Steel Price Hikes Threaten Consumer Costs

Vance, Cyprus Chief Chip at Stalemate

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — U.S. presidential envoy Cyrus Vance worked urgently today to overcome the Cyprus government's opposition to the accord to keep Greece and Turkey from war over the island.

But signs grew that Cypriot President Makarios, backed by his cabinet, was raising unexpectedly strong resistance to the plan already agreed on by Greece and Turkey.

Thinking his work done, Vance had flown as far toward home as Frankfurt, West Germany, but turned back to the Mediterranean yesterday after learning of a last-minute snag in the plan, U.S. sources said.

He met with Makarios for three hours, until 2 a.m. today, and then resumed the talks at 9:30. Two hours later, U.S. Ambassador Taylor Belcher, his face set and unsmiling, hurried from the presidential palace to the U.S. Embassy and back and indicated no break in the stalemate was in sight.

Although Vance would not reveal what was causing the holdup, diplomatic sources at the United Nations in New York indicated Makarios had upset the peace package by seeking to place his own interpretation on its terms.

MAJOR POINT

The main point of the Vance proposals — withdrawal of the estimated 12,000 Greek troops on the island — is widely regarded by the Greek Cypriot public as a surrender to Turkish demands and a betrayal by Greece's military dictatorship of the idea of union of Cyprus and Greece.

Makarios is said to have accepted the withdrawal but is balking at several other points unless he gets an unconditional guarantee that Turkey will never again threaten a Cyprus invasion.

NEW TALKS BEGIN — U.S. envoy Cyrus Vance is welcomed by Cyprus President Archbishop Makarios at the presidential palace in Nicosia last night in an unexpected conference to iron out apparent snags in plans to avert a Greek-Turkish war over Cyprus.

Club Members Are Newsboys to Help Needy

Pontiac policemen, firemen and mailmen assumed the role of newsboys today for the annual Goodfellow sale of The Pontiac Press.

They picked up some 2,000 special editions early this afternoon and headed for busy intersections and shopping areas, where the papers went on sale for the price of any donation.

All funds brought in by the Metropolitan Club members go to charity — specifically to the purchase of clothing and fuel for underprivileged families.

Theme of the sale is "Help the needy have a merry Christmas."

★ ★ ★

Lt. William Nesbitt of the Pontiac Police Department, chairman of the drive, said this year's goal is $3,000.

★ ★ ★

"We're going to concentrate on well-traveled areas such as downtown shopping centers and malls," he explained, "in an effort to coincide with the holiday shopping that's getting under way."

MAIL CONTRIBUTIONS

He added that persons who wish to make a contribution, but fail to get one of the special editions, may mail donations to the police department, care of "Goodfellows."

This is the 39th year Pontiac Goodfellows have conducted the sales for assistance to needy families.

Increases Seen if U.S. Steel's Move Spreads

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A new round of steel price hikes — now under study could quickly add to consumer costs on a wide range of products.

Pressure to increase prices on items from autos to toasters would be added if a price increase announced by U.S. Steel Corp. spread through the industry.

The country's largest steelmaker posted a $5-a-ton increase yesterday on two grades of steel sheets.

Other producers said they were studying the move. Such increases generally have spread throughout the industry in recent years.

★ ★ ★

Price increases on some steel products, like railroad car wheels and heavy construction materials, take a long time reaching the pocketbooks of the average person. But boosts on sheets, which are used in consumer products, can be readily felt in the marketplace.

Steel sheets are a big item in auto making, and even before the U.S. Steel move, there was speculation in Detroit about the possibility of an auto price hike early next year.

New and more costly contracts won by the United Auto Workers union, plus federal regulations making auto shoulder harnesses mandatory on Jan. 1, are exerting pressure for higher car prices.

However, General Motors and the Ford Motor Co. said they would have to wait until the situation settles before saying if the U.S. Steel action will affect car prices.

General Electric said the move will add cost to its production of appliances, but said it couldn't determine immediately if it could absorb the cost itself.

★ ★ ★

President Johnson's chief economic adviser said today the latest steel price increase "represents another turn in the price-wage spiral." He called for "a return to more responsible behavior on wages and prices by both labor and management."

Gardner Ackley, chairman of Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers, said he did not know whether U.S. Steel's price move would be followed by other producers of sheet steel.

"I urge each company," he said, "to carefully consider the interests of the industry and the nation before it makes its decision."

Ackley unleashed sharp criticism last summer when the price of steel bars went up 1.8 per cent.

Mixed Weather in Store for Area Over the Weekend

Pontiac area residents are in for mixed weather over the weekend: a little rain, some drizzle and cooler temperatures with snow flurries.

★ ★ ★

The U.S. Weather Bureau forecasts the following day-by-day report:

TODAY — Cloudy and cool with occasional light rain and drizzle possibly briefly mixed with freezing drizzle early today. High 35 to 39.

★ ★ ★

Cloudy and turning a little cooler tonight with a chance of a few flurries. Low 26 to 32.

★ ★ ★

Southerly morning winds at five to 15 miles per hour will become northeasterly tonight.

TOMORROW — Cloudy and cool with a chance of a few snow flurries.

MONDAY — Partly cloudy with little temperature change.

Precipitation probabilities in per cent are: Today 50, tonight 40, tomorrow 20.

The low temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 26. The mercury had moved to 32 by 2 p.m.

Thousands Without Heat as Cleveland Main Breaks

CLEVELAND (AP) — With the temperature dropping well below freezing, thousands of residents of Cleveland's Hough area were still without heat today, more than 20 hours after a water main break forced suspension of gas service.

Some 200 East Ohio Gas Co. employes worked to restore service.

The 76-year-old water main at East 70th Street and Hough Avenue burst at 4 a.m. yesterday, flooding some spots as much as two feet deep.

A large section of pavement disappeared into a 40-by-60 foot hole that developed at that point.

★ ★ ★

Water service was restored quickly, but the gas company suspended service in the area because water and sand seeped into their lines.

SCENE OF RIOTING

Police said about 5,000 homes were without heat in the Negro slum, which was the scene of four days of rioting and fire-bombing in the summer of 1966.

The Red Cross took over two junior high schools in the area — Thomas Edison Junior High and Addison Junior High — as centers to provide food and shelter for anyone desiring it.

More than 100 persons went to Edison to spend the night, and a Red Cross spokesman said many more were going to Addison.

★ ★ ★

"What they are doing is bringing in their children, then going home to guard their possessions," a Red Cross worker said.

The fear of looters reportedly was the reason that most residents of the area chose to huddle in their frigid homes and apartments rather than taking advantage of the Red Cross shelters.

The temperature had dropped to 29 degrees early in the day.

Mayor Carl B. Stokes, who was in Washington yesterday, flew home last night because of the situation.

★ ★ ★

Extra police were called into the area, and a police command bus was dispatched to help keep order and to use its loudspeaker to make sure residents knew emergency aid was available.

★ ★ ★

Many persons and organizations helped provide food and ambulance service. Nuns from Our Lady of Fatima parish in the area carried emergency food door-to-door.

"I am just so thrilled and happy at the way people are pitching in to help out," said welfare Director Clarence L. Gaines. He said he had calls from people in the suburbs volunteering help.

Rights Committee Sends Fair Housing Bill to House

LANSING (AP) — The House Civil Rights Committee, meeting amid charges of governor's office meddling, yesterday sent the controversial open occupancy bill to the House floor and recommended that it pass.

★ ★ ★

The House is in recess until Dec. 12. Legislative leaders have vowed action on the open housing bill this year.

Before the 6-0 vote to report the bill, the committee refused to reverse its position on two key sections. Chairman Melvin DeStigter, R-Hudsonville, warned the bill could not pass in the House unless the sections were changed.

DeStigter unsuccessfully urged the committee to overturn decisions made earlier in the week and amend the bill to provide:

- That a person who suffers economic damages because of housing discrimination could collect no more than $500 from the person found guilty of bias;

★ ★ ★

- That a person accused of discrimination and later acquitted would not be able to successfully sue the state for damages.

OVERTURN POSSIBLE

The House could overturn the committee when it takes up the much-debated, much-amended housing bill later this month.

The committee had not been scheduled to meet until Dec. 11. Rep. David Holmes D-Detroit, charged the Friday meeting was called and the amendments offered at the insistence of Gov. George Romney's aides.

★ ★ ★

Answering a reporter's question, DeStigter conceded that Romney's legal adviser and sometime legislative liaison, Robert Danhof, favored the proposed changes.

Reuther-Meany Showdown Off

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., (AP) — United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther says he will not attend the annual convention of the AFL-CIO. As a result convention leaders are faced with the problem of how to deal with his resolution demanding "internal reforms" to make the AFL-CIO more democratic.

Reuther said yesterday he would not attend the convention and asked that the resolution be withdrawn from consideration at the 14-million member organization's convention that opens next week.

But AFL-CIO sources said the organization's constitution had no specific provisions for withdrawing a resolution whose sponsor did not show up.

AFL-CIO President George Meany declined to comment on Reuther's letter informing him Reuther would not attend but told a convention of the AFL-CIO's construction unions, "I have never seen the trade union movement as busy as it is today. I have never seen so many activities that affect the welfare of the general membership."

The resolution might be shunted to a committee, the sources said, but some delegates may insist upon acting on it.

Many labor leaders wanted a showdown at the convention on Reuther's long attack on the policies and leadership of Meany.

The resolution charges that the "AFL-CIO lacks the social vision, the dynamic thrust, the crusading spirit that should characterize the progressive, modern labor movement."

WALTER REUTHER

Reuther, in the letter to Meany, asked that the auto workers' resolution be held in abeyance until top officials of the AFL-CIO and the auto workers can have a special meeting to discuss it.

★ ★ ★

Meany, in saying he had never seen so many activities affecting the welfare of the membership, added:

"In the final analysis, that is what we are in business for and it's sort of a happy coincidence that whatever we do to promote the interests of the people we represent seems to be good for most of the people of the country."

★ ★ ★

Meany did not mention Reuther by name in his speech but a well-placed federation source said, "the General Motors negotiations gave Reuther an excuse for ducking the fight of his life."

Other union chiefs said Reuther's decision to bypass the convention because of the auto negotiations was understandable.

Paul Hall, president of the AFL-CIO Maritime trades department, said contract negotiations are a labor leader's main job, but added it was "regrettable" that the auto talks prevented Reuther from talking out his differences with Meany here.

B52s Pound DMZ to Counter N. Viets

SAIGON (AP) American B52 Stratofortresses unloaded 150,000 pounds of bombs over the Demilitarized Zone today to counter possible fresh North Vietnamese thrusts after the second straight day of clashes between U.S. and Communist troops below the DMZ.

The eight-engine bombers blasted suspected Communist troop concentrations four miles northeast of the U.S. Marine outpost at Con Thien in a follow-up of a B52 raid Thursday on Red troop and artillery positions six miles north of Con Thien.

The latest clash along the frontier came Friday when North Vietnamese troops opened up on a column of U.S. Marine amphibious tractors 5½ miles east of the artillery base at Gio Linh. The Communists slammed 50 rounds from 60mm mortars into the column, along with machine gun and small arms fire, killing one Marine and wounding 13.

The Marines fought back with artillery and mortars, and the Navy destroyer Leary in the Tonkin Gulf off the coast of North Vietnam joined in blasting the Communist positions. The Navy said the Leary knocked out several Communist mortars. There was no report on Communist casualties.

In Thursday's action, Marine units charged through a savage and mortar fire near Con Thien to drive North Vietnamese troops from bunkers.

Peking Says U.S. Bombed Freighter

TOKYO (AP) — Peking's official news agency said today U.S. aircraft "savagely attacked" a Chinese freighter anchored in Hong Gai, North Vietnam, last Saturday, "wounding eight crew members and damaging the ship."

The New China News Agency (NCNA) said the Foreign Ministry issued a statement in Peking today "strongly protesting" the bombing.

NCNA said U.S. aircraft dive-bombed the Chinese freighter the same day the ship arrived at Hong Gai from Haiphong.

"Bombs exploded above water some 10 meters (11 yards) off its starboard, wounding eight crew members and damaging the ship in more than 20 places," NCNA said.

★ ★ ★

The broadcast, monitored in Tokyo, said, "This was not the first time" U.S. aircraft had attacked Chinese freighters.

Hong Gai is about 18 miles north of Haiphong, North Vietnam's major port.

In Saigon, the U.S. Command declined comment. On Nov. 25, it reported that American planes hit a North Vietnamese naval dispersal area 39 miles east-northeast of Haiphong, about nine miles east of Hong Gai.

Over 50 Cars in I-75 Crashes

The Pontiac State Police post reported at noon today that over 50 cars were involved in crashes on I-75 during the morning as a light rain turned to ice in some areas of Oakland county.

The crashes occurred mostly between 9 and 10 a.m. in the area near Holly, and some of the accidents involved 10 or more cars, police said.

Most of the southern part of the state was covered by glare ice which formed after a misty rain during the morning, and hazardous driving warnings were issued.

Back roads remained bad, but most main arteries were in operation at noon with salt trucks active.

No Schedule Is Set as Yet for Main GM-UAW Talks

DETROIT (AP) — Bargainers for the United Auto Workers and automotive giant General Motors get together today for a variety of subcommittee meetings, with a schedule yet to be worked out for main table talks.

The Chrysler Corp., meanwhile, moved closer to full production with announcements of tentative settlements and withdrawal of strike deadlines at three plants.

Chrysler has been plagued with a series of unresolved local disputes, although a national contract has been agreed upon. A Friday night meeting of UAW employes of Chrysler's Detroit universal division resulted in ratification of a local pact.

★ ★ ★

Altogether, the union said, 13 of the 60 production and maintenance bargaining units and 13 of 78 salaried units remained without local agreements.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther emerged from a two-hour meeting with the union's GM Council Friday and announced that no strike deadline would be set against GM until after the New Year holiday.

Reuther told newsmen the decision would allow some 380,000 UAW GM employes to draw Christmas and New Year holiday pay before possibly being called on to walk off the job.

Reuther said Dec. 14 is the target date for reaching a new contract with General Motors, and if no agreement is reached by then, a strike deadline will be set for sometime early next year.

Only a scattering of hands were raised in opposition to the proposed strategy, according to newsmen who were standing outside closed plate glass doors while the meeting was in progress.

GM is the last of the Big Three to negotiate toward a new three-year pact with the UAW. The industry pattern was set in the agreement reached with the Ford Motor Co., and strengthened when Chrysler Corp. later settled along the same lines with the addition of a provision for pay parity between U. S. and Canadian workers.

Two Arrested in Courtroom

Bizarre Case Involves Bank Holdup, Murder

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UPI)—Harry Broyles, 19, and Howard McCully, 21, stood before the judge yesterday as he pronounced the sentence: 15 days for each on charges of breaking and entering.

★ ★ ★

Suddenly city police interrupted the proceedings and took the pair into custody in connection with the armed robbery less than an hour before of the Grand Rapids Central Bank.

Three thugs had made off with between $5,700 and $10,000. The getaway car was found abandoned in a parking lot near the bank, the body of the owner of the auto stuffed in the trunk.

The bizarre case unfolded after tracking dogs led Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and local police to a home one block from where the auto was abandoned.

★ ★ ★

Police lobbed tear gas into the building and, after deciding the house was empty, entered and found a bag of money believed the loot from the holdup in the attic.

THIRD ARREST

The third suspect was arrested sitting in a car belonging to one of the other two men.

★ ★ ★

Police Judge Robert Verdier ordered the three held without bond on charges of murder and kidnapping. Examination will be Dec. 11.

★ ★ ★

Police said the dead man had been kidnapped outside a local paint store shortly after noon. The thugs forced him into the trunk and drove off in his car, police said.

Little Opposition Seen to Open Housing Law

BIRMINGHAM — Any organized reaction to the open housing ordinance passed here this week will probably come at Monday's City Commission meeting, if at all, said Administrative Assistant John Saefke yesterday.

The controversial ordinance which became effective Thursday was passed Monday by a 6-1 vote of the commission with only Commissioner Robert Page dissenting.

The new law forbids discrimination in the public advertising, showing, sale, leasing or financing of real estate property in the city. It provides for a fine, jail term, or both, for violations under the city code.

"Calls to me have not been excessive on this matter," said Saefke, "Maybe only a dozen. Most of these were just for copies of the ordinance or for an explanation. Only two or three of the calls presented any deep-rooted opposition."

Under the City Charter any five persons could initiate referendum procedures, he explained. Something like this could come up Monday, but there is nothing on the agenda, he added.

If referendum procedures were begun 15 per cent of the registered voters at the last election would have to sign petitions to bring the ordinance up for a vote, said Saefke.

Police Still Sifting Hit-and-Run Tips

Waterford Township police still are receiving tips in connection with their search for the driver of the hit-and-run car that killed 11-year-old Darelle J. Desotell Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Darelle J. Desotell of 739 Scott Lake.

The Pontiac Press has offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the responsible person.

"We don't have anything for sure yet," said Detective Gerald Smith, "but there is always hope."

The Desotell boy was struck by a car Oct. 28 while walking along Scott Lake Road with a friend near his home. He died the following day.

Smith said township detectives "pretty much" have ruled out the possibility that the hit-and-run vehicle was a white Cadillac.

He said they now feel it was a tan, beige or gold colored large model car.

Lt. David Putnam, head of the detective division, said, "We lean toward a Chrysler product."

NATIONAL WEATHER—Rain and snow are forecast tonight in the eastern third of the nation, except for northern New England and in the Pacific Northwest. Colder temperatures are expected for most of the country.

Cash Demand Led to Fight, Says Mrs. Hill

The insistence of Terry Stern, 22, a sister-in-law of Gov. Romney's son, that she be paid $347 in cash for damages to her car led to the Nov. 13 ruckus at the Walter P. Hill Co., Mrs. Hill testified in Troy Municipal Court yesterday.

Terrry's mother, Mrs. Will Kraus of 560 N. Glengary, Bloomfield Hills is charged with assault and battery.

Testimony was taken yesterday from Mrs. Hill, her husband and two Troy police officers.

Mrs. Hill said there was a disagreement between Terry and Hill over how a car repair bill should be paid.

★ ★ ★

She and her husband said he had agreed to pay a repair bill for damages caused by the Hills' son, Patrick (who had pounded Terry's car in a pique) but wanted to pay directly to the garage.

Terry insisted on cash in three visits to the office, the Hills said. On the last, Mrs. Kraus came into Hill's office and said, "How do we know this will be taken care of," Mrs. Hill said.

At this point, for the first time, Mrs. Hill testified, she entered the discussion and said, "How dare you question my husband's honesty."

At that point, Terry "lunged like a tiger," Mrs. Hill said, and grabbed her hair, pulling Mrs. Hill to the floor.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Kraus then began hitting Mrs. Hill on the head with her hands, then with a blunt-heeled shoe, Mrs. Hill testified.

Before it was over Mrs. Kraus apologized, Mrs. Hill and police officers, said, but Mrs. Hill required stitches at Beaumont Hospital to close her head wound.

State's Dissenting Dems Meeting Today

DETROIT (AP)—A group of Michigan Democrats who are unhappy with President Johnson's Vietnam policy gathered today in Detroit with the apparent intention of backing the candidacy of Minnesota Sen. Eugene McCarthy for next year's Democratic presidential nomination.

Delegates to the all-day meeting of the Michigan Conference of Concerned Democrats—MCCD—in Cobo Hall were scheduled to hear a speech by McCarthy via a special telephone hookup to Chicago.

* * *

The speech was a last-minute attraction arranged after the senator let it be known that he would challenge the President in at least four presidential primaries next spring.

Also scheduled to speak was lame-duck Democratic State Chairman Zolton Ferency, who announced this week that he was resigning his post next Jan. 15 or the date of the election of his successor.

BETTER CANDIDATE

Ferency has been the target of much criticism within the party for suggesting that Democrats might be able to find a better candidate than Johnson to head the 1968 ticket.

Declaring that Michigan Democratic party leaders already have embarked upon campaign preparations for 1968 with Johnson's record, views and policies at the focal point of the planning, Ferency said he could not continue in good conscience to act as state chairman.

* * *

"I have no consuming desire to continue sounding the one sour note in an otherwise well-rehearsed political symphony," Ferency said. "Nor do I relish the role of a left-footed corporal constantly breaking cadence at the rear of a general staff marching confidently along in lock-step."

Ferency indicated he may work in behalf of McCarthy's candidacy, which he described as a good thing for the Democratic party.

Ferency noted that even though he is stepping down from the chairmanship, he will remain the titular head of the party in Michigan—because of the fact that he ran at the head of the ticket last year in an attempt to unseat Republican Gov. George Romney, who is now seeking the GOP presidential nomination.

"Henceforth, however, all of my political contributions will be purely voluntary and necessarily limited by my private and personal pursuits," Ferency added, thus leaving the door open for his lending a helping hand to the McCarthy candidacy.

2 Die, 2 Hurt in State Crash

MIDLAND (AP) — Two men were killed and two boys injured Friday when their car crashed off U. S. 10 seven miles northwest of Midland and fell 100 feet down an embankment and into a ravine which could not be seen from the highway.

The wreckage went undiscovered for hours in subfreezing temperatures until spotted by a bridge inspector, State Police said.

Killed were Kenneth Lee Dockett, 20, of Whitmore Lake, the driver, and his 31-year-old brother, Robert Allen Dockett of Hamburg. Seriously injured and hospitalized at Midland were sons of the two men.

Import Duty Inequities Rapped

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—An American Motors executive told a U.S. Senate hearing yesterday that the United States eventually will have to do something about inequitable import duties between the U.S. and other countries.

Charles A. Watson, director of Automotive International for American Motors, told a regional hearing on export expansion that an auto which costs $2,143 in the U.S. sells for $4,327 in France, $6,535 in Japan and $6,430 in Finland.

Watson said the higher prices are not set by American Motors but are the result of import duties, road taxes, horsepower taxes, use taxes, weight taxes and shipping charges.

"And yet," he said, "any foreign car can be landed in the U.S. for a total tax duty of only 6.5 per cent, and even that rate is scheduled to be reduced."

Watson said he did not advocate that the U.S. government legislate retaliatory taxes and duties.

"But the day must not be too far off when all major countries involved in foreign trade sit down and face the reality that fair is fair and fair trade is fair trade . . . for all. It must be a two-way street," he said.

November Car Output Down

DETROIT (AP) — The Big Three American auto producers turned out 699,548 passenger cars during November, a month that saw two of the automakers strapped with labor troubles.

Last year's production figure for the month of November was 827,991.

* * *

The giant of the auto industry, General Motors, produced 425,891 cars last month, short of the 455,386 produced during the month last year.

* * *

The Ford Motor Co., whose plants got back into operation between Nov. 6 and Nov. 14 as local issues were settled following a nationwide strike which began Sept. 6, produced 146,879 cars during the month. This compares with the 225,837 produced in November of 1966.

* * *

And Chrysler, where plants were idled from a week to ten days by local disputes following eleventh hour agreement on a national contract, produced 126,778 cars during the month. Last year's November figure was 146,768.

Chrysler Recalls 8,200

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. said Friday it was recalling 8,200 of its 1968 models because mechanical problems may have been built into the cars.

Of the total, 8,000 are Plymouth Fury, Dodge Polara, Dodge Monaco and Chryslers, 50 of which are equipped with an automatic speed control vacuum hose.

