Rescue Crews Find Body of Trapped Miner

Located 3,900 Feet Below Surface; No Report on Others

CARMICHAELS, Pa. (AP)

Rescue crews today recovered the body of one of 37 miners trapped deep in the Robena No. 3 mine of U.S. Steel Corp. The body was removed by ambulance to a morgue.

A U. S. Steel spokesman identified him as Hurley C. Stalmaker, 50, of Adah, Pa., a motorman. He was the father of five children and had been a miner for 19 years.

The spokesman said the body was found 3,900 feet from the face of the mine — the place where they were digging. Stalmaker had been operating a coal train that was headed toward the face at the time of the explosion.

Stalmaker's body was brought out just a half hour short of 48 hours after the explosion 650 feet underground Thursday afternoon.

There was no immediate report if any other bodies had been found.

Stalmaker's body was recovered at 11:49 a. m. EST. Pockets of deadly methane gas and small fires delayed rescuers from recovering the body. It was spotted early this morning.

Earlier, a funeral director who declined the use of his name, said three bodies had been found.

James B. Girod, assistant general superintendent of the mine, said at a mid-morning news conference, "Our progress may seem slow, but we are encountering gas which we must move and a few small fires."

He said the base of rescue operations was approximately 4,000 feet from the mine face but that rescue units have explored within 4,000 feet of the face.

The body was reported 3,900 feet from the face.

"We must explore 1,700 feet of roadway for every 100 feet we advance," Girod explained.

A mine official relayed news of the discovery of the body to a handful of relatives and friends, standing by.

STILL HAVE HOPE

Adam Bronakowski, whose son Albert, 19, was among those trapped, said the group received the information without visible reaction.

The discovery came in the third day of round-the-clock operations by specially trained eight-man rescue units at the Frosty Run shaft of U. S. Steel's Robena No. 3 mine, located about 50 miles southwest of Pittsburgh.

INSPECTS REACTOR — President Kennedy looks over a Kiwi B4 reactor during his tour of the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratories yesterday at Los Alamos, N.M.

Britain Ire at Acheson Said to Irk President

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy is reported to be disturbed about British indignation over former Secretary of State Dean Acheson's remarks that Great Britain has "lost an empire and has not yet found a role."

Informed sources said yesterday that the President does not condemn the speech, which Acheson delivered Wednesday at West Point, but regrets that only portions of it were picked out by Britons who reacted sharply to it.

However, they said, the administration does not want to attach undue importance to the matter in view of the fact that Kennedy is to meet with British Prime Minister Macmillan Dec. 19-20.

Acheson took the position yesterday that critics of his remarks should read the whole speech.

"It would help if people would read the text of my speech before they criticize," a statement released through Acheson's office said.

"It is entirely clear that there will be those who will disagree, but at least they will then disagree with what was actually said."

In his remarks Acheson said the Western Allies must agree to a policy on the question of reunification of Germany. And he called for increased conventional forces to meet Communist armed might along the Iron Curtain.

But he called Britain's application for membership in the European Common Market a "decisive turning point."

Sees Reactor Dismantled at Remote Base

Gets Funds Appeal for Development of Moon Rocket Engine

From Our News Wires
AREA 400, NEVADA TEST SITE, Nev. — President Kennedy today continued his on-site study of nuclear development by watching the dismantling of a "hot" radioactive reactor which eventually may power U.S. space vehicles.

The chief executive flew here from Albuquerque, N.M., with Nevada's two Democratic senators, Alan Bible and Howard Cannon.

After a morning at the nuclear rocket development station here, the President planned to fly to Palm Springs, Calif., to spend the remainder of the weekend resting there.

About 150 persons welcomed him at this remote base, and he shook hands with several of them.

Kennedy faced a busy week back in Washington where he will return Monday. He will hold a news conference at 4 p.m. Pontiac time Wednesday.

The President also will confer Monday with Secretary of State Dean Rusk shortly before Rusk departs for the Paris conference of the North Atlantic Treaty Nations (NATO).

ENCOURAGING PROGRESS

Before he departed from his overnight stop at the headquarters, Kennedy was convinced that America's progress in both military and peaceful application of atomic energy was so encouraging that the country could afford the luxury of pride.

The President, nearing the end of a cross-country tour, recalled a budgetary appeal for more funds to build a moon-based nuclear rocket engine.

He was to get the second half of a double exposure to Project Rover — the nuclear engine program — at the atomic test site at Jackass Flats, Nev., today.

However, the President started the day by attending Mass to celebrate the feast of the Immaculate Conception, a holy day of obligation for Roman Catholics, at the Kirkland Air Force Base chapel.

The chief executive was given the first half of the Rover story — and a thingy disguised place for financial support — at Los Alamos, N.M., Friday. Scientists are designing the engine at Los Alamos and testing it at Jackass Flats.

Flower advocates hope their engine, still in the dream stage, will be chosen to lift the first American to the moon — an event now planned for sometime in the 1970s.

WANTED TO SEE

Perhaps significantly, the White House listed as the prime reason for Kennedy's trip a desire to hear about Rover firsthand.

The journey also coincided with the time when the President is putting finishing touches on a new federal budget going to Congress next month. Also, it came as some officials were urging a slowdown in the moon program to save funds.

Union Lake Highway Project Protested by Businessmen

County Road Commission plans to create roadways to replace 21-foot-wide blacktop — will not be done at the same time.

The commission's office has been bombarded with petitions and form letters demanding assurance that Union Lake Road and Cooley Lake Road will not be completely closed during construction next summer. Chairman Sol D. Lomerson said yesterday.

The Union Lake Area Business Association and other groups say many merchants would go out of business and residents would have to go out of their way as much as 10 miles to reach their homes if the roads are completely closed.

Lomerson said no guarantee of any kind is possible until plans for the project are completed, but, he added, the commission intends to cooperate with Union Lake and cause as little inconvenience as possible.

PLAN MEETING
Road commissioners will meet with members of the business group as soon as engineering studies of possible detours and other aspects of the project are completed, he said.

Union Lake especially fears that Union Lake Road from Commerce Lake Road to Cooley Lake Road and Union Lake Road will be closed at the same time.

However, road commission engineers said the two projects — both involving new 24-foot-wide concrete roadways — will not be done at the same time.

If Water's Fluoridated, Teeth Care Can Be Cut

Fluoride treatments in Pontiac schools for children's teeth could be stopped seven years after Pontiac's water supply is fluoridated. The city of Pontiac has contracted to being using water from Detroit in July, 1963, and Detroit common council has approved fluoridation of its water. The 8-year-old application program provided by the Pontiac Public Schools aims at preventive dental care on a voluntary basis.

The $5-per-child application of fluoride to the teeth is said to reduce the incidence of new cavities by an average of 40 per cent.

Pontiac School Health Coordinator Josephine Seelye said yesterday she would suggest that the school board go along with state recommendations on termination of fluoride programs.

According to Dr. John D. Monroe, Oakland County health director, the state health department believes topical fluoride applications can be dropped altogether for continuous residents seven years after water fluoridation.

CITING OPINION
Dr. Monroe was citing an opinion by Dr. Chester Tossy, associate director of the division of dentistry of the State Health Department.

However, Dr. Tossy asked that local districts make provisions for treating children who have recently moved into a community having fluoridated water.

The Pontiac program has been in operation on a voluntary basis since 1953, with a one-year interruption.

It is being administered by the school health services department of the Pontiac Public School District.

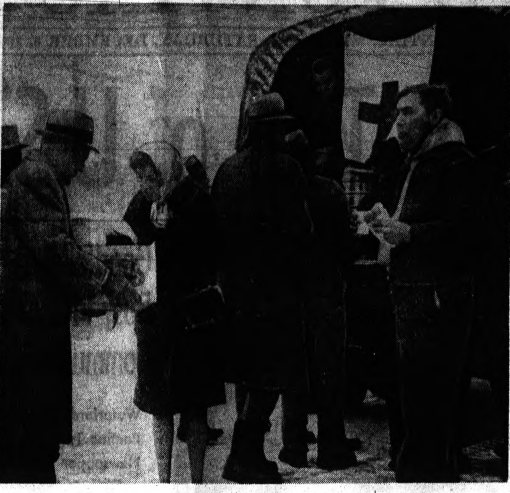

This year, it is expected that 545 children in the second, fifth and eighth grades will have received the fluoride applications by Dec. 21.

Schools scheduled for the program are Washington Junior High and Crofoot and Whitfield elementary schools.

After the Christmas holidays, Mrs. Anna Jackson, dental hygienist for the school health service, plans to include Webster, Winsor and Bailey elementary schools.

Parents must sign consent cards before the treatment will be given.

STRAUNDED — A Red Cross supply truck finally reached some of the motorists stranded between Akron and Cleveland, Ohio. Police estimated 5,000 vehicles were stalled by a heavy snowstorm along the 30-mile stretch. Freezing rain last night complicated plowing operations.

Severe Weather Leaves Costly Michigan Toll

By The Associated Press
Michigan's two-day snow storm has blown itself out pretty much today while leaving behind one of the most severe tolls of any previous blizzard.

At least 19 persons died from causes directly attributed to the storm. Thirteen succumbed to heart attacks while shoveling and six were killed in auto traffic.

Today's forecast, with parts of the state still digging out from under as much as a foot of snow, called for snow flurries and windy and cold weather.

Ohio, Pennsylvania Start Digging Out of Snowstorm

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
With an army of highway crewmen in the vanguard, residents of northern Ohio and western Pennsylvania tackled today the monumental job of digging out from one of the worst snowstorms in years.

At least 38 storm-connected deaths were reported, most of them resulting from heart attacks while shoveling snow or from traffic accidents.

In Ohio alone there were 16 known deaths. Thousands of motorists, truck drivers and bus passengers were stranded by the storm that started Thursday, deposited up to 27 inches of snow and sent drifts as deep as 20 feet.

The fortunate found refuge in farmhouses or emergency Red Cross shelters set up in public buildings. Others spent 24 or more hours in their vehicles.

TRAFFIC PARALYZED
On U.S. 21 between Akron and Cleveland, where the granddaddy of all traffic tieups developed, Anders Andersen of Bath, Ohio, a truck driver, told a reporter who came by with a Red Cross team that brought food and drink: "I've been here since 4:30 p.m. Thursday and have gone exactly three miles. You just sit and sleep. There's nothing else you can do."

That was Friday night, the Ohio Highway Patrol estimated 5,000 vehicles were caught in that jam over a 10-mile section of hilly road south of Brecksville.

The problem of highway crews was complicated earlier by strong winds that sent drifts across the highway, by stalled vehicles and later Friday night by a freezing rain.

Som 2,000 persons were caught on the Pennsylvania Turnpike, where a 160-mile section was closed for hours. Their vehicles were herded into service areas until crews could get one lane of the turnpike open. The section of turnpike was closed at 1:30 p.m. and wasn't opened to new traffic until 11:30 p.m.

BIRTH IN STORM
In western Pennsylvania, Mrs. Gertrude Hixon, 25, of R.F.D. 1, Scottsdale, gave birth to a daughter in an automobile stalled in the snow.

In Ohio, Cleveland was partially paralyzed, with more than 10 inches of snow — its worst snowstorm in 12 years. All schools and many businesses were shut down.

The most recent victim, until Miss Cadigan's death, was Joseph Clark, 19, of Englewood, N.J., who was the perpetrator of a homicide in New York City.

Miss Clark's apartment was less than a block from the scene of the first of the stranglings last June 14.

There were six strange slayings from June through August. The lapse of three months suggested to police that the killer might have been out of Boston, or locked up on another charge since the end of August.

All eight women met death at about the same time of the day — between 5 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. One who was perpetrating medical and hospital killings in Boston.

Miss Clark, nude except for her brassiere, was found strangled with a stocking and petticoat, in her Boston Back Bay apartment Wednesday evening.

2 Proposals Suggested for Emergency Water

BIRMINGHAM — City Administrator John F. Saeffe has recommended two proposals for improving Birmingham's emergency water system as part of the city's accelerated civil defense.

In a report to be presented at Monday's 8 p.m. City Commission meeting, Saeffe says equipment should be purchased to operate the city's largest standby water source, its Southfield well.

The well is capable of supplying 2.5 million gallons of water per day.

The administrative aide also urges that additional Birmingham firemen be trained to learn all facets of emergency water production.

TIED TO CUBAN CRISIS
Saeffe's report is the result of a City Commission resolution, passed Nov. 19 in the wake of the Cuban crisis, which directed the city administration to step up its civil defense efforts.

An emergency water supply was a prime consideration because of the potential fallout danger to Birmingham's present Detroit-supplied water.

The city currently has a 100-kilowatt gasoline - driven generator for emergency service at either its Walker or Wakefield wells.

The Walker well is the only one of three owned by Birmingham which is in operation now.

It is used to supply water for Troy under a contract with Birmingham. The others are tested once a week.

In case of emergency, the city's Detroit water supply could be shut off, either manually or electrically, through four valves on 14-Mile Road.

The city then could switch over to its own well system if there were sufficient equipment to operate it.

CHECK ON GENERATOR
Saeffe said he and Fire Chief Park Smith have been investigating the possibility of obtaining a 150-kilowatt generator from federal surplus to operate the large Southfield well.

So far they have met with no success, but Saeffe will ask the commission Monday for a 90-day limit in which to obtain federal surplus equipment.

IN A BOOKLET published for distribution abroad, Prime Minister Nehru's government painted a picture of the "expansionist policies of the government of China, pursued alternately by military aggression and by peace offensives."

Now, with the Chinese occupying some 14,500 square miles of disputed area, "it would be fatal to compromise with aggression or submit to the military dictates of an aggressor," the booklet said.

It reiterated a demand for restoration of the border positions of last Sept. 8. Peking has refused to do this and is pressing cease-fire and withdrawal proposals that would leave the Chinese deep in Ladakh.

The booklet, published by the government of India, showed the Indian's case against China, is entitled "Chinese Aggression in War and Peace."

A foreword to a collection of letters between Nehru and Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai summarizes the Indian position.

Hip Fractured in Crash

Man Trapped in Auto

A heavy truck snapped a front axle on Dixie Highway yesterday and slammed into a passenger car loaded with a Windsor family of four. The impact pushed the car 100 feet and off the road trapping the father in the demolished vehicle.

Suffering a fractured hip bone and scalp lacerations, the father, Lionel Walker, 37, was in fair condition at Pontiac General Hospital this morning.

His wife, Winona, 35, and his two children, Sarah R., 2, and Joseph, 4, also were taken to the hospital. They were treated for minor injuries and released. The truck driver, Forrest D. Searight of Detroit was not injured.

The accident happened at 2:30 p.m. on Dixie Highway at the intersection with Telegraph Road in Waterford Township.

Waterford Township Patrolman Fred St. Souver, who was 1,000 feet away from the scene when he heard the crash, said Walker was trapped in the car until a wrecker pulled the truck off its side.

The truck struck the car in the left front side, St. Souver said. He added that the truck's front axle apparently collapsed sending the southbound truck careening out of control into the northbound lane where it smashed into the car's left front side.

The momentum of the truck carried both it and the car off the road, leaving the traffic lanes free.

'Halt Trial,' Says Hoffa; 'I'm Scared'
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—James R. Hoffa, president of the Teamsters Union, says he is too scared to continue his conspiracy trial here because of an air gun attack on him.

Hoffa made the claim in an affidavit filed along with a formal motion asking U.S. District Judge William E. Miller to declare a mistrial in the $1-million case.

Hoffa's statement said he "is apprehensive of his own safety at this case should proceed further at this time."

ATTORNEYS JITTERY
He also said the attack affected his attorneys' ability to defend him and that many witnesses he planned to call are now nervous and afraid to testify freely in his defense. Several defense attorneys and witnesses also filed affidavits to support this contention.

Goodfellow Injured
Selling Newspapers
A Goodfellow selling newspapers in Waterford Township this morning was injured when he was struck by a car.

He was identified as Wilbur Lousberry by a spokesman at Pontiac General Hospital, where he was admitted for observation. The accident occurred in front of 921 W. Huron St., according to Waterford Township police.

Drum Majorette, 17, Slain

Boston Murder Tally Now 8

BOSTON (AP)—Police in suburban Winthrop are confronted today with what appears to be the eighth unsolved slaying of Greater Boston women in six months.

The latest victim is Margaret Cadigan, 17, runner up in a 1962 Boston archdiocesan competition for queen of the Catholic Youth Organization.

She was found dead Friday night on the bedroom floor of the Winthrop home she shared with her family.

Detective Lt. Frank Perrone said of the Cadigan girl's death: "It looks like homicide."

IN PRESSURE COOKER
The body of the pretty drum majorette and drill team captain was fully clothed, but her dress was up to her waist.

Her head was immersed in a pressure cooker half-filled with water. A pajama bottom was under her neck and there was a blood-stained 12-inch knife near the body.

Lt. Perrone said the girl could have died from any one of three means: strangulation, drowning or from the throat slay. A medical examiner was expected to give an official verdict of the death at a later time.

Like the other seven women victims, Miss Cadigan was alone at home at the time of her death.

Most of the earlier victims were linked in some way with hospitals. Two were nurses, one a physiotherapist and others had been patients shortly before their deaths.

Miss Cadigan was interested in nursing and had been working in a hospital as a nurse's aide.

Police fear a madman is on the loose, picking women as his victims and strangulation as his means of killing.

Police said Miss Cadigan was home alone for about 20 minutes Friday night. Death came in that period.

The most recent victim, until Miss Cadigan's death, was Joseph Clark, 19, of Englewood, N.J., who was the perpetrator of a homicide in New York City.

Miss Clark's apartment was less than a block from the scene of the first of the stranglings last June 14.

Revolt Erupts in British Brunei

BRUNEI (AP)—A revolt for independence broke out before dawn today in this British-protected sultanate on the island of Borneo. Brunei rushed tough Chinese troops to Singapore and the royal government appeared to have the uprising under control.

Seven persons were reported killed in the first skirmishes between the rebels and the forces of the sultan, Sir Omar Ali Saifuddin.

The rebels attacked oil installations manned by 200 Britons, Dutch and Australians in this capital. But there were no reports of casualties or serious damage. The installations pump out 4 million tons of oil a year.

The rebels also were reported to have attacked installations in Seria, a major oil installation about 45 miles southeast of here.

In a Kuching capital of the neighboring British territory of Sarawak, the government announced the situation in Brunei was under government control and that order had been restored. It said, however, the situation was still serious at Seria and in nearby Kuala Belait.

Brunei City was quiet in daybreak.

In Manila, A. M. Azahari, leader of Brunei's strongest political party—the Parti Rakyat (People's Party)—proclaimed himself revolutionary prime minister of Brunei and also of two neighboring territories, North Borneo and Sarawak.

North Borneo police reported they exchanged fire with Brunei rebels at Weston near the North Borneo-Brunei border this morning. They reported no casualties.

Azahari said his rebels numbered 20,000 to 25,000 and operated as the Tentera Nasional Kalimantan Utara (North Borneo National Army), elements of which had been previously identified as part of Indonesia. Indonesia owns part of this island off Southeast Asia.

Lot Rezoning
on the Waterford Board Agenda

Waterford Township Board members will act Monday on a proposal to rezone 19 lots in the vicinity of Scott Lake and Elizabeth Lake roads from commercial to residential.

Although zoned commercial several years ago, the area was allowed to develop residentially.

