Launch Another MSUO Building

STUDENT CENTER GOING UP—Ground-breaking ceremonies for Michigan State University Oakland's Student Center were held this morning. Digging the first earth aside are Delos Hamlin (left), chairman of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors, and MSUO Chancellor D. B. Varner. On the left of the shovelers is Roy Alexander, director of student services. Also watching are Harold A. Fitzgerald, Pontiac Press publisher, and Alfred C. Girard (far right), president of the Community National Bank. In the background is MSUO's first academic building.

U.S. 24-Maple State's Worst

Intersection Listed as Most Hazardous Trunkline System

The Bloomfield Township intersection of Telegraph (U.S. 24) and 15 Mile roads (W. Maple) was cited today by the Michigan State Highway Dept. as the most hazardous traffic location on Michigan's trunkline system for 1958.

The department reports 27 persons were injured in 41 accidents at the intersection last year.

Cpl. Peter Waisanen of the Pontiac State Police Post said that a high rate of speed at the intersection due to the fact that both roads are straight there could be a major factor in the spot being the No. 1 danger corner in the state.

He added that a survey of the intersection would probably be made by the state.

Then representatives from the Traffic and Safety Division of the State Police, the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, and the township police would meet with Robert Osgood, Oakland County safety engineer, to make recommendations to curb the danger and increase safety at the intersection.

Waisanen added a possible recommendation could be to limit left turns at the busy intersection.

Oakland County Sheriff Frank W. Irons said he was surprised to hear U.S. 24 and 15 Mile road had the largest number of accidents in the state.

He said the State Police, Bloomfield Township police and his department patrol the area. Intersections in Macomb, Kent, Bay, Wayne, Livingston and Cass counties were listed among the top ten danger spots in the state.

Ten Against One

NEW YORK (AP)—A totally disabled veteran was robbed, stabbed, and beaten to death by a band of about 10 young hoodlums on a Brooklyn street Wednesday night. The killers cut the pockets out of his jacket and pants, then ran away. The victim, Jesse Cross, 24, was in an advanced stage of tuberculosis.

For $700,000 Student Center Break Ground at MSUO Today

Ground-breaking ceremonies for a $700,000 Student Center were held this morning on the campus of Michigan State University Oakland.

Participating in the ceremonies were MSUO Chancellor D. B. Varner, Roy J. Alexander, director of student services, Delos Hamlin, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors, Alfred C. Girard, president of the Community National Bank, and Harold A. Fitzgerald, publisher of The Pontiac Press.

The Student Center will be one story high, adjacent to the first academic structure which now is nearly finished.

Designed to be a "home away from home" for MSUO students, the center is scheduled for completion in September when the first freshman class will take over the campus, according to Alexander.

OF FUNCTIONAL DESIGN

The functional building will be of contemporary American design, with a minimum of decoration, and will be located to the east of the main academic building. The approach to the center will be an artistic covered walkway; many such walkways are planned throughout the campus.

Architectural plans for the center specify ample eating facilities, including dining rooms, cafeteria and snack bar, spacious lounges, student activity areas and office space.

A 40 by 70 foot basement recreation area will provide accommodations for ping pong, square dancing and similar activities.

This building will be the headquarters for student publications, dramatics, club groups, student body meetings and many other extra-curricular activities.

Here is where the first freshman class will probably make decisions on school colors, student policies and other important milestones in the growth of the first area university.

Hamlin has announced that a considerable part of the $700,000 cost would be contributed by Oakland County.

Frank Lloyd Wright Dies at 89 in Arizona Hospital

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—World-famed architect Frank Lloyd Wright, 89, founder of the modern school of building craftsmanship and storm center of artistic controversy most of his life, died today in St. Joseph's Hospital.

The "rebellious old gentleman," as friends referred to him in his later years, succumbed following an emergency operation Monday for treatment of an intestinal tract obstruction.

He had responded well to the surgery, his doctor said, but apparently his age made recovery impossible.

Critics often disputed whether Wright was the greatest American architect of the 20th Century but all agreed he certainly was the most famous for his individualistic style—a blending of precision machine-age lines with nature's living forms in stone, steel, wood or glass.

Wright maintained a home and school called Taliesin West on the desert near here, although he never lived there.

Committee Minority Favors Sales Tax Increase

Editor Sees Struggle Over Graduated Income Tax

"Michigan will see a titanic struggle over the Governor's graduated income tax," declared E. C. Hayhow to Pontiac Rotarians today. "This graduated feature is the basis of Williams' proposal and that of the majority of the special committee he named."

Speaking for the committee minority, Hayhow proposes a sales tax which he asserts is favored by the taxpayers themselves and which is more economical to administer.

Formerly City Editor of The Pontiac Press and now Publisher of The Hillsdale Daily News, Hayhow declares that "unless a miracle occurs, the will of the majority of the citizens will be thwarted. I am absolutely convinced our people prefer a one cent sales tax," he said.

"It seems certain that the 'entire majority package' and Gov. Williams' program will be introduced in the Legislature. It seems equally certain that many of the minor recommendations of the majority will be lost in the shuffle."

"A sales tax does have many advantages."

"As far as the people are concerned, it is much less painful. They pay it a few pennies at a time and have no forms to fill out or file at the end of the year."

"From an administrative standpoint, the collection machinery exists whereas an entire new bureau costing several million dollars a year would be necessary to administer and collect an income tax. Moreover, revenue from a sales tax increase would be immediately available. But a constitutional amendment is required to increase the sales tax and Gov. Williams has put his foot down. He has passed the word that there will be no sales tax increase, and the Democrats in the Legislature are well disciplined. They are doing as they are told."

"The state is on the verge of bankruptcy. By the end of the fiscal year, June 30, it will have a deficit some people are now estimating as high as $130 million.

"We would have seen payless paydays before this had not business and industry, the special targets of the governor throughout his tenure, proved their good citizenship by pre-paying their taxes."

"There is only one available source of ready cash... the Veterans' Trust Fund. It seems likely that in the end this fund will be used... under proper safeguards to guarantee it will be restored... to bail the state out a second time."

"But the campaign of calumny that is being waged against Michigan from one end of the nation to the other is another matter. It could have more lasting results. Newspapers from New York to California and from Canada to the Gulf have been saying nasty things about us... slandering us as we haven't been slandered in 175 years."

"I have at least a dozen editorials, sent me by well-meaning friends, from all parts of the country gleefully proclaiming the fall of the Williams-Reuther 'Welfare State,' joyfully heralding the news of our financial distress, happily reporting that we are losing industry, and generally suggesting that Michigan is no fit place to live."

"But I point out to you with all the emphasis at my command that, despite its present condition, Michigan is a grand and glorious state, a dynamic and mighty state well worth saving, and that you and I who live here and love Michigan and have confidence in her future had better begin building some backfires against the evil things being said about her."

"We must fund our deficit over a period of years, using the Veterans' Trust Fund and raising the constitutional debt limitation above its present ridiculous level of $250,000. Next should be the most sweeping, searching, comprehensive, all-inclusive study of services, and expenditures ever undertaken by any state."

"How do we know the services now provided by the state are desirable or necessary? Because we have been told so by persons who tend to benefit from them."

"How do we know the bill for running Michigan each year is a valid one... rock bottom... wrong free of water? We don't know. We can't know."

"There has been much too much talk in defense of more"

Jukebox Chief Takes Stand in Probe of Detroit Mafia

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Rackets Committee canceled today's scheduled hearings on gangster influence in the jukebox business in Detroit, because only one committee member was present. Committee rules require the presence of at least two members before testimony may be taken in a public hearing.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Labor-Management committee hears today the experiences of a big Detroit and Ohio jukebox distributing firm against which Detroit gangsters allegedly waged bitter warfare.

The committee called as a witness the firm's president, Joseph Nemesh. His company, known as Music Systems, Inc., has offices in Cleveland and Detroit.

In two days of hearings on jukebox racketeering in Detroit, the committee has received testimony that Mafia mobsters in that city formed alliances with some labor union officials, and muscled in on the lucrative jukebox business.

Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, said he planned to quiz several business agents of whose international president, James R. Hoffa, has been named in testimony as receiving payoffs in connection with the jukebox war.

Kennedy said they will include Lawrence Welsh, of Teamsters Jukebox Local 985, and Morris Coleman and Cecil Watts, of Local 337 which is headed by Hoffa's top Detroit aide, Bert Brennan. Brennan also has been named in the hearings as a receiver of payoffs.

MAFIA MAN NAMED

The committee Wednesday heard testimony that William Bufalino quit a jukebox business partnership with an alleged Mafia mobster and narcotics trafficker to become head of Local 985. The man was named as John (Poppa John) Prizola.

A parade of coin machine operators and others swore they experienced violence and other intimidation after clashes with Bufalino or others in his union.

Eugene Jimmy James, former president of Local 985, refused to answer questions about his role in Detroit jukebox rackets.

After leaving the jukebox Local, James became a power in the Laundry Workers Union in Chicago, and an international vice president of the union.

His lawyer, Richard Gorman of Chicago, testified that James is facing trial now on charges of defrauding the government of $562,000 of income taxes.

There won't be many fans—if any—in shirt sleeves at tomorrow's Major League baseball opening game at Briggs Stadium in Detroit.

The weatherman has forecast cool temperatures the next few days for the Pontiac and Detroit areas.

Tonight's low will be a near-freezing 32 degrees, with tomorrow's high about 45. It will be partly cloudy.

