts gently, on the nerve reflexes that stimulate the vital "mass movement" of your lower colon.

COLONAID relieves even chronic constipation overnight; is so gentle it was hospital proved safe even for expectant mothers. And COLONAID won't interfere with absorption of vitamins or other food nutrients. Get COLONAID today! Introductory size 43¢.

LITTLE GABE AND THE GOLDEN STARS —A Christmas Story By Walt Scott

You Know These Christmas Characters?

NEW YORK (AP) — Christmas changes everybody.

Look around the place where you work. You are sure to find among your fellow workers the following typical Yuletide characters:

1. The yearend orphan—Christmas always makes him feel sad. The happier other folks feel, the sorrier he feels for himself. If you tell him to brace up, he breaks into tears.

BOYLE

2. The human marshmallow — Christmas always makes him feel glad —gooey-glad. He drips so much cloying good around the place he resembles a beehive leaking honey.

3. The calculating cutie—This is the prettiest girl in the stenographic pool. All year she's been snubbing the low-aid Joes. Now she smiles at everybody, hopeful they'll bombard her with gifts.

4. The crooner—He sang baritone in his high school choir and was voted "One Most Likely to Succeed Bing Crosby." He starts humming Christmas carols in July. By now everyone in the office would like to cut his vocal cords.

★ ★ ★

5. The public bleeder—she trots around the office taking collections for causes ranging from the office boy's retirement fund to an educational program for the Mau Maus. "Don't you want to chip in a couple of bucks for a little present for the executive vice president's mother-in-law?" she asks. "I hear she's in Palm Beach, bed-ridden with a heavy cold."

BONUS TOO TINY

6. The bonus brooder — His Christmas spirit is measured by the size of the Christmas bonus. If it isn't big enough to suit him, he says "Kilroy was here, but what happened to Santa Claus?"

7. The head starter — He is shirking his work because, like everyone else, he is too busy shopping. But there's a difference. He's buying for Christmas in 1960. This is the kind of planned-life guy who even buys his coffin in advance, then goes down with a ship at sea.

★ ★ ★

8. The big spender—Noel widens his heart like an accordian, but it can't do the same thing to his pocketbook. Your own kids have a smaller Christmas because he borrows money from you. "I don't want anybody forgotten" is his mellow motto. When he quits in mid-January, he leaves owing everybody.

★ ★ ★

9. The wistful dreamer—The old maid bookkeeper comes early to work the day before Christmas and puts a spray of mistletoe above the office doorway. Everybody grins and kisses everybody else but her until the boss, that gallant man, leads her personally under the mistletoe, and boldly busses her. Shamefaced, one by one at first, then in a rush that surrounds her, all in the office come and kiss her until she is red-faced with pleasure.

★ ★ ★

Then the boss says, "Well, nobody will get any work done today anyway, so you might as well go home. A Merry Christmas to all."

And so it is.

New York City Plans Major Airport in '65

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Plans for a major new airport to serve the New York metropolitan area have been announced. The proposed site is New Jersey's Great Swamp 25 miles west of Manhattan.

★ ★ ★

The Port Authority of New York, which unveiled the plans Monday said a new center for jet traffic would be needed by 1965, when the area's three major airports will reach capacity.

The authority told New Jersey leaders the tract could be reached from Manhattan in 30 minutes ground travel over a proposed federal highway.

★ ★ ★

The proposed 220-million-dollar terminal would be 10,000 acres. It will probably be 1970 before the airport is ready, the authority said.

Innocent Plea Entered in Theft of Merchandise

A plea of innocent was entered yesterday for John F. Marlin of Chicago by Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland after he stood mute to a charge of larceny in a building.

Marlin, 28, is accused of stealing several sweaters from Danby's Store for Men, 122 W. Maple Rd., Birmingham, earlier this month.

He is being held in the county jail under a $10,000 bond. Asked by Judge Holland why the bond was so high, Chief Assistant Prosecutor Robert D. Long said he would investigate.

After Marlin was arrested as he put three sweaters into a cardboard box, police and a store detective said they found almost $2,000 in stolen merchandise from stores around the state in the trunk of his car. Marlin is on parole from a Florida prison, police said.

Under his plea, Marlin will wait trial until the February jury term of Circuit Court.

Washington Cathedral in the nation's capital will be the sixth largest cathedral in the world when it is completed. Construction began in 1907 and is now more than 60 per cent finished. It will be a tenth of a mile long and its tower will soar 300 feet.

Jailed for Selling an Obscene Record

The first of five days in the county jail was being served today by Russell Campey, Royal Oak appliance dealer who was placed on one year probation yesterday for selling an obscene phonograph record to several teen-agers.

Circuit Judge William J. Beer ordered the probation and five days in jail for Campey, partner in the Campey-Hopwood Co., 514 E. Fourth St. The judge also ordered him to pay $250 court costs or serve 60 days.

Judge Beer imposed the probation and jail term after saying Campey, through probation investigations, was proved to have a spotless record. Campey pleaded guilty Nov. 30.

Police said the youths apparently discovered the "party record" under a counter in the store, left there by a salesman. The boys claimed Campey sold them the record for $2.50.

Widow at 14, Seeks Social Security Help

SIKESTON, Mo. (AP) — Peggy Sue Praul, who may be the nation's youngest widowed mother at 14, has turned to the Social Security Administration for aid.

Harold F. Kearns, social security district director at Cape Girardeau, Mo., said Monday he doesn't know of any case involving a widowed mother younger than Mrs. Praul.

★ ★ ★

Her husband, truck driver Ernest C. Praul Jr., was killed last August in a highway accident. He had no insurance. Their son, Brett Michael Praul, was born three months after his death.

Both families gave their consent when the couple was married Nov. 5, 1958. Mrs. Praul is living with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Spirling Evans of Sikeston.

VISIT TO TAJ MAHAL — Garlanded President Eisenhower, his daughter-in-law Barbara and Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru stand before a pool in front of the Taj Mahal during a visit to the famed shrine at Agra, India, Sunday.

Aides Falter; Ike Chugs Along

President Medical Puzzle

By MERRIMAM SMITH
UPI White House Reprter

ATHENS, Greece — Students of psychosomatic medicine would have a fine time examining the record of President Eisenhower on his current trip, particularly the better part of a week he spent in India.

By all odds and his previous medical record, the hardships to which Eisenhower exposed himself should have put him in bed with a bad cold or at least a severe cough, yet the adulation of hundreds of thousands cheering him in the streets seemed to act as a miraculous preventative.

Eisenhower's entourage has been suffering from all sorts of travel ailments—colds, dysentery, even a mild heart attack suffered by one of the young communications experts in the Eisenhower party.

Until about noon he is a trifle puffy around the eyes and sleepy looking.

By midday he brightens considerably.

His speech delivery in India was fairly vigorous, except for the address to Parliament, where he was occasionally faltering because he was forced to speak without his usual lectern and had to stand in front of an audience shuffling sheets of his text.

Most of the people traveling with the President feel that it was a shame that stories of his visit of Kabul, Afghanistan, were blanketed on the same day by accounts of his tumultuous arrival in India.

Even in the face of the huge Indian reception, the way Eisenhower was welcomed by the people of Kabul still stands out in minds of his staff as the darnedest thing they ever saw.

After Eisenhower has conferred with King Mohammed Zahir in his castle at Kabul, the two leaders drove to a nearby athletic field for a public greeting en route to the landing pad for a helicopter to bear Ike back to his place some 40 miles away.

At this athletic field, the crowd went simply mad with people literally trying to hurl themselves gleefully into the rear of Ike's open touring car.

Secret service agents were exhausted after batting down the human tennis balls that came hurtling at them from stone walls and other projections beside the line of procession.

More amazing was the number of people who, completely impervious of icy cold weather, forded a stream at the base of King Mohammad Zahir's castle in an effort to get a closer look at Ike.

This might not have attracted too much attention, had it not been for the fact that people rushed across the stream at places where the water was two and three feet deep, wearing their Sunday best.

No Summons in Accident

Lady Attlee Goes Free

AMERSHAM, England (AP) — An old sea dog who said he wages "cold war on the road hog" failed Monday to have Lady Attlee hauled into court on a traffic summons.

Lt. Commander (retired) William G. Boaks, 55, sought Amersham magistrates' permission for a private prosecution.

He applied for summonses against the wife of former Prime Minister Earl Attlee for allegedly killing by dangerous driving, or for dangerous driving, or careless driving.

Her car was recently in collision with another in which a passenger was killed.

The other driver, Abraham Cook, was accused of causing the death by dangerous driving. He denied the charge.

Boaks contended that by charging only one driver, the police and public prosecutor's office prejudged the case. He wanted a jury to assess the blame.

The court clerk said he could find no authority for any person unconnected with a case to issue a summons.

A survey by the Health Insurance Institute found that 70 per cent of all patients admitted to hospitals in the U.S. stay seven days or less, 88 per cent 14 days or less and 96 per cent 30 days or less.

Ann Arbor Senior Top State Speaker

LANSING (AP) — Louis Cutrona, 17-year-old senior at Ann Arbor High School, Monday was named winner of the state "Voice of America" speech contest sponsored by the Michigan Assn. of Broadcasters.

★ ★ ★

Judges, listening to taped recordings, chose the youth from among 10 regional finalists giving original speeches on "I Speak for Democracy." His prize will be an expense paid trip to Washington, D.C., in February to compete in the national contest.

★ ★ ★

Young's a Very Mysterious Seeker After Adventures

By WHITNEY MARTIN

★ ★ ★

The 36-year-old Miami soldier of fortune, long involved in Cuban intrigues, escaped and was recaptured after being sentenced to 30 years by a Cuban military tribunal on charges of counterrevolutionary action. His past is quite as hazy as his future.

Certain facts are known concerning his life, other stories can't be pinned down. He has talked little about his exploits.

It is known he was born in Indianapolis and lived in Flint, Mich., and Detroit; that he was sent to a military school when he was 7 years old, later attended the Culver, Ind., Military Academy, and spent a year at Michigan State.

MARRIED TWICE

It also is known his father, a former General Motors executive, set him up in the automobile business in West Palm Beach, Fla.; that Young Jr. has been married twice and has an 8-year-old by his first wife and three small children by his present wife, and that he craves excitement.

Beyond that, aside from his troubles in Cuba, there is little to go on. He claimed to have flown with the British RAF and the Flying Tigers. One report, not attributed to him, had him serving with the U. S. Air Force in Korea, but his wife says that isn't true as far as she knows.

Mrs. Young, who works as a waitress to support their children, last saw her husband Sept. 13. He had returned home after five months' imprisonment in Cuba on the charge of bringing illegal pesos into that country, and also on suspicion of flying Batista followers from Cuba to the U. S. at $1,500 a head.

★ ★ ★

His wife said he told her he was finished with Cuba, and that he was going to New York to look into a business proposition. The next she heard he had been captured by Castro troops in a skirmish near Pinar del Rio.

A friend, Don Smith, who once was Young's business associate, sized his erstwhile partner up this way:

"Austin is an adventurous soul, always looking for new frontiers. He would have been in the California Gold Rush, or with the Lewis and Clark Expedition.

"He was very quiet and never boasted of his adventures. He acted without thinking of consequences. He'd bet on anything, but he wasn't a gambler. He was a type of friend who would drop in for a couple of weeks, and when he left you would miss him."

New UP Bridge to Handle More Traffic Than Big Mac

HOUGHTON (AP)—The State Highway Dept. has set Sunday for opening the new 11-million-dollar Portage Lake lift bridge connecting the northern and southern strips of the Keweenaw Peninsula in Upper Michigan.

The combined vehicular and railway bridge over Portage Lake is 1,310 feet long. It took years to build.

The upper deck of the bridge is for vehicular and pedestrian traffic. The lower deck is for two railway lines, the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic and the Copper Range.

★ ★ ★

The Sunday opening will be for vehicular traffic. The lower deck will be open for trains a month later.

An estimated 13,000 cars a day will be crossing the upper deck, engineers estimated. They said this would be a greater traffic volume than that of the Straits of Mackinaw Bridge.

The new bridge will be dedicated next June.

Jordan Bars Movies by Lewis, Robinson

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI)—Jordan Monday added the names of actor Edward G. Robinson and comedian Jerry Lewis to its list of Jewish performers whose movies are formally banned in the country.

The ban was extended to include Lewis and Robinson because of their alleged fund-raising for Israel and help given Zionism. Actresses Elizabeth Taylor and Haya Harareet already are on the list.

Vote Today on Bond Issue in South Lyon

Future of Rochester Schools Up for Discussion

Need $615,000 for Junior High

Board Feels Confident No Millage Increase Will Be Necessary

LYON TOWNSHIP — Property owners here go to the polls today to decide a proposed $615,000 bond issue for new school construction.

Members of the school Board have stated they are confident that the new school can be constructed without increasing the present eight mill levy for debt retirement that has prevailed in the school district the past several years.

If approved, the proposed 20-room elementary school would be used to house junior high and some elementary school children for the next three years.

At that time, long range plans call for the construction of a new high school and the shifting of the junior high classes to the present high school.

★ ★ ★

According to School Superintendent Frank Bartlett, elementary and junior high school students are presently using classrooms that are inadequate because of increased enrollment.

The proposed school would be designed to house 600 pupils, he said.

The new school would be built on property already owned by the school Board. It would be located just south of South Lyon city limits and east of Pontiac trail.

The polls will be open until 8 p.m. tonight at the South Lyon Elementary School.

FDA Casts Wry Glance at Milk

Farmers Are Warned They Must Be Careful in Using Drugs, DDT

CHICAGO (AP)—A federal official, reporting that some milk contains penicillin and traces of pest killing substances, today told farmers that "we expect to devote more attention to milk in the near future."

Commissioner George P. Larrick of the Food and Drug Administration made the statement in a talk at the annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

He warned farmers that they must use care in handling what he termed poisons.

The government withheld some cranberries from the market before Thanksgiving because they had been contaminated by a chemical weed killer. It also halted the marketing of some chickens treated with a synthetic sex hormone. The substances in both cases officials said, could induce cancer in animals.

DRUG, MILK COMBINE

Larrick said that when penicillin is infused into a cow's udder to treat mastitis, the drug comes out with the milk for a period of time.

"Several surveys conducted by the food and drug administration have shown penicillin and chlorinated hydrocarbonates in market milk," he said.

He recalled that farmers have been urged not to use DDT around dairy barns or cattle and to use related pesticides only in accordance with directions.

"We have tried to get across to dairymen the fact that it is necessary to discard milk from treated animals for an appropriate time following the last application of penicillin," Larrick said.

"Our latest surveys show improvement. But market milk still contains penicillin and pesticide residues."

Larrick reported that the Council on Drugs of the American Medical Assn. had advised his administration to get penicillin out of milk. He said that in October his Department had started a drive that will lead to a legal action when penicillin or pesticides are found in milk shipped across state lines.

OXFORD — Herman Boose will be installed as worshipful master of Oxford Lodge 84 F&AM at 8 p.m. Friday at the lodge.

The ceremony will be conducted by Past Masters Jay Loomis and Allen Valentine.

Rochester Council Lets Police Cruiser Contract

ROCHESTER — In a brief session last night the Rochester Village Council awarded the contract for a new police cruiser, donated $200 to the Avon Youth Service and Recreation Assn. and moved to establish load limits on Romeo and Parkdale roads.

The police cruiser contract was awarded to the lowest of three ership. The cost will be $994.08 with trade-in.

The AYSRA had requested a contribution of $600 which the Council pared to $200. Members said they felt the association already is getting tax money from the village, and for the proportion of the population served outside village limits, this amount should be adequate.

★ ★ ★

Last night marked the first reading of a traffic ordinance amendment establishing a 10,000 pound gross vehicle weight load limit for through traffic on Parkdale and Romeo roads.

The amendment is designed to permit truck deliveries but to bar huge vehicles from using the road as a throughway.

TONY P. GALAN

Area Unit to Install Worshipful Master

ROMEO — Tony P. Galan will be installed as worshipful master of Romeo Lodge 41 F&AM at 8 p.m. Friday.

Galan, who lives at 288 S. Main St., has been a member of the local lodge since 1953 and is also a member of the Moslem Temple and 32nd degree Scottish Rite. He currently is serving as chairman of the advisory board of DeMolay.

The ceremony will be conducted by Past Masters Clifford McLean, Sidney Fellows, Marion Holmes and Wayne Reeves of Roosevelt Lodge 510 of Pontiac and Edmund Komraus of River Rouge Lodge, Detroit.

Among the other officers to be installed are Robert Smith, senior warden; Rolland Krohn, junior warden; Thomas Hill, treasurer; and Preston Coay, secretary.

Thomas School PTA Plans Saturday Party

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — The Thomas School PTA will sponsor a Christmas party for pupils and their families at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the all-purpose room of the school.

★ ★ ★

Among the special features will be the appearance of Santa Claus and a magician plus a toy auction and group carol singing.

★ ★ ★

The ice skating rink has been started. It will be finished as soon as the weather allows, a PTA spokesman said today.

★ ★ ★

Because of the party, there will be no PTA business meeting Saturday night.

Lake Orion Club to Hear Talk on Social Service

LAKE ORION—David Cowley, a member of Louis C. Miriani's interracial committee of Detroit, will speak at Thursday night's meeting of the Men's Club of Lake Orion Methodist Church.

★ ★ ★

Cowley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cowley of Lake Orion, will give an illustrated talk outlining his work and the results obtained by the committee upon which he serves.

A graduate of Lake Orion High School, Cowley attended the University of Michigan and has a master's degree in social service from Wayne State University.

Cowley has been commended for his successful work in the field of social service in Wayne County.

Dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. with the invocation to be given by the Rev. Albert Johns. Martin Crothers has charge of the devotions.