Difficultly encountered by prospective home buyers due to the zoning discrepancy brought the matter to the board's attention.

In other business the board will review a suggested price increase on cemetery lots to levels of the City of Pontiac and Independence Township cemetery departments.

Strained Pope Closes Council

Hopes for Conclusion
Sometime in a Year

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII, strained by illness but optimistic for the future, recessed the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council today and announced his hope it would conclude in a year.

He looked back over the council's first two months as "a good beginning." He also looked to the future and said he was consoled by anticipation of benefits for Christian unity.

The 81-year-old Roman Catholic ruler spoke for 22 minutes to the council fathers in St. Peter's for the ceremonial closing of the first phase of their assembly.

Later, he appeared at his apartment window overlooking St. Peter's Square and recited the noon Angelus prayer. A crowd of about 30,000, including hundreds of purple-robed bishops, knelt in the square.

Many of the 2,200 council fathers planned to be on their way home within hours. Ahead of them was a nine-month recess ending Sept. 8, but it will not be a rest.

In the coming months, the Pope said, "the work will go on unflaggingly, a heavy responsibility rests upon our shoulders, but God himself will sustain us, and we will sustain him."

The decision was announced an hour after picket lines were thrown up around the Times, Daily News, World-Telegram and Sun and the Journal-American in a protest display.

The other newspapers, all members of the publishers association, are the Herald Tribune, Daily Mirror, Post, Long Island Press and Long Island Star-Journal. They have a combined daily circulation of more than 5½ million.

NEW YORK (AP)—Four New York City newspapers were struck today by the International Typographical Union and the other three announced they would shut down.

The decision was announced an hour after picket lines were thrown up around the Times, Daily News, World-Telegram and Sun and the Journal-American in a protest display.

The other newspapers, all members of the publishers association, are the Herald Tribune, Daily Mirror, Post, Long Island Press and Long Island Star-Journal. They have a combined daily circulation of more than 5½ million.

County Educator's Consultant to Santa

Consultant to Santa Claus is one of the roles Dr. Harry Hahn, director of instruction for the Oakland County Board of Education, plays this month.

An expert in the teaching of reading, Hahn suggests books for Christmas. He particularly urges parents of first and second graders to see that an assortment of colorful, interesting reading material is under the Christmas tree.

Paper-back books as stocking stuffers is another suggestion. "Many of the best childrens books

Gets French 'Truth Prize'

"PARIS (UPI)—The Great Truth Prize, a French literary award, was won yesterday by Victorine Conelle for his novel, "Women and Daughter Look for Work."

Bing's Boy's
Spat Is Over

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Dennis Crosby, one of Bing's boys, is back home after a spat. His wife, former showgirl Pat Sheehan, reported Wednesday they had been separated for a week and a half. Dennis said yesterday: "We had a disagreement. I was in the wrong. But everything is fine now."

A cluster of meteorites leveled a Siberian forest in 1908.

Adults Can't Fish Unless Youth Invites

PORT CHARLOTTE, Fla.—Local Huck Finns have it made. They now have a fishin' hole of their very own.

Horsehoe Pond, stocked a year ago with bass and bream by the Florida Fresh Water Fish and Game Commission, has been opened for the special use of youngsters 14 years of age and under.

The pond was set aside for youthful anglers, but adults are not barred altogether from wetting a line there. To do so, however, they must be invited — by a youngster.

Population Increases

PARIS (UPI)—The government announced yesterday that France's four overseas territories increased in population by 24 per cent, while the country's total 2,000 young people, most of whom rose only 8.2 per cent during the past eight years.

An Explanation:

For the past 3 years, in spite of more and more stores opening on Sundays, SIMMS has continued to stay closed Sundays.

This year, SIMMS will be OPEN for the LAST 3 SUNDAYS (9th, 16th, 23rd) BEFORE CHRISTMAS.

Frankly, we do not like it but today's competition does not permit us to do everything we would like to do. A new state law prohibiting Sunday openings becomes effective next Spring. We wholeheartedly endorse and support this law.

Meanwhile, true to our 28-year reputation for biggest bargains, here are savings that make it worthwhile to shop SIMMS on Sundays, weekdays, evenings... ALWAYS!

It's Time You Knew What Field to Enter!

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY
I am a high school sophomore.
I am assigned the topic of careers.
Please send me any information. (W. T.)

Ans. — Would you like it all ready to hand in? When I was 15, I knew I wanted to be a doctor. By that time, any boy or girl ought to have some notion as to what he or she would like to do. Maybe your teacher hasn't the knack of getting his pupils really interested in one field or another.

You should read Martha Munzer's book, "Unusual Careers" (Knopf, $3, probably available in your public library).

Something is wrong with education that leaves boys and girls not only uncertain what they want to do even after they have entered college. Of course, I speak as an uneducated man. I never went to college.

I liked you up North. I liked you in Florida. (Mrs. C. M.)
Ans. — I'm delighted. I hope you'll like me when the clinic racketeers, trick specialists and the nostrum mongers gang up and demand my scalp.

Husband has had hay fever eight years. His mother almost died of arthritis, his father has diabetes, and his sister is badly crippled with arthritis.

I can't help thinking it is all due to excessive quantities of starch in his diet — spaghetti and refined white bread, principally. His people are Italian. (Mrs. M. C. E.)

Ans. — Carbohydrate (starch and sugar) may well provide half the calories in a good diet. There's no better carbohydrate than that of spaghetti and white bread.

From your description, I infer that your husband does not get enough nitrogenous food (protein, such as in meat, eggs, cheese, milk) nor enough high-calcium food, such as milk, green leafy vegetables, nuts, peanuts, peas, beans, lettuce, cabbage. Send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope for the free pamphlet, "Hay Fever."

Kindly send me all the information you have on babies and raising children. (Mrs. M. R. Jr.)

Ans. — Send me 35 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope for Little Lesson No. 7, "The New Brady Baby Book."

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan. (Copyright, 1962)

Pension Plan Benefits Should Be Reasonable

There is an accelerating trend toward the establishment of pension plans in all areas, of government, business and industry.

We do not question the worthiness of the over-all concept, but we do point out that there is danger of the beneficiary group overreaching for an unrealistic schedule of benefits.

Such unwise procedure can, and already has in some instances, so impaired the solvency of the disbursing institution as to jeopardize the continuance of the pension plan.

A case in point is the present plight of the "welfare state" of the United Mine Workers of America.

Established in 1946, the pension plan has used over $1.5 billion on a wide range of benefits for miners and their families.

The huge fund was originally set up on a royalty basis paid by the coal companies. It began at 5 cents per ton but has grown to its present 40 cents level.

Now, with coal production seriously feeling the competition of other fuels, royalty payments have fallen in recent years. Moreover, many small companies have not been able to make the full 40 cent payment and stay in business. Some have been paying a lesser amount.

As a result, receipts fell from a peak of $157 million in the year ended June 30, 1957 to $124 million in the year ended June 30, 1962—with the reserve down $40 million.

Meanwhile, the fund and pension costs have risen sharply. More than 66,000 ex-miners, an all-time high, now are drawing welfare-fund payments.

About 4,000 new pensioners are added each year, with pensioners who die outnumbered by newcomers.

Necessary cutbacks are now in effect:

- Pensions for retired miners have had to be reduced.
- Monthly allowances for widows and orphans in mining families have likewise been pruned.
- Free medical care has been sharply reduced.
- Efforts are being made to sell four of the 10 hospitals to public or private groups.

In short, pension plans may easily find that they are no exception to the rule that you can't have your cake and eat it, too.

Blood Factor Linked With Schizophrenia

Continued research into the relationship between blood chemistry and the mental illness of schizophrenia indicates that science may soon unlock the mystery of the affliction which fills so great a portion of our mental hospitals.

The majority of mental illness cases are due to schizophrenia, a disorder in which the victim has lost contact with reality.

For some time, it was believed to be either traceable to a constitutional defect or the result of difficulties in interpersonal relationships at an early age.

Now, however, some believe that a blood factor in those suffering from this disorder appears to interfere with the appropriate release of energy enabling persons to adapt to stress.

This was reported at the recent international conference on biological treatment of mental illness.

Scientists have been on the "blood" due to schizophrenia for the past five years, since it was discovered that there is a unique protein factor in the blood of many suffering from this mental illness.

Dr. JACQUES S. GOTTLEB, chairman of the department of psychiatry at Wayne State University and director of the Lafayette Clinic in Detroit, told the conference he thought the factor is close to being chemically identified.

Dr. Gottleb suggested that the mysterious blood substance seems to be a biochemical regulator for release of energy, and in schizophrenia, the factor is out of control.

The possibility that this mental disorder can be curtailed, or at least predicted by blood chemistry research is heartening. A great solution to our crowded mental institutions could be just around the corner.

The Man About Town

They Came Early

Local Doctor's Forebears Among Our First Citizens

By HOWARD HELDENBRAND

Well, "He didn't come over on the Mayflower," as the saying is—but did the next best thing. He arranged to have his ancestors book passage.

Dr. David C. Packard of 1315 Nancaywood Ct., some interesting facts came to light about the Society of Mayflower Descendants.

On the staff of Pontiac General Hospital, he is a twelfth generation descendant of one of Plymouth Colony's governors, William Brewster, with his wife was one of the 23 original Mayflower families.

A makeshift organization of descendants was formed in 1711, but it was not until 1784 that the Society as now constituted came into being.

There have been only 11 Governor Generals of the society, the 10th being Burnham Standish Colburn, born in Detroit in 1872.

Total descendants in all 50 states number 10,999, with Michigan having 481.

By way of a historic footnote, Marion, Mass. was founded by a forebear of my informant (for whom the town was named) in 1631—and that branch of the family is still there. You'd hardly call them fly-bys.

SIGNS OF LIFE: In a Chicago store window:

IF BUSINESS DOESN'T IMPROVE WATCH FOR OUR FIRE SALE

Mrs. W. J. Maynard of Union Lake, had a party of uninvited guests a day or two ago. A flock of 25-30 birds arrived in the morning, took up quarters in her Mountain Ash tree and, without even asking what was on the menu for the day, denuded the tree of its berries.

Slightly larger than sparrows, with blue-gray backs and yellow breasts and top-knots, she wonders what species they are. . . doesn't get much help from her bird book, though sees some resemblance to the Cedar Wax Wing. . . thinks they could be winter birds, since they appeared with the snow—or had you noticed it?

Any help from bird sleuths will be appreciated.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODIE ISHMAEL

One of the lesser known figures in the drama of the Incarnation—Elizabeth, the cousin of the Virgin Mary—was a woman with overwhelming faith in God.

Advanced in years, well beyond ordinary childbearing age, Elizabeth greeted with anxiety Mary's announcement that she was to be the Mother of God. Did Elizabeth realize that she herself was to give birth to John the Baptist, the forerunner of Christ? In Elizabeth's own words: "the babe leaped in my womb for joy. And blessed is she that believed."

Mary's faith was demonstrated on this occasion also: "For behold," she said, "from henceforth all generations shall call me blessed."

Days of All Faiths:

Gregory Was Acclaimed Pope

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Sometimes you start to say "There is no reason why this man should be in the calendar of saints," and you realize that what you really mean is "We do not know the things about this man that made the people of his time consider him a saint."

So it is with Pope Gregory III, who is honored Dec. 10. We do not even know what his real name was. But it is on record that in the year 731, there was at the funeral of Gregory II, a Syrian priest whose holiness shone out so much that the funeral crowd, most of whom had no idea who he was, seized him from the funeral procession and acclaimed him Pope. He took the name of Gregory III.

Such a thing could not happen in these times. And, of course, it was a most irregular way of getting a Pope even back in 731. Today, the machinery for the election of a Pope is rigid and exact.

But somehow it is all we need to know about Gregory III to assure us of his saintliness: In any age it would happen only to someone who was pretty obviously "the Lord's anointed."

SAINTS OF LIGHT

By one ancient reckoning, Dec. 13 was the shortest day of the year. It is hard for us to realize how much the winter solstice meant to people in ancient times or even just a few centuries ago. We have warm houses and electric lights. Most of us live in cities. Even when the snow falls and the winds howl, life goes along just about as usual. If we didn't read about it in the newspaper, most of us would not be aware of the shortest day when it came.

But our ancestors had real problems just getting through the winter, and when the sun turned around and started back north it was of crucial importance. Strangely, they seem to have been more preoccupied with light than heat. Their winter festivals were all feasts of lights.

It is not surprising that they dedicated this shortest, darkest day to two saints who went through a time of blindness and then were given their sight again.

The first is St. Lucy, the famous Sicilian Santa Lucia. Even her name means light—from the Latin "luz."

St. Lucy is shown in religious pictures with her eyes on a dish. Some say her eyes were gouged out at her execution (for being a Christian) in 304. Another story is that she herself tore them out to make herself unattractive to a man who was in love with her. Whichever way it happened, it is easy to see why St. Lucy is invoked by people with eye trouble. Her eyes were miraculously restored, more beautiful than ever.

The Church of San Giovanni Maggiore, in Naples, claims to have St. Lucy's eyes.

The other shortest-day saint is St. Odilia, who lived in Alsace in the eighth century. She was born blind, and her father, who could not stand the thought of such an imperfection in his child, was about to put her to death. But her mother persuaded him to let some peasants take her away.

She received her sight miraculously at her baptism. Odilia, too, is invoked for eye troubles.

Washington Notebook:

'First Family' Disc Is Big Seller

WASHINGTON (NEA) — "The First Family," Vaughn Meader's fast-selling record on life with the Kennedys, is causing happy chaos in some music stores around the country.

In Kansas City, Variety reports, one group of stores is keeping open three hours past closing. In one week they unloaded 5,000 "First Family" albums.

Said Bud Booth, the stores' division manager:

"They'll never get Kennedy out of the White House after this."

When the late Queen Wilhelmina paid her first visit to Washington in wartime 1952, the military transport hearing her westward paused for refueling at Reykjavik, Iceland. Getting her off the plane for a breather proved a problem.

The airport had no stair ramps to roll up to the plane's door. Descended by ladder only. Deciding this was beneath the royal dignity, the Queen refused.

She resigned herself to sitting out the long refueling pause in the aircraft's chilled interior. But then some inventive fellow came dramatically to the rescue.

A lock-lift truck, with front members supporting a broad wooden platform, wheeled up beside the queen. Slowly the platform was lifted to the doorway level. Out stepped the Queen onto the platform. She was lowered easily—and regally—to the ground.

The Somali Republic's Prime Minister Abdi Rashid Shermarke was a little astonished the other day when a lady reporter asked him whether Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy's purchase of a Somali leopard skin coat had helped his country.

Laughing, he told the Women's National Press Club:

"Now that I see the fashion set by the First Lady, we shall pay much more attention to leopard skins."

The Air Force is currently adding some new words to the national vocabulary. Maj. Gen. William K. Martin, Air Force information chief, offered "globality" as a sample in a talk to the Aviation Space Writers' Association.

Martin says that means either global ability or global mobility—"that we are able to shape our diplomatic and military strategy to fit the entire globe, not just convenient sections of it."

Another new word is "Damolit," to describe a fictitious new tranquilizer the Air Force needs in time of stress.

Mme. Ruth Dubonnet, of the French wine family, flew in from New York to help out in a luncheon benefit for the D. C. American Association for the United Nations.

Asked by a reporter if Mme. Dubonnet finds most people immediately associate her with the wine of the same name, she says, on the contrary, they usually respond, "Oh, yes. Just like the color."

"The fact of the matter is," says Mme. Dubonnet, "the color took its name from the wine."

Mother Knows From Past Children's Center Needs

I'm a broken hearted mother who knows how much they really need more room at the Oakland County Children's Center. My girl was sent there when she was 13 for skipping school. She had to be put in with older and hardened girls where she learned it all. Today at 18 she is on the run.

A Mother Who Knows

Another Is Critical of Home Directory

For years I've wondered how people have gotten my telephone and address to bug me with all sorts of items that I didn't want. The new home directory makes it even easier. Never again will I have the true feeling that my family will be safe from a displeased fellow worker or a past friend whom I may have forgotten.

'Workers Unable to Buy Stocks'

Of workers, last Tuesday's editorial states, "There is nothing to stop them from saving the money and buying stock in the company." My comment: only wage system prevents this.

That only one retiree at age 65 has as much as $5,000 saved shows how closely wages are adjusted to living costs through a worker's productive cycle.

Commends County Youth Group

The concert given by "The Sparrows" of Wheaton College and sponsored by Oakland County Youth for Christ was one of the most inspiring musical programs we have ever heard.

Al and Ruth Jackson

We could use more of this type program. Oakland County Youth for Christ is doing a marvelous work for young people. For some young folks who complain there is no recreation, this is a good group to join.

If more churches and parents would get behind this group, there would be less juvenile delinquency.

Come to me today, my sweet heart . . . Even for a little while . . . For my heart you make so happy . . . With your gentle friendly smile . . . Come and hold my hand, beloved . . . And sit down a bit with me . . . In the sunshine of my garden . . . So your lovely eyes I see . . . Come and bring to me the whispers . . . Of your constant tender love . . . While the silver stars are hanging . . . On the heaven high above . . . Come and place your arms around me . . . While the moon is shining bright . . . And the winds are softly singing . . . Of my sighs within the night . . . And then leave me with your kisses . . . While the night is growing old . . . So my memories at dawning . . . Never shall be turning cold.

By United Press International

Today is Saturday, Dec. 8, the 322nd day of 1962 with 23 to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase.

The morning stars are Venus and Mars.

The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

Those born on this day include Eli Whitney, the inventor of the cotton gin, in 1765.

On this day in history:

In 1792, George Washington crossed the Delaware River, near Trenton, N. J., and landed on Pennsylvania soil.

In 1863, President Lincoln announced his plan for reconstruction of the South, a plan providing for the return to all those who were part of the confederate rebellion except the highest leaders.

In 1886, delegates from 25 labor unions founded the American Federation of Labor at Columbus, Ohio.

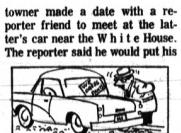

In 1949, the Chinese Nationalist government defeated by the Communists, moved its leaders from the mainland to Formosa.

A thought for the day—President Lincoln said: "Truth is generally the best vindication against slander."

Sen. Kenneth Keating, R-N.Y., told an insurance federation meeting in New York that November proved what a vast market there would be for "Political Defeat Insurance."

Explaining how it would work, Keating said the lowest premiums would be for southern Democrats and members of the Kennedy family.

It would be canceled "if you gave up baby kissing or if you got laryngitis."

He suggested further that "Barry Goldwater might want collision insurance to insure himself against collisions with liberal Democrats or Republicans."

"Bobby Kennedy might want a special policy underwriting four years of occupancy in the White House."

State Court Reverses Death Edict

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Supreme Court yesterday reversed a St. Clair County jury's award of $100,000 to the wife of a truck driver killed in a highway crash in 1957.

The court, by a 7-0 majority with Justice Eugene Black abstaining, ordered the case remanded for retrial on grounds that Circuit Court Judge Halford Streeter erred in his charge to the jury.

The case evolved from the death of Shirley Tacie, a truck driver killed when his semi-trailer, loaded with 40,000 pounds of salt, crashed into the rear of a stalled semi-trailer near New Haven.

Tacie's wife Irene won damages from the Port Huron Fruit House and the White Motor Co., Inc., who owned the stalled truck and another parked ahead of it.

