Toll-Free Roads Peril Turnpike in Pontiac Area

By PETE LOCHBILER

NEW YORK — Competing free highways remain the biggest threat to Michigan Turnpike Authority plans for a north-south toll road from Detroit past Pontiac to Flint.

It was agreed at a meeting of the authority with Wall Street bankers here yesterday that the newest threat is the proposed extension of Northwestern Highway as a toll-less, limited-access expressway across western Oakland County from Detroit to the Fenton-Clio Expressway.

The completed free road would "take the cream" off anticipated turnpike revenues, said James S. Abrams, manager of the municipal bond department of Allen and Co., an investment company.

If Northwestern were extended only as far as Commerce, or M59, however, the proposed turnpike's financial picture is "good," Abrams stated.

The authority is seeking a bond issue of roughly $165 million to finance a 76-mile long toll road from the Detroit Industrial Expressway to the southeast edge of Flint.

How State Highway Commissioner-elect John C. Mackie feels about toll roads remained a big question mark.

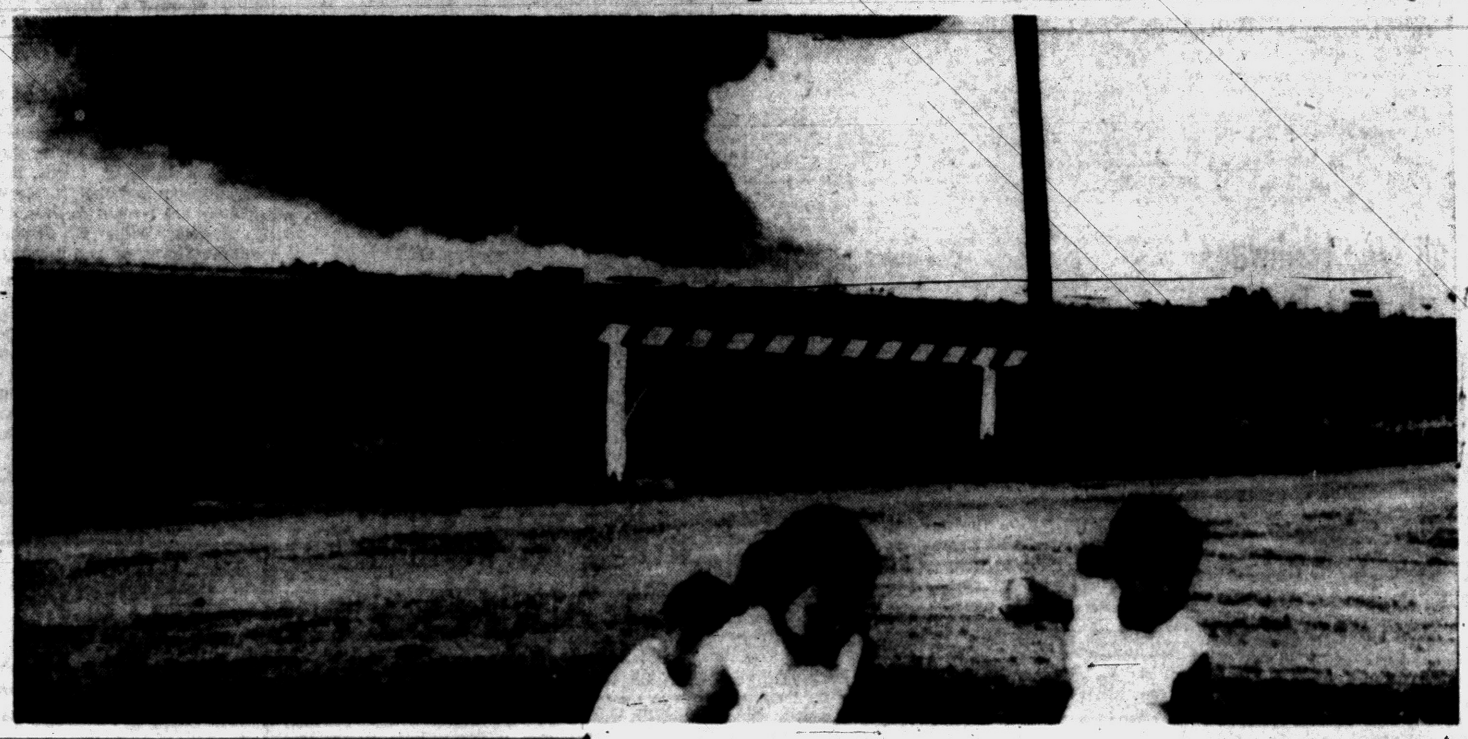

A spokesman for him, Sidney H. Woolner, Deputy Secretary of State, said Mackie would be "cooperative." But Woolner, who will take over the job of Deputy Highway Commissioner when Mackie takes office July 1, declined to make any commitments for the new highway administration.

Abrams agreed with authority chairman George N. Higgins' proposal to meet with Mackie in Lansing about a month after he takes office.

Children Flee as Tornado Dips From North Dakota Sky

MOMENTS BEFORE STRIKE — Unidentified children fled before tornado which cut a swath of death and destruction through Fargo, N. D., last evening. Twister came out of plains west of the city and killed ten, injured nearly 100 and caused property damage in millions. Fargo Forum photographer Alf Olsen caught the terrified children and funnel just before it hit city.

Six Children Die as Twister Hits Residential Area

Expect Tolls to Rise; Cloud Tower 10 Miles High; 85 Are Injured

FARGO, N. D. (AP) — A tornado, striking from a cloud tower more than 10 miles high, smashed through 100 blocks of a Fargo residential area last night.

It brought death to 10 persons — six of them the children of one family.

At least 85 more were injured, some critically.

The massive, black funnel lashed a swath of devastation 20 blocks long and 5 blocks wide in this city of 40,000.

The dead included all six children of the Gerald Munson family. They ranged in age from one to 16.

Walter Olson, Fargo police chief said the death toll might go higher as volunteers probed the wreckage of more than 200 homes.

DECLARED DISASTER AREA

In Minneapolis, 245 miles southeast of here, the Weather Bureau said the cloud formation that spawned the awesome twister showed on radar screens as a mass 60,000 feet high and with a diameter of 50 miles.

Fargo is the largest city in North Dakota. It is located in the flat Red River Valley, noted for its rich farm crops.

The twister wrecked immense Shanley High School and the nearby American Lutheran Church.

Richard Rasmusson, Associated Press staffer who lives near where the twister struck, said he and neighbors watched the black cloud forming an estimated 10 miles west of Fargo.

"It looked like an elongated triangle lying on its side," Rasmussen said. "As it came closer, we could see the funnel begin to form. From a mile away it looked like a huge, flexible tube waving in the air."

Thus forewarned, Rasmussen, his neighbors and many others in the area got into their cars and drove away from the storm.

Much of the city was left without electricity or telephone service, and for a while, the Fargo Police Department was without any telephone communications.

Fargo Mayor Herschel Lashkowitz declared martial law and North Dakota Gov. John Davis ordered a complement of the National Guard into the area.

Officials at Fargo hospitals, taxed to the maximum by the large number injured, said their call for blood donors had received immediate and "spectacular" results and the plasma shortage soon was alleviated.

GI's Lawyers File Petition

Ask Supreme Court to Free Girard From Army Custody

WASHINGTON (INS)— Lawyers for Army Specialist 3.C. William S. Girard today filed a brief four-page petition to the Supreme Court asking his freedom on a writ of habeas corpus.

The high court is meeting in conference today and the lawyers hope for a quick order setting hearings within a few days.

The lawyers charge that Girard, accused of the fatal shooting of a Japanese woman on an American firing range, is being held without any charge pending against him.

They challenged whether he could be held in custody merely because he is serving an enlistment.

WRIT DENIED

In District Court, which forbade the Army to turn Girard over to the Japanese, the request for a writ of habeas corpus had been turned down on grounds that Girard was serving an enlistment and was confined to quarters at Camp Whittington, Japan.

Dayton Harrington, Washington lawyer for Girard, said: "This is an important case to the State and Defense Department. They want top speed. The court wants to get away for a vacation, but I believe it will consider the case too important for any delay."

Harrington quoted the late and great Chief Justice John Marshall as holding: "When a visiting army is in the territory of another sovereign at its request it brings with it its own law and is exempt from both civil and criminal jurisdiction of the country visited."

But the government cited the same Marshall decision as also saying that the "jurisdiction of a sovereign nation is susceptible of no limitation not imposed by itself."

Car Veers Off Road, Clarkston Man Dies

A Clarkston man, L. T. Morrison, 38, of 5360 Sunnyside St., was dead on arrival at Highland Park General Hospital yesterday afternoon after his car left the road, striking parking meters and a light pole.

Highland Park police reported today that Morrison was traveling north on Woodward at Grand Ave., in Highland Park, when he suddenly veered to the right from the second lane, hitting two parking meters and finally smashing into a light post.

A post mortem will be performed today to discover what the actual cause of death may have been. Physicians suspect he may have suffered a heart attack and been dead before hitting the pole.

A Highland Park resident, John Turunen, 37, of 111 Highland St., who was standing nearby was taken to the hospital with a broken leg suffered as he was hit by a parking meter clamp which police estimate flew 15 to 20 feet before striking him.

Outlook on Civil Rights Bill Enhanced, Knowland Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) said today a successful parliamentary maneuver had "enhanced" the outlook for civil rights legislation. But he stopped short of predicting passage at this session of Congress.

Knowland, Senate GOP leader, engineered a victory over Southern foes of the House-passed bill last night, but it was only a preliminary skirmish in what promises to be a prolonged battle.

By a 45-39 roll call vote, the Senate put the measure on its legislative calendar without referring it to the Judiciary Committee, where a similar civil rights bill has been bottled up for months.

JOYOUS KNOWLAND

Knowland, jubilant over the outcome, said "it cuts out one prospective filibuster" against the bill, a key part of the legislative program urged by President Eisenhower. The bill is aimed generally at protecting voting and other civil rights.

Had the bill gone to committee, a motion to take it away from the committee and put it on the Senate calendar would have been subject to a filibuster by Southern opponents.

As it is, however, two prospective filibusters still lie in the path of the bill—one on a motion to take it up for debate and another on its passage.

To break a filibuster takes the votes of 64 senators, or two thirds of the entire membership. Past attempts to muster the necessary votes have met with defeat.

Knowland said an effort would be made to get action on the civil rights bill before Congress adjourns. But he said that if this fails, the bill still will be on the calendar at the start of the next session in January.

He told reporters he may not move to call the bill up for action until after the Fourth of July weekend.

B and K Girding for Gladhanding Summer Tours

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Communist chief Nikita Khrushchev and Premier Nikolai Bulganin apparently have a busy schedule of gladhanding tours ahead of them this summer.

The two traveling salesmen of communism, who began their series of sallies abroad two years ago with visits to Asia and Europe, plan now to appear in the capitals of most, if not all, the Communist nations of Europe, diplomatic sources said today.

★ ★ ★

The next journey reported on the schedule is to Prague for a tour of Czechoslovakia, whose red government gave the Kremlin strong support all through the Hungarian crisis last fall.

Between trips, the Kremlin leaders must be in Moscow to entertain two important visitors, Red China's Mao Tze-tung and Afghanistans's King Zahir.

End Picketing Against Hoffa

But Pontiac Teamsters Vow to Continue Effort to Get Him Out of Local

Anti-Hoffa pickets of Pontiac Teamsters Local 614 have abandoned picketing of the union hall at 1410 S. Telegraph Rd., but vow as they have not given up their fight to oust the Teamster boss from control of the local.

A spokesman for the group disclosed today they had wired John English, secretary-treasurer of the Teamsters International in Washington, D. C., for assistance in their fight.

William Bellinger, 33, of Drayton Plains, and a leader of the eight-day picketing, said the group hoped to send a delegation to see English.

"English has been an old ally of ours and others in wanting to clean-up the Teamsters," Bellinger said.

A handful of pickets began their march June 11 demanding an election of officers from rank-and-file members, and the end of James R. Hoffa's 3½-year trusteeship of Local 614.

Leaders of the ouster struggle charge they have been denied hearings in their appeal for an election. Officers say they cannot have an election under the trusteeship.

Hoffa, on trial in Washington on bribery charges, became boss of the Pontiac local in 1953 when officers Louis C. Linteau and Daniel J. Keating were sent to prison after conviction on conspiracy to bribe charges.

Williams Heads East for Parley

Off to Williamsburg to Attend Conference of Governors

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Williams heads East today on a trip that will take him to the Governors' Conference where in 1956 he was snubbed for the chairmanship despite the claims of seniority.

His only rival of a year ago for tenure in office, former Gov. Frank Lausche of Ohio, will not be on the scene when Williams arrives Sunday for the four days of meetings in Williamsburg, Va.

But under conference tradition, the honor of heading up the exclusive circle of 48 chief executives will gto this time to a Republican.

The five-term Michigan governor was sidetracked last year by a coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats, with the chairmanship going to Gov. Stanley of Virginia.

If Williams had any plans for edging into the conference limelight, he wasn't talking about them before his departure from Lansing.

In the political atmosphere that usually prevails, there is sure to be interest in his future political plans, which apparently have not yet firmed up.

Williams generally is credited with three alternatives for 1958, if he is to pursue White House ambitions.

These are to seek a sixth term, take on U. S. Sen. Charles Potter in a scrap for a Senate seat, or run for nothing and spend his time building himself politically around the country.

Benny's Parents Told $1,500 Bill Will Be Settled

MANORVILLE, N. Y. (AP) — A medical society spokesman said today he believed there would be a speedy and satisfactory adjustment of a doctor's $1,500 bill for services during and after the dramatic rescue of Benny Hooper Jr. from a well five weeks ago.

★ ★ ★

Both the parents and the physician, Dr. Joseph H. Kris, have indicated willingness to place the matter before the mediation committee of the Suffolk County Medical Society, the spokesman said.

"It's unfortunate that this whole thing developed in this fashion as an ending to what was a happy event for all concerned—the rescue of Benny," said Dr. Philip J. Rafle.

Dr. Rafle is Suffolk county commissioner of health and chairman of the county medical society's public relations committee.

"The medical society is quite concerned that the matter be settled promptly. I'm sure it can be satisfactorily adjusted."

★ ★ ★

The parents have said that, while they are grateful to Dr. Kris for his efforts in the case their economic predicament is such that they cannot pay a medical bill as high as $1,500.

Mrs. Hooper and her celebrated 6-year-old son appeared on a TV program this morning, and the mother repeated her story of the family financial plight.

"We had offers to go out and make money," she said at one point, "but we turned them down because we didn't want to exploit the boy."

Falls Off Dock While Fishing

Death Stalks 7-Year-Old as She Plays at Lake Home

By SYLVIA de STEIGER

Last night was to be the first time seven-year-old Cathy Simunic could sleep in a new bed her daddy, Steve Simunic of 4161 Rockcroft St., Independence Township, had bought for her.

The men came with a big truck to the rambling freshly-painted white frame house at Lake Townsend, but Cathy didn't see them. Daddy sent them away with the bed.

Instead, anther Father chose a casket as the resting place for the little blue-eyed, blonde to sleep.

Cathy was pronounced dead by Deputy Coroner Harry L. Riggs 50 minutes after she drowned in 12 feet of water. She apparently had fallen off the dock behind her home while fishing, according to Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies Everett Fredericks and Willis Gelow.

HIT BY CRAMPS

The child's father was stricken with cramps as he swam, seeking her body. He finally pulled the body out with a long-handled rake used to clean weeds from the lake.

Attempts of the Waterford and Independence Township firemen to revive the lifeless little body with an inhalator failed.

"We just moved into the house

Saturday and I stayed home from work to help fix up the house," the 52-year-old father of two daughters and six stepchildren explained.

"The kids were in the backyard picking up sticks and I was hanging the drapes for my wife in the living room. Then David, 11, came running in the house. He had a couple of splinters in his foot from the dock.

"I guess he and Cathy had decided to go fishing. It was just a few minutes later when Marilyn, 6, came in and told me Cathy wasn't on the dock . . . only the fishing pole.

"First a neighbor, Jack Craven, 16, tried to reach her but I guess it was too deep for him. He called the sheriff and fire departments."

STILL SHOCKED

"I always called her Detective Cathy. She was the one who

Canada's New Prime Minister:

Fulfills, Passes Prophecy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The 1915 class book at the University of Saskatchewan forecast he would someday become leader of the opposition in the House of Commons.

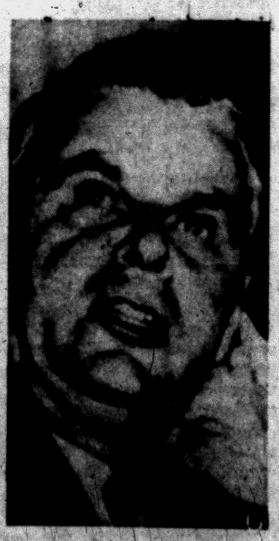

He fulfilled this prophecy last December and then went on to lead the Conservatives to victory June 10, ending the 22-year rule of the Liberal party. In winning the election, he defeated one of the greatest vote-getters in Canadian history.

The background of the rangy, 61-year-old country lawyer stands out in sharp contrast to that of the outgoing Prime Minister, Louis St. Laurent, who came from a well-to-do Quebec family and was a wealthy corporation lawyer before entering politics.

BORN IN SOD HUT

Diefenbaker was born in a sod hut on a bleak Ontario prairie. As a child he moved westward with his family to a frontier homestead. He began to practice law eventually in a tiny village in Saskatchewan.

While St. Laurent entered politics at the top, as a Cabinet minister, Diefenbaker began in provincial politics. He had to run three times before he won a seat in Commons. It took him 16 years and three more tries before he was chosen Conservative leader.

Elected leader, he found his party in what seemed like a hopeless minority, badly organized and discouraged. He surprised even his own party members by his vigorous and effective campaign. He traveled more than 20,000 miles and made over 100 speeches to capacity crowds across the country.

The new Prime Minister is a deeply religious man. Even during the campaign, he refused to make speeches on Sunday. A Baptist, he does not touch alcohol or tobacco.

He married Mrs. Olive E. Palmer in 1953, after the death of his first wife. He has no children.

His policies are not yet fully outlined, but he made it clear that he resents any interference in Canada's internal affairs by U.S. agencies or groups. On one occasion, he referred to the U.S. Senate Internal Security subcommittee as "witch-hunting inquisitors."

