Communists Hit French Outposts Close to Hanoi

Truce Talks Continue North of Delta Center as Fighting Rages

HANOI, Indochina (UP)—Communist troops today began violent onslaughts against weak French defenses west and northwest of Hanoi, French authorities announced.

The High Command said a violent clash also took place near Bac Ninh, northeast of Hanoi after a Communist frogman blew up a French pontoon bridge across a river east of the town.

Military sources said the Communists probably will keep up their local attacks rather than launch a big offensive on all sides of Hanoi at once.

The French High Command said Red soldiers were driving forward in a semicircle 20 to 25 miles wide.

Indochinese home guardsmen killed 108 rebels who attacked one of the last French-held posts in the region in an encounter 14 miles southwest of the capital.

The High Command said the Communists threw hundreds of men against a number of posts held by guardsmen 24 miles northwest of Hanoi between the towns of Vietri and Vinh Yen. The rebels also cut colonial route No. 2 in several places.

A French counterattack obtained "satisfactory results," the High Command added, but gave no details.

The Reds swarmed over the 21-mile colonial route that runs west from Hanoi to Sontay and blew holes in the surface at several points.

A military convoy which included an American newspaperman fell into an ambush on the colonial route. The American newspaperman and a French colleague escaped.

Supreme French Commander Gen. Paul Ely and Northern Commander Gen. Rene Cogny completed a tour of inspection of French and loyal Indochinese units that recently evacuated the southern delta last week.

Your Best Friends Won't Vote for You

PREDDING, Calif (AP)—The City Council proclaimed July 19-24 National Jackass Week — complete with a popularity contest to choose "your favorite jackass—animal or human."

County's Books Are Unbalanced by One Cent Bill

The annual audit showed the county owed one cent in back wages to Jodie Lee Warrick, an elevator operator at the court house.

Warrick was paid by check. He proudly said he would frame it.

County Auditor Eugene V. Warring moaned. The county's bank account won't balance.

Cite Progress in Atom Strike

Effort Continues to End Walkout Without Use of T-H Injunction

WASHINGTON (AP)—Considerable progress was reported today in secret efforts to settle a three-day strike of atomic workers without resorting to a Taft-Hartley court injunction to end the walkout.

The strike has idled 4,500 workers at key uranium production facilities.

Secretary of Labor Mitchell, handling the labor dispute for President Eisenhower met until early this morning at his office with CIO President Walter Reuther.

The meeting was reportedly arranged at Reuther's request and attended also by Elwood Swisher, president of the striking CIO Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers, and Joseph R. Joy, a top union official from Oak Ridge, Tenn.

A source close to the situation said "considerable progress was made."

A presidential inquiry board, meanwhile, went ahead with closed door hearings for a report on the situation to President Eisenhower. Once he has the report, the President may under the T-H law direct

Nichols Eliminated From State Amateur

JACKSON (AP) — Medalist Allan Nichols of Jackson was eliminated in the first round of match play today in the State Amateur Golf Tournament at Jackson Country Club.

The skinny, 140-pound GI was ousted by Joe Law of Detroit, 1 up.

The 1946 champion, Lou Wendrow of Lansing, also was eliminated. He was defeated 2 up by Tom Watrous of Royal Oak.

Nichols, who won medal honors with a two-day 141 total, made a game bid to stay in the tournament. Two down with five holes to play, the former Albion College star won the 14th with a par 4 and the 16th with another par 4.

But he lost out on the 18th when Law's slightly curving putt plunked into the cup.

Senators Study Knowland Plan to Block China

Committee Expected to OK New Proposal on Dealing With U. N.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee appeared set to stamp approval today on a wait-and-see plan for dealing with the prospect of Red China's seating in the United Nations.

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif), author of the toned-down proposal, forecast a favorable verdict in advance of a formal vote scheduled behind closed doors. He was joined by Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ), acting committee chairman.

Knowland, the Senate GOP leader, said in an interview he expects "tremendous" support from both Republican and Democrats for his amendment, apparently revised at administration urging from a stiffer version.

The amendment would write into the pending 3½-billion-dollar foreign aid bill:

1. Another congressional statement in opposition to admitting Communist China to the U.N.

2. A request to President Eisenhower—if Red China is seated in either the Security Council or the Assembly—for a statement to Congress on the implications to U.S. foreign policy of the action "together with any recommendations" the President may have.

The amendment's actual wording is a far cry from Knowland's original demand that America promptly withdraw from the U.N. if Red China came in, with this policy to be set by Congress beforehand. It conforms more to Eisenhower's view, as he expressed it Wednesday, and endorsed by Secretary of State Dulles yesterday.

The President told newsmen he is "completely and unalterably opposed" to admitting the Peiping regime, but he said the United States should go slow on deciding whether to quit the U.N. as a result. Dulles predicted further that Communist China would not be seated.

The statement was in opposition to a resolution calling on the government "to re-examine its policy regarding the U.N." if Red China is admitted.

A fresh statement of the administration's attitude was given Congress today by Asst. Secretary of State Thruston B. Morton.

Morton wrote Chairman Chiperfield (R-Ill) of the House Foreign Affairs Committee that if Red China joined the U.N. or any of its 10 specialized agencies, "it is axiomatic that we would re-examine our policy regarding the organization concerned, in the light of the circumstances then existing."

Truman Departs From Hospital

Ex-President Appears Well as He Leaves for Independence

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman today was dismissed from Research Hospital where he had been since an operation June 20.

A member of the hospital staff said "Mr. Truman was dismissed at 5:30 this morning." He was taken to his home in Independence, 11 miles from here.

His hospital stay was prolonged beyond the originally estimated 10-day period by hypersensitivity to certain drugs.

Hospital employes said the former President was fully dressed when he left. He smiled and waved greetings to everyone he met along the hospital corridors.

Truman left the hospital in his own car for the trip to Indpendence.

He took a service elevator to the ambulance entrance, chatting with the elevator operator as he descended.

Hospital employes and patients all said Truman looked "fine" and "real well."

WHERE TWO WERE INJURED — This is the wreckage of a car-bus crash on Dixie highway where Mrs. Mary E. Napierski, 46, and her son, Frederick, 6, were seriously injured this morning. The collision occurred at Walton boulevard. Both mother and son are in critical condition at Pontiac General Hospital.

Auto Crushed Between Coach and Phone Pole

One Greyhound Rider Injured in Dixie-Walton Wreck This Morning

A Drayton Plains mother and her son were seriously injured this morning when their car and a fully-loaded Greyhound bus collided on Dixie Hwy. at Walton Blvd.

Only one of the 36 bus passengers complained of injuries.

Mrs. Mary E. Napierski, 46, of 3335 Curwood, driver of the auto, and her son, Frederick, 6, were rushed to Pontiac General Hospital where they are reported in critical condition.

Both suffered severe cuts and broken bones.

Mrs. Napierski's car was pinned between the bus and a telephone pole. Witnesses said the car was accordioned to only one-fourth its natural width.

Trooper Gerald J. Tafel of the Pontiac State Police Post said the woman was making a left turn from the southbound line of the highway.

He said a truck, stopped in the north lane for the traffic light, apparently hid the bus which was proceeding northward through the intersection.

The bus hit the car broadside, pushing it into the telephone pole. The bus was reported traveling at from 30 to 35 miles and had the green light.

Mrs. Napierski's daughter, Betty, 24, said her mother was returning home from a beauty parlor in Drayton Plains.

Missing Girl, 17, Turns Up Safe

Peggy Hewston, Hunted Since 1952, Is Married, Has 6-Week Baby

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—A teen-age girl whose disappearance from her Pittsburgh home two years ago prompted a nationwide search turned up here last night as a contented wife and mother.

As Peggy Ann Hewston, she fled her home Aug. 24, 1952, when she was 15. Now she is Mrs. Tom Cory, wife of an Air Force sergeant.

"I had been planning it for a long time," she said in recalling her disapperance. "I couldn't stand that school (Edgewood High School) any longer, and my folks wouldn't let me go to another one. I had saved $70 and I knew I was going to do it. I didn't even leave a note."

She changed her name and fled to Albuquerque, where she met and married Air Force S.Sgt. Tom Cory, 23, who attended her church here.

Now a mother of six weeks, the 17-year-old Mrs. Cory says she "feels much better" since her deception is over.

She was recognized by a Pittsburgh airman at the Sandia base hospital, where she was having her baby. The unidentified airman thought he recognized her from back home. He asked if she wasn't Peggy Ann Hewston.

"I told him he was making a big mistake," she said.

Mrs. Cory said she hadn't told her husband her real name until they had been married eight months. Then he wanted to take out some insurance and she was afraid insurance investigators would check up on the name she had taken from a Kansas City telephone book, that of Barbara Owens.

Dead on arrival at the post hospital was Cpl. William A. Schrott, 23, of 12003 Grandmont, Detroit, a member of B Company, 703rd Tank Battalion, which has its headquarters in Pontiac.

Injured from 703rd Tank Battalion were: Capt. John Reagan, 37, of 7940 Gale Rd., Route 2, Pontiac, commander of A Company; Pvt. Duane S. Broughton, 21, of 4153 Forebush, Keego Harbor, of Headquarters and Service Company; Cpl. Victor Kavelis, 29, of 38059 Ludd Rd., Belleville, Company B, and Cpl. Casmere Zagorski, 24, of Detroit, also of Company B.

CAPT. JOHN REAGAN

Broughton and Kavelis were both listed as receiving minor injuries. Zagorski and Reagan, in serious condition, will be flown to the Great Lakes Naval Hospital with Sgt. 1C Roy Wellington of Muskegon, a member of 333rd Infantry Regiment Tank Company. Others injured were from Grand Rapids and Indiana.

Reagan, who is superintendent of Pontiac Lake Recreation Area, suffered a fractured frontal head bone, face cuts and shoulder injury. Zagorski received a compression fracture of a vertebrae, and injuries of Wellington, still unconscious today but responding to treatment and improving, were not known.

Officials here say that because of conflicting stories, the cause of the accident will not be determined until an investigation has been completed.

Pilots Plan Strike for Next Thursday

CHICAGO (INS) — The AFL Air Line Pilots' Association says some 1,200 of its members flying on American Airlines planes will strike at 11:59 p.m. next Thursday.

C. N. Sayen, ALPA president, said the planned strike is a move to prevent scheduling of crews for flights longer than eight continuous hours in any 24-hour period.

Sayen said crewmen employed by American, the nation's biggest air carrier, voted secretly by mail to authorize the association's officers to call the strike.

Peter Thomson Open Champion

Fires Final Round 71 for 72-Hole Total of 283 Strokes

SOUTHPORT, England (AP)—Peter Thomson of Australia won the British Open Golf Championship today with a 72-hole score of 283. He had final rounds of 69 and 71.

America's hopes faded in the late afternoon when Jim Turnesa of Briarcliff, N. Y., 1952 U. S. professional champion, shot himself out of contention.

Turnesa was still out on the course when Thomson clinched as was Bobby Locke of South Africa. Locke needed a 69 and Turnesa a 68 to tie, but neither had a chance.

Al Watrous, 55-year-old Birmingham, Mich., pro who was runner-up to Bobby Jones in this event 22 years ago, finished at an even 300 after a last round 78.

"I ran out of gas," Watrous said. "I wanted to break 300 so badly—but just missed it.

Watrous would have had a 299 if he hadn't been so honest. The scorekeeper gave him a five on the 1st hole but Watrous insisted it was a six. He said he took a stroke which the scorer didn't see.

House Bill Asks Death for Spying

WASHINGTON (AP) — Peacetime spying would be punishable by death, for the first time in U. S. history, under an administration bill passed 323-0 by the House yesterday. The measure now goes to the Senate.

The bill would also remove the present 10-year limit on prosecution for espionage. And it would broaden the espionage and sabotage laws to make them apply to germ and atomic warfare.

GM Vice President Sees Bright Future for Pontiac

Confident of Pontiac's future economic and civic expansions, Harry J. Klingler, General Motors Corp. vice president, Thursday strongly predicted Pontiac will continue to make "tremendous progress."

Expressing optimism in an address at a noon luncheon of the Rotary Club in Hotel Waldron, the former Pontiac Motor Division general manager based his bright outlook on major industrial strides in the past several years and favorable signs for the future.

Klingler said GM may double or even triple its business here during the next few years, bringing about—as in former years—a parallel progress for Pontiac and the industry.

Fisher Body, Pontiac Motor Division and GMC Truck and Coach Division will be included in a multi-million dollar improvement program in the next 15 months, he said.

HARRY J. KLINGLER

The program is intended to pave the way for the output of the new Pontiacs and new GMC trucks "which will be the best operating and best looking units ever built by these divisions."

"I expect to see Pontiac prosper terrifically," said Klingler, who also is a GM director and passenger group executive.

"Opportunities now are greater

Scientist Finds Antiproton Matter From Outer Space

SEATTLE (AP)—The first substantial evidence of the existence of stable "matter in reverse"—a particle from outer space which annihilates the basic material of all earthly substances—has been found by a University of Chicago scientist.

From somewhere out in the Milky Way or perhaps from some more distant island universe this strange bit of matter came to the top of the earth's atmosphere last winter. With tremendous energy it struck an aluminum-covered film pack being carried by a cosmic ray research balloon high over Texas.

The space particle went through the film pack like a bullet through a deck of cards. In doing so it produced a scientifically thrilling sequence of what appears to be the conversion of earthly matter into energy and then a reconversion of this energy into another form of earthly matter.

A report of the event was made before a meeting of the American Physical Society here yesterday by its discoverer, Dr. Marcel Schein, one of this country's foremost cosmic ray scientists.

Dr. Schein said the only conclusion he could make so far was that the strange visitor was something which nuclear scientists have been seeking for years—an antiproton.

The term antiproton is an exciting word even among atom scientists. It is their way of describing the basic particle out of which reverse matter presumably is made. This is called "contra-terrene matter," or "matter against the earth."

Theoretically, an antiproton is the counterpart or "opposite number" of a proton. The proton is the core of the hydrogen atom and the main substance out of which all ordinary matter is made.

11,971 Voters Registered Out of a Possible 13,500 for Aug. 3 Primary Election

From Our Birmingham Bureau

BIRMINGHAM—When the Tuesday voting registration deadline was reached, a total of 11,971 voters were registered to vote in the Aug. 3 primary election, City Clerk Irene Hanley said yesterday.

The registered total is out of a possible 13,500 actually eligible, Miss Hanley said.

The largest registration ever recorded in Birmingham was for the 1952 presidential election when 12,875 persons registered and 11,692 voted. Percentage-wise, this represented an over 90 per cent turn-out at the polls.

Because of this the city was presented with an award by the American Heritage Foundation.

Still higher than this year's total was the registration for the primary election in 1952. Miss Hanley's records showed that 12,352 people were signed up to vote at that time.

This week's scheduled meeting of representatives from Birmingham, City of Lathrup Village, Bloomfield Hills and Bloomfield and Southfield Townships to discuss possible methods of financing the proposed Detroit interceptor sewer has been delayed until next Wednesday.

City Manager Donald C. Egbert said the postponement was to permit financial and legal consultants and the engineer to finish a report on methods of financing and a suggested formula, "so we can select our own method."

"We are all for the Rouge Valley interceptor, but the crux of the problem lies in financing, which is the $64 question," Egbert said.

William J. Wilson of 27879 Lathrup and Norman W. Gable of 1033 Kennesaw are among 100 University of Michigan students attending the summer session at Camp Davis in Jackson, Wyo., one of eight U. of M. summer camps.

The students will spend half their day in the field mapping and surveying and the other half in the classroom during the eight-week course in geology and surveying.

For practical study, they will travel in small groups to study topography and rock formations in national parks and other surrounding areas.

Solons Allege Prison Delay

Charge Dem-Controlled State Agencies Retard Solution of Problem

LANSING (AP) — A legislative investigating committee charged today that Democratic - controlled state agencies had cost the state one year in a solution of its prison problems.

The committee asked Atty. Gen. Frank G. Millard whether there was a legally - binding contract to pay about $30,000 to the Detroit architectural firm of Leinweber, Yamasaki and Hellmuth for a controversial study of Michigan prison requirements.

The committee, controlled by Republicans, said the survey was ordered without regard to the Legislature's intentions and provided nothing that was not known to state officials already.

The committee has been attempting since April to fix responsibility for this situation:

1—The 1953 Legislature appropriated $75,000 for a "site survey and preliminary sketches for a new medium security prison to be located at Ionia for 1,200 men, provided such location is determined to be desirable by the Corrections Department."

2—The department never made a decision on the site. Instead, the Departments of Administration and Corrections engaged the Leinweber firm to make a survey of the entire prison system.

"The state received," the committee said, "a 72-page report at a cost, upon the basis of vouchers presented somewhat in excess of $30,000, which according to the testimony presented before this committee was of little or no use to the state, inasmuch as it comprised mainly a 'rehash' of the principles of penology and information regarding our corrections institutions already of common knowledge to all public officials acquainted with our corrections system and the problems thereof."

The committee said "the obvious result has been not only the expenditure or the creation of a potential indebtedness in excess of $30,000, without material value to the state, but more particularly has been the loss of a year's time in the construction of proposed medium security institution for youthful offenders."

Castillo Elected Junta President

Rebel Chief Heads New 3-Man Government of Guatemala

GUATEMALA (AP)—Col. Carlos Castillo Armas finally stood at the top of the political heap in Guatemala today. The government announced the rebel chief was elected president of a new three-man junta, the fifth government turnover in less than two weeks.

Col. Elfego Monzon, temporary chief of the five-man junta in charge since last Friday, remained on the new pared-down ruling body.

But the reins were clearly in Castillo's hands. The third member of the top group, Maj. Enrique Oliva, was defense minister in the provisional government which the rebel leader set up at Chiquimula after his army of Guatemalan exiles invaded their homeland from neighboring Honduras June 18.

A government decree last night said Castillo's election was effective immediately. The announcement said the five members of the previous junta voted unanimously to make him head man at a meeting Wednesday night.

The other two members of the previous group—Lt. Col. Mauricio Dubois and Lt. Col. Jose Luiz Cruz—resigned. In a formal statement they said a smaller group would make governing easier. It was speculated the two would draw diplomatic assignments, one likely in Washington.

• • •

Castillo's emergence as chief of Guatemala's newest anti-Red regime had been expected for several days. The move finally gave the colonel's liberation army a clear-cut victory.

Most of his followers were openly dissatisfied with the compromise arrangement he reached with Monzon at a peace conference last week in El Salvador. The conference set up the five-man junta which Monzon headed as temporary chief. It was agreed that a permanent president would be picked by July 17.

Castillo's drive into Guatemala from Honduras set off a series of rapid government shakeups. First, ex-President Jacbo Arbenz Guzman, whose government had had Communist support, quit on June 27. A junta headed by Col. Carlos Enrique Diaz, his army chief of staff, took over for one day.

Then Monzon—like Castillo, a strong anti-Communist — stepped in. Through mediation efforts of U.S. Ambassador John E. Peurifoy, Monzon came to terms with Castillo in the El Salvador talks, and they joined forces last Friday.

Castillo made a triumphant entry into Guatemala City Saturday, with the capital hailing him as a national hero.

Fumes Kill Tot, Mother Rescued

Pair Found in Garage in Birmingham After Husband Gives Alert

Taken from the family car as she lay beside the body of her three-year-old son in the fume-filled garage behind her Birmingham home last night, Mrs. Betty Jane Howitt was being held police prisoner in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital today.

Birmingham Police Lt. Merlin Holmquist today found a suicide note addressed to her husband in the front seat of the death car. She indicated in the note that she took the baby's life rather than "leave him in this crazy world."

Oakland County Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem said today he is awaiting a doctor's report on the Birmingham woman's sanity and will petition for immediate commitment if she is found unstable.

Her son, James, was dead from carbon monoxide poisoning on the floor next to her, wrapped in a blanket.

A second blanket had been stuffed against the garage door. Although the ignition was in the "on" position, the auto's motor was not running when the discovery was made shortly after 7 p.m.

Mrs. Howitt's husband, Clyde, a toolmaker, told police his wife had been upset since a son by a previous marriage, Jack Ott, 18, had left their home three weeks ago. The Howitt home is at 1583 Cole St.

Howit's father, Milward T., of 23712 13-Mile Rd., Southfield Township, found the two in the garage after his son called to tell him Mrs. Howitt had failed to pick him up at work and did not answer the telephone.

Statements were to be taken today from the Howitts and Ott and Mrs. Howitt, if possible.

First of 4 Oil Refineries Operating in Australia

SYDNEY (AP) — The first of four new big oil refineries planned to step up refining capacity in Australia eight times by late 1955 is now in operation at Geelong, Victoria.

The Shell - owned refinery's output of motor spirit, automotive gas, oil for high speed diesel engines, industrial diesel fuel and fuel oil for furnaces, is the first step in making this country self-supporting in oil refining.

Until now, nearly all the petrol and other oil fuels used in Australia were refined or partly refined overseas before importation.

Blames Citizens for Bad Courts

Michigan Administrator Cites Irresponsibility in Judicial System

EAST LANSING (AP) — The responsibility for Michigan's court system rests with the citizens who elect judges and serve on jury duty, Michigan's new court administrator declared.

Meredith H. Doyle was one of the speakers at the Michigan State College Forum on State and Local Government.

