Senate Highway Bill Torn From Road Committee

House Unit Is Forced to Free Legislation for Floor Action

LANSING (AP) — The House had a Senate-approved highway bill before it today after snatching it from the hands of a committee in a move that made legislative history.

A coalition of young Republicans and Democrats discharged the House Roads and Bridges Committee from consideration of the bill in a dramatic parliamentary maneuver.

FIRST SINCE 1911

Not since 1911 has a committee been relieved of its jealously guarded right to act on legislation before it is sent to the floor. That happened in the Senate, the House has never discharged a committee.

In a touch-and-go battle on the floor and in the cloakrooms, four "Young Turks" scraped together a bare majority — 56 votes — to carry off the rare maneuver.

The feat greatly improved chances for legislative approval of a road program this session.

STATE GETS 75%

The Senate-approved bill calls for a 1½ cents per gallon gas tax increase. Three-quarters of the additional money would go to the state for construction of arterial highways. The rest would go to cities and counties.

The measure also calls for a 10 per cent increase in truck license fees.

Until now, disagreement over the distribution formula has blocked approval of any road program.

Many of the legislators feel the Senate formula would rob counties of their fair share of highway funds. These lawmakers support the present distribution formula, which gives 44 per cent of highway funds to the state, 37 per cent to counties and 19 per cent to the cities.

GOP FIGHTS MOVE

Republican Party leaders fought desperately to forestall the discharge movement. After a caucus which failed to discourage the "Young Turks," Rep. Allison Green (R-Kingston), Republican floor leader, moved to lay the motion over until Thursday.

Green's motion, a bid for more time during which a compromise might be arranged, was ruled out of order.

Rep. Harry J. Phillips (R-Port Huron) then took the floor. As he stepped to the microphone, Democratic Floor Leader Ed Carey of Detroit interrupted:

"Mr. Phillips is about to move for adjournment. Before you become victims of any parliamentary trickery, I move for a call of the House."

MOTION PASSES

Carey's motion passed. It required all House members to remain in the chamber and prevented adjournment.

New York Shows Way to Save on Mailing

RENO, Nev. (AP)—The state of Nevada, which thinks it knows how to pinch pennies, got a lesson from wealthy New York yesterday.

Letters received by the Nevada Tax Commission from the New York Department of Taxation and Finance were enclosed in envelopes printed nearly a quarter of a century ago.

They still listed Alfred E. Smith as governor, although he left office in 1928.

Reds Fire Upon Chiang Aircraft on Patrol Flight

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Nationalsist Chinese planes ran into Red antiaircraft fire from the mainland and from warships while on patrol over Loyuan Bay near the Matsu Islands before dawn today, air force headquarters announced.

An undisclosed number of planes used radar to bomb the Communist craft in the darkness, the communique said. Results were not observed.

Loyuan Bay is 15 miles north of the Matsu Islands which lie close to the Communist coast 120 miles northwest of Formosa.

On Monday two Communist MIG fighter planes exchanged fire with two Nationalist propeller planes in the same area. On Sunday, 50 miles farther north, four MIGs fought a brief dogfight with four Nationalist Thunderjets over the Taishan Islands.

Air force headquarters said there would be air raid drills on Formosa and the Pescadores soon involving mock air attacks, antiaircraft target practice, simulated fires and first aid.

Says Death Car in Wrong Lane

Witness Testifies Here in Manslaughter Trial of Metamora Woman

A witness testified yesterday in Circuit Court that the car driven by a 19-year-old girl charged with manslaughter was on the wrong side of the road when it crashed headon with another last Dec. 5, resulting in the death of five Oxford residents.

Charged is Mrs. Erlene Wagenshutz, of 75 W. High, Metamora. The accident occured on M24's "Slaughter Hill" a mile north of Oxford.

Robert D. Wilson, of 1540 Lapeer Rd., Orion Twp., said the Wagenshutz auto was passing his in a yellow-line zone when the crash took place with a northbound auto driven by Harold Mangum, 21, of 49 Brabb Rd., who was killed.

Four occupants of the girl's car also died. They were Max Smith, 28, of 4 W. Burdick, Mrs. Edna Kuck, 31, of 30 Pleasant St., Charles Nelson, 25, of 32 Cottage Ct. and Lynn Best, 27, of 9 Stanton.

In his opening talk to the nine-woman, three-man jury, Assistant Oakland County Prosecutor Homer G. Gerue said he intended to prove Mrs. Wagenshutz was driving under influence of intoxicating liquor and at an excessive rate of speed.

Wilson's wife, Opal, testified she saw the accused, Nelson, Mrs. Kuck and Best in a tavern on M24 north of the accident scene shortly before the crash occurred. The four had beer on the table, she stated.

Waterford Township Patrolman Steve Hubbell who handled the accident while employed as a sheriff's deputy described the position of the two death cars and three others which crashed into them after the first smashup.

The trial was continuing today before visiting Circuit Judge Archie D. McDonald of Hastings.

Motorists' Nightmare

GRAND RAPIDS (UP) — Police and City Highway Department employes picked up several thousand small nails yesterday after they spilled from a truck. Police said the driver of the truck apparently didn't know the keg had tipped over and kept on driving, dripping nails for several blocks.

House Expected to Approve Ike's Reserve Plan

Measure Due to Pass Intact Despite Efforts to Soften or Kill It

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's program to build up the military reserves was expected to pass the House intact today despite efforts to soften or kill it.

Rep. Brooks (D-La) predicted it would pass without major amendments, but only after a fight. Brooks leads House forces backing the legislation, which already falls somewhat short of original Pentagon requests.

President Eisenhower is behind the measure to give the military limited authority to enforce reserve obligations and to provide a new plan for training up to one million teenage volunteers in four years.

In one key provision, the measure would authorize the Pentagon to recall for 45 days' active duty reservists who fail to maintain a minimum of 84 weekly drills and 15 days' summer training a year, or the equivalent.

Involved are draftees and volunteers who have completed active duty since mid-1953 and are obligated for a total of five years' active and reserve service.

SOFTENS PROPOSAL

The House Armed Services Committee softened the Pentagon's original proposal to make these reservists liable to a discharge other than honorable if they failed to keep up their training. But Brooks said he expected attempts to reduce the enforcement provision further.

In a second key section, the measure would provide for up to 250,000 volunteers a year to be given six months' special training, followed by 7½ years' active reserve duty. The volunteers, between 17-19 years old, would save 18 months from the two years of active duty required of draftees. But they would put in this time in reserve duty.

Rep. Barden (D-NC) said he intends to offer a counterproposal that would permit students to fulfill their entire military obligation by taking three months' training each summer for four years.

DISCUSS SOVIET POLICY SHIFT — President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Dulles are all smiles at discussion in Washington before battery of cameras when they assessed the meaning of recent shifts in Soviet policy. The Eisenhower administration is preparing for a top-level Big Four conference with Russia in a belief it may prove the "new dawn" of peace is breaking over the world.

Jets Chalk Up Speed Record

U.S. Planes Fly From Tokyo to Australia in 12 Hours Nonstop

NEW CASTLE, Australia (AP) — Four U. S. Thunderjets landed here today, completing a record nonstop Tokyo-to-Australia flight in 12 hours 2 minutes.

The speedy single-engine fighters each capable of carrying an atomic bomb, refueled in the air three times during their 4,840-mile hop — over Guam, Manus Island and Townsville, Australia.

The flight, part of a U. S. Air Force good will mission to Australia, extended the nonstop overwater record for single-engine jets by 355 miles. Col. David Shilling set the previous mark of 4,485 miles in 1953 on a flight from Turner Air Force Base, Ga., to North Africa.

The F84s set down at the Royal Australian Air Force's huge Williamstown Air Force Base here at 5:32 p.m. Australian time. Newcastle is 60 miles north of Sydney, on Australia's southwest coast.

Defendant in Rape Trial Charges Police Threats

One of four men accused of kidnaping and raping a Pontiac housewife March 6 testified yesterday that threats by Pontiac Police officers caused him to make statements immediately following his arrest which differ with his assertions during the trial.

Joe Williams Jr., 23, of 38 Lake St., was cross examined yesterday afternoon by Oakland County Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem before a crowd overflowing Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland's small courtroom.

Ziem pointed out that, in a statement at the police station to Chief Assistant Prosecutor George F. Taylor, defendant Williams said he had been drinking during the night in question and had never been arrested or convicted previous to March 6.

"Yet you stated today that you had not been drinking," said Ziem. The prosecutor then read a list of arrests against Williams dating from 1952 and mainly for traffic violations. The record shows Williams also spent several days in jail, Ziem declared.

Williams asserted that police officers had beaten the four defendants and they said things that were "not true" as result of fear.

Also accused are Oscar Chavers, 26, of Gary, Ind., his brother, Richard, 23, of 38 Lake, and Winston Johnson, 25, of 312 Hughes Ave.

They are charged with dragging the 21-year-old mother of three from a mud-mired auto off South Blvd. while her escort was away summoning aid and criminally assaulting her during an hour-long ride.

DENIED BEATING EARLIER

It was brought out yesterday by Ziem that Taylor had asked the quartet to point out any police officers who had mistreated them while they were still at the police

Pontiac's Commissioners Will Attend Conference

Pontiac's seven city commissioners were either en route or preparing to leave for the annual conference of Mayors in New York City today.

The meeting of civic officials from all over the nation will continue through Saturday.

Armed Forces' Parade Planned

City's Military Units, Bands, Vets to Appear in Saturday Event

Some 23 military units, bands and veterans organizations are scheduled to take part in the Armed Forces Day parade here Saturday.

S. H. 1 Joseph Carry, of the local Navy Recruiting office and publicity chairman for the program, said names of the groups have not been listed but those contacted have pledged their participation.

The parade, scheduled to get under way at 10 a.m., will form at Saginaw and Whittemore Sts. and proceed north to a dispersal area at Saginaw and Oakland Ave.

In conjunction with the display of military might on the ground, Air Force and Navy jet fighters will swoop over the city at intervals throughout the day. Flying as low as regulations permit, the jets are scheduled to zoom over at 10:20, 11:35, 1:35 and 3:56, Carry said.

Following the parade, Army and Navy installations throughout the city will hold open house to display equipment. Both National Guard units and the Naval Reserve have scheduled programs.

Inaugurated six years ago, Armed Forces Day is designed to pay tribute to the men and women in both regular and reserve service who devote their time to guarantee security for the country. It also was designed to allow public appraisal of armed forces might.

4 State Colleges Being Renamed

Senate Votes to Delete 'Education' From Title of 3 Schools

LANSING (AP)—The Senate appeared ready today to change the names of other Michigan colleges after agreeing to rename Michigan State College as Michigan State University.

The chamber was ready to vote on a House bill changing the names of the teacher colleges. There was no opposition in debate yesterday.

FOUR NEW NAMES

One bill would change Central Michigan College of Education, Western Michigan College of Education and Northern Michigan College of Education to Central Michigan College, Western Michigan College and Northern Michigan College.

Another would change Michigan State Normal College at Ypsilanti to Eastern Michigan College.

Also ready for a vote, with some oppositioin, was a bill to remove the requirement of students at Michigan State Normal agree to teach in Michigan schools as a condition of graduation. Sponsors said the law was impractical and should be lifted.

DROPS DEATH RIDER

Sen. Lynn O. Francis (R-Midland) dropped without a fight his attempt to hang the death penalty for serious sex crimes against children on a bill requiring local law enforcement officials to give the State Police lists of all sex offenders.

Francis, whose death penalty bill was killed in committee earlier, moved to attach the bill but was ruled out of order.

Russian Policy Is Summed Up in Video Report

State Secretary Says Strength and Firmness Pay Off for West

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration is preparing for a top-level Big Four conference with Russia in a belief it may prove that a "new dawn" of peace is breaking over the world.

President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles made that clear last night in assessing — before television cameras—the meaning of recent shifts in Soviet policy, including the signing Sunday of an Austrian independence treaty.

By that pact Russia is pledged to withdraw its troops from Austria.

Communist satellite countries like Czechoslovakia and Hungary will also want freedom, he said, adding that the joy of the Austrians over their freedom will be "contagious."

Dulles predicted dramatic results from this pledge throughout Eastern Europe.

Dulles said that the acceptance of West Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization has dealt the Soviet Union its "greatest diplomatic defeat" since World War II. The explanation of Russia's changed behavior, he said may lie in a Kremlin decision to stop trying to block such developments and "conform to some of the rules and practices of a civilized world community."

POLICY PAYING OFF

But whatever the explanation from Russia's side, he said, the important point is that a "policy of strength and firmness and the standard of moral principle" is beginning to pay off for the West. If the West sticks to that policy, he said, "we can face the future with confidence."

He cautioned both against relaxation of armed strength and against the great danger, as he called it, of expecting too much from the prospective Big Four talks between Eisenhower and the Prime Ministers of Russia, Britain and France.

Excessive hope now, he said, might result in disillusionment,

Vaccine Plan Seen Passing

Congress Gets Bills to Carry Out Ike's Salk Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bills to carry out the Eisenhower administration's polio vaccination program for poor children have been dropped in the congressional hopper—one by a Republican and the other by a Democrat.