Winds will be northerly at 15-20 miles an hour tonight and tomorrow. Saturday's forecast is partly cloudy and continued rather cool.

Thirty-six was the lowest temperature recorded in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The mercury stood at 44 at 1 p.m.

Shot in Head Simple Robbery

PARVIN LASSITER

Believed Motive in Dealer Death

But Still Hunt New Links to Frank Kierdorf Human Torch Case

By PETE LOCHBILER AND GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

Police today sought a mystery man and new links between the slaying of Royal Oak car dealer Parvin (Bill) Lassiter and the Frank Kierdorf torch case.

Evidence shows, however, that the slaying probably stemmed from simple robbery, said Lt. Howard Whaley of the Detroit State Police Post.

Lassiter, 38, of 19300 Beverly Rd., Beverly Hills, was the man who last summer bought the black Teamster Cadillac which Herman Kierdorf sold to finance his 13-day disappearance.

No other tie-in with the Kierdorf case has turned up so far, said Whaley, one of the Kierdorf investigators.

Sought is a middle-aged medium-built man "with grimy hands and a dirty face" who showed up at Willow Run Airport Monday night to have Lassiter paged when the dealer returned from a trip in the West.

The man is suspected of shooting Lassiter to death later that night on the deserted grounds of a small estate seven miles east of the airport.

Lassiter may have been carrying $5,000.

Whaley said the dead man's friends and business associates will be questioned today in an effort to find leads pointing to another motive besides robbery.

The mystery man had large scars on the back of his neck and his hair surrounding the wounds was shaved off, according to the only person whom police have found so far that spotted him. Eugene Reichenberger, a TWA ticket agent at the Willow Run terminal, told of the unusual way in which Lassiter apparently met his killer.

APPROACHED DESK

He said the stranger approached the TWA desk Monday night, shortly after the 10:15 arrival of Flight 340 from St. Louis, which Lassiter was on.

The man, drably dressed and with grimy-encrusted fingernails, asked that "a Mr. Schroeder from Albuquerque" be paged over the airport's public address system, Reichenberger said.

Stab Slaying Admitted by Boy

Kills Dearborn Township 12-Year-Old Neighbor in Latter's Garage

DETROIT (AP)—Jeffrey Paxton, 12, was found dead today in a garage in the rear of his home in Dearborn Township. He bled to death from stab wounds. The boy had been missing since late yesterday.

Police quoted a 12-year-old neighbor boy as admitting the killing.

Jeffrey was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Paxton. The father, who is a public relations official for the H. F. Campbell Construction Co., was on his way home today from a business trip to Washington and had not been told of the tragedy.

A search by 100 police and volunteers got under way last night after the mother reported the boy was missing.

Mrs. Barry said she returned home for a shopping trip at 5:30 p.m. and learned from her son, Barry, 11, that Jeffrey came home from junior high school at 4 p.m.

Jeffrey then went to the garage to fix his bike, leaving an hour later to buy some paint, Barry told his mother.

Mrs. Paxton said at first she thought the boy might have gone to the home of friends but when he failed to return by 10 p.m. she became alarmed and notified the sheriff's office.

Eastman Calls for Unity Between Police Factions

By MAX E. SIMON.

To warring factions in the Pontiac Police Department, Public Safety Director George D. Eastman offered the pipe of peace yesterday.

Addressing the entire police force for the first time since Herbert W. Straley's discharge as chief, Eastman pleaded for harmony in police ranks.

Not mentioning Straley by name, Eastman said, "I believe the end of the time has come when we can't work together."

Straley was fired Saturday by the Civil Service Commission. He was a source of friction between two employe organizations. The Pontiac Police Officers Assn. (PPOA) had fought Straley's termination for two years, twice petitioning for his ouster.

The Fraternal Order of Police had consistently denied any alignment behind the former chief. An overwhelming majority of its members, however, were openly sympathetic toward Straley and foes of the association.

"That controversy is a part of history. Let's forget it and be friends," Eastman said.

Eastman told the officers he has never taken sides in departmental feuding and does not intend to.

"I shall not dictate to either organization nor shall I force any relationship upon you," Eastman said.

"You should be able to work out your problems."

The continued existence of both groups would present no particular problem to him, the safety director said.

To police officers who testified as defense witnesses for Straley, Eastman said:

"There will be no reprisals or prejudice toward anyone who took the stand."

Up to 20 Inches of Snow Buries Colorado Area

By The Associated Press

Two days of continuous snowfall buried the Colorado Rockies and choked mountain highways today.

The spring storm dumped two feet of snow on 10,850-foot Wolf Creek pass in southwest Colorado. The city of Leadville, two miles high in the central Colorado Rockies, had 20 inches of snow.

Just east of the mountains, Denver had 12 inches. The fall diminished to the south and east of the Colorado capital. The belt of moisture extended as far east as Sidney, Neb.

An Air Force Constellation bringing Jordan's King Hussein I to Colorado Springs, Colo., was diverted Wednesday night to Albuquerque, N.M., because of storm conditions at the resort city.

Russell is on a cross-country tour of U.S. military installations and scenic spots.

The Weather Bureau said the snow barrage was produced by a low pressure area centered over the four corners, where Arizona, Utah, Colorado and New Mexico meet.

Cold northerly air meshed with moisture-laden air from the Gulf of Mexico to spawn the heavy white carpet across the bony ridge of the Continental Divide.

The heavy cloud cover buoyed temperatures in the storm area and caused much of the snow to melt rapidly on the plains. The maximum reading at Laramie, Wyo., was 25 degrees, the nation's lowest. It reached 30 at Denver and 31 at Cheyenne. Nighttime temperatures dipped generally into the 20s.

Eastman said he is not in favor of appointing a new chief for some time, perhaps for as long as a year.

"There is no need for both a safety director and a chief," Eastman said. Eastman has said he doesn't plan to stay on as director after his two-year contract expires.

He emphasized, however, that the decision on hiring a chief would have to come from City Manager Walter K. Willman. Willman is on vacation.

The safety director also disclosed plans for creation of a "Board of Inquiry and Recommendation" to handle disciplinary matters in the department.

Under Eastman's proposed set-up, the Board would be composed of up to six officers. It would make recommendations to Eastman, and could call for penalties as severe as discharges.

"If the officers felt the penalties too severe, they could then appeal the decision to the Police Trial Board," Eastman explained.

The safety director said he would not be bound to accept the recommendations of the Board.

He said that such a disciplinary group had been established while he was Seattle police chief and worked well.

Child Clinic Hosting 17 Michigan Groups

The Oakland Child Guidance Clinic will host today and tomorrow to the 17 similar clinics of the Michigan Assn. of Child Guidance Clinics.

The spring workshop is being conducted at All Saints Episcopal Church, 171 W. Pike St. Following registration and coffee this morning, election of officers took place.

Dr. William H. Kelly, assistant director of the Michigan State Dept. of Mental Health reported on the department's activities and Ralph E. Walton, clinic administrator for the State, discussed the Community Services Act.

A panel discussion on the child guidance clinic role in the community and what it should be was to be conducted at 2 p.m.

Panel members were Dr. Norman Westlund, director of the Saginaw Valley Child Guidance Clinic; Michale C. Krieder, executive director of the Michigan Assn. for Retarded Children; Arnold Williams, representative of the Michigan Assn. for Emotionally Disturbed Children; Robert Rosema, executive secretary of the Michigan Children's Institute and Warren H. Stromberg, Detroit Free Press staff writer.

The group attending the clinic will also tour the Oakland Child Guidance Clinic at 113 Franklin Blvd. this afternoon.

Tomorrow, reports on the various phases and work of the clinics will be followed by another panel discussion on the clinic's role in the community.

Panel members will be Dr. Douglas Sargent, director of Wayne County Clinic for Child Study; Maynard Allyn, supervisor of the Legislative Action Expected

State Building Projects Piling Up Unpaid Bills

LANSING (AP)—Several state building projects are hurting badly because the Legislature has failed to provide money to pay the bills, lawmakers were told today.

James W. Miller, state controller, sent what amounted to a dunning letter to the Senate Appropriations and House Ways and Means Committees.

Miller said the state is behind on its bills because no deficiency appropriations have been made for such projects as the Kalamazoo State Hospital power plant improvement, the Boys Vocational School building program at Whitmore Lake, the Mental Health Building program at Plymouth and the Mental Health Research Building project at the University of Michigan.

Miller said he had stretched every available dollar to keep the projects going.

"In the case of the Boys Vocational School project," he noted, "there is a real possibility we will lose one of the most favorable contracts we have been able to get in recent years unless there is immediate action."

Sen. Elmer R. Porter (R-Blissfield), Appropriations Committee chairman, said the items would be studied and probably would be added to a deficiency appropriations bill ready for introduction today.

The original package will include $1,500,000 for veterans' home-student exemptions, $1,000,000 for crippled and afflicted children and $79,500 for tuberculosis grants.

He said that vice enforcement in the city has only begun. "There will be no sporadic drives and no special attention paid to any particular district," Eastman declared. "It will be a continuous program of vice suppression."

The safety director lashed at the Pontiac Police Reserves for what he termed "unethical practices."

One of these practices, he said, was the passing of petitions demanding Straley's reinstatement while the Civil Service Commission was considering ouster charges against the former chief.

"I do not approve of police regulars or any adjuncts of the department playing politics when the city has determined a course of action," Eastman said.

Among future plans, said the directors will be the implementation of permanent shifts for officers. The departments now rotates three platoons monthly.

