Ike Prefers Deficit Spending to Hike in Taxes

City Taxpayers Get Big Assist From Industry

By PETE LOCHBILER

That Pontiac taxpayers are in an enviable position is the big conclusion drawn by City Assessor W. R. Ransom in his annual report on 1957 taxes.

A high industrial tax base combined with a low city tax rate gives the average Pontiac home owner a big break, he believes.

In addition, the assessor's office held off last year applying a new tax formula that would have raised the actual amount of dollars and cents on many tax bills, and at the same time bucked a trend toward higher assessments.

"If the average Pontiac taxpayer thought the whole thing out, he would realize," Ransom said, "that he is getting more services for less cost to himself than in many other Michigan cities."

While school and county taxes, over which the city has no control, rose last year, the city tax rate remained the same.

Pontiac taxpayers were asked to pay a big $12,114,811 in city, school and county taxes last year. The city wanted $3,481,671; the Pontiac school district, $6,676,296; and the county, $1,778,838. Another $177,908 was for the county special education fund.

Increased school and county taxes plus the heavy burden of the federal income tax combined with more widespread state taxes were seen by Ransom as the chief reasons some taxpayers are disgruntled.

"Pontiac can't stop these other governmental agencies from raising taxes, but we have held the city rate at 13.70 mills for the fourth consecutive year," Ransom said.

Evidence of how industry helps the small taxpayer out is given in these figures included in the annual report:

Of the total assessment distribution, real and personal, industry last year received 56.8 per cent, or $144,421,600 of the total $254,141,800; commerce, 15.27 per cent, or $38,814,900 of the total; and utilities 3.1 per cent, or $7,954,850.

Homes and other assessed property accounted only for the other 24.77 per cent, or $62,950,450.

The General Motors Corp. through its three Pontiac divisions alone figured in more than half of the total assessment distribution. It accounted for 53.15 per cent, or $135,081,750.

This means that business and industry accounted for more than 75 per cent of the Pontiac tax base, including all of the assessment on such personal property as the huge industrial inventories in the city's many factories.

Private home owners did not have to pay any part of the big,

'A Lot of Scare Talk About Intangibles Tax; Awaits Bill

DETROIT (AP) — "There are going to be a lot of red faces" when his intangibles tax proposal is reduced to bill form, Gov. Williams said last night.

Williams said in a TV talk that he would present his proposal for "a reasonable increase" in the intangibles tax within a few days.

He said there has been "a lot of scare talk" about the tax.

"I have no intention of recommending that any tax be paid by bank depositors," Williams said, "certainly not a new tax on small family savings and checking accounts.

House Speeds OK on Funds for Air Force

Requests 550 Million; New Launching Base for Missiles Included

WASHINGTON (INS)—The House moved with extraordinary speed today to approve authorization of nearly 550 million dollars in emergency funds for the Air Force.

Part of the money, requested by President Eisenhower to accelerate missile programs in the current fiscal year, will go for a huge new launching base within missile range of the Soviet Union.

Chairman Carl Vinson (D-Ga), of the House Armed Services Committee called for rapid approval of the entire Air Force program as a matter of "the highest priority."

Under a speeded-up schedule, Vinson was to go before the House Rules Committee early today so that the legislation could be considered when the House meets at noon.

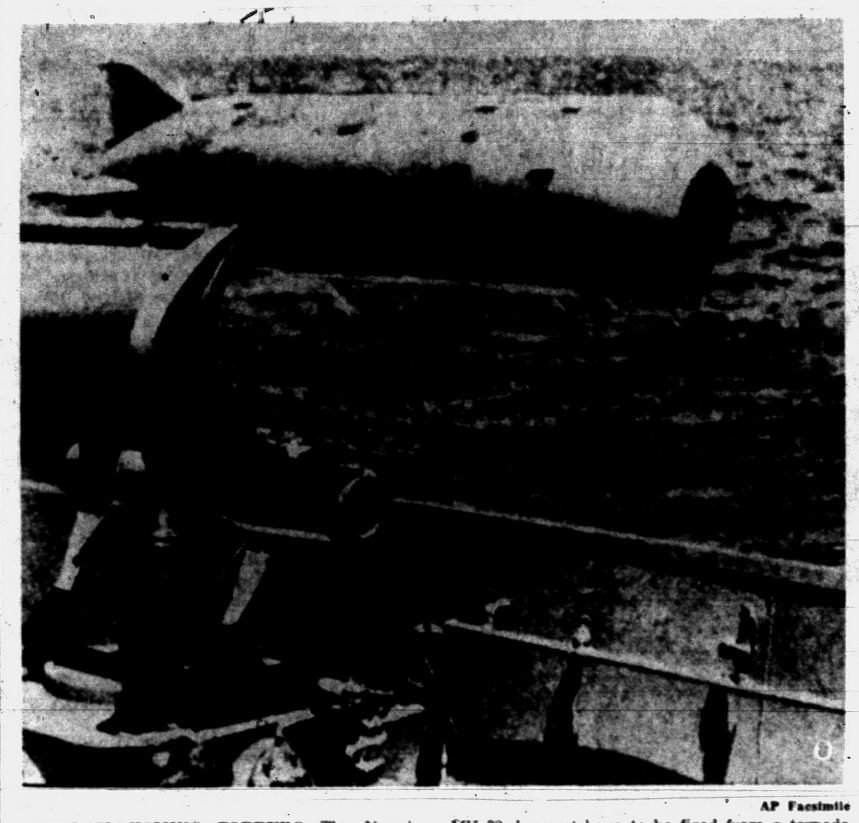

Vinson said in a prepared statement that "prompt approval of the bill now will save up to one year in construction time" and he warned "we do not have one year to spare."

It was learned that the Air Force was anxious to have the emergency money as quickly as possible so that construction can begin this spring on the score of projects included in the authorizing legislation.

Would Not Seek Levy if Budget Unbalanced

President Says He Feels Fine, Plans to Carry On; Defends Sec. Dulles

WASHINGTON (INS) — President Eisenhower said today he would prefer deficit spending rather than a tax increase if his hopes for a balanced budget are not realized.

In his first news conference in 11 weeks, Eisenhower said it is impossible to tell now whether the nation will have to spend more than his $73,934,000,000 budget if the missile speedup is to proceed while domestic programs are continued.

He said he still assumes that there will be an economic upturn to offset the increased spending but would not favor a tax hike because it might slow down this economic improvement.

The chief executive said he would want the economy to have check rein.

Eisenhower, who suffered a mild stroke on Nov. 25, said that he feels very well indeed and is going to carry on exactly as he has in the past for just as long as he is able.

He said that he never even thought of resigning when he suffered his cerebral occlusion because his doctors assured him that there was no damage to — as he put it — whatever intellectual faculties he had.

REPEATS AVOWAL

However, repeating a past avowal, he said that anytime he or any eminent group of doctors believe he is not up to doing his job he would have no recourse but to resign.

The President was in smiling good humor throughout most of the meeting with 270 reporters.

He flashed some anger, however, when asked if there was any truth to published reports that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles had submitted his resignation and that it had been refused by the President.

Eisenhower's pink cheeks became red as he stared at the newsman who asked the question. He snapped that he would class the report as trash and described Dulles as the wisest, most dedicated man he knows.

IGNORES CRITICS

He said that he feels this way in spite of a great deal of criticism which has been voiced against Dulles in newspapers.

The President said that he assumes he knows as many leading world figures as anybody does and he has found them to share his opinion of Dulles.

Eisenhower also became stern when asked whether he intends to make public the top-secret Gaither Report which has been described as picturing the U.S. in its greatest danger in history.

REPORT NOT PUBLIC

He said he has no intention of making the report public because if he did he would immediately have to stop calling conferences such as the one which led to the report.

The President said he believes

U.S. Satellite Expected Soon

AF Says Same Missile With 3-Stage Rocket Can Get Data on Moon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air Force missile experts expect to place a payload satellite in orbit about the earth shortly and they say the same existing missile can perform unmanned reconnaissance of the moon.

This forecast became public today through closed-door testimony by Maj. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, commander of the Air Force Ballistic Missile Division.

Target date for these performances were deleted as military secrets but Schriever said the present Thor 1,500-mile Air Force missile can place a payload satellite in orbit.

He said by adding an existing third stage this missile can perform unmanned reconnaissance of the moon.

The Army checked over tape and photographic records of a nighttime launching of its big Redstone missile today for clues that might help it put an American-style Sputnik into an orbit.

The Redstone was sent up into a starlit, cloudless, moonless sky from the Air Force missile test center last night at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

The Redstone is considerably more than the Army's biggest—and first operational — ballistic missile. A Redstone will be the first stage of the huge Jupiter-C test vehicle.

With this device the Army hopes, before another month, to send up an earth satellite.

The Redstone, 69 feet long and 6 feet in diameter, lifted sluggishly from its launching pad, in fiery sheets of exhaust fumes and with an earth-shaking roar.

Thursday's High: Near 36 Degrees

Mostly cloudy is the prediction for the Pontiac area tonight and tomorrow, with tonight's low about 28 degrees.

Thursday's high recording will be near 36 degrees. Not much change in temperature is forecast for Friday but Saturday will be colder with Sunday more moderate. Precipitation will total around one-fourth inch with snow flurries Friday and snow Monday.

The lowest temperature preceding 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac was 30 degrees. The thermometer registered 34 at 2 p.m.

Trudeau to Replace Gavin as Chief of Army Research

TOKYO (AP)—The U.S. Army's new chief of research and development, Lt. Gen. Arthur Gilbert Trudeau, declared today that recent Soivet weapons gains are nothing "we can't compete with or surpass."

Trudeau, a corps commander in Korea, told a news conference he learned only this morning that he had been chosen to replace Lt. Gen. James Gavin as the Army's research chief.

He will take over the Pentagon post April 1, one day after Gavin's retirement becomes official.

Trudeau said he hopes to inject a vigorous attitude" into America's missile and weapons program, "to destroy or at least reduce the complacency with witch this situation has been viewed."

Trudeau, 55, sidestepped a question on consolidating the present U.S. chiefs of staff system under one head.

On whether the three services could jointly research missiles under one command, Trudeau said reports of interservice development rivalry were "greatly exaggerated." Amalgamating research by the three services "is a problem which needs searching study on the parts of all concerned," he added.

A long-time Army engineer, Trudeau has had little direct experience in weapon planning. He stressed, however, that he had been "intimately concerned" with U.S. programs in weapon research in former posts.

LT. GEN. TRUDEAU

Gavin announced his retirement after sharply criticizing missiles policy, the Joint Chiefs of Staff setup and Army appropriations before the Senate committee.

UAW Strikes Back at 'Big 3' Criticism

DETROIT (INS)—The United Auto Workers struck back at the "Big Three" car manufacturers today in a letter to General Motors Corp. charging it either misunderstood the union's proposal or made a "wilful attempt to distort its contents."

UAW head Walter P. Reuther addressed the letter to GM President Harlow Curtice and stated in effect that what's good for high-salaried executives is also good for hourly-rated workers.

Reuther declared the company paid $653 million in excess profits during 1947-1956 to executives and contended if the 500,000 GM hourly rated and salaried employes shared in the excess profits under his present proposal they would have received about $6,000 each during that time.

Meanwhile, George Romney, president of American Motors Corp., lined up with Ford, Chrysler and General Motors in opposition to Reuther's proposals.

Romney, the "David" of the auto industry, said the profit sharing and rebate proposals were a "bludgeon" to silence criticism of chain reaction pattern bargaining.

He charged the UAW concentrates its publicity on "profits resulting from General Motors' far-flung and unmatched operations. Reuther again seeks to use GM in

Saginaw Considers City-Owned Buses

SAGINAW — Saginaw City Lines has pleaded declining passenger revenues here in line with a national trend. City councilmen fear the bus company may have to cease its Saginaw operation, making a city-owned transportation system necessary, unless the utility receives some financial relief.

Members of the Citizens Bus Committee here have discussed the possibility of asking voters to authorize an amendment to the present bus franchise, making the proposed lease agreement a part of the franchise. The bus franchise has four years to run. It was a 15-year pact adopted in December 1946.

Gasoline Firms Reduce Prices

Most Major Companies in Pontiac-Detroit Area Adopt 2.2-Cent Cut

The cost of gasoline from most major companies to their dealers in the Pontiac and Detroit areas has been reduced by 2.2 cents per gallon following a pattern established last night by Standard Oil Co.

Besides Standard, spokesmen for Sun Oil, Shell, Socony-Mobil, Gulf and Pure Oil said their companies have or will drop prices to stay on a competitive level.

A Speedway 79 official said the company "didn't know" as yet whether it would reduce prices.

In most of the cases, the reduction changed the tank price from the companies to the dealers from 17.5 to 15.3 cents for regular and from 20.0 to 18.8 for premium.

Changes in prices to motorists will be left to individual dealers, the companies said. Most regular brands have been selling in the 32-cent range.

4 GOP Legislators Ask 5th County Judge

Four Republican state representatives from Oakland County today introduced a bill into the state legislature calling for the election of a fifth circuit court judge for Oakland County in April, 1959.

Introducing the bill were Rep. Theodore F. Hughes, of Berkley, Farrell E. Roberts of West Bloomfield Township, Donald A. Brown, of Royal Oak, and Lloyd L. Anderson, of Waterford Township.

Attempts in the last session of the legislature to gain a fifth judge for Oakland County were stalled as Republicans sought to have the new office filled by election, and Democrats holding out for appointment by the governor.

To Reorganize Defense

McElroy Names Three

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense McElroy said today he is naming three top-ranking military men and a number of civilians to help him draft plans for reorganizing the Defense Department.

McElroy told newsmen the principal military consultants will be Gen. Nathan Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; and Twining's two predecessors in that office, Adm. Arthur W. Radford and Gen. Omar Bradley. McElroy said they have agreed to serve.

Croteau Appointed to Fill Board of Supervisors Post

Maurice J. Croteau, a Pontiac caterer and former school board member, was named last night to serve the last three months of an unexpired term on the Oakland County Board of Supervisors as the City Commission filled 14 other vacancies on administrative boards.

Croteau, 50, of 114 Marquette Ave., fills the position created by the resignation of Willis M. Brewer two months ago to join the Oakland County Road Commission as Road Co-Ordinator.

Active in civic affairs, Croteau is a life-long Pontiac resident who served on the Pontiac Board of Education from 1951 to 1955, and as vice president of the board in 1954.

He was an organizer and first president of the Greater Pontiac Community Advisory Council and is a former president of the Oakland County Grocers Association. Croteau also serves on the Catholic Family Center board of directors.

His term on the supervisors' board will expire in April.

Other appointments were to the Board of Tax Review, the Historical Commission, the Zoning Board

David Lawrence Sees 'Profits Before Taxes' Idea Unreal

Reuther's Plan Doesn't Mention Sharing of Losses

WASHINGTON—Walter Reuther, president of the United Automobile Workers Union, has launched what seems on the surface to be an alluring idea. He wants labor to share in the profits of the motor-car industry. But, strangely enough, he has omitted to say anything about sharing in the losses.

LAWRENCE

For in America it's a profit-and-loss system—not just a profit system—that has made the economy successful. Partners who want to share only the profits aren't usually accepted as participants in business because they would be of no help when business faltered.

The auto union chief, in effect, asks to have all the workers given the status of "owners" even though they do not contribute a nickel to buy plant and equipment or risk anything, as do the investors who must take losses of dividends when business is bad and even see their stock depreciate on the market.

The new plan, presented as a basis for "collective bargaining" by the leader of the auto workers union, does not promise that the workers will increase the productivity of the company and help to reduce the total cost of making an automobile.

No pledge of any kind is offered that the workers will give anything in return for their extra pay. Mr. Reuther talks as if the employes were entitled to a share of the profits no matter what they do on the production line.

This is a bold concept that comes nearer to wanting to confiscate somebody else's property than anything union labor has ever proposed.

Profit-sharing schemes are not new. Many businesses have them for executives as an incentive. But the word "incentive" has a specific meaning. Unless it can be shown that the executives are helping to increase the company's volume of sales and are efficiently operating the company's affairs, they do not deserve a bonus.

The U.S. Internal Revenue Service allows a tax deduction for services actually rendered, and it doesn't permit any deduction for gifts to employes.

Dividends to stockholders are not deductible for tax purposes and are paid out of the 48 per cent of net income left after paying the government's 52 per cent tax. Yet Mr. Reuther lumps dividends to stockholders and bonuses in the same category, which he says can be paid out of "profits before taxes."

There really isn't any such thing as "profits before taxes" anyway, because Uncle Sam has a legal hold on 52 per cent of net income, and only the remainder is really "profits."

It's that remainder which must be big enough to maintain the business itself year after year. To determine the amount needed for this is a management function and not subject to "collective bargaining" with non-owners.

Mr. Reuther hasn't thought through, either, the other implica-

Cuban Rebels Raid, Withdraw

Bold Attack in Daylight Blocks Roads, Rails to Big Sugar Port

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Rebel forces of Fidel Castro withdrew safely to their mountain hideouts late yesterday after a bold daylight raid on the sugar port of Manzanillo.

The Cuban army made no comment on the attack. President Fulgencio Batista's forces say they want to meet Castro's guerrillas in an open fight, but they reported no action to counter the young revolutionist's foray on the southeast coast, at the foot of the Sierra Maestra.

For most of the day rebel bands blockaded all roads and railroads into the city of 100,000 while they searched for politicians and army officers marked by Castro as "enemies of the people."

They burned sugar cane fields, automobiles and buses, looted food warehouses and smashed equipment, and attacked guard posts. They also carried off some prisoners, but how many was not reported.

he needs such conferences because they provide him with advice which he needs in making decisions. He added that he provides these consultants with very secret information and binds them to agree that they will keep their advice and conclusions confidential.

He said that he had been told that the basic facts and information in the report had been given to congressional committees in closed sessions. That, he said, is as much as he can provide.

Eisenhower also made these points:

—He had no comment on the retirement of Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin and considers this a matter of personality. The President said if the man wanted to retire, he did right.

—He will not try to force his own views for Pentagon reorganization upon Congress or defense leaders because he realizes he is commander-in-chief for a fixed period which will only last another three years.

Naturally, he has his own convictions about what should be done, based on his own military experience, but will be completely objective on the subject.

—The serious problems which have beset the world during his five years in office have not been very much rougher than he anticipated. As long ago as 1947, he predicted that world difficulties would increase.

—He will do his best to help elect a Republican Congress this year because he still believes that the GOP—with more unity than many people think—solidly believes in his own political philosophy.

—Asked whether he thought it would be necessary to invoke economic controls if the current recession is to be defeated, he said he does not anticipate that any will be proposed and does not think it will be necessary to go beyond indirect controls in the Federal Reserve Board policies.

Industry Lightens City Taxpayers' Load

$117,713,200 assessment on personal property, and they accounted for less than half of the assessment on real property.

The total $136,406,550 valuation placed on real property was split 46.1 per cent by home owners, 35.6 per cent by industry, 17.35 per cent by commerce and 9 per cent by utilities.

A similar breakdown on the personal property assessment showed industry bearing 81.4 per cent of the total; commerce, 12.86 per cent and utilities, 5.7 per cent.

The new tax formula, which the assessor's office began considering last summer, is complicated. Its adoption would have had an immediate effect on the average taxpayer's tax bill.

Although some sample new appraisals were made here last year, Ransom explained the new formula is still under study because "economic conditions are not right for it."

The formula is one endorsed by the state for use in reaching state equalized valuations. Its proponents say it is an attempt to make assessments more realistic.

For many years, personal property generally has been assessed at a much higher rate than real property. The state formula recommends that both be assessed at the same rate, about 47 per cent of true value.

That adoption of the formula would change the tax picture in Pontiac is seen from the fact that real property here has been assessed at about 45 per cent of true value and personal at 80 per cent.

Any move toward the state's recommendations would have had the private home-owner paying more percentage-wise and the big companies paying less.

Pontiac's city-assessed valuation last year was $254,119,750. The county equalized valuation on the other hand, was $333,288,958 and the state's equalized valuation was $352,686,813.

These equalized valuations represent an attempt to bring the city's assessment rates up to a common county-wide and state-wide level.

