Missing Pontiac Broker Arrested in Oklahoma

Over 150 Italians Killed in Floods and Landslides

Mediterranean Coast Lashed by Cloudbursts; 500 Homeless

SALERNO, Italy (AP)—Raging cloudbursts crumbled scores of homes and took up to 150 Italian lives today in this summer playground for thousands of American and European tourists.

The death belt runs down the beautiful Mediterranean coastline from here to terraced Amalfi.

The Italian army rushed in troops as leaden skies still poured rain down on the ravaged villages and cities. Landslides compounded the terror.

Officials said it is impossible yet to estimate the total death toll. Many persons may still be buried beneath the wreckage of collapsed homes.

In the Salerno area, 58 bodies have been counted. Another 39 persons are hospitalized in serious condition. Up to 100 are missing but most of these are believed safe.

On the Amalfi coast, 15 bodies have been recovered at Maiori and 3 at Minori. Many were reported buried under debris at Maiori and Cava dei Tirreni.

Reports from Nocera Inferiore said there were 20 victims in the hamlets of Zepe, Paccara and Novella.

Hardest hit was Salerno, known to tens of thousands of former American soldiers because it was here the Allies stormed the Italian mainland in a bloody World War II battle.

In Rome, the Ministry of Interior said first reports indicate the toll may be the highest of any Italian floods in recent history.

Also hard hit were the hamlets of Marina di Vietri and Molina, where first reports to police said as many as 50 persons may have been buried as buildings crumbled.

2 Areas to Vote on Incorporation

Keego Harbor, Madison Heights May Become Home Rule Cities

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors today set election dates for incorporation of two county areas.

Keego Harbor residents will vote Dec. 14 on incorporating as a home rule city and voters in Madison Heights Subdivision in Royal Oak Township will ballot on the same proposal Jan. 17 next year.

A simple majority of registered voters is required for the passage of incorporation.

Under the state law, a home rule city sets up its own governing body and regulates such things as sewage disposal, drainage, fire protection and law enforcement.

Keego Harbor will be bounded on the south by the Grand Trunk Railroad, on the west by Orchard Lake Road and the east shore of Cass Lake, on the north by the West Bloomfield Township line and on the east by the city of Sylvan Lake.

Madison Heights will take up about 5½ square miles in the northeast corner of Royal Oak Township.

Curious Canine 'Q' Is Stalled by Walls

DES MOINES (AP)—A Boxer puppy named "Q" went exploring in an unfinished attic yesterday.

He managed to fall through the only hole big enough to accommodate his 40 pounds.

"Q" fell eight feet between the inside and outside walls of the home.

Against the alternatives of cutting into some kitchen cabinets or ripping tile from a bathroom wall, siding was peeled from the brand, new house and "Q" was freed.

There was no comment from the Thomas A. Wheeler family who had volunteered to keep the dog a few days for their pastor.

Oppose Conlin Proposal

Citizens Propose New Plan for State Tax Distribution

Countering the Conlin Proposal on state school aid (proposition number two on the Nov. 2 ballot) four of Oakland County's leading tax and finance authorities have formed the Committee for Better State Finance.

Chairmaned by Mrs. James T. Dunne, Westacres, others who have volunteered to draft an equitable tax plan for the state are Louis H. Schimmel, Pontiac; Mrs. Harry E. King, Pontiac and Clifford Smart, Walled Lake. Dr. Carl O. Smith of Wayne University is also serving with the group.

This committee is urging a "no" vote on the Conlin Proposal.

"Placing the Conlin Proposal in the Constitution will only delay indefinitely the time when Michigan must face up to a real and sound solution to its state finance problem," said Mrs. Dunne.

The group stated that if the Conlin Plan should pass, state money for financing the operation of schools will be reduced because of the deductions which will then have a claim on the school fund.

"This comes at a time when school enrollments are increasing annually by 70,000 children. Voters should defeat the Conlin Plan and then by initiatory petition correct all of the mistakes in the present Sales Tax Diversion Amendment," they declared.

Schimmel, chairman of the Municipal Advisory Council of Michigan, has worked in state finance for 25 years. He served on the Kelly Tax Study Commission and on subsequent tax review groups. As a member of the Pontiac Board

Winnie Turns Down Russian Bid on Talks

LONDON (AP)— Prime Minister Churchill today rejected a Russian proposal for Big Four talks next month on German unification.

He told the House of Commons this was not the moment to enter into such talks with the Russians while Western Parliaments still have to ratify the London and Paris agreements calling for a rearmed and sovereign West Germany.

Back to Italy and Ease

Bride-to-Be Backs Away From Housewife Chores

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Saying she was "rather shocked" to find the average American wife does her own housework, an Italian woman who came here to wed has decided to go home instead.

Vanna Scussel, 26, came here from Milan a month ago after an 18-month letter correspondence with contractor Elmer W. Brass, 58. They planned to marry.

But yesterday Vanna declared:

"There'll be no marriage. I'm going back home early next year. We don't agree about things."

She said she has been accustomed to servants in her home. "And it was rather shocking to me to find out the average American housewife has to keep up her own house, even does the cooking."

Vanna said she hadn't found things as rosy for the American wife as she'd been led to believe.

Brass showed no deep regret because their months-long friendship didn't lead to the altar. "I've had a lot of fun seeing her reaction to this country," he said.

Ike Announces New 1954 Low in Joblessness

President Notes U. S. Prosperity as He Ups Campaign Tempo

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower passed out new pre-election ammunition to fellow Republicans last night in saying unemployment has dropped 400,000 to a new total of 2,700,000, below three million the first time this year.

The chief executive, increasingly active in the home stretch for continued GOP control of Congress, also focused nationwide attention on the administration in the foreign affairs field a few hours earlier through the first telecast and broadcast of a Cabinet meeting.

And reports persisted the President may take to the road again late this week to lend a personal hand once more in the campaign.

Presidential aides were elated over Eisenhower's two nationwide appearances on radio and television in a single evening with the elections just a week off. And, also privately, they voiced hope the appearances will benefit the GOP cause at the polls Nov. 2.

The President's discussion of the unemployment situation, theme of Democratic criticism of the administration in several congressional races, came in an address to members of the National Security Industrial Assn. here.

He called 1954 "our most prosperous peacetime year in history," but added that "in certain industries and localities some unemployment still exists as the aftermath of war and inflation."

He said "good progress is being made" toward reducing joblessness. Then, departing from his prepared text, he said he had just received this "latest report" on unemployment:

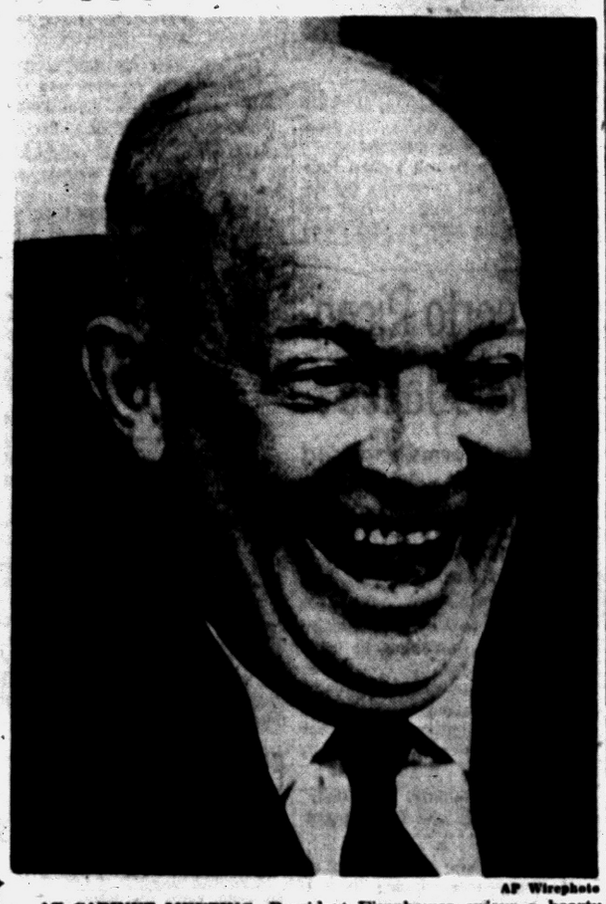

"In this month, its unemployment has been reduced by 400,000 jobs.

"In that period unemployment has fallen from 3,100,000 to 2,700,000."

TV Public Joins Cabinet as Dulles Explains Pacts

By MERRIMAN SMITH

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles made it clear to the world today that the United States may agree to new cold war talks with Russia after the new agreements on German rearmament have been ratified.

In an unprecedented televised meeting of the President's Cabinet, Dulles said "there may be a new basis for discussion" with the Communists "when we create, as we hope we will, a position of solidity and strength for Western Europe."

"At least we can hope," he added, "that then there can be talks more satisfactory than those that exist when the only object of the Soviet Union is, by trick or device, to try and break up the European unity."

The extraordinary Cabinet meeting was called last night to dramatize the Paris agreement for enlisting West Germany in the European defense system. With the congressional elections only a week away, Republican leaders hoped it would help win votes for the GOP.

For the first time in history, Americans across the nation were invited via television to pull up a chair at a business session in the green-carpeted Cabinet Room at the White House.

As soon as his top advisers had assembled around the coffin-shaped mahogany table shortly after 7 p. m., President Eisenhower brisk-

Eugene Parmenter Faces $175,000 Theft Charge

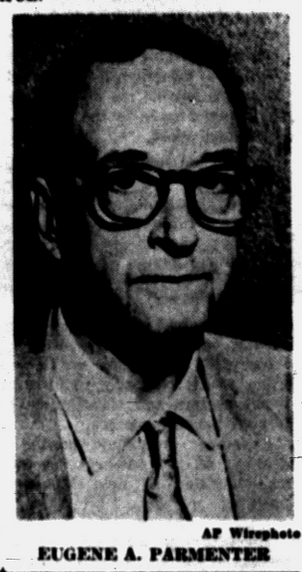

Attempt to Reach Wife Leads to Arrest; Straley to Return Fugitive Today

Eugene A. Parmenter, 54-year-old Pontiac broker who fled more than a year ago after he reportedly embezzled $175,000, was arrested Monday in Oklahoma City.

The suspect, who dropped from sight after auditors opened a check of his books while he was employed at the W. H. Protiva Co. here, was working as a bookkeeper in Oklahoma City under the name of Edward A. Parker.

Parmenter told the auditors he was going out "for a cup of coffee" and disappeared.

EUGENE A. PARMENTER

Straley and Capt. Clark M. Wheaton, chief of detectives, have been working on the case since the suspect's disappearance in August 1953, and uncovered new leads late last month that led to his arrest.

Straley stopped in Austin, Texas, Mrs. Parmenter's home town, after attending a police chiefs' convention in New Orleans, La., to follow up two leads.

He discovered that Mrs. Parmenter, since divorced from her husband, had been contacted by an Edward A. Parker. Mrs. Parmenter has been living in Austin since shortly after her husband's disappearance.

After returning to Pontiac, Straley and Wheaton noted that Parker's initials matched those of Parmenter.

Straley, enlisted the aid of a private detective friend, Ray Pincomb, who sent a picture of Parmenter to another private investigator, Harold Hooper, in Oklahoma City.

Armed with a picture of Parmenter, Hooper approached "Edward Parker" just as he was leaving the Southwest Hardware Co. offices for lunch.

"I followed him to his car and told him he was under arrest," Hooper said. "I showed him his picture and fingerprints and he admitted his identity right away."

Parmenter told arresting officers he was "broke" and was living alone in a small apartment.

"He was very curious about how

Molotov Receives Senator Smith for Interview

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov received Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Maine) today at her request.

The interview lasted about an hour. Without making any statement to newsmen, Sen. Smith then drove to the British embassy to lunch with Ambassador Sir William Hayter and Lady Hayter.

Mrs. Smith's administrative assistant, William C. Lewis, present at the interview, said later the question of the senator's requested interview with Premier Malenkov did not come up. He declined to outline the discussion, even in general terms.

The senator wore a black dress, hat and squirrel cape for the noon meeting, at which no refreshments were served.

Court Reshuffles Sheppard Jury

Women in Osteopath's Life Cast Shadow on Murder Trial

CLEVELAND (AP) — Shadows of two women in the life of Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard kept an overcast of romance and intrigue today over the tedious job of reshuffling the jury which is to try him on a first degree murder charge.

As the second week of the trial got under way yesterday, two tentative jurors were excused and two new ones picked to replace them.

That job, the seemingly endless questioning of the people who are to decide on the guilt or innocence of the 30-year-old Bay Village osteopath, was punctuated by defense references to his wife and his reputed paramour.

His wife was blonde and pregnant Marilyn Sheppard, 31, who was clubbed to death in her bed early on the morning of July 4. It is because of her death that Sheppard is on trial for his life.

The other woman is pretty, auburn-haired Susan Hayes, a 24-year-old hospital technician who, police said, admitted she was intimate with Sheppard "more than once" before his wife was slain.

Yesterday's changes left the tentative jury with a balance of six women and six men.

The defendant kept his usual poise as he weathered stares of the curious from his seat in the center of the courtroom.

His composure seemed to falter only once. That was when Defense Attorney Corrigan asked a prospective juror if he knew that a first degree murder charge required that Sheppard "with deliberation and premeditated malice aforethought killed his young wife?"

Sheppard gripped his hands together, closed his eyes for several seconds, and then reached out for a glass on the table beside him and took a drink of water.

Trucker Gathers Falsies —as Thousands Jeer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Harbor Freeway motorists saw a strange sight yesterday—a man stooped over, picking up falsies.

The intimate, sponge-rubber appliances had toppled off a truck and bounced out onto the busy freeway. One motorist who slowed up to give the unidentified truck driver a chance to retrieve the scores of falsies observed: "That's worse than having a flat."

Gen. Lucius B. Clay Advocates $40 Billion National Road Building Program

By BURDETT C. STODDARD

A 40-billion-dollar road building program on federal highways in the next ten years was proposed yesterday by Gen. Lucius B. Clay, chairman of the president's advisory panel on national highways.

Gen. Clay held a press conference at the Sheraton-Cadillac Hotel in Detroit while here to inspect the blossoming Detroit expressway system and consult with state highway engineers.

Gen. Clay said he preferred a revenue bond type of financing similar to that used by Detroit in expressway construction.

He estimated that 100 billion dollars is needed to put all American roads on an adequate basis.

The general's committee is slated to report to President Eisenhower about Dec. 31 proposing legislation to implement a large-scale government road building program.

Current studies indicate that the 40 billion would build a federal system adequate for 25 years, Clay stated.

The project's completion would see four to six lane highways over nearly all the nation's 40,000 miles of inter-state roads.

The money would be split between federal and state allocations—$20 billion from each with states matching federal funds.

Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich), who accompanied Gen. Clay, said Michigan's part of the program would amount to about a minimum of six-and-a-half billion.

Part of the annual appropriation from federal gas and weight taxes could be used to retire the bonds without increasing taxes, he explained.

Currently $875,000,000 is appropriated to highway construction. "As the number of vehicles on the highways increases, gas and weight revenues will increase and more could be appropriated," the general stated. At the end of ten years the annual appropriation will nearly double, he said.

Two other possible financing plans were dismissed by Clay.

1. Pay-as-you-go without a bond issue. "This is not realistic, appropriations would have to be quadrupled even to begin a program and Congress is attempting to balance the budget."

2. Issuance of government bonds to be retired by a special tax. With Congress seeking to reduce the national debt, this probably could not win support, he explained.

"The idea," Gen. Clay stated, "is to make money which would be spent over the next 25 years available now."

If Congress could include the plan in next year's budget, work might start in late 1955 in states that engineering plans developed far enough, he said.

Two things might limit the speed with which any state could complete the program, said Clay.

1. Construction firms available to do the work.

2. The ability of state highway departments to prepare needed plans and complete studies.

Ferguson said Michigan would be in a position to embark on the project.

"In my thinking," said Gen. Clay, "the federal inter-state system is a very important part of our defense effort."

The threat of atomic weapons have increased necessity for adequate highways, he added.

The project must be a carefully engineered program, the general warned, done in cooperation with state highway departments, toll road authorities and other road-planning agencies.

"We aren't considering the elimination of the gas and weight tax, or its increase," said Gen. Clay.

The general was met at Detroit City Airport by Glenn C. Richards, president of the Michigan Good Roads Federation which sponsored the meeting.

City OKs Condemnation on Pierce-Merrill Parking

From Our Birmingham Bureau

BIRMINGHAM — Steaming ahead in its determination to operate a municipal parking lot, the City Commission last night passed a resolution authorizing condemnation proceedings on all parcels of land where the city proposes to locate a $250,000 lot to accommodate about 250 cars.

While the entire area at the southeast corner of Pierce and Merrill streets is involved in the condemnation, the city expects to acquire several lots without taking such measures.

In fact, the lawmakers will meet behind closed doors Thursday night to discuss the property acquisitions, since several transactions are now pending.

"Every effort is being made to secure options for the purchase of each of the individual parcels at a price which is equal to or slightly in excess of the full market value of the property in each instance," City Manager Donald C. Egbert stated.

"It appears that the procedures involved in the various phases of this project will require that our schedule contemplate acquisition of the property and sale of revenue bonds on or about Jan. 17, 1955," he said.

Under the impression that it was to be included in the special assessment district to defray expenses for constructing the off-street parking area, St. James Episcopal Church will be notified that it is outside the district due to changes made by the commission last week.

In a discussion of parking meters for the lot, the lawmakers favored an all-meter operation of the lot, eliminating any added maintenance and expense on rental stalls for all-day parkers. Probably a 25-cents a day charge would be made.

Residents will also note a change in the on-street meters west of Woodward avenue as of Dec. 1 when a test is made, eliminating penny meters and substituting 30-minute parking meters.

A redraft ordinance showing a deletion of the one-cent fee will be submitted at next Monday's meeting.

Adventures in the search for the secrets of life will be discussed by Dr. Barry Commoner, nationally known physiologist, in a free public lecture at 8:15 p.m. tomorrow at the Cranbrook School auditorium.

The relation of Commoner's research to possible cures for cancer and infantile paralysis has earned him grants from the American Cancer Society and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. In 1953 the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science awarded him its annual research prize.

Through the study of viruses, which are living organisms closest in structure to non-living matter, he is making basic contributions to understanding such living processes as breeding, feeding and the avoidance of death.

Sponsored by Cranbrook Institute of Science, the lecture will be a progress report on Commoner's research with the Tobacco Mosaic Virus in determining its effect on living cells.

Ike Notes New Low in '54 Unemployment

ures quoted by Eisenhower indicated a fall of nearly 13 per cent this year. The comparable figure for last year was under 7 per cent or a drop from 1,246,000 to 1,162,000.

Eisenhower's speech was mainly a rosy account of the nation's economic health, coupled with this forecast:

"Drawing on the richly varied abilities of our entire citizenry, we can foresee that in less than a decade the national output will increase from today's 356 billion dollars to 500 billion. This would equal an average increase of more than $3,000 for every American family of today."

He called for an end to "the rash of fears that for so long have haunted some of us—fear of war, fear of unemployment, fear of ourselves, fear of the future," and added:

"Certainly, we know now that one such fear—fear of a paralyzing depression—can be safely laid away."

As for the picture today, Eisenhower painted it this way:

"Without war, our economy is working at near record levels. Over 62 million people have jobs. The number is steadily increasing. The hours of work are getting longer. Consumers are spending at a higher rate than ever before.

"Construction records are being broken month by month. Wage rates are at their all-time peak. Weekly earnings in manufacturing are again on the rise.

"Our people have more personal income after taxes than ever before. Our national production surpasses even the war peak year of 1944. It is far above the levels of 1945 through 1952."

The President said "chaos and economic despair" have been avoided because, for one reason, "taxes were cut" by $7,400,000,000 during his administration.

In his announcement of the new jobless total, the President jumped the gun on the normal government timetable for such reports. Since the present system of a joint report by the Labor and Commerce departments was instituted last May, the figures for each month have been issued between the 7th and 10th of the following month. In this case, that would have delayed the announcement until after next week's elections.

The Bureau of Standards' electronic brain, called Univac, was reported to have worked throughout the weekend to get the report ready for Eisenhower's announcement last night.

13 Puerto Rican Plotters Jailed

6-Year Terms Handed Conspirators; 4 Already Sentenced for Shooting

NEW YORK (AP)—Thirteen Puerto Rican Nationalists convicted of seditious conspiracy against the United States today were sentenced to six years' imprisonment each.

Federal Judge Lawrence E. Walsh pronounced the sentences against the group, which was charged with plotting to overthrow the United States government by force.

All 13 sat quietly, with their heads bowed, as they heard their fate.

Four of them already had received sentences ranging from 16 to 75 years in the shooting in the House of Representatives at Washington, wherein five congressmen were wounded.

Judge Walsh directed that the six-year terms meted out today be served in addition to the assault sentences.

These four defendants were Dolores Lolita LeBron, 34; Rafael Cancel Miranda, 23; Irvin Flores Rodriguez, 29, and Andres Figueroa Cordero, 29, all of New York City.

TV Public Attends Meeting of Cabinet

ly called the meeting to order and introduced Dulles.

Dulles, waving a pencil for emphasis and referring occasionally to notes, carefully traced the free world's uphill struggle to build a strong defense system in Europe. The agreement finally reached at Paris, he said, was an achievement that "history will not soon forget."

In reply to a question interposed by Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson, Dulles said he is confident "the Soviet doesn't like what's going on" but there is so much "urgency and momentum" behind the Allied program he doesn't think Russia "will be able to break it up."

Dulles smiled wryly when Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. asked about the necessity for the agreements to be ratified. He obviously recalled the smashup of the European army plan in the French Assembly.

Dulles also assured Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey the new plan on Germany will not cost the United States a "nickel extra." He also praised Britain for paving the way for the accord by making an "historical" pledge to maintain troops on the continent.

As the leaders of the government entered the Cabinet Room, it looked like an electrician's nightmare. One side of the room was crawling with cameramen and reporters.

The floor was a litter of heavy cable carrying power to the three "live" TV cameras, the newsreels and the floodlights that bathed every corner of the room with their strong, white beams. Sound engineers crouched before their sensitive control panels in the corners behind the camera stands.

The Gilbert Stuart portrait of George Washington and the Thomas E. Stephens painting of Abraham Lincoln stared down from the walls in what could have been disbelief at the spectacle before them—the first public Cabinet meeting in history.

When most of the Cabinet was seated, a hush fell over the room and the President walked in with Dulles.

all traffic within the area was disrupted. The town was reported to be without electricity.

Police said communications also were cut with Amalfi and Salerno. Reports said a railroad bridge had collapsed at Ponte del Rodolo near Cava Dei Tirreni.

National police at Nocera, about five miles from Cava Dei Tirreni, reported there were 20 dead in that area. It was not determined immediately whether these were in addition to the 50 dead reported by Naples police, or included in that total.

An Interior Ministry spokesman in Rome said about 300 persons were homeless in the stricken area.

Blaze Causes $20,000 Damage

Defective Wires Listed as Probable Cause of Fire at Local Firm

A flash fire at the Seaman Manufacturing Co. at 29 W. Rundell St., which broke out in the door panel department yesterday afternoon caused an estimated $20,000 damage, according to Pontiac firemen who fought the blaze for two hours.