"Courts are criticized for their decisions, but one of the basic troubles with the whole system of jurisprudence is the people," Doyle said.

He cited an example of a jury which acquitted a man of stealing a set of wagon wheels and then recommended to the judge that he return the wheels to the owner.

He also cited the case of voters who re-elected a judge who was incompetent and unable to serve his term, requiring another judge to fill in.

Main job of the court administrator, Doyle said, is to help eliminate delays in litigation and to reduce the number of cases requiring a long time to settle.

"If a judge's case load is heavy and he can't keep up with his work, another judge can be assigned to step in and help," Doyle said.

Supreme Court Justice Harry F. Kelly said he didn't believe there was another state more liberal than Michigan in permitting appeals to the State Supreme Court.

Bright Future Seen for City by Klingler

Posing the problem of Pontiac's future civic planning, he said, "What is Pontiac doing about its parking problems, its one-way street development, and other projects?"

As a possible solution to the city's future development, he urged the creation of a non-political, five-man civic planning committee to act as the "guiding influence" in future years.

Given ample authority and backed by the City Commission, he noted, such a committee will add to Pontiac's possibility toward becoming a great city.

He pointed out that similar committees in Detroit and other cities already have shown highly significant results.

Inferring that Pontiac should compete with Detroit, Klingler said:

"Pontiac is not overshadowed by bigger cities—Detroit will not affect it. The opportunity is here, realize its advantages."

The GM executive recalled that Pontiac "started to grow up" about 21 years ago when homes and buildings began to flourish in the city.

During that same period, he explained, Fisher Body and the Truck and Coach Division more than doubled in size, and Pontiac Motor tripled its floor space.

Making reference to the proposed St. Lawrence Seaway, Klingler concluded by assuring that "progress here is just beginning."

Klingler was introduced by Harold A. Fitzgerald, Pontiac Press publisher.

Attending as guests were Robert M. Critchfield, Pontiac Motor general manager; E. R. Pettengill, administrative assistant to the general manager at Pontiac Motor, and Philip J. Monaghan, Truck and Coach Division general manager.

Grand Trunk Ends Port Huron Passenger Run

DETROIT (AP) — Passenger service on the Detroit-Port Huron route of the Grand Trunk Western — on which Thomas A. Edison once was a candy and news butcher — will cease a week from tomorrow.

Notices of discontinuance were posted along the line yesterday.

The Michigan Public Service Commission ruled last year the Grand Trunk Western must continue a passenger train in each direction daily between Port Huron and Detroit. But Circuit Judge Charles H. Hayden of Ingham County upset this last June 14.

Currently a train comes into Detroit in the morning and leaves in the afternoon. The last will be No. 34 when it reaches Port Huron at 6:45 p.m. July 17.

Red Troops Attack Outposts at Hanoi

Communist cease-fire teams met for the sixth time but no communique was issued. However, French sources reported the meetings "consistently have made progress."

In other Indochinese developments:

1. There was a growing belief among diplomats in Paris that the Communists now want the Indochina war to end. They believed that Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru and Burmese Premier U Nu convinced Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai during his recent visits that the shooting must stop.

2. Red China announced it had signed a trade agreement with the Communist Indochinese "government" calling for a large increase in trade.

3. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith will not represent the United States at the closing phase of the Geneva conference on Indochina. Dulles said the signals may be changed later but present plans call for U.S. ambassador to Czechoslovakia U. Alexis Johnson to represent the United States.

Progress Reported in Atom Strike

the Justice Department to apply for a back-to-work court order.

It was expected that unless a settlement is reached quickly—and that was considered possible—the government would act fast in court to get the men back to their jobs.

Mitchell earlier had tried for a settlement but apparently gave up after the inquiry board was named. On Wednesday he reportedly asked the union to call off the strike, in return for which he as secretary of labor would help sponsor negotiations. The union turned this idea down. Apparently Reuther's more for a meeting last night revived Mitchell's interest in seeking a settlement.

Evicted Families Move August 1

Parkview and Crystal Beach Residents Hear Court Ruling

Eviction hearings are complete for 94 families still living in Parkview and Crystal Beach Federal wartime housing projects here and residents with no other quarters as yet have until Aug. 1 to move.

Families wishing to stay through July must pay rent for this month, said Circuit Court Commissioner Verne C. Hampton, who conducted the hearings.

It was shown that residents had received proper notice, said Hampton, and they had no other grounds for a stay of eviction, he added.

Pontiac City Manager Walter K. Willman and James N. Weissner, projects manager, said today they had received word from the Public Housing Administration on a possible longer extension.

Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich) and Rep. George A. Dondero (R-Mich) both informed Willman last week that they would consult the PHA about an extention.

Residents were informed 15 months ago that the government was abandoning the projects June 30, this year.

Kidnaped Man, Abductor Return

Engineer in Jackson Following Forced Drive to Indiana

AUBURN, Ind. (AP) — A 14-year-old boy and a 32-year-old man whom he kidnaped and forced to drive 100 miles were back at their Michigan homes today, and the case appeared to be closed.

Sheriff Frank Carpenter said the boy, Gary E. Kintigh, was taken home by his parents with approval of juvenile authorities at Lansing, and the FBI.

The sheriff said the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Kintigh of Holt, Mich., told him the boy had been having severe pains since a pipe fell on his head last spring.

Robert B. Lehr, 32, Jackson, an electrical engineer, said the boy held a shotgun at the back of his neck during a drive from Jackson to Waterloo. He said the boy had come up from behind him as he sat on his porch and had forced him into his car.

portation Truck Company, was also admitted to the hospital.

The accident occurred about 7:15 p.m. about four miles from the battalion area, but aid was not available immediately to the men spilled from the truck because they were in an isolated part of the post.

Sgt. James P. Delaney of Indianapolis, slightly injured, ran and walked two miles until he could flag down a passing car to carry him into the post.

First general indication of any serious accident was made at the post theater when a call for medics was made during the movie.

Later men of the 703rd Tank Battalion and attached units, who had been returned to camp from field maneuvers after a washed-out bridge halted their tanks, huddled in silent groups at battalion headquarters waiting for word of injured friends.

When official word was handed down late Wednesday night by Lt. Col. Lloyd A. Gabler, battalion commander, men pressed around to ask for news of fellow soldiers.

It was a glum group of soldiers who today moved back into the field to resume field maneuvers. The unit moves out Saturday night by train and car for Pontiac and vicinity.

2-Car Accident Takes 4 Lives

4 More Hospitalized as Car Misses Curve in Pennsylvania

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Four young persons were killed and four others critically injured early today in a head-on collision of two automobiles on the Industrial Highway in southwest Philadelphia.

Seven of the victims, including all four dead, were in the same car. The driver of the other car, William J. Nixon, 28, of nearby Chester, who was alone, is in critical condition with chest injuries.

* * *

Reported in critical condition at several nearby hospitals were Dante Pro, 25, husband of Grace; Nicholas Russo, 17; and Gaetano Ricevuto, 40.

Police said first reports indicated Caruso lost control of his car, failed to negotiate a winding turn on the highway, crossed the medial strip and crashed into Nixon after spilling most of the occupants to the highway.

Soldier Is Convicted for Keeping Money

DES MOINES (AP)—Lowell Arthur Logan, 24, Springfield, Ohio, convicted of embezzling $30,000 in overseas military currency while an Air Force lieutenant in Japan, yesterday was sentenced to five years in prison.

Logan, a former State University of Iowa law student, was accused of falsifying records on the amounts of "worn-out" currency he was entrusted to destroy. He was honorably discharged last year.

Federal Judge William F. Riley was told $22,000 of the amount has been recovered.

After a brake relining job on an automobile, a certain amount of brake drag may be noticeable, but this will pass away as the high spots on the lining begin to wear away.

Alien Business Barred by Law

Philippines Wants All Retail Trade in Hands of Filipinos

MANILA (AP) — The Philippines' new law — Filipino retail trade for Filipinos — has touched off jitters among foreign businessmen here and a storm of protest from abroad.

The law is designed to put all retail trade eventually in the hands of Filipinos. President Ramon Magsaysay, in signing the bill, said he would name a committee to study the effects of the law in order to offer amendments later if needed. But that did not still the disquiet or the criticism.

The Chinese, largest alien group in the retail trade, entered protests both here and on Nationalist Formosa. U.S. businessmen said the law would discourage foreign investment and undermine the country's economy.

Here is how the law works: No new licenses can be issued to aliens to engage in retail trade. Aliens now in business may continue but their licenses may be revoked for cause. Heirs of aliens cannot inherit the right to continue in the trade. Alien partnerships and corporations may continue 10 years.

Latest figures show Filipinos own 88 per cent of the retail establishments with assets at 135 million dollars. Aliens, with only 12 per cent of the retail outlets, have an investment of 78½ millions.

AF Men Abroad Spend More Than U. S. Tourists

Air Force headquarters here decided recently to find out how much money the men were spending after hours. One inspiration for the study originated here in Wiesbaden, a German resort city with a famous casino. Dutch tourists had complained to German businessmen about the noise that American jet planes were making in the area. Some of the Dutch swore they would never come back.

* * *

"We could have ignored the complaints," said an Air Force spokesman, "but we decided it was better to make a survey of spending habits."

The Air Force discovered that U.S. airmen spent more than 150 million dollars in England, France, Germany and Italy last year. During the same period, the survey showed, U.S. tourists spent about 140 millions.

* * *

"I am sure," said the headquarters spokesman, "that not everybody in Europe is interested in having the Americans go home."

The Air Force gives its men instructions on how not to spend money. One of the main points: don't flash a roll of bills.

Tin President Asks Hearing

Kadow Sees Nothing Wrong With Transfer From Interior Dept.

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—Kenneth Kadow, former Interior Department employe, says he sees nothing wrong in taking a job with U.S. Tin Corp. after urging the government to loan the company money.

Kadow was named Wednesday before the Senate-House Defense Production Committee as being one of those who had urged granting of loans to the company.

Testimony by Charles W. Merrill, assistant chief of the Minerals Division of the Bureau of Mines, told the committee in Washington that Kadow had strongly supported granting the tin company a $375,000 government loan early in 1951.

* * *

Then, Merrill said, Kadow left the Department of Interior, by which he was employed in Alaska, to become a consultant to and later president of U.S. Tin.

In Juneau today, Kadow placed the blame for the investigation on William Strand, director of the Office of Territories.

"I cannot understand," Kadow said, "how a fair, unbiased hearing can be held without a single U.S. Tin Corp. witness given an opportunity to testify.

"Ever since William Strand started the investigation against me last fall I have been pleading for a public hearing. So far, no one has bothered even to answer my letters requesting a hearing — and still the slander continues."

* * *

He said any inference that he supported the U.S. Tin application for a loan just to create a job for himself is "100 per cent false."

There is no question but that he gave support to the application, he told reporters, but said it was prior to any idea on his part or that of company officials that he join the corporation.

"I do not know of any official interested in Alaska's development that did not support the U.S. Tin application," he said.

'Horse' Throws Woman

ST. CLAIR SHORES (UP) — Mrs. Dorothy Neff, 26, Detroit, dislocated her knee when she fell off a horse on the Merry-go-round at an amusement park here.

Man, 72, Is Third Victim of Car Mishap

DETROIT (INS)— Amin Kasem, 72, died at 5:10 a.m. this morning in Receiving Hospital, bringing the death toll to three in the accident which occurred Tuesday, when the car of Mrs. Margaret Sebring, 52, careened over a sidewalk at Grand River and W. Grand Blvd.

Kasem was a passenger in the car of Mrs. Sebring.

Others killed when the car jumped a curb and knocked down a parking meter, fire hydrant and utility pole were Mrs. Sebring and Henry Neilson, 49, a pedestrian.

Bishop Seeking $183,000 to Build African Hospital

NEW YORK (INS)—Joseph J. H. Van Den Biesen, titular bishop of Tullia, vicar apostolic of Abercorn, which is in Northern Rhodesia, British Central Africa, needs $183,000. So do I.

He needs it to build a communist-combating hospital in his area. His brother, a noted Dutch architect, will provide the plans free of charge. The bishop's converts an dcatechists will make and bake the bricks. It will not be a great hospital, if he gets it, but it will be the greatest in many, many square miles of African heartland—for it will be the only one.

"I'm convinced we must do more than teach Christianity," the youthful, good-looking bishop in the remarkable Order of the White Fathers told me at the Gotham.

"Missionaries must prove the dynamic aspect of Christianity, and in these days we must—in order to hold our own against the inroads of communism—offer the prospective convert physical as well as spiritual gifts . . . that hospital, and the two schools and outlying clinics we hope someday to build, will be better than years of sermons. We can then act Christianity and democracy, not simply speak of these things."

The bishop, who normally wears the white robes and (strikingly enough) the Turkish fez of the order, says the struggle for the minds of 160,000,000 awakening Africans is one that should concern free peoples everywhere.

"The Communists want those people, and the treasuries of the land," he said. "What would they give to control the uranium mines in the neighborhood of my diocese?

"But it is not an easy task to say to an African, 'Your true friends are in the West. Don't have anything to do with those dominated by Russia.' The African is a lot smarter than many outsiders think he is. If you continue to say to him, 'Stay away from the Communists,' he will say to himself, 'Hey, why are these whites trying to keep me from those other fellows? Is this a trick? I must find out for myself'."

His hoped-for hospital, the bishop said, would dramatically demonstrate to a whole section of Africa the friendship of the non-Communist world.

Van Den Biesen believes there is now Communist control of the Mau Mau movement. "It started as a savage form of Africa's growing nationalism," he said. "But the Communists saw a fine chance to use it for their own prime purpose; the spread of hatred.

"They are tireless, the Communists, and ever so resourceful. We have sent many fine boys to London for their education, with the understanding that they could live in with the priests of our order there. But that is not a life for most boys. They want to get out and see the world. And they do, invariably in the company of Communists assigned to indoctrinate them while their studies continue. Some have returned to Africa full-fledged members of the party, though educated by us at great expense."

The bishop, whose American address will be 1624 Twenty-First St., N.W., Washington, D.C. for a few weeks, is part of one of the world's most patient organizations.

The Order of the White Fathers was founded by Cardinal Lavegerie in 1868, with the approval of Pope Leo XIII. Its long-range aim is to convert the Moslem world to Christianity. A Herculean task in ecclesiatic circles. Early estimates of 175 years needed for such a job have not been altered by the events since 1868. A Mohammedan convert to Christianity, still a rarity, is ostracized and may be slain before he can find asylum outside the Arab world. Members of the order assigned to Moslem areas in North Africa speak, dress and live as Arabs but do not press the matter of conversion. Instead, they build schools and hospitals, tend the sick, offer hints calculated to raise the standard of living. The greatest event of the order's life came several years ago when the Bey of Tunis permitted his daughter to enroll in one of the order's schools.

"There will be mass conversions one day," the young bishop said with quiet assurance. That he might not live to see that day plainly meant little to him. In the meantime, he had his hospital to dream about.

The biggest known concentration of uranium in Canada is in Saskatchewan. According to the 1954 Book of Knowledge Annual, prospectors staked over 10,000 claims in the 780-acre square mile area around Beaverlodge Lake.

Thumb's Busy Policemen

Being an officer of the law in Michigan's Thumb these days is something like the old gag about being a newspaperman — you get to meet so many interesting people.

★ ★ ★

Latest episode came in Lapeer with the arrest of a Toronto driver in a souped-up hot rod custom built for the Duke of Edinburgh. A product of the Canadian Austin plant, the Duke's car had velvet upholstery, the metal trim was gold, no less, and the nuts and bolt heads on the motor were chrome-plated.

The Canadian driver admitted he'd probably been exceeding the 35 mile speed limit. The reason? The speedometer on the royal hot rod registered in kilometers.

Only a short while before the peace officers in Lapeer got into the national limelight. In a speeding car they arrested a recalcitrant customer who claimed diplomatic immunity. This was new stuff to Lapeer's traffic squad, so the prisoner was tossed in the pokey just the same. Finally the State Department convinced the Sheriff his prisoner was a duly-accredited attache of the Soviet Embassy.

Such international episodes must make the routine life of a cop in the Thumb easy to take.

Why Disturb Them?

A trick question philosophers used to ask ran like this: "If a tree fell in the middle of a forest with no one around to hear it, would it make any sound?"

That's the kind of question confronting the Government of Australia today. On June 12 an aerial survey party flying over a remote part of Northwest New Guinea spotted the hidden mountain valley retreat of an unknown tribe of savages.

★ ★ ★

The question now is: If these New Guinea aborigines tucked away in the mountains never heard of the H-bomb or the cold war, do these things exist for them?

Next question — is it fair to tell them?

Australia has decided to wait till next December and send in a team of anthropologists who know about New Guinea's primitive people. The idea is to introduce the natives to civilization gradually.

Does a toothache feel any better if you're introduced to it gradually?

Oppenheimer and Security

The final decision of the Atomic Energy Commission puts an official end to the case of Dr. J. ROBERT OPPENHEIMER, regarded by fellow-scientists as the inventor of the atomic bomb. But it by no means ends the controversy aroused by the charges against Dr. OPPENHEIMER.

The charges were that Dr. Oppenheimer is not qualified to be entrusted with atomic secrets or serve as head of the scientific body of consultants for the Atomic Energy Commission.

The charges were examined by a three-member special board headed by Dr. GORDON GRAY, president of the University of North Carolina. The personnel of this board was of an unusually high type. The board decided, by a two to one vote, that while Dr. OPPENHEIMER was loyal, he had hindered development of the H-bomb and "shown a serious disregard for the security system."

The findings were then reviewed by the five-member AEC. It split three to two. One member held Dr. OPPENHEIMER was disloyal. One held that he was not, and should be continued in his post. Three made no decision on the issue of loyalty, threw out the charge that Dr. OPPENHEIMER had hindered H-bomb development, then found:

"His continuing associations with Communists, including his admitted meetings with HAAKON CHEVALIER in Paris as recently as last December . . . present a serious picture . . . In his associations he has repeatedly exhibited a willful disregard of the normal and proper obligations of security . . . Substantial defects of character and imprudent and dangerous associations, particularly with known subversives who place the interests of foreign powers above those of the United States are reasons for disqualification."

The AEC found, as did the Gray Board, that Dr. OPPENHEIMER did not reveal any atomic secrets. But it stated:

"A Government official having access to the most sensitive areas of restricted data and to the innermost details of national war plans and weapons must measure up to exemplary standards of reliability, self-discipline and trustworthiness. Dr. Oppenheimer has fallen far short of acceptable standards . . .

"On the basis of the record before the Commission, comprising the transcript of the hearing before the Gray Board as well as reports of Military Intelligence and the Federal Bureau of Investigation, we find Dr. OPPENHEIMER is not entitled to the continued confidence of the Government and of this Commission because of the proof of fundamental defects of his character."

In plain words this means that Dr. OPPENHEIMER's usefulness to the Nation's secret defense program is at an end.

THE FBI says crime in this country is increasing four times as fast as the increase in population. To get these items into former balance, much harder work will have to be done either by the law-enforcement agencies or the stork.

Pontiac square dancers are interested in the forthcoming publication of "Allemande Left," a directory being compiled covering the devotees of that popular diversion in Michigan. There are said to be 25,000 of them, several hundred of whom are local residents.

The long and slender snake seen in some of our lakes and swamps is the common black snake, which like the streaked grass snake, blue racer and others, will not bite you, and does its best to get away..

Says People in Shacks Can Blame Only Selves!

A recent letter told about people living in chicken coops, houses made of bottles, etc. Most of these houses made of bottles are built at twice the cost of an ordinary house, just to draw attention.

I believe that nine out of ten people who live in shacks or chicken coops have no one to blame but themselves.

What does he mean, "The best way to lick this so-called Communism is to see that everything needed for a well-balanced living is provided for the people"? And who, may I ask, is to provide it? How many people would care to work and support these idlers? If we all become idlers, what then? Some country this would be.

If these people spent their time working and saving instead of bathing themselves in self-pity, they could lift themselves out of their squalor. The only charity that should be given is for children and the handicapped.

The one thing that has built this country into such a grand and glorious place is our system of free enterprise. If he wants quotations, remember, "The poor we will always have with us."

Case Records of a Psychologist

Parents, Don't Become Alarmed If Baby Fails to Walk and Talk at a Certain Age

Tommy's Daddy is alarmed because Tommy isn't walking although his younger cousin already has acquired this accomplishment. You parents must mix a lot of "horse sense" with your child rearing. Don't prod your child unduly to flatter your own ego. There are wide variations among youngsters in muscular strength.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case L-353: Tommy F., aged 15 months, is a well developed boy.

"But, Dr. Crane, he still doesn't walk," his Daddy informed me. "Yet my sister has a little girl who is only 11 months old, and she walks all the time.

"So what is wrong with my son? You don't think Tommy might be low in his intelligence or something, do you?

"He looks just as bright as my sister's little girl, but he sits on the floor or crawls around after her, while she walks easily."

Some babies walk earlier because they are lighter in weight. Heavy youngsters thus may be slower in walking.

Furthermore, females develop a little faster than the males, as revealed in x-rays of their bone maturity.

The average youngster starts walking at about 14 months of age. But some "average" children don't walk till 16 months or later, while others may start out at 10 months.