It's important to emphasize, Ransom said, that the city levies its taxes on its own assessed valuation. The county, on the other hand, makes its levy on the county equalized valuation, and the school district levies on the state equalized valuation.

"It's obvious that the more money you say a piece of property is worth, the more you are going to collect in dollars and cents on it in taxes," Ransom said.

Therefore, he pointed out, the city has helped the taxpayer by keeping its valuation of his property down way below the figures set by the county and state.

A glance at last year's tax bill will dramatize this point.

The county set its tax at five mills on every $1,000 county equalized valuation, an increase last year of .33 mills. The schools' rate was officially 18.75 mills on state equalized values, a rise of 2.42 mills.

But when tax bills were sent out, these two taxes were expressed in terms of how much the county and schools would have to charge on the lower city assessments in order to raise the amount they were legally entitled to get on the higher, equalized valuations.

As a result, taxpayers found the county charging 7:57 mills and the schools 23.90 mills, on the city-assessed values.

It's easy to see that if the city assessed property on a scale as large as the state and county, it could pull a lot more tax money in and still keep its tax rate officially at 13.70 mills.

And many Michigan cities do assess property at a higher rate than Pontiac, Ransom pointed out.

In a comparison of 12 other Michigan cities of comparable size, only three of them had lower assessment rates and eight of them had higher taxes.

A formula that matched each city's assessment rate against its tax rate showed that in dollars and cents, Pontiac had the second lowest tax bills.

The cities compared in the study were Pontiac, Ann Arbor, Battle Creek, Flint, Grand Rapids, Highland Park, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Lansing, Muskegon, Royal Oak, Saginaw and Bay City.

BACK TO ACTING FOR SARAH—Sarah Churchill, red-headed daughter of Sir Winston Churchill, who was jailed Monday for a few hours charged with being drunk, appeared with actor Donald Murphy on NBC's Matinee Theater yesterday afternoon. The British actress has denied the charge and says she intends to plead innocent when she appears in court tomorrow.

Comes Less Than 24 Hours After Jailing

Sarah's TV Performance Called One of Her Best

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — They were betting actress Sarah Churchill wouldn't make it.

When the daughter of Great Britain's Sir Winston Churchill entered NBC's huge television studio yesterday afternoon a stagehand watching her arrival murmured: "That took guts."

Miss Churchill's wan face was submitted to the glaring lights and searching eye of the television camera in an hour long play, "The Makropoplos Secret."

She gave one of the best performances of her life, critics said.

Many TV viewers also believed it "took guts" for the actress to appear. Less than 24 hours before arrival at the station, she had been a temporary inmate of county jail.

She had been arrested on a drunk charge after sheriff's deputies accused her of using profane language over the telephone. The arrest was accompanied by kicking, scuffling and tearing of clothes, the officers said.

Miss Churchill goes into court tomorrow to answer the misdemeanor charge.

Soon after she was bailed out, she headed for the TV studio and rehearsed five hours.

"It was one of the best performances I've ever seen Miss Churchill give," said Cecil Smith, television critic of the Los Angeles Times. "As she walked proudly past (toward the camera and the waiting millions) I thought I saw her extend two fingers—as if to form a V."

In London the British press rallied today to the support of Sir Winston Churchill's actress daughter Sarah and praised her performance on the TV show which followed her jailing.

The London papers took Los Angeles police sharply to task for their conduct in arresting her. Some were indignant that the authorities were called in at all.

Sir Winston flew to the Riviera today for his annual winter vacation and gave airport reporters no chance to question him about his actress daughter Sarah's arrest as a drunk in California.

When the plane was ready for loading, the chauffeur drove Churchill to the foot of the passenger stairway leading to the plane.

Puffing his usual long cigar in disregard of the airport's "No Smoking" signs, Churchill started slowly up the ramp, posed briefly for photographers, and entered the plane still puffing.

Lady Churchill did not accompany him.

tions of his impractical proposal, which would lay hands on the management of a company and its earnings without assuming the slightest financial responsibility for the losses that could follow.

The plan would deprive management of the right to determine whether each year a certain surplus should be built up. The union's 25 per cent would come before any determination of what was needed to be set aside to meet future deficits and for expansion of plant.

As for individual purchasers of automobiles, Mr. Reuther suggests that another 25 per cent of net income after normal expenses be given as a "rebate" to past customers. This would be a "gift."

The motor companies would have difficulty justifying as a tax reduction any such rebate in the year 1959 for cars sold to the public in 1958 in a transaction regarded by both buyer and seller as previously closed.

It's a fantastic scheme for intensifying inflation. It emphasizes the greed idea and completely ignores the humanitarian side—what should be done to take care of the many workers who are being laid off because inflationary schemes have resulted in a severe recession and hardship to members of Mr. Reuther's own union.

When the unions acquire statesmen who are not socialists and who understand what has really made America's economic system prosper in the past, there will be hope for an increasing share for the workers—higher wages earned through increased productivity per man hour all along the line.

Williams Defends Intangibles Tax

on the wage earners and dinner tables of Michigan. The stories you may have heard that we are planning a new tax on everybody's bank acount are just simply not true," the Governor declared.

He has said his intention is to bring the Michigan tax on intangibles to the level of the corresponding tax in Ohio, and thereby raise additional revenue of 21 million dollars for both this year and next.

Applied to bank deposits, this would mean an increase in the rate from four cents per $100 to 20 cents per $100. In Michigan, as in Ohio, banks have absorbed the tax on deposits, now about $3,000,000 a year.

A spokesman for Michigan bankers has said they may not continue to do this if the rate is increased as Williams indicated he will recommend.

Williams explained that intangibles tax as a tax on "hidden property — the kind of wealth that is not reached by real estate taxes."

It applies to stocks, bonds, securities and money in bank accounts," he said. About 68,000 taxpayers were affected last year.

"Another way to say it," he went on, "is to point out that 7,444,000 Michigan citizens are not required to pay this tax on hidden wealth.

"And the amount for those who do pay it is smaller than the tax they would have to pay if the same value were under tangible rather than intangible property.

"For example, one citizen with a $14,000 investment in a house might pay a property tax of about $186 a year, figured on a statewide average.

"If he put his $14,000 into securities paying him $700 a year in dividends, his intangibles tax under the present law would be $4.50."

Asks Examination in Slaying of Wife

Frank W. Henson, 54, of Hazel Park, yesterday demanded examination when he was arraigned before Hazel Park Judge Robert C. Baldwin, charged with second-degree murder in the death of his 57-year-old wife Helen on Dec. 23.

Judge Baldwin set the pre-trial examination for Jan. 22. Henson was taken to the county jail without benefit of bond.

Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem issued an order for the murder warrant yesterday following weeks of investigation into what authorities at first believed was an accident or suicide.

Mrs. Henson's body, with 13 wounds in her scalp, was discovered by her husband laying on the kitchen floor of their home at 62 W. Marlow St., reportedly after he returned from the barber shop.

Water Rate Hike May Hit County

OK on Detroit Proposal Would Boost Costs in 10 Area Communities

Some 10 Oakland County communities will pay more for using Detroit's water and sewage facilities if a proposal by the Detroit Board of Water Commissioners to raise rates is approved.

But Detroit Mayor Louis Miriani, who has endorsed $33,000,000 sewage expansion for the metropolitan area, said the increase would be a "nominal one."

Communities in Oakland to be affected are Oak Park, Ferndale, Pleasant Ridge, part of Birmingham, Huntington Woods, Berkley, Royal Oak, Clawson, Madison Heights, and part of Hazel Park.

The water board said its proposed increase would add $1.08 to the average Detroit bill of $15 a year, or 9 cents for each 1,000 cubic feet of water used by Detroit or any of the 34 suburbs in Oakland, Wayne and Macomb Counties.

The expansion program would extend over a 15-year period from 1959. It would be financed with revenue bonds.

Reuther's letter was in reply to Curtice's charge the union proposals were "extravagant" and "foreign to the concept of the American free enterprise system."

The UAW had proposed a division of profits in the auto industry whereby all profits above 10 per cent on net capital before taxes be divided between the corporation, salaried employes and consumers --the latter in the form of rebates.

WAGE BOOST ASKED

The union also asked for wage increases and a modification of present supplementary unemployment benefits.

Reuther denied his proposals were inflationary, contending the workers and consumers have a right to "share in the fruits of advancing technology as reflected by actual excess profits of the corporation."

He said Curtice's charges were "shopworn" and "motheaten."

Reuther blasted Curtice's salary stating:

"It might be helpful if you would advise by what economic logic and standards of simple morality you conclude it is unsound for an hourly worker to share, while it is sound and morally right for you to have your $200,000 salary supplemented by a bonus of $575,000 in 1955 and $495,000 in 1956."

Reuther declared previous GM objections to UAW plans, such as paid vacations, overtime pay, call-in pay and "many other reasonable demands are now incorporated in agreements."

He added he was sure the delegates to the UAW's special convention to be held in Detroit Jan. 22-24 "will adopt a sound, collective bargaining program."

Commission Slates Series of Discussions on Zoning

BIRMINGHAM—The first in another series of discussions on the proposed new zoning ordinance for Birmingham will be held tonight. Prior to the end of the year, a series of informal discussions were held by commissioners and open to the public.

Tonight's session will be a public discussion at the regular plan board meeting on R-5, R-6 and R-7 zone district regulations.

The second will be held Jan. 22, also between planners and the public. On Jan. 30, City Planner Herbert Herzberg and planning board members will be present to answer questions presented by the Chamber of Commerce, Real Estate Board and other interested groups.

A joint meeting of planners and commissioners will be held Feb. 5, at which time the city attorney and planning consultant have been asked to be present.

The public hearing on the adoption of the ordinance has been scheduled for March 3. This, and other meetings, will be at 8 p.m. in the commission rooms in the City Hall.

Sponsored jointly by the Birmingham Community House and recreation board, the Senior Men's Club will hold its first anniversary dinner at the House Friday. Guest speaker will be Walter Anderson, a Birmingham resident and vice president of the Taylor-Winfield Corp. Several club members will speak briefly.

The club, in its short life, has showed remarkable growth and, according to its members, "has filled a need in the lives of many local men."

Lunches, business and social meeting are held each week. Club members also have the facilities of an outdoor shuffleboard court and a horseshoe pitching area on the Community House grounds.

Norman Dehnke, acting Bloomfield Township police chief since September, was appointed police chief by Supervisor Arno Hulet.

Dehnke, a member of the department for four years, succeeds Clark Green who retired last fall.

Demonstrations of how today's youngsters are taught to read will be presented when Pierce PTA meets at the school at 8 p.m. tomorrow.

Parents will be asked to place themselves in the roles of their children as teachers use the special alphabet devised to teach first graders.

A lesson in syllabication and antonyms will carry them into the third and fourth grade levels, while a lesson in comprehension will deal with the problems of the sixth graders.

South Oakland Alumnae of Alpha Xi Delta sorority will meet at 8 p.m. Monday at the home of Mrs. William Reddig, 688 Chester St., Birmingham.

The meeting will be devoted to local and national philanthropy education. There will be a guest speaker from Oakland County Tuberculosis Sanatorium.

The Past Matrons' Club of Birmingham Chapter 220, OES, will will meet with Mrs. Walter Weitzel, 4691 Haddington Rd., at 1 p.m. Jan. 28. Members have been asked to notify Mrs. Weitzel if they are unable to attend.

House Rushes to OK Funds for Air Force

cated somewhere in the northern U. S. Two launching sites are now being constructed in California and Wyoming.

The bill, which totals $549,670,000, will also permit a build-up of the air alert system, ballistic missile detection, and dispersal for the Strategic Air Command bomber fleet.

The House must still appropriate the cash after approving the program. Action on this is expected early next week.

Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy told Vinson's committee earlier this week that a comparison of missiles available to U.S. and Russian troops shows this country in a "strong position."

He said the "critical area" is in the 1,500 and 5,000 mile missiles which are still under development.

Rep. George Huddleston (D-Ala) a member of the Armed Services Committee, said that with a "crash program" the U. S. can have operational long-range missiles such as the Atlas, Titan, Jupiter, Thor and Polaris "by the end of next year."

Junior Editors Quiz on HAIR

QUESTION: Why do fathers turn gray?

ANSWER: This boy is curious because he has noticed a few gray hairs on his father's head. The father looks worried but gray hair does not necessarily mean a man or woman is growing old.

Some people are more apt to get gray hair early in life than others. They were just born that way. Also, hair may turn gray because of worry, sorrow or illness. There have been cases of hair turning white overnight because a person received a great shock.

Hair receives its color from pigment deposited in cells at the hair roots. The original color of the hair is determined by heredity.

FOR YOU TO DO: For an unusual collection, get together locks of hair from friends and relatives, attaching each to a cardboard and identifying it by name and date. You will be surprised at the difference you can see in the hair under a strong magnifying glass.

5-Cent Stamp Chances Slim

Dems Not Enthused, Some Reps Lukewarm on Proposed Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's proposal or a 5-cent letter stamp appears headed for trouble in the Senate post office committee.

No Democrat on the committee expressed any enthusiasm for the proposal, included in the President's budget yesterday as a surprise move. Some Republicans also were lukewarm.

The Committee now has before it the Bill passed last year by the House, with the President's backing, to raise postal rates by 527 million dollars a year. Key feature of this was a 4-cent letter stamp replacing the present 3-cent rate.

In his budget message, Eisenhower asked the Senate to change the House Bill to make the letter rate 5 cents for city-to-city mail, 4 cents within a city. A bill amended in this way would bring in about 700 million dollars additional, he said.

Even with the proposed 5-cent stamp, he said, there still would be a deficit if Congress raises pay of the 500,000 postal employes as expected.

Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-SC), the committee chairman, said it seemed to him the proposal was an effort to get first class letter mail, the big revenue producer of the postal system, to carry the load of subsidies for classes which lose money.

Scottish Farmer Seeks His Fifth Wife at 86

SYDNEY — "Too many farmers today give their wives feather beds, radio sets and magazines to read," said John McAllister, aged 86, as he left Sydney for Scotland to get him his fifth wife.

"That is all wrong, because the more a woman learns about the world the more she wants to know about it. My four wives died mostly through hard work.

"They loved hard work because I inspired them to. Farm life is the thing for a woman—up before the stars fade and into bed at first moonlight.

"It will be a grand life for the lass I select when I get to Glasgow. She needn't have a farthing of her own."

SUFFER NO MORE

SAYS CALUMET LADY

"Rheumatism pains struck me whenever I moved my arms or legs, and lots of times I would have done most anything to stop the pains," says Mrs. P. Stella, 71 County Road, Calumet, Michigan.

"For seven years I suffered the awful pains of rheumatism, arthritis and lumbago. Any movement that I made sent pains shooting through my arms, legs and back. When I bent over I never knew if I would be able to straighten up or not. I could hardly get out of bed in the mornings, and it was extremely painful to walk. It's terrible to say, but there were times when I wished I was dead because of the unbearable pains. I went to a clinic in Wisconsin and after a thorough examination, they told me that I was in good health except for the rheumatism and arthritis. They couldn't help me, so I tried about every medicine under the sun, but nothing I tried helped me until my husband saw an ad in the newspaper for O-JIB-WA BITTERS. He wanted me to try it, but I was discouraged with all medicines and didn't want to. He brought home a bottle of O-JIB-WA BITTERS anyway, so I started taking it. It was almost a month before much results came, but in four months I was all better. I get around fine now and do all the things I couldn't do before. I give many thanks to O-JIB-WA BITTERS for making my new health possible, and stopping my suffering from such awful pain. I hope that others suffering will try it, and I think they will be as pleased with O-JIB-WA BITTERS as I am."

Will GOP Slate Include Woman Vice President?

There has been some quiet, undercover talk of running MARGARET CHASE SMITH, Senator from Maine, as the Vice Presidential candidate on the Republican ticket.

Questioning about this by the New York Herald Tribune resulted in a neat little side stepping act by Mrs. SMITH. Probably that is her most sensible course at the moment. She said frankly that she felt flattered to know that her name had been mentioned in this connection. However, it is now her intention to run again for the Senate in 1960 and therefore she had no time to go into details on the other possibility.

Mrs. Smith was disarmingly frank. She even suggested Clare Luce as a candidate in her place, if the GOP strategy indicated a woman spelled the right political move. Furthermore, she said she would enter into no discussions at all until she discovered how Richard Nixon felt about the whole matter.

If the GOP faces as stern a battle in 1960 as now appears likely, party leaders may be casting about for a startling shift in the selection of candidates. A woman might well fill the bill in many ways. Would she draw a tremendous wave of feminine votes?

Would the move be popular?

Who can tell?

At any rate, between now and convention time, many interesting possibilities will be discussed and evaluated by both parties. There are four posts seeking candidates: the Presidency and the Vice Presidency on both tickets.

Only one seems settled.

That, of course, is Nixon.

And the Nixon band wagon can easily upset between now and the convention dates. This promises to be an interesting and exciting time in political circles. Right now we hazard the guess that three of the four posts will be filled by someone not even mentioned as an off stage candidate at the moment.

Too Many Junkets Are Not at All Necessary

Over the past year, The PRESS has carried several stories from Congressman WILLIAM S. BROOMFIELD, in which he expresses concern over the number of Congressional junkets that fly-speck the calendar and engage the overseas travel agencies.

The Oakland County Representative has been frankly aghast at the startling number of "business trips" that members of Congress find "necessary in the dispatch of their official duties."

There are 96 Senators and 435 Representatives in the District of Columbia. No less than 180 of these politicos engaged in very comfortable rides at the expense of the taxpayers. This is a rather unexpected number. Even Representative Broomfield's warnings and protests hardly prepared us for any such revelation as this.

A few—a very, very few — were paid by the individuals themselves. And another small percentage was actually indispensable to the conduct of Congressional affairs. But then you can let your voice fall.

The rest were joy rides.

They were for pleasure.

The PRESS isn't suggesting that no business was done whatsoever. We merely go along with the popular idea that the amount and character of the business was entirely disproportionate to the number of men that went and the amount of money—your money, of course—that they shelled out along the way.

In the current session, Congress will confer a great favor upon the people back home if it'll arrange to stay in Washington, instead of flitting about Europe, Asia, Africa and Australia at public expense.

We agree with BROOMFIELD.

Let's settle back to business.

Pontiac Historical Site Seems to Be in the Dark

Joneses: Who, when you catch up to them, refinance.

In its long-range historical site-marking program, the Michigan Historical Commission

wants to mark the location of the first licensed Indian trading post in Pontiac. There were ten such posts in an area extending from Toledo to Lake Michigan and from Toledo to Saginaw Bay. They were established under an order of Territorial Governor issued on Dec. 2, 1824, who gave his personal attention to Pontiac. The sites of most of the other such posts have been determined. Do your historical archives have any information about the one at Pontiac?

At their last meeting the Board of Regents of the University of Michigan passed resolutions commending the work of resident of the Pontiac area, and former member of that board.

For this mid-week, the weather prognosticated by the states that hanging to an upper limb of a tree which he recently cut down was a deflated balloon. To it was attached a coupon good for $5.00 in trade at a Janesville, Wis., store, where it was sent up July 4. Mr. Toumahn says he might go there and collect, if the elements hadn't obliterated the name of the store.

Sending me word from his home in Waterford,

Franklin Toumahn

Somewhat facetious is an air mail letter from of Keego Harbor, vacationing in Florida: "We're coming home to get warm."

John Doe Up Tree on Ike's Budget

WASHINGTON (AP)—Up a tree. That's where the average man is right now on President Eisenhower's budget.

How can he tell whether this budget—a record for peacetime—is good or bad, wise or foolish, enough or too little? He doesn't know enough to decide.

And that goes for this writer. It's the only honest thing to say.

In a little more than three months—since the Russian Sputniks shocked the world into sudden consciousness about space and missiles—the average man has been forced to feel left behind and out of date.

He can't even guess, because he can't even visualize the problems, whether 500 million dollars for research is enough or whether five times that much is needed to keep this country abreast of Russia.

Worse than that: The average man, to whom this new world of space flight is a blank, probably won't know for years whether this budget was shrewd or a penny-pinching folly. The results coming from this year's budget may not show up for years.