She alleged the stalled trailer's lights were not bright enough for an approaching driver to see them, thereby creating a highway hazard.

The reversal was based on a finding that the judge did not properly instruct the jury regarding its responsibility to consider whether Tacie could have stopped in an assured clear distance ahead.

Mail 30,000 Tax Bills for Waterford Twp.

Nearly 30,000 tax bills amounting to more than $3,320,000 were mailed to Waterford Township property owners yesterday afternoon.

Bills, which include township, county and school district taxes, are payable without penalty through Jan. 19 at the township hall, according to treasurer Mrs. Dorothy Olson. A four per cent penalty is imposed after this date.

The 1962 tax billing exceeded that of last December by $96,000 due to an increase in assessed valuation from $43 to $45 million.

There was no change in the 1961 tax rate of $73.50 per $1,000 assessed valuation as equalized.

The treasurer's office is open from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. on Mondays and from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Tuesday through Friday.

Famed Singer Dies in Oslo

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Kirsten Flagstad, the famed Norwegian Wagnerian soprano and former star of the Metropolitan Opera in New York, died here Friday night. She was 67.

Director John Caspersen of the Oslo government-run hospital, Rikshospitalet, said that she died there at 8 p. m.

"She had been here for several months," he said.

He refused to give the cause of death.

Grand Larceny Charged

Mom of 12 Arrested

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (UPI)—A mother of 12 was held today on charges of taking as much as $15,000 from the clothes closet of two feeble sisters in her care.

Mrs. Bertha Iona Ford, 44, a practical nurse, was charged with grand larceny. Police said the sisters, both retired school teachers, were visibly shocked when told Mrs. Ford admitted the theft.

Miss Nettie Moorhead, 88, and her sister, Laura, 86, told police they were quite fond of Mrs. Ford.

"They just couldn't believe she had taken the money," an officer said.

Mrs. Ford took between $12,000 and $15,000, police said.

The money had been tucked away in shortening cans hidden behind a table and chairs stored in the clothes closet, police said.

Detectives found an additional $28,000 in the hiding place and took it to a bank for safekeeping.

The money was mostly in denominations of from $5 to $20.

Mrs. Ford's husband, also was charged with grand larceny, although Mrs. Ford insisted he knew nothing about the theft.

Mrs. Ford said she came across the cans about three months ago and took two of them home without knowing how much was in them.

Detectives said they had recovered $5,385 of the cash in addition to merchandise they said was purchased with the loot.

The money came primarily from the savings of the sisters while they lived frugally and worked as teachers. The remainder was from pensions and investments.

Science and engineering doctorates in the nation rose from about 400 in 1929 to 6,600 in 1960. By 1970, the National Science Foundation predicts, the total will be 13,000.

Denies Control Lax on Liquor

MLCC Commissioner Says 'Check Records'

LANSING (AP)—Joseph L. Wisniewski, state liquor control commissioner, yesterday denied charges that the commission was soft on violators and said an examination of the records would support his case.

The charges were made in a report submitted to Gov.-elect George Romney by Robert L. Hammond, executive director of the Temperance Foundation.

Hammond dug into commission files for two months, comparing penalties handed out during the periods 1953-56 and 1957-61, in preparing his report.

He charged the commission with "laxity in prosecution of licensees charged with violations," and said the commission has "sacrificed... the public interest in favor of special interest."

CITES COMPARISONS
Hammond's report cited these comparisons:

—Liquor establishments penalized with license suspensions during the period 1953-56 numbered 415; during the period 1957-61 suspensions totaled 221.

—Days of suspensions in the first period averaged 6,176 annually; in the second period, 2,778.

—Licenses revoked in the first period averaged 17 per year; in the second, 3 per year.

—Fines ordered by the commission averaged $147,868 per year in the first period and $141,319 per year in the second.

Wisniewski, speaking from the Lincoln Park commission office, said "Hammond is dealing with figures, but we are dealing with people and the facts and circumstances involving each individual case."

"It's one thing to look at figures, but it's often a lot different when you actually hear the case and learn all the circumstances."

$400, Checks Taken From Local Gas Station

Theft of over $400 and an unknown number of checks during a break-in at Siles Service Station, 625 Orchard Lake Ave., was reported to Pontiac police yesterday.

Detectives said the thieves smashed a window to reach through and unlock the door.

The Office of Vocational Rehabilitation of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare has granted the Florida Alcoholic Rehabilitation Program $90,000 over a three-year period to conduct a study of the value of job training and placement for alcoholics seeking recovery.

Junior Editors Quiz on SCIENCE

QUESTION: Why doesn't mercury in a thermometer freeze when it's really cold?

ANSWER: Mercury is a strange substance. It was named for the swift footed messenger of the Greek Gods because, in its liquid form, it moves around so fast. Even when liquid, it is actually a metal. To answer the question we will have to compare the molecules — or extremely minute particles — of which these two liquids, water and mercury, are made.

Different substances have different kinds of molecules. Those of water are much lighter than the ones of mercury. When water is heated, these light molecules increase their movement very rapidly, so that the water boils, or turns into vapor, at 212 degrees.

When water is chilled, the water molecules (which we show as molecule men) slow down their movement, also very rapidly. At 32 degrees, they almost stop moving (A) and the water turns into solid ice.

By contrast, the heavy molecule men don't change their movements nearly as fast, because their weight gives them a momentum which keeps them going at a steadier pace (B).

It takes a temperature of 65 degrees to make mercury boil, and it must be 38 below zero before the stubborn mercury men will slow down enough to freeze.

FOR YOU TO DO: — Mercury is an important element which we use in a number of ways. Check with your science books and see what you find out about mercury.

How To Make Christmas Shopping Fun

Let's make our Christmas shopping fun this year because the hunt for appropriate gifts for Aunt Evelyn and Uncle Ben doesn't have to be nerve-racking, disposition destroying rat race.

In fact, picking presents can be as much fun as giving them, if you observe a few common sense rules and principles.

BUY WITH CARE: know correct sizes. Try on, if possible, to check fit. Make sure it is what you want.

DEAL WITH RELIABLE MERCHANTS: Check reliability.

READ LABELS TO DETERMINE: Wearing Quality or Limitation, Material Content, Cleaning or washing instructions.

READ PAPERS YOU ARE ASKED TO SIGN: Have them filled out completely. Keep a copy.

DETERMINE COMPANY'S POLICY BEFORE YOU PURCHASE: On returns and exchanges. Always get a receipt. Ask that guarantee be put in writing.

ASK FOR A REFUND OR EXCHANGE IN A COURTEOUS MANNER, BECAUSE: Each store makes its own adjustment policy, and in the absence of misrepresentation, no one can require a store to make a refund or exchange.

AVOID CARELESS RETURNS WHICH: Add to the cost of doing business, and increase the cost of merchandise to you.

RETURN MERCHANDISE PROMPTLY: Call merchant at once if it is found to be unsatisfactory.

REPORT MISREPRESENTATION TO THE MERCHANT PROMPTLY: Give him an opportunity to adjust. When satisfaction is not forthcoming, report to the Better Business Bureau and contact will be made with the merchant in your behalf.

By being a good customer, you can help yourself to greater satisfaction in your daily contact with business, and you can make it easier and more economical for the businessman to serve you efficiently. Remember, a businessman must realize a fair profit if he is to maintain an attractive place of business which is a credit to the community, pay fair salaries to his employees, and pay the taxes which support many of the conveniences and institutions of our community. Your cooperation not only helps him to do these things but also helps him to do business at a lower cost and bring you the merchandise at the most reasonable price possible.

Wound Up Paying $50

Protests Parking Fine

BYRON CENTER (U)—Used car dealer Clarence D. Fortuin says he is going to Lansing to protest to the attorney general over a $50 fine paid for an employee's 11 over-time parking ticket in Owosso.

Fortuin, 30, father of five children and member of his school board, said he wants to stand by a principle.

His unusual story includes a night in jail in Owosso and a pending trial for disorderly conduct in Wyoming, Grand Rapids suburb where Fortuin has his business.

The ticket, fine and the disorderly charge, on which Fortuin is free on bond, somehow go together.

Other principal roles are those of Owosso Police Sgt. John Thornquist and Owosso Municipal Judge Peter Marutlak.

THE STORY

It appears that Thornquist, who chases down unpaid traffic tickets for the Owosso Police Department, went to Wyoming to pick up Fortuin on a long delinquent parking ticket.

Wyoming police said they sent help to Thornquist when the latter reported that Fortuin fled from his car while being taken to Owosso to face the judge.

Fortuin denies this. He said he only left Thornquist's car to get the cord for his electric razor and that he couldn't find the policeman on his return. He was arrested later at his car lot, Fortuin said. He was charged specifically with trying to escape from a police officer.

He said he agreed to go to Owosso to pay a parking ticket given out because of an infraction by one of his drivers. He had business the next day in Owosso, anyway.

Fortuin's night in jail was the result of his inability to put up $100 cash bond, he said.

Judge Marutlak said he assessed the $50 fine the next morning because of the time involved in the delinquency.

Nonalignment Was Mistake, Indians Say

ANN ARBOR (U)—The average Indian citizen now feels that the nation's policy of nonalignment "was a mistake, and now is at an end," President Harlan Hatcher of the University of Michigan says.

Hatcher delivered a "report" on his seven-week trip through the Orient at the U. of M. yesterday.

He was in India at the height of its border crisis with China. He said:

"At first the feeling extended was that this was just 'a traditional border dispute with our friends to the north.' But later all of India realized that this will be a long, drawn-out encounter with China."

"Even the minister of education," Hatcher noted, "could not discuss plans for that nation's educational development because the educational program had to be subordinated in the crisis."

Progress was encouraging, he said, in American-backed college program development abroad.

But English teaching programs abroad must be encouraged or the use of English will be curtailed by spreading nationalism, he said.

The ever-growing problem of the aging in this country is pointed up by tabulations which show there are 17 million persons over 65, or about one in 10. In 1990 there were three million, or about one in 25.

Sign $80 Million AID Agreement in Tunisia

TUNIS, Tunisia (UPI)—An agreement for a $80 million loan from the United States Agency for International Development (AID) to the Tunisian government was signed here yesterday.

The money is to assist Tunisia in its three-year economic development plan.

Another Kennedy Packing Up to Move to D.C.

WASHINGTON (U)—The inhabitants of Georgetown, District of Columbia, are getting another Kennedy as a neighbor.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., has followed in the footsteps, or up the housesteps, of elder brothers John F., now residing at 1400 Pennsylvania Ave. and Robert F., now of McLean, Va. Sen. Kennedy has chosen a house in the expensively restored Old Neighborhood — as did the President and the attorney general early in their Washington careers.

The rented house that confers on the senator the status of a Georgetown address is an eight-room, three-story brick house owned by retired Rear Adm. and Mrs. John Henry Shultz, who spend most of their time in the Virgin Islands.

County Teens to Hear About March of Dimes

Plans were announced today for a countywide teen-age meeting sponsored by the Oakland County March of Dimes Dec. 15 from 2 to 4 p.m. at the MGM Dance Studio on Coolidge Highway in Oak Park.

The purpose of the meeting will be to inform the Oakland County teens of the vital work that the March of Dimes is doing here for victims of paralytic polio and tell them how they can assist the January March of Dimes campaign.

Rio Living Costs Up

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (U)—Living costs in Rio De Janeiro increased 5.6 per cent last month, boosting the total for the year to 41.1 per cent, an economic research organization reported today.

Tile Map to Show Civil War Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (U)—Visitors to the Jefferson County Courthouse will be walking past history soon.

A tile map of Louisville as it was during the Civil War will be installed in the sidewalk in front of the courthouse, as part of the Civil War centennial observance.

Stewardesses, Pursers Warn of Strike at TWA

NEW YORK (UPI) — Trans World Airlines pursers and stewardesses demonstrated in six cities across the country yesterday as a warning that they will strike at noon Dec. 13 unless the company settles a 10-month dispute over a new contract.

Michael Quill, president of the Transport Workers Union, said all processes of the Railway Labor Act have been exhausted in the dispute.

The union is asking for an per cent increase the first year and 3 per cent more the second year of a two-year contract.

Current weekly "take-home" pay for pursers and stewardesses is $55 to $60 a week.

The demonstrations were held at TWA installations in New York, Boston, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Chicago and Kansas City.

Mr. Shnoo's Zoo

By LUCRECE BEALE

CHAPTER SIX

"Where are we going?" asked Mr. Shnoo as he and Santa left Shnoo's Zoo behind and started down the road leading poor Honeybun on a rope.

"There's an elf in Santa Land named Dr. Kernoodle," said Santa. "He has a wonderful way with sick animals. I think he can help Honeybun."

"Oh, I hope so!" said Mr. Shnoo, rubbing his fingers through the brown bear's fur. "But, oh dear, I don't think she can go that far. Look! She is staggering already."

Honeybun swung her hurt head back and forth. She seemed ready to give up and lie down right there in the road.

Santa said, "Don't worry. We'll go by sea—the way I came. It's a very fast and restful trip."

Mr. Shnoo got behind Honeybun and gently pushed her along. "A voyage should do her good," he said. "She was on a ship once before, when she was a cub."

"It's not exactly a ship," said Santa, tugging on Honeybun's rope. "It's a Blue-Scaled Scholar."

"Blue-Scaled Scholar? What is that?"

"You'll see soon enough."

And sure enough Mr. Shnoo did see, for they came, by and by, to the end of the road and there was the river.

SKY-BLUE SCALES

Waiting at the edge of the river was an enormous fish covered with sky-blue scales. He was big as a tug boat and his mouth when he opened it was as large as a small front porch.

"Come in," said Santa and he led Honeybun and the astonished Mr. Shnoo right into the gaping jaws of the Blue-Scaled Scholar.

The mouth snapped shut behind them and Mr. Shnoo didn't know what to do. It was all so dark and scary. He heard Santa calling to him and he could see a light far ahead.

He pushed Honeybun down a slippery, slidey passageway until he came into a lighted sitting room. The walls and floor were red and the furniture was quite modern with lots of comfortable sofas covered with puffy pillows.

There were books on shelves all over the walls. Santa went straight to one of the shelves and picked up a book. It was called "Three Little Fish and How They Grew."

"He likes to be read aloud to," said Santa. "That is why he is called Scholar, I expect."

He sat down on a sofa, put on his spectacles and opened the book to Page 64. He began to read. The room started to move gently up and down as the Scholar moved up on some pillows behind the sofa.

She did not seem at all alarmed to find herself in such strange surroundings.

But Mr. Shnoo was very puzzled. He sank down on a sofa but he couldn't keep still. He kept jumping up and down and examining things.

Finally Santa put down his book and said "Why are you so fidgety? What is the matter?"

"I have been thinking," said Mr. Shnoo. "I have never seen so remarkable a creature. I must have a Blue-Scaled Scholar for my zoo."

YOU ARE DREAMING

Santa shook his head. "They do not live in captivity. In fact, no mortal eye other than yours has ever seen one. If you tell anyone about it you will be told you were dreaming."

"And perhaps I am," said Mr. Shnoo, rubbing his eyes. But a moment later he knew he wasn't because the voyage came to an abrupt end. Mr. Shnoo stood up so suddenly he bumped his head quite hard on the ceiling.

The great mouth of the Scholar opened and Santa and Honeybun and Mr. Shnoo walked out. They were on the beach of a snow-covered land.

Mr. Shnoo knew right away it was Santa Land because there was a big red sleigh waiting and dancing around the sleigh were hundreds of tiny elves come to welcome Santa home.

Santa greeted all his little workers and fussed with them a little for being away from their work. Then he told them about Honeybun. The elves were sorrowful to see so sad a bear.

Gently they lifted Honeybun onto the sleigh. When Honeybun was settled comfortably, Santa and Mr. Shnoo got in beside her.

Then each elf took his place on the ropes and all together they gave a mighty tug until suddenly—Zip! Away they sped over the snow!

Cool Response Expected on Call for Legislature

LANSING (U) — Legislators are expected to be cool toward a proposal that they return to Lansing immediately to pass enabling legislation to obtain federal assistance for needy children of the unemployed.

Rep. Joseph J. Kowalski, D-Detroit, House Democratic leader, sent out letters urging the call.

Kowalski mailed the letters to Reps. Don R. Pears, R-Buchanan, speaker of the House; and Wilfred G. Bassett, R-Jackson; and Sens. Lynn O. Francis, R-Midland; and Perry W. Greene, R-Grand Rapids.

"The election is over," he wrote. "There is no reason to postpone final adjournment any longer. More urgent, however, is the need to obtain assistance for needy children of the unemployed under the federal-state program of aid to dependent children."

Enabling legislation is still before the legislature and wouldn't take too long to pass, Kowalski claimed. He said Gov.-elect George Romney has indicated he would favor taking advantage of the program.

It would take some time for the measure to be processed and passed if action is delayed until the 1963 legislature meets Jan. 9, he said.

Michigan is losing $40,000 a day for every day the state delays taking advantage of the federal program, he claimed.

Although Kowalski did not specify a date in his letter, he said he would like to see the legislature return to Lansing Friday.

Three of the four lawmakers empowered to call the legislature back into session are lame ducks who did not run for reelection. Only Bassett will be around next year.

Bassett "has indicated he wouldn't be willing to come back. Francis also was unwilling. He termed the Kowalski letter "A purely political move."

"I'm not about to go back," he said. "In my opinion, he's trying to pull a quickie. We wouldn't have time to debate the measure and finish it up."

"I think the issue should be the responsibility of the legislature convening in January," Greene and Pears were not available for comment.

for formation in the clergy procession. Mrs. Sink will play "Largo" by Purcell, "Adagio" by Beethoven, "Open Now the Gates of Beauty" by Manz, "Soliloquy" by Maekelberghe and "Chant Herique" by Young.

Architect James R. Morison will present the key on behalf of Charles and Philip Schurrer, builders, and himself to Elbert

M. Wilmet, president of the board of trustees.

Mr. Wilmet will accept the key and on behalf of the congregation will present it to Bishop Reed.

In accepting, the bishop will say, "In the name of God and in the presence of this congregation, I now declare this church to be open for the worship of God and the service of men. May it be a house of prayer for all people."

Offering the prayer of consecration will be Dr. Benjamin F. Holme. Rev. Harold H. Johnson, assistant pastor, will give the offertory prayer.

"Let Mt. Zion Rejoice" will be the theme of the consecration sermon by Bishop Reed.

OPEN HOUSE

The building committee will be hosts to members and visitors of Central Church at an open house following the service. The Women's Society for Christian Service will serve refreshments in Fellowship Hall.

A Homecoming Banquet is scheduled for 6:30 p. m. Wednesday with greetings from former ministers. A color motion picture of the building of the church will be shown.

The Flint District Methodist Youth Fellowship Christmas Carol Sing will be held in the church at 7 p. m. tomorrow. George Putnam, choirmaster, will lead the young people in singing.

A Christmas family dinner at 6:30 p. m. on Dec. 19 will precede the annual Christmas concert by the choir.

Dr. Milton H. Bank, minister of Central Church, suggests as people come to the 9:15 and 10:45 morning worship services as well as others when the organ is played: "Let the organ be a curtain shutting out the everyday world. Be reverent, be silent, be thoughtful as it is played."

"Pray for yourself, for those who worship, for those who minister, and for the work of Christ in the world."