Firemen, who contained the fire in the one department, said the fire was probably caused by defective wiring in an oven dryer which ignited cotton dust.

One of the owners, Duncan Seaman said today that no one was injured in the 12-man department, and that early action probably saved the rest of the building.

Loss to contents was estimated at $5,000 by firemen who said damage to the building was about $15,000.

Seaman, who said any estimate was speculation, also added that the cause was not definitely established. "There was just a flash and then the building was on fire," Seaman said.

Democrat Leaders Predict Michigan Landslide Coup

BY UNITED PRESS

Democratic National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell led a Democratic attack in the battle for votes in next week's election Monday night with the prediction that Democrats would score the "biggest sweep since 1936."

Mitchell predicted that Michigan would elect three Democrats to congressional seats now held by Republicans and that Sen., Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.) would be unseated by Patrick V. McNamara.

"Senator Fergusons voting record is against him and he's not very popular in the Senate," Mitchell said, "And all reports on McNamara are encouraging."

The Democratic National Chairman declined to name what seats his party would capture in Michigan but state Democratic leaders indicated they believe their best chances are in the sixth, 12th, 17th and 18th congressional districts.

Democrats now hold seats in only five of the state's 18 congressional districts.

Ferguson contradicted Mitchell's prediction.

"I believe our people want to go forward in peace and prosperity with President Eisenhower — with teamwork not conflict. The way to do that is to give him a Republican Congress," Ferguson said.

Fergusons opponent, McNamara, lashed out against the Republican Senator for voting against federal assistance to schools.

"My Republican opponent blocked passage on the Cooper school construction bill and he voted against the Hill amendment which would have meant hundreds of millions of dollars for school construction from tidelands oil," he said in a speech at Kalamazoo.

At Grand Rapids, Gov. G. Mennen Williams made a bid to win support from Republicans who are discontented with their party. Williams accused Leonard of supplying the "traitor" label to Republicans who split their tickets and voted for Williams in the past.

He said the Democratic party welcomes these so-called "traitors" from the Republican party which has been "hijacked by special interests and made into an instrument for privilege."

At Cass City, Leonard said Williams was slipping.

He said the Democrats were trying to make an issue of unemployment when employment is picking up rapidly.

Leonard also adopted a Williams technique as he wandered from house to house in Cass City, and earlier in Midland, shaking hands and getting acquainted.

Parmenter Arrested in Oklahoma City

we managed to find him," Hooper said.

Parmenter was the object of a statewide manhunt after he wrote his wife a letter admitting misuse of funds and stating he planned suicide. The letter, mailed from the couple's Crystal Lake cottage near Frankfort, said that his body "would be found in the lake."

Hooper said Parmenter admitted leaving his clothes and watch in the cottage after he fled in his private plane.

He said he boarded a bus in Frankfort wearing work clothing and went to New York. He drifted to Oklahoma later and obtained the bookkeeping job with the hardware firm.

The accused man, who had lived at 6366 Thurber Rd., Birmingham, was a long-time friend of C. J. Nephler Jr., owner of the Protiva Co. The firm was dissolved after Nephler reimbursed all his customers.

While working for Nephler, Parmenter successfully concealed a prison record dating back to 1931 when he was convicted of embezzling $25,000 from the First State Savings Bank in Birmingham. He was paroled in 1933 after serving 2 years of the 4½ to 15-year sentence.

Nephler, who since has opened a new brokerage firm here, said today he was "tickled to death" to hear Parmenter had been arrested.

"Pontiac Police and especially Chief Straley and Capt. Wheaton deserve a lot of credit," he said.

Wrecked Plane Isn't Lost C47

Michigan Man Among 21 Aboard Still-Missing Air Force Craft

By AP AND UP DISPATCHES

NICE, France — Plane wreckage was sighted high in the French Alps in the hunt today for a missing U.S. Air Force C47, but helicopter crewmen who investigated said it apparently was the weathered remains of a smaller craft.

American, Italian and French search craft again widened their hunt for the C47, which vanished with 21 U.S. airmen in stormy weather on a flight Sunday from Rome to its base in Manston, England.

But parachutists were dispatched to make a detailed survey of the plane wreckage, found near the village of St.Martin about 40 miles from the Mediterranean Coast.

The Air Force Monday night released the names of 21 Air Force personnel, including one Michigan man, aboard the C47 en route from Rome, Italyl, to Manston, England.

The Michigan man was identified as S.Sgt. Eldon L. Shaffer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Williams R. Shaffer of Muskegon. Sgt. Shaffer's wife is overseas.

A search plane reported sighting the wreckage in the 9,000-foot, snow clad mountains in the area where a French railway employe reported seeing a big flash of light Sunday afternoon.

Searchers were unable to confirm a report by a workman near Bastia, Corsica, that he saw a second twin-engine plane crash into the rough sea yesterday afternoon. Neither planes nor ships sent to investigate the report found any trace of wreckage.

Adenauer Flying to United States

West German Leader Will Confer With Ike, Dulles While Here

BONN, Germany (AP)—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer left Bonn by plane today for an eight day visit in the United States.

He will confer with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles on agreements reached at last week's Paris conference to free and rearm West Germany as a partner in the Western defense alliance and a new Soviet proposal for big power talks on the reunification of Germany.

Shortly before his departure, he told the German people in a nationwide radio address he will submit the Paris accords to Parliament as soon as he returns. He said the new pacts guarantee that "we will succeed in saving peace in Europe and the world and finally achieve German reunification."

He left Bonn in a special U.S. Air Force plane, accompanied by U.S. High Commissioner James B. Conant and 14 aides.

He was scheduled to reach Washington tomorrow, after a stopover in Iceland.

Suspects Taken South

JACKSON (AP)—State Police said two West Virginia men waived extradition to Grafton, W. Va., where they are wanted on a charge of breaking and entering. Charles and William McDonald, brothers, left Jackson yesterday in custody of two West Virginia officers, police said. The pair was apprehended in a hotel.

Canadian Smuggling Ring Deals In Oleo as Sideline

MONTREAL (AP)—The shadowy figure in the background completed his order, then said as an afterthought: "Throw in 25 pounds of margarine while you're down there."

This picture of a Montreal buyer ordering a supply of the lower-priced butter substitute, banned in Quebec province, was painted today by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police as they told of the big-scale operations of smugglers of cigarettes and other merchandise from the United States.

Smuggling of margarine from the United States, they said, merely was a sideline for the men who in 15 months brought 2½ billion cigarettes into the country without paying federal or provincial tax.

Of Canada's 10 provinces, only Quebec and little Prince Edward Island in the Maritimes ban the sale and use of margarine as a threat to their dairy industries. It is much simpler to bring margarine into Quebec from Ontario than to smuggle it across the guarded international border.

In recent weeks, more than 60 persons have been arrested as RCMP and Quebec provincial police cracked down on a smuggling ring which they say cost federal and provincial treasuries millions of dollars in revenue. More arrests are expected.

Compared with smuggling of cigarettes and other merchandise such as American refrigerators, said an RCMP official who declined use of his name, the illegal importation of margarine is "peanuts." In 15 months, the RCMP has proof of only 20 tons of margarine being smuggled into Quebec from the United States.

Voters Weigh Stars' Charms in Zany Election

UNIVERSAL CITY, Calif. (AP)—Some 2,000 voters go to the polls today to vote for either a bobby-sox idol or Lady Godiva in an election that is zany but legal.

This 400-acre community is legally incorporated as a township with its own mayor, post office, fire department and police department. It nestles between Burbank and Hollywood, which explains a lot of things.

Universal City was founded in 1915 and boasts 2,000 residents by day and one permanent night resident who is ineligible to vote. That's Francis the Talking Mule.

Due to the foresight of some long-forgotten press agent, its boundaries coincide with those of Universal - International Studios. That fact tips off the candidates for mayor — Tony Curtis and red-haired Maureen O'Hara.

The job offers such inducements as the studio's most plush dressing bungalow and a choice seat with the studio brass in the commissary. There is no salary.

The campaign resembles a gagwriters' picnic. Curtis charges that Miss O'Hara, who recently completed "Lady Godiva of Coventry," used the role to take undue advantage of him. He claims that she campaigned astride a white horse.

"We need a mayor who can dress up for the occasion," said Curtis.

Insiders believe that Curtis will win this one.

"No politician in history ever has kissed as many babies as this guy," says one precinct worker. "And one or two of them were under 18."

A sure bet for the office of postmistress is veteran actress Marjorie Main. She is unopposed.

"I never went in much for politics," says Marjorie, "but I sure would like to play post office again after all these years."

Curvaceous Mamie Van Doren is the favorite for honorary police chief.

"If elected," she promises, "I'll pinch producers for a change."

New super-refined gasoline gives more power-with-protection than you've ever known!

Now—Gulf refines out the "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline—the No. 1 trouble-maker in high-compression engines. Result: a cleaner-burning super-fuel that gives you thousands of extra miles of full engine power...free from knock or pre-ignition.

2 See for yourself: The spark plug shown here is from one of the many sets of original equipment plugs used in Gulf test fleet cars.

Though spark plugs normally need cleaning or replacement after 5,000 to 10,000 miles, this plug and its mates did not need cleaning or replacement in over 15,000 miles of city and country driving.

What's more besides giving your engine more complete protection, new Super-Refined Gulf NO-NOX gives you extra gas mileage in the short-trip, stop-and-go driving motorists do most . . . no knock, no pre-ignition . . . instant starts and fast, fuel-saving warm-up.

Career Girl Claims Fame as Argyle Socks Knitter

By LAURA Z. HOBSON

I may be mediocre as a mother, lazy as a citizen and simply terrible as an author, but brother, I sure can knit.

Cable-stitch sweaters are duck soup for me and even argyle socks don't phase me any more. Any woman who's ever said "knit one, purl one" knows there's nothing too tough for any knitter who's once got past the ultimate test of those diamonds and cross lines with five different colors of yarn.

And me, I'm a graduate, a PHD, a Phi Beta—I've probably knitted two dozen pairs of argyles for my two natty sons, and expect to keep right on.

But believe it or not, I'm forever on the defensive whenever anybody who knows me only slightly catches me in the act!

"Why, I never dreamed—" is their first give-away remark, while their faces take on the far-away look of one who's seen a mirage.

"You don't seem the type" is another phrase that pops out at such a time, or even, "well, I mean, er, that is, I never realized that anybody who could, ah, that is—"

When I said "anybody who knows me only slightly," I meant new neighbors, for instance, at a rented summer cottage, or acquaintances struck up while travelling on a train or plane.

But the most recent case came from a once-a-week cleaning woman at my house who just caught a glimpse of me not clacking at a typewriter but clicking at my four No. 1 double-pointed knitting needles.

For a while she seemed to suck more air than the vacuum cleaner, in her astonishment at the sight, but I was grateful to her for making me realize something I've been forgetting too long.

Which is, there are still loads of folks who cling to their old "either-or" notions about what career women really are like.

Secretly they still believe women with jobs and talents wouldn't be caught dead doing the things housewives do. These skeptics will grant career women a few homemaking gestures—like gardening or interior recoration or needlepoint.

Maybe even some chafing-dish cooking on special occasions and with fancy recipes. They know that even movie stars and ballerinas can do that much womanly stuff (dressed, of course, in tapered velvet slacks, gold lame blouses, spike-heeled sandals and 90 karats of assorted somethings.)

But it's when lots of us so-called modern minded folks discover that any successful woman goes in for something as humdrum as sewing machines, darning and mending baskets, running up new slip-covers—why, it's right then and there we get caught off guard with those facial expressions that give us clean away.

Are you so sure you're different you'd never be trapped?

Honestly now, how long since you've put yourself to a test to find out? Visualize for just one minute the most glamorous and famous woman you know or see or read about in your home paper—owner, perhaps, of a smart store, executive in a business, woman active in politics, perhaps an opera singer or big-time lecturer—

If you got a phone call, or heard on the radio, right this minute that she'd won a church contest for the best homemade layer cake in the community—would you or wouldn't you fall right on your face?

Honor bright? Cross your heart? Knit one, purl one?

The fingerlike end of the elephant's many-muscled trunk is so supple and skillful that this awkward-looking animal can even untie knots with it.

BIKE PAPOOSE — Mrs. Louis Lipschultz, a teacher at Vassar College in Poughkeepsie, N.Y., has found an easy way to get around the campus and still take her daughter, Elizabeth, along. Using an Indian cradle board, she wraps her baby up papoose style and puts her on her back. She says little Elizabeth loves it.

Paul Bunyan with a briefcase

There's a real-life Paul Bunyan performing mighty deeds in the North Central area today: He isn't changing the course of rivers . . . or moving mountains . . . but his accomplishments are just as big, and they're not fable, but fact. This modern Bunyan is your Prudential Agent . . . all those listed below, and many more in almost every city in America.

Last month in Appleton, for example, he made certain that a widow wouldn't have to go to work and a fatherless child would have a full-time mother.

Last week in Grand Island he saw to it that a farmer's family would never have to leave its lifelong home.

Yesterday in Duluth he made sure that a young boy would one day be able to go to the medical school of his choice. And in Pontiac he saw that bills were paid when a husband and father was laid up by a serious accident.

When your Prudential Agent rings your doorbell, welcome him. He can show you the modern equivalent of moving a mountain.

Record Mercy Flight Planned

Air Force 'Flying Lung' to Bring Polio Patient Back From Saudi Arabia

SAN ANTONIO (INS)—The longest mercy flight yet made with the Air Force's new "flying lung" begins tonight.

The light-weight full-body respirator will be taken from Brooke Air Force Base to return an unidentified patient, completely paralyzed with polio, from Saudi Arabia to the United States.

Lt. Col. Louis C. Kossuth, Randolph Field flight surgeon, and an aeromedical technician will accompany the "lung."

The patient, an employe of the Arabian American Oil Co., is expected to arrive in New York Nov. 3 for transfer to a polio center for treatment.

Developed for air evacuation of respiratory cases, the lung is approximately one-tenth the weight of a massive hospital respirator, can be carried by hand like a stretcher with the patient in it.

Atomic Survival Tip:

Duck and Count to Five, Then Take Stock of Self

CINCINNATI (AP)—Here's an A-bomb or H-bomb survival tip:

If you see or sense a sudden brilliant or blinding flash of light—duck and count slowly to five.

If you reach five, you have survived. Then take stock. If you have the customary number of fingers, legs and other body parts, if you can hear, and aren't bleeding badly anywhere or bleeding from the nose or ears, you probably have nothing to worry about.

It will mean you haven't been hit at all, or significantly, by the three killers in thermonuclear weapons. The three are radiation—including X-rays and neutrons—heat or fire, and the blast wave. The blast wave itself, and objects like bricks, stones and glass sent flying by the blast, could be lethal.

Counting off the five seconds will mean you were at least a mile from the heart or center of the atomic bomb. It takes five seconds for the sound or blast waves to travel a mile. And at a mile distance, you probably won't get any significant amount of radiation.

This rough formula was given today by Col. Harvey C. Slocum at the annual meeting of the American Society of Anesthesiologists. Slocum is professional consultant in anesthesiology to the surgeon general, and chief of anesthesiology and operative service of Walt Reed Army Hospital, Washington, D. C.

It applies to A-bombs such as exploded over Japan and can apply to H-bombs too. For much of the deadly effects of all these bombs go straight up in the air, or could miss you by hop-scotching over you if you had ducked soon enough, or had ducked behind sufficient protection, he said.

Slocum mentioned the formula in saying that if a nuclear bombing catastrophe occurred, anesthesiologists could and should have special lifesaving jobs to perform.

MEMBER OF AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1954

Typically Williams

We just had occasion to disagree editorially with our long standing friend, Glenn C. Gillespie, but today we are happy to climb right up into his corner and act as a chief second.

The one time Circuit Judge and highly respected Pontiac attorney drew from his legal experience and understanding when he took Governor Williams apart and labeled his current judicial appointment just what it is:

"Purely a political move and a grandstand play to the flashlight bulbs of the Negro press which covered the meeting with photographers and reporters from Negro newspapers from many large cities."

There are many colored lawyers much more qualified, but this served the expediencies of the moment and that comes first.

It's typically Williams.

He runs true to form.

It is doubtful whether Michigan ever witnessed an officeholder who spent as much time courting the electorate as the current governor. It is doubtful whether any officeholder ever calculated every move as shrewdly in the light of political repercussions. G. Mennen Williams has been running for office every day since he first announced his original candidacy.

Don't forget that.

The Governor doesn't.

The day after he was first elected, he began trimming his sails for the election one year and 364 days away.

Mr. Gillespie believes the Governor's current appointee will be defeated in the next election. Many people are sure Governor Williams thinks so, too. But the move has served his purpose.

Amendment Number Two

Number two on the list of four proposed State Constitutional Amendments is more widely known as the Conlin Plan.

This proposes revision of Article X Section 23, the sales tax diversion amendment governing distribution of these funds to local government units and school districts. Major purpose of the amendment is to put the distribution on a current basis.

At present the amendment provides that one cent of the three cent sales tax goes to local units of government and school districts. The school districts also receive from the State an amount of money equal to 44.77 percent of the previous year's sales tax revenue.

Among other things the Conlin Plan would eliminate the danger inherent in this retroactive provision. For example, if in a time of declining business the sales tax revenue should drop sharply, the State would have to give the schools an amount which might be dangerously out of line with reduced current revenue.

Amendment No. 2 also would give the schools a flat two cents out of every three cents collected as sales tax. The result would be some increased revenue for the schools. But this gain would be counterbalanced considerably by the fact that the schools would have to pay the cost of collecting their share of the sales tax and finance teachers' pensions.

We agree with school administrators opposing this plan that it would do little to solve any school problems. The League of Women Voters is right in saying that the Conlin Plan doesn't go far enough.

In our opinion the only real hope for a solution of this and other State fiscal problems is a Constitutional convention to revise the State's charter and entire tax structure. For these reasons we suggest:

Vote "No" on Amendment No. 2.

New Driver Law Works

Although Michigan's new driver license law has been in operation only a year, results so far indicate it is working well.

Main feature of the law is the central file in which the driving records of more than 3,250,000 motorists will be kept instantly available. While this file won't be complete until the end of the year, it already is providing a useful check on applicants for driving license renewals.

During its first year, however, the law has demonstrated clearly how it can serve as a means of forcing dangerous drivers off our highways and reducing accidents, injuries and deaths.

Under it so far 10,000 drivers have been called on to explain their bad driving record. Nearly 7,000 of these have been ordered off the roads for varying periods. Another 2,900 have been told that one more violation will cost their right to drive. Warnings that their records are pulling them close to the danger point have been given 26,000.

This law was enacted in response to demands for a new approach to the problem of highway accidents. Results to date suggest that here is one effective means of making our highways safer.

The Man About Town

It Is Authentic

And Strawberry Plants Reflect Hardy Ancestry

Worm: What many lazy fishermen accuse of laziness.

Former Pontiac resident, now living at Cadillac,

Merwin Slade,

writes in defense of his present city's low temperature. He asserts that the reports are bona fide, and not, as many people suppose, put out by the local Chamber of Commerce to boost Cadillac's winter sports program. In this connection, of Auburn Heights is still picking ripe strawberries in her garden, in spite of this late October coolness. She ascribes this to the fact that her strawberry plants came from Cadillac.

Mrs. Wilfred Bowen

To settle some arguments about the age of the present Oakland County courthouse, it was under construction exactly 50 years ago.

Other former Pontiac people who went through hurricane Hazel at Toronto,

Mr. and Mrs. Lawton Helmwin, write that their garage was unroofed, their car blown through one end of it, several windows blown out of their house and their basement flooded.

Largest pumpkin reported was grown in the garden of in Huron Gardens. It weighs 67 pounds, and Mr. Behlman estimates that it has the makings of 100 pies.

"Five years of winning nothing in your football contests," phones of Rochester "has convinced us of one thing. Next year every member of my family will pick as winners the teams the so-called experts predict will lose."

That threadbare "Trick or Treat" sounds too much like a threat to be used by good mannered Halloween visitors. In one Pontiac City neighborhood residents have agreed among themselves not to hand out anything when it is used.

A study in contrasts is found at the Pine Lake Cemetery. Near its entrance is the grave of the missionary who did much to bring Christianity to this area in the days of the ox cart 125 years ago. Only a short distance away is the grave of

Naturalized Citizen Says Everyone Should Vote; It's Our Government

(Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.)

As a naturalized citizen of the U.S. I am very interested in the running of this wonderful government. I hear people say "I am not going to vote; politics is crooked."

Don't they know politics is their own government? Good or bad, it's up to the people.

The American people showed they wanted a chance when Mr. Eisenhower was elected. Now that they have seen what he has accomplished in two years why don't these same people stand back of him?

American people are not patient; our men brought home from Korea, thousands off the government pay roll, 47 Negroes appointed to important posts, 27 of these never held by Negroes before, and no fan-fare about it and a President who acknowledges God. Compare men and their background who are running for office who have had liquor licenses recently transferred.

Vote for a good man rather than for a party. If most of us make as much effort to know the people who represent us as we do our TV programs, we would have a better land.

Irked Resident Wants Brooklyn Ave. Finished

In December, 1953, the City of Pontiac took the task of laying sewer pipe on West Brooklyn Ave. from Baldwin to Carlisle. They were finally done sometime in May, 1954.

It is now October, the beginning of winter. I would like to know when they are going to finish our street! Previous to the wrecking of our road, it was oil mix treated. Now it is just a ribbon of muddy holes.

There are still three flares marking the biggest holes between Baldwin and Hollywood, the distance of one block!

During the paving of W. Walton from Baldwin to the city limits, in June and July our street was used for a detour, which didn't help matters.

We are not asking for a super highway or curb and gutter or anything that fancy. All we want is a passable road during the winter and spring.

Maybe they also could fix some of the sidewalks the heavy machinery ruined.

More Would Ride Bus if Stops Were Nearer

I see our bus company would like to have more people ride buses, but when we have our arms full of bundles, we don't feel like walking three or four blocks to a bus stop, and then waiting perhaps 20 minutes for a bus.

During the war we were told that after the war, the buses would again stop on every corner and we would have milk deliveries every day. What have we now?

Milk deliveries three times a week and no bus stops from the Strand Theater to the First Baptist Church. How do you other bus riders feel about this?

Case Records of a Psychologist

People 50 Years Ago Struggled Along Without Advantages of Intelligence Tests

Lilah is an alert grandmother who wishes the newspapers of 50 years ago had been able to offer their readers the liberal education you obtain daily through this family newspaper. The modern local newspaper is actually a "University in Print."

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case M-349: Lilah J., aged 63, is a very progressive grandmother.

"Dr. Crane, I am a devoted reader of your column because you offer us such frank and helpful advice," she began.

"Girls of high school age certainly don't appreciate what they are getting. For in my teens we were kept ignorant and unprepared to face the simple social problems that inevitably arise.

"Two weeks ago I ordered your bulletin on 'Sex Problems of Young People' for I have a granddaughter entering high school.

"It was so enlightening that my grandaughter's high school teacher is using it in a class on social hygiene, and I only wish I had known such vital facts when I was 15."

Lilah's generous compliment reveals the fact that science is steadily moving forward.

And by science, I refer not alone to chemistry or astronomy or physics.

Psychology has also made remarkable strides forward in the past few years.

