Brazil Police Crack Down, Arrest 100 Reds

Weeks Relaxes Curbs on Trade With Red Bloc

Commerce Chief Sees Little Increase in Flow of Goods to Soviet

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Weeks today eased restrictions on U. S. trade with the Soviet Union and other Communist countries of Europe, but he said he doubts there will be an early increase in the flow of goods across the Iron Curtain.

Commerce Department sources said Weeks' order would reduce by one-third to one-half the list of goods now banned from commerce between the United States and the Red block in Europe.

The announcement dealt only with policy—the Commerce Department is to make public later lists of specific items to be freed from embargo.

Weeks' move came a day after Foreign Aid Chief Harold E. Stassen announced a similar relaxation of curbs on Red trade of friendly nations getting aid from the United States.

Both officials said existing restrictions still stand on trade with Communist China, North Korea, or the Communist area of Viet Nam.

And both said the new policy toward trade with Communist countries in Europe would not let slip into the East-West trade stream anything of significant military value.

Voicing some skepticism that his new order would result in quick stimulation of East-West trade, Weeks' statement said "an early increase in the volume of trade with the Soviet bloc resulting from this action is unlikely in view of the bloc's aim of self-sufficiency and its inability to provide desired goods in exchange for imports."

Weeks said the new policy would shorten the list of goods which will be embargoed from the United States to European Soviet bloc countries, and provide an opportunity for increased trade in peaceful goods. An informed source said the embargo list now contains about 1,500 items and would be reduced to between 750 and 1,000.

Stassen's announcement dealt with smaller lists of goods which nations receiving aid from this country must not sell to Communist countries. They previously comprised 297 items and Stassen said the new lists would number 80 fewer.

Some of the items dropped were listed as flat and tank cars, crude and diesel oil, certain types of locomotives and tractors, nonmilitary tires, platinum, cadmium, calcium, sodium, strontium, vanadium, asbestos and mica.

Though taken from embargo, these items remain subject to surveillance for quantity of shipments.

U.S. Maps All-Out Drive for Defense Pact in Asia

WASHINGTON (INS) — The U. S. mustered its top diplomatic talent today for an all-out drive to win an alliance for defense of Southeast Asia—the region President Eisenhower once said was of transcendental importance to the free world.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will head the delegation to Manila next week and two high-ranking senators plus important defense and state department officials are included in the group.

The Philippine conference, opening Sept. 6, is designed to set up a workable pact to defend Southeast Asia against any renewed Communist offensive.

The senators named on the diplomatic "first team" for the U. S. are H. Alexander Smith, N. J., second-ranking Republican on the foreign relations committee, and Democrat Mike Mansfield of Montana, a freshman senator who has become one of his party's principal spokesmen on foreign affairs.

Dulles said Tuesday that his objective at the eight-power conference will be a pact to establish a new and dependable barrier to further Communist expansion in southeast Asia.

He appeared to rule out U. S. acceptance of any NATO-like plan for an army to stand guard along the free borders, when he said that an idea of what the U. S. wants can be gained by study of treaties already signed with Asian nations.

The treaties with Japan, Korea, the Philippines, Australia and New Zealand do not provide for forces on the ground but stipulated that in case of attack the treaty powers will confer and take action according to their constitutional processes.

The Philippines and Thailand, under the gun and fearful of attack from Red China, want much more than that and a high-ranking Asian diplomat said yesterday the Philippines may reject anything less.

Western officials stressed the importance of the economic aspects of the treaty.

U. S. Sabrejets to Leave Korea

Air Force to Shift Its Headquarters to Nagoya, Japan

SEOUL (AP)—The U. S. 5th Air Force announced today plans to pull many of its deadly Sabrejets and other planes out of Korea and shift its headquarters to Nagoya, Japan.

When the Korean armistice was signed 13 months ago the 5th was flying more than 1,000 planes.

Announcement of plans to base many of these planes elsewhere follows by only a few days disclosure that 4 of 6 U.S. infantry divisions now in Korea are to be withdrawn. Experts said the Army-Air Force withdrawal will pull at least 100,000 Americans out of Korea.

The Air Force did not identify units which will be pulled out. It said some will be based elsewhere in the Far East, while others will return to the United States.

Lt. Gen. Roger M. Ramey will remain in command of the 5th, but his headquarters will be consolidated with headquarters of the U. S. Japan Air Defense force at Nagoya.

$500,000 Split by Builder, Kin on FHA-Backed Deal

NEW YORK (AP)—The builder of a four-million-dollar Queens apartment project insured by the Federal Housing Administration testified today he and his brother made a half-million dollars on the deal.

Morty Wolosoff told his story to the Senate Banking and Currency subcommittee on irregularities in FHA loans.

He said that, through an appraisal of the Alley Pond apartments in Bayside, he increased the book value of the buildings by $937,000 so that a surplus was created.

Wolosoff said this made it legal under New York corporate laws to pay himself and his brother $250,000 each in dividends.

The witness first said the appraisal was made so that an unbiased estimate of the buildings, then just completed, would be available for entry on the corporate books.

Pressed by committee counsel, Wolosoff said, "I think that was right" when asked if the state's corporate laws prevent distribution of dividends except when there is a surplus and if he had the appraisal made so the value could be increased and a dividend declared.

"Wolosoff said the FHA mortgage on the six-building project, based

Top Jet Ace Dies in Crash of Test Plane

Joseph McConnell Jr. Shot Down 16 MIGs in Korea War

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Death on a routine test flight has ended the spectacular career of Capt. Joseph McConnell Jr., the nation's leading jet ace.

The 32-year-old pilot, credited with downing 16 MIGs in Korea, was killed yesterday when his F86H Sabrejet crashed on the Mojave Desert, 12 miles northeast of Rogers Lake.

His body was found beside his ejection seat, half a mile from the shattered plane. Nearby was his unopened parachute. An Air Force spokesman said apparently he had ejected himself from the plane at low altitude.

During the flight McConnell had radioed that he had lost control of the plane partially, but thought he could make a landing on the dry lake bed. Soon thereafter he reported he had lost the cockpit canopy. He was advised to bail out. Edwards base officers said he probably stayed with the plane too long.

McConnell, who said his prematurely gray hair came from being the father of three young children and not from his flying, served as a bomber navigator during World War II and later took flight training.

After the fighting broke out in Korea he repeatedly requested combat duty despite being told he was too old. His request finally was granted and he became an ace in just 30 days last year.

After downing his eighth MIG, his Sabre was hit by cannon fire at 40,000 feet near the Manchurian border. He bailed out over the Yellow Sea and a rescue helicopter pulled him from the frigid water.

After his 16th kill, the Air Force grounded him and ordered him home with the comment that he was "much more valuable alive than dead."

Rain Could Break Bank at Monte Carlo

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP)—This little city on a rocky slope, famous for its casino, promised today to pay hotel bills of tourists on the days it rains too much.

Gabriel Ollivier, tourist commissioner of this principality on the Mediterranean, said an "average rainfall" would be calculated for the past 10 years. Then any day it rained more than that, tourists staying in Monacno wouldn't have to pay their hotel bills. The government will make up the difference and a system of insurance is being arranged to take care of it.

The hitch: it begins next year.

This year Monte Carlo, like most other places in Europe, has had a trifle, just a trifle, you know, more rain than usual.

Vargas' Followers Rioting in Brazil

CROWDS DEMONSTRATE IN RIO—Thousands of demonstrators mass yesterday in front of Rio de Janeiro headquarters of the National Democratic Union (UDN) to shout insults against the political party which opposed the late President Getulio Vargas. The demonstration followed the departure of Vargas' body by air for burial in his home town in southern Brazil. At left background is the Brazilian senate building. Riots and demonstrations against Vargas' opponents took place in cities throughout Brazil.

Blacktop Surface Now Completed on Parking Lot

Blacktopping of the last 90x100 foot section at the north end of Pontiac's new municipal parking lot at E. Pike and Parke Sts. was done yesterday and 20 more parking meters will now be installed, City Engineer Lewis M. Wrenn said today.

The lot was opened July 15 with 232 meters in place. Completion of the north end had to wait until the ground settled properly, Wrenn explained.

A bridge over the Clinton River allowing parkers to walk through the city-owned building at 40 Mill St. to the business section is now in use, the engineer stated.

Palmer Is 2-Up on Stranahan

Glenn Johnson Leads Opponent in National Amateur Play

By H. GUY MOATS

Arnold Palmer, winner of the amateur division of the All-America golf tournament at Tam O'Shanter recently, took a 2-up lead over Frank Stranahan of Toledo midway through the last nine of their 5th-round match in the U.S. Amateur championship this morning at Country Club of Detroit.

Palmer had led 2-up at the turn and moved into a 3-hole lead after taking the 11th. They squared the next two and Stranahan took a four to Palmer's bogey five on the 14th to cut the margin to two holes.

Meanwhile, Michigan's lone remaining representative, state champion Glenn Johnson of Grosse Ile, was 1-up at the end of 9 holes over Ed Meister of Willoughby, O.

Bill Campbell, the Huntington, W. Va., star, was 3-down to Edward Martin of Winchester, Mass.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Russia is outdistancing the United States in the training of technicians, a manager for the Stanford Research Institute says.

$3.5 Million Home Project Under Construction Here

A $3,500,000 duplex home development is going up along East Boulevard between Mt. Clemens and Perry Streets within the eastern limits of Pontiac.

One of the largest residential projects to be constructed in this city in recent years, it will be shown to the public for the first time this weekend.

Built by Green and Sarko Construction Co. of Detroit, the realtors are the Stieber Realty Company, also of Detroit. With FHA and VA approval, the duplex project was designed for both GIs and civilians.

When completed there will be 154 brick duplexes, each offering two complete three-story home plans for 308 families.

About 40 acres is utilized in the development known as Boulevard Gardens. Winding streets are now being built and excavations completed for the 154 double-basements. Several of the duplexes are now nearing completion along the East Boulevard frontage.

"We chose Pontiac because we felt there was a definite need here for this type of multiple housing which people could own themselves," said Bruno Stieber, head of the realty firm handling the sales.

The project is located within a few miles of major industrial plants and the downtown Pontiac shopping center.

Finish Walton Recap Project

$200,000 Plan Also Includes Widening, Shoulder Construction

Completion was near today of a three-month, $200,000 project to make Walton boulevard safer and more easily traveled by motorists, according to Pontiac City Engineer Lewis M. Wrenn.

Recapping of the street was completed yesterday from North Perry street to about a quarter-mile east of South Lake Angelus road—Walton's entire length within the city.

Traffic is flowing today on the once pot-holed road, Wrenn stated.

Previously two dangerous curves were made longer and widened by four feet, one at Stanley avenue and the other at Carlisle street, said Wrenn.

The entire 3½-mile stretch, with exception of the two curves, was widened three feet.

For further safety, six-foot gravel shoulders are now being constructed, Wrenn stated.

New President Rushes to Fill Cabinet Posts

Rioting Kills Four but Streets Grow Quieter; Vargas Buried Today

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—Police cracked down on the outlawed Communist party today after 48 hours of riots and demonstrations, touched off by the suicide of President Getulio Vargas.

Amid increasing evidence the Reds played a strong hand in sparking the riots, aimed in part against the United States, more than 100 Communists were under arrest. One was accused specifically of burning a police car.

Copies of Imprensa Popular, the Communist newspaper which publishes openly despite the ban on the party, were seized by police in Rio De Janeiro. The newspaper headlined its account of yesterday's demonstrations: "'Down with Americans,' Rio residents shout indignantly in streets."

A dispatch from Porto Alegre said police raided an allegedly Communist paper there and arrested the editor.

This capital city's commercial life gradually returned to normalcy today. Public offices, banks and shops reopened. A few troops still were to be seen on the streets, but the heavily reinforced patrols of the past two days were called in.

Joao Cafe Filho, the new President, cast about for someone to fill the ticklish job of finance minister in the inflation-plagued government he inherited. He conferred with individual ministers and scheduled a cabinet meeting.

After 71-year-old Vargas ended his life with a bullet Tuesday, his old friend Oswaldo Aranha, former U.N. Assembly president, resigned as finance minister along with the rest of the Cabinet.

Aranha, who has often been mentioned as a candidate in the 1955 presidential elections, had been seeking in the past few months to steer Brazil through a dire foreign exchange shortage caused mainly by declining coffee exports.

The economic straits Brazil has been going through had much to do with the explosive political-military crisis that shook the country for the past 20 days and culminated in Vargas' suicide follow-

World Churchmen Ponder False Doctrines

Report Will Condemn Communism as Road to Total Dictatorship

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—A report denouncing communism as the road to "totalitarian dictatorship" and making some criticism of democracies awaited action by christian leaders today.

The report was discussed by delegates to the Assembly of the World Council of Churches yesterday in afternoon and evening sessions. Delegates to an assembly represent 163 denominations in 48 countries.

Some who joined the debate stated it didn't lay enough stress on the second coming of Christ.

Others contended it didn't place sufficient emphasis on the possibility of achieving justice, with Christ's aid, in this world.

And some figured it didn't go far enough in condemnation of communism as a "false hope."

Archbishop Michael of New York head of the Greek Orthodox Church in North and South America and one of the six new presidents of the council, asserted:

"False doctrines which are mentioned in the report, especially that of communism, threaten the whole of human existence. All of these dehumanize life.

"It is this aspect of false hopes with which the church is primarily concerned. The danger for man which these false doctrines present appears to be sorely underestimated in the report."

The "main theme" report was placed before the assembly by a coordinating committee. Submitted with it was a statement from the coordinating group in the nature of a report on its work and its findings.

Delegate after delegate went to the rostrum to comment on the report or the statement—many to quibble over a word or to suggest a change in phrasing.

The night session ended without a vote. No time was set for renewal of debate and a decision.

The assembly, now in the 12th day of its 17-day meeting, also will act on reports on other subjects and on an over-all message before the session ends Aug. 31.

A 10-page section of the "main theme" report is devoted to forms of contemporary governments and movements.

Under communism, it states, "happiness, justice and love are no longer possible; and man in the class struggle is no longer truly man."

"The Communist doctrine of the dictatorship of the proletariat has led in most cases to totalitarian dictatorship in which the freedom of man is in fact denied," it says.

The report says democracy is founded upon "Christian tradition" and in its basic beliefs is a "child or stepchild of Christian belief and Christian compassion." It adds:

"To Christian teaching it owes, in large part, its recognition of the worth of every person, of the fundamental equality of all men as human beings, of their interdependence and of their mutual obligation to one another.

"But inequality, discrimination, injustice, reliance on naked power, exploitation and aggression are not absent from democracies."

Archbishop Michael and five other high-ranking clergymen were elected presidents of the council last night. The others are:

Bishop Henry Knox Sherrill, Greenwich, Conn., presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States.

The Very Rev. John Baillie of the Church of Scotland, noted theologian at the University of Edinburgh.

Bishop Sante Uberto Barbieri of Buenos Aires, bishop of the Methodist Church in Argentina, Uruguay and Bolivia.

Bishop Otto Dibelius of the United Evangelical Church in Germany.

Mar Thoma Juhanon, head of the Mar Thoma Syrian Church in south India.

A threatened floor fight was averted when those who wanted a layman on the six-man presidium did not insist that one be chosen.

Head of World YMCA Dies in Evanston

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — John Forrester-Payton, 71, of Alloa, Scotland, the president of the World Alliance of Young Men's Christian Associations, died late last night.

He was here as a delegate from the United Free Church of Scotland to the Assembly of the World Council of Churches.

He collapsed on a bus and was taken to Evanston Hospital, where he was pronounced dead shortly thereafter, apparently of a heart attack.

Community House Plans to Reopen Doors Sept. 7

From Our Birmingham Bureau

BIRMINGHAM — That annual summer gap when the Community House closes its doors for a month of repairs and housecleaning will end when the house again becomes a beehive of activity Sept. 7.

Walter Skinner, Community House board chairman, has noted some additions to be included in this fall's program—made possible because the quota for the annual fund drive was reached, he said.

An enlarged employment bureau will be in operation this fall. For many years the house has maintained a domestic employment bureau for both indoor and outdoor jobs. Now, requests for full or part time office help and placement will be handled.

In mid-September, a new youth program will be inaugurated when Paul Heins, YMCA youth director, will supervise planned programs each Tuesday, Friday and Saturday nights.

No age group is forgotten in the activities that continue year in and year out. These include the Newcomers Club, which holds monthly luncheons and parties; the Senior Activities Group, for older men and women, and the Senior Workshop, for older women.

For all the family, there are the Thursday night buffet suppers, and facilities are available for group meetings, wedding receptions and parties.

Party equipment may be rented for a small fee. Ready for all in the community to use at no charge are sick room supplies.

Registrations for the fall adult education classes in crafts and hobbies will also be taken, starting Sept. 7, with most classes starting the week of Sept. 20.

Holding a hearing this week on a proposed amendment to the zoning ordinance which would regulate the density of residential construction in business zones, the Planning Board decided to clarify the ordinance before taking final action.

The amendment would limit residential development in business zones to that which is permitted in the income bungalow district. Residential use would be prohibited in industrial zones, except for a caretaker and his family.

Starting its fall activities again, the Soroptimist Club will be entertained at a picnic at 6:30 tonight at the Chesterfield road home of Mrs. Joseph Pinter.

Assisting will be Mrs. Marion Meadowcroft, Mrs. Marion Schmidt and Mrs. Mabel Sorenson.

Wing Lake School will be landscaped before the snow flies. Bloomfield Hills School Board members saw to that this week, when they authorized Wilcox & Laird, landscape architects, to proceed with complete plans for the job. A new addition to the school necessitated the change.

A long range program was set up for the high school under construction, but the architects were given specific instructions to complete the grading in play areas and do some seeding this fall. Final seeding is contemplated for next year.

Winding up this summer's YMCA Da-Y program, an all-day picnic has been planned for youngsters tomorrow, with the city's Springdale Park as the site. Hiking and croquet are included in the day's activities.

City commissioners this week settled once and for all the question of how many driveways will be constructed at the fire station being built at the West Maple-Chesterfield corner.

It had previously passed a resolution approving three drives. The main drive would extend straight out to Maple. Two other drives would run to Chesterfield and Fairfax.

The Fire Study Committee then reviewed the plans and asked that the main drive be eliminated, but the commission vetoed the suggestion and approved its original resolution.

Hoover Will Go Fishing With Ike

Will Cast for Trout at Fraser, Colo., Ranch in the Rockies

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhowever and former President Hoover, a couple of experts with a trout rod, are going fishing together next week in the Colorado Rockies.

The Summer White House announced today that Hoover will be Eisenhower's guest "for several days" at a ranch retreat at Fraser, Colo., 70 miles northwest of here on the western slope of the Continental Divide.

The vacationing Eisenhower plans to fly back to Washington Monday to address the American Legion National Convention, and Hoover will return to Denver from the capital with the President that evening.

On the way back Eisenhower will stop at Des Moines for a brief informal talk at the Iowa State Fair, and Hoover will accompany him to the fair grounds.

Headquarters will be the ranch at Fraser—nearly 10,000 feet high in the Rockies—of two old friends of the President, Aksel Nielsen and Carl Norren.

* * *

Eisenhower vacationed there in 1952 and again last summer. This year, as on the last two occasions, he probably will do most of the cooking.

Like Eisenhower, Hoover—who was 80 years old on Aug. 10—has been a fishing enthusiast for many years.

Both men are experts at dry fly casting.

Despite an official decree for eight days' mourning, Cafe worked feverishly on the task of forming his new Cabinet. He is expected to select at least one member of his own Social Progress (PSP) party, plus a representative of the large Social Democrat party in filling the four Cabinet posts still vacant — finance, health, education and transport.

The president said he plans to form an all party cabinet. He also is expected to name a new president for the Bank of Brazil, a powerful factor in carrying out the government's financial policies. In the middle of the recent crisis, Aranha took the bold step of reviving the outflow of coffee exports through an edict which in effect granted extra exchange bonuses to exporters.

Vargas' Labor party announced in the Senate last night that it was throwing its support behind Cafe. The new president made a personal visit to the Senate chamber, where he was told Sen. Costa Paranos planned to attack the new government for jailing 31 union leaders. The group was arrested Tuesday as a security measure.

Cafe asked Paranos not to make the speech and said he was ordering the immediate release of the unionists.

Louisville Wife Survives Suicide Pact With Mate

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Police today found a 32-year-old man shot to death and his 31-year-old wife wounded by a bullet in her left chest in the bedroom of their home.

Mrs. Doris Stone, who was taken to General Hospital told police she and her husband had decided to take their lives because both were in ill health and had mounting debts.

McCarthy to Aid Defense Lawyer

Attorney Says Senator Due in Capital Sunday to Map Censure Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. McCarthy's lawyer, Edward Bennett Williams, said today the Wisconsin Republican plans to return here Sunday to take active part in preparing his defense against censure charges.

Williams said he had been in touch with McCarthy, now vacationing in California, and the senator does not intend to ask for any postponement in the scheduled start of hearings by a special Senate committee on Aug. 31.

Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), chairman of the special six-member committee, said yesterday the group wants to finish its investigation of the censure charges as quickly as possible.

Watkins said he had "some hopes" that the committee could finish its inquiry before the Nov. 2 congressional elections.

"I am assuming, and I think I have a right to assume," he added, "that everyone taking part in the hearings will cooperate."

He said both McCarthy and Williams have been fully cooperative so far.

Watkins said he had sent letters to Sen. Flanders (R-Vt), Fulbright (D-Ark) and Morse (Ind-Ore) asking for any help they could give.

Flanders introduced the censure resolution. Subsequently Flanders, Fulbright and Morse submitted 46 charges, some of them overlapping, in support of the censure resolution.

Watkins has announced the committee has picked 13 of these. Boiled down, they are that McCarthy has shown contempt for the Senate, that he has invited federal employes to feed him classified information, that he himself has received and made use of such information with authority, that he has been abusive of his colleagues, and that he abused Brig. Gen. Ralph Zwicker in questioning him about the discharge of an Army officer whom McCarthy called a Communist.

2 Juveniles Admit $279 Store Theft

Two Pontiac 12-year-olds admitted today that they were responsible for the disappearance of $279 taken yesterday from a Joslyn avenue grocery store, according to Pontiac Police.

One of the two was in the store at 1019 Joslyn Avenue about the time the money was taken, the owner, Mrs. Rose Sezrerket, told Police Sgt. Henry Hoyt.

About $265 of the stolen money which the youths took from behind a meat counter has been recovered, according to Hoyt.

Runs Into Car's Path; Pontiac Girl, 10, Injured

Lottie A. Daffron, 10-year-old daughter of Lester Daffron, 22 School St., suffered a bruised thigh yesterday when she ran into the path of an auto at Saginaw and Lawrence Sts., according to Pontiac Police.

The child was treated at Pontiac General Hospital after she was struck by a car driven by Charles D. Clark, 42, of 408 California Ave., as Clark started to leave the intersection when the traffic light turned green. Clark was not held.

Don Cherry, the Wichita Falls, Tex., singer, gained the quarter-finals the easy way as his foe, Jimmy McGonagill of Shreveport, La., defaulted. McGonagill suffered a cramped, stiffened right hip and was unable to continue in the tourney.

Ed Merrins of Meridian, Miss., who yesterday fired a 31 over the course's back nine, was 1-down to Bob Sweeny of Port Washington, N. Y., at the turn.

$500,000 Is Split From Building Deal

on an estimate of their cost, amounted to $4,612,000, but that the actual building cost was $4,176,423.

The witness testified that the appraiser hired after completion of the buildings was paid "between $1,200 and $2,000" and appraised the properties at about $937,000 above their cost.

Under questioning, Wolosoff said the corporation directors authorized the appraisal, but when asked who the directors were, replied:

"There must be three—my brother is one—but I don't know who the other one is."

"Did you distribute to yourself half a million dollars as dividends?" he was asked.

* * *

Wolosoff said that was so, with half the money going to him and half to his brother.

A Senate investigator told the subcommittee yesterday that an FHA-insured Brooklyn apartment project which produced a four-million-dollar "windfall" for its promoters already has started to crumble.

Myron Hedges, a staff employe of a Banking and Currency subcommittee on irregularities in Federal Housing Administration loans, testified yesterday concerning the condition of Farragut Gardens, a development of 60 six-story buildings containing 2,496 apartments.

Hedges told Sen. Prescott Bush (R-Conn), conducting a one-man hearing, that roofs of the dwellings—built in 1951—are leaking, some of the foundations are broken and unstable, the wall plaster is inferior, and there is evidence of "sloppy and hurried bricklaying.

If extensive repairs are not undertaken immediately, Hedges testified, the buildings will not survive the 30-year term of the federally insured mortgage.

Hedges added that a personal inspection showed 14 foundation cracks, with mortar so loose that a pencil could be fitted into the cracks.

The witness said an FHA inspector assigned to the Farragut project had time only to inspect three or four of the apartments because he also had another big project to inspect.

The committee's earlier hearings in Washington disclosed allegedly huge profits to builders of FHA-insured projects. They reputedly built the projects for much less than the mortgages and pocketed the difference.

The Farragut apartments were insured by the FHA for 20 million dollars. An earlier witness told the hearing that the project returned four million dollars to builders who had invested $15,000.

George M. Halk, real estate appraiser for the Dry Dock Savings Bank, said in his judgment, the total cost of the project should have been $16,550,000.

Dinner Will Honor Rep. George Dondero

Plans were announced today for a testimonial dinner in honor of Congressman George A. Dondero at Northwood Inn Sept. 17.

Joe Martin, speaker of the national House of Representatives, will be the speaker.

The dinner is being sponsored by a group of friends of Dondero as an expression of appreciation for his service in Congress. Anyone interested may obtain tickets from the Pontiac representatives on the committee, Bruce Annett and Glenn H. Griffin.

Thieves Prove Michigan Pies Best of All

WASHINGTON (AP) — Somebody with a heart as hard as a peach stone has hoisted a pair of pies, the property of Michigan's pretty peach queen.

Karen Hoff, 18, of Pontiac, queen of Michigan's Peach Festival, brought several tasty peach pies to Washington. Two were designated for President Eisenhower and Secretary of Argriculture Benson.

The President and Benson weren't in Washington so the frozen pies were forwarded to them. The President and his wife will eat theirs at Denver.

Karen also brought along four other pies for various Washington stomachs.

One was served at a Michigan State Society dinner. Another has been saved for a TV program this afternoon.

But Karen arrived for a luncheon get-together yesterday, sans pies. It seems someone, with a taste for peach pies, took them from a freezer at the hotel where she is staying.

Report 4 Burglaries in Springfield Area

Four breakins, all believed committed by the same persons, were reported by Springfield Township area businessmen, State Police of the Pontiac Post said.

Entered were the K&B Restaurant at U. S. 10 and M15, the G&H Grocery at 10409 Andersonville Rd., the McNeive Garage in Davisburg and Blackett Builder's Supplies at 8161 Dixie Hwy., Clarkston.

A cigarette vending machine, found late yesterday by Oakland County sheriff's deputies in White Lake Township, was taken from the restaurant. Small amounts of change were reported missing from the other three establishments.

One Man Arrested in Moonshine Raid

Pontiac Police confiscated six gallons of moonshine whisky and arrested one man yesterday in a raid on a home located at 323 Ferry St.

Milton J. Houck, 27, of the Ferry street address, is being held at the Oakland County Jail on a charge of illegal sale of whisky.

Det. Sgt. Ray Meggitt and Det. Herbert Cooley made the arrest after they witnessed several purchases at the house. They said that they had the place under surveillance for three weeks.

Police stated that Houck brought the whisky up from Clayton, Ga., Monday night.

This is the third arrest for moonshining made by Pontiac Police during the past three weeks, with a total of 20 gallons of illegal whisky taken from the market.

Police Hook Fisherman

MILWAUKEE (UP)—Ferdinand Zastrow, 57, told police today he never should have gone fishing. A tavern keeper fishing the same stretch of water recognized Zastrow as a man who had cashed a bad check last year.

Food Poisoning Hits 21 Persons Aboard Airliner

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Twenty-one persons, including 19 exchange students from the Orient, were taken suddenly ill on a flight from Manila and were removed from a Northwest Orient Airlines plane here last night.

The airline said the plane departed for Seattle with remaining passengers but returned here because some crewmen became ill.

A Providence Hospital attendant said preliminary diagnosis indicated food poisoning.

Doctors said the most seriously ill were the plane's captain, Bill Richmond; the pilot, Bill Ashland, Seattle; and one of the students.

C. A. Schule, Northwest station manager, said the plane's 50 passengers were mostly exchange students who had Fulbright scholarships for study and research in the United States.

Eisenhower Is Praying Man

Ike Proving Most Humble President of 20th Century

WASHINGTON (UP)—A statesman long since dead once said American presidents who were shaved of a morning by a well trained valet would be happier than if they did the job themselves with the new fangled safety razor.

Behind that homely crack was the idea that a man confronting himself alone and face-to-face before the shaving mirror would be likely to indulge in some very realistic pondering as to his own capacity as chief executive. The job imposes terrifying responsibilities.

Under the White House burden, Mr. Eisenhower probably is proving to be the most humble president of the 20th century. Former President Truman experienced months of publicly-expressed humility after he succeeded FDR. That faded with his 1948 give-em-hell campaign.

There was nothing humble about FDR, nor about the other Roosevelt who preceded him. Mr. Eisenhower's predecessors were men of great political ambition. It is fair to say that the President's political ambitions were forced upon him.

Mr. Eisenhower is the first truly military president since Grant, yet his philosophy of living and acting his great office is heavily touched with religion. Perhaps that should be expected of a military commander whom the tides suddenly and unexpectedly favored for landings in both Western Europe and North Africa.

It is reasonable to believe that Mr. Eisenhower is a praying man in the quiet of his own study—or that he earnestly expects something will come of his proposal last week for a great moment of national prayer.

Recurring often in the President's public and private remarks is an aspiration to rise above party politics to become in fact the president of all the people. There was more of that, however, in Mr. Eisenhower's first year than recently.

So far as Mr. Eisenhower knows, no Republican candidate who has sought a kind word or a campaign picture from the White House has been turned down. Staff members may have rejected some, but the President does not know of it, nor is it likely that any have been turned away. Whether the President would help Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) is not in question. The Senator does not run again until 1958.

After a year in office, Mr. Eisenhower was persuaded one day to state the philosophy of his administration of the government of the United States in behalf of the people thereof. He said:

"When it comes down to dealing with the relationship between the human in this country and his government, the people in this administration believe in being what I think we would normally call liberal, and when we deal with the economic affairs of this country, we believe in being conservative."

