West, Afro-Asians Approve

Tunisian May Succeed Dag

Would Take On Duties as Stopgap Measure

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Informed diplomatic sources said today the General Asembly will name Mongi Slim of Tunisia to take over the duties of Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold.

Slim was slated to be elected president of the assembly when it convenes its 16th regular annual session this afternoon.

Outgoing Assembly President Frederick H. Boland of Ireland was expected to suggest that Slim be named as coordinator of the manifold U.N. functions — a sort of interim secretary general — in addition to performing his presidential chores.

The Western powers were ready to support the plan. The powerful Afro-Asian bloc was certain to do so. Most of the Latin Americans were expected to go along.

The only opposition was expected from the nine-nation Soviet bloc, and perhaps Cuba.

But diplomatic sources said the Russians were expected to accept the proposal grudgingly as a stopgap measure. They were not expected to push at this time their demand for a "troika" system of three secretaries general to run the United Nations.

There were two uncertainties as the assembly approached its start. One was the timing of the move

Today's opening meeting was expected to be taken up chiefly with tributes to Hammarskjold, who died late Sunday in an airplane crash at Ndola, Rhodesia.

One delegate from each bloc of countries was scheduled to speak, but this type of oratory is contagious and the tribute to the late secretary general might consume the entire meeting.

The other was final assent of Slim and the Tunisian government. Slim is the number one diplomatic trouble shooter for President Habib Bourguiba's government, which might be reluctant to release him.

MAIN DRAWBACK

Chief opposition to the plan was that Slim would have sufficient to do as assembly president. But Western backers of the proposal for him to take office pointed out that the assembly elects 13 vice presidents, most of whom could be put into service to share the presidential load.

Slim and Dr. Ali Sastroamidjojo of Indonesia, who withdrew Monday from the presidential race in favor of the Tunisian, conferred this morning with Boland.

Sastroamidjojo withdrew on the understanding he would have Afro-Asian backing for the presidency next year.

Seniority Issue Deadlocks Talks

Seen Major Roadblock to Quick Agreement at Pontiac Motor

A deadlock on the local seniority issue before company and union negotiators was reported following a 19-hour bargaining session which broke up Monday at Pontiac Motor Division.

With a new contract all but settled at Fisher Body Division, and General Motors Truck & Coach Division already back in full production, the seniority problem seemed to be the one major roadblock to a settlement at Pontiac Motor today.

Negotiations resumed this morning at 9:30 after breaking off 2 p.m. yesterday.

"There are a few smaller issues still on the table, but the big deadlock is over seniority rights," said Cecil C. Mullinix, president of Pontiac Motor UAW Local 653.

Meanwhile, GM resumed limited passenger car production today for the first time since a wave of wildcat strikes halted output at the huge auto maker's 129 plants Sept. 11.

More than 9,000 assembly line workers returned to GM's Oldsmobile plant in Lansing following final agreement yesterday on local plant issues between the company and the United Auto Workers Union.

New cars rolled off the Oldsmobile line as GM and UAW negotiators pressed for final agreement on local issues at 39 other plants.

The resumption of production added to hopes of a complete nationwide agreement before tomorrow's 2 p.m. meeting of the Union's GM National Council.

Adding to hopes of a final conclusion and subsequent resumption of full production at all GM plants was the announcement today of local-level agreement at the Buick-Oldsmobile-Pontiac plant in Linden, N.J. Settlement of the Linden dispute was believed to signal a break in the log jam of local disputes at key GM plants still out.

Going into today's negotiations, Louis G. Seaton, GM bargaining chief, said "As seriously as both sides are trying to arrive at a settlement, I don't see why we shouldn't be able to make it."

"We still have certain items for the contract that have to be resolved," Seaton added. He referred in particular to points in dispute in efforts to write a national noneconomic agreement on working conditions.

Both Seaton and UAW President Walter P. Reuther said progress had been made overnight. At a midnight recess of previous talks neither seemed pessimistic.

Pontiac 'Y' Launches Adult Member Drive

The annual adult membership drive of the Pontiac YMCA was kicked off at a noon luncheon yesterday attended by 60 campaign workers.

Solicitors will work at getting adult members to renew their memberships. They also seek to increase adult memberships by 200 during the 10-day campaign which runs through Sept. 29.

Adult membership currently totals 1,068.

Campaign workers were told that the drive's success was of importance in maintaining the youth activities program which is not self-supporting.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Rev. Galen E. Hershey, associate pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. He told solicitors that their work was important in keeping the "Y" a potent force for the betterment of the community.

Chairman of the adult membership campaign is George A. Stout. Division chairmen are Dr. Leo Wasserberger, John B. Wilson, Richard Huttenlocher, and Walter K. Willman.

National "Y" awards for outstanding service were presented to Robert M. Critchfield and Frederick J. Poole, chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the YMCA $650,000 expansion program campaign.

They were presented bronze plaques by Berkeley Voss, president of the "Y."

Esther Still on War Path

Hurricane Continues Road to North Carolina, Virginia; Hundreds Flee

CAPE HATTERAS, N.C. (AP)—Hurricane Esther continued her relentless path toward the North Carolina coast and Virginia capes today while hundreds of persons fled to higher ground.

At 11 a.m. the weather bureau said the dangerous storm was 200 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras bearing on a course which should bring 156 mile per hour winds to the battered-down coast early Wednesday morning.

Hurricane warnings were displayed from Cherry Point, N.C. northward to the Virginia capes.

Increasing winds were expected to reach gale force this afternoon and hurricane force—75 m.p.h.—by late tonight.

Hurricane watch and gale warnings were ordered displayed north of the Virginia capes to Cape May, N.J., including all of Chesapeake and Delaware bays and from south of Cherry Point, N. C., to Myrtle Beach, S. C.

The whirling storm carried 150 m.p.h. sustained winds and gale winds extending outward some 350 miles except 200 miles in the southwest quadrant.

A Rhodesian fighter escort was provided for Khiari's plane from Leopoldville at the request of the United Nations, a government spokesman said. A Rhodesian Air Force escort also accompanied Tshombe to Ndola, from which he had departed Monday after waiting vainly for 24 hours for Hammarskjold.

The opening meeting was at the control tower of Ndola's airport.

Khiari is chief of civil operations in the Congo. He and his delegation seek to carry through Hammarskjold's incompleted final peace mission.

A British government statement said a further task for the delegation will be to help identify the mutilated bodies of some of Hammarskjold's entourage.

Near $15-Million Budget for County Given an OK

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors yesterday approved a record $14,845,586 budget for county operation in 1962.

The new budget constitutes an all-time high in county annals, topping the present year's budget by an additional $1,244,854.

The sum was agreed upon with only light prior discussion at yesterday's meeting. The meeting also might have established a record timewise. It lasted less than an hour.

The only dissenting vote on the 1962 budget was registered by Supervisor John Archambault of Madison Heights.

"It was railroaded through," he said, commenting on the lack of prior discussion. Archambault complained that the 40-page proposed budget was "too meaty to be digested during the one week allowed before calling for a vote."

He also objected to the Health Committee's request to transfer $100,000 of the Health and Welfare Department's huge budget portion into a contingency fund until the committee completes a study of its 1962 needs.

AGAINST TRANSFER

"They should know by now how much money they need," said Archambault after the meeting.

He felt that shifting the money might result in its being lost to persons requiring health and welfare assistance next year.

The transfer was approved as an amendment to the budget.

One of the reasons for the budget increase is an annual raise of $100 for most county employees to meet cost-of-living rises.

Nearly half the budget, or $6,713,201, will go to pay the present 1,326 county employes and to allow for 30 new positions, plus $113,700 in "salaries reserve" in case further adjustments are required.

The new positions including

WHERE THEY DIED—Blanket-covered bodies lie near wreckage of the DC6B that crashed near Ndola, Northern Rhodesia, carrying U.N. President Makes U.N. Plans

JFK, Senators Discuss Issue

Preparedness Board Talks Over Proposed Speech With Kennedy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy consulted Democratic and Republican senators today on plans designed to prevent Russia from using Dag Hammarskjold's death as a device for subjecting the United Nations to a Communist veto.

After his regular weekly meeting with Democratic congressional leaders, the President met with members of the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee, headed by Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss.

Stennis said the President gave the senators a chance to offer suggestions for the speeches he will deliver soon before the U.N. General Assembly. Kennedy was described as very much concerned about the U.N. situation.

The President was said to be determined to block Russia from exploiting Hammarskjold's death to disrupt the United Nations' organizational procedure by making it subject to a Communist veto.

The President had been considering a U.N. speech for some time. But he reached a definite decision only after Hammarskjold was killed in an African air crash. There were quick telephone calls to New York yesterday after news of the crash reached Washington.

The President's plan to speak at the General Assembly Session were endorsed by the Democratic Congressional leaders after their meeting with Kennedy.

Kennedy discussed with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson the procedural situation involved in selecting a successor to Hammarskjold. The Russians have long wanted to replace the single head of the United Nations with the "troika" system favored by Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Under the Khrushchev plan, three men would replace Hammarskjold — one from the west, one from the Communist countries and one from a nonaligned nation of the neutral bloc. Each of the three would have the veto power.

Obviously expecting Russia to push again for this plan, Kennedy decided to go ahead with his long considered speech either late this week or early next week.

He was pictured as wanting to take the first opportunity to reassert U.S. support for U.N. policies, particularly those carried out by Hammarskjold.

sions, disarmament and probably a Berlin debate.

Little was expected to be accomplished today beyond tributes to the Swedish statesman who presided over the United Nations administration for eight years and five months.

The order of business called for one minute of silent prayer or meditation which opens every assembly session, election of the president and appointment of the credentials committee.

MAY DEMAND OUSTER

Although the Western powers, acting behind New Zealand, formally requested that the China representation issue be inscribed as an agenda item, it was possible that Russia would demand the ouster of the Nationalist Chinese in favor of the Communist Chinese when the credentials committee is appointed.

The Soviet Union formally moved today toward such action. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko requested that the 99-nation General Assembly place on its agenda a question titled: "Restoration of the lawful rights of the People's Republic of China in the United Nations."

But Western diplomats expressed confidence that they had many more votes than the simple majority required to rule the representation issue an "important" question, thus making a two-thirds vote necessary to bring Communist China into the assembly.

If the simple majority is assured, it would be an easy matter to muster the one-third vote necessary to block Peiping's actual entrance.

The unanswered question arising from Hammarskjold's death was: who now is top man in the United Nations?

There was speculation that the assembly might delegate a board of ranking U.N. officials to make decisions until a new secretary general can be chosen.

Most of those being mentioned as candidates came from the nonaligned nations of Asia and Africa, who now hold almost a majority in the assembly. There was no indication of firm support behind any one of them.

MUST GET PAST VETO

A new secretary general must get past the threat of a Soviet veto, which the Soviets could exercise if they decide, as expected, to push their plans for reorganizing the United Nations and curbing the powers of the secretariat developed by Hammarskjold.

Fears that the Soviets would pick this time to start a new dispute about U.N. organization were heightened Monday night when the Soviet Union balked at a Security Council statement praising the secretary general and expressing grief at his death.

The 11-nation council, which met behind closed doors, took no action on a possible successor to Hammarskjold.

The situation is complicated by the fact that the U.N. charter makes no provision for anyone to take over in the event of the death of a secretary general.

Salvage workers pulled another body from the wreck this morning making a total of 15 dead. There is one survivor.

MOMENTARILY PUZZLING

This was momentarily puzzling, for only 14 persons — six Swedish civilian crew members and eight U.N. personnel—were listed by the U. N. office in Leopoldville as aboard.

But a U.N. check today disclosed there were 16. Two Swedish guards had been omitted from the list.

Lt. Col. Ben Matlick, U.S. air attache from Leopoldville, who inspected the wreck today, said he was convinced that speculation that the plane may have been shot down was groundless.

"There's absolutely nothing in it," he said.

The possibility of sabotage or armed attack had drawn banner headlines in Rhodesian newspapers.

The lone survivor, Harry Julien, an American U.N. security guard, was quoted as saying a series of explosions shook the four-engine DC6B before it plunged into a forest reserve north of town and burned.

Seasoned pilots who viewed the fire-blackened wreckage agreed with Matlick. They said it looked like typical results of a crash caused in a landing approach by loss of power or faulty instruments.

Julien was pulled semiconscious from the wreckage, badly burned, after lying there more than 15 hours—the interval between the plane's disappearance and the discovery of the wreck.

A Ndola hospital spokesman said the survivor is as comfortable as could be expected, adding: "He still is very ill and is under heavy sedation. He has not spoken since he was brought here."

Hammarskjold is expected to have a state funeral in Sweden—an honor usually reserved for monarchs.

Members of the royal family, the government and Parliament, and representatives of culture and science will attend.

The last state funeral in Sweden was in 1950 when King Gustav V died at the age of 92.

The only nonroyal person given a state funeral in Sweden in modern time was Louis de Geer, a statesman who died in 1896.

Katanga Front Reported Quiet

U.N. Spokesman Says Elisabethville Action Eased Off in 24 Hours

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—Fighting eased off in the Katanga capital of Elisabethville with little activity in the past 24 hours, a United Nations spokesman said today.

There was no news from Jadotville, the industrial-mining town 80 miles northwest of Elisabethville, where a 155-man Irish U.N. garrison had been besieged by a large force of Katangese. Last word was that the Irish had been "overwhelmed" by the attackers.

The spokesman added that the Kamina Base in North Katanga still was firmly held by U.N. forces. He denied reports from Usumbura, Ruanda-Urundi, claiming that Kamina had fallen to the Katangese and its 500 Irish and Swedish U.N. defenders had surrendered.

To the north in Albertville, the spokesman said that Indian U.N. troops dispersed attacking Katangese forces who fired small arms and mortars at the airfield. The Katangese then surrounded the U.N. hospital there, but left without interfering with the patients. One Indian was killed and another wounded and one Katangese was captured.

It was reliably learned, meanwhile, that jet fighters requested from Ethiopia to counter a pair of Katangese air force jets had not arrived for the U.N. force. The jets had trouble getting flight clearance and refueling permission along the way.

Here in Leopoldville, a national day of mourning was declared to mark U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammerskjold's death.

Cabbie Foils Theft by Youth

Seizes Weapon, Radios Police; Father Arrested for Violating Parole

A Pontiac cab driver foiled a robbery attempt by a 15-year-old passenger early today when he turned around and saw the youth holding part of the barrel from a sawed-off shotgun in his upraised arms.

James V. Beach, 38, of 865 E. Pike St., told Pontiac police he grappled with the youth, took away the weapon and radioed for help.

Police, after questioning the boy, James L. Smith, arrested his father, William J. Smith, 37, at the Chapman Hotel where he was staying with his wife and four daughters.

The father admitted being a parole violator from California where, he said, he had served 10 years in San Quentin Prison for forgery and abortion.

Police found a sawed-off shotgun in the elder Smith's room and held him for investigation of possession of an illegal firearm.

The youth was picked up at Saginaw and Huron streets by Beach and he directed the cab driver to the Sagamore Motel, 789 S. Woodward Ave.

QUARRELED WITH FATHER

Young Smith said he had quarreled with his father, planned to rob the cab driver and use the money to go to California.

He told officers the family had been traveling across the country, and that his father had passed several bad checks.

The youth was turned over to juvenile authorities pending further investigation by police. He was carrying a straight razor when apprehended.

Goldwater Again Making Speeches Despite Ailments

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., troubled by a recurring back ailment and a generally rundown condition, is back making speeches.

Goldwater was confined to his bed most of Monday but appeared at an international convention at Odd Fellows Lodge for a brief speech Monday night.

The senator cancelled an appearance in Benson, Ariz., Sunday night and refused telephone calls. Although advised by physicians to rest two weeks, the senator probably will return to Washington Thursday or Friday.

His family said the senator's condition was the result of both an extensive speaking tour and the back ailment, which has troubled him for 20 years.

Airline Srike Ends

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—About 1,000 employes of Avianca Airline returned to work Monday after a 2-day strike. The strikers accepted the company's terms on arbitration of grievances and loans for wages not received during the walkout.

Clay in Berlin to Act for JFK

General Given Salute; Assures Residents of U.S. Support

BERLIN (AP) — Gen. Lucius D. Clay, who broke the 1948-49 blockade of Berlin, returned today to grapple with the new Berlin crisis as the representative of President Kennedy.

He declared the United States was determined that West Berlin's "people shall be always free."

Clay arrived from Bonn in a DC6 commercial airliner. With him came Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin, the unsuccessful candidate for West Germany chancellor in Sunday's election.

"I am happy and proud to be back in Berlin," Gen. Clay said after honors were paid him at Tempelhof Air Field.

"I come as personal representative of President Kennedy, who has sent me because of his desire for the welfare and future of the people of Berlin."

19-GUN SALUTE

A platoon of the U. S. Air Force and a detachment of West Berlin police were on hand at the airfield to pay him the usual honors.

Seven Patton tanks of the U. S. garrison gave him a 19-gun salute.

The general was reported to have reassured the West German government of the determination of the United States to maintain its rights in Berlin.

Episcopal Convention to Debate Issue

Move to Leave National Council Stirs

DETROIT (AP) — A move to pull the Episcopal Church out of the National Council of Churches developed at the Episcopalian General Convention today. It appeared to have only scattered support but the issue may stir up one of the liveliest hassles at the church's triennial meeting.

'MORE LIGHT, LESS HEAT'

"This issue needs more light and less heat," said a lay delegate at the opening session of the House of Deputies, representative branch of the church's two-chamber governing body.

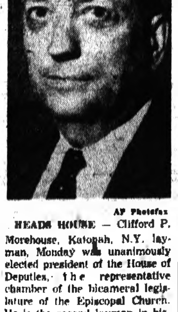

The council is formed by 33 Protestant denominations, with nearly 40 million adherents. Some Episcopalians are disturbed by its pronouncements on controversial political issues.

The diocese of Southwestern Virginia submitted a resolution adopted by Pulaski, Va., Episcopalians calling on the church to resign from the council.

Dorothy Faber of Grosse Pointe, Mich., a leader in the Episcopalian Education and Information Council of Michigan, an unofficial organization, said Episcopal groups in at least a dozen cities support withdrawal.

"The council has become a lobby in Washington," she said. "It has been allied too often with Communists fronts and causes."

HEADS HOUSE — Clifford P. Morehouse, Katonah, N.Y. layman, Monday was unanimously elected president of the House of Deputies, the representative chamber of the bicameral legislature of the Episcopal Church. He is the second layman in history to be named presiding officer.

Less militant, the Long Island, N.Y., diocese urged the convention to ask the council to refrain from taking stands on political, social, economic and theological issues.

Strong support for both the National Council and the World Council of Churches came from the dioceses of New York and Massachusetts.

Controversy also was mounting over a move to unite Episcopalians with other Christian denominations.

TO TRIGGER DEBATE

Certain to trigger sharp debate is a far-reaching proposal by Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, Presbyterian clergyman, for a merger of his church with the Episcopalians, the Methodists and the United Church of Christ.

Resolutions endorsing the idea came from the dioceses of Maryland, Missouri, Delaware, Massachusetts and Michigan.

Long Island, joining with the Quincy, Ill., diocese in opposition, asserted it "contains no real safeguards for the preservation of either the historical catholic faith of the church or of a catholic standard of liturgical practice."

Clifford P. Morehouse of Katonah, N.Y., who was elected president of the House of Deputies, urged "careful consideration" of unity proposals facing the convention.

Dag Had and Needed 'Icicles in His Veins'

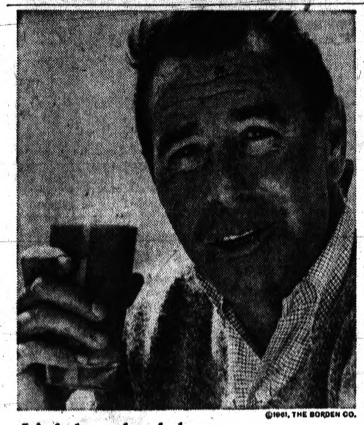

By United Press International

"He is a man with icicles in his veins," an associate of Dag Hammarskjold once said, and he meant it as a compliment.

For to Dag Hjalmar Agne Carl Hammarskjold had fallen the job of secretary general of the United Nations—a position calling for a man of tact, rare intelligence, courage and patience.

And in the eight years in which he held the job, Dag Hammarskjold found that those "icicles in his veins" came in handy more than once.

Hammarskjold's life was marked by irony. Born July 29, 1905, in Jonkoping, Sweden, Hammarskjold spent his first 15 years in a family that looked upon "world involvement" with distruct. Yet one day he was to be guiding spirit of the United Nations.

Hammarskjold's father Hjalmar was the Swedish prime minister who kept that Scandinavian country out of World War I. The elder Hammarskjold, ever isolationist, also fought Sweden's participation in the League of Nations, forerunner of the United Nations.

But Dag Hammarskjold, scion of an aristocratic family that played important political roles in Swedish history for more than 200 years, was a sensitive, thoughtful, and at once hardheaded young man who looked beyond his family horizon.

STUDIED ECONOMICS

He studied economics at Uppsala and Stockholm universities, receiving a doctorate from the latter in 1934. In his school days he admired the advanced economic theories of Britain's John Maynard Keynes.

As a student and throughout his life, Hammarskjold was regarded as a shy, modest and scholarly man who apparently preferred to curl up with a volume of T. S. Eliot poems or the writings of Goethe, Proust and Joyce than to be a man-about-town.

Once, a friend and fellow economist, Bertil Ohlin, attempted to act as matchmaker between Hammarskjold and a desirable girl. The would-be romance fizzled and Ohlin shrugged: "Apparently the girl didn't like T. S. Eliot."

Hammarskjold never married.

Hammarskjold's early career was one of steady success: Secretary of the Swedish Commission on Unemployment, 1930-34; assistant professor of economics at Stockholm University, 1933; secretary of the Bank of Sweden, 1935-36, and chairman of the board, 1941-48; under-secretary of state in the Ministry of Finance, 1936-45.

Hammarskjold, who considered himself "proudly a civil servant, seemed to withdraw more and more from active social life as his career in public service advanced.

He was too busy for social life. After World War II, he served Sweden in a variety of economic and foreign assignments. He was deputy foreign minister, 1951-53, and served also as financial advisor to the Foreign Ministry.

He also served as Swedish delegate to the Paris Conference in 1947, and as delegate to the Organization for European Economic Cooperation in 1948.

It was when he came to the United Nations in 1949 as a member of the Swedish delegation that Hammarskjold began, in his quiet, authoritative way, to draw the admiring attention of powers in the secretariat.

Hammarskjold, an amateur mountain-climber, was once described by his brother Sten as "first, a peacemaker. He was always one to simplify a problem, straighten out a conflict, bring different opinions together and find some solution."

"But," Sten Hammarskjold continued, "(Dag) was by no means a softie . . . no one could impose their will on him . . . in the mountains he is absolutely fearless. He scales the highest peaks in Scandinavia and walks lightly along shelves hundreds of feet above yawning chasms. . . ."

It was for just such a man the United Nations was looking in March 11, 1953, to replace Trygve Lie, who had been frozen out as secretary general by the Soviet bloc after he had supported U.N. intervention in the Korean conflict.

EARNED HIS SALARY

Hammarskjold's nomination to fill the post was approved in the General Assembly April 7, 1953, by a vote of 57 to 1, to serve five years. His term was renewed and he died half way through the second one.

From the beginning, Hammarskjold earned his $40,000-a-year tax-free salary, becoming the world's most active political fireman, lawyer and peacemaker.

Hammarskjold's work in what Lie had called "the most impossible job in the world" took him several times around the world. He drove himself and his staff of 4,000 hard.

His first spectacular success was as an international political fireman in 1955, when he flew to Peiping to successfully negotiate with Premier Chou En-lai the release of 11 of 15 American fliers imprisoned in Red China.

A strong believer in face-to-face conferences between opposing as well as friendly powers, the tweedy-looking, pipe-smoking Hammarskjold could deal directly with a Chou on the one hand, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower on the other.

He sought out such men as Pope Pius XII, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India and, in the end, rebellious Katangese President Moise Tshombe to further the cause of global peace.

Under Hammarskjold's leadership, the United Nations became more than just a debating society. In November 1956 the first U.N. military force arrived at the Suez Canal port city of Ismaila to keep apart the opposing forces of the United Arab Republic and the Anglo-French-Israeli invaders who had swarmed into Egypt the month before.

At about the same time, Hammarskjold and the United Nations failed to their efforts to investigate the Soviet repression of the Hungarian revolt. Hammarskjold's dogged insistence in trying to force Russia to admit its repression to the world marked the turning point in his relations with the Soviet bloc.

Hammarskjold, once the admired hero of the Russians, became in the Soviet press a "provocateur," an "enemy of freedom-loving peoples."

Dag Hammarskjold

Russian disapproval of Hammarskjold reached its peak in November 1960 when Khrushchev went to New York to appear before the General Assembly and personally demand Hammarskjold's ouster.

Hammarskjold, considered the "quiet diplomat" who masked anger and contempt with a bland "no comment" more often than not, rose to deliver a softly barbed denunciation of Soviet tactics. He vowed he would stay at the United Nations and was rewarded with an ovation.

The idea of the Congo peace force was Hammarskjold's and, almost from the start, when the Congo crisis erupted a year ago, he was at the trouble spots. He first met Tshombe in Katanga last August.

Most of the world cheered Hammarskjold's bold methods of attaining peace across the world. At the height of the Congo crisis last year, he was acclaimed as a "supranational figure" who acted as "the bridge between the reality of the world situation and the ideal of world peace."

BATTLE THE BLAZE — Pouring water on the smouldering ruins of a large stock barn are firemen who fought the blaze for several hours yesterday to keep flames from spreading to adjoining buildings. Six area fire departments were called to the scene when the fire was discovered about 10 a.m. Nearly 90 tons of hay and oats, which are shown shooting smoke and flames into the air, kept the fire burning until nearly 9 p.m.

At RedBob Farm

Oxford Twp. Barn Burns

By DON FERMOYLE

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — Spontaneous combustion in a loft filled with nearly 90 tons of hay and oats apparently started a blaze which destroyed a 70-foot-high stock barn here yesterday.

Flames and smoke from the spectacular fire at the RedBob Farm, 1955 Ray Road, could be seen for miles around as the winter feed supply for some 30 registered race horses was devoured in the blaze.

A farm hand, Ken Smith, 20, of 87 Helen St., Oxford, is credited with saving five horses which had been quartered in the building when the fire broke out.

NEWS OF THE AREA

1897 Surrey Takes First in Old Car Competition

An 1897 Haynes-Apperson Surrey automobile owned by Jack A. Frost of 61741 Campground Road, Washington Township, was named first grand prize winner in the 11th annual Old Car Festival held over the weekend at Greenfield Village in Dearborn.

It was the second successive year that Frost had been awarded a first place trophy for a restored vehicle. His winning automobile last year was a 1922 Silver Ghost Rolls Royce.

Two Oakland County old car enthusiasts took second and third place in the two categories of cars judged in this year's competition.

William Lane of 18238 Magnolia Parkway, Southfield, was second place in the 1907-1916 division for his 1909 Eldredge runabout, and a 1922 Ford runabout, owned by William F. Gollbach of 30945 Woodbrook St., Birmingham, received the third place award in the 1917-1925 classification.

Five other county residents won blue ribbons for their entries, judged on the authenticity of reproduction and performance.