For example, when Lilah was a schoolgirl, we didn't have even a test to measure a child's intelligence (I. Q.)

The Binet Scale wasn't printed till 1905, and Dr. Goddard didn't translate it into English for use over here till several years later.

Moreover, we had no intelligence tests for adults. They didn't come into vogue till 1918, when the Army Alpha was developed for use in World War I.

That test changed industry in several ways. First, the word "personnel" came into vogue.

The former "Employment Managers" then had the gold leaf scraped off their glass office doors and the new title "Personnel Director" was lettered thereon.

On many occasions I have told you that the daily newspaper is your most valuable university, for it changes our thinking during the final 50 adult years of our lives when we have left the classrooms forever.

Lilah was never taught how to carry on an interesting conversation though we have tutored you thoroughly on that point in this column.

Lilah was never given a chance to join a "Compliment Club" in her youth and thus get over her shyness.

She had no access to "Tests for Sweethearts" nor did anybody offer her a bulletin on "Sex Problems of Young People."

Furthermore, she couldn't obtain a "Diet Chart" or a "Budget Booklet" in those days.

And nobody had sprouted our modern psychological recipe for informing a foster child about its adoption.

In her youth, women also routinely went into a mental upheaval called "the change of life."

And most women erroneously believed they were on the shelf and no longer attractive when they reached the age of 45 or thereabouts.

So they brooded and developed neurotic ailments. Or they nagged and browbeat their husbands.

Psychology has only begun to come into its own. If you think chemistry, with its H-bomb and other innovations, has made wonderful strides, you haven't seen anything compared to what psychology has done!

Americans See Meeting of Cabinet for First Time

By ED CREAGH
(For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nothing quite like this has been seen before in the often picturesque history of this republic.

You flipped a switch, you waited for your television screen to come alive, then there you were in the middle of a meeting between the President of the United States and his Cabinet.

The time was 7 p.m. yesterday. The place was the Cabinet Room of the White House, its green walls a vague gray on the TV screen. The star—though he drew President Eisenhower into the spotlight with him—was Secretary of State Dulles.

First you saw the room itself, with its long coffin-shaped table. Next the Cabinet members filed in—all men except Secretary of Welfare Oveta Culp Hobby.

Finally, through the same door in the rear, came Dulles—back from Paris only a few hours—and the President, Eisenhower sat down, smiled, folded his hands.

"Mrs. Hobby and gentlemen . . ." he began, and the first Cabinet meeting ever to go on the air, or to be reported by newsmen on the spot, was under way.

What were the reporters and the radio microphones and the TV cameras doing there? When a request was made to open up this meeting, the President said, he decided—"for this one time"—to let all the American people hear a report of vital importance to them.

Then Dulles, his tie a little askew his fingers toying with a pencil that got lead all over them, gave his report: a story of a new spirit of Western unity flowering on the grave of the European Defense Community.

"History," said John Foster Dulles, "will not soon forget. . . ."

Dulles spoke fluently, rarely referring to his sheaf of notes.

Breaking a cardinal rule for TV appearances, he didn't talk directly at the camera—and thus to the people watching on television. He talked, mostly, to the President. You saw only the side of his face. But you had a feeling of being in on a direct conversation with the President, who doodled from time to time on a pad of paper.

As a TV production, all this was hastily arranged. Yet there was time for a few showmanlike touches in the manner of Robert Montgomery, the White House TV adviser. Cabinet members broke in for instance, with well-timed questions that added variety to Dulles' recital, although Secretary of Agriculture Benson almost missed one cue.

Now and then the camera flicked to other faces: Secretary of Defense Wilson, on Eisenhower's left, intent and solemn. Atty. Gen. Brownell, whose right ear alone showed in many of the pictures, alert and quizzical when you could see him head on.

Dulles wound up with a warm tribute to the President. He said the Paris and London agreements were "very largely" the result of Eisenhower's leadership. The President, in turn, praised Dulles for a "brilliant" job and said maybe all hands should give him a rising vote of thanks.

Nobody seemed quite sure whether to rise then or wait until later, however. And the first Cabinet meeting ever held from coast to coast, so to speak, ended on this note of mild indecision.

Baering Down

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
(International News Service)

This writer needs only one more vote to demolish the United Nations building and put the brewery back.

We should get it after that security test they just gave the janitor. He works in a glass building and never takes a bath.

The upstairs boys on the advisory board printed a throwaway coaching U. N. employes on what to do until the doctor found parking space. It told the United Nations workers the U.N. topped home, mother, the flag, the country and points west.

In case of conflicting traffic between U. N. and the U. S. the U. N. civil servant was to negg in the nodative while nixxing in the yesative. In fewer spelling words international fuzziness topped national loyalty.

Old Hank Cabbage Lodge flipped on that one. Hank cracked open a keg of concentrated umbrage and threw his weight around like a wolf trapped by the tail.

Hank said U. N. is neither a sovereignty nor a government. It's just a glazier's dream on the East River.

It's the tallest aquarium in the world with the goldfish wearing clothes. It shakes the tambourine for contributions and can be dissolved like a Sedlitz powder.

There are 2,300 American citizens working for U. N. who have been briefed that internationalism cancels patriotism, that they should balance water on both shoulders while walking tight-rope on a parallel and that a bird in the hand lays an egg in the other guy's bush.

You can't blame Hank Lodge for flying off the handle like a greased axe-head. Hank is chief American delegate to U. N. That pamphlet could make him lose face on the totem pole.

The Rockefellers donated the property to U. N. over my advice. Way back in 1896 Andy Carnegie tried the same gimmick in the whole Hague or none.

It's all right to warm a snake in your bosom. But you shouldn't have to pay for sending it to the laundry with your undershirt and vest.

Smiles

Trying Moments

An old countryman and his wife were seated in a shoe shop in a market town. The occasion was a pair of new shoes for the wife. She tried on practically every shoe in the shop, and at last expressed her satisfaction.

The weary assistant then breathed a sigh of relief.

But the matter was not quite settled.

There was still the old man to be satisfied. Addressing his wife, he queried: "Now are you quite sure you would like shoes for your birthday present, or would you prefer an umbrella?"

Frequency of 'Colds' Never Reduced by Operation to Remove Child's Tonsils

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

The wife of a school principal writes:

"We have sons 5 and 7, who are just recuperating from what I would term grippe—now called virus. Now the family physician advises that we have the younger boy's tonsils removed, at Christmas vacation time. He says that unless the tonsillectomy is performed the boy will continue to suffer with severe colds and infections."

The doctor probably means well, Ma'am, but the ballad he renders is "The Old Hokum Bunkem" nevertheless — the siren song which the ever-ready operators have used so effectively to lure children into the operating-room.

Don't discount what I say as the biased view of an egregious—I'm that or whatever else my admirers care to call me—but I urge you to consider the facts about the effects of tonsillectomy on the frequency of "colds" and the like. If you yourself are as dumb as your doctor seems to think you are, perhaps your husband, the principal, can reach a sensible conclusion.

Go to your public library and ask for the book by Albert D. Kaiser, M.D., "Children's Tonsils In and Out," published by J. B. Lippincott Co., Philadelphia, '32. Chap. VII deals with "the common cold."

Dr. Kaiser found that among 2,200 children (in schools in Rochester, N. Y.) whose tonsils had been removed, 22 per cent continued to have repeated "colds" about as often as they had before the operation. Among 2,200 other school children for whom tonsillectomy had been advised but not inflicted (my word, not Dr. Kaiser's), 31 per cent were subject to frequent "colds."

But Dr. Kaiser observed—and Dr. Kaiser's study of the tonsil question outweighs all the irresponsible utterances of the tonsil snatchers—that "after ten years of age the incidence of colds declined in the children whose tonsils and adenoids were not removed with greater rapidity than in the children of similar ages whose tonsils and adenoids had been removed."

Your family physician just used one wrong word, Ma'am. He should have said that if "tonsillectomy is performed the boy will continue to suffer with severe colds and infections."

If the tonsil snatchers had to give a written prognosis which parent or guardian could exhibit a year after the atrocity, there'd probably be some changes in the words if not in the music of "The Old Hokum Bunkem."

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

CAUSE FOR CELEBRATION—This night photograph of Pennsylvania Railroad's famous Horse Shoe Curve at Altoona, Pa., was made with the aid of 6,000 photo flash bulbs having greater power than 15 million household electric lamps. The occasion? The 100th anniversary of the curve being opened to traffic and the 75th anniversary of the modern incandescent lamp.

Bob Considine Says:

Ghostly Copy Paper Tells Tale That Wouldn't Sell

CLEVELAND (INS) — Ghostly thing happened here yesterday. Picked up a sheet of Western Union press-message paper, rolled it in the portable, and was waiting for the Dr. Sheppard murder trial story to start writing itself when, gadzooks, I noticed that somebody had beaten me to the paper.

There, big as life, were typed these words:

"CLEVELAND, July 13—Three Dodgers—Duke Snider, Roy Campanella and Jackie Robinson—were in the National League's starting lineup today as Dodger manager Walt Alston sought a fifth straight victory for the National League over the American League before an expected record all-star game crowd of 75,000 fans at Municipal Stadium."

There was no by-line attached, but any practitioner of this writing dodge can guess why, and also why it wasn't sent. Buster was simply trying this one for size.

Too, he must have known it wasn't going to jell, so there wasn't much use taking the time to type out his name when he sensed he'd have to do it again.

So he just tried, and it got flabbier and flabbier. A little black devil with a pitchwork poked him in the ear as he staggered past the 30th word and he heard in his mind the baleful roar of his boss—a fierce man known for his ability to squirt fire from his nostrils and his hatred for sentences beyond eight words.

Upward and onward with the crafts item: A Cleveland auto salvage firm's trucks bear this legend—"We specialize in late model wrecks."

The grim comical determination of certain members of the Sheppard trial panel to get on the jury would give the casual passer-by the impression that such service is to be coveted even beyond a patriotic call to "this is your life," possession of a wining ticket in the Shaker Heights pigeon races, and a splinter from each of the bats of Larry Doby, Bobby Avila and Al Rosen—the selfsame bats that established the unique record of not driving in a run during the late lamentable series.

One lady, who like others swore she had never read anything about the case (she appeared to want to tell the court that she couldn't read) was dismissed for rushing home and talking to friends about the case over the phone. All about her big day.

The poor dear's dismissal was not without reward. When reporters asked her for a statement, following her being peremptorily turned out, she said wistfully that if she could just get Dorothy Kilgallen's autograph the experience wouldn't be so painful.

Dorothy, as much of a star in Judge Edward Blythin's courtroom as on "What's My Line?," sent the lady a nice note saying that the reporters felt she would have made a good juror.

The reporters heartily agreed. Especially those who have been waiting for what seems an eternity for the jury box to be filled.

Sure enjoyed CBS's "Omnibus" Sunday evening. The trip through Native Dancer's barn at Sagamore Farm, Md., was a thing of great beauty and intelligence.

Ralph Kercheval, the one-time Kentucky U. grid star who runs Al Vanderbilt's barns, turned out to be an accomplished master of ceremonies, and trainer Bill Winfrey was equally adept. Eric Guerin, who steered the wonderful gray colt in all his races, was was almost as articulate as Sammy Renick.

There was a memorable scene in which Guerin mounted the retired champion and urged him up and down the exercise and cool-out strip at Sagamore, while the great horse strained at his leather and the little man on his back kept saying, soothingly, "Whoa, boy. . . behave now . . ."

The whole "Omnibus" show was fine, though I didn't catch the name of the egg-head with the sunrays coming out of his nude scalp—which preceded the commercials.

And I winced a bit, for the sponsor, when the repertory company did Anatole France's "Man with a Dumb Wife"—the story of a fellow who submits to a potion that deafens him, so he will no longer hear his wife, whose once-tied tongue has been cut with disastrously chatty results. The sponsor turned out to be a well-known hearing aid concern.

Detroit Marine Shot While Patrolling Pier

SEATTLE (AP) — Naval authorities today are investigating the wounding of a Detroit Marine private shot Monday while walking a guard patrol at the Pier 91 Naval Station.

Navy officers said Pvt. Charles J. Frantjeskos was shot through the skull while on guard duty with PFC James C. Folk of Reno, Nev. shooting appeared to be accidental. Frantjeskos, hit between the eyes by a bullet from an automatic pistol, was tranferred to the Bremerton Naval Hospital.

The circumstances of the shooting were not immediately learned. Folk was held pending further investigation.

Stricken While Driving

TRAVERSE CITY (AP)—Norris E. Hunt of Traverse City collapsed and died while driving his car in Traverse City Monday. Police said Hunt, apparently feeling ill, pulled his car to the roadside. He was declared dead on arrival at Munson Hospital.

ROKs Accused of Faulty Loans

Ex-Prime Minister and Several Others Named in Special Report

SEOUL (AP)—Former Prime Minister Paik Too Chin and several Finance Ministry officials today were charged with using "improper procedures" in getting bank loans for friends, business acquaintances and former assemblymen.

The charge appeared in a report made public by a 10-man special investigating committee of the South Korean National Assembly. The committee is controlled by members of President Syngman Rhee's Liberal party.

The report said friends and business acquaintances took advantage of the position held by Paik and other finance officials to get bank loans without proper security.

The loans reportedly totaled about 100 million hwan (approximately $550,000 figured at the official rate of 180 hwan to $1).

The committee demanded removal of "those government and bank officials from their posts . . . and also punishment for them in accordance with the law."

Paik is economic coordinator for South Korea. He is the chief ROK official dealing with American officials on the 700-million-dollar aid program for this fiscal year.

Paik, although not a member of Rhee's Liberal party, served as prime minister and finance minister in the ROK government for lengthy periods starting in 1951. He was replaced by Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tai as prime minister this summer.

Man, 27, Pleads Guilty to Possessing Narcotics

Joseph Cobb, 27, of 305 Rockwell St., pleaded guilty to a charge of possessing narcotics Monday in Oakland County Circuit Court. Judge H. Russel Holland deferred sentencing for one week and returned Cobb to Oakland County Jail.

He was charged with having 15 capsules of heroin, an opium derivative, when he was arrested Oct. 6.

DR. JOSEPH FISCHHOFF

Child Clinic Adds New Staff Member

The Pontiac Child Guidance Clinic added a new member to its staff this week—Dr. Joseph Fischhoff of 18674 Fairfield, Detroit, who will take over duties of consulting psychiatrist, according to Miss Madeleine Half, clinic director.

Dr. Fischhoff is replacing Dr. Clinton J. Mumby, now on a six-months leave of absence for study purposes, Miss Half said.

A graduate of the University of Illinois, Dr. Fischhoff served his residency at the University Hospital in Ann Arbor and during 1951-53 worked with the Air Force at Selfridge Field.

Dr. Fischhoff, 30, has a private practice in Detroit, and will work in Pontiac during morning hours. He served on the staff of the Children's Center of Metropolitan Detroit in 1953 after his discharge from the Air Force. Dr. Fischhoff also held the position of consulting psychiatrist at the Children's Hospital in Detroit.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Mrs. Charles N. Jordan of suburban Webster Groves got a surprise last night when she finished rehearsal for a church play.

She climbed into her car and found the family pet dog Buttons with a litter of six pups. The dog had apparently jumped into the car when Mrs. Jordan left her house about four hours before.

Proposals Nos. 1 an 2

Voting Rights, Korea Bonus Up for Decision on Ballot

(Editor's Note: Following is an explanation of proposals No. 1 and 3 on the Nov. 2 election ballot. Proposals No. 2 (the Conlin Plan) and No. 4 (bingo) will be treated in separate articles.)

LANSING (AP) — Michigan voters will be asked to pass on four public issues at the Nov. 2 General Election.

Two of the four are so-called minor issues—but they are minor only in that they have attracted less public controversy.

One deals with a citizens' voting rights and the other is an $80 million bonus for Michigan veterans of the Korean War.

Proposal No. 1 is designed to prevent a citizen from being disqualified at the polls if he has moved from one part of the state to another within 30 days of an election.

The proposal was placed on the ballot by the Legislature. Apparently no opposition has arisen.

The Constitution of Michigan now makes no provision for a registered voter who has to move from one precinct to another just before an election. Now, he cannot vote until he has lived in his new precinct for 30 days.

Proposal No. 1 would permit him to vote.

Proposal No. 3 on the ballot would authorize the state to issue bonds to pay the same bonus to Korean War veterans that was paid to World War II veterans by this state.

It is estimated that about 250,000 Michigan men and women would be eligible to receive the bonus. They would receive an average of $270 on the same formula used for the World War II bonus: $15 for each month of overseas service and $10 for each month of domestic service.

It would go to all veterans who serve honorably for at least 60 days between June 27, 1950, and Dec. 31, 1952.

There is no specific proposal for paying off the bonds. Presumably, they would be retired in the same way that the World War II bonus bonds are being paid—by use of part of the revenues from the state cigarette tax.

Manners
MAKE FRIENDS

Those who serve the public cometimes address a woman as "Lady." That's incorrect. If you don't know a woman's name—don't call her anything.

It's better manners to say "I'll be right with you" than "I'll be with you in a minute, Lady."

Stay Attractive

If you work and keep house, you're probably in the habit of slipping out of your working suit, hose and shoes when you get home. Do get an attractive housedress and some comfortable shoes. A wrapper and mules make you a pretty sad dinner companion.

When clearing up skin trouble, calamine lotion makes a good cover-up for public appearances, providing the doctor agrees.

Impression Should Be Corrected
Girl May Receive Invitation If She Plans Carefully

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: I like a boy at school very much indeed. My brother even admitted he's been asking about me. How can I get him to ask me to a game?

"My brother told him that my father doesn't let me stay out late, and now he doesn't seem quite so interested as he was before. On occasions I can stay out until 11:30—so how can I let him know?"

Your brother did you a big favor. He gave you a real boost right into the arms of the boy you like so much. His man-to-man chat with your lad (that big brotherly sour grapes stuff that pops up sometimes) put you carefully away for future consideration. He undoubtedly got the idea that you are too young for present dating purposes.

And it's too bad—if it's not true. Of course, your brother may have told you that just to razz you. But you can find out for sure and correct any misunderstandings the next time you have a chance to talk with your boy friend. Work the subject into the conversation casually and nonchalantly and get his impression corrected. Just a calm "I understand from my brother that he gave you a bit of incorrect publicity about me."

Get him to feeling first that you are a date possibility for him, and that the details can be pleasantly worked out. Then maybe you'll get his invitation to a game or a dance or a show.

"Dear Miss Woodward: Ever since I started high school I've had a crush on him. I think of him day in and day out. But I'm frustrated because he has never given me a second glance. He did tell a friend who told somebody else who told my cousin who then told me that he likes me and wants to ask me to the show Friday night.

"Would it be proper for me to approach him and tell him I'd like to go with him, even though he hasn't asked me yet? If not, how can I get him to ask me?"

In all maidenly modesty you must wait until you're invited. But there's nothing to keep you from encouraging him to get around to asking you.

You say he's never given you a second glance. But that very round-about rumor would prove differently. Why not take hope from it and do something about being extra friendly and nice when you see him. Make something big out of bumping into him.

Don't just let him pass by with a "hi!" You've admired from a distance for so long, why not make a real effort to get better acquainted close up? When he knows you better he might find it easier to ask you to a show some Friday night.

Your Elbows and Heels Will Always Be Seen

Most women are guilty of having roughened elbows and heels. Excess rubbing makes elbows and heels leathery-looking, but, because of their location, we seldom see the damage being done to them.

Nevertheless, your elbows and heels are noticeable. At a party, your hostess will introduce you to a number of people, holding your elbow as she does so. You husband or escort takes your elbow crossing the street, descending stairs and many other instances you've taken for granted.

As you glance at the feet on a dance floor, you'll see but a few soft, smooth-looking heels. And party sandals only emphasize heels that need attention and grooming.

If your elbows are very badly discolored, start now to change their appearance. Wash them daily with a detergent or abrasive powder, working the powder gently into the discolored skin. Rinse them several times in lukewarm water.

Then, with a brush well-lathered with a lanolin-rich soap, scrub your elbows well. If you have the time, let them soak for a few minutes in the basin.

AMAZO BANANA CREAM PIE
Slice one fully ripe banana into deep bowl; whip with rotary beater to mash. Add 1¾ cups milk, 2 tsps. lemon juice and 1 pkg. Vanilla Amazo*; whip 30 seconds. Spoon into pie shell. Garnish with banana slices and grated rind of 1 lemon—and it's ready to serve!

*Be sure to use Amazo. So-called instant puddings will not work in this recipe.

Attitude Is Important in Job Hunting

By ANNE HEYWOOD

"Why should I try to be cheerful?" women will sometimes ask. "Things are terrible. We haven't enough money to live the way we used to, and I'm too old to get a job, and. . ."

And you know, before they begin, that the chances are they won't be able to get a job, because their negative approach makes the employer hate the idea of having them around—and their faces have that dreary and depressing set to them.

Then, when they don't get a job, that gives them further cause for complaint, and the vicious circle goes on and on.

On the other hand, the cheerful woman, the woman who has trained herself to look at life from an optimistic point of view, starts a circle of another kind. She approaches the problem with the confidence that she might possibly get a job, age or no age. Then she does get one, and continues to progress.

The whole difference is one of point of view. In fact, the longer I live, the more I realize that what actually happens to us is far less important than the way we decide to take it. Because we ourselves decide, every time, what our reaction will be.

Mrs. E. B. is a wonderful example of this.

When she was 62, she wanted to enter a school for training in institutional housekeeping. She was older than their entrance requirements specified, and she had never finished high school.

But when they took her case history, they were tremendously impressed. She was a serene and optimistic woman, and at first they thought life had perhaps been easy for her—that's the impression she gave.

But her story showed that she married early, and lost her husband right after the birth of their second child. She put her two sons through college by running a home bakery, and taking in college students to board in her home. She had worked hard all her life, and cheerfully, as well, and she didn't feel at all depressed, embittered, or old.

The school took Mrs. E. B., and she did a good job. She was placed as executive housekeeper in a small hospital—on her sixty-third birthday!

There Are Good Witches

Here is an idea for a Halloween favor. How about making some of these to dress up your family dinner table for the Halloween meal? They look nice and carry out the theme. Of course, they are fun to eat, too.

These Halloween witches are good witches. How do I know? Just eat one and see! Mary Ann Schoenherr, Fort Wayne, Indiana, tells us that these can be made with a few simple things.

You will need a sucker for each one, and you can make your witch stand by putting her in a clay stand. Measure your stick and cut your crepe paper about an inch and a half higher than the top. Allow about nine inches for the width. Gather this dress around the sucker and fasten it with a pipe cleaner which also serves as arms.

Draw her face on the sucker cover or paste cut-out features on. Make the black hat by cutting a round piece out, which slips over her head, then paste on a pointed crown. Put a place card in her hand.

I would suggest that you use black inked-in leters.
hat and orange crepe paper for the dress. The place cards can be made from orange paper with blac inked-in letters.

Make it a long tunic over sheath—gathers for the slender, but keep fitted over hips for mature figure.

Mrs. S. F.—The long torso silhouette is the most important of the Paris openings and it may take some time but it will eventually find favor among fashion-conscious women. Your tunic should be carefully proportioned to avoid shortlegged look.