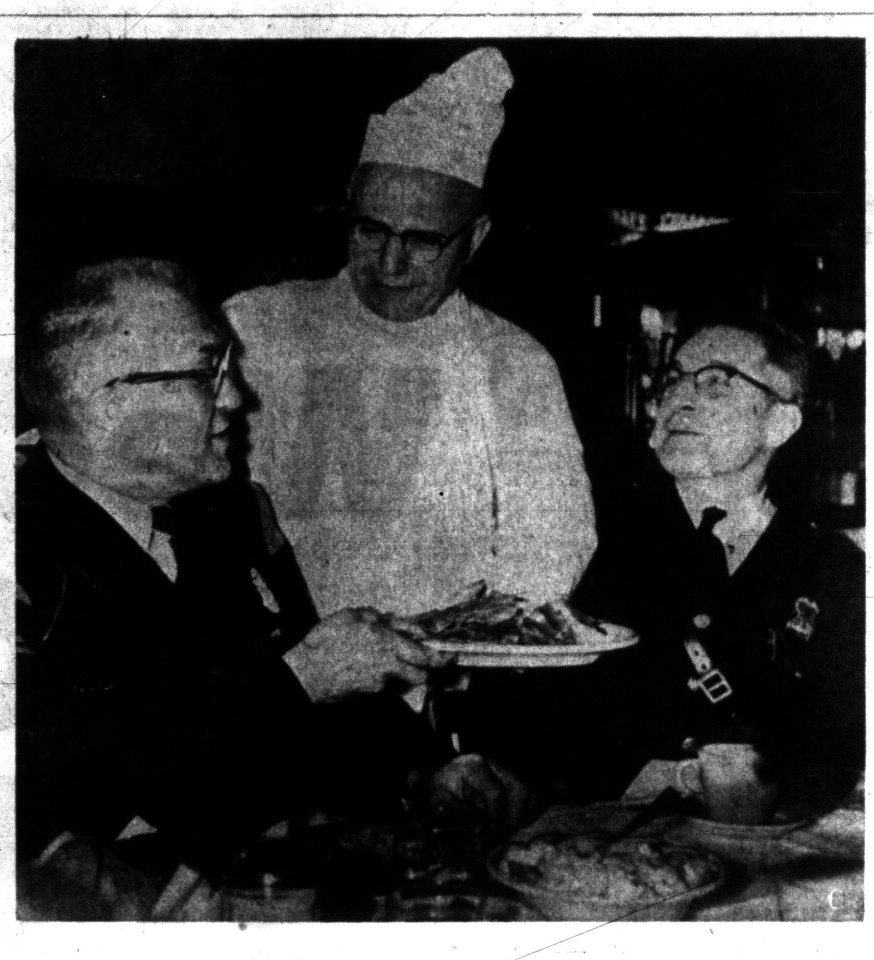

Club President Earl Hallock invites all men of Lake Orion to attend the meeting which is scheduled a week early because of Christmas.

To Bid Pastor Farewell at Walled Lake Church

WALLED LAKE — An open house and farewell party for the Rev. O. A. Gerken, pastor of St. Matthew Lutheran Church, will be given Sunday at the church from 3 to 6 p.m.

Rev. Gerken, who has been pastor of St. Matthew's 10 years, will be transferred to Warren Jan. 4 to begin a new church.

St. Matthew's, dedicated last summer, is at 2040 S. Commerce Rd.

FETES STATE TROOPERS — Following a Christmas custom he established seven years ago, Romeo restaurateur Louis Vanoff and his wife treated some 50 state police officers and men to a banquet yesterday at the Peerless Cafe in Romeo. Among the guests were former Police Commissioner Donald S. Leonard and men from as far away as Imlay City, Birmingham and Detroit. Here Chef Louis passes a heaping plate of ham to the Commander of the Romeo post, Sgt. Wilmer J. Moilanen, left, and to Romeo Police Chief Edgar Welsch, a former state police officer himself. The local troopers presented Vanoff and his wife a games table and lamp before the end of the festivities.

Doctor's Death Ruled Accident

HAZEL PARK—The death of Dr. Matthew A. Musial in his blazing apartment here Saturday night was ruled accidental yesterday.

He said Dr. Musial, 36, apparently panicked when he awoke in his smoke-filled bedroom, and rushed to a closet to grab some clothing.

Overcome by smoke, he died in the clothes closet, his body wrapped in a sheet.

The fire at 1770 E. Woodward Heights was reported by another tenant of the building to Hazel Park Fire Department. Firemen said the blaze started in a wastepaper basket.

The father of two boys, Dr. Musial was separated from his wife who lives in Grand Rapids.

He was chief surgeon at Palmer Osteopathic Hospital in Detroit.

Service will be held tomorrow at John Santeiu and Son Funeral Home, Detroit, with burial in Holy Sepulchure Cemetery.

To Survey Milford Water, Rate Setup

MILFORD — A survey of this village's entire water system and rate structure will begin in the next several weeks, according to Village Manager Oliver Taylor.

At last night's council meeting Dr. Robert McCauley, a professor of sanitary engineering at Michigan State University was hired to make the study.

McCauley, who will be paid $1,000, will complete the survey in 10 weeks, Taylor said.

When the study is completed McCauley will report to the council any recommendations for the expansion of the water system in the village and plans to strengthen the system over a period of years, Taylor said.

In October the Michigan Department of Health banned any proposed constructions of new subdivisions in the village until a third well was sunk.

At that time the council voted against sinking a new well until a study was made of the water situation.

The ban on new subdivision did not affect homes under construction or where construction would be near an existing water main.

A letter from T. L. Vander Velde, chief of the Water Supply Division of Engineering for the Health Department, stated at that time the water supply in the village reached a "dangerously low point" last summer when a pump on one of the wells was closed for repairs.

Taylor said he had no idea how McCauley's study would affect the ban on proposed construction.

Goodfellows Seek Tots' Clothes, Toys

TROY—To augment their recent drive for funds, the Troy Goodfellows now are asking for toys, clothing and household effects, in usable condition, to give to needy families at Christmastime.

★ ★ ★

Persons with articles to donate may take them either to the Troy police station on 16-Mile road at Delmere street or to Troy Fire Hall No. 1 on Rochester road, south of 16-Mile road.

★ ★ ★

If the contributors cannot bring the items to either location, a member of the police or fire department will collect them. Arrangements for collecting the usable articles may be made by calling MI 6-3200.

The Goodfellows hope to have the contributions in by this weekend or by Dec. 23 at the latest.

In Pontiac Township

Confirm Area Planner

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP—The Pontiac Township Board last night confirmed the appointment of Dr. S. L. Slowik to a three-year term on the Avon-Pontiac Townships Regional Planning Commission.

Dr. Slowik had just completed a one-year term to which he was named at the time the commission was formed in 1958.

After considerable discussion the Board decided to have the township attorney examine specimen copies of three companies' policies who submitted bids on insurance covering fire trucks and equipment.

Lions Busy With Parties

Wednesday will be a busy day for members of the Pontiac Lions Club and a lucky day for blind children and adults in the area.

The club will sponsor two big Christmas parties.

The first, for blind and crippled children, will take place at noon at the Waldron Hotel. Lions will play host to an estimated 60 children and teachers at the annual party.

Youngsters attending will come from the crippled children's room at Mark Twain School, the blind children's room at Alcott School, and the sight conservation room at Webster School.

There are nine totally blind children in the Alcott School group. Those from Webster have limited vision. Both are projects of the club.

There will be special music and plenty of goodies for all the kids. Santa will be there to hand out gifts, specially selected and wrapped by Al Watson and Simms Brothers Department Store personnel.

In the evening a dance will be held for blind adults at Central Elementary School on Pike St. at 8 p.m. The dance committee has something extra planned in refreshments and entertainment, according to a club spokesman.

Troy Tables Resignation of Yanich

TROY — The City Commission refused to accept the resignation of fellow Commissioner Louis Yanich at last night's meeting.

Members decided to wait until they have had a chance to talk to Yanich, probably at the next meeting, Dec. 28.

Yanich was not present at last night's meeting. He is attending a relative's funeral "up north," said City Clerk J. Lawson Lockhart.

Yanich, who said "I'm tired of everything being tabled and our never doing anything," put his resignation into letter form. Received by the City Commission last night, it was tabled pending the talk.

The letter, dated Saturday, read "Please accept my resignation as of today as a City of Troy Commissioner and member of the Utility Committee."

Yanich first announced his resignation at a closed door meeting of the City Commission last Friday. It had been called to discuss a pay plan for city employes and possible personnel changes.

Long opposed to closed door meetings, Yanich said then he "is tired of doing nothing and wasting the taxpayers' money."

Action on the city audit for 1958-59, presented to Commissioners a week ago, also was tabled.

The Commission did, however, award a city insurance policy to Auto Owners Insurance Co. A comprehensive liability policy, it covers city employes and cost $1,300.

Knight Wires Castro on Buchanan Release

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Cuban Premier Fidel Castro has been asked to intervene personally in the case of Miami Herald reporter James Buchanan, charged in Cuba with concealing information about the escape of Frank Austin Young, by the editor and publisher of the Knight newspapers.

John S. Knight said yesterday in a telegram to the Cuban leader: "Investigation will show Buchanan had no connection whatsoever with the prison escape of Austin Young.

"Buchanan was in fact in Miami at the time of Young's escape. He was later sent to Havana on a normal news assignment and was simply a journalist doing his job at the time of his arrest.

Appreciate your personal intervention in his case to bring about his early release."

SALLY L. ANDERSON

Mr. and Mrs. Lee. C. Anderson of 220 Andrews Ave., Orion Township, announce the engagement of their daughter, Sally L., to Henry J. Angeli Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Angeli of 3491 Orion Rd., Oakland Township. The wedding will take place April 23.

Planning Unit Meeting Set

Census Reports Will Be Presented at Junior High Tomorrow

ROCHESTER — Community growth and changing school needs will be discussed at the Rochester Elementary Schools Planning Committee meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

School administrators will present reports on changes in the number of school children in the various parts of the district at the session to be held in Room 203 of the junior high school.

Census reports and school population growth data will be discussed in connection with plans for a new elementary school in the Harrison Central district.

Recently the committee went over reports by several elementary school teachers on the use and desirability of self-contained classrooms.

★ ★ ★

It was determined that more flexibility could be offered through the use of nonload-bearing walls between rooms. Because the size of rooms differ to fit changing teaching methods, these walls would be more adaptable than permanent ones, the group learned.

Mrs. William Chapman, committee member, reported at the last meeting on information obtained from several sources regarding the desirability and flexibility of use of space.

Orin Griffith, representing the architectural firm of O'Dell, Hewlett and Luckenbach, selected to discuss the new school, stated that nonload-bearing walls are a feature of many buildings and are not necessarily more expensive.

NEW SCHOOL

He told the group that they could be incorporated in the building plans.

He stated that it would be less costly to construct the school on two levels to fit the contours of the land.

Mrs. Lawrence Springett and Charles Shook have been appointed to a committee to study playground areas and equipment.

The planning committee has expressed the hope that more parents and taxpayers will attend its meetings and voice their opinions on matters under discussion.

Yule Concert Set for Thursday at Rochester

ROCHESTER—The Junior Varsity Band, directed by Ward T. Reid, and the seventh, eighth and ninth grade choir, led by Barnard Leshley, will present a Christmas concert at 8 p.m. Thursday at the school.

★ ★ ★

Seasonal music will include a Christmas march, "Carol of the Bells," many folk carols and popular tunes.

★ ★ ★

A special feature of the program will be the first performance of an orginal carol, "Angels Sing Around the World," by Principal Frank Richardson.

★ ★ ★

Judge Denies Home to Martha's Husband

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — A State Supreme Court justice has rejected ex-cop Robert O'Shea's claim to comedienne Martha Raye's Long Island home and its furnishings, which the actress values at $100,000.

O'Shea, Miss Raye's sixth husband, contended the actress promised him the home if he would marry her. They were married after a romance that cost him his job as a Connecticut policeman and caused his wife to divorce him.

Justice Edward Robinson Jr. rejected O'Shea's claim to the home Monday. Miss Raye's attorney argued that such a claim is illegal under a 1938 law outlawing breach of promise suits in this state.

O'Shea is suing for separation. Besides the Kings Point house, he also is seeking $21,000 for services as Miss Raye's bodyguard and $100,000 damages.

Millions at Stake

Squatter's Rights Suit Due

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Any day now a law suit will come to trial. Its outcome could make a junk dealer a millionaire over night.

★ ★ ★

The plaintiff is Harold Stevenson, 69. He says that for 31 years he squatted on 64 acres of then worthless marshland in the Eastwick section. Because of redevelopment the value of the property now is estimated at about a million dollars.

★ ★ ★

About a year ago the Philadelphia Redevelopment Authority condemned the 64 acres. Most of the land is part of the huge Eastwick redevelopment project but parts of it are in nearby Delaware County and can be used for private development.

The tract is located about a quarter-mile across the industrial highway from International Airport and is near the new multi-million-dollar plant of the Scott Paper Co.

Stevenson's lawyer, Lawrence J. Richette, says the going price for the land in the area now is $15,000 to $20,000 an acre.

Stevenson asserted his squatter's rights last June by filing suit in Common Pleas Court to have himself declared legal owner of the marsh.

He is claiming the oldest concept in Anglo-Saxon law—that of adverse possession, which means occupancy without permission of the owner for at least 21 years.

Stevenson asserts he moved onto the property in 1928 and held it in "actual, continuous, exclusive, visible, notorious, distinct and hostile adverse possession as to all the world for a period of 21 years" and it is his. He asks the court to declare him the owner and to void all deeds and mortgages.

Elias H. Stein, the title and deed holder, denies Stevenson occupied the property for 21 years. Stein says Stevenson was a tenant or trespasser and recognized others as having a superior title to the land.

Justice Department Praises U.S. Attorney

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—U. S. attorney Wendell A. Miles' handling of a case involving the contempt of Congress citation of former University of Michigan instructor Horace Chandler Davis has won Justice Department plaudits.

The U. S. Supreme Court last week declined to review the conviction of Davis on charges of contempt for refusal to answer Senate subcommittee questions about alleged affiliations with the Communist Party.

The Justice Department informed Miles: "As you can imagine, this division was also very pleased with the decision and we extend to you our sincere congratulations for your fine handling of the case. The decision should be of assistance in connection with other pending contempt cases."

An estimated one million Americans are confined to their homes because of chronic health conditions.

Foreign Ministers Meet in Paris to Mend Holes in Western Alliance

PARIS (AP)—Foreign ministers of the 15 Atlantic Allies met today in a bright new headquarters to seek ways of repairing the fraying fabric of Western unity.

It was plain that this time the problems, both diplomatic and military, were many and couldn't be ducked. Chief among them was the openly expressed feeling of the United States and other members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization that France is not doing its share.

★ ★ ★

After 10 years the alliance seemed to be in for heavy rethinking. Secretary-General Paul-Henri Spaak told newsmen he was "convinced the alliance cannot live unless it adapts itself."

★ ★ ★

On Saturday French President Charles de Gaulle will be host to President Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and West German chancellor Conrad Adenauer.

The date, place and agenda of the East-West summit will be discussed by all the NATO powers. The date to be proposed to Khrushchev is expected to fall sometime between April 15 and May 31. Geneva is regarded as the likely place, although the French would prefer Paris.

The agenda is something else again. The big Western leaders will have to sort that out, with Eisenhower possibly serving as the man to bridge the conflicting views.

Of even more immediate importance, the lone hand De Gaulle is playing to revive the glory of France is causing strains in the Western defense system.

This was pinpointed last week when Gen. Nathan Twining, chairman of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, charged America's partners with not assuming their fair share of the defense effort. He pointed a finger particularly at France.

France was stung. At a private meeting Monday French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville told U. S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter that Twining's remarks were of "an excessive and dramatic character."

The West Germans moved cautiously toward the American position. Spaak took the line that frankness was a good thing. "We can only be happy that highly placed persons in the alliance state the problems clearly," he told a news conference.

Herter and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd agreed to get going on preparations for the resumption in February of East-West disarmament negotiations, dormant for two years.

UAW Economist Dies in Head-On Collision

FREDERICKSBURG, Va. (AP) — Samuel Jacobs, an economist for the United Auto Workers Union, and his wife were fatally injured near here yesterday when their car collided head-on with a truck.

The Jacobs were killed when their car crashed with a truck operated by John Wilson of Jessups, Md. The accident occurred on state route 2 about three miles south of here.

Wilson told police he was traveling south when the Jacobs' car entered his lane and ran into the truck.

Jacobs, a native of Detroit, had been a Washington representative for the UAW since 1951. He joined the union three years earlier as assistant to the director of education in Detroit, and later as its research associate there.

In 1955, he went on leave from the union to serve as legislative assistant here to Sen. Patrick McNamara (D-Mich).

Jacobs had been a public school teacher in Detroit from 1928 to 1941 and then joined the OPA as consumer representative in Detroit from 1941 until his transfer to Washington.

He received his B.S. and M.A. degrees at Wayne State University and also taught there during his career.

At the time of the accident, he was on his way home after speaking at Williamsburg, Va., at a conference on employment security.

2 Charged With Acting as Police Plead Innocent

Two teen-agers, who were arrested playing the roles of policemen ticketing a motorist, yesterday had pleas of innocent entered for them in Circuit Court for impersonating public officers.

Through their attorneys, John E. Bennett, 18, of 715 Square Lake Rd., Bloomfield Township, and Richard B. Whitney, 17, of 156 Linden St., Birmingham, stood mute to the charges.

Bennett already is serving 60 days in the county jail as part of two years probation for the malicious destruction of a phone booth last summer.

Bennett, Whitney, and two other youths attracted notice by a Bloomfield Township officer last month through the blinking red light on their unmarked car. They had stopped another car and reportedly were about to "ticket" the driver.

Whitney is on bond and will await trial with Bennett. Charges against the other two boys were dropped.

Would Shackle Press TV Hand

Rep. Celler Will Propose Bill to Curb Newspaper Control of Stations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-NY) will ask Congress to bar newspapers and magazines from controlling a substantial part of any community's radio and television stations.

Celler, chairman of the House Judiciary committee and its anti-trust subcommittee, said his proposal was aimed at protecting "the right of the people to hear a variety of views."

The New York lawmaker said that when Congress reconvenes next month, he will introduce a bill to prevent the Federal Communications Commission from granting or renewing a radio or TV license which would result in concentrated control over mass communications media in any area.

He emphasized that the bill was NOT directed at newspaper ownership of radio and TV stations as such, but only at situations where the press would control "a substantial portion" of the available broadcasting outlets. It would NOT apply in cases where a press-owned station was only one of many in a community, he said.

Celler said that newspapers and magazines "have always played an influential part in moulding public opinion and shaping public policy."

He noted the recent disclosure that the late Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) blamed a hostile press largely for his failure to win the 1952 Republican presidential nomination.

"Quite a different page in history might have been written had the press taken another position," he said.

Speaking to Stranger Is Right

By EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: A short while ago a friend of mine showed me a picture of her son's fiancee. One day, while on the bus, I recognized the girl from her picture and went over to her to ask her if she was "Mary, John's fiancee." She said she was, and I introduced myself. My husband, who was with me at the time, criticized me for walking up to a perfect stranger and introducing myself to her and said that I was wrong to have done so. I see nothing wrong in what I did, but to settle this dispute I would appreciate hearing what you have to say about this.

Answer: Under the circumstances, you were not wrong. If she had answered that she was not John's fiancee, you would have said, "I'm so sorry, please forgive me" and no harm would have been done.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it impolite for a woman to shake hands with either another woman or a man without getting up? As an example, she is sitting on the sofa at a large tea or cocktail party. Another guest whom she has not seen for some time, comes over to greet her and holds out her hand. Does she have to get up out of the sofa? And what if this person were a man?

Answer: She must stand up if she is much younger than the woman greeting her. Otherwise she may stay where she it. Unless she is the hostess and he a new arrival, a woman does not rise for a man.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper to call people by their first names after being introduced to them for the first time? I am referring to a couple in their mid-thirties.

Answer: Most certainly not, unless the couple have been introduced to a group in which only first names are used. And even then, they should wait to be told to call them by first names, before doing so.

