To Provide Facilities at Wurtsmith, Kinross and Sawyer Bases

CINCINNATI (AP) — The U.S. Air Force has released approximately $73,346,000 of construction funds for three bases in Michigan, it was announced today.

Col. Joseph Friedlander Jr., Air Force installations representative for the Ohio River region, announced release of the money.

Wurtsmith Air Force Base, Oscoda, will get about $22,349,000 for the following: A new 11,800-foot runway, new supporting aprons and taxiways, aviation jet fuel facilities, maintenance hangar docks, and supporting utilities. The work will extend into the winter of 1959, Col. Friedlander said.

The K. I. Sawyer Airport, Marquette, will get approximately $27,235,000 to be used for the following: An extension increasing the total length of the existing runway to 12,300 feet, supporting aprons and taxiways, aviation jet fuel facilities, two dormitories, each housing 400 men; an airmen dining hall, a 48-man bachelor officers' quarters, maintenance hangar docks and supporting utilities.

Happy Youngster Keeps 3 Sharks in His Bathtub

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Victor Balibrera, 8, has never been happier. He has three sharks in his bathtub.

Victor caught a 30-inch sand shark alive off the Ft. Mason pier Monday and persuaded his father Joseph, a carpenter, to let him take it home along with some sea water.

The shark died that night, but not until it had given birth to three babies.

Victor says Poky, Tarzan and Skipper are doing fine on a diet of bread crumbs. After they get "a little bigger and stronger" he plans to give them to Steinhart Aquarium.

Youth Held in Auburn Heights Blast

Homes Rock, None Hurt

An Auburn Heights neighborhood was rocked last night by a blast from a stick of dynamite tossed between two houses. Police here are holding a 17-year-old Warren suspect.

Nine members of two families escaped injury as the blast shattered windows, tore off asbestos siding, damaged roofs and sent window shades crashing to floors.

Oakland County sheriff's deputies estimated the damage at about $3,000.

The dynamite exploded alongside the basement home of Ronald MacDonald, 3389 Eastwood St., splintering wood beams on the edge of the roof and shattering two windows.

The home of Harold Snyder, 3397 Eastwood, next door, also was damaged. Pictures and other wall hangings crashed to the floor. Shades were torn from windows.

MacDonald's son, Bill, said he heard a car pull up around 11 p.m. He went out to see who it was.

SAW FUSE LIT

He saw a male figure lighting a fuse on something, he said, and yelled. The culprit was trying to throw the dynamite under MacDonald's car, he said.

Startled, the vandal tossed the sputtering stick next to the house, ran to his auto and sped away, the youth said.

Two hours later, Lloyd Jaynes, 17, who lived with his father at 4550 Twelve Mile Rd., Warren, was picked up by Center Line State Police and turned over to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

In a statement to deputies, Jayne first admitted he had been "out driving around" and then denied he had left the house.

LIVED WITH MacDONALDS

He had been living with MacDonald after a difference with his parents, it was reported. The MacDonalds had told him he would have to leave recently, said deputies.

Since then, they reported, Jayne had been carrying on a running feud with the MacDonald family.

MacDonald and the neighbors said someone had tried to dynamite them about a month ago but the fuse, dampened by snow on the ground went out before touching off the dynamite.

MacDonald, his wife, and their three children were in the house at the time of the blast. Snyder, his wife, and their two youngsters were at home next door.

Will Restore Funds for MSU Oakland

The Senate will restore the $100,000 asked by Michigan State University to open its Oakland Branch which the Senate Appropriations Committee had eliminated.

Oakland County Sen. L. Harvey Lodge told The Pontiac Press today he had secured agreement among Senate Republican leaders Frank Beedle and Elmer Porter to restore the committee cut.

As reported by the committee, the bill would have postponed the branch opening by at least one year, according to Dr. D. B. Varner, MSU vice president.

Dr. Varner commented that the university had asked for $200,000 to hire faculty, start a library, print a catalog and hire someone to head the branch.

The governor cut this to $100,-

Due to Cloud Over, Light Snow Likely

Considerable cloudiness is forecast for the Pontiac area with little change in temperature tonight and tomorrow. A few light snow flurries are likely.

Tonight's low will be near 27 degrees and the high tomorrow will reach around 43.

For the next five days, temperatures will average near the normal maximum 46 and the normal minimum 29. Temperatures will become colder over the weekend with precipitation totaling around one-third of an inch as rain or snow Saturday or Sunday and possible snow flurries Monday.

The lowest thermometer reading preceding 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac was 27 degrees. The mercury rose to 47 at 2 p.m.

Rep. Broomfield Reports $90,112 Available Soon

Additional $1,600,000 to Augment Study Fund When Plans Jell

A federal agency in Washington has approved a $90,112 grant for advance planning of Pontiac's first urban renewal project, Rep. William S. Broomfield (R-Royal Oak) disclosed today.

Broomfield said he had been informed that additional funds amounting to about $1,600,000 have been set aside by the federal government for future financing of the renewal project.

The Oakland County Congressman said he had received word of the success of Pontiac's bid for federal aid from R. L. Steiner, commissioner in charge of the Federal Housing and Home Financing Agency.

The study funds should be available soon, Broomfield said.

The city has asked for the money to get started on detailed planning for renewal of a 155-acre area in the south central portion of the city.

The whole project would cost about $4 million, but the net expense is figured at about $2.5 million of which the federal government would pay about two-thirds.

City officials have yet to receive official word from Washington. They were unofficially advised by Urban Renewal Administration officials in Chicago two months ago

Section of Artery Replaced

Patient in Good Condition After Televised Surgery

DETROIT (AP) — Carl Miltenberger was reported in good condition today after a section of main artery was replaced by doctors before a regional television audience last night.

Dr. George W. Slagle of Battle Creek, president of the Michigan Medical Society, said purpose of the telecast was "to inform the public and thus eliminate much of the fear that is connected with major surgery."

Miltenberger's condition was described as good immediately after the operation, and a spokesman for the Wayne County Med-

Lenten Meditations

By ROBERT L. DIEFFENBACHER, D.D.

Hundreds of people followed Jesus during His last weeks of ministry. All that we know from the Bible about most of these folks is that they accepted his popularity as a speaker and as a performer of miracles.

We have records of only a few who actually changed their lives and became His advocates.

When Jesus was put under pressure by the leaders of the church and of the political groups of His day, His followers deserted Him.

As we look back on the first Lenten period, we are critical of the fickleness of the multitudes.

Are we any less fickle? Do we witness for Christ when our neighbors make light of religion?

Do we defend the Master against those who take the name of the Lord in vain? Do we rebuke our indifferent friends for their thoughtlessness, their selfishness and their lack of sincerity?

Pretty Girls and Taxes

Ah, Sweet Joys of Spring!

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS

Somewhere in America at 10:06 p.m. (EST) tomorrow, there will be a blinding snowstorm, because that's when Spring arrives.

It always happens, and there is hardly anything more predictable than the events that are bound to occur during the 92 days, 18 hours and 51 minutes it takes the earth to get from vernal equinox to summer solstice this year.

On the first day of Spring, for instance, a photographer will come upon a snowbound motorist, ignore his pleas for help and snap his picture, which will appear in newspapers with a caption asking: "This is Spring?"

Elsewhere, though, the weather will be truly spring-like and a photographer will find a girl on her way to, and a young man on his way back from, lunch.

The photographer will ignore the girl's shyness and the young man's pleas for help, and will pose them holding hands on a park bench. The picture will be captioned, "This is Spring!" and the young man will get a black eye from his wife when she sees it.

This Spring's Easter paraders will include several couples sporting "his" and "hers" attire, which is to say the woman's dress will have the sack look and the man's suit the baggy look.

What does the coming Spring mean?

On approximately April 10, a 19-year-old bachelor will stand on a street-corner devouring so many passing girls with his eyes that he will require the services of a stomach pump.

The deadline for paying income taxes will arrive on April 15. A midwestern breadwinner will be in such a hurry to obey the law that he will mail the Internal Revenue Service his wife's shopping list.

The formerly Brooklyn Dodgers will play their first game in Los Angeles on April 18. At dawn, several thousand fans will already be in line waiting to buy bleacher seats. Reporters will interview the first man in line and learn that his home town is Brooklyn, N. Y.

In New York's Union Square, on May 1, 25 persons will show up to watch the Communists' May Day Parade. All 25 will be FBI agents assigned to find out who's watching the Communists' May Day Parade.

Mother's Day will be celebrated on May 11. In honor of the occasion, dad will tell mom, "For a change, YOU wash the dishes."

Father's Day will be celebrated on June 15. In honor of the occasion, mom will tell dad, "For a change, get those dishes done early."

But, first, it will be Spring — and it has been a hard Winter.

UAW Seeking Defense Work

Reuther Tells McElroy to Award Contracts to Ease Unemployment

DETROIT (UP) — Walter Reuther has called on the Defense Department to place 332 million dollars in contracts to ease unemployment in the auto industry.

The United Auto Workers president made the proposal in a telegram to Defense Secretary McElroy yesterday.

Reuther said the contracts, for support and combat vehicles, have been authorized but not yet placed. He said the figure was based on statistics contained in a letter from McElroy to President Eisenhower March 12.

The UAW chief also proposed a five-point program under which he said the defense department could create jobs.

The plans called for creation of "task forces" to speed up the letting of defense contracts in basic industries and expedite placement in high unemployment areas.

★ ★ ★

Know the Weather

By E. H. SIMS

What actually happens on March 20th — the day that Spring arrives?

The sun shines exactly half of the 24-hour day and the other half is night. Generally speaking, on that day the earth's axis is perpendicular to the plane of the earth's orbit.

The tilt of the earth, moving from one area to another, is caught when the earth's axis stands perpendicular to the plane of its orbit around the sun — and if the earth did not lean, or tilt, then there would be no seasons. Night and day would be of equal length and our weather would be affected.

Winters would not be as cold and summer not as hot, if indeed there was much of what we know as seasonal weather at all.

Cool Weather Stays as Winter Prepares Exit

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today was the last full day of the winter season and except in some Southern areas generally cool weather prevailed in most of the country. The spring season officially starts tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

However, there was some relief from the persistent wet weather across the country. Rain and snow diminished during the night in many areas, although there were still several wet spots.

★ ★ ★

Molotov Object of Critic's Blast in Mongolia

MOSCOW (UP) — Ousted Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov was denounced yesterday in Outer Mongolia where he now is serving as the Soviet ambassador. A visiting official from Moscow did the denouncing.

★ ★ ★

Soviet press reports said Nikolai G. Ignatov, who vaulted to membership in the Soviet Union's ruling party Presidium after Molotov's ouster from the government last June, made the blast in a speech before the 13th Congress of the outer Mongolian Communist party in Ulan Bator.

★ ★ ★

Ignatov did not single Molotov out for a specific denunciation, but repeatedly blasted the purged group of Molotov, Georgi Malenkov and L. M. Kaganovich for anti-Leninist and antiparty activities.

The press reports did not say whether Molotov was in the audience.

"Now," he said, "the committee has eliminated that money altogether and does not give any authorization for a branch at all."

Dr. Varner said that the money bill did grant the University of Michigan authority to establish its Dearborn Center branch, although no specific appropriation was made for the center.

LOWER ENROLLMENT

The Senate bill, which lops $13 million from Gov. Williams' request, would, according to Dr. Clarence Hilberry, Wayne State University president, speaking for the Council of State College Presidents:

"Bar increases in undergraduate enrollments at any state school, with reductions in some cases; cause the abandonment of many established programs; reduce faculties and possibly cause salary reductions."

The University of Michigan alone would have to pare 175 instructors and research personnel, he said.

Dr. John A. Hannah, MSU president, said the bill "fails to give us money to operate new buildings which are not included in this year's budget. There is no way to absorb these costs without seriously cutting back our educational programs."

Pontiac Safety Boy Wins Gold Medal for Heroism

February 25, two Pontiac detectives, Herbert Cooley and James Bale, saw Jimmie race into the street and pull a little girl back to the curb and out of the path of an oncoming car.

The girl, who apparently had become confused about the corner traffic light and had darted into the street against the red signal, was Kay Liechty, 6, of 67 Sheridan St.

Jimmie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Gaylord, 124 Edison St., received the gold lifesaving medal and an award of merit from the Automobile Club of Michigan.

A three-day trip to Washington, D. C., in May will also be given to Jimmie by the Auto Club.

Two Local Employes Win in GM Contest

Two employes of GMC Truck and Coach Division in Pontiac have placed among the 45 top winners in the General Motors half-million dollar letter writing contest, the corporation disclosed today.

Mrs. Elizabeth J. Newman, of 28 Oriole Rd., and Taylor C. Phillips, 535 Stirling Ave., are the local winners in the 50th anniversary contest.

They and the other winners were chosen from 284,575 entries received from the corporation's employes throughout the country on the subject: "The Golden Milestone—What it means to me, my family and my community."

Their prizes will be announced March 27 at an awards banquet in Detroit for the finalists. They could win a $35,000 home, $15,000 in GM stock, $10,000 in GM stock or one of 42 new automobiles.

All winners will also receive cash to assist in paying the income taxes on their prizes.

Mrs. Newman, secretary to Donald W. Neal, production engineer, wrote that GM had made many of her childhood dreams come true.

The fantasies she had at 10 of a life of security and ease had been made possible through her employment at the corporation and through GM's contribution to the nation's economy.

"For me, my dreams have been fulfilled far beyond my expectations. For my family, I am sure that they too have had their dreams realized through the highest standard of living they have ever known . . ."

"For my community, it owes the greater part of its very existence to General Motors."

Phillips, a 10 year employe, wrote of the progress his family and his community have made during the period he has worked for GM.

He defined the community in terms of its people and showed how the few he personally knows have improved their lot through direct or indirect contributions from the corporation.

He concluded: "What can I say. That GM does not give to us jobs and our pay that result in this final sense of security? We work and we earn the things we live for, but General Motors helps make it possible.

"That through GM's continued progress and expansion our opportunities for attaining the things that make for happiness and success increase accordingly."

U.S., State, Local Funds Urged for Construction, Electrification Projects

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower today called for an antirecession speedup in the spending of 24 billion dollars in federal, state and local funds for construction and rural electrification projects.

The President set forth the program in letters to Albert M. Cole, chief of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, and Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

The plan calls for faster spending of $1,248,000,000 in federal money and $1,007,000,000 in state, local and private money.

For public facility loans for such things as sewers and municipal water projects, 75 million dollars.

For college housing loans, 300 million.

For public housing, 140 million.

For rural electrification loans, 740 million.

In advance of the White House announcement, Sen. Byrd (D-Va) joined Republicans in stiffened opposition to immediate tax cuts or "make-work" spending.

Some GOP congressmen were saying the recession already is leveling off.

ARE YOU ONE?

Are you one that aided in providing the chief support during the year of a closely related individual, such as your mother? Perhaps you, your brother and a sister, contributed $300 each towards your mother's support —and she had less than $600 gross income.

None of you have provided over half the support individually — but over half of her support has been contributed collectively. Since your mother would have qualified as a dependent if you had individually furnished over half of her support, and you individually met the requirements of contributing in excess of 10 per cent of her total support and if the other contributing members of your family make a declaration on Form 2120 that they will not claim your mother as a dependent for the year—you may claim her.

Under this law, the law of multiple support, any closely related person so supported could qualify as your dependent, providing they have less than $600 gross income.

Unveils 'Flying Saucer' for Air Defense Duty

Termed the "strangest shape in the sky," the discus-shaped saucer rides piggy-back on a huge radar research plane and is a sky sentinel that can detect and warn of enemy attack over vast distances.

The Radar Flying Saucer — the name the Navy gave it — is expected to bolster greatly the perimeter of America's air defense.

The disc can report on objects in the sky from sea level to 100,000 feet altitudes.

Post Office Dept. Seeks Cole-Commerce Station

BIRMINGHAM — A proposal by the Post Office Department for the construction of a combination parcel post unit and service station at the corner of Cole and Commerce Sts. is being studied by Birmingham city officials.

The department doesn't intend to construct a government - owned building on the site, a Post Office spokesman said. Rather, the Post Office plans to acquire a long-term option of the site and to design a building to be occupied on a long - term lease basis.

This procedure would permit the property to remain on local tax roles, it was pointed out.

Last week, the Steel Door Corp., which owns almost three acres in the Cole - Commerce St. area, appealed to the city to take back from the corporation a deed to its portion of land on Cole street east of Commerce.

★ ★ ★

Glenn Berry, president of the corporation, said his firm has had difficulty in selling the parcel as a whole. His firm feels that city development of Cole street would make the smaller parcels more attractive to purchasers, he said.

City Manager L. R. Gare and City Engineer Grover Serenbetz are preparing a report on whether it would be advisable for the city to take the land back.

After a year of preliminary work, the Oakland County Chapter of the Michigan Society for Mental Health has been formed. It will work closely with the state group for the better treatment of mental illnesses.

Officers of the new group include Mrs. J. S. Couzens of Orchard Lake, Fred Thompson of Birmingham and Mrs. Edward Laird of Birmingham.

The group will meet monthly to discuss plans for assisting the program on the local level, Mrs. Laird said.

During Mental Health Week, April 27 - May 3, special effort will be made to increase public knowledge of mental illness, she said.

Valleywood School, newest in the Birmingham school system, has announced the formation of Scout Troop B15, sponsored by the school's PTA.

Scouts will meet three Thursday evenings a month in the school auditorium.

Outside activities will be scheduled for the fourth meeting.

Mrs. Clarence E. Knorpp

Service for Mrs. Clarence E. (Grace) Knorpp, 63, of 5440 Lane Lake, Bloomfield Township, will be held at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow in the William Vasu Funeral Home, Royal Oak, and at 10 a.m. in Holy Name Church, Birmingham. Burial will be in White Chapel Cemetery.

She died Sunday at her home.

The Rosary will be recited at 7:30 this evening at the funeral home.

Surviving are her husband, Clarence; a daughter, Mrs. Thomas Geiger, and four sisters, Mrs. Aileen Besancon, Mrs. Mary Cook, Mrs. Olive Gibson and Mrs. Florine Hennessy, all of Detroit.

Building Industry Buys More Steel

NEW YORK (UP) — One big steel marketing area—construction—is beginning to show signs of life, Iron Age, national metalworking weekly, said today.

★ ★ ★

"Reports from more than one steelmaking district," the publication said, "indicate that the products that go into construction—heavy plate and structurals—are looking up.

★ ★ ★

"These products are being turned out at depressed levels, but definite gains are looked for in the second quarter."

★ ★ ★

The publication said there was no help in sight from the automotive industry. Steel salesmen in Detroit are beginning to discount speculation that the automakers might stock up on cars in anticipation of a possible strike this summer.

No Space Men Found in Search for 'Beep Beeps'

It could be anything from the nearness of spring to men from outer space, thought Oakland County sheriff's deputies as they hurried to answer a call Tuesday night.

★ ★ ★

An Addison Township woman had called the sheriff's department complaining that she heard "beep beeps" and didn't know where they were coming from.

After combing the area for any signs of fallen satellites or unusual space craft, the deputies stumbled across the strange beeper.

A micro-wave telemetering relay tower nearby seemed to be the culprit. The sounds, they said, were most likely coming from an oscillator or reflectors on the tower.

After Tasting Russian Vodka

Hope Explains Sputniks

(Comedian Bob Hope, in Moscow to premiere his latest movie, "Paris Holiday," is writing his light-hearted observations of the Soviet scene exclusively for INS and The Pontiac Press.)

By BOB HOPE

MOSCOW (INS) — I just had my first drink of real Russian vodka. Now I know why they got their Sputniks up first. I'm surprised the whole country didn't go straight up years ago.

They tell me Russia is getting ready to launch several more Sputniks. Of course, we are, too. Pretty soon there will be so many Sputniks up there John Foster Dulles will have to travel by bus.

I can see why Russia is making so much progress in the space race. They have a very efficient system. If the Sputnik doesn't go up, they launch the scientist who designed it.

★ ★ ★

Rock 'n' roll is big over here. You haven't lived until you've heard "Honeycomb" sung by the Nishny - Novgorod Crewcuts. And Elvis records are popular. They are on the "Filthy Capitalist" label.

Television here is really primitive. Imagine these people have never seen my show. Sometimes I get the same feeling in the states.