* * *

The 8,000 are being recalled for inspection to determine which of them have the hose in question, Chrysler said.

The hose, when the speed control device is used, may malfunction and prevent normal disengagement, keeping the car going at the pace set for the speed control system, a Chrysler spokesman said.

* * *

He recommended, as an auxiliary means of disengaging the system, that the individual turn off the ignition of the car.

The other 200 cars are Plymouth Barracuda models which may have been assembled with an improper front suspension lower control arm which may result in abnormal tire wear, Chrysler said.

The first movie actor to win an Academy Award was Emil Jannings in 1928 for "The Way of All Flesh."

Crooks Update Old Swindling Trick

Racketeering and organized crime infiltrate society under many guises. While many of the criminal activities involve outright theft and personal molestation, an old scheme—planned bankruptcy—has been dusted off and is now preying on businessmen under cover of business respectability.

Called "scam" by its hoodlum practitioners, its many ramifications boil down to a central maneuver—that of moving into control of an established enterprise with a good credit rating, and on the strength of its known integrity building up an excessive stock of merchandise supplied by unsuspecting sources.

Subsequently the merchandise is sold to retail outlets at ruinously low prices or into underworld channels; after which the looted business is thrown into bankruptcy.

Although the scam operator deals mainly in toys, household appliances and entertainment devices, and personal necessities, in many cases he has broadened the limited field of the victicized firm by a score of new trading products.

Criminally-controlled businesses, often in concert with hoodlum-dominated unions, can destroy legitimate competitors through dishonest and underhand methods, warns the FBI, which has been fighting the scam racket.

★ ★ ★

"The businessmen of the country can be of tremendous help," it says, "by refusing to have any dealings with those of shady reputation." The business community is urged to join in the fight to bankrupt the business of the underworld by being alert to schemes of questionable merit and promptly reporting any hint of illegality to proper authorities.

Chipmunks' Way of Life Not Nutty as It Appears

Worn out from raking leaves and performing other prewinter chores?

Consider the chipmunk and be consoled.

The chipmunk spins not — but, brother, does he toil!

He, too, is preparing for winter. And, more foresighted than man, he has been doing it all summer.

Tirelessly, he has been stuffing his tiny mouth and jowls with nuts, acorns, ragweed seeds and corns, mushrooms and blueberries. He has also been happily filching sunflower seeds the little rascal knows bird-watchers did not put out for him.

He has made hundreds of scampering, mouth-laden trips to his underground home, carefully storing his loot against the cold months ahead.

The chipmunk is no bum. He likes to live well. His home has up to four storage rooms, opening off the long, narrow central corridor. It also has a bedroom — and, no kidding, a bathroom. The chipmunk is a gentleman.

By late fall, Chippie has more than enough food put away for any kind of a winter. He sighs contentedly.

★ ★ ★

And then what happens?

The little guy is so tired from his labors that he becomes drowsy, lies down to rest — and goes to sleep for three months!

When he awakes, it's spring again. You think that's tough? It should happen to us — beginning about leaf-raking time and continuing through the snow-shoveling season.

★ ★ ★

And maybe it would — if we worked as hard as the chipmunk. And if our families would stand for it.

Will 'No Takers' Prove Death of 'No' Events?

How far will this No Thing go?

You know. The No Ball to which you pay a good stiff price for the pleasure of not having to attend a ball.

And the No Dinner. And the No Lecture. And the No Benefit Tea.

★ ★ ★

The idea may sound all right at first. But there are a couple of things wrong with it.

One is that it smacks of blackmail. Pay up or we'll give something you have to attend!

The other is that the average guy just can't afford to buy his way out of all the things he doesn't want to attend. It's easier and cheaper to fib your way out of going.

The solution, perhaps, is a No Thanks answer to a No Event. That way, No Thing happens.

Who says all this is a little flaky?

No One—and pay him, please, for not saying it!

LBJ Gets Taste of '68 Election Fever

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON — President Johnson is just beginning to get a taste of the fever of the 1968 presidential election year. To nobody's surprise, he is being very impassive about it. It would be bad politics to be otherwise.

MARLOW

The confusion over Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's departure from the Pentagon to be president of the World Bank had just begun to quiet down when Johnson's fellow Democrat, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, became his rival for the White House.

Also to nobody's surprise, since he had been murmuring about it for weeks, McCarthy announced he will enter at least four presidential primaries in 1968 with the war in Vietnam his main theme.

He said there is so much dissatisfaction over the war "there is a good possibility" Johnson will be denied renomination.

★ ★ ★

At this point it is not likely many people, including McCarthy, think he has a chance to get the nomination away from Johnson although, if he can generate enough heat, somebody else might.

POLITICAL CLICHE

As he said: "If not me, then someone else."

But Johnson's reaction when he expresses it to those not close to him is a political cliche: that discussion is good for the country. To put it another way, he's not saying anything for publication at this time.

Just starting out there is a big difference between McCarthy and Johnson on the war.

★ ★ ★

McCarthy says he is not for peace at any price but for an honorable, rational and political solution to the war, which is about as vague as anybody can be, while suggesting a phased, scheduled withdrawal of U.S. forces.

CONFIDENCE

Johnson, on the other hand, brims with confidence that the war has never been going better than now, that the North Vietnamese losses are putting terrible pressure on them, and that the pressure will continue.

McCarthy says he hopes his candidacy will lead Johnson to alter his Vietnam policy. He may think so, but Johnson himself shows not the slightest indication of it. And at this moment it is almost impossible to think he will.

If anything, he may make the war tougher but still not go as far as the all-out view expressed this week by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in a television interview.

There is a good reason for keeping some kind of leash on the fighting. For one thing, this country does not know whether North Vietnam has secret agreements with the Soviet Union and Red China requiring them to enter the war if the United States went as far as Eisenhower advocated.

In his statement explaining McNamara's leaving the Defense Department, Johnson, speaking of the war in Vietnam, said, "our major defense policies are clearly defined."

A White House source said it would be fair to assume that the President's aim in saying that was to counter speculation that McNamara's departure might lead to a harder war line in Vietnam.

Maybe. If in the next few months the line got a lot harder the same White House source could say what Johnson said about "our major defense policies" being clearly defined were right when he said it in November but that new decisions were made later.

The POWER of FAITH

ONE WHO SERVES ON CHRISTMAS—1

Christmas Eve is one night of the year unlike all others in the Christian world. When we are with our families either at home or at church, we tend to forget that there are many dedicated people who work Christmas Eve so the rest of us can enjoy the holy night.

James Mancusi, Chief of Police at Mamaroneck, N.Y., is one of those dedicated persons. He has spent many a Christmas in his 25 years as a law officer, either on the beat, at the desk, or handling traffic for those at church.

Chief Mancusi says, "Seeing the families in their homes and out gives a sense of pride in the job because we know they wouldn't be as safe as they are if we weren't here." Also, Chief Mancusi reports there is less crime on the night before Christmas. "I can't remember any crimes of violence or burglary in our town on a Christmas Eve," he adds. "The peace on earth and good will toward men theme seems to get through to people—even the most hardened individual."

Confident Living:

Let Enthusiasm Motivate You

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

The Green Bay Packers, now widely rated the most fabulous team in football, were far from that back in 1958. That year they lost 10 games out of 12. The coach got his walking and some players were threatened with the same.

DR. PEALE

In June 1959 the team gathered to meet their new coach, Vincent Lombardi. He was from Fordham where he had been a 185-pound guard in the famous line known as "The Seven Blocks of Granite."

All-Star quarterback Bart Starr tells how it went. Lombardi saw before him a depressing group of players.

He looked them over, paced up and down and after a long pause said, "Gentlemen, we are going to win some football games. Get that. You are going to outrun, outblock and outplay the teams that come up against you. Get that.

"And," he continued, "you are to have confidence in me and enthusiasm for my system. The secret is what goes on up here." He tapped his temple. "From now on I want you to think of only three things: your home, your religion and the Green Bay Packers. Let enthusiasm get hold of you and let's get going!"

The men pulled themselves up straight. "I walked out of that meeting," says Bart Starr, "feeling 10 feet tall."

★ ★ ★

That year they won 7 games out of 12. The next year they scored a division championship! The third year they won the world championship! The sky has been the limit. How come? The answer is: Added to hard work and skill, enthusiasm does it!

The same thing can happen to a business or to an individual. Mental attitude is the crucial thing. Enthusiastic people are more dynamic and creative in everything they do.

Dr. Edward V. Appleton, a Nobel Prize winner, whose discoveries contributed to development of radar, was asked the secret of his achievements. This great physicist answered: "Enthusiasm. Irate enthusiasm above even professional skill."

★ ★ ★

Good thing to have both, of course, but it is a fact that an enthusiastic person often accomplishes more than highly trained men who lack enthusiasm. Enthusiasm motivates."

But suppose you just don't feel enthusiastic. How do you get enthusiasm? Here are three good ways:

1. Take time each day to feel how amazingly good it is to be alive. Notice the countless wonders right under your nose. Realize what dynamic opportunities the day offers. And quicken excitement by affirmation.

Don Sloan, an inspirational speaker, has an upbeat slogan which he uses every day. "Today is the biggest day of my life, commencing now," he tells himself.

2. Take advantage of the deep moments we all have when suddenly we feel alive to the fingertips.

Gary Player, the great South African golfer, tells about a hard match he was in. "As I walked from the green an awareness of life came over me like a revelation. I felt drenched with adrenalin. I became so enthusiastic I could hardly wait to get to the next tee. I wanted to play golf like I had never done before."

★ ★ ★

One recent autumn evening walking on Chicago's Michigan Avenue, the magnificence of the whole scene suddenly got hold of me: towering buildings and dazzling shops; the great old water tower lighted up; moonlight falling in silvery splendor on the rippling surface of the lake. The thrill of it brought a surge of vitality similar to Gary Player's.

Let the sharp exhilaration of life become a continuing part of you.

3. Practice the "as-if" principle. Act as if you are not afraid and you will tend to gain courage. Act as if you like people and you will learn to like them. Act as if you are enthusiastic and you will develop accordingly. As enthusiasm takes over, your life will hit new highs of happiness and success.

'Many Youth Reluctant to Serve Our Country'

My generation is reluctant to serve its country. War is always unfair to youth. Some young men have to fight and others do not, but I see no complete cure until men learn to live in peace and there is no need for military force. For many years married men were deferred and when the war in Vietnam began many youths rushed into marriage to avoid the draft. Many high school graduates have prolonged their education without interest in school and education, also to avoid the draft. Draft dodgers complain of a physical handicap that would keep them from participating in service activity.

★ ★ ★

All this has resulted in unfairness to those young men who are called and to those who are patriotic. It is important that every young person love and believe in his country.

Gives Views on Supreme Court Decisions

Articles and letters in The Press recently indicate a common feeling that the Supreme Court has wrongfully "taken God out of the schools." This is not the case as a study of the several Court opinions reveals. The prohibition of State approved prayers and daily Bible readings in the classroom is a reaffirmation of our principles of religious freedom set forth in the First Amendment to the Constitution.

★ ★ ★

The pleading that a simple "nondenominational" prayer does no harm is false. The God of the fundamentalist sect who strikes fear into the hearts of His believer then becomes the God of the sect that pictures a warm, understanding God and vice versa. And who can question that true freedom of religion must mean the right to question the existence of a God or to firmly believe that no God or supreme being exists or that such existence or nonexistence matters.

★ ★ ★

Those who express the fear that we are becoming a Godless society must understand that religion as such can only continue without government aid or assistance, for with such aid or assistance it is in danger of becoming a tool of the government which supports it.

The beginning of a great society is a people who resolve in their hearts to obey the letter of the law and rejoice in the spirit of its commitment. Therefore, let the beginning of the Constitution (the Preamble) be our end. In this can these revered writings be truly improved upon and preserved.

Not all mothers on ADC are immoral, neglectful and irresponsible. A mother who wants to get off ADC can if she is physically or mentally able. Question and Answer

How can people help the handicapped when Goodwill refuses to pick up appliances? They told me it would take three weeks to pick up an electric stove. I told them it would have to set outside, yet when they came they refused to take it because it had been outside. I also know of stoves, refrigerator and sink they refused to pick up.

MRS. WILLIAM DEAVER
ROCHESTER

REPLY

It is a cost problem. Maintaining trucks and drivers for heavy pickups has become so expensive that the cost is often more than the items could be sold for. At one time they could be sold for salvage, but this is no longer true, so only those larger appliances which are serviceable or require inexpensive repairs can be accepted. Mrs. Upton of Goodwill says Goodwill doesn't want to discourage any donors, but like other businesses, Goodwill must meet costs, if they are to do the handicapped any good at all. If you have a large appliance, the girl on the switchboard should be able to tell you if it one that can be accepted.

Periled Deer Find an Ally

Legal Move Blocks Slaughter at Facility

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Four hundred deer, destined to be slaughtered unless a way can be found to remove them alive from a military reservation, have a new ally.

Eugene A. Rerat, a Minneapolis lawyer, said he filed a temporary injunction Friday with Anoka County District Judge Robert Bakke. The legal maneuver, Rerat said, delays the slaughter beyond the Dec. 9 reprieve ordered by the Pentagon Wednesday.

* * *

Rerat also said he deposited $1,000 at Marquette National Bank to start a fund to finance the roundup and transportation of the deer to a wildlife management area.

Rerat, president of a Minneapolis riding club, said he will enlist the help of horsemen around the state to herd the deer to a "shelter" from where they can be transported.

'SIMILAR PROBLEM'

"I know this idea poses security problems, but I think it will work," said Rerat. "A similar problem was solved this way in Milwaukee about five years ago."

Officials of the Twin Cities Army ammunition plant at suburban Arden Hills say the deer are a hazard to truck drivers hauling explosives and fear a serious accident may occur. State Conservation Department officials say many of the deer will starve this winter on the overbrowsed four-square-mile grounds.

* * *

A high fence surrounds the grounds, and there are thousands of family dwellings in the area.

Maj. Fred Von Gortler, plant commander, and game officials have rejected as impractical "no-kill" solution. Van Gortler said the mortality rate runs as high as 70 per cent when tranquilizer guns are used to subdue the deer. He said about half the animals would die in transit.

* * *

Professional hunters would do the shooting.

The Pentagon granted the earlier delay at the request of Rep. Joseph Karth, D-Minn., who was contacted by sportsmen's organizations.

'Airlift of Cubans Should Continue'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The director of the Cuban refugee program says the airlift that brings 4,000 Cubans to the United States every month should continue indefinitely.

"Welcome to all who wish to come," John F. Thomas of the Health, Education and Welfare Department in Washington told a gathering of Cubans and Americans Friday night. The occasion was the second anniversary of the "freedom flights."

* * *

"We hope the airlift can be continued as an escape valve for those who do not wish to live under Communist rule," Thomas said.

The government currently spends $1 million weekly for the refugee program. This includes resettling the emigres in cities throughout the United States.

Maoists Fear Liu Comeback

TOKYO (AP) — Supporters of Mao Tse-tung have admitted the possibility that President Liu Shao-chi — Mao's archenemy — may stage a comeback on the Chinese mainland.

The source of this fear was the Shanghai "Rebel Workers Journal," a pro-Maoist organ which indicated that trade unions sympathetic to Liu's ideas still exist.

* * *

The Chinese president has been under unremitting attack from backers of Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung since early in the year. Various sources make it clear that though he has been barred from carrying out his official function, he remains president in name, is a member of the party Central Committee, draws his salary and lives in the presidential residence in Peking.

Aide Says Romney Asked to Meet Soviet Leaders

LANSING (AP)—A spokesman for Michigan Gov. George Romney said Friday Romney has asked for a meeting with "appropriate members" of the Soviet leadership later this month in Moscow.

But the Republican governor has received no confirmation of reports that Soviet Premier Alexei I. Kosygin has agreed to meet with him, said Jonathan Moore, Romney's foreign affairs adviser.

MOSCOW VISIT

Moore declined to comment on whether Romney had specifically asked for a meeting with Kosygin.

* * *

The U. S. Embassy and a Romney spokesman in Moscow denied any knowledge of such a meeting.

Romney, who announced Nov. 18 that he would be a candidate for the 1968 GOP presidential nomination, will be in Moscow on Dec. 18-19 as part of a month-long tour of several countries in Europe, the Middle East and Southeast Asia.

"We have asked for meetings with appropriate members of the leadership" in a number of contacts with the Soviet embassy in Washington, Moore said.

* * *

He declined to comment further, saying the series of contacts with the Soviets and the process involved in seeking the meetings "was extremely complicated."

In regard to a report that Romney had been invited to make a public speech while in Moscow, Moore said Romney had received many invitations to speak while on his tour.

NO SPEECHES

"We've responded by saying that he doesn't intend to make any public speeches while on his trip," Moore said.

In Moscow Friday, a representative of Romney met U.S. Embassy officials and Soviet hotel personnel to set up basic arrangements for Romney's visit to Moscow.

Robert Hooker, a part - time Romney campaigner, said the schedule remains "very indefinite."

"The governor wants to meet with responsible Soviet government people," Hooker said.

The Soviet Embassy in Washington has been asked to help set up meetings for Romney in Moscow, as has the U.S. Embassy here, Hooker said.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said efforts are being made to schedule an appearance for Romney at the Moscow House of Friendship, where Western notables are welcomed and meet various Soviet officials—and sometimes make speeches. But the spokesman said "this is still at the discussion stage."

Romney will visit London, Paris, Bonn and Warsaw before reaching Moscow on his world tour.

Hooker will fly to London Saturday, then to Bonn and Paris to clear the way for Romney's appearances in those capitals.

Bid Reopening on Sewers Due

The Waterford Township Board will reopen bids for a special assessment district sanitary sewer project at its 7:30 p.m. meeting Monday.

* * *

The sewers are planned for parts of Marion, Elizabeth Lake, Voorheis, Chadwick and Colrain.

Bids for the project initially were opened June 5 and later rejected by the board because the low proposal was about 15 per cent in excess of the construction estimate which, then, was $134,537.

Approximately 1¼ miles of eight-inch sewer laterals would be constructed.

* * *

The lines would be connected to the Pontiac sewer system. The sewage would be processed in the city treatment plant.

POLICE REPORT

In other business Monday night, the board will hear a report concerning Ronald Freemen, a Waterford Township policemen who was discharged from his job and later reinstated by Circuit Court order.

* * *

Also, the board will consider the vacating of Farmridge Street from Cottage Street to the Cass Lake front and will read first notices on two proposed liquor license transfers.

Carolyn Marie Frericks and Mike Dauw are just two of the reasons why Mrs. Finley Kennedy, librarian at Hawthorne and Webster schools, finds her role so rewarding. As unique as the world she recreates for her students, Harriet Kennedy embarked on her career only after raising two daughters.

Today's Women

One's Age Never Limits Activity With Harriet Kennedy Around

By YOLANDA BENAVIDES

Can 'life begin at 60'? For Mrs. Finley Kennedy, who had a head start at 43, age is never a restriction when you have a goal to fulfill.

Married at 16, Harriet Kennedy waited 27 years before she stepped on a college campus and started on a most rewarding adventure.

★ ★ ★

Looking back on it all, nine years later with a Bachelor or Arts degree in elementary education and a Master's degree in Library Science, she firmly believes her age was an asset rather than a handicap.

★ ★ ★

"If you had it once you've still got it," was what my adviser told me when I first confronted him with my plans," she said.

AGE IS USEFUL

"As for age, I think the experience that you have just from living helps you. Its the one thing I felt I had over the others."

It all started when her daughter, Karen, a high school senior at the time, suggested her mother take a college course just for enjoyment.

★ ★ ★

"It seemed like something way out at first," she laughed.

"But when I tried to register and couldn't get the class I wanted, I guess I just got stubborn and decided to keep on trying until they let me in."

★ ★ ★

From then on there was no stopping her.

"From the very beginning I always felt guided by God. All the way along it was as if there were someone with me because everything just seemed to fall in the right place," Mrs. Kennedy said.

★ ★ ★

Not to be overlooked was the private fan club at home which kept up a steady stream of support, especially her husband, to whom she attributes a great deal of credit for her success.

★ ★ ★

"I couldn't have begun to do it on my own. It had to be a family affair."

And a family affair it was in June of 1962 when all three Kennedy women donned graduation robes four years later.

THREE AT ONCE

Linda, the youngest, received her diploma from Lake Orion High School and Karen was graduating from Wheaton College when mom completed her undergraduate studies at Wayne State University.

★ ★ ★

With the following September came Mrs. Kennedy's current position as librarian at Webster and Hawthorne schools.

★ ★ ★

After a year's rest from the rigors of study, she went on to obtain her master's, all the while keeping her job as librarian.

How does it feel to embark on a career after raising two daughters and maintaining a home?

"I feel like I've done this all my life," she said. "It's the most natural thing in the world."

★ ★ ★

"I've really found myself now."

Before we left we couldn't help asking this lovely grandmother if she had any thoughts on a second career in the future.

★ ★ ★

Although she wouldn't give a definite answer, the idea seemed to amuse her. With a twinkle in her blue-grey eyes and a quick smile she replied, "I'll just have to wait and see what turns up."

Christmas Gala for Teen-Agers Sounds Great

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Christmas parties are in the offing, and this letter and the answer may give you a few ideas about planning one.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am 15 years old and would like to give a Christmas party for about 15 boys and girls. Would it be all right to ask the kids to come without written invitations?

Would it be a good idea to go caroling first? If we go caroling, I would serve hot chocolate as soon as everyone got to my house. Would soft drinks and Christmas cookies be the best refreshments later? Should I get records to dance to or should we play games?

Could I ask everyone to bring a gift worth one dollar and have a gift exchange? Thank you for your help.—Patty.

Dear Patty: Unless you're planning on having just a small gathering of friends I'd suggest you send invitations. The gift giving may cause problems but your ideas as a whole sound like a fun night.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently I had lunch in a public dining room. At a nearby table there was a young girl of about 14 or 15 with her grandmother. Two of the latter's friends stopped at the table to chat.

The grandmother introduced the girl and she did not stand up, which surprised me because they appeared to be nice refined people. Is this not being done these days? Am I behind the times? — Aunt Agatha.

Dear Aunt Agatha: It certainly is still being done these days, and the young girl should have stood up to greet the older ladies. There is no age limit: any younger person rises to greet an older one.

Dear Mrs. Post: A certain boy I became acquainted with called a few days ago. At the time he called I was busy and asked him to call later. He hasn't called again and I'm a bit perplexed. I'm leaving soon for a two week vacation in Florida and was wondering if I should send him a post card, or would that seem as if I am chasing him? — Wondering Teen-ager

Dear Wondering: A post card is so impersonal that you couldn't possibly be criticized for sending one to this boy. Mention when you will be back, and maybe it will remind him to call you again then!

Mate Is Poor Excuse for a Man--- Don't Put Up With This Treatment

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I need some advice before I go out of my mind. My husband and I have been married for two years, and I just found out for sure that I am pregnant with our first child.

ABBY

When I told my husband, I thought he would explode. I have never seen him so angry. He has restricted me to the house. I can leave only to go to work, and then I have to come straight home. I can't visit my friends or relatives. I can't go downtown to do anything. Not even grocery shopping in the neighborhood.