WIN BLUE RIBBONS

They were C. R. Funk of 4115 Walnut Lake Road, West Bloomfield Township, 1919 Kissel speedster; Winfield J. Sluyter, 5884 Livernois Road, Troy, 1924 Ford Model T coupe; Ansel Sackett of 30670 Kirk Lane, Franklin, 1923 Ford Model T touring; C. E. Valentine Jr., 1922 Stutz Bearcat, and C. E. Valentine III, 1921 Marmon speedster, both of 3108 Bradway Blvd., Bloomfield Township.

Winning first place in the 1917-1925 division for his 1921 Ford Model T touring entry was Victor F. Etienne of Jackson.

More than 26,000 visitors attended the two-day event that featured nearly 300 models of 150 makes of cars entered in the competition.

"I heard a cracking while I was watering the horses," Smith said. "I looked up and saw smoke so I got the horses out right away."

Smith said he then alerted another farm employe who notified the Oxford Fire Department at 10:05 a.m. Minutes later, the first crew of firemen arrived at the scene.

CALLED FOR HELP

Fearful that the flames would spread to adjoining buildings, five other area fire departments were called in for assistance.

Oxford Fire Chief Ellsworth Sage said today some nine pieces of equipment and dozens of men were used in fighting the blaze.

The Oxford Fire Department was aided by others from the townships of Independence, Brandon, Orion, Addison and Metamora.

Flames gutted the 40-by-70-foot stock barn and destroyed three large oak trees on the west side of the building.

However, firemen kept the blaze from spreading to another large frame barn and an aluminum structure located less than 20 feet from the east side of the burning building.

WORKED FOR 10 HOURS

Sage, who estimated damage at $25,000, said the Oxford Department remained at the scene for over 10 hours. They spread the smouldering hay and grain with a bulldozer and watered it down.

The other departments left the scene at about 1 p.m. after the fire was brought under control, according to the Oxford fire chief.

One of the thoroughbreds led to safety by Smith was a prize stallion, Honeytown, son of Kentucky Derby winner Johnstown.

Sage said the fire apparently was the result of new hay being dumped into the loft, causing the spontaneous combustion.

The RedBob Farm, located about two miles east of American Aggregates Corp. is owned by Col. Irving A. Duffy of 85 Manor Road, Birmingham, and Maj. Robert J. Borg.

Borg, who lives on the farm grounds, said about 70 tons of hay and 18 tons of grain were stored in the burned barn.

Milk Regulation Hearings Set

Changes In U.S. Orders on Handling Considered by Agriculture Dept.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Public hearings on revised milk handling regulations in Michigan will start Oct. 17 in Lansing, the Agriculture Department said Monday.

Other initial hearings in Michigan will be held Oct. 23 in Traverse City and Oct. 25 in Holland.

The department announcement said:

"Bringing milk handling in most of Southern Michigan under regulation by one Federal milk marketing order, through a merger of the present Southern Michigan, upstate Michigan, and Muskegon orders, and addition of new territory to marketing area already covered, will be considered."

It is being proposed that the marketing areas now covered by the three separate orders be consolidated and that 20 new counties and parts of five others be added to the combined areas. The proposed expanded area includes Detroit, Dearborn, Flint, Grand Rapids, Lansing and Saginaw.

Milk handling operations in all of the lower peninsula of Michigan would be subject to the combined, expanded order, except for 14 townships of Lenawee and Monroe counties which come under the Toledo order.

Southfield Council Limits Home Size

SOUTHFIELD — An ordinance amendment that will prohibit the building of large homes on small lots was approved by the Southfield City Council last night by a 4-2 vote.

About 150 citizens attended the public hearing held at Southfield No. 10 School.

The amendment requires that each lot be 9,000 square feet instead of 7,500 and that a house may not cover more than 25 per cent of the property.

As had been expected developers in the area protested the change in the ordinance because they felt it would limit the construction of new homes.

In favor of the change was Herbert E. Fries, president of the Southfield Homeowners Association. He had asked for minor changes in the amendment which were not made last night.

Fries told the council that he had contacted 755 residents out of 14,089 homeowners and found that 13 per cent favored 60-foot lots, 8 per cent favored 70-foot lots and 79 per cent favored 80-foot lots.

The city council members in favor of the revision were C. Hugh Dohany, president, Thomas C. Rowley, Philip Peterson and O. David Edwards.

Councilmen John J. Hollywood and Clarence A. Durbin voted against the change. Durbin is a Southfield builder.

POWER CHANGE

The amendment also takes some of the power of decision from the board of appeals and gives it to the council. Durbin objected to this and asked that it be deleted from the amendment.

He was, however, overruled by the majority of the council.

Mrs. Jean McDonnell, former councilman who lost her post in the Spring election, made a bid last night for reinstatement.

She submitted petitions bearing 663 signatures from Southfield citizens asking that she be appointed to the position left vacant with the resignation of Councilman Robert G. Landers.

Landers resigned last Friday before from the city by his employer cause of a promotion and a transthe Link Belt Co. of Detroit.

No action was taken by the council on the petitions.

OXFORD — Thirty-seven persons from the Oxford area, including five from Lake Orion, will be honored at a civil defense awards dinner Thursday at 6 p.m. at the Oxford Masonic Temple.

They will be given certificates showing they completed a 13-week auxiliary medical training course last spring.

The presentations will be made by Oxford's Civil Defense Director George J. Moore.

Special guests at the affair will be Dr. Edgar J. Geist Jr., of Rochester, chairman of the Northeast Oakland County Civil Defense Council, and Dr. Rodman C. Jacobi of Oxford.

Both doctors are particularly interested in the medical aspects of the new CD council.

Right after the dinner many of those who had the medical training course last spring will leave for Waterford Township to take a 4-week emergency hospital training course beginning Thursday night.

The Oxford CD unit also will host the council at its regular weekly meeting at 9 a.m. Saturday. Members are expected to be present from the city of Troy, the villages of Lake Orion, Oxford and Rochester and the townships of Oakland, Addison, Orion, Oxford and Avon.

A new 13-week medical training course will start Monday at Oxford High School. An invitation has been issued to any interested Orion Township or Lake Orion residents to enroll.

Assistant director of the Oxford CD organization is Claude Rogers.

Southfield Finds Itself Without Plans Consultant

SOUTHFIELD — The City Council last night discovered it had been officially without a planning consultant for a week.

City Clerk Patrick G. Flannery pointed out that the 3-year contract held by Alb Munson expired Sept. 12.

Mayor S. James Clarkson said that it was "nothing to worry about" because he planned to appoint a planning consultant at next Monday's meeting.

Munson had been working on a part-time basis.

Council President C. Hugh Dohany and the mayor have agreed that Southfield now needs a full-time planning consultant.

Under the City Charter Clarkson has the authority to hire a consultant but the appointment must be approved by the City Council.

Lake Orion Acts on Lake Zoning

Council Has Water Line as Front of Property, Road Is Rear

LAKE ORION — The Village Council here last night agreed to amend Lake Orion's zoning ordinance in order to establish the actual front line of lakeside property.

In its amendment, the council ruled that the rear section of any property located between the lake and a highway or road will be the portion facing the thoroughfare.

The front line will coincide with the platted lot line on the lake side of such property, the council decided.

It also was announced last night that the village has some $28,639 in its general fund to date. This total is about $10,000 more than was in the village coffers at this time last year, according to Village President Irvine J. Unger.

A petition signed by some 26 persons was presented to the council, asking that the name of Central Avenue remain the same. New names have been proposed for several streets in Lake Orion because of duplication.

Unger also said he was directed to write a letter to the State Highway Department, requesting that a stop light be installed at South Broadway Satreet (M24) and Heights Road.

Elmwood PTA Opens the Year Thursday

AVON TOWNSHIP — The Parent-Teacher Association of Elmwood Elementary School will hold its first meeting of the 1961-62 school year Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the school.

Principal speaker will be Lewis C. Jarrendt, Oakland County civil defense director.

All teachers and PTA officers will be introduced during the business portion of the program. A social hour will follow.

Petitions Spur Action to Control Hunting in Novi

NOVI — A move to regulate hunting in the village was made by the Village Council last night after receiving petitions from 70 homeowners asking that all hunting be prohibited.

The council directed Village Attorney Howard Bond to prepare an ordinance that would control rather than ban hunting.

A year ago the council adopted an ordinance that prohibited hunting in four areas of the village, specifically in built-up areas.

The petitions last night were filed by residents living in the Nine Mile-Novi roads area.

The proposed ordinance will be submitted to the council for action next Monday.

State Judges to Meet at Dearborn Sept. 26-28

Experts Theorize on Crash: 'Velocity-Minimum Control'?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three little initials — VMC — may contain the clue to the deaths of 37 persons in Sunday's crash of a Northwest Airlines Electra at Chicago.

VMC stands for "velocity-minimum control."

In layman's language, it is the lowest speed at which control of any aircraft can be maintained.

Veteran pilots interviewed here, including some who fly Electras, theorized that an outboard engine failed and the Northwest plane fell below minimum air control speed.

VMC, the pilots pointed out, could explain the last "no control" message received from the ill-fated plane.

Assuming there was no actual failure of the control system (considered a one-in-ten-million shot), the pilot of any aircraft who "lost" an engine on takeoff would have little or no control over his ailerons or elevators unless he took immediate corrective action.

Such action usually involves banking the plane "favorably" — in other words, away from the dead engine, to increase flying speed.

Normally, an Electra's takeoff speed contains a 10 per cent margin of safety — it leaves the ground at a speed 10 per cent higher than the "minimum air control speed. Thus, even if an engine fails, there is enough reserve power to continue the climb.

But there is one rare loophole. The margin of safety exists only when (1) the plane's wings are level or (2) in the case of single engine failure, when the plane is banked favorably not more than five degrees.

This is where a pilot can run into trouble with any plane, not only the Electra.

Failure of an outboard engine causes an aircraft to bank "unfavorably" — in the direction of the dead engine. This causes loss of air speed to such an extent that the minimum speed necessary to maintain control rises sharply. In the case of the Electra, it jumps 26 knots.

Commie Rebels in Daring Raid

Attack, Burn Capital of Province in South Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —In their boldest stroke of South Viet Nam's civil war, Communist rebels attacked and burned the capital of Phuoc Thanh Province, the government said today.

The daring raid, the first on any provincial capital, was staged early Monday on the capital, Phuoc Vinh, the government said. The city is only 80 miles north of this capital.

The Communist Viet Cong raiders held the town for several hours in predawn darkness, burning and ransacking several provincial buildings. One source estimated 1,500 guerillas took part in the attack. The government said the raiders attacked to liberate rebel prisoners.

It marked a new height in violence in the areas north of Saigon where the rebels are believed to be building strength.

Military sources said there were only 70 Civil Guardsmen in the provincial capital when the attack came. The commander, a major, his deputy, and a number of others were killed. About 50 wounded were brought to hospitals in Saigon.

A paratroop unit and a ranger company assigned to the area were operating elsewhere in the province but rushed back and counterattacked.

The government communique said enemy losses were "many." were being sent into the area. Sources indicated the Viet Cong had withdrawn to a heavily forested area.

Dag Hammarskjold

U.N. Secretary General Dag HAMMARSKJOLD was working for world peace yesterday until the untimely plane crash in Northern Rhodesia which cut short his mission.

He left behind much unfinished business. His role for the last few years had been a big one. He presided over the United Nations and was largely responsible for carrying out U.N. policies.

If any one man could be classified as 100 per cent devoted to his job Mr. Hammarskjold would fall in such a category. For the last eight years he has worked tirelessly with foreign advisers from all corners of the earth to try and effect a peaceful atmosphere so that all nations could exist side by side.

With the current crisis in the Congo exploding it was only natural that this energetic, sandy-haired executive from the U.N. be on hand.

He was there to do everything within his power to try and work out a settlement before this recent bitter dispute cost too much bloodshed.

The Swedish born diplomat was never one to work from behind a desk when first-hand visits to the field of action would give a clearer picture of the problem.

Mr. Hammarskjold's many trips to the far corners of the earth were all with one single motive in "pursuit of peace."

He will be missed by many nations, but he leaves behind a permanent inspiration for others to follow.

It's Time to Construct Long-Range Program

There is no need for Congressmen to wait until next year to cope with whatever farm legislation is offered.

They should begin making plans now to construct a long-range program that eventually will take the Federal Government out of agriculture and restore a free market to that essential area of our economy.

We agree wholeheartedly with the Wall Street Journal which noted: "If Congress thinks it can make the farm scandal go away by simply endorsing the past, it is kidding itself but no one else."

Submerged Automobiles Take Many Lives

To most of us it is a fairly rare occasion when we read of a motorist trapped in a submerged automobile that has plunged off a roadway into a lake or stream.

Actually, about 400 people in the United States lose their lives that way every year. To bring the subject close to home, we recently had an accident where a couple of youngsters were trapped in a runaway submerged car near Lake Orion.

The case mentioned was extremely unusual, but it does emphasize the type of accident.

Thus it is reassuring to hear that experiments have been recently conducted near Lansing, Mich., to help develop self-rescue techniques for motorists thus caught in deep water.

The Red Cross, the Michigan State Police and highway authorities and Indiana University's health and safety department collaborated in the 10 day test.

They all deserve a word of commendation for what seems to have been a well-prepared, elaborate effort to find answers to a substantial but little appreciated driving danger.

The Man About Town

Dog Has His Day

Items From Readers Regarding Canine Week

Conscience: What often talks when we won't listen.

In connection with the current observance of National Dog Week, I'm quite impressed with a letter from

of Clarkston, who queries: "Have you any other friend who would lay down his life for you?"

An interesting dog episode comes from

of Waterford. A man who gave the name of

of Ann Arbor came to the Rohloff home, and said that his car had struck their dog, and that while the animal, who accompanied him, seemed to get around OK and was wagging his tail, he feared its back had been broken. The dog is a Dachshund.

The observance of National Dog Week has an added impetus in the Pontiac area, because in our suburban Rochaster is located the Leader Dogs for the Blind School. There thousands of blind people have been made accustomed to dogs who now are leading and protecting them. Under Executive Director

Harold Pocklington,

it has become the top such school in the United States.

Just to save you from losing $300, have you made entries for all of your family in our football contest? Here's fair warning.

With lilacs and forsythia both blooming in his yard,

Roy Fisher

of Lake Orion wonders if we're going to have any winter.

A phone call comes in from

of Birmingham, who says some rats in his cellar ignored all traps, until they ate some fermented apple pulp, after which they were easy victims.

Twin sunflowers from one seed are reported by

of Drayton Plains. But one is 12-feet tall, with many blossoms, while the other is less than 6-feet-tall—and without blossoms.

A castor bean plant 12-feet-tall is growing in the yard of

at Union Lake, as high as a house.

Salvia plants over 6-feet-high are gracing the yard of

at Lotus Lake in Waterford.

A note accompanying the football contest entry of

of Rochester says: "Now I can forget it until the bonds arrive."

May He Find the Peace He Sought for Them

Hammarskjold Most Sincere (but)

WASHINGTON — The tragedy of Dag Hammarskjold's death is not just the loss of a man dedicated to the cause of world peace but the failure of the United Nations to confine itself to its true function instead of meddling in the internal affairs of countries aspiring in their own evolutionary way to achieve independence.

LAWRENCE

The secretary general, who was killed in an airplane crash, conceived it to be his duty to impose peace in the Congo. He would not have sought to do the same inside the two Germanys or inside Hungary.

But he saw the United Nations as a kind of superstate and felt that, when the United Nations passed a resolution it cast him to be a troubled area, this would be enough to cause the warring factions to lay down their arms.

Noble as was his purpose, the fact remains that the rights of a people to rebel against their own rulers and to determine their own destiny has long been imbedded in international law as a basic principle.

The London "Times" a few days ago put its finger on the root of the difficulty in the Congo.

It quoted from the resolution of July 14, 1960, when the United Nations authorized the secretary general to consult with the government in the Congo and provide it "with such military assistance as may be necessary until . . . the national security forces may be able, in the opinion of the government, to meet fully their tasks."

It is apparent that the late secretary general interpreted in his own way the meaning of the resolution passed by the U.N. Security Council.

His purpose was to bring peace by personal negotiation, but he ran up against the bitter opposition of those inside the Congo who simply would not lay down before the Communists.

The Congolese government is today suspect. Sen. Dodd of Connecticut, Democrat, in an impressive speech in the Senate last Saturday pointed to the Communist leaders inside the Congo cabinet and warned against the so-called "coalition" government which the Communists sooner or later are expected to take over. He gave name after name of Communists who are cabinet ministers in the Congo government today.

THEIR LAST STAND

Small wonder that in Katanga Province, where the last stand of the anti-Communists is being made in the Congo, they have felt hostile to Secretary General Hammarskjold and the U.N. troops.

Since many millions of dollars of valuable property are involved—the mines in the Congo are fabulously rich—there was bound to be a counter-move in which, as reported from Katanga, many "white mercenaries" participated.

Doubtless these are some former Belgian officers who were acquainted intimately with the Congo and who are risking their lives to back President Tshombe of Katanga.

The United Nations didn't concern itself with the theft of property from owners who had developed the mines with borrowed capital. The United Nations seems to be swayed by the emotional outbursts about "colonialism" which unhappily takes no account of the lack of training of half-civilized peoples to set up a government that will protect individual rights.

It looks now as if the United Nations will have to take a second look at recent events. Is it to be a superstate? If so, the Communists are prepared to take control of the whole U.N. organization.

The Congo mess is the result of a failure to adhere to basic principles—to insist that self-government shall not be granted to "colonies" that are unable to govern themselves, and to make sure that when "colonialism" is abolished there is a real regard for property as well as human rights.

The Congo isn't ready as yet for self-government, but inasmuch as the Belgian government has withdrawn of its own accord, it is up to the Congolese to fight their own battles. If the United Nations has any function there, it is to keep meddling foreigners out—including the Communists.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Athletes Need Nourishment Before, During Contest

The venerable Archie Moore goes on winning big matches long past the age when, sports experts say, a professional boxer should retire. Archie thinks for himself, regardless of what the experts believe. For instance, shortly before he goes into the ring for a big bout, Archie puts away a hearty steak dinner.

I do not mean to imply that a steak dinner just before the contest would enable the athlete to give a better performance. I do maintain that fasting for hours before a hard bout, race or game may lower the peak of the athlete's proficiency.

The physiology of this is new knowledge, and therefore old time trainers, coaches, sports writers and even doctors generally refuse to recognize it as a principle of practice and stick obstinately, to 19th century concepts and customs.

A familiar expression in the broadcasting of a boxing match is that one or the other contestant, after an impressive performance in the early rounds, seems to be "running out of gas."

It would be nearer the truth to say the contestant is running out of sugar — dextrose, glucose, blood sugar, that is.

All carbohydrate food or fuel (any and all kinds of sugar or starch), which supplies most of the energy (calories) required to do the work of the muscles — voluntary skeletal muscles and involuntary heart, artery, stomach and intestinal muscle — has to be converted into dextrose, glucose, blood sugar before the body can use (burn, oxidize) it as a source of energy.

In the healthy person there is a constant level of sugar in the blood — approximately 0.07 to 0.13 per cent, or perhaps two teaspoonsful in the entire volume of blood in the body. (Slightly less than a gallon of blood in a person weighing 150 pounds.)

Immediate source of glucose (dextrose) for the blood is the glycogen or "animal starch," the form in which food sugars and starches are stored in the liver and muscles. If the level of sugar in the blood falls even slightly below 0.07 per cent, the individual becomes very weak, shaky, likely to suffer a lapse of consciousness or a blackout, obviously easy to knock out.

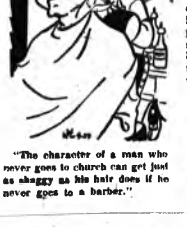

It's a high time to discard 19th century monkeyshines and give athletes the benefit of new knowledge.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

'Union Leaders Accomplish Much for Workingman'

In reply to "Wondering and Disgusted Housewife," how can you compared our union leaders' aims with Khrushchevs' system? You said we don't want to give an honest day's work. Do you think that is in keeping with Mr. K's ideas? If you lived under the Russian rule, you would be too weary to write such a silly letter.

Our union leaders may be bullies, as you say, but if they weren't do you think we would have such things as, seniority rights, pensions, safety rules, etc.? Do you think employers would have done these things if they were asked politely—or maybe out of the goodness of their hearts?

Can you imagine no seniority rights?

There is room for much improvement, and I'm sure it is forthcoming. My husband is happy to pay his union dues, even if seniority rights were the only benefit.

'Foreign Aid Plan Leads to Tragedy'

The pressure on Congress to pass the aid program passes understanding. It comes from the foreign legations in Washington. It comes from foreign diplomats and potentates who visit Washington. It comes from the leftist press which seeks a welfare state and world socialism. It comes from those Americans who profit by the program. And it comes from the White House.

Only the American people oppose the foreign hand-out program. Unless the American people make their will known, nothing but tragedy lies ahead.

Compliment Club Benefits Many

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE K-402: Alberta Hutton, of Freeport, Pennsylvania, is a talented school teacher who goes beyond the call of duty.

"Two years ago," she says, "I had 34 pupils in the 6th grade. I started the compliment club in my room and 8 pupils finished the 30-day experiment.

DR. CRANE

"Last year there were 12 who completed it. And this past term 17 pupils in my room merited their diplomas for having successfully concluded the full 30-day project.

"Needless to say, I have a grand groups of pupils this year. Your compliment club brings happiness to many people."

DOUBLE ACTION

This compliment club simply puts the Golden Rule into effective daily action. It diverts your attention from your own aches and pains or selfish, introvertive thinking.

For you must analyze your companions as you look for virtues on which to pay them sincere compliments.

To merit the signed diploma, you just pay a compliment to each of three people every day for 30 consecutive days.

Shy, timid folks who get tongue-tied, soon become more at ease and can start conversations easily after trying the compliment club for a few weeks.

So it not only helps you busy up the morale of deserving folks around you, but improves your own personality. That's double action of the right sort.

Not only is this experiment an ideal project for schools, but it is also excellent for church organizations, Scouts and Camp Fire Girls.

GIRL SCOUT PROJECT

Mrs. H. S. Hollar, of Anderson, Indiana, has long been a sponsor of the Girl Scouts.

"Our Girl Scout Troop No. 220," she informed me recently, "would like to join your compliment club.

"We have 9 girls, aged 11 years, and 8 of them have already completed the 30-day project.

"They were very enthusiastic. Each girl has gained a rich inner experience from it. We are continuing the compliment club experiment with their Hospitality Badge.

"Dr. Crane, you may remember that several years ago I used the compliment club with my older daughter's troop.

"And she still speaks of it as one of the most helpful experiences that scouting gave her."

BANISH STAGE FRIGHT

Many grown men and women are still such victims of stage fright that they can't speak in public and are poor conversationalists, even on a date.

The compliment club thus gives a child (or an adult) a running head start in social graces.

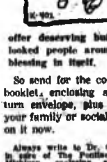

For it takes your attention off self, since you must concentrate on the folks around you in order to pick out a merit or virtue to praise.

Then it encourages you to speak to that other person, though it be a casual acquaintance or even the stranger who sits beside you on a bus or train.

This early training in extroversion of attention will produce far more self-assurance and social poise all the rest of your life.

And the morale boost that you offer deserving but often overlooked people around you, is a blessing in itself.

So send for the compliment club booklet, enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents. Get your family or social group started on it now.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Strong Military Arm Called Necessity

What if Katanga Defeated U.N.?

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — Suppose the paint-splashed Katanga warriors had won a clear victory over the United Nations army?

Just suppose . . .

The Assembly is being summoned into session. Delegates and their aides, dressed in all the colors of the rainbow, and some that no self-respecting rainbow would accept, leisurely leave the lounge and head for their places in the great hall. The gavel falls, new nations are introduced, and the question of whether the admission of Red China should be debated is being brought to the floor.

Suddenly the doors fling open and in bursts 8,000 Baluba warriors. After a brief brush with U.N. guards — all of them felled by poison darts — the warriors have the delegates under control.

They then tie them alphabetically. This means Adlai Stevenson, U.S.A., is roped to Andrei Gromyko, U.S.S.R., compounding the discomfort of both gentlemen. A seven-foot warrior painted like a 1962 convertible pads to the rostrum on his size 18 bare feet and makes the shortest speech ever delivered there.

"Me boss man, see?" he declares.

There are muffled cries of rage and indignation from the delegates, but the boss man shouts them down.

"We beat you," he says. "All of you got your countries by beating somebody else, right? So now we got this."

The delegates each have an ear lopped off, to remind them not to mess around with Katanga again, and are sent back to their respective countries.

Boss man takes over the penthouse suite in the 39-story Secretariat Building and throws the biggest party ever. The New York cops can't object, any more than they could pinch any of the delegates who once inhabited the reservation in mid-town and occasionally ran over New Yorkers. Boss man turns the Assembly hall into a dance hall and the city's beatnicks flock to it in droves.

But how sad it is to sit by and watch how weak is the fist of the great world organization when it comes to enforcing a decision. The little group of Irishmen, Swedes and Indians assigned to represent the military arm of U.N. in the Congo was put there by solemnly accepted resolutions on the part of the Security Committee and the Assembly. There were not usurpers. They were given the task of bringing some kind of order out of chaos in order that a bloody, senseless civil war would be avoided.

It was like sending one unarmed rookie cop into the middle of a central park gang fight involving 500 hoodlums.

Unless all signs fail, it will always be thus. The Soviets will continue to block all attempts by the West to build a truly strong mobile armed force to serve all the United Nations and even non-aligned countries such as Switzerland.

The sponsors of this project see such a force as a guardian of world peace, one which would be strong enough to put down any nation which moves aggressively against another.

The U.S. still stands ready to contribute most generously in men and money to such a task force, and to abide by the rulings of those charged with dispatching it. Russia wants no such armed force loose in the world.

So U.N. will piddle when it could paddle. It will spare the rod, and its insufficient warriors will continue to be flogged, and worse.

If we mustered 98 nations behind our contention that there should be a strong U.N. force built to stamp out brush-fire wars before they spread, and only Russia dissented, Russia would prevail. Such is the pulverizing power of its veto in the Insecurity Council.

Reception, Dinner Will Kick Off Con-Con Activity

LANSING (AP) — The social side of constitutional convention activities will be opened with a reception and dinner for the delegates and their wives Oct. 2 at Michigan State University.

Hosts for the evening affair at the campus Kellogg Center will be the Constitutional Convention Preparatory Commission and Gov. Swainson.

Delegates will be welcomed by representatives of the executive, legislative and judicial branches of government.

Carla's Bill Adds Up to $425 Million

BAY CITY, Tex. (AP) — Officials from Texas coastal areas added up Hurricane Carla's bill for Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and it came to more than $425 million.

The vice president met with about 500 city and county officials Monday during a day-long tour of the coastal area hit by Carla last week. The hurricane and its tornadoes killed 30 persons in Texas.

"The government will work with state and federal agencies to get this area back on its feet," Johnson said.

"We will make a first-hand report to President Kennedy and the Congress and hope to follow up with immediate action."

Commercial banks in the United States will spend an estimated $180,000,000 this year to advertise their services.

The right way to invest in stocks & bonds

Lots of people these days are planning to become investors for the first time. If you are one of them we'd like to recommend four steps to follow.

STEP ONE: Choose your broker with care. Many an unwary investor has regretted buying worthless stock from a stranger who delivered a high-pressure sales talk on the telephone. You'll be wise to visit a nearby Member Firm of the New York Stock Exchange. Every Registered Representative there has met the Exchange's qualifications for knowledge of investing. He's not infallible—no one is. But he can help you choose sensibly from a wide variety of good securities.