He also indicated during the campaign that there would be some adjustments in economic relations with the United States. He believes Canada's economic destiny is being controlled by U.S. investments.

Pontiac Church Files Lawsuit

First Congrationalists Ask Ruling on Legality of Proposed Merger

The First Congregational Church of Pontiac and three others filed suit in Federal Court in New York today seeking to prevent the merger of their denomination with the Evangelical and Reformed Church.

A Cleveland meeting is scheduled next week between national bodies of both groups to create a combined organization, the United Church of Christ.

The four churches, along with several ministers and laymen, contend the Congregational churches' general council is merely an advisory body and does not have authority to conduct such a merger.

Members of the Pontiac church more than a year ago authorized its officers to make the church here a party to the suit in federal court.

The Rev. Malcolm K. Burton, pastor of the Pontiac First Congregational Church, has played a prominent role in the opposition to the merger. He is executive vice chairman of the Committee for Continuation of the Congregational-Christian Churches.

The Rev. Mr. Burton said this morning the suit just filed is asking for a "declaratory judgment." If this petition is granted it will carry no injunction against the coming meeting or action to be taken there, but will rule on the legality of any action taken.

An affirmative ruling by the court presumably would void any merger action which may take place at Cleveland.

Bonn Removes Bars on Red China Trade

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — West Germany, Communist China's biggest Western trade partner, has followed Britain's lead and abolished special restrictions on trade with the Peiping government.

The Netherlands, Belgium, Luxembourg, Norway and France acted earlier.

Know the Weather

By E. H. SIMS

During your vacation to the beach or lake this summer an interesting pastime might be a study of the clouds day by day—and the conclusions you can draw from them.

For example, very high cirrus clouds will often indicate the approach of a warm front, which brings with it rain. But the higher the typical summer cumulus clouds, separated white puffs moving gently along in a summer sky, the better the weather is likely to be.

★ ★ ★

If the sky is cloudless with barometer high and steady and wind from the west, then good weather should be ahead. If the typical summer cumulous clouds form low to the ground and get even lower, then rain will probably occur during the day.

★ ★ ★

The summer cloud puffs are formed as air rises and contracts, thereby increasing the percentage of moisture in the air. When it increases enough, the moisture changes into tiny particles, which change the air to visible air — a cloud. If this occurs low to the surface of the earth, it is an indication that the moisture content of the air is great—thus a greater chance of rain from the clouds during the day.

Annual CAI Fair Opens in Waterford

The 10th annual three-day CAI Fair opened with the "bang" of bursting balloons today as Waterford Township children watched the skies for a balloon-dropping airplane.

★ ★ ★

The plane scattered balloons over the township between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Each balloon contained a free pony ride ticket for the fair, as well as a chance on the two bicycles which will be given away Saturday at the fair.

The fair opens at 4 p.m. today at the CAI Building, 5640 Williams Lake Rd. Featured attraction for the day will be the appearance of the Ivory Roman Riders and the famous Ivory ponies.

Shows will be given during the afternoon and evening, and the ponies will be available for rides at the same time.

DANCE PROGRAM

At 8 p.m., CAI youngsters will perform in a dance program.

The fair will include outside carnival rides and a midway, as well as inside games, booths and merchants' displays.

Saturday, the kiddies will have their day from the noon opening time to 5:30 p.m. when the bicycles will be given away.

Rides will be only 10 cents during the matinee. Ricky the Clown, will also appear Saturday.

Sunday the CAI Queen will be chosen to highlight the evening along with the presentation of prizes.

Toll-Free Highways Peril Area Turnpike

to parallel the toll road with toll-free highways, then the turnpike can't be financed," Abrams said.

Woolner said a $25 million bond issue for Northwestern recently let jointly by the state administrative board and the Oakland County Board of Supervisors would finance the highway approximately to Commerce.

He did not know if the contracts bind the state to extending the road all the way to the Fenton-Clio Expressway in Livingston County.

"The people in Western Oakland County would be served if Northwestern stopped short at Commerce, or M59," said Higgins, "and at the same time Oakland could get two new, good roads."

"If only Northwestern were built, the Pontiac area would be getting no additional road service from the turnpike," he observed.

Abrams agreed that the long-dormant authority would need new engineering and traffic surveys.

FIRM ASSURANCE

Higgins, who is trying to steer the authority out of last summer's doldrums, stated he wouldn't pay for any more surveys "unless we have firm assurances that the turnpike is financially feasable."

The authority floundered last summer when retiring State Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler announced plans to build competing free highways in the turnpike corridor.

Higgins said the Northwestern extension has been "hurried through" since last summer as Ziegler's farewell attempt to "sabotage" the toll road.

The authority was revived this spring when the legislature guaranteed a cushion of up to $3 million in state gas tax money to insure payment of interest on turnpike bonds if tolls fell short of expectation.

This legislation had been suggested by the Allen company, the firm which once secured similar legislation to make the proposed Mackinac Straits Bridge attractive to investors.

Abrams and Higgins were convinced that the turnpike, if built, could be designated as an inter-state highway, meaning that about $100 million in federal funds would be available for construction of other Michigan roads.

SEES POSSIBILITY

Woolner saw possible competition for the turnpike from such projects as the Hastings - Oakland Expressway planned in Detroit; the Farmington - Brighton Expressway along U.S. 16; and the proposed Grand River avenue expressway in Detroit.

Hovering over the meeting as the "fatal" threat was the controversial Southfield Expressway—Pontiac Central Artery proposal, which would almost parallel the turnpike route.

Higgins pointed out that if the Southfield road were built, it would have to be designated as a federal highway to receive federal funds.

"That would mean that Woodward avenue would probably no longer be a federal road, and the maintenance of it would pass from the state to the county and local governments."

He said that in South Oakland County the yearly maintenance of Woodward runs from $11,000 to $13,000 a mile.

As it is now planned, the proposed turnpike would parallel Telegraph road to the west from Eight Mile road to Quarton road. It would swing east to cross Woodward south of Square Lake road, passing east of Opdyke road.

From Pontiac, it would swing west again, paralleling and about five-to-seven miles east of U.S. 10 to the Lapeer County line.

At Flint, it would join the Fenton-Clio Expressway.

Stassen Unfolds New Arms Plan

Cuts in Armed Forces, Halting Nuclear Tests Called First Step

LONDON (INS)—The U. S. informed Russia yesterday that halting nuclear tests and cutting Soviet and American armed forces are the two essential elements of a first-step disarmament agreement.

Harold E. Stassen began the careful task of unfolding America's new plan for a partial disarmament agreement at the London meeting of the five-nation U. N. Disarmament Subcommittee.

He endorsed a cut of the Soviet and U. S. armed forces to 2.5 million men without linking it to political settlements.

Stassen, however, said the U. S. would be willing to agree to sharper reductions in subsequent disarmament agreements —after world political conditions have improved.

But Stassen informed Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin the U. S. was not willing to cut its forces to one million or 1.5 million men—as the Russians proposed — on the grounds that such a reduction would imperil America's world security obligations.

The U. S. delegate did not clarify further America's position on a testing ban. That position for some time has been that a ban on tests must be linked to agreement on cutting off production of nuclear materials for weapons.

★ ★ ★

After submitting proposals for a ban on tests and cuts in military manpower, Stassen said he would present, piece by piece, other items which the U. S. considered necessary in a pilot disarmament agreement at next week's sessions.

Officers Named by Waterford

Department to Stress Enforcement in Daytime Under New Setup

Waterford Township officials today named the township's new police force and indicated that stress would be put on daytime enforcement work.

The department was cut from 10 to 5 persons last Monday, effective today at 5 p.m.

Named as the patrolmen in the new setup were Frank Randolph, of 5829 Eldridge St.; John Forbush of 3367 Lotus St.; and William Stokes, of 4405 Cheesman St.

PENDER NAMED

Captain Millard Pender was named in the cutback order to the post of detective, heading the department under the Township Supervisor Elmer Johnson.

Pender said today that state police and Oakland County sheriff officials have offered aid in the future for patroling purposes. A meeting is planned Monday.

Johnson reported that the list of offers of volunteer aid to assist officers has risen to 25.

Stanley Allen, Nephrosis Leader, Is Crash Victim

Aided Others---Now Needs Help

BY GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

This is a story about a man who has asked for nothing but has given his all to help others. Now he needs help.

He lies in pain on a stretcher in his tiny, frame home off desolate Collier road in Pontiac Township. He remains almost motionless, held prisoner by a cast on his left leg which runs up and around his waist. Both arms are in casts.

He doesn't ask for anything. Not even this story. "More than anything else," he said with watering eyes, "I'd like company."

SON DIED IN 1956

In May of 1956, the Allens lost their 4-year-old son Dennis, to the childhood kidney disease nephrosis. His death followed a year and a half of hospitalization. Bills mounted to $6,800.

No sooner had Dennis been buried, when Allen promised he would do his all to fight this terrible disease. And he did. He joined with the National Nephrosis Foundation, Inc.

He brought news of the disease and the work of the group to this area. He worked day and night devoting his time to raising funds as chairman of a Pontiac drive, and later as state chairman.

He tirelessly gave so much of his time that he found it difficult to hold a steady job. He went from one to another.

★ ★ ★

"People must realize that funds must be made ready for needy families with children stricken with nephrosis," he said then and repeats often.

IN CAR ACCIDENT

Today Allen can't do much to help. On April 10 he was on his way to work at his new position as manager of the Hotel Roosevelt here. At a narrow point in the road one mile from his home, he lost control of his car when passing a truck.

When he returned home recently after 44 days in the hospital, he became more and more disheartened. His $400 a month wages had ended. Doctors say he might be confined at home through September.

Then the Allens lost their new kitchen range and their only heating unit when payments ceased.

"That was about the final blow," Allen said in a weakened voice. He is down to around 100 pounds after the accident.

RAN OUT OF MONEY

Faced with hospital and doctor bills climbing to $2,000, $65 per month house rentals, and food for their daughter Betty Lee, 9, and son Michael, 5, the Allens sought welfare assistance.

Today this is their only source of income. Relatives chip in, but they have families to support. The Allens receive $22 every two weeks from welfare.

There is no insurance to collect. Their car was scrapped for $35. Relatives gave $30 for a second-hand stove.

Being an ex-fighter, who had to give up the game when he was nearly blinded, Allen says: "I may be down, but I'm not out."

Looking ahead to a July 23 removal of the body cast, he turned his head a bit and said: "I'll be back to help with raising those funds for nephrosis. That's for sure."

Board Takes No Action Regarding Parking—Fines

BIRMINGHAM — City commissioners have taken no action on the report of City Manager Harold K. Schone and Police Chief Ralph W. Moxley concerning the reduction of over-time parking fines.

Moxley has conducted an extensive study on nearby communities where fines have been reduced. He said he had found some had been dissatisfied with results, while others had returned to the general accepted fee of $1.

This issue was sidetracked here to an indefinite date due to vacation periods of city officials interested in the outcome.

Moxley included in his study of the $1 fine the report that it costs an average of approximately 92 cents for each violation notice including the time of the police officer and printing expenses of tickets.

Transferred from Alpena Hospital to Grace Hospital after tumbling from a horse in Alpena is Joseph Monaghan, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. Monaghan of 110 Lone Pine Rd.

Those receiving Bachelor of Science degrees are James C. Saylor, Dorothy Gay Wright, Clarence G. Chambers, Helen M. Smith, Paula M. Beech, Henry B. Curtis, R. A. Higginbottom and Jack N. Merker.

Others are Donald A. Pais, Max R. Putters, Willis H. Stephens, Virginia Townsend and Richard L. Walters.

Parishioners of St. James Episcopal Church of Birmingham honored the Rev. Harold E. Towne and his family at a reception recently in the Community House. Arrangements for the affair were made by the Woman's Auxiliary.

Rev. Towne will soon leave for Pittsburgh, Pa., where he will be rector for Fox Chapel Episcopal Church.

Disciplinary Action Up to Bakers Union

WASHINGTON (INS) — Sen. John McClellan (D-Ark) said today the "burden" now is on the Bakers Union to determine whether disciplinary action should be taken against President James G. Cross, who denied misusing his high office.

★ ★ ★

At the same time, the labor organization's executive board planned to convene itself into a hearing panel at 2 p.m. (EDT) today to consider the fate of Curtis R. Sims, who was suspended from his post as secretary-treasurer after accusing Cross of using Union funds for his own benefit and pleasure.

Sims, who testified against Cross before McClellan's Senate Rackets Committee last week, told newsmen he would not be "surprised" if the Board ousted him.

McClellan told reporters he "would recommend that the Union Executive Board study the proceedings before this committee."

The Arkansas Democrat added: "The burden now is on the Union to determine what action, if any, should be taken against Mr. Cross."

The Board suspended Sims a few months ago after giving Cross a clean bill of health.

Cross, under oath, denied yesterday that he made labor contract concessions to subsidiaries of Zion Industries, Zion, Ill., in return for loans of more than $97,000 from a member of the firm's ruling family.

Murder Charge Exam Delayed

Pontiac Man Accused of Stabbing; Similar Case to Be Checked

The examination of Elmer F. Martin for second degree murder has been postponed until July 9.

Waterford Township Justice Donald Adams granted a defense plea for the delay so that the results of a similar case recently heard in Flint could be checked for its legal implications.

The delay was granted on the motion of the defense counsel, Clarence Smith, of Pontiac, after Assistant Prosecutor William E. Lang had presented his case.

Prosecution witnesses included Ollie Byrd, 37, of 2584 Eleven Mile Rd., Southfield Township, who was with the other two men picking up scrap at the dump.

Byrd and his son Billy, 16, both testified that they heard Compeau scream, but did not see the stabbing.

The prosecution also offered in evidence two knives. One, a penknife, was taken from Martin after his arrest, while the other, a jackknife, was found at the dump.

Police allege that Martin said he used the penknife in the slaying, but later said he had used the jackknife.

★ ★ ★

Another witness, James Earl Petty, who works at the dump, said he too heard the scream, but was too far off to see anything.

Medical Center Begun

PORT HURON (UP) — St. Clair County officials laid the cornerstone Thursday of the county's new $211,200 medical center. It is scheduled to be completed Sept. 15. The building will include offices, a medical clinic and mental health treatment facilities.

Money and Thanks Sent From Hare

LANSING (UP) — A personal check for $10 was on its way to Paul J. Mitman of Detroit today with the thanks of Secretary of State James M. Hare.

★ ★ ★

Mitman sent $10 to Hare as "moral support" last year after Mrs. Ann Thorpe, manager of the Secretary of State's branch office in St. Clair Shores, fled to Mexico with her husband and daughter and $75,000 in state funds.

A bonding company paid off part of the loss, leaving Hare personally responsible for the rest.

Mitman contended in a letter to Hare that the state should absorb the loss.

The Thorpes were seized in Corpus Christi, Tex., last month and the state hopes to recover most of the stolen funds.

Suggestion Earns Cash

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UP) — An idea that earned California $88,191 brought the highest suggestion award ever given to a state employe to Mrs. Gladys M. Burrows of the Board of Equalization.

Gov. Goodwin Knight presented her with the $3,086 award yesterday.

Mrs. Burrows figures out a way of streamlining accounting procedures so that some tax payments to the state could get to the bank in less than the usual eight days and thus could draw more interest.

Saturday Shows Convert Many

Graham Eyes TV Pulpit

NEW YORK (AP)—Billy Graham may be thinking of a regular television pulpit, once his New York crusade is over.

Although the evangelist hasn't said so, there have been hints in that direction. And he says he has been deeply impressed by the results of his current weekly TV appearances.

★ ★ ★

A weekly flood of 50,000 letters from across the country has followed the three Saturday night crusade meetings televised so far. Many are from persons saying that hearing him won them to Christian faith.

"The possibilities are tremendous," he said last night.

"We've seen twice as many give their lives to Christ in these five weeks as in any whole crusade we've ever conducted in the United States," he said.

Largest previous number was 9,000 in six weeks in Portland, Ore., compared with the 20,611 here in five weeks, 559 of them last night. The total also exceeds that for a six-week period of Graham's London crusade, where he often held several meetings a day instead of only one.

In his sermon, based on Daniel 5 and Gallatians 6:7, Graham said that many people feel that "somehow God will overlook" their sins.

In self-pride, he said, "you think that you're a pretty good guy, and that God's judgment will fall on the other man, but not on you.

"But God says, Be sure your sin will find you out.

"You can go on sinning and think that at the last moment God will forgive you. But if you have opportunity after opportunity to come to Christ, and refuse time after time, the chance of finally receiving him on your deathbed are remote."

Population Triples

MEXICALI — The population of Lower California more than tripled from 1940 to 1950, according to unofficial estimates.

Archaeologist Held by Egyptian Customs

CAIRO (AP)—An American archaeologist who uncovered a 40-century-old royal tomb was held by Egyptian police today after customs officials accused him of trying to smuggle four bags of antiquities out of the country.

Charles A. Muses, 38, of Indian Hills, Colo., was arrested at the Cairo International Airport last night as local newspapers published reports of his American team discoveries.

★ ★ ★

U.S. Consul Larry Roeder, present while police questioned Muses, said the case hinges on whether the archaeologist was guilty of criminal intent or just ignorant of the Egyptian law requiring a special license to export relics found in Egypt.

Roeder said the embassy was not planning any protest or intervention at present.

The law makes all antiquities the property of the state. Every find is carefully registered and put under control. Conviction of smuggling such relics could bring a penalty of two to three years in prison.

Area Girls Face Federal Trial

Teenage Pair, 2 Boys Accused in Post Office Break-In at Lakeville

Two Royal Oak teenage girls are free on $1,000 personal bonds today awaiting trial in Detroit Federal Court on a charge of violating the U.S. Postal laws by breaking into a Lakeville Post Office Saturday and stealing $120.

Judge Ralph M. Freeman entered innocent pleas yesterday for LaVerne Friberg, 17, of 502 S. Campbell and Carol Frazier, 18, of 703 E. Lincoln St. The pair stood mute when they were arraigned in Federal Court. Trial date has not been set.

Two 16-year-old boys, arrested with the girls, also are being held by Romeo State Police.

The four were arrested at their homes yesterday after two men reported seeing a car near the post office and jotting down the license number. They were Lawrence Barnes and Frank Westfall.