Pressed then for a statement of the basic difference between his own administration and the Truman-Roosevelt deals, Mr. Eisenhower said:

"Look at the budget."

Basic in the President's philosophy is conviction that no individual, no family and no government can survive spending more than is earned.

Liner May Become Barge on Seaway

WINDSOR, Ont. (INS) — The "City of Cleveland"—once proud queen of the Great Lakes excursion fleet—today was faced with having her superstructure demolished and her insides torn out in order to be used as a barge in the development of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Windsor's City Council's Public Works Committee gave Ventimiglia Demolition Co., of Detroit, permission to dock the sometimes called "palatial steamer" in front of Windsor's city dump until full approval can be obtained to start the rebuilding job.

The "Cleveland" formerly made the Detroit-Cleveland trip two or three times a week and was used on weekend excursions.

Unable to keep up with the competition offered by more modern passenger vessels on the Great Lakes, the steamer has been idled for the past few years.

Her newly proposed use will be the carrying-foundation for derricks and other pieces of large equipment needed in seaway development.

Korean Vets Warned to Apply for College

The Veterans Administration has issued a warning to Korean veterans planning to enter college this fall to apply now for school applications. By applying now, college-bound veterans may avoid delay that may develop during the fall enrollment peak.

Guy F. Palmer, regional manager, said that many thousands of Michigan Korean veterans are expected to enroll in colleges next month. The VA will have to handle this increase in addition to the normal load of veterans already in school, job and farm training programs.

INHERITS TITLE AND A MILLION—A man he scarcely knew left an estate worth more than a million dollars to James Heneage, 9, of Louth, England. Lord Heneage, distant cousin of James' grandfather, with whom the lad "once had tea," left him the title of "Squire," an estate worth $980,000, plus three villages and an Elizabethan mansion. The money goes into a trust until James is 21 and in the meantime his allowance is four shillings (56 cents) weekly from his widowed mother, Mrs. Neil Heneage.

Man Accused of Slaying Mother and 2 Children

GARDENTON, Man., (AP)—A young mother and her two children were strangled yesterday at a farm on the edge of this southern Manitoba town. Her husband was arrested and charged with murder.

The dead were Mrs. Olga Storoschuk, 24, Jean, 4½, and Brian, 2½.

Police said Walter Storoschuk, about 24, walked into a hardware store and told of the killing. No motive was determined.

Supervisors Eye Area Planning

Problems of Metropolis Area Are Discussed at Five-County Meeting

The possibility of substituting area-wide decisions for individual planning in the five-county Metropolitan Detroit area was examined by supervisors from Oakland, Wayne, Macomb, Washtenaw and Monroe counties yesterday.

Meeting in Berkley, the 30 supervisors—six from each county discussed five major problems facing the area and possible means of solving them.

Five-man committees were appointed to go into each of the questions:

1. Water supply and resources
2. Sewer system coordination.
3. Road and highway plan integration.
4. Possible integrated recreational facilities.
5. Promotion of the Port of Detroit.

In addition, a general committee, comprised of the chairman of each of the five boards of supervisors, was named. Edward Connor of Wayne County, was named to head the general committee.

Supervisors from St. Clair and Genesee counties may be invited to the next meeting, slated for Sept. 24.

Ike Opens Campaign

In opening the Republicans' Fall campaign at Denver, President Eisenhower made the kind of speech he had promised.

After praising the Congress as a whole and Republican members and leaders of both Houses, the President reviewed his Administration's legislative record with justifiable pride.

Tax relief, he told his nationwide audience, both written into law and the result of budgetary economy in the last 19 months, has totaled $7.4 billion. Pointing out that 54 of 64 major Administration proposals had been enacted into law, he added:

"Now that, after all, is a batting average of .830 and any baseball fan will tell you that's pretty good going in any league."

Then the President revealed why he considers increased Republican strength in the next session essential. He intends to renew the fight for those features of his legislative program which failed of enactment this session.

His list includes a revision of the Taft-Hartley Act, lowering of the voting age, liberalization of tariff and trade laws and hospital re-insurance. Of world trade and the Randall report he said:

"We got another year as a result of the Randall report in which to study certain features of this whole business so that our friends could, with us, make a living through profitable trade and which would eliminate the need for these great grants in the future."

★ ★ ★

We believe an overwhelming percentage of voter and business sentiment favors a liberalization of tariffs and trade and the other remaining features of the Eisenhower program. We also believe with the President that voters in November should send more Republicans to Congress. That is the only sure way to get this program into law.

Social Security Improved

One of the items on the Eisenhower legislative program of interest to millions of people, revision of the Social Security law, was the last to get the OK of the 83rd Congress.

As finally compromised the measure expands coverage to 10,000,000 more persons. Included are 5,700,000 farmers and farm hands, 100,000 engineers, architects, accountants and undertakers and 250,000 domestic workers. Others included are 100,000 homeworkers and 50,000 persons in the fishing industry.

Coverage on a voluntary basis is extended to 3,600,000 State and local government employes, 260,000 ministers and Christian Science practitioners and 100,000 Americans employed outside the country.

Of greatest interest to 5,000,000 retired persons now on the rolls is the average increase of $6 in their monthly benefits. This will make the average check $57 a month. The minimum increase will be $5.

Persons retiring in the future will receive much larger increases by changes in all benefit formulas. For example, maximum benefit for an individual will increase from $85 to $108.50. For couples the jump will be from $127.50 to $162.75.

Beginning next January the taxable amount of an individual's income will increase from $3,600 to $4,200 a year. This means that persons earning $4,200 or more a year will have to pay an additional $12 in social security taxes annually as will their employers. But the rate remains at two per cent until 1960.

The political popularity of this bill was obvious. While there previously had been some bickering over it, both Houses gave final approval by voice vote.

Deserved Promotion

Congratulations are in order for the Nobel peace prize winner, Dr. Ralph J. Bunche.

He has been elevated by Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to a post created for him, that of Deputy Secretary General of the United Nations. In that office he not only will be the highest ranking American of the secretariat, but the second highest official of the world's peace organization.

★ ★ ★

This well deserved promotion was a part of a sweeping reorganization of top echelon U. N. posts. To preserve the political balance, a similar promotion was given Ilya S. Tchernyshev, who previously had been assistant secretary general for Security Council affairs. While his rank and pay will equal that of the Detroit born Dr. Bunche, he is expected to wield far less influence.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Bunche, who has been principal director of the U.N. trusteeship department, won international acclaim for his work in negotiating the Palestine truce.

'Be Quiet and Mind Your Own Business' Is Badly Needed Advice in These Days

(Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests, unless the letter is critical in its nature.)

Paul, when instructing Titus, tells him to be quiet and mind his own business, advice that is badly needed these days. We meet many people in every walk of life who need this advice.

As a minister and columnist once said, "If we could only hold our tongues and keep our fingers out of the pies that others are cooking! But no, the old boss instinct is too strong and we mess in the affairs of others until we make a mess." And it is true. It is the old itch for power. To feel that one has power over another inflates one's ego.

In the Government this drive for power has been paramount for the last twenty years. "The power that be" decided that "We the people" were too ignorant to know what is best for our country, nor should we know how our tax money is being spent.

As a consequence, foolish and wasteful expenditures are being made and usurpations of power on the part of officials has made our country a byword among other nations and has brought about a condition of chaos here in our land.

Interference with others is a great detriment to peace and shows a profound ignorance and an arrogance on the part of our would-be guardians which we find hard to forgive.

Let Us Mind Our Own Business

Let Teenagers Develop Own Constructive Plans

I have raised six children through the teenage stage so I know from experience that it isn't easy. They were not perfect, they got their paddlin' where the packin' was. But they respected me and still do. One thing I did find out.

If they are not given something constructive to do they are liable to turn to something destructive. So why not go with your children to church as an American privilege, not as a duty. Let them work, with a moderate pay, till they are physically tired (not child labor).

If recreation centers are needed, let them do it themselves with the supervision of the more civic-minded parents. A place of their own, even an old building or barn to remodel. Girls could paint and do light carpentry.

They could give amateur and home talent shows. The boys could salvage papers and junk and the girls could have bake and candy sales, also rummage sales to get equipment for the centers.

How about a musical instrument pool for our own teenagers? Music is a wonderful therapy. How about some ideas from the teenagers? It's their home, too, isn't it? How about some good stories from books on TV in place of so many gangster programs?

Case Records of a Psychologist

Mix Psychological Strategy With Logic to Effect Sale That Satisfies Customer

Sam lost a $14,000 sale. But he may still get the customer a couple of years hence, for his logical sales arguments will finally dawn on the customer. But a $4,500 trade-in seemed so much better than Sam's $700 allowance, that the customer's ego was inflated, though he lost money meanwhile.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case L-394: Sam J., aged 38, is a star salesman of refrigeration units for retail stores.

"But I made a mistake last week," Sam informed me as we came in on the train together from Rockford, Illinois.

"In my selling I always try to present the facts, straight from the shoulder. I resort to no subterfuges.

"So when I learned that a certain merchant was interested in a new refrigeration unit, I called on him and went into the situation thoroughly.

"I quoted him a price of $14,000 and granted him a trade-in of $700 on his old unit.

"But he protested about my low allowance on his old equipment, so I told him I'd run an ad for him and if he could sell it at any higher figure than my $700 trade-in price, he was welcome to pocket the difference.

"But he still kicked, and next day I found out he had made a deal with another salesman of a competing company.

"This salesman gave him a trade-in allowance of $4,500 on his old refrigeration machine, instead of the $700 I had allowed, which was more than it was worth.

"But he then priced the new unit at $18,000, so the net cost amounted to $13,500, whereas my net price had actually been only $13,300 and my machine had more cubic footage, too.

"So apparently I lost a good customer because I failed to give him a big trade-in allowance, which I could then more than have offset by boosting my price.

"For my $14,000 price with a $700 trade-in was a better deal than the $18,000 with a $4,500 trade-in, yet the customer picked the latter.

"People are funny, aren't they, Dr. Crane? They pride themselves on being logical, and then are swayed by glamor and emotions, eh?

Yes, it is estimated that the great majority of purchases are determined by emotion or impulsive action.

But a good salesman should also appeal to the logic of his customer, even if it is after the sale.

Otherwise, the customer may later be persuaded that he has been tricked. Then he will grow irate.

So Sam may still win this merchant's business a few years hence for the man will ultimately realize he paid more money, despite the apparently far more lavish trade-in allowance, than he would have paid to Sam.

And when he realizes he also got less cubic footage of refrigeration space for his vegetables and meats, he will be doubly irked.

Sometimes customers are so eager to buy that they don't want to listen even to a brief 5-minute sales talk.

If so, sign them up, but meanwhile drop in a few logical arguments to help them defend their impulsive choice later on.

For if their wife and friends say, "What made you buy that 'lemon', anyway?" then they can defend their choice.

But if they can't think of adequate logical rebuttal arguments, they become irate and then project the blame on the salesman.

"He roped me in," they think peevishly, though the salesman may never have said a word.

So mix your psychological strategy with some logical scientific sales arguments.

And remember, everybody has this motto across his chest. "I want to feel important," so never belittle a customer or his old machinery, etc.

For further advice, send for my bulletin "The New Psychology of Advertising and Selling," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus a dime.

Who Will Be Witnesses For or Against McCarthy?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The No. 1 puzzle as a special Senate committee prepares for its hearings next week on the proposed censure of Sen. McCarthy:

Who are the witnesses going to be — if any — for or against McCarthy, besides the Wisconsin Republican himself?

McCarthy will be a witness. He must be to defend himself against charges that his conduct should be censured by the full Senate.

But Sen. Watkins, Utah Republican and chairman of the committee, hasn't indicated he knows of a single other witness to call.

McCarthy's attorney, Edward Bennett Williams, was asked last night if he would call any witnesses. He declined to say now what he intends to do.

Three senators — Flanders (R-Vt), Morse (Ind-Ore) and Fulbright (D-Ark) — made 46 charges against McCarthy, some of them overlapping.

These charges, they said, provided grounds for censure. But their charges were not based on personal encounters with McCarthy. They were using Senate and other records involving McCarthy's conduct and offered them as explanation of why he should be censured.

Watkins has said he doesn't intend calling any of the three—even though McCarthy asks that they be called—unless they have first-hand knowledge of their charges.

And yesterday, with start of the hearings only a week away, Watkins asked Flanders, Morse and Fulbright for help in suggesting witnesses or material pertinent to the hearings.

* * *

It seems unlikely McCarthy or his lawyer would be content to answer charges, based on Senate records, without demanding the right to confront and examine the people, including senators, who were part of the events which became records.

McCarthy is on different ground here than he was in hearings last spring on his dispute with the Army.

There he was tackling the Eisenhower administration, or a part of it, but his quarrel was only with a few individuals.

But in this situation—where his Senate foes wanted him rebuked for his conduct as a senator—his conduct at this hearing conducted by other senators—may have a bearing on whether he is censured by the full Senate.

* * *

In the catch-as-catch-can Army-McCarthy hearings the main witnesses were predictable. The charges by the principals on both sides then involved personal dealings.

Watkins has announced his hearings would be much more disciplined than the Army-McCarthy sessions. They will be more like a courtroom examination, he said.

Watkins' committee was created to look into the Flanders-Morse-Fulbright charges and report its findings to the full Senate. The Senate is now in recess but can return and then decide whether or not to vote censure.

* * *

Watkins has taken 13 of the 46 charges and reduced them to five categories. It will be this concentration of charges which his committee will start off investigating.

Watkins has expressed hope his six-man committee's work would be finished before the November congressional elections. Even if it is, the full Senate may not act before the elections.

Baering Down

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

(International News Service)

If we have heard the last sound of footsteps on mule-back it looks like dear Alben Barkley has copped the Democratic citation for the Senate annual investigations.

Alben is from Irv Cobb's Paducah town. Where Irv said you get two fish for a dime, two drinks for one fish and have the other fish left over for breakfast.

These Senatorial feuds are dented hats to Alben. He was under the dome twenty-one years before they hog-tied him politically with the veepee job.

It was Alben's shilling that elected Truman sure as you're a yard wide. When Alben blazes a trail he cooks many a bear in a hollow tree.

He will be elected in November sure as roots on teeth.

He's got the over-the-hill-billy vote sewed up like a patch.

Any man who ever sat on a grocery porch figured Alben was as sure as wheat to get the 1952 nomination. Instead they handed it to Stevenson. There's a joker in every deck.

Things like that don't do the party any good and weaken Niagara Falls. Alben kept a civil tongue in his cheek in 1952 and came up with the Kentucky run for the cabbage.

The Republicans put up Senator Cooper who will not interfere with Alben's stroll toward Washington. It's downhill all the way.

The Barker is seventy-six and can still pull his weight in a rocking chair. But there's no chance of him having another try at the White House. There's nothing in the Constitution against it. But there's also nothing against having your scalp massaged with your hat on.

The Barker is as sure as hay in the barn to win in November. He's good for another twenty-one years in the Senate because he's the only entertainer telling good stories without commercial announcements.

Can You Define a Crapulent Smoker? Answer: A Hoggish One, A Messy One

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

After all, there are some signs of improvement in this wicked world. A Philadelphia man has retired from the stick-up business, and the American Medical Association has quit selling cigarettes.

It wouldn't astonish me to hear one of these days that the racketeers who have converted medicine into a wretched kind of business have decided they can now afford to junk the Rube Goldberg machine for measuring basal metabolism.

Many are becoming aware that the metabolimeter gives little diagnostic information except that the patient must be a free spender, and that's always nice to know, don't you think?

A crapulent smoker is a hoggish one . . . usually a cigarette smoker, a chain smoker or one who indulges to excess. Not only hoggish but frequently offensive and rude in his or, sad to say, her disregard for the sensibilities of people around him.

A crapulent smoker blows his smoke in the face of a person whom tobacco smoke annoys or sickens; he or she leaves a lighted cigarette where it will burn furniture or coverings; the hog strews the environment with ashes and foul stubs.

Common query of individuals who are apparently developing thrombo-angiitis (Buerger's disease), from excessive smoking, nearly if not quite always cigarettes, is how long will it take to restore circulation in my legs if I quit smoking altogether?

The answer is, you'd better quit as of now and stay that way if you hope to avoid amputation. Of course the doctor softens this as much as possible, short of encouraging the victims of cold feet to think he or she can sneak a smoke when no one knows about it.

Now I'm not sure that thrombo-angiitis obliterans in a young adult is invariably caused by crapulent smoking. A few cases have occured in persons who have never smoked at all.

I have often wished I could obtain the history of such persons, particularly trustworthy information regarding possible exposure to atmosphere polluted with carbon monoxide.

It is almost certainly the carbon monoxide in cigarette smoke that is responsible for the constriction of arterioles and the cell or tissue asphyxia (anoxia) in the legs that characterizes Buerger's disease.

When a heavy smoker of cigarettes begins to feel considerable discomfort from cold feet, and the feet or foot has a reddish-purple appearance when dependent but blanches corpse-white when held perpendicular he or she had better make the last smoke the last.

And he had better do this before pain or cramp in the calf occurs after a short walk—pain or cramp relieved by sitting down and elevating the leg to vertical.

Most investigators of the effect of smoking agree that cigarettes are most harmful, cigars less harmful and pipe smoking least harmful of all.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

Chickens on Bargain List With Price Cuts to 8 Cents

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Chickens are on the bargain counter in the nation's food stores this weekend. Fowls, broilers and fryers will be featured by many stores with reductions ranging up to eight cents a pound from week-ago prices.

Chickens have been cheap for some time, and now prices have sagged even further. What's more, production is continuing at such a pace that inexpensive chickens seem likely to be available for several months to come.

Another economical weekend special will be veal roast. A number of markets plan to feature leg or rump of veal, and some will have veal shoulder roast on sale. Veal chop prices show no set trend—they'll be up a couple of cents in some areas and off as much as a dime a pound elsewhere.

Chuck roast again heads the list of specials in the beef line. Round steak will be on sale in a good number of stores, too.

Sirloin steak will cost about the same as a week ago, while prime ribs will be the same or a few cents higher. Leg of lamb and pork chops will go up a couple of cents in some stores.

Taking a look at foods for the fall, the U.S. Department of Agriculture observes that there'll be excellent supplies of many of the good things needed for man-sized dishes. It points out that beef is abundant and that vegetable bins are crowded with good buys.

Poultry and medium and small eggs will be plentiful, it says, and shoppers will find good value in fish, both fresh and frozen.

Produce men report that abundant supplies of nearby vegetables continue to roll to market. They list as outstanding buys eggplants, peppers, cabbage, potatoes, onions, corn, squash and watermelon.

Asks Examination In Assault Case

Bulo R. Riddle, 27, of C-12 Union Ct., demanded examination on an aggravated assault charge in Pontiac Municipal Court Wednesday after police accused him of beating up two women and throwing them off their rear porch at 230 Oakland Ave.

Both victims, Mrs. Irene Logan, 37, who suffered cuts, bruises and a broken ankle, and Mrs. Mary Mosbey, 74, who suffered head cuts and bruises, are reported in fair condition in Pontiac General Hospital.

Riddle, freed on a $500 bond, was ordered to return for the hearing Wednesday by Judge Cecil Mc Callum.

Police said they learned from the women that Riddle went to the Oakland street address and smashed his way through four doors in an attempt to find his estranged wife, Lola, 28, Mrs. Logan's sister.

The Uniter States has 6,840 hospitals.

First Avenue Residents to Hold Block Party

A block party to encourage neighborhood cooperation will be held by about 80 residents of First avenue at Oakland Park this Sunday beginning at noon.

Games for children and adults are planned including shuffleboard, horseshoes and softball. Each family or group will bring their own picnic lunch. The Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department will supply game equipment.

The committee for the event includes Mr. and Mrs. Willard Looney, co-chairmen, Mrs. C. Ray Shelton, Mrs. Courtland Colling and Arnold Johnson.

3 of a Kind Is Confusing

TOLEDO, Ohio (UP) — The name of Felix Kaczmarek can be confusing here. There are Felix Kaczmarek, the fireman, Felix Kaczmarek the policeman, and Felix Kaczmarek, who works in private industry. They are not related nor have they met, but often have to explain that they are not holding three jobs.

Teachers Consider More Than Salary

EVANSTON, Ill. (UP) — Teachers take romance and glamour into account as well as salary when they cast about for jobs, officials of the National College of Education report.

Hawaii, for example, attracts June graduates with its vacation lures and tropical life even though beginning salary there is comparatively low at $3,000.

Other new teachers take the western states, despite somewhat remote locations, because of relatively high starting scales. California pays $3,700 to $3,800 and Portland, Ore., $3,400.

During the past 20 years, according to National College placement records, beginning salaries for teachers have risen on the average of $110 a year from $1,075 in 1934 to $1,500 in 1944 and $2,600 in 1948.

This year, June education graduates were being offered slightly higher than the average of $3,200 which was paid to 1953 graduates.

Rare Appaloosa Horse Product of Early Times

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (INS)—If you see a horse that looks like it's bleeding to death when it's wet, runs as it walks, wears its own natural camouflage coloring, and has a good disposition to boot, chances are you're looking at an appaloosa.

Mark Reyner, owner of the Red Rocks Saddle Stables near Colorado Springs, is something of an expert on this unusual breed of horse, and he'll spin many a tale about the oddities of the beast.

Reyner indicates the American appaloosa traces its ancestry to a "leopard spotted" stallion found near Santa Fe, N. M., long before the Lewis-Clark expedition went up the Mississippi river

A "crown" brand on its hip indicated the horse may have belonged to the Cortez expedition.

The appaloosa was known to the Huns of Afghanistan in 144 B. C. as the "blood sweating" horse because reddish patches on the hides of the animals would show through when the beasts were wet.

The modern appaloosa is a product of those developed by the Nex Perces (pierced nose) Indians, who called the animals "blizzard" horses because of their habit of turning their rumps toward the brunt of a snowstorm.

Reyner said a feature of the horse is its "Indian shuffle" gait—a sort of "running walk.' He said the horse "gets going and keeps going at the same gait."

New Hydraulic Knee Improves False Limb

BERKELEY, Calif. (UP) — Improvements in artificial limbs as a result of research carried out by the University of California include a hydraulic knee to improve the natural swing and eliminate jarring while walking.

Howard D. Eberhart, director of prosthetics at the university, said the new improvements worked out by the research group will be made available as soon as they have been thoroughly tested and proved.

A new artificial foot which may eliminate the need for an ankle socket is being tested. Ankle-joint action is built into the foot by incorporating wedges of steel and rubber into the unit.

Eberhart said new devices are tested by university staff members working on the campus and the Oak Knoll Navy hospital.

In 1952 more than 113 million U. S. families had incomes of more than $5,000 a year.

Angler Fishes for Bills in Night Deposit Chute

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Police are looking for an angler with a new angle.

Officials of the suburban Northwest National Bank reported they found a fishing line with three-pronged fish hooks and four regular hooks in the chute of the night depository.

The would-be angler had lowered the hooks down the chute but they became snarled and lodged inside the depository.

Rosalind Told Winners Never Quit and Also That Quitters Never Win

By EDDIE CANTOR

Since she was 13, whenever Rosalind Russell gets an urge to quit anything, she also gets a vision of a pair of men's brown-and-white sport shoes, a very close vision—right on her nose! Let me explain:

At 13, Rosalind could swim and dive like a porpoise and fancied herself a young Annette Kellerman—with one exception—Kellerman filled out her bathing suit!

Rosalind was scrawny—like the "Before" in "How-to-gain-weight" advertisements. But class, not chassis, was to be the payoff in a diving contest she entered in a gay bayside regatta near her Waterbury, Conn., home.

Everybody that mattered was there, on the shore, or in boats scattered about the bay.

"So I was built like a pipe-cleaner," Roz still vividly recalls. "Okay, I could dive. But after the eliminations, my only remaining competition was a Venus of eighteen. She was getting all the eyes—I was only getting nettled!"

"I climbed on the board. I posed and held the pose, but not for long. The key button on my bathing straps popped off. With furious dignity, I simply stepped off the board and into the water, feet first, automatically losing the contest.

"I kept swimming to my father, standing on the deck of a little boat a few yards out in the bay. As I pulled myself aboard at his feet, his brown-and-white sports shoes right at my nose, he said, without preamble:

"'Rosalind, you are going to have to learn that a winner never quits—and a quitter never wins!'"

No purer corn, Rosalind is fully aware, ever grew in Iowa, but the words and their meaning left an indelible impression. On the stage—on the screen—as a wife—as a mother—Roz has certainly been a winner!

Although my favorite girl names, as you can imagine, are "Ida"—"Margie"—and "Susie"—the name of "Rosalind" has always tickled these big ears of mine.

When I asked the Russell beauty how she got the name of "Rosalind," she said, "While traveling on the S. S. Rosalind, my parents decided to name me after that."

Come to think of it, I'm very lucky. Before I was born, my folks traveled to Hawaii. I'm sure Ziegfeld would never have starred "Lurline" Cantor!

Highway Toll Catches Up With Town Police

GREENWICH, Conn. (UP) — The State Highway Department sent a bill for 60 cents to the Town of Greenwich. It covered six trips at 10 cents each made through the Merritt Parkway toll gate by Greenwich police cars and a fire truck responding to emergencies. The highway department said only state-owned vehicles are exempt from the toll.

Greenwich officials retorted it's going to be a long time before the town pays the 60 cents. "It isn't the money; it's the principle of the thing," asserted Greenwich First Selectman C. Carlton Gisborne.

2 Parks Attract Million

LANSING (UP) — Michigan's two most popular state parks both went over the one million mark in attendance last week, the State Conservation Department reported today. Dodge State Park, near Pontiac, is third in attendance so far this year with 948,000 visitors.

State Mulls Request to Dump A-Wastes

LANSING (UP) — The first request for permission to dump atomic industrial wastes in Michigan streams was reviewed today by the State Water Resources Commission.

Representatives of General Motors Technical Center were scheduled to appear before the commission at 3:30 p.m. to request use of Bear Creek in Macomb County for disposal of radio-active wastes from atomic energy research.

"We've never had a request like this before," chief examiner Loring F Oeming, said. "The disposal of atomic wastes poses many unique problems."

Formal announcement of an agreement between Michigan and Wisconsin on clearing pollution of inferstate streams also was expected today.

The Fisher Body Division of General Motors in Grand Rapids was expected to receive permission to dispose of an air cooling wastes underground. The plant now dumps wastes into the Grand River.

Also up for consideration was a report of a petition by Macomb County residents on sewage pollution in Warren Township and announcement of letting of construction bids on a sewage treatment plant in Three Rivers.

Talking Bike Overruled

MEXICO CITY (UP) — Mrs. Maria Jeronima Gil received a 90-day jail sentence Wednesday, even though she pleaded the bicycle she stole told her "Don't leave me here alone."

State Seizes Spuds

LANSING (UP)—State Agricultural enforcement officers announced today they have placed more than 1,000,000 pounds of potatoes under seizure during the past 14 months for failing to meet state marketing standards.

Paris Folies Banned From Parish Tour

ANDOVER, England (UP) — The Rev. Ivor Machin has canceled 15 seats he booked to give his parishioners a glimpse of Paris' famously naughty Folies Bergere.

The cleric said he bought the tickets for the edification of his flock during a tour he will conduct to the French capital next month. But the newspapers got word of it and he began getting nasty letters.

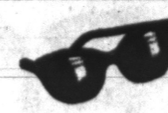

"I acted in all good faith, but some of the letters were very abusive," he said sadly today. Earlier he had said the Folies were part of Paris and therefore should be on the grand tour.

Simulate High Altitudes

FARMINGDALE, N.Y. (UP)—Engineers at the Republic Aviation Corp., plant here "fly" 50,000 feet high without getting off the ground. In perfecting in-flight refueling for Republics F-84F jet Thunderstreak, they've built a $161,000 laboratory that duplicates the plane's fuel system and can "bank", "climb" and otherwise "fly" while air pressure is regulated to duplicate altitude conditions.

Trucks account for about three-fourths of the total freight load transported annually in the U. S.

LARGEST GAVEL?—Supposedly the world's largest gavel (27 pounds) is displayed by National Commander Harold Watts, right, and Vivian Corbly both of the Disabled American Veterans. The huge gavel was used to open the 23rd annual convention of the DAV in Miami, Fla.

New Innovation! Gas Powered Tricycles in Use

JAKARTA—(UP)—A mile-stone in public transportation was passed in Jakarta recently when gas-powered betjaks (tricycles) made their appearance.

To the sentimental, they meant the passing of an era; to the modern-minded, progress; but to most residents of this crowded city, just another traffic hazard.

Thousands of motorless betjaks road Jakarta's streets by day and night. Sweating men and boys pedal determinedly, pushing in front of them on a wide seat loads ranging from five persons to huge cakes of ice.

Pedestrians always complained that the gaily-decorated tricycles were hard to dodge. Now a few of them are harder because their resourceful owners have attached small gas motors and turned them into motor-bikes.

Most residents think the only good thing about these machines is that there are so few of them.

But in the transportation field, it's the motor scooter that is fast running away with the race.

More and more of the squat little scooters show up each day. There are more power-drivin bicycles and motorcycles than scooters, but the latter are by far the most popular.

Bob Considine Says:

Parents of Young Actors Suffer the Most at Show

ALLENHURST, N. J. (INS)—La Petite Antics, I think the name was, have come and gone in this snug harbor on the Cadillac and canasta coast of Jersey. A form of order has been restored.

Small children have gone back to the realism of sand and sea and rigidly enforced naps. Summer wistfully wanes. Some slightly older ones have decided maybe they won't be great stars after all, but who wants to be a great star?

Others await only the amassment of years and the call from Hollywood or Broadway.

This was the annual show involving the moppets and the sub-teenagers of the place. Is there a place where it isn't being duplicated? Messrs. Rodgers and Hammerstein may conceivably have lavished more care on "South Pacific" than Mrs. Stafford squandered on La Petite Antics, but only the desperate would risk a bet on that. If Theatre Guild rehearsal wages were paid, Allenhurst today would be a ghost town.

There were weeks or rehearsals, hours of singing and reciting the grand finale number, "When You're Young at Heart," full many a jarring pirouette and entre chat, and endless buck and wings that caused the elders of the household to wonder when the floor and porch—circa Diamond Jim Brady—would go.

