Parking Signs Create Confusion In Lots But Markers And More Signs Bring Help

When Glen Brown, asst. president for campus development, receives a parking ticket, it means the system needs revision. He fell prey to the confusion over where selected parking areas end.

Chaos over where designated lots and has apparently been the chief problem in learning where to park. This is what resulted in a rash of parking citations being served on Sept. 20.

Here's what is being done:

-Color coded markers will be put up on either end of each lot designating where one parking area ends and another begins. Each area will have a 4-inch colored band surrounding it.

-New signs will be put up reading:
Parking in Lots Only, All Roads are Fire Lanes and No Parking in Fire Lanes.

-There will be a one-week (through Sept. 30) moratorium on tickets.

-Existing parking tickets related to judgment errors in the lots only (does not apply to parking in fire lanes or no-decal tickets) can be voided at Public Safety.

- There will be more signs on cam-

The Sept. 22 symposium was held at OU and was closed to the public.

In addition to President O'Dowd, participants included: Ms. Luci Switzer, managing editor, College and University Business; Dr. S. Olof Karlstrom, vice president, Genessee Community College; Dr. Neil S. Bucklew, vice provost, Central Michigan University; Ray A. Howe, executive assistant to the superintendent for staff relations, Dearborn Public Schools and Dr. Thomas Emmet, assistant to the president, Regis College.

The education panel members were familiar with collective bargaining procedures and problems and represent institutions or school systems which have unionized employees, either in the trades or professional ranks, or both.

pus alerting drivers that the gates close at 7 p.m.

-Parking in the NE Varner lot will be especially for students with instruments who need to get into the building.

Senior Seminar

All seniors who will graduate in Dec. 1972, April, June or Aug. 1973, should plan to attend the Senior Placement Seminar to be held in the Varner Recital Hall on the following dates:

Tues., Sept. 26 - 4 p.m.
(all majors except those who will be earning a teaching certificate).

Thurs., Sept. 28 - 4 p.m.
(education majors).

Persons unable to attend the Tuesday meeting may attend the Thursday meeting.

ADA Presents "Spoon River Anthology"

A unique showcase production will mark the opening of the new play season for OU's Academy of Dramatic Art.

For the first time in its five-year history the Academy will welcome back five recent graduates to star in a production especially selected to display their many talents.

Edgar Lee Masters' loving American folk poem, "Spoon River Anthology" with its 60-odd characterizations and vignettes, has been chosen for presentation Sept. 28, 29, 30 and Oct. 1 in the Academy's Studio Theatre, Varner Hall.

The five members of the cast are David Kroll, Bloomfield Hills; Demene Hall, Saginaw; Julian Bailey, Newtown, Pa.; and Wynne and Paul Haas, Minneapolis, Minn.

Since her graduation last May, Demene Hall has appeared in an industrial film and been featured in a full-length science fiction movie.

The Haases, the only married couple in last year's Studio Company, were at Timberlake Playhouse, Mount Carroll, Ill., during the summer. Wynne played a number of major roles, and Paul was production stage manager and performed in several productions.

Also professionally employed since his Academy graduation was Julian Bailey. He was a member of the company at Hope College Summer Theatre, Holland, Mich.

"Spoon River Anthology" offers these young actors the opportunity to run the full gamut of emotion as they portray ghosts of late inhabitants of "Spoon River" who return to the town to reveal secrets they have taken to the grave.

The actors will be featured in an amazingly varied array of roles from young lovers, shopkeepers, preachers and teachers to the poor mixed-up Jew who ends up in the wrong cemetery.

Curtain time will be 8:15 p.m. Sept. 28, 29, 30 and 6:30 p.m. Oct. 1.

Ticket prices will remain the same this year, $2 for general admission, $1 for students of any school, college or university in the area.

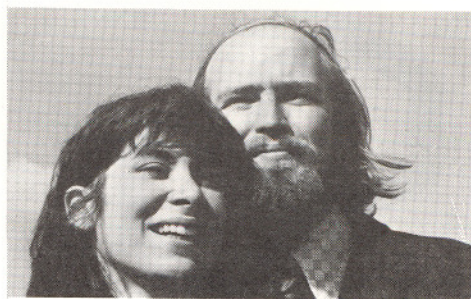

Theatre parties can be arranged for school groups and community organizations by calling the Studio Theatre Box Office, 377-3015. With every 25 students, a chaperone is admitted free.