Early approval seemed assured as bipartisan support was voiced for the plan to put up 28 million dollars to make sure lack of money bars no child from getting the vaccine.

SCORES HOBBY

Government handling of the situation continued to draw criticism, however. Sen. Morse (D-Ore) told the Senate yesterday he thinks Secretary of Welfare Hobby should be fired for "gross incompetency."

Morse contended Mrs. Hobby's role in handling the distribution and safety testing of the Salk vaccine showed "bad administration that comes close to immorality."

Sen. Bender (R-Ohio) rose to defend the secretary, saying she had shown herself to be "a great stateswoman and a fine leader."

OPPOSED CONTROLS

Mrs. Hobby had opposed moves by many Democrats and some Republicans to provide rigid federal controls for vaccine distribution. A voluntary distribution system was one of the points in a report she presented Monday to President Eisenhower.

The report, quickly endorsed by the President, proposed free vaccinations for those in the 1-19 age group unable to pay for them.

Bills to put this recommendation into effect were introduced yesterday by Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) and Rep. Priest (D-Tenn).

Mambo Old Hat Now

One, Two, Cha Cha Cha

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Now it's the Cha Cha Cha.

This is the latest from the home of the Rhumba and the Mambo. From sunup to sunup the Cha Cha Cha throbs on the Cuban air. The Mambo, here at least, is as finished as last night's daiquiri.

Word drifting down from the north indicates the Cha Cha Cha—both song and dance—already has reached the United States.

"If only they don't try to Americanize it," is the fervent hope of one Cuban.

From the ch-ch-ch rattle of the maracas comes the Cha Cha Cha rhythm. It's a rapid 1-2, 1-2-3 beat. For the 1-2-3 read, or sing, Cha Cha Cha.

The dance is something else. It requires the coordination of a main event boxer and the boundless energy of a 3-year-old.

At first glance the Cha Cha Cha appears to be a sway and a dip on the 1-2 beat, and three fast shuffles on the 1-2-3. All accompanied by rhythmic wiggles and a twitch of either the left or right shoulder.

Variations include a fast curley-cue step.

"It's purely Cuban," said pianist Jose Norman, who does orchestrations for Havana television station. Norman, while heading his own orchestra, introduced the Rhumba to Europe 23 years ago.

Luis Trapaga, one of Cuba's best known choreographers, says the Cha Cha Cha "is technically more difficult than the Mambo. Although the music is completely Cuban, the dance corresponds to the American Lindy with a Cuban flavor."

Cloak-and-Dagger Intrigue Bared

Arrest Detroiter in Lebanese Dope Smuggling Plot

DETROIT (AP)—A fantastic cloak-and-dagger hunt in what the U.S. Bureau of Narcotics describes as a big-time international heroin smuggling plot turned to Michigan today.

Federal agents sought new leads from the Detroit end, where a grocer is in jail. The other end, they say, is in far away Beirut, Lebanon, where a "top racketeer" is held.

The Narcotics Bureau reported from Rome, Italy, yesterday it had smashed the ring, but usually reliable sources in Detroit said leads to outlets still are being sought here by federal men.

Charles Siracusa, the bureau's district supervisor for Europe and the Middle East, announced the two arrests yesterday.

SPEAKS ENGLISH

He said one was Mounib Amine El Ghorayeb, 59, of Beirut. He speaks English with an Oxford accent and Siracusa described him as "a big guy—a top racketeer."

* * *

The Detroiter was identified as Hussine Hider, who operates a grocery on 14th Street.

El Ghorayeb, knocked out by an ex-prize fighter federal agent when he attempted to flee, was arrested in Lebanon April 23. Hider, who the bureau claims was tricked into revealing the plot, was arrested the same day, but both arrests were kept secret until yesterday.

Hider was scheduled to appear before a federal judge today on a conspiracy charge, and his case is slated to come before a U.S. grand jury next Tuesday.

FACES 2ND CHARGES

Hider also faces a narcotics peddling charge placed against him last month.

Siracusa withheld the name of the ex-prize fighter agent, whom he credited with breaking the case by getting from Hider a bit of torn paper that served as an identification symbol to El Ghorayeb.

The rest of the adventure, as Siracusa relates it:

After days of suspicion and negotiation, El Ghorayeb had just sold a kilogram (2.2 pounds) of heroin to the agent when Lebanese authorities closed in.

A raid next day uncovered 50 small bottles of morphine concentrate, hidden in the garden of a suburban Beirut villa owned by El Ghorayeb. They contained 11 pounds of morphine concentrate, the last step before the drug is turned into heroin.

They also found papers indicating a large scale traffic with the United States.

Last December, on a dusty side-street of Beirut, a Narcotics Bureau informant heard whispers that El Ghorayeb was shipping heroin to the United States.

The informant made friends with the Lebanese. Eventually El Ghorayeb asked him to take the drugs to Detroit and deliver them to the 14th street grocer.

Siracusa's office alerted U.S. narcotics agents. In Detroit, a tough looking Arabic-speaking agent began hanging around Hider's grocery. He played the part of a hoodlum.

They became friendly. Finally, Hider reportedly asked the agent to go to Beirut and pick up 11 pounds of heroin. He was given a torn sheet of paper and a phone number. The man on the other end—who turned out to be El Ghorayeb—would have the piece of paper which fitted.

SUSPICIOUS OF AGENT

El Ghorayeb was suspicious. And his wife took a dislike to the agent. It took days but finally El Ghorayeb agreed to turn over one kilogram at a time. It was after the purchase of the first kilogram that customs-men closed in.

* * *

Lebanese law prevented a raid on El Ghorayeb's home during the night hours. At dawn the house was cleaned out. Siracusa says witnesses have testified that a laboratory used to turn morphine concentrate into heroin was destroyed in the night. However, morphine concentrate was found on the grounds.

Dulles and Ike See New Peace Signs

dismay and even a war psychology later on.

Eisenhower, who interrupted Dulles' report to the nation from time to time with comments of his own, broke in to say he thought "the American people are pretty well aware of what is going on" and that they show "greater maturity" about negotiating with Russia than was expectable several years ago.

Chairman George (D-Ga) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee later said he thought Dulles was "overcautious" and showed signs of "timidity about the Big Four meeting."

* * *

"We will stay strong and we will stay vigilant," Eisenhower said, "but we are not to extinguish the hope that a new dawn may be coming even if the sun rises very, very slowly."

Dulles himself sounded a similar hopeful note at the outset of his half-hour broadcast with the President, saying: "I think now one can say that what happened (with respect to Germany and Austria) may really mark a turning point in the tide of history."

* * *

While the broadcast was aimed primarily at the American people, it was carried to all parts of the world, in many translations, by the government's Voice of America radio network.

* * *

Aides said Dulles and the President wore no makeup.

The occasion was Dulles' return from Paris and Vienna. In a historic 10-day period he had participated in bringing West Germany into the North Atlantic Alliance, in signing an Austrian treaty, in working out a better understanding with France on support of an independent government in Viet Nam and in receiving from Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov Russia's acceptance of a bid from the Western Powers for a top-level Big Four meeting.

* * *

One of the great moments of the week, he said, came when he saw representatives of France and Germany sitting side by side as Allies at the NATO table in Paris.

"You felt a new page had been opened on European history," he told the President, "and the vision which so many people had for so many years of a unified Europe had actually started to come to pass."

In the same vein of acclaiming a triumph for the West, Dulles spoke of the Austrian Treaty signing.

City Approves Pontiac Taxi, Cab Fare Hike

Taxi fares in Pontiac will go up in 10 days.

The new rates are included in in a revised taxicab ordinance passed by the City Commission last night.

They call for charges of 35 cents for the first one-fifth mile or less and 5 cents for each additional one-fifth mile or less. Ten cents will be charged for each three minutes waiting time.

The ordinance also provides that cab drivers must wear visored caps with metal identification badges affixed to them.

Cabs may carry advertising signboards on the rear deck section, providing they are approved by the chief of police and that they do not obstruct the driver's view or create a traffic hazard.

The regulation also states "in no case shall the driver accept any payment from a passenger without first throwing up the flag on the meter."

station following their arest. Williams admitted the four then denied being beaten.

A doctor, who examined Williams several hours after his arrest, previously testified the man had bruised lips. "Isn't it true you got bruised lips when kicked in the face by (the woman)?" Ziem asked. "No," Williams replied.

Williams and Winston Johnson, who followed him to the stand, both said the housewife was not dragged from the auto, but had appeared on South Blvd. and called to them asking for a ride to town. They alleged she offered no resistance to their advances.

'DIDN'T SEE WOMAN'

They stated they did not see the woman in the mired car when they attempted to help her escort, Martin Weiberg, free it. Taylor asked Johnson if the dome fight in Weiberg's car flashed on when Weiberg opened the door to start his motor. Johnson said he didn't know.

Weiberg, 24, of 102 S. Merrimac St., said last week on the stand he had ridden off a short distance with the four who said they would take him to a service station.

The car stopped after hitting a mud hole, Weiberg stated, and Oscar Chavers ran back across the field toward the car containing the woman. Weiberg then stopped a passing auto and went for aid, he testified.

ARITHMETIC'S FUN THIS WAY — That was the decision of Trisha Bowden of 17310 Beechwood, Birmingham, shown here trying out the new abacus to be used in teaching arithmetic at Beverly Elementary School next fall. Demonstrating the gadget, as well as one of the adding machines which will be used in math classes at Barnum Junior High, is teacher Mrs. Annabele Sumera of 1067 Lincoln Ct. The abacus is said to teach arithmetic three to five times as fast as present methods. The idea, developed by a Marquette University professor, is to show children by sight and touch the fundamentals presently taught by memorization. First, second and third graders at Beverly School will begin using the abacus next fall.

The Day in Birmingham

Abacus, Adding Machines Enter Classrooms in Fall

BIRMINGHAM — Some 500 students at two schools in the Birmingham School District will be th first in Michigan to start using "gadgets" in arithmetic classes next fall.

The so-called gadgets are an abacus—a frame containing five rods with nine plastic discs on each rod—and adding machines. They were used by a Marquette Uuniversity professor in developing a new method of teaching arithmetic.

Subsquent tests of children who were taught by this method showed they had covered in one four-month period what it normally took 14 months to learn.

"I spent two days in Milwaukee, watching students use the abacus and am convinced we can do some real good with ithere," said Malcolm V. Ferguson, principal of Beverly school.

The 253 first, second and third garders enrolled for the fall seester at Beverly will begin using the abacus in arithmetic clases. Ferguson prdictd on of two thing "possibly" would com from us of the abacus. "Either it will trim learning time or it will add much more understanding of arithmetic problems. I'm happy we can be one of the schools to use the method."

Belief that use of the new method would cut learning time was echoed by Herbert Hengst, principal of Barnum Junior High.

The 350 seventh and eighth graders at Barnum will use speial "instructor" type adding machines developed by the Burrought Corp. in arithmetic classes next fall.

Hengst said it was anticipated seventh and eighth graders would get their lessons much faster. "We face the danger of running out of lessons for them," he said, "but that's a pleasant danger to face." A total of 35 adding machines wil be used in the Barnum program.

Developer of the new method was Dr. Andrew F. Schott. It was put into use in seven elmntary and high schools, both public and parochial in Milwaukee County in Jan., 1954.

Tests of students who were taught with Schott's method were reviewed by Marquette University and the California Test Bureau. Among other things, results showed that seventh grade students made gains in four months that normally would require nineteen months; eighth and ninth graders showed gains in a single semester that normally would require four semesters.

Schott explained that use of the abacus and adding machine do not abolish standard arithmetic teaching techniques. A student learns what must actually happen with numbers in order to add, subtract, multiply and divide, he siad.

"With an adding machine these short cuts on even a big arithmetic problem can be broken down into all its steps and each step reasoned and worked.

"The fundamentals really sink in, the students learn to do by doing and what once had to be accepted on faith and learned by memorization comes alive in a meaningful form," Schott added.

Birmingham educators visited Milwaukee this spring to see his method in operation. This week the board of education approved start of the program at Beverly and Barnum this fall.

Schott is scheduled to visit Birmingham in July to instruct teachers at the two schools—eight teachers at Beverly and three at Barnum—on just ho wto use the abacus and adding machines.

Mrs. Anne M. Connelly

Service arrangements were being made for Mrs. Anne M. Connelly, 1351 E. Maple, Birmingham, who died suddenly today at the William Beaumont Hospital at the age of 60.

Mrs. Connelly was a Birmingham resident for the past 29 years, moving to the city from Saginaw. She was the wife of the late Walter L. Connelly, Birmingham contractor, and a member of the Holy Name church, altar society, Rotary Ann and Women's Literary Club.

Surviving are six sisters and three brothers, Mary Louise, Helen and Frances Keho of Saginaw; Miss Alice Keho of Birmingham, Mrs. Joseph Lesperance, Inglewood, Calif., and Mrs. John J. Quinn, West Palm Beach, Fla. Surviving brothers are James and William of Flint, and Charles of Saginaw.