Then the great day. The careful preparation of the stiff little dress with the garish tulip design sewn on front, and the trim little Dutch cap. And, by all means, the yellow nylon panties. "Yellow nylon panties," thundered father, emerging from the woodwork and looking very forbidding.

"All of my friends wear yellow panties," the little girl said with stout resolve. She struggled to make it even more conclusive. "Everybody does," she added, not without a little heat.

At last the reluctant night closed in, Mayor Selby and the families edged in for places on the benches before the little stage, and the music hurled a thin but brave defi at the great basso of the Atlantic.

A queen was crowned! A queen named Priscilla Meehan, and though she is at the dear age between leased and permanent teeth, no queen ever smiled more radiantly nor took her honors more lightly as she kicked resolutely at her royal purple train, moved to her throne, jumped up on it backwards, and wiggled back contentedly to the back-rest.

At functions of this nature, the families often suffer a great deal more than the infantile thespians. But there was no need to worry.

In our little girl's case, she and her partner, Nancy Kless, chose to lead a dazzling bevy or starlets (or was it starlings) on stage, apparently made use of starting blocks or jet propulsion. For as Mrs. Stafford musically chimed, "and our next number is . . ." out they charged from behind a cardboard dike, their Dutch caps aflutter, their yellow panties hidden in yards of petticoats.

Strong adults prodded them back in the starting gates again, the pianist "Vamped" until his knuckles bled, and out they came again. Every little girl was perfectly content that only she was in step. Veteran fight writers in the audience hid their eyes in horror as traffic signals jammed and they all raced and skipped their separate ways.

There were grinding collisions, bone-breaking embraces on the turns and, in all, the most colorful chaos of the summer season.

But when the carnage ended, the families clapped vigorously. And soon at our side, bundled in a coat against the nip in the air, but not the nip in father's hip pocket, was a breathless child.

"Were we good? Were we good?"

"Wonderful, sweetheart . . .wonderful."

China has all the important religions of the world, but none of its own. Confucianism and Taoism are considered by the Chinese as political philosophies and teachings, not as religions.

ORDINANCE NO. 1283

Adopted August 24, 1954; Effective August 24, 1954.

An Ordinance to Amend Section 3 of Ordinance No. 1119, entitled "An Ordinance to License and Regulate Hawking and Peddling in the City of Pontiac and to Prohibit the Peddling of Certain Food Products."

The City of Pontiac Ordains:

Section 1. That Section 3 of Ordinance No. 119 entitled "An Ordinance to License and Regulate Hawking and Peddling in the City of Pontiac and to Prohibit the Peddling of Certain Food Products," be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 3. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to hawk, peddle or vend any meat or meat products of any kind and/or any fresh poultry, cured, or smoked fish of any kind. The peddling, selling, vending or giving away of wrapped, frozen ice cream novelties containng ice cream or ice cream confections either in paper containers or frosen on sticks from push carts, trucks, motor vehicles, or any other type vehicle is prohibited as a necessary police measure for the prevention of traffic accidents and personal injuries on the streets in the City of Pontiac and as a public health regulation prohibiting the littering and spreading on the streets, sidewalks and other places in the City of Pontiac with ice cream wrappers, ice cream cones and so-called confection sticks.

Section 2. All ordinances or parts of ordinances inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

Section 3. This ordinance shall take immediate effect as it is hereby deemed an emergency ordinance in accordance with Section 3, Chapter VI of the City Charter, due to the large number of ice cream peddlers coming into the City from other localities in the State of Michigan.

434 Communities Expanded in 1953

CHICAGO (UP—A total of 434 communities expanded through annexation or consolidation in 1953, according to a study revealed by the International City Managers' Association.

The figure exceeds by 32 the number of annexations and consolidations in 1952, the year that recorded the greatest number since the early 1930s.

More than 283 square miles were annexed by various communities in 1953, but only four cities acquired more than 10 square miles. They are Tampa, Fla., 46 square miles; Seattle, Wash., 15.29; Midland, Mich., 14.8, and El Paso, Tex., 11.88.

Tampa's addition of 46 miles to its original 19 meant a 242 per cent gain in area and increased its population by 95,000. Seattle was second in population gain with 56,347.

Midland, Mich., expanded in area by 172 per cent.

Urge to Munch Rubber Leads Japanese to Jail

TOKYO (AP)—It was that uncontrollable urge to eat rubber that got Hideo Minegishi in trouble. To eat it he first had to steal it.

Hideo, a 21-year-old laborer, told police he first got the urge four years ago. He started with rubber-soled shoes and slippers, eventually graduating to rubber tires and tubes.

Then he got a yen for rubber washers, the kind railroads use in their airbrake couplings. He admitted swiping 50.

Now police have Hideo, and they have his confession. But they don't have the evidence. He ate it.

Slate Auto Show Early

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Auto Show, biggest of the nation's annual car, truck and related products presentations, will be held next year Jan. 8 to 16 instead of in mid-March. The new date suggests a December-January introduction for most 1955 models.

Jacoby on Games

Some Players Crafty in Gin

Opponent Must Watch Discards, Figure Out His Own Move

By OSWALD JACOBY
NEA Service

Most gin players make their discards without indicating too much of their attitude towards the discards, but even experienced players sometims make a discard with obvious reluctance.

You are entitled to draw inferences from this reluctance.

Your opponent will be reluctant to discard a card if he thinks it is wild or if he is breaking a combination. You will usually be able to tell which is the case.

If he is breaking a combination, you know that he still holds one or more related cards in his hand. For example, if he discards the ten of hearts, you should suspect that he holds another ten or the nine or jack of hearts.

Very often your own hand and the discards up to that point will tell you exactly which related cards he holds. This information may be important in guiding you to your safest discards.

When it is very unlikely that your opponent has any cards related to his discard, you are entitled to assume that the reluctance of his discard was caused by the fear that the card was wild.

This fear will indicate that your opponent cannot hold certain cards, and this information may help you find the safest possible discard.

How much reliance can you put on your opponent's appearance of reluctance? That depends on the the tradition of ethics in your particular game.

There isn't any rigid standard in the game of gin rummy, so you really can't complain if you are deceived.

Most opponents won't bother to put on a show of reluctance over a discard unless they really mean it. Even a crafty opponent is more often "honest" than deceptive in he reactions and emotions he displays.

Q—Some of my friends say that you can lay off on gin, and others that you can't. Which is the official rule?

A—Both rules are playable. The players should agree before the game begins on which rule they are going to follow. In the absence of an agreement, we would say that the more widespread rule should apply—that you can NOT lay off on gin.

Q—How old is the game of gin rummy?

A—It was invented in 1910 by Elwood T. Baker as a modification of older forms of rummy.

New Pipeline Project Provides More Gas

NEWARK, N. J. (UP) — A $248,808,000 pipeline expansion project is providing New Jersey homes and industry with more natural gas service than ever before.

The Gas Appliance Manufacturers' Association, in its fifth survey of natural gas construction data, reported that seven of the 11 projects to deliver 849,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas a day were completed. This amount would be enough to operate 101,000 gas ranges for a year

The enormous construction project services mainly Bayonne, Camden, East Orange, Hoboken, Irvington, Jersey City, Passaic, Newark, Paterson, Trenton, Union City, Atlantic City, Elizabeth, the Metuchen area and Monmouth and Ocean Counties.

First recorded instance of white men reaching Japan was in 1543.

U.S. Lifts Embargo on 80 Items on Red Trade List

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States today enlarged the list of goods which other nations of the free world may ship to Russia and its European satellites without riskin gthe loss of U. S. aid.

The net result, effective today, is a reduction of 80 items in the list of 397 which have been embargoed, director Harold E. Stassen of the Foreign Operations Administration (FOA) said.

Items dropped were not fully listed. However, examples cited by Stassen showed the following have been taken from the embargo list, but still left subject to surveillance as to quantity:

Flat cars, tank cars, rails, crude petroleum, Diesel oil, locomotives with the exception of turbine types, tractors except special heavy types, nonmilitary tires, platinum, cadmium, calcium, sodium, strontium, vanadium, asbestos and mica.

The relaxation applies only to shipments destined for Russia and its European bloc. There was no easing on embargoes of goods for shipment to Communist China, North Korea or the Communist area of North Viet Nam.

There remained the possibility of transshipments of decontrolled items from the Soviet bloc in Europe to its Red partners in Asia. "That is something we will have to watch closely," an FOA spokesman said.

The announcement had nothing to do with U. S. exports, which are under the control of the Commerce Department. FOA said Commerce would have an announcement of its own shortly.

Stassen said of the FOA's action:

"I am convinced that this revision, which has been made with the concurrence of the Departments of State, Treasury, Defense and Commerce, and approved by the President, will result in a net advantage to the free world of expanded peaceful trade and more effective control of the war potential items. It is a move in the best interests of the United States."

Stassen acted under the Mutual Defense Assistance Control Act of 1951, called the Battle Act after its author Rep. Battle (D-Ala).

The Battle Act has two categories of goods—category A which includes armaments or atomic energy materials and category B, remaining itms which might be useful to make war.

General Claims Politics Handcuffed Brass in Korea

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—A retired Air Force general told a Senate subcommittee here yesterday that "we were required to lose" the Korean War.

He was Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, now living in nearby Winter Park after a heart attack in 1951.

The Senate Internal Security subcommittee came here because of his physical condition and heard him in closed sessions Tuesday. Yesterday's session was open.

Stratemeyer told the committee that "State Department and political interference kept us from winning the war."

General Mark Clark recently told the committee he, too, felt that military decisions had been overridden by other considerations.

Stratemeyer said that as head of the Far East Air Force under Gen. Douglas MacArthur "I wasn't permitted to do a job and certainly MacArthur was handcuffed. Never before in American history was a military commander placed in the position of not being allowed to win."

He said that in his opinion it was not the fault of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in Washington.

When they visited Tokyo, he said, "they tried to explain the handicaps placed upon them and promised to do everything they could to give us what we had to have to win.

"We never had enough ground troops but we could have won with what we had on the ground and in the air if we had been allowed to use it wisely from a military standpoint."

Stratemeyer said his planes were forced to bomb bridges across the Yalu River crossways instead of lengthwise "so we would not violate the Manchurian and Siberian borders."

Under questioning by Jay Sourwine, counsel for the Senate Judiciary committee and subcommittee counsel Alva Carpenter as well as Sen. Pat McCarran (D-Nev), Stratemeyer said "this method of bombing made it impossible to knock out the bridges although one bridge was dropped into the river.

"But then pontoon bridges built by the Chinese to replace the flattened span had to be bombed the same way and only at the south end so that the enemy was able to replace them overnight," he said.

"When MacArthur launched his attack to gain the Yalu River I had enough air strength to stop the Chinese and prevent their troops being supplied."

He said if MacArthur hadn't launched his attack when he did "the Chinese hordes would have been able to organize and probably totally destroy the U. S. 8th Army. MacArthur's move was a master stroke."

The general said that when MacArthur was relieved from command "morale of the entire command took a terrific drop. It was a darn crime. One of the greatest commanders of all time pulled out during a war he was conducting brilliantly despite unheard of handicaps and not even allowed to say goodby to his officers and men."

Stratemeyer told the subcommittee the Korean War resulted "partly because of the Marshall mission which attempted to associate Chinese Communists with the Nationalists" at the close of World War II.

"Nobody can work with the Communist. He's a liar, a thief, a murderer and a saboteur," the 63-year-old former commander said.

The retired general said he was told by State Dept. adviser John P. Davies Jr. near the end of World War II that the Chinese Communists were doing a good job against the Japanese "and that we should assist them."

Asked by subcommittee counsel Carpenter if that was so, Stratemeyer replied "I don't know anything they did that was good."

Mendes-France Plans Substitute if EDC Plan Dies

'Little NATO' Is Alternative

Simple Coalition Army Would Replace Tight Six-Nation Unit

PARIS (INS) — French Premier Pierre Mendes-France has indicated to the U.S. and Britain that if the European Defense Community Treaty is rejected he plans formally to propose a "little NATO" for Western European nations including Britain.

According to diplomatic sources this plan would involve scrapping the closely integrated six-nation European Army embodied in EDC and replacing it by a simple coalition army of the six EDC nations plus Britain.

The draft of this little NATO" scheme has already been drawn up by anti-EDC elements in the French foreign office.

This was the plan to which Mendes-France referred during his talk with Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill and which the latter refused to discuss pending the outcome of French parliamentary action

In the first place, it would doom the great ideal of Western European unity for which EDC provides.

Secondly, it is considered a foregone conclusion that Bonn would not accept under such a plan the discriminatory restrictions to which it already acquiesed when EDC was signed four years ago.

The Germans did so at the time in the interests of European unity —and because the federal republic was much weaker politically and economically than today.

Some diplomats with whom Mendes-France has discussed the little NATIO plan were amazed by his apparent lack of comprehension of the complicated difficulties of securing West Germany's adherence to the Allied security system under conditions imposing discriminatory restrictions on the Germans.

Mendes-France, who is wearied of studying all the complex details of the EDC treaty, told one diplomat he wants the new plan embodied in a treaty which would not be more than two or three pages long, "not hundreds" as in the case of documents relating to EDC.

There are growing fears in Allied diplomatic circles that Mendes-France may himself create during the National Assembly debate on ratification of EDC which opens this Saturday

DISCUSS EUROPEAN, AMERICAN EDUCATION —Recently visiting Michigan schools in their study of the theory and functioning of American education, a group of European educators and a Norwegian newspaper editor spent several days with the Michigan Education Association in Lansing. Fulbright Fellowship awardees, they plan to return to Europe this fall to consider integrating some of the American ideas in their own educational programs. Left to right in the above photo: Dr. E. Dale Kennedy, former Rochester superintendent of schools and now assistant executive secretary of MEA; Aalbert Boogaard, Rotterdam, Netherlands; John Irwin Scott, Belfast, Northern Ireland; seated, Dr. Albert Phillips, executive secretary of MEA, Lansing; Hans Thierbach, Springe Deister, Germany; Sigurd Stensholt, Oslo, Norway.

Commies Shun Registration Office

WASHINGTON (INS)—Two polite young ladies tucked away in a Justice Department office soon may get a chance to answer a question they have been waiting for years to hear: "Where does a Communist register?"

They are quite prepared to answer "right here," and hand over a four-page questionnaire mimeographed in a surprising shade of off-pink.

According to some sponsors of the Communist Control Act signed into law by President Eisenhower Tuesday about 25,000 U. S. Reds should soon be flocking to the little office just off Constitution avenue.

But the two young secretaries in room 2509 of the Internal Security Division sadly admitted a full day after the measure became law that not a single Communist had come in to bare his soul.

Their bosses, who had thousands of registration forms prepared when the original Internal Security Act was passed four years ago, confessed privately that the statements probably will go unused for quite a while.

"However," one said today, "any Communist who desires to come in to register with us will be more than welcome. We should also be pleased to send copies of the form to any who can't make the trip."

The difficulty comes with the nature of the new law which "outlawed" the party and requires registration of all its members. Some legislators believe their action makes immediate registration necssary.

But the Justice Department apparently leans to the view that no one can be forced to register until the U. S. Court of Appeals and then the Supreme Court makes a final decision on the legality of the case against the Communist Party which was inaugurated several years ago.

If a Red does come in to register he will have to tell the government his name, his allases for the past 10 years, his addresses for the past five years and the organizations to which he belongs.

In addition, he will list any offices he has held and his duties or functions. He will have to tell about any connections he may have had with foreign governments, officials, political parties or business organizations — and details about any trip made abroad during the past five years.

He will have to reveal his present and past nationality and, if he is a naturalized U. S. citizen, give the date and place of his naturalization.

He will have to state whether he contemplates any trips outside the country druing the coming year and list his military service with the U. S. or any other government.

After that he signs his name and an affidavit that his registration form is completely true and accurate. He can be fined up to $10,000 and imprisioned five years if he gives false information or fails to register.

Once the laws do go into final effect the registration statement will be kept by the Justice Department and made available for public inspection. But officials fear that it may be some time before they have to provide for that part of the statute.

Fans Want Soviet Visas

LONDON (AP)—The British government has thwarted a Russian plan to hand out free vodka to thirsty Britons.

A Russian trade delegation brought the vodka here to help put a kick into next month's British Food Fair. Recently keen to win friends and influence the British, the Soviets have rented the biggest stand at the show.

The British Board of Trade, however, has granted only a temporary import license for the vodka. That means it can enter Britain but can't enter Britons.

"Unless your officials change their minds, the vodka will have to be shipped back once the fair is over," a spokesman of the delegation said.

Visiting European Educators Praise Freedom in American Schools

By HAZEL A. TRUMBLE

LANSING—Academically speaking, the curriculum in European schools is still on the "heavy side."

The pendulum in continental school programs, said six European educators and a newspaper editor from Norway who are touring America this summer, has never swung away from the century-old traditional program although signs that something new will be added are beginning to appear.

Recipients of a Fulbright Fellowship, Aalbert Boogaard, Rotterdam, Netherlands; Charles Decaigny, Liege, Belgium; Alphonse Krier, Luxembourg, John Irwin Scott, Belfast, North Ireland; Sigurd Stensholt, Oslo, Norway and Hans Thierbach, Springe Diester, Germany, visited Michigan schools recently.

Here in the Capitol they were guests of the Michigan Education Association for several days.

Only newspaperman in the group, Sigurd Skogheim, editor from Lillehammer, Norway, stated he was in this country to learn about the schools and their administration. He plans to get new ideas on reporting of school stories.

Although differing among themselves on many of the phases of American education (very much as American educators) there was unanimity of opinion that the schools of this country were turning out versatile citizens who were not afraid to say what they thought.

"Here in your schools we found that even the little ones were not afraid to speak up, and they had been taught how to express themselves. I am sure that a Hitler can't happen where there is such freedom," commented the schoolmaster from the Netherlands.

On the critical side of the ledger, said Boogaard, was what he called lack of self-restraint on the part of American children. Discipline, he stated, seemed to either be more "lax of relaxed" in this country.

Citing a case in point, he reviewed an incident which took place when he was visiting an American school one day and a second grader having been assigned a job to do' stepped in front of him while he was conversing with the school principal.

The boy, said Boogaard, did apologize, but continued with his task without any reprimand from the principal.

"In my country, a student would stay in his seat until the visitor had left."

Defending what Boogaard called the American Way, Krier from Luxembourg said he should remember that "you cannot have self-sufficient citizens without giving them an opportunity to exercise responsibilities."

"I believe," said Krier, "that there has to be a certain amount of freedom in the classroom if you are to produce students who are not afraid to speak freely."

The European schools, Krier remarked, do not have the curriculum variety for each student that the American schools do.

"Those who are scholars are given training in the languages, philosophies, histories, and mathematics. They never learn to use their hands such as students here who are given a choice of many different handcrafts and trades.

"We do have our vocational schools and they are excellent, but you either take one or the other according to your aptitudes. This, we are aware, produces a one-tracked individual and that is something your American schools are not doing."

Neither was there agreement as to whether Communists should be allowed to teach.

The schoolman from Luxembourg stated that it was not possible for a man to be a Communist and teach without indoctrinating his students. He could delineate his belief from his classroom practice, said the Netherlands educator who said teacher organization in his country "policed" their own membership and a Communist in in their ranks soon bowed out of the profession.

However, the Europeans stuck together in stating that there was more academic freedom for the teacher in their countries than in America

"We do not have investigating committees. We do not have citizens' committees telling us how to teach and what to teach. There is an opportunity for the citizen to speak his mind at education committee meetings (a parallel to our board of education meetings), but final decision rests with a democratic process which involves much discussion between top professional people and the minister of education," said the scholar from North Ireland.

Indirectly the people elect their education representatives. Appointed by the city council, a committee on education is thus formed who in turn select a superintendent. His prime requisite is that he be a top-flight schoolmaster. Administrative ability is secondary, most of the educators agreed.

All European countries have centralized education systems with all teachers in their nation receiving the same pay scale. National funds provide school buildings with school architects the empployes of the government.

Currently, they stated, much is being done in stone and brick prefabricated school structure. Average classroom is costing $12,500 with student loads running from 25 to 50 in different countries.

Common problem of European and American schools is the shortage of elementary school teachers. Unlike America, in Europe, they said, 50 to 60 per cent of the primary teachers were men with women staffing the first and second grades. In the secondary field, the preponderance of men ranges from 75 to 80 per cent.

Teacher drop-out rate from the profession is much lower in Europe. "Once a teacher, always a teacher" has proved itself with only from 2 to 3 per cent leaving the field for more lucrative careers.

"We have to compete with industry and business for science teachers, however," said Thierbach from Germany, who said that part of his country's economic rehabilitation depended upon these young scientific minds.

The teachers, they said, do not consider their plight so bad in Europe.

"We are proud of the fact that we are teachers. We know we will never be rich, but there are other things which balance the scales and our countries are increasingly aware of the important role we must play in educating boys and girls for a better world. Consequently they look after our welfare," they agreed.

In studying teachers' organizations, they said they strived to keep them on a high, professional level. "We can never stoop to labor union tactics," said Decaigny, "and still call ourselves professional."

Similar in objective to the MEA, their first goal is education for every child with a good educational program for their public schools their second aim. The welfare of the teacher and his family comes third, they said.

Newspapers in their nations, they agreed, were playing a leading role in telling the public about their schools. They present series of informative articles on school activities and programs.

When a minister of education gets out of line, such as happened in Utrecht a year ago, the newspapers came to the defense of the schools and 8,000 people turned out for a protest meeting. More than 1,200 letters were received by the education head demanding that he do something about the crowded conditions in the school.

"TV," said Boogaard, "also promoted interest in school conditions by developing a script around a typical school day."

America is fortunate in its fine school buildings and its equipment, stated the European group, but here as in Europe it is most important that there be well-trained teachers to staff those classrooms.

Discussing the difference in history textbooks in the facts given on important incidents in history, John Irwin Scott, headmaster of the school from Dungannon, North Ireland, said it was one subject which should be treated objectively.

"I am a history scholar and any student of history recognizes that historians have soft-pedaled the weaknesses of their own country. This is not giving factual history to our students.

"For instance, what English textbooks say about the American Revolution is not the same thing you read in the American textbooks."

"Education, long may it live," declared Scott. "We might as well face the facts—it is our only hope for peace in this world."

To Select 668 Guardsmen for Labor Day Traffic Duty

LANSING (AP) — Armed with a pep talk from Gov. Williams, the State Adjutant General's office today began the selection of 668 National Guardsmen to be called to emergency traffic control duty over the Labor Day weekend.

"Should we be so fortunate as to reduce the traffic fatality rate . . ." Williams wrote Brig. Gen. George C. Moran, the adjutant general, "I am sure each of us who participates in this concerted effort may justifiably feel a great surge of pride and satisfaction.

Williams yesterday issued formal orders authorizing the call of up to 700 guardsmen to assist state and local police and sheriffs in traffic control.

The guardsmen will receive full pay and allowances for five days of active duty, starting at noon Friday and ending at noon Tuesday. Their compensation averages $10 a day, so the operation can cost up to $35,000. The money comes from a special appropriation made annually by the legislature for such emergencies.

The last time any part of the guard was called out in this manner was for the Flint tornado in June last year.

So far, Moran reported, uses have been found for 668 guardsmen, most of whom will be military policemen. Of the total 378 will be assigned to assist state police on patrols and 97 on point control.

Another 142 have been requested by sheriff's departments to assist their men with highway patrols.

County sheriffs have reported they will assign 482 deputies to assist patrolling of rural highways.

Farm Legislation Lands 83rd Congress in Same Controversial Spot as the 80th

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican-controlled 83rd Congress finds itself in about the same controversial spot on farm legislation as did the 80th Congress, the last time the GOP was in the driver's seat.

Democrats are sizing up a new farm program passed by the present Congress as a major issue in the fall's congressional election. They contend the program will hurt farmers.

* * *

In 1948, Democrats fired a similar charge against a GOP Congress. President Truman beat out Gov. Thomas E. Dewey for the presidency and Democrats regained control of Congress. The farm vote was credited with being a major factor.

But Republican leaders predict the comparison will end there. They express confidence that farmers will approve Congress' recent action in setting up a system of flexible farm price supports to supplant war-born high, rigid price floors.

* * *

In 1948 the issue centered largely around Congress' stripping the Agriculture Department of authority to provide storage facilities for farmers' surplus crops. Farm prices tumbled and Democrats blamed the GOP.

Seeking ouster of GOP congressmen from farm states, Democrats are predicting that the new support system — passed by a somewhat reluctant Congress at insistence of President Eisenhower — will bring on lower farm prices, a reduced farm income and possibly an agricultural depression.

* * *

But Eisenhower, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson and other administration lieutenants stand ready to defend the new legislation.

The flexible system provides a sliding scale of supports for the basic crops — wheat, cotton, corn, rice and peanuts — ranging from 82½ to 90 per cent of parity for 1955 and 75 to 90 thereafter. Parity is a price declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to prices they must pay.

Present supports are at 90 per cent of parity for the basic crops.

Less controversy appears to center on other legislation affecting farmers.

Generally approved were administration proposals to dispose and set aside big chunks of the huge farm surpluses, in order to minimize their depressing effects on market prices.

One act along this line authorized the President to sell up to 700 million dollars worth of farm surpluses for foreign currencies which would in turn be used to finance U.S. military and other projects abroad. It also authorized the chief executive to donate 300 million dollars worth of the surplus for relief use abroad.

One Out of 8 to Go to Hospital in 1954

CHICAGO (UP) — One of every eight persons in the United States will be a hospital patient in 1954, the American Hospital Association announced.

This figure was based on records for 1953 when U.S. hospitals cared for 20,183,827 patients, an all-time high. On the average day in 1953, there were 1,341,623 patients and 43,528 new-born infants in hospitals.

The information was gathered by questionnaires sent to all 6,978 registered hospitals in the country.

Non-porfit general hospitals which care for the majority of the acute, short-term cases spent $21.09 every day for each patient, the AHA said.

This compares with an average expenditure of $2.83 per day for each patient in mental hospitals. Mental hospitals accounted for 44 per cent of the nation's total of 1,580,564 hospital beds.

Alma Mater Royalties Produce Good Income

ATLANTA (AP) — Georgia Tech officials have reasons other than the sentimental for liking to hear the school's songs played frequently.

The school owns the copyrights on its alma mater song, the "Yellow Jacket March" and "Rambling Wreck from Georgia Tech" and uses the income from the copyrights for student programs.

Probe Identity of Tattooed Man

Young American Found in Netherlands Claims He Was Nazi Prisoner

AMSTERDAM (AP) — American and Dutch officials sought today to establish the true identity of a young American admitted to an Enschede, Holland, hospital where nurses found tatooed on his back in German the words: "That is the fate of U.S.A. arsonists, murderers and gangster pilots."

Found in an Enschede square July 29, the man gave his name as David Samuel Rollins, of Georgetown, Washington, D. C., and claimed he was a U.S. Air Force captain imprisoned by the Germans in the infamous Nazi Stalag 17 camp in World War II, where his back was tatooed.

He said he was born at New London, Conn., Sept. 9, 1922, and had married in the United States a girl named Mary Van Houten, who bore him two children.

Dr. A. J. M. Verbeek, a psychiatrist, who said his patient "is living in a different world," asked the American Embassy at The Hague for assistance in clearing up the man's background. An embassy spokesman said today two military attaches will go to Enschede tomorrow to interview Rollins.

Previously Dr. Verbeek had sent photographs and finger prints to the embassy and these, the embassy spokesman said, were forwarded to Washington for checking.

The spokesman said U.S. Air Force headquarters at Wiesbaden, Germany, had reported that the Army serial number Rollins gave—O-137585—does not exist now and was a World War II serial number, Rollins claimed he was stationed with the 36th Bomber Group in England.

Dutch newspapers also said Rollans claimed to have spent two years in Korea and thinks he remembers making a helicopter flight over the southwestern part of The Netherlands during the disastrous floods of 1952.

Dr. Verbeek said of his patient:

"He is cheerful and you can talk to him quite well. He never talks about home. But he often says, 'Doctor, please treat me.' He is living in a different world."

Dr. Verbeek called in an assistant who interviewed Rollins and told newsmen the patient reacted strongly to the words "Boston" and "Baltimore."

Waives Examination on Indecency Charge

Robert J. Sanders, 64, of 47 Water St., waived examination on a charge of gross indecency and was bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court Wednesday when he appeared before Pontiac Judge Maurice E. Finnegan.

Unable to furnish a $500 bond, Sanders was returned to the county jail to await arraignment Monday. Complainant in the case is the father of a 10-year-old boy.

After Hawaiians had established themselves as a republic, they voluntarily had their islands annexed to the United States in 1898 and became a territorial possession in 1900.

Old Motoring Laws Kept on File by AAA

WASHINGTON (UP) — The American Automobile Association has a file of motor laws—some old, some still in the books.

For instance, in the State of Pennsylvania, a motorist once had to toot a horn within 100 feet of every street crossing.

In some states, it was against the law to go over six miles an hour or "for a driver to stand up while operating a gasoline contrivance."

An old publication called "The Horseless Carriage," in February, 1915, reported a ruling that when the highways were damaged by the "clash of two cars," the penalty was that the owners of both cars had to sign a paper saying that the road would be repaired. The law didn't say who would pay for the wreckage of either car.

Once in Vermont, there was a bill presented to the State Legislature which forbade the "use of cars on public highways between the hours of noon and midnight."

That didn't leave much time for driving.

In 1902, the city clerk of Fergus Falls, Minn., got an inquiry on how folks felt about autos in the town. He put that right down in writing.

Said he: "One auto in the county. No anti-feeling, I think. Everybody around here recognizes it as a coming vehicle."

Then there is the classic story about the daughter of a millionaire who was taking a tour through Europe in 1905 in a carriage without horse. She wrote back home that "in a small town we were stopped by the police and charged with exceeding the speed limit. Papa thereupon bought from the prince his entire dominion, and forthright discharged his entire police force. After that we were not bothered."

Saccharin is 300 to 500 times as sweet as sugar.

Rumor Queen Expecting Baby

Stories Circulating in Balmoral Area Despite Lack of Confirmation

LONDON (INS) — Rumors were revived today that Queen Elizabeth is expecting her third child, despite lack of confirmation in authoritative court circles.

Stories were circulated in the Balmoral district, where the queen is staying with her family for the annual Scottish vacation, that she is taking unusual precautions with her health.

One insistent report around Ballater, township near the royal home of Balmoral castle, was that the third child of Elizabeth and Prince Philip is expected some time next February.