One thing is for sure: Eisenhower is bent on balancing the budget—that is, not spending more than the government expects to take in in revenues of all kinds.

That was his goal when he took office. It still is.

To increase spending for defense, and still balance the budget, Eisenhower had to cut corners: by cutting down on domestic programs, such as public assistance, hospital construction, school construction.

That by itself raises a point: Last year Eisenhower asked Congress for money to help states build schools. He was very positive a lot more schools were needed. No doubt more schools are needed this year too.

But now he's dropping altogether the idea of money for schools—and instead is asking money to educate a limited number of young people, particularly in science.

The question therefore is: in this kind of society, rich and growing, is it for the good of the country to cut down on programs which only recently were deemed essential in order to save on spending?

Or would it be better to go a little deeper into the red and leave the budget unbalanced by spending more than the government expects to take in?

In short, as the years go on and the contest with Russia grows perhaps more intense, are more and more things in the general field of public welfare to be sacrificed in order to get more money for defense while balancing the budget?

Eisenhower already has been both blamed and praised for the kind of budget he submitted.

Already—in fact, before he publicly disclosed his budget—some of the top generals complained he was not asking enough money for defense purposes.

This budget does not ask the people as a whole to make sacrifices. For example: while a tax cut appears out of the question this year, Eisenhower is not talking of raising taxes either.

One way to spend even more money—if more spending is really needed—and still balance the budget would be to raise taxes to increase federal revenue.

The budget Eisenhower offered is pretty much a business-as-usual budget. Only the future can pass judgment on his wisdom.

The Country Parson

"I imagine God accepts our earnest effort like a husband does his bride's first cake—it's pretty wonderful no matter how bad it is."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Overbreathing Causes Trouble for Anesthetist

A colleague who requests that I withhold her name writes:

"After 20 years as an anesthetist, and a lifetime of deep breathing . . . I discovered through my work in anesthesia that I needed to conserve carbon dioxide: I must give up letting my emotions increase my ventilation; I must give up sighing, catching my breath after sudden exertion. I must hold my breath every time I overbreathe, to catch up with myself.

DR. BRADY

"With this change in practice came borrowed time. I no longer was wheezy, my chest did not feel tight, my muscles co-ordinated well under stress, I could hurry without a feeling of strain, and, wonder of wonders, I had control of my emotions — for the first time in my life, except for a short period in youth when I had felt completely secure, I need not weep when emotionally touched."

Hey, Doctor, wait for me! I've been far behind since you said you conserve carbon dioxide.

I know administration of 5 or 10 per cent dilution of carbon dioxide with oxygen or air is a great help in resuscitation, good treatment to prevent post-operative atelectasis and pneumonia and a good first aid remedy for obstinate hiccough (breathing for a minute or so in a paper bag).

But the idea of conserving CO_2 slipped by too fast. For the first time in a year I opened Haldane's Respiration, but as always Haldane merely makes the problem more complex.

The letter continued: "I have learned to associate muscular contraction with excessive loss of carbon dioxide. When one at rest breathes deeply, one becomes restless, in an endeavor to replace the loss, I think.

"So when I go to bed at night I pull the covers up over nose and mouth to rebreathe some of the carbon dioxide I am losing. I do not work against what I once would have regarded as a hindrance to breathing, and soon my muscles relax and, if I'm too excited or overfatigued, I am asleep. (- - -M.D.)"

Physiologists still differ as to whether insufficient oxygen or too much carbon dioxide in the blood, is the factor which increases breathing.

One thing I know is that American professional, clerical and "white collar" workers are generally shallow breathers. Most of them don't know how to breathe when they try. They generally imagine one "expands the chest" to take a deep breath. Because of shallow breathing, they suffer from numerous faults of poor circulation, such as varicose veins and hemorrhoids.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Reading Is Basis for Learning

Paul hated school. His morale was so low he wanted to play hookey or get a job as an office boy. Yet his mother helped him climb up to the class average in just 6 weeks time. And within three months, he was a star at reading. So team up with your kids if they are getting low grades. Use the booklet below to change your youngsters' whole attitude toward education.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case X-303: Paul Z., aged 10, is an intelligent boy.

"But he is so poor in his reading that he rates only third grade in that subject," his worried mother informed me.

"But his I.Q. is high and the school psychologist says he simply didn't get started right when he was launched upon reading.

DR. CRANE

"Now my problem is whether to hold him back a year so he can get more drill on reading or let him be promoted with his own age group.

"Dr. Crane, if he were your son, what would you do?"

POOR READERS

Since reading is really the "motor" in the entire educational machine, you parents should help make sure your child rates high in this respect.

For a poor reader can't keep up with his classmates even in arithmetic, since he can't grasp what is required in the written problems.

And teen-agers who are deficient in reading will be weeded out within 90 days after they enter college.

So by all means help your child become a swift, fluent reader.

But that means you must deftly see that he LIKES to read. For when a child dislikes a subject, he shuns it and usually gets progressively lower grades therein.

It is an axiom of educational psychology that children make high grades in subjects which they like, and low grades in those they hate.

So you parents (and teachers) need to wrap a heavy sugar-coating around the act of reading.

If Paul were my son, I'd want him to be promoted with his classmates so he wouldn't suffer the social stigma of standing a head taller than his younger companions, as is true of demoted kids, or those held back.

USE COMIC BOOKS

Then his mother should tutor him at home for 15 minutes per day. She can quickly zoom him up to the level of his own age group within a few weeks by such home study.

And here's how: Help him prepare a set of "flash cards," which are strips of white cardboard on each one of which you print a word from his current reading book at school.

Separate the "noun" flash cards from the "verbs." And let Paul select from his book all the words he doesn't know.

His mother can then hold up a card and explain its meaning. Hold up a second and do likewise. Then shuffle them and see if Paul can now identify both cards.

When he recognizes the word, hand that flash card to him. When he fails to name the word while his mother slowly counts to ten, then let her place that card in her pile.

The one with the larger pile wins that round. But be liberal with praise and don't grow irritated at Paul's mistakes.

Later, let Daddy join the game, but have Daddy pull his punches, for a child must win about three out of every four times, or his morale drops and he grows sour on the game.

By using words lifted directly from his present school reader, Paul will see dividends the very next day, for he will begin to recognize words faster.

For variation let him read aloud while Mother and Daddy do the dishes. Use some of the good comic book versions of exciting novels, such as "Treasure Island," "Mobey Dick," etc.

In six weeks Paul's mother brought him up to the average of his class. And before the end of the semester, he was starring in reading.

She may have salvaged his whole educational career, too.

So send for my booklet "How to Tutor Your Child at Home," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents (non-profit). It gives further helpful methods.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs, when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

'Lives Can Be Endangered by Careless Fishermen'

One Oxbow Lake fisherman can thank God he isn't guilty of taking another human's life, because he did not obey our state law demanding that brush or some marker be put in a hole when a fish shanty is moved.

Skating home alone, our teenage daughter suddenly came upon an unmarked hole directly in front of her. Because of her age and ability to jump on skates, she was able to clear the hole which a smaller child or less experienced skater could not have done.

Can't something be done about this negligence of fishermen leaving unmarked holes as hazards to the lives of our skaters?

Mongrel Is Seen Victim of Our Prosperous Life

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The mongrel dog—the flea-bitten mutt beloved of children—may be on the way out in this country.

He is becoming a victim of prosperity, according to Milton M. Weiss, president of the Animal Insurance Co. of America.

"In 1953 there were 28 million dogs in the United States and 15 million were pedigreed," said Weiss. "Today our dog population is 30 million, and 18 million are pedigreed.

"The reason is simple. People have been buying more expensive homes and cars—and they also have been upgrading their pets."

There were chortles of laughter last fall when Weiss founded the nation's first firm devoted exclusively to life insurance or pedigreed dogs. There also were howls of protest from mongrel owners, who felt their pets were being discriminated against.

Weiss, who had spent 26 years in the insurance business and entered the new field after a 10-year actuarial study of dogs, let neither the laughter nor the howls influence him.

"We can't insure mongrels, because they have only a sentimental value," he said. "But a pedigreed dog has a property value, just like real estate or furniture.

"We feel the average pedigreed dog is worth at least $300. Actually it costs about that much each year to raise one."

Weiss' firm will insure pedigreed dogs ranging from six months up to seven years old for $8 per year per $100 of coverage—or up to nine years if they are insured before the age of seven.

The firm pays off for death by any cause except poisoning. Group insurance is available at lower rates to kennel owners or five or more dogs.

To guard against the possibility of fraud, his firm requires a certificate from a veterinarian giving the cause of death, in the event a claim is made, and proof that the dead dog is actually the one that was insured. This is done by taking its nose print, which is on file with the company.

"The nose prints of dogs are just as individual as the fingerprints of human beings," said Weiss.

'Bugs' Baer Says:

An oldtime philosopher figured history would have been changed if Cleopatra's nose had been longer.

We don't get the sneezifigance of that wise bromide. But we wonder if current events would not have been differential if the Mahatma's teacher had sent him home for his pants.

It was the Mahatma's passive salt-making and home-weaving that re-shuffled the house of cards. It was the first wedge out of the pie of colonialism.

It affects every one of our NATO allies who have practiced landlubbism over far flung georgraphy. France, England and Holland have lost more ground than a Missouri farmer to the big muddy.

In the days of sail islands were stashaways for drinking water and fresh vegetables. Fulton made 'em drops for coal. Today they're service stations for bombers.

With the perfection of transoceanic missiles islands will be dots on the ocean again. They'll be used only for punctuation in archipelagos.

But there's no reason for our allies to grouse over the details. Just run a train over the tracks once a year to keep the franchise.

There will be fairer and fresher colonies on the moon.

U.S. Admits Crash of A-Armed Plane

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government would give no details today on its brief admission that at least one plane carrying a nuclear weapon crashed without exploding the weapon.

The Pentagon, apparently acting after consultation with other government agencies, refused to say where or when the accident occurred or to say whether more than one such incident might have occurred.

However, there was growing belief that the accident mentioned by the Air Force Monday occurred within the last year in the continental United States and involved a B47 medium bomber.

Air Force spokesmen declined to answer a question about that possibility and had general "no comment" when asked about other accidents.

Bulganin Gets Cool Reply From Gaillard

PARIS (AP)—In a note that closely reflected President Eisenhower's views on a summit conference; Premier Felix Gaillard gave a cool, cautious reply last night to Soviet Premier Bulganin's call for a top-level meeting.

Gaillard said the foreign ministers must meet before any summit session to agree on an agenda. The Russians already have rejected this idea.

The 38-year-old Premier also contended that such a conference must not reopen decisions taken at the 1955 Geneva summit conference. A spokesman said later this referred to the agreement to reunify Germany through free elections—on which the West says Russia broke her word.

Questioning Soviet demands for new nonaggression pact, Gaillard said it would be more useful if Russia agreed to abide by U.N. decisions in cases of aggression.

The French Premier brushed aside Soviet demands that nuclear weapon tests be stopped, saying there must first be foolproof controls.

Between East, West Powers

Buffer Zone Considered

By JOHN H. MARTIN
INS Foreign Director

"Disengagement" is a phrase increasingly heard in western Europe these days in the big debate over the East-West space age arms race.

It comes from the idea of a disengaged, or neutral belt, across central Europe. Some such plan has been discussed in various forms for years, and now British Laborite Denis Healey, has issued a pamphlet arguing that such a plan might work.

BAIT RUSSIA

He believes, as does former U.S. Ambassador to Moscow George F. Kennan, that Russia might be baited into withdrawing from East Germany, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Hungary if American, French and British troops withdrew from West Germany.

Healey argues that the Hungarian uprising and Sputnik launchings were tremendous events that might break the impasse over disarmament.

The Hungarian revolt, he says, showed Moscow that the satellites were untrustworthy and an economic liability. Sputnik, he says, dramatized to the U.S. people the impossibility of a hydrogen bomb counterattack against Russia without themselves suffering heavy destruction.

In plugging for new East-West talks and a discussion of the neutral belt plan, Healey points out the threat to peace should another satellite uprising occur, say in East Germany. This conceivably could involve East and West in an H-bomb war.

His idea is that the neutralized nations in central Europe should retain "quite substantial conventional forces." Inspection of the zone could be done by ground control teams and by aerial inspection. East and West radar systems could be erected on each side of the zone.

One admittedly difficult question is raised by Healey — how to prevent the neutral zone being violated either peacefully or by force. He rules out the threat of massive nuclear retaliation in this case and suggests "limited atomic war." But many western civilian and military men do not believe any atomic war could be limited.

To Lure Tourists to Michigan

Says Ad Money Needed

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Michigan's tourist industry spokesmen charge that a lack of advertising money threatens to choke off the state's highly lucrative return from recreational travel.

Aurey Strohpaul, secretary-manager of the West Michigan Tourist and Resort Assn., said yesterday that the Michigan Tourist Council has been forced to cancel two summer advertisements because of rate increases.

A council request for $624,000 for tourist promotion for 1958-59 was slashed to $493,000 by the budget division before it was passed on to the State Legislature.

"The council just doesn't have enough money to compete on the open tourist market with other states and travel areas," Strohpaul said.

The council, an official agency of the state, is charged with the responsibility for advertising and promoting Michigan's vacation attractions.

Its programs are correlated with the state's four privately operated regional tourist associations whose secretary-managers are council members.

Strohpaul said they were "alarmed" over the reduced budget—$20,000 less than for the previous year—and suggested "it is time we looked realistically at the tourist business in Michigan."

He noted that Michigan ranks fourth in the nation in number of tourists entertained annually, but is 10th in amount of promotional money spent.

Michigan realizes a $600,000,000 income from the tourist industry and more than $37,000,000 in direct taxes are paid by tourists, Strohpaul said. ". . . It is obvious that this is a revenue-producing enterprise that Michigan can't afford to ignore," he concluded.

Bob Considine, Quoting Truman

Press Criticism Makes Presidents Live

NEW YORK (INS) — Former President Harry S. Truman spoke at the Overseas Press Club the other night on the impressive and often oppressive topic of the press and the presidency.

"No president who hasn't been roundly abused by the press has a chance of living in history," Mr. Truman said. "I didn't care what you said about me . . . as long as you couldn't prove it. You reporters never really harm presidents. You make them historically great.

"The greatest scoundrel who ever occupied the office of president was George Washington, if you read some of the contemporary accounts in revolutionary newspapers at the Library of Congress. He abolished newspapers, shut them up.

"Medill's Chicago Tribune covered the Gettysburg address and reprinted in full the text of Edward Everett's two-hour speech. It said of the other speech made that day, 'The President of the United States also spoke and made the usual ass of himself.'

"The papers of 1876 tried to get U. S. Grant impeached. Grover Cleveland had a hard time with fellows like yourself. When they annoyed him he chased them, but he was too fat to catch them.

"Theodore Roosevelt was the first president to hold a press conference. He had special pets he'd give a story to. But Woodrow Wilson held the first press conferences as we know them today. He was the greatest authority on American government that we ever had.

"I had more fun at my press conferences than the reporters did. I got awful mad at times, but in time I realized it does no good. Your duty is to keep the president and other people from getting out of hand. It was always instructive to hear the questions from reporters representing different parts of the country."

ON SUCCESSION

Frank Bourgholzer of NBC asked Mr. Truman if he had any advice for the Senate committee which is about to take up the question of just when a sick president should be succeeded by the vice president, and how.

"You're a good reporter, Frank," Mr. Truman called out to him across the room. "When you were around the White House I never had any trouble with you. Your accounts were always accurate. As for your question, I'll say this: If I were president of the United States there's not one of you could make ME resign."

Cecil Brown, president of the OPC, read Mr. Truman a news dispatch quoting Sen. Knowland and Rep. Joe Martin as placing the blame on the former president for the present missiles lag.

Mr. Truman shrugged. "Well," he said, "you know it's the policy of the Republican Party to pass the buck. I used to have a sign on my desk which read 'The buck ends here.'"

VANGUARD PUBLICITY

Mr. Truman criticized the decision which exposed the Vanguard failure of Dec. 6 to publicity. Earlier, after hearing this reporter list six hard decisions which would preserve him in history, Mr. Truman responded with some feeling in his voice. "Thank you, Mr. Sevareid."

Someone close to him whispered that it wasn't CBS's Sevareid who paid him the compliment. Mr. Truman rose and said, "It's easy to get a couple of fat newspapermen mixed up."

Go easy on those starches, Eric.

Bill Gray of "Life" asked, "F.D.R. had an unfavorite reporter —Drew Pearson. Did you have one?"

Mr. Truman blushed a bit. "I don't like to go in for personalities," he said, astonishingly enough. "But I will say this much: I was in pretty good agreement with President Roosevelt on the subject." But the total effect of the evening was not in any way vindictive.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Truman, who had witnessed the unveiling of a painting of the founding president of the OPC, Whythe Williams, said in closing, "I'm a damned sentimentalist and I'm afraid I'll run over."

An English physicist once estimated it would require 300 billion-billion-billion electrons to make up the weight of a single standard ounce.

Beware Expert on Tax Refunds

Racketeers Often Plan Use of Fraudulent Bills; Accuracy Up to You

NEW YORK—With the income tax season approaching, beware of the tax refund racketeers.

The "expert" who guarantees a sizable financial return is often recommending fraud, says an article in a recent issue of a national magazine. "Any man who can guarantee a tax refund without knowing the specific background of his prospect can't possibly be honest," declares Internal Revenue Commissioner Russell C. Harrington, quoted in the feature.

On the advice of a refund artist, a tailor and a switchboard operator claimed deductions for traveling expenses and a stenographer for "work clothes and tools."

In other cases stated in the article, people without cars claimed for gasoline taxes and repair bills and such deductions as $140 for state gasoline taxes and $117 for cigarettes caused a claimee in one instance the rough problem of explaining where he'd use enough gasoline to drive around the world three times or why he smoked 4 packs of cigarettes a day for a year.

One case cited was that of a tax racketeer who put his practice on an assembly line basis. He had an interviewer speak to each client to learn the specifics—such things as name, address, income and church—and then had them sign blank tax forms. He took the material, decided upon the amount of refund, and worked backwards toward a return.

Urging people to fill out their own tax returns when possible, the article points out whom to see and where to go for the reputable services of a tax advisor such as a bank or Chambers of Commerce.

For the bewildered taxpayers, certain recommendations for dealing with tax advisers that are unknown are included in the feature:

Never sign a blank tax return, or one written out in pencil.

Check on your tax return, know what's in it and get a duplicate copy for your file.

Make all checks payable to the Internal Revenue Service, never to a tax advisor.

Remember the responsibility for the accuracy of a return rests with you, no matter who helped to prepare your return.

5 State Installations Would Receive Funds Under Authorization Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Armed Services Committee has given speedy approval to a $548,226,000 authorization bill for major parts of President Eisenhower's emergency defense program.

Five of the appropriations dealt with Michigan installations.

Leaders were working for a House vote Thursday on the measure, which would authorize:

1. Development of the Sage system of electronic detection and mechanical brain guidance for missiles. The Air Force put a price tag of $29,670,000 on this portion.

2. Work on a system to flash warnings of enemy ballistic missiles, $189,000,000.

3. Facilities to disperse the big bombers of the Strategic Air Command (SAC) over more bases, $194,000,000 and installations to improve the alert readiness of SAC $24,600,000.

4. Ballistic missiles, $112,400,000.

Actual appropriation of the money would be made by another bill now before the Appropriations Committee.

Included in the total for Sage was this Michigan authorization:

K. E. Sawyer Airport, Marquette, $277,000.

For alert and disposal of SAC forces, the following Michigan expenditures were proposed:

Kinross AFB, Sault Ste. Marie, $23,762,000; K. I. Sawyer Airport, Marquette, $27,233,000; Wortsmith AFB, Oscoda, $22,349,000; Selfridge AFB, Mount Clemens, $17,487,000.

Bar Unit to Hear A-Group Member

Prof. Samuel D. Estep, a member of President Eisenhower's committee studying the regulation of atomic energy, will address the Oakland County Bar Assn. at its regular monthly meeting tonight.