He doesn't want me any place where any of his friends can see me and know that I'm pregnant. He keeps threatening to get out legally, or illegally, as he wants no part of being tied down at 21. I love him and don't want to lose him. How can I get him to change his attitude? I am also 21.

NEEDING HELP

DEAR NEEDING: Something is fishy here. Why is your husband so violently opposed to letting his friends know that you are pregnant? You are married, and there is nothing to be ashamed of. He "tied himself down" at 19 when he married, so his "reason" for exploding doesn't make much sense. And what's this restricting business!"

If you submit to his unreasonable demands in order to "hold" a husband who has threatened to "get out legally or illegally," you are asking for the abusive treatment your poor-excuse-for-a-husband is dishing out.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and I baby-sit for a few people in the neighborhood and I really love it.

Tonight, one of the neighbors telephoned me and asked if I was available to sit for her on New Year's Eve. I was, so I told her yes.

Right after I hung up the telephone, my mother asked me who called and what for, so I told her.

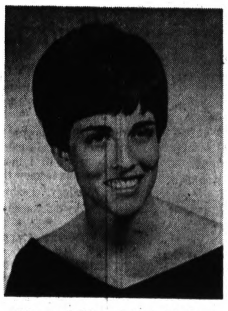
Then my mother said, "I might need you to sit for ME on New Year's Eve."

I told my mother that I had already promised this other lady and I couldn't break my promise.

My father, who is very quick tempered yelled, "You'll sit for your mother if she needs you!"

Abby, you always tell us kids to do what our parents say, but this time I think I am right and they are wrong. What do you think?

SITTER



Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy E. Jones of Lincolnshire Street announce the betrothal of their daughter, Kathryn Louise, to Jerry E. Ryan. The bride elect, a graduate of Michigan State University, and her fiance, son of the Willie K. Ryans of Andersonville Road, are planning early April vows.

DEAR SITTER: The best of parents can be wrong now and then, and unless you agreed to check with your mother before accepting other sitting dates, they were wrong this time.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: We have two very small boys. One is five and the other is two and a half. My problem is, I feel that my husband expects too much too soon.

These little tykes come to the table happy and hungry, but by the time my husband gets through correcting their every move, ("Sit up straight, take your elbows off the table, stop talking with your mouth full, you're eating too fast, you're eating too slow . . . etc.") these poor kids leave the table in tears with their plates practically untouched.

How can I make my husband understand that besides making the boys dread mealtime, it could be bad for their health? OHIO

DEAR OHIO: You have THREE "little boys." Tell the one you're married to that although his criticisms may be justified, there is a more effective way to teach children. It's true serious digestive problems often develop when children (and adults, as well) attempt to eat while they are upset.

Implore your husband to pause, control himself and to resist the urge to shout criticisms and orders at the table. "Gentleness" is the key word here. And should he forget, a "gentle" kick in the ankle from you may remind him.

Lynda's Wedding Retains Tradition

"A very sentimental girl" is the way her close friends describe Lynda Byrd Johnson—the nation's number one bachelor girl till her love was anchored by a handsome Marine with a diamond pledging, "Semper Fidelis."

Certainly when Lynda marries Capt. Charles S. Robb in the White House on Dec. 9, the wedding will be as rich in American tradition and sentiment as ever a wedding was.

TRADITION

Her engagement diamond reflects an American tradition that dates back to very early Colonial times. Though the diamond has been the betrothal symbol of European nobility since the 15th Century, its role as a popular custom is strictly American.

Only in very recent years, with the expansion of a European middle class, has the diamond engagement ring tradition spread among average people on that side of the sea.

But for the American girl, d-i-a-m-o-n-d has always spelled "marriage." And when Lynda transfers her engagement ring from her left hand to her right hand just before the ceremony, she will be following a Colonial custom.

After the ceremony, she will place her engagement ring above the wedding band. This is because the American colonists regarded the diamond engagement ring as a "keeper ring."

Early American superstition said that if a woman lost her wedding band she would have no end of bad luck all her life. Thus, the job of the durable diamond was to guard the wedding band.

★ ★ ★

Lynda's gown, she has told the press, will be a traditional style with long sleeves. And it will be white — the fashion-choice of American brides since the early 1800's

Before that, American brides wore every color of the rainbow in either solid hues or flowered brocade. But white long has been the sentimental choice — and white it will be for Lynda.

THE GROOM

Usually the groom's attire is of little interest, but in this case his attire too, will be rich in tradition— in fact, a sartorial history lesson. Military regulations permit Captain Robb to wear civilian clothes for the ceremony. But the Captain—described by his father as "very gung-ho" is expected to wear the Marine "dress blues."

The uniform jacket, which officially is described as the "blouse," is of Navy blue with a high tight-fitting collar. The collar dates back to the days in which Marines wore leather collars about three inches high to protect the jugular vein from saber slashes. (That collar, of course, gave Marines their nickname, "leathernecks.")

The sky-blue trousers have a bright red stripe down the sides. This stripe commemorates the blood shed by Marines during the Mexican War in the Battle of Chapultepec, a fierce battle in which Marines led the attack.

OFFICERS CAP

As an officer, Captain Robb wears a visored cap with a quatrefoil on the top. The quatrefoil symbol, which is four intertwined loops, commemorates both the bravery and the expert riflemanship of Marines who served on early American sailing vessels.

★ ★ ★

The Marines would climb to the rigging and fire into the enemy boarding party from that position. During the melee on deck, it was hard to distinguish friend from foe. So Marines sewed crossed ropes on their caps in the form of the quatrefoil to identify themselves to their compatriots.

The ultimate elegant, as interpreted by Semont, Controlled, full-length sweep of snow-white crepe, with black sequin bolero, assures perfection for the most gala soiree. From Eastman Chemical Products' "The Young Elegants" collection.

A Marine officer carries a cross-hilted Mameluke sword. This custom dates back to the capture of the fortress of Derna by Lt. Pressley O'Bannon in the undeclared war against the pirates of Tripoli in 1801.

Such a sword was presented to O'Bannon, in recognition of the Marines' bravery, in a ceremony climaxed by the raising of the American flag in the Old World for the first time.

Swords play a dramatic part in a military wedding. After the ceremony, tradition calls for the arch of swords for the bridal couple. If Captain Robb's fellow officers perform this service, Lynda's marriage truly will be launched, in the words of the time-honored saying, "with the help of God and a few Marines."

At the reception, the bride uses the groom's sword to cut the first piece of cake.

★ ★ ★

There has never been a military wedding held in the White House, and Lynda may be the first White House bride to see her husband off to military service. In any event, the diamond on her hand promises, "Semper Fidelis."

Comedian's Son Is Married Today

DEFIANCE, Ohio (AP) — Miss Judith C. Richards, 26-year-old daughter of a retired Defiance Methodist minister, was married here today to Anthony Hope, 27, son of comedian Bob Hope.

Gov. and Mrs. James A. Rhodes and Sen. and Mrs. Stuart Symington of Missouri were present along with the groom's father and mother and other West Coast relatives and friends.

★ ★ ★

The ceremony took place in St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church with the father of the bride, the Rev. Dr. Joseph C. Richards, taking part with four priests.

★ ★ ★

Miss Richards is an attorney with the Washington law firm of Williams & Connolly. The bridegroom is also an attorney and a director of business affairs for 20th Century Fox Television.

Brocade shimmering with rich oriental splendor — its burnished metallic weave emphasizing the Rajah richness so typical of Karen Stark for Harvey Berin. The lavish jewel trimming on neckline blazing around the V-vent throat — slim bracelet sleeves and a slight tunic flare accent the Rajah look for Christmas.

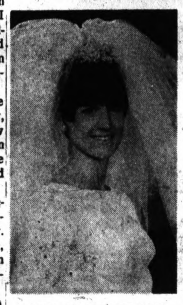
Luncheon at the Birmingham Athletic Club will follow the lecture on both days.

Ronald W. Canterburys Friday Vows for Pair



MRS. CANTERBURY

A velvet ensemble frosted at the bodice with pearled flowers was worn Friday evening by Sharon Irene Merithew as she became the bride of Ronald William Canterbury.

To complement the gown, the bride chose a matching velvet train. A small crown of sequins, pearls and beads capped her floor length bouffant veil.

She carried a cascading arrangement of white roses and carnations.

The daughter of the Gardner E. Merithews of Beach Street was attended by Mrs. Roy Passarelli, matron of honor, and bridesmaids Mrs. Ronald Ofiara and Margie Heck.

Best man honors were performed by Ronald Lilies. Dale Young and Roy Passarelli ushered.

Following the ceremony in St. Michael's Catholic Church, the newlyweds and their guests gathered at Maurices.

Amuse Children

Stitch PJ's From Pair of Twin Sheets

Christmas pajamas may be replacing the tie as the favorite gift item for dear old Dad and the bright-eyed young executive.

Major pattern companies report that more home sewing of men's sleepwear is done at Christmas than any other time of the year.

★ ★ ★

This season proves to be the one that's merriest from the standpoint of men's fashions, and sleepwear's no exception, according to the National Cotton Council. Bold designs and lively colors are replacing the once-typical dull colors and staid-prints.

SEW WITH SHEETS

If you're planning to stitch up pajamas or a night shirt for the males on your Christmas gift list, you may find one of the best fabric sources in the bedding department. New collections of cotton sheets lend themselves well to sleepwear.

For example, one all-cotton sheet is patterned in a handsome Jacobean crewel design that converts into stylish pajamas. Two twin-size sheets will make pajamas with a slip-on top.

Pattern borders of the sheets can be used for "cuffs" at the wrists and ankles and a contrasting hem around the pajama top.

★ ★ ★

Another sheet design appropriate for men's sleepwear is in a "jungle cat" pattern with black hems. Use two twin-size sheets for a masculine-looking night shirt, complete with black collar and pocket trim made from the sheet hem.

Suitable patterns for easily-made pajamas and night shirts are offered by most of the major companies.

If the object of your sewing efforts is an extra special guy, you might want to accompany the sleepwear item with a gift of sheets, pillowcases or towels in the same colorful print.

Triple Benefits

A clean discarded nylon hose placed over your brush while doing your hair keeps the brush clean. Also, if a few drops of your favorite perfume are placed on the hose, it not only helps to keep your hair clean but imparts a lovely fragrance to it.

Will This Wife (Me) Measure Up?

By BETTY CANARY

I answered the telephone and my husband asked, "Who is this?"

Well, I suppose there isn't a man on the earth who doesn't come to it, I thought. At last he wants to know the real me.

"Twiggy," I said.

"Why did you say that?"

★ ★ ★

"It's sort of applied psychology. You know, as a woman thinks, she is, and since I tried on a size 14 skirt this morning . . ."

"Weren't you a member of the League of Women Voters a few years ago?"

"Yes."

I heard a thud as though he had fallen.

"You aren't a contemporary revolutionist are you?"

"Gee, I don't think so. Any reason you'd like to know?"

"At lunch today Harry said that in the John Birch publication, American Opinion, marriageable men were warned to avoid contemporary revolutionists, Vassar grads, members of the League of Women Voters, hippies, mods, women who enjoy the poems of Allen Ginsberg or the wit of Dwight MacDonald . . ."

IRV

"I

"I know an Irv MacDonald. He works at the meat market."

"That's one for your side."

"What else?"

"Bachelors were also warned against females who like Twiggy and canned grasshoppers."

"Another one for my side is you aren't a bachelor. Listen, I think you must have hit your head on the telephone booth. Come on home and I will fix you a vodka Martini with two olives."

"Good Lord! They warned against women who like vodka, too!"

★ ★ ★

"Well, at least I didn't go to Vassar," I said.

"You are definitely not mod," he sounded happier but reflective. "However, about hippy . . ."

The store didn't have carned grasshoppers today, but Irv is delivering some I ordered dressed and frozen.

Tape Marks Remain

DEAR POLLY — Whenever I remove shelf paper from my kitchen cupboards there are ugly marks left from the plastic gummed tape that I use to hold it in place. Is there a better way to secure the shelf paper to enameled cupboards or is there a simple solution for removing these marks?—JOAN K.

DEAR GIRLS—After changing the length of a heavy coat there is often a suggestion of the depth of the hem even though not a single stitch came through to the top of the fabric.

To prevent this, pin the hem to the desired length, cut off to make it even but do not put seam binding on the edge. If the material would ravel badly, overcast the edges loosely.

Place a row of pins about one-inch from the edge and through both thicknesses of fabric. Turn the loose end back as you sew and catch the underneath threads of outside of coat to inside threads of hem with hand stitching. When the hem is in there will be a loose inch-wide flap at the top of the hem which will be pressed down flat with the rest of the hem and the lining will come down over the raw edge.

I find heavy dresses and skirts also look much better when hemmed this way as there is no hint of the depth of the hem on the outside of the garment. —POLLY

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Very few of us have a clear picture of the way we really look. We are so busy that we may not stop to get an objective view of the whole impression we give.

It would be a splendid idea if every woman would periodically look herself over objectively in order to discover just what she needs in the way of self-improvement.

The signs of age or neglect can slip up on us so gradually that we do not realize what is happening until the picture is a shock to us.

It is easy to become accustomed to small changes in our appearance, and before we know it, we may take them for granted. What we sometimes forget is that these do not remain the same.

The five pounds overweight has a way of turning into 15 pounds and the little line into a deep wrinkle. Preventative measures are so much easier than corrective routines.

IMPRESSION OF YOUTH

The impression of youth or age depends on many small details. Battling these small details is our first line of defense. If you decide to give yourself an honest "once-over" to find out what has been happening to you, why not begin with your figure?

Stand in front of a mirrow without clothes. You will not need a tape measure to tell you what measurement is out of proportion. Decide whether or not this is due to accumulated fatty deposits or to poor posture, or both. If you are uncertain, weigh and measure yourself. This is a good idea anyway.

At first, stand like you normally do. Then correct any defects in carriage you may have. Notice how the abdominal bulge disappears when you pull your abdomen in, how the waist slims when the spine is straightened and the rib cage is lifted, how the double chin vanishes when you hold your head correctly.

YOUR HAIR

Next think of your hairdo. Look at it sideview and backview as well as from the front. Have you delayed too long for a much needed permanent? Is your hair dull and lifeless? Does it look well-groomed?

* * *

Are you wearing it in the most becoming way? Have you changed your hair style recently? It is easy to experiment with different hairdoes today because of the many hair pieces available.

* * *

Then, of course, it is wise to think over your wardrobe. Decide what is flattering and what to discard or avoid the next time you buy clothes.

A periodic honest check on ourselves helps us remedy mistakes and avoid or delay defects.

Nurses Can Find New Career in the Air Force

Registered nurses under 35 with no dependents should stop a moment to consider our present world situation and the essential role the Air Force plays in that situation. Consider what this situation implies about the need for nurses in the Air Force.

What you probably see is a grim picture, and you are right! The Air Force has an intense and almost unparalleled need for nurses.

But though the Air Force needs nurses badly, the advantages are by no means one-sided, for the Air Force offers a career of satisfaction, excitement, novelty, and personal growth. Indeed, in no civilian institution can a nurse grow professionally, educationally, and socially as much as she can in the Air Force.

* * *

As an Air Force officer a nurse enjoys a position of respect, responsibility, and stability.

Here, too, she can meet more people than she generally meets as a civilian.

During her annual paid leave she can travel at very low cost. And she will be far better paid than she usually is as a civilian nurse. Even her uniforms are provided for her, laundered free, and replaced when necessary!

Professionally, opportunities abound for a nurse's growth! The Air Force medical team is one of the most up-to-date medical groups in existence.

* * *

In addition to having over one hundred modern general hospitals and dispensaries in the United States and overseas, Air Force medical personnel are an integral part of the space program and an essential support to Air Force combat readiness and effectiveness.

Obviously, any medical group with these commitments must necessarily be the most modern imaginable. And, of course, an Air Force nurse becomes an important part of the modern knowledge, techniques, and equipment the Air Force uses.

Additionally, Air Force nurses have greater opportunity to consult with doctors; Air Force doctors are always available, since they have no downtown offices to maintain. Nurses who work overseas can observe and treat diseases peculiar to a particular area — an almost nonexistent opportunity for a civilian nurse.

Each year a group of qualified nurses are selected to attend a leading American college or university to complete degree requirements or to specialize in obstetrics, operating room supervision, or anesthesia.

While attending, nurses receive full pay and allowances.

Nurses interested in joining the Air Force may obtain further information from the Air Force Recruiting office at 35 East Huron.

Stratford Announces Plays for '68 Season

One of Chekhov's great masterpieces, an opera by Rossini, an exciting new repertoire by the Royal Winnipeg Ballet and, as already announced, a contemporary play by Samuel Beckett complete the program for the Avon Threatre season at the 1968 Stratford Festival, it was announced this week by Jeanj Gascon, executive artistic director.

The Avon, where a $1,000,000 reconstruction project was completed last year, opens July 5 with the Festival Opera Company's production of Rossini's adult opera, "Cinderella," (La Cenerentola) sung in English.

A few days later, July 9, the Royal Winnipeg Ballet, Canada's most widely-toured theatrical attraction, and acclaimed on three continents, returns to the Stratford Festival. Artistic Director Arnold Spohr will present new works from its sparkling repertoire.

Chekhov's magnificent drama "The Seagull," opens July 23. This late 19th century classic, in the repertoire of all major international companies, will be directed by Jean Gascon and designed by Brian Jackson.

As previously announced, the fourth production at the Avon Theatre, Samuel Beckett's "Waiting for Godot," will be directed by William Hutt and designed by Brian Jackson. It opens August 12.

The Stratford Festival opens June 10 with Shakespeare's best-known love story, "Romeo and Juilet."

Other plays, also announced earlier for the Festival Theatre are Moliere's "Tartuffe," opening June 11 and Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream," opening June 12. On July 22 a new adaptation by Peter Raby of Alexander Dumas' "The Three Musketeers," will have its opening.

The Festival closes October 12.

Small scale elegance has a background of traditional 18th century classical style. So well proportioned is this secretary-armoire that it's not easy to guess its size which makes it ideal for little wall spaces so difficult to decorate. Or, for a grand scale appearance, a 30-inch or 38-inch wide "bridge" to be used as a vanity or desk can be placed between a pair of them. Proclamation by Stanley. Line available locally.

PNH Opens With Victory; Lakers Tumble Clarkston, 57-51

Hayward, Moncrief Shine in Error-Marked Contest

By DON VOGEL

FLINT — A basketball player doesn't always have to make spectacular moves to standout on the court.

This was the case here last night as Pontiac Northern opened its season with a 74-59 victory over Flint Southwestern. Two PNH players — senior Don Hayward and sophomore Chuck Moncrief — were the best on the floor.

There was nothing flashy about their efforts. They turned in steady performances and this is what shone brightly in the labyrinth of errors.

Hayward took game scoring honors with 22 points. The 6-4 center spent a good share of the game at the free throw line and this was where he showed any shortcoming, making only 12 of 18.

Moncrief made a habit of being in the right place at the right time, hitting seven baskets for 14 points and picking off a good number of rebounds.

The remainder of the players who saw action seemed to be trying to outdo one another in the error department. Turnovers from traveling, bad passes and stolen balls were so numerous in the first half that fans were beginning to wonder if they were watching the second string jayvee units in action.

★ ★ ★

Southwestern has one of its poorest teams in history and this no doubt accounted for the Huskies falling into an error-prone pattern.

It was obvious from the start that PNH was the much superior team, but the Huskies were too busy playing giveaway for the first five minutes to score a field goal.

ICE BREAKER

Bob Traylor finally broke the ice and a minute later Mike Clancy connected on the front end of a fast break to get Northern in front, 7-6. The Colts never caught up.

Twice PNH opened eight point margins in the second quarter only to run into a rash of errors. A 24-16 margin dropped to two points when the Huskies fell apart briefly against a Southwestern press.

But Moncrief pumped in two short jumpers and Hayward netted a rebound to help Northern gain a 33-25 halftime lead.

The Huskies' attack was hampered in the second period when Traylor picked up four fouls and starting guard Craig Deaton fouled out.

Southwestern's only offensive threat in the first half was John Earnest and he went to the sidelines with four fouls midway in the second period.

The officials, who appeared to be as confused as the players in the first half, whistled a total of 49 personals against the two teams in the game.

Four players, two from each side fouled out.

★ ★ ★

The Huskies slowly pulled away in the third quarter as Hayward popped a fielder and eight free throws. The errors were cut down slightly, but toward the end of the period unnecessary fouls and careless passing helped the Colts to stay within 12 points.

Substitutes dominated the floor in the fourth quarter and the turnover count shot back up. Clancy hit six straight points to give the Huskies a 68-50 bulge, the largest of the night.

Clancy finished with 19 points.

Northern coach Dick Hall said he was pleased with the play of Hayward and Moncrief, "but not impressed by anything else."

★ ★ ★

"We expect our new boys to make mistakes in the first game," said the coach, "but it was just the opposite. Except for Hayward, it was our veterans who played poorly."

The Northern reserves were impressive in an 80-57 triumph.

LOOKING FOR OPENING—Reserve forward Dan Brown (with ball) came off the bench to grab some key rebounds for West Bloomfield last night. Here he attempts to fake several Clarkston defenders before going back up for a field goal try. Guarding him from the rear is Chuck Granger while moving in to help are Dick Johnson (45) and Mark Erickson (53). Brown was fouled by Granger on the third-period play.

West Bloomfield, Andover Collect League Victories

By JERE CRAIG

Defending champion Clarkston didn't have the scoring punch from the field but still could be in the thick of the Wayne-Oakland League basketball title race if last night's openers were any true indication.

West Bloomfield held off the Wolves, 57-51; but the Lakers failed to show the bench strength necessary for a first-place unit.

Preseason favorite Northville downed Clarenceville, 49-41; tall Bloomfield Hills Andover outplayed Milford, 48-38; and Holly uncovered its scoring punch for a 68-60 win over Brighton.

In no case did the winning team display the power expected of a contending unit.

West Bloomfield was impressive at Clarkston until the latter portion of each half when the Lakers seemed to tire and lose their poise briefly. This was particularly true in the late going as the Wolves reduced their deficit from 17 points to 55-49 with one half minute to play.

MISS TARGET

Held to 17 points in the opening half—not getting a field goal until 4:15 had elapsed in the game—and down 45-30 as the last period began, Clarkston's full-court press forced the Lakers into as many mistakes as they had in the first three quarters combined.

The Wolves hit 21 points but it wasn't enough to overcome West Bloomfield's big lead. The visitors utilized good speed, excellent first-game passing and devastating shooting.

In the first and third quarters they missed only three shots while making eight and nine, respectively, mostly on easy layups set up by the playmaking of Larry Anding, Gary Hahnefeld and Dave Karlson.

★ ★ ★

The Lakers finished with 54 per cent and a 26-19 advantage from the floor. The rebounding was even for the two teams and the home squad had a favorable edge in free throw chances.

PRESS WORKS

Holly, the home opener foe for West Bloomfield next Friday, had to come from behind against Brighton with a 44-22 last half. Down, 36-24, at halftime, the Broncos pulled in front using a pressing defense.

The Bulldogs lost their shooting touch and were bothered by the defensive tactics of substitute guard Chuck Swegles who forced bad passes and stole the ball.