Police Group Pledges Money to Foundation

The Pontiac Foundation, a nonprofit trust to gather funds for a civic center-auditorium, last night received the promise of a $100 contribution from the Pontiac Police Officers Assn.

In a letter addressed to Mayor William W. Donaldson, which he read at the City Commission meeting, the association said it was "proud" to contribute.

"Our city has gone for years with not one public building which it could be proud of, the letter stated. "While other cities spent millions in the construction of civic centers, museums and public buildings, Pontiac remained the same outmoded and unattractive city.

"We are finally pulling out of that 'rut' and doing something about solving the problem."

Donaldson also announced receipt of another Wisner Stadium bond for the fund. He said he believed many bond-holders did not realize the bonds could be turned over to the foundation.

The Rev. James Luther of Silvercrest Baptist Church will officiate with burial in White Chapel Memorial Cemetery.

Clarence L. Spanburg

Word has been received of the death of Clarence L. Spanburg, 56, formerly of Pontiac and now of 320 W. Ottawa St. E. Lansing. He died at his home Friday after a three months illness.

The funeral was held Monday at 2:30 p.m. from the Palmer Bush Chapel with burial in Oak Lawn Cemetery.

Mr. Spanburg was born Sept. 17, 1898, the son of John Henry and Emily Spanburg.

Besides his wife, Spray, he is survived by six children, Mrs. Joseph Reagan, Charles, Donald, James, John and Lawrence Spanburg, all of E. Lansing.

A sister, Mrs. Albert (Charlotte) Shaughnessy of Chicago, and two brothers, Lester and Irving, both of Pontiac, also survive.

GM Official Dies

DETROIT (UP) — Ray L. Newton, general sales manager of the Cadillac division of General Motors Corp., died yesterday in his suburban Highland Park home.

Newton, 63, was a native of Stoneham, Mass., and had been associated with Cadillac since 1920. He is survived by his widow, Maude, and two sons.

Recounts Ruled Out

Possibility of a recount of any races for state posts in the April 4 election has been ruled out, Oakland County Clerk Lynn Allen said today.

Allen has received word from Secretary of State James M. Hare that the ballot boxes, previously ordered held, may be released.

New Ordinance Sets Up Pontiac Historical Group

An ordinance establishing a Pontiac Historical Commission last night was wirtten into law by the City Commission.

The five-member commission will collect and preserve historical materials relating to the history of the city.

One member will serve one year, one two years, one three years, one four years and one five years. Appointments are expected to be made after the ordinance takes effect in 10 days.

NEW ORDINANCE READ

First reading was made of a new rubbish-fire ordinance which provides that such fires be made in nothing but receptacles approved by the fire marshal and that such fires be at least 15 feet from combustible buildings.

It provides that tree leaves may be burned on private property only when supervised and in a safe location.

ASKS DUST SURVEY

City Attorney William A. Ewart asked a Health Dept. survey of dust conditions around a cement plant in District 7. With the results of the survey as evidence, he said he believed a court injunction could be obtained preventing the firm's operation as a public nuisance.

The Commission authorized purchase of 60 acres of land in two parcels near Opdyke and Auburn Rds. for $66,000.

The 37-acre section will be used for an auxiliary sewage treatment plant. The 23-acre parcel will provide land for expansion of the ponds of the present treatment plant and also for a sanitary fill.

Also authorized was disposal of the old City Hall building. The land on which it stands may be used as a metered parking lot in the immediate future and a park area in the distant future.

FIRM AWARDED CONTRACT

Oak Construction Co. of Royal Oak, was awarded a $145,000 contract for concrete paving jobs.

A lease for seven plots of land for hangar construction at Pontiac Municipal Airport with Albert Wohlart, of Birmingham, was approved.

Public hearings were set for next Tuesday for a curb, gutter and drainage project on Ypsilanti avenue from Carlisle to Stanley, and on special assessment rolls for similar work on Peggy avenue from Voorheis to Hazel and Gordon from Oakland to Corwin.

Courteous Driver Cited by Police

The Pontiac Police Officers' Assn. today announced the city's first courteous driver in the current "Be a Courteous Driver" contest which started May 1.

Keith Johnson, 31, was cited for his courteous act which took place May 6 on Huron Street in front of the courthouse.

Johnson, a foods salesman, was recommended as the first courteous driver by Patrolman William LeMonde who said:

"Johnson noticed an elderly lady's car stalled in heavy 5 p.m. traffic. Other motorists drove by her ignoring her predicament. Johnson stopped and tried to help get her car started. When this failed, he pushed her car to a service station where she was given further help."

Johnson lives at 120 Marion, Waterford Township, with his wife and two small children.

Lawmakers Seek to Block Commercial TV at MSC

Several members of the state House Ways and Means Committee said today they would attempt to block the plan of Michigan State College to set up a joint commercial-educational television station.

Rep. Joseph A. Warner (R-Ypsilanti), committee chairman, said the committee would be asked to re-insert a ban against the station included in a senate-approved appropriations bill but later defeated in a move led by Sen. William S. Broomfield (R-Royal Oak).

MSC already has applied to the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) for Channel 10, jointly with the Television Corp. of Michigan.

During the course of the Senate debate on the plan it was said that Edward E. Wilson, Birmingham businessman and son of Defense Secretary Wilson, is an officer of Television Corp. of Michigan.

Wilson could not be reached for comment this morning.

DEFEND TV PLAN

MSC officials appeared yesterday at a Ways and Means Committee meeting to defend the television plan. The station would operate on the last very high frequency (VHF) channel available in the state.

Cost of construction would be borne by the state. Operation costs would be split by the college and corporation. MSC would broadcast 38 hours of educational programs per week and the corporation 63 hours commercially.

Broomfield said today the ban defeated by the Senate would have prohibited the college from using state-appropriated money for getting the VHF channel.

The lawmaker said the ban would possibly kill television at MSC. The college is now operating an ultra high frequency (UHF) station at cost of $281,000 a year, he stated.

"It requires a special adaptor to receive UHF and very few set owners can receive the college programs. If the college can't get a VHF channel, which would reach standard sets, its broadcasts might as well be discarded.

'GREAT LOSS TO PEOPLE'

"This would be a great loss to the people of Michigan in that educational television is a coming thing and holds great value for individual citizens."

Other members of the House Ways and Means Committee indicated they would support Warner in his attempts to re-insert the ban against the station.

Rep. James Gulette (R-Iron Mountain) said he could not approve the deal unless he had more information on it. He was joined by Rep. Louis Mezzano (D-Wakefield).

"I think more than half the members of the Ways and Means Committee would oppose the arrangement," said Rep. Frank D. Williams (D-Detroit) another committee member.

QUESTIONS RIGHT

"I certainly question the right of the State Board of Agriculture to enter into such a contract with a private firm without first letting bids," Williams said.

Declaring he supported educational television in principle, he said: "The question is — do we get a dollar's worth of education for every dollar we spend n it?"

Most of the members object to the arrangement on the grounds the government would be encroaching on private enterprise.

Williams said he would continue to fight against the TV plan despite a ruling by Atty. Gen. Thomas M. Kavanagh that the prohibition proposed by the Legislature would be unconstitutional.

"It's our business to make laws in the best interests of the people," Williams said. "It is up to the courts to decide what is constitutional and what is not."

Less Friction with Trop-Artic Motor Oil!

In the experiment below, the slide on the left is coated with ordinary motor oil, while the one on the right is coated with TROP-ARTIC All-Weather Oil. When two steel blocks are dropped on the two slides at exactly the same time, the one on the right slips down nearly twice as fast as the one on the left. The reason is: less friction with TROP-ARTIC oil.

IT'S PERFORMANCE THAT COUNTS!

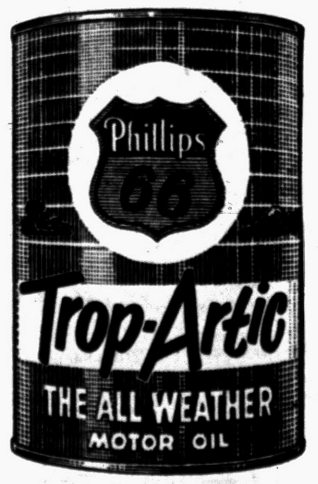

New Phillips 66 TROP-ARTIC reduces friction far more effectively than any ordinary oil. By reducing friction, it extends gasoline mileage. And it can reduce wear, even to the extent of doubling the life of an engine. It can cut oil consumption 15% to 45%. It keeps pistons cleaner. New TROP-ARTIC is the first all-weather type motor oil to meet the highest standard ever established for automobile motor oils, the Mil-0-2104 Supplement 1 Test. Get TROP-ARTIC from your Phillips 66 Dealer.

Bob Considine Says:

Gagwriting Probe Would Up U.S. Morale

NEW YORK (INS) — Congress, considering a $32,860,000,000 defense budget, proper distribution of the Salk vaccine, relations with Russia, Peru and other sensitive matters, has been asked to drop all work and do something about giving more protection to gagwriters.

* * *

The National Association of Gagwriters, through the Gagwriters Protective Association, he asked Sen. Harley Kilgore and Rep. Emanuel Celler, chairmen of their respective judiciary committees, to bring about legislation designed to throw the protective wing of the copyright law over creators of what passes for humor on TV, radio and in the nightclubs.

(The whirring sound you hear is Joe Miller revolving in his grave.)

"Can We Protect the Joke-Writer From Gag-Thieves?" was the subject of a recent seminar at the Comedy Workshop, Malin Studios, just off Broadway on 46th. I am honored with a communication from the GPA, which says in part:

"Kilgore and Celler have been requested to invite top comedians such as 'confessed' gag-thief Milton Berle, Bob Hope, Jackie Gleason, Groucho Marx and Jack Benny, and gagwriters such as Goodman Ace, Mac Benoff, Carroll Carroll et al (ed. note: Al Trahan?) and other leading authorities on humor, to testify.

"The National Association of Gagwriters feels that such a joint hearing under these high auspices would do much for the morale of the country. The impact of television on the youth of the nation has created a situation in which the gag-thief runs rampant, and is glorified."

* * *

Well, my morale could stand a little face-lifting, so let me state right here that I hope the probe comes off.

If Rep. Celler's great natural aversion to publicity can be overcome, and TV cameras are installed in the caucus room, and the proposed cast of characters shows up, the hearings will easily top the rating of the Army-McCarthy show and provide more laughs than Sen. Ferguson's inquiry, "Inside Johnny Meyer."

Bugs Baer, who has provided a couple of generations of alleged gagwriters with more fuel than is underfoot in Pennsylvania and Texas, once was asked by a high school journalist, "Where do you get your material?" Bugs answered, "Just borrow it back."

Methinks that despite the high goals of the GPA, the crusade is doomed. The poker chip is not the most homeless of all creations. The gag is.

There isn't room on a quip for a byline, just as there isn't enough humility or charity in the average person's soul to prompt him to give credit to the person from whom he appropriated the gag. And, really, there isn't time on most programs or skits.

* * *

The man with the putty nose about to be hit with the pie on TV can't say, "Custard's last stand—with apologies to Herman Q. Schmarz of the National Association of Gagwriters." He'd get hit before he gets to the credits . . . which mightn't be a bad idea at that.

THINK OF MOPPETS

If the morale of children TV addicts is at stake, as the GPA gloomily warns, it should consider whether it is wise to strip our moppets of their last vestige of illusion by informing them that 99-44-100ths of everything they laugh at on the screen came not from the comedian but from guys named Carroll Carroll and his friends et al.

That might be a real crusher and result in further juvenile delinquency. After all, not many present-day TV children heard Jack Benny on radio one night when, shattered by a Fred Allen crusher, he mourned, "I'd give $10,000 right now if my writers were here."

Godfrey fired more writers recently than did the shutdown of the Brooklyn Eagle. I see no sanctuary for gagwriters.

Who do they think they are, whooping cranes? Still, it would be a nice congressional hearing to cover. And the Congressional Record certainly could use some fresh material.

Party Line Hog Faces Prison

Woman Found Guilty of Refusing to Let Fireman Make Call

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP)—A hot-tempered housewife has been found guilty of refusing to yield a country telephone party line when a volunteer fireman tried to report a fire.

Mrs. Mary L. Kayes, 43, of Rhinebeck, N.Y., could get a maximum of a year in jail, a $500 fine or both under a new state statute covering use of party line telephones in an emergency.

Mrs. Kayes, mother of four, sobbed when the verdict was announced in Dutchess County Court last night.

* * *

"Let me alone, don't bother me," she shouted at newsmen.

Judge John R. Schwartz set May 24 for sentencing and continued Mrs. Kayes in $500 bail.

According to testimony in the two-day trial, Mrs. Kayes said, "Let the damn thing burn and get off the line," when fire dispatcher Donald Townsend asked her to give up the line to report a brush fire last Jan. 21. Townsend and Mrs. Kayes share the line with five other users.

* * *

Townsend testified he had to drive nearly a mile to another telephone to make the call.

