Quick Revival Vowed for Court Reform Bill

LANSING (AP) — A quick revival has been promised for the much-disputed lower courts reorganization bill apparently voted to death in the Senate yesterday.

Although the measure was voted down, 14-15, Sen. Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, Senate Republican leader, said he plans to immediately introduce a substitute.

A bill allowing a proposed $335 million bond issue for water pollution control passed its last legislative hurdle when it cleared the Senate 29-0.

The bill now goes to the House for enrollment and presentation to the governor. Gov. George Romney, who asked for the legislation, is sure to sign it.

SIMPLE MAJORITY

This will put the issue on the Nov. 5 ballot where it only needs a simple majority for approval by the voters.

The multimillion dollar bond issue is intended to finance water pollution control, primarily through loans to local units of government for the construction of sewage treatment plants.

★ ★ ★

Romney expressed concern about the court bill when he heard of the unfavorable vote at the initial test. But the governor indicated he expects a happy ending.

"I am confident that this single vote does not kill such legislation and that an acceptable plan will ultimately be passed," Romney said.

DEMS TO HELP

Lockwood said the substitute bill will be a vehicle to keep the court issue alive.

Democrats have agreed to come up with enough votes for the two-thirds needed for passage in the Senate, he said.

FELLOW REPUBLICANS—State Sen. Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, chats with Joyce Atley, 24, of 10080 Eagle, Rose Township, a member of the Oakland County Young Republicans. Lockwood, state presidential campaign manager for Richard Nixon, was guest speaker at the group's meeting in Royal Oak last night.

Nixon 'Logical Candidate' for State GOP---Lockwood

By ED BLUNDEN

Presidential hopeful Richard Nixon was tagged "the logical candidate" for Michigan Republicans to support by State Sen. Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, last night.

Lockwood, Senate majority leader, spoke to a gathering of about 250 Oakland County Young Republicans at Belanger House in Royal Oak. He is a delegate to the Republican convention Aug. 5 in Miami and also Nixon's state campaign manager.

★ ★ ★

Lockwood said the convention delegates from Michigan will go pledged to Gov. George Romney as a favorite son candidate, but predicted a strong swing toward Nixon in later balloting among the state's 48 delegates. He said 25 already backed him.

★ ★ ★

"Nixon is a good, strong middle-of-the-road candidate . . . and the only one on the horizon," Lockwood said.

Asked from the audience if Nixon's past image would hurt his chances, Lockwood said: "There is a new Nixon . . . with warmth and feeling."

Lockwood predicted Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota would drop out of the Democratic presidential race within three weeks.

★ ★ ★

He also said he expected Lt. Gov. William Milliken to announce today that he was state campaign manager for Nelson Rockefeller, governor of New York. (this proved correct.)

In examining Nixon's chances, if nominated, against either Hubert Humphrey or Robert Kennedy, he indicated a lot would depend on the Vietnam war situation and the level of rioting in the cities during the summer.

★ ★ ★

In backing Nixon, Lockwood said, "He's a good, sound candidate who no one would be ashamed to support for President of the United States."

Illegal Solicitors Reported in City

The Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce warned today that a group without a city permit for solicitation is apparently asking for donations which they say will be used to buy tickets to bring underprivileged children to a summer show.

The solicitors, who are contacting people verbally, claim they will list the donator's business in the Labor Unions' Directory for free if a certain amount of money is contributed to buy tickets for the children's show.

★ ★ ★

The solicitors claim the Labor Unions' Directory will be listing Teamsters, AFL-CIO, UAW and Affiliates.

Jack Douglas, president of the Oakland County AFL-CIO Council, says he knows nothing about the organization, according to the Chamber.

CHECK VALIDITY

The Chamber urges citizens approached to ask the solicitors name, address, and phone number and not to give any money until they have checked the organization's validity with the Chamber or the police.

Salesmen for this directory have apparently been hired out of a local motel room being used as a temporary office. The local address given is that of a telephone service, the Chamber said.

★ ★ ★

Another group is soliciting ads for the Marine Directory without a city permit. The Marine Corps recruiting office claims to know nothing about this group.

A Pontiac ordinance says it is against the law to solicit for charity without first obtaining a license.

At that time state convention delegates will elect four district delegates and four alternates to the national Democratic Convention Aug. 26 in Chicago.

City Commission Raises Street Sealcoat Cost

BIRMINGHAM — Prices will be up for sealcoating of city streets this year.

The City Commission has approved assessment for the operation at 35 cents per front foot, compared to 27 cents last year.

★ ★ ★

Reason for the increase, according to A. P. Blethen, superintendent of public works, is a rise in the "charge-out rate" in the department from $4.90 to $6 per hour.

★ ★ ★

The charge-out rate, Blethen explained, is the amount charged by the department to cover all overhead costs, in addition to salaries paid to workers on a project.

HEARING SET

The commission has set a hearing of necessity for June 3 on the program, and scheduled confirmation of the roll June 17.

City Manager Robert S. Kenning recommended that all streets included on the list submitted by Blethen for sealcoating be included in the declaration of necessity, pointing out that when the roll is confirmed a street may be dropped but not added.

★ ★ ★

In other business at Monday's meeting, the commission approved, after some debate about signs, appropriation of $1,200 for a permanent planter-type barrier on Willits to block traffic from going west on Willits from Greenwood.

A proposal to replace a barricade on Edenborough between Windemere and Buckingham with a permanent installation was referred to the administration.

TO CURB TRAFFIC

The barricade was erected over a year ago at the request of residents in Pembroke Manor to curb traffic flow through the area.

City Engineer William T. Killeen reported that Johnson, Johnson and Roy, the city's urban design consulting firm, had prepared a plan under which the pavement on Edenborough would be removed for 65 feet south of Windemere. The area would be landscaped with a raised, sodded mound and a new tree.

★ ★ ★

Edenborough would be narrowed at Buckingham and an island would be constructed, also landscaped with a tree.

Estimated cost is $4,400, Killeen said.

QUESTION RAISED

"The question of whether residents should be assesed for the project is up to the commission," Kenning commented. He added the street is not being vacated, but closed to north-south traffic.

★ ★ ★

Mayor David F. Breck recommended referral of the plan to the Pembroke Manor Association, saying, "I don't think it would be appropriate to assess anyone."

★ ★ ★

Commissioner James D. Schmidt said he felt that the problem should not be referred to the administration, since it involved a policy decision.

Commissioner Ruth B. McNamee, however, said the commission was establishing a precedent and should protect itself. She urged that the administration be directed to study the question and make a recommendation as to a formula and district for assessment. The commission approved the study.

WILLITS TABLED

Commissioner William B. Saunders then asked if the Willits barrier should be reconsidered, since it too was requested by residents.

Schmidt, after making the required motion to reconsider the Willits decision, moved to table the request. The tabling motion passed, 4-1, with Breck opposed and Schmidt, Mrs. McNamee, Saunders and Roberts voting for.

JAMES E. SEETERLIN

Treasurer Says He'll Run for County Post

Oakland County Treasurer James E. Seeterlin announced today that he will be a candidate for the office in the August primary election.

Seeterlin, 41, of 4597 W. Walton, Waterford Township, has held the post since November 1965 when he was appointed to fill the vacancy created by the death of Charles Sparks.

★ ★ ★

Before assuming his present duties, Seeterlin, a Democrat, served as supervisor in Waterford Township for 2½ years.

Prior to being elected supervisor, he had served three terms as Waterford Township clerk, from April 1957 to April 1963.

'NECESSARY EXPERIENCE'

"In seeking to continue in the office of county treasurer, I feel the 12 years I have been an elected and appointed public servant has provided me with the necessary experience to handle the job," Seeterlin said.

A graduate of Pontiac Central High School, Seeterlin last year received a degree in political science and history which he earned in 12 years of part-time study at Wayne State University.

★ ★ ★

Active in public affairs since entering government, Seeterlin was a member of the Detroit Metropolitan Area Regional Planning Commission, appointed by Gov. G. Mennen Williams and then Gov. George Romney from 1959 to 1966. He was required to resign when he became county treasurer.

He and his wife Evelyn have nine children, ranging in age from 1 to 19.

Detroit Called Top Civil Rights Target

DETROIT (AP) — Calling Detroit "a dungeon of shame," a Southern Christian Leadership Conference official said yesterday Detroit will be the SCLC's No. 1 target once the Poor People's March ends.

"Detroit has just put herself No. 1 on the civil rights list as far as the SCLC is concerned," said Hosea Williams, a member of the SCLC executive board.

★ ★ ★

The Motor City, hit by a riot that left 43 dead last summer, will become the center of SCLC attention, Williams said, partly as a result of a Monday night skirmish between police and a group of participants in the Poor People's March.

Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh promised a full investigation of the police-marchers incident.

Army Aide Defends Rifle Contracts

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top Army official says additional M16 rifles will be moved to Vietnam seven months faster under controversial contracts of up to $20 million higher than a rejected low bid.

Dr. Robert A. Brooks, assistant Army secretary, testified Tuesday at a special House subcommittee hearing on the contracts. He said fast production costs money and "we pay to attain an accelerated delivery schedule."

★ ★ ★

Two-year contracts to supply 240,000 rifles each were awarded the Hydra-Matic Division of General Motors for a ceiling price of $56 million and Harrington & Richardson of Worcester, Mass., for a ceiling price of $42 million.

A bid of $36 million was submitted by Maremont Corp., of Saco, Maine, which produces the Army's M60 machinegun. This bid was turned down.

'PRICE IGNORED'

Rep. Peter N. Kyros, D-Maine, told the subcommittee there was every indication the procurement was "handled so as to give General Motors a negotiated contract, without regard to price . . ."

Kyros said price was not a factor until after the successful bidders had been chosen.

Brooks charged that reports of excessive costs were misleading and said the ceiling costs appear high because the producers will have to acquire special equipment, hire and train personnel and rearrange plant facilities.

By awarding the contracts to GM and Harrington & Richardson, he said, "we will be able to move the needed rifles to Vietnam seven months sooner than would have been possible under normal price competition and production lead times and sooner than by contrarting with either of the competitors not selected."

OTHER BIDDERS

The unsuccessful bidder besides Maremont was Cadillac Gage of Warren, Mich.

Brooks also said Colt Industries' price "would be substantially increased" if it were to supply additional quantities of M16s.

★ ★ ★

But a spokesman for Colt, the sole M16 supplier before the two new contracts were awarded, said a new order from the Army "would not involve a substantial increase in costs.

He also estimated Colt's price would be "substantially cheaper" than the ceiling prices announced for the two new suppliers.

Plans Revealed for Interceptor

Independence to Use Big Sewer

By JEAN SAILE

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP — Plans to make use of the giant Clinton-Oakland Sewer Interceptor — designed to drain six townships — were revealed by this township yesterday.

Indepencence is the second community to make plans for use of the giant sewer. Avon Township has passed its ordinance for use of the sewer.

Independence Township officials, in company with financial and engineering consultants, reported plans for servicing more than a third of the township population with a system of internal lateral sewers.

Also involved in the program is an expansion of the present four subdivision well systems — with the use of an additional five wells — to provide water service to 10 square miles south of I-75.

Neither sewer nor water planning now involves the village of Clarkston, though township officials hasten to add that a 22,000-person capacity was purchased in the Clinton-Oakland with the participation of the village in mind.

'WILL GET SERVICE'

"If Clarkston requests service, we will give it to them," said Supervisor Duane Hursfall.

As planned both services would be initiated in the south-central portion of the township.

Already committed for nearly $1.7 million in principal on the big interceptor, some 100 township residents last night learned it would cost the township nearly $6 million more to gear up for actual sewage and water service.

The cost for an internal water system is figured at $2.6 million and the cost for an internal sewage system at $3.3 million. The need to put the usable systems in an area of population density in order to recover the financial investment was pointed out for last night's audience.

SYSTEM SUGGESTED

A suggested system of fees and charges to pay for building the system was revealed by William Hettiger of Stratton Assoc., Detroit, township financial consultant.

Hettiger noted that state law could force a homeowner's use of sanitary sewer facilities. He said a 12-month limit, once such service comes within 200 feet of the house or business, seems likely

As now planned, home owners would pay for sewer service a $350 capital charge, a $1,150 lateral benefit fee and a $15 inspection charge plus the cost of connecting the service from the property line to the home.

Engineer Don Keylon of Johnson and Anderson Engineers said the latter cost could be estimated at $7 a foot for sewer tie-in and $3 to $5 a foot for water tie-in.

WATER SERVICE CHARGES

For water service, estimated charges include a $350 capital charge, a $900 lateral benefit fee, and about a $200 connection fee.

Hettiger explained that the capital charges take care of expenses involved in the over-all water system and in meeting the obligation on the annual Clinton-Oakland payments.

★ ★ ★

He said the lateral benefit charge was payment for that part of the lines of direct use to the landholder. It could be equated with a special assessment charge.

Under present plans, a property owner pays for the use he expects to receive rather than for how much property he owns, said Hettiger.

A method to allow payment on an installment basis by owners of existing homes has been promised by the Township Board, though no plans were revealed.

When new homes are being built by a developer, the developer is expected to build the lateral sewer system thereby avoiding payment of a lateral benefit charge, but he is expected to pay the capital charges at the time of obtaining a connection permit.

Township regulations also provide that in any new subdivisions over a certain size that the developer provide a water system.

Thre are currently nine miles of existing water lines in the township, but there are no sanitary sewer lines.

NO ORDINANCES

For commercial and apartment usage, hookups to the services are suggested on a per-unit cost, with industrial costs based on individual inspection.

Hettiger, stressed, however, that no ordinance has yet been adopted, that it is only recommendations which are being considered.

The suggested sewer and water rates combined would equal about $100 a year for an average home. Hettiger said. He noted that the base sewer rate is $3.75 a quarter plus 25 cents per 100 cubic feet of effluent.

Suggested water rates show an increase from the present $4.50 a quarter to $6.50 plus 30 cents for each 1,500 cubic feet above a 1,500 cubic foot minimum. Hettiger noted that the township is currently subsidizing the township water system in that no charge is being made to the system for clerical work.

The Township Board was expected to assimilate information presented at the informational meeting last night and another at 7 tonight before taking any action on the plans or ordinance.

$4.6-Million School Bond Vote Okayed

A 50-member citizens committee to campaign for the $4.6-million bond issue and 9-mill tax renewal to be voted on June 10 was organized last night.

Cochairmen are Blair Brewster of 6515 Tamerlane, West Bloomfield Township an auto company executive, and Thomas Itin of 4831 Old Orchard Trail, Orchard Lake, who is in the finance business.

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — After its third plea, the Board of Education here has won approval to put a request for a $4.6-million bond issue on the June 10 ballot.

The request will go to voters as $4 million for construction of a new high school and $600,000 for construction of a swimming pool in that school.

★ ★ ★

If voters approve the bond issue, the sale of the bonds must then be approved by the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission.

The local board after rehearings received its recent approval — or prequalification — of the bonds from Ira Polley, the state superintendent of public instruction.

REVERSED DECISIONS

He reversed two decisions by the state Board of Education made in March and April, said West Bloomfield Schools Superintendent Leif Hougen.

★ ★ ★

Pending an okay from district residents, the bond issue means the new high school can be constructed all at once. Otherwise, the project would have had to be done in two phases, with the second phase to begin in a year or two.

★ ★ ★

The district would have to pay an estimated $550,000 to $1 million more to build in two phases, according to architects Linn Smith Demiene and Adams of Birmingham.

"This would be an inexcusable waste of taxpayers' money," said West Bloomfield Board President Leonard Grossman.

FIRST PHASE

Financing the first phase is $4 million left from the $7-million bond issue approved in 1965.

The school is planned for 56 acres across from the township hall on Orchard Lake Road and is expected to be done by September 1970.

★ ★ ★

Grossman and board members Jack Shuler and Don Somers appeared at the rehearings before the state board in April and early this month.

The local school board members objected to the two reasons the state board gave for their refusal:

★ ★ ★

That the bond issue would give the district a high ratio of debt to assessed valuation and that it would become a serious burden when the district would have to provide more elementary space.

OTHERS APPROVED

The board was told further that bond approval had been granted to at least six other districts having debt ratios about the same or higher than West Bloomfield's would be, said Grossman.

The delegation also brought out that the district's debt would drop rapidly because of the fast growth of the district, which raises assessed valuation.

The committee further showed that the new high school plus existing schools will handle space needs in all grades through 1973.

Grossman also said the delegation contended that:

- The first phase of the high school would only accommodate 915 of the projected 1,040 enrollment this fall.
- Construction in two phases would be "chaotic for teachers and students" due to noise and rooms whose walls must be torn down for the addition.
- The added cost of a two-phase project.

"The board is confident that the proposal will pass if the voters fully understand it because the high school facilities will be desperately needed to house the students we shall have by 1970," said the board president.

Walled Lake Plans 4-Mill Tax Boost

WALLED LAKE — It will take four more mills to run this city without a budget deficit next year, according to city officials.

Final approval of the additional property tax levy came with the adoption of the 1968-69 budget of $344,967 by city council last night.

The total tax now is 14.5 mills. Council can levy up to 20 mills without a vote of the people.

The tax levy was questioned several times by three of the 12 residents attending the public hearing on the budget last night.

MAYOR EXPLAINS

Mayor Wendel G. Kellogg Jr., who did most of the official talking on the budget, explained that inflation affecting city operation costs takes up one mill of the hike while retirement of $30,000 worth of tax anticipation notes takes the other three.

Each mill should provide about $11,770.

★ ★ ★

Other budget questions concerned the capital improvement program, a lower budget for the library, getting a better tax base, and the condition of city roads.

Council increased department of public works employes' salaries and established holiday pay for the fire and police departments before adopting the budget.

OTHER FUNDS

The budget lists $18,000 for street improvements, and carries a total contingency fund of $12,627.

This year's budget is up about $82,000 from last year. Expenditures are increased mostly because of salary hikes: manager up $500 to $9,600; police chief, up $700 to $9,100; superintendent of public works, up $300 to $7,800; clerk-treasurer up $500 to $7,600; other employes received increases of about $1,000 each.

★ ★ ★

In other action last night, council adopted an ordinance setting up financing of the citywide water system. After June 1, 1969, a tap-in fee of up to $600 will be charged.

The ordinance is effective July 1, raising the water bills of current customers from five to ten per cent after Sept. 1

Tax Hike OK'd in Lake Orion

LAKE ORION — A 3.5-mill hike from last year's 11.5-mill levy in village taxes has been approved by council following a public hearing on the new village budget.

A levy of 15 mills is expected to raise $291,716. Expenditures are figured at $288,470, according to Village Manager John Reinecr. Council can levy 20 mills without submitting the matter to the voters.

The increase in spending is attributed to a salary increase for village employes — negotiations for which are now in progress — and a $16,000 increase in garbage collection.

It also includes the payment of two old bills, one to A & A Asphalt Paving Co. in the amount of $4,500 for street paving, and $8,000 as partial payment of the $44,000 fee due Hubbel, Roth & Clark Engineers for now obsolete plans on a sewage disposal system.

WATER RATES

The council noted that water rates will increase $1 a quarter beginning in July.

The sale of $1 family tickets to permit park usage by residents was discussed by the council. No action was taken.

An urban planning assistance grant application has been made to the federal government, according to Bruno Leon & Associates, Detroit, village planners. No specific sum was asked.

Board Names Sewer Planners

OAKLAND TOWNSHIP — The township board has named Giffels-Webster Engineers Inc., 2731 N. Adams, Avon Township, to draw preliminary plans for an internal lateral sewage system.

The action was taken in connection with recently announced plans by the Oakland County Department of Public Works to build a Paint Creek Arm north of Rochester from the projected Clinton-Oakland Sewer Interceptor.

★ ★ ★

The board last night noted more than 30 grass fires in the township in the last two months and that half the $10,000 annual fire budget had been used fighting them.

A fire control ordinance providing penalties for careless burning of trash was discussed.

★ ★ ★

People were present to question alleged County Road Commission plans for an expressway running west through the township from Stoney Creek Park. They were told that while there are such plans, they are for far in the future and nothing about them is certain.

Steak Dinner Tomorrow

Avondale Junior High School PTA will sponsor a steak dinner from 6 to 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the school.

Wolverine Lake Budget Higher

WOLVERINE LAKE—A tentative budget of $194,562 has been presented to village council.

A public hearing is set for June 10 at 8 p.m. The budget goes into effect July 1.

The proposal is up from 1967-68 by $41,032.

It provides the following salary increases: village administrator, up $500 to $10,500; clerk, up $600 to $5,850; treasurer, up $640 to $5,040, and police chief, up about $1,200 including benefits.

5TH POLICEMAN

Other allocations include $5,800 for a fifth full-time policeman and $115 per month for a life insurance and weekly indemnity program for village employes.

Road funds are to be $19,728 for local roads, (last year, $18,420) and $21,250 for major roads (last year, $16,600). Income from gas and weight taxes cover most of these increases.

★ ★ ★

Revenue increases are due largely to a state income tax rebate of about $6,000 said village administrator Clifford Cottrell.

Taxes will remain the same, 8.5 mills, according to the proposed budget.

BILLING SYSTEM

Cottrell reported he is studying a new water billing system calling for a quarterly flat charge of $5 plus 16 cents per gallon used. Present fee is $6 minimum for 16,000 gallons.

Student at Brother Rice

Teen Earns Pilot's License

BIRMINGHAM — Many youngsters entertain thoughts of becoming an airplane pilot, and some even go on to realize their dreams, through the years of preparation necessary.

One local high-school senior has a jump on most others his age, however, he already has his private pilot's license.

He is Tom Graetz, a student at Brother Rice High School. Graetz received his license recently, after passing a rigorous three-hour flight test with a federal examiner.

The licensing tests also included a Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) written examination and oral examination on such subjects as airplane operation and performance, navigation, radio communication, FAA rules and regulations, and interpretation of weather reports and meteorological information.

FLYING FOR YEAR

Graetz of Beverly Hills has been flying for about one year, according to his instructor, Andrew Komorny of Westland, who commented, "It is very rare to see a high school boy receive his private pilot's license while still in school."

The 17-year-old youth is now enrolled in advanced training for his commercial license at the Plymouth Aero Flying School at Mettatal Airport in Plymouth.

LICENSED PILOT — Tom Graetz, 17, stands before his Cessna 172. The Birmingham Brother Rice High School senior recently received his private pilot's license.

Avondale Millage Vote Topic of PTA Meeting

Stone School PTA will hear representatives of the Avondale School Citizens' Committee discuss the June 10 7.7-mill vote at the 8 p.m. meeting tomorrow at the school, 3941 S. Adams, Avon Township.

Committee chairman Sam Sheehy, Robert Lodewyks and Ralph Hurley will answer questions about the millage issue. New PTA officers will be installed for the coming year and a ballet recital directed by Mrs. Robin Slack will be presented.

Highland WHAR Unit Names New Chairman

HIGHLAND TOWNSHIP — Jerold Oaks, 5541 Hickory Ridge, was named to replace John Naimish as the chairman of the Highland Chapter of WHAR (Why Have Awful Roads). Naimish resigned due to business commitments.

The group's membership drive will continue at its next meeting May 23 at 8 p.m. at the Township Hall.

Township Split on Paving Plan

By TOM GRAY

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — To pave or not to pave?

Many of the customary arguments both for and against were advanced at a meeting of the township board earlier this week, as about 70 citizens turned out to discuss the proposed improvement of Walnut Lake Road between Franklin and Inkster.

An informal show of hands during the meeting found sentiments divided almost evenly between residents living directly adjacent to the road, with nearly all those not living next to the road in favor of its paving.

Opponents of the proposed improvement, which would be financed by matching Oakland County Road Commission and Township funds, cited increased traffic, higher traffic speeds, and loss of shade trees as the primary drawbacks.

'CONSERVATIVE ESTIMATE'

One resident, Ted Chapekis, 4724 Walnut Lake, claimed that as a "conservative" estimate, approximately 300 trees would have to be removed.

Cahpekis also expressed concern about high-speed traffic, commenting, "We already see cars going 40-45 miles an hour through there. The paving will make people who would normally turn on Inkster go on down."

★ ★ ★

Kenneth Lang, 4755 Walnut Lake, took a different view: "The road can't tolerate present traffic speed. I think with the improvement and better design it would be safer regardless of the speed limit."

Township board members generally expressed approval of the proposal, though no formal action was taken.

DANGER CITED

Supervisor Homer Case asserted that "it has not been our experience that roads are more unsafe when improved." He pointed out the danger of a road cut through high ground for a child walking on the road.

Adding that "it is certainly not the board's disposition to improve this road if the residents don't want an improvement," Case said the primary concern must be safety.

★ ★ ★

Trustee Robert A. Reid, commenting on citizens' worries about the speed limit, observed that traffic control is the responsibility of the police department, not the road commission.

Students' 'Siege' Gets Short Shrift

In the wake of forthright action by the president of Columbia University in calling in police to clear the academic halls of a bloc of insurrectionist students, another university administrator has lined up on the side of firmness in dealing with outbreaks of student strong-arm tactics.

He is Chancellor MAURICE B. MITCHELL of the University of Denver who promptly expelled 40 students who had taken over the school's administration building and subsequently had them arrested when they refused to vacate the premises.

★ ★ ★

The chancellor well epitomized a pro and con press conference dialogue related to his action with the firm declaration: "We will not be run by threats."

During the news media session, MITCHELL indicated his willingness to meet with student groups for orderly discussion of issues of grievances. But he expressed the conviction that eventual breakdown of our system of higher education could result from permitting a minute but militant segment of a student body to disrupt the educational process of an entire university.

To this sentiment we add a fervent "Amen," while commending the chancellor on his realistic attitude in dealing with an increasingly grave phenomenon erupting on university campuses.

Airmail Posts Its Fiftieth Anniversary

Those wild heroes of pioneer airmail routes are again reviving memories of their derring-do. Today the Post Office will issue a new 10-cent stamp honoring 50 years of continuous airmail flying.

May 15 was the date in 1918 when, on the Potomac Park Polo Grounds before President WILSON and other dignitaries, a young pilot flew off in the wrong direction. The mission quickly came to an end in a Maryland cow pasture. Pilot-lieutenant GEORGE L. BOYLE landed his flimsy biplane upside down but he emerged unscathed.

In keeping with postal tradition, the mail had to go through. So the next day Boyle's bag of mail was placed aboard another Army plane and carried safely to the Belmont Park Race Track on Long Island, the original destination. Thus Washington-New York airmail service was established on a regularly scheduled basis. It was extended to Chicago in 1919 and to the Pacific Coast the following year.

BILL HACKBARTH, a 67-year-old survivor of early-day mail flying, has set out in a salvaged biplane to retrace the original transcontinental route. To make sure HACKBARTH reaches Washington in time for May 15 ceremonies, a companion is following in a pickup truck carrying a spare World War I-vintage Liberty engine.

Dominican Election Seen Straw Vote in Wind

The vote in the Dominican Republic for municipal offices—mayor for the most part—on May 16, inevitably will be taken as an indication of support for President JOAQUIN BELAGUER. The measure will be a dubious one at best, for Dr. BELAGUER is resolutely keeping his hands off the elections. Some of his followers would have liked to see the President make the voting a kind of plebiscite to approve his regime.

These will be the first elections since 1966, when Dr. BELAGUER was named President. The former President under TRUJILLO has cashed in on the residual TRUJILLO charisma and has shown more strength than people believed he would two years ago.

★ ★ ★

Juan Bosch, the former President in whose name the April 1965 revolt was carried out, is in self-imposed exile in Spain. His Dominican Revolutionary Party will not participate in the vote in the cities.

Col. FRANCISCO CAAMANO DENO, who has disappeared from the diplomatic post in London to which he was exiled, is thought to have gone to Cuba. CAAMANO led the BOSCH forces in 1965.

The extreme rightist, Gen. ELIAS WESSIN Y WESSIN, nominally a delegate to the United States, spends most of his time in Miami trying to form a political front for a return to the island republic.

BELAGUER'S Reformist Party is expected to do well tomorrow. The Social Christians, however, are claiming in advance victory in the capital of Santo Domingo and in nine other municipalities.

The United States interest is immediate. From April 1965 to the present, we have given the Dominican Republic nearly $230 million in direct grants and loans.

Bobby Demonstrates Vote Power

News Analysis

By JACK BELL
AP Political Writer

OMAHA, Neb. — The appeal to voters of the Kennedy name — and a drawing account on the millions behind it—have helped speed Sen. Robert F. Kennedy further along the road toward the Democratic presidential nomination.

The Kennedy organization sideswiped Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., in Nebraska's primary yesterday, sending the first-out opponent of President Johnson's policies bumping to the brink of disaster

★ ★ ★

McCarthy's casual acceptance of the short end of a 53-31 percentage of the Democartic vote did little to support his optimistic post-balloting prediction that he will run even with Kennedy in the May 28 Oregon primary and may win the June 4 California test.

The truth of the matter, as most politicians see it, is that McCarthy is now a poor third in the Democratic race. It would take a brace of victories to boost him back into a top running position.

Kennedy said as much by naming Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey as his chief target in future campaigning and inviting McCarthy to join him in combating Humphrey as the apostle of what Kennedy calls the Johnson administration's unsatisfactory policies.

Kennedy demonstrated in just about every category of Nebraska voter-city dwellers, farm voters, blue collar workers, Negroes and ethnic groups — the immense appeal he can project.

★ ★ ★

But his victory was not left to chance. It was wrapped up and delivered in an intensive and expensive campaign that followed the pattern he laid down in Indiana.

The Kennedys simply smothered McCarthy. Those who hoped that Johnson, with his name on the ballot despite his withdrawal, and a Humphrey write-in would deny Kennedy the majority he couldn't get a week earlier also were losers.

ADVANCE MEN

The Kennedys are nothing if not thorough.

The New York senator has as many as 26 advance men available to fan out over a primary state. They make the arrangements for the candidate's appearances, fit them in a time scheduled, arrange for cars, buses and even trains.

★ ★ ★

They scour the towns and cities for supporters willing to turn out for rallies.

They talk school officials into letting students out of classes to provide an automatic cheering section. They distribute bunting, banners, placards, streamers and buttons.

HARVEST DOUBTFUL

Whether this sort of campaigning in the smaller towns and street and prak rallies in the cities really harvests any substantial vote support is considered doubtful even by the candidates themselves.

McCarthy, who depends primarily on volunteers and who is lucky to be able to field three or four advance men in any primary state, discounts its value

★ ★ ★

He roams around, seemingly haphazardly, talking quietly about issues such as Vietnam that have lost their zing since the Paris peace talks.

There are, in fact, no real issues between Kennedy and McCarthy. They are hard put to whip up much of an argument with Humphrey, whose record of supporting social change parallels their own.

Setting His Own Handicap!

David Lawrence Says:

Armistice Issue Is Up in the Air

WASHINGTON — Will the Vietnam war end before the presidential election is held in the United States? Will many of the troops then come home this year?

LAWRENCE

If no peace agreement is made, will there at least be an armistice and a cessation of the fighting while the negotiations are prolonged beyond November?

Curiously enough, neither side has the answer to any of these questions at this time.

★ ★ ★

The problem is complicated by the belief prevailing in Hanoi that the Democratic administration here is so anxious for peace that it will make almost any concession in order to get a pledge that the fighting will cease immediately while details are left to subsequent parleys.

The peace negotiations at the Paris conference will not be successful unless an overall plan of settlement can be formulated.

Undoubtedly some neutral governments in the world will play a part behind the scenes in suggesting various ways of achieving peace.

SEE AN ADVANTAGE

The North Vietnamese see an advantage in withholding any aporoval of an armistice until they have won some important concessions.

What the Hanoi government wants is a formula that will permit it to take over South Vietnam. This will not be forthrightly asserted, and probably promises will be made that North Vietnam will respect the independence of South Vietnam.

★ ★ ★

The real difficulty is that Communist elements are inside South Vietnam. The government in Saigon is fearful that it will lose out if the American troops go home.

North Vietnam's promises and pledges might be disregarded, and it is heard in South Vietnam that America would not promptly send its troops back to Vietnam.

NOT LIKELY

This is why the United States is not likely to withdraw its troops until some international apparatus has been agreed upon to assure the fulfillment of the terms of the agreement.

Many people who have been reading about the negotiations in Paris are assuming that it may be feasible to end the war before the American elections. But a halt of the fighting could be brought about only if both sides are willing, and the United States would not risk a big reduction of its forces until some practical plan for enforcing the peace agreement is developed.

★ ★ ★

It would appear, therefore that no substantial number of American troops is likely to be pulled out of Vietnam for another year or more.

Bob Considine Says:

Super Spy Allen Dulles Jolted by Chat With K

NEW YORK — People . . . places . . .

CONSIDINE

★ ★ ★

It goes without saying that the central reason for the Central Intelligence Agency was, and is, the Soviet Union.

Khrushchev was in Washington in 1959 as the guest of President Eisenhower. The Spirit of Camp David was thick enough to cut. At a reception for Khrushchev which Dulles attended, Vice President Nixon asked the CIA chief if the had had an opportunity to chat with the guest of honor.

GETS INTRODUCTION

"Only to say hello in the reception line," Dulles said. Nixon promptly took a firm hold on his arm and led him through the crowd that had gathered around Khrushchev.

He introduced Dulles specifically as the chief of our super-secret intelligence agents. It was as if he was getting even with Khrushchev for all the biting things the Russian had said to him during the famed kitchen debate in Moscow, the year before.

★ ★ ★

"Dulles?" Khrushchev asked through his interpreter, momentarily puzzled. Then his face lighted up like the face in a full moon.

"Of course I know you," he boomed. "I read all of your reports!"

"That would shake a fellow," I said to Dulles the other day. "What did you say to that?"

He puffed his venerable corncob pipe a moment. Then spoke:

"I said to him, 'I hope you come by them honorably'."

★ ★ ★

Khrushchev burst out laughing, told Dulles that in his opinion most of the U.S. and Soviet Union spies were double agents, and mockingly suggested that they fire all of them and simply exchange secrets back and forth. "It would save a lot of money," Khrushchev said.

(Sometime I miss that bum.)

'Officers Appreciated Trophy Shoot Program'

It was a pleasure to be a part of The Press Police Trophy Shoot program and I am sure all officers who participated feel the same way. The men of our department have long ago realized that any kind of competitive activity fits in naturally with a strong firearms training program. Competition adds spice and incentive to training.

VILLELLA

★ ★ ★

Shooting tournaments are not usually held for the sake of competition alone. They are actually an extension of training and a strong motivating factor in firearms training. The added pressures of competition and the "nerves" associated with it, are more likely to disturb the poise of the officer and in this manner somewhat stimulate the conditions of combat more so than the relaxed atmosphere of regular training or even qualification shooting.

★ ★ ★

The police department members and all citizens will benefit from this program that you have made possible. On behalf of the officers and men of the Pontiac Police Department and the men of the other departments involved, I extend our heartfelt appreciation.

Tells Interesting Aspects of 'Poor' March

One interesting aspect of the poor people's march will be the mass presence of poor whites who have decided that the difference between the races is not so important as the difference between the classes. It seems that poor whites are finally learning that being able to kick a black man with impunity is not sufficient evidence of superiority. They are still proud of the color that makes them different from the black man, but they are also aware of the circumstances that make them similar. I believe that America must now make a choice between social justice coming from the top, or social upheaval coming from the bottom.

Lawlessness

Chicago Tribune

What next at the nation's universities, now that lawless behavior has brought Northwestern to its knees?

At Princeton, where the radical Students for a Democratic Society demonstrated, there were reports that a student group may soon attempt to seize university buildings. Gov. Richard A. Hughes of New Jersey warned that such lawlessness would not be tolerated "for as much as an hour" on the campuses of his state.

"I would exert all my influence, and we'll remove those people in New Jersey," he said. "Nobody can tell what these students want. Their demands are vague, and they only seem to be challenging society.

"If society wants to stay alive, it's got to stand up and take control. This is a great country and it's just inconceivable to me that it should be panicked and demoralized by these threats, considering their sources and dimensions."

This is sound, sensible advice. If the same principles had been heeded by the Northwestern university officials they would not be facing the danger of further blackmail whenever a student group is dissatisfied.

★ ★ ★

Gov. Hughes recognizes the need to act quickly if a building is occupied by an insurgent group. Columbia University dilly-dallied for a week before calling the police. The process of clearing five buildings then resulted in 696 arrests and 109 injuries. Police reported that they had to use force because the rebels fought them with a barrage of missiles and bit, punched, and kicked them.

★ ★ ★

Northwestern University administrators had this example before them when the old administration building was invaded by a black power group. Instead of ousting the trespassers, the administrators were panicked and demoralized. Gov. Hughes of New Jersey evidently was talking about them when he vowed that the same thing would not be permitted to happen in his state.

★ ★ ★

We are told that many university officials throughout the country are in a state of panic over anything that might involve racial politics. The universities now look to Washington for a large part of their budgets. Huge appropriations are available for buildings and research projects.

★ ★ ★

A firm, realistic policy in dealing with black power groups might offend the bureaucrats who dispense tax dollars from the federal treasury. The bureaucrats represent an administration that wants the favor of Negro voters.

President George C. S. Benson of Claremont Men's College in California once pointed out that "any national grant is a camel's nose in education's tent. Both history and folklore suggest that the camel will eventually take over."

Who is now really running Northwestern, Columbia, and all the other universities?

Prescription

The Cincinnati Enquirer

Nothing demonstrates the degree to which the Student Non-violent Coordinating committee has strayed from whatever non-violent commitment it ever had than an open letter from James Forman, longtime S. N. C. C. executive, in New Left Notes, the official organ of the equally misnamed Students for a Democratic Society.

Mr. Forman devotes his letter to instructing his followers on how to react if he is assassinated: "Ten war factories destroyed; 15 police stations blown up; 30 power plants demolished; no flowers; one southern governor, two mayors and 500 racist white cops dead; a generous sustaining contribution to S. N. C. C."

One shudders to think of Mr. Forman's prescription if his organization believed in violence.

S. Africa Developing Commando Units for Antiterrorist Defense

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The old-style commando is making a comeback in South Africa.

Old lessons remembered from the Boer War of 1899-1902 and new ones learned from the fighting in Vietnam and Rhodesia are behind the revival.

★ ★ ★

This white-ruled nation envisages tough, mobile commando units as an effective defense against the threat of terrorist infiltration.

Units bearing the commando label have been a major part of the army for years, many as local reserves. Now the emphasis in their training is shifting to preparation for irregular and guerrilla combat.

INCREASING NUMBERS

A new command school is planned in Bloemfontein. Defense Minister Pieter W. Botha, who announced the school six months ago, said its 36 officers and 200 instructors would be capable of training 1,200 men at a time.

Black "freedom fighters" are sneaking south into Rhodesia in increasing numbers. South African forces already are in Rhodesia helping crush infiltrators before they can move further south across the Limpopo River into this country.

Military training is compulsory in both countries.

South Africa has announced that air raid warning sirens are to be installed in all cities. An early warning radar screen is being extended.

This country aims to become as self-sufficient as possible in weapons making. Botha announced recently that napalm bombs have been made from local raw materials.

Promising "even more dangerous surprises for our enemies," Botha told the Senate in Cape Town that a new night sight for infantry rifles and two new types of shrapnel mines are under development.

★ ★ ★

Britain was South Africa's main source of warships, guns and planes until the United Nations called for an arms embargo to protest this country's racial segregation policies.

The British ban irritates South Africa, but it has found alternate local and foreign sources for most arms.

WELL TRAINED

The 17,000-plus armed forces are well trained and equipped.

The navy has a fleet of antisubmarine frigates and coastal patrol boats. It will soon take delivery of three new French-built Daphne submarines.