Time Is So Long to Young Children

Time is ever so long to young children. So if you are expecting a new baby, put off telling small son until it's within the realm of his understanding. The minute you tell him, he will expect the baby tomorrow.

And don't imagine that he doesn't understand when you talk to your friends about your pregnancy. He deserves to feel that he knows what's going on and that it's his baby, too. Don't discuss it in front of him until he knows about it.

Too Many People Get in the Way

By MARY MARGARET McBRIDE

Mornings when I'm up early enough and every evening just before dusk, I spend a quiet time with a family of white-tailed deer who, through the summer and fall, have become my good friends.

Most often as I watch, the shy, graceful mother and her gambling fawn come gaily out of the woods at the top of the hill. Less frequently the antlered father joins them in the old apple orchard beyond the meadow where they nose around under the trees to see if there have been any windfalls since their last visit.

The tawny mother frequently stops eating to gaze anxiously—or perhaps curiously—at me. A slammed door, a whistle or an automobile on the road many yards away makes her start and turn her head. The baby, who has gotten bigger while I have watched, switches its perky little white tail and pays me little heed because, I like, fatuously to imagine, it knows I won't do it any harm. The buck is too lordly to acknowledge my existence, but now and then a quiver of awareness runs through his body and I feel sure that every nerve is attuned to possible danger.

As the nights grow more chill and the leaves turn, my pleasure in these charming creatures is marred by a dread that their time may be running out. November is open season for deer hunting and though these acres will be plastered with posters, hunters don't always heed and I'm afraid my family of deer may have grown too trusting. What worries me most is that I may have helped to make them so.

There is little I can do now to save them from the brave men in red caps who find deer-killing exciting and justify the slaying of wild creatures by calling it "the sport of kings."

People in the next county still talk about the appalling carnage two years ago. The state conservation brains, with strange logic, decided that the countryside could not support its deer population. They decreed a brief period when any deer including those without visible antlers (meaning does and fawns) could be taken.

Hunters arrived for the big occasion literally by the bus-load. After one day of warfare, the intrepid sportsmen had shot a dog sitting on its own front lawn, wounded a farmer on the way to his barn and killed several calves, besides many deer.

A man who was there (and for the same purpose as the others) told me that, during the first day of the open season in a New England state last year, four hunters were killed by other hunters.

"A farmer's wife," he reported, "was at the bottom of a pasture and her own daughter, seeing something move, grabbed a gun and shot her mother.

"I watched a so-called sportsman take five or six shots at a fawn which was standing still and looking at him, never suspecting anyone was trying to hurt it. I am actually beginning to feel about hunting the way Sir Thomas Moore did—that it is evil for the human spirit to be encouraged to kill a defenseless thing."

I do hope my deer family will stick close to me and the apple orchard come open season. At least I can shoo the hunters away.

Versatile Metal Plate Proves Good

By HUBBARD COBB

Your average hardware store contains a good many useful little items but few are as useful and as versatile as metal mending plates or, as they are often called, metal fasteners.

These are pieces of steel made in different shapes and sizes with holes drilled in them for screws. They come in a wide assortment of both shapes and sizes. There are flat corner plates, T-plates, inside corner plates, brackets and straight mending plates. They can be used to reinforce the joints of storm sashes and window screens, to reinforce weak chair or table legs, to reinforce the joints on wood bed frames and for all sorts of similar jobs.

The best and most efficient way to install one of these little metal plates is to recess it into the wood. This not only makes the strongest type of reinforcement but also a neat looking job.

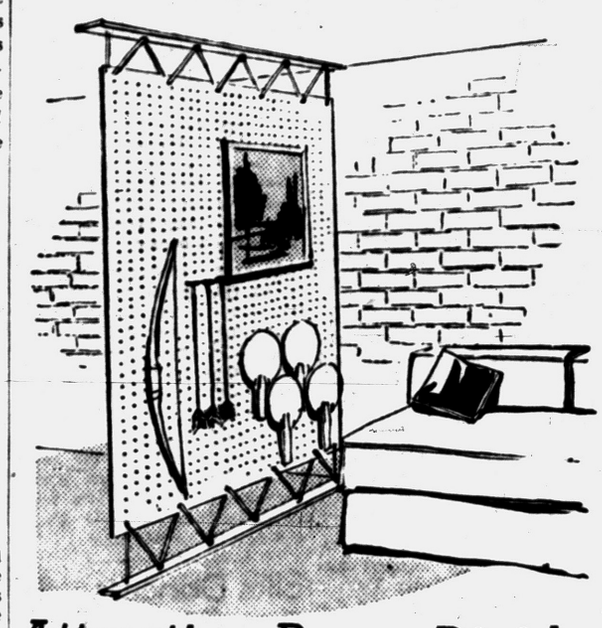

Set the plate into position and then scribe around it with a awl or knife blade. Remove the plate and then chisel out the wood inside the scribed line to a depth equal to the thickness of the plate. This has to be done sort of carefully.

The plates should always be installed with screws rather than with nails. When installing the plates on furniture, etc., where the wood is usually hardwood, be sure to drill holes for the screws to eliminate all possibility of splitting the wood. It's also important that before you install the plates, you pull the two pieces of wood tightly together at the joint. This can best be done by using clamps.

When steel plates are used on outside work, they should be painted to prevent their rusting and staining the adjoining woodwork.

The only time a girl listens faster than a man can talk is when he's proposing.

Attractive Room Divider Has Simple Construction

By ELIZABETH HILLYER

The making of this decorative room divider turns out bit results without taxing a do-it-your-self enthusiast's skills.

A perforated hardboard panel, two strips of wood and lengths of clothesline or cord are the simple basic ingredients. The hardboard is easily cut to the right size in the workshop or where it is bought.

Apply a sealer coat and paint it with any wall paint in a room scheme color. The wood strips, from 1x2 or 2x2 lumber, should be slightly longer than the width of the panel and may be painted to match it.

Nail one wood strip to the ceiling and one to the floor, aligned carefully one above the other. Attach a row of screw eyes to each strip and then lace the panel onto the strips with plastic clothesline or sturdy cord. An especially good cord is a new one for traverse draperies. It's made of fiber glass and cannot stretch.

Only one main pattern part to each garment in this all-occasion doll wardrobe! It's every little girl's idea of the perfect, year 'round doll-wardrobe! Wardrobe includes party dress, skirt and blouse, vestee, petticoat, panties, bathrobe, coat and hat! Have them ready for Santa's pack!

Crab Salad for Lunch Is Filling
Mrs. Shearer Mixes Seafood, Vegetables in Hearty Dish

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

We know that Mrs. George Shearer serves this Seafood Salad when she has members of her club over for luncheon. After you read the recipe you will see why; it is practically the whole meal in itself. Mrs. Shearer suggests serving potato chips and pickles with it.

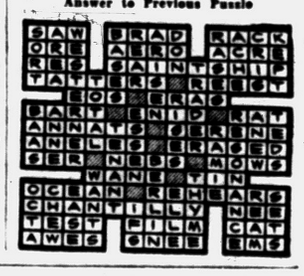

For several years Mrs. Shearer had a job downtown. But she is at home full time now. She is past president of both the Junior Child Study Club and the City Federation of Women's Clubs. For relaxation she likes sewing, knitting and the out-of-doors.

1 large can diced carrots
1 small can peas
1 bunch celery, diced

Do Not Tell Strangers of Daughter's Adoption

By EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: "My husband and I have recently moved to the suburbs where we were complete strangers, but we are meeting new people all the time. Here is our problem: We have an adopted daughter. All our friends and relatives know that she is not our real daughter but these new acquaintances do not.

Upon meeting our daughter, several of them have remarked that she looks very much like my husband. If I then turn around and say she is adopted, they seem to be very embarrassed, and if I say nothing, they will take for granted that she is our own daughter. How can I best handle this situation?"

Say nothing and let them think she is your daughter—after all she is your daughter now—until they find out otherwise. The fact that she may look like your husband is not strange because people who adopt children usually try to find children as near their own type as they can.

Dear Mrs. Post: I'm going to the hospital for several weeks and will not have any private nurses. I'm wondering what to do about the nurses who will look after me? Shall I give each one of them a gift when I leave, or possibly after I return home, or just what is customary.

There is no obligation to give them anything. If you want to give a present to a special nurse and can afford to do so that is entirely proper. Send it afterwards because it is very embarrassing to pick one or two when all the others have also cared for you.

Dear Mrs. Post: My wife insists that it is bad manners to cut up all my meat before beginning to eat. She thinks each piece should be cut as eaten—which to me sounds very finicky. What do you have to say about this?

I agree with your wife!

Cyprus Dispute Causing Rift Between Greece, Britain

By SPYROS P. SELLINAS

For the first time in 133 years, since the War for the Hellenic Independence against the Ottoman Empire in 1821, Greece and Great Britain, two traditionally friendly and allied Nations, united with common struggles for the defense of the highest ideals of freedom and democracy, appear as opponents today before the United Nations General Assembly.

Their dispute refers to the right of self determination of the Greek population of Cyprus, the third largest island in Eastern Mediterranean—a right which the United Kingdom has already granted to colored and undeveloped peoples.

I do not believe that there exists in the whole world a person even moderately educated to ignore that Cyprus has been for centuries a bastion of Hellenism in Southeastern Europe and a bright beacon of Greek civilization.

Foreign dominations, which have succeeded each other in the course of three thousand years of history in Cyprus, have always been but passing, temporary and transitory elements. Greece alone has been the lasting element, the unalterable factor, the only permanent reality in the island of Cyprus.

SELLINAS

It would be needless to repeat that Cyprus belongs to the Hellenic World; Cyprus is Greece itself.

Today, according to statistical data supplied by the British colonial authorities, out of a population of 511,000 inhabitants, 80.2 per cent are Greeks (not including approximately 120,000 Cypriots, who have emigrated from the island to Greece, Egypt and Africa in general, to the United States or to England). Of the remaining 19.8 per cent, 17.9 per cent are Turks and 1.9 per cent various other nationalities.

In 1878 British administration, under the nominal sovereignty of the Sultan, succeeded the Ottoman Empire. In November 1914, by virtue of an "Order-in-Council", Cyprus was annexed to the British Empire and in 1925 the Government of the United Kingdom enforced the status of a Crown colony in the island. Today, in Cyprus, one of the most ancient cradles of Western Civilization, the colonial status still survives, imposed on a people whose destiny has always been linked with the cause of freedom.

It is true that on October 17, 1915, following the declaration of war between Great Britain and the Ottoman Empire, the British Government offered Cyprus to Greece on condition that the latter would enter the war at the side of the Allies, thereby implicitly recognizing the Greek character of the island. Greece fulfilled this condition two years later, but Britain had by that time forgotten her promises.

It is no less true that on many occasions British statesmen and other outstanding personalities (Gladstone, Winston Churchill, David Lloyd George, Ramsey Macdonald, Ronald Burrows, W. Pember Reeves, H. G. Wells, Arnold Toynbee, Compton McKenzie and others,) recognized the right of the people of Cyprus to seek union with Greece.

The same attitude is followed by the majority of the liberal British press. British authorities, however, have persistently refused to take into consideration this unanimous wish of the great Hellenic national majority of the islanders.

On the morrow of the second World War, the people of Cyprus, after having actively and effectively participated in the common struggle and confident in the principles of justice and freedom set forth in the Atlantic Charter and consequently established by the Charter of the United Nations, reaffirmed their will to be united with Greece.

A plebiscite was held by the Greek Orthodox Church in January 1950. The 95.7 per cent of the voters expressed themselves in favor of the union of Cyprus with Greece. The result of this plebiscite was duly communicated to London. A delegation from Cyprus delivered a copy of the records to the United Nations.

The British Government turned a deaf ear to these manifestations and appeals, with the result to create a situation, which presages no good. Despair and exasperation are no good counsellors and especially in the present critical period of the world affairs.

As it was to be expected, developments in the island of Cyprus and the refusal of Her Britanic Majesty's government to take into consideration the will of the Cypriot population have had tremendous repercussions throughout Greece. The Greek people, who had paid a heavy toll that freedom and respect for the will of the peoples might triumph, found it hard to understand that these principles, designed to be the foundations of the new international community, might not be equally valid for all.

They were disappointed to find that, in absolutely identical circumstances, foreign domination was abolished in the Dodecanese Islands, apparently on the ground that it was the domination of a vanquished country, while it was maintained in Cyprus where the ruling country was among the victors.

A natural solidarity binding one people together — in free Greece and Cyprus—and the indignation provoked by the unjustifiable attitude of the British government have resulted in creating in Greece a violent current of opinion, the power of which it would be dangerous to underestimate and which the Greek government is unable to overlook any longer.

Greece has always fostered bonds of traditional friendship with Great Britain. The relations between the two countries have never in the past been seriously disturbed and during the great crisis of recent history the two peoples have invariably fought side by side. In the course of the last War, as brothers-in-arms, the two nations were united at the most critical moments of the struggle for freedom and equal rights for the peoples and this has contributed to strengthening these bonds.

Close and friendly co-operation between Great Britain and Greece have constituted both in the past and in the present an element of political stability in this region of Eastern Mediterranean. And this stability was necessary and beneficial to the interests of the entire international community as well as to the cause of peace.

The Greek government could not, therefore, remain indifferent to the emergence of a new factor in Greek public opinion tending to jeopardize this stability and to bring about a most delicate situation in the field of Greco-British relations. So, after having exhausted every means of achieving an agreement in a direct way with Britain, Greece was obliged to appeal to the United Nations with the request to find a solution called for by justice, dignity and the principles of the UNO Charter.

The majority of the United Nations have already voted in favor of the Greek appeal for the inscription of the Cyprus question in the agenda of the General Assembly. This appeal will be considered by the first Political Committee of the Assembly next month. And it remains only for the small countries of the free world to see whether their sacrifices in blood and material destructions for freedom and democracy were made in vain.

It should be noted that in the present struggle for Cyprus a new force has been added lately: The World Council of Churches has approved in Evanston, Illinois, a resolution, by which it recognized the right and the maturity of the Cypriot people to decide his future destinies by his own will.

Smithsonian Shows 1st Pill-Rolling Pan

WASHINGTON (UP) — The copper pill-rolling pan used to manufacture America's first mass-produced sugar-coated pills is on exhibit at the Smithsonian Institute here.

The French began sugar-coating bitter pills in the 1830's, and William R. Warner, Philadelphia druggist, introduced the process to this country in 1856. The pills were an immediate hit with patients.

Warner suspended a copper pan from the ceiling of his shop. He placed the pills and coating ingredients in the pan which he swung gently back and forth until the pills rolling around in the sugar solution became coated. A thousand or more pills were coated in one operation.

Today, pharmaceutical manufacturers employ giant rotating drums to achieve the same purpose, coating several hundred thousand at one time.

Goebel...first American beer to win acclaim in Germany

Director Stadler takes time to enjoy a glass of Goebel in the Henninger Brewery taproom. In the background is a many-centuries-old porcelain stove.

Director of Henninger Brewery, Frankfurt, calls Goebel "one of world's truly fine beers"

"We have tried Goebel Beer at our brewery in Frankfurt, Germany. It is a pleasure to verify that it continues the great European tradition which we follow in our brewing of Henninger Beer. It is both light in body, dry in flavor, and altogether satisfying to the taste.

"We feel that Goebel Beer deserves its place among the world's truly fine beers."

It's unusual when other breweries praise Goebel . . . more unusual when you remember these breweries are in Germany, Holland, Belgium, England, Switzerland —the traditional centers of fine beers.

If you haven't tried Goebel recently, ask for it next time. You owe it to your own good taste to see just how good it is.

Gay Tax Forms Will Tell Tales

Yellow or Red-Striped Booklet to Reveal '53 Income Classification

WASHINGTON (AP) — The income tax return material to be mailed you soon after Christmas may have a yellow or red stripe indicating whether your income was over or under $10,000 last year.

The telltale marks can be seen by anyone who looks at the mail going to you, because this type of income tax form for 1954 and its striped instruction booklet will not be enclosed in an envelope.

Another distinctive tax form—which might tell whether your 1953 income was under $5,000—will be mailed inside an ordinary-looking envelope.

The 1954 tax forms are now coming off the government presses and are due for mailing around Dec. 26. Special forms, the same regardless of income, will go to farmers and to business proprietors or partners.

For others, there will be three types of forms. The three types will be mailed according to the size and type of income reported last year by the taxpayer. They are:

1. Long form 1040 for over $10,000 —

Persons who reported income last year of $10,000 or more, and who are not farmers or businessmen, will get a package sporting a yellow stripe a quarter of an inch wide down the front.

2. Long form 1040 for under $10,000 —

Persons who reported a 1953 income of less than $10,000, and who are not businessmen or farmers, will get a package with a bright red stripe also a quarter of an inch wide.

3. Short form 1040A —

Taxpayers who last year reported income under $5,000, all from wages and salaries out of which income tax was withheld, and who did not have more than $100 other income, may get a punch card type of return, about the size of a check, and enclosed in an envelope. This envelope will not look different from most other business envelopes.

A revenue service spokesman said today the stripes were put on as an aid in sorting forms and with an eye to making the income tax package more attractive.

Asked about the possibly revealing nature of the stripes, the spokesman said:

"I suppose that a prying person in an apartment house might learn something, but it would be pretty hard for anyone else to do so. As for the postman, he is a federal employe, and is not supposed to reveal anything he learns on the job about the families he serves."

Weak Tea Prompts Mom to Revise Will

LONDON (AP)—Mrs. Ada Biggs liked her tea "so strong that a mouse could dance on it," her son told a probate judge yesterday.

The son, George R. Dodd, said his mother cut him out of her will because during the postwar rationing days the tea at his house was not quite that sturdy.

Mrs. Biggs died in 1951, at 70, after making a new will which left most of her money to charity.

The court voided the new will on the ground that she was of unsound mind at the time. It accepted a previous will made in 1944 which divided the 18,500-pound ($51,800) estate between Dodd and his sister.

Mystery of Bells Aboard Saratoga Solved by Navy

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y. (UP)—It develops that the famous aircraft carrier Saratoga had two ship's bells. One went to war; one didn't.

The one that survived World War II with the Saratoga was rescued and presented to the city of Saratoga Springs just before the old carrier became a sitting duck for the Bikini atom bomb tests.

Authorities therefore were a little surprised recently when it was announced that "the" ship's bell had been sent to the New York State Historical Museum.

Many hours of research later, the Navy's Bureau of Ships supplied the answer. The Saratoga had two bells, and when she was prepared for action at the beginning of the war, one was removed and stored in a West Coast warehouse.

That's the one going into the museum here. Saratoga Springs has the bell that went to war.

ATLANTA (AP)—Anne Warren, a seventh-grader at Monticello, Ga., was declared winner of the state spelling contest at the recent Southeastern Fair here.

"But when the papers were returned," said State School Supt. M. D. Collins yesterday, "Anne pointed out two words she had missed and which the judges had not detected.

"She said she knew it would knock her out of first place but she wanted to be honest."

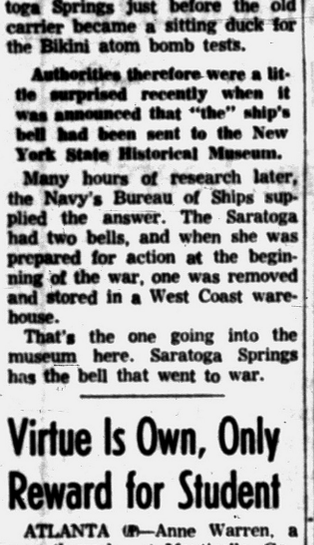

Her admission gave the championship to Stephen Johnson, high school student at West Point.

The State Board of Education directed Dr. Collins to write Anne a letter of commendation.

FREE-WHEELING POOCH—Fritzell, the free-wheeling Dachshund, like other dogs in the news of late, also has his troubles. He was sent to a San Jose, Calif., animal hospital with a ruptured vertebral disc. An enterprising young vet fashioned him a corset to immobilize his rear quarters during the three months required for healing. As an added touch, a pair of skate wheels were added and all Fritzell has to do is make with the front legs and the rest follows. Here he romps with another patient at the hospital, Gerry.

Unit to Study Purchase Offer

Animal League's Plan to Buy Shelter Site Filed Last Week

Reports from city officers, publice hearings on street projects and resolutions will face the City Commission at tonight's meeting.

Carried over from last week are a letter from the Animal Rescue League, Inc. stating its desire to purchase city property on Featherstone avenue near East Boulevard, and a report from the City Plan Commission.

The plan commission's report recommends denying a request to rezone to residential 2 or 3 the north side of West Walton boulevard, between Hollywood and Carlisle.

Reports are due from City Manager Walter K. Willman regarding a minor change of orders on the new City Hall contracts and a lease with General Motors Corp. for use of a public alley extending from the north line of Mansfield.

City Attorney William A. Ewart is scheduled to report on a resolution to condemn the remaining property on Palmer drive which has not already been deeded to the city.

The street is now private and more than 95 per cent of its residents have deeded over their portions of the right-of-way to the city so it will be maintained as a city street.

A resolution is also slated to accept another deed for a section of Palmer drive owned by Lewis and Edna Wrenn.

The commission is also scheduled to consider the resignation of J. L. VanWagoner, a member of the Employes Retirement System, and a communication from the Michigan Liquor Control Commission.

The letter from the liquor commission regards the request of Nick Palaian for transfer of location of SDM (package beer and wine) and tavern licenses and reinstatement of a Class C license.

Also up for consideration is a transfer of ownership for an SDM license at 425 S. Jessie from Mildred Polmear to Joseph Polmear.

First readings of ordinances to amend the zone map of the building zone ordinance as follows are scheduled:

Rezone to residential 3 lot 14, Evelyn Court; Lots 6 to 11 of assessor's plat 38 and lots 9 to 11 of assessor's plat 127.

Rezone to commercial lots 137 to 140 and 166 of assessor's plat 138.

Public hearings on intention to construct the following are also scheduled:

Curb, gutter, drainage and related work on Adams, from Jessie to Allen, and on Allen from Osmun to Michigan Air Line Railroad;

Two-inch bituminous recap on Telegraph, from West Huron to Elizabeth Lake.

Resolutions are set to receive special assessment rolls for the following:

Curb, gutter, drainage and related work on Hamilton and McNeil, from Baldwin to Rundell, and Drexel, from Paddock to South Boulevard;

Grading, graveling and related work on Pleasantview, from Hillsmont to the east line of lot 181, Woodward Estates subdivision.

Resolutions of public necessity for the following projects are planned:

Curb, gutter, drainage, two-inch blacktop on Whitfield, from Saginaw to Edison;

Sanitary sewer on Oakland, from Northview to Kinney; Kinney, from Oakland to Stanley, and Stanley from trunk sewer to Kinney;

Combined sewer on Stanley, from Dearborn to Kennett.

United Fund Donations Aid Financing Pontiac Area Campfire Girls Activities

Giving girls a workable knowledge of the home, developing uplifting hobbies plus insight into business practices and good citizenship are all part of the Pontiac Council of Camp Fire Girls program.

Pontiac Area United Fund money makes much of this possible.

Girls in the program range in age from 7 to 18. The character building values of the organization are evident in their "law of camp fire." It reads, "Worship God, seek beauty, give service, pursue knowledge, be trustworthy, hold on to health, glorify work, be happy."