Junior Larry Longstreth also was a factor for Holly, notching 16 of his 20 points in the last half. Tom Hayes' 17 added to the offense.

Poor foul shooting by the winners enabled Brighton to stay close throughout.

Andover prepped for its meeting with Clarkston on the Bloomfield Hills' court by capitalizing, too, on its foes' mistakes. The Barons held a 31-15 halftime edge.

★ ★ ★

It was built primarily in the second quarter when Milford was guilty of numerous turnovers and fell out of contention as the visitors posted a 17-4 margin in the spree.

NEEDS HELP

Steve Jones tallied 12 of his 15 points for Andover in the winners' 14-11 first quarter. Then his teammates joined the offense. Still, the host Redskins actually had a 15-13 advantage from the field as neither team shot well.

The taller Barons controlled the backboards led by Jones, and had many more opportunities at the free throw line.

Northville gained its second win by taking advantage of its experience, again, for a final minute's victory in the Mustangs' league opener.

Clarenceville slowed the tempo and managed a 25-all tie at the half. The Mustangs benefitted from the 20 rebounds of Jim Peterson who also scored 11 points.

★ ★ ★

Ken Boerger's 14 and Randy Pohlman's 10 gave the winners a balanced offense. Northville was sharper from the floor, making 22 field goals to 16 by the Trojans. Pohlman and Bob Hubbert contributed to the Mustangs' rebounding edge.

Kettering Nipped; Orion Routs Oxford

North Farmington Snaps Captains' 20-Game Streak in Regular Season

North Farmington's Raiders rallied to snap Kettering's 20-game regular season victory string with a tense 44-43 conquest Friday night, adding another thriller to the growing list of suspenseful openers between the two teams.

★

The invading Captains hadn't lost a regular season game since February 1966 and had won 31 of 32 games in the past two campaigns.

But even in those successful years, coach Duby's quintet had to scrap for a one-point win in 1965 and a four-point decision in overtime last fall in the openers with the Raiders.

Last night WKHS moved into a 10-point lead and seemed destined to continue its winning ways at halftime with a 30-22 advantage. A 42 per cent effort from the floor helped.

But North Farmington mentor Dick Wilson put the Raiders into a zone defense that shut off the Captains' attack. The home team cut the gap to 39-34 by the end of the third quarter.

PACE SLOWS

The scoring pace grew slower but Jay Hazelroth finally pushed the North Farmington squad ahead midway through the final session, and teammate Ron Flutur followed with the basket that sewed up the verdict.

★ ★ ★

Flutur and Mike McCoy, two returning regulars, combined for 29 of the winners' 44 points with Flutur notching 18. Only two other North Farmington players scored: Hazelroth and Rick Knock.

Kettering's main weapon was its lone returning starter, Pete Evans. He pumped in nine field goals and two foul shots to take game scoring honors with 20 points —almost half of the Captains' total.

The losers outshot North Farmington from the field, but lost the decision at the foul line despite making five of seven attempts.

HAULING IT IN—Forward Bill Foss hauls down a rebound for Lake Orion's Dragons in the first half of their game against Oxford last night. Trying unsuccessfully to beat Foss to the ball is Paul Lewis (25). At left is Oxford's Garry Cummings (45) and at right is Lake Orion center Gary Mize (50). It was the season opener for both teams and Orion won in a rout, 76-20.

Dragons Ending Role of Doormat

By FLETCHER SPEARS

It's too early to tell for sure, but it appears that Lake Orion's role as a basketball doormat is over.

The Dragons have suffered a lot of frustration from losses on the football field and basketball court in the past few seasons, but indications are that all will be forgotten if this year's cage squad lives up to its preseason billing.

Coach George Elias admitted earlier that he was working with the finest crop of players in years as he tuned the team for the '67-'68 campaign.

Even he, however, was a little surprised last night as the Dragons opened the season by humbling a visiting Oxford team, 76-20.

The Dragons were 1-15 last year and the football team just finished a 1-8 season.

Seldom does a team go from first to last in a league lineup, but the Dragons have an excellent chance of jumping from the basement to the top in the Oakland A League this season.

The Dragons are big and experienced. There were some rough edges in last night's performance, but Elias and the squad should iron out the wrinkles as the season progresses.

Oxford was never in last night's game. Orion bolted to a 22-3 first quarter lead, raised it to 41-9 at the half and waltzed through the second half.

With Bill Foss (6-6), Gary Mize (6-7), Larry VanInWagen (6-1), Jim Daigle (6-2) and Paul Bayley (6-4) combining to control both backboards, the Dragons gained a 49-33 edge in rebounding and it could have been a lot worse.

The game was out of Oxford's reach early, and both Elias and the Wildcats' Lee Noftz substituted freely. Elias returned the starting five to the floor at the start of the second half, but he pulled them quickly and the reserves finished the contest.

Foss was the big gun in the Orion attack. He outmaneuvered his shorter foes near the basket and wound up with 25 points, the only player in the double figures.

TAKING AIM — On target in last night's 76-20 victory for Lake Orion over Oxford was forward Bill Foss, who poured in 27 points to pace the Dragons. Failing in an effort to stop Foss is Oxford's Dennis Wait.

Waterford OLL 5 Defeats St. Rita

Waterford Our Lady of Lakes began its season Friday night with a foul-tinged 67-57 triumph over Detroit St. Rita in a Northwest Catholic League contest at the WOLL court.

The visitors led by one point entering the second period and after an exchange of baskets, Dennis McCullouch's driving layup sent the Lakers in front to stay.

★ ★ ★

The lead was 30-24 at the intermission. Dan Sioma put in 13 of his game-high 23 points in the second half and McCulloch's 10 more enabled WOLL to build its lead to 14 points late in the game.

Sioma and Brian Haskins kept control of the backboards for the winners (1-0). Terry Meagher's 19 paced St. Rita.

Groves, Romeo Show Early Strength

Crane Quint No Match for Falcons, 67-47

Birmingham Groves continues its winning ways on the local basketball front and the second victim for the Falcons was Cranbrook, 67-47.

It was the 35th regular season victory in succession for Groves, which humbled city rival Seaholm in its opener.

★ ★ ★

After a 43-21 halftime lead, the game was never in doubt, even though Groves did not have one of its better shooting nights.

The Falcons managed only 32 per cent of their shots while Cranbrook hit only 30 per cent from the floor.

Cranbrook however did manage to outrebound Groves, 43-41.

Lane Brown led the victory with 22 points helped by Jim Cameron's 18.

★ ★ ★

Ron Fallon's 26 paced the losers while Curt Mann added 12 points.

Cranbrook faces Seaholm on the Maple court next Tuesday evening.

LOWDOWN MANEUVERING—Clarkston's Kim Beattie (foreground) and Gerry Ostrom (kneeling) bend low to force a turnover by West Bloomfield's Lakers during the first quarter of last night's Wayne-Oakland League opener for both teams. The dark-shirted Laker scrapping for the basketball is Larry Anding. It was one of only two ball-handling mistakes by the Lakers in the early going.

Lapeer Can't Hold Margin in 80-69 Loss

Romeo's talented basketball team started slowly, but after they warmed up, the Bulldogs outpointed Lapeer in the final three periods and went on to win, 80-69.

It was the second victory in as many starts for Romeo, which tallied 92 points in the opener.

★ ★ ★

Lapeer took a 22-16 lead in the first period, but helped by the rebounding of big Don Craft (6-5) and Dan Burzynski (6-7) plus the sharpshooting of Mike Semp and Clyde Cushingberry, Romeo tied it at 26-26 and never fell behind.

SCHOOL RECORD

Craft set a school record for rebounds with 27, while Burzynski added 13 as Romeo held the board advantage, 63 to 40.

In the final field goal tally, Romeo had 32 of 80 from the floor.

Bill DesJardins and John Rice each hit for 21 for Lapeer, while Cushingberry had 21 and Semp 20 for Romeo.

It was Lapeers first start of the season, while Romeo stands, 2-0.

Vikings' New Coach Debuts With Victory

Walled Lake's new cage coach John Oswald saw the Vikings make their debut under his direction by fighting from behind to down Plymouth, 55-53, Friday night.

It was the kind of win that is bound to give the victory hungry Walled Lake hoopsters a big lift and undoubtedly the coach has put his hopes up a notch.

Now all the Vikings have to do is avoid leading their likeable new mentor into the same pitfall that befell Oswald's predecessor, Ken Butler.

Butler also broke into the county's head coaching ranks in 1965 with a win over Plymouth. The Vikings then suffered 16 straight defeats and had a two-year 6-31 log for him.

Versatile Greg Fogle led the win as expected last night with 20 points on 10 field goals. The slender forward also pulled down 15 rebounds as the star of the game. He made 10 of 22 in the tilt.

Walled Lake trailed most of the game but fought back in the final session to avenge last year's opening game defeat by the Rocks.

The host quintet finally surged ahead midway through the last period and Plymouth wasn't able to catch up. Mike Kubik led the losers with 15 points.

Greg Ghetia offset this production by making 14 for Walled Lake. The Vikings also controlled the backboards.

★ ★ ★

They will have a better idea of their potential after next Friday's Inter-Lakes League opener against a tall, experienced Stevenson squad at Walled Lake.

Eaglets Take 'Cold' Contest

St. James Fires Only 19% From Floor

Orchard Lake St. Mary, with an overtime non-league loss to strong St. Ladislaus last week, came back to begin league play last night to defeat Ferndale St. James, 47-37 in a cold shooting game.

The Eagles led 20-13 at halftime and never relinquished the lead even though St. James closed the gap to three points at one time.

Neither team could find the range from the floor as OLSM hit only 26 per cent on 18 of 65 shots, while St. James had a meager 19 per cent on 14 of 72 attempts.

Greg Fior led the Eaglets with 17 while Tom Sudek had 12, of which 10 were in the first half.

When St. James narrowed the margin in the final two minutes, Fior's four free throws boosted it to six points, 41-36 to pull it out of reach.

Dave Burt led the losers with 12 points as only four players got into the scoring column.

Dragons Breathe New Life in Cage Attack

Bankert picked up eight, Mize added seven and Dave Hauxwell came off the bench to toss in seven. In all, Elias used 15 players and 11 of them scored.

Gary Cumimngs and Ray Martens picked up five points apiece to pace Oxford.

JOB AHEAD

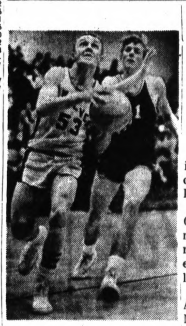
"We know we can't rebound against them," Noftz was saying before the game. "We will have to work the ball in and play for the percentage shot."

★ ★ ★

The Cats did work it in but they were well off target in hitting only seven of 52 shots. Orion, on the other hand, taking advantage of a bagful of easy shots from close range, connected on 34 of 64 attempts for a hot 52 per cent evening. Orion made 19 of 32 in the first half.

★ ★ ★

The loss was one of the worst suffered by the Wildcats. They dropped a 66-30 verdict last season to Kettering, and Romeo handed them a 47-22 setback back in 1961.



IN THE CLEAR — Mark Erickson (53) of Clarkston gets loose for a second-quarter layup last night, leaving West Bloomfield's Curt Britton behind on the play.

Almont, Dryden Victims

Thumb Fives on Target

Almont and Dryden each ran into a hot-shooting foe and dropped their Southern Thumb League inaugurals last night.

Dryden was outclassed by host Capac, 87-49. The Raiders, meanwhile, were waylaid by the revved up Rockets of New Haven and suffered a 61-45 upset loss.

The other Thumb results had Armada pulling away from Memphis for a 57-40 victory, and Anchor Bay overcoming Richmond, 66-60 to ruin the Blue Devils' league basketball debut.

Capac's Chiefs flashed the form that once made them the terrors of the circuit. They connected for 22-27 tallies in each of the opening three periods to amass a 73-31 lead.

Cliff Lietz led the attack with 28 points. John Palmateer added 16 while John Malinich led Dryden with 12.

Almont stayed close to New Haven for the initial three sessions, but the Rockets capitalized on the losers' gambling defense to pad their 43-26 lead.

New Haven's 5-11 forward Bill Kincaid grabbed 15 rebounds and hit 26 points (12 in the fourth quarter) to pace the winners. Bill Folsom added 14 rebounds and 11 points. Al Currey hit 17 to stand out for Almont.

Armada built a 27-16 lead in the first half to beat Memphis. Dennis Zuelhke's 14 markers for the losers led the scoring.

Ortonville trailed only 32-30 at halftime and stayed close until the final minutes of the third period when Bresnaham hit four baskets. He had 24 for the night to lead all scorers, but had help from two teammates with double figures.

Dave Tuttle had 21 points for Ortonville helped by Jim Krug with 10.

Pressley Sparks Detroit Bible '5' to 89-87 Victory

Bud Pressley pushed in four free throws in the final 32 seconds last night and finished with 46 points in sparking Detroit Bible College to an 89-87 victory over Great Lakes Bible School of Lansing in a Michigan Christian Athletic Association contest.

The winners, now 2-1, trailed at halftime, 52-40, but they tightened the defense and turned on the offense to spill the Lansing squad (2-2).

Pressley picked up 24 of his points in the second half. Helping with the scoring chores was Don Palasios with 24.

Ron Soper ripped through 39 points, pacing Lake Superior over Davenport. The game was see-saw until the last two minutes when Soper led a rally, clicking on three floor shots.

Penta's Morey Kocer fired in 28 points and Jim Penix scored 27 in the route over Northwood.

New Golf Pro Eying Victory in First Start

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — "I believe in myself and I think I can do it," says 23-year-old Marty Fleckman, a darkly intent young Texan who has his sights set on becoming the first golfer to capture a PGA tour event in his first appearance as a professional.

Fleckman went into today's third round of the $35,000 Cajun Classic—final stop for 1967 on the play-for-pay circuit—one stroke behind John Lotz, a 5-foot-8 shotmaker from California who is also looking for his first victory after 3½ years on the tour.

Lotz had two five-under-par 67s over the 6,550-yard Oakbourne Country Club course for a 36-hole score of 134. Fleckman shared second place with lanky Laurie Hammer, who won the Haig & Haig Invitational with partner Dave Stockton two weeks ago.

Spartans Fall on Home Ice

EAST LANSING (AP) — The Duluth branch of the University of Minnesota exploded for four goals in the final period to beat Michigan State 5-3, spoiling the Spartans' home opener in Western Collegiate Hockey Association play Friday night.

★ ★ ★

Michigan State, 2-0-1 after a road trip, led 2-0 on first-period goals by Bill Enrico and Tom Mikkola, and held the margin as Ron Busniuk of Duluth and Wayne Duffett of MSU traded goals in the second period.

★ ★ ★

The Duluth goals, which came in a span of two minutes and 22 seconds in the third period, were by Larry Krawchuk, Elroy Froiland, Dave Farrow and Tom Mrozik.

Power Plays Help Michigan Tech '6'

HOUGHTON (AP)—Unbeaten Michigan Tech scored five power-play goals and went on to whip Denver 6-1 in its Western Collegiate Hockey Association opener Friday night.

Don Jones, a sophomore wing man, sparked the Tech attack with two goals. The Huskies led 3-0 after the first period and upped their margin to 5-1 after the second stanza.

Tech, now 3-0, takes on Denver again tonight. Denver has a 2-2 record, all WCHA games.

Hazel Park 5 Posts Victory

Jim Merchela 5-10 junior guard led Hazel Park to a 70-57 victory over Warren Woods last night.

Merchel hit for 29 points as Hazel Park led 28-25 at halftime and then pulled away at the start of the third quarter.

Al Petracich added 17 for the winners while Gus Percha had 11 for Woods. It was a non-league game for Hazel Park.

Big Reds Top Seaholm

Birmingham Seaholm faded in the second half and posted its second straight loss of the young basketball season Friday night when it returned from Port Huron an 82-61 loser.

Several other members of the Southeastern Michigan AA fared better in their nonleague outings.

Ferndale, the preseason favorite, trimmed Port Huron Northern, 64-52, as Bill McClurg hit 17 points. Diminutive Jim Merchel's 29 led Hazel Park past Warren Woods, 70-57.

Southfield outlasted Redford Union, 55-50, but Berkley was a 58-48 victim of Dearborn Fordson.

Birmingham Brother Rice upheld Southern Oakland County honors with a 65-57 conquest of Detroit Salesian in a Detroit Catholic League encounter.

At Port Huron, the Seaholm quintet was down, 37-30, at the halftime break. The host Big Reds' rebounding strength took its toll in the third period, though, and they moved into a 65-44 margin and contined to pull away as Jim Jones, Bruce Maxwell and Jerry Nichols each had four field goals.

Randy Anderson scored 15 of his 19 in the opening half for Port Huron.

Utica Swimmers Open With Victory

Utica opened its swimming season with an exciting 53-47 victory over Bishop Gallagher as Larry Merritt set a school and pool record of 2:14.8 in the individual medley.

The score was 45-43 going into the final relay won by the Chieftains in a time of 4:03.

Al Zsido tied the pool record in the 100 backstroke in 1:05.0. Winning both relays helped the Utica victory. The Chieftains had a 13-4 record last season.

Sophomores Spark 'M' Ice Triumph

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Sophomores Barney Pashak and Dave Perrin scored two goals each as Michigan defeated Waterloo Lutheran of Waterloo, Ont., 4-0, in a hockey game Friday night.

Goalie Jim Keough collected the shutout.

It was the third victory against no losses for Michigan.

SLIPPERY 'CAT—Oxford Wildcats' Darrell Marsh (43) avoided the defensive move by Lake Orion's Judd Bankert (32) in the first half of their game in Lake Orion last night. It was one of the few times the Wildcats managed to slip past the tight Dragon defense. It mattered little, however, as Lake Orion rolled to a 76-20 victory in the '67-'68 opener for both teams.

South Lyon Unable to Hold Margin

South Lyon kept the upper hand on Ypsilanti Lincoln for three quarters Friday night, spent much of the fourth jostling for the lead and then finally faded to a 72-65 defeat.

The Lions led after the three opening quarters but couldn't build enough of a lead to keep from losing their second straight in the closing minutes. Lincoln had a 23-14 last-period point bulge.

The winners used a two-man attack. Joe Cole tallied 26 and Jim Fleszar produced 17 for the visitors. South Lyon's displayed three players in an effort to stay in the game.

Scott Bennett led the way with 18. Mike Showerman contributed 16 and Dave Brandon 14. They kept Lincoln from opening a comfortable margin until the final minute.

GETTING ACQUAINTED—The University of Michigan basketball team held its first workouts in the new special events building this week. The Wolverines met Kentucky this afternoon in the initial basketball game in the $7-million structure. Work continued on the building until the last minute, including the installation of the backboard apparatus in the foreground.

Lions, Steelers Clash With Similar Woes

Both Teams Set to Switch QB's in Sunday Tilt

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Two NFL teams faced with the same problems — finding a starting quarterback and faced with the cellar spot of their respective divisions — the Detoit Lions and Pittsburgh Steelers face each other in Tiger Stadium Sunday afternoon.

The Lions, 3-6-2, thumped in their last two starts against Baltimore and Los Angeles, will be trying to snap out of their slump by putting Milt Plum back into the starting role at quarterback.

The Lions whose passing game is one of the poorest in the league with an average of only 126 yards a game, will have to win the remaining three games if they hope to finish the season with a .500 mark.

The major portion of the Lions' offense rests in the running of rookie sensation Mel Farr who has 702 yards rushing, and the odds are getting slimmer that the former UCLA star can hit the 1,000 mark for the season.

The Steelers, 2-8-1 for the season are planning on giving rookie quarterback Ken Nix another chance to start in place of Bill Nelson.

STARTS 4 GAMES

Nix, a rookie from TCU, started four games earlier when Nelson was out with a bad knee.

Nix has thrown the ball 174 times for 93 completions and 1,084 yards, while the entire Lions' output passing is only 1,352 yards.

Overall, the Steelers have 169 completions for 2,250 yards.

Sunday's game will be homecoming for Lions' Alumni who gather annually. Also at the game, 12 boys ages 8-13 will compete in the local finals for the punt, pass and kick contest with the six winners representing the Lions in the Western Division contest in San Francisco, Dec. 16.

Three local boys will be in competition. Tim McKay of Pontiac will compete against Ala Peterson of Lansing in the 9 year old bracket.

Steve Luczak of Utica goes against William Thomas of Battle Creek in the 11 year old bracket and Rodd Culp of Troy competes agains Kim Losik of Three Rivers in the 13 year bracket.

Browns, Giants in NFL Re-Run

By United Press International

They started a rerun on old National Football League movies when the schedule makers decided the perils of a Cleveland-New York game was worth another crack at the turnstiles in late season.

It's Leroy Kelly instead of Jimmy Brown heading the Cleveland cast and Fran Tarkenton replaced Y. A. Tittle as New York's leading man for this Sunday thriller that could produce the Century Division champion.

Cleveland will have a packed house for a second running of the Browns-Giants production. New York won the curtain raiser 38-34 earlier this season when Tarkenton threw three scoring strikes and ran for a fourth touchdown.

The Browns are 7-point favorite for the contest. They carry a one-game lead over the Giants.

If the two teams should finish the regular season in a tie for first place, New York will earn a berth in the Eastern Conference title game against the Capitol Division winner because the Giants scored more total points in the home-and-home series.

In the past, each team gained the division title by beating the other in a playoff.

Cleveland won the 1950 playoff when Lou Groza booted a 29-yard field goal with 59 seconds to play. New York waited eight years to retaliate, taking the 1958 post-season game on a Frank Gifford to Charlie Conerly lateral for the game's only touchdown.

LEADERS BATTLE

Two division leaders clash in another key game, with Baltimore favored by seven to defeat Dallas and keep its hopes alive for becoming the NFL's first unbeaten team since 1942.

Baltimore maintains a one-game lead over Los Angeles in the struggle for the Coastal Division crown, while Dallas can clinch the Capitol title with a victory over Baltimore.

In other Sunday games, Green Bay, which has wrapped up the Central Division championship, is rated a seven-point pick over Minnesota, Los Angeles is a long 24-point choice over Atlanta, Washington eight over Philadelphia, Chicago six over San Francisco, St. Louis 13 over New Orleans and Detroit seven over Pittsburgh.

Lead at Stake in AFL Game

By United Press International

The San Diego Chargers didn't have a prayer in their first game against the Oakland Raiders.

The Chargers, clobbered by Oakland, 51-10, in the first meeting on Oct. 29, should at least have a prayer this time — Speedy Duncan's. But the Chargers will need more than Duncan's prayers Sunday when they meet Oakland for the second time with first place in the Western Division at stake.

It was two weeks ago when Duncan revealed his reliance on prayer for the Chargers.

With the Chargers protecting a 17-16 lead with 19 seconds to go and the Kansas City Chiefs' Jan Stenerud ready to attempt a 24-yard field goal, Duncan decided his team needed some help.

"I got down on my knees and prayed that he'd miss," Duncan revealed after the game.

Duncan's prayer was answered as Stenerud promptly missed the attempt and San Diego won the game to remain one-half game behind Oakland.

Going into their key game Sunday at San Diego, Oakland is 9-1 while San Diego is 8-1-1 with a 31-31 tie with Boston on its record besides the loss to Oakland. Oakland's only loss was to the New York Jets 27-14 on Oct. 7.