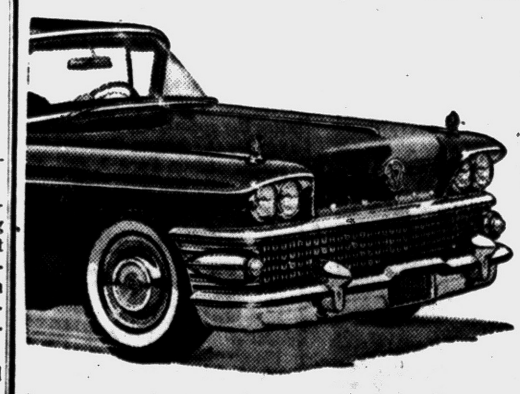

The legitimate theater hardly exists here. I learned this today when I got in a long line which I thought led to the boxoffice of "My Fair Lady" and wound up at Lenin's tomb. Stalin also is there. It wasn't a bad show, but what do they do for an encore?

As far as art goes, they have some beautiful galleries here but subway trains run right through them. Of course, in our subways in America we occasionally find pictures on the wall, too, but guards usually scrub them off.

★ ★ ★

WONDERFUL RESULTS REPORTED BY O-JIB-WA USER
"Because of the benefits I, as well as many of my friends have received from O-JIB-WA BITTERS, we have great faith in this wonderful medicine" says Mrs. Rene Russell, 31660 Five Mile Road, Livonia, Michigan.

"I first used O-JIB-WA BITTERS about six years ago, after reading a testimonial such as this. I had suffered with arthritis pains in my arm and shoulder for a long time, and the first bottle of medicine took care of that. What really amazed me though, was that my nerves were more relaxed and my stomach wasn't upset anymore. I had been bothered with gas, indigestion and sour stomach for several years and O-JIB-WA seemed to do my stomach a world of good. My husband was also bothered with arthritis pains, and it helped him too. I have a friend that teaches school, and a short while ago, she was so crippled with rheumatism and arthritis that she needed to hold onto a chair to walk. She used O-JIB-WA BITTERS and now is teaching school again and getting around fine. Truly, O-JIB-WA BITTERS is worthy of a trial by anyone suffering with rheumatism, arthritis, stomach trouble or upset nerves."

ROAD GARAGE — Here's the latest addition to the new Oakland County Road Commission headquarters on Pontiac road off M58. This is the huge new garage that will help house the commission's vast fleet of rolling equipment. Containing almost 29,000 square feet (without any central pillars to hold up the roof), the garage is similar to another one opened last summer, and finishes the building program at the new terminal. Standing at the right of the picture are (left to right): Commissioner Lee O. Brooks; Paul Van Roekel, county highway engineer, and Sol Lomerson, commission chairman.

Sees No Raise in Bridge Tolls

Brown Says Mackinac Span Traffic as Heavy as Expected

ST. IGNACE (UP) — Prentiss M. Brown, chairman of the Mackinac Bridge Authority, said today there is no prospect that tolls on the new bridge over the straits will be increased.

In fact, Brown said, "the tolls may be decreased when we make our first refinancing in about four years."

Brown made the statement in commenting on a speech made in Escanaba yesterday by John J. Mitchell, auditor for an Escanaba industrial firm.

Mitchell told a luncheon club meeting that bridge traffic is running behind predictions and that tolls should be raised from $3.25 to $7.74 per car.

The 100 million dollar span was opened to traffic last Nov. 1, replacing ferries.

Voicing "very great disagreement" with Mitchell's conclusions, Brown said that he did not know if Mitchell had ever visited the bridge authority offices. He suggested that Mitchell "Come to see us before jumping off the deep end as he apparently has."

'Electronic Policemen' End School Vandalism

Police Chief Westervelt Demarest and Board of Education members announced that the use of sensitive microphones in closed schools has cut the cost of vandalism from $50,000 three yars ago to nothing.

Japan's population increased by 1,100,000 in 15 months to reach 91,000,000 on Oct. 1, 1957.

Unveils True Role in U. S. Court

Communist Party Member Really an FBI Agent

BOSTON (INS) — A wartime military intelligence agent has revealed that he has been an undercover FBI agent inside the Communist Party in Massachusetts for the past eight years.

He is Armando Penha, 37, of Fairhaven, who until yesterday was a trusted worker in the Communist underground.

He unveiled his true role on the witness stand in a U.S. District Courtroom at the Federal Building, before the Congressional House Committee on un-American activities, opening a four-day hearing into Communist activities in New England.

Listening to his surprising testimony were at least 15 persons who have been subpoenaed to testify before the committee after he concludes. Most have been labelled "uncooperative", and some are suspected or acknowledged Communists. A total of 40 witnesses will be heard during the hearings.

Penha said he volunteered to join the Communists in 1950, to help the country. He said he took an industrial job at a sacrifice of $45 to $50 a week, and he was also forced to give up attendance at church.

He lauded his wife for her support during the years of his dual role, and he paid warm tribute to Msgr. Walter Furlong of Newton for his spiritual guidance.

Testifying almost without interruption for more than two hours, he made these principal points:

The Communist Party in the United States "is much stronger today than it ever has been."

There is no doubt in his mind that the Communist apparatus includes the presence of agents of the Soviet Union on American soil.

The Communist Party will never be able to convert the American public at large to its beliefs. It knows it must use the tools handed down by Lenin — force and violence.

He has personally been in contact with 60 to 65 per cent of the Communist membership in New England, or about 315 persons.

The Communist Party maintains "section committees" in Fall River, Springfield, Lawrence, New Bedford and Providence, with "several" in greater Boston.

When he joined the New Bedford section committee, it was composed of seven or eight members, and there are about 10 party members for each section committee member.

For every party member, there exists a minimum of 10 Communist sympathizers, who in turn influence other persons.

Penha, short and dapper, named 24 persons who he said were members of section committees in New Bedford, Fall River, Providence and Boston.

He disclosed that he remained a trusted party worked to the finish and only a few days ago was entrusted with the task of assisting some of those who had been subpoenaed to testify at the hearings starting today.

Penha gave a total of 32 names of "hard core" Communist Party members, who he said he met while secretly reporting to the FBI.

The witness dramatically described his struggle to keep his family and his spiritual life somewhere near normal during his eight years as a Communist Party member.

Penha was born in New Bedford in 1920, and at the age of 12 was taken to Portugal by his parents. The family returned to this country in 1940, and he entered the Army in 1942, serving in military intelligence for 32 months.

After the war, he became an insurance salesman. He volunteered his serrvices to the FBI after the most famous of the FBI's counterspies, Herbert Philbrick, of Melrose, revealed his role in a New York trial in 1949.

He joined the Communist Party "in behalf of the FBI" in 1950, and when party leaders ordered him to get into the industrial field, he resigned the insurance job for a lesser - paying post in industry. He said he is now "on leave" from the Acushnet Process Co., a large firm manufacturing rubber products.

Wood-using industries in the U.S. employ 1,517,000 full-time workers.

Strikes Pinch West Germany

Transport, Municipal Workers Walk Out for Higher Pay

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Public transport was halted in most of West Germany and in West Berlin today as some 250,000 municipal workers struck for 24 hours for higher pay. Garbage piled up and even public toilets were closed.

Only the port cities of Hamburg and Bremen and the industrial Saarland were unaffected by the stoppage, which forced millions of persons to walk to work as buses and street cars stood idle.

The strike was a manifestation of general dissatisfaction with wages which has been sweeping West German labor. Even more significant is a strike vote scheduled for tomorrow in the basic steel industry. A steelworkers' walkout would be the first in 30 years.

The municipal workers, whose hourly wage now averages between 42 and 44½ cents, are demanding an 8-cent increase. Management offered 6 cents. Adolf Kummernuss, president of the union, said the strike would be resumed Monday for an indefinite period "if the employers don't come around with an acceptable offer."

Gas and power plants were operating on skeleton staffs. It was expected that households would be amply supplied, but some big industries feared they would not get enough power.

Von Braun Talks About Vanguard

Doctor Enthralls Crowd

DALLAS (AP) — Dr. Wernher von Braun, the rocket genius, talked for nearly two hours last night and scarcely anybody even fidgeted.

He just pulled hundreds of scientists and engineers into his own orbit while telling them:

About "the eight most exciting minutes of my life, kind of desperate minutes" sweating out success of Explorer I Jan. 31.

That Vanguard, launched Monday, is an unprecedented feat in rocketry, since it started from scratch two years ago and building a new, untested, complicated rocket that fast is something "never, never done before."

That so many satellites are coming up that they'll have to be given different radio frequency voices to avoid a kind of spatia Tower of Babel.

In a news conference, Dr. von Braun added he thought humans would be orbiting around on satellites in two to five years.

The Soviets may launch another Sputnik any time, he added. But he thinks they used military rockets to get their first two up. Since then, the military may have taken possession of rockets produced, with the scientists waiting their turn again for rockets to launch Sputniks.

Addressing a conference sponsored by the American Rocket Society and American Society of Mechanical Engineers, Dr. von Braun gave a detailed history of Explorer I, launched by the Army.

Senator Fears Soo Bottleneck

Potter Calls for Funds to Rebuild Poe Lock to Avoid Seaway Block

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Potter (R-Mich) warned today Sault Ste. Marie Mich., might become a bottleneck for the St. Lawrence Seaway unless new lock facilities are constructed at the eastern end of Lake Superior.

He recommended congressional authorization of $38,700,000 in planning funds to rebuild the Poe Lock, one of four parallel locks at Sault Ste. Marie, so that it will be able to accommodate ocean-going vessels.

Potter, in a letter to Chairman Ellender (D-La) of the Senate Public Works Appropriation subcommittee requested appropriation this year of $350,000. The proposed project is not included in President Eisenhower's budget.

"Unless we move fast on another deep-draft lock," Potter told Ellander, "the Soo will become a bottleneck hampering full and profitable operation of the entire St. Lawrence Seaway."

Even if pre-construction funds are appropriated this year, he said, the new Poe Lock could not be completed before 1965. The seaway opens next year.

New York Expulsions Bring Normal Classes

New York schools report a more constructive and studious atmosphere since the system purged itself of several hundred undesirable juvenile delinquents.

★ ★ ★

This wholesale house cleaning followed many savage outbreaks in Brooklyn and Manhattan in which limb and property were endangered and threatened. The school system had been plagued with defiance and hostility on the part of a very small but very rebellious element.

★ ★ ★

All attempts at normal control and discipline had failed dismally and the trouble makers had the bit in their teeth. Finally, as the copy book says, "patience ceased to be a virtue." Whereupon, the New York schools summarily dismissed the whole kit and caboodle in one fell swoop. They really cleaned house. The malcontents were pitched out, instead of temporizing further with an open and running sore.

★ ★ ★

Results were gratifying.

Morale improved immediately.

Classrooms which had been scenes of disorder and unrest calmed down and went back to work. Other youngsters who had been ripe for rebellion became strangely cooperative. Education seems to be saved for the 99.9 per cent of New York children.

Our Future Stake in Air Travel

Last week representatives of Oakland, Wayne, Macomb and Washtenaw Counties, of Detroit, and of the state and federal aeronautical authorities, sat down together at the call of DELOS HAMLIN, Oakland County supervisors' chairman, to discuss the future of commercial aviation in this area.

★ ★ ★

The meeting was significant in that it brought together top officials of five governmental areas and aviation experts in an effort to work together on a mutual problem.

A look into the problem indicates the need for careful and immediate plannning for the future.

About two and a third million people (including a sizable contingent from Oakland County) flew in and out of this area in 1957. If we continue to enjoy the same ratio of air travel to the national total as in the past, the Detroit area traffic will go beyond six million by 1960, according to C. V. BURNETT, director of the Detroit Aviation Commission.

Airport facilities for this kind of volume do not exist in the metropolitan area; there is at present no unified plan which will surely provide them as needed.

Space for additional air terminals, for feeder air fields, and for major maintenance centers is fast disappearing.

If Southeastern Michigan is to hold its place in the growing world of air travel plans must be started now for future fields and all the necessary installations which come with them.

The problem is too big for one county or one community to tackle alone.

It is an area problem.

It must be solved on an area-wide basis.

Sudan Rebuffs Nasser

In a previous election this party was in the minority and had fewer than half the seats captured by the neutralist and pro-Egyptian Nationalists. The Unionist party which had a majority in the last election is now a small minority.

★ ★ ★

President Nasser of Egypt had tried to influence the election by sending troops into the disputed border areas. He thought by threatening the Sudanese a pro-Egyptian vote would result and annexation of the Sudan would follow. His show of power backfired. The election boiled down to the issue of "for the West or for Nasser and Communists."

★ ★ ★

The vote showed that many supporters of other parties switched to the Umma party as the champion of Sudanese independence. Premier KHALIL's large plurality should strengthen his pro-Western stand and lead to greater stability in that part of Africa.

The Man About Town

Fewer Post Offices

One Feature of Our County to Decrease With Its Age

Realist: The average between optimist and pessimist.

Although Oakland County has over fifteen times the population of 75 years ago, it now has far fewer post offices. This is on account of the RFD, and better transportation and roads.

Then it had 45 post offices. Now it has 33. Of that 45, only 24 now remain, the other 21 having been discontinued. These survivors have been augmented by nine new post offices, mostly in the southeast corner of the county, bringing the present number to 33.

Older residents will be interested in a list of the post offices in the county three-quarters of a century ago, when we had a little over 40,000 population.

They were Austin, Big Beaver, Birmingham, Brandon, Clarkston, Clyde, Commerce, Davisburgh, Drayton Plains, Farmington, Four Towns, Franklin, Groveland, Highland, Holly, Jersey, Kensington, Lakeville, Mahopac, Milford, New Hudson, North Farmington, Novi, Oak Hill, Oakland, Oakwood, Orion, Ortonville, Oxford, Pontiac, Rochester, Rose, Royal Oak, Southfield, South Lyon, Springfield, Spring Mills, Stony Run, Straits Lake, Thayer, Troy, Walled Lake, Waterford, West Novi and White Lake.

It is interesting to note that the only money order post offices in the county at that time were Pontiac, Holly, Milford and Clarkston.

You've noticed that a new automobile has a very distinctive smell. A Miami used car dealer, after giving a car all the paint, enamel and polish it will endure, sprays it inside and out with a solution that makes it smell like a job just off the assembly line.

MEMBER OF AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

"They Said I Can Have the Stamp!"

David Lawrence Says:

Figures Show Recession Is Local

WASHINGTON — Latest figures from the U.S. Department of Labor show that this isn't a national recession but that it is a local recession. For the vast majority of the labor areas of the country are operating under normal conditions and reveal relatively little unemployment.

LAWRENCE

Thus, for example, 149 major areas are surveyed every second month by the Department of Labor, and of these, 45 now are listed as having unemployment of 6 per cent or more. A year ago there were 19 areas in that category.

In addition, there are 89 smaller areas at present with 6 per cent or more unemployed, as contrasted with 57 of the same type a year ago.

What this means is that substantial unemployment can be localized on the map. It is not nationwide in the sense that it is affecting every city and town in the country. It is prevalent only in specific sections and particular industries.

While there are one or more unemployment areas in 27 different states, this is a normal situation in the sense that, with rare exceptions, since the close of World War II unemployment areas have dotted the nation every year, even when business and employment in other parts of the country have been described as booming and unemployment has been at a minimum.

It is significant that the Department of Labor surveys on unemployment reveal the heaviest layoffs to be in textiles, machinery and machine tools, metal-fabricating plants, automobile and parts manufacturing, aircraft, railroad equipment, and many related industries.

It has been argued that the automobile industry is the key to the present recession and that, once automobile buying is stimulated, there will be a revival in steel, coal, railroad freight and a variety of industries now adversely affected.

But it is interesting to note that preliminary surveys show that people plan to buy a record number of used cars in 1958. This might indicate that the prices of the new cars are just high enough to cause hesitation by many would-be buyers who are content for the present with used cars.

A reduction of the excise taxes on autos is being advocated as one way to bring auto prices down. This undoubtedly would stimulate some sales, but it would do little good if the automobile workers union were to threaten a strike this spring and force into effect a higher wage scale which would kill much of the advantage gained by the reduction of excise taxes.

For it wouldn't help matters any if the auto manufacturers had to raise their prices to offset wage increases. The automobile companies have said that they would pass on to the consumer any drop in excise taxes, but they must include in their prices any substantial increase in wage costs.

If ever there was a time for statesmanship in the labor unions, it is today when America has been struggling to absorb its highest price levels in history.

The cure for the recession does not lie in a general increase in purchasing power, which is bound to be small so far as the individual is concerned, but in helping the particular industries which now are suffering severely from unemployment.

Legislators on Capitol Hill are talking about anti-recession measures that could conceivably result in higher rather than lower prices of goods and actually diminish purchasing power.

While temporarily improving matters, these measures might bring within a few months the worst smash the American economy has ever experienced.

Caution in applying remedies for unemployment is more important right now than succumbing to panicky demands for broad reductions in taxes to millions of individuals who really do not need them. Savings have risen to new highs.

There is no dearth of total purchasing power. There is, of course, a noticeable fear and hesitation due to what is happening in a small number of labor areas. Once there are measures taken, however, to cure the illness of the heavy-goods industries, the national economy will again be on an even keel.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Ninnyhammers Take Note: Aspirin Is No Cure-All

From time to time I have said here that acetylsalicylic acid (aspirin) is the least dangerous painkiller we have. Least dangerous, I say, NOT safest. One authority (Bastedo) states:

DR. BRADY

"From aspirin, death has resulted from 0.3 and 0.7 Gm (5 and 10 grains), and 30 Gm. (1 oz.) have been recovered from."

(The construction is awkward, but we can understand what the author was trying to say.)

"From idiosyncrasy, there are many reports of feelings of weakness, collapse, angioneurotic swellings (giant hives) of face and throat, skin rashes, major urticaria (hives) and rarely death."

That's why I say that no one should take a dose of aspirin unless he or she can and does sit or lie quietly at rest for at least half an hour afterward.

To the best of my knowledge, aspirin doesn't cure anything.

★ ★ ★

If you take the stuff under the impression that it will cure your rheumatiz, "cold," lumbago, neuritis, neuralgia, bursitis or sinus trouble, you qualify for membership in the Ninnyhammers.

CASE IN POINT

A Nebraska reader says his wife has been feeding their son (now 15 and subnormal) aspirin from infancy, in steadily increasing quantity. She makes him take 6 to 10 aspirins every night at bedtime, and gives him a dose whenever he coughs or sneezes. The reader wonders whether this is in the nature of a drug habit.

The boy should be examined by a physician, who will advise whether he should have aspirin.

Many foolish people "take an aspirin" whenever they feel tired, anxious, restless, emotionally upset, worried, discouraged, annoyed, chilly, feverish, jittery, or "nervous." It's a morbid way of life.

People who "take an aspirin" and "feel better fast" are great gamblers. They generally refuse to consult a physician until the dope fails to right whatever is wrong, and by that time the trouble may have become chronic or worse.

'Even Tax Cut Is Useless Without Economic Control'

Of all the many suggestions to correct economic conditions, a moratorium on all personal income tax and refund of all payments for 1957 would be the best. But even this is valueless if there's no planned economy. Prices and wages must be frozen or controlled or in a few years we'll be back in the same condition. Also, all employed people should be limited to 40 hours a week as long as there's a labor surplus. There are still many working 50 and 60 hours while unemployed lines get longer.

Opinions Differ About Editorial

The Pontiac Press editorial on the infamous Leopold parole has been the most cogent and incisive comment printed anywhere.

★ ★ ★

There's no discrepancy in letters from Christian and Rev. Swan. Each man sees Leopold through his own eyes. Leopold knows his weakness. In isolating himself and using his skills to benefit underprivileged he can atone in this life for the deed he cannot dare to mention.

Rev. Swan doesn't condone the deed. He deplores the "spirit of get even" in the same manner Christ forgave Magdalene. Only fellow prisoners gained by Leopold's skills in prison. Now underprivileged Puerto Ricans will gain. His nauseating journey from prison shows the emotional agony he's suffered. Let him go in peace.

Our peripatetic reporter's editorial, "Parole of Nathan Leopold Makes Mockery of Justice," reminds me of one being on a verbal binge.

When the peripatetic reporter's heart bleeds for Bobby Franks, it's just a smug way of stabbing an outstanding Democrat in the back, that is, Adlai Stevenson.

While I agree that death would have been an equitable solution, why the concern about this particular murder in Illinois? Michigan coddles and supports murderers of all types. Why not advocate capital punishment in our own state? Perhaps 37 years ago psychiatrists weren't in vogue, who in Leopold's case, would have set him free because of one complex or another. I could fill your columns more adequately and sensibly, if I owned The Pontiac Press, that is.

Dog Problem Is Worry to Mother

The dog problem is so bad I wake up early Saturday mornings worrying about our little girl wanting to play outside.