STEP TWO: Follow these wise rules for investing. Use only money you don't need for living expenses or emergencies. And invest on the basis of facts—never on tips or rumors. You'll be wise to consider bonds, too, for their prices and income are normally more stable and may fit your situation. You can expect the prices of both stocks and bonds to go down as well as up. And a company may run into trouble and stop paying a dividend or interest. You'll want to consider those with good records and those that appear to have the best prospects.

STEP THREE: Ask yourself this question: Which is most important to me—future growth, present income or safety of principal? Some companies may pay relatively high dividends. Others may pour back more of their profits in expansion, leaving less (perhaps nothing) available for dividends. Bonds usually provide a more stable income and greater safety of principal.

STEP FOUR: Send the coupon below for "DIVIDENDS OVER THE YEARS." This free booklet is packed with valuable information. You'll find the records of some 470 stocks that have paid a cash dividend every year for 25 years or more. And a description of the Monthly Investment Plan through which you can acquire stock in famous companies by investing with as little as $40 every three months or as much as $1,000 a month. Send the coupon before you forget.

But Ex-Ambassador Says K Doesn't Want War

Berlin Compromise Settlement Is 'Remote'

(Editor's Note: After a career as industrialist, journalist and author, Henry J. Taylor was called to serve the Eisenhower administration as ambassador to Switzerland. From his viewpoint as a diplomat, Taylor has analyzed the Berlin crisis and the outlook for solving it. In the following interview he makes a plea to stand firm against Soviet demands.)

By BRUCE AGNEW
United Press International

Henry J. Taylor, former U.S. ambassador to Switzerland, said today the possibility of any final compromise settlement between East and West on Berlin and East Germany is "exceedingly remote."

Taylor, a journalist, author and economist as well as a diplomat, said he was convinced, however, that Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev would not knowingly go to war over Berlin.

"That is why our strong stand in Berlin is the key to peace," Taylor said.

Taylor said Western recognition of East Germany — demanded by Khrushchev — would amount to abandoning the people of East Germany and formalizing "the control of an occupation tyranny."

On the Russian side, he said, "Khrushchev could settle this problem in 10 seconds, over the telephone, merely by doing what the U.S.S.R. agreed in the beginning to do, namely, hold free elections in Germany."

But he said Khrushchev knew that a free election would mean a Communist defeat.

COMPROMISE REMOTE

"Therefore, any possibility of so-called 'compromise' seems to me exceedingly remote," he said.

Taylor called the Berlin situation "a contrived crisis."

"Fundamentally," he said, "Khrushchev's Berlin attack is a typical probing operation, basic in Communist strategy. In this respect it differs not at all from the Red Chinese probe against Formosa's offshore islands . . .

"None of the elements of a genuine crisis exist, as distinguished from the true problems of the world such as Algeria, the roots of which are deep in history, racial differences and other profoundly complex ingredients."

Taylor rejected the idea of diplomatic recognition of East Germany on historic as well as moral grounds.

"West Germany and East Germany (including East Berlin) are as much a unit as Manhattan and the Bronx," he said. "One of the basic criticisms of the Versailles Treaty was the artificial formation of separate countries out of single entities and the attempt to erect individual governments, for buffer purposes or otherwise, which had no self-sustaining means.

"There is no government in East Germany today unless you would call the wartime quisling government in Norway a government . . .

DOMINANT ISSUE

"The dominant issue (in recognizing East Germany), of course, would be the willingness of the free world to abandon the East Germans and formalize the control of an occupation tyranny which has no more right to be there than any other kidnaper has a right to hold a victim at gunpoint and every other form of duress."

Taylor said he believed the situation in Berlin was frozen, but added that the division of the city was not unique in the world. "It somewhat parallels the situation of North and South Korea, Viet Nam, etc., he said.

"The Iron Curtain in Europe is the line to which the Red Army advanced in the war and stayed," Taylor said. "They will stay wherever they are and go forward wherever they can. And this is why and how they imperil world peace and the liberty of free men."

On other East-West issues, Taylor was as strongly opposed to recognition of Red China as to acceptance of East Germany.

"Quite aside from the morals involved, I have never heard it suggested that American recognition of Red China, or its admission to the United Nations would not be an enormous coup for Red China, not only in China but throughout Southeast Asia and the whole Communist and free world," he said. "I do not see how you defeat communism by helping it to succeed."

Taylor said the reason that U.S.-Soviet confrontations keep resulting in frozen situations is that Khrushchev picks the time and place for crisis.

PICKS PLACES

"Khrushchev deliberately picks places where geography and other matters make our position vulnerable. When he moves we look as if we are at a great disadvantage because we are," he said.

The United States would find it difficult getting Khrushchev at a similar disadvantage because the Communists have interior lines, not exposed positions, Taylor said.

He admitted, however, that Cuba appeared to be an exposed position. "The Cuban debacle was one of the most profound tragedies of the whole postwar era," he said; "If we could not turn back Communist imperialism in Cuba, where on earth can we do it?"

"This failure (the Pigs Bay invasion) was not due to insurmountable conditions," he said. "It was due to a debacle in American policy and planning."

Allegan Starts Murder Trial

Pierced Doll Admitted as Evidence in Young Stephen's Case

ALLEGAN (AP) — State police crime laboratory experts were called today to testify in the Allegan Circuit Court trial of James Stephen, 16, on a charge of murder.

A jury of 14 persons was chosen Monday to hear the case before Judge Raymond L. Smith.

At day's end, a doll, pierced with knitting needles to mark the path of seven bullets through the body of slain 11-year-old Carol Gee, was among evidence on the desk of prosecutor Erwin L. Andrews. Andrews said the exhibit was necessary for better understanding of technical testimony by Dr. D. F. Glaser, a Kalamazoo pathologist.

The doctor testified his post mortem examination determined that Carol was struck first by two nonfatal bullets in the right hip and elbow.

A third slug, which struck the girl's back, severed her spinal cord and caused massive internal bleeding. It probably was the fatal shot, he said.

Carol was slain April 29 along with Margaret Chambers, 12, a playmate. Slugs from a .22 caliber rifle riddled them on a wooded, hilly dunes path just west of their rural Holland homes.

Stephen, a near-neighbor, is charged with murder in Carol's death. He claims a defense of insanity.

A statement to police alleges the safety device of his rifle was defective and the weapon fired by accident when he stumbled over a log. State police detective Charles F. Long testified to taking the youth's statement, which claimed the gun kept firing as Stephen ran toward the girl.

Do Tell Her to Forget Hobby and Fill In With Word Hubby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My wife is a crossword puzzle nut. That's the first thing she goes for in the newspaper, and heaven help anyone who bothers her while she is working a crossword puzzle.

She has worked books of crossword puzzles, and is always on the lookout for more. She even takes them to bed with her. If she gets stumped, her disposition is ruined. I can't even get a kiss from her until she finished her crossword puzzle. How does a husband buck competition like this? DOPE

ABBY

DEAR DOPE: Only a big square would surrender to a lot of little squares. The five-letter word that should give a woman a feeling of complete achievement, satisfaction and pleasure, is HUBBY not HOBBY.

DEAR ABBY: I have a son six months old, and I want to take him for a hair-cut, but every time I mention it to a friend or relative they tell me not to because they say it will keep him from talking at an early age. Is this true? Also, how old do you think a baby boy should be before he gets his first hair cut?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: There is NO truth in the story that a hair-cut will deter a baby from talking at an early age. A baby boy should have his first hair-cut when he starts to look like a girl wearing boys' clothes.

DEAR ABBY: When my husband and I were married, I was a widow with two children, and he was a widower with three. We have been married four years now and I have adopted his children and he has adopted mine. We all have the same surname and are a very happy family.

My only problem is inquisitive friends who constantly ask, "Which children are yours and which are your husband's?" I am sometimes asked this in the presence of the children, and this puzzles them because they know they all belong to both of us. How should I handle this?

TONGUE-TIED

DEAR TONGUE-TIED: When faced with this rude question reply, "They are all OUR children," If the curious persist, call a halt to it by adding, "Why don't we skip it? It's not very important."

'Little Old Ladies' Obsolete

Political Crack May Backfire

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

When California Atty. Gen. Stanlye Mosk tried to tie the membership of the John Birch Society into a neat, laughable little package, he said it seemed to consist of "wealthy businessmen, retired military officers and little old ladies in tennis shoes."

He got his laugh with that incongruous assortment—but I'm just wondering if the laugh isn't going to backfire.

I've got a hunch an awful lot of older women, both in and out of the John Birch Society, are going to think Mosk's statement, while slyly clever, also was downright insulting.

Also, they may just wonder where he got his vision of "little old ladies in tennis shoes."

The "little old lady" is no more a part of this jet age world than the horse and buggy. Women today are living to a ripe old age—but age doesn't turn them into little old ladies.

As a group today's older women are an alert, informed, and active segment of the population. They run their own homes, drive their own cars, lead their own lives, make up their own minds. In fact, they are a hardy, self-reliant, independent breed.

WELL GROOMED

And you wouldn't catch any of them dead in tennis shoes! They dress in fashions up-to-the-minute, spend enough time in beauty shops to be well-groomed, and if there is anybody slopping around in tennis shoes—it's their daughters or granddaughters—not the "little old ladies" themselves.

A politician may get by with sneering at wealthy businessmen (they're a definite minority, since it takes a lot of brains and hard work to be successful at any line of work) or even at retired army officers because we never honor our military men unless we are in a fighting war.

But there are an awful lot of older women in the country who are going to resent that sneering "little old ladies in tennis shoes."

And there an awful lot of younger women who deeply admire the spirit and independence of today's older women who are going to resent it, too.

After all, we all hope to be around a long time—and none of us wants to think that anyone will ever refer to US as "little old ladies in tennis shoes."

Irregularities Often Determine Jaw

Teeth Can Shape Smile

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

A woman's smile has been sung about and written about perhaps more often than eyes, moon, June, and other romantic subjects. It doesn't take a genius to know that teeth play a leading role in the attractiveness of a smile.

If the teeth are dingy or crooked, or if there are spaces between them, this naturally makes a smile less beautiful. Also, not only do teeth affect your smile, but the contour of your face. For instance, they determine the pugnacious jaw and the receding chin.

STRAIGHTENS TEETH

Orthodontia is dentistry which deals with irregularity of teeth. An orthodontist is a dentist who specializes in straightening teeth. He diagnoses and corrects irregularities in teeth positions (such as widely spaced, crowded, protruding or twisted teeth) and jaw relationships which cause facial deformities.

After reviewing a patient's medical and dental history, the orthodontist carefully studies the face and mouth with extensive X rays, photographs and plaster casts. He then decides which teeth must be repositioned. On rare occasions he may decide to pull some teeth, although some dentists object to extracting sound teeth for any purpose.

This repositioning is accomplished by metal and wire appliances called braces. These exert gentle, constant pressure to bring the teeth into proper alignment. The bony structure in which the teeth are imbedded is not inflexible.

The length of time the correction of such tooth defects takes depends on many factors, the complexity of the problem, age, and the cooperation of the patient.

This skill is a wonderful boon to those who need it. It is one of today's miracles. The difference in appearance, as well as personality, is often dramatic.

The beauty of a smile and the shape of your face depends upon good teeth, which are available to everybody these days. It doesn't take a genius to know that teeth not only affect your smile, but the contour of your face.

Speak Wedding Vows

In a candlelight ceremony at the Nardin Park Methodist Church, Detroit, Lynn Patricia Summers exchanged wedding vows with Rodney E. Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Evans of Dover Road, Waterford Township.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Summers of Detroit and wore bell-shaped ivory peau de soie with chapel train for the Sept. 9 nuptials.

After a wedding trip to Florida, the couple will live in East Lansing where the bridegroom will do graduate work at Michigan State University.

Honeymoon in East

The Lawrence L. Pfeffers, who are honeymooning in the New England states and Washington, will return to a home in Silver Lake Estates.

The former Nancy Elizabeth Wright is the daughter of the Diamond R. Wrights of Lowell Street. The bridegroom's parents are the Joseph Pfeffers of Elizabeth Lake Road. Rev. James Hayes officiated at the Saturday vows in St. Michael Church.

In their sister's wedding party were Barbara Wright, maid of honor, with Mary Jo and Patricia serving as bridesmaids with the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Basil Gaffney. Butterscotch pompons complemented their dresses of peacock blue silk organza over taffeta.

On the esquire side were Robert Keasel, best man, with Thomas Wright and Richard Pfeffer, brothers of the bridal couple, ushering with Basil Gaffney.

For the wedding and evening reception in the Knights of Columbus Hall, Mrs. Wright chose toast lace over taffeta and Mrs. Pfeffer appeared in brown printed matte silk jersey. Both wore yellow cymbidium orchids.

Bouffant veiling held by a queen's crown of lace and pearls complemented the bride's gown of white silk organza appliqued with Alencon lace and styled with soft bustle and chapel train. A white orchid, stephanotis and ivy rested on the bride's white missal.

MRS. L. L. PFEFFER

Opens Session With Devotional

The devotional program led by Mrs. Howard Marsh opened a luncheon meeting of the June group of First Presbyterian Church Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Gordon MacDougall in Waterford Township.

Mrs. Charles Galloway, Mrs. Marsh and Mrs. Hugh Archer assisted.

Mrs. Reade Brown, social education and action chairman, gave a reading on "The Call of Christ."

The group plans participation in the Miracle Mile Birthday Fair and will have a benefit sale in October.

Guests were Mrs. T. C. McFetridge and Mrs. Rose Chase.

Miss Viola Morris Weds George T. Holsworth Jr.

The junior George T. Holsworths left for Niagara Falls and northern Michigan after candlelight vows Saturday evening in the First Free Methodist Church. Rev. Lyal Howison officiated.

The Nicholas Morrises of Oak Hill Street, parents of the former Viola Marie Morris, were hosts at a reception for some 400 guests in the First Federal Savings and Loan Association Building. The senior Holsworths are of Auburn Avenue.

Illusion veiling held by a satin circlet complemented traditional white satin with overskirt of Chantilly lace for the bride. She carried all-white rosebuds and carnations with ivy foliage.

Sisters of the bridal couple in the wedding party were Charlotte Morris, maid of honor, wearing yellow net over brocaded taffeta. Elizabeth Morris in pink and Shirron Holsworth in pastel blue. Their carnation bouquets matched their dresses.

Cynthia and Tamara Holsworth wearing white satin with pink velvet headbands, were flower girls.

Jack Johnston of Berkley was best man. Ushers were Thomas Buchanan, Paul Holsworth, David and Dale Wiltse.

Pink cymbidium orchids accented Mrs. Morris' blue silk linen jacket dress and aqua satin brocade for the mother of the bridegroom.

MRS. G. T. HOLSWORTH JR.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

Do you ever worry about whether your baby gets enough sleep? Well, old Mother Nature (in cahoots with the sandman) usually sees to it that babies get the amount of sleep they need. Sleep habits, like all baby behavior patterns, vary with the baby. There is no evidence to prove that a wide-awaker suffers from what may seem like an undue lack of sleep. Most babies sleep when they're tired.

Quiet, please! Playing with baby, or letting him get over-stimulated just before bedtime, may put off baby's date with the sandman.

More, please! That's what baby's coo means when you offer tasty teaspoonfuls of Gerber Strained High Meat Dinners. Flavor galore, which comes from heaping helpings of succulent meat, flavor-crossed with selected vegetables. (3 times as much meat as regular vegetable and meat combinations.) As for the things that make baby thrive: Gerber High Meat Dinners are high in growth-promoting protein, offer a good source of niacin, an important B-vitamin.

Blanket statements. (1) Handy, out-of-sight, out-of-the-way storage place for baby's blankets: a towel rack attached to the inside of baby's closet. (2) When buying new crib blankets, buy two of the same size and color. When baby graduates to a big bed, stitch 'em together for a full-size comforter.

A pure treasure of eating pleasure and downright good nutrition, too. Gerber Strained Egg Yolks have a sunny yellow color, a yummy custard-y texture and a fresh-egg flavor that's hard to duplicate. As to nutrition, they're high in protein and rich in vitamin A and iron. Heat-sterilized, of course, for baby's protection. P.S. And don't forget Gerber Strained or Junior Egg Yolks and Hart, Gerber Baby Foods, Fremont, Michigan.

All Agree Hammarskjold Was Dedicated

By the Associated Press

The death of Dag Hammarskjold in an African plane crash left the non-Communist world stunned today. Fear was expressed that his death put the future of the United Nations in peril.

From every quarter tributes flooded to the memory of the secretary general who died in the restless search for an ideal — a world peacefully united to prevent war.

A DEDICATED MAN!

Even those who often had challenged his policies hailed him as a dedicated man. In the capitals of the West there was a heavy atmosphere of mourning.

Radio and television news bulletins retold of the crash of Hammarskjold's plane as the U.N. secretary general was flying on another peace mission—this time to meet Moise Tshombe, president of war-torn Katanga. Somber headlines dominated newspaper front pages.

President Kennedy said Hammarskjold's name "will be treasured high among the peace makers of history." U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson said: "I have lost an esteemed friend and the world a great servant."

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain, who had been cool to U.N. action to suppress Tshombe's secessionist regime, called Hammarskjold "a world servant who has pursued his duty with courage, singlemindedness and devotion."

The French, bitter at what they regard as U.N. interference in Bizerte and Algeria, were shocked. The Foreign Ministry expressed "deepest emotion."

A SPECIAL TRAGEDY!

India's Prime Minister Nehru, a leader of the nonaligned nations who hold the balance of power in the U.N. General Assembly, called Hammarskjold's death a "special tragedy."

"We have sometimes criticized him," Nehru said, "but we have not doubted his loyal service to the United Nations and to the cause of peace."

Tributes came from other critics of Hammarskjold's Congo policies.

The Belgian government sent a message to the United Nations deploring his death and saying his service to the United Nations had gone to "the supreme sacrifice."

Sir Roy Welensky, prime minister of the Central African Federation who had assailed the U.N. action in Katanga, called Hammarskjold "an indefatigable worker in the cause of world peace."

Moscow and Peiping broadcast the news of Hammarskjold's death without comment. The Soviet press kept the news off the front page.

A MYSTERY!

An East German television announcer said it was remarkable that Hammarskjold had died when "colonialists" were opposed to him for his action against Katanga. The Communist announcer said the circumstances were mysterious.

In France, the Communist newspaper L'Humanite said Hammarskjold "was the victim of the same people whom he did nothing to prevent from assassinating (former Congolese Premier Patrice) Lumumba last year."

In Hong Kong, the Communist newspaper New Evening Post denounced him as "a running dog of the colonialists" and a U.S. agent.

"But," it added, "this does not mean Hammarskjold should have been murdered. Whoever murdered him should be punished."

President Tito of Yugoslavia sent a telegram to the U.N. General Assembly saying he had received the news "with consternation."

Israel and the United Arab Republic, who had often used his services as mediator in their quarrels, found themselves in rare agreement in expressing a sense of loss.

A DAY OF MOURNING!

In Sweden Hammarskjold's native land, King Gustav VI proclaimed today a day of national mourning. Radio Sweden ran several special broadcasts in memory of Hammarskjold.

Japanese Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda said Hammarskjold's "untimely death came just at the time when he was more needed than ever to fulfill the lofty ideals and purposes of the United Nations."

Indonesian President Sukarno said he was "deeply moved" by the news.

In Nationalist China, the Foreign Office said Hammarskjold "earned the gratitude of the free world particularly in view of the harassment and obstructionism constantly practiced by the Soviet Union and its cohorts to make his task on behalf of the world organization extremely difficult."

Men between the ages of 30 and 50 are the most frequent liars about their ages, according to a recent study. But women, although they lie less frequently, tell the bigger lies.

Ford Fund Offers College Scholarships

DETROIT (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co. fund has announced that applications will be accepted until Dec. 1 for approximately 70 scholarships to be awarded in 1962 to children of Ford employes.

To be eligible, a fund spokesman said, an applicant must be graduated from high school between Sept. 1, 1961 and Aug. 31, 1962 and be in the upper third of his class scholastically.

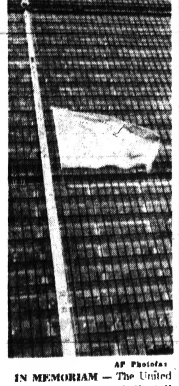

Sons and daughters of Ford employes, including stepchildren and children of deceased or retired employes, are eligible to apply, the spokesman said.

About 70 scholarships have been awarded each year since the program was started in 1951. In the current school term, 263 winners from 24 states are enrolled at 92 colleges and universities.

Northwestern Michigan Plans New Student Union

TRAVERSE CITY (UPI) — The Northwestern Michigan College Board of Trustees has taken under study preliminary plans of a $175,000 student union. The proposed addition, which would be financed under funds from the Federal government, would be opened in 1963 if approved.

The building, which would include a dining hall for 300, a snack bar, a lounge and a basement recreation area, would be attached to a dormitory already under construction.

Grand Prix Shares Limelight With Falcon, F85, Comet

Olds F85 Models for '62 on Display Here Friday

With the introduction of two new convertibles for 1962, Oldsmobile is expanding its F85 line to a total of nine models, J. F. Wolfram, Oldsmobile general manager and a vice president of General Motors, announced today.

The sports convertible and the Cutlass convertible, along with the other F85 models, will be shown to the public at the Jerome Motors Sales, 280 S. Saginaw St., Pontiac, on Friday.

The new Cutlass convertible, like its companion model, the Cutlass coupe, will be equipped with all-Morocceen interiors, front bucket seats and the Cutlass 185 ultra-high compression, aluminum V8 engine.

"This engine," Wolfram said, "with its 215 cubic inch displacement, a four-barrel carburetor and a 10.25 to 1 compression ratio, with surprisingly good mileage on premium grade gasolines."

The Cutlass engine is available as an extra-cost option on all F85 models.

The standard engine for all other F85s is the eight-cylinder 155-horsepower, aluminum / Rockette engine, with its displacement of 215 cubic inches, two-barrel carburetor and 8.74 to 1 compression ratio for regular grade fuels.

MORE COMFORT

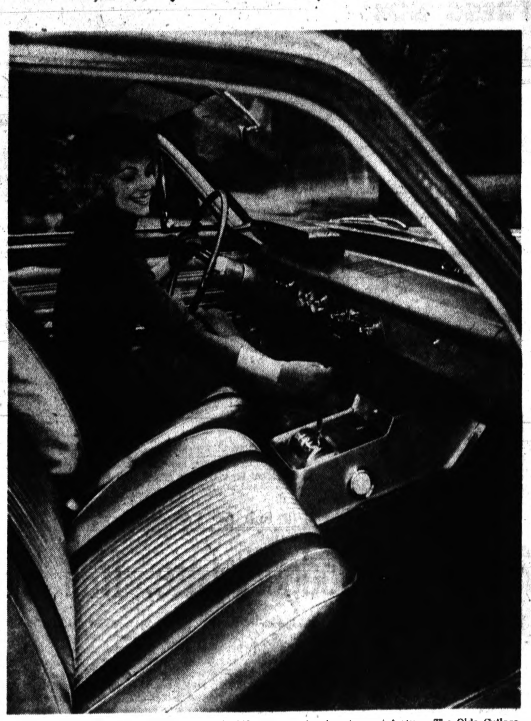

Increased passenger comfort is expected to result from almost two inches of additional leg room in the rear compartment of the four-door sedans.

Styling changes include a completely different front end with new hood, grille and headlamp housings, and a restyled rear section with twin tail lamps mounted on each side. Body side mouldings on deluxe models are of a different design and positioned to create a smart new styling accent. New also is a wide, stainless steel rocker panel moulding.

Interior trim and appointments have been made more attractive and luxurious, not only in deluxe models but in all coupes, sedans and station wagons.

SPORTS CAR FEATURES — Apparent in 1962 Oldsmobile F85 Cutlass coupe is its sporty, all-Morocceen interior and comfort-contoured bucket front seats. The center sports console is an optional, extra-cost feature. The Olds Cutlass F85's ultrahigh compression engine is standard equipment on both the Cutlass Coupe and the newly introduced Cutlass convertible for 1962.

LUXURY — The S22 is the luxury model of Mercury Comet. Like other Comet models, the interior is family sized but this special version of the compact features distinctive exterior identification. Special wheel covers, wheel rims, a roof emblem, triple taillight and back-up light clusters identify the S22. Contoured bucket seats are separated by a storage console compartment. The S22 also features a custom steering wheel, extra plush carpeting and luxury trim throughout the interior.

FRESH NEW STYLING — The sharp, clean lines of Oldsmobile's new F85 for 1962 are apparent in this front view of the F85 four-door Deluxe sedan. Styling changes for 1962 include a new hood, grille, and headlamp housings. A restyled rear section features twin tail lamps mounted on each side. Back-up lamps are now located on the lower body panel, below the rear bumper.

Mercury Comets Unveiled Sept. 29

New models of the compact Mercury Comet feature extensive changes in the rear appearance and include a new custom series increasing the number of body styles from five to nine.

The new Mercury Comet will be introduced in Lincoln - Mercury dealer showrooms Sept. 29. Local dealer is Lloyd Motors, Inc., 232 S. Saginaw St.

"The Comet retains its own basic identity even though it becomes a full-fledged member of the Mercury line this year," Ben D. Mills, division general manager and Ford vice president says.

Among styling changes distinguishing the Comet are a metal applique on the lower rear panel and two circular taillights on each side. The new rear fenders tapered downward replace last year's high canted fins.

HAS NEW GRILLE

In front, the car sports a new aluminum grille. The familiar side appearance is modified by a full-length molding strip sweeping low to the rear. Interior styling changes include a new instrument cluster with easier-to-read instruments and improved illumination.

New features which reduce cost of ownership include an oil change cycle extended from 4,000 to 6,000 miles and a fuel filter which can last for 30,000 miles in normal usage or two and one-half times longer than the previous filter.

A factory-installed coolant protects the radiator to 35 degrees below zero. If the cooling system remains in good repair, the new all-weather coolant eliminates concern for adding antifreeze to the radiator for two years, according to Mercury Comet engineers.

A wider selection of color combinations is available in 1962 — 14 exterior colors and 19 two-tone combinations.

Family-sized dimensions of Comet sedans are retained. Over-all length is 194.8 inches and wheel-base 114 inches. The car is 54.5 inches high. The luggage compartment is larger than last year's model by nearly five per cent and is more easily accessible.

Comet station wagons, like the sedans, have a larger appearance than last year, but retain their clean-lined styling.

Buick Special Gets V6 Engine

40 Pct. of Division Sales Expected to Go to Compacts in '62

FLINT (AP)—Buick's 1962 compact Specials will be equipped with the auto industry's first V6 engine, General Manager Edward D. Rollert announced at Buick's national press preview Monday.

In addition to the cast iron V6, Specials will have two optional V8 aluminum engines in either 155 or 185 horsepower.

Rollert forecast that 40 per cent of the sales of his Buick Division of General Motors next year would be in compacts, and predicted that Buick's over all sales would total 400,000 cars, some 35 per cent above the indicated 1961 total.

The general manager said Buick's 3,150 dealers will have about 17,000 cars in stock on public announcement day, a week from Wednesday.

These dealer stocks were shipped from assembly plants before they were idled last week by local-level strikes called by the United Auto Workers Union to support demands for changes in at-the-plant working agreements.

NEW ADDITION — New to the Falcon line for 1962 is the Falcon Squire, above, a standard, four-door, six passenger station wagon with simulated wood exterior trim that imparts a custom look. The squire is a "dressed-up" luxury wagon with all the basic advantages of Falcon economy and maneuverability. With the second seat converted, the Squire boasts a big, flat and level cargo space of more than 75 cubic feet.