It is true that an abnormal delay in walking or talking may warrant suspicion of a lower I.Q.

Professor H. L. Hollingworth made a thorough survey that has been typical ever since of the ages at which walking and talking occur.

He analyzed the age of walking among gifted babies, normal babies, and the definitely feebleminded, and found the results shown in the following table, where "G" means the gifted, "N" the normal, and "F" the feebleminded:

	Walking	Talking
"G" . .	12.8 mo.	11.2 mo.
"N" . .	13.9 mo.	15.3 mo.
"F" . .	25.1 mo.	38.5 mo.

Please remember that those figures represent the average age. So some gifted children might not walk till far later than some normal children, etc.

Don't prod your child in order to make him fit into the "gifted" category.

And don't even try to force him to sit up prematurely, for the average baby will evolve these muscular accomplishments when he is physically, as well as mentally, ready.

To force a baby to sit up too early, may cause curvature of his spine due to weakness of the muscles.

Besides, some babies get more exercise than others, so they are physically ready to sit up or walk or talk, before others who may actually have a higher I.Q.

For example, babies are imitative, so if they have brothers and sisters around them, they may try to mimic the latter. If they are "only" children, however, they may not be stimulated as fast in such directions.

And children who are kept in a crib longer than others, may be slower to crawl or walk than those who spend more time in a play pen.

Play pens have a firmer flooring, which encourages a child to move around more readily.

Aunt Het

I want everything down in black and white. Cousin Ben is honest, but anybody is apt to think an agreement is like he wishes it was.

David Lawrence Says:

GOP Senatorial Nominee in Dutch Over McCarthy

WASHINGTON—The first Republican nominee for a seat in the U.S. Senate to stick his neck out on the McCarthy issue is Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, formerly a member of the House of Representatives.

Case says in a prepared statement that if elected he will not only vote against continuing the Wisconsin senator as chairman of the Senate Committee on Governmental Operations, but he will vote to ban him from being a member.

This sounds like a bold and courageous step because it could conceivably cost Case the election, but it really isn't as courageous as it sounds.

For, if the indictment made by Case is in his judgment supportable, he logically should have advocated that Sen. McCarthy be removed from the Senate altogether.

If McCarthy isn't eligible to be a member of one Senate committee on account of the reasons given by Case, then he isn't eligible to sit in the Senate at all.

★ ★ ★

This means that Case is saying to the people of Wisconsin that the man they elected in 1952 with full knowledge of his views and course of action in public office is to be debarred from serving them on important committees of the majority party as a consequence of the vote of the people of New Jersey, and any other states which concur in that procedure.

This is but another way of punishing a man for the views expressed by him in the performance of what he believes to be his duty to the people of his own state.

Case is classed as a "liberal," but it is illiberal to attempt to remove a man from a Senate committee because he holds a viewpoint on public affairs different from the views of a majority of his colleagues in his party.

Case says that congressional investigations are sometimes worth while, but that Sen. McCarthy should be punished because his "participation" in the work of the committee in question has produced a "distracting and divisive effect."

This assumes that there must be conformity of thought—if not thought control—in the United States Senate, and that any chairman or member of a committee with a tendency to produce "distracting or divisive" effects will be threatened with removal from membership on any committee in which he has previously served.

This is an odd proposal to be offered in a republic which boasts about freedom of expression by the members of its national legislature.

"It is obvious," says Case, "that our government simply could not function if the executive departments and their personnel were subjected to constant and unjustified harassment and attack by congressional committees."

But all through the Truman administration that happened. The Democratic administration called the inquiries on tax-fixing and RFC scandals "harassment" and Mr. Truman called the Hiss inquiry a "red herring," which was distracting attention from Republican "errors."

Case cannot give any assurance that if he helps to elect a Democrat to the United States Senate, from New Jersey, by causing thousands of Republicans to stay at home next autumn he will be restraining the Democrats, if they control the next Congress, from harassment of the executive departments.

That would be their meat in the next two years in order to provide campaign food for the 1956 campaign, and anyone with the slightest experience with behavior of congressional committees in the last 40 years can testify that there have been many members of both houses who have ridden roughshod over executive department officials and employes, though Case says "until recently this was not a matter of general concern."

Martin Dies of Texas, who headed up the House un-American Activities Committee 20 years ago, and every chairman since has been criticized for efforts to get deceitful persons to tell the truth to their own government and to help it get rid of subversive influences. Case admits that there is a function, however, for the congressional committees. He says:

"Yet, where there is reason to suspect the existence of serious dereliction which cannot be, or is not being, remedied by the executive branch itself, the most searching scrutiny by Congress is not only proper but mandatory. On this point the lesson of the Hiss case will not be forgotten."

If the New Jersey senatorial nominee had consulted the leaders of his party here they would never have advised him to issue the statement he did.

As it is, there is pessimism now among Republicans in Congress about the outlook for the election of a Republican senator in New Jersey this autumn.

For there are many thousands of Democrats who came over to the Republican party on the anti-Communist issue in 1952, especially in Hudson County, who will be wondering whether they should stay home, or vote Democratic next time.

Long about a double semester ago we suspected that Mr. Dulles' perpetual smile was a painted quip upon a painted notion.

It was a wide grin that made his bridge-work look like a glove stretcher for his optimistic expression.

We know in international diplomacy you play both ends against the middle like an idiot on an ear of corn.

But as the conferences bloomed and withered we realized Dulles was ringing up fares in the car-barn.

Just when we thought he had everything setting as pretty as a jay-bird in a cherry tree along comes Winsome Churchill and knocks everything for an-inside-the-park boner.

He pulled the plug on the Geneva Conference with a dexterity hatched of long expedience. If all babies in the world look like Winnie we should use 'em for bait in Winslow Homer's gulf stream.

The upshoot of the aftermath is that we were taken like tablets after a hearty indigestion. England cannot exist without its Far Eastern trade and we don't mean yesterday's tea bags.

Then Winnicker jerked the string. It was a figure Big Four trap. When France took a run-out powder we were up salt creek with the moth ball flotilla.

Why Bother With Old Messy Liniments! Dr. Brady Will Tell Why, What to Use

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

If nothing can be absorbed through the unbroken skin why use liniment?

Let us omit the premise and merely consider the purpose for using liniment.

You must remember no one has proved that chemical, medicine, food or other substance can be absorbed through unbroken skin.

The word liniment is derived from the Latin word meaning anoint or smear. Originally liniments consisted of mixtures of this and that with oil of one kind or another.

For instance camphor liniment, commonly called camphorated oil, is coarsely powdered gum camphor dissolved in warm cottonseed oil or olive oil in the proportion of one level tablespoonful of camphor to 4 tablespoonfuls of oil.

Turpentine liniment is made by shaking together oil of turpentine (spirits of turpentine) and soft soap liniment (commonly called tincture of green soap), one part of turpentine with three or four parts of green soap liniment.

Lime liniment, otherwise known as Carron oil (because it was first used on burns at the Carron Iron Works in Scotland) is made by shaking up together equal parts of lime water and linseed oil or olive oil.

Lime water is made by putting a chunk of live (unslaked) lime the size of your three thumbs in an earthen crock of later, letting it stand several hours, and using only the upper clear solution without disturbing the sediment.

Just between ourselves I wouldn't mess with any of these quaint remedies — unless perchance to impress grandma if I thought she were the real head of the house who would decide whether to retain my services or call a better doctor.

When I believe application of an external may do good I prefer less messy preparations.

However, if you don't mind having your clothing, bedclothes and the whole house reeking with the stuff go ahead and play with the liniment or embrocation to your heart's content, child.

I believe some external remedies do good in certain circumstances, or perhaps I should say I believe application of remedies externally does good.

Just how, you may ask, if nothing can be absorbed through the skin? Quiet, sophomore, I'm good at squirming out of such predicaments.

Pieces to follow will deal with external applications which I recommend for use in the home.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

Caustic Soda Blast Injures 22

GARY, Ind. (AP)—Twenty-two workers were injured, two critically, in an explosion yesterday in a 9,500-gallon vat of caustic soda at an experimental detinning plant at the west edge of Gary.

* * *

The explosion blew a five-cubic foot metal casting through the roof, 70 feet high, and near busy Cline Avenue. The roof was blown off, and part of the front wall was blown out. Tin cans being reclaimed in the vat were blown against the plant office building 75 feet away, and windows in the office were broken.

Listed in critical condition were Monderville H. Woodworth, 40, and Charles G. Obertini, 46, both of nearby Hammond.

Aged Boiler, Man Both to Retire After 33 Years

CHANDLER, Ariz. (AP) — Bert Metcalf was hired as custodian at Chandler High School in 1921 — the year the heating plant was installed.

Over the years the boiler slowly "tired out," as Metcalf says, "and I sure got weary of keeping her going."

Today Metcalf retires as superintendent of grounds and buildings for the Chandler schools. And the old boiler will be retired with him.

Coat, Suit Manufacturing Big Business in Kentucky

By LAURA Z. HOBSON

HARRODSBURG, Kentucky (INS) — The coat and suit business in the Blue Grass State? When I first heard about "Seventh avenue in Kentucky," I thought some joker was trying it on for size, but now I've seen one of the five Handmacher-Vogle clothing plants—and pocketed all my doubts.

Because my sons an I improvise our tour as we go along, like happy-go-lucky composers at pianos, we hit Harrodsburg on a Sunday afternoon, and the factory we'd come to see was buttoned up tight.

A phone call to its president, Joseph A. Getzow, set up an interview at the business-like hour of 7 p.m., and we drove out first to the local plant, the others being at Lebanon and Glasgow.

We found a modern white one-story building; its big entrance gates and driveway, the trees and fields around it, all make it more like a country club than part of an industrial experiment that started in 1946.

No watchman was visible, and feeling a bit like thieves casing a joint, we went around the grounds, peering into windows at Sunday-idle machinery and smart offices with panelled walls, steel desks and sound-proofed ceilings.

But not till I spied four denuded dressmaker forms and a rack of women's coats in pastel wools did I really believe I was seeing the garment trade in the flesh.

Stylish-stout flesh, I'd say, from the measurements given me later on the terrace of the handsome new Getzow house on the shores of Herrington Lake, "Just a piece up the road."

In eight years, Getzow said, "our business has grown from 2½ million a year to 17 million—that was last year, and this year will be nearly as big," about 3800 workers are in the five plants, with an annual payroll of $5,500,000.

"Only the designs and patterns," he explained, "come from New York and Philadelphia. All the fitting, manufacturing and shipping is done down here—about 95 per cent of our total business."

Large, affable and bald, Getzow also heads the two Lebanon plants, and was recently elected president of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce.

We're union shops," he went on. "Our folks used to be farmers, housewives, clerks in stores. About 95 per cent had never worked on a power machine before we trained them, and 90 per cent never on any machine at all."

He painted glowing pictures of the workers' feelings, but it's kind of a principle with me to pipe down about labob-management relations unless I can chew the rag with both sides. Since it's tough to connect up with workers or union officials on a Sunday evening, I'll put that part of the Kentucky garment story in mothballs, for this summer at least.

Originally Getzow was a Philadelphian, with a law degree from the University of Pennsylvania, years of department store and management experience, and captain's bars at the end of the war.

I am sure his eight years in Kentucky loaded him to the seams with good old southern hospitality, though, for as my kids and I were leaving, his young wife Phyllis, once of East Orange, N. J., suddenly discovered we had planned on "dinner later on."

"It's after eight," she said. "Even the Beaumont Inn is sewed up tight by now," and despite my protests, she stitched together an impromptu supper of cold chicken, bacon and eggs, toast and ripe cherries.

Never before have we had a free hand-out from big business, and never before have I tailored a bread-and-butter letter to fit printer's measure.

Regain Lost Prestige Roks Tell U. N. Body

SEOUL (AP)—South Korea today called on the U. N. Command to restore its "lost prestige" by "prompt and vigorous" action against what it called deliberate Communist violations of the Korean truce.

"The UNC has fallen into a Communist trap which restricts U. N. military power while the Communist buildup continues unabated," said Dr. Karl Hong Ki, government spokesman.

Karl said the Communists have more than 400 warplanes operating from 30 new airfields in North Korea. And he declared that such incidents as the reported firing at a U. N. patrol boat Wednesday "are not accidental."

The U. N. command makes "only token protests" against Communist insults and injuries, he said.

"Only prompt and vigorous retaliation will restore the lost prestige of the United Nations—particularly among Asians," he said.

Chicken Pox, Mumps Also Show Improvement During Week

Oakland County rallied from its siege of chicken pox and measles last week and showed some improvement in mumps as well.

Weekly report from Oakland County Health Department, released by director Dr. John D. Monroe, showed just 15 cases of chicken pox, compared with 58 the week before. Measles struck 29 people, less than half the previous week's 71. Mumps cases totaled 36, a drop from the preceding week's 45 cases.

The county health department report, covering the whole county except Pontiac, follows in full:

	Past Week	Week End. June 26, '54	Week End. July 4, '53

The Caine Mutiny

Copyright

Synopsis: Willie Keith is in the Navy, assigned to the dirty, old minesweeper, the Caine. He left a girl behind him, May Wynn. He isn't quite sure whether he cares for her or not. His father sends him a Bible just before his death. Willie forgets to decode a message and gets reprimanded. A new officer, Lt. Comdr. Queeg, comes on board.

CHAPTER 9

Languishing in hack, Willie missed the important moment when Captain Queeg first set foot on the deck of the Caine.

The officer of the deck was Ensign Harding. Dressed in wrinkled, sweaty khakis, he was leaning against the gangway desk, happily eating an apple, when blue sleeves with two and a half gold stripes rose along the ladder railings, followed by the face and form of Lieut. Cmdr. Queeg.

He put down the apple, spitting out a seed, and walked to the ladder. Commander Queeg saluted the colors, and then saluted Harding. "Request permission to come aboard, sir," he said politely.

"Premission granted." Harding gave a bare flip of a salute, Caine-style.

The new captain smiled slightly and said, "My name is Queeg." He held out his hand.

Harding stiffened, gulped, pulled up his belt, saluted again, and tried to return the handshake, but Queeg had put his hand up to return the salute, so that Harding grasped empty air. Then the handclasp was fumblingly accomplished, and Harding babbled, "I'm sorry, Captain—I didn't recognize you——"

"No reason you should. You've never seen me before."

"No, of course, sir—Captain de Vriess wasn't expecting you, Captain." He whirled on the gangway petty officer, Winston, who was staring at Queeg as though trying to see into his soul. "Go tell the captain the new captain is here——"

"My name is Harding, sir," said the officer of the deck. "Assistant first lieutenant."

"Been aboard long, Harding?"

"Just about three weeks, sir."

"I see." The new captain turned and watched the gig crew struggling up the ladder with his gear.

By the time Winston reappeared, he had brightened his shoes, and snatched a clean white cap from somebody. He saluted the officer of the deck smartly. "Capt. de Vriess coming now, sir."

"Very well." Harding returned the unexpected salute, feeling like a hypocrite.

De Vriess emerged from the passageway, greeted the new commanding officer, and shook hands affably. They made a neat picture of the old and the new: De Vriess tieless and comfortable in faded khakis, Queeg correct in stiff white collar and fresh campaign ribbons. "Had your breakfast?" said De Vriess.

"Yes, thank you."

"Would you like to come to my cabin?"

"Fine."

"Let me lead the way—or do you know these 1200-tonners?"

"You'd better lead. I know more about the Bristol class."

The two commanding officers sat in De Vriess' cabin, drinking coffee.

"Kind of sudden, this whole deal," said De Vriess.

"Well, I didn't much like being yanked out of anti-submarine school," said Queeg. "I'd moved my wife and family down to San Diego and we were all set for six good weeks, anyway. First shore billet I'd had in four years."

"I guess they want you somewhere in pretty much of a hurry, too. New construction, I suppose?"

"I don't know. I hope they give me a supply depot in the middle of Utah. Some place with no water. Have you had much to do with minesweeping?"

"Not a hell of a lot. Seems to me they might have sent me to Mine Warfare School. But I guess somebody in the Bureau had his pants on fire for some reason."

"Well, hell, you know as much as I did when I came aboard. Not a whole lot to it—more coffee?"

"No, thanks."

De Vriess took Queeg's cup and set it on the desk. Queeg reached into his pocket. De Vriess, expecting him to pull out cigarettes, picked up a packet of matches.

But Queeg brought out a couple of bright steel ball bearings the size of marbles, and began rolling them absently between the thumb and fingers of his left hand. "I imagine," said Queeg casually, "that it's mainly a matter of towing rigs of one sort and another."

"That's about all there is to it," said De Vriess, even more casually. "All the dope is in BuShips 270, the Minesweeping Manual. You might take a look at it one of these days."

"I've read it. Seems simple enough."

"Oh, it is. Pure routine. The boys back aft are pretty fair hands at it. And your first lieutenant, Maryk, is a crackerjack. You won't have any trouble. We just ran off a very satisfactory exercise last week. Sorry you weren't aboard."

"Maryk," said Queeg. "Regular?"

"No. There are only two regulars beside yourself."

Queeg stopped rolling the steel balls, and began rattling them slowly in his fist. "Good bunch?"

"Not bad. Some good, some so-so."

"Yes."

"Might I have a look-see?"

De Vriess hesitated, casting about for a diplomatic way to refuse the request, but none occurred to him. He pulled open his desk drawer. "If you want to," he said, and passed the bundle of long white sheets to his successor.

Queeg flipped quickly through the sheets, ignoring the elaborate mathematical scores, glancing at De Vriess's general summary of each officer's character. De Vriess was relieved when Queeg handed the reports back to him, saying, "Seems like a good wardroom, all in all."

"As good as you'll find, I think."

"What's the matter with this Keith?"

"Nothing. He's going to be a good officer. Needed a kick in the pants, and I gave it to him. I don't know but what I'll rewrite that before I shoot it in. He's willing and has a good head."

"Why did he need a kick in the pants?"

"Well, he mislaid a dispatch. Not an important one, but on general principles — when he's just getting started, you know—I thought he ought to be brought up short."

"Well, you're right there."

"Did your communications officer catch the mistake — this Keefer?"

"Keefer does very well. Of course no system is foolproof. He's a strange duck, by the way. Brilliant mind. A writer. Read about all the books in the world. Son of a gun's been working on a novel in off hours—"

"How does the ship handle?" Queeg asked pleasantly.

"Like any destroyer. All the power you need. She won't turn on a dime like these new destroyer-escorts. But you can maneuver her. Have you handled destroyers?"

"Well," said Queeg. "I guess I've had a few million hours as OOD under way."

"How about coming alongside and so forth?"

De Vriess regarded his successor narrowly. "Were you exec on this Bristol-class destroyer?"

"Well, just a month or so. Had almost every other department — it was the Falk—guns, hull, black gang, communications — I was just breaking in as an exec when they yanked me over to a carrier—"

"Skipper give you the conn much?"

"Well, there wasn't much chance. A few times."

De Vriess offered Queeg a cigarette and lit one himself. "If you like," he said carelessly, waving out the match, "we can take her out for a couple of runs before you take over. I can stand by while you shoot a few approaches, and getting away from alongside, and maybe some power turns and so forth—"

"Thanks, that won't be necessary."

De Vriess puffed twice on his cigarette in silence. "Well," he said, "I'm at your service. How do you want to go about this?"

"I thought maybe I'd relieve tomorrow," said Queeg, "if I could see the registered pubs and the reports today."

De Vriess was pleased and startled. He had relieved his own commanding officer on the Caine in forty-eight hours; but, as executive officer, he had been fully as familiar with the ship as the captain.

Queeg was stepping into a vessel of a new type, about which he knew almost nothing. De Vriess rose. "Good enough," he said. "Pretty nice to think of seeing my wife in three days. How about a quick Cook's tour of the ship?"

"Okay." Queeg dropped the steel balls into his pocket.

"If I'd known you were coming," said De Vriess, "I'd have run off a captain's inspection and shined her up for you a bit. The boys can do a good job, though you may not think so to look at her now."

"Pretty cool for Hawaii, this time of year," said Queeg.

* * *

When Willie Keith was summoned to the wardroom, he found the two commanding officers drinking coffee at the green-covered table. "Ensign Keith," said De Vriess with sardonic formality, "Lieutenant Commander Queeg."

The new captain rose and greeted Willie with a firm handshake and a friendly smile.

In one anxious glance Willie took in these details: A small man, slightly shorter than himself; matty blues with two campaign ribbons and one battle star; an oval, somewhat plump fair face with small narrowed eyes; and some strands of sandy hair across an almost bald head, with thicker fringers at the sides.

"Hello, Mr. Keith," said Queeg with cordial good humor, and a gay lift in the tones.

Next morning at eleven the crew lined up at quarters on the forecastle, and the ceremony of transferring command was enacted in a perfunctory way.

After the ceremony the two commanding officers went below to the captain's cabin, where De Vriess turned over a number of tagged keys and safe combinations to Queeg.

"Well — I'm off." De Vriess cocked his head and looked his successor in the eye. Queeg met the glance for a moment, then offered his hand to De Vriess.

"Best of luck with your new construction."

"If I get it. You've got a good ship here, Queeg, and a good crew."

"I hope I'm up to handling it. Well, thanks for the dope. Is the gig standing by for you?"