Against this, officials at Buckingham Palace in London emphasize the queen will be carrying out a heavy load of engagements this winter, and already is fully booked with duties through November.

It is known Elizabeth was visited by an eminent British gynaecologist earlier this year. Sources within the palace, however, said this was part of a routine check-up recommended by the queen's medical advisers after her return from her exhausting Australian tour and had no special significance.

Elizabeth has been seen wearing her usual country clothes of tweed suits and topcoats during her rare appearances at Balmoral.

Her outfits worn in public in London prior to her departure for Scotland were tightly form-fitting, giving her an extremely slim, youthful line.

Elizabeth has two children. Prince Charles, the heir to the throne, was born in 1948; Princess Anne, her daughter, was born in 1950.

Elizabeth was married to Prince Philip Nov. 20, 1947, and succeeded her father as British monarch Feb. 6, 1952. She often told friends after her marriage that she would like at least three or four children.

Volunteer Fire Fighters Graduate With a Bang

KALAMAZOO (AP) — The final exam of a volunteer firemen's course went off with a bang. An old shack had been filled with lumber and doused with gasoline. An electrical appartus was ready to start the fire.

The button was pushed and—BOOM!

Atmospheric conditions condensed the gas vapor and caused an explosion. Debris scattered over roof crashed onto the fire chief's car.

No one was injured and the graduates successfully pounced on the flames.

Music Festival Slated for Venice Sept. 11 to 26

VENICE (AP) — The palaces of Venice, favorite setting of traditional opera, will echo to new sounds next month. This city of singing gondoliers will be host to the 27th Festival of Contemporary Music Sept. 11-26.

One of the top events will be the premiere of a new opera, "The Turn of the Screw," by British composer Benjamin Britten.

The last five days will be devoted to something new for Italy—"Porgy and Bess."

The office of Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court has been held by 14 men: Jay, Rutledge, Ellsworth, Marshall, Taney, Chase, Waite, Fuller, White, Taft, Hughes, Stone, Vinson, and Warren.

Natural Enemies in Animal World Often Defy Convention in Picking Their Pals

WASHINGTON — Animals sometimes strike up friendships almost as strange—in some cases just as strange—as the companionship of the wolf and lamb, leopard and goat, calf and lion, and cow and bear cited in the Bible.

Scenes of unexpected sociability in the animal world similar to those depicted in Isaiah 11:6-7 have occurred in homes, zoos and scientific laboratories. They raise anew—but do not answer—the mystifying question: Can the wildness be taken out of animals?

Cats and rats, thought of as "natural enemies," have lived together in harmony, say the National Geographic Society. The 1949 Brooklyn-Long Island Cat Club show displayed a tabby eating with a white rat. A Siamese kitten and a white rat were playmates in an El Segundo (Calif.) home. Recently a psychologist conditioned a rat-killer to eat meekly beside its "victim."

With the aid of man, wild animals at times befriend domesticated creatures, possibly to dispel loneliness. A British trainer reported he placed a 9-month-old Labrador dog in a lion's cage. The lion sniffed the dog, licked its face. They became fast friends.

The same dog hunted with an 18-month-old leopard. The trainer tried another experiment in animal relations. He placed the lion and leopard cages together so that the two cats would get acquainted. Ordinarily lions and leopards show no signs of fraternizing. But these two became the exception. They liked one another and shared a cage.

There are instances of captive lions interbreeding with tigers. The hybrids, larger than their parents, wore a pattern of pale stripes.

At one zoo a newly captured rhinoceros took a liking to a young white-bearded gnu. Another rhino consorted with a small elephant and goats.

Sometimes a predator spares its prey. Later both become compatible. In the Basle zoo a stoat (ermine) ate all brown rats but one, its friend. A terrarium once housed snakes which consumed their normal meal of mice — except one house mouse. At a Grand Rapids museum a weasle recently refused to eats its dinner, a white mouse. They both shared horsemeat given the weasel as a between-mouse snack.

In the open, prong-horned antelopes join herds of tame cattle. Wild zebras graze among domesticated horses. Wild asses, antelopes, yaks and horses mingle. Wild buffalo associate with elephants. Antelopes and ostriches sometimes are found among baboons.

Stories of foster parents are innumerable, many of them suspect. They include chickens mothering puppies and kittens, cats mothering mice, ducklings, chicks, owls and rabbits and dogs mothering bear cubs and pigs. A dachshund was recently represented as adopting a donkey colt.

However, it's a fact that more than one zoo, including Washington's have used dogs to nurse lion cubs. In the Sydney zoo a venerable sheep dog nursed a cub. When it grew up, the dog exerted such influence over the lion the pair had to be separated. Visitors complained the sheep dog bullied the lion!

ANDOVER, Mass, (UP)—Sixty-six years on the same job is the boast of Peter F. Cunningham, 84.

In 1888 he went to work for a Boston firm selling jams and jellies. He's still working and commutes daily by train between here and Boston.

"Why should I think of retiring?" he asked. "Keeping busy has been the secret of my whole life."

Atomic Agency Eyed by Allies

U. S. Spurs Plan for Setting Up Worldwide Clearing House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and several of its allies are putting the finishing touches to a plan creating an international "atoms-for-peace" clearing house.

An announcement of how the program will work and what nations will participate will be made within the next few weeks.

Contemplated is an agency, set up under the United Nations, to handle questions and answers about peaceful uses of atomic energy — in medicine, agriculture, industrial power and the like.

This agency would control no stockpile of fissionable material or power reactors. But it could draw them from the "have" nations to fill orders from the "have nots."

The idea grew out of President Eisenhower's plan for pooling atomic materials and know - how for peaceful purposes. Planning for it went ahead several weeks ago after it became apparent that Russia had rejected Eisenhower's invitation to participate.

The President has vowed several times that he will not give up the share-the-atom plan he espoused first in his speech last Dec. 8 to the U. N. General Assembly. Secretary of State Dulles told his news conference two weeks ago the last Soviet expression on the Eisenhower plan was "99 per cent negative."

Without Russia — whose participation is not yet entirely discounted — the program would take a considerably different shape. For example:

• It would not provide a pool of materials, personnel and data; there would be no disarmament feature, and there would be no spectacular effort to "strip (the atom of) its military casing and adapt it to the art of peace," as Eisenhower put in his pool speech. Instead, quietly and modestly, the member nations would seek to lay an international foundation of technical knowledge and skills on which the atomic future could be built.

Suspect Arrested in Tavern Stabbing

Frederico Saenz, 28, of 15 W. Wilson Ave., was admitted to Pontiac General Hospital last night after being stabbed in a fight at the El Chico Bar, 374 Franklin Rd.

Two hours after the stabbing, police arrested Thomas Shunko, 59, of 388 Franklin Rd. for investigation of felonious assault. A switch blade knife he was carrying was tagged as evidence, police said.

Saenz was listed in satisfactory condition at the hospital today where he is being treated for a wound in his chest and cuts on his forehead and left arm.

Shunko was also treated at the hospital for cuts on his fingers.

Spraying Stems Invasion of State by Gypsy Moths

LANSING (UP)—An invasion of gypsy moth in southern Michigan appears to have been wiped out by early summer spray operations, state agricultural officials said today after reporting moths in only four of 5,000 traps set to test results of spraying operations.

"We will have to psray again in some isolated areas next spring, but it looks as though we have licked the Gypsy moth invasion,' C. A. Boyer, chief of the State Plant Industry Bureau, said.

All Sixteen Students Are Little 'Propsts'

FRANKLIN, W. Va. (UP)—The total enrollment of 16 pupils at the Dahmer School in Pendleton County carries the family name of Propst.

Elizabeth Boggs, who teaches in the one-room school, said each of her pupils is a grandchild of Hendron Propst and that four of them have had the same surname on both sides of the family for three generations.

The family background is further complicated by the fact that both Hendron Propst's mother and his wife were Propts before their marriages. The Propsts, of German origin, settled in Pendleton County in 1753.

Gas Poisons Workers

BEPPU, Japan (UP) — The National Safety Agency reports that Yperite (mustard gas) leaking from 4,000 bombs dumped in Beppu Bay after World War II poisoned several workers and seriously handicapped salvage operations.

Girls Discover Adventure Galore in European Tour

Mary Ann Pickering Joins 5 Friends on Jaunt

Relate Exciting Tales of Life Abroad

By MARILYN SHEARER

With gondola hat, cultured pearls and cuckoo clock, Mary Ann Pickering, daughter of the Frederick Pickerings of Alice avenue, traveled through Europe.

Mary Ann was accompanied by five girls from Chicago, two of whom attended St. Mary College, Notre Dame, with her.

England, Ireland, Scotland, Holland, Belgium, Germany, Switzerland, Italy, France and Manaco were the countries visited by the group. Each of the countries has a charm and beauty all its own, with the gay atmosphere of music and flowers everywhere.

The British Isles with their lovely countryside and historic castles, and the colorful costumes of The Netherlands, with lace bonnets and Dutch shoes, are memories to be cherished forever. The international port of Rotterdam is a place where one can view ocean-going vessels from all over the world.

Germany is a country where the old world is blended with the new. Century-old cathedrals and universities were viewed in contrast to the modern architecture, a result of the reconstruction program.

With eyes sparkling and a smiling face, Mary Ann is telling her friends of their many escapades, particularly the time they got lost in old Heidelberg where the Germans speak very little English and the girls spoke no German.

From Germany they traveled through the beautiful Black Forest to picturesque Switzerland, where they took time out for a cooling dip in the shadow of the Jungfrau Mountain at Interlochen.

"The sheer thrill of our trip," states Mary Ann, "was the climb up to Grimels Pass as we made the hair-pin turns, barely wide enough for modern traffic." A supper of Swiss bondue was enjoyed as Swiss yodelers entertained.

They traveled over the Italian border and on to romantic Venice, the floating city with its colorful gondolas, beautiful St. Mark Cathedral and fabulous Lido Beach.

"Rome, the Eternal City, was our favorite spot, where we did everything but ride a motor scooter and find Gregory Peck. We tossed lucky coins in the Fountain of Trevi and put our hands in the mouth of the Lion of Truth. We ate ice cream cones on the Spanish steps and had our hair styled 'Italiano'."

They also saw a magnificent opera staged in the ruins of the Bath of Caroucalla. Traveling along the talian Riviera, they stopped to try their luck at the famous Monte Carlo Casino, which overlooks the harbor filled with luxurious pleasure yachts.

An excursion to Lourdes, France, was one of the highlights of the trip. Over 100,000 pilgrims formed the candlelight procession representing countries from all over the world, making the Marian Year pilgrimage.

When Mary Ann arrived in Gay Paree, the capital of fashion, she was joined by her cousin, M. Catherine Moreau, daughter of the Frank J. Moreaus of East Iroquois road. Miss Moreau resides in La Boule.

Paris is a place where one can find the darling French poodles and screaming taxies . . . the taxi with the loudest horn has the right of way.

The Church of Madeleine,, Cathedral of Notre Dame, Arc de Triomphe, Eiffel Tower, Versailles, the Palace of Mirrors, the Montmartre, the Follies and the Moulin Rouge are just a few of the exciting places visited in the city.

The trip of their lives nearly over, the six girls boarded the train to Le Havre to sail on the homeward-bound M. V. Georgic.

Mary Ann Pickering of Alice avenue reminisces as she looks over the souvenirs of her two-month European tour. She is wearing a stole from England, a gondola hat from Venice and a Swiss watch. The cuckoo clock was purchased in the Black Forest of Germany, the cashmere sweaters in Scotland and the satchel in Florence.

At Toastmistress Picnic

Helen Lapisch Is Honored

Mrs. W. A. Vernon was hostess in her Sylvan Shores drive home Tuesday evening at an indoor picnic for Pontiac Toastmestress Club.

The event was held in honor of Helen Lapisch, newly elected chairman of Council Four, Northeast Region, and past president of the club.

The honoree, who recently attended the National Convention of Toastmestress Clubs in Louisville, Ky., gave a report and presented pictures of the convention.

Miss Lapisch said that the scrapbook of the chapter, designed by Mrs. Leon Windsor, won second prize in the national competition.

Mrs. Robert Sutton, president, led a vote of thanks to the hostess. The round table discussion was a one-minute talk by each member on a variety of subjects. It was announced that the next meeting will be held Sept. 14.

Remove Scorch

Wax paper will remove scorch from the bottom of an iron when it is slightly warm.

Music Fraternity to Gather for Picnic

Members of Zeta Xi Chapter of Delta Omicron national professional music fraternity will meet for a picnic Tuesday at 6 p.m. in the Benvenue avenue home of Mrs. Harold James.

Plans will be made for the annual musical tea to be held Oct. 16 in the Rochester Library.

This high-sensitivity gamma ray detector is being used to help fight cancer. Originally developed for "logging" oil wells, the device has been used by more than 15 cancer centers throughout the country.

Developed by petroleum scientists of The Texas Co., the medical version is here being used on a cancer patient under radioactive iodine treatment. The electronic counting device in the background measures gamma ray intensity through the probe-type detector in the doctor's hand. The cup-type detector at left of the "counter" measures radioactivity of body fluid of patients undergoing examination and treatment by the use of radioactive isotopes.

Clean Face Is Vital

Always start with an immaculately clean face before applying make-up. Then, smooth on a light, tinted foundation and fluff on face powder. Brush your brows until they are smooth and glossy and define them with pencil. Touch your eyelids with cool, green shadow. Outline your lips with a vivid shade of pink. It's a pretty way to look on a hot day.

Ways to Fix Scratched Furnishings

3 Repair Methods Are Explained by Hubbard Cobb

By HUBBARD COBB

There are a good many ways to treat a scratch in the finish of a piece of furniture.

You can stain the exposed wood at the bottom of the scratch so that it more or less matches the color of the finish or you can try to patch the damaged finish or you can soften up the finish so that it runs back together.

Which method to use depends on the value of the piece, the extent of the damage and how much you feel like working.

The simplest and least effective way to take care of a scratch is to stain the wood to match the finish.

All you need for this is a very fine brush or a matchstick and some stain that more or less matches the finish. Run the stain along the scratch and that's all there is to it.

If you have a rather deep scratch or if the piece of furniture is an important one, it's worth taking more drastic action to conceal the damage.

What you can do is to sand away the finish around the scratch and then apply a patch. The patch should consist of several very thin coats of shellac or varnish.

Another method of getting rid of the scratch is with something called an amalgamator. This is a liquid sold at paint and hardware stores but it is sort of specialized and you may not be able to get it at the first store you try.

It's applied to the damaged area and it softens up the finish so that the finish flows together over the scratch. It is, in short, a solvent, and if not used correctly could do more harm than good.

For this reason, it's worth taking the time and doing a little practice with the amalgamator before you tackle a good piece of furniture.

Hot Weather Hints

When the temperature soars to new heights and the weather is the all-absorbing topic of the day—take a few short cuts to summer beauty: Bathe in tepid (not cold) water and use light floral cologne lavishly . . . wear cool, tubbable cottons . . . eat lots of crisp green salads and fresh fruits . . . drink quantities of fruit juices . . . keep your beauty creams and lotions in the refrigerator.

Royal blue pattern is placed on a grayed-black background in this Pacific Coast sports coat of a wool shetland fabric in which mohair is used to form the pattern. Note the nubby texture of the overplaid design.

Tablecloths Get Parisian High-Styling

PARIS (INS) — Parisian tables are getting just as dressed up as women.

In fact, the tables wear "tops" and "skirts," just as the women do.

New Parisian tablecloths are in two sections:

The cloth-top just covers the table's surface, whether it's round or square. The skirt, short for everyday and long for special occasions, is a flounce ruffled out from the flat top.

For the family's every-day dinner a black and white checked cotton looks fresh, new and Parisian. To be practical its "skirt" should not be longer than 12 inches.

Use red cotton squares for napkins. The color combination will be most cheerful and lipstick marks won't show.

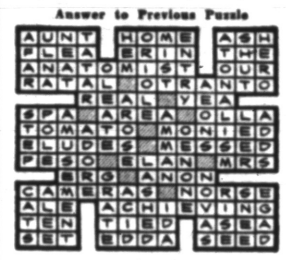

For your breakfast table, flower-printed cotton will look charming with its fully ruffled skirt flounce. Fabrics with polka-dots, matching your dishes in color, are another suggestion.

If you want to make a dressy tablecloth with a ground-length skirt for an evening party or a special occasion, such as a wedding, choose organdy as the fluffiest material.

Pink, pastel blue or nile green will look particularly pretty with white porcelain plates and crystal glasses. In case your dishes are colored, use white organdy for the tablecloth and the porcelain color for napkins.

It is easy to make those Parisian table-covers yourself. Cut the top just slightly larger (for the seam) than your table-top.

Our hair, as the rest of our bodies, changes with the seasons. As the weather gets warmer, hair becomes thicker. Therefore you should have your hair thinned out more frequently than during the remainder of the year.

Amateurs May Use Star-Gazing Observatories

Star-gazing, like mountain climbing, has lured man to the heights throughout the ages. Today, however, watching the stars isn't restricted to the astronomer.

The amateur Galileo and the ordinary tourist can gaze at the heavens at some of the nation's leading observatories.

Mount Wilson Observatory near Los Angeles has a 100-inch telescope, the second largest in the world, which may be inspected from a visitor's gallery.

The greatest of the world's telescopes, 200 inches, is at Palomar Observatory, some 70 miles north of San Diego. Here in a shining aluminum dome 12 stories high is the "giant of Palomar," 500 tons of steel and glass. Travelers may view the telescope from behind a glass wall and visit the museum.

These observatories, all accessible by car, have scheduled public visiting hours: McDonald Observatory, on a 7,000 foot summit, about 200 miles east of El Paso, Texas, is operated by the Universities of Texas and Chicago. With its 82-inch Telescope, it is the largest open for public observation.

Schedules change frequently and from season to season, so be sure to check visiting schedules before you leave home.

May Go Home to Mother or Suffer Nervous Breakdown

Beware of the Perfect Wife---She's Often Victim of 'Pattern Living'

NEW YORK—Beware of the perfect wife, the wife who keeps the house spotless, takes scrupulous care of the children—and never complains. She may suddenly go home to mother or suffer a nervous breakdown.

The over fastidious homemaker, says the current issue of a popular magazine, is often a victim of "pattern living" that is, she has been brought up on too strict a routine: "The losing struggle to live in a world of change pursues the victim of pattern living through her unhappy life. Her attitude is scarcely more adult than when she was living with her mother."

In an article entitled "Nice Girls Are Dangerous," Dr. D. Ewen Cameron, who has made an extensive study of the "nice girl," says, "These women ... have been taught that the only proper, decent and right way of life — terms which may be summed up in the word 'nice'— is to live according to a preordained code, a social pattern of human relations which was laid down in Victorian days. This code stresses the idea that nice girls don't complain; they suffer in silence'."

"We know now," says Dr. Cameron, "that to talk things out, to get things off our chest, is a mechanism of the first importance. The girl who must keep her problems to herself has lost ... that healthy regulating function and is all the more likely to break down."

Dr. Cameron sums up the nice girl's attitude as: "I don't want the neighbors to talk about me. I'll be a nice girl. I'll be home early. I'll wait until I'm asked and never be forward. I'll do what I'm told. I'll never complain ..."

"The real tragedies of pattern living come with marriage and motherhood. In a sense, what these nice girls do to their husbands and children is a repetition of what their own mothers did to them.

"Having become tense, insecure wives, they perpetuate the whole tragic cycle by once more producing pattern-living children."

As a solution, Dr. Cameron recommends that children be allowed to grow up, instead of being, in the narrow sense, brought up. This will prepare them for a mature adulthood and prevent them from being "alone and afraid in a world they never made."

Sisters Are Hoping to Reform Roughneck Girl Who Lives Next Door

They Should Deflect Her Energies

Immature Neighbor Likes to Wrestle

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: We've just moved to a new town and I have become acquainted with the girl next door. She acts rough and always wants to wrestle.

"I'm 15 and my sister is 14, and we don't like such goings-on. We act more mature. How can we set her straight without hurting her feelings?"

You and your sister can make it a joke between you so that you can expect and get A-1 cooperation from each other when you see a wrestling match coming on. "Susie has her steam up—let's help Susie let off steam," one of you can sing to the other.

Then suggest a race to the corner, produce a ball for tossing, or propose that all three go and see if there's any chocolate cake left. Anything in the way of action will take your neighbor's mind off wrestling.

If you continue to deflect her energies into other activities she may come to find it's more fun to play your way.

"Dear Miss Woodward: I've gone with Clem for three months now. He's a wonderful athlete, but when we're on a date he must think he's still participating in sports. He hits me in the stomach when I say or do anything that amuses him!

"It embarrasses me to death when he does it in front of my parents. They think his conduct is vulgar. I don't like it a bit, but I do like Clem and I don't want to lose him.

"Should I tell him gracefully about his annoying conduct, or just stay silent and hope he'll stop hitting me?"

How long are you going to wait around for your Clem to act a bit grown up? Hitting his lady-love in the stomach in punctuation for his laughter is hardly the behavior of a boy who's old enough to be going steady.

Right now is the time to get across your point that you don't enjoy being knocked around. But gently does it.

The next time it happens and you're alone, give out a very fragile and feminine ouch. Clutch your midriff as though you'd been stung. Then ask smilingly, "Are you trying to take my breath completely away?"

Follow it up with some brave words about his not knowing his own strength. You bet he gives that punching bag in the gym a real workout. But suggest gently that he save his blows for the bag.

Avoid blows in public and in front of your parents by not staying close enough to him for his sock to connect.

And the first sentimental moment that comes along, study his hands, admire their strength, but conjecture out loud as to how very gently they could be, how tender and delicate his touch.

Let him in on a secret: Girls don't like the rough stuff.

What Other People Think Shouldn't Govern Career

By ANNE HEYWOOD

Too many times, it seems to me, we live our lives for the tourist trade, not for ourselves. We settle on a plan of action, not because we ourselves will like it, but because our friends, relatives and neighbors will approve of it.

The trouble is, we pay exorbitantly high for doing this, and it doesn't really impress other people as much as we think it will.

For example, Joseph D. had all his life loved carpentry work and refinishing antiques. But, of course, nobody thought he should be a carpenter; it wasn't fancy enough for his family.

They wanted him to be a "college man." So he forced himself through four years of college and emerged an engineer "by the skin of my teeth," as he put it.

He got a fine job in a large firm of engineers—with only the slight disadvantage that he couldn't stand it. But he worked hard at it, married a nice girl and had a couple of kids.

By this time he was paying a terrible price for the job he hated, but there was nothing he could do about it because he had a family to support.

He hated his work so much that he got nervous and touchy, and kept snapping at his co-workers and boss.

Needless to say, he made no friends at the office, and when he got home nights, he disappeared to his basement woodworking shop.

When Joseph was in his late 40s, he had a heart attack, not from overwork, but from hating his work. The doctor made him ease up, take six months off the job.

During that six months, he really worked at his carpentry.

He put a little ad in his newspaper, offering to refinish furniture and make repairs.

He got some customers and did such a good job that word of mouth brought him dozens more.

He didn't make as much money as he had made in his job, but he was so much happier that his wife and his doctor ganged up on him to make him continue the carpentry and give up the job.

But, he argued, what would people think if he did that?

Well, they convinced him that, if he went back to the work he hated, he'd have another heart attack and probably die, and then what would it matter what people thought?

Joseph finally took their advice. Now he has three assistants and a booming business—but it took a heart attack to make him start living his life for himself.

Should Couple Postpone Own Party?

Dinner and Previous Invitation Conflict

By EMILY POST

A wife writes: "I invited three couples to dine with my husband and me on a certain night. In the meantime, we received an invitation to a dinner - dance for that same evening. It is one of the nicest social events of the season and we would very much like to go.

"My husband has asked me to call our guests and postpone the dinner, but much as I would like to go to the dinner-dance I am not at all sure that this would be the proper thing to do. I told him I would write to you and abide by your decision."

Answer: It depends upon how well you know these people. If they are very intimate friends, you can telephone them and explain about the dinner-dance and change the date. If they aren't, you will have to have your original dinner.

Dear Mrs. Post: The other day I met my fiancee for lunch. She arrived with another young woman. Both work in the same office and lunch together every day.

I would like to know if it was wrong to let this other young woman pay her own check. It was the day before pay day and I was rather short on funds — and furthermore, I did not invite her.

Answer: Your fiancee was to blame for forcing her on you without warning you and asking if you were prepared to invite her. If she ordered her own lunch separately, it was all right for her to pay for it. But if you ordered it with yours, it was up to you to pay for it.

Dear Mrs. Post: When catsup or tartar sauce or possibly a mint or currant jelly is served as an accompaniment to meat or fish in a little paper receptacle right on the dinner plate, how should this be eaten?

Should the contents be taken out of the cup — and how — or should one eat from the cup?

Answer: There is no rule as to whether you take it out of the cup all at once or eat a little of it from the cup with each morsel of meat or fish. In either case your fork would be the proper implement to use.

One of the things a kid has to learn nowadays at his mother's knee is to look out for hot cigarette ashes.

Shampoo Hair Often

Pamper your hair with frequent shampoos during the hot summertime—three or four times a week is not too often. Have your shampoo and shower at the same time, then towel-dry and set in pin curls in a matter of minutes. It's a breeze if yu wear your hair in a neat, abbreviated hairstyle.

Manners
MAKE FRIENDS

Tourists get their impression of a town by the way they are treated in restaurants, by filling station attendants, by the courtesy or lack of it of traffic officers, and by clerks in stores. These are the citizens who represent the town to travelers.

One waitress' cheery smile, or one clerk's helpfulness to a stranger can make him decide he is in a good town.

Allow Baby to Hold Spoon if He Wishes

It isn't at all unusual for baby to want to feed himself before he's a year old. But a spoon's tricky for him to manage so don't expect him to get it in his mouth right side up each time. Just as often, the mashed potatoes or chopped meat will land on the floor or in one ear.

Even though it makes more work for you cleaning up, let him go on trying to feed himself. The only time to stop him is when he starts playing with his food rather than eating it. When he does, remove dish and spoon but return the spoon to him at his next meal.

Powder Oily Skin

If your skin is oily, don't use a powder base. Apply the powder directly to the skin. Avoid rich, highly seasoned goods and be certain green vegetables are included in your daily diet.

The 1950 census showed that only 1½ per cent of Rhode Island's labor force was primarily engaged in farming.

Disbanded Choral Club Fetes Guest

Jacksonian Group Reunites to Honor Mrs. C. A. Edsall

Members of the former Jacksonian Choral Club gathered at the Maceday Lake summer home of Mrs. F. M. Kirby Wednesday to honor Mrs. Charles A. Edsall of Fontana and Los Angeles, Calif. Mrs. Edsall is a charter member of the club and a former resident of Pontiac.

She presented several solos in tribute to the late Mrs. Frederic Jackson, the group's director. She was accompanied by Mrs. Walter Wilson.

The guest of honor told of organizing the Fontana Women's Chorus, patterning it like the Pontiac Jacksonian Club.

Former members of the groups who gathered for the occasion were Mrs. John Radenbaugh, Mrs. Cash Bond, Mrs. H. B. Dickie, Mrs. Frederick Ferguson, Mrs. Charles W. Houghton, Mrs. Nelson G. Wiley, Mrs. R. G. Rawley, Mrs. J. G. Wright, Mrs. Willson and Mrs. Charles D. Wright.

Mrs. E. V. Martin, Mrs. William H. Marshall and Mrs. Donald V. White completed the list.

On Tuesday evening members of the choir of Bethany baptist Church held a dinner in the church parlors honoring both Mr. and Mrs. Edsall.

Mrs. Edsall will be guest soloist at Bethany Baptist Church on Sunday.

Suggest Household Library for Wives

Professional house management experts recommend that every woman should build up her own library of housekeeping books, pamphlets, how-to-use-it manuals, and how-to-care-for-it tags and labels.

Reliable references are increasingly important in running a modern household due to constant changes and improvements in home equipment; soaps, synthetic detergents, and other cleaning materials; fabrics for clothing and for home decoration; and furniture and home accessories.

Baby Bath Activity Promotes Tub Fun

When you give Baby his bath, it's important to follow the soaping by a thorough rinsing with clear water. Pat him dry, powder him lightly, then dress him. If he dislikes being dressed, have at hand clothes that go on quickly and easily, with a minimum of fuss.

Getting him used to the idea that a bath is fun is the important thing. Most babies like water when they know they're quite safe. If you encourage him to kick and splash in his bath, you can enjoy his bath time together.

Janet Weber shows us a campus costume that fashion says is bound to be seen more and more this year. Her white wool crest jacket is equally smart when worn with skirts or slacks, and her Bermuda shorts in colorful red and grey plaid are complemented by her grey Bernhard Altmann cashmere sweater. White wool knee-sox complete Janet's costume.

Junior Miss Wardrobe Goes Adult

CHICAGO, (INS) — The junior miss, who has outgrown children's styles and sizes and hasn't quite enough curves for grownup dresses will have Mama's favorites in her wardrobe this fall.

And, what's more, the sub-or-just teen lassie will be one up on milady. She will be able to wear completely washable dresses for any occasion—school, juke box dates or parties.

There are sailor collars, empire waistlines, split-bertha collars and yoked bodices.

Full skirts predominate, but there are sheaths, too, contrived to give the string-bean silhouette hips, thanks to pockets placed strategically.

But the real story is in materials. Cottons are finished to look like tweed or satin; cotton flannels resemble brushed wool and taffetas, velveteens and velvets can be laundered at home.

Jerseys feature four parts of orlon to one part of rayon or wool and can be washed if they are not dunked haphazardly.

A jumper dress of pink and grey plaid orlon-jersey features a pink blouse with shoestring ties tipped with pompons of mink.

An active girl might wear a cotton felt, resembling mottled grey flannel, skirt and weskit, both trimmed in red, washable plastic leather.

School-time outfits include a woven cotton plaid gingham in black and white, blue or red with long sleeves and the new large sailor collar.

A charcoal gray wool-rayon dress gets feminine touches of white angora ribbing at the throat and sleeves, along with a shoestring tie and white mouton pompons.

Party dresses come in iridescent taffeta trimmed with velvet or nailheads, cotton sateen dotted with pearls.

A washable rayon crepe has removable mouton cuffs on the sleeves and an empire bodice trimmed with rhinestone buttons.

James Galanos to Get Coty Award

Young Stylist Wins Honor

A new star in the fashion firmament will receive America's highest style honor on Oct. 11 when James Galanos, young California designer, receives the Coty American Fashion Critics' Award in a ceremony at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York, it was announced today by Estelle Lane Brent, chairman of the award jury.