The air arm uses Mirage jets, C130 Hercules transports, Alouette helicopters and other aircraft. A new factory near Johannesburg is building jet trainers.

Small arms for the ground forces are all made in South Africa now. Armored units are equipped with Panhard armored cars and tanks of British design.

In short this country has by far the most powerful and efficent military force in Africa, but experience with infiltrators in Rhodesia and observation of the predicament of U.S. forces against Vietcong guerrillas in Vietnam have convinced South Africa that conventional arms are not enough.

Missile Man Spins a Yarn

Gary Paulsen's collection of guffaws and giggles opens with a anecdote about an Ajax Mike missile that was supposed to hit a drone plane in a practice shot, but hit a buzzard instead.

★ ★ ★

Why? Because the buzzard had just been tagged by a game warden and was wearing an aluminum disc — and the radar aiming mechanism locked in on the disc.

★ ★ ★

Some Birds Don't Fly, By Gary Paulsen

tracking stations that the author observed as a technician for several years, both in and out of uniform.

★ ★ ★

There are yarns about missiles that misfire, go the wrong way or can't be destroyed in flight; about an important test launching in California that was held up because a band of hoboes from a nearby freight train got into the field of fire; about mice that drove everyone crazy by chewing up wires, until some genius gave them lemon peel to chew on instead.

★ ★ ★

There was also the computer specialist who didn't want to be cross-trained in another skill, and got back at the boss very neatly; an odd bit of personal conversation that floated into a communications network, and an incident in which the author was scared purple tracking down a UFO.

Paulsen seems to be the sort of natural born comedian who finds hilarity wherever he may be. His description of a sojourn among the guys who wear the headsets and push the buttons is full of fun.

Humphrey Campaigns in Detroit Negro Area

DETROIT (AP) — Citing the techniques of foreign aid, Vice President Hubert Humphrey campaign courted Michigan delegates Tuesday by making swing into a Negro area and calling for his first term, low interest rate loans for the poor.

AP Wirephoto

HONORED FOR VALOR — President Johnson presented the nation's highest award, the Medal of Honor, to four veterans of the Vietnam war in ceremonies yesterday at the Pentagon in Washington. The men, one from each service, are (from left): Air Force Capt. Gerald O. Young, Anacortes, Wash.; Navy Boatswain's Mate 1.C. James E. Williams, Darlington, S.C.; Marine Sgt. Richard A. Pittman, Stockton, Calif.; and Army Spec. 5 Charles C. Hagemeister, Lincoln, Neb. Those in background are not identified. The President spoke at ceremonies dedicating a Hall of Heroes at the Pentagon.

We should "apply the techniques in ghettos and slums that we do in our foreign aid program," Humphrey told about 400 members of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church on Detroit's west side.

If it works in Ghana, Kenya and Liberia, he added "why can't we do the same thing in the cities of America?"

Humphrey's trip — his first visit to Michigan since announcing his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination — was marked by the announcement of a Michigan United Democrats for Humphrey Committee.

In stopovers at Lansing and Detroit Humphrey addressed the Republican-controlled legislature met privately with party officials and conducted a question-answer session with county precinct delegates.

First Yule Card

The world's first known Christmas card was designed in 1843 by John Calcott Horsley, painter and illustrator for Sir Henry Cole. Cole was inaugurator and first director of the Victoria and Albert Museum in London.

Speaking before about 700 Negroes, Humphrey called for white businessmen to accept black partners.

"Equal employment opportunity means the right to match wits on your own as a proprietor," he said. "It means the right to ownership as well as work.

"I'll bet there are white businessmen of good will and good sense who — if we would go to them and find them — would welcome a new partner right now from their own neighborhood, a partner perhaps staked to his share with capital loaned at low, subsidized rates," he told the group.

Recommendations made by the riot commission, the vice president said, should be implemented to maintain the "economic and social health of this country."

Threat of Red Strife Still Exists in Hong Kong

HONG KONG (AP)—Hong Kong's year-long Communist confrontation has cooled from white heat to a low boil but threats of a flare-up still are present.

AP Wirephoto

RED AGITATION — A young Chinese, wearing a Red Guard-type uniform, is shown with book in hand as he exhorts others to follow him in Communist-led demonstrations in Hong Kong's Kowloon area. Hong Kong's year-long Communist confrontation has cooled but threats of a flare-up still are present.

Only last month Communist-led unions demanded wholesale reinstatement of thousands of key industry laborers fired during the bloody violence that ripped through this British colony in 1967.

★ ★ ★

The eruption of just a year ago, which left 50 dead, hundreds wounded and thousands in prison, tapered off toward the end of last year but there remain pieces of fuse for a bomb that the colony's non-Communists would rather believe defused. The Communists hold the match.

By their own standards there is more today for Chairman Mao Tse-tung's supporters to agitate against in Hong Kong than there was a year ago when the violent face of China's Cultural Revolution showed itself here.

MANY JOBLESS

Ten thousand workers from transport, utility and even government jobs who abandoned their employers last summer, heeding the Communist call to a general strike, still are out of work. Hundreds of political prisoners still languish in colonial jails.

Devaluation of the pound sterling last November added kindling to the growing pile that could make an anti-British fire flare up at any time. For in Hong Kong, three hectic days following devaluation of the pound saw the sterling-backed Hong Kong dollar devalued by 14 per cent and revalued upward 10 per cent.

★ ★ ★

Hitherto placid Hong Kong police, largely unarmed before last year's outbreak, but hastily armed to the hilt when their lives were threatened, have not relinquished their guns.

The Hong Kong government today holds two cards in its favor. Just as the Cultural Revolution in China has taken on a tone of some relative moderation, so does the local Communist hierarchy seem wiling to act with some restraint.

TERROR FAILS

Seaondly, the Communist campaign of terror was largely unsuccessful. More than 8,000 real and false bombs planted in the colony last year did more to alienate the general Chinese population than it did to gain supporters for Chairman Mao.

British-controlled industry made larger profits in 1967 than the year before.

★ ★ ★

Chinese Communist business was hurt. Communist stores were boycotted. Imports to the colony from China fell sharply.

The Communists had thrown themselves into an unrestrained effort to bring the British to heel in Hong Kong just as they had forced the Portuguese to do in Macao months earlied.

★ ★ ★

In the middle of May, thousands of slogan-chanting Maoists rioted on both sides of the colony's harbor.

FIRST DROP OF BLOOD

With the first drop of Chinese blood there came the beginning of a torrent of violence and hatred that left innocent persons dead and dozens seriously wounded.

Hong Kong imposed curfews on the island and the government quickly enacted emergency legislation that made illegal virtually every tactic of the Communists.

★ ★ ★

Police raided dozens of suspected Communist strongholds and uncovered arsenals of crude homemade weapons. In a desperate move to reprive the Communists of all possible ingredients for their bombs, the British outlawed fireworks and strictly controlled the distribution of industrial explosives.

★ ★ ★

As the Communist campaign lost its momentum toward the end of the year it appeared they had lost the battle. The colony moved back to normal but the government made it obvious that they fully expected another battle and planned to be ready for it.

★ ★ ★

The police are fully armed with revolvers, shotguns and machine guns. The emergency ordinances that permit the Hong Kong government to hold anyone, without even charging him, for an indefinite period still are in effect.

Pontiac Area Coed Flies Her Way to 1st Place Trophy

By ED BLUNDEN

You can call her Smilin' Pat, the flying coed of Oakland-Pontiac Airport. She's a winner.

Flying in the 20th annual intercollegiate meet in Athens, Ohio, last week, Patricia (Pat) Cleary, 20, of 4000 Sleepy Hollow, Pontiac Township, won a trophy as the top woman pilot.

* * *

The University of Dayton senior was competing in a meet at Ohio University with 35 schools and 300 collegiate pilots. Flying skill, not speed, was judged.

Pat has been flying for two years. She said she became interested because of the fine aircraft club and flying school at Dayton U.

AIRPORT JOB

She is working at a summer job clerking for the Northern Flying Service at Oakland-Pontiac Airport. She can be found behind the counter at the terminal.

Pat now is working for her commercial and instructor's licenses.

* * *

Her head is not entirely in the clouds, although Pat is building knowledge and experience for a future career in aviation.

She is studying psychology and science. With her flying experience she hopes to work in a field related to supplying airplanes and equipment. She graduates next spring.

Pat is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cleary. He is division operating manager for the Mobil Oil Co.

Pat and her parents take modern-day trips to grandmother's house with Pat flying a rented plane. Grandmother lives near Rockford, Ill.

Pat says her experience with Northern Flying Service will be valuable to her and her future career in flying.

* * *

Cub Scouts taking part in the Show-O-Ree will show off rope making, whittling, pipe cleaner craft and other activities. The Boy Scouts and Explorers will camp at the park all weekend.

A special Golden Anniversary patch will be available.

* * *

Scouts in the district are selling tickets for 50 cents a piece for adults; children under 12 will be admitted free.

Luxembourg Military Cuts Felt Little

LUXEMBOURG (AP) — One of America's European allies has caused mild consternation in Washington by deciding that the threat from the Soviet Union has eased — and by taking direct action to suit.

Luxembourg has done away with conscription, it general staff and virtually all its artillery, cut the armed forces by two-thirds and slashed its military spending to a minimum.

★ ★ ★

"The Iron Curtain is going up," explained Gustave Kass, counselor to Defense Minister Pierre Gregoire, in an interview.

The consternation in the Atlantic alliance was mild because the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg, with a population of 340,000 and an area smaller than Rhode Island, has never had more than 2,200 men in its armed forced. Still, it seemed that Luxembourg has a serious military tradition. Grand Duke Jean, now on the throne, fought with the British army in World War II. His country was a founding member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Its red, white and navy blue flag flies with those of the other allies in front of the NATO building in Brussels and of the top military headquarters at Casteau.

BAD BOY

Gregoire told the Luzembourg Chamber of Deputies recently: "In case of peril our army — reinforced by reserves if necessary — must be able to contribute to the defense of our territory in cooperation with our neighbors, thus affirming our will to defense and independence."

Luxembourg has long been a bad boy in NATO, but because it was such a small bad boy it got little publicity. Although one of the most prosperous member countries it devoted less than .8 of 1 per cent of its national income to its armed forces. Other members average 4 to 5 per cent, and the United States doubles that. This year Luxembourg will spend only .6 of 1 per cent.

If the United States devoted as few of its young men and as little of its wealth to defense, it would have an army of only 300,000 men and taxpayers would rejoice in a military budget of less than $5 billion.

When this is pointed out to Luxembourgers they tend to shrug and explain that the people want it that way. The Chamber of Deputies voted the government out of office on the conscription issue. Then, after abolishing conscription, it voted virtually the same government back in — minus Defense Minister Marcel Fischbach. He quit politics and went off to be Luxembourg's special representative in Geneva.

BACK TO TEACHING

Patricia Harris, the United States' first Negro woman ambassador, also left last September after the new military law was passed. She said she was eager to go back to her teaching job at Howard University in Washington, but many Luxembourgers think her departure was hastened by the abolition of the draft.

The Luxembourg army now will consist of 519 officers and men, not including civilian employes and the military band. The band has been kept on as an important part of the nation's musical life.

★ ★ ★

Three companies make up the army. Two are assigned to NATO's Allied Mobile Force (AMF), a new trouble-shooting group as a "reduced light infantry batallion." It will be available for maneuvers, Kass said, in "countries as close as possible to Luxembourg."

The third company is to stay at home for "territorial defense." All but one battery of artillery is being returned to the Canadians, who originally made it available. New equipment, especially transport, is being bought in the United States.

The burden of the military budget on the taxpayer is compensated to some extent by the installation in Luxembourg of the NATO Maintenance and Supply Agency—MANSA. NAMSA was put out of France by President Charles de Gualle, along with ther NATO headquarters. It brought into Luxembourg 350 well-paid employes and their families, whose spending is a boon to Luremboug's international balance of payments.

★ ★ ★

NAMSA's advent caused a slight flap in the Chamber of Deputies because one of the weapons it maintains — the Hawk missile — was thought to be nuclear. NATO says it isn't, but some deputies still wanted to know if American nuclear arms would be installed on their soil, possibly inviting Soviet attack.

★ ★ ★

MSU Graduation Poses Problem for Boy, 14

LANSING (AP) — While many college students are wondering how to stay in college until they're old enough to avoid the draft, Mike Grost faces the problem of staying in college until he's old enough for the draft.

And a job. And driving a car. And dating.

And just about everything else that a normal 14-year-old doesn't have to worry about.

★ ★ ★

Now a senior studying advanced mathematics at Michigan State University, Mike was the youngest freshman ever admitted to the school when he enrolled four years ago. He'll be 15 when he graduates in December and his immediate plans seem limited to one course — more graduate study at Michigan State.

★ ★ ★

He says he'd like to go elsewhere, but it's a problem of age.

CAN'T DRIVE

"He couldn't very well go away from home at 15, when he can't even drive a car," says his father, William Grost, holder of a master's degree in education from Michigan State and manager of a Lansing credit union.

Waiting for the draft is, according to Mike, "just like waiting for the atom bomb.

"I'm only 14 and they don't take you until 19. I've got five more years and two presidential administrations.

"The war will probably be over by then."

In October he turns 15, about the right age to start dating," he says.

BLIND DATE

"I've had one date," he adds, sticking up one finger to make the point. "It was a blind date — and it was fun."

Along this line, Mike is looking forward to the arrival this fall of Edith Stern, a 16-year-old graduate of Florida Atlantic University, who is coming to Michigan State to study and teach advanced mathematics.

★ ★ ★

"When we heard she was coming, we were really excited," he said. "It will be nice to have someone my own age to talk with about math," he added with an occasional squeak in his changing voice.

"It will be interesting," said Edith. "It will certainly be different.

3.86 AVERAGE

Mike's studies present few problems for him. He earns a 3.86-point average out of a possible four points.

But being a senior in college at 14 does affect his social life. Other than his one date and occasional "goofing off" with boys in his neighborhood, he has little social life.

"It's hard for him," says his mother, "he doesn't have much chance to meet girls his own age."

Because he's grown a foot to 5 feet 6 since he started at MSU, Mike "fits right in with the other students," his father says. "He's not so obvious."

★ ★ ★

His mother says the other MSU students accept Mike as one of them, adding, "they even tease him about not being old enough to go to parties with them."

On a per-mile traveled basis, a motorcyclist's chance of being killed are about five times greater than those of an automobile driver.

Tokyo Statue Honors Faithfulness of Dog

TOKYO (UPI)—The small bronze statue of Hachi-ko the Dog has stood for so long in the plaza of Tokyo's Shibuya railway station that the story behind it has faded into legend.

Thousands of young lovers have whispered to each other "Meet you at Hachi-ko" and have stood beneath the dog waiting impatiently for their dates.

★ ★ ★

It is fitting because Hachi-ko, too, waits for someone he loves.

Hachi-ko was a Japanese Akita dog, similar in appearance to the husky of the Arctic.

RAIN OR SHINE

He came each day to the front entrance of Shibuya station to greet his commuting master Prof. Eisaburo Ueno of Tokyo University, at 3 p.m., rain or shine.

On May 21, 1925, Ueno died. That night Hachi-ko sat among the priests and mourners beside the professor's coffin.

★ ★ ★

The next day Hachi-ko began a daily pilgrimage that would continue for 10 unbroken years and make him the symbol of faithfulness for an entire nation.

At 3 p.m. Hachi-ko would arrive at Shibuya station and take up his vigil at the passenger exit.

STUDIED EACH FACE

For an hour or so the dog would sit there, studying the faces of busy commuters for the one man he loved — the man who would never come again. Then he would leave for home.

Ten years passed and Hachi-ko kept faith every single day.

★ ★ ★

Finally one foggy morning in March of 1933 Hachi-ko the faithful dog died of old age in a street near the station.

But his vigil did not end.

★ ★ ★

The life-size bronze statue of Hachi-ko, one ear drooping, was raised atop a small granite pedestal so he could watch forever for the one face among millions.

Offensive Ads Can Be Curbed by Mail Patrons

Mail patrons offended by pandering advertisements can now take steps to curb such mail, Postmaster William W. Donaldson announced today. He spoke of plans for administering a new law which gives each family the right to decide that an ad is "erotically arousing or sexually provocative."

When an advertisement sent through the mails is offensive on these grounds, a postal patron can now ask the post office to direct the mailer to send no more mail to him. The patron can also have his name removed from all mailing lists the sender owns, controls or rents.

A pamphlet "How You Can Curb Pandering Advertisements" which explains the procedures is available at the post office.

The postal patron must ask the post office for a form letter to file his complaint. He can send this letter, the ad and its envelope — the envelope is a must — to the post office with the words "request for prohibitory order" on the face.

The offensive mail must be accompanied by a form letter and sent to the post office. The postmaster's offices requests that patrons do not give the mail to the carriers but instead send it to the postmaster's office.

★ ★ ★

Last year the post office received some 140,000 complaints from those offended by pandering advertisements.

Health insurance benefits totated $3 billion during the first half of 1967, 5 per cent higher than for the same period in 1966.

Indian Hard-Core Jobless Train for Better Life

MISSOULA, Mont. (AP) — Montana's hard-core jobless Indian has a "cry in his heart to become one of the other people." A program at the University of Montana here is giving whole families that chance.

The $850,000 federal-state project takes the families off the reservation and places them on campus for study in basic education.

★ ★ ★

With the reading, language skills and arithmetic go health and home economics for the Indian housewives, public school for their older children and nursery care for the little ones.

The project is taking place near the Bitterroot Valley, which was once the home ground of the Salish Indians. To the north lies the reservation of Kootenai and Kalispells to which the Salish were moved in 1891.

GRADUATION DAY

May 17 is graduation day for 76 heads of families from Montana's seven Indian reservations. Most of the trainees had less than a high school education and were without jobs or locked in low paying ones.

★ ★ ★

They represent 60 per cent of the total who began the 24- to 36-week program. One project leader, Dr. James Hall, calls the drop-out rate "quite minimal.

★ ★ ★

"These people were school drop-outs before they entered the program," Hall says. "I would have been happy with 40 per cent remaining in." Hall is coordinator of extension and continuing education for the university. He drew the plans and got the money for the project.

★ ★ ★

The federal agencies involved —the Bureau of Indian Affairs, the Manpower Development and Training Administration, and the Office of Economic Opportunity—consider the trainees for the most part the hard-core unemployed.

BASIC SKILLS

The project provides basic skills and prevocational orientation; the BIA then places the graduates in appropriate work, knowing the individual is ready for the higher step and has some idea of where he wants to go.

★ ★ ★

Statistically, the group in the basic education courses started with a grade-level average of 7.4 on the California Achievement Test. After 20 weeks of study, the average was 9.1. Twenty-two persons have passed tests to earn the equivalent of a high school education.

★ ★ ★

Less than one-quarter of the Indians was employed before the project. Those who held jobs earned $300-$2,500 a year.

★ ★ ★

Under the program, heads of family get $32 per week for subsistence, plus $5 for each dependent. They also get $70-$114 per month from the BIA. A family of five children gets $360 a month and pays its own rent and utilities for campus housing. They are given a BIA grant for furniture at the start.

FAMILY SUBJECTS

Those in the family life program study such subjects as birth control, preparation of budgets, and how to cook nutritious and varied menus. They make field trips to supermarkets for shopping study and to banks for training in handling checking accounts.

★ ★ ★

Among the children, preschoolers who are old enough go to Head Start programs, then return to the nursery. Toddlers and slightly older children spend the day there, but all eat with their families. School-age youngsters attend Missoula public schools.

★ ★ ★

Hall feels the program's success lies in working with the whole family. "It's with the single individual where you have the drop-out problem," he says.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Allen Pope, who directs the project, says that "for many, this is the first move away from home. "And," he goes on, "those who did drop out almost to a person would like to come back."

SOME PROBLEMS

The new environment has produced some problems, but those involving the community are said to be slight.

"The whole area of discrimination—I prefer to call it misunderstanding or plain old ignorance—has worked out so well that we often get calls to help with other Indian personnel," said Hall.

But "they socialize among themselves," says Carlene Nimlos of the family life training staff. "There is quite a breach between them and the college students. Perhaps we haven't been as successful in this area as we would have liked."

★ ★ ★

It's a varied group which will complete the work its members began last August. Ramona Couture, 39, of the Flathead Reservation wants to take up data programming. Divorced and the mother of three, she found her previous job in a luggage factory wouldn't provide adequately for her family.

★ ★ ★

Philamine Little Owl, 30, a Crow Indian, finished high school and started college. Mother of two children, she had worked as a maid, babysitter and clerk. Now she hopes to become a secretary but ultimately a kindergarten teacher.

★ ★ ★

Joe Wheeler, 33, and the father of five, was traveling 80 miles daily to attend school parttime and seldom saw his family. Now he and the children study together "and I think our family is more closely united."

Zoning Officer Will Be Able to Take Action

BY ELIZABETH L. POST

Recently I printed a letter from a reader complaining about the mess and litter in a neighbor's yard. I am happy to publish the following letter which will give her, and many others, specific suggestions on how to go about correcting such conditions in their neighborhoods.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. Post: As secretary to a building inspector and sanitarian of my town, many such complaints come over my desk and they are immediately looked into and corrected by the zoning enforcement officer or the sanitarian. This is their job. They are paid by the taxpayers to do it.

★ ★ ★

Just about every town has a housing code and zoning regulations which must be followed and every state has a health code.

★ ★ ★

The condition described by your writer presents more than a fire hazard. A serious injury may befall a child who wanders into the lot. This condition is also a hazard to health in that it is also a breeding place for vermin.

★ ★ ★

Please tell your writer to contact immediately any one of the proper officials in her town. —Mrs. E. Brown.

Adoption Choice Up to Mother

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I believe that unwed mothers should be forced by law to place their children for adoption. Unmarried mothers are emotionally disturbed, and they feel that it will add to their guilt feelings to "abandon" their children by adoption, and that will create more censure by other people. So the unmarried mother attempts to assuage her guilt feelings by becoming a "martyr" and keeping her child to raise.

ABBY

She finds out too late that the little fertilized egg is not a toy doll, but a searching, screaming, demanding, expensive little person. The young mother, because of her burdensome responsibilities and cooped-up life, is likely to make the same mistake again. This is not theory — the records speak for themselves.

While the girls of today well understand the mechanics of sex, they know less than their grandmothers did about the psychology of the male, which explains why the predatory male, who does not have access to the outlawed facilities of the red light district, is able to persuade some "nice" girl to behave like an alley cat and ruin the lives of herself and her family.

REALISTIC

DEAR "REALISTIC": Your first sweeping generalization that "all unmarried mothers are emotionally disturbed" is absurd. From the thousands of letters I have received from girls in trouble, I have concluded that very few were "persuaded" by a predatory male to behave like an "alley cat."

They are mostly nice girls who thought they were "in love" and were going to get married anyway, or girls who became too intimate, too soon with a boy who wanted too much and had too little control. This is not a case in favor of unmarried mothers keeping their illegitimate children — that remains, as it should, a personal matter.

DEAR ABBY: Our only daughter is to be married in three weeks and my husband has the "jitters."

It will be a small, informal church wedding. My husband wants me to walk down the aisle on the other side of our daughter because he's afraid he might break down and cry if he walks her down the aisle alone to give her away. We have always done everything together, and if he needs me for moral support I don't think I should let him down.

★ ★ ★

We have heard this is done in Jewish ceremonies but we are Methodists. When we asked our minister about this, he laughed at us and said he had never heard of such a thing. I would like your views.

DADDY'S PAL

DEAR PAL: If your daughter is being married in the church you had better take your cues from the minister who will perform the ceremony. But he shouldn't laugh. I am told that in the Old World orthodox Jewish marriage ritual it was traditional for the bride to be escorted by both her parents.

Today's Woman

She Buys and Buys and Buys

By JUNE ELERT

With Blanche Connell, it's a simple matter of having found the right niche. The enthusiastic purchasing director for Pontiac General Hospital says, "This is the job that was really made for me."

ELERT

But it didn't come easy or on the first try. Blanche spent 17 years as secretary in investment counselling and manufacturing firms before she got her first taste of hospital work.

Even then, it was as a medical secretary in the surgical department that she began, and through that experience, became familiar with anatomical terminology, instrumentation and general hospital lingo.

Moving to the purchasing department in 1958, she advanced to assistant the next year. In 1960, when the purchasing director resigned, he suggested to the administration that Blanche should be given a try at the job. She's held it ever since.

★ ★ ★

Several innovations instituted during her tenure have made Pontiac General a model in the U. S. for other hospital administrations when updating storage, distribution and accountability systems is on their agenda.

Unique in the industry is her computer system of keeping needed medical-surgical stock up to standard in nursing areas.

★ ★ ★

With the help of her assistant, Mrs. Frank Reid, and a buyer, Charles Neeley, and three warehousemen, Mrs. Connell:

—manages a three level warehouse containing more items than are stocked by a medical-surgical supply dealer plus enough canned goods to feed 2,000 people for a two-to-three-week period.

—purchases over $2,000,000 in supplies and equipment each year, keeping over 3,000 items in inventory.

—must be able on short notice to acquire any one of some 10,000 miscellaneous items that are not kept in inventory. These may range from special burn dressings, to tiny valves needed for delicate neurosurgical operations, to a new lawnmower for the maintenance department.

—must know that every item purchased meets all fire and safety regulations.

—sees that meats and other foods meet government specifications and are properly inspected as to weight and quality.

—contracts for major items such as bulk oxygen, x-ray film, intravenous solutions and electronic equipment in a manner most advantageous to the hospital and its patients.

ON THE BALL

Being "on the ball" is the big thing in this job, she says. Through snowstorms, disasters, strikes, the material must be gotten in. When an item is needed for patient care, no excuse is acceptable if it is not there.

And how did all this begin? Blanche was the oldest girl in a family of nine children. Pulling a wagon to the store to get groceries was one of her earliest chores.

As she grew older (about 12 or so) she gradually took over all the shopping for the family and learned along the way, to "get it right" so she wouldn't have to take it back.

★ ★ ★

Flower Talk

By CHARLES COPPERSMITH

THE LARGEST FLOWERS

The Rafflesia, found in the East Indies, is the largest known flower in the world. It measures from three to four feet across. The entire plant consists of a single blossom that may weight fifteen pounds. The cup in the center of the blossom holds about 12 pints of water. Unusual and in a way beautiful, they are not enjoyed by the natives because they have a bad odor.

We don't sell the Rafflesia, nor do we have any intention of ever having it. We do, however, have a complete selection of all the lovely flowers you will ever want.

McCarthy 'Kids' Wiser but Not Sadder After Nebraska

By RELMAN MORIN
AP Special Correspondent

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Politically, you might say, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy's whiz-kids are wiser but not sadder as a result of the Nebraska Democratic primary.

"I'm disappointed, but I'm going on to work for him in California," said Barbara Barnes, a student at New York's Columbia University.

"It (the Nebraska election) is not very helpful, but Oregon will be much better," added a Harvard student who asked not to be identified.

Comments from the students, the surprising new factor in this presidential campaign, followed Nebraska returns that gave McCarthy 31 per cent of the vote, far behind the 53 per cent rung up by Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The young volunteers who have become staff workers are receiving $7 a day for living expenses. There is a rumor that this may be cut back, for lack of campaign funds, to $3.

Said Denise Doolan of Chevy Chase, Md., "I'm going on with him no matter what."

And Selma Lederman of Detroit, commenting on the report, said, "I don't know how I'll eat, but I will do it."

By and large, McCarthy's young supporters are surprisingly knowledgable about politics.

"I didn't think Kennedy would do quite so well," said Gregg Shaw of Omaha. "I didn't thiik he would get that much support from the farmers here. I figured the senator (McCarthy) would do better with the farmers."

"I'm not at all disappointed," said Edward Sands of Lincoln. "I thought it would be good if McCarthy could pull 30 per cent of the vote. And he's done better than that. But I thought (Vice President Hubert Humphrey) would get around 20 per cent."

A girl who would not give her name said she is "discouraged by the poor organization we have." But she said she was staying with the movement for McCarthy.

Marvin Marshak, a student at Cornell University, said, "We're going into more politically sophisticated states now. I think Oregon will be better for us."

A number of the youngsters sounded the on-to-Oregon theme even before McCarthy did in his television appearances.

★ ★ ★

The young people stood for nearly three hours in the ballroom at the Cornhusker Hotel waiting for returns and to see McCarthy. They cheered again and again when it appeared that he might receive about 35 per cent of the vote.

A band played, "Happy Days are Here Again," and "The Saints Go Marching In."

Just before McCarthy entered the ballroom to thank his troops, David Evans, the senator's Nebraska chairman, told the crowd, which was composed about 90 per cent of young people, "We wouldn't know what to do if we didn't have a challenge. And we certainly have one now."

Reagan Would Accept Draft

'Surprised, Gratified' at 23 Pct. Showing

HONOLULU (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan said Tuesday night he is surprised and gratified by the results of the Nebraska Republican primary and that if offered the nomination he would not refuse it.

Reagan, who got 23 per cent, said, "I feel it is a total surprise to me. I don't know anyone who wouldn't be gratified."

★ ★ ★

Asked if he would seek the presidency, he said, "I could not now foresee myself soliciting the job. It's a job that seeks the man."

But under questioning by newsmen, he said that he would permit his name to be entered in nomination by members of the 86-vote California delegation which supports him as a favorite son.

PURELY TECHNICAL

He said this would happen because he was "a favorite son candidate from purely a technical standpoint."

Asked if he would accept the nomination if the national convention pressed him to accept it, he said, "Nobody could say no to that."

★ ★ ★

The results of the Nebraska primary surprised members of the Reagan camp. Reagan himself said he had been told he would get only 10 per cent of the vote.

"Of course this is very thrilling, very gratifying," he said.

LONG WAIT — Minnesota Sen. Eugene McCarthy waits in his hotel room in Lincoln for the Nebraska polls to close in yesterday's state presidential primary. McCarthy finished with 37,233 votes, 31 per cent, to finish behind New York Sen. Robert Kennedy's 64,039 votes, 53 per cent, in their battle for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Oregon Delegates Next Nixon Target

PENDLETON, Ore. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon hailed his Nebraska primary victory as "better than we expected" and pushed on today with his campaign for the state's 18 Republican convention delegates.

His tour opens at noon in Pendleton, in northeastern Oregon, and winds up with an evening meeting in Hillsboro, west of Portland, as he seeks support in the May 28 presidential primary in which he and California Gov. Ronald Reagan are on the ballot. New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who won the Oregon primary four years ago, is not on the ballot and there is no write-in campaign for him.

★ ★ ★

Nixon said he expected Reagan to draw 5 or 6 per cent more votes in Oregon than he did in Nebraska because, he said, he understood more money was being spent for him here. Reagan has not entered the campaign personally but supporters have mounted a major television, billboard and door-to-door effort in his behalf.

Nixon said that none of the three leading Democratic candidates—Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy or Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey—offered a change. "They helped shape the policies," he said.

★ ★ ★

Nixon said that the Poor People's Campaign in Washington was asking for federal spending which the country cannot afford in this time of financial crisis.

Moreover, he said, "Congress must not be coerced into action" as a result of threats of lawlessness by any extremists in the march.

★ ★ ★

Instead, Nixon said, the country should turn to self-help and work to solve its problems through free enterprise and through the policies that a new administration would bring.

That Campaign Trail Is Getting Crowded

By United Press International

The presidential primary arena shifted from Mid-America to the west coast today where Oregon and California contests raise fromidable challenges for White House hopefuls.

★ ★ ★

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon was already on the scene drumming on domestic issues.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, in his first campaign swing through Michigan set a precedent at Lansing with an address to a joint session of the Republican controlled legislature. Humphrey said the concept of sharing federal revenues with state and local governments "belongs on this year's election agenda" and merits "serious consideration."

★ ★ ★

Robert F. Kennedy, the New York Senator, campaigning in Iowa for the first time, called for federal programs to halt the population flow from rural areas to cities.

He suggested one approach might be return of a certain amount of federal income taxes to "states, local communities, and neighborhood bodies" dealing with community housing, employment and other problems.

★ ★ ★

New York Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller, speaking at the State University at Albany, drew cheers with a renewed call for a draft lottery and with a declaration that escalation of the Vietnam War "is not going to solve the problem."

WHY THE CARPENTERS' STRIKE?

To the public and especially
Detroit Area Carpenters and their families.

The two primary problems standing in the way of an agreement between the Employers and the Carpenters' Union are:

1. The money demands.

2. The length of the work week.

Below is a comparison of the Employers' Proposals and the Union Demands.

AS TO THE MONEY DEMANDS

CARPENTER EMPLOYERS' PROPOSAL	CARPENTERS' UNION DEMANDS
Including vacation, holiday, pension and insurance based on proposed normal 40-hour work week.	Including vacation, holiday, pension and insurance based on present reduced 35-hour work week.
Increase—$58.06	Increase—$100.73

per week spread over a two-year contract

Present weekly wage — $208.86

AS TO THE WORK WEEK

The Employer offer is predicated on a return to a normal 40-hour week. The Carpenter Employers believe the carpenter should remain in a position of equal earning power with the other construction trades. In order to do so, the carpenter should return to the normal 40-hour work week which all but one other of the eighteen building trades are currently working.

SUMMARY

These facts have been presented in the hope that we have dispelled any misunderstanding or other interpretation of the situation as it now exists.

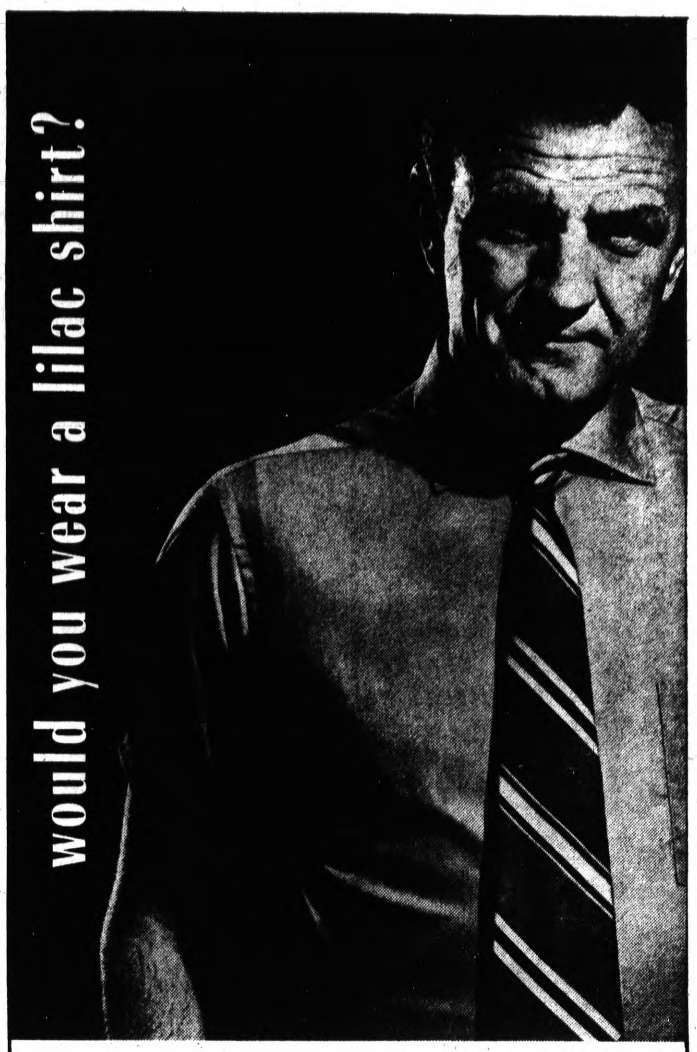
WOULD YOU WEAR BEADS?

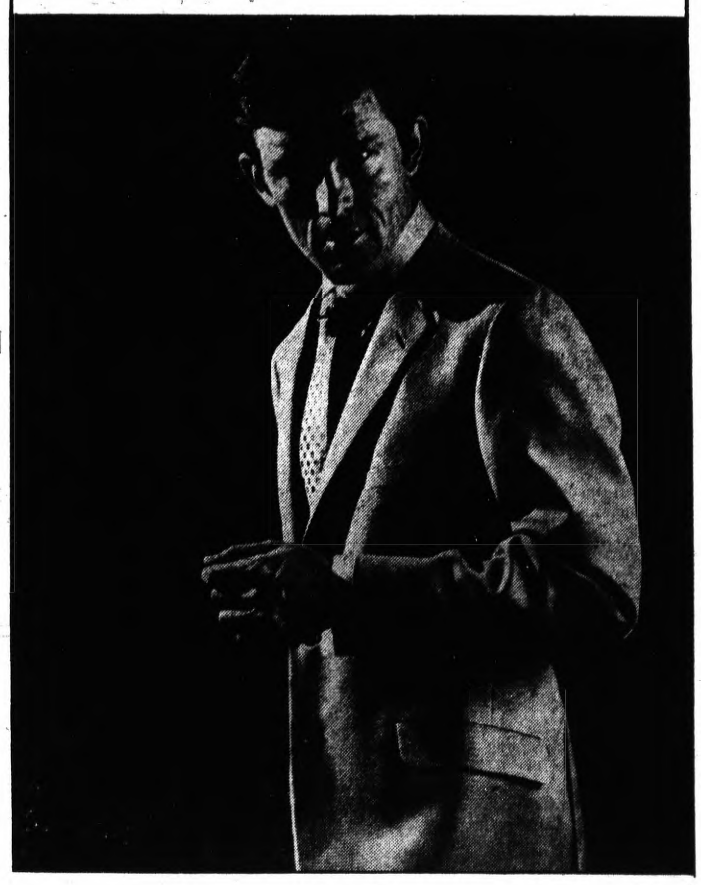
What else would you wear with basic Groove? For beads are a heartening hark-back to Heraldic days, when men wore chains and medalions and elegant necklaces. We have a wild collection; absolutely necessary today with the turtleneck, the Nehru. They're priced from $4 to $15.

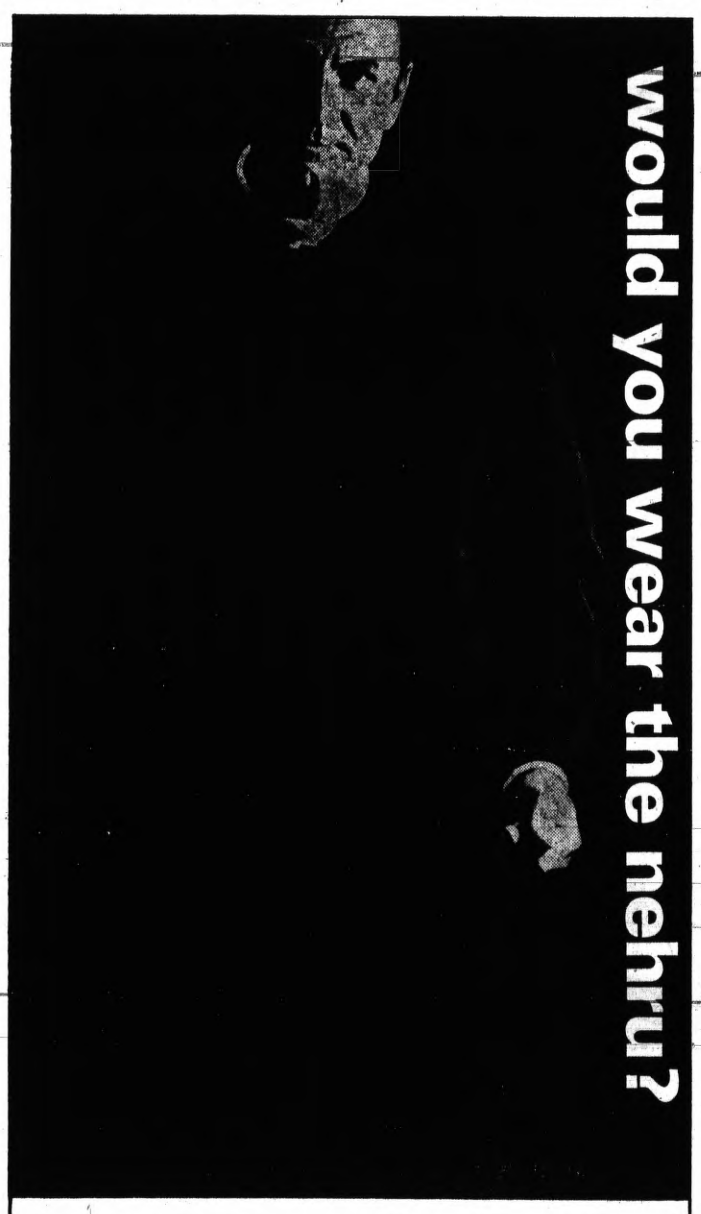


It's a great shade: really right with a medium grey suit, or a dark brown one. Or try a mulberry shirt with a tan suit. An antique gold shirt, brick red shirt, royal blue or lime green or bark brown or charcoal grey shirt. These are the deep hues that are toning up men's dress wear this year—and it's a beautiful turn for the better. Get out of the drabs this summer. From $7.