"I just ordered it." De Vriess ground out his cigar, and opened the door. "Whittaker! How about bearing a hand with my gear?"

Willie was at the gangway, buckling on his gun belt, when two steward's mates came up with the bags. De Vriess followed and then put his foot up on a life line, staring out over the harbor. He looked strangely impressive in dress blues.

Sailors chipping paint on the quarterdeck threw curious glances at him and exchanged low remarks. Willie, oppressed by a heavy gap of embarrassment between himself and his ex-captain, felt obliged to make conversation. "How does it feel, sir?"

"How does what feel?" said De Vriess, not looking at him.

"Well, leaving the ship after—how long—over five years, isn't it?"

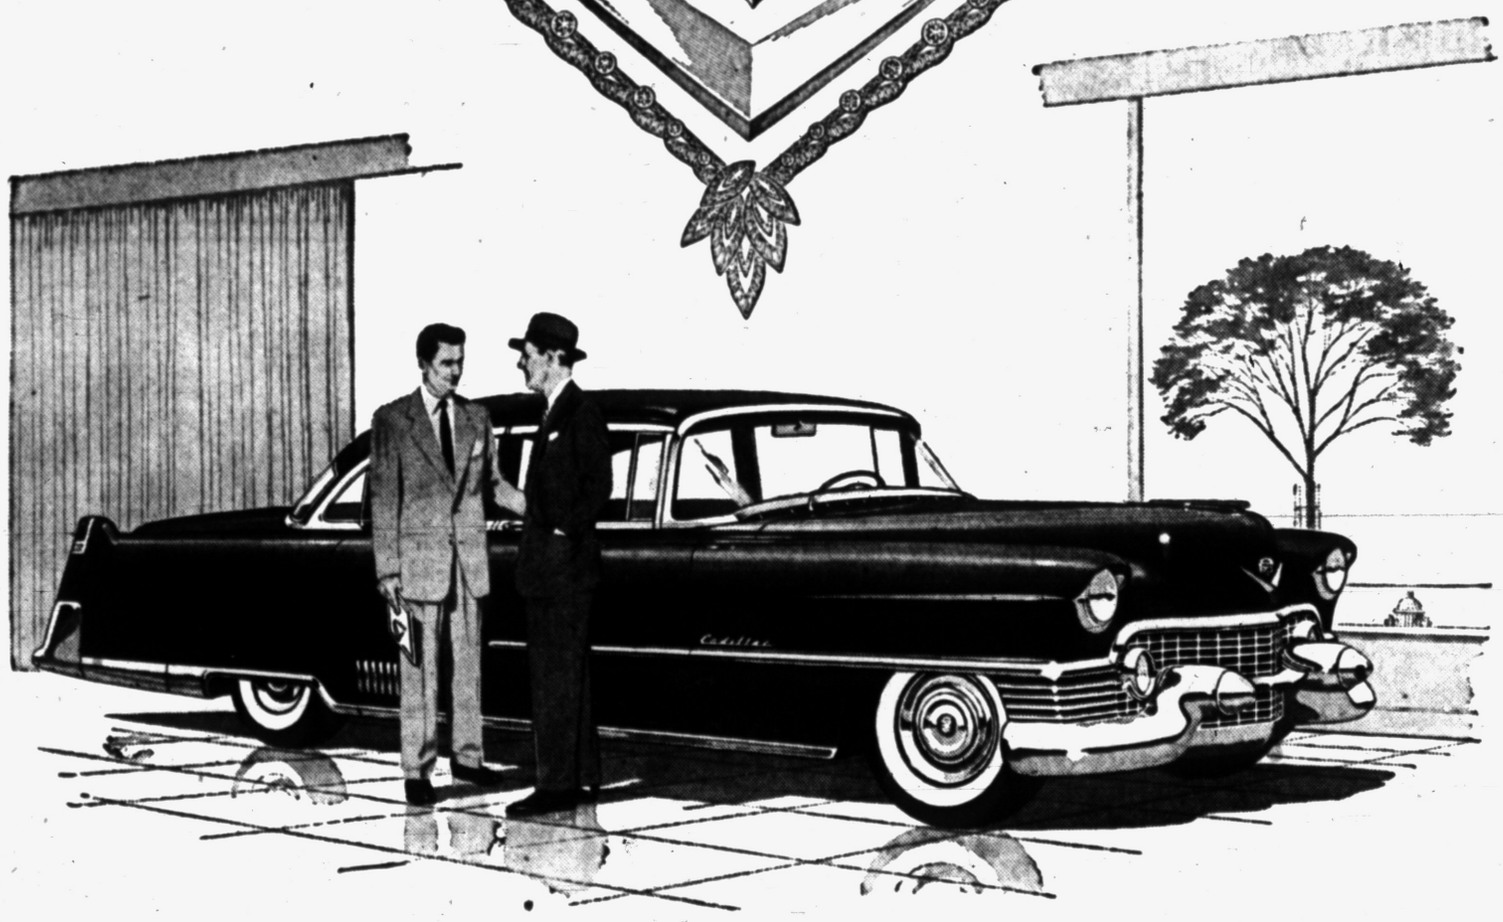
De Vriess bent his head sidewise and inspected Willie coldly. "Happiest damn moment of my life," he growled.

Then the dinging of a bell and the asthmatic cough of a motor announced that the gig was coming alongside. "Somebody toss down my gear," grunted De Vriess.

He began to descend the ladder, and went out of sight. Then his head and arms reappeared. He looked up at the sailors and threw them a salute. "Thanks," he said, and dropped down into the gig.

To Be Continued

Cadillac



No Compromise This Time!

It was over twenty years ago that he took title to his first motor car—and, since that time, he has owned and driven almost a dozen different automobiles.

And yet, every time he accepted the keys to a new car, he knew in his heart that it was a compromise.

For—like so many millions of his fellow men—he had his heart set on a Cadillac!

Well, there's no compromise this time! The magic moment has arrived. The papers are all in order . . . the keys are in his hand . . . and the car of his dreams is waiting for him to take the wheel.

It's his!

And, if you could ride with him on that first journey, you'd know what it means to have a motoring dream come true.

You'd see excitement in his eyes as he rolls majestically through the city's traffic—and puts his Cadillac through its thrilling paces on the open road.

You'd see honest pride in his face as he sits, calmly and serenely in the driver's seat, and catches the admiring glances of his fellow motorists.

And you'd sense the joy in his heart as he turns down that familiar street and heads for the happiest homecoming of the year!

In short, you'd witness a motorist in his finest hour—living out an experience that has no counterpart in the world of transportation. It is a thrill and an inspiration and an education—all rolled into one.

* * *

A friend of ours put it this way, after taking his inaugural ride in his first Cadillac. "There are two kinds of automobiles," he told us. "There are Cadillacs—and there are all the others."

Whether or not you've driven "all the others", we can't say. But of one thing we are certain: Until you've spent an hour in the driver's seat of a 1954 Cadillac, your motoring education is not complete.

Why not come in soon and do so? It would be a joy and a privilege to put you behind the wheel.

Scientist Hints Heir Was Slain

Believes Drugs Injected by Another; Fight for Fortune Opens Today

CHICAGO (AP)—The first round in the expected legal fight for Montgomery Ward Thorne's two-million-dollar fortune opened today as coroner's officials investigated a pathologist's report hinting he was slain.

Dr. Harry Leon, in a report yesterday, said the 20-year-old mail order heir died violently of alcohol and drug poisons, and that someone else probably injected the drugs into his veins.

Thorne died "by undue means," Dr. Leon said in his report to Coroner Walter E. McCarron. "This definitely was not a natural death," he said.

The possibility of foul play is under consideration by McCarron.

"There is definitely something wrong in this case," McCarron said. "It appears from the physician's report that a second party, expert with the needle, may have administered drugs into the veins of Thorne before he died."

Thorne's body was found in his one-room apartment June 19. The coroner's office has started a search for all persons who may have seen him between 1 a.m. and 5 a.m.

• • •

Dr. Leon said the position of fresh needle marks on the youth's arm indicated another person made them shortly before his death.

Asked directly, "Was Thorne murdered?" Dr. Leon replied, "That is up to the coroner's jury to determine."

A coroner's jury, at five emotion-packed hearings since the youth's death, have heard several witnesses, including his mother, Mrs. Marion Thorne. The inquest is to be resumed Wednesday. Mrs. Thorne's attorneys have said they intend to present "surprising—evidence."

Nine days before his death, Thorne rewrote his will to remove his mother as chief beneficiary and to leave three quarters of his estate to his sweetheart, Maureen Ragen, 18, and her mother Aleen.

Miss Ragen says she and Thorne were to have been married in December, after Thorne's 21st birthday, but Mrs. Thorne denies this.

Probate Judge Charles G. Seidel of Kane County was summoned to Chicago to preside over today's hearing on a proof of Thorne's heirship in a petition filed by the Ragens' lawyer. The hearing will concern only the youth's right to the fortune left by his father Gordon C. Thorne, who died in 1938.

The youth's mother and his aunt, Mrs. Carol McDougal Lind, have been subpoenaed to appear.

3 Seek 2 Posts on School Board

Romeo Voters to Elect Members on Monday, Decide 7 Proposals

ROMEO — Two school board members will be chosen and seven proposals will be decided upon by voters here Monday.

Three candidates are seeking election to the pair of three-year-term seats on the Board of Education. Incumbent President Lawrence W. Rickett of Washington, Dr. Ralph G. Renwick, Romeo dentist, and Walter Sewell of Washington are the candidates.

The first of the seven proposals seeks authorization for disposal of a parcel of land to the Village of Romeo for street purposes. The parcel is part of School property, now being leveled for construction of additional classrooms.

The next three propositions ask authority to dispose of three schoolhouses and sites—Cascade, Pleasant Knoll and Hall.

Also sought is approval to dispose of the Mack School site and the Crissman schoolhouse. The property covered in these propositions belonged to school districts which existed before consolidating with the Romeo district.

The first proposal is the much-discussed question of whether the Romeo Community School District shall be subject to the provisions of the Teachers Tenure Act. Endorsing the adoption of the proposition is the Michigan Education Assn. for the Romeo Community Schools.

All qualified electors in the district are eligible to vote in Monday's election.

Citizens living within Precinct One will vote in the Washington Township Hall in Romeo. Precinct Two voters will cast their ballots in the Washington Township Hall in Washington. Electors in Precinct Three will vote in the Davis School.

Teacher Cleared of Serious Charge

NEW YORK (AP)—Jerome Binder, high school English and speech teacher, has been cleared of charges that he tried to induce two pupils to steal a car for him.

Binder, 29, who teaches at the Manhattan School of Aviation Trades, had been arrested on reports he offered to "fix" the grades of two teen-agers if they would get a car for him.

Binder's attorney termed the charges "fantastic," and said the two students were not even in Binder's class.

Yesterday, Magistrate J. Irwin Shapiro dismissed the complaint against Binder, saying a grand jury had heard all the facts in the case and decided there was no ground for indictment.

Mewing Feline Summons Police to Burglary Spot

NORWALK, Ohio (AP) — A cat helped bring police to the scene of a burglary in a farm dwelling near here.

The party-line phone at the home of George McMillen apparently was knocked off the hook by the thief. It dangled near the floor and the cat mewed.

Clarence Lyons, who lives across the street and is on the same line, heard the mewing yesterday over his phone. He went to the McMillen home, discovered the robbery—a minor one—and called police.

TV Set Must Be Owned Before Asking for Relief

CHARDON, Ohio (AP)—Unless your television set is paid for, you can't go on relief in Geauga County any more.

Wife-Stealing, Assault Don't Make Friends

TEXAS CITY, Tex. (AP) — Sam Lewing, 38, was testifying in the preliminary hearing of Henry Boles, 40, on charges of aggravated assault. He said Boles threatened to kill him, and "ran around" with Mrs. Lewing.

A defense attorney asked the witness if he was angry with Boles.

Not exactly, replied Lewing.

"What?" the attorney pressed. "You say this man steals your wife, threatens to kill you and hits you over the head with a chain, and you're not mad at him?"

Fugitive's Savings Used to Lure Him Back Home

McALESTER, Okla. (AP)—Warden Jerome J. Waters Jr. is offering $1,500 to a fugitive from the State Penitentiary, but there's a catch to it.

Waters said Paul Einger, 55, who was serving life for murder before his escape from an Oklahoma City hospital Wednesday, could have the money he saved working in prison if he showed up at the front gate.

"Of course, if he come in," the warden added, "we will see that he doesn't get out again."

Roastin' Ears Good Eatin'

Last week we talked about having some special food which you could call your specialty in campfire cooking.

Here is one which can be used through the summer, and it is easy to do and really good. This is an idea that mother will like too.

Select your corn for your campfire cook out at the store or from a farmer friend. Corn which is well filled out will feel plump.

Carefully fold back the husks and break the corn away. Remove the silks and hold the ear of corn over a pan of melted butter while you use a small, clean brush to put the butter all over the corn. Let excess butter drain back into the pan.

Put the corn back inside the shucks and rewrap, tying the shucks in place with an extra piece of shuck torn into strips.

Lay on the coals of the fire for eight minutes, turning several times. Insert keys or clean nails in the ends for easy eating.

Some people suggest that you sprinkle the shucks before you put them on the coals, but if the shucks are nice and green I think that this is unnecessary. Hope that you get a chance to try this soon.

Dusty Air Will Enter Our Houses

But It Can Be Kept Out by Fan, Filter or Percipitator

By HUBBARD COBB

Seems that if there wasn't any dust in the air we wouldn't have pretty sunsets. We also wouldn't have dust clothes and we wouldn't have people who have to spend hours each day just dusting and then watching a whole new load of dust and dirt flow in via the open windows.

Now, while we can't keep dust and dirt out of the air, it is becoming possible to keep the stuff from getting into our homes.

An excellent way to do this, if you don't mind things getting a little stuffy, is just to seal all the doors and windows.

A more practical method, during the summer months, when we need fresh air, is to install a fan and filter in the windows. The fan pulls the outside air through the filter where much of the dirt and dust is removed. The clean air is then circulated throughout the house.

If you don't want to go this far, you can get cloth screens that fit into the windows and which will remove the large particles of dust and dirt without keeping too much of the fresh air out.

These window filters should be cleaned or replaced as soon as they become really dirty for once the mesh of the cloth is filled with dirt, little air is able to pass into the house.

People who live in homes with central air conditioning systems say they aren't bothered with dust and dirt because the air in the house is constantly passed through a filter in the air conditioning unit.

Dust and dirt, even pollen can be removed from the air inside called a percipitator which remove solid matter in the air by means of electricity.

Don't Tempt Babies in Creeping Stage

Once Baby arrives at the creeping stage, save time and temper by putting temptation out of his reach. For instance, if your telephone is now on a low table, plan to have it moved to a high wall shelf so it will be safe from his curious hands.

And until he learns that certain objects are not playthings, it's best to put away delicate china pieces while he's making a trip around the living room. Be sure, too, that light sockets are safely covered.

This blouse-and-skirt look is the smart summer fashion for toddlers too. Red binding accents the ruffled white nylon blouse. The attached gray nylon skirt is banded with white flocking.

Mock Apple Pie Fools Husbands

Thrifty Taste Treat Made With Soda Crackers

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Would you like to fool your husband, make him think he's eating apple pie? Serve him Mock Apple Pie with a big scoop of ice cream. Mrs. Charles Hampshire says this unusual dessert is both easy and economical to make.

As a first grade teahcer at Willis School, Mrs. Hampshire has a busy schedule during the school year. Until early this year she was attending classes at Wayne University to complete her degree. With that behind her, she has time to bowl and ride horseback occasionally. Her family consists of two grown sons and a junior high daughter.

MOCK APPLE PIE
By Mrs. Charles Hampshire

1 cup sugar
1 cup hot water
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
20 soda crackers

Boil sugar and water together for a minute or two. Add cream of tartar and the whole crackers. Let stand until the mixture becomes transparent. Put in an unbaked pie shell. Sprinkle with cinnamon and dot with butter. Bake in 450 oven for 5 minutes, reduce heat to 350 and bake 10-15 minutes longer. Delicious served with ice cream. Makes 1 small pie.

Is it just a coincidence that the person who always has advice to give away seldom has much else?

Sticks Her Neck Out by Being Eager, Then Is Let Down When No Calls Come

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: The other night I was at a wedding, and all evening my cousin and I were having a wonderful time with the band. One of the boys asked for my address and phone number and I gave them to him.

"But toward the end of the evening, a Marine made a play for me. He really seemed quite interested. He asked me for the last dance, also asked for my address and phone number and gave me his, suggesting that I write to him.

"He said he would call me the next Sunday, his last day at home. But Sunday came and went — and he didn't call. I don't know why, but it hit me hard.

"It could be he lost my address and phone number. So if he doesn't write within a week, would it be all right if I wrote to him? He really has me in a dither.

"To top it all off, the boy from the band didn't call, either. Of course, there still may be a chance. Please tell me what I should do."

There's a great deal of difference between being responsive and being over - eager. Also a difference between being discriminating and being "come-one, come all." A girl should recognize and understand those differences before being free with her phone number.

Your phone number and address are now written down in the little address books of two boys you know nothing about. One was hired to be at the wedding, the other was a guest. But both were complete strangers to you.

In your eagerness to make new friendships, that fact didn't seem to matter. Flirting with them was so much fun. It must have been fun for them, too, or they wouldn't have bothered to take notes on how to find you again.

But the note - taking was no insurance that you'd ever see them again. To you, however, it was proof positive. You counted on their using your phone number. You had such high hopes as to the Marine that you're in a tailspin because he forgot you.

Fun at a party can be the beginning of a real friendship when there are enough other mutual elements to make "continued in our next" convenient and possible.

But having fun doesn't always kindle that big spark that makes getting together again a sure thing.

You forgot that. You forgot, too, that the Marine had his family and friends to occupy him on the last day he was home.

If he eventually gets around to writing you, answer his letter but don't stick your neck out any further than you already have. It's not a very attractive gesture for a smart girl to make.

Smart Either Way

One Piece or Two Piece

By ELIZABETH HILLYER

More and more storage furniture for fall takes a build-up. We're rapidly discovering how to add more put-away space where it takes up not an inch more of floor space — storage furniture grows taller, or it stacks a second special unit on top of the first.

The particularly interesting feature of this new furniture designed by John J. Keal is that it's either one-piece and compact, or two-piece where there's room for two separate cabinets.

The upper unit isn't mere superstructure, but is an individual cabinet that's tall enough to be used alone.

The glassed - in unit provides something special in the way of show-off shelves for china, glass and decorative objects — its top as well as its sliding doors are glass.

Three shallow drawers below are well proportioned for place mats and other linens, and the lower drawer on the all-wood cabinet is wide enough to hold table leaves. (Sketched at fall preview showings in Chicago at the Merchandise Mart.)

A large number of friends gathered at First Baptist Church Wednesday evening for a farewell service in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Dwight Slater and their two children.

The Slaters are leaving in the near future to serve as missionaries at Palmer Memorial Hospital at Katwa, Belgian Congo, Africa, under the Conservative Baptist Mission Board. Several months of training and language study in Brussels, Belgium, will precede their work.

Mrs. Slater took her nurse's training at Sparrow Hospital, Lansing, and has since been instructing a nursing course at Harper Hospital in Detroit where Dr. Slater served his internship.

The song service was conducted by the Rev. William Hakes, with Mrs. Hakes presenting solo selections. Ponnie Davis accompanied at the piano.

After a short message by Dr. Tom Humphrey, who will return this winter to his duties as a doctor at the mission station, the Slaters told of their call to work in the mission field. They showed pictures pertaining to the work they will be doing at Katwa.

New Stockings Stay Up by Themselves

NEW YORK (UP) — Now stockings stay up without assistance, thanks to the invention of a former model.

Blonde Kay Schafler uses spiral lastex threads in the top four inch of the stocking — one thread spiralling up, the other down. She calls the patented design the "cable grip," because it is similar to the design of huge cargo nets used by stevedores to load tanks, trucks or other heavy materials into the holds of ships.

Engrossing Hobby Builds Morale in Our Daily Work

By ANNE HEYWOOD

One of my talent scouts from the deep South has just given me a very interesting copy of Shakespeare's "Hamlet," with an even more interesting vocational story behind it.

Most of us, I guess, have tried hard at one time or another to read and enjoy Shakespeare only to find it pretty rough going.

There are so many archaic words, so many expressions, that we pretty much give up the effort. But not Alfred Stoner.

Alfred Stoner is a leading lawyer in Greenwood, Miss., now in his sixties. In his teens, he began to be interested in Shakespeare's works.

But he, too, found some of the terminology maddeningly obscure. He kept at it, studied endlessly, and finally began to get a good grasp of it.

Slowly, he became quite an expert Shakespearean scholar, with a complete library on the subject.

At this time, Mr. Stoner rose steadily in his profession. In addition to his busy law practice, he held many positions of honor in the community.

Finally, he decided to tackle "Hamlet," in many ways the most difficult of the Shakespearean plays.

He published a volume, called "Revealment of Hamlet," in which he gives comprehensive marginal notes, translating the 17th century language into present-day terms. I have just finished reading it, and it is a marvelous job.

More important, however, is the vocational moral, so to speak behind it.

So many of us go about our daily grind, moving ahead slowly or not at all, and wondering why we do not succeed.