Home crafts taught stress hospitality, cooking, nutrition, marketing, food preservation, first aid and home nursing, gardening and homemaking.

Outdoor crafts include hiking, camping and nature conservation. Creative arts include handcraft, creative design, dramatics and music.

Invention, experimenting and exploring new principles are stressed plus business experience, sports and games and citizenship.

The local group has a camp site near Clarkston founded with help from the Pontiac Civitan and Kiwanis Clubs. A day camp has been held the past two years and future swimming classes are planned.

The Camp Fire Girls were founded in 1910 on the theory that girls benefited most from supervised group activity in company with others their own age.

The local group is growing rapidly now numbering some 600 girls and donations to the United Fund drive will help assure that all girls wishing to join will be able to benefit from the campfire experience.

Famed Gotham Subways Mark 50th Birthday

NEW YORK (AP)—New York's "hole in the ground"—the most famous subway system in the world—celebrates its 50th birthday tomorrow.

With the opening of the New York subways in 1904, a new era in urban transportation began. The first subway was opened in Boston in 1897. But to New York goes credit for revolutionizing rapid transit.

The vast transportation network—now city-owned—carries about two billion passengers yearly over a 250-mile web.

FTC Chief Orders Investigation Into Business Mergers

By FRANK O'BRIEN

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Chairman Edward F. Howrey of the Federal Trade Commission has ordered a "speedy but thorough" probe of business mergers to determine whether competition is being lessened.

Citing a nearly fourfold increase in mergers and company sales that took place after the outbreak of war in Korea, Howrey bracketed it with the "trust-forming era of 1887-1904" and "a significant merger movement in the 1920s."

"There is no question that the present merger movement must be carefully assessed" in the light of the antitrust laws, Howrey said late yesterday in announcing the new study.

After two decades when mergers averaged 200 a year, they shot up in 1951 to 703, rose again in 1952 to 822 and fell back a little in 1953 to 793, according to a tabulation accompanying the FTC announcement. Business consolidations in 1951, 1952 and 1953 totaled 2,318, compared with 602 for the previous three years. The all-time high recorded by FTC was 1,216 mergers or business acquisitions in the manufacturing and mining field in 1929.

In the first half of this year, FTC said, there were some 295 consolidations, possibly indicating a drop to about 600 for the current year.

But the numerical record alone, FTC said, does not tell the story it said it wants to get at, because it does not differentiate between billion-dollar and small-poatoes combines, and does not throw light on the economic significance of the mergers—the extent to which they may have decreased or deformed competition.

Howrey disclosed FTC has under consideration 209 recent mergers or business acquisitions. The FTC has started action against three of these, involving firms in the baking, paper and steel scrap fields. Howrey said the recent merger rash appeared to have most strongly affected the baking, paper, textile, dairy, chemical, automobile and primary metals industries.

Referred Lead Sales Exposed

Warn Residents About Appliance Buying Under Plan

The Better Business Board today warned potential purchasers of appliances on "referred lead" basis to expect to pay the full purchase price for the item "out of their own pockets."

Under the referred lead plan, explained John W. Hirlinger of the BBB, the potential customer is told that the item will be brought out to him or her as part of an advertising campaign.

All he has to do, he is told, is accept the appliance (usually an incinerator or clothes dryer) and then refer his friends to the company.

For every friend's name turned over to the firm, $10 or $15 will be paid, they are told. If the friend is sold, $20 or $25 will be paid—enough to cover their monthly installment. (Only one a month can be turned in.)

Then, Hirlinger said, the customer signs a purchase agreement, confident that he can furnish the names of a dozen friends and easily pay off the appliance without actually paying a cent.

Hirlinger said:

"Because they jack up the price of the appliance, the company is able to pay off a few referred leads.

"An electric dryer that sells for $199.50 in a regular store sells for $239.95 at a referred lead establishment, so they can pay off for several months.

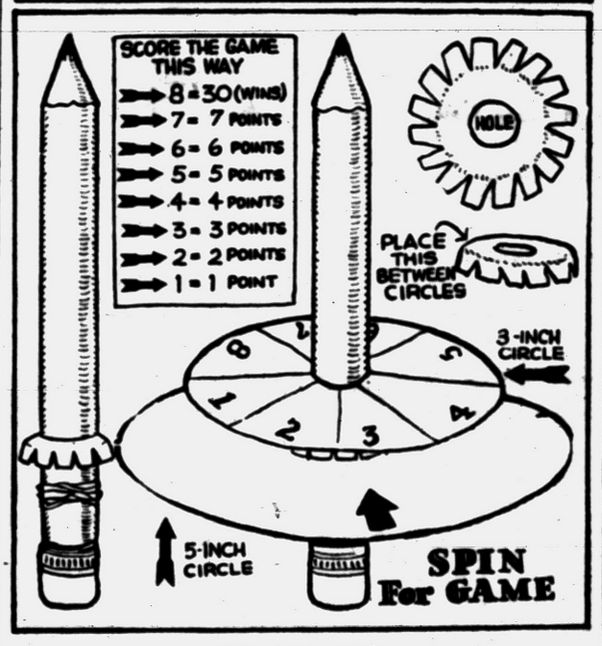

"But in all past experiences, the company has gone out of business within a few months.

"The customer is left to pay the balance of the original purchase price to a finance company—still about what he would have paid had he bought it at a regular establishment."

Hirlinger added that a number of legitimate merchants offer $10 or $25 to appliance purchasers for "leads," but only after the first customer has made purchase at the regular price.

TODAY'S ASSIGNMENT FOR:

JUNIOR EDITORS

SPIN FOR GAME

Here's an exciting game for two that's easy to make and play. Directions:

1. Using dishes to trace around, draw three separate circles on a piece of cardboard and cut them out. Make one circle about five inches across, one three inches and one two inches. Have mother help you cut a small hole in the center of each circle, big enough so the circles can be slipped over a round pencil.

2. Divide the three-inch circle into eight equal parts, numbering these from 1 to 8. On the five-inch circle draw a heavy arrow. Notch the edges of the two-inch circle.

3. Wind a rubber band around the pencil above the eraser. Slip the larger circle over the pencil so it rests on the rubber band. Next, bend down the flaps of the two-inch circle and slip this on the pencil. Then put on the circle with the numbers. This top circle should be able to spin freely.

4. Each player gets three spins. Hold the pencil in one hand and spin the top circle with your other hand. Score according to which number stops in front of the arrow, adding the score after each spin. All the numbers are worth face value, except Number 8, which is worth 30 points. The closest player to 30—or the first to reach 30—in three spins wins the game.

Queen Mother Due to Arrive in U.S. Today

NEW YORK (AP)—The Cunard liner Queen Elizabeth, bringing Queen Mother Elizabeth of England to the United States for a visit, is scheduled to dock here at 4:45 p.m., today after being delayed 12 hours by a storm east of Newfoundland.

Winds of 64 to 72 miles per hour were reported in that area yesterday, delaying several other liners.

The U.S. Weather Bureau here said today that the liners, which had been forced to decrease their speed, "should be out of the storm area by now."

The Queen Mother and her party are among 1,923 passengers on the liner named for her.

After an official welcome aboard the ship, the Queen Mother will go by auto to Wave Hill, the Bronx mansion residence of Sir Pierson Dixon, Britain's permanent delegate to the U.N., where she will stay during her nine days in New York.

Poll Indicates Democrat Victory in House

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The nationwide Babsonpoll now predicts a Democratic landslide in the House of Representatives next Tuesday.

This country-wide survey is conducted by Babson's Washington Service, a business and political forecasting news letter founded by Roger W. Babson.

The latest report of Babsonpoll tabulations indicates that the swing to the Democrats — first noted in the earliest computation—has expanded as the campaign has progressed. Babsonpoll analysts point out, by way of explanation, that the majority of "political incidents" which have attracted nationwide attention over the past few weeks apparently have helped the Democrats more than the GOP.

Probably of greatest importance were news stories relating to Defense Secretary Wilson, Rep. Bramblett, Rep. Stringfellow, former Rep. Case, the indictment of Republican officials in Pennsylvania, and the Watkins Committee censure report.

Even though most unbiased reports of business conditions throughout the nation have indicated some recovery in recent weeks, this more optimistic outlook has not been reflected by any rise in sentiment toward the GOP.

Uptp-date Babsonpoll tabulations indicate that the Democrats will win 30 to 50 seats now held by Republicans—and that only a handful of currently Democratic seats are likely to be turned over to the GOP.

The present House of Representatives is made up of 218 Republicans, 212 Democrats, 1 Independent, and 4 vacancies. It is now virtually certain that the two major parties will divide the four vacant seats equally. One of these, from Ohio's 15th District, was held by a Democrat but is expected to wind up in the GOP column, constituting one of the few Republican gains.

Here is the national picture reflected in latest Babsonpoll figures:

Republican sure:	138
Republican probable:	37
Democratic sure:	192
Democratic probable:	47
Toss-up:	20
Total	435

It appears that the Democrats may possibly win as many as 259 seats in next week's election, if they capture those now listed in the tosspup zone. That would reduce Republican representation in the House to 175 Members.

On the other hand, GOP victories in all of the 20 exceedingly close contests would bring the Republican total up to only 195. Even allowing for a reasonable margin of error in Babsonpoll tabulations, control of the next House appears out of reach of the GOP.

In the race for Senate seats, the tide has also swung further toward the Democrats since our last Babsonpoll report. Two weeks ago, Babsonpoll figures indicated a small edge for the Republicans in the fight for control of the upper house. Now, the rising Democratic tide has thrown the outcome of that struggle into doubt.

In the 18 critical senatorial races selected for Babsonpoll study, here are the results presently indicated:

DEMOCRATIC SURE: Delaware, Illinois, New Mexico, Rhode Island.

DEMOCRATIC PROBABLE: Minnesota, New Jersey.

DEMOCRATIC EDGE: Nevada.

REPUBLICAN SURE: California, Idaho, Oregon.

REPUBLICAN PROBABLE: Wyoming.

REPUBLICAN EDGE: Iowa, Michigan.

TOSS-UPS: Colorado, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Montana, Ohio.

The present line-up in the Senate is 49 Republicans, 46 Democrats, and 1 Independent.

Babsonpoll tabulations now show the following probabilities:

Republican seats:	46
Democratic seats:	44
Independent seat:	1
Toss-up seats:	5
Total	96

Although a flat Babsonpoll prediction of a strongly Democratic House is warranted by current computations, it can only be said that the margin to be enjoyed by either party in the upper house is likely to be very small. Control of the Senate may not be known until many hours after the make-up of the new House is plainly evident.

Fire Hits Home of Aged Woman

Milford Blaze Causes Wide Damage to House of Mrs. Ella Moore

MILFORD—An aged woman's house was struck by fire as she shopped with her son in Pontiac yesterday.

Mrs. Ella D. Moore, who is over 80 and lives alone at 6721 Martindale, returned to find her home a shambles, from a fire originating in the attic.

Milford volunteer firemen who answered the call, said the blaze in the $12,000 home was due to spontaneous combustion.

A granddaughter, Mrs. William Julin, who was in her yard nearby, noticed smoke seeping from under the eaves, and turned in the alarm. The volunteer department arrived with five minutes.

Extent of damage was unknown, and the building and contents were uninsured. Heat had smashed every window in the cement block ranch type two bedroom home.

Mrs. Moore had gone to Pontiac in the morning, intending to return shortly after lunch. The fire was discovered at 2:15 p. m.

Sisters Become Moms Together Over Weekend

Her sister, Mrs. Robert Mills, 3280 Chamborne, became the mother of a baby boy at 10:16 a.m. Saturday, also in Pontiac General.

They are staying in the same room.

Weather Zero-Zero at Chicago Airports

CHICAGO (AP) — Heavy fog blanketed Chicago this morning, halting air travel at two big airports.

Visibility for the planes was zero at the Midway Municipal Airport and at O'Hare Field. The incoming planes were detoured to Milwaukee, Detroit and aKnsas City. There was considerable fog in the mild air over many sections of the Midwest early today. Scattered fog was reported eastward to the Atlantic Coast.

The Weather Bureau said it expected the fog to thin out later in the morning.

Field Contacted by U.S. Officials

Vienna Embassy Now in Touch With Ohioan Freed by Communists

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—A spokesman for the U.S. Embassy here said today the embassy has established contact with Cleveland architect Hermann Field, reported freed recently from a prison in Communist-ruled Poland.

The spokesman refused further information but said: "In view of the circumstances, we refer you to the State Department in Washington, which already is in possession of our report."

Asked whether embassy officials had seen Field, the spokesman said, "Yes, we have established contact with him."

In Washington, a State Department press officer said he had not seen the report and it probably would not be available until his office opened later today.

The Polish government announced yesterday it had freed the Cleveland architect.

A broadcast from Warsaw said an official investigation had shown that Field was the victim of a "frameup by an American agent" in the Polish security service.

It said he has been released and full satisfaction has been given him."

Field went to Warsaw in 1949 to seek news of his brother Noel and sister-in-law Herta, who had disappeared behind the Iron Curtain. He boarded a plane in Warsaw bound for Prague, and vanished.

The following year, Noel's adopted daughter set out to search for her relatives. She disappeared in Berlin.

Blaze Destroys $20,000 Barn

5 Departments Battle Fire at Hubert Farm Near Oxford

OXFORD—Five fire departments fought for more than five hours to control a blaze that destroyed the $20,000 hay-filled barn of C. H. Hubert on his farm at 2224 Oxford Rd. three miles northeast of Oxford.

Oxford, Metamora, Addison, Lake Orion and Leonard departments fought the fire which broke out at 4:30 p.m. Oxford firemen were still at the scene this morning keeping under control the smouldering remains of the 2,000 bales of hay that had been stored in the barn.

Faulty electric wiring was given as the probable cause of the blaze which totally destroyed the big barn.

Damage could nto be estimated immediately, but Hubert said the large dairy barn cost him $20,000 to build, and was almost new. Calves and milking machinery were removed from the barn, but the hay was a total loss.

Better Roads on the Way, Rep. Dondero Predicts

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — "Better roads are on the way for Michigan as a result of a Republican Congress and Administration," Congressman George Dondero told the Waterford Women's Club Monday afternoon.

Oakland County's representative told the gathering at the Community Activities Building that federal aid for highway construction in Michigan will be increased from $19,000,000 a year to $30,000,000 a year under his chairmanship of the Public Works Committee.

The roads bill which Congressman Dondero sponsored and fathered through the legislative chambers raises the federal highway appropriation to the point where it actually returns to the states the two cents federal tax on gasoline.

"I believe that most of you always believed that all of the federal tax you paid on gasoline went for highway construction. Such was not the case until this Congress approved my legislation," the Congressman said. "In previous administrations the states received little more than half of what their citizens paid in gas taxes.

"Although we are not earmarking this tax as it is collected, I intend to make sure that the people of our state receive the full benefits of the gas tax by returning a like amount to be spent for the highways so vital to the progress of Michigan," he said.

The current road bill will provide $966,000,000 for the fiscal years of 1956-57, most of which will be paid out as matching funds for state highway construction programs. Michigan's share for the two years will be $60,000,000, or $22,000,000 greater than any previous highway program.

Congressman Dondero stated that good roads and the easy conveyance of men and goods from place to place is one of the "three essentials which make a nation great and strong."

"There is no doubt that Michigan builds the finest cars in the world, but we haven't been able to build all the roads needed to accommodate them. This appropriation is a great stride in meeting this need. Better roads will save lives, property and could mean the difference between victory and defeat in the event of war," the Congressman concluded.

Holly Annexation Problem to Be Aired Again Tonight

By DOUG ROUNDS
Press Holly Correspondent

HOLLY—A resolution to annex additional property to Holly will be aired for the second time this year by village and surrounding area residents this evening at the regular meeting of the village council, to be held in the multi-purpose room of the Holly elementary school at 8 p. m.

The council's proposal to annex surrounding territory earlier this year was rescinded when 35 village and township tax-payers expressed their disapproval of the move.

"Tonight's meeting is being called to order in the multi-purpose room, instead of the village hall so as to have room for the attending factions—both pro-annexation and con-annexation," village President Worth Hitchcock stated.

Hitchcock added, "both sides of the annexation situation will be heard and weighed before the council reaches a decision."

Annexation was brought in to the village political light again two weeks ago when Ted Creque, township president and businessman, addressed the council objecting to a move he claimed was underway, to incorporate another village at the present north boundry of Holly.

Those taking a stand against annexation have pointed out that Holly serves only 25 per cent of the residents with sewer service, and no further progress can be made until a a new disposal unit is constructed, according to the State Water Resources Commission.

Village residents have voted down bond proposals to construct a new sewage disposal plant. Surrounding residents claim that if they are annexed into the village they will do nothing but merely add to the cost of the sewer system the village has put off for years.

Pro-annexation folk claim that the village taxes would not be as much for those affected as they are paying for garbage disposal now.

If annexed the area would immediately gain village police and fire protection, along with street lights and garbage collection.

Councilman Paul Cohee, said at the last meeting, "we have very few suitable building sites remaining within the present village limits—we must expand if we hope to have Holly keep pace with the times."

Says Printed Matter Is Public's Clean-Up Hitter

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (UP)—Dean Wesley C. Clark of Syracuse University's journalism shcool says the printed page is still the most effective medium for telling a story.

Speaking at the New York State Bankers School of Public Relations, Clark said television, radio, speeches and various kinds of community relations all have their place in conveying messages to the public.

"But the clean-up hitter, to borrow a phrase from baseball, is the printed word," he added.

The school, with a 64-hour intensive curriculum, is designed "to afford bankers a practical understanding of what public relations is and how it may be effectively applied."

Judge H. Russel Holland passed sentence on Carr, who was found guilty by a jury Oct. 19 in Oakland County Circuit Court. He was arrested for obtaining $250 from Simon Nern of Oak Park on a promise to landscape Nern's property.

Oregon or Jail, Prisoner Prefers One-Way Ticket

Judge H. Russel Holland Monday issued an invitation to leave Pontiac to a defendant in Oakland County Circuit Court.

He told Boyd Ferguson, 40, of 106 Gladstone Place, "if you go to Oregon, you'll be just the right distance from Pontiac."

Ferguson, arrested Oct. 11 for the third time on a drunk and disorderly charge, told the judge he wanted to go to Oregon. Judge Holland said he would suspend the one-year sentence in Oakland County Jail if Ferguson produced a ticket to the western state.

Censure Group Prejudiced–Joe

McCarthy Says Watkins, Two Other Committee Members Were Biased

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) today hurled a "prejudice" charge at Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) and two other members of a special six-man committee which has recommended that McCarthy be censured for certain of his actions as a senator.

This was the first time McCarthy has leveled a bias accusation directly at members of the censure committee, although he has indicated he felt Chairman Watkins and Senators Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) and Ervin (D-NC) were against him. In his charge today, he mentioned only Watkins by name.

Watkins could not be reached immediately for comment.

With the climactic Senate debate on censure less than two weeks away, McCarthy made public a letter to Watkins in which he said:

"It is now unquestioned that three members of the committee, including yourself, indicated prejudice toward me before you were selected to act on that committee and failed to tell the vice president of your statement in that regard before he appointed you to this committee.

"This would appear to be a deliberate deception of the vice president and a fraud upon the Senate which obviously intended that an unprejudiced committee be appointed."

The special committee of three Republicans and three Democrats returned a report Sept. 27 recommending unanimously that the Senate publicly reprimand McCarthy on grounds that he showed contempt for a Senate elections subcommittee which investigated his financial and other affairs in 1952; that he used "vulgar" language about a member of that elections group; and that he abused Army Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker at an Investigations subcommittee hearing. The Senate is to reconvene Nov. 8 to consider the recommendations.

Balloon Continues in Use Despite High-Flying Jets

WASHINGTON (UP) — While jet-propelled craft have set awesome altitude records in recent years, an older asd gentler method of ascent—the balloon—continues to be used.

As far back as the 13th century the balloon was regarded as a workable means of air transport. The idea was first put to practical use in 1783 when the Montgolfiers of France filled a linen bag with heated air form a fire and released it.

Hydrogen also was first used in 1783 when Jean Francois Pilatre de Rozier, the first man to ascend, employed it to soar to 3,000 feet.

Less than 90 years later, in 1862, the stratosphere was being entered by two Englishmen, Glaisher and Coxwell.

In 1934, a hydrogen-filled balloon, dubbed the Explorer I, rose to 60,613 feet over South Dakota with Maj. William E. Kepner, Capt. Orvil A. Anderson and the late Capt. Albert W. Stevens as crewmen.

Eleven and a half miles up, the bag tore, and the balloon dropped toward the earth. The occupants rode the 3,000,000-cubic-foot bag to within a half mile of the earth and bailed out just before it exploded.

In 1935, Explorer II, 700,000 cubic feet larger than its predecessor, carried Anderson and Stevens to 72,395 feet, over 13½ miles.

Man did not go beyond this height until 1951 when a Navy Skyrocket plane went to 79,000 feet. Another Skyrocket, piloted by Marine Lt. Col. Marion E. Carl, climbed to 83,235 feet in August, 1953.

The highest over-all ascent yet made by a balloon, without a passenger, is 136,000 feet, just short of 26 miles. This was attained on Oct. 4, 1949, at Swarthmore, Pa.

Joey has been in Louisiana Training Institute for the past three weeks. A storm of protest followed his commitment.

Would You Vote Against a Child Safety Program and the Underprivileged?

Someday ask the man running against

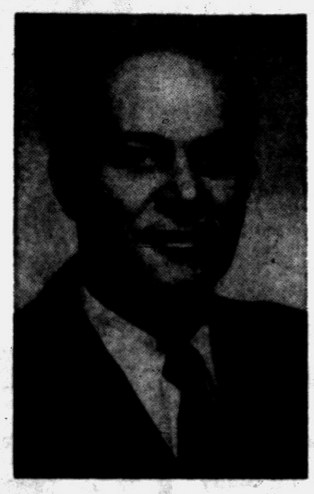

Fred Elias, Democrat

Candidate for State Senator, Nov. 2nd how he voted on the famous FEPC bill. This is the bill to assure every man and woman of fair employment practices. (If he doesn't tell you, we will.)

But if you want to watch him squirm ask how he voted on House Bill No. 125.

For your information, this was a law to safeguard the life and health of all school children. It was simply a law providing that before any building could be used for educational purposes it had to pass a state inspection. Some people felt our kiddies needed this protection. But ask the man who crows so loudly about legislative experience why he voted as he did. *See answer at bottom.

Don't you think it's time to send a man to Lansing who will represent all of the people instead of following the bosses orders?

FRED ELIAS is the man

A vote for Elias, Democrat for State Senator, Nov. 2nd is a vote for progress!

Test-Tube Tots Raise Problems

Chicago Bar and AMA Ponder Legal, Moral, Medical Questions

CHICAGO (INS) — The Chicago Bar Association today will open an exhaustive hearing into medical, moral and legal problems raised by "test-tube babies."

Both doctors and lawyers called the question of fatherless babies "more common and widespread in this country than you would think."

Questions of adultery, legitimacy, inheritance and legality are raised by the practice of artificial insemination, they said.

The bar group ordered the hearing because, a spokesman said, "there is no law in any state to guide either court or doctor."

The American Medical Association immediately asked to sit in on the study and said the practice of artificial insemination is "no longer a novel procedure," adding:

"However, little can be said about it because the aspects remain unexplored."

