Celebrities to Attend Dance to Boost School Torch Fund

From Our Birmingham Bureau
BIRMINGHAM — Over at Birmingham High School this Friday night there'll be a dance after the football game—normally not too unusual a procedure.

Only this time the kids, on their own hook, have come up with a money-making scheme to benefit this area's Torch Drive goal of $185,338.

They've doubled the price of the usual 25 cents admission fee, with proceeds going into the school fund for the United Foundation.

Along with securing the dance band of Dave Farley, they've latched on to such celebrities as Helen Hartick, Miss Photoflash of 1954; Wally Burkhart, the PGA golf champion; the local Arthur Murray dancers, who will perform; and Warren Michael Kelly, Detroit television personality.

These people along with some of the top UF workers, will be on hand at the dance immediately following the 8 p.m. game, when Birmingham takes on East Detroit.

All this the teenagers have arranged themselves. This spontaneous reaction seemed to filter through the school as soon as the dates of the Torch Drive were announced, according to Mrs. Monzelle Clark, radio and dramatic teacher and advisor for the school's Pep Club.

Sparked by the Pep Club, the other social clubs soon joined forces in planning a dance that would attract the attention not only of the students, but adults as well.

News stories are constantly relating the misdeeds of "juvenile delinquents," a phrase more than distasteful to most of Birmingham's younger generation.

"There are always a few who spoil the reputation of others, but why is it that the good things we do go unmentioned?" is the cry of many of the youngsters.

Now, here's a case in point to boost out their feelings. Only this time it isn't recognition that's wanted as much as help.

Wolcott Gibbs' sophisticated comedy, "Season in the Sun," has been selected by the Village Playhouse as its first play of the season, with performances scheduled for 9 p.m. at the Village Playhouse tomorrow and Saturday night and the following weekend.

Spiced with a collection of odd characters whose antics add up to an evening of strictly adult entertainment, Gibbs' play has the unmistakable flavor of the sophisticated "New Yorker" magazine, for which he has long been drama critic.

Tickets may be obtained at the door.

Robert G. Hartwell, director of nuclear power development for the Detroit Edison Co., will be the guest speaker at the First Presbyterian Church Men's Club dinner at 6:45 tonight. Hartwell worked on the "Nautilus," only atomic submarine in the world.

The annual Pierce School PTA Fair, the PTA's only money-making venture of the year, will provide a full evening of entertainment for Pierce families from 4 to 9 p.m. tomorrow. Tickets will be available for dinner, which will be served in the cafeteria at 5, 6 and 7 p.m. In addition a snack bar will be open.

Highlight of the evening will be a comedy variety show, when a tramp clown, a pair of comic jugglers and an acrobatic team will entertain. A fortune teller and Bone the Clown, a weight guesser, are to be among the occupants of the many booths.

Mrs. Joseph Hengelmann, mother vice-president is chairman of the event. Because paving on Pierce street has not yet been completed, parents will be notified where to park.

The Altar Society of Our Lady Queen of Martyrs Church, on Pierce street south of 14 Mile road, will sponsor a rummage sale in the social hall of the church

A Saturday morning program of crafts, group games and play groups for boys and girls from 8 to 14 years of age is again being offered by the YMCA. Youngsters may register for the classes, to be held on the hour from 9 a.m. to noon.

Groups will be out of doors when weather permits. Play groups will be conducted by Kingswood School students and Paul Heins and Edwin Kierbert of the Y staff.

The Treblaires, a girl's barber shop quartet from Royal Oak will entertain at tonight's social meeting of the Business Women's Club. Dinner will be served at the Community House at 7, with the program to follow.

Co-chairmen of the October committee are Esther Mints and Helen Hawthorne. Co-workers are Mary Burnside, Louise Cobb, Marjorie Estes, Gertrude Fletcher, Ann Hoover and Laura Kurth.

Donald Leonard to Tour County

GOP Candidate for Governor Also to Attend Luncheon Here

Republican candidate for governor, Donald S. Leonard, will address a noon luncheon gathering in the Elks Temple here Oct. 29, according to Ben Jerome Jr., Leonard's county election chairman.

The day has been designated "Leonard for Governor Day" in the county by area Republicans, said Jerome.

"Leonard will make a major speech here," Jerome stated, "as the campaign nears its peak three days before election."

The candidate will arrive in the morning and make several other appearances in the county up to 9:30 p.m.

Ernest Mathwaite, candidate for state representative from Pontiac, will introduce Leonard with other state and county candidates at the Elks luncheon starting at noon and ending at 1:30 p.m.

Tickets are available at Roy Annett, Inc., 28 E. Huron St.

Eighth Sheppard Jury Member Is Selected

els here from California about the fact that she had been intimate with Sam Sheppard. If you read that quotation by Miss Hayes, would that cause you to become prejudiced?"

Mrs. Feuchler replied, "No."

Later, Corrigan tried the same line of questioning with another prospective juror and was halted by the judge.

Corrigan was outraged. He whirled to face the judge and shouted at the top of his voice:

"I know they're going to bring Susan Hayes into this courtroom. I know what evidence they have. I know how Susan Hayes has been blasted in the papers."

The blowup came after Corrigan asked Melvin C. Holliday whether "the fact that he (Dr. Sheppard) had any affairs with another woman would bias or prejudice you in this case?"

Prosecutor John J. Mahon objected, and Judge Blythin sustained him on grounds that Miss Hayes was not an issue at this time.

Corrigan refused to ask any more questions and Judge Blythin seated Holliday as the sixth juror. A seventh, Mrs. Anna W. Foote, was also seated.

and grouping Britain, France, the Benelux countries, West Germany and Italy, is designed as a framework for West German rearmament within the NATO structure. Canada and the United States are in the role of guarantor nations.

The parity is considering measures to supervise and control German rearmament under such a pact. West German and other sources predicted quick agreement before nightfall.

The French-German dispute on the Saar appeared the only major hurdle in the tight ministerial schedule.

'Socialism' Aim of Dems—Nixon

Truman Administration Wanted to Boost Debt Sky-High, Says Veep

CHICAGO (U)—The Truman administration, says Vice President Nixon, had prepared "a virtual blueprint for socializing America" when the Eisenhower administration took office in 1953.

The blueprint, Nixon said in an address last night, would have added "40 billion dollars to the national debt between 1952 and 1956."

He said it called for socializing medicine, housing, agriculture, water and power, "but most disturbing of all, socializing of America's greatest source of power—atomic energy."

"We found the proof that this was the case when we came to Washington on Jan. 20, 1953," he said.

He said if the blueprint found "in the files" had been carried out it "would have led the nation straight down the road our British friends have taken—to socialism."

He said the Eisenhower philosophy "simply and bluntly... rejects socialism as an effective answer to our economic need."

It is a philosophy, he said, that believes that the government should promote "solid wealth-creating activities" and that "government activity should not be one of the leaf-raking, boondoggling, make-work type of the '30s."

He said the Eisenhower administration activities "not only stimulate greater production but avoid recession." He cited "the biggest highway program in history, the greatest housing program and the greatest public works program, including such projects as the St. Lawrence seaway."

5 Die First 2 Days of Hunting Season hunting near his Tuscola County home.

Joseph Ziomak, 70, a farmer, collapsed and died of a heart attack after chasing pheasant hunters out of his soybean field near Owosso.

Seven were wounded in hunting accidents around Bad Axe in the Michigan thumb. Another five were wounded in the Flint area.

Two Oakland County residents were among hunters suffering gunshot wounds on the opening day. Raymond Bromley, 36, of Oxford, and Robert Ross, 11, of Huntington Woods, were both wounded while hunting near Bad Axe.

Others wounded included: Julius Hessler, 43, Bach; his son Kenneth, 9; Norbert Haag, 19, Sebawaing; Richard Krueger, 30, Middletown, Ohio; and William O'Connor, 21, Caseville.

Weather for the opening day army of nimrods was practically ideal. Conservation department officers reported hunters were taking pheasants in most areas and limit bags were the rule rather than the exception.

The record opening day participation was achieved despite a mid-week start of the season.

The estimated 300,000 hunters were almost all in place when the season opened at 10 a.m. Another wave of afterwork hunters took to the fields around 5 p.m.

Conservation officers predicted up to half-a-million hunters will be stalking pheasants and other small game in the lower peninsula before the weekend is over.

Hunters reported cool temperatures, sunny skies and just enough moisture on the ground to permit dogs to work effectively.

Fine 2 From Ferndale on Alcohol Charges

BIRMINGHAM—Pleading guilty to a charge of possession of an alcoholic beverage by a minor, Thomas L. Hartsock, 18, of Ferndale, paid $15 costs and was placed on six months probation by Justice John J. Gaffill yesterday.

Melvyn K. Zamba, 22, also of Ferndale, pleaded guilty to a charge of furnishing an alcoholic beverage to minors and paid a $15 fine plus $10 costs.

The two were arrested by police on Monday. Several bottles of beer were found in their car. A 16-year-old boy found with them has been turned over to the juvenile division of the police department.

Railroad Curve Is Set Aglow by 6,000 Bulbs

ALTOONA, Pa. (U)—The world-famed Horseshoe Curve of the Pennsylvania Railroad was lit up last night by 6,000 flash bulbs set off simultaneously in an experiment of photoflash picture taking.

The light was estimated to be greater than the power of 15 million ordinary household electric lamps.

The experiment highlighted two industry celebrations: the 100th anniversary of the Horseshoe Curve and the 75th anniversary of the modern incandescent lamp. The PRR and the Sylvania Electric Products Co. cooperated in the project.

Photographers took pictures from towers set up for the purpose. Three generators provided power to set off the flash bulbs, mounted on stakes around the curve.

Although most people picture jade as leafy green, it ranges from white to spinach. There is a white variety, chloromelanite, and occasionally yellow, blood red, or mauve pieces are found.

ports as has been done in previous major dock tieups.

A government board of inquiry, which began investigating the dispute yesterday, is expected to continue hearings until Saturday. The government likely will wait until the inquiry ends before ordering out troops.

Strike leaders apparently believed the government soon would send troops into the docks. They planned to counter such a move by asking truck drivers not to transport goods unloaded by soldiers.

Because of the Southampton tie-up the liner United States ended its voyage at the French port of Le Havre. It does not plan to call at Southampton before proceeding to New York.

More than 400 passengers aboard the United States debarked at Le Havre and were taken to Southampton in a channel steamer. Their heavy baggage was being flown across the channel in planes chartered by the United States lines.

The same procedure in reverse will be used to get 400 passengers aboard the ship on the French side.

To Eliminate Oil Drums as Refuse Containers

DETROIT (INS) — A special sanitation committee announced today that it plans to eliminate the use of oil drums as garbage and rubbish containers in Detroit during the next 18 months.

Officials said citizens will be notified individually of the deadline in their neighborhood, after which the oil drums will be confiscated by DPW crews.

Andrew T. Dempster, a Health Department representative, pointed out that oil drums are not sanitary because openings at the top and sides permit rats and flies to enter, feed and breed.

He added that burning rubbish in oil drums produces excessive smoke and odors, and because of their weight they can not be dumped directly into DPW trucks.

Pennsylvanian Is Elected President of Auto Group

DETROIT (INS) — Andrew J. Sordani, a Wilkes-Barre, Pa., industrialist, today was elected president of the American Automobile Association at the final session of the AAA's 52nd annual meeting in Detroit.

Sordani succeeds Ralph Thomas, of Detroit, who headed the 4,500,000-member organization for the last two years. Delegates also elected Harry L. Kirk, of Chicago, to the office of senior vice president, succeeding Sordani.

Police Returning Two Runaways to Ionia

IONIA (UP)—Ionia Reformatory officials said today two trustees were being returned from Joliet, Ill., to face additional terms for escape.

Officials said Gerald Berger,

Center Line, and Marquis Dunbar, Adrian, gave themselves up at Joliet Wednesday afternoon. They escaped from an outside trusty detail at the reformatory Oct. 13 after tying up a carpenter.

First printing press in America was set up at Cambridge, Mass.

Those New Pontiacs

Boys and girls, the new Pontiacs are terrific.

They're tremendous.

Pontiac should be the "hot" car of the year. In fact, General Manager ROBERT M. CRITCHFIELD is predicting sales of 450,000 of the 1955 model.

Thus far this year, approximately 290,000 cars have been produced with two and a fraction months yet to go. Thus it would appear that Pontiac is planning to produce approximately thirty per cent more automobiles in the year ahead.

THIS IS BIG NEWS.

Every man, woman and child in this city can rejoice. We can take up the small slack that we've experienced in industrial employment. A year ago, Pontiac had four defense jobs and three of these have been completed or canceled. The resulting lack of work should be completely compensated by the automobile increase.

The new cars are marvelous. The straight eight motor has given way to a completely new V-eight. This is a tremendous step. According to plant officials, the new motor has had the most thorough and exhaustive tests and they have no hesitation in pronouncing it one of the greatest motors in the industry. Some say it ranks first. All who have seen it perform are fired with enthusiasm. The horsepower is stepped up by a substantial margin and when you tromp down on the accelerator, the thing jumps away like a frightened rabbit.

Mr. CRITCHFIELD and his associates are very optimistic over the prospects ahead. They are imbued with confidence as they never have been before. This is apparent from speaking with any of them.

Pontiac dealers from coast to coast have seen the new models.

THEY'RE REALLY STEAMED UP. And remember, Pontiac has had many marvelous years and has built a steady line of wonderful automobiles. These dealers have been taught to expect something extraordinary. Well, they have it.

These cars exceed all their expectations. Even when the current defense contract ends, the motor division should go a long way toward absorbing the employees involved. Only seven per cent of the total force is working on Government business now.

Pontiac—the city and the automobile—experienced a reasonably good year in 1954. It wasn't a record breaker, but you can't break records every year. At least no one has up to now.

But mark you, the 1955 Pontiac is a pretty wonderful thing. America will go for it. (We've ordered ours, already.)

Nehru the Inscrutable

India's Prime Minister NEHRU is a baffling personality.

Perhaps more than any other contemporary statesman, the motives and actions of Gandhi's successor as head of the Congress Party, puzzles Americans.

For that reason his latest pronouncement that he desires to retire temporarily from his high office to get a fresh view, point, isn't too surprising. Although he is only 64, NEHRU admits being tired, but reportedly has made it clear he plans no permanent retirement.

This has led to the opinion in some quarters that the Prime Minister is sending up a trial balloon in the hope that there will be an overwhelming demand for him to seek re-election. Another version is that he really does desire to turn over his political burdens to younger, fresher men.

Whatever the case, there will be widespread agreement in this country about one thing. A rest for the leader who hasn't been able yet to take a firm stand against Communism would be good for India and the Western world.

Belgium Bets on Peace

The people of Belgium are laying a $200,000,000 wager that peace will continue for at least four years.

That certainly is the meaning of their decision to hold an international exposition at Brussels in 1958. Baron MORNAUX, former minister of foreign trade, will direct all preparations for the fair.

The $200,000,000 will be used to erect exposition buildings, construct roads, parking areas, hotels, motels and trailer camps. All told 21,000,000 are expected to visit the fair grounds on the Heyzel Plateau, four and one-half miles north of downtown Brussels.

Already advance notice of the project has gone out to the 56 countries with which Belgium maintains diplomatic relations. These Nations are invited to send exhibits. In addition several international organizations have been invited and special exhibits are planned for the Halls of World Co-operation, of Science and of Arts.

The Man About Town

Complaints Due

Some Hunters Not Showing Respect for Property

Television: The juvenile delinquent of the city.

The bird season had been open less than an hour Wednesday when reports were phoned in about hunters trespassing on private and posted grounds without permission, which is contrary to law. It appears that some hunters do not abide by the good sportsman's axiom.

"Ask the Farmer First," and thus get into trouble. In this connection, President of the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club, Jerry Woollever, says our hunters would get a more cordial greeting from the farmers if they'd do things to cultivate a friendship at other times during the year than only when the hunting season arrives.

Within a few days after an item appeared in this column about political signs being nailed on trees with in the highway limits in Oakland County, which is contrary to law, practically all of them were torn down. Thanks.

Honors in the puff ball derby now rest with Arthur Millbrand of Oxford, who found a 20-pounder in the Draher Woods, near that village.

Bird hunting is so popular in Oakland County that some of our rural churches are serving special meals on specified days during the open season.

"Guess we treated them too well," phones Ransom Furell of Walled Lake, who gave some migrating wild geese a generous feeding—and they now refuse to leave, even chasing his chickens out of his poultry yard.

Surely going to town is a Rhode Island Red hen in the flock of Mark Shoemaker of Lakeville, who lives a half mile from the business section. She's immediately on hand when the family car starts out, and rides the bumper down town and back.

The champion javelin thrower of Germany in 1953,

Hanns Kristen, is living in Oakland County, an exchange student at Southfield High School.

A cock pheasant which has become quite domesticated around the home of

Supervisor Ransford Bromley Backs New Site; Says It Benefits the County

(Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.)

As Supervisor of Addison Township and one of the 25 members of the Board of Supervisors elected by the people, I wish to clarify any misunderstanding that may result from an Oct. 14 article in which W. S. Downes, discussing the courthouse system, said, "Under this present system the Board of Supervisors: Royal Oak, Ferndale, Hazel Park, Huntington Woods, Clawson and a few others in southern Oakland County."

During my seven years on the Board, I fail to remember one attempt by the so-called City Supervisors from southern Oakland County or elsewhere to use their large representation to force any issue which would not benefit the entire county.

Referring again to control of the Board by southern Oakland County Supervisors, Mr. Downes wrote, "These are the people who are fostering the new courthouse and who want to move it."

The County Clerk's official record of the Aug. 23 meeting reveals that 22 of the 23 "elected township supervisors" present voted to re-submit the 1½ mill question to the voters Nov. 2.

I strongly favor building a new county building on the Service Center site and I believe my view is shared by thousands who have familiarized themselves with the many advantages this site offers.

Finds Trying to Lift Others' Spirits Gratifying

Some time ago when I wasn't feeling well or just had a general case of plain laziness, I received a letter, well written but so depressing it cheered me up.

I got out of bed and answered the letter and I put all the cheerful good news in it that I could and mailed it. Result: I felt better than if I had taken any other prescription by mouth.

Soon a few cheerful letters came from the same person before I even had a chance to answer them.

When I am depressed I find reading the Bible helps me and we should appreciate the articles in the Saturday issues of the Press written by our religious leaders and perhaps even more the cartoons on the editorial page.

I was glad to read in the Press that the comic book publishers are forming an organization. I have read many comics to my children that quieted them down when no other "pain killers" would, and believe me I have yet to discover any comic book or cartoon that glorifies a criminal.

I still read good books to children and sometimes have to explain cartoons to them (especially the political one on the editorial page).

These boys, girls and adults, I hope will be looking forward to Walt Disney's cartoon programs beginning Oct. 27 on TV.

Husband Who Frets About His Health Loses Prestige in Wife's Estimation

Clarence is becoming sissy, for women don't like signs of fear in their men folk. A husband who frets unduly about his health thus loses prestige in his wife's estimation even though she may not be conscious of that fact. So live like a lion instead of a sheep.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
 Case M-346: Clarence T., aged 47, is a typical worrier about his health.

"Dr. Crane, I get so vexed at him," his wife informed me. "For he is always sprouting the symptoms of every disease described in the medical column of our newspaper."

"And Clarence keeps our medicine cabinet full of pills and tonics and vitamins and laxatives."

"If he doesn't have his bran for breakfast, he is sure he will be sick. It is getting on my nerves. Why should a grown man act so sissy and afraid of ill health?"

People who try to live without teaming up with God, get unduly scared. So they often try to substitute vitamin tablets and other tonics or laxatives as their medicinal deity.

Millions of Americans get their only morning exercise just jumping to erroneous conclusions about their health.

find some gas bubble or minor twinge which they immediately magnify into cancer or some other dire threat.

Then they become medical shoppers, for they go from one physician to another, determined to find a doctor who will agree with them in their negative attitude.

If a medic tells them they are OK, they consider him incompetent, and consult another and still another until some physician recognizes them as simply neurotic, and gives them a colored sugar pill to relieve their minds.

Millions of Americans now clutter medical offices and jam our hospitals to overflowing, need-

Mentally, they take a physical examination each morning and probe their hearts and lungs and gall bladder and stomach and liver and gizzard, etc.

Because of such preoccupation with their "innards," it is only natural that they will ultimately

It is partly an offshoot of this scientific age where people are acutely aware of heart ailments and cancer. But it is also an indication that people don't have enough wholesome outside interests.

And it generally means lack of partnership with God. So quit being a sissy male.

Men aren't supposed to fret unduly about health or pamper their colons and discuss their "operation." That is feminine stuff.

Get a medical check-up once per year. Then let your physician worry for you. That's why you pay him. Meanwhile, enjoy life.

Live like a lion instead of a panicky sheep.

(Copyright, Hopkins Syndicate Inc.)

These doctors who call an illness "just a bad cold" until the nature of the illness becomes obvious feel perfectly secure because only a few "nuts" know better.

I have been engaged too long trying to teach you knuckleheads the nature and cause of three-fourths of your everyday ills, to expect to embarrass the busy practitioners who call em "colds."

But I keep hammering away at it because, every once or twice in a while, I get letters from former knuckleheads who have learned to call it CRI. They thank me for the better health they have enjoyed doctors who use the "cold" bokum to string customers along without a diagnosis prefer to keep the nonsensical notion just so—vague and subject to change to suit the charlatans' requirements.

These doctors who call an illness "just a bad cold" until the nature of the illness becomes obvious feel perfectly secure because only a few "nuts" know better.

We modern human beings are the healthiest group in the entire history of mankind, yet we worry the most about our innards.

That's partly due to excessive advertising of patent medicines and vitamins.

David Lawrence Says:

GOP Deserves to Win-- It Prevented Depression

WASHINGTON—This is the election that the Republicans deserved to win. But, if the reports from far and wide are to be credited, this is the election they are going to lose.

A highly placed Republican in the Eisenhower administration said privately to this writer the other day: "If the Democrats get control of Congress, it will not be because they won the election but because the Republicans lost it."

The distinction goes to the heart of present-day political customs and practices.

For the American people have not yet been told why they should be grateful to the Republican administration at Washington, and it may be wondered whether down at the grass roots there will be adequate organization work done between now and election day to get the simple truth to the voters.

That truth is best expressed by this statement: The American people were saved from the worst economic crash in history when the ending of the Korean War forced a curtailment of government expenditures and started a downward spiral of unemployment.

Timely measures prevented the unemployment rolls from reaching more than about 5 per cent. This is a relatively low figure.

It is true that there are 3,100,000 unemployed in America now, but there were close to 9,000,000 in 1934 when the Roosevelt administration succeeded in winning the biggest majority in Congress that the Democratic Party ever had.

What the unemployed today may not realize is that their best chance for employment is in the steady building of a stable economy.

What the 9,000,000 who are employed do not realize is that the 3,100,000 figure of "unemployed" would have grown substantially larger if the Eisenhower administration had not taken prompt measures to steady the national economy and cushion the shock that came with the ending of the Korean War.

Never has so much been done in such a short time to avert a major depression. European statesmen who are detached from American politics privately sing the praises of the Eisenhower administration and say it has averted a worldwide economic disaster that could have given the Communists a bigger chance than ever before to penetrate the countries of the free world.

Take the highly emotional issue of peace or war. In 1953 the nation was troubled not so much by the number actually engaged in Korea but by the potential numbers about to be drafted for a prolonged war.

The Eisenhower administration has reduced the draft calls and has pledged that it will not go into more wars without the consent of the people's agents—the Congress of the United States.

An important campaign was won in 1916 by the Democrats on the issue of peace. Today peace is as deeply emotional an issue as it ever was, but one hears little about it on the stump and in the precincts where the voters are soon to be mobilized.

Take the question of Communism in government. Vice President Nixon has just expressed it effectively in saying:

"We find that the issue in 1952 was not the issue of the relative loyalty of the Democrats and the Republicans. That was never the issue then—it is not the issue now. The issue was not the loyalty of those in high places. It was their blindness."

"There were a few men, unfortunately, in the previous administration who underestimated this Communist danger, and who covered it up when it was brought to their attention. They made the greatest error that an administration could make in this very important field. You know what it was. They failed to heed the warnings of J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI."

"Let me give you an example. Between 1939 and 1945, the FBI laid reports on the desks of top agencies in this government four different times regarding the members of the Hiss espionage ring. Four times those reports were pigeonholed. Four times the people that were named in them, instead of being fired, were promoted. No wonder the American people lost confidence in the Truman administration's ability or will to deal with this problem."

But Mr. Nixon's is a single voice. That's what all the Republican speakers should have been talking about for months. Apart from Korea and communism, the big issue in 1952 was corruption. The housing scandals since revealed are the most shocking in American history. But the Republicans have not put the responsibility for this where it belongs—on the Democratic Congress which passed the loose laws and the Truman regime which administered these laws even more loosely than they were written.

The Republicans have an excellent case, politically speaking, while the Democrats have defensively very little to offer. Then why aren't the Republicans winning? That's a good question and maybe in the next few days the Republicans will be posing it to themselves from the White House down to the precinct workers and perhaps they will be presenting their case more forcefully than they have in the past several months.

Baering Down

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

(International News Service)

We'll do all correct in international dib-dabs just as soon as we fit the action to the deed, the wish to the thought and the shoe to the bunion.

We have knocked off cups de grease and strokes of state in a monotonous string of victorious stalemates. But we never fit the label to the bottle.

We got a Mexican stand-off in Korea, made a Dutch book in Indochina and took French leave in Italian Trieste.

We walked Spanish in Egypt, were Indian givers in Spain, talked Turkey in France and got in Baden-Baden in Worsen-Worsen.

Our long views never did see what was around the corner. Our snap judgment lacked a bite.

We used paper-backs in Morocco, whirled fanti-clockwise with the stationary dervishes and milked sacred cows in India. But we managed to poke the sticks in the right cages.

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

He delivered me from my strong enemy, and from them that hated me: for they were too strong for me.

Common Respiratory Infections Supply Doctors With 75 Per Cent of Practice

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

I doubt that any physician of standing will assert over his or her signature that "exposure" to cold, wet, dampness, draft, change of weather or insufficient clothing is the cause of any specific disease or illness.

No, my dear knuckleheads, the doctors who use the "cold" bokum to string customers along without a diagnosis prefer to keep the nonsensical notion just so—vague and subject to change to suit the charlatans' requirements.

These doctors who call an illness "just a bad cold" until the nature of the illness becomes obvious feel perfectly secure because only a few "nuts" know better.

I have been engaged too long trying to teach you knuckleheads the nature and cause of three-fourths of your everyday ills, to expect to embarrass the busy practitioners who call em "colds."

since they quit passing their common respiratory infections around.

Now, if you're not too indignant about being called knucklehead, you may learn something to the advantage of your family's health by studying Little Lesson No. 5, Call it CRI, for which send 25 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

By "three-fourths of your everyday ills" I mean the ills attended by physicians. If we included the complaints you knuckleheads doctor yourselves or dope with whatever nostrum Tom, Dick or Harry recommends, the fraction would be larger.

These illnesses, the Common Respiratory (accent the spy) Infections (CRI, pronounced kree, for short) include pneumonia, acute bronchitis, tonsillitis, pharyngitis, laryngitis, coryza, acute sinusitis, whooping-cough, measles, scarlet fever, diphtheria, infantile paralysis, cerebro-spinal meningitis, influenza, pleurisy, empyema, mumps, German measles, acute otitis media and sometimes such sequels as mastoiditis, rheumatic fever and appendicitis. These give doctors about three-fourths of their practice—medical, surgical or special.

This is not just my offhand guess. It is the conclusion drawn from surveys made in several urban and rural areas by officers of the United States Public Health Service some 25 years ago.

To the best of our knowledge all of the illnesses listed as common respiratory infections have this in common: They are spread from person to person by droplet infection—the germ or virus is carried in the moisture droplets of mouth spray given off when the carrier coughs, sneezes or talks. The spray may be visible or invisible and impalpable fine, impalpable, cannot be felt.

Now I hope you will worry a little more about getting within spray range of the open-face cougher or sneezer (10 to 12 feet) or the polite talker (less than 5 feet), particularly when or if the so-and-so purports to have a you know what, don't you, knuck?

Signed letters, not more than one page or 10 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

Harvest Festival Plans Are Made at Bagley School

Parents, teachers and students are working together to produce Bagley School's Harvest Festival, to be held Friday evening from 5:30 until 8:30 at the school.

There will be many activities and booths to provide a gala time for those who attend.

Some of these include the country store, Bagley bakery, white elephant sale, movies, sidewalk games and blind boxing contest. Varied refreshments will be on sale.

Mrs. Clarence Montgomery is festival chairman and the proceeds will be used to carry on the program of the PTA.

Wants Lid Clamped on Liquor Inventory

LANSING (U-P) — Aud. Gen. John B. Martin recommended today that the Legislature put a lid on the State Liquor Control Commission's inventory of intoxicants.

In his annual report of audits of state agencies during the past year, Martin said there is an "unnecessary and unwarranted fluctuation" in the state's general fund because of changes in the liquor inventory.

A belated shift in liquor commission bookkeeping recently boosted the state's surplus from $3,700,000 to $5,800,000.

Coalition Government Takes Over in Finland

HELSINKI, Finland (U-P) — Finland had a new coalition government of Socialists and Agrarian party members today. All but four of the ministers were in the previous Cabinet.

Formed by Premier Urho Kekkonen, the new government was approved last night by President Jho Paasikivi. It was Finland's 15th postwar cabinet.

The new administration replaces the Cabinet of ex-Premier Ralf Toorngren, who resigned last Thursday in a dispute between Socialists and Agrarians over price reductions of agricultural products.

U.S. May Boost Aid to Pakistan

Premier Ali Believed to Have Won Promise While in America

WASHINGTON (U-P) — Prime Minister Mohammed Ali of Pakistan heads home today to shore up his own political position—apparently taking with him a pledge of increased American aid for his country.

Present U.S. military and economic assistance to Pakistan, a strategic country in the East-West chain of anti-Communist alliances, amounts to about 52 million dollars a year.

Ali was reported to have won American agreement to increase this by possibly 50 per cent or more.

Ali had planned to leave Washington today for a two-day visit in Canada. But he called off that trip yesterday, so as to get back home two days earlier than his previous schedule.

Authorities said the unstable political situation at Karachi undoubtedly was back of this unusual change in plans.

They said emphasis in the talks here has been on building up economic assistance to Pakistan. It has been running this year at a rate of 27 million dollars compared with about 23 million in the fiscal year which ended last June 30. The current arms aid was unofficially reported at approximately 25 million. Indications were that these totals would probably be boosted to above 40 million dollars each.

Gold mines in South Africa, bored a mile or more deep, would be unworkable without air conditioning.

No Fouls as Yet in 435 Campaigns for House Seats

WASHINGTON (U-P) — The special committee to police the campaigns for 435 House seats this year made a surprising disclosure today: It has been given nothing to investigate—so far.

None of the approximately 1,000 candidates has yet bothered foul, officially, to the congressional group set up for such complaints.

Usually, the committee doesn't have to look for things to keep it busy. Candidates have blown the whistle on opponents with regularity in past years, generally well in advance of election day.

This year, too, cries of "dirty tactics" have been heard among the contestants, but not directed to the House investigators.

Teenager Unharmed in Fall Under Train

OLIVER SPRINGS, Tenn., (U-P) — A Louisville & Nashville locomotive and two cars passed over a 13-year-old high school freshman yesterday but she escaped serious injury. Patricia Duncan, on her way from a school building to the lunch room, slipped and fell on the tracks. The engineer was unable to stop the short train, and it passed over her as she rolled between the rails.

She was treated at Oak Ridge Hospital for minor abrasions.

Retired Army Topkick Liked Alcatraz Duty

WASHINGTON (UP)—A man who spends 13 years in Alcatraz might call it a "long stretch." But to Army M-Sgt. Parrott Davis, now retired and living in ease at San Lorenzo, Calif., it was not a sentence. "The 13 years I spent on the rock," he says, "were the best years of my life."

Davis was sent to Alcatraz as a guard in 1919. At that time, he got orders placing him on detached service with the U. S. disciplinary barracks on the island. Davis stayed there until 1933 when Alcatraz was changed from a military prison to a civilian coop for dangerous criminals.

Believes Death Due to Poison

Cousin Asks Probe of '32 Demise of Wealthy Charlotte Man

CHARLOTTE 28 — A relative has asked for a court investigation of the death in 1932 of Fitch H. Beach, wealthy Charlotte road construction machinery manufacturer.

In a petition to Municipal Court, Fred W. Beach of Chicago identified himself as a first cousin of the late manufacturer. He expressed belief that poison caused Beach's death and requested that the body be exhumed and examined.

The petitioner, represented by counsel, said he had "good reason to believe and do believe" that Beach "came to his death by means of poison."

Judge Angus M. McLeod received the petition yesterday. He said he would make a ruling next Monday.