But a man like Mr. Stoner is wiser than that. He knows that an engrossing hobby, particularly one which is a complete change of pace, bringing insight into our lives and thinking, will react forcefully on our daily work.

Far from exhausting us, or channeling important energy away from our life work, it is a constant source of zest and self-development, which adds impetus and success to everything we do.

Parent's Fault?

Defiance Has a Reason

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Why do we endure chronic defiance from children?

I put this question to a Mrs. R. who has been enduring it from her 12-year-old daughter. She tells me that Grace can accept no direction without attacking her.

"My mother recently visited us during a scene with Grace," Mrs. R. writes. "She and my sister urged me to spank her. Certainly as a child I never dared to speak to my mother as this girl speaks to me. Many's the time I got a slap across my mouth for 'answering back' . . . "

Mrs. R. learned her lesson well, didn't she? The slaps for "back talk" have ended all backtalk.

Just as Mrs. R. used to accept the slaps to avoid more hurt and humiliation by her mother, she now endures insolence from her daughter to avoid them, too.

Let's look back. Does Mrs. R. herself believe that she deserved those slaps? Or did someone else tell her that she deserved them? For sometimes, as children, we have not deserved slaps for "backtalk." Our motives for a protest have been misunderstood by impatient parents.

Because we were young and inexperienced in knowledge of our motives, we've allowed slappers to tell us we were bad when we were actually defending our sense of justice.

We could not say, "But Brother has no right to use my new school pen without asking my permission." Our inexperience with words and motives drove us to say, "I think you're mean and unfair to let Brother take my pen."

And the slappers, concerned with words instead of motives slapped us for the "backtalk."

Under such treatment, we can gradually lose sight of our good motives for protest. We begin to agree with the impatient people we have to live with. We agree that our motives were bad—and deserved the slaps.

Such submission to misjudgment took place without our knowledge. It is responsible for Mrs. R.'s acceptance of Grace's insolence.

To bring herself to fully realize it won't be a pleasant task.

Sometimes we need the support of a skilled person to reassure us in our struggle to rid ourselves of the anger we feel at those who trained us in such submission.

Mrs. R. may need such support in her fight to connect her youthful submission to slaps with today's submission to insolence. It will take courage to see them as one and the same thing.

Wife Asks Is Husband Too Polite

Dislikes His Offer to Carry Packages for Stranger

By EMILY POST

A wife writes me: I would appreciate your opinion on the following incident. Yesterday, while my husband and I were getting off the bus, a young woman carrying several packages got off just behind us. She happened to be going in the same direction that we were, and my husband offered to help her carry some of the packages.

She thanked him and handed two of the heaviest ones to him. After walking two blocks we reached our house and my husband handed the packages back to her.

In my estimation, carrying her packages at all was totally uncalled for on my husband's part, and I do not think it was even proper for him to offer this help to a strange woman. He says he merely did what any gentleman would do.

Although it was entirely unnecessary, it certainly was kind of your husband to help this unknown person with her packages. But he was in no way obligated to carry them farther than your house.

Dear Mrs. Post: My employer is giving a business luncheon at one of the hotels soon and has asked me to make out the place cards. Will you please tell me if these cards may be typewritten, and also if it is necessary to write the names out in full. Please advise me as I want to be sure I do this correctly.

Answer: They must be handwritten and read Mrs. Smith, Mr. Robertson, etc. If there are two of the same name, one is of course written Mr. John Smith and the other Mr. Henry Smith.

Dear Mrs. Post: When a wedding present is given to the bridegroom-to-be by his fellow employes, is it proper for him to thank them for the gift—especially when they do not know the bride—or must she write and thank them.

Answer: In this case his thanks are sufficient.

Round flowers, such as roses, tulips, daisies, and spear-shaped flowers, such as gladioli, snapdragons and delphinium, should be combined. Place light-colored flowers at top of arrangement, dark at bottom.

It's a real problem during summer months to find a hair style that's cool and easy to care for. Two local girls who find the new softly cut hairdos just right for them are Betty Sutton (left) of West Howard street and Carmen Piechowiak of Preston avenue. Betty's red hair is at its best in this sleek hairdo, while Carmen's blonde locks are shown to best advantage with the half-bang and close forward curls. For further ideas on hair styling, watch for tips offered in the Pontiac Press next week.

Teen-Aged Fads Dictate Fashion to Young Girls

Almost every teen-ager looks to her girl friend or teen-age crowd for ideas on what to wear.

That's why, at school proms, you'll see so many girls in dresses of the same color and style. The same dress may flatter one girl's figure and coloring, and look most unbecoming on another girl.

The same thing is true of the current teen-age fad — matador pants. And these take a really slim figure in order to look smart and trim.

Just because your pal, Margie, looks terrific in matador pants doesn't mean you will. And besides, you should be developing your own individual taste in clothes. Try to step a little ahead of your crowd, fashion-wise, by "boning up" on the latest styles and colors.

Study your figure and its good and bad points. Then, keeping them in mind, you'll have no difficulty choosing the most becoming type of dress for you.

Choose colors that complement your own skin tones, not because they're your classmate's favorites. Once you've discovered the colors that flatter your coloring you'll hear your friends exclaim, "You look very pretty in blue. Why haven't you worn it before?"

By being a fashion leader, instead of a fashion "copy cat," you'll gain self-confidence and poise as well as a reputation for being original.

Fashionette Club to Meet Every Thursday Evening

During the summer months the Fashionette Club will hold its meetings every Thursday at 7 p.m. in Washington Junior High School, room 102.

This club, which is sponsored by the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department, is composed of a group of women who desire to lose weight. By meeting weekly, the slow and sometimes tedious procedure of dieting becomes less tiresome.

Weighing in weekly and comparing notes on diet recipes help to keep up the women's morale. The meetings include lectures on dieting, proper foods, cosmetics, hair care and other things pertaining to better health and good grooming.

The membership is open and anyone who desires to lose weight is invited to attend the meetings.

The meeting Thursday was conducted by the new president, Mrs. John Reichert. Mrs. Meinhard Lorenzen is vice president; Mrs. Edward Solomon, secretary, and Mrs. Frank Reichert, treasurer.

Guest speaker was Mrs. Clifford Smades.

Need Kitchen Stool

When equipping a kitchen, do not forget the importance of a stool or high chair to sit on while at work. Many stools are combined with steps as a means of reaching high shelves. Just be sure that the step-stool is sturdy and that it will not slide or tip.

Baby Cries Indicate Individual Needs

What Baby is after each time he cries is a puzzle to most new mothers. The cries all sound alike at first, but later on you'll begin to discover that he cries in one way when he's hungry, in another after he's eaten.

If he does cry after he's eaten, most likely it means that he's wet, or that he didn't get up all of the air bubbles. When you do start to put him to bed, hold him for a little while if he isn't sleepy. In a short while, you'll be able to judge why he's crying and to take care of him quickly.

Mrs. Robert Budnik will attend her sister as matron of honor and other attendants will be Miss Zimmerman and Adelaide Miller, Nazareth College classmate from Detroit. Patti Budnik will be her aunt's flower girl.

Guests at the shower were Mrs. Yenor, Mrs. Pierce A. Rydman, Mrs. Henry St. Dennis, Mrs. William Almas, Mrs. Arnold Soutar, Mrs. Wesley McCann, Mrs. Eddie W. O'Brien and Mrs. James Taylor.

Hal Boyle Says:

Help With the Housework by Merely Writing Notes

NEW YORK (AP)—It's fun to be an old-fashioned man

I don't help with the housework. Well, not much.

Boy, that may date me, but don't think being a vintage male isn't fun.

• • •

Some of their conclusions about how many dishes a husband should wash or dry in the evening are supposed to be based on polls.

In 16 years of married life, I have been polled only once—and that in secret—on this important subject.

• • •

"I have in my hand here a wet plate that my great grandmother carried over the Ozarks at great toil," said my bride, the meal after our honeymoon. "Can't you at least dry it without dropping it?"

"No," I replied frankly. "I cannot."

Since then I have been a perfect husband about helping with the house work. When my dear says, "Get out of the way," well—I get out of the way.

• • •

A lot of husbands I meet—once, anyway—say they really enjoy pitching in and doing the housework. They say a lot of keen guys they know feel the same way.

(Editor's Note: I used to know a guy like that, too. But on the way home he used to pause and throw spitballs at the girls going into the Y.W.C.A.)

(Boyle's Note: Don't be so modest. We all remember your kid brother. Does he like the new warden better than the old one?)

• • •

There are some sociological experts who say that the presence of children in the home is a natural inducement for a father to leap forward and assume a manly share of cleaning and preening the home nest.

Back in 1938 I absent-mindedly scrawled on a filmed-over table top, "Dust this!" Just the other day the baby that came to us a year ago was crawling south on the floor. I felt the situation justified me in scrawling in pencil on the north side of her diaper: "Change this."

These two messages—16 years apart—pretty well sum up my own ideas of how an old-fashioned man can help with the housework. The main idea, as I see it, is to keep the girl on her toes, show her opportunities she doesn't realize, joyous ways she can inflict those small imperishable female touches that distinguish a normal home from all but the better run federal prisons.

• • •

Writing helpful notes, I have found over the years, is the best way for a man to assist with the housekeeping. For example, if you are tired of eating canned hash night after night, why not slip a tender missive under the wife's bobby pin saying:

"Remember me? I'm your husband. Let's try something new on the front burner."

But as for picking up that skillet or vaccum cleaner myself, I can't see such an act as anything but an insult to a woman's love of bossing her own empire.

All a man can do is bring home as much bacon as he can, play with the baby so much she gets tired enough to welcome bedtime when she ought to, and praise his wife hardest on the days she knows in her heart she has done the least.

As I say, I'm an old-fashioned man. But that's my idea of helping with the housework.

Lincoln's Sum Book on Display in Illinois

The doggerel reads:

"Abraham Lincoln is my name
"And with my pen I wrote the same
"I wrote in both hast (sic) and speed
"And left it here for fools to read."

Actor Noah Beery Jr. Is Sued for Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actor Noah Beery Jr., 40, was sued for divorce yesterday by his wife Maxine, who charges cruelty but made no detailed accusations.

Mrs. Beery is the daughter of the late Buck Jones, film cowboy actor.

She asked for division of community property worth more than $100,000 and for $1,071 monthly support for herself and their three children.

For Driving on Seat With Feet, Ohioan Jailed

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—Driving a car with his bare feet has put 19-year-old James S. Osborn of nearby Rarden in county jail. Officers said he was perched atop the driver's seat manipulating the steering wheel with his feet. Unable to pay $50 and costs for reckless driving, he was placed in jail to serve out the fine.

Three Die as Bavarian, Austrian Cities Are Flooded

2 Cities Attack Language, Habit Barriers

STUDY FRENCH — Elementary school children in York, Pa., study French in program to cut through language barriers between countries.

DISCUSS PROBLEM — Women in Arles, France, gather to discuss ways to make the "neighbor cities" idea work over 5,000 miles of ocean and land.

By HARRY WARNER JR.
NEA Special Correspondent

YORK, Pa. — This city's 61,500 people are ready to take a good, healthy swipe at language and habit barriers that blockade understanding between nations.

Some 5000 miles to the east, exactly the same thing is happening in the French town of Arles. York and Arles have agreed to become neighbor cities for a while in everything except geography.

The unusual "twinning" idea for cities is sponsored by Bilingual World, an organization that aims primarily at fostering English-French bilingualism as a solution for the world's language problems.

Elementary school children in York are already studying French. Youngsters in Arles will study English to permit the young people to correspond in either language.

York's grownups are plunging into the project with enthusiasm. To start the project, prominent men and women in York are writing to their counterparts in Arles.

Later, French customs will be introduced to York's people in a variety of ways, to supplement the corresponding. People in York and Arles who can spare the time and afford the trip will make actual visits back and forth.

York was recommended for the American end of the project by a former U. S. Commissioner of Education, Dr. Earl J. McGrath.

The fact that York's public schools are already teaching French to one-fourth of all the second and third graders was a big factor in the choice of the Pennsylvania city, where there is no French colony or many people with French ancestors.

York's most prominent native son, Gen. Jacob L. Devers, was one of the first to agree to participate in the exchange of greetings and ideas with people and institutions in France.

The York school system, civic organizations, American Legion, religious leaders, elected officials, and newspapers are pitching in to help with letter-writing and publicizing.

The York representative of an international machinery firm, who was born in France, has volunteered to do all necessary translating.

"I want everyone in York who wishes to exchange friendship with France through this bilingual project to have the opportunity to do so," Dr. Victoria Lyles, director of elementary education in York, explains.

"Too often, we get ecquainted with a nation's people only because we've fought a war against that country. «I think international understanding can be achieved through love, not hatred."

Even though school is closed for the summer, 600 boys and girls are still chattering in French as a result of their studies in that language. They've learned to speak French without formal grammar studies or the use of textbooks.

Instruction in York's elementary schools has been based on the same natural way of learning that permits a child to learn his native tongue within a year or two—listening to adults speak it, then imitating them. Reading, writing and grammar exercises will come later.

Last year, the bilingual project involved a British city, Harrogate, with the help of the French town of Luchon.

Bilingual World sponsored the exchange of visits by tourists and dignitaries.

HOBBY DISPLAY — Paul J. Pearson (right) of 574 Tex Ave., General Motors Truck and Coach Division employe, displays the hobby he will show at the plant family picnic July 17 at Walled Lake Park. With him is his son, Roger, who helps him make their "spear guides" which shoot spears used in killing undesirable fish such as suckers, carp and dogfish.

Hobby Exhibits of Employes to Be Featured at GM Picnic

Employes' hobby exhibits will highlight General Motors Truck and Coach Division's annual family picnic at Walled Lake Park July 17.

A popular feature in its initial venture, the hobby show this year will have about 40 exhibits, according to picnic officials.

Listed among the entries are an auto racer, two speed boats, several gun collections, diving equipment, antique autos, parakeets and many oil and water paintings. Also on the list are Indian relics, archeological collections and radio-controlled model airplanes.

A new activity called "Sportorama" will provide every member of the family with a chance to win prizes by displaying skill in various sports events.

Two tons of ice cream have been ordered and officials reveal that 13 free rides will be open for picnickers from noon to 4 p.m. Thousands of free balloons will also be given away.

Four Missing, Many Homeless

American Helicopters Lift Victims to Safety While Danube Swells

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Gale whipped rains lashed Bavaria and Austria today, heightening floods on the swollen Danube and its tributaries which already have claimed at least three lives in Austria and left hundreds homeless.

Four other persons were reported missing in Bavaria.

* * *

In deluged Bavaria, U.S. troops joined Germans in rescuing homeless. U.S. Air Force helicopters, battling wind, rain and blinding mists, hovered rooftop high to lift flood victims to safety.

In Western Austria, three persons died last night and thousands were evacuated as the Danube and Inn rivers rose as much as nine inches an hour. Austrian newspapers warned of a nationwide catastrophe.

* * *

Hundreds of Austrian farms were reported under water, especially in the Salzburg and Linz areas.

At Linz, the Danube had reached its highest level since 1920. The flood waters were expected to reach Vienna during the day.

Six Bavarian rivers surged over vast areas of lowland destroying crops, inundating homes and paralyzing traffic.

In Passau, where the Ils and Inn rivers empty into the Danube, the water level was 30 feet above normal—highest point in 50 years.

In part of Passau, only the rooftops stood above the swirling waters. Hundreds of the city's 30,000 inhabitants were moved to safe ground as rescue workers labored all night. Snows sweeping the upper reaches of the Bavarian Alps sent a cold air blast over the stricken city.

The area southeast of the picturesque city of Regensburg was hard hit by the flooded Danube. American soldiers there worked through the night with German police and firemen evacuating farm families from their threatened homes.

At Anzenkirchen, flood waters swept away a tiny farm house occupied by a family of five. One swam to safety, but the other four are missing.

* * *

In the Austrian town of Linz a 27-year-old farmer and his 9-year-old brother drowned when their boat capsized in the Danube. A third man drowned when he fell from a railway bridge into Austria's Voeckla River.

Early today officials said the flooded Enns, Traun, Voeckla and Salzach rivers had reached their peak and were starting to recede. They said the decline had saved Salzburg from inundation for the time being.

Billy Graham Very Busy During Day in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — The tall, slender, curly haired young man, dressed as conservatively and neatly as a rising young bank executive, grinned at reporters and said:

But even those who find the word unflattering must have been impressed today by the rapid fire activities of evangelist Billy Graham — for it was he — on his one-day visit to the nation's capital.

Although he was ailing and 20 pounds lighter as the result of a kidney attack — "I find I get tired very easily" — Graham nevertheless managed to find time to:

See Vice President Nixon;

Speak at a special breakfast for congressmen at which, in a town notorious for its late rising, 100 legislators showed up, and

Hold a news conference.

At the news conference, he appeared relaxed and at ease, but a trifle embarrassed and astonished at becoming one of the most widely publicized clergymen of modern times.

True, the conference opened with passing out a "Statistical Summary, Billy Graham Meetings, 1954," which showed he had talked to 2,047,333 people while in London plus another 303,800 in his tour of Europe.

Wife Faces Murder Trial

FLINT (AP) — Mrs. Julia Canty, 32, mother of three children, was ordered held for trial for first degree murder in the shooting of her husband, John, 36, Thursday. Police said Mrs. Canty admitted shooting Canty as he slept after he had beaten her upon coming home drunk.

Russian Newspaper Extolls Foot Soldier

MOSCOW (AP) — Russian armed forces are told by their own newspaper, Red Star, that the foot soldier is still the man who wins wars and that the infantry cannot be replaced by air or naval superiority.

"The aggressive war against the Korean people unleashed by the imperialists of the U.S.A.," Red Star says, "proved once more that neither aviation nor naval power can substitute for the foot soldier. Air and naval superiority cannot compensate for the absence of infantry. In this way the 'theory' of converting domination at sea and in the air into domination on the ground could not be proved by experience . . ."

Death of Recluse Ruled as Justifiable Homicide

DETROIT (INS) — Asst. Prosecutor Ralph Garber yesterday ruled that the death of elderly recluse William Kursman from a wound inflicted by a Detroit police officer was justifiable homicide.

Kursman was shot to death June 30 after he fatally wounded an 18-year-old boy and also wounded a 16-year-old girl

TROUBLES — Puh Liknhl, named to represent South Korea in the "Miss Universe" contest at Long Beach, Calif., may not get there because of passport troubles. She fled Communist-controlled North Korea in 1950 and now an investigation, while incomplete, has shown "her enviroments in the north were questionable," says the South Korean national police chief. So far she's gotten neither a South Korean passport nor a U. S. visa, and she's due to fly to America Monday.

Girl and Priest Help Nab Pair

Tip Leads to Ex-Con Wanted in Robbery of Trenton Bank

DETROIT (INS) — A tip from a 15-year-old girl and a priest yesterday enabled police to capture Simon H. Thompson, 37, one of two ex-convicts sought for the $11,500 Trenton State Bank robbery.

Detroit Police armed with machine guns, riot guns and tear gas closed in on an East Side upper flat hideout, taking Thompson and Mrs. Gloria Rayes Garden, who posed as his wife. Neither offered any resistance.

With Mrs. Garden was her 3-year-old son, Billy.

Police learned about the whereabouts of Thompson and Mrs. Garden after Mary Lou Mangeno noticed Thompson's picture in the newspaper and told her parish priest, who then notified authorities.

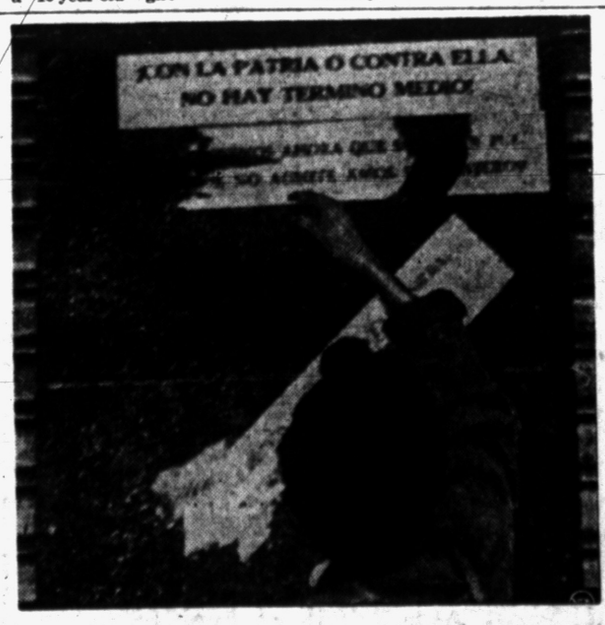
Young Republicans Have Field Day at Jackson

LANSING (AP) — Michigan young Republicans will have a field day at Jackson Saturday as their part of the Republican Party's "Freedom Festival".

The state central committee said the Michigan Federation of Young Republicans will picnic at Jackson at noon and choose a "Miss Republican", who will reign as queen of an evening ball. Amateur baseball games, a horse show and other events will fill the afternoon and evening.



Pro-U. S. Feeling in Guatemala

Dairy Farm Laborers Earn About $2 Daily

Few people think it possible to find men working for $2 a day. Agricultural economists have found some dairy farmers who receive less than that amount.