Police officers nominated 10 citizens they favored for appointment to the Police Trial Board, and were balloting today to select two names which will be presented to the City Commission for its consideration.

One of the nominees was Theodore Carlson, former member of the Civil Service Commission, in the City Commission chambers.

Former City Broker, Harry Protiva, Dies

Harry Protiva, a former Pontiac investment broker, died unexpectedly of a heart attack Tuesday in a West Palm Beach Fla. hospital while on a business trip.

Mr. Protiva had made his home in Dunedin, Fla.

A retired broker, he was a member of the Vogel-Donald Lee American Legion Post 47 of Lake Worth, Fla., and BPOE Lodge 1618 of Hendersonville, N. C.

Mr. Protiva leaves his wife, the former Eula C. Parmenter of Pontiac, whom he married here in 1924; two daughters, Mrs. Phyllis Petrick of Egin Air Force Base, Fla., and Mrs. Marjorie Collar of Tallahassee, Fla.; a brother, Arch. of Lake Worth; and six grandchildren.

Service will be held at 3 p.m. Friday at the Barton Memorial Chapel in Lake Worth. Cremation will follow.

Take Tires, Wheels Off New Trailers

Five tires and wheels valued at more than $300 was stolen last night from new trailers owned by the Pontiac Coach Co. in Drayton Township police.

Factory manager John Heck of Clarkston discovered the theft this morning and reported to police who are investigating.

Another car was stripped of two wheels and tires last night when it was parked behind the Airport Inn at Airport road and M59. Owner of the car, Mrs. George Auth of 6005 Airport Rd., reported the theft last night.

Flint Musician Held for Murder Trial

FLINT (AP)—Musician James R. Seeley is being held for trial for first-degree murder in the hatchet-slaying of his wife and drowning of two daughters.

Seeley, French horn player of the Flint Symphony Orchestra and part-time school music teacher, was ordered held to circuit court for trial by Municipal Judge Raymond C. French yesterday.

The examination before Judge French lasted for an hour. Seeley sat with his head down much of the time.

Mrs. Seeley and the two girls, Carol, 4, and Connie, 6 months, were slain at the Seeley home March 15. Police said Seeley admitted the slayings, blaming them on an "urge to kill." Two other daughters were unharmed.

Sunday Liquor Sale Proposed

Detroit Legislator Also Asks That Bars Remain Open Until 4 A.M.

LANSING (AP)—Sunday sale of liquor was proposed today by a Detroit legislator.

Rep. E. A. Fitzpatrick (D-Detroit) also proposed to "take Michigan out of the bush league" by allowing metropolitan area bars and night clubs offering entertainment to stay open till 4 a.m.

His bill, filed for introduction, would permit liquor sales after 2 p.m. on Sundays. Only beer and wine may presently be sold.

"I can't see the significance of preferred treatment for beer and wine drinkers," said Fitzpatrick. "A fellow can get just as drunk as he wants on either one."

Licenses extending the statewide 2 a.m. closing for liquor-by-the-glass establishments to 4 a.m. would be issued only in cities with more than 150,000 population. Only those offering entertainment would be considered.

"The special license would be granted only under strictest conditions and with consent of local governing bodies," Fitzpatrick said. "Licensees would be very carefully policed."

The 2 a.m. curfew, he said, helps discourage conventions and tourist trade in Michigan's larger cities.

$700 Men's Club Donation Used for 'Y' Game Area

BIRMINGHAM (AP)—A $700 donation from the Birmingham YMCA Men's Club has been used to finish and equip the recreation room of the new "Y" building on E. Lincoln avenue.

Director Olin Manchester said the floor tiling has been completed with a shuffleboard court included in the surface. A four by seven-foot pool table also has been installed, he said.

Manchester also announced that Dale Porter, Birmingham High School junior, will start his second year as archery instructor Saturday.

One-hour classes are set for 9, 10 and 11 a.m. Saturdays. The fee is waived for boys and girls furnishing their own bows and arrows. Camping periods for Clear Lake near Dowling will begin June 21, July 5, July 19 and Aug. 2. Girls from 8 to 13 years of age are eligible for the two-week trips.

The monthly family night program is scheduled for tomorrow night. A potluck dinner at 6:30 p.m., games and swimming are on the program at the "Y" building.

Manchester reports these programs are gaining in popularity, and since only 15 families can be accommodated, he urges early registration for the May family night.

Mrs. Kathryn T. Loomis, Board of Education president, has scheduled a special meeting for 8 p.m. tonight at Hill School.

The board will discuss the problem of its participation in the cost of paving Purdy street.

Building permits issued by Andrew F. Butt, city building inspector, for March totaled $217,886. This includes five new family residences and one new industrial building.

Baldwin Public Library has announced special displays and programs beginning Monday for the observance of National Library week.

Pictures of library activities and special book displays will be featured.

LANSING (AP)—Legislation to extend emergency jobless pay benefits until July 1 was tied up today in a Senate-House conference committee.

In dispute was not extension of self but whether the bill, as passed by the Senate, should be a vehicle for a dozen other changes in the state Employment Security Act.

While the conference committee tumbled for a compromise, about 28,000 persons who otherwise would be eligible for continued benefit checks went without them.

India Opposition Seek Mystery Man in Car Dealer Slaying

Demands to Parliament Call for Strengthening Military Forces

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Indian opposition to the Chinese Communist campaign in Tibet increased today and there were demands in Parliament that India's military forces be strengthened to meet any Communist threat to India.

Tibetan patriots set up a provisional government outside Lhasa to oppose the Chinese Communist puppet regime headed by the Panchen Lama, and fierce fighting was reported raging at the top of the world with both sides pledged to "liberate" Tibet.

The Indian government's all-India radio increased the volume of its broadcasts to tell the Tibetans their Dalai Lama was safe in India and to broadcast detailed speeches on the Tibetan situation by Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, Peking radio stepped up its broadcasts earlier.

All political parties in India except the Communists denounced the Chinese Communist suppression in Tibet as a "blood bath," a "second Hungary" and an example of "Chinese imperialism."

Many members of Parliament saw the action in Tibet as a threat to India and to the two Indian protectorates of Sikkim and Bhutan and the independent kingdom of Nepal, which serve as buffer states between India and Tibet.

There were demands that Nehru should have more vigilance on India's 1,200-mile Himalayan border and increase border troops.

Frank Lloyd Wright Succumbs in Arizona

Wright spent his summers in Wisconsin where he built a spacious, low, native-stone, rambling house also named Taliesin—Welsh for "radiant brow"—at Spring Green during his mid-years.

He is survived by his widow, a noted architect son, Frank Lloyd Wright Jr., and a motion picture actress-granddaughter, Anne Baxter, as well as numerous children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

His doctor said Wright died at 6:45 a.m. EST of "complications resulting from the operation."

He entered the hospital last Saturday.

LIFE WAS BATTLE

Both artistically and personally, Wright's life was a battle with the contemporary schools of thought.

And he captured acclaim abroad long before his own country recognized him as a "titanic force" in building design through the American Institute of Architects.

Some regarded him as a master-builder, a genius with boundless ability.

Others believed him to be theatrical, denouncing his style as uncouth and inhuman and without any sympathetic alliance with true culture.

But gradually he won acceptance of such "Wrightisms" as windowless bathrooms and kitchens, heating through the floor and abandonment of unnecessary curves and superficial ornament.

George Schweigert, a factory worker who lives at 42961 Willow Run Expressway, said he was home Monday night but heard nothing suspicious. Schweigert's home lies nearest to the death scene, about 400 yards away.

The ditch lies next to an S-curve in the long dirt drive leading to the Campbell's $75,000 ranch house on Lake Edison. Campbell is president of Campbell Construction Co., Detroit.

The body lay about 500 yards from the Campbell home and 600 yards from the expressway, next to a large cornfield.

Campbell and his wife have been in Washington, D.C., since Saturday, spotted the body as he drove into the Campbell estate, delivering Campbell's Lincoln Continental there.

An employee, Raymond Borrusch, 42, of 8041 Evergreen, Detroit, spotted the body as he drove into the Campbell estate, delivering Campbell's Lincoln Continental there.

Armed with photographs of the dead man, State Police quizzed other terminal employees today in hopes of finding someone who saw Lassiter with the stranger. They also planned to talk with passengers and crew members of Flight 340.

The stranger was described as between 35 and 45 years of age, of slim build and about 5 feet 8. He wore work clothes, Reichenberger said—dirty wash pants, a maroon windbreaker jacket and old gray felt hat, streaked with dirt.

So far, Sieber said, no one has been found who saw the pair leave the terminal, nor has anyone been found who saw them enter a car outside.

Lassiter's body was found at 9:45 a.m. in a drainage ditch on the Van Buren Township estate of H. Frederick Campbell, on the Willow Run Expressway just east of Morton Taylor road.

The victim apparently had been dragged 30 feet down the embankment from an entrance drive, said Whaley. He was shot once under the right eye, the bullet passing out the back of his head.

Dr. Richard E. Olsen, St. Joseph Mercy Hospital pathologist who was summoned to make an autopsy, said Lassiter may have been shot while lying on his back.

He said there were bruises on the back of his head, indicating he might have been struck by a heavy instrument.

KILLED 'LATE MONDAY'

Olsen said Lassiter apparently was killed "late Monday night."

A full autopsy report is expected today, Whaley said.

Whaley said Lassiter's wallet and money folder were missing, although the dead man was still wearing a diamond ring and an expensive wrist watch. He was fully clothed.