Beach died April 9, 1932. He was in his 50s. The cause of death was given as cancer.

A widower, Beach left the bulk of his more than $500,000 estate to a niece, Mrs. Irma Beatty, and her husband, John, both of Charlotte. The Beattys, former residents of Indianapolis, came to Charlotte to be with Beach during his illness.

In his petition for an investigation, Fred Beach made no allegations. His statement recited what he called a medical history and said one medical man indicated poison could have been the cause of death.

The medical man was identified in the petition as Dr. Lemoyne Snyder, former legal-medical expert of the Michigan State Police. Dr. Snyder was said to have told Beach that the symptoms could have meant poison.

Beach, a free lance writer and former newspaperman, was represented by Kenneth B. Kelly, Owosso attorney.

As Fitch Beach's only heirs, Irma and John Beatty received $400,000 from the estate. The other $100,000 went to Charlotte churches. Beach had been a frequent contributor to churches during his life.

Vets Receive Gifts at Red Cross Party

Patients at the Dearborn Veterans Hospital received a present when Gray Ladies and Canteen Workers of the Oakland County Chapter of the American Red Cross visited them for a birthday party yesterday.

Mrs. W. C. Sproul of Birmingham, chairman of Gray Ladies of Oakland County, was in charge of the celebration which included 150 hospitalized veterans.

Participating in the activity were Mrs. Fred Brock of Birmingham, chapter volunteer field consultant;

Mrs. J. R. Waggoner of Royal Oak; Mrs. Fred Lawton of Berkeley; Mrs. Frank Haga of Ferndale; Mrs. David Davis, Mrs. Clyde Gilmore and Mrs. R. H. Franklin of Huntington Woods, and Mrs. F. C. Ozar of Berkeley.

Warns Lake Ports to Assess Situation

LANSING (UP)—Col. W. P. Trower, one of the chief planners for the St. Lawrence Seaway, cautioned Michigan's Great Lakes port communities Wednesday to "take a hard look" at what they cities that many communities have "a lot of work to do" before they can handle world trade.

Hal Boyle Says:

Never Wear White Shirt at Office—It's Too Loud

NEW YORK (AP)—The biggest mistake the white collar class makes today is to cling to the white shirt.

The white shirt for a couple of generations has been a gentle badge of superiority in America, a stuffy emblem of stuffy respectability.

When a guy had nothing else to boast about, he could at least feel proud in his heart because he earned his living indoors and wore a white shirt. For some obscure reason this made him feel a cut above the rough-handed skilled workmen who went boisterously to their jobs in dungarees or old leather jackets.

Whatever reason existed for this feeling vanished when the skilled workmen began dragging down more take home pay than the office workers, and that has been true for some time now.

A policeman wears a blue uniform so he can be readily identifiable when you have to yell for help. But the office worker's white shirt has become a uniform to him, too, although he doesn't realize it, and really doesn't need to wear a uniform of all. It seems to me his white shirt has become a symbol of inferiority, not superiority.

For years I have been crusading against the out-of-date snobbery of the white shirt, which most men actually wear for one of three reasons:

1. Their fathers wore one.
2. They are afraid to wear a colored shirt because they don't want to stand out from their fellow white sheep in the herd.
3. Their wives tell them they look younger or cuter in a white shirt. (But the wives should know better.)

It is a pleasure indeed to note now that one of the nation's leading shirtmakers is attacking this old shibboleth in a series of ads entitled: "Never wear a white shirt before sundown."

"A white shirt with a business suit is really the loudest thing you can wear," this firm asserts. "It looks clean in the morning, but by afternoon it gets soiled at the collar and cuffs. This looks awful. Wearing a white shirt at the office is... a pitiful abdication of individuality.... No well-dressed man should wear a white shirt before sundown."

This verdict makes sense, even if one be so unkind as to suspect that it is part of an insidious campaign to get us into the two-shirt-a-day class—a colored one at the office, a white shirt in the evening. But something has to be done to lift the American male from the anonymity and monotony of his invariable white shirt. Even the denim shirts of convicts at least have numbers stencilled on them, so they can be told apart. Men who stubbornly cling to the white shirt might take a tip from this and lend a little variety to their looks by having their auto license or social security number printed on their starch pale bosom fronts.

Personally, I blame American women for the fact their husbands generally look like penguins rather than people. They usually select the family clothing, and they buy papa white shirts because they are too lazy to take the trouble to dress him as well as they do themselves. Or else they fear to.

So long as mama can ape the peacock, what difference does it make if papa looks like a pallbearer? Does she really want anybody to notice him anyway?

Any man looks more virile and masculine at work in colored, plaid, checked or striped shirts, and any wife who would pause and think this through would realize it. Why not be the first guy in your office to dare to stand out from the crowd? Even if you show up in a bright green shirt or a lumber jacket, you'll have lost that dismal white collar worker look—the empty stare with its hair combed.

Violence has been spasmodic since the United Mine Workers struck the Maust Coal and Coke Co., operator of three unionized "deep" mines and a nonunion "strip" or surface mine in this area.

The train was hauling the first load of coal from a Maust mine since a bridge, dynamited Oct. 1, was replaced.

UMW officials were not available, but in the past they have disclaimed knowledge of any of the incidents of violence.

Mayor Earns 11 Cents

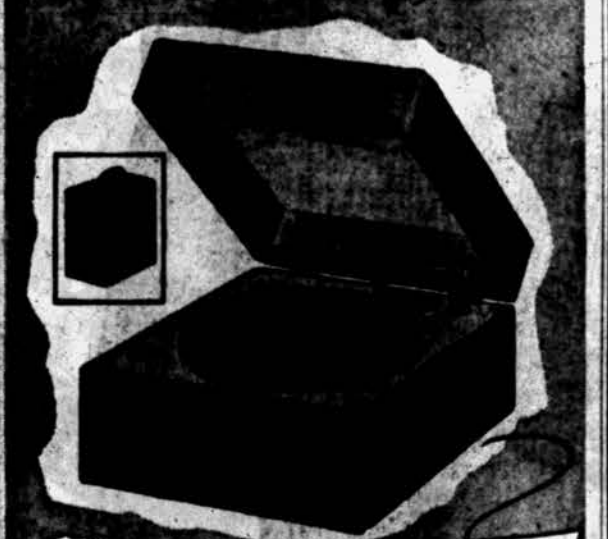

IONIA, Mich. (UP)—The Ionia City Commission gave Mayor Robert J. Weller a check for 11 cents for serving as mayor for one day. Weller came here during an exchange of mayors during "Michigan Week." Ionia's mayor gets an annual salary of $40 and the commissioners figured one day's service amounts to 11 cents in salary.

Weather Data Gotten at Bravo

North Atlantic Stretch Is Bleak, Hazardous for U. S. Coast Guard

WASHINGTON—A 311-foot Coast Guard cutter recently arrived at a lonely stretch of North Atlantic water called Bravo to help carry on a prime project in international cooperation.

Bravo, a bleak expanse of 200 square miles designated by the phonetic code word meaning B, aroused no cheers from Barataria's 150-man crew who faced three weeks of near solitude on the uncertain sea between the Labrador coast and the southern tip of Greenland.

The crew, however, did take great satisfaction from knowledge that its duty at Bravo would produce important weather and navigation data for the ships, planes and meteorological offices of more than a dozen nations.

The Coast Guard believes Bravo is its roughest, most uncomfortable and at times most hazardous duty. The reason is summed up in a message from the cutter Humboldt:

"Sea swept over superstructure... spray shield with two heavy stiffeners buckled... watertight doors to laundry and to airward ship passage together with door frames very badly buckled... ladder to superstructure deck bent... two boats broken out of chain grips and holed... not possible to determine all damage due to darkness, heavy seas, and coating of ice... Proceeding 13 knots with a 45-knot wind and average 30-foot-high sea... now have to awaiting daylight for re-stowing boats before proceeding on to station."

Many persons today owe their lives directly to the ocean stations. In 1947 the flying boat Sky Queen was forced down with 69 aboard. Despite mountainous seas, a cutter, 300 miles off Argentina, rescued all.

New York city has about 350 miles of developed water front and employs an estimated 250,000 persons in the export and import business.

Wives, Politics Troubling Two Indonesian Leaders

By CHARLES M. McCANN United Press Staff Correspondent

President Achmed Soekarno and Premier Ali Sastroroidjo of Indonesia are having plenty of trouble.

They rule the largest Moslem country in the world, with a population of about 80,000,000 distributed through countless thousands of islands in the Indian Ocean.

Ever since Indonesia attained its independence as a republic in 1949 it has been beset by revolts and political crises.

Now Soekarno is under attack because he has taken a second wife, and Sastroroidjo's cabinet is threatened with collapse because of the country's economic difficulties.

The news broke last month that Soekarno had married secretly Meruti Suwondo, a beautiful divorcee and mother of five children. Under Moslem law Soekarno is entitled to four wives.

But Indonesian women say that the day of plural marriage has passed in a Moslem country. Some of the men agree with them.

Dispatches from Djakarta, the capital, have reported that a mob stoned the home of Mrs. Soekarno No. 2 before she left it to join her new husband.

It was reported also that Mrs. Soekarno No. 1, the recognized first lady of the republic, considered fleeing the presidential palace with her own five children when she learned she had a rival.

A leading Moslem newspaper of Djakarta has even questioned the legality of the second marriage. It said that the second Mrs. Soekarno was divorced in April, only two months before she married the president and not in April, 1953 as had been announced. Moslem law requires a 100-day waiting period between divorce and remarriage.

Eastromaidjo's trouble is purely political.

He heads a coalition government which controls 130 seats out of a total of 223 in parliament. The Communists hold 25 of the coalition seats.

The Greater Indonesian Party, with 22 of the coalition seats, has threatened to withdraw and join bers of his Nationalist party. In any event, Sastroroidjo is in an unhappy position.

If he fires two of his own cabinet men, his opponents will see in his action an admission of their charges that he is to blame for the country's steadily deteriorating economy.

If he refuses and the Greater Indonesian withdraw, Sastroroidjo's majority would be reduced to the danger point. Further, he would be at the mercy of the Communists — and two small Moslem splinter groups have threatened to desert him unless he breaks with the Reds.

Sastroroidjo's one strength is that the country is having so difficult a time that no other party would have a much better time than he is having if it took over the government and assumed responsibility.

Plague Cure Waits to Be Put Into Use

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — The "black death" of the Middle Ages finally has been beaten in the laboratory but remains unquarantined in countries too poor to apply the fruits of science, according to a University of California professor.

Dr. R. Pollitzer, internationally renowned plague fighter who is now working at the Hooper Foundation at the University of California Medical Center, said:

"Treatment with sulfonamides and antibiotics, on the one hand, and the application of potent insecticides — particularly DDT — on the other, have rendered plague both a normally curable and thoroughly controllable disease."

Plague remains a significant menace, however, in those countries, especially in Asia, where there are insufficient funds and technical staffs to quell the disease.

Pinapples are grown in Florida.

"Elect a Grizzly Bear -"

Months ago when Fred Elias, prominent businessman, was asked by a group of business and workingmen to run for State Senator on the Democratic ticket, he was told by a cynic:

"Oakland County would elect a grizzly bear to office if he was a Republican, don't waste your time."

But Elias did not believe this bit of nonsense. His long association with the people of this great county convinced him it was the man and his ideas, not so much his politics that made votes. Oakland County is comprised of the state's most progressive people. He was sure his safe, fair theories of government for all the people would be warmly received. And he is right. Privately taken polls show that the candidate "running scared" has solid reasons for this fear. Like Maine, Oakland County's farmers, workingmen, and small businessmen are fed up with the no road program, high material costs and less profit, unemployment, unfair distribution of defense projects that make political footballs of our life and security, snarling and bickering with Michigan's greatest governor, G. Mennen Williams.

MADE IN BAVARIA—Willie Schultz, left, recent Pontiac arrival from Germany, shows a Bavarian deer horn pipe to Brittain Hede of 54 Seneca St. Young Hede met Schultz in Stuttgart while assigned to an Army unit there, and that chance meeting led to Schultz' coming here as an immigrant.

Chance Meeting Results in New Life for German

A chance meeting between an American GI and a young German construction engineer last year in Stuttgart has resulted in a whole new life for Wigbert Schultz, now employed by J. A. Fredman, Pontiac contractor.

Wigbert, or Willie, as he is known here, met Brittain Hede, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Hede of 54 Seneca St., soon after the Pontiac man was assigned to an Army unit in Stuttgart.

After the two had visited Schultz' home in Bavaria on a weekend, Hede suggested that Schultz come to America. Mr. and Mrs. Hede took the idea a step further, agreeing to sponsor the young engineer as an immigrant.

Willie is favorably impressed with America, pointing out that wages here are more than double the European scale. He particularly likes ice cream, and thinks American cars are more impressive and much more plentiful than German models.

He arrived in this country Sept. 28, docking in New York aboard the liner United States. After less than a month in Pontiac, he speaks and understands English very well. He is studying for his citizenship examinations now.

Asked about the German public's opinion on the rearmament question, Willie said his people were convinced that a German army within the framework of Western European defense was of vital importance, although nobody wanted another war.

Willie's favorite sport is skiing, and he misses the mountains of Bavaria. He was a member of the Bavarian ski team which competed in the international meet, and specializes in jumping.

The elder Hede, a retired builder, introduced Willie to Mayor William W. Donaldson, who found the young German his job with the construction firm. The Hedes are thoroughly pleased with their guest from Europe, and are talking of sponsoring other young immigrants.

Summing everything up—the trip, America, and his new life here—Willie says, "It's wonderful."

Parents Held Responsible for Kalamazoo Vandals

KALAMAZOO (UP)—The Kalamazoo Board of Education this week approved action which will hold parents responsible up to $200 for acts of vandalism committed on school property.

The board acted after assistant superintendent Daniel J. Heathcote reported 17 windows were broken in one school Saturday by boys throwing stones and 14 windows were shattered at another school from which a 200-pound safe was removed.

"We have let the insurance companies take the rap too long," Heathcote told board members.

Urges Re-emphasis of Spiritual Values

NEW YORK (U)—The chairman of National Bible Week said today the period, which is being observed through next Sunday, should serve to re-emphasize the spiritual basis of America.

Charles R. Bligh Jr., board chairman of the National Assn. of Manufacturers and chairman of the observance, said that "today, as never before, the spiritual aspect of our nation is of vital importance."

"Too often we have stressed the materialistic advances of our country and too seldom have we realized ourselves, and impressed upon others, the fact that the true basis of our material well-being is found in the realm of the spirit rather than in technology."

"Without the re-emphasis of spiritual and moral values any attempt of ours toward economic and military strength will be useless."

The observance is sponsored annually by the Laymen's National Committee, a non-denominational organization of laymen devoted to strengthening Christianity in American life.

There are about 140 tornadoes in the U.S. each year.

Hobbyist Uses 3 Years to Build Train Model

CARMI, Ill. (UP)—S. G. McCarthy, a foundry manager here, has a hobby that requires a long time to complete a single project.

McCarthy spent three years building a model railroad locomotive that operates on 150 pounds of steam pressure and can pull one ton. The 61-inch engine is an exact model of a Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railroad locomotive.

McCarthy drew blueprints for the model and then made and assembled all the parts. The engine is one of 15 of its size in the United States.

Now McCarthy is working on a model of a streamlined locomotive and already has put in seven months on the project.

Pamper Baby Squirrel as Much as Human

LINCOLN, Neb. (U)—A baby squirrel can disrupt the routine of a house as much as an infant child. Mrs. Richard Lutz discovered. As foster mother to an orphaned squirrel, Mrs. Lutz fed it with a miniature bottle and nipple, even getting up every two or three hours at night for feedings.

When hungry, it cried "loud enough to wake the whole house," she said.

Tornadoes usually occur when an invisible, but real, wave in the atmosphere breaks, somewhat like a single wave of water toppling over as it hits the shore. The breaking atmospheric wave, known as a pressure jump, is believed to be the trigger that sets off tornadoes and other severe storms.

Health Center Slated

ALBANY, N. Y. (UP)—New York will spend $3,000,000 to build a new health center here. The two-story building will house the state's health department, an X-ray room, an auditorium and a library.

The public schools of St. Cloud, Minn., require the ability to drive a motor vehicle as a condition for graduation from high school.

Society Seeks Good Liveries

Preservation Group Has Plan to Restore Vanderbilt Stables

NEWPORT, R. I. (UP) — It's getting so a person can't even find a few good liveries to spruce up his grooms and coachmen any more.

Holbert T. Smiles, executive secretary of the Preservation Society of Newport County, is searching for liveries as part of a program to restore the stables connected with the fabulous Vanderbilt "cottage," The Breakers.

But, Smiles says, he's having a "terrible" time.

"You can't find liveries anywhere," he complained. "That is, decent ones. And if I can't get them now, I don't want them."

The stables—about a half mile from The Breakers—are maintained by the society and opened to the public part of the year under the same arrangement as the "cottage." Both are leased from Countess Leslie Slocum, the former Gladys Vanderbilt, for $1 a year.

"We want to make the stables look just the way they did when the family was living in Newport," Smiles said. "And now liveries and harness are the two big things we need."

Restoration of the stables has gone a long way. More than 30 carriages—most of them bearing the black and maroon Vanderbilt colors—line the stable's carriage house.

There's a carriage for almost every type of use—a landau for a run into town, a light phaeton that a lady might call for at any moment for a spin in the park, a great chariot d'essai for state occasions.

China Fails to Stem Migration to Cities

HONG KONG (AP)—Both independent and procommunist news reports from South China say farmers continue to pour into the cities from the countryside despite constant effort of the Communists to stop them.

A recent story says farmers from Hohing, Tsiangyuan, Chongyang, Nanchang, Tushan counties—good farming areas where recent Red reports told of good harvests—have entered Canton in search of industrial jobs.

Some say this is due to food shortage in the country, others that farmers are discouraged over conditions at home. The Communist redistribution of land left most farmers with farms too small for practical farming, say some reports.

Others say the farmers think the land is to be confiscated again and put into collectives and the farmers do not relish the prospect of working as farm laborers.

U.S. $5 Billion in Red for Last Three Months

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government ran nearly five billion dollars in the red in the three months ending Sept. 30. The period was the first quarter of the 1955 fiscal year, which began last July 1, and the deficit for the three months was a little bigger than predicted for the entire year when budget figures were revised in September. However, the first half of each fiscal year—from July through December—is a time of low tax receipts and always piles up a deficit. It is then cut back sharply from January through June—months when tax receipts are bigger than spending.

Navy May Let Sailors Come to Work in Civies
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy is reportedly considering letting its military personnel here wear civilian dress while on duty rather than uniforms—a practice in vogue before World War II. Officials said the proposal will be considered by the Navy UNIFORM Board at its next meeting. It would apply to sailors at the Pentagon, the Navy Annex and some other assignments in the Washington area.

Flames Destroy Lake Steamer

City of Cleveland Burns at Windsor Pier During Conversion to Barge

WINDSOR, Ont. (INS)—The once proud excursion steamer City of Cleveland III, under conversion to a St. Lawrence Seaway work barge, was engulfed by a spectacular fire on the Detroit River today.

Flames and smoke mushroomed into the sky from the stricken ship, which was moored alongside the Windsor city dump.

All workmen aboard had time to flee without injury, according to a spokesman for the owner, the Ventimiglia Demolition Co. Cause of the blaze was not immediately determined.

Every piece of available equipment was sent from Windsor. A plan for Detroit's fire boat, the James K. Keane, was turned down because the Keane is out of commission for repairs.

The Cleveland, launched in Wyandotte in 1907, carried thousands of passengers on the Great Lakes before she was rammed by a Norwegian freighter off Harbor Beach in Lake Huron the night of June 25, 1950. Five men, members of a Benton Harbor Chamber of Commerce cruise, died in the mishap.

The D. & C. Navigation Co., then owner of the Cleveland, and the owner of the freighters S. Ravinell paid estates and survivors of the five $300,135 damages.

The Cleveland figured in the news last month when she was placed under arrest by a seldom-used Canadian admiralty court order. The warrant put the ship in virtually a debtor's cell.

Frank Summerfield of Wyandotte said the Ventimiglia firm owed him $4,000 for an earlier scrapping operation. Ventimiglia posted $4,000 bond and the conversion job resumed.

Ancient Greek Vessel Found

Ship Sunk Off French Coast in 230 B. C. Bares Archeological Riches

WASHINGTON—About 230 B.C., a Greek ship sailing westward along the French Mediterranean coast sank with a full cargo of wine and Campanian pottery. The story of that ancient vessel, its discovery and salvaging of its archeological riches, was told before a Washington audience recently by Captain Jacques-Yves Cousteau, French marine explorer and leader of the National Geographic Society-Calypso Marine Archeological Expedition.

The mud-covered ship, lying more than 110 feet deep off the rocky island of Grand Congre near the port of Marseille, is being excavated by divers equipped with Aquanauts. Work has been in progress for more than a year.

Scientists of the expedition team consider the Greek shipwreck to be the oldest seagoing cargo vessel ever found.

From the 100-foot-long argosy, too big to be a rowed galley, have come more than 3,000 gracefully shaped amphorae, earthenware jars used in Greek and Roman wine trade. Packed among and above them in the shattered ship's hold were found thousands of pieces of black-varnished Campanian dinnerware.

Amphorae stacked in rows in the hold and on the deck of the ill-fated ship held resin-flavored wine of the Greek Cyclades Islands and the red Latium wine of the Sabina hills near Rome. At least one earthenware jar has been found with the essence of its original wine still sealed inside.

Captain Cousteau tested the ancient vessels, reporting that either the wine had been untasted or the ancient taste had been peculiar. "I tasted all the mustiness and age there is in this world," he said.

From trademarks stamped on the wine jars, traced through Roman archives, archeologists have assembled evidence pointing to a possible owner of the foundered ship. Thus they recharged the vessel's last voyage.

A Roman merchant (trader) named Marcus Sestius, known to have received Greek citizenship on the sacred island of Delos in the Aegean Sea in 240 B. C., could have sent the great ship westward. Its hold filled with fat-bellied Greek amphorae.

Passing through the Strait of Messina between Sicily and Italy, it touched at a port northwest of what is now Naples to load Campanian pottery ware—an estimated 15,000 pieces—and even more amphorae of tall slender Roman design.

Deep laden, perhaps beyond its master's liking, the ship sailed on northward and westward along the Mediterranean shore. But the Greek settlers in Massalia never got the chance to bid for its valuable cargo.

Off a savage, rockbound coast, almost within sight of port, the vessel sank. There it lay, in a limestone cradle, attacked by worms and slowly covered by falling mud, until found by flippers. Aquanauts diver 2,200 years later.

Rubble Recalls War to Off-Bombed Island

ROME (AP)—Five hundred miles south of Rome a mountain of rock climbs out of the Mediterranean Sea like a geological mistake. A boat stops there twice a week, if the weather is good, and if there's nothing more important to do.

The island's name is Pantelleria. Remember?

In 1943, Allied aircraft bombed Pantelleria until its houses were dust and its mountain seemed ready to crumble. On the sixth day, short of food, water and ammunition, the Italian commander surrendered. The Allies landed and pronounced Pantelleria 99 per cent destroyed.

Now it is not only forgotten, it is desperate. For 10 months the 11,000 islanders, have not paid taxes. There is no money. For the past seven months the municipal employees have not been paid. The island is still a rubble. Eighty per cent of its buildings remain in ruins.

One-Man Cleanup

DES MOINES (AP)—Policeman Gordon Cota carries a bottle of window cleaner in the truck he drives for the police department. When he sees a stop sign that's hard to read because of dirt, he stops and shines it up.

Know Your Candidates

Hudson, Huthwaite Seek Seat in Second District

LESLIE H. HUDSON

This is another in a series on political candidates in Oakland County. Leslie H. Hudson, Democrat, is opposed by Ernest Huthwaite, Republican, for the office of state representative from Pontiac (District 2). Short biographies on the two men and their statements follow.

Leslie H. Hudson

The Democratic candidate for state representative from District 2 (Pontiac) is Leslie H. Hudson, 32, of 69 W. Colgate Ave.

Owner of the Baldwin-Walton Cutrate Store, Hudson was Waterford Township clerk from 1947 to 1951. He is a former member of the County Board of Supervisors, past president of the Waterford Lions Club and a World War II veteran.

He attended Pontiac High School and the University of Michigan. A resident of this area for 22 years, he is married and has three children.

His statement:

"The problems confronting Pontiac residents naturally will make up the plank for my platform. Pontiac is the industrial and shopping center for Oakland County. As such, full employment for residents and non-residents of Pontiac, depends upon our plants maintaining full production.

"When full production lags and unemployment rises, it is up to us to take steps to maintain purchasing power. Purchasing power in the hands of our residents is the prosperity of our community.

"Therefore, as your legislative candidate, I am for:

Continuing the fight for unemployment compensation equal to at least 50 per cent of average weekly wages.

Tax relief for the consumer to increase purchasing power.

Establishing a development credit corporation to aid financing expansion of small business and creation of new business.

The enactment of a public works program to provide jobs for the unemployed.

Placing on the ballot the $300,000,000 roads bond issue proposed by Gov. Williams.

The support of a civil rights program which insures equal opportunities to all in education, in the professions, before the law, in franchises and in public accommodation.

The developing of sound mental health programs, by improving and expanding child guidance clinics, parent education programs and treatment facilities for the mentally disturbed and the ill.

Expanding and improving our school systems to keep abreast of the tremendous increases in enrollment.

Providing increased security for our beloved aged; increased and improved facilities for our neglected youth and extending a voting franchise to 18 year olds."

Mobile Reading Rooms

VIENNA, Austria (U)—The Vienna Streetcar Co. now offers its passengers free magazines to kill time between stops.

Ernest Huthwaite

An attorney, Ernest Huthwaite, 46, of 527 W. Iroquois Rd., Pontiac, is the Republican candidate for state representative from District 2.

He was born in Detroit and attended public schools there graduating from the Detroit College of Law. He served as a naval officer in World War II.

Huthwaite is an ex-president of the Oakland County Bar Assn. and a member of the state and national bar associations. He is a member of the Amvets, former president of the Pontiac Council of Veterans, ex-director of the Pontiac YMCA and is past president of the Pontiac Civitan Club.

He has practiced law here for 24 years and is married with two children.

His statement:

"Pontiac is an industrial area. Steady and continuous employment of its people is the key to our prosperity and continued growth. Increased automobile production means steady employment and growth of our city. If we are to have increased auto production, we must have new, better and safe roads and highways on which to put new automobiles.

"We are all acquainted with the congested traffic conditions of our city and county, and the need for safer roads. In the coming sessions of the Michigan Legislature we can expect more emphasis on a program for new and better state and county highways.

"Pontiac's representative to the Michigan Legislature must make Pontiac's voice heard in such a program. I am, therefore, for new and better highways, and believe that we should do all we can to take advantage of the proposed Federal Government program for highway development.

"With the advent of the development of the St. Lawrence Seaway, we in Pontiac and Oakland County are on the threshold of a great future.

"The Michigan Legislature should consider action which will augment that of the Federal Government on this long overdue project so as to insure the best possible advantage to our state and city.

"We must not let other states proceed to advance beyond our own vast possibilities. Pontiac's representative should be one who would represent all of the people of our city. I would strive always to be such a representative."

Defense Chief May Do More Electioneering

LOS ANGELES (U)—Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson has indicated he may make more political speeches.

The Cabinet member, whose bird dog-kennel dog remark raised a political furor, was asked yesterday if he intended to make more political talks. Grinning, he replied:

"I don't know why not. I haven't been doing too badly at it. As a matter of fact, I plan to make a speech in Dayton, Ohio, on Oct. 29 that could be interpreted as political."

Inspecting jet fighters at the Northrop aircraft plant, Wilson told a reporter he believes the national defense should remain above party politics but added: "I believe in the purposes, objectives, methods and means of the present administration and I don't mind saying so."

John R Bridge Widened Over Ford Expressway

LANSING (U)—The State Highway Department said yesterday the John R street bridge over the Edsel Ford expressway would be opened here to its full width.

The bridge, opened to half width about a month ago, was built by Louis Garavaglia, of Center Line, at a cost of $338,822.

Anti-Red Law Will Be Aired

New Measure Faces Court Study Along With 1950 McCarran Act

WASHINGTON (U)—The new law to outlaw the Communist party is slated for a legal airing today when the 1950 Internal Security Act, aimed more indirectly against the Reds, comes up for another court tussle.

The U.S. Court of Appeals called for renewed arguments on the constitutionality of the 1950 law, which requires the Communist party to list its officers and members and file an annual financial accounting. The law is known as the McCarran Act after the late Sen. McCarran (D-Nev.).

The court, in ordering new arguments, particularly asked attorneys for the government and the party to discuss the effect on the 1950 act, if any, of anti-Communist legislation passed by Congress last session.

The lawmakers enacted a slate of anti-Red legislation during the session's closing days which provided, among other things, that the Communist party be barred from the rights, privileges and immunities of a normal political party. And it further provided that any person who knowingly remains a member of the party shall be subject to the penalties for members of "Communist action" groups contained in the 1950 law.

Invention Lights Up World

This sketch shows Edison (third from right) testing the first successful lamp at his Menlo Park, N. J., laboratory on Oct. 21, 1879.

The modern miracle of electricity grew from Edison's incandescent lamp. In 1880 he discovered that by placing a small metal plate between the legs of a filament he could control the flow of current. This proved to be the basis of today's electric tube.

This is the world's first practical incandescent electric lamp, invented by Thomas Edison 75 years ago. For his first lighting, he made a filament out of a piece of thread from his wife's sewing basket. The lamp bulbs we use today are in principle the same as Edison's first.

Tom Edison's Electric Lamp Marks 75th Birthday Today

If the lights in your home shine a little brighter today, it's because they realize that it's the 75th birthday of their great-granddaddy—Thomas Alva Edison's first practical incandescent electric lamp.

From it has descended a long line of progeny, until today more than 10,000 types of filament lamp are available. There were arc lights as early as 1809.

Edison started experimenting with them in 1875, but soon concluded that a successful home light would have to be incandescent—that is, glow brightly at white heat without consuming the material. After long experimentation, he finally succeeded on October 21, 1879, at his Menlo Park, N. J., laboratory.

This lamp burned for 40 hours. Edison said: "It will burn 40 hours I can make it burn 100." He did—and more.

TODAY'S ASSIGNMENT FOR

JUNIOR EDITORS

A LIGHTHOUSE THAT LIGHTS

There are more than 13,000 lighthouses and lightships off the coasts of the United States. Each night and during heavy storms they warn ships of dangerous water and help the ship captain tell where he is. Directions:

1. Use water colors or crayons to color red the top of the lighthouse, down to the bottom of the railing. Leave the windows white. Leave the narrow circle white, and color the next section red, the next white, and so on. Color the ocean blue, the rocks brown, the dark rays of the sky a deep blue. You still will be able to see the birds, which sometimes flock around a lighthouse at night.

2. Cut out this square and place the picture on an old newspaper. With a hat pin, punch rows of small holes in the light rays in the sky, and also in the windows of the house.

3. Hold the finished picture up to the light or close to a lamp. You will see the light rays gleam.

Halloween Parties, Dances Scheduled for Youngsters

Designed to keep Halloween fun down to a quiet and somewhat controlled roar, a complete program of parties, dances and contests for youngsters has been mapped by the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Dept.

Cooperating with the department in the dozen parties and dances planned are 13 PTA and civic groups in neighborhoods throughout the city.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce is joining in a "Mystery Treat" contest, and the Kiwanis Club and local merchants are completing plans for a window painting contest.

David R. Ewalt, parks and recreation department head, says planned Halloween activities in past years have cut down on vandalism significantly. But he adds:

"We are not having these activities because we know that kids are going to raise Cain on Halloween, but because it's a national fun holiday."

"The fact that they cut down on vandalism and mischief is really secondary."

As now planned, the program for Oct. 29—the day Halloween will be celebrated in Pontiac—will run like this:

From 6 to 7 p. m. begging-age youngsters will go knocking on doors during the "Meet 'n' Treat" hour.

Elementary school parties will get under way at 7 and run through 8:15 p. m. Movies, costume judging and refreshments will be featured at each party.

The Lakeside Homes and Junior high school affairs, starting at 8:30 p. m., will be dances, with orchestras provided by the city and the Pontiac Federation of Musicians. The dances will last until 10 p. m.

Starting at 9 p. m. telephones in the homes of lucky grade school students will start ringing as the Mystery Treat competition begins.

If the student whose name has been registered with the parks and recreation department is home, he or she will receive a bicycle. A second place prize will be awarded to the second person found home by 9 p. m.

Registered junior high school students will be called at 10:30. The first winner will receive a wrist watch, the second another gift.

At 11 p. m., senior high school students registered will be called. Winner No. 1 will receive a watch. A prize will also be awarded to the second person home by deadline time.