Deck Green Lake House for Holidays

Combined community groups joined forces this week to decorate the Green Lake Community House for the traditional holiday festivities. Members of the Green Teens, Hi-Teens, the Green Lake Womens' Club and the Green Lake Community Assn. worked under the direction of Mrs. Otis Walton and Mrs. Jacques Carpenter to complete their task in time for two annual community events, the children's Christmas party and the Green Lake Women's Club Christmas party.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. William H. Murray was chairman of the Sunday afternoon children's party, assisted by Mrs. Richard Elwood, Mrs. William Laitinen, Mrs. Leslie Fiske and Mrs. Carpenter.

Gifts were assembled for distribution to needy children. Highlight of the afternoon was the presentation of a play, written and staged by members of Intermediate Girl Scout Troop 152.

★ ★ ★

Monday afternoon's luncheon meeting was the setting for the Green Lake Womens' Club Christmas party. The afternoon included a gift exchange and two Christmas plays directed by Mrs. Joseph Neal. The cast included Mrs. Martin Helmreich, Mrs. James Haggerty, Mrs. John Rozieson, Mrs. Ernest Fuller and Mrs. Murray.

Luncheon chairman was Mrs. Daniel Geisler assisted by Mrs. Paul Potter, Mrs. Pierre Mauck, Mrs. Fred Bott, Mrs. Robert Stewart, Mrs. Otis Walton and Mrs. Gene Mitchell.

Alumnae Dance Set

Committees have been announced for the annual Alumnae Dance of the Kingswood and Cranbrook Schools Dec. 26 at the Orchard Lake Country Club. Proceeds benefit the scholarship fund.

★ ★ ★

Dancing will begin at 9 p. m. followed by a post-dance breakfast.

★ ★ ★

Intermission entertainment will be supplied by Robert Bates at the piano. Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Raish will provide a skit. Mr. Bates is a member of the Cranbrook faculty in the music department.

★ ★ ★

Dance committee assistants are Mrs. Paul C. Hoffman, Mrs. Lawrence P. Heitsch, Mr. and Mrs. Michael B. Redfield, David F. Breck, John B. Rice and Bruce Smith.

Twain PTA to See Film

The December meeting of the Mark Twain PTA will be Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the kindergarten room of the school.

Frances Priest, visiting teacher in the Pontiac School system, will moderate a discussion following the showing of the film "Mike Makes His Mark."

Correct Recipe

The cookie recipe for French BonBons should read 1½ cups sifted flour.

"Holiday Hospitality," a table in pink, was created by Mrs. John J. Marra of Lake Orion. Pink candles in a candelabrum of gold roses from Italy were arranged on a floor length pink satin cloth overlaid with pink tulle. Bells, wreaths and Christmas trees cut from pink felt and dotted with multicolored sequins were applied to the tulle. Mrs. Harold A. Furlong and Mrs. Arthur R. Young made the cloth. Shown is Mrs. Walter K. Willman, group president.

Circle Yule Programs at Homes

Central Methodist Service Units Get Together

Circles of Central Methodist's Woman's Society of Christian Service have participated in Christmas programs in homes of members.

Christmas organ selections were played by Mrs. Robert Field, hostess to Martha Graf Circle Tuesday at her home on South Avery street. Mrs. Armen Googasian and Mrs. Morris Segal arranged the program. Mrs. William Moulton Jr. was piano accompanist for carol singing.

The Rev. D. J. Wallace explained the meaning of Advent to Ada Duhigg Circle at the home of Mrs. Dale Ballard of Joslyn road. Mrs. William Bullock was devotional chairman.

On Thursday morning, Mrs. Fred Crossman of Lakeland avenue, was hostess to Barbara Norris Circle. Mrs. Milton H. Bank told an original story entitled "A Miracle." Mrs. W. S. Dawe read the devotions.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Charles Crawford served luncheon to Leora Shanks Circle Thursday at her Williams street home. Mrs. Harold Srigley read devotions and Mrs. Carl Peterson spoke concerning the "True Meaning of Christmas."

Christmas in India was told in story form by Mrs. P. G. Latimer at dessert luncheon served by Mrs. George Alexander of North Johnson street to Marion Shaw Circle. Mrs. R. W. Vessells, woman's society president, was guest of honor.

Margaret Johnston Circle met with Mrs. P. H. Kemp of Cherokee road for salad luncheon. Mrs. Howard Simmons read the Nativity story and Mrs. L. B. Rubey presented the program.

Mrs. Glenn Behler read "The Littlest Angel" at a potluck dinner for the Otto Sisters Circle at the church. Mrs. Harry Martin gave devotions.

Dessert luncheon hostess to Janette Geiger Circle was Mrs. Fred Travis of Cherokee road. Mrs. Mabelle Wilson and Mrs. John Garrison presented devotions and a story on Christmas in India.

Dr. John H. Hall evaluated the Christmas spirit in a talk before Sara English Circle at dessert luncheon with Mrs. Bert Farnsworth of Stanley street.

David Crawford played carols and selections from "The Messiah" Thursday evening at the home of his mother, Mrs. Earl Crawford of Oaknoll street. Ortha Lane Circle members were guests. Mrs. Merle Smith's devotional theme was "The Solitary Life."

Also meeting on Thursday were the Jean Bagnall Circle at the home of Mrs. Percy Shea on North Anderson street. Mrs. Harold Boughner outlined "Christmas Customs in Korea." Mrs. Walter Sheffield read the Christmas story from St. Luke. Carols were sung and cookies exchanged.

Abby Says:

Romping Colt of Today Tomorrow's Coy Filly

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have a teenaged daughter whose actions are so rough and careless that I don't know what to do with her. While making a simple gesture, she accidentally hit her father so hard with her elbow that he suffered a black eye.

Last night she shampooed her hair and broke the sink off the wall. She is forever breaking combs and brushes in half. Once she pulled the handle off the refrigerator door. Is there something I can do to teach her to be more gentle and ladylike or is this the way all girls her age act?

ANN'S MOTHER

ABBY

DEAR MOTHER: Your daughter, like most teen-age girls, is bursting with energy. She doesn't know her own strength and no one can teach her. When she discovers that boys like their girls to be the weaker sex, she won't be able to gather the strength to wind her watch.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: For about four weeks I have been bothered by someone calling up my house and hanging up as soon as I say "hello." I have no idea who this could be. Some times I just stay on the line and this other party stays on the line but doesn't say a word. Is there any way I can trace these calls? It has me worried.

UPSET

DEAR UPSET: If you can keep the mysterious caller on the line long enough to have someone get to another telephone and report it to the telephone company, the call can be traced—but not unless. If it continues, ask for a change of telephone numbers.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been married for 26 months. We have two little boys. My wife's girlfriend got married six months ago and is expecting a baby in the near future. She is also in the process of getting a divorce. Her parents won't have anything to do with her.

My wife felt sorry for her and told her she could stay with us without asking me. When my wife told me this I said her friend could not stay here as this is no boarding house and we were crowded as it was.

I also said if the girlfriend stayed here, my wife could sleep with her and I'd sleep at the office.

Now the wife is mad at me. The girlfriend moved in and I moved out. What do we do now?

DEADLOCKED

DEAR DEADLOCKED: Don't be stubborn. Move back into the house. Buy, borrow or rent a "cot" for your wife's girlfriend to sleep on. But get back into your own bed where you belong. Then calmly discuss means of getting the girlfriend out of your house and into a place of her own.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "RUNT": When you realize that moral and physical strength are not measured by a man's size, you will grow up and be much happier. Get the book LEAD-OFF MAN, by Dick Friendlich. It's a wonderful story about Willie Pardee, a five-foot, five inch-tall boy who learned that he couldn't go through life with both fists swinging. I wish all under-sized boys from 13 to 17 could read it.

Don't Add Make-Up for Night

If you've often wondered to what extent you should change or increase your make-up for evening from that worn during the day, a Hollywood master of make-up artistry, offers these suggestions.

To look glamorous during an evening affair, it is not necessary to increase the amount of make-up you wear but rather to create a style and color effect that is appropriate for the occasion.

Under artificial lights, make-up that is perfectly glamorous during the day may appear faded and cause you to look pale and wan. To correct this, wear your same shade of foundation make-up, but add a darker or brighter shade of cheek rouge. For your eyes and lips, outline them more dramatically, and use vivid colors of eyeshadow and lipstick, particularly the iridescent tones.

It's against the law in Minnesota to carry a bottle of inoxicating or non-intoxicating malt liquor with its seal broken anywhere in the driver or passenger compartment of a car — including the glove compartment.

Occupational Nurses Have Fine Opportunities

The nurse in small industry is in an especially favorable position to help employes, management, and herself, says Katharine A. Lembright, assistant executive secretary for the occupational health nurses section of the American Nurses' Association.

She works closely with management and the plant medical director on the plant safety program. She sees that physically handicapped employes are kept within work limitations set by the plant physician and the employes' own family doctor.

She provides a listening post for employes with personal and home problems and helps them find assistance through community agencies when necessary.

A nurse in small industry has great freedom to exercise her own judgment and put her own health ideas into practice, said Miss Lembright. She constantly uses her powers of observation and her sensitivity to attitudes and anxieties.

"I've known some women who went into occupational health nursing at 35 and others who were still working at 65," she said.

Hours and eages? A recent government survey of 19 metropolitan areas shows a salary range of $3,978 to $4,862 a year for a 37- to 40-hour week, with overtime pay for nights and weekends. However, salaries may run higher, expecially in heavily industrialized areas.

Iranian Gets Tongue Lashing From U.S. Women

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

It seems American women take a dim view of the recent remarks of Abdol Hossein Hamzavi, Iranian ambassador to the United Nations, on the superior life of his sheltered and cherished country-women, who are protected from "all the unpleasant phases of life, such as voting."

"I am one of those working wives he finds so little deserving of his respect and admiration," writes an irate resident of Hamden, Conn.

"It is true that the American woman is not shielded from the unpleasant things in life. She has, perhaps, lost her feminine right to be cherished and protected.

"Her 'unveiling' brought her face to face with the grim reality of life for herself and her family. She feels it a privilege to vote and pay her taxes from her earnings.

"It is true that as a nation we cannot point to our centuries of ancient culture nor hold ourselves the end product of a pure blood line.

"We are a people composed of every race, creed and color on the face of the earth and we haven't yet, it seems, come to that high degree of polish that would enable us to give the insult in the suave, European manner.

"But the ingredients in our national melting pot have produced a nourishing stew — a stew of such life-giving strength that the rest of the world sits in hopeful anticipation of the invitation to share."

The remarks of the lady from Connecticut are typical of feminine reaction from all sections of the country. Writes a San Francisco career woman:

"I work all day, come home and cook dinner for my husband and two teen-age daughters, entertain frequently and take an active part in community affairs, including politics.

"My husband and I always have something to talk about — and he still says I'm glamorous. I'd hate to have to sit at home and just be protected all day. Very dull, I'd call it."

★ ★ ★

"Mr. Hamzavi evidently overlooks the fact that most American women work from necessity rather than choice.

"I've always felt it was better to provide my children with three meals a day and the benefits of a good education than to sit at home defending my feminine rights."

Some of the women have asked what these sheltered Persian women think about.

The ambassador, of course, has an answer for that:

Little Artist Paints Huge Theater Murals

NEW YORK (UPI)—A tiny woman today put the finishing touches on a monumental work of art—9,500 square feet of murals for a remodeled theater in Times Square.

The artist is Buffie Johnson, five feet two inches of talent and energy in bluejeans. The versatile painter also is doing the rug and stage curtain designs and the over-all scheme for the theater, the New Astor, scheduled to open Thursday.

The abstractionist works suggest a summer night in the city and the mood is blue—from ultramarine to pale cerulean, with touches of green and cobalt violet, a network of soft black lines and accents of crimson, white and yellow.

AMONG THE LARGEST

Two of the murals—among the world's largest—cover the side walls of the theater and measure 44 feet high by 110 feet long. The third mural in the lobby is 10 by 25 feet.

Miss Johnson, a trim, blue-eyed woman with dark hair worn in a French twist, clambered down from a scaffold to discuss the way she did the murals.

She began in the studio of her home at East Hampton, N.Y., first carving her design on wood sections five by 10 feet. Then she and a couple of assistants applied artists' oils in the desired colors, using rollers. On top of each went a slightly larger sheet of art canvas, rolled on like pie dough flattened with a rolling pin.

PANELS BIG

She then peeled off the canvas and hung it to dry. Because her studio is only 25 feet high, she could dry only two panels at a time.

But from last spring until last week, she completed 224 such panels, numbering and lettering them according to their final place in the murals. Once the panels were glued in place on the walls, she scaled scaffolding to add final touches with brush and paints.

"Exactly 224 gallons of blue paint up there," she said.

Miss Johnson got $50,000 for the job, which she said was a bargain when you considered that murals usually go for about $20 a foot. "At that rate," she smiled, "It should have been closer $200,000. But I had never done a theater before."

The artist, a native New Yorker, studied painting and interior design at the Art Students' League, New York, and UCLA. Her works hang in museums and galleries in New York, Baltimore, Boston, Cincinnati, Newark, Minneapolis, London and Paris.

A distinctively woven tweed created by Lawford Fabrics comes in a smartly tailored pale gold and beige Chanel-type suit. A wide binding of self fabric outlines the neck and center front, sleeves, tab detail and double side vents in back.

Washington Whirl Just Dull Spin to Jane Hart

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Jane Hart said today she might like Washington better if she just had something to do.

The only duties to keep her occupied now are helping her husband, Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich), in his work here and in Michigan, caring for their eight children, and running their 12-room home.

On a recent day her schedule included a visit to the doctor, a trip to Michigan where she attended a dinner honoring her husband, then back to Washington on an overnight flight in time to attend the first communion of one of the children.

She conceded it was not what the doctor ordered for recovering from mononucleosis, "But I can rest tomorrow."

Mrs. Hart, 38, moved here with the children from their Mackinac Island home last September, too late to see Congress in session. She looks forward to remedying that in January. She said she was more interested in following the progress of legislation through Congress than in taking part in Washington's social life.

She will pay special attention to a bill which provides more federal aid for expanding airports. A veteran pilot herself, and three times competitor in the Powder Puff Derby, Mrs. Hart often flies her six-passenger plane back home to Michigan to attend political events with her husband or make speeches in his behalf.

Her husband is not an aviator, she said, "and I'm just as glad. As it is, he has perfect confidence in my ability."

She plans to spend a couple of weeks at Flint after Christmas studying for an instrument flying rating.

The Harts live in a handsome whitewashed brick home only 15 minutes drive from the Capitol. Their oldest daughter, Ann, 12, attends boarding school near Philadelphia, but the other children are here.

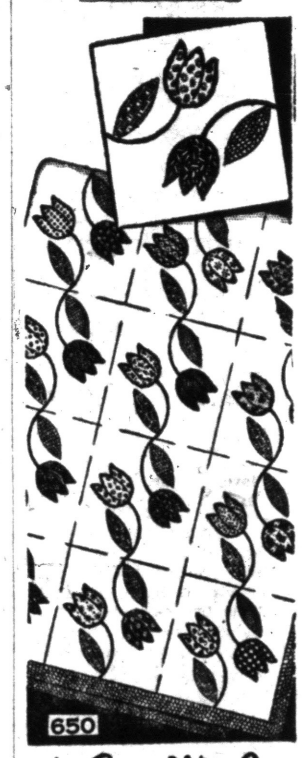

Mrs. Hart said the family would spend winters here and summers on Mackinac Island. There are no plans to buy another home in Michigan during the senator's term of office, she said. But this is not her own preference.

"I thought I'd find Washington absolutely fascinating," she said, "but I haven't yet."

Today's Story
"THE ONE BIG PRESENT"

There seems to be two schools of thought when it comes to Christmas giving. One school says swamp 'em with a bushel of things. The other declares, dazzle them with one big present that will make this, "the Christmas I got the (you name it)."

For instance, this might be the year to give dad the slide projector that finally puts him in show business. We recommend several makes in projectors that will treat an audience to a crisp, colorful performance of slides they see "big as life."

Or this might be the year you give the family the movie camera that will save all your good times together. Your best buy: The Automatic Movie Camera. This new camera has an electric eye that makes sure the exposure is always right, no matter who is handling the job of cameraman.

Or again, maybe this is the year someone gets the 35mm camera they have been so slyly hinting for. No better way to fill that bill than with a Pony II Camera Outfit. It's everything they'll need to shoot AND view color slides, all beautifully packaged.

To show we can straddle an issue as well as the next fellow, we can also help you fill up a Christmas stocking with a lot of useful photo aids that any photo hobbyist will love to get.

Maybe our position is: Drop in and shop around. You'll be glad you did.

Need Only Kindness for In-Law Harmony

By RUTH MILLETT

"Can you give me a set of rules for getting along with my in-laws?" asks a young wife who reads this column.

No young wife needs a set of rules for getting along with her in-laws.

All she needs to do is treat her husband's parents just as she treats her own parents — with loving kindness and genuine warmth — and she won't have any real in-law problems.

One word of warning, though: A wife shouldn't even think of her husband's mother and father as her "in-laws." Their relationship to her isn't the important relationship. The important relationship is the natural one; their relationship to their son.

That should be the important relationship to her, too. If she loves him, then she should find it easy to love the parents who molded him into the person he is, who gave him his start in life, and who are every bit as concerned about his happiness and his welfare as she is.

Anything that she, as a wife, can do to make her husband's parents as welcome in her home as her own parents are, anything that she can do to encourage her husband to show them affection and loyalty, anything that she can do to let them know that she regards them as "family" and not as "in-laws" is all to the good.

It will help to make her husband happy. It will reassure his parents that she doesn't want to take their son from them, that she knows a man can and should be both a loyal husband and a loyal son.

And if she treats her husband's parents with such loving kindness, there isn't much chance that he won't treat her own parents likewise.

What any young wife needs is not a set of rules for getting along with in-laws. She does need to be big enough to let her love for her husband include those he loves and who love him.

It's really as simple as that.

A table large enough to seat all the people in the world at the same time would have to be long enough to stretch around the world 21 times at the equator. To keep up with the population growth, the table would have to increase in length by 26 miles a day.

Even During Pregnancy

You Can, Too, Be Pretty

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Having a baby is such a wonderful experience! Most women sail through pregnancy with only minor discomforts and delivery is nothing to dread, anesthetics being what they are.

At no other time does a man love a woman in such a special, tender, protective way.

He would probably not blame you if you had wispy hair and run-over heels, but why impose on him? Why not give him a lovely picture of you at this most exciting time in your lives?

There may be a tendency to become a bit careless about grooming. Some women encounter nausea during the first few weeks, some tire more easily than usual and as the weight of the baby increases this imposes a strain.

FOR OWN MORALE

I think it is important for a woman's own morale that she continue to look as pretty as possible, that she give special care to her grooming and make-up and hair styling as her figure and walk become awkward.

There are usually no special complexion problems during pregnancy. As a matter of fact pimples and blemishes often clear up during this time so that a woman has an even prettier skin than usual.

Careful grooming, diet and exercise will help you remain attractive for your husband.

Occasionally during the first weeks the complexion will take on a sallow tone but this is temporary and can be covered with a make-up base which has a touch of pink in it.