TO GIVE HISTORY

Lloyd Pardee, a charter member, will give the history of Central Church at both hours. Rev. W. Leslie Williams will read the Scripture and offer the pastoral prayer.

Bishop Reed will preach on the House of God.

Church School for all ages is slated for 9:15 a. m. Immediately after the second worship hour a roast beef dinner will be served in Fellowship Hall for those who have made advance reservations or purchased tickets.

Looking to the north of Central Church is a densely wooded area from which a creek winds its way around the property forming a boundary line on the south end.

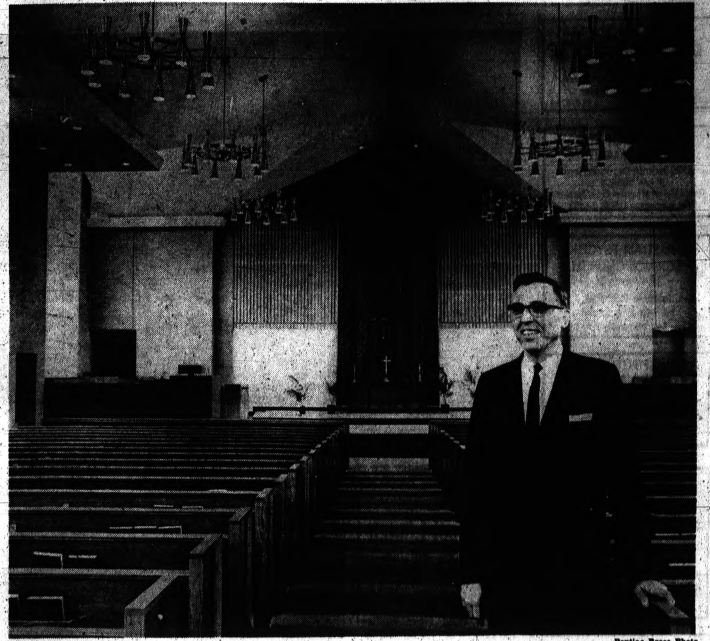

Areas to the east across the creek are reserved for future parsonages.

The various functional organizations are provided in individual structural units. These are grouped around an interior court which when completed will be the atmosphere of a quiet, serene garden.

The major entrances into the buildings are under a canopy directly off the parking lot.

Beneath the spirit on the front outside wall will be a gold-anodized aluminum plaque more than 30 feet high depicting Jesus Christ as the Good Shepherd and the lover of little children.

There will be a carol singing and an installation of officers of the Women's Association, and a presentation of the charter to a new church for the Central congregation. And now it will be consecrated at a special service at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon. Members will celebrate with music and dinners throughout the month.

A DREAM COME TRUE — Dr. Milton H. Bank, minister of the new Central Methodist Church, 3883 Highland Road, Waterford Township, wonders how it all happened as he stands in the nave. He thinks back over the years of his dream of

Visitors Will View Church, Class Rooms, Lounge

The sanctuary of Central Methodist Church with its buff brick walls and high white ceiling gives the feeling of height as in a Gothic cathedral. It will seat 700 in the nave, plus 120 overflow seating in the narthex, with the choir space seating 92 in the divided chancel.

The entire chancel wall is an oak organ screen on which is mounted a turquoise dossel cloth. This is the backdrop for the altar. A large cross will top the dossel cloth when it arrives.

The chancel floor is multi-color slate. Carpeting in the sanctuary aisles is turquoise, to blend with the dossel hanging.

The Communion table is in light oak with hand carvings of wheat, fruit and flowers. Brass candlesticks and cross complete the table furnishings. Pews, pulpit and all wood furnishings are of oak.

The $40,000 Casavant organ has a 61-note keyboard and approximately 2,800 pipes.

To the right of the sanctuary is the bride's room in blue and white. Boys and girls in the primary department may take their choice of a rose, blue or yellow chair.

The chapel which is in the court to be used for prayer services, meditation, small weddings, baptisms and funerals will seat 144 people. Carpeting is a cherry red as is the dossel hanging. Sky lights give added brightness to the room.

The library and parlor with light beige carpeting opens into the court. A kitchenette is at the far end from the fireplace.

OPENS ON TERRACE
Fellowship Hall to the rear of the building opens on to its own terrace. It will seat nearly 700 at dinners. A stage completes one end.

All walls are light in color. A few are in pastels but most are off white or light beige. Brown flecked tile covers the floor area.

The stainless steel kitchen seems to lack for nothing. There are huge steam tables, dishwasher, ovens, burners, refrigerator and freezer — just about everything.

Offices are located at the left of the main entrance. The preschool departments are on the upper levels and the older young people will find their classrooms on the lower level.

A Youth Fellowship Room with kitchenette facilities has its own outdoor terrace to be used in warm weather.

There is a room especially for adults and many will find it the most beautiful of all.

Those responsible for planning, brought the Communion table and pulpit from old Central Church in Pontiac, now demolished.

Many members have knelt before this table and poured out their hearts to their God begging forgiveness and light for the journey ahead.

and Bratley Scott of 4920 Hatchery Road, Waterford Township. The boys never miss the weekly youth program planned for boys and girls of the third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

Pike Street Church Has Guest Speaker

Rev. James L. Slay of Cleveland, Ohio, field representative for the Church of God mission department, will be guest speaker for the Pike Street Church of God at 11 a.m. tomorrow.

The work of Rev. Mr. Slay has taken him around the world. In January 1963 he will travel to India, Egypt and the Holy Land in the interest of missions. He is a former missionary to Africa and has served as State Overseer for the church in many states. He is currently serving as a councilman of the denomination along with mission work.

DOG AND BONE GAME — Charles Davis (left) and Rodney Knudsen have fun playing Dog and Bone at the Thursday evening recreation and devotional program for young people at First Presbyterian Church. Games are followed by dinner and handicraft, headed by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Riddering, youth directors for the church.

Juniors Study, Play

Boys and girls of Junior Fellowship, one of the youth organizations of First Presbyterian Church, have been studying mission work in foreign countries in their weekly Thursday night meetings under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Riddering, youth directors.

Children of the third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades come at 5 p.m. for a half hour of games. This is followed by a special type of menu of some non American food for dinner.

Among these foods have been potato from Yucatan, Mex., explorer macaroni to stimulate explorations, Spanish rice, stuffed spaghetti, tuna pea wiggle and North American sloppy peas made from Buffalo meat and hot dogs.

Studies have included the Mayaguez Community Center in Puerto Rico, the flying evangelism work in Brazil, the refugee problem in both Miami, Fla. and Hong Kong, China, Colegio Americano in Yucatan and problems in general that face all missionaries.

Following dinner a devotional period is combined with handicraft under the direction of Mrs. Riddering. Currently boys and girls are making bookcases from construction paper to be filled by fitted books of the Bible.

Special offerings are being received to help children in Puerto Rico.

In addition to the junior group the Pioneer for Junior high and the Tuxis for senior high school students are meetings on Sunday evenings with special programs at 6 p.m.

Special emphasis is given this year to exchange students. So far young people have had six as guest speakers. More are scheduled.

Both Boy and Girl Scout Troops are again functioning. An expanding religious program for young people of both the church and area nearby, is being planned by the First Presbyterians.

CUBANS COMING
Deacons of First Presbyterian Church will meet Monday to make plans for the coming of a Cuban refugee family which the church will sponsor. They will also pack clothing for Church World Service under the chairmanship of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lazelle.

In observing Universal Bible tomorrow Rev. Gale E. Hershey will preach on "Dare We Teach the Bible" at morning services.

The Junior Choir directed by Mrs. Robert Crane will present "To God Who Makes All Lovely Things" and the Chancel Choir will present "Jesus, Joy of Man's Destriny" by J.S. Bach. Mrs. Barbara Harris will sing Handel's "O Thou That Telles Good Tidings to Zion" as an offertory solo.

Following worship Mr. and Mrs. William Hilderley and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hunt will be hosts at the coffee hour. The last of a series of Bible studies on the Gospel of Matthew will be held tomorrow evening with Rev. Paul D. Cross directing discussions.

St. Peter's Home for Boys Serves State of Michigan

The Rt. Rev. Archie H. Crowley, suffragan bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Michigan, in dedicating the St. Peter's Home for Boys Sunday, said that with the new facility "we hope to broaden and improve the quality of our service to boys in Wayne County and the whole State of Michigan."

Bishop Crowley told the 500 Open House visitors, "We gather here to celebrate the fulfillment of a dream — the dream of the founder of St. Peter's Home for Boys, Father Austin J. T. Ecker, and a few of his friends . . . Some men dream dreams and then fight to make them come true."

"Father Ecker would marvel at this wonderful structure," he had so little with which to work in the short time he lived."

Bishop Crowley added, "We begin a new era in the life of St. Peter's Home. We now have the tools with which to work, plus the loyal support of so many friends. For these blessings we give heartfelt thanks and advance with sure confidence."

The dedication service climaxed open house tours of the new 30-room, two-story home located at 16121 Joy Road, near Greenfield, adjacent to St. Martha's Episcopal Church.

Instead of 16, and for the first time private rooms will be available, according to Marvin G. Pettit, executive director of the Home.

There will be 16 single bedrooms plus two dormitory rooms, each accommodating four boys. In addition, the new structure has a large living room, dining room, recreation area, and a chapel.

Construction of the new Home began in October, 1961, and was completed last month.

Morning Doves Will Sponsor Musicales

The Morning Doves, a local musical organization, will sponsor a program at 3:30 p.m. tomorrow in St. James Missionary Baptist Church.

Deacons of St. James will lead devotions and Mrs. Thomas Russell will preside. Mrs. Jesse L. Jones will give the welcome.

HANDCRAFT — Stapling a miniature bookcase of construction paper in Constance Rightmire, of 174 Ogema Road. Handicraft, devotions, dinner and recreation are all a part of the youth program at First Presbyterian Church every Thursday evening.

Advent Music Offered at All Saints Episcopal

The choir of All Saints Episcopal Church will present a program of Advent music at the regular services of worship, 9:30 and 11:15 a.m. tomorrow.

Victor Lindquist, June Roberts and William Vander Ven will be soloists with Edgar Billups, organist and choir director.

The music will represent French and English composers of the 16th through the 18th centuries.

Featured on the program will be a setting by Henry Purcell of one of the canticles appointed for morning prayer.

Also featured will be four of the great Advent "O" Antiphons set to music by Marc-Antoine Charpentier.

Mr. Billups will play three compositions from the writings of French contemporaries of Charpentier. The public is invited to the program, Mr. Billups said.

Youth, Adults to Hang Greens

Christmas Season to Open at North East

The "Hanging of the Greens" service will open the Christmas season at North East Community Church at 5 p.m. tomorrow.

Parents and children will assist teachers and department leaders in decorating their class and department areas.

Christmas trees and greens are provided by the church. Teachers of classes are Mrs. Arthur Angove and Sharon Hampshire, nursery and kindergarten; Wilma Snyder and Marie Shelly, primary and juniors; and Mrs. Edward Hampshire, junior and senior high.

Mrs. R. Dale Thompson with adult classes will decorate the sanctuary and foyer areas.

Following the decorating, groups will meet at 5:55 p.m. in the sanctuary for a devotional service.

There will be singing of Christmas carols, a brief talk on "The Meaning of the Greens," by Pastor Lloyd S. Schellke, and the lighting of the tree and candles.

Refreshments with fellowship will follow at 6:30. Members and friends may then wander from room to room to see class room decorations.

The pastor will preach on "The Prophet Names the Virgin's Son" at 11 a.m. tomorrow. Church School will be held at 9:45 a.m. with Paul Strobel, superintendent.

Missionary to Nigeria Will Speak at Alliance

REV. HAROLD BROWN

Ibadan, one of the largest cities in Africa, has been the home of Rev. Harold Brown for the past three years.

On furlough after two terms of service in Nigeria, he is scheduled to speak at 11 a.m. and again at 7 p.m. tomorrow in the Missionary Alliance Church.

Rev. Mr. Brown and his wife were assigned by the United Missionary Society to open a work in Ibadan which boasts a population of more than 300,000 with fewer than 1,000 non-Nigerians.

Living in a heavily populated section of the city, they kept their home open for services and counseling.

His fluent use of the Yoruba language helped to make Missionary Brown a successful evangelist in open-air and tent campaigns in Ibadan and other cities.

In speaking to North American audiences he often wears a colorful Yoruba costume.

To give his listeners a further taste of Africa, he greets them in the musical Yoruba language and sometimes uses a talking drum to show how easily the Yoruba people can carry on a conversation though separated by distance.

Mrs. Brown has worked extensively in "Christian Life" classes, a program of child evangelism conducted in the schools.

Beginning in schools of the United Missionary Society, she and her coworkers were soon invited to bring their classes into many government-operated schools.

In the course of a year they reach literally thousands of children.

Asian Travel Memories Arise

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK—Jottings from one traveler's notebook:

The question I heard most frequently on a month-long trip through Southeast Asia was "Were you people softly backing your President in the Cuban crisis?"

It seems hard for foreigners to understand the unity of this country when it faces immediate threat from the outside, and how faced with such a threat, there is a great swelling of patriotism in its true meaning, rising above political party lines.

The bossa nova, that samba-flavored music which has inspired the newest dance craze in the United States, still is playing second string to the twist in the Asian cities I visited.

The hottest twisting I've seen anywhere: in a nightclub in Bangkok, although the Thai government has frowned on the dance officially.

The Japanese have a neat decorating trick for their cars—the seats are slipcovered in floral patterned cottons, with ruffles yet.

Some rear windows of the autos are curtained to match the slipcovering.

Much of the Western influence in dress shows in the far east but you will not see women wearing slacks on the streets.

Dorothy Lamour did all right by the sarong in her movie hey-day, but I doubt if any woman anywhere can wear a strip of fabric wrapped casually around the body as gracefully as a young Siamese woman.

One of the most practical garments yet invented belongs to the Philippine men. It's a shirt called the barong tagalog.

It is never tucked into the trousers, adding immeasurably to comfort in a hot and humid climate. And it's all purpose.

Button up the collar, add cuff links to the long sleeves and with black trousers and black shoes, it is formal attire.

Unbutton the collar, wear it with any color slacks, and it's a daytime business "suit."

The sight from an airplane of Mt. Fuji on a brilliantly clear day is something not yet captured on the picture postcards.

Bathed in bright sun, its cone-shaped, snow-covered summit offers a dazzling sight on the flight from Tokyo to Taipei.

I sighed, as I saw Japan's most famous landmark in its full glory, that I had not been born an artist.

When I heard Westerners living in Southeast Asia complaining about the "servant problem," I had to laugh.

Some of them were down to two "live-in" servants. One American housewife I met on Formosa had been getting along with a household staff of seven including the gardener.

It takes water rationing as an everyday fact of life to make you realize how precious is the liquid.

Hong Kong has a shortage so acute that rationing is between two and four hours of supply turned on daily.

The bathtub becomes the storage tank to tide the family over until the supply comes on again the next day.

Numerous are the persons who will instruct you in the use of chopsticks for dining in the Orient.

But I've decided after many fumbling lessons that the best way to learn is to be faced continually with meals where there is no flatware optional.

Use chopsticks or starve, and the technique soon comes easily.

Christmas Spirit Glows on MSU Campus

By SUE DORMAN

Two orphans of the St. Vincent Home for Children in Lansing recently threw the switch to light the Christmas tree in front of Michigan State University's Union.

They initiated the Christmas spirit soon to be seen throughout the University.

Case Hall coeds donated 12 baskets of food for needy holiday families.

Sophomores Marcey Agree of West Iroquois Road, and Margaret Steck of North Hospital Road, contributed time and energy to the cause.

Residents of Wilson Hall donated to UNICEF the 25 dollars they would have spent on Christmas cards to send to other living units and organizations.

HONOR ORPHANS

Freshman Bruce Rogers of Tilden Avenue and junior Ray Grundy of Grandy Road, Waterford Township, helped plan Bailey Dorn's Christmas party in honor of several Lansing area orphans.

A member of Theta Chi Fraternity, senior Ron Jackson of James K. Boulevard, helped the house plan a Christmas party with gifts and an authentic Santa Claus.

They treated several retarded children in the Lansing area.

Needy families were guests of the men of East Shaw for a Christmas dinner with all the trimmings. Freshman Larry Reynolds of North Johnson Street assisted.

Judy Dearing, junior, of Ottawa Drive; Judy Platz, sophomore, of Exmoore Drive, and freshman Diane Hershall, of Halcomb Street, helped assemble door motifs for Christmas at Mason Hall.

They carried out a Christmas-in-Disneyland theme which was first place in their annual contest.

DINNER FOR NEEDY

Gary Henry of Case Hall helped plan a Christmas party and dinner for needy children. Gary is a junior and lives on James K. Boulevard.

The men of Bryan Hall organized a Christmas party in which each participant was a big brother to a needy child. Chris Olson, sophomore, of Shoals Drive; Drayton Plains, and Ted Hoffman, of Miller Street, aided in projects construction.

Also participating were sophomore Gary Allen of All-

Lots of Traveling

Mrs. Luther R. Leader of Cranbrook Road hardly had time to unpack her suitcase when she arrived home Thursday with Dr. Leader from California.

Today she and Mrs. Robert H. Flint left for a weekend in New York where they will look into some needlepoint work for the altars of their church, Christ Church Cranbrook.

Two weeks ago Mrs. Leader accompanied Dr. Leader to Los Angeles to the AMA conference. There they joined friends in San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Chestnut, formerly of Gross Pointe, now of Sacramento, Calif.

Arriving from their home in Scottsdale, Ariz. this week were Mr. and Mrs. Lester A. Colman of Rathmore Road. First on the calendar was a dinner with daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Sheppard of Tilbury Road and their children, Karen and David.

Home after a few days in New York are Mrs. Walter J. Behn, Mrs. M. M. Burgess and Mrs. Lester L. Colbert.

The home of Mrs. John C. Siegemund Jr., of Hupp Cross Road will be the scene of the Kappa Kappa Gamma meeting, Tuesday.

Members of both the afternoon and evening sections of the North Woodward Alumnae Association of Kappa Kappa Gamma will begin their meeting at 8 o'clock. A do-it-yourself auction will be the top attraction for the evening.

Mrs. Lyman L. Fishburn, program chairman has assured the Kappas of a bit of fun and merriment as they try to outbid each other on the varied and interesting objects up for auction. Each member attending is expected to contribute to this affair by bringing something she has created herself.

Hostesses for the evening are Mrs. D. R. Hibbert, Mrs. James G. Hartick, Mrs. James Russell and Mrs. Robert Keyes.

Last minute Christmas shoppers may still order magazines and Social Capers at this meeting. Mrs. Alexander J. Riker of Birmingham is the Kappa magazine chairman and Mrs. John J. Conlon of Birmingham is handling orders for the Social Capers.

Illinois Drive, helped plan the party.

The men of Evans Scholars fraternity designed and sent cheerful Christmas cards to residential units and campus organizations.

Senior member Gary Sabourin of East Tennyson Avenue joined his brothers in their selection.

Landon residents freshman Marilyn Jack of Marie Circle, senior Kay and sophomore Mary Jo Whitfield of Oakwood Drive, have added their talents to dorm charity projects.

Landon women adopted two needy families and supplied them with winter clothing and foodstuffs.

Union board members senior Ron Newman of Lakewood Drive, Drayton Plains, and senior Bruce Cobb of Eason Road, helped plan their annual Christmas party.