Dogs are so thick, I may be taking a chance by letting her go out. The other day she said a dog tried to bite her, and I noticed saliva on her coat sleeve where the dog's mouth had been. It's lucky she had on a thick coat. I called the Dog Warden but he hasn't acknowledge my call.

What are we going to do — wait until one of our children is bitten and then have to watch them take those painful Rabies shots before we can get some protection?

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Warn Children Against Molesters

Don was innocently being led into a dangerous sex trap. But he never suspected what was happening for nobody had ever discussed such matters with him. He had been on guard against designing females but not cultured men. So follow the Saginaw technique and warn your children about child molesters. Use the "case method", too, as outlined below.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

"Dr. Crane, I have a real problem," he began.

"My English prof is a handsome young man and a fine teacher. And I felt fortunate when he took a special interest in me.

CRANE

"He complimented my themes and even invited me to go to the opera with him.

"Then he asked me to go with him on auto trips in the country. And he let me drive his new car.

"It never dawned on me that he might be one of those fellows they call homosexuals. But now I am sure of that fact.

"What can I DO and why do people get that way in the first place?"

CHILDREN MOLESTERS

Police Chief William A. Yule, of Saginaw, Michigan and the Rev. Thomas G. Brennan, Superintendent of Catholic Parochial Schools in that city, issued a special warning a year ago to all parents.

★ ★ ★

It was prepared in mimeograph form and warned parents to put their children on guard against the sex molesters of youngsters.

It is wise for all parents to realize the value of thus forewarning a child, for even men of college age, like Don in today's case, may not be aware of the clinical signs of sexual offenders.

DON'T go into a stranger's home or workshop or room.

DON'T let anyone fuss with your clothing.

★ ★ ★

Youngsters were also advised to note the automobile license number of anybody they might suspect and even scratch it on the ground if they lacked pencil and paper.

"CASE METHOD"

In warning your children, try to pose definite problems along this line and then ask them what they'd do.

For instance, suppose a stranger comes to the school and says, "Mamma is in the hospital and wants you to come at once." What should you do?

Children have often been enticed into a car with such a ruse and even the teachers have sometimes acquiesced in times past because of the plausible story and the fact the stranger knew the school child's name and address.

Remember in emergencies of that sort, it isn't necessary to send strangers! The police will gladly perform such errands of mercy, so cultivate a Doubting Thomas attitude in your child.

There are all sorts of sex offenders in every large community and even in rural or small town regions, so encourage your child to be reasonably skeptical.

★ ★ ★

When men begin to shower affection on boys, or when women gush and kiss their own sex in romantic fashion, beware, for this is often a part of the build-up that the homosexual launches to win his or her victim.

Homosexuality is far more prevalent than parents dream of. Fortunately, modern newspapers are educating the public via this medico - psychological column to a lot of sexual dangers that used to be ignored.

The proverbial ostrich "head-in-the-sand" policy is waning, both as regards venereal diseases and psychological sexual maladies.

So warn your children against illicit sexual advances both from the opposite sex as well as from their own sex.

For further advice, send for my booket "Sex Problems of Young People," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents (non-profit).

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Junior Editors Quiz on NATURE

QUESTION: What is the difference between toads and frogs?

ANSWER: Frogs and toads are relatives. Both are amphibians—animals able to live either on land or in the water. Both are born as tadpoles in the water. But as they grow bigger, they become different. Toads head away from the water and spend most of their lives in fields and in gardens where they catch insects for food. Frogs like to spend all their life in or near the water.

The skin of toads is dry and rough, while frogs are usually smooth and moist. Toads may be covered with warts, but do not give people warts as some believe. Some toads give off a poison to protect themselves from their enemies. This is not harmful to man, but it has been known to make a dog unconscious. A frong has long, powerful legs that enable it to jump quickly out of danger. The toad, on the other hand, is slow, and an easy prey for its worst enemy, snakes.

★ ★ ★

It's National Library Week

Exhibit Reading Habits of Presidents in Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thomas Jefferson once said: "Books are indeed with me a necessary of life."

Since this is National Library Week, it's a happy quotation for today. And the biggest of them all, the Library of Congress, is celebrating the great occasion with an exhibit on the reading habits of presidents.

★ ★ ★

The L. of C. discreetly doesn't mention it, but some U.S. presidents were no more literary minded than a moderately alert goat.

Possibly the real surprise, considering that politicians often aren't the reflective type, is that so many presidents have been steady readers.

Take Theodore Roosevelt.

In his reading, as in everything else, Roosevelt did things with a flourish. So when he went big game hunting, he toted along books bound in pigskin and packed in an aluminum case. Weight: 60 pounds, or enough for one porter.

★ ★ ★

Roosevelt had an explanation for the special pigskin binding. He pointed out that "It might be impossible to get water for washing."

"In consequence, the books were stained with blood, sweat, gun oil, dust and ashes; ordinary bindings either vanished or became loathsome, whereas pigskin grew to look as a well used saddle looks."

Nearly all the early presidents were readers.

Shortly after Washington married the widow Custis, he ordered from London six little books for children beginning to read. That is, for his stepchildren, John, aged 6, and Patsy, 4.

John Adams had a fine private library, which he turned over to the town of Quincy, Mass.

★ ★ ★

Lincoln's love for Shakespeare is well known, but during his term someone at the White House borrowed "Why Paul Ferroll Killed His Wife" from the library.

If it was Lincoln who wanted the book, it, wouldn't be too amazing. Presidents have been great mystery readers.

Ike Hoover, who spent 40 years in the White House (he wound up as head usher) says only Teddy Roosevelt spurned mysteries. He was a magazine reader.

"Wilson and Hoover, the former especially, were incisive detective story readers," Ike Hoover wrote in his little notebook.

★ ★ ★

"Coolidge also liked such stories. Still, like Taft, he confined his reading principally to the daily papers. Taft especially seemed to read nothing else and would delve into every page of all the papers he could conveniently get hold of.

"Harding didn't seem to read much of anything."

But the real darling of the library is Thomas Jefferson. It's a love affair that dates back to 1815, when Jefferson's library was purchased, some 6,000 books, to replace the burned out Library of Congress.

With the books came Jefferson's ideas on library practices, some of which are still used.

For example: Jefferson, plagued with forgetful borrowers, had a secret, inside mark to show the book was his. The library still follows Jefferson's prudent custom.

Schools to Seek Loan

PETOSKEY (AP) — The Petoskey Board of Education said Tuesday it would ask the Michigan Finance Commission for authority to borrow up to 50,000 against unpaid state aid. Supt. H. C. Spitler said the move was forced by a delay until May 15 in payment of $33,000 instate aid funds due last Saturday.

2 State Women Killed

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (AP) — Two Michigan women were killed in a headon auto collision 25 miles west of here Tuesday. They were identified as Mrs. Joseph E. Windell, 68, of East Grand Rapids, and Mrs. G. M. Corin, about 60, of Detroit.

Parents Must Fill Urgent Role in Education Today

(This is the last of three articles written by distinguished leaders in the field of education, describing the problems of American schools and outlining possible avenues of improvement.)

By MRS. ROLLIN BROWN
President, National Congress of Parents and Teachers
(Written for INS)

In his second talk on security last November, the President of the United States singled out two groups for a special assignment: The school boards and the parent-teacher associations.

"I wish," the President said, "that every school board and every PTA would make one single project their special order of business: To scrutinize your school board's curriculum and standards and see whether they meet the stern demands of the era we are entering."

Just how stern these demands are all of us are now beginning to realize. As parents, observing the non-interference policy of the parent-teacher organization, we shall indeed continue to scrutinize our schools, criticize them constructively, and work for their improvement wherever any weakness exists. We shall do so mindful that our country needs not only more scientists to conquer outer space but more generously informed minds in every area of human thought and action.

CHANGING ROLE

The role of parents in education has, of course, changed with the times. But one thing has remained constant: The belief that there can be no understudies for that role. Actually the role is a dual yet inseparable one, with the script calling on parents to act both as individual PTA members and in cooperation with their fellow members.

As individual members our role demands continuing study of what is going on in our schools. How can we think or talk intelligently about the schools unless we know what they are trying to do and play an active part in determining what shall be taught?

It is equally essential that we maintain a continuing interest in them. This means taking advantage of every opportunity to visit schools, confer with our children's teachers, and get to know other members of the school staff. This means taking time to attend parent-teacher meetings and carrying on whatever activities will assure our children the finest kind of education.

We have to keep our pocketbooks no less open than our minds. Good schools cost money. At the same time we must remember that money alone will not man our classrooms with good teachers.

Just as important as money is a positive attitude toward teachers. The task of building this attitude in our communities calls for day-in and day-out attention. It means giving the teacher the civic and personal rights each of us would wish for ourselves. It means giving teaching the professional standing which this life-work merits.

The key word in all the 43,000 local units that make up the National Congress of Parents and Teachers is the word "partnership." And more than 60 years of experience have enabled this partnership to grow into the vigorous, effective force it is today.

To improve the schools, parents must use their organized strength to speak up about school problems and needs — about the prolonged shortage of classrooms and of teachers and the neglect these shortages spell for our children. If they speak up clearly and with good conscience, they cannot fail to win public understanding and support of programs geared to the challenge now facing education.

CALL FOR SUPPORT

Several measures in particular call for public support if we would improve education at all levels: More guidance and counseling services for earlier identification of able boys and girls; more kindergartens as part of the school system; and a nationwide expansion of the free, public two-year junior or community college.

Much progress is due to the increasingly widespread practice of bringing parents and teachers together at PTA conferences, clinics and workshops to discuss their common problems and work out procedures for successful home-school cooperation.

Much of this progress is due also to more participation by the public in educational planning and decision making—participation encouraged and promoted by PTAs, educators and school boards alike.

Believing firmly that first-rate schools are a necessity for national survival, PTAs shall spare no effort to carry out the mandate given them by the President of the United States.

Small Cars From Big 3?

DETROIT (AP)—Burnham Finney, editor of American Machinist, predicts that the auto industry's Big Three soon will b producing small cars to compete with foreign makers. He said the Chevrolet Division of General Motors Corp. has bids out for small-car dies and tools and said he expected Ford and Chrysler to follow.

CONSTIPATED?
New laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks
without gag, bloat or gripe

Most constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrifty" colon that loses so much moisture that its contents become so dry they block the bowel; so shrunken they fail to stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

To regain normal regularity, the dry, shrunken contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be remoistened. Second, bulk must be brought to S-T-R-E-T-C-H STIMULATE colon to action; to a normal urge to purge. And, of all laxatives, only new COLONAID, possesses its great moisturizing capacity plus its stretch-stimulating bulk. So effective it relieves even chronic constipation overnight, yet is so gentle it has been hospital proved safe even for women in critical stages of pregnancy.

Superior to old style bulk, salt or drug laxatives, COLONAID neither gags, bloats nor gripes; won't interfere with absorption of vitamins or food nutrients; in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other reactions.

It's a physiological fact: Exercise tones your body! And COLONAID exercises your colon to tone it against constipation, overnight! Get COLONAID, in easy-to-take tablets, today! Introductory size, only 98c, at all druggists.

Dr. Arnkoff Heads Israel Celebration

Dr. Harry Arnkoff, 140 Illinois Ave., is the chairman of the Pontiac dinner committee for the celebration of the 10th anniversary of the state of Israel next month.

★ ★ ★

The dinner, to be held April 19 at 7:30 p.m. in the Colonial Hotel, Mount Clemens, is being jointly sponsored by the Israel Bond Committees of Pontiac, Mount Clemens and Port Huron.

Dr. Arnkoff said the present generation was privileged to "witness the rebirth of the state of Israel" and therefore, is imbued with a feeling of concern and responsibility for its development, growth and security.

Hal Boyle Says:

Celebrities Possess Power to Concentrate

NEW YORK (AP)—What makes one man famous and another unknown?

Is there any single key to renown?

How do celebrities differ from ordinary people? And are they any better or worse?

Over the last 14 years these questions have interested me for two reasons.

1. I have found that most readers are interested in celebrities and sincerely wonder how they differ from the neighbor next door.

2. After nearly 1,000 interviews—from a lonely prisoner waiting to be hanged to a lonely general waiting for the combat chance to win a final star—I came to wonder myself how they were different and why they were diferent.

Do they have anything in common, these people who stick out from the crowd for one reason or another, who stand for an hour or a day or a lifetime in the spotlight?

Here are a few tentative conclusions I reached:

The greatest single difference between most celebrities and most noncelebrities is less a matter of talent than concentration.

★ ★ ★

The power of concentrated and durable attention to a fixed goal is, by my observation, the surest avenue to fame and recognition. The glow around a steady sweat will shine longer and farther than the broken gleam from a sporadic brillance. Most celebrities, whether they are flagpole sitters, movie stars, or bankers, bent their wits more to the purpose at hand than the ordinary citizen.

When most successful people say "My hobby is my work," they aren't lying.

To the ordinary man work is a way to earn a living. To most celebrities—certainly those who last—their work is their very life.

Whether famous and successful men have more fun out of life than the average man is hard to say. Some do, some don't.

It is quite common for celebrities to admit loneliness, but to them work is a greater refuge than it is for perhaps you or me. It is also a greater consolation.

★ ★ ★

One thing that impresses me most about a celebrity is this! If you ask him what he is looking for most in this world, he will sometimes answer — "Myself."

They're Sentimental as Women Over Bridal Gowns

Men's Dreams Packed Away With Uniforms

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS) — "As I see it, men are every bit as sentimental as women," said John Van Drill, "and as dewey-eyed, you might say, about the great romance in their lives.

"The only difference is that women are sentimental about the day they found peace—and men are sentimental about the day they found war."

Mr. Van Drill knows. He is in the curious business of preserving old memories for people. In East Orange, N.J., he owns a plant called "Le Boeuf," which cleans, processes and hermetically seals up important articles of clothing, so that they'll never fade away.

"Women bring in their old wedding dresses, because these are the most important memories of their lives," he says. "And men bring in army uniforms, because these represent romance, and the biggest thing they have ever done.

"A girl feels she's achieved womanhood with marriage. A man feels he's found a form of immortality with war. Of course, that applies only to officers . . . enlisted men have never come to me to have their uniforms preserved.

"There's probably a moral in that, but don't ask me."

HE'S AN EXPERT

Van Drill has become an expert on the subject of brides and moths during the past decade when more than a million dollars worth of wedding gowns have been preserved each year.

"Both of them, moths and brides, are fond of the same things," he says. "Those things would include warmth, dark, secluded corners, all things sweet, and most especially, champagne."

This explains why brides should have their gowns cleaned and put away as promptly as possible after the wedding ceremony. "Ninety-nine per cent of the gowns that come in are speckled with remnants of the reception (brides are so shaky, somehow) and, as I say, moths dote on leftover goodies."

For women who cannot afford Le Boeuf's $32 to $37.50 preservative process, Van Drill lists the natural enemies of the wedding dress: Heat, which produces dry rot; abrupt temperature changes, which cause fabric "fatigue"; atmospheric gases, as from cooking stoves or heating units, and the worst enemy of all, humidity, which brings on mildew and rust.

"See that the dress is clean and in good condition. Then wrap it in brown wrapping paper — that nonsense about blue paper is a new wives' tale — and put it in a chest in a dry place. It should remain in good condition at least until your younger sister is ready to wear it."

★ ★ ★

"Celebrities," he explains sadly, usually get married a second time or third time. They don't seem to preserve anything, much less gowns."

Science Develops New Tablet:

Relieves Painful Monthly Cramps For 3 out of 4 Women Tested! Gives Greater Relief Than Aspirin!

Boston, Mass.—New promise of relief for women who suffer tortures of monthly cramps and nervous tension is found in an amazing new tablet . . . developed especially to relieve this female discomfort. It offers greater relief than aspirin during that distressing period each month!

For 3 out of 4 women tested by doctors, pain and cramps were stopped or strikingly relieved. Even on the first day, many had no nagging headaches, no backaches or other functional distress . . . were also less jittery the trying week before their period!

The new tablet contains a unique combination of medicines. That's why it offers more relief than plain aspirin! Unlike such "general-purpose" remedies, it acts on the cause of distress. Has amazing power to calm uterine contractions, also works through a woman's sympathetic nervous system.

Called "Lydia Pinkham's Tablets," the formula was developed by the world's largest manufacturer devoted exclusively to relief of women's ailments! Easy-to-take new Pinkham's Tablets are now available at all drug stores without a prescription.

So don't suffer needlessly. Take Pinkham's Tablets yourself. See if you don't feel worlds better, this very month. See if you don't escape much irritability and discomfort—before and during those "difficult days."

IF YOU PREFER A LIQUID all druggists, today, also have the famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

ICBMs to Bring Rebirth of Isolationism in Nation

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—This country became fully internationalist after being yanked out of isolationism by World War II. But what happens when it develops the ICBM—the intercontinental ballistic missile?

★ ★ ★

This is something not being talked about much now, and perhaps not even being thought about much. But it seems inevitable that isolationist pressure will increase when the ICBM makes this country less dependent on its allies.

This country, with hydrogen-loaded ICBMs, could stand behind the walls of the Atlantic and Pacific and hit an enemy anywhere overseas.

It was only eight years ago that former President Hoover said America's defense lines should be the Atlantic and Pacific and he urged concentration on building a big navy and air force.

Whether any real isolationism could prevail again in this country is questionable because it might mean the loss of the non-Communist world to the Soviets. That in turn might make it impossible for this country to survive alone.

Since World War II — under both the Democratic and Republican administrations—the United States not only has taken on worldwide responsibilities in the form of foreign aid but has formed military alliances around the world.

The aid, in addition to its humanitarianism, is part of this country's effort to keep the non-Communist part of the world away from communism. The same for the military alliances which are this country's first line of defense.

For these first 13 postwar years the aid and alliances have worked pretty well to hold the Soviets in check. In the next five years, by the time this country has a supply of ICBMs, the picture may change.

★ ★ ★

For example, it's changing in the Middle East, where the Russians have made progress and there is a developing hostility to the United States.

Right now, before this country has ICBMs, overseas bases for American planes are necessary: the planes could hit the U.S.S.R. from all directions if the Soviets began an attack.

Those bases would become less necessary as this country's supply of ICBMs grew. There certainly would be pressure here—for the sake of economy—to rely more on the ICBMs and less on the bases.

There is a balancing factor: there might not be any lessening of America's internationalism when both the United States and the Soviet Union had ICBMs. It could result in the same kind of standoff we're looking at now when the main reliance of both countries is still on their air forces.

★ ★ ★

Neither, when both are equipped with ICBMs, would be eager to start a war that meant destruction for both. These questions could be argued on both sides endlessly. They probably will be in the new ICBM age that's coming.

Bigger towns have a right to be more sinful than small towns, claims J. O. Jewett. After all, that's where small-towners go to do their celebrating . . . Divorce has become so common that some folks are staying married just to be different. —Earl Wilson.

One Collected $350 for 60 Minutes Work

Hiring Baby Sitter Could Cost Fortune

NEW YORK — How would you feel if your baby sitter presented you with a bill of $350 for sixty minutes work?

It has happened before. As a matter of fact, says an article in a recent issue of a national magazine, every time you hire a baby sitter you run the risk of a financial block-buster in the form of a damage claim.

★ ★ ★

Baby sitting has advanced from the stages of a casual accommodation for parents seeking an evening on the town, to a billion-dollar-a-year business.

Today, hiring a sitter is a business deal, and parents must assume all responsibility for any harm that befalls their sitter during working hours.

For instance, in one case cited in the article, a sitter demanded $25,000 because a loose picture frame dropped on her head while she was watching her favorite TV show.

Another sitter collected because her rambunctious 4 - year - old charge knocked her down and injured her wrist. And still another case cited in the feature, a woman claimed $15,000 on the grounds that the boy she was sitting with broke her arm during a judo practice session.

These are only some of the examples that cost parents, merely because they were devoted and wanted a good sitter to safeguard their childrnn. However, parents should always be alerted to the special perils for sitters. There are many hazards to sitters that parents, with a little forethought, can minimize—and in the end save on their bankrolls.

The article presents a list of traps for sitters based on findings of the National Safety Council. Among the special traps to be wary of are:

Contagious diseases: Sitters aren't nurses. Don't assume without asking that they're willing to risk exposure to the flu.

★ ★ ★

Electrical Dangers: A loose socket or an ailing appliance should be attended to. Don't forget there is a stranger in the house.

Structural Hazards: Members of your own family may be used to a narrow, dim stairway without rails, but it could be a menace to a newcomer.

Be sure that you are thoroughly covered with personal liability insurance before you hire a sitter. It is cheap coverage and will protect you against most damage claims.