The Frazier girl admitted to troopers she was driving her mother's car about midnight Saturday near a lake north of Lakeville with the three other teenagers, when she discovered the car was low on gas and they didn't have any money.

City Man Bound Over on Felonious Assault

Leon C. Hendrix, 27, of 608 Ditmar St., was ordered committed to the Oakland County Jail until Monday if he didn't furnish a $500 bond in a felonious assault charge.

Hendrix waived examination Wednesday before Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCallum and was bound over to Circuit Court to appear Monday.

The complainant, Robert Foster, of 121 Bagley St., told police Hendrix struck him on the head with a pool cue while they were playing pool in a Wessen street pool hall June 13.

From 500 to 1,000 years are required by nature to make one inch of good top soil.

Our Wonderful Invisible Assets

The drilling of oil and gas wells in the Pontiac area has been a highly unprofitable venture. Nature seems to have skipped us in its deposits of what is called black gold and its accompanying ally.

★ ★ ★

We've even gone down a mile or more, only to find another dry hole or one filled with something far akin to what we were seeking.

But far more precious and more necessary to our good living, and even to our very existence, is something else with which we are richly endowed — and we don't have to go a mile deep to get it. In fact, few areas have such an abundant gift from nature.

It is the supply of water that comes from our underground springs, many of which quickly become flowing wells when they're given a chance.

Without them, this area would be unable to even lay the foundation for the great home, business and industrial development we are enjoying.

The largest artificial lake front acquisition in our county, recently opened and over 40 miles in extent, has been primarily brought about by the unleashing of hidden springs. They not only make the frontage, but they assure the residents of a home water supply without peer.

★ ★ ★

In some of Oakland County's hilly sections these springs are bursting out all over. This is particularly true in the Ortonville area, where all that is necessary for a new householder to get a water supply is to drive a crowbar or stake a few feet into the ground. Farmers sometimes uncover them when plowing.

Three of our county's rivers have their source in springs within a couple of miles of each other and in the same township. No wonder it is called Springfield.

★ ★ ★

With the exception of our own White Lake, we have few lakes above the level of our county's general terrain. So the mystery deepens.

As we go about our lives on the surface of the earth or above it, there's some dark doings down under that are silent watchdogs of our well being.

While the geologists and other experts never have been able to determine the real source or the clocklike timing of the geysers in a few other states, they know little more about the source or course of our water supply.

Perhaps it is fortunate and well planned that Nature keeps us in ignorance on some of the most important phases that are closely allied with our well being and very existence. Mere man in his top ego might abuse them.

All of this brings us around to what we're getting after.

Are you abusing our water supply? Inexhaustible as it may seem, the hard figures now indicate that it has a limit.

Few things cause a person to worry more than being told by a physician, "You must take things easier, and it is highly important for you not to worry about anything."

Tranquilizers

"Tension is a good thing, as well as anxiety, within limits," says Dr. Robert H. Felix, director of the Federal Government's National Institute of Mental Health.

In an interview with U. S. News & World Report, Dr. Felix who is directing a nationwide investigation ordered by Congress into the use of tranquilizing drugs, says that anxiety is an essential part of normal personality development.

He is of the opinion that the taking by persons who are not ill of so called tranquilizers to relieve the anxiety of a crisis defeats "the mechanism that provides for the normal person to meet periods of peak performance."

★ ★ ★

There is a field where tranquilizers are used to treat physical ailments, such as high blood pressure and certain kinds of intestinal disorders. But as a physician and psychiatrist Dr. Felix is convinced that their main value is in the treatment of mental illness. Although he thinks tranquilizers do not strike at the root of the illness, they made the patient more amenable to other treatment.

★ ★ ★

Speaking of one group of the drugs Dr. Felix says experiments show that in the well person they disorganize him "which gives you another thing to think about in such things as driving automobiles or working around dangerous machinery." But in the mentally ill they organized him better.

The safe and sane thing to do is not to take any tranquilizers or other sedative unless prescribed by your physician.

County Directory

1957-58 Edition Now Is Ready for Distribution

Summer: A season that officially arrived with us this noon, and whose advance rehearsal early this week was too good.

County Clerk Lynn D. Allen,

it lists all Oakland County officers and many of their staff members. It also gives the names of all officers in our 20 cities, 13 villages and 25 townships, a total of several hundred names.

The directory brings out several pertinent facts about our county's growth and development, and has figures to prove that its exceptional progress during the past few years is only a starter on what we have to come. Copies may be secured at the clerk's office, or one will be mailed to you on request.

The aroma of the wild grape blossoms now is filling the air on the side roads in the Pontiac area, where they grow in the hedgerows. It will chase the gas fumes out of your nostrils.

A Little Streamlining Might Help, Too

Disarmament Proposals a Paradox

WASHINGTON — The paradox of the hour is the way the Russians profess to be advocating "disarmament" at London at the very time that Moscow and Peiping are making military moves of a threatening nature aimed at the Wset.

The news dispatches have an ominous sound and the latest "communique" on the "cold war" reads as follows:

LAWRENCE

(1.) Egypt has been furnished three Soviet submarines to help patrol the Mediterranean and keep a watchful eye on the U.S. Sixth Fleet. Israel thinks the move may be directed at her shipping and is preparing countermeasures.

(2.) A Soviet cruiser and two escort vessels have just passed through the Turkish straits to the Mediterranean, and several more cruisers and destroyers of the Soviet navy are scheduled to pass through the same waterway soon.

ALBANIA—ARMED CAMP

(3.) The Russian navy has turned Albania into an armed camp, posing a threat to allied strategy in the Mediterranean. Submarine bases, according to press reports, have been built less than 50 miles from the Italian shore, and a large naval base in Albania has been "fortified and enlarged." A network of five airfields capable of handling jet planes has been established.

(4.) The United Nations command in Korea has at last been authorized to tell the Red Chinese formally that, because the armistice agreement has been violated by the Communist forces, it becomes necessary for the U.N. units to be given "modern weapons" to offset the advantage.

Both the North Koreans and the Chinese Communists have illegally introduced new weapons into the area they hold north of the armistice line.

(5.) The Chinese Communists are building up more airfields for jet planes opposite Formosa, and considerable nervousness has reappeared in the area.

★ ★ ★

All this doesn't sound as if tensions are being removed. It gives the impression that the London talks are just part of a sparring match going on to fix responsibility by one side or the other for a possible breakdown.

The Russians, of course, get a big propaganda advantage in the world at large out of their pose as seekers of peace.

It helps to quiet the fears of their own people and enables the Moscow strategists at the same time to keep up constant criticism of the West by seizing every sign of a difference of opinion and magnifying it to make it appear that the Allies are disunited.

Actually, the negotiations are so delicate that it is a matter of deep regret that President Eisenhower permitted any discussion of the disarmament problem at his press conference. The President talks informally and likes to answer the newsmen, but every syllable he utters should have been written out in advance.

Off-the-cuff comments on foreign affairs are dangerous. Press Secretary Hagerty had to straighten out a misapprehension gained by the reporters from an overcondensed statement which the President made on disarmament.

Moscow radio took advantage of the episode. When finally cleared up, it turned out that President Eisenhower had not deviated from the agreed-upon line with the Allies.

Meanwhile, Senator Lyndon Johnson, Democratic leader, has come part way toward "cooperation" with the President and the disarmament mission headed by Harold Stassen.

The Texas senator says he will agree to let some Democratic senators go to London provided he gets a "formal request" from the President. Even so, the senators are merely to be "observers" and not members of the mission.

Senator Johnson seems to feel that senators cannot "participate" in the mission itself or share any "responsibility" for the decisions made, since the United States doesn't have a parliamentary system and the constitution calls for a separation of the legislative and executive.

But this is splitting hairs. Either the senators who go along do so with the knowledge that they will help formulate a treaty they can recommend to the Senate for its "advice and consent," or they tell the other members of the mission at London during the negotiations that they will not so recommend and why.

Country Parson

Dr. William Brady Says:

Pills Aren't Solution to Heart Pain Woes

"Enclosed please find 35 cents and stamped envelope bearing my address," writes a New Jersey reader, "for a copy of Volumette XVI of the Pocket Cyclopedia of Health, "The 7 Keys to Vite." The B-Nutron pills help a lot for heart pains. What a difference in price from the $10 vitamin capsules prescribed by my specialist."

DR. BRADY

In order to understand the above reader's allusion to heart pains I'd have to take time out from the bowling green—a preposterous idea!—and read carefully and critically the entire subject matter of Volumette II of the Pocket Cyclopedia, the booklet titled CVD, that is, cardiovascular degeneration, heart and artery troubles. But I'd rather go to jail than do that. So I'll just lower my guard and say I have never suggested that B-Nutron pills are good for "heart pains."

2 BETTER AIDS

I do believe, though I hesitate to mention it here, that either or both of these emergency measures will stave off or relieve many a pain in the tropical zone which may or may not indicate heart trouble:

1. Four or five inflations of the bellows.

2. A tablet or two of nitroglycerin.

In Volumette XXIII of the Pocket Cyclopedia, How to Breathe, you will learn how and why one should inflate the bellows.

In Volumette II you will learn how and why and under what circumstances one should carry in pocket or pocketbook a half dozen or dozen nitroglycerin tablets for emergency use. And why one should sit down or lie down and plop a tablet into the mouth from time to time to determine whether it is still potent.

One man who said he is subject to angina pectoris rejected the suggestion of inflating the bellows. He told me that if I ever have angina pectoris I'll understand why a man squeezed in a vise simply can't inflate his bellows.

Believe it or not, for once I had no rejoinder. Anyway, I had rather not argue with such a man. Remember what an illustrious subject of heart muscle anoxia, John Hunter, 18th Century anatomist and surgeon, said—that his life was in the hands of any rascal who chose to annoy and tease him.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not diseases, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Homosexual Now Well-Adjusted

Tom feared he was a hopeless case and would end in prison or a mental sanitarium. But he became a well-adjusted man, and later married happily. He now has three children. So send for the sex booklet below, since it gives you the true facts and helps salvage many folks who otherwise would be broken personalities.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case V-317: Tom T., aged 31, is the disturbed adult mentioned yesterday.

"Dr. Crane, I am a homosexual," he had admitted, "but I want to change. Is it possible at my age?"

You are the captain of your own fate, so age is not a significant factor.

"If you go through the proper motions, then you will soon begin to feel the corresponding emotions," runs an adage of applied psychology.

CRANE

What are the proper motions for an adult male, unmarried? Well, he should be dating an attractive member of the opposite sex two or three nights per week.

★ ★ ★

He should be escorting her to movies and dances, as well as to concerts and especially to church.

He should pay her deserved compliments and hold her hand in the movies. If he has been going steadily, he should certainly kiss her goodnight.

However, many men don't even know how to kiss. They seem to stress quantity above quality. So they take many little pecks on the mouth, instead of long, swooning kisses.

Girls don't like such little pecks on the mouth, for they don't have a chance to feel the personality dominance of their escorts before the spell is broken.

PROOF OF PUDDING

"But it is an effort for me to date a girl," Tom admitted. "I've tried it, but it is like taking bitter medicine, for I just don't feel enamoured of the female sex."

"You will," I positively informed him, "if you'll just go through the proper motions."

For love of the opposite sex is not an instinct but a learned habit. Most children come up in a home where Dad and Mother are present, so they subconsciously are tutored in this heterosexual outlook.

But thousands are reared in a one-sex atmosphere, so they miss this early training, and thus are predisposed to a homosexual attitude.

In this situation, they must react like the diabetic, who, though previously fond of sugar, must learn to avoid it for his own good.

Later, these diabetics lose their former yen for sugar. It is no longer a battle when they turn down cake or pie.

And so it is with the homosexual in adulthood. He must reverse his previous habits and deliberately cultivate a new set which will generate the corresponding heterosexual emotions.

So I urged Tom into dating a desirable girl. At first he had to force himself to act gallant and hold her arm when they crossed a busy street.

It was a double effort to hold her hand romantically during a movie. And as for kissing her, well, he told me he had to grit his teeth the first few times.

★ ★ ★

But it got easier with later repetitions. Ultimately, he began to lean upon her for conversation and companionship.

He complimented her, and she spontaneously reciprocated, so she began to inflate his ego.

"I WANT TO FEEL IMPORTANT," is the crucial tattoo on everybody's chest, and Tom had it, like all the rest of us.

Love develops from original casual acquaintance if we just remember that tattoo and begin to add the romantic motions that generate the corresponding emotions.

In a year, Tom was a well-adjusted heterosexual. He later married the girl and is quite happy. They now have three children.

So send for my booklet "Sex Problems of Young People," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents (non-profit). It explains Tom's problem more fully.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Voice of the People

Waterford Citizens Defend Van Atta and Police Force

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

Chief Van Atta always seems to be the one to get a raw deal. He's been with the police force since it first started. His record shows how much good he's done the township. In 1954 they tried to put him out, but the people got behind him and he kept his job. Maybe if we got behind him again something could be done.

The County says they may not have a day patrol in Waterford. In that case, who'll enforce the laws and keep accidents down? Since they cut the force last time accidents increased 25 per cent. What will happen now? Let's get behind Van Atta and fight for our police force.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Konkle
1017 Boston Ave.

I'm really burned up. For a township our size, I can't say I think two policemen are enough. Just where do the board members intend to recruit "volunteer policemen" and how? I'd like to know how many of the board members will volunteer. Don't they realize how important a police force is?

It was very unfair to do what they did to Van Atta. They could have at least put him in a patrol car instead of dropping him altogether. The board should do some heavy thinking and maybe they'll wonder if their decision was so wise.

Worried and Disgusted

★ ★ ★

It sure didn't take long for the Democrats to prove their power in Waterford. Chief Van Atta has built a reliable police department as well as a trusting friend of everyone. The socalled "financial difficulties" are a mighty poor excuse in growing Waterford. It would seem that if a police force is necessary, it could be afforded. I would like to hear a really logical reason for Van Atta's discharge. It certainly seems the Democrats are well headed toward proving the mistake of the last election.

Disgusted Citizen

Asks if Fallout's Really a Worry

I'd be interested in knowing whether or not we really have to worry about atomic fallout. It would seem that the human body could adjust to that if it increases gradually over a long period. It seems that the physical mechanism of humans has adapted itself to just about everything else over a period of many years. Why not this too?

Hopeful

Discuss 'No Tie' Policy in City

I like Mr. Sparrow's idea about the heat problem, but why suffer up to 90? Why not make it 80, or, even better, 75? Do away with masculine cruelty by voting for sport shirts from June to September. We ladies feel like heels. We wear no hose, low neck, sleeveless dresses and go into a store where men are trying to look pleasant in coats and ties. Ridiculous!

M. Lunny, a Cool Club Fan

Why do some of you men want to wear coats and ties when it's hot? Talk about women being proud, you men have us beat all hollow. Or does your wife make you wear them? Or is it because you want to be "properly dressed?" If that is etiquette, it is high time that rule of etiquette had an exception. "Man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart." And how about the vitamin D that the Lord provides in sunshine—don't you want any?

Favor Schools Year Around

If we kept the schools open 12 months a year, half day sessions for some pupils could be dropped and our young people wouldn't be handicapped by "half educations" as they are now.

CHAPTER 23

It wasn't easy, telling the story of my life to the girl I hoped to marry, but I had to. It was a complex thing, tied up with my feelings for Sarah Pardee, my loyalty to the Box P, and the memory of Joe Pardee. For some reason I had made up my mind Nela Mathers must know most everything about me before I asked her to marry me.

"That's about all," I said finally, "except that for a couple of years or more I was chore boy. When Dogbone showed up, I started riding for Joe, and Dogbone took my place."

★ ★ ★

There was so much more I couldn't tell her: how Sarah and Joe had drifted apart, and about Sarah's accident and her hair turning white. I'd told enough. Nela knew how much I owed to Sarah. That was the part I thought she ought to know.

I said, "I guess this is about as unromantic a proposal as a man ever made, but what I started to say was that I love you and I want you to marry me."

I wasn't looking at her now. I couldn't. I hurried on: "I'm not trying to make you think I'm anything great. You know how it is between me and your dad. I'm not going to back up. Not even for Sarah. I don't have any education. No schooling, I mean. If we have to leave the Box P and you're my wife, you might starve because I don't know anything but ranch work. With what Joe left me when he was killed, and with what I've saved, I've got a little over $1,000 in the bank in Canon City. I own a horse and saddle and a gun and my clothes. That's all."

★ ★ ★

"Will." Nela reached out and took my hand. "Will, can't you stop talking and listen for a while? Don't you want the answer to your question?"

I did look at her then. Her face was close to mine, and I heard her whisper: "Will, I want to marry you more than anything else in the world. Today. Tomorrow. Next week. Any time you say."

I put my arms around her and kissed her, and she clung to me with passionate fierceness, giving me an unspoken promise, and when she drew back, she said: "A woman doesn't have much chance, Will. I've loved you for so long. I thought you'd never ask me."

★ ★ ★

Then the old fear began gnawing at me. "It'll raise the devil when we tell Sarah and your dad. Let's get married now and tell them later. Tomorrow."

Her eyes widened as she thought about it. Maybe she was afraid just as I was. There were so many things that might happen. "Will, we can't lose each other now. We just can't." Leaning back against me, with my arm around her, she said: "I've got $200 of my own. I want to put it with your money. If I don't, sooner or later Dad will get it for the colony, and I don't want him to have it. Twelve hundred dollars is enough to get started somewhere else, even, if—if we have to leave here."

Her words told me a great deal: that John Mathers was as demanding in his way as Sarah was in hers, and that even if we had to leave the Box P, we'd get along, somehow. But Sarah? My mind, alive now with memories of the bad years and of what my life might have been without Sarah, could not accept a complete break with her. But I put that out of my thoughts for the moment. My most immediate need was to marry Nela.

She turned her head, kissed me, and said, "All right, Will. Tomorrow. Where?"

"Canon City. We'll meet in the hotel." I thought how far away the town must seem to her, and I said, "How will you get there?"

"Ride. I had a horse brought down from the ranch, and Dad knows I've been aiming to go down for some clothes."

★ ★ ★

"He'll let you ride alone?"

"Of course. You're marrying a self-reliant woman, Will. I've had to be ever since Mother died six years ago."

"I'll meet you in Carlton and we'll—"

"No. I'd rather ride alone to Canon City. I don't want anyone seeing us together until it's settled. Dad might talk me out of it, and I don't want him to."