The final phase of the Halloween activities will be completed Saturday morning when judges tour downtown store windows to select the best water color works of art.

Four prizes will be awarded in the window painting contest's two classifications—junior high school age and senior high school age.

First place winner in each will win $30, with prizes scaled down to $5 for fourth place in each division.

Participants in the painting contest must be registered with the Parks and Recreation Department, 35 Hill St., and be assigned definite window space.

Either individuals or groups may participate, according to John A. Streit, assistant director of the department.

Leonard Buzz is coordinator of neighborhood parties for the department.

County Residents Form Courthouse Committee

Glenn Gillespie to Head Group

Organization's Purpose Is to Inform Citizens on Building Plans

Formation of the Citizens Courthouse Committee, a group of Oakland County taxpayers, was announced today by Glenn C. Gillespie, its chairman.

Principal object of the body, Gillespie said, is "to collect and make available to Oakland County citizens accurate information concerning the plan which has been proposed by the Board of Supervisors to bond the county for $4,500,000 and to authorize a one-half mill tax for the payment of such bonds."

"The proposals are for the purpose of building a new courthouse on property owned by the county on Telegraph road, about three miles from the present location," Gillespie continued.

"No well-informed person will question the fact that the old courthouse built in 1904 is hopelessly inadequate to meet the present requirements of the county."

"Many taxpayers question the wisdom, however, until further facts are made available, of the condition which the Board of Supervisors has attached to the proposal, that, if the bond issue and the proposal to increase the millage are approved, the courthouse will be located on this site previously chosen by the board."

"Many taxpayers, too, until a careful study has been made, will object to the alternative outlined by the corporation counsel, that if the proposal is not approved at the November election, the county will proceed to finance the erection of the proposed building on the chosen site through an issue of revenue bonds without a vote of the people, at an additional interest cost of from $1,400,000 to $1,500,000."

Gillespie said the committee "will bring to the public's attention certain questions that we feel have not been satisfactorily answered." He listed them as follows:

"1. What location for a new courthouse will best serve the public interest?"

"No effort has ever been made by the supervisors to determine the wishes of the citizens with respect to the location of the courthouse, as to where it will be most conveniently situated for the majority of persons having business with county offices."

"One significant fact that has apparently been overlooked by the Board of Supervisors is that in every county in the state, the courthouse is located convenient to the municipal, banking, business and transportation facilities of the county seat."

"In each of our adjoining counties—Wayne, Macomb and Washtenaw—new courthouses have recently been built in the county seat where all of these facilities are readily available."

"2. What about transportation facilities?"

"Is it wise to locate a county courthouse used by so many persons at a site, the only access to which is over one of the busiest and most dangerous four-lane highways in Michigan, with no established public transportation facilities?"

"3. What about the present county jail?"

"There are few, if any, counties in Michigan in which the county jail is not located convenient to the courthouse. Oakland County has a modern county jail, valued at upward of a million dollars, located within one block of the present courthouse site."

"4. Is it feasible to build on downtown property owned by the county?"

"A spokesman for the building committee, Dr. Louis Friedland, admitted at a meeting of the county bar association that no estimates had ever been secured from competent architects as to

Tells Civitan Club of Island's Struggle to Become United With Greek Nation

Spyros P. Sellinas, Greek newspaper editor currently spending three months with the Pontiac Press, yesterday told the Civitan Club of the problems facing the island of Cyprus, which wants to become part of Greece.

Sellinas, who plans a tour of the U. S. to promote better international understanding after his stay with the Press, was received enthusiastically by the Civitans at their noon luncheon meeting in the Pontiac Hotel.

He explained that Cyprus, the third-largest island in the Mediterranean, is now under British control. English governors have ruled the island's almost half-million population since the Ottoman Empire handed Cyprus over to Great Britain in 1878.

Prior to that time, Sellinas told his audience, the island had been held by the Romans and Venetians, but no ruling power has ever been able to change the Greek character of the people.

The speaker revealed that Great Britain had several times offered independence to Cyprus if the island would meet given conditions, but no action was taken when these conditions were met.

The editor said an open plebiscite was held in 1960, in which more than 95 per cent of the island's population voted for union with Greece.

The question was brought before the United Nations by Greece, and a debate was held last month. A majority of the member nations voted to include the Cyprus appeal the cost of a new courthouse on property owned by the county in downtown Pontiac.

"5. Can the present site of the courthouse and jail be safely abandoned?"

"This is a question about which I am sure many lawyers, and possibly the courts, would disagree."

Gillespie concluded:

"Prior to the November election, the committee hopes to be able to present some further information upon these important questions."

"In the meantime, it will welcome any suggestions addressed to Citizens Courthouse Committee, care of Chamber of Commerce, 34 E. Fifth St."

Truman Not Happy With Sideline Role in Campaign

KANSAS CITY (INS)—Former President Truman says that being on the sidelines during most of this fall's political campaign makes him feel "kind of like a racehorse with a halter on."

"You can't run with a halter on," added the famed "whistle-stopper," alluding to his recent operation.

"I'm sorry as I can be that I can't take a more active part in the campaign," the former chief executive told International News Service in an interview in his downtown Kansas City office.

"You know, there's nothing I enjoy more than politics."

"However, I've found out it's far better to obey the doctor's orders and wait until I am completely recovered from my operation last summer—which should be soon."

Truman disobeyed his physician last Saturday night when he delivered his "one-shot" campaign speech in Kansas City.

He explained he felt so strongly about what he termed the "situation brought about by (the Republicans) disregard of the public interest" that he over-ruled the doctor "to raise my voice again."

The "man from Independence" said reaction to his speech had been "excellent, better than I expected." He pointed out:

"The Republicans are squawking, so it must have hit them."

If the former President was tired when he finished his 30-minute address in Municipal Auditorium, it was not apparent to the 4,000 Democrats present at the rally.

At the conclusion, he added four or five minutes more to plug local and Missouri candidates and advise the workers. He said:

"Let us go out and beat the bushes and run scared and win this election. We fooled the pollsters in 1948 and we can do it again, because all you have to do is tell the people the truth."

"We can lick these Republicans. They are wrong. The people in this country are not Republicans—they are Democrats. And if you have a Democratic Congress this fall, think what we can do to them (the Republicans) in 1950."

The former president seemed his old "whistle stop" self as he delivered his solo speech, with the familiar left-hand sawing gesture.

Proof that he had not lost his power over an audience was evident. The meeting was almost Republican in restraint until "Harry" rose to speak. He was given a hearty welcome and was interrupted 45 times with cheers and approving laughter.

Target Shooter Hurt by Ricocheting Slug

Charles M. Kalt, 36, of 18432 Wordingham, Detroit, is reported in good condition today at Harper Hospital in Detroit with a gunshot wound in the back which he suffered yesterday in Southfield Township while target shooting.

Kalt and three other Detroiters, Mervin Cohn, 17, and Mike Frelanfeld, 14, both of 18924 Santa Barbara, and Samuel Sobel, 16, of 18466 Birwood, were shooting with 22 caliber rifles near Fourteen Mile and Middlebelt Rds., when one of the slugs ricocheted, striking Kalt.

The other youths took the wounded boy to Pontiac General Hospital, and later yesterday he was transferred to the Detroit hospital. Kalt's companions were not held, according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

Famed French Institutions Celebrate 150th Birthdays

WASHINGTON — Two famous French institutions, the St. Cyr Military Academy and the Legion of Honor, are celebrating their 150th birthdays this year.

To commemorate the occasion, France is issuing a new stamp series, red for the legion and blue, red and blue-gray for the academy.

Both school and decoration were created by Napoleon I, says the National Geographic Society. The Little Corporal set up the "West Point of France" at Fontainebleau. Four years later (1808), he transferred it to the village of St. Cyr, near Versailles, where his future officers would be away from the distractions and diver-imperial and republican governments.

Its basic form, however, has been retained — a white-enamelled star, with five double-pointed arms, linked by oak and laurel leaves. It hangs from the same bright red moire ribbon that Napoleon chose.

Ribbons and trimmings of gold or silver distinguish the five classes, in their order of rank: Chevaliers, Officers, Commanders, Grand Officers and Grand Crosses. The President of France is grand master of the organization.

Of the 10,000 graduates listed in St. Cyr's Gold Book has having died for France, nearly 800 lost their lives in the late Indochina fighting.

The old school buildings were casualties of World War II. Today the St. Cyr Academy carries on at Coetquidan, in Brittany.

have been uncovered by an archaeological expedition to the south-east coast of Southampton Island in Hudson Bay, Dr. John Oliver La Gorce, president of the National Geographic Society has announced.

Nearby, a second impressive site consisting of the ruins of 100 huts turned out to be the home of the Sadlermiut who lived hundreds of years after the Dorsets. The Sadlermiut died out, presumably from typhus, only in 1903.

An Arctic veteran, Dr. Henry B. Collins of the Smithsonian Institution, was the leader of the recently returned expedition.

A wealth of relics was dug from piles of debris scattered over 20 acres at the Dorset site and from the Sadlermiut house ruins.

One tantalizing question remained unanswered: What happened to the Dorset people? No burial grounds and no Dorset bones came to light, although over 30 skulls and a score of complete Sadlermiut skeletons were found.

Dr. Collins looked for links between the Dorset, Thule and Sadlermiut groups. The Dorset culture, now known to have been dominant through the central and eastern Canadian Arctic, is by far the oldest, he explained. Its roots have been traced to prehistoric peoples of the Bearing Sea area.

The Alaska-derived Thules spread through the central Arctic as early as A.D. 1100, probably surviving well into the 15th Century.

"The Sadlermiut were undoubtedly related to the Thule people, but our finds indicate that there was also a direct connection between Sadlermiut and Dorset," Dr. Collins said.

Among notable finds were hundreds of tiny, delicately chipped flint tools as well as ivory implements and carved art objects created by the surprisingly skilled Dorset craftsmen.

25th Jail Term Given 24-Year-Old Driver

NOTTINGHAM, England (U)—Stanley J. Rees, 24, appeared in court yesterday to answer three charges involving his driving. Police told the court Rees had amassed the following driving record in the past six years: Banned from driving 11 times—for a total of 31 years. Convicted of 38 separate driving offenses, including driving while banned. Jailed 24 times for a total of 6½ years. Rees pleaded guilty to driving while banned, driving without public liability insurance and driving with a stolen license. The judge sentenced him to six months in jail and banned him from driving for five additional years.

Tallest man on Ohio State's football team is 6-4 Jack Verhoff, a 19-year-old tackle.

Course of True Love Not Smooth for London Apes

LONDON (U)—A mutual friend announced with regret today that Arabella and Mr. Jiggs have called it quits. Arabella, the first orang outang ever to appear on a British television show, caught Mr. Jiggs' eye in the regent Park monkey house only four months ago. Mr. Jiggs promptly gave his current girl friend the old heave-ho, and he and Arabella started keeping house together.

For a couple of weeks everything was hearts and flowers, or any way bananas and carrots. But visitors to the zoo who had seen Arabella on TV all wanted to toss sweetmeats to the celebrity. Very few had any time for Mr. Jiggs.

In due course Mr. Jiggs took to throwing his weight around, and his weight is 240 pounds while Arabella is a mere welterweight. Yesterday the keepers stepped in and restored Arabella to the hairy but loving arms of her mother Mary.

Norfolk Merchant Turns Admiral After Closing

Jane Wyman, Mate Separated for Keeps

HOLLYWOOD (U)—Movie actress Jane Wyman's third marriage has failed. Her husband, musical director Fred Karger, has moved out of their home and Miss Wyman says there will be no reconciliation this time. The couple has had several arguments and separated a few times, but reconciliations always followed.

"We're not happy and there's no use remaining together," Karger said yesterday.

The actress told newsmen: "I've tried to keep this marriage together but it just doesn't seem possible to make it work." She denied that her many movie roles and much hard work in films had caused an estrangement.

Miss Wyman's other husbands were Myron Futerer and Ronald Reagan. She and Karger were married in Santa Monica in 1952.

Accuse Employee in Fake Loans

Bank Worker Approves Notes Totaling Quarter Million in 18 Months

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A man described by the Girard Trust and Corn Exchange Bank as "a trusted employee for 26 years" has been charged with approving fake loans totaling a quarter-million dollars and spending $45,000 of it on "wine, women and song."

Officials of the bank yesterday preferred fraudulent conversion charges against Edward B. McCall, about 45. They said the money was taken through a series of faked loans approved by McCall over a period of 18 months.

At his arraignment before Judge Curtis Bok, McCall was held in $10,000 bail for action by the grand jury.

It was testified at the arraignment yesterday that a routine audit of McCall's accounts in the bank's loan department brought the shortages to light last May. McCall was dismissed at that time and a further check was made to determine the full extent of the alleged defalcation.

The bank said 160 loans were involved, most of which McCall was permitted to make simply on his recommendation or signature. Officials charged that the basis of the scheme was a series of loans obtained by friends of McCall, who then turned the money back to him. Succeeding loans were used in part to cover due payments on previous ones, they said.

Egg Prices Down Again; Coffee Also to Be Cheaper

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Housewives shopping at the great counter this weekend will find prices generally unchanged to a bit higher than last week. Sirloin steak, frying and stewing chickens and smoked hams will be the most popular specials.

Advertising also will feature eggs, which are reduced again across the country, and apples, which are in abundant supply.

Egg prices will be down around six cents a dozen over most of the country and as much as 11 cents in some areas.

The Poultry & Egg National Board says eggs are selling about 25 cents a dozen lower than a year ago and notes that egg production for 1954 is running around two billion more than in 1953.

Hens are coming to market in record numbers, according to the board, because of low egg prices which have caused many farmers to market them for meat instead of keeping them.

Coffee will be cheaper in many stores this weekend as a result of wholesale price cuts of five cents a pound by two major roasters.

Produce men say the best buys in vegetables are cabbage, potatoes, onions, winter squash and cauliflower. Also recommended are Brussels sprouts, sweet potatoes, celery and turnips. Lettuce and carrots are lower and moderately priced. Among vegetables going higher are cucumbers, honey dew melons, beans and tomatoes.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture says apples are one of the best buys available at present.

The USDA estimates the country's commercial apple crop at more than 103 million bushels, nearly 700,000 bushels more than earlier estimates. Eastern apple orchards weathered the recent hurricanes far better than had been first believed, the agency says.

Oranges are in greater supply in most stores and prices are lower. Otherwise it is pretty much a case of dwindling supplies at the fruit counter. Grapefruit and most types of grapes are higher.

Summerfield Rebukes Record of Democrats

DALLAS, Pa. (AP)—Postmaster General Summerfield says the housing situation that developed from excess FHA loans was "the most monumental and vicious scandal this country has ever known."

In a speech in this eastern Pennsylvania town yesterday, Summerfield said there were an estimated 225 major scandals in the administration of former President Truman, "22 of them originating among the 'palace guard'—President Truman's own White House staff."

Queens Fare Better Than Votes in Lansing

LANSING (AP)—Football and take precedence over elections in the minds of the Lansing City Council.

The council without dissent granted

ed Sexton High School and Michigan State College authority to stage football homecoming parades in downtown Lansing this weekend but rejected a request to permit a sound truck to run through downtown streets on election to urge citizens to vote. The "get-out-to-vote" plan was offered by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Strauss Sees Bright Prospects

Atomic 'Trash' May Keep Food Fresh

BOSTON (UP)—The day is coming when atomic "trash" may be used to preserve meat for nearly a month and to keep potatoes from spoiling for as long as two years.

Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission reported this Wednesday in a speech prepared for the New England Council here.

He said the AEC is trying to find uses for waste from atomic factories instead of just keeping it from endangering people. One of the most promising prospects, he said, is the preservation of food.

The AEC has been working with the Army in studying this possibility and some startling results already have been achieved, the AEC chairman reported.

For example, he said when potatoes are exposed to a mild dose of gamma radiation—the radioactive element of atomic waste—and kept at 50 degrees Fahrenheit, they "exhibit such an increased shelf life that there is no evidence of spoilage or sprouting for periods up to two years."

Strauss said a design for a "facility" to thus "pasteurize" potatoes is now being considered. He said it would be capable of irradiating up to 20 tons of potatoes an hour and probably could be built for less than $50,000.

"If the figures which have been shown me are correct, farmers might irradiate truckloads of potatoes in a few minutes per load at a cost of just a few dollars," he said.

Strauss said it has also been shown that the shelf life of pre-packaged meats can be increased from three to nearly 21 days with mild gamma ray pasteurization.

He said studies show that a plant to handle such treatment could be built for about $600,000.

He said to Army's experimental program is aimed at "the solution of Army food problems with major emphasis on the ultimate achievement of complete food sterilization using gamma rays."

Strauss also said atomic energy can mean a vast range of new industries for economically troubled New England.

Strauss said economic studies have convinced the AEC that within "the next decade or two" atomic energy will be "at least competitive with electricity from the conventional fuels." He termed this of "utmost importance" to areas like New England.

Minor Offenses Deleted as Bar to Entry Into U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department has lowered one of the barriers blocking entry of foreigners into the United States.

The department announced that hereafter a visa (entry permit) may be granted to an alien even if he has been convicted of a legal offense in a foreign country—provided that the offense by American standards would be only a misdemeanor rather than a felony.

Officials estimated that many scores of persons have been denied access to the country in the past because of "a single petty offense."

Boys Fire Home to Hide Traces of Vandalism

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP)—Two 16-year-old boys set fire to a house in Port Huron to destroy evidence they had ransacked it, police reported yesterday.

Police quoted the boys as saying they defaced the interior Tuesday and then returned and set it afire after remembering they had written their names on pieces of paper left in the house. The boys were released to custody of their parents.

Since they were first minted in 1965, the government has produced about 4.6 billion nickel coins.

Black Magic Losing Out

Science, Missionaries In Africa Are Defeating Witchery

BRAZZAVILLE (UP)—From the mouth of the Congo River to the Mountains of the Moon, witch doctors, fetish worship and the jungle version of "Murder Incorporated" are fighting a losing battle against the white man's magic.

Although disappearing from the steaming green forests with the advance of the medical missionaries, illicit white magic sorcerers are still available to cure anything from a palm wine hangover to a broken arm.

In the teeming market places of the Congo, bottled magic amulets and talismans sometimes can be bought, along with the name and address of a reliable witch doctor. The vanishing African sorcerer is usually of the white magic variety, curing simple ailments with secret mixtures of chicken blood, roots, leaves, prayers and mumbo jumbo.

The skull-faced experts in the black magic of the dread evil spell seem just about to have disappeared, and with them such criminal secret societies as the Anlozo-Leopard Men.

Before the onslaught of police and medical missionaries — there are an estimated 1,000 United States missionaries in the Congo alone — the voodoo rattle has been thrust back into the creepy depths of the jungle.

The milder magic persists, however, and for a dollar old Jimbo and his ancestral spirits will cure your headache by putting a little along powder on your tongue. The broken arm cure would cost around $10.

Not just anyone can be a witch doctor. It's often an office handed down from generation to generation in the same family. The medicine men enjoying the greatest prestige in tribal life are often the rain-makers and those conducting circumcision rites.

Wives of American men who marry in their 20s average about a year younger than their husbands, but wives of men who marry when they are older tend to be considerably younger than their husbands, the age differential increasing with increasing age at the time of marriage.

Business Bureau Offers Tips in Buying Used Cars

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Better Business Bureau warns used car buyers to play safe by trading only with reputable dealers.

A special bureau report contained a few hints on how to spot a dishonest dealer. It also gave a number of checks you can make to assure getting your money's worth.

The bureau said to beware of the dealer whose prices are markedly below the advertised average. It cited an actual case where a buyer was fooled when he answered an ad offering for $285 a car that normally sold for around $355. He liked the car's looks and, without further examination, signed a blank finance contract.

When the papers were returned to the buyer, the price had been upped to $735 and the agreed downpayment had jumped $200. Therefore, the actual price was $300 above market and $545 above the advertised price. This didn't include the later installation of a new engine which the delivered car was found to need.

Beware, also, of so-called guarantees that many dealers offer orally, but not in writing.

The bureau also recommended: 1. Trade with a dealer whose reputation in the community is established. 2. Make sure that the agreed price is in writing. Get a receipted, detailed bill covering all the facts about your purchase.

3. Make certain the finance contract is made out before you sign it. Read it carefully to see if it is in accordance with your understanding with the dealer.

The report urged the following checks to determine the condition of a car you may wish to purchase:

1. The cardinal rule is to drive it before you buy it. If the dealer won't let you drive it, don't buy it.
2. Check the speedometer reading against the condition of the car. Grease and oil stickers inside the driver's door may show a higher mileage than the meter. Other tip-offs are worn arm rests, pedals, and floor mats. If they are unusually worn, "it's unlikely the car was owned by a retired minister who only drove it 10 miles a week."

Onion Houses Play New Roles

Abandoned Structures Become Egg Factories for Hen Research

ROCKY FORD, Colo. (INS)—Old abandoned onion houses are being reconverted into egg factories.

Farmers have found the onion houses can be reconverted at a very low initial investment into egg factories which allow scientific control of the egg-laying efforts of their hens.

First step in the changeover from onion house to egg factory is replacing the onion crates with long rows of metal cages, each housing a hen.

Researchers have found that each chick has 3,600 egg yolks in its body when it is hatched. By being able to control the eating habits of the hen, the cage-laying method insures a maximum of the 3,600 eggs are laid.

A caged hen off the ground is cleaner, eats only the egg-producing feed that has been developed through careful research and converts the feed immediately into egg production.

Egg production records for each hen are obtained through a device which rolls the freshly-laid egg into a wire basket in front of the cage.

There is no place for shirkers. A hen which falls below 50 per cent production ends up on the dinner table.

Hours are long in the egg factory. The hens work 14 hours a day, with lights being turned on early in the morning and again in the evening to keep the workers awake and the eggs rolling.

However, it's not all work. The hens are entertained daily by a variety of radio programs.

Contrary to appearances lighting does not travel in sharp angles.

Zoo Curator Converts Vocation of Boyhood Into Career

ST. LOUIS (UP) — Snakes have no appeal to most persons, but they have been the key to success for Moody Lentz.

Lentz, general curator of St. Louis Forest Park Zoo, kept a copperhead as a pet in his bedroom when a boy in Piggott, Ark.

That is, he kept it until his father found it. The senior Lentz ordered the copperhead destroyed, but that didn't stop his son.

In 1927, when Lentz finished at Hendrix College at Conway, Ark., he decided to come to St. Louis and take a full-time job at a packing plant where he had worked during summer vacations. He packed his snake collection in a large suitcase with the idea of presenting the reptiles as a gift to the zoo.

"There were rattlesnakes, chicken snakes and moccasins in that suitcase," Lentz said. "Also coachwhips, king snakes, copperheads and spreading adders. I had to put a strap around that old bag, it was so full of snakes."

The strap didn't hold up to Lentz's expectations. It gave way while he was in the office of Marlin Perkins, then curator of snakes at Forest Park.

Perkins told George P. Vierheller, the zoo's director, how the Arkansas youngster scrambled around, picking up his pets like rolls of salami, and the Lentz career was launched.

Although enthusiastic about his own vocation, Lentz is tolerant about the fear most folks have for snakes.

"I don't love them exactly," he explained. "What I feel is more of a fond interest. That's as close as I can come to describing it."

"And you'd be surprised how those critters know their friends."

The true wolf is nearly extinct in the United States, only a few remaining in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan and Oregon. Great numbers, however, still exist in Canada and Alaska.

TOPS IN TOWERS—Rising 1,472 feet above the street, the TV antennas atop the Empire State Building mark the highest point of any man-made structure in the world. New York's seven television stations use these antennas to broadcast programs to a four-state area of 15 million persons.

The Salton Sea in southern California was formed in 1905-07 when a gap in its levee and poured into the below-sea-level valley. Loss through drainage from irrigation and present level maintained through evaporation is balanced systems.

Prehistoric Forest Found Under Jersey River

TUCKERTON, N. J. (UP) — Man's march of progress was halted recently when a prehistoric, undegraded forest was discovered in the path of the Garden State Parkway.

Giant stumps of cedar trees, thousands of years old, blocked the path of a huge steel dredge digging into muck along the banks of the Mullica River. Some of the logs were extracted by crane, but it took several days to repair the dredge, one of the world's largest and most powerful.

Engineers reported the cedar was found at levels ranging from 17 to 40 feet below the surface of the marshes.

This would indicate that what is now a low-lying, treeless wilderness once was a dense forest of massive cedars standing several feet above sea level. Since then, scientists said, the course of the Mullica has changed many times.

The continental shelf has dropped and the Atlantic Ocean—once a long distance from the forest, now washes onto beaches within walking distance of the woodland.

All the stumps, plus their roots, appear as though the trees had been felled only a few days ago. A Rutgers University forestry expert, Richard F. West, said the wood remained in good condition because the mud oozing over it did not contain enough oxygen to cause decay.

MORE POWER to do MORE THINGS for MORE PEOPLE

Michigan is growing fast. Soon there'll be a million families in the southeastern counties alone, all sharing in the rapid development of our farm, industrial, and residential communities.

More people need more electric power. That's why four years ago Detroit Edison started the construction of a great new St. Clair Power Plant and why that plant stands today as a dynamic symbol of the growth and progress of this important area.

Indeed, abundant electricity is a foundation upon which America's greatness has been built. It has helped our people to produce more, earn more, and live better than ever before. It is a vital part of our daily lives, available to everyone at low cost.

Today we are dedicating the new St. Clair Power Plant to the people we serve in the growing communities of Southeastern Michigan—to all the people in the Free World—for the production of electric power for Freedom and Progress.

These towers represent the rate at which Detroit Edison is increasing the electric power supply in Southeastern Michigan... nearly tripled by 1975.

Capital Unties Parking Knot

Washington Has Large Number of Unusual Car Facilities

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It's too bad that Pierre Charles L'Éfant, the designer of this town, didn't know about the automobile and the need to park it.

Parking here, as it is in most U. S. cities, is a major headache.

However, private enterprise has done a noble job of rectifying L'Éfant's understandable oversight by providing the most unusual assortment of parking facilities to be found.

A spokesman for the National Parking Association has the District of Columbia as the best parking proving ground that exists.

If you rent an office in the Capital Building — built by the husband of the noted Washington hostess, Gwyneth O'Brien — you drive up a ramp to your floor and park right across from your door. Tenants love it.

A few blocks from the White House there's the Park-O-Mat. It's the latest in parking devices. Here's how it works:

You drive into a grooved runway, turn off the motor and leave the car in neutral. The attendant gives you a ticket and that's all you do.

The attendant looks at a control panel, selects an empty space in the tall concrete structure and pushes a button. From then on it's automatic. The car is put in place and the lifting device returns for the next car in a minute and one-half.

The device has worked for two years without any trouble and is making money for the owner.

In the heart of the shopping district two new buildings are nearing completion which provide the latest types of parking facilities. Both go down many stories below the surface to provide space for cars. One is a parking garage exclusively, and unique because its building is built on top of the city.

The other attempts to provide both a public parking garage and take care of persons who rent offices in the building.

A District ordinance forces builders of new apartments to provide adequate parking facilities for tenants. Practically all firms which have opened new stores and branches have provided elaborate parking facilities.

Also, many of the banks, restaurants, loan companies, barber shops and theaters have made special deals with parking lots and garages to give special rates to their customers.

It all adds up to a $48 million industry in the city.

In the nation as a whole parking cars has become one of the fastest growing businesses, now in the $3 billion category. During the first nine months of 1933, some 1,000 garages were started. They will cost more than $30 million.

Other cities in the U. S. are following Washington's lead. The trend is toward automatic parking devices like the Park-O-Mat, and lots which allow the patron to park his own car.

The big bugaboo of the industry are labor and space costs. Parking in the District is $1.25 a day downtown, and 40 cents for the first hour. But it's still a tight squeeze, operators claim, to make a profit when it costs about 20 cents per car when an attendant parks it and returns it to the customer.

That cost is close to average for the country, too.

Wasted space in parking facilities is being attacked from all sides by the experts. The average garage has about 2,500 cubic feet for every car it can handle, yet one car displaces only about 500 cubic feet.

One of the goals of the National Parking Association is to have all parking on city streets banned. Members of the group can handle this extra problem, they claim. And it would solve most traffic problems, they point out.

Store Bulbs in Nylons

HOLLAND, Mich. (AP) — If you want your tulip blooms big and healthy, stash the bulbs in an old pair of nylon hose when you dig them up. That is the advice of Holland's professional growers. The important thing is to let the bulbs dry properly, they say.

A one mile walk exerts an accumulated pressure of about 500,000 pounds on average human feet.

Lesson on Flats Gives Indians Bad Impression

WAUPUN, Wis. (UP) — It's easy to give foreigners a wrong impression. Witness an incident in the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Rigg.

Mrs. Rigg decided to make a solo trip in the family car to visit relatives in southern Illinois. Rigg thought it would be a good idea for his wife to learn how to change a flat tire, just in case.

Rigg sat in the shade while his wife went to her lesson with gusto. She had the car jacked up and the lug off the wheel when several British West Indian natives who work at the cannery factory, of which Rigg is general superintendent, happened by.

They immediately jumped into action. Took the lug wrench from Mrs. Rigg and were well on their way to completing a tire change. Rigg leaped to his feet and managed to send the helpful West Indians on their way, but without getting over an explanation.

Back at the cannery firm's camp, one of the West Indians asked the director:

"Have you Americans really adopted the American Indian custom of making the squaw do all the work?"

First non-stop flight from New York to San Francisco was made in 1923 by a single engine plane and the time was 26 hours and 50 minutes.

William Howard Taft was the first President of all the 48 states of the Union. The last two states,

New Mexico and Arizona, joined the Union in 1912, while he was in office.

LOST 20 POUNDS Peppy and Refreshed Husband Likes Result

"I lost weight slowly and easily with Renal and it has done wonders for me. In four months I lost 20 pounds taking it just once a day and sometimes not at all. It was just as easy as that," writes Gertrude Houtahl, 3333 Fair St., Detroit, Mich. "Before taking Renal Concentrate I could hardly do any work but now I do all my housework easily. I used to feel nervous and have a lot of trouble with my stomach. Since taking Renal that is all gone and again I can eat all the kinds of food I like. I feel fine and look younger, thanks to Renal. Even my husband says I look so different, so peppy and refreshed." Many people find a tonic in Renal and what a compliment for a wife, friend or employee to hear some one say, "You look so refreshed." That suggests you are a nice person to be with. If you have a handicap you owe it to yourself to give Renal a fair trial. At your favorite drug counter. Priced at $1.49.

Plan to Irrigate Egyptian Desert

Point Four Scientists Outline Project to Adapt Subterranean Lake

CAIRO (INS) — The waters of an immense underground lake will soon be bringing fertility to part of Egypt's Western Desert in sandy soil that will grow almost anything if given enough water.

Work will start soon on 20 large artesian wells to irrigate 15,000 acres. This is only a beginning; Point Four scientists say that the subterranean lake contains sufficient water to transform hundreds of miles of desert into arable land and keep it fertile.

Only by desert reclamation can this country solve the twin problems of producing food and finding employment for a population increasing at the rate of 1,000 a day.

The lake is within the porous Nubian sandstone formation which runs from the Sudan mountains northwards to near the Mediterranean.

Its course has been traced by Point Four technicians using the Jovisky Apparatus, which indicates the presence of underground water in much the same way as a marine echo-sounder registers the distance between a ship's keel and the ocean bed.

For centuries the sandstone layer, 3,000 feet thick in parts, has absorbed moisture after the occasional torrential rains.

In places, such as remote Siwa Oasis 100 miles south of Mersa Matruh, the top of the rock formation is fairly near the surface and the water has pushed upwards to form natural springs.

Elsewhere, the tremendous underground reservoir can be tapped by artesian wells through which the water will spurt with the force of an oil gusher.

Desert irrigation by pumping water from the Nile is impossible in summer when all the river water is needed in the Nile Valley itself.

Liquid Theme Favored

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lloyd D. Rens owns a cutter that has completed the Honolulu yacht race. It's called the "Yo Ho Ho."

The dinghy is named the "Bottle of Rum."

His daughter's boat is named "The Jigger."

Per capita consumption of oil products in the U. S. is more than 660 gallons per year, a rate that is at least 30 times greater than in any other nation in the world.

Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Vernon Are Cochairmen for Party

CAI to Be Setting for the Annual Affair; Donald Leonards Will Be Guests of Honor

An evening of dancing, cards, refreshments and an opportunity to meet all the state and county Republican candidates, will be given to the voters of Oakland County when the Grand Old Party is held Saturday from 9 to 1 at the CAI building in Waterford.

The affair, given yearly, is sponsored by the Republican Women's Federation of Oakland County and Mrs. William Kennedy, president of the organization, has named Mrs. Richard I. Moore and Mrs. W. Arthur Vernon, of Waterford, co-chairmen.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald S. Leonard will be guests of honor. Other state and county candidates and a chartered bus touring the state carrying the candidates' wives will arrive at the party at 9:30 p.m.