A fire official told the court the fire got out of control because of the delay and destroyed a nearby barn.

Mrs. Kayes claimed she didn't believe there really was a fire, because "you hear the darndest things on a party line."

A University of Illinois study indicates that children usually learn the grammar they will use for the rest of their lives between their first and third birthdays.

100 Young People Meet for 9th Annual Convention

The ninth annual Michigan Christian Youth Convention assembled Saturday at 2 p.m. in the Baldwin Avenue Evangelical United Brethren Church.

In charge of the convention was of Religious Education. Presiding of Religious Education. Presiding at the afternoon and evening sessions was state president Dennis Sellers of Burt Lake.

Over 100 young people joined in the opening song service conducted by Mrs. B. C. Meece of Cadillac.

Afternoon devotions on the theme, "Lift Up My Eyes," were led by Dougald McColl assisted by Bob Dunn and Walter Brown, all of First Christian Church, Pontiac.

A group discussion on "This Is Youth Fellowship" was directed by George O. Taylor of Indianapolis. The Cascade Christian Youth presented a panel on "Building a Youth Fellowship."

At the business meeting the following officers were elected for next year: president, Bob Dunn of Pontiac; vice president, Barbara Heaven of Cascade, and secretary, Jack Rogers of Traverse City.

Special music was presented by girls from the United Christian Church of Detroit and a trio from the Cascade Christian Church.

Dennis Sellers of Burt Lake and Leo Hallenbeck led the evening worship service.

Colleges Face Problem of Higher Enrollment

One of the things that is worrying educators is the rapid growth in the ratio of college and university students to the rest of the population.

With the beginning of the Fall terms in 1954 the number of such students had reached an all time high of 2,500,000. A survey indicates this total will reach 4,000,000 by 1962 and 7,000,000 by 1970.

This means that to keep abreast of this growth, teaching staffs will have to be doubled in 15 years. Also, it will take billions to provide the necessary plant expansion and replace worn out and obsolete equipment.

Although corporation gifts to institutions of higher learning now run about $100,000,000 a year, increases in tuition have been necessary. Fees in publicly supported schools now average $240 a year while the average for those privately operated is $580.

The possibility of further increases in tuition fees also is worrying educators. They fear either that many students will receive a second class education or that many gifted young people will be denied higher education for lack of funds.

This indeed is a grave problem. Already it is attracting attention in Congress. There a bill has been introduced to provide $800 a year for worthy students. So far the Administration has given no sign of interest in Federal scholarships.

★ ★ ★

However, President Eisenhower has said it might be necessary to offer more scholarships in scientific fields to keep ahead of Russia's rate of producing engineers and other technicians.

This overall problem isn't going to solve itself. It deserves continued study by educators and lawmakers and any other groups which might point the way toward a possible solution.

Weather Bureau's Budget

A look back at the havoc wrought by the 1954 hurricanes Carol, Edna and Hazel, strongly suggests the need for an expanded Weather Bureau budget.

These three hurricanes caused property damage estimated at $800,000,000 and resulted in the loss of 200 lives. It is contended by experts that these losses would have been much smaller had the Weather Bureau been able by reason of a larger staff and better equipment to give more accurate advance storm warnings.

★ ★ ★

The bureau's budget for fiscal 1955-56 is $27,850,000 plus a special $5,000,000 for equipment to be spent over the next four years. Next year's $3,000,000 increase over the current budget is accounted for entirely by observation work the bureau is taking over from the Air Force.

The $5,000,000 asked for new equipment is needed for radar instruments largely to replace old equipment used in observation balloons.

Accurate weather forecasting never has been as important as it is now. This, of course, is due to the increasing dependence on forecasts by industry, agriculture and aviation. The result is that the Weather Bureau's needs for adequate staffs and equipment are more impressive than ever.

★ ★ ★

Congress not only should re-examine the bureau's budget with these things in mind, it should approve the Patterson bill. This measure would provide the $5,000,000, over and above the budget, needed to finance an emergency hurricane warning system.

Center Lights for Safety

This newspaper knows of no sound argument against a law proposed by State Sen. Porter of Blissfield to bring about uniform installation of traffic lights in Michigan.

★ ★ ★

His idea is that suspension of these lights over traffic lanes at intersections contributes much more to highway safety than do those placed at curbs.

It long has been the opinion of traffic engineers that the curb lights are less visible and hence less effective and tend to confuse drivers. This is especially true at intersections where neon signs of different colors make it more difficult to see the traffic lights.

★ ★ ★

Several Michigan cities, including Pontiac, have abandoned the curb lights. Lieut. J. Koren, head of Pontiac Police Department's traffic division, wholeheartedly endorses the Porter bill. He says that the three remaining curb installations in Pontiac soon will be replaced with center lights for the very reasons which prompted Sen. Porter to introduce his bill.

In the interest of uniformity and greater highway safety the Legislature should enact this measure.

Don't Look, Now, but—

David Lawrence Says:

Moscow May Force Tito to Play Ball Soviet Style

BONN—Something of the alarm which has swept Europe since Moscow announced that there would be a conference "at the summit" in Belgrade between Bulganin and Khrushchev, on the one hand, and Marshal Tito, on the other, is expressed in a cartoon on the front page of "Die Welt," a leading newspaper here.

It shows Marshal Tito in uniform with the stars and stripes as an insignia on one shoulder and the hammer and sickle of Soviet Russia on the other, with this this caption: "Will he wear them on both shoulders?"

There can be no doubt that the whole western alliance has received a shock over something which they should long ago have suspected.

For in the last year and a half the steady campaign carried on by Moscow to win Tito back to the fold has been revealed in a series of moves which were minimized in the West but which finally bore fruit.

WON'T BREAK TIES

It is true that Tito has reassured the western democracies that he has no intention of breaking his ties with them, but what has not yet been disclosed is that he may not be able to control his own destiny and that the break with the West may develop now.

* * *

Here in Bonn, where they know a good deal about Yugoslav affairs and where they tend to look on the situation in the Balkans with a certain detachment now that Austria has been neutralized, the reports are conflicting concerning the origin and purposes of the Bulganin mission to Belgrade.

Yugoslavs here insist that there will be no discussion about a resumption of ideological ties but only about practical problems in the diplomatic and economic relations of the two governments.

Others say that the meeting is basically ideological because there has been a steady infiltration by Moscow Communists in Belgrade in recent months, and its is pointed out that Walter Ulbricht, leader of the Communist party in East Germany, soon is to make a trip to confer with leaders in Belgrade.

SOVIET SCHEME

What it all seems to add up to is a definite effort on the part of Moscow to swing Tito away from the West, even though he may not allow himself to become a puppet of Moscow.

* * *

So far as the Soviet Union is concerned, it may well be content with the addition of Yugoslavia to the neutral belt which has been started with the successful detachment of Austria from the West. Once a block of buffer states from the Mediterranean to the Baltic has been established, the Soviet regime can well afford to offer to pull back her own troops and insist that American troops go home.

Western Europe would then be at the mercy of a gigantic land army of Russians which could become supreme, especially if Soviet propaganda succeeds in persuading the West to give up atomic weapons of mass destruction.

So the Soviet aim now is to spend the next three or four years in what looks outwardly like a relaxation of tension but which actually means a determined effort to win by a "cold war" certain vantage points that are necessary for the Soviet conquest of Europe in later years.

REDS PLAY FOR TIME

On every side here, for example, leaders in the government warn that Soviet Russia is playing for the time needed to build economic strength for armament while she seeks disarmament of the West on atomic weapons and the weakening of the western armies by a hoped-for program of neutralization, to include Germany.

* * *

Behind the scenes in all this is the crafty hand of Nehru and his stooge, Krishna Menon. It was Indian diplomacy that brought Tito to New Delhi a few weeks ago and a trade union delegation of Yugoslavs to Peiping.

After the India visit, Tito proclaimed his belief in the necessity of admitting Red China to the United Nations, and his public declarations were completely at variance with what he knew to be the policy of the United States.

Any true friend of the West would not have picked out unnecessary issues for a public statement, especially when it was known the viewpoint would be accepted widely as a criticism of United States policy.

TITO IN MIDDLE

The true story of what is happening inside Yugoslavia has yet to be told. There are evidences that Moscow has been conducting an intrigue among the hard-core Communists in Belgrade, faithful to the Soviet Union, who were recently released, and that, due to internal politics, Tito has found himself compelled to accept the friendly gestures of the Soviets, who are persuasively arguing that they are not asking him to become an ally and to line up against the West but merely to stay neutral, just as Austria is and as the Communists hope to persuade a reunited Germany to be.

These are anxious times for the West in the "cold war," and a counteroffensive boldly calling for the liberation of all the satellite states is certainly needed.

Boy Scouts to Honor Military Services in Armed Forces Day Parade May 21

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

The Boy Scouts of America is definitely not a military organization. We have been invited to participate in the Armed Forces Day Parade on May 21.

We were happy to accept this invitation and, therefore, our Cubs, Boy Scouts and Explorers will be in the parade in the role of a patriotic organization which emphasizes citizenship training, and one which welcomes this opportunity to pay honor to the Armed Forces of this country.

Well, there go the Tigers. They are just a flash in the pan, same as last year. They'll never get into the first division with Bucky Harris as their manager.

Press Reader Praises New Pontiac City Hall

This was a city of no mean appearance even before the new building on the mount. That is the City Hall with its large tree in front.

Although there may be those in our community, as well as those that labor in the factories, opposed to a strike, all of us here for nearly 30 years have common sense. We do not want the national economy to be thrown for a loss.

Those who have been here for less than ten years take everything for granted . . . vacation pay, overtime, holiday pay. Those who are now opposed to a guaranteed annual wage, perhaps did exist here in the very early thirties of the depression.

There would not be a union, as I see it, had it not been for Franklin Delano Roosevelt. Be Republican or Democrat, always remember that fact. Do you wish slavery and chains of mind and body? It is up to you, officials of corporations.

GOP Urged to Campaign on the Basis of Prosperity

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
INS Economic Commentator

Politics is only one of the overtones affecting the trend for job-creating activities in business, but ever since New Dealers made an issue of modifying the enterprise system, politics has bulked larger than before.

Recently pessimism has seized Republicans in the fear that perhaps President Eisenhower might elect to retire after one term or, if he should accept a second nomination, he would perhaps be a reluctant candidate.

As such, it is argued, he would in a second term increasingly stress his non-partisan approach, and thus leave the party without sufficient patronage and buildup to continue in office after his retirement.

It seems to me that superficial political wiseacres are overlooking some of the facts of life.

Maybe the confusion occurred in 1952 when the Republicans ditched the late Sen. Robert A. Taft, Mr. Republican, in favor of a military hero, Eisenhower. As a result, with the Republicans there was doubt as to how much Eisenhower's election depended on personal popularity and how much on his views.

* * *

While undoubtedly the motives of voters were mixed, it was perhaps a fortuitous historic accident that a military hero possessed tremendous enthusiasm for the basic elements in the American economic system—our free-choice economic society.

EMOTIONS DIFFERENT

But more is involved in the change in public sentiment toward economic matters than the personality of the individual in the White House. The basic alteration lies in the inescapable reality that the emotions of men are different in a high level of employment and of business activity than in an interlude of hard times, with soup kitchens and breadlines.

In spite of feelers put out to the effect that Eisenhower might like to be a one-term President, there are strong factors at home and abroad which are likely to induce him to consider running again. And there is little dispute over the polls that indicates he would probably be the strongest candidate of his party.

But Americans generally and Republicans in particular should give heed to Eisenhower's view that there is "no indispensable man." A nation and a party are in a poor way when the reservoir of potential effective leadership is limited to one personality.

Furthermore, if the Republicans take the defeatist view that they can eke out a few more years in office only if a popular hero plays ball, they are indeed taking a dim view.

Irrespective of personalities, the party ought to start right now to make intellectual inventory.

DEMS WIDELY SPLIT

The schism in the Democratic Party between the Jeffersonian Democrats, particularly of the south, and the Americans for Democratic Action group of the north, with CIO and other union allies, creates both a challenge and an opportunity.

* * *

The Republicans would gain inner strength if they recognized that the intellectual issues of the depressed 1930s are more or less obsolete in the dynamic, expanding and prosperous mid-50s.

The Republicans, instead of looking backward, should undertake to restyle themselves as the party of foresight, which merchandises realistic optimism about the long-term future promise of American life.

The Republicans have an opportunity to win friends and influence people through espousing the enterprise system as contrasted with the economic slavery of government-dominated police state systems.

TRADE ON SUCCESS

If the Republicans in 1956 are favored with a healthy national economy and improving international relations, they should recall the time-honored American maxim that nothing succeeds like success.

* * *

They should stress the importance of competency in government, and should take credit for curtailing federal expenditures, and for returning to the states, the localities and to private investment some of those activities which they are able and willing to assume, thus reversing overcentralization at Washington.

Stressing research and the forward look, those who believe in the American way should emphasize that nothing in life is permanent except change, and thus free themselves from the poison of reactionary label.