The professor, from the University of Michigan Law School, will speak on "Atomic Energy and the Law."

Some 200 members of the association are expected to attend the 7 p.m. meeting to be held at Devon Gables restaurant.

The lawyers will recommend that they have a voice in future judicial appointments in the county, according to William Beasley, association president.

Keep Pleasure of Yule Cards by Making Them Into Boxes

By SYLVIA de STEIGER

Are you wondering what to do with all of those beautiful holiday greeting cards your tired mailman delivered recently?

Six years ago, Lewis B. Heller, 84, wondered the same thing but since then, he has done something constructive with them.

It was then, just after his wife died, that he decided to make baskets with the many cards he and his wife had received and saved. To date, he has made about 400 greeting card boxes, and has sold more than half of them at as much as five dollars each.

"It takes me about a day to make one but they are really sturdy when I finish," he explained.

Pontiac Press Photo

GREETING CARD BASKETS—Lewis B. Heller, 84, of Melrose, Ohio, doesn't throw away any of those beautiful greeting cards he receives. He makes colorful and useful baskets out of them.

The boxes, which can be used for letters, sewing baskets, or just "catch alls," are reinforced with corrugated cardboard and are sewed together with yarn

NEVER SEWED BEFORE

The color - blind former farmer claims he never used a needle and thread before except when he used to sew the belt on the thrashing machine he drove. Now, he uses that same stitch with two needles to make greeting card boxes.

Heller advises that the boxes are wonderful recreation and therapy for elderly or sick people to make. "They are really pretty. I make round, square and rectangle shaped boxes and sometimes, the insides (which are also lined with greeting cards) turn out more beautiful than the outside."

It takes from 14 to 20 cards to make a complete basket, according to Heller. He uses a homemade awl to punch the holes for the yarn. It's a piece of wood with a filed nail attached.

SIMPLE TOOLS

A knife for the cardboard and scissors to cut the cards the same size plus "lots of patience" are the necessary tools to complete the project.

He has made many boxes for friends who have given him especially cherished cards they have saved. Within two Sundays, members of his church collected 693 greeting cards for him to work with, he exclaimed.

Heller is visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Phillips, 1412 Oakley Park Rd., Oakley Park. His home is in Melrose, Ohio.

This isn't the only hobby Heller has. At the age of 82 he learned to play the violin by ear and now plays in a six piece square dance orchestra.

Two Deputies Save Holdup Man's Life

MOUNT CLEMENS (UP) — A convicted holdup man was saved from possible death yesterday by the same two deputies who last fall shot his partner to death in a gunfight.

Edwin R. Wurtz, 27, broke away from the officers and crawled onto a fifth-story ledge at the County Building here during a recess in a trial arising from the shooting.

He was pulled to safety by Macomb County deputies William Balfour and Larry Spikes.

Curently serving a life sentence at Southern Michigan Prison for the holdup of a suburban tavern in September, Wurtz was a companion of William H. Allen, 37, who was shot to death in a gun duel with Balfour and Spikes after the robbery.

He is appearing as a prosecution witness in the trial of Mrs. Doris Morris, 33, Allen's ex-wife who is accused of driving the car used in the holdup.

RIDGEWOOD, N. J. (UP) — The custodian of the Methodist church yesterday reported the theft of $75 from the church safe. The custodian's name: Jesse James.

Used Car Salesman Sentenced in Fraud

GRAND RAPIDS (UP) — A Benton Harbor used car salesman who pleaded guilty of mail fraud was sentenced yesterday to three years in prison on each of six counts by Federal Judge Raymond W. Starr. The terms run concurrently.

Lester Shelley pleaded guilty Dec. 27 of using the mails in a scheme to obtain money from Universal CIT Credit Corp. through fictitious car sales mortgages.

Shelley, arrested Dec. 5 by federal agents, told the court his manipulations resulted in a debt of about $36,000 to CIT and about $12,000 to First District Discount Corp.

U.S. Atty. Wendell A. Miles said the offenses allegedly took place between September 1956 and September 1957.

Mate's Latest Wife Fails to Appear

Debra Wed Quietly

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UP)—Actress Debra Paget and singer David Street were married last night in a quiet home ceremony despite reports that the fourth wife—the one he married and divorced last month—might cause a ruckus.

Mrs. Maggie Griffin, mother of the shapely Debra, told a reporter that dancer Sharon Lee had called her several times yesterday threatening to disrupt the marriage.

"I wasn't the least bit nervous about losing a daughter," said Mrs. Griffin, "because I gained such a wonderful son-in-law. But I kept looking toward the door all during the ceremony for fear that Sharon would show up."

Miss Lee appared on the Tom Duggan Show, a local TV program, on the eve of the wedding and declared that Street's love for Debra had broken up their 30-day Nevada marriage.

To this Mrs. Griffin replied: "Why, Debra and Dave weren't even alone until this—their wedding night."

Both the shapely Debra, 24, and the 37-year-old singer said their friendship blossomed into love on last Saturday night while watching a late movie on TV. However, they have known each other since 1945.

"We started watching it just like any other movie," said Debra, "but we never did find out how it ended. He kissed me during the commercial and wowie, I knew then I was in love."

Debra long had been publicized as Hollywood's only unkissed starlet. This was because filmland never had seen her in public without her mother.

She is Street's fifth wife, although he says this is only his fourth marriage — "one of my wives got an annulment instead of a divorce. That doesn't count."

Mrs. Mary Street, wife No. 1, served Street with a show-cause order demanding back support payments for their 14-year-old son.

About 100 guests, most of them reporters and photographers, crowded the living room of the 26-room Griffin mansion.

Sunday School for Most

NEW YORK — Four out of five churches in the United States have Sunday schools, with an average attendance of about 100.

New Budget Costs $423.53 for Each Person in Country

WASHINGTON (INS) — President Eisenhower's new budget stressed missiles and military spending, but will have its impact on the man-on-the-street and the average taxpayer as well.

The $73,934,000,000 budget submitted to Congress means that the federal treasury will be spending $427.53 for every man, woman and child in the U. S.

Getting down to individuals, this is what the budget means:

Letter writers — A proposed postal rate increase would require you to pay five cents to mail a letter out of town, whether it moved by air or regular mail.

Home owner—Aside from urban renewal, there would be a number of chances, many of them designed to stimulate private financing of housing rather than federal projects. Legislation is recommended to revise the ceiling on interest rates.

The maximum mortgage in the insurance program for owner-occupied housing would be increased to $30,000.

The Federal Housing Administration mortgage insurance authority would be boosted three billion dollars in each of the next five years.

Farmer — Elimination of the acreage reserve program and continuation of the conservation reserve is proposed. A new flexible price support system is to be recommended "consistent with the increased productive capacity of our agriculture." Rural electrification and telephone loans would be raised from the present two per cent to the average rate paid by the treasury for money, which is about three and one-half per cent.

Servicemen — Marked changes are called for in keeping with the emphasis on new weapons. Some bases would be done away with, others established. There would be a cut of 83,000 in active duty personnel in the 1959 year. A pay raise is recommended.

Government worker — A pay raise of about six per cent is proposed.

Businessman — The budget emphasizes more foreign trade with selective tariff cuts, and proposes that foreign companies be allowed to bid competitively on government contracts. Some technical tax revision to help the small businessman is called for, but there is no promise of substantial tax relief.

Veterans — Reconsideration of laws providing for benefits and services is recommended where they overlap "other growing public benefit and welfare programs."

Ramjet Missile Launched Yesterday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UP) — The Air Force launched a Boeing Bomarc ramjet guided missile yesterday.

The official announcement gave no indication of the range or accuracy.

The Bomarc, a supersonic ground-to-air missile soon to become operational with the Air Force, has a range of more than 250 miles.

The Bomarc was fired vertically from its launching platform at the missile test center here.

Liquid fuel rocket engines made by Aerojet - General Corp. at Azusa, Calif., propelled it.

As it leveled off toward the southeast, its twin ramjet engines, produced by Marquardt Aircraft Corp. of Van Nuys, Calif., took over, leaving a trail of vapor.

A ramjet engine is one which operates only after the vehicle's forward speed is great enough to compress the air sufficiently for fuel combustion.

The Bomarc itself is as large as some fighter planes — 47 feet long and with an 18-foot wingspread.

Wilsons Flee Winter on Quail-Hunting Trip

Mrs. Thomas E. Wilson of Bloomfield Hills confesses that in her opinion the nicest antidote for mid-winter formality is to pack hunting clothes and take off for quail shooting territory in the Deep South.

And that's exactly what she and Mr. Wilson did Tuesday morning. They were accompanied by his father, C. E. Wilson, and his brother, Ed, and their destination was "Richland," the Wilson plantation near Baton Rouge, La.

The foursome plans to remain there a week, after which Ed will return to Birmingham while the others fly to Miami to join Mrs. C. E. Wilson. The senior Wilsons will remain in their Florida apartment for an indefinite time.

The Tom Wilsons will go on to the family ranch near Vero. The 8,000-acre tract is located on the Sabastian River, so quail shooting can be combined with excellent fishing.

They will have as their guests while at Vero Mr. and Mrs. Earl A. Maxwell of Birmingham, who are planning to travel there with Mr. and Mrs. E. Curtis Matthews.

Dear Abby ....

He Won't Remain in Smoke Screen

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Everybody thinks I am nuts just because I broke an engagement to a girl who couldn't quit smoking long enough to eat. I believe in living and let live, but this got my goat. Do you think I made a mistake?

SMOKE-HATER

DEAR SMOKE-HATER: If you gave the girl fair warning and she couldn't quit smoking long enough to eat (even for you) I think you made a wise move.

DEAR ABBY: A friend of ours raises turkeys for a living, so this year he started taking orders and sending them out all over the country. We asked him to send a turkey to friends of ours who live in Omaha and also one to friends in Seattle.

ABBY

The friends in Omaha said their turkey came with the head hanging out of the wrappings, and smelled so bad they didn't even bring it in the house. The Seattle friends said theirs arrived in similar condition.

We only sent these turkeys because we wanted to give our friend the business. What should we do now?

TURKEY-GIVERS

DEAR GIVERS: Your friend gave YOU the business. He may know something about raising turkeys, but he obviously knows nothing about packaging and shipping them. Tell your turkey-shipper what happened and next year give somebody else the business.

DEAR ABBY: I know what my problem is but I can't seem to do anything about it. I have a beautiful face (everyone says) but I am about 50 pounds overweight.

I worry about this so much I can't sleep at night. I am 23 years old and am ashamed to give you measurements. Is there any quick diet I can follow?

TOO FAT

DEAR TOO: See a doctor and don't pray for miracles. When you start counting calories you won't have to count sheep.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going rather steady with a gentleman who says he is 55. I am 52 and admit it. I just learned from a reliable source that he is 60. If a man lies about his age don't you think he will lie about other things?

MUST KNOW

DEAR MUST: Not necessarily. People have been known to be straight as an arrow in all things — but when it comes to age, they throw a curve.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BONNIE: You'll never get away with it, Dearie. It would be about as easy as trying to smuggle dawn past a rooster.

If you have a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of The Pontiac Press. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Gradually Build Up to Rigorous Routine

Start Marathon Exercises Slowly

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Last week I ran my Eight-Week Self-Improvement Marathon. The women who join, well over 100,000 last year, see how much they can improve their appearance in eight weeks' time with my direction. For one day during the next seven weeks I will bring information which I know will be helpful to those of you who are on the Marathon.

In the first place, please be patient. So many of you entered this contest in self-improvement that some of you may have a little wait before receiving the Marathon booklet. Start your Marathon when you receive the directions and continue it for eight weeks.

You will get more stunning results in figure improvement and much more value in increased health if you will exercise daily (unless there is some physical reason for not doing so.)

Do not be discouraged if your muscles become stiff and sore at first. This is bound to happen but if you will continue doing a few exercises each day, even if it does hurt, the soreness soon will disappear.

This is another reason for starting in on your exercises very slowly and building up gradually. Many women do too much the first few days and get so sore that they become discouraged and give up.

In my Marathon booklet you will find exercises which I have found effective for the most usual figure faults. Select four or five of these, or concentrate on one or two, but do them faithfully!

Begin doing each one about 15 times and gradually increase until you are doing each one around 50 times daily. You can exercise for a short period in the morning and then at night if you wish.

The first week of dieting is the hardest, so stick through the first two and you are really on safe ground. Eight weeks is a short time, but it can make you look like a new woman.

If you failed to join Marathon and would like to do so, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the Marathon booklet. This gives you directions as to diet and exercise, how to measure yourself, skin and hair care, a calorie chart and a height and weight chart, plus a progress chart and a personality development department. Write to me in care of The Pontiac Press.

Frances S. Glisky Weds

White carnations and snapdragons banked the altar of St. Benedict Church for the Saturday morning wedding of Frances Suzzanne Glisky and Neil Edward Crandall. The Rev. John J. Hoar performed the Nuptial High Mass before 150 guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Glisky of Palmer street are parents of the bride, and the bridegroom is the son of the Frank Crandalls of Glenwood avenue.

The bride chose a gown of Chantilly lace featuring a Sabrina neckline, fitted basque waist, long handtapered sleeves and a chapel sweep train. She carried a white prayerbook topped with an orchid and stephanotis.

Matron of honor Mrs. Guzman Ruiz was gowned in a white nylon chiffon dress with blue cummerbund. She carried an arrangement of blue and white shattered carnations.

Flower maids Cathy Beck and Lois Ann Crandall wore white floor-length gowns with large back bows. They carried baskets of rose petals.

ASSIST BRIDEGROOM

Victor Soucy was best man. Thomas and Robert Crandall, brothers of the bride, and James Ladd seated the guests.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Glisky chose a sable brown lace sheath dress with satin bodice and matching accessories. She wore a pink rose corsage.

Mrs. Crandall wore a wine-colored faille dress with pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

A wedding breakfast for members of the immediate families was held at Hotel Waldron. The Crandalls' Glenwood avenue home was the scene of an afternoon reception.

For a trip to northern Michigan and Canada the new Mrs. Crandall wore a navy wool sheath dress with white fur collar and hat, navy accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet. The couple will live in Pontiac.

Baroque Trio Performs

By CHRIS GAENSBAUER

Members of Pontiac Tuesday Musicale met in the Fellowship Hall of Grace Lutheran Church on Tuesday afternoon to hear a program which provided both musical enjoyment and unusual interest because of the lack of familiarity with the instruments played.

The performing group was the Baroque Trio consisting of harpsichord played by Marilyn Mason, who is also well known as an organist; oboe played by Florian Mueller, former oboe soloist with the Chicago Symphony, and flute played by Nelson Hauenstein, who is also nationally known. All three artists are faculty members of the University of Michigan School of Music.

Recent years have seen a revival of interest in the harpsichord as a solo and chamber group instrument. This parallels the current sharp upswing of interest in chamber music in general.

The music available for this forerunner of the piano is limited to that composed during the 18th Century. This in turn was limited by the instrument itself. The harpsichord has a range of four octaves, with no mechanism for sustaining tone and plucked strings capable of little dynamic variation.

It is interesting to speculate as to the music these early classical composers might have written if the piano had been invented at that time.

HEARD AS WRITTEN

The use of the harpsichord in performing chamber music of this period affords the audience the opportunity to hear the compositions on the instruments for which they were written.

Aside from its historical implications, however, the program was a distinct musical treat. All three artists are outstanding performers and displayed great technical skill individually. Their flawless ensemble playing seemed to require no effort but indicated endless hours of preparation.

The group performed three trios in ensemble. The first by German composer Pepusch was typical of 18th Century music, with alternating slow and fast movements, delightful contrapuntal passages and ornamental melodic line.

"The Trio Sonata in A Minor" by K.P.E. Bach (son of Johann Sebastian Bach) was particularly enjoyed by the audience. The harmonies seemed richer than in some of the earlier works and Miss Mason at the harpsichord brilliantly demonstrated the potentialities of the instrument, which requires a precise and dextrous technique.

The closing trio selection was "Sonata da chiesa a tre" by the Italian Albinoni and contained an appealing slow movement finishing with a bright sparkling allegro.

SOLO VIRTUOSITY

Since music of the period is polyphonic in style each instrument plays a distinct melodic line which requires solo virtuosity to sound well in combination. Each of Tuesday's artists possessed this essential quality.

Between the trio numbers Miss Mason and Mr. Mueller played "Sonata in D for Oboe and Harpsichord" by Thomas Vincent, and Mr. Hauenstein was heard with Miss Mason in a J. S. Bach sonata for flute and harpsichord.

Both Mr. Mueller and Mr. Hauenstein have complete mastery of these most difficult woodwind instruments and displayed dexterity, beautiful tone quality and fine breath control.

Altogether the program provided listeners with a satisfying musical experience plus a backward look at the beginnings of modern music.

Mrs. Rebecca Gould was program chairman for the day and was introduced by Mrs. Gordon Woolcott, president.

WELCOME MEMBERS

Greeting members at the door were Mrs. Dora Dawson and Mrs. John Thors and presiding at the tea table were Mrs. James Little and Mrs. Harold James.

Mrs. William Thomas and Mrs. Jack Habel arranged the centerpiece, and acting on the social committee were Mrs. J. A. Rammes, chairman; Mrs. C. F. Shoup, cochairman; Mrs. F. J. Moreau, Ora Hallenbeck, Mrs. H. T. Rombough, Mrs. Earl Bartlett, Mrs. Frank Kirby and Mrs. O. L. Lundbeck.

Loyal Berean Class Gathers at Dinner

Fifty-eight members of the Loyal Berean Class of Christian Temple gathered in the church parlors Monday evening for a pancake dinner.

Committee members for the affair were Mr. and Mrs. James Marshall, H. O. Sirbaugh, Mrs. Jessie King and Carl Newman.

The group made plans for a Missionary Valentine Party to be held Feb. 10 in honor of the church's missionaries, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mason, who are in South Africa.

To Be Soloist With Pontiac Symphony Tuesday Evening

Violinist Staples Praises Community Orchestras

By MAX E. SIMON

Violinist Gordon Staples is looking forward to his engagement with the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra Tuesday evening.

The brilliant 28-year-old concert artist, in an interview yesterday, praised local community orchestras such as the Pontiac Symphony for creating interest in and enthusiasm for fine music in their communities.

'IDEA IS TERRIFIC'

"The idea of the community symphony orchestra is terrific," enthused Staples. "Such an orchestra is a wonderful training ground for young musicians. Many instrumentalists, who formerly played in local music organizations, go on to join major symphonic groups."

Staples, the assistant concertmaster of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, has another reason for booming community orchestras. Without them, his chances of performing concertos and other solo works with orchestral accompaniment would be few and far between.

He will be the guest soloist with the Pontiac orchestra in the Bruch Concerto No. 1 in G Minor. The program will be held at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday in Lincoln Junior High School auditorium.

The orchestra will be directed by its permanent conductor, Francesco Di Blasi.

EARLY TRAINING

Staples began his violin training when only six years old. He began concertizing in Canada at the age of 13 and he became a staff solo artist for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation at 14, performing weekly solo recital broadcasts over the Trans-Canada network.

"At one time," the violinist recalled, "I performed five concertos over the air in five consecutive weeks."

He continued his musical education at the Philadelphia Musical Academy with Jani Szanto, and in New York with the late D. C. Dounis.

From 1950-54, Staples served as concertmaster and violinist of the U.S. Navy Band and Symphony in Washington, D.C. He has concertized extensively in the United States, Canada and the Latin American countries.

ORCHESTRA POSTS

In 1955-56, Staples held the post of assistant concertmaster with the New Orleans Philharmonic. He is now in his second season as assistant concertmaster of the Detroit Symphony.

His recent achievements include solo performances with the Detroit Symphony, New York Little Symphony, New Orleans Philharmonic and Vancouver Symphony.

He has also made a number of recordings for the McIntosh Recording Co.

GORDON STAPLES

Staples is pleased with the chance to play the Bruch concerto with the Pontiac Symphony.

CHARMING MUSIC

"It's a good vehicle violinistically," he says, "and is very charming music."