An AMA study conducted just before World War II revealed at least 10,000 cases of babies born through artificial insemination means. The AMA said the figure had undoubtedly grown since then but was unable to make an estimate of the current figure.

One Chicago doctor recently admitted performing 200 to 300 such inseminations. Two test-tube baby cases are now pending in Chicago's Superior Court.

Charles C. Cooley, a lawyer with extensive maternity law experience who will be cochairman of the hearings, said he has asked the courts to "face the insemination issue squarely and rule whether it constitutes adultery."

Cooley added:

"The number of these cases is incredible. No one can guess how many there have been in the last 10 or 15 years."

Tallulah, Groucho, Ben Hecht Prove Insults Form Backbone of Humor

By EDDIE CANTOR

Insults are responsible for giving comedians big convertibles, swimming pools, trips to Las Vegas, and in some instances, heavy alimony for their ex-partners. Insults provide material for hundreds of columns, they are highlighted in the biographies of famous people, and—believe it or not, insults form the very backbone of truly great humor.

When Prime Minister of England Lloyd George was making a public speech, a heckler shouted, "Listen to him! His father used to drive a wagon led by a donkey." Lloyd George calmly replied, "Yes, that's true. And today my father and the wagon are gone, but I see we still have the donkey with us."

When Ben Hecht was offered a job by a certain Hollywood producer who told Hecht his company made the best pictures in the industry, Ben replied, "I've seen your pictures, and the heroes are not on the screen. They're in the audience."

I think I could relate a hundred Dorothy Parker stories, but the one I like best concerns her visit for the weekend to the country estate of some acquaintances. Boors. Dorothy sent the following telegram to a friend, "Please send me a loaf of bread—and enclose a saw and file."

There are certain dramatic critics in this country who can wither you with one line in a review. Like the one on the Denver Post who reviewed a certain actor's performance in these words: "So and so played Hamlet. He played it until eleven-thirty." End of review.

Groucho Marx, the insolent insulter of television, radio or wherever he is, once said to a hostess, on leaving, "I had a wonderful evening—but this isn't it."

And there was the time on his own quiz show when Groucho Marx asked an elderly contestant, "Has any exciting thing ever happened to you?" The man answered, "Well, I once shook hands with President Coolidge." "Answer my question," snapped Groucho.

Tallulah Bankhead, at the Stork Club one night, spoke about a certain female who had just entered. "Two things I can't stand about that woman—her face."

I do not consider myself miserly. I spend when I have to, but I don't throw away my money like certain actors by the name of Jessel. Georgie thinks I'm really tough. He once told a group at the Friars' Club, "Cantor is the only fellow who, when he gets off the train at Albuquerque, sells blankets to the Indians."

This, of course, is not true. However I have been supplying them with beads for a number of years. I don't insult Jessel; I like him too much. Besides, I never kick a man when he's down.

Exhumation Hearing Set in Beach Case

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A hearing will be held Nov. 10 on whether to exhume the body of well-to-to manufacturer Fitch H. Beach, who a relative says was poisoned.

Municipal Judge Angus McLeod set the hearing date yesterday after Fred Bech of Chicago, cousin of the dead man, submitted a petition for exhumation in which he swore his cousin died of poison.

Fitch Beach died April 9, 1952. Dr. William E. Hoffer signed a death certificate stating that the cause of death was cancer.

Federal Study Asked on Port Huron Smoke

LANSING (AP) — Atty Gen. Frank G. Millard today asked the state department to include Port Huron in a survey of air pollution in the Detroit area.

Millard said the state department now has before it complaints covering pollution of the metropolitan area from Canadian sources and th Port Huron residents have complained also that air pollution from the Sarnia industrial area was "seriously affecting the eyes of the people of Port Huron."

The attorney general said he acted after being advised that the complaint was made to Gov. Williams four months ago.

WHAT INTERESTS Want to Move the Court House Location?

Why is a change in the location of the Oakland County Court House even considered? Who determines the locations of such important government offices? Were the people ever given an opportunity to express their wishes? Who would provide and pay for public transportation to the proposed location?

WOULD THE INTERESTS OF THE MAJORITY OF THE PEOPLE BEST BE SERVED by moving the court house location to the suburban service center? Time involved in connection with legal work by attorneys is paid for by the client. County built buildings, parking lots and additional buildings are also paid for by the people in taxes. To add the costs of providing transportation would also add to expenses of those who must do business with the offices and courts housed by the legal center of the county government. Moving the location of the center seems inconsistent with their best interests.

WHY IS A CHANGE IN LOCATION CONTEMPLATED? The established County Seat is and has been Pontiac. The county has spent considerable funds in developing the downtown offices they now have including the jail the many offices housed in the old Masonic building, the court house annex and garage. Are these to be abandoned and new office buildings erected to house them at the new location? What is the cost of carrying out such a program to the taxpayers? What would be spent in the interim in time and transportation by county officials and the public in running back and forth?

IS THE ACTIVITY AND BUSINESS OF THE COURTS and other legal county offices located in a court house in keeping with the placid, ideal atmosphere now existing at the service center for the Hospital, Children's Home, Infirmary and Social Service Departments? How would re-establishing a prisoner detention building fit into this grouping? Other things should be given more consideration than an existing heating system built many years ago.

IS THERE REALLY A LACK OF PARKING NEAR THE PRESENT COURT HOUSE SITE? From the extensive surveys made only a few months back on parking in the downtown area there seems to be ample facilities both public and private to accommodate those who desire it. Within half a block of the present court house are six privately owned parking lots. The newly created Municipal parking lot is only three blocks away! Why then a move for lack of this convenience? Have the committeemen who foster a location change really gone to the people for an expression of opinion about this move?

Before you vote for the Tax Millage Addition proposal give serious thought to these questions!

Motorists May Soon See Red at Stop Signs

WASHINGTON (UP)—Motorists may soon be seeing red at stop-signs—instead of the familiar yellow.

The National Joint Committee on Uniform Traffic Control Devices has recommended that the yellow stop signs at traffic intersections be replaced by red signs with white, reflectorized lettering.

The committee, which sets standards for traffic signs, also recommended:

1. That a "yield right of way" sign be used at intersections where a full stop is not required. It would be a yellow triangle pointing downward.

2. That warning signs be set farther ahead of danger points.

3. That the bottom of signs in rural areas be at least five feet from the ground.

Bridge Nurses Like 'He-Men'

Trio at Mackinac Are on Call 24 Hours a Day to Patch Up Workers

ST. IGNACE (AP)—"Bridge men are real he-men. That's why we like our job," says Mrs. Isabelle Hagen, one of three nurses assigned to patch up construction workers on the Straits of Mackinac bridge project.

It's a 24-hour job.

Mrs. Hagen and Mrs. Helen Kramer, both of St. Ignace, and Mrs. Phyllis Tuck of Cedarville, are based in a remodeled passenger bus on the bridge causeway. The vehicle is parked next to the constractors' main office for quick relay of emergency calls.

"We've got to be ready to travel out there anytime," Mrs. Hagen explains, adding that the bus is stationary but the first aid crew is always on the go.

"After the first time I had to go out, I'm now completely ready," she says. Mrs. Hagen's work clothes for outdoor emergency calls are a pair of man's size coveralls.

"They don't look nice, but they keep me warm," she says.

One of her first ventures out on the chill straits construction project was in answer to the emergency call for Frank Pepper, the job's lead diver, who suffered a fatal attack of the bends.

Mrs. Hagen and others spent several hours in the decompression chamber fighting a futile battle to save Pepper's life.

Back at the emergency room it's difficult to sense the nearness of serious injury or disaster for the construction gang. A pot of coffee, bubbling cheerily in the sterile white bus, steams a fragrant welcome to anyone who wanders in.

The bus houses an X-ray machine, short wave diathermy equipment and a stand-by bunk where severely injured workers rest until an ambulance from St. Ignace Hospital arrives.

Mary Martin So Good This Old Slob Slobbers

Puts On the Bite for Teeth Lost During Surgery

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Harry J. Lipset says the last time he saw his false teeth was just before he underwent a surgical operation at Los Angeles General Hospital last July 27.

He filed a claim against the County Board of Supervisors yesterday for $5,450 and said persistent questioning of hospital personnel while he was convalescing failed to disclose any clue to the teeth.

The county counsel said Lipset can't put the bite on the county, however, because there are no teeth in state laws governing such claims.

Trial Deferred Pending Psychiatrist's Examination

The trial of W. Jerome Smith, 58, of 14645 Dixie Highway, Holly, was deferred Monday when his attorney asked to have the defendant examined by a psychiatrist.

Smith appeared Monday in Oakland County Circuit Court before Judge H. Russel Holland for arraignment on a charge of malicious destruction of property. He is accused of smashing some $50 worth of items in the Church of the Shrine of the Little Flower, Royal Oak, on Oct. 7.

Map Maker Gets Lost

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—Harvey Roesler, editor of a monthly publication of an American Legion post here, decided a map to the site of the post's picnic would be a good idea for the house organ. Everyone arrived at the picnic grounds without trouble, except Roesler. He took a wrong turn and wound up miles out of his way.

Lanza Claims Excess Weight Due to Finances

Editor's Note — Mario Lanza's own story—for the first time, the fabulous tenor tells in his own words the whole story about his battles with MGM, his two-year retirement, his fat problem, his tangled finances, his way of living, his plan for the future. The colorful story will be reported in three articles by Bob Thomas.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Two years ago, Mario Lanza, a Philadelphia boy with a golden voice, was on easy street.

His film "The Great Caruso" was one of the top money makers of all times. He earned $1,100,000 in one year, more than half of it from phonograph records. He was the hottest property in show business.

Today at 33, he is in debt to the United States government and has virtually no savings. He is faced with the job of rebuilding a career that has been at a standstill for 24 months.

What happened? How did he get into such poor shape, both financially and physically? That's what I aimed to find out.

Before you shed any tears over Lanza's plight, let me add that he is living very well in a huge mansion with his pretty wife Betty, his four children and a crew of servants. He has been eating well too, and that has been one of his troubles.

"Look!" said Mario, stripping off his dark blue sport shirt. He flexed the muscles in his huge chest.

"Is that fat? No, not on your life. That's muscle. I've always had a 50-inch chest, no matter what kind of shape I was in. It's just this I've got to get rid of—and I'm making rapid progress." He patted the spare tire around his belly, which is still considerable.

He is touchy about his weight problem, but he denied reports that he was addicted to spaghetti and other Italian dishes. "It is not the pasta that gives me trouble," he said. "I am a great steak man."

Why did he eat himself into such size?

He said it was because of the emotion problems that beset him. One of the major causes was disillusionment over his finances. He claims his money frittered away because of handling by his former manager, Sam Weiler. Weiler denies it. The courts will decide who is right.

Lanza said he was also upset by his troubles with his studio, MGM. These started after "The Great Caruso."

"We had hit a high mark with that picture," he said, "and I wanted to maintain that quality. But when I reported for work, I found out they wanted me to star in an Army picture, 'Because You're Mine.'

"Who wanted to see an Army picture? People were tired of war. I tried to tell the producer that. But he just said, 'I know show business; you need a change of pace.'"

Lanza did the picture and it was not a success. His relations with MGM worsened. After he failed to report for the start of "Student Prince," the studio slapped a five-million-dollar damage suit on him. The suit was later settled and his voice was used in the film.

"I couldn't work for a year and a quarter," he said. "I even had to give up my radio show for Coca Cola. They had offered me a fabulous deal to sign up on a long-term contract and be their ambassador throughout the world.

"Sure, I had my troubles. They printed all kinds of lies about me, but I never answered them. I have never believed in washing dirty linen for the public view.

"I got fat. But you'll notice I never paraded myself in public.

He'll make his second TV appearance on "Shower of Stars" this Thursday. He'll sing a "Tosca" aria and "Some Day" and you can bet your boots that no recordings will be used.

Tomorrow: How Lanza plans to rebuild his career. His tangled finances.

STARS AT LUNCH—Popular screen stars Fred MacMurray, and his wife, June Haver, are pictured enjoying a quiet lunch at a restaurant in Hollywood, Calif.

Buckeyes Get Nod Over Oklahoma in Poll

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK (AP) — Ohio State's Buckeyes, a collection of football players with roses in their eyes and mayhem in their hearts, have earned the designation as the No. 1 college team in America in the opinion of the nation's sports writers and broadcasters.

By crushing Wisconsin, 31-14 last Saturday while Oklahoma was sliding listlessly through to a 21-0 decision over Kansas State, the Buckeyes moved in front of the Oklahoma team that had been on top of The Associated Press ranking poll for three straight weeks.

It was a close decision, made by 214 writers and broadcasters participating in this week's poll, with three unbeaten and untied teams almost winding up in a deadlock.

Oklahoma collected 10 more first place votes than Ohio State, 74-64, but the Bucks edged ahead on the second-place ballots, of which 69 went to Ohio State and only 49 to the Sooners.

The final count, on the usual 10-9-8 etc., basis, gave Ohio State 1858 points and Oklahoma 1834. UCLA, with 45 firsts, was right behind with 1800 points and the surprising Arkansas team fourth with 1,351.

Ohio State, fourth last week, impressed the voters by the decisive way it disposed of Wisconsin, which had been ranked second to Oklahoma a week ago.

Meanwhile, Oklahoma, winning its fifth straight game, didn't have to extend itself against Kansas State and this lacklustre performance apparently was reflected in the voting. UCLA, which walloped Oregon State 61-0, polled a much higher vote than it did a week ago in retaining third place.

Arkansas, a "team of Destiny" which came from nowhere to take the Southwest Conference lead and then knocked Mississippi from the ranks of the unbeaten, jumped from 7th to 4th place in the rankings; Army from 9th to 5th, and West Virginia from 10th to 7th.

Newcomers to the top 10 were Purdue and Miami, rated 13th and 16th in the point scoring a week ago. They replaced Mississippi, loser to Arkansas, and Minnesota, which took a 34-0 beating from Michigan.

Michigan just missed a spot among the 10 leaders, polling 344 points to 369 for Miami, whose 9-7 Friday-night victory over Maryland, last year's national champion, made the voters aware of the fact that the Hurricanes are unbeaten in five games.

Wavered Only Once

Burnham, Injured Star Quarterback at Wheaton, Rejected 45 Scholarships

By JOE MOOSHIL

WHEATON, Ill. (AP) — Dave Burnham, a star quarterback who turned down 45 football college scholarships, says preaching The Gospel to children is more satisfying than any sports page writeup.

Burnham, 20, who ran and passed for 900 yards at Wheaton last year, broke his shinbone Saturday in leading Wheaton to a 27-6 victory over Lake Forest. Burnham, rated an honorable mention on the Little All America team, will be out for the rest of the season.

Lying in a hospital with his left leg in a cast, Burnham smiled as he talked about some of the offers he received after a fabulous sports career at Buchtel high in Akron, Ohio.

"My father and I added up 45 scholarship offers, some verbal and some by letter, before we stopped counting," Burnham said. "I received offers from such schools as Ohio State, Yale, Columbia, Southern Methodist, Michigan and Florida."

Burnham, however, turned them all down and decided to pay his own way in order to prepare himself for the ministry at Wheaton. His father, Carl Burnham, is pastor of the chapel at Brown and Vine in Arkon.

"Ever since I was a little kid, visiting ministers would talk about Wheaton as the only Christian college which had a good intercollegiate sports program, especially football. When I was 12, I decided to be a minister and I found Wheaton offered everything I needed in that field," he said.

Only once did he waver and that was when scouts approached him after he won all-state honors and football and basketball and started in a high school all star football game.

"One of the schools," said Dave, "offered to put me through medical school and even to set me up in practice after graduation. But I felt called to the ministry and decided on Wheaton."

START OF KNOCKDOWN — Ernie Durando of Bayonne, N. J. (right) throws a left that sent Bobby Dykes of Miami, Fla., reeling in the 8th round of their bout in Milwaukee last night. Seconds later, Dykes went down for the count of eight. Durando won the 10-round middleweight contest on a split decision.

'Doc' Blanchard Still Is Popular at 'Point'

NEW YORK (AP)—It has been eight years since Doc Blanchard played football at West Point but the famous "Mr. Inside" has lost none of his crowd appeal.

Col. Earl (Red) Blaik, coach of the Army team then and now, relates a story that shows the great fullback has not been forgotten:

"We were getting on the bus to leave the Point, and there was a group of high school boys watching the Army team. Blanchard, who coaches our Plebes now, walked up and the kids all went toward him and said, 'You're Doc Blanchard aren't you?' He stole the play from the Army team." Blaik appeared pleasantly miffed.

"That's just balancing things up," another said. "When Blanchard was the Army fullback, he stole the play from a lot of other teams."

Blanchard, and his equally great running-mate, Glenn Davis, comprised the Army offense during the 1944-45-46 seasons. Blanchard scored 38 touchdowns, gained 1908 yards and had a 6.4 yard a carry average in the 3 years.

At International Falls, Minn., they're still talking Nagurski. It's only natural—Bronko, the former Minnesota All-American and Chicago Bears great, has a 16-year-old son who is someone to reckon with. Junior is a 6-1, 210-pound tackle for his high school. "I think he's a good high school player," said the proud father, "and a good competitor—but he still has a long way to go."

Mother says Bronko Jr. should go to Notre Dame. "The Bronk" prefers Minnesota.

Florida is a land of sunshine. So the State University football team plays a good many of its football games at night. Since 1949 the Gators have played 12 major games under the lights and won only two. This season the club has played—and lost—three at night to Rice, Clemson and LSU. The three victories on the Florida record all came in the bright sunshine.

League-Leading Canucks Boast 3 Top Scorers

Geoffrion, the 'Rocket,' Mosdell Hold Top Slots in Point Standings

MONTREAL (AP)—League-leading Montreal Canadiens have a monopoly among the leading scorers in the still-young National Hockey League season today with Bernie Geoffrion, Maurice Richard and Ken Mosdell jammed together in the top three positions.

Geoffrion, in his 5th season with Montreal, is tops in the league with seven goals, and his four assists give him the leading total of 11 points. Richard, the NHL's all-time scoring leader, and Mosdell are 2nd and 3rd with 10 and 9 points, respectively.

Gordie Howe of the Detroit Red Wings, scoring champion for the past four seasons, and teammate Ted Lindsay share 4th place with Don Raleigh of the New York Rangers. Each has eight points. Raleigh and Richard are tied for the lead in assists with seven each.

Raleigh made the biggest jump in the past week. Seven days ago he had only one assist and hadn't scored a goal.

Jacques Plante of the Canadiens is the leading goalie on an average basis, allowing 17 goals in nine games for a 1.89 mark. Detroit's Terry Sawchuk is 2nd on a 2.14 average with 15 goals in seven games.

Pontiac Woman Downs Pheasant With an Arrow

Never underestimate a woman

If men make the best hunters, the news never reached Myrna Coudy, of 170 North Opdyke, Pontiac.

While husband Gene and Ted Mach, 2240 Indianwood Road, Lake Orion, hunted near Capac, Mich. Saturday with bird dogs and shotguns, Myrna went on a shopping expedition.

Upon returning to an empty house Myrna spied a bow and arrow and decided to do a little hunting herself, expecting to kill nothing more than a little time.

Familiar with a bow and arrow but inexperienced as a hunter, Myrna gave the old college try when sighting a pheasant in flight and luckily hit it in the head for a perfect hunting average, 1 for 1.

When the two men hunters returned empty-handed after a hard day's effort, Myrna suggested they try a bow and arrow next time.

You Be the Quarterback

By Warren Gaer
Head Football Coach
Drake University

By WARREN GAER

Detroit trails Marquette, 14-13, with four minutes to go. It is Detroit's ball, 4th down and five on their own 25-yard line.

At the half the Titans had a 13-6 lead, but Marquette, changing its offense to a split-T at intermission, has come back to dominate the game in the 3rd and 4th quarters and has twice marched the length of the field for touchdowns.

In the 2nd half Detroit has gained ground with some consistency from the straight-T formation, but the Titan offense has bogged down in pay dirt. After receiving a punt on this series of downs, Detroit has thrown two incomplete passes and gained five yards when the passer, back to throw, chose to run.

As the Detroit quarterback, rate these choices, 1, 2, 3 and 4 for this spot:

Fake pass and run
Long forward pass
Button hook pass (receiver turns, catches ball).
Punt

Spartans Miss Day of Rest

Daugherty Sends MSC Squad Through Rough Scrimmage Monday

EAST LANSING (AP) — Michigan State, a disappointed football loser to Purdue, has started readying for a loser's meeting with Minnesota, a team even more badly beaten in the 34-0 shutout by Michigan.

"This may be a day off for some teams," coach Duffy Daugherty told his players at practice Monday, "but it'll be a working day for us.

"Our offense didn't do too bad," commented Daugherty as a last post mortem on the Purdue game, "but then our defense let us down."

Two units made up of the best of the MSC freshmen were called to duty on the practice field. After some preliminary group work, the varsity was thrown against the freshmen in a rough house offensive and defensive scrimmage.

Left half Leroy Bolden was kept out of the scrimmage after he ran full tilt into the practice fence while chasing a receiver in a pass defense drill.

Ferris Hallmark, the senior starting guard from Flint, will be out for the season because of a shoulder separation suffered in Saturday's game.

The 33-night meeting, sponsored by the Jackson Harness association, will end Saturday night.

Great Against Iowa, Minn.

Michigan Line Is Secret to Wolverine Success

By JOHN BARBOUR

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The backs don't go anywhere unless the line opens up for them.

That's one football maxim that Michigan can't get around. Twice this season Michigan's line has come through. Two other times it gave a passable performance.

Once, it was disgraceful.

Jack Blott's forward walls have a solid reputation in the Big Ten. Against Washington and Northwestern that reputation suffered. When Michigan met Army it didn't look like a Blott line — more like a blotted line.

But in games against Iowa and Minnesota, the Michigan line was the hard-charging margin of victory. Although Minnesota's line was heavier, and reputedly just as fast, the Michigan linemen pushed them all over the field.

Earlier in the season, however, Michigan's line had suffered the way Minnesota's did Saturday. Why the change?

Besides the obvious fact that the line was in the best physical shape since Iowa, there is one other important factor.

That factor was obvious the Tuesday before the game. Michigan was dead serious in practice sessions where the linemen ground their shoulders into their teammates with as much vigor as they did during the game.

The Michigan line got the drop on Minnesota. It jumped when the ball was centered, not the split second afterwards. That added thrust is what wins football games.

One example was clearly apparent when a Minnesota back appeared to break loose from Michigan's defenders. Suddenly, sophomore end Ron Kramer grabbed the head of the running back, but the Minnesota player wiggled free and staggered about three steps.

Meanwhile, the force of the drive left Kramer sprawling, five feet behind the Minnesota back. In the time it took the Minnesota back to regain his balance, Kramer had picked himself up and was in on the final tackle.

California Racing Eyes New Ruling

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—A committee of three stewards has been appointed by the California Horse Racing Board to draft legislation that would obviate the possibility of a horse being entered in a race merely for training purposes.

The action was taken in line with the suspension of Andy Crevolin, owner of Determine and Imbros, for remarks published in a turf magazine quoting him as saying he didn't always race his horses to win, especially 2-year-olds.