Port of Sarnia Opens Shipping

First Vessel of Year to Sail on Lake Huron Heads for Windsor

SARNIA, Ont. (AP) — Navigation in the Lake Huron port of Sarnia opened yesterday with the sailing of the tanker Imperial Quebec for Windsor.

★ ★ ★

She is scheduled to return at noon today when her master, Capt. Edward A. Davies, will receive the traditional top that is presented to the captain of the first vessel entering the harbor each year.

No other ship movements are scheduled for the next few days, Harbor Master David Ross said. There still are several ice fields along the Canadian coast.

Next sailing for the Imperial Oil Co. fleet from the refinery docks here will be March 29 when the Imperial Collingwood leaves on its first trip of the season. The Imperial London and Imperial Windsor will sail for Montreal April 10 following opening of the Welland and St. Lawrence canals.

Two cement carriers, the S. T. Crapo and Paul H. Townsend of the Huron Portland Cement Corp., entered Lake Huron from Lake St. Clair yesterday on their way to Alpena, Mich. They were escorted by the U. S. Coast Guard Cutter Mackinaw.

Another coast Guard cutter, the Acacia, has been breaking ice in the St. Clair River and Lake St. Clair.

French Author Suing Vatican's Newspaper

ROME (AP)—French author Roger Peyrefitte, under charges of writing forbidden things about Pope Pius XII is himself suing the Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano and the Rome Daily Il Quotidiano for defamation.

★ ★ ★

Peyrefitte's suit cited articles in the two papers which appeared after the Vatican protested his own article "Rome of the Popes," published in the leftist Rome daily Paese Sera.

★ ★ ★

The writer and the editor of Paese Sera were charged with publicly offending the honor and prestige of the Pope, a penal offense in Italy.

Pro-West Coalition Continuing in Sudan

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — Leaders of the pro-Western coalition that has governed the Sudan for the past two years have agreed to from the new government when the new Parliament meets tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

Abdullah Khalil will continue as premier, his Umma party and the People's Democratic party agreed. The Umma won 72 of the 173 parliamentary seats and the PDP took 32 in the 10-day election that ended March 8.

★ ★ ★

The main opposition party is the National Unionists, a pro-Egyptian group that won 45 seats. The 24 independents and splinter party representatives include spokesmen from the Negro South who demand a federal system with less control by the Arab North.

New Hampshire May Recognize Female Vote

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — New Hampshire may finally get around to recognizing that women have the right to vote.

In practice, New Hampshire women have been casting ballots, as have their sisters across the nation, since passage of the 19th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution in 1920.

But the New Hampshire constitution still restricts the voting privilege for governor, state legislators and other state officials to "every male inhabitant."

Mrs. Carmita A. Murphy of Dover ran a one-woman suffrage campaign as a delegate to a 1956 constitutional convention to have the word "male" deleted from those sections of the constitution. She won.

A proposed constitutional change will appear on the state ballots in November.

When New Hampshire ratified the 19th Amendment in 1919, the Legislature ordered the word "male" deleted from state voting restriction laws. The change was never made in the state constitution.

Minks are being moved from central Canada prairies to points nearer the Pacific Coast. Horse meat, favorite food of the minks in central Canada, is getting too expensive. Cheaper whale meat on the Pacific Coast is found to be just as good.

Seek Committee to Aid Jobless

City Considers Plan for Citizens Group to Arbitrate Debts

Pontiac City Commissioners are considering a proposed citizen's committee to arbitrate debts of partially employed or unemployed workers whose unemployment compensation is exhausted.

City Attorney William A. Ewart was asked to study the legality of an advisory committee set up to help the unemployed during the current recession.

The committee was proposed to commissioners last night by Harold A. Grant, president of Fisher Body Local 586, UAW, who believed it could be patterned after one already in operation in Flint.

He said the committee could act to prevent garnishments and foreclosures. Asked by one commissioner if he believed that the UAW should declare a moratorium on union dues, Grant replied:

"Yes, I do. But the current economic situation demands more than just that to cure it."

FAST ACTION URGED

Grant suggested a seven-member committee of professional, business and labor leaders be appointed by the commission as soon as possible.

Commissioners John E. Carry, John A. Dugan and Dr. Roy V. Cooley hailed the idea.

"It is a matter of urgency," said Carry, "and we should decide what to do about it in a week's time."

★ ★ ★

Commissioners also went on record as endorsing a proposal by President Eisenhower that the time period for unemployment benefits be extended. The period in Michigan at present is 26 weeks.

The endorsement was urged by the city of Ferndale, which has sent a telegram to the President and has encouraged other Oakland County communities to take the same stand.

Cornet Trio Tops Seniors

Romeo Talent Show Winners Are Named

ROMEO — A cornet trio of Romeo boys won first-place honors in the senior division of last night's sixth annual community talent show at Romeo High School. They are Marc Kost, 13; Tom Vos and Ron Ross, both 14.

★ ★ ★

Second-place winners were the "Harmoneers," a guitar sextet and vocalist. Third-place honors were awarded to Tobie Zimonick who played a boogie woogie piano solo. Mary Warren, vocal soloist, placed fourth.

All prize winners in the senior division were from Romeo. Enthusiastic applause also was given to an instrumental group from Armada High School by the audience which numbered more than 300 persons.

★ ★ ★

"The Fast Beats," an instrumental group of Romeo boys, tied for fourth place with Janice Jackman who played an accordion solo.

The talent show climaxed the musical benefit program which opened with a popconcert featuring the Romeo High School band.

David Toper, band council president, took over the baton for one number from Director E. C. Ojala and also acted as master of ceremonies for the talent show.

Judges were Harold F. Barr, Romeo High School principal; Mrs. C. E. Howard Jr., Mrs. H. O. Evans Jr. and Mrs. Ralph J. Toles.

MARTIN MOL

Eagles to Initiate 25 in New Building

The first big celebration to be held in the new building of the Waterford Township Fraternal Order of Eagles will be the initiation of 25 new members, at 8 tonight.

★ ★ ★

Grand Worthy President Martin Mol will be the honored guest of the affair. He is the first Michigan man to attain that position in the nationwide organization, which celebrated its 60th anniversary in February.

The Royal Oak Degree Team will have charge of the initiation ceremonies, according to president of the local club Donald Coffey.

All of the construction work on the $100,000 building at 4761 Highland Rd., was done by members of the Eagles and was started early last fall.

★ ★ ★

Formal dedication of the building will be held sometime during the summer, after all landscaping has been completed, Coffey said.

Rochester to Expand Woodward Elementary

Contract Awarded for School Addition

ROCHESTER — A contract for construction of an addition to the Woodward Elementary School was awarded last night by the Rochester Board of Education to the Leslie Construction Co. of Ferndale. The firm submitted the low bid of $198,581.

★ ★ ★

The project will include the addition of four classrooms, multipurpose room, kindergarten, office and conference room, kitchen facilities and renovations to the old building.

Construction will begin in the spring, according to Superintendent of Schools Donald C. Baldwin. The addition is scheduled for occupancy in the fall.

The school is located on North Pine and Woodward streets.

A total of 15 bids on the project were opened last night at the Board of Education meeting in the library of the new Rochester High School. They ranged from the low bid to a high of $267,400.

★ ★ ★

BUILDING PROGRAM

The Woodward addition is part of a building and improvement program begun in the Rochester Community School System following approval last June of an $850,000 bond issue.

There were objections to spending money on the Woodward School by residents who felt it could be better used on other schools in the district.

Superintendent Baldwin said, however, that the board is planning its building program with an eye to the future. It is taking into consideration the future development of subdivisions which will provide a walk-in population, he said.

Under construction now is the 14-classroom Meadow Brook Elementary School. Located in the Spring Hill Subdivision, the school is scheduled for occupancy next September, Baldwin said.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Hinske of Earlmont road, Berkley, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Elizabeth, to George N. Allard, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Allard of Mary Lee road, Milford. The wedding date has been set for April 12.

FCC Probers Call Lawyers

Will Quiz 2 Attorneys Linked to the Battle for Miami TV Channel

WASHINGTON (AP) — House investigators, putting aside a look into a question of possible perjury, today called two lawyers connected with central figures in the bitter fight for Miami's TV Channel 10.

★ ★ ★

The attorneys are H. Earl Barber, assistant to former Federal Communications Commissioner Richard A. Mack, and Paul A. Porter, Washington lawyer for A. Frank Katzentine, a loser in the Channel 10 contest.

Porter himself served on the FCC during the 1940s.

Barber spent his last day at the FCC yesterday. He resigned March 5, two days after Mack quit the commission under pressure and amid charges his vote in the Miami case resulted from impopper influence.

★ ★ ★

The question of possible perjury arose when four witnesses took issue in part with statements attributed to them in an affidavit made by Katzentine, one of four contestants for the Channel 10 li-

Ransack 2 Offices in City for Nothing

Two business establishments were ransacked last night by persons apparently looking for money, Waterford Township police said.

They said entrance to the Angus Campbell tax consultant office, 995 W. Huron St., was gained by prying open a side window.

Desks and filing cabinets were forced open and contents strewn on the floor.

The thieves then apparently went next door to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. and pried open the back door. All the drawers in this office were ransacked and an atempt apparently was made to open the safe, officers reported.

★ ★ ★

Nothing was reported missing from either office.

MR. AND MRS. C. K. ANDREWS

Drayton Plains Couple Wed in Candlelight Rite

DRAYTON PLAINS — Wanda Jean Fogal and Charles K. Andrews were married in a candlelight ceremony Saturday in United Presbyterian Church of Drayton Plains. The 7:30 p.m. double-ring rite was performed by the Rev. W. J. Teeuwissen Jr.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth C. Hackett of 4114 Meigs St. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Andrews of 4261 Linda Ct.

Wanda's gown of Chantilly lace and tulle was fashioned with an artfully designed lace collar, and lace peplum over a sunburst-pleated tulle skirt with chapel train. A tiara of seed pearls and sequins secured her illusion veil, and she carried a cascade of white roses centered with a white orchid.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Thomas Myers, a sister of the bridegroom, and another sister, Andera Andrews, was the bridesmaid. Janie Taft of Drayton Plains was the flower girl.

The bride's brother, Robert Fogal, served as best man. Ushers were Thomas Myers, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Frederick Cole of Bay City, uncle of the bride. The bride's brother, Bradley Hackett, was the ringbearer.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors.

Rips Into Bridge Toll Hike

LANSING (AP)—An Upper Peninsula legislator says an auditor's suggestion for sharp increases in Mackinac Bridge tolls is "ridiculous."

"There wouldn't be anybody going to the Upper Peninsula," said Rep. D. J. Massoglia (R-Laurium).

★ ★ ★

John M. Mitchell, auditor for an Escanaba industrial firm, suggested the increase in citing figures showing that traffic crossing the Straits in 1957 fell 88,000 below estimates. Tolls accordingly should be raised from $3.25 to $7.74 per car, he said.

"The bridge has only been in operation some four months," Massoglia said. "Any assessment of its ability to pay itself off at this point is premature."

Mitchell told an Escanaba luncheon club the bridge will cost 212 million dollars in principal and interest if the bond issue runs its full 40 years.

★ ★ ★

"But over a span of 40 years, we anticipate a great increase in population, the number of motor vehicles, tourists and Upper Peninsula business," said Massoglia.

"Even if there is no increase in bridge traffic over the former ferry service, this in itself would pay approximately 50 per cent of the cost of the bridge."

City Youth Charged in Store Burglaries

A 19-year-old youth was arrested yesterday by Pontiac Police and charged with burglary on two occasions of Stafford's Market, 48 Putnam Ave.

The market was looted last Saturday night and again last Sunday night.

Detectives are holding David J. Fry of 326 Oakland Ave. They have recovered a quantity of beer, wine and cigarettes allegedly taken from the market.

They said that Fry has admitted the burglaries and implicated several juveniles.

About Jobless Pay Extension

Ike, Governors Talk

WASHINGTON (INS)—President Eisenhower sought support from state governors today for his plan to extend unemployment benefits to help relieve the recession plight of more than five million jobless workers.

The chief executive scheduled meetings on the subject today with eight members of the executive committee of the Council of State Governors and with a group of his own top advisers.

He called administration experts into morning meetings at the White House to pave the way for his 2:30 p.m. (EST) session with the panel of governors.

At issue is what he has called a "tentative plan for limited and temporary extension of the duration of unemployment compensation benefits" beyond existing limits under state-controlled programs.

Official sources said yesterday that Eisenhower would propose to the governors that the fedeal government lend money to the states to keep up benefit payments to jobless workers for 13 additional weeks as an anti-recession measure.

Indications were that the matter would be presented on an open basis to obtain the governors' reactions, and that no hard and fast decision on methods had been reached by the administration.

Since most state legislatures are out of session, the aim was to find a solution which would eliminate any need for calling state lawmakers into special meetings.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D Va) forecast today that the federal government will have a deficit of seven billion dollars in the fiscal year starting July 1 and warned it will jump to 15 billions if there is a "general tax cut."

★ ★ ★

Bob Considine Reports:

Newsmen Dine With Soviet Ambassador

WASHINGTON (INS) — If the FBI really photographs all people entering and leaving the Soviet Embassy, the boys got some nice shots the other day of Bill Hearst, Frank Conniff and myself. Here's what happened inside:

Russia's new ambassador to the U.S., smiling Mikhail Menshikov, had invited us to lunch but the man who opened the big glass and metal embassy door looked as if he didn't approve. We entered the big and undistinguished hall and were scrutinized briefly by two clerk-types who emerged chatting from an office on the right. Down at the end of the hall, an embassy functionary made gestures indicating he knew why we were there. He flicked on the hall lights in that section and took our coats, hanging them on a plain clothes pole.

Two smiling embassy aides came forward with extended hands and led us to a little elevator off the foyer. As one opened the door, we heard the voices of children and their footsteps coming down a back stairway which led to the area. They were two cute little girls with school books, bundled for a trip outdoors and shepherded by two attractive women.

★ ★ ★

"Let us go ahead," one of the aides said, beckoning us toward the elevator. We hesitated and let the children and their mothers—or nurses—go by first.

"Whose children?" Bill asked, as we headed upstairs.

"Employes' kids," the man said, letting it go at that.

We got off on the third floor and were led to two huge closed doors. It was gloomy in that place, but when the doors were opened we were beckoned into a brightly sun-splashed and pleasant drawing room whose divans faced a marble fireplace. There stood Menshikov, in his private apartment.

AP Facsimile

MIKHAIL MENSHIKOV

He stands about six feet, seems to have a better, or braver, tailor than most of the Russians, has well-groomed gray hair, wore a figured bright blue tie. He smiled with all but his blue eyes, shook hands and bade us welcome. Almost instantly, a ruggedly pretty brunette maid, in traditional capitalistic maid's uniform, bore in a tray of manhattans, sherry and tomato juice.

"Would you prefer something else?" the ambassador asked in his polite and excellent English. We ordered vodka.

"You know the old saying, 'When in Rome, do as the Romans do,'" Bill said to him.

It puzzled him. "You mean the Italians make vodka?" he asked, astonished.

It took a bit of explanation, but at last we were back on the track, and this time it had to do with his flight to this country in Russia's TU104, a 600-mile-an-hour twin jet, and a previous trip he had made in that type of plane from Moscow to Peiping in less than 11 hours. We told him we had flown in it from Prague to Moscow in November, a trip of about 1,000 miles.

"That's no good in the TU104," he laughed. "By the time you get up it's time to start down. Now we have lunch."

It was caviar, decorated by flower-shaped butter (more vodka), then a white fish smothered in a creamed mushroom sauce (a medium white wine with this), then steak with peas, stringbeans and potatoes (red wine), then strawberries topped with great frills of whipped cream.

★ ★ ★

We talked chiefly economics, the development of our West and of Siberia, private enterprise. These were some points that either Menshikov or his bright young men made:

A Russian can will his house, his furnishings, his car and his money to his family, but not the land on which he has built. That's the state's. There are no inheritance taxes. Some Russians, especially farmers, amassed considerable sums of currency during World War II. One of these "presented" the rubles equivalent of a million dollars to the government, "to pay for a war plane."

★ ★ ★

Anybody can start a business in Russia but he cannot hire another Russian to work for him, or wait on him, except through the state employment service—which the hired person can appeal to if he/she feels he/she is being exploited. The Russian who banks his money gets a better interest rate if he promises not to draw on his account for the first six months after deposit. (Menshikov reacted happily to this. "Well!" he said, "That I never knew. I must look into this.")

★ ★ ★

The flood of university- and institute-trained specialists flowing from Russian schools are channeled into those areas—often Siberia—where "they best fit." The worse the area, the better the pay and the longer the annual vacation period.

"Suppose all the graduates want to go to, let's say, your Florida instead of some place in coldest, darkest Siberia?" we asked.

"Now, we will have coffee in the next room, please," he said, rising and bowing us back into the drawing room. It was time for more serious talk.

Judge Believes Women OK as Texas Aggies

BRYAN, Tex. (AP) — Dist. Judge W. T. McDonald declares two women seeking to enter all-male Texas A&M College should be allowed to do so.

The judge ruled their rights under the 14th Amendment had been violated.

Mrs. Lena Bristol and Mrs. Barbara Tittle, both of Bryan, started suit after being refused admittance for the spring term.

Gets Medal Now for W.W. I Wound

CARTHAGE, Mo. (AP)—Rex B. Mealey was struck in the right knee by a shell splinter during the closing hours of World War I.

He went to a field hospital but was crowded out by more serious cases and sent back to the Meuse-Argonne offensive. His Army record did not show the case.

★ ★ ★

Mealey, now 62 and a Carthage city councilman, wrote the War Department and asked for a medal when the Order of the Purple Heart was reestablished by Congress in 1932.

★ ★ ★

A Purple Heart medal from the Army arrived in the mail this week. The delay was not explained.

Wood-Pigeons Rated as Farmers' Enemies

LONDON — Wood - pigeons in England now are almost as destructive as rats and are the country's No. 1 bird pest. Millions of pigeons are living as farmers' guests, these arch - destroyers of crops having increased enormously despite efforts to thin them out.

They can render useless whole sowings of peas and their greedy beaks can ruin clover crops. It is an established fact that man cannot live without birds, farmers say, but others they would like to try to do without are starlings, sparrows, comorants and black-headed gulls — all destructive to crops or fish.

Retracts Husband-Kidnap Statement

'The Body' Changes Story

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Marie McDonald has tearfully denied her story that her estranged husband arranged to have her kidnaped last year.

Elegantly dressed in the new "sack look," Miss McDonald, 34, met with law enforcement officers. They questioned her about the story she told two weeks ago in Cincinnati that her husband, wealthy shoeman Harry Karl, masterminded the kidnaping.

★ ★ ★

Dabbing her eyes with a handkerchief, the actress, known as "The Body," told reporters later: "Just say that I am retracting the whole story."

Karl called her accusation ridiculous. He took a lie detector test Monday. Later Police Chief William H. Parker said Karl had no guilty knowledge of the kidnaping.

The day after Karl announced he had asked Miss McDonald for a divorce and said he is in love with an unidentified redhead, the actress gave the new version of the kidnaping to reporters in Cincinnati. Later she repeated it to Los Angeles investigators flown to Ohio. She was then doing a night club show in the Cincinnati area.

After the conference with Chief Parker, Dist. Atty. William B. McKesson and other officials, Miss McDonald told reporters: "In Cincinnati I had had a threatening telephone call. I had also had a call from my husband in which he was cruel and said he wanted a divorce. I was emotionally upset.

"What I said in Cincinnati is in conflict with the truth, except that Mr. Karl told me he had something to do with it (the kidnaping)."

Miss McDonald told the Los Angeles County grand jury last year that two men unknown to her kidnaped her from her Encino, Calif., home in January 1957, and freed her 24 hours later on the desert 150 miles away. She did not then accuse Karl.

"We are right back where we were when the grand jury closed its inquiry without voting indictments," McKessons said. "This case is an unsolved one, but closed unless there are further developments."

YOUR CHILD MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS
1 OUT OF 3 DOES!

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . small, easy-to-take tablets . . . special sizes for children and adults. Perfected by Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for 100 years.

A Gas Range with the automatic Top Burner makes every pot and pan you own an "automatic controlled heat utensil." Food won't burn, boil-over, dry out or stick to the pan. Top Burner is controlled . . . automatically. Oven turns "on and off," safely . . . automatically, even when you're elsewhere. You are freed forever from watching and waiting to see that nothing goes wrong. You'll enjoy cleaner and cooler automatic gas cooking. It means less work and more time for relaxation. And Gas Ranges cost less to buy, to use, and to install.

League Outlines Art Plan

All excited about their new project are members of the Junior League of Birmingham. It's the Children's Art Program, a project which will begin this fall.