Rather Hall freshman Sue Heister of Montclair Street, assisted in the organization of a Christmas party for blind children in the Lansing area.

Altar Society Plans Completed for Party

St. Michael's Altar Society members completed plans for the annual Christmas party at Tuesday's meeting in the parish hall.

Mrs. Dennis Daugherty, vice president, who presided, has assumed chairmanship of the party in the absence of the president, Mrs. Henry Simpson.

Exhibit Recalls Christmas of Past

The crafts of an earlier Christmas will be featured in the annual holiday exhibition at Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn through Dec. 30.

Christmas ornaments, gifts and Santa prints of late 19th Century style will be fashioned by skilled craftsmen of the museum and Greenfield Village.

They will demonstrate their handicraft skills as part of a unique exhibition of antiques associated with holiday customs and traditions of the American past.

Antique cookie cutters will be used by a baker working over a 19th Century cast iron stove. A glass blower will create Christmas tree ornaments reproduced from antique examples.

TO PRINT CARDS

The museum's early 19th Century "Washington Press," operated entirely by hand, will print Christmas cards representative of those sent at the time this press was in commercial operation.

Candle making, an important 17th and 18th Century domestic craft, will be featured as the candlemaker produces Christmas gifts which were once a necessity. Candles will be formed of beeswax and bayberry from antique candle molds.

A Victorian Christmas tree decorated with candles and handblown glass ornaments will highlight the exhibition.

The holiday exhibition will be open during the regular museum hours, 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. daily, 9 a.m. - 6 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays. The museum and village will be closed on Christmas and New Year's Day. The museum and village, founded in 1929 by the late Henry Ford, house the world's largest collection of Americana.

MacDowell Chorus Sets Concert Tonight

The MacDowell Male Chorus concert, postponed from Dec. 1, will be given tonight at 8:15 at Pontiac Central High School.

A. Michael Dempsey will conduct the chorus, accompanied by Gilbert Jackson. The Caribbeens will perform during one section of the program.

Starting on a religious note, the group will sing "Prayer of Thanksgiving," "Ave Maria" and "Alleluia."

For the second portion of program they will sing "Sometimes I Feel Like a Motherless Child," "Bonny Breeze" and "Every Night When the Sun Goes Down." After intermission the Caribbeens will present their portion of the program.

"White Christmas" and "The Christmas Song" bring the MacDowell Chorus back on stage.

A second religious group of selections consists of "Veni Jem," "Mary Had a Baby" and "The Last Words of David."

For the finale, the chorus will sing "The Creation" and a group of Christmas carols.

It's Best to Consult Fiance

By The Emily Post Institute
Q: My fiance travels a good deal and is sometimes away for weeks at a time. While he is away, some of his friends will call me and invite me out to dinner. (I suppose they feel sorry for me.)

I would like to know if it would be proper for me to accept these invitations or might it cause gossip to be seen dining in a restaurant with a man other than my fiance?

A: If your fiance has no objection, you may accept these invitations to dinner, but it would be wise not to be seen dining alone with the same man too often.

Q: My daughter is to be married in a distant city where she has been working for four years and where she has made many friends. Her fiance's family are also from this same city.

Consequently all the guests will be from his side of the family. Under the circumstances, wouldn't it be better for the groom's mother to stand first in the receiving line so that she could introduce the guests to me? My daughter thinks this will look as though the groom's mother is hostess and that his family is paying for the wedding.

A: Your daughter is right. You, as the bride's mother, must stand first. The groom's mother will, of course, stand beside you, from where she will be able to introduce all of the guests to you.

Estimate Daily Need

Activity Key to Calories

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The number of calories you need depends on your weight and on how active you are, as well as on your age and sex.

With the following information you can estimate your daily calorie need. A woman who lives a very sedentary life requires only 14 calories per pound of weight. If she is moderately active she should consume 18 calories per pound of weight. If she is extremely active, doing strenuous hard work, she will need about 22 calories per pound.

You multiply your weight by 14, 18 or 22 depending on how active you are. Remember, this intake simply maintains the weight you have. If you are overweight this will not give you the correct picture. In this case multiply your ideal weight in order to arrive at the correct number of calories for you.

Men need more calories than women. For instance, a man leading a sedentary life will require 18 calories per pound of weight. If he does heavy work he will need 25 calories per pound of weight. If he is moderately active he should multiply his weight by 21 calories.

About the age 13 or 14 is the time of greatest calorie need. Most parents know this from experience with their children. This is the age when teenagers usually have a seemingly unfillable void. They actually need a heavy calorie intake because they are not only active but are developing and growing so rapidly.

Generally, girls 13 years old require about 26 calories per pound of weight per day. This gradually decreases as they grow older.

A woman who is extremely active, doing strenuous work, needs about 22 calories per pound of weight per day to sustain herself. Such a woman can easily afford that calorie-filled mid-day snack.

Boys 14 need about 31 calories per pound of weight per day.

If any of you would like to have my calorie chart sent a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 36 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Some Fat Required

Steaks, pork chops and meat cuts made tender by pounding, cubing or grinding require some fat to cover the surface of the skillet during frying. Home economists recommend a temperature of 350 degrees when you use the burner with the heat control for frying. The meat should be turned occasionally.

Hold Color Safe

Use a stiff brush moistened with salt water to scrub wicker furniture. Salt helps keep wicker from turning yellow.

Shows How to Identify Shells

The Rho Chapter of the Alpha Kappa Sorority met at the home of Mrs. Byford Laur Thursday evening for their annual Christmas party.

Following the business meeting Mrs. Jay Norton presented a shell identification demonstration and displayed jewelry made from shells.

Each member brought a Christmas gift that will be given to members of the Hill Top Rest Home.

Mrs. Melvin Boersma, the music chair woman, led the group in singing Christmas carols. Refreshments were served following the meeting. Mrs. Ronald Carr was cohostess with Mrs. Laur.

Iraq Caldron 70 Exchanges Gifts

Iraq Caldron No. 70 of the Daughters of Mokanna met Wednesday evening at the First Federal Savings of Oakland Building for their Christmas party and exchange of gifts.

Decorations and refreshments were arranged by Mrs. Fred Crossman, Thelma Anderson, Mrs. Russell Woodbury, and Mrs. Eugene Bragan.

The persistent idea of an Orchard Lake engineer, that a house as big as a castle could be built in the middle of a swamp, has finally become a reality.

For more than two years, A. M. Richards had been searching for a piece of property near a lake that would have the utmost privacy. Quite by accident, he and his wife drove down to the end of Three Lakes Lane, just north of Orchard Lake Road and practically ran into four acres of mucky swampland.

It was then that the idea took shape. He dug down to solid ground, pushed good land down into the swamp and built a high concrete foundation for a house.

For about 25 years the acreage had lain dormant. According to Richards, the former owner, J. T. Sinclair, had always wanted to develop the swamp but had given up in disgust.

After Richards purchased the property, he called in a corps of engineers, architects and land-site developers. Most of them shook their heads and gave up. However, one architect, Clifford N. Wright, and a land site engineer, Harold E. White, decided to go along with Richard's idea of "land sculpturing."

ON TOP OF 'HILL'

Now, after almost a year of planning, digging and construction work, Richards has his castle. Perched on 13 feet of solid concrete and 9 feet above the original swamp level, the house looks as if it is sprawled across the top of a gently rolling hill.

More than 8,000 yards of fill dirt on the property was moved from one spot to another. This was Richards' theory — remodel the property from land that is available right on the spot. Fill dirt from an old 20-foot-wide canal and a little lagoon also was scooped out and smoothed for a rolling lawn. Sod, trees and bushes have transformed the marshland into a beautifully landscaped estate.

The Richards' house is really two in one. The lower level, which faces the lake, has its recreation-living room, two bedrooms, bath and kitchen duplicated on the top floor. However, the upstairs kitchen is bigger and has an interesting utility room adjoining.

Yellow Formica counters were built all around this room and over the washer and dryer for additional working space when entertaining. Browns and yellows pick up the sunlight that streams through two small bay windows.

There is no particular decorating theme in the house. A reflection of the Richards' individualism is everywhere, from the two massive raised-hearth fireplaces to the unusually shaped ceiling on the top floor.

One of the biggest surprises is the second level. This goes down seven carpeted steps from the top level living room and is set aside for strictly formal entertaining. Soft gold draperies frame the oversized bay window and cafe curtains of the same heavy silk material dance across the bottom of the lower window frames.

VINYL WALLPAPER

Three French Provincial gold sconces with gold candles on each side of small plate-glass mirrors are arranged on the wall leading up to the top level.

Vinyl fabric wallpaper, which is something entirely new in interior decoration, has been incorporated in the upper-level powder room. It's tough and will outlast the house, according to the Richards. However, the delicate pink, white and gold flowers belie the strength of the material.

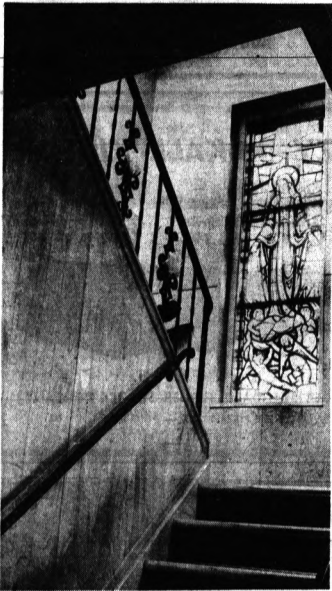

Although the Richards have only one son, Miguel, 6, at home to share the big house, they love to entertain. With a house like this they have plenty of room for out-of-town guests who enjoy natural outdoor beauty and indoor cordiality.

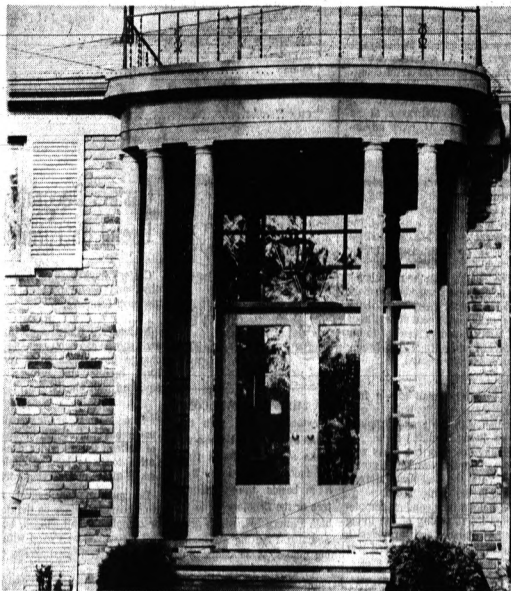

A MAN'S CASTLE — This is the mansion that Richards built on top of swampland. The area above the garage on the left is a favorite place of the family. In summer they have most of their meals in the screened section and sunbathe in complete privacy in the open area. It took almost a year to clear the land of swamp and build the house.

Pontiac Press Photos by Philip H. Webb

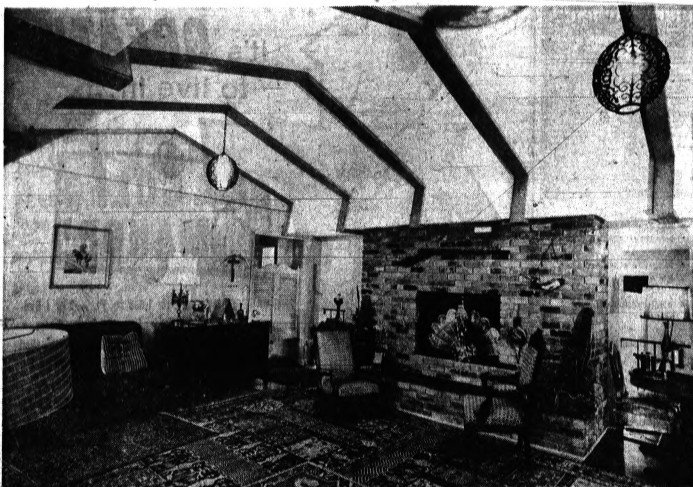

DRAMATIC WINDOW — It took months to have the beautiful leaded-glass window created for this particular spot in the Richards' house. Four scaprim crowd around the feet of the Virgin Mary. It was put together in three sections and has a permanent outside storm window. It should be seen in color to be appreciated.

COLONIAL ENTRANCE — Although the decor of the Richards' rambling home is of no particular style, they have mixed colonial, French provincial and early American furnishings with good taste. The double plate-glass doors are surrounded by framed glass sections and open into the second-level formal living room.

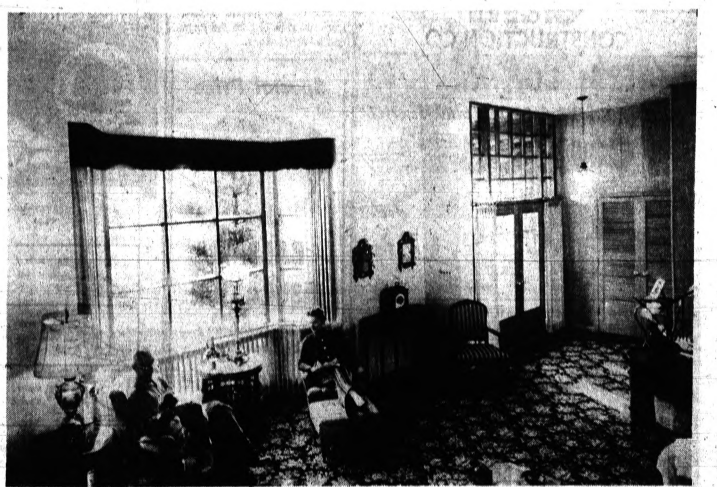

WIDE OVERHANG — This is a view just under the upstairs balcony of the Richards' spacious house. They wanted the privacy and individuality they have acquired at the end of Three Lakes Lane in West Bloomfield Township. Old brick, used in construction of the 10-room house makes it look as if it had been there for years, although the house has just been completed.

UNUSUAL CEILING — Richards spent much time with architect Clifford N. Wright in order to get a room that was entirely different and yet comfortable. This is the third floor sitting room where the family spends most of its time. The entire wall opposite the fireplace is filled with windows and french doors open out on a balcony.

FORMAL ROOM — Here Mr. and Mrs. Richards do their formal entertaining. It is on the ground level on the road side of the house and is filled with many treasures purchased from the Edsel Ford estate. Sunlight filters through the heavy silk cafe curtains at the bottom of the bay windows. The same material is used at both sides and on either side of the double doors.

Here's One Ranch Home That Deserves the Name

By JULES LOH
Most builders nowadays refer to all one-story homes as "ranch houses," but few actually deserve the title.

A true ranch-type design should retain the basic architectural features of the old Western structures, brought up to date of course.

It should be a rather luxurious home, with a floor plan that sprawls beyond straight rectangular bounds.

A home, in short, like today's House of the Week.

The home is in the 2,000-square-foot category, which allows its four bedrooms, 2½ baths, large living room, dining room, family room and other features plenty of breathing space. And none of it is wasted.

It is design J51 in the series, by architect Rudolph A. Matern.

The solid character of the exterior is in the finest tradition of the Old West — vertical boards and battens; a 35-foot stone planter emphasizing the long, low silhouette; a covered front loggia supported by wood posts and with a flagstone floor extending in to the 60-square-foot foyer.

But it would be hard to imagine the "main house" of a Zane Grey cattle baron approaching the livability this home offers on the inside.

From its ultra efficient kitchen and comfortably informal family room to its gracious living room and well-ordered area, the house is a model of up-to-date design.

Its actual area, not counting porches and the two-car garage (which is enlarged to accommodate a work bench and storage space) is 2,049 square feet. Overall dimensions are 45 feet 2 inches deep by 84 feet 2 inches wide.

Incidentally, you can get a free 35 mm slide of the original full color artist's drawing of this house by writing to architect Matern, whose address is on the J51 study plan.

ADDITIONAL DETAILS
With comfortable dimensions to work within the architect has zoned the house neatly and logically into clearly defined formal, informal and sleeping areas. Each shows evidence of painstaking attention to design.

The kitchen has an extremely efficient and uncluttered work area, with 23 running feet of counter top contained in its U-shape.

Double windows are over the twin sinks, providing plenty of light and air as well as backyard supervision. A separate two-burner unit is located on the counter adjoining the family room, for separate table convenience.

Both the oven and range, at the open end of the U, have adjoining counter space for cooking ease.

The service entry is beneath a covered porch, which provides a sheltered rear entry from the garage (the front entry from the garage is sheltered too), and the basement steps are located so there is no unnecessary traffic through the kitchen.

The laundry is on the main level, the preference of most housewives, and the lavatory — placed at the head of the basement stairs, near the kitchen, and convenient to the backyard and garage workbench, also is ideally located.

BIG CLOSET
The family room has a fireplace, economically built in conjunction with the grand fireplace in the living room.

Sliding doors form a glass wall between family room and terrace. And note the full-sized storage closet in the family room.

A large bay window complements the formality of the living room fireplace and provides a shaded view of the front yard over the planter.

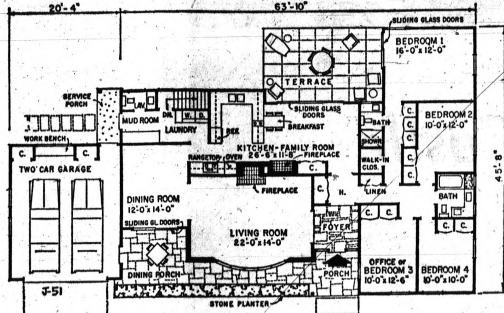

The dining room adjoins, and is enlarged in function by the front dining porch. The nine porch uprights provide privacy without a cooped-up feeling.

Equally well designed is the bedroom area. The main bathroom is only a few steps from all three family bedrooms and all traffic is completely shielded from the view of both the formal and informal areas.

LUXURY RANCH — Broad roof overhangs, an exterior of vertical board and battens with stone accents and a long, low silhouette stamp this four-bedroom home as a true modern reflection of the best Western ranch tradition. It contains 2½ baths, plenty of elbow room and a well-ordered floor plan with fully developed informal areas.

FLOOR PLANS—All the space is efficiently allocated without sacrificing convenience. Formal, informal and sleeping zones are clearly defined but at the same time flow together naturally. Not counting the covered porches and the garage, the area is 2,049 square feet.

Casters Decorative, Useful on Furniture

Casters have become a decorative and useful part of many pieces of furniture.

No longer is it necessary to tug and shove a chair or sofa to change its position in a room. Even buffets and servers are equipped with wheels.

Some casters are concealed under bases of chests, dressers or buffets. Others add a decorative touch to legs of chairs, small tables and serving carts.

Designed so they swivel, and wide bearing surface on the floor, or completely ball shaped, heaviest pieces can be moved with no damage to carpets or floors.

Chairs with casters make possible conversation groupings to suit the party mood.

House cleaning becomes much simpler with mobile furniture.

Water System for Rural Home

Private Source a Boon to Country Living

Years ago, people moved from the country to the city to enjoy the many modern conveniences city living provided. Now, city dwellers are moving to the country to get away from the congestion, the noise and the fast pace associated with metropolitan areas.

But they're taking their city conveniences with them. The automatic dishwasher and clothes washer, the garbage disposer, a modern kitchen and attractive bathrooms are part and parcel of the country home today, thanks to the abundance of water made possible by well-planned private water systems.