Boudreau Says Ted Williams Will Play With Bosox in '55

CHICAGO, (AP)—Ted Williams will still be hitting home runs for the Boston Red Sox next year and Forest Evashevski will continue in his present role as head football coach at Iowa, the Chicago Quarterback Club was told yesterday.

Lou Boudreau, ousted manager of the Boston Red Sox, said Williams has talked it over with Tom Yawkey, Boston owner, and will return to baseball in 1955.

Williams announced his retirement from the game at the close of the season.

"I understand he has all of his baseball equipment for the 1955 season and is all set for spring practice," said Boudreau.

Boudreau said stories about ill feelings existing between himself and Williams were "absolutely false."

Another speaker at the luncheon was Iowa Athletic Director Paul Brechler who told the Monday quarterbacks that Iowa hopes to keep Evashevski and all its coaches "for a long time."

"I certainly don't like reports that Evy is going to be at Michigan," Brechler said.

"It is flattering to have somebody offer jobs to our coaches," he said. "That's something that has not happened too often at Iowa."

Saddler Still Ignoring NBA Ring Ultimatum

Told to Defend Title, Sandy Shops Around for Exhibitions

PARIS (AP)—World featherweight champion Sandy Saddler, still turning his back on a National Boxing Assn. order to defend his crown "or else," is looking for some more nontitle bouts in Europe today after disposing of France's Ray Famechon in an over-the-weight match.

The 28-year-old New Yorker said he simply wasn't worried about the NBA ultimatum—not if he could line up some money-making matches in Europe. He added, however, the hoped for schedule might include a title bout, but only if the purse was satisfactory.

Saddler's manager, Charley Johnston, already has talked over the possibilities of such a schedule with British promoter Jack Solomons.

Saddler had little trouble with Famechon, the European feather champ, last night and was well ahead on points when the Frenchman's handlers refused to let him answer the sixth-round bell.

There were no knockdowns in last night's bout, but Saddler had Famechon against the ropes several times. Saddler threw most of the heavy blows in the scrap, which had most of the emphasis on in-fighting.

State Man Wins International Billiard Title

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Harold Worst of Grand Rapids, Mich., won the international three-cushion billiard tournament last night in the final game. Worst ran out the game in 48 innings.

The Michigan star completed the tournament with 16 points on eight victories and two defeats. Navarra had 14 points with a 7-3 performance.

Sponsors of the tournament dropped plans for an extra 350-point match between the two leaders after Worst reportedly demanded $10,000.

Third place went to Juan Navarra of Argentina.

Bratton Loses to Varona in Another Poor TV Bout

NEW YORK (AP)—Is Johnny Bratton through at 27 or was it only ring rust?

Bratton, 155¼, blamed last night's losing performance against Chico Varona, 150¼, on an eight-month layoff following a suspension after his Feb. 24 "stinker" with Johnny Saxton at Philadelphia.

Many of the 1,500 spectators who paid $2,012 at St. Nicholas Arena thought the former NBA champ simply didn't have it any more. In any event, he postively didn't have it last night.

For one brief flurry in the third round, the Bratton of old battered the stocky Cuban around the ring. That was it. Except for a dying gasp rally in the 10th, Bratton never took charge again. He lost by unanimous decision.

"I can fight Varona in a month and knock him out," said Bratton in his dressing room. "You can't lay off eight months and fight. I lost him in the third because I was stale. I only trained two weeks for the fight."

Bratton won't be seen in a New York ring for a time on the advice of Bob Christenberry, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, who told matchmaker Tex Sullivan he thought Johnny "wasn't ready for this kind of a fight."

Georgia Tech's Opponents Are Using 'Belly Play' to Good Advantage Against Atlanta Engineers

ATLANTA, (AP) — Georgia Tech is beginning to get a bellyache from its "Belly Play."

Football opponents, convinced of the play's effectiveness, are beginning to use Coach Bobby Dodd's bread-and-butter offense against Tech, with telling results.

The two teams which have beaten Tech this year, Florida and Kentucky, used the Belly Play frequently and Dodd thinks it was an important factor in the upsets.

"I think the Belly Play was as strong as any play Florida and Kentucky used against us," Dodd said today. "In fact, every team we've played has used it against us and the rest of our opponents, with the exception of Tennessee, a single-wing team, probably will use it.

"I don't blame them. It's one of the hardest plays to stop. Properly executed, it's good for seven or eight yards every time—and often will let your backs go all the way."

The play, also called the "B" play or the "Belt Buckle" play by some conservatives, is aptly named. To start the play, the quarterback steps to the rear and rams the ball into the fullbacks midsection. Then any one of several things can happen.

The fullback can keep the ball and plow up the middle. Or, after taking a step or two with the fullback, the quarterback can yank the ball back. While the fullback fakes through the middle, a half back can take a handoff and cut off tackle or take a pitchout and swing wide around end. Or the quarterback can keep the ball himself and run or pass. Or he can handoff to a halfback who then passes.

The numerous possibilities are what make the play so difficult to detect and stop.

Dodd doesn't claim credit for originating the play. He got the basic idea from quarterback Eddie LeBaron in 1949 at a college All-Star game. LeBaron had used the play at College of The Pacific. Dodd first used it at Tech in 1951—the inside version. Last year, with several speedy backs, he added the wide wrinkle.

Whitey Posts 43-15 Record for 3 Seasons

Maglie's Mark in NL .699 on 86-37 for 6 Years With Giants

NEW YORK (AP) — Ed (Whitey) Ford, stylish New York Yankees' southpaw, only has three American League seasons under his belt, but he boasts the top lifetime pitching percentage in the major leagues today.

Ford has won 43 and lost 15 for a .741 percentage. In 1950, his freshman season, he had a 9-1 record and then was drafted into the Army for two years.

The 25-year-old hurler returned to the Yanks in 1953 and picked up where he left off with an 18-6 won-lost mark. He posted a 16-8 record in 1954.

Sal (The Barber) Maglie of the New York Giants owns the highest pitching percentage among the active National league pitchers, .699, according to figures compiled by The Associated Press. The crafty righthander has won 86 and dropped 37 in 6 complete seasons with the Giants.

Maglie had a 5-4 slate in 1945, his first full season with the Polo Grounders. He jumped to the Mexican League the following year and wasn't eligible to play in the majors for four seasons.

The 37-year-old curve-ball artist rejoined the Giants in 1950 and proceeded to win 18 and losing but four. He followed that up with 23-6 in '51 and 18-8 in '52. Maglie tapered off in 1953 to an 8-9 mark, but regained his touch in 1954 with 14 victories as against 6 losses.

Cleveland's Mike Garcia ranks second in the American League among pitchers with 50 or more decisions. The Big Bear has accumulated 104 triumphs while losing 57 for a .646 percentage in 6 campaigns with the Indians.

Sandy Consuegra of the Chicago White Sox holds down third with 43-24 for .642. In 1954 the Cuban righthander had the best American League percentage, 16-3, .842.

Cleveland's Bob Lemon is fourth with 163-92 for .639, followed by Mel Parnell of the Boston Red Sox, 114-66, .633 and Bob Feller of the Indians, 262-154, .630.

Vic Raschi of the St. Louis Cardinals is runner-up to Maglie in the National League with 128 victories and 59 defeats for a .684 mark. Raschi was with the Yanks in the American League from 1947-1953, winning 120 and losing 50. In 1954, his first year with the Red Birds, he posted an 8-9 mark.

Brush Burn Is Incongruous Entry in Laurel's Event

By GEORGE BOWEN

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Stanley Mikell, a former garage mechanic, isn't the least bit awed by coming in the back door to crash the sport of kings — or a queen in this case —in Laurel's International race a week from tomorrow.

Mikell, a 39-year-old automobile salesman in Dover, Del., is owner and trainer of Brush Burn, one of the two United States entries for the race which is being graced by Queen Elizabeth's Landau.

He's as aware of the incongruity of it all as well as anybody.

But at the same time he doesn't regard his chances of winning as any joke. "I've been pointing this horse for the International for three years," he says with confidence.

Mikell and the horse are a typical American success story. He never saw a horse race until he was 29 years old.

Five years ago he bought Repetoire (the misspelling is right) for $4,000 at the Saratoga auction sales. "I didn't have any money then, and I had to work hard to scrape up the $4,000," he recalls. Repetoire won more than $150,000 for him and it was some of that money that permitted the purchase of Brush Burn.

At the time, Brush Burn was an untried 2-year-old up for sale by the estate of the late Samuel Riddle.

Brush Burn has earned almost $200,000 and is one of the most consistent United States runners on the grass over which the International will be contested.

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Laurel officials are getting an education in worldwide betting talk through their International horse race scheduled for Nov. 3.

From William Lewis Dawson in distant Johannesburg, South Africa they got this cable asking "how do you make a bet:"

"Please send me the weights and draw for the Washington International race to be run Nov. 3 and also please let me know what type of currency do you require when making settlements to all consultations on your race meetings."

John Schapiro, Laurel's president, also has a cable from the Ethiopian Ras Prince Monolulu, saying he's coming over "to see her most gracious majesty's horse Landau race at Laurel."

Prince Monolulu is a famous character on the lawns of Europe's tracks offering tips with a chant "I got a 'orse." The prince offered Schapiro the opinion that Laurel's International race will bring peace and happiness to the world.

Campy's Negro Stars Down Sacramento Nine

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Roy Campanella's Negro All Stars defeated a Sacramento team here Monday night, 4-0. Joe Black pitched a five-hitter for the winners in an exhibition before 2,003 customers.

The Sacramento group, co-managed by Joe Gordon and Jo Jo White, never got a man to third base and only two as far as second as the Brooklyn righthander struck out six.

Two walks and singles by Junior Gilliam, Orestes Minoso, Bob Trice and Charlie White scored three runs off Johnny Briggs, Sacramento rookie, in the second inning.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) —Second largest crowd ever to see a regular season football game in the Orange Bowl watched Miami beat Maryland last Friday night, a check showed.

The crowd was originally announced as 52,506 but a re-check showed attendance totaled 56,659.

Biggest crowd ever to watch a regular season game was the 61,602 for the Miami-Florida game in 1951.

Constant Improvement

West Virginia's football coach, Art Lewis, has improved his record every year since he started with a 2-8 mark in 1950. In the 1953 season the Mountaineers had an 8-1 mark.

CASE—Shifting Weight in Stride.

How well you finish at the foul line depends on how soundly, or solidly, you have advanced to the third step in four step footwork. We stress the push-away as a vital fundamental, the key to timing.

We emphasize that the start must be a slow, shuffle step. No rush.

But Herbie Lange, former ABC champion, conveys third step solidity, in a straight line, as sketch shows, as the No. 1 point.

What the third step does is, of course, the natural sequence to what No. 1 step did. You must have the push-away of the ball, the first step is to be straight in line.

You'll find, too, that if you let your weight drop into an easy crouch, shoulders down, as the push-away and first step is completed, the swinging ball will take you straight on and through a straight third step.

Try approaching the foul line without a ball, which makes it quite simple to check the third step to see that it's in line. It is practice that will pay off.

Seven-Man Line Is Called Best Defense Against 'T'

By BOB HOOBING

BOSTON (AP) — Former Coach and scout Reggie Brown, still a defensive football genius at 78, maintains a seven-man line is the best way to stop T-formations.

One of the greatest living authorities on grid defenses, Brown points to Holy Cross' 14-13 victory over previously unbeaten Boston University for proof. B.U. is noted for its quick-opening T-attack.

"Did you notice Anderson (Coach Eddie Anderson of Holy Cross) employed a seven-man line all through the game?" asked Brown.

"A seven-man line is the logical defense to use against the T. The trick is to know how to work out the spacing and alignments."

Brown maintains there never has or never will be a football offense which is foolproof.

After scouting at Army from 1919 through 1921, Brown was head coach at Brown University 1922-1925 and Boston University 1926-29. He was an assistant at Holy Cross in the early 1930's, spent a year as line coach of the professional Washington Redskins and later scouted for Denny Meyers at Boston College.

Today he's an informal consultant for coaches who want it in his "football room" line with file cabinets containing what he claims is the best grid information collection in existence.

AL Owners Meet Again on Fate of A's

Must Approve of Reject Bid From Syndicate

Purchasing Group Will Buy Macks' Stock on Following Day

By TOM BRADSHAW

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The long-drawn-out drama of the Philadelphia Athletics and their future today was in rehearsal for the latest act to come—a meeting of American League owners at Chicago Thursday.

At that meeting, called by League President Will Harridge, the club owners will be asked to approve or reject the sale of the Philadelphia franchise to an eight-man syndicate. But that won't ring down the curtain.

The following day the syndicate members are scheduled to meet with Roy Mack, his brother, Earle, and their father, Connie Mack Sr., to exchange nearly $4,000,000 for all but a 1-9 share of the A's stock.

There is every reason to believe the stock-cash transfer will all but end the play.

However, the A's tragi-comedy has been extended so many times beyond the expected final curtain that it's anybody's guess whether there will be further postponements, delays or what have you.

Here's how matters now stand:

Yesterday, the eight members of the syndicate put in a hectic afternoon in a meeting which was supposed to complete the deal as per a clause in the preliminary purchase agreement. That stipulated that the sale was to be consummated by 2 p.m. (EST) yesterday.

The syndicate members said they didn't want to hand over their money to the Macks until the league had put the stamp of approval on them and their offer for the franchise.

When the delay in league approval became known, the syndicate began efforts to have Roy agree to an extension. Earle and Connie Sr. had agreed to the extension previously. But Roy hedged.

After the late afternoon portion of the meeting, Roy took a 1-hour recess to confer with his attorney. Then he came back and announced he was willing to give the eight syndicate members until 3 p.m., EST, Friday to turn over the cash and accept receipt of the stock.

At one point in the earlier session, newsmen sitting in an ante room could plainly hear syndicate members voicing strong disapproval of Roy's attitude.

At that stage the franchise seemed closer to Kansas City than it had since Arnold Johnson, Chicago businessman, walked away from a league meeting in Chicago Oct. 13 under the impression he had bought the A's franchise to move it to the Missouri City.

Colorado Leads Sooners in Big Seven Statistics

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Oklahoma is the only undefeated team in the Big Seven Conference, but statistically the once-beaten Colorado Buffaloes still are No. 1.

Colorado leads the conference in total offense, averaging 390.6 yards per game for a total of 2,344 yards in six games. Oklahoma has made 1,775 yards in five.

The Buffaloes lead in all conference statistics except pass completions and pass receptions. They meet Oklahoma at Boulder, Saturday.

Missouri's Vic Eaton has connected successfully on 18 of 35 attempted passes for 245 yards.

Kansas State's fleet halfback, Corky Taylor, displaced Oklahoma end, Max Boydston as pass receiving leader.

Taylor snagged three passes in the Wildcat loss last weekend to the Sooners, bringing his total for the year to 9 receptions and 166 yards gained.

Bruising John Bayuk, Colorado's sophomore fullback, ran for 83 yards against Nebraska last Saturday to remain the conference's leading ball carrier. He has gained 651 yards in 98 carries.

Without scoring against Nebraska, Bayuk retained the individual scoring lead with 42 points.

Cubs' 1955 Roster Numbers 44 Players

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs, short on pitching strength last season when they finished seventh in the National League, Monday listed a fall roster of 44 players.

The group includes 23 newcomers, 12 of them pitchers, 4 outfielders, 3 catchers, 2 infielders and 2 first basemen.

Eight on the list are returning servicemen and this doesn't include Harry Chiti who will be discharged from the service in December and is expected to become the team's first-string catcher next year.

You Be the Quarterback

Answer

4. Fake pass and run. Probably wouldn't work again.

3. Long pass. Some would rate this ahead of the button hook. It could go all the way and would be like a punt if intercepted.

2. Button hook. Best chance of completion. Best chance of retaining ball if you don't kick.

1. Punt. Best call. Pray for a break. But with four minutes to go, even without a break, you can get the ball back again if your defense holds.

Benardi Is Key to Buffs' Hopes

Wingback May Provide Spark in Colorado's Upset Saturday

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Wingback Frank Bernardi, a close-mouthed player aiming for a career in pro football, may be the key to Colorado's chances for an upset of No. 2 ranked Oklahoma in their Big Seven clash here Saturday.

Bernardi, a 175-pound senior from Elmhurst, Ill., is quiet and unassuming but he relishes the more rugged phases of the game.

Bernardi is termed by Coach Dallas Ward as "tops in my book."

Bernardi was one of the few bright spots in Colorado's 20-6 loss to Nebraska last Saturday. He romped 39 yards on his favorite reverse play to set up Carroll Hardy's 24-yard dash for Colorado's lone touchdown.

Titans Seeking to Break Jinx of Marquette 11

UD Out to End String of 5 Straight Losses to Wisconsin Team

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT (AP) — Troubled Marquete faces a new dilemma Friday night when the Warriors tangle with the University of Detroit.

Detroit is gaining momentum after three early season losses, and the Titans—who are taking dead aim on Marquette—expect to have injured halfback Lee Riley back in the lineup.

Since the start of the season, two words have been predominent around the University of Detroit campus: "Beat Marquette!"

The warriors who whipped Detroit five straight times and the Titans, under a new coach, Wally Fromhart, a former Notre Dame star, figure it's about time to end such nonsense.

Detroit lost to Cincinnati, Boston College and the Quantico Marines to start the season. Then the Titans rebounded with victories over Villanova and Tulsa. Marquette has a 1-3-1 record.

"The Marquette game will be our last at home and we want to leave Detroit as a winner," Fromhart says. "It'll be the last home game for nine of our seniors."

Two of these are Riley and Bob Burgmeier. Burgmeier, a converted defensive player from Dubuque, Ia., led the Missouri Valley in scoring last season with 72 points. He is on top again this fall with 30 points.

Riley, a speedster from Schenectady, N. Y., is the faster of the two. He placed 2nd to Burgmeier in scoring last season with 54 points. Riley has three touchdowns this season.

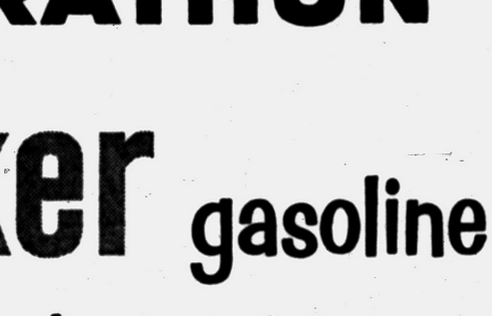

Riley was in only one play last week against Tulsa. He was sent in to punt. It kept alive his streak of playing in 24 consecutive games. Riley has played 1,021 out of a possible 1,440 minutes in his three-year career.

Plain talk from your Marathon Man:

"My new MARATHON
MILE-maker gasoline is the long drink for 'thirsty' cars"

Copyright 1954, The Ohio Oil Company.

IF YOU feel your car has been "gulping" its gas lately . . . MILE-maker is for you.

If you—like so many—take pride in the good mileage you're getting, and like to brag about it . . . MILE-maker is for you, too!

The plain fact of the matter is that because there are more "mile-makers" in every gallon of this new gasoline, it's simply equipped to make more miles!

"Mile-makers"? They're the heat and energy units in a fuel your engine transforms into mileage and power. In physics you called 'em "BTU's." They rate the output of a fuel.

Now, MILE-maker is a heavier gasoline. It actually outweighs most other premiums. More fuel is packed into it. It's heavier because it's more concentrated—containing more BTU's, more "mile-makers" than other gasolines. Your car transforms these into mileage and power. You see, MILE-maker tips the scales in your favor! But if excellent mileage was MILE-maker's only talking point, it wouldn't be the great gasoline it is!

Its octane is the highest in this area . . . and the power waste of engine misfiring caused by deposits is eliminated by a new Marathon additive. I'll tell the world I'm proud to have it in my pumps—the way it starts up, steps out, and stays quiet . . . even when you're hill-climbing a high-compression job.

I think you'll be proud to have it in your car, too.

Why not stop by and let me introduce you to MILE-maker? I'm sure it will be the start of a long friendship.

A friendship of long mileage, that is.

Hal Boyle Says:

'Duffy's Tavern' Provides Rendezvous for Clerics

NEW YORK (AP)— Every occupation or hobby group in Manhattan has its favorite meeting places.

The college crowd holds reunions "under the clock" in the Biltmore Hotel lobby. Actors hang out at the Algonquin, Ralph's and Sardi's.

Outdoor checker players cluster in Washington Square, horseshoe pitchers in Central Park, musicians and pickpockets in Times Square, dog walkers on Park Avenue, professional bums on the Bowery, Army men at the Astor, airmen at the Hotel Lexington, and politicians at the men's bar of the Waldorf.

Clergymen have a rendezvous place, too. They often meet at "Duffy's Tavern"—as many refer to it—across the street from the New York Public Library's famous twin lions at 41st street and Fifth Avenue.

The "tavern" is the clerical department of Rogers Peet Co., a clothing firm. The department has been run for 30 years by Frank Duffy, who probably knows more clergymen than any other man in America. He travels 40,000 miles annually and outfits some 10,000 priests, ministers and rabbis.

"We've taken care of ministers from every corner of the world," said Duffy. Challenged as to whether he could outfit a Buddhist priest properly, he said:

"Certainly, although I don't know what would happen if he went out without trousers and tried to convince the nearest cop he was a priest."

Duffy said clergymen were relatively easy to please because they know what they want (they don't usually bring a wife along) and their styles change slowly.

"They have a wonderful sense of humor," he said, "they enjoy a good joke, and when they meet here they rarely talk about ecclesiastical or political matters.

"The younger clergymen today are taller and more muscular than those of 30 years ago. You run into more and more 6 footers. The average collar size now is 15 to 15½, the coat size from 40 to 42.

"Among Protestant clergymen there is a trend toward more informality. The double breasted suit has taken the place of the long coat for daily wear, and the three-button jacket with natural shoulders is even more popular. The old wide-brimmed hat has given way to the homburg.

"Most clergymen today want to find a sensible compromise somewhere between the broadway drape shape and the out-of-date 'where's-the-corpse?' look."

Orthodox rabbis provide a special problem, as they abide by the Biblical injunction, "thou shalt not wear a mingled stuff, linen and wool together." So Duffy rips apart rabbinical suits, replacing the linen with silk thread, which like wool is an animal fiber.

Duffy estimates he has outfitted more than 30,000 clergymen, has yet to meet a dishonest one. Only death or a long disease has ever kept a clergyman from meeting his bills.

* * *

The only exceptions were six imposters, all of whom, Duffy remarked cheerfully, "went to jail."

The day I visited "Duffy's Tavern" one of his customers was the Most Rev. Paul Yupin, the 6-foot-1 Chinese archbishop of Nanking.

"The Communists have condemned me to death," said Father Yupin, smiling. "Unlike the Japanese did, however, they put no price on my head. All the Communists want is my head—they don't want to pay for it."

Among Duffy's former customers is Pope Pius XII, who bought a topcoat during a trip to the United States when he was Cardinal Pacelli.

Duffy treasures a note sent him by the late Rev. Ambrose Hyland, the famous chaplain who built "The Church of the Good Thief" inside the walls of Dannemora Prison.

"Will you please send me a couple of cassocks for my altar boys?" it read. "One is a 46 long and the other a 44 regular. Both are lifers."