The Bruch concerto is a favorite of concertgoers. Its continuing popularity is due to Bruch's melodic fluency and charm, and his unabashed frankness of sentiment.

The guest artist has a great deal of respect for Pontiac conductor Francesco Di Blasi, as he has already soloed with an orchestra under the baton of Di Blasi.

The two of them teamed last summer at Metropolitan Beach. Staples performed the Mendelssohn Concerto in E Minor, with Di Blasi conducting an orchestra made up mainly of Detroit Symphony musicians.

Staples is one of Detroit's busiest musicians. He and his roommate in Detroit, Paul Olefsky (principal cellist of the Detroit Symphony), are successfully reviving interest in chamber music in the Detroit area, and present many joint recitals.

PERFORM IN CHICAGO

Last night the two musicians traveled to Chicago where they performed Bach and Vivaldi concertos with a chamber orchestra consisting of members of the Chicago Symphony. After his concert in Pontiac, Staples will play a program of trios in Detroit and the next night with Olefsky and 20-year-old pianist Ruth Meckler.

Later in the Detroit symphony season he will share the spotlight with the orchestra's concertmaster, Mischa Mischakoff, in a performance of the Bach Double Violin Concerto.

Although he likes to concertize, Staples says that he enjoys his post with the Detroit Symphony. "Every soloist would be short-changing himself if he didn't avail himself of the discipline of a symphony orchestra," Staples said.

One of his favorite works is the Beethoven Violin Concerto. But, says Staples, "I enjoy playing anything I play well."

OTHER SELECTIONS

In addition to accompanying Staples in the Bruch concerto, the Pontiac Symphony will perform the overture to "La Gazza Ladra" (The Thieving Magpie) by Rossini, the "Capricio Italien" by Tschaikowsky, the "Liebestod" from Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde," and a sonata for chamber orchestra by Arnell.

Importance of Local University Branch Explained

MSU President, Dr. Hannah Places Responsibility Here

ROCHESTER — The Michigan State University branch in Oakland County could become a large and distinguished university, Dr. John A. Hannah, university president, told some 1,200 people at the Rochester High School gymnasium last night.

Hannah said the success of the school will depend on them — the residents of Oakland and Macomb counties. Its operation shouldn't be directed solely from East Lansing he said.

SHOWS NEED

Large charts were used to demonstrate the results of population studies showing the increasing need for college facilities in this area.

Hannah said a survey indicates that in 1955, there were 44,000 college-age people within a 15-mile radius of the Alfred G. Wilson estate on which the branch is being established. The circle included a major portion of Oakland County and Romeo, Utica, Mt. Clemens and Warren in Macomb County.

Projected population estimates show that this figure will be increased to 54,000 in 1960 and 103,000 in 1970, he said.

STATES COST

Unless there is opportunity to go to college here, many of these people would not be able to attend college, Hannah declared. The big cost of a college education is not tuition, it's the expense of living away from home, he said.

Hannah told the audience that this was a good time to be talking in Rochester about a new college. National attention has focused on the need for greater educational opportunities since the suptnik was launched. "It shocks us that the Soviet system can excel us," he said.

"The resource we can least well afford to squander is the potential of our youngsters," Hannah said. "A great scientist can come from any type of home, he pointed out, and there should be a system of identifying them early and seeing they are given every chance to make use of their ability.

Bids will open in March on the first building planned for the campus, Hannah said. A two million dollar structure, it will be located along Adams road, on the east side of the Wilsons' Meadow Brook Farms estate.

READY IN '59

It will be ready for occupancy when the college opens in the fall of 1959.

The original buildings will be the center of the campus, however, Hannah said. This includes Meadow Brook Hall, which the MSU president called "one of the great residences in the world."

Its art treasure of world famous paintings also will be made available eventually to the college and community, Hannah said.

It was a little more than a year ago that the announcement was made that Mr. and Mrs. Wilson had donated their estate and two million dollars to MSU.

There will be the continuing problem of finding housing for the faculty and later for students, Hannah said

The pattern of setting up the organization of the faculty probably will be announced at the State Board of Agriculture meeting next month, he said.

MENTIONS BUDGET

A budget of $100,000 for the period from July 1958 to the opening in the fall of 1959 may be recommended by Governor Williams, according to Hannah.

"We expect to give it the best of which we are capable," he said, "but we cannot succeed without your support and approval."

The speaker was introduced by Dr. Sarah Van Hoosen Jones, a former member of the State Board of Agriculture and a resident of Rochester.

The program was opened by Jack Taylor, president of the Rochester Area Chamber of Commerce. He introduced Donald Baldwin, superintendent of Rochester Schools.

Baldwin said the "coming of this great institution will have a great impact not only on Rochester schools, but those of the surrounding area.

Arrangements for Hannah's appearance here were made by the Chamber of Commerce, which feted the MSU president at its annual dinner meeting at the school prior to his talk.

Accompanying Hannah was Dr. D. B. Varner, university vice president and chairman of off-campus education.

Dr. Proud Given Education Post

Pontiac School Board OKs New Assistant to Superintendent

Approval of Dr. Philip Proud as Pontiac's new assistant superintendent of schools in charge of personnel and public relations was given by the Board of Education last night.

The board met at the Will Rogers Elementary School as a continuation of its policy of meeting with PTAs and other interested public groups.

tract to Industrial Communications Co., of Detroit for the in-

The board also awarded a constallation of a public address system at Pontiac Northern High School now under construction.

The contract was for $16,459, the low bid. Previously, the board had rejected all bids as over its budget. Later the system was redesigned and new bids taken.

Supt. Dana Whitmer reported on transportation in the Kennett Gardens area.

The board then voted to pay half the cost of city bus transportation for 30 students of Wever Elementary School who live on Cloverlawn, Cherrylawn and Meadowlawn, between Columbia and Ypsilanti.

In executive session, the board picked names for the new Kennett road and Harrington Hills elementary schools. The names will be announced at dedication ceremonies, which have not yet been scheduled.

The board later opened its meeting to questions from PTA members, and a number of general school problems were discussed.

Merchants Press Need to Keep Traffic Lights

The South Pontiac Businessmen's Assn. has gone on record as opposing the elimination of traffic lights at two Saginaw street intersections.

The lights at Rapid and Raeburn streets should be retained because these are high-accident corners and school crossing, the association said in a letter to the City Commission signed by its secretary, Harold A. Cousins.

The stand was taken, the letter indicated, in view of the state's proposal for a progressive traffic light system on Saginaw from Oakland avenue to South boulevard.

Whether any of the present Saginaw lights will be eliminated has not yet been decided.

"Saginaw is a federal highway and the state has control over its traffic lights," City Manager Walter K. Willman.

The letter argued that if the two lights are eliminated, there would be a bottleneck at Auburn avenue for northbound traffic.

Sponsor Square Dancing

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The Mel-Dot-Trotters Square Dance Club will sponsor a western square dance beginners class for adults. The class will be held from 8 to 10:30 p.m. Tuesdays, starting Jan. 28, at the West Bloomfield Township Hall, 4460 Orchard Lake Rd.

First American steel was produced in Connecticut in 1728.

MR. and MRS. JOHN HAYDEN

An open house will be held at the Avon Park Pavilion, Rochester, from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday honoring Mr. and Mrs. John Hayden, of 2272 Dexter Rd., Pontiac Township, who are celebrating their golden wedding anniversary. Mr. Hayden and his wife, the former Grace Groosbeck, were married Jan. 15, 1908. They lived in Lapeer County until moving to Pontiac several years ago. The couple has two daughters, Mrs. Lee Wilcox and Mrs. Kenneth Hardbron, both of Pontiac, and a son, Joseph C., of Pontiac. There are six grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

City Revising Parking Law

New Ordinance Would Rule Out Impounding for Unsettled Tickets

A disputed passage in Pontiac's parking laws was eliminated last night as the City Commission began consideration of a revised meter parking ordinance.

Left out of the new version was a section that allowed impounding of cars whose owners had not settled past parking-meter tickets.

This was the section that figured last summer in an assault and battery trial in which Pontiac attorney Milton R. Henry was accused of slugging a police officer who had tried to impound Henry's car.

Henry claimed he had a right to protect his property since the ordinance section under which the officer said he was acting was unconstitutional. Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum agreed and acquitted Henry of the charge.

The disputed law had said police could pick up a car, whether it illegally parked or not, if a ticket had not been settled within 72 hours after it was issued.

The only provision for impounding left in the new ordinance concerns cars illegally parked and creating traffic hazards.

Otherwise, City Attorney William E. Ewart said, the new ordinance mainly combines the provisions of the former on-street parking and off-street parking ordinances.

A combined ordinance, he said, would make enforcement easier. A second hearing on the ordinance was scheduled for next Tuesday.

5 PTAs in Waterford Plan Thursday Programs

Five PTA groups in Waterford Township have scheduled programs for tomorrow night.

"Playground and Highway Safety," is the subject that guest speaker Clyle Haskill has chosen for the William Beaumont School meeting at 8 p.m.

Discussion on the subject will follow the talk. Mothers of first grade pupils will serve refreshments.

At Leggett School there will be an open house from 7:30 to 8 p.m., and Kenneth Commons, a special agent in the Detroit FBI office will be guest speaker.

The fathers of pupils of Waterford Center School will have charge of the program, after an open house to be held from 7:30 to 8 p.m.

"Michigan Deer Herds" is the title of the colored film to be presented. Father Vice Chairman Albert West is in charge of the program.

MOVIE SCHEDULED

The effect of family life on children's personalities will be presented in a film titled "Palmour Street" at 8 p.m. at Schoolcraft Elementary School.

Following the film there will be a panel discussion of teachers, parents and grandparents of pupils at the school.

Fathers will have charge of Jayno Adams School PTA meeting which will begin at 7:30 p.m.

"Preface to Life" is the film to be shown by Leonard Methner, father vice president who is in charge of the meeting.

A large box of hand-made gifts from Trapani, Sicily, sent to children at Jayno Adams School, will be on display. The children had sent a $100 CARE package to the Sicilian children, as a goodwill gesture, and in return the foreign pupils have reciprocated, with unusual creative art objects.

He Would Flunk 4 Out of Every 5 College Students

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—Dr. Walter Orr Roberts, director of the Colorado University high altitude observatory, said yesterday four of every five students at the university should be sent home.

He spoke at a faculty meeting. Some colleagues supported him and others differed during a discussion afterward. They all stressed their questions and criticisms apply to American colleges in general and not to Colorado University alone.

Roberts said easy subjects should be thrown out ruthlessly and he named specifically courses in education, psychology and life adjustment.

He asked: Is the university doing a proper job of teaching or is it running a social club? Is its physical education program designed to produce healthy bodies or provide a professional spectacle? Is the school teaching hard ideals or the sophisticated art of getting along in a world of petty deceit?

"I wish we had the guts to flunk out promptly all the kids who are no good," he said. "It should be difficult for a student to stay here. As we're now constituted, we should send about 80 per cent of them home."

There was no immediate comment from university officials.

Collecting Tax Costs County

Says State Should Pay Oakland for Finding Value of Estates

Oakland County should be reimbursed by the state for acting as a "collection agency" for state inheritance tax, Charles A. Sparks, county treasurer, said yesterday.

He said the county collected $605,112 in inheritance taxes from estates in the county last year. "But for serving as a collection agency we didn't receive a penny," he said.

It costs the county approximately $7,000 a year just to hire one man, William Webb, to check safety deposit boxes in determination of the value of estates left by deceased persons.

"We should get two per cent of the total collected during the year, or the people who own these boxes should be charged a fee," Sparks suggested.

But he foresaw little chance of the former proposal going through, as this money is paid into the state which in turn distributes it as school aid. "The school lobbyists scream loudly every time we make such a recommendation," Sparks remarked.

Glucose, one of the most quickly assimilated of all the foods, reaches the blood stream within about five minutes after it has been swallowed.

Approximately 3.5 per cent of all children in the U. S. have divorced parents.

Commissioners Oppose Gas Bill

City Fathers Believe Proposed Legislation Would Raise Price

The Pontiac City Commission last night went on record opposing legislation in Washington which, it was believed, would cause the consumer price of natural gas to rise.

Commissioners voted unanimously on the advice of City Manager Walter K. Willman to urge legislators to vote against the Harris-O'Hara bill, now before Congress.

"The bill would take control over gas rates away from the Federal Power Commission and leave how much to charge up to the gas companies," said Willman. "If this were allowed, gas prices undoubtedly would rise."

A letter from the U. S. Mayors' Committee on Natural Gas Legislation was read last night. It recommended the position taken by the City Commission.

Willman said the American Municipal Association also opposed the legislation.

Commissioners authorized telegrams to Rep. Broomfield and Senators Potter and McNamara, urging them to vote against the bill.

Cancer Society Here Plans Open House

Twenty-five volunteers attended the bi-monthly meeting of the North Oakland County Unit of the American Cancer Society yesterday.

Mrs. Walter Lentz of Holly reported on the progress of plans for an open house at the unit headquarters, 66 W. Lawrence St., on Feb. 10. The open house and tea will be held for the many sewing groups throughout the county which have made cancer pads for the society.

Mrs. E. M. Estes of Birmingham, education chairman, reported that two new films, sponsored by the society, are being scheduled for showing in area high schools to induce students to study science as a vocation.

According to Mrs. P. L. Francis, chairman of the volunteers, a movie entitled "Time and Two Women," which discusses the use of psychology in the prevention of cancer, also will be shown throughout the county.

Waives Examination in 10 Burglary Cases

Jesus Medina, 19, of 1329 Locke St., who together with a juvenile boy and girl, admitted burglarizing 10 homes and businesses in Pontiac, waived his examination yesterday in municipal court.

Judge Cecil B. McCallum bound him over to circuit court where he will be arraigned Jan. 20. Bond was set at $2,000 but was not furnished.

Hollywood Headlines:

Career of Carolyn Jones Swings Into High Gear

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
INS Motion Picture Editor

HOLLYWOOD (INS)—I told you a few days ago that Carolyn Jones' career is in high gear, and now she tells me she has signed a contract with Hal Wallis for three picturs.

"King Creole," in which she stars with Elvis Presley, is not one of the three, however. She'll star in "Career" after she finishes the Presley epic.

Carolyn is now taking bows for "The Last Man" for which her husband, Aaron Spelling, wrote the story. He's a brilliant young writer and she is very proud of him.

From Philadelphia I get word that Jose Ferrer's play "Oh Captain" is a smash. He brings it into New York Feb. 4. Both Tony Randall and Abbe Lane received great notices, and Jose's direction was also praised.

He is so pleased with Abbe Lane that he has signed her to play opposite him in "The Matador," a picture he expects to make after this play closes.

"The Matador," you may remember, was a popular novel written by Barnaby Conrad sometime ago and Jose has owned the rights almost since it came out.

If her legion of fans were worried that Shirley Temple as a grown-up brunette had lost the adorable charm of the dimpled blonde little girl we all loved in her long ago movies, they can relax.

Shirley was a veritable little princess narrating "Beauty And the Beast," the first of a series of TV programs which brought her out of retirement.

What an all-time charmer she is! Wearing a gorgeous gossamer gown created by Don Loper, Mrs. Charles Black told the old fairy tale as though she were relating it to her own children. And, when she sang at the end of the show she sounded like a grown-up Shirley Temple doing her wonderful "Good Ship Lollypop." Welcome back to show business, Shirley!

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: If I'm confused you can't blame me! Sid Slate took Sharon Lee, ex-wife of singer David Street, to dinner at the Fogcutters. Last week Slate was engaged to Mary Beth Hughes, also an ex-wife of Street.

Frank Sinatra, without a date, was at Patsy D'Amore's surprise party at the Villa Capri. He helped Rose (Mrs. D'Amore) get Patsy, who decided he wanted to stay home, to the party.

Nancy Sinatra sat at the table with us. She was with her sister Madelyn Pugh, who teaches school at St. Charles. Madelyn's husband Tony is CPA for the Villa.

When Johnny Mathis, the teen agers' delight, opens at the Crescendo Jan. 28 they'll have bleachers and klieg lights outside. Johnny's three records have just sold over a million each.

"The Kingfish," (Harry Moore), who got himself tangled with the law when he objected to his in-laws eating his roast beef, is being held over a full week at the Mocambo.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

One-Finger Respiration Saves Tiny Chihuahua

DALLAS (AP) — Fireman Ed T. Williams saved the life of a tiny Chihuahua dog by using one finger to apply artificial respiration.

The dog was found unconscious in the flaming home of its masters, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Lindley.

"I held him in the palm of one hand," Williams said. "I turned him on his back and kept pressing on his chest with a finger and then releasing the pressure. At the same time, I held his mouth open and blew my breath into it."

After a minute or two, the tiny dog revived and scampered off.

Policeman Awarded Gun That Shot Him

CHICAGO (AP)—Park District policeman Norman Law has a new trophy — the gun with which he was wounded when he captured a gunman Nov. 20.

Judge Edward B. Casey of Criminal Court gave the .38-caliber pistol to Law, saying, "I don't usually give away a weapon used in a crime but if anybody deserves it, I think you do."

Law was shot when he seized a parolee, Harry Aughinbaugh, 41, for drunken driving.

Aughinbaugh, on parole for a $70,000 savings and loan association robbery in 1947, was sentenced to two to five years for the shooting.

Jayne, Muscular Mate Leave Dallas for Miami

DALLAS (AP)—Jayne Mansfield, a bright-eyed actress who didn't let grandpappy's fortune keep her from dipping into Hollywood's golden coffers, flies out of her old home town today with her new husband.

Jayne and her Hungarian-born bridegroom Mickey Hargitay, 29, are off for a honeymoon at Miami after a hectic two days of wedding activities. The 24-year-old actress and her muscular bridegroom, a onetime "Mr. Universe," will open a night club engagement Feb. 7 in Las Vegas.

The gala wedding activities were climaxed with a reception for about 80 friends at the home of Jayne's mother and her stepfather Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Peers.

The couple paused occasionally during the reception to smooch happily and sip pink champagne for photographers.

"We're so happy and so much in love" was their theme song.

The motif for the reception, like the wedding, was pink. Jayne wore a pink dress moulded to her bosomy curves like a second skin. The Peer home wasrpeted and decorated in pink.

In an interview, her mother indicated Jayne has a few bucks stashed away in case her career ever shows signs of slowing. Mrs. Peers, the former Vera Jeffry Palmer, said Jayne has received "over $100,000 from the estate of her grandfather." He was the late Elmer Palmer, who was in the slate business in Pen Argyl, Pa.

"She'll receive more when she is 25 and when she is 30 and thereafter," said Mrs. Peers. She declined to name the exact amounts.

Asks Pay Hike for Military

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Eisenhower has sent to Congress a military pay bill which would give most service personnel a raise of at least six per cent, and also provide for merit increases.

The bill was introduced in the House by Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the House Armed Services Committee, shortly after the White House disclosed details of administration proposals for boosting pay of postal and civil service workers, as well as service personnel.

The raises for all groups would cost about a billion dollars annually. The administration wants the raises to become effective July 1.

Under the Eisenhower program, all military personnel with more than two years' service would get the minimum increase in base pay.

The plan also would give the services greater flexibility in granting periodic raises, placing less emphasis on length of service and giving more consideration to merit.

The military pay plan embodies some of the recommendations submitted last year by an advisory group headed by Ralph J. Cordiner, president of General Electric Co. That group said pay adjustments were necessary to reduce turnover in key military jobs.

The military pay boost was estimated to cost 518 million dollars in the first year. The general increase would apply to 70 per cent of the uniformed personnel or about 1,600,000, but no raise was proposed for men with less than two years' service, nor for retired military people.

It was estimated, also, that four out of every seven servicemen would get additional pay depending on proficiency and rapidity of advancement under the proposed new program.

Raises for officers would be spread over a four-year period to reduce the impact on defense spending. The biggest increases would go to high-ranking officers, by creation of permanent three- and four-star ranks for pay purposes.

A four-star office could get up to $5,000 more under the new scale than the present figure of about $15,316 in base pay and allowances, excluding quarters and subsistence payments.

The pay for colonels — and Navy captains — would go from the present top of $811.20 to a maximum of $1,065. A second lieutenant or Navy ensign would get a boost of only 70 cents in his first year in that grade, but he could go to a maximum of $244 a month before serving two years.