Bill Spalding will be the caller for square dances. The public is invited and tickets may be obtained at the door.

Refreshments will be handled by Mrs. Floyd Andrews and Mrs. Paul Jais, of Clarkston; invitations, Mrs. Fred Eism and Mrs. Bruce Amett, of Waterford; music, Mrs. Robert Tedesco, of Waterford, and Mrs. Bernard Girard, of Royal Oak.

Publicity will be handled by Mrs. Robert Sutton and Mrs. William Brownfield, of Royal Oak, and the decoration committee includes Mrs. Orrin McQuaid, Mrs. Raymond Sampson and Mrs. Harry Horton of Royal Oak.

Mrs. Byron Cole, of Waterford and Mrs. Kenneth Nichols, of Franklin will be in charge of the prizes; the card committee will include Mrs. Albert Kohn, Mrs. William Donner and Mrs. Lynn Allen.

Chairman of the tickets is Mrs. Donald Brown and the reception committee will consist of Mr. and Mrs. William Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wilson, of Birmingham, and Mrs. and Mrs. Raymond Addis, of Holly.

Fall Festival Planned by Wever PTSA

For an evening of frivolous fun and folly, plan to attend the Wever PTSA Fall Festival Friday evening. Festivities will be under way with a cafeteria-style dinner, which will begin at 5:30 p. m.

Small children will be taken care of in the nursery and coats and bundles may be checked at the door. Mrs. Johnnie Bee is general chairman of the festival.

Her committees are cafeteria, Mrs. Eugene Holmgren, Mrs. Ervin Atwell, Mrs. Earl Shook, Mrs. Charles Schirmer, Mrs. Cloyd Houts, Mrs. William Hill and Mrs. Mabel McCaslin; and while elephants will be taken care of by Mrs. William Mihalick, Pauline Woodin and Mrs. Ford Drumm.

Hayride will be directed by Robert Nelson, Norman Felt, Bill Wilson and L. M. Rowe; popcorn stand, Melvin Staeber and Don Porritt; fish pond, Mrs. Robert Grant, Mrs. Walter Millage and Mrs. Otis Coggins; and nursery, Mrs. Roger Smiley, Barbara Bee, Wilma Adkins and Beverly Deem.

Other committees are hot dog stand, Mrs. Richard Gould and Annabelle Marshbanks; gift shoppe, Mrs. George Tremper, Mrs. Calus Gordon and Mrs. Dewey Dean; novelty bar, Mrs. Arthur Lightcap, Lois Bowman and Joanne Wilson; and check room, Mrs. James Rouse and Art Thomas.

Movies will be taken care of by Robert Ford and Charles Murphy; baked goods, Mrs. Francis Oak, Mrs. Howard Morris and Treva Sanderson; sweet bar, Mrs. Norman Bolton, Mrs. Charles Lowe, and Mrs. Emmett Fitzpatrick.

Mrs. Glenn Holmgren, Mrs. George Nolan and Mrs. Leo Kawiecki will work on danceland; William Coffing and William Simmons, balloons; Arlene Oates, Jack Cole and Johnnie Bee, games; and Mrs. Anderson Bee and Mrs. Ralph Deem Jr., pop stand.

Tickets have been handled by Francis Oak and Walter Millage and publicity by Miss Sanderson.

Assisting Mrs. Greve were Mrs. Ralph Babbington, Mrs. Paul Michael and Mrs. Donald Barker.

Baby Is Listening if He Is Around

This business of talking in front of toddlers has gone out of proportion. Of course they understand what you're saying. If you're discussing how they jump on the furniture, they remember. And they'll jump twice as hard next time.

When he was a baby in arms, you talked to him. Now, why do you talk about him? Take note of the fact that he's sure to be listening if he's around. It's his habit. Furthermore, you will be spared the misery of his greeting your neighbor as Mrs. Dragon when she makes her long-awaited noisy call.

Sorority Gathers at Luther Home

Margaret and Virginia Luther were hostesses in their Lincoln avenue home for the Tuesday evening meeting of Xi Phi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority.

Adah Shelly was a guest for the evening and Jean Warnock talked on a recent trip to England and Scotland.

Episcopal Guild Gathers for Supper

Guild 10 of All Saints Episcopal Church met Wednesday evening at Stevens Hall for a supper meeting. Jessie Brewer gave the devotion and hostesses were Mrs. Paul Saltzman, Mrs. Rodney Silkey and Miss Brewer.

Leaves for New York

Blue Ribbon Winner

Qualified to participate in the National Horse Show at Madison Square Garden is Mary Lou Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Wilson of Birmingham. During the 1954 season, Mary Lou participated in 10 shows from which she has won a total of 97 ribbons.

With her favorite horse, "Tig-ka," she has been seen in several shows at Bloomfield Open Hunt and during the Detroit Horse Show held at the Hunt Club, she won the senior hand working hunter's class and horsemanship over fences award.

The show at Madison Square Garden will begin Nov. 4, and Mary Lou and her mother will leave today for the event.

Honeymoon in Florida Following Church Rite

A gown of Chantilly lace was worn by Sally June Rouse when she became the bride of James Harold Smith in a ceremony performed at Christian Temple.

The mandarin collar was adorned with tiny seed pearls and iridescent sequins, and the bouffant skirt fell into a cathedral-length train.

A tarsi of seed pearls and matching lace held the finger tip veil of French imported tulle, and she carried a cascade of white carnations and pompons centered with a corsage of pink rapture roses.

Sally is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David S. Rouse of Otsego drive, and he is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Carter Smith of Osceola, Ark.

Mrs. Donald Hoover was her sister's matron of honor wearing a champagne gown of nylon tulle with layers of petal points. The bodice was accented with rhinestones and she wore a jacket of matching material.

Her bouquet was a cascade arrangement of white carnations and pompons and she carried a white satin parasol of maroon carnations tied with champagne bows and streamers.

Other attendants for the Saturday wedding were Nora Day, Mrs. Harold Rouse, sister-in-law of the bride; Shirley Course and Mrs. Don Mariell. They wore identically-styled gowns in shrimp, turquoise, ruby rose and Nile green respectively.

Their bouquets consisted of satin parasols of harvest moon carnations, yellow carnations, bronze and pink carnations respectively. All were tied with bows and streamers in colors complementing their gowns.

Jacqueline Sue Campbell was junior bridesmaid in a yellow bouffant gown with a spray of tiny roses on the skirt. Pale green carnations tied with yellow bows and streamers filled her white satin parasol.

Nancy Wheeler, a niece of the bridegroom, wore aqua nylon tulle for her duties as flower girl, and she scattered pink and white petals from a tiny basket. Her headpiece was of white and pink carnations.

Performing the duties of best man for his brother was Joel Smith, and ushers were Harold Rouse and Edwin Rouse, brothers of the bride; Lester Wheeler, brother-in-law of the bridegroom and Robert Eastman.

Arthur Rouse, a nephew of the bride served as junior usher, while Cecil Gibson of Auburn Heights acted as ring bearer.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Rouse chose a crepe turquoise dress with a lace jacket and dusty rose accessories. Her corsage was of yellow roses.

Mrs. William Sands of Grosse Pointe Woods, a sister of the bridegroom, received the guests wearing a blue and pink crepe dress with black accessories and a pink rose corsage.

Following a reception in the church parlors, the new Mrs. Smith changed to a powder blue wool suit with black accessories for a honeymoon in Florida.

Check Dry Milk

If you look closely at the label on your box of dry milk, you'll find that you can whip it like cream with an electric mixer. A budget-minded topping for desserts.

Pre-School Youngsters Entertained

Several ambitious mothers have found that All Saints Cooperative Nursery, Inc., is the answer to entertaining their children who are of pre-school age.

A qualified teacher supervises the children at the nursery which is non-sectarian and open to any child whose mother is willing to take her turn assisting the teacher.

The school is composed of two groups. Children from four to five years of age meet on Monday, Wednesday and Friday in the kindergarten room of All Saints Episcopal Church. Three to four year olds meet Tuesdays and Thursdays.

The children who gather from 9 until 11:45 are able to enjoy playing in a sand box, riding in cars and on bikes, putting puzzles together, listening to stories, singing and stopping to rest and enjoy fruit juice and cookies.

Any non-working mother who is interested in enrolling her children may contact the enrollment chairman, Mrs. Roy A. Corwin Jr. of West Iroquois road, for additional information.

Chopin Music Club Meets for Program

The Chopin Music Club was entertained Sunday afternoon at the North Telegraph road home of Mrs. Carl Clifford. The musical program was recorded on a tape recorder and played back during the refreshment hour.

Those participating from the junior group were Susan Rogers, Deanna Mosby, Sharon Sue Steinbaugh, Linda Bleise, Carol Cotterman, Joan Whims and Nancy Parsons.

Members of the senior group were Nancy McKown, Mariann Engelhard, Frances Spencer, Sarah Jo Faxon, Patrick McCartney and Sandra Griffin.

Coming Events

Auxiliary to Royal Chief 9 will meet this evening at 7:30 in the West Pike street Town Hall.

Ruth Group of Bethany Baptist Church will hold a spaghetti supper Tuesday from 5 to 7 p.m. at the church. Tickets will be available at the door.

Try It Make a Pumpkin Plaque

I wonder how much celebrating you are going to do this Halloween! Perhaps you will not be doing much of anything or on the other hand you may be planning a big party. Here is an idea which will be fun for you in either case.

This is a clever suggestion sent in by Diane Kay Steckley of Auburn, Indiana. These paper plate plaques can be used for party decorations or for your room just to hang on the wall. They give a touch of the season. You will need a plain paper plate for each plaque, and I would suggest a fall color or just plain white. Cut out three black triangles to make the eyes and nose and glue in place.

See how they are placed in the drawing. Glue on five or six pieces of corn candy for the teeth. After they have dried, punch two holes in the top of the plate for hanging and add an orange crepe paper ruffle for color. Thanks, Diane.

You might want to make three of these to hang together on the wall of your room or school room. Why not take this to show your teacher for school room Halloween ideas?

Make Beauty Stay!

Beauty should not be put on and taken off. No matter how quickly your hair falls after being put up, don't travel to work or school in bunched pincurls and a kerchief. Just the man you're after may offer a ride. A permanent may be your solution.

Clean Out Water Tank Once a Year

If There Is Much Sediment, Flush It Out More Often

By HUBBARD COBB

Just in case you are looking around for something to do this evening, we'd like to suggest cleaning out the hot water storage tank. Not only is this good healthy exercise, but it should insure an adequate supply of clean, hot water for many months to come.

It's a good idea to clean the storage tank at least once a year unless the water in your lines contains a good deal of sediment in which case more frequent cleanings are in order.

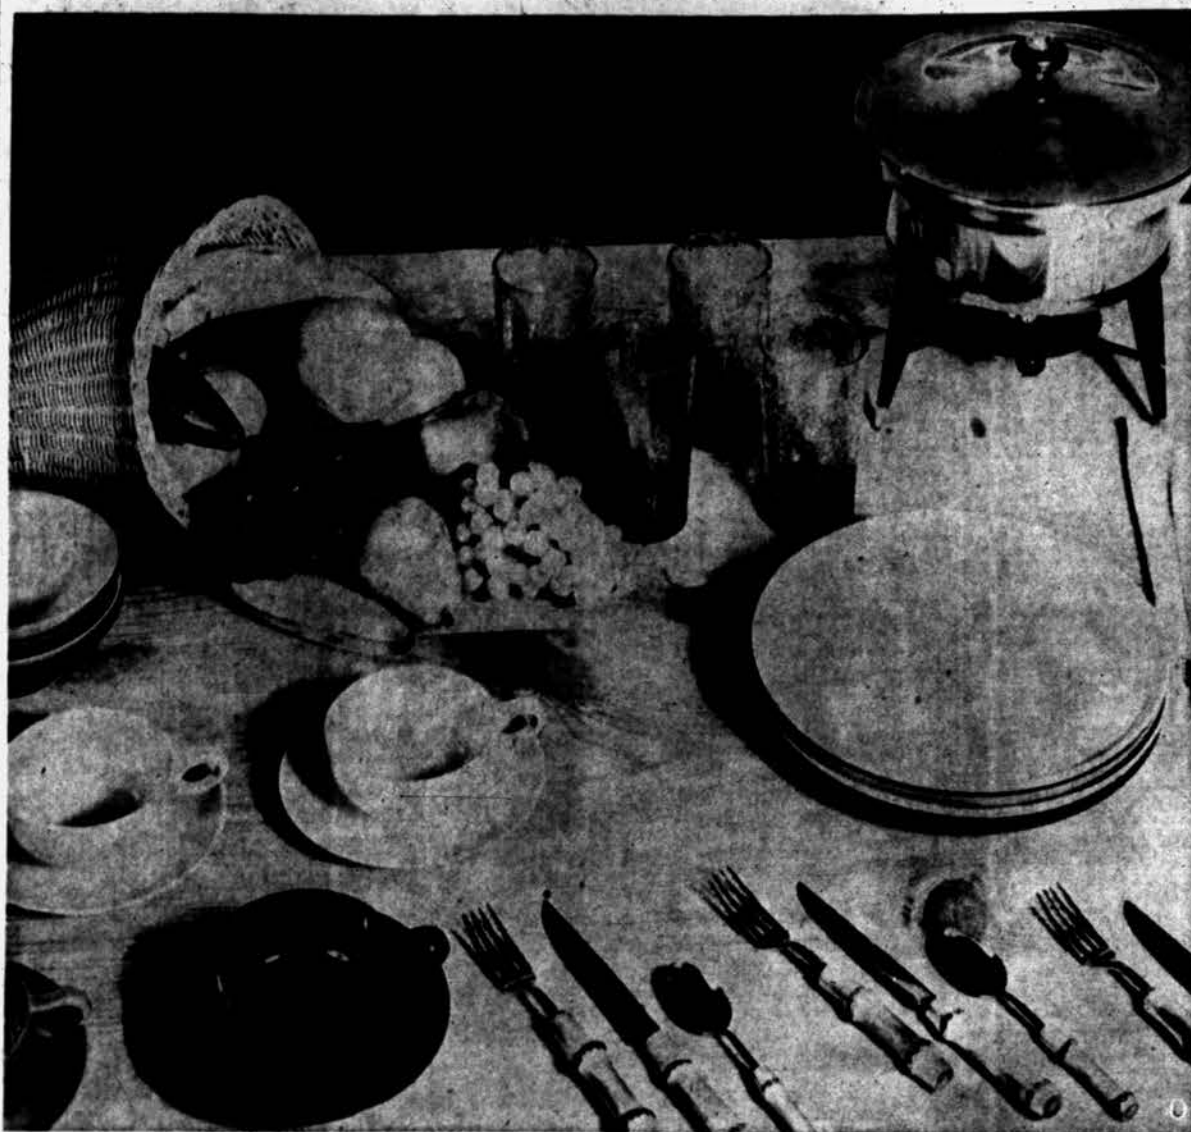

Turn off the heat to the storage tank and also the fresh water supply line to the tank. Open a hot water faucet at some point in the system to prevent forming a partial vacuum in the tank and then drain off the water from the tank into a bucket. You'll find a drain faucet for this purpose at the base of the tank.

Now you can let things go at this point but it's worth the time and effort it takes to flush out the inside of the tank. To do this you'll have to remove a fitting or two from the tank so that a garden hose can be inserted at different points about the tank. Run water through the hose with as much pressure as possible and move the nozzle of the hose about so that the spray of water gets on all areas of the tank.

This water will, of course, flow out through the drain faucet at the base so be sure to keep a bucket under the open faucet. When the water running out through the drain runs nice and clean, replace the fittings, close the drain faucet, close the faucet in the system that was opened and turn on the heat.

Box Cakes Dry Out

A cake made with a mix is delicious and easy, but mix cakes have one characteristic—they dry out quickly. Store them in a metal box or plastic bag with half an apple on the plate to preserve their freshness.

For a colorful outdoor buffet use plastic dinnerware in a variety of colors which include dawn gray, high noon yellow, sunset red and midnight black. To this, add cool green-veined glasses and a cornucopia of fresh fruit as the centerpiece. Cane handled flatware is a wonderful accessory for outdoor dining and proves a good companion to this durable dinnerware which is virtually unbreakable, chip proof and of solid color throughout.

Writing Is an Escape for This Man

By ANNE HEYWOOD

"My husband works for a large company, and makes a decent salary," a young mother writes, "but our life is simply awful, because he thinks he wants to write. Ever since he got back from World War II he has been determined to write a novel about his experiences."

"He works at it almost every evening, and all day Saturday, and it's as if I have no husband, and as if our children have no father."

He just works all day, eats dinner and disappears into the study to write.

"And the trouble is, he isn't any good at it. He has only done about 200 pages in six years. Well, that's because he rewrites all the time, I suppose."

"He's shown his book to me and I think it's very boring and babyish. Every publishing house has turned it down, and a close friend of his who is a good literary agent has told him he is no writer, and is trying to persuade him to stop.

But the more discouragement he gets, the more he buries himself in it. Is there anything I can do?"

This is a not-too-unusual problem, although I must say this husband is carrying it farther than most. Assuming that the literary agent is really a competent one, and that this man has no talent for writing, there are several things his wife can do.

First, she should realize that the writing represents some kind of escape, or solace, for him. Perhaps he is snowed under in the big company, with no recognition, no feeling of accomplishment. To him, writing represents "becoming somebody," and getting the prestige he yearns for.

In that case, he must face the fact that there are other fields in which he can get this feeling of accomplishment and recognition.

He ought to consult a good vocational psychologist who will give him tests, interpret them, and advise him on what field does honestly offer him success.

Second, he may have suffered more during his wartime experiences than anyone knows, or than he can show. Perhaps this is a way of getting it out of his system; in that case, too, he needs good psychological advice.

And third, the fact that he willingly spends so much time away from his wife, and feels so little need to share life with her, may indicate that she has somehow, unwittingly, failed him.

The two of them might gain from talking with a good counselor, perhaps a marriage counselor or the family doctor or minister.

Excess Salt May Cause Big Pores

It is not always easy for the mature woman to discover why her pores are becoming enlarged at such a fast rate.

Sometimes the pores are clogged with makeup. Her foundation base or powder may be at fault. The woman who has used the same makeup for years and has never thought of changing should re-examine it closely.

Or, it may be her diet. Too many sweet desserts, or foods containing fat and grease contribute a great deal to overworking the natural oils of the skin and thus enlarging the pores.

An excess use of salt may also be a cause of enlarged pores. So, the woman whose diet is at fault should strike any of these skin-damaging foods from her daily menus.

In caring for any skin condition, strict cleanliness is always the first and most important rule to follow. Since enlarged pores may act as good dirt boarders, extreme care must be taken to cleanse the face thoroughly.

Using a pure, neutral soap, work up a mild lather. Use warm, not hot, water. With a soft soapy washcloth, gently scrub the face, starting at the neck.

Rinse with warm water, then cold water. Rinse with warm water again, then dash cold water all over the face with your finger tips.

Pat your face dry with a soft towel, patting the entire face and neck. Remember to pat forward.

Using a piece of clean cotton, give your face an oil cleansing each day to remove the dirt stored deep in the pores.

Story Has Drama Child Will Find It

If you read out loud to baby, no need to make the Dragon so growly and the Princess tiny-tinkly. He gets the drama out of the story and will resent your interruptions.

Story-tellers in big libraries, where the kids, active or not, flock to listen, tell a story simply and easily. They allow brief interruptions, but not long speeches. They may show pictures as they go. But they do not feel they're acting the story out.

Looking at the clothes to be found at the Emerson School hand-me-down shop Friday evening are Mrs. L. D. McLawhlin (left), Mrs. Keith Mortimore (right) and daughter Kathleen, all of Melrose avenue. The school's Fall Festival will be held from 5 until 9 p. m.

Emerson Fall Festival Set for Friday

Mrs. Mortimore Lists Program for Evening's Fun

One of the main attractions at the Emerson Fall Festival Friday evening will be a teenage dance for those over 12 years of age. A juke box will provide music from 6 until 9 p.m., although interested people are invited to arrive at 5 p.m. when the activities are scheduled to begin.

Mrs. Keith Mortimore, general chairman of the festival, announces that L. D. McLawhlin will supervise the dance.

Anyone is welcome to arrive in time for dinner to be served cafeteria style beginning at 5 p.m. Among the attractions of the evening will be silhouettes, comic book stand, candy shop and a country store loop including a hand-me-down shop, bazaar booth and fish pond.

Girl Scouts of Emerson will sell popcorn and there will also be soft drinks and movies.

A special attraction to be kept a surprise until you arrive will be under the supervision of Mrs. Leslie Elmy.

Those assisting the chairman with arrangements for the festival are Mrs. Thomas Johnson, Mrs. Kenneth Casey, Mrs. Gilbert Williams, Mrs. William McConnell, Mrs. Anton Koenig, Mrs. Glendon Roberts and Mrs. William Wesch.

Others are Mrs. John Schatzely, Mrs. William Vandruska, Mrs. Louis Affolder and Mrs. Henry Woodworth.

Lecturers Ask Audience to Look Within

By DONNA ANDERSON

There was a group of lucky persons listening to Harry and Bonaro Overstreet Wednesday evening at Pontiac High School. Those who did not take advantage of this lecture really missed something.

The famous psychologist-lecturers were brought to Pontiac by the University of Michigan Extension service.

Their latest book, "The Mind Alive" has been polled as top favorite for months and it's easy to see why.

If you were not there, here is the media used by the Overstreets to paint their picture of mental health. They gave six clues to help decide how you or those you know look mentally.

1. Direction of Life Movement

Is yours an attitude of fight and flight or of loving and learning? To be the person he was meant to be man must move toward life. He must project himself into others and gather others to him.

2. An Individual's Sense of Proportion about Himself

A mentally healthy person projects himself to the capacity of his inborn intelligence, becomes superior and unique in certain ways, yet he neither feels superior nor inferior.

He has the "sense of the species"—feels that the more he lives the more he is like all other people.

3. Capacity for Give and Take

This is the process of growing up. A baby comes into the world as a receiver. If he did not receive he would not live. Gradually he learns to reciprocate. Finally he learns that the world moves by the process of give and take.

4. Power to Assimilate Negative Experiences

A child soon finds out that there is pain in the world. Life was not designed for him alone. He knows he will suffer. It's the highest cost of living.

The healthy mind learns to "roll with the punch." He learns to pounce on that opportunity and store it away for future use. He takes a sorrow and imagines how others would feel in the same position. He doesn't spoil his future because of what has happened in the past.

5. Relationship to Something Greater than Yourself

One way a person improves himself is by pointing to someone greater. Key words here are dedication, gratitude, reverence and stewardship.

In dedication we work for something more important than ourselves; we look toward greater wisdom with reverence and in gratitude we thank man for his varied skills. In stewardship we make our hearts a home place for the ideals we believe in.

6. Sense of Possibility

A mentally healthy person is eager for that which can still be done. Three of the greatest words ever spoken are "Let there be!" We must always look for something new to learn for a rut holds only stagnant water.

The Overstreets pointed out that our most effective weapon in combating mental illness is the recognition of symptoms of adverse behavior. They emphasized that a person cannot be helped until he knows that there is something wrong with him, for they explained:

When a person is physically ill, that sickness is within his body.

He knows it so he does something about it. Emotional illness comes when a person is out of tune in his relationship with what goes on outside of his body.

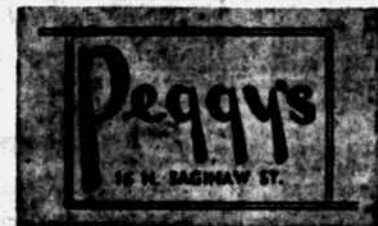

He often thinks it is everyone else who is wrong. Someone has to point out his trouble and convince him that his thinking needs rearranging.

The lecturers explained that when the individual rejects the wisdom of these six points he is on his way to mental illness.

They suggested a formula for an emotionally healthy life which an old sea captain believed in. He said it all depends on a person being limber, loving and a little looney.

First Invitation Receives Priority Over Friends'

By EMILY POST
Dear Mrs. Post: "What happens when an invitation has been accepted and the next day another one comes from someone else for the same time. The first invitation comes from people we know only casually and the second invitation is from very old friends initing us to dinner in honor of their wedding anniversary. We would of course rather accept this second invitation, but may we do so having already accepted the other?"

Having already accepted you can't back out. The best you can do is leave the first place fairly early and arrive very late at the other party.

Dear Mrs. Post: What is our responsibility in this situation? We have received an invitation to the wedding and reception of the daughter of a business associate. I do not know this woman well and there are no business reasons which might make a gift seem imperative. Would your answer be the same whether or not we go?

If you go a present is rather expected though not a requirement. Dear Mrs. Post: My boy friend is in the air force and stationed several hundred miles from here. His parents are going to drive down to visit him soon and he has asked them to bring me along. The trip will necessitate an overnight stay at a hotel.

I would like to know if I am expected to pay my own hotel bill. Also, would it be proper to offer my boy friend's father, a sum of money to take care of my meals? They have to send you an invitation themselves (you cannot suggest that you would like to go with them) and having invited you, they foot the bills.

Don't Mix Privileges With Rights

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD
Liking a boy doesn't give you rights of ownership. You may think he's just the boy for you—but it doesn't necessarily follow that he will, too. You may be content to go only with him, to see him all the time, but your wish isn't enough to make it so.

He may not know how you feel. So that special glamor is lacking from his thoughts of you. He may like six other girls as much as he does you. So he can't be expected to match your one-man devotion. Liking the lad is your privilege. But he has no obligation to return your affection.

That sad fact has this girl slightly confused. She's mixing up her privileges and her rights. She writes:

"Dear Miss Woodward: When I first met him a couple of months ago we went out pretty regularly. After one of our dates he asked me to go steady with him and I said no. I don't like to go steady. I knew he didn't like to go steady. I couldn't figure out why he'd asked me.

"Suddenly he stopped coming over with no explanation. So I asked him. He said that we were too much like going steady and he wanted to take other girls out. I let it go at that. I didn't see him for quite a while—then bumped into him at a party.

He danced with me several times and took me home, but when he left said nothing about when he would be seeing me again. The other night I saw him at a dance. He spoke—but that's all.

"I like him very, very much and would love to have him back. I can't forget him. So what's your advice?"

When you go steady with a boy each of you has certain rights and responsibilities. Each of you can afford to enjoy the security of certainty. When you're not going steady, you must be content with what comes your way.

Your first blaze of dates got you in pretty deep. You counted on him. He settled into it enough to reverse his stand on going steady. At least temporarily he thought he wanted it. But you scented that notion—and maybe you were pretty abrupt about it. You couldn't figure him out, but you didn't bother to talk the thing out. You dismissed the idea, leaving no loopholes for yourself.

Naturally, the opposite of seeing you "too much like going steady" was to see you not at all. He felt no responsibility toward you. He could notice you or ignore you, as it suited him.

You feel that he ought to keep dating you just because you like him so much and he once liked you. But he wants you to understand that he's free to do as he pleases.

Forget him? No. But forget to do anything about him except show him friendliness and warmth when you meet by chance.

Evening Song May Be the Sweetest

By MARY MARGARET MCBRIDE
The birthday party had been a great success, dinner perfect, conversation gay. But with the blowing out of the tiny candles on the pink-and-white cake, a guest whose hair, if he'd had any, would have been gray, began to talk about the best age to be. He chose 37 and added:

"By that time I'd found I could make a decent living but that I'd probably never be chairman of the board, and so I settled down to improving my putting and short-iron game." He turned to the woman on his right and went on patronizingly:—"I suppose all you females would like to be 16 forever—or at least no more than 20."

There were six women at the table and they rushed as one to refute the charge.

"I wouldn't be 16 or 18 or 20 again for anything in the world," said the youngest of them, and all the others nodded energetically. "At 18 my heart was broken once every week. I never did anything to suit myself and nothing anybody else did pleased me, either."

Then the women began in earnest to pick the best age. They all agreed that being 40 was tough, but being 41 not unbearable. Finally they fixed the ideal as any year between 30 and 35.

"By 30 you've been through the agonies of first love," said the lawyer. "You've known rejection, success and failure. You've formed standards for judging people and situations. If you're ever going to know what you want, you know then and if you're lucky, you have it or are about to get it."

"Yes," agreed the artist, "and you don't have to worry any more about trying to be beautiful! I think I minded that most when I was young. I wasn't pretty. I knew it and felt I ought to do something about it. It was a forlorn hope and I'm delighted to stop trying."

The youngest of the men chimed in with "Am I the only one who is satisfied to be just the age I am now? I was 40 my last birthday and I love it. I thought from the fuss everybody made that I'd rise from my bed that fateful morning knowing that life was over, but I couldn't see that I felt different. I'm in agreement with Dorothy Canfield Fisher who said that one of the many things nobody ever tells you about middle age is that it's such a nice change from being young."

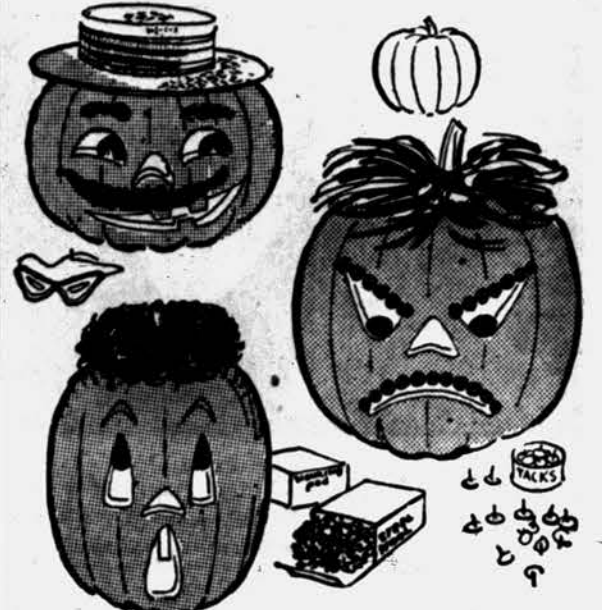

That reminded me of James Thurber, the humorist, who, looking very pleased with himself, told me one day: "At 40 the faces of the girls I once loved were misty as a dream. Now at 58, I can see them clearly again."

Mr. Thurber, who is convinced that life begins somewhere between 30 and 70, tells of a friend who became a wreck at 41 because he worried so much at the prospect of getting to be 60. "I know another man, though," the writer added, "who said he hadn't shot himself at 40, because he figured he wasn't worth the powder to blow himself up, but at 50 was having such a wonderful time that he wanted to live forever."

Could it be that there is something in what Harriet Beecher Stowe said about the sugar all being in the bottom of the cup?

There Are New Faces on Halloween Lanterns

By ELIZABETH HILLIER
Steel wool, scouring pads, and thumb tacks decorate these funny, frightened, and fierce pumpkin faces for Halloween. Carve the faces to give them as much expression as you can, and the trimmings are easy. Wispes of fine steel wool make bearding brows and a handlebar mustache for Mr. Straw Hat. Mat the steel wool slightly at the back of the brows and mustache and attach them to the pumpkin with pins.

Three bright gold-colored scouring pads of the curliest kind, somewhat matted together, make a startling wig for the jack-o-lantern who looks too frightened himself to scare anyone else. Small brads secure the bright mop to the pumpkin top.

Red or black may be the best colors for the thumb tacks used for the third pumpkin face. Simply outline the eyes and mouth with the tacks, and he might have a top knot of corn stalks. Pupils for the jack-o-lantern's eyes are circles of black paper.

by Laura Wheeler

Smooth Skins Need Plenty of Cleansing

Some women completely overlook the importance of cleansing their skin thoroughly in order to hold a clear, smooth complexion.

As a result, particles of dust, dirt and old make-up begin to penetrate the skin over a period of years, and the glowing skin of their teens gradually fades.

Next to cleansing, your skin needs lubrication to replace the natural oils that keep it soft and smooth. Daily lubrication not only postpones wrinkles, but will soften any small wrinkles that have already appeared in your skin.

When choosing a lotion for your skin, you should select one that does both of these and acts as a powder base, too.

This water-in-oil type emulsifier can be used as a body lotion, too. Apply generous amounts to your arms, legs, elbows and heels to attain entire body softness.

When you remove make-up, use a few drops of the lotion and apply it to your face and neck. Using an upward motion with your finger tips, spread the lotion from your neck to your chin, then to your nose, cheeks and finally, your forehead. Apply the lotion to the eyelashes, too, for easy removal of mascara. Tissue off excess lotion and old make-up.

Sisterhood Hears Talk

'Stage Fright' Discussed

Mrs. John B. Martin of Grand Rapids was guest speaker Tuesday afternoon at a meeting of Sisterhood Temple Beth Jacob.

Mrs. Helman Dickstein opened the meeting, which was held in the new temple on Elizabeth Lake avenue, with prayer.

Mrs. Harold Chapman introduced Mrs. Martin, wife of the auditor general of Michigan, who spoke on "Stage Fright."