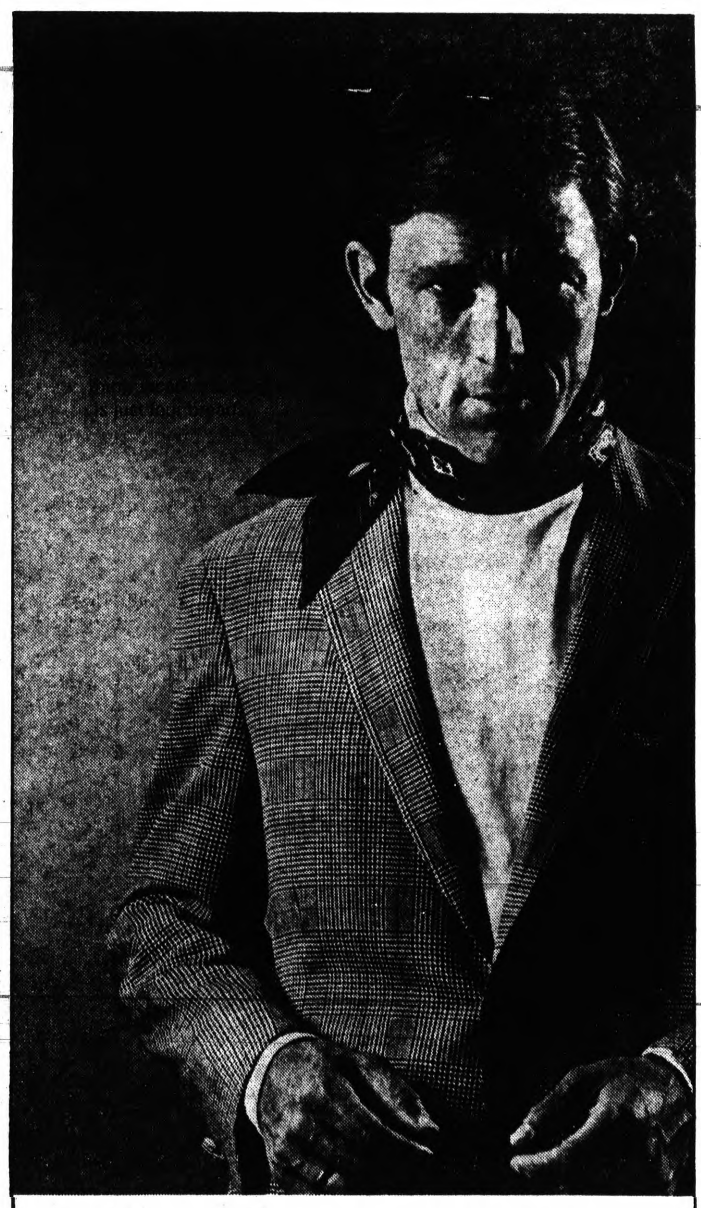
Menswear is shaping up in an important direction—one that points the way for a lot of fashion to come. The look is shaped: body-conforming (with counter-accents) all the way down. Like shoulders and hips that are slightly padded to make the waist indention look even greater. The one you see here is an ivory tan twill (Dacron-worsted) at $95.

would you wear a shaped waist?



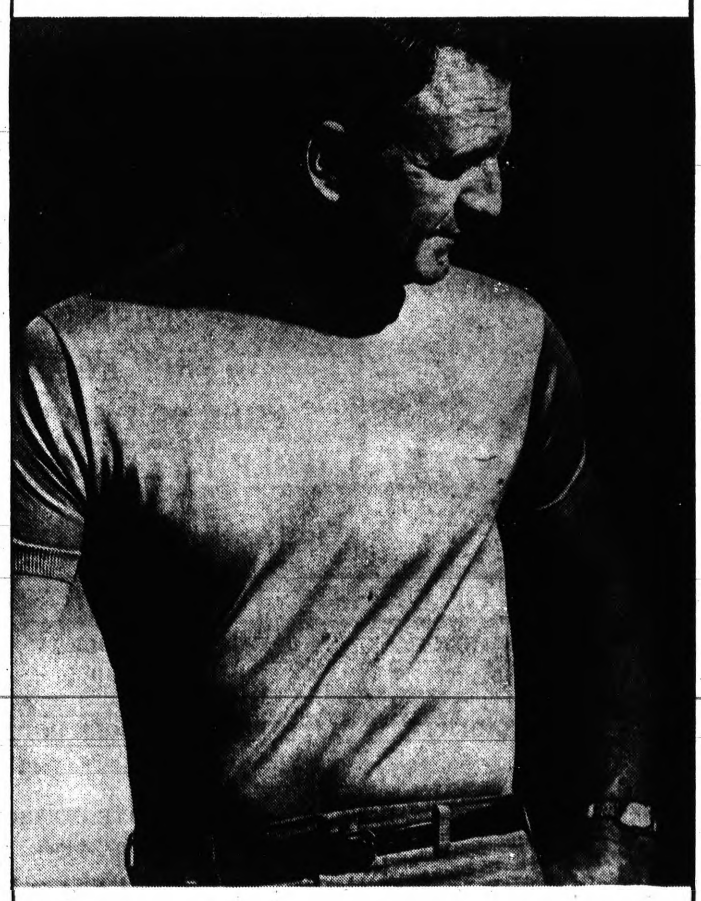


No single item has more seized the fashion spotlight than the Nehru jacket: slim-cut, suave, elegant. You'll see it in suits (our collection includes some superb black mohair-wools and lightweight twills, from 89.50 to $135), in sport coats, in sport shirts, and even in outer jackets. Its telling details: the stand-up short collar, the fitted waist, the deep side vents. If you think the Nehru is far out, remember your words a season or two from now.



WOULD YOU WEAR A RING SCARF?

would you wear a turtleneck?



If you wouldn't, you're ready for pasture. For the turtleneck is this season's most popular addition to men's fashion: a super-groove that's worn everywhere. With a sport coat. With slacks. With suits (particularly the Nehru). With formal wear. And we have it in every version, from easy-going cotton knits to French-cuffed formals. All prices, all stores.

Problem-Laden Chilean Leader Enters Political Eclipse

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Eduardo Frei has entered the slow political eclipse Chile reserves for its presidents and problems confront him on all sides.

The 58-year-old chief executive, with 2½ years left in his six-year term, cannot succeed himself. As his political leverage and room for maneuver diminish each day, Frei must grapple with:

• Inflation, which he calls Chile's greatest problem. Marxist and rightist opposition, particularly in the Senate, has stymied efforts to trim rising prices, which by government figures rose 21.9 per cent last year and by unofficial estimate up by 30 per cent.

• Strikes by teachers and postal and telegraph workers have lasted more than a month. Frei claims the teachers' walkout has kept two million children from starting school this fall.

• Dissension from the left wing of his ruling Christian Democratic party. Some of the leaders call for a common front with the Communist party for the 1970 presidential election; others want a broad-based leftist front. Joining with the Communists is known to be particularly distasteful to Frei, whose moderately leftist program of reform has been billed here and abroad as one clear alternative to eventual Marxist domination of much of Latin America.

• Political scene-stealing by candidates preparing for the 1969 congressional elections and the 1970 presidential contest. Most prominently in the limelight now is Gadomiro Tomic, Frei's ambassador to the United States until he resigned in March. Tomic, a fiery orator, has returned to Chile to plot his so far undeclared candidacy for the Christian Democratic presidential nomination and to secure his political position, several degrees to the left of Frei.

BIGGEST HEADACHE

Inflation and strikes are tied to proposed mandatory wage legislation, currently Frei's biggest legislative headache. His administration first proposed pay raise legislation that included a system of forced savings of part of workers' wages. Overwhelming Senate opposition forced withdrawal of the bill, which the administration had hoped would help curb inflation.

Next, the government came up with the legislation now before the Senate where the Christian Democrats are far in the minority. Originally, the bill had a provision that would limit the right to strike as one means of curbing inflation. But Frei had to remove the clause as part of a deal with the Communists to gain their initial support for the rest of the law.

★ ★ ★

Politics and pressure cost Frei two Treasury ministers in a month in connection with the pay raise legislation. Its provisions far from satisfied government employes, many of whom went on strike early in April.

The schoolteachers and postal and telegraph workers still are off the job. They complain the size of proposed government pay increases is too small.

PRICE RISE CONTINUES

As the number of minor strike-connected incidents of violence grow, the pay raise legislation languishes in senate debate. More than 2,000 amendments have been proposed to the bill.

Prices continue to rise. One consequence has been eight minor devaluations of Chile's currency so far this year

The suggestion of a Christian Democrat - Communist coalition for 1970 is known to interest Tomic, who has indicated such a deal — on the right terms — might benefit his plans for Chile.

★ ★ ★

Tomic wants to solve Chile's problems by taking it along the "noncapitalist road to development." He also likes to call it "the Communitarian way."

INTERPRETATIONS HAZY

Interpretations of political slogans in Chile are hazy, but most observers put "the Communitarian way" far to the left of Frei's cherished "solution in liberty," the battle cry for his 1964 presidential campaign against Communist-backed candidate.

★ ★ ★

Moving the Christian Democratic party toward "non-capitalist development" as a program has disturbed party moderates. They see Interior Minister Bernardo Leighton, now touring Europe, as an alternative to Tomic as a party presidential prospect.

★ ★ ★

Frei has yet to express any preference but recently took this indirect slap at Tomic: "There is much talk of the capitalist way, the noncapitalist way and other roads to development. I believe however, in the efficient way; it never fails."

BESET WITH PROBLEMS — President Eduardo Frei of Chile is confronted with problems on all sides, including inflation, strikes by teachers and postal and telegraph workers and dissension from the left wing of his ruling Christian Democratic party. Frei, 58, with 2½ years left in his six-year term, cannot succeed himself and his political leverage diminishes each day.

Major Test for Regime

Dominican Vote Is Tomorrow

By FRANCIS L. McCARTHY
UPI Latin American Editor

The Democratic regime of President Joaquin Balaguer in the Dominican Republic gets a major test of its popularity tomorrow in municipal elections scheduled throughout the country.

The government has ignored leftist opposition threats to boycott the elections through abstention and it now remains to be seen what the voter turnout will be.

★ ★ ★

Up for grabs are 77 comptroller jobs and 488 council seats. An estimated 1,130 candidates are bidding for the posts.

Balaguer was elected to the presidency June 1, 1966, by the largest majority in the history of the country. He polled more than 700,000 votes to 500,000 votes for his opponent, ex-President Juan Bosch.

SWEPT INTO OFFICE

The Balaguer landslide swept into office candidates for the comptroller and city council jobs which are to be contested again tomorrow.

Three major opposition parties—Bosch's Dominican Revolutionary party, the National Civic Union and the relatively new Quisqueyano Democratic party—have said they will abstain in the election.

They claim "insufficient guarantees" for the conduct of a free and fair election. However, Balaguer contends they simply cannot face up to the possibility of defeat.

Nevertheless, the election outcome will be a barometer of what lies ahead for the country. If there is a heavy vote it will be considered a reaffirmation of popular confidence in the government. A poor voter turnout will indicate the contrary.

QUIET CAMPAIGN

Campaigning has been quiet and orderly because only the country's two major parties, Balaguer's Reformist party and the opposition Christian Socialists, are so far inscribed for the elections. However, also entered are 49 "independent groups" most of them splinter factions of the major parties.

Balaguer has gone all-out to protect the integrity of the elections. He has ordered the armed forces to maintain a "hands-off" attitude and to treat all candidates alike.

★ ★ ★

He has banned the use of his photograph by government party candidates. And he has forbidden use of government property in the campaign of any candidate.

In addition, Balaguer established a "electoral guarantees committee" to hear and act on all campaign complaints.

PRINCIPAL TARGET

Principal target of the elections will be the mayoralty post in Santo Domingo.

The capital has traditionally been a stronghold of the left, as represented by Bosch's Dominican Revolutionary party.

★ ★ ★

The four candidates for Santo Domingo mayor include Guarionex Lluberes, a government deputy; Felo Flores, a Christian Socialist; Domingo Mercedes, a government party dissident running as an independent; and Victor Felix Peguero, a dissident of the Quisqueyano Democratic Party, founded by ex-Gen. Elias Wessin y Wessin in exile in Miami.

Star Scores Again in 'George M!'

EDITOR'S NOTE — How do you follow up a rousing success like "Cabaret?" For Joel Grey, who won a Tony award for his starring role in that Broadway musical, it was easy. Now he's George M. Cohan in "George M!" apparently another hit for the energetic entertainer.

NEW YORK (AP) — Do a show, start a fuss.

"You never see me get into anything that's not controversial," Joel Grey realized the other day. "Why is that? Compulsion to avoid the ordinary?"

★ ★ ★

Whether "following my instincts" in role choice argues some subliminal activist urge, its value as a career stimulus cannot be disputed for the dapper little Broadway star.

★ ★ ★

Grey rocketed to eminence a season back in "Cabaret," after 17 years in the TV-cinema boondocks and the nowhere of small-time night clubs. He scooped up a Tony trophy and swept about every other prize in sight.

YES, HE COULD

The inevitable question was, could he come on like that again?

The answer is "George M!" a headlong son-and-dance opus which upon recent arrival at the Palace Theater stirred the sort of critical and word-of-mouth attention that augurs long run.

Prior to the two big musicals, Grey did a straight role in a highly experimental drama, "Harry, Noon and Night."

"All of them," he says, "turned out to be shows that roused audiences to sharply divided reactions. People walked out at every performance of 'Harry.' They loved or hated 'Cabaret.'

"Now there's getting to be a big hassle about this show for the way it depicts George M. Cohan."

The debate centers upon whether Cohan, Broadway's Yankee-Doodle-Dandy during the first quarter of the 20th century, was a jovial gent or not.

★ ★ ★

"Some people are offended that he's portrayed as such a single-minded, egotistical person.

"A lot who take exception to this concept obviously only saw him at his best—the extrovert on stage and the charming man in a bar. A lot of people don't want their idol toppled.

MANY HAD RUN-INS

"But I could hand you a dozen affidavits of people who had run-ins with him, about what he was mostly like.

"He was not all sugar and spice—or all sugar. He was a man who believed he could never be eclipsed. He thought he was that important, or for whatever insecurities, he pretended he was that important, and thought show business would never pass him by and that personal relationships were not of enormous consequence.

★ ★ ★

"After the strike that led to recognition of Actors Equity in 1919, he was, from what people tell me, never the same. He got very bitter and died a very miserable man."

Grey started working on his interpretation over a year ago with the intensity that marks all his work. To become the epicene emcee of "Cabaret" he searched the byways of showbiz for "crummies." This time he read and read, talked with those who knew Cohan, studied old pictures.

NUMBER OF TALKS

"I even," he reports with mischievous twinkle, "had a number of talks" with the Cohan statue that stands on Broadway. "The pigeons talked to me and now we're all one big thing."

Grey never met Cohan, listened to no recording, saw a single Cohan movie, but did find out "he was an inch taller—I'm 5-feet-5—about 10 pounds heavier and we have the same hat size."

★ ★ ★

During the strenuous preparations of the show, the star who seems possessed of boundless vitality knocked eight pounds off his standard weight-in of 128. He's often asked where he gets the energy for the nonstop exuberance that is his style.

★ ★ ★

"It's like any other work that you do," he replies. "If you don't feel like doing it, you have to go anyway. "You see, it has to do with your want (vocal italics) to do it."

ALWAYS EVIDENT

The Grey want-to-do is constantly evident in conversation. The day after "George M." opened was his birthday—"They had 36 cakes — count 'em — at the party." Passing another milestone somehow seems to have intensified determination to avoid future career ruts.

"The next new thing I do will be intimate instead of big and not involve singing or dancing. If I have to do it for free, I'll do it.

★ ★ ★

"What I want is challenge. I'm no longer worrying about establishing myself. Instead there's the new tribulations of keeping yourself. You can never say, 'Well, that's that.'

"It depends on what you want out of life. I'm not like Cohan in wanting a career above all.

FAMILY IMPORTANT

"My family wife Jo, daughter Jennifer, 8, son Jimmy, 4 and my private life are very important and meaningful to me. So I don't want show business period. Show business, or else. No, I won't do that."

HE DIGS CONTROVERSY — Joel Grey switched from a starring role in controversial "Cabaret" to another in "George M!" To prepare for the new part, he contends, he had several conversations with the statue at left.

Soviet Tourism Emerging ---Along With Higher Prices

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet tourism is slowly, painfully emerging from its infancy — and as it develops, the prices go up.

★ ★ ★

For the right price, Russia offers tourists a taste of its rich past in the form of magnificent old churches, classic military monuments and its own exotic mixture of Eastern and Western cultures.

★ ★ ★

These sights can be seen with fewer complications, as visa restrictions in some categories gradually relax.

But many tourists complain that hotels are overpriced and service is below standard.

STAY AT SANATORIUM

"We used to offer foreigners a stay in a resort sanatorium for $6 a day," says Vladimir Babkin, director of the Soviet Board of Foreign Tourism. "Nobody believed us. They thought it couldn't be any good for that price. If you want to sell something you have to find the optimum price — not too high and not too low."

In an interview, Babkin seemed to be repeating a line from a book he had read on Union as a tourist mecca.

★ ★ ★

"You Americans think we have no competition in our country," he said with a grin. "You're wrong. Every Soviet city is trying to attract more tourists than the other."

Babkin thinks that tourists, disappointed in the past by bad facilities, soon will have no complaints.

RATHER NORMAL

"We have finished our childhood," he said. "It was rather normal — about 10 years."

He then reeled off statistics designed to show how much money and effort are being poured into tourism here.

★ ★ ★

While the Soviet Union is building up its hotel and restaurant facilities, however, it is doing little to meet the needs of fun-loving Western travelers.

There is an old story among Moscow tourists that expresses this feeling:

Tourist to Moscow cop: Where's the nearest nightclub?

Moscow cop to tourist: Stockholm.

But for tourists looking for the feel of Russia's turbulent, colorful past, relics abound. Ivan the Terrible and Catherine the Great have not been forgotten. Many tourists feel that the towns of Vladimir and Suzdal, dating to the 11th and 12th centuries, are among Europe's most impressive sights. Moscow has Red Square, crowned with the 16th century St. Basil's Cathedral — a feast for the eyes that must be seen again and again to be believed.

★ ★ ★

Around the country, the Soviet Union offers such diverse attractions as the old tsarist capital, Leningrad; the Central Asian marvels, Samarkand and Tashkent; and the Riviera-like resorts, Sochi and Yalta.

Babkin said 85 cities are equipped to accommodate tourists — many of them opened this year for the first time.

A GOOD SLEEP

"But I couldn't promise you the same comforts in Pskov as you would find in Moscow," he warned. "We can guarantee only this minimum: A good sleep, a good meal, excursions and transportation."

Snakes Pay Way to Zoo Convention

PITTSBURGH (AP)—J. Patrick McHale, attending a convention here, has a pair of boa constrictors in his hotel bathtub.

McHale is attending the American Association of Zoological Parks and Aquariums convention where zoo directors get together to swap and sell animals.

★ ★ ★

McHale started out from Chicago with a bagful of boas. Some were sold along the way for gas and oil. "Actually traveling with snakes is easy," he said. "They're clean, quiet and don't eat much."

On Economic Treadmill? It's Living Way You Want to Live

By JULES LOH
AP Newsfeatures Writer

"What would you do," asked Andy in a classic straight line, "if somebody gave you a million dollars?"

"I'd use it," sighed the Kingfish, "to pay my bills—as far as it would go."

A generation has passed since the Kingfish's touching lament, aired over the old "Amos and Andy" radio show. A generation of unparalleled prosperity. Since World War II, both personal and family incomes have more than doubled—a sufficient increase, one would suspect, to take the heat off America's beleaguered breadwinners.

★ ★ ★

But no, and a close look at today's spending patterns show why. The frustrating irony of the good life seems to be that everyone's needs—repeat needs—remain a tantalizing step ahead of everyone's income.

The hard truth is that the Kingfish's old gag would elicit more amens today than it did back then. Back then, in 1946, only one wage earner in 6,500 went into personal bankruptcy. Ten years ago the rate was one in 1,000. Last year one in 400. What's going on?

WHAT'S GOING ON?

What's going on, of course, on and up, is the cost of living. Or more precisely, the cost of living the way we want to live.

The Beureau of Labor Statistics reports that the Consumer Price Index went up 3.1 per cent in 1967. If the index is accurate —an assumption not every economist is willing to grant—it means a typical American urban family has to pay $11.86 for goods and services that cost $10 a decade ago.

★ ★ ★

As a measure of the "rising cost of living," the amount seems disappointingly low. Only $1.86 after 10 years? Income gains alone, even figuring a devalued dollar, would more than wipe out an increase of that size, about 18 per cent. Indeed the nation's disposable income, that old standard of well-being, went from $1,937 per capita in 1960 to $2,735 last year, an increase of 40 per cent.

Why then, for nearly everybody, are the ends just as far from meeting than ever before?

JONES'S LAW

The answer lies mainly in application of what we shall christen Jones's Law, in honor of that ubiquitous spender everyone feels compelled to keep up with.

★ ★ ★

Stated as an economic principle, Jones's Law might read: Needs are a function of what other people have.

★ ★ ★

Prices leap and bound, advertisers batter resistance, and some sellers take advantage of the buyer's sense of fair play. These and other forces combine with the Joneses to balloon the cost of living, but in an affluent society the Joneses seem to have the greater role. By an economic alchemy not altogether malevolent, the Joneses turn wants into needs. A fatter pay envelope doesn't ease that sort of attack on a strained budget. It only makes matters worse.

BAROMETER

Any examination of what it costs to live, however, must begin with that barometer of disappointment, the Consumer Price Index.

★ ★ ★

The index is a list of 400 items, goods and services nearly everybody uses. Statisticians note down the price changes of each item from month to month and year to year and strike an average. Thus the index reveals how much the "cost of living" has gone up.

★ ★ ★

Trouble is it doesn't. It merely measures price changes, or tries its best to, and these are only one part of the picture.

The problem is that goods and services don't hold still long enough to be measured properly. Things change. Today's products are so different from what they were 10 years ago that comparisons become risky.

NEW PRODUCTS

Then there are all the new products. Ten years ago large supermarkets stocked about 6,000 items; today 10,000. In one recent four-year period a single company, Gorden, brought out 400 new products.

Not only goods but services, too, change as technology expands. New telephone equipment permits direct—and less expensive — long distance dialing. Permanent press clothing reduces the laundry bill. Science marches on.

Government statisticians, of course, are aware of all this and try to make allowances in the index as they go along. But every 10 years they have to revamp the list entirely. The current list was drawn up in 1964.

If some, sweating over unpaid bills, regard the recently recorded nudge upward as an unrealistically low reflection of rising prices, others wonder whether in fact it might not be inaccurately high.

JUSTIFIED INCREASES

"I doubt seriously whether there's been any increase at all," says F. Thomas Juster, without cracking a smile.

★ ★ ★

Juster is an economist with the National Bureau of Economic Research in New York. He is no ivory-tower theorist and is as strapped for extra cash as anybody else. The bureau for which he makes his studies is an independent research organization with neither axes to grind nor causes to promote.

"The question the index doesn't answer," Juster explains, "is whether the increases it reflects are justified. If the newer model is worth the increased price you can't say its cost has gone up because it's not the same product anymore. The buyer is still getting his money's worth."

But price increases, accurately measured or not, are only one aspect of what it costs to live. Realizing this, the Bureau of Labor Statistics periodically makes another kind of study. This one charts the changes in American standards of living and how the changes affect the pocketbook. The most recent study made headlines when it was released last fall because it said a city family needed $9,191 a year to achieve a moderate way of life.

"People who go broke often become, through diabolical irony, preferred credit risks."

NOT TYPICAL

The figure was not for a typical urban family. It was for a specific type of well-established family, a family of four in which the husband was 38 and had been working 15 or 20 years and the older of the children was 13.

★ ★ ★

"This type of family was chosen merely as a point of reference," says Arthur M. Ross, the commissioner of labor statistics. "Families of different makeup can adjust the figure up or down depending on their own circumstances."

★ ★ ★

Ross says the study defined a moderate level of living as one which reflects "prevailing standards of what is necessary for health, efficiency, bringing up children and participating in community activities. It is not a subsistence level," he says, "nor a poverty level nor a luxury level."

The key words are "what is necessary." The study aimed to find out what was needed, literally needed, to maintain a moderate level of living.

DEFINITION OF NEEDS

And who defines needs? Start with a bowl of rice, a cave and a loincloth and proceed to Jones's Law: Needs are a function of what other people have.

★ ★ ★

The truth of it becomes evident when you compare the current study — which actually was concluded in 1966 — with a similar one made in 1959. During that seven-year span the income required to maintain a moderate standard of living went up 39 per cent.

★ ★ ★

But higher prices, as measured by the index, caused only 15 per cent of that increase, Ross says. The significant jump, he says, 24 per cent, was the result of a loftier interpretation of what constitutes real needs by people whose incomes have risen steadily.

★ ★ ★

Obedient to Jones's Law, yesterday's milk and honey becomes today's meat and potatoes.

Examples: The current survey showed an increase in consumption of meat, poultry and fish. So today's "moderate level" diet is more substantial. Use of bakery products went up; the raw materials for home baking, flour and milk, went down. Use of potatoes, cereal, sugar and certain fruits and vegetables went down, but frozen and prepared foods soared. Snack items increased — soft drinks, potato chips, crackers, ice cream, candy. Meals in restaurants went up markedly. Consumption of beer declined; consumption of liquor increased. Wines, unnoticed in the earlier survey, made a significant appearance in the later one. Cigar consumption went up 65 per cent, cigarette consumption 35 per cent despite the health warning on the pack, which wasn't there before.

Clothing showed a shift toward casual wear, indicating the added importance of leisure activities. Trips to the beauty parlor increased. So did trips to the dentist and the orthodontist. Visits to the doctor's office declined but use of prescriptions went up 67 per cent, and visits to the hospital increased. The 1959 moderate-level family had only a hospital insurance plan; the current study showed a surgical plan as well.

If the demands of the Joneses seem sharper than ever, one reason economists give is because the Joneses are more visible. Modern communications especially TV, give virtually everybody the opportunity of seeing what other people have.

Suppose the viewer can't afford what he sees.

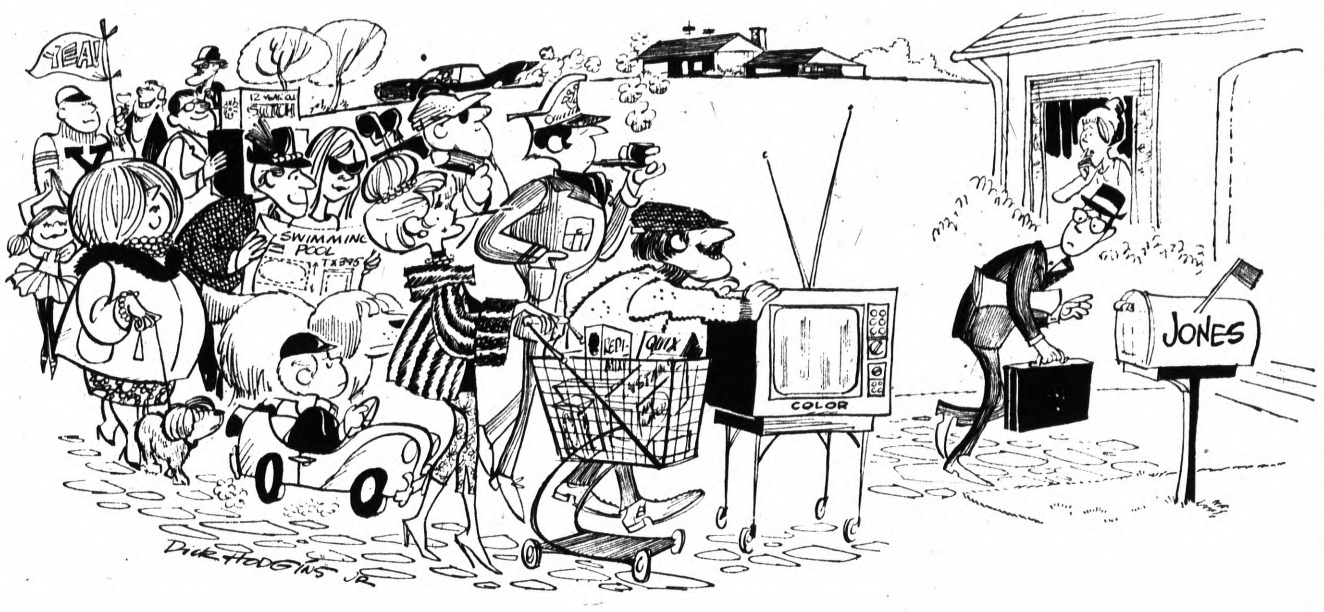
"In that case he dismisses it," says economist Juster. "A man earning $3,000 a year isn't tempted by, say, a trip to Europe. A man making $10,000 might reach for it."

And if a man's reach should exceed his grasp? From the looks of things, that's what a bankruptcy court is for.

★ ★ ★

Before the year is out, 190,000 Americans will have filed bankruptcy petitions, 18 times the number 20 years ago. But the chairman of the American Bar Association's consumer bankruptcy committee, Linn Twinem, contends that today's easy credit is not all to blame.

Up to 45 per cent of the people who file bankruptcy petitions, says Twinem, could pay their debts if given time and advice. He also feels that the social stigma once attached to bankruptcy has vanished, so that's no longer a deterrent. Juster observes, also, that more people today are aware of bankruptcy court as a way out of the quicksand of endless borrowing, or learn about it through social workers and counselors. In Juster's view the combination of all these factors accounts for virtually the entire increase.



"Sixty per cent of department store sales are on credit and now even supermarkets are getting in the act."

OSMUN'S GUIDE TO MEN'S WEAR

Chapter 6 The Summer Suit

Pick a date—any date. Say, August 26. You pick up the phone, dial, and hear that never-changing voice say, "... the temperature is 97, winds calm, humidity 94 per cent. Continued hot and humid today, tonight, and tomorrow..." Which brings us right to our discussion of summer suits. You see, at Osmun's there are four seasons: Autumn, Winter, Spring, and Haspel. That's because we think the Haspel people have managed to make a summer suit do the things a summer suit is supposed to do. They managed it with styling, tailoring, and, most important of all, knowledgeable use of miracle fibres. Which means you don't have to worry that after three hours in your summer suit you'll wind up looking like Sidney Greenstreet* escaping from Singapore. Haspel suits resist wrinkles the way a kid fights a bath. (Haspel, of course, doesn't lose out in the end.) And just as important, the lightness of these suits is genuine, and earns our full endorsement of the claim that you'll be comfortable in the hottest weather. Naturally, you won't feel too good crawling across the Sahara in one, but at the office, out to dinner, Sunday afternoon — anytime you want to be dressed up and dressed comfortably, put on one of Osmun's Haspels. And look at the choice you have. Solids, plaids, hairline stripes. Tans, Olives, Grays, Greens, Browns, and those great Bronze tones, all in traditional three-button natural-shoulder styling. They're $55. So come and inspect our really huge collection of Haspel summer suits. Make up your own mind. Maybe you'll decide they're not so hot.

Skeleton Is Found at Mormon Center

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Excavation beneath the Mormon Tabernacle Monday uncovered a human skeleton.

A construction superintendent noticed a few bones which were uprooted by a small tractor. Further digging exposed the nearly-complete skeleton.

The tabernacle is 100 years old. There was speculation the bones might be those of an Indian or an early settler.

Grandma a Grad

MCMINNVILLE, Ore. (AP) — A Linfield College housemother, 70-year-old Mrs. Grace Bennett, will receive her bachelor of arts degree from the college this weekend. She is only a few years behind seven of her eight children who are Linfield graduates.

Summer Duty Dates Told

Land Buy Approved for Pontiac General Hospital Parking

City commissioners last night approved purchase of 10 parcels of property on the east side of South Johnson, south of West Huron for construction of parking facilities for Pontiac General Hospital.

★ ★ ★

Total purchase price for the property is $142,146. The city has held options on the property since a month ago when then city commissioner Leslie H. Hudson, a realtor, consigned the land to the hospital administration.

Hudson had been securing options for private development but he turned the land over to the city—after waiving the usual real estate agent's fee—to allow expansion of hospital parking.

Harold Euler, hospital administrator, said the property had been appraised in October 1966, and the appraisals updated last month. Total appraised value was fixed at $126,950.

In other business, the commission:

● Approved a contract with the F. J. Siller & Co. for $160,900 in construction at the city's sanitary land-fill site north of Collier Road. The firm was the lowest of seven bidders in bids opened several weeks ago.

★ ★ ★

● Approved by a 5-2 vote a proposal to purchase two lots, formerly operated as a parking lot, between Lawrence and Clinton, west of Wayne.

● Received a report from City Manager Joseph A. Warren that the city's health department will be transferred to the county payroll by June 1.

● Received a report from the city building department detailing steps taken to remove safety hazards from an abandoned concrete mixing plant at 339 S. Paddock.

● Set a May 28 public hearing for consideration of the city's 1968 capital improvement fund budget.

● Received from and thanked the Pontiac branch of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association for a $300 donation for the city's arboretum park adjacent to the Adah Shelley branch library.

★ ★ ★

● Received from and thanked the Pontiac North Kiwanis Club for contributing $1,150 to improve North Kiwanis Park.

District 2 Commissioner Robert C. Irwin and District 5 Commissioner Robert F. Jackson voted against purchase of the downtown property.

★ ★ ★

Irwin said the city seemed to be adopting a policy of buying its problems or those of private parties.

'NOT IN LAND BUSINESS'

"Certainly the city is not in the land acquisition business . . . the city can't step in because a private owner can't take care of his problem," he said.

Pontiac Creek flows through part of the lots. Last year, because the covering over the creek caved in, the city removed it and made repairs.

Officials said the present owner is not able to restore the covering and fully utilize the property. Sale price is $18,000.

Director of Public Works Joseph P. Neipling said the existence of the creek bed within the two lots "does establish a substantial public interest."

FUTURE PLANS

He said in the future when the creek is rerouted the city could fill in the bed and use the lots for public use or sell them to private owners.

Warren said the County Health Department will take over all health department functions except for housing code enforcement and keeping of vital statistics.

The added administration will have a new division within the urban renewal department "to coordinate existing personnel and to provide for even more attention to housing code enforcement." New personnel also would be hired for this division, he added.

City Attorney Sherwin M. Brinkrant told the commission most of the things considered safety hazards had been removed from the concrete mix plant.

Rocky Plans Major Speech for Detroit

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is expected to make a major statement of his economic proposals for the nation in a speech to the Detroit Economic Club in the Motor City May 22, Rockefeller's office said Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

Rockefeller, campaigning for the Republican nomination for president, also is expected to meet with Michigan delegates to the GOP national convention and other political leaders during the trip.

Plans for the Michigan visit were announced Tuesday by the governor's press secretary, Leslie Slote.

Delay in Citywide Rezoning Requested by Corporation

City commissioners last night received a request from Harambee, Inc., a nonprofit corporation organized to initiate housing development in the southwest section of the city, to delay a proposed citywide rezoning.

Commissioners last night held another hearing on a new city zoning map and ordinances. These would be the first major changes in the map and ordinance since 1938.

★ ★ ★

Harambee, an all-Negro corporation, said it wished for a delay in consideration of the rezoning, until the corporation receives a complete planning report from Urban Design Development Group.

★ ★ ★

The design group is now preparing plans for complete development of the southwest section of the city and is conducting interviews with residents of the area to determine the best type of development according to the residents' needs and desires.

4-TO-6-WEEK WAIT

Sadie Davis, secretary of the corporation, said the plans are expected to be developed within four to six weeks.

In a letter to the commission, she requested that no rezoning be approved in Districts 1 or 7 until Harambee and other groups are able to sponsor communitywide meetings to find out what the local citizens desire in the way of development.

★ ★ ★

The letter also asked that all junk and scrap yards in those districts be abolished. "These kinds of operations should not be permitted in our communites," it said.

The corporation also said that the proposed fee of $200 for initiation of rezoning requests seems "to allow only the rich and affluent to qualify and make requests for any zoning changes in the future."

TO CONSIDER REQUEST

Commissioners said they would consider the request. The public hearing on the rezoning was continued until June 4.

The commission also discussed a variety of complaints with the proposed rezonings which will be discussed further by the city planning staff and planning commission.

★ ★ ★

Planning Director James L. Bates said that the proposed $200 rezoning fee was in line with the fees charged by a number of communities in the area.

He said the staff had determined that actual costs, including staff pay, for processing a rezoning request was about $260.

Rolls of Voters Are Up 1,507

Fair-Housing Friends Credited in Sign-Ups

Voter registrations during the period between the Apil 15 city election and last Friday totaled 1,507 City Clerk Olga Barkeley announced today.

She said 384 new registrants were taken at the city clerk's office and another 1,123 were taken during a voter registration drive initiated by the Friends of Fair Housing.

★ ★ ★

Cochairmen of the voter registration drive for the organization, Ernest Seay and James B. Davis, last night thanked the city clerk and requested that the city commission commend Mrs Barkeley for her help in securing new voters.

The total number of registered electors in the city now stands at 30,592.

VAN SIGNUPS

New registrations in the drive were taken in van-type vehicles donated by local organizations, including GMC Truck and Coach Division.

Three regular election workers were hired by the city clerk to take registrations. Mrs. Barkeley said these workers took 543 new registrations, many brought to the vans by volunteers working for Friends of Fair Housing.

★ ★ ★

Another 21 persons working for the organization were deputized by the clark and they accounted directly for another 580 registrations, she said.

Elk Bowling License Is Rejected 3rd Time

City commissioners last night voted down another attempt to reissue the bowling alley license of Pontiac Elks Club 810. The vote was 4-3.

District 5 Commissioner Robert F. Jackson, who had previously voted against the license, introduced a motion to reissue it.

★ ★ ★

He said the city might be misusing its authority in denying the license.

License renewal, usually routine, was denied two weeks ago after a member of the city planning commission, a Negro, informed the commission he had been discriminated against at the club.

2ND ATTEMPT

Last week District 2 Commissioner Robert C. Irwin introduced a motion to reissue the license. This was defeated, 6-1.