The new program would provide that no major or lieutenant commander would get less than $530 monthly in base pay. Majors now must serve more than 14 years to earn $514.80.

The maximum for enlisted men would be raised from the present $335.40 a month after 26 years' service to $440. Promotion opportunities would be increased by the proposed creation of two senior enlisted grades above master sergeant.

A corporal now can get $180 monthly after eight years. Under the new plan, a corporal would start at $140, and could reach $180 monthly after two years in that grade.

Crash Victim Remains in Critical Condition

Joseph Suchoski, 40, of 3676 Woodview St., Orchard Lake, who was injured in an accident Friday night on Pontiac trail, remained in critical condition today at Pontiac General Hospital.

A hospital spokesman said Suchoski has a fractured skull, broken leg and collarbone, and chest injuries. The accident occurred when he lost control of his car on a curve near Orchard Lake road, West Bloomfield Township, and struck two trees, State Police said.

Strike Cuts Off Tourist Trade

Nassau Paralyzed as Island Workers Stage General Walkout

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — A general walkout of workers virtually paralyzed this British resort colony's 30 million dollar a year tourist business today.

All 16 principal hotels which house the majority of Nassau's visitors announced they planned to close at 9 a.m. (EST) if workers had not returned by then. Hotel managers said fewer than 100 visitors would remain by the time the deadline came.

Some hotels operated with skeleton staffs since the walkout began Sunday. Others, including the Royal Victoria, already have closed.

British Overseas Airways Corp. (BOAC) halted its flights from Miami yesterday but Pan American Airways, Mackay Airlines and Toehrs continued to operate, carrying capacity crowds home. Four cruise ships visited the city yesterday but the SS Caronia did not send its visitors ashore.

Most employes of the Bahamas Electricity Corp. left their jobs late yesterday. Manager Alan Kennedy said every effort would be made to maintain the power supply. But hotels readied hurricane lamps, flashlights and candles in event of a power failure.

The strike started after the Bahamas Federation of Labor told hotel employes to walk off their jobs in support of a taxi union dispute. It quickly spread to bakery employes, electrical workers, garbage collectors, plumbers, construction workers, airport baggage handlers and others.

Will Refine Dancing

SUMMIT, N. J. (AP) — The Rev. Harrold A. Murray, Catholic youth director of St. Teresa's Roman Catholic Church, plans to start teaching 250 junior church members "the fine points of decorous dancing." Father Murray (no relation to Arthur) says, "The only thing youngsters seem to know is this jumping around."

Catholic School Planned

OTSEGO (AP)— The Rev. T. Vincent McKenna has announced that St. Margaret's Catholic Parish will erect a $400,000 school and convent. Father McKenna said much of the work will be done by volunteers.

Farms in the U. S. grow about 18 million acres of alfalfa.

Fire and Failure Halt Commuters

78,000 Rail, Ferryboat Travelers in New York Delayed During Rush

NEW YORK (AP)—Fire in the locomotive of a New Haven Railroad train and a power failure in a ferry terminal delayed about 78,000 commuters during last evening's rush hour.

Grand Central terminal, which is used by both the New Haven and New York Central railroads, was crammed with stranded suburbanites.

On Staten Island, power at the St. George ferry slip stopped at 5:20 p.m. Ramps could not be lowered to permit passengers to board or leave ferries. Some 10,000 persons were stranded on the boats, which remained in the windy, rain-swept Upper Bay. Another 8,000 travelers were delayed at the Manhattan and Staten Island ferry slips until 8 p.m.

No trains ran into or out of Grand Central from 4:26 to 5:25 p.m. Schedules did not return to normal until 8:15 p.m.

The trouble began with a fire in the first electric locomotive of the New Haven train carrying 750 passengers in the Park Avenue tunnel, between 79th and 82nd streets. Five persons aboard the train—the 3:30 to New Haven—were overcome by smoke.

When the first billows of smoke began seeping through the 10 cars some passengers began pushing toward the rear of the train. The crew calmed them and they returned to their seats when told there was no danger.

The train was stranded until 5 p.m.

A Poughkeepsie-bound New York Central Train was halted behind the crippled New Haven train in the tunnel.

Aviation Official to Be Speaker

Supervisors Represent 6 Counties at Meeting in Mt. Clemens

An official of the Michigan Bureau of Aeronautics will tell of the ever-increasing expansion of aviation in the state at tomorrow's monthly meeting of the Supervisors Inter-County Committee to be held in Mt. Clemens.

Gerald A. Poehlman, executive secretary of the committee, emphasized that the meeting was not called to act on a proposal to establish a new airport in Sterling Township.

"Chances are that the proposal will come up," Poehlman said, "but the speech is not going to be a sales talk as to why we should have a Sterling Township airport."

Supervisors representing Oakland, Macomb, Monroe, St. Clair, Washtenaw and Wayne Counties will attend the morning and afternoon sessions scheduled for the Hillcrest Golf Club.

Prior to the talk on aviation, there will be a general meeting followed by committee meetings.

The Executive Committee is expected to take some action urging that the National Sanitation Foundation finish a study on sewage and drainage for the six-county area.

An official of the foundation last week declared the three-fold project dead because of certain political opposition.

Sgt. David Hofstein, 46, of the New York City police, has three college degrees. And now he is studying in his spare time for his fourth degree — a Master of Arts in economics.

Gambling Party Raided in Area

4 Officers in Waterford Capture Seven Men at Drive-In Restaurant

Alertness on the part of two Waterford Township policemen resulted in the raiding of an illegal gambling party and capture of seven men early this morning.

The men were: Finis Stone, 33, of 3590 Elizabeth Lake Rd., Waterford Township, owner of the building; Frederick Scribner, 35, of 126 Mark St.; Robert Barnett, 20, of 363 N. Saginaw St.; Dorris Anderson, 32, of 345 N. Cass Ave.; Richard Deacon, 23, of 5573 Ayresbury St.; Vern Acha, 52, of 23 W. Kennett St.; and George Trekles, 29, of Chicago, Ill.

Officers Jack Hart and Merrille Finkle noticed an unusual number of cars parked at Stoney's Drive Inn, 3590 Elizabeth Lake Rd., Waterford Township, while cruising through the area at about 5 a.m.

Upon closer investigation they noticed only a few customers in the establishment but heard sounds of talking and money jingling in a back room.

They summoned State Troopers Harold Wade and Delbert Tervo for assistance.

The seven men offered no resistance, said the officers. They will be arraigned today on charges of violating state gambling laws.

Change School Name

LANSING (AP)—A bill to change the name of Ionia State Reformatory to Hilltop Academic and Trade School was readied for introduction into the legislature today under sponsorship of Rep. Thomas J. Whinery (R-Grand Rapids). It would be the second name change for the institution since its founding. Formerly, it was known as the Michigan House of Correction.

Car-Sitting Viewed as Bad for Hearts

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Dr. Paul Dudley White suggests Americans love of sitting, especially in autos, may be bad for their hearts.

Dr. White, chief heart consultant for President Eisenhower, told a news conference last night he recently took cardiographs of 600 southern Italian males between 45 and 65 and found coronary disease in only four. A similar study of 600 Cretans found only two with heart ailments.

A study of Americans of Italian descent in Boston found 18 per cent with coronary heart disease in evidence.

"In Boston they have autos. In Naples they do not," he said.

Dr. White, 71, and his family are bicycle fans.

Mrs. Phil Hart Helping Oldster Realize Wishes

LANSING (AP) — Mrs. Philip A. Hart, wife of the lieutenant governor, is going to make sure that at least two of the birthday wishes made by 103-year-old Hiram Little of Lansing come true.

Little said he hoped to:

1. Take his first plane ride.

2. See the Mackinac Straits Bridge in 1958.

3. Attend the Little family reunion in Indiana this summer.

4. Vote for a Democrat for president in 1960.

Mrs. Hart phoned Little offering to fly him to the Straits of Mackinac and back aboard her Beechcraft Bonanza. The oldster accepted and will make the flight as soon as he, Mrs. Hart and the weatherman can settle on a day.

The wife of the Democratic lieutenant governor added that she hopes Little also realizes his two other ambitions.

Fighting Gen. Jim Gavin Rose Swiftly in Combat

(What kind of combat soldier is the Army losing in Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin? The question is answered in the following article, second of a series on the Army's crusading research chief, who is quitting the service in protest against what he calls the "Pentagon system.")

By JAMES LEE
INS Staff Writer

Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin came out of World War II acclaimed by the military brass as the outstanding student and leader of airborne warfare.

No senior officer in the service today had a more dramatic combat record.

As a colonel, "Slim Jim" Gavin commanded the 505th Parachute Combat team that spearheaded the assault on Sicily the night of July 9, 1943. Two months later, he led the paratroop attack on Salerno.

He was a brigadier general and assistant commander of the magnificent 82nd Airborne Division—under then Maj. Gen. Matthew Ridgway—in the big drop on Normandy on D-Day, June 6, 1944.

When Ridgway was promoted to command of the First American Airborne Corps, Gavin was given the division and another star, making him, at 37, the nation's youngest major general.

Gavin's divisional chief of staff said wistfully during the airborne assault on Nijmegen, the Netherlands, "We have a wonderful system worked out; I stay home with the telephones and my general goes out and fights with his troops."

The general wears many combat decorations, among them, the purple heart, for a battle wound; the Distinguished Service Cross with oak leaf cluster for exceptional acts of personal gallantry; the Silver Star, also with oak leaf cluster, and the cherished Combat Infantryman Badge.

In addition, he has a chestful of foreign decorations, perhaps the most noteworthy being the Netherlands' Order of Grand Officer of Orange Nassau, never before given to a foreigner or any person not of royal blood.

Gavin led the 82nd in the spring offensive that carried Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's victorious Allied Armies across the Rhine and dealt the death blow to Hitler.

After V-E Day, Gavin took his division to Berlin, where he served as American representative on the city kommandatura and got his first close look at the Soviet military mind.

The military powers-that-be decided in 1949 that it was time to make use of Gavin's brilliant mind at the Pentagon.

He was moved to Washington as Army member of the weapons system evaluation group in the office of the secretary of defense. It was in that tour of duty that Gavin, always looking to the wars ahead, not those behind, became "missile-minded."

ENLISTED AS PRIVATE

In 1955, now wearing the three stars of a lieutenant general, the orphan kid who enlisted as a scraggy private was sworn in as the Army's Deputy Chief of Staff for Plans and Research.

That was the beginning of a period of bitter frustration for Jim Gavin, in which he saw the Army's weapons budget dwindle while his warnings and his prophecies fell, he says, on deaf ears.

(Next: Gen. Gavin's convictions on the threats the U.S. faces from the Soviet Union and what he regards as the glaring deficiencies in the present effort to meet the Communist challenge.)

Plays 'Post Office' With West

Bulganin Writing Letters

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS

The Russian playing "post office" with the West these days—Soviet Premier Nikolai Alexandrovich Bulganin—is a goateed "old Bolshevik" who so far, anyway, has defied most of the Soviet Union's statistics on political longevity.

His recent binge of letter-writing to free world leaders, first to warn America's NATO allies against establishing U. S. missile bases on their soil and now to propose an East-West "summit" meeting, shows that Bulganin is still not through.

BELIEVED DOOMED

Western observers had long suspected that the 62-year-old Premier's political star was on the verge of extinction at the hands of a master, Communist Party Boss Nikita S. Khrushchev.

But no, seeing the Bulganin signature on so many communications to the West, these observers are inclined to believe that he is still considered a useful member of the Kremlin hierarchy.

They agree that Bulganin's role is a passive one—no one suggests that he actually writes the letters sent out over his name—but it's been that way for some time. A year ago, the marshal was distinguishing himself as "straight man" in Khrushchev's traveling diplomatic act.

But the premier, one of the few original Bolsheviks to survive the regimes of both Stalin and Khrushchev, has long been known for his ability to play whatever role is assigned him.

These roles have ranged from secret police agent to businessman and from banker to army general. In all of them, Bulganin displayed his talents for getting along with the "right" people.

This was necessary, for he has belonged to the communist movement since 1917, when he served his apprenticeship as a Red with the ill-famed Cheka. By 1927, he was directing the Moscow electricity station. By 1937, he was in solid with Stalin.

During World War II, he did an outstanding job as a general whose duties were more political than military. It was Bulganin's job to make sure that Red Army troops were just as loyal to the Communist party as he was . . . and is.

Pearson Leads Race in Liberal Ranks

OTTAWA (AP)—Former Foreign Secretary Lester B. Pearson continued to pick up strength as the national convention of Canada's Liberal party prepared today to receive formal nominations of candidates to succeed the aging Louis St. Laurent as party leader.

The voting will take place tomorrow night. The convention will hear the nominations read tonight and will hear speeches from the candidates themselves.

The other leading candidate is former Health Minister Paul Martin, waging an uphill fight. Pearson's candidacy was given a boost when Mayor Don Mackay of Calgary withdrew and threw his support to this year's Nobel Peace Prize winner.

Pearson also received the endorsement of most of the Liberal Cabinet ministers who served with him and Martin in the St. Laurent government before its defeat by the Conservatives last June.

Venezuelan Students Continue Uprisings

High school students staged the largest of several demonstrations yesterday. Police used tear gas and the flat sides of machete blades to break them up. An undetermined number were arrested.

Many residents reported that the opposition had taken to the telephone with an apparently tape recorded message saying, "The and we are counting on you."

Perez Jimenez put down a one-day revolt of air force and some army units Jan. 1 but unrest has continued.

About 90 per cent of all the licorice used in the United States goes into various kinds of tobacco products.

Skippers Fight but Chiefs Roll, 71-41

Waterford Quint Plays Hard but PCH Too Strong

Munson, Barge Spark Pontiac to 5th Win of Season

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

The Skippers of Waterford rocked Pontiac Central's potent victory ship for a period and a half, but then took to the life rafts as the Chiefs found the range with a 71-41 bombardment on the PCH court last night.

A capacity house was in constant uproar as Waterford took the lead three times and tied the game four times in the first 12 minutes.

But midway in the second quarter, with Harrison Munson and Charley Barge catching fire, Pontiac took the lead at 23-21 and left the court at halftime with a 33-26 margin.

The Skippers fought hard with guard Jim Devine hitting for 15 of his 17 points in the first half and John Herrington doing most of the board work.

But in the third period Munson took over the boards for Pontiac and he got help in the scoring column from big Jim Skinner who hit four straight field goals after a scoreless first half.

Pontiac pushed the lead to 43-26 before Waterford got its first point after nearly four minutes of the second half. Herrington, the Skippers' leading scorer, was held to two free throws until the last minute of the third quarter when he hit from the floor. He finished with nine points.

Barge and Devine tied for scoring honors for the night, each getting 17. It was Barge's best shooting night of the year even though he sat out most of the third period with four fouls.

As the fourth period started Pontiac had a 58-35 lead. A five point spurt by Herrington clipped the margin to 18 points, 58-40, but then the Chiefs again built up the lead rapidly with all the reserves taking the floor with five minutes to play.

Ten of the 12 PCH players who saw action broke into the scoring column. Munson finished behind Barge with 16 while Jerry Williams and Skinner each had eight.

Waterford used 10 players in the contest with six cracking the scoring list. Devine who hit on several long 40-footers in the 1st half, lost the range in the second half as he was able to get one basket. The little guard however kept the Skippers in the game with his shooting spree.

This was the first game between the basketball teams of the two schools. There is little chance they will meet again next year, however there is a possibility that Pontiac's new Northern high school may have the Skippers on its schedule.

In the preliminary, Pontiac's jayvees whipped the Waterford yearlings, 77-33.

Friday night Pontiac has a "must" game on its hands at Flint Northern. Northern, Flint Central and Pontiac are locked in a three-way tie behind Saginaw in the SVC.

Flint Central will have its woes at Saginaw, and Pontiac will have to win its game with Northern to stay in the race.

Eddie Erdelatz Decides to Stay as Navy Coach

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Texas A&M was shopping for a football coach again today after Navy's Eddie Erdelatz bowed out of contention with an angry blast at Aggie representatives over the manner in which his visit was arranged.

Erdelatz was the sixth coach mentioned for the $16,000 a year job and the fifth to visit the campus. No prospects are in sight.

Erdelatz' dispute was with Jack Finney, chairman of the coach selection committee of the college board of directors.

"I am going to remain at Navy" Erdelatz told newsmen after the brief but sharp debate with Finney. He said he felt A&M didn't follow proper protocol in dealing with him.

Birmingham Posts Overtime Victory

Cranbrook and Romeo Win

Birmingham battled Royal Oak Kimball into sudden-death overtime to pull out a 43-41 thriller. Cranbrook won its 2nd straight after four opening setbacks and Romeo walloped Oxford headlining a slim area prep basketball schedule last night.

Bob Stephenson, who made 12 of his team's last 14 points in the game, flipped in a jump shot from the foul circle to produce the Maples' triumph and highlight a gallant comeback.

Cranbrook handed still winless Bloomfield Hills a 57-46 beating while Romeo was piling up an 83-45 victory.

Troy remained in the running for unbeaten honors by thrashing Oak Park 67-25, Ortonville stayed off in front 14-0 and never let up in beating Hartland 72-52, Madison Lamphere downed Utica St. Lawrence 31-23 and Royal Oak Shrine nipped Detroit St. Rita 49-47 in other area action.

Stephenson had scored only seven points in three periods before going on his big spree that proved too much for Kimball.

Birmingham had held leads of 12-7 and 22-18 after the opening periods before Kimball fought back with a 16-7 3rd period edge and led by six only to have the Maple senior catch fire.

The regulation game ended at 41-41 and the three-minute overtime period was a scoreless session as both teams played control ball hoping to win on one basket. In the sudden death, Birmingham got the tap and a quick pass to Stephenson wrapped it up.

He finished with 19 and John Kennedy of the losers tallied 16.

Cranbrook, showing new life since the holiday break, bounced back after trailing 14-5 to hand Bloomfield its seventh successive loss.

Chuck Klein swished 20 to pace the Cranes. Bob Elston and Bob Thompson clicked for 14 each for the Barons.

Twelve of Romeo's 13 players got into the scoring act as the Bulldogs evened their record at 3-3 with little trouble. Dave Proper topped the pack with 24. Dick Duncan of Oxford hooped 21, 15 on foul conversions made in 18 attempts.

Troy just toyed with Oak Park after a 31-7 1st half. Dick Booth and Rod Harris made enough together with 16 and 14, respectively.

Shrine and St. Rita staged a real ding-dong affair. St. Rita led 25-23 at the 1st half and it stayed nip-and-tuck right down to the closing minutes. Pat McLaughlin and Pat Flannery combined for 33 of the Shrine total, 18 by McLaughlin. Larry Latra caged 12 for St. Rita.

Oklahoma State Takes 11th Straight, Maryland Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Oklahoma State's Cowboys, members of one conference, scheduled in another and not eligible for the title in either, may be able to corral a post-season basketball tournament berth as an independent.

Coach Hank Iba's boys, new members of the Big Eight after ditching the Missouri Valley, won their 11th straight with a 55-42 decision over Wichita last night. The only setback on State's record is a season-opening 63-56 defeat by Kansas.

The Cowboys, ranked seventh in the Associated Press poll, have since avenged the defeat (while Wilt Chamberlain was out of the Kansas lineup), but it doesn't mean a thing in the Big Eight race. State plays only four games in the conference (home-and-home against Kansas and Oklahoma) because of long-range scheduling commitments.

That same gimmick explains why the Cowboys have a full 16-game card against Missouri Valley clubs—which thus far has produced a prestige-building decision over Cincinnati and Oscar Robertson.

Since the Big Eight membership doesn't carry a title possibility, however, the Cowboys are free to fish for either an at-large bid to the NCAA university tournament or a crack at the National Invitation Tourney.

Maryland (No. 8) was the only other ranked club at work last night and the Terps defeated Georgetown (DC) 55-45.

Tonight unbeaten, top-ranked West Virginia shoots for No. 13 against Pittsburgh and sharp-shooting Don Hennon; North Carolina, ranked sixth, goes against North Carolina State (No. 20) in an Atlantic Coast Conference re-match, and once-beaten Bradley meets St. Louis in a Missouri Valley contest.