A private water system brings plentiful water into the country house less expensively over the years than a municipal system can. Plus, the water from a private source is never restricted, as is true in some communities during droughts or periods of high water consumption.

Whether the country home you plan to buy is old or new, you'll want to be sure that the water supply is up to your present and future demands.

The water systems dealer in your area is the expert to consult for your water needs. He can size the system to your way of living and allow for future plans.

Making Better Wood Material

Researchers Altering Basic Structure

Modern chemical research is doing some amazing things with wood these days. Nowhere has the effect been more dramatic than in the building materials field.

Scientists are literally "tearing" wood apart, analyzing it, altering its chemical make-up, then putting it back together again in forms ideally suited to today's construction needs.

Out of this new science of wood manufacturing has come a steady stream of products destined to make tomorrow's building faster, easier and more economical.

One promising development, for example, is a new wood exterior siding for homes that is split-proof, warp resistant, grainless, knot-free and virtually immune to termite attack.

The product, developed recently by a team of research scientists is made of tough hardwood fibers bonded together with a special thermoplastic resin.

Although it retains the beauty and warmth of natural wood, the material eliminates many of wood's traditional disadvantages.

The team of researchers found that certain types of hardwood, grown in abundance in the South, offered good natural resistance to dimensional change.

When these woods were reduced to a fibrous state, combined with organic chemicals for added moisture resistance, then pressed back into board form under intense heat and pressure, the result was a hard, durable siding material with excellent stability under all types of weather conditions.

This Colorful Toy Chest Makes Bedtime Easier

What's nicer than a colorful toy chest for a boy or girl? And since bedtime is often a source for an argument, this chest has a clock on it.

If bedtime comes at 7 p.m. the clock can be set for 6:45 when it's time to start picking up toys. Or if there's any other time that needs to be remembered, the hands on the clock may be set for just that time. It's real handy and teaches a child to understand a clock too.

The chest has little wooden wheels so it may be pulled from one room to another. All sorts of figure decals may be used to decorate it and give it a circus wagon look.

Also shown in the picture is an assortment of pull toys. There are a little seal, a horse, a dog, elephant and rabbit. Each one of them does something when pulled on the floor. For example

PATTERN 418

A SMALL CRIB SET is an appealing Christmas decoration. You may wish to make just the stable for figures you have, or you may make the stable and cut-out, painted figures with Pattern 418—the tallest figure six inches high. Price of pattern is 35 cents. This pattern also is one of four in the Make-It-Yourself Christmas Packet No. 48 which is $1.

Sunken Tub Bit of Rome in Bathroom

The American bath has come a long way since clothes tubs were dragged into the main room of the house and placed in front of fireplaces for the Saturday cleanup.

Designers today, borrowing an idea from the Romans, are installing sunken "plunge" bathtubs that catch part of the elegance that was Rome. Thus, instead of having the bathtub rising from the floor, it actually is sunken so that you "step down" instead of "step up" to enter.

Today, as in those early days, ceramic tile is a favored construction material for sunken tubs because its practicality and beauty cannot be matched. Ceramic tile, not only is less slippery than most other tub materials, but also comes in a wide range of shapes, sizes, colors and textures.

It is quite possible to install a sunken tub in a standard five foot by seven foot bathroom. It also is possible to form larger circular, oval or free-form tubs if this is desired.

Small unglazed ceramic mosaic tile can be fitted into any free-form shape, to give an unconventional look to your bathroom. Such originality is one of the features of a custom-made tub, and you can be proud of having an attractive tile bath—one that is distinctively yours.

A list of required materials is printed on each pattern along with easy-to-read step-by-step directions. An elaborate set of tools is not required. This is an inexpensive way to do your Christmas shopping—fun too.

The full-sized toy chest pattern No. 137 is available for 75 cents, and the five assorted pull toy patterns No. C1 are available for $1. You may obtain either the chest pattern or the toy patterns, or both, by sending the coin or currency to Steve Ellington, The Pontiac Press, Van Nuys, California.

All Sorts of Noisy Problems Come Up

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (AP)—We have had going simultaneously in the Capital this week two hearings on noise abatement.

One of the hearings, conducted by a House Commerce subcommittee, sought ways to abate the noise of jet airplanes.

The other WEST hearing, conducted by the Internal Revenue Service, sought ways to abate the screams of anguished taxpayers over its new expense account regulations.

The aircraft noise abatement hearing featured a 10-member panel, which discussed the problem from various angles. Fortunately, they didn't all try to talk at once, as that would have created a noise abatement problem of a different type.

I stopped by the hearing and listened with abated breath as Charles H. Ruby of the Airline Pilots Association traced the sound output of planes from the time the engines are turned on until they reach their destinations.

His testimony would be difficult to summarize, but the main point seemed to be that airplanes make more noise with the engines on than with them off.

At any rate, Ruby said that under present conditions it is not possible for airlines to "tip-toe in and out of airports." True enough, but Ruby's group should at least make sure that none of the pilots wears squeaky shoes.

The noise level at the Revenue Service hearing was considerably higher than at the aircraft hearing. Several of the tax witnesses had squeaky voices, presumably as a result of squealing with outrage.

Additionally, the audience was composed of taxpayers, and the noise of their blood boiling added to the din.

The petitioners at this hearing were upset over the new rules for deducting the cost of entertainment as a business expense.

They contended that under these regulations dining out on an expense account would require so much bookkeeping that no meal would be complete without a certified public accountant.

A requirement that business be discussed during a business meal came under particularly heavy criticism.

One witness said a restaurant in Chicago was offering tables with built-in tape recorders so that its customers could prove they said what they said they said.

Revenue officials indicated the regulations might be modified to some extent. I certainly hope so. I'm against anything that might deter anyone from taking a newspaperman to lunch.

U. S. agricultural exports reached a new peak of $5.1 billion in the fiscal year ending in 1962.

Commutes Terms of 3 State Lifers

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Swainson yesterday commuted the sentences of three prisoners serving life terms for murder to make them eligible for immediate parole.

They are: John C. Renner, 56, who served 27 years of a sentence for the fatal shooting of a deputy sheriff in Clare County, William Mahler, 54, who served 27 years for a slaying in Branch County, and Charles Czech, 53, who served 30 years for slaying a woman in Calhoun County.

Disappearing Act Licked

DUESSELDORF, West Germany (AP) — Two German postal clerks who fell in love were found guilty and given suspended jail sentences yesterday for planning their own simulated murder in order to disappear together.

Last year only 36 per cent of the adult population in this country went away from home for as much as one night on a vacation.

But he quit the job because the show was beginning a rugged tour of one-nighters. Besides, he had his eye on something else called radio. And the rest, as they say along the Rialto, is history.

On Feb. 11, the comedian will open "The Jack Benny Show" at the O'Keefe in Toronto and head for a six-week stand at the Ziegfeld Theater in New York, starting Feb. 27. He'll take along a troupe of performers including Jane Morgan and the Beverly Hillsbilles—that's his own zany combo, not the television series.

"This season in television has been a breeze for me. I've been able to play nine holes of golf every day. I get in an hour or two of practice with my violin each day. My only problem is what to do with my nights."

SHOW BOUNCES BACK

The Jack Benny Show has bounced back in the ratings after a rocky season last year. The shift from Sunday (opposite front-running "Bonanza") to Tuesday undoubtedly helped.

"But I can't worry about ratings," he remarked. "There are too many unknown qualities that determine them. Do you know that the change of one phone call can make your rating drop?"

"I'm gratified if the rating is good, especially since we're up against two strong shows, Dick Powell and 'The Untouchables.' I suppose we get some help from a good lead-in—Red Skelton precedes us. On the other hand, some people might say they've had an hour of comedy and they want something dramatic. Who can tell?"

"All I know is that I maintain a pretty steady standard of quality. That's all I can do."

There's no telling how long he will be doing so. Benny never seems to age or to slacken his pace. His secret seems to be a dedication to the sensible life. He

Strauss Leaves Bonn Post, but Plans to Stay in Politics

BONN (UPI) — Franz Josef Strauss may have given up his job as defense chief, which he held for six controversial years, but he still holds down one of West Germany's top political jobs.

The burly Bavarian has resigned as defense minister and has renounced a post in a new government. But he is staying on in Bonn.

Strauss is still young as far as Bonn politics go. He is only 47, while the average age of the present caretaker cabinet is more than 55. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer will be 87 Jan. 5.

Strauss may have given up his job as defense chief, which he held for six controversial years, but he still holds down one of West Germany's top political jobs.

He is leader of the Christian Social Union (CSU), the Bavarian wing of Adenauer's Christian Democratic Party (CDU).

As such, Strauss intends to stay in Bonn where he will still have a large say in national politics. He may take over parliamentary leadership of the CSU as well.

another job — perhaps in the new cabinet — can be found for the present CSU floorleader, Werner Dollinger.

HAS AMBITION

Strauss has not lost his ambition despite his cabinet setback. His close friends say he certainly still has his eyes on the top government job, the chancellorship.

A man who is always happy in the midst of a political fight, Strauss intends to be around when Adenauer steps down in favor of a younger man.

Adenauer's retirement undoubtedly will result in a bitter struggle for top jobs, and Strauss will be in the thick of it.

Political observers say Strauss has little chance of getting Adenauer's job right away. Foreign Minister Gerhard Schröder is presently leading the field.

Strauss is thinking about the next general elections in 1965 and what will happen then, his friends say.

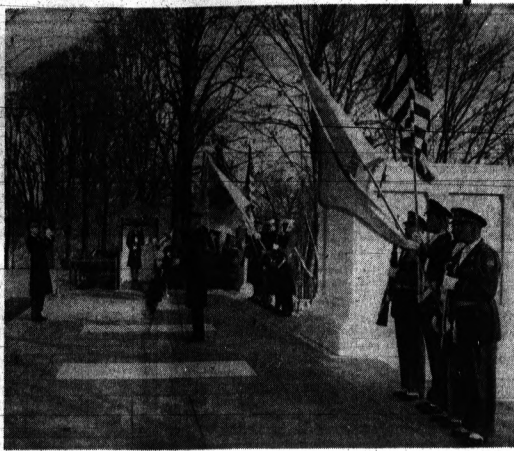

The same evening after renouncing a job in the next government, Strauss said in a radio interview he has no intention of retiring to Bavarian politics, although he will take a hand in them as well.

He said his primary intention is to stay in Bonn and use all the influence he can muster for continuation of his defense conceptions and to support government policy.

Record Week Seen for Auto Production

DETROIT (AP)—Ward's Reports said yesterday the five auto manufacturers will build more cars this week than in any week since 1965.

The total of 172,719 will include all-time weekly production records for General Motors and American Motors, Ward's said.

The statistical service estimated GM would build 92,750 cars this week and American Motors 12,954.

Last week the industry built 172,471, previously the high for the year. In the comparable week of 1961 the total was 161,464.

Truck production was estimated at 29,275 units compared with 29,390 last week and 27,815 last year.

Ward's said 2,114,000 of the 1963 model cars will have been built at the end of work today, a record high for this date and 13 per cent ahead of last year.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY
There are a lot of ways to bid the North-South hands, but all ways should end in a six-no-trump contract.

The bidding in the box took place when the hand was played at the Regency Club in New York. The result was unfortunate for the North-South side.

South failed to work out the sure-fire line of play, winning the opening lead, remarked, "Maybe we didn't bid enough," and then the hand right out the window.

He led a heart and finessed dummy's jack. East won with the king and led a second spade. South had to play another high spade. He had already lost one trick and now he had to win to get to his hand from dummy again. The diamonds failed to break and South was down.

If he had planned his play at the North-South hands, but all ways should end in a six-no-trump contract.

Then South could have cashed dummy's ace and king of clubs and led the ace and queen of hearts.

East would win with the king and return a spade. South would win, run off his two clubs, making sure to throw dummy's jack of hearts, cash his last two hearts and make the final three tricks with dummy's top diamonds.

Trio Pleads Innocent to Federal Charges

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Two labor leaders and a numbers racketeer pleaded innocent in U.S. District Court yesterday to charges of tampering with confidential files of the Internal Revenue Service.

Federal Judge Frank L. Kloeb set Jan. 29 for the trial of Richard T. Gossler, United Auto Workers International vice president; Donald Pinciotti, Gossler's assistant, and Ted Malson, all of Toledo.

They were arrested Nov. 12 by federal agents and indicted on conspiracy charges alleging they obtained confidential information from IRS files relating to an investigation of Gossler's income tax returns.

Judge Kloeb continued bonds of $1,000 for Gossler and Pinciotti and $2,500 for Malson.

Southwestern Accepts 79-67 Northern Gift

Gary Hayward Leads
All Scorers With 27
in Losing Effort

BY DON VOGEL

Pontiac Northern's Huskies offered Flint Southwestern a basketball gift last night, and the Colts took a 79-67 victory home with them.

The Huskies missed over a dozen layup shots, failed on their first six foul shots, threw the ball away 14 times and acted like they didn't know the meaning of the word "rebound."

Southwestern was far from impressive in the first game of the season for both teams.

But the Colts were more aggressive under the boards, reacted faster to loose balls and were much deadlier when it came to close-in shots.

BROTHER ACT

Coach Dick Hall also had two other Haywards in the game: Roger, a sophomore, started and fouled out in the second quarter after scoring six points and showing definite promise. Larry, Gary's twin, and Roger's brother, played a good share of the time.

The loss of Roger Hayward seemed to start the Huskies on the way to defeat. He was the only PNH player consistently battling under the boards. Southwestern took complete control of the rebounds when he departed.

The Huskies used a fast break and full court pressing defense during the first half. They led 22-18 at the quarter and would have had 30 points if four easy layups and any of the free throws had been made.

Northern players turned in a poor defensive effort and the Colts took advantage of the many lapses by successfully using a man-on-man offense.

The Colts forged ahead 38-36 at the half and opened a 12-point spread at one time in the third period. The widest lead was 22 points in the last quarter.

The Huskies fired six shots at the basket, hitting only 26.

Dondoro Starts Right in Conference Action

Royal Oak Dondoro started league play in the Border's Cities Conference with a 48-45 victory over Wyandotte with Ed Ross and Bill Blanchard hitting for 18 and 17 points respectively.

Wyandotte led 25-23 at halftime but the Colts pulled into the lead in the third period and with 1 1/2 minutes to play held a 47-45 margin. Will Flegie sunk two free throws in the last minute to clinch. They were Flegie's only points in the game.

Dondoro hit on 21 of 44 free throws while Wyandotte was 15 for 32 from the charity line.

Bears Lone Winners Among 12 Quintets

Berkley was the only Inter-Lake team to win last night as every league team but Waterford engaged in a warmup game prior to jumping into the loop schedule next week.

The Bears dumped Thurston, 69-61 by staving off a fourth quarter rally by the home team.

Walled Lake started slow and never could catch up to Plymouth in a 50-39 defeat while PNH lost 73-67 to Flint Southwestern. Farmington went under, 58-2, Livonia Bentley, and Redford Union dumped Southfield, 59-37.

Walled Lake trailed 34-15 at halftime as Plymouth threw up an alert defense against the Vikings. The home club repeatedly

A LITTLE HIGHER — Gary Hayward (50) of Pontiac Northern gets his hand a little higher than the rest to tip in a first period basket against Flint Southwestern last night. He scored 12 points in the opening period and 27 for the game. Mike Burlew (12) of PNH watches the action.

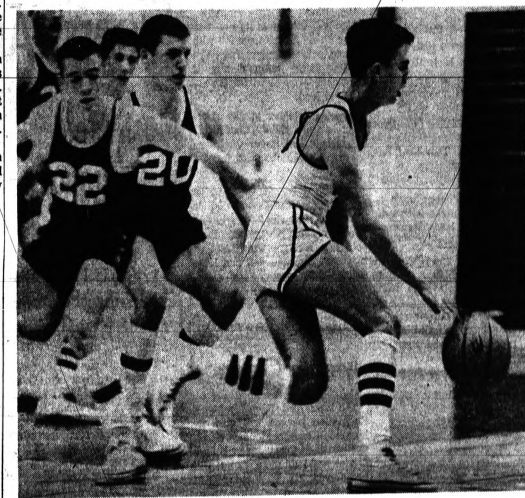

RO Shrine Loses to Anthony, 75-51

Royal Oak Shrine stayed within range for three quarters until St. Anthony went on a 29 point spree in the final period to defeat the Knights, 75-51.

The winners had four players in double figures led by Jim Coch's 28 points, and Paul Fink with 17. Shrine got within one to start the third quarter 30-29, but Coch hit a couple straight shots and St. Anthony never lost the lead.

Mike Haggerty led Shrine with 14 points as no other Knight could hit double figures. Shrine now stands 1-2 in the season.

Romeo Leads Tri-County

Lake Orion Is 'Hooked' at Kettering

The quick drives of forward Gerald Henry accounted for six of the 10 points scored by PCH in its rally. Center McKenley Jones, who tallied the first three Central scores, was a pillar on the defensive backboard during the comeback.

Henry (who led PCH with 13 points) and DeWalt scored the last eight points for Pontiac following its final time out. Flint's big gun was unheralded newcomer Mel Rutland who hit two field goals in every period and added two charity points for 18.

Co-captain Al Snyder hit 11. The five starters did all the scoring for PCH with Henry and Jones (11) the only two to hit twin figures.

After a hot beginning that saw Pontiac jump to 4-0 and 9-3 advantages, the game settled into a typical early season succession of loose ball handling and static offenses.

The Chiefs, however, were improved over last week's losing performance against Grosse Pointe. Van Ryzin found several rays of hope in last night's game, and actually was impressed with his club following its stirring rally.

The 57 junior guard came through with 24 points in addition to countless steals of Orion passes as the whole Kettering offense revolved around him.

And, on at least three occasions, while Hook had his back to the basket, he seemed to sense, an open hand and drove in for easy lay ups.

Orion actually was in contention only for the first two periods paced by the hot shooting of Bruce Fritz. Fritz hit on eight of nine shots before halftime which found Orion behind 29-27.

Rochester Loses to Bulldogs

Ragged and rough but still first-night thrillers describes the Tri-County League openers last night, which saw Romeo rally to beat Rochester and Lapeer nip L'Anse Creuse in the closing seconds.

The host Bulldogs, starting fast after a mediocre season a year ago, downed defending champion Rochester 67-58 with a 25-point lead at the half and after three quarters with loose ball handling, wild passing, and a costly ray of fouls.

John (13) and Wheaton (12) were other Bulldogs in double figures. Wilson scored 19, Tom Strong 11, and Ed Wright 10 for Rochester.

It was unfortunate for Dryden, Capac won its 34th straight regular season game last night.

Except for Bruce Rodwan's 16 points, not a single player could hit the basket for more than three field goals on either team.

The scoring in the Port Huron-East Detroit game was hardly better as the defending champion Shamrocks were beaten by the Huskies, 49-38. In this game Charles Ingram had 15 for Port Huron and Jack MacGillivray 17 for East Detroit.

Royal Oak Kimball's Dwight Ebaugh took all scoring honors in the EML with his 23 points in a losing cause as the Knights fell to Hazel Park, 58-53.

In the other game, Mt. Clemens rolled over Roseville, 70-59 with seven players of both teams getting in double figures.

After a slow 9-4 first period, Seaboard held a meager one point lead in the second quarter and then the Maples fell behind 22-17 at half time.