Besides Fresh Styling, Expanded Features

Falcon Sports 2 New Models

The Ford Falcon for 1962 boasts new styling, an expansion of the economy and maintenance-free features and two new models: the Falcon Squire station wagon and a Deluxe Club wagon.

Describing the compact car's new styling as still "distinctively Falcon," Matthew S. McLaughlin, general sales manager of Ford Motor Co.'s Ford Division, noted that the Falcon has a new grille, new front fenders and hood, and larger taillights, but still retains the inside-outside dimensions of its predecessors.

Inside, the instrument cluster has been revamped and there are new fabrics, styles and colors to choose from.

In the engineering field, 62 improvements have been incorporated in the 1962 models.

The new Falcon line of 13 models will be introduced Sept. 29 by John McAuliffe Ford Inc., 630 Oakland Ave., Pontiac, and Beattie Motor Sales, 5936 Dixie Highway, Waterford.

Included in the Falcon line of 13 models being offered for 1962 are:

Standard and deluxe two- and four-door station wagons, four-door Squire station wagon, Station Bus, Club wagon and Deluxe Club wagon.

A "working wagon," the Squire boasts a big, flat and level cargo space of 76.2 cubic feet when the second seat is converted. For safety, the window must be completely lowered before the tailgate can be opened.

NEW STYLING — This Falcon four-door sedan highlights the compact car's new styling for 1962. Still "distinctively Falcon," the Ford compact features a new grille, new front fenders and hood and larger taillights but still retains the inside-outside dimensions of its predecessors.

Cubs Beat Sub for Podres

Dodgers Lose, Trail by 4 Games

By The Associated Press

Thud!

The sound you just heard was the Los Angeles Dodgers falling four games behind the front-running Cincinnati Reds, and quite possibly right out of the National League pennant picture.

Unable to put together a sustained drive in an attempt to overtake the Reds, the Dodgers had their latest win string snapped at four games Monday night when sixth inning home runs by former teammate Don Zimmer, and George Altman gave the Chicago Cubs a 5-3 victory.

It was a critical loss for the Dodgers, three-down in the lost column with only 11 games to play, and reduced the idle Reds' magic number to seven to clinch their first pennant since 1940.

In other games, third-place San Francisco edged Milwaukee 3-2 on Orlando Cepeda's two-run homer in the ninth, and Pittsburgh beat St. Louis 8-6. The American League took a day off.

In order to rest a pitching staff, worn thin by constant juggling in the chase and depleted by the absence of Johnny Podres, at the bedside of his ailing father, the Dodgers started rookie right-hander Phil Ortega.

Ortega, who had given up two homers in two innings in his first stint since his recall from Spokane, added three more Monday night before departing after 5 1-3 innings with his first loss.

The bid to get by with Ortega against the seventh-place Cubs, losers of eight in a row, failed when Chicago starter Don Cardwell checked the Dodgers on four hits over the final eight innings and broke a personal six-game losing streak against Los Angeles.

Cardwell (14-12) gave up three runs in the first on Maury Wills' single, a walk to Wally Moon, Duke Snider's run-producing double and a two-run single by Norm Larker. Then he shut the door while his teammates scored all their runs on homers.

Ed Bouchee tied it with a three-run clout in the second. In the sixth, Zimmer led off with his 12th homer, and after Ernie Banks struck out, Altman chased Ortega with his 26th home run.

Cepeda's 41st homer, with Felipe Alou on base, gave reliever Stu Miller (13-4) the victory. The Giants won their ninth in 11 games and Milwaukee lost its seventh in a row. Bob Hendley (5-6) was the loser.

AFL Head to Rule on Alleged Slugging

DALLAS (AP) — Commissioner Joe Foss of the American Football League said he would rule today on whether Coach Buster Ramsey of Buffalo had struck Al Dorow, New York's quarterback during a game at Buffalo.

But, added Foss, there will be no announcement from his office on what action was taken since there is a league rule that such information may not be revealed.

Ramsey, however, can tell what was done if he desires, Foss added.

Foss will be ruling from actual observation. He was in the press box at Buffalo at the time and Harry Wismer, owner of the New York Titans, protested to him personally.

formal complaint but Foss said this wasn't necessary. "Since I saw the incident there is no need for anybody making a written protest," said Foss.

Foss would not say what he had observed but from the way he talked it was indicated he didn't think the matter was very serious.

Buddy Says He'll Quit Unless Steelers Win

PITTSBURGH (AP) — If the Pittsburgh Steelers don't win the Eastern Conference championship of the National Football League this year, they may be hunting for a new coach.

Coach Buddy Parker talked of quitting following the Steelers' frustrating last-second 27-24 loss to Dallas in the opening season game Sunday.

"I'm not going back if we don't win this year," Parker said Monday. "I mean it. My contract runs out at the end of the season and if I can't coach a winner, I'm not coming back."

Blooperball Champions

Lakeland Pharmacy's No. 2 team, managed by Bob Hollis, routed the VFW, 12-2, to win the Waterford Township Recreation Department's Blooperball League playoff championship and make a clean sweep of blooperball honors. Lakeland won the regular season title by defeating Marty's-Elmer's squad, then downed three straight foes to take the playoffs. The VFW, coached by Dick Molter, lost twice to the Pharmacy, 11-1 and 12-2, after beating the Whiskers, 8-3.

Pro Vikings Herald Young Quarterback

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP)—The debut of the Minnesota Vikings professional football team is history, but the spectacular performance of rookie quarterback Francis Asbury Tarkenton is still being heralded.

The general question being asked around the state is, "Who is this Tarkenton kid who so capably led the Vikings to victory in his first professional game?"

"This Tarkenton kid" is a soft-spoken mild-mannered Southern boy who played his college ball with the University of Georgia in much the same manner in which he broke into the big time in the Vikings' 37-13 conquest of the Chicago Bears Sunday.

The son of a Methodist minister in Athens, Ga., Tarkenton was named for the first Methodist bishop to come to America—Francis Asbury. He is a deeply religious boy who is quiet and retiring off the field, but transforms into a cunning, explosive football player when the game starts.

The 21-year-old signal-caller was best known at Georgia for his ability to move the team. One of his college coaches described Tarkenton as "the golden thread that weaves a pattern down the field to score."

FRANCIS TARKENTON
Viking Quarterback

Never known as an outstanding long passer, Tarkenton was more respected for his short passing game and running ability.

Head coach Wallace Butts of Georgia said of his star, "Francis is the most effective medium-range passer I've seen in the conference. He's developing into a real dangerous runner and he's always been a great ball handler and play-caller."

Butts rates Tarkenton as a better all-around T-quarterback than either Johnny Rauch or Zeke Bratkowski, who both played at Georgia.

After his yeoman effort (17 pass completions in 23 tries for 250 yards and four touchdowns) against the Bears, all Tarkenton could say in the dressing room was: "My gosh, what a thrill!"

He drew praise from Minnesota Coach Norm Van Brocklin and Chicago Coach George Halas as well as other members of both teams for putting on what they called the greatest show a rookie quarterback has ever made in his pro debut.

Needs 3 Homers in 3 Games

Maris in Final Try

By the Associated Press

BALTIMORE (AP)—Roger Maris, with dame fortune and Lady Esther looming just as big as the determined Baltimore pitchers, resumes his chase of Babe Ruth's home run record tonight as the New York Yankees start a four-game series with the Orioles.

The magic number both for Maris and the Yanks is two. Rappin' Roger, with 58, is two short of the magic 60 that made Ruth baseball's all-time home run king in 1927. The Yanks, 10½ games ahead of the runner-up Detroit Tigers, need two victories (or two Detroit losses) to clinch their 26th American League pennant.

The second is inevitable. Whether Maris can do it remains the question of the year and "officially", it'll be answered before the Yanks leave town—providing that Hurricane Esther permits any baseball at all during the next couple days. The weatherman looks for possible heavy rain tonight if Esther continues at her current pace.

The schedule here calls for a twi-night doubleheader today, and single night games Wednesday and Thursday. Under Commissioner Ford Frick's ruling that Ruth's record can be matched or broken only within a limit of 154 team decisions, the first three games are all that are supposed to matter to Maris. Maris himself says he'll consider it a record if he hits 60 or 61, no matter how many games it takes.

If he matches or tops the record beyond 154 team decisions under the league's 162-game schedule, Frick says, Maris' mark will go into the record book accompanied by an asterik—denoting a record only for a season longer than the one in effect when Ruth hit his 60.

Esther permitting, the 154th Yankee team decision will be the third game of the current series.

So, Maris is faced with the task of hitting two or three in a ballpark notoriously reluctant to yield home runs and against a pitching staff that throws few gopher balls, particularly at home. In 75 home games, Baltimore pitchers have allowed only 42 home runs—by far the stingiest yield in the league.

Left-hander Steve Barber (16-11) with seven shutouts and Skinny Brown, a knuckleballing right-hander with a 10-5 record, are scheduled to pitch tonight against the Yanks' Whitey Ford (24-3) and Bud Daley (11-17). Milt Pappas (12-8), a right-hander, is the scheduled pitcher on Wednesday.

Maris, oddly enough, seemed thoroughly relaxed Monday as the Yanks rested after flying here from Detroit.

"I slept well," he said, "but I always sleep well."

What about the ballpark?

"Sure this is a tough park, but if I'm swinging right, the ball will go out of here just like anywhere else."

Two Sophomore Backs May Lead Purdue Eleven

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Purdue's problematical Boilermakers might square a Big Ten football account against the University of Washington in a Saturday opener if two unusual sophomores deliver the goods against the Rose Bowl champion Huskies.

Coach Jack Mollenkopf, a confirmed realists in five previous Boilermaker head man seasons, surprisingly today indicated the two sophomores could handle key jobs in his twin-unit operations.

One is 18-year-old Ron Digravio from Weymouth, Mass., the team's best passer, who with junior Walter Zingg, also completely inexperienced, must replace the slick graduated signal-calling duo of Bernie Allen and Maury Guttman.

The other is 181-pound halfback Tom Boris of Presto, Pa., on whom Mollenkopf lavishes the compliment of being "potentially the best running back here in my time." Mollenkopf same to Purdue as an assistant in 1947.

Purdue lost 18 lettermen from the 1960 giant-killing team which ruined Minnesota's pre-Rose Bowl game bid for a perfect season and also knocked Ohio State out of a Big Ten title chance.

Yet, with a team minus such last season standouts as All-America tackle Jerry Beabout, guard Ron Maltony and center Phil Kardasz—not to mention Guttman and Allen—Mollenkopf talks about Saturday's opener against the Rose Bowl champion Huskies in Seattle with no fear in his heart.

"We're going to try to salvage something for the Big Ten against Washington," said Mollenkopf, referring to successive Rose Bowl defeats of Wisconsin and Minnesota by the Huskies.

"Our kids are ready to go right now," said Mollenkopf whose overall 4-4-1 record last year might have belonged to the best "even break" team in the nation.

Besides Washington, Purdue's slate bristles with challenges, in order, from: Notre Dame, Miami of Ohio, Michigan, Iowa, Illinois, Michigan State, Minnesota and Indiana.

Among 23 returning lettermen, Purdue has such key holdovers as fullback Tom Yakubowski, (218), guards Stan Sczurek (218) and Tom Krysinski (207); tackle Don Brumm (218); ends Forest Farmer (211) and Jack Elwell (204); and halfbacks Dave Miller (175), Tom Bloom (178) and Bob Winter (191).

Tigers, Yankees and Reds Show Top Attendance

NEW YORK (AP)—The Detroit Tigers, Cincinnati Reds and New York Yankees are the only big league ball clubs showing home attendance gains for 1961 as the season heads into its final two weeks.

The Tigers, who drew 126,306 paid for their three-day, four-game series with the Yankees completed Sunday, have pulled in a total of 1,594,098 customers for an increase of 426,000 over 1960.

The Yanks are up 67,000. They lead the American League in home attendance with 1,657,031. The Reds have attracted 1,022,400 fans and are 95,000 ahead of last year.

The Los Angeles Dodgers pace both leagues with 1,730,196, but they are 424,000 under their comparable 1960 figures.

The overall major league attendance is 18,063,187—a drop of 5 per cent from last season.

AAU, NCAA Hoping to Settle Cage Dispute

NEW YORK (AP)—The Amateur Athletic Union will try to iron out its feud with the National Collegiate Athletic Association over the control of amateur basketball on Oct. 2 in Chicago.

The dispute revolves around the AAU holding the United States membership in the International Basketball Federation. The NCAA claims the AAU does not represent all amateur basketball in the country.

Bears Lose Casares

CHICAGO (AP)—Fullback Rick Casares of the Chicago Bears suffered a broken wristbone Sunday in the 37-13 loss to the Minnesota Vikings.

Casares will be lost to the Bears for at least two weeks. Rookie Bill Brown of Illinois is expected to replace him.

Jake Only Nine Whiffs Away From Record

Tigers Play Final 2 Home Games Needing 5,902 to top 1,600,000

From Our News Wires

DETROIT — Commissioner Ford Frick has put restrictions on Roger Maris in his assault on Babe Ruth's home run record. But what about poor Jake Wood's bid to stay out of baseball's record book?

The Detroit Tigers' rookie second baseman is on the threshold of becoming the major league's all-time strikeout king. Eight more whiffs and Jake will tie the record of 138 strikeouts set by Jim Lemon of the Washington Senators in 1956.

Frick has proclaimed Maris, if he is to get official record recognition, must hit 60 or more home runs in 154 decisions by the New York Yankees. Maris has three games left to tie or equal Ruth's historic mark. Under the commissioner's ruling, the games will be included in Maris' bid to become the new bambino.

But Frick has been silent about Wood.

The Tigers, like the Yankees, also have had a tie, giving Wood an extra game. It means the Tigers will play 163 games this season under the new expansion schedule.

Now what happens if Wood breaks Lemon's record after the Tigers have played 155 games? Is he the record holder, or not?

Going on the gauge Frick set up for Maris, Wood seems fairly safe right now from entering the record book.

The Tigers meet the Los Angeles Angels in Tiger Stadium today and die-hard fans may have their choice of seats.

The Tigers announced yesterday after a session with the adding machines that if 5,902 Tiger-watchers show up today and tomorrow, the final two home games of 1961, they will reach the 1,600,000 mark.

With 12 games left there isn't much to attract the fans except idle curiosity. Indian summer sunshine and Tiger manager Bob Scheffing's announced intention of attempting to win 100 games this year.

The Tigers have won 91 and Scheffing has named Don Mossi (14-7) to go after 92. Ken McBride (12-13) will start for the Angels.

The Tiger management has already started printing next year's literature with second place firmly attached to the Bengals. Their only challenge was Baltimore and the Orioles meet the Yankees, remember, six more times. Detroit now has 3½ games over Baltimore and is 10½ behind New York, and the magic number, if anyone cares, is two.

The Tigers close out their season with three games at Los Angeles, four in Kansas City and three in Minnesota, closing Oct. 1.

Along the way the squad has tickets for the Missouri-Minnesota football game Sept. 30 in Minneapolis and could take in the Chicago Bear-Los Angeles Ram pro game on the coast.

World Records Set, Tied at Ohio Race

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — Air Medal, recent winner of the Governor's Cup at the Ohio State Fair, set one world's record and equalled another in capturing the Walnut Hall Farm Breeders Filly Stake for 3-year-old trotters as Grand Circuit harness racing got under way here Monday.

Air Medal, stablemate to the highly regarded Little Brown Jug hopeful, Lang Hanover, recorded miles of 2:02 4-5 and 2:02 1-5. The two heats combined for a world's record while the 2:02 1-5 equals the world mark shared by Yankee Lass and Lady Ann Reed.

Area Dealers Registering for Boys' Football Contest

Registrations are being accepted in three area locations for the national Punt, Pass and Kick contest for grade school boys six through 10 years of age.

It will be a test of football skills with prizes ranging from football equipment to a trip to the National Football League Championship and a visit to the White House.

The contest is being sponsored by the Ford Dealers with cooperation of the National Football League. Registrations can be turned in at John McAuliffe Ford at 630 Oakland, at Beattie Motor Sales on Dixie Highway and at Shuman Ford in Walled Lake.

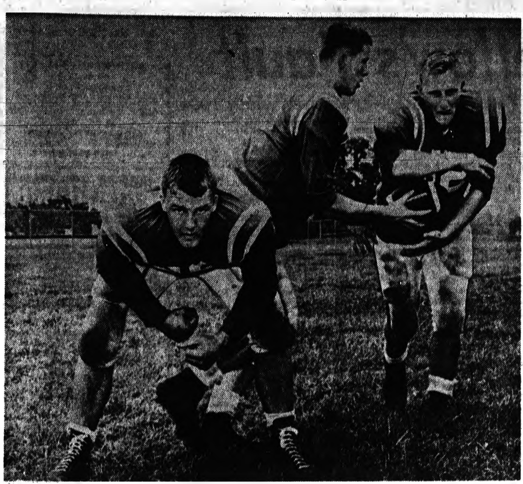

Each boy registering must be accompanied by a parent or guardian.

The competition will be held early in October with the cooperation of the respective Recreation Departments in the cities and final day to register is next Monday September 25th.

Five winners in each of the local competitions will receive football uniforms with runners-up receiving warmup jackets and third prizes of footballs.

Scores of the top five boys in the local sections will be compared with those of other Detroit area regions and winners will appear on TV during the Lions' home games.

Winners will be decided in five groups and special contests will be held to break all regional and national ties.

UP THE MIDDLE—Veteran Rochester quarterback Buck Baldwin is well protected as he hands off to halfback Tom Mitzelfeld. Anchoring the Falcons' line is Clay Oveson, All-County center in 1960.

Bow Demonstration at Hunting School

A group of "deer stalkers" take over the classroom tonight at The Pontiac Press bow hunting school.

Members of the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club will wear camouflage suits and show the various shooting positions needed in the woods.

A film on bow hunting is scheduled, too, for this third session of the school. It will get under way at 7 o'clock at the indoor range building on the OCSC grounds in Waterford.

A $1 registration fee per session is charged for adults and a 50 cent fee for boys and girls under 15 years of age. The younger age group must be accompanied by adults.

Those attending are urged to take their archery equipment to the session. Instruction and target practice will take place after the experts have put on their demonstration.

Dave Keaggy of Drayton Plains, Michigan state target champion, will head the OCSC bow shooters.

"We plan to have the archers dressed in camouflage uniforms to make it more realistic," said Keaggy. "There are several positions from which to shoot in the woods. We will go through all of them and explain why each one is used in certain situations."

An average of 70 persons attended the first two sessions. The number is expected to increase for the last two nights.

The fourth and final session will be Sept. 27.

Laws covering bow hunting in Michigan will be discussed by a Conservation Department official.

NFL TV Plan Gets by House

Bill to Allow Loop-Wide Pact Goes to Senate; Would Aid All Sports

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed to the Senate a bill that would permit the National Football League to skirt a legal block and grant a league-wide contract for television coverage of its games.

The measure, approved in the House Monday by a voice vote, applies to all professional sports leagues—baseball, basketball and hockey as well as football—but it was custom designed for the NFL, whose television plans were ruled out of bounds by a Philadelphia federal court.

The court handed down a decision earlier this year that the NFL's TV contract with the CBS network violated antitrust laws.

The American Football League has a similar contract with the ABC network which has not been struck down by the courts. The NFL official argued that this was unfair and that they should be given equal footing with the rival league.

The bill now under Senate scrutiny would exempt such contracts from antitrust laws "with certain restrictions."

Gridders Have Their Say

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pros and con jobs as you listen to the Monday mourning quarterbacks:

For a man who professes not too much concern, Cornell coach Tom Harp has the crying towel dripping wet with his season opener two Saturday's away.

"You can't get ready without spring practice," he says of his highly-regarded Ivy League contender. "We started with 65 questionable bodies and have 47 in reasonably good condition. But I'm not too concerned. I've got a three-year contract and my dad owns a restaurant in Ohio."

One of his horses is George Tebbetts, a nephew of Milwaukee manager Birdie Tebbets. They're built-alikes, with George at five-nine and 210 pounds — but George's is all muscle . . .

The New York Giants lost their opener to the St. Louis Cardinals in the National Football League mayhem marathon but coach Allie Sherman's wife can't be too unhappy.

Allie tried to relax by playing tennis with her the day before his first game as head coach.

SHORT CAREER?

"I must be out of my mind," she told him. "Knowing how superstitious you are, if you'd have won you'd probably have me playing tennis all the way into December." Allie explained his post-game savoir faire by saying "If you get shaken by a loss you're in for a long, tedious career." . . . or a short one . . .

You gotta have heart but quarterback Frank Tripucka of the Denver Broncos of the American Football League claims that Al Frazier of Florida A. & M. has too much.

"He's too good a competitor for his own good," Tripucka said. "When he's trapped at the sidelines he tries to run over the opposition and that's a little hard to do against the big guys in pro ball — particularly when you only weight 170 pounds like he does." . . .

Tripucka, incidently, explained that the Broncos lost to Boston because of the three All-Americans—"fumble, stumble and fall." . . .

NO SYMPATHY

Frankie Filchock, the Denver coach, was unsympathetic to Tripucka's complaint that he was being rushed when passing. "You quarterbacks are getting too old and just can't get out of the way," he needled. "You can't expect to pass from one yard behind the line of scrimmage." . . .

Whatever happened to the fighting Irish? Jack Armstrong, not the All-American boy but Columbia's All-American sized frosh football coach, was talking about Pat Moran, an Irish student and rugby star who gave the gridiron a try.

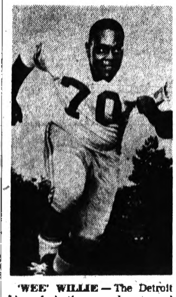

"I'll know the first time I get through a hole how I'll acclimate myself to the game," quoth Pat. He found a hole, got through it and was knocked cold by the linebacker. Said Pat: "I refuse to stand still for such indignities."

Steve Sebo of the New York Titans says he sees only good things ahead for his American Football League team . . . that's the case, too, with Dick Felt, his Brigham Young back, since Richard began to wear contact lenses . . .

Don Holleder, paratroop captain who scouts for Army, apparently doesn't believe it pay to make friends while influencing the enemy. Of this Saturday's opening foe, Richmond, he says "they gave out 36 scholarships last year and these are starting to pay off."

You may remember Holleder as a great end and part time quarterback. "Against Navy," he recalls, "I threw two passes and completed one—to Navy."

'WEE' WILLIE — The Detroit Lions feel they made a good deal when they obtained Willie McClung from the Browns a year ago. Willie, who lives in Pontiac, holds down a starting offensive tackle post with the Lions.

Best 18 holes ever scored in the National Open by an amateur was the 65 shot by Jim McHale in the third round at the St. Louis Country Club in 1947.

Erdelatz Fired After 2 Losses

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Eddie Erdelatz, the only football name the Oakland Raiders had when they started last year, no longer has a job with the American Football League club.

After his team lost 55-0 and 44-0 to Houston and San Diego in the first two games, Eddie drew his walking papers from the Raider owners. His assistant, Marty Feldman, was named to succeed him.

Last year Erdelatz, the former winning coach at Navy, moulded a team from what was termed "a bunch of guys named Joe," and finished better than three other clubs. Since Oakland was the last club formed and missed the draft meeting last year, not much was expected of it.

This year the Raiders have won only one of four exhibitions and lost the two league games against the teams that won the division titles in the AFL for 1960.

Tokyo Players, Fans Riot at Key Game

TOKYO (AP) — Umpires were belted by players and fans tonight as red hot pennant races in Japanese professional baseball brought on a rash of rhubarbs.

After a disputed call, Nishitetsu Lion second baseman Akoro Ogi decked third base umpire Shichiro Yokozawa. Moments later a fan leaped out of the bleachers, grabbed plate umpire Isao Dobutsu's chest protector and swatted the umpire over the head. Another spectator also hit Dobutsu.

Ogi was suspended for five days for hitting Yokozawa.

Inflation Is Other Fellow's Fault

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK — An all sides today voices are being raised to urge others not to arouse the half ogre of inflation. The growing din warns you that he may soon start to stir.

Everyone is against inflation. And everyone blames the other fellow for it. It's the fault of labor, or business, or government, depending with which side you're aligned.

In simple terms inflation means that your dollar seems to buy a little less all the time. It can take the fun out of getting a pay boost, or higher prices for your goods or services, or the property you sell or rent.

The cost of living—which is what most folk think of when they speak of inflation—took a big spurt after World War II, another one during and after the Korean fracas, a more moderate spurt from 1955 to 1958, and then crept slowly higher until this summer.

It takes $128.10 to buy today what you could have bought for $123.70 in 1958, or $114.70 in 1954, or $104.80 in 1948—or $60.30 in 1941.

THREE FACTORS LOOM

The sudden raising of voices at this time is because three factors with disturbing possibilities are under way or expectable shortly:

Steel wages are going up next month and the steel companies would like to raise prices. Steel is a basic material for many consumer items.

Auto pay hikes—often a pace setter—are being negotiated and motorists wonder what that will mean in terms of prices of the new models.

And the government is increasing its spending and therefore its borrowing when business activity is already on an upswing.

So now President Kennedy is warning against steel and auto setting off a wage-price spiral in other parts of the economy. Labor says its demands needn't cause price hikes. Management says it can't promise to hold the price line when costs are rising.

EXPERTS ASK QUESTIONS

And business and banking experts are asking if the government's pouring more money into the economy than it is taking out in taxes won't pump up the money supply enough to set off an inflationary boom that could get out of hand.

And the public? It should react but probably won't—until the cost of living actually spurts.

For one thing the public at the moment is still in a powerful bargaining position. Because of over capacity to produce and keen competition in many industries the prices of goods have been fairly stable. The cost of services has kept on rising. But in most goods themselves you can shop for bargains.

CONSUMERS GRUMBLE

Consumers grumble but mostly of late have come to accept a little inflation as just the way things are—so long as prices only creep. And the main concern is: "How can I raise my own income to stay even with or get a little ahead of the other fellow's higher prices, higher fees, higher wages?"

Rising productivity pops up frequently in the present name-calling over the threat of more inflation. In most cases it means using machines to get more goods for less man hours of labor, whether in the factory, the office, or on the farm. A sizable part of the present unemployment has been laid to this by the unions.

The President has been told by his economic advisers that this rise in productivity can let industry absorb the upcoming wage boosts, if they are moderate, without price rises. The unions hold that labor should get some of the gain in higher wages. It charges that otherwise profits are all set to go up sharply.

Management resents all charges that prices are administered (meaning hiked well above cost increases and as high as the traffic will bear) or that profits in themselves aren't good for the necessary if funds are to be found for financing the economic growth on which his heart is set.

The public? Well, if you're like a lot of your neighbors, you may suspect you're the guy in the middle.

Juvenile Traffic Court Helps Eliminate Itself

LUDINGTON (UPI) — Four years ago traffic violations involving teen-agers were on the rise in Mason County and County Juvenile Agent Clayton Tarr set out to rectify the problem in a novel fashion.

He set up a juvenile traffic court in which teen-agers themselves sat to judge their contemporaries.

Today the court is out of business — but it's not because it didn't work.

It worked so well that there just isn't enough business anymore to justify sessions, Tarr said.

Started in the fall of 1957, the court handled 29 cases. In 1958 the number was up to 53 and in 1959 it hit a high of 61. Since then the count of juveniles arrested for traffic violations has steadily fallen. For the 12 months ending in August, Tarr said, there were only 23 such arrests.

"This does not mean the traffic court entirely can be credited with this — it could also be a lack of interest by the officers," Tarr said frankly, "but I like to feel the traffic jury did play a great part in the decrease.