Case Records of a Psychologist

Attractive Girl Has Good Position, Car but Longs for Job as Wife and Mother

Theda is very attractive but she scares men away. They see the gleam in her eye of the huntress. They vaguely feel the whir of the lariat and know she'll have them roped. So she needs to follow Seneca's advice and adopt that "push-'em-away" strategy. Watch tomorrow's follow-up case.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case O-333: Theda M., aged 23, poses a very common problem.

"Dr. Crane, many times I have felt that life wasn't worth living," she began.

"For I have no boy friends. In high school mother said I'd have plenty of time for dates later on, so I concentrated on my studies and became an honor student.

"Now I have a good job and my own car. I go to church regularly but that doesn't seem to solve my wish for a boy friend.

"The married women where I work tell me I ought to be glad I am single, but I would trade my position anyday for the job of a housewife who has children to take care of and love.

"So, Dr. Crane, how can I win a suitable man?"

Millions of men, as well as admirable girls like Theda, could soon meet eligibles if we had a Scientific Dating Bureau to match them with certified members of the opposite sex.

Men are almost as numerous as women in writing me for advice on how to meet suitable girls.

Etiquette hampers girls more than men, for the male is permitted to make the advances whereas it is regarded as unduly bold or brazen for a girl to do so.

But even with that accepted advantage, males still deluge me with letters. And those men are businessmen and professional workers, not the "culls" or "lemons."

I have lost my last six secretaries to men who wrote in and wanted to meet some eligible girls. These men included a physician, a biology teacher, an attorney, scientific farmers, etc.

But Theda's problem is partly due to her too narrow perspective. She thinks happiness is a case of 100 per cent or zero. That's not true.

You can seldom be 100 per cent happy in life, even when ideally married. And millions of married people are not as happy as certain single men and women.

So if you can't be 100 per cent happy, then shoot for 95 per cent or even be grateful to rate 80 per cent or maybe 70 per cent.

Any girl who threatens suicide or says life isn't worth living because she hasn't a wedding ring, is obviously so narrow in her social perspective that she can't see the showers of blessings that God Almighty has poured on even the most luckless American citizen.

Besides, such a narrow outlook actually drives men away. For the casual male sees this greedy gleam in the eye of every female who has nothing but a wedding ring in mind.

With her opening greeting he can faintly hear the lariat whirling around his head, so he knows he better make a quick exit or he'll be roped and hogtied.

Girls, that's definitely not the strategy to win men!

Seneca gave some excellent advice on winning a sweetheart when he said: "Go to the archer. See how he handles his bow. With one hand he pulls it back but with the other he pushes it away again."

Theda has enough charms to pull men to her so she needs to figuratively push them away. Suppose she accepts the philosophy that she is never going to marry and even publicizes that tactfully.

Then men immediately will feel safe around her. She can laugh gaily and enjoy camaraderie with males, for they will feel free and easy in her company.

Soon she can use Seneca's "push-'em-away" technique. It works miracles on men. For whenever a male finds a woman who admits she doesn't want to get married that piques his vanity.

So he sets out to change her mind and make her see the wisdom of marriage. He gets hooked in the process. Girls, it's surefire!

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his psychological charts.

Some Doctors Still Treat Animal Wounds With Acid

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Believe it or not, some doctors and some hospitals still cauterize fresh wounds inflicted by animals or birds, or did indulge in such malpractice as recently as 1951 because, forsooth, of an understandable misapprehension that public health authorities prescribed it.

Some years ago any animadversions upon mad dog scares infuriated a metropolitan health commissioner unbearably. He published an open letter in the press, declaring that there is only one way to destroy rabies virus—by cauterizing the wound inflicted by animal or bird, particularly dogbite, with fuming nitric acid.

The health commissioner could not cite scientific evidence to support his assertion. But, by gum, the commissioner did his darnedest to support malpractice, and at the same time put me under a cloud of suspicion in the minds of many wiseacres.

The proper emergency treatment of dogbite or any wound inflicted by the teeth, claws, beak, talons or spurs of animal or bird, tame or wild, gentle or "mad," healthy or "rabid," as any reputable physicians or surgeon will agree, whether he or she has the courage to condemn cauterization or not, is:

(1) Wash out the wound with plain soap and sterile (boiled) water

(2) Rinse away the soap with sterile water

(3) Cut away dead tissue

(4) If the wound gapes, stitch it up

(5) Paint the surrounding skin with mild tincture or solution of iodine (2%)

(6) Apply a dressing of sterile (froned) gauze (washed cheesecloth) spread with just sufficient sterile (boiled) petrolatum or other sterile neutral salve or ointment to prevent the gauze sticking to the wound.

That's all.

But I'd go one step further, or at least I'd want the doctor to go one step further if I were the patient, and that is:

(7) Administer tetanus antitoxin—one dose immediately, a second injection 5 to 7 days later.

You see, I regard such wounds as most likely to favor development of tetanus (lockjaw), and therefore, I believe, the doctor who fails to give tetanus antitoxin, regardless of the question of rabies, takes a terrible responsibility.

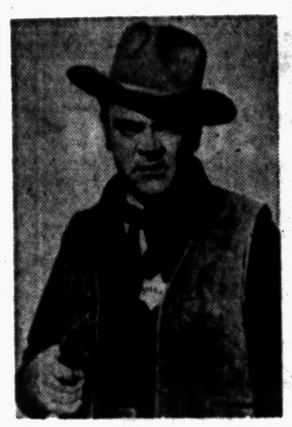

The question of rabies (hydrophobia)?

If the wound were my child's or my own and the seven steps in emergency treatment were followed as described, I wouldn't worry about it. In my opinion rabid animals, if there are any in the community, do much less harm than our rabid public health officials.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment will be answered by Dr. William Brady if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to the Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Mich.

Man Prepares Own Funeral

Buys Casket, Makes All Arrangements and Then Takes Life

OYSTER BAY COVE, N. Y. (AP) —On Monday, Ernest Woolard, well-to-do interior decorator, visited a funeral parlor. He said he wanted to arrange for a funeral for a member of the family who was near death.

He wrote down the precise cost of each item. He chose a simple pine casket, and listed the prayers to be said. He ordered the burial in a Washington, D. C., cemetery.

Then he went home and wrote a note to an old friend, Police Lt. C. Russell Haff. It said, "You will find my body in the jeep in the garage in the event my wife doesn't find me first."

* * *

Woolard's wife found the body yesterday. The jeep was covered with a canvas, and a hose was rigged to the exhaust. Police ruled the death a suicide from carbon monoxide.

Police said Woolard, 54, was despondent over his 18-year-old married son John, who is in jail on a rape charge.

The youth was arrested last month on complaint of Maryanne Joyce, a pretty 20-year-old redhead from nearby Glen Cove. She said young Woolard raped her in his car after their second date.

* * *

Young Woolard was released on $5,000 bail posted by his father. But two weeks ago, police said, the youth grabbed his mother by the hair and ordered her to cook his breakfast.

The elder Woolard hit him on the head with a coffee pot. Then he went to Nassau County Court in Mineola and revoked the bail. The youth was rearrested and jailed.

Student Obeys; Discards Teeth Stuck in Candy

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Mrs. Loretto Bonner, a teacher at Taft Junior High School, noticed one of her students struggling with a piece of candy he was chewing.

"Either swallow the candy or toss it in the wastepaper basket," she advised the youth.

"Can't," said the lad, "The candy is stuck between my teeth." Jokingly, Mrs. Bonner told the youngster: "Well, toss your teeth in the basket with the candy."

The boy took out his teeth and threw them into the basket. He had a complete upper plate.

Ad Agent to Retire

MUSKEGON (AP)—Carl N. Knopf, Muskegon County agricultural agent for 32 years, announced Monday he will retire June 30. Knopf operated a farm in his native Lenawee County after graduating from Michigan State in 1911. He became the first agricultural agent in Cheboygan County in 1915. He held a similar post in Manistee County before coming to Muskegon.

Steal From Police

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Elzie Williams, 26, of Lowell, was charged in municipal court Monday with taking part in the theft of $4 from a cash drawer at the Lowell Police Station. Police Chief Frank Stemphs said Williams acted as lookout while two 16-year-old boys took the money. The juveniles also are in custody.

Pontiac Educators Watch Industry's Wheels Turn

Pontiac teachers today have the answer for the student who wants to know about the inner-workings of local business and industry as a result of the fourth annual B-I-E day (business, industry and education) yesterday.

Six hundred and eighty Pontiac educators peered behind the cogs and wheels of big and little businesses as guests of the Chamber of Commerce. Sixty representative business firms served as hosts for the groups.

The teachers were day-long inspectors of the automobile and truck production plants, banks and financing firms, public utility business, dairy production, the insurance business, lumber supply, stores and radio stations.

The Pontiac Press hosted 35 of the Pontiac faculty members, showing every phase of newspaper production from news gathering and advertising to getting the paper ready for delivery.

Others visited downtown business, viewing the operation of a "five-and-ten" store and a big department store.

Groups of teachers spent the day as guests of the retail automobile firms, furniture merchandisers and a large wholesale food supply company watching the arrival of shipments and the process of distribution.

Michigan has been observing B-I-E Day for nearly nine years with 693 communities reported to be carrying on this project as an annual affair.

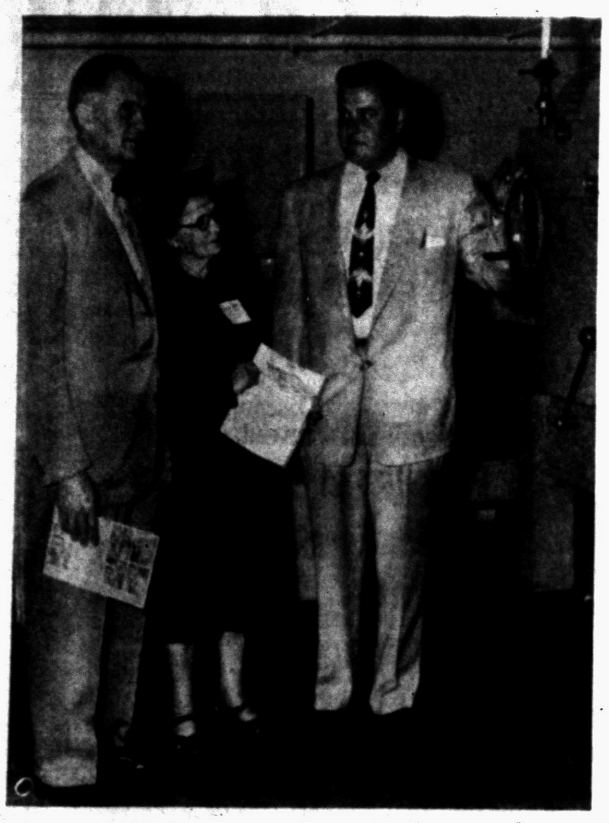

B-I-E day is a nationally-conducted program which was initiated several years ago to better acquaint business with the problems of education and education with the needs and operation of business.

Robert J. St. Clair, director of the Chamber, said that this year's B-I-E day was undoubtedly the most successful of the local programs.

Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, superintendent of Pontiac schools, said that from the reaction of his staff it was evident that a much better acquaintance of the facts of business now existed among the teachers.

In previous years, Pontiac has carried on B-I-E day programs with education inviting business back to school for the day. Recently the students who will one day work in these local businesses were the guests of business.

St. Clair pointed out that B-I-E day also served to make teachers more aware of the different resources which do exist in this community.

The annual dinner which is given by the board of directors of the Michigan Children's Aid Society for the foster parents of children under the society's care will be held May 25 at Hotel Waldron.

MYRTLE REUL TO SPEAK

Myrtle Reul of Lansing will be speaker. A former member of the Department of Social Work of Michigan State College, Mrs. Reul has worked with the Michigan Children's Aid Society, and she has been active in the public school system as a classroom teacher, assistant principal and visiting teacher.

She has received two graduate degrees from Michigan State College, has done graduate work at the University of Michigan, and now is working on final requirement for doctoral degree.

The committee in charge of arrangements includes Mrs. Syver Thingstad, chairman, assisted by L. Harvey Lodge, Dr. Richard Galpin and Mrs. Barney Habel.

Mrs. Sampson Opens Her Home to Zonta Club

Mrs. L. R. Sampson opened her home on Watkins Lake to 40 members and guests of the Zonta Club recently for a May dinner and business meeting.

The club voted to make a contribution of $100 to the Civic Auditorium Fund.

Mrs. Adrian Ish, president, reported that there are now 1,368 members in District Five of Zonta.

She also reported on the success of the recent project of the City Federation of Women's Club, done in cooperation with local merchants.

The next meeting will be a luncheon Thursday at Stevens Hall. A breakfast honoring this year's new members will be held June 5 at Rotunda Inn. Officers will be installed at this time.

BETTY LOUE GEORGE

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd George of Oxbow Lake are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Betty Loue, to Dale Stanley Helgemo. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Helgemo of South Josephine street. No date has been set for the wedding.