Born in Philadelphia of Greek parentage, James Calanos, now 29, set his mind on a career as a dress designer as early as 14. He came to New York as soon as he finished school in Philadelphia, and after studying in a fashion design school for four months decided to learn from practical experience.

He sold sketches to manufacturers and then managed to travel to Paris where he found a post with Robert Piguet. Later he worked briefly in New York, then went to California, where only two years ago his meteoric independent career began.

The Coty Award, given annually to American fashion designers chosen by a jury of more than 70 fashion editors, is now in its 12th year of recording outstanding contributions to the arts of dress.

It was founded in 1942 by Coty, Inc., as an encouragement to American fashion, and in that year, as in this, the official presentation was made in the Metropolitan Museum. This year the museum will recognize the importance of the award by designating the Costume Institute of the Metropolitan as co-host for the presentation ceremony.

The names of other designers who will also receive other versions of the Fashion Critics' Award will be kept secert until the presentation ceremony, Mrs. Brent said.

Among the noted designers who have received the Coty American Fashion Critics' Award are Norman Norell, Claire McCardell, Gilbert Adrian, Tina Leser, Emily Wilkens, Clare Potter, Vincent Monte-Sano, Omar Kiam of Ben Reig, Mark Mooring, Nettie Rosenstein, Adele Simpson, Jacob Horwitz, Hattie Carnegie, Pauline Trigere, Bonine Cashin, Charles James, Jane Derby, Ben Zuckerman, Thomas Brigance and Ben Sommers of Capezio.

Hold Head High Foil Double Chin

At the first sign of a double chin, or even if one has formed already, the mature woman should try some helpful exercises that will improve her chinline.

Sometimes it's a question of good posture. The woman who holds her head high at all times will never develop a double chin.

After checking your posture, try the following exercises each day for best results. Don't expect a great improvement immediately, though. Remember, it took several years to develop a really prominent double chin. But, after doing these exercises for just a few months, you'll see a marked improvement.

Just knowing that you can restore youthful contours to your neck and jawline will encourage you to do the exercises faithfully each day.

First, stand erect with feet about 18 inches apart, abdomen flat, chest high and head up. Do not tilt your chin. Place your hands on your hips for greater balance. Then, without moving your body, turn your head sharply to the right six times then to the left six times.

Next, turn your head so that your chin is over your left shoulder, stretch your head further backwards, so that your eyes look up to the ceiling. Then, turn the head so that the chin is over the right shoulder and repeat the exercise. Repeat alternately six times.

Husbands say the nicest things when you wash their shirts in all!

The folks you love to please can't help loving you for the extra-beautiful wash all's "controlled suds" do! This new detergent is actually prescribed by automatic washer makers (and patented in Washington)!

SEVERAL MILLION WOMEN can happily testify that all is a wonderful step forward in the art of home laundering.

With almost no suds, all is obviously different from old-fashioned thick-suds detergents. It's also obvious that all's "controlled suds" can do a far better job for you in your automatic washer.

That's why all is so urgently and universally prescribed by automatic washer makers themselves.

Sad facts about thick suds

The men who repair and service automatic washers blame "too much suds" for 4 out of 5 of their trouble-shooting calls.

They know, from sad experience, that no washer can do a thorough washing job if it's all choked up and smothered in billows of thick suds!

That's why most of these washer experts always leave a sample box of all with the owner after nursing a washer back to health.

For all's "controlled suds" actually help the washer swish and slosh the dirt out of the clothes, instead of putting on the brakes like heavy suds.

Why all-clean clothes stay cleaner

Instead of foaming away its washing power on top of the wash water, every particle of all dives under for the dirt in the clothes.

It doesn't just loosen the dirt but also actually hangs onto it and drags it all out with the rinse water.

So here's where all beats thick suds again. For you know how stubborn suds can be, and you certainly don't want a fresh load of wash dulled and discolored by the suds your washer can't rinse away. all leaves absolutely no sticky suds film to pick up dirt, so an all-clean wash actually stays clean longer!

Patented for your protection

all was created at the request of automatic washer makers. Its miraculous "controlled suds" have proved a welcome blessing to countless women. Now others are trying to imitate all. If you want the same wonderful washing results now enjoyed by millions of users, remember this: all*'s exclusive "controlled suds" formula is protected by U. S. Patent Nos. 2550691 and 2594453.

Compare . . . at our risk

all is positively guaranteed to outwash anything you've ever used in your automatic washer, or you can get your money back.

So buy a box of all right away . . . and try it on all your wash . . . everything from the grimiest work and play clothes to your daintiest lingerie. (all is unconditionally recommended for the new miracle fabrics like Acrilan, Orlon, Dynel and nylon.)

If you don't see a wonderful difference . . . immediately . . . just return the rest of the all to your dealer. He has been instructed to refund your money in full.

Now two types of all . . . both prescribed for automatic washers

Here's why there's now a new kind of all at your grocer's. CONDENSED all in the blue box has become the washing favorite of millions. But thousands have asked for a less condensed all that could be used not only in washing machines but also in the kitchen and for basin washing of stockings and lingerie.

This new type — EXTRA FLUFFY all — is the same patented formula as CONDENSED all. It comes in a bright red box, only one-third the weight of the CONDENSED all box — and costs only one-third as much. Monsanto Chemical Company, St. Louis, Missouri.

Add Snap Beans to Pickling List

New Candidate for Relish Dish

Mixed Spices Insure Piquant, Zesty Taste of Vegetable Preserves

Let's have fun making pickles! And it can be fun if you take it easy. Don't try to pickle huge quantities at a time, exhausting yourself by spending endless hours in a hot kitchen when you wish you were at the beach or on the golf links.

Put up two or three quarts at a time. Spread over several weeks, there's no reason why pickling should be a chore.

For the spicing that counts so much in pickling, be sure you use the blend of whole spices called mixed pickling spice. The spices have been carefully selected and blended for you so that you can be sure of the best of all possible flavors every time.

You could blend these spices at home, of course, but it would be a tedious, uninteresting and time-consuming chore. As many as 14 differeht countries send their spices to make up this carefully controlled blend.

There are peppercorns, of course. There is cinnamon for fragrance. Tiny dried red peppers and mustard seeds lend their bite. Ginger adds its mouthwatering tang. Whole cloves, bay leaves and allspice all contribute their bit to the succulent whole.

Buy fresh pickling spice at the beginning of the pickling season. The volatile oils may have escaped during the long winter and the spice may not be at its flavorful best. Buy fresh spice and you can be confident that your pickles will be crisply flavorful all year long.

This year, when planning your pickling campaign, don't limit yourself to the usual and routine types of vegetables. Branch out. Try pickling snap beans.

Pickled Snap Beans

1½ pounds fresh young snap beans
2 cups boiling water
½ teaspoon salt
3 cups cider vinegar
½ cup water
1 tablespoon mixed pickling spice
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground turmeric
1 cup brown sugar
½ cup small onion rings

Wash beans. Leave whole. Snip off ends. Cook beans until tender in the boiling water and one-half teaspoon salt. (About 10 minutes). Drain.

Pack in hot sterilized jars. In the meantime, combine vinegar, water, pickling spices (tied in a bag), ¾ teaspoon salt, turmeric and brown sugar. Heat to boiling point and boil three minutes. Add onion rings.

Remove spice bag. Pour over beans. Seal jars at once. Makes 3 pints.

PICKLED SNAP BEANS — Snap beans, pickled whole with turmeric and mixed pickling spice, make a refreshingly different relish. Quickly and easily prepared, these beans will make a welcome addition to winter meals.

Luncheon Meat in Oriental Dish

A main dish oriental style suggests another way for using economical and nutritious luncheon meat.

The meat gains its sweet and sour touch with pineapple, brown sugar and vinegar. It's a top of the-range dish ready in about 25 minutes, and very good indeed.

Sweet 'n' Sour Special

2 medium sized green peppers
3 slices canned pineapple
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
½ cup pineapple syrup
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 teaspoons soy sauce
¼ cup vinegar
½ cup brown sugar
½ cup chicken bouillon
1 12-ounce can luncheon meat
Steamed rice

Wash peppers, discard seeds and white membrane. Cut peppers and pineapple slices into sixths.

Melt butter in skillet and add pineapple syrup, pineapple and green pepper. Gover and simmer 15 minutes.

Blend together corastarch, soy sauce, vinegar, brown sugar and bouillon and add to pineapple mixture, stirring constantly until mixture thickens.

Remove luncheon meat from the can and cut into 6 slices. Add to pineapple mixture and heat thoroughly, about 10 minutes. Serve over steamed rice. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

Serve rice fritters with creamed mushrooms and a topping of crisp bacon for a company lunch. Broiled tomatoes and a cucumber salad are good go-alongs.

Berry-Pudding Pie Has 'Crust' of Ladyfingers

Don't let strawberry season slip by without trying this quick-trick dessert. The "crust" is made of ladyfingers. The filling is a packaged pudding, flavor - enriched with sherry, spread over a layer of sugared strawberries.

Strawberry Pudding Pie

1 package vanilla pudding powder
1½ cups milk
¼ cup sherry wine
1 dozen ladyfingers, split
2 cups halved or sliced strawberries
¼ cup sugar
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
Additional whole strawberries for garnishing pie

Prepare vanilla pudding according to directions on package, using the 1½ cups milk as the liquid. Remove from heat. Stir in wine. Let cool at room temperature, stirring two or three times.

Line the bottom and sides of a 9-inch pie plate with split ladyfingers, arranging them split side up. Mix the halved sliced strawberries with the sugar; spread berries evenly over bottom of the ladyfinger "crust."

Spread cooled pudding evenly over berries. Chill pie several hours.

Just before serving, spread whipped cream over the top and garnish with whole strawberries. Makes one 9-inch pie.

Almonds Add Party Air to Your Chicken Salad

Give your chicken salad a party air: Add slivered toasted almonds just before serving.

If you want to do some of your preparation ahead, you may cook the chicken the day before your party, cut it up and mix it with French dressing. Refrigerate the marinated chicken at once. Then mix with the other ingredients for the salad just before serving.

How About a Fish Fry?

Midsummer's the time for fish fries. This delightful custom which originated generations ago in the deep South has spread throughout the country, way up into the lake regions of Maine, Minnesota and the Pacific Northwest.

Fish fries are so informal and popular that we usually don't think of them in a gourmet class, but the National Fisheries Institute has come up with such an unusual and delicious way of frying fish dipped in sour cream, a culinary trick often associated with gourmet cooking, that we're calling it a Gourmet's Fish Fry.

This recipe—which, by the way, was adapted from a Minnesota favorite specifying soaking the fish in sour milk—calls for the species of fish most usually found in grocers' frozen food cabinets throughout the United States, but if your favorite sports fisherman is successful, the recipe can be used for his catch, too.

Gourmet's Fish Fry

1 pound package frozen fish fillets (ocean perch, cod or haddock)
½ pint sour cream
2 tablespoons chopped chives
2/3 cup packaged biscuit mix (about)
1 teaspoon paprika
Fat for frying

Thaw fish and separate fillets. Combine sour cream and chives. Reserve 1-3 cup mixture in refrigerator. Combine bixcuit mix and paprika. Dip fillets in sour cream, then in biscuit mix, and repeat, so fillets are dipped in each mixture twice. Melt fat ¼ inch deep in large skillet. Fry fish 3 to 5 minutes on each side until crisp and brown, handling gently to turn and remove from pan. Serve with reserved sour cream and chives. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

Shrimp Is Excellent Base for Summer Salad Dish

Refreshing like air from the Gulf, canned shrimp makes into delectable "Sea-Breeze Salad" in brief time. Simply arrange the shrimp, egg slices and watercress on salad plates, then serve the chilled salad with 1-minute french dressing, adding a few seasonings.

This salad is not high in calories. In fact, the canned shrimp give wonderful nourishment (body-building food), yet furnish less than half the calories of broiled steak.

Already prepared to go into salads, canned shrimp are all peeled and cooked. Every morsel is edible and the flavor of the shrimp is always fresh and tempting.

Because shrimp go well with many foods, these pink shellfish form the base of many a summertime main dish salad.

Do try tomato-stuffed shrimp salad—shrimp, asparagus, celery and cucumber salad—shrimp in tossed greens salad — shrimp, grapefruit and avocado salad. You will think of countless new combinations, canned shrimp is that good.

Sea-Breeze Salad

Canned shrimp
Hard-cooked egg slices
Watercress

Arrange ingredients on salad plates; chill. Serve with dressing: To ⅓ cup 1-Minute French dressing, add 2 tablespoons chopped green onion, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, and 1 teaspoon horseradish.

1-Minute French Dressing

½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon sugar
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon prepared mustard
2 tablespoons vinegar
½ cup salad oil

Combine and shake well in covered jar. Shake before serving. Makes ½ cup.

Bake Spaghetti, Sauce

Any spaghetti and tomato sauce left over? Spoon it into a small pie dish and cover it with thin strips of cheese, making a pretty design of the cheese. Put it into a hot oven just until the spaghetti is hot through and the cheese melted.

Makes a good supper for two with a tossed green salad and hard rolls.

What Blanching Means

When a recipe calls for blanching a fruit or vegetable it means that the food should be preheated in boiling water or steam. Blanching is helpful in removing the skins from tomatoes and peaches.

SWEET CHERRY CONSERVE—Plan to save some of the lusciousness of sweet cherries for grayer days ahead. This cherry preserve contains lemon rind and juice, seeded raisins and chopped nuts. Cherry conserve on hot buttered toast with scrambled eggs and bacon will be a welcome fall or winter breakfast.

Sweet Cherry Conserve Will Spark Winter Meals

Cherries for preserving should be firm with a crackle to the skins. Fully tree-ripened, these cherries have the richest flavor and make the most full-flavored sauces and jams.

Cherry conserve has a distinctive flavor that will find a glamorous place in many menus. Here are a few suggester ideas just to remind you to put up a goodly supply with next season's menus in mind.

Put a spoonful of cherry conserve to the mayonnaise, or mix and taste accent. A fruit salad for luncheon is made beautiful by the addition of cherry conserve to the mayonnaise, or mix it with a little lemon juice and have a luscious dressing.

Make cherry muffins the surprise way by placing a half teaspoon of jam between two spoonsful of muffin batter. When the muffins are baked and broken, like magic the center will be bright with sweet cherries. Chilled cream pie will be more delicious with a gay topping of whipped cream and cherry jam.

Sweet Cherry Conserve

2 pounds sweet cherries
¼ cup water
4 teaspoons grated lemon rind
¼ cup lemon juice
7 cups sugar
1 cup chopped seeded raisins
1 cup coarsely chopped nuts
1 bottle fruit pectin

Wash and drain and pit cherries. Place in large saucepan. Add water. Place on medium heat. Bring to a boil. Cover and reduce heat, simmer 15 minutes. Remove from heat.

Measure 2 cups cherries and juice into preserving kettle — fill last cup with water if necessary to make full measure. Add lemon rind and juice, sugar and raisins. Blend thoroughly.

Place on high heat. Bring to full rolling boil (220 degrees) stirring constantly. Let stand five minutes. Pour into hot sterilized jars. Seal at once.

If jelly glasses are used, paraffin at once. Yield: Nine half pints.

Escalloped Cabbage Is Bright and Savory

Cabbage can be as bright and green as when it came from the cabbage patch in this escalloped cabbage. Cook a quart of shredded cabbage for only seven minutes. Because bacon brings out the full flavor of this vegetable, use drippings for making 1 cup medium white sauce.

If you like, combine piecees of crisply cooked bacon with one pint of soft bread crumbs, placed in three alternate layers with the cabbage. The sauce is poured over the layers and the dish baked at 400 degrees for 15 minutes.

Kitchen arithmetic: A quart of ice cream can be counted on to make six medium servings.

Saute Raw Potatoes for Outdoor Meals

Sauteed potatoes are easily prepared for outdoor eating. Slice peeled raw potatoes fairly thin and soak them in cold water for an hour or so.

If you are cooking steak or roast beef, cut away a little of the beef fat or get a little extra from the butcher. Cut the fat very fine, put it in a skillet (a heavy iron or cast-aluminum skillet is best) and let it melt. You will need about 1 tablespoon of suet per potato.

When it is melted and the bits of suet have turned crisp, add the potato slices, dried on paper towels, and let them saute gently. Turn them often with a large spatula. They should be nicely browned, crisp and thoroughly cooked throughout. Don't break them as you turn them. Add salt and plenty of freshly ground black pepper.

Potatoes cooked this way with bits of crisp suet are unforgettably good and just the thing with hearty outdoor roasts or steaks.

Presidents to Potentates Favor Hearty Sandwich

Everybody has a favorite sandwich—from presidents and potentates on down to the kids playing "one-o-cat" on the vacant lot.

At the White House, sandwich preferences change with each new administration. The late President Roosevelt made news when he and his First Lady served visiting royalty one of the most American of all sandwiches—the lowly hot dog. Former President Truman has his own taste, and today President Eisenhower makes a new choice.

The expert in charge of the White House kitchens, Mrs. Dolores Moaney, relates that the presidential appetite responds most quickly these days to tea sandwiches—just right for hot weather.

These are not the common, ordinary kind of filling between two slices of bread. They are geared especially to President Eisenhower's taste, educated at hundreds of diplomatic teas and reception during his long years in military service.

Take cream cheese and watercress, for example. The President likes a trimmed, two-bite size delicacy in which the pappery watercress complements the bland smoothness of thinned cream cheese.

Another favorite at the White House are thin, turkey sandwiches. Enclose the thinly sliced turkey between bread slices and cut into squares. Or make them open-faced, with a plump, rosy cranberry, cooked to tart sweetness, at the center.

Perhaps the most unusual and dramatic of the Eisenhower favorites, however, may appeal to you still more. Take thimble-sized popovers, or even miniature creampuff shells without their cream filling.

Cut them apart, and fill with finely chopped chicken or tuna salad. Good? No wonder they suit the Presidential taste. If you follow the White House formula, you will serve them with Angel Food or Chocolate cake for dessert.

Team Broccoli, Carrot

Here's a new vegetable combination — chopped cooked broccoli with finely diced cooked carrot. Season with butter or margarine, lemon juice, salt and freshly ground pepper.

PEACH DANDY — The one hot dish in a summer meal can be dessert. When it is as good as Honey Graham Peach Dandy, the family will vote to have it often. This blend of graham cracker crumbs, fresh peaches and spices makes a mouth-watering dessert all will like.

Peach Dandy Lifts Any Meal

Crunchy graham cracker crumbs and sweet fresh peaches are combined in a new summertime treat that's the perfect answer for the homemaker facing that everyday-plus-Sunday question, "What really good dessert can I make this time?"

Called Honey Graham Peach Dandy, this flavor-packed new dessert tastes good enough to please everybody in the family—and looks good enough to serve at Sunday-best dinners and your fanciest parties! Made in a casserole for quick-and-easy service, it's a delicious way to top off any meal, simple or elaborate. Here's how to make it:

Honey Graham Peach Dandy

½ cup butter or margarine
1½ cups coarse sugar honey graham cracker crumbs
4 cups sliced fresh peaches
½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons grated lemon rind
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons water

Heat oven to 375F. Toss butter with graham cracker crumbs. Place a third of the crumbs in greased 1 quart casserole. Cover with half of the peaches and half of the combined sugar, nutmeg, cinnamon and lemon rind. Cover with another third of the crumbs, the remainder of the peaches, and the remainder of the sugar mixture. Spoon on combined lemon juice and water. Top with remaining third of the crumbs. Cover. Bake in moderately hot 375 oven for one-half hour. Uncover; bake for 10 minutes, or until peaches are done. Makes 4 servings.

Home Canning Still Appeals to Homemakers

Home preserved food has been the backbone of the family's winter food supply down through the ages. Home canning of food is here to stay in spite of the multitude of foods on the market.

Why? . . .

Prices will never go up on the food that is canned today. There is no waste of surplus food during periods of abundance.

Canning keeps seasonal foods "in season" throughout the year. A complete variety of food is made available at all times, giving a sparkle and nutritional zest to winter meals.

Canned food furnishes means for quick, easy, ready-to-go meals.

Family recipes not available commercially and those with special seasonings add to the interest and appeal of the meal pattern.

There is a sense of pride and security in having well-stocked shelves.

Always remove the casing — the material in which the meat is enclosed — before cooking a smoked boneless pork shoulder butt or a smoked beef tongue.

Prepare Summer Squash When Young and Tender

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Part of our garden is overrun by several gigantic squash vines. When I tried to pick one of the squash the other day, I had trouble forcing my way through the tough interwoven stems and huge leaves.

We are growing a new variety this year, a straight version of the Yellow Crookneck. It is fully as good and much easier to prepare. We have grown Zucchinis but have never tried the little white Patty-pans.

To be at its best, summer squash should be picked and marketed before it is fully mature. The skin should be tender enough to be pierced with one's fingernail.

If the rind is hard, the seeds will also be hard and the flesh fibrous. But if bought and cooked at the tender stage, it is possible to eat rind, meat and seeds, as all are tender and sweet. This is in contrast to cooking and eating winter squash.

One medium squash will serve three or four people adequately. It will yield 1½ cups of cooked squash, if you intend to serve it mashed. I just slice and pressure cook it and serve it with butter.

If you do not wish to steam or pressure-cook your squash, you may saute it in butter. Be sure to keep your heat low. Cook the squash until it is tender.

Squash Soup is considered an epicture's delight. Perhaps you would like to try it for a change.

Squash Soup

2 medium-sized yellow or white squashes
1 cup boiling water
4 cups milk
Salt and pepper
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Wash the squash, but do not peel it if it is young and tender. Cut in small pieces and cook in the boiling water until very tender. Scald the milk. When the squash is tender, mash it thoroughly so that only pulp remains.

Stir in the scalded milk, season to taste with salt and pepper and add the butter. Heat thoroughly, but do not boil. Serve immediately. Makes four servings.

Another unusual way of serving summer squash is to dip it in batter and then French fry it.

Be sure to keep the fat at a temperature of 375 degrees. You will use only small amount in a heavy frying pan, and the constant temperature is the secret of successful frying in this manner.

Batter-Coated Squash Rings

1 pound summer squash
1 cup pancake flour
1 cup milk
Fat for deep frying
Salt

Wash squash and cut into one-fourth-inch slices. Mix pancake flour and milk in a small bowl, beat until smooth with a rotary beater. Melt fat 1-inch deep in heavy frying pan, heat until thermometer registers 375 degrees.

Dip squash slices into batter and fry in hot fat, a few at a time. If temperature of fat drops more than five degrees, reheat to 375 degrees.

Each batch should be cooked until golden brown, about three minutes. Drain on brown paper, sprinkle with salt and keep in 300-degree oven until ready to serve. Makes six servings.

Cut a 3-ounce package of cream cheese into 1-inch squares. Roll each square in chopped parsley or chopped nuts. Use as a garnish for salad plates.

Frothy Dessert Calls for Pears

Here is a dessert to be, quite literally, whipped up. It's the frothy type so perfect for midsummer, with its own special charm.

Pear-a-Dise Snow, is made with canned pears, so it's good any time of year—whenever menu or weather dictates a light dessert.

Pear-A-Dise Snow

1 3-ounce package lemon flavored gelatin
¾ cup boiling water
1 cup syrup drained from pears
3 eggs, separated
⅓ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups scalded milk
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
6-8 pear halves, well drained
1 cup sugar-coated corn flakes

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water; stir in pear syrup. Chill until partially set. Whip until light and fluffy. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry; fold into whipped gelatin. Fill sherbet glasses about ½ full. Chill until set. Beat egg yolks slightly; stir in sugar, salt and scalded milk. Cook over hot water until mixture coats a metal spoon; chill. Stir in lemon juice and grated lemon rind. Top each serving with a pear half, cut side down. Cover pears with chilled custard and sprinkle with sugar-coated corn flakes. Serve immediately. Yield: 6-8 servings.

Here's something different for salad: Lightly cooked rounds of zucchini squash tossed with mixed greens and French dressing.

Freeze or Can Cherries to Assure Winter Supply

This is the season for enjoying the Northwest's sweet cherries. Brighten up your early summer menus and include them often during the all too few weeks when they are on the market in all their juicy sweetness, for this is Cherry Sweetheart Time.

Because the season for cherries is short, it is wise to plan ahead for grayer days by canning and freezing an adequate supply for menu enjoyment next fall and winter.

Just be sure to select fresh cherries, plump and shiny, for the best result when canning and freezing.

Only perfect fruit is packed in boxes and shipped to the markets of the country. Thousands of workers toil around the clock inspecting and packing the cherries so that they will be fresh and sweet when purchased in the markets from Maine to California, from Washington to Florida.

Freeze Sweet Cherries

Select firm, ripe cherries. Wash and remove stems. They may be either pitted or pricked to permit sugar absorption.

Pack the sweet cherries in moisture, vapor-proof containers and cover with a 40 per cent syrup, leaving at least one-half inch at the top for expansion.

To prepare the syrup dissolve 1½ parts sugar in 2 parts water. To prevent oxidation after thawing add ⅛ teaspoon each of ascorbic and citric acid or other anti-oxident to the syrup.

Place a piece of crumpled freezer paper in the top of the container to keep the fruit below the level of the liquid. Seal and freeze immediately.

Can Sweet Cherries

Select fresh, plump sweet cherries. Wash jars and rinse in hot water. Wash, stem and pit the cherries, if desired.

Pack in the hot jars. Cover with syrup to within one-half inch from the top of the jar. Prepare syrup by dissolving 1½ parts sugar in 2 parts water.

Insert a table knife down the sides of the jar to remove air bubbles. Wipe the jar rim with a damp cloth and secure the lids according to the manufacturer's directions.

Place the filled jars in the boiling water bath. Allow 3 to 4 inch space between jars. Have the water level at least one inch above the tops of the jars. Process for 20 minutes. Start counting time when a rolling boil is reached. Remove from water and cool.

Try Cookie Shortcake to Satisfy Sweet Tooth

One for the cookie eaters—Cookie Shortcake. For each serving, alternate two scoops of vanilla or peppermint ice cream between three layers of shortbread cookies, beginning with the cookie.

Over all, pour one-fourth cup of chocolate sauce or crushed fruit, either fresh or canned.

How to Frost Grapes

Frosted grapes look pretty on fruit bowls. Let them glisten against plums, peaches, pears. To frost the grapes, dip small bunches into slightly beaten egg white. Drain off the excess egg white, then dip in sugar. Place on waxed paper to dry.

Savory Sauces Contrast With Vegetable Blandness

Vegetables served attractively and with stimulating flavor contrasts add much to meals. Dairy foods such as milk, butter, cheese and sour cream make vegetables taste even better.

Cauliflower, cooked until just tender and then served with a butter-crumb sauce is most appetizing. With this, serve carrots which have been cooked then glazed in a flavorful combination of butter, a bit of sugar and mint.

Butter adds the "just-right" flavor so important in preparing so many of these fine vegetable sauces. Serve your fresh cucumbers and tomatoes with a sour cream dressing for a delicate, nippy, fresh flavor.

SUMMER VEGETABLE PLATE
Cauliflower With Buttered Crumbs

1 medium head cauliflower
⅓ cup butter, melted
1 cup fresh bread crumbs
1 hard cooked egg
2 teaspoons chopped parsley

Divide cauliflower into six sections. Cook in boiling slightly salted water until tender, about 20 minutes.

To make sauce, melt butter in skillet and brown bread crumbs slowly. When brown add chopped egg and parsley, season to taste and serve over cauliflower. Serves six.

Mint Glazed Carrots

3 cups cooked carrot strips
½ cup butter
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon mint jelly

Simmer carrots in mixture of other ingredients until glazed. Serve with glazing sauce. Serves 6.

Sour Cream Dressing

½ cup thick sour cream
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon mustard
2 tablespoons vinegar
3 tablespoons catsup

Mix all ingredients together well, beating or whipping until well blended. Serve over tomatoes and cucumbers. Makes about three-fourths cup.

Good Cut for Braising

Arm pot roast, sometimes called round-bone pot roast because it has a small round bone at one end, is a beef cut suitable for braising. It is a meaty cut, with some patches of fat.

Bite-Size or Double-Decker - - - Make It a Work of Art

Pontiac Press Food Editor

Sandwiches—58 million of 'em eaten each day in this country—are big business. There are days, no doubt when you feel that you have made far more than your share of those 58 million. So let's chat about sandwiches for a while.

August is sandwich month. During the next few weeks we hope to give you some new and different ideas on making sandwiches. Try them out now when informal meals are the order of the day; and use the ones your family likes best when it's school lunch time again.

Sandwiches can be bite-size snacks, or they can be a whole meal. Just be sure that the ones you make are not paper thin and tasteless.

Be particular about having your bread cut into slices of uniform thickness, whichever thickness you prefer. Spread both butter or margarine and fillings over the entire piece of bread.

Sandwiches, says one authority, admirably fit our American way of living. They can be made quickly and easily for those who are in a hurry to eat. They can be models of elegance and attractiveness for a party. They are often the answer to how to fix leftovers.

They can be hot or cold; part of a meal or the whole thing; good old standbys or creative works of art. Sandwiches are versatile.

Restaurants have made their fortune by specializing in a particular kind of sandwich. Perhaps you can do the same with guests. If you find that you have a flair for one type of sandwich, play it up in your menus.

Since sandwiches can serve as part of lunch, supper, tea, or late evening menus, you have ample opportunity to display your culinary prowess with your chosen specialty.

How dramatic do you make your sandwich service? If you are like us, you've slipped badly. You make the sandwiches, put them on a plate any old way, and that's that. Take a tip from our restaurant friends again and arrange the cut pieces of sandwich in an attractive manner.

One expert has said that low arrangements of food on a plate look flat . . . strive for height. Thirds or quarters of sandwiches can be so arranged that one of the segments tops the others.

Children like miniature sandwiches; and it takes very little more time to cut the bread for theirs with a cookie cutter so that it has an interesting shape.

Let's get out of the sandwich doldrums. Let's use our imagination in the way we make and serve this interesting food.

Why, we've even gotten inspired writing this article! Won't the family be surprised the next time we have sandwiches. They will be works of art.

Scone Cartwheels Are Fruit-Filled

Children will be intrigued by the name of this breakfast bread as well as its delightful flavor. A sweet fruit filling is rolled up in scone dough to make Cartwheels.