Voting against the proposal last night were Mayor William H. Taylor Jr., District 1 Commissioner T. Warren Fowler Sr., District 4 Commissioner F. Jack Douglas and District 6 Commissioner Wesley J. Wood.

★ ★ ★

In favor of Jackson's motion were District 7 Commissioner James H. Marshall, Irwin and Jackson.

Jackson said the city can withold licenses for reasons of "health, safety or welfare." He said discriminatory practices do not fall into those categories and, as much as the commission may disfavor any such practices, to deny a license because of a discriminatory act may be overstepping the commission's authority.

APOLOGY ASKED

Other commissioners indicated they wanted a public apology from the club before they would favor reissuing the license.

Downtown Cleanup Saturday

M-Week Kickoff Set

Michigan week will begin in Pontiac with an intensive effort to clean up the downtown area Saturday.

Sponsored by the Pontiac Area Jaycees, the cleanup project will involve up to 1,500 Pontiac teen-agers, James La Vergne, general chairman, estimated.

Clyle Haskill, Michigan Week Chairman said the clean-up campaign was thought of as an excellent way to get the city's youth involved in Michigan Week and to focus on a central idea each day of the week.

★ ★ ★

Michigan Week is being celebrated for the 15th year. Saturday is geared to observance of Community Pride Day. The observances generally will last Saturday through May 25.

This year's theme for the celebration is "Michigan — Land of Hospitality."

STORE FRONTS

The cleanup will begin at 8:30 a.m. John R. Lyons and Tom Brietzius, cochairmen, said. Jaycees will help direct the cleanup of store fronts and foyers and the cleaning of storefront windows.

★ ★ ★

Owners of empty buildings downtown have given permission to clean the fronts, they said.

The city fire department will help kick off the day by providing water to wash down Saginaw street, they said.

★ ★ ★

Helping to sponsor the event are the Downtown Pontiac Business Association, the Pontiac State Bank and Community National Bank.

REFRESHMENTS

The businessmen are providing brooms and cleaning equipment. The banks are paying for refreshments, including hot dogs and soft drinks, for those participating.

A number of civic clubs will provide displays and decorations for empty store front windows.

The afternoon, beginning at 2 p.m., will feature entertainment provided by five bands, the cochairmen said.

Cooperating in the project, Jaycees explained, are all area schools. Students who have not been contacted but are interested in helping can come to the downtown area Saturday, the Jaycees said.

THE LAND ABOVE — Atlantis, believed by Prof. Andre Capart to have been a volcanic island within the bay of Santorini, a Greek island in the Aegean Sea, vanished from sight when it erupted in 1500 B.C. Prof. Capart is preparing an underwater exploration southwest of the island.

2 Expeditions Readied

Atlantis Lost in Aegean Sea?

BRUSSELS (AP) — Was the Atlantic Ocean misnamed?

Was the "lost continent of Atlantis" nothing but the name for a group of islands in the Aegean Sea, between Greece and Turkey?

Was its capital built on a strange, round island volcano-part of what is now called Santorini—which disappeared in a tremendous eruption 3,400 years ago?

★ ★ ★

Evidence for this theory about Atlantis, historical and scientific, is being marshaled by Prof. Andre Capart, who directs oceanographic research for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization—NATO. He works with his wife, Denise, an expert on the ancient civilizations of the area.

Capart, head of Belgium's Royal Institute of Natural Sciences, is busy preparing two expeditions. One Belgian, will explore the Libyan Desert from which he thinks the people of Atlantis first came. The other, for NATO, will in the course of its other work examine the ocean bed southwest of Santorini. There, he thinks huge chunks of the Atlantan capital tumbled into the seas when the volcano erupted.

SACRED ISLAND

Santorino lies in the middle of the Aegean, 75 miles north of Crete. The Caparts think it was an island sacred to Poseidon, Greek god of the sea, and the one which ancient writers had in mind when they told of the center of a great civilization which sank beneath the water after a great catastrophe.

This is the way the philosopher Plato described it: "Poseidon isolated the central mountain. For this purpose, he made enclosures of sea and land, small and large, one outside the other."

★ ★ ★

If you look at a map of Santorini it is easy to imagine it as the remains of a thin circle of land, about 12 miles in diameter, surrounding a circular bay. In the middle there are now small islands which the volcano has thrown up since Plato's time. He knew it as a great empty bay from which the central mountain had disappeared.

"The outside belt of land," Plato wrote, was enclosed except for a channel leading from the sea. It was covered with houses, numerous and pressed against one another."

BELIEVED FOUND

It is some of these houses which Capart thinks have been found near the village of Akrotirion by James W. Mavor Jr. from the Oceanographic Institution of Woods Hole, Mass., Prof. Emily Verneule of Wellesley College.

The Caparts think the "sons of Atlas"—in Greek mythology Atlas was a son of Poseidon—invaded the Aegean from Libya in North Africa. They link this "Atlantan" civilization with the one on Crete, which went through a sudden tremendous change about 1400 B. C.

★ ★ ★

The cite an impressive series of similarities among the legends, historical accounts and archaeological remains of Crete and Atlantis.

Beginning about 1500 B. C. there was a new invasion of the Aegean, this time from the north. The Achaeans, warriors from the Balkan peninsula, conquered much of the area.

Not long after they came to the Aegean the tremendous eruption of the santorini volcano occurred.

'ARMY SWALLOWED UP'

"In just one day and one terrible night," says Plato, "the whole army of the Greeks was swallowed up all at once and the island of Atlantis sank into the sea and disappeared."

Capart says that in a few hours 100 feet of white ash covered the nearby islands. Fires were started as far as 500 miles away and a 115-foot tidal wave sped off in a circle from Santorini at more than 180 miles an hour, destroying the whole empire of Atlantis, he adds.

★ ★ ★

The Caparts claim to be the first to have put together the evidence from many fields of study.

The tidal wave also may have been what destroyed a city named Poseidon as far away as what are now the shores of Lake Shott el Djerid in Tunisia. Probably it swamped the great merchants fleets that linked Atlantis with its colonies in the western Mediterranean. Survivors of the isolated colonies may have wandered so far as to give their names to the Atlas mountains in northwest Africa and to the Atlantic Ocean.

"The big thing would be," Mme. Capart suggested, "if some kind of library of tablets were to be found in the diggings on Santorini."

SEEKS LOST CONTINENT — To support his research into origins of the lost continent of Atlantis, Prof. Andre Capart, director of oceanographic research for NATO and head of Belgium's Royal Institute of Natural Sciences, is preparing two expeditions. Here in his Brussels, Belgium, home, Prof. Capart is seen with his wife Denise, an expert on ancient civilization.

Most State Basements OK as Shelters

More than half the Michigan homes polled by the U. S. Census Bureau have basements which give "significant protection" as fallout shelters, according to Col Frederick E. Davids, State Police and Civil Defense director.

The bureau polled persons in 2,299,196 Michigan households in person or by mail, getting responses from 1,969,146 — or 85.6 per cent of the one, two and three-family dwellings.

★ ★ ★

In Oakland County, 183,001 homes were analyzed by mail or through interviews.

Statewide returns showed responses to 1,122,948 mailed questionnaires and 846,198 interviews.

POLL RESULTS

Of the 72 Michigan cities polled by mail, 37 had questionnaire responses totalling 80 to 89 per cent. Highest was Fillmore, near Holland, with 82.9 per cent.

★ ★ ★

Seven cities in Oakland County were surveyed by mail. Southfield scored highest in responses, 84.6 per cent followed by Royal Oak, 83.8; Birmingham, 83.6; Oak Park, 83.5; Ferndale, 82.7; and Madison Heights, 81.3.

★ ★ ★

Pontiac was in the lowest category, the 63 to 69 per cent group, with a 67.9 per cent response.

The mail canvass rated an overall response of 77.3 per cent from a mailing of 1,452,998 questionnaires throughout the state.

PURPOSES CITED

A principal purpose of the survey was to inform householders in confidence of the fallout protection offered by their homes.

Knowledge of the availability of protection for people in their homes is important in community shelter planning, Davids says.

★ ★ ★

Among the returns, 1,911,385 were for households within the scope of the program. Of those, 1,510,368 or 79 per cent, had basements. Households without basements numbered 400,718, or 21 per cent.

Specially built fallout shelters were reported from 16,637 dwelling units.

SIGNIFICANT PROTECTION

While most of the dwellings were below the federally accepted standard for public fallout shelters, Davids noted that the 1.3 million of the homes with basements do provide significant protection for their occupants.

Album Backed by King Is Out

NEW YORK (AP) — A recording, "We've Got a Right To Live," commissioned by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., has gone on sale.

★ ★ ★

The record contains 11 new songs meant to be used with the "Poor People's Crusade" planned for Washington. It is on the Broadside label.

Two of Dr. King's proteges, Jimmy Collier and the Rev. Frederick Douglass Kirkpatrick, wrote the songs, sing them and accompany themselves on guitars.

They have been going around the country singing these songs, to raise money and enthusiasm for the crusade.

★ ★ ★

The songs, written in folk style, have such titles as "Burn, Cities, Burn" and "If You Don't Want to Be Nonviolent," and each of them ends with Dr. King's philosophy of nonviolence.

Rock 'n' Roll's Promised Land Often Source of Heartbreak

EDITOR'S NOTE—Visions of fame and fortune lure many young rock 'n' roll groups to Hollywood, but only a tiny percentage find success. Of the rest, many are victimized by unscrupulous managers and wind up on the street, broke and hungry. Some legitimate managers, however, are seeking ways to protect the youngsters.

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD — Long-haired and singing they come — young boys from cities and towns across the land, guitar cases under their arms, seeking the rock 'n' roll kingdom of heaven.

The faces are bumpy with acne and the eyes aglow with a hope that only the young can fathom. Visions of Beatles and Monkees dance in their heads.

★ ★ ★

What many find at the rainbow's end is the Sunset Strip, littered not with gold but with heartbreak.

"A group comes to town. They seek out a crash pad — a place to live. Usually their equipment gets stolen. They go hungry. They walk the streets where the kids hang out, and that's where they get taken."

TELLING STORY

The story is told by Jim DeMarco, a long-haired, neatly bearded 26-year-old who has been managing rock 'n' roll groups since he left high school.

He has handled the rocketing career of a group called the Vanilla Fudge, but is concerned now with the kids who don't make it — and the people who try to exploit them.

★ ★ ★

DeMarco, who now manages a group called The Happy Apples, volunteered to work in a campaign started recently by the Hollywood local of the American Federation of Musicians to protect youngsters from what the union calls unethical, moneygrabbing men who have attached themselves to the thriving body of the music business like leeches.

Unscrupulous managers, warns AFM Local 47, are waiting on every corner to victimize young rock 'n' rollers.

SIMILAR PATTERNS

"Some are fly-by-night characters, some have real connections, some are strictly one-shot, but all have a similar pattern," says John Tranchitella, president of Local 47. "They have signed new groups to personal management agreements that give the bulk of earnings to the manager but all expenses to the players."

In addition to the managers, says DeMarco, there are night club owners, unscrupulous record companies and artists and repertory men who move from one company to another — all awaiting gullible youngsters with their songs and their hopes.

★ ★ ★

The union says it has a list of about 40 to 50 groups victimized in recent months, and the methods of exploitation are becoming familiar:

- Night club owners tell young groups the only way they can get "exposure" is to work for free — and they do. The "exposure" is a fantasy. Big-time music men rarely attend these clubs.
- A small-time record promoter will take a group to a studio, record their voices on tape "to hear how you sound" and sell the tape to a record company. The kids never get paid.
- An "agent" signs a group to a contract, gets them personal appearance dates, doles out weekly living expenses to the youngsters and pockets the rest of their earnings.

★ ★ ★

- Night club catering to teenagers sponsor "contests" in which the prize is supposed to be a recording contract. Entertainers work for free; admission is charged and friends of the singers are encouraged to buy food and drink to influence who will win. The promised "contract" is nonexistent.

LONG LIST

The list of unscrupulous practices goes on and on.

"This is why so many kids wind up on the street," says DeMarco. "They lose faith in a society which took advantage of them. They become what society calls hippies."

★ ★ ★

The union says it is taking steps to clean up the situation because "we want the music business to be a healthy business."

Tranchitella hopes to establish a special office to handle complaints of young rock 'n' rollers and to encourage them to get in touch with this office for advice as soon as they arrive in Hollywood.

OTHER PLANS

Meanwhile, Tranchitella has other plans to protect young musicians against exploitation.

"We will publicize these practices so that members will be able to recognize them," he says. He also plans to prosecute the cases of exploitation which have been uncovered. And he wants to agitate for legislation which will require personal managers to have state licenses. The legislation would govern the amount a manager is allowed to deduct from a performer's earnings.

Tranchitella is quick to admit that "every once in awhile a young group makes it." But the figures are not encouraging.

★ ★ ★

DeMarco says that rock 'n' roll recording companies issue about 1,000 records per week. Few ever make the top 10 in sales.

For all the hundreds of young musicians who flock to Hollywood with dreams of glory "about 1 per cent make it."

MASS ADORATION

That 1 per cent finds what the rest came after — the huge salaries, the world tours, the adoration of the masses.

Even then, fame is fleeting.

"The longest that a group can expect to last is five years," says DeMarco. "But in this business, if you last for two years you're financially set for the rest of your life."

Star of 'Judd for the Defense'

Play Pays Off for 2nd Banana

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Remember the guy with second billing in television's "Donna Reed Show?" His name is Carl Betz and he's star of his own show now, as the attorney in "Judd for the Defense.")

NEW YORK (AP) — For eight years Carl Betz labored as second banana in one of those half-hour situation comedies on television.

Betz, a ruggedly handsome man whose modishly long hair is touched with gray, considered that fact for a few moments before speaking. "That's a long time," he said, almost wistfully.

★ ★ ★

"I had to do something to change the routine. That's why I went out and did some plays."

One of the moonlight productions he appeared in was "Night of the Iguana" and in the audience one night was a man named Paul Monash.

When the "Donna Reed Show" went off the air, Betz wanted to do something different. "The idea of doing another TV series was not uppermost in my mind," he said.

NEW SERIES

But Monash, the man who brought "Peyton Place" to the home screen, had created a new series about a larger-than-life lawyer from the Southwest. It was to be called "Judd for the Defense," and Monash was looking for someone to play the role of Clinton Judd. He remembered Betz from "Iguana" and that was it.

Betz was in New York recently for a holiday before resuming production in mid-May for next season on ABC.

★ ★ ★

Asked how he liked having his own show after so many years of second billing, he shot up his bushy eyebrows and let a sly grin creep across his face. "It's like all of a sudden your stock went up from the 20 when you bought it to 120. It's very exciting.

"It's an adult show that treats a lot of ideas you don't ordinarily find in television," Betz said. "A lot of people are watching it, including some of my fellow actors."

CONTROVERSIAL THEMES

"Judd" is one of the few series this year that regularly tackled controversial themes. One story was about a priest charged with murder. A recent episode dealt with a middleaged New York editor suddenly squeezed out of his well-paying job in a merger.

Overwrought, the editor killed his former employer because he gave him a bad reference that cost him a new job.

But the story went deeper than that, using television's new-found freedom to work in a secondary theme of adultery — or at least, apparent adultery.

At the end, Judd gets his client to plead guilty to voluntary manslaughter — and the viewer is left to wonder if the district attorney will accept it. Hardly in the Perry Mason tradition of the always-successful windup with no loose strings.

SHOW ON IMMOLATION

Betz said he expected the show to take on even more controversial issues next season.

"The first show will be based on an immolation — a man sets fire to himself to protest the war," he said. "That sounds very dramatic, but it's potentially a very controversial theme."

★ ★ ★

"Judd" had a tough time early in the season. It's 10-11 p.m. Friday time period matched it against the best of the CBS movies. But as the backlog of blockbusters dwindled it climbed to a respectable place in the ratings.

Next year may be even tougher. Besides the movies, it will be up against NBC's "Star Trek," which has a loyal following. "That will make it very interesting," Betz said.

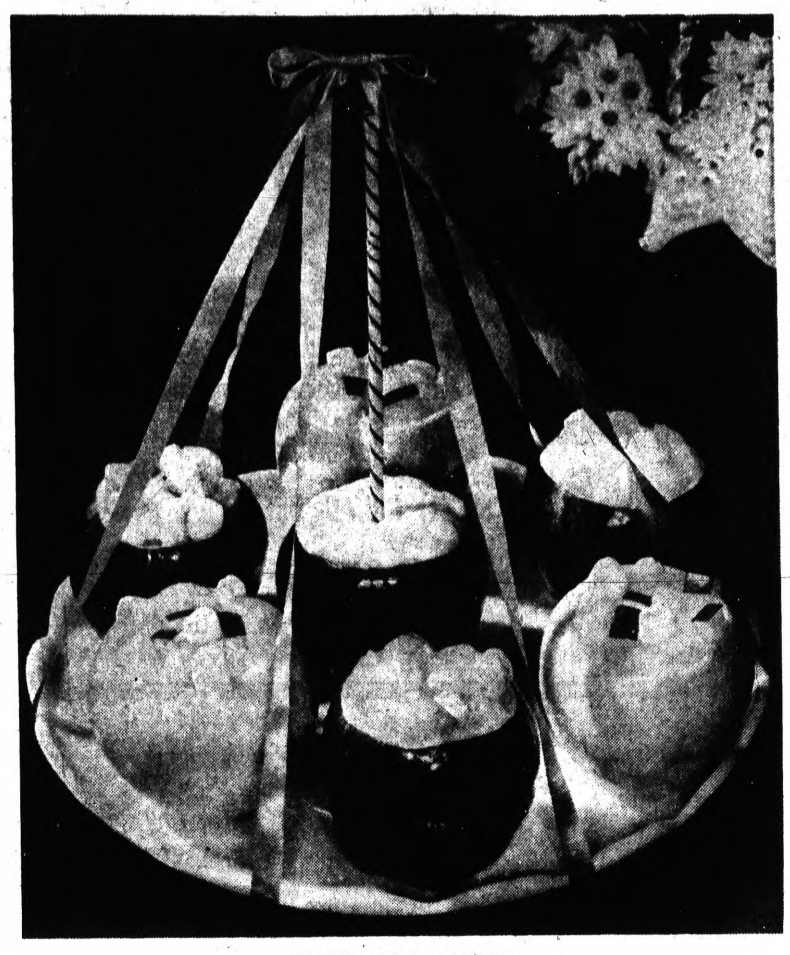
Lighthearted Desserts Are Best in May



FRESH APPLE BASKETS

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Now in the merry month of May, when spring casts its lovely fresh spell over everything, we begin to think about lighter food.

Recipes for hearty warming meals are put away until fall and we turn our thoughts to plans for outdoor cookery, salads and light desserts.

May is an entertaining month when every organization you belong to has its closing event. Most of these star food.

★ ★ ★

If it's your turn to provide dessert, here are a few suggestions.

MAYPOLE APPLE SALADS

Core 3 Golden and 4 Red Delicious apples without cutting through blossom end. Cut tops from apples and hollow out, leaving a shell ⅜ inch thick. Brush with lemon juice and chill.

Fruit Filling:

It takes approximately 2-3 cup of mixed fruit to fill each large apple cup. Below are listed two fruit filling combinations as a guide for filling six apple cups.

1½ cups diced Delicious apples (cut from cups)
½ cup bananas, sliced
1 cup mandarin orange sections
½ cup pineapple tidbits (save liquid)
½ cup miniature marshmallows
¼ cup chopped nuts

Combine all ingredients and drench with pineapple juice (from tidbits) to keep from browning. Fill 6 apple cups.

MAYPOLE DRESSING CUP:

Slip a sipper-straw over a 10-inch skewer. Tie 6 ribbon streamers to loop end of skewer. Fix skewer upright in apple cup.

Fill cup with dressing of half mayonnaise, half whipped cream "touched-to-taste" with honey and lemon juice. Fasten ribbon ends to serving dish with gummed tape.

★ ★ ★

There's nothing new about serving cream puffs. But cream puffs filled with a delicate fruit whip and topped with strained baby fruit is different.

You can make the puffs anytime and store them in a tightly covered container.

FRUIT-WHIP CREAM PUFFS

1 cup water
½ cup butter
1 cup sifted enriched flour
Dash salt
4 eggs
Fruit Whip

Bring water and butter to boil in heavy saucepan, stirring until butter melts. Add flour and salt all at once. Reduce heat. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture is smooth and forms a soft ball, 1 to 2 minutes.

Remove from heat and cool slightly. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition until batter is smooth and shiny. Drop by tablespoons onto lighlty greased baking sheet.

Bake in a preheated 400 degree oven, 25 to 30 minutes, or until golden brown and firm to the touch. Makes 12-14 cream puffs.

Fruit Whip:

1 package (4 oz.) dessert topping mix, prepared
2 jars (4¾ oz.) strained fruit

Prepare dessert topping according to instructions on package. Fold fruit into topping; refrigerate. Split and fill cooled cream puffs with fruit whip. Strained fruit may be poured over tops, if desired.

If you don't sift and in the absence of other directions, spoon flour directly from container into a one-cup dry measure, level off, then remove two level tablespoons according to USDA rerommendations.

NOTE: If self-rising flour is used, omit salt.

Refrigerator cheese cake is ideal for warm weather. Sieved cottage cheese gives the filling an interesting texture.

PINEAPPLY PARTY CHEESE CAKE

1 cup graham cracker crumbs
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup softened butter or margarine
1 No. 2 can pineapple slices
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
2 eggs, separated
½ cup milk
1 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
3 cups creamed cottage cheese, sieved
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Thoroughly blend together graham cracker crumbs, sugar and butter or margarine. Firmly press onto bottom of a deep 9-inch cake pan with removable bottom. (Reserve a few crumbs for top of cake.)

★ ★ ★

Drain pineapple slices, reserving ½ cup syrup. Stand pineapple slices around sides of pan. Soften gelatin in reserved syrup.

Beat egg yolks in top of double boiler; stir in milk, sugar and salt. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until thickened.

Add lemon rind and gelatin; stir until gelatin is dissolved. Cool until syrupy. Stir in cottage cheese and lemon juice.

CHILL

Refrigerate, stirring occasionally, until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from spoon. Beat egg whites stiff; fold into gelatin mixture with whipped cream.

Pour onto crumb crust. Sprinkle reserved cracker crumbs on top. Refrigerate until firm. Makes 10 servings.

Fish Products Not Regulated

WASHINGTON (AP)—If you find no chicken in your canned chicken soup, you can complain to the Department of Agriculture.

But if it's a case of no clams in clam chawder — well then you're fishing in murkier waters.

Testifying recently before a House Appropriations subcommittee, Agriculture Department representatives said new regulations require canned chicken soup to contain at least two per cent chicken meat by weight.

What about clam chowder? asked a seafood lover on the committee.

"That is Interior," replied the Agriculture official in testimony made public today.

A reporter following up that lead eventually found himself in touch with the Interior Department's Bureau of Commercial Fisheries.

A spokesman, after checking, said there is no official "standard of identity" for canned clam chowder.

However, he added, both Interior and the Food and Drug Administration occasionally give advisory opinions to packers who ask about acceptability of their products.

FDA holds, he said, that clam chowder should taste of clams and that probably requires two or three per cent clam content.

Interior, when pressed, tells chowderers the chicken soup standard is a pretty good guide.

Marinate Liver, Cook Quickly

A quick and savory way to prepare a nutritious meat uses marinade.

Savory Skillet Liver

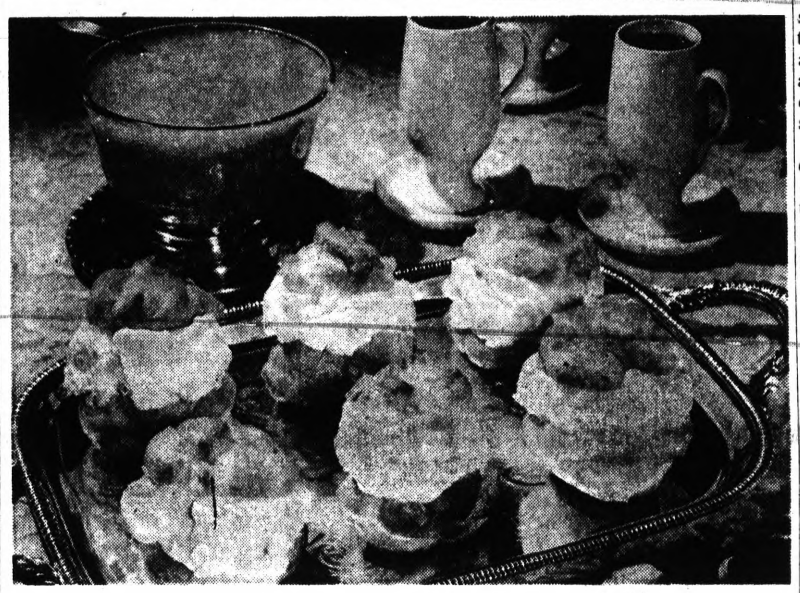
1 pound baby beef liver
1 tablespoon salad oil
1 tablespoon wine vinegar
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon onion salt
¼ teaspoon celery salt
1 tablespoon butter

Have liver sliced between ¼ and ½ inch thick. Mix the oil, vinegar, salt, onion salt and celery salt and turn liver in the mixture; allow to stand about ½ hour.

Lift liver from marinade and cook in a skillet in hot butter over moderate heat to desired doneness, turning to brown both sides. This should take only 3 to 5 mintues. Makes 3 servings.

Creamy Fudge

Creaminess in sugar-made fudge is produced by casual beating. Use a steady, stirring motion, around, under and over. Within 8 to 10 minutes, properly cooked and cooled fudge will lose its gloss, start to stiffen, and become creamy in texture.



FRUIT-WHIP CRAM PUFFS

Top Off Meal With Richness

This Sesame Seed Chess Pie is as southern as sugar pie, jelly pie and pecan pie. A luscious dessert for dressing up a light meal, or as a "come to our house for dessert and coffee" occasion specialty.

Sesame Chess Pie

½ cup butter or margarine
1½ cups granulated sugar
6 tablespoons all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
3 eggs, lightly beaten
½ cup light cream or milk
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
⅓ cup sesame seed
Unbaked 9-inch flaky pastry shell

Cream butter. Add sugar gradually and continue creaming mixture. Add flour and salt. Blend well. Add eggs, blend well. Gradually blend cream and vanilla into butter mixture. Do not over-mix.

Turn into unbaked flaky pastry shell. Sprinkle sesame seed over top of filling. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) 45 minutes. Yield: One 9-inch pie or 8 portions.

Creamy Drink

For an after school pick-up serve Choco-Scotch Milk. For 4 to 6 servings combine ⅔ cup butterscotch bits and ¼ cup marshmallow creme. Melt over low heat, stirring frequently. Stir in 1 quart hot chocolate milk and heat to serving temperature. Do not boil.

Celery Gives Crisp Texture

Celery is in all ways an ideal vegetable. Eat it raw or cooked, in appetizers, soups, salads, sauces. It is flavorful enough to serve as a seasoner of other foods; an economical hot vegetable to serve with all meats, poultry, seafood of meatless dishes.

It is a healthful vegetable, but so low in calories that it can be eaten freely by the dieter.

It is more than likely that the crisp-green celery on your produce counter was grown in Florida. Forty per cent of all celery consumed annually in this country comes from Florida.

From November through June, the Sunshine State supplies half of all celery used.

Here's one way of using the crisp green stalks. You'll like the crunchy texture of this dish.

Celery and Chicken Oriental

- 3 chicken breasts, split, boned and skinned
- 4 tablespoons olive or salad oil
- 3 cups thinly sliced celery
- 2½ cups slieed mushrooms
- 1¼ teaspoons salt
- 1¾ cups hot chicken broth
- 2 tablespoons sherry wine
- 3 tablespoons cornstarch
- ½ teaspoon sugar
- 1½ teaspoons soy sauce
- ¼ teaspoon ground ginger
- ⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
- Chinese noodles
- Hot cooked rice

Cut chicken into 1-inch pieces. Set aside. Heat 2 tablespoons of the oil in large skillet. Add celery, mushrooms and ¼ teaspoon of the salt. Saute 2 to 3 minutes, stirring. Add broth and cook 2 minutes longer.

Remove mixture to bowl; set aside. To skillet add remaining 2 tablespoons oil and 1 teaspoon salt; heat. Add chicken. Cook 3 to 5 minutes, turning. Add sherry and reserved celery-mushroom mixture.

Mix cornstarch with ⅓ cup cold water and sugar. Stir into skillet. Bring to boil. Add soy sauce, ginger and pepper. Cook 2 minutes, stirring. Serve with Chinese noodles and rice. Yield: 6 portions.

Put Pound of Franks Into Skillet Macaroni

Chances are you won't ever change your high-schoolers' habit of coming home with half the baseball team or prom committee in tow. But you can maintain your cool when faced with the question, "All right if they stay for dinner?"

Prepared with a minimum of fuss in an electric skillet (which you can bring right to the buffet table) this hearty, satisfying dish makes use of convenience foods for your added ease.

Brown frankfurter pieces and chopped onion, then stir in canned tomatoes and uncooked macaroni. After these good things simmer together for a few minutes, pour on a perfect golden cheese sauce . . . a can of condensed Cheddar cheese soup.

Velvet-smooth creamy Cheddar cheese soup, is expertly seasoned, and double-rich . . . delicious as is, or as an "instant" cheese sauce for all your cooking needs.

Round out your spur-of-the-moment supper with crunchy carrot, celery, and cucumber sticks, and pass milk and a canned fruit medley for dessert.

QUICK LASAGNE — In large skillet, brown 1½ pounds ground beef, stirring frequently. Stir in 1 envelope onion soup mix, 3 cans (8 oz.) tomato sauce and 1 cup water. Cover; simmer 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. In 2-quart oblong baking dish, alternate layers of cooked noodles (8 oz. uncooked), meat sauce and sliced Mozzarella cheese (½ pound); end with cheese. Bake 15 minutes at 400 degrees or until bubbling. Makes 6-8 servings.

SKILLET MAC AND FRANKS

- 1 pound frankfurters, cut in half diagonally
- ½ cup chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 can (1 pound) tomatoes
- 1 ½ cups water
- 1 ½ cups uncooked macaroni
- 1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed Cheddar cheese soup
- ½ cup milk
- Green pepper rings

Preheat electric skillet at 325 degrees. Brown frankfurters and cook onion in butter until tender. Stir in tomatoes, water, and macaroni.

Reduce heat to simmering temperature. Cover; cook with vent closed for 10 minutes; stir now and then. Stir in soup and milk; cook covered 5 minutes more.

Garnish with green pepper, desired. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Cookie Dough Molded in Ball

There's shortbread-richness in these cookies.

Buttered Cookies

- 2¼ cups sifted flour
- ½ teaspoon baking powder
- 1 cup butter
- ¾ cup confectioners sugar
- 1 large egg yolk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift together the flour and baking powder. Thoroughly beat together the butter and sugar; beat in egg yolk and vanilla. Add sifted ingredients; work with a wooden spoon until blended and smooth. Chill.

Roll into 1-inch balls; place, a few inches apart on ungreased cookie sheets; flatten so cookies are about ½-inch thick. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven until a pale gold color — about 20 minutes. Makes about 4½ dozen.

Fruit, Nut Loaves Sure to Please

Fruit and nut quick breads are excellent baked goods to mail overseas. The compact loaves travel well and the fruits and nuts help keep them moist.

For those of you who missed Vernors' new slogan, here it is again.

No slogan? That's right, no slogan. Vernors is so different it doesn't need a slogan. We don't need a lot of square, so-called "catch" phrases to tell you Vernors and Vernors One-Calorie are very different—that it's different because it's flavor-aged 4 years in wood. Try gingery Vernors. The taste is unfiltered by slogans.

(Special note: The space in the box above would normally be used to once again hit you with a big, fat slogan. Since we have no slogan, we donate this space to you . . . the tired, over-sloganed American consumer. It's yours! Do with it as you will. Doodle in it, make angry symbols or just sit and contemplate its clean, uncluttered, soothing emptiness.)

Fragrant Spicy Loaf Made With Applesauce

Here's a nostalgic recipe to save for a rainy day . . . homemade Applesauce Nut Loaf.

Children trapped indoors by the rain won't complain that they have nothing to do if you let them help with the mixing. In fact they may start looking forward to rainy days as a special treat. And you can be sure they'll do more than their share of "helping" with the eating!

One of the best things about this homey favorite is that it will stay moist for several days so you could make more than one loaf. The butter and applesauce help keep the bread moist.

SPICY TOO

What's the secret of our nut loaf besides applesauce? Butter, together with nuggets of chopped dates and nuts, and just enough cinnamon and ginger to make it deliciously spicy.

You can make your Applesauce Loaf with your own fresh homemade applesauce that you've stored in the freezer for this rainy day. Or, if homemeade applesauce isn't one of your great talents, buy some.

It may be raining outside, but it's warm and sunny in the kitchen when mom and the youngsters are all pitching in to make Applesauce Nut Loaf. But the best part comes when you serve it warm, with lots of butter.

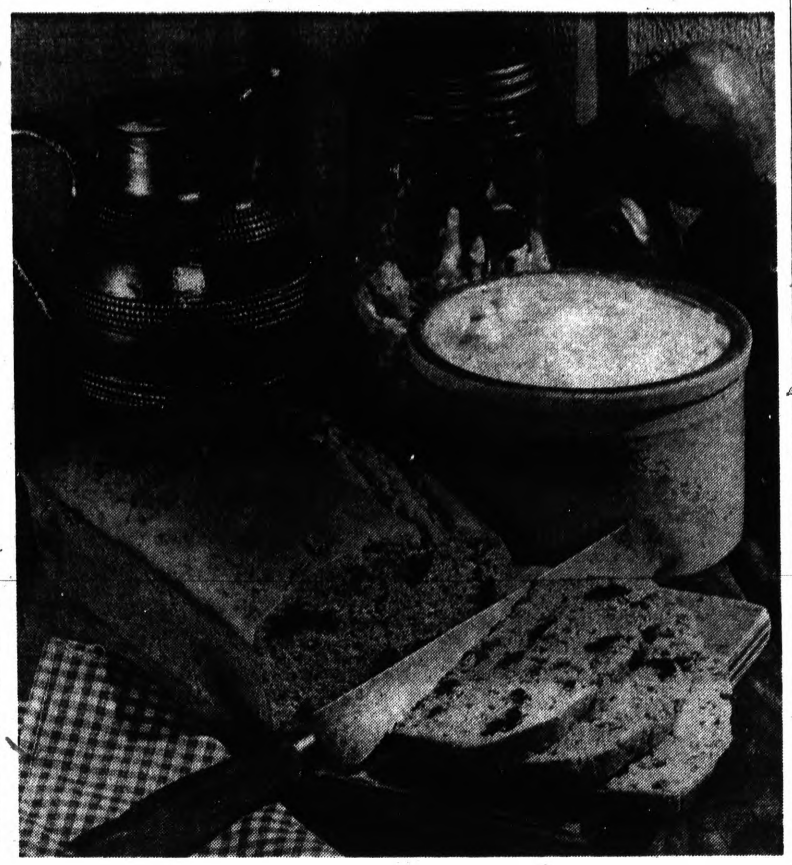
Applesauce Nut Loaf

½ cup (1 stick) butter
¾ cup sugar
2 eggs
2¼ cups regular all-purpose flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon ginger
1¼ cups applesauce
½ cup chopped nuts
½ cup chopped dates

In a mixing bowl cream butter; gradually add sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Combine flour, baking powder, salt, baking soda, cinnamon and ginger.

Reserve a small amount of flour mixture. Add remaining mixture to creamed mixture alternately with applesauce beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Toss dates and nuts in reserved flour mixture. Stir date and nut mixture into batter.

Turn into buttered 9 x 5 x 2¾-inch loaf pan. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven 60-70 minutes. Cool in pan on wire rack 10 minutes; turn out of pan to cool completely. Makes 1 loaf.



APPLESAUCE NUT LOAF — Date-and-nut applesauce loaf delights all ages. Warm and delicious with butter, apples and a pitcher of cold milk. Maybe some day your children will talk about good old-fashioned Applesauce Nut Loaf like Mother used to make!

Apple Sauce Is Base of Relish

Apple pepper relish is a sweet-sour accompaniment for cold cuts.

★ ★ ★

Mix 2 cups of canned apple sauce with 1 cup of brown sugar, ½ cup each of cider vinegar, finely chopped green pepper, finely chopped onion and minced pimiento in a saucepan. Cook and stir over low heat until thickened, about 20 minutes.

★ ★ ★

Chill overnight to blend flavors. Makes 2 cups.

Cooked Zucchini Goes in a Salad

Vary that salad — and here's how!

TOSSED ZUCCHINI SALAD

1 8-inch zucchini (about ¼ pound)
Boiling water
2 tablespoons olive oil
2 tablespoons red wine vinegar
⅛ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon prepared mustard
2 cups torn romaine, slightly packed down

With a brush, scrub zucchini in cold water; do not peel; remove ends and slice into ⅛-inch thick rounds. Turn into a small saucepan; cover with boiling water. Bring to a boil; boil 2 minutes. Drain, cover and chill.

★ ★ ★

Just before serving, into a salad bowl turn the oil, vinegar, salt, pepper and mustard; with a fork beat well. Add chilled zucchini and romaine; toss well. Serve at once. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

★ ★ ★

This salad has the good flavor of olive oil — it uses the minimum amount of vinegar.

Maxwell House® Announces

Freeze-Dried Coffee

Now, an entirely new process called freeze-drying actually makes it possible for you to brew real percolated coffee...without a percolator!

Maxim® is an entirely new form of coffee.

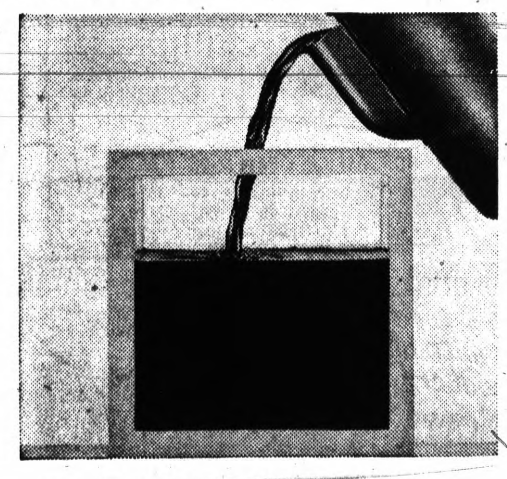
Maxim is crystals of real percolated coffee. Concentrated crystals with the power to turn every cup in your house into a percolator!

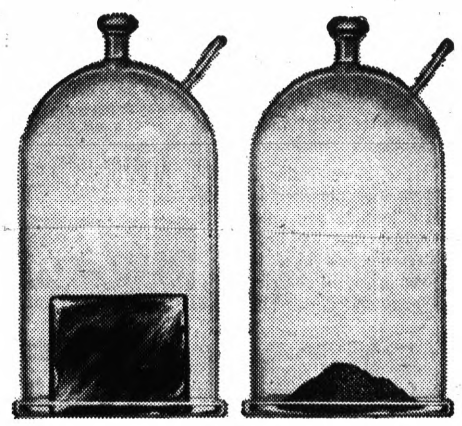
Maxim is an amazing breakthrough in coffee-making. It is entirely different from any instant coffee. It is entirely different from any ground coffee. Maxim is, in fact, concentrated crystals of real percolated coffee.

Maxim's secret—freeze-drying—is the result of years of coffee research at Maxwell House. A way has been discovered to transform actual pot-brewed coffee into concentrated crystals. Here's how it is done.