The luggage—a weekend bag, a TWA handbag and a folding, canvas bag—was found by a passer-by late Monday night but not reported until yesterday afternoon, Whaley said.

Frank Harkai, of 400 Willis Rd., Sumpter Township, said he spotted the luggage in a field 20 feet off Willis road south of Clark road near his home. He notified TWA at the airport.

Whaley said the bags had been forced open and apparently were ransacked, although it was not determined immediately whether anything was missing.

Although there was only a small amount of blood found at the scene on the estate, Whaley believed Lassiter was shot to death there.

4th Bandstand Set at Guard Armory

Area teenagers will have the opportunity to join the Pontiac Bandstand Teenage Club tomorrow night when the fourth Pontiac Bandstand is held at the National Guard Armory, Mill and Water streets.

Johnny Ferro, director of the weekly dances, which are sponsored by the Federation of Teen Clubs, reports the youths will organize the club, elect officers and be given membership cards to be used as "regulars" of the bandstand. Dues will be 25 cents a month and each month a queen will be selected to reign over the following four weeks of dances.

The chaperoned dance is held from 7:30 to 11 p.m. and this week Pontiac recording stars, Nick and his Jaguars, a three-piece combo and The Ferros, who are four singers, will be the entertainment.

Titanic Income Tax Fight Foreseen by State Editor

spending and much too little talk of economy.

"Unfortunately, I see no real evidence of a desire for economy in the higher echelon of Lansing. In the face of a serious financial situation, the governor has proposed an increase of approximately $91 million in the state's budget. Nor is it unfair to point out that had his recommendations for the present fiscal year been followed, our deficit would be in the nature of $300 million and the tax problem much more complicated.

"The kind of a study I have in mind would require the wholehearted cooperation of the executive and legislative branches. It would have to be nonpartisan, conducted by experts, and privately financed.

"Taxes are only a part of the over-all struggle.

"On one side are the proponents of Big Government. Some call it Statism, some the Welfare State... some Socialism. This is the philosophy which believes the state should be... and should provide... all things for all people. This philosophy scoffs at deficits and inflation. Its battle cry is 'Spend, Spend, Spend.' It would tax the few and try to give the many a free ride.

"This is the philosophy which has guided our state administration for too many years. You can see where it has brought us.

"On the other side at Lansing is a group of determined men who believe that the philosophy which made this country great is still a good philosophy, who believe in personal freedom and personal responsibility, in the separation of powers, in private enterprise, and who, in the matter of taxes believe that every individual with an income should contribute in some measure in the costs of government, even as each shares in its benefits."

Recent surveys show that the average height of American boys under the age of 9 is a fraction of an inch more than it was 20 years ago. At the ages of 9 and over, the increase is an inch or more. Among girls, the difference is an inch as early as age 8.

Want Rochester School Tax Hike

ROCHESTER — The Board of Education of the Rochester Community School District has decided to request a two-mill operating tax increase from the voters at the June 8 annual election.

Henry L. Purdy, board president stated, "This increase is necessary in order to maintain the present instructional program and to meet increased costs created by additional students."

"It will also allow us to adjust the teachers' salary schedule by $100 in order to remain competitive with other districts," he added.

MRS. ROBERT L. BRADY

Deloris Gray, Robert Brady Join in Wedlock

ROCHESTER — Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Gray of 2780 Dearborn Rd. announce the recent marriage of their daughter, Deloris Myra, to Robert L. Brady, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Brady of 3063 Greenwood St., Auburn Heights.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Benjamin A. Bohn in the Crescent Hills Baptist Church parsonage. Mrs. Gerald Watros of Pontiac served as the bride's attendant and Gerald Watros was best man.

The newlyweds are residing in Pontiac.

Donald C. Baldwin, superintendent of schools, reported that 115 additional students would enter junior high next September. This will require three additional teachers for 100 more students, he said.

3 MORE TEACHERS
He further stated that one more elementary teacher will be required, and two supplementary teachers in the music field are necessary.

Approval of the extra two mills would make a total of seven above the allocated rate for school operation, school officials said.

"When Rochester first approved extra millage for schools, it was allocated 9.32 by the Oakland County Allocation Board," Baldwin reported.

"In 1958 this rate dropped to 8.03 and is expected to be lower in 1959," he added, stating that the lost millage has been absorbed by the county and township governments who have also been faced with mounting costs.

Baldwin emphasized that the result has been that school districts have not gained full benefits of increases in valuation.

The Board of Education has refused a proposal from the Rochester Education Assn. that the base teachers' salary be adjusted to $4,500 for a bachelor's degree and $4,800 for a master's degree because of an estimated deficit next year of $50,000, they said.

Board members added that if the millage passes, however, the present base of $4,300 will be adjusted to $4,400 and the master's degree base of $4,500 will be raised to $4,600.

A request from the custodial staff for a pay hike of $300 per man has also been denied, but a $100 increase will result if the millage proposal is approved, school officials said.

The board has directed Baldwin to prepare a plan for necessary cuts in case the voters turn down the millage request.

Purdy stated, "The people should understand what the results will be if they refuse the millage."

FREDELL LACK

Noted Violinist Slated Saturday

Fredell Lack to Play in Civic Music Concert at Rochester

ROCHESTER — The Rochester Civic Music Assn. will present Fredell Lack, talented Texas violinist, in a concert at 8:30 p.m. Saturday at Rochester Community High School.

Fredell Lack made her first concert appearance with the Tulsa Symphony at the age of 11 years. Since that time she has performed as soloist with symphony orchestras throughout the United States, Canada, Europe, Central America and Hawaii.

In private life, the violinist is the wife of a Houston physician and the mother of two small children.

Admission is by membership ticket only, and persons who are members of Civic Music Clubs in other areas may use their tickets at the Rochester concert.

Anyone wishing to join the Rochester Civic Music Assn. may attend this concert free and purchase a membership for the 1959-60 season at the door. Mrs. David Milne, publicity chairman, said today.

Oxford's Club to Host Michigan Music Brunch

OXFORD — The Oxford Music Club will be hostess club at the Michigan Federation of Music Clubs' brunch tomorrow in the Founders Room of the Sheraton Cadillac Hotel, Detroit.

The federation is in convention there this week.

Mrs. Mark B. VanWagoner, brunch chairman, said American Aggregates Corp. and Mount Christie have donated favors for the affair.

Theme of the convention is "Music and Industry." Speakers for the morning will be Raymond Gerkowski of the Flint Community Music Assn., Dr. David Macht of Oldsmobile Division of General Motors Corp., Lansing; and Dr. Theodore Vosburg of Dow Chemical Co., Midland.

Assisting Mrs. VanWagoner are Mrs. Milton Tubbs, Mrs. Nelson Parrish, Mrs. Harold Ehle, Mrs. Ray Forman, Mrs. Ralph Curtis and Mrs. Clifford Ashley, club president.

477 Polio Shots Given at Orion School Clinic

LAKE ORION — A total of 477 polio inoculations were administered at the recent clinic held in the Proper School here. Health Chairman Mrs. Norvel Wagner reported today.

A third clinic is planned for the latter part of May, she said. The exact date is to be announced later.

Threat Charge Facing Doctor

Staton Free on Bond Prior to Trial Arising Over Phone Call

The ex-husband of a West Bloomfield Township resident charged with threatening the woman's suit or has been freed under $2,500 bond at Denver, Colo.

Dr. Wesley M. Staton, 39, the accused, returned to his classes at Colorado State College at Greeley, Colo., yesterday. He is a physical instructor at the school.

As the arresting agents, the FBI said the charge of violating the Federal extortion act was based on a telephone call that Dr. Staton made from Denver to Eugene Holstin, a Detroit truck driver, at the home of Staton's divorced wife at 5402 Cambourne Rd. here Sunday.

Dr. Staton said he made the call to Holstin, but denied he made any threat. He merely said he would sue for custody of the Statons' two children if Mrs. Staton and Holstin went ahead with marriage plans, according to Dr. Staton.

He said he will plead innocent when the case goes to trial in U.S. District Court at Detroit.

The Statons' children are Michael, 7, and Anne, 6. They have been with their mother since the divorce last year.

A college official said Dr. Staton will continue with his health education classes pending disposition of the federal charge. He went there last fall from Wayne State University at Detroit.

DURWARD B. VARNER

Honor Youth Will Hear Varner Talk

ROMEO — Durward B. Varner, chancellor of Michigan State University, will appear here Tuesday night as guest speaker at the Honors Banquet at the Romeo Community Youth and Civic Center on Morton street.

The banquet, sponsored by the Romeo Rotary Club, is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. It is being held to honor Romeo Community High School students with outstanding scholarship records.

At 9:30 Tuesday morning the new junior members of the National Honor Society will be named at a special assembly in the high school gymnasium. They will receive ribbons which they will wear the rest of the day.

The Junior and Senior Honor Society members will be special guests at the banquet.

During the affair, Master of Ceremonies James H. Church will announce the names of the two top honor students, a boy and a girl.

Varner will present each with an engraved pin and ribbon. The two students' names subsequently will be engraved on a plaque which hangs in the lobby of the new high school.

Deadline for reservations is tomorrow. They may be made by calling Roy Davis at PL 2-3603.

Rochester Lions Hear Gasoline Story

Fears Limits on Competition

ROCHESTER — The price of gasoline and legislation designed to restrict free competition are two important subjects in Michigan today, according to Arthur G. Epker, manager of Mobil Oil Co.'s marketing district in Pontiac.