Junior League of Birmingham Arranges Party

The Junior League of Birmingham has made plans for a party to be held Saturday at the Birmingham home of Mr. and Mrs. John Richardson. The party will honor transfers and their husbands.

Mrs. Frank Rhodes Jr., chairman of the transfer group, is being assisted with arrangements by Mrs. Bartow Duncan, Mrs. Harry Swan, Mrs. Hugh Mack and Mrs. James Chapman.

Old and new board members of the Junior League will be entertained June 7 by Mrs. George Squibb of Birmingham.

Mrs. Squibb and Mrs. Rudolph Eberstadt Jr. recently returned from Sun Valley where they represented the Junior League at a 33rd annual conference of Association of Junior Leagues of America, Inc.

PTAs Plan Installation, Meetings

Safety Programs, Alaskan Movies on Agenda

Several school PTA groups are holding a flurry of meetings before the semester comes to a close:

Malkim

Both mothers and fathers have been invited to attend the annual May cooperative luncheon, scheduled for Thursday morning at 11:45, which will be followed by the childrens' presentation of a program in celebration of Michigan Week.

New officers will be installed during a business meeting, with Mrs. Carson Cascadden heading the group as president. She will be assisted by Mrs. Charles Heinsch, vice president; Harold McConnell, father vice president; Mrs. Carl Vedane and Mrs. Jack Dougherty, secretary.

Completing the slate will be Mrs. Hurles Pace, historian; Mrs. Edwin Solomon, parliamentarian and Mrs. Roy Trador, Mrs. Glenn Horsington and Mrs. Nolan Keefner, council delegates.

Committee members for the luncheon include Mrs. Rudolph Pfeiffer, chairman; Mrs. Darold Houle, Mrs. Arthur Allen, Mrs. Edwin Solomon, Dorothy Weaver, Mrs. Cascadden and Naomi Dennis.

Donelson

Movies of their recent Alaskan trip will be shown by Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Baumgartner at the monthly PTA meeting to be held at 8 p.m. Thursday in the gymnasium.

Several selections will be sung by three Waterford Township music teachers and kindergarten mothers will serve refreshments.

Wilson

PTA members climaxed the season with a program on safety. Speaker at the final meeting was Theodore Vanderstempel, Pontiac traffic engineer. Short talks on summer safety for children were given by Nancy Schmansky, service patrol captain and Robert Farrell, safety patrol captain.

Refreshments for the recent meeting were provided by kindergarten and first grade mothers.

In other activities, Mrs. John Neaves, retiring PTA president, was honored at a recent luncheon given by the board of directors and held at the Sanford street residence of Mrs. Raymond Ellsworth. A gift and corsage were presented Mrs. Neaves.

Attending were Mrs. Burtis Crowe, Mrs. Leroy Eastham, Mrs. Wallace Lacy, Mrs. Katherine Pusceas, Mrs. Arthur Beyer, Mrs. William Hollis, Mrs. C. Stait Lloyd, Mrs. John Potter, Mrs. Harold Talmage and Mrs. Clergue Webster.

Birthday Luncheon Held by Group

Twenty-eight members of the April-May Group of First Presbyterian Church met for an annual birthday luncheon recently at Rotunda Inn.

Mrs. James White was in charge of the program. Other committee members were Mrs. John Livingston, Mrs. Quentin Sweet and Mrs. Floyd Mortenson.

Sharon Smith Weds Mark Thatcher

Emmanuel Baptist Church was the setting for the marriage of Sharon E. Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Smith of Alberta drive, to Mark B. Thatcher.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Frances Raynard of Addie street and Enoch Thatcher.

The Rev. Tom Malone performed the 7:30 p.m. ceremony Saturday before 200 guests. Palms and baskets of gladioli, carnations and stock decorated the church.

The bride wore a floor length tiered gown of nylon net trimmed with rosepoint lace and fashioned with sweetheart neckline. Her headpiece secured a fingertip length veil and she carried an arrangement of roses and carnations.

Dorothy Barber attended the bride as maid of honor wearing a nile green gown and picture hat. She carried an arrangement of purple stock. Her shoes matched the bouquet.

They wore lilac dresses in princess style and picture hats. They carried bouquets of purple stocks and wore matching shoes.

William Pappas was best man and seating the guests were Ted Womack, Fliyd Raynard and Jim Raynard.

An aqua dress with pink accessories and pink roses was worn by the bridegroom's mother.

For a wedding trip to northern Michigan the bride wore a purple paper faille dress with white accessories and a purple orchid corsage.

Honeymooning in northern Michigan are Mr. and Mrs. Mark B. Thatcher. The bride is the former Sharon E. Smith, daughter of the Robert C. Smiths of Alberta drive. Mark is the son of Mrs. Frances Raynard of Addie street and Enoch Thatcher.

Humor Can Salve a Sorry Situation

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

One Friday, Mike's grandparents came to supper. Later, in the living room, Mike was happily absorbed in his favorite TV cowboy program when Grandpa joined him.

Without speaking, he waved Mike out of his chair to sit down in it himself. Mike had found another chair when Grandma made her entrance. "Up, sir," ordered Grandpa again — and in growing exasperation, Mike surrendered his second chair.

As he sprawled on the floor, Grandma said fretfully, "Oh, dear, can't you turn to something besides all this noisy shooting, Arthur?" Mike's father dismissed the cowboys.

So Mike drew his cowboy gun. In a state of high excitement, he rushed about, poking it so insistently into everyone's face that his father angrily sent him to bed.

The next morning, with intense resentment, Mike began to criticize his grandparents.

Suddenly, his mother interrupted, "Let me show you how we all looked to me yesterday!" she said. And pulling her face into grim disapproval, she imitated Grandpa's pompous gesture, crying "Up, sir," in a deep voice.

Then, making a growling noise, she laughed. "That was you, Mike, getting mad — and here's me!"

Wringing her hands in burlesque of herself, she whined, "Oh, how unfair everyone is to my child! What shall I do? Though I understand how he wants to shoot us all up, it's not polite to say so. Oh dear what shall I do?"

A small grin had appeared on Mike's face. The next moment, at his mother's imitation of his father's confusion between duty to his parents and duty to his child, Mike burst into liberating laughter.

His mother's humor had made weakness look so absurd that he could no longer respect it enough to resent it.

Have I given the impression that I'm endorsing disrespect for grandparents? I don't want to. So let me point out that Mike's mother made light, not only of her elderly in-laws' self-centeredness, but of his reactions to it, his father's irritated confusion and her own helplessness.

She was poking fun, the wise kind woman, not at people but at the follies they allow to keep them apart.

There's a kind that's bad for them — the kind that makes them feel little and helpless, not big and strong. We all know it. It's the fun-poking that seeks to humiliate us.

That's not the humor that's grand for children; the brand Mike's mother displayed is.

Society Names Delegates

Alpha Beta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma is sending nine delegates to the state conference of the society at Kellogg Center, East Lansing, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The group will ibe led by its president, Mrs. Iva O'Dell, and Mrs. Gertrude Ealy, vice president.

Others making the trip will be Mrs. Harvey Avey of Walled Lake, Mrs. Thomas Dodson, Freida Huggett and Hazel oPtts.

Mrs. Harvey Bidstrup, Mrs. Olive Lord, Mrs. Honora Kinsella and Mrs. T. E. Wiersema, also attending, will sing in the All-State Chorus when the group appears on the Saturday evening program following the annual banquet.

SPECIAL MEETING

A special meetnig was held at the new Walled Lake High School on Monday afternoon. Three Walled Lake senior girls, Eleanor Sherwood, Toni Horseman and Joyce Graham conducted the members on a tour of the building.

* * *

The spacious cafeteria seating approximately 300 students, the newly equipped classrooms, and the fine laboratories were some of the highlights of the tour.

Mrs. O'Dell presided over a brief business meeting making plans for the closing business of the school year. Mrs. Ethyl Gibson of Walled Lake High School was in charge of the refreshments served in the new library.

She was assisted by Mrs. Harry Avey and Miss Nina Kropidloski. The senior girl guides also helped in serving the refreshments.

* * *

The next meeting will be a picnic on June 7 at the home of Mrs. T. E. Wiersema with Mrs. Emily Hicks as chairman.

Miscellaneous Shower Honors Miss Anderson

Eleanor is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Anderson of Walled Lake, and he is the son of Mrs. Elizabeth Whayne of Sacramento, Ky. The couple will speak their nuptial vows June 4.

The shower was held at the home of Mrs. W. Earl DeMond on Barkman road. Mrs. Charles W. Griggs assisted the hostess.

Guests were Mrs. Henry J. Green, Mrs. Frances McCue, Mrs. Walter Babb, Mrs. Aletha Vorhes, Mrs. E. A. Reitmeyer and Mrs. Lester Stanley.

Others were Mrs. Jack Thompson, Mrs. Alton Owens, Mrs. Gordan Shelton, Mrs. William Hartman and Mrs. Bill Wiseheart.

Still others were Carol Stanley, Mary Eleanor Lockman, Jackie Kroeplin, Aletha Leonard, Norma Ainsley, Janet Guoin and Emily Hayes.

Coming Events

Sewing Circle of Welcome Rebekah Lodge 366 will meet Thursday with Mrs. Harold Curtis, 44 Delaware Dr., for cooperative noon luncheon.

Anna Gordon Unit, WCTU, will meet for box luncheon at noon Thursday in First Baptist Church.

Cofinne Sisterhood 184, Dames of Malta, will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Malta Temple, 82 Perkins St.

Sisterhood of Temple Beth Jacob Elects New Officers

Mrs. Irving Gordon Is President

Mrs. Irving Gordon was elected president of the Sisterhood of Temple Beth Jacob when members gathered Tuesday in the temple for luncheon.

Mrs. Joseph Nosanchuk is first vice president; Mrs. George Wyman, second vice president and Mrs. Harry Arnkoff is secretary.

Other officers are Mrs. Thomas Horwitz, treasurer, Mrs. Rudy LoPatin, corresponding secretary, Mrs. Harry Ackerman, financial secretary and Mrs. Julian Levine, parliamentarian.

Mrs. Harold Chapman introduced Mrs. Sanford Saperstein and Mrs. Jerome Lapides who took over the afternoon's program. They reported on a Sisterhood convention held recently in Muskegon. The report was done in the form of a skit.

The invocation for the luncheon was given by Mrs. Isadore Good. Committee reports for 1954-55 were given during the afternoon. Mrs. Sam Stolorow gave the benediction.

55 Are Present at Association's May Breakfast

Devon Gables was the setting Saturday morning for an annual May breakfast enjoyed by 55 members and guests of the Pontiac Association for Childhood Education.

A sextet from McConnell school furnished music. Those comprising the sextet were Mrs. Royal Exline, Mrs. Francis Schell, Mrs. Walter Wittkopf, Doris Martin, Anna Metzger and Josephine Stilwell.

Josephine Stilwell has been re-elected president of ACE, Mrs. Florence Pappert was introduced as vice president and Nancy Prevette as recording secretary.

Mrs. Alton Madden is treasurer; Mrs. Melvin Johnson, adviser, and Geraldine Gibbs, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Ruth Wright had charge of breakfast reservations and Mrs. Royal Exline made arrangements for the music.

* * *

Decorations were taken care of by Mrs. Arthur Pinkall, Mrs. Eustace Thibodeau, Nina Sackett, Doris Martin, Anna Metzger and Mrs. Francis Schell.

The Frank Hutchinsons of Clyde, Ohio, announce the engagement of their daughter, Muriel Joy of Chippewa road, to F. Chris Strebe, son of the Frank Strebes of Petrolia street. She graduated from Bowling Green College, and he attended Michigan State College. June 25 is the wedding date.

Male Who Didn't Give Gift Will Get One in Return

So Few Special Days Can Be Shared, Steady Advised to Select Remembrance

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: My boy friend's birthday is coming very soon and I'd like very much to give him a small gift.

He didn't do anything about my birthday, but then we weren't going steady at that time. Would it be all right for me to give him something? And if so, what?"

His birthday will be the first of the very special private days that you will share, so celebrate it in style seems to me to be in order.

Perhaps his family will plan something extra for his birthday in which you will be included. Perhaps you can add to his festivities by having him over to the house for dinner the night before.

In any case a little remembrance would add to his pleasure.

Maybe some initialled handkerchiefs, or a sport shirt, a snazzy necktie or argyle socks. If he has a hobby that you know about, keep it in mind.

Records for his collection, perhaps, or stamps or coins, or books or flash bulbs. It needn't be an extravagant gesture—just something to let him know you are mighty glad he was born.

"Dear Miss Woodward: I've been going with this senior for about three months now, and his graduation is close at hand.

Is it required or considered proper for me to get him a graduation present? If so, what kind of gift would best suit the occasion?

You're going steady with him, so you'll undoubtedly be included in his graduation festivities. Perhaps his family will entertain in his honor at a party of some sort and everybody will bring him presents.

You will probably be invited to his commencement exercises. As the very special girl in his life at this big moment you'll be pretty much expected to give him a present.