Freshly percolated coffee is poured into freezing containers.

Maxim begins with pots and pots of dark, strong, percolated coffee. This freshly brewed coffee is poured into special freezing containers. Here it is flash-frozen at the peak of perfection, when coffee flavor and aroma are at their breakfast-time best.

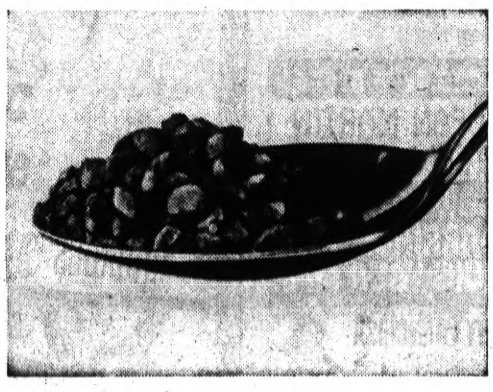


Vacuum chamber turns block of frozen coffee into crystals.

After the coffee has been frozen, the ice is drawn off—not by heat which destroys flavor—but by an amazing new vacuum process. It spirits the ice away without losing any of the honest flavor and body of freshly-percolated coffee.

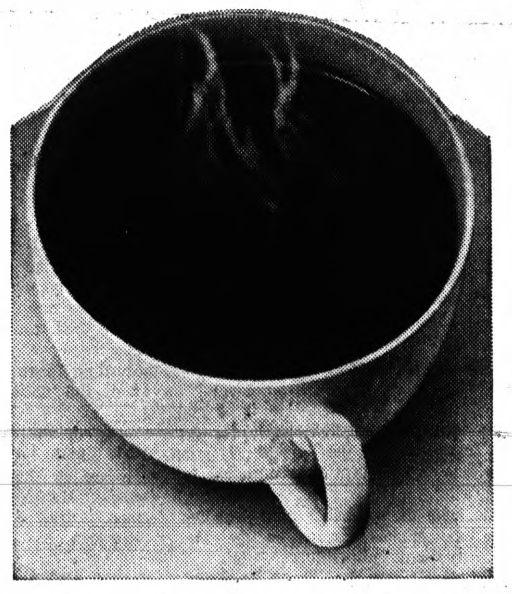
Freeze-Dried crystals that need no refrigeration!

This "ice removal" leaves concentrated crystals of real percolated coffee. And that's exactly what Maxim freeze-dried coffee is—fresh-brewed coffee without the water. These waterless crystals stay fresh until you're ready to use them. They need absolutely no refrigeration and can be kept right in your kitchen cupboard.



Different from any other form of coffee.

You can tell at once that Maxim is unlike any other coffee you have ever used. Take a spoonful, and you see golden brown crystals that actually sparkle. Smell them, and you smell the rich, roasted aroma of freshly percolated coffee.

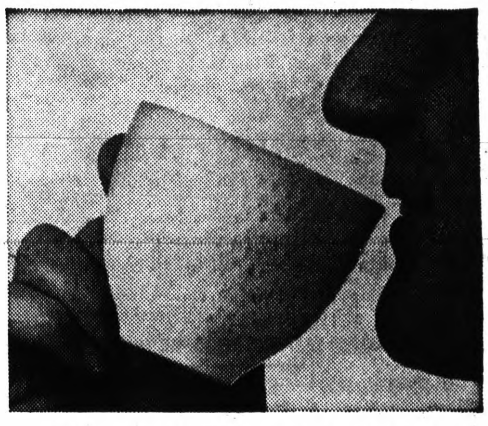


Turns your cup into a percolator!

The real miracle happens in your cup. The moment you add hot water Maxim's concentrated crystals explode into real percolated coffee. Maxim actually turns every cup in your house into a percolator! No pots. No grounds. No instant taste!

Important—you need less per cup!

Because Maxim's crystals are concentrated, you use less per cup than you do with any other form of coffee. For each cup, just use a level teaspoon (more or less to taste). You'll find it's surprisingly thrifty to use Maxim!



Discover Maxim—America's first Freeze-Dried coffee.

Get Maxim soon. Try it and see if you can detect a difference between Maxim and the good coffee you've been brewing in your percolator! You'll get the surprise of your coffee-loving life! Discover Maxim—America's first Freeze-Dried coffee—new from Maxwell House.

One 4-oz. jar of Maxim makes as many cups as one pound of ground coffee.

Saigon Animal Mart Offers Exotic, Traditional

EDITOR'S NOTE — Looking for a pet? How about an otter? Or a python, or Siamese fighting fish? The Saigon animal market is full of such unusual creatures.

By CHARLES DOE
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON — The crowded Saigon animal market has something for everyone.

For the traditionalists, of course, there are pets like dogs, cats, tropical birds or fish.

But for the young street urchins with dirty feet and dreams of glory there are fighting cocks. Jungle-suited American GIs from units nicknamed "the Otters" or "wolfhounds" or "Tigers" can sometimes find a mascot to go with the name.

For the man who has everything, there are 30-foot pythons.

Nor are pets the attractions. Prosperous but tired Chinese businessmen from the nearby financial district furtively purchase bits of dried lizard meat, which is said to have revived many a flagging marriage.

FUN TO WATCH

Even if you don't buy anything, it's fun to watch. Boys who couldn't possibly afford the $10 price of a small fighting cock can still borrow one and bet their one-piaster coins on the outcome. The owners seem to think such workouts are good for the birds.

And for the boys there is always the dream that their winnings will mount or that the price will decline enough to make them owners. Then they too would enter the big-time competition that ultimately leads to the fighting pits in the Delta city of Ben Tre. After all, even Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky has entered birds there.

Each day the boys come by and peer wistfully through the chicken wire at their favorite bird. "How much today?" "Oh, too much — Maybe tomorrow."

Siamese fighting fish are also great pugulists, so much so that they can't stand the sight of each other. When the piece of cardboard separating their water jars is removed, they dive and snap fiercely at each other through the glass. How they survive in their native habitat is a secret known only to the fish. Maybe it's all an act.

COEXISTENCE

Those who believe in peaceful coexistence, on the other hand, will be pleased to see puppies, kittens, ducks and chickens all living in the same cage.

In a city that has known political instability and terrorism, even the animals seem to know that certain accommodations have to be made. There is an old story about a talking myna bird that belonged to the adopted son of the late President Ngo Dinh Diem. Shortly after Diem was overthrown, the bird was reported to have squawked "Down with Ngo Dinh Diem, Down with Ngo Dinh Diem!"

But the animal market itself may be one of the safest places in unstable Saigon. Whole families of the animal-merchants live amid the jumble of cages. Even nocturnal intruders who would not be fazed by watch-dogs might think twice before venturing among bears and crocodiles.

If a prospective buyer doesn't find what he wants among the market's varied menagerie, all he has to do is ask. A few days later he can come by and pick it up.

NO QUESTIONS

He'd better not ask too many questions about how it was obtained however, spotted cats for instance, are very popular in Vietnam, and the merchants' children can occasionally be seen dabbing those on sale with just the right color paintbrush.

This is not to say that long-term profits are always ignored in favor of the quick sale.

★ ★ ★

One American engineer, for instance, bought a number of lizards that change colors like chameleons. Only later did he learn that they didn't eat anything but live crickets or grasshoppers, which are on sale at the animal market, of course.

Now he has to go to the animal market every two days.

Crimes Increase

A 14.4 per cent increase in the number of reported major crimes was announced by officials of New York City for 1967.

He Rolls Up Sleeves to Study Bugs

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — When the summer is just right and mosquitoes swarm, Dr. Darryl Sanders of Texas A & M University wades right in, bares an arm, and offers the pests a succulent lunch.

Sanders says he sheds blood for science to find the Achilles heel of the insects by keeping count of them.

★ ★ ★

The economic impact would be tremendous on the cattle industry alone. Each year hundreds of cattle bedeviled by mosquitoes die, and vacationers stay home.

"We're looking for weak links in the life cycle where the mosquitoes might be susceptible to some cultural practice," Sanders says.

BIG QUESTION

"We know we can kill them with insecticides. The question is whether we can afford to."

So far, the sutdy has been aimed at establishing the normal biological conditions of the bug.

★ ★ ★

The primary mosquito along the Texas coast is the "aedes solicitans" which lays eggs on the ground.

The eggs do not hatch until high tides or heavy rains accompany warm temperatures.

Sanders said the eggs are biologically clever. Like some cold capsules, they are equipped with "timers" which allow some eggs to hatch earlier than others.

Included in the eight species of mosquitoes found along the coastal region is the "Southern House" mosquito.

★ ★ ★

Possibly the most dangerous, this insect is the primary carrier of encephalitis and prefers humans, birds and horses over cattle.

Sanders says his method of counting mosquitoes is really quite simple. He bares an arm and counts the number of mosquito landings per minute. Or, he counts the number that land on the front of his shirt.

200 PER MINUTE

Sanders says counts up to 200 per minute have been made after hurricanes.

"After these storms, they'll move out of the marshes — maybe 20 miles into populated areas. It's then that the mosquito control districts have to create some sort of barrier strip with insecticides," he says.

Old, New Go Into Brew

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The modern brewmaster is a college-bred scientist, but he retains many of the popularly pictured rotund, Germanic brewmaster of the past, sampling his bubbling brew with a huge ladle, according to an informal survey of the nation's beer makers.

"Brewing is one of the few professions that must look backward even as it moves forward," says N. L. (Nick) Schleifer, former president of the Master Brewers Association.

"There are some traditional practices — like aging — that must be done in the same fashion as in Europe hundreds of years ago. But there are other techniques that we are improving with our new understanding of the physical sciences."

A knowledge of biology, agronomy and chemistry now help the brewmaster as he studies details of ingredients, odor and flavor, according to Schleifer, who is a brewmaster at Falstaff.

★ ★ ★

"New analytical methods are great aids in yielding better insight into the chemistry of the hops and cereal adjuncts," says Schleifer. "The modern brewmaster respects the fine tradition in which he functions, but he is constantly seeking new ways to control the quality of the final product."

Rear Adm. Kimmel, 'Scapegoat' of Pearl Harbor, Dead at 86

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — Retired Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel—commander of the U.S. Pacific Fleet on Dec. 7, 1941 when Japanese bombers caught it anchored in Pearl Harbor—is dead at 86.

KIMMEL

Japan knocked out 18 ships and killed 3,435 Americans in the attack and drew the U.S. into World II.

★ ★ ★

Kimmell died Tuesday of an apparent heart attack at his home here.

He had used much of his time since 1941 answering charges that he was to blame for the ease with which the Japanese brought off America's worst naval defeat.

'A BUM RAP'

Kimmel, who at the time was second in the U.S. Navy only to the chief of naval operations, said in 1966 he had taken "a bum rap."

"They made me the scapegoat," he said, "they wanted to get the United States into the war."

★ ★ ★

"That was President Roosevelt and Gen. George Marshall and others in the Washington high command," Kimmel explained.

"FDR was the architect of the whole business. He gave orders —and I can't prove this categorically—that no word about Japanese fleet movements was to be sent to Pearl Harbor except by Marshall and then he told Marshall not to send anything."

RELIEVED OF COMMAND

Within 10 days after the disaster Kimmel was relieved of his command—which had included the combined U.S. and Pacific fleets

President Franklin D. Roosevelt appointed an inquiry board. Members of Congress called for Kimmel's court martial. The board—in the first of eight separate investigations into the affair—charged Kimmel and the Army commander at Pearl Harbor, Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short, with "dereliction of duty."

★ ★ ★

Harry S. Truman, then a senator, charged that the disaster came in large part from rivalry and communications problems between the Army and the Navy.

When Truman became president he sponsored successfully the unification of the armed forces under a secretary of defense.

SECURITY LID

Security reasons prevented Kimmel from making public until 1946 his own version of the incidents leading up to the attack.

He said then that Washington withheld from him intercepted Japanese messages which might have made Pearl Harbor into a U.S. ambush to trap the Japanese.

A congressional investigation revealed that the United States had broken the most secret Japanese communications but that neither Kimmel nor Short had been informed of it—for fear of alerting the Japanese that their code had been broken.

★ ★ ★

Army and Navy boards of inquiry found that errors of judgment in both Washington and Hawaii had contributed to the American loss, but that a court martial wasn't warranted.

A congressional committee discovered that some days prior to the Pearl Harbor attack American intelligence had lost track of some major units of the Japanese fleet.

OPINION SPLIT

Eight members of the 10-man Senate-House investigating committee blamed military men in Washington and Hawaii, and said President Roosevelt and his cabinet acted "with distinction, ability and foresight."

Two Republican senators said in a minority report however that Roosevelt and others high in civil and military authority had failed to fulfill their responsibilities.

An Annapolis graduate, Kimmel had specialized in gunnery and administrative work.

He served in European waters in World War I, emerged as a commander and made captain in 1926 and rear admiral in 1937. For three years he was budget officer of the Navy Department.

At one time he had served as aide to Roosevelt, who passed over many senior officers years later to give Kimmel the top Pacific command. At the time of the attack, Kimmel was at 59 one of the youngest fleet commanders in modern history.

Kimmel is survived by his widow, Dorothy Kinkaid Kimmel, and two sons, Edward Kimmel and Navy Capt. Thomas H. Kimmel. One son was killed in action in World War II.

★ ★ ★

Thomas K. Kimmel Jr., a grandson, graduated from Annapolis in June 1966.

State Jaycees Give Award to Area Man

W. Cecil Stricklin, president-elect of the Waterford Township Jaycees, recently was named the outstanding state chairman for internal programing by Michigan Jaycee President Pat Duggan and Internal Executive Vice President Tom Jacobs.

Stricklin, 31, of 3325 Angelus Drive, Waterford Township, was state "Spoke" chairman for 1967-68.

The "Spoke" program is an activation and awards portfolio for first-year Jaycee members, conducted on a national and statewide basis.

In addition to Stricklin's award, the Waterford Township Jaycees won a first-place award for religious and seasonal activities, a second-place award for charter club relations, a third-place award for agriculture and conservation and another third-place award for ways and means notebooks.

Students Set Apathy Drive

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — A group of Marquette University students announced Tuesday a campaign of apathy as a compromise between two other groups which have differed this month over tactics involved in campus protest demonstrations.

The new group calls itself STOP. The two other groups are Respond and Reply.

STOP circulated pamphlets Tuesday advocating "the propagation of listlessness, de-escalation of involvement, and pursuit of nothing in particular."

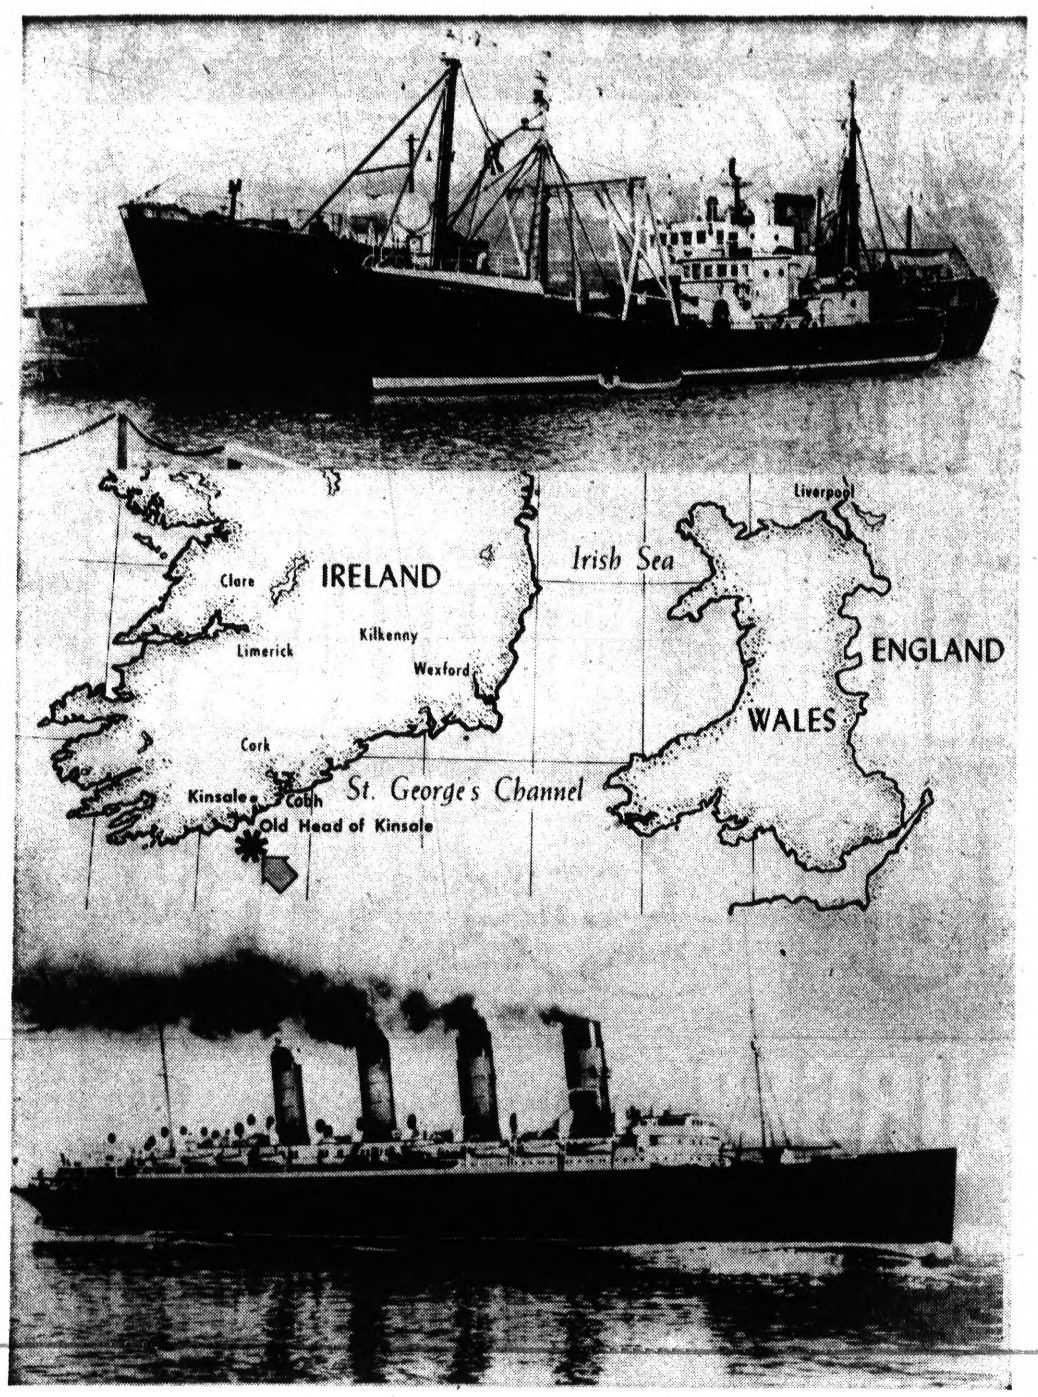
Yank Seeks His Fortune in Salvage From Sunken Lusitania



AP Photo

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Fifty-three years ago this month, a German U-boat torpedoed the liner Lusitania off the coast of Ireland. More than 1,000 persons drowned. Now, an ex-Navy diver is set to salvage the wreck—and earn more than a million dollars in doing it.)

BY COLIN FROST
Associated Press Writer

KINSALE, Ireland — John Light is 34, crewcut, stubble-chinned and curt in speech, the sort of man you'd want on your side in a fight.

On dry land he seems out of his element, and he is. He is one of America's foremost deep sea divers and this summer he starts lifting the secrets of the Lusitania, one of the costliest wrecks of all time.

★ ★ ★

If he succeeds, he will make a fortune in salvage.

The Lusitania, 32,000-ton veteran of the Edwardian era's Blue Riband battles, sailed from New York in May 1915 in an atmosphere of gaiety and anxiety.

TRADITIONAL SENDOFF

The pierside crowds gave her the traditional New York send-off. The band played "Tipperary." It drizzled.

Despite German warnings that British coastal waters were to be considered a military area, she carried 1,257 passengers plus her crew of 702. On May 7 a U-boat caught her off the coast of Ireland. Among the 1,198 who drowned were 125 Americans.

★ ★ ★

Today the Lusitania lies in 315 feet of water 10 miles off the Old Head of Kinsale, a promontory south of this sleepy fishing town. Ex-Navy diver Light, a Bostonian known to the locals as The Yank, found her there in 1960.

★ ★ ★

Since then he has been down to her 37 times, bought the salvage rights, and married a Kinsale girl. In March he surprised the town by steaming into port aboard a dilapidated French trawler, at 368 tons the biggest ship seen around here in years.

READYING SHIP

He named her the Kinvarra, and work started at once on putting her into shape for the salvage expedition.

He expects the operation to start by June, using methods never previously employed on open water salvage. He expects the job to last a year and perhaps two, and the haul to top a million dollars.

★ ★ ★

Inevitably the talk in the quayside bars centers on bullion and the prospects of rival expeditions to raise it. Light dismisses these notions curtly and totally: "I own the Lusitania."

To prove it he produced his bill of sale from the British War Risks Commission and said, "This talk of bullion is a legend. I bought the ship for 1,000 pounds (then $2,800). Does anyone think I could have bought it at that price if she had gold aboard? And who would ship gold from America to Britain when Britain was at war?"

HIS RETURN

Instead he sees his return in her nonferrous metals — gunmetal and copper ingots in her cargo, tons of bronze in her propellor, brass in her fittings, more copper and brass in the engine room.

He plans the work to be shared among six or eight divers. All will be American. One already is here — Jim Hazelwood, another ex-Navy officer, from Azusa, Calif. Roger Hanson, a 34-year-old business executive from Wellesley, Mass., has flown in as administrator.

Light made his previous dives from a smaller trawler, the Doonie Braes. With the bigger ship he has worked out a diving system which will allow long periods of intensive work on the wreck.

AP Photo

HE HAS HIGH HOPES — American diver John Light sits on a boat, planning salvage operations on the Lusitania, 52 fathoms below him.

His diving team will live under compression for up to two weeks at a stretch, moving between a main compression chamber inside Kinvarra's hold and a "satellite" which will take them down to the wreck and back.

NO TIME LOSS

In this way it will not be necessary for divers to lose time in frequent decompression, the gradual withdrawal from underwater pressure which defeats "the bends" — the agony caused by nitrogen bubbling in the blood if pressure is too quickly released.

Fowler Beats Administration to the Punch on $6-Billion Cut

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first break has developed in an otherwise solid administration front against $6 billion in spending cuts as the price for congressional approval of the 10 per cent tax surcharge.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler's endorsement of the tax-spending package worked out by Senate-House negotiators came before the administration was ready to take a firm position on the compromise—if it planned to take any stand at all.

★ ★ ★

Administration leaders are still working to get the size of the spending cut trimmed if that's still possible.

Fowler, in approving the compromise package, emphasized he spoke only for himself and not for the administration. But his opinion carries weight in the government.

MOST CONCERNED

The secretary is most concerned about what he considers an essential need for higher taxes.

Fowler's endorsement of the tax hike-spending cut package indicates he, at least, is willing to pay a $6 billion price if that's what it takes to get the surcharge.

★ ★ ★

But opponents of such a deep cut contend it would severely restriet many government programs. One of these is President George Meany of the AFL-CIO, who said Monday the 14-million-member labor federation will oppose it "with all our strength."

★ ★ ★

Any cut above $2.5 billion, Meany contends, "is going to hurt the poor people and hurt our programs on education and housing."

JOHNSON RELUCTANT

Johnson, while making clear he is reluctant to accept any significant budget slash, has said he would accept a $4 billion cut in order to get the tax bill.

The Senate-House conference committee which reached the compromise last week approved virtually intact the administration's plan for the 10 per cent surcharge as it was outlined last January.

★ ★ ★

Even the effective dates would remain the same—April 1 for individuals and last Jan. 1 for corporations.

For Fowler this represents a victory for which he has worked since last Aug. 3—the day the surcharge was actually sent to Capital Hill. He remained optimistic even when its chances seemed moribund.

There's still some doubt whether the tax plan will win final congressional approval but the betting in administration circles is that it will.

And the inside betting appears to lean toward President Johnson signing it, even if it also requires $6 billion in spending cuts.

Johnson stumped hard over the weekend for no more than $4 billion in spending cuts—but stumped just as hard for the surcharge.

Fowler pledged to international bankers in March—right after the gold crisis—that he would press as hard as possible for congressional action on the surcharge to help reduce the domestic budget deficit and the international dollar drain.

The surcharge, he has said, has become the symbol in Europe of U.S. determination to get its financial house in order.

The compromise tax-spending package isn't scheduled to go before the House for action at least until next week.

Czechs Want Soviet Ties

Liberal Government Plans No Changes

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's new premier, Oldrich Cernik, said Tuesday his liberal government wants continued close cooperation with other Communist nations and economic links with the West as well.

"I want to emphasize," Cernik told a news conference, "that the government plans to do nothing to change" the traditional ties with the Soviet Union and other Communist nations.

★ ★ ★

At the same time, he declared, Czechoslovakia is interested in more effective cooperation with capitalist countries and would like to work to remove barriers separating East and West.

Both Cernik and Prof. Ota Sik, the architect of planned economic reforms, said individual businesses will soon be free to trade abroad with only loose government guidelines and supervision. Also they said the government planned to make the Czechoslovak crown, its main currency unit, convertible in the West, although Sik said this would take five to seven years.

First, they said, Czechoslovak goods have to be able to compete in price and quality on the world market.

Czechoslovakia's new Communist leaders have been trying to calm down Moscow and assure it that their country will remain Communist despite the liberalization process. On Tuesday one highly placed Communist source said he did not regard the exchanges between Prague and other Communist capitals as anything more serious than "polemics."

★ ★ ★

"Perhaps there are too many Americans in Prague these days looking for sensations every day," he said. "In everything that happens they see some kind of pressure from our neighbors.

"It is polemics rather than pressure later on. We don't pressure later on We don't know. There could be, for example, pressure on our oil or on our iron ore. But we are going to go ahead and do what we must do and we will wait and see."

The Soviet Union supplies almost all of the crude oil and iron ore needed by Czechoslovak industries.

In Moscow, meanwhile, the Soviet bloc's economic coordinating body, the Council for Mutual Economic Assistance, or Comecon, opened talks Tuesday on the economic expectations of the Prague regime. Informed sources said the Czechoslovak delegate asked the council to reconsider the old Stalinist "division of labor" among the one time satellites.

By this system each Eastern European nation specializes in producing certain items the Soviet economy needs, but the system has been breaking down. Romania, for one, has rejected the predominantly agricultural role assigned it.

Senate Showdown Near on Gun Issue

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has agreed after two weeks of debate, to a showdown on the gun-control section of a controversial anticrime bill.

Agreement to begin on amendments Thursday was reached after Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield lectured his colleagues Tuesday for "dilly-dallying" on the legislation.

The firearms section would ban interstate mail order sales of handguns and over-the-counter sales to nonresidents of a state.

A major issue is whether to extend the proposed ban on mail-order sales to shotguns and rifles, as urged by President Johnson.

PRESALE NOTICE

A rival proposal of Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., would regulate, rather than prohibit, mail-order sales of handguns through a presale notice to police.

The agreement to vote on gun sales could open the way for stepped-up action on other parts of the bill, under debate since May 1.

Other sections provide for federal grants to improve local law enforcement, removal of Supreme Court restrictions on the admissibility of confessions, and authorization of court-supervised wiretapping and other electronic eavesdropping by police.

The Senate approved two amendments Tuesday.

RECRUITING GRANTS

One, by Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., provides that federal grants to local police may be used to recruit and train community service officers as a link between police departments and slum areas.

Percy said the officers could be drawn from slum youths and would provide a bridge for "the great gap between residents of the ghettos and the police."

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., floor manager of the bill, opposed the amendment. He said if too many types of aid were authorized, the available funds would be "spread so thin that we will get no good results from any of it."

Percy's amendment was approved 40 to 38 after the federal share of the cost was cut back to 60 per cent from his originally proposed 90 per cent.

★ ★ ★

Approved 72 to 0 was an amendment by Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., to require Senate confirmation of future directors of the FBI.

The Oakland County Road Commission yesterday received approval from the State Municipal Finance Commission to sell $4 million in bonds to finance road projects this year.

SAIGON (AP) — Enemy troops hit a second U.S. Special Forces camp this week but were driven off after destroying the communications bunker and some buildings and killing 19 Americans, the U.S. Command reported today.

U.S. helicopter gunships helped repulse the Vietcong force which broke through a section of the perimeter in a three-hour fight Monday night for the Nui Ba Den Green Beret camp 55 miles northwest of Saigon.

Trading Is Active

Irregular Stock Market Dips

NEW YORK (AP) — An irregular stock market dipped on average early today in active trading.

★ ★ ★

While gains and losses were about equal, the Dow Jones Industrial Average fell 2.49 to 905.57, due to weakness in key stocks.

Xerox lost 3, IBM 2, Control Data nearly 3, and du Pont a fraction.

★ ★ ★

Down a point or more were Woolworth, William H. Rorer, Control Data and Polaroid.

★ ★ ★

Gold-mining issues were strong, responding to the rise in the price of gold bullion in the London market. Homestake jumped about 2 points.

The top steels, rubber and motors showed little or no change.

With the Paris peace talks struggling through their difficult early stages and Wall Street awaiting news from Washington on possible progress towards enactment of a tax increase, the stock market had little in the way of new stimulation. Analysts saw stocks as continuing a period of consolidation.

★ ★ ★

Crowell-Coller opened on 11,600 shares, off ¼ at 37½.

On Tuesday the Associated Press Average of 60 stocks dipped .1 to 329.9.

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange.

Japanese Cult's Goddess Is Profiled

EDITOR'S NOTE — Just 17 years old, this Japanese lass is spiritual leader of some 350,000 persons in her native country. She is known as the "dancing Goddess," head of a religious group less than 25 years old.

By KAY TATEISHI
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO — A 17-year-old high school junior, who is the new spiritual leader of a popular postwar Japanese cult known as the "Dancing Religion," likes some dances other than the spiritual — "go-go" and "rock 'n' roll."

But Kiyokazu Kitamura prefers to keep the modern swinging and swaying within the family and the slower spiritual dance within the temple.

★ ★ ★

Miss Kiyokazu is the young successor to "Tensho Kotai Jingu-kyo" — Great Heaven Singing Goddess religion — often referred to as "Odoru Shukyo," or Dancing Religion.

She succeeds her grandmother, Sayo Kitamura, a farmer's wife who founded the cult in 1944 when she claimed God entered her abdomen and gave her directions on how to behave and speak to cleanse the world of its sin and evil.

'DANCE OF ECSTACY'

Out of Mrs. Kitamura's teachings was born the "Dance of Ecstacy," a child-like praying, chanting, slow twisting, turning and twirling of the arms, hands, head and body.

Mrs. Kitamura died last Dec. 28 at the age of 67. It was her dying wish that Miss Kiyokazu replace her.

★ ★ ★

Known as the Great Goddess, Mrs. Kitamura built up a following estimated at 350,000 in Japan, with another 30,000 believers in 32 other countries. She traveled far, although thousands also journeyed to her farm at Tabuse in southern Japan.

This New Year's Day, Miss Kiyokazu, formerly known as the Princess Goddess, became Dancing Goddess II. She told her audience: "I shall carry on the teachings of the Great Goddess and help build a world faithful to her teachings."

PREPARED FOR DEATH

At her first news conference, dressed in a dark minidress, the youthful goddess said: "I don't feel as lonely as I thought I would. I was prepared for her death. I've always been with the Great Goddess. When she was traveling abroad I took her picture to bed with me. Now I feel her presence closer than ever."

Miss Kiyokazu was separated from her parents and grew up with her grandmother. They bathed together, slept together. She often chanted prayers in the baby's ears.

Miss Kiyokazu was aware of her mission in life as she went to primary school with other youngsters in the neighborhood.

She had been told often that grandmother would die some day and that she was to become the second Dancing Goddess.

STUDY VOICE

She says she wanted to study vocal music. "I wanted to study in Vienna," she said. "But I guess I can still take voice lessons as a hobby."

She said she liked the Beatles but, she added, "They're not very good now."

★ ★ ★

Miss Kiyokazu often meditates alone in the huge auditorium of the spacious, completely unadorned ultramodern temple, which sits on a hill overlooking Tabuse.

The youthful leader may give the cult a new image. Dancing sessions are to be limited to one a month inside the temple.

WISE CHOICE

Her decision may be a wise choice.

On one occasion, Mrs. Kitamura's parish gathered at the pier in Yokohama to wish her bon voyage on one of her many missionary pilgrimages to Hawaii. As the steamship slowly pulled away, the flock broke into the Dance of Ecstacy.

TALCUM-POWDER BROADSIDE — The Golden Doubloon, based at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., is a full-size, seagoing Spanish galleon, that houses treasures recovered from sunken wrecks. The smaller-scaled brigantine Barracuda always fires a mock broadside as it passes on its way up the intercoastal waterway. This time, the Spanish galleon was ready and returned the fire, its guns loaded with sweet-smelling talcum powder.

2 Cases Show U.N. Weakness

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations is grappling with two widely different problems pointing up one of its major weaknesses: its inability or unwillingness to crack down on countries that have defied its decisions.

Israel and South Africa, perennial headaches, are once more scorning U.N. resolutions. Although there has been much talk of enforcement actions against them, little enthusiasm for such measures has developed.

Both South Africa and Israel have been condemned and censured numerous times over the years; South Africa for its policies of racial separation and for refusing to give up the territory of South-West Africa, and Israel for military actions against its Arab neighbors.

The two countries, however, have displayed minimum concern over the U.N. slaps and have pursued their policies as if the U.N. had never acted.

FRUSTRATING DETAILS

The General Assembly last week received a report from the 11-nation Council on South-West Africa detailing its frustrating experiences in trying to get South Africa to withdraw from the former League of Nations mandate territory in accord with U.N. resolutions.

The South African government rebuffed every initiative of the council, including its efforts to gain entry into South-West Africa. The council said the only way to get South Africa out of the territory is use of force. South African representatives have kept silent in assembly debate.

The debate on the Middle East has been going on in the Security Council. Last month the council condemned an Israeli incursion deep into Jordanian territory, but Israel replied that it would do the same thing again if, as it described it, Arab terrorist raids continued to operate from Jordanian bases.

★ ★ ★

More recently the council called on Israel to cancel a military parade scheduled for Jerusalem. Israel defied the resolution and held the parade May 2. Now the council is seeking a way to force Israeli to comply with previous resolutions demanding an end to measures aimed at annexing the Old City of Jerusalem, occupied during the June 5-10 war last year.

Job Prospects Bright for Grads

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Good jobs with good pay beckon this year's record American college graduating class.

The government says a survey shows "exceedingly bright" job prospects awaiting those emerging from campuses across the country this spring.

★ ★ ★

The race for top talent has been on for many months among businesses, industries, academic institutions — and the government itself.

For some, there will be a detour into a khaki uniform.

MOST SOUGHT AFTER

The survey conducted by the Labor Department showed that, as usual, engineering and accounting graduates are the most sought after.

There also is said to be an exceptionally good job market for health professionals, social workers, librarians, mathematicians, chemists, physicists and other scientists.

★ ★ ★

Starting salaries for new graduates continue high, averaging about 5 per cent more than last spring. And the outlook both from the standpoint of job openings and pay has improved for Negro graduates, the study said.

"As graduation nears, never has there been such a strong, three-way pull for American college graduates — from industry, graduate schools and the military draft," the government analysts said.

VERY ACTIVE

"Expecting a smaller pool of draft-exempt graduates this year, industry is recruiting very actively. More jobs are being offered."

Draft calls are up because of the war in Vietnam. And a new regulation abolishing graduate school deferments is expected to mean induction for a much higher percentage of bachelor degree graduates who otherwise would have gone into postgraduate study.

★ ★ ★

An estimated 820,000 men and women will graduate from American colleges and universities this year, including 150,000 with advanced degrees.

This is an increase of about 100,000 graduates over 1967, but some career openings may go unfilled because of a shortage of available graduates.

FAVORABLE OUTLOOK

Those who majored in business administration and liberal arts have a favorable outlook for employment, the government report said.

Sales careers in insurance and real estate, and in pharmaceutical and other manufacturing industries, provide many opportunities for these graduates, it added.

★ ★ ★

Business administration majors also are being sought for management trainee programs, business analysis, production control and marketing.

"Liberal arts graduates are being offered jobs in computer programming, personnel and merchandizing.

LIBERAL ARTS MAJORS

"Increased demand is also reported for liberal arts majors to plan and staff public and private programs dealing with the problems of inner cities and depressed rural areas," the report said.

Not as much encouragement was offered for majors in anthropology, art, drama, English, history, language and philosophy, particularly those not willing to relocate or accept positions outside their major fields of study.

★ ★ ★

The report said Negro college graduates were receiving more job offers at higher salaries in virtually all fields than a year ago.

Women graduates are finding prospects especially bright in mathematics, accounting, data processing and the natural sciences, it added.

STARTING SALARIES

Starting salaries for those with bachelors degrees average up to $775 a month for engineers, $725 a month for accountants, $700 a month for mathematicians, $725 a month for chemists and physicists, $600 a month for biological science graduates and $650 a month for business trainees and salesmen. Salary figures were not given for other professions.

Oyler Joins Horton's Slugging Firm in Tigers' 4-0 Victory

Willie Blasts 2 Home Runs as Wilson Hurls Four-Hitter

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

When man bites dog, that's news, and when Ray Oyler hits a home run for the Detroit Tigers that's real news

The diminutive Tigers' shortstop, whose batting average of .169 as of yesterday was just four points higher than his weight, joined the slugging firm of Horton and Horton last night to help defeat the slumping Baltimore Orioles, 4-0, behind the masterful pitching of Earl Wilson.

For Willie Horton, who accounted for three of the runs, it was the seventh and eighth homers of the season.

For Oyler, it was an annual homer, and the eighth of his career in the majors.

FIRST A BOOMER

Horton's first blast off losing southpaw Dave McNally was a booming drive in the second inning. It traveled about 430 feet into upper deck section 2 of left center field.

★ ★ ★

Oyler, who had one home run last year off of tonight's Oriole pitcher Jim Hardin, started the third inning with the drive which landed just over the 365 foot mark in left field's first deck.

When the excited little infielder reached the dugout he was given a pre-planned silent treatment by his Tiger teammates.

★ ★ ★

The Tigers then joined the celebration to congratulate Oyler, of whom manager Mayo Smith commented afterward, "He may not swing the mighty bat, but without his glove we wouldn't have been as close in the pennant race last year, believe me."

WHISPERS CONGRATUALTIONS

"I wanted to join in the fun of the silent treatment, but I couldn't when he came into the dugout, I was as happy as he was and I had to whisper congratulations to him," said Smith.

★ ★ ★

For Horton, it was the second time this year he has hit two homers in one game, the other coming May 3 against the California Angels.

The second blast which just cleared the fence at the 365 foot mark in left field, came in the sixth inning with Al Kaline on base after Kaline had walked.

★ ★ ★

For Wilson, now with a 4-4 record, it was also a happy win and his first shutout since September of 1966.

The Tigers collected only three hits off McNally, the three homers. They managed two more off reliefer Moe Drabowsky on singles by Wilson and Mickey Stanley in the seventh inning.

★ ★ ★

Wilson allowed only four hits and was in real trouble only in the fifth inning when Dave May started the inning with a drive down the left field line.

★ ★ ★

He utilized his speed to stretch the hit into a triple but when the next batter Mark Belanger hit a fly ball to shallow right field, Kaline dared May to try for the plate by whipping the ball into home with a near strike

May backtracked and was left stranded on third as McNally struck out and Paul Blair popped to Dick McAuliffe at second.