"All right, we'll meet in the hotel in Canon City as soon as you can get there."

I kissed her, holding her hard against me; and for that moment there were no problems, just Nela and me, and no sound except the breath of the wind in the willow leaves over our heads and the rush of water above the pool.

On Monday morning I left after breakfast, the sun not yet up, telling Maria I was going to Canon City and might be gone several days. She was to inform Sarah, and say that I had given work orders to Curly and Red.

I rode hard, hoping to get to town ahead of Nela, for there were several things I wanted to do. I put my horse up, and went first to Ben Sawhill's office. When I told him what I planned, he shook my hand and slapped me on the back as he said, "I told you almost a year ago you ought to get married."

"I hadn't met Nela then," I said. "Can you get away from the office for a while?"

"Sure can," he said. "I haven't got a thing to do."

I told him to get a room for us at the hotel, and arrange for the preacher. I left then, and bought new clothes, including the first store suit I ever owned, had a shave and bath, and put on the new suit. Then, smelling of cologne, and with my suit uncomfortably tight, I went to the hotel and found Nela waiting for me in the lobby, talking to Sawhill.

★ ★ ★

When he saw me, he turned from her. "Will, you're a lucky man. My only regret is that I didn't see her before you did."

Nela, shy for the first time since I had met her, stared at the floor. "Will, I don't have any clothes, and it's too late this evening to buy them. Let's wait until morning."

"Don't wait," Sawhill said. "It's like diving into a cold pool. If you start feeling it with your big toe, you'll never make the dive."

Nela laughed uneasily, and I said, "You're in a good position to talk, Ben."

"I should know if any man does," he said. "Now listen to me, both of you, and make up your mind to do what I say. A hotel room is no place to spend your wedding night."

He put a hand on my shoulder and bowed to Nela. "I have gone to some pains this afternoon, and I'll be mighty put out if I don't get my way. I have a house that is yours as long as you're in town. My housekeeper cleaned up this morning, so it's all spic and span. House swept and dusted. And supper is on the stove for all of us right now." He pulled a big silver watch from a vest pocket, studied it, and announced: "In five minutes the preacher will be there. Let's start."

Nela held back. "We can't put you out like this, Mr. Sawhill. A hotel room is all we expected—"

"Miss Mathers," he said severely, "the only way you can put me out is to refuse me. I even have a bottle of champagne. If you make me drink all of it, I'll lose my practice."

"He means it," I said, and Nela reluctantly nodded agreement.

A rig was waiting outside the hotel. In less than five minutes we were in Sawhill's house, and within another ten minutes we were being married in his front room with its horsehair sofa and stuffed owl on the mantel and the framed motto on the wall, "God Bless Our Home." I looked away from it, for I was thinking of Sarah, and of Ben Sawhill, who loved her, and how it would have been if she had agreed to marry him.

"I don't want you to get mad at me, Will," Nela is waiting to tell him, "but I'd like to tell you something about Sarah." Continue "Gunlock" tomorrow.

Tough Task for Robertson

Woos Japanese Leader

By International News Service

Assistant Secretary of State for Far Eastern Affairs Walter S. Robertson faces a tough job of persuasion during the current Washington visit of Japanese Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi.

An outspoken and determined foe of Communist China and one of the adminstration's major advocates of a policy barring trade or any other relations with that nation, Robertson will be trying to convert Kishi, a diplomat who has long urged a general relaxation of trade restrictions with the Communist mainland.

NO LACK OF EFFORT

One thing is sure: the 63-year-old State Department official will not fail for lack of effort. That, if anything has been his trademark in his brief duty with the diplomatic corps.

Born Dec. 7, 1893, Robertson is a member of an ancient Virginia family which came to the United States before the revolution. One of his early paternal grandparents fought as an officer under George Washington and Robertson is a member of the Order of Cincinnati, an organization of descendants of officers who were in the Revolution.

The State Department official attended the College of William and Mary and Davidson College, where he became a Phi Beta Kappa.

As a first lieutenant, Robertson was a pilot during World War I and then returned to the more settled life of an investment banker before joining the Foreign Service as chief of the U.S. lend-lease mission to Australia in 1943.

He then was transferred to Washington and, a short while later, to China, where he served with such distinction he was awarded the Order of the Cloud and Banner by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

After World War II, Robertson returned to civilian life and, as he says, was "shocked" one day when President Eisenhower, shortly after his election, called to ask if he would serve as assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs.

It took him a week to get around to accepting. He has kept the job ever since.

A hard worker, Robertson during the few times that he can get away from his State Department desk makes a quick trip to his estate near Richmond, Va., where he leads the life he most admires: that of a gentleman farmer.

He is married and has one son, William S., Jr., and two daughters.

State Seeks U.S. Funds for New Health Center

LANSING (AP) — The state is seeking $150,000 in federal funds to help finance a health center building for Macomb County, to be situated west of Mt. Clemens near Martha T. Berry Hospital.

★ ★ ★

The project will cost about $400,000, with $250,000 to be provided from a 1954 tax levy.

The state office of hospital survey and construction announced yesterday that approval of federal funds to make up the difference has been asked.

Power Official in a Tizzy

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — The Idaho Power Co., in all its 40 years of existence, never heard a protest against the 11 major hydro-electric dams it built . . . not until Hells Canyon.

But since it applied to build three dams, Brownlee, Oxbow and Hells Canyon, in that stretch of the Snake River bordering Idaho and Oregon, its soft-spoken, 57-year-old president, Thomas E. Roach, feels like a Boise-to-Washington commuter.

"It seems I've spent most of my time this past six years in Washington," he said in an interview. He said he hadn't "the remotest idea" how many times he testified before various government agencies.

The Senate is debating a bill to authorize construction of a federal dam in Hells Canyon, the deepest canyon in the continent. The federal dam would flood out Brownlee, Oxbow and Hells Canyon dams. Brownlee Dam is half finished.

★ ★ ★

Idaho Power got tax amortization certificates entitling it to write off in five years, as depreciation for income tax purposes, a portion of the cost of Brownlee and Oxbow. Public power advocates called this an interest-free loan to Idaho Power.

★ ★ ★

Last night Roach wired the Office of Defense Mobilization director, Gordon Gray, who granted the certificates, that his company was rejecting the certificates and would go ahead without them so as to "eliminate further beclouding of real issues" in the Hells Canyon debate.

In an interview before he acted to return the certificates, Roach said: "We face an extremely acute power situation in our area, and it will be catastrophic by next summer if anything happens to our plans for Brownlee.

★ ★ ★

"In all the Pacific Northwest, the area served by Idaho Power Co. is the only one that has never had a power shortage . . . Left to our own devices we have managed by hook or crook to maintain that proud boast."

Cork can be stripped from an evergreen tree without killing the tree.

The biggest danger the average motorist faces is the average motorist . . . Most people would like to tell the truth—but they'd rather be friendly . . . Road maps tell a driver everything he wants to know, except how to fold 'em up again.—Earl Wilson.

Private Ivan G. Strauss applied for a direct commission several months before he got his "greetings" to be inducted. The day he arrived at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., recently to begin his basic training, he received orders promoting him to second lieutenant.

Pat, chosen "Miss Asparagus of 1957," kept watch on the 23-foot-high stalks at a banquet for the National Assn. of Retail Grocers given by the Asparagus Club. House Doorkeepers Heads May Roll

WASHINGTON —Rep. Knox (R-Mich) has accused house doorkeepers of a "misuse of authority" in "ejecting" 15 high school students from the visitors' gallery.

★ ★ ★

"I think it's about time there's some head rolling," an angry Knox told the House yesterday.

★ ★ ★

Knox said 15 high school graduates from Knox's Upper Peninsula district were "ejected" from the gallery after being in their seats for 20 minutes. He said Louis Della-Camera, a doorkeeper, told them to leave to make room for others.

★ ★ ★

The Michigan Republican was particularly upset about his failure to receive an apology from the doorkeepers. He said William A. (Fishbait) Miller, head doorkeeper, had "assured me I would have a letter of apology" two weeks ago when he complained about the incident.

British Murder Wave Stirs Controversy

LONDON (INS) — A wave of murders sweeping Britain has revived the bitter controversy over the recent decision to modify the law on capital punishment.

According to one estimate 92 people have died in crimes of violence since March 21, the date when the government's Homicide Act restricted hanging to five types of murders.

If the slayings continue at the present rate, the total for the year is likely to be around 375 deaths—almost three times the average annual murder total before the act was passed.

Under the Homicide Act murderers can be hanged only if they kill in furtherance of theft, by shooting or causing explosions, in resisting arrest, for the slaying of police officers, and for the killing of prison officers.

Sir Cyril Atkinson, a retired judge and strong supporter of capital punishment, said in an interview:

"Perhaps it is a little too early to comment on the situation but I insist that hanging is a deterrent. I stand by that view."

Boy Scout Applies What He Learned and Saves Baby

DETROIT (AP) — Boy Scout Raymond Shields has passed his first lifesaving test with flying colors.

Raymond, 11, revived a 15-month old baby girl with artificial respiration Wednesday after chasing the child's hysterical mother to offer his aid.

The baby, Dianna Szewczyk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Szewczyk, went into convulsions after she fell on her head at the family's east side home.

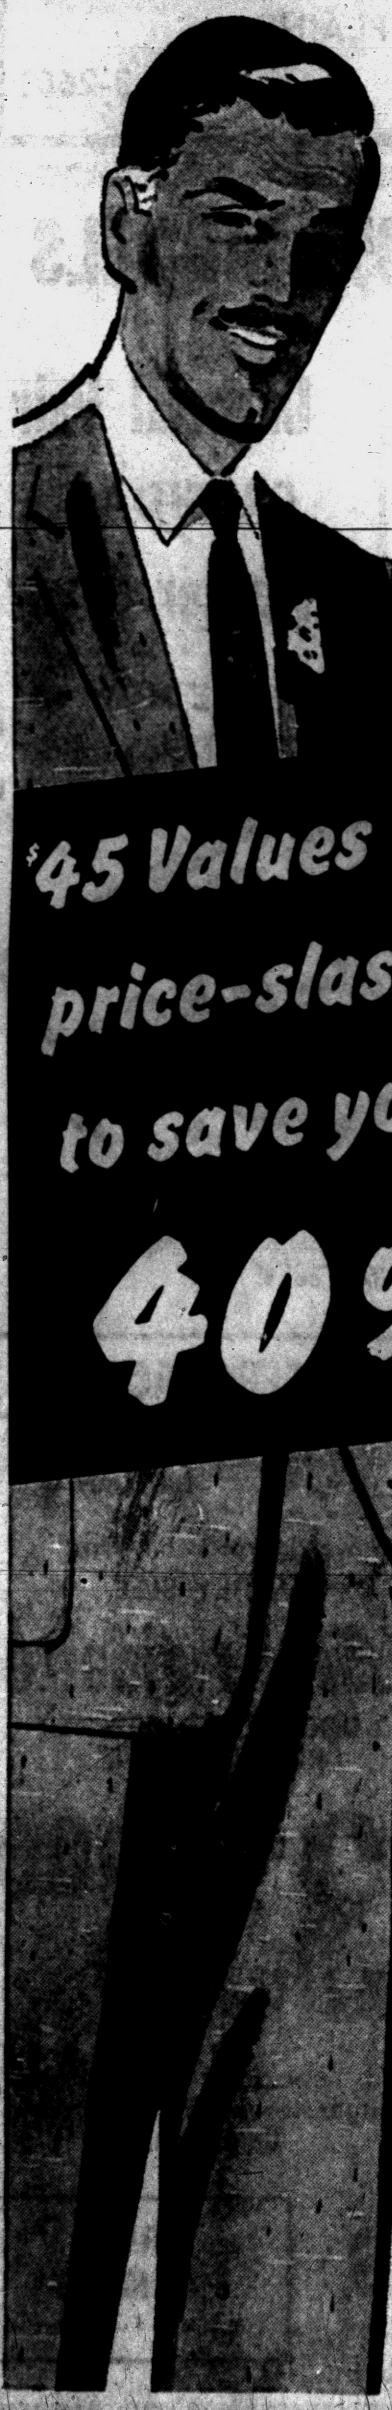

Raymond, sitting on a porch across the street, saw the mother running toward a neighbor's house with the infant. He ran after her and followed her into the neighbor's house.

He saw that Dianna was not breathing, so applied artificial respiration until she started to revive. Then he noticed she appeared to be in shock so he put her feet up on a pillow until color returned to her face.

"I just learned what they taught me in the Scouts about treating people for shock," said Raymond afterwards.

The grateful mother said, "I just finished a ten-week course in first aid, but I forgot everything I knew."

Are Your Numbers Like These?

The following are correct answers and explanations for the Pot-O-Gold puzzle which appeared in last week's Pontiac Press.

A. (2) CLIMB. The "careful preparation" mentioned in the clue would of course be for the CLIMB up Mt. Everest (equipment, supplies, etc.), hardly preparations for a Claim to fame.

B. (3) EYELASHES. Eyes fringed with long dark EYELASHES are always more dramatic than if the lashes are sparse, and many girls use mascara, or even false EYELASHES to add glamor. Eyewashes have a more practical use, for soothing, or washing out dust particles.

C. (6) DUMBLY. It always arouses sympathy when someone must listen to a tirade DUMBLY—in silence — because his position does not permit him to answer back. There is often great dignity in standing by Humbly; the modest quality of humility need not arouse pity because it has a dignity of its own.

D. (8) BEAUTY. We frequently read news accounts of a weak, infatuated man who steals in order to shower gifts on his beloved. He may not know what the Booty will be until after he has stolen it.

E. (9) DEFLATED. An overly pompous man is puffed up with self-esteem; he is brought down to size, or DEFLATED, when the voters speak up and he is Defeated.

F. (11) MONOCLE. The skilful retaining of an eyeglass in one eye would be awkward to maintain when the wearer is bending over, or engaged in physical labor. Manacle is not so good because it is usually used in the plural.

G. (13) CONFINED. Secret papers would be restricted to those whose work requires it. The papers would not be turned over to their care, as suggested by the words Confided to; they would merely have access to them when necessary.

H. (16) REMAINDER. A building left over from a more gracious architectural period is often replaced by a stark, stiff modern one. The old building will call to mind an earlier era—i.e. be a Reminder—only because it is a REMAINDER of the period.

I. (18) SCRAPS. Petty fights among teenage gangs are often broken up by the police before real violence gets started. "Sometimes" the youngsters are taken to the police station, and their parents are summoned to take them home. A Scrape is an embarrassing predicament or stiuation of minor importance which would not call for police interference.

J. (19) ALERTED. If wires are down after a severe storm, it is not always possible to find alternate roads that are free of them so that motorists can be Averted, or turned away from them. Motorists can, however, be warned to watch out for the danger, and thus be ALERTED.

K. (22) FRICTION. Nothing is harder to dismiss from the mind than clash of opinion and a tired, nervous person would be uneasy over some conflict, or FRICTION, in dealing with another. Fiction, an imaginary story, does not dig so deeply into the emotions, in fact often has a restful effect on tired and nervous people.

L. (23) RESTLESS. Pranks committed by RESTLESS young collegians are apt to be merely practical jokes that can be condoned or overlooked. If the youths are Reckless, utterly heedless, their pranks may result in real mischief or harm and so cannot be condoned.

M. (25) WAVER. A bettor who prefers "long shots"—horses with little chance of winning—likes the excitement of big winnings for a small bet. It's out of character for him to gamble for "even" money, or less, on a favorite. So if he would Wager on the favorite, he would certainly hesitate, or WAVER, before doing so.

N. (7) CONCOCTIONS. Rich food mixtures are not for overweight people who want to reduce, whether they are Confections — candies or sweets — or rich CONCOCTIONS of any sort.

O. (29) RESALE. The customer often feels that there is too much mark-up between the price the car lot paid for an old car and its RESALE price. Wholesale and Retail distinctions are not involved here.

P. (32) DEFECTION. In espionage cases, the original DEFECTION, or betrayal, is the source of all the trouble and the cause of some suicides. The Dejection, or depression, at being found out, is just the end result of the original offense.

Q. (34) MONOTONOUS. The playboy type who doesn't want to settle down to one girl naturally regards Monogamous marriage as MONOTONOUS, or dull.

R. (35) HARRIED. A Hurried greeting need not be curt; it doesn't take time to smile when saying hello. But one can excuse a curt greeting from someone who is HARRIED; he's too preoccupied with worry to think of anything else.

S. (7) REVELATION. The Revolution in Hungary served to dramatize the real feelings of the people toward their conquerors. But reassurance came from the striking disclosure or REVELATION that the satellite peoples, so carefully cultivated by Russia, and seemingly a menace to the free world, were not on the side of the U.S.S.R.

T. (40) CHARGING. Changing a man with criminal tendencies is a long and tedious process which would require many qualities in addition to tact. However, it's difficult and perhaps dangerous — to tell a man that he's a crook, so that CHARGING him with it had best be done diplomatically, with tact.

One in 10 Students Has Eye Trouble

LANSING (AP)—More than one in every 10 Michigan school children tested in the last 10 years have turned up with defective eyesight.

This was reported by the State Health Department in a survey of its experience with the so-called Massachusetts vision test introduced in 1947.

Of 1,389,450 boys and girls examined, 153,344 had defects and were referred to eye specialists.

The Massachusetts test differs from a simpler type of screening in that it reveals stigmatism, far sightedness and muscle balance, as well as the child's ability to see at a distance.

★ ★ ★

Caroline Austin, chief of the department's vision section, said children should be tested every two years, from kindergarten on, to protect against possibilities of educational retardation.

Brian Andrews, 19, who said he was a lion tamer, wept in court in Dublin, after his arrest for carrying a glass cutter, presumably to use in burglaries.

Man Pleads Innocent on Morals Charge

A former employe of the Pontiac State Hospital pleaded innocent Wednesday when a Pontiac mother accused him of molesting her 10-year-old girl several times between June 11 and June 18.

Joe E. Chapin, 53, of 184 Elm St., was freed by Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finnegan on a personal bond until trial June 27.

There's No Rivalry Between Mrs. Post and Mrs. Buchanan

Middle West Produces 2 Famed Capital Hostesses

(This is another article in which a noted Washington correspondent takes you behind the scenes on the capital's cocktail circuit to meet the city's most exciting women.)