"It has made the kids cognizant of traffic violations, but I can't their arrests by 50 per cent. But say because of this it decreased I definitely would attribute some of the decrease to this.

"The kids get back to school and talk this thing up. Some of them have been on both sides—first in with a ticket and then back later as a member of a jury."

In most cases the jurors, who numbered 10 for each case, recommended the penning of lengthy themes as punishment for the erring drivers. "But they also sometimes recommended restricting the license or license revocation," Tarr said. "They couldn't impose financial fines or jail sentences."

Tarr operates today as the one-man jury judging those juvenile drivers who are still arrested. "And I pretty much go along in punishment with the ideas they had when we used the jury," he said.

Tarr also noted that when the jury operated there were few repeaters. Educators in the school system of the county, which has four high schools and a junior high which also sent members to the jury, agreed it helped to reduce reckless driving among juveniles.

No juvenile was required to appear before the juvenile jury, but if he didn't his offense took him into the Juvenile Court Division of Probate Court where his errors were made a matter of record.

"Maybe it wouldn't be the thing to do everywhere," Tarr said, "but it did work real good for us."

Meat consumption in Argentina is 267 pounds per person a year.

MICHIGAN IS SCIENCE

Science is contributing much to the growth of Michigan and Michigan is contributing much to the achievements of science.

At research laboratories of Michigan colleges and universities, of private industry and government in Michigan, dedicated men and women are working day and night on scientific advancements to benefit all mankind—and incidentally to benefit Michigan industry.

Distinguished in work for peaceful use of the atom, Michigan is a center of newest developments in medicine, uses of natural resources and processes in manufacturing.

Outstanding scientists are coming to the state in increasing numbers to work in public and private research. Another reason Michigan is a great place for industry.

Help carry Michigan's message to the nation. Clip this ad and mail it to someone in another state with your comment. Let's talk up Michigan and its advantages for industry. Together we can assure a greater future for all of us.

How Would You Explain to Foreigner?

You Think Americans Are Materialistic?

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — The people-to-people program, founded by former President Eisenhower, has issued a pamphlet intended to help us Americans answer some sticky questions that may be asked them by foreigners, here and abroad.

One of the questions, for example, is "Are you Americans as materialistic as some people say you are?"

Now, that is a tough one.

Some Americans I know would draw their minks around them with sheepish dignity and reply, "Certainly not." Others would be outraged — "Look who's asking, and we're giving you people billions in aid."

A generous and embarrassed few would say, "Sure we're materialistic but it's not so bad. Come on, I'll buy you a drink . . ."

The official "American attitude," however, as expressed in the little pamphlet, is less to the point. If asked if you are materialistic the suggested answer begins:

"If by being materialistic you mean that Americans want to live as well and comfortably as they can, we plead guilty. But a high standard of living is not proof of a materialistic output on life. People everywhere are striving for a better life.

"Of course," the "American attitude" then concedes, "some Americans are more interested in getting and spending than in anything else. But many of us are deeply concerned with the spiritual and cultural side of life."

If I were the foreigner who had posed the question, I would listen to that answer in an attitude of confused skepticism.

Especially if I were a savvy foreigner who had read the recent results of a widely publicized, four-year mental health study which revealed that material comforts were the foremost causes for both happiness and unhappiness among American adults — and that economical considerations far outweighed marriage, children, job, health, personal and world problems in the thinking of most Americans.

As I say, if I were a foreigner and were given the proper recommended answer to my query about American materialism, I would not be convinced. Rather, I would be forced to conclude that they are durn volube, these Americans — in an evasive sort of way.

WHAT'S YOUR ANSWER?

What, then, is the correct and honest and most comprehensible answer. It's an individual matter, for each of us to figure out for himself. I only know what my own answer would be:

"Americans live in a country where money buys marvelous 'things.' In recent years, these marvelous 'things' have been used as distractions, to keep us from remembering two wars and worrying about a third, to give us an illusion of security in a world that has never been less secure.

"If you, in your country, had more money to buy more 'things,' you would have done the same. You, too, would have sought this superficial well-being that most Americans have striven for, are still striving for.

"But money and materialism and 'things' have not made us happy and every day there is more thought, more talk, more newspring, devoted to the gradual realization that this way lies emptiness. Americans always have been generous, but today they are giving away more of their goods than ever before. They also are giving more of themselves . . . to spiritual, cultural, humanitarian interests—idealism as opposed to materialism.

"It may take a long time — it may even take another war — before most Americans realize that the 'things' worth striving for are not turned out wholesale.

"Yes, we have been materialistic as some people say we are, but a new trend is coming . . ."

Touch Down Song

'Don't Be Chicken'

WASHINGTON (AP)—If President Kennedy's youth fitness experts have their way, the nation's school children will soon be working off "chicken fat" to a tune composed by Meredith Willson, author of "The Music Man."

Until recently, about the most strenuous exercise Willson ever took was blowing the flute. But he has suddenly become a physical fitness fiend and has composed words and music to go with a set of calisthenics.

A sample of the ballad:

"Touch down every morning,
Not just now and then.
Give that chicken fat back to the chicken,
And don't be chicken again,
No, don't be chicken again."

"Touch down" in the song signifies touching one's toes. As the song progresses the victims also must do push-ups and other exercises. The whole thing lasts 6½ minutes and anybody who can finish without puffing is in good shape.

The government hasn't any money to put the recordings in the nation's schools. But it figures that if some civic group or other angel will come forward with $30,000 the job can be done. Willson isn't charging a nickel for his labors.

Legislature to Probe MSU Labor Center

LANSING (UPI) — State Sen. Lynn O. Francis R-Midland, Monday began an investigation of charges of "imbalance" in the activities of the Labor and Industrial Relations Center at Michigan State University.

Francis was named head of a legislative interim committee to study the question following publication of criticism of the center made by Charles A. Rogers, former associate director of the center.

Rogers was dismissed as associate director after he criticized its activities as being biased. He said it concentrated on labor problems at the expense of management-oriented projects.

Among the university officials who appeared at the hearing were President John A. Hannah; Jacweir Bresin, secretary to the board of trustees, and Provost Paul Miller.

Clean Up Case of Shampoo and Barrel of Suds

LONDON (AP) — The beer shampoo girls of Acton Monday railed a truce over a glass of milk with the boss who thinks they're getting too fat drinking too much beer.

Forty sturdy girls who make the shampoos in a suburban factory had threatened strike action against the head of the firm, 49-year-old Eric Lincoln.

They complained that works manager Herbert James, a teetotaler who weighs a mere 136 pounds, had posted a notice asking all employes to list their weights.

Lincoln, James and the girls met to settle their differences in a milk bar. Lincoln promised to drop the weight investigation. James apologized for putting up the notice. The girls agreed to try to slim down a bit. Mrs. Connie Danbury, the 217-pound spokesman for the shampoo girls, declared:

"All's well that ends well."

Last year the girls went on strike for the right to drink some of the beer that goes into the shampoos. Now they get a barrel a week between them.

State Woman Wins Fight to Break Will

ALLEGAN (AP) — Mrs. Queenie Ward Burkhammer, disinherited by her late father in his estimated $170,000 estate, won her court fight Monday to break the will.

Circuit Judge Raymond E. Smith ruled in favor of the mother of two children.

Mrs. Burkhammer had sued for the entire estate left by John E. Ward, Wayland barber who had accumulated wealth through investments.

Ward, who died in July of last year, cut off Mrs. Burkhammer but made bequests of a $10,000 trust fund to each of her two school-age daughters. The rest he willed to charity.

Mrs. Burkhammer, in her 30s, contended that her father was mentally incompetent when he made his will. Friends said Ward presumably cut her off because he objected to her marriage. Mrs. Burkhammer lives here with her husband, Earl, and the daughters.

Market Slips During Slack

NEW YORK (AP) — An uncertain stock market took a moderate decline in slack trading early this afternoon.

Key stocks fell from fractions to about a point. A minority of issues bucked the downtrend with gains in about the same range.

Nervousness over the consequences of the death of U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold was one factor. Also causing restraint was the possibility of a nationwide walkout affecting General Motors Wednesday if labor negotiations are not successful.

Fallout Rises to Record Highs

Nation's Capital, Other Eastern and Northern Cities Note Upswing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Radioactive fallout, borne on cold winds from Russia's Arctic proving ground, has risen to a record high in the nation's capital and some other northern and eastern cities.

But the Public Health Service said the new levels, recorded over the weekend, posed no health threat unless sustained over "a long period of time." It didn't say how long that would be.

Health service officials announced the record radiation figures Monday, after Russia touched off its 13th fallout-producing nuclear device. It was equal to about one megaton — a million tons of TNT.

Radiation over the weekend surpassed the high set in 1958 in Washington, D.C.; Hartford, Conn.; Indianapolis, Ind.; Baltimore, Md.; Lansing, Mich.; Trenton, N.J.; Albany, N.Y.; Gastonia, N.C.; Harrisburg, Pa.; Columbia, S.C.; and Richmond, Va.

But in many other cities, radiation remained infinitesimal compared to the 1958 readings, when both the United States and Russia were testing above ground.

Loan Firm Gyp Before Bench

Township Judge Hears Case of Conspiracy; Cite $100,000 in Fraud

The Prosecutor's Office today began its case against six men accused of bilking a Ferndale Loan company of more than $100,000.

Examination opened before West Bloomfield Township Justice Elmer C. Dieterle. Charges were: obtaining money under false pretenses, conspiracy to obtain money under false pretenses and conspiracy to avoid paying the state sales tax.

Senior Assistant Prosecutor Jerome K. Barry Jr. said there were two other men originally named as defendants, but now named as co-conspirators.

They are Frank Beznos, 12925 Wales St., Huntington Woods, and Jordan Raider, 24, Detroit.

Defendants are: Ivan Batten, 46, of 29460 Fall River Road, Southfield; Peter Lazaros, 27, of 2410 Dalesford Road, Troy; Gino Ronchetto, 33, Garden City; Robert Levine, 27, Detroit; William Tees, 39, Detroit; and Anton Postic, Highland Park.

All but Postic have been arrested, Barry said.

The men are accused of forging names to credit statements, selling low-cost household goods to bad credit risks and putting the loans through the Ferndale branch of the General Public Loan Co., of which Ronchetto was former manager.

Barry said he expected the examination to take at least four days.

Picketing Delays Work at Ford Research Center

DEARBORN (AP) — Picketing, blamed on a union jurisdictional dispute, delayed work at the Ford Motor Co. Research and Engineering Center today.

The picketing caused a traffic jam at the plant gates and workers were delayed in entering, a company spokesman said.

The company said members of the Pattern Makers League picketed after walking out to protest assignment of certain jobs to United Auto Workers Local 245.

Public Hearings Crowd City Commission Agenda

Ten public hearings and reports make up the bulk of tonight's City Commission meeting agenda.

Five reports will be heard from the City Planning Commission concerning vacating of properties to make way for expansion of the proposed Glenwood Shopping Plaza on Glenwood Avenue near Perry Street.

They had been held up last week until proper legal descriptions of the property to be vacated could be prepared.

The commission will also hold hearings on intent to repair sidewalks on the corner of Jessie and Willard streets and on both sides of Hopkins Street, from Baldwin west to the first intersecting alley.

Two other hearings are for curb and gutter work on Steinbaugh Court, Augusta to State; and black topping of Manitou Road, Navajo to Ottawa Drive.

One hearing on a special assessment roll will be held. This is for a water main in Home Street.

Rolls are to be confirmed for street repairs and curb and gutter construction on Monticello Avenue, Oakland to Orlando; and Howard McNeill Street, Gillespie to Warner.

Commissioners will also hear the introduction and first reading of the zoning ordinances. The first concerns land to be rezoned from residential to commercial for expansion of the Glenwood Shopping Plaza.

The second is a lot at 659 Joslyn Ave. to be rezoned from residential to commercial for use as a parking lot.

City Engineer James Carlisle will present estimates for proposed sidewalk construction on Inglewood Avenue, Oakland to Monticello, and on the north side of East Wilson Street, from lot 251 to 267.

Waterford Board Starts Slowly on Charter Gov't

The Waterford Township Board last night decided to move "slowly but surely" in making the transition from the standard to the recently approved charter township type of government operation.

Elected officials positions remain the same.

However, the board has the authority to appoint new, or reappoint heads of various departments. Members indicated that the present department heads would be officially reappointed in a meeting set aside for this procedure.

The question of township trustee fees was discussed at length and State Representative Lloyd Anderson (R), answered questions from the audience. At the present time the law only allows $10 per meeting for $600 maximum pay.

The board asked Anderson to present a request to the legislature to amend the charter township laws to allow boards under this type of government to establish the fees of the trustees in the charter township. The Waterford Board felt they are better equipped locally to determine the trustee's value rather than the State Legislature.

The board reappointed Dr. John Naz as chairman of the Health Department, assisted by health officers Carl Walton, Ernest (Dick) Lawson and James Sammons. Paul Mandel was also reappointed township attorney at an annual fee of $3,000.

JFK to Decide on Defense Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Senate Preparedness subcommittee said today President Kennedy will reach major decisions in the next few weeks on the rate and speed of the defense program and the development of new weapons.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., told newsmen after a White House visit, the decisions may come even sooner. He indicated they would involve such things as additional B52 bombers, missiles and expanded research and development.

Stennis and other members of the subcommittee visited Kennedy to report on closed-door hearings they have been conducting on the status of the defense program.

AF Personnel Evacuate Texas Towers Nos. 2, 3

OTIS AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (AP) — The Air Force today reported Texas Towers 2 and 3 have been evacuated in the face of advancing Hurricane Esther.

The two towers off the New England coast — part of a radar warning system — are sister structures of the ill-fated No. 4 which crashed into the Atlantic off New Jersey with its crew during a January storm.

Youth, 17, Recovers After Car Hit Tree

A 17-year-old White Lake Township youth was reported in satisfactory condition today after the car he was driving hit a tree yesterday on Teggerdine Road north of Gale Road in the township.

DeWayne Aspenwall, 9128 Buckingham St., was admitted to Pontiac General Hospital for treatment of an arm cut. Two passengers in the car were not injured.

15 Clergymen Released on Bond in Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) —Thirteen of the 15 Episcopal clergymen jailed on breach of peace desegregation convictions were released on $500 bond today.

The Rev. Robert L. Pierson of New York, son-in-law of New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, read a statement on the sidewalk in front of the city jail.

Pierson, 35, said the clergymen were arrested because they "have been engaged in a pilgrimage of prayer to testify to the nature of the Christian church.

"We cannot submit to the immoral laws which demand that we separate racially."

Chosen to Head Trial Board

Malcolm Kahn Elected at First Meeting in Many Years

The Pontiac Police Trial Board held its first organizational meeting in many years last night and elected H. Malcolm Kahn chairman for the coming year.

Kahn, a Pontiac attorney, is presently serving a term that expires next May.

Cecil C. Mullinix was elected vice chairman and the board's secretary is T. Warren Fowler.

The seven-member board was officially reappointed by City Commissioners last week. Voters approved a charter amendment reconstituting the trial board in April 1960, but an organizational meeting was not held until the Commission voted on appointments.

Commission action was delayed until the State Supreme Court ruled on an appeal that the charter amendment was illegally worded on the 1960 ballot.

Kennedy Greets President Prado Peru's Anti-Fidel

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy welcomed Peru's President Manuel Prado to the United States today and praised Peru's devotion to democratic ideals.

The Peruvian president, in turn, said the Democratic nations should close ranks to "defeat the Communist attempt at domination and assure the world of peace and progress."

Kennedy recalled that in 1942 Prado had come to this country at the invitation of President Franklin D. Roosevelt who, Kennedy said, wished to show appreciation for Peru's loyal support in the fight against the Axis powers.

He commented that "history does repeat itself."

Prado's government has taken a strong position against the Communist-aligned Fidel Castro government in Cuba.

Lyle, Balden, Lovell Top List

GOP Chairman's Post Gets Attention

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

Search for a successor to Republican County Chairman Arthur G. Elliott Jr. will probably end next week.

There are apparently three likely candidates for the nonpaying job being relinquished by Elliott, 44-year-old Royal Oak realtor.

Rumored to be the top contenders are Charles L. Lyle, 18890 Hillcrest St., Beverly Hills; Alvin E. Balden, 12732 Elgin Road, Huntington Woods; and Malcolm R. Lovell, 2748 Amberly Road, Bloomfield Township.

Elliott is known to be sending letters to the 26 members of the executive committee of the county party, which ultimately must name the new chairman, setting up a meeting for next week to discuss the candidates.

SPECULATION ONLY

Speculation on who is to follow Elliott is mandatory as the four-person screening committee, made up of the four Oakland members of the GOP State Central Committee, has clamped a tight lid on their activities.

All one member would admit after a luncheon meeting at a Detroit cafe with Elliott yesterday was that there are "approximately three" candidates.

The committee of James F. Preish, Royal Oak; Gordon T. Getsinger, Bloomfield Township, and Mrs. Jean Lowry and Mrs. Betty Finegan, both of Birmingham, has fallen considerably behind Elliott's deadline of Sept. 1 when he asked that his successor be named.

He hoped to be relieved of his time-consuming duties, which he began in 1957, so he could prepare for his role as a constitutional convention delegate and get his business in shape before he left for Lansing.

"It hasn't been a question of not being able to find a successor," said Mrs. Lowry. "Rather, we haven't been able to get together and Art's been busy on the election."

Once considered a likely candidate, Mrs. Finegan, a housewife and member of the resolutions committee of the 1960 GOP National Convention, has taken herself out of the race, Mrs. Lowry said.

1,000 Acres in Texas Chosen U.S. Space Site

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced today selection of the Houston, Tex., area as the site of its laboratory for manned-space flight research.

James Webb, administrator of NASA, said the $60-million laboratory will be located on 1,000 acres of land made available by Rice University.

The land, he said, is located in Harris County, and is bordered by Clear Lake and by the Houston Light & Power Co. salt water canal.

Selection of the site for the laboratory was the third major step in recent weeks to speed American plans to send men to the moon and beyond in the future.

FLORIDA ONE SITE

Several weeks ago, NASA announced that the big rocket base at Cape Canaveral, Fla. had been selected as the launch site for rockets designed to lead up to a manned mission to the moon by 1970.

And, on Sept. 7, the government announced selection of a New Orleans, La., site for the $50 million job of building rockets in the man-to-the-moon and other programs in space flight.

"The manned-space flight laboratory will be the command center for the manned lunar landing mission and all follow-on space flight missions," today's announcement said.

"It will be utilized to design, develop, evaluate and test the spacecraft for Project Apollo (the moon flight and flights leading up to it) as well as all of its subsystems, and to train the crew that will fly these missions."

Enters Market of Electronic Data Machines

DETROIT (AP)—Burroughs Corp. announced today its entry into the mass market of the punched-card electronic computer business.

Burroughs, a business machines company, said it will be competing "for the largest single bloc of the billion dollar a year market for automatic business data processing equipment" with its introduction of a new computer-system group.

The company said it will carry out the production at four plants in Detroit and Pasadena, Calif.

Suspect Demands Examination in Officer's Beating

A 22-year-old man has demanded examination in the beating of a Pontiac policeman hired to keep order at a dance Saturday night.

Jessie R. Diaz, 916 Fremont St., was charged with felonious assault yesterday. He was released on $100 bond set by Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum pending the pretrial hearing Sept. 27.

Patrolman Oscar K. Kissinger had been hired to police a dance at the Hellenic Hall, 95 Mariva St., which was sponsored by the Mexican Mutual Aid Society.

He was hospitalized with injuries suffered when he and another officer were attacked by some 25 persons while trying to make an arrest.

The United States pack of dried fruits is estimated at 410,000 short tons.

HAROLD JULIEN

Job Dangerous, Says Survivor

Lone Man Who Lives After Crash With Dag Had Written Parents

MALDEN, Mass. UPI)—Harold Julien, 36, sole survivor of the plane crash that killed United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, wrote his parents that his mission in the Congo was the "most dangerous job I have ever had. And that includes the war."

Julien, a United Nations security guard, had written his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Julien, little about his work.

"It was all very secret," Mrs. Julien said Monday night. "We never did hear too much from him on the details of his job."

WAITING AND PRAYING

"We are waiting . . . and praying that he is all right," said the elder Julien.

"We last saw our son a year ago last Christmas," said Mrs. Julien. She said he had planned to return to the United States for a visit Sept. 15-20.

Their son, a native of Brooklyn, N.Y. made his home in Miami, Fla., with his wife and two sons.

His last letter to his parents was dated Sept. 4 and read in part:

"Things seem to be popping all over the world. So who can say where I might go after the Congo, and for that matter this deal is far from ended here because Katanga is still giving trouble and without that part of the Congo there just is no Congo."

ONE DIFFICULT DAY — This was the scene at the United Nations General Assembly meeting in New York last year as Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev pounded the table and challenged Dag Hammarskjold to quit his secretary general post and Hammarskjold replied: "I shall remain in my post during the term of my office." The Russians had denounced the U.N. leader's Congo policies. At Hammarskjold's right (above) was Assembly President Frederick Roland. Soviet foreign secretary Andrei Gromyko was alongside his boss.

U.N. Delegate Escapes Death

Katanga Jet Strafes Leader's Headquarters; Men Use Foxholes

By PETER LYNCH

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga Province, The Congo (UPI) — Dr. Conor Cruise O'Brien, the United Nations' civilian chief in Katanga, narrowly escaped death Monday when a Katanga jet strafed and bombed his headquarters here.

O'Brien was given an informal news conference under trees surrounding the large villa which houses his headquarters when the jet screamed down with machine guns blazing.

"We dived for cover in nearby foxholes being dug by Indian troops.

"The raid lasted a couple of minutes and during it I shared a foxhole with O'Brien and two Indian officers.

O'Brien continued the news conference, remarking sardonically as the jet circled: "Our friends again."

Second later a small bomb exploded just outside the villa grounds, shaking the ground around us. We hit the ground again.

Then the raid was over. O'Brien climbed to his feet and continued calmly: "As I was saying . . . I was telling you about (Katanga President Moise) Tshombe and the cease fire."

San Marino Selects New Chiefs of State

SAN MARINO (AP)—A Christian Democrat and a Democratic Socialist were elected Monday as chiefs of state of San Marino.

They are Giovanni Vito Marcucci, a member of the Christian Democrat party, and Pio Galassi, of the Democratic Socialist party.

They will hold office for only six months—the normal tenure in this 38-square-mile republic in central Italy.

Convicted Killer Admits Part in Wave of Crimes

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI)—Charles (Rocky) Rothchild, a former policeman already facing a life sentence for two murders, has admitted taking part in a nine-state wave of 60 crimes, authorities said Monday night.

Rothchild, scheduled to begin a life sentence in Georgia Oct. 1 after completing a five-year robbery term in the South Carolina penitentiary, also has been sentenced to life for a murder in Marshall, N.C., and has confessed to murders in Illinois, Missouri and Mississippi.

South Carolina law enforcement chief J. P. Strom said he would not reveal details on the other crimes, which included armed robberies, arson, conspiracy to kill and safe-cracking charges, until he informed law enforcement officers in the state involved.

Sanction Could Lead to Coup-Trujillo

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Gen. Rafael L. Trujillo Jr., generally considered to be the power in this nation, feels that continuation of sanctions against the Dominican Republic by the Organization of American States would result in a military coup.

Trujillo, who became chief of the armed forces after his father's assassination last May 30, told newsmen Monday he could not "morally impede" a military bid for power if the reasons are sound.

"Logical reasons" for a coup, he said, would involve the nation's restoration to the hemisphere family through renewed diplomatic recognition.

WOULD FORESTALL COUP

He said this could be achieved by a military uprising designed to advance the date for elections, now scheduled for next May, and installing a popularly elected government that would bid for recognition by all countries of the Western Hemisphere. Therefore he argued that lifting the OAS sanctions now would forestall such a coup.

Adenauer Plans to Keep Office

Accepts CDU Request Despite Hostile Party With Balance of Power

BONN (UPI) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer accepted his party's request today to stay in office despite opposition from a minority party that holds the balance of power in West German politics.

Adenauer's Christian Democratic Union (CDU) said the 85-year-old statesman has been asked to head up negotiations for a coalition with the Free Democratic Party (FDP).

But the FDP said that Adenauer must quit office unless he is content to lead a minority government. The FDP repeatedly has demanded that Adenauer be succeeded by his economics minister, Ludwig Erhard.

The Social Democratic Party (SDP) already has refused to join a coalition with the CDU, which lost its parliamentary majority in Sunday's elections.

Charge Castro Plans to D[illegible] Children

MIAMI (UPI) — Premier Fidel Castro's government is preparing to nationalize the children of Cuba, refugees here charged today.

Members of the DRE Organization, an anti-Castro student group, gave UPI what they said was a copy of a decree soon to be published in Havana authorizing the government to take children from their parents at the age of 3.

The draft decree, said to have been smuggled out of Cuba, says children of that age are to be put into state institutions for "physical and mental education and training for citizenship."

Rusk was due to hold his first meeting here with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko this afternoon when the U.N. General Assembly begins its annual session. He wanted to talk with Gromyko about the crisis created by Hammarskjold's death as well as the Berlin crisis, which they have agreed to discuss.

CHANCES CALLED SLIM

Western diplomats saw little chance the Soviet government would agree to work with Allied and neutral nations in choosing a new secretary general speedily. Conversations are therefore underway, they reported, to find some means of assembly action to temporarily bypass the veto power which the Soviet Union can use in the Security Council to block any new appointment.

In the view of Rusk and other Western leaders here the situation is little short of desperate. Without an administrative head the secretariat, which is the action arm of the world organization, cannot function effectively much longer. This is particularly true in the strife-torn Congo, where a breakdown of U.N. authority would probably result in civil war in which the great powers might become engaged.

Disorganization of the U.N. machinery is assumed by U.S. leaders to be Moscow's goal. They are deeply worried about the worldwide dangers of a prolonged dispute over the issue.

PROCESS OF SELECTION

Under the U.N. charter, a new secretary general must be chosen by the General Assembly upon the recommendation of the Security Council. Like the other big powers, the Soviet Union has a veto in the Security Council. It opposes a single secretary general. A year ago Premier Khrushchev personally led a fight to replace Hammarskjold with a three-man board.

A few hours after news of Hammarskjold's death reached here Monday Khrushchev's deputy foreign minister, Valerian Zorin, gave clear indication that the policy has not changed. At an informal meeting of the Security Council Zorin objected strenuously to describing Hammarskjold in a public statement on his death as "secretary general."

* * *

Astonished members of the council, including Stevenson, assailed Zorin's stand and he finally modified his objection. But the statement as issued contained a sentence at the end noting the Soviet reservation about any reference to Hammarskjold as secretary general.

Filibuster Rule Staying 'As Is'

Senate Motion Fails; Group Turns to District of Columbia Voting

WASHINGTON (AP)—A session-end effort to strengthen the Senate's filibuster rule was dropped today when an attempt to limit debate on the move was defeated.

By a 47-35 vote, the Senate tabled and thus killed a motion to consider a new rule that would have permitted filibusters to be choked off by three-fifths of the senators present and voting.

The Senate then turned to consideration of a new voting law for the District of Columbia.

The outcome was a smashing victory for Southern Senators who argued that the proposed tightening of the present filibuster rule was a politically inspired move aimed at gagging the Senate and clearing the way for passage of civil rights legislation.

FAILED IN MAJORITY

First the Senate rejected a move to limit debate on a motion to take up a new rule that would have permitted filibusters to be choked off by three-fifths of the senators present and voting.