And graduation presents are supposed to be rather permanent in nature. So I'd suggest one of the following ideas:

A billfold, a pen and pencil set, traveling kit for his toilet articles, a pair of military brushes with his monogram on the back, a generous supply of stationery with his name and address printed on it, one of those gay new traveling suit bags.

Or you might try a big leather picture frame for his bureau, or a small folding frame for lots of snapshots to carry with him. An album of his favorite music might also do the trick, or an old map framed to hang on his wall.

Know your boy—his tastes, his likes and his needs. Then spoil him just a little bit. This is the one and only time he'll be graduating from high school.

Roquefort cheese owes its marbled appearance to a mold called penicillium roqueforti, which is added to the cheese curd before curing.

Students Hold Piano Recital

Participating in the program were Nadine Williams, Jill Prestel, Marilla Corwin, Rosemary Hoenstine, Ralph Koprince, Jimmy Exline, Natalie Daniels, and Carol Norvell.

Others were Marvel Wolfe, Helene Schultz, Jon Barnhart, David Hunt, Bill Graves, Barbara Payne, Cheryl Williams, Jane Bigler, Susan Putnam, Connie Greisbach and Diane Woolcock.

Also taking part were Douglas Anderson, Nancy Greenhalgh, Mitzi Schroeder, Judith Wallace, Barbara Atwell, Jill Miller, Mary Frances Hodges and Ann Hodges.

Still others were Mary Shadley, Barbara Smith, Carol Riley, Wanda Sue Vaughn, Ruth Ann Vaughn, Marilyn Barnhart, Carol Stacy, Judith Brooks and Sharon Wallace.

Completing the list were Doris I. Brooks, Jean Hoenstine, Paulette McReynolds, Elaine Elkins, Clark Lefurgy, John Markley, Brian Woolcock, Jerry Exline, Karen Bowman, Gay Ann Cornell, Frieda Griesbach, Sharon Wolfe and Shirley Bryan.

Helen Lapisch Assists at Parley

Helen Lapisch of Dellwood avenue has returned from Pittsburgh, Pa. where she participated in the Northeast Regional International Toastmistress convention.

Representing the Pontiac Toastmistress Club and Council Four, of which she is chairman, Miss Lapisch spoke on "Evaluation on the Council Level." Following the workshop the participants were taken on a tour of the city.

Western Whirlers Have Guest Caller

Frank Kapalski from the Sierra Squares of California was guest caller at a recent dance held by the Western Whirlers at West Bloomfield Township Hall. Pete Lergen also called dances.

Decorations were taken care of by Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Hamp and refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Lester Mehlberg and Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Rock. The last dance of the season will be held May 28.

Mrs. Irl Williams Named President of WSCS

Mrs. James Deeg installed those who will conduct activities of the WSCS of Oakland Park Methodist Church at which time Mrs. Irl Williams became president.

The business meeting was combined with a cooperative dinner at the church, attended by 50 members and guests and served by the Rebecca Circle.

Officers assisting Mrs. Williams during the coming year will be Mrs. Edward Tutty, vice president; Mrs. Courtney Clara, recording secretary and Mrs. Albert Barker, treasurer.

Committee chairmen are Mrs. Emerson Brown, Mrs. Elton Behnke, Mrs. Bert Weddle and Mrs. James Wellington.

Still more are Mrs. John Wenthy, Mrs. William Childers, Mrs. John Lamont, Mrs. Claude Kline, Mrs. Sydney Barber, Mrs. Basil Meidlein, and Mrs. Kenneth Skelton.

Circle chairmen are Mrs. Rowley Chase, Mrs. John Fuller, Mrs. Leo Mineweaser, Mrs. Caroline Waldron and Mrs. Aldred Ostrander.

Sigma Beta Members at District Session

Several local members of Sigma Beta sorority traveled to Gary, Ind. Sunday for a meeting of province one.

Mrs. Charles Fournier, national corresponding secretary; Mrs. Wallace Williams, national charity finance chairman; Mrs. Eddie O'Brien, president of Psi Chapter; Mrs. DeVere Games and Mrs. William Spalding attended from Psi Chapter.

Members of Beta Alpha Chapter who attended the meeting were Patricia Sturgis, who was named secretary-treasurer of province one, and Grace Campbell.

Mrs. Spalding was elected province governor.

Clawson Woman Hurt in Accident

Mrs. Pearl B. Williams, 45, of Clawson, was reported in fair condition at Pontiac General Hospital with injuries suffered when the car in which she was riding struck a utility pole last night on Crooks road near Hamlin road in Avon Township.

She sustained a broken rib, a possible concussion and head cuts when the car, driven by Mrs. Emma Sue Craig, 30, of Hazel Park, left the road on a curve and smashed down several guard rail posts before ramming the pole. Mrs. Craig was treated for minor bruises.

She was unable to tell Oakland County Sheriff's deputies how the accident happened.

DETROIT (AP)—Two more baby gorillas are coming to the Detroit Zoo after some fast red tape cutting.

The zoo wants them to keep a gorilla it has just received from getting lonely. But zoo officials were balked in getting export permits from French Equatorial Africa.

The zoo went to Mayor Albert E. Cobo. Cobo went to Sen. Potter (R-Mich). Potter went to Secretary of State Dulles. Dulles went to the U. S. ambassador in Paris. The ambassador went to the French government. Up came the permits.

6 Former Stars Named to State 'Hall of Fame'

DETROIT (UP) — Six all-time sports greats were named today to the Michigan "Hall of Fame" with the honorees representing five different sports.

Tyrus Raymond Cobb, former player and manager of the Detroit Tigers, led the balloting of state newspaper sports editors and radio and television sports directors.

Football was the only sport with two representatives—the late Fielding H. Yost and Willie Heston, both of Michigan.

Others were general manager and former coach Jack Adams of the Red Wings, former heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis and golf great Walter Hagen.

Weather, CD Heads Will Plot Fallout

BATTLE CREEK (AP)—Officials of the U.S. Weather Bureau and the Federal Civil Defense Administration have completed final plans for coordinating their efforts in plotting the fall-out pattern of nuclear explosions.

Fourteen top weather men completed a 2-day conference with civil defense officials yesterday at FCDA headquarters here.

Starting June 1 daily reports on air currents and wind conditions will be relayed to civil defense workers throughout the nation. From these, fall-out patterns of nuclear blasts will be determined.

Reports will be sent out twice daily during operation alert, the nationwide civil defense test set for June 15-16.

Waterford Board OKs Changes in Building Code

7 PTA Groups Plan Meetings

Speakers, Open Houses, Card Party, Convention Reports Slated

A variety of programs are planned for the 7 PTA meetings in the Oakland County area tonight, Thursday and Friday evenings.

Here are the planned programs for the different groups:

Thomas

The Thomas PTA will have a "Pay to Play" card party at the Community Hall this evening. Non-members are welcome, officials said.

Southfield Township

The annual spring open house will be held at the Angling Road school at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Parents have been invited to meet teachers and inspect the achievements of their children. New officers will be installed.

Auburn Heights

Mrs. Elmer Dancy and Mrs. Lester Oles will give reports on the recent state convention at the 7:30 p.m. Thursday meeting of the Auburn Heights PTA.

The meeting will be held at the school. Students who have attended dancing classes during the year under the direction of Mrs. Betty Smith will furnish entertainment.

Waterford Township

The Waterford Center PTA will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday at the school for a quiz program of games.

This will replace the usual speaker. Mrs. E. L. Windeler will install the new officers. The annual report will be given by the historian, Mrs. Harry Carlisle.

The Hudson Covert PTA will have the last meeting of the semester at the school Thursday evening. New officers will be installed, and a program will be presented by the Boy Scout troop.

Walled Lake

John Allison, Ann Arbor high school teacher, will discuss military service at the 8 p.m. meeting of the Walled Lake Junior-Senior high school PTA. Thursday in the high school cafeteria.

An election and installation of officers will be held during the business meeting. Mrs. Edward Johnson, president of the Oakland County Council PTA will be the installing officer.

At this meeting also, consideration will be given to the question of splitting this PTA into two groups, one each for the high school and junior high.

Goodison

A family night program called 'A Family Evening in Japan' is being sponsored by the Baldwin-Goodison PTA at their next meeting in the Baldwin School in Goodison at 8 p.m. Friday.

NEW SKIPPER EDITORS — The annual "Waterlog" and the school paper "The Anchor" of Waterford High have new editors for the coming year, as a result of recent elections in the Journalism class. Karl Liewart will be sports editor of both publications. Others are (l-r) Jean Limatta, second semester editor of the Anchor; Ruth Willis, first semester editor of the Anchor, and Carole Fortin, editor of the Waterlog.

Township to Share Chloriding Costs

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The township will participate in chloriding streets at a cost of $14.07 per 1,000 feet cost to the property owner.

If oil is preferred in certain sections, it will be done on the same basis, the township board has decided.

A building report for the month of April showing 66 permits valued at $667,925 was accepted by the board.

Installation Planned

WALLED LAKE—Installation of officers will be held at the 12:30 p.m. Thursday meeting of the WSCS of the Walled Lake Methodist Church at the church.

Seniors of Area Holding Annual Trips; Tour New York, Washington, Niagara

Members of three area high school senior classes are returning late this week from their annual senior trips, and another group left today for their excursion.

The 180 seniors of Waterford Township High School left at noon today for a trip to Niagara Falls. A lake steamer will take them on the 3-day outing.

One-third of the necessary funds was earned by group projects, another third by a special magazine and candy sale, with the final third coming from the individual students.

Accompanying the seniors are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Larmee, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Merrit, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Arsen, and Mr. and Mrs. William Long. Also attending are Mrs. Gordon Bryce, Laura Mahan, Arthur Lake and Paul Ripley.

Fifty-three members of Imlay City senior class have been touring New York city and will return Friday morning. They were accompanied by class sponsors Richard Wheeler, principal, and Katherine Robbins.

Also returning Friday after a 10-day trip including Washington, D.C., Niagara Falls, New York City, are the 27 seniors of the Brandon Township School in Ortonville.

Accompanying them were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sayre, Gerald Irish, Duane Johnson and Shirley Jacobsen.

Kingsbury Set to Remain Open, Parents Learn

METAMORA — Parents of children attending the Kingsbury School have learned that the school will continue next year along the same lines as it has followed since it was started two years ago.

This private school was founded by the late Carlton M. Hogbie and Mrs. Higbie. Higbie's death last spring caused people to wonder if the school would continue. Mrs. Higbie has stated that it will. Gifts of the Higbie family have paid for about half the cost of running the school. Tuition from 29 students has paid the balance.

County Calendar

Clifford

The Clifford WSCS of the Methodist Church will meet at 2 p.m. Thursday at the church to drive to the home of Mrs. Charles McIntyre in Marlette for a meeting.

Marlette

The Mother and Daughter banquet of the WSCS of the Methodist Church will be held Thursday evening at the church.

Metamora

The Metamora Farm Bureau Group will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Best at 8 p.m. today.

Troy Township

The Pinochle Hot Shots will meet with Mrs. Lawrence Longcore, 3073 Talbot, at 8 p.m. Thursday.

THE REV. ROBERT HARRISON

New Oxford Pastor Takes Over Sunday

OXFORD—The Rev. Robert Harrison from Ludrow, Vt., will assume his duties as pastor of the Oxford Immanuel Congregational Church Sunday.

A graduate of Whittier College, Calif., and Union Theological Seminary, New York, he is married and the father of five children. He has served churches in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Vermont.

Mrs. Hurd Is Speaker

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP—Mrs. Bessie Hurd, state WCTU president, will be the guest speaker at the Waterford WCTU chapter meeting at 11 a.m. Thursday at the United Presbyterian Church, Drayton Plains.

Southfield Residents Seeking New Drain

Application was filed yesterday for a new drain in Southfield township, according to Ralph A. Main, Oakland county drain commissioner.

About three and a half miles of pipe, 10 feet in diameter, is proposed for construction along Eight Mile Rd. westward to the stream west of Lahser Rd., Main said.

After a petition is circulated and signed by two thirds of Southfield property owners traversed by the drain, a board of determination will ascertain if the drain is necessary.

Action for the drain was begun by Southfield citizens and businessmen, Main said.

Garden Club Group to Hold Bridge Party

ROCHESTER — The Civic Improvement Committee of the Rochester branch of the National Farm and Garden Assn. has planned a bridge party for 1 p.m. Thursday at the Wood Memorial Library.

Mrs. Charles Talley heads the committee. Proceeds will buy new gardening books for the library.

Sales on Street Get Regulations

Fireproof Construction Required in Business, Manufacturing Areas

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP—The township board has adopted several changes in the building code, tightening the law in the face of the further development of the rapidly growing township.

Included in the code now is a change requiring all persons dispensing wares from a tent, trailer, automobile or truck to locate at least 25 feet from the highway or road right of way.

Adequate parking for at least six vehicles, in addition to exits and entrances, must be provided, under provisions of this safety measure.

In another change, all buildings erected altered or repaired on land zoned for commercial or manufacturing development must be of masonry or other fireproof construction.

The exception is for buildings used as a single family detached dwelling.