★ ★ ★

The league gathered Tuesday at Devon Gables to work out details for this new venture, which will be in association with the galleries of the Cranbrook Academy of Art.

SPECIAL EXHIBITS

This program will provide special art exhibitions for children, and it is hoped that it will stimulate appreciation and understanding of the visual arts. Further it will offer studio facilities and class instruction planned for the children.

The league's sponsorship includes hiring a full-time director to supervise all the phases of the program. Assisting the league with the new project are Zoltan Sepeshy, director of Cranbrook Academy of Art, and Wallace Mitchell, head of the academy's galleries.

SCHOOL TOURS

The art center will be available for school tours and will afford an opportunity for the youngsters to work with a variety of art materials. The program will be geared to the average pupil, rather than the one who shows artistic talent.

★ ★ ★

2 Church Units Plan Style Show

Mrs. William Glenn is general chairman for a March 25 family fashion show sponsored by Marbach and November groups of First Presbyterian Church.

★ ★ ★

Ticket chairmen for the 7:30 p.m. event are Mrs. Philip Meacham and Mrs. Gordon Cox. Other chairmen include Mrs. William DeRoo, publicity; Mrs. Lester Carlson and Mrs. Stephen Napier, refreshments, and Mrs. Robert Mulberg, models.

Stores participating in the show will be De'Cor Shop, Alicia Bridal Salon, Margaret Ann Shop and The Hub.

★ ★ ★

Decorations are to be by Dunstan's Flowers and entertainment will be a barbershop quartet.

Nurses Hear About Aiding Older People

Dr. Wilma Donohue, director of Division of Gerontology for the Institute of Human Adjustment, spoke Tuesday evening in McAuley School auditorium to members of Oakland County District of Michigan State Nurses Association.

★ ★ ★

The speaker discussed problems of working with the senior citizen and the responsibilities we have to them to provide adequate care, rehabilitation and a purpose to live.

She pointed out the need for specialized training to work in this field.

★ ★ ★

Following Dr. Donohue's speech a panel discussion took place. On the panel were Dr. Donohue, Marjorie Gaston, Eleanor Buck Rasak, Elaine Bevan, Ann Foster and Ruth Nagle.

Style Showing Slated May 20 by Fashionette

Mrs. Joseph Preston is chairman of a May 20 Fashionette Club fashion show. Assisting her are Mrs. John Copple, Mrs. Peter Hernandez, Mrs. John Reichert and Mrs. Lowell Barrager.

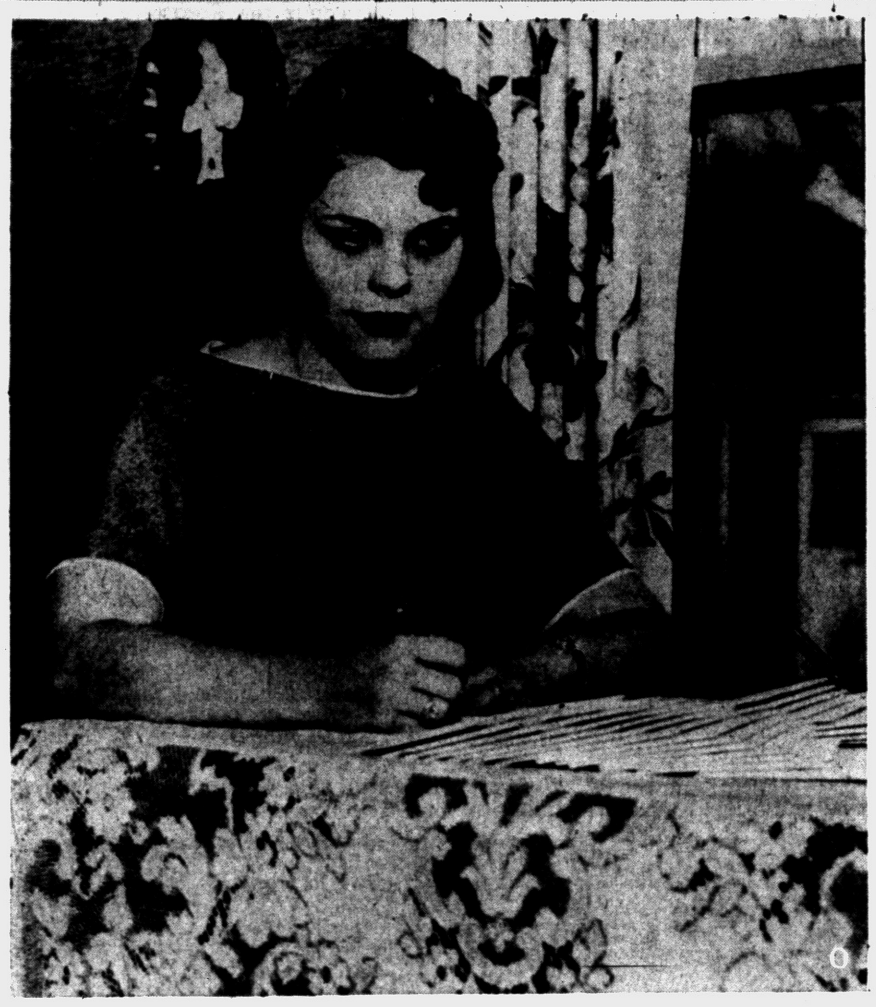

★ ★ ★

New members received into the club Tuesday evening in Adah Shelly Library were Mrs. Lonnie Riggs and Mrs. Leonard Passint.

Mrs. Hernandez and Mrs. Edward Cook won trophies for losing the most weight during the week. Mrs. Sam Jones was last week's winner.

Mrs. Mary Veasey spoke to members of the group on direct distance dialing. Gymnasium night will be held at the next meeting.

Pontiac Press Photos

Spring is the time when a young girl begins to dream of wedding bells, orange blossoms and bridal gowns. A number of Pontiac girls are making plans for spring weddings, including Patricia Donelson who is addressing invitations for her April 19 wedding to Howard L. Cate Jr.

A great deal of thought must go into planning a wedding. As the wedding draws near the bride must make decisions about floral arrangements, seating at the church and reception plans. Virginia Flath (left) and her fiance Paul Odell talk over floral plans with Mrs. Eleanor Clark. The young couple plans a May wedding.

Springtime's Bouquet Blooms With Brides

In springtime the nostalgic smell of orange blossoms becomes increasingly familiar as more and more young couples choose early spring months for their weddings.

★ ★ ★

Much thought and care must be taken in planning a wedding, so as not to lose sight of the true and lasting meaning of the important day.

HOURS OF PLANNING

Once a young couple decides to become man and wife, hours of planning and decision follow . . . whether to have a large wedding or small, and consequently, how many attendants; the type of reception; whether to buy a house or rent, and so on down the endless list of things the couple must decide.

★ ★ ★

No matter the size of the wedding or where the ceremony is performed, it is an occasion of importance and solemnity. All thought and preparation prior to the wedding should be good groundwork for the foundation of a solid and happy marriage.

As one of the most important days in the life of JoAnn Robertoy approaches she tries on the veil which will complete her bridal costume. Miss Robertoy will become the bride of Raymond Lingle in First Baptist Church April 5.

Archeology Discussed at Dinner

Woman's Club and Guests Hear Talk by Bruce Danes

Bruce Danes of Oak Park lectured and presented slides on archeology when 75 members of the Pontiac Woman's Club, their husbands, and guests attended a dinner meeting in the Pontiac Federal Savings and Loan Building.

★ ★ ★

Discussing the 4,500-year-old City of Uhr, or Abraham, Mr. Danes stated that archeologists have found that the city's ancient inhabitants could write in three languages and that each house contained a library and lavatory facilities.

COMMITTEE NAMED

Mrs. C. W. Myers, club president, appointed the program committee for the next club year. Chairman is Mrs. Maurice Baldwin, assisted by Mrs. Hayden W. Henley, Mrs. J. O. Radenbaugh, Mrs. Alfred Coles, and Mrs. H. N. Watson.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Archie Allen, present program chairman, announced the April 21 meeting will be a luncheon and tour of the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Hostess for the Monday dinner was Mrs. Albert Simpson, assisted by Mrs. E. M. Rose, Mrs. Maxwell Lucas, Mrs. H. A. Perry, Mrs. Erving Zuehlke, Mrs. Oscar Teng, Mrs. Lewis Stewart, Mrs. C. B. Robinson and Mrs. Phillip Vieriech.

Mrs. Earle Hoskins was dinner chairman, assisted by Mrs. Charles Miller, Mrs. William Mustard, Mrs. J. D. Teeters, Mrs. William F. Pfeiffer and Mrs. Phillip Worth.

Dear Abby....

He's Paddling in Deep Water

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: There are plenty of laws to protect innocent girls under 21 from the unwelcome advances of men. But how about protecting young boys under 21 from the bold and tempting invitations of older women?

ABBY

My son is 18 and he attracts older women like a magnet. He's been a lifeguard for two summers and he's got a build on him that makes strangers (women) ask to have their pictures taken with him. I want him to keep his mind on his studies, but he gets so many calls from women he can't. Isn't there anything I can do?

WORRIED MOM

DEAR MOM: A lifeguard knows that no matter how good a swimmer he is, he should stay out of troubled waters. Women older than himself are too "deep" for him. Explain it to him, or let his father do it.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: My problem is a husband who refuses to stop writing letters to old sweethearts (married and single). I went to a psychologist because I was upset over it and that psychologist gave me so much double talk I am more confused than ever.

He backed my husband up and said it was only an "innocent pleasure that doesn't mean a thing," but I can't see it that way. When my husband takes me in his arms I never know who he is thinking of. Please set me straight.

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: Your husband has no business corresponding with "old sweethearts" (married or single). If it's an "innocent pleasure" that doesn't mean a thing, he shouldn't object to cutting it out.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 years old and we have an unlimited telephone. I call up boys so they won't have to call me. Most of the boys I know don't have unlimited telephones and it would cost them something to call me. My mother doesn't think this is right of me to call them. Please give me your opinion.

JUDY

DEAR JUDY: You may have an "unlimited telephone" but you have limited "privileges" as a young lady. Don't call boys! If they want to talk to you they will be glad to spend the money.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I am a waitress in a cocktail bar and my boy friend is the bartender. He is Irish and just about as jealous as the average Irishman, so he watches every move I make.

I can't even smile at the customers and you know how much a sour-puss waitress can get in tips in a bar. It's getting so I hate to come to work nights. Got a solution? Don't tell me to quit because I need to work.

CHRIS

DEAR CHRIS: That's not the only job in town, is it? Take MY tip and work elsewhere.

★ ★ ★

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SHERM": First find out if there is "something" between them. If there is, put something else between them — as many miles as possible.

★ ★ ★

If you have a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of The Pontiac Press. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped self - addressed envelope.

Press Garlic Clove Without Peeling It

Cooks who like that added fillip of garlic can take a tip from French chefs. Don't peel the clove before pressing.

Piano Soloist Makes Concert Memorable

By MAX E. SIMON

Never during this concert season of the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra has an audience shown the spontaneous enthusiasm displayed by the symphony-goers who attended the fourth program of the season last night.

★ ★ ★

The huge crowd, which filled both the main floor and the balcony of the Lincoln Junior High School auditorium, was no doubt drawn primarily by the guest artist of the evening, pianist Mischa Kottler, who was heard in the Beethoven Piano Concerto No. 4 in G Major.

DIFFICULT CONCERTO

Kottler is an artist of the highest rank, and the concerto which he performed, while technically not the most difficult of the Beethoven classics, is certainly the most difficult to interpret.

★ ★ ★

From the first few opening chords played by the solo artist, it was evident that the audience was present on a memorable evening. For Kottler played with the skill and understanding that only such a sensitive artist as he can impart to a great musical masterwork.

Especially beautiful was his playing in the second movement, a conversation between the soft, singing voice of the piano and the gruff turbulence of the strings.

★ ★ ★

As the final notes of the concerto were sounded, the audience roared its approval and called Kottler and the orchestra's conductor, Francesco Di Blasi, back on stage again and again.

MAJOR TRIUMPH

For both Kottler and the orchestra, it was a major triumph and the audience let them know it.

★ ★ ★

The orchestra also performed the "Seven Dances for Orchestra" by the great modern Hungarian composer, Bela Bartok. Unlike much of Bartok's music, the dances, based on Hungarian folk themes, are relatively easy to understand on first hearing and were acclaimed by the audience.

The program concluded with the Ballet Music to "Sylvia" by Delibes. This light and invigorating dance music, a concert standard, was performed vigorously and enthusiastically by the orchestra.

Also on the program was Cherubini's overture to the opera, "Anacreon."

MUSICAL MEMORIAL

A sad note on the program was the playing of "The Last Spring" by Grieg in memory of Roslyn B. Wyman, who died suddenly March 1. She was active in the founding of the symphony and a leading participant in community affairs.

★ ★ ★

The orchestra's fifth and final concert of the season will be on April 29. It will feature Celia Merrill Turner, associate conductor of the orchestra, who will lead the group in the first half of the program in Beethoven's Symphony No. 2.

The concert will also include Griffis' Poems for Flute and Orchestra, with the orchestra's principal flutist, Arthur Welton, as soloist.

But There's No Need for Special Care

Reduce Strain During Life Change

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

I receive many letters asking what special care a woman should give her complexion during menopause, and during the summer and early fall months many also ask whether or not they should keep out of the sunshine as much as possible during this period of life.

★ ★ ★

In the first place, menopause happens during the middle years. At middle age the skin has a tendency to become drier because the natural oils lessen with the years. Also, the change in hormone production may increase this tendency and may also temporarily exaggerate any complexion problems the woman had before.

However, there is no special care needed during these years, except to be even more faithful than ever in carrying out your health and beauty routines. What has been good for you previously will be good for you now, with a few exceptions.

While the change of life is a perfectly natural experience, it is a time of physical strain until your body adapts to the new glandular setup. You should give yourself a break by getting a little more rest and by cutting out as many strains and stresses as possible.

★ ★ ★

Remember, though, that professional women, as a whole, have an easier time at menopause than women in the home, possibly because they cannot allow themselves the luxury of thinking too much about themselves. This is a very uncertain luxury!

BROWN SPOTS

Many women have brown spots on the hands, arms and face, who would not have them had they stayed out of direct sunlight. This always emphasizes or brings out freckles in those who have them and also produces brown spots which an indoor life would prevent.

★ ★ ★

Of course, not one of us would want to give up outdoor life but those who wish to take pretty skin into older age would do well to avoid extreme sunbathing, to get their sunlight during the early morning hours or in the late afternoon, to wear large hats, and gloves.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Menopause" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 32. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Tomorrow: "Anytime Is the Best Time for Exercising."

Pillar Club Meets With Mrs. Kirby

Mrs. Arno Hulet and Mrs. Theodore Wiersema participated in a program when members of the Pillar Club gathered in the Cherokee road home of Mrs. Frank Kirby.

The underlying spiritual values of ancient Easter customs were discussed by Mrs. Hulet. Mrs. Wiersema used Lawrence E. Nelson's book, "Our Roving Bible," to show the Bible's influence on everyday life through the ages, and especially the development of the English language and literature.

Assistant hostesses at the Monday meeting were Mrs. Claude Shoup, Mrs. Marcus Scott, Mrs. Albany Kirby and Mrs. Fred Conner.

The population of the United States (including Armed Forces overseas) is 172,830,000.

Writer Is Laughing With, Not at, Small Car Owners

It's Funny to Hear Americans Brag About Littlest Instead of Biggest

By RUTH MILLETT

A lot of "little car" owners are mad at me because I recently wrote a kidding column about the kiddie cars.

I wasn't. I was laughing WITH them. We have a little foreign car ourselves. And we are doing our share of bragging about mileage, boasting about the way it climbs hills, making our friends sit at the wheel to see for themselves how much space there really is.

★ ★ ★

We, too, demonstrate how we can zip it into a parking space too little for a normal - sized car.

But the fact I'm laughing at myself as well as others doesn't make me any the less amused.

I still think it's funny to hear Americans used to bragging about the biggest and best suddenly bragging about the littlest and least.

I still think it is rather strange that Americans find it so easy to switch from bragging about horsepower to bragging about mileage, and from loving chrome to loving compactness.

★ ★ ★

I still think a big man in a little car looks as funny as a woman in a sack dress.

But while I'm chuckling, it isn't in a superior fashion.

By the way, do you want to know how many miles WE get to the gallon?

May Guest Ask Ride to Church?

Should Not Expect Hosts to Sacrifice Their Sleep

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: When spending a weekend in someone's house, is it proper for a guest to ask the host, or hostess, to drive her to church on Sunday if they are of another denomination and do not go themselves? I mean, of course, when the guest does not have a car of her own and the church is not within walking distance."

Answer: She can ask her hosts to order a taxi for her, but she should not expect that they get up early to drive her on the one morning in the week that they can sleep late.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to be married shortly and would like to know who buys the flowers for the bridal party. I always thought the ushers bought the flowers for the bridesmaids and the best man bought the flowers for the maid of honor.

"I have heard recently that the bride is supposed to pay for all the flowers, including her own bouquet. Will you please tell me what is correct?"

Answer: The bride's parents pay for all the flowers for the decoration of the church, the bride's bouquet (although in many communities this is bought for her by the bridegroom), the flowers carried by the maid of honor and the bridesmaids.

The bridegroom buys his own, his best man's and his ushers' boutonnieres. He also buys his bride a corsage to wear away.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Two young people were quietly married two months ago. The parents of the bridegroom are having a large reception for them within two weeks when they return to this city. Being a close friend of the bridegroom's mother I received an invitation to this reception. Am I expected to send a present?"

Answer: If, because of your friendship for the bridegroom's mother, you feel like sending a present, you do so, but there is no obligation to send one.

Wings Sit Comfortably in 3rd Place

Win Over Leafs by 4-2 Margin Paced by Howe

Victory Puts Detroit Four Points Ahead of 4th Place Bruins

DETROIT (AP) — The wheezing Detroit Red Wings were comfortably nestled in third place today, but there was concern about the "big guy" — Gordie Howe.

Howe fired his 32nd goal and assisted on two others last night as the Wings easily maintained their mastery over the Toronto Maple Leafs 4-2. But the star scorer often failed to show his usual dash.

"He has sinus trouble," said Gen. Mgr. Jack Adams. 'He was sluggish and wasn't checking his man. He doesn't seem to have his usual pep."

Adams said Howe's sinuses were to be X-rayed today.

The Wings' worry about Howe's sub-par condition was heightened by the Stanley Cup playoffs which open next Tuesday.

New York is four points ahead of the Wings. The Rangers, Wings and Bruins have three games each to play before the campaign ends Sunday.

New York and Boston meet tonight. A Ranger victory would cinch second place for them and give Detroit a permanent grip on third. Detroit still would be able to equal the Rangers' point and victory totals. But second place would then be awarded on goals scored. The Wings have scored 20 fewer goals than the New Yorkers.

★ ★ ★

So it appears certain Detroit will open the playoff semifinals with the Montreal Canadiens Tuesday with the second game scheduled for the following Thursday, both at Montreal. The rivals would shift to Detroit Olympia for games March 30 and April 1.

The heavy load is another bother for Adams.

"We have a rough way to go," Adams said. "Games Thursday, Saturday, Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday. I hope the big guy is okay."

Normie Ullman, who was handicapped by a cold, equalled Howe's production ast night as Detroit completed its play with Toronto this season.

★ ★ ★

Ullman's tally was his 20th, the first time he achieved that milestone in his three National Hockey League seasons. It came in the second period and put Detroit ahead to stay. Howe and Billy Harris of the Leafs matched first period markers, Howe's coming while Red Wing Forbes Kennedy was in the penalty box.

Jack McIntyre scored shortly after Ullman and Johnny Wilson closed out Detroit's offensive work in the final stanza. George Armstrong scored for Toronto after the Wings sewed up the game.

Bertoia Key as Tighe Seeks Versatility

Tigers Lack Infield Depth

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The lack of depth in the infield has become an increasingly thorny problem and has brought on a search for versatility in the Detroit Tiger camp.

Reno Bertoia, up to now regarded as the club's regular third baseman, is being tried at second base and shortstop.

Unless the Tigers come up with a reserve infielder who can fill in adequately in at least two positions, or unless they show versatility that up to now is not evident, they will be in deep trouble.

Without infield depth, the Tigers cannot hope to be a contending team. One cannot assume that a major league club can go through a 154-game schedule and not require the services of a utility infielder who can fill in without hurting the club.

There probably will be injuries and most certainly slumps.