This required a two-thirds majority for approval. It failed to get even a majority. The vote was 37 for limiting debate and 43 against.

The cloture motion won votes of 26 Democrats and 11 Republicans; 28 Democrats and 15 Republicans opposed it.

The Democratic opponents included 20 Southern senators plus eight from border and Western states.

To Urge Home Rule at State Con-Con

A change in Michigan's constitution allowing county home rule will be recommended by the Oakland County Board of Supervisors when state constitution convention representatives meet in Lansing next month.

This course was resolved by the board of supervisors yesterday at the recommendation of its legislative committee.

Committee Chairman John G. Semann urged the board's recommendation after a proposed "home rule" amendment to the present state constitution failed to materialize.

The amendment, sought soley by Oakland County died in the hopper at Lansing this year.

Semann stressed that provisions for county home rule should be written in the constitution in such a manner that adoption is not compulsory for the various counties.

The provision would enable counties to adopt a home rule charter only if they so choose, providing two-thirds of the board of supervisors and 60 per cent of the voting public approves the measure.

As being sought by the board of supervisors, the charter would permit that body to fill many of the county offices by appointment rather than through election.

Exempt by state law would be election of circuit judges.

Home rule also would grant charter officers the power to administer and execute general state charter officers the power to administer and execute general state services and functions in the county, acting as an agency of the state government.

No Postal Hike This Year, Says House Official

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said today there will be no postal rate increase bill in this session of Congress.

Postal rates will not come up for House action until next year, McCormack told newsmen.

He said President Kennedy had been informed at a White House meeting this morning that there is no chance for the increase Kennedy had requested to reduce the postal deficit.

Circuit Court Trial Delayed

'2 Charged With Theft Here Given Time to Hire Attorney

Two accused holdup men, ready to be arraigned in Circuit Court yesterday before Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland, asked and received a week's postponement in order to raise funds to hire attorneys.

Scheduled to appear again before Judge Holland Sept. 25 are Robert H. Hills, of 278 Oakland Ave., and William T. Yoho, 51, of Dearborn.

Both, along with a third man who will be sentenced Sept. 28, are accused of the $1,650 holdup of the Food Town Market, 1900 Baldwin Ave., on Aug. 17.

Two other men, believed part of a safecracking ring uncovered during investigation of the supermarket robbery, stood mute Monday when arraigned before Judge Holland.

No dates were set for the trials of Clayton Knephler, 49, of 20 N. Edith St., charged with possession of burglary tools, or Lloyd A. Stearns, 32, of 39 Clark St., charged with possession of burglary tools, safe robbery and breaking and entering.

Troy Officials Drop Possible Center Site

Troy's City Commission and Plan Commission in a joint meeting last night ruled out a 28-acre tract of land on Rochester Road as a future site for a new civic center.

The Rochester Road site, where the city's Department of Public Works Building is located, would be too small for a civic center, the two commissions agreed.

City Manager David E. Firestone said today commissioners believe that a piece of property of about 40 acres would be more suitable. He said they decided the center should be built in the vicinity of the present City Hall, 60 W.

Give Expensive Clothes for Benefit Sale

'Strip Tease' for Charity Growing in Dallas

DALLAS (UPI) — It was all tively-gowned ladies staging a for charity, of course. But even so, carefully planned "strip tease" en- it was unusual to see 100 expen- masse.

That's exactly what happened in Dallas. Scores of society leaders attended a lunch exquisitely dressed in their expensive haute couture designs.

They emerged two hours later dressed identically in pink smocks —another rare happening around here, where these women usually appear in one-of-a-kind gowns, designed by world-famous names. (Of course, the smocks were designed by Neiman-Marcus. That helped some.)

The cause for which these socialites gave the clothes off their backs is a benefit sale on October 9 to raise money for the Dallas Council on World Affairs, a group dedicated to promoting international understanding through study and public education.

Proceeds of the sale will help bring speakers and programs to Dallas audiences.

"Les Femmes du Monde" is what the ladies of the council call themselves. And they are taking that "monde" seriously. Letters, calls and personal pleas have gone out to New York, Washington, D.C., and Hollywood for donations of high-fashion clothes.

ASKED TO DONATE

Park Avenue matrons are being asked to look through their wardrobes for an Oleg Cassini that's already been seen too often at the Met.

"Les Femmes" hope that famous Washington hostesses and diplomats' wives will send along a fabulous state ball gown, or two. (Minus diplomatic ribbons, of course.)

Also, if a couple of film stars should pack up a few of those fabulous Helen Rose or Irene gowns and ship same along to Dallas the ladies would be ecstatic.

And if the Duchess of Windsor is listening . . . well!

Donations don't have to be clothes. The ladies are perfectly willing to take old diamonds, last Easter's Mr. John Hat, or those old-fashioned mink coats with the skins running up and down instead of this year's swirl-around style.

The embassies in Washington have responded nobly. The French Embassy sent a slinky black Dior cocktail dress. Belgium donated a Djanardin design. Turkey a black velvet embroidered vest, and Italy a hand-stitched leather bag.

Switzerland, Nationalist China, Denmark and Greece also have contributed examples of their countries' best work to be sold to bargain-hungry housewives.

Neiman-Marcus, in addition to designing the pink smocks, has donated a Scassi original, some Italian silk lounging pajamas, and several Pucci blouses. Other manufacturers and designers are catching the spirit. One jeweler got so carried away he gave "les femmes" a gorgeous pair of diamond earrings.

This donation fever is catching. Robert Goodman, a Dallas antique dealer, has given the girls his elegant antique shop for the sale. Priceless art objects will be shoved aside to make room for the racks and customers.

His only request: Please don't sell the shop. He wants it back the next day.

WHERE THEY DIED—Blanket-covered bodies lie near wreckage of the DC6B that crashed near Ndola, Northern Rhodesia, carrying U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold and members of his party to their deaths. Hammarskjold was on a Congo peace mission when the crash occured. Harry Julien, an American U.N. security guard, was the lone survivor.

Way Out Sought as Session Opens

the ouster of the Nationalist Chinese in favor of the Communist committee is appointed.

The Soviet Union formally moved today toward such action.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko requested that the 99-nation General Assembly place on its agenda a question titled: "Restoration of the lawful rights of the People's Republic of China in the United Nations."

But Western diplomats expressed confidence that they had many more votes than the simple majority required to rule the representation issue an "important" question, thus making a two-thirds vote necessary to bring Communist China into the assembly.

If the simple majority is assured, it would be an easy matter to muster the one-third vote necessary to block Peiping's actual entrance.

The unanswered question arising from Hammarskjold's death was: who now is top man in the United Nations?

There was speculation that the assembly might delegate a board of ranking U.N. officials to make decisions until a new secretary general can be chosen.

Most of those being mentioned as candidates came from the non-aligned nations of Asia and Africa, who now hold almost a majority in the assembly. There was no indication of firm support behind any one of them.

MUST GET PAST VETO

A new secretary general must get past the threat of a Soviet veto, which the Soviets could exercise if they decide, as expected, to push their plans for reorganizing the United Nations and curbing the powers of the secretariat developed by Hammarskjold.

A new secretary general must be nominated by the Security Council with the agreement of all five permanent members — the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and China. Then the nomination must be approved by the General Assembly.

Ambassador Frederick H. Boland of Ireland, outgoing assembly president, planned to gavel the delegates of 99 countries to order on schedule (at 2 p.m. Pontiac time).

He said he would go ahead with the election of the assembly's new president, Mongi Slim, senior diplomat from Tunisia. Slim was assured of election when Dr. Ali Sastroamidjojo of Indonesia announced Monday that he was withdrawing as a candidate.

In the gloomy atmosphere, many delegates were heartened by the announcement that President Kennedy will address the assembly to reaffirm U.S. support for the organization in its hour of crisis. The White House said Kennedy will appear here this week or next, but Friday was the most likely date.

Fears that the Soviets would pick this time to start a new dispute about U.N. organization were heightened Monday night when the Soviet Union balked at a Security Council statement praising the secretary general and expressing grief at his death.

The 11-nation council, which met behind closed doors, took no action on a possible successor to Hammarskjold.

The situation is complicated by the fact that the U.N. charter makes no provision for anyone to take over in the event of the death of a secretary general.

Sarper of Turkey Plans Trip to U.N.

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—A Cabinet crisis in the wake of weekend executions of ousted Premier Adnan Menderes and two other deposed former ministers was resolved today.

Foreign Minister Selim Sarper withdrew his resignation and announced plans to attend the U.N. General Assembly session in New York.

Sarper earlier was reported to have been reluctant to attend the U.N. meeting due to his personal reaction to the executions.

The lone survivor, Harry Julien, an American U.N. security guard, was quoted as saying a series of explosions shook the four-engine DC6B before it plunged into a forest reserve north of town and burned.

Seasoned pilots who viewed the fire-blackened wreckage agreed with Matlick. They said it looked like typical results of a crash caused in a landing approach by loss of power or faulty instruments.

Julien was pulled semiconscious from the wreckage, badly burned, after lying there more than 12 hours—the interval between the plane's disappearance and the discovery of the wreck.

Clay Reassures on U.S. Stand

JFK's Representative Meets With Adenauer, Von Brentano

From Our News Wires

BONN, Germany — Gen. Lucius D. Clay was reported today to have reassured the West German government of the determination of the United States to maintain its rights in Berlin.

Stopping over in the West German capital while en route to take up his assignment in Berlin as President Kennedy's personal representative, Clay met with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano. U.S. Ambassador Walter C. Dowling accompanied him at the meetings.

Western diplomats in Berlin said Clay brings to his new job three great advantages: The confidence of the President, a first-hand knowledge of the Russians and the courage and ability to make on-the-spot decisions.

As Kennedy's personal representative with the rank of ambassador, Clay was expected to have a direct channel to the White House.

TSHOMBE SHOCKED—President Moise Tshombe of Katanga is shown at Kitwe Airport, Northern Rhodesia, as he heard the news of the death of U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold in a plane crash.

JFK Decides to Address U.N.

Determined to Prevent Russ Taking Advantage of Dag's Death

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy was described today as determined to prevent Russia from using Dag Hammarskjold's death to make United Nations operational control subject to Communist veto.

The African air crash death of the U.N. secretary general was the deciding factor that led Kennedy to plan a personal appearance before the U.N. General Assembly within a few days.

The chief executive for some weeks had considered a speech to the assembly in New York, but he arrived at no decision until he heard Monday morning of Hammarskjold's death. Then there were quick telephone calls to New York.

Kennedy discussed with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson the procedural situation involved in selecting a successor to Hammarskjold. The Russians have long wanted to replace the single head of the United Nations, with the "troika" system favored by Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Under the Khrushchev plan, three men would replace Hammarskjold — one from the west, one from the Communist countries and one from a nonaligned nation of the neutral bloc. Each of the three would have the veto power.

Obviously expecting Russia to push again for this plan, Kennedy decided to go ahead with his long considered speech either late this week or early next week.

He was pictured as wanting to take the first opportunity to reassert U.S. support for U.N. policies, particularly those carried out by Hammarskjold.

A definite time for his speech was expected to be set today. The timing depended in some measure on how long the assembly, convening today, would devote to eulogies of the late secretary general. The White House expected the United Nations to set its schedule so the President could speak Thursday or Friday, or possibly early next week.

Goldwater Again Making Speeches Despite Ailments

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., troubled by a recurring back ailment and a generally rundown condition, is back making speeches.

Goldwater was confined to his bed most of Monday but appeared at an international convention of the Odd Fellows Lodge for a brief speech Monday night.

The senator cancelled an appearance in Benson, Ariz., Sunday night and refused telephone calls. Although advised by physicians to rest two weeks, the senator probably will return to Washington Thursday or Friday.

His family said the senator's condition was the result of both an extensive speaking tour and the back ailment, which has troubled him for 20 years.

Arrest Youth, 19, in Venomous Try to Kill Ex-Wife

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP)—Daniel Calvin Milligan is charged with assault with a deadly weapon—a snake.

Police say Milligan, 19, admitted dropping a venomous Russell's viper into an outside vent of the air-conditioning system at the apartment of his former wife, Bonnie Johnstone, 18, Sept. 4.

The snake, four feet long and three inches in diameter, was found the next day by another tenant of the apartment house. The viper was in a cloth bag.

Detective John Kerr said there is no known antidote for venom of the Asian snake.

Slot Machines Flop on the Queen Mary

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP) —Twenty slot machines were stripped from the transatlantic liner Queen Mary today—because the passengers weren't interested.

The machines had been installed as an experiment. As the liner docked Monday night from New York, a Cunard Line spokesman said: "There was never any great rush for them. But it was necessary to keep them in for about three voyages to judge the reaction of passengers."

Katanga Front Reported Quiet

U.N. Spokesman Says Elisabethville Action Eased Off in 24 Hours

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—Fighting eased off in the Katanga capital of Elisabethville with little activity in the past 24 hours, a United Nations spokesman said today.

There was no news from Jadotville, the industrial-mining town 80 miles northwest of Elisabethville, where a 155-man Irish U.N. garrison had been besieged by a large force of Katangese. Last word was that the Irish had been "overwhelmed" by the attackers.

The spokesman added that the Kamina Base in North Katanga still was firmly held by U.N. forces. He denied reports from Usumbura, Ruanda-Urundi, claiming that Kamina had fallen to the Katangese and its 500 Irish and Swedish U.N. defenders had surrendered.

To the north in Albertville, the spokesman said that Indian U.N. troops dispersed attacking Katangese forces who fired small arms and mortars at the airfield. The Katangese then surrounded the U.N. hospital there, but left without interfering with the patients. One Indian was killed and another wounded and one Katangese was captured.

It was reliably learned, meanwhile, that jet fighters requested from Ethiopia to counter a pair of Katangese air force jets had not arrived for the U.N. force. The jets had trouble getting flight clearance and refueling permission along the way.

Here in Leopoldville, a national day of mourning was declared to mark U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammerskjold's death.

Probe Continues of MSU Labor Relations Center

LANSING (AP) — A former director of Michigan State University's Labor and Industrial Relations Center says management and labor groups both have an equal opportunity to utilize its services.

The witness, Charles C. Killingsworth, testified Monday before a three-man Senate committee investigating whether there is a pro-labor imbalance in the center's operations.

Sen. Lynn O. Francis, R-Midland, the committee chairman, said that 12 or 15 witnesses had been subpoenaed to testify, including MSU president John A. Hannah. Only four were called at the opening hearing, with Killingsworth being questioned for more than four hours.

Hannah, who was expected to be called today, was unhappy about receiving a subpoena. He told newsmen such a summons was unnecessary because he would have appeared voluntarily if asked.

Episcopal Convention to Debate Issue

By TOM SHAWVER

DETROIT, (AP) — A move to pull the Episcopal Church out of the National Council of Churches developed at the Episcopalian General Convention today. It appeared to have only scattered support but the issue may stir up one of the liveliest hassles at the church's triennial meeting.

'MORE LIGHT, LESS HEAT'

"This issue needs more light and less heat," said a lay delegate at the opening session of the House of Deputies, representative branch of the church's two-chamber governing body.

The council is formed by 33 Protestant denominations with nearly 40 million adherents. Some Episcopalians are disturbed by its pronouncements on controversial political issues.

The diocese of Southwestern Virginia submitted a resolution adopted by Pulaski, Va., Episcopalians calling on the church to resign from the council.

Dorothy Fisher of Grosse Pointe, Mich., a leader in the Episcopalian Education and Information Council of Michigan, an unofficial organization, said Episcopal groups in at least a dozen cities support withdrawal.

"The council has become a lobby in Washington," she said. "It has been allied too often with Communists fronts and causes."

HEADS HOUSE — Clifford P. Morehouse, Katonah, N.Y. layman, Monday was unanimously elected president of the House of Deputies, the representative chamber of the bicameral legislature of the Episcopal Church. He is the second layman in history to be named presiding officer.

Less militant, the Long Island, N.Y., diocese urged the convention to ask the council to refrain from taking stands on political, social, economic and theological issues.

Strong support for both the National Council and the World Council of Churches came from the dioceses of New York and Massachusetts.

Controversy also was mounting over a move to unite Episcopalians with other Christian denominations.

TO TRIGGER DEBATE

Certain to trigger sharp debate is a far-reaching proposal by Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, Presbyterian clergyman, for a merger of his church with the Episcopalians, the Methodists and the United Church of Christ.

Resolutions endorsing the idea came from the dioceses of Maryland, Missouri, Delaware, Massachusetts and Michigan.

Long Island, joining with the Quincy, Ill., diocese in opposition, asserted it "contains no real safeguards for the preservation of either the historical catholic faith of the church or of a catholic standard of liturgical practice."

eight slated for the health department, will cost $141,089 in 1962.

Hospitalization, health and welfare again got the biggest slice of the budget. In the neighborhood of $7 million, they represent nearly half the total figure approved.

Despite the increased budget, taxpayers will get a break next year.

Due to an $86-million increase in state equalization for the county, plus continued surpluses as a result of better economic conditions, the tax rate will drop from $5.35 to $5.25 per $1,000 property valuation, according to the board's Ways and Means Committee.

The budget will be met by the taxes collected plus $3,562,506 in estimated receipts in the county and from the $298,000 welfare reserve, the board of auditors reported.

Going into today's negotiations, Louis G. Seaton, GM bargaining chief, said "As seriously as both sides are trying to arrive at a settlement, I don't see why we shouldn't be able to make it."

"We still have certain items in the contract that have to be resolved," Seaton added. He referred in particular to points in dispute in efforts to write a national non economic agreement on working conditions.

Both Seaton and UAW President Walter P. Reuther said progress had been made overnight. At a midnight recess of previous talks neither seemed pessimistic.

10 E. Germans Elect Freedom During Balloting

BERLIN (UPI) — Ten East Germans were reported Monday to have headed across the city's Communist wall to freedom during an election night punctuated with gunfire and tear gas.

Residents of East Berlin were marched to the polls Sunday housing block by housing block and Communist Mayor Friedrich Ebert announced that 98.71 per cent of the "eligible voters" cast their ballots 99.86 per cent for the Communist single list of candidates.

West Berlin police said that during the hectic night at least 10 persons reached West Berlin including one Communist people's policeman (VOPO) who grabbed a fellow officer's gun and leaped over the barrier.

BATTLE THE BLAZE — Pouring water on the smouldering ruins of a large stock barn are firemen who fought the blaze for several hours yesterday to keep flames from spreading to adjoining buildings. Six area fire departments were called to the scene when the fire was discovered about 10 a.m. Nearly 90 tons of hay and oats, which are shown shooting smoke and flames into the air, kept the fire burning until nearly 9 p.m.

At RedBob Farm

Oxford Twp. Barn Burns

By DON FERMOYLE

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — Spontaneous combustion in a loft filled with nearly 90 tons of hay and oats apparently started a blaze which destroyed a 70-foot-high stock barn here yesterday.

Flames and smoke from the spectacular fire at the RedBob Farm, 1955 Ray Road, could be seen for miles around as the winter feed supply for some 30 registered race horses was devoured in the blaze.

A farm hand, Ken Smith, 20, of 87 Helen St., Oxford, is credited with saving five horses which had been quartered in the building when the fire broke out.

"I heard a cracking while I was watering the horses," Smith said. "I looked up and saw smoke so I got the horses out right away."

Smith said he then alerted another farm employe who notified the Oxford Fire Department at 10:05 a.m. Minutes later, the first crew of firemen arrived at the scene.

CALLED FOR HELP

Fearful that the flames would spread to adjoining buildings, five other area fire departments were called in for assistance.

Oxford Fire Chief Ellsworth Sage said today some also pieces of equipment and dozens of men were used in fighting the blaze.

The Oxford Fire Department was aided by others from the townships of Independence, Brandon, Orion, Addison and Metamora.

Flames gutted the 40-by-70-foot stock barn and destroyed three large oak trees on the west side of the building.

However, firemen kept the blaze from spreading to another large frame barn and an aluminum structure located less than 20 feet from the east side of the burning building.

WORKED FOR 10 HOURS

Sage, who estimated damage at $25,000, said the Oxford Department remained at the scene for over 10 hours. They spread the smouldering hay and grain with a bulldozer and watered it down.

The other departments left the scene at about 1 p.m. after the fire was brought under control, according to the Oxford fire chief.

One of the thoroughbreds led to safety by Smith was a prize stallion, Honeytown, son of Kentucky Derby winner Johnstown.

Sage said the fire apparently was the result of new hay being dumped into the loft, causing the spontaneous combustion.

The RedBob Farm, located about two miles east of American Aggregates Corp. is owned by Col. Irving A. Duffy of 85 Manor Road, Birmingham, and Maj. Robert J. Berg.

Berg, who lives on the farm grounds, said about 70 tons of hay and 18 tons of grain were stored in the burned barn.

Southfield Council Limits Home Size

SOUTHFIELD — An ordinance amendment that will prohibit the building of large homes on small lots was approved by the Southfield City Council last night by a 4-2 vote.

About 150 citizens attended the public hearing held at Southfield No. 10 School.

The amendment requires that each lot be 9,600 square feet instead of 7,500 and that a house may not cover more than 25 per cent of the property.

As had been expected develop-ers in the area protested the change in the ordinance because they felt it would limit the construction of new homes.

In favor of the change was Herbert E. Fries, president of the Southfield Homeowners Association. He had asked for minor changes in the amendment which were not made last night.

Fries told the council that he had contacted 755 residents out of 14,000 homeowners and found that 15 per cent favored 60-foot lots, 8 per cent favored 70-foot lots and 79 per cent favored 80-foot lots.

The city council members in favor of the revision were C. Hugh Dohany, president, Thomas C. Rowley, Philip Peterson and O. David Edwards.

Councilmen John J. Hollywood and Clarence A. Durbin voted against the change. Durbin is a Southfield builder.

POWER CHANGE

The amendment also takes some of the power of decision from the board of appeals and gives it to the council. Durbin objected to this and asked that it be deleted from the amendment.

He was, however, overruled by the majority of the council.

Mrs. Jean McDonnell, former councilman who lost her post in the Spring election, made a bid last night for reinstatement.

She submitted petitions bearing 663 signatures from Southfield citizens asking that she be appointed to the position left vacant with the resignation of Councilman Robert G. Landers.

Landers resigned last Friday before from the city by his employer cause of a promotion and a transfer the Link Belt Co. of Detroit.

No action was taken by the council on the petitions.

They will be given certificates showing they completed a 13-week auxiliary medical training course last spring.

The presentations will be made by Oxford's Civil Defense Director George J. Moore.

Special guests at the affair will be Dr. Edgar J. Geist Jr., of Rochester, chairman of the Northeast Oakland County Civil Defense Council, and Dr. Rodman C. Jacobi of Oxford.

Both doctors are particularly interested in the medical aspects of the new CD council.

Council Has Water Line as Front of Property, Road Is Rear

LAKE ORION — The Village Council here last night agreed to amend Lake Orion's zoning ordinance in order to establish the actual front line of lakeside property.

In its amendment, the council ruled that the rear section of any property located between the lake and a highway or road will be the portion facing the thoroughfare.

The front line will coincide with the platted lot line on the lake side of such property, the council decided.

It also was announced last night that the village has some $28,639 in its general fund to date. This total is about $10,000 more than was in the village coffers at this time last year, according to Village President Irvine J. Unger.

A petition signed by some 25 persons was presented to the council, asking that the name of Central Avenue remain the same. New names have been proposed for several streets in Lake Orion because of duplication.

Unger also said he was directed to write a letter to the State Highway Department, requesting that a stop light be installed at South Broadway Street (M24) and Heights Road.

Southfield Finds Itself Without Plans Consultant

SOUTHFIELD — The City Council last night discovered it had been officially without a planning consultant for a week.

City Clerk Patrick G. Flannery pointed out that the 3-year contract held by Alb Munson expired Sept. 12.

Mayor S. James Clarkson said that it was "nothing to worry about" because he planned to appoint a planning consultant at next Monday's meeting.

Munson had been working on a part-time basis.

Council President C. Hugh Dohany and the mayor have agreed that Southfield now needs a full-time planning consultant.

Under the City Charter Clarkson has the authority to hire a consultant but the appointment must be approved by the City Council.

Petitions Spur Action to Control Hunting in Novi

NOVI — A move to regulate hunting in the village was made by the Village Council last night after receiving petitions from 70 homeowners asking that all hunting be prohibited.

The council directed Village Attorney Howard Bond to prepare an ordinance that would control rather than ban hunting.

A year ago the council adopted an ordinance that prohibited hunting in four areas of the village, specifically in built-up areas.

The petitions last night were filed by residents living in the Nine Mile-Novi roads area.

The proposed ordinance will be submitted to the council for action next Monday.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Public hearings on revised milk handling regulations in Michigan will start Oct. 17 in Lansing, the Agriculture Department said Monday.

It is being proposed that the marketing areas now covered by the three separate orders be consolidated and that 20 new counties and parts of five others be added to the combined areas. The proposed expanded area includes Detroit, Dearborn, Flint, Grand Rapids, Lansing and Saginaw.

Dag Hammarskjold

U.N. Secretary General Dag HAMMARSKJOLD was working for world peace yesterday until the untimely plane crash in Northern Rhodesia which cut short his mission.

He left behind much unfinished business. His role for the last few years had been a big one. He presided over the United Nations and was largely responsible for carrying out U.N. policies.

If any one man could be classified as 100 per cent devoted to his job Mr. Hammarskjold would fall in such a category. For the last eight years he has worked tirelessly with foreign advisers from all corners of the earth to try and effect a peaceful atmosphere so that all nations could exist side by side.

With the current crisis in the Congo exploding it was only natural that this energetic, sandy-haired executive from the U.N. be on hand.

He was there to do everything within his power to try and work out a settlement before this recent bitter dispute cost too much bloodshed.

The Swedish born diplomat was never one to work from behind a desk when first-hand visits to the field of action would give a clearer picture of the problem.

Mr. Hammarskjold's many trips to the far corners of the earth were all with one single motive in "pursuit of peace."

He will be missed by many nations, but he leaves behind a permanent inspiration for others to follow.

It's Time to Construct Long-Range Program

There is no need for Congressmen to wait until next year to cope with whatever farm legislation is offered.

They should begin making plans now to construct a long-range program that eventually will take the Federal Government out of agriculture and restore a free market to that essential area of our economy.

We agree wholeheartedly with the Wall Street Journal which noted: "If Congress thinks it can make the farm scandal go away by simply endorsing the past, it is kidding itself but no one else."

Submerged Automobiles Take Many Lives

To most of us it is a fairly rare occasion when we read of a motorist trapped in a submerged automobile that has plunged off a roadway into a lake or stream.

Actually, about 400 people in the United States lose their lives that way every year. To bring the subject close to home, we recently had an accident where a couple of youngsters were trapped in a runaway submerged car near Lake Orion.

The case mentioned was extremely unusual, but it does emphasize the type of accident.

Thus it is reassuring to hear that experiments have been recently conducted near Lansing, Mich., to help develop self-rescue techniques for motorists thus caught in deep water.

The Red Cross, the Michigan State Police and highway authorities and Indiana University's health and safety department collaborated in the 10 day test.

They all deserve a word of commendation for what seems to have been a well-prepared, elaborate effort to find answers to a substantial but little appreciated driving danger.

It is the compounded efforts of groups like this that deserve our thanks.

The Man About Town

Dog Has His Day

Items From Readers Regarding Canine Week

Conscience: What often talks when we won't listen.

In connection with the current observance of National Dog Week, I'm quite impressed with a letter from

Mrs. Hortense Blair

of Clarkston, who queries: "Have you any other friend who would lay down his life for you?"