A survey was made of farms with some of the better soils in Ingham county and dairymen selling grade A milk. Some farm labor was earning less than $2 a day. Dairy labor was the least efficiently used labor on the farm.

Corn Earworm, Blight Hit Crops

Agent Lists Possible Controls; Must Apply Them at Proper Time

Two problems Oakland County gardeners are beginning to think about now are corn earworms and blight on both potatoes and tomatoes, reports Edmond W. Alchin, county agricultural agent.

"Recent weather conditions have been especially good for the development of both these garden pests," Alchin says. "And to get a good crop, these insects and diseases must be controlled."

Alchin describes the corn earworm as an insect resembling a cutworm. Gardeners find them under the husks eating on the kernels — a situation he calls "both unsightly and unappetising."

"Eggs of this pest are laid as soon as the first silks appear on the newly formed ears and this is the time that control should be applied," he says.

"If you wait more than one day after the first silks appear, control will then be too late."

Alchin lists five per cent DDT as an effective control. "Make sure that each ear is well covered. The dust should be applied three times at two-day intervals as new silks are forming on the ears.

"Some gardeners may not yet have corn to the earing stage so they may not be too worried at this time, but don't forget after the ears are formed to watch carefully so that applications may be made early enough for good control."

As for the second problem—control of blight on tomatoes and potatoes — Alchin says the disease can be controlled by the application of any one of several prepared materials, such as metallic copper, Bordeaux or Zineb.

"Often the crop may receive such a severe set-back from this infection that it will not recover sufficiently even after treatment is started.

"The symptoms to watch for are crinkling and wilted appearance of the plant, starting with the upper leaves, and quick browning and drying of these leaves.

"As soon as any evidence of this condition is apparent, apply your control measures. Do not wait because blights and wilts are fast acting," he concludes.

Water Tulips Even After Blooming Stops

Keep on watering tulips even though they are through flowering, advises Dr. W. J. Haney, Michigan State College floriculturist. Bulb plants — daffodils and narcissus, too — are storing food for 1955.

If bulbs need dividing and relocation — perhaps they have been in one bed about 5 years, wait until the foliage dries up before digging. They probably will dry out by mid-July, or earlier.

Dry the bulbs at about 68 degrees so they will differentiate flowers for next year, advises Dr. Haney. Then replant them in September or October.

Tree Loses Much Water

A medium - sized hardwood tree may lose 50 gallons of water through its foliage in a day, reports a specialist in municipal forestry. Trees in lawn areas need more watering.

"BALLERINA" MAKES DEBUT — A new variety of petunia, "Ballerina," is getting its share of applause from friends of Mrs. J. Vinton Birch, 420 Harmon Rd., Birmingham, who planted it in her flower borders this year. Above, Mrs. Birch, arranges the colorful blooms in a shell container which seems to fit their delicate beauty. An award-winning artist, Mrs. Birch brings her talent into play in arranging her flowers and planning her garden.

Flower 'Ballerina' Debuts in a Birmingham Garden

By WILMA GREENWAY

One of the newcomers in the petunia troupe — the Ballerina — made its Birmingham debut this summer in the garden of Mrs. J. Vinton Birch of 420 Harmon Rd., and Mrs. Birch predicts star billing for the plant.

She says the delicately fluted, flamingo-colored flower is due for encores in the gardens of many of her friends who have admired the profusion of its flowering and the beauty of its coloring.

Mrs. Birch planted this variety of petunia along the borders of her lawn area for the first time this spring. When it flared into bloom, she was certain her choice had been a wise one. The full-blown flowers, three to four inches in diameter, made a spectacular border with their harmonizing tones of salmon pink.

For Mrs. Birch and her son, Vinton P., the garden is a place to live in. The petunias set off a green area where lounge chairs and tables are always ready for an outdoor breakfast or a picnic supper.

Blue lobelias set off a well-used bird bath, picking up the blue of the lawn furniture and contrasting pleasantly with the warm color tones of the border. In the background tall trees give a sense of height and grandeur.

The many birds that enjoy the Birch garden don't waste the sweetness of their song. Vinton, who is an engineer with Pontiac Motors, has made a life-long hobby of electronics.

He records the songs of the birds, plays them back on an intricate and delicately-made device.

Five loud speakers in the house transmit Vinton's recordings, so that Mrs. Birch may have music indoors, or while pursuing her hobby and profession — painting. She teaches art in Birmingham. She won her first award last December at the Michigan Artists Show for "best painting by a woman," with an oil entitled "Pods."

A sculptured look is given to the Birch garden by means of clipped, lawn-covered walks that section off the flower beds. Old fashioned hollyhocks, Texas day lilies, zinnias, delphinium, larkspur, blue salvia and lemon-yellow evening primrose blend or contrast in pleasing harmony.

Mrs. Birch uses her artistic talent consciously to blend flower colors and create unusual effects.

Before the death of her husband, Col. J. Vinton Birch, she used that same talent to help him produce one of the most unusual vegetable gardens in Birmingham —a garden planned for beauty of color, with jumbo-sized vegetables, that took first prize in Birmingham and third prize in the Michigan State Victory Garden contest.

Birch, a retired Army colonel and for many years an engineer with Fisher Body, picked up his knowledge of gardening by studying the forced-planting methods of Japanese truck farmers near Seattle.

After her husband's death in 1951, Mrs. Birch and her son carried on with the showplace vegetable garden. But in the last two years, she has been content to maintain the tradition of artistic beauty in the flower garden alone, while increasing the scope of her art work.

Quizzing the Gardener

Q—The leaves on rhododendrons and mountain laurel growing under a large elm are coated with a sticky, colorless substance. Will it harm the plants.

A—No. It is probably a secretion from aphids or scale insects feasting on the underside of the elm leaves. Spray the shrub leaves with a warm soapy water and have an arborist with a power unit spray the elm with Black Leaf 40 to control the insects.

* * *

A—Three times. In spring, early in July and early in September.

* * *

Q—Can you suggest an entirely organic fertilizer for rhododendrons, azaleas and similar evergreens?

A—There are several such offered under various trade names. However, you can make one by mixing equal parts cottonseed meal and well-rotted manure, applying five pounds for each 100 square feet.

Q—Information about care of American holly trees is desired. When should they be transplanted, when pruned, and what type of soil is best?

A—Early spring or early autumn is the time for planting hollies. Pruning, when necessary, should be done in June, after the new growth has hardened. However, removal of dead and broken branches, or cutting of berried branches, can be done at any time. Hollies prefer a rather moist, acid soil, to which considerable humus and some gravel has been added. Ample drainage is a necessity.

Q—How does one get rid of land crabs which infest a lawn, dotting it with chimney-like mounds of soil an inch and more high?

A—Use three tablespoons coaltar cresote emulsion to one gallon water, and pour ½ cup in each land crab hole.

* * *

Vegetation Bad for Water Use

Must Control Growth With Cutters, Algae or Chemicals

By RAYMOND E. KELLER
Parks and Recreation Dept.

About this time each year as the water in our many ponds, lakes, and connecting canals becomes warmer, we notice great masses of an assortment of water weeds, rushes, and cattails sometimes completely filling the water surface, especially in the shallow areas.

While this aquatic vegetation can be quite pretty and does furnish shelter for much of our aquatic wildlife, most biologists agree that excessive amounts of water vegetation are harmful to both good fishing and to the best recreational use of the water.

The problem is to control this normal heavy growth so that we can better enjoy our waters and yet not eradicate all vegetation since a certain amount is necessary for good fishing.

Also, the method of control must not be injurious to the fishes or permanently harmful for human uses.

There are many mechanical devices that can be used to cut off this vegetation below the surface such as mowers, weed saws, or underwater scythes.

A second method is to encourage the growth of water algae so as to shade out the water weeds.

This is done by applying inorganic fertilizer to the water surface at regular intervals to stimulate the algae growth so as to shade out the water weeds and at the same time furnish abundant food for the fishes. In hard water lakes this method will not work so well as in soft water.

The third method is the use of chemicals which can be applied to the water surface. These chemicals are toxic to plant growth causing the weeds to die.

Here, care must be taken to apply chemicals which will not harm other water life at the recommended rates and not make it permanently unfit for human recreation.

Sodium arsenite is one of the cheapest and most effective chemicals for this purpose. It will effectively control most water growth and repels fish.

This makes it possible to treat sections of a pond or lake at a time so that fish life will migrate to untreated areas until after the critical period of oxygen depletion due to weed decay and water toxicity has passed.

Sodium arsenite is being used extensively by biologists for this purpose. Correct application procedures can be obtained through local conservation officers or by writing directly to the chemical companies manufaturing the product.

This Week's Garden Tips for the Area

Break the habit of feeling you must work all through the hot weekend. If there's much to be done, break the day into two stints, early morning and late afternoon to dusk when it is cool.

* * *

Don't forget to take pictures as the succession of bloom continues. You may think you'll never forget how an early summer garden looks, but you'd be surprised how fast the details escape. Make copious notes in the diary, too, including temperature readings, weather conditions and which bugs are where and what dispatched them.

* * *

Don't neglect the spraying schedule, and make sure there's no mistake by marking down purpose and treatment on a calendar tacked in the tool shed or garage.

* * *

Has everything been staked that is in any danger of toppling over? Bamboo sticks of varying heights and green cord reinforced by wire are handy staking aids.

* * *

Light shears of scissors are better than a tug for removing dying flower heads—and make the rounds frequently so the annuals won't figure their work is over and go to seed.

Rose Selection for Variety, Color Suggested Now

Selecting roses for both color and variety now for fall planting are advised by Mrs. Frank Webb, vice president of the state organization of the National Farm and Garden Club.

Speaking at a meeting of the Waterford Branch of the club, Mrs. Webb went on to point out that rose beds should be prepared at least 18 inches deep.

Beds should contain "a healthy amount" of manure, compost and bone meal, she continued.

As soon as the roses are planted, Mrs. Webb recommended "mounding up the soil around them for 8 or 10 inches and leaving them that way for about two weeks to minimize loss of moisture.

The former president of the Birmingham chapter suggested working coal soot in around the plants as a good method of insuring good foliage, building up the soil and keeping slugs away.

'$1,000 From 8 Acres'

Indiana Farmer Gets Pay Raise by Using Fertilizer

He owns 147 acres an keeps 121 acres in sod crops. Four years ago he decided that good grass is worth more than corn to a dairyman, so he began fertilizing to get more hay, pasture and grass silage.

In 1952, he spent $2,000 for fertilizer. That year eight acres of alfalfa, brome grass and ladino made 90 tons of grass silage.

In 1953, he got 352 bales of hay from the same field. This was an unusually good stand of brome which had had a lot of manure.

In 1952, Cox plowed eight acres of bluegrass, sowed oats, overseeded with alfalfa, brome grass, ladino and bird's-foot trefoil, then fertilized in April. The oats were pastured for three weeks and then clipped. They gave eight more grazing days in September.

"From this 31 days of pasture I made $1,000 from the eight acres," Cox was quoted in a farm publication. "Putting it another way, the 20 head of cows on the eight acres made $30 a day."

Cox has Brown Swiss. His herd includes 60 animals, and he is milking 25. For four years the herd in D.H.I.A. has averaged 500 pounds of fat. In 1952 he had a cow that made $853 above the cost of her feed. She made 830 pounds of butterfat that year. Two other cows returned about $800 over feed cost.

Cox has five pastures and rotates them. His basic mixture is alfalfa, brome and ladino. He has also been using grass silage for 5 years. Last year he put 185 tons into two upright silos.

He credits grass silage with getting fast growth on heifers. Usually he has seven to nine heifers in the milking line.

Yes, Cox believes in grass silage, but he also says:

"Carry enough grass in a dry year and you don't have to feed silage. You can do the job with your pastures and some hay—if you fertilize."

Informer Turns On Brownell

Paul Crouch Demands Probe of Top Men Who Question Him

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times said today that Paul Crouch, former Communist and frequently a government witness in anti-Communist cases, "has turned against his employers."

A Washington dispatch to the Times by Anthony Leviero said Crouch has formally demanded a congressional investigation of Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell and his deputy, William P. Rogers.

* * *

The story said Crouch had declared Brownell and Rogers, whose department has retained him for years as a consultant and paid informer, "have given considerable aid and comfort to enemies of the United States" in starting an investigation of his reliability.

* * *

The dispatch also reported:

Crouch, whose credibility is now under investigation by the Justice Department, requested the Senate Government Operations Committee and the Senate Judiciary Committee to investigate the two top officials of the department.

Crouch said the action of the Justice Department officials might force the reopening of about 60 hearings and trials in which he had been a principal witness.

Sen. William Langer (R-ND), chairman of the Judiciary Committee, said it considered Crouch's complaint at a closed session on Tuesday and referred it to the Senate Internal Security subcommittee. Sen. William E. Jenner (R-Ind), chairman of the latter group, was out of Washington and was not reached for comment.

* * *

Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis), chairman of the Government Operations Committee, was out of Washington and his staff would not comment on Crouch's complaint.

* * *

Crouch's action, the Times story said, promised "to turn the spotlight on the cult of the paid informers in the federal government and to force a re-examination of their role at least in cases involving the reputation of individuals."

The story said Crouch was challenged on the credibility of some of the testimony he has given, and as a result Brownell promised to investigate.

By BILLY ROSE

My phone rang a couple of weeks ago and a sandpapery voice asked if this was Billy Rose, "da enterpenour an' boolevardeerio."

"Don't tell me," I said, "let me guess. Frank Costello's in jail and B. C. Pulley's on the road. So this must be Jimmy Durante."

BILLY ROSE

"Nun udda," said my old friend. "Drop everyt'in,' micetrow. I'm comin' ovva ta take ya fer a ride in my new buggy."

"When'd you buy the car?" I asked.

"Yestiday," said Jimmy. "I went inna garage to phone an' it wouldn'a looked nice ta leave wit'out buyin' somet'in'."

Twenty minutes later, Durante screeched up to the Ziegfeld in a crimson sports car which was as low as it could get without going underground. His initials on the door were in Old English script and the motor backfired with an Oxford accent.

"What model is it?" I asked.

"Dis car's more dan a model," said Jimmy. "It's a shinin' example."

I shoehorned myself into the leather bucket and turned to examine Durante. He was wearing a blue pork-pie hat and slacks the color of an orange popsicle. The overall effect was that of an Arizona sunset with pockets.

There were 20 gadgets on the mahogany dashboard and Jimmy pushed them all at once. We leapfrogged across the Queensboro Bridge and onto Grand Central Parkway.

A few miles later, handling the wheel like a personal enemy, Durante swerved off on a side road. After 10 minutes of lurching past rows of haystacks, I began to feel the way my passport picture looks.

"Aren't those billboards coming at us awfully fast?" I said.

"I gotta hurry," said Jimmy. "If I don't get to da motor vehicle office in Babylon by five, I won't git my license."

"How fast are we going?" I asked.

"Two, maybe tree hunnert haystacks a hour," said Durante.

"There's a car coming toward us," I said a minute later. "Why don't you give it half the road?"

"I'm willing to co-operate," said Jimmy, "but I don' know what half it wants."

At this point the road was zigzagging so much that it looked like a roller coaster laid on its side.

"Take it easy," I pleaded. "My head's coming off."

"Relax," said Durante. "When dey sol' me da car, dey guaranteed ta replace anyt'ing broke or missin'."

A few miles from Babylon I heard the beautiful music of a police siren. Jimmy slip-shod to a halt and a motorcycle cop walked over and stared at us.

"I suppose you know why I stopped you," he said.

"Lemme guess," said Durante. "You wuz lonely."

"Funny guy, huh?" said the officer. "Do you know you were doing 70 miles an hour?"

"Ta tell ya da trut'," said Jimmy, "my brakes ain't workin,' an' I was hurryin' ta git home before I hadda accident. I didn't realize I was drivin' too fast."

"You weren't," said the cop. "You were flyin' too low. What's your name?"

"J. Theophrastus Umperdinckt," said Durante.

"That's an old gag," snarled the officer. "I'm supposed to be too lazy to spell it and let you go."

He took a leather-bound book out of his pocket and handed it to Jimmy. "Write the name yourself," he said.

Trapped, the Schnozz put down his square monicker. The cop looked at it, smiled and tucked the book back in his pocket.

"Are ya givin' me a ticket," asked Jimmy, "or sellin' me one?"

"That wasn't a ticket you signed, Mr. Durante," said the officer. "It was an autograph book. Wait 'til I tell my wife about this. She thinks you're a genius."

"Tell da little woman I speak wella her too," said Jimmy.

"Just one thing more, Mr. Durante," said the cop. "Who is the Mrs. Calabash you always say goodnight to on your television show?"

Jimmy stepped on the gas. "I'll tell ya dat one," he said as we drove off, "if ya tell me 'Who Stole da Ding Dong'."

Train Hits Stalled Car; Kills 3 Children

Killed instantly were Catherine Gallagher, 5, and her sister Jodette, 16 months. Their sister Mary, 3, died in a hospital a few hours later.

State highway patrolmen said Mr. and Mrs. John T. Gallagher of Holland, Ohio, were trying to push the car off the tracks when the Chicago-bound Iroquois smashed into it.

Canadian Train Derailed; Report Passengers Safe

WETASKIWIN, Alta. (AP)—A Canadian Pacific Railway passenger train, bound from Edmonton to Winnipeg, was derailed near here early today. The engine and four cars left the tracks. First reports said the engineer and fireman were missing but no passengers were hurt.

Stack's Stock Soaring Since High 'n' Mighty

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Robert Stack, whose stock has been soaring since "The High and the Mighty," wings into 20th Century-Fox on a seven-year contract — and it couldn't happen to a nicer guy nor one who has striven harder to perfect himself as an actor.

His first at 20th will be "Mock the Midnight Bell," an original by Virginia Van Upp and Maurice Reis which, I'm told, is strong on melodrama and centered in the French Quarter of New Orleans.

• • •

When Melinda was asked which role she was to play she retorted: "Who cares? A kid is a kid."

And this isn't all Missy Melinda has looming in her immediate future. She is also testing to play Baby Snooks, the immortal creation of Fanny Brice, on the upcoming TV serial.

The London Palladium was brought to the Desert Inn in Las Vegas, with Maestro Val Parnell bringing the Palladium variety show.

The first night was a gala affair, with Delores and Bob Hope, Irving Mills, Eleanor Holm and Tommy Whelan in the audience. Pat Kirkwood is the star singer, and the best of the acts is George La Faye and Company, a novelly act.

I asked Eleanor about all those marriage rumors, and she said, "I'm not engaged to Tommy."

A freak accident happened to Johnnie Ray in Las Vegas. He stepped on a toothpick which went through his toe and an infection set in and he had to have the toothpick cut out.

His ex-wife, Marilyn Morrison, was here and they spent quite a lot of time together. Marilyn had gone home when the accident occured, and Johnnie left the next day, hobbling to the plane.

If Raymond Massey doesn't create his role in "John Brown's Raiders" almost by heart it won't be because he hasn't had enough experience.

Ray toured for months with Tyrone Power and Anne Baxter in "John Brown's Body," a recitation of the famed poem which is the basis of the Allied Artists movie he'll film under the guidance of producer Vincent Fennelly.

Buried-Treasure Hunter Dies in California Gorge

Action followed the death of Ronald M. Fuller, 45, who succumbed Monday to carbon monoxide poisoning. He had been blasting in a 50-foot shaft while hunting three treasure chests he believed were buried by the Mexican bandit Tiburcio Vasquez 80 years ago.

'STUDENT' SERENADE — Appearing in the film version of the beloved operetta "Student Prince" are Edmund Purdom and Ann Blyth. Young Purdom, a virtual unknown, was picked for this part after being seen briefly in "Julius Caesar." Although the voice of Mario Lanza will be heard performing the famous melodies, lovely Ann Blyth will display her own lyric soprano in the motion picture now playing at a local theater.

Panel of Three to Pick VFW Contest Winner

A panel of three judges will choose a national winner in the 1954 "Build Through Citizenship" Contest sponsored by the Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Arthur A. Schuck, chief scout executive of the Boy Scouts of America; Mrs. Katherine G. Howard, deputy administrator, Federal Civil Defense Administration; and Harold S. Vincent, Milwaukee, Wis. superintendent of schools, will judge the contest entries. Mrs. Ellie H. Hill, national president of the VFW Auxiliary, announced that the winners will be named in August.

Jackson Faces Most Important Bout of Career

'Hurricane' Faces Nino Valdes Wednesday Eve in Garden Ring

By JACK HAND

GREENWOOD LAKE, N. Y. (AP)—"I'm gonna chase that man up on the roof. Yea man. And then I'm gomma chase him back down in the cellar."

A fellow has to move fast and listen closely when Hurricane Tommy Jackson talks. He is a restless man in the ring or in an interview.

* * *

"That man" is Nino Valdes, the Cuban giant, who meets The Hurricane in a "boxing" match Wednesday night at Madison Square Garden.

Jackson is training at Eddie McDonald's Long Pond Inn for this bout, the most important in his brief career. Valdes is listed No. 2 challenger to heavyweight champ Rocky Marciano in the latest Ring Magazine ratings and a victory over him would put Hurricane in the thick of things.