★ ★ ★

The Tigers continued their "Who's Who on First" game with Bill Freehan making his first appearance at the position. Freehan is the fifth player to wear the first baseman's mitt this season.

Stanley was back in centerfield in place of Jim Northrup who was out with a slight leg injury.

Against right-hander Hardin tonight, Smith said he might have either of the lefties Norm Cash or Tom Matchik at first.

★ ★ ★

With the victory the Tigers stayed two games up on the Cleveland Indians who rallied to beat the Yankees last night, 4-2.

The Orioles, who had an eight game winning streak going before losing to the Tigers last week, have now lost seven straight games in their current slump.

McLain Faces Hardin Eying Sixth Straight

The largest night game crowd of the season and second largest since opening day is expected tonight when Denny McLain of the Detroit Tigers and Jim Hardin of the Baltimore Orioles face each other in Tiger Stadium.

McLain and Hardin are the winningest pitchers on their respective teams thus far.

The Tiger right-hander has a 5-0 record, having won his last five starts, after the first two starting assignments were victories picked up by reliefers.

Hardin has a 4-1 record to date and a 3.18 earned run average. He has completed two of six starts.

BEST START

McLain is enjoying the best start of his Tiger career, including his 20-game year in 1966.

He has 52 strikeouts in 59 innings and carries an earned run average of 1.83 into tonight's contest.

Against the Orioles, McLain was 3-1 last year and has an over-all career mark of 7-7.

Hardin's lone mark last year against Detroit was a 3-2 setback which was the result of Ray Oyler's three-run homer on August 13th.

It was Oyler's only homer of 1967 and gave Earl Wilson the victory, just as his first homer of 1968 helped Wilson to a 4-0 win last night.

TIGER NOTES

By comparative dates with last year, the Tigers were a game and a half behind the league lead with a record of 18-10 compared to 18-10 mark for a two game margin yesterday, which is now the same at 19-10.

★ ★ ★

Al Kaline needs one more homer to set an all time Tiger record for home runs. He and Hank Greenberg are tied with 306.

★ ★ ★

Ed Mathews also has a home run record within reach. He needs two to tie Mel Ott with 511 for the sixth position on the all-time major league list.

Sunday's doubleheader with the Washington Senators will feature free cap day for the youngsters in attendance.

Milwaukee Takes Tentative Step Back to Majors

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Milwaukee takes a tentative step back into the big leagues tonight after two seasons as the city baseball all but forgot.

The last-place Chicago White Sox, starting as poorly at the box office as they have in the American League pennant race, meet the California Angels in the first of nine regular season games the White Sox plan to play in Milwaukee.

★ ★ ★

The advance sale has approached 20,000 tickets. That is almost double the largest crowd the White Sox have drawn so far this season in Chicago.

Mild weather could bring out a crowd in excess of 30,000.

SINCE 1965

The game will be the first in Milwaukee to count in the major league standings since September 1965. The Braves ended a stay of 13 seasons at County Stadium that fall and headed for Atlanta.

Since then the only baseball played at the stadium has been the annual Firemen's vs. Policemen's game and two White Sox exhibitions, including one this April with the Chicago Cubs, drew a total of 71,000 fans.

MESSES UP POP-UP — Baltimore Orioles catcher Curt Blefary, twisting backward in an effort to grab the ball, was saddled with an error on the play when a foul pop-up off the bat of Detroit's Al Kaline hit Blefary's glove and bounced out. Diving too late to make a catch of Blefary's misplay is third baseman Brooks Robinson. The play came in the third inning.

Zittel Leaves Coaching Ranks

COMPLETE CIRCUIT — Detroit Tigers' leftfielder Willie Horton makes the turn at the plate as he scores after belting a second-inning solo home run against the Baltimore Orioles in Detroit last night. Walloping Willie belted another in the sixth with Al Kaline aboard and Detroit went on to a 4-0 victory. Don Wert makes with the handshake as Willie crosses the plate. Oriole catcher is Curt Blefary and the umpire is Lou DiMuro.

Aide at PCH in Line for Job

Naming of a new head basketball coach at Pontiac Central High School is expected to come this week.

The new coach will step into the spot vacated by Fred Zittel, who stepped down after five years at the Chiefs' helm.

★ ★ ★

Chief among the candidates for the post is Ralph Grubb, assistant to Zittel for the past five seasons.

Zittel, 38, compiled an impressive record during his five years as head man of the Chiefs.

After succeeding Art VanRyzin in 1963, Zittel took the PCH quintet to the state Class A semifinals that season — the team's best showing — and he led the Chiefs to district championships the next four campaigns.

LONG TENURE

This past season was the worst, from a record standpoint, for Zittel. The team finished with a 12-8 record but Zittel insisted the record had nothing to do with his decision to leave the coaching ranks.

"I feel I've coached long enough," says Zittel. "Not that I feel I've done my part. It's just that I've been at it for 15 years and I'd like to get away from it.

★ ★ ★

"The decision is a happy one for me. There's been no pressure here. The administration has been wonderful."

Rumors were that some outside interference had created some team problems and it was suggested that perhaps Zittel was quitting because of that.

"No, our season had nothing to do with my decision," he said. "I had informed the administration last fall that this would be my last year of coaching."

GRADUATE WORK

Getting away from coaching will enable Zittel to resume working toward a master's degree. He indicated he would start right away. Meanwhile, he will continue teaching at PCH.

Zittel played basketball, football and baseball at Pontiac Central, graduating in 1947. He earned a bachelor's degree from Toledo University in 1951.

City Keeps Super Bowl

Pro Gridders Like Miami

ATLANTA (AP) — Pro football owners, who apparently consider Miami the land of sunshine, sellouts and success, plan to stage their Super Bowl battle in the Florida city again next year.

"These men are businessmen, and they know you can't beat success," Miami Mayor Steve Clark said in explaining why Miami was awarded the 1969 showdown between champions of the American and National football leagues.

★ ★ ★

The 1968 Super Bowl was a 75,000-seat sellout in the Orange Bowl last January. Apparently that was enough to offset a guarantee of 80,000 fans made by New Orleans backers hoping to stage the next game in the Sugar Bowl.

New Orleans had been considered the early favorite, but in a voice vote Tuesday owners of 25 NFL and AFL teams gave unanimous approval to return the game to Miami. New Orleans abstained.

NOT INFORMED

The decision left New Orleans Mayor Vic Schiro "depressed," and he told newsmen the owners had not informed him before announcing that the game would be held in Miami.

Miami will charge $35,000 again next year for rental of the Orange Bowl. Rental apparently did not have an effect on the owners, although New Orleans started out by asking for 12 per cent of the gate, or about $90,000.

★ ★ ★

Schiro told newsmen that was the percentage after he made his pitch to the owners. However, Commissioner Pete Rozelle said later he had been told by the Tulane board of administrators which operates the Sugar Bowl that the stadium would be available for $40,000.

Early, Early Camp Planned for Detroit Lion Rookies

Don't look now, but pro football which had already moved onto the sports scene in mid-July, will now take up some of the sports beat in early June.

Like many other pro teams, the Detroit Lions are planning an "entry exam" for their draft choices, free agents and sophomore players, June 3-6, at a site still to be decided.

★ ★ ★

During the four day workout, for the purpose of learning the club's terminology and plays and to be tested for various positions, coach Joe Schmidt and the entire coaching staff will conduct the drills for 50-60 players.

GET ACCLIMATED

"We are doing this to get the kids acclimated to our system, making it easier for them and for us when we start regular camp," said Schmidt.

★ ★ ★

"We want to work with the quarterbacks and receivers, check out weights and make all off them aware of their physical condition," added Schmidt.

It is expected that this will be the first appearance of the Lion's newly obtained quarterback Bill Munson, along with quarterbacks Karl Sweetan, No. 1 choice Greg Landry, No. 6 choice Greg Barton and red-shirt quarterback from 1967, Tim Jones.

ON ROOKIE ROSTER

Included on the rookie roster is Nick Eddy, the Lions' No. 1 choice from Notre Dame in 1967 who sat out the entire year with a leg injury which necessitated surgery.

Jerry DePoyster, the punter and place kicking specialist from Wyoming will also be put to a test. Regular kicker Pat Studstill was involved in the trade to Los Angeles for Munson, leaving Lem Barney and DePoyster to handle the kicking.

Regular reporting date for rookie camp is July 9 and for veterans it is July 15 at Cranbrook.

Indians Stay in Pace With Yankee Errors

CLEVELAND (AP) — The red-hot Cleveland Indians, helped by two errors by New York shortstop Gene Michael, pushed across two runs in the seventh inning and beat the Yankees 4-2 Tuesday night for their fifth straight victory and 11th in the last 12 games.

The Yankees led 2-1 on Andy Kosco's fifth-inning homer and relief pitcher Jim Bouton had hurled five scoreless innings when the Indians mounted their winning rally.

Larry Brown beat out a hit to short and continued to second when Michael threw the ball into the Cleveland dugout. After Brown took third on Lee Maye's fly ball, Joe Verbanic relieved Bouton.

SAFE AT THIRD

Jose Cardenal walked and Chico Salmon singled in the tying run and took second on a throw to third trying to get Cardenal.

★ ★ ★

Max Alvis was purposely passed, loading the bases. Michael then bobbled Tony Hortons' sharp double-play grounder as the lead run scored.

The Indians added a run in the eighth.

Both teams scored in the opening inning. The Yankees got a run on Roy White's single, Mickey Mantle's double and Kosco's infield roller.

Cleveland knotted it on singles by Salmon, Alvis and Joe Azcue off Yankee starter Al Downing, who left after one inning with a recurrence of a shoulder strain.

Turbine Machines Attract Drivers at Indy Speedway

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Lloyd Ruby, Wichita Falls, Tex., was behind the wheel of one of Andy Granatelli's turbo-cars Tuesday at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, joining a number of drivers assigned to piston powered machines who have tried out the turbines.

The machine in which Ruby hit 166.451 m.p.h. Tuesday is without a driver. This is the car assigned to rookie Mike Spence of England who was killed last week when another Granatelli turbine crashed at the "500" track.

POSSIBLE 'RIDE'

While Ruby remained assigned to a piston-driven racer, there was the usual speculation that he might "get a ride" in the Granatelli machine, which Spence had above 169 m.p.h. hours before he crashed.

Speed Tuesday were somewhat slower than on previous days of "500" practice, due in part to the 80 degree weather.

★ ★ ★

Ruby's speed was second fastest of the day, only behind a 166.698 lap turned by Mario Andretti, Nazareth, Pa. Defending race champion A. J. Foyt, Houston, was clocked at 165.868 m.p.h.

Two Triples Spark Michigan to Victory

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Four runs on two triples and two errors in the fourth inning gave the University of Michigan baseball team a commanding lead toward an 8-3 victory over host Western Michigan Tuesday.

The winning pitcher was Dave Rankewiz who relieved starter Steve Evans in the third inning.

★ ★ ★

Michigan had 13 hits and two errors to Western Michigan's 11 hits and six errors.

Michigan now has won 12, lost 15. Western Michigan has a 13-9-1 record.

Money Problems Head List

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Big Ten Conference athletic directors wrestled with money problems Tuesday but kept to themselves any conclusions they might have reached on how to ease the financial pinch in which the Midwest universities find themselves.

Commissioner Bill Reed was not here for the opening of the spring conference business meeting. He may come here late Wednesday for Thursday's sessions, but won't know until Wednesday whether he can make the trip. Reed is recovering from recent surgery.

★ ★ ★

Reed's absence tended to make Tuesday's session more routine than might have been expected.

★ ★ ★

John Dewey, Reed's assistant, said there was nothing on the agenda which he could foresee provoking any controversy. It was learned that talk centered on how to finance athletic programs whose revenues are declining.

RED-SHIRTING

"The two main controversial items were voted on in March," Dewey said. "They are the four-year rule (against red-shirting athletes) and allowing freshmen to compete in varsity sports. They are not on the agenda here to be taken up again. That doesn't mean someone might not bring them up, but I haven't heard any talk about them."

Dewey said the only matter voted upon Tuesday was an "editorial revision" in a revised ticket policy approved last December. He said Tuesday's session was devoted largely to committee reports.

Dewey also reported that the agenda does not cover the Michigan, Michigan State and Minnesota cases in which athletes allegedly received certain favors—such as free or reduced movie tickets—above conference allowances for scholarships. This is because Reed is not here.

NO CASES

"No enforcement cases at all are coming up at these meetings," Dewey said.

Minnesota baseball Coach Dick Siebert hoped to revive during this meeting a vote on making it mandatory that baseball games rained out Saturday be made up Sunday. Presently coaches must agree to make up games on Sunday. Big Ten directors tabled the proposal in January.

★ ★ ★

Wednesday is a day of relaxation for the directors, faculty representatives and other Big Ten officials attending the meetings. There will be golf and an evening dinner.

The meetings resume Thursday, with Reed due to meet both with athletic directors and faculty representatives if he is able to come to Minneapolis from Chicago.

The conference has scheduled a noon press conference Thursday to disclose publicly what actions were taken during the meetings. The meetings continue Saturday morning, and are due to conclude in time for the Big Ten track meet at the University of Minnesota's Memorial Stadium starting at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Track preliminaries will be run Friday evening.

Central's Zittel Leaves Coaching Ranks

He taught at Dublin School in 1952-53 and served as basketball coach. He moved to Pontiac Central as a social studies teacher and assistant basketball coach in 1953.

During Zittel's five years as head coach, the Chiefs piled up a record of 78-25 and earned a share of the Saginaw Valley Conference championship in 1965-66.

After Fred's 1963 season when the team managed a 17-4 record and made it to the state semifinals, he was honored as the county's "Outstanding Coach" for the 1963-64 season.

Zittel, his wife, Sally, and three children reside at 2703 Colrain.

Young Pro Amazed by Big Money

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — "It's an amazing thing, really. You're involved in a $5.5 million business. It's hard to conceive where all that money is coming from."

So spoke Charles Coody, a Texan and one of golfdom's young capitalists who earned $70,000 waving golf clubs around the country last year.

★ ★ ★

More than $60,000 was official PGA money. And Charles didn't win a tournament.

"You get to thinking about it, $100,000 each week. That's a lot of cash. . . where's it going to stop? I don't know. Who would have thought five or six years ago. . .it would be this much?

"Who's to say that 10 years from now they won't all be $300,000 tournaments? Or they might be $10,000. They might go in reverse, but I don't think so.

HE'LL TAKE IT

"It's hard to see where it's all coming from, but I'll take it.

Coody, 30, a PGA tourist five years, ranked 16th in money winnings last year. He took down $13,500 here, nearly overtaking champion Dave Stockton on the final round but winding up second.

As a former Texas Christian University player, he is familiar with the 7,000-yard Colonial course where the $125,000 National Invitation Tournament opens Thursday.

★ ★ ★

While the economics of professional golf are staggering, he said the climate is healthy, that the caliber of golf is improving, despite the frequent absence of such stars as Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer.

Nicklaus won $188,998 officially last year while Palmer was earning $184,065. Neither is here. Both skipped the recent Las Vegas Tournament of Champions and its top prize of $30,000.

Chiefs Seek League Title

League-leading Pontiac Central will entertain Bay City in a Saginaw Valley Conference doubleheader tomorrow. The first game starts at 3 p.m. at Wisner Field.

The Chiefs, with an 11-3 record, have the top-ranked squad in the county and they are bidding for their first baseball championship since the early 1950's.

Deadlock Noted in Stadium Bid

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The Erie County legislature, deadlocked 10-10 Tuesday night over approval of a $50 million bond issue for construction of a domed sports stadium in the Buffalo area, postponed further action until Thursday.

Approval of the issue would have bolstered the city's bid for a National League baseball franchise and retention of the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League.

I Bet You Didn't Know

By John Carter

Here's one to test your baseball knowledge . . . We're going to list four of the most famous managers of all-time . . . Then see if you are able to name the position on the field each of these men played before they became managers . . . Leo Durocher . . . Al Lopez . . . Walt Alston . . . Casey Stengel . . . Can you name the positions each played? If not, here are the answers . . . Durocher was a shortstop . . . Lopez was a catcher . . . Alston was a first baseman . . . And, Stengel was an outfielder.

Ever wonder what are the average number of no-hit games in the big leagues per season . . . Since 1900 there have been 121 no-hitters in the majors . . . That figures out to an average of 1.8 no-hitters per year.

One of the most ironic twists in the history of sports occurred in the tragic death of the popular golfer Tony Lema . . . When Lema was killed in July, 1966, in a plane crash his plane came down of all places, on a golf course . . . Lema was flying from Akron, Ohio, to Chicago when his plane crashed onto the 7th hole of a golf course near Lansing, Ill.

SETS WHIFF MARK — Rookie Nolan Ryan of the New York Mets is a happy young man after striking out a club record 14 batters en route to a 3-2 victory over Cincinnati. Ryan flipped a four-hitter.

Red or White, Sox Win

BOSTON (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski raced home on a throwing error by catcher Paul Casanova in the 10th inning Tuesday night, giving the Boston Red Sox a 5-4 victory over the Washington Senators.

Joe Foy opened the 10th with a triple to right center field off Dennis Higgins. The Senators' reliever then walked Yastrzemski and Reggie Smith intentionally, filling the bases with none out.

Ken Harrelson grounded to shortstop Ron Hansen, whose throw to the plate forced Foy, but Casanova's peg to first sailed into right field, enabling Yastrzemski to score the winning run.

★ ★ ★

Frank Howard's 10th and 11th home runs of the season sparked the Senators to a 4-0 lead, but Harrelson and Yastrzemski sparked Boston rallies in the sixth and seventh that knotted the game 4-4.

CHISOX WIN, 7-6

CHICAGO (AP) — Duane Josephson's home run with two out in the seventh inning gave Chicago a 7-6 victory over the California Angels Tuesday night after the White Sox had blown a five-run lead.

★ ★ ★

The victory was the sixth in eight games for the White Sox, who meet the Angels again Wednesday night in the first of nine games they will play in Milwaukee this year.

★ ★ ★

Josephson's first homer of the season came off reliever Minnie Rojas after the Angels had battled their way into a 6-6 tie with the help of seventh inning homers by Chuck Hinton and pinch hitter Roger Repoz.

★ ★ ★

Sox starter Gary Peters slammed a triple and a double, drove in two runs and scored two more.

Ryan, Reed Triumph

Young Hurlers in NL Spotlight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nolan Ryan and Ron Reed are having the time of their young lives throwing smoke past National League batters.

Old pro Don Drysdale is throwing shutouts for survival.

★ ★ ★

Ryan, the New York Mets' rookie sensation, and Reed, Atlanta's first-year flash, each zipped to his fourth victory of the season Tuesday night.

Drysdale, meanwhile, fired a two-hitter for his first triumph in a month as the Los Angeles Dodgers squeezed by the Chicago Cubs 1-0. The 13-year Dodger veteran had lost three straight well-pitched games after beating New York in his first start . . . by a 1-0 count.

CLUB RECORD

Ryan shackled Cincinnati on four hits and struck out 14 for a club record in hurling the Mets to a 3-2 decision over the Reds. Reed scattered five hits in subduing Philadelphia 3-1 for his fourth victory without a loss.

Frank Johnson's first major league home run carried the San Francisco Giants past Houston 2-1 in the only other NL game. The Pittsburgh-St. Louis contest was rained out.

Drysdale, coming off successive 13-16 seasons of the feeble-hitting Dodgers, blanked the Mets on four hits April 13, then was beaten by Atlanta 2-1, by San Francisco 3-0 and by Philadelphia 3-2.

★ ★ ★

Tuesday night, he limited the Cubs to a fourth inning single by Don Kessinger and a fifth inning single by opposing pitcher Ferguson Jenkins. The 31-year-old right-hander finished with seven strikeouts, including a pair that got him out of serious jams. Drysdale fanned Ernie Banks in the fourth, stranding Chicago runners on second and third. He left Cubs on first and third in the fifth by striking out Kessinger.

ONLY RUN

The Dodgers pushed over the game's only run in the sixth when Wes Parker singled, took third on Willie Davis' single and scored as Ron Fairly bounced into a force out.

Ryan, 21, struck out five of the last six Cincinnati batters to break the Mets' single game strikeout mark of 13 set by Dick Selma three years ago in a 10-inning game against Milwaukee. Tom Seaver fanned 12 in nine innings during his sensational 1967 rookie season.

★ ★ ★

Reed, the 25-year-old former pro basketball prospect with the Detroit Pistons, struck out five and walked none in going the distance for the second time in four winning starts. Hank Aaron's two-run homer in the fifth provided the magin for the 6-foot-6 right-hander as the Braves rolled to the fifth victory in their last six games.

Spencer Floor won but lost last night in Waterford Township fast pitch softball action.

★ ★ ★

Catcher - outfielder Harry Dearborn suffered a fractured ankle sliding into third base during Spencer's 15-0 romp over Ward Body.

★ ★ ★

The victory raised Spencer's record to 4-0 while Ward suffered its third straight loss. Jim Patterson collected three singles, drove in two runs and scored three times to pace the attack. Doug Hall held Ward to one hit in the five-inning contest.

★ ★ ★

Jerry Thomas and Al Sherman combined for a two-hitter as Day's Sanitary (3-0) whipped Huron Bowl (1-2), 6-1. Paul Adkins led the winners with a pair of singles.

In a blooperball game, Lakeland Pharmacy downed Huntoon, 11-6. Action in Pontiac's softball leagues was rained out last night.

Steward Hearing Nearing Climax in Derby Case

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The climax of the 1968 Kentucky Derby, 11 days late, appeared near at hand today as a stewards hearing into the disqualification of Dancer's Image as the winner neared end.

★ ★ ★

The three Churchill Downs stewards, racing's judge and jury, pondered more than 29 hours of testimony from a parade of eight witnesses, with Lou Cavalaris, trainer of Dancer's Image, due back today for a flying trip to work his horse in Baltimore.

★ ★ ★

Only one day remained before entries were due to Saturday's Preakness and the stewards made it known they wanted to finish the hearing so the colt's name could be dropped into the Pimlico entry box. Involved is an illegal administration of a pain-killer to Dancer's Image.

Lee in Warriors' Post

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — George Lee is the new coach of the San Francisco Warriors but he could quit today if he wanted to.

Warrior boss Franklin Mieuli likes it that way.

★ ★ ★

"I'm disenchanted with contracts," said Mieuli in a news conference Tuesday.

"Lee didn't ask me for one and I didn't offer one.

"I had one formal contract and one informal one and they didn't work out," Mieuli said. "No contract can be binding if a coach does not have his heart in it."

PAY BOOSTS

Mieuli did say that Lee, former assistant coach, and Lee's assistant, guard Al Attles, were given pay boosts. Lee's salary was estimated at $20,000 a year.

He succeeds Bill Sharman, who left a $40,000-a-year job to become coach and part owner of the Los Angeles Stars of the rival American Basketball Association.

★ ★ ★

Mieuli has said Sharman's contract had a year to go.

Mieuli had tried to sign Alex Hannum, also for $40,000, but Hannum joined the Oakland Oaks of the ABA.

Lee and Attles are each 31. Lee, 6-foot-4 former Michigan player, said he would not become a player-coach.

"Becoming a coach will enable me to retire gracefully as a player," Lee said. He came to the Warriors from the Detroit Pistons in 1962.

Attles, 6-foot-2 former North Carolina A&T star, said he would play "as long as I can." He has been with the Warriors throughout his seven years as a pro.

SCORING SLIDE — Outfielder Roy White slides home under the tag of catcher Joe Azcue with the New York Yankees first run in their 4-2 loss to the Cleveland Indians last night in Cleveland. White had singled, moved to third on Mickey Mantle's double and raced home on Andy Kosco's infield grounder.

O-A Baseball Race Tighter

A masterful piece of pitching work by a junior right-hander has put Clawson in a virtual tie for the lead in the Oakland A League baseball race.

Dave Freeza went the entire route as Clawson blanked Rochester in 13 innings, 1-0, raising the Trojans' record in O-A play to 5-2. League-leading Utica is 4-1.

★ ★ ★

The hard-throwing Freeza fanned 25 and walked only two in the marathon performance and he finished with a flurry by fanning the side in the 13th. The 25 whiffs rasies his total in 48 innings this season to 77 and his won-lost record jumped to 5-1.

Sharing the starring role with Freeza was senior Paul Rajala, who singled, stole serond, moved to third on a wild pitch and came home on a suicide squeeze by Greg Vlahakis.

Ed Talley collected two of Rochester's four hits.

As a Trainer

Gal Making History on Track

BALTIMORE (AP) — Judy Johnson, the only woman ever licensed as a jockey and one of racing's first female trainers, will make Preakness history Saturday when she saddles Sir Beau in the $150,000-added classic.

★ ★ ★

Two women have trained Kentucky Derby starters—the last was Mary Keim with sixth-place finisher Mr. Pak in 1965—but Miss Johnson's Paddock Walk at Pimlico will be a first for the Preakness.

★ ★ ★

"This is a dream come true," Miss Johnson said. "It's something you never expect to come your way. 'I've been waiting 40 years."

Judy started as a trainer in 1935, and in 1944 she was licensed to ride in steeplechase events. More than a mere wartime replacement, she won eight races in Canada after two out-of-the-money mounts in Maryland.

"When I returned to Maryland in the fall of 1944," she said, "the stewards said I could have stalls for my horses but indicated they didn't want me to ride any more."

★ ★ ★

Miss Johnson then concentrated on training horses, for which she was licensed in 1935. One of her horses was Floating Isle, who was named steeplechase Horse-of-the-Year in 1947.

★ ★ ★

One of 10 children of a trainer, Judy was born near France's famed Chantilly track and grew up near the Newmarket track in England.

When her American father, Edward Johnson, moved back to the United States, Judy began to gallop horses for him at Belmont Park.

HELPED FATHER

None of Judy's four brothers or five sisters became involved in the sport. "Mother didn't want the boys around horses, and I just started to help father," she said.

Sir Beau won the $25,000 New Year's Day Handicap at Laurel on Jan. 1, beating Dancer's Image before the disqualified Kentucky Derby winner came into his own.

★ ★ ★

Sir Beau finished second in the Pimlico Stakes, was third in a division of the Bay Shore Handicap and ran second to Dancer's Image in the Governor's Gold Cup.

★ ★ ★

After running out of the money in the Wood Memorial, Sir Beau was third in the Woodlawn Stakes at Pimlico on grass.

Miss Johnson says there's a definite place in racing for women trainers.

★ ★ ★

"Why not?" she said. "It's not that complicated. It's 95 per cent luck getting a good horse in the first place. If you have a good horse, the sex of the trainer means nothing."

SOMETHING FISHY HERE — We've all heard of hunting dogs, but a dog that likes fishing is something unusual. Pepper, a one and a half-year-old part Labrador and Husky owned by Robert Bennett of Port Carling, Ont., puts the bite on a sucker in his favorite fishing hole. Like some human anglers, Pepper likes the chase; but doesn't like to eat what he catches.

32nd Annual Fishing Contest Opens Today

Northern Pike Season Starts on State Lakes

Walleye Action Good on St. Clair; Large Trout Caught

It seems to happen ever year. The northern pike and muskie opener on inland lakes sneaks up almost unannounced. Only the dedicated pike anglers keep track. They noted that the season opened today.

★ ★ ★

The 32nd annual Pontiac Press Fish Contest also starts today. There will be two divisions—pike and black bass. No bass entries will be accepted until the season opens Memorial Day.

Northern pike, muskies and walleyes caught in Oakland County are eligible for pike division honors. Weight is the only determining factor. The contest is restricted to residents of Oakland County.

BOND AWARD

A $50 savings bond will be awarded to the angler having the heaviest entry in the pike division. The contest will close Sept. 3 at noon.

Entries must be brought to The Press sports department for weighing between 7 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday. The building will not be open Sundays.

★ ★ ★

Some of the better pike lakes in the area are Orion, Oxbow, Commerce, Brendel, Pontiac, Deer, Bald Eagle, Orchard, Oakland and Perry.

Cass and Loon are fair for walleyes. Other lakes having some walleyes are White, Schoolhouse, Wormer, Union and Lakeville.

LAKP ST. CLAIR

The real walleye action at the moment is on Lake St. Clair from the spillway to Metropolitan Beach and around Peche Island. A few are being taken in the St. Clair River.

Trout action has slowed in the area, but two lunkers were caught last week at Lower Trout Lake in the Bald Mountain recreation area. One weighed 8¾ pounds and the other nine pounds. Both were browns.

There has been little activity on panfish.

NORTHERN PIKE—

However, some good crappies are being caught at Commerce and Kent lakes. Lake Louise is yielding a few large bluegills on poppers as is the Holly millpond.

Coho salmon fishing in southern Lake Michigan has slowed. The salmon appear to be moving out into the lake and probably will be heading north.

Deadly War of Survival

Coho Turn Tables on Lampreys

LANSING (AP) — There is an unseen but deadly war of survival going to beneath Great Lakes waters between the scrappy Coho salmon and the fish-killing sea lamprey.

Wayne, head of the State Conservation Department Fish Division, told of an unexpected development during a discussion of the need for funds to continue lamprey control in Lake Huron.

★ ★ ★

"The Coho salmon are eating up some of the lampreys," Tody reported.

One Coho salmon was found, he said, with three lampreys in its stomach.

DIFFERENT LAYER

Lake trout, main victims of the lampreys, live in an entirely different layer of water than the salmon, Tody explained.

Trout lurk down at the bottom of the lake, among the rocks and weeds. This also is the favorite prowling area of the lamprey in search of prey.

★ ★ ★

Thus the eel-like lampreys find it easy to attach themselves to the trout, scar the fish and perhaps eventually kill it by sucking out the life blood.

The Coho salmon swim in schools near the top on the water.

A lamprey has to swim upward to try and find a single victim among the salmon.

EASY VICTIM

A large enough salmon can easily swallow a medium-size lamprey. So one out of the school can attack the predator lamprey.

"If a salmon is big enough, it can protect itself," said Tody.

Almost any fair-sized salmon can swallow a small alamprey, thus keeping down the breeding population.

★ ★ ★

The lamprey looks much like the smaller fish that are the favorite food of the always-hungry salmon.

Enough still is not known about the salmon-lamprey relationship, Tody said. But he said this adds an interesting aspect to the problem of controlling the lamprey.

Fish biologists, however, cannot depend upon the salmon to control the lamprey.

SHORT OF FUNDS

That is why the Conservation Department is so concerned about the failure of the federal government to come through with its $150,000 share of the funds needed to chemically treat Lake Huron streams for control of the lamprey.

The department estimated that 29 per cent of the trout taken out of the lake have lamprey scars. One fisherman said that 50 per cent of his trout catch had been bled by the lamprey.

Tody pointed out, however, that fish are more vulnerable to the lamprey when they are caught in a net.

Because Lake Huron streams are untreated, lamprey are spreading again into lakes Michigan and Superior.

If the treatment is not continued, said Tody: "We'll lost everything we have gained and will have to start all over again."

Mortality Rate High

Natural Salmon Hatch

Recent field reports indicate there is a widespread hatch of coho salmon this spring in northern Michigan streams where these fish returned to spawn last year and in new waters where they were transferred to test their natural reproduction.

Word from Conservation Department fisheries men reveals that baby coho are coming out of gravel spawning beds and beginning to feed in the Ocqueoc, Big Huron, Pine, Manistee, Platte, Boardman and other rivers.

★ ★ ★

Among those "encouraged" by these developments is trout and salmon specialist Dave Borgeson who notes:

"This is one more good indication that coho are adapting well to Michigan waters, but it isn't the whole story by any means."

His qualifying comments are tied to the fact that these tiny fish, now about 1½ inches long, still face a year of stream life before they will be mature enough to move into the Great Lakes. About 90 per cent will not make it.

Says Borgeson: "They have a lot of roadblocks to pass between now and then, and warm water in the summer plus predation are probably the biggest. Also, these fish will have to find sufficient stream food to carry them through their first yean."

Rides Five Winners

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Jockey Mike Manganello rode five winners at Churchill Downs Tuesday.

Crystine Jones on U. S. Team

Named Reserve Rider for Olympics

Crystine Jones of Bloomfield Hills has been named a reserve on the U.S. Olympic equestrian team.

Four veteran Olympians—Bill Steinkraus, Kathy Kusner and Frank and Mary Chapot—were selected on the No. 1 team after last weekend's trials at Hamilton Farm in Gladstone, N.J.

★ ★ ★

All four comprised the U.S. riding team in 1964 at Tokyo, but failed to win a medal.

Other horsemen named reserves were Carl Hofman, North Branch, N.J. and Neal Shapiro, Glen Head, N.Y.

JUMPING TEAM

Those selected after the Gladstone trial are on the jumping team. Trials for the Olympic three-day and Grand Prix de Dressage will be later in the summer.

Bert DeNemethy is coach of the jumping team.

Steinkraus, from Norwich, Conn., holds the world indoor record with a jump of 7 feet, 3 inches. Miss Kusner of Alexandria, Va., won the women's world championship last year. The Chapots are from Wallpack, N.J.

Local Angler Discovers Carp's Fighting Ability

A local fisherman and some of his friends have discovered that the lowly carp is underrated in the sport fishing department.

"I didn't know you could have so much fun on light tackle with carp," said Paul Etter, 7 Bloomfield Terrace. "My friends and I have been having a ball this spring.

★ ★ ★

"The other night I hooked one that just kept going; I couldn't turn him." Etter uses light spinning gear with six-pound test line.

ON BOTTOM

He uses dampened shredded wheat fished on the bottom. The carp are spawning and in shallow water. "Canals are a good place right now," Etter pointed out, "but all lakes have carp."

He and his friends caught eight between Otter and Sylvan lakes, the largest going eight pounds.

Complete Deal for Falls Site

Laughing Whitefish Falls, one of Upper Michigan's natural scenic spots in northwestern Alger County, has been deeded to the Conservation Department by The Celotex Corporation.

The department received from the firm an outright gift of 100 acres embracing the Falls and its core area, and also gained 260 acres of adjacent Celotex lands which include the scenic gorge below the Falls.

★ ★ ★

In exchange for the 260-acre tract, Celotex picked up 1,440 acres of state forest lands in four different locations of Baraga County. Lands involved in the trade were of approximate equal value.

The entire 360-acre area acquired by the department has been dedicated by the Conservation Commission as a state park site.

Glenn C. Gregg, the Department's Deputy Director of Recreation, reports that the new site will be managed to preserve its unique scenic qualities and not developed as a camping or picnicking area.

Duck Hunters Meet Tonight

The proposed quality hunting regulations for parts of the St. Clair Flats and Saginaw Bay will be discussed tonight during the Oakland County Duck Hunters Club meeting.

District game supervisor Howard Greene of Pontiac Lake, Flats manager Leo Poschipal and Jim Foote of Pointe Mouille will be Conservation Department representatives for the 8 p.m. session at the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club.

Jack Greathouse of OCSC was elected president of the duck hunters group at its last meeting.

Heads Swim Team

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Ross Wales, a 21-year-old junior from Youngstown, Ohio, was elected captain of the 1969 Princeton swimming team Tuesday.

Drop One Notch

Michigan No. 3 in License Sales

Michigan slipped a notch to the No. 3 spot during the 1967 fiscal year as a national leader in hunting and fishing license sales, reports the U.S. Bureau of sport fisheries and wildlife.

★ ★ ★

This state drew 1,840,912 licensed sportsmen last year, placing it behind California and Minnesota. California boasted the nation's largest hunting and fishing force, numbering 2,609,895 license buyers. Minnesota edged into second place with 1,843,046.

Michigan's turnout of licensed hunters totaled 912,275, ranking second to Pennsylvania's front-running figure of 995,190. Its lineup of hunters, down about 14,000 from the year before, bought 1,273,247 licenses, permits, and stamps at a cost of $5,596,000.

★ ★ ★

Undoubtedly much on the strength of the trout and salmon program, this state's army of anglers jumped 20,000 over 1966 with a count of 928,637 licensees.

Only California, Minnesota, Texas, and Wisconsin hosted more fishermen.

Michigan's fishermen last year spent $2,653,621 for 1,137,751 licenses and stamps.

★ ★ ★

Collectively, the nation's states attracted 36.8 million hunters and fishermen who paid a record $154 million in various license fees.

★ ★ ★

Compared with 1966, license spending was up $4 million among hunters and $6 million among fishermen.

This advice is made necessary by the Communist regime's fear that any able-bodied East German who went to any but Socialist countries might not come back.

★ ★ ★

Where they can go is made clear for vacationing East Germans in a layout put together by the official travel agency, with the cover title "Travel Tips '68".

The travel journal says Bulgaria, Poland, Hungary, Romania and Czechoslovakia, as well as the Soviet Union, are favorite vacation goals

Handy Czechoslovakia and the sunny Black Sea beaches of Romania and Bulgaria are used by many East Germans to meet their relatives from West Germany.

Auto trips to the East are possible, but over prescribed routes.

★ ★ ★

The most exotic vacation offered is a 24-day trip to the People's Republic of Mongolia by air that includes five days in the Soviet Union. Cost: about 3,500 East marks, or $850 at the tourist rate.

Trips to comparatively exposed Yugoslavia are restricted to air trips ranging from 15 to 21 days.

NOT YET CLEAR

Whether Czechoslovakia's liberalization drive will have any long-range effect on officially approved East German wanderlust is not yet clear.

There is one "Western" loophole-Communist Cuba.

★ ★ ★

Offered are combined air and sea trips, that vary in price according to class from $928 to $1,250.

There is a 32-day trip aboard the liner Voelkerfreundschaft-People's Friendship — that includes seven days on land in Cuba, the rest at sea.

Area Families to Host 7 Swiss

The Waterford-Drayton Rotary Club, in cooperation with the Experiment in International Living, Putney, Vt., is sponsoring the Waterford Township arrival Monday of seven Swiss businessmen.

Each of the seven businessmen will live for 2½ weeks with a Waterford Township family.

★ ★ ★

This is a project in international understanding through family living, according to Dr. Ashton W. Emery and James C. Covert, community cochairmen.

★ ★ ★

Through family and group activities, the Swiss will learn about American life and share their own way of life with their American hosts and friends.

BUSINESS METHODS

Following its departure from the Pontiac area June 7, the group will attend a six-week academic program on American business methods at the University of Massachusetts.

The home-stay families involved are the Ashton W. Emerys, the Don O. Tatroes, the James B. Boazes, the Frank Williamsons, the Eldean Chews, the Russell R. Grinnells and the Carlos Richardsons, all of Waterford Township.

★ ★ ★

Some of the points of interest scheduled for the group's visit are: an automobile plant production line and offices; a dairy farm and local processing plant; the business offices of the Waterford Township School District; the Michigan State Legislature in Lansing; the regional offices of a large retail food chain; business offices of a large department store; the Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village; and Cranbrook.

The Rotary committee for this local international exchange project consists of Emery, Covert, Chew and Robert J. Beattie.

Representing the "Experiment" locally and assisting with the planning are Mrs. William Shunck, Mrs. Grinnell and Mrs. Jack Mandiberg.

The "Experiment," a nonprofit organization with affiliates in 60 countries, has been conducting this type of educational exchange since its inception in 1932.

★ ★ ★

This year, alone, nearly 3,000 "Experimenters" will come to the U.S. from more than 100 different nations.

Approximately 2,500 young Americans will visit Europe, Latin America, the Middle East, Asia and Africa through similar "Experiment" home-stay and study programs.

Haunting Strains

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Some recent issues of a magazine published by the musicians' union lists the Tabor Theater in Denver as being "unfair."