Cartwheels

2 cups sifted enriched flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
¼ cup shortening
1 egg, beaten
½ cup milk
Melted butter or margarine

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut or rub in shortening. Combine egg and add milk. Add to flour mixture, stirring only enough to moisten flour. Turn out on floured board or pastry cloth and knead gently ½ minute.

Roll out to a long narrow sheet about ¼ inch thick. Brush with butter or margarine and spread with Fruit Filling. Roll up like jelyroll and seal edge well.

Cut in 1-inch slices and place in greased muffin cups. Bake in hot 450 oven 10 to 12 minutes.

Fruit Filling

1 tablespoon butter or margarine
¼ cup sugar
½ cup chopped, cooked apricots or prunes

Cream together butter or margarine and sugar. Add fruit. Mix well.

California Chicken Has Real Tang

Like the tang of fresh flavor? Then this easily-prepared chicken is for you!

California Skillet Chicken

One 2½-to-3 pound (ready-to-cook weight) frying chicken
Salt and pepper
¼ cup green olive oil
½ cup chopped green onion and tops
¼ cup minced parsley
½ teaspoon dried crushed marjoram
½ cup fresh lemon juice

Have chicken cut into about 8 pieces—2 drumsticks, 2 second joints, 2 wings, 2 pieces of breast. (Reserve neck and giblets for stock for use another time.) Sprinkle chicken with salt and pepper. Heat oil in 12-inch skillet; add chicken and brown over moderate heat—about 10 minutes on each side. Sprinkle chicken with onion, parsley, majoram and lemon juice. Cover skillet; simmer 20 to 30 minutes or until chicken is tender. Serve hot. Makes 4 servings.

Note: If desired, garlic (minced or the whole cloves) may be added to the chicken with the other seasonings.

Nuts, Spices Flavor Molasses Cookies

Chill this cookie dough, then slice and bake.

Molasses Candy Cookies

½ cup dark molasses
½ cup sugar
½ cup shortening
2 cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ginger
¾ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup finely chopped nuts
1 tablespoon cider vinegar
2 tablespoons hot water

Put molasses, sugar and shortening in a saucepan; heat just to boiling point, stirring until sugar is dissolved; cool thoroughly.

Sift together flour, soda, salt and spices. Add molasses mixture, nuts, vinegar and water; stir well. (It may be necessary to add a bit more water.)

Shape dough in two rolls, each 2 inches in diameter. Wrap in waxed paper. Chill 4 hours; unwrap. Slice ¼-inch thick, using sharp knife and gentle sawing motion.

Bake on ungreased cookie sheet in moderate 375 oven 10 to 12 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes 6 to 7 dozen cookies.

Keep Sandwich Fixings on Shelf, Always Ready

Easy to fix and carry, sandwiches are standbys for picnics of all sorts. Here are some good meat and pickle ideas, the makings of which you can keep on the shelf, ready anytime.

Men's favorite: Canned corned beef slices with garlic pickle strips, on mustard-spread rye bread, frankfurter buns or hard rolls.

Tart and tangy: Deviled or potted meat with sweet pickle slices.

Party picnic: Canned tongue slices with lettuce and pickle relish.

Ever try adding a little horseradish and minced parsley to a beef gravy?

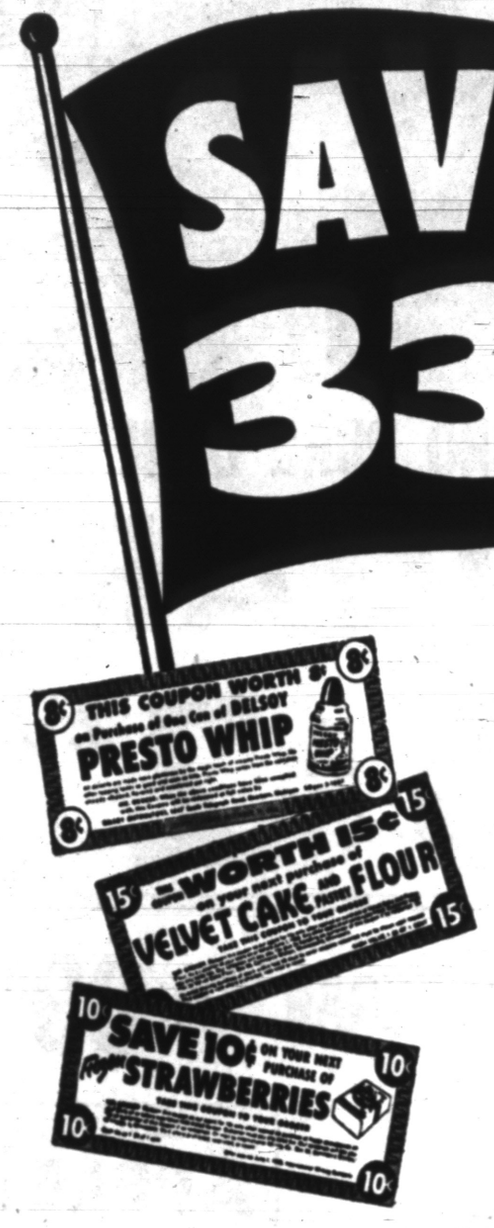

Yeast, Bacteria in Jar Make Pickles Ferment

Yeasts or bacteria in the jar can cause dill pickles to ferment. To prevent fermentation, wash the cucumbers and dill thoroughly, and sterilize the jars and lids.

Pack cucumbers into jars and cover with boiling-hot brine, sealing airtight while the brine is boiling hot. This destroys trouble-making bacteria, molds and yeasts. Some authorities now recommend processing pickles packed this way in a boiling-water bath for 15 minutes.

Adding eggs to a yeast bread helps produce a fine and delicate texture and, like sugar, they encourage a golden-brown crust.

Invert Angel Food Pan

Making angel food cake? Start from scratch or use a mix, but as soon as you take the cake from the oven turn the pan upside down and place the tube part over the neck of a funnel or bottle. Let the cake hang this way until it is cold.

To remove the cake, loosen it from the sides of the pan and the tube with a spatula held close against the pan. Turn the pan over and hit the edge sharply on the table: The cake will fall out.

Salad for Small Fry

Quick salad for small-fry: Orange gelatin with finely grated carrots added to it. Serve on shredded lettuce with a mild-flavored salad dressing.

Shrimp Creole Easy to Prepare

Almost everyone likes Creole cookery—but have you been a little afraid to try it because you though it would take too much time?

Well, we have worked out this recipe for you—not only can it be prepared in a short while, but it is also all top-of-stove, and will not heat up the kitchen on a hot summer day.

Shrimp Creole

2 tablespoons fat
1 teaspoon kitchen bouquet
¼ cup finely diced onion
¼ cup finely diced celery
1½ pounds shrimp
¾ cup catsup
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 large green pepper

Melt fat in 9-inch frying pan. Add kitchen bouquet and blend thoroughly. Add onions and celery and cook for 10 minutes or until golden brown.

Remove shells and intestinal veins from shrimp and add. Cook over moderate heat for 5 minutes. Blend together and add catsup and vinegar. Slice green pepper into 1-inch pieces and add.

Bring to a boil and simmer 8 minutes. Correct seasoning if necessary. Serve on hot cooked noodles. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

For a Quick Pickup

For a quick pickup between meals, keep a bowl of bite-size shredded wheat and rice biscuits handy — especially good with a glass of cold milk.

Law Says Prisoners May Demand Beer

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Allegheny County Jail Warden Charles L. Dye says he isn't advising his guards to ask the occupants of the cells, "What'll you have?" despite a little-known local law that states an inmate can have his favorite beer for the asking—and for free.

Dye says he'll have no truck with the law. But if a thirsty inmate clamors for his free beer—or even an occasional steak—he is within his rights under the old "wet tonsil" statute.

The law still is on the books, even though it is more than two centuries old. The only change made since it was enacted Feb.11, 1730, is the spelling of "gaol," which has been modernized to "jail."

The statute says any inmate may "at his, her, or their will and pleasure send for and have any beer, ale, victuals or other necessary food from what place they please . . . " without charge.

County Court Judge Henry Ellenbogen, in charge of the prison board, also said he's completely unconcerned about the law.

"Let's just say the passage of time has repealed the law by making it obsolete," he declared.

Ex-Marine Pals Reunited at Seeing Eye Dog Center

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (AP)—There's poignancy in the reunion of two blind Marine buddies of World War II here, but the men themselves are delighted.

The long arm of coincidence has brought Criss Cole of Houston, Tex., and William Moke of Hollis, Okla., together again after combat actions in the Pacific in which both lost their eyesight.

They did not think their paths would cross again after their war injuries but when both lost their guide dogs recently they came to the Seeing Eye service here to acquire new ones.

Now they're trading memories while they train with new dogs. Buddies during the war, they later separated and were blinded in separate battles.

Both are married and both work. Cole has two boys, 5 and 7.

Cole is a Democratic candidate for the Texas Legislature.

In March of this year he won a law degree at the University of Houston. If he doesn't go to the legislature he expects to practice law in Houston.

Cole went to work in a factory. He attended night school, then he continued his education at the university, gaining a bachelor of science degree before he specialized in law.

Moke is a skilled radio repairman in his home town.

Each man is 36 years old.

Inadequate Lighting Cause of Eyestrain

LINCOLN, Neb. (UP) — Inadequate lighting is "perhaps the largest single cause of eyestrain," according to Miss Harriet G. Brigham of the University of Nebraska.

Miss Brigham, housing and equipment specialist, said the lighting problem is "the easiest to control."

She blamed the lack of adequate lighting of good quality in the right places," instead of artificial light, as being bad for the eyes.

"Scientific study has shown that eyestrain caused by inadequate lighting can be relieved when enough light of good quality is provided," she explained.

Miss Brigham said a "definite relationship exists between poor lighting and eyestrain, defective eyes, scholarship of youth, information of adults, self-confidence, mental health and physical health."

Mine Detectors to Help Protect Timber Saws

FORT JACKSON, S.C. (AP)—Mine detectors, the kind they use in wars, will be used to save timber saws from damage. Workers will take the gadgets into 12,000 acres of timberland at this Army post to detect shrapnel embedded in some of the trees in range-firing areas. Dr. Leo Labyak, the Ft. Jackson forestry chief, estimates thousands of dollars in saw damage will be avoided.

Musical Policeman Creates Irish Ditties

DUBLIN (UP) — Dick Farrelly, a policeman-composer, hopes to cash in on the current semi-religious boom in popular songs.

Richer by over $30,000, thanks to such Irish ditties as "Innisfree," "There's only one Killarney" and "Cottage by the Lee," Farrelly is watching the mail from America for a demonstration disk of his latest, "O, Padre."

Recently recorded in New York, this song, he says, "is in the semi-religious vein." He hopes to make another $10,000 out of it, just as he did with "Innisfree," theme song of John Ford's film, "The Quiet Man."

The 36-year-old bachelor has no plans, despite his success as a songwriter, to get married or to abandon his job as a cop.

He clocks in at 9 p.m. in his clerical job at Dublin Castle police precinct, empties his pockets of all available scrap paper, and jots down his ideas. Carrying pieces of paper is a "must" for the singing cop since the day he thought up "Innisfree" on a bus trip between his native County Meath and Dublin.

Market for U. S. Autos

SINGAPORE (AP) — Singapore used-car dealers report there's a big demand for second-hand American automobiles in Indonesia.

The first New Zealand legislature met in Auckland in 1854, but Wellington has been the capital since 1865.

Fungi depend on other organisms for their food materials, but often develop complicated chemical processes to digest them.

Belief Growing in Emperor-God

Japanese Renovating Shrines in Honor of Hirohito's Divinity

TOKYO (UP)—A growing movement to restore belief in the divinity of Emperor Hirohito is indicated in reports from throughout Japan.

There is increased interest in the rehabilitation of shrines and temples and in the construction of monuments in honor of Japan's World War II dead.

At Ise Shrine, where the emperor reports to his ancestors on important national events, the number of worshippers jumped from 830,000 in 1947 to 3,500,000 in 1952. Donations to the shrine totaled nearly $2,000,000 last year.

Shortly after the war, Emperor Hirohito renounced the centuries-long belief that the imperial family descended from the gods.

But the Asahi Evening News reported that in one private school in Akita prefecture the emperor's picture was placed in a "peace pavilion" remarkably like the pre-war "hoanden"—a fireproof building for keeping the imperial picture.

The principal of the school, Asahi said, has written a book on "educational guidance" which contains such pre-war emperor phrases as "Supremely August Being" and "Sacred Son of Heaven."

In five of the poorest wards in Tokyo, householders earmarked about 25 per cent of their donations for Shinto ceremonies, while one ward spent about half of its donations for the rehabilitation of two shrines.

Some Japanese writers believe the current trend toward emperor and ancestor worship can be blamed on political scandals and on the increased activity of ultra-rightist groups.

As an indication of rightist influence, groups of former Japanese servicemen now are trying to form national veterans organizations and officer associations.

Linwood Cottage Famed Building Is Torn Down

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y. (UP)—Another landmark settled into dust this spring when wrecking crews tore down 73-year-old Linwood cottage here.

At one time, it was a stopping-off place for the famous and wealthy. John D. Rockefeller Sr., frequented the sprawling frame cottage when he vacationed at Mrs. Evans boarding house next door.

In 1893-94, one guest was Gov. Roswell P. Flower of New York, who put through legislation to turn the village mill pond into the lake that still bears his name.

Baseball's Christy Mathewson used to entertain former heavyweight champion Jack Dempsey at the cottage. It was around 1923 that "Mathewson wore out many checker boards there playing with a world champion checker and chess player, Sandy McRay, recalled Pascal Urgo, whose mother-in-law ran the property as a boarding and rooming house for 30 years.

Situated on the village's main street, the once-proud old house deteriorated into an eyesore in recent years, and Urgo decided to tear it down.

"A local florist is going to erect a tent to sell flowers, a pottery concern will have a dispay area, a taxi company is taking a part—and it's not yet certain whether a used car company will be active there," Urgo said.

Only True Blue-Bloods Are Crabs, Lobsters

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — The world's only true blue-bloods are not in an social register, according to a University of California zoologist. They are crabs, lobsters and crayfish.

In a special study of the three species of marine life, James Redmond of UCLA, found that blue blood is merely the result of a blue copper pigment. The pigment serves as a vehicle for oxygen in the three just as red iron pigment, hemoglobin, does in all red-blooded creatures.

Pep Up Those Chicks With Plenty of Drinks

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UP)—Chickens, like humans, became extra lazy during hot weather and seek summertime comfort.

A chicken not only wants plenty of cool, fresh drinking water but wants it convenient. If a watering fountain is more than 10 feet away, a chicken may go thirsty rather than make the trip.

This is the observance of E. D. Parnell, professor of poultry husbandry at Texas A. &M. College.

He says that unless chickens drink plenty of water, there will be fewer eggs laid.

Judge Sentences Driver to Sleep for 3 Hours

FALLS CITY, Neb. (UP) — Joe Kaucich was sentenced by Judge Homer Kirk to sleep three hours in the custody of Police Chief Judd Ankron.

But Kaucich, who couldn't keep awake at the wheel of his car a few hours earlier, found he couldn't produce a nod.

Kaucich was arrested after he barely missed hitting another car headon.

Besides the sleeping sentence, Kaucich was fined $10 and costs for reckless driving.

Rainy Britain Is Facing One of Worst Harvests

LONDON (UP)—Britain is facing the prospect of one of the worst harvests in years.

So much rain has poured on this island during the summer that the umbrella factories are far behind the demand.

Acre upon acre of green wheat is lying flat on the sodden earth with little or no hope of recovery.

The canning industry has seen its soft fruit pounded until its losses are estimated in millions of dollars.

Small Tractors Proving Popular

Bantam Machine Used to Paint, or Cut Wood, or Pan Gold

NEW YORK (UP) — Small, compact tractors with the power of a bantamweight fighter have brought new popularity to home chores.

These versatile hot rods not only can till the soil but, with attachments, can even help paint the house or cut the winter wood.

A southern farmer turns his machine loose high in his silo to run 'round and 'round like a mechanized jitterbug to pack the fodder and reduce spoilage, while a prospector in the northwest uses his vehicle to pan gold.

Steelways, official publication of the American Iron and Steel Institute, says this mechanized marvel, one of the most significant developments in agriculture during the past 50 years, is keeping more than 60 companies in full production.

Latest Department of Commerce figures show that nearly 200,000 garden tractors are being produced annually and take 20,000 tons of steel in the making. One firm is reported assembling them at the rate of one every six and one-half minutes.

Designing and working out the details of a practical midget tractor was a surprisingly tough job. They were being tailored for an army of backyard amateurs and had to be strong but lightweight, economical and trouble-free.

The tiny tractor filled an immediate need. Inexpensive, it could operate more cheaply than anything else in its class, including the horse.

Ancient Autos Counted

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (UP) — One hundred one automobiles in Rhode Island are listed officially as "antique." The state issues cut-rate "antique" license plates for cars at least 25 years old on the condition they won't be used for general transportation. The oldest car registered is a 1902 three-passenger Cameron roadster.

HEPBURN TAKES A DUNKING—Katy Hepburn refused to have a double for the job of plunging into a Venice canal during the filming of "Summertime," in Italy. Right, the actress leaps into the water, and left, she smilingly curtsies to the applauding crowd. Scene was filmed in one take, saving her a second dunking.

Disney to Give Arthur Godfrey TV Competition

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Look out, Arthur Godfrey! Here comes Disneyland!

The red-haired uke player has dominated the Wednesday night programming since the early days of TV. This season he will meet his strongest challenge when the ABC network unleashes its most ambitious program to date. This is the costly and promising Disneyland, a new venture in TV entertainment.

* * *

The show makes its debut Oct. 27 and will present a different type of program each week. Each will draw from the wide range of Walt Disney's interests, from space travel to the antics of Mickey Mouse, from American folk heroes to the habits of Alaskan seals.

The shows are budgeted up to a whopping $100,000. I asked Disney how he could hope to turn a profit at that figure.

"We can't," he replied flatly. "Sometimes I wonder why the h— I got into this thing. But we have passed the point of no return, so there's no turning back.

"Actually, we entered the project without the profit motive in mind. We thought it would be useful to let people know what we are doing here at the studio. And the series will be helpful in developing new characters and interests which we wouldn't have developed otherwise."

* * *

Disney was one of the first film bosses to see the value of TV in publicizing movies for theaters. He did a few hour-long shows at holiday time to help ballyhoo films like "Peter Pan" and "Alice in Wonderland." Apparently the added push helped, because his profits have never been higher. Now most of the other studios have hopped on the TV bandwagon to help promote movies.

The profit outlook for the Disneyland series is not so bleak as it might first appear. All of the shows will be made in color, and some will be put together as feature films to be shown in foreign countries. There will be additional returns by the reruns of the shows on TV.

"We won't make more than 26 hour shows a year," Disney said. "The network wants to put on 39 shows a season, so some will be repeated."

Two massive fortifications, El Morro and San Cristobal, at San Juan, Puerto Rico, were the strongest bastions built by the Spanish in the entire West Indies.

Mother Beats 3-Year-Old Girl With Hammer

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP)—A 3½-year-old girl was reported near death in St. Anthony Hospital today and deputy sheriffs said her mother admitted beating her with a claw hammer.

The deputies quoted the mother as saying she hammered the child on the head and body last night because she wanted to "offer the baby to God", rather than let her husband have the child.

The deputies said the mother, Mrs. Maxine Gilbertson, 29, was separated from her husband Grover. Their daughter Angela suffered skull fractures and severe lacerations on her face and body.

Deputies Joe Ferona and Mike Isparro found the child in a pool of blood in her crib in a bedroom of the Gilbertson home in suburban Lovespark. A blood-stained hammer was on the floor, they said. They said Mrs. Gilbertson had telephoned the sheriffs office and reported the attack on the child.

Relief for Hungary to Bear U. S. Label

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—Hungary has agreed that the aid the United States is sending to the 40,000 to 50,000 flood victims in this Communist country will bear Red Cross markings and the label: "Gift of the American People."

An agreement was signed last night with the International Red Cross for distribution of the food, medicine and other supplies offered by President Eisenhower on July 20.

The Hungarian Red Cross, handling the distribution, promised to give out the aid without regard to race, religion, nationality or political views. An International Red Cross team will be on hand to observe.

Subway Just a Start

Public Projects to Alter Face of Toronto by 1964

TORONTO (UP)—The opening of Canada's first subway marked the first of 23 major developments which will change the face of Toronto in the next 10 years.

Millions of dollars worth of projects have been definitely ordered and the money will actually be spent by 1964.

By that time, planners estimate, metropolitan Toronto will have a population of 1,750,000, compared with 1,250,000 this year. The area has been growig at the rate of 50,000 a year for the past five years.

Here are the major projects planned to follow the $50,000,000 Yonge Street subway:

1. Four super highways to ease traffic congestion in the metropolitan area, which already has more cars per capita than all but two other North American cities. They are the $40,000,000 Lakeshore expressway, the $11,500,000 Spadina road express into the heart of New York, the $3,750,000 Eglinton Ave. extension, and the $12,000,000 Don Valley parkway into Scarborough. In addition, the Toronto bypass from the Queen Elizabeth Way to Highland Creek will be finished and the Barrie highway will be extended south to Eglinton Ave.

3. The Civic Square, planned for the area west of the present city hall across Bay Street and north from Queen Street, should be completed by 1964.

4. The islands on Toronto's doorstep face a rosier and drier future. The Metropolitan government has plans to develop them as a park and recreation center, raising "the level, protecting the shoreline, enlarging the regatta course and building a bridge over the Eastern Gap to replace the ferries.

5. A rash of redevelopment plans have been announced for the area around the subway between College and Bloor Streets, and construction will start this year on at least one batch of skyscraper apartments.

6. The original Regent Park housing development for 1,300 families will be completed in 1956, and the next stage of the slum-clearance program on 36 acres south of Dundas Street is expected to start then.

7. There'll be more housing, some of it financed by the metropolitan and provincial governments.

8. A tunnel under downtown Queen Street may well be carrying streetcars by 1964. The $12,000,000 tube is next in the Toronto Transit Commission's plans.

9. The metropolitan government's green belt policy should make the valleys of the Humber and Don Rivers pleasant parks by 1964.

10. The multi-million-dollar expansion of water and sewage facilities will be more than half completed by 1964. They should eliminate wells and sepic tanks.

11. Three parking garages will be built in downtown Toronto in the next two or three years to relieve the parking problem.

Auto Thrill Driver Pays $100 for Impromptu Stunt

CHESTERFIELD, N.H. (UP)—John E. McLean, advance man for an auto thrill circus, not only didn't get paid for an impromptu performance — he was charged $100 for it.

When the 51-year-old Covington, N.Y., man surprised even himself by driving his car over an eight-foot embankment here, police charged him with driving while under the influence of liquor. He pleaded guilty in Municipal Court and was fined $100.

Scientists Seek New Uses for Soft Metal

TRAIL, B. C. (UP)—At Kimberley, 90 miles northeast of here, is perhaps the world's largest source of indium, which may turn out to be a 20th Century Cinderella metal.

Scientists are seeking new and wider uses of this silvery white element, one of the softest metals known. Indium resembles aluminum and thallium in its properties. It is almost soft enough to be chewed.

Indium is used as an indicator in atomic piles since radio-activity can be induced easily in the metal. As an ingredient of solders, it lowers the melting point considerably. An indium-tin alloy makes effective glass-to-glass and glass-to-metal seal. Applied to bearings in some aircraft and racing engines it has valuable antiseizure qualities.

The mine at Kimberley could produce about a million ounces annually, though production is much less because the demand is small.

Intuition Doesn't Count on Non-Support Charge

SHELBY, N.C. (UP) — The sheriff's office refused a woman's request for a warrant charging her husband with non-support.

"When did he quit supporting you?" the desk sergeant asked.

"He hasn't, yet," she replied. "But I just bought some new furniture and I don't think he is going to help me pay for it."

Certain aborigines of Borneo have greenish skins, presumably because they live constantly in forests hidden away from sunlight.

New Laboratory "Nose" Sniffs Spoilage of Food

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Science, which has made many innovations in methods of processing and cooking foods, has now gone a step farther and developed a laboratory "nose" that can smell the aroma of coffee or freshness of fruit.

Dr. Lionel Farber, biochemist at the University of California Medical Center, said the "nose" can be used to determine the quality of a product, such as some varieties of cheese, where value depends on odor. Early stages of spoilage, impossible of detection by human senses, also register on this smelling device.

Commercial uses for the "nose" are seen by Dr. Fraber in testing quality of fresh, frozen and canned foods and of meat and butter in storage.

Chocolate Brown Castle on Wheels Home to Eight

By LAURA Z. HOBSON

MARYHILL, Washington (INS)—Hundreds of times across the U. S. we had passed trailer courts and camps, and more and more insistently I wanted to know about the life inside them.

At last, on a Sunday afternoon, at "The Dalles Dam Trailer City" near a huge dam-building project, I brought the car to a purposeful stop and asked the man in charge if I could talk to one of the families living there.

He sent me across flat unshaded ground to the one spanking new model there — 41 feet long, bright chocolate brown, with an aluminum stripe running its full length.

Inside I met the owners, Leonard and Edna Gilman, his mother and brother, "just visiting," and the four children, Bruce, 11, Robert, 7, Morris, 4, Donald, 2. Leonard Gilman said he drove heavy equipment on the construction—and looked it. In his thirties, he was muscular, tanned, tough.

But his nerves seemed taut — he kept rapping out orders at his four boys, playing outside the door, where my own sons were waiting.

The Gilmans came from Lemmon, South Dakota. "I used to be a sheep rancher," Gilman said. "Maybe 3,000, 4,000 acre ranch, and a couple thousand sheep." He glanced quickly at his mother and brother, but they remained silent.

How long had they lived in a trailer? "Since 1950," he said. "Not in this one. This is a 1954 Spence-Craft — we just got it a while back."

Their monthly charge, I had been told, for space and electricity, came to $25. "A big handsome job like this," I said, when we rejoined the others, "must cost plenty."

"$5,000," Leonard Gilman promptly said. "I made a good deal on the turn-in." Through the window he pointed to a three-quarter ton pick-up truck, also his, for pulling the trailer if they traveled.

I asked where the children in all the trailer - city families went to school. "Up to Lyle," he said, "A school bus takes them." Then I asked if the dam job would be over soon, or last a long time.

"I been on it a year," he said. "It'll go another two."

Turning to his wife, I asked if she liked living in a trailer. "Or would you ever want a house again, you know, with a yard, maybe, and a porch?"

"I wouldn't know where to go to," her husband answered for her. Outside one of the kids shouted at play and he yelled, "cut that out, now." Then he said to me, "might like to go back to ranchin' some time, maybe."

Mrs. Gilman went back to the range, where a large quantity of fish was frying for their dinner, and I rose to go. Gilman's mother and brother had sat quiet, all through, and I perhaps imagined a look of surprise when Leonard said he might go back to ranchin' some day maybe.

But he sat there like the lord of the manor in his $5,000 chocolate brown castle on wheels, and I for one didn't believe him.

Ex-Bonn Deputy Talks to Press

Karl Schmidt-Wittmack Fears Germany Being Driven to War

BERLIN (AP) — A West German Parliament deputy from Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democratic party, who defected to the Communists a week ago, told an East Berlin news conference today he fears the Adenauer government "with American prodding" is driving Germany toward war and ruin.

The Communist Eastern government triumphantly presented former Parliament Deputy Karl Schmidt-Wittmack to an international press conference in the Soviet sector today, just as they did former West German security chief Otto John on Aug. 11.

The 40-year-old Schmidt-Wittmack, who was deputy chairman of Adenauer's CDU party in Hamburg, crossed into the East just a week ago with his wife and daughter.

West German authorities have ruefully admitted that, as a member of key parliamentary committees on German rearmament and Western anti-Communist work in the East, he could betray many secrets to the Reds. Before he fled, he emptied his office files.

Speaking today to several hundred foreign and German correspondents in the Soviet sector press headquarters, Schmidt - Wittmack echoed many of the anti-Adenauer and anti - American sentiments voiced two weeks ago by John in his public unveiling.

However, he lacked the suavity and command with which John spoke. Schmidt - Witmack raced through passages of his prepared speech as though in a hurry to get through, mumbling inaudibly at times and slurring his words.

He said Western charges that he had been a traitor are "ridiculous" because his intent is to "defend Germany and to work for German unity."

Attacking EDC, Schmidt-Wittmack said he had concluded after long thought that it would "merely be the instrument" for Germany's eventual destruction in a new war. To speak out against it in his CDU party councils "was impossible," he said.

GIs Confined to Base After Teenage Riot

GRANITE CITY, Ill. (AP)—Soldiers at the Granite City Army Engineers depot are confined to the base for two days after a near riot involving civilian teen-agers in Granite City.

Lt. Col. Frank E. Lambert, who heads the 583rd Engineers Group at the base, said last night he was told that 100 soldiers and about 200 young civilians met near a skating rink Tuesday night to settle disputes of previous nights in which several soldiers were beaten.

Police arrived in time and prevented trouble, Lambert said.

The confinement period began last night.

Lambert said the young civilians aparently resented dating of Granite City girls by the soldiers.

Plugged by Old Sacks, Underpass Becomes Pool

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—The Sherman Boulevard youngsters had a big time swimming in the flooded underpass yesterday after a downpour—until Sgt. Joe Burkhart started wondering why the water didn't run out when the rain stopped.

Burkhart waded in and found the underpass drains tightly blocked with old cement sacks.

Stranahan Assumes Favorite's Role in Amateur

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

DETROIT (AP)—The field in the 54th National Amateur golf championship was divided between a few "haves" and a lot of "have nots"—speaking in terms of national reputations—as the last 16 survivors set out on another double round of 18-hole matches.

And standing out head and shoulders above the rest was Frank Stranahan, who must be numbered among the "haves" in any way of reckoning. The muscular Toledo player has won national championships in three countries, including the coveted British Amateur twice. And he's dead set on winning the American title—the only important one that has escaped him.

AP Wirephoto

IN FAVORITE'S ROLE—Frank Stranahan (2nd, right) and his wife, Ann, are flanked by spectators after Stranaham won his 4th round match Wednesday and appeared to be the one to beat for the National Amateur golf title at Country Club of Detroit.

The 16 players left of an original field included, along with Stranahan, Dale Morey, Don Cherry, Bill Campbell, Bob Sweeny, Ed Meister and Arnold Palmer, all players with more than a little fame in amateur circles.