Several recommendations made by the township zoning board were approved by the board of trustees, subject to the approval of the county coordinating zoning board.

The board was advised to change from agricultural to residential zoning the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 12. Also the southwest corner of Scott Lake Road and Pontiac Lake Rds., from residential to commerical.

The plat for the Lake Angelus Golfview Estates subdivision was approved, subject to the installation of a water system and blacktopped roads. The subdivision is to be north of Silver Lake Golf Course and borders on Wormer and Mohawk Lakes.

Memorial Clinic Officers Return for New Terms

WALLED LAKE—All directors of the Dr. O. R. MacKenzie Memorial Clinic have been re-elected at the second annual meeting.

Returned to office were Charles Riffenburg, Charles Rogers, Bertha Williams. Marion Murray was elected to fill the term of Jackie Murray who resigned.

Re-elected by the directors were Elmer Conrad, president; J. L. Taylor, vice president: Waldo Proctor, secretary; and Margaret Dennis, treasurer.

Although the clinic is expected to be completed early in the summer, plans are being made to have the formal dedication in September.

Circus Parade to Be Featured at Pack Meeting

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — A grand circus parade will highlight the 7 p.m. Thursday meeting of the Lambert Cub Scout Pack 30.

Included in the circus at the school will be a dog act, strong man, clowns, a tumbling show, and a freak show, containing a bearded lady, a snake charmer, a tattooed man and a rubber man.

Awards and advancement in ranks will also be made.

Lois K. Welberry Named to Year's Study in Japan

MILFORD — The Presbyterian Church of the United States has appointed Lois K. Welberry to spend her junior year of college at the International Christian University at Mitaka, near Tokyo, Japan.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Welberry, of 2000 Hill St., and a student at Alma College.

The purpose of the year's study abroad is to show the possibilities of a world community by realizing on a campus an international community that will be a laboratory in international culture and understanding, officials said.

Majoring in sociology and education, Miss Welberry was chairman of the Religion in Life Committee on her campus, and won recognition in the recent honors assembly there for outstanding work in the field of Christian education.

She will finance her transportation, tuition and fees. Credit for the work she does while at the University will be given her upon her return to Alma College for completion of her senior year.

LOIS K. WELBERRY

Church Guild Party Aids Building Fund

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — Members of the Immaculate Heart of Mary Guild of St. Patrick's parish held a dessert card party today at the parish hall. Mrs. August G. Hebel was general chairman for the party.

Proceeds from the affair will go into the building fund for the new addition to the parish house now under construction.

Tables Turned on Cheer-Ups

Letter From Mamie Rewards Club

By WILMA GREENWAY

ORCHARD LAKE — Ten warm-hearted girls who have spent the past six months working to bring cheer to handicapped children and shut-ins had real cause for elation today—they are celebrating the arrival of their own "letter of cheer," sent to them by no less a person than the First Lady of the land.

The group, called the Cheer-Ups, has been meeting weekly under the leadership of Mrs. Hector Van de Vyver, 3639 Commerce Rd., to make scrapbooks and gifts for shut-ins at Pontiac General Hospital.

Two weeks ago, Mrs. Van de Vyver's daughter, Joanne, 13, a member of the club, read that Mrs. Eisenhower was ill. Joanne sent her a scrapbook and pot-holder the group had made.

Monday a letter, written on White House stationery and signed "Mamie Dowd Eisenhower," arrived, commending the girls on their work and thanking them for the gifts.

"You certainly are thoughtful girls to spread such cheer among those who are ill," the letter read. ". . . It is friends such as you who have made me feel much, much better . . ."

The news of Mrs. Eisenhower's citation came as a big surprise to the girls, for Joanne had kept the fact that she had sent the gifts to Mamie as "top secret."

Mrs. Van de Vyver said she started the little club when she moved from Detroit last fall "to give my children companionship under my own supervision—and to help them and other girls to understand that you get out of life what you put into it."

Two of Mrs. Van de Vyver's six children are not club members—Ronald and Gerard, 7. But Patricia, 13, and Margaret, 11, are ardent Cheer-Ups, as well as Joanne and Joyce, 10.

The other six members are Shannon Donelly, 11, of 2410 Fordham; Rita Hahnefeld, 12, of 2163 Erie Dr.; Jacqueline Logie, 11, and Janice Logie, 12, of 3187 Orchard Lake Rd.; Shirley Proulx, 12, of 7581 Honeysuckle; and Nancy Rabaut, 12, of 2274 Honeysuckle.

All the girls are students at Our Lady of Refuge Catholic School.

The group meets every Tuesday after school to make its "Cheer-Up" gifts. Last Christmas the girls made 14 books for hospitalized children and at Easter they made special baskets. They plan to continue the work on a big scale this summer.

Meanwhile Mrs. Van de Vyver was trying to arrange to have photostatic copies of the First Lady's letter, so that each girl might have her own.

Proxies to Decide Fate of Reo Holding

LANSING (AP)—Proxy counters will report Friday morning on the fight to gain control of Reo Holding Corp., formed to liquidate Reo Motors, Inc., of Lansing.

The struggle is between directors of Reo Holding, who promised to liquidate assets by Dec. 15, and Telautograph, Inc., of New York, which seeks to continue the corporation for the purpose of carrying on nuclear research.

Telautograph claimed at a meeting of stockholders Tuesday to have control of 323,000 of the 547,000 shares of Reo Holding stock.

CHALLENGE CLAIM

Reo Holding officials challenged the claim and the proxy count was agreed upon. Percy Willette of New York City, representing Telautograph, and Donald R. Flintermann of Detroit, representing Reo Holding, were named to check on the proxy votes.

Reo Holding was formed to distribute $16,500,000 paid by Bohn Aluminum and Brass Corp. for the truck firm. One liquidation payment of $20 per share has been made and another was planned before Dec. 15.

Ambulances on the Way Before 2 Trains Collide

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UP) — Ambulances with sirens open sped toward the scene of a train crash yesterday, minutes before the accident happened.

Station misters at two stations about 50 miles from here realized they had sent two freight trains heading toward each other on the same track but were powerless to stop them.

So they called for ambulances and awaited the crash.

One man was hospitalized with minor head injuries but everyone else jumped clear before the head-on crash which telescoped several freight cars.

12-Year-Old Boy's Intelligence Too High to Be Scored

CLEVELAND (AP)—The parents of 12-year-old John Francis Schivell have a problem. Psychologists told them their son's level of intelligence is so high it can't be measured by standardized tests and most public schools are inadequate for his intellectual gifts.

A strapping 150-pounder who stands 5 feet 6, John is wrapped up in physics and mathematics and says he wants to become a "research scientist."

* * *

He is a freckle-faced bespectacled eighth-grader at suburban Maple Heights High School, where he gets straight A's.

Two years ago, during routine testing by Kent State University psychologists, testers said John "broke through the top of the Stanford-Binet intelligence test."

* * *

In tests by the department of psychology of Western Reserve University, John attained a perfect score in such areas as language development memory, ability to compare and contrast ideas and concepts and recognition of words, according to Dr. Corinne F. Baker, assistant clinical professor there.

* * *

The boy spends his spare time reading technical publications, studying foreign languages, and is currently absorbed in a biography of the late Albert Einstein.

Dr. Baker said:

"It is easily seen that John is out of place among boys of his own age. He has adult reading habits and is bored with school, because there is insufficient challenge."

Dr. Baker said John recorded the highest possible score of 190 in a series of IQ tests in which average children register in a range from 85 to 114.

* * *

John's father, a layout inspector in a factory, applied for a scholarship for the boy at a private academy, but says he cannot afford the $800 yearly cost for the boy's room, board and books.

Organist's Music 'Sends' Woman —Right to Court

CHICAGO (AP) — A 35-year-old woman told Circuit Judge Carnelius Harrington yesterday that she traveled 20 miles to attend church because Robert Metzler's organ music "sends me."

"I am not interested in Mr. Metzler," Miss Harriet Davis said. "I'm interested in his music. It sends me. There's something about it different from the music in any other church."

* * *

Metzler, 50, is organist in a church in suburban Glencoe. He formerly was organist at a Northwest Side church but he said he left that job to escape the attentions of Miss Davis and her mother, Belle, 55.

Last February after Metzler saw them at the Glencoe church, he obtained an injunction against them. At that time he said the two women had maneuvered their car to block off his car as he was leaving the church.

* * *

They were in court yesterday to have the injunction set aside. Judge Harrington refused and said: "If you attend this Glencoe church, I will interpret it as an attempt to annoy Mr. Metzler, and I will hold you in contempt of court."

2 Schools Planning Kindergarten Days

Kindergarten registration and open house have been scheduled by the Waterford Village School and the North Branch School.

Hours of 9 to 11:45 a.m. and from 1-3:45 p.m. have been set for Friday's open house at the Waterford Village School.

Birth certificates must be presented establishing that the child will be five years old on or before Dec. 1, 1955.

In North Branch, children from the rural areas will be registered Thursday, and those from the village on Friday. Hours are 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. both days.

Parents have been requested to bring a list of the immunizations and diseases each child has had.

Army Displays Nike Defenses

Seeking to Reassure Communities Nervous About Ack-Ack Sites

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army, embarked on a billion-dollar program of building Nike sites, is seeking to reassure communities nervous over close-by installation of the deadly antiaircraft missiles.

Partly for this purpose, the Army yesterday took newsmen to a new Nike site at Lorton, Va., part of the antiaircraft defenses of the capital, about 16 miles to the north.

* * *

Maj. Gen. Gilman C. Mudgett, chief of Army information, told the newsmen the Nike "is being literally installed in the back yards of householders all over the nation."

And Brig. Gen. R. R. Hendrix, commander of the Washington-Baltimore Nike defense area, said this "has touched off some knotty problems."

* * *

"As you may know," he said, "Army engineers have met with some strong resistance during the process of acquiring real estate for Nike sites. Some local communities have not been at all in sympathy with our program, particularly in land matters or in the stationing of troops in residential areas."

Hendrix contended a Nike site "is not dangerous, but as safe as a gas station; as important to security and as much a part of the local community as the police and fire departments."

* * *

Army spokesmen said land and construction for a Nike site costs, on an average, about one million dollars. The weapons themselves cost between $20,000 and $25,000 each. Army officials estimate the entire program will take several years to complete and will cost upwards of one billion dollars.

The Lorton site is an underground installation which, when completed, will have 12 launchers and 24-foot-deep concrete caverns to house the missiles.

* * *

In a "dry-run" demonstration, newsmen saw the white, pencil-shaped Nikes (each weighs a ton, is 20 feet long and one foot thick) whisked up from underground, shoved onto launching racks and pointed skyward, ready for firing.

The general said the Nike "is capable of outmaneuvering and destroying any type aircraft presently known and foreseeable for the immediate future."

Asks Senate Probe of Red Air Power

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Russell (D-Ga) says he will ask an armed services watchdog subcommittee to investigate reports that new Russian jet bombers and missiles threaten U. S. air supremacy.

Sen. Symington (D-Mo), former secretary of the Air Force, demanded such an inquiry in the Senate yesterday, saying events have shown Secretary of Defense Wilson "was dead wrong" in earlier estimates of Soviet air power "and ability to produce modern arms."

* * *

Symington said a Pentagon statement that the Communists now have flights of long-range jet bombers, able to deliver nuclear attacks, may mean that this country and its allies "may have lost control of the air."

Rusell, chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said last night the inquiry Symington urged was the type planned for a preparedness subcommittee headed by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the majority leader.

Hit New Low Price in Wholesale Food

NEW YORK (UP)—Wholesale food prices as measured by the Dun & Bradstreet index this week touched a new low since April, 1953.

The index stood at $6.37 compared with $6.39 a week ago and $7.39 in the same week a year ago. On April 14, 1953, the figure was $6.35.

Lower this week were flour, wheat, corn, beef, lard, coffee, tea and hogs. Higher were rye, barley, ham, sugar, cottonseed oil and steers.

All Work, No Play

NEW YORK (UP)—Wall street financiers won't have to worry any more about missing the latest market information while taking their coffee break. Chock Full o' Nuts, a restaurant chain, said its new cafe opening today in the financial district would feature a stock ticker to keep bankers and brokers informed.

Dutch Cabinet Quits Over Rent

Queen Juliana Hunts for Leader to Establish New Government

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP)—The first Dutch government crisis in nearly three years sent Queen Juliana searching today for a political leader to form a new cabinet.

Premier Willem Drees submitted his coalition Cabinet's resignation last night after losing a vote of confidence in Parliament's lower chamber 50-48. The vote came on a government bill to raise rent ceilings 10 per cent on about one third of Holland's rented homes.

* * *

Because the rent issue is a major point of controversy between the country's two major parties, the Catholics and Drees' Laborites, political circles predicted a long crisis. Each party has 30 of the 100 seats in the second chamber.

The Laborites deserted Drees to vote solidly against the rent bill. They said they would agree to it only if wages were raised simultaneously.

Until a new government is formed, Socialist Drees' Cabinet will continue in office as caretakers.