Addressing members of the Rochester Lions Club, Epker stated that passage of so-called business practices legislation (Senate Bill 1028 and House Bill 104) would lessen price competition and thereby injure free competition.

In speaking of gasoline pricing, Epker said that the wholesale price—the only segment over which the supplier has any control—represents only one-half the retail price of a gallon of gasoline; the balance is taxes and dealer's gross profit.

"There is little variation in the wholesale price of gasoline in Michigan," he said. "Freight costs to various points in the state account for price variations."

FACTORS CHANGE
"We change these prices only when changes occur in the factors which go into them and when competition permits."

"We do not increase the price in an area to attempt to make up for loss of revenue in a price war area."

Speaking of the highly competitive nature of the petroleum business, Epker said the old-fashioned idea of hard competition has come back in vogue.

Competition benefits employees by forcing them to do their jobs better, and it benefits consumers as well, he said.

"Unfortunately," he added, "this favorable reaction to hard competition is far from universal. There are a lot of people against hard competition for the simple reason that they can't make it when the going gets a little rough."

Epker warned members of the dangers of restrictive legislation now being proposed in the Michigan Legislature.

This legislation would prohibit a supplier of any product from reducing a price to one dealer or distributor unless he lowered the price to all retailers, he said.

"Denial of the right of meeting competition, the basic right of self defense in competition," he said, "would be bad enough if the denial applied to all sellers alike; but when the right is to be denied to Michigan sellers and left available to their interstate competitors, the discrimination would have a deadly effect on Michigan sellers and their ability to compete."

"All this kind of legislation and government intervention is not designed to help the consumer, no matter what he is told, but to help certain groups in society which do not want to compete for the consumer's favor," Epker declared.

Election Upsets Plans

Car Track Trial Delayed

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — The change of command in the township brought about by Monday's election has caused another delay in the automobile race track trial that was scheduled to start in Macomb County Circuit Court today.

The suit, brought by a group of Shelby homeowners, charged that the township acted "illegally" in rezoning the Curtis-Wright Corp. property here to permit big car racing.

Now the township board at the time the rezoning action was taken is no longer in office because of the members' defeat at the polls Monday.

The new township officers have not decided whether to retain George F. Roberts, who was representing the previous board, as their attorney, the circuit court assignment clerk said today. Consequently, the trial has been postponed for at least another week.

The first delay in the opening of the trial was at the request of one of the plaintiff's attorneys, Miss Dee Edwards, who wanted to have her colleague, Arthur C. Schindler, in court when the case started. He was the one who initiated the suit, she said, and he was unable to be present on the first date set.

No date has yet been set after today's postponement.

Band, Orchestra, Glee Clubs Participate

Walled Lake Junior High to Present Spring Concert

WALLED LAKE — The Music Department of Walled Lake Junior High School will present its annual spring concert at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the auditorium.

The band and orchestra are under the direction of Frank Balaam. Eugene Guttler directs the Boys Glee Club and Robert Boberg, the Girls Glee Club.

Each organization will present a group of numbers before all join in a finale. The public is invited and there is no charge.

Some of the highlights of the program will include the orchestra playing the finale from "The Carnival" by Schuman and "Serenade" by Toselli.

The band will render "Fiesta Paso Doble" by Canova and "The Officer of the Day" march by Hill.

Area Boys' Club Sets Box Social Saturday Night

AUBURN HEIGHTS — An old-fashioned box social will be staged Saturday evening by the directors of the Auburn Heights Boys Club at the American Legion Hall on Churchill road.

Every woman, attending the affair, must bring a box lunch for two, packed picnic style, to be auctioned off beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Coffee and tea will be supplied by the directors under the chairmanship of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Newingham and Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Burt.

A local orchestra will furnish music for dancing. All profits will go into the Boys Club Building fund, Mrs. Burt said. She added that all persons interested in the club are welcome to attend.

The Swedish ship "Vasa," which sank in the Stockholm harbor in 1628, may be brought to the surface in the near future. The "Vasa" is regarded as the world's oldest fully identified ship. Already brought up are its bronze cannon, the rudder and wooden sculptures.

Makes Full Reappraisal First Step in New Setup

WIXOM — Mayor Joseph Stadnik of Wixom has joined with his City Council to initiate a "property tax program founded on sound basic principles and designed to create a tax environment attractive to all classes of taxpayers."

The mayor said he believes timely adoption of a similar plan by taxing units now troubled with "extreme fiscal problems" would have avoided, or at least minimized, their difficulties.

"The heart of Wixom's plan," he said, "is the viewpoint that the Constitution and laws of the state mean what they say in stipulating that all property tax assessments—both real and personal, and regardless of individual or business ownership—are to be made on a uniform basis."

Mayor Stadnik said the first step in achieving the present tax policy was complete reappraisal of all property in the city to determine its cash value.

He added that such a reappraisal was necessary because the new city was created from parts of two townships which had assessment practices "differing extremely in the base."

"The reappraisal has been completed," Mayor Stadnik said, "and we now have taken the second important step: assessment of all property according to a uniform standard."

"We are convinced that our policy will eliminate the many appeals to the State Tax Commission in which some taxing units find themselves involved because of inequitable assessments."

Further, the city's policy will minimize the effect of county and state equalization, since the evils often attributed to the equalization process actually arise from the fact that discrimination exists in the local assessments entered on the tax roll.

"Where such inequality exists, the flat percentage increases required by equalization boards merely compound the basic inequity."

FULL UNIFORMITY
"Since Wixom's roll will reflect full uniformity, any equalization likewise will apply fairly to all assessments."

The mayor said the city's uniform taxation policy is designed not only to attract and hold both residential and industrial property owners, but to avoid problems resulting from failure to follow such a policy.

"In adopting firm principles of uniformity," he said, "we are moving now to assure that it will be unnecessary for taxpayers to enter appeals or to pack up and leave the city, as has happened in so many areas of our State."

Mayor Stadnik concluded that "Wixom's policy of taxing uniformly and at a realistic percentage of value assures all present and future property owners of fair treatment and a healthy economic climate in which to live, work and plan for the future."

Royal Oak Man Dies of Crash

Succumbs in Hospital After 2-Car Smashup Sunday in Southfield

ROYAL OAK — An elderly Royal Oak man died last night in William Beaumont Hospital here of internal and chest injuries sustained in an automobile accident Sunday in Southfield.

The victim, John W. Corcoran, 83, of 2111 Clawson Rd., was fatally injured in a two-car collision at 12-Mile and Everett roads at about 2:25 p.m. Sunday. No one else was hurt.

According to two unidentified witnesses, Corcoran was making a left-hand turn from 12-Mile road into Everett when his car was rammed on the right-hand side by an oncoming eastbound car driven by Seymour Stamp, 18, of 3000 Southfield Rd., Southfield Police reported.

Both drivers were alone in their cars at the time.

Stamp told police he tried to stop but skidded into Corcoran's car. A hearing was to be held this morning in the Prosecutor's Office at Pontiac. Stamp was not held.

Eyewitnesses agreed that neither vehicle was breaking the speed limit when the collision occurred, police said.

The impact slammed Corcoran against the steering wheel. It took ambulance attendants several minutes to extricate him.

Corcoran was a widower and is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Edward Lee, at the Clawson road address, and Mrs. Frederick F. Solverson of 1992 Earlmont Rd., Berkley; and a son, John A., of 1376 Leroy St., Ferndale. Funeral arrangements are pending.

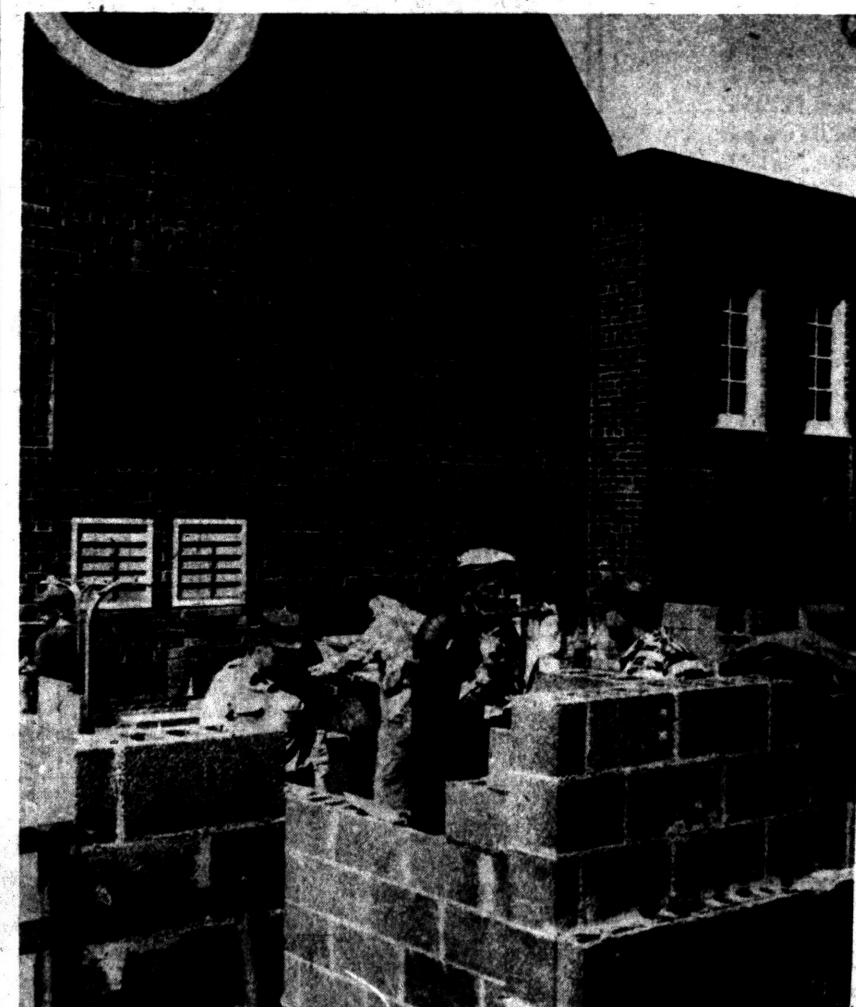

In a recent study conducted by Eugene Gilbert & Co., noted teenage research authorities, teenagers were asked "Did you read a newspaper yesterday?" Eight out of every ten replied that they had.