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON (INS) — Two beautiful, blue-eyed women who hailed originally from the Middle West have captured the spotlight as Washington hostesses. The resemblance—except in age — does not stop there.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Merriweather Post, the fabulously wealthy Post-Toasties heiress who divorced Joseph E. ("Mission to Moscow") Davies two years ago, was trained from childhood by her father to take over the operation of the vast family enterprise which she now heads.

The elegant, queenly woman was educated at Mount Vernon Seminary in Washington. During her marriage to Joe Davies, she served as the chatelaine of our U. S. Embassy in Russia. Her svelte figure, regal carriage and zest for living belie her 70 years.

For that matter, Mrs. Wiley Buchanan at 39 by no means looks like the mother of three teenaged children. Petite, blonde Ruth, who lost her mother in the 1918 influenza epidemic, was also reared by her father, Dr. William J. Hale, the late great Michigan chemist. Her maternal grandfather was the even more famous chemist, H. H. Dow of Midland, Mich.

★ ★ ★

EXTENSIVE TRAVELS

Both women traveled extensively in Europe with their fathers during girlhood years. Ruth, after her marriage to our present chief of protocol, became the hostess of the U. S. Embassy in Luxembourg, succeeding another famed hostess, "Call Me Madam" Perle Mesta.

★ ★ ★

Ruth and Marjorie each boast three children, and also baronial Washington estates elegantly furnished with heirlooms and museum type antiques which they collected in Europe.

Unlike the much-publicized social feud between Perle Mesta and Gwendolyn Cafritz, Ruth and Marjorie are great good friends. The Buchanans regularly attend Mrs. Post's square dances.

While stationed in Luxembourg they tossed a formal dinner for Marjorie which drew not only the cream of diplomatic society, but also five princes and princesses of Grand Duchess Charlotte's royal realm.

★ ★ ★

Wiley, a millionaire Texan, is now President Eisenhower's official greeter for all visiting heads of states. He is also charged with arranging the protocol seating, the flowers, music, entertainment and beverages for all of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' official dinners.

TWO FOR ONE

Whether the secretary of state knew that he would be getting two for the price of one is unknown, but Ruth, who for years has taken prizes with her artistic flower arrangements, lends her skillful talents to the decorations before the soup-and-fish clad guests begin to arrive.

★ ★ ★

Ruth and Wiley met on a blind date in Washington in 1938, when the pretty college student came down from Connecticut to attend a Thanksgiving dance at Chevy Chase Club.

A rapid - fire correspondence ensued, but not until February did they meet again. Their informal engagement at that time had to await an introduction of Ruth's father to Wiley's parents in Dallas that summer, and they were married the following April.

The next year they bought a nine-room English house situated on three acres of beautifully wooded land within the Washington city limits. During the 16 ensuing years they have added a room for each year and have transformed the 25-room dwelling into a French chateau.

Ruth, who paints portraits for a hobby, prefers to take her exercise in ballroom dancing. It was consequently a blow, in Luxembourg, to discover that entertainment consisted only of dinners and dinners.

Rather daringly, the Buchanans issued invitations for a ball at the embassy one night to follow the annual reception of the grand duchess. The light-hearted whirl, after the sedate palace party, proved such a smash hit that dancing thereafter became a gala pattern for Luxembourg entertaining.

Ruth and Wiley have served as their own decorators for the lovely Washington estate where they entertain elegantly and frequently.

While they have added year by year to the proportions of the house, Marjorie Post has spent the past two years removing two wings from the 30-room hilltop mansion which she purchased shortly after her divorce.

The estate is nearly ready for occupancy now, and soon will be sparkling with lights and laughter as Marjorie transfers her popular square dances from the Army-Navy Country Club to her own lavish ballroom.

Any Lubricant Is Good for Cuticle

Will Olive Oil Help Nails, Lashes?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
(The Friday Question Box)

Q. "Will you please give me an exercise that will reduce fat around the rib cage, just under the bust?"

This exercise is designed to reduce fat around the rib cage, just under the bust: With one foot placed forward try to touch your toe. Raise the trunk and arms and pull back to the right.

Raise the trunk and arms and pull back to the right. Bend forward and continue. After a while step forward with your right foot. Do the same thing, this time pulling back to the left. This should be done slowly, giving time for the pull.

Q. "I have been putting olive oil on my fingernails and toenails after each manicure, rubbing it into my feet and putting it around my eyes and on my eyelashes. Is this good or bad? I've heard that olive oil is good for the nails and will make the eylashes grow. Is this true?"

A. Any lubricant is good for the cuticle. Olive oil or a cream or oily lotion—all soften the cuticle. I do not know whether or not the oil will make the lashes grow but the stimulation which comes from rubbing it in may well do so.

Q. "Please tell me about my figure. I think my breasts are too small. I am 33 years old and weigh 140 pounds. I am 5 feet 6 inches tall. I have a large frame. My bust measures 33, waist 28 and hips 40 inches."

A. Your weight is just about right. There is too much difference between your hips and your bust. Take exercises to decrease the hips.

Q. "Last summer I suffered a severe sunburn that left scars and freckles on my shoulders. I thought they would fade away but they have persisted as ugly as ever. Can you help me?"

A. Let this be a warning to all women who are suntanning. This sun worship is not good for the skin, and some complexions respond more drastically than others. I do not know how you can overcome this defect except to give it more time to fade. You can use a waterproof makeup which will cover it.

★ ★ ★

Q. "I hear that lemon juice will make you thin if you drink as much as 2 ounces a day. Is this true?"

A. No one food is slimming. It is the total daily calorie count which slims or fattens.

Gossips Eye Lord Patrick

New Love for Margaret?

LONDON (AP)—Would-be matchmakers have entered a new starter in the romantic stakes for Princess Margaret's hand in marriage.

★ ★ ★

Over the teacups today the gossipers had it that a serious affair of the heart is brewing between Margaret and Lord Patrick Beresford. He is 23, a lieutenant in the Elite Brigades of Guards. She is 26.

Beresford is shaping up as Margaret's first regular escort since she broke off with Peter Townsend a year and a half ago.

Margaret and the tall dark-haired lord have been enjoying each other's company since they met at a polo match a month ago.

★ ★ ★

Beresford scored four goals in that match. The story goes that when Margaret came over to congratulate him, he seized the opportunity of asking her to dinner. Currently they are members of the royal party at the Ascot races.

William Hickey, Daily Express columnist, reported: "They walked out of the royal enclosure between the races, leaned on the rails and seemed to have only a minor interest in the horses.

★ ★ ★

"This, I might say, for Lord Patrick is something. He is known as the horsiest of the horsey."

JOHN M. FEAR

At commencement exercises held at Purdue University, John M. Fear received a bachelor of science degree in physical education. John is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Fear of Cooley Lake road.

★ ★ ★

Mom Drinks Too Much, Embarrasses Teenagers

Girl Should Frankly Tell Parent How She Feels About Giddy Behavior

By RUTH MILLETT

Having a few drinks may make a middle-aged woman feel momentarily young and gay.

★ ★ ★

But the drinks that give her a lift may be an awful letdown for her teenage daughter.

A 14-year-old girl writes: "I have a wonderful mother. But lately when she and Dad go out to spend the evening with friends or to a party she drinks too much.

"I don't mean she gets drunk. I know she would never do that. But she either acts silly or tries so hard to act dignified that it makes me feel funny. She seems almost like a stranger, instead of my mother.

★ ★ ★

"Once when she came home like that I had a friend spending the night with me and I was terribly embarrassed. Maybe if you would write something about this problem, my mother would see it."

TELL MOTHER

Why don't you tell your mother just what you have told me? I am sure that if you did it would make her realize far better than anything I could say just how a daughter feels about a mother's drinking.

★ ★ ★

You say she is a wonderful mother, so she undoubtely doesn't realize that she has embarrassed or upset you.

Mothers who love their children may make mistakes or occasionally do something foolish, but they never deliberately do anything to hurt, disillusion or embarrass their children.

Just as your mother has a right to tell you what kind of behavior on your part hurts and upsets her, you have a right to tell her how you feel about her drinking.

★ ★ ★

Give her a chance to know how you feel and to try to understand your point of view.

Perfect Doll Fails to Arouse Child

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Years ago when we were inexperienced parents we bought our small daughter a doll for Christmas. It was a perfect beauty.

★ ★ ★

Its lashes were long and abundant, its hair was waved, its teeth were pearly, and it came with a trunk of exquisite belongings—fur coat, handmade dresses, miniature toilet articles.

When the package was opened, no look of rapture appeared on our daughter's face. To reassure us, someone said, "Just give her time—and she'll love it."

But time never did arouse anything but boredom with the perfect, completed toy. When we finally threw it out, its beautiful dress had never been removed.

★ ★ ★

The other evening I heard a noted psychiatrist define human love as our ability "to respond to the potentialities of another person or object."

Now a doll has appeared in the toy shops that you little girl can love. Her sole purpose is to arouse your child's response to her potentialities.

★ ★ ★

She wears a patched polka-dot dress that fits her very badly. Her torn black stockings droop forlornly over old shoes. Under her kerchief, neglected blonde hair hangs straight and uncuried around a face deliberately sculptured by artist William Steig for maximum appeal to a little girl's maternal tenderness.

Your child can move on this tenderness.

For the box the doll arrives in contains a booklet on her care. Suggesting her potentialities, it requests a "refreshing" wash for her vinyl plastic face and hands.

★ ★ ★

It describes eight arrangements for the neglected hair that can transform it, not into perfect beauty, but into the less awesome, lovable, familiar kind.

It calls for attention to the pretty blue organdy dress, crinoline and party shoes contained in the box and which the doll's new mother will need to give her a chance to admire herself."

★ ★ ★

If this indicates a trend in toy manufacture, I'm delighted. We need more toys which adult designers' imaginations have not greedily completed down to the last perfect and boring detail.

Joann Trumble Becomes Bride in Rochester Rite

In a candlelight service Saturday evening in St. Phillip Episcopal Church of Rochester, Joann Marie Trumble became the bride of Kip Warren Serota. The Rev. Edgar A. Lucas officiated at the double-ring ceremony before members of the immediate families.

★ ★ ★

Joann is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon C. Trumble of Rochester. Kip's parents are Robert Serota of Bloomfield Hills and Mrs. Michael A. Gentile of Rochester.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white lace over satin ballerina-length gown which she had designed and made. A band of white peau de soie defined the high empire waistline and extended to a flat bow in the back, from which was draped a floor-length panel of the same material.

Judy Trumble was her sister's maid of honor. Her pink and white Swiss voile gown featured a fitted bodice and square neckline with bouffant sleeves and skirt. She wore a pink and white velvet headpiece and carried a cascade bouquet of pink and white shattered carnations.

The bridegroom was attended by Terry Upton of Rochester.

They will reside in Rochester this summer. In the fall they will return to Kalamazoo where Joann is a senior at Western Michigan University. Kip is a junior in the Architectural School of the University of Michigan.

Retiring Soon? Make Plans Now

By ANNE HEYWOOD

"I will be retiring from business in another six years," a man writes. "I know I won't want to just sit in a rocking chair the rest of my life.

"The question is, should I plan to continue the kind of work I now do, perhaps on a part-time basis somewhere, or should I move into something very different?"

This is a problem many people face. This man is wiser than most in that he is considering it six years ahead of the day he retires.

If you like the job you've spent your life at, if it really is along the lines of your aptitudes and interests, then by all means plan to continue at it after retirement.

If you have worked most of your life at something you dislike, however, then this is a golden opportunity to make a real switch.

Many people get stuck in work they hate. Then, because of "security" or family responsibilities, they cannot afford to leave for a job they like. In such cases, retirement can really be a second chance!

It's relatively easy to tell which category you're in — most of us know whether we love our work or not — and, if you are wise enough to begin this thinking a few years in advance of retirement, you can choose one of the following schedules:

If you love your job, your problem is simply to survey the opportunities in your community for similar work on a part-time basis.

First find out, of course, if your own company has a way of letting you continue on a part-time or free-lance basis after retirement. More and more companies are setting up such systems.

If not, interview some small business firms in your general line and see if they have such plans. There's no harm in asking around, making it clear that you're doing a survey of retirement opportunities. Join forces with others who have similar problems.

Pick up any accessory skill, such as typing or proofreading or bookkeeping, which you can add to your present skill to make you more adaptable.

Then, when retirement does come, you'll know where to begin to look for part-time jobs and you'll be pretty salable!

If you hate your job, your problem is to plan and educate yourself along the lines of a job you will like.

★ ★ ★

When you have some ideas, begin to take courses and do volunteer work, after hours, in the new field.

If you would like the name of a good vocational testing agency in or near your community, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope care of The Pontiac Press, and I'll send it to you.

Girl Resents Pair Staying in Night Club

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: My boy friend and I and another couple planned on going to a nightclub on a certain Saturday night and I was looking forward to the evening. We went as planned but after about an hour my girl friend said she felt sick and wanted to go home.

"I saw no point in our leaving too so we stayed on and they left. My girl friend has been very cool to me ever since and I think she feels we were very unconcerned about her health because we did not leave with her. Will you please tell me if we were wrong to stay on?"

Answer: If the boy she was with took her home, there was no reason why you and your boy friend had to leave too, and she has no cause to feel hurt because you stayed on after she left. Had you let her go home alone that would be another story.

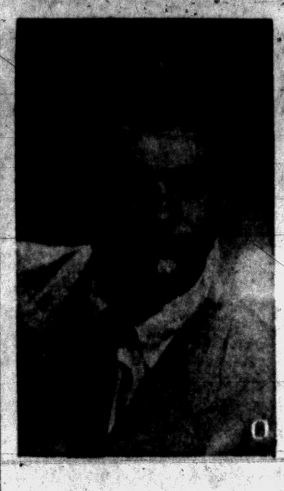

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to be married in a month. Two weeks ago my cousin died rather suddenly. She and her husband were on my list of wedding guests. I am about to mail my wedding invitations and I don't know what to do about sending him an invitation. Would it be proper so soon after his wife's death?"

Answer: Send him an invitation and enclose a note with it saying that you merely want to let him know when your wedding is to be and to inform him that he will be welcome should he feel able to come.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My son is going to be married in a month and I am going to give him and his bride-to-be a sizable check for a wedding present. I would like to know if it is necessary to give the check to the bride or may I give it to my son and tell him it is for both?"

Answer: I think it would be nicest to draw the check to both John and Mary Jones and give it in the presence of both.

Tibet's population is estimated at about three million.

Jim Williams' Greatness:

He Helped America See Itself

By ERNEST LYNN
NEA Feature Writer

Death came to Jim Williams, as it does to every man, but the magnificent thing he created lives on.

For he had the gift of human understanding and mellow laughter, and these things are more enduring than a lifetime.

★ ★ ★

The man whose Out Our Way cartoons endeared him to millions got his start as a world famous comic artist on March 20, 1922, when NEA Service released his first drawing. He died June 17 at Pasadena, Calif.

Before becoming a cartoonist his life had been an almost unbelievable record of adventure and excitement, a saga to make small boys tingle with awe and delight.

These are some of the things he had been before he turned artist: college football player, railroad fireman, mule skinner, cowboy, cavalryman, prize fighter, machinist.

These were the things that formed the philosophy and background without which there would have been no Out Our Way.

They accounted for his rare ability to meet so many different classes of readers on common ground.

KNEW SUBJECTS WELL

Of the many millions of daily Out Our Way readers, a large share has often wondered what it was specifically bout this series of homely human interest drawings that held such charm for them.

Perhaps the best explanation lies in the fact that the reader could so readily identify the subject matter with his own experience.

Jim Williams relived his own life in his cartoons—to a greater degree perhaps than any other artist. His daily procession of Out Our Way contained a cowboy series; a "Worry Wart" series (about kids); a "Why Mothers Get Gray" series; a machine shop series (featuring his old foreman, the "Bull of the Woods"); and an occasional cartoon of the old border cavalry days.

★ ★ ★

He pictured "Life Longest Minute," "Heroes Are Made — Not Born," "When You'd Love to Live Forever," and "Born Thirty Years Too Soon," the last being a nostalgic recollection of life as it was lived a generation or more ago.

AN EXPERT CRAFTSMAN

The homeliness and simplicity of his style often caused his readers to overlook his rare craftsmanship. He had an almost priceless ability to draw animals.

He knew them so well that he never needed to look at one to draw it. It was said of him that he knew every muscle in a dog's or horse's body.

J. R. Williams, creator of "Out Our Way"

No matter how comically he pictured them, no matter how strenuous a position he put them in, the anatomy was always correct.

The public knew Williams only as a cartoonist, but he was a many-sided artist with rare talent. He painted beautifully in oil and water colors; he was a superb sculptor and silversmith; he designed and built the finest kind of furniture. He could do anything with his hands.

And he had a keen understanding of human beings and a tolerant eye for their foibles. His cartoons always "struck home."

He had often been called the Will Rogers of the comic pages. He rather liked that, because he was a friend of the famed cowboy writer and stage star and admired him greatly.

His full name was James Robert Williams. He was born in 1888 in Nova Scotia, of parents who had come from England.

He was still a baby when his family moved to Detroit. At 14 he was playing football at Mt. Union College in Ohio—and at 15 he was a fireman on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

"Back in those days," he explained to a biographer, "we didn't have any complicated eligibility rules in college football. I was big and husky and tough, and that's what counted.

ELASTIC REQUIREMENTS

"The scholastic requirements were pretty elastic, too, which was how I got in. I was studying art. At 15, I was full grown. I got tired of school and got a job firing on the Pennsy by passing as 21."

★ ★ ★

This job didn't hold him long. He headed west and landed in Kansas, where he became a mule skinner. He drifted on and tied up with a cattle outfit.

He cooked for the cowhands. He punched cattle. One day, down in Texas, he saw some cavalrymen ride into town and liked their looks. He enlisted and served a three-year hitch.

The army polished up another talent in Williams. He became quite a fighter with his fists. He weighed 168, was hard as hickory and just as tough.

He won the light heavyweight championship of his outfit and when his enlistment was over he turned professional.

FORCED TO QUIT

The first fur coat he ever bought for his wife was with a purse he won as a pro. Mrs. Williams made him quit, however, when another fighter smashed his nose. He carried the twisted nose the rest of his days.

All the time that Jim Williams was chasing cows and cooking grub around a chuck wagon, all the time he was in the army, he never forgot that some day he wanted to be an artist.