This is not an active trading period, since each club is seeking to learn its own strengths and weaknesses. The Tigers would like to trade for another infielder and for second line pitching help. Completing a satisfactory deal is another matter entirely.

Inman (Coot) Veal, described in one report as "Detroit's answer to Chicago's Luis Aparicio," is not an adequate answer for a club that expects to be a contender. He can play only one position—shortstop—and never has shown the ability to hit even minor league pitching.

Bertoia, who proved two seasons ago he is more than adequate with a glove at second base, and who played shortstop in the minors, has been splitting third-base chores with Lou Skizas. Both have been hitting exceptionally well.

Manager Jack Tighe has insisted "Reno is my third baseman until he shows he can't handle the job or until Skizas shows he's more entitled to it."

So it came as a mild surprise yesterday when Bertoia went in for Frank Bolling at second base for the last half of the Grapefruit League game here with the New York Yankees.

It probably will come as an even greater surprise when Tighe puts him at shortstop one of these days — perhaps today when the Tigers meet the Milwaukee Braves at Lakeland.

★ ★ ★

"Unless I get some infield help, I've got to have guys who can play all over," was Tighe's explanation after the contest which the Tigers lost 7-3 as Tony Kubek collected four hits, scored three runs and batted in three others.

The Yankees raced to four early runs against their old nemesis, Frank Lary, who yielded five hits and four walks in four innings.

Blanked by Hank Aguirre for two innings and by Ron Rozman for one more, the American League champs exploded for three insurance runs in the eighth inning against Rozman.

Hawk Coach Blasts Dukes

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Coach Alex Hannum of the St. Louis Hawks wants National Basketball Assn. officials to blow the whistle on tactics of Detroit's Walter Dukes which he termed "far beyond the realm of aggressive basketball."

Hannum demanded in a telegram yesterday that Jocko Collins, chief of the NBA officials, come here for the opening of the St. Louis-Detroit playoffs tomorrow night.

"I want Collins to see that we do not have a pushing match Wednesday night," said the coach of the Western Division champions. "And I want him to instruct his officials to call a foul when a foul is committed.

★ ★ ★

"Dukes has been getting away with murder all season and I want to make sure he's not going to get away with anything this time with so much at stake."

Pistons Meet St. Louis in NBA Playoff Opener

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

★ ★ ★

The Celtics entertain the Philadelphia Warriors while the Hawks play host to the Detroit Pistons. Each series is the best-of-seven.

Philadelphia last night eliminated the Syracuse Nats 101-88. The Warriors, in taking the best-of-3 series, 2-1, scored their first victory over the Nats on the Syracuse court this year behind Paul Arizin's 25 points. Dolph Schayes flipped in 26 for the losers.

★ ★ ★

Detroit eliminated Cincinnati earlier by taking two straight. The status of big Bill Russell and Frank Ramsey had Boston officials worried as the Celtics faced the only team in the NBA they failed to edge in overall season play. Philadelphia split 12 games with the classy Celt.

★ ★ ★

A 6-10 former All-America from San Francisco who set an NBA record by grabbing 1,654 rebounds this year, Russell vowed he would be ready for the opening game with the Warriors.

★ ★ ★

Ramsey, the former Kentucky ace who plays both up front and in the backcourt, had a hospital visit scheduled for today. If given the medical okay, he probably will have to wear a cast on his injured digit.

Martin at Short, Kuenn in Center for Opening Tilt

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Billy Martin will be at shortstop and Harvey Kuenn in center field when the Detroit Tigers open their 1958 campaign at Chicago, April 15.

★ ★ ★

Manager Jack Tighe said yesterday: "I'm confident both of them can do well in their new assignments."

Martin, acquired from Kansas City in a winter trade, has played second and third base during his major league career. Kuenn had played shortstop for Detroit since breaking into the majors in 1952.

★ ★ ★

"Martin tells you he's sure he can play shortstop," Tighe said, "and he looks you right in the eye when he says it. And Kuenn likes the outfield. So that's it. That's where they'll be opening day."

BOXER DIES— James Piorier, 21, of Burlington, Vt., died in Albany, N. Y., yesterday of injuries received in a bout last Saturday in Glens Falls, N. Y., where he fought William Payne. A brain clot was said to be the cause of death.

Grapefruit Injuries Mount

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The hazards of spring baseball training were emphasized yesterday when Jack Harshman, lame back pitcher traded to Baltimore by the Chicago White Sox, was stung by a scorpion. This was one of a series of ailments reported from the cactus and grapefruit front.

The poisonous insect apparently crawled into Harshman's uniform and stung him in the small of the back as he was dressing. Harshman, who said recently he would be able to pitch the entire season if his back didn't bother him any more than at present, was treated and then watched Charlie Beamon and Skinny Brown shut out the San Francisco Giants 1-0 on eight hits.

Examinations by a neurologist and head X-rays were ordered for Dusty Rhodes, Giants outfielder and 1954 World Series star, who has been complaining of severe headaches for two weeks.

Dick Drott, Chicago Cubs pitcher, was bumped at the plate by Gene Woodling of the Cleveland Indians and in falling sprained his ankle. He will be sidelined from a week to 10 days.

Clem Labine, Los Angeles relief hurler, was struck on the right ankle by Bob Cerv's drive and may be out a week or more. The Dodgers beat the Kansas City A's 5-4 in 10 innings.

The Dodgers got good news from Vero Beach, Fla., where Duke Snider batted for the first time in spring training. Duke, who was operated on for removal of cartilage in his left knee after the 1957 season, grounded to second and displayed fair speed and no limp as he ran to first base. This was a game where the Dodgers "B" team defeated Spokane of the Coast League 3-2.

Joe Ginsberg, Baltimore catcher, led off the seventh with a double and moved to second when Brooks Robinson walked. Lennie Green ran for Ginsberg, and both runners advanced on an infield hit. Green tallied the winning run when Brown rolled out to the pitcher in the game at Scottsdale, Ariz.

Cleveland defeated the Cubs 6-4 when Fred Hatfield drove in two runs in the fifth inning with a triple. The Indians "B" team also beat the Cubs "B" squad 5-3.

★ ★ ★

The St. Louis Cardinals got only four hits, but defeated the Boston Red Sox 3-2 in 10 innings at Sarasota, Fla. Gene Green, rookie catcher, doubled to score Curt Flood in the 10th. Ed Kasko's single then scored Green.

Two Washington pitchers, Ralph Lumenti and Camilo Pascual, scattered five Chicago White Sox hits and the Senators pounded out a 10-0 decision at Tampa, Fla.

Four Philadelphia home runs gave the Phillies a 6-3 verdict over the Cincinnati Redlegs at Clearwater, Fla. Harvey Haddix, a former Phil, was the victim as Wally Post, Rip Repulski, Frank Herrera and Willie Jones clouted round-trippers.

Shortstop Tony Kubek drove in three runs and scored three as the New York Yankees defeated the Detroit Tigers 7-3 at St. Petersburg, Fla., for their fifth straight victory. Kubek had four hits, two of them triples.

Dearborn Hits 30 to Pace Team's Win

Led by Harry Dearborn's 30 points, one of the season's top scoring efforts in the Waterford Recreation Basketball League, White Swan last night downed Jaycees 69-56 at Crary High's gymnasium. The Swan ace collected 14 of his total in a last period rush that pulled his team away from a 46-41 count.

★ ★ ★

Swans led all the way after a 28-11 first period, but Jaycees were only a point back, 27-26 at halftime. Win solidified Swans' hold on second place with an 8-3 mark. Jaycees standing is 1-10.

★ ★ ★

Royals Win 'A' District

City Fives in Clean Sweep

All three Pontiac champions representing this city in state recreation basketball tournaments posted victories Tuesday night with a district crown the reward for one of them.

★ ★ ★

The Lakeside Royals, city Class A champs, handed Roseville, a 75-59 pasting at Pontiac Central High to annex the Michigan Recreation Association district title and qualify for a berth in the state tournament at Ypsilanti.

Griff's Grill moved into the semifinals of the Class B Inter - City tourney at Detroit's Lasky Recreation Center with a thrilling 63-62 triumph over Livonia. Griff's faces a Detroit quintet tonight in an 8 o'clock semifinal match.

Two foul shots by Ken Titherage after time had expired scored the tying and winning points for Griff's. Titherage was the high scorer for Griff's with 13.

Auburn 5 & 10 advanced to the finals of the Class D Inter - City tournament at Hamtramck High School with a 49-45 conquest of Hamtramck. Eleven consecutive free tosses aided the Auburn cause. Three Auburn players fired double figures, paced by Chuck Johnson's 18 points.

City Golf Course Opening March 30 for '58 Season

Pontiac Municipal Golf Course is scheduled to open to the public for the 1958 season on Sunday, March 30, the Parks and Recreation Department has announced.

Several improvements have been made for the forthcoming season, including the redecoration of the clubhouse, new sections of fence, grass-sodded tees, the preparation of the new practice green for use and a new No. 1 tee on the north nine.

Very little winter damage has been noticed thus far and with a few days of warm weather and sunshine, the course can soon be put into good shape for opening day.

In addition to more fence which will be installed along Bagley street this year, pathways, shrubs and tree plantings are other scheduled improvements. The usual club and cart rentals, golf supplies and refreshments will be available.

To make continued improvements possible and also keep in step with increased maintenance costs, the Parks and Recreation Department has announced a slight hike in golf rates for the 1958 season. This year's new rates follow:

Weekdays, nine holes—85 cents; Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, nine holes—one dollar; weekdays only, all-day play until 5 p.m.—two dollars; twilight when not sufficient daylight is left to complete nine holes—50 cents; all league play, nine holes—85 cents.

★ ★ ★

A golf instruction clinic, sponsored by the Parks and Recreation Department, will start some time in April. The clinic is expected to be composed of four sessions of two hours each covering basic fundamentals of the game through films, demonstration and practice.

Emphasis will be given to proper stance, grip and swing as related to a variety of clubs and situations. Rules and golf etiquette will also receive attention.

Persons of high school age and over interested in attending this clinic should register with the recreation department by calling FE 3-7131. Those who register will be notified by telephone or post card of the date, time and place of the clinic.

A one-dollar charge will be made for Pontiac residents and a two-dollar fee for persons living outside the Pontiac city limits.

YOU'RE THE MANAGER

(Eighth of a series)

By BEN OLAN

Minnie Minoso has been one of the American League's standout players over the last seven years. In 1957 he batted .309 and drove in 103 runs.

Minoso played a pivotal role in the following situation. The strategy used by Chicago White Sox Manager Al Lopez helped put this game on the winning side of the ledger.

Here's a chance to find out how you rate as a manager. Digest the problem . . . decide . . . and then see what really happened.

The White Sox and Washington are tied 1-1 in the last of the sixth at Chicago. Chuck Stobbs (L) is pitching for the Senators. Minoso opens with a single. Sherm Lollar's grounder is fumbled by second baseman Herb Plews, putting runners on first and second. Larry Doby strikes out. But Jim Landes receives a base on balls, filling the bases with one out. Jim Rivera (L) is the next batter with Bubba Phillips (R) to follow.

Would you:

a. Put in a righthanded pinch-hitter for Rivera?

SHERMAN LOLLAR

b. Order Rivera to try a squeeze bunt?

c. Let Rivera swing away?

d. Have Minoso try a steal of home?

(Other data: Rivera has no hits in two tries in this game; Walt Dropo, Sammy Esposito and Earl Battey are the available right-handed pinch-hitters; Minoso has stolen three bases in the 12 games played up to this point.)

Result: A — Dropo bats for Rivera and hits a grand slam homer; good for four runs. Chicago wins 8-1. (May 2)

Xavier Quintet Upsets Bradley in NIT

Top-Seeded Dayton 5 Joins Xavier in Semis by Dumping Fordham

His Musketeers from Cincinnati are the big surprises of the National Invitation Tournament. Last night, they upset Bradley's defending champions 72-62 and later were joined in the semi-finals by top-seeded Dayton which defeated Fordham 74-70.

★ ★ ★

Xavier will meet St. Bonaventure in the first semi-final game Thursday night while Dayton will tackle St. John's of New York for the right to compete in Saturday afternoon's final.

Last night Xavier was out for revenge. They lost to Bradley by 35 points in last year's quarter-finals and, said McCafferty, "They weren't going to end our season two years in a row."

★ ★ ★

The Musketeers, who pulled the NIT's first upset by defeating Niagara last Saturday, turned on the steam early in the second half.

Fordham made a gallant stand against Dayton. The Rams lost to the Flyers by 29 points early in the season. But the Rams must have learned something from that first game. For they led 26-23 at halftime and it took the sharpshooting of sophomore Frank Case and the Bockhorn brothers, Terry and Arlen, to pull Dayton through.

★ ★ ★

Colts Bid for State Semis at Lansing

Troy Battles Tech Tonight

In March of 1955 the Troy Colts advanced to the semifinals of the state high school basketball tournament before taking it on the chin from Buchanan.

Now, three years later, the Colts are on the verge of gaining the semis again. But there's a huge obstacle blocking their path.

Flint Tech, boasting a record of 40 wins against only five losses over the past two seasons, tangles with the undefeated Colts tonight in a Class B state quarter-final headliner at the Lansing Civic Center.

When the Colts line up for the 7 o'clock tipoff, they will be meeting a team whose record this season is nearly as impressive as their own. And you just can't do any better than Troy, which has a 20-0 mark.

The Eagles, coached by Al Gricius, lost their season opener to Flint Bendle. Since that time they have rolled to 22 consecutive victories, including the city Christmas holiday tourney and six games in district and regional action.

Tech is paced by Jerry Beebe, its "do-everything" star who plays wherever he's needed the most. Beebe is Tech's No. 1 point-maker and has received all-state honors this year.

Ron Cates is Tech's 2nd leading scorer while Carl Williams, 6-foot-3 center, controls the boards. Guards Angelo Panoff and Mike Kerner are of the small but deceptive variety.

There is a strong indication that defense will play a key role in this game. Tech's defensive mark of 46.1 is the best at the school in four years while defense has been almost as important as offense in Troy's scheme of things.

Exceptional balance has featured the Troy squad this season with center Dick Booth and guard Wayne Figley the sparkplug performers and clutch operators. Troy is admittedly the toughest foe Tech has encountered this year.

Another standout attraction will follow the Troy-Tech game tonight on the Civic Center court as 32 prep quintets wade into state quarter-final activity at 13 different sites throughout Michigan.

Also worthy of top billing is the twin bill at the University of Detroit Memorial Building, which sends River Rouge against Hamtramck St. Florian at 7 p.m., followed by an 8:30 collision between unbeaten Detroit Austin Catholic and tourney-wise Highland Park.

Tonight's state quarter-final games:

CLASS A

Benton Harbor vs. Inkster at Albion College, 7:30.

Al Madden Lends Voice to Snow-Flea Evidence

By JACK PATTERSON

Today's effort is aimed to further the education of people like Clare Utley and Milo Cross, and other assorted non-believers who sniffed and exchanged knowing looks when we expounded on the subject of snow-fleas the other day. Some in fact, suggested we hadn't seen anything at all and offered highly imaginative reasons why we saw things in the snow that weren't really there.

PATTERSON

Well sir, for the benefit of these wise guys we're quoting from a letter recently received from Eastern Junior High teacher Al Madden, subject: Snow-Fleas.

★ ★ ★

"Dear Jack:

"I follow your episodes and recommendations in The Press and I enjoy them. (Publisher please note, ED.) But I was especially happy when you discovered snow-fleas.

"Now, I've been trying to tell my friends about said fleas and they usually puff out their cheeks and look dreamily away. So I had about given up on one of the most interesting insects I have ever known.

★ ★ ★

"When I was studying 'Bugology' at the U. some years ago I read in my Lutz Bible about the snow-flea. I wanted one for my collection but very few persons had ever seen one, and most people said 'bugs'. However, after years of searching I finally found them in great abundance — in eastern Ogemaw County near my cottage. They were in the deep swamps, living on and under the snow. They resembled fine particles of soot blowing across the snow. I usually found them in late winter and always when the sun was shining. They apparently climb upward through the porous snow to sun themselves.

"As I remember the story of the snow-flea he actually has a goshawful monicker of Smithanthecus - Aquaticus and is nickname for him because unlike the dog flea, that uses his legs for hopping, he uses his tail. He folds his rather long gristle tail under him, places its end in a pocket under his neck and pushes down hard. When the tip fleas out, Mr. Springtail takes off fast. I'd call him Smith's water-flea because he lives near wet places in decaying vegetation in northern forests and usually in peat bogs.

★ ★ ★

". . . I think you can do a real public service by dispensing correct and accurate information about such creatures. As you probably know, there are more insect species than all other plant and animal species combined. Some one-half million have never been classified."

Multi-Lakers View Haver's Trout Film

A fascinating color film of speckled trout fishing, in what has been called the world's best "speck" waters, Lake Nipigon, in northern Ontario, will highlight tonight's Multi-Lakes Conservation Assn. meeting at Reed's Lake. Dennis Haver, Detroit sportsman, photographer, who made the film, will narrate its sequences.

Food, Cover, Weather Real Factors

3 Keys to Good Game Crops

ALL OUTDOORS, U.S.A. (INS) — Conservation and game officials are coming forth with more and more evidence that the secret to good game animal crops is food, cover and weather, not predator control and restocking.

★ ★ ★

Pennsylvania game officials reported recently, "Game birds and animals are products of the soil, therefore they thrive in relation to the amount and quality of food and cover available to them."

Instead of joking about Mr. Rabbit "learning his multiplication tables," Pennsylvania sportsmen's clubs, principally beagle clubs, have done something about the food and cover situation. Club officers in the Keystone State reported after they planted natural rabbit cover "we are just loaded with rabbits."

On the predator subject — a real hot one in Michigan where the county-paying ideas is struggling for life — Thomas Scott, Illinois biologist and well-known wildlife authority, said:

"It may prove enlightening to think of predation as an age old activity to which nature adjusted long ago. If prey populations (rabbits, pheasants, etc.) were not well endowed with means of survival and if foxes lived up to their reputations as deadly predators it seems reasonable to believe that the predators would have eliminated their food and themselves generations ago."

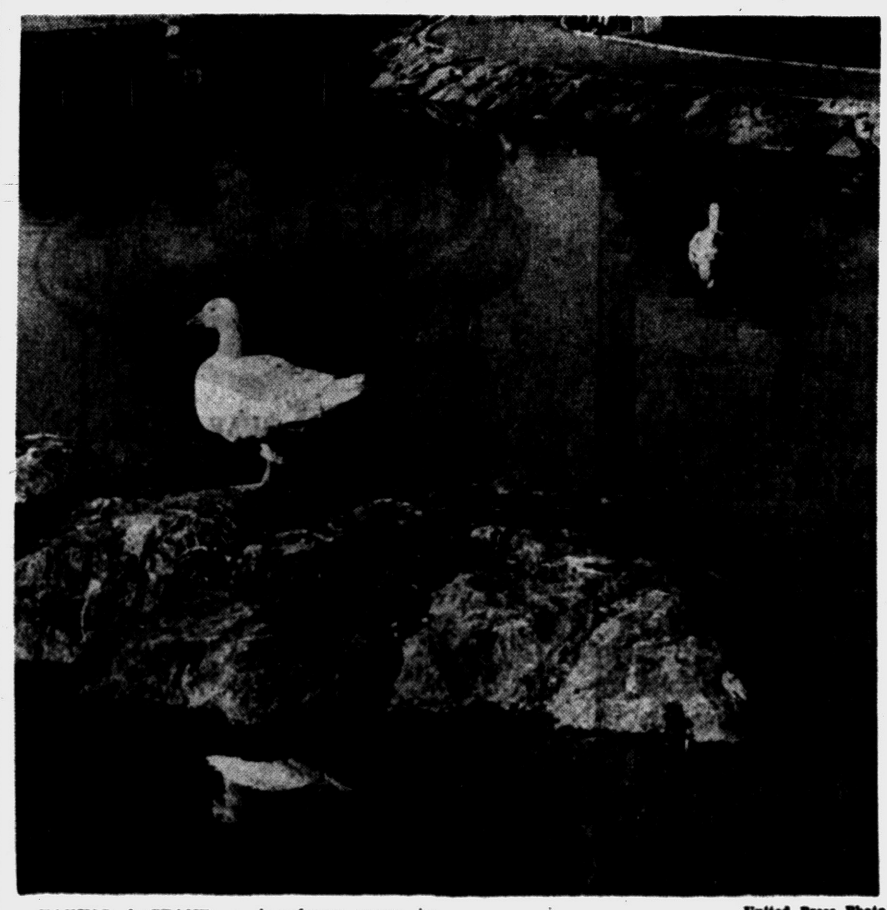

★ ★ ★

On the subject of bounties, in Ontario where the wolf and coyote situation is more serious than anywhere in the U.S., lands and forests officials reported:

"The size of the deer population is usually determined by such factors as suitability of the habitat (food and cover) and weather, rather than by the size of the predator population."