The talk was based on her experiences as a member of adult classes in speech. She stated that much talent and leadership are lost to many organizations because of stage fright. We should all assume our responsibilities through communications and not be afraid to speak in groups, she declared.

Some practical ideas to overcome these fears are to develop poise and self-confidence, she said.

Before speaking you should acquire audience contact; when first arising you should smile, breathe deeply in order to relax, and reduce tension by holding something. When possible attain group participation, Mrs. Martin suggested. The closing prayer was given by Mrs. Arthur Rosenthal.

Your United Fund makes a scene like this possible. Mona Richie of Drayton Plains, Judy Bedall of Malcolm street and Mary Wolverton, of Drayton Plains (left to right) are learning the process of getting along with each other while assimilating valuable skills for taking care of themselves—besides having a lot of wholesome fun. This is a part of the program of the Girl Scouts of America. The girls are members of Waterford Village Troop 108 of the Northern Oakland County Girl Scout council which will benefit from your United Fund contribution.

Girl Scout Program Develops Valuable Citizens

Editor's Note: The Girl Scout Council is a red feather agency. Your support will afford many excellent experiences for them, and in the article below you learn something about what scouting does for girls.

It is heartening to know that all over the country millions of girls are repeating a ritual that is helping shape them as effective human beings and as valuable citizens.

What is this magic ritual? Simple! It's the Promise which every Girl Scout repeats after her Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag at the start of every Girl Scout gathering or ceremony, whether in homes, in schools, or under the sky.

It is an affirmation of faith and an assurance of effort to live by an ethical code that has guided two generations of American girls.

"On my honor . . . " says the Girl Scout . . . "On my honor, I will try . . . To do my duty to God and my country . . . To help other people at all times . . . To obey the Girl Scout Laws."

As the Girl Scout stands at salute and repeats these phrases in unison with her sister Scouts and her adult leaders, she is impressing deeper and deeper into her consciousness a code which will help guide her through life.

What are these Laws which the Girl Scout promises to observe? They are familiar to most of us. They require that a girl should try always to be trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind to animals, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, and clean in thought, word and deed.

The girls, who join their young voices in Promise, the leaders who take the same pledge, are part of our arsenal of defense against those who would divide us and who would cynically try to weaken our faith in the moral principles which have helped make us a great nation.

We have much to be proud of in the United States, but nothing in which we can take more pride than our daughters.

Linked through the simple moral and ethical code of Scouting, they are learning today the lessons that will shape them as the active, contributing, valuable citizens of tomorrow.

It's a feather in your cap when you give to the United Fund. You not only help make possible the existence of Girl Scouting, but other equally valuable agencies which make this a good community to live in.

Purses Are Gayer

Fabrics run wild in handbags this fall. If you're the kind that likes a lot of them, you've many to choose from. Paisleys, velvets and corduroys are on the counters just waiting to be a supplement to the durable standby leather bag.

Choose Baby Sitter in Several Ways

If you're looking for someone to care for a baby for a long while (if you work or are going out of town for a week) references and experience are nice, but equally important is finding someone who enjoys babies and will play with and love yours.

She may be young or mature, but watch how she treats the baby, whether she's concerned over his cleanliness or his comfort. You want someone gentle, kind and firm in a cheery way. Someone, of course, like you wish you were 24 hours a day.

There Are Ways to Gain That Space

A smart mother had little space in the area allotted for the nursery. She by-passed the bathinette for an enameled tub. She bought one of those small, unpainted desks. The drawers hold clothes. She painted it and covered the top with a waterproof quilted plastic.

She washed Baby there and dressed him there, while she was able to sit on the chair that came with it. When he grew up she peeled off the plastic, repainted it and let him use it for his desk.

Sometimes it takes a man to put you wise to cleaner, brighter washing!

More than 11,000 servicemen are telling washer owners to use all. They know from experience why all is prescribed for finest washings by the machine makers. They know how "controlled suds" prevent the washer troubles thick suds cause.

all washes almost without suds. And that is good, in two ways:—

First—old-fashioned sticky suds are really bad for your wash. They smother the tumbling action of the things in your wash; hinder the flow of water and detergent through the fabrics.

And in rinsing, those soiled suds cling to your clothes and actually redeposit the same dirt in them.

Second—thick, sticky suds are bad for your washer. Men who service automatic washers blame "too much suds" for 4 out of 5 of their service calls. (Somebody has to pay for those calls!)

all helps your automatic make good all's "controlled suds" let your washer work the way it's meant to. You paid for bright, sweet, super-clean washings—and trouble-free service. all will help your washer deliver exactly those things.

"Controlled suds" wash, rinse better all stays down in the water where the clothes are. It goes to work there, dissolving the dirt out of your things—without making millions of bubbles that do nothing useful but may threaten damage to your automatic.

And all's "controlled suds" flush out immediately with the rinse water. There's no possibility of a sticky suds film clinging to the clothes to get them dull and dirty all over again.

Forget the suds superstition

Your grandmother may have told you suds are a sign "the soap is working." But that was before all was invented.

Truth is that suds themselves have absolutely no cleansing power. None whatever, as every home economist knows.

Now millions of women know it, too—women who wash with all. They profit from this new-day "controlled suds" way of laundering—in brighter, whiter, sweeter smelling washes. In cleaner clothes that stay clean longer.

Let all prove itself to you

A trial will convince you. Try the best of all the others. Then try all. Try it on all your clothes, from the grimest work clothes to filmiest lingerie.

We guarantee you'll see for yourself a big difference in the look and feel and smell of freshness; in extra whiteness; in extra time your washed things stay clean . . . or you can have your money back.

Try out both types of all

So put all on your shopping list. At your grocer's you'll find two kinds of all. In the blue box, CONDENSED—favorite of millions. In the red box, EXTRA FLUFFY for use in your automatic, also for kitchen use and basin-washing of stockings and lingerie. The red box weighs and costs one-third as much as CONDENSED all in the blue box. Monsanto Chemical Company, St. Louis, Missouri.

Gourmet Dish Revised for Thrift

Almond Butter Flavors Perch

French Flair Evident in Elegant Recipe for Budget-Wise Cooks

As every thrifty cook knows, it's just as much fun to copy a gourmet dish with inexpensive foods as it is to copy a designer's model for an expensive gown. And easier!

Take these ocean perch filets with a chopped almond sauce, for example. The recipe is a direct steal from the Filet de Sole Amant, the popular French restaurant menu item.

But instead of the sole, the recipe calls for ocean perch, an inexpensive fish, quick frozen after being landed in New England ports. The almonds are chopped, instead of sliced, often a tedious process.

As a delightful accompaniment, the National Fisheries Institute suggests spiced apricots, recipe given below.

Ocean Perch With Chopped Almonds

1 package frozen ocean perch filets
1/2 cup almonds
2 tablespoons soft butter or margarine
Crushed peel of 1 lemon
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper

Let filets thaw on refrigerator shelf. Blanch almonds in boiling water and remove skins. Chop coarsely. Mix with butter. Add lemon peel, paprika, salt and pepper.

Separate filets and arrange skin side down in a baking dish. Spread top of fish with almond butter. Bake at 350 degrees (moderate oven) 10 to 12 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with fork. Serve immediately with spiced apricots.

Spiced Apricots
Drain syrup from one No. 2 can whole apricots (unpeeled) into saucepan. Add one-half cup brown sugar, one-third cup vinegar, two short sticks cinnamon, 1 teaspoon whole cloves and 1 teaspoon whole allspice. Boil five minutes. Add apricots and simmer five minutes. Chill apricots in syrup.

Serve Apple Slices

Canned apple slices chilled overnight in the refrigerator, then sprinkled with sugar and nutmeg and served with milk or cream make a most refreshing breakfast fruit dish for a fall morning. Nice as an easy, quick dessert for lunch or dinner, too.

OCEAN PERCH WITH CHOPPED ALMONDS—perch filets are baked in a buttery sauce and topped with chopped almonds. It's the American version of a gourmet French dish.

Lunch Should Give Third of Child's Nutrition Needs

A school child's lunch, complete with milk, should supply about one-third of his daily nutritional needs.

Whether served at home, in school or carried in a lunch-box, nutritionists say it should contain not less than these foods: One-half pint milk to drink, 2 ounces lean meat, poultry, fish, cheese or one egg, or one-half cup cooked dry beans or peas, or 4 tablespoons peanut butter.

Also three-fourths cup vegetables or fruit, or both, as well as one or more portions bread or muffins made of whole grain cereal or enriched flour, and 3 teaspoons butter or fortified margarine.

To help mothers prepare adequate lunches for their school children, a New York nutritionist was asked to give some special children's lunch recipes.

Tuna, Noodle Bisque
1 can condensed tomato soup
1 cup milk
medium onion, peeled and halved medium tomato, stem end removed 1/2 cup thin noodles
1/2 cup tuna
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup salt
Place soup, milk, onion, tomato, noodles and bay leaf in large

Thanksgiving Bird Apt to Be Cheaper

WASHINGTON (UP) — Your Thanksgiving Day turkey is likely to be cheaper this year than last, the Agriculture Department estimates.

It also indicated that near-record supplies of eggs and chickens will mean continued low prices for those items as far ahead as next spring for eggs and possibly longer for broilers.

The department said record turkey supplies already have reduced prices about five cents a pound below a year ago. Prices are "likely to remain below last year, by approximately that margin, through the remaining months of the season," it said.

It also said that seasonal price rises should be less than average as Thanksgiving Day approaches.

The report said egg production has been increasing since about early August and will continue to increase until March or April. Under those circumstances, it said, there is little basis for expecting a pronounced seasonal egg price rise in the near future, or to expect egg prices in the spring to substantially exceed the low levels of last spring.

Guests on Diets Will Appreciate Slimming Salad

You'll be pleasantly surprised at the generous proportions of giant-size Low Calorie Deluxe Salad. Both filling and refreshing, non-dieters will enjoy the same salad.

Low Calorie Deluxe Salad
1 can (10 ounces) green asparagus
1/2 cup salad oil
1/2 cup evaporated milk
2 tablespoons wine or cider vinegar
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons chili sauce or catsup
1 hard-boiled egg, chopped
2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper

Drain asparagus and cover with French dressing; chill. Make tomato flowers by cutting peeled tomatoes into six sections, halfway through. Put on salad greens and fill with cottage cheese.

Salad Dressing Has Masculine Appeal

It's as easy as can be to whisk together the sort of salad dressing men like on lettuce wedges or a combination of salad greens. An equal measure of undiluted evaporated milk and salad oil form the emulsion.

Included for sprightly flavor and color is chili sauce—and for extra goodness, chopped hard-cooked egg green pepper and onion.

In making this dressing, salad oil is suggested instead of olive oil because of its blandness. Because olive oil is so distinctive in flavor, it is more pleasing to many tastes to use olive oil only as part of the measure of oil, if at all.

Chiffonade Salad Dressing
1/2 cup salad oil
1/2 cup evaporated milk
2 tablespoons wine or cider vinegar
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons chili sauce or catsup
1 hard-boiled egg, chopped
2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper

Oil and milk should be at room temperature to form a good emulsion. Measure all ingredients into a screw top jar which holds at least a pint.

Cover tightly and shake vigorously for about a minute. Chill thoroughly before using. Makes 1 cup (four servings).

Australia Counted Only 42,883 Migrants in 1953

CANBERRA (AP) — Australia gained only 42,883 people from migration in 1953, less than half the 1952 figure. There were 74,915 arrivals but 32,032 people, including 25,295 Australians, left the country. Many Australians who leave the country are young people in their early twenties going chiefly to England to study or gain experience. Many marry and remain away indefinitely.

Apples and Honey Share Food Honors This Week

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Since there are only 52 weeks in any one year, it is necessary to honor several foods at once if we're going to have a "national this and that week." In the next 10 days we have National Macaroni Week, National Apple Week and National Honey Week.

We disposed of the macaroni with one of last week's byline stories. That leaves apples and honey to reckon with this week. Let's have a honey recipe first, then go on to apples. How about frosting flavored with honey? This one is easy to make and is good for such things as dressing up doughnuts or topping a chocolate cake.

Honey Coconut Frosting
1/2 cup butter or margarine
2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
1 tablespoon light cream
2 tablespoons honey
1 1/2 cup shredded coconut (toasted if desired)
Cream butter; then add part of sugar gradually, blending after each addition. Add remaining sugar, alternately with cream and honey, beating after each addition until smooth.

Spread over tops of doughnuts. Sprinkle with coconut while frosting is still soft. Makes 1 1/2 cups frosting.

We're going to pass along a number of new and interesting apple recipes. First choice among American homemakers goes to the Jonathan. This apple is excellent for out of hand eating as well as for cooked apple desserts.

You'll like this new version of an old-fashioned cobbler which has a top and bottom crust that tastes like crisp sugar cookies.

Apple Cookie Cobbler
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 cup milk
4-6 red Jonathan apples, cored and sliced
1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon cinnamon
1/2 cup flour
Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly. Add egg and vanilla and beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk. Divide cookie dough in half and roll each piece 8 inches square. Line an 8-inch square baking dish with one square of dough. Arrange apple slices over dough and sprinkle with mixture of sugar, cinnamon and flour. Top with square of cookie dough and sprinkle lightly with sugar and cinnamon mixture.

Bake in hot, 400-degree oven about 40 minutes. Serve warm with cream. Serves eight.

Apples and sweet potatoes are a natural combination. Here they are baked with sugar, cinnamon and orange juice.

Sweet Potatoes and Bacon With Apple Rings
4 medium cooked whole fresh sweet potatoes
4 slices of bacon
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup fresh orange juice
Remove skins from whole cooked sweet potatoes. Place an apple ring over each and wrap with a strip of bacon. Place in an 8x8x2-inch greased baking dish. Mix sugar with cinnamon. Add orange juice. Pour over potatoes and apples. Bake 45 minutes or until done in a preheated moderate oven (375 degrees). Four servings. Hot or cold, a baked apple makes a perfect fruit dish. If you are baking them to serve with the meat course, use a bread stuffing and omit any cream topping.

For a pretty pink applesauce use equal amounts of apples and cranberries. This makes a delicious accompaniment to serve with pork or poultry. With Halloween in the offing, why not make some taffy apples for the children?

Taffy Apples
2 cup sugar
1/2 cup water
Pinch of cream of tartar
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 teaspoon vinegar
1/2 cup cream (or undiluted evaporated milk)
5-6 apples
Place sugar and water in saucepan and heat until dissolved. Add cream of tartar, butter or margarine, vinegar and cream or evaporated milk. Cook, stirring constantly, to 200 degrees on the soft-crack stage. Remove from heat. Put a wooden skewer in the blossom end of each apple; dip into the hot syrup. Cool on a buttered plate. A simpler recipe for taffy apples is to combine equal parts of sugar and corn syrup and cook to the soft-crack stage.

Add chopped apples or pecans to pancake batter. Serve with honey or maple syrup.

Ready-filled shakers for kitchen and table

The handy new way to buy salt—handsome, filled, foil-wrapped, disposable salt shakers with plastic tops that shake or pour. Packed three to a carton; plain or iodized.

APPLES BAKED IN ORANGE JUICE—Plentiful fall apples, baked in fresh golden orange juice, make a delicious and nutritious dessert that the children will love. Use any good baking apple, serve hot or cold. Any leftovers may be served for breakfast.

Orange Juice Drenches Nutritious Baked Apples

"See the pretty apple, top of the crop... There's a musical from the mid-30s playing a return engagement on Broadway this fall that has a luring song about apples. It says that if you want that pretty apple you'll have to be 'up on your toes'."

Right now, on these crisp fall days, you just have to be on your toes enough to remember to order fresh apples from your nearest foodstore. The crop is coming in, and it's a joy—to the eye, to palate and, best of all, to your health.

Chief varieties on the market this fall are Delicious, Jonathan and McIntosh. The gay red Delicious, sweet and juicy, highly popular for eating out of hand and for salad, is in biggest supply.

The second of the Big Three apples of the fall is the Jonathan, a bright red, carmine-striped, tender and juicy fruit. It is good for all uses.

Then comes the bright red McIntosh, an excellent all-around apple, a little more on the tart side than the mild Delicious. It's delightful for out-of-hand eating, desserts, salads and cooking. Enjoy these and the many other local favorites that offer fall eating enjoyment.

During the apple season, make the most of this fragrant gift from nature.

Serve apples in some form every day and you will be rewarded with wide smiles of pleasure from your family and, best of all, you'll have the confident feeling that you are doing your very best to keep your loved ones hale, hearty and healthy.

Boil Dry Beans Gently to Keep Them Whole

To cook dry lima and navy beans so they will remain whole, boil them gently and avoid a lot of stirring. Rapid boiling and frequent stirring cause bean skins to break.

When cooking beans under pressure, allow time for a slow rise and fall of pressure so that the beans will cook evenly without breaking.

The amoeba is eyeless but its body is sensitive to light.

Kitchen Helpers Featured in 'Hit and Miss' Column

Pontiac Press Food Editor

This is going to be another "hit and miss" column, as a colleague of mine aptly phrased it. I always have so many things I want to tell you that I just can't wait to put them in an article one at a time. I hope you like this new way; let me know, please.

In the products line I have one new one to report and a reminder about a not-so-old one. Monosodium glutamate — MSG — has taken its place on the stove with salt and pepper. It comes out under various brand names.

The newest brand comes from a company long famous for instant coffee. This seasoning salt comes in little foil packages, easy to tear apart, each containing enough for one recipe of soup, stew, sauce or salad dressing.

The other product is not a food but an all-purpose pot cleaner and scouring cloth. It came out during the war as one company's answer to the shortage of metals.

So popular has it been that the company continues to produce the little yellow pads and is now engaged in an intensive advertising campaign. I like the pads very much and use them all the time.

Last summer I heard about an unusual way of making pumpkin pie. This is a good time of year to try it out on your family. It's made with instant vanilla pudding, and could be served in dessert dishes without any crust if desired.

Pumpkin Custard Pie

1 baked pie shell
1 1/2 cup cold milk
1 cup canned pumpkin
2 tablespoons brown sugar or molasses
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
Small pinch cloves
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1 package instant vanilla pudding

Put the ingredients, as they are listed, into a big bowl and beat rapidly with a rotary beater for exactly half a minute by the clock. Turn into the baked shell, set aside and the filling will be firm very shortly.

Beef Vegetable Soup Mix Bows Into Food Stores

A brand-new beef vegetable soup is making its debut on your grocer's shelves this month. It is the newest addition to the line of fine quality soup mixes put out by a famous tea company.

This makes four envelope-type soups now offered by this food company: Chicken noodle, tomato vegetable, onion and now, beef vegetable.

Long a favorite in American households, beef vegetable soup, historically speaking, is one of the oldest in soup annals. It all began with a good old-fashioned soup bone simmering in a kettle on the back of the stove for hearty, flavorful stock.

To it was added fresh vegetables, diced, chunked, or perhaps just dropped in whole to stay awhile for flavor.

Beef vegetable soup was a masterpiece in the hands of the experienced cook, who could tell by the smell of it, or the color or taste whether the stock was rich enough, the vegetables too few or too many, whether more seasoning was needed.

But as housewives began to rely more and more on exact recipes and guesswork was taken out of cooking, soups, like some other dishes, became real projects to prepare.

This new prepared beef vegetable soup is a gastronomic delight. A rich beef-flavored stock and six old-fashioned soup-type vegetables make it good eating.

Wide, tender enriched egg noodles add heartiness and give it a "stick to the ribs" character.

Beef vegetable soup is truly a family soup. As a meal starter, or that one hot dish so necessary for school lunches, or for a hurry-up snack, you will find this new soup filling the bill in your household.

This week I received two new cookbooks; one you will see in a variety of stores and supermarkets, the other you have to send for.

Betty Crocker's Good and Easy Cookbook (Simon and Schuster, New York, $1) is a streamlined, little spiral-bound volume that "emphasizes timesaving, step-saving, and convenience in food preparation and meal planning."

The subject matter is listed under four main headings: Breakfast, Lunch, Dinner and the Fourth Meal. The Fourth Meal is described as the meal that people eat for fun. Included are recipes for refreshments for any hour of the day.

I think this might make a nice bridal shower gift. While it is not an all-inclusive cookbook, it is an excellent guide for a brand-new cook who scares easily at the thought of preparing a complicated meal. This little book that takes advantage of all the modern innovations in food will be just her dish of tea.

Lancaster County, Pennsylvania gives us the second cookbook. It's a slim pamphlet containing all tested Pennsylvania Dutch recipes.

The editors, John Baer's Sons, say it is their hope that the representative dishes will whet your appetite for more. If you would like a copy of the Lancaster County Cookbook, call me, and I'll tell you where to get one.

Biscuit Dough for Pizza

Use drop biscuit dough for a pizza base. Top with tomato puree, grated onion, anchovies and grated cheddar cheese. Bake in a hot oven, cut in wedges and serve at once.

Combine ready-prepared applesauce, cranberry sauce and pecans; chill, and serve with baked pork chops and canned sauerkraut. Tasty!

For Sunday Brunch

Guests for Sunday brunch will enjoy this menu: Chilled unsweetened canned grapefruit sections in orange juice; French pancakes filled with currant jelly served with sausages; homemade or bakery cinnamon rolls and lots of good strong coffee.

Ever try pouring a cola beverage over lemon ice? It makes a refreshing drink.

To Prepare Pastry

To prepare an unbaked pastry shell for a 9-inch pie pan, roll the pastry out so it is 12 inches in diameter. Fit the round into the pan and trim the overhang until it is about half an inch; now turn the overhang under so it is flush with the rim of the pan and flute.

Edinburgh's famous floral clock, on Princes street, uses 25,000 flowers annually.

Glorify Bakery Cake

Pound cake from the bakery tastes extra good this way: Cut the cake into strips about half an inch thick. Spread one wide and two narrow sides with soft butter and honey, then roll in coconut. Place on a cookie sheet and toast in a moderately hot oven until golden brown. Serve at once.

Rice Crowned With Tuna Eggs

Here's a casserole with flavor as elegant as its name—Spanish Tuna Crown! It's wonderful main dish all through the year.

Nourishing Spanish rice comes steaming from the oven topped with eggs deviled with tuna fish. Pour a hot creamy cheese sauce over the top and you have a flavor combination supreme. A delicious, hearty luncheon dish or a main dish for dinner during meatless days.

Canned Spanish rice is used in this recipe. That means a welcome time savings for you if housecleaning is also on your list of "things to do."

You'll find canned Spanish rice is a wonderful dish which really needs nothing added for complete eating enjoyment.

Spanish Tuna Crown

3 eggs, hard-cooked
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1 cup salad dressing
1 1/2-ounce can tuna
2 1/2-ounce cans Spanish rice
1 cup milk
1/2 pound cheese
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/2 teaspoon salt

Put yolks through sieve. Add salt, pepper, mustard, salad dressing and tuna. Beat until fluffy. Fill egg halves. Put rice in greased 1 1/2 quart baking dish. Arrange egg halves on top of rice. Bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees.

For sauce, place milk in saucepan, slice cheese into milk. Heat slowly, stirring until well-blended. Add salt, Worcestershire Sauce and mustard.

Just before serving place cheese sauce on top of Spanish rice and eggs. Serves six.

Off the Shoulder Blouse Blamed for $700 Crash

SPRINGFIELD, Vt. (UP)—The off-the-shoulder blouse of Mrs. Nat Shapiro slipped lower than the designer intended as she operated an automobile in Springfield.

Modest, you might say, resulted in $700 damage. The Jamaica, N. Y., woman reached to straighten the blouse, lost control of the car and it smashed into a utility pole. Mrs. Shapiro and her husband were not seriously injured.

BAKED SANDWICH MEAL—A sandwich becomes a meal when it is a sandwich bake! Under that crisp golden topping is a zesty filling of seasoned combination of deviled ham and cheese—the perfect answer for a late porch supper or a hearty luncheon.

Deviled Sandwich Bake Takes Star Role on Menu

You never heard of a baked sandwich meal? Then, you've a pleasant treat in store—a treat to the palate as well as the pocket-book.

And the charm is worked simply by using the new family size can of deviled ham that is now in the market. The large 4½-ounce tin contains enough of that zesty seasoned product to prepare a sandwich bake that gives four generous portions.

Deviled ham has long been America's favorite sandwich filling, and, in addition, women have discovered its bonus use as a main dish ingredient. The wholesome, perky taste of deviled ham works wonders in relatively plain foods such as macaroni, rice, potatoes and vegetable casseroles.

It is the smart homemaker who keeps a supply of deviled ham in the cupboard for more than just emergency use.

An appetizing combination of cheese and deviled ham is definite proof that a sandwich can become a whole meal. Serve this bake with crisp salad greens and feature it at that special late porch supper.

Deviled Sandwich Bake

4 slices white bread
1 family-size (4½ oz.) can deviled ham
1 thin slice process cheese
2 eggs
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon minced onion (optional)

Make four sandwiches, using two slices bread, a generous amount of deviled ham and two slices cheese to each sandwich. Press sandwiches into greased square (9x9x2) pan.

Beat remaining ingredients together and pour over sandwiches. Let stand one hour. Bake in moderate 325 oven for 45 minutes, or until puffed and brown.

Serve at once. Makes four portions.

Take Advantage of Harvest Time

The wonderful time of harvest is at hand again... cool, crisp fall days... vivid autumn colors wherever we look... rosy cheeks and big appetites once again in vogue.

And in the markets nature's many-hued abundance of fresh vegetables stands in magnificent array, providing in their silent splendor the perfect inspiration for a harvest feast.

There's a natural seasoning designed for the best flavor that is a must for your vegetable days—one that promises delicious succulent tastes to match the very finest appearance, color and aroma you can produce from a vegetable dish.

It's MSG, the third shaker. How very simple yet effectively it restores natural flavors that vegetables lose in traveling, standing, storage... makes them taste garden fresh, just picked, delicious.

Just sprinkle it in during cooking to put your meals at harvest time—or any time—in the very best of natural good taste.

Vegetables-On-Skewers
(To serve with grilled or broiled meat, fish or poultry.)

1 pound squash (zucchini, Hubbard or other winter-type squash) cut in 1-inch squares.
2 green peppers, washed and seeded, cut into 1½-inch squares.
1 bunch carrots, pared and cut into 1½-inch lengths.
4 small potatoes (¾ pound) pared.
¾ pound plum tomatoes (30)
¼ cup cooking oil
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon MSG

Simmer squash, carrots and potatoes separately ahead of time (each in one-half cup water, one-half teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon MSG) until vegetables are just underdone. Drain and cool.

Combine vegetables, including whole tomatoes, in large bowl with oil, salt, pepper and MSG. Toss lightly to coat. Let stand one hour to marinate.

Thread vegetables alternately on long skewers. Broil over hot coals four to five minutes, turning four times and basting with warm butter mixture. Remove from skewer. Serve as accompaniment to main dish. Serves six.

New Cook Book Doubles as Rehearsal for Dinner

Don't you often wish you could rehearse a company meal, especially if you're trying something new? The old adage "Practice makes perfect" was never so true. "Time to Entertain" by Charlotte Turgeon (published by Little, Brown and Company, Boston, $3.75) takes the place of the rehearsal. The author has done the practicing for you.

Mrs. Turgeon has taken to heart the problems of the hostess who enjoys serving unusual foods and in this new cook book has planned well-balanced, delightful menus, made out shopping lists, given detailed instructions what to do before the guests arrive.

A section of her book especially applicable to this season of the year is "Autumn Buffet for 6 to 8 People," which includes this Avocado Lobster Salad. For those who can't get fresh lobster, the National Fisheries Institute suggests canned lobster, or frozen lobster tails cooked and cut up.

Avocado Lobster Salad
2 avocados
1½ cup salad oil
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 clove garlic, minced or pressed
Salt and black pepper
1½ cups mayonnaise
2 teaspoons chopped capers

4 tablespoons chopped celery
3 to 4 cups lobster meat, cut in large chunks
Lettuce leaves

Beforehand Preparation: Pare the avocado and slice it around the middle to release the seed. Combine the salad oil, lemon juice, garlic, salt, and pepper and pour over the avocado. Let this marinate in the refrigerator. Combine mayonnaise with the capers and celery. Save out 6 to 8 good chunks of lobster and bind the rest with a little of the mayonnaise. Keep in the refrigerator.

Before the Guests Arrive: Line individual plates with lettuce leaves to make cups. Spread with a thin coating of mayonnaise. Place an avocado ring on each lettuce cup to form a nest for the lobster. Fill the nests with the lobster and spoon a little mayonnaise over each. Top with a piece of lobster and if you have boiled your own lobsters, use the small claws as decoration.

Make 'Chocolate Zoo'

Your small fry will love a "chocolate zoo." Make it by dipping animal crackers in two squares of unsweetened chocolate (2 ounces) melted with a half teaspoon of shortening. Dry the chocolate-dipped animals on a wire rack.

"Michigan Deer Story" is the title of the film to be shown at the Jayne Adams PTA at 7:30 p.m.

Boy, 6, Suffers Fatal Injury When Mother's Pickup Is Smashed

EDGEFIELD, S.C. (AP)—A school bus smashed into a pickup truck careened down a 25-foot embankment and crashed into a creek 14 miles west of here today. Police said a 6-year-old boy was killed and 35 to 40 pupils injured.

Sheriff C. R. Jackson said the bus either passed a couple of pupils or they were late at their pickup point. The mother of one, Mrs. Alice White, drove after the bus with the children in a pickup truck, passed the bus and then apparently stopped suddenly, he reported.

The bus plowed into the rear of the pickup, crushing it against an embankment, then continued out of control down a steep hill and into the end of a concrete culvert pipe. Passengers rushed the injured to the infirmary here, and to the University Hospital at Augusta, Ga.

The sheriff's office said the dead child was the son of Mrs. White, the driver of the truck, who was seriously injured.

Nine Firemen Overcome by Fumes in Flint Blaze

FLINT (AP)—Nine firemen were overcome by toxic fumes yesterday while fighting a blaze in Keba Shoe Store in downtown Flint. None required hospitalization.

The fumes came from burning plastic and rubber. Damage was estimated at $4,000 to $5,000.

Schoolmen Elect Head

Break Ground for Fire Station

Work Is Under Way on New Hall to Serve Green Lake Area

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP—Ground was broken for the new West Bloomfield Township Fire Hall yesterday at the site on Greenlake road just off Commerce road.

The building when completed will be 56 by 42 feet and will consist of an engine room with additional space for a day room, bedroom, kitchen and bath to be completed later. Ernest Hull is the contractor for the construction.

The station will have an all-volunteer staff to start with and will be affiliated with the Keego Harbor Fire Department. It will serve Green Lake area residents.

An appropriation of $32,000 to build the fire station and purchase equipment was approved at the annual township meeting last April, and an additional $1,600 was earmarked for radio equipment for the new truck for the station.

Dondero to Speak at Waterford GOP Luncheon

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP—The Republican Women's Club of Waterford Township has issued an open invitation to residents in the area to meet their Republican political candidates at a desert luncheon, scheduled for 12:30 p.m. Monday in the Community Activities Building.

Congressman George A. Dondero, U. S. representative from Oakland County, will be the principal speaker.

All other state and county Republican candidates have been invited to attend the affair, and most have promised to be present. Residents attending the luncheon are asked to bring a sandwich. Dessert and beverage will be served by the club.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth C. Crisman, 315 Wesley St., have announced the birth of a daughter Oct. 18.

Dying Mother Seeks Substitute

Asks Mate to Advise for New Mom for Her 8-Year-Old Daughter

LONDON (INS)—A frail London housewife and mother who has been told she has only about 18 months to live is helping her husband find a new mother for their eight-year-old adopted daughter.

At the urging of his hospitalized wife, Jack Ford, a 41-year-old interior decorator is advertising for a "new" mother for the child, Sheila.

A pathetic little sign placed by Ford in a neighborhood shop window tells the story. It reads:

"Wanted: A mother No. 2 for an eight-year-old girl. In about 18 months, according to doctor, mother No. 2 might become mother No. 1."

Mrs. Kathleen Ford, 42, says she wants to be sure before she dies that there will be "someone to take my place as mother, and maybe as wife."

Ford explained that the girl, Sheila, has been in the home of foster parents since Kathleen went to the hospital.

"Before I can have her back home," he said, "I must have someone to look after her while I'm at work."

"This is a serious proposition. I am looking for a lonely woman, about our age, who wants a home in exchange for looking after me and our child."

"The deal definitely includes marriage after my wife has gone."

Smiling through tears, Kathleen said she and Jack have had a good life in the 18 years of their marriage.

"Now," she murmured, "we must do what is best for Sheila. She is the future."

3 Jaycee Units Collect Clothing

Operation Hazel to Aid Hurricane Victims Living in Toronto

PONTIAC, Waterford Township and Birmingham Junior Chambers of Commerce have joined in the statewide Operation Hazel program to collect clothing and bedding for hurricane victims in Toronto.