★ ★ ★

While he was in the cavalry he somehow picked up the knack of tattooing and his inherent artistic ability made him pretty good at it.

For a price he tatooed lovely pictures on the broad chests and brawny arms of his mates.

But he kept at his drawing, making sketches and throwing them away, striving always to get those pictures down on paper the way he saw them in his mind.

He was still at it when he landed a job in a machine shop in Alliance, Ohio. One day he bundled up some of his cartoons and sent them to NEA Service in Cleveland. He was promptly hired — and America has been glad ever since.

MOVES TO THE WEST

After a few years in Cleveland, Williams moved to Arizona. There he presided over a 45,000-acre ranch near Prescott, a ranch boasting 800 head of cattle, 50 horses, a swimming poos, a concrete tennis court and a lake, all of which, including the lake, Williams built.

He left all this because keeping up the ranch and drawing Out Our Way was one job too many.

Besides, his family didn't like ranch life the way Jim did. They persuaded him to move to California, first to a 40-acre place in the San Fernando Valley where he had movie stars as neighbors, next to a more citified place in San Marino.

He is survived by his wife, Lida, his daughter, Mrs. Carl T. Fanto, and his son, Robert Keith.

At his death his cartoons were running in nearly 750 daily newspapers, and more than 300 Sunday papers were carrying his "Out Our Way With the Willets."

Will Continue Series

Out Our Way has been an American institution for 35 years. It will be carried on.

NEA syndicate has announced it will select the best and run them again. They will be augmented with original cartoons by Williams' assistant, Negley Cochran, who has been associated with Williams for many years.

OUT OUR WAY By Williams

Sisters of St. Joseph Slate Open House

The Sisters of St. Joseph, represented in Pontiac by the teachers at St. Michael School, are planning their first open house, Aug. 4, on the grounds of their college and academy, Nazareth, near Kalamazoo.

The order was founded in Fran in 1650 and first took up activities in the United States at St. Louis in 1839. From there it has branched out to many places in Canada and the United States.

The order's work in Michigan dates from 1889, when a group of 11 sisters from Watertown, N. Y., came to Kalamazoo at the request of a local pastor. They opened a hospital there that same year and took over the operation of a home for orphan boys in Monroe. The orphanage later was moved to become St. Francis Home for Boys in Detroit.

In 1897, the motherhouse and novitiate were transferred to Nazareth where they also founded a boarding school for girls. In 1902, a boarding school for boys was added, and in 1924, Nazareth College was chartered.

SISTERS TEACH

At St. Michael's School in Pontiac there are 16 sisters who teach some 650 students.

The order also operates St. Dennis School, Royal Oak; St. James School, Ferndale; St. Joseph School, Lake Orion; and Our Lady of Good Counsel school Plymouth.

The Open House is scheduled from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 4.

A special outdoor program is planned and a picnic style lunch will be available to the guests.

CHICAGO (AP)—A young lady has posed an interesting court problem: Can she be accused of drunk driving if a companion was steering her weaving automobile while she operated the gas pedal?

This circumstance came out in Traffic Court yesterday when Judge Eugene L. Wachowski ordered a July 18 hearing for Priscilla Bowman, 20.

She was arrested on the South Side May 23. The arresting officer's report stated: "Driving vehicle with passenger steering same." The passenger was not identified.

The officer said Miss Bowman stated that it's dangerous for a person who's been drinking to drive.

Red Ships Steam to Baltic

ISTANBUL (AP) — Three Soviet torpedo boats passed through the Bosporus Strait today en route to join three bigger warships from Russia's Black Sea fleet in the Mediterranean.

The bigger ships, which steamed through the narrow stretches of water separating Europe from Asia yesterday, are the cruiser Mikhail Kutusov and two escort destroyers.

Choice Now: Tint or Shave

By ELMER WHEELER

I read about another trend in men's hairdos. The accent on youth is making men follow their wives into the beauty salons instead of the saloons.

It seems personnel men foolishly believe gray hair interferes with a man's job these days of the return to youth.

GRAY HAIR APPEALING

The gals still love to run their fingers through a good dry crop of matured gray hair, real or the glued on stuff, and they'll always come up chirping, "My, such dignity."

Ask Walter Pidgeon, Spencer Tracy, George Brent or any other former dark-haired matinee idol if he isn't far more appealing today to the ladies than when he wore the stuff Valentino style in smeared down fashion.

So to make my Bald Boy story complete, I simply must include the new tint jobs the men are getting to match their careers and cars or the latest tint of their gal friend.

So if wifie suddenly finds hubby two booths away in Marie's Beauty Salon, she needn't worry. The guy is just getting tinted up for the weekend.

In all bad there is good; in all baldness there is fame, fortune, wimmin'.

In fact, in baldness you may win an Oscar.

Who do you think wins Oscars these rock-and-roll days?

Not the handsome Rock Hudson, 6 foot 6 of "Giant" man, with a mane as glossy and expensive as the movie he was in.

Nor was it bold Kirk Douglas, he-man, virile, with a two-fisted way of getting fame and ladies in his "Lust for Life."

Nor old education himself, Mr. 80 Days — the Britisher David Niven, epitome of erudite mannerism and Oxfordian language.

BALDNESS WINS OSCAR

Indeed, the world isn't giving Oscars away to the brains, brawn and bravery types of manhood these modern days as it did in the flicker era of Valentino, the slick haired, or Theda Bara, the vamp.

Today's he-vamp is a Bald Boy!

Nor is he just semi-bald, or one about to lose his hair; or one with a moon (crescent or full) on his head.

The sad fact, bald one, is this fellow must achieve his daily fame by shaving off his hair each a.m. after breakfast, while most of you lads are trying some new hair glue to keep it on.

All of which backs up the fact that baldness today is an admirable happening in a man's life.

★ ★ ★

The point in this is that when there are shiny spots on your noggin, there is hope for fame, fortune and wimmin' in your middle-aged life.

Baldness today is now a sure sign of virility, latent talents and great business acumen.

So rather than hide your baldness, or camouflage or delay its arrival date, encourage the event.

Home and Community Problem

By WAYNE SIEFERT
Assistant County Agricultural Agent

For the past five years Dutch elm disease has been virtually rampant in Oakland County. It has gradually spread in all directions from Wayne County, where it appeared around 1950. This fungus disease which kills the trees has no known natural means of spreading itself except by root grafts to nearby elm trees.

Two species of beetles which breed in dead or dying trees and logs are the carriers which transfer the fungus from infected trees and logs to nearby healthy trees.

Adult beetles emerge from June 1 to early August. At this time they are often covered with fungus spores from the infected wood.

START SEARCH

These beetles immediately search for a healthy elm tree on which they can feed, with one year old twigs their favorite food. While beetles are feeding on this tender bark, fungus spores may accidentally fall into these mounds, germinate and infect the tree.

Trees usually begin to show symptoms of infection after about three weeks. Because the fungus progresses from their tiny twigs towards the larger branches and the trunk, the signs of the disease follow the same pattern.

Yellow leaves on one twig on one branch are the usual symptoms. Soon afterward the leaves on adjoining branches turn yellow, while those on the first branch begin to drop to the ground. Unless these trees were invaded by breeding female beetles the previous summer, these trees cannot be a source of infection to other trees the same season.

However, these trees usually become brooding trees during the summer which will produce a tremendous crop of beetles for the following season.

Once a tree has become infected, there is no known way of saving it. Any control measure must be one of protection from infection. This is being done by controlling the beetle population.

★ ★ ★

Destroying the breeding places by pruning out dying and dead limbs, destroying log piles and removing dead and dying trees is a very important step.

BREED IN BARK

Because the beetles breed only in the bark, stripped logs can be used for fireplace wood. The State laws clearly specifies that unstripped logs must be burned.

Spraying also destroys tremendous numbers of beetles, usually before they have had a chance to feed on the tender twigs. This fungus cannot infect a tree except through a wound. Dormant sprays, using DDT, have proven to be extremely effective in beetle control.

The young twigs are soaked with DDT in a solvent which soaks into the bark. The DDT lasts for several months on these limbs. A summer application is also useful, but heavy foliage reduces its effect. This summer application often saves trees from severe damage by many leaf eating insects as well, notably elm leaf beetles and leaf roller insects.

Many people have suspected these summer sprays of causing fatalities to birds. Where birds rely heavily upon the insects from a few trees, which happen to be elms, and all these insects are killed by the spray, some birds may be killed.

The small number of birds lost compared to the bird population of an area are not serious. When compared with the financial and aesthetic value of the trees involved, spraying trees still remain the most satisfactory control program.

When suspicious trees are seen, trained individuals should be consulted before identification can be made. The city forester can identify such trees or assist you in such identification.

For those home owners who live outside an organized community, they can get advice on how to select a proper sample from a suspicious tree and where they may be sent for laboratory identification, from your local county extension office. This office also has a folder describing the disease and the insects which disseminate it.

Azaleas Need Acid Soil to Survive

Hardy azaleas require an acid soil made up of equal parts loam, humus and coarse sand. Drainage must be ample, although moisture is essential. Half-shade seems to suit them best.

Failure to bloom and premature dropping of leaves is generally caused by lack of sunlight, over or under-watering, heavy soil, too deep planting or failure to protect against leaf insects such as red spider.

Tips on Poison Ivy, Sumac and Oak

Do you know how to protect against ivy poisoning? It's a year-round hazard most common during summer, according to the National Safety Council.

Ivy poisoning is a term used to refer to skin irritation resulting from contact with any one of more than 60 varieties of plants found in the United States.

Most persons are immune to the biggest share of them, the Council said. But nearly everyone who touches the three more commonly known plants — poison ivy, poison oak and poison sumac — is affected to some degree.

Such poisonous plants are the bane of outdoor workers. There's even risk for garage mechanics, golfers — and dog-lovers!

Ivy poisoning is caused four ways, the Council pointed out. These include bodily contact with any part of the plant, exposure to smoke from the burning plant, contact with clothing or other objects that have been exposed to it, and wading or swimming in water containing its oil.

★ ★ ★

POISON IVY

A low shrub or climbing, creeping vine, has leaves (a shiny, dark green in summer, a brilliant orange or scarlet in fall) that may be notched or smooth and are arranged in groups of three on short stalks.

It may be found in every state (except California and Nevada) in woods or in the open — along fence rows, paths and roadways, and climbing trees or posts.

A variety of poison ivy, is a term usually given two plants — one, a shrub, the other, a shrub that may become a vine.

Leaves of the former resemble small oak leaves, occur in groups of three, are somewhat hairy and deeply lobed, and usually are found south of a line connecting southern New Jersey to Tennessee and extending as far west as Missouri.

Leaves of the second type — which are oval and rounded — also come in threes. Strictly a western plant, it's found in states bordering the Pacific Ocean and grows in the same locations as poison ivy.

POISON SUMAC

Also known as white sumac, poison ash, poison dogwood, poison elder and thunderwood, it is a shrub, but occasionally can be found as a tree 20-30 feet high.

Its sharply pointed, smooth, oily leaves are arranged in pairs along a slender stem with a single leaf at the end. Poison sumac has smooth, cream-colored berries growing in loose clusters along the side of a branch or stem.

★ ★ ★

Many popular misconceptions exist concerning the three poisonous plants. Among them are these:

1. The blisters from ivy poisoning don't contain poison. They do. Breaking the blisters spreads the irritation.
2. Eating leaves of the plants affords protection. It doesn't. Death has resulted from this.
3. Some persons are immune to ivy poisoning. No one is. Nor does immunity once insure future immunity.
4. Others can catch poison ivy from your rash or blisters. They can't — it's not contagious.

If you come in contact with the poison, the Council said, wash the affected area five or six times with plenty of laundry soap and tepid water. Don't use a brush or rough wash cloth. Self-treatment can be risky, so see a physician.

Value of Junipers

The junipers have wide distribution from the arctic to the subtropics and their diverse habits make them valuable ornamental plants, ranging from tall, columnar trees to low-growing, spreading types widely used in foundation plantings.

Easy to Grow

Herb Garden Facts Date Back Centuries

Herb gardens, planted from seed, have flourished since ancient times, long before the days of written history according to the National Garden Bureau. Many of the herbs grown today for their flavor, appearance and fragrance were at one time surrounded by sentimental associations and superstitions.

★ ★ ★

Basil, one of the more popular herbs grown today, was regarded in ancient times by the Brahmins as holy, and women prayed to a basil plant every day. The Greeks and Romans cursed when sowing basil seeds to insure germination of the seeds.

★ ★ ★

Coriander seeds were found in Egyptian tombs of the twenty-first dynasty. Caraway seeds were among the debris of the Lake Dwellers of Switzerland. Mint, anise and cumin are mentioned in the Bible. The Greek, Galan, who wrote about the medicinal uses of herbs, was the first to make cold cream.

★ ★ ★

When the colonists came to North America they brought herb seeds with them. Advertisements in the first newspapers in America, offered for sale herb seeds of anise, caraways, chervil, fennel, mustard and savory. Each new nationality coming to America brought his favorite herb with him. The Greeks were partial to sage, the Italians favored basil, the French brought chives.

Most herbs are easy to grow from seed. They germinate readily and can be raised without any special horticultural skill. All but a few of them thrive in well-drained, sunny, soil. The young seedlings require little water for most herbs are native of hot, dry regions. An herb garden has a uniform fluffy, greyish appearance for most of the herbs have a similar foliage and growth habits.

When cooking with herbs, there are several things to remember. Their flavor is very penetrating and, when used as a condiment, a light hand is needed for only a small amount of herb will give a dish an aromatic scent or taste.

Dishes in which you use herbs of a peppery or spicy taste require very little salt and no pepper. A dash of orange juice will intensify the flavor of some herbs. Butter, eggs, cheese, milk, or stock take up the herb flavoring very quickly. So measure out the ingredients to be used, mix herbs into them and let stand for a few hours before making up the dish.

THE BERRYS By Carl Grubert

New Link to Ex-President's Past

Dedicate Hoover Blacksmith Shop

WEST BRANCH, Iowa (AP) — Another link with the boyhood of former President Herbert Hoover —a restoration of the blacksmith shop his father operated — was dedicated yesterday.

The restored smithy, erected near the humble cottage where Hoover was born, stands in a small park established in honor of this small eastern Iowa town's most famous son.

★ ★ ★

It is the work of numbers of Hoover's neighbors, friends and admirers, all members of the Hoover Birthplace Foundation, a national organization with 70 well-known personages as trustees.

★ ★ ★

Adm. Lewis Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission will deliver the dedicatory address. He'll be introduced by Dr. Frank Spedding, director of the atomic research installation at Iowa State College.

Hoover, who will be 83 next Aug. 10, will not be present for the observance. The family will be represented by his son, Allan Hoover.

Restoring the blacksmith shop has been a labor of love for the townspeople here. And for others who have known and worked with Hoover it has been a testimonial of their regard for him.

★ ★ ★

The structure is as nearly like the one in which Hoover's father, Jesse, toiled as may be.

To obtain the proper type of aged lumber the foundation acquired an old barn about the same age as the blacksmith shop would have been if it had survived the years.

★ ★ ★

The building has been carefully constructed in the pioneer fashion, using wooden pegs instead of nails. The forge is a reproduction of one used by Jesse Hoover, and the other equipment is of the type used by blacksmiths in the 1870s and 1880s.

Herbert Hoover's parents died in 1883, when he was 9. He went to live with relatives on the West Coast at that time and he has said he doesn't remember much about his father's shop.

He does, however, recall how the forge was placed. And he vividly remembers the time when he stepped on a hot coal while walking barefoot past the forge.

Want $1,300? Start Working Pot-O-Gold

Money in the pot is really climbing now. If you wait too long to enter Pot-O-Gold, you may find that someone has already cleaned out the winnings. Read rules and clues carefully.

The new puzzle contains a series of squares which are alphabetically lettered and a corresponding list of sentences with two clue words. Each of the words is numbered. The object is to select the word which you think best fits the clue sentence. You then place the number of that word in the square which has the same letter as the clue sentence.

In other words, you will read the clue labeled A and decide which of the two words makes the most sense in the sentence. You then write the number of that word in the puzzle square marked A.

What Happens When Woman Turns on Tears?

CHICAGO (INS) — You think women turn on the tears just like that? Not so, says a researcher's report for a Chicago eye lotion firm. What actually happens to a woman before tears roll is this:

"Tears sweep across the eyeball and collect at the inner edge of the lids into a kind of pool. The 'pool' overflows and tears stream down milady's cheek."

Waterford School District OKs Student Insurance

By DONN SHELTON

The Waterford Township District School Board last night approved student insurance for pupils in the township schools, naming the Pauly Insurance Agency, of Drayton Plains, to implement the program.

The approval climaxed two years of discussion on student insurance by the board.

The Pauly Agency proposed a plan of distribution of literature and collection of money which would be handled by the agency, rather than the alternate plan which would have depended on school teachers to do this.

Al Pauly, agency head, said he would designate the insurance company to handle the Waterford Township program "late in July."

HAVE PLAN

The board also elected officers for the fiscal year 1957-58, naming Marshall E. Smith, 52, of 3001 Elizabeth Lake Rd., as the new president.

Fred Poole, of 1238 Heitch, was elected secretary, and Edmund L. Windeler, 46, of 5601 Hatchery Rd., was chosen treasurer.

The meeting was the first for Lester Carlson, 46, of 4135 Grayton, recently elected to the board.

Reporting on four major changes in the financial situation, Superintendent of Schools William Shunck told the board the total picture will remain the same.

He said the township system can expect to gain approximately $101,500 in school aid funds while losing $101,800 in distressed school aid and transportation payments.

In addition, Shunck said, the new school aid bill guarantees $5 per pupil more than had been expected for the coming year, a total of $51,500.

DEBIT SIDE

On the debit side, increased valuation of the township will move the district into a higher bracket in the distressed school aid program cutting funds $61,800 in the coming year, he explained.

The Legislature changed the transportation reimbursement zone from one mile to 1½ miles during the last session. Shunck said the great percentage of the township's elementary school pupils live in that half mile which will not be paid for by the state in the coming year.

The alternatives, he said, are to refuse to transport children in that area, or do do so at a cost of about $40,000.

Approval was given to negotiating for the purchase of 34½ acres of land between Dixie Highway and the Grand Trunk Railroad, south of Williams Lake road, as a second high school site.

Five City Residents Injured in Collision

Six persons, including five Pontiac residents, were injured yesterday in a headon collision on U.S. 10 just south of Hatchery road in Waterford Township.