An interesting dog episode comes from

Jack Rohloff

of Waterford. A man who gave the name of

John J. Hassell

of Ann Arbor came to the Rohloff home, and said that his car had struck their dog, and that while the animal, who accompanied him, seemed to get around OK and was wagging his tail, he feared its back had been broken. The dog is a Dachshund.

The observance of National Dog Week has an added impetus in the Pontiac area, because in our suburban Rochester is located the Leader Dogs for the Blind School. There thousands of blind people have been made accustomed to dogs who now are leading and protecting them. Under Executive Director

it has become the top such school in the United States.

Just to save you from losing $300, have you made entries for all of your family in our football contest? Here's fair warning.

With lilacs and forsythia both blooming in his yard,

Roy Fisher

of Lake Orion wonders if we're going to have any winter.

A phone call comes in from

of Birmingham, who says some rats in his cellar ignored all traps, until they ate some fermented apple pulp, after which they were easy victims.

Twin sunflowers from one seed are reported by

of Drayton Plains. But one is 12-feet tall, with many blossoms, while the other is less than 6-feet-tall—and without blossoms.

A castor bean plant 12-feet-tall is growing in the yard of

Mrs. Eric Cooper

at Union Lake, as high as a house.

Salvia plants over 6-feet-high are gracing the yard of

L. Harvey Lodge

at Lotus Lake in Waterford.

A note accompanying the football contest entry of

Blaine Missions

of Rochester says: "Now I can forget it until the bonds arrive."

May He Find the Peace He Sought for Them

David Lawrence Believes:

Hammarskjold Most Sincere (but)

WASHINGTON — The tragedy of Dag Hammarskjold's death is not just the loss of a man dedicated to the cause of world peace but the failure of the United Nations to confine itself to its true function instead of meddling in the internal affairs of countries aspiring in their own evolutionary way to achieve independence.

LAWRENCE

The secretary general, who was killed in an airplane crash, conceived it to be his duty to impose peace in the Congo. He would not have sought to do the same inside the two Germanys or inside Hungary.

But he saw the United Nations as a kind of superstate and felt that, when the United Nations passed a resolution and sent him to a troubled area, this would be enough to cause the warring factions to lay down their arms.

Noble as was his purpose, the fact remains that the rights of a people to rebel against their own rulers and to determine their own destiny has long been imbedded in international law as a basic principle.

The London "Times" a few days ago put its finger on the root of the difficulty in the Congo.

It quoted from the resolution of July 14, 1960, when the United Nations authorized the secretary general to consult with the government in the Congo and provide it "with such military assistance as may be necessary until . . . the national security forces may be able, in the opinion of the government, to meet fully their tasks."

It is apparent that the late secretary general interpreted in his own way the meaning of the resolution passed by the U.N. Security Council.

His purpose was to bring peace by personal negotiation, but he ran up against the bitter opposition of those inside the Congo who simply would not lay down before the Communists.

The Congolese government is today suspect. Sen. Dodd of Connecticut, Democrat, in an impressive speech in the Senate last Saturday pointed to the Communist leaders inside the Congo cabinet and warned against the so-called "coalition" government which the Communists sooner or later are expected to take over. He gave name after name of Communists who are cabinet ministers in the Congo government today.

THEIR LAST STAND

Small wonder that in Katanga Province, where the last stand of the anti-Communists is being made in the Congo, they have felt hostile to Secretary General Hammarskjold and the U.N. troops.

Since many millions of dollars of valuable property are involved—the mines in the Congo are fabulously rich—there was bound to be a counter-move in which, as reported from Katanga, many "white mercenaries" participated.

Doubtless these are some former Belgian officers who were acquainted intimately with the Congo and who are risking their lives to back President Tshombe of Katanga.

The United Nations didn't concern itself with the theft of property from owners who had developed the mines with borrowed capital. The United Nations seems to be swayed by the emotional outbursts about "colonialism" which unhappily takes no account of the lack of training of half-civilized peoples to set up a government that will protect individual rights.

It looks now as if the United Nations will have to take a second look at recent events. Is it to be a superstate? If so, the Communists are prepared to take control of the whole U.N. organization.

The Congo mess is the result of a failure to adhere to basic principles—to insist that self-government shall not be granted to "colonies" that are unable to govern themselves, and to make sure that when "colonialism" is abolished there is a real regard for property as well as human rights.

The Congo isn't ready as yet for self-government, but inasmuch as the Belgian government has withdrawn of its own accord, it is up to the Congolese to fight their own battles. If the United Nations has any function there, it is to keep meddling foreigners out—including the Communists.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Athletes Need Nourishment Before, During Contest

The venerable Archie Moore goes on winning big matches long past the age when, sports experts say, a professional boxer should retire. Archie thinks for himself, regardless of what the experts believe. For instance, shortly before he goes into the ring for a big bout, Archie puts away a hearty steak, dinner.

I do not mean to imply that a steak dinner just before the contest would enable the athlete to give a better performance. I do maintain that fasting for hours before a hard bout, race or game may lower the peak of the athlete's proficiency.

The psyslology of this is new knowledge, and therefore old time trainers, coaches, sports writers and even doctors generally refuse to recognize it as a principle of practice and stick obstinately to 19th century concepts and customs.

A familiar expression in the broadcasting of a boxing match is that one or the other contestant, after an impressive performance in the early rounds, seems to be "running out of gas."

It would be nearer the truth to say the contestant is running out of sugar — dextrose, glucose, blood sugar, that is.

All carbohydrate food or fuel (any and all kinds of sugar or starch), which supplies most of the energy (calories) required to do the work of the muscles — voluntary skeletal muscles and involuntary heart, artery, stomach and intestinal muscle — has to be converted into dextrose, glucose, blood sugar before the body can use (burn, oxidize) it as a source of energy.

In the healthy person there is a constant level of sugar in the blood — approximately 0.07 to 0.12 per cent, or perhaps two teaspoonful in the entire volume of blood in the body. (Slightly less than a gallon of blood in a person weighing 150 pounds.)

Immediate source of glucose (dextrose) for the blood is the glycogen or "animal starch," the form in which food sugars and starches are stored in the liver and muscles. If the level of sugar in the blood falls even slightly below 0.07 per cent, the individual becomes very weak, shaky, likely to suffer a lapse of consciousness or a blackout, obviously easy to knock out.

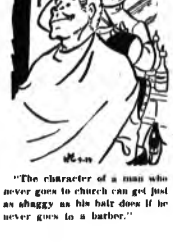

It's high time to discard 19th century monkeyshines and give athletes the benefit of new knowledge.

Our union leaders may be bullies, as you say, but if they weren't— do you think we would have such things as, seniority rights, pensions safety rules, etc.? Do you think employers would have done these things if they were asked politely—or maybe out of the goodness of their hearts?

Can you imagine no seniority rights?

'Foreign Aid Plan Leads to Tragedy'

The pressure on Congress to pass the aid program passes understanding. It comes from the foreign legations in Washington. It comes from foreign diplomats and potentates who visit Washington. It comes from the leftist press which seeks a welfare state and world socialism. It comes from those Americans who profit by the program. And it comes from the White House.

Only the American people oppose the foreign hand-out program. Unless the American people make their will known, nothing but tragedy lies ahead.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Compliment Club Benefits Many

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE K-402: Alberta Hutton, of Freeport, Pennsylvania, is a talented school teacher who goes beyond the call of duty.

"Two years ago," she says, "I had 34 pupils in the 6th grade. I started the compliment club in my room and 8 pupils finished the 30-day experiment.

DR. CRANE

"Last year there were 13 who completed it. And this past term 17 pupils in my room merited their diplomas for having successfully concluded the full 30-day project.

"Needless to say, I have a grand groups of pupils this year. Your compliment club brings happiness to many people."

DOUBLE ACTION

This compliment club simply puts the Golden Rule into effective daily action. It diverts your attention from your own aches and pains or selfish, introvertive thinking.

For you must analyse your companions as you look for virtues on which to pay them sincere compliments.

To merit the signed diploma, you just pay a compliment to each of three people every day for 30 consecutive days.

Shy, timid folks who get tongue-tied soon become more at ease and can start conversations easily after trying the compliment club for a few weeks.

So it not only helps you busy up the morale of deserving folks around you, but improves your own personality. That's double action of the right sort.

Not only is this experiment an ideal project for schools, but it is also excellent for church organizations, Scouts and Camp Fire Girls.

GIRL SCOUT PROJECT

Mrs. H. S. Hollar, of Anderson, Indiana, has long been a sponsor of the Girl Scouts.

"Our Girl Scout Troop No. 220," she informed me recently, "would like to join your compliment club.

"We have 9 girls, aged 11 years, and 8 of them have already completed the 30-day project.

"They were very enthusiastic. Each girl has gained a rich inner experience from it. We are coordinating the compliment club experiment with their Hospitality Badge.

"Dr. Crane, you may remember that several years ago I used the compliment club with my older daughter's troop.

"And she still speaks of it as one of the most helpful experiences that scouting gave her.

BANISH STAGE FRIGHT

Many grown men and women are still such victims of stage fright that they can't speak in public and are poor conversationalists, even on a date.

The compliment club thus gives a child (or an adult) a running head start in social graces.

For it takes your attention off self, since you must concentrate on the folks around you in order to pick out a merit or virtue to praise.

Then it encourages you to speak to that other person though it be a casual acquaintance or even the stranger who sits beside you on a bus or train.

This early training in extroversion of attention will produce far more self-assurance and social poise all the rest of your life.

And the morale boost that you

offer deserving but often overlooked people around you, is a blessing in itself.

So send for the compliment club booklet, enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents. Get your family or social group started on it now.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4 cent stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Allegan Starts Murder Trial

Pierced Doll Admitted as Evidence in Young Stephen's Case

ALLEGAN (AP) — State police crime laboratory experts were called today to testify in the Allegan Circuit Court trial of James Stephen, 16, on a charge of murder.

A jury of 14 persons was chosen Monday to hear the case before Judge Raymond L. Smith.

At day's end, a doll, pierced with knitting needles to mark the path of seven bullets through the body of slain 11-year-old Carol Gee was among evidence on the desk of prosecutor Erwin L. Andrews. Andrews said the exhibit was necessary for better understanding of technical testimony by Dr. D. F. Glaser, a Kalamazoo pathologist.

The doctor testified his post mortem examination determined that Carol was struck first by two non-fatal bullets in the right hip and elbow.

A third slug, which struck the girl's back, severed her spinal cord and caused massive internal bleeding. It probably was the fatal shot, he said.

Carol was slain April 29 along with Margaret Chambers, 12, a playmate. Slugs from a .22 caliber rifle riddled them on a wooded, hilly dunes path just west of their rural Holland homes.

Stephen, a near-neighbor, is charged with murder in Carol's death. He claims a defense of insanity.

A statement to police alleges the safety device of his rifle was defective and the weapon fired by accident when he stumbled over a log. State police detective Charles F. Long testified to taking the youth's statement, which claimed the gun kept firing as Stephen ran toward the girl.

Do Tell Her to Forget Hobby and Fill In With Word Hubby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My wife is a crossword puzzle nut. That's the first thing she goes for in the newspaper, and heaven help anyone who bothers her while she is working a crossword puzzle.

She has worked books of crossword puzzles, and is always on the lookout for more. She even takes them to bed with her. If she gets stumped, her disposition is ruined. I can't even get a kiss from her until she finished her crossword puzzle. How does a husband buck competition like this? DOPE.

ABBY

DEAR DOPE: Only a big square would surrender to a lot of little squares. The five-letter word that should give a woman a feeling of complete achievement, satisfaction and pleasure, is HUBBY not HOBBY.

DEAR ABBY: I have a son six months old, and I want to take him for a hair-cut, but every time I mention it to a friend or relative they tell me not to because they say it will keep him from talking at an early age. Is this true? Also, how old do you think a baby boy should be before he gets his first hair cut?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: There is NO truth in the story that a hair-cut will deter a baby from talking at an early age. A baby boy should have his first hair-cut when he starts to look like a girl wearing boys' clothes.

DEAR ABBY: When my husband and I were married, I was a widow with two children, and he was a widower with three. We have been married four years now and I have adopted his children and he has adopted mine. We all have the same surname and are a very happy family.

My only problem is inquisitive friends who constantly ask, "Which children are yours and which are your husband's?" I am sometimes asked this in the presence of the children, and this puzzles them because they know they all belong to both of us. How should I handle this?

TONGUE-TIED

DEAR TONGUE-TIED: When faced with this rude question reply, "They are all OUR children." If the curious persist, call a halt to it by adding, "Why don't we skip it? It's not very important."

'Little Old Ladies' Obsolete

Political Crack May Backfire

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

When California Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk tried to tie the membership of the John Birch Society into a neat, laughable little package, he said it seemed to consist of "wealthy businessmen, retired military officers and little old ladies in tennis shoes."

He got his laugh with that incongruous assortment—but I'm just wondering if the laugh isn't going to backfire.

I've got a hunch an awful lot of older women, both in and out of the John Birch Society, are going to think Mosk's statement, while slyly clever, also was downright insulting.

Also, they may just wonder where he got his vision of "little old ladies in tennis shoes."

The "little old lady" is no more a part of this jet age world than the horse and buggy. Women today are living to a ripe old age—but age doesn't turn them into little old ladies.

As a group today's older women are an alert, informed, and active segment of the population. They run their own homes, drive their own cars, lead their own lives, make up their own minds. In fact, they are a hardy, self-reliant, independent breed.

WELL GROOMED

And you wouldn't catch any of them dead in tennis shoes! They dress in fashions up-to-the-minute, spend enough time in beauty shops to be well-groomed, and if there is anybody slopping around in tennis shoes—it's their daughters or granddaughters—not the "little old ladies" themselves.

A politician may get by with sneering at wealthy businessmen (they're a definite minority, since it takes a lot of brains and hard work to be successful at any line of work) or even at retired army officers because we never honor our military men unless we are in a fighting war.

But there are an awful lot of older women in the country who are going to resent that sneering "little old ladies in tennis shoes."

And there an awful lot of younger women who deeply admire the spirit and independence of today's older women who are going to resent it, too.

After all, we all hope to be around a long time—and none of us wants to think that anyone will ever refer to US as "little old ladies in tennis shoes."

Irregularities Often Determine Jaw

Teeth Can Shape Smile

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

A woman's smile has been sung about and written about perhaps more often than eyes, moon, June, and other romantic subjects. It doesn't take a genius to know that teeth play a leading role in the attractiveness of a smile.

If the teeth are dingy or crooked, or if there are spaces between them, this naturally makes a smile less beautiful. Also, not only do teeth affect your smile, but the contour of your face. For instance, they determine the pugnacious jaw and the receding chin.

STRAIGHTENS TEETH

Orthodontia is dentistry which deals with irregularity of teeth. An orthodontist is a dentist who specializes in straightening teeth. He diagnoses and corrects irregularities in teeth positions (such as widely spaced, crowded, protruding or twisted teeth) and jaw relationships which cause facial deformities.

After reviewing a patient's medical and dental history, the orthodontist carefully studies the face and mouth with extensive X rays, photographs and plaster casts. He then decides which teeth must be repositioned. On rare occasions he may decide to pull some teeth, although some dentists object to extracting sound teeth for any purpose.

This repositioning is accomplished by metal and wire appliances called braces. These exert gentle, constant pressure to bring the teeth into proper alignment. The bony structure in which the teeth are imbedded is not inflexible.

The length of time the correction of such tooth defects takes depends on many factors, the complexity of the problem, age, and the cooperation of the patient.

This skill is a wonderful boon to those who need it. It is one of today's miracles. The difference in appearance, as well as personality, is often dramatic.

The beauty of a smile and the shape of your face depends upon good teeth, which are available to everybody these days. It doesn't take a genius to know that teeth not only affect your smile, but the contour of your face.

Speak Wedding Vows

In a candlelight ceremony at the Nardin Park Methodist Church, Detroit, Lynn Patricia Summers exchanged wedding vows with Rodney E. Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Evans of Dover Road, Waterford Township.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Summers of Detroit and wore bell-shaped ivory peau de soie with chapel train for the Sept. 9 nuptials.

After a wedding trip to Florida, the couple will live in East Lansing where the bridegroom will do graduate work at Michigan State University.

Honeymoon in East

The former Nancy Elizabeth Wright is the daughter of the Donald R. Wrights of Lowell Street. The bridegroom's parents are the Joseph Pfeffers of Elizabeth Lake Road. Rev. James Hayes officiated at the Saturday vows in St. Michael Church.

In their sister's wedding party were Barbara Wright, maid of honor, with Mary Jo and Patricia Kessel as bridesmaids with the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Basil Gaffney. Butterscotch pompons complemented their dresses of peacock blue silk organza over taffeta.

On the esquire side were Robert Kessel, best man, with Thomas Wright and Richard Pfeffer, brothers of the bridal couple, ushering with Basil Gaffney.

For the wedding and evening reception in the Knights of Columbus Hall, Mrs. Wright chose toast lace over taffeta and Mrs. Pfeffer appeared in brown printed matte silk jersey. Both wore yellow cymbidium orchids.

Bouffant veiling held by a queen's crown of lace and pearls complemented the bridal gown of white silk organza appliqued with Alencon lace and styled with soft bustle and chapel train. A white orchid, stephanotis and ivy rested on the bride's white missal.

Opens Session With Devotional

The devotional program led by Mrs. Howard Marsh opened a luncheon meeting of the June group of First Presbyterian Church Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Gordon MacDougall in Waterford Township.

Mrs. Charles Galloway, Mrs. Marsh and Mrs. Hugh Archer assisted.

Mrs. Bessie Brown, social education and action chairman, gave a reading on "The Call of Christ."

The group plans participation in the Miracle Mile Birthday Fair and will have a benefit sale in October.

Guests were Mrs. T. C. McFetridge and Mrs. Rose Chase.

Miss Viola Morris Weds George T. Holsworth Jr.

The Nicholas Morrises of Oak Hill Street, parents of the former Viola Marie Morris, were hosts at a reception for some 400 guests in the First Federal Savings and Loan Association Building. The senior Holsworths are of Auburn Avenue.

Illusion veiling held by a satin circlet complemented traditional white satin with overskirt of Chantilly lace for the bride. She carried all-white rosebuds and carnations with ivy foliage.

Cynthia and Tamara Holsworth wearing white satin with pink velvet headbands, were flower girls.

Jack Johnston of Berkley was best man. Ushers were Thomas Buchanan, Paul Holsworth, David and Dale Willse.

Pink cymbidium orchids accented Mrs. Morris' blue silk linen jacket dress and aqua satin brocade for the mother of the bridegroom.

Bringing Up Baby

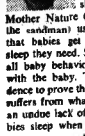

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

Do you ever worry about whether your baby gets enough sleep? Well, old Mother Nature (in cahoots with the sandman) usually sees to it that babies get the amount of sleep they need. Sleep habits, like all baby behavior patterns, vary with the baby. There is no evidence to prove that a wide-awaker suffers from what may seem like an undue lack of sleep. Most babies sleep when they're tired.

Quiet, please! Playing with baby, or letting him get over-stimulated just before bedtime, may put off baby's date with the sandman.

More, please! That's what baby's coo means when you offer tasty teaspoonfuls of Gerber Strained High Meat Dinners. Flavor galore, which comes from heaping helpings of succulent meat, flavor-crossed with selected vegetables. (3 times as much meat as regular vegetable and meat combinations.) As for the things that make baby thrive: Gerber High Meat Dinners are high in growth-promoting protein, offer a good source of niacin, an important B-vitamin.

Blanket statements. (1) Handy, out-of-sight, out-of-the-way storage place for baby's blankets: a towel rack attached to the inside of baby's closet. (2) When buying new crib blankets, buy two of the same size and color. When baby graduates to a big bed, stitch 'em together for a full-size comforter.

A pure treasure of eating pleasure and downright good nutrition, too, Gerber Strained Egg Yolks have a sunny yellow color, a yummy custard-y texture and a fresh-egg flavor that's hard to duplicate. As to nutrition, they're high in protein and rich in vitamin A and iron. Heat-sterilized, of course, for baby's protection. P.S. And don't forget Gerber Strained or Junior Egg Yolks and Ham. Gerber Baby Foods, Fremont, Michigan.

Cubs Beat Sub for Podres

Dodgers Lose, Trail by 4 Games

By The Associated Press

Thud!

The sound you just heard was the Los Angeles Dodgers falling four games behind the front-running Cincinnati Reds and quite possibly right out of the National League pennant picture.

Unable to put together a sustained drive in an attempt to overtake the Reds, the Dodgers had their latest win string snapped at four games Monday night when sixth inning home runs by former teammate Don Zimmer and George Altman gave the Chicago Cubs a 5-3 victory.

It was a critical loss for the Dodgers, three-down in the lost column with only 11 games to play, and reduced the idle Reds' magic number to seven to clinch their first pennant since 1940.

In other games, third-place San Francisco edged Milwaukee 3-2 on Orlando Cepeda's two-run homer in the ninth, and Pittsburgh beat St. Louis 8-6. The American League took a day off.

In order to rest a pitching staff, worn thin by constant juggling in the chase and depleted by the absence of Johnny Podres, at the bedside of his ailing father, the Dodgers started rookie right-hander Phil Ortega.

Ortega, who had given up two homers in two innings in his first stint since his recall from Spokane, added three more Monday night before departing after 5 1-3 innings with his first loss.

The bid to get by with Ortega against the seventh-place Cubs, losers of eight in a row, failed when Chicago starter Don Cardwell checked the Dodgers on four hits over the final eight innings and broke a personal six-game losing streak against Los Angeles.

Cardwell (14-12) gave up three runs in the first on Maury Wills' single, a walk to Wally Moon, Duke Snider's run-producing double and a two-run single by Norm Larker. Then he shut the door while his teammates scored all their runs on homers.

Ed Bouchee tied it with a three-run clout in the second. In the sixth, Zimmer led off with his 12th homer, and after Ernie Banks struck out, Altman chased Ortega with his 26th home run.

Cepeda's 41st homer, with Felipe Alou on base, gave reliever Stu Miller (13-4) the victory. The Giants won their ninth in 11 games and Milwaukee lost its seventh in a row. Bob Hendley (5-6) was the loser.

AFL Head to Rule on Alleged Slugging

DALLAS (AP) — Commissioner Joe Foss of the American Football League said he would rule today on whether Coach Buster Ramsey of Buffalo had struck Al Dorow, New York's quarterback, during a game at Buffalo.

But, added Foss, there will be no announcement from his office on what action was taken since there is a league rule that such information may not be revealed.

Ramsey, however, can tell what was done if he desires, Foss added.

Foss will be ruling from actual observation. He was in the press box at Buffalo at the time and Harry Wismer, owner of the New York Titans, protested to him personally.

formal complaint but Foss said this wasn't necessary. "Since I saw the incident there is no need for anybody making a written protest," said Foss.

Foss would not say what he had observed but from the way he talked it was indicated he didn't think the matter was very serious.

Parker Says He'll Quit Unless Steelers Win

PITTSBURGH (AP) — If the Pittsburgh Steelers don't win the Eastern Conference championship of the National Football League this year, they may be hunting for a new coach.

Coach Buddy Parker talked of quitting following the Steelers' frustrating last-second 27-24 loss to Dallas in the opening season game Sunday.

"I'm not going back if we don't win this year," Parker said Monday. "I mean it. My contract runs out at the end of the season and if I can't coach a winner, I'm not coming back."

Blooperball Champions

Lakeland Pharmacy's No. 2 team, managed by Bob Hollis, routed the VFW, 12-2, to win the Waterford Township Recreation Department's Blooperball League playoff championship and make a clean sweep of blooperball honors. Lakeland won the regular season title by defeating Marty's-Elmer's squad, then downed three straight foes to take the playoffs. The VFW, coached by Dick Molter, lost twice to the Pharmacy, 11-1 and 12-2, after beating the Whiskers, 8-3.

Former Central Gridder Coaches VII Corps Team

Former Pontiac Central gridder Lt. Bill McLarty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon McLarty of Ogemaw street, is coaching the VII Corps Jayhawk football team in Nellingen, Germany.

Lt. McLarty who was a lineman under coaches Here Renda and Ed Graybiel, played football at Eastern Michigan.

Living in Strausburg, Germany with his wife, former Ann Murphy of Royal Oak and son Sean, McLarty has coached the team for the past two years. He has another 1½ years to go on his present service assignment.

With 39 players on the team, the Jayhawks are one of the stronger teams in the VII corps league.

Pro Vikings Herald Young Quarterback

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) —The debut of the Minnesota Vikings professional football team is history, but the spectacular performance of rookie quarterback Francis Asbury Tarkenton is still being heralded.

The general question being asked around the state is, "Who is this Tarkenton kid who so capably led the Vikings to victory in his first professional game?"

"This Tarkenton kid" is a soft spoken mild-mannered Southern boy who played his college ball with the University of Georgia in much the same manner in which he broke into the big time in the Vikings' 37-13 conquest of the Chicago Bears Sunday.

The son of a Methodist minister in Athens, Ga., Tarkenton was named for the first Methodist bishop to come to America—Francis Asbury. He is a deeply religious boy who is quiet and retiring off the field, but transforms into a cunning, explosive football player when the game starts.

The 21-year-old signal-caller was best known at Georgia for his ability to move the team. One of his college coaches described Tarkenton as "the golden thread that weaves a pattern down the field to score."

FRANCIS TARKENTON
Viking Quarterback

Never known as an outstanding long passer Tarkenton was more respected for his short passing game and running ability.

Head coach Wallace Butts of Georgia said of his star, "Francis is the most effective medium-range passer I've seen in the conference. He's developing into a real dangerous runner and he's always been a great ball handler and play-caller."

Butts rates Tarkenton as a better all-around T-quarterback than either Johnny Rauch or Zeke Bratkowski, who both played at Georgia.

After his yeoman effort (17 pass completions in 23 tries for 250 yards and four touchdowns) against the Bears, all Tarkenton could say in the dressing room was: "My gosh, what a thrill!"

He drew praise from Minnesota Coach Norm Van Brocklin and Chicago Coach George Halas as well as other members of both teams for putting on what they called the greatest show a rookie quarterback has ever made in his pro debut.

Maris in Final Try

By the Associated Press

BALTIMORE (AP)—Roger Maris, with dame fortune and Lady Esther looming just as big as the determined Baltimore pitchers, resumes his chase of Babe Ruth's home run record tonight as the New York Yankees start a four-game series with the Orioles.

The magic number both for Maris and the Yanks is two. Rappin' Roger, with 58, is two short of the magic 60 that made Ruth baseball's all-time home run king in 1927. The Yanks, 10½ games ahead of the runner-up Detroit Tigers, need two victories (or two Detroit losses) to clinch their 26th American League pennant.

The second is inevitable. Whether Maris can do it remains the question of the year and "officially", it'll be answered before the Yanks leave town—providing that Hurricane Esther permits any baseball at all during the next couple days. The weatherman looks for possible heavy rain tonight if Esther continues at her current pace.

The schedule here calls for a twi-night doubleheader today, and single night games Wednesday and Thursday. Under Commissioner Ford Frick's ruling that Ruth's record can be matched or broken only within a limit of 154 team decisions, the first three games are all that are supposed to matter to Maris. Maris himself says he'll consider it a record if he hits 60 or 61, no matter how many games it takes.

If he matches or tops the record beyond 154 team decisions under the league's 162-game schedule, Frick says, Maris' mark will go into the record book accompanied by an asterik—denoting a record only for a season longer than the one in effect when Ruth hit his 60.