A convoy of trucks will leave Detroit for Toronto Saturday morning. Deadline on contributions at stations in the three Oakland County communities is 5 p.m. tomorrow.

In Pontiac, garments and sheets, blankets and pillows may be dropped off at Fox Cleaners, 719 W. Huron; Ed Williams Tire Co., 451 S. Saginaw; Boys' Club, 430 E. Pike, and the M. A. Benson Lumber Co., 540 N. Saginaw.

Pontiac Jaycee President John Benson said contributions may also be made at Salvation Army headquarters, 29 W. Lawrence.

Claude L. Kidd, president of the Birmingham chapter, has arranged for the F. J. Mulholland Co., 233 N. Woodward, to be used as a collecting station.

In Waterford Township, the three firehalls will be collecting points, said John Poppis, Jaycee head.

MacKenzie Clinic Block Laying Slated

WALLED LAKE—Block laying for the Dr. O. R. MacKenzie Memorial Clinic is scheduled to begin Saturday morning, if enough volunteers show up to do the work.

The board of directors have sent out a call for men in the area to turn up at 8 a.m. at the site on Ladd road near south Pontiac Trail.

Purpose of the building is to provide space for medical and x-ray facilities in the community.

Acknowledgment was made at the last board meeting of a large cash donation by Mrs. MacKenzie. New fund-raising events are being planned, according to directors of the project.

Gas Hearing Postponed

Offers to Clean Milford Alleys

Glen Tyler Will Give Service and Truck on Civic Project

MILFORD—A 28 year old Milford resident has offered his service and his truck as a one-man clean-up squad to clear the alleys behind the stores along Main street.

Glen Tyler, clerk in the business administration offices of the General Motors Proving Grounds, has made the "free-of-charge" offer to the village.

"After seeing the condition of the alleys in Milford, I figured it was high time somebody cleaned them up—they're a definite fire hazard," he said.

"I hope that once the alleys are cleaned up, the village may take up the project and grade and recondition the alleys, making it accessible for fire equipment to operate," he added.

He voiced the hope that once the alleys are cleaned, perhaps the merchants would keep them in good condition.

Tyler, who lives with his wife Margaret and their three children, Sharon, 5, Carolyn, 4, and Glen, 2, is a lifelong resident of Milford.

Holly Resident's Phone Habits Save His Life

HOLLY (AP)—Arthur Harpley may owe his life to habit.

Long a sweeper at American Spring Co., of Holly, Harpley never failed to report without calling on the telephone. Yesterday he neither called nor showed up.

Curious because of the break in habit, Production Manager Clare W. Lake went to Harpley's home at 11850 Andersonville Rd. The doors were locked and shades drawn. Lake shouted. He thought he heard a faint response. Then there was a loud thump.

Forcing a back door, Lake found Harpley hanging from the side of his bed, victim of a stroke. Harpley said he had heard Lake call, but couldn't answer, although he managed to throw his legs off the bed and cause the thump which Lake heard.

Physicians at Pontiac General Hospital said the prompt finding of Harpley may have saved his life.

WASHINGTON (UP) — President William V. S. Tubman of Liberia set out on a quick visit tonight to Baltimore before leaving tonight on a goodwill swing through the Midwest and South.

He will visit several American educational institutions and meet with leaders in various regions during his tour.

His itinerary, still unofficial and incomplete, includes an Oct. 26 visit to Detroit.

Report 4 Filipinos, 16
Huk Killed in Fight

MANILA (INS) — Four Philippine soldiers and 16 rebel Huk were reported killed today in a clash in Quezon Province west of Manila.

A Philippine army spokesman said the Communist-led Huk band ambushed a small army detachment, starting a pitched battle.

In addition to the 16 rebels killed, eight were captured.

The army fatalities were listed as one officer and three enlisted men.

This was the first clash with the Huk in several weeks.

The rebels have been comparatively quiet since their leader Luis Taruc surrendered early this year and was convicted of treason and other crimes and sentenced to prison.

Million Dollar
Jubilee of Light Show Sunday

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—On Sunday night, home viewers will see the first million-dollar production in TV history, a two-hour network show including such stars as Eddie Fisher, Lauren Bacall and President Eisenhower.

Thomas E. Edison invented the first practical light bulb 75 years ago today. To celebrate the event, 300 electric companies are footing the bill for a TV show that should merit strong adjectives in a season of so-called "spectaculars."

The electric people selected as producer David O. Selznick, a logical choice since he has made the most successful movie, "Gone With the Wind." I caught up with him during his whirlwind schedule and pumped him for details on the show. Until now he has been close-mouthed about it.

"They came to me with the idea for a diamond jubilee of light show last spring," he said between bites of a hasty lunch at his desk in CBS' TV City. "The deal was finalized in early summer. I was given no instructions, except that it would be a two-hour show on all networks and with no commercials."

He couldn't name the cost of the show but local estimates place it at around a million dollars. The professional actors include Judith Anderson, Walter Brennan, Joseph Cotton, Dorothy Dandridge, Brandon DeWilde, George Gobel, Helen Hayes, Guy Madison, Thomas Mitchell, David Niven and Kim Novak.

Ben Hecht wrote the script with assistance from such men as John Steinbeck and Irwin Shaw. Film portions were directed by King Vidor, William Wellman and Christian Nyby.

"At first I thought of a format in terms of one story," Selznick explained. "It was to be a sort of American cavalcade, weaving in the changes that happened to one family starting with the electric light, but that appeared to be too dreary, too sustained."

"Then I got the idea of basing the show on the word 'light.' And so the various parts of the program will depict the light of faith, of liberty, of learning, etc. Since the show was going wherever television is received, I felt it should appeal to all parts of the audience."

"I worked out a chart to include elements that would appeal to babies, to adolescents, to young married people, to the middle-aged and old folks. Thus I have Kim Novak, Guy Madison and Eddie Fisher for the young audience, and Helen Hayes and Judith Anderson for the more mature viewers."

"The main thing I wanted to get across was the hope for the future. That is what everyone is looking for."

The program starts at 9 p.m. EST.

In a single second the U.S. power and light industry can generate enough electric energy to supply an average U.S. family for five years.

Street Crew Foreman Is Ionia's 14th Traffic Victim

PORTLAND, Mich. (UP)—John I. Miner, 60-year-old street crew foreman, was listed today as Ionia County's 14th traffic fatality of the year.

He was crushed to death Wednesday evening under the wheels of a dump truck. Police said he apparently fell from the vehicle while it was spreading gravel on a road.

Small Town Has Marriage Boom

'Couple-Chasers' Guide Prospective Spouses to Justices of Peace

HERNANDO, Miss. (UP) — Young "couple-chasers" are guiding the marriage-bound toward the altar in this "Gretna Green," and some of their "clients" are younger than the youths who direct them.

The couple-chasing boys cash in on cupid's trade by lining the highways leading into Hernando and stopping out-of-county cars to see if the occupants want to get married.

For a small fee, they steer them to the circuit clerk's office and a justice of the peace and then hope officials will fork over an extra tip for bringing in the business.

Their "clients" in this and other nearby marriage meccas recently included a 12-year-old girl and her 22-year-old spouse and a 14-year-old girl who wed a once-divorced 27-year-old man.

Couples bent on escaping such unromantic postponements in their states as blood tests and three-day waiting periods make couple-chasing a profitable sideline.

"You ought to see it here on Saturday," complained one woman. "There'll be 15 or 20 boys strung along the highway stopping almost every car that passes to see if the occupants want to get married."

There's a city ordinance against couple-chasing, but enforcing it presents a problem. The court square is outside city jurisdiction, and Hernando has no police force.

Sheriff J. J. Elmore almost stamped out the practice after the county board of supervisors passed a resolution against soliciting couples for guide service. But when the justices ruled the supervisors had no power of law, the practice began to flourish again.

Several civic groups have indicated they'll demand a new crackdown following reports that many couple-chasers skip school to ply their trade.

Meanwhile, Hernando's marriage statistics soar. Figures in the state capital reveal that during the last six months of 1953, 4,465 licenses were issued by the circuit clerk's office.

Woman, 82, Burned to Death in Jackson

JACKSON (UP) — Mrs. Minnie M. Fonner, 82, Jackson, burned to death in the basement of her home Wednesday when her clothes caught fire while she was putting papers into the furnace to burn them.

Her body was found in the basement by Mamie West, who had been rooming with her for 31 years.

Miss West found the body in the furnace room when she searched the house for Mrs. Fonner after returning to the home and not finding her. All of the victim's clothes had been burned off.

Firemen said her clothes apparently caught fire while she was pushing papers into the furnace.

Wife of Michigan Red
Is Ordered Deported

DETROIT (INS) — Mrs. Ada Wellman, whose husband, Saul, was one of six top Michigan communists convicted of violating the Smith Act, has been ordered deported to her native Canada.

At a hearing before immigration authorities in Detroit last July she refused to answer questions as to whether she was a Communist.

Jane Butterfield, district director of the Immigration Department, said Canadian authorities have agreed to admit her to Canada.

Newborn Gets Hair Cut

SALISBURY, Mo. (UP) — Donald Clickner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clickner, was born with such a heavy head of hair he had to have a regular barbershop haircut before he was a month old.

Donald sat on his father's lap and endured the operation in grim silence.

Cornell Scientist Likely to Win '54 Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (U-P)—Dr. Vincent du Vigneaud of New York, Cornell University biochemist, is described by the Stockholm newspaper Expressen as the likely winner of the 1954 Nobel prize in medicine and physiology, to be awarded tonight.

The Expressen said there was a possibility, however, the prize would be given to three Boston doctors for polio research.

There were strong indications Dr. Du Vigneaud, 53-year-old native of Chicago, would receive the prize for research on two hormones produced by the posterior lobe of the pituitary gland, it said.

The three Boston polio experts were identified as Dr. John F. Enders, Dr. Thomas Weller and Dr. Frederick Robbins.

The Nobel prizes which amounted to $35,067 each last year, are awarded from a fund established by the will of Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite. The prize in medicine and physiology was shared in 1953 by Dr. Hans Adolph Grebs of Sheffield, England, and Dr. Fritz Albert Lipmann of Cambridge, Mass., for research on basic life processes in human cells.

HERBERT W. STRALEY

One of the most active members in the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police, Herbert W. Straley today announced he would accept the group's state-wide chairmanship of the membership committee. Straley, commended for doing an outstanding job on the communications committee last year when Oakland County's teletype system received final approval, was requested to serve as chairman by Thomas Gillespie, police chief of St. Joseph City and president of the association. Straley said he would start immediate plans "to encourage greater state-wide police cooperation and efficiency to meet the challenge of modern law enforcement."

Turkey Dickering for U.S. Grain Aid

ANKARA, Turkey (U-P)—Siddi Yircali, minister of economy and commerce, said today the Turkish government is negotiating with the United States for grain seed supplies to help piece out this year's poor crop.

"For the present there is no bread shortage but Turkey is facing a very poor crop this year and is obliged to take necessary measures concerning its needs," Yircali said.

Informed sources said the Turkish government has asked the Americans to supply 150,000 tons of grain seed under economic aid.

Heavy Rains Give State Large Mushroom Crop

LANSING (U-P)—The heavy rains of recent weeks have been cursed by many, but they did bring out an unusually good crop of mushrooms.

The State Conservation Department reported today that more people than usual are hunting mushrooms in southern state parks.

The department, however, urged caution on those planning to seek out the succulent fungi. They were advised to check one of the many books available on distinguishing edible species from poisonous before eating the fruits of their trip afield.

Bib Replaces Green Cap at DePaul University

CHICAGO (U-P)—The green beanie for De Paul University's freshmen, it appears, is as obsolete as the raccoon coat.

Instead, the upperclassmen of the Student Activity Council have decreed that freshmen wear a white baby bib with letters. "I'm a little demon from De Paul." The school's nickname is the "Blue Demons."

Gas Poisoning Dangers Cited

State Issues Warning as Carbon Monoxide Season Arrives

LANSING (U-P)—The Michigan Health Department warned today the season of carbon monoxide poison deaths is upon us.

The department said the recent death of eight persons in a Detroit rooming house "is a grim reminder that every year about this time lives are lost to the colorless, odorless and tasteless gas."

The department emphasized that carbon monoxide is present wherever fuel is burned.

The department, noting that good ventilation is the best protection against monoxide poisoning, issued this advice:

Have your furnace lining inspected to insure that no gas cannot leak into heating ducts. Be sure the carburetor of your auto is properly adjusted and the exhaust system absolutely tight. Keep a window open when driving long distances and close the fresh air intake in congested traffic so that exhaust fumes will not be sucked into your car.

If you feel drowsy or slightly nauseated while driving, stop and get out. Don't park in a car with the motor running, even when the windows are open.

In a tourist cabin or hunting lodge raise the window before going to bed. That snug, drowsy feeling may be poisoning.

Anyone overcome by monoxide poisoning should be removed at once to the open air and kept warm, and a physician should be called. Artificial respiration may be applied while waiting for the doctor.

India Wins Control of French Colonies

NEW DELHI, India (U-P)—France and India signed a formal agreement today for the transfer Nov. 1 of French settlements on the Indian subcontinent to Indian rule. The accord still must be ratified by the French and Indian parliaments.

The ceremony was held only three days after legislators from the scattered territories—ruled by Paris for nearly three centuries—voted 170-8 for merger with India.

France and India had agreed upon the vote to decide the future of the 136 square miles and 325,000 people of the five settlements—Pondichery, Karikal, Chandanagor, Mahe and Yanam—which have been the subject of Indian agitation for seven years.

Man Kills Wife, Self in Wild Gun Episode

NEWTON, Kan. (U-P)—James Walker, 44, of Omaha shot his estranged wife to death and wounded himself fatally in a wild shooting affray here last night.

Mrs. Beverly Walker, 22, of Wichita, was killed as the couple sat in Walker's car at a filling station.

Two police cars arrived at that moment and Walker rammed his car into both. The officers fired at least 11 shots. They heard three shots from Walker's car then all was quiet.

They found the woman dead and Walker suffering from a wound in the neck and two in the chest. He died in a Newton hospital today.

The Maimed, the Wounded and the Crippled Live On

Scars of War Run Deep as Greece Looks to Future

Editor's note: Following is the second of a series of articles by Spyros P. Sellinas, foreign news editor of Vradia, one of Athens' largest daily newspapers. In this series Sellinas tells how the Greek people feel about the United States and the position Greece occupies in the international scene.

By SPYROS P. SELLINAS

Greece alone of the 14 North Atlantic Treaty countries has fought a decisive war against communism on her own soil, and the effects of that long and costly struggle will burn deeply in the spirit of the Greeks and affect the economy and the politics of the land for years to come.

Athenians still point out the machine-gun bullet holes in the walls of houses at the center of the city, marking the line at which Communist forces were finally stopped in their efforts to seize the capital late in 1944 and early in 1945.

Then there were the long years of mountain warfare against the guerrillas supported and aided by Bulgaria, Albania and Yugoslavia until the latter's break with the Communists in 1948. Thousands of Greek children, abducted by the Communists during those war years, probably never will return to their homes, but the maimed and the wounded and the crippled live on.

It is the war here, Field Marshal Alexander Papagos, who has brought order and stability to Greek politics today after years of turmoil and uncertainty.

These scars of war run deep in Greece and yet today — with the conflict nearly six years behind — the future of Greece has seldom looked so promising. Under firm government rule for the last two years (Field Marshal Papagos became the 26th postwar Prime Minister when he took office in November 1952), Greece has turned the corner in economic recovery and the popularity of the Papagos administration continues to be confirmed in every by-election.

Recently, in Central Greece, the government's candidate won by 68 per cent of the vote cast. Perhaps the most impressive had felt confident enough to ask its people to invest their money in the country's future.

The aim of the loan was to raise 300,000,000 drachmas ($10,000,000) to finance a series of internal development projects: hydro-electric works, a new aluminum mill, road-building, construction works, etc. The loan was offered in denominations of 150 drachmas ($5) and it was guaranteed to be repaid on a dollar basis. In addition, a lottery feature was added to give the subscriber a chance to win more bonds.

For the first time Greeks literally were queuing up at their banks to buy government bonds and to cover the loan in a single week.

The key to the change in Greek fortunes—apart from the effect of stable government—was the devaluation of the Greek currency, which the Papagos administration decreed on April 9, 1953. By dropping the value of the drachma from 15 to the dollar all the way to 30, the government in effect drained an economic swamp and put the currency on firm ground. Today the Greek currency is one of Europe's healthiest and most stable. Currency reserves have since been rising steadily and Greece is virtually free of all trade restrictions.

A building boom has gained momentum, the Greek civil service has been reduced in size and the cost of government administration cut by about 15 per cent. An inefficient banking system has been overhauled by the merger of the two principal banks, the "National Bank of Greece" and the "Bank of Athens," to the "National Bank of Greece and Athens." Both prices and wages have been held much steadier than was anticipated. The government has also launched a long-term capital investment program to develop mining and hydro-electric power.

This is not to say that the Papagos administration has solved Greece's problems — but it has brought the country forward to a point where long-term solutions can be started.

Unemployment, for example, is not a matter of merely pouring in aid, but of expanding the Greek economy to provide jobs. And this is not done overnight.

A country of 8,000,000 people, Greece barely scratches out her own agricultural needs. Owing to the destruction of successive wars, she couldn't record any unemployment statistics on the scientific level of the United States. Anyway, the number of unemployed and underemployed is high. It is worthy to note, however, that with the recent decrees of the Greek Ministry of Labor and under El. Goniis, this phenomenon is being systematically diminished, while new measures are taken to provide workers with self-owned homes.

The lot of the Greek peasant, on the other hand, whose staple diet is bread and onion, is still hard. But the policy of the Papagos administration to find out new markets for the agricultural products, such as tobacco, raisins, grapes and other fruits, abroad is promising a better future for the villagers.

For a nation as poor as Greece to be spending an average of 50 per cent of its national budget every year on the buildup and maintenance of more than five active divisions and a reserve force totaling another twelve divisions is a heavy burden out of proportion to any other in NATO. The important fact to remember about Greece's economic capacity is that her per capita income is only $160 per year—the lowest of any country in the NATO alliance.

All of this is resulting in Greece—as elsewhere—in a "new look" for the defense budget and the military problem.

In Field Marshal Papagos the Greeks, of course, have a premier who knows the military problems of his country thoroughly, and who is highly regarded by all—especially the Americans—who have had any military dealings with Greece. It was he who overnight imbued an entirely new spirit in the war against the Communist guerrillas by swiftly and ruthlessly weeding out many incompetent officers and assuring the younger fighting men of their chance for advancement.

The Papagos "new look" in Greece, adopted recently by the United States and supported by an additional aid of $10,000,000, is aimed at reducing the standing army to 105,000 men, but retaining the reserves at the full figure of approximately 19 divisions and then spending the money saved for military construction and more frequent call-ups of reserves for periodical training.

A general improvement in the armor and the poor equipment of the Greek armed forces is also anticipated by the U. S. mutual aid program.

The Greeks believe — and they have the history of the Mussolini invasion in 1940 to prove it—that they could mobilize in four days. They also are convinced that they would be warned as early as any of the NATO partners in the event of a threat of invasion from neighboring Communist countries. Their pact with Yugoslavia and Turkey enables them to concentrate much more in one direction on defense and deploy their forces more efficiently.

Therefore, they can afford now to ease the burden of their economy, put some of their money into construction and improvement of the conditions of their military forces and rely on a well trained reserve army to defend the country on short notice.

To Set Restrictions

LANSING (UP)—The State Water Resources Commission will meet Oct. 27 to establish restrictions for operation of a General Motors atomic energy research laboratory in Macomb County, it was announced today.

Beatrice Lillie Is One Comedienne Who Shuns Slapstick for Subtlety

By EDDIE CANTOR

Comediennes like Martha Raye, Joan Davis and Lucille Ball have always been rough and ready. They go in for slapstick and we are happy about them. We laugh; we enjoy them. But for a comedienne with subtlety, whose broadest gesture may be the pointing of a finger or the lifting of an eyebrow, there is only one—Beatrice Lillie.

This girl can go through an entire evening's performance without taking a deep breath while her audience is choking with laughter.

She was a choir singer where she was born, in Toronto, Canada. Funny even then, she broke up the choir with her antics on so many occasions they finally asked her to please leave and take her religion elsewhere. Little did the good people of Toronto think that one day she would become Lady Peel and hobnob with royalty.

When one of her friends was married in New York, Bea was the matron of honor. And when the minister said, "Do you, Gwendolyn, do you, George, promise, and faithfully, for as long as ye both shall live, and forsaking all others," Bea Lillie whispered in the bride's ear, "Listen, Toots, that's stronger than a Shubert contract." The dignified bride had to stick her veil in her mouth to keep from bursting out laughing.

Every time Bea Lillie came to California, she lived at the home of Fanny Brice. You can imagine the fun with these two. When Bea was playing in the Los Angeles theater, she'd get home at midnight. Ida, Fanny Brice, Bea Lillie and myself would have a snack and laugh ourselves sick till the early hours of the morning.

Once when dawn was breaking, a pigeon flew onto the window sill. Bea merely rapped on the window and said to the pigeon, "Have you a message for me?" I think even the pigeon laughed.

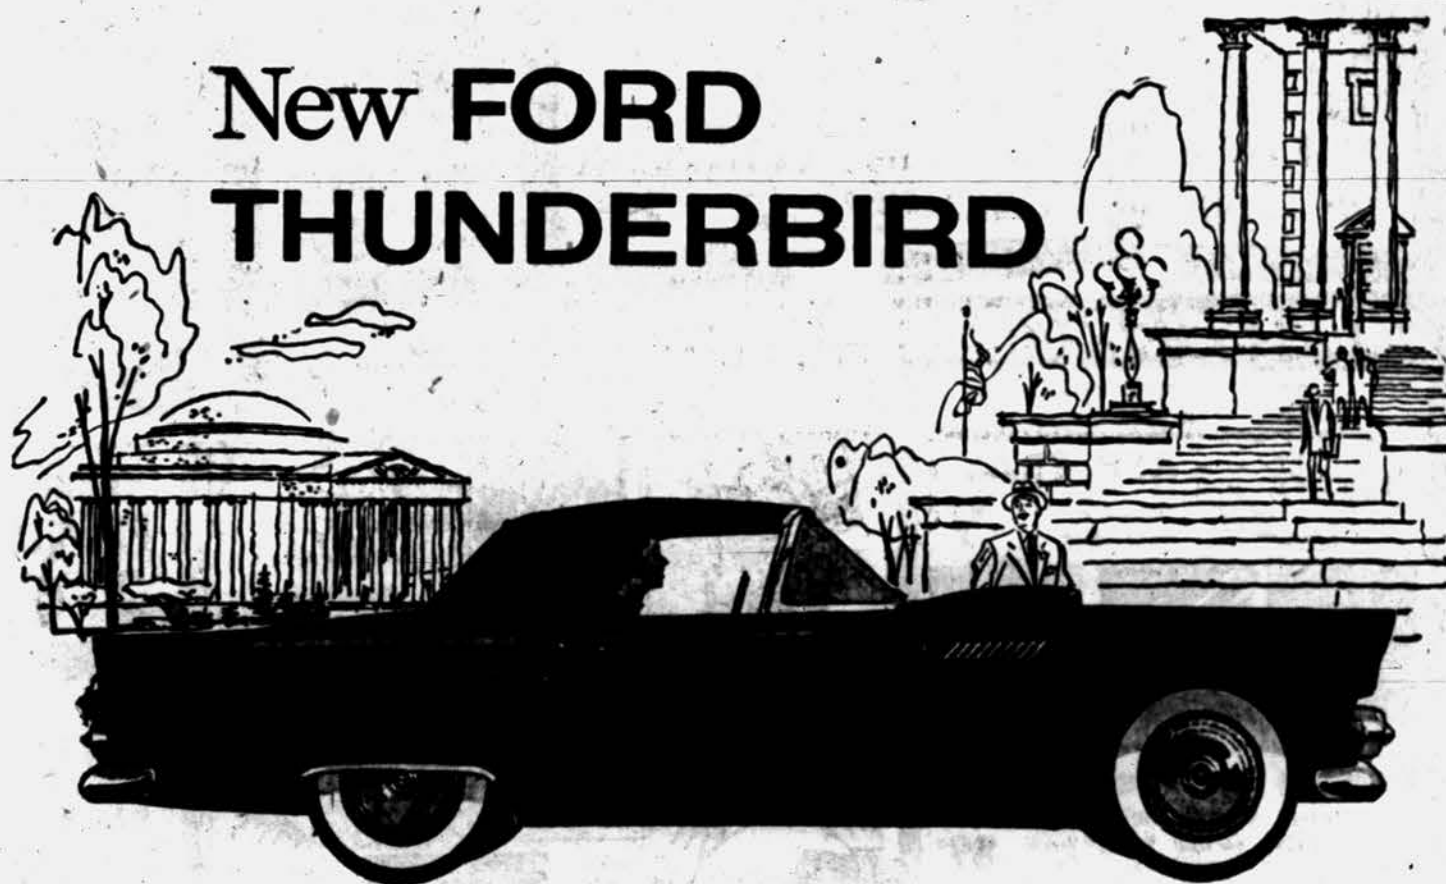

One of the saddest moments in this comedienne's life came in 1942, opening night of her play "Big Top" in Manchester, England. A half hour before curtain, Bea Lillie received a telegram telling her that her 21-year-old son, Sir Robert Peel, was missing and presumed lost after his ship had been attacked by Japanese planes.

The news spread through the company. Would it be best to call off the performance? The cast was horrified, saddened for her, not knowing what to do.

Bea remained alone in her dressing room for several minutes, then she gave her maid a note and told her to post it on the Call-Board. It read, "I know how you all feel, darlings, so we won't say a word about it. Now let's wow Manchester."

New FORD THUNDERBIRD

A personal car of distinction
...with Trigger-Torque performance

No matter what you have come to expect in a car, you'll be delighted at the wealth of conveniences the Thunderbird offers. Two tops are available: a disappearing fabric top... and an easy-to-raise hard top. The extra-wide vinyl upholstered seat is foam-rubber-encased... power-operated 4 ways. Windows roll up... by power, if you like. There is a tachometer... and a clock with a sweep second hand. There is a telescoping steering wheel. The baggage compartment is ample. And you can have power steering and power brakes.

Something totally fresh is here—a bewitching new all-steel beauty that sets the styling keynote for other Ford cars to come.

But, styling gives the merest hint of what the Thunderbird has to offer. For here is a car you can drive with assurance and pleasure... for business or for recreation.

In traffic and on the open road the Thunderbird's Trigger-Torque performance is literally a revelation. Here is hair-trigger response... fleet, liquid agility... backed by a reserve of swift, sure power to meet safety's every demand.

Trigger-Torque performance stems from Ford's new Thunderbird Special V-8—a high-torque engine with 4-barrel carburetor, dual exhausts, wide-opening valves and Ford's famous low-friction design. And to enhance the performance characteristics of this brilliant V-8 engine, the Thunderbird provides special rear axle ratios to match the transmission of your choice—Conventional, Overdrive, or new Speed-Trigger Fordomatic.

Then, in the ride department, Ford's Ball-Joint Front Suspension really works wonders. It not only velvet-cushions your ride, it also allows the Thunderbird to handle with utmost ease—to corner with greatest stability. And when it comes to stopping, brakes are big and powerful.

But, more important is the way the Thunderbird is engineered, designed... and built! For it is the product of the same advanced engineering... the same manufacturing skills that have made Ford products so dependable, so value-full and so desirable to so many.

Belknap Tells Need to Extend Northwestern Highway

(Editor's note: Recently the Press and a few of the street and highway needs of Pontiac and Oakland County, and pointed out that there was a need to provide for the driving needs of this area's rapidly growing population. Following is another in a series of articles presenting these needs in greater detail.)

By BURDETT C. STODDARD
The need for extending Northwestern Highway at least to M-59 and building a new highway parallel to Grand River from Farmington to Kensington Metropolitan Park was explained today by Oakland County Road Commission Engineer-Manager Leon V. Belknap.

Both projects were endorsed last week by the county plan commission.

Grand River is rapidly becoming a very congested highway," said Belknap, "especially in summer months when people flock to Kensington Park and other resorts in the area including Fossil Lake Recreation area.

"These cars are added to the usual heavy traffic from Brighton to Farmington."

The proposed ten-mile route from the park to Farmington would run north of Grand River and be financed from a federal aid and a state-county bond issue.

Most of the picnicers attempt to leave the park at about the same time during summer, said Belknap, and traffic jams develop when they can't get on to Grand River at once.

"They start running around on county roads attempting to escape," Belknap explained, "and a wear and tear is created running up our maintenance costs."

Cost of the project would be split with 60 per cent from the federal government and 40 per cent from a state and county bond issue.

Cost to the county would be an estimated $300,000 paid off in 20 years at about $15,000 per year.

Before an agreement can be reached with the state, the plan must win approval from the County Board of Supervisors.

The Northwestern extension would relieve traffic congestion in the north and northwestern portions of the county and furnish an improved traffic artery for county people destined for lake recreation areas.

"John Lodge Expressway will street in Wayne County which is soon to be completed to Wyoming the beginning of Northwestern," said Belknap.

'What's Our Assignment?' Keeps Telephones Busy

By LAURA E. HOBSON
NEW YORK (INS) — Heaven knows what would happen to telephone company investors if the teachers in this nation's schools ever decided not to give out any homework for a year or two.

Does the connection seem unclear to you? That only proves your kids are either grown out of grade school or junior high, or that they haven't got up that high on the scholastic ladder as yet.

Any parent with a boy or girl in the home or the old pre-teen knows perfectly well the number of times the phone rings each and every night of the school year, just to have one question asked.

"What's our assignment in math for tomorrow?"

Or in English, or history, or chemistry or whatever the little monsters are studying at the moment.

First of all, your own little monster has already made such a call to some pal in the same class, to ask the 64-cent question for himself, and also to be ready for the incoming calls he knows will start up soon.

I didn't really get wise to this modern system until the other Sunday afternoon, when I discovered that the sole reason my 15-year-old hadn't yet done his homework was not negligence, not procrastination, not sheer shameful laziness—of course not.

His only excuse was, "I don't even know what we're supposed to do."

"Why don't you know?"

"Well, gosh, I just don't."

At that point the telephone bell shrilled loud and imperiously, and I heard my son saying into it, "I don't either. I'll call you back after supper."

Determined not to butt in, I waited it out until the chores were done.

Somewhere he had found out the lesson by that time, and then done every bit of it as well.

"Who's the boy you called up to ask?" I demanded.

"Johnny Doe," he answered, but hesitatingly as if he resented having a mother who'd turn him into a double-crossing snitcher and tattletale.

"How come Johnny Doe knew what the lesson was, if you didn't?"

"Oh he's just the type." The scorn behind these words was piled up higher than a banana split. "He always knows."

Johnny Doe, it turned out, was hell enough to write it down in his work-book or assignment book, whenever the teacher told the class what the assignment was for the next day.

"Well, from now on," I said sternly, "You're to do exactly what Johnny does when homework is given out."

"Oh, mother!"

You know the tone... exasperated, barely-bear-it, and how awful it is for a child to have such old-fashioned old-hat parents.

"Then you won't have to waste calls every blessed school night to find out what you're supposed to know without relying on Johnny Doe."

He started to answer, but the phone rang again. I picked up the receiver, listened to a vaguely familiar voice ask for my son and said frigidly, "Just a moment, and he'll tell you what the math homework is."

"Oh, no, it's not my math," the voice said. "I just told him what the math was, but I forgot to ask what we're supposed to do in history."

Robot Replaces Hand and Brain

University of Wisconsin Working on Fast Action Computing Machine

MADISON, Wis. (UP)—A combination "electronic hand" and "electronic brain" computer is being developed at the University of Wisconsin that may be four times as fast as models now used.

The computer will replace the simple desk calculating machine and the hand that operates it. It also will do a little figuring on its own.

It is to be a "medium" speed computer; that is, it can multiply two 16-digit numbers and give the answer in 1-10th of a second.

The amazing speed is achieved by combining four operations that used to be done separately. Ordinary magnetic drum computers need a revolution of the drum to look up instructions, one to look up the numbers used, a third to perform the arithmetic, and a fourth to deliver the result.

Wisconsin's new wonder will do all four operations in one revolution of the drum.

The machine took four years and $100,000 to develop, but the university considers it worth much more. Students have had valuable training, the university IBM department gets a valuable tool and the industries in the state will get valuable service from the speedy computer.

Harold MacMillan

Munich Pact Foe Is New British Defense Minister

By JOHN H. MARTIN
International News Service Foreign Director

Harold MacMillan, one of the first attackers of the pre-war Munich appeasers, is the new British defense minister in succession to Earl Alexander.

The 60-year-old MacMillan is expected to take over the Foreign Office once Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill steps down and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden moves into No. 10 Downing St.