* * *

The only other time they lured Jackson away from Stillman's Gym in New York City for a training session was for the Charley Norkus fight last May. Sammy Golden, his co-manager, and Freddy Brown, his trainer, practically had to drag Jackson to Summit, N. J. to spar. It was too far (maybe 30 miles) from his home at Rockaway Beach, in New York's Queens.

The Hurricane seems satisfied in the Ramapo Mountains because there is a bandstand and microphone for him to use in idle moments. When work is done, Jackson turns up the amplifier and his guitar and warbles home-made lyrics to his heart's content.

The Hurricane is trying to work up a "mad on" against Valdes, the sociable Cuban who never gets mad at anybody. Maybe it would help if somebody threw his guitar in the lake. Whether it would anger the Hurricane or not it would make it more peaceful in the country, especially at 6 a.m.

Top Trotters Vie Tonight for Governor's Cup

NORTHVILLE (UP) — Many of the nation's top trotters will match strides tonight in the $10,000 Governor's Cup Trot at Northville Downs.

High-Flying Horses

MIAMI (AP)—Hunch players may make something of this:

When the $100,000 added Florida Derby was first run in 1952 it was won by a horse named Sky Ship. In 1953, a horse named Money Broker was flown from New Orleans and won the race. In 1954, the winner was Correlation, flown to Miami from California for the race.

Syron, DeWitt in Match Play

JACKSON (UP) — Pfc. Al Nichols of Jackson, a dark-horse who became a medalist, led a 64-man field into match play of the 1954 Michigan Amateur golf tournament today at Country Club of Jackson.

The third-ranking qualifier, Vic Cuiss of Jackson, posted a 146, having recovered with a 72 in Thursday's finale after posting a 74 in the initial 18 holes Wednesday.

Syron was one of 2 Pontiac players to gain the match play phase of the tourney. Dick DeWitt added an 83 to his opening 74 and is scheduled to meet Ed Shurly of Grosse Ile in his 1st match.

Other county players to qualify include Tommy Watrous of Royal Oak (76-79), Dr. Harry Latos of Ferndale (80-75), and Chuck Baer, Jr. of Birmingham (80-75). Pairings for the leaders and area players follow:

Jansen Through as Player, Signs as Mound Coach

NEW YORK (AP) — Larry Jansen, onetime ace of the New York Giants' pitching staff who has slipped to a part-time relief hurler this season, received his unconditional release as a player today but was immediately resigned by the club as a pitching coach.

* * *

To take the place of the 34-year-old righthander, the Giants brought up Al Corwin, righthanded hurler from their Minneapolis farm club in the American Association.

Jansen won two and lost two this year but he failed to complete a single one of his seven starts.

Jansen's best year was in 1951 when he and Sal Maglie each turned in 23 triumphs to lead the Giants to their first pennant in 14 years.

Jewelry Nine Takes Close Victories in Softball Play

Two men's exhibition games and a pair of girls' league contests comprised last night's softball competition at Northside and Beaudette Parks.

Shaw's Jewelry won two 3-2 triumphs over City Men's League opposition. Howard Willis singled home Tom Pearsall with the winning run in the 6th as the Jewelers nipped Milford Merchants in the 1st game.

Vern Keebaugh drew a base on balls, advanced on Stan Hester's hit and scored on Pearsall's single to give Shaw's its victory over Champagne-Velvet in the 3rd inning of the 2nd game.

Giles Realty's girls won their 9th consecutive victory, 13-6, over Shaw's girls. Effie Seay collected three hits in four trips to pace Giles' 13-hit barrage. Pitchers Gerry and Jean Bender combined to toss a 3-hitter as GMC dumped Avondale, 20-6.

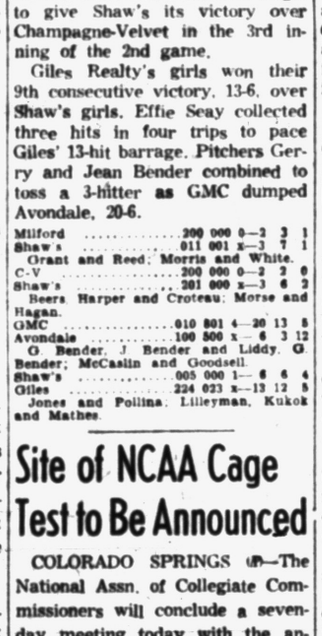
Site of NCAA Cage Test to Be Announced

COLORADO SPRINGS (AP)—The National Assn. of Collegiate Commissioners will conclude a seven-day meeting today with the announcement of NCAA basketball playoff sites and tournament dates.

Election of officers and selection of a meeting place for 1955 also are scheduled.

Kansas University Athletic Director Dutch Lonborg, chairman of the NCAA Basketball Tournament Committee, is expected to announce the basketball playoff information late in the day.

Remember?



This was a familiar picture on sport pages in the late '30s. Today's personality was everybody's All-American halfback in 1939 and 1940. Identity is on the final sport page today.

Player Must Have Power and Timing to Overswing

By SAM SNEAD

Overswinging

The average weekend player (and I'm sure most of my readers are that) does not dare dip his club as far past the horizontal on the backswing as today's player has. To overswing, a player must have perfect timing and powerful hands and wrists. I don't advise it for the ordinary golfer.

Here's how to keep from overswinging: Keep a firm grip on the shaft with your left hand. If you loosen your grip at the top of the backswing the shaft will dip too far, and you won't be able to get the clubhead back to the ball at the correct mechanical instant.

If this suggestion doesn't stop your overswing then turn your left wrist under at the start of the backswing. It may seem awkward at first, but I strongly recommend it if you are a chronic overswinger. Restrict that backswing and watch your scores dip!

Ink Pact for Aug. 20 Title Match in DiMag's Restaurant

By RUSSU NEWLAND

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8 (AP)—Official signing of contracts for the Carl (Bob) Oslon-Rocky Castellani middleweight title fight here Aug. 20 took place today with celebrities of the sporting world all over the place.

The affair was held in DiMaggio's bar and restaurant.

Olson and his manager, Sid Flaherty, Castellani and his pilot, Al Naiman, Promoter Benny Ford and Truman Gibson of New York City, representing the International Boxing Club, signed while movie and still cameramen were busying taking pictures.

4-Minute Mile to Be Forgotten in Future

MINNEAPOLIS, July 8 (AP)—The 4-minute mile, subject of world-wide awe right now, won't draw a ripple of comment within 20 years, a one-time king of the milers said today.

Glenn Cunningham, the barrel-chested marvel of the 1930's, says within two decades "the 4-minute mile will be as common as the 4:10 mile today."

He revealed that in 1930, when he was just out of high school, he ran a 3:58 practice mile. His best competitive time was his indoor mark of 4:04.4.

Cunningham's legs were burned so badly doctors believed he would never walk again. Today, at 45, Cunningham believes he could "run as fast as ever with six months training."

Fires 71 Today, Trails by Three Strokes in Test

By JOHN FARROW

SOUTHPORT, England (AP)—Jim Turnesa, member of one of America's famous golfing families, became the U. S. hope for the British Open golf championship today when he shot a 71 for a 54-hole total of 215 which placed him three strokes back of a trio of leaders.

Out in front at 212 after shooting identical 3rd round 69's were Sid Scott, a 40-year-old Englishman who has never won a major tournament; Dai Rees, a 41-year-old Welshman who is one of Britain's leading players, and the young Australian, 23-year-old Peter Thomson.

They were pressed by South Africa's Bobby Locke, a 3-time champion, who also recorded a 69 for a 214 total. He hit a great 3-iron shot on the 18th, putting the approach 12 inches from the pin for a birdie three.

Turnesa, former U. S. professional match play champion from Briarcliff, N. Y., was tied at 215 with Bill Spence of England, the halfway leader, and Antonio Cerda of Argentina. Spence had a 74 today and Cerda took 73.

Meantime, Jimmy Demaret of Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., took a 1-over-par 74 for 218. Amateur Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, playing with Thomson, shot 71 for 219. Fifty-two-year-old Gene Sarazen had a 73 for 222, sharing that score with 55-year-old Al Watrous of Birmingham, Mich., who had a 74.

In contrast to Scott, who made six birdies with some keen putting, Demaret became ineffective on the greens after he missed a 3-foot putt on the 14th hole. He took four fives on the next five holes, finishing with three putts on the 18th.

"I just can't putt. That's all," he said.

Turnesa, who had been tied with Demaret at 144 starting the last two rounds, earlier had declared: "This championship can still go to Uncle Sam."

Spence, ordered by his doctor not to play any more golf, had held the lead at the halfway way mark with a 141 with Argentina's Antonio Cerda a stroke behind.

Cerda finished 2nd behind Ben Hogan at Carnoustie, Scotland, last year and also was runner-up in 1951. Hogan is not defending his title this year.

Pledge $55,000 Philadelphia Business Leaders Fight for A's

By FRED B. WALTERS

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A drive among Philadelphia business leaders to whip up support for the Philadelphia Athletics was underway today with two pledges totalling $55,000 worth of tickets.

Mayor Joseph S. Clark Jr. called some 90 business and civic leaders into his City Hall office yesterday and dumped the problem of keeping the Athletics' franchise here squarely in their laps.

* * *

Clark said the city cannot put up any money to retain the ball club, where it began its once illustrious history 54 seasons ago. But, while squelching the possibility that American League baseball might pledged the "full strength of (the city's) public relations" behind the movement to prevent the financially distressed team from passing on to one of several baseball-hungry cities elsewhere in the country.

* * *

It was estimated that some 420,000 paid admissions are needed in the 32 home playing dates (39 games) remaining on the Athletics schedule in order for the club to break even financially.

Yesterday's pledges—$50,000 of which came from the president of a drug store chain — represent about one-eighth of the total needed.

Roy Mack, executive vice president of the athletics, said after the meeting that it would take about two weeks for the drive to show results. He repeated previous denials that the club would be sold or transferred to another city.

Feller Beats Orioles for 255th Victory

'Rapid Robert' Marks 18th Year in Majors With 4-1 Triumph

CHICAGO (AP)—Just 18 years ago this week, a fuzzy-cheeked Iowa farm boy stepped out on the mound in a new Cleveland Indians uniform and proceeded to strike out eight of nine St.Louis Cardinal players.

Yesterday, Bob Feller fanned six Baltimore Oriole batters, winning his 255th victory in the majors and raising his strikeout total to 2,511.

* * *

That put the 35-year-old righthander third on the roster of all-time strikeout greats and ahead of Christy Mathewson, holder of the National League record of 2,505. Only Walter Johnson, with 3,508 and Cy Young, with 2,819 have more.

* * *

In fifteen seasons with the Indians, Feller has hurled three no-hit games, a major league record he shares with Cy Young.

His service with the Indians was interrupted by more than three years of Navy duty during World War II.

So far this season, Feller has posted six victories against one loss. He pitched six complete games out of nine starts and issued only 17 walks in a little more than 66 innings.

Yesterday's game, which put the league-leading Tribe four lengths ahead of the New York Yankees and seven in front of the Chicago White Sox, was a seven-hit, 4-1 affair.

Drive in Dallas Seeks 5 Million for Major Club

Campaign for Berth in Big League Settles Down to Fund Raising

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS (AP)—Five million dollars in $500,000 chunks was sought today by the men who would bring major league baseball to Dallas.

Admittedly it was a difficult assignment for the time alloted—just three days—but the spearheads of the drive for a big league franchise, E. E. (Buddy) Fogelson and R. W. Burnett, Dallas oil men and the latter owner of the Dallas club in the Texas League, said time was the essence. They had to get the money in a hurry or somebody would beat Dallas to the franchise.

* * *

The campaign for a big league berth, which started Monday night with the statement that all that was necessary was the knowledge that Dallas wanted the franchise, had settled down to a stock-selling, fund-raising campaign.

Backers of the drive got the unanimous endorsement of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors yesterday but only an unofficial pat on the back from the Citizens Council, the organization of business leaders that just about runs Dallas. Only 10 of the 25 members attended the meeting and that wasn't a quorum. But J. L. Latimer, president of the council, said it was the "concensus that a major league team successfully operated would be a fine thing for this community."

A major league franchise can be obtained as soon as Dallas can put up the money to meet big league provisions, Burnett said. And he added that there were several franchises available, not just one. However, it was obvious that Burnett was thinking primarily about the Philadelphia Athletics.

Morey Winner of Medal in Colonial Test

MEMPHIS, July 8 (AP) — Dale Morey, 33-year-old veteran of tournament golf, fired a blistering three-under-par 67 today for a 36-hole total of 136 to win the medal of the Colonial Country Club Invitational.

Morey, of Martinsville, Ind., who lost in the finals of the National Amateur to Gene Littler last year, finished a whopping six strokes better than runnerup Bob Moncrief of Houston, Tex., who carded 70-72—142.

Morey's 67 was the only sub-par round of the day over the water-soaked 6,167-yard course. Par is 34-36—70.

Memphian Curtis Person, who shared the lead with Morey after 18 holes with a 69, skidded to a 74 today and wound up in a four-way tie for third with 143.

Offer Paddy $50,000 for Bout With Araujo

BOSTON (AP)—Lightweight boxing champion Paddy DeMarco of Brooklyn will be offered $50,000 for a title defense against Georgie Araujo of Providence, R.I., if Araujo defeats welterweight Tony DeMarco of Boston next Monday night in Fenway Park.

Promoter Sam Silverman of the Callahan AC said last night he would stage the bout in Fenway Park late in August.

By GRANTLAND RICE

NEW YORK — There are several unusual details that have developed from the Marciano-Charles-Walcott combination that are worth recounting, especially as long as Rocky Marciano and Ezzard Charles are facing another meeting.

In the first place, this recent title fight gave Charles his chance to prove he was dead game and could also take it.

* * *

He was that night in Philadelphia for the last two rounds when he had the championship in his grip. No heavyweight ever came closer to regaining the title than Charles did that night. Caution wrecked him.

* * *

But against Marciano, Charles proved to be about as game a fighter as one would care to see. Here is another point you can mull over, if you care for any mulling.

Marciano socked Charles with everything he had on many occasions. He had Charles almost out in the 6th and the 15th rounds. He had clean shots at his jaw more than once. Yet he couldn't knock him down—much less out.

In those two rounds he must have hit Ezzard 40 solid wallops. Yet when Walcott won the title, he knocked Charles colder and flatter than two mackerel with one punch. Charles was not only knocked down, but as he rested and dreamed on the floor, he must have heard the twitter of many warblers.

* * *

It might also be noted that Walcott was the first one I recall who had knocked Marciano down. Knocking Marciano down is something like nailing a Kodiak bear on the chin, or perhaps only a grizzly, and watching him hit the floor. About Rocky's two-year retirement, there is another point to consider.

* * *

He would then be the only heavyweight champion in history to quit the game unbeaten. Jack Dempsey was beaten by Gene Tunney, Tunney was beaten by Harry Greb, Jim Jeffries was walloped by Jack Johnson—Johnson was beaten by Jess Willard—all, at one time, or another, have been beaten.

Gromek Beats White Sox for 10th Win

Tigers Embark on 2nd Half of Season Today Against Orioles

DETROIT (UP) — Steve Gromek, dean of the Detroit pitching staff at 33, has an excellent chance to reach the coveted goal of 20 victories this season.

The stout right hander recorded victory No. 10 Thursday with a 2-0 decision over the Chicago White Sox in which he scattered seven hits and didn't walk a batter.

With the invasion of the Baltimore Orioles today, the Tigers embark on the 2nd half of the season since Gromek's shutout came in the 77th game and the schedule consists of 154 games.

His shutout over the White Sox was especially pleasing to the Tigers in view of the fact that Chicago had blanked Detroit on the two previous days behind one-hit pitching by Virgil Trucks and Don Johnson's four-hitter.

Ray Boone, who enjoyed a perfect day at the plate with three-for-three, opened the second with a single. Wayne Belardi lofted a high fly to Johnny Groth in center. Frank House skipped a grounder at first baseman Ron Jackson and it rolled between his legs into short right field.

Gromek, who has lost eight games, allowed the White Sox one hit in each of the 1st four innings and another in the 6th. Chicago managed a pair of singles, one by Freddie Marsh and the other by Chico Carrasquel in the 8th, but Gromek bore down to dispose of Nellie Fox and Minnie Minoso on infield popups.

Loss was charged to Sandy Consuegra, his 3rd against 10 triumphs. Manager Freddie Hutchinson named George Zuverink, the Holland, Mich., righthander, to pitch against the Orioles today.

Zuverink has won four and lost three, including an 11-inning shutout over the Cleveland Indians Monday. He will be opposed by Duane Pillette, whose record stands at five wins and 10 losses.

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Medalist Robert Tyre Jones III—son of the great Bobby Jones—was eliminated yesterday from the 46th Massachusetts Amateur golf championship at the Country Club of Pittsfield. The 28-year-old Jones, who came here from Atlanta, Ga., five years ago, disposed of Dr. John Mercer of Fitchburg in 19 holes in his morning match, but lost, 1-up, to 35-year-old wool salesman Dick Harris of Andover in the second round.

CHICAGO, July 8 (AP)—Vince Dooley of Auburn today became the fifth quarterback selected to play with the College All-Stars against the champion Detroit Lions of the National Football League in the 21st annual charity football Classic Aug. 13.

A defensive specialist in the days of two-platoon football, the 185-pound Dooley proved equally efficient on offense when limited substitution was written back into college rules last year.

Previously named as All-Star quarterback were Zeke Bratkowski of Georgia, Bobby Garrett of Stanford, Lamar McHan of Arkansas and Cotton Davidson of Baylor.

Buickmen Trip GMC Nine, 3-2

Victory Gives Oliver Second Place by Few Percentage Points

Oliver Buick eked out a 3-2 victory over General Motors yesterday to move into 2nd place in City Class A Baseball League standings by a few percentage points.

Both Oliver and GMC now trail league-leading Pontiac Jets by a half game, but Oliver has won 7 of 10 games for a .700 mark while GMC has an 8-4 record for a .666 percentage.

Oliver tied the score in the 4th, when Jack Taylor singled with the bases loaded to usher home Fred Foster and Jim Long. Paul Fournier, who had gained base on a fielder's choice, came in with the winning run a few minutes later on Al Serra's single.

Larry Cates went all the way on the mound for the winners, striking out 7, walking 6 and giving up 2 hits. GMC starter Jack Kratt, the loser, was relieved by Roy Bone in the 4th.

Slumping Brooklyn Falls 6½ Games Back

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sportswriter

Collapse or slump? Take your pick. It depends upon whether you're anti or pro Brooklyn.

But even their best friends and staunchest boosters must admit the once high and mighty Dodgers are at their lowest point since their 1951 debacle.

* * *

Not since they "blew" the flag in the dog days of 1951 have the Dodger fortunes been at such a low ebb. Within a space of 10 days the tired and dreary Dodgers fell from their lofty perch atop the National League to a poor runner-up spot, 6½ lengths off the pace.

Old age, injuries, weak hitting, spotty pitching, sloppy fielding and big Giant bats all contributed to the Dodgers' sharp decline.

* * *

Whether the Dodgers can right themselves is anybody's guess. Only once before in the last six years have the Brooks been so badly off. That was in 1950 when they trailed the Philadelphia Phillies by eight games in September. They came on with a rush then only to lose a chance for a tie on the final day of the season.

The outlook is much gloomier now. First of all, this time they have got to contend with a "hot" New York Giant team that is roaring through the league like wildfire instead of a weary Philadelphia club staggering to the finish line.

Once again, it was Willie Mays who led the Giant charge. The spectacular center fielder smashed his 29th and 30th homers to drive in five runs. It gave him four homers in the three-game set and nine in 12 games against Brooklyn pitching this season.

Ruben Gomez, the Puerto Rican screwball pitcher, limited the Dodgers to seven hits and fanned eight for his eighth triumph.

Only four other games were played yesterday. Ceveland's American League-leading Indians boosted their margin over the idle New York Yankees to four games, defeating Baltimore 4-1 behind the seven-hit hurling of Bob Feller. The former fireballer fanned six to raise his lifetime strikeout total to 2,511, third high to Walter Johnson and Cy Young among all-time strikeout leaders. Homers by Jim Hegan and Wally Westlake were all the runs Feller needed.

The St. Louis Cardinals bunched four singles in the second inning to defeat Cincinnati 2-1 and gain a tie with the Redlegs for fifth place. Harvey Haddix chalked up his 13th triumph.

Randy Jackson walloped his 17th home run early in the game, then singled in the 14th inning to drive in the run that gave the Chicago Cubs a 9-8 victory over Milwaukee.

Dressen Sizes Up Brooklyn 9

Former Pilot Figures Pitching Is Problem of NL Champs

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Chuck Dressen, who is having some pitching staff trouble of his own, thinks that maybe pitching is at the bottom of Brooklyn's troubles in the National League pennant race.

"You can't always tell from the box scores what the trouble is," said the former Dodger manager, explaining that he didn't want to try to analyze Brooklyn's comedown from this great distance.

He added, however, that he had noted "even Don Newcombe hasn't been able to win consistently. He won 20 games for me in 1951. And Joe Black, Russ Meyer and Carl Erskine aren't having good seasons."

The Giants took advantage of this to turn the tables on the Dodgers, said Dressen who quit as the Dodger manager last year to become manager of Oakland in the Coast League.