Special care of the teeth and hair and skin during these months will pay dividends. Nightly application of oil from the third or fourth month on to the abdomen will help prevent stretch marks.

FOLLOW DIRECTIONS

Most important of all follow your doctor's directions as to diet and exercise and weight control. These will give you a healthier baby, an easier delivery and a good figure after the birth of your child.

And, if it is at all possible, buy a few of the truly attractive maternity clothes now available!

Noted Writers Lending Talent to Yule Cards

(UPI) — Some of America's best known writers express a "Merry Christmas" wish in prose and verse on this year's yuletide greetings.

Inspirational messages have been penned by Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, author and clergyman and Father James Keller, founder of The Christophers.

★ ★ ★

Sentimental holiday expressions by the late Edgar A. Guest and James Metcalfe, poets, also are expected to prove popular.

Mum on 'Reds' Jailed for Year

Refuses to Give Up List of Those Who Attended Fellowship Camp

CONCORD, N.H. (AP)—A prominent Methodist layman has chosen jail "as a matter of conscience" rather than disclose a list of names the New Hampshire attorney general demanded in an investigation of communism.

Dr. Willard Uphaus, 69, of New Haven, Conn., was given a one-year jail term for contempt of court Monday.

★ ★ ★

The self-styled Christian pacifist said his conscience and deep religious convictions would not allow him to become an informer.

His lawyer challenged the jurisdiction of the Superior Court and prepared to appeal to the State Supreme Court.

FOLLOWERS SING 'AMERICA'

As Uphaus was ushered from the courtroom for Merrimack County jail 15 miles away about 50 of his supporters began singing "America" in the courthouse lobby.

Atty. Gen. Louis C. Wyman had sought the list of guests which attended Uphaus' World Fellowship summer camp at Conway, N.H., in 1953-54. He claimed he had reliable information some were Communists.

Superior Court Judge George R. Grant Jr., ordered Uphaus to supply the list or face sentencing for contempt.

IKE BENDS FOR BETTER LOOK — President Eisenhower bends over for a closer look at a painting presented him by Shah Mohammed Rezi Pahlevi, kneeling, during Ike's visit to Tehran Monday. The painting of the President was done by an Iranian artist. Speaking of the gifts received during his current tour, Ike told the Shah, "When I get out of office I am going to put them in a White House museum with a plaque on each saying who they were from."

750,000 Cheer Ike

Nary a Pshaw in Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The Iranians had only one complaint today about President Eisenhower's visit—it wasn't long enough.

During his six hour stay Monday, the Iranians cheered Eisenhower as they never cheered a visitor before. The impact of the President will not soon be forgotten.

★ ★ ★

An editorial in one of Iran's leading newspapers, Etela'at, keynoted the local feeling: "This unprecedented welcome showed that Iran supports and confirms the peace-loving policy of Eisenhower. Therefore, Iran will always bid him welcome."

750,000 LINE ROUTE

An impressive majority of Tehran's two million citizens saw Eisenhower or heard his message of praise for their steadfastness against Communist pressures.

Mayor Nasser Zulfaghaeri estimated that 750,000 lined the President's route. Thousands saw him on Tehran's television network. Still more heard him by radio.

★ ★ ★

Veteran Iranian newspapermen pointed out that the turnout was doubly impressive because Monday was not an official holiday. Government workers had the day off, but factory workers, artisans, clerks and businessmen were supposed to stay at their jobs.

"I never saw such a reception for anyone in my life," said one Iranian. "Think what it might have been if he had been here when we all could have seen him."

★ ★ ★

At Mehrabad Airport, just before taking off for Athens, he said: "I am sorry and I want to apologize to this beautiful country and all its citizens because I did not and could not stay longer. I would like to stay as many days as I have hours."

Rent Airwaves, Editor Suggests

Return Could Establish Noncommercial Body: Fischer of Harper's

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Editor John Fischer of Harper's Magazine suggested Monday that the government charge broadcasters "rent" for use of radio-TV channels.

Fischer told the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) that the airwaves, which belong to the public, should not be given away.

"The public has a right to share in the profit of a private use of a public resource," he said.

Terming broadcasting profits "magnificent," Fischer said the government might take a fixed percentage of total income from stations, perhaps everything above 6 per cent. Or, he said, it might get its share on a royalty basis such as employed in the oil industry.

Fischer said the government's return could be used to establish a non-commercial broadcasting agency to provide "real competition to our present over-commercialized system." Such an agency exists in almost every other major country, he said.

OR INCREASE FCC PAY?

Another possibility, he said, would be to use the government's "take" to increase the salaries and efficiency of FCC employes.

Fischer testified as the FCC continued hearings on whether it already possesses sufficient authority to crack down on radio-TV programming, advertising and deceptive practices or should ask Congress for new authority.

Elmer E. Smead, professor of government at Dartmouth University and author of the book "Freedom of Speech by Radio and Television," told the commission it has "no choice" but to regulate programming. He said the FCC's entire history shows that it does have such authority.

He said it would be wise, however, for Congress to spell out the FCC's authority over programming. He said Congress also should set up new procedures under which the FCC could crack down on broadcasters without actually depriving them of their licenses.

Detroit's Kern Store Will Close Dec. 23

DETROIT (AP) — Ernst Kern Co., 77-year-old downtown department store, will go out of business two days before Christmas.

His request was approved yesterday by Wayne County Circuit Judge Neal E. Fitzgerald. Fry told the judge the store was unable to continue operations because of lack of volume business.

He said to continue in business would be detrimental to Kern creditors and stockholders.

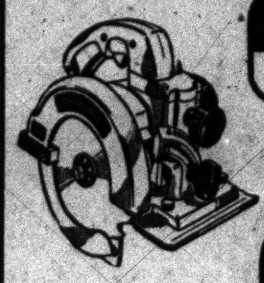

His stock in the store was sold by Benjamin Goldstein, former president, last August to Leon Schottenstein of Cincinnati. The new president was Henry H. Krause of Cleveland.

★ ★ ★

In September, stockholders voted to dissolve the firm.

Motorist: Heed This and Live for Christmas

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Holiday motorists were given a six-point list of traffic precautions today by the American Automobile Assn. (AAA).

★ ★ ★

The AAA recommended:

—Save your window shopping until after you have parked your car. Don't try to do it while driving.

Don't pile Christmas packages in the back seat of your car in such a way that they will obscure rear vision.

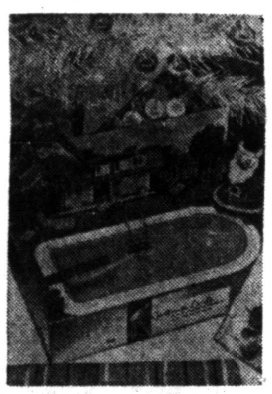

—When driving downtown, be alert for shopping pedestrians, many of whom are weary, distracted and loaded with bundles which obscure their vision.

—Avoid driving home from parties if you have been drinking. Take a cab or let someone else drive.

★ ★ ★

—If planning a holiday trip, leave a few hours early so you can drive at a leisurely, safe pace.

Ignores Court in Baby Ban

Bears Twins Despite Order Against Having Illegitimate Children

MARTINEZ, Calif. (AP) — Lucy Martinez, who ignored a court order against bearing children out of wedlock, now has a new son and daughter.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

Michael J. Gatto, a justice of the peace, had sentenced Miss Martinez and Lucy Turrieta, both 24, to jail for ignoring his ban against illicit sexual relations.

★ ★ ★

Both women had been given suspended sentences after being found guilty of making fraudulent statements in applications for aid for needy children funds. As part of their probation, Justice Gatto had ordered them to stop having illegitimate children. County officials said the two women had collected $21,000 in children's aid.

Mrs. Turrieta, who has four illegitimate children, is free on $1,000 bail pending an appeal hearing Jan. 26 on whether she was advised of her right to counsel when sentenced.

★ ★ ★

The American Civil Liberties Union, which is carrying on a legal fight for both women, contends sexual intercourse between consenting adults in home privacy is a fundamental aspect of personal liberty.

They'll Accompany Husbands to Jobs Abroad

Wives Get Overseas Training

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of U. S. housewives who will accompany their husbands on foreign business missions have started a week of intensive briefings on living in a foreign land.

"We understand we're important," said a young wife, smiling.

Their husbands are taking a six - weeks' course offered by American University and planned by the Business Council for International Understanding for businessmen going overseas. The council, sponsored by 70 major American firms doing business overseas, was formed in 1955 at the request of the White House to help improve the image of the United States abroad.

The wives are brought in for the sixth week to discuss such items as cultural differences around the world, what America stands for, American foreign policy, the challenge of communism and more specific matters such as establishing a household abroad and entertaining.

Esther Cole Franklin, who conducts the wives' part of the program, said the main aim was to make it practical. She spent four years in Germany as the wife of a business executive.

Ten businessmen and eight wives—two of the men are unmarried—are attending the second course from Nov. 9-Dec. 19.

Harold M. Randall, director of the program, has been a career foreign service officer in the State Department.

"We try to help them interpret the United States and know the other country better," Randall said. "An American overseas is living in a goldfish bowl whether he wants to or not."

Red Protest Taken Calmly

Latest Complaint From Moscow on Armament of West Germany Soft

BONN, Germany (AP) — Officials reacted calmly today to the Soviet Union's latest complaint about West German rearmament.

A Soviet note delivered Monday to memer nations of the West European Union accused West Germany of "using its membership in the West European Union and NATO for the unceasing build-up of armaments" and of not wanting a peaceful settlement of a summit conference.

The Foreign Office said the note was the usual knock at West Germany which Moscow always delivers on the eve of international conferences. There was a similar protest from Moscow before the Big Four conference of foreign ministers in Geneva last April.

But officials found the tone of the new note moderate in comparison with previous such notes. Threats of dreadful retaliation which have characterized past So-

DEAR SIR:

When the Tigers got DeWitt as president the first thing that came to my mind was, "How long it would take Detroit to become the kind of organization the St. Louis Browns were when DeWitt was with that club?" The recent trades made by the Tigers answered my question quite quickly. Only difference is the nickname and the city.

Jim Kern

Dear Jim:

There may be a slight difference in the spelling of our names, but our thinking is somewhat similar. Don't think I'd like the name — Detroit Browns.

DEAR SIR:

If that Detroit Lion organization accepts the recommendation of its committee to renew the contracts of George Wilson and Edwin Anderson then it must be more stupid then we imagine. I had a lot of respect for Spike Briggs as a baseball man but when he supports Wilson and Anderson by saying the men who oppose them know nothing about sports then he is out in right field still trying to figure out the difference between a football and a baseball.

Tom G.

Dear Tom:

Flattery will get you nowhere, unless of course you've got a vote as a stockholder in the Lions.

DeBusschere, North Great Again; Indiana Triumphs

Titans Blast Xavier, 95-71

By The Associated Press

A kid blase Madison Square Garden fans call the best sophomore they've seen since Oscar Robertson is pointing the University of Detroit toward one of its best basketball seasons ever.

The name's Dave DeBusschere — and it's a name to remember, whether you're a basketball or a baseball fan. Seems this 6-6, 220-pounder is also a spectacular right-handed pitcher and fears that some major league club will grab him is all that is keeping Detroit Coach Bob Calihan from settling back to contemplate three wonderful years of basketball success.

He's got him for this season at least, however, and coupled with another sophomore named Charlie North and a 5-9 sharp-shooting pepperpot named Ray Albee, Dave is making the Detroit nickname of Titans a simple truism.

DeBusschere clicked for 22 points, Albee for 22 and North, a 6-5½ springboard, for 29 last night as Detroit rolled to its fifth straight victory — 95-71 over previously unbeaten Xavier of Ohio.

Now it's two dozen and one to go for Coach Calihan, who said in New York last week after Detroit flattened Iona 85-67 at the Garden that he would be convinced if his kids were convincing against Purdue, Xavier and Indiana — coming up in that order.

They blasted Purdue out of the unbeaten ranks 84-63 Saturday night. They get their big test next Saturday at Indiana (3-1), which got 23 points from 6-10 Walt Bellamy in a 67-58 thumping last night of Kansas State, now 1-4.

West Virginia, fattening up for bigger things, battered VMI 91-76 for its 54th straight Southern Conference victory and stayed unbeaten along with Mississippi (6-0), Bradley, Texas and Missouri (4-0), and Maryland and Illinois (both 3-0), in other Monday features.

All-America Jerry West flipped in 27 points and held conference scoring leader Joe Gedro to a mere 11 as West Virginia gained a 6-0 season mark with its 37th straight home triumph. The Mountaineers, bidding for the top spot nationally, have a weekend date in the Kentucky Invitational at Lexington with Kentucky, St. Louis and unbeaten North Carolina.

Erratic Kentucky got untracked last night, edging Kansas in overtime 77-72 at Lawrence for a 3-2 season mark. Balanced scoring, topped by Ned Jennings' 27 points, overcame the 33-point shooting of 6-8 Kansas sophomore Wayne Hightower.

Mississippi, still unchallenged in a series of early season walkovers, whipped Arkansas State 75-58, while Bradley came from 12 points behind in the last nine minutes to topple previously unbeaten Providence 57-55 on the scoring of Bobby Joe Mason and Dan Smith.

Joe Scott hit 24 points and Marty Charrity 18 as Missouri made it four straight, 78-66 over Wisconsin, and Illinois had four starters in double figures topped by John Wessels' 19 in an 89-77 decision over Marquette.

Notre Dame (5-1) snapped Nebraska's unbeaten string at three, 70-62 as Mike Graney hit for 19, and Clemson outscored Davidson 8-0 in the last three minutes for a 74-70 victory. Creighton surprised Texas Christian 72-64, Rice handled Tulane 93-79, Marshall downed VPI 85-82, Miami (Fla) beat Murray (Ky) 92-80, Houston trampled North Texas State 88-59, and Florida State defeated Alabama 86-74. Once-beaten Colorado edged Iowa 76-68 in double overtime.

Waterford Host to Fordson Five Seeking No. 3

Oakland B Contests Scheduled at Avondale and Lake Orion

Non-league contests at Pontiac Northern, Waterford and Birmingham and a pair of Oakland B games head a slim but interesting prep basketball schedule around this area tonight.

The Huskies, fresh from a strong showing at Southfield after two setbacks, make their home debut against West Bloomfield. Waterford plays on its own court for the third straight time as host to Fordson while Birmingham Seaholm entertains Southfield.

Avondale and Lake Orion are other local teams playing at home. The Yellowjackets should bounce back into the win column against Madison but the Dragons' will find their unbeaten slate in jeopardy with Fitzgerald invading the LOHS floor.

The "B" pair are the only loop games on the schedule as most schools wait until Friday to resume league wars.

Northern will be heavily favored to make it two straight in a battle of little guys. The Lakers, 1-1, are even smaller than PNH which is going some.

★ ★ ★

Waterford has pulled out last-second thrillers over Wayne and Walled Lake on successive Fridays and now the Skippers will try their luck on a Tuesday. Team play has been the big factor in the good start.

Birmingham, with hopes for a good season, took a severe jolt from Royal Oak Dondero first time out. Coach Lew Parry is hoping the home opener will bring his Maples back to life. Southfield is 1-2.

Avondale is smarting from a 30-point trouncing at Troy and should be ready to tear into weak Madison. Orion, 2-0, will be put to its first real test.

Ferndale, idle for 11 days since whipping Southfield, takes on Berkley at home and Romeo visits Utica in two more attractive attractions. Utica started well last Friday by tripping Rochester. Romeo is 0-2 despite the scoring of Jim Black.

Almont visits Imlay City, East Detroit vs. Grosse Pointe, winless Lapeer tries again at Flint Kearsley, Brighton is host to Flint Mandeville on the heels of being upset by Northville, L'Anse Creuse goes to Fraser and Harper Woods meets Roseville.

NFL Scans Signs of Player Revolt

Pair of 49ers Check Chances With New Loop

Moegle, Owens Want to Play More, Possibly for Texas Clubs

By The Associated Press

The deeply entrenched National Football League, seeking to avoid any head-on collision with the embryonic American League in the bidding for top-flight talent, faces the possibility of a player revolt within its own ranks.

The first indication that some of the NFL's players might jump to the rival circuit came Monday when two members of the San Francisco 49ers said they want to check the possibility of switching to the AFL.

Defensive specialist Dick Moegle and end R. C. Owens were the first NFL players to announce any such intentions.

Two others 49ers—Fred Dugan and Jim Ridlon—expressed a desire to play with another club, but not necessarily one in the AFL.

The reason for all four was the same: We're not playing enough and maybe we can do better elsewhere.

Officials of the two leagues have said they would honor each other's player contracts.

However, Bud Adams, owner of the Houston franchise in the AFL, has said he would like to have certain Texans now playing with the Chicago Cardinals of the NFL —namely King Hill, John Crow and Bobby Joe Conrad—and will try to pry them loose.

Moegle, also a Texan who played offense for Rice, said he would be interested in hooking up with Dallas in the new league.

"I know all those people in Texas," he said, "and I know I've got a lot of football left in me. I certainly want to play somewhere."

Said Owens: "It may be I could play more in the new league. I can't help feeling my career is passing me by."

In Philadelphia, Acting NFL Commissioner Austin Gunsel said "as far as I know there has been no serious talk of players jumping to the new league. As for the future that takes a crystal ball to see."

Gunsel explained that NFL clubs are in a position to prevent any player jumps before May 1, 1961. Players, he said, are signed to one-year contracts with one-year options for renewal.

If the club does not pick up the option, Gunsel said, a player is free to do as he pleases.

"Of course," the commissioner added, "anyone can jump to the AFL, and it would be up to the club to do something about it. A contract might be enforceable in law, and if a club felt a player was sufficiently important, it might take action."

Rote Wants to Try Again in '60

The battle-scarred veteran has just survived the worst of 10 seasons, his third with the Lions.

The fewest number of completions, the smallest output of yards gained, a badly battered body, the criticism of his coach and the president of the club and the abuse of the fans — these are the things Rote has to show for his 10th professional campaign.

"I'd like to play at least another year," said Rote, "just out of curiosity. I'm convinced things couldn't go all wrong again."

Rote, the quarterback the Lions kept when they dealt off controversial Bobby Layne, doesn't know where he stands with the club. Officials of the club are just as mystified over the situation.

Rote never signed a contract for the 1959 season. He demanded a no-release clause and the front office wouldn't give it to him. So he played out his option. Now he's a free agent, and can play wherever he chooses in 1960.

"I haven't made up my mind on anything," he said, "except that I'll keep my home in Detroit. I have half-interest in a business here and I'm not about to leave that."

Rote completed only 38 per cent of his passes and threw for only five touchdowns, both career lows. He had 18 interceptions, most in four seasons. Coach George Wilson, who started Rote seven times in 12 games, was openly critical of his quarterbacking. So was president-general manager Edwin J. Anderson.

★ ★ ★

"I can't help what they say," said Rote. "This has been a terrible year for me, and the Lions. I don't think it's bothered my confidence, though. I know I can throw the ball and I can run with it. And I know something about the other teams' defenses.