The mustached MacMillan was twice wounded in World War I and won the military cross while serving with the Grenadier Guards. In World War II he was attached to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's allied headquarters to represent British interests in North Africa.

He comes from a Scottish family that established a successful publishing firm more than 100 years ago. He still retains the softness in speech of the highlander. He is rated a sharp-tongued, effective political debater.

His mother was American, as was the mother of Churchill, and his close links with Churchill date back to their opposition to the government before the war.

In 1936, when London withdrew the sanctions that had been slapped on Mussolini's Italy during the Ethiopian War, MacMillan formally broke with his party—the first major Conservative to do so.

He bitterly attacked the government at the time of the Munich Pact appeasing Hitler and he mocked those ministers who straddled the political fences.

So it was no surprise that

Churchill gave him a government job when he became premier in 1940. It was the modest job of parliamentary secretary to the Ministry of Supply. Later Churchill sent him to Eisenhower's headquarters in Africa.

The man who had married Lady Dorothy Evelyn Cavendish, daughter of the Ninth Duke of Devonshire, one of the great aristocrats of the country, was tossed out of the secretaryship of air when the Laborites won in 1945.

When the Churchillian forces swept back in three years ago MacMillan was given the job of local government and planning. He changed the name of the ministry to "housing and local government," dropping the Socialist-tinted word "planning."

He is rated by some as too casual in his work. Actually, he has been a serious student of economics and state planning ever since he became a member of Parliament 30 years ago.

He successfully discharged the party's pledge that the government would build 300,000 houses a year.

May Alter Wording of Lord's Prayer

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Episcopalians from the Middle Atlantic area today considered a suggested change in the wording of the Lord's Prayer.

The proposal would change the phrase, "Lead us not into temptation," to read, "And let us not fall when tempted."

It was met with mixed reaction on the floor of the meeting of the 25th Synod of the Episcopal Province of Washington. Representatives of 13 Episcopal church dioceses are attending.

The new phrasing, introduced by Lt. Gen. John C. H. Lee of the Harrisburg, Pa., diocese, was sent to the resolutions committee for formulation and introduction at today's closing session.

A sun-powered battery has changed light to electricity successfully using a crystal of cadmium sulfide, the yellow powder used as a pigment in paints.

Reid vs. Hart

Lt. Governor Race Is Lawyers' Battle

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth in a series of articles designed to acquaint readers with the leading candidates for state offices in the November elections.)

LANSING (AP)—A veteran trial lawyer with political sagacity and a slender, eloquent young attorney contend for the job of lieutenant governor in Michigan's fall election.

The veteran is Lt. Gov. Clarence A. Reid, 61, of Detroit, a Republican. The Democratic opponent is Philip A. Hart, 41, of Birmingham.

The two are conducting as intense a campaign for the second spot in state government as has been seen in many years.

Hart has served as legal adviser to Gov. Williams, head of the state Corporations and Securities Commission, director of the Michigan Office of Price Stabilization and U.S. District Attorney for the Eastern District of Michigan.

Reid has been practicing law in Detroit since 1932. He was elected to the state senate from the politically tumultuous 18th District for five terms and was first elected lieutenant governor in 1952.

Reid was born in a log cabin in Pickaway County, Ohio, and attended the University of Michigan.

One of his proudest boasts is that he played football for mighty Michigan under the great Fielding

Shell Test Successful, Boy Learns in Hospital

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP)—Pete Arevalo told police his experiment with a .22-caliber shell backfired.

The 14-year-old youth said he placed the bullet against a tree, held a nail against the bullet—and then hit the nail with a rock.

A piece of the cartridge case was dug from Arevalo's shoulder at Brackenridge General Hospital.

He is vice president of the Detroit Tigers and a director of the Detroit Lions.

Hart is the father of six children, Reid of three children.

Safe Cigarette Asked by Medic

Tobacco Firms Urged to Develop Smoke
Easy on Lungs, Heart

NEW YORK (INS)—The American Cancer Society told yesterday that cigarette smoking has been linked with both lung cancer and heart disease, and was urged to help develop a "safe cigarette."

Dr. E. Cuyler Hammond, of Yale University, made the plea during a report at the society's annual meeting in New York, and said that a "safe cigarette" at least from the viewpoint of the heart, might be developed in six months "with luck."

Dr. Clarence Cook Little, scientific director of the tobacco industry research committee, took the floor immediately and denied any connection between cigarette smoking and disease had been proved.

Dr. Hammond placed the relationship of cigarette smoking to the heart and vascular as more important, than its relationship to lung cancer, and listed three top factors in the search for a non-killing cigarette.

There are various types of tobacco, various types of filters and various techniques in curing tobacco, Dr. Hammond cited, offering the suggestion that perhaps, unknown to anyone, some "fortuitous combination of a particular type" in each of the three categories already has produced a "safe cigarette."

If such is the case, he said, scientific research must discover the combination so all cigarettes can be made that way because "people like to smoke cigarettes." If not, research should strive to find the combination, he said.

Educator New GOP Candidate for Utah Seat

SALT LAKE CITY (INS)—Dr. Henry Aldous Dixon, 64-year old president of Utah State Agricultural College, says he is still a bit bewildered by his virtual draft as the GOP Congressional candidate to replace Rep. Douglas R. Stringfellow.

Dixon accepted the pinch-hit nomination to climax a stunning series of events that began Saturday night when Stringfellow admitted his stories of war-time cloak and dagger exploits were a hoax.

Utah's hastily-summoned GOP state central committee accepted the young Congressman's resignation and named Dixon as his successor on the November ballot.

The Utah educator accepted the nomination only after Sen. Arthur V. Watkins (R-Utah) and Gov. J. Bracken Lee pleaded with him for half an hour in a long-distance phone call.

Stringfellow's 11th hour confession and resignation leave Dixon only two weeks for his campaign.

Lecture Doubtful

EAST LANSING (UP)—Michigan State College officials said today they doubt whether Rep. Douglas R. Stringfellow (R-Utah) will appear on the MSC campus for a scheduled Feb. 12 lecture. Stringfellow dropped out of the congressional race after admitting his story of war heroism was a fake.

The Red river of the North runs northward from the Minnesota-North Dakota border to Lake Winnipeg in Canada.

Saxton Dethrones 'Kid' in Controversial 'Stinker'

By MURRAY ROSE
PHILADELPHIA — Cries of "robbers" and "jobbed" from hysterical Kid Gavilan and his brain trust still rent the air today as Johnny Saxton, newly crowned welterweight champion, prepared to celebrate his enthronement in New York Traffic Court—and maybe, in jail.

Saxton, a 24-year-old graduate of the New York Golden Gloves ranks, ended the 25-year-old Cutan's three years, five months and 147-pound king last night when he won a unanimous and highly controversial 15-round decision in Convention Hall.

While the referee and two judges were in accord and said Saxton the champion by the 12th round baring a knockout, 20 of 22 boxing writers at the ringside had Gavilan the winner in what had to be the worst fight of his career. Saxton, involved in three other "stinkers" within three years, was worse, if possible.

Gavilan, alternately crying and screaming and alternately retiring and retiring, sobbed:

"People don't talk for nothing. I know from the first round on that I cannot win. The referee he gives Saxton everything his way. I no want to fight no more. I give my left hand—I give my right hand to the Pennsylvania commission. Everything steenk."

"The Keed he is robbed," screamed Manager Angel Lopez, the dapper night club proprietor. "It was a lousy, stinking fight." said Chairman Frank Wiener of the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission. "If Gavilan fought like I've seen him in the past, Saxton wouldn't have won."

There was more action and confusion in Gavilan's dressing room where a fist fight, among other things, occurred, than there was in the "fight."

And there was more confusion as to a reported return bout agreement between the managers of Gavilan and Saxton and what will happen next.

Wiener frowns on return bout contracts and there was none recorded with the commission. Lopez in between saying The Keed was through fighting and then may be not, insisted he had an iron-clad contract for a return bout in New York City within 90 days. Palermo who had told reporters that Lopez was correct, reversed his field's said he might face Basilio, the No. 1 contender from Canasota, N. Y., first with the winner to meet Gavilan.

Meanwhile, Saxton, bewildered but happy, said "I fought the fight like I planned—to win. I had run puzzled."

The solidly built Negro youngster said he would show up in traffic court today where he is scheduled to be sent off to serve 15 days as a traffic "scowflaw" for 12 traffic violations. He voiced hope for a suspended sentence.

What Wiener said about the dull, listless, clinch-filled fiasco undoubtedly goes double for the innocent 7,900 fans who shelled out $37,121.

"When they didn't pose and wait for the other to lead, the boxers huffed and puffed at close range. There were no knockdowns, naturally, and nothing even close to one. Few solid blows were landed.

Weighing 145½, the lowest he had scaled since Aug. 28, 1951, when he beat Billy Graham in his first of seven successful title defenses, The Keed lacked flash and power. Saxton weighed 146½.

Of the fighters' share of the $45,220 net receipts and the $40,000 TV money, Gavilan received a guaranteed $40,000 from Palermo, Saxton's manager. That left about $11,132 for Saxton and Palermo to split up.

Clevelanders Coming Unbeaten Crane Soccer Team Faces Tough Foe

The soccer team at Cranbrook school is listed in the NCAA guide as prep champions of Michigan.

This might seem an empty honor inasmuch as the Cranes are Michigan's only scholastic group participating in soccer, but Ben Snyder's team is proving otherwise.

The Crane kickers have won 4 straight games and are ready for their toughest test Saturday when Cleveland University School brings an 11-game winning streak to Cranbrook for an Inter-State Prep School League contest.

Outstanding members of the team include captain Shaw Emmons, who plays right inside; center-forward Leo Butzel and full-back Al Moran. Emmons also is a fine basketball player and was Class B state tennis champion 2 years ago.

Drawing their opposition from Canadian and out-state schools, Cranbrook has beaten Chatham Collegiate, 3-0; Lake Forest, Ill., 5-1; Sarnia Collegiate, 2-0; and Nichols of Buffalo, 1-0.

Later game was won on Butzel's goal in double overtime. However, Moran and Emmons have accounted for 9 of the Cranes' 11 goals thus far this year.

Cranbrook has only 4 lettermen back from last year's team, but coach Snyder points out that the school's midget soccer program is beginning to pay off in varsity talent.

Saturday's important game with the Clevelanders will be played on the Cranbrook field at 1:30 p.m.

Chiefs Seek Win at Saginaw

By BILL MARTIN
Pontiac High's football team, beaten in its last three starts, will try to break back into the win column Friday at Saginaw.

Chiefs tangle with once-beaten Arthur Hill in a Saginaw Valley Conference contest marking the Lumberjacks' 1954 homecoming. Saginaw High plays at Flint Northern in the night's only other SVO game.

Non-conference games send Bay City to Alpena Friday night and Owosso to Flint Central on Saturday night.

Thus far this season, Arthur Hill has beaten Owosso, Alpena and Grand Rapids Catholic Central, while losing to Midland by a single touchdown. Lumberjacks, paced by fullback Ernie Richmond and halfback Dick Adams, have outscored their opponents, 85-32.

Richman, piano-legged 5-foot 5-inch 165-pounder, leads the team in scoring with 31 points, while Adams has 24. All but three of Arthur Hill's 13 touchdowns have been scored from within the opposition's 15-yard stripe.

Halfback Floyd Wright, a fleet 160-pounder, accounted for one of the Lumberjacks' three long scores last week against Grand Rapids CC. Wright pulled in a short field goal attempt and sprinted 96 yards for the winning marker in that game. Adams went 41 yards against Alpena and passed 41 yards to end Stan Leland against Owosso for the other long TD's.

Wright and Leland, a pair of juniors, are the only non-seniors in the seasoned Arthur Hill starting lineup.

The 'Jacks average 185 pounds in the line, with three huskies tipping the scales at over 200 pounds. Tackle Jim Rappuhn, co-captain along with quarter-back Frank Rosengren, goes 206, center Bob Otto weighs 206 and guard Al Birnbaum hits 200.

Pontiac probably will be without the services of senior end Willie

Wilson for the 2nd straight week. Wilson, who missed last Friday's Bay City Central game, still is bothered by a pulled muscle in his side and is a doubtful starter. Remainder of the PHS lineup is expected to remain unchanged.

NEW CHAMPION—Johnny Saxton smiles in his dressing room Wednesday night after taking the welterweight championship from Kid Gavilan in a 15-round bout in Philadelphia's Convention Hall. At left is Johnny's happy manager, Frank (Blinky) Palermo.

GAVILAN CRIES AFTER LOSS — Alternately crying and screaming following his loss of the world welterweight title to Johnny Saxton in Convention Hall in Philadelphia last night, Kid Gavilan is comforted by a friend in his dressing room.

Young Riders Steal Show at Troywood Farms Affair

Marked by a good field of entries and enthusiastic performances in all divisions, Troywood Farms horse show, last weekend was a real success. "Considering the weather I think we had a really successful affair," committeewoman Mrs. John M. Brown, 2908 East Square Lake road, reports.

Between 15 and 20 events were run off, with young riders figuring in many winning efforts. Among the features were the square dance on horseback, by the Swagler-Hill club; riding of 4-H clubbers with their western mounts; Pat Henry and his trick-performing palomino and young Boby Haskell, 6-year-old rider who took a full-sized mount over a series of jumps.

Five-year-old Peter (Pete) Brown, and his donkey, under saddle, won an unlisted division, but Pete's mount was judged by all the regular standards, three gaits, conformation and way of going.

One of the section's rising young riders, Kitties James, turned in a fine performance on her horse, Good Time, to win several trophies and ribbons.

Chairman for the show was Mrs. Warren Jewell, Hillcliffe Drive, and she was assisted by a large committee that provided all equipment and operation of the show. Ken Hirt is owner of Troywood Farms.

'Campy's' Hand Remains Dodger Question Mark

4-6 Weeks Needed to Learn Results of 2nd Operation

NEW YORK — Whether an able-bodied Roy Campanella will be behind the plate for the Brooklyn Dodgers next season won't be known for another four or six weeks at least.

It will be that long before doctors can test the results of the second operation on the veteran catcher's left hand in six months.

Following the 4-hour operation yesterday it was announced there was an "excellent chance"—but no out-and-out guarantee — Campy's mitt would return to normal. Dr. Samuel Schenkman, a neurosurgeon who performed the operation, and Dr. Lyndon Hill, who assisted, offered the preliminary appraisal of the operation, but added: "No more will be known for from four to six weeks, when further tests will be made."

The first operation, in May, removed a bone chip resulting from a spring training injury. The surgery sidelined Campanella for four weeks, but left the hand partially paralyzed, shelling Camp's batting power and serving as one of the factors that crumbled Brooklyn's bid for the National League pennant.

Electro-impulse tests showed the paralysis was caused by adhesions on the ulnar nerve. Complaining of a "numbness" in the hand, Campanella was unable to move two fingers of the hand laterally and an atrophied muscular condition weakened his grip.

During the wait for a test of the latest operation, Dodger officials can only hope against a reaction similar to that which followed the first. Barring with only one hand, Campanella slumped to a .207 average last season, with only 19 home runs and 51 batted in.

Frosh Runner Making News on Ferris Eleven

BIG RAPIDS — James Anthony McDaniel — once known as the "Crazy QB" — is gaining increasing attention with his flashy running for Ferris Institute.

The 19-year-old freshman halfback from Washington, D. C., is 2nd only to the sparkling Jim Podoley of Central Michigan among the state's highest scorers.

McDaniel, a speedy 5-foot-10, 170-pounder, has scored nine touchdowns and an extra point in four games this season. The squad has a 3-1 record to date and meets Northern Michigan this weekend.

Sam Ketchman, Ferris coach, naturally is interested in McDaniel's scoring but he really lights up when pointing out the boy's strong fundamentals.

"He is a good blocker and a fine tackler. His defensive work saved two touchdowns against us by Michigan Tech," Ketchman says.

PHS Team Defends SVC Harrier Title

Annual Saginaw Valley Conference cross-country meet was set for this afternoon at Beaudette Park. Pontiac High's defending champions, unbeaten in 32 consecutive dual meets, were favored to repeat their 1953 victory.

Other teams competing in the event were Flint Northern and Central, Saginaw High and Arthur Hill and Bay City Central. Another victory would give Pontiac its 4th Valley title since the sport was added to the SVC agenda in 1947.

PHS squad was comprised of Bill Douglas, Perry Williams, Norris Jackson, Bill Imboden, Eugene Cretal, Rod Treals and Fred Cox.

MSC Worries Over Pass Offense of Boilermaker 11

By ROBERT E. VOGES

EAST LANSING — Michigan State coaches figure Purdue will do a lot of passing in an effort to make the homecoming football game Saturday another sad one for the Spartans.

Because of this, the concentration was on pass defense in the long workout Wednesday.

The defensive ends were jumping like basketball players after a rebound as they tried to intercept the aerials thrown in the practice.

One MSC defensive weakness this fall has been a lack of height among the ends. Purdue is expected to try to exploit this on Saturday.

Lenny Dawson, Purdue's sophomore quarterback, has 34 completions in 61 tries for 555 yards and 9 touchdowns so far this season. Ends John Kerr and Lamar Lundy are his favorite targets. Kerr catching 8 passes for 108 yards and Lundy grabbing 5 for 12 yards. Lundy is 6 feet 7 so he can pull down throws that the average defense man just would be able to watch sail by over his head.

Purdue's overall passing attack has 41 completions in 82 tries for a total of 624 yards. This compares with the MSC record of only 28 completions in 72 tries for 505 yards.

The opposition fullback has been the No. 1 target as the Spartans try to stop a Purdue-type running attack this week.

Although he gained only seven yards before being forced out of the Wisconsin game by a leg injury, Purdue fullback Bill Murakowski leads the Boilermakers in rushing yardage with 207 yards in 47 carries.

It's Time Out!

"Maybe this'll teach you not to keep gnawing me for unsportsmanlike conduct!"

2 Balking Pins Cost Kegler Perfect Game

Balky number 5 and 8 pins in the 8th frame cost Thomas Nadolski Pontiac's 1st perfect game of the bowling season Wednesday.

Bowling at Pontiac Recreation in the Pontiac Motor Wednesday Morning League, Nadolski tossed 7 straight strikes, missed in the 8th frame, then struck out for 266. With his 32 handicap, it gave him the season's high in the league at 298.

Nadolski, who lives at 680 3rd street in Pontiac, had a 544 series on 130-266-148.

Didn't Want Dusty Rhodes Durocher Shrugs Off Label of 'Genius,' Gives Credit for Series Win to Players

HOLLYWOOD — Leo Durocher — the brand-new Durocher — makes no claim to genius.

"I am deeply grateful to 27 players on the New York ball club," the Giants' manager said last night with obviously intense feeling.

His statement climaxed a testimonial dinner given in his honor by fellow members of the exclusive Hillcrest Country Club. There must have been 500 there, including a host of outside guests.

Leo said he had been described as a genius after the Giants' astonishing four-straight-game world series triumph.

He laughed and said: "I am a genius. Last spring I asked Horace Stoneham to get rid of Dusty Rhodes. I said he can't do nothing."

Well, Leo went on. Dusty still can't throw and he's liable to get hit on the head by a fly ball.

But Dusty, as all will recall, was the pinch-hitting hero of the series against Cleveland.

One by one, Leo reeled off the names of his players and gave little sideways as he went down the line.

He told of the fourth game in Cleveland. Capt. Alvin Dark dropped the word to Leo that they were having trouble in the later innings hitting the Cleveland lefties pitching.

"Something in the center field bleachers," Durocher continued. "A hot dog stand. People moving around. They didn't have any trou-

Shoemaker Hits 2,000 Winners

Willie Reaches Mark in Only 5½ Years of Competition

SAN BRUNO, Calif. — Willie Shoemaker, the 100-pound Texas sphinx of the thoroughbred tracks, has cracked the charmed circle of jockeys who have ridden 2,000 or more winners.

Silent Shoe brought home the last three yesterday at Tanforan after a meteoric 5½-year career in which he has averaged slightly more than 360 winners a year.

No. 2,000 was Florence House in the sixth at Tanforan.

"I didn't know it was the 2,000th until I saw all those people," Shoemaker told an associate. And that's all he told anybody. The rest of the program he rode more horses. Then he went home to his trailer house.

Shoemaker is the 10th rider now active on the American turf to reach the 2,000-winner mark, but until you look at the rest and the yearly averages, the picture is hardly clear.

Other riders in the 2,000 club are Johnny Longden, Dean of American jockeys who has more than 4,400 winners; Eddie Arcaro, Ted Atkinson, Johnny Adams, Ralph Neves, Steve Brooks, Jack Westrop, Fernando Fernandez, and Jimmy Stout.

SAO PAULO, Brazil — Argentina's Eduardo Lausse, a promising lightweight, knocked out Nelson Andrade, Rio de Janeiro, in the ninth round of a scheduled 10-round Wednesday night.

Benton Harbor Displaces Ann Arbor in Preps' Poll

By LLOYD NORTHAARD

DETROIT (UP) — Benton Harbor displaced Ann Arbor today as the Class A leader in the weekly United Press high school football ratings but Mr. Pleasant and Jackson St. Mary retained top spots in the lower classes.

It marked the first time Ann Arbor, held to a scoreless tie by Battle Creek Central last week, has been out of 1st place in almost two years.

Benton Harbor, which turned Jefferson will meet Lincoln and Washington will face a team comprised of Wever, Eastern, St. Michael and Roosevelt (Keego) boys.

An orchestra, made up of representatives from various junior high school bands, will provide music throughout the program. Refreshments will be available at the stadium.

Tickets for the program may be obtained from any jaycee member, and will go on sale at Wisner Stadium at 6:30 p. m. Saturday. All proceeds from the affair will go to the Junior Chamber of Commerce youth fund.

Hunting Party Gets Its Limit for Ringnecks

The lucky hunters included Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harrod, 82 South

6 Sports Pages in Today's Pontiac Press

Johnson avenue and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Scott of Birmingham.

Harrod downed a 34 and three-quarter inch long, two and a half pounder. The party hunted over Harrod's beagle, Bostle, and Scott's springer spaniel.

The same quartet returned to Mayville this morning for another day in the fields.

2-Platoon Cheer Leaders

OMAHA (AP) — Benson High School's football cheerleaders use the two platoon system. The squad consists of 36 of the prettiest girls. Before game time and in the second and fourth quarters 18 seniors, dressed in white, lead the cheers. In the first and third quarters, 18 juniors, dressed in green and white, take over the chores.

Weaver	0	3	15	63

Undefeated Washington assured itself of at least a tie for the 1954 City Junior High School League football title yesterday with a 43-6 rout of winless Weaver.

Coach Em Ghisani used a total of 42 players in the top-sided contest, with his 7th and 8th graders playing most of the contest. Braves scored four times on runs from scrimmage, passed for another, added a 6th on a punt return and a 7th on an intercepted pass.

Bill Larson went 11 yards, Willie Pearson plunged 5, John Phlegm went 90 yards on an end-around and Fred Staley sneaked for 5 and for the running scores.

Willie Shaw took a punt back 70 yards, Charles Barge returned an interception 15 yards and Staley passed 15 yards to Bob Scruggs for other touchdowns.

WEAVER 6 0 0 0-6

Second baseman Bobby Avila figured in the scoring of 164 runs for Cleveland. During the World Series he failed to drive in a run and scored only once.

Southern Cal Has Inside Path Toward Rose Bowl

SAN FRANCISCO (INS)—A mid-season "second look" at far west collegiate football indicates today that the Southern California Trojans may wind up in the Rose Bowl after a battle for the Pacific Coast Conference title with UCLA.

The University of California Bears and the Oregon Ducks, picked as strong pre-season contenders, have apparently fallen by the wayside.

California has its big chance this Saturday against the Trojans when the two old rivals meet in Los Angeles. Southern California is favored but may find the going rough against the Bears who have not lived up to their pre-season potential as yet.

Trojans got by Oregon 24-14 last Saturday to register their 2nd conference victory while California scored its first league win at the expense of Washington State.

The team which may top even the Trojans when the final conference standings are in is neighboring UCLA. The Uclans are not eligible for the Rose Bowl, however, because they participated last time out.

UCLA takes on Oregon State this Saturday and should have little trouble against the Beavers. Oregon, which had perhaps its lone moment of glory in beating California earlier this season, takes on San Jose State.

Important League Games Listed on Friday Schedule

By JACK SAYLOR

With the prep football season past the halfway point, championship races in the area's various leagues are taking a definite pattern.

Important games in every circuit are listed among a total of 28 contests in the Oakland County vicinity Friday night.

League-leading Berkley of the Inter-Lakes boasts a 3-0 record, but has games remaining against Van Dyke and Waterford.

Friday the Bears meet Van Dyke, currently tied for 2nd with Southfield.

Southfield goes to Walled Lake, while Waterford entertains Farmington.

Top game in the Wayne-Oakland area sends Northville to Clarkston. The Mustangs have a 2-0 league record. Keego Harbor, which also has 2 wins, but suffered a tie at Brighton, is idle this week.

Clarkston rests in 3rd place with 3 wins in 4 games and still remains very much in title contention. Holly, once beaten and one tied in the conference, hosts Clarencville, while Milford is at Brighton.

Showdown in the Oakland-B is a week off when Fitzgerald comes to Avondale. Paul Smarke's Spartans have won 5 straight, including 3 league games and have a tough non-league hurdle Friday at Lake Orion.

Frank Crowell's Avondale eleven, meanwhile, should get by Clawson and keep its record near-perfect. The 'Jacks' haven't lost, but played a 0-0 tie with Lapeer.

Co-leaders Ferndale and East Detroit in the Eastern Michigan League are at Port Huron and Birmingham, respectively, while

Northville Pace Set for Jackson Raceway

JACKSON (UP) — Featured "Northville Pace" at Jackson Raceway tonight will find eight Class B pacers matching strikes at one mile.

Grand Luck will be making a bid for its 3rd straight victory here. The 4-year-old has won 10 of its 26 starts this season.

However, Samuel Hoyt's Ed, 5-year-old gelding, has won two of its six starts at Jackson this fall and also must be considered.

Johnson Contemplates Suit Against A's Syndicate

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
CHICAGO (AP)—The stock-buying syndicate of the Philadelphia Athletics, sweating out word of an American League blessing that would make their deal official to keep the club in Philadelphia, today was threatened with a big damage suit by Arnold Johnson.

The Chicago industrialist declared he felt "wronged by the Philadelphia group who so suddenly appeared on the scene," and has placed the matter in the hands of a Philadelphia law firm to study the advisability of filing suit.

"In view of the indicated advance sale (in Kansas City) of almost $2,000,000, the measure of my damages should be substantial," Johnson said. "The suit would be not only for the cash damages sustained by me, but also on the grounds that this group joined together to induce a breach of the contract which I made in good faith for the purchase of the A's."

In a Chicago meeting nine days ago, American League club owners voted to shift the A's franchise from Philadelphia to Kansas City.

"Roy Mack at that time agreed without equivocation to sell the team to me for transfer to Kansas City," Johnson said in a statement. "It never was contemplated that Mr. Mack would be given an opportunity to look for other purchasers, or to do anything except to talk to his family."

"It seems unbelievable to me that the agreement with me made in good faith has now been violated."

At the Chicago meeting, Roy Mack was given until last Monday to sell his stock to Johnson and thus complete a deal of nearly $4,000,000 that would wipe out the Athletics' indebtedness and send them to an enthusiastic Kansas City.

Roy's brother, Earle, and father, the venerable Connie Mack, long had pressed for the sale to Johnson but it was only at the Chicago session of club owners that Roy apparently gave in.

Before last Monday's deadline, a group of eight Philadelphia men bought the stock from the Macks and announced they had saved the A's for their own city, where the club has been for 54 years.

Johnson was left holding the bag.

But the American League vote needed to approve the sale to the Philadelphia syndicate has not been forthcoming thus far.

Johnson, his dander up, said:

"This is apt to be a long and expensive litigation, but with the amount I have invested in this matter I am willing to go the limit."

Pirates Sign Pitcher

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates today signed Stanley Malec, 22-year-old righthanded outfielder, to a 1955 contract. He will be assigned to the Pirates' farm club at Williamsport, Pa., in the Class A Eastern League.

Malec lives in Hamtramck, Mich., and is a student at Western Michigan College. He is 5-foot-10 and weighs 180 lbs.

'Unreasonable' Wolverines Rate Underdogs Saturday

ANN ARBOR (AP)—After Michigan's uninspired victory over Northwestern, the bookies probably will offer a two or three touchdown spread against the Wolverines when they meet unbeaten Minnesota Saturday.

Logic and reasoning make every single point well worth while.

But the Wolverines have exhibited a knack in the past of being completely unreasonable.

Last game of last season, Michigan met the Buckeyes of Ohio State in the traditional season-ending battle. Michigan had lost three straight conference games. Reasonably, the Wolverines didn't deserve to be on the same field.

Still, they beat Ohio State, 20-0. This was unreasonable.

Two weeks ago, Michigan met a favored and powerful Iowa team. The Wolverines, 13-point underdogs, won 14-13.

This was not reasonable either.

But there has been just as much lack of reason on the opposite side of the ledger. Michigan was a two touchdown favorite over Army. The West Point team beat the Wolverines 26-7.

Michigan was all but played off the field by Northwestern. Wolverines finally salvaged a 7-0 victory. Considering Northwestern's statistical edge, this was unreasonable too.

Perhaps this season, more than ever, there is an unpredictable element in the Michigan future. Whether it is the youthful flavor of the squad, or the lack of field leadership, it has accounted for some strange games so far, and it is reasonable to assume that this will continue.

CASE—Footwork Controls Timing.

So closely are footwork and scoring associated that the experienced bowler, when he finds himself in one of those occasionally inevitable slumps, starts his correction from the ground up.

He very likely will find that his trouble is faulty timing due to taking too long a first step.

This gets him to the foul line ahead of the ball, and he drops it either on the line or behind it.

A short, slow, shuffling first step (see sketch) geared to the push-away of the ball, should correct the trouble. Resist the temptation to shorten your stride—the 14 or 15 feet to the foul line should be covered in four steps smoothly attuned to the backward swing and delivery of the ball.

Once this is mastered—or adjusted, as in the case of the veteran who has fallen into a careless start—smooth delivery and a full, free follow-through are natural results.

Miami, CCNY Handed 1-Year Probations

By ED TUNSTALL
NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The ambitious University of Miami (Fla.), rising to national football prominence in the past few years, today faced the possibility of going through the season undefeated and sitting out New Year's Day without an invitation to a bowl game.

The National Collegiate Athletic Assn. handed Miami and City College of New York one-year probations yesterday for alleged infractions of NCAA regulations.

The 18-member executive council of the NCAA also reprimanded the University of Portland (Ore.)

and Western Illinois State College at Macomb for reported violations of other NCAA rules.

The committee on rules infractions reported Portland violated NCAA regulations by conducting tryouts for 11 prospective basketball players last April while Western Illinois State participated in the Corn Bowl football game at Bloomington, Ill., last Nov. 26. The Corn Bowl is not recognized by the NCAA.

The council also announced at its final session that Michigan State College, placed on probation in August, 1953, for conducting football tryouts, had been restored to all "rights and privileges of an NCAA member."

The probationary period handed CCNY bans the New York school's basketball team from playing in the NCAA National Championship tournament at Kansas City in 1955.

The council's report said that the "high school records of 14 or more athletes admitted to City College of New York during the years 1945 to 1951 were sufficiently and fraudulently changed to establish eligibility for admission to the college."

The ruling affects only CCNY's basketball team with respect to NCAA-sponsored or approved tournaments or post-season events.

All of Miami's teams, on the other hand, are barred from competing in any NCAA-approved post-season game or tournament.

The ruling dealt a stiff blow to Miami's football team which is undefeated in four games this season.

Miami drew the probationary period, the council said, because the school violated NCAA regulations by providing "transportation costs of prospective athletes to visit the campus during at least the past four years" and for conducting "tryouts for prospective football players."

Byers said the ruling has no effect on Miami's regularly scheduled games during the 1954 or 1955 seasons.

Peoria Quintet Picked in World Tourney at Rio De Janeiro

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—The Peoria, Ill., Caterpillars, representing the United States, are top-ranked in the second world basketball tournament opening Saturday along with Uruguay, Brazil and Chile.

The seedings, announced last night by tournament officials, placed Canada, the Philippines, France and Israel in the second rank. Peru, Yugoslavia, Paraguay and China were unseeded.

Argentina, the 1953 champion, is not entered in the tournament which places the nations in four groups of three teams each for the opening elimination round. Two teams from each group will compete for the championship.

Group one lists Brazil, the Philippines and Paraguay; group two, the U.S., Canada and Peru; group three, Uruguay, France and Yugoslavia; group four, Chile, Israel and China.

State Bounties Four Wolves in September

LANSING (AP)—Four wolves, all killed in the Upper Peninsula, were among the predators bountied by the state in September, the conservation department reported today.