Esther permitting, the 154th Yankee team decision will be the third game of the current series.

So, Maris is faced with the task of hitting two or three in a ballpark notoriously reluctant to yield home runs and against a pitching staff that throws few gopher balls, particularly at home. In 75 home games, Baltimore pitchers have allowed only 42 home runs—by far the stingiest yield in the league.

Left-hander Steve Barber (16-11 with seven shutouts) and Skinny Brown, a knuckleballing right-hander with a 10-5 record, are scheduled to pitch tonight against the Yanks' Whitey Ford (24-3) and Bud Daley (11-17). Mile Pappas (12-8), a right-hander, is the scheduled pitcher on Wednesday.

Maris, oddly enough, seemed thoroughly relaxed Monday as the Yanks rested after flying here from Detroit.

"I slept well," he said, "but I always sleep well."

What about the ballpark?

"Sure this is a tough park, but if I'm swinging right, the ball will go out of here just like anywhere else."

Two Sophomore Backs May Lead Purdue Eleven

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Purdue's problematical Boilermakers might square a Big Ten football account against the University of Washington in a Saturday opener if two unusual sophomores deliver the goods against the Rose Bowl champion Huskies.

Coach Jack Mollenkopf, a confirmed realists in five previous Boilermaker head man seasons, surprisingly today indicated the two sophomores could handle key jobs in his twin-unit operations.

One is 18-year-old Ron Digravio from Weymouth, Mass., the team's best passer, who with junior Walter Zingg, also completely inexperienced, must replace the slick graduated signal-calling duo of Bernie Allen and Maury Guttman.

The other is 181-pound halfback Tom Boris of Presto, Pa., on whom Mollenkopf lavishes the compliment of being "potentially the best running back here in my time." Mollenkopf same to Purdue as an assistant in 1947.

Purdue lost 18 lettermen from the 1960 giant-killing team which ruined Minnesota's pre-Rose Bowl game bid for a perfect season and also knocked Ohio State out of a Big Ten title chance.

Yet, with a team minus such last season standouts as All-America tackle Jerry Beabout, guard Ron Maltony and center Phil Kardasz—not to mention Guttman and Allen—Mollenkopf talks about Saturday's opener against the Rose Bowl champion Huskies in Seattle with no fear in his heart.

"We're going to try to salvage something for the Big Ten against Washington," said Mollenkopf, referring to successive Rose Bowl defeats of Wisconsin and Minnesota by the Huskies.

"Our kids are ready to go right now," said Mollenkopf whose overall 4-4-1 record last year might have belonged to the best "even break" team in the nation.

Besides Washington, Purdue's slate bristles with challenges, in order, from: Notre Dame, Miami of Ohio, Michigan, Iowa, Illinois, Michigan State, Minnesota and Indiana.

Among 23 returning lettermen, Purdue has such key holdovers as fullback Tom Yakubowski (218), guards Stan Sczurek (218) and Tom Krysinski (207); tackle Don Brumm (218); ends Forest Farmer (211) and Jack Elwell (204); and halfbacks Dave Miller (175), Tom Bloom (178) and Bob Wiater (191).

World Records Set, Tied at Ohio Race

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — Air Medal, recent winner of the Governor's Cup at the Ohio State Fair, set one world's record and equalled another in capturing the Walnut Hall Farm Breeders Filly Stake for 3-year-old trotters as Grand Circuit harness racing got under way here Monday.

Air Medal, stablemate to the highly regarded Little Brown Jug hopeful, Lang Hanover, recorded miles of 2:02 4-5 and 2:02 1-5. The two heats combined for a world's record while the 2:02 1-5 equals the world mark shared by Yankee Lass and Lady Ann Reed.

Air Medal is owned by Samuel Huttenbauer of Cincinnati.

Winners will be decided in five groups and special contests will be held to break all regional and national ties.

Tigers, Yankees and Reds Show Top Attendance

NEW YORK (AP)—The Detroit Tigers, Cincinnati Reds and New York Yankees are the only big league ball clubs showing home attendance gains for 1961 as the season heads into its final two weeks.

The Tigers, who drew 126,306 paid for their three-day, four-game series with the Yankees completed Sunday, have pulled in a total of 1,594,098 customers for an increase of 426,000 over 1960.

The Yanks are up 67,000. They lead the American League in home attendance with 1,637,031. The Reds have attracted 1,022,400 fans and are 95,000 ahead of last year.

The Los Angeles Dodgers pace both leagues with 1,730,196, but they are 424,000 under their comparable 1960 figures.

The overall major league attendance is 18,063,187—a drop of 5 per cent from last season.

Casares will be lost to the Bears for at least two weeks. Rookie Bill Brown of Illinois is expected to replace him.

Jake Only Nine Whiffs Away From Record

Tigers Play Final 2 Home Games Needing 5,902 to top 1,600,000

From Our News Wires

DETROIT — Commissioner Ford Frick has put restrictions on Roger Maris in his assault on Babe Ruth's home run record. But what about poor Jake Wood's bid to stay out of baseball's record book?

The Detroit Tigers' rookie second baseman is on the threshold of becoming the major league's all-time strikeout king. Eight more whiffs and Jake will tie the record of 138 strikeouts set by Jim Lemon of the Washington Senators in 1956.

Frick has proclaimed Maris, if he is to get official record recognition, must hit 60 or more home runs in 154 decisions by the New York Yankees. Maris has three games left to tie or equal Ruth's historic mark. Under the commissioner's ruling, tie games will be included in Maris' bid to become the new bambino.

But Frick has been silent about Wood.

The Tigers, like the Yankees, also have had a tie, giving Wood an extra game. It means the Tigers will play 163 games this season under the new expansion schedule.

Now what happens if Wood breaks Lemon's record after the Tigers have played 155 games? Is he the record holder, or not?

Going on the gauge Frick set up for Maris, Wood seems fairly safe right now from entering the record book.

The Tigers meet the Los Angeles Angels in Tiger Stadium today and die-hard fans may have their choice of seats.

The Tigers announced yesterday after a session with the adding machines that if 5,902 Tiger-watchers show up today and tomorrow, the final two home games of 1961, they will reach the 1,600,000 mark.

With 12 games left there isn't much to attract the fans except idle curiosity, Indian summer sunshine and Tiger manager Bob Scheffing's announced intention of attempting to win 100 games this year.

The Tigers have won 91 and Scheffing has named Don Mossi (14-7) to go after 92. Ken McBride (12-13) will start for the Angels.

The Tiger management has already started printing next year's literature with second place firmly attached to the Bengals. Their only challenge was Baltimore and the Orioles meet the Yankees, remember, six more times. Detroit now has 3½ games over Baltimore and is 10½ behind New York, and the magic number, if anyone cares, is two.

The Tigers close out their season with three games at Los Angeles, four in Kansas City and three in Minnesota, closing Oct. 1.

Along the way the squad has tickets for the Missouri-Minnesota football game Sept. 30 in Minneapolis and could take in the Chicago Bear-Los Angeles Ram pro game on the coast.

Business and Finance

Market Finds No Momentum

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market moved unevenly in moderately active trading early today.

Gains and losses of key stocks were confined mostly within a 1-point range.

No momentum seemed to be left over from the recovery movement which came late Monday in the wake of a sharp decline on news of the death of Dag Hammarskjold, U. N. secretary general. The political uncertainty resulting from his death continued to overhang the market.

Some of the tobaccos and mail order-retail issues made small gains. Coppers were unchanged to lower, Anaconda losing a point or more, possibly in a continued reaction to the cut in prices for copper scrap.

Although U. S. Steel was firm, other major steelmakers were unchanged to easy following the weekly report of steel operations which have held steady pending the outcome of General Motors' labor difficulties.

Honolulu Oil, after easing at the start, pushed forward another point to add to Monday's runup. Lockheed declined fractionally as it continued depressed by Sunday's crash of another Electra plane.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange. Fairchild Camera was up about a point while Loral Electronics and Edo Corp. "A" gained fractions. Slight losses were shown by Russeks Fifth Avenue, Aerojet-General and Mead Johnson.

Fallout Rises to Record Highs

Nation's Capital, Other Eastern and Northern Cities Note Upswing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Radioactive fallout, borne on cold winds from Russia's Arctic proving ground, has risen to a record high in the nation's capital and some other northern and eastern cities.

But the Public Health Service said the new levels, recorded over the weekend, posed no health threat unless sustained over "a long period of time." It didn't say how long that would be.

Health service officials announced the record radiation figures Monday, after Russia touched off its 13th fallout-producing nuclear device. It was equal to about one megaton — a million tons of TNT.

Radiation over the weekend surpassed the high set in 1958 in Washington, D.C.; Hartford, Conn.; Indianapolis, Ind.; Baltimore, Md.; Lansing, Mich.; Trenton, N.J.; Albany, N.Y.; Gastonia, N.C.; Harrisburg, Pa.; Columbia, S.C., and Richmond, Va.

But in many other cities, radiation remained infinitesimal compared to the 1958 readings, when both the United States and Russia were testing above ground.

Public Hearings Crowd City Commission Agenda

Ten public hearings and reports make up the bulk of tonight's City Commission meeting agenda.

Five reports will be heard from the City Planning Commission concerning vacating of properties to make way for expansion of the proposed Glenwood Shopping Plaza on Glenwood Avenue near Perry Street.

They had been held up last week until proper legal descriptions of the property to be vacated could be prepared.

The commission will also hold hearings on intent to repair sidewalks on the corner of Jessie and Willard streets and on both sides of Hopkins Street, from Baldwin west to the first intersecting alley.

Two other hearings are for curb and gutter work on Steinbaugh Court, Augusta to State; and black topping of Manitou Road, Navajo to Ottawa Drive.

One hearing on a special assessment roll will be held. This is for a water main in Home Street.

Rolls are to be confirmed for street repairs and curb and gutter construction on Monticello Avenue, Oakland to Orlando; and Howard McNeill Street, Gillespie to Warner.

Commissioners will also hear the introduction and first reading of the zoning ordinances. The first concerns land to be rezoned from residential to commercial for expansion of the Glenwood Shopping Plaza.

The second is a lot at 659 Joslyn Ave. to be rezoned from residential to commercial for use as a parking lot.

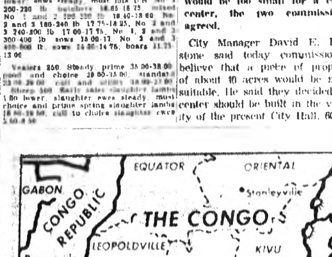

City Engineer James Carlisle will present estimates for proposed sidewalk construction on Inglewood Avenue, Oakland to Monticello, and on the north side of East Wilson Street, from lot 251 to 267.

Troy Officials Drop Possible Center Site

Troy's City Commission and Plan Commission in a joint meeting last night ruled out a 28-acre tract of land on Rochester Road as a future site for a new civic center.

The Rochester Road site, where the city's Department of Public Works Building is located, would be too small for a civic center, the two commissions agreed.

City Manager David E. Firestone said today commissioners believe that a piece of property of about 40 acres would be more suitable. He said they decided the center should be built in the vicinity of the present City Hall, 60 W.

JFK to Decide on Defense Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Senate Preparedness subcommittee said today President Kennedy will reach major decisions in the next few weeks on the rate and speed of the defense program and the development of new weapons.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., told newsmen after a White House visit, the decisions may come even sooner. He indicated they would involve such things as additional B52 bombers, missiles and expanded research and development.

Stennis and other members of the subcommittee visited Kennedy to report on closed-door hearings they have been conducting on the status of the defense program.

Circuit Court Trial Delayed

2 Charged With Theft Here Given Time to Hire Attorney

Two accused holdup men, ready to be arraigned in Circuit Court yesterday before Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland, asked and received a week's postponement in order to raise funds to hire attorneys.

Scheduled to appear again before Judge Holland Sept. 25 are Robert H. Hills, of 278 Oakland Ave., and William T. Yoho, 51, of Dearborn.

Both, along with a third man who will be sentenced Sept. 26, are accused of the $1,650 holdup of the Food Town Market, 1200 Baldwin Ave., on Aug. 17.

Two other men, believed part of a safecracking ring uncovered during investigation of the supermarket robbery, stood mute Monday when arraigned before Judge Holland.

No dates were set for the trials of Clayton Knephler, 49, of 20 N. Edith St., charged with possession of burglary tools, or Lloyd A. Stearns, 32, of 39 Clark St., charged with possession of burglary tools, safe robbery and breaking and entering.

Let Voters Decide, Newburgh Chief Says

NEW YORK (UPI) — Newburgh City Manager Joseph M. Mitchell, in a stinging indictment of the state welfare laws, Monday declared that welfare problems should be decided by the voters and not by "social theorists or social philosophers."

In a speech before the Young Americans for Freedom, the creator of Newburgh's controversial welfare plan said local welfare policies should be controlled by elected officials on the local level.

By placing the administration of public welfare at the local level, Mitchell said, the wishes of the people of each area will be heeded, "be these wishes radical welfare or conservative welfare."

JFK Nominates McCree for U.S. District Judge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy Monday nominated Wade Hampton McCree Jr., a Negro, to be a U.S. District judge for Eastern Michigan.

McCree, a Democrat who lives in Detroit, is the second Negro to be named by Kennedy to a lifetime term as a federal district judge. The position carries an annual salary of $22,250.

The nominee, 41, has been a Wayne County circuit judge since 1954. He was graduated from Fisk University in 1941 and from the Harvard Law School in 1948. He is a native of Des Moines, Iowa.

The position to which he was named, subject to Senate confirmation, is one of 63 new district judgeships created by Congress this year.

Lyle, Balden, Lovell Top List

GOP Chairman's Post Gets Attention

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

Search for a successor to Republican County Chairman Arthur G. Elliott Jr. will probably end next week.

There are apparently three likely candidates for the nonpaying job being relinquished by Elliott, 44-year-old Royal Oak realtor.

Rumored to be the top contenders are Charles L. Lyle, 18890 Hillcrest St., Beverly Hills; Alvin R. Balden, 12732 Elgin Road, Huntington Woods; and Malcolm R. Lovell, 2748 Amberly Road, Bloomfield Township.

Elliott is known to be sending letters to the 26 members of the executive committee of the county party, which ultimately must name the new chairman, setting up a meeting for next week to discuss the candidates.

SPECULATION ONLY

Speculation on who is to follow Elliott is mandatory as the four-person screening committee, made up of the four Oakland members of the GOP State Central Committee, has clamped a tight lid on their activities.

All one member would admit after a luncheon meeting at a Detroit cafe with Elliott yesterday was that there are "approximately three" candidates.

The committee of James F. Preish, Royal Oak; Gordon T. Getsinger, Bloomfield Township, and Mrs. Jean Lowry and Mrs. Betty Finegan, both of Birmingham, has fallen considerably behind Elliott's deadline of Sept. 1 when he asked that his successor be named.

He hoped to be relieved of his time-consuming duties, which he began in 1957, so he could prepare for his role as a constitutional convention delegate and get his business in shape before he left for Lansing.

"It hasn't been a question of not being able to find a successor," said Mrs. Lowry. "Rather, we haven't been able to get together and Art's been busy on the election."

Once considered a likely candidate, Mrs. Finegan, a housewife and member of the resolutions committee of the 1960 GOP National Convention, has taken herself out of the race, Mrs. Lowry said.

To Urge Home Rule at State Con-Con

A change in Michigan's constitution allowing county home rule will be recommended by the Oakland County Board of Supervisors when state constitution convention representatives meet in Lansing next month.

This course was resolved by the board of supervisors yesterday at the recommendation of its legislative committee.

Committee Chairman John G. Semann urged the board's recommendation after a proposed "home rule" amendment to the present state constitution failed to materialize.

The amendment, sought soley by Oakland County, died in the hopper at Lansing this year.

Semann stressed that provisions for county home rule should be written in the constitution in such a manner that adoption is not compulsory for the various counties.

The provision would enable counties to adopt a home rule charter only if they so choose, providing two-thirds of the board of supervisors and 60 per cent of the voting public approves the measure.

As being sought by the board of supervisors, the charter would permit that body to fill many of the county offices by appointment rather than through election.

Exempt by state law would be election of circuit judges.

Home rule also would grant charcharter officers the power to administer and execute general state charter officers the power to administer and execute general state services and functions in the county, acting as an agency of the state government.

HAROLD JULIEN

Job Dangerous, Says Survivor

Lone Man Who Lives After Crash With Dag Had Written Parents

MALDEN, Mass. (UPI)—Harold Julien, 36, sole survivor of the plane crash that killed United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, wrote his parents that his mission in the Congo was the "most dangerous job I have ever had. And that includes the war."

Julien, a United Nations security guard, had written his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Julien, little about his work.

"It was all very secret," Mrs. Julien said Monday night. "We never did hear too much from him on the details of his job."

Marcel Julien, who owns a diner, his wife Helen and their daughter Donna, 13, Monday night awaited official notification of the condition of Harold Julien.

WAITING AND PRAYING

"We are waiting . . . and praying that he is all right," said the elder Julien.

"We last saw our son a year ago last Christmas," said Mrs. Julien. She said he had planned to return to the United States for a visit Sept. 15-20.

Their son, a native of Brooklyn, N.Y., made his home in Miami, Fla., with his wife and two sons.

His last letter to his parents was dated Sept. 4 and read in part.

"Things seem to be popping all over the world. So who can say where I might go after the Congo, and for that matter this deal is far from ended here because Katanga is still giving trouble and without that part of the Congo there just is no Congo."

THE CHAIR IS EMPTY — The seat usually occupied by U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold in the Security Council was vacant Monday as members of the Security Council meet in a closed session to consider steps to be taken to replace Hammarskjold. Rusk, Gromyko to Discuss Issue

Seek to Keep U.N. Operating

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk and ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson worked urgently behind the scenes today to keep the United Nations from being paralyzed by the Soviet Union on appointment of a successor to Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold.

Rusk was due to hold his first meeting here with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko this afternoon when the U.N. General Assembly begins its annual session. He wanted to talk with Gromyko about the crisis created by Hammarskjold's death as well as the Berlin crisis, which they have agreed to discuss.

CHANCES CALLED SLIM

Western diplomats saw little chance the Soviet government would agree to work with Allied and neutral nations in choosing a new secretary general speedily. Conversations are therefore underway, they reported, to find some means of Assembly action to temporarily bypass the veto power which the Soviet Union can use in the Security Council to block any new appointment.

In the view of Rusk and other Western leaders here the situation is little short of desperate. Without an administrative head the secretariat, which is the action arm of the world organization, cannot function effectively much longer. This is particularly true in the strife-torn Congo, where a breakdown of U.N. authority would probably result in civil war in which the great powers might become engaged.

Disorganization of the U.N. machinery is assumed by U.S. leaders to be Moscow's goal. They are deeply worried about the worldwide dangers of a prolonged dispute over the issue.

PROCESS OF SELECTION

Under the U.N. charter, a new secretary general must be chosen by the General Assembly upon the recommendation of the Security Council. Like the other big powers, the Soviet Union has a veto in the Security Council. It opposes a single secretary general. A year ago Premier Khrushchev personally led a fight to replace Hammarskjold with a three-man board.

A few hours after news of Hammarskjold's death reached here Monday Khrushchev's deputy foreign minister, Valerian Zorin, gave clear indication that the policy has not changed. At an informal meeting of the Security Council Zorin objected strenuously to describing Hammarskjold in a public statement on his death as "secretary general."

Astonished members of the council, including Stevenson, assailed Zorin's stand and he finally modified his objection. But the statement as issued contained a sentence at the end noting the Soviet reservation about any reference to Hammarskjold as secretary general.

Sheriff Indicted for Embezzling; Was Bataan Hero

GOLDEN, Colo. (UPI) — Sheriff Art Wermuth, Jefferson County, Colo., known as "The One-Man Army of Batan," was indicted Monday by a county grand jury for embezzlement, false pretenses and conversion of public funds to private use.

The stocky, high-tempered sheriff of this Denver suburb had been the object of a months-long investigation by the statutory grand jury, which began its probe in early summer.

Warrants were served on Wermuth at mid-morning by County Coroner Ken Raynie. Bond was set at $1,000 on each of the four counts, two of them covering the alleged embezzlement.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army put in a rush order Monday for armored troop-carrying vehicles to meet its urgent requirements, presumably in Germany.

Truckers Name Holland Officer New President

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Holland trucking executive Charles Cooper is the new president of the Michigan Truckers' Association.

He was named at the organization's annual convention Monday succeeding Philip Lewis, Grand Rapids, who becomes chairman of the board of directors.

About 150 association members earlier heard Gov. John B. Swainson hail Michigan's freeway system as "the finest toll-free highway system in the land." Swainson said Michigan was completing its share of the interstate system at a rate nearly twice that of the national average.

Other officers named to association posts were:

Donald C. Hayden, Dearborn, first vice president; J. Herman Fles, Grand Rapids, second vice president; Harold D. Doyle, Saginaw, treasurer, and Robert J. Duffey, Monroe, secretary.

"It's for that man who helps us if a big storm hits," he said.

"What's his name?" asked Randy's mother.

"I think it's Red."

"What his last name?" Cross?

"Yep, that's it. Red Cross."

Couple to Marry Again; Honeymoon in Israel

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Billy Rose and Joyce Mathews are serious about it this time, and so any week now, Billy's expected to marry the blond beauty who's already been his wife once.

WILSON

They recently had an almost ecstatic tour of Scotland and Ireland. Then Joyce went on to Switzerland, where her daughter, Vicki Berle, is in School. It appears that the first honeymoon of their second marriage will start this month — in London — and move to Israel in mid-October. (All Billy will say now is a gallant, "I'm terribly fond of the lady.")

Ava Gardner was with five escorts at the Chateau Madrid at midnight — and one escort at Birdland at 3 A.M. (The word's around: "Ava's switched from bullfighters to baseball players") . . .

Dick Powell and June Allyson seem to be flying together and parking together when they travel while Dick promotes his new TV show, so the reconciliation is complete and they're happy about it.

SHIRLEY

Several hoodlums — and several actors — were invited the other night to a preview of a much-publicized new movie. One comment later was: "The hoodlums looked like actors, and the actors looked like hoodlums" . . . Groucho Marx claims he resents G.E.'s announcement that he'll play his first serious role (a lawyer) in one of their TV shows. "Some of my best comedy tries," he says, "turned out to be serious roles" . . .

Ex-waitress Shirley Bassey, England's sultriest singer, only 23, a product of Cardiff, Wales, is a smash hit at the Plaza Persian room. Shirley's got everybody important coming to the Plaza to listen "the new weapon"—Shirley, the new star. Shirley's married (for the second time) to British TV director, Kenneth Hume.

King's Monologues Seem Out of Place

BY FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI)—It happens every year: A comic scores with good monologues as a guest star on the big-time variety shows and, faster than you can say George Gobel, is packaged.

It was Alan King's turn last night to tuck in his end flaps and show us his package. King turned up on CBS-TV with a pilot film for what he and executive producer Bob Banner hope will be the initial impetus for a high-rated, sponsored, long-running comedy series. They should live so long.

The package? King portrays a harried father who lives in the suburbs of New York City with his wife and two small boys. Don't you wonder how come nobody ever thought of that one before?

The plot? Wife decides hubby needs a weekend vacation because she wants to get out of the kitchen. Off they go, with the kids. The resort the wife leads hubby and kiddies to turns out to be a nudist colony. Daunted, all hands move on to a glittering, expensive resort hotel nearby. Kids catch measles. End of vacation. Hubby and wife, at home recalling the fiasco, clinch. End of show.

King used this flabby story by Arnie Rosen and Coleman Jacoby to bounce one-line gags off his family of straight men. And when he tired of roaring punch lines at the wife and children, King would turn to the viewer to unleash a few more gags about suburbia, kids, milkmen, lady drivers, lawn care and vacations.

While I usually enjoy King's monologues, I can't see that his material improves or lends itself to being acted out with a full cast of characters. George Burns, you will recall, tried this approach on TV and couldn't bring it off, and Burns had more going for him.

Denise Lor portrayed King's wife last night and again proved to be a cute comedienne. On balance, let's just say that King's package was tied together too tritely.

DIALING AND FILING: Both CBS and NBC aired news specials Monday night that dealt with the death of U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold. The highlight of the NBC program was Pauline Frederick's biting analysis, during which she said that the U.S.S.R. now will see to it that another Hammarskjold never again emerges at the U.N.

"Expedition" launched its second season on ABC-TV Monday night with a fine story about a wild game hunt in Africa. One gripping scene showed the hunter being bowled over by a charging lion.

Siamese Twins Are Doing Well in Pennsylvania

READING, Pa. (AP)—Twin girls joined at the head were born at Reading Hospital Monday, physicians reported. The hospital said delivery was normal and the infants were doing well.

The combined weight at delivery was 9 pounds 4 ounces.

The hospital said the girls were born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schappell of Hamburg R.D. 2. The Schappell's have three other children whose births were normal.

Physicians are scheduled to confer later today on the possibility of separating the infants.

Arrives in Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak arrived in Moscow Monday night for talks with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

The former secretary general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization declined to say what he and the Soviet Premier would discuss.

Be Interested in Others in Order to Stay Young

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"The best way to stay young," said Fredric March, "is to regard the world as a workshop."

BOYLE

At 64, March, still physically trim and one of the handsomest men in show business, has no desire to sit in a front porch rocker waiting for Uncle Sam to send him his Social Security check.

Neither he nor his wife, Florence Eldridge—for a generation they've been one of the Nation's best known theatrical couples—plans retirement, or regards it as a rainbow blessing.

"Maybe the youngsters have time to daydream about retiring," said March. "But not us.

"We're tapering off a little, but we both feel that if we don't keep growing by trying new things we'll vegetate—and that is no existence.

"I feel sorry for business men who are retired automatically. To have to close your desk on your 65th birthday, when you are really the same you were the day before—that is tragic.

"It is better to taper off, to let go gradually."

HAS NEW ROLE

It is hard to see where March is tapering off. Winner of two Academy awards, he recently completed his 65th film, "The Young Doctors." He is now rehearsing for a role in the new Broadway play, "Gideon," which may be his 41st or 101st stage vehicle.

"I'm not sure which it is," he said. "I never kept track of them."

March switched to acting after he found a youthful career as an embryo bank executive stultifying. An attack of appendicitis gave him the leisure, while recuperating, to decide to gamble on a life in the theater.

It proved a rewarding choice in more ways than one. As a film matinee idol March played against most of the top feminine stars of his time, ranging from Clara Bow to Tallulah Bankhead, Greta Garbo and Kim Novak.

As long ago as 1937 the U.S. Treasury listed him as the fifth top-salaried man in the nation. He got $484,687 that year.

His 40-plus years in the entertainment field have given March some theories on survival.

BE INTERESTED

"To last you have to keep healthy in body and mentally alive," he observed. "You have to keep interested in other people, and to remember that you are no bigger an actor than you are a person.

"I think it's unwise if you become too involved in just the amusement world. You warp yourself as a person if you do. That is a pitfall to avoid.

"The more interested you become in others the better you become in your own job."

The boredom and ennui that afflict some actors hasn't touched March, and he doubts that it ever will.

"There's really not much boredom in this business, if you take it seriously," he said.

"But you come to life with each new role. I think it helps keep you younger, too, because often you play someone younger than yourself—and to act younger you have to feel younger.

"It may also be because acting gives you a chance to get away from yourself and your own problems. When you play another personality, you shed your own troubles and frustrations, at least to a degree.

"Acting can be a very healthy life. Many actors live to be quite old, and as for actresses—well, they seem to last forever."