★ ★ ★

"A lot of times I didn't have time to throw the ball this season. Other times, when I had protection, I was a little off the beam. If everyone wants to blame me for our 3-8-1 record, then that's the way it will be."

★ ★ ★

Rote, the toast of the town when he took the sagging Lions on a whirlwind finish in 1957 for the world championship, has learned to accept the changing fortunes.

"When things get bad, like they are now, you just try to remember the good old days and maybe you can convince yourself they'll get good again," he said.

Boston Makes Application for NFL Club

LYNNFIELD, Mass. (AP) — A group of New England business and professional men have made formal application to the National Football League for a Boston franchise in 1961.

Spokesman Leo (Buddy) Dowd, Nashua, N. H., made the announcement in a press conference yesterday.

Dowd said that in the formal letter of application he had sent to NFL Commissioner Austin Gunsel he stated he "wanted Boston to be in on the ground floor of the league's expansion program."

Dowd added that in a later conversation Gunsel promised to present the application to the expansion committee at its Philadelphia meeting next month.

Duby Scores 42 Points to Feature Faculty Win

The Pontiac Northern Faculty squad and Lytell & Colegrove were runaway victors Monday night in Waterford League basketball activity at Crary Junior High.

Syracuse Won 5 of 9 Major Statistic Titles

By The Associated Press

Syracuse never had an undefeated football team before 1959 and it never won a statistical team title. Then the Cotton Bowl-bound Orangemen went whole hog and romped off with five of the nine major titles, one NCAA record and one second-best of all.

And Syracuse did it so convincingly that its hardly worth mentioning who was second in total yardage, rushing, scoring, total defense and resistance against rushing listed in the final NCAA Service Bureau statistics.

In the areas where the New York State team left room for competition, Stanford easily took forward passing honors, along with a half dozen lesser records; Alabama edged Montana in pass defense in the final game and also showed the highest percentage of enemy pass interceptions; Mississippi was stingiest in allowing scores and Brigham Young was first in scoring.

The Syracuse record came in the margin of offense over defense—a matter of 355.3 yards per game. The Orangemen gained an average of 451.1 yards and yielded only 92.6 a game. Alabama's 1945 team outgained the opposition by 311.8 yards a game.

The Syracuse defense figures, 92.6 yards over-all and 19.3 by rushing were bettered only by the 78.6 and 17.0 posted by Penn State in 1947. The other major Syracuse figures: Scoring—39 points a game; passing—139.7 yards a game for 17th place but first in touchdown passes with 20.

Stanford's Dick Norman accounted for one-game team records in completions and accuracy when he hit 34 of 39 against California. And it was mainly his throwing that gave the Indians a batch of season records for teams playing only major opponents.

They were 176 completions, 2278 yards total, 227.8 yards per game and a margin of 40.8 yards a game over runner-up Marquette.

Oregon State picked up a record by running back pass interceptions an average of 36.3 yards.

Local Keglers Lead State Play

Aluma-Vue of Clarkston Rolls 2851 in Women's Tourney

The Aluma-Vue Company team of Clarkston is the early team leader in the State Women's Tournament being held through March in Detroit.

Captained by Lorraine Cloutier, the local keglers rolled 2851 featuring a 1081 game over the past weekend. Evelyn Bartie led the way with a 538 series as good balance was displayed.

The team championship is good for $600. Several other Oakland County bowlers are expected to take part in the coming months.

20 Cage Teams Play There

Boys Club Gym Busy

Basketball, anyone?

There is plenty of it going on these days at the Pontiac Boys Club where some 20 teams are on the go constantly these days under the direction of Frank Cashman and Jim Skinner.

A senior house league is a new feature at the club for boys actually over the age of the average club members. Play has started with six teams with at least two expected to be added for play Monday and Wednesday evenings.

An Inter-Club loop formed by Cashman takes over the PBC gym Saturday mornings. It also has six teams including West Bloomfield and Highland Park. All games are on the Pontiac court.

The big attraction to playing at the Boys Club is the fact there are no entry fees or other charges to pay.

Any teams or players desiring to enter the program should contact Cashman.

Champion Joe Brown Wins 'One-Hand' Bout

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Even with a bum hand, lightweight champion Joe Brown doesn't have too many worries about his title. And you need look only as far as his lop-sided decision over Joey Parks to give it substance.

The 33-year-old champion from New Orleans, nursing a right hand he hurt in the first round, used the 27-year-old Parks for target practice throughout the 10-round non-title affair last night.

FOLLOW THROUGH — Billy Welu's hand starts its upward and outward projectory.

FOLLOW THROUGH
By BILLY WELU

All the balance and harmony that you have built up from stance through delivery and release can be completely disrupted unless you maintain form throughout the follow through.

The right arm, which has just sent the ball on its way, follows through completely to eye level or higher, with a full sweep. The right arm must be directly in front of you, not pulled across the body to the left side, or angled off to the right.

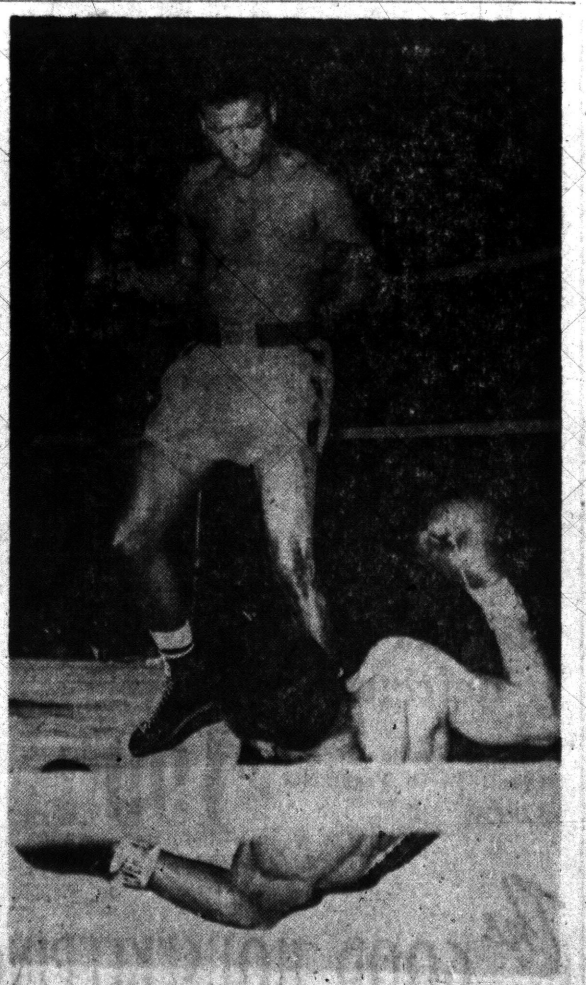

★ ★ ★

The follow through is the final swing of the rhythmic pendulum.

Joltin' Joe Thinks Bombers Will Regain Pennant

Dimag Likes Yanks in '60

TOKYO (UPI) — The Yankee collapse of 1959 was "just one of those things," Joltin' Joe Dimaggio asserted today, and the Bronx Bombers will be back at the top of the baseball heap next season.

"It happened to us in 1940, after we had won four in a row," explained the one-time Yankee Clipper as he made a tour of U. S. military bases in the Far East

★ ★ ★

"They were all screaming 'break up the Yankees' and then we blew it, for no obvious reason. But we came back too, just as they'll do next season."

What happened to the Yankees last season is the question most asked of Dimag as the former Yankee hitting star makes a tour of military installations.

"I guess that the second most frequently asked question is whether Ted Williams will play next season," smiles the handsome Hall of Fame outfielder who retired after the 1951 season.

★ ★ ★

"All I can say is that anybody's guess is as good as mine," Dimag adds. "But I would have to guess, as a former ballplayer and thinking as a former ballplayer, that he will decide to give it one more try. He couldn't want to quit a loser and, after all, he's entitled to one bad year. You can bet he'll be better this time around and then, probably, will call it a career."

Dimaggio, who came out of San Francisco to become one of baseball's greatest players, isn't sorry he decided to quit even though he could have continued several more years at a salary of $100,000 a year while calling his own shots.

"I'm enjoying the work I'm doing, even though it calls for a great deal of travel," said Dimaggio, whose once-coal-black hair is completely flecked with gray.

Dimag is a field man for the V. H. Monette and Company, which services military installations with canned and frozen edibles. As their field representative he has in the last six weeks appeared in Honolulu, Guam, Okinawa, Hong Kong, Taipei, Manila and throughout Japan.

"When you played ball as long as I did," he smiled, "you sort of get used to traveling. I like it."

But even this far from home, Joe has his eyes on the 1960 pennant race—American League, naturally—and he thinks the Yankees are a shoo-in.

Bowl Games, Spring Trips on Way Out

Plan Would Restrict Grid Teams to 8 Tilts; Is It Aimed at Hillsdale?

DETROIT (AP) — The Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Assn. is ready to ban post-season games and spring trips and limit the football season to eight games.

A drastic readjustment in athletic policies is all but finalized. It likely will receive official league approval before June 1.

Presidents and athletic directors of the eight schools met last week. An eight-man study committee on athletics will accomplish the actual move toward what the league president calls "more uniformity in controlling athletics."

In some circles, the action is regarded as a direct slap at Hillsdale College, winner of 36 of its last 37 league football games.

"When our boys go on the field, they go on to win. If not, we don't want them representing Hillsdale College. The grades of our athletes are higher than our non-athletes, and we are justifiably proud of our athletic program, as we are proud of our academic program."

The MIAA president is Wiemer Hicks, president of Kalamazoo College. He said the league presidents "feel that athletics is important, and that they serve a useful function."

"But," he added, "we also feel that athletics must be subordinated to academic programs. We all feel a need to rework the overall governing rules to gain a more equitable situation."

Hicks said the MIAA's move should not be interpreted as a deemphasis of athletics or as a case against Hillsdale College.

But he admitted that there "is some feeling among presidents that there is an over-emphasis on winning in some quarters."

That the tail might be wagging the dog is a major concern, he added.

★ ★ ★

It is known that Hillsdale College officials have, more than once, accused sister schools of making complaints to the league about Hillsdale's recruiting and scholarship practices. Hillsdale College asked its sister schools to "act like gentlemen and bring the complaints and accusations out on top of the table."

Hicks said the MIAA, at present, has few rules and regulations.

"Most of our schools have a standard pattern for controlling athletics," he explained. "It now is a matter of reevaluating our league and the athletic situation, and resolving some differences of opinions on athletic policies and come up with a uniform, over-all program."

Hicks would not say that the ban on post-season games and spring trips and the limiting of games in each sport would go through. He said the committee would discuss the situation at the local school level and come up with recommendations before the end of the current school year. "This is a study group designed to examine our situation and make recommendations," said Hicks.

The committee is made up of chairman Emil Loeffler, academic dean at Albion College; president William Spoelhof of Calvin; president John Dasson of Adrian; athletic directors Art Smith of Alma and Rolla Anderson of Kalamazoo, and faculty representatives Dr. Morris Boucher of Olivet, Dean Robert Hendee of Hillsdale and Milton L. (Bud) Hinga of Hope.

WHERE'D HE GO? — Two Pontiac Northern swimmers (Tom Houke, left, and Don Maxim) peer intently into the churned-up water of PCH's pool, yesterday to see what's happening to a teammate in the individual medley event. Only indication of the Huskie, in the water, is a smother of spray and protruding thumb — or maybe a toe, as he made the tank-end turn. Central won the meet, 68-28.

Chief Tankers Win, 68-28

PCH Gives PNH Dunking

Pontiac Central gave Pontiac Northern a thorough dunking in their swimming meet yesterday at the PCH pool.

The Chiefs piled up a 68-28 score in winning eight of 10 events with Ted Gaensbauer setting a new pool and team record in the 200-yard individual medley in 1:58.7.

Gaensbauer also won the 200-yard freestyle in 2:09.7. Bruce Norvell, poised PCH junior, was an easy winner in the 100-yard butterfly and the 100-yard breaststroke in times of 1:06.5 and 1:08.9, respectively.

Another double winner for PCH was Greg Uligian who took the 40-yard freestyle in :20.3 and the 100-yard freestyle in 1:00.6.

Northern's two winning events were Bill Ratliff's victory on the board and in the speed relay with Barrie, Gould, TerMasch and Kern winning in 1:26.3.

The victory was the third straight for PCH over the Northern swimmers, having won twice last year in the first pool competition between the teams.

They will face each other again Feb. 9 in the PNH pool.

Central's record is now 2-1 for the season. PNH is 1-2. The Huskies get back into North Suburban League action Thursday night when they play host to Detroit Thurston, the favorite to win the newly formed league title.

In the battle for the All-Sports trophy, PCH now has accumulated 100 points, 50 for basketball and 50 for yesterday's swim victory.

The wrestling teams of the two schools will aim for 100 points toward the trophy when they meet Dec. 22. They meet only once in wrestling.

Pistons Hoping to Swing Trade

Detroit Quintet Must Drop One Player Today by Midnight

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Pistons have until midnight to lop one man off their 11-player roster to reach the National Basketball Assn. player limit.

But it's possible the Pistons will swing a trade — perhaps a two-for-one deal — before the cut-down deadline.

"It won't be an easy decision no matter who gets cut," said coach Red Rocha after the Pistons bounced back from a mild slump.

They beat the New York Knickerbockers Sunday, 147-129, in a multi-record-breaking performance. No Piston team had ever scored that many points before.

General manager W. Nick Kerbawy said he has been talking trade with several clubs. He and Rocha huddled with Knick coach Fuzzy Levane after Sunday's game, apparently to discuss a possible deal.

Rookie Gary Alcorn or second-year man Shellie McMillon are the best bets to be cut if Detroit trims its roster without a trade. Alcorn wasn't used at all in Sunday's rout. McMillon played only sparingly.

Knights Still Unbeaten in City League

★ ★ ★

Pouring points through the hoop at a red-hot clip, the Knights breezed to their 2nd victory of the year last night at Pontiac Central's gymnasium with a 78-68 conquest of CIO Local 594.

John Keller, former St. Michael cage star, paced the K.C. triumph with 23 points.

All five K.C. starters hit double figures in the scoring column. Bill Hall, who once played with Keller at St. Mike, was 2nd best in the point-making parade with 16 while Pete Palshan, Roger Nosek and Hal Trott each contributed a dozen.

★ ★ ★

Alonzo Griffin set the scoring pace for the Union quintet with 18 points and teammates John James and Billie Spain netted 17 apiece.

In last night's other Class A game, Newman A.M.E. fought off a 4th-quarter rally for a narrow 62-61 victory over Shaw's Jewelers.

Dave Diehm, ex-PCH point-getting ace, captured individual scoring honors in the contest with 17, closely followed by Bob McManus who bagged 16. Bob Finley and Jerry Williams each meshed 13 and Bill Taylor tallied 12 for Newman.

★ ★ ★

The Larry Pizza quintet and Clarkston Methodist were Class B winners at the Pontiac Northern gym. The Pizza cagers walloped Booth Homes, 74-62, and the Clarkston outfit handed Walled Lake a whopping 80-31 drubbing.

Bill Manning scored 13 points and teammate Roger Hart added 11 as Welden's defeated the Pledges, 40-34. John Hurd tallied 11 for the Pledges.

The Elks crushed the Aces, 64-21, with Fred Brown sparking the attack on 22 points. Allen Manley of the Elks and Tom Lutz of the Aces made 10 apiece.

'Y' Victories by Tech Trucks and Eagles

The Tech five edged the Crazy Eights 33-30, coming from behind in the last half. Trucks led all the way to down the Falcons 33-23. The Eagles nipped the Lancers 30-28. Action resumes Dec. 28.

Take Your Pick, Wilt or Twyman

★ ★ ★

Twyman has more points than Chamberlain—870 to 846. But the elongated Philadelphian has the best average—35.2 to 31.1. Twyman has played in four more games.

★ ★ ★

The NBA official figures released today showed the Cincinnati ace outscored Chamberlain 156-131 last week as he played in five games to four by Wilt the Stilt. Minneapolis' Elgin Baylor is third in total points with 660.

The scoring leaders:

	G	FG	FT	Pts	Avg.
1. Twyman, Cin.	28	325	220	870	31.1
2. Chamberlain, Phil.	24	321	204	846	35.2
3. Baylor, Minn.	23	234	191	660	28.7

Moore Seeks Shot at Brown's Crown

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Featherweight champion Davey Moore gunned for bigger money fights today after handily outpointing Mexican scrapper Hilario Morales.

Moore wants a shot at Joe Brown's lightweight title but says "I'd fight anybody if there is money in it."

Federal Court Dismisses Suit Against Majors

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — An anti-trust suit against the baseball major leagues was thrown out of federal district court Monday. The decision will be appealed, an attorney said.

★ ★ ★

The Portland club, in the Class AAA Pacific Coast League, asked $1,800,000 damages July 30 against the major league baseball clubs, the leagues' presidents and Ford C. Frick, baseball commissioner.

The Portland club also asked injunctive relief from alleged monopolistic control of ball players and a revised approach to the televising of major league baseball.

Judge Gus Solomon said he dismissed the suit because the Supreme Court has held the major leagues are not in interstate commerce and declined to review that ruling as late as 1953.

MONDAY'S FIGHTS

SAN FRANCISCO—Davey Moore, 130¾, Springfield, Ohio outpointed Hilario Morales, 134, Mexico, 10 (non-title).

NEW ORLEANS—Joe Brown, 139, New Orleans outpointed Joey Parks, 136¾, Omaha, Neb., 10 (non-title).

Most Mound Honors to Spahn

'Toothpick' Sam Jones NL's 1959 ERA Champ

CICINNATI (AP)—Sam (Toothpick) Jones gave the San Francisco Giants their second straight earned run titleholder, but Milwaukee's Warren Spahn won the major share of honors among National League pitchers in 1959.

Jones, a 21-game winner, took the ERA crown with a 2.82 average, official statistics released here today revealed.

In one of the closest races on record, Jones nipped Stu Miller, another Giants' right-hander, who finished with 2.84, Bob Buhl of Milwaukee 2.86 and Spahn 2.96. Miller was the 1958 leader with 2.47.

Spahn, 38-year-old southpaw, led the senior circuit in complete games with 21, innings pitched, 292, batters faced 1,203 and tied with Jones and teammate Lew Burdette for most victories.

Spahn, by winning at least 20 games for the 10th time, extended his major league record for lefthanders, and by pitching four shutouts increased his National League standard for southpaws to 47. The Braves' star has a lifetime total of 267 victories and 172 defeats.

Elroy Face, Pittsburgh's relief ace, established a big league record for winning percentage. He won 18 games and lost one for a .947 mark. The diminutive righthander compiled 22 straight triumphs over two seasons before he was beaten by Los Angeles on Sept. 11.

The earned run competition would not have been close had the Dodgers' Roger Craig pitched another 1 1-3 innings. Craig had 152 2-3 innings — just under the minimum requirement of 154 necessary for championship consideration. His ERA was 2.06.