Hazel Park and Ferndale now share the EML lead with 24 wins.

Webb Is Re-Elected

CHICAGO (UPI) — Four Michigan men were re-elected yesterday in the board of directors of the Western Golf Association.

George Webb of Birmingham was re-elected vice president. Additional terms on the board were given to L. J. (Bud) Bedella of Dearborn, Blaine Eysen of Bloomfield Hills, and Otto Norton of Grand Rapids.

Packers Sign Grimm

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Dan Grimm, 244-pound tackle at the University of Colorado, said Friday he has signed a contract with the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League.

He was a draft choice of both Green Bay and the Denver Broncos of the American Football League. No figures were disclosed. Grimm is from Des Moines, Fla. He was a tackle on offense and a linebacker on defense this season.

Lions, Green Bay Heavy Favorites

Vikings Play in Detroit; GB on Coast

Packers Can Clinch Tie for Divisional Championship

The Green Bay Packers and Detroit Lions are one-sided favorites to win Sunday and carry the battle for the championship playoff berth opposite the New York Giants right down to the final weekend of the National Football League season.

Detroit's hopes of catching the Western division-leading Packers this weekend are dimmed by the bruised and battered condition of the San Francisco 49ers.

Green Bay is an 11-point favorite to beat the 49ers at San Francisco and clinch at least a tie for the division title. The Lions, one game behind Green Bay, are 15-point choices to defeat the Minnesota Vikings in Detroit.

While the two leading contenders in the West play "must-win" games, there is no such pressure on the Eastern division champion Giants in their game against the Cleveland Browns at New York.

Today the Washington Redskins are playing the Colts at Baltimore.

In three other Sunday games, the Dallas Cowboys are picked by 3 points over the Cardinals in St. Louis; the Chicago Bears are the choice by 12 at home against the Los Angeles Rams; and the Philadelphia Eagles are favored by 3 at home over the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Country Day Is Outclassed

Country Day of Birmingham went out of its class yesterday in losing a 73-27 decision to North Farmington.

With four players in double figures, North Farmington led 34-13 at halftime as Country Day failed to get a player in two figures. Mike Flemming had 15, Jim Uhl 15, Bill Phillips 12 and Joe O'Donnell 10 for the winners. Dave Walker's 8 was best for Country Day.

Finals Today

Moore 9th in PBA Field

After a poor six game block which nearly eliminated him, Pontiac's Monroe Moore rallied in the final 12 games to finish in 9th place at the cutoff point of the Atlanta Professional Bowler's Association tournament last night.

Moore, who hit 1376 in his first block and then dropped to 1146 in the second six games, started his 13th game in 16th place.

He moved up to 14th after a 1274 and then got 948 with 1282 block. This put him 277 pins over average.

Mike Samardzja of Pontiac had blocks of 1213, 1228, 1247 and 1147 to go 30 points over but it took 166 pins or better to finish in the money of the top 24.

Leading the qualifying field was Dick Weber with 401 pins over 177 and Bourdase 186.

No More Traveling for 'Bobo' Newsom

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Bobo Newsom, who bore a charmed life as baseball's most traveled pitcher, died Friday at age 55, less than 10 years after he had played in his last major league game.

The big right-hander, was born Louis Norman Newsom but was known to all as Bobo because that was the way he greeted everybody from the owner of the club to the team's baboy.

Standing 6-foot-3 and weighing in the neighborhood of 220 to 240 pounds, he talked and acted big — and pitched almost as well as he talked. He pitched for any team who would have him and nearly every team in the majors did.

From the time he started playing for pay at Raleigh, N.C., in 1928, until he finally put away his uniform in 1963, he pitched for 18 leagues. In those 35 years, he changed uniforms 38 times, wearing the flannels of the Washington Senators on four different occasions, St. Louis Browns three times, and Brooklyn Dodgers and Philadelphia Athletics twice each.

He also played for both the New York Giants and Yankees as well as Boston and Detroit in the American League and the Chicago Cubs in the National.

Bobo, pitching for some of baseball's poorest teams as well as some of the best, managed to record 211 triumphs in the big leagues but he also lost 222, one of the few to top 200 in both victories and defeats.

His best season was in 1940 when he helped pitch the Tigers to the American League pennant. After winning 21 games and losing only 5 during the regular season, he hurled two World Series triumphs over the Cincinnati Reds and dropped a 2-1 heartbreaker in the seventh game, only a day after the death of his father.

Bobo created almost as many headlines off the field as on it. Except for Ty Cobb, he probably was the only player ever to be the cause of a walkout by his teammates. That happened in 1943 when as a member of the Dodgers, he was fined and suspended by Manager Leo Durocher. The rest of Dodger players threatened to go on strike unless Newsom was reinstated and the fine was rescinded. Durocher granted the request and the Dodgers proceeded to win the next game 22-3.

While pitching for Washington against the Yankees, Bobo was knocked unconscious when hit by a line drive through the box. Remaining unconscious, Bobo insisted on continuing and proceeded to blank Lefty Gomez and the Yankees 1-0.

On Sept. 13, 1934, wearing the uniform of the Browns, Newsom pitched a 9-inning, no-hitter against Boston. The Red Sox beat him in the tenth 2-1.

To whom else would this happen but to Bobo?

Newsom's death was attributed to cirrhosis. He died while a patient at an Orlando hospital. A native of Hartsville, S.C., he had been spending the winters here since the end of World War II.

MONTREAL (AP) — There was growing hope Friday that right-winger Bernie (Boom Boom) Montclair in Saturday night's National Hockey League game here against the Canadiens against Detroit.

Rescue Team Sights Body of Trapped Miner

Deadly Gas and Small Fires Hinder Search for 36 Others

CARMICHAELS, Pa. (AP)—An advance rescue team sighted today the body of one of 37 miners trapped 650 feet underground by an explosion.

Pockets of deadly methane gas and small fires delayed rescuers from reaching the body.

Fate of the other 36 miners trapped in Thursday's explosion remained unknown.

The identification of the body was not known.

James B. Girod, assistant general superintendent of the mine, said at a mid-morning news conference, "Our progress may seem slow, but we are encountering gas which we must move and a few small fires."

He said the base of rescue operations was approximately 4,800 feet from the mine face but that rescue units have explored within 4,000 feet of the face.

The body was reported 3,900 feet from the face.

"We must explore 1,700 feet of roadway for every 100 feet we advance," Girod explained.

A mine official relayed news of the discovery of the body to a group of relatives and friends standing by.

'STILL HAVE HOPE'
Adam Bronakowski, whose son Albert, 19, was among those trapped, said the group received the information without visible reaction.

"What could we do?" he asked. "It's a temporary setback; I still have hope."

The discovery came in the third day of round-the-clock operations by specially trained eight-man rescue units at the Frosty Run shaft of U.S. Steel's Robena No. 3 mine, located about 50 miles southwest of Pittsburgh.

Probing cautiously with as much speed as possible in a desperate race against time, the rescuers made good progress last night and early today.

In one three-hour period Friday night, they advanced 1,000 feet. Officials had pointed out that there was no way of telling where any of the trapped men might be in relation to the spot where the blast occurred.

2 MILES FROM ENTRANCE
When the explosion rocked the mine, the men were in an area some two miles from the vertical entrance, which extends 525 feet from the surface.

EAGER SALESMEN — Goodfellows were on the streets today selling special editions of the Pontiac Press to assure that no area child will be without a Christmas. A few of the nearly 150 Goodfellows blanketing Water-

Goodfellows Busy in 3 Area Communities

Waterford, Avondale, Pontiac Twp. Sites of Newspaper Hawking

Goodfellows in Waterford Township and two other Pontiac area communities are hawking newspapers today in their annual sales to aid the needy.

The Waterford goal of $3,000 is intended to provide a brighter Christmas for the less fortunate in the community. Goodfellow editions are also being sold in Pontiac Township and Avondale.

Headed by President Clayton Soncrante, the Waterford Goodfellows include representatives of some 15 township organizations as well as many individuals.

Among the groups participating in the annual sale and their locations are:

Eagles, M59 and Telegraph Road; police, Voorheis and Telegraph roads; Veterans of Foreign Wars, M59 and Crescent Lake Road; Firefighters Association, Elizabeth Lake and Telegraph roads; and Kiwanis, Dixie Highway and Telegraph Road.

Others are Evening Optimists, Walton Boulevard and Sashabaw Road; civil defense police, M59 and Airport Road; Breakfast Optimists, Pontiac Mall; and the Rotary Club, Dixie Highway and Andersonville Road and Dixie Highway and Walton Boulevard.

Receipts from the sale will be utilized to purchase food orders negotiable at area stores and to prepare Christmas food baskets for delivery a few days before the big holiday to an anticipated 150 families.

A portion of the proceeds will be used for clothing and fuel.

Candy and nuts for the children will be included in the baskets, and a limited number of used toys and dolls collected by the old newsboys also will be distributed.

Fire Chief Carl Schingke heads a delegation of Pontiac Township Goodfellows in their sale today. A goal of $1,000 has been set to meet the needs of approximately 35 families. Two holiday parties for youngsters and another for families also are planned.

In southwest Avon Township the Avondale Fire Department is conducting a two-day sale today which will benefit 54 needy families. A portion of the proceeds will go toward a Dec. 21 party for underprivileged children.

Union Lake Highway Project Protested by Businessmen

County Road Commission plans to rebuild Union Lake's two main thoroughfares have stirred up a hornet's nest.

The commission's office has been bombarded with petitions and form letters demanding assurance that Union Lake Road and Cooley Lake Road will not be completely closed during construction next summer, chairman Sol D. Lomerson said yesterday.

The Union Lake Area Business Association and other groups say many merchants would go out of business and residents would have to go out of their way as much as 10 miles to reach their homes if the roads are completely closed.

Lomerson said no guarantee of any kind is possible until plans for the project are completed, but he added, the commission intends to cooperate with Union Lake and cause as little inconvenience as possible.

PLAN MEETING
Road commissioners will meet with members of the business group as soon as engineering studies of possible detours and other aspects of the projects completed, he said.

Union Lake especially fears that Union Lake Road from Commerce Lake Road to Cooley Lake Road from Elizabeth Lake Road to Union Lake Road will be closed at the same time.

However, road commission engineers said the two projects — both involving new 24-foot-wide concrete roadways to replace 21-foot-wide blacktop — will not be done at the same time.

Complete closing of Union Lake Road would still make the village's businesses inaccessible during the peak summer season, businessmen maintain.

Attorney Christian F. Powell, secretary of the business association, said the problem is mainly one of information, because Lomerson said it was not expected that sufficient information on which to base a meeting with businessmen would be ready until after Jan. 1.

Two New Light Gifts Available for Christmas

(Editor's Note — This is another in the series of stories designed to help Christmas shoppers with their selections.)

By REBA HEINTZELMAN

They're finally here! Smokeless, dripless, permanent type candles that would delight any hostess, particularly at Christmastime.

Made of waxlike nylon, the new candles burn butane gas and the flame can be turned up or down, according to the owner's mood.

Named Lumin Candle, they fit any standard-sized holder, stay lit for four or five hours and cost less than three cents an hour for soft, flickering light.

Another completely new item to be found in downtown Pontiac is the Unifloat Mark Two lantern that shoots a beam one-quarter mile away.

It has a red light for safety, won't rust or corrode, is run on a standard six-volt battery and — best of all — floats on water. What sportsman wouldn't enjoy this practical gift?

There are new plastic coasters for the fastidious hostess, that look exactly like expensive cut crystal. They are available in an attractive container that looks like solid glass but is clear plastic.

Many new imports have swept into stores. From Italy there's an unusual decanter shaped like a gold duck. The neck sticks out as if it were about to take flight.

A new magic touch photo print copier is a present that could be used by the entire family, many times over.

It makes copies of checks, photographs, or anything that has a mark on it either in pen or pencil. It even copies items with color, al-

INSPECTS REACTOR — President Kennedy looks over a Kiwi B4 reactor during his tour of the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratories yesterday at Los Alamos, N.M.

Briton Ire at Acheson Said to Irk President

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy is reported to be disturbed about British indignation over former Secretary of State Dean Acheson's remarks that Great Britain has "lost an empire and has not yet found a role."

Informed sources said yesterday that the President does not condemn the speech, which Acheson delivered Wednesday at West Point, but regrets that only portions of it were picked out by Britons who reacted sharply to it.

However, they said, the administration does not want to attach undue importance to the matter in view of the fact that Kennedy is to meet with British Prime Minister Macmillan Dec. 19-20.

Acheson took the position yesterday that critics of his remarks should read the whole speech.

"It would help if people would read the text of my speech before they criticize," a statement released through Acheson's office said.

"It is entirely clear that there will be those who will disagree, but at least they will then disagree with what was actually said."

In his remarks Acheson said the Western Allies must agree to a policy on the question of reunification of Germany. And he called for increased conventional forces to meet Communist armed might along the Iron Curtain.

But he called Britain's application for membership in the European Common Market a "decisive turning point."

Faculty Ousts MSUO Prof

By The Associated Press
Dr. Samuel Shapiro, a controversial assistant professor and head of the Michigan State University Oakland History Department, has been turned down for reappointment by his colleagues.

Shapiro, who has written extensively on Latin America for the past three years, would have had permanent tenure had he been reappointed. He said he was "very surprised" at being turned down.

Prof. George Matthews, associate dean, said he could not give the academic reasons for the decision, and added, "they are internal considerations, which are private."

He said Shapiro would have had a better chance to be retained by the university if he had written and said less about Cuba and Latin-American affairs, but added "that was not the principal factor."

Shapiro, 35, reached his peak of controversy in January 1961 after returning from a visit to Cuba in the company of members of the pro-Castro Fair Play for Cuba committee.

Shapiro sued after a Lansing television commentator concluded that Shapiro "sees nothing wrong with pro-Communist Cuba and obviously believes Castro is right and we are wrong."

Shapiro's wife Gloria, was reappointed as assistant professor of English.

Project Rover Seeks Support for Moon Shot

Chief Executive Gets Firsthand Information on Nuclear Program

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—President Kennedy, well past the halfway mark on a cross-country tour, is getting a budget-season appeal for more funds to build a moonbound nuclear rocket engine.

Kennedy was to get the second half of a double exposure to Project Rover—the nuclear engine program—at the atomic test site at Jackass Flats, Nev., today.

First, however, he arranged to attend a Catholic feast day Mass at an Air Force chapel here before flying to Nevada.

The chief executive was given the first half of the Rover story—and a thinly disguised plea for financial support—at Los Alamos, N.M., Friday. Scientists are designing the engine at Los Alamos and testing it at Jackass Flats.

Rover advocates hope their engine, still in the dream stage, will be chosen to lift the first American to the moon—an event now planned for sometime in the 1970s.

WANTED TO SEE

Perhaps significantly, the White House listed as the prime reason for Kennedy's trip a desire to hear about Rover firsthand.

The journey also coincided with the time when the President is putting finishing touches on a new federal budget going to Congress next month. Also, it came as some officials were urging a slowdown in the moon program to save funds.

Nuclear rocket engines were not the only presidential concern, however. Kennedy spent more than three hours Friday at Strategic Air Command headquarters outside Omaha, Neb., being briefed on SAC's emergency plans.

He also got a personal look at the Albuquerque operations of the Sandia Corp., the nonprofit business that has a monopoly on designing all the bombs, warheads and other housings for nuclear war explosives.

The trip had two bonus factors as well.

First, Kennedy was able to look forward to 36 hours of relaxation — at today's final stop — at the home of Croner Brig Crosby near Palm Springs, Calif.

Second, he had an opportunity to show himself to the electorate — something which he told an Albuquerque audience is one of those things that doesn't "get so far away from us."

He made this remark on arrival in New Mexico's largest city just before dusk Friday. Standing on an airport platform beside Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, Kennedy said he was particularly sentimental about this community.

Kennedy went on to tell his listeners that New Mexico joined Texas and Nevada as the only states west of the Mississippi to go Democratic in the 1960 presidential balloting—a matter that he said was not to be forgotten when "we did not win by such a landslide."

If Water's Fluoridated, Teeth Care Can Be Cut

Fluoride treatments in Pontiac Schools for children's teeth could be stopped seven years after Pontiac's water supply is fluoridated. The city of Pontiac has com-tracted to being using Detroit in July, 1963, and Detroit common council has approved fluoridation of its water. The 9-year-old application program aims at preventive dental care on a voluntary basis. The 45-cent-per-child application of fluoride to the teeth is said to reduce the incidence of new cavities by an average of 40 per cent.

Pontiac School Health Coordinator Josephine Seely said yesterday she would suggest that the school board go along with state recommendations on termination of fluoride programs.

According to Dr. John D. Monroe, Oakland County health director, the state health department believes topical fluoride applications can be dropped altogether for continuous residents seven years after water fluoridation.

CITING OPINION
Dr. Monroe was citing an opinion by Dr. Chester Tossy, associate director of the division of dentistry of the State Health Department.

However, Dr. Tossy asked that local districts make provisions for treating children who have recently moved into a community having fluoridated water.

The Pontiac programs have been in operation on a voluntary basis since 1953, with a one-year interruption.

It is being administered by the school health services department of the Pontiac Public School District.

This year, it is expected that 546 children in the second, fifth and eighth grades will have received the fluoride applications by Dec. 21.

Schools scheduled for the program are Washington Junior High and Croft and Whitfield elementary schools.

After the Christmas holidays, Mrs. Anna Jackson, dental hygienist for the school health service, plans to include Webster, Winsor and Bailey elementary schools.

Parents must sign consent cards before the treatments will be given.

Boston Murder Tally, Now 8

BOSTON (AP)—Police in suburban Weymouth are confronted today with what appears to be the eighth unsolved slaying of Greater Boston women in six months.

The latest victim is Margaret Cadigan, 17, runner-up in 1962 Boston archdiocese competition for Queen of the Catholic Youth Organization.

She was found dead Friday night on the bedroom floor of the Weymouth home she shared with her family.

Detective Lt. Frank Perrone said of the Cadigan girl's death: "It looks like homicide."

IN PRESSURE COOKER
The body of the pretty drum majorette and drill team captain was fully clothed, but her death was a mystery.

Her head was immersed in a pressure cooker half-filled with water. A pajama bottom was around her neck and there was a cut on the left side of her neck. A blood-stained 12-inch knife was near the body.

Lt. Perrone said the girl could have died from any of three means: strangulation, drowning or from the throat slash. A medical examiner was expected to give an official verdict of the death at a later time.

Like the other seven women victims, Miss Cadigan was alone at home at the time of her death.

Most of the earlier victims were linked in some way with hospitals. Two were nurses, one a physiotherapist and others had been patients shortly before their deaths.

Miss Cadigan was interested in nursing and had worked in a hospital as a nurse's aide.

Police fear a madman is on the loose, picking women as his victims and strangulating as his means of killing.

Police said Miss Cadigan was home alone for about 20 minutes Friday night. Death came in that period.