One male wolf was taken in each of Alger, Chippewa and Dickinson Counties. A female was killed in Luce County.

In addition, 832 coyotes, 184 bobcats and 1,052 foxes were bountied. Bounty payments in the month totaled $20,850.

Connie Mack gained fame as manager of the Philadelphia Athletics but he also was a star catcher.

'Model A' Ford Hot Prospect on Southwest 11

Hardin-Simmons Frosh Following Brother to Passing Fame

ABILENE, Tex. (AP)—A freshman football player at Hardin-Simmons University who tosses a pigskin like a baseball is creating plenty of talk these days and among those discussing him most is that master of the pass himself, Sammy Baugh.

The boy's name is Ken Ford and they call him Model A. He's a brother of John (Model T) Ford, who set all kinds of passing records at Hardin-Simmons from 1947 to 1950 and now is an assistant coach at Arizona. Ken won't be passing against his brother's team because Hardin-Simmons and Arizona do not meet although both are in the Border Conference.

Naturally, followers of Hardin-Simmons football immediately started comparing Ken with his brother. John Ford completed 313 passes for 5,195 yards and 58 touchdowns in his career at the school. Ken is off to a flying start toward smashing John's records.

GAVILAN SCORES—Kid Gavilan lands a right to the face of Johnny Saxton in fourteenth round of welterweight title fight in Convention Hall here last night. Saxton took title from Gavilan by a unanimous decision in a dull, uninteresting encounter. However, virtually all boxing writers at ringside named Gavilan the winner.

Boilermakers, State Both Irked by Badger Losses

By DALE BURGESS

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Purdue and Michigan State football teams, meeting at East Lansing Saturday, could have a cozy chat about their mutual dissatisfaction over losses to Wisconsin.

Spartans had only 10 men in the lineup when Wisconsin scored the touchdowns that beat them, 6-0, and coach Duffy Daugherty still turns livid when he thinks about it. LeRoy Bolden was lying on the ground, injured, and the situation seemed to call for an automatic time out.

A series of penalties contributed to Purdue's 20-4 loss at Wisconsin last Saturday, after the Boilermakers led 6-0. Coach Stu Holcomb wouldn't discuss it for publication but another Purdue staff member said Stu was furious and still thinks his club is better than the Badgers.

Wisconsin's march to its 1st touchdown was set up when a 15-yard penalty was called against Purdue.

Another 15-yard penalty nullified a Purdue punt that went out of bounds on the Wisconsin 2. Purdue also questioned an illegal shift penalty that stopped a drive which had reached the Wisconsin 17.

Purdue got another bad break when Bill Murakowski, fullback, suffered a charley horse early in the 2nd quarter and didn't get back into the game.

Sophomore Lenny Dawson's touchdown pass to 6-foot-7 Lamar Lundy gave him nine for the season, two short of tying the record for major schools.

Fuentes Is Favored Over Billy Graham

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Ramon Fuentes of Los Angeles, 28-year-old part-time gravedigger and the nation's No. 3 ranked welterweight, is a close favorite to whip veteran Billy Graham of New York in a 10-round bout at the Olympic Auditorium tonight.

Overshadowed by last night's title fight between Kid Gavilan and Johnny Saxton, the match here nonetheless is expected to attract a sizable crowd into the 10,000-seat arena.

There will be no television.

Bases Predictions on Past Performances of Teams

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Egad! One of my ardent followers suggests a system of picking the winners for Saturday's college football games, and I have used it for this week's selections.

"Your astronomy is out of this world," writes Chester Chalk of Williamsport, Pa. "Come down to earth and base your forecast on what's actually happening."

So while my astronomical calculations are above reproach, what's the matter with trying a simple experiment to please a reader?

So, here they are, based on past performances and actual powers:

Minnesota over Michigan 19-14; Boilermakers 20, Michigan State 19; Army 34, Columbia 9; Navy 23, Penn 18; Princeton 20, Cornell 7; Harvard 14, Dartmouth 7; Illinois 14, Syracuse 6; Northwestern 14, Pitt 6; Yale 14, Colgate 7; Iowa 20, Indiana 7; Wisconsin 21, Ohio State 20; Alabama 14, Miss. State 6; Texas A&M 14, Baylor 7; Florida 21, LSU 20; Georgia 18, Tulane 9; SMU 20, Kansas 14; Oklahoma 27, Kansas State 14; Penn State 14, TCU 14; USC 21, Calif. 13; UCLA 27, Oregon State 7; Washington 20, Stanford 17.

Heath Lost Clothes

CLEVELAND (AP)—Jeff Heath, former Boston Braves slugger who broke his ankle the last week of the 1948 season and missed the World Series, spent an anxious hour after the last game of the 1954 Series.

Heath traveled from Seattle to New York for the first two games. He accepted a ride from New York to Cleveland for the third game. After the fourth game the fellows drove the car off with Heath's luggage. They returned an hour later.

BC, Ole Miss Top Nation Statistically

NEW YORK (AP)—At Oxford, Miss., Boulder, Colo., and Boston, Mass., outstanding defense goes hand in hand with outstanding offense—even though in Boston it takes two schools to provide the combination.

Boston College is the country's top major college team in total defense, NCAA Service Bureau statistics showed today. It's second in ground defense and third in points allowed. And playing just a few blocks away in Boston University, which ranks No. 2 in total offense and scoring.

Mississippi is No. 1 in ground defense as well as in total offense and in passing. Colorado has permitted the opposition the least number of points and is the country's top running team.

Naturally, with such advantages, each of the four teams is undefeated. Boston College has given four opponents only 139.5 yards a game and is far ahead in this department.

On the ground, Mississippi has held five foes to 52.8 yards a game, keeping Tulane, its last victim, down to 13.

Only three teams have held the opposition to an average of under a touchdown a game. Colorado has allowed 3.3 points a game, Alabama 4.2 and Boston College 5.8. Boston U. figures in two defensive categories, both indirect. It has had to punt only nine times in four games, and its punting attack in Saturday's 41-19 victory over Syracuse knocked the Orange from first place in pass defense to 43rd.

The new pass defense leader is Texas A&M, which has allowed only 30.8 aerial yards per game. Then come Richmond, 36.2; Iowa, 36.3 and Detroit 38.5. Wyoming has permitted fewest completions, 11, for the lowest average 26.8 per cent.

UCLA is prominent in runbacks of interceptions and punts. In the 72-0 slaughter of Stanford, the Uclans picked off eight passes and ran them back 218 yards, a distance exceeded only once in the history of major college statistics. Kentucky ran back interceptions 240 yards worth against Mississippi in 1949.

UCLA also ran back five Stanford punts for 180 yards and two touchdowns. Detroit did even better against Villanova Friday night, going 239 yards with eight kicks and scoring twice.

Wichita, however, is the real kick return leader. It's No. 1 in punt runbacks with 29.6 yards a try, and second with kickoffs at 29.9. Arizona is the kickoff leader with 31.1.

UCLA leads in pass interceptions with 18 and interception yardage with 276. Its the most passed against team in the country, 118 attempts being made against it in five games.

Army turned in the outstanding pass defense feat of the season so far at Duke Saturday. It held the Blue Devils to one completion for a loss of nine yards.

RECORD BLACKFISH—Audrey Hopf admires a 20-pound 11-ounce blackfish held by George T. Peckham of Newport, R. I., who has filed a claim for a world record with the International Game Fish Association. The present rod and reel record is 18 pounds six ounces, caught at Montauk Point, L. I., N. Y., last October. Blackfish are called by their Indian name of Tautog along part of the Atlantic coast. Peckham caught the whopper from a boat with a 30-pound test line. It is 33 inches long with a 23-inch "waistline," about the same as Audrey's.

Young Hunter in Derby Lead

A 13-year-old Auburn Heights schoolboy holds the lead in the Pontiac Press big pheasant contest after the opening day shooting Wednesday.

Conard Fulkerson, who just turned 13 last week, bagged a 3-pound, 2-ounce bird in the 1st 10 minutes of the season Wednesday morning. Conard, who was hunting with his mother, Mrs. Willard Fulkerson, 2006 Woodale, used a 20-gauge shotgun to bring down the bird in the South Boulevard-Opdyke Road area.

An 8th grader at Auburn Heights school, young Fulkerson is in his 2nd season as a hunter and Wednesday marked his 1st success.

Another lucky hunter Wednesday was William J. Mobley, 639 E.

Beverly, Pontiac. He brought down a 3-pound, 1-ounce ringneck with his 12-gauge pump shortly after noon in Waterford Township.

Table tennis star Jimmy Reed also proved adept with a gun as he bagged a partial albino near M-59. Reed and his father, Curly Reed, got 3 birds in a half hour's hunting.

Duane Paul Bills, 354 Midway, was another who got an "early bird." He shot a 2-pounder near the north city limits within an hour after the season opened.

Ivy Granting Buckeyes Pair of Touchdowns

Wisconsin Hopes Lie in Ability to Outrun Buckeye 11

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Ohio State, in the opinion of Wisconsin Coach Ivy Williamson, "will do things" to the Badger football team in their key Big Ten game Saturday.

The "things" the No. 4 ranked Buckeyes will do to Wisconsin's No. 2 club include the scoring of touchdowns.

"We've got to hold them to two, maybe three, to have any kind of a chance," says Williamson. "And if we can't do things ourselves, we're licked."

"We think we can. We've played pretty good football in spots this year, not always consistent, but pretty good when it was good. They'll have their troubles too. At least we hope they will."

Wisconsin will match the battering of its All-America candidate, fullback Alan (The Horse) Ameche, against the slashes of Ohio State's Howard (Hopalong) Cassidy and Bobby Watkins, and the passing of quarterbacks Jim Miller and Jim Halusa against that of Dave Leggett.

In addition, Williamson will alternate two lines against the Buckeyes as he did in winning from Marquette, Michigan State, Rice and Purdue. The system has been effective, with none of the four victims able to score in the second half. Ohio State's line has been equally strong, giving up only one touchdown on the ground in victories over Indiana, California, Illinois and Iowa.

Williamson discounts the idea that Ohio State holds a jinx over his teams, despite the fact he has yet to win from a Buckeye team in five tries. His 1931 team gained a 6-6 tie, but the Badgers lost the other four, including a 20-19 thriller last fall in which Ohio State scored twice in the fourth quarter.

Beavers Give Assist on Dam-Building Job

GERALTON, Ont. (UP)—Engineers who built a dam near Manitowadge Lake said today they were helped by a night shift of beavers.

Three times the engineers attempted to start the dam on a section of a creek feeding into the lake, but each time the beavers carried the planks to their own site upstream.

The engineers finally moved the dam and the beavers obligingly packed the planks with mud and branches.

GREENVILLE, S. C. (AP)—State Highway Patrolman W. M. Tiller has reason to believe that his driving safety lectures might need polishing.

Big 10's Best Attack, Defense Clash Saturday

Buckeyes Pit Scoring Machine Against Strong Wisconsin 11

CHICAGO (AP)—The Big Ten pivotal game Saturday between unbeaten Wisconsin and Ohio State will be a meeting of the conferences best defensive team against the No. 1 club on offense.

Official league statistics today showed Ohio State ranked 1st in offense, although outgained by Minnesota 371 yards per game to 325. Buckeyes have outscored the Gophers, 29.3 to 22.5, and have an edge in 1st downs, 18 to 17.5.

Ohio State has averaged 240.3 yards per conference game rushing and 66.3 passing. Minnesota features a running attack that leads the league with an average of 538 yards.

Gophers have thrown fewer passes than any other Big Ten team and have an average gain of only 33.5 yards by air.

Wisconsin's defense has yielded 197.5 yards a game and only 51.5 on the ground. However, Badgers have been vulnerable to passes, allowing a conference high of 146 yards per game.

Ohio State has given up an average of 202.6 yards per game, 128 on the ground, and Minnesota has yielded 204 yards, 145.5 on the ground.

Northwestern, without a conference victory, is disproving the theory that ball control governs victory. Wildcats have averaged 73.5 plays per game and have allowed their opponents a low of 53.5.

The Big Ten's two best rushers also will meet in the Wisconsin-Ohio State duel, Ohio State's Bobby Watkins has netted 266 yards in three league games and Wisconsin's Alan Ameche is 2nd with 200 in two games.

Group Would Increase AAA Sport Car Races

DETROIT (UP)—Number of sports car races sponsored by the American Automobile Assn. would be increased under a plan announced here Wednesday by the AAA's contest board.

Col. A. W. Herrington, board chairman, said one phase would be to increase the number of AAA speed trials at the Bonneville (Utah) Salt Flat during 1955.

Herrington said his group also would cooperate with various sports car organizations to effect a "gradual increase" in the number of races held at air force bases.

You Be the Quarterback

(Answer)

4. Dive play. That tackle is charging. Why dive into him?
3. Fullback slant. The offensive end takes care of the tackle on this one. But you're still not exploiting the real opportunity.
2. Pitchout and pass. With that end floating, you should have plenty of time to throw.
1. Quarterback keep. This is the play for this situation. When the end floats, the quarterback runs inside him.

Scribe Finds Pheasant Plentiful on 1st Day

(Pontiac Press Outdoor Writer)
CASEVILLE — We officially opened the pheasant season yesterday morning in the area west of Pigeon, in the company of Bob and Ed Nelson and Ed's son Jack. Written histories of hunting lore probably fail to record a demonstration of atrocious marksmanship to equal the performance of this foursome. Bird after bird ballooned up at point-blank range, only to sail away to safety amidst a withering barrage of near (and not so near) misses.

Young Jack Nelson finally broke the spell by clobbering a handsome cock with that example to spur them on, the old fuddlers finally buckled down and collected a few more birds. But it was a pretty sad display, nonetheless.

We're seriously thinking of plugging our gun barrels with damp soil, planting them with ivy, or perhaps ferns, and donating them to the local branch of the Farm and Garden Club.

We did find plenty of birds, and other hunters interviewed backed us up on our guess that pheasants are about as plentiful as last year. At Bill Dorney's place in Caseville we ran into an Oxford delegation composed of Harold Pickford, Bob Brower, Dick Prince, Ralph Curtis, Ed Bassardet and Harold Parent. The boys did very well on birds and fell a couple short of the limit only because of occasional indifferent marksmanship.

Only really easy limit we heard about was taken by Herman Cole of Pontiac, but Herman hunts in weird places where no one else would think of looking for birds. Places, incidentally, which we have been placed under oath not to divulge.

Ran into Gunner George and found that he'd seen many birds but hadn't done them all the mischief the law allows. Roy Dorris reported good hunting which we took to mean a limit bag and the same dog bit Lou Cooper.

Hank Giroux and Harold Bessler of Cooley Lake burned a good deal of gunpowder in this area and brought back gaudy trophies to prove that they take their hunting seriously.

So the birds are here for the taking and it looks as though '34 will be one of the best pheasant seasons since the big decline of '47. But the hunting right now is anything but easy. Weeks of rain have left most of the farmland hereabouts in a semi-liquid condition. There's but one word for field conditions—rough.

One peculiarity of this year's birds, remarked upon by just about everyone hunting this area, was a marked refusal to fly, except in extreme emergency. Don't know, though, as it matters much to us. We even missed one running on the ground.

Bob Considine Says:

Igor Gouzenko Gives Plan to Disrupt Red Espionage

By BOB CONSIDINE
NEW YORK (INS)—Igor Gouzenko said, in his excited way, pacing his Toronto hotel room, that he had a "tremendous" plan to throw the Soviet Union's spying system in the U.S. and Canada into a state of massive jitters.

"It would tear the very ground from under the spy-masters; never again would they be sure of their men," swore the former cipher clerk who defected and pulled the rug from under the May-Fuchs-Gold-Green-Glass-Rosenbergs apparatus.

Many Reds serving in embassies and consulates want to make the break immediately when they comprehend the difference between the life they live and the lives of free peoples around them, Gouzenko asserted.

But they hold back for assorted reasons, he added, recalling that his last days in the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa were tormented by a series of gruesome stories which appeared in "Vestnik," the Daily Worker of Canada.

"Vestnik" gave long and lurid accounts of how American authorities invariably returned defectors to Russian hands. What then happened, Gouzenko remembered, "was described in gory detail with sadistic pleasure."

Gouzenko would remove such doubts and fears, which he credits with holding together the Russian spying apparatus. His five-point plan:

1—Establish special citizenship laws. Its effect would be that every escapee who brings documentary evidence which can stand scrupulous investigation leading to disclosure of Communist spy activity should become a citizen without complicated procedure and with the utmost speed.

2—This law should provide life-long protection for such a citizen if he desires it. Personalities should not matter. The man should be ensured safety whether he is an ugly, unpleasant, irritable person or not.

3—The man should be given material security in the shape of a parliamentary grant, such as is given to war leaders who have served their country well. Such security could be in the form of a government annuity or any other form agreed on by the representatives of the people.

4—Such a man should be given all assistance in finding employment which suits his ability and talent.

5—Such a man should be given a document in which the government acknowledges his service to the country entitles him to all assistance and help.

Remarkable little man, this Gouzenko. Silent, one might take him for a recording secretary of a lodge of boosters. His wife, Svetlana, blonde and much taller, followed him with her adoring but ever-so-slightly amused eyes wherever he walked in the hotel suite. She had carried his scrap book to town. And hung on his every word.

They met just after the outbreak of World War II when both were attending an architectural school in Moscow. The chance she took, by fleeing with him from Red control in 1945, was as great as his own. A price presumably remains on her head, but she ignores using a mask when a photographer is in the offing.

Gouzenko's brown sack-like hood, with crudely cut out eyes, nose and mouth, apparently is a bother to him. But it is an effective gimmick. One would assume that if the Reds really wanted to knock him off they would have found ways and means years ago. But there's always a chance they're still looking. If so, he doesn't want to help them one little bit.

The hood has its publicity value, too, and Gouzenko is as alert to that as any denizen of H'way or H'wood. He is inordinately proud of the reception given his "Fall of a Titan," and should be.

He is pleased, too, with producer Fred Feldkamp's forthcoming semi-documentary, "Operation Manhunt," to be released next month by United Artists. He appears in the picture's epilogue, hooded.

Another fact novel is in the works, dealing with the Soviet Union's use of blackmail.

Igor hit the jackpot. Maybe an even more compelling inducement to other Reds to fly the coop would be to tell them what Igor found when, like Sammy, he ran.

Louisiana's total area has been increased by about 50 square miles by the Mississippi river's silt deposits.

Hazel Toppled 100-Year Tree

Towering Pecan Stood on Mt. Vernon Estate of George Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—A 100-year-old pecan tree, viewed by thousands of persons who have visited the historic Mt. Vernon estate of George Washington, was destroyed by Hurricane Hazel.

The huge tree helped frame the view of the Potomac as tourists see the river from the Mt. Vernon piazza. It stood a few hundred feet to the left of the piazza, which extends across the mansion on the river side.

Charles C. Wall, estate superintendent, said Wednesday the ancient tree was blown down, uprooting a large section of the lawn, and could not be replanted. A count of its rings confirmed that it was about 100 years old, Wall said.

It was believed to have been an offshoot from trees which Thomas Jefferson gave to Washington, and which he called "Illinois trees," or pecans.

Wall said hardly a twig was torn from the 15 or 16 still older trees on the estate that have survived since the days when Washington lived there, more than 150 years ago. Some of these may have been planted by Washington or under his direction, Wall said.

Two Carolyns Named for Identical Honors

LORIS, S. C. (AP)—Carolyn James, 11th grade Loris High School student, was elected Loris "Future Farmers of America Sweetheart."

Soon afterward, she received a letter from Carolyn James in the 11th grade at Lake City, S. C., about 65 miles distant. The other Carolyn had been elected Lake City "Future Farmers of America Sweetheart."

Actor at Home in 'Halls of Ivy'

High-Brow Attitude Characterizes Serial, Rare Amid Comics

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK (INS)—The creamy organ tones of Ronald Colman made their TV debut Tuesday evening in Halls of Ivy, the TV version of his very good, exceptionally literate radio series of the same title.

It has Benita Hume (Mrs. C.) as his wife, and for the benefit of folks who have ignored radio entirely the last several seasons, it is set on a college campus where Colman plays William Todd-hunter Hall, its president.

The bubbling conflict at home stems from the fact that Mrs. Colman President was a British musical comedy star before Cupid in the form of Colman swept her off to America and, as of now, to Ivy College.

Her lack of understanding of the stiffer protocol of a college campus gives some indication of hilarity to come, although this was only hinted at Tuesday evening. In fact, the whole premiere was notable mostly for its promise rather than its settled, permanent diversions.

It was an effective episode, however, to set the scene, establish that it is a script with ambitions far above and beyond customary TV dialogues, with gobs of deftly delivered and selected classical quotations, naturally from the handsome voice of Ronnie, and graceful, neatly flowery speeches by Colman on virtually any subject.

There are quite a few tiny pedantic jokes in the dialogue (such as Ronnie didn't wish to be a frog "and break before my time") but there are more perceptively satisfying gambits, such as Mrs. and Mrs. Hall's discussion of nursery rhymes and discovering them laden with bigamy (the man on the way to St. Ives who met a man with seven wives), larceny, murder, bad grammar, manners and even bad rhyming.

The script doesn't intend, clearly, to lower its semantic sights nor to shorten its syllables just because someone sometime said the TV audience may be wearing some sort of a collective dunce cap.

It rides full gallop into such words as temerity, bellicose and further dictionary esoteria (he even has us doing it) with the plain implication that to do any less with a college president would be to patronize his audience.

There is little patronizing here, and even a helping of quotations from the dead apostles of Rome, Athens, and even, in one fairly courageous final flag, from the Sanskrit.

There's nothing snooty about the manner of its delivery; it's presented with the expectation that there is more mentality in the living room than meets the convictions of the typical TV gagman.

There was a great deal in this opening episode to indicate respect not only for the television medium, but for the English language, the common decencies, and a great many of the virtues usually reserved for the more cheerful saints.

Ronald Colman is . . . well, Ronald Colman, whose handsome facade and surface formality seems to hide a constant private joke with gift in eye to match and he is just about as satisfying as his veteran admirers could wish.

He is urbane, about as hands-on as any man of his years legally should be, and delivers his dialogues with just the properly tidy good-humor which escapes the pretensions.

Benita Hume as his wife plays her role to its casually good natured hilt and projects a person of natural great-lady instincts while never forgetting her music hall background.

Deaths Last Night

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—Dr. George J. Searle, 84, father of socially prominent Mrs. Cornelia Vanderbilt Whitney, and who had practiced medicine in Plymouth, Ohio, for more than 50 years.

LOS ANGELES—Robert (Bob) Burns, 63, assistant night city editor and rewrite man for the Los Angeles Examiner, and formerly on newspapers in Milwaukee, Tulsa and Salt Lake City, and on the Los Angeles Daily News. Born in Milwaukee.

SOUTHERN PINES, N.C.—Ransom Johnson, 76, who fought vice through the years of two world wars, and for 25 years before his retirement in 1945 legal expert for the American Social Hygiene Assn.

Isabella Sheriff Probes License Fund Shortage

LANSING (AP)—The Isabella County sheriff's office and state agents today began a probe of a shortage in the sheriff's driver license bureau.

Sheriff Henry Craven of Mount Pleasant reported to Secretary of State Cleary that Deputy Sheriff Samuel Connerman, in charge of the bureau, had resigned at his request during the investigation.

The amount of the shortage has not yet been determined, Cleary reported.

About one-half of the known coal reserves of the world are located in the North American continent.

DEAN TO GET ARMS—The Forman, N. D. neighbors who contributed to an "Arms for Dean Fund" are making possible the dream of Dean Heffelfinger, 8, to be able to bat a ball. The third grader, with his mother, Mrs. Robert Heffelfinger, is en route to West Orange, N. J., where, at the Kessler Institute, he will receive artificial arms.

Insurance Firms Deny False Ads

8 Accused Companies Defend Practices Cited in U. S. Complaint

By UNITED PRESS

Spokesmen for eight accident and health insurance companies have defended their advertising practices against complaints filed by the Federal Trade Commission.

The eight were included in the 17 companies accused by the FTC Tuesday of making "false and misleading" advertising claims.

Philip E. Moran, general counsel for the Mutual Benefit Health and Accident Association of Omaha, Neb. (Mutual of Omaha) called the FTC's action "ill advised."

He said Mutual of Omaha was the only company on the list "which is licensed in every one of the 48 states."

"It appears to us," he said, "that a conflict has arisen as to whether we are to be supervised by the individual state insurance commissions, or by the Federal Trade Commission."

R. E. Pratt, treasurer of the Travelers Health Association of Omaha, said "we do not know what their objections are."

"We know of no false or misleading claims in any of our advertising," he said. "If, in the opinion of the (FTC), such exists, we would have been glad to amend our advertising accordingly."

In Chicago the Bankers Life and Casualty Co. said in a statement that it has tried to "serve and protect the public interest."

"There is a constant problem of getting the public to understand both the benefits and the limitations of all forms of insurance," it said.

At Hammond, Ind., the executive vice president of the Guarantee Reserve Life Insurance Co., Jerome Kutak, said he was shocked and surprised that the FTC released the story of its accusations before informing the companies involved.

Begging Still Not Legal Even if Business Good

CHICAGO (AP)—Business is so good, blind George Williams told the judge yesterday, that he spends only two hours a day strumming his guitar and singing hillbilly songs on Chicago streets.

He said $20 to $25 an hour is dropped into his tin cup.

Judge Oscar S. Caplan warned Williams, however, that begging is illegal and put him on probation until Dec. 2.

Lansing Ex-Mayor Dies

LANSING (AP)—J. Gottlieb Reutter, 86, Lansing mayor from 1912 to 1918, died last night of injuries suffered Oct. 6 when he was struck by a car while crossing a downtown Lansing street.

Old Pals Battle for Speakership

Rayburn, Martin Stage Vigorous Election Fight Despite Their Ages

WASHINGTON (INS)—Two men whose tremendous vigor belies their years are fighting it out today for the third highest office in the land—speaker of the House of Representatives.

The rivals are Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. (R-Mass.), who will be 70 Nov. 3, the day after election day, and House Minority Leader Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.), who was 72 last Jan. 6.

Rayburn—the Democrats' beloved "Mr. Sam"—has served six terms as speaker since 1940 when he was first elected to that post, now next in succession to the White House after the vice president.

Martin is completing his second term as speaker. He filled the job in the GOP 80th Congress of 1947-48 and was the overwhelming choice when the Republicans returned to power with the Eisenhower sweep of 1952.

Each man, when his party was out of power, has served as minority leader in every Congress since the 70th, back in 1940.

Despite the political and geographical gulfs between them, there are curious parallels in the lives of Martin and Rayburn.

Both are bachelors. Both are wholeheartedly dedicated to the great game of politics. Both enjoy the respect and admiration of members of opposing parties. And the dark-haired New Englander and the bald-pated Texan are close personal friends.

Both men are assured of re-election to the House.

And it is as certain as it is that the sun will rise on election day that if the Democrats win control of the House, "Mr. Sam" again will be the speaker, and that if the Republicans prevail, Joe Martin will succeed himself.

Ten Counties to Plan Services for Disaster

LANSING (AP)—Ten Southeastern Michigan counties will consider ways of providing a mutual support area for welfare services in case Detroit is bombed.

At a meeting Oct. 27-28 in the offices of the Detroit Office of Civil Defense, officials will consider the creation of a program for welfare service aid.

The counties include Wayne, Macomb, Washtenaw, Monroe, Livingston, Lenawee, Oakland, Genesee, Lapeer and St. Clair.

Adds Insult to Injury

SALT LAKE CITY (UP)—Injury was added to insult here recently when postal officials reported the theft of two registered letters from the contract post office at the Utah capitol building.

The Salt Lake postmaster revealed that one letter contained reports on the day's business at the postoffice and the other contained $112 in cash, the day's receipts at the contract station.

State Madcaps Entertain Troops on Duty in Korea

By BERT STOLL

TAEGU, Korea (AP)—Lt. Al Howes, of Greenville, Mich., piloted the C-47 transport plane which flew the Michigan Madcaps, special USO camp show unit from K-47 Air Force Base at Chun Chon to Taegu today.

It was like old home week for Lt. Howes as he visited with the group from his home state. Lt. Howes formerly was on Air Force recruiting duty in Grand Rapids. His mother, Mrs. Ethel Howes, lives in Greenville while his wife and family now live at Glenn Falls, N. Y.

Here at Taegu, the Michigan Madcaps sponsored by the United Health and Welfare Fund of Michigan and the United Foundation of Detroit, had mail call—receiving their first mail from home in three weeks. Letters from home are as good as morale boosters for the Detroit Spillbinder and others of the Madcaps troupe, as their fine entertainment is for GI's and officers here in Korea.

Traveling around Korea via Army trucks, weapons carriers, jeeps, Army transport planes, helicopters and military trains is rather "rough" at best but the Madcaps proved they could take it. Even 15-year-old Beverly Lavell

Detroit, 90, to Marry a Ready-Made Family.

DETROIT (UP)—George L. Betz, a 90-year-old widower with no children, will become a father, grandfather and great-grandfather Saturday when he takes a new wife.

Betz announced that he will marry his housekeeper, 65-year-old Mrs. Georgeanne Barlind. The bride-to-be has a son, three grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

"There wasn't much to live for when I lost my second husband," said Mrs. Barlind, who has been married twice previously. "But now I have George and he both have a new life ahead of us."

Betz's first wife died in July.

European Reds Forward Vital U.S. Imports to China

LONDON (U-P)—Russia and her European satellites have opened a big hole in Western barriers against war potential exports to Communist China. They are buying strategic goods from the West and selling them to the Chinese, making a neat profit in the bargain.

American and British officials here and elsewhere know what is happening but say they can see no way of stopping it.

This is the Western gimmick the Kremlin has turned to Eastern advantage. The United States and her allies forbid the export of certain strategic goods to both Eastern Europe and Red China. But the list of goods embargoed for Red China is far longer than the one for Eastern Europe.

Red Europe thus can buy Western goods that the Chinese cannot—things like generators, machine tools and petroleum equipment. Western officials say European Communist nations are buying these items for transshipment at top prices to the Chinese Reds. One of the big Communist transshipment points is Gdynia, Poland. From there Western goods go by rail to Peiping via the Trans-Siberian Railway, or are carried into Chinese ports by Red ships able to evade the Chinese Nationalist naval blockade.

Several shipments of strategic items from the West were recently held up at Gdynia by a transport bottleneck, according to information reaching Western diplomats.

The strategic ban on Red China, imposed by the United Nations during the Korean War, has always been tougher than the cold war embargo on Soviet Europe. And with tensions easing in Europe, the West relaxed embargoes for the Soviet bloc last August, cutting the number of prohibited items from 250 to about 170. But the Far East situation remained potentially explosive and similar action on the Red China lists was deferred. Western European businessmen are urging their governments to let the Chinese Reds buy what European Reds can buy. The United States opposes any change in the China lists before the signing of a full Korean peace.

Offers to Purchase Rebel Bond Issue

HOUSTON (U-P)—A Houston brokerage firm is offering $10 good hard cash for certain examples of the Confederate treasury's handwork—$1,000 cotton bonds. The firm's weekly bulletin made the offer for an unnamed Houston man it said seeks to buy up the $100,000 Confederate States of America 7 per cent cotton bond issue due in 1863. The bonds were issued for $1,000 each. The bulletin said the man

"chooses this way to reaffirm his faith in those bygone principles and his conviction that the South today needs sorely to revive and recapture them."

Outdoor Cabinet Meet Held in Philippines
MANILA (U-P)—President Ramon Magasaysay took his Cabinet to a remote village on Mindoro Island yesterday and held the first outdoor session of its kind before the wide-eyed stares of curious villagers. Top Filipino leaders met under a palm leaf shelter in San Agustin, about 90 miles south of Manila. The Irish potato actually is a South American plant.

U.S. Accuses 24 Watch Firms

Charge American and Swiss Companies With Anti-Trust Violations

NEW YORK (U-P)—The U. S. Department of Justice has charged 18 American concerns and six Swiss organizations with violating the Sherman Anti-Trust Act in the jeweled watch trade.

A civil action, filed in Federal District Court here, charges violations in the manufacture, sale, import and export of jeweled watches and component and repair parts.

The department also alleged violation of the Wilson Tariff Act, which forbids conspiracies relating to imports and exports.

The government's suit cited virtually all of the large watch companies in the United States which assemble Swiss-made parts. These include Bulova, Benrus, Gruen and Longines-Wittnauer.

The complaint alleged agreements to:

1. Refrain from establishing watch manufacturing facilities in the United States.
2. Restrict the manufacture of watches and watch parts in the United States.
3. Refrain from extending aid to watch manufacturers located in countries other than Switzerland.
4. Fix the prices and terms and conditions of sale for Swiss watches imported into the United States.
5. Blacklist, boycott or fine American watch companies that did not adhere to these alleged agreements.
6. Prevent exportation to Switzerland and other countries from the United States of American-produced watch parts and watch cases.