See 'Urban Revolt' as Threat to Benson

WASHINGTON — A Republican research report that an "urban revolt" had contributed heavily to the party's setback in 1958 has a possible bearing on the future of Secretary of Agriculture Benson in the party's councils.

It has been the contention of Benson supporters that his farm policies could be expected to make enough friends for the party in the cities to outweigh losses in farming areas. Those policies seek lower price supports — and hence lower food prices for consumers.

In fact, many critics have charged that Benson has been attempting to line up city folks against farmers and that he has carried his fight against high price supports to urban areas.

ACTIVITY SPURTS ON CHURCH ADDITION
— With the advent of warmer weather during the past couple of weeks, work on the $86,000 educational unit being added to St. Philip's Episcopal Church, Rochester, has taken a sudden spurt.

The new unit, which will also contain administrative offices, is due for completion in September. Workmen are shown laying cement block and brick with the steel framework going up this weekend.

Now Boosted for Top GOP Job

Only Kentucky Ike Voter

By United Press International
Thurston B. Morton, first-term senator from Kentucky, cast the only Kentucky vote at the 1952 Republican national convention for the nomination of Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Now he is President Eisenhower's personal choice for the chairmanship of the GOP National Committee.

He served the Eisenhower administration for more than three years as assistant secretary of state for congressional relations before running for the Senate at the request of the White House in 1956.

He went into the campaign an underdog but unseated Earle C. Clements, a former governor who was then Democratic whip of the Senate.

PROMINENT FAMILY

Morton is the tall, dark, handsome, 51-year-old member of a prominent and wealthy Louisville family.

He was born at Louisville Aug. 19, 1907. He attended the Woodberry Forest School at Orange, Va. from 1922 to 1925 and then Yale University, from which he graduated in 1929.

He married Belle Clay Lyons of Louisville April 18, 1931 and they have two sons, Thurston Jr., 26, and Clay, 22.

Morton held various jobs with Ballard & Ballard, the family milling business, including the chairmanship of the board of directors, and spent 51 months in the Navy in World War II.

He was elected to the House of Representatives from the Louisville district in 1946. Re-elected twice, he declined to run for a fourth term in 1952.

At the 1952 Republican convention, he was the only Eisenhower delegate in a 20-member Kentucky delegation which cast 19 votes for the nomination of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft.

FRESHMEN TOGETHER

Morton and Vice President Richard M. Nixon were freshman House members and Labor Committee seatmates in the 80th Congress.

Before he was tapped for the National Committee chairmanship, he went on record earlier this winter with the belief that Nixon would be the strongest candidate the GOP could nominate for the presidency in 1960.

As chairman of the Republican National Committee, however, he must maintain neutrality toward the 1960 nomination.

Service will be held at 1:30 p.m. Friday at the Sparks-Griffin Chapel with burial in White Chapel Memorial Cemetery.

MRS. ANNA M. BRAND

TROY — Mrs. Anna Marie Brand, 82, of 6995 Livernois Rd., died last night at a Utica convalescent home following a two-year illness.

Alpine Village Out of Danger

People Begin Return as Landslide Threat No Longer Imminent

HERBRIGGEN, Switzerland (UPI)—The 18 inhabitants of this Alpine village have been told officially that the danger of an imminent landslide had ended and those who had moved to safer parts could return to their homes. Mayor Rudolf Bittel said 40 to 50 persons who vacated a half-mile wide danger zone would return to the village tomorrow.

"We will resume school Thursday morning and bring the school equipment back to the schoolhouse," said Bittel, who also is village headmaster.

The cantonal (state) government declared the village out of danger exactly two months after all its inhabitants were ordered to leave their homes. The order was issued following discovery that a huge mass of rock, earth and ice, estimated to weigh more than 1,000,000 tons, was moving toward the village on a steep slope of 14,206-foot Mt. Nadelhorn.

Villagers have been returning to their homes gradually since then.

Bittel said eight soldiers would continue to man an observation post on the mountain to alert villagers if the landslide again threatened Herbrigen town.

Tiny Andorra Thrives on Tourist Trade

WASHINGTON—Andorra, a tiny country wedged high in the Pyrenees between France and Spain, is an anachronism—a feudal state thriving in tune with modern times.

The capital, also named Andorra, is a modest village with a permanent population of about 1,000. Its shops, however, are filled with luxury goods and the latest wonder drugs, all at duty and tax-free bargain prices. In season, the streets are crowded with automobiles and visitors.

Bargains and rugged mountain scenery have stimulated a burgeoning tourist business that is supplanting the ancient Andorran pastime of smuggling as a source of income, the National Geographic Society says.

Smuggling is not illegal in Andorra itself. In recent years traffic in contraband has decreased, but some goods still move clandestinely between West Germany, France, and Spain by way of the valleys and mountain passes of Andorra. Everything that is shipped through Andorra leaves part of its profit behind.

Winter hampers travel. Snows usually block the road on the French side from mid-November until June. The road on the Spanish border is open all year.

Andorra is notable among world capitals in not having a single monumental statue. It does boast a good five-cent cigar, a seven-cent pack of cigarettes, and a 10-cent glass of sherry.

American Full-Length Ballet Could Be Cultural Weapon

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A 10-year-old ballerina from Palm Beach could be an American secret weapon.

She is Claudia Cravey, baby prima ballerina of the first American full-length ballet, "The Princess," produced here by philanthropist Frank J. Hale and Paul Crabtree, and scheduled to open on Broadway in the fall. Next in impact could be her 8-year-old sister, Clara "etb."

"If we could present these wonderful American kids in this all-American ballet at the Moscow World's Fair, we'd steal all the thunder of the vaunted Russian ballet," says Hale.

He's the founder of the Academy Royale, a nonprofit institution dedicated to giving American boys and girls a chance to develop their talents in the ballet, the theater and music.

HIGH PRAISE
Critics who have seen the fresh and charming ballet in its initial presentations here seem to agree with him. And so does the girl who wrote the libretto and trained the young dancers. Jo Anna, a ballerina from Durban, South Africa, wife of the stage manager, Ted Kneeland.

"We've all been taken in by a lot of intellish hocus-pocus about the ballet," says Jo Anna. "Our intention here is to present a form of ballet which the general public can understand, and which gives an opportunity to the wonderful, fresh talent of America."

"You don't have to starve in a garret and live on borscht for 20 years to be a great ballerina. The proof is in these children who have captivated audiences at the Royal Poinciana Playhouse here, after training for only a few months."

Jo Anna taught ballet in Durban and was a top ballet star of South Africa before she came to America, met and married TV producer Ted Kneeland and drifted down to Palm Beach to the academy school. There she met Frank Hale, who had just built the million-dollar Royal Playhouse and who also had ideas about opening the doors of opportunity to American kids. The result was "The Princess," and a plan for establishing a training center for the talented youth of America.

"I know about these kids," says Hale, son of Irish immigrants. He started as a song-and-dance man in San Francisco, made a fortune in Wall Street, heads several corporations and spends his money on such things as cancer research, the American Society for the Aged and underwriting the talents of American boys and girls.

"I was one of them, a long time ago. I fought my way up the hard way, and now I'd like to give some of these other kids a hand."

In furthering his project, Hale plans a gala benefit to end all benefits next January in Palm Beach—a Venetian Mardi Gras, with barges to bring the audience across Lake Worth to his playhouse, and tickets selling at $1,000 each.

There will be fabulous prizes for the best and most authentic Venetian costumes, with judges brought from Italy, France, the British Isles and New York. The proceeds will go to the Academy Royale.

"We're in on the ground floor of a great new national saying of art in America," says Hale. "Kids all over the country, from Maine to Arizona are feeling the urge to do it."

"If they've got what it takes, they'll have a chance to show it here. We screen applications for the academy, and if they make the grade, they get scholarships. In this one year of operation, we've found that American youngsters do what it takes."

Strain on Lace Damages Shape

Always hang your lace garments carefully to preserve the original shape and guard against undue strain on the fibers. Take either a wire or wood hanger and wrap it in large sheets of tissue paper until it has the shape of the shoulders of the garment. One method of removing stains is to place the stain over a bowl and pour cold water through the lace. Continue until the stain disappears.

Blossoming Teens' Feet Blossom, Too

Teenage girls know they are growing and usually handle resulting clothing problems accordingly. Often, though, they neglect their growing feet. Years later they suffer for it. Choose school and dress-up shoes with a snug, well-fitted arch and plenty of toe room. Also, this is an age to avoid spike heels, both for comfort and appearance.

A child's eyes do not reach full size until about age 8.