There was no assurance at all that these seven would survive today's fifth and sixth rounds. The lineup was such that almost any one could go the way of Billy Joe Patton, the fast-talking, wild shooting North Carolina gallery idol, internationalists Harvie Ward and Jim Jackson and long-hitting Hobart Manley and Dave Smith, all of whom were eliminated in yesterday's double knockout.

Stranahan, who stopped Ward on the 18th hole yesterday and then disposed of another old acquaintance, Tommy Sheehan, ran right into another rugged match against Cleveland's Palmer, who has been shooting about as good golf as any amateur around this summer.

It was the first match off the tee today, starting at 9 a.m. (EST) and figured to draw the biggest gallery.

In the same quarter of the draw, Cherry, who croons in a night club until late hours then makes his clubs sing sweetly during the day, encountered Jimmy McGonagill, a one-time pro who now operates a fleet of oil trucks in Shreveport, La.

The "have nots" lined up against the more prominent players were:

Glenn H. Johnson of Grosse Ile, Mich., a former Michigan State quarterback who now is state amateur golf champion; Ed Martin, 39, Probate Court officer from Winchester, Mass., who went to the quarter-finals of the 1951 amateur; Davis Love, 18, University of Texas junior from El Dorado, Ark.; Wilson Barnes of Chappaqua, N.Y., once a bright young tennis prospect; John Culp, Kendallville, Ind., advertising salesman; Ted Lenczyk, Newington, Conn., dentist whose golf reputation has been overshadowed by that of his sister, Grace; Ray Taylor, a Greensboro, N.C., sporting goods salesman, and Eddie Merrins, a little guy from Meridian, Miss., who was intercollegiate tournament finalist last year.

Eyes Walker Cup Bid

Toledoan Hopes Win Would Impress USGA

DETROIT (AP)— Frank Stranahan is making the present National Amateur golf championship a personal crusade to convert the brass of the very proper U.S. Golf Assn.

He wants to convert them to thinking that he is an amateur good enough to play on Uncle Sam's Walker Cup team.

Frankie, heir to a Toledo spark plug fortune, thought he was good enough in 1953 but when the list came out, no Stranahan. Eyebrows were raised in some golf circles.

The USGA got some criticism for the action—but not from Frankie. "I didn't want to raise a fuss. But I want to show them they made a mistake," he said.

Stranahan has the gaudiest collection of amateur championship silverware in the world, but he's never won the National Amateur and he's never quite gained the good graces of the U.S. links fathers.

Here are the big ones he's won during his career:

Two British Amateurs.
Two Canadian Amateurs.
Three Mexican Amateurs.
Four Western Amateurs.
Three North and South Amateurs.

Besides, he has been runner-up twice in the tough British Open, the last time to Ben Hogan in 1953. He won the All-America Amateur title at Tam O'Shanter six times straight before losing this month to Arnold Palmer. He has won the so-called "World" amateur at Tam five times running.

He has been playing the pro circuit for years and five times has beaten the best of the mercenaries in tournaments on the PGA swing, a rarity for amateurs.

"My one big ambition still is to win the National Amateur," said Frank, who played Arnold Palmer in the fifth round today. "I think I can do it—if not this year, then another."

'Pitched' Birdie Beats Sheehan in 4th Round

Stranahan Holes Shot on 15th; Johnson Is Only State Man Left

By H. GUY MOATS

The long grind of the 54th USGA National Amateur Golf Championships was nearing the critical stage today, with the field going out for the 5th and 6th rounds of action to determine the semifinalists. Semifinals will be played Friday and there will also be two 18-hole rounds. Saturday's finals go 36 holes.

Most o fthe spotlight today was on Frank Stranahan of Toledo, who played two brilliant rounds Wednesday to throw off the threats of Harvie Ward and Oakland Hill's Tommy Sheehan. Today he was playing Arnold Palmer in his first match.

"Muscles" pushed Sheehan out of the title picture yesterday with a 4 and 3 victory. They were even at the turn, but the Toledo strong boy poured it on starting the back nine. He won the 10th on a birdie four as Sheehan parred the hole. Stranahan took the 11th with another birdie, a 3, and the 14 with 4, and then washed out the match on the 15th when he dumped a pitch shot into the cup for his third birdie of the round.

Stranahan's wedge shot (his second) from in front of the well-trapped 5th hit the fringe at the back. But he just pitched it up, almost into the cup, on the fly. Sheehan's putt to square the hole missed and that was the match.

Michigan has only one hope left, young state amateur champion Glenn Johnson, 31-year-old Groose Ile star who won from Lincoln Roden of Abington Pa. in the afternoon yesterday. He played Edward Meister Jr., of Willoughby, O. today, in his first match.

Leahy Lauds Ike as One of Great Leaders

ND Official Visits President at Denver, Plays Golf With Him

DENVER (AP)—Frank Leahy, former football coach at Notre Dame, visited with President Eisenhower at the summer White House today and praised the chief executive as "one of the all-time great leaders."

Leahy—visiting in Denver—spent about 30 minutes with Eisenhower at his Lowry Air Force Base office, and talked with newsmen later.

"I feel free to state with a strong amount of conviction that Mr. President is definitely one of the all-time great leaders," Leahy said. "All of us ought to get down on our knees and thank God for his great leadership."

In response to questions, Leahy said his father was a Democrat but that he considers himself a political independent.

The President, Leahy said, is "trying to do an all-American job for the nation."

Leahy disclosed that he played golf with the President yesterday at Denver's Cherry Hills Country Club. The former coach, who now is in the steel ingredient business, described Eisenhower as "quite a competitor" on the golf course.

"We had 18 bitterly contested holes," he said with a smile.

He added that no score was kept but estimated that the President shot about an 85 for the round.

Ticket Demand Strong for 'M' Home Contests

Spartans Rated Year's Toughest Foes, Top All for Seat Sales

By JOHN BARBOUR

ANN ARBOR (AP)—The tougher things get for Michigan's football team, the better they get for ticket manager Don Weir.

Ticket sales for Michigan's attractive home schedule this season are running well ahead of last year, Weir reports, but there are still tickets available for all games.

What will be the toughest game of the year? Probably the next to last one—Michigan State. What game is selling best? That's easy too—Michigan State.

Army, Michigan's home opener, is the 2nd best seller. Third best selling home game is Illinois.

No Big Ten game is ever an easy one.

Iowa's sophomores are wiser, more experienced juniors now. They'll have two games, including Michigan State under their belt when they come to Ann Arbor.

Wolverines also will face Minnesota, a team which beat them 22-0 last year. But it won't be the same for the Gophers this year without All-America halfback Paul Giel.

Minnesota will also be trying to convert to the T-formation under new coach Murray Warmath — a strange departure from the Gophers' heavy, powerful single wing teams of the past.

Indiana, remaining Michigan opponent at home, is still improving, but has a long way to go. In ticket sales, these two games are bolstered by the fact that Minnesota is homecoming for Michigan alumni, and the Indiana game is homecoming for the great Michigan bands for the past years.

Hamner, Moore 'Make Up'

By CHRIS EDMONDS

MILWAUKEE (AP)—An uneasy peace hung over the Philadelphia Phillies today.

* * *

Manager Terry Moore and Granny Hamner made up late yesterday following a hatful of accusations and counter-charges they had hurled at each other through the newspapers. Neither had seen the other until a hotel room conference in late afternoon.

"I talked too much," said Hamner.

"He admitted he was wrong," said Moore.

* * *

Moore failed to punish Hamner, despite a threat of disciplinary action following the second baseman's crack that the Phillies were "treating the players like high school kids."

* * *

But later, asked what effect he thought his action might have on players he earlier accused of keeping late hours and other extra-curricular activites, Moore shook his head.

"I don't know," he said, with an appearance of disgust. "That'll have to develop.

"After all, you know I haven't signed for 1955 yet."

* * *

The remark was in direct denial of statements attributed to the ex-St.Louis Cardinal last Monday, when he said he would be in charge of the Phillies next season.

* * *

General Manager Roy Hamey, who arrived in Milwaukee Tuesday, said the same thing although Moore had said earlier in connection with the Hamner business that he had "100 per cent backing" from both Hamey and Owner Bob Carpenter in any punishment he decided to impose.

Hamner's remarks, touching off a delicate situation which started developing a month or so ago when he caught a private detective hired by the club trailing him, were made Tuesday night.

"When are they going to start treating us like major leaguers," said Hamner. "One of these days the front office will grow up and stop treating us like high school kids."

Moore, learning yesterday of Hamner's remarks, charged that a full scale player rebellion was underway.

"All I ask is for them to live like big leaguers and they're not doing that," he said. "Some of these guys come right out in the open with their drinking. I've seen them take hard liquor and it doesn't seem to bother them that I'm around. Maybe they're not used to a manager's telling them the truth about themselves."

Ward Back in Spotlight After TKO of Portuguez

NEW YORK (AP) — Back in the limelight again with three straight victories, hard-hitting Moses Ward, 22, of Detroit today sought a return bout with Willie Troy.

Ward, an auto worker, handed Tuzo (Kid) Portuguez of Costa Rica a sound drubbing last night en route to a technical knockout in 1:23 of the fifth round of a television 10-rounder in Madison Square Garden.

Moses lost something in the victory, however. A cut over his right eye required three stitches and just about ruined a proposed match with Joey Giardello, top ranking middleweight contender, for Philadelphia, Sept. 24.

"The chances of such a bout now are remote," said Harry Markson, managing director of the International Boxing Club. "We may put Ward in with Troy on a later date."

The muscular Michigan Negro looked impressive in stopping the game Portuguez although he couldn't drop his rival. Tuzo was shaken up in every round from the second on and Referee Ray Miller halted the uneven affair after the fast-punching Ward rocked bleeding Tuzo with a long right to the jaw. Portuguez was cut on the scalp in the second round and bled from the nose in the third.

Douglas Scores Blistering 63

Eight - Under - Par Card Ties Course Record at Toronto

TORONTO (AP)—Dave Douglas of Grossinger's, N. Y., came in late Wednesday with a blistering 8-under-par 63 to grab the lead in the $26,550 LeBalt golf open as the pros gave the Scarboro course a terrific walloping in the first 18 holes.

Douglas' course tying performance gave him a one stroke lead over two American pros in the lower brackets of money-earners this year.

Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Gene Littler, 1953 United States Amateur champion from Palm Springs, Calif., now on the pro circuit, fired 64's, seven strokes under par.

The remarkable round by Douglas, who makes his home in Newark, Del., was made up of 10 birdies and seven pars but went two over par on the 222-yard 14th.

Douglas had 14 putts going out and 12 coming home. His nine-hole scores were 32-31.

Torakichi Nakamura, one of two Japanese in the tournament missed a chance to tie Mayer and Littler when he hit the pin on the 18th green. The ball bounced off 25 feet and he three-putted, taking a 65 for his round.

Doug Ford of Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., winner in the tournament's inaugural last year, shot a 67 today and so did Jules Huot of Montreal, several times CPGA winner. In the same bracket were Jack Burke Jr. of Kiamesha Lake, Max Evans of Detroit and Sam Snead of Greenbrier, W. Va. Snead, among the late finishers, had to come along the back nine in 31 to make the 67 class.

Frank Hayburst shot a bush rabbit at Oak River, Manitoba and when he reached it the body was inside a tin can. But the rabbit's legs were free. He thinks the rabbit got into the can, open at both ends, when young and small.

Fishing Is Competitive

LAKE WALES, Fla. (AP)—The competition for a square meal is rigged in waters around here. Fishing from a canal bank, Louis Joiner hooked a large blackfish. As he hauled it ashore, a small snake crawled out of its throat and swam away.

Joiner put the fish on a string and left it dangling in the water while he continued fishing. When he returned, a big snake had swallowed the fish.

Manager Birdie Tebbetts of the Redlegs appeared in three All-Star games and one World Series.

MSC Schedules Tilts With KSU

Kansas State Returns to Spartan Grid Card in 1956

EAST LANSING (AP) — Michigan State College today announced the scheduling of three football games with Kansas State. Kansas State will play Michigan State at East Lansing as the last game of the season in 1956, 1957 and 1958.

Kansas State will replace Marquette on the schedule, which has traditionally held the season's ending spot in recent years. MSC athletic director Clarence (Biggie) Munn, said however, that this did not mean Marquette was being dropped for all time.

Kansas State will play at East Lansing on Nov. 24 in 1956, on Nov. 23 in 1957 and on Nov. 22 in 1958. Marquette is booked for the last game of the season in 1954 and 1955.

Michigan State has played three previous games with Kansas State. In 1933 the two teams played to a scorless tie. In 1940, Michigan State won 32-0 and in 1944 the Spartans won 45-6.

Musial Passes Snider in NL Batting Race

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Stan Musial must have meant it when he said "I'm going to win the batting title this year."

The St. Louis Cardinals' slugger took over the National League lead last night by collecting three hits in five trips against Pittsburgh, lifting his average to .347 one point higher than Brooklyn's Duke Snider.

Snider, who went hitless in six at bats against Cincinnati, had set the pace since June 20.

Furman, Minus Its Star, Faces Rugged Schedule

GREENVILLE, S. C. (AP)—Furman University won't lower its basketball sights because of the graduation of All-America Frank Selvy who toppled many records.

The 1954-55 schedule calls for games with such teams as LaSalle, NCAA champion; North Carolina State, Atlantic Coast Conference champion; and George Washington, Southern Conference title holders.

WORLD CHAMPION—Jack Boardman (above) holds the world's all-gauge long-run record for registered targets with 1021. He started his string in 1950, extended it well into the summer of 1951 and "fell off" by missing the 1st bird at which he shot in the Champion of Champions event at the 1951 Nationals in Dallas, Tex. Boardman is entered in the National Skeet Shooting test at Oakland County Sportsmen's Club starting Aug. 30.

Cardinals' Moon Eyes Hit Leadership in Rookie Year

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Wally Moon, the rookie picked to replace popular St.Louis Cardinal outfielder Enos Slaughter, stands a chance to lead the major leagues this year in total hits.

* * *

Moon set a pre-season goal of 200 hits—and he said today he thinks he'll make it.

Not many rookies do that. And Moon had the extra pressure of pleasing the fans, many of them irked at Slaughter's trade to the New York Yankees on the eve of opening day.

Moon got two hits last night to bring his total to 170 in the race with Cardinal Red Schoendienst and Nelson Fox of the Chicago White Sox, each with 168.

* * *

"The base hit lead would be great, but my main concern is just getting those 200 hits," he said.

Moon, 24, a Texas A&M graduate admits the goal is a lofty one—something like a rookie pitcher setting a standard of 20 victories.

Only seven players in major league history reached the 200-hit mark in their first trip to the majors.

* * *

"But what use is a goal if it isn't high?" asked the wiry, strong-armed rookie whose speed, base stealing and fielding also has impressed the experts.

Moon hasn't given up hope for the National League batting title either, but admits it would take 'quite a hot streak" to get him on top.

His .331 average is higher than the St.Louis "Rookie of the Year" candidate ever compiled in the minors.

Stengel Sees Bob Turley as Bait in Trading Deal

BALTIMORE, Aug. 26 (AP)—Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees told the Baltimore News Post that pitcher Bob Turley of the Orioles is "your bait all right for a deal over the winter, and I hope we get him."

"Baltimore can get some good ball players from us, too," Stengel was quoted in the Baltimore newspaper.

"I wanted him this year, but Baltimore's price was too high," Stengel stated. "They wanted too much in players from us. But I wish we had him now. Turley can be a winning pitcher."

Tigers, Yankees in 'Do-or-Die' Series

NEW YORK (AP)—Battered Detroit Tigers arrived at Yankee stadium today for what could be a do-or-die series for both Detroit and New York.

Yankees, now four full games behind the front-running Cleveland Indians, would like nothing better than to sweep the three games from the Tigers. It would give the Yanks a chance perhaps to catch the Tribe. And what is nearly as important, a sweep would help assauge the Yankee ego. Last time the two teams met, the New Yorkers lost a series and dropped to their present four games out of 1st place.

For Detroit, this series can mean either hanging on to the 4th place or dropping clear back among the also rans in the pennant chase. The Tigers hold only a single percentage point grip on the bottom spot in the 1st division by virtue of a 5-3 loss yesterday to the 5th place Boston Red Sox.

Tigers were in poor physical condition to be facing such a crucial fight. They have six on the ailing list.

Al Kaline, fleet young outfielder who has suddenly found an unerring batting eye in recent weeks, was the latest to join the ailing. Kaline was sent flying home from Boston yesterday when his right knee began to stiffen. Trainer Jack Homel said he was suffering from a collection of fluid on the knee.

Homel already has his hands full treating pitcher Dick Marlowe, who had two teeth pulled yesterday, Reno Bertoia, down with a pulled leg muscle, Fred Hatfield, sidelined by an inflamed wrist nerve, Bob Wilson nursing a split finger, and Wayne Belardi, recovering from an upset stomach.

Steve Gromek started yesterday's contest in fine fashion. For the 1st four innings the Beantowners were able to connect for a lone hit while the Tigers were amassing three runs.

But then Boston came to life. In the fifth, the Sox belted Gromek out of the box in a five-run scoring splurge that spelled the ball game.

Tigers rushed to a 2-0 lead in the 1st inning. Harvey Kuenn, who has hit safely in 22 of his last 25 games, rapped a single. A double by Fred Hatfield, an infield out and a sacrifice fly by Bob Nieman sent the Tigers out in front. They added another run in the fifth when Kuenn doubled and rode home on a single by Hatfield to close out the Detroit scoring.

Vandalia Ready for Grand American Trapshoot Classic

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP)—They hold the dress rehearsal today for the clay-target sport's greatest show at the 55th Grand American Trapshoot.

Today's event is the preliminary handicap, a 100-target affair in which the shooters are placed ac-25 yards back of the traps from cording to their ability from 17 to which the targets emerge.

The contest, expected to attract more than 1,700 shooters, is patterned exactly after Friday's Grand American Handicap, the No. 1 event in trapshooting. The preliminary carries a guaranteed prize of $1,000 to the winner, but he may pick up an extra six or eight thousand in various purses.

Although the preliminary and the "Roaring Grand" are exactly the same, the difference in prestige is about the same as that between the 5th race at Louisville and the Kentucky Derby.

* * *

The big clay target carnival wound up its 16-yard events yesterday by deciding its class championships.

Yesterday's big star was Arnold Riegger, 34, a 5-foot-5, 200-pound bachelor from Seattle, Wash. He broke 400 targets at 16 yards yesterday, wrapping up the "Champion of Champions" title over 36 other state champions and adding the Double A class laurel to his long string of victories.

Dr. Carl R. Green of Creighton, Neb., broke 200 in a row to win the Class B laurels.

The Class C title went to Arthur E. Sheffield, the 1932 Grand American Handicap champion from Dixon, Ill., with 197.

Fred Needham of New Haven, Conn., won the Class D crown with 197.

Diminutive Quarterback to Lead California '11'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Despite the fact that he isn't very tall, quarterback Terry Debay (178 pounds) is depended upon by the University of California at Los Angeles eleven to mastermind them through this season's grid campaign. He has three years of varsity play to backstop him.

Debay is a deadly blocker of punts, having lead the conference last season with five. Debay had added offensive blocking to his duties since the arrival of one-platoon football.

The 1954 PGA championship will be held July 21 through 27 at Keller golf course, St. Paul, Minn.

Archers Given Chance to Prepare for Deer

Illegal Deer Hunting Activity Increases

LANSING (AP)—Illegal deer hunting activity increased in Michigan during the past week, the State Conservation Department said today.

The department said 14 deer poachers were convicted during the week.

There also were 31 convictions for fishing without a license, 22 for a variety of other fish law violations and 18 for violation of other game, water and forestry laws.

Lemon Nears 6th Season as 20-Game Winner

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bob Lemon, who moved from obscurity in the outfield to stardom on the pitching mound, needs only one more victory to complete his sixth season of 20 or more triumphs.

* * *

Only one other active pitcher—Lemon's Cleveland teammate Bobby Feller—has enjoyed such success.

It took the 33-year-old righthander eight seasons of professional ball to decide to concentrate on pitching. But once he put his mind to it in 1948, Lemon became a 20-game winner immediately.

Only a slump in 1951, when he posted a 17-14 record, mars his string of 20-plus seasons, a hallmark of fame in the pitching profession.

Percentagewise, 1954 could be Lemon's best year. He won his 19th game last night, 4-3 over Philadelphia in 10 innings, and he has lost only five. The last 10 triumphs have come in succession.

Always a workhorse, Lemon has lost at least 10 every year. Last season he finished with a 21-15 mark. He is the first hurler in either league to reach 19 this year.

* * *

Lemon has changed from a strikeout artist—he fanned 170 in 1950—to a control pitcher. He has struck out only 85 this year including just one in the 10 innings last night.

* * *

The Indians had to struggle for their success, coming from two runs behind to tie the score at 3-3 in the eighth, then winning on a walk and Hal Naragon's triple in the 10th.

Second-place New York and third place Chicago also won, leaving Cleveland 4½ in front of the Yankees and 8½ ahead of the White Sox.

The Yankees defeated Baltimore 5-1 and Chicago beat Washington 7-2. Boston whipped Detroit 5-3.

* * *

Brooklyn and Milwaukee gained half a game each in the National League when rain washed out New York's scheduled game in Chicago. The Dodgers thumped Cincinnati 13-2. Milwaukee shaded Philadelphia 4-3. St. Louis took over fourth place with a 13-0 runaway over Pittsburgh.

* * *

Eddie Lopat checked the Orioles on three hits including a home run by Bobby Young for his 11th victory. His Yankee support included homers by Yogi Berra, Hank Bauer and Irv Noren. The loss was the 14th in a row for the last place Orioles. The major league record is 20.

The White Sox jumped on the Senators for seven runs in the first two innings. Lefty Billy Pierce struck out 10 in one of his best performances of an injury-riddled season.

NY, California 9s in Little Loop Finale

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—It'll be East meets West tomorrow when Schenectady, N.Y., meets Colton, Calif., in the finals of the Little League World Series baseball here.

* * *

But for today it's back to the kid stages for the young players as they frolic at a picnic sponsored by Williamsport businessmen to unwind the midget ball players from yesterday's semifinals games.

* * *

The West Coast lads downed Melrose Park, Ill., 8-1 to qualify for the windup game.

Use your clubs
by ED FURGOL

Feet close together, play the 8 and 9 irons with the ball off the right heel.

As noted previously, move the ball back to the right heel as the distance decreases.

Hit the ball fairly high. The clubs have plenty of loft. When you hit the ball fairly high, it comes straight down and should bounce to a halt.

A low shot rolls too much, thus the loft of the clubs is important.

On special occasions, however, you may have to play a low shot to get past trees or other impediments.

Obtain this low trajectory by moving the ball even beyond the right heel, so that you are literally chopping down on it.

The 8 and 9 irons are primarily used on approach shots close to the green.

Delta 2-Year-Olds' Top Money-Winner

CHICAGO (AP)—Deltas victory at Washington Park yesterday in the $102,760 Princess Pat Stakes gave her the lead among 2-year-old money winners and boosted her to strong contention in the rich Washington Futurity Sept. 4.

Owned by A. B. Hancock of Paris, Ky., the Claiborne Farm's pride scored a mud slinging length and a half triumph over a 53-1 shot, Louis Lee Haggin II's Hen Party.

Delta boosted her earnings by $63,590 and now totals $163,890 for seven races, which includes a rich triumph in the Arlington Lassie.

Area Horses Finish 1-2 at Wolverine Wednesday

Pontiac area horses finished 1-2 in the 9th race at Wolverine Harness Raceway last night.

Vessels Plays With Farm Club

TORONTO, Aug. 25 (AP)—Billy Vessels, voted the most outstanding football player in Canada last year while with Edmonton, is playing with a farm team now—for a technical reason only.

* * *

Vessels expects to be drafted by the U.S. Army shortly. The Edmonton Eskimos dropped him from their roster to keep within the rule of having only 10 players from the U.S. on its team.

But by playing with the Eskimos farm team the former Oklahoma University All-America back will have completed two-thirds of the league rule which says that any U.S. import who plays three seasons in Canada no longer need be counted in the 10-man rule.

Vessels will play Saturday night with the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen against the Sarina Imperials.

Babe and Husband Leave for Vacation

DENVER, Aug. 26 (AP)—Golfdom's Babe Zaharias traded her spiked shoes for a pair of fishing boots yesterday as she and hubby George left here for a vacation at their cabin in Bayfield, in mountainous Southwestern Colorado.

"We're just going to sit around that cabin and maybe do a little fishing," Zaharias said. "We're on vacation."

"You know," he added, "the Babe really earned this siesta from golf. We're gonna go up to this cabin in Bayfield and maybe we'll just stay up there for a month or so."

The Babe arrived here from Toronto, Can., where she participated in the celebrities portion of the La Batt golf tournament for the benefit of a children's hospital.

Sanders Predicts USC May Win Coast Crown

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26 (AP)—Coach Red Sanders of the defending champion UCLA Bruins believes the Pacific Coast Conference football race will be one of the most interesting in the nation and he predicted the University of Southern California may win the title.

Home from attending a series of grid clinics around the country, Sanders yesterday singled out the crosstown Trojans with this thought:

"I kinda think that Southern California will come out on top. The reason is the Trojans' wealth of really great backs."

Rhubarb Marks Start of European Test

By MILT MARMOR

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — Five judges pondered fate and debated, thought some more and then came up early today with a solution for the European games' "wrong way" marathon that even Solomon might have envied.

* * *

So the track and field games entered their second day with an unprecedented squabble and a decision that will take its place in athletic annals.

* * *

Now it can go ahead with more qualifying rounds and even a few finals today with the hope that spectators' interest will be centered on the events themselves and not on which way a runner turns.

* * *

Last night Ivan Filin, a Russian coal miner, came into the Neufield Stadium with a comfortable lead but he turned left when he should have gone right.

The Russians protested bitterly that Filin had been misdirected and that the officials' error had cost the 28-year-old runner victory in his first international marathon.

* * *

During utter confusion and in semi-darkness, Veikko Karovonen of Finland rushed into the stadium, circled one lap of the 400-meter track and finished first. Another Russian, Boris Grischaez, also slipped home for second place. Meantime, Filin had been told of the error of his ways, returned and made the right turn and finished third.

For more than four hours, the jury of these fifth European Track and Field championships — two Frenchmen, a Swede, a Briton and a Russian—argued the matter.

The judges finally conceded Filin would have triumphed had he not made the wrong turn. Then they unanimously decided that the order of finish would remain the same but that Filin would receive a gold medal identical with that of the winner. The inscription on Filin's medal, would not mention his third place, only his time of 2 hours, 25 minutes, 26.6 seconds. Karovnen was timed in 2:24:51.6 and Grischaez in 2:24:55.6.

The marathon fiasco stole the glory from the extraordinary Zatopek family. Emil, the incredible Czech, won as he pleased in the 10,000-meter race. His time of 28:58 was second only to his world record of 28:54.2.

* * *

At the same time his wife, Dana, showed the old Zatopek brilliance when she beat out a trio of favored Russians in the javelin with a heave of 52.91 meters (173 feet, 7.11 inches).

The Czech Army officer returns to action today in a trial heat of the 5,000-meter run, in which he also holds the world record.

* * *

Heats in the 1500 meters will bring out Roger Bannister of Britain, the first 4-minute miler and recent conqueror of Australia's John Landy.

Trabert Faces Chile's Ayala in Nassau Test

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP)—Tony Trabert, tuning-up his strokes for defense of his national title starting at Forest Hills Saturday, swings back into action in the Nassau Bowl Invitation tennis tournament today with Chile's Luis Ayala offering the opposition.

Bob Perry of Los Angeles meets South Africa's Owen Williams, top-seeded foreigner, in the other quarter-final match.

* * *

The other two quarter-finals were played yesterday with Tom Brown Jr., San Francisco, defeating William Quillian, Seattle, 6-3, 6-2 and Herb Flam, Los Angeles, eliminating Canada's Lorne Main 6-4, 6-3.

In Friday's semifinals Brown will meet the winner of the Perry-Williams match and Flam will take on either Trabert or Ayala.

Calgary Drops Five Americans

CALGARY (AP) — The Calgary Stampeders dropped five imports today as the Western Interprovincial Football Union club got down to the 10 United States imports allowed under Canadian rules.

The list of cutoffs was headed by Johnny Bright, halfback from Drake Universit who played with the Stampeders for the last three years.

Others cut from the squad were Jerry Coody, fullback from Baylor University; Neil Ferris, halfback with the Los Angeles Rams; Earl Caldwell, tackle formerly with the Chicago Bears, and Jim Prewett, tackle from Tulsa University and the Baltimore Colts.

Yesterday's Stars

BATTING—Gil Hodges, Brooklyn Dodgers, hit two home runs and a double in Brooklyn's 13-2 triumph over Cincinnati.

PITCHING—Gordon Jones, St. Louis Cardinals, pitched his first major league shutout, a five-hitter, in beating Pittsburgh 13-0. He has started four games, won two and lost one with no decision in the other.

NICE STRING—A pair of Oakland County anglers show proof of the abundance of bass in county waters. Jesse Young (left), 53 East Fairmount, Pontiac, and Harlan Cagle, 2350 Gerald, Rochester, took this fine string of largemouth bass from a lake near M-59 past Pontiac Lake Tuesday morning. They used a silver minnow lure with a pork chunk.

Waterfowl Slow in Completing Nesting

LANSING (AP)—Waterfowl generally were late in nesting this year, reports from the Canadian wetlands area indicate, the State Conservation Department said today.

Leo Pospichal, recently returned from an international bird-banding project in Canada, said that late spring snows and early floods pushed the nesting season unusually far into the summer months.

"Some of the birds still are awfully small," Pospichal said.

He said that diving ducks, in particular, would be late in arriving in Michigan this year. Many scaup still were in the downy stage in mid-August, he said, and were too small to band.

1,000-Pound Marlins Being Taken in Peru

CABO BLANCO, Peru (AP) — H.L. Woodward, of Havana, caught a 1,140-pound black marlin off this seaport.

It was the 17th black marlin over 1,000 pounds to be taken off Cabo Blanco since Alfred Glassell, of Houston, Tex., started a spectacular run of thousand-pounders in April, 1952.

In addition to the 1,140 pounder, Woodward boated an 888-pound black marlin, lost three and saw five more. His fish were taken on a 39 thread line.

Sophs' Names Are Missing From PHS Football Lists

It was learned yesterday that, through an administrative oversight, no letters of invitation have been sent to 10th-grade candidates for the Pontiac High School football squad.