Musicians have not been used there since 1964. That was the year the theatre was torn down.

Youths Held in Burglaries

BELLAIRE (AP)—Two Bellaire youths waived examination Tuesday at their arraignments stemming from a series of summer home burglaries in Antrim County.

Charles Speet, 18, is charged with car theft and burglary. He was held in lieu of $1,000 bond. Larry Smith, 18, was held under $500 bond on a burglary charge.

★ ★ ★

Police said the chain of burglaries came to light last Sunday when Speet's father, Fred, reported his home ransacked and car missing. The two youths were picked up, police said, and under questioning admitted burglarizing at least 10 summer cottages.

Dionne's Audience Appeal Derives From Her Coziness

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—I think Dionne Warwick, the busty beauty from New Jersey who went to Europe to make good, is such a success at the Copacabana because she keeps amazingly close contact with her audience, never getting away from those hearing her. In this she's like Judy Garland who was there—so were Joe Namath (and Alice Beatty), Dustin Hoffman and Bobby Goldsboro. When Dionne put on a blonde wig and mimicked Marlene Dietrich, well, well, well!

WILSON

Brooklyn, U.S.A. was the capital of Society when Mayor Lindsay entertained King Olov of Norway at the Brooklyn Museum. I asked David Susskind his plans and he said, "Broadway can shove it. It belongs to the theater owners, the theater party people, the women with new minks and diamonds who go to show off, irrespective of what's going on on the stage, to the featherbedding musicians who don't play music but play canasta . . . I'm not interested in Broadway any more."

Good line by Mayor Lindsay to the King: "I have great admiration for His Majesty because he first took office when he was 2 years old and has held the job ever since, which is not easy to do in these days . . ."

Looks like I lost my argument (temporarily) that Barbra Streisand is beautiful . . . My readers socked me with pan mail 10 to 1 against . . . But Johnny Desmond who was with her in "Funny Girl" once told me, "There are moments when she is truly beautiful" . . . You have to see her close up. You will, of course, in pictures . . . Then all you pan-mailers will come crawling to me to apologize for your rude remarks about my eyesight.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Jerry Lewis'll campaign for Bobby Kennedy. He'll head a show (with Andy Williams) in L.A. May 24, and appear in San Francisco. (Jerry's filming "Hook, Line and Sinker" with another RFK booster, Peter Lawford) . . . Louis Bellson's River boat opening, with wife Pearl Bailey in the audience, was the club's biggest. Pearl came onstage to sing, while Cab Calloway led the band.

Secret Stuff: The actress wife of a film star threatens to commit suicide if he doesn't insist that she co-star in his movies . . . Bob Tisch will convert eight of his theaters around the country into "piggy-backers"—two separate movie houses, one above the other.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Ours is the only society where this year's small economy car is bigger than last year's large luxury model.—Bill Copeland, Scarsdale.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Beware of mirrors. They can reflect only the image we have of ourselves."—Coco Chanel, McCall's.

EARL'S PEARLS: Isn't it strange how soon Later comes when you buy on credit Now?

Jim Mulholland writes he's attending a very dull college: "In fact, our idea of a student riot is two kids arguing over a parking space." . . . That's earl, brother.

YANKEES STAY HOME, IMPORT ENGLAND—Americans who feel glum about foreign-travel restrictions can cheer up. Good old Yankee ingenuity has come to the rescue. We're bringing England's treasures over here. A U.S. oil firm's purchase of London Bridge (top right) is the latest acquisition from Britain. The 136-year-old span succumbed to the weight of 20th-century traffic and will be moved block by block to Lake Havasu City, Ariz., where it will span a man-made lake in the desert. Bought for $2,240,000, the British landmark is already being dismantled for shipment to the "colonies" where it will join such other mementoes as the Queen Mary (top left), bought by the City of Long Beach, Calif.; the Queen Elizabeth (bottom right), bought by the City of Philadelphia; and the Church of St. Mary Aldermanbury, which was moved stone by stone from London to Fulton, Mo., to be reconstructed as part of the Winston Churchill Memorial and Library.

A Look at TV

Cat Show Offers Little

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Big Cats, Little Cats," the NBC special on Tuesday night, did not have much to offer that was new or startling about the feline species but it made some peripheral observations about the far-out cat lover.

★ ★ ★

The most interesting portions of the show dealt with these. There was, for instance, the report of a meeting of the Long Island Ocelot Club, consisting of a few of the 5,000 families in the nation who kept tame—well, pretty tame—mountain lions for house pets.

★ ★ ★

Then there was a California woman who is so fond of domesticated cats that at one time she had 105 of them, and has been engaged in continual disagreements with the authorities and neighbors for years. And then there was a woman shown using an electric toothbrush on her Persian's fangs.

There was a pair of cat lovers who spend $50,000 taking care of strays.

28 MILLION PETS

The researcher of the program estimated that there are 28 million house cats in this country and 10 million strays.

One cat lover, whose neighbors complained because he kept several African lions as house pets, was shown murmering baby talk to his darlings.

He, like all the others with out-sized felines around the home, talked as if they were as gentle as lambs. But, like all the others, he handled them very gingerly. When his lioness, wanted to go in one direction, and he in another, the lioness on a leash was certainly the winner.

Some of the show told the story of a rather famous mystery cat, named "Room Eight," who 17 years ago strayed into a classroom in a Los Angeles grade school and ever since has been a daily visitor, fed and pampered by the students. No one knows where he comes from, but he never goes to school on weekends and disappears during summer vacation.

CLOSE-UP OF BIRTH

The program opened with some film showing in close-up the birth of a litter of Siamese kittens.

★ ★ ★

Lorne Greene of "Bonanza" handled the narration. He has a rich, florid voice and delivery but has an unfortunate tendency to read every sentence as if it were "Hamlet" or "Macbeth."

Joe Garagiola, filling in for Johnny Carson this week on the "Tonight" show, seems a bit over his head. He obviously has been doing his homework, but he has some pretty startling guests to handle. But unless they are self-starters, things sort of lay there.

★ ★ ★

On Monday night Jack Parr made one of his rare appearances and was nowhere near as amusing as he was on Joey Bishop's show. Two of the Beatles appeared on Tuesday night and seemed rather diffident until toward the end of the show, when they relaxed, almost in spite of Garagiola.

Three minutes after some but not all of the Nebraska polls closed, at 9:03 p.m. EDT NBC flashed its prediction that Kennedy and Nixon would win the presidential preference primaries. The network race to be first in computer predictions takes most of the fun out of election watching.

Recommended tonight: "Secrets," CBS, 9:30-11 EDT, original drama by Tad Mosel and the last of this season's "Playhouse" specials with Barbara Bel Geddes, Arthur Hill and Eileen Heckart.

Increase OK'd

LANSING (AP) — The State Public Service Commission has authorized Detroit Edison Co. to increase the limit on unsecured promisory notes from $20 million to $60 million. The commission said the permission was granted to provide interim financing for Detroit Edison's construction program.

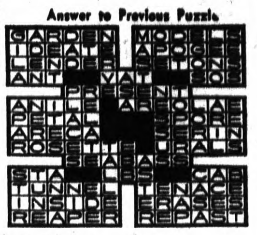
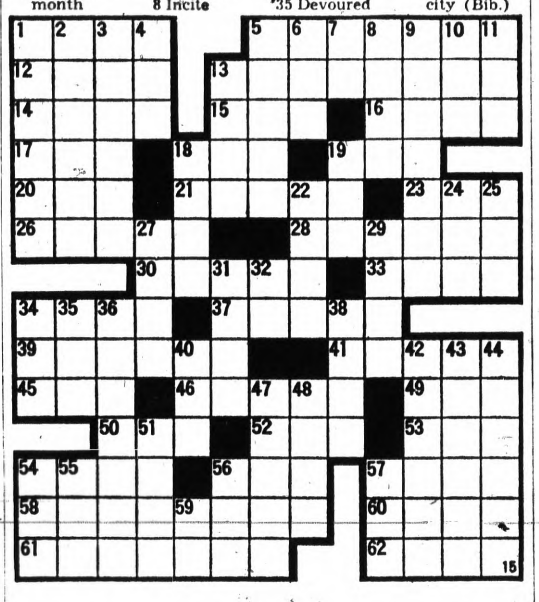
Answer to Previous Puzzle





Hospital Escapee Is Apprehended

IONIA (AP)—One of two men who fled the Ionia State Hospital Monday was apprehended in Kent County Tuesday and returned to hospital authorities. The other was captured Monday.

State Police at Rockford said Ronald Lee Minnie, 27, of Port Huron, was apprehended by a State Conservation Department officer and a State Police trooper on Honey Creek Road east of Grand Rapids, about 20 miles northwest of Ionia. He did not resist.

★ ★ ★

Trooper Peter Buda of the Rockford post said a resident notified officers after a man had asked for a drink of water. Minnie was committed March 3, 1964 as a criminal sexual psychopath but authorities said they did not consider him dangerous. Authorities captured Neil Haynes, 24, of Saranac on Monday.

Actor Never Loses Sight of Goal—a Secure Future

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — James Garner looks at it this way:

"Nobody lasts in this business, unless maybe they're Cary Grant, Jimmy Stewart, Henry Fonda or John Wayne. I'm not in their class, so I figure I'd better make sure that my future is secure. And I mean really secure. There's no such thing as being 'a little bit secure,' any more than there's such a thing as being 'a little bit pregnant.'

THOMAS

Garner was explaining why he takes a hard-headed attitude toward investing the hundreds of thousands he earns from movies. The latest manifestation of his planning is the first full-production for his Cherokee Film Co., "Support Your Local Sheriff:", which he is making for United Artists.

"Most of the pictures I've made in the past few years have been coproductions with other companies," he explained. "This time I am executive producer, but I don't expect to take any screen credit. I don't really want to be a producer. So why do I do it? So I can hire the people I want and let them do the job."

CONCERNED ABOUT FUTURE

As might be expected of a boy who grew up in depression Oklahoma, Garner has long been concerned about a secure future.

"From the time I got married 12 years ago, I've had a business manager," said the actor.

★ ★ ★

"He's the same one I have today — Irving Leonard. Even when I was making $200 a week at Warner Brothers, he put me on an allowance. My wife got pretty mad about it, too. She wanted to buy a vacuum cleaner, and he said we couldn't afford it. Finally he bought one himself and gave it to her."

Garner's earnings rose precipitiously with his advent to stardom as television's "Maverick" and then as a lead performer in feature films. But he never lost sight of his original purpose; A secure future.

INVESTMENTS

He continued to pour a large portion of his earnings into investments, the most interesting of which was the Silver Lake National Bank. Garner may well have been the only actor to be president of a bank.

"We also got into a brakeshop company and had 36 franchised shops before we sold that out. I've been in oil for about 10 years, and I have 11 or 12 wells producing right now. Most of all, I get into property. I've got a shopping center in the San Fernando Valley and a medical building in Century City.

★ ★ ★

"Most of the deals are combines with other investors, but I also own two-thirds of an apartment building in the Valley, as well as orange groves in Florida and near Redlands, Calif. Clint Eastwood and I have just purchased 370 acres near Carmel, Calif."

The actor still is limited to an allowance, though it is now sufficient to allow him to buy a couple of racing cars, as he did recently.

"I'm still as cautious about money as I was when I started out," he remarked. "I always figure that my last picture may well be my last."

Oklahoman Is Driving Force Behind Independent Postal Setup

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Thomas M. Murray is a compact little sandy-haired Irishman who grew up in County Sligo wanting to run the four-minute mile and move to America.

He failed in the four-minute mile, but he made it to America. And, with the assurance common to the Irish, he has taken on the U.S. Postal Department while insisting he isn't taking them on at all.

★ ★ ★

Murray is the driving force behind Independent Postal Systems of America and has been since he heard the idea of competitive postal systems dropped by a friend over morning coffee in November of 1967.

★ ★ ★

Murray works in a bare office in a warehouse-type building in Oklahoma City and things have moved so fast that his files are stacked on the floor and a plastic cup propped up a ceiling tile as a substitute for the air conditioning which wasn't working yet.

BUSY TIMES

Things were so busy that by 10 a.m. he had his tie loosened and was tapping his feet impatiently when people tied him up on the telephone.

★ ★ ★

He spun around from the phone to laugh at the plastic cup ventilator and the stack of files. He could laugh because the company that decided to take over third-class mail had a fleet of trucks and a payroll approaching $8,000 a week and he said it showed nearly a $500 profit for April.

★ ★ ★

"It's going great. It really is," he said, and he took a quick sip of coffee and was out of the room, talking over his shoulder. "We've got our problems. But it is going great."

★ ★ ★

He was back with his payroll figures.

60,000 PIECES

"That already gives us a fairly sizable contribution to the economy," he said.

★ ★ ★

The firm's first delivery contract was for 60,000 pieces of advertising. Deliveries for the first month, February, hit 300,000. It hit one million in March, and Murray says it will be three million for April. A contract with a single customer already calls for 700,000 in June. Murray says the firm now is dealing with about 50 companies.

★ ★ ★

"It's not just a theory any more," he said, again pointing to the operation in April's profit. Also, "we delivered 160,000 pieces for an Oklahoma firm," he said, "with 100 per cent delivery and we saved them $18 per thousand pieces."

"It's just that simple," he said. "And that's the secret."

FOCUS ON OKLAHOMA

The operation now is primarily devoted to Oklahoma City, but another branch is operating in Ardmore, Okla., and Murray says there are plans to open offices in Tulsa, Okla, and Dallas, Tex., by June 1, Denver, Colo., and Salt Lake City, Utah by July 1, and Canada by August 1.

★ ★ ★

"We are proving right now that free enterprise can do a better job than any government in business," he said.

Murray says $11 billion is spent annually in distribution of bulk mail and "there's only one guy in that business. That's the U.S. Post Office.

★ ★ ★

"He's doing a lousy job because he doesn't have any competition.

★ ★ ★

"Do you know of any other individual who could sustain a 34 per cent increase in rates? It's unjust.

"That's what comes from a monopoly. America wasn't designed for that."

Opening lead—♥ Q

When your partner opens in no-trump and you have a balanced hand, it is a matter of simple addition to determine whether to play at a part score, in game or in slam. Just add your points to your partner's maximum and minimum.

JACOBY

If your total plus his maximum is less than 26, you let him rest at one. If your total plus his maximum is 26 and your total plus his maximum is less than 33, take him to game.

Occasionally you will invite game by a bid of two no-trump or invite a slam without actually bidding it if you want to be in slam if he has a maximum opening.

★ ★ ★

Take a look at today's North hand. It is balanced with 10 high card points and includes a four-card spade suit. If North raises to three no-trump, South will play the hand there.

There are 10 potential no-trump tricks in the North-South cards, but in order for South to make those tricks he will have to knock out the black aces. Meanwhile, if West opens a heart, the defense will collect six tricks of their own after getting in with a black ace.

On the other hand, four spades makes easily. South will have to lose one trick in each suit except diamonds, but the spade trumps will take care of all but one of the East-West hearts.

North and South will get to game if they employ modern bidding methods. North's two-club call has nothing to do with the club suit at all but merely is a forcing bid known as the Stayman two-club.

It demands that North rebid two of a major suit if he has a major four-carder. Otherwise, North rebids two diamonds. With this North hand, the two-spade rebid allows him to jump to the spade game. If South had rebid two hearts or diamonds, North would have bid three no-trump.

The Stayman convention in some form or other is used by every expert today. You should learn it also. It can't hurt you and often helps.

(Answer Tomorrow)

♥♣CARD Sense♠♦

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
			1 N.T.
Pass	2 ♣	Pass	2 ♦
Pass	3 ♥	Pass	?

You, South, hold:
♠ A 2 ♥ K J 5 ♦ K 10 6 4 ♣ A Q 9 8
What do you do now?

A—Your partner has forced to game. You should bid four clubs to tell him that you have interest in a heart slam. You can't be trying to get to a club slam since his two club bid asked for majors and did not show clubs.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You bid four clubs and your partner bids four diamonds. What do you do now?

No Place to Rest

LONDON (UPI) — All Edward Whiley, 51, wanted was a quiet place to "have a rest," he told a court.

That's why he clambered into a pit between the live electric rails on London's subway. He was placed on probation for a year for trespassing on the railway and fined 25 pounds.

Suicide is the tenth leading cause of death in the nation as a whole and the second cause among college students.

Lunar Orbital Flight on Tap for Spacemen

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The U.S. space agency has decided to plan on sending men into orbit around the moon without landing before it sets out on the epochal lunar landing mission itself.

Under a five-step program recently adopted, the moon orbital flight will follow a minimum of three manned flights of the Apollo spaceship in orbit around earth.

★ ★ ★

The first, a test of the Apollo command ship without the lunar landing craft, is set to be carried out by Apollo 7 astronauts Walter Schirra, Donn Eisele and Walter Cunningham in September. They will be launched by a Saturn 1B rocket and will remain in orbit for up to 10 days.

Next, astronauts James McDivitt, David Scott and Russell Schweikart will fly a complete moonship into orbit atop the first manned Saturn 5 rocket. That mission, now targeted for November, also will last up to 10 days.

EARTH ORBIT

If those two flights go well, astronauts Frank Borman, Michael Collins and William Anders will rehearse moon flight operations in a 4,600-mile high earth orbit early next year. They will be launched by a Saturn 5.

Then, assuming no major problems have developed, the space agency plans to send a three-man crew, as yet unnamed, into orbit around the moon and back. The astronauts would inspect the lunar surface but would not attempt a landing.

★ ★ ★

The next and final step would be the actual landing mission.

Dr. George E. Mueller, associate administrator of the space agency in charge of manned space flight, outlined the Apollo mission plans at a meeting earlier this month of the Aviation/Space Writers Association in Washington.

Each of the mission steps is identified by letter. Schirra, Eisele and Cunningham will be launched on Mission C with the two following manned orbital flights designated Missions D and E.

COULD BE ATTEMPTED

The lunar orbital mission is F and the first flight on which a moon landing could be attempted is Mission G.

Missions A and B were unmanned test flights completed earlier this year.

★ ★ ★

Mueller said the missions become more complex as they proceed, and he said mission planning is flexible so that some objectives that might be missed on one mission can be attempted on another.

"In addition," Mueller said, "we have the option of redoing any one of these mission types, and indeed, feel that there is a high probability this may be done."

ACCOMMODATION

He said Mission F—the nonlanding lunar orbital flight—will be able to accommodate any testing requirements that may not have been fulfilled by earlier flights.

"In the unlikely event that all verifications can be accomplished during and prior to Mission E, a decision may be taken to proceed directly to Mission G, Mueller said. "Mission F does not include the option to land on the lunar surface. However, on Mission G, we can opt to land or not."

★ ★ ★

Thus, the first manned lunar landing attempt could come as early as the fourth manned Apollo launch, now targeted for next spring.

However, few, if any, officials expect the landing to be attempted before the fifth or sixth manned launchings, set to be carried out in mid-1969.

★ ★ ★

Five manned Apollo launchings are scheduled for next year, after two later this year, and most officials expect the lunar landing will be attempted on one of them.

"We believe we have a reasonable possibility of occomplishing the lunar landing before the end of the decade, as stated by President Kennedy on May 25, 1961," Mueller said.

Thundering Orders Is His Trademark

CHU CHI, Vietnam (AP) — Otis Holbrook III is a man whose thunderous baritone can carry over a typhoon.

He can bring a private to attention at 300 yards and peel a noncom's stripes at equal range.

Thre is disagreement whether the Army or the Almighty made Otis Holbrook a top sergeant.

There is no dispute that the 6-foot, 200-pounder from Portland, Maine, runs Company B, 2nd Battalion, 14th Infantry, 25th U.S. Division.

OTIS HOLBROOK

TWO YEARS

He has done so for two years in Vietnam longer than anyone at headquarters recalls any other top-sergeant has held out.

His company executive officer, himself a man with 11 months in combat, says of the top sergeant: "I never thought I'd run into anything like him but I'm glad I did."

The 40-year-old topkick's uninhibited speech is long on emphasis and short on diplomacy. It is hard to reproduce.

On a top sergeant's duties:

"All a blankety-blank top sergeant has to do in this blankety-blank Army is to kick soldiers in the blankety blank and take names."

PHONE TALK

Answering the phone from battalion headquarters:

"Don't get excited up there in Panic Palace . . . No. I don't want no blankety-blank award. I was just doing my blankety-blank job."

Encluntering a soldier suspected of goofing-off:

"What the blankety-blank are you doing back here, soldier? Going to the post-exchange? What kind of blankety-blank war is this?"

Noting another soldier on medical light duty:

"That blankety-blank soldier says he has t.b. Like hell he has t.b. He has tired blood, that's what the blankety-blank has."

Despite a waistline beginning to show an old soldier's liking for beer and strong water, Holbrook's action in combat matches his fiery language.

He has won a Silver Star for valor, carries shrapnel in his legs from a wound that sent him to the hospital for a month and still prefers to be "out on the line where I am blankety-blank needed."

In two ysars with the company, Holbrook has seen 33 of his comrads killed in action and about 250 evacuated with serious wounds. He has seen 10 company commanders come and go — eight normally rotated, one seriously wounded and another transferred at his own request.

Holbrook could have gone home after a normal 12-month tour but twice extended.

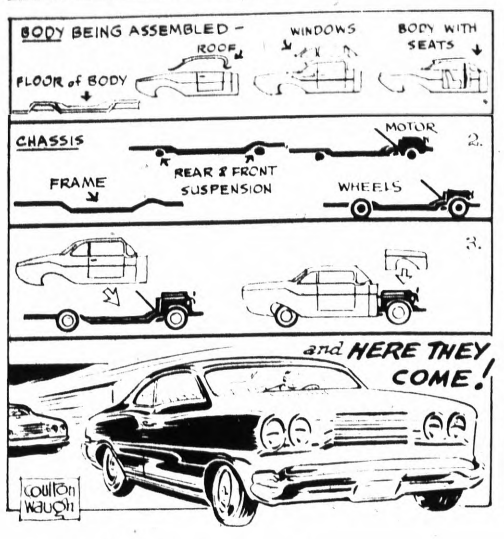
Junior Editors Quiz on AUTOMOBILES



QUESTION: How are cars made?

ANSWER: Automobiles were once so rare that a Vermont law of 1894 forced car drivers to have someone walk ahead of them to warn pedestrians and horse-drawn travelers.

What has made the U.S.A. a nation on wheels has been, besides road building, the development of assembly line car manufacturing. Our picture shows some main steps in the process of putting together parts which have already been made.

In the big assembly plant, one production line moves body floors along, with bodies, roofs, windows, etc., being successively attached (top). Meanwhile, car frames move down another conveyor, with workers on both sides attaching front and rear suspensions, engines, and wheels (2).

Then the bodies come by an overhead conveyer and are firmly attached to the frames (3). After other conveyer belts have brought smaller parts and these have been installed, a gleaming new car rolls out and is driven off under its own power.

The process from frame to finished car can be accomplished in about an hour. You must remember that each part has been most carefully manufactured beforehand to exact specifications.

U.S. Education Benefits—3

Many 'Musts' Tied to National Defense Loan

AN IMPORTANT NOTE

All of the programs described in this series have been established by law and many have been in operation for years. However, the amount of money to operate these programs varies from year to year, depending on appropriations voted by Congress. Availability of some funds and openings in training programs may vary locally depending upon demand.

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the third article in a 15-part series on U.S. educational and training benefits available to you.)

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Publications

The second major federal loan plan for college-bound youth is the National Defense Student Loan Program. (The guaranteed loan plan was discussed in Chapter Two.)

To borrow under the defense program, you must need the loan in order to be able to pursue your course of study at a college, university or other institution of higher learning. You must be capable of maintaining good standing in your course.

★ ★ ★

You must be enrolled, or accepted for enrollment as an undergraduate, graduate or professional student in a participating institution. You must carry at least one-half the normal full-time academic workload.

Your college, university or other institution determines whether you meet these qualifications.

ADMINISTERED BY SCHOOL

Though the federal government contributes up to 90 per cent of the money, each participating school administers its own National Defense Student Loan fund directly. It selects student recipients, arranges and collects the loans.

If you are an undergraduate, you may borrow up to $1,000 a year, but no more than $5,000 in all.

★ ★ ★

If you are a graduate or professional student, you may borrow up to $2,500 a year, but no more than $10,000 altogether.

If you borrow both as an undergraduate and as a graduate student, your ceiling is $10,000 total.

MUST SIGN NOTE

Each student borrowing money under this program must sign a promissory note. Repayment begins nine months after the borrower ceases full- or half-time study and may be stretched over a 10-year period.

Three per cent a year interest charges accrue from the beginning of the repayment period.

No repayment is required and no interest accrues during any time up to three years in which the borrower is in the U.S. armed services, the Peace Corps or VISTA, the domestic peace corps.

If the borrower, after leaving school, reenters an institution of higher education in the United States or a comparable institution abroad, doing full- or part-time academic work, no repayment is required and no interest accrues until he leaves school again.

MAY DEFER PAYMENT

If the borrower is in less than half-time attendance at an institution of higher education taking courses creditable toward a degree or certificate, he may defer repayment if the institution so rules. But interest accrues during this period.

If you are a borrower under the National Defense Student Loan Program and become a teacher, part or all of your debt and interest may be canceled.

★ ★ ★

To come under this "forgiveness clause" you must teach in a public or private nonprofit elementary or secondary school or a recognized college, university or other institution of higher learning in the U.S. or in a U.S. Armed Forces elementary or secondary school overseas.

Borrowers in this program who teach after graduation in one of these institutions may have 10 per cent of their loan indebtedness and interest canceled for each year of full-time teaching service.

Up to half the loan and interest may be worked off in this way.

Sunday Regular

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — It is reasonable to suppose that if you are looking for Raymond Harrington, of Wichita, a teacher in a school near here, any Sunday morning you can be sure to find him in Sunday School. He has just rounded off 54 years of perfect attendance although he admits he has had a "few close calls."

A Different Kennedy in '68; Somehow It Seems Same

News Analysis

By JACK BELL
AP Political Writer

OMAHA, Neb. — Everything is different. But, somehow, everything seems the same.

The voice that comes out of the microphone mounted on the campaign sound truck has the same Harvard Yard twang. Often the quick, jerky gestures, the finger stabbing in the air for emphasis, are the same.

★ ★ ★

But the 1968 version of a Kennedy on the campaign trail has many differences from the 1960 Kennedy who established the political mystique of the family name.

In its fundamentals, the theme of John F. Kennedy eight years ago was: "Let's get this nation moving." He held aloft the banner of a dream of American greatness, a patter of movement after what he labeled the drowsy Eisenhower years.

'TOO MUCH WRONG'

Basically, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy is telling the campaign crowds as he crisscrosses the country that there is entirely too much wrong with America. He recites the ills of rioting, the hunger and the malignant idleness in the ghettos, the flaring threat of inflation, the bloody death toll in Vietnam.

The physical differences in campaigning by the Kennedy of 1960 and the Kennedy of 1968 stand out sharply.

John F. Kennedy was always a cool customer, highly approchable in private but a trifle standoffich in his response to public demonstrations. At 6 feet 1 and packing about 185 pounds, he could walk through crowds without being manhandled by admirers.

With Bob Kennedy it is different. At 5 feet 9 plus, weighing 165 soaking wet, he can get lost in the sea of those pressing about him. Tall Bill Barry, an ex-FBI man with the shoulders of a shot putter, breaks interference through the swarms of youthful admirers who persist in pressing close to touch Kennedy's clothing — if they can't reach the undulating hands he runs along the tips of the fingers stretching toward him.

NO HIPPIES THEN

Nothing ever quite so strenouos happened to John F. Kennedy. the bands that played for him were always in uniform. There were no sloppy long-haired hippies eight years ago to moan their folk songs for a candidate and to exhort the crowd to sing "This Man is my Man" to the tune of "This Land is my Land."

The 1968 candidate gradually is succeeding in shucking off the emotional intensity that marked his early campaigning. He is adopting a relaxed, rambling style geared to getting laughs and cheers by local references.

The New York senator seems to have inherited the fabled "trunkful of jokes" President Kennedy was supposed to have had on the luggage truck at all times.

When he talks in farm communities, Sen. Kennedy's favorite line is to announce that he is the candidate who is doing most for the farmer. He cites as an example the 26 quarts of milk he says his family — with 10 children going on 11 — consumes daily.

CROWD-PLEASER

When a substantial portion of the crowd is made up of school children, he gets them to cheer because his visit released them from classes.

Asked at a shopping center what he proposed to do about the world poulation explosion, he replied that was a matter for individual decision.

"Evidently I have worked it out in a different way than some other people," he said with a grin.

PICTURE OF MODESTY—Pranksters decided modifications were in order for this two-billboard advertisement for suntan lotion. The result was a pinup gal wearing a rather baggy, flower-bedecked bathing suit bottom. Both billboards—the modified one at ground level and the other on a rooftop—are located in Hamilton, Ont.

Bobby Wins Decisively in Nebraska

By The Associated Press

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy has rolled up a decisive Democratic presidential victory in Nebraska but Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's backers claim he already has almost enough delegates for the nomination.

Kennedy — defeating Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy 53 per cent to 31 in yesterday's voting — invited McCarthy to join forces with him. McCarthy promptly turned him down.

Related Stories, Page B-4

Republican candidate Richard M. Nixon got 70 per cent of the vote. California Gov. Ronald Reagan got 22 per cent and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller got a write-in of about 5 per cent.

Here are the Nebraska returns with about 90 per cent of the vote counted:

GOP VOTE

Nixon	121,348	70 Pct.
Reagan	38,008	22 Pct.
Rockefeller	9,459	5 Pct.
Stassen	2,394	1 Pct.
Liberator	1,139	1 Pct.
Wallace	578	0 Pct.

Democratic Vote

Kennedy	73,937	53 Pct.
McCarthy	44,551	31 Pct.
Humphrey	12,083	9 Pct.
Johnson	8,093	6 Pct.
Wallace	1,343	1 Pct.
Nixon	384	0 Pct.
Others	290	0 Pct.

'SURPRISED BY SHOWING'

Reagan said he was surprised by his showing and repeated he would accept the GOP nomination if it were offered but said he "could not now foresee myself soliciting the job."

★ ★ ★

Humphrey backers said the Kennedy-McCarthy outcome was not surprising. They claimed the real significance was a CBS forecast that Humphrey would get 1,265 of the 1,312 first-ballot convention votes needed for nomination and Kennedy would get 585.

Kennedy's primary victory was his third in a row, following Indiana and the District of Columbia by a week.

McCarthy said he was satisfied with his Nebraska vote and would campaign alone as planned in Oregon and California.

McCarthy said he's about even with Kennedy in Oregon now and said California offers him his best chance of winning.

★ ★ ★

Candidates favoring Nixon won all 16 GOP convention delegate contests. But the contest for 28 Democratic delegate seats was unclear with most candidates listed as uncommitted — or pledged to non-candidate President Johnson.

In West Virginia's primary, Rep. Arch A. Moore Jr. appeared to have won the Republican gubernatorial nomination over ex-Gov. Cecil H. Underwood. Atty. Gen. C Donald Robertson had a perilously thin lead over state Democratic chairman James M. Sprouse for the Democratic nomination.

COLLISION IN FOG — Oakland County sheriff's deputies work to clear the scene of a chain-reaction accident that occurred in dense fog early today at Clarkston Road and M24 in Orion Township. The mishap happened about 7:30 a.m. when a gravel truck stopped for a red light and was hit from behind by another truck, deputies said. Six persons from the four vehicles ultimately involved in the accident were taken to Pontiac General Hospital. Jerome Kowalski, 33, of 255 Angle, Lapeer, was reportedly the most seriously injured.

C of C Directors Back Fair Housing

The board of directors of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce today announced its support of the fair housing ordinance to be decided by Pontiac voters June 24 in a special election.

The ordinance, adopted by a 4-3 vote of the Pontiac City Commission Jan. 30, was placed on the ballot following the filing of petitions for a referendum vote. It never has been put into effect.

★ ★ ★

In a unanimously approved resolution, the board said its position has been to "support fair housing in concept and, specifically, to work toward the reduction and elimination of the effects of racism in all aspects of the community."

'CONSTRUCTIVE FORCE'

The resolution reads in part: "Whereas the board . . . recognizes that a constructive force for growth of our area is the improvement of race relations and whereas federal open housing legislation is existent and state fair housing legislation imminent, it is evident that the passage or defeat of Pontiac's ordinance No. 1577 will resolve itself as a test of goodwill and hope."

The board also urged that fair housing be implemented promptly throughout the entire Pontiac area.

★ ★ ★

Recognizing the Pontiac Area Friends of Fair Housing as the "focal group to further implement the understanding toward and passage of local fair housing legislation," the board said it is encouraging members of the Chamber to support the group.

City OKs Rates for Parking Mall

A tentative parking rate structure for the planned parking mall on North Saginaw between Huron and Lawrence was announced last night by City Manager Joseph A. Warren.

The City Commission at its meeting gave general approval to the rates.

Related Stories, Page B-13

Warren said they will be put into effect when the mall opens Monday if downtown merchants are generally agreeable.

★ ★ ★

The rates call for a five-cent charge for the first half-hour, 10 cents for an hour, 15 cents for 1½ hours, 25 cents for two hours and 35 cents for each additional hour.

When implemented, the mall will provide 70 parking spaces. Parking will be at right angles to the curb. The present parking scheme has only 14 spaces of parking parallel to the curb.

ENTRANCE GATES

Entrance gates will be provided at Huron and Lawrence but cars will only be able to exit at Lawrence. Barricades and gates will be erected at each end with an attendent on duty at the exit to take tolls.

Decorative planters, and benches will be placed along the sidewalk in the mall to create a pleasant effect, officials said.

★ ★ ★

The mall will be in operation during shopping hours Monday through Saturday. The moveable gates and barricades will be moved to allow traffic to use Saginaw during other hours, Warren said.

The manager said the rate structure allows a modest charge for short stops, a reasonable rate for those who wish to stay long and a steep rate to discourage those who might want to use the facility for all-day parking.

Fair Housing Near Final House Vote

LANSING (AP) Open housing was in line for final action in the House today — placed there by a marathon battle yesterday that lasted until nearly midnight. Some legislators predicted passage with five or more votes to spare.

House leaders hoped for a showdown on the controversial bill today, but only after informal attempts to iron out differences between their chamber's version and the bill which passed the Senate April 4.

★ ★ ★

Two major compromises — one near the beginning and one near the end of yesterday's eight-hour floor fight — hammered the billl into the shape in which it moved to third reading in the House.

The chamber adopted 17 of the 75 amendments offered to the Senate version of the housing bill and rejected a proposed substitute.

Paris Talks Last 3½ Hours

PARIS (AP) — Negotiators for the United States and North Vietnam met for 3½ hours today, had "extensive discussions" and decided to skip two days and meet again Saturday.

Ambassador W. Averell Harriman told newsmen on leaving the International Conference Center: "We met this morning for three hours and a half, had extensive discussions and we agreed to meet Saturday morning at 10:30."

★ ★ ★

On reaching the U.S. Embassy, Harriman was asked for his reaction to a report that the United States was prepared to accept a role for Communists in the political life of South Vietnam.

"We have never been for a coalition government and we will never be for a coalition government," Harriman replied.

POPULAR CHOICE

He did not go beyond that. The U.S. policy has been that if any changes are to be made in the South Vietnamese political structure they would have to be made by popular choice of the people and not through an imposed coalition government.

★ ★ ★

At the Lutetia Hotel on the Left Bank, North Vietnamese Ambassador Xuan Thuy declined to reply to newsmen's questions.

A North Vietnamese spokesman said Harriman spoke first at today's session and his talk and translation lasted an hour. Thuy then spoke for about an hour and a half including translation. His statement was followed by a closing period of discussion.

★ ★ ★

A report to newsmen by the North Vietnamese spokesman indicated that Harriman had charged North Vietnam with aggression in South Vietnam. The spokesman said such a statement by Harriman was defamatory.

SECOND SESSION

The two sides had returned to the conference table for the second full session to see if they can begin work on a agreed basis for ending the fighting in Vietnam.

Before going in to the meeting, Harriman indicated that secret discussion is his preferred way of trying to arrive at some accords with Thuy.

South Vietnam's observer at the talks, Bui Diem, met with Harriman for 45 minutes yesterday.

Dues Deadline for UAW Today

DETROIT (AP) — Today is the deadline the AFL-CIO has set for the United Auto Workers union to catch up on its dues or be suspended. Neither side has indicated it intends to relent.

A spokesman for Walter P. Reuther's 1.4-million member UAW, which has marked its payments for escrow because of policy differences with the parent organization, said last night the auto workers had not changed their plans.

★ ★ ★

George Meany, president of the federation, also gave no hint that he had changed his.

Suspension, said an AFL-CIO source, would deny the UAW any positions within the federation and would, in effect, place the union in an "inactive" category.

FINAL BREACH

Both the auto workers and the federation characterized the potential suspension as a final breach in their relationship.

★ ★ ★

"It's a withdrawal," Meany said Monday in announcing the deadline.

"We're being kicked out," the UAW spokesman said.

★ ★ ★

But technically, the UAW would continue to have ties with the federation and could resume an active role simply by paying its overdue assessments, an AFL-CIO source said.

★ ★ ★

The UAW, largest of the almost 130 unions in the 14-million member federation, could sever all connections with the organization by formally withdrawing, a step the union has authorized but not taken despite repeated indications that it intended to move in that direction.

★ ★ ★

The federation also could end all connections with the auto workers by expelling the union.

PANAMA (AP) — Panamanians apparently must wait at least a few more days to learn who won Sunday's presidential election. A spokesman for the electoral tribunal says the official returns are being withheld because so many ballots were challenged.

Tavern License Action May 28

The long-discussed issue of upgrading Pontiac's tavern licenses will be taken up by the City Commission at its May 28 meeting, Mayor Wililam H. Taylor Jr. said last night.

Taylor said a proposal at that time will be made to follow most of the 1964 recommendations of a special committee which was appointed to study the matter.

★ ★ ★

The commission has the authority to allow all Tavern licenses in the city to be upgraded to full Class C status. Under state law taverns can sell only beer and wine (up to 16 per cent alcohol by volume) for consumption on the premises.

Class C bars can sell all spirits, which includes whisky, gin, vodka, rum, etc., for consumption on the premises.

Chief Pontiac Meets

More than 220 of Chief Pontiac's braves gathered at the Bloomfield Hills Country Club last night for a spring encampment. Top industrialists and business leaders joined in a general meeting and social hour. Optimism over the immediate future was the keynote throughout.

Quick Revival Vowed for Court Reform Bill

LANSING (AP) — A quick revival has been promised for the much-disputed lower courts reorganization bill apparently voted to death in the Senate yesterday.

Although the measure was voted down, 14-15, Sen. Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, Senate Republican leader, said he plans to immediately introduce a substitute.

A bill allowing a proposed $335 million bond issue for water pollution control passed its last legislative hurdle when it cleared the Senate 29-0.

The bill now goes to the House for enrollment and presentation to the governor. Gov. George Romney, who asked for the legislation, is sure to sign it.

SIMPLE MAJORITY

This will put the issue on the Nov. 5 ballot where it only needs a simple majority for approval by the voters.

The multimillion dollar bond issue is intended to finance water pollution control, primarily through loans to local units of government for the construction of sewage treatment plants.

★ ★ ★

Romney expressed concern about the court bill when he heard of the unfavorable vote at the initial test. But the governor indicated he expects a happy ending.

"I am confident that this single vote does not kill such legislation and that an acceptable plan will ultimately be passed," Romney said.

DEMS TO HELP

Lockwood said the substitute bill will be a vehicle to keep the court issue alive.