"Last year we (meaning Brooklyn) beat the Giants 15 times—and 10 of those were in a row," Dressen recalled. "This year Brooklyn already has lost more games to the Giants than in all of last year."

He noted that Jackie Robinson had been benched for light hitting, but said there still was power with such men as Gil Hodges and Carl Furillo playing regularly.

It's Time Out!

"His style bothered me a lot; always hitting me and never letting me hit him!"

Kuenn Lost Tutor

DETROIT (AP)—When veteran infielder Johnny Pesky was traded from the Tigers to Washington, Harvey Kuenn lost a tutor. Last year's rookie of the year in the American League, Kuenn praised Pesky for helping him learn the defensive duties of a big league shortstop.

The Keith twins paced Dick & Wes Sports to an easy 10-1 Waterford Township Softball League victory Thursday night as Drayton Drug took its 3rd straight loss at Drayton Plains.

Harlan (Fat) Keith registered his 7th mound triumph on a 5-hitter, striking out 9, while Harold (Skin) Keith led Dick & Wes' 14-hit assault with a double and 2 singles.

In the Little League, Williams Lake Indians wrapped up their 7th straight success by edging Drayton Drug, 3-2, on Bill Bryce's single in the 6th inning.

Chisox Are Home for 'Last-Ditch' Stand

Hose Must Win to Keep Role as Contender

Bob Keegan Opposes Tribe's Houtteman in Series Opener

By CARL BELL

• • •

The badly crippled third-placers' American League pennant chances can become either a real thing or just an early season memory in the four-game series with the front-running Cleveland Indians this weekend.

The vital set at Comiskey Park includes single games tonight and Saturday, winding up with a doubleheader Sunday.

• • •

Chicago, having faded rapidly since holding the top rung four weeks ago, now is seven games off the pace. A repetition of last weekend's doings at Cleveland—when the Indians swept four in a row—would leave the Sox a virtually hopeless 11 laps behind.

On the other hand the Sox can jump to within striking distance of first place by doing some clean sweeping of their own.

Whatever the Pale Hose can accomplish in the way of winning in the three-day span also will be welcomed by the New York Yankees, now sandwiched between Cleveland and Chicago, four games out of first.

• • •

Sox Manager Paul Richards will lead with his ace in an effort to cool off the Tribe, who have won 11 of their last 12 games. That would be righthander Bob Keegan, who owns 11 victories against three losses.

Richards intends to follow with lefties Jack Harshman (4-4) and Billy Pierce (4-5) and righthander Virgil Trucks (11-5) in that order.

Michigan Mile Set Saturday

Defending Titlist Second Avenue Faces Top Field in Annual Classic

Second Avenue will defend his championship against a field of approximately 12 in the $50,000 added Michigan Mile at the Detroit Race Course Saturday and frankly, it doesn't look so good for Second Avenue.

Competition shapes up as tougher than in 1953 and Second Avenue appears to have slowed down in the 12 months since Michigan's richest and most important race last was run.

This year's renewal of the thoroughbred race is expected to draw a crowd upwards of 25,000 and perhaps will see a new wagering mark established, even as it was last year when a record $1,412,221 was slipped through the machines on Michigan Mile day.

Governor Williams will blanket the winning thoroughbred in red and white gladioli and present a huge, ancient silverpiece to the owner.

Mays Collects 29th, 30th Home Runs; Moves Ahead of Ruth's Record Pace

NEW YORK (AP)—Two weeks ago when Willie Mays was first made aware that Babe Ruth once hit 60 home runs in one season, he found it difficult to believe. Today, the spectacular "Say Hey" kid of the New York Giants is being given a better than even chance to break the Bambino's 28-year-old mark.

• • •

With 30 home runs already to his credit, the slugging center fielder currently is three home runs ahead of Ruth's 1927 record pace. Barring injuries or a protracted slump, the 23-year-old phenom should give it a good battle.

Mays is not the first to be ahead of Ruth's pace at this stage of the season. Jimmy Foxx, Hank Greenberg, Hack Wilson, Johnny Mize, Ralph Kiner and Eddie Mathews had more homers than the Babe at the mid-season mark, but none of them could match Ruth's extraordinary September pace.

That's the month that killed them all off. It was during that final month of the campaign that the Babe was at his best—slamming 17 home runs including three in the final two days. That is why old timers refuse to become excited when another challenger to Ruth's coveted record emerges.

There's no question but that Foxx, Greenberg, Wilson and others fell before Ruth's torrid stetch drive. Foxx and Greenberg each finished with 58. But Willie may pile up a big enough lead to offset the Babe's September pace.

A check of Ruth's 1927 season shows that he hit only nine homers in July and nine in August. He entered September with 43.

• • •

Mays, with 11 homers in May and 10 in June, already has hit six in the first eight days of July. He walloped his 29th and 30th yesterday in his 80th game. Ruth did not have 30 homers until his 83rd game. Then followed a 10-game drought. He didn't get his 31st until his 94th game.

'Red' Nearing Hitting Record

ST.LOUIS (AP)—Red Schoendienst of the St.Louis Cardinals is approaching the National League consecutive game hitting streak record. The switch-hitting second baseman singled last night against Cincinnati to extend his skein to 27 games, the longest in the majors this season.

The National League mark is 37 consecutive games, set by Tommy Holmes of the Boston Braves in 1945. Joe DiMaggio holds the major league record of 56 games, established in 1941.

Indians Got Scalped

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians lost two ball games and thousands of customers in a series with the Yankees. The Tribe's front office expected at least 60,000 at Municipal Stadium for the Sunday game since they had an advance sale of 40,000. But the Yanks won the first two contests and 47,782 came to the finale. The Indians won the game 4-3.

West Germany Republic May Be 'Declared' Soon

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

The Federal Republic of Germany, as West Germany is called formally, may be proclaimed a sovereign nation within the next few weeks.

The proclamation would be a big step in the "agonizing reappraisal of basic United States policy" which Secretary of State John Foster Dulles warned last December might be necessary.

The situation is that the United States and Great Britain have agreed that the 49,000,000 people of West Germany no longer can be kept in subjection.

The reason they are in subjection is that France and Italy have failed to ratify the European Defense Community Pact.

The United States and Britain have decided the time has come to act, whether France and Italy act or not.

There is danger that if German sovereignty is withheld any longer, West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, firm friend of the West, may be overthrown. If that happened, a resurgence of extreme German nationalism might be expected.

The situation goes back to the persistant refusal of Soviet Russia to conclude a final peace treaty with Germany.

In the absence of a treaty, the United States, Britain and France signed a "peace contract" in Bonn, the West German capital, on May 26, 1952. This contract gives West Germany sovereignty.

On May 27, 1952, France, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg and West Germany signed the EDC pact in Paris. The pact calls for the six countries to form a continental European army as part of Western defense.

It was provided that the Bonn peace contract should go into effect only after all six EDC countries had ratified the Paris pact.

Two years after the signature, it looks more and more as if France will not ratify the EDC pact unless it is changed radically.

For one thing, the French want to make sure that Germany is not permitted to become the dominant military power of Western Europe.

The United States and Britain are now working out a means of giving West Germany its sovereignty without awaiting the EDC ratification.

One way would be to put the Bonn peace pact into effect but to keep in suspension — for the present — the right of West Germany to rearm.

It is hoped France will go along with the sovereignty idea. If it does not, the United States and Britain intend to act alone. That is where the possibility of a crisis arises.

In any event, 78-year-old Adenauer, will be the leader of a sovereign nation soon. Since he was elected in 1949, he has brought West Germany to prosperity and he has won the trust of the Western nations.

An Allied diplomat once said of him: "If there hadn't been an Adenauer, we'd have had to invent one."

Whooping Crane's Voice Is Recorded

ITHACA, N. Y. (UP) — Science now has found a way to record the voice of the whooping crane, the second rarest bird in the United States.

Dr. Arthur A. Allen of the Cornell University laboratory of ornithology, made the recording at the Aranas National Wildlife Refuge on the Gulf of Mexico last January.

At the refuge are 24 birds which spend their winters there, after migrating from summer nesting grounds believed to be in the northwestern part of Canada.

Dr. Allen said development of new lightweight sound recording equipment made it possible to record the whooping crane. He had tried to make a recording in 1946, but his equipment bogged down in a swamp.

"The whooping crane is extremely wary and flies away when it spots an intruder," Dr. Allen said.

Corn Steady, Wheat Dips

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat turned downward on the board of trade today while corn held steady and oats and new crop soybeans eased. July soybeans showed flashes of strength.

Dealings were less active than in early sessions this week. An Agriculture Department crop report was due after the market closed, and this, along with the tendency of many traders to get out of the market over the week-end, tended to curtail operations.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was 1 to 1⅜ lower, July $2.02¼, corn unchanged to ⅛ higher, July $1.59⅛, oats ⅜ to ¾ lower, July 71⅛, rye ½ to ¾ lower, July $1.02, soybeans 2 cents lower to 2 cents higher, July $3.83¾ and lard 3 cents lower to 15 cents a hundred pounds higher, July $15.90.

Civil Defense Group to Meet

City Department Heads Study Preliminary Plan July 14 at 3:30

A meeting of 18 Pontiac city department heads and other municipal employes is planned for July 14 at 3:30 p.m. in municipal court to organize a stepped - up civil defense program here, City Planner William L. Collins said today.

A plan to completely reorganize the civil defense program was endorsed by Pontiac City Commission last November calling for an organization with city department heads as the core of leadership.

City Manager Walter K. Willman was then named civil defense director and he assigned preliminary revamping work to Collins and City Personnel Director James R. Stelt.

The two have inventoried the city's civil defense materials and needs. They have compiled a tentative organization chart and development plan which will be presented and discussed at the meeting.

The idea of basing a civil defense organization around a city's permanent staff has met with success throughout the country, said Collins.

"We'll present materials on the various civil defense functions and then it will be up to each department head to work out his group's job in detail," Collins explained.

Groups and individuals outside city government will be pulled into the organization as their services are needed.

The plan is concerned not only with possible wartime attack, but with other unforeseeable disasters, he added.

Embezzling Suspect Caught After Chase

Detectives James LaPonsie and Thomas Mitchell said they made the arrest after Port Huron Police, who hold a warrant against Thorpe for obtaining goods under false pretenses, said Thorpe was believed living with his mother at the Liberty street address.

Monthly Stock Buying Plan Working Well

By STEVEN V. DAVID

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Stock Exchange's share-buying plan for small investors, a growing four-million-dollar baby, will be six months old July 25.

Four million dollars is the amount of stock bought by nearly 20,000 persons participating in the plan. By stock market standards, that's hardly huge, but exchange officials say they're gratified and brokerage houses agree that the plan has a big potential.

* * *

The Monthly Investment Plan, as it is called, is tailored for the fellow who wants to buy stocks but doesn't have an accumulation of capital to do it with. Under the plan, he may arrange with a member firm of the New York Stock Exchange to make regular purchases of stock in amounts of from $40 every three months to as much as $1,000 a month.

* * *

The investor deposits a stated amount with his broker and makes regular purchases of stock at the market price. If the market price goes up, he gets less stock. If the price goes down, he gets more stock. If he keeps it up with regular monthly or quarterly purchases, he'll have a good-sized amount of stock at an average price.

Ninety per cent of those signing up under MIP are new investors, the exchange says. So far, 67.3 per cent have been men, 16.7 women and 16 joint accounts. The exchange says 76 per cent of the investors are leaving their dividends in their accounts to be reinvested.

* * *

"The plan is showing the public who can buy stocks and how to buy them," says one exchange official. "It emphasizes the fact that you don't have to have a lot of money to buy stocks."

The list of stocks most popular with the monthly investors is unusually strong in the so-called blue chips. At the top of the list are Radio Corp., Dow Chemical, General Motors, American Telephone, Standard Oil (New Jersey) and General Electric.

Keith Funston, president of the stock exchange, says he feels that the plan "has worked very well indeed."

Medical School Given $600,000

Library for UM Will Hold 150,000 Volumes; Financed by Kresge

ANN ARBOR — A second large gift from the S. S. Kresge Foundation to the University of Michigan Medical School has been announced by University President Harlan Hatcher.

The gift, $600,000, will be used to construct a central medical library with an immediate total book capacity of 150,000 volumes.

The announcement follows closely on the heels of the dedication of the new $3,000,000 Kresge Medical Research Building last May. It also was financed by the Kresge Foundation.

The library will draw together under one roof all the volumes dealing with the medical sciences. Presently the medical library is divided between two reading rooms.

It will be constructed as a one-story adjunct to the north side of the Kresge Medical Research Building, and will be accessible through a central corridor which now leads to the research laboratories. There will be a general reading room 50 feet by 100 feet, four tiers of book stacks, microfilm reading facilities, conference and typing rooms, a librarian's workshop, and offices for the library staff.

The library will also contain a rare book room where University medical volumes of irreplaceable value and great age will be housed.

Medical instruments, displays, and specimens will line the corridor which leads to the librarian's dispensing desk.

The exterior of the new $600,000 medical library will conform in architectural style to the Kresge Research Building, with windows on the north and east walls and construction details which will allow for expansion as is needed.

Their program will include experience in surgery, emergencies, internal medicine, childbirth and anesthesia, Miss Paul added.

Russia already has presented a motion demanding that the tests be stopped.

India is working on a similar resolution based on complaints by Marshall Islanders that numerous inhabitants of those Pacific atolls were injured by the explosion of March 1 and that Japanese fishermen also suffered from that test.

Owner wants smaller setup and will consider contracts or properties as down payment. Phone for appointment to learn more about number 19.

Under Priced ! ! !
That's an understatement. The business in this hotel bar is worth the asking price of the whole works — property with 14 room brick hotel complete and on one of the busiest highways in this part of Michigan. It's so cheap we are ashamed to print the price. Will accept trade of property or contracts as part of down payment. Number 58.

Tennessee Ford Is Guiding Light

Once Was Hired at $10 Per Week; His Singing Made Him Known

NEW YORK — The talents of Tennessee Ernie Ford, guiding light of TV's College of Musical Knowledge, range the fields of music, comedy, acting and announcing.

It is no accident that Tennessee can do all these things and do them all well. He's worked hard at that goal.

Ernie was born in Ford Town, Tenn., on Feb. 13, 1919 and was christened Ernest J. Ford. Later his family moved to Bristol, Tenn., where he attended public grade school and high school.

After working in a dry-cleaning shop and as a grocery clerk, he started to look in at the local radio station, and finally was hired as a staff announcer in 1937 for $10 per week.

Meanwhile, he was taking private singing lessons in his home town. He later went on to study at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music where he developed his voice for serious music.

Without promise of a job, he decided to try his luck in California. So he and his wife bought a 1941 car and headed West. His first job on the coast was with a San Bernardino, Calif. station. This was followed by a short stint as chief announcer for a Reno, Nev. station.

Ernie has played such clubs as the Copacabana in New York, the Thunderbird and Last Frontier in Las Vegas and other top cafes throughout the country. Additionally, Tennessee played the London Palladium, where his success brought repeated offers for a return engagement.

Ernie, his wife, Betty and their two children — Jeffrey Buckner, born in 1950, and Brion Leonard, born in 1953 — live in a lovely ranch style home in Whittier, Calif.

First vaudeville performance in the United States was at the Gaiety Museum, Boston, in 1883.

Course Starts July 19 for High School Editors

ANN ARBOR — Second of this summer's high school journalism workshops at the University of Michigan will open July 19 with high school publication editors from the Great Lakes area attending the two-week event (through July 30).

Presented by the U-M Department of Journalism, the workshops will be devoted to the latest techniques in news writing, speech coverage and editorial procedures.

Report No Clues in Miami Killing

Police Widen Search for Child's Murderer; Little Progress Seen

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Police broadened their search today for the brutal killer who kidnaped and murdered Judith Ann Roberts, but little progress was reported.

"I can't accuse anyone at this time," he said.

• • •

Renewed questioning of members of the child's family and other witnesses led police to believe the 7-year-old, blue-eyed Baltimore girl may have been kidnaped from her bed as early as midnight Tuesday. The time previously had been fixed at 1:10 a.m. Wednesday.

• • •

Police sent out a pickup order for a teen-age boy who disappeared from his home in the neighborhood where the murder victim was kidnaped. The youth had been involved in a case of child molestation and left his home shortly before Judith was kidnaped, police said.

The dwellings are about two blocks apart and police said they wanted to question the boy about his activities.

• • •

Judith Ann was buried yesterday in private services at Mt. Nebo Cemetery with only the parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Roberts, the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rosenberg, and a few friends present.

Rubber Workers Hold Strike Parley

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Leaders of the CIO United Rubber Workers here have summoned the 13,000 striking Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. employes to a special briefing meeting Sunday.

Along with 10,000 other workers in 10 Goodyear plants across the country, they walked out last midnight after a breakdown in company-union negotiations held at Cincinnati.

Goodyear said the union rejected an offer of a 5-cent hourly wage increase. The rubber workers never have made their wage demands public.

• • •

A union spokesman said Local President Carl Baker would address the Akron meeting but did not indicate what would be said.

Picketing was peaceful on the first day of the company's first nationwide walkout. Office workers were permitted to pass through the lines. Only production workers were out.

Dogs to Replace Dearborn Police in Scout Cars

DEARBORN (INS) — Dearborn's Mayor Orville Hubard yesterday announced that German shepherd dogs will be put in police scout cars in order to reduce a manpower need.

But that isn't the only reason said Hubard.

"A dog can't sit in the scout car," he said, "and get fat like a cop does and he can't sass the citizenry. And he won't be able to criticize everything the mayor does."

Hubard said five dogs will range Dearborn within the next few weeks.

Latter Day Saints Plan Reunion at Lake Sanford

MIDLAND (UP)—The Central and South-Central Michigan districts of the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints will hold a reunion at Lake Sanford 10 miles northwest of here Saturday through July 18.

Representatives were expected from Midland, Saginaw, Bay City, Big Rapids, Alma, Mt. Pleasant, Coleman, Burt, Vestaburg and Bentley.

Urges End to Coddling

Youth Council Aids Judge in Handling of Delinquents

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A Louisville judge has turned to an "overlooked source" in the fight against juvenile delinquency—youth itself.

And the judge's nine young consultants have advised him to "get tough," a surprising deviation from the widely held adult view that adolescent law breaking is the result of factors the young do not control.

The youngsters recommend that Juvenile Court adopt a stern policy to instill in those brought before it "the fear of the court they should have"; that offenders be put to work to pay for damages; and that parents "quit coddling kids."

* * *

The advice came after the local youth advisory committee began sitting in on Juvenile Court sessions, talking with authorities and visiting institutions. The seven boys and two girls were named by Juvenile Judge Louis H. Jull, who commented:

"It occurs to me that every voice on the subject of juvenile delinquency is an adult voice. It may be that most, if not all, adults think of youth as they wish they were, rather than as they are . . . This leads me to believe that we may be overlooking the source which could give us the answers to some of our problems."

* * *

Most of the young advisers' suggestions have this underlying pattern: give youth more responsibility — both for constructive things it could do and for destructive acts it may have done.

The youngest member of the committee, Roger Conwell Jr., 16, says too much blame is being put on parents, when the best way to handle an offender may be to "find him a job and make him pay for damages."

Advice from Larry Franklin, 17, is that "parents ought to quit coddling kids." He believes too many parents treat youngsters as problem children instead of young people with responsibilities.

"Let them grow up," he says. "There is too much of adults doing for juveniles, instead of letting the juveniles do for themselves."

* * *

The youngsters agree that most juveniles believe offenders put on probation actually have "gotten off." They said, too, that court probation officers don't check often enough on cases, that juveniles have "repeatedly broken" probation without penalty.

Other suggestions include having teachers and fellow students counsel offenders, having a minister in the court to interest delinquents in religion, and getting "to the base" of delinquency "before it happens" — in the home.

The oldest member of the committee, David DeNuzio, 19, advocates interesting delinquents in sports. But one of the girls, Pat Johnson, 18, adds this qualification: "Athletics could help, but too many schools are out to win instead of for the joy of playing — there's not enough participation."

Chief Justice Deplores Crowded Court Calendar

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Chief Justice Earl Warren says federal court calendars are becoming so crowded it often takes two years to settle a case.

He told the San Francisco Bar Assn. yesterday that the congestion must be solved to preserve the "American way of life." Some people can't afford the delays and accept unsatisfactory out-of-court settlements, he said.

Cowboy Routine Ends in Death of 7-Year-Old

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP)—Seven-year-old Steven Mussalem, pretending to be a calf, died yesterday after his brother Neil, 10, snagged him with a lariat and a riderless horse dragged him 500 feet.

Panama's Bus Drivers End Work Stoppage

PANAMA (AP) — Panama City's strike of bus drivers ended last night after four days of reduced transport service. The drivers' union agreed to submit its demands for a guaranteed wage of 50 cents an hour to a conciliation court.

Seven Communists arrested during the work stoppage for agitating were sentenced to jail terms of 30 and 99 days on charges of disturbing the peace.

Paternal Police Refuse Payments for Parking Fine

AUBURN, N. Y. (AP)—After police tagged an automobile for overtime parking, an 8-year-old boy rushed up and asked permission to pay the 50-cent penalty in installments.

The boy explained that he was supposed to watch the meter while his mother was shopping.

"I only have a dime now," he said, "but you take it and I'll bring the rest in when I can."