The game is supposed to be a match between San Diego's offense and Oakland's defense, which are both No. 1 in the league.

San Diego's offense has gained an average of 366 yards a game while Oakland's defense has allowed just 196 yards.

OUT OF ACTION

San Diego is fortunate that Clem Daniels, who rushed for 94 yards and picked up another 101 in pass receiving in the first game, is out with a broken ankle.

★ ★ ★

Pete Banaszak, making his first pro start, rushed for 81 yards, scored a touchdown and caught four passes last week against Kansas City while filling in for Daniels and Oakland hopes he will continue that pace.

Quarterback Daryle Lamonica, obtained in the off-season trade with Buffalo, remains the key to the Oakland attack.

"Lamonica has made this club," Rauch claims, "he does a fantastic job, he's throwing well both long and short and knows how to utilize his tools."

In the other three games Denver is at New York, Miami is at Houston and Buffalo is at Kansas City.

Walled Lake, Seaholm Mat Duel on Tap

Walled Lake and Birmingham Seaholm, with impressive wrestling victories under their belts, now start tuning for each other with the meeting slated for next Friday on the Seaholm mats.

The Vikings of Walled Lake opened the season last night by posting a 36-8 triumph over Flint Hamady. Seaholm made its debut with a 41-2 nod over Lake Orion.

Three of the Vikings pinned opponents in the lopsided match. Ray Buffmyer (112) decked his foe at 1:30; Scott McKown (145) ended his in 57 seconds; and Jim Thomas (180) needed only 1:28 in his match.

Major Leagues OK Expansion

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Expansion, rules changes and player trades dominated baseball's 66th winter meeting with both major leagues making plans for 12-club pennant races.

★ ★ ★

The American League, which indicated before the meetings started it would expand in 1969 to Seattle, Wash., and Kansas City, conditionally approved a franchise holder in Seattle and set up a definite date to choose the franchise group which would replace the Athletics taken to Oakland by Charles O. Finley.

★ ★ ★

National League owners voted to expand not later than 1971 and appointed a pair of owners to study expansion. Six cities have made formal application for the two proposed National League spots.

Seattle's Pacific Northwest Sports, Inc., was given conditional approval for a 1969 entry into the American League. The conditions include passage of a $40 million stadium bond issue, start of construction on the stadium by the end of 1970 and arequate interim playing facilities.

DAY AHEAD

The baseball men, by meeting Friday night, got out of Mexico City a day ahead of schedule.

Before they left they made deals on 33 players, attempted to put teeth in the ban against the spitball, got into a brief squabble with players and outlawed the type of trades which involve "a player to be named later."

They also set the major league player limit at 25 per club—down from 28—for the majority of the season and agreed irrevocable interleague waivers of $20,000 must be obtained before a player can be released.

The squabble involved what the Players Association said was delay on the part of the owners in negotiating a statement of policy which would increase the minimum salary $5,000 to $12,000 a year. That apparently was resolved with an agreement to meet in New York Dec. 13-15.

T-Hawks Go Without Ace Rebounder

Spartan Cagers Rout Coast Foe in Debut

EAST LANSING (AP)—Coach John Benington called his Michigan State Spartans' 80-49 victory over California State of Fullerton a "real good opener" but was disappointed in the number of personal fouls his boys committed.

"I was satisfied with our overall play," Benington said after Friday night's victory, "but we had too many unnecessary fouls."

★ ★ ★

The defending co-Big Ten champion Spartans committed 18 fouls in the game, holding Cal State to 15 field goals in 62 shots for a miserable 24 per cent floor mark. But Cal State made 19 of 27 foul shots.

MSU built up a 43-20 halftime lead and Benington substituted freely against the California team, made up mostly of players who have never played junior college basketball.

★ ★ ★

"I thought Tom Lick and Haywood Edwards are the most improved players we have," said Benington. "Both boys haven't played much but they came through for us this time."

STARTING SLOT

Lick, a 6-foot-10 junior center from Gaylord, moved in to the starting center slot for graduated Matthew Aitch. He scored 10 points and cleared 17 rebounds, as the Spartans held a 69-46 advantage on the bounds.

Edwards, playing in a reserve role, scored 15 points to lead the Spartan scorers.

★ ★ ★

Lee Lafayette, MSU's 6-foot-6 forward tabbed earlier as a top prospect for this year's team, hit on only four of 16 shots for 10 points.

The Spartans had a mediocre shooting night, hitting 35 per cent on 35 field goals in 100 shots.

Alex Omalev, Cal State coach, was impressed with the Spartan defense.

"Benington has a strong defensive team," he said. "They forced us into a lot of bad shots. But it was a good experience for our boys. Most of them have played only junior college ball before this year."

Top scorer in the game was Cal State's Joe Ware, who had 21 points.

Local Five Entertaining Battle Creek

The Pontiac Tomahawks were cast in a solid underdog role Friday for their North American Basketball League game tonight at Northern High School against Battle Creek.

Coach Bob Duffy learned last night that the T-Hawks will probably be missing their outstanding center, 6-7 Jim Patterson of Hamilton, Ohio, due to a family illness.

★ ★ ★

Still seeking to find the combination that will do a consistent job at both ends of the court, Duffy was notified that Patterson's pregnant wife was seriously ill and the rookie rebounder was expected to return home today.

This adds to the youthful coach's early season problems of an unsteady defense and the lack of a playmaker.

Duffy moved to correct the latter situation by adding former All-County PNH star Mike Fedynik (6-0) to the active roster this week.

ACTION RETURNS

He will be the second former All-County cager expected on the PNH court tonight. Ex-Troy prep star Bud Acton is a key man in the Battle Creek lineup.

Acton ranks right behind Patterson at the top of the NABL's rebounding list after four games. The 6-6, 210-pound forward also carries a 20-point scoring average for the Braves.

Battle Creek enters the game with a 2-2 mark but caught in a two-game losing skid. The Tomahawks are 1-3 and could tie their visitors for second place in the Eastern Division of the NABL with an upset win.

CONVENTION

Adding to Duffy's dilemma is Ernie Thompson's unavailability. The former Saginaw High School All-Stater and Bradley University regular is in Miami at a teacher's convention this weekend.

However, flashy 6-1 guard Dave Gaines — the NABL's second leading scorer with a 30-point average — may move to the front court to help on the backboards. Gaines is an excellent jumper for his size.

The 8 p.m. feature contest will follow a 6:25 p.m. exhibition contest between the Pontiac Firebirds gridmen and a Pontiac Police Officers' Association quintet.

Tickets are $2 per adult and $1 per student. The PNH doors open at 6:15 p.m.

Deer Hunters Making Final Weekend Bids

Deer hunting pressure in northern Oakland County was heavy this morning as nimrods made a last effort to fill empty tags.

More bucks than in previous seasons already have been taken in the Holly area and some antierless deer are being harvested under special permits.

★ ★ ★

The season closes Sunday night and the last weekend is traditionally one of hunting close to home. Organized drives produce the best results.

Deadline for entering The Pontiac Press Big Deer Contest in noon Monday. The current leader is a 208-pounder.

Residents of Oakland County are eligible and only bucks can be entered. Weight (field-dressed) is the only determining factor. The hunter entering the heaviest bick will receive $150 in savings bonds.

Violations and fines continue to climb. Three area residents this week paid a total of $350 in fines, costs and liquidation damages.

FINES LEVIED

Walter Cochran, 40, of 5898 Baldwin, Hadley Township, paid $65 in fines and costs and $150 in restitution to the state for having one and a half deer in his possession tags attached.

Robert Miller, 28, of 55867 Hurd, Brandon Township, paid $35 in fines and costs for no validation tag on a deer. Miller and Cochran pleaded guilty before Justice Edward Huff of Lapeer.

James A. Wright, 22, of 4 Liberty, was fined $50 and ordered to pay $15 costs and $50 restitution after pleading guilty for illegal possession of venison. He appeared before Waterford Justice Kenneth Hempstead.

Law supervisor Cyril Adams and conservation officers, Charles Voss and Fred Gall of the Imlay City district office came upon Cochran and Miller dragging a buck from the woods on Baldwin, just north of the Oakland-Lapeer county line.

They waited until the pair loaded the buck on a pickup and then pulled the vehicle over. Officers said no validation tag was on the deer.

Later at Cochran's home, the officers said they received permission to look around and discovered half a processed deer in the refrigerator.

Cochran, said the officers, still had his validation tag in his billfold.

Officers said they learned that the deer had been killed Thanksgiving Day and that the other half had been given to Wright. Law supervisor George Bruso of Pontiac Lake went to the Wright home and recovered the venison.

Citizen assistance in reporting violations, particularly in Northern Michigan, has resulted in a large number of prosecutions, officers report.

The $100 per deer liquidation or restitution cost in effect this year for the first time has resulted in a big jump in the cost of illegal venison — when the violator is apprehended.

Lahser Posts Cage Triumph

A strong defensive effort carried Bloomfield Hills Lahser to a 53-38 victory over Waterford Mott last night in the '67-68 opener for both squads.

Scott Whiting sparked the winners with 14 points, and he teamed with 6-4 Bill West and Bernie McPheely in applying the pressure on defense.

Roger Strader tossed in 11 points and Eric Ernest picked up 10 for the losers.

SANTA and the PIGWIDGEN

By LUCRECE BEALE

Synopsis: In the days before there was a Santa Claus a curse escapes from a mysterious purse and all the children in a village fall asleep. Searching for a way to break the curse, a toymaker named Claus finds a key in the purse.

CHAPTER THREE
Claus Begins A Trip

Claus stared at the small brass key that clattered from the old black purse.

"Don't touch it!" begged Mrs. Claus. "You may be cursed!"

"Perhaps," said Claus. "On the other hand, it may be the key to the curse that was laid on the children."

He picked up the key and examined it. On its side was printed the single word: "Pigwidgen."

★ ★ ★

"Pigwidgen?" exclaimed Mrs. Claus. "What could it mean?"

WILL FIND OUT

"I don't know," said Claus softly, "but I'm going to find out if I have to travel to the ends of the earth!"

He went to his workshop and packed up all the toys he had made.

He loaded another bag with the cookies and cakes and sweetmeats Mrs. Claus had made.

★ ★ ★

He said goodby to Mrs. Claus and set out.

GOING AWAY

He stopped at the nearest house where a sleeping child lay.

He told the parents he was going away and he wanted to leave gifts for all the children.

"They'll never see them. They'll never wake," sobbed the mother.

★ ★ ★

"They were cursed by the wind from the black purse!" groaned the father.

"I will find a way to break the curse," swore Claus. "When the children wake they will find a gift and a cake. If I don't come back, perhaps they will remember Claus."

EMPTIED SACKS

He went to the child's bed and, not finding anything else to put the gifts in, stuffed them in the child's own stocking and hung it on the bed.

He went to every house in the village until his sacks were empty and no child had been forgotten. Then he took the narrow winding road that led across the mountain range to a distant town.

The people there were known to be smart and traveled. He was sure they would know the meaning of the Pigwidgen key.

When he came to the town there were few people in the streets. All were sorrowful. Claus went up to a man and said, "Why is the town so quiet and the people so sad?"

STRANGE MALADY

"Our children have been stricken with a strange malady," replied the man. "They sleep and will not wake."

Then Claus was indeed heavy-hearted. He knew the vapor that had escaped from the black purse had spread across the mountain range and would go on and on until all children everywhere fell asleep.

Claus drew the key from his pocket and asked the man if he had ever heard of Pigwidgen. The man shook his head.

Claus searched out another man to ask the same question and got the same reply.

KNOCKED ON DOORS

He asked everyone he saw. He knocked on doors. He went in the shops. He went to the schoolteachers and the librarians and the doctors and the police.

No one had ever heard of Pigwidgen or had any idea what it meant.

Claus was in despair. Wearily he sank down on a curbstone. An old, old woman sat down beside him.

★ ★ ★

"I have heard of the Pigwidgen," she crooned.

TELL ME!

"Tell me!" cried Claus eagerly. "What do you know?"

"I know what a crooked-legged elf told me a hundred years ago," wheezed the ancient crone.

"What was that?" begged Claus.

★ ★ ★

"Only this I'll say," hissed the old woman. "Forget the Pigwidgen and return to your home."

(Tomorrow: Patrick Tweedleknees)

Claus went to every house in the village.

Rival Versions of Product Hit by Drug Firm

By Science Service

WASHINGTON—A major drug house that developed a potent but dangerous antibiotic charges that now that its patent has run out, competing companies are selling low-quality versions of its product that may not be effective.

The antibiotic is chloramphenicol (brand name—Chloromycetin), a drug that may cause side effects and is used only for treatment of serious infections including typhoid and meningitis.

Until last February, Parke, Davis & Co., Detroit, was the only U.S. distributor. Since then, several other companies have begun selling chloramphenicol here.

The question of equivalency between various manufacturers' products came to Parke, Davis' attention with reports that competing brands failed to dissolve in solution.

With all orally administered antibiotics, rate of dissolution is particularly important because it affects both the speed and amount of active ingredient that gets into the blood and from there to the site of infection.

For both laboratory and human tests, Parke, Davis scientists purchased competitors' products in retail pharmacies and made comparative measurements of dissolution rates and blood and urine levels.

After reviewing the company's findings, the Food and Drug Administration initiated its own equivalency study at Georgetown University.

Federal Court Asked to Stop Pesticides Use

NEW YORK (AP) — A nonprofit group launched a fight in federal court Friday to stop the U.S. government from using two pesticides which it said could cause "irreparable damage" to the country's natural resources.

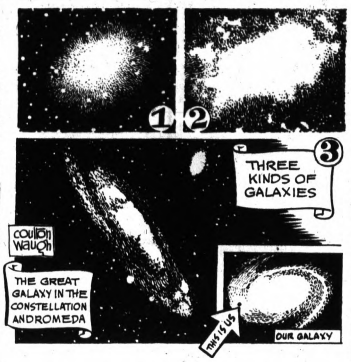
* * *

The suit involves the insecticides DDT, used to control Dutch elm disease, and Dieldrin, which the government plans to use in the Lake Michigan area to combat Japanese beetles.

* * *

The Environmental Defense Fund Inc. of Brookhaven, N.Y., asked the court to restrain agriculture officials from a plan to spread nearly three tons of Dieldrin on 2,800 acres near Berrien, Mich., and to restrain Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman from continued approval of the use of DDT for Dutch elm disease control.

Junior Editors Quiz on GALAXIES



QUESTION: How many kinds of galaxies are there?

* * *

ANSWER: A galaxy is a huge group of stars. Our sun, with the planets rotating around it, is part of an enormous grouping of similar stars, perhaps 100 billion of them, which is called the Milky Way, or simply the Galaxy.

It was once thought that this was the only galaxy. But modern astronomers, looking at certain luminous misty objects with powerful new telescopes, discovered them to be galaxies too; that is, separate collections of stars enormous distances away.

Astronomers think there may be billions of such outer galaxies. They recognize three general types, which we illustrate. The elliptical galaxy (1) appears rounded or disc-shaped. The irregular (2) has no special shape. The spiral galaxy (3) is a flattened disc which turns and throws off arms in pin wheel fashion.

In lower left we see the beautiful spiral galaxy of Andromeda. If we could get way off and see our Galaxy (lower right) it would also appear to have this shape.

Exciting new discoveries about very distant galaxies are being made. Watch your newspapers for reports about them.

Levin Gets Endorsement

DETROIT (UPI) — State Sen. Sander M. Levin, the Berkley Democrat who is seriously exploring the possibility of succeeding Zolton Ferency as Michigan Democratic chairman, has begun picking up some voting support.

* * *

The executive board of the Democratic 17th Congressional District organization voted overwhelmingly yesterday to endorse Levin as a replacement for Ferency, who announced Tuesday he was resigning.

After Ferency's announcement, Levin said he would "explore thoroughly and vigorously the needs of the Democratic party" before making his decision on whether to actively seek the post.

In Effort to Stem Epidemic

Britain Asks Meat Import Halt

LONDON (AP) — The British government is seeking a voluntary halt of imports of South American meat in an effort to curb the worst epidemic of foot and mouth disease ever to hit British livestock.

More than 250,000 animals have so far been slaughtered in hopes of stemming the tide of the fast-spreading virus, which affects all cloven-footed animals (cattle, sheep, goats and swine) and is transferred upon contact.

Sources said both Argentina and Uruguay are likely to accept the ban, but under protest.

The British government, it was believed, told the two countries that if they do not agree to a voluntary halt on meat imports, an official ban will be imposed upon them.

The ban would mean a cut of almost 30 per cent in overseas meat supplies and higher prices for British housewives, whose buying power is already down because of the recent 14.3 per cent devaluation of the pound sterling.

In explaining the call for a ban on meat imports, veterinary authorities say the virus which causes the disease can survive in chilled carcasses. The virus can be carried by some farmers and so theoretically could be transferred from import warehouses to British herds.

Though the cause of the present outbreak is unknown, man and so theoretically could that it started in North Wales within easy traveling distance of Liverpool docks.

HONORED — John Willson, (right), Oakland Youth for Christ Teen of the Month, standing by his father, William Willson, was honored at the Christian Business Men's luncheon this week. William Willson is head wrestling coach at Pontiac Northern High School where John is a senior. John has lettered in football, golf and wrestling for the last two years.

Businessmen Honor Willson

Teen of Month Selected

Thousands of young people in Oakland County are active in worthwhile activities both in school and church but the public doesn't hear about them as it does the boy or girl tangling with the law.

John Willson, cocaptain of the wrestling team at Pontiac Northern High School and one of the 35 outstanding Class A football players of Oakland County this season, was chosen Oakland Youth for Christ Teen of the Month.

He was honored at the Christian Businessmen's luncheon Tuesday. John's father William Willson was a guest.

Along with sports John is active in many other areas.

Being president of Campus Life Club, treasurer of Varsity Club and a member of Christian Fraternity keeps him busy but there is also time for home and First Baptist Church.

It takes a well-rounded fellow to do all this and John says, "I thank God for giving me the strong physical body and the ability to participate in sports, and other school and church activities.

John plans on a career in science or engineering.

The old adage — like father like son — seems to show up in Willson and his son.

John's father is head wrestling coach at Pontiac Northern High School. This probably sometimes would present a problem but if dad can lead Northerns wrestling team to a state Class A championship it pays to listen even to dad.

Willson, elected Class A state wrestling coach of the year 1967, left industry at the age of 31 to enter the field of education.

"I suppose my greatest influence has been in the area of athletics," he said. "I feel the influence of a coach properly applied has a positive and worthwhile effect.

"My great desire is that the influence of my life upon my boys and son will reach beyond the physical and touch the far more important aspects of spiritual life."

He continued with "Many years ago as a young man I placed my faith and trust in Jesus Christ and as a result God has given me peace and a quiet confidence of my soul."

John's family consists of his parents; two sisters, Mrs. Sam Bearden, Mrs. Terry Chase; and two brothers, Robert and Dan.

Students, Parents Exchange Viewpoints

High school students of St. Patrick's parish, Union Lake, who attend public schools, assemble at St. Patrick's Church the third Monday of each month for a religious program.

* * *

Students begin the after school program with Mass at 6:10 p.m. Supper follows.

At 7:40 p.m. teen-agers gather for the film and discussion which concerns dating, parental attitudes and marriage.

This month subjects will include "Science and God," "Creation" and "Evolution."

Following the film, students and parents exchange ideas and viewpoints. This serves to give students and parents a better understanding of each other with both benefitting, Father Richard McGarry said.

* * *

The final 30 minutes is a social period that allows students to plan activities with friends who attend other schools.

The program ends at 10:15 p.m.

* * *

Last year the teen-agers met weekly for classes but beginning in September the Rev. McGarry, assistant pastor found not so many were attending.

This year the group gets together once a month for the showing of films, discussion, recreation, supper and fun.

NEEDS PARENTS

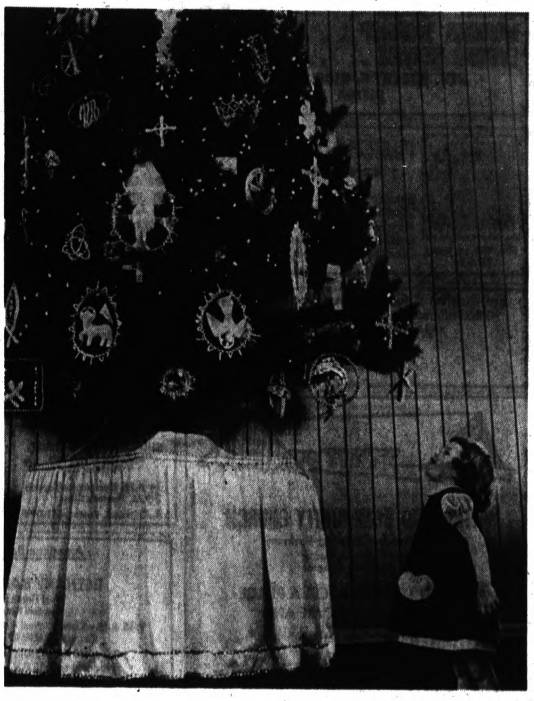
"The primary purpose of the program is not to teach facts, but to form attitudes that are based on the true principles of Christian living," said Father McGarry. "The program requires complete support and interest on the part of parents."

* * *

"No matter what religious ideals are presented to the students little benefit will result if the parents' code of moral living reflects the opposite or if parents show little interest in the religious training of their children," he added.

The parents are currently attending sessions and discussion periods with the students. The Altar Society provides the supper each month.

Many adults who have no children in the program give of their time to make the venture a success. The students who have desponded in a mature and responsible manner have found some answers to their many problems.



THE CHRISTMAS TREE—Karen Palmer is breathless as she gazes with awe at the beautiful Christmas tree decorated with glittering gold and white ornaments at the United Presbyterian Church, Auburn Heights. Karen, 4, is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. F. William Palmer in charge of the pastorate. The ornaments, all Christian symbols, were made of gold and white beads by the Women's Association.

ADVENT SEASON — Mrs. Clifford Barkell of 3919 Baybrook, Waterford Township shows daughters Lori (left) and Denise how to make an Advent wreath for their home table. After the evergreens are made into a wreath, candle holders are fitted into the wreath. Usually three purple and one pink candle are used. Some families place a white candle in the center to be lighted on Christmas Day signifying Christ, the Light of the world. The Barkells are members of Christ Lutheran Church.

Worship at Home, Church

Advent Season Often Called Winter Lent

Advent, the season of preparation, penitence and expectance, begins tomorrow and continues through the first four Sundays of December.

A time of sober reflection on the meaning of the coming of Chirst, it is sometimes called Winter Lent. It is a solemn season but also a season of gladness.

The Advent color portraying penitence and humility is purple.

* * *

In many churches a large Advent wreath is placed near the altar and many parishioners follow a period of devotions with a wreath on the dining room table.

When the family gathers for dinner, a member of the family reads Scripture, another will read an appropiate poem or article, and all sing hymns.

CHRIST LUTHERAN

The congregation of Christ Lutheran Church, Waterford Township, will hold an Advent Family Night at 4:30 p.m. tomorrow.

The program will begin with a concert of Advent music presented by the Cherub, Junior, Chapel, Chapel Bell and Senior choirs. A finger food supper will follow.