Would Restore Old Fee System for Duck Blinds

Among the many opinions heard at the recent session of the state conservation body over the controversial matter of changing regulations governing duck blinds in the Saginaw Bay area, on Lake St. Clair and in the Detroit area, was one by a Pontiac hunter.

★ ★ ★

State officials would bar use of floating blinds, or others beyond a line 200 feet from shore, or well defined vegetation, in a line from Bayport docks to north end of Heisterman Island. Similar rules were mentioned for St. Clair Flats.

Pontiac's Arthur Perry urged the commission to restore the old system of issuing permits on construction of blinds on a fee basis.

"Then let the department have the say as to where the blind goes, too," Perry suggested.

Solons Would Study Zone Hunting Idea

LANSING (AP) — Two lawmakers have asked for a legislative study of possibilities for setting up deer hunting seasons on a zone basis.

★ ★ ★

Reps. Walter G. Nakkula (R-Gladwin) and Joseph G. O'Connor (D-Detroit) asked the house to set aside $2,500 to finance the study by three house members after the legislature adjourns next month.

★ ★ ★

"States such as Wyoming and California now have deer hunting on a zone basis, with such things as weather and deer populations determining which areas have hunting and for how long," said Nakkula. "At the present, of course, the deer season is the same for the entire state, running from Nov. 15-30."

Say Japanese Violate Treaty Signed in 1951

Studies of Operation Indicate Alaskan Fish Cycle at Stake

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The outdoors world is developing a full scale international incident of its own, with Japanese fishing for North American salmon the issue.

Sports fishermen and even non-fishing conservationists are adding their voices to the protests that originally came from commercial interests, since recent American and Canadian studies indicate the whole salmon resource may be at stake.

The Japanese began their current high seas operation, in what North Americans claim is in violation of the 1951 North Pacific treaty, in 1954 and have expanded it annually. Since Japan has no salmon spawning in her own territory, salmon taken on the high seas come chiefly from the coastal streams of the U.S., Canada and Soviet Russia.

Particularly affected has been the red salmon resourse of the Bristol bay area of Alaska. The American section of the International North Pacific Fisheries Commission has proposed that the high seas zone where the Bristol Bay salmon go be designated a zone closed to all fishing this year.

Alternatives, the commission said, involve either closing the American and Canadian operation down altogether in order to achieve a reasonable escapement, or permit wide open fishing by the North Americans—"as the Japanese do, and destroy the cycle."

Orion Archers Win Over Pontiac Club

LAKE ORION — Recent merchandise match held in the Lake Orion Archery clubhouse, attracted 24 members each for the Pontiac club, and the Lake Orion Archery Club.

This was the 3rd contest between the two clubs in the past five years, and the first match the Orion team has won.

Actual scores, without handicap, were used for eight targets of the Chicago round. Each archer shot against an opponent with an average which was similar. Results were 16-9 in favor of the Orion club with team totals of 4887 and 4274 respectively.

Following the shoot 32 gifts from Orion area merchants were awarded.

Little Stories About Outdoors

With spring just around a corner, feathered harbingers of the advent of a new season are on the move northwards to summer nesting grounds.

Earliest arrivals have been in this section for several weeks. They have included grossbeaks, robins and others, including an errant bluebird that really had its dates mixed. Now comes a report today from Blaine Jones, 2720 Grandview, Williams Lake, who watched three long-necked, long-legged cranes flying 300 feet high, headed northwest. "Must be still early for these birds," says Jones.

Wild geese really fly high and fast. Checked against an airplane's speedometer one was caught at a mile-a-minute clip recently. As for altitude, this one was hitting it up over the 29,000-foot mark, nearly 5½ miles above terra firma.

★ ★ ★

And speaking of speed! Most persons believe snakes move swiftly, but when under way they travel at little more than five miles an hour. Body movements, when striking, among the poisonous reptiles are, however, something else.

One of the most attractive pictures of the Michigan white-tail deer fawn season is the wide-eyed spotted coat little creatures. White tails are born with the spotted coat that serves as camouflage protection, turns to brown later.

★ ★ ★

Michigan Tops With Rods, Guns

LANSING — Hunting and fishing pressure in Michigan is greater than in any other state, according to annual license reports from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

★ ★ ★

Approximately 2,370,000 hunting and fishing licenses were issued in Michigan during the 1956-57 fiscal year, again topping the combined total of any other state.

Michigan also retained its position as the most popular state in the nation, with 1,250,000 licensed nimrods, an increase of 32,000 over the previous year.

Conservation Projects Listed as State Job Aids

LANSING (AP)—Michigan will be ready with a listing of conservation projects if and when Congress allocates money for public works projects designed to combat the current economic recession.

So said conservation director Gerald E. Eddy in a report to the State Conservation Commission.

At the request of Gov. Williams, Eddy said he had asked for a round-up of all conservation projects which could be undertaken with public works money.

As a starting point, conservation officials will refer to a similar listing prepared for former Gov. Harry Kelly in 1944 when returning servicemen were expected to create an unemployment problem. The program never went into effect.

Patterned along lines of the old Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC), projects which likely would be authorized would include stream improvement, laying out roads in state parks and forests, bridge construction and landscaping.

Solunar Table

While area fishing is in the between-season stage just now, there is not too much activity for the hook-and-liners. Softening ice is making ice-fishing hazardous in many instances. But for those still hardy enough, John Alden Knight's solunar periods (below) may aid in finding the best times during the ensuing week, for such sport.

Late Season Fishing Produces Big Perch

Robert Feeney, 62-year-old machinist at the Warren Alloy plant here is an avid fisherman who takes his outdoor sport the year 'round. He's enjoyed ice-fishing all winter and has had good luck. His best perch fishing however came at Oxbow Lake this week.

Using a tipup rig Feeney hauled in seven or eight yellow perch that averaged 13 inches in length. Biggest ones weighed two pounds or better.

Dick Feeney, 809 Palmer Dr., Pontiac, a son says his dad, former Wisconsin resident of the Lake Superior area now living in Rochester, thinks the Superior angling is better, produces bigger fish such as lake trout, muskies and walleyes. "Still like it here, though," Dick added.

Pictures at OCSC

Oakland County Sportsmen's club will hear Detroit tackle manufacturer Charley Helin relate some of his colorful outdoors and angling experiences at the March 26 meeting in Waterford clubhouse. Helin will accompany his talk with color motion pictures. This is a general membership meeting.

New Boat License Rules May Change Racing Plans

LANSING (AP) — Lawmakers were told yesterday that enactment of proposed stricter state boat licensing rules might force changes in the annual Port Huron to Mackinac Island race.

Chandler said the more stringent rules would pose a dilemma for race participants from other states because of conflicts between state and federal regulation on boat lights, "rules of the road" and in other areas.

He explained that the prefestivity area for the race might be moved across to Sarnia, Ont., thus making it convenient for out-of-state entrants to avoid Michigan waters.

Sen. Robert E. Faulkner (R-Coloma) urged a one-year moratorium on the licensing requirement as applied to out-of-state boat owners operating on inland lakes and streams.

New Quarters for Finny Guests

U.S. Revamps Charlevoix Fish Station

CHARLEVOIX (AP) — More than 100,000 finny tenants have moved into new quarters in Charlevoix at a government installation remodeled recently at a cost of $54,250.

George Roff, manager of the U.S. Fish Culture Station, says the new crowd is but a small portion of the 1,000,000 fish — mostly lake trout — eventually to be placed in care of station personnel.

About 10 per cent of the million total will be rainbow and other trout to replenish rivers and inland lakes.

Newly constructed concrete raceways, each 73 feet long, eight feet wide and 30 inches deep are available for the station's small fry guests. A new water system pumps up to 1,000 gallons a minute into the troughs.

Roff says the station is the only one of its type in the state. Two other federal fish hatcheries and feeding stations are located in the Upper Peninsula.

Facilities prior to renovation permitted keeping fish at the station only until they were six or seven months old. They were planted in the Great Lakes each fall.

Newborns are self-sustaining for the first two weeks with individual food sacs attached by nature to each tiny body. Their human caretakers step in after two weeks with feedings of ground liver every hour.

At six months, the former planting age, there are about 250 to the pound. The yearling size, now determined best for planting, finds about eight or nine to the pound.

Lions' Deal for Bill Glass Hits Snag

Detroit Rights to Ex-Baylor Star Uncertain

New Canadian Waiver Rule Is Technicality in Getting Gridder

DALLAS (AP) — There's a possibility a contract signed by Bill Glass, former Baylor All-America, with the Detroit Lions of the National Football League might not go through.

Nick Kerbawy, general manager of the Lions, said here yesterday he had signed Glass, who was with Regina of the Canadian League last year. But he then found that because of a technicality the deal may not yet be complete.

Sam Taylor, president of the Regina Rough Riders, said the deal wasn't complete — "We've only given Detroit negotiation rights on Glass."

The waiver rule is a new one in the Canadian League. "This comes as a complete surprise to me," Kerbawy said. "In my dealings with Regina officials, nothing was said about any waivers. They told me they would notify their commissioner and I said I would notify Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League.

But apparently, Kerbawy said, the waiver will go through all other clubs and everything is set. "For all intents and purposes," he said, "the deal is complete."

Kerbawy said he had been told by telephone by Dean Griffing, general manager of the Rough Riders, that the deal is firm and set.

Cagers Attract Fans, Racing Gets the Cash

NEW YORK (AP) — To call baseball "America's national pastime" is no longer just a well-worn cliche. It is a canard. It just isn't so.

What, then, is the No. 1 sport in the United States? Well, that all depends. But one thing is sure, by the usual measuring sticks, it's not baseball.

Figures show that basketball draws the most spectators. But the most amusement dollars go into racing. And, as for participant sports, Americans go for bowling, fishing and hunting.

According to a survey for the Converse Basketball Book basketball attendance for 1956-57 was 142,848,698. That's millions. No other sport begins to touch this figure but no other sport offers as many games.

By comparison, horse racing, both the flats and harness, drew 53,820,958. The track people openly advertise racing as "the No. 1 spectator sport in America."

Professional baseball in 1957 drew 20,000,000 less than the horse tracks. The major leagues attracted 17,015,819 and the minors 15,496,684 for a total of 32,512,503.

Bigtime football lagged farther behind. College football, 121 institutions and 580 games, brought in 13,931,295 and pros attracted 2,836,318 for an aggregate 16,767,613.

The race track crowds are broken down as follows: 32,999,842 for the flats, 20,821,116 for the harness. The tracks had total receipts of $254,811,000—topping all recreation phases except the movies and country clubs.

Baseball receipts were $53,410,000—even less than the billiard parlors, which brought in $74,981,000.

There were 6,150 strikeouts recorded in the National league during the 1957 season, a total which set an all time major league mark.

Officer to Take Punishment

Major Won't Ask Trial; Flew Korean Thief 25 Miles Nailed in Box

SEOUL (AP) — The American major who flew a young Korean thief 25 miles nailed in a box has decided to accept punishment without trial. The most he can get is a rebuke and loss of a month's pay.

★ ★ ★

The Army gave Maj. Thomas James, 40, Plymouth, Pa., the choice of accepting the token punishment or seeking an acquittal in a general court-martial. The 8th Army announced his choice today but a spokesman said it is not known what his punishment will be.

Army investigators said the boy, 14-year-old Kim Choon Il, was mistreated after being caught with stolen goods at the 8th Army aircraft maintenance center at Ascom City. He is now in an orphanage.

★ ★ ★

Capt. Marvin E. Kemp, 34, Kilmichael, Miss., will be tried by a general court-martial on charges of striking and cutting the boy and confining him in a box. If convicted, he could be imprisoned five years, dismissed from the Army and deprived of all pay and allowances.

★ ★ ★

A special court-martial will try M.Sgt. Robert E. Weidensaul, 32, Pottstown, Pa., charged with nailing Kim in the box. He could get six months in jail, reduction to private and loss of two-thirds pay while imprisoned.

Diem Arrives in Manila

MANILA (AP) — South Viet Nam President Ngo Dinh Diem arrived in Manila today for a five-day state visit. He saluted the Philippines as a "land of freedom." He is expected to discuss export of Vietnamese rice to relieve a Philippine shortage and exchange of agricultural, technical and other missions.

Working Model Already Complete

GM Plans 'Magic Carpet' Travelways

Electronically-controlled superhighways and monorail commuter trains may be combined by the year 2000 into a single, elevated transportation "core," carrying traffic over the rooftops in crowded metropolitan areas, General Motors Corp. suggested today.

★ ★ ★

An elaborate operating model of this concept will be featured at the GM exhibit at the Brussels World Fair next month, GM President Harlow H. Curtice disclosed.

The top two levels would be three-lane highways, each carrying one-way vehicular traffic, and the bottom level would be the monorail from which commuter trains would be suspended.

The transportation core would be erected in a straight path from destination and could be "stepped" according to the contour of the terrain to keep the same level throughout, thus avoiding the curves and hills still present in the most advanced of present expressways, Curtice said.

Another safety factor, Curtice pointed out, would be complete electronic guidance, a "greatly advanced" form of the magnetic device for automatic steering which GM demonstrated for the first time last month.

The life-like, three dimensional model will be part of GM's exhibit on the history of transportation. Expected to be viewed by 10,000 spectators a day, the exhibit will present a conventional landscape first, then a landscape of the future with hundreds of model vehicles running at various speeds over a transportation core system.

Lawyers Burning Midnight Oil to Join Justice Department

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON (INS) — Youthful Attorney General William P. Rogers declared today that not since the early days of the Roosevelt New Deal have so many bright young lawyers been burning the midnight oil in Washington.

Rogers will shortly announce the selection of 60 young men and women, graduating this spring, who will begin work for the department at $4,500 a year. Half of these honor graduates are in the top five per cent of their class.

Each will be promised a $900 raise at the end of the first year, provided he wishes to stay on in the department. Judging by previous experience, most of them will.

The recruitment program inaugurated in 1954 has already trained 177 first-rate attorneys, 60 per cent of whom are still with the Justice Department. For those who wish to branch out into private practice after their first year, Rogers maintains a placement service for nationwide job-finding.

Politics plays no part in the selection of these promising youngsters. In fact, one of the men had been president of the Stevenson-for-President club on his law college campus, before coming to the department.

Of the 177 attorneys selected to date, 11 are women, two of whom graduated first in their class. Two of the brightest young lawyers in the department are blind.

★ ★ ★

To help these handicapped honor students, the department has hired readers who handle their research in the anti-trust and appellate divisions to which they are assigned.

Two other proud members of the "honor" group are polio victims, one of whom rides around the halls of justice in a wheelchair.

The unique program has won outspoken praise from the bar associations of the country. Those organizations believe that a real contribution is being made, not only in improving the standards of the Justice Department, but also in benefiting the entire legal profession by the training which those who leave take with them into private practice.

One young trainee amazed his father, a long-time attorney, by remarking that he has argued three cases in the appellate courts during his first year with the department. The father, after 30 years of private practice, has yet to handle a case in the appeal courts.

High spot of the program occurred recently when one of the young lawyers recruited from law school received an "outstanding performance" rating after his first year.

Since 99 per cent of all lawyers in the Justice Department receive ratings merely of "satisfactory," it was unheard of for a first-year man to receive such an award.

Capistrano Folks Sure Swallows Will Return

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Calif. (AP) — The swallows came back to Capistrano early this year. Also on time. Also late.

The story goes that for 25 years, or 67, or 182 — depending on your choice of the version — the swallows have been rturning to San Juan Capistrano mission on St. Joseph's Day, March 19.

Well, yesterday was March 18, and the old mission was aswarm with swallows. About 100 were swooping and diving overhead. How come?

A worker cementing ancient tiles together paused and pointed his trowel at the cloud of birds.

Kenneth Stager, curator of birds and mammals at Los Angeles County Museum, says experts scoff at the legend of the swallows' timetable. He called it a "farcical story."

"Their arrival depends on the weather, not the calendar," he said. "The birds winter in South America and then move up here as the weather turns warm."

Their arrival may cover a month's time, he said.

Gray-haired Tony Olveras, who runs a restaurant in the town where he was born, has spent much of this century watching swallows come and go.

"We never used to pay them any attention back in the old days," he said. "They were just birds, to us. It seems to me this talk about the swallows arriving March 19 didn't start until about 1932."

The mission fathers don't make any official claims that the swallows' sense of timing is infallible.

Quaker Joins Crew of Bomb Protesters

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Quaker teacher has been added to the crew of the Golden Rule, the 30-foot ketch that sails next weekend to protest nuclear tests in the Marshall Islands in the Pacific.

★ ★ ★

Orion Sherwood, 28, was selected to replace David Gale, Carver, Minn., who became ill on the Golden Rule's first attempt, turned back by foul weather.

Sherwood is a teacher at Oakwood Quaker School, Poughkeepsie, N.Y. He is a graduate of the University of Utah.

Million Russians Vote Against Party Slate

MOSCOW (AP) — nearly a million Soviet citizens voted against the single Communist party slate in Sunday's parliamentary elections, but it didn't affect any seats.

The Central Elections Commission reported in final returns that 944,377 persons crossed out the names of party-picked candidates. That was more than twice the number who dissented in the 1954 elections for the Supreme Soviet but was less than 1 per cent of the 133,796,091 recorded as voting out of a total electorate of 133,836,325.

Discovers Insects Alone to Survive Atomic Disaster

They can survive 100 times the amount of radiation that humans and animals can take, he said today in a statement from 4th Army medical laboratory.

He discovered they can absorb as much as 60,000 roentgens without death. It normally takes from 450 to 600 roentgens to kill an animal or human. A roentgen is a unit of measure of radiation.

★ ★ ★

Said the colonel, "Should man destroy himself with awe-inspiring weapons and inventions, both man and animal could perish, leaving nothing but hardy insects to repopulate the world." He said he did not have information on how well fish could survive.

His research also points out something that has been known for some time—that many insects have stepped up their ability to break down poison molecules and render them harmless.

Successive generations of some insects have increased their resistance to insecticides by 2,000 times, he said.

Indiana State Trooper Uses Old Milk Cartons as Highway Flares

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — An Indiana State Trooper, Sgt. John A. Cook, is using a unique new weapon in the unending war on needless nighttime highway deaths —empty paper milk cartons.

★ ★ ★

Sgt. Cook's campaign began one night last fall when he was sent to the scene of an accident and found that an enterprising motorist had set a flare in the middle of the highway to warn approaching drivers of the accident.

On close examination, the flare, which could be seen from a half mile, was a half gallon waxed paper milk carton, stuffed with several other crushed cartons.

Sgt. Cook said:

"The man who set out the flare, told me he always carries several of the carton flares in the trunk of his car. They are ideal for the average motorist. They cost nothing, ignite with a single match and will burn brightly for over a half hour. They are readily available and make a wonderful safety measure."

Sgt. Cook took this idea to his superiors. They enthusiastically adopted the plan and made it part of their official safety program.

The program has been adopted by the Indiana Safety Council and the Boy Scouts have added it to their 1958 safety campaign.

Scientific Explanation of Man-Friday Position

WASHINGTON (AP)—The age of the hard-to-get scientist has produced a new phrase in the jargon of government personnel managers: the man-Friday position.

A man-Friday position, as the Navy defined it for a House Armed Services subcommittee, is one that has been established to stretch the supply of scientists by providing others for "duties not specifically requiring full professional background."

The King James version of the Bible was published in 1611.

Truman Blames Problems on Ike

Country Led Into Peril by Administration, He Tells Farmers

DENVER (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman blamed the Eisenhower administration, in a speech last night, for farm difficulties and the business recession and charged it has led the country "into a position of great international peril."

★ ★ ★

He made a flat bid for Democratic votes in his talk to the National Farmers Union convention.

"If you want to improve the welfare of the farmer; if you want to restore prosperity; if you want to strengthen our defenses; if you want to repair the injury that has been done to the international security of the country," he said, "there is one clear-cut thing you can do. You can vote for a Democratic Congress in 1958 and for a Democratic president in 1960."

★ ★ ★

Truman asserted that profits of food processors and distributors have increased sharply since President Eisenhower took office while farmers' income has dropped by four billion dollars a year from levels achieved during his administration. He also said it is costing the taxpayers at least four billion dollars more annually to run the Department of Agriculture than when he was in office.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson, Truman said, should be called "Expensive Ezra," but he added that "if you could get rid of Benson, you probably wouldn't change a thing."