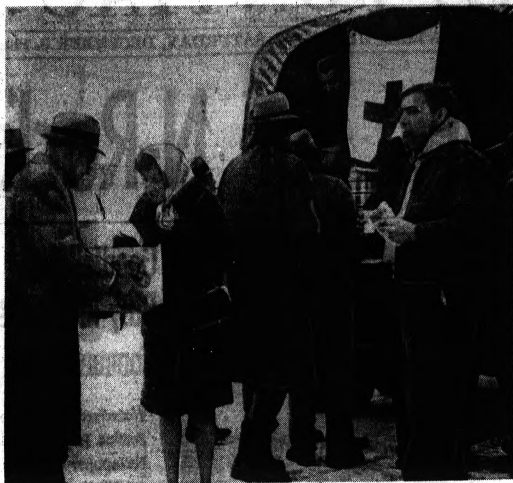

The most recent victim, until Miss Cadigan's death, was Joseph Clark, 19, of Englewood, N.J., who was studying medical and hospital technology in Boston.

Miss Clark, nude except for her brassiere, was found strangled with a stocking and petticoat, in her Boston Back Bay apartment Wednesday evening.

Miss Clark's apartment was less than a block from the scene of the first of the stranglings last June 14.

There were six strange slayings from June through August. The lapse of three months suggested to police the perpetrator might have been out of Boston, or locked up on another charge since the end of August.

All eight women met death at about the same time of the day—between 5 p.m. and 6:30 p.m.—an investigator said the killer might be an ordinary person who suddenly goes berserk at the end of his work day.

STRANDED—A Red Cross supply truck finally reached some of the motorists stranded between Akron and Cleveland, Ohio. Police estimated 5,000 vehicles were stalled by a heavy snowstorm along the 30-mile stretch. Freezing rain last night complicated plowing operations.

Severe Weather Leaves Costly Michigan Toll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Michigan's two-day snow storm had blown itself out pretty much today while leaving behind one of the most severe tolls of any winter blizzard.

At least 17 persons died from causes directly attributed to the storm. Twelve succumbed to heart attacks while snow-shoveling and five were killed in auto traffic.

Today's forecast, with parts of the state still digging out from under as much as a foot of snow, called for snow flurries and windy and cold weather.

Two Detroiters died of over-exertion Friday while shoveling snow. They were Mrs. Sophia Piwowarczyk, 81, and John Adams, 62.

Ohio, Pennsylvania Start Digging Out of Snowstorm

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
With an army of highway crewmen in the vanguard, residents of northern Ohio and western Pennsylvania tackled today the monumental job of digging out from one of the worst snowstorms in years.

At least 38 storm-connected deaths were reported, most of them resulting from heart attacks while shoveling snow or from traffic accidents.

In Ohio alone there were 16 known deaths.

Thousands of motorists, truck drivers and bus passengers were stranded by the storm that started Thursday, deposited up to 27 inches of snow and sent drifts as deep as 20 feet.

The fortunate found refuge in

TRAFFIC PARALYZED
On U.S. 21 between Akron and Cleveland, where the granddaddy of all traffic tieups developed, Anders Andersen of Bath, Ohio, a truck driver, told a reporter who came by with a Red Cross team that brought food and drink: "I've been here since 4:30 p.m. Thursday and have gone exactly three miles. You just sit and sleep. There's nothing else you can do."

That was Friday night. The Ohio Highway Patrol estimated 5,000 vehicles were caught in that jam over a 10-mile section of hilly road south of Brecksville.

The problem of highway crews was complicated earlier by strong winds that sent drifts across the highway by stalled vehicles and later Friday night by a freezing rain.

Som 2,000 persons were caught on the Pennsylvania Turnpike, where a 160-mile section was closed for hours. Their vehicles were herded into service areas until crews could get one lane of the turnpike open. The section of turnpike was closed at 1:30 p.m. and wasn't opened to new traffic until 11:30 p.m.

BIRTH IN STORM
In western Pennsylvania, Mrs. Gertrude Hixon, 25, of R.F.D. 1, Scottsdale, gave birth to a daughter Friday night. Death came in that period.

In Ohio, Cleveland was partially paralyzed, with more than 100,000 homes cut off by snow in 12 years. All schools and many businesses were shut down.

The Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. worked to restore power to thousands of homes cut off by the storm. At the height of the storm, 40,000 homes were without power, the company reported.

Findlay and Fostoria, in northwestern Ohio, also were declared states of emergency. At Findlay, south of Toledo, Mayor William Carlin said the emergency was declared primarily because of stranded motorists. At Fostoria, 15 miles from Findlay, Mayor Phil Brubaker said some 300 motorists were stranded.

The Ohio Highway Patrol said more than 200 state and national highways were closed in the state. Most of them were in a strip 50 to 70 miles wide south from the Lake Erie shoreline.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said 17 to 24 inches of snow fell in Cleveland's southeastern suburbs. At Newbury, 27 inches was reported.

Military Junta Releases Korean Editorial Writer
SEOUL, Korea (AP)—The ruling military junta released Hwang San-duk, an editorial writer for the influential daily Donga Ilbo Friday night.

He had been on trial since August on charges of publishing a false report. In an editorial he had opposed the junta's plan to rewrite the constitution and put it to a referendum.

About 5,100 U.N. troops maintain law and order in the Gaza strip separating Israel and the Arab Republics.

2 Proposals Suggested for Emergency Water

BIRMINGHAM—City Administrator Alde John F. Saeftke has recommended two proposals for improving Birmingham's emergency water system as part of the city's accelerated civil defense.

In a report to be presented at Monday's 6 p.m. City Commission meeting, Saeftke says equipment should be purchased to operate the city's largest standby water source, its Southfield well.

The well is capable of supplying 2.5 million gallons of water per day.

The administrative aide also urges that additional Birmingham firemen be trained to learn all facets of emergency water production.

TIED TO CUBAN CRISIS
Saeftke's report is the result of a City Commission resolution, passed Nov. 19 in the wake of the Cuban crisis, which directed the city administration to step up its civil defense efforts.

An emergency water supply was a prime consideration because of the potential fallout from Birmingham's present Detroit-supplied water.

The city currently has a 100-kilowatt gasoline-driven generator for emergency service at either its Walker or Wakefield wells.

The Walker well is the only one of three owned by Birmingham which is in operation now.

It is used to supply water for Troy under a contract with Birmingham. The others are tested once a week.

In case of emergency, the city's Detroit water supply could be shut off, either manually or electrically, through four valves on 14-Mile Road.

The city then could switch over to its own well system if there were sufficient equipment to operate it.

CHECK ON GENERATOR
Saeftke said he and Fire Chief Park Smith have been investigating the possibility of obtaining a 100-kilowatt generator from federal surplus to operate the large Southfield well.

So far they have met with no success, but Saeftke will ask the commission Monday for a 90-day limit in which to obtain federal surplus equipment.

All Papers Close in New York as 4 Are Struck

NEW YORK (AP)—Four New York City newspapers were struck today by the International Typographical Union and the other five announced they would shut down.

The decision was announced at four a.m. picked up by the Times, Daily News, World-Telegram and Sun, and the Journal-American in a contract dispute.

The other newspapers, all members of the publishers association, are the Herald Tribune, Daily Mirror, Post, Long Island Press and Long Island Star-Journal. They have a combined daily circulation of more than 5 1/2 million.

The Department of Commerce estimates auto registrations will reach between 105 and 124 million by 1980. Registrations totaled about 74 million in 1960.

Reports China to Pull Troops

NEHRU TELLS OF DESIRES FOR CIVILIAN OUTPOSTS

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru said today the Chinese government apparently plan to withdraw their armed forces from northeast India but want to retain two civilian outposts in Indian territory.

Nehru made a short statement in Parliament.

Questions about his reaction to the Chinese plans were not permitted.

"According to present indications the Chinese armed forces will withdraw many miles beyond my McMahon line but they want to keep civil posts at Dholu and Lengchi," Nehru said.

He added that, in a letter clarifying their Nov. 21 proclamation, the Chinese gave up claims to posts at Khimzani, near Bhutan, and at Kibito and Walong, near Burma at the eastern end.

"That is the present position as we understand it from their letter," Nehru said.

This left members of Parliament confused. While the Chinese had disputed the ownership of Khimzani, they were not known to have claimed Kibito and Walong as being on their side of the frontier.

Hip Fractured in Crash

Man Trapped in Auto

A heavy truck snapped a front axle on Dixie Highway yesterday and slammed into a passenger car loaded with a Windsor family of four. The impact pushed the car 100 feet and off the road trapping the father in the demolished vehicle.

Suffering a fractured hip bone and scalp lacerations, the father, Lionel Walker, 37, was in fair condition at Pontiac General Hospital this morning.

His wife, Winona, 35 and his two children, Sarah R., 2, and Joseph, 4, also were taken to the hospital. They were treated for minor injuries and released. The truck driver, Forrest D. Seagrath of Detroit was not injured.

The accident happened at 2:20 p.m. on Dixie Highway at the intersection with Telegraph Road in Waterford Township.

Waterford Township Patrolman Fred St. Souver, who was 1,000 feet away from the scene when he heard the crash, said Walker was trapped in the car until a wrecker pulled the truck off its side.

The truck struck the car in the left front side, St. Souver said. He added that the truck's front axle apparently collapsed sending the southbound truck careening out of control into the northbound lane where it smashed into the car's left front side.

The momentum of the truck carried both it and the car off the road, leaving the traffic lanes free.

'Halt Trial,' Says Hoffa; 'I'm Scared'

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—James R. Hoffa, president of the Teamsters Union, says he is too scared to continue his conspiracy trial here because of an air gun attack on him.

Hoffa made the claim in an affidavit filed along with a formal motion asking U.S. District Judge William E. Miller to declare a mistrial in the 81-million case.

Hoffa's statement said it "is apprehensive of his own safety if this case should proceed further at this time."

ATTORNEYS JITTERY

He also said the attack affected his attorneys' ability to defend him and that many witnesses he planned to call are now nervous and afraid to testify freely in his defense. Several defense attorneys and witnesses also filed affidavits to support this contention.

The attack came Wednesday when Warren Swanson, a Washington, D.C., laborer and former mental patient, whipped out the air pistol and fired at Hoffa in the courtroom. The pellets bounced harmlessly off Hoffa's body and Swanson was quickly subdued.

The day after the attack, Miller ordered marshals to search everyone entering the courtroom from now on and directed that the jury be locked up for the duration of the trial. Then he recessed the trial until Monday after a four-hour closed session on which neither the judge nor attorneys for either side would comment.

Londoners See Smog-Free Sky

LONDON (AP)—For the first time in five days Londoners awoke today to clear skies and air free of fog and smog.

The sun left 106 persons dead and more than 1,000 hospitalized with chest and heart ailments. The cost of the four-day pall of dirt and darkness was expected to reach 12 million pounds ($33.6 million) and possibly as high as 20 million pounds ($56 million).

British European Airways lost more than 100,000 pounds ($448,000). The airline canceled more than 300 flights. Other airlines were also affected by the closing of London Airport for three days.

A hundred ships were waiting to get into London Docks, many of them since Tuesday.

Revolt Erupts in British Brunei

By E. C. JANARDAN

BRUNEI (AP)—A revolt for independence broke out before dawn today in this British-protected sultanate on the island of Borneo.

British troops rushed to the scene but the royal government appeared to have the uprising under control.

Seven persons were reported killed in the first skirmishes between the rebels and the forces of the sultan, Sir Omar Ali Saifuddin.

The rebels attacked oil installations manned by 200 Britons, Dutch and Australians in this capital. But there were no reports of casualties or serious damage. The installations pump out 4 million tons of oil a year.

The rebels also were reported to have attacked installations in Seria, a major oil installation about 40 miles southeast of here.

(Including capital of the neighboring British territory of Sarawak, the government announced that the situation in Brunei was under government control and that order had been restored. It said, however, the situation was still serious at Seria and in nearby Kuala Belait.)

Brunei City was quiet in daybreak.

In Manila, A. M. Azahari, leader of Brunei's strongest political party—the Parti Rakyat (People's Party)—proclaimed himself revolutionary prime minister of Brunei and also of two neighboring territories, North Borneo and Sarawak.

North Borneo police reported they exchanged fire with Brunei rebels at Weston near the North Borneo-Brunei border this morning. They reported no casualties.

Azahari said his rebels numbered 20,000 to 25,000 and operated as the Teroera Nasional Kalimantan (United National Kalimantan Army), elements of which have been previously identified as pro-Indonesian. Indonesia owns part of this island off Southeast Asia.

Lot Rezoning on the Waterford Board Agenda

Waterford Township Board members will act Monday on a proposal to rezone 18 lots in the vicinity of Scott Lake and Elizabeth Lake roads from commercial to residential.

Although zoned commercial several years ago, the area was allowed to develop residentially.

Difficulty encountered by prospective home buyers due to the zoning discrepancy brought the matter to the board's attention.

In other business the board will review a suggested price increase on cemetery lots to levels of the City of Pontiac and Independence Township cemetery departments.

The union is asking for an 8 per cent increase the first year.

CHAPTER SIX

"Where are we going?" asked Mr. Shnoo as he and Santa left Shnoo's Zoo behind and started down the road leading poor Honeybun on a rope.

"There's an elf in Santa Land named Dr. Kernoodle," said Santa. "He has a wonderful way with sick animals. I think he can help Honeybun."

"Oh, I hope so!" said Mr. Shnoo, rubbing his fingers through the brown bear's fur. "But, oh dear, I don't think she can go that far. Look! She is staggering already."

Honeybun swung her hurt head back and forth. She seemed ready to give up and lie down right there in the road.

Santa said, "Don't worry. We'll go by sea—the way I came. It's a very fast and restful trip."

Mr. Shnoo got behind Honeybun and gently pushed her along. "A voyage should do her good," he said. "She was on a ship once before, when she was a cub."

"It's not exactly a ship," said Santa, tugging on Honeybun's rope. "It's a Blue-Scaled Scholar."

"Blue-Scaled Scholar? What is that?"

"You'll see soon enough." And sure enough Mr. Shnoo did see, for they came, by and by, to the end of the road and there was the river.

SKY-BLUE SCALES

Waiting at the edge of the river was an enormous fish covered with sky-blue scales. He was big as a tug boat and his mouth when he opened it was as large as a small front porch.

"Come in," said Santa and he led Honeybun and the astonished Mr. Shnoo right into the gaping jaws of the Blue-Scaled Scholar.

The mouth snapped shut behind them and Mr. Shnoo didn't know what to do. It was all so dark and scary. He heard Santa calling to him and he could see a light far ahead.

He pushed Honeybun down a slippery, slidey passageway until he came into a lighted sitting room. The walls and floor were red and the furniture was quite modern with lots of comfortable sofas covered with puffy pillows.

Waiting at the edge of the river was an enormous fish.

There were books on shelves along the walls. Santa went straight to one of the shelves and picked up a book. It was called "Three Little Fish and How They Grew."

"He likes to be read aloud to," said Santa. "That is why he is called Scholar, I expect."

He sat down on a sofa, put on his spectacles and opened the book to Page 64. He began to read. The room started to move gently up and down as the Scholar moved toward sea. Honeybun curled up on some pillows behind the sofa.

She did not seem at all alarmed to find herself in such strange surroundings.

But Mr. Shnoo was very puzzled. He sank down on a sofa but he couldn't keep still. He kept jumping up and down and examining things.

Finally Santa put down his book and said, "Why are you so fidgety? What is the matter?"

"I have been thinking," said Mr. Shnoo. "I have never seen so remarkable a creature. I must have a Blue-Scaled Scholar for my zoo."

YOU ARE DREAMING

Santa shook his head. "They do not live in captivity. In fact, no mortal eye other than yours has

Cool Response Expected on Call for Legislature

LANSING (AP) — Legislators are expected to be cool toward a proposal that they return to Lansing immediately to pass enabling legislation to obtain federal assistance for needy children of the unemployed.

Rep. Joseph J. Kowalski, D-Trois, House Democratic leader, sent out letters urging the call.

Kowalski mailed the letters to Reps. Don R. Pears, R-Buchanan, speaker of the House; and Wilfred G. Bassett, R-Jackson; and Sens. Lynn O. Francis, R-Midland; and Perry W. Greene, R-Grand Rapids.

"The election is over," he wrote. "There is no reason to postpone a final adjournment any longer. More urgent, however, is the need to obtain assistance for needy children of the unemployed under the federal-state program of aid to dependent children."

Enabling legislation is still before the legislature and wouldn't take too long to pass, Kowalski claimed. He said Gov.-elect George Romney has indicated he would favor taking advantage of the program.

It would take some time for the measure to be processed and passed if action is delayed until the 1963 legislature meets Jan. 9, he said.

Michigan is losing $40,000 a day for every day the state delays taking advantage of the federal program, he claimed.

Although Kowalski did not specify a date in his letter, he said he would like to see the legislature return to Lansing Friday.

Three of the four lawmakers empowered to call the legislature back into session are lame ducks who did not run for reelection. Only Bassett will be around next year.

Bassett has indicated he wouldn't be willing to come back. Francis also was unwilling. He termed the Kowalski letter "A purely political move."

"I'm not about to go back," he said. "In my opinion, he's trying to pull a quickie. We wouldn't have time to debate the measure and finish it up."

"I think the issue should be the responsibility of the legislature convening in January."

Greene and Pears were not available for comment.

Ibadan, one of the largest cities in Africa, has been the home of Rev. Harold Brown for the past three years.

On furlough after two terms of service in Nigeria, he is scheduled to speak at 11 a.m. and again at 7 p.m. tomorrow in the Missionary Alliance Church.

Rev. Mr. Brown and his wife were assigned by the United Missionary Society to open a work in Ibadan which boasts a population of more than 500,000 with fewer than 1,000 non-Nigerians.

Living in a heavily populated section of the city, they kept their home open for services and counseling.

His fluent use of the Yoruba language helped to make Missionary Brown a successful evangelist in open-air and tent campaigns in Ibadan and other cities.

In speaking to North American audiences he often wears a colorful Yoruba costume.

To give his listeners a further taste of Africa, he greets them in the musical Yoruba language and sometimes uses a talking drum to show how easily the Yoruba people can carry on a conversation though separated by distance.

Mrs. Brown has worked extensively in "Christian Life" classes, a program of child evangelism conducted in the schools.

Beginning in schools of the United Missionary Society, she and her coworkers were soon invited to bring their classes into many government-operated schools.

In the course of a year they reach literally thousands of children.

REV. FORD B. REED

Pontiac Pastor Honored

Rev. Ford B. Reed, founder of Pontiac and pastor of several Pontiac Baptist Churches, was named pastor emeritus of New Hope Baptist Church at a banquet in the church last night.

A native of Louisville, Ky., Rev. Mr. Reed is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Reed who died while he was still an infant. His grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Salem Reed who raised him, insisted he get a good education.

Pastor Reed of 388 Bloomfield Ave. is a graduate of Simmons College. He was pastor of churches in Kentucky for 11 years before coming to Pontiac in 1917. After 55 years in the ministry he retired in 1960.

Since then he has spent many months in the hospital but presently is home as a wheel chair patient. Mrs. Reed, his wife and registered nurse looks after him.

"I have helped many people to become Christians and have baptized and officiated at thousands of marriages and funerals," said the pastor.

Local churches organized by Rev. Mr. Reed include a Trinity Baptist, in October 1918 with Southern Baptist Negroes coming to Pontiac as the nucleus for the congregation.

On April 18, 1920 he founded Macedonia Baptist with less than 50 members. The group first met in homes of members. In 1934 he started the New Hope Church and was its pastor until sickness caused him to retire.

For many years he was active in the Pontiac Pastor's Association and Oakland County Ministerial Fellowship.

He was honored in April at a banquet when Macedonia Baptist Church celebrated the 30th anniversary of its founding.