* * *

During the evening instructions will be given for making Advent wreaths for use in the home, and the Clifford Barkell family will offer a demonstration of home family worship.

ALL SAINTS EPISCOPAL

To symbolize the character of the Advent season the altar at All Saints Episcopal Church will be vested in purple. The choir and clergy will enter and leave the service silently.

Men and boys of the parish are invited to share in the Annual Advent Corporate Communion at 7:30 a.m. tomorrow.

Following the service breakfast will be served in Stevens Hall with members of the Acolytes' Guild, guests of the parish.

TRINITY METHODIST WATERFORD TOWNSHIP

The Rev. Timothy Hickey will preach on "He Came As a Man," the first in a series of sermons concerning the Advent season at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow.

The Junior Church will meet at the same hour under the direction of Mrs. Timothy Hickey and Mrs. Fred Feekart.

Methodist Men will get together for a dinner meeting and program at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday. Rev. Hickey will speak on "One Way, Please."

ST. MICHAEL'S

Priests of St. Michael's Catholic Church urge parishioners to make their own Advent wreaths for home worship using a wire coat hanger, evergreens, candles and bit of ribbon.

On the first Sunday night—tomorrow—the father of the family will bless the home wreath.

CHURCH OF ATONEMENT

"Darkness and Light" will be the theme of the Advent sermon by the Rev. Crea M. Clark at the Church of Atonement, Waterford Township at 10:45 a.m. tomorrow.

A special congregational meeting is scheduled immediately after morning worship to discuss the purchase of additional property.

A Junior Hi and Senior Hi Rally will be held at 7 p.m. with Joe Dowell, the featured singer. Mr. Dowell, a layman in the Presbyterian church, makes his living by composing and singing commercials throughout the country.

* * *

Guests for the evening include young people from Drayton Plains Community, Lakeland and Sashabaw United Presbyterian churches. Refreshments will be served.

Senior High Youth from the Atonement Church and Drayton Plains Community churches are attending a retreat at Synod of Michigan camp near Howell over the weekend.

The Value of a Spiritual Outlook

"vision"

Every day we depend on "vision" that goes beyond what our eyes see. The challenge is always to find a greater vision — a deeper spiritual perception — that will guide mankind's progress, and lift men everywhere into their heritage as children of God. Hear this one-hour public lecture on "The Value of a Spiritual Outlook" by PAUL A. ERICKSON, C.S.B., member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship.

School Poverty War Now a Total Attack

(Editor's Note — This is the second of three stories on school children from low-income families. Today's article looks at the school program).

By DICK ROBINSON

Nearly $722,000 in federal funds are being poured into 10 Pontiac schools this year to help educationally deprived children, and more money may be on the way.

Almost $825 per pupil will be spent this year to educate the poverty children here, according to computations made by The Pontiac Press. The figure includes $640 for regular school programs and a possible $185 in federal aid.

Largest share of the total funds is received under Title 1 of the landmark Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965

★ ★ ★

Two changes in the $369,199 Title 1 program funded for about the same amount last year have occurred this year:

- The target area has been reduced from 18 schools to 10.
- The program content has been changed from one which was basically restricted to curriculum improvements to one which emphasizes a total attack on problems and at tempts to change environmental conditions.

★ ★ ★

A major change in the program's content was the expansion of the successful Project 100 at Wilson School to seven other elementary schools and two junior high schools.

OBJECTIVE ACHIEVED

A demonstration pilot project last year, Project 100 derived its name from its major objective — to achieve 100 per cent participation by parents and staff in the school's program and improvement of the community environment.

About 7.5 per cent or 2,115 of the children in the Pontiac School District come from low-income families, the 1960 census showed.

Three people in a family must have a total income of less than $2,000 to be considered a low-income family, according to federal poverty guidelines.

★ ★ ★

About 1,200 children participate in the Title 1 programs at the following schools, which serve areas comprising 85 per of Pontiac's Negro population:

Jefferson Junior High, Bagley and Bethune, each 27 per cent of enrollments from low-income families; McConnell, 17; Wilson and Frost, 14; Eastern Junior High, Franklin and Whittier, 13; and Pontiac Central High, 8.

SMALL PROGRAMS

Small programs are also operated at four non-public schools in the city — St. Frederick, St. Michael, Emmanuel Christian and St. Trinity Lutheran.

Thor Petersen, coordinator of the Title 1 programs, gave this evaluation of the children in federal programs:

- More than half have a negative self-image and attitude toward school.
- Nearly half performed poorly on standarized tests.
- About half were significantly below their grade level in classroom work and in reading achievement and had a low level of verbal functioning.

Pontiac's Title 1 programs are intended to correct these deficiencies and to:

- Raise occupational and educational aspirational levels.
- Reduced rate and severity of disciplinary problems.

★ ★ ★

- Improve the child's and the family's emotional and social stability.

OFFICIAL EVALUATION

Cosupported by the Pontiac Urban League, Project 100 last year increased students' sense of personal worth, feeling of belonging and attitude toward school, according to an evaluation by Pontiac school officials.

Parents participated more in school activities and showed improvement in attitudes toward school.

A few of the activities in the $218,138 Project 100 program include informal courses and field trips for parents, award recognition and "Big Brother" adults for pupils and home visits by teachers.

★ ★ ★

Other Title 1 programs this year are:

★ ★ ★

- $45,726 individualized instruction program for about 45 Pontiac Central High students who have behavior or academic problems. The new program will start early in 1968.

★ ★ ★

- Continuation of a $16,000 oral language development program, employing a speech therapist for Central's individual instruction and Project 100.

★ ★ ★

- Continuation of $15,000 language arts reading programs at the four nonpublic schools.

★ ★ ★

- And $74,000 for research, administration and supportive services to insure the best possible service to disadvantaged students.

TEACHER CORPS

Other major existing programs for disadvantaged students include the Teacher Corps at five schools and the positive self concept pilot program at Bethune School.

★ ★ ★

Some $300,000 in federal funds may be forthcoming for Project Head Start for prekindergarten children and a breakfast program which was started last year.

★ ★ ★

Kirk Spire Highlights Picture Window View

Site Features Perfect View

By JODY HEADLEE
Home Editor, The Pontiac Press

Broad windows at the back of the Lawrence E. Floras' home frame the picturesque beauty of Island Lake, its skyline punctuated by the majestic architecture of Kirk in the Hills Church.

★ ★ ★

Draping the windows is a simple gray-green print that complements but does not compete with the natural picture.

Background tones of the formal living and dining areas are established by the gold carpeting and gold walls.

Against the rich maple tones of the dining room's paneling and cabinetry, fruitwood furniture pieces present a happy blend. Heirloom milk glass and Limoges share the glass-enclosed china cabinet above the marble-topped pass-through.

"The marble of the pass-through," said Mrs. Flora, "was cut from the same piece of marble as the Kirk's altar."

Double glass doors open onto the raised wrap-around deck overlooking the swimming pool and the lake.

In the adjoining living room portion, the monochromatic setting continues to stress the area's feeling of spaciousness.

Matching fruitwood end tables and white ceramic lamps flank the avocado Italian Provincial sofa. Above the sofa hangs an autumn scene by Stanley Clark.

★ ★ ★

Grouped before the room's fireplace are fireside swivels upholstered in quilted aqua.

An abstract print of gold, blue and green covers the fruitwood bordered chair in front of the picture window. Completing the window's conversation grouping are a low round pedestal table and a gold cut velvet loveseat.

The shades-of-gold wallpaper in the nearby slate-floored foyer repeats the Italian theme. White electric candles in a brass candelebrum and gold statuettes adorn the area's marble inlaid table under the black framed cameo.

★ ★ ★

The staircase leads to the first level family room, comfort center for the Floras and their four children, Mark 19, Brad 15, Ross 10 and Jill 5.

"We picked the room's color theme from the fireplace tiles which were imported from England," said Mrs. Flora.

On either side of the drop leaf table before the raised hearth are a muted bittersweet button-back chair and a bittersweet and black plaid chair.

Chemical Coatings Take a Bow

'Secret Agents' Guarantee Comfort

Have you ever been in a restaurant, engrossed in conversation, when youve noticed a disturbing silence fill the room? Chances are that the pianist is taking a well deserved coffee break! But—stop to think—did you really notice that he was playing background music until he left? Of course not—it was just part of the atmosphere!

That's the way it goes in this fast paced society of ours. We tend to take many of the things around us for granted—that is, until they're gone. Just imagine, for example, a world without chemical coats—the unsung heroes of our modern age.

Take a look at your beautiful dining room table! It is really a pleasure to own. Spills wipe up, stains wipe off — and it still retains its original, like-new finish. Why? Because it is coated with a special heat resistant, stain resistant coating — made to withstand the abuses and uses of an active life.

Now try to imagine the same lovely table without the finish. In the first place, it wouldn't be lovely — it would be dull, unattractive, and hard to care for! A beautiful durable finish gives your table most of its charm!

* * *

Or let's go a step further. Glance at the automobile parked in your driveway. A thin coating gives it its colorful, bright finish — but it does much more. Chemical coatings protect your automobile from corrosion and rust — from permanent and irreparable damage. Without that thin coat of paint, your car wouldn't be worth the money you paid for it!

STUDY KITCHEN

Now — stand in the middle of your kitchen and look around you. Notice the refrigerator in the corner. It boasts a moisture resistant chemical coating while adjusts to the cold temperature inside with ease! In addition, it creates a protective shield over the metal, assuring you that your refrigerator will last for years to come! Without the magic of special coatings made for this appliance, we would be plunged back into the inconvenient Icebox Age!

Go ahead — open your kitchen cabinets. Take stock of the wide array of food products enclosed in cans — everything from soup to nuts! Did you ever stop to think that this method of packaging would be impossible if it weren't for chemical coatsings?

Inside and outside, a nontoxic coating keeps metal from rusting and protects the very food you eat! This coating must resist the acids and corrosive salt present in many foods, and shrug off the high temperature of heat sealing and steam cooking.

* * *

Just open your eyes and look around you. In every direction, you will find chemical coatings quietly at work to protect and to beautify the things you use every day! These thin specialized shields make the good standard of living you enjoy possible, yet they cost only pennies.

They are the "secret agents" that have played an important part in helping our country move forward — whether it be in the simple pleasures of home and family living, up in space, or down to the bottom of the sea!

Air-Conditioned Apartments for the Birds

Well! An air-conditioned birdhouse for martins has been designed as a project for the do-it-yourself fan.

* * *

What's more, it's a 16-apartment house. (Martins like this style.)

You build it with just one 4-foot-square ¼" perforated panel and one 4x5-foot panel of weatherproof hardboard, plus assorted nails and screws, all available from building material dealers.

Perforated board for ceiling, floor panels and apartment dividers provides ventilation.

* * *

When the weather becomes hot next summer before young martins are ready to fly, breezes passing through the air-conditioning perforations allow the fledglings to stay at home longer.

Not Too Bright

Picture Painted by Savings Experts

By JOHN PIERSON
United Press International

The housing market may be headed for a nosedive. That's how four experts see it.

Here's the grim scenario they painted recently at the annual meeting of the National League of Insured Savings Associations: credit is showing "increasing signs" of tightening; Congress refused to pass President Johnson's proposed tax increase; interest rates are bound to rise; this will suck funds out of savings and loan institutions and other mortagage lenders: homebuilding will take it on the chin.

If the script seems farfetched, don't forget it in 1966. The question is will it happen again?

Dr. Henry Kaufman, economist for Salmon Brothers and Hutzler in New York, told the League that he expects short-term interest rates to keep rising.

This would pose a danger for S-and-Ls and other deposit institutions, since savers would be tempted to invest money directly in bonds and other market securities, thereby depriving S-and-Ls of the funds they need to make mortgage loans.

DEPOSIT SLOWDOWN

Deposit institutions have been enjoying record savings inflows so far this year. But Kaufman predicted a slowdown in the fourth quarter.

Congress could take some of the pressure off the money markets by raising taxes. For one thing, the federal government would not have to borrow so much.

But Dr. Harry S. Schwartz director of research for the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, said the nation faces higher interest rates even with a tax hike.

* * *

A tax increase would take some of the heat off the Federal Reserve Board to fight inflation by making money scarce and expensive.

But even with higher taxes, the economy is likely to be so boomy and credit demands so great that S-and-Ls will lose funds, Schwartz said.

William J. Hallahan, a Washington, D.C., economic consultant, predicted that home finance markets would be hit hard when market interest rates become more attractive.

* * *

Murray Foss, Chief of the business analysis division of the Commerce Department, pointed to the third quarter's rise in Gross National Product (GNP) as proof that the economy is heating up.

GNP—the market value of all goods and services produced in the United States in a year — rose at an annual rate of $15 billion during July, August and September. That was a biggerr increase than during the first and second quarters combined.

Conservationist Wins $10,000

Donald A. Williams, administrator of the Soil Conservation Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, who was named as winner of the 1967 Rockefeller Public Service Award in the field of Administration, sees his job as serving equally the rural and urban population.

The honor, made possible by funds granted by John D. Rockefeller 3rd, and administered by Princeton University as a national trust, recognizes his 31 years of government career service with a tax-free cash award of $10,000.

The presentation will be made at a luncheon in Washington Dec. 6th.

"Conservation is everybody's business because it affects everybody—in the cities as well as on the farms," said Williams.

Old Wives' Tale Is Debunked

Can a fruit tree produce more fruit if iron nails are hammered into the trunk?

Nails do not provide enough iron to affect fruit production, says Bartlett editor Guy D. Chichester. Soil feeding is recommended to promote fruit growth, especially to overcome iron deficiency.

Heating Systems Take to Roof

Have your new heating plant installed by helicopter? It is certainly possible, because heating equipment is often up in the air today — hidden atop buildings by upward extensions of the outside walls.

Where major heating system components such as boilers were once largely buried in the basement, they are increasingly joining ventilating equipment and other items on the roofs of buildings.

Conservation of site space, and need to get ventilating equipment up high for effective cooling and noise reduction, has led to the placement of equipment on the roof for years.

The Council points out that this trend has now extended from skyscrapers and large industrial buildings, and even garden apartment builders are making the space saving move to the roof with heating equipment.

★ ★ ★

At the opposite side of the picture, can you put your cooling tower on the lawn? The State of New York did at a new medical search center — where the cooling tower sits on the lawn and looks and acts like a decorative fountain as well as doing its basic job of serving the cooling system of the building.

Site space was no problem in this case, and an aesthetic gain was the deciding factor in choice of location.

In either case — raising heating equipment to the roof, or putting a cooling tower on the lawn — the designers were able to go contrary to tradition by using the flexibility possible with hydronics, the science of heating and cooling with liquids.

It does not matter where the equipment is — on the roof, on the lawn, or in the basement — it still works efficiently and quietly for either heating or cooling.

Dutch Elm Hits All Elm Types

Are any elms immune to Dutch elm disease?

★ ★ ★

No. The disease, caused by the fungus Ceratocystis ulmi, attacks all elms, some more than others. The American elm is one of the most severely affected. Siberian and Chinese elm are the most resistant.

Safety First When Painting

When using ladders to reach those high spots, keep safety in mind.

Move the ladder often, make sure it is secure, and never over-reach. By taking these steps, you may save yourself from injury.

A black lacquer effect can be simulated easily with a semi-gloss black enamel intended for use on wood. Simply sand the surface smooth before painting, and apply two coats of the enamel.

Be sure to let each coat dry completely before adding the next coat. This touch will give your furniture a sophisticated, Japanese look — beautiful in today's modern home!

Prevent Fires, Be Cautious

Here are four steps the home owner can take to help prevent a fire from starting in and around the house:

- Dispose trash and rubbish regularly. Don't let it accumulate.
- Keep attic, basement and closets free of old clothing, curtains, drapes, lamp shades, mattresses, newspapers and old magazines.
- Don't empty ashtrays until the contents are completely cold. Use ashtrays which are large and deep enough to keep burning cigarettes from falling out onto the floor.
- Have your heating and cooking equipment checked periodically. Chimneys also should be checked to be sure they are not clogged.

Fight Rodents at the Source

The rodent menace in slum areas is of mounting concern to local state and federal authorities and legislative bodies.

To combat the problem, many cities and states have already implemented rodent control programs and others are expected to follow.

All health authorities agree that a successful program must be three-sided. Steps must be taken to minimize rodent breeding.

A rat elimination program must be instituted. Finally, a successful garbage containment plan must be launched, for without this, the other two cannot be wholely successful.

★ ★ ★

The "airborne" method of garbage disposal (tossing it out the window) and the gutter placement method must stop.

While storage in paper bags and even covered non-metal containers is preferable to the wanton disposal of raw garbage, the paper bag offers no resistance to rat penetration and an eager rodent wil find it relatively easy to chew through anything short of metal.

The only foolproof way to store garbage, and as recommended by health authorities, is in sturdy galvanized steel cans with close-fitting covers.

Squirrels Cause Little Damage

Do squirrels injure trees?

Very little. They live in tree cavities caused by insects and fungi. They don't make the cavity, but their frequent travels prevent forming of callus tissue over the cavity mouth. They may chew twigs when food is scarce.

Laughter is a real medicine. —F. Gelette Burgess, American humorist and illustrator.

Area Men's Garden Club and Founder Earn Honors

The Men's Garden Club of Rochester and its former president and organizer, John Cochran of 867 Peach Tree Lane, Avon Township, received awards at the club's recent monthly meeting.

Cochran was given the coveted Gardener of the Year Award. Awarded by the Men's Garden Club of Detroit, the honor marks the recipient as having the top garden in the metropolitan Detroit area.

"It's taken me 20 years to win this award," said a beaming Cochran, "and I'm already working on next year's competition? I just planted 800 daffodil and tulip bulbs."

Judges selected from metropolitan Detroit Men's Garden Clubs' members visit the competitors gardens four times, once during each season, before deciding on the winner.

* * *

Cochran is past president of the national Men's Garden Clubs of America and past president of the Men's Garden Club of Detroit.

LOCAL CLUB HONOR

At the same meeting he also received a plaque from the Rochester club naming him as the member who had contributed most to the club's advancement.

The Joe Blumrosen trophy was awarded to the Rochester club for its consistent participation in civic and beautification endeavors.

The club planted beds of chrysanthemums at the September Art 'N Apples festival, held a pumpkin and sunflower contest in conjunction with area 4-H groups, maintained the planters that lined Rochester's Main Street during the growing season and actively participated in the Beautification of Rochester program.

Latest Status Symbol Combats Water Woes

What's the newest status symbol? Three cars in the family? A vacation home? A full-time maid? Two full-time maids?

All these have their devotees, of course. But in many communities with chronic water shortages, the prize possession is a well.

According to the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, at least 50,000 families had wells drilled on their property this year to supplement the water they get from their local utility. This number may reach 100,000 in the next two years.

The modern well, or water system as its more properly called, isn't like the picturesque but cumbersome hand pump, where manpower did most of the work. It's completely automatic and efficient.

The system consists of an electric pump installed in a small-diameter well, usually no more than three or four inches in diameter, a storage tank to hold the water and controls to start and stop the pump automatically as water in the tank reaches a predetermined level.

Such a system should be installed according to strict codes by a qualified well driller or water systems dealer.

Thus installed, the water it yields usually tastes better and costs less than city water, which often has to go through an expensive treatment process to assure it potability.

Families with their own well can ignore local restrictions on water use. Ordinances against lawn or garden sprinkling, car washing or filling the swimming pool simply don't apply to them. Small wonder that the individual water system is becoming a status symbol!

If you'd like more information about home water wells, write to the Ground Water Resources Institute at 205 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. 60606. Send 25 cents in coin and ask for "How Water Wells Can Help You Solve Your Water Problems Easily and Economically!"

Legal Battle Avoided

Army Releases 'Lost Draftee'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Army has surrendered in its battle to hold onto a draftee who spent 18 months of his military hitch at home with his wife, some of the time earning $130 a week at a job.

The Army announced Friday that Pfc. Joe A. Smith, 23, of Brownsville, Calif., would be released from active duty probably next week.

★ ★ ★

At the same time the announcement was made by the 6th Army, U.S. District Judge Robert C. Peckham was issuing a show-cause order for the Army to explain why Smith should not be discharged. The judge laughed when he heard about the release.

Like all the other draftees, Smith received 30 days leave at the end of his basic training at Ft. Hood, Tex., in November 1965. He went to his Sacramento Valley home to await orders.

SMITH WAITED

Smith waited . . . and waited . . . and waited. No orders. Finally, he took a $130-a-week logging job with Sillen Bros., Inc., at nearby Yuba City to support himself and his wife, Glenda, 23.

He waited a year and a half. All the while, the Army sent Mrs. Smith a monthly allotment check of $95.20—and in Smith's name they sent an $18.50 U.S. savings bond every three months. But he didn't get his private's pay because he wasn't at a post to sign for it.

★ ★ ★

Last June 13, Smith figured his time was up, donned his almost new uniform and presented himself for discharge at the Oakland Army base. There was a bit of a fuss.

"You've got to be kidding!" exclaimed an officer when he heard Smith's story. Smith said he sure wasn't.

ARMY STANCE

The Army wanted Smith to serve—for real—his 18 months and to return all the money they had paid in allotment checks and bonds. The American Civil Liberties Union took up Smith's cause.

While the case was simmering, Smith was sent to the 6th Army presidio in San Francisco and employed as a runner. He even made private first class.

★ ★ ★

Smith said the Army also wanted to charge him for desertion, but dropped it for insufficient evidence.

"I didn't expect trouble," Smith said when the case was first made public. He said he didn't try to hide the fact he was in the Army.

Smith's release from the Army means—like other draftees—that he still has the remainder of a six-year service obligation to serve: active reserve for two years during which he will attend weekly drill, inactive reserve for another two. Then he gets his discharge.

An Army spokesman said he was "not certain" about what would happen to the Army's demands for return of the bond and allotment money. But he said he expected the release to be "normal," and none of the money would have to be returned.

State GI Killed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pfc. Leonard J. Richards Jr., father of Edward E. Richards of Mount Clemens, has been killed in combat while serving with the Army in Vietnam, the Defense Department said Friday.

Richards previously had been listed as missing.

Opening lead—♥ Q

By OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

One of the nicest things to know about an ace is that you don't have to play it at the first opportunity. Bankers may lend money on aces, but they pay no interest on tricks that are taken earlier than necessary.

JACOBY

South wasted no time taking the first trick with dummy's ace of hearts. Then he led a diamond to his queen. East played the seven and West allowed the queen to hold but was careful to grab the second diamond lead.

West played the jack of hearts. East overtook with his king and led a trump. South went up with his ace, entered dummy with the ace of clubs and led a third diamond.

East was mean enough to ruff, and the best South could do was to overruff and run out all his trumps slowly and carefully, but to no avail. There was nothing he could do about his last heart.

Had South bothered to think a little at trick one (which is the best time to think), he would have let the defense win the first heart trick. If hearts were continued, South would have time to ruff his third heart.

If East overtook and led a trump, South would be in almost the same situation as if he had won that first trick. The difference would be that dummy's ace of hearts would be an extra entry.

The play would proceed with East leading a trump at trick two. South could win and lead a diamond. Assuming that West was smart enough to duck the first diamond and win the second, his best play would be to knock out dummy's ace of hearts.

A third diamond would be played. East would ruff and South would overruff. Then South would cross to dummy with the ace of clubs and lead the last diamond.