The injured, all taken to Pontiac General Hospital, were: Andrew J. McNeely, 22, 98½ Cadillac Ave.; Alvia J. Harrison, 35, 1573 Mercedes St.; his son, Jerry, 10; John Clayton Williams, 22, 744 Corwin St.; Jerry Dooley, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Olen N. Dooley, 1656 Mercedes St.; and James Dale Simpson, of Flint.

★ ★ ★

None of the six were injured seriously. All were treated for minor cuts and bruises and released, according to a hospital spokesman.

Police Hold Detroiter on Bogus Check Charge

George Long Jr., 30, of 2130 Cass Ave., was arrested about 5 p.m. yesterday after he was traced to a local tavern through a description given by an employe of the M. A. Benson Lumber Co., 549 N. Saginaw St.

Long was apprehended after he allegedly cashed a $15 bogus check at the lumber company. Two blank check books, one from the Pontiac State Bank and one from the Wayne-Oakland Bank in Highland Park were found on his possession when he was arrested.

Appeals Sentence on Driving Charge

A Mt. Clemens man, ordered to pay a $100 fine or 20 days in jail yesterday after he pleaded guilty to a drunk driving charge, has appealed the sentence of Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCallum to Circuit Court.

Joseph Dubay, 43, of 37810 Lanse Creuse St., accused of being drunk while driving the wrong way on a one-way street May 26, was freed on a $200 bond until appearance in the higher court July 1.

Jury Finds Pontiac Man Guilty of Drunk Driving

McAfee paid a $100 fine instead of 20 days in jail after he was sentenced by Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCallum.

Examination of Jurors in Hoffa Trial to Resume

WASHINGTON (AP)—Examination of prospective jurors for the conspiracy-bribery trial of Teamsters Union Vice President James R. Hoffa will be resumed Monday.

There was no session of the trial in U.S. District Court today. The jury-picking may take a week.

Man to Appeal Liquor Verdict to Circuit Court

A sentence of $100 plus 10 or 30 days in jail pronounced by Municipal Judge Cecil B. McCallum after he found a Maple street man guilty yesterday of maintaining an illegal liquor place will be appealed to Circuit Court.

William J. Dooley, 50, of 44 Maple St., is free on a $300 bond until he appeals to the higher court July 1.

Clemon Morgan, 37, of the same address, pleaded guilty to the charge of selling liquor illegally when he was arrested the same night.

Japanese Protest at U. S. Embassy

TOKYO (AP) — About 150 leftist Japanese students tried to storm past a 400-man police guard in front of the American Embassy today to protest against U.S. nuclear tests, the Girard case and American occupation of Okinawa.

★ ★ ★

Forming a human wall, the armed Japanese police turned back three waves of shoving, elbowing and shouting students. No one appeared hurt in the scuffle, but two students were arrested for slugging police.

★ ★ ★

Finally the police allowed a five-man student delegation into the main embassy building. The group spent nearly an hour voicing their demands that the United States quit testing nuclear weapons, give Okinawa back to Japan and let Japan try GI William S. Girard. First Secretary William B. Coolidge and Second Secretary Richard L. Sneider heard them out.

★ ★ ★

After the delegation's return, the demonstrators marched off to police headquarters to seek the release of their two arrested companions.

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Any edition a deal will be closed for Guy Madison to make a picture in London. He has two irons in the fire, and one of them, for which Helen Ainsworth is negotiating, is "Puzzle for Fiends" which would be made on the Riviera for James O. Radford and Ludwig Gerber.

In talking with Guy he said, "I won't go without Sheila and she won't let me go without her."

"Puzzle for Fiends" has a July 29 starting date.

I've noticed that when Josh Logan casts a picture based on a stage hit he uses, as often as possible, the actor who knows the role. I guess he figures when you have the tops on hand, why go looking for a substitute.

That's exactly what he's done in giving Roy Walston the comedy lead in "South Pacific." Roy played the character of Luther Billis for years and years — and he just couldn't be better. Maybe you'll remember the sock way he sang "There's Nothing Like a Dame."

Next week, Walston leaves with Josh, Mitzi Gaynor and Rossanno Brazzi for the first location scenes in Honolulu.

His last Eastern venture, a full length, is a screen version of Franchot Tone's "Uncle Vanya," the Anton Chekhov classic.

"Franchot and I produced this picture as partners," says Parsonnet, "and it will give screen audiences a chance to see a Broadway play transferred directly to the screen with the original stage cast — plus Franchot Tone, of course."

A prolific screen writer for years (he did "I'll Be Seeing You" for Selznick and two of Rita Hayworth's biggest, "Gilda" and "Cover Girl") Marion will now concentrate on writing.

All these reports that this and that company is about to film "My Fair Lady" are without any foundation whatsoever. As it stands now, there will be no negotiations for this world-shattering popular musical for at least three years.

Cary Grant, who was reported as the favorite for the lead in the screen version, says that no one ever talked to him about it.

I heard Harry Cohn had the inside track because of his friendship with Frederick Loewe, then again I heard that Arthur Freed, of MGM, was also out in front because of his long association with Loewe. Alan Lerner and Fred Loewe wrote the music for this musical.

FLU GETS CARY

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Cary Grant held out for two days with flu on the set of "Kiss Them for Me," then he was ordered home to bed.

Madelyn Martin, who has been with Lucy and Desi since the start of "I Love Lucy," as their writer and her husband, Quinn Martin, TV producer, will be three early next spring.

Plan to Market Heart Monitor

Surgeon Can Determine What Happens Inside His Patient

KALAMAZOO (AP) — A heart monitor which enables a surgeon to watch the heart action of a patient on the operating table is being placed on the market by the Allen Electric and Equipment Company.

It was developed on the same general principles the company incorporated in instruments to help cure ailing automobile motors.

A wire attached to the patient's wrist transmits pulse beats to the device, where a light flashes off and on to register the pulse beats. The beat also registers a clicking sound in the monitor, so the anesthetist and surgeon have both an audio and a visual recording of the patient's heart action.

The importance of speed in determining whether the patient's heart has stopped is emphasized by the fact that heart action must be restored within three minutes after it has stopped or irreparable damage is done to the patient's brain because of oxygen failure.

At Bronson Hospital here and in hospitals at larger cities, where the heart monitor has been tested, the device gives the anesthetist and surgeon warning of possible heart stoppage by registering irregularity and other signs of disturbance.

Junior Editors Quiz on THE OWL

QUESTION: Can the owl see in the daytime?

ANSWER: The owl can see in the daytime, but not as well as most birds and animals. Most owls just sit and stare into space from their perch in the shade, waiting for night to come so they may hunt their dinner. Some owls, however, do hunt in the daytime.

Most birds have an eye on each side and cannot look straight ahead. The owl, however, has eyes placed much like yours, pointing straight ahead. The trouble with the owl's eyes is that he cannot move them like we can. To see something not in front of him, he must turn his head.

Owls are found almost everywhere and there are many different kinds. They are a great help to farmers. They eat mice and rats that destroy a farmer's crops.

FOR YOU TO DO: Look around where you live, in parks and wooded lots, for owls. Don't taunt an owl, however, since they will defend their nest and their young even against humans. You may color the picture of the great horned owl shown here, remembering his coat is grey or brown and fits into his background well.

Men Should Signify if They're Wed?

JOHANNESBURG, S. Africa — All husbands should be compelled by law to have a bold "M" tattooed over their hearts, says Mrs. Joyce Warning, so that unsuspecting girls and women can know whether men are married or not.

Mrs. Waring, mother of two girls and a former city official of Johannesburg, South Africa, said: "Nobody minds a married man doing a little innocent flirting, but when they get down to breaking somebody's heart, it's time to shackle them.

★ ★ ★

"The best way is to make it compulsory for men, within 48 hours of marriage, to have their chests tattooed. If they get divorced they could have a small 'X' tattooed over the original 'M'. You may laugh but I'm serious. Married women have to bear shackles in the form of wedding rings and children. Why shouldn't men?"

Goodbye N.Y., Tigers Happy to Leave

BALTIMORE (UP)—The New York Yankees' irritating habit of getting up from the floor to look like world champions has more than once nettled American League managers. The most recent case is Detroit's Jack Tighe.

The Tigers had things pretty much their own way in their last stand with the Bombers but found they had been kicked by a horse of another color in their recent stand at the stadium. The Yankees capped their three-game sweep with a 3-1 victory yesterday.

"We needed one of those games bad," observed Tighe ruminating on the caprice of fortune and the machinations of Casey Stengel and that was just the way Casey felt about it.

"We have a bad record in this town and that's not good for this type of team," Stengel said. "We had to do something about it."

They did. Their "push" deflated the impressive record of five straight victories the Tigers carried to New York and pulled them to within 1½ games behind the league-leading Chicago White Sox who had been threatening to run away with the race.

It was the Yankees' seventh straight victory — their longest winning streak of the year—and their 12th victory in 16 games.

There was no doubt that Detroit was hobbled in the series by the injury that kept Al Kaline out of Wednesday's game and Ray Boone's crippled knee. Boone was out of the lineup for the fifth straight game yesterday and the veteran infielder fears that calcium spurs in his knee may eliminate him from day in and day out play.

Kaline, although back in the lineup after being hit in the elbow by Bobby Shantz' pickoff throw Tuesday night, had some trouble throwing.

So, for that matter, did Frank Lary. The veteran righthander held the Bombers scoreless in a four-inning mound duel with Bob Turley before weakening and giving up a run in the fifth and sixth innings.

It was Lary's eighth loss in 12 starts this season and his second to New York. His 8-4 record against the Bombers, however, is tops among active American League pitchers.

Jim Bunning puts his six-game winning streak on the line when Detroit opens a four-game series against the Baltimore Orioles tonight. Clifford Johnson will pitch for the Orioles.

Bunning, who has a 7-1 record, has beaten Baltimore once in two starts. In the other contest he was lifted for a pinch hitter in the 14th inning of a 1-1 deadlock and the Tigers went on to win in the 16th.

Frick Takes Stand

Continue Sports Inquiry

WASHINGTON (UP) — Rep. Celler (D-NY) said today testimony that Pacific Coast League clubs have suffered from talk of an impending major league invasion may call for "disciplinary action."

★ ★ ★

Celler said Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick should consider what steps, if any, are warranted.

★ ★ ★

He deplored what he called "mid-season bombast" over the proposed move west of the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants.

Celler heads a House anti-trust subcommittee, which, yesterday closed out the first week of its inquiry into the legal status of professional team sports.

Testimony so far has concentrated on baseball, with Frick th official spokesman for the major leagues.

While Frick was in the witness chair, subcommittee lawyers introduced financial statements reporting that in the last five seasons major clubs netted a total of only $1,878,993.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

The total figure, balancing profit against loss from all baseball operations, credited $1,383,392 to American League owners and $495,601 to those in the National League.

★ ★ ★

As an example of cost, National League clubs were said to have lost $6,396,565 on their farm systems over the five-year span. Expenses in all cases presumably included front-office salaries.

Brooklyn, while winning penants and one world championship, showed up as the biggest money maker with $1,860,774. Milwaukee netted $1,857,602 and would have topped Brooklyn except for a deficit in 1952., when the Braves' franchise was still in Boston.

The New York Yankees led the American League in profits as it has so often in the standings. The Yanks reported $1,244,339.

There were heavy losers, too. The Pittsburgh Pirates never got out of the red, dropping a reported $1,537,303.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

The Supreme Court has held baseball exempt, but that pro football and boxing are covered by these laws.

Cardinals Take Lead in NL

St. Louis Jumps From 6th to Top in Month's Time

Cardinals Blank Bucs Behind Dickson, Gain Senior Loop Lead

The Associated Press

The St. Louis Cardinals finally have the National League lead in hand, after almost a month of hustle for a .750 winning percentage that hoisted them all the way from sixth place while the rest of the contenders were playing musical chairs with first-division berths.

Manager Fred Hutchinson's crew, a blend of veterans and kids that even last March made the Cards look like the most improved club in the league, were 8½ games off the pace when they started their move. And now, with 21 victories in 28 games since then, they have a half-game edge in a race that has seen four different leaders in the last 13 days.

The Cards made it behind Murry Dickson, the 40-year-old right-hander who came back from a layoff because of a sore shoulder to add a 4-0 record to the hot streak. He held Pittsburgh in check on seven hits before tiring and giving way to relief help in the eighth while the Cards built a 7-4 victory.

New York's Giants opened the door for the Cardinals, ending Milwaukee's seven-day stay in first place with a 12-inning, 4-3 victory for the Braves' fourth defeat in the last five games.

Cincinnati regained third place, 1½ games back, by belting Brooklyn 6-1. Philadelphia defeated the Chicago Cubs 7-2. The Phillies are in fourth, two games shy, and the Dodgers, opening a four-game series at St. Louis tonight, are fifth, 2½ games back.

★ ★ ★

In the American League, New York's second-place Yankees look to be on the threshold of first place, running their winning streak to seven games with a 3-1 victory over Detroit while Baltimore trimmed Chicago's first-place lead to 1½ games with a 4-1 decision. The White Sox open a four-game series in New York tonight—the first meeting between the two since that free-for-all they staged in Chicago last week.

Detroit Memorial Regatta Saturday

Nine Boats to Race

DETROIT (AP) — Nine speedboats, one of which normally is a pleasure craft, qualified yesterday for Saturday's Detroit Memorial Regatta on the Detroit river.

The surprise entrant was the experimental boat, Gale III, piloted by 51-year-old Joe Schoenith, she sped over the qualifying course at 90 m.p.h. neither Gale II nor her driver ever had seen competition. The boat was considered too slow and was used primarily to take people on cruises.

Schoenith's son, Lee, 28, qualified in Gale VI with a speed of 92.22 m.p.h.

The fastest time set today was 111.34 m.p.h. by Such Crust III. Fred Alter was in the cockpit.

Other boats qualifying were: Short Circuit, Chuck Thompson driving, at 100.93 m.p.h.; Miss Wayne, Frank Salle driving, at 95.57 m.p.h.; and Ricochet, Bob Somerville driving, at 76.50.

Gordon Deneau qualified in two boats, both with identical times of 81.81 m.p.h. Deneau's craft were What-A-Pickle I and What-A-Pickle II.

The Canadian speedster, Miss Supertest, driven by Al Asbury qualified yesterday with a clocking of 87.09 m.p.h.

Qualifying heats for the three-heat, 45-mile event are now closed until Saturday morning. Gale V, which has a damaged engine was expected to be in good repair and ready to qualify.

Grant Outlasts Sheldon, 1-0

16-Inning Win for Bicmar

Bicmar Inn and Stadium Inn played a City League softball game Thursday night at North Side Park. They played and played and played and played.

At long last, Bicmar shoved a run across the plate in the bottom of the 16th inning to defeat Stadium, 1-0, and end a magnificent pitching battle between Lynus Grant of Bicmar and Stadium's Verle Sheldon.

A single by Al Dennis scored Bob Carter with the game's only run to break up the longest overtime marathon of the season. Sheldon was touched for eight hits while Grant gave up just five. It was the 2nd straight win for Bicmar.

Louie's Tavern unloaded a 10-hit attack and Mike Haines hurled six-hit ball for a 9-1 victory over Drive-In Cleaners.

In games at Beaudette, Elmo Burgess struck out 11 while pitching a four-inning no-hitter as the Pontiac Police trounced Dostal Foundry, 12-0, and Franklin Products scored seven times in the 1st inning for an 8-5 win over Lane's Drive-In.

Two make-up games are scheduled tonight at Beaudette. Deni's Corner meets Dostal Foundry at 7 o'clock and Eddie's Bar faces CIO Local 653 at 8:30.

Rosburg's 65 Leads Flint Open

By BILL CORNWELL

FLINT — Surprises were the rule rather than the exception in Thursday's opening round of the Carling Open golf tournament at Flint Golf Club.

Bob Rosburg, a 30-year-old professional from Palo Alto, Calif., furnished one of the day's biggest surprises by taking a two-stroke lead in the 72-hole tourney with a scorching six-under-par 65 on rounds of 33-32.

But yesterday's No. 1 surprise was provided by Royal Oak's Bob Keller, an assistant pro at Red Run.

The 26-year-old Keller, who was a jet pilot in the Korean war, burned up the Flint acreage with a 33-35 — 68 to finish in a seven-way tie for 3rd place.

A sub-par assault by a couple of Canadian pros and the failure of some of golf's big names to live up to expectations were the other major surprises.

Canada's Al Balding from Toronto and veteran Stan Leonard of Lachute fired 67 apiece to tie young Arnold Palmer and John Pott for the runner-up position.

Doug Ford, the PGA's leading money winner, slipped to a 72 and Julius Boros soared to a 75. Defending champion Dow Finsterwald came home in 69 while dapper Jimmy Demaret shot an even par 71.

Rosburg announced his intentions quickly. He birdied the 1st two holes, knocking in a 60-foot chip shot for the 2nd one, and marked up three consecutive birdies to start the back nine, including the troublesome 445-yard par four 11th.

Last year's Motor City Open winner, Rosburg uses a baseball bat grip and an unorthodox swing. The combination was effective enough to produce seven birdies and 10 pars and give him the 1st round lead.

Former National Open champion Jack Fleck of Rochester and Detroit's Bob Inman each carded 69 to deadlock Finsterwald and five others for 4th spot. Youthful Ken Venturi, labeled a "dark horse" here, got down in 70 strokes.

The remainder of the Oakland County area delegation had its ups and down — mostly down. Jimmy Johnson of Farmington had the best luck with 71, equalling Demaret, Gene Littler, Ed Furgol, Marty Furgol, Fred Haas and Tommy Bolt.

Pontiac's Gene Bone finished with 74 after missing several "touch luck" putts and hitting out of bounds on the 18th. Long-hitting Chick Harbert also shot 74 and Wally Burkemo zoomed to a 38-38—76. Another 76 was posted by Tommy Shannon.

At the end of today's 18-hole rounds the 147-man field will be cut to 90 plus ties for the final 36 holes.

IBC to Learn Garden Verdict

Expect Decision Will Go Against Complete Control of Arena

NEW YORK (AP) — Like a boxer who has been mauled throughout the fight, the International Boxing Club today awaited a federal judge's decision on its court battle to retain control of Madison Square Garden.

The decision will come Monday, but Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan yesterday indicated that the IBC is in no position to expect even a draw.