British Dock Strike End Not Yet in Sight

LONDON (AP)—The government looked hopefully today for signs of a mass back-to-work movement to end Britain's paralyzing dock strike. The strike now is in its 23rd day.

Slightly more than 1,000 men resumed work yesterday in London and Hull, and union officials were striving to get the 43,000 workers still out to follow suit. Other big ports hit by the unofficial walkout include Liverpool, Southampton and Birkenhead.

Chief issue in the work stoppage is a demand by the dockers to put overtime work on a voluntary basis.

The government completed plans yesterday for calling out troops to unload ships. Use of troops has been held up in the hope the strike will end soon.

New TV Picture Tube for Color Patented Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ernest O. Lawrence, atomic scientist and director of the University of California's radiation laboratory, was granted a patent today on a new type of color television tube.

Patents Commissioner Robert C. Watson presented the patent in a ceremony at the Commerce Department late last week, but it did not become effective until publication today in the Federal Register.

Lawrence said there is no reason, practical or theoretical, why his tube cannot be made as large as any black and white tube.

The particular feature of his tube, Lawrence said, is the manner in which colors are beamed on the face of the tube and focused there into a picture.

The booklet said the new tube would provide larger color pictures and a more brilliant picture, give a stable color picture because of simplicity of its circuits, give a better, sharper black and white picture, and could be operated with simpler controls.

Clubs Organize County Council

Jack Habel Chairman of Board for Oakland Investment Study Group

Investment education was the keynote sounded last Thursday night when representatives of many of the investment study clubs in this area met at the Pontiac High School to form an Oakland County Council.

The county delegates chose the following for their first board of trustees:

Richard Balmer of the B & B Investment Study Club; Dr. Donald Bergeron, Chieftain Club; David Fulkerson, P. M. Club; Herbert Goodall, representing several Royal Oak clubs; Jack Habel, Club 15; James Jenkins, Pontiac Club; Willie Mallory, Oakland Club; John Thors Jr., Portfolio Club; Kenneth Valentine, Pontiac Engineering Club; Harold Woods, Fifteen-Ten Club. Habel was named temporary chairman of the board.

Vernon Schiller of Pontiac, a member of the national board of trustees, aided in the organizational work of the Oakland Council.

George A. Nicholson Jr., Detroit investment counselor, spoke to the group on the advantages of organizing and planning programs on wise investing.

Nicholson stressed the need for steady investing, not only to provide an income at retirement age, but to offer risk capital to aid in the promotion of industry in this country.

He told of the first club started in Connecticut in 1905, followed by a lull in the interest of such clubs until 1949. From then on, the movement fast gained impetus, but the national association is only three years old, and originated in Detroit. It was organized with but four clubs and now has a membership of 312 groups. Individual membership has shown a comparable growth . . . from 40 to 4,000 . . . and the movement is spreading all over the nation.

Thomas O'Hara, chairman of the board of trustees of the National Association of Investment Clubs, offered help for program planning from the national group. He is a charter member of the original Detroit club.

O'Hara extended an invitation to all members of the more than 40 clubs in Oakland County to attend the annual convention of the national association to be held at the Rackham Bldg. in Detroit Saturday, Oct. 30. The hours of the convention are from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

William Minot Thomas, New York investment analyst, will be one of the speakers. Robert F. Taylor, of American-Midland Corp. also will talk.

Guy S. Peppiatt, president of Federal-Mogul Corp., will describe the steps that have resulted in the company's rapid advance.

Arthur Hudson, assistant comptroller of Chrysler Corp., will also be at the meeting to tell of the company's plans for 1955.

2nd Fire Quenched at Women's Prison

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Jefferson City firemen quenched the second fire in three days at Missouri Women's Prison here today.

The women's prison is a branch of the state's riot-torn penitentiary.

First indications were that the fire started in one end of an old administration building at the Women's Prison — about a half mile from the main penitentiary.

Guards immediately locked the gates to prevent newsmen from entering for a closer view.

The fire apparently started about 9:30 a. m., and one fireman said it was under control 20 minutes later.

Mrs. Carrie Petty, 27, of 8454 W. 8 Mile Rd., Royal Oak Township, pleaded not guilty yesterday to an arson charge before Farmington Township Justice Allen C. Ingle.

Mrs. Petty, who was not able to furnish a $1,000 bond, is being held in Oakland County Jail for her examination Nov. 5.

'55 Auto Output Seen Higher Yet

GM President Predicts Production Will Total Near 5½ Million Units

DETROIT (AP)—Good news for the nation's auto workers has come from Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors Corp. and something of an expert in predicting trends of the industry.

Curtice issued a statement yesterday in which he prophesied that 1955 auto production would be greater than this year's.

If the GM executive is right, this means more than 5,450,000 cars will roll off assembly lines during 1955.

Curtice's estimates for 1953 and 1954 output have come closer to actual production figures than those of any other industry spokesman.

The corporation previously revealed plans for a 20-million dollar expansion program to boost output of its European plants.

Curtice was optimistic, too, about the U. S. economy. He said unemployment is under three million and that there is every indication it will decline substantially in the months ahead.

The average GM employment of hourly workers in the U. S. was 332,297 during the third quarter of the year, he said. He predicted this figure would pass 360,000 by Nov. 1.

Debate on Arms Nearing Close

India's U.N. Delegate Seeks Floor to Press for 'Truce' Agreement

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP) — The long U.N. arms debate neared a close today with a call by India for a halt on weapons production until a worldwide disarmament pact can be reached.

India's V. K. Krishna Menon, last speaker listed in the debate, sought the floor in the 60-nation Political Committee to present his appeal for a standstill agreement.

The Indian resolution called on the U.N. Disarmament Commission to study ways of setting up an "armament truce" pending agreement on a disarmament convention. Menon previously urged a halt in the production of atomic bombs until measures could be set up to eliminate them, but nothing ever came of it.

The resolution circulated among delegates last night also called on the General Assembly to recess in December—instead of adjourning—so it could reconvene quickly if the Disarmament Commission issued a report requiring immediate action.

After Menon's speech, the committee is expected to press for a quick vote on a resolution to set up secret five-power disarmament talks again. The resolution—co-sponsored by Russia, France, Britain, the United States and Canada—appeared certain to win approval. The five nations held a series of fruitless meetings on the issue in London earlier this year.

Russia's Andrei Vishinsky held the floor for two hours and 40 minutes yesterday while he blasted the London and Paris agreements on West German rearmament and challenged the Western Powers to match Soviet efforts toward disarmament agreement.

Igloo Windows Startle Novice at Hudson Bay

FORT WILLIAM, Ont. (UP) — O. J. Weiben, Fort William airlines manager, said it gave him "quite a start" his first night on the Belcher Islands in Hudson Bay to see lighted windows like a small town. In daylight he had seen nothing but a desolate waste of ice and snow.

The lighted windows were in Eskimo igloos.

"They make their windows with a clear sheet of ice," said Weiben.

With little use for white man's goods, except guns and ammunition, some 200 Eskimo families are spread through the 3,000-square-mile area of the islands in mid-Hudson Bay. Housing presents no problem. Within two or three hours they can "whip up an igloo."

Smog Also Hard on School Kids in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (UP)—If junior gets a bum report card here he now has a new excuse—smog.

Claude L. Reeves, acting superintendent of schools, told the Board of Education yesterday the recent 18-day siege of air pollution "has reacted adversely upon children."

"There has been a substantial increase of absences," he noted. All schools within the heavy smog area report a substantially increased incidence of headaches, coughs, eye strain, excessive nasal discharge and similar troubles.

"Schools report increased restlessness with more playground fights and other turmoil. Children are irritable and teachers are discontented and frustrated at having to work in an atmosphere of smog."

3 Juveniles Involved in Destructive Spree

Three Pontiac Township juveniles have been implicated in a malicious spree during which they slashed 11 auto tires and tore flags from mail boxes in the north end of the Township Sunday evening.

One of the youths, 14, under questioning by Oakland County Sheriff's deputies Fred Pender and Harry Jones, admitted his part in the destruction and implicated one other boy and a girl who he said went along to watch.

No apparent reason was given by the youths other than that they wanted some excitement. Deputies are still investigating the case.

Man Changes Guilty Plea in Uttering, Publishing

Thomas Stone, 40, of 71 South Roselawn St., Monday withdrew an earlier plea of guilty to a charge of uttering and publishing a worthless check and requested a trial by jury in Oakland County Circuit Court.

Judge H. Russel Holland accepted the motion and suggested that the prosecutor's office get in touch with Ohio authorities, who he said also want to try Stone.

At the request of Chief Assistant Prosecutor George Taylor, bond was fixed at $2,500. Stone is charged with issuing a check for $30.04 on the Clarkston State Bank June 14.

Bentley Declares Dems Helped Sell Out Poland

DETROIT (UP) — Rep. Alvin M. Bentley (R-Owosso) said yesterday the treatment of Poland after World War II was a "tragic betrayal" by the Democratic administration.

Bentley, speaking before a group of Polish-Americans, said the Poles are "enslaved more thoroughly than they ever were under the Nazi domination."

As the first participant in the war against Germany, he said, the country "should be expected to reap the rewards of victory."

Bentley said President Roosevelt laid the groundwork for the "sell-out" of Poland at the Yalta, Potsdam and Teheran conferences.

Cripple, 54, Charged With Blasting Wife

CHEBOYGAN (UP) — State Police have requested that a warrant be issued charging a 54-year-old cripple with assault with intent to murder in the shooting of his wife last Saturday night.

Police asked a warrant against Bernard J. Spanka, a victim of arthritis. Mrs. Spanka is in a Gaylord hospital with head wounds from a shotgun blast.

State Police said Mrs. Spanka and Frank Grimm, 56, a neighbor, were returning from a trip to town when two shotgun blasts were fired at Grimm's car. Police quoted Spanka as saying he didn't know his wife was in the car.

Canada Ford Workers Ask Support in Strike

WINDSOR (UP) — Local 200, CIO United Auto Workers, in the third week of a strike at Ford of Canada plants, has initiated a method of paying strikers who have spent at least seven days on the picket lines.

Officials of the local said they are issuing vouchers instead of paying the men in cash. They are canvassing the city's merchants and asking them to give financial support to the striking workers.

Union officials are extending the local campaign for support to the national level. The national Ford council is planning a nationwide appeal to all union labor to support the strike.

Burglar Ransacks Branch Post Office

DETROIT (UP) — A burglar broke into the Brightmoor Branch Post Office in northwest Detroit early today and left a trail of clues while ripping open mail in search of money.

Police and postal inspectors said the burglar left behind a crowbar used to pry open a rear door. He also left a blood-stained knife, on which he apparently cut himself while opening letters, and a pair of gloves.

It was not known whether the burglar found any cash in the envelopes. He made off with a .45 caliber automatic with post office markings but failed to break open the post office safe.

The break-in was discovered when a clerk, John Stock, 55, of Farmington, opened up the post office this morning. Inspectors said the entire sorting room was ransacked.

Postal Savings Check Reported Stolen at Office

A postal savings check worth $1,560 was taken from the office of Carl Hough of 170 State St. sometime between Oct. 9 and Oct. 19, according to a report made to Pontiac Police yesterday.

Hough said the check was made out to him from the United States Treasury Department. Police have requested postal authorities to hold payment of the check. Hough said that six silver dollars were also missing from his office.

Korean Bonus Seen as Costly

Research Council Says Bond Issue Might Be Most Expensive

LANSING (UP)—The Citizens Research Council of Michigan said today the 80 million dollar Korean veterans bonus on the Nov. 2 ballot (proposal No. 3) "may easily be" the most expensive for its size ever submitted to the people.

In an analysis, the council said the proposed bond issue stipulates that not more than one million dollars of the bonds may fall due for the first 10 years, or until 1965.

Obviously, the council said, this is intended to delay the impact of the bond issue repayment on the state treasury until the $270 million World War II bonus bonds have been paid.

"Assuming a 2 per cent interest rate," the council said, "the proposed maturity schedule will mean a total cost of about $100 million. This is some six million dollars more than the issue would cost at the same rate of interest if paid off over the same period of time in equal five million dollar installments.

"The added interest cost resulting from postponing any substantial principal repayment for 10 full years may easily make the Korean War bonus bond issue the most expensive in proportion to its size that the electorate has ever been asked to approve."

The Koren bonus, the council said, will cost the state two million dollars a year until 1965 and then $13 to $14 million annually until 1970.

"In assessing the bonus bond proposal," the counsil said, "its merits need to be contrasted with other needs of the state that are known to exist.

"Among these which come immediately to mind are the imminent demands for additional building facilities at the state's institutions of higher learning, the requirements of the correctional system for prison space and the ever-present mental health problem."

The council made no recommendation.

He's Doing Fine, Imogene So-So

Comedienne Needed Entirely New Cast but Not So With Sid

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK (AP)—Imogene Coca and Sid Caesar, going their separate ways on TV, are getting mixed results.

Imogene's half-hour on Saturday nights still hasn't hit its stride. How soon it does may depend upon development of a good partner for her. He wouldn't necessarily be a replacement for Caesar, but someone is needed to give her more opportunity to display all facets of her talent.

Sid has been faring considerably better with his Monday night hour, but he, too, could stand some improvement.

He was more fortunate than Miss Coca in the splitup because he took along to the new series two important aides, Howard Morris and Carl Reiner. They have helped his show a lot.

Miss Coca has had to assemble a completely new supporting cast. The best of the crew is Joe Silvers, who has had wide experience in comedy shows. It seems to me he could be used to a much greater advantage, and that he might be just right as a partner.

Sid goes back to work after a week's layoff because of a Spectacular. So far he has been devoting his entire hour to situation comedies.

Already a number of comedy high spots have cropped up in the three situation pieces. One of the funniest was the dressing scene in the first when Sid, playing a garage mechanic, got all togged out to meet a famous movie queen. The way he climbed into a pair of pants without bending the crease was a scream.

Jet Crash Hero's Wife Wants Trip to Join Husband

DETROIT (AP)—The plucky wife of an Air Force officer who crash landed his jet plane to avoid hitting homes says she hopes to get to Albuquerque, N. Mex. to see him.

Mrs. Nancy Hart, 23, was busy yesterday answering telephone calls in her home on Selfridge Air Force Base. The calls came from friends offering her money to fly to visit her husband, Lt. Billy, 25.

The lieutenant rode his flaming aircraft to the ground near Albuquerque, plowing into a vacant field and missing nearby homes. He suffered a broken leg and back injuries.

"I'd just love to ride in one of those jets," Mrs. Hart said, "But I guess I'll never get the chance."

The pretty brunette, a bride of seven months, said she "had a feeling something would happen" when her husband left her for the first long trip away from home.

3 Club Liquor Licenses Granted, Fourth Denied

LANSING (AP)—The State Liquor Control Commission today approved three new club licenses and denied a fourth.

Licenses were approved for the Veterans of Foreign Wars of United Chemical Workers at McIvor, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars of Reed City.

A club license was denied the American Legion Post of Peck for lack of a favorable recommendation from the local governing body and law enforcement officials.

Sentimental Burgler Returns Victim's Watch

LONDON (AP)—Maurice F. Lubbock learned yesterday he had been robbed. A sentimental thief mailed him back his watch.

Lubbock checked around the house and found 1,000 pounds ($2,800) worth of jewelry missing.

The thief apparently was moved by the tender inscription on the watch—"Maurice on his 21st birthday from his loving mother."

State Getting $42,600 From Detroit Edison

LANSING (AP)—More than $42,600 was escheated to the State of Michigan today from refund and claim accounts being held by the Detroit Edison Co.

Atty. Gen. Frank G. Millard said the escheat order was signed by Circuit Judge Louis C. Coash of Ingham County. It involved 30,065 accounts held by the utility company.

Ex-Mrs. Gable Chooses Prince for 5th Husband

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Sylvia Gable, whose fourth and latest husband was Clark Gable, now plans to marry Georgian Prince Dimitri Djordjadze.

She confirmed the wedding plans last night and said she will be married in New York probably "in a few weeks."

She was born in London, became a chorus girl and lingerie model and in 1927 married Lord Ashley, son of the Earl of Shaftesbury. She divorced him a few years later.

In 1936 she married Douglas Fairbanks Sr., who died in 1939, reportedly leaving her a million dollars. In 1944 she married the sixth Baron Stanley of Alderly and divorced him in 1948.

Her two-year marriage to Clark Gable ended in divorce in 1952.

Djordjadze, 55, a former officer of the Russian Imperial Cavalry, is assistant to the president of the Hotel Ambassador here.

He has been married three times, most recently to Cincinnati millionairess Audrey Emery from whom he was divorced several years ago.

Arsonist Given 3 to 20 Years

D. J. Roller Admitted Starting Seven Fires in Oakland, Wayne

Donald James Roller, 23-year-old Detroit plumber's apprentice, yesterday was sentenced to serve from three to 20 years in Southern Michigan State Prison at Jackson. He pleaded guilty to a charge of arson Oct. 18.

Judge H. Russel Holland sentenced Roller in Oakland County Circuit Court. When asked if he had anything to say, Roller remarked quietly, "I'm sorry for what I have done."

"You should be sorry," Judge Holland replied, and suggested that Roller be given a mental examination at Jackson.

Roller was arrested in September after he was noticed at the scene of a fire in Southfield Township. The arsonist, who told firemen he just happened by, had a coat, boots and fireman's helmet he wore while aiding the fire-fighters.

State police traced him from descriptions of his car. Under questioning, he readily admitted setting seven fires in Oakland and Wayne counties since July 24, which caused an estimated $100,000 damage.

Sheppard Case Piles Up Bill of Over $19,000

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Sheppard murder case already has cost more than $19,000, not including the fees of Chief Defense Counsel William J. Corrigan.

Corrigan said yesterday the family of Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard has paid about $4,000 for court reporters, a special stenographer and other expenses.

Not included is the $1,000 paid for bail bond and fees to be paid for a private investigator and other attorneys.

Frank T. Cullitan, Cuyahoga County prosecutor, said expenses incurred by his office total about $1,500, including those of state witnesses and for trips by investigators and lawyers.

Still to be added are court costs such as jurors ($5 daily), witnesses ($3 daily) and transcripts.

The biggest single bill was the one for $13,200 which Cleveland police handed suburban Bay Village for handling a large part of the investigation leading to the indictment of the osteopath.

Ohio Official Writing Miles of Signatures

NEW YORK (UP) — Ted W. Brown, Ohio secretary of state, says just about the only thing he's doing in the nation's largest city is getting "writer's cramp."

Brown, here to sign $30,000,000 worth of state highway construction bonds in $1,000 dominations, says the signatures he has placed on the bonds so far would fill a 500-page letter and would extend nearly two miles if placed end to end.

Stands Mute on Charge of Breaking and Entering

Cleo Johnson, 26, of 276 West South Blvd. stood mute in Oakland County Circuit Court Monday on a charge of breaking and entering. He will be tried in the December term of court.

Judge H. Russel Holland reduced bond to $2,500 for Johnson, who allegedly broke into the Davis Barber Shop at 607 Franklin Rd. on Sept. 27.

Senator George Already Eyeing Committee Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—Veteran Sen. George (D-Ga) plans to take over chairmanship of the Foreign Relations Committee if the Democrats win Senate control in next week's voting, he said today.

George, dean of the Senate with 32 years of service, would have choice of two top spots—head of the Foreign Relations or Finance committees—in the event of a Democratic victory.

He once was chairman of foreign relations briefly in 1941 but then took over the finance post as soon as that chairmanship opened up. He has headed the tax-writing Finance Committee for about 10 years during all Democratic-controlled Congresses since 1941.

However, he wrote from his home at Vienna, Ga., to a reporter that "I am of the opinion that I would elect" to become foreign relations chairman if the Democrats organize the Senate in January.

U of M's Marching Band Always Wins the Halftime

ANN ARBOR (AP) — There's a saying around the Michigan campus: "We may not win every football game, but we do win every halftime."

It's a clear reference to the quick-stepping University of Michigan band, a strange combination of engineering, literary, music, pre-medical and even natural resources students.

The Wolverine marchers are bound together by one singular thrill: The excitement of parading across a football field before a shouting crowd in the chill of a Saturday football afternoon.

But it isn't all Saturday afternoon. George Cavender, assistant director of the band, says that all 144 members of the band practice an hour and a half day, five days a week.

In the course of an eight week season, they collectively march some 81,42,00(steps or more than once around the world.

Few of the steps are before the football crowd. Most are paced off in the half of the Ferry Field alloted to the band for practice. A few feet away, the varsity and freshman football squads go through their drills for some similar glory.

Before school starts, when the team is out alone, football coach Bennie Oosterbaan tells you, "Wait until the band members come out here; you won't be able to think. It doesn't bother me until some halfback begins to do a step to the music."

Every day in close order formation, the band ploughs through the football field shouting the "Victors" on the way to practice. Football players, managers, equipment and spectators get out of their way. The only other choice is to get trampled.

But when the band strikes up, practice sessions for the jerseyed players seems to perk up.

Actually the band drills as much a precision matter as the quarterback's handoffs in T-formation plays. The band actually marches its music, which is why it needs no supervision except from its own drum majors. Here's how it works:

The band takes eight steps for every five yards of the field. So the music fits right in. Every beat means a step. After long hours of practice, the steps are the same length, so the ranks are straight automatically, without the band members lining up while marching.

In the line "Hail to the Victors valiant," for instance there are eight steps or beats. When the line is completed, the band has marched five yards.

The Michigan band is making two trips away from home this year. Band director W. D. Revelli said Buick Motor Co. sent the team to Northwestern. Michigan's varsity night show will pay for the trip to Ohio State.

Bid on Wrecking Job From Boy, 12, Refused

GERALDTON, Ont. (UP) — The town council has decided after weighty deliberation to decline the offer of 12-year-old Jimmy Bilstead and hire a professional wrecker to demolish a fire-blackened store.

Jimmy replied to an advertisement for bids on the job with an offer to do it for 40 cents an hour. The council finally decided it would be cheaper to pay the professional man a flat $150 and let it go at that.

Morals Offender Gets Chance for Treatment

James Freeman, 34, of 123 Euclid Ave., was released on personal bond Monday by Judge H. Russel Holland in Oakland County Circuit Court. He was charged with gross indecency Sept. 28, and pleaded guilty Oct. 18.

His attorneys moved for his release, however, on the basis that his mother had arranged for his treatment by a psychiatrist. Judge Holland deferred sentence until Dec. 6, at which time he ordered Freeman to bring a signed statement from his doctor concerning his treatment.

Best Years of His Life Spent Waiting to Get Out

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Clifford M. Dowding, who has spent 36 of his 56 years in prison, was arrested again Monday on a robbery charge.

On the way to jail, he told 30-year-old Policeman George Jefferies: "Young man, I was doing time before you were born."

Cleary Explains When to Renew Driver License

LANSING (AP) — Some Michigan motorists are falling afoul of the new driver license expiration law, Secretary of State Owen J. Cleary reported today.

Cleary said the new law has been well received and generally understood, but that there has been some increase in this type of violation. He urged motorists to check their license expiration dates again.

Under the new law, in effect for one year now, licenses that were valid when the law became effective Oct. 3, 1953, were automatically extended to the next birthdate of the driver after the date shown on the license.

For example, Cleary said, a driver whose birthday is next Jan. 7 and whose driver's license shows an expiration date of Nov. 15, 1954, need not renew until next January.