Poor East would want to ruff, but you can't ruff when you are out of trumps. South would get to discard his losing heart.

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
Pass	2 ♣	Pass	2 ♠
Pass	3 ♦	Pass	4 ♦
Pass	4 ♠	Pass	5 ♣
Pass	6 ♣	Pass	?

You, South, hold:
♠ A Q 10 7 6 ♥ K J 4 ♦ K 3 2 ♣ J 7

What do you do now?

A—Bid six diamonds. You are in a slam now. Maybe you belong in diamonds—not spades. If not, your partner can correct back to spades.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Again East opens one club. You, South, hold:
♠ A Q 10 7 6 ♥ 2 ♦ A Q 10 7 6 5 ♣ 3

What do you do?

McNamara's Job Switch 'Bungled'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara got the new job he wanted, but not the way he wanted it to happen, and maybe not at the right time.

The explanation now being heard in government circles for the confusion surrounding McNamara's job change is that it was bungled.

According to this view, McNamara was indeed tired. His wife was not in the best of health. He had wanted to step down since 1965, but became caught up in the escalation of the Vietnam war.

He wanted the World Bank presidency. But he wanted to leave the administration in dignity and, most of all, at the pleasure of President Johnson, to whom he is intensely loyal.

* * *

What he could not have wanted was that it should happen in a way that would hurt the United States—a way that would undermine public confidence in government, cast doubt on established policy and plunge Washington into a whirlpool of rumors.

As administration officials see it, all these things happened this week.

Washington was swept by speculation that McNamara had been sacrificed to the "hawks," that multiple resignations among the Joint Chiefs of Staff had been averted, that the set policy in Vietnam might be replaced by extreme escalation, that there might be a Cabinet reshuffle.

The speculation was carried in news accounts to the nation and the world.

Apparently things began to go off the track Oct. 16 at a meeting between McNamara and the President in the President's office.

* * *

It was at this meeting that Johnson asked McNamara if he were still interested in the World Bank job, which they has discussed before. McNamara said yes, but that he would stay at the Pentagon as long as the President wanted. The President said McNamara deserved any job he wanted and he would help him get it. They discussed the defense program and possible successors.

But, according to available accounts, they did not reach any firm understanding that McNamara would be nominated for the World Bank job at any particular time.

The President retained a choice. He made it some time between then and Nov. 16. On that date George Woods, now president of the World Bank, was informed that McNamara was the President's choice to succeed him.

McNamara was told of this several days later, before the nomination became formal.

* * *

McNamara's subordinates say they are convinced Johnson acted in what he saw as McNamara's interests, pursuant to McNamara's stated wish.

MORE PLAUSIBLE?

There are many in Washington who find it more plausible than a major civilian-military split or imminent resignations among the Joint Chiefs. Differences between McNamara and the service chiefs have existed, but have become less in the past year rather than more so.

As to resignations, one Pentagon official observes: "You couldn't get any of these chiefs out of this building with a shoehorn."

PROTOTYPE SPACECRAFT — SPECS (Spacecraft for Environmental Control Studies), covered with a thermal blanket, is hoisted before being placed in a cylinder-shaped thermal vacuum chamber (left) at the Martin Marietta Corp.'s laboratory in Denver. The prototype craft is being subjected to hot and cold temperature extremes which could be expected on a 150-million-mile trip to the surface of Mars. Portholes are bio-vents which help maintain sterile atmosphere inside as the craft "breathes" air to avoid pressure differentials.

Students Jeer Reagan, Show N. Viet Flag

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A group of University of California students jeered and displayed a North Vietnamese flag as California Gov. Ronald Reagan passed by late Friday.

Reagan reprimanded the group of 30 students. "You ought to be ashamed of yourselves," the Republican governor declared.

* * *

"Even being young doesn't excuse the bad taste, the cruelty and the inhumanity of displaying that flag," Reagan went on. "Even free speech doesn't justify it."

He also commented critically on what he called appeasement of student troublemakers on the various University of California campuses.

* * *

After listening to regents' reports of recent disturbances, Reagan said the university has been on a "sorry road of appeasement that leads to more and more of the same thing."

He suggested the regents investigate the possibility of initiating legislation that would give chancellors of the various campuses a stronger hand against disturbances.

A GREAT Christmas GIFT..

Moody Bible Institute

820 NORTH LA SALLE STREET, CHICAGO, ILLINOIS 60610 • PHONE 642-1570 Area Code 312

Subscription Department
The Pontiac Press
Pontiac, Michigan

Dear Sirs:

Yesterday we received a letter from our son who is serving with the Army in Berlin. He stated, "The only thing I want for Christmas is a subscription to the Pontiac Press".

Please tell me how much a years' subscription to your paper would cost. Would these papers be flown to Germany?

We served as pastor in Pontiac for seven years and agree with our son, Phil, that the Press is one of the best in the country.

Thanks for your reply to this inquiry.

Respectfully,

David Mortensen

What Is A Spiritual Bouquet

J. L. VOORHEES

Many non-catholics have asked us, "What is a Spiritual Bouquet." A spiritual bouquet is a Mass said for the response of the soul of the deceased and forgiveness of sin. The card for a spiritual bouquet may be received at the funeral home if you desire a Mass to be said.

M. E. SIPLE

A donation is given to the church for spiritual bouquets requested as desired by the donor. The money received is used in many ways such as missionary work, relief of the poor and many other ways to further God's work. Often non-catholics wonder if it is proper for them to request spiritual bouquets for their deceased catholic friends when they are of a different faith. It is not only proper but is keeping in the same spirit as the catholic sending flowers to his non-catholic friends.

A Pontiac man was robbed of $7 and his wristwatch early this morning while driving on Saginaw near Wilson.

John Agelink of 145 Vernon said he was driving north about 3 a.m. when a woman jumped in front of his car, forcing him to stop.

Riot Insurance Hearing Set

LANSING (AP) — A Senate committee will hold a hearing Dec. 15 in Detroit on insurance problems in substandard and riot-hit areas of the state.

Sen. L. Harvey Lodge, R-Waterford, chairman of a Senate-House Committee named to study the problem, said testimony will be heard from citizens, government officials and representatives of business and commercial interests.

Lodge said he is "greatly concerned at the inability of property owners, many of them Negroes, to get adequate insurance coverage."

Speed Cleaning

Off-the-floor water closets first were widely used in public washrooms because they speeded up the job of cleaning floors. Now they're becoming popular with homemakers for the same reason, the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau reports.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF NATHAN Howard who passed away December 2, 1966:
God saw you getting weaker,
So He did what He thought best,
He came and stood beside you,
And whispered come to rest.
You wished no one a last farewell,
Not even to say goodbye,
You had gone before we knew it,
And only God knows why.
Sadly missed by Jimmy and Margarete, grandchildren.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF NATHAN Howard who passed away December 2, 1966:
A wonderful father, husband and aide,
One who was better, God never made.
A wonderful worker, so loyal and true,
One in a million, that person was you.
Dearly loved and sadly missed by wife and children.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF NATHAN Howard who passed away 1 yr. ago Dec. 2, 1966.
There is a link death can not sever,
Love and remembrance last forever,
Sadly missed by the Howard family.

Douglas Scouts Mafia Peril in 'The Brotherhood' Role

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Kirk Douglas swears he doesn't have a bodyguard and he isn't fearful of the Mafia trying to gun him down just because he's doing a picture called "The Brotherhood" in which everybody's a bad guy.

"But I am upset," he admitted to me the other day, "because Vincent Impelliterri (the former major of New York) attacked our picture.

"I hope," Kirk added, "that he ran the city better than the Italian Anti-Defamatino League."

The former mayor objected to more pictures being made about Italian mobsters. He spoke caustically about this picture at Madison Sq. Garden.

WILSON

"The contribution made by the Italian people have been so great that nobody needs to apologize for the Italians," Kirk said, casually mentioning Christopher Columbus, Michelangelo and Marconi. He was at the Hotel Pierre, smoking a cigar, and trying to look hoodlumish with a mustache just grown for this picture.

"I play Frank Ginetta, the head man of the Mafia," Kirk said.

"I would never do a picture that would hurt one ethnic group. Listen, there are lots of pictures with people in you don't like. Marlon Brando played a sympathetic Nazi in 'The Young Lions.' I wouldn't play that part. Oh, I'd love to play a Nazi, and I could play a real Nazi . . ., but I couldn't ever play a sympathetic Nazi!"

★ ★ ★

To Kirk, it's "the so-called righteous people who permit crime to flourish," and the picture is a look at the Mafia mystique. Douglas researched Mafiaism with the author, Lou Carlino, for two to three years. He even went to Sicily.

"Everybody was wonderful to us," he said.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: "Some of our public men are men of few words—but they use them a lot."—Dublin Opinion.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "It takes a wise man all his life to find out he's been a fool all his life."—Smart Set, 1914.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Life is my college. May I graduate well, and earn some honors."—Louisa May Alcott.

EARL'S PEARLS: When women kiss each other at a cocktail party when they meet, it's sort of like a couple of heavyweight fighters shaking hands.

A drama critic's wife was asked how her husband thought of last night's play and replied, "Oh, it displeased him beautifully" . . . That's earl, brother.

Steel Price Hikes Threaten Consumer Costs

Vance, Cyprus Chief Chip at Stalemate

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — U.S. presidential envoy Cyrus Vance worked urgently today to overcome the Cyprus government's opposition to the accord to keep Greece and Turkey from war over the island.

But signs grew that Cypriot President Makarios, backed by his Cabinet, was raising unexpectedly strong resistence to the play already agreed on by Greece and Turkey.

Thinking his work done, Vance had flown as far toward home as Frankfurt, West Germany, but turned back to the Mediterranean yesterday after learning of a last-minute snag on the plan U.S.

SOURCES SAID.

He met with Makarios for three hours, until 2 a.m. today, and then resumed the talks at 9:30. Two hours later, U.S. Ambassador Taylor Belcher, his face set and unsmiling, hurried from the presidential palace to the U.S. Embassy and back and indicated no break in the stalemate was in sight.

★ ★ ★

MAJOR POINT

The main point of the Vance proposals — withdrawal of the estimated 12,000 Greek troops on the island — is widely regarded by the Greek Cypriot public as a surrender to Turkish demands and a betrayal by Greece's military dictatorship of the idea, of enosis.

Makarios is said to have accepted the withdrawl but is balking at several other points unless he gets an unconditional guarantee that Turkey will never again threaten a Cyprus invasion.

NEW TALKS BEGIN — U.S. envoy Cyrus Vance is welcomed by Cyprus President Archbishop Makarios at the presidential palace in Nicosia last night in an unexpected conference to iron out apparent snags in plans to avert a Greek-Turkish war over Cyprus.

Club Members Are Newsboys to Help Needy

Pontiac policemen, firemen and mailmen assumed the role of newsboys today for the annual Goodfellow sale of The Pontiac Press.

They picked up some 2,000 special editions early this afternoon and headed for busy intersections and shopping areas, where the papers went on sale for the price of any donation.

All funds brought in by the Metropolitan Club members go to charity — specifically to the purchase of clothing and fuel for underprivileged families.

Theme of the sale is "Help the needy have a merry Christmas."

★ ★ ★

Lt. William Nesbitt of the Pontiac Police Department, chairman of the drive, said this year's goal is $3,000.

★ ★ ★

"We're going to concentrate on well-traveled areas such as downtown shopping centers and malls," he explained, "in an effort to coincide with the holiday shopping that's getting under way."

MAIL CONTRIBUTIONS

He added that persons who wish to make a contribution, but fail to get one of the special editions, may mail donations to the police department, care of "Goodfellows."

This is the 39th year Pontiac Goodfellows have conducted the sales for assistance to needy families.

Increases Seen if U.S. Steel's Move Spreads

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A new round of steel price hikes — now under study could quickly add to consumer costs on a wide range of products.

Pressure to increase prices on items from autos to toasters would be added if a price increase announced by U.S. Steel Corp. spread through the industry.

The country's largest steelmaker posted a $5-a-ton increase yesterday on two grades of steel sheets.

Other producers said they were studying the move. Such increases generally have spread throughout the industry in recent years.

★ ★ ★

Price increases on some steel products, like railroad car wheels and heavy construction materials, take a long time reaching the pocketbooks of the average person. But boosts on sheets, which are used in consumer products, can be readily felt in the marketplace.

PRESSURE

Steel sheets are a big item in auto making, and even before the U.S. Steel move, there was speculation in Detroit about the possibility of an auto price hike early next year.

New and more costly contracts won by the United Auto Workers union, plus federal regulations making auto shoulder harnesses mandatory on Jan. 1, are exerting pressure for higher car prices.

However, General Motors and the Ford Motor Co. said they would have to wait until the situation settles before saying if the U.S. Steel action will affect car prices.

★ ★ ★

General Electric said the move will add cost to its production of appliances, but said it couldn't determine immediately if it could absorb the cost itself.

The White House and the president's Council of Economic Advisors haven't made any public statement on the U.S. Steel boost.

But judging from Washington reaction to steel price hikes earlier this year, President Johnson and his advisors are taking a close look at it.

Gardner Ackley, chairman of the economic advisors, unleashed sharp criticism last summer when the price of steel bars went up 1.8 per cent.

And after the industry hiked plate prices, government spokesman said, "The administration won't be keeping its cool if sheet and strip steel go up, too."

Precipitation Over the Weekend Will Be Varied

Pontiac area residents are in for mixed weather over the weekend: a little rain, some drizzle and cooler temperatures with snow flurries.

★ ★ ★

The U.S. Weather Bureau forecasts the following day-by-day report:

TODAY — Cloudy and cool with occasional light rain and drizzle possibly briefly mixed with freezing drizzle early today. High 35 to 39.

★ ★ ★

Cloudy and turning a little cooler tonight with a chance of a few flurries. Low 26 to 32.

★ ★ ★

Southerly morning winds at five to 15 miles per hour will become northeasterly tonight.

TOMORROW — Cloudy and cool with a chance of a few snow flurries.

MONDAY — Partly cloudy with little temperature change.

Precipitation probabilities in per cent are: Today 50, tonight 40, tomorrow 20.

The low temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 26. The mercury had moved to 32 by 12:30 p.m.

Thousands Without Heat as Cleveland Main Breaks

CLEVELAND (AP) — With the temperature dropping well below freezing, thousands of residents of Cleveland's Hough area were still without heat today, more than 20 hours after a water main break forced suspension of gas service.

Some 200 East Ohio Gas Co. employes worked to restore service.

The 76-year-old water main at East 70th Street and Hough Avenue burst at 4 a.m. yesterday, flooding some spots as much as two feet deep.

A large section of pavement disappeared into a 40-by-60 foot hole that developed at that point.

★ ★ ★

Water service was restored quickly, but the gas company suspended service in the area because water and sand seeped into their lines.

SCENE OF RIOTING

Police said about 5,000 homes were without heat in the Negro slum, which was the scene of four days of rioting and fire-bombing in the summer of 1966.

The Red Cross took over two junior high schools in the area — Thomas Edison Junior High and Addison Junior High — as centers to provide food and shelter for anyone desiring it.

More than 100 persons went to Edison to spend the night, and a Red Cross spokesman said many more were going to Addison.

★ ★ ★

"What they are doing is bringing in their children, then going home to guard their possessions," a Red Cross worker said.

The fear of looters reportedly was the reason that most residents of the area chose to huddle in their frigid homes and apartments rather than taking advantage of the Red Cross shelters.

The temperature had dropped to 29 degrees early in the day.

Mayor Carl B. Stokes, who was in Washington yesterday, flew home last night because of the situation.

★ ★ ★

Extra police were called into the area, and a police command bus was dispatched to help keep order and to use its loudspeaker to make sure residents knew emergency aid was available.

★ ★ ★

Many persons and organizations helped provide food and ambulance service. Nuns form Our Lady of Fatima parish in the area carried emergancy food door-to-door.

"I am just so thrilled and happy at the way people are pitching in to help out," said welfare Director Clarence L. Gaines. He said he had calls from people in the suburbs volunteering help.

Rights Committee Sends Fair Housing Bill to House

LANSING (AP) — The House Civil Rights Committee, meeting amid charges of governor's office meddling, yesterday sent the controversial open occupancy bill to the House floor and recommended that it pass.

★ ★ ★

The House is in recess until Dec. 12. Legislative leaders have vowed action on the open housing bill this year.

Before the 6-0 vote to report the bill, the committee refused to reverse its position on two key sections. Chairman Melvin DeStigter, R-Hudsonville, warned the bill could not pass in the House unless the sections were changed.

DeStigter unsuccessfully urged the committee to overturn decisions made earlier in the week and amend the bill to provide:

- That a person who suffers economic damages because of housing discrimination could collect no more than $500 from the person found guilty of bias;

★ ★ ★

- That a person accused of discrimination and later acquitted would not be able to successfully sue the state for damages.

OVERTURN POSSIBLE

The House could overturn the committee when it takes up the much-debated, much-amended housing bill later this month.

The committee had not been scheduled to meet until Dec. 11. Rep. David Holmes D-Detroit, charged the Friday meeting was called and the amendments offered at the insistence of Gov. George Romney's aides.

★ ★ ★

Answering a reporter's question, DeStigter conceded that Romney's legal adviser and sometime legislative liaison, Robert Danhof, favored the proposed changes.

Reuther-Meany Showdown Off

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., (AP) — United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther says he will not attend the annual convention of the AFL-CIO. As a result convention leaders are faced with the problem of how to deal with his resolution demanding "internal reforms" to make the AFL-CIO more democratic.

Reuther said yesterday he would not attend the convention and asked that the resolution be withdrawn from consideration at the 14-million member organization's convention that opens next week.

But AFL-CIO sources said the organization's constitution had no specific provisions for withdrawing a resolution whose sponsor did not show up.

AFL-CIO President George Meany declined to comment on Reuther's letter informing him Reuther would not attend but told a convention of the AFL-CIO's construction unions, "I have never seen the trade union movement as busy as it is today. I have never seen so many activities that affect the welfare of the general membership."

The resolution might be shunted to a committee, the sources said, but some delegates may insist upon acting on it.

Many labor leaders wanted a showdown at the convention on Reuther's long attack on the policies and leadership of Meany.

The resolution charges that the "AFL-CIO lacks the social vision, the dynamic thrust, the crusading spirit that should characterize the progressive, modern labor movement."

WALTER REUTHER

Reuther, in the letter to Meany, asked that the auto workers' resolution be held in abeyance until top officials of the AFL-CIO and the auto workers can have a special meeting to discuss it.

★ ★ ★

Meany, in saying he had never seen so many activities affecting the welfare of the membership, added:

"In the final analysis, that is what we are in business for and it's sort of a happy coincidence that whatever we do to promote the interests of the people we represent seems to be good for most of the people of the country."

★ ★ ★

Meany did not mention Reuther by name in his speech but a well-placed federation source said, "the General Motors negotiations gave Reuther an excuse for ducking the fight of his life."

Other union chiefs said Reuther's decision to bypass the convention because of the auto negotiations was understandable.

Paul Hall, president of the AFL-CIO Maritime trades department, said contract negotiations are a labor leader's main job, but added it was "regrettable" that the auto talks prevented Reuther from talking out his differences with Meany here.

B52s Pound DMZ to Counter N. Viets

SAIGON (AP) American B52 Stratofortresses unloaded 150,000 pounds of bombs overthe Demilitarized Zone today counter possible fresh Vietnamese thrusts after second straight day of clashes between U.S. and Communist troops below the DMZ.

The eight-engine bombers blasted suspected Communist troop concentrations four miles northeast of the U.S. Marine outpost at Con Thien in a follow-up of a B52 raid Thursday on Red troop and artillery positions six miles north of Con Thien.

The latest clash along the frontier came Friday when North Vietnamese troops opened up on a column of U.S. Marine amphibious tractors 5½ miles east of the artillery base at Gio Linh. The Communists slammed 50 rounds from 60mm mortars into the column, along with machine gun and small arms fire, killing one Marine and wounding 13.

The Marines fought back with artillery and mortars, and the Navy destroyer Leary in the Tonkin Gulf off the coast of North Vietnam joined in blasting the Communist positions. The Navy said the Leary knocked out several Communist mortars. There was no report on Communist casualties.

In Thursday's action, Marine units charged through a savage and mortar fire near Con Thien to drive North Vietnamese troops from bunkers.

Two Arrested in Courtroom

Bizarre Case Involves Bank Holdup, Murder

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UPI)—Harry Broyles, 19, and Howard McCully, 21, stood before the judge yesterday as he pronounced the sentence: 15 days for each on charges of breaking and entering.

★ ★ ★

Suddenly city police interrupted the proceedings and took the pair into custody in connection with the armed robbery less than an hour before of the Grand Rapids Central Bank.

Three thugs had made off with between $5,700 and $10,000. The getaway car was found abandoned in a parking lot near the bank, the body of the owner of the auto stuffed in the trunk.

The bizarre case unfolded after tracking dogs led Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and local police to a home one block from where the auto was abandoned.

★ ★ ★

Police lobbed tear gas into the building and, after deciding the house was empty, entered and found a bag of money believed the loot from the holdup in the attic.

THIRD ARREST

The third suspect was arrested sitting in a car belonging to one of the other two men.

★ ★ ★

Police Judge Robert Verdier ordered the three held without bond on charges of murder and kidnapping. Examination will be Dec. 11.

★ ★ ★

Police said the dead man had been kidnapped outside a local paint store shortly after noon. The thugs forced him into the trunk and drove off in his car, police said.

Birmingham Area News

Little Opposition Seen to Open Housing Law

BIRMINGHAM — Any organized reaction to the open housing ordinance passed here this week will probably come at Monday's City Commission meeting, if at all, said Administrative Assistant John Saefke yesterday.

The controversial ordinance which became effective Thursday was passed Monday by a 6-1 vote of the commission with only Commissioner Robert Page dissenting.

The new law forbids discrimination in the public advertising, showing, sale, leasing or financing of real estate property in the city. It provides for a fine, jail term, or both, for violations under the city code.

"Calls to me have not been excessive on this matter," said Saefke, "Maybe only a dozen. Most of these were just for copies of the ordinance or for an explanation. Only two or three of the calls presented any deep-rooted opposition."

Under the City Charter any five persons could initiate referendum procedures, he explained. Something like this could come up Monday, but there is nothing on the agenda, he added.

If referendum procedures were begun 15 per cent of the registered voters at the last election would have to sign petitions to bring the ordinance up for a vote, said Saefke.

Peking Says U.S. Bombed Freighter

TOKYO (AP) — Peking's official news agency said today U.S. aircraft "savagely attacked" a Chinese freighter anchored in Hong Gai, North Vietnam, last Saturday, "wounding eight crew members and damaging the ship."

The New China News Agency (NCNA) said the Foreign Ministry issued a statement in Peking today "strongly protesting" the bombing.

NCNA said U.S. aircraft divebombed the Chinese freighter the same day the ship arrived at Hong Gai from Haiphong.

"Bombs exploded above water some 10 meters (11 yards) off its starboard, wounding eight crew members and damaging the ship in more than 20 places," NCNA said.

REPORT MONITORED

The broadcast, monitored in Tokyo, said, "This was not the first time" U.S. aircraft had attacked Chinese freighters.