Oklahoma State took command midway in the first half while breaking Wichita's winning streak at eight and handing the 17-ranked Wheat-Shockers their first home defeat in a 10-2 record.

Orion Pair Leading County Scorers

A pair of Lake Orion courtsters named Jim Drake and Nick Neira are going to make shambles of the Oakland County individual scoring race if their play thus far is any indication.

Drake tops the pack with 120 points in five games for a 24 average and his friend Neira is right on his heels with 118 for 23.6. They combined for 67 last time out.

Rick Moon of Madison and jumping John Herrington are others hitting 20 or better with marks of 21.6 and 20.7. Leroy Parks of Clarkston is just under with 19.8.

BALTIMORE (AP) — First baseman Bob Boyd, fourth leading hitter of the American League last season, has signed his third contract with the Baltimore Orioles, Executive Vice Presifent William Wasingham announced today.

The 31-year-old Boyd batted .318 in 141 games last year. Although little for a first baseman, at 5-10 and 167 pounds, Boyd had more plays than any other American Leaguer at that position and fielded at .991 in 1957.

UP FOR TWO—Pontiac's Dick Whitmer (white jersey) takes a jump shot and scores as Larry Bowen (18) of Waterford fails to stop the shot. Whitmer started the game at forward but had only seven points for the night.

From The Press Box

Ed Burton, big center and star of the state Class A champion Muskegon Heights team last year, looked good in brief appearances with the Michigan State freshmen but flunked out after the fall term.

Backfield coach Jim Blinkhorn was immediately named his successor. Korf will stay on the faculty and as head track coach.

Hennessey, Detroiter Lead All-Star

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A 10th frame foul cost Tom Hennessey of St. Louis one of the most important records in the All-Star Bowling Tournament's 17-year history Tuesday.

Although he was fast overtaking the field, it didn't seem too important when the foul buzzer sounded. After a strike in the last box of the fifth game, Hennessey's foot slipped over the line. Since he got a nine count on that ball, the mishap meant a loss of nine pins from his score.

The rugged, 31-year-old Irishman came up with a towering 288 in his sixth game to inflate his series to 1400. Record books revealed that Chuck O'Donnell of St. Louis rolled a 1403 back in the 1950 All-Star.

Hennessey finished far ahead of the 192-man qualifying field with a 24-game total of 5177, an average of more than 215. He leads the 94 high scorers of the preliminaries into the semi-finals today. The rest of the field has been dropped from the tournament.

Don Carter of St. Louis and Bill Lillard of Chicago, the two most recent past champions, will continue their series of exhibition matches through the semis. Both men are seeded into the finals which begin Thursday.

Marion Ladewig of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Anita Cantaline of Detroit will provide similar entertainment in the distaff field. They, too, get a free pass to the finals.

Marge Merrick of Detroit was leading the less fortunates that must labor for their entrance to the finals. Her 20-game total of 3844 averaged out to an unspectacular 192 per game but it was still better than anything her 45 semi-finalist companions could put together.

In another day of steady shooting, Miss Merrick clicked off four game series of 784 and 772.

Sylvia Wene, the Philadelphia mite who won the tournament three seasons ago, bounced into second place on the strength of a late 830 series. Her aggregate for the course thus far is 3834.

Spieser Says He's Retiring

DETROIT (INS)—Light heavyweight challenger Chuck Spieser revealed today he was retiring from boxing, declaring "I'll never fight again."

Speiser cancelled a bout with Bobby Lane of Miami which was scheduled for Feb. 1 in Detroit and said he had decided to "retire for all time."

The 28-year-old seventh ranking contender for light heavyweight honors denied his decision was prompted by legal troubles over the drawn out dispute over a match with Archie Moore.

Promotion difficulties for the match arose as Spieser's backers said they would guarantee $100,000 for Moore but only deposited $55,000 with the boxing commission.

The match had been scheduled for this month but no date was set. Moore claimed lats week it never would be held and filed suit for $10,000 which Spieser's brother-manager, Joe, had posted as a binder.

Spieser's last fight was April 5 of last year when he was knocked out by Tony Anthony of New York. He said he thought about his retirement fully and said "I figure it's best to hang 'em up now. I have been offered a job with the Whitaker Paper Co. that looks pretty good."

Butch Heavenrich, 95 pounds, garnered the Cranbrook pin to start the competition. Berkley star Larry Gross followed in the 105.

Sintz Shares in 2 Records

Birmingham High's ace swimmer, Pete Sintz, yesterday afternoon broke one pool record, shared in another as the Maples swim team swamped Ferndale 71-25. Victory, in the 'Dales' pool, was the 9th straight this season, 16th without defeat.

Meet was an EML test and gave Jay Myers' team its 4th straight loop win.

Sintz turned the 100-yard freestyle in 52.8, clipped 2.3 seconds from old mark. He swam with Pete Palmer, Dave Smith and Bill Buick to a 200-yard freestyle relay pool record of 1:38.0 (old mark, 1:40.2). Both had been set by Birmingham, Maples' next test is Jan. 24 at RO Kimball.

Westsiders Score Overtime Victory

A field goal by Bob Richards in overtime gave the Westsiders a 31-29 win over St. Vincent de Paul in a Class D City League basketball game Tuesday night at Lincoln Junior High. The loser's Martin Hastings took scoring honors with 13 points.

In other "D" games, Fred Hyten collected 24 points as Auburn Heights Boys Club smothered Central Christian, 54-23, and Jack's Bar & Grill defeated Perry Park, 43-27, behind the 10-point effort of Joe Gonzalez.

Griff's Grill won its 5th straight Class B decision, a 62-45 trouncing of Walled Lake, as Bill York tallied 16 points. Roger Nosek netted 20 points to lead the Boys Club to a 52-39 conquest of Booth Homes, also in Class B.

12 Communities Sending Keglers to Press Event

Feb. 2 Deadline Date for Men; Women Have Until 10th

Entries for the 2nd annual Pontiac Press Bowlerama have hit the 150 figure and are heading for the 200 mark with less than three weeks remaining before the men's deadline.

Last year a total of 500 men and women took part in the first tournament which was initiated only three weeks before the opening qualifying round, and more than 10 per cent, namely 60 bowlers, shared the purse.

Entries thus far have come in from 12 different communities in Oakland County, including Pontiac, Drayton Plains, Lake Orion, Clarkston, Rochester, Oxford, Birmingham, Novi, Wixom, Walled Lake, Milford and Holly.

Any resident of Oakland County with a sanctioned number of the ABC or WIBC is eligible to enter.

Qualifying will take place at Montcalm Center and Howe's Lanes for the men on Feb. 8-9 and for the women Feb. 15 at Motor Inn.

Men bowlers cannot request a specific time or particular site to qualify. However the men can designate on their entries a preference for bowling on Saturday the 8th or Sunday Feb. 9th.

This allowance is made for the men who must work on Saturday's. Should they denote this their sites and times will be arranged accordingly.

All women must qualify on Saturday February 15th. Only should there be an excess of bowlers will Sunday Feb. 16 be used to complete qualifying.

In most instances qualifying on Saturday will begin about 10:00 a.m. and continue through late afternoon. Qualifying on Sunday will start at noon.

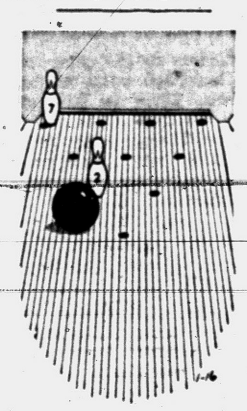

The finals will begin Saturday morning February 22nd so as they can be completed by early afternoon. One reason is to permit any bowlers entered in the state meet at Battle Creek in the evening to get there on time.

Bowlerama rules have been forwarded to all area alleys to be posted on the boards. They can be checked for any clarification.

Bowlers are warned as to the deadline date, midnight Feb. 2nd for men. Last year more than a dozen entries were rejected because they failed to comply to the deadline.

Women have until midnight February 10th to submit entries due to the later qualifying date.

STRIKES AND SPARES
By Joe Wilman

Do you bowl right-handed? If so, today's 2-7 split probably isn't too familiar to you. But if you're a southpaw, this "baby split" on the left is all too familiar.

The left-hander shoots this from the right side of the alley, angling his ball across so it hooks between the two pins. Because most lefties have a natural hook, they have to give their ball enough room to hook back between the two pins.

A right-handed bowler shoots this spare from the right side of the alley, too. His hook should also come in on the left side of the 2-pin with the ball continuing on and into the 7. That's the sure way — hitting both pins with the ball. It's possible to convert this by hitting the 2-pin on the right side and knocking it into the 7. But if you don't get proper pin action, you're out of luck. Make sure you hit both pins with the ball.

What Car Has The Best Brakes?

Read this

"After testing a 1958 CENTURY, one of four Buick Series (all but the SPECIAL) equipped with new deeply-finned aluminum front brake drums, it is our agreeable duty to report that these are the best brakes on a Detroit sedan by far that we have tested, and that they are, conservatively, a 100 per cent improvement over conventional Detroit brakes."

Direct quotation from the new issue of SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED in a report entitled: "THE SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED 1958 AWARD IN RECOGNITION OF OUTSTANDING ACHIEVEMENT AND SIGNIFICANT CONTRIBUTION IN THE AUTOMOTIVE FIELD PRESENTED TO THE BUICK MOTOR DIVISION, GENERAL MOTORS CORPORATION, FOR MAJOR ADVANCES IN BRAKES."

NOW—more than ever—
When better automobiles are built
Buick will build them

Every window of every Buick is SAFETY PLATE Glass

22 emergency stops from 60 mph—and Buick's brakes still effective!

As a result of this grueling brake test, SCI stated: "We find it the rule for Detroit sedans to brake quite efficiently for the first few stops, but then they deteriorate rapidly." But here's what happened in the Buick CENTURY: 22 "crash stops" were made from 60 MPH, and afterwards, the brakes were still fully effective. Says SCI: "This was by far the most severe test we ever have submitted a sedan's brakes to, but after it was over the Buick's brakes functioned perfectly . . . Buick has done it . . . has set a new standard of brake quality . . ."

Discuss Return Title Bout

Basilio Talks With Norris

NEW YORK (AP)—After a night of being feted as the 1957 "Fighter of the Year," middleweight champion Carmen Basilio turned to serious business today.

The 30-year-old former Marine and his co-managers, Johnny DeJohn and Joe Netro, will confer with Jim Norris, head of the International Boxing Club, regarding terms for a return title bout with Sugar Ray Robinson. He dethroned Robinson with a split 15-round decision in their torrid scrap last September.

Although Robinson currently is involved in legal troubles, the return bout is regarded as virtually set for Chicago sometime in March. The dates of March 18 and March 25 have been mentioned.

"I want this fight more than anything," declared the craggy-faced former onion farmer from Chittenango, N. Y. after he had received the Edward J. Neil memorial plaque as "Fighter of the Year" at the Boxing Writers Assn. dinner last night.

"I want to beat Robinson more than any fighter I ever met," Basilio continued. "I want to win decisively so that there will be no question about it."

Pep Will Fight On Despite Tibbs' Win

BOSTON (AP) — While Tommy Tibbs savors his victory over Willie Pep the former featherweight champion proclaims he is not going to retire.

Tibbs, the 23-year old newsboy from Boston, won a close split 10-round decision over Pep last night at Mechanics Building.

"I'm not thinking about retiring," Pep said in his dressing room. "If Tibbs had beaten me solidly, I might have given retirement more thought—but I'm not going to retire. I thought I won the fight by a slight margin."

Stan Drobac, new tennis coach at Michigan State, is a former Big Ten singles champion.

Dodgers Have New Scheme

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Into the murky Los Angeles baseball atmosphere today came this cautiously hopeful forecast: Possible clearing, followed by mass relief.

For this was the day on which it appeared—not for sure, mind you—that the question of where the Dodgers will play next season might finally be settled.

After all but saying he had decided to put his National League team in little Wrigley Field, Dodger President Walter O'Malley appeared before the Memorial Coliseum Commission yesterday with a new idea for getting his athletes into the 101,000-seat stadium.

It was actually O'Malley's first appearance before the commission, but the question of renting the Coliseum to the Dodgers had come up several times before, with uniformly inconclusive results.

Today the commission was to hear a report from its baseball committee on O'Malley's latest plan. If the session produced a rental proposition, it was to be voted on later today, probably toward evening.

O'Malley's new idea was one which would not necessitate the removal of any Coliseum seats.

Hirsch Jacobs and F. A. Bonsal both trained three stakes winners during Maryland racing in 1957.

TRAINED OLYMPIANS — Newest of the area's ski pros, in a burgeoning list of winter sports areas in this section is French-Canadian Louis Auger. Auger is the pro at Grampian Mt., east of Oxford, latest ski resort to open in Oakland county. The splendid picture shows Auger looking out over a snow-covered slope, holding the "tools" of his trade. He is a former trainer of Canadian Olympic skiers.

Although not entirely new to metropolitan area ski enthusiasts, Grampian Mountain's first professional ski teacher is the latest in a growing list of instructors for the Pontiac section.

Louis Auger, French-Canadian native of St. Sauvuer, near Quebec, has been appointed Grampian Mt. pro by Joseph F. Kosik, one of several brothers operating the ski club east of Oxford.

A veteran skier himself, schooled in the techniques of Canadian skiing, Auger has taught the sport in many sections of the country.

He was formerly staff examiner for the Canadian Ski School, and was rated as one of the top 10 instructors in the Dominion.

Auger has trained a number of Canadian Olympic skiers, among them Carl Kruger and Bob Fuch.

He is also currently a ski adviser for a large Detroit store.

Colorado has 31 ski area with a total of 58 lifts and tows.

Crites Will Defend World Skeet Crown

One of the questions as to the dates for the 1958 NSSA World Skeet Championships at Oakland County Sportsmen's Club revolved this big event and the world shooting championships in Moscow, Russia.

Defending world champion is OCSC member, and NSSA prexy, Chet Crites. Crites won his title at Caracas, Venezuela, two years ago. Crites is making plans to travel to Moscow about Aug. 14 to 27. Moscow shoot is under auspices of the International Shooting Union, and includes pistol, rifle, trap and skeet shooting.

M-L Browse Cutters Ready for 1958 Trip

Annual deer browse-cutting trip for Multi-Lake Conservation association members has been set for this weekend. Registrations were still being taken for the jaunt to Tittabawassee resort in Gladwin county. A large delegation is expected, says Monty Wysong, chairman, who may still be contacted at EMpire 3-8951.

OK World Skeet Meet Dates

Dates have been approved and final decision on contract commitments between Oakland County Sportsmen's club and the National Skeet Shooting Association, is all that lies in the way of completing plans for the 1958 World Skeet Championships at OCSC, come early fall.

Stipulations have been studied and given approval, and they now go to the respective memberships of OCSC and the NSSA for final OK. It is expected approval will come as a matter of course.

World's biggest skeet tournament takes place on the 12 fields at the Waterford club, scene of a previous NSSA test. Dates agreed upon are July 28 through Aug. 2, when this section will be the Mecca for the nation's (and some of the world's) best skeet experts.

Several changes in conditions for the 1958, as compared with the previous tourney were set up, one of which eliminates the financial responsibility angle for OCSC. These matters, and the provision for trophies are in the hands of the NSSA.

Prexy Ray Newman says OCSC hopes to make this the best tourney in the NSSA history. "We will complete extensive plans, designed to have everything in readiness when the first contingent of skeeters arrives for practice rounds," says Newman. "All our fields will be open for practice the week previous to start of the World title event."

Sitting in on the recent OCSC-NSSA conference at which contract terms were tentatively approved, subject to final OK by the two directorates, were; from OCSC, Newman and vice-president Ed Spicer, NSSA committeemen Bob Thiefels, Howard Confer of the NSSA board.

Committees for operation of the tourney will be named as soon as final OK is given.

IRON CURTAIN ENTRY—Its origin behind the "Iron Curtain," the handsome Hungarian Vizsla (above) is the first of its breed to appear in this part of Michigan in a dog show. Falcon von-Schloss-Loosdorg, son of a Hungarian import, is a miscellaneous entry in Sunday's PKC show because the breed as yet has no AKC status. It is an unusual type, hound-like in build, of beautiful gold color. Owner is Norman Felt, 2150 Ostrum, Pontiac. The dog will be judged between 1 and 2 p.m. Show takes place from 9 a.m. to 6:30 p.m., with judging beginning at 10 a.m. Pontiac Retail Store is the site.

'Just as Advertised'

Northern Weekend Is Fine

By JACK PATTERSON

In a recent column we got worked up over the quiet beauty of northern woodlands in mid-January. On reading the thing over we were carried away to the extent that we decided if a winter expedition was worth recommending to other people it was probably worth trying ourself.

PATTERSON

We are happy to report that everything turned out to be as advertised.

There was only one thing we overlooked.

In addition to other mentioned qualities, mid-winter northern Michigan is cold. In fact, Sunday morning found the thermometer's thin red line seeking shelter under the big round 0 of zero.

It was strangely quiet and a glance out the window gave the answer. The rollicking creek gurgled and glittered no longer, but ran silent beneath a solid roof of ice.

It was the kind of weather when only small boys were up at the crack of dawn and outside for lengthy exploration before breakfast. Older, wiser hands contracted deeper into sleeping bags and contemplated the protecting virtues of waterfowl down.

But in spite of the cold there was considerable activity on the part of wildlife, native and imported, in the winter woods.

Deer fed regularly, but without the urgency of near-starvation they'll feel in the months ahead, on tufts of hay tossed out along the road.

Occasionally they looked up in puzzled alarm at weirdly clad creatures tromping through the foot-deep snow. And well they might, for the careful observer could have identified, in this eerie procession, such rare species as Milo Cross, Paul Kern, Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, Phil Hubbard, Don Nicholie, Bill Bundy, D. B. Eames, George Watson and a whole clutch of Camp 24 regulars.

Although a junior sortie into the cedar swamp disclosed plenty of rabbit tracks we figured that their owners had troubles enough without being cannonaded and we confined firearms exercises to inaccurate pistol work and some erratic shotgunnery at blue rocks, or, as Dr. George Petroff insists on calling them, "blue points."

Like we said before, a winter weekend in the north is a great thing, but it's always nice to get home so you can rest up.

Our usually reliable ice-fishing reporters have either lost their know-how of winter fishing or have run into something good and have clammed up. Anyway their reports are almost universally somber.

Boisterous Weather Spoils Fishing Trip

High winds, cold and rain combined last week to spoil what had been expected to be an enjoyable Florida Keys fishing trip for two Pontiac sportsmen.

Al Weber and son Bob, East Iroquois road, went to Marathon to try for "sails," ran into bad weather and were out just one day of four. "We did get some kings," Bob reported. "But that wasn't what we went down there for. Those Key fishermen have really been hit hard by the stormy weather."

Work on Club Slate

Preparation of a slate of officers for the 1958 OCSC election is under way by the recently named committee, composed of Charles Sparks, Terrence Bolin, Bob Gubbins, Lew Borer, Don Eakle, Clyde George, Jerry Rustem, Al Loomis and Jack Greathouse.

Election is set for the membership meeting on Feb. 26, with installation in March.

Golf Course on OCSC Site Being Studied

Committee Named to Probe Possibilities for Future Layout

A golf study committee has been appointed by Oakland County Sportsmen's Club president, Ray Newman, to look into the possibilities of constructing a golf course sometime in the future on OCSC grounds.

The committee has been formed at the request of various club members who would like to look into the long-range possibilities of a golf layout in OCSC.

No definite action is expected for several months. However, many feel there may be merit in such a plan and this committee will seek answers to many of the problems involved. Members of the committee so far are: OCSC editor, Marshall Johnson, Henry Tipolt, and Louis Bachnak.

Big Skeet Year Ahead for County Shotgunners

Skeet activities at Oakland County Sportsmen's Club will be a dominant feature of OCSC events during 1958, Skeet Chairman Homer Coss reports.