After the Academy's opening production, this year's new Studio Company will begin rehearsals for its own initial offering. It will be the Russian comedy, "The Diary of A Scoundrel" by Alexandre Ostrovsky set to play three weekends, two in November and one in December, in the Studio Theatre.

The Company's traditional Shakespeare production will be "The Winter's Tale" to be staged in late January and early February.

Long-Awaited Diplomas Will Soon Be In Mail To OU Graduates

Those long-awaited diplomas will soon be in the mail for May and June graduates, according to Registrar Lowell Ruggles.

Printing of the diplomas has been delayed by a summer-long strike at the Skokie, Ill., plant of the Welch Scientific Company. The job has now been transferred to the company's Kansas City branch and should be completed soon.

Ruggles also announced that secondary education teaching certificates will soon be mailed to recipients. This delay has been caused in Lansing where staff shortages and vacation absences have delayed printing of the certificates.

ART GALLERY Cont. from pg. 1

The aim of the exhibition is to present the emergence of new approaches in the use of the latest materials and technology in recent sculptures. A total of thirty pieces from sixteen Detroit collections includes "The Wandering Rocks" by Tony Smith, kinetic sculpture by Takis and Vardanega, hanging sculptures by George Rickey and Alexander Calder, and "Constellation" by a relatively unknown European artist, Hans Uhlmann.

This exhibition is sponsored by Oakland University Gallery Associates.

The gallery will be open Tuesday through Friday, 1 to 5 p.m., Saturday and Sunday, 1 to 6 p.m., and one hour prior to each performance of the Meadow Brook Theatre.

Paper Recycling Plan Needs Participants

A notable exception-papers pile up in News Services to be clipped and recycled.

During the past year, the recycling paper program sponsored by the Office for Student Organizations has received, with a few notable exceptions, a lukewarm response from the members of the Oakland community. Although the number of participants in the program is not as high as hoped, the program itself has proved to be workable. The basic guidelines for recycling materials are as follows:

1. All memos, handouts and miscellaneous materials should be recycled once the semester or the specific event has passed.
2. No personal memos and/or letters should be recycled.
3. All recycled memos, handouts and other materials should have "Recycled Paper" printed at the upper right hand corner of the side of the paper which is to be read.

Siegel, Kieve M., Adjunct Professor of Engineering;

Tenorio, Sue C., Visiting Assistant Professor of Education;

Vosgerchian, Mary Ann, Instructor in Learning Skills;

Weinberg, David R., Instructor in Learning Skills;

Yntema, Theodore O., Adjunct Professor of Economics and Management;

Zepelin, Harold, Assistant Professor of Psychology.

12-month appointments:

Bullock, James H., Assistant Professor of Learning Skills and Assistant Provost;

Dickerson, Bernadette, Special Instructor in Learning Skills and Director, Career Opportunities Program (COP);

Jones, William H., Adjunct Assistant Professor of Education;

Meade, Kenneth Arthur, Adjunct Professor of Engineering;

Sparks, S. Rita, Instructor in the Library.

Julian Cook Speaks At OU

Pontiac attorney Julian Cook will visit OU at 2:30 p.m., Sept. 27, to address students of the Community Service Program in the Gold Room, Oakland Center, on "Community Non-Involvement Syndrome."

Cook, a Georgetown University graduate, has a vast and varied background in working with state and local social and community service agencies.

Some of Cook's activities include board membership with the Michigan United Fund, the Michigan Children's Aid Society, Inc. (both state and county levels), Camp Oakland, Inc., and the Pontiac Neighborhood Service, Inc.

Aside from his professional affiliations, Mr. Cook has been involved in the Michigan Civil Rights Commission in which he has held three administrative positions including president. He is also a past president of the Pontiac Area Urban League.

A New Idea-Teachers Certified On Performance, Not Courses

"Performance-Based Teacher Certification and Evaluation," a new program which would certify teachers on the basis of classroom performance rather than on the basis of courses passed, will be the topic of a Sept. 25 symposium at OU.

The 4:00 p.m. program in room 201 Dodge Hall is open to the public. The symposium is sponsored by the University's School of Education.

Performance-based certification is being considered in Michigan. It will be discussed by Dr. Ed Pfau, Director of the Michigan Teacher Education and Certification Division in Lansing. Other panel participants will be public school administrators and teachers, and OU students and faculty.