The judge ruled four months ago that James D. Norris, Arthur M. Wirtz and the International Boxing Clubs of New York and Illinois were guilty of monopolizing championship fights. The hearing that ended yesterday was on proposed decrees presented by both sides.

Fair Dominates Races

Pontiac's Joy Fair made a clean sweep of hardtop honors at the Motor City Speedway by winning the 30-lap feature race, his 10-lap heat event and the Australian pursuit race. He also had the best qualifying time of the night.

Calhoun Meets Joey Giambra

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — Husky Rory Calhoun, still burning over a disputed, one-point loss to Joey Giardello, hopes to take it all out on Joey Giambra in the clash of middleweight contenders at War Memorial Auditorium tonight.

Calhoun, a 22-year-old belter from New York, is a 7-5 underdog however to the slick boxer-puncher from San Francisco by way of Buffalo. They collide in a television — ABC, 9 p.m., EST—10-rounder.

Giambra, ranked fourth among the 160-pounder contenders, has been made the betting choice on the strength of nine straight victories in the last 17 months. His record is 50-4-1, including 26 knockouts.

Matches Start at Red Run

George Linklater of Red Run and Bill Nettle of Plum Hollow teamed up for a seven-under-par 65 to take medalist honors in Thursday's 18-hole qualifiers at the 18th annual Red Run Invitational Best-Ball golf tournament.

★ ★ ★

A 16-team championship flight was ready to start match play today after nine teams were forced to go three overtime holes yesterday to decide the final three places in the top flight.

★ ★ ★

Chuck Kocsis and Lou Campbell, the defending champions, are not competing this year. The championship will be decided Sunday.

Bertoia Has Slight Margin Over McDougald

Big Battle for AL All-Star 3rd Baseman

Detroit Tiger players lead the American League voting at three positions nationally and at four spots in the ballots turned in from the Pontiac area with only four days remaining in the poll to select the starters for the July 9 All-Star game at St. Louis.

Al Kaline and Harvey Kuenn hold national leads of 5,000 and 11,000, respectively, but young 3rd sacker Reno Bertoia is locked in a tight three-man battle for that post with Yank veteran Gil McDougald and "old pro" George Kell. McDougald trails by only 775 so Reno will need an avalanche of Michigan votes to make the grade.

Ray Boone gives the Tigers four leaders locally with Charley Maxwell, Frank Bolling and Frank House ranking 2nd. None are in national contention.

Ted Williams has been the individual leader with Detroit, Milwaukee and Cincinnati dominating team honors across the nation thus far. Ted leads all the contestants with 34,347 votes. Topping Mickey Mantle by 1,109. Stan Musial heads the NL with 28,288. The Braves and Reds, like Detroit, have three men in front at their respective positions.

Jets Win, 2-1; Share Top Spot

The Pontiac Jets moved into a tie with Shaw's Jewelers for 1st place in the Class A City Baseball League with a 2-1 victory over the Michigan Giants last night at Wisner Field.

Louiee Seay's solo home run in the 2nd inning and back-to-back doubles by Gene Cox and Judge Booker in the 3rd were enough to win for the Jets.

Pitcher Charlie Kinard received credit for the triumph, although he gave way to Ronnie Falkenhagen in the 6th when the Giants scored their lone run. DeWayne Sheffer hurled the distance in defeat.

Thomas Die & Stamping and Griff's Grill clash in today's City League game on the Wisner diamond at 5:30 p.m.

Gidley Electric Nips Drayton Softballers

Gidley Electric scored all its runs in the 1st three innings and then held off two late Drayton Drug threats to post a 4-3 victory in the Waterford Softball League last night.

Jim Cuthrell hurled six-hit ball for the win but had some anxious moments in the 6th and 7th. He left the bases loaded in the 6th. The Druggists garnered one in the 7th but had the tieing marker cut down at the plate.

Two makeup games are slated for tonight at Drayton Plains. Drayton Drug meets Welden Thrifty at 7 and Lakeland Pharmacy battles Emanuel Baptist in the nightcap.

Britons in U. S. for Track Meet

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The combined Oxford-Cambridge track team will rely on its fine distance runners Saturday in an effort to defeat Harvard and Yale for the sixth straight time in international competition.

Fresh from an 8-7 conquest of the Cornell-Pennsylvania force in Philadelphia last week, the Britons rate slight favorites for the meet at Harvard Stadium. It is scheduled to begin at 2:30 p.m. EDT.

CHICAGO — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson fought two times in Chicago and both of the bouts ended in the fifth round.

But It's an Old American Custom, My Dear

Mama's Map-Watching Ruins Travel

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS) — It is the American custom, on trips o'er the country's highways, for the man of the house to do most of the driving, while the woman calls the turns on the map.

This is because, for a reason traditional but unproven, men are supposed to be better drivers and women are supposed to be demons for detail.

The result of this nonsensical illusion is that hundreds of thousands of hot, gruelling miles are wasted annually by families on vacation. At the suggestion of the demon-wife, the man overshoots many a route, and like as not zigs when he shoulda zagged off Highway 88.

Women may be excellent at housewife-type detail. But, unless they've been grounded thoroughly in clerical jobs, or have a long background in Girl Scouting, it is doubtful they can get through 500 miles without a few conspicuous goofs with geography.

★ ★ ★

"Oh dear," mother is wont to say, 43 miles past the turnoff onto Route 52, "was that town we just passed called 'Upper Snorkel'? . . . I'm afraid we went in the wrong direction."

DARK THOUGHTS

Then the kids groan and papa cusses and everybody stops for a Coke at the non-airconditioned drug store in Upper Snorkel and thinks darkly how they could've been coolly floating in Lake Tohachapeeka by now — if only mother knew where she was going.

★ ★ ★

To my mind, it simply is not fair to expect a woman to know where she is going.

Woman is a sometime thing, as Gershwin put it. She was not, at no time, cut out to be a pathfinder.

As she sips and sulks over her drink, therefore, is it any wonder that mother so often thinks: "If I were expected to know which road to take all the time, would I have picked the road to matrimony?"

★ ★ ★

. . . But, as mentioned, this is the custom in America. The man drives, woman watches; and unless the husband of the house is brave enough to risk violating the "code of the herd," he will insist upon following this pattern, even though year after year the arrival at the lake is delayed by misinterpretation.

A NEW METHOD

The inevitability of the situation has been faced this month by "Good Housekeeping," the magazine dedicated to direct women along every path of life save the primrose.

★ ★ ★

It has issued a new method to help women take the right turn on the highway without use of a compass (a compass, for some reason, is an admission of predetermined weakness, and women won't stand for them).

"If it's a sunny day," says GH, "and you have a wristwatch that is reasonably on time, you can locate directions. This method isn't entirely accurate, but if you're wondering which way to turn at a highway crossroad, for example, it will give you the approximate direction you need."

Here's what you do, ladies. Place the watch on your wrist with the flat surface parallel to the ground. Keeping it parallel, you rotate it until the hour hand points in the general direction of the sun.

Now—in the morning, south lies about halfway between the hour and and 12 o'clock, measuring clockwise. In the afternoon, south lies about halfway between the hour hand and 12 o'clock, measuring counter-clockwise.

★ ★ ★

You can take north, and east and west, for that matter, from there.

And if it's a cloudy day? You can take the wrong direction, your own chances and familial abuse, as usual. Custom, my dear.

Stock Market Moves Ahead

Pivotal stocks rose narrowly. Many were unchanged. There were a few losers.

The list was firming after three days of decline which brought the average down close to where it was in early May when the market began to establish a series of new highs for 1957.

While evidence of the money squeeze and high interest rates was still paramount, prices of stocks had slipped to a point where they had become more attractive to buyers, Wall Street observers said.

Wheat Futures Rise Sharply

CHICAGO (AP)—Farm approval of wheat marketing quotas for the 1958 crop caused short covering and buying which boosted wheat futures more than a cent in some cases on the Board of Trade today.

Profit taking and hedge selling cut into the best levels, however. The upturn in wheat caused some strength in corn, oats and rye.

Soybeans were firm and as much as two cents higher early on buying which traders said was influenced somewhat by belief the House will pass the extension of Public Law 480 for disposal of surplus farm commodities abroad.

Near the end of the first hour new style wheat was ⅜ to ⅞ higher, July $2.05⅞, corn ⅛ to 4½ higher, July $1.27⅞, oats unchanged to ⅛ higher, July 64⅝, rye ¼ higher to ½ lower, July $1.21⅞, soybeans ⅜ higher to ⅝ lower, July $2.31½, and lard unchanged to 8 cents a hundred pounds higher, July $12.90.

One Wreck Each 20 Miles

Foresee Holiday Accidents

CHICAGO (AP)—Fourth of July highway smashups could litter the nation's 3,400,000 miles of streets and highways at the rate of one wrecked or damaged car each 20 miles.

The National Safety Council gave that estimate today of the number of smashups that could occur during the four-day holiday period unless extra caution is observed.

The council estimated there will be 45 million motor vehicles on the streets and highways during the period — an average of about 13 vehicles a mile if they all were on the road at the same time.

Rhonda's Singing Is Surprise to Everyone

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Rhonda Fleming closed a surprisingly successful 4-week singing engagement in Las Vegas this week—"but it was a surprise to me that everybody else was surprised that I could do it," she told me when I phoned.

Although considering dates on the Frank Sinatra and Eddie Fisher TV shows, she'll make her next appearance July 13 in San Francisco at the Hall Syndicate's party for the American Society of Newspaper Editors—after which she takes a brief vacation in Honolulu.

"What about that 'nude look' you had in Las Vegas?" I asked her.

"It was very tight and very form-fitting, but was only an illusion of nudity," she insisted. "It was shimmery, satiny and diamondy, but actually I was very covered up." Hurray for the illusion; let's hope it fools up in San Francisco, too.

"Mom" Dorsey's getting a gold record of her son Jimmy's next to last song, "So Rare," this week.

"Funny thing is that Jimmy didn't want to make it," Carlson said. "He didn't think it'd sell and he said, 'I don't want you to get hurt.'"

"Music publishers told me Jimmy was a has-been and that there hadn't been a band hit in 14 years," Carlson said.

"I personally appealed to 35 Cincinnati disc jockeys to play it and they made it No. 1 in Cincinnati. Then we repeated that in other cities."

Show Returns to Video July 1

Singer Frank Parker and Actor Robert Paige Will Be Cohosts

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Bride and Groom is coming back. After an absence of three years from the home screen, the marriage ceremony will receive a video treatment every Monday through Friday beginning July 1 over NBC-TV.

★ ★ ★

Singer Frank Parker and actor Robert Paige will serve as co-hosts of the program on which 2,340 couples were married during five years of radio and four years of television.

John Reddy, producer of the show throughout its long life, says Bride and Groom has but one object. "We try to give the ordinary American girl a chance to have a big wedding on television, just like Grace Kelly and Queen Elizabeth."

The idea is simple enough: a girl marries a guy before the TV audience and they are showered with all kinds of loot — refrigerators, toasters, swimming pools, a trip here or there. The only thing they forfeit is their freedom.

The hearts, flowers and booty implicit in the program made it a housewives' delight. There are all kinds of statistics available on the show — except the total gallons of joyful tears spilled by tired housewives in vicarious delight at attending a wedding.

★ ★ ★

On the other hand, one Long Island husband was arrested for his dissenting opinion on Bride and Groom. He grew so tired of his wife watching the program every day that he drew a .38 and scores a bull's-eye on their TV set. Not all males agreed with him, however. Inmates of San Quentin Prison voted it a daytime favorite.

★ ★ ★

Bride and Groom marriages endure, says producer Reddy. A questionnaire sent 1,100 couples married on the show "revealed that their divorce rate was less than one tenth that of the national average."

Navy Planes Collide Killing Two Pilots

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — Two Navy planes collided yesterday while coming in for a landing at nearby Moffett Field. The two pilots were killed and wreckage falling from one plane caused a cement trailer truck and the automobile to collide.

★ ★ ★

The spectacular low-level collision occurred over the Mountain View-Alviso highway, just off the U. S. Highway 101 Bayshore Freeway, 50 miles south of San Francisco.

★ ★ ★

Killed were the only occupants of the planes, Ens. Burt H. Barclay, 23, Los Altos, Calif., flying an FJ3 Fury jet, and Lt. N. H. Maurer, 35, husband of Katherine Marie Maurer, Monterey, Calif. Maurer was flying a propeller-driven Skyraider dive bomber.

★ ★ ★

Witnesses said the jet fighter broke in two after the collision, the tail section falling onto the first of the two empty trailer sections of the cement truck.

★ ★ ★

The impact swerved the truck into the path of a car driven by J. B. Lancaster, 40, Sunnyvale, who screeched his car to a halt between the two trailers. The rig dragged his car off the highway.

Sought by Police, Appears at Game Against Them

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP)—It would have been better for William D. Fitch, star shortstop for the Battle Creek Elks baseball team, if the game with the Emmerson Truck and Storage nine had been rained out.

★ ★ ★

Police had been seeking Fitch when he appeared for the Emmerson game Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

Before taking the shortstop to jail, police allowed him to complete the game, a scoreless tie, after Fitch's teammates protested his arrest would leave them with only eight players.

Marines at Play: Assault Mt. Fuji

The climb—a recreational jaunt, not a military operation—began last night on four trails leading to the summit.

Ike Goes to Bat for His Program

Urges Party Faithful, 'to Carry on Good Fight' for America

Last night he made an informal talk at Constitution Hall to a cheering audience of about 1,500 persons attending the 10th annual convention of the Young Republican National Federation.

Urging the party faithful to "carry on the good fight for America," he said: "And through your dedication . . . you will, by your example even more than by your words, attract additional thousands, hundreds of thousands, millions to the party that represents soundness in all governmental dealings, with never-failing concern for every last human being in America, no matter what his religion or the color of his skin.

"That, as I see it, is Republicanism."

He made no specific mention of the hot fight in Congress over his civil rights program. But he clearly was putting forth the Republican party as a champion of civil rights.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower obviously enjoyed a 90-minute "Tribute to Ike" the Young Republicans put on in advance of his speech.

The First Lady had checked out of Walter Reed Army Hospital during the afternoon after a three-day "head-to-toe" physical examination which the White House had called "just routine." Her doctor reported "everything is fine."

★ ★ ★

The program gave the President and his wife what was likely their first "live" exposure to red hot rock 'n' roll rhythm, played by a Negro band whose members gyrated all over the stage. There were hillbilly songs too.

Propose Billy Graham Crusade in Australia

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Leading Protestant churchmen have welcomed a proposal for an Australian tour by American evangelist Billy Graham.

Bishop H. G. Hilliard, Church of England bishop of Sydney, said today he will pray for the success of Graham's visit. "We will be most happy to welcome him," the bishop said.

To Catch-Up With Reds:

U. N. to Void New Arms Ban in Korean Armistice

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP)— The U.N. Command today voided the Korean armistice ban on new weapons to match the Communist buildup in North Korea.

Murray Snyder, U.S. assistant secretary of defense, said in Washington that the new arms would include jet aircraft which can carry atomic arms, but "at this time no atomic weapons are being given to ground forces." He refused to say whether atomic ammunition would be stored at Korean bases for use against an attack.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

North Korean Maj. Gen. Chung Kook Rook declared impassively: "We are vehemently opposed to equipping U.N. forces with new types of weapons, wrecking the armistice agreement and perpetuating the U.N. occupation of South Korea."

★ ★ ★

U.S. Marine Corps Maj. Gen. Homer L. Litzenberg, senior member of the U.N. Command, notified the North Korean and Chinese Communists of the U.N. decision at a meeting in the truce hut in the demilitarized zone. Litzenberg said the Red reply was "milder than I expected."

"I did not interpret it as a Red threat to resume the fighting that ended with the July 27, 1953, truce," he said.

Chung, spokesman for the 40 North Korean and Chinese Communists attending the meeting of the Korean Joint Armistice Commission, reserved the right to reply later to the U.N. charges of truce violations. He asserted the U.N. Command was airing the charges to "cover up" Allied violations.

Litzenberg told reporters "modern and effective weapons" will be flown into Korea soon, but said he knew of no final decision on types, quantity or a timetable for bringing them in.

★ ★ ★

The U.N. Command's statement again accused the Communists of "flagrant, repeated and willful violations" of the armistice agreement and said the U.N. action was being taken because of the Reds' "complete disregard" of the arms ban.

4 Trustees to Study Applications

Prepare to Pick Hospital Head

A reviewing panel of four trustees of Pontiac General Hospital has been formed to study applications for the position of director at the city hospital.

★ ★ ★

Appointed to the panel were Willis M. Brewer, Harold S. Goldberg, Charles E. Yeager, and Edward P. Barrett.

Babcock said the board has not launched into its study, but indicated when it did it would be a thorough and long review.

SIMONDS SEEKS POST

Included in the applications, is one of acting director Warren W. Simonds, 29. Simonds, appointed assistant director last October, has expressed a desire to become director.

Babcock would not say one way or the other whether the Board of Trustees, which eventually will appoint the director, would insist that the new head of the hospital have past experience in hospital administration.

He said he didn't expect announcement of the appointment for "at least a month or so."

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Adoption Price for Babies Set

Michigan Children's Aid to Charge Up to $250 on Installment Plan

LANSING (AP) — Couples adopting children through Michigan's Children's Aid hereafter will have to pay fees ranging up to $250.

Justice said the charge is not for the baby as such, but is intended to provide an offset against the average cost to the community for each adoption, which he said exceeds $900.

About $350 usually is spent on evaluating the prospective parents, he said. An average adoption requires 24 interviews, not all with the applicants. They often are spread over a year or longer.

Justice said the $250 fee will be payable in installments over two years. It is hoped that some of the proceeds can be applied for enlargement of staff, he said.

Children's Aid has offices in 12 Michigan cities. All the offices have agreed to the fee plan, Justice said, but Lansing is the first to put it into effect.

Sales Reach ¼ Million for Paperback Books

CHICAGO (AP)—Nearly a quarter of a billion books with paper covers were sold in the United States last year.

Dan Lacy, managing director of the American Book Publishers Council, told a national meeting of librarians yesterday this is one reason the demand for fiction in libraries has fallen off.

He likened the trend to paper cover books to the advent of frozen foods in the food industry. Many people prefer paying the higher costs of buying such books to the inconvenience of procuring and returning books at a library, he said.