Hong Gai is about 18 miles north of Haiphong, North Vietnam's major port.

★ ★ ★

In Saigon, the U.S. Command declined comment. On Nov. 25, it reported that American planes hit a North Vietnamese naval dispersal area 39 miles east-northeast of Haiphong, about nine miles east of Hong Gai.

Red Blasts Set Under Pacific

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union announced today it will set off a series of huge undersea explosions only 100 miles south of the American-owned Aleutian islands.

The official news agency Tass said "several underwater charges weighing from one to five tons" will be exploded tomorrow through Dec. 15.

Tass said the tests will be used to study "sound propagation in the northern part of the Pacific and the geological structure of the sea bottom to the south of the Aleutian Islands."

No Schedule Is Set as Yet for Main GM-UAW Talks

DETROIT (AP) — Bargainers for the United Auto Workers and automotive giant General Motors get together today for a variety of subcommittee meetings, with a schedule yet to be worked out for main table talks.

The Chrysler Corp., meanwhile, moved closer to full production with announcements of tentative settlements and withdrawal of strike deadlines at three plants.

Chrysler has been plagued with a series of unresolved local disputes, although a national contract has been agreed upon. A Friday night meeting of UAW employes of Chrysler's Detroit universal division resulted in ratification of a local pact.

★ ★ ★

Altogether, the union said, 13 of the 60 production and maintenance bargaining units and 13 of 78 salaried units remained without local agreements.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther emerged from a two-hour meeeting with the union's GM Council Friday and announced that no strike deadline would be set against GM until after the New Year holiday.

Reuther told newsmen the decision would allow some 380,000 UAW GM employes to draw Christmas and New Year holiday pay before possibly being called on to walk off the job.

Reuther said Dec. 14 is the target date for reaching a new contract with General Motors, and if no agreement is reached by then, a strike deadline will be set for sometime early next year.

Only a scattering of hands were raised in opposition to the proposed strategy, according to newsmen who were standing outside closed plate glass doors while the meeting was in progress.

GM is the last of the Big Three to negotiate toward a new three-year pact with the UAW. The industry pattern was set in the agreement reached with the Ford Motor Co., and strengthened when Chrysler Corp. later settled along the same lines with the addition of a provision for pay parity between U. S. and Canadian workers.

Police Still Sifting Hit-and-Run Tips

Waterford Township police still are receiving tips in connection with their search for the driver of the hit-and-run car that killed 11-year-old Darelle J. Desotell Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Darelle J. Desotell of 739 Scott Lake.

The Pontiac Press has offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the responsible person.

"We don't have anything for sure yet," said Detective Gerald Smith, "but there is always hope."

The Desotell boy was struck by a car Oct. 28 while walking along Scott Lake Road with a friend near his home. He died the following day.

Smith said township detectives "pretty much" have ruled out the possibility that the hit-and-run vehicle was a white Cadillac.

He said they now feel it was a tan, beige or gold colored large model car.

Lt. David Putnam, head of the detective division, said, "We lean toward a Chrysler product."

Marshall told the Associated Press the addition of the 101st Airborne to troops serving in Vietnam would raise troop strength there by 10,000-15,000 men. The division's 3rd Brigade already is in Vietnam.

'U.S. Wants Canal Shut'

Quakes Still Jolt Area

BELGRADE (AP) — Minor earthquakes still jolted the frontier region of Albania and Yugoslavia today as a Belgrade newspaper reported 120 Albanians killed and more than 2,000 injured in the major quake that struck Thursday. "Politika" in a story from Debar, the Yugoslav border town destroyed by the quake, said it learned that five Albanian villages were destroyed.

Cash Demand Led to Fight, Says Mrs. Hill

The insistence of Terry Stern, 22, a sister-in-law of Gov. Romney's son, that she be paid $347 in cash for damages to her car led to the Nov. 13 ruckus at the Walter P. Hill Co., Mrs. Hill testified in Troy Municipal Court yesterday.

Terrry's mother, Mrs. Will Kraus of 560 N. Glengary, Bloomfield Hills is charged with assault and battery.

Testimony was taken yesterday from Mrs. Hill, her husband and two Troy police officers.

Mrs. Hill said there was a disagreement between Terry and Hill over how a car repair bill should be paid.

★ ★ ★

She and her husband said he had agreed to pay a repair bill for damages caused by the Hills' son, Patrick (who had pounded Terry's car in a pique) but wanted to pay directly to the garage.

Terry insisted on cash in three visits to the office, the Hills said. On the last, Mrs. Kraus came into Hill's office and said, "How do we know this will be taken care of," Mrs. Hill said.

At this point, for the first time, Mrs. Hill testified, she entered the discussion and said, "How dare you question my husband's honesty."

At that point, Terry "lunged like a tiger," Mrs. Hill said, and grabbed her hair, pulling Mrs. Hill to the floor.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Kraus then began hitting Mrs. Hill on the head with her hands, then with a blunt-heeled shoe, Mrs. Hill testified.

Before it was over Mrs. Kraus apologized, Mrs. Hill and police officers, said, but Mrs. Hill required stitches at Beaumont Hospital to close her head wound.

Carolyn Marie Frericks and Mike Dauw are just two of the reasons why Mrs. Finley Kennedy, librarian at Hawthorne and Webster schools, finds her role so rewarding. As unique as the world she recreates for her students, Harriet Kennedy embarked on her career only after raising two daughters.

Today's Women

One's Age Never Limits Activity With Harriet Kennedy Around

By YOLANDA BENAVIDES

Can 'life begin at 60'? for Mrs. Finley Kennedy, who had a head start at 43, age is never a restriction when you have a goal to fulfill.

Married at 16, Harriet Kennedy waited 27 years before she stepped on a college campus and started on a most rewarding adventure.

★ ★ ★

Looking back on it all, nine years later with a Bachelor or Arts degree in elementary education and a Master's degree in Library Science, she firmly believes her age was an asset rather than a handicap.

★ ★ ★

"If you had it once you've still got it," was what my adviser told me when I first confronted him with my plans," she said.

AGE IS USEFUL

"As for age, I think the experience that you have just from living helps you. Its the one thing I felt I had over the others."

It all started when her daughter, Karen, a high school senior at the time, suggested her mother take a college course just for enjoyment.

★ ★ ★

"It seemed like something way out at first," she laughed.

"But when I tried to register and couldn't get the class I wanted, I guess I just got stubborn and decided to keep on trying until they let me in."

★ ★ ★

From then on there was no stopping her.

"From the very beginning I always felt guided by God. All the way along it was as if there were someone with me because everything just seemed to fall in the right place," Mrs. Kennedy said.

★ ★ ★

Not to be overlooked was the private fan club at home which kept up a steady stream of support, especially her husband, to whom she attributes a great deal of credit for her success.

★ ★ ★

"I couldn't have begun to do it on my own. It had to be a family affair."

And a family affair it was in June of 1962 when all three Kennedy women donned graduation robes four years later.

THREE AT ONCE

Linda, the youngest, received her diploma from Lake Orion High School and Karen was graduating from Wheaton College when mom completed her undergraduate studies at Wayne State University.

★ ★ ★

With the following September came Mrs. Kennedy's current position as librarian at Webster and Hawthorne schools.

★ ★ ★

After a year's rest from the rigors of study, she went on to obtain her master's, all the while keeping her job as librarian.

How does it feel to embark on a career after raising two daughters and maintaining a home?

"I feel like I've done this all my life," she said. "It's the most natural thing in the world."

★ ★ ★

"I've really found myself now."

Before we left we couldn't help asking this lovely grandmother if she had any thoughts on a second career in the future.

★ ★ ★

Although she wouldn't give a definite answer, the idea seemed to amuse her. With a twinkle in her blue-grey eyes and a quick smile she replied, "I'll just have to wait and see what turns up."

Christmas Gala for Teen-Agers Sounds Great

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Christmas parties are in the offing, and this letter and the answer may give you a few ideas about planning one.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. Post: I am 15 years old and would like to give a Christmas party for about 15 boys and girls. Would it be all right to ask the kids to come without written invitations?

Would it be a good idea to go carolling first? If we go carolling, I would serve hot chocolate as soon as everyone got to my house. Would soft drinks and Christmas cookies be the best refreshments later? Should I get records to dance to or should we play games?

Could I ask everyone to bring a gift worth one dollar and have a gift exchange? Thank you for your help.—Patty.

★ ★ ★

STANDING ANSWER

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently I had lunch in a public dining room. At a nearby table there was a young girl of about 14 or 15 with her grandmother. Two of the latter's friends stopped at the table to chat.

The grandmother introduced the girl and she did not stand up, which surprised me because they appeared to be nice refined people. Is this not being done these days? Am I behind the times? — Aunt Agatha.

Dear Aunt Agatha: It certainly is still being done these days, and the young girl should have stood up to greet the older ladies. There is no age limit: any younger person rises to greet an older one.

POST CARD

Dear Mrs. Post: A certain boy I became acquainted with called a few days ago. At the time he called I was busy and asked him to call later. He hasn't called again and I'm a bit perplexed. I'm leaving soon for a two week vacation in Florida and was wondering if I should send him a post card, or would that seem as if I am chasing him? — Wondering Teen-ager

★ ★ ★

Dear Wondering: A post card is so impersonal that you couldn't possibly be criticized for sending one to this boy. Mention when you will be back, and maybe it will remind him to call you again then!

Mate Is Poor Excuse for a Man--- Don't Put Up With This Treatment

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I need some advice before I go out of my mind. My husband and I have been married for two years, and I just found out for sure that I am pregnant with our first child.

ABBY

When I told my husband, I thought he would explode. I have never seen him so angry. He has restricted me to the house. I can leave only to go to work, and then I have to come straight home. I can't visit my friends or relatives. I can't go downtown to do anything. Not even grocery shopping in the neighborhood.

He doesn't want me any place where any of his friends can see me and know that I'm pregnant. He keeps threatening to get out legally, or illegally, as he wants no part of being tied down at 21. I love him and don't want to lose him. How can I get him to change his attitude? I am also 21.

NEEDING HELP

DEAR NEEDING: Something is fishy here. Why is your husband so violently opposed to letting his friends know that you are pregnant? You are married, and there is nothing to be ashamed of. He "tied himself down" at 19 when he married, so his "reason" for exploding doesn't make much sense. And what's this restricting business!"

If you submit to his unreasonable demands in order to "hold" a husband who has threatened to "get out legally or illegally," you are asking for the abusive treatment your poor-excuse-for-a-husband is dishing out.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and I baby-sit for a few people in the neighborhood and I really love it.

Tonight, one of the neighbors telephoned me and asked if I was available to sit for her on New Year's Eve. I was, so I told her yes.

Right after I hung up the telephone, my mother asked me who called and what for, so I told her.

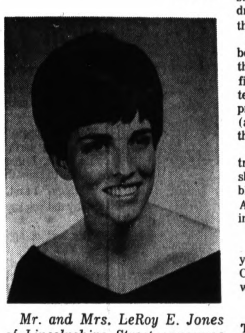
Then my mother said, "I might need you to sit for ME on New Year's Eve."

I told my mother that I had already promised this other lady and I couldn't break my promise.

My father, who is very quick tempered yelled, "You'll sit for your mother if she needs you!"

Abby, you always tell us kids to do what our parents say, but this time I think I am right and they are wrong. What do you think?

SITTER



Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy E. Jones of Lincolnshire Street announce the betrothal of their daughter, Kathryn Louise, to Jerry E. Ryan. The bride elect, a graduate of Michigan State University, and her fiance, son of the Willie K. Ryans of Andersonville Road, are planning early April vows.

DEAR SITTER: The best of parents can be wrong now and then, and unless you agreed to check with your mother before accepting other sitting dates, they were wrong this time.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: We have two very small boys. One is five and the other is two and a half. My problem is, I feel that my husband expects too much too soon.

These little tykes come to the table happy and hungry, but by the time my husband gets through correcting their every move, ("Sit up straight, take your elbows off the table, stop talking with your mouth full, you're eating too fast, you're eating too slow . . . etc.") these poor kids leave the table in tears with their plates practically untouched.

How can I make my husband understand that besides making the boys dread mealtime, it could be bad for their health? OHIO

DEAR OHIO: You have THREE "little boys." Tell the one you're married to that although his criticisms may be justified, there is a more effective way to teach children. It's true serious digestive problems often develop when children (and adults, as well) attempt to eat while they are upset.

Implore your husband to pause, control himself and to resist the urge to shout criticisms and orders at the table. "Gentleness" is the key word here. And should he forget, a "gentle" kick in the ankle from you may remind him.

★ ★ ★

CONFIDENTIAL TO WALLY: Taking your steady girl friend to the office Christmas party is like going hunting with the game warden.

Lynda's Wedding Retains Tradition

"A very sentimental girl" is the way her close friends describe Lynda Byrd Johnson—the nation's number one bachelor girl till her love was anchored by a handsome Marine with a diamond pledging, "Semper Fidelis."

Certainly when Lynda marries Capt. Charles S. Robb in the White House on Dec. 9, the wedding will be as rich in American tradition and sentiment as ever a wedding was.

TRADITION

Her engagement diamond reflects an American tradition that dates back to very early Colonial times. Though the diamond has been the betrothal symbol of European nobility since the 15th Century, its role as a popular custom is strictly American.

Only in very recent years, with the expansion of a European middle class, has the diamond engagement ring tradition spread among average people on that side of the sea.

But for the American girl, d-i-a-m-o-n-d has always spelled "marriage." And when Lynda transfers her engagement ring from her left hand to her right hand just before the ceremony, she will be following a Colonial custom.

After the ceremony, she will place her engagement ring above the wedding band. This is because the American colonists regarded the diamond engagement ring as a "keeper ring."

Early American superstition said that if a woman lost her wedding band she would have no end of bad luck all her life. Thus, the job of the durable diamond was to guard the wedding band.

★ ★ ★

Lynda's gown, she has told the press, will be a traditional style with long sleeves. And it will be white — the fashion-choice of American brides since the early 1800's

Before that, American brides wore every color of the rainbow in either solid hues or flowered brocade. But white long has been the sentimental choice — and white it will be for Lynda.

THE GROOM

Usually the groom's attire is of little interest, but in this case his attire too, will be rich in tradition— in fact, a sartorial history lesson. Military regulations permit Captain Robb to wear civilian clothes for the ceremony. But the Captain — described by his father as "very gung-ho" is expected to wear the Marine "dress blues."

The uniform jacket, which officially is described as the "blouse," is of Navy blue with a high tight-fitting collar. The collar dates back to the days in which Marines wore leather collars about three inches high to protect the jugular vein from saber slashes. (That collar, of course, gave Marines their nickname, "leathernecks.")

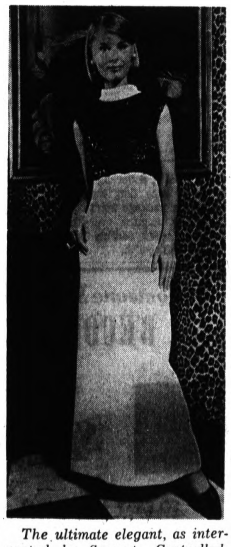
The sky-blue trousers have a bright red stripe down the sides. This stripe commemorates the blood shed by Marines during the Mexican War in the Battle of Chapultepec, a fierce battle in which Marines led the attack.

OFFICERS CAP

As an officer, Captain Robb wears a visored cap with a quatrefoil on the top. The quatrefoil symbol, which is four intertwined loops, commemorates both the bravery and the expert riflemanship of Marines who served on early American sailing vessels.

★ ★ ★

The Marines would climb to the rigging and fire into the enemy boarding party from that position. During the melee on deck, it was hard to distinguish friend from foe. So Marines sewed crossed ropes on their caps in the form of the quatrefoil to identify themselves to their compatriots.



The ultimate elegant, as interpreted by Semont. Controlled, full-length sweep of snow-white crepe, with black sequin bolero, assures perfection for the most gala soiree. From Eastman Chemical Products' "The Young Elegants" collection.

A Marine officer carries a cross-hilted Mameluke sword. This custom dates back to the capture of the fortress of Derna by Lt. Pressley O'Bannon in the undeclared war against the pirates of Tripoli in 1801.

Such a sword was presented to O'Bannon, in recognition of the Marines' bravery, in a ceremony climaxed by the raising of the American flag in the Old World for the first time.

Swords play a dramatic part in a military wedding. After the ceremony, tradition calls for the arch of swords for the bridal couple. If Captain Robb's fellow officers perform this service, Lynda's marriage truly will be launched, in the words of the time-honored saying, "with the help of God and a few Marines."

At the reception, the bride uses the groom's sword to cut the first piece of cake.

★ ★ ★

There has never been a military wedding held in the White House, and Lynda may be the first White House bride to see her husband off to military service. In any event, the diamond on her hand promises, "Semper Fidelis."

Comedian's Son Is Married Today

DEFIANCE, Ohio (AP) — Miss Judith C. Richards, 26-year-old daughter of a retired Defiance Methodist minister, was married here today to Anthony Hope, 27, son of comedian Bob Hope.

Gov. and Mrs. James A. Rhodes and Sen. and Mrs. Stuart Symington of Missouri were present along with the groom's father and mother and other West Coast relatives and friends.

★ ★ ★

The ceremony took place in St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church with the father of the bride, the Rev. Dr. Joseph C. Richards, taking part with four priests.

★ ★ ★

Miss Richards is an attorney with the Washington law firm of Williams & Connolly. The bridegroom is also an attorney and a director of business affairs for 20th Century Fox Television.

University Orchestra to Give Yule Concert

The Oakland University Orchestra will present a Christmas concert Monday evening in the Oakland Center. It is open to the public free of charge.

David G. Hoover, instructor in music at Oakland, will conduct the 32-piece orchestra in Mozart's Symphony No. 26 in E flat, Corelli's "Christmas Concerto" and Schubert's Symphony No. 6 in C.

Brocade shimmering with rich oriental splendor — its burnished metallic weave emphasizing the Rajah richness so typical of Karen Stark for Harvey Berin. The lavish jewel trimming on neckline blazing around the V-vent throat — slim bracelet sleeves and a slight tunic flare accent the Rajah look for Christmas.

The Value of a Spiritual Outlook

Every day we depend on "vision" that goes beyond what our eyes see. The challenge is always to find a greater vision — a deeper spiritual perception — that will guide mankind's progress, and lift men everywhere into their heritage as children of God. School Poverty War Now a Total Attack

(Editor's Note — This is the second of three stories on school children from low-income families. Today's article looks at the school program).

By DICK ROBINSON

Nearly $722,000 in federal funds are being poured into 10 Pontiac schools this year to help educationally deprived children, and more money may be on the way.

Almost $825 per pupil will be spent this year to educate the poverty children here, according to computations made by The Pontiac Press. The figure includes $640 for regular school programs and a possible $185 in federal aid.

Largest share of the total funds is received under Title 1 of the landmark Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965

★ ★ ★

Two changes in the $369,199 Title 1 program funded for about the same amount last year have occurred this year:

- The target area has been reduced from 18 schools to 10.
- The program content has been changed from one which was basically restricted to curriculum improvements to one which emphasizes a total attack on problems and at tempts to change environmental conditions.

★ ★ ★

A major change in the program's content was the expansion of the successful Project 100 at Wilson School to seven other elementary schools and two junior high schools.

OBJECTIVE ACHIEVED

A demonstration pilot project last year, Project 100 derived its name from its major objective — to achieve 100 per cent participation by parents and staff in the school's program and improvement of the community environment.

About 7.5 per cent or 2,115 of the children in the Pontiac School District come from low-income families, the 1960 census showed.

Three people in a family must have a total income of less than $2,000 to be considered a low-income family, according to federal poverty guidelines.

★ ★ ★

About 1,200 children participate in the Title 1 programs at the following schools, which serve areas comprising 85 per cent of Pontiac's Negro population:

Jefferson Junior High, Bagley and Bethune, each 27 per cent of enrollments from low-income families; McConnell, 17; Wilson and Frost, 14; Eastern Junior High, Franklin and Whittier, 13; and Pontiac Central High, 8.

SMALL PROGRAMS

Small programs are also operated at four non-public schools in the city — St. Frederick, St. Michael, Emmanuel Christian and St. Trinity Lutheran.

Thor Petersen, coordinator of the Title 1 programs, gave this evaluation of the children in federal programs:

- More than half have a negative self-image and attitude toward school.
- Nearly half performed poorly on standarized tests.
- About half were significantly below their grade level in classroom work and in reading achievement and had a low level of verbal functioning.

Pontiac's Title 1 programs are intended to correct these deficiencies and to:

- Raise occupational and educational aspirational levels.
- Reduced rate and severity of disciplinary problems.
- Improve the child's and the family's emotional and social stability.

OFFICIAL EVALUATION

Cosupported by the Pontiac Urban League, Project 100 last year increased students' sense of personal worth, feeling of belonging and attitude toward school, according to an evaluation by Pontiac school officials.

Parents participated more in school activities and showed improvement in attitudes toward school.

A few of the activities in the $218,138 Project 100 program include informal courses and field trips for parents, award recognition and "Big Brother" adults for pupils and home visits by teachers.

★ ★ ★

Other Title 1 programs this year are:

★ ★ ★

- $45,726 individualized instruction program for about 45 Pontiac Central High students who have behavior or academic problems. The new program will start early in 1968.

★ ★ ★

- Continuation of a $16,000 oral language development program, employing a speech therapist for Central's individual instruction and Project 100.

★ ★ ★

- Continuation of $15,000 language arts reading programs at the four nonpublic schools.

★ ★ ★

- And $74,000 for research, grams at the four nonpublic schools.

★ ★ ★

- And $74,000 for research, administration and supportive services to insure the best possible service to disadvantaged students.

TEACHER CORPS

Other major existing programs for disadvantaged students include the Teacher Corps at five schools and the positive self concept pilot program at Bethune School.

★ ★ ★

Some $300,000 in federal funds may be forthcoming for Project Head Start for prekindergarten children and a breakfast program which was started last year.

(NEXT: The program's problems).

By OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

One of the nicest things to know about an ace is that you don't have to play it at the first opportunity. Banks may lend money on aces, but they pay no interest on tricks that are taken earlier than necessary.

JACOBY

South wasted no time taking the first trick with dummy's ace of hearts. Then he led a diamond to his queen. East played the seven and West allowed the queen to hold but was careful to grab the second diamond lead.

West played the jack of hearts. East overtook with his king and led a trump. South went up with his ace, entered dummy with the ace of clubs and led a third diamond.

East was mean enough to ruff, and the best South could do was to overruff and run out all his trumps slowly and carefully, but to no avail. There was nothing he could do about his last heart.

Had South bothered to think a little at trick one (which is the best time to think), he would have let the defense win the first heart trick. If hearts were continued, South would have time to ruff his third heart.

If East overtook and led a trump, South would be in almost the same situation as if he had won that first trick. The difference would be that dummy's ace of hearts would be an extra entry.

The play would proceed with East leading a trump at trick two. South could win and lead a diamond. Assuming that West were smart enough to duck the first diamond and win the second, his best play would be to knock out dummy's ace of hearts.

A third diamond would be played. East would ruff and South would overruff. Then South would cross to dummy with the ace of clubs and lead the last diamond.

Poor East would want to ruff, but you can't ruff when you are out of trumps. South would get to discard his losing heart.