Behavior at Home Will Tell

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I would very much like your opinion on the propriety of two girls and two boys, all in the early twenties, going by bus to New York City and spending a week-end there. We are all just friends and none of us sweethearts, in case that makes a difference."

Answer: Being "just friends" does make a difference, but even so I can hardly give unqualified approval of young men and girls going off alone to stay in the city.

And yet — if the two girls go to one of the women's hotels in New York, and the men go and stay at another hotel, or best of all perhaps at a fraternity club, I doubt very much if anyone will criticize them unless their behavior at home has given gossip cause for chatter."

"Dear Mrs. Post: We are expecting our third baby shortly and wondered if it would be proper to ask our family doctor to be the baby's godfather. We have known him many years and feel very close to him. We would love to have him above anyone else but certainly don't want to be presumptuous. Will you please give us your opinion?"

Answer: In addition to being your doctor he is also an intimate friend, there is no reason for not asking him to be your baby's godfather.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am planning to give some parties to repay my obligations. There are certain ones in mourning and I don't know what I'm supposed to do about inviting these people. I doubt they would come to large parties but at the same time I don't want to run the risk of hurting them by not inviting them. Will you please advise me?"

Answer: Say to them that you are giving a small party, that if they feel like coming you would love to have them but that you will understand if they don't.

Girls' Ranch Steering Committee has invited more than 80 Oakland clubs that have contributed or expressed interest in Girls' Ranch at Camp Oakland to attend a tea from 2

Tea at Camp Oakland to Honor 80 Clubs for Aid to Girls Ranch

More than 80 clubs in Oakland County that have contributed to or expressed interest in Girls Ranch at Camp Oakland have been invited to a tea, to be held from 2 to 5 Sunday afternoon at the camp near Oxford.

In this way, officials of Camp Oakland hope to express their appreciation to women of Oakland County who have raised almost $20,000 since January 1957, for the camp.

The idea for the camp was initiated by Hon. Arthur E. Moore, probate judge of Oakland County, in his concern for neglected and underprivileged children. The camp developed under the leadership of Walter Gehrke, president of Camp Oakland, Inc.

Zonta Club of Royal Oak and Ferndale, through its service committee headed by Dr. Frances Lamb, sent out invitations to clubs in Oakland County to assist with the Girls Ranch project. The first meeting took place at the Birmingham Community House Jan. 29, 1957, with representatives from 33 women's clubs attending.

Mrs. Albert F. Nippel Jr. became the first chairman of the steering committee. On April 1, 1958, Mrs. Kathryn Shields became chairman, Zonta Club of Royal Oak and Ferndale was the first club to contribute money for furnishing a room.

Other participating communities are Birmingham, Berkley, Clawson, Hazel Park, Huntington Woods, Ferndale, Madison Heights, Milford, Lake Orion, Oxford, Pontiac, Pleasant Ridge, Rochester, Royal Oak, Oak Park, Ortonville, Southfield Township, Waterford and Clarkston.

Members of the steering board who will assist at the tea table are Mrs. William Bowman of Clawson, Mrs. Shields of Garden City, Mrs. Millard W. Newcomb of Pleasant Ridge, Ellen Matter, Mrs. Lillian Wattles, Mrs. Florence Doty, all of Pontiac; Norma Campbell, Jean Fee and Mrs. R. L. Schnadt, all of Royal Oak.

Also pouring will be Mrs. Albert F. Nippel Jr. and Dr. Lamb. Other officials of the camp are Mr. Gehrke, president; William J. Matus, director of building committee of Girls Ranch; R. Earle Green, chairman; Carl Barton and John C. Thornton. Clubs in Pontiac that have contributed to the fund for Girls Ranch are Business and Professional Women's Club, General Motors Girl's Club, Opti-Mrs. Club of Pontiac, Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce Auxiliary, Pontiac Junior Women's Club, Pontiac Woman's Club, Soroptimist, Trabajas Alumnae Club, Zonta Club, Parent Guidance Club, Alpha Chapter of Beta Theta Phi Sorority, American Business Women's Association, Tipacon Chapter; and Chief Pontiac Auxiliary 377, American Legion.

Soap Bathing Wa 'Taxing' in Engla

NEW YORK (UPI)—If you think taxes are high today, pity bathers in by-gone days. They had to pay a bath tax.

Soap was subjected to heavy taxes, and only about 100 years ago in England was one such tax abolished. Not until the 19th Century did soap as we know it today come into use. It was considered a great luxury until the 19th Century.

Capitol Tells Our Nation's Growth

In 1792, President George Washington found himself with a splendid plan for a national capital, drawn by Pierre Charles L'Enfant, and a large tract of land, much of it swamp.

A public competition was held for designs for a Capitol Building. That of a young physician, William Thornton, was awarded the prize of $500.

The first section to be built was the North Wing. Into it were crowded the Senate, House of Representatives and Supreme Court when John Adams opened the first session in 1800. The Capitol was still incomplete when it was burned by British forces during the War of 1812.

Restoration continued into the 1820s, guided by another amateur but competent architect, Charles Bulfinch. His building forms, with modifications, the heart of the Capitol as we know it today.

PRESSURE UP

As more and more states joined the Union, pressure grew for expansion of the Capitol. New House and Senate wings were completed by 1859.

During the Civil War, to symbolize Union strength, President Lincoln kept work going on the famous east-front dome. Its crowning feature, the 19-foot Statue of Freedom, was raised to its place on Dec. 2, 1863.

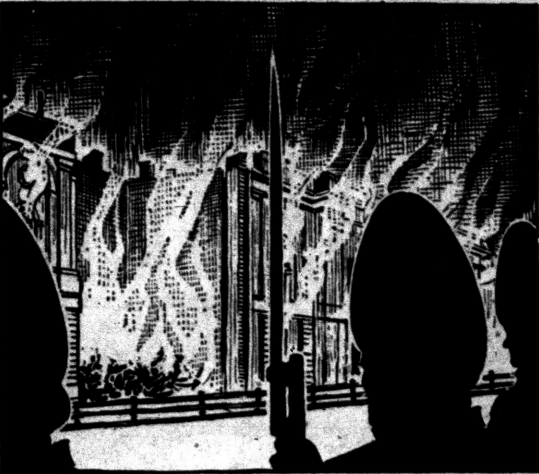

The new Capitol was scarcely finished when agitation began to extend the East Front. Architects pointed to the misplaced and overhanging dome.

The idea shocked many, to whom the Capitol was sacred and unchangeable. Now, after nearly a century of debate, the project is well under way.

When completed by 1961, the 10-million-dollar job will not only strengthen and beautify the Capitol but provide much-needed office room, in keeping with the Capitol's role as symbol of the nation's growth.

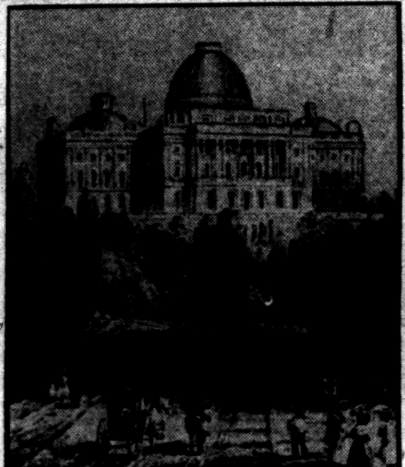

With imposing Masonic ceremonies, President George Washington lays the Capitol's cornerstone, Sept. 18, 1793.

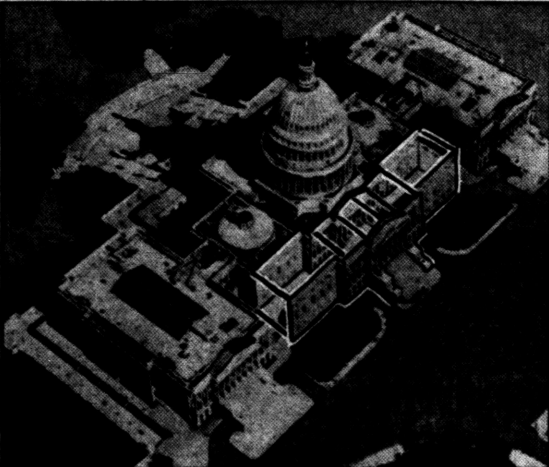

The Capitol — "this harbour of Yankee democracy" — was looted and put to the torch by British soldiers in 1814.

Charles Bulfinch, Architect of the Capitol (1818-1829).

Restoration was completed by 1827. View from Pennsylvania Avenue, about 1840.

Crude Road Leads to Magical Home of Barbara Hutton South of the Border

By BERT KOPPERL

CUERNAVACA, Mexico (UPI)—A crude roadway, filled with bumps and potholes, leads to one of the costliest, most startling homes ever built South of the Border.

It is the $1,500,000 Japanese-style house, built in a Japanese setting (rice paddies included) by dime-store heiress Barbara Hutton within the shadow of the volcanic mountain, Popocatepetl, 15 miles southeast of Cuernavaca.

Designed by Albert E. Ives, the fabulous "hideaway" house took two years to build. Many materials had to be imported from Europe, Japan, the United States, and from distant cities of Mexico.

Shortly before Miss Hutton moved in this winter, I inspected the house and the 200,000-square feet of gardens outside. The gardens and landscaping include 3,000 rose bushes from Holland, England and the U.S., 18,000 shrubs, 2,500 bird of paradise plants, banana trees, low trees and sugar cane.