Calling the farm program "perhaps the most conspicuous failure of this Republican administration," he also charged that "its high interest rates and tight money policy have run our entire economy into an entirely unjustifiable recession."

"This Republican administration," he charged, "through blundering, mismanagement and refusal to face the facts, has led our country into a position of great international peril." He claimed the United States' allies "are slipping away from us, and bitter criticism is supplanting the spirit of unity that formerly held the free nations together in the face of common danger."

Youth on Stand Sets Back JP With His Retorts

★ ★ ★

So he asked Max U. L. Lent if he was "conveniently" forgetting answers to questions.

"I have pledged under oath to tell the truth," repied young Max. "When I say I do not remember, I do not remember."

The hearing was for Max's mother, Mrs. Mary Virginia Lent, 36, of Phoenix, accused of embezzling a $4,800 sports car from a Tucson automobile agency.

★ ★ ★

Max took the stand over the vigorous objections of his mother's attorney, who said Max wasn't old enough to know he was placing himself in jeopardy.

He said he would take the Fifth Amendment today.

Wedding Photographers Fight to Take Pictures

The Wanganui Ministers' Association released a statement saying bluntly that taking wedding pictures takes up too much time between the ceremony and the reception. It recommended that the photographs be taken after the wedding breakfast. This brought a quick reply from J. B. Johnston, president of the Institute of New Zealand Photographers.

He said: "Immediately after the service the bride is usually looking her best. After the reception a lot of her radiance and serenity is lost. An intolerant statement such as this deplorable. The Church would do well to consider the feelings of the bride on this, the most important day of her life."

Grain Futures Slide Lower

CHICAGO (AP)— Heavy offerings by two commission houses took grain futures prices down in early dealings today on the Board of Trade.

The liquidation was mostly in wheat, corn and soybeans and some of those contracts slid off around a cent a bushel at times. Oats held about steady but rye weakened with wheat.

Near the end of the first hour, wheat was 1¼ to 1⅞ cent a bushel lower, March $2.24½; corn ⅛ to ¾ lower, March $1.13⅞; oats unchanged to ¼ lower, March 65⅞; rye ¾ to 1⅛ lower, March $1.36¾; soybeans ⅜ to ⅞ lower, March $2.21⅝; lard unchanged to 5 cents a hundred pounds lower, May $12.27.

Pontiac Hosts GM Salesmen

12 in Firm's National Dealer Organization Tour Area Plants

Pontiac Motor Division played host Monday and yesterday to the 32 top salesmen in the company's national dealer organization, with tours of several General Motors plants in the Detroit area highlighting the two-day meeting.

★ ★ ★

Representing each Pontiac sales zone in the country, 27 of the leading salesmen are zone presidents of Pontiac's Master Salesmen's Guild and in recognition of their accomplishments in 1957 all were recipients of special awards at a banquet that climaxed their visit to the home office.

For five of the men it was the second consecutive year to be honored as the most outstanding salesmen in their respective zones.

In addition to visiting Pontiac production facilities, the guild presidents and the five honorary past presidents toured Pontiac Fisher Body and the GM Technical Center.

Greeting the salesmen at the awards banquet were Semon E. Knudsen, Pontiac general manager and Frank V. Bridge, Pontiac general sales manager, who made the presentations.

Sales, Earnings Up

NEW YORK (INS) — National Dairy Products Corp. sales increased 5.9 per cent to reach a record $1,432,319,000 in 1957. Earnings were 5.6 per cent higher at $44,058,000, or $3.18 per share, also an all-time high.

Special Demand Feature of Rise

NEW YORK (AP) — Demand for a handful of special issues featured a higher stock market in early trading today.

Leading stocks generally rose fractions to a point and a few favorites did better. There was a sprinkling of small losers spread through major divisions.

The upswing came after stocks had declined three straight sessions. There were a number of bullish factors, including the cut in commercial bank reserve requirements late yesterday and reports of a pickup in household appliance sales.

Brokers said much activity could be attributed to the heavy short position in some issues. The New York Stock Exchange will announce new totals on short interest late today.

Short selling is the sale of stock which the seller does not own, but borrows. The short seller hopes to be able to buy it back later at a low price.

Lorillard, yesterday's most active stock, opened up ¼ at 52 on a 7,000 share block. It posted a gain nf 1⅜, then trimmed that slightly.

Navy Search Fails to Turn Up Intruder

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Navy pounced with destroyers and planes when it contacted an unidentified underwater object in maneuvers off the northern California coast. But search results "were negative."

The Western Sea Frontier announced that the contact had been made Friday.

The Navy said: "As a result of regularly scheduled fleet exercises, an unidentified underwater contact occasioned the deployment of additional aircraft and surface forces to investigate.

The Navy said one of its planes contacted the object 25 miles off Bodega Bay, some 50 miles northwest of San Francisco. The object refused to identify itself and other planes and Navy craft, including 11 destroyers from San Diego, rushed to the area.

Planes and surface craft crisscrossed a 15-mile square without further contact with the object.

Senator Fights to Kill Off Probe

McNamara Says That Kohler Quiz Is Aimed Against UAW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McNamara (D-Mich), fighting to kill off the strife-torn Senate Rackets Committee on which he serves, said today it has lived too long already.

Plagued by partisan feuding and "leaks" of tentative reports by rival factions, the special committee, meanwhile, plodded ahead with its hearings on violence in the Kohler Co. strike.

The plumbing fixtures company and the United Auto Workers have charged each other with responsibility for numerous acts of violence in the strike the union called nearly four years ago. The company has continued operations with nonstrikers and new employers.

★ ★ ★

Partisan factions have developed within the committee of four Democrats and four Republicans. The UAW, one of the most active unions politically, normally supports Democratic candidates.

The row erupted into a heated Senate debate with McNamara charging that the Kohler probe was initiated "to embarrass—or, if possible, cripple" the UAW. He called it a "clean" union.

★ ★ ★

Calling on the Senate to end the special committee's life, McNamara announced he would oppose a proposal by Sen. Morse (D-Ore) to give Democrats control of the committee by adding one extra Democratic member. Morse said the action was needed to end what he called a "stalemate" and to restore party responsibility.

"It is long past the point where that would do any good," McNamara told newsmen later. "I feel strongly about it."

★ ★ ★

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark), replying to McNamara, said that "whenever I come to the conclusion that the usefulness of this committee has come to an end, I'll walk out on this floor and tell the Senate."

Meanwhile, from both sides, partisan sources were busily leaking to newsmen the still unpublished report of the committee's first year of investigation in the labor-management field.

Check Subs Diving

WASHINGTON — To rig for diving in a modern submarine, the crew must conduct 225 individual operational and equipment checks.

Harold Schick Will Talk on Picking Good Trees

The meeting will begin at the Pontiac Central High School auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

Schick, who will also show colored slides, will be one of five experts who will speak at the meeting. He is now an extension specialist in park management at Michigan State University.

City forester Donald Nagel will discuss the transplanting and care of young trees and Wayne B. Siefert, county horticultural extension agent, MSU, will give tips on control of disease and insects on local trees.

"Why trees die" will be the topic which Charles Frankenfield, forestry supervisor for Detroit Edison Company, will explain.

★ ★ ★

William Aho, city park supervisor, will also discuss pruning and fertilizing.

The first garden meeting on building, maintaining and renovating lawns, was conducted last night.

The program, "Building Your Outdoor Living Area", is sponsored by the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department, the Michigan State University Oakland County Extension Service, the North Oakland County Hardware Dealers Association, and the Pontiac Press.

Huge Truck Contract Boost for Chrysler

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Potter (R-Mich) announced today that Chrysler Corp. has been awarded an Army contract for more than $100,000,000 in Army trucks.

★ ★ ★

Potter said the order calls for 33,000 trucks with work to begin within 30 days. He said it would cut Detroit's unemployment rolls considerably.

★ ★ ★

Chrysler will build 32,000 three-quarter ton trucks and 1,000 one-ton trucks, he said.

Formal announcement from the Army was expected later today.

To Sell Planes at City Airport

New Firm Completing Facilities at Cost of $100,000

Big business is literally "soaring" into Waterford Township as final plans for a new airplane sales and service corporation near completion.

★ ★ ★

Flite-Line, Inc., is in the process of moving into a new $100,000 building at the Pontiac City Airport and will handle sales of four types of aircraft.

Glenn Waggoner Jr. is president, his brother Robert is vice president and their father Glenn Sr., is treasurer, with brother-in-law Joseph Miller, secretary.

On the second floor, there will be accommodations for overnight travelers. Also included are four offices for field pilots.

He added that the reason for building in Waterford Township was that it is ideally located and said, "We all felt that this is the airport with the biggest future in the area, and this was the main reason for our establishing here."

★ ★ ★

The grand opening date has been set for the weekend of April 11, 12 and 13th.

Pontiac City Affairs

Seven Paving Projects OK'd

The city will go ahead with seven paving projects approved after public hearings on their construction last night.

Commissioners also accepted engineer's estimates on four other paving jobs, including widening of a portion of W. Huron street, and two repaving projects, including the resurfacing of Elizabeth Lake avenue.

★ ★ ★

Public hearings on the city's intention to go ahead with these latter six projects were scheduled for next Tuesday night.

Approved last night were these paving projects:

★ ★ ★

Cornell avenue, Baldwin to Carlisle; Kinney road Oakland to Stanley; Ann Arbor avenue, Carlisle to Stanley; Euclid avenue, from High street east about two blocks; Wyoming avenue, Bagley to Franklin road; Stanley avenue, Kinney to Kennett; and Pensacola avenue, Oakland to Monticello.

Taylor street, Hill to Ellwood; assessed cost, $2,129; city share, $475; cost for a 60-foot lot, $138. Linfere street, Franklin road to Brush; assessed cost, $2,236; city share, $5,585; cost for a 104.7-foot side lot, $408. Brush street, Bagley to Linfere; assessed cost, $13,580; city share $62,000; cost for a 50-foot lot, $325. South side of Huron street, Williams to the Grand Trunk Railroad; assessed cost, $2,500; city share, $8,258; cost for a 60-foot lot, $300.

★ ★ ★

The cost is higher on Linfere and Brush streets, City Engineer Lewis M. Wrenn said, because these streets need thicker concrete to bear the load of industrial traffic. The city owns considerable property that would be benefited by the Brush street project, he added.

★ ★ ★

Estimates on the two repaving jobs were:

Elizabeth Lake avenue, State to Telegraph; assessed cost, $5,746; city share, $34,216; cost for a 40-foot lot, $60. Washington street, State to Prall; assessed cost, $8,390; city share, $4,534; cost for a 60-foot lot, $247.

Commissioners also accepted estimates for proposed gravelling and grading on High street, Summit to Euclid. The assessed cost would be $777, subdivider's cost, $138; city share, $48; cost for a 40-foot lot inside old city limits, $48; cost for a 40-foot lot outside old city limits, $60.

★ ★ ★

A hearing on a petition protesting construction of curbs and gutters on W. New York avenue, Baldwin to Walton, was delayed two weeks to coincide with the city's hearing on its intention to construct.

Into Cash—Governor to LCC

Convert Liquor Inventory

LANSING (AP)—Gov. Williams has signaled the state liquor control commission to start operating under the Conlin plan, but chairman Joseph Wisniewski says the "specifics" remain to be worked out.

Both were vague, and refused to be drawn out.

The plan was proposed Jan. 22 by Rep. Rollo G. Conlin (R-Tipton) as a means of diverting 18 million dollars now tied up in state liquor inventory into the ailing state treasury.

The idea was to shift from a 30-day to a 90-day basis for liquor purchases, Conlin said.

But yesterday, Wisniewski said the commission intends to continue on the "basis we have in the past" and to make purchases again next Tuesday subject to the customary 30-day payment.

His answer to a variety of questions boiled down to a paraphrase of the hazy instructions from the governor, which read:

"Implementation of the Conlin plan should be in such fashion as will secure the maximum recapture of inventory sums with a minimum disturbance to the practices of the commission and the people who deal with it."

President Gets Housing Bill

House Vote Approves Emergency Measure for $1.8 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House, without debate or a record vote, passed in one minute and sent to President Eisenhower today a $1,850,000,000 emergency housing bill.

The only comment was that of Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich), who raised the parliamentary point that a majority of the membership was not present. But Hoffman did not press his point. He remarked that he didn't know what was in the bill anyway.

There had been some advance indications that opposition might be raised to a provision of the bill allowing the President to raise interest rates on GI home loans to 4¾ per cent from 4½ per cent.

In addition to that provision, the bill continues GI home loan purchases for two years for World War II veterans until July 25, 1960.

It also authorizes lower minimum down payments for homes purchased on government insured FHA mortgages, and authorizes new federal outlays for various housing programs.

The House then turned to two Democratic - sponsored pump-priming resolutions.

★ ★ ★

The two resolutions, sponsored by House Democratic Leader McCormack (Mass), declare it to be "the sense of Congress" that the administration accelerate federal military and civil works spending of funds already appropriated by Congress.

The Senate already has passed smilar resolutions by almost unanimous vote. They have no legal force.

Business Notes

Assistant manager Robert Benedict of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. office, 1007 W. Huron St., has been promoted to field training instructor, and will work in the New York office of the firm.

Replacing Benedict, an Auburn Heights resident, will be Floyd T. Blanzy, of Waterford Township, who qualified as a million dollar producer during his first year with the firm. The changes were announced by manager Alois S. Vincler.

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP)—Douglas Mastbrook rummaged in his father's pants pocket. He found $55. Douglas went to a window. He saw a boy shuffling by. He held out the bills in a gesture of generosity. The boy took them and ran. Douglas didn't understand. He's only 3½.

Roxanne Arlen Retires From Poor Film Roles

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Roxanne Arlen, the Hollywood starlet who is a Taffy Tuttle dumb-blonde type, is going to "retire" from the movies.

She'd done about 15 Hollywood movies—but she always got small parts. Her mother, Mrs. Dorothy Giles, of Detroit and Los Angeles, was really amazed when she actually saw her daughter on the Broadway stage.

WILSON

"My first picture," laughed Roxanne uproariously at Sardi's the other night, "was 'Son of Sinbad.' I stood in a line of girls and screamed 'Hail, Sinbad!'"

"We couldn't find her in it," her mother said, puzzled. "Her daddy said, 'I think that's Roxanne there.' I said, 'I don't see her.' We stayed twice.

"I had about four lines like 'Goodbye' and 'Hello,'" giggled Roxanne.

Roxanne, always nervous at auditions, had many frustrations—one of them a husband she'd married at 16. He complained he didn't like the way she wiggled so she asked for a divorce, and L.A. papers christened her "The Wiggle." She now consults an astrologist about her romances.

"Anyway, I thought Roxanne was finally really off the ground . . . then they signed Jayne Mansfield," her mother said, gloomily.

ROXANNE

One day, New York producer Al Seldin asked her to fly here for a good part in "The Body Beautiful" stage show—but after she'd made the trip, they decided to use a dancer, which she isn't, and ~~got Mara Lynn~~ instead.

Uncrushed, Roxanne auditioned for Leland Hayward and Alex Segal for "Who Was That Lady?"—and was terrible.

"You were horrible — but we're going to use you anyway," Segal told her. He felt she'd just been nervous.

★ ★ ★

"I have no desire to go back," Roxanne said. "I don't think I was very good, or I'd have gotten some place. Besides, I love the stage. Because when I'm on the stage, my mother can find me!"

'Amos 'n' Andy' Begin 40th Year of Partnership

HOLLYWOOD (AP)— In this day of feuding comics, it's pleasant to report that Charles Correll and their 40th year of partnership — and their 31st year as Amos 'n' Andy.

Back in 1918 the two started producing home talent shows together. Then in 1920, they did a blackface sketch over an experimental wireless station in New Orleans.

This led to the gag that Marconi got Amos 'n' Andy when he tuned in the first wireless.

For their first eight years at WGN, Chicago, Correll and Gosden were known as Sam 'n' Henry. Their contract forbade them to take the name with them when they changed to another station. So on March 19, 1928, the radio world first heard of Amos 'n' Andy.

The two have never had a contract with each other — or a feud.

Correll said: "We are direct opposites in dispositions—we give and take and we are careful not to hurt each other. We see each other socially quite often but ot enough to get on each other's nerves."

When will they retire?

Tonight on their CBS radio show, Gosden and Correll will appear as themselves for the first time. The anniversary format calls for them to explain the creation of the characters to Amos, Andy and the Kingfish.

The two are among the least recognized of show business personalities. Even friends have trouble remembering who plays whom. Correll is Andy and Gosden is Amos and the Kingfish.

3 Cities Will Honor Industry Presidents

PORT HURON (AP) — The mayors of Port Huron, Marysville and St. Clair have announced plans for celebration June 17 honoring the presidents of the 75 industries in the three communities.

"We are calling upon the residents of the three communities to join in this special tribute to the presidents of industries, to let the presidents know that they and their firms are appreciated," said Mayor Robert E. Schultheiss of Port Huron, Joseph S. Johns of Marysville and Dr. F. V. Carney of St. Clair.

★ ★ ★

F. Granger Well, executive vice president of the Port Huron Times Herald, chairman of the event, said:

"Often times the head of an industry seems to be the forgotten man. We wholeheartedly agree with the mayors t hatthe presidents are in line for a community-wide expression of thanks for their efforts."

Columnist Calls for Settlement

Urges Comedienne to Clarify Her Remarks for 'Tonight' Star

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK (INS) — The Dody Goodman-Jack Paar hassle has got clear out of hand: Interviewers called Paar to recount what Dody purportedly said about other entertainers on the show and Paar's reaction is:

DODY

"If this is so, and Dody said these things about other performers on my show, I am not a hypocrite. I will just say under these conditions, she will never appear on the Tonight show again."

★ ★ ★

The trouble here is that Dody's representatives say she never said such things, that these are efforts of some strange breed of interviewers trying to start a feud, on the premise feuds are more readable than friendliness.

If Dody never said these things about others on the show, she should say so quickly, for the situation now is near the point of no return.

Paar is boss of his show (NBC, Monday through Friday, 11:30 p.m. to 1 a.m.). Dody's last direct contract with the Paar show ended Friday, and her future appearances are up to Paar's personal decision.

★ ★ ★

Someone—perhaps several—has been trying to keep the feud on fire, although it could easily have been settled weeks ago if the two had got together and talked it out instead of making a thorough botch of the misunderstanding.

BIG FOLLOWING

We aren't much of a Dody Goodman fan, but it's plain she has quite a big following. As Paar himself said, you can't try to satisfy everyone, else you wind up satisfying no one.

★ ★ ★

Therefore, the presence of Miss Goodman in the show made and perhaps should continue to make good boxoffice sense.

The trouble here was not only a breakdown in communications between the two, but a typically Broadway misunderstanding in which each was told tall tales of what supposedly had been said by the other.

"The only time I ever had anything to say to her was one night when I asked Dody why she had shown up late for the show," Paar said. "Her answer was: 'Why do you hate me?'

★ ★ ★

NBC CONTRACT

Anyway, as of this week, Dody starts her new six-month NBC contract which guarantees her $25,000. She may work on the NBC show interested in securing her services.

She may work on the Paar show if Jack wants her, and our opinion of her talent aside, he should want her.

Calls Crime Figures Unfair to Juveniles

They don't give a true picture of juvenile delinquency, he said, citing a Philadelphia police figure stating 50 per cent of all burglary arrests were juveniles.

"During the period in question," he said, "There were 8,400 reported burglaries with arrests in 2,100 or 25 per cent of the cases. The other 6,300 are unsolved.

★ ★ ★

"We don't know who committed the vast majority of these crimes, but we do know the kids generally get caught because they travel in gangs and are inexperienced.

Old Traffic Warrant Finally Catches Up

VAN NUYS, Calif. (UP) — When aircraft worker Herbert Meyer was cited for making an illegal turn in traffic four years ago, he wrote the court:

"I will not appear and will not pay a fine. If you feel that I am guilty and must suffer, send a police car to my home... and I will spend the weekend in your jail."

The warrant finally caught up with Meyer, 35, when he tried to renew his driver's license. He appeared before Municipal Judge Julian Beck, who gave him the alternative of a $50 fine or five days in jail.

Shoplifts for Trousseau

FAIRFAX, Va. (UP)—A 16-year-old girl, who said she planned to get married Saturday, was arrested by Fairfax County police. They charged her with shoplifting for her trousseau.

Started Roadside Parks

IONIA, Mich. (UP) — Allan M. Williams, who claims to be the originator of highway roadside parks, has resigned as engineer-manager of the Ionia County Road Commission. Williams established what is believed to be the first roadside park in 1923 in Michigan's Ionia County.