Don Drysdale of Los Angeles had the most strikeouts, 242. Burdette led in starts 39, hits allowed 312 and Gopher Balls 38. Don Elston and Bill Henry of the Cubs tied for most appearances, 65.

Behind the top four in the earned run race came Vern Law, Pittsburgh, 2.98, Gene Conley, Philadelphia, 3.00 and John Antonelli, San Francisco, 3.10.

Sugar Ray Is TKO Winner

Ends Comeback Bout in Second; Talks Title Fight

BOSTON (AP) — "I've got a lot of work to do to get back," Sugar Ray Robinson said, "but I'll be on time for the title fight."

Robinson, who has held one version or another of the world middleweight championship five times, had just finished his first fight in 20 months — a second round technical knockout of hopeful Bob Young.

★ ★ ★

He belted Young off his feet on five occasions in the second round last night, but was far from satisfied with his first performance since he regained the world title from Carmen Basilion, March 25, 1958.

"I missed a lot, but I guess that 20 months makes a difference," he said.

Thief Collects $5,080 While at Florida Track

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A bold thief got $5,080 from the Tropical Park clubhouse $50 payoff window while fans were rooting for their favorites in the eighth race yesterday.

Irving A. Walker, 47, clerk at the window, said a man with bad teeth and black hair held out a vial and a paper bag, threatening to splash him with acid and said "fill it up, boy."

Walker said he put $50 and $100 bills in the bag, which split. Then, said Walker, he ducked, the bandit dropped the vial and darted off with what money he could salvage.

Police said splotches from the vial proved to be acid.

Wisconsin 11 Will Keep Hustling, Bruhn Says

Badgers Resume Drills After 3 Weeks of Rest

Big Ten Grid Champs Prepare for Rose Bowl in Wind and Rain

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Coach Milt Bruhn says he's going to have his University of Wisconsin football team hustling until the Rose Bowl game with Washington New Year's Day.

"If the local weather situation holds out the boys will be on pass defense and offense for most of the week," Bruhn said. "They've had three weeks of rest and they're ready for work."

The Big Ten champion Badgers resumed drills yesterday afternoon after a layoff of three weeks. A couple of players reported with added weight, the result of taking things easy.

Yesterday's drill session had the 44-man squad on the practice field in a cold wind and rain. The temperatures were in the chilly 30s.

★ ★ ★

"I'm going to keep the boys outside as long as they can get footing," Bruhn said. "It's better for them and they like it. If the ground freezes up on us we'll have to move inside, I suppose, but I'm not looking forward to it. You can get much more done in the open air."

★ ★ ★

The Badgers received a liberal dose of contact work in the drill session and finished up under the field lights. Bruhn and his assistants kept up a steady patter of general advice when the players returned to the locker room.

Unless someone picks up an injury during the drill sessions, Bruhn said the team will be in good physical shape for the contest at Pasadena, Calif.

Bruhn said that pass offense and defense aren't weak points for Wisconsin but he wants the squad as sharp as it can be before leaving here for the west coast on Saturday.

★ ★ ★

"There'll be 11 practice sessions available to us in California," Bruhn said, "but if everything goes according to plan I probably won't want to use all of them."

Bruhn was line coach for the 1952 Wisconsin team which played in the Rose Bowl and lost 7-0 to Southern California.

Overmire to Pilot Detroit Farm Club

DETROIT (AP)—Frank (Stubby) Overmire of Grand Rapids has been named manager of the Durham club of the Carolina League, a farm club in the Detroit Tigers' system.

★ ★ ★

Overmire, who started his professional career with the Tigers in 1941, has spent 15 of his 19 baseball seasons with the Detroit system as a player, coach and manager.

★ ★ ★

Overmire's Decatur club finished fourth in the Midwest League last season, but he was named manager of the year in the league.

★ ★ ★

Hawkeyes Bow to Colorado in Double Overtime

Iowa Suffers First Defeat

By The Associated Press

Big Ten basketball teams have been doing well against non-conference opposition this season but their record would be much better if they kept away from Big Eight competition.

Western Conference teams have compiled a 24-14 record against non-league teams and six of the 14 defeats have come in eight games with Big Eight teams.

Iowa was dropped from the unbeaten ranks last night after dropping a 76-68 decision to Colorado in a double overtime at Boulder. Wisconsin went up against Missouri and suffered its fourth loss in five games, 78-66.

Indiana managed to overcome Big Eight dominance by whipping Kansas State 67-58 and Illinois, which has yet to go up against teams from the Great Plains, kept its slate clean by overcoming Marquette, 89-77.

Outside of Indiana's win over Kansas State, Minnesota has turned in the only other Big Ten triumph over a Big Eight team and that was a 59-57 decision over Oklahoma Saturday.

Both Indiana and Illinois came from behind to record their home-floor triumphs. Indiana trailed 34-26 at halftime but came up with a 41-point splurge in the second half to gain its third triumph in four games. Walt Bellamy led the Hoosiers with 23 points.

★ ★ ★

Illinois trailed Marquette 44-41 at the half and fell behind by eight points in the second half before putting on a winning rally which was paced by Mannie Jackson and Lou Landt.

John Wessels topped the Illini with 19 points while Landt and Jackson had 18 each. Landt scored 11 of Illinois' last 14 points.

Wisconsin was no match for unbeaten Missouri on the Tigers' home floor. The Badgers led by nine points early in the game, but Missouri took a 44-35 advantage at halftime and won easily. Sophomore Marty Charrity was the top scorer for Wisconsin with 18 points.

Iowa and Colorado were tied 61 all at the end of regulation play. Russ Lind put the Buffaloes ahead with two free throws and after Iowa tied it on a basket by Pete Shebler, the Hawkeyes gained control and froze the ball for one final shot. Mike Heitman missed and the game entered another overtime period in which the Buffaloes out-scored Iowa 13-5. Lind scored 27 points for Colorado and Don Nelson was high for Iowa with 15.

★ ★ ★

Only one Big Ten team is in action tonight with Purdue playing at Depaul. Michigan State is at Nebraska Thursday and on Friday night UCLA is at Purdue and Ohio State plays at Butler.

★ ★ ★

Eight conference teams will be in action Saturday.

Drivers Strike at Grand Rapids

Is Fourth City in State to Feel Bus Walkouts; Offers Rejected

By The Associated Press

Grand Rapids became the fourth Michigan city to feel the effects of a bus strike today as 150 drivers and mechanics stayed home after rejecting two Grand Rapids City Coach Lines contract offers.

★ ★ ★

Bus drivers and mechanics have been on strike for a week at Saginaw, Pontiac and Kalamazoo.

Ira Jackson, general manager of City Coach Lines, said one and two-year contract offers were turned down overwhelmingly by members of the Amalgamated Assn. of Street Electric Railway and Motor Coach Operators of America, Division 836.

Jackson said the company had offered a one-year contract providing a wage increase of five cents an hour or a two-year agreement which would provide five cents the first year and four cents the second.

The union informed him, Jackson said, that the one-year pact was rejected 122-9 and the two-year offer 115-18. The company employs 115 drivers and 35 mechanics. The union later confirmed the vote.

The union's one-year contract with the firm expired at midnight. Members had authorized a strike if negotiators failed to reach agreement by the midnight deadline. It was the second offer made by the firm since last Friday.

Arnold Heany, president of Division 836, said the union demanded an across-the-board wage boost of 12 cents an hour in the final negotiating session Monday night. He said an earlier demand for a shorter work week at present pay had been abandoned by the union.

Heany said the dispute has been turned over to federal conciliators who, he said, will set a date for the next meeting between union and management.

Drivers presently are paid a maximum of $1.94 an hour for a 48-hour week and mechanics receive up to $2.31 for a 40-hour week.

Russian Seaman Dies in U.S. Naval Hospital

KODIAK, Alaska (UPI)—A Russian seaman, brought to the naval station hospital here in critical condition, died yesterday. Officials were awaiting word today from the State Department in Washington, D.C. as to disposition of the body.

Shasha Pyetrinktov, 32, flown here last week after a Russian fishing vessel on which he was a crewman delivered him into the hands of the Coast Guard, died of toxic poisoning. He had been suffering from a perforated duodenal ulcer accompanied by internal bleeding.

Bachelor Barry Coe Eats His Words; Takes a Wife

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

Suject: Barry Coe.

Age: 25.

June 20, 1959: "I like being a bachelor, dating different girls," he said in an interview. "Any man's a fool to think of getting married before the age of 30. I'll stay single for another five or ten years."

July 28, 1959: "I had to go to a luncheon at Fox for the Miss Universe contestants," he said. "I sat near the representatives from Denmark and Sweden. They were really beautiful."

July 29: Coe took both girls, Jorunn Kristiansen (Denmark) and Marie Louise Ekstrom (Sweden), to dinner and a night club.

THEY WERE SORE

July 30, 1959: Coe breakfasted with girls at their hotel. "They invited me as a joke, but I took them seriously. Both of 'em were pretty sore when I showed up at 8 o'clock in the morning.

Aug. 4, 1959: "By this time I'd decided that Jorunn was a very nice girl and that I should date her more often. She spoke more English than Marie Louise."

Sept. 13, 1959: "Most of the competition had dropped out, and Jorunn was restricting her dates to me."

Sept. 22, 1959: "I started calling her 'UE' — prounced you-ee — a sort of Norwegian nickname. I thought it was kinda cute."

Oct. 15, 1959: "There wasn't any use in keeping my old phone numbers around so I threw away my little black book."

FINALLY PROPOSED

Oct. 20, 1959: "I heard they were going to make a screen test of UE at the studios, so I rigged it to appear opposite her. It wasn't a successful test, and both of us were glad."

★ ★ ★

Oct. 29, 1959: "Tried to get up courage to propose."

Oct. 30, 1959: "After two nights of fancy dinners and walks on the beach I finally blurted it out — 'Will you marry me?' I asked. She said she would have to give it some thought."

Nov. 1, 1959: "Wrote to UE's parents in Norway, asking permission to marry their daughter. They weren't so sure about letting her marry an actor. So I promised them we would go to Norway and talk it over."

Nov. 21, 1959: "We got married in UE's hometown, a little place named Moss."

Dec. 5, 1959: "Moved out of my bachelor apartment and into a bigger place. A guy's a fool to wait until he's 30 years old to get married."

Bit parts: Joan Caulfield, who welcomed a baby son four weeks ago, is discussing a new situation comedy with Screen Gems . . . Ingrid Bergman will star in "Do You Like Brahms?" A new movie which Anatole Litvak will produce in Europe this spring . . . David and Ricky Nelson completed a complicated and dangerous trapeze stunt for their Jan. 27 appearance on the "Ozzie and Harriet" TV show.

Composer's Son Shed by Wife for Nonsupport

Hurt Waiting to See Ike

Barbara Eisenhower Visits Injured Boy

ATHENS (AP)—Dry-eyed but obviously moved, Barbara Eisenhower today visited a 6-year-old boy who was gravely injured straining to catch a glimpse of President Eisenhower.

★ ★ ★

Theodore Zervas lay unconscious. He was the most seriously injured of the 43 persons hurt when a heavy iron railing collapsed under the weight of hundreds watching Eisenhower's arrival in Athens Monday.

★ ★ ★

While the President was speaking to the Greek Parliament, his daughter-in-law toured the Red Cross Foundling Home and Evanghelismos Hospital. The hospital stop was added to her program at the last minute so she could visit Theodore.

★ ★ ★

Princess Sophia, 21, daughter of King Paul I, rushed from Parliament to join Barbara. Dr. Spiros Doxiades, the royal physician who is treating Theodore at the King's special request, led the two women to the boy's bed.

Theodore, swathed in bandages, did not move. "He is between life and death," said the doctor in answer to Barbara's inquiry.

★ ★ ★

Barbara started her morning with a visit to the headquarters of the Greek Red Cross, where 80 nurses welcomed her. She told them she was a Red Cross worker, too.

★ ★ ★

The president of the Greek Red Cross, Constantine Georgacopolous, presented her with a Red Cross gold medal. He said he was honoring her as a Red Cross aide and as the daughter-in-law of the President.

Barbara also visited the Mitera Foundling Home, which is sponsored by Queen Frederika. She toured a wing built with donations from Americans.

Fish Can Talk (or Chatter?)

Their Noise May Mean Courtship, Fighting or Just Idle Gossip

WASHINGTON — The restless world beneath the sea's surface is not as silent as it seems.

★ ★ ★

Submarine chatterboxes include croakers, drums, grunts, and other families of the spiny-rayed order of fish, the National Geographic Society says.

Fish lack true vocal organs, but the noisy ones can produce sound by teeth-grinding or rapid vibration of special muscles attached to the swim bladder.

The famed cod also adds to the underwater cacophony. At a recent international fish conference in New York, a British scientist reported that codfish have developed a social order and seemingly communicate by a series of grunts.

The inflections vary according to the activity—fighting, courtship, or what may amount to idle gossip.

FISHING BY HYDROPHONE

The noises of various fish differ. Thus it has been suggested that when more is known about underwater vocalizing, fishermen can use hydrophones to locate big schools of commercially important fish.

Subsurface listening devices picked up complicated background noise that couldn't be attributed to shipping or operations ashore. The disturbance ran the gamut from mild beeping, clicking, chirping, crackling and whistling to groans, grunts and moans.

At times the noise sounded like coal running down a chute into a basement, at other times like pneumatic drills biting into pavement.

Navy sonar operators, probing ocean depths for the hum of submarines, were particularly annoyed by interference from shrimp. Disturbed, the snapping shrimp makes a popgun sound with its oversized claw.

Recordings of many fish sounds have now been made. However, the social significance of the noises is uncertain. The vocalizers seem to be particularly clamorous in breeding season. Among Atlantic croakers, the male can make far more noise than the female. Only the male in the related weakfish family has sound-making apparatus.

Prominent State Officials to Attend Rally at WSU

LANSING (AP) — Several prominent persons on the Lansing scene have accepted invitations to Wayne State University's 1959 Politics Day rally Friday in Detroit.

The group includes Sec. of State James M. Hare, GOP titular leader Paul D. Bagwell, Michigan AFL-CIO President August Scholle and the state chairmen of the two major political parties. Theme of the rally will be "Revising Michigan's Constitution."

Leisurely Life on Island Costs $10 Per Week

MIAMI (UPI) — Three miles from beach hotels that charge $100-a-day lies a wooded islet where five men live on $10 a week.

★ ★ ★

They retreated to Lummus Island many years ago to escape the hurly-burly and high cost of modern living.

Four of the men eke out their living by fishing. They take what they need for their own tables and sell the rest to buy a few groceries and some gasoline for their small boats.

Only one of the island dwellers, Joe Dravet, has a regular job. He works as a tractor operator for the City of Miami Beach but returns to the lonely island every night.

★ ★ ★

When not working, the five spend their time dozing or watching the rolling surf. They have little communication with the rest of the world.

Their only friends are the officers of the harbor patrol who call on the men occasionally while cruising through Biscayne Bay.

Living expenses run about $10 a week for each and sometimes less, they say. Their crude shacks, made mostly of driftwood, require little upkeep. Wilbur Pender, 60, who has lived on the islet 20 years, says his dwelling cost $7 to build.

★ ★ ★

They pay no rent, no property taxes and have no utilities. The only modern convenience on Lummus is one portable radio.

★ ★ ★

"My doctor told me to take it easy," he explained.

Must Reduce Accidents, Congestion

Need Better Highways

SPRINGFIELD, ILL. — As a matter of good "industrial citizenship" the auto industry aggressively supports sound highway development to reduce accident tolls and congestion and promote both economic progress and national defense.

★ ★ ★

According to Charles A. Chayne, GM vice president in charge of Engineering Staff, the "road to ruin is not a modern design highway — it is the hazardous, congested type that we have kept in service as a major artery far beyond its useful life."

"In looking at the ever demanding problem of highway safety," Mr. Chayne said "Americans cannot take the negative view that our problem is too many cars.

"We must face up to the great and growing extent to which our whole life is geared to the automobile— and then do some bigger and bolder thinking about providing a proper physical environment for its efficient use."

For instance, he explained, by 1965 the nation's total population is likely to reach 191 million and "we foresee a new car sales level of about 7¼ million units in 1965 — compared to a probable 1960 level of about 6 million. Total motor vehicle registrations in 1965 are expected to exceed 80 million, compared to 68 million in 1958."

★ ★ ★

"Such figures point up the need for all Americans to support all highway programs. We must keep our highway system in pace with the needs of the ever growing increased traffic loads," Mr. Chayne said.

He promised that the auto industry will continue to intensify its efforts to make safe driving as easy as possible and offer car occupants maximum possible protection in accidents.

Long-range research already has produced experimental automatic car guidance systems, although "we cannot expect cars with fully automatic control to start rolling off assembly lines in the near future," the speaker said.

"As a consequence, neither the driverless nor the driverproof automobile is imminent. Research in this area will be productive in developing more advanced aids to alert drivers to hazards and to simplify the act of driving," he told the Illinois publishers and editors.

MSU Putting On Politeness Class for Patrolmen

LANSING (AP)—Angry commans to "pull over to the curb" and sarcastic questions such as "Where's the fire?" may soon be only a memory for Michigan motorists.

★ ★ ★

Michigan State University has launched a short course designed to teach police officers the psychological approach to law enforcement on the highways.

"They will learn how to minimize friction between officers and violators in case of arrest," said Beryl Langford, a retired West Virginia State Trooper now on the MSU police administration staff.

★ ★ ★

Langford is a member of a three-man faculty which includes Prof. William A. Mann, a specialist in human attitudes, and Gordon A. Sheene, head of MSU's traffic safety center.

Oil was used to heat 5,000 homes in the United States in 1920, compared with more than 16 million today.

Lyndon Johnson 'Campaigns' but Not as '60 Candidate

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the season when presidential hopefuls beat the bushes and prowl the prairies, talking, watching, counting, wishing. Associated Press political writers have been traveling with potential candidates, taking a close-up look at the men who could wind up in the White House. Here Arther Edson, 15 years an observer of the Washington scene, reports on three eventful days in the life of a man who insists he isn't a candidate, Sen. Lydon B. Johnson.

By ARTHUR EDSON

But publicly and privately Johnson will assure you that he's no candidate. Since he's making no effort to win the Democratic presidential nomination, he says, he hasn't a chance.

Johnson's own explanation of what he's up to seems true enough. He's the Democratic leader in the Senate, responsible for legislating for all the people. He should see what's happening outside of Texas, and he often does when Congress isn't in session.

No man is more skilled at counting the political house than Lyndon Johnson. He's such a shrewd and careful political leader that even Republicans in the Senate sometimes speak of him in awe and in envy.

PROUD OF HOURS

Johnson is proud that the lights in his office burn late as he and his staff check and recheck on how other senators plan to vote. "We're busy with our homework," Johnson says.

But Johnson doesn't have to stay up late at night to discover this fact of political life: Since the Civil War, the door of the White House has been locked tight against all Southerners.

He has shown that with such comments as this one made while he was speaking up for additional civil rights legislation.

"We must purge ourselves of all bigotry, whether it's against a majority or a minority, whether it's against a class or a section." Here Johnson paused significantly. "And I'd like to emphasize 'section.'"