Democrats have agreed to come up with enough votes for the two-thirds needed for passage in the Senate, he said.

FELLOW REPUBLICANS—State Sen. Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, chats with Joyce Atley, 24, of 10080 Eagle, Rose Township, a member of the Oakland County Young Republicans. Lockwood, state presidential campaign manager for Richard Nixon, was guest speaker at the group's meeting in Royal Oak last night.

Nixon 'Logical Candidate' for State GOP---Lockwood

By ED BLUNDEN

Presidential hopeful Richard Nixon was tagged "the logical candidate" for Michigan Republicans to support by State Sen. Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, last night.

Lockwood, Senate majority leader, spoke to a gathering of about 250 Oakland County Young Republicans at Belanger House in Royal Oak. He is a delegate to the Republican convention Aug. 5 in Miami and also Nixon's state campaign manager.

★ ★ ★

Lockwood said the convention delegates from Michigan will go pledged to Gov. George Romney as a favorite son candidate, but predicted a strong swing toward Nixon in later balloting among the state's 48 delegates. He said 25 already backed him.

★ ★ ★

"Nixon is a good, strong middle-of-the-road candidate . . . and the only one on the horizon," Lockwood said.

Asked from the audience if Nixon's past image would hurt his chances, Lockwood said: "There is a new Nixon . . . with warmth and feeling."

Lockwood predicted Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota would drop out of the Democratic presidential race within three weeks.

★ ★ ★

He also said he expected Lt. Gov. William Milliken to announce today that he was state campaign manager for Nelson Rockefeller, governor of New York. (this proved correct.)

In examining Nixon's chances, if nominated, against either Hubert Humphrey or Robert Kennedy, he indicated a lot would depend on the Vietnam war situation and the level of rioting in the cities during the summer.

★ ★ ★

In backing Nixon, Lockwood said, "He's a good, sound candidate who no one would be ashamed to support for President of the United States."

Illegal Solicitors Reported in City

The Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce warned today that a group without a city permit for solicitation is apparently asking for donations which they say will be used to buy tickets to bring underprivileged children to a summer show.

The solicitors, who are contacting people verbally, claim they will list the donator's business in the Labor Unions' Directory for free if a certain amount of money is contributed to buy tickets for the children's show.

★ ★ ★

The solicitors claim the Labor Unions' Directory will be listing Teamsters, AFL-CIO, UAW and Affiliates.

Jack Douglas, president of the Oakland County AFL-CIO Council, says he knows nothing about the organization, according to the Chamber.

CHECK VALIDITY

The Chamber urges citizens approached to ask the solicitors name, address, and phone number and not to give any money until they have checked the organization's validity with the Chamber or the police.

Salesmen for this directory have apparently been hired out of a local motel room being used as a temporary office. The local address given is that of a telephone service, the Chamber said.

★ ★ ★

Another group is soliciting ads for the Marine Directory without a city permit. The Marine Corps recruiting office claims to know nothing about this group.

A Pontiac ordinance says it is against the law to solicit for charity without first obtaining a license.

City Commission Raises Street Sealcoat Cost

BIRMINGHAM — Prices will be up for sealcoating of city streets this year.

The City Commission has approved assessment for the operation at 35 cents per front foot, compared to 27 cents last year.

★ ★ ★

Reason for the increase, according to A. P. Blethen, superintendent of public works, is a rise in the "charge-out rate" in the department from $4.90 to $6 per hour.

★ ★ ★

The charge-out rate, Blethen explained, is the amount charged by the department to cover all overhead costs, in addition to salaries paid to workers on a project.

HEARING SET

The commission has set a hearing of necessity for June 3 on the program, and scheduled confirmation of the roll June 17.

City Manager Robert S. Kenning recommended that all streets included on the list submitted by Blethen for sealcoating be included in the declaration of necessity, pointing out that when the roll is confirmed a street may be dropped but not added.

★ ★ ★

In other business at Monday's meeting, the commission approved, after some debate about signs, appropriation of $1,200 for a permanent planter-type barrier on Willits to block traffic from going west on Willits from Greenwood.

A proposal to replace a barricade on Edenborough between Windemere and Buckingham with a permanent installation was referred to the administration.

TO CURB TRAFFIC

The barricade was erected over a year ago at the request of residents in Pembroke Manor to curb traffic flow through the area.

City Engineer William T. Killeen reported that Johnson, Johnson and Roy, the city's urban design consulting firm, had prepared a plan under which the pavement on Edenborough would be removed for 65 feet south of Windemere. The area would be landscaped with a raised, sodded mound and a new tree.

★ ★ ★

Edenborough would be narrowed at Buckingham and an island would be constructed, also landscaped with a tree.

Estimated cost is $4,400, Killeen said.

QUESTIONRAISED

"The question of whether residents should be assessed for thhe project is up to thhe commission," Kenning commented. He added the street is not being vacated, but closed to north-south traffic.

★ ★ ★

Mayor David F. Breck recommended referral of the plan to the Pembroke Manor Association, saying, "I don't think it would be appropriate to assess anyone."

★ ★ ★

Commissioner James D. Schmidt said he felt that the problem should not be referred to the administration, since it involved a policy decision.

Commissioner Ruth B. McNamee, however, said the commission was establishing a precedent and should protect itself. She urged that the administration be directed to study the question and make a recommendation as to a formula and district for assessment. The commission approved the study.

WILLITS TABLED

Commissioner William B. Saunders then asked if the Willits barrier should be reconsidered, since it too was requested by residents.

Schmidt, after making the required motion to reconsider the Willits decision, moved to table the request. The tabling motion passed, 4-1, with Breck opposed and Schmidt, Mrs. McNamee, Saunders and Roberts voting for

JAMES E. SEETERLIN

Treasurer Eyes Reelection to County Post

Oakland County Treasurer James E. Seeterlin announced today that he will be a candidate for the office in the August primary election.

Seeterlin, 41, of 4597 W. Walton, Waterford Township, has held the post since November 1965 when he was appointed to fill the vacancy created by the death of Charles Sparks.

★ ★ ★

Before assuming his present duties, Seeterlin, a Democrat, served as supervisor in Waterford ownship for 2½ years.

Prior to being elected supervisor, he had served three terms as Waterford Township clerk, from April 1957 to April 1963.

'NECESSARY EXPERIENCE'

"In seeking to continue in the office of county treasurer, I feel the 12 years I have been an elected and appointed public servant has provided me with the necessary experience to handle the job," Seeterlin said.

A graduate of Pontiac Central High School, Seeterlin last year received a degree in political science and history which he earned in 12 years of part-time study at Wayne State University.

★ ★ ★

Active in public affairs since entering government, Seeterlin was a member of the Detroit Metropolitan Area Regional Planning Commission, appointed by Gov. G. Mennen Williams and then Gov. George Romney from 1959 to 1966. He was required to resign when he became county treasurer.

He and his wife Evelyn have nine children, ranging in age from 1 to 19.

Plane Crash Kills Four in Michigan

PELLSTON (AP) — A private plane crashed near the Pellston Airport last night, killing four persons.

State Police said the tangled wreckage was not discovered until about 5 a.m., some six hours after the airport lost voice contact with the craft as it was attempting to land at the fog-shrouded strip.

★ ★ ★

An Air Force helicopter was dispatched to the scene to search for the plane. The wreckage was found by a search party on foot, however. It was about two miles northeast of the airport.

Killed were Al Phillips of Conway, the pilot; Robert Koteksey, Boyne City; and Mel Saunders and Robert Lee, both of Charlevoix.

Army Aide Defends Rifle Contracts

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top Army official says additional M16 rifles will be moved to Vietnam seven months faster under controversial contracts of up to $20 million higher than a rejected low bid.

Dr. Robert A. Brooks, assistant Army secretary, testified Tuesday at a special House subcommittee hearing on the contracts. He said fast production costs money and "we pay to attain an accelerated delivery schedule."

★ ★ ★

Two-year contracts to supply 240,000 rifles each were awarded the Hydra-Matic Division of General Motors for a ceiling price of $56 million and Harrington & Richardson of Worcester, Mass., for a ceiling price of $42 million.

A bid of $36 million was submitted by Maremont Corp., of Saco, Maine, which produces the Army's M60 machinegun. This bid was turned down.

'PRICE IGNORED'

Rep. Peter N. Kyros, D-Maine, told the subcommittee there was every indication the procurement was "handled so as to give General Motors a negotiated contract, without regard to price . . ."

Kyros said price was not a factor until after the successful bidders had been chosen.

★ ★ ★

Brooks charged that reports of excessive costs were misleading and said the ceiling costs appear high because the producers will have to acquire special equipment, hire and train personnel and rearrange plant facilities.

By awarding the contracts to GM and Harrington & Richardson, he said, "we will be able to move the needed rifles to Vietnam seven months sooner than would have been possible under normal price competition and production lead times and sooner than by contrarting with either of the competitors not selected."

OTHER BIDDERS

The unsuccessful bidder besides Maremont was Cadillac Gage of Warren, Mich.

Brooks also said Colt Industries' price "would be substantially increased" if it were to supply additional quantities of M16s.

★ ★ ★

But a spokesman for Colt, the sole M16 supplier before the two new contracts were awarded, said a new order from the Army "would not involve a substantial increase in costs.

He also estimated Colt's price would be "substantially cheaper" than the ceiling prices announced for the two new suppliers.

ROCKWELL T. GUST

Nixon Aide Named

A Bloomfield Township attorney and long-time Wayne County Republican leader today was named chairman of Richard Nixon's campaign for the presidency in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

★ ★ ★

In announcing the appointment of Rockwell T. Gust, 5050 Pon Valley, state Sen. Emil Lockwood, chairman of the Michigan Nixon for President Committee, said:

"We are delighted that Mr. Gust has agreed to direct the Nixon drive in these three key counties. He has had long experience in political campaigns and has been associated with the Nixon movement since 1960, when he was Nixon's campaign chairman in Wayne County."

Gust, who has been active in the state GOP since 1952, was a delegate to the Constitutional Convention and has managed election campaigns for House Speaker Robert Waldron.

He is secretary of the Economic Club of Detroit and was commander of the Frederick M. Alger Post of the American Legion in 1956.

Zoning Officer Will Be Able to Take Action

BY ELIZABETH L. POST

Recently I printed a letter from a reader complaining about the mess and litter in a neighbor's yard. I am happy to publish the following letter which will give her, and many others, specific suggestions on how to go about correcting such conditions in their neighborhoods.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. Post: As secretary to a building inspector and sanitarian of my town, many such complaints come over my desk and they are immediately looked into and corrected by the zoning enforcement officer or the sanitarian. This is their job. They are paid by the taxpayers to do it.

★ ★ ★

Just about every town has a housing code and zoning regulations which must be followed and every state has a health code.

★ ★ ★

The condition described by your writer presents more than a fire hazard. A serious injury may befall a child who wanders into the lot. This condition is also a hazard to health in that it is also a breeding place for vermin.

★ ★ ★

Please tell your writer to contact immediately any one of the proper officials in her town. — Mrs. E. Brown.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I believe that unwed mothers should be forced by law to place their children for adoption. Unmarried mothers are emotionally disturbed, and they feel that it will add to their guilt feelings to "abandon" their children by adoption, and that will create more censure by other people. So the unmarried mother attempts to assuage her guilt feelings by becoming a "martyr" and keeping her child to raise.

ABBY

She finds out too late that the little fertilized egg is not a toy doll, but a searching, screaming, demanding, expensive little person. The young mother, because of her burdensome responsibilities and cooped-up life, is likely to make the same mistake again. This is not theory — the records speak for themselves.

While the girls of today well understand the mechanics of sex, they know less than their grandmothers did about the psychology of the male, which explains why the predatory male, who does not have access to the outlawed facilities of the red light district, is able to persuade some "nice" girl to behave like an alley cat and ruin the lives of herself and her family.

REALISTIC

DEAR "REALISTIC": Your first sweeping generalization that "all unmarried mothers are emotionally disturbed" is absurd. From the thousands of letters I have received from girls in trouble, I have concluded that very few were "persuaded" by a predatory male to behave like an "alley cat."

They are mostly nice girls who thought they were "in love" and were going to get married anyway, or girls who became too intimate, too soon with a boy who wanted too much and had too little control. This is not a case in favor of unmarried mothers keeping their illegitimate children — that remains, as it should, a personal matter.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Our only daughter is to be married in three weeks and my husband has the "jitters."

It will be a small, informal church wedding. My husband wants me to walk down the aisle on the other side of our daughter because he's afraid he might break down and cry if he walks her down the aisle alone to give her away. We have always done everything together, and if he needs me for moral support I don't think I should let him down.

★ ★ ★

We have heard this is done in Jewish ceremonies but we are Methodists. When we asked our minister about this, he laughed at us and said he had never heard of such a thing. I would like your views.

DADDY'S PAL

DEAR PAL: If your daughter is being married in the church you had better take your cues from the minister who will perform the ceremony. But he shouldn't laugh. I am told that in the Old World orthodox Jewish marriage ritual it was traditional for the bride to be escorted by both her parents.

Today's Woman

She Buys and Buys and Buys

By JUNE ELERT

With Blanche Connell, it's a simple matter of having found the right niche. The enthusiastic purchasing director for Pontiac General Hospital says, "This is the job that was really made for me."

ELERT

But it didn't come easy or on the first try. Blanche spent 17 years as secretary in investment counselling and manufacturing firms before she got her first taste of hospital work.

Even then, it was as a medical secretary in the surgical department that she began, and through that experience, became familiar with anatomical terminology, instrumentation and general hospital lingo.

Moving to the purchasing department in 1958, she advanced to assistant the next year. In 1960, when the purchasing director resigned, he suggested to the administration that Blanche should be given a try at the job. She's held it ever since.

★ ★ ★

Several innovations instituted during her tenure have made Pontiac General a model in the U. S. for other hospital administrations when updating storage, distribution and accountability systems is on their agenda.

Unique in the industry is her computer system of keeping needed medical-surgical stock up to standard in nursing areas.

★ ★ ★

With the help of her assistant, Mrs. Frank Reid, and a buyer, Charles-Neeley,and three warehousemen, Mrs. Connell;

—manages a three level warehouse containing more items than are stocked by a medical-surgical supply dealer plus enough canned goods to feed 2,000 people for a two-to-three-week period.

—purchases over $2,000,000 in supplies and equipment each year, keeping over 3,000 items in inventory.

—must be able on short notice to acquire any one of some 10,000 miscellaneous items that are not kept in inventory. These may range from special burn dressings, to tiny valves needed for delicate neurosurgical operations, to a new lawnmower for the maintenance department.

—must know that every item purchased meets all fire and safety regulations.

—sees that meats and other foods meet government specifications and are properly inspected as to weight and quality.

—contracts for major items such as bulk oxygen, x-ray film, intravenous solutions and electronic equipment in a manner most advantageous to the hospital and its patients.

ON THE BALL

Being "on the ball" is the big thing in this job, she says. Through snowstorms, disasters, strikes, the material must be gotten in. When an item is needed for patient care, no excuse is acceptable if it is not there.

And how did all this begin? Blanche was the oldest girl in a family of nine children. Pulling a wagon to the store to get groceries was one of her earliest chores.

As she grew older (about 12 or so) she gradually took over all the shopping for the family and learned along the way, to "get it right" so she wouldn't have to take it back.

★ ★ ★

In her free time, Blanche writes articles for hospital magazines, plays the piano and reads. She lives with her husband, Gene, on Farnsworth Street in White Lake Township. They have one son, David.

City OKs Land Buy for Pontiac General Hospital Parking

City commissioners last night approved purchase of 10 parcels of property on the east side of South Johnson, south of West Huron for construction of parking facilities for Pontiac General Hospital.

★ ★ ★

Total purchase price for the property is $142,146. The city has held options on the property since a month ago when then city commissioner Leslie H. Hudson, a realtor, consigned the land to the hospital administration.

Hudson had been securing options for private development but he turned the land over to the city—after waiving the usual real estate agent's fee—to allow expansion of hospital parking.

Harold Euler, hospital administrator, said the property had been appraised in October 1966, and the appraisals updated last month. Total appraised value was fixed at $126,950.

City Affairs

In other business, the commission:

● Approved a contract with the F. J. Siller & Co. for $160,900 in construction at the city's sanitary land-fill site north of Collier Road. The firm was the lowest of seven bidders in bids opened several weeks ago.

★ ★ ★

● Approved by a 5-2 vote a proposal to purchase two lots, formerly operated as a parking lot, between Lawrence and Clinton, west of Wayne.

● Received a report from City Manager Joseph A. Warren that the city's health department will be transferred to the county payroll by June 1.

● Received a report from the city building department detailing steps taken to remove safety hazards from an abandoned concrete mixing plant at 339 S. Paddock.

● Set a May 28 public hearing for consideration of the city's 1968 capital improvement fund budget.

● Received from and thanked the Pontiac branch of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association for a $300 donation for the city's arboretum park adjacent to the Adah Shelley branch library.

★ ★ ★

● Received from and thanked the Pontiac North Kiwanis Club for contributing $1,150 to improve North Kiwanis Park.

District 2 Commissioner Robert C. Irwin and District 5 Commissioner Robert F. Jackson voted against purchase of the downtown property.

★ ★ ★

Irwin said the city seemed to be adopting a policy of buying its problems or those of private parties.

'NOT IN LAND BUSINESS'

"Certainly the city is not in the land acquisition business . . . the city can't step in because a private owner can't take care of his problem," he said.

Pontiac Creek flows through part of the lots. Last year, because the covering over the creek caved in, the city removed it and made repairs.

Officials said the present owner is not able to restore the covering and fully utilize the property. Sale price is $18,000.

Director of Public Works Joseph P. Neipling said the existence of the creek bed within the two lots "does establish a substantial public interest."

FUTURE PLANS

He said in the future when the creek is rerouted the city could fill in the bed and use the lots for public use or sell them to private owners.

Warren said the County Health Department will take over all health department functions except for housing code enforcement and keeping of vital statistics.

The added administration will have a new division within the urban renewal department "to coordinate existing personnel and to provide for even more attention to housing code enforcement." New personnel also would be hired for this division, he added.

City Attorney Sherwin M. Brinkrant told the commission most of the things considered safety hazards had been removed from the concrete mix plant.

Rocky Plans Major Speech for Detroit

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is expected to make a major statement of his economic proposals for the nation in a speech to the Detroit Economic Club in the Motor City May 22, Rockefeller's office said Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

Rockefeller, campaigning for the Republican nomination for president, also is expected to meet with Michigan delegates to the GOP national convention and other political leaders during the trip.

Plans for the Michigan visit were announced Tuesday by the governor's press secretary, Leslie Slote.

Delay in Citywide Rezoning Requested by Corporation

City commissioners last night received a request from Harambee, Inc., a nonprofit corporation organized to initiate housing development in the southwest section of the city, to delay a proposed citywide rezoning.

Commissioners last night held another hearing on a new city zoning map and ordinances. These would be the first major changes in the map and ordinance since 1938.

★ ★ ★

Harambee, an all-Negro corporation, said it wished for a delay in consideration of the rezoning, until the corporation receives a complete planning report from Urban Design Development Group.

★ ★ ★

The design group is now preparing plans for complete development of the southwest section of the city and is conducting interviews with residents of the area to determine the best type of development according to the residents' needs and desires.

4-TO-6-WEEK WAIT

Sadie Davis, secretary of the corporation, said the plans are expected to be developed within four to six weeks.

In a letter to the commission, she requested that no rezoning be approved in Districts 1 or 7 until Harambee and other groups are able to sponsor communitywide meetings to find out what the local citizens desire in the way of development.

★ ★ ★

The letter also asked that all junk and scrap yards in those districts be abolished. "These kinds of operations should not be permitted in our communites," it said.

The corporation also said that the proposed fee of $200 for initiation of rezoning requests seems "to allow only the rich and affluent to qualify and make requests for any zoning changes in the future."

TO CONSIDER REQUEST

Commissioners said they would consider the request. The public hearing on the rezoning was continued until June 2.

The commission also discussed a variety of complaints with the proposed rezonings which will be discussed further by the city planning staff and planning commission.

★ ★ ★

Planning Director James L. Bates said that the proposed $200 rezoning fee was in line with the fees charged by a number of communities in the area.

He said the staff had determined that actual costs, including staff pay, for processing a rezoning request was about $260.

Voter Rolls Up 1,506 in City

Fair-Housing Friends Credited in Sign-Ups

Voter registrations during the period between the Apil 15 city election and last Friday totaled 1,507 City Clerk Olga Barkeley announced today.

She said 384 new registrants were taken at the city clerk's office and another 1,123 were taken during a voter registration drive initiated by the Friends of Fair Housing.

★ ★ ★

Cochairmen of the voter registration drive for the organization, Ernest Seay and James B. Davis, last night thanked the city clerk and requested that the city commission commend Mrs Barkeley for her help in securing new voters.

The total number of registered electors in the city now stands at 30,592.

VAN SIGNUPS

New registrations in the drive were taken in van-type vehicles donated by local organizations, including GMC Truck and Coach Division.

Three regular election workers were hired by the city clerk to take registrations. Mrs. Barkeley said these workers took 543 new registrations, many brought to the vans by volunteers working for Friends of Fair Housing.

★ ★ ★

Another 21 persons working for the organization were deputized by the clark and they accounted directly for another 580 registrations, she said.

Elk Bowling License Is Rejected 3rd Time

City commissioners last night voted down another attempt to reissue the bowling alley license of Pontiac Elks Club 810. The vote was 4-3.

District 5 Commissioner Robert F. Jackson, who had previously voted against the license, introduced a motion to reissue it.

★ ★ ★

He said the city might be misusing its authority in denying the license.

License renewal, usually routine, was denied two weeks ago after a member of the city planning commission, a Negro, informed the commission he had been discriminated against at the club.

2ND ATTEMPT

Last week District 2 Commissioner Robert C. Irwin introduced a motion to reissue the license. This was defeated, 6-1.

Voting against the proposal last night were Mayor William H. Taylor Jr., District 1 Commissioner T. Warren Fowler Sr., District 4 Commissioner F. Jack Douglas and District 6 Commissioner Wesley J. Wood.

★ ★ ★

In favor of Jackson's motion were District 7 Commissioner James H. Marshall, Irwin and Jackson.

Jackson said the city can withold licenses for reasons of "health, safety or welfare." He said discriminatory practices do not fall into those categories and, as much as the commission may disfavor any such practices, to deny a license because of a discriminatory act may be overstepping the commission's authority.

APOLOGY ASKED

Other commissioners indicated they wanted a public apology from the club before they would favor reissuing the license.

He's Not Player

WELDON, Iowa (AP) — Franklin E. Delk, 74, son of a violin repairman and operator of a violin repair shop here, has worked on thousands of violins but admits he's not much of a violinist himself.

Deploring the damage that inexperience hands can do to musical instruments, Delk reports that much of his work is "undoing" the efforts of others.

Downtown Cleanup Saturday

M-Week Kickoff Set

Michigan week will begin in Pontiac with an intensive effort to clean up the downtown area Saturday.

Sponsored by the Pontiac Area Jaycees, the cleanup project will involve up to 1,500 Pontiac teen-agers, James La Vergne, general chairman, estimated.

Clyle Haskill, Michigan Week Chairman said the clean-up campaign was thought of as an excellent way to get the city's youth involved in Michigan Week and to focus on a central idea each day of the week.

★ ★ ★

Michigan Week is being celebrated for the 15th year. Saturday is geared to observance of Community Pride Day. The observances generally will last Saturday through May 25.

This year's theme for the celebration is "Michigan — Land of Hospitality."

STORE FRONTS

The cleanup will begin at 8:30 a.m. John R. Lyons and Tom Brietzius, cochairmen, said. Jaycees will help direct the cleanup of store fronts and foyers and the cleaning of storefront windows.

★ ★ ★

Owners of empty buildings downtown have given permission to clean the fronts, they said.

The city fire department will help kick off the day by providing water to wash down Saginaw street, they said.

★ ★ ★

Helping to sponsor the event are the Downtown Pontiac Business Association, the Pontiac State Bank and Community National Bank.

REFRESHMENTS

The businessmen are providing brooms and cleaning equipment. The banks are paying for refreshments, including hot dogs and soft drinks, for those participating.

A number of civic clubs will provide displays and decorations for empty store front windows.

The afternoon, beginning at 2 p.m., will feature entertainment provided by five bands, the cochairmen said.

Cooperating in the project, Jaycees explained, are all area schools. Students who have not been contacted but are interested in helping can come to the downtown area Saturday, the Jaycees said.

Liver Failure Fatal

12th Transplant Patient Dies

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — John Stuckwish, the world's 12th heart transplant, died Tuesday night. Doctors said ailments existing prior to surgery caused his death.

Stuckwish, 62, who received his new heart May 7 at St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital, underwent the third heart transplant operation in five days at the hospital.

★ ★ ★

Surgeons said he was dying when they implanted the heart of a 32-year-old welder, whose death was ruled a homicide.

Hospital administrator Newell France said, "Mr. Stuckwish, ill on admission to St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital, improved following the heart transplant but not sufficiently to overcome the diseased processes existing prior to surgery."

RALLIED BRIEFLY

Stuckwish was an Alpine, Tex., hospital administrator. He had been listed as in critical condition since the operation. He rallied briefly Sunday but was reported in grave condition Monday afternoon.

"The total cardiac performance remained excellent throughout the post-operative course," France said.

★ ★ ★

"Death is attributed to progressive liver failure with deepening jaundice and extension of his pre-existing peripheral arterial disease."

Stuckwish received the heart of Clarence Nicks, 32, who died of injuries suffered in a tavern fight April 23. Police have arrested two men on murder charges.

Dr. Denton Cooley led the surgical team which also performed the other heart transplants at the hospital.

Japanese Cult's Goddess Is Profiled

EDITOR'S NOTE — Just 17 years old, this Japanese lass is spiritual leader of some 350,000 persons in her native country. She is known as the "dancing Goddess," head of a religious group less than 25 years old.

By KAY TATEISHI
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO — A 17-year-old high school junior, who is the new spiritual leader of a popular postwar Japanese cult known as the "Dancing Religion," likes some dances other than the spiritual — "go-go" and "rock 'n' roll."

But Kiyokazu Kitamura prefers to keep the modern swinging and swaying within the family and the slower spiritual dance within the temple.

★ ★ ★

Miss Kiyokazu is the young successor to "Tensho Kotai Jingu-kyo" — Great Heaven Singing Goddess religion — often referred to as "Odoru Shukyo," or Dancing Religion.

She succeeds her grandmother, Sayo Kitamura, a farmer's wife who founded the cult in 1944 when she claimed God entered her abdomen and gave her directions on how to behave and speak to cleanse the world of its sin and evil.

'DANCE OF ECSTACY'

Out of Mrs. Kitamura's teachings was born the "Dance of Ecstacy," a child-like praying, chanting, slow twisting, turning and twirling of the arms, hands, head and body.

Mrs. Kitamura died last Dec. 28 at the age of 67. It was her dying wish that Miss Kiyokazu replace her.

★ ★ ★

Known as the Great Goddess, Mrs. Kitamura built up a following estimated at 350,000 in Japan, with another 30,000 believers in 32 other countries. She traveled far, although thousands also journeyed to her farm at Tabuse in southern Japan.

This New Year's Day, Miss Kiyokazu, formerly known as the Princess Goddess, became Dancing Goddess II. She told her audience: "I shall carry on the teachings of the Great Goddess and help build a world faithful to her teachings."

PREPARED FOR DEATH

At her first news conference, dressed in a dark minidress, the youthful goddess said: "I don't feel as lonely as I thought I would. I was prepared for her death. I've always been with the Great Goddess. When she was traveling abroad I took her picture to bed with me. Now I feel her presence closer than ever."

Miss Kiyokazu was separated from her parents and grew up with her grandmother. They bathed together, slept together. She often chanted prayers in the baby's ears.

Miss Kiyokazu was aware of her mission in life as she went to primary school with other youngsters in the neighborhood.

She had been told often that grandmother would die some day and that she was to become the second Dancing Goddess.

STUDY VOICE

She says she wanted to study vocal music. "I wanted to study in Vienna," she said. "But I guess I can still take voice lessons as a hobby."

She said she liked the Beatles but, she added, "They're not very good now."

★ ★ ★

Miss Kiyokazu often meditates alone in the huge auditorium of the spacious, completely unadorned ultramodern temple, which sits on a hill overlooking Tabuse.

The youthful leader may give the cult a new image. Dancing sessions are to be limited to one a month inside the temple.

WISE CHOICE

Her decision may be a wise choice.

On one occasion, Mrs. Kitamura's parish gathered at the pier in Yokohama to wish her bon voyage on one of her many missionary pilgrimages to Hawaii. As the steamship slowly pulled away, the flock broke into the Dance of Ecstacy.

Job Prospects Bright for Grads

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Good jobs with good pay beckon this year's record American college graduating class.

The government says a survey shows "exceedingly bright" job prospects awaiting those emerging from campuses across the country this spring.

★ ★ ★

The race for top talent has been on for many months among businesses, industries, academic institutions — and the government itself.

For some, there will be a detour into a khaki uniform.

MOST SOUGHT AFTER

The survey conducted by the Labor Department showed that, as usual, engineering and accounting graduates are the most sought after.

There also is said to be an exceptionally good job market for health professionals, social workers, librarians, mathematicians, chemists, physicists and other scientists.

★ ★ ★

Starting salaries for new graduates continue high, averaging about 5 per cent more than last spring. And the outlook both from the standpoint of job openings and pay has improved for Negro graduates, the study said.

"As graduation nears, never has there been such a strong, three-way pull for American college graduates — from industry, graduate schools and the military draft," the government analysts said.

VERY ACTIVE

"Expecting a smaller pool of draft-exempt graduates this year, industry is recruiting very actively. More jobs are being offered."

Draft calls are up because of the war in Vietnam. And a new regulation abolishing graduate school deferments is expected to mean induction for a much higher percentage of bachelor degree graduates who otherwise would have gone into postgraduate study.

★ ★ ★

An estimated 820,000 men and women will graduate from American colleges and universities this year, including 150,000 with advanced degrees.

This is an increase of about 100,000 graduates over 1967, but some career openings may go unfilled because of a shortage of available graduates.

FAVORABLE OUTLOOK

Those who majored in business administration and liberal arts have a favorable outlook for employment, the government report said.

Sales careers in insurance and real estate, and in pharmaceutical and other manufacturing industries, provide many opportunities for these graduates, it added.

★ ★ ★

Business administration majors also are being sought for management trainee programs, business analysis, production control and marketing.

"Liberal arts graduates are being offered jobs in computer programming, personnel and merchandizing.

LIBERAL ARTS MAJORS

"Increased demand is also reported for liberal arts majors to plan and staff public and private programs dealing with the problems of inner cities and depressed rural areas," the report said.

Not as much encouragement was offered for majors in anthropology, art, drama, English, history, language and philosophy, particularly those not willing to relocate or accept positions outside their major fields of study.

★ ★ ★

The report said Negro college graduates were receiving more job offers at higher salaries in virtually all fields than a year ago.

Women graduates are finding prospects especially bright in mathematics, accounting, data processing and the natural sciences, it added.

STARTING SALARIES

Starting salaries for those with bachelors degrees average up to $775 a month for engineers, $725 a month for accountants, $700 a month for mathematicians, $725 a month for chemists and physicists, $600 a month for biological science graduates and $650 a month for business trainees and salesmen. Salary figures were not given for other professions.

TALCUM-POWDER BROADSIDE — The Golden Doubloon, based at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., is a full-size, seagoing Spanish galleon, that houses treasures recovered from sunken wrecks. The smaller-scaled brigantine Barracuda always fires a mock broadside as it passes on its way up the intercoastal waterway. This time, the Spanish galleon was ready and returned the fire, its guns loaded with sweet-smelling talcum powder.

2 Cases Show U.N. Weakness

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations is grappling with two widely different problems pointing up one of its major weaknesses: its inability or unwillingness to crack down on countries that have defied its decisions.

Israel and South Africa, perennial headaches, are once more scorning U.N. resolutions. Although there has been much talk of enforcement actions against them, little enthusiasm for such measures has developed.

Both South Africa and Israel have been condemned and censured numerous times over the years; South Africa for its policies of racial separation and for refusing to give up the territory of South-West Africa, and Israel for military actions against its Arab neighbors.

The two countries, however, have displayed minimum concern over the U.N. slaps and have pursued their policies as if the U.N. had never acted.

FRUSTRATING DETAILS

The General Assembly last week received a report from the 11-nation Council on South-West Africa detailing its frustrating experiences in trying to get South Africa to withdraw from the former League of Nations mandate territory in accord with U.N. resolutions.

The South African government rebuffed every initiative of the council, including its efforts to gain entry into South-West Africa. The council said the only way to get South Africa out of the territory is use of force. South African representatives have kept silent in assembly debate.

The debate on the Middle East has been going on in the Security Council. Last month the council condemned an Israeli incursion deep into Jordanian territory, but Israel replied that it would do the same thing again if, as it described it, Arab terrorist raids continued to operate from Jordanian bases.

★ ★ ★

More recently the council called on Israel to cancel a military parade scheduled for Jerusalem. Israel defied the resolution and held the parade May 2. Now the council is seeking a way to force Israeli to comply with previous resolutions demanding an end to measures aimed at annexing the Old City of Jerusalem, occupied during the June 5-10 war last year.

E. Germans Being Urged to Travel in Red Nations

BERLIN (AP) — With vacation days around the corner, East Germans are being told: Go East, people, go East.

This advice is made necessary by the Communist regime's fear that any able-bodied East German who went to any but Socialist countries might not come back.

★ ★ ★

Where they can go is made clear for vacationing East Germans in a layout put together by the official travel agency, with the cover title "Travel Tips '68".

The travel journal says Bulgaria, Poland, Hungary, Romania and Czechoslovakia, as well as the Soviet Union, are favorite vacation goals.

Handy Czechoslovakia and the sunny Black Sea beaches of Romania and Bulgaria are used by many East Germans to meet their relatives from West Germany.

Auto trips to the East are possible, but over prescribed routes.

★ ★ ★

The most exotic vacation offered is a 24-day trip to the People's Republic of Mongolia by air that includes five days in the Soviet Union. Cost: about 3,500 East marks, or $850 at the tourist rate.

Trips to comparatively exposed Yugoslavia are restricted to air trips ranging from 15 to 21 days.

NOT YET CLEAR

Whether Czechoslovakia's liberalization drive will have any long-range effect on officially approved East German wanderlust is not yet clear.

There is one "Western" loophole-Communist Cuba.

★ ★ ★

Offered are combined air and sea trips, that vary in price according to class from $928 to $1,250.

There is a 32-day trip aboard the liner Voelkerfreundschaft-People's Friendship — that includes seven days on land in Cuba, the rest at sea.

Attending will be delegates from communites and school districts in the seven-county area of Oakland, Wayne, Macomb, St. Clair, Livingston, Washtenaw and Monroe.

★ ★ ★

The chairman of COG, William Mainland of Milford, urges nonmember governments to send observers.

COG was formed to develop programs of cooperative action in the southeastern state area. The first general assembly was held in January.

PERIODIC MEETINGS

Meetings are to be called periodically to hear reports and act on recommendations of the executive board.

Area Families to Host 7 Swiss

The Waterford-Drayton Rotary Club, in cooperation with the Experiment in International Living, Putney, Vt., is sponsoring the Waterford Township arrival Monday of seven Swiss businessmen.

Each of the seven businessmen will live for 2½ weeks with a Waterford Township family.

★ ★ ★

This is a project in international understanding through family living, according to Dr. Ashton W. Emery and James C. Covert, community cochairmen.

★ ★ ★

Through family and group activities, the Swiss will learn about American life and share their own way of life with their American hosts and friends.

BUSINESS METHODS

Following its departure from the Pontiac area June 7, the group will attend a six-week academic program on American business methods at the University of Massachusetts.

The home-stay families involved are the Ashton W. Emerys, the Don O. Tatroes, the James B. Boazes, the Frank Williamsons, the Eldean Chews, the Russell R. Grinnells and the Carlos Richardsons, all of Waterford Township.

★ ★ ★

Some of the points of interest scheduled for the group's visit are: an automobile plant production line and offices; a dairy farm and local processing plant; the business offices of the Waterford Township School District; the Michigan State Legislature in Lansing; the regional offices of a large retail food chain; business offices of a large department store; the Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village; and Cranbrook.

The Rotary committee for this local international exchange project consists of Emery, Covert, Chew and Robert J. Beattie.

Representing the "Experiment" locally and assisting with the planning are Mrs. William Shunck, Mrs. Grinnell and Mrs. Jack Mandiberg.

The "Experiment," a nonprofit organization with affiliates in 60 countries, has been conducting this type of educational exchange since its inception in 1932.

★ ★ ★

This year, alone, nearly 3,000 "Experimenters" will come to the U.S. from more than 100 different nations.

Approximately 2,500 young Americans will visit Europe, Latin America, the Middle East, Asia and Africa through similar "Experiment" homestay and study programs.

Haunting Strains

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Some recent issues of a magazine published by the musicians' union lists the Tabor Theater in Denver as being "unfair."

Musicians have not been used there since 1964. That was the year the theatre was torn down.

Youths Held in Burglaries

BELLAIRE (AP)—Two Bellaire youths waived examination Tuesday at their arraignments stemming from a series of summer home burglaries in Antrim County.

Charles Speet, 18, is charged with car theft and burglary. He was held in lieu of $1,000 bond. Larry Smith, 18, was held under $500 bond on a burglary charge.

★ ★ ★

Police said the chain of burglaries came to light last Sunday when Speet's father, Fred, reported his home ransacked and car missing. The two youths were picked up, police said, and under questioning admitted burglarizing at least 10 summer cottages.

Dionne's Audience Appeal Derives From Her Coziness

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—I think Dionne Warwick, the busty beauty from New Jersey who went to Europe to make good, is such a success at the Copacabana because she keeps amazingly close contact with her audience, never getting away from those hearing her. In this she's like Judy Garland who was there—so were Joe Namath (and Alice Beatty), Dustin Hoffman and Bobby Goldsboro. When Dionne put on a blonde wig and mimicked Marlene Dietrich, well, well, well!

WILSON

Brooklyn, U.S.A. was the capital of Society when Mayor Lindsay entertained King Olov of Norway at the Brooklyn Museum. I asked David Susskind his plans and he said, "Broadway can shove it. It belongs to the theater owners, the theater party people, the women with new minks and diamonds who go to show off, irrespective of what's going on on the stage, to the featherbedding musicians who don't play music but play canasta . . . I'm not interested in Broadway any more."

Good line by Mayor Lindsay to the King: "I have great admiration for His Majesty because he first took office when he was 2 years old and has held the job ever since, which is not easy to do in these days . . ."

YANKEES STAY HOME, IMPORT ENGLAND—Americans who feel glum about foreign-travel restrictions can cheer up. Good old Yankee ingenuity has come to the rescue. We're bringing England's treasures over here. A U.S. oil firm's purchase of London Bridge (top right) is the latest acquisition from Britain. The 136-year-old span succumbed to the weight of 20th-century traffic and will be moved block by block to Lake Havasu City, Ariz., where it will span a man-made lake in the desert. Bought for $2,240,000, the British landmark is already being dismantled for shipment to the "colonies" where it will join such other mementoes as the Queen Mary (top left), bought by the City of Long Beach, Calif.; the Queen Elizabeth (bottom right), bought by the City of Philadelphia; and the Church of St. Mary Aldermanbury, which was moved stone by stone from London to Fulton, Mo., to be reconstructed as part of the Winston Churchill Memorial and Library.