PHS Head Coach Ed Graybiel told the Press late yesterday that the mailing list for invitations was found to be incomplete, and that all sophomores; and possibly some juniors and seniors, were unintentionally omitted.

Therefore, all boys wishing to report for the 1st practice session Monday, whether or not they received letters, should pick up their physical examination cards at room 125 of Pontiac High School as soon as possible. They must have the cards to receive equipment Saturday.

Gear will be issued starting at 9 a.m. Saturday at Wisner Stadium.

June Stack Is Upset in Girls' Net Tourney

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Manya Baumbacher of Salt Lake City rallied from a 1-4 deficit in the third set to win five games and upset sixth-seeded June Stack of Hamtramck, Mich., 6-3, 5-7, 6-4 in the U.S. Girls grass court tennis championships yesterday at Philadelphia Cricket Club. Rose Marie Rayes of Mexico City downed eighth-seeded Penny Winkler of Los Angeles 6-4, 6-4 to enter today's quarter-final round.

National League umpire Frank Secory was graduated from Western Michigan College in 1936.

Sports Briefs

John Cook of Michigan State won the half-mile in the 1954 Big Ten indoor championships. Then he triumphed in the mile event in the Western Conference outdoor meet.

Preparations Completed for NSSA Event Here

President Jerry Woolever of the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club announced this morning that the final work projects in preparation for the impending National Skeet Shoot have been completed.

Practice shooting sessions will be held Aug. 28-29, with regular tournament shooting commencing Monday morning Aug. 30 and continuing through Sunday Sept. 5. The 410, 28, and 20 gauge events will constitute the small gun events on Monday.

Numerous committees within the club have been hard at work for several months and hope that their efforts will be rewarded by a record number of 600-800 skeet shooters from all over North America, Canada, Mexico, Cuba, and Porto Rico participating.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Baker of Bakersfield, Calif., were the earliest arrivals for the shoot, flying in on Tuesday.

Woolever states that more than 25 tons of ammunition are available for the shooters, with a potential of more than 300,000 rounds being fired. More than 300,000 clay targets will be thrown from electrically operated traps situated in the high and low skeet houses. The Remington Arms Company has three installation mechanics on the grounds at all times to oversee target - throwing apparatus. Winchester Arms Co. will supply traps at next year's National, these two companies alternating in this project.

Fifty boys from the Pontiac Boy's Club will load the clay targets into traps during the week-long shoot.

General Skeet Chairman Jim Ashmore will have a committeeman in charge of each of the four fields, as well as 20 official referees from throughout the nation. This group will be headed by Pike Mead of California.

Bob White, first vice-president, has supervised the Commercial Row exhibition space. Arms, ammunition, sporting goods and leather goods manufacturers and local merchants will utilize the space.

Lloyd Sibley, second vice-president, will be in charge of the office force. A dozen competent individuals will be operating adding machines, calculators, comptometers, and typewriters taking care of the scores and averages for the shooters. In addition there will be entry clerks and an information desk.

Club Secretary George Zimmerman was in charge of the official skeet program distributed to shooters throughout the country.

Jack Hamilton is in charge of the food and concession detail, with full course meals being served from the clubhouse. They will have a combined working force of approximately 25 helpers.

George Caverly will supervise the parking detail along with his committeemen.

Arrangements have been made with the Ford Motor Company to supply a bus to take visitors to Greenfield Village on Sept. 1.

William Bosserman will have three station wagons available to haul the teams of shooters from one end of the lengthy shooting lay-out to the opposite end.

The entrance to the grounds will be colorfully decorated with American and foreign flags being attached to the guard posts forming an avenue of flags.

Shooting will get underway each morning at 9 o'clock and continue through until 5 p.m., or until shoot-offs are completed. Sixteen fields will be utilized in the tournament proper, with four fields being used for practice shooting at all times.

The National Skeet Shooting Association will hold its annual meeting in the club house on Wednesday evening, at which time they will elect new officers, and care for other pertinent business matters.

The public is cordially invited to attend this gala shotgun shooting extravaganza.

Today's Identity

In the mid-thirties, his name was synonymous with the home run. He was the American League's MVP as a 1st baseman in 1935 and as an outfielder in 1940. The big "D" on his shirt and the familiar pose easily identify him as the Detroit Tiger immortal and now Cleveland general manager Hank Greenberg.

Bonds Pledged for Major '9' in Twin Cities

Minneapolis - St. Paul Want Big League Club for Area

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Pledges to purchase $410,000 in initial bonds were reported Wednesday in a drive for financing a baseball stadium to attract a major league team to the Twin Cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul.

The bond reports were made by the major league baseball committee at a bond sale kickoff luncheon. Cost of the stadium to be located in suburban Bloomington is estimated at 4½ million dollars.

The committee said the initial pledges were received by contacting only a few firms and individuals the past week.

Gerald L. Moore, committee chairman, said the initial or "B" bonds sales goal is $2,000,000 in the minimum denominations of $500 bearing interest at two per cent.

Sales of the "B" bonds will form the base on which 2½ million dollars worth of "A" bonds bearing four per cent interest, will be offered to the investment public. "B" bond purchasers will be given priority on the purchase of tickets for baseball games or other sports events at the proposed 40,000 seat stadium.

The baseball committee has not officially announced that any one major league team has been approached to move its club to the Twin Cities. Both Minneapolis and St. Paul have teams in the American Assn.

Bruce Woodcock won the British Empire heavyweight title on July 17, 1945 by knocking out Jack London appropriately enough in London.

Probe Lackland for "Pachuco"

Investigations Started After Airman Found With Terrorist Mark

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (INS)—Air Force officials reported today that a widespread investigation is underway at Lackland Air Force Base to determine if a "Pachuco" terrorist organization exists there.

Lackland commander Maj. Gen. John H. McCormick ordered the probe after an airman held in the base stockade for absence without leave was discovered to have a Pachuco cross tatoed on his hand.

Disclosure of the Lackland investigation came after an announcement at Chanute Air Force Base at Rantoul, Ill., that bases throughout the country are to be kept under surveillance for activities of the secret youth group.

Gen. McCormick ordered Lackland squadron commanders to screen basic trainees at the base of 30,000 personnel for "Pachuco" identification marks.

Officials said no organized activities of the society had yet been discovered at Lackland but expressed belief that some of the young airmen held at Chanute on charges of offenses sanctioned by the "Pachuco" blood code passed through the Texas base.

Lackland is one of the air force's two gateway bases processing trainees from the west coast where "Pachuco-ism" is said to have originated.

Cleaning Bill Unpaid; Cargo Vessel Seized

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The sheriffs office seized a converted tanker under a writ of attachment yesterday for an unpaid cleaning bill of $1,375.

The action was the first within memory of veteran court attaches. The sheriff's office said it would retain custody of the ship, the Gulf Crest, until the court determines if the lien is valid.

The onetime tanker was seized on a writ obtained by Airkem Sales and Services of Philadelphia, which was hired to clean, deodorize and equip the tanker as a cargo vessel.

IT WENT IN EASY—Mindy Sue Uberstine, one and a half, demonstrates how her foot was stuck in an old drainpipe for an hour yesterday in Cleveland. She didn't cry a bit as firemen and police first tried to free her by pouring soapy water down the pipe; finally turned the trick by chipping away the top of the tile.

'Ladies and Gentlemen . . .' Toastmasters Learn How

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Washington seems wordier than usual, there's a reason. Between 1,500 and 2,000 after dinner speakers are gathering for the 23rd annual convention of Toastmasters International.

It's startling to learn that every week in this nation, 50,000 after dinner speakers make after dinner speeches to each other.

But they do. And apparently they love it.

"Applications for new clubs are coming in at the rate of 2¼ clubs a day," said Wayland A. Dunham, editor of the club's publication, "The Toastmaster."

It was around 30 years ago, Dunham said, that Ralph C. Smedley, a Santa Ana, Calif. YMCA secretary, became so distressed at the ineffectiveness of communication that he got some business and professional men together and started them talking.

Now 77, and still an enthusiastic after dinner speaker, Smedley has seen the organization grow until it has a club in every state but one—taciturn Vermont remains unimpressed—and in foreign countries from Australia to Greenland.

Each of the 1,700 clubs is limited to 30 members, so everyone will have a chance to say his piece. Each speaker is assigned a critic, and there's even a critic who criticizes the critic.

Dunham believes this by-product of the club, learning to listen critically and analytically, is even more important than toastmastering.

"Can you ever think of a time," he asked, "when we needed to analyze what we hear more than we do today?"

Dunham says any would - be speaker must learn two things: He must learn to overcome the blind fear that seizes almost everyone when he first faces an audience, and he must learn to think on his feet.

The worst case Dunham ever saw was a West Coast insurance clerk.

"I heard his first attempt at a speech," Dunham said, "and I never was so sorry for a man in my whole life. First he turned red, then white, then a sickly yellowish green. He opened his mouth, but he couldn't make a sound. Finally he slumped into his seat."

From this all-American bust, the clerk carried on until he finally won top honors in a speech contest. He now is a minor executive in his firm and can say, "This reminds me of a little story," at the drop of an introduction.

It was suggested that what Washington needs isn't a club to encourage speaking, but an organization to put a gag on some we already have.

Dunham said he didn't know about that, but it turned out he doesn't think much of political speaking, largely because, he says, he can't shake his habit of analyzing everything he hears.

"Now I greatly admire Eisenhower," Dunham said, "and I like his easy method of delivery. But a friend of mine and I listened to him the other, and we punched his speech full of holes."

Would Eisenhower profit from Toastmasters, Inc.?

"I think," Dunham said, "that we could do him some good all right."

Indict Former U-M Instructor

Horace Davis Faces 26 Counts of Contempt of Congress

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—A suspended University of Michigan mathematics instructor today faces 26 counts of contempt of Congress in a federal indictment resulting from recent congressional probing of Communism in Michigan.

Horace Chandler Davis was indicted by a federal grand jury at Grand Rapids yesterday. It was the first such indictment to stem from Michigan hearings of the House Un-American Activities Subcommittee this spring.

The 28-year-old Davis had refused to answer questions put to him by congressional committee members in Lansing last May 10. He refused to say whether he had ever recruited members for the Communist party. He refused, too, to say whether he had ever known Gerhardt Eisler, one-time top U. S. Red who fled to Communist Germany in May, 1949.

Nor would he identify his own signature or photograph.

Instead, Davis, a former Navy ensign, stood on his constitutional rights. Invoking the first amendment, he said:

"I do not discuss politics with a sword over my head; the first amendment is intended to keep coercion out of politics."

Davis joined the Michigan faculty in 1950. He was suspended shortly after the House hearings. And Dr. Harlan H. Hatcher, university president recommended dismissal Aug. 3.

5-Nation EDC Being Pressed

Other European Lands Consider Going Ahead Without France

ROME (INS)—Italy, West Germany and the Benelux countries were reported by Italian officials today to be in diplomatic contact regarding a "five-nation European Defense Community instead of a six-nation group."

This is based on the expected French National Assembly rejection of EDC in next week's vote on ratification.

One highly-placed Italian official said: "Why not five? Are five nations to be thrown overboard just because the sixth (France) won't go along?"

This was a direct invitation to the United States to preserve in creation of a defense community without France, at least initially.

Officials recalled that the late former Premier Alcide de Gasperi, before his death a week ago, pleaded with Italian Premier Mario Scelba and other government officials to save EDC since he believed it would be the salvation of Western Europe and lead to a strong United States of Europe.

According to the Italians, France might come in at a later date if EDC is implemented by Italy, West Germany, Belgium, Luxembourg and The Netherlands instead of being scrapped.

The Italian government meanwhile planned to press for ratification immediately when Parliament convenes after the summer vacation.

Italy and France alone of the six nations have not ratified the proposed treaty that would rearm West Germany in a six-nation organization under supranational command and allied to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The government's thinking is that with ratification Italy can assume "a more decisive mediatory role than it could do at the Brussels Conference."

The six-nation Brussels Conference collapsed last weekend when all opposed French Premier Pierre Mendes-France's plan to revise the present treaty.

The Italian Communist Party evidently is expecting no change in Italian policy. Today it circularized all card-carrying members for postage stamp contributions of from 100 to 500 lire (the lire is worth less than a penny in U.S. currency) "to fight EDC ratification."

City, School Tax Payments Hit $1 Million Mark

Some $1,000,000 in Pontiac city and school taxes, about 40 per cent of the total, have come in since collections began Aug. 16, City Treasurer M. M. Ashbaugh said today.

Collections started six weeks late this year, because of an appeal by Southfield Township to have its property valuation changed.

Pontiac tax bills couldn't be figured until Southfield withdrew its appeal July 30, because a change in the township's valuation would have changed city assessments.

The city got through the no-income period without having to borrow money, said Ashbaugh, "and now taxes are rolling in."

A one per cent penalty will be added to unpaid bills Sept. 19, Ashbaugh stated, and another one per cent placed on unsettled accounts each month following.

Radar Speed Control OKed

Offer of Businessmen's Club to Buy Equipment Accepted by Waterford

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP—Radar speed control equipment will soon be in operation here, Township Clerk Louis Barry revealed today.

The Township Board this week voted to accept the offer of the Waterford Township Businessmen's Assn. to purchase the equipment.

In other action, the board authorized placing name plates on the new cemetery gates at Crescent Hills Cemetery on Crescent Lake road.

A new plat was approved for the Lincolnshire subdivision on Cass Lake road.

The Oakland County Road Commission was authorized to install "no parking" signs on Maceday Lake road, as recommended by the State Police and sheriff's department. The signs will also be placed on Frembes street in Drayton Plains.

Petitions were received by the board for street lighting on Marion street, which borders the Birdland subdivision. Barry was advised by the board to verify signatures.

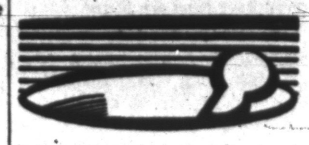

In final action, the board gave the DAV permission to conduct a "Forget-Me-Not" sale in the township Sept. 17-18.

A special meeting of the board will be held Monday morning to transact general business.

Hal Boyle Says:

It Looks Like Cable Car Will Stay Part of Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Can you imagine the uproar in Paris if someone proposed razing the Eiffel Tower? Or the screams in Brooklyn if someone sold the Dodgers to Dallas?

Well, the same kind of turmoil has been going on here all year since they cut San Francisco's famous cable car system in half.

"If we're out to ruin the city, why not chop the Golden Gate Bridge in half, too?" demand diehard defenders of the cable car.

* * *

The cable car, long a symbol of San Francisco to the nation, was regarded as one of the wonders of the West after its invention here in 1873. Today thousands of motorists regard the antiquated little Toonerville-type trolleys, which are pulled by whirring underground cables, as one of the unfortunate transportation blunders of history.

But the slow-moving little cars ("ladies will remain seated; gentlemen may ride standing outside at their own risk") are beloved by tradition-proud San Franciscans. Millions of tourists wouldn't think their visit to the city complete without one. It gives them the thrilling feeling of a brief journey back into an adventurous past.

* * *

But time has passed the cable car by in terms of efficiency. They cost three times as much to operate as a bus, move only about half as fast, and are great middle-of-the-road traffic blockers.

Faced with these stern facts, the Board of Supervisors last January cut the 11-mile cable car trackage in half. It retained the historic lines that would give visitors the most picturesque views of the city.

But an immediate outcry arose, nationally and locally:

"Save the cable cars!"

Letters poured in from all over America urging that the cable car was the vocal soul of old San Francisco, and must not be lost. Indignant citizens last June passed, among other measures, an amendment to the city charter providing that the cable car should be part of San Francisco forever. But, significantly, some 60,000 voters straddled the fence by refusing to vote on the issue.

* * *

That should have settled the problem, but it hasn't. Sentimentalists, perhaps including many who haven't stepped on a cable car since the invention of the automobile, have kept the fight raging. They still feel, although bewildered officials protest 'tain't so, the curtailment of the cable car network is only the first step in a dark plot to abandon it altogether.

So sound trucks still roll through Chinatown blaring the embattled wary cry in Chinese: "Save the cable cars!" A campaign is under way by enthusiasts to force the city to restore, or even enlarge, the lost cable car trackage.

If they succeed, this will take a bit of doing—as it would now require the cable cars to run part of their route the wrong way down one-way streets.

Support for this program is less than lukewarm among many city motorists.

"Some of these nuts probably would be in favor if going back to the ox car," snarled one driver. "If they had to try to drive a car two blocks uphill through heavy traffic behind one of those cable monstrosities, that would cure some of their quaint ideas."

The odds seem to be that progress and the past will compromise. In an effort to pour balm on civic wounds, Mayor Elmer E. Robinson has appointed a committee to organize an annual four-day festival to honor the cable car.

"We hope," said a hopeful committee member, "the festival will some day rival the Mardi Gras in New Orleans."

It looks like the cable car, 91 years after its birth, will remain as permanent a part of San Francisco's scenery as its celebrated fogs.

Find 15-Year-Old Check Apparently Not Cashed

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — A check issued more than 15 years ago for $105 was found in the street a half block from the funeral home of J. J. Moran and Sons to which it was issued. It was issued by Macon County and bore an endorsement, but no mark showing it had been cashed.

The mystery was cleared up when it was found that the check was in a truck of old papers hauled from the County Building. It had been returned March 16, 1938, nine days after it had been issued, cashed.

Chemist Career Came by Chance

W. J. Sparks Recently Honored as Synthetic Rubber Co-Discoverer

ASBURY PARK, N. J. (UP)—William J. Sparks, honored recently as co-discoverer of synethtic rubber, became a chemist by chance.

The 49-year-old Standard Oil Development Co. chemist once found he had more credits in chemistry at Indiana University than in any other subject. He stuck to it because it seemed the easy thing to do.

His decision bore fruit one hot August afternoon 17 years ago when he and a Standard Oil associate, Robert M. Thomas, mixed up the first batch of butyl (synthetic) rubber.

The discovery resulted in birth of a new industry and, more recently, in bestowing upon Sparks one of the nation's highest scientific awards, the gold medal of the American Institute of Chemists.

The synthetic product, described as better than jungle-bred rubber, now is used extensively in manufacture of auto tires. More than 1,000,000,000 car inner tubes made of butyl attest to its air-holding qualities.

But Sparks had a complaint. All the fuss over his butyl formula cut into his golf time. A member of a Mountainside, N. J. country club, he found less and less time to make his course tour in the mid-80's.

Instead he was busy as chairman of the division of chemistry and chemical technology of the National Research Council and as U. S. delegate to the International Union of Pure and Applied Chemistry in Stockholm. This was in addition to his job as head of the development firm's chemical division.

But his friends say, sadly, that it hasn't hurt his poker any. They describe him as a "straight-faced winner."

Rain Spurring Soy Futures

CHICAGO (AP)—Soybean futures moved higher in early Board of Trade dealings today on buying influenced by rain in the main producing belt.

Corn and oats also were firm early but wheat mostly was off fractionally on profit-taking due partly to trade belief that the flour buying of the last few days has been completed. The Minneapolis wheat future market also was lower, causing some bearish sentiment in Chicago.

Near the end of the first hour wheat was ½ lower to ¼ higher, September $2.13½, corn was up ⅝ to ¾, September $1.64¾, oats were ⅛ to ⅜ higher, September 73¾, rye was 1½ to 2¼ cents higher, December $1.29, soybeans were 1 to 4 cents higher, September $3.04½, and lard was 5 to 25 cents a hundred pounds lower, September $18.40.

Aircraft Selling Lowers Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Selling that was largely centered in the aircrafts today sent the Stock Market lower in the early afternoon.

There were many losses between 1 and 2 points and some extended beyond that point. Gains usually were confined to stocks affected by special considerations.

No selling congestion developed but there was a definite spurt in business as prices fell away. The pace was brisk at a rate better than yesterday's 2,280,000 shares when the market was falling.

Aircrafts have been strong recent favorites, but more and more they have been hit by profit-taking on each push into higher territory.

Also lower today were the utilities, steels, motors, rubbers, coppers, chemicals, oils and railroads.

Plane Overtakes Pastor After Highway Landing

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (UP) —The Rev. Donald Roy Lehti of Berkeley, Calif. doesn't mind ordinary traffic on the highway—it's the airplanes that bother him.

Driving near here, Lehti suddenly saw an airplane overtaking his auto from behind. He tried to outrun it, but failed.

The plane, making an emergency landing, clipped off a taillight and cut a hole in the gas tank of the car with its propeller before Lehti could get away.

The Sea of Galilee, in Palestine, is 14 miles long and 8 miles wide and is 680 feet below the level of the Mediterranean.

Mack Truck, White End Merger Talks

NEW YORK (AP)— Discussions on a possible merger or consolidation of Mack Trucks, Inc. and White Motors Co. have been discontinued.

E. D. Bransome, president and board chairman of Mack, acknowledged late yesterday that the oft-rumored discussions had been going on but reported "they have been definitely terminated." He added that they had been initiated by White.

The 103-million-dollar Mack firm is one of the country's oldest manufacturers of trucks, buses and fire apparatus.

Largest stockholder of Mack Trucks is Northeast Capital Corp. which in the past several months has acquired more than 461,000 shares of Mack stock, or about 29 per cent of the 1,569,000 outstanding.

Business Briefs

Seidman furniture industry analysts of Grand Rapids said Wednesday new industry bookings for July were 12 per cent above those in June. The report added, however, there are "divergent trends" within the industry. It said shipments were down 12 per cent compared with June. The analysts attributed part of the decline to "unusually long" vacation periods in many plants.

Boyne Products, Inc., of Boyne City, has been sold to the Detroit manufacturers' representative firm of Ford, Brooks Co. Boyne Products, founded in 1953 by Fred Nannings, is a light machining and electronics supply firm. No purchase price was disclosed in Nannings' announcement Wednesday.

Lewis, who ust returned from a trip to Europe, said that no German producer had been licensed as yet. He said it was difficult for Europeans to buy American products because of the shortage of dollars.

Public Safety Building Eyed

Work on New Project May Start After City Hall Is Finished

Construction of a public safety building — combining the Police Department, municipal courts and some Fire Department offices — may be started by Pontiac after completion of the new city hall.

City Manager Walter K. Willman said today he and Leo J. Heenan, local architect, are now working on preliminary building plans for submission to the city commission.

The city hall is slated for completion early next year and construction of the public safety building could begin late in 1955 or early in '56, said Willman, if the commission gives it priority.

Funds for the building would come from the 1½-mill tax for public improvements authorized by city voters April 5 this year to begin in 1955.

Only Fire Department administrative work would be done at the proposed building, the city manager stated, with no fire fighting equipment housed there.

No definite determination has been made as to the site or approximate cost, he added.

Pontiac Couple Injured in Two-Car Collision

A Pontiac couple were treated at St. Joseph Mercy hospital for cuts and bruises following a two-car collision at Saginaw and Parke Sts., last night.

Injured were James E. Davis, 48, of 26 Rose Ct., and his wife, Ruth, 39. The Davis car collided with an auto driven by Thomas J. Gilmer, 23, of 2462 Omira, Waterford Township. Pontiac Police said Gilmer swerved to avoid another auto which turned in front of him and collided with the Davis car.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF CLYDE Eckles, beloved husband and father, who passed away suddenly Aug. 26, 1953.
Just when your life was brightest,
Just when your years were best,
You were called from this world of sorrow
To a home of eternal rest.
I have only your memory, dear husband,
To remember my whole life through;
But the sweetness will linger forever
As I treasure the image of you.
Sadly missed by wife, Vera; son, Melvin, and daughter, Leona.

She Says Man Should Be Boss

Career Women Should Maintain Femininity, 'Home' Editor Advises

By ARLENE FRANCIS
TV 'Home' Editor

NEW YORK — I am a woman with a place in two homes — my own household and a television series, "Home."

Since taking over my role on the new show, I've been asked a number of questions about my ideas on the woman's "place" in society. It's probably presumptuous of me to "sound off" on the subject.

Honestly, I don't think working on television automatically qualifies me as an expert. But I do have a husband and a child, and as a wife and a mother I do have some convictions about the female's duty to her home and family.

People who keep track of such things report that an increasing number of today's married women are working — out of desire or economic necessity.

Consequently, it would be silly to maintain along with grandfather that "a woman's place is in the home — period." But the woman's place IN the home is, for this career girl, her most important place. It should be her primary concern.

As that fine old cliche puts it: I place my cards on the table. I confess, I am not a feminist.

I believe that the man IS the head of the household in fact, and not only when it comes to filling out income tax returns.

Frankly, I think that as some women gain greater independence they develop a greater tendency to abuse it. There is — and believe me, I know — a constant temptation to get completely involved in our own interests. From there on it's a short, unhappy step to becoming opinionated and developing a somewhat cold and calculating attitude in our dealings with other people.

When she reaches this stage, a female is starting to lose sight of her most precious asset — her femininity.

Every woman, married or unmarried, career girl or homebody, ought to be on guard against the danger of forgetting that she is a woman. And it means not only watching your attitude with your husband, be he one of 10 years' standing or merely prospective. It means exercising care in the selection of clothes and hair styles.

I've always felt that a boyish haircut ought to be offset with girlish clothes. And a tailored suit may be fine for working hours, but a soft hair-do, a flattering hat and jewelry can maintain a feminine appearance.

Before somebody misinterprets me, I'd better say that I don't favor the "clinging-vine" approach, either. To me, there seems a big difference between losing your identity as a personality and losing it as a woman. The wife and mother who fails to develop her own mind and interests, I imagine, causes as much unhappiness as the one who develops them to the exclusion of her family.

Vodka Permitted Inside Britain, but Not Britons

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet consulate says it has received nearly 100 visa applications from Britons who want to see the London soccer team, Arsenal, play a Russian club Oct. 5 in Moscow.

"Futbol is a great game," said a clerk at the consulate. "There is much interest in futbol. More interest in our futbol from the British public than in our wonderful ballet."

The Arsenal supporters club is offering an all-expense six-day trip to Moscow and back for $462 and the list closed last week.

Who goes to Moscow is, of course, not decided in the London consulate but in Moscow.

"Sometimes," said the clerk, "it takes a long time."

Toscanini Appears Well Since Retiring

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Arturo Toscanini "looks much better today than he did in New York, when he decided to retire."

That is the report of Richard Tucker, American tenor and one of the few persons who has visited the famed conductor at his Lake Maggiore home.

"We spoke for two hours — of musical matters, naturally," Tucker said. "The Maestro spoke eagerly of everything. He is there just to rest, studying music a couple of hours a day, quietly walking in the villa garden and talking with visitors he receives."

Toscanini, 87, announced his retirement as conductor of the NBC Symphony Orchestra last season.

Rosie the Junk Horse Needs Her Pick-Me-Up

NEW YORK (UP)—Rosie is a 13-year-old junk wagon horse who likes her pick-me-up as well as the next city dweller.

Rosie stepped in a hole in an alley Wednesday and couldn't free herself. Rescuers gathered and finally freed her, but she lay down and wouldn't get up.

ASPCA agent William Ryan arrived with a pint of whisky. Rosie drank every drop, heaved onto her feet and stepped briskly on her way, pulling the wagon behind her.

State Cracking Down on Fair Food Stands

LANSING (UP)—Food stand operators were warned today by state officials that enforcement officers have begun a crackdown on unsanitary conditions at fairground stands throughout Michigan.

"When our inspectors can read the menu by looking at so-called 'clean' plates, the situation is bad," Miles A. Nelson, chief of the State Marketing and Enforcement Bureau, said. "And that's the condition of many establishments."

Death Takes Inventor

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) — Carl L. Anderson, 73, Rockford, inventor and former executive superintendent of the Mechanics Universal Joint Division of Borg-Warner Corp. died last night of a heart attack. Anderson, who was born in Sweden, was an inventor of the universal joint used in automobiles.

Admits Tossing Baby Into Lake

Mother Breaks Down After First Reporting Infant Missing

BRAINERD, Minn. (AP) — A distraught mother who first reported her 6-week-old daughter missing broke down early today and admitted throwing the child into a lake near the family small rural home.

Sheriff Roy Wickland said Mrs. Archie Sanders could give no reason for tossing tiny Janet Ruth, apparently still alive, into Pelican Lake. She first reported that she and two older daughters awoke from an afternoon nap yesterday to find the baby missing from her crib.

* * *

Wickland said the mother still was in semihysterical condition. Her statement was made at her father's rural crossroads store, where she had gone after reporting the child missing.

Wickland said Mrs. Sanders told him this story:

She took the baby and her two other daughters, Phyllis, 5, and Sharon, 4, in the family car and drove over a back road to the lake. After parking the car 300 feet from the shore, she left the two girls in it and walked 300 feet to the lakeshore.

* * *

There she waded out up to her waist and then threw the baby "as far as I could."

Wickland said he and his deputies would start searching the lake at daybreak. Sanders, a carpenter, said he could not explain his wife's action. He was absent at work.

Wickland said he was holding her without charge for further questioning when her condition improves.

Hannah Back on Board

DETROIT (AP)—Dr. John A. Hannah, Michigan State College president and former assistant secretary of defense, has returned as a member of the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. board of directors—a post he held from 1950 to 1953 when he accepted the defense post. The company made the announcement Wednesday.

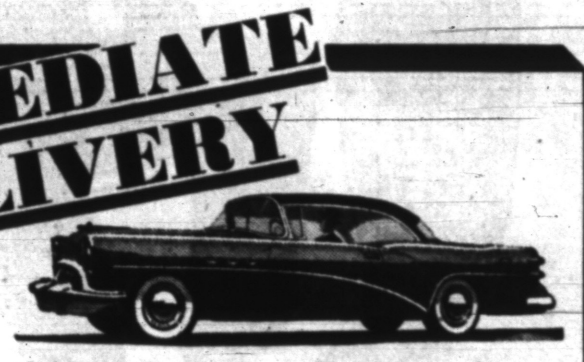

Thieves Ransack Home After Gagging Watchdog

LYNN, Mass. (AP)—Intruders ransacked Peter Bufalino's home yesterday—but not before they eliminated an obstacle.

They tied a strip of cloth across the mouth of Bufalino's pet dog so he couldn't bark.

Bufalino said he knew there was something wrong when Ginger failed to bark as he usually does when his master enters the house.

Grandma Slaps Robber

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) — The desperado who walked into a local laundry office waving a gun didn't count on the reaction of the 60-year-old grandmother behind the counter. Mrs. Florence Gatewood said she ignored the robber's gun and "smacked him in the face twice." He fled empty handed.