Johnson probably will go to the national nominating convention next summer with a good lineup of Southern votes, as well as others he will pick up in the Mountain and Western states.

The convention should be a humdinger.

If it should come to an uproarious stalemate, a man of great persuasive powers, who knows when to move and when to lie low, might make great progress.

A hundred-year tradition might be broken, and then Lyndon Johnson could stride as a full-fledged candidate up the path that leads toward the White House.

But now it's foolish to butt one's head against a tightly closed door. If his great friend and teacher, Speaker Sam Rayburn, wants to start Johnson - for - president clubs all over Texas, why not humor him? And there's no harm traveling about meeting the folks, is there?

FOLKS CURIOUS

It turns out a lot of folks are curious about Lyndon. He had overflow crowds wherever he spoke in Iowa and Kansas.

Here, in a Republican stronghold, he drew 350 to a dinner in the Tallcorn Hotel. It was the largest Democratic turnout here in history.

He speaks of the great need for responsible leadership in this crucial period of tension. As majority leader, he never opposes anything merely because it's proposed by a Republican president.

"If this proposal is good for America," he will say, "it's good for the Democratic Party."

Only a dullard could fail to understand here that before them is a shining example of responsible leadership. At these meetings he refers to President Eisenhower often and kindly.

But at political meetings Johnson can become almost as freewheeling a critic as Harry S. Truman. True, he remains pleasant in his attitude toward Eisenhower, but now he may get in a few jabs.

He will be talking about the Soviet Union's Nikita S. Khrushchev, how forceful he is, how determined. "I didn't see a man who needed a siesta in the afternoon," he will say.

This is a not too gentle reminder that Eisenhower sometimes sleeps during the day, and the impression left on the audience is that Johnson, who had a heart attack himself will never be caught napping.

Here in the farm belt Johnson naturally hits hard at the farm policies of Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson. But he also blames the administration for high interest rates, for a lag in missiles, for what he calls the disrepair of our foreign alliances.

In nearly all of his speeches Johnson slips in a sentence that comes out about like this:

★ ★ ★

It's too early to say what's possible or impossible. But no matter what he says, you can bet that Lyndon Johnson has his eyes on the political stars shining so temptingly over the White House.

Royal Oak Man Sent to Prison in Robbery

David M. Bailey, 34, of 1205 Millard St., Royal Oak, was sentenced to 7½ to 15 years in Jackson Prison yesterday for the armed robbery of $337 from a Royal Oak market last July.

Circuit Judge Frank L. Doty imposed the sentence after Bailey was found guilty by a jury Dec. 1. He held up Bob's Market, 925 E. Eleven Mile Rd. with another man, since sentenced to prison in another state.

Persian Carpet Treatment Irks Eisenhower

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—President Eisenhower was astonished to find his limousine rolling over rich Persian rugs in the streets of Tehran Monday.

Beautiful rugs were placed at several points along the four-mile route from the airport to the palace of the Shah. A bit later the Shah gave Eisenhower a large red and blue rug—a new one.

"Obviously, you must know how I love Persian carpets," the President said in accepting the rug. "I was chagrined when I saw how we were driving over them today. That is not the way we treat them in America."

Grain Futures Firm After Shaky Start

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market tipped slightly to the firm side in early transactions today after a generally irregular opening on the Board of Trade.

★ ★ ★

Soybeans and nearby wheat months led the advances with gains running to major fractions of a cent. At the start, however, soybeans were up a cent in spots before offerings exceeded buying orders.

The volume of business was small. In the grain pits the overnight accumulation of orders appeared to have been cleared within the first five minutes.

Trade was at a standstill near the end of the first hour with wheat unchanged to ⅝s cent a bushel higher, December $1.96½; corn ⅛s lower to ⅛s higher, December $1.09½; oats unchanged to ¼ higher, December 76½; rye ¼ lower to ⅝s higher, December $1.28½; soybeans ¾ higher to ¼ lower, January $2.14¾.

Civil War Vet Hangs On but Definitely Critical

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Doctors find little change in the critical condition of ailing Confederate Walter Williams, 117.

"He's about the same," a family member reported Monday night after Williams' second visit of the day by his physician.

Williams, last surviving veteran of the Civil War, has been in critical condition for more than a week. He is suffering from pneumonia for the fourth time in six months.

Market Presses Toward Peak

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market pressed closer to record peaks in active trading early this afternoon.

Motors resumed their pacemaking role in activity. Some utilities and specially situated issues also were in big demand.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average rose above its historic closing high of 678.10 reached Aug. 13. The Associated Press 60-stock average still remained below its peak reached the same day and the industrial component of the AP average also remained below its record.

The general run of gains by key stocks went from fractions to a point or better. While there were some losers, the rise was more solid than yesterday's when gainers and losers were almost equal.

Ford and Chrysler were up about a point each as Wall Street continued to expect a boom year for autos in 1960. Studebaker-Packard spurted a couple of points while American Motors dipped more than a point on profit taking.

Aluminums took off as the producers and the United Steelworkers Union were reported near a labor agreement. Kaiser Aluminum rose about 3, Reynolds Metals around 2 and Aluminum Ltd. about a point.

Collins Radio was the sensation among the "science" stocks, jumping 3¼ to 62½ on a block of 25,000 shares delayed an hour and 20 minutes in opening. It expanded the gain to about 6 in later trades. This stock responded to talk of much higher earnings expected to be announced tomorrow.

Chance Vought gained well over a point on news of a $58,000,000 Navy contract. Hart, Shaffner & Marx was up about 2 on a proposal for a 2-for-1 stock split and higher dividend.

2nd Probate Judge Issue Up to Voters

Following the recommendation of its legislative committee, supervisors, without discussion, agreed to put the question to a countywide vote next November. It will be part of next year's busy national, state and county elections.

Actually, supervisors in April agreed to the vote. Yesterday's action was to authorize the county clerk to take steps to put it on the ballot.

Voters here will decide solely whether a second judge is needed to lessen the load of Judge Arthur E. Moore. If the proposition is approved the new judge would be appointed by Gov. Williams.

The interim appointment—he would serve two years until 1962 when voters in November of that year elect the judge — has resulted in some politically-tinged remarks in past Board sessions. None whatsoever were heard yesterday.

It had been hinted by some Democrats on the Board that Republicans were trying to stall the question hoping Williams would be out of the governor's mansion and thus unable to name a Democratic judge. Moore is a Republican.

Since 1938, he has handled the record-heavy probate caseload himself, with the aid of referees who hear some cases.

Judge Moore has said he favors a second judge.

Republicans refuted the Democrats' claims of "you're stalling." They said they were moving along on the theory that 1961 would be the soonest a second judge would be necessary.

John G. Semann, Berkley supervisor and chairman of the legislative committee, said a law permits counties with 100,000 or more population to have an additional judge, providing electors favor one.

He said several committees of the Board and a report from the Oakland County Bar Assn. supported the need.

"It appears to the best interests of the county that the question be submitted to the electors," Semann said.

National Gypsum Record Earnings Hit $27 Million

NEW YORK (AP)—National Gypsum Co. will have record earnings of about 27 million dollars in 1959, Melvin H. Baker, chairman, told the New York security analysts Monday.

He viewed the outlook for home building as clouded but forecast about 1,200,000 housing starts next year. This would be a decline of about 10 per cent from the 1959 total, he said.

ACF-Wrigley Stores Elects President

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Officials of ACF-Wrigley Stores Inc. announced the election of James Cooke as president yesterday.

Cooke, until recently vice president, general manager and director of the Penn Fruit Co. of Philadelphia, will succeed Norman Hirschfield.

Hirschfield was named chairman of the ACF-Wrigley board and will continue as the firm's chief executive officer. S. N. Goldman, who has been board chairman, has retired from active management.

ACF-Wrigley operates the Standard-Humpty Dumpty grocery chain in Oklahoma and also owns supermarkets in Texas, St. Louis and Detroit.

News in Brief

Someone broke into the Railway Express office, 57 N. Cass Ave., it was reported to Pontiac Police yesterday. It has not been determined what is missing.

Ethel Willis, 240 S. Anderson St., reported to Pontiac Police yesterday that her purse containing $18 was stolen while she shopped in a downtown drug store.

Rebels Join Up to Oust Dictator

Hundreds Slip Across River to Help Guerrilla Revolt in Paraguay

POSADAS, Argentina (AP) — Residents here report hundreds of Paraguayan rebels are slipping across the Parana River to join the guerrilla campaign against the dictatorship of President Alfredo Stroessner in Paraguay.

Despite claims by the Paraguayan government that its frontiers have been sealed, Brazilian sources here put the number of new rebels in Paraguay at 1,000.

Rebel spokesmen said the uprising that began Saturday also involved about 1,000 men, but some of them have been captured. Paraguayan officials claim the revolt was snuffed out within hours.

The Parana River separates southeast Paraguay from Argentina and Brazil. Argentine authorities here say businesses in Posadas that depend on Paraguayan labor have been forced to close. Their workers presumably have joined the rebels.

Exiles who once were aligned with Stroessner and later broke with him are said to be leading some of the invasion forces.

One was named as a Capt. Sardi who helped Stroessner seize power in 1954 and later served as his chief deputy. He was said to have the backing of Epifano Mendez Fleitas, former president of the Paraguayan Central Bank and once a powerful figure in the government. Mendez Fleitas has been living in Uruguay.

SYNOPSIS: Oonik has asked Santa to visit the Ice King and talk him into ending the continuous winter. Santa was at first hesitant about taking the first assignment, but finally agreed. Santa's helper still is not convinced it's a good idea.

Chap. 7

"You cannot leave Santa Land!" he cried to Santa Claus. "Who is going to invent toys and show the fairies how to make them? Who is going to get things ready for next Christmas?"

"Do be quiet, Patrick Tweedle-knees," ordered Santa. "You know very well there may be no Christmas if the Ice King freezes up the whole world."

"But it's dangerous!" shouted Tweedleknees. He turned and shook his tiny fist in Oonik's face. "Oh, you! Why did you ever come here with your big fat ideas?"

"Don't mind him," said Santa taking Oonik's arm. "He makes a big noise to cover up his kind heart. Come, let's be on our way."

HAS NO SLED

"How will you travel, may I ask?" persisted Tweedleknees. "The reindeer are gone."

Santa said, "Well, I'll think of something."

"Keotuk can take us!" spoke up Oonik. "Keotuk's my dog. He can take us anywhere. Except—" he dropped his head. "Except I—I have lost my sled."

"Nothing of the sort," said Tweedleknees huffily. "I'll make the sled. I'm the chief sled-maker around here, please remember."

Santa chuckled. "Very well. Have it ready in an hour's time. Now, Oonik, you go with Tweedle-knees and I'll go see to Mrs. Claus."

Still grumbling, but anxious now to show what he could do, Tweedle-knees crawled up the pile of hay with Oonik behind him. They started down the ladder with Tweedle-knees leading the way.

Oonik found that going down the strange contraption was much harder than going up. When he had gone half way he made the mistake of looking at the ground. His head whirled, he missed his footing, and slipped down on Tweedleknees' head.

With a whoosh they came tumbling to the ground.

Tweedleknees lay motionless in the snow. "Are you hurt?" cried Oonik in alarm. But Tweedleknees lay like one dead. Suddenly Keotuk bounded up. Eagerly he licked the dwarf's face. Instantly Tweedle-knees leaped up.

"What is that thing?" he shouted in horror.

"It's Keotuk, my dog," said Oonik. "He's only trying to help you."

Tweedleknees drew in his breath. It seemed he was about to let out a torrent of abuse and Oonik's knees shook with fear. But Tweedleknees merely sighed.

MARCHES AWAY

"Come on," he said huffily. "But please don't walk close to me for goodness only knows what you might do next." And he marched glumly away with Oonik obediently trailing 10 feet behind.

Presently they turned into the door of a long low building nearly covered by snow. Oonik gasped at what he saw.

At one end of the room a group of silver-winged fairies huddled around a stove that held no fire. In the middle of the room there were long tables, row on row, and on the tables were such toys as Oonik had never seen or heard of.

There were kites and wagons and skates and baseball bats. There were fire engines and boxing gloves and doll houses and toy drums.

Oonik's eyes popped and he stood with his mouth wide open unable to move or speak. But Tweedleknees marched up to the fairies and said, "Bring me tools and wood. I have a sled to make."

★ ★ ★

The fairies, shivering and clattering their teeth, shook their heads. "There's no wood to build a fire to keep warm by. How can we find you wood for a sled?"

Tweedleknees snapped his fingers. "Use the toys for firewood," he said. "And I'll take these wagons apart to build a sled."

"What?" cried the Queen Fairy in consternation. "Destroy the toys we've already made?"

"Santa himself is going to settle things with the ice King," said Tweedleknees importantly. "When he comes back there'll be summer again for sure and when the ice melts we'll find wood enough for a mountain of toys."

Next: Oonik Builds an Igloo

"BRING TOOLS," said the dwarf. "I have a sled to build."

County Will Not Reduce Pay of Judges Next Year

Oakland's five circuit court judges won a judgment of $5,000 from the Board of Supervisors yesterday, which decided no ceiling should be placed on the judges' pay.

By a vote of 54 to 23, supervisors voted to take the money from the county's contingent fund in order to keep the jurists' pay at the old level of $23,500 next year.

★ ★ ★

Supervisors also made a part of their cut-down 1960 legislative program the repeal of a 1954 state law which says judges cannot receive more than $22,500 a year. The state pays $12,500, the county the rest.

SWITCH FROM 1958

The county had continued to pay $1,000 above the state ceiling while supervisors debated whether to comply with the law. Much of the discussion centered around a 1955 ruling of the attorney general that the law was unconstitutional.

Yesterday's roll call vote was a complete switch from September 1958 when supervisors voted 48-26 to abide with the law.

In a surprise move after approval of the legislative package, Birmingham Supervisor Carl F. Ingraham, long an advocate of ignoring the ceiling, moved for the transfer of the funds.

"It always bothered me more that of all the people in the county we selected for pay decreases, we chose these outstanding men," said the attorney-supervisor.

★ ★ ★

He said no other county employes faced a reduction in pay next year.

★ ★ ★

Because Marshall E. Taylor, Walled Lake supervisor, said, "Some members in this group who are thinking of becoming judges are pushing up the pay for the future," Ingraham assured fellow supervisors he was not a judicial candidate.

Dissenting were four of six current members of the Board's salaries committee which had included the pay slice in the 1960 budget. Two members voted for the restoration of the $23,500 salaries.

★ ★ ★

An attempt to reduce next year's program of legislative changes to only three "target objectives" failed by a voice vote. It was suggested by Roy F. Goodspeed (Ferndale).

★ ★ ★

The prime goals will be restoration of the old 50-50 matching basis for welfare costs between the state and counties, law changes to facilitate the consolidation of the Drain Commission Office and the Department of Public Works, and a new law establishing lake levels.

Goodspeed said those changes sought in past programs should be deleted.

This was somewhat in agreement with the goals of county legislative agents who drafted a smaller program so top emphasis can be placed on the three major bills.

The rest of the program consists of four laws which would allow some departmental changes, including several amendments to mental health laws, and four proposals endorsed by the Oakland Township Supervisors' Assn.

Castro Shouts Seven Hours Demanding Death for Mates

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro's military prosecutor demanded the death penalty for Maj. Hubert Matos today after Castro appeared as star witness for the prosecution and delivered a seven-hour harangue in defense of his revolutionary regime.

Matos is on trial before a military court on charges of treason. He was arrested last October after resigning as Castro's commander in Camaguey province and charging the bearded prime minister's government was infiltrated with Communists.

★ ★ ★

Castro charged that Matos' resignation was part of a plot to cause a crisis in his government. The prosecutor followed by accusing Matos of touching off a seditious movement and trying to confuse Castro's revolutionary movement.

A RADICAL REVOLUTION

Castro's marathon speech — delivered with his back to the five-man military court and his face to the 1,500 spectators — was touched off by a single question from prosecutor Jorge Serguera. He was asked whether he could explain the events surrounding Matos' resignation.

Castro replied with a detailed defense of his revolutionary program. Even with an hour recess, he was tired and hoarse at the end. He never once directly called Matos a traitor.

★ ★ ★

"Ours is not a Communist revolution," he shouted at one point. "Ours is, I admit, a radical revolution — probably the most radical in Cuban history."

★ ★ ★

The conduct of the trial in the Camp Libertad theater made it clear that normal courtroom procedures were being abandoned for Castro's revolutionary formulas of justice.

Matos stood up several times to ask Castro to explain some of his charges.

At one point Castro, himself a lawyer, took over the job of the prosecution and called Capt. Felix Duque, another prosecution witness, to testify that Matos persuaded fellow officers to resign by spreading rumors about communism.

★ ★ ★

Matos called Duque a liar and asked the court's permission to anwer. Other government witnesses then intervened, including Education Minister Armando Hart. Soon six people were talking at once.

Finally Castro shouted to the court president: "I need no help in this matter!" Matos and the others were ordered to take their seats.

Gay 90s Actress Dies, Age 99 (?)

Edna Wallace Hopper Starred in Floradora, Started Chorus Girls

EDNA HOPPER

No one knew her age. Her youthful appearance belied her years. Estimates ranged from 85 to 99. She said the records of her birth were destroyed in the San Francisco earthquake.

★ ★ ★

Less than five feet tall and weighing only 85 pounds, Miss Hopper became the darling of the gay 90s appearing in Broadway shows. Her first big splash was in David Belasco's "The Girl I Left Behind Me."

In 1908, she married stockbroker Albert O. Brown, who died in the 1930s. She made her final Broadway appearance in 1920, after which she underwent a face-lifting operation, which was filmed. She toured the country with the film lecturing on how to stay young and beautiful.

Pontiac Youths Sentenced for Stealing Cars

Two 17-year-old unlicensed Pontiac youths, who said "friends" and "my girl friend" led them to stealing cars, were sentenced to 1½ to 5 years in Jackson Prison yesterday by Circuit Judge William J. Beer.

★ ★ ★

Sentenced were William E. Cook, of 24 W. Cornell Ave., and Charles W. Eason, of 198 E. Huron St. Cook pleaded guilty Nov. 23 and Eason Nov. 30.

A 20-year-old Walled Lake youth, Joseph M. Walker, was given two years probation, 25 days in the county jail and assessed $100 court costs for another car theft. The judge said probation investigators believed he was a good risk for probation.

"All my friends have cars, so I just took it," Cook told Judge Beer when asked why he stole the car from a woman owner Sept. 30.

"It was my girl friend," Eason replied when asked the same question. Eason stole a car from the Ford dealer in Pontiac Nov. 15.

U.S. apparel (excluding department stores) sales hit $12,193,129,000 in 1958. To show—and sell—their latest styles, national apparel manufacturers invested $8,616,000 in daily newspapers last year. Considerably more was spent by local retailers, who know their customers "shop" the ads before going out to buy.