With my guide, Nacho de Landa, the controller of the property, —a "retreat" to end all retreats—I saw the high, silver-tiled roof of the house after driving past a large Japanese gate. The roof tiles, 40,000 of them, were shipped from Japan.

ple, a few tables, a chaise longue, many floor pillows.

Light blue silk drapes framed the window wall and a silk screen of flowers, done in brown and gold, hung near the sofa.

Two large screens from Kyoto, Japan stood at the far end of the living room, near a large Oriental brazier.

SOFT GUEST CUSHIONS

The nearby dining area had a shiny black lacquered dining table which could accommodate 14 to 16 people.

Guests sit on soft cushions and the table is illuminated by overhead Japanese lanterns.

Next, we saw two of the more spectacular features of the house —bridges crossing flower-bedecked moats. One bridge leads to the two suites occupied by Miss Hutton's secretary and personal maid.

Another leads to the master suites, over a moat that has pine trees and shrubs planted along the banks.

Miss Hutton's suite includes a 26-by-30 bedroom with a double bed on a platform 10-by-20 feet. A built-in canopy of white cedar is overhead and two walls contain full-size picture windows that provide a view of the terrace below, a moat and a waterfall.

The rug, made from rice fibre, is chartreuse and green. A dressing room, bathroom and sunken Japanese bath of gold tile and marble complete Miss Hutton's suite.

De Landa showed me a large warehouse where the furniture will be stored when Miss Hutton is not in residence.

A small motion picture theater also will be built on the grounds. The house also has a fully-equipped laundry room, a modern, all-electric kitchen, a servants' kitchen, servants' quarters (three bedrooms and three baths), a two-car garage and a tremendous parking area.

Hidden speakers pipe soft music through the house and two generators supply electricity.

Nearby villages also benefit from these generators, as Miss Hutton supplies them with free power. A well-pump draws 300 gallons of water a minute.

DAZZLING COLOR CURTAIN

At night, small lanterns glow on the low dining table and a watery mist plays across the picture window while rainbow-hued lights turn the mist into a dazzling curtain of color.

The swimming pool, made from lavender mosaic tiles from Cuernavaca, is lighted, heated and filtered. At the far end of the pool, a two-bedroom, two-bath guest house is located.

The entire house and its breathtaking setting puts one in mind of the legendary Shangri-La. It is perhaps most accurately described by the word "fabulous."

TWO WALLS VISIBLE

Two walls were visible. They were painted white and were built on large rocks, with the same silver-tile on top. Off to the left was "Popo," ably substituting in beauty for Japan's Fuji-yama.

We entered the Japanese gardens on foot after passing through a second large gate. A red gravel path led to the front door, where we were greeted by Mexican servants dressed in authentic Japanese kimonos. We removed our shoes, put on slippers, and proceeded with our tour.

We walked down a long corridor lined with sliding doors and windows set in small square mahogany frames. A faint scent of incense filled the air and we walked into the main foyer over a highly polished stone brought in from Guanajuato.

Through a 15-foot high, ornately-decorated door, we entered the main living room, which measures 30-by-50 and has an 18-foot ceiling.

The left wall was made completely of glass sliding doors and stationary picture windows, through which we could see the outside landscaping and the pool area. A white silk rug covered the floor.

The furniture consisted of a carved sofa, aqua and deep pur-

Detroit Store Goes Bankrupt

Kern's Files Petition in Effort to Obtain New Capital

DETROIT (UPI)—Ernst Kern Co., one of Detroit's oldest and largest department stores, has filed petition in U.S. District Court here for reorganization under the federal Bankruptcy Act.

The petition, filed yesterday by attorneys for the downtown department store, said the prime purpose of the action was to give the company time to obtain capital so that it may become rehabilitated.

Kern's assets were listed at $4,648,993. Its liabilities were listed at $4,379,813.

The petition blamed economic conditions in Detroit for the store's present situation.

Kerns has changed hands twice in the last 20 months. In July 1957, a majority of the company stock was purchased from the Ernst Kern family by Irving LeVick, a Buffalo financier and department store operator. Benjamin Goldstein, a principal stockholder, became president of the firm in January 1958.

A small industrial laboratory for use in quality control of manufactured products can be established in a plant for less than $5,000.

5th Graders Build Own Makeshift Weather Bureau

DENVER (UPI)—Fifth grade pupils at a Denver elementary school are doing something about weather forecasts—they're making them themselves.

The 27 students of George Purcell's fifth grade class at Russell Elementary School didn't have to spend a cent to get up their own weather bureau.

Their wind gauge is made of four paper cups attached to two crossed pieces of plywood that revolve on a wire from a coat hanger. A plywood arrow revolving on another twisted coat hanger provides wind direction.

The pupils measure humidity with a hygrometer made from a milk carton, straw, nickel, a strand of hair and a dash of nail polish. They used a bottle, colored water, a rubber stopper and a tube attached to a tackboard strip for their barometer.

They got around the thermometer problem when a student donated one.

Each day, the students check their instruments and issue their forecasts. They say their predictions are just as accurate as those put out by the U.S. Weather Bureau.

Uncertain When to Take Office

No One Sure of Date Wayne State Board to Start Governing

LANSING (UPI)—The six members of the Wayne State University Board of Governors elected Monday will have to mark time until someone decides just when they are supposed to take office.

Secretary of State James M. Hare said no one seems to know when the new governors can or will take office and start governing.

Three possible dates have been suggested, Hare said, and the entire matter has been tossed to the attorney general's office for a decision.

The intent of the Legislature appears to be that the new board would take office as soon as elected and qualified by the State Board of Canvassers.

The state constitution provides, however, that all elective state officials shall take office on Jan. 1—shoving the date forward to the first of next year.

A July 1 date this year also has been suggested because it coincides with the termination date of the three-year city-state financial and control arrangements, spelled out at the time it was decided to make Wayne a state institution.

"It may be," Hare added, "that the Legislature will want to act to straighten out this problem and to make sure that no legal loopholes exist to plague the university."

Some See No Cash Crisis GOP Senators Delay Action on Vets Fund

LANSING (UPI)—An answer to the state's cash emergency via the veterans trust fund was put off today at least until next week.

On this point, backers and opponents of the latest proposed solution were in agreement.

Sen. Frank D. Beadle of St. Clair, Republican majority leader, yesterday proposed authorizing liquidation of the 50 million dollars in trust fund securities along with a new method of rebuilding the fund.

After failing to get quick action on the plan from GOP colleagues, Beadle took his proposition to Democratic Gov. Williams, but without immediate result.

Meanwhile, Sen. Edward Hutchinson (R-Fennville), while agreeing with Beadle as to the best approach, stood for postponing any final decision by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Hutchinson said he doubted there was any need for haste. He said he remained unconvinced that a state cash crisis was imminent, and that if there was shown to be, Beadle's plan could be quickly adopted.

Beadle suggested transferring trust fund securities to the State Treasurer for immediate liquidation, if need be.

Under his plan, the fund would be reconstituted gradually starting in 1965 if existing securities were cashed.

The money, under Beadle's proposal, would be taken from the general revenue fund at a time when World War II and Korean War bonus bond service requirements dropped off correspondingly.

Although GOP members of the Senate Appropriations Committee readily accepted Beadle's proposal as an alternative to Gov. Williams' trust fund mortgaging, they refused to back it as a basis for prompt action.

The vote to send the Beadle plan to the floor was two in favor and seven against.

Sen. Elmer R. Potter (R-Blissfield), Appropriations Committee chairman, said afterwards, the situation would not again be reviewed until next week.

Tuition Refund Plan Announced by GM

DETROIT—General Motors announced today a new tuition refund plan applicable to salaried employees under which the corporation will pay tuition costs up to $250 a year for employees wishing to further their education in spare time study programs.

"Under the plan employees may take college level courses designed to maintain and improve their skills in performing their work. To be eligible for a tuition refund an employee must be on the payroll at the beginning and end of the course term and complete his study with satisfactory grades."

"We hope our salaried employees take full advantage of this opportunity," said Louis G. Seaton, vice president in charge of the Personnel Staff. "The increasing complexity of modern day business and rapid technological advances demand that we as individuals, and as companies, expand and develop our skills and abilities."

A majority of GM divisions have operated their own tuition refund plans for several years. The new plan replaces these with a uniform corporation-wide program applicable to all eligible salaried employees.

Try to Organize Lakes Workers

Maritime Unions of AFL-CIO Eye Crews on Inland Waters

CLEVELAND (UPI)—A drive has been started by AFL-CIO maritime unions to organize inland ship and shoreside workers in preparation for the opening of the Great Lakes shipping season and the St. Lawrence Seaway.

It is aimed principally at some 4,500 unlicensed seamen on 140 ships on the Great Lakes operated by 16 shipping companies. Many of these are represented by the Independent Lake Sailors Union.

An estimated 8,400 unlicensed and licensed seamen on some 300 Great Lakes ships and about 1,000 shoreside employees of stevedoring companies are represented by the AFL-CIO maritime unions.

The International Brotherhood of Longshoremen represents most of the latter.

The IBL was chartered by the old AFL in 1953 when the federation ousted the International Longshoremen's Assn. on charges it was dominated by racketeers and for failure to comply with the federation's "cleanup" order.

Representatives of AFL-CIO maritime unions made plans for the mass organizing campaign at a recent meeting in Detroit.

The main unions besides the IBL are Seafarers International Union; Masters, Mates and Pilots, and the merged Marine Engineers Beneficial Assn. and Brotherhood of Marine Engineers.