Winter skeet league, designed to help new shooters get started and improve rapidly, is now in full swing. The league began its 10-week run Jan. 12 and will continue every Sunday through March 16.

Then will come the Chief Pontiac Open in June, the World's Skeet Championships, sponsored by the National Skeet Shooting Association to be held at the OCSC grounds July 28 through Aug. 2, followed by the State Sportsmen's tournament at OCSC ranges in late August.

The exceptional facilities offered to shooters by OCSC will be utilized by thousands of skeetmen and women during the coming year club officials say. Public is welcome to shoot skeet at OCSC every Sunday.

The will be asked to hold similar events in their homes to raise money for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Ford Lays Off 1,300 From Louisville Plant

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The night shift at the Ford Motor Co. plant here will be eliminated Feb. 1, causing a layoff of 1,300 workers.

The company announced yesterday the action will cut Ford and Edsel car production in half. The Feb. 1 layoff won't affect truck production which was reduced Dec. 9 when 400 workers were let go.

The new layoff will reduce the work force at the Ford plant to approximately 3,000, compared with more than 5,000 at times last year. The payroll loss will total more than $100,000 weekly.

Unemployment Up in December

Highest Rate Since '49; Expect Further Rise in January Jobless

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government reports that 3,374,000 Americans were unemployed last month despite holiday hiring. The jobless figure was 186,000 higher than in November.

The monthly joint report of the Commerce and Labor Departments also indicated a far bigger jump in unemployment may be in store this month. It noted that claims for federal-state unemployment benefits increased by more than half a million since the December jobless count was taken.

More than one in every 20 Americans was unemployed last month, the report said. The exact figure was 5.2 per cent of the labor force. This was the highest December rate since 1949 and the highest for any month in three years.

December employment figures were down by 477,000, to a total of 64,396,000. The increase in unemployment statistics was not correspondingly great because many workers who lost their jobs withdrew from the labor force—that is, did not seek other work. A jobless person is not classed as unemployed unless he is looking for a job.

Plan Strike Fund if Auto Talks Fail

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union says delegates to next week's special convention will be asked to set up a strike fund for use if contract talks with the auto industry fail.

UAW spokesmen said benefits from the fund will be based on "right" rather than "need," as in the past, with strikers receiving a uniform weekly payment for the duration of shutdowns. Payments presently vary with individual requirements.

Bus Monopoly Suit Opens in Detroit Federal Court

DETROIT (AP) — Attorneys today argued proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law in a 55-page summary of the government's antitrust suit charging General Motors Corp. with monopolizing manufacture and sale of intercity and transit buses.

The summary was filed yesterd as the case opened before U. S. District Judge Arthur F. Lederle, sitting without a jury.

GM is accused of monopolizing the bus field by conspiring with four operating companies, named as co-conspirators but not as defendants; Hertz Corp., New York; Greyhound Corp., Chicago; National City Lines, Inc., Chicago, and Public Service Co-ordinated Transport Co., Newark, N. J.

The government's summary details an agreement which it said prevailed 23 years between greyhound and General Motors.

The agreement allegedly committed GM to sell to Greyhound at a lower price than to other customers and not sell to competitors without Greyhound consent. In return, Greyhound reportedly agreed to purchase at least 75 per cent of its buses from GM.

The government said the agreement lasted until 1952 and that during its existence GM and Greyhound each became "the largest and strongest competitor in its field."

Walter D. Murphy, justice department atorney, said Greyhound had signed a consent decree in the last three months agreeing to buy buses from companies other than GM.

Harlow H. Curtice, GM president, denied the government complaint when it was filed in July 1956, and GM Attorney Bruce Bromley of New York said yesterday:

"This case is of extreme importance. We want to show that our superiority in the market is due only to the fact that we make the best bus."

The government asks that GM be enjoined from selling more than 50 per cent of the annual bus requirements of the four operating companies named as co-conspirators and that GM be required to end any restrictive agreements.

The complaint says GM sold 55 million dollars worth of intercity and transit buses in 1955, or 85 per cent of the U.S. market.

GM is accused of favoring the firms named as co-conspirators by loans through a financing subsidiary, Yellow Manufacturing Acceptance Corp., at preferential rates which competitors could not meet.

It also is accused of inducing officials of municipally owned transit lines to issue restrictive specifications which excluded manufacturers other than GM and of refusing to sell parts, engines and automatic transmissions to other bus makers.

Grain Futures Move Narrowly

CHICAGO (AP) — The absence of any substantial commercial business left grain futures prices moving within narrow ranges in early dealings on the Board of Trade today.

Liquidation was resumed in wheat at the outset along with some selling described as profit-taking, while trading in corn and soybeans was mixed. There was some small corn buying for export and processor accounts.

The market was described however, as mostly just a trading affair.

Dullness Ends, Stocks Climb

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market snapped out of dull irregularity and moved to the upside early this afternoon.

The improvement was narrow. Leading steels, rails, mail orders, farm implements and radio-televisions were up on average while more gains appeared in other sections of the list.

Gains went from fractions to about a point. A good assortment of small losers appeared.

The recovery followed immediately President Eisenhower's statement that he would prefer a reasonable amount of deficit spending this year to a tax increase.

This emphasized Wall Street's expectations of a more inflationary policy by the government. Turnover became more active although on the moderate side.

Zanuck's Son Wed

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Richard Zanuck, 23, son of producer Darryl Zanuck, is honeymooning in Mexico today with his bride Lili Gentle, 17-year-old actress. They were married yesterday at the First Methodist Church.

Tells How He Became the Perfect Husband

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — This being my 22d wedding anniversary, I decided in fairness to the world I should reveal how I became a Perfect Husband.

WILSON

Women all over the world are saying, "I'd like to have a kind, considerate, tall, handsome husband like Oil Wilson."

My own Beautiful Wife isn't one who's saying it. Furthermore the B.W. says the women who'd like to have me as a husband are single and would like to have ANY man as a husband.

Comedian Ronnie Graham, has a song about his domestic bliss, titled, "Say 'Hello'," which alleges that if you say "hello" to your wife every once in a while, or even "Hi," she'll be overjoyed with you.

When you're shaving and have lather all over your face, wake her up out of a sound sleep, crush her in your arms, say "Hello, there." It'll do wonders for your marriage.

The B.W. and I succeeded (so far) because she goes with me about everywhere but to the turkish bath. I decided when I began covering the glamor girls that she should accompany me. (She decided it the day before.)

Spending 5,001 Nights in Barrooms across the table from her, I discovered a charm, personality and genius for friendship I didn't suspect in 1936 when we went down to the Municipal Building on her lunch hour when she was making $22 a week and I was robbing 'em of $45.

Several thousand people she's met will testify that Rosemary Wilson, once of East St. Louis, Mo., Kansas City, Omaha and Wilkes-Barre, is one of the finest, brightest persons they've known.

And they never say it about me. Since I've kidded her so often in these pieces, I thought I should be serious once and confess my admiration for a wonderful woman.

(And THAT ought to get me off the hook for not getting her an anniversary present!)

FOLLOWING FATHER — Television and movie actress June Lockhart has a tough, illustrious trail to follow, that blazed by her actor father, the late Gene Lockhart. Unlike many sons and daughters of stars, June is proud of her theatrical heritage and determined to add luster to her famous family name.

In 1956, for example, she trailed along after the campaign trains of President Eisenhower, Adlai Stevenson and Vice President Nixon—just to see how politics worked.

She plans to do the same thing during next year's California gubernatoral campaign and already has made arrangements to follow Sen. William F. Knowland and his Democratic foe, Edmund G. Brown, on their rounds.

An avid reader, June packs a stack of magazines with her to work—"I want to have something to occupy me during the breaks"—and sprinkles her conversations liberally with the query, "Have you read so and so?"

For the benefit of anyone who hasn't, she dives into her 20-pound purse and produces the article in question for immediate perusal.

First Child Born Since Tragedy Said Doing Fine

SIGOURNEY, Iowa (AP) — Myron Richard Hammes, 1 day old, is going to get a lot of spoiling from his daddy.

The infant is the first child born to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hammes since a train-auto collision Oct. 25, 1956, in which all eight of their children were fatally injured.

Mrs. Hammes, 39, and the baby were "doing fine," said the 47-year-old father.

Myron Richard weighed 10 pounds 2 ounces.

The father stood at the Sigourney Hospital nursery window and looked at the infant. A nurse joked with him about being over-indulgent and he laughed when she said, "I guess you'll sure spoil him now."

"I'm pretty good at that," Hammes said.

Turning away from the window, he said a bit sadly, "We've had a pretty dull life for a year."

Mrs. Hammes was visited by two Roman Catholic nuns who told her, "We've been doing a lot of praying for you."

Mrs. Hammes was driving the family automobile when it collided with a Rock Island Railroad freight train at a crossing.

Pushcart Market Era in New York May Be Ending

NEW YORK (AP) — Open-air pushcart markets—a picturesque facet of the New York street scene for about 80 years — may soon become only a memory like the cigar store Indian and trolley cars.

Markets Commissioner Anthony Masciarelli said yesterday he plans to recommend to Mayor Robert F. Wagner that they be ended.

Costs of inspection and supervision are double the revenue to the city.

There are now eight markets — five in Brooklyn and three in Manhattan.

Masciarelli noted that the pushcoat market is outdated. It once was difficult for housewives in some low-income areas to get to retail stores. But supermarkets and retail stores are everywhere now.

Actress Faces Sentence

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Marguerite Chapman, 40, has been convicted of driving while drunk. She will be sentenced Feb. 10.

Reveres Talent of Father Gene

TV and Movie Actress Was Given Assurance by Late Actor

By CHARLES DENTON

HOLLYWOOD (INS)—June Lockhart, one of the liveliest of "live" television players, has a tough act to follow.

The same can be said, of course, for any would-be actor or actress who attempts to follow in the footsteps of an illustrious parent.

Many such cases wind up with the child mortally stricken with pangs of inferiority.

Indeed, the practice of assuming a stage name to avoid assuming the responsibility of a famous family monicker has become almost standard procedure in Hollywood.

But Miss Lockhart reveres her name, suffers from no inferiority complexes and could write nothing less than a ringing tribute to her dad, the late Gene Lockhart, a talent of monumental proportions.

In fact, her lower lip trembles and her wide blue eyes grow misty at the recollection of Lockhart—actor, composer, writer, producer, director and holder of virtually every other title in show business.

CERTAIN OF TALENT

One reason for this reverence, no doubt, is June's assurance that her father would have saved her from the tribulations of his profession if he had not been certain she had the talent and moxie to deal with them.

"Dad was a severe critic," she recalls softly. "He would have told me if he hadn't thought I had what it took. He'd have said, 'Honey, you have no talent. Get out of the business!' "

To this day, June isn't entirely sure she would have sought a theatrical career had it not been for her father and mother, an actress and musical comedy star.

"I don't know," she says doubtfully. "I honestly don't. Acting is very exciting, of course, but I was very interested in merchandising at one time—selling.

"And I've always been interested in writing. I once worked for Guideposts magazine for a year just for the experience. I wanted to see how a magazine was published."

MAJOR OCCUPATIONS

Although June regards acting and motherhood—she has two small daughters—as her major occupa-

Reports Barbara Burns in Sanatorium for Aid

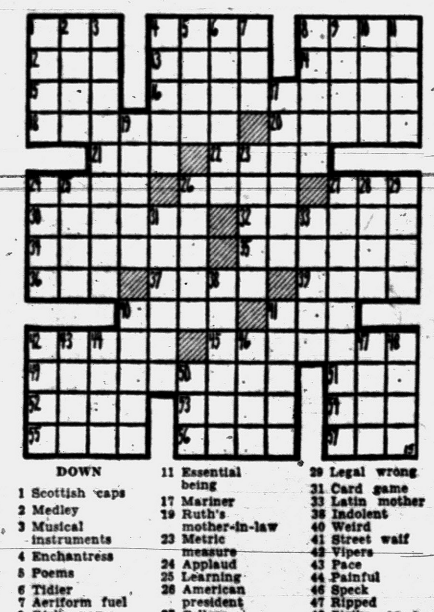

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Counsel for Barbara Burns, 19-year-old daughter of the late comedian Bob Burns, says she is in a sanatorium for treatment of drug addiction.

The attorney, Harry Weiss, so informed Superior Court yesterday when Miss Burns did not appear for a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus, by means of which she was released from jail 10 days ago. Miss Burns had been arrested on a charge of illegal use of drugs.

Judge Maurice C. Sparling reset her appearance for Feb. 18.

The most widely used method of artificial respiration was devised in 1903.

'Eyewitness to Death' . . . by Agatha Christie

Copyright 1957

THE STORY SO FAR: A blind in a train passing hers snaps up and respectable Mrs. McGillicuddy on a prosaic trip to visit her friend, Miss Marple, fluttery old woman with a shrewd brain and a gift for solving crimes, sees a man strangling a woman. When she tells the conductor, he puts it down to her imagination. Miss Marple obtains a large scale map and makes several trips over Mrs. McGillicuddy's route. Too old for physical effort, she writes to Lucy Eyelesbarrow, brilliant young woman who has made for herself a unique profession—taking temporary charge of households and running them like magic. Miss Marple figures the body must have been thrown out as the train passed a neglected park of Rutherford Hall, built by Mr. Crackenthorpe, a rich manufacturer. Lucy gets herself employed at Rutherford Hall by Emma, Crackenthorpe's daughter, and Miss Marple is installed in the neighborhood, posing as Lucy's aunt. On pretense of playing golf, Lucy searches for the body. She finds a piece of fur on a bush below the railroad tracks. Alexander Eastley, Emma's nephew, and his friend, James Stoddart-West visit the Crackenthorpes and show Lucy a barn that houses a sarcophagus. Lucy pries it open and finds the body of a murdered woman. None of the family can identify the corpse. Evidently the woman was a foreigner.

CHAPTER 12

Harold was the perfect picture of a city gentleman and a director of important companies. He was tall with a neat, erect carriage, had dark hair going slightly baid on the temples, a small black mustache, and was impeccably dressed in a dark well cut suit and a pearl gray tie. He looked what he was, a shrewd and successful business man.

He now said stiffly:

"Really, Cedric, that seems a most uncalled for remark."

"Don't see why? She was in our barn after all. What did she come there for?"

Mr. Wimborne coughed and said:

"Possibly some — er — assignation. I understand that it was a matter of local knowledge that the key was kept outside on a nail."

His tone indicated outrage at the carelessness of such procedure. So clearly marked was this that Emma spoke apologetically.

"It started during the war. For the A. R. P. wardens. There was a little spirit stove and they made themselves hot cocoa. And afterwards, since there was really nothing there anybody could have wanted to take, we went on leaving the key hanging up. It was convenient for the Women's Institute people. If we'd kept it in the house, it might have been awkward, when there was no one at home to give it to them when they wanted it to get the place ready. With only daily women and no resident servants . . ."

TRAILS AWAY

Her voice trailed away. She had spoken mechanically, giving a wordy explanation without interest, as though her mind was elsewhere.

Cedric gave her a quick puzzled glance.

'You're worried, sis. What's up?"

Harold spoke with exasperation: "Really, Cedric, can you ask?"

"Yes, I do ask. Granted a strange young woman has got herself killed in the barn at Rutherford Hall (sounds like a Victorian melodrama) and granted it gave Emma a shock at the time — but Emma's always been a sensible girl — I don't see why she goes on being worried now. Dash it, one gets used to everything."

"Murder takes a little more getting used to by some people than it may in your case," said Harold acidly. "I daresay murders are two a penny in Majorca and—"

"It's not Majorca."

"Not at all — it's quite a different island."

Harold went on talking:

"My point is that though murder may be an everyday commonplace to you, living amongst hot-blooded Latin people, nevertheless, in England we take such things seriously." He added with increasing irritation, "And really, Cedric, to appear at a public inquest in those clothes."

"What's wrong with my clothes? They're comfortable."

"They're unsuitable."

'Well, anyway, they're the only clothes I've got with me. I didn't pack my wardrobe trunk when I came rushing home to stand in with the family over this business. I'm a painter and painters like to be comfortable in their clothes."

"So you're still trying to paint?"

"Look here, Harold when you say «trying to paint."

Mr. Wimborne cleared his throat in an authoritative manner.

"This discussion is unprofitable," he said reprovingly. "I hope, my dear Emma, that you will tell me if there is any further way in which I can be of service to you before I return to town?"

The reproof had its effect. Emma Crackenthorpe said quickly:

"It was most kind of you to come down."

"Not at all. It was advisable that someone should be at the inquest to watch the proceedings on behalf of the family. I have arranged for an interview with the inspector at the house. I have no doubt that, distressing as all this has been, the situation will soon be clarified. In my own mind, there seems little doubt as to what occurred. As Emma has told us, the key of the Long Barn was known locally to hang outside the door. It seems highly probable that the place was used in the winter months as a place of assignation by local couples. No doubt there was a quarrel and some young man lost his head. Horrified at what he had done, his eye lit on the sarcophagus and he realized that it would make an excellent pace of concealment."

Lucy thought to herself, "Yes, it sounds most plausible. That's just what one might think."

Cedric said, "You say a local couple — but nobody's been able to identify the girl locally."

"It's early days yet. No doubt we shall get an identification before long. And it is possible, of course, that the man in question was a local resident, but that the girl came from elsewhere, perhaps from some other part of Brackhampton. Brackhampton's a big place — it's grown enormously in the last twenty years."

"If I were a girl coming to meet my young man, I'd not stand for being taken to a freezing cold barn miles from anywhere," Cedric objected. "I'd stand out for a nice bit of cuddle in the cinema, wouldn't you, Miss Eyelesbarrow?"

"Do we need to go into all this?" Harold demanded plantively.

And with the voicing of the question the car drew up before the front door of Rutherford Hall and they all got out.

On entering the library, Mr. Wimborne blinked a little as his shrewd old eyes went past Inspector Bacon whom he had already met, to the fair-haired, good-looking man beyond him.

Inspector Bacon performed introductions.

"This is Detective Inspector Craddock of New Scotland Yard," he said.

"New Scotland Yard-hm." Mr. Wimborne's eyebrows rose.

Dermot Craddock, who had a pleasant manner, went easily into speech.

"We have been called in on the case, Mr. Wimborne," he said. "As you are representing the Crackenthorpe family, I feel it is only fair that we should give you a little confidential information."

Nobody could make a better show of presenting a very small portion of the truth and implying that it was the whole truth than young Inspector Craddock.

"Inspector Bacon will agree, I am sure," he added, glancing at his colleague.

Inspector Bacon agreed with all due solemnity and not at all as though the whole matter were prearranged.

"It's like this," said Craddock. "We have reason to believe, from information that has come into our possession, that the dead woman is not a native of these parts, that she actually traveled down here from London and that she had recently come from abroad. Probably, (though we are not sure of that) from France."

Mr. Winborne again raised his eyebrows.

"Indeed," he said. "Indeed?"

"That being the case," explained Inspector Bacon, "the Chief Constable felt that the Yard were better fitted to investigate the matter."

"I can only hope," said Mr. Wimborne, "that the case will be solved quickly. As you can no doubt appreciate, the whole business has been a source of much distress to the family. Although not personally concerned in any way, they are —"

He paused for a bare second, but Inspector Craddock filled the gap quickly.

"It's not a pleasant thing to find a murdered woman on your property. I couldn't agree with you more."

Federal CD Approves Aid to Pontiac for Police Radio

The Federal Civil Defense Administration has approved financial aid to provide more radio equipment for Pontiac Police Department vehicles as a civil defense measure.

City Manager Walter K. Willman was informed today by L. A. Dark, chief of technical services for the Michigan Office of Civil Defense in Lansing that an application for $2,261 in federal aid has been approved.

The money represents half the estimated cost of four new motorcycle radio units and five patrol car mobile transmitter and receiver units.

The city will pay the other half of the cost.

Pontiac applied for the aid last October, on the ground that radio communication would be vital in a civil defense emergency.

However, the city also will benefit on an every day basis, said assistant City Manager Robert A. Stierer, since the radios will be used in new vehicles not otherwise equipped with them.

Oregon had the fifth largest percentage increase in population from 1940 to 1950, according to census figures.