Joan Isn't Worried About Younger Beau

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — I asked the British bombshell, Joan Collins, whether she's marrying Warren Beatty, who is Shirley MacLaine's brother, and she fired back at me in a thoroughly courteous manner:

WILSON

"We're not officially engaged."

"Unofficially then?"

"We've talked about it . . . We've only known each other about three months. We're not going to run away and elope."

★ ★ ★

"He is" — I stammered a little here — "younger?"

"He is a year younger than I am. Does it matter? God, No! Women live longer than men, anyway."

Joan said she'd followed Warren and his show, "A Loss of Roses," around try-out points and to Broadway and seen it about eight times. She wouldn't be surprised if her hassle with 20th Century-Fox about her demand for script changes in "Sons and Lovers" is patched up — which means she'll be off to Nottingham, England, to work in 10 days.

JOAN

Joan's strip-tease film, "Seven Thieves," is out soon. "My teacher, you know, Candy Barr, went to prison. She taught me how to strip—as much as I can strip on the screen. She was a nice girl. I hardly think I'd ever strip for a living. I could—but I wouldn't."

Zsa Zsa Gabor and Monique Van Vooren got into a small feud in Houston at a charity ball. Monique, while there on tour promoting "Happy Anniversary," wouldn't wait at the airport for Zsa Zsa, who was arriving a half hour later, and explained, "Zsa Zsa wouldn't wait for me." Monique then got upset because Zsa was met with a Rolls and champagne while she was expected to ride on a fire engine and drink beer.

Perry Como's people emphatically deny that Josephine Baker will be on his TV show, as her U.S. mgr. swore to us the other day. They say they wouldn't even consider her due to her controversial reputation . . . Singer Tommy Leonetti was being interviewed on WABC's "Anything Goes" about disc jockey practices. Asked whether he'd ever had to give back his salary when he had appeared to plug a record, he said "Yes." Interviewer Jack Clark said "Would you care to divulge where?" He said, "All right—on Dick Clark's show." There was a heavy silence—Clark being ABC's property.

To Recommend Parcel Rezoning

City Commission Action Would Pave Way for Bowling Alley

Rezoning of an 11-acre parcel on N. Perry street to make way for a bowling alley and perhaps a shopping center will be recommended tonight to the City Commission.

The parcel is triangular in shape, lying on the north side of Perry between Giddings road on the east and the proposed extension of Pontiac road on the north.

The land is zoned residential at present, but rezoning to commercial has been requested by Louis and Julius Koprince, proprietors of Motor Inn Recreation, 18 S. Perry St.

James Bates, planning director, said the Koprince brothers plan to build a new bowling alley first, but are considering the possibility of a neighborhood shopping center later.

He said there has been an offer to deed to the city right of way for the eventual extension of Pontiac road westward. This involves the southern 50 feet of an eventual 100-foot-wide right of way, Bates said.

Commissioners, in other business, will be asked to fill a four-month unexpired term on the Board of Supervisors. The vacancy occurred earlier this month as a result of the resignation of Robert Boyer, who served nearly four years.

★ ★ ★

City Attorney William A. Ewart is scheduled to give an opinion on the legality of the courtesy ride service instituted by striking drivers of Pontiac City Lines, Inc.

It has been questioned whether the drivers are fulfilling the insurance requirements of the city's public carrier ordinances.

Majority of Canadians Resides in Ontario

OTTAWA (UPI) — Almost one-third of Canada's people live in the province of Ontario. This province produces about half of the country's manufactured goods and a very large percentage of the world's nickel.

The world's largest nickel refinery is that of the International Nickel Co., located in Port Colburne, Ontario.

Michigan '60 License Tag Sale Lagging

Sale of the new, 1960 license plate tags is lagging according to Willis M. Brewer, manager of the Pontiac branch of the secretary of state's office.

Brewer said that only 3,361 of the tags have been sold. More than 5,400 license plates had been sold at this time last year.

★ ★ ★

Brewer urged owners of passenger cars to avoid last minute rushes as the Feb. 29 deadline for driving on 1959 plates nears.

He also reminded car owners that they must have their car titles handy when they pay 1960 registration fees.

Governmental Reform Report Coming — Carey

Supervisors yesterday were promised a "take it or leave it" report on modern reform in Oakland County government by John L. Carey, chairman of a special study committee.

His group of nine was recently criticised for being "way too slow in getting things done." The criticism came from Harold K. Schone, who resigned as acting director of the Department of Public Works to become city manager of Arcadia, Calif.

"In spite of the fact we may have to move to California to learn how to run county government . . ." Carey said in prefacing his promise.

The county had expected a progress report — requested after some supervisors questioned what the committee was doing — at yesterday's meeting. Carey said it wasn't ready.

★ ★ ★

The Springfield Township supervisor explained several members were absent over the summer on vacations, making compilation of the report impossible.

"We're going to bring to you at the January meeting a take it or leave it proposition," Carey said. "It will be a definite plan you can adopt if you like."

All he'd say was that it would be on county re-organization. To date, his committee, appointed two years ago, has spearheaded one major alteration — the merger of the offices of county clerk and register of deeds.

★ ★ ★

Carey said his report would not touch on a suggestion made yesterday by Huntington Woods Supervisor Fred L. Yockey that the Board of County Road Commissioners be stripped of their administrative duties. Yockey said the three commissioners should be strictly policy makers.

His request for a study of these functions was referred, after some debate, to Carey's committee and the roads committee. Several supervisors insisted the report be submitted by the Board within three months.

Yockey said his demand was coelection of Hiland M. Thatcher, former West Bloomfield Township supervisor and Board vice-chairman, to fill an unexpired position as road commissioner. He succeeds Lee O. Brooks, who resigned due to ill health.

Yockey said his deand was coincidental to Thatcher's election. "It's time we get down to business to reorganize some facets of government," he said.

Yockey's move was seen by some supervisors, who asked their criticism of the Carey committee's "lack of progress."

Earlier, Carey, continuing his blast at Schone's criticism of his committee, said his coming report will not recommend the abolishment of the Board of Auditors and Board of Supervisors. Schone suggested the three auditors be replaced by a county administrator, and that the number of supervisors be cut in half.

"We're going to wait until some other time to do these things," Carey said.

State 'In Red' but Not Broke

Treasurer Brown States 'It's Never Been Worse'; Payroll to Be Met

LANSING (UPI) — Michigan passed another milestone today in its year-long plunge through fiscal disaster when state treasurer Sanford A. Brown disclosed "we're completely in the red."

★ ★ ★

"It's never been worse," Brown said in an interview on where Michigan stands as it approaches Thursday's anniversary of its cash crisis. "Today, for the first time, the aggregate balance of all funds will be in the red.

"Checks would bounce all over the place if we tried to pay all bills."

The state administrative board was expected to release enough money today to meet Thursday's state payroll of about five million dollars.

"We can meet some of our essential payments by holding up on warrants for others," Brown said. "We had a cash balance of $7,100,000 in the general fund Monday. But on paper, the fund was $26,800,000 in the red because we were holding warrants that were written but not sent out."

Michigan's general fund has been in the red before but the aggregate balance of all funds showed black because of healthy balances in the highway fund and other constitutionally earmarked funds.

Release of 30 million dollars in school aid money yesterday and state administrative board action today will drain off available cash.

"We're the nation's sixth wealthiest state," Brown said. "What with buildings, parks and other resources we have more than two billion dollars in assets."

Yet Michigan will have a deficit of about 95 million dollars by the end of the month.

Benson Is Assailed by Iowa Candidates

OTTUMWA, Iowa (AP)—Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson was the favorite whipping boy for both sides in a special election today to name a new congressman from Iowa's 4th District.

★ ★ ★

Democrat C. Edwin Gilmour, 42, of Grinnell, and Republican John Kyl, 40, of Bloomfield, were vying for the congressional seat left vacant by the death Nov. 4 of Rep. Steven Carter, Leon Democrat.

Both Gilmour and Kyle have heaped criticism on Benson, blaming him for falling farm prices, the sagging hog market and pyramiding surpluses.

Draft Call for February Has Been Set at 6,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — The draft call for February has been set at 6,000 men, 1,000 less than the number called for January.

All of the February quota will go into the Army. It will bring to 2,503,430 the number of men inducted by selective service since the draft was resumed during the Korean emergency.

Ah! Now We Really Know What Jack Paar Is Like

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Jack Paar Show returned to New York last night after refreshing itself with a brief dip in Hollywood's whirlpool.

★ ★ ★

Even Paar has acknowledged the obvious—that his night-blooming humor hot-house on NBC-TV needed this western air, for things were getting almost oppressively edgy. The Hollywood venture made it fun again. I think the turning point was the celebrated, or celebrating Mickey Rooney visit.

Before this visit, Paar was in a rut. He seemed able to talk only about his professional, intramural problems and his guests also fell into the rut with him. Cued by Paar, the guests would be called upon to deliver testimonials about how likable a chap is Jack Paar. It all became mighty sticky.

The Rooney blowup, or hiccup, rocked Paar out of this groove and once again his interesting, funny guests were permitted to be interesting and funny and to delve into non-Paar subjects.

★ ★ ★

Like all Paar viewers, I also have some theories about the man, his show and his success. My theory is summed up in the formula: High-saturation publicity equals high spirits for Paar; low-saturation publicity equals low spirits.

I say this even though Paar makes a big thing out of his contempt for newspaper publicity. Methinks he protests too much.

The longer Paar goes unnoticed, without page one publicity, the more irascible, hypersensitive and demanding he becomes. This tends to make his show a public showcase for the display of Paar's frazzled, naked psyche. Fascinating, of course, but is it entertainment?

FEUD LIST

Remember the Dody Goodman feud? The difficulties with Walter Winchell, Newsweek, TV Guide and Jimmy Hoffa? All made news and seemed to refresh Paar's spirits for weeks. So it was with the Rooney episode.

Right now, Paar is back in his all's-well-with-the-world mood. I hope it sticks, but history tells us he'll lose it and again start rattling around from one mood to another.

He has demonstrated that he can be extremely clever, witty, gracious and tactful, a master of his business. And he also has demonstrated that he can be indiscreet, tasteless, obsequious, snobbish and, at times, even cruel.

★ ★ ★

Yet, through it all his show manages to remain fascinating. The thing that bothers me is that sometimes I feel I'm being fascinated for the wrong reasons.

THE CHANNEL SWIM: Despite a claim of infringement by Author William Bradford Huie, NBC-TV's Sunday Showcase plans to present a drama about Ira Hayes, the World War II Marine hero, next March 27. Huie says a deal he negotiated is jeopardized by the teleplay.

Another World War II hero, Audie Murphy, will costar with Thelma Ritter in NBC-TV's Startime" production of the mystery melodrama, "The Man," on Tuesday, Jan. 5. . . . Geraldine Page has signed to star in CBS-TV's Du Pont Show of the Month adaptation of "Ethan Frome" on Thursday, Feb. 11.

Wichita Town, NBC-TV's Wednesday night western, loses its sponsor as of March 30. . . . Ty Hardin, star of ABC-TV's Bronco, becomes a guitar-strumming cowboy in the Tuesday, Dec. 29, episode.

Adams to Rule on Senate Vote

Claims Redistricting Is Political Rather Than Legal Matter

LANSING (AP) — A dispute over freezing of state senatorial districts should be settled at the polls rather than in the courts, Atty. Gen. Paul L. Adams said today.

The attorney general outlined his arguments as he prepared to oppose a suit by August Scholle, Michigan AFL-CIO president, to force a redistricting of the Republican-controlled Senate based on population.

Scholle asked the state Supreme Court to throw out a 1952 constitutional amendment freezing the 34 Senate districts. He claimed they violated the U. S. constitutional guarantee of due process and equal protection under the laws.

The legislature should be given a chance to reapportion the Senate under law, he said, or if not, all senators should be elected from the state at large starting next year.

★ ★ ★

"I agree with Mr. Scholle that the present senatorial districts are inequitable and disproportionate," said Adams, a Democrat. "I do not agree that this is a matter to be remedied by the courts. The remedy is at the polls by amendment to the Constitution. The question is political rather than legal."

General Bars Press From Missile Firings

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) —The press has been barred from the nation's missile test center for military missile firings by commander Maj. Gen. Donald N. Yates.

★ ★ ★

The Air Force commander said the action yesterday would prevent on-the-spot coverage of military launchings such as the Atlas, Titan, Thor and Polaris missiles.

Yates said a story from Washington last Saturday violated an agreement with the press concerning advance publication of the date for the launch of a Thor-Able rocket.

All Car Plants to Be Rolling by Monday

DETROIT (AP) — All but one of the nation's auto assembly lines shut by a steel shortage will be back in production tomorrow with all models of automobiles being turned out for the first time since early last month.

General Motors Corp. got the last of its idled plants humming again yesterday. After the nationwide strike of steelmakers forced all auto lines down Nov. 11.

Chrysler Corp., whose last plant went down Dec. 2, will reopen three — at Detroit, St. Louis and Newark, Del. — tomorrow, leaving only its Los Angeles plant idle. That one is scheduled to be back in production Monday.

We're lucky, says the Rotary Club Scandal Sheet, to be living in a country where folks can say what they think without thinking . . . Nobody can ever quite cook like Mother used to cook, or make quite the same jam she used to make — when she tried to drive in traffic. —Earl Wilson.

Rocky Presents Farm Program

Making Swing Through Middle West; Outlines 4-Point Plan

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller headed into Wisconsin today after urging, in a major speech on farm policy, that 60 million acres of land be taken out of agricultural cultivation.

Rockefeller is making a swing through the Middle West. He says the purpose is to "register impressions" which will help him decide whether to try for the Republican nomination for president in 1960. In the first three days of the trip, he visited Indiana, Missouri, and Minnesota—in all of which Vice President Richard M. Nixon is considered to have the support of most Republican leaders for the nomination.

The governor chose Minneapolis as the spot to deliver his views on the way to solve the farm problem.

"The farmers are dissatisfied," he said. "The taxpayers are up in arms. And we have bigger surpluses hanging over the market than ever before. I think the time has come to take a fresh look."

4-POINT PROGRAM

1. Long-term rental of farms by the federal government.
2. "Stabilization supports based on production costs and net income factors under modern agricultural conditions."
3. "Vigorous" market development for farm products.
4. A job-opportunity program "for farmers who want to shift to other activities."

Nixon Asks Big Ike Welcome

President Is Elated; Returns Dec. 23 After 'Terribly Hard' Tour

WASHINGTON (AP)—Though it would be hard to exceed the crowds President Eisenhower has drawn in Asia, Vice President Richard M. Nixon said today, he hopes the President gets an enthusiastic reception when he returns from his tour.

★ ★ ★

"It's no junket," Nixon said, "and for the President to have done this, to have gone through this terribly hard schedule in the service of the cause of peace is one for which all Americans, I am sure, are thankful, and I am sure they're going to want to show that when he comes back on Dec. 23."

GETS CODED CABLE

Nixon said he had received a coded cable from Eisenhower while he was in India, describing some of his reactions to the trip.

"He is, I think, very pleased with the trip," Nixon said, "and his reception in India was one that particularly moved him because of its size as well as its enthusiasm."

The vice president said he thought it was "tremendously significant" that in the small country of Afghanistan "there were at least 300,000 people out to welcome him, far more than were there when some Soviet dignitaries visited the same country."

Plans Being Studied for Ike to Visit Brazil

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower may visit Brazil in April, informed sources said Monday.

Plans are being considered for him to attend the inauguration of Brazil's new capital, Brasilia, which is scheduled for that month.

These sources said that at the present time it was doubtful that Eisenhower would be able to visit other Latin-American countries.

Firms Warned of Competition —'Letterally'

The stamp is a reminder to businessmen that they must keep abreast of an increasing market or lose their competitive position.

Truman Aides Denied Appeal

Caudle, Connelly May Face Terms for Aid in Defrauding Country

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Two Truman administration officials Monday were denied a rehearing by the U.S. Eighth Circuit Court of appeals in their effort to escape going to prison.

Unless the pair, Matthew J. Connelly and T. Lamar Caudle, file petitions for a stay, the court will issue a mandate Dec. 24. They then would have 30 days in which to surrender and begin serving prison terms for conspiring to defraud the government.

Connelly, who was Truman's appointments secretary, and Caudle, former head of the Justice Department's tax division, were convicted by a federal jury in 1956 of trying to block prosecution of Irvin Sachs, St. Louis shoe wholesaler and tax evader.

Connelly and Caudle each was fined $2,500 and sentenced to two years in prison. They have been free under bond during their long legal battle to overturn the convictions.

They had sought a new trial on the basis of an affidavit by Harry I. Schwimmer, an attorney for Sachs. Schwimmer, originally a co-defendant who was granted a mistrial when he collapsed in court, swore a memorandum from his files that was used as evidence against Connelly and Caudle was made without their knowledge.

Missouri Negro Leaves Land for Town Park

Under terms of his will, it was disclosed Monday, a full block of land was willed to the city to be used by the children of the 2,000 population town for recreational purposes.

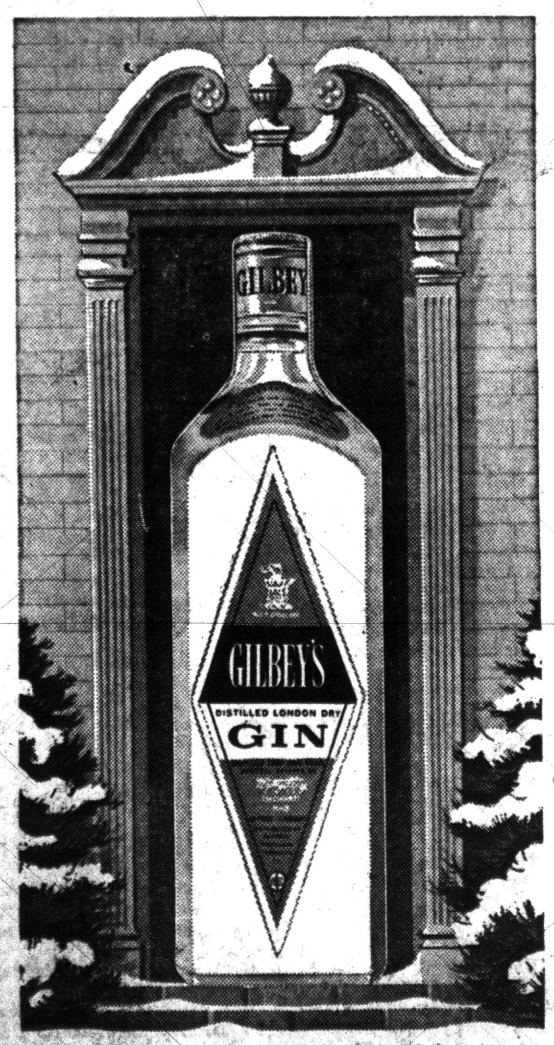

Massey, who died Nov. 6, was the 59-year-old grandson of a slave and had served as a gardener and handyman for several Marshfield families. He frequently referred to himself as "the last black horse in the pasture."

His attorney, Ellsworth Haymes, said Massey made the bequest "because he loved children." A small amount of cash and two other town lots were willed to two stepchildren in Kansas City.
